18. It is well settled that intention of the parties is the essence of the benami transaction and the money must have been provided by the party invoking the doctrine of benami. The evidence shows clearly that the original plaintiff did not have any justification for purchasing the property in the name of Ramayee Ammal. The reason given by him is not at all acceptable. The source of money is not at all traceable to the plaintiff. No person named in the plaint or anyone else was examined as a witness. The failure of the plaintiff to examine the relevant witnesses completely demolishes his case.""

23. As a matter of law, the principle that one who alleges that a property is benami and is held, nominally, on behalf of the real owner - in cases which form the exception, under Section 4 (3) - has to displace the initial burden of proving that fact. Such proof can be through evidence, or cumulatively through circumstances. This fact was brought home, by this court, in Marcel Martins v. M. Printer (2012) 5 SCC 342. In that case, the issue was whether the transfer of rights in favour of one of the siblings, in the absence of a will, by the person having interest (as a tenant in the property), after her death, operated to exclude the other heirs. The court held that the transfer was made to fulfil a municipality's requirement, and the property was held by the one in whose name it was mutated, in a fiduciary capacity, under Section 4(3)(a) of the Act, on behalf of the siblings:

"22. It is manifest that while the expression "fiduciary capacity" may not be capable of a precise definition, it implies a relationship that is analogous to the relationship between a trustee and the beneficiaries of the trust. The expression is in fact wider in its import for it extends to all such situations as place the parties in positions that are founded on confidence and trust on the one part and good faith on the other.

23. In determining whether a relationship is based on trust or confidence, relevant to determining whether they stand in a fiduciary capacity, the Court shall have to take into consideration the factual context in which the question arises for it is only in the factual backdrop that the existence or otherwise of a fiduciary relationship can be deduced in a given case. Having said that, let us turn to the facts of the present case once more to determine whether the appellant stood in a fiduciary capacity vis-"-vis the plaintiffs-respondents.

24. The first and foremost of the circumstance relevant to the question at hand is the fact that the property in question was tenanted by Smt. Stella Martins-mother of the parties before us. It is common ground that at the time of her demise she had not left behind any Will nor is there any other material to suggest that she intended that the tenancy right held by her in the suit property should be transferred to the appellant to the exclusion of her husband, C.F. Martins or her daughters, respondents in this appeal, or both. In the ordinary course, upon the demise of the tenant, the tenancy rights should have as a matter of course devolved upon her legal heirs that would include the husband of the deceased and her children (parties to this appeal). Even so, the reason why the property was transferred in the name of the appellant was the fact that the Corporation desired such transfer to be made in the name of one individual rather than several individuals who may have succeeded to the tenancy rights. A specific averment to that effect was made by plaintiffs-respondents in para 7 of the plaint which was not disputed by the appellant in the written statement filed by him. It is, therefore, reasonable to assume that transfer of rights in favour of the appellant was not because the others had abandoned their rights but because the Corporation required the transfer to be in favour of individual presumably to avoid procedural complications in enforcing rights and duties qua in property at a later stage. It is on that touchstone equally reasonable to assume that the other legal representatives of the deceased-tenant neither gave up their tenancy rights in the property nor did they give up the benefits that would flow to them as legal heirs of the deceased tenant consequent upon the decision of the Corporation to sell the property to the occupants. That conclusion gets strengthened by the fact that the parties had made contributions towards the sale consideration paid for the acquisition of the suit property which they would not have done if the intention was to concede the property in favour of the appellant. Superadded to the above is the fact that the parties were closely related to each other which too lends considerable support to the case of the plaintiffs that the defendant-appellant held the tenancy rights and the ostensible title to the suit property in a fiduciary capacity vis-"-vis his siblings who had by reason of their contribution and the contribution made by their father continued to evince interest in the property and its ownership. Reposing confidence and faith in the appellant was in the facts and circumstances of the case not unusual or unnatural especially when possession over the suit property continued to be enjoyed by the plaintiffs who would in law and on a parity of reasoning be deemed to be holding the same for the benefit of the appellant as much as the appellant was holding the title to the property for the benefit of the plaintiffs.

25. The cumulative effect of the above circumstances when seen in the light of the substantial amount paid by late Shri C.F. Martins, the father of the parties, thus puts the appellant in a fiduciary capacity vis-"-vis the said four persons. Such being the case the transaction is completely saved from the mischief of Section 4 of the Act by reason of the same falling under Sub-section 3(b) of Section 4. The suit filed by the respondents was not, therefore, barred by the Act as contended by the learned counsel for the appellant."

27. In the light of these factors, and the law declared by this court which has elaborated the circumstances under which a claim against a benami owner can be said to be proved, under Section 4(3)(a) of the Act, the conclusions drawn by the trial court and first appellate court, are plainly erroneous, given the evidence on record. The High Court, in the opinion of this court, fell into error in not noticing the correct position in law.

30. In the opinion of this court, the High Court fell into error, in ignoring that the circumstances of this case, where the first plaintiff had proved that the properties had been purchased, with his funds, and the sons were minors, with no source of income. The second defendant's position-throughout all the proceedings, was that the properties were that of the first plaintiff; in other words, he admitted to the suit averments. The plaintiff also proved that he had possession of the property, by adducing positive evidence of tenants, who paid rent to him. In these circumstances, the elements necessary to establish benami ownership within the meaning of Section 4 (3) (a) of the Act, in terms of the judgments in Binapani Paul and Valliammal (supra) have been satisfied by the first plaintiff. "

22. The Apex Court in the case of Marcel Martins versus M.Printer and others (2012)5 SCC 342 , while discussing Section 4 of the Benami Transactions(Prohibition) Act,1988 held as under:-

"26. Section 4 of the Act, upon which heavy reliance was placed by Mr Chaudhary, may be extracted in extenso:

"4.Prohibition of the right to recover property held benami."(1) No suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

(2) No defence based on any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person, shall be allowed in any suit, claim or action by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply"

(a) where the person in whose name the property is held is a coparcener in a Hindu Undivided Family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparceners in the family; or

(b) where the person in whose name the property is held is a trustee or other person standing in a fiduciary capacity, and the property is held for the benefit of another person for whom he is a trustee or towards whom he stands in such capacity."

A plain reading of the above will show that no suit, claim or action to enforce a right in respect of any property held benami shall lie against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person at the instance of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

27. It is common ground that although the sale deed by which the property was transferred in the name of the appellant had been executed before the enactment of above legislation yet the suit out of which this appeal arises had been filed after the year 1988. The prohibition contained in Section 4 would, therefore, apply to such a suit, subject to the satisfaction of other conditions stipulated therein. In other words unless the conditions contained in Sections 4(1) and (2) are held to be inapplicable by reason of anything contained in sub-section (3) thereof the suit filed by the plaintiff-respondents herein would fall within the mischief of Section 4.

28. The critical question then is whether sub-section (3) of Section 4 saves a transaction like the one with which we are concerned.

29. Sub-section (3) to Section 4 extracted above is in two distinct parts. The first part comprises clause (a) to Section 4(3) which deals with acquisitions by and in the name of a coparcener in a Hindu Undivided Family for the benefit of such coparceners in the family. There is no dispute that the said provision has no application in the instant case nor was any reliance placed upon the same by the learned counsel for the respondent-plaintiffs.

30. What was invoked by Mr Naveen R. Nath, learned counsel appearing for the respondents was Section 4(3)(b) of the Act which too is in two parts viz. one that deals with the trustees and the beneficiaries thereof and the other that deals with the persons standing in a fiduciary capacity and those towards whom he stands in such capacity. It was argued by Mr Nath that the circumstances in which the purchase in question was made in the name of the appellant assumes great importance while determining whether the appellant in whose name the property was acquired stood in a fiduciary capacity towards the respondent-plaintiffs.

37. We may at this stage refer to a recent decision of this Court in CBSE v. Aditya Bandopadhyay [(2011) 8 SCC 497] , wherein Raveendran, J. speaking for the Court in that case explained the terms "fiduciary" and "fiduciary relationship" in the following words : (SCC pp. 524-25, para 39)

"39. The term "fiduciary" refers to a person having a duty to act for the benefit of another, showing good faith and candour, where such other person reposes trust and special confidence in the person owing or discharging the duty. The term "fiduciary relationship" is used to describe a situation or transaction where one person (beneficiary) places complete confidence in another person (fiduciary) in regard to his affairs, business or transaction(s). The term also refers to a person who holds a thing in trust for another (beneficiary). The fiduciary is expected to act in confidence and for the benefit and advantage of the beneficiary, and use good faith and fairness in dealing with the beneficiary or the things belonging to the beneficiary. If the beneficiary has entrusted anything to the fiduciary, to hold the thing in trust or to execute certain acts in regard to or with reference to the entrusted thing, the fiduciary has to act in confidence and is expected not to disclose the thing or information to any third party."

It is manifest that while the expression "fiduciary capacity" may not be capable of a precise definition, it implies a relationship that is analogous to the relationship between a trustee and the beneficiaries of the trust. The expression is in fact wider in its import for it extends to all such situations as place the parties in positions that are founded on confidence and trust on the one part and good faith on the other.

38. In determining whether a relationship is based on trust or confidence, relevant to determining whether they stand in a fiduciary capacity, the court shall have to take into consideration the factual context in which the question arises for it is only in the factual backdrop that the existence or otherwise of a fiduciary relationship can be deduced in a given case. Having said that, let us turn to the facts of the present case once more to determine whether the appellant stood in a fiduciary capacity vis-"-vis the respondent-plaintiffs.

44. The cumulative effect of the above circumstances when seen in the light of the substantial amount paid by late Shri C.F. Martins, the father of the parties, thus puts the appellant in a fiduciary capacity vis-"-vis the said four persons. Such being the case the transaction is completely saved from the mischief of Section 4 of the Act by reason of the same falling under sub-section (3)(b) of Section 4. The suit filed by the respondents was not, therefore, barred by the Act as contended by the learned counsel for the appellant. The view taken by the High Court to that effect is affirmed though for slightly different reasons. "

23. The Apex Court in the case of Shaifali Gupta versus Vidya Devi Gupta and others 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1181 held as under:-

"23. Section 4 of the Benami Act bars the suit, claim or action in respect of a property held benami by person at the behest of the person claiming to be its true owner. It reads as under:

"4(1). No suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property."

24. The above provision bars an action in respect of "property held benami". However, whether the property in respect of which the suit, claim or action has been brought about is a benami property or not, is the issue of prime consideration.

25. The plaint allegations all through describe the suit properties as the Joint Hindu Family properties and that they have been purchased either from the nucleus of the Joint Hindu Family property or the income derived from the joint family business. The properties are not described as benami in the name of any member of the family. Therefore, from the plaint reading, the suit properties cannot ex-facie be held to be benami properties in respect whereof the suit may not be maintainable in view of Section 4 of the Benami Act.

26. The Benami Act further defines "benami property" and "benami transaction" under Sections 2(8) and 2(9) of the said Act. Benami property is the property which is the subject matter of benami transaction whereas benami transaction is a property held by a person in respect whereof consideration has been provided by some other person but would not include certain categories of properties such as where a person is holding a property in a fiduciary capacity for the benefit of another person.

27. In such circumstances, whether a property is a benami, has to be considered not in the light of Section 4 of the Benami Act alone but also in connection with Sections 2 (8) and 2 (9) of the said Act i.e. whether the property if benami falls in the exception. It is only where the property is benami and does not fall within the exception contained in Sub-Section (9) of Section 2 that a suit may be said to be barred. However, the issue whether the property is benami and is not covered by the exception, is again an issue to be decided on the basis of evidence and not simply on mere averments contained in the plaint. The defendants have to adduce evidence to prove the property to be benami.

28. In Pawan Kumar v. Babu Lal (2019) 4 SCC 367, a similar issue arose before this Court in a matter concerning rejection of plaint under Order 7 Rule 11 (d) CPC. This Court held that for rejecting a plaint, the test is whether from the statement made in the plaint it appears without doubt or dispute that the suit is barred by any statutory provision. Where a plea is taken that the suit is saved by the exception to the benami transaction, it becomes the disputed question of fact which has to be adjudicated on the basis of the evidence. Therefore, the plaint cannot be rejected at the stage of consideration of application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC.

29. The ratio of the above case squarely applies to the facts of the case at hand. Accordingly, in our opinion, the courts below have not committed any error of law in rejecting the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC on the above score."

24. From the above law laid down by the Apex Court in the above mentioned cases, dealing with the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Act,1988 before its amendment in the year 2016, and after its amendment, it is apparent that where it is alleged that the suit properties are joint Hindu family property and they have been purchased either from the nucleus of the joint Hindu family property or the income derived from the joint family business and the relief claimed in the suit is purely in respect of the said property, then such suit does not stand prohibited by the Benami Act. It is apparent that a person can purchase property, whether movable or immovable, in the name of his wife or unmarried daughter and it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that the said property had been purchased for the benefit of the wife or the unmarried daughter. It is also clear that the bar enacted by Section 4(1) of the Act, is not applicable where the property is held by a person who is the coparcener in Hindu undivided family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparcener in the family. It is also not applicable when the person in whose name property is held is a trustee or stands in a fiduciary capacity for the benefit of the person towards whom he stands in such capacity.

25. It is also apparent that the husband can file a suit claiming himself to be the true owner of the property by alleging that his wife is only the benami owner. The husband can prove the above fact by leading evidence or cumulatively through circumstances. It is also clear that the burden of proof lies upon the husband to prove that the property is benami. Of course, the wife can rebut the above presumption, by proving that the alleged property was not benami and she purchased it from her own funds.

26. It is also apparent that whether the matter comes within the purview of exception under Section 4(3) of the Act of 1988 or not, is an aspect which is to be gone into on the strength of the evidence on record. Only on the basis of the plaint averments, it cannot be decided that the plaintiff 's suit is barred under Section 4(1) of the Act.

27. The Apex Court in the case of Pawan Kumar versus Babulal (deceased) through LR's (2019) 4 SCC 367 has held that the plea of benami cannot be decided at the stage when the application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC is taken up for consideration because the matter required fuller and final consideration after the evidence was led by the parties. It was held that where a plea is taken that the suit is saved by the exception to the benami transaction, it becomes the disputed question of fact, which has to be adjudicated on the basis of the evidence. Therefore, the plaint cannot be rejected at the stage of consideration of application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC.

28. It is evident from the plaint averments that the disputed property belonged to plaintiffs grandfather Shanti Saran Dublish, who died in the year 1953, after which a family partition took place between the legal heirs of Shanti Saran Dublish, in which the property devolved upon the plaintiffs father Ramesh Chand Dublish, with whom the plaintiff was having a HUF. It was alleged in the plaint that the disputed property was purchased from the consideration obtained by selling the immovable property of the Hindu Undivided Family(HUF) of the plaintiff and his late father Ramesh Chand Dublish in the year 1989 and 1990, when the plaintiffs father was alive, who has died subsequently on 2.11.2006, during the pendency of the suit. It was also alleged by the plaintiff that he was also having a partnership firm with his father in the name and style of Messers Sunil Packaging Industries, in which his father was a sleeping partner, and from the income of this firm and cash credit limit obtained from a bank,house was constructed on the disputed land, which is the disputed property no.342/1,Harnamdass Road,Civil Lines, Meerut.

29. It is true that the plaintiffs mother was not a coparcener in the alleged HUF but certainly, there was a fiduciary relationship between the plaintiff and his mother Sarla Dublish, which lies within the exception enumerated in Section 4(3)(b) of the Act of 1988. The disputed property could have been purchased in the name of plaintiffs mother Sarla Dublish because she was in fiduciary capacity vis-a-vis the plaintiff, who was also the wife of plaintiffs father Ramesh Chand Dublish. Even the plaintiffs father could have purchased the property in the name of his wife. In both the above situations, the bar of Section 4(1) of the Act of 1988 is not attracted. If the plaintiff succeeds in proving that his mother was not having the financial capacity to purchase the disputed land of the property, as well as, to construct a house thereon, and the funds were provided by the plaintiff from the income of his firm or were obtained by selling the immovable property of the HUF, then certainly, the plaintiff's suit was not barred under Section 4(1) of the Act of 1988. The bar of Section 4(1) is only attracted where the disputed property does not fall within the exceptions enumerated in Section 4(3) of the Act of 1988. It is also well settled that whether the disputed property is Benami or not, is a disputed question of fact, which cannot be decided at the stage of considering an application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC, and the plaintiff 's suit cannot be rejected on this ground at the threshold.

30. From the above discussion,it is apparent that the trial court has committed material illegality in allowing the defendants application under Order 7 Rule 11(d) of CPC. The impugned order is perverse and is liable to be set aside. Consequently, the appeal has merit and is liable to be allowed.

31. Accordingly, this appeal is hereby allowed. The impugned judgment and decree dated 30.8.2025 of the trial court in O.S. no.782 of 2006 is set aside. The defendants application 89-C under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC stands dismissed. The O.S. no. 782 of 2006 is restored to its original number.

32. The trial court is directed to decide the suit within six months, from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order, without granting unnecessary adjournment to any party.

33. It is further made clear that the trial court is not bound by the observations made by this Court in this order and is free to form its opinion, in accordance with law, on the basis of pleadings of the parties and evidence adduced by them during trial.

34. However in the facts and circumstances of the case, the parties shall bear their respective costs. Office is directed to prepare the decree accordingly.

First Appeal No. 989 of 2025

Rohitash Singh ...Appellant
Versus
Ruchi ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the determination of whether the rejection of a joint petition for divorce by mutual consent u/s 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, on the ground of delay in filing the second motion beyond the stipulated period of eighteen months, is legally sustainable, particularly in light of the judicial interpretation of s. 13-B(2) as being directory in nature and the continued subsistence of mutual consent between the parties.

Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - s. 13-B - Family Courts Act, 1984 - s. 19(2) - Divorce by mutual consent - Second Motion Delay - Cooling-off Period - Technical Delay - Effect - Appeal - Maintainability - The appellant -husband preferred the instant appeal assailing the judgment of Family Court whereby a joint petition for dissolution of marriage by mutual consent u/s 13-B of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 was rejected on the ground that the second motion had not been filed within the statutory period of eighteen months from the date of presentation of the first motion - It was contended before the High Court that despite such delay, the mutual agreement between the parties to dissolve the marriage continued to subsist and both parties remained ad idem in seeking separation on agreed terms - The appellant, supported by the respondent - wife, urged that the delay in filing the second motion was a mere technicality and ought not to defeat the substantive relief, particularly in view of judicial precedents holding the relevant provision to be directory in nature - The Family Court, however, having treated the delay as fatal, declined to grant the decree, thereby giving rise to the instant appeal before the High Court.

Held: It appears from impugned judgment that the first motion was duly made - The second motion was delayed but the first motion not withdrawn in the meantime - There is otherwise nothing in judgment to indicate the Family Court was not satisfied after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thought fit that the marriage had been solemnized - As the Appeal Court, sitting in adjudication of continuing cause, after being satisfied reverse impugned judgment and direct the matrimonial case be restored to its file and number, to enable the parties to file the second motion within two weeks of restoration - The Family Court will thereafter deal with the case on both the motions filed, in accordance with law - On omission to file the second motion upon notice of restoration, the case will be dismissed forthwith - Thus, Appeal as maintainable in spite of bar u/s 19(2) of Family Courts Act, 1984 because though judgment was on a petition invoking s. 13-B, it was not passed on consent and it matters little that parties supported each other in the instant appeal - Accordingly, appeal allowed. Case Arising From

From the Judgment and Order dated 21.04.2025 passed by the Family Court, Sambhal (Bheem Nagar) in Claim Petition / 590 / 2022

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Appellant:
Sandeep Kumar Srivastava

Adv. for the Respondent:
Brijesh Kumar Pandey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arindam Sinha, J.)

1. The appeal was moved before us as defective on 12th November, 2025. The defect was delay of 161 days in presentation of it. We had condoned the delay to admit the appeal. Mr. Sandeep Kumar Srivastava, learned advocate appears on behalf of appellant-husband and Mr. Brijesh Kumar Pandey, learned advocate for respondent wife.

2. Appellant's contention is, both respondent and he are aggrieved by judgment dated 21st April, 2025 of the Family Court rejecting their joint petition for divorce by mutual consent on finding, the second motion was not made within 18 months after filing of the first motion (the joint petition).

3. The learned advocates had submitted and maintain their submission that agreement between the parties still subsists. Their clients want to go their separate ways on mutually agreed terms. This technicality of delay in making the second motion cannot be looked at as fatal to their cause. Reliance was placed on judgment of the Supreme Court in Amardeep Singh vs. Harveen Kaur reported in (2017) 8 SCC 746 for declaration of law that sub section (2) in section 13-B, Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 is directory and not mandatory.

4. Section 13-B in Hindu Marriage Act is reproduced below.

"13B. Divorce by mutual consent.-(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act a petition for dissolution of marriage by a decree of divorce may be presented to the district court by both the parties to a marriage together, whether such marriage was solemnized before or after the commencement of the Marriage Laws (Amendment) Act, 1976 (68 of 1976), on the ground that they have been living separately for a period of one year or more, that they have not been able to live together and that they have mutually agreed that the marriage should be dissolved.

(2) On the motion of both the parties made not earlier than six months after the date of the presentation of the petition referred to in sub-section (1) and not later than eighteen months after the said date, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meantime, the court shall, on being satisfied, after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, that a marriage has been solemnised and that the averments in the petition are true, pass a decree of divorce declaring the marriage to be dissolved with effect from the date of the decree."

5. In Amardeep Singh (supra), the Supreme Court was dealing with spouses in a marriage, who wanted immediate mutual divorce without waiting for the cooling off period provided in sub-section (2) of section 13-B. Paragraph 20 from the judgment is reproduced below.

"20. Since we are of the view that the period mentioned in Section 13-B(2) is not mandatory but directory, it will be open to the Court to exercise its discretion in the facts and circumstances of each case where there is no possibility of parties resuming cohabitation and there are chances of alternative rehabilitation."

6. A later decision of the Supreme Court in Amit Kumar vs. Suman Beniwal reported in (2023) 17 SCC 648 considered Amardeep Singh (supra). The Bench went on to further say that factors mentioned in Amardeep Singh (supra) are illustrative and not exhaustive. The stated factors are those which the Court is obliged to take note of. If all the conditions mentioned in Amardeep Singh (supra) are fulfilled, the Court would necessarily have to exercise its discretion to waive the statutory waiting period under section 13-B(2). Paragraph 20 from Amit Kumar (supra) is reproduced below.

"20. The factors mentioned in Amardeep Singh vs. Harveen Kaur, in para 19 are illustrative and not exhaustive. These are factors which the court is obliged to take note of. If all the four conditions mentioned above are fulfilled, the court would necessarily have to exercise its discretion to waive the statutory waiting period under Section 13-B(2) of the Marriage Act."

7. Then came judgment of a stronger Bench of the Supreme Court in Shilpa Sailesh vs. Varun Sreenivasan reported in [(2023) 14 SCC 231 (date of decision 1st May, 2023)]. The Bench of five learned Judges considered, inter-alia, sub-sections (1) and (2) in section 13-B. Paragraph 25 is reproduced below.

"25. Sub-section (2) to Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act provides that after the first motion is passed, the couple/parties would have to move to the court with the second motion, if the petition is not withdrawn in the meanwhile, after six months and not later than eighteen months of the first motion. No action can be taken by the parties before the lapse of six months since the first motion. When the second motion is filed, the court is to make an inquiry, and on satisfaction that the averments made in the petition are true, a decree of divorce is granted. Clearly, the legislative intent behind incorporating Sub-section (2) to Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act is that the couple/party must have time to introspect and consider the decision to separate before the second motion is moved."

(emphasis supplied)

After considering aforesaid decision in Amardeep Singh (supra) the stronger Bench expressed its opinion as would appear from paragraph 33, reproduced below.

"33. In our opinion, Section 13-B of the Hindu Marriage Act does not impose any fetters on the powers of this Court to grant a decree of divorce by mutual consent on a joint application, when the substantive conditions of the Section are fulfilled and the Court, after referring to the factors mentioned above, is convinced and of the opinion that the decree of divorce should be granted."

(emphasis supplied)

8. Though both in Amardeep Singh (supra) and in Amit Kumar (supra) the Supreme Court had declared the law to be that sub-section (2) in section 13-B was directory but we are to see if it can be said to appear from paragraph 33 of Shilpa Sailesh (supra), the stronger Bench was referring, by implication, to power of the Supreme Court under article 142 in the Constitution. Our view is, by paragraph 33 in [Shilpa Sailesh (supra)] it cannot be said the earlier declarations of law were diluted. This is because the stronger Bench immediately thereafter said, inter-alia, multiplicity of litigations can restrict and block solutions, as a settlement has to be holistic and comprehensive, given that the objective and purpose is to enable the parties to cohabit and live together, or if they decide to part ways to have a new beginning and settle down to live peacefully. Paragraphs 35 and 36 from Shilpa Sailesh (supra) are reproduced below.

"35. Therefore, in B.S. Joshi and Ors. v. State of Haryana, this Court, notwithstanding that Section 320 of the Code of Criminal Procedure does not permit compounding of an offence under Section 498-A IPC, has held that the High Court, exercising the power under Section 482

CrPC, may quash prosecutions even in non-compoundable offences when the ends of justice so require. This view has been affirmed by the three- Judge Bench in Gian Singh v. State of Punjab and reiterated by another three-Judge Bench in Jitendra Raghuvanshi v. Babita Raghuvanshi.

36. The reason is that the courts must not encourage matrimonial litigation, and prolongation of such litigation is detrimental to both the parties who lose their young age in chasing multiple litigations. Thus, adopting a hypertechnical view can be counter productive as pendency itself causes pain, suffering and harassment and, consequently, it is the duty of the court to ensure that matrimonial matters are amicably resolved, thereby bringing the agony, affliction, and torment to an end. In this regard, the courts only have to enquire and ensure that the settlement between the parties is achieved without pressure, force, coercion, fraud, misrepresentation, or undue influence, and that the consent is indeed sought by free will and choice, and the autonomy of the parties is not compromised. The latter two decisions in Gian Singh and Jitendra Raghuvanshi observe that the inherent power on the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is wide and can be used/wielded to quash criminal proceedings to secure the ends of justice and prevent abuse of the process of the court, albeit it has to be exercised sparingly, carefully, and with caution."

9. We are convinced on law declared to be that the provisions in sub-section (2) of section 13-B are directory and not mandatory. Also true is that the provisions cannot be said to be selectively directory inasmuch as, while the cooling off period can be waived, the outer limit cannot. We are of further view that outer limit of 18 months from presentation of first motion was provided in sub-section (2) of section 13-B with object of presumption that on omission to make the second motion within time there has been withdrawal of consent. The mechanism provided by the section clearly indicates that the Court must be satisfied on mutual consent of the parties, truly stated in the joint petition for dissolution of the marriage with effect from the date of decree passed. In the case before us, parties are still in agreement regarding them wanting to honorably part ways and move ahead with their lives.

10. It appears from impugned judgment that the first motion was duly made. The second motion was delayed but the first motion not withdrawn in the meantime. There is otherwise nothing in impugned judgment to indicate the Family Court was not satisfied after hearing the parties and after making such inquiry as it thought fit that the marriage had been solemnized. We as the appeal Court, sitting in adjudication of the continuing cause, being so satisfied reverse impugned judgment and direct that the matrimonial case be restored to its file and number, to enable the parties to file the second motion within two weeks of the restoration. The Family Court will thereafter deal with the case on both the motions filed, in accordance with law. It goes without saying, on omission to file the second motion upon notice of the restoration, as directed above, the case will be dismissed forthwith.

11. We add that we have entertained the appeal as maintainable in spite of the bar under sub-section (2) of section 19 of Family Courts Act, 1984 because though impugned judgment was on a petition invoking section 13-B, it was not passed on consent and it matters little that parties supported each other before us in the appeal.

12. The appeal is allowed and disposed of. Registry to communicate the judgment to the Family Court.

First Appeal No. 1137 of 2026

Ishita Agarwal ...Appellant
Versus
Gopal Krishna Mittal ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to the determination of whether an appeal u/s 19 of Family Courts Act, 1984 is maintainable against an interlocutory order passed by the Family Court u/s 26 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, particularly where such order merely grants interim visitation rights to a parent in respect of a minor child during the pendency of matrimonial proceedings.

Headnotes

Family Courts Act, 1984 - s. 19 - Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 - ss. 13, 26, 28(2) - Appeal - Maintainability - Interlocutory order - Custody of minor child - Scope - The appellant, being the mother of a minor child aged about five years, assailed an interim order passed by the Family Court in pending matrimonial proceedings between the parties, whereby the respondent-father was granted visitation rights to meet the child once every month on the third Saturday within the premises of the District Legal Services Authority - The said order was passed on an application moved by the respondent u/s 26 of Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 seeking access, interaction through video conferencing, and interim custody of minor - It was contended by the appellant that similar directions for virtual interaction had already been issued in proceedings under the domestic violence law, and thus the instant appeal was maintainable - However, the respondent raised a preliminary objection asserting that the impugned order was purely interlocutory in nature, having been passed during the pendency of divorce petition, and therefore not appealable u/s 19 of Family Courts Act, 1984.

Held: Impugned judgment/order is but an interim order/direction - It is not a provision made in the decree because such decree is yet to come on adjudication of the matrimonial dispute, still pending - Where the Court passes a judgment and there is a decree, for example, directing dissolution of the marriage and also providing directions for custody, a party to the proceeding can choose to appeal only against the directions for custody by virtue of s. 26 and s. 28(2) - Such appeal would be maintainable u/s 19 in Family Courts Act, 1984 - The order being interlocutory in nature, thus, appeal not maintainable - Dismissed. [Paras 7, 8] (E-13)

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: First Appeal No. - 1137 of 2025

From the Judgment and Order dated 20.02.2025, passed by Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra in Misc. Cases / 1319 / 2024

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Rakesh Kumar Garg, Yash Garg

Adv. for the Respondent:
Jai Raj

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arindam Sinha, J.)

1. Appellant is mother of the boy, who has just completed 5 years of age. Respondent is the father, in whose favour impugned judgment/order dated 20th February, 2025 has been made by the Family Court. English translation of operative direction in impugned judgment/order is reproduced below.

"Therefore, on the above grounds, the applicant's application is accepted. The respondent is directed to ensure that the applicant meets the minor child Saaransh every month on the third Saturday in the premises of the District Legal Services Authority between 3:00 PM to 4:00 PM."

On query we have ascertained from the Bar, main divorce proceeding is still pending before the Family Court.

2. Mr. Yash Garg, learned advocate appears on behalf of appellant. Mr. Jai Raj, learned advocate appears on behalf of respondent and raises preliminary objection on maintainability of the appeal. He submits, impugned judgment/order is interim in nature. There is no right to appeal provided therefrom under section 19 in Family Courts Act, 1984. He relies on view taken by a Division Bench of this Court on judgment dated 25th January, 2011 in First Appeal no. 495 of 2010 (Isma Alam vs. Sri Irshad Alam), inter alia, the paragraphs reproduced below.

"Applying the principles laid down in the facts and circumstances of the present case, we find that the learned Judge had not decided the case finally between the parties as the petition filed under section 25 of the Act numbered as 50/70/2009 is still pending. He has only decided the applications filed under section 12 and 26 of the Act and had directed for granting interim custody of the minor child to the opposite party herein pending final decision on the application filed under section 25 of the Act. Thus, the order impugned in the present appeal is an interlocutory order and an appeal under section 19 of the Act would not lie. The submission of Sri V.M. Zaidi, learned senior counsel that by the impugned order, the learned Judge had in fact decided the entire controversy is misplaced.

While arriving at a conclusion as to whether the interim custody of the minor child has to be given to the opposite party herein on an application in this behalf before the learned Judge, the learned learned Judge has necessarily to record a finding as to why such an order granting interim custody is required to be passed. However, the findings recorded therein is only a tentative finding and would not in any way effect the disposal of case No. 50/70/2009 which has to be decided by the learned Judge on the basis of the material and evidence on record and in accordance with law."

3. Mr. Garg refers us to paragraph 9 in the affidavit supporting the stay application. The paragraph is reproduced below.

"9. That thereafter the opposite party/husband filed one application u/s 26 of the Act, 1955 on 31.08.2024 against the appellant in the pending proceedings u/s 13 of the Act, 1955 seeking a direction upon the appellant to bring their minor son at Mediation Centre of the District Court, Agra for the purpose of meeting him and also sought further direction to talk with their minor son through video call. By the means of this application the opposite party also sought an interim custody of their minor son*. The copy of the application filed by the opposite party u/s 26 of the Act, 1955 on 31.08.2024 at Principal Judge Family Court, Agra is being filed herewith as Annexure no.3 to this affidavit."*

(emphasis supplied)

He submits further, contact by video conferencing has already been directed by the Family Court in the domestic violence case. His client's appeal is maintainable. He relies on sections 26 and 28(2) in Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

4. It will be useful for us to first reproduce below sub-sections (1), (5) and (6) in section 19 of Family Courts Act, 1984, which are relevant. "19. - (1) Save as provided in sub-section (2) and notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) or in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), or in any other law, an appeal shall lie from every judgment or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Family Court to the High Court both on facts and on law. (2) ..... (3) ..... (4) ..... (5) Except as aforesaid, no appeal or revision shall lie to any court from any judgment, order or decree of a Family Court. (6) An appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall be heard by a Bench consisting of two or more Judges."

Also necessary is reproduction of sections 26 and 28 in Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.

"26. Custody of children.- In any proceeding under this Act, the court may, from time to time, pass such interim orders and make such provisions in the decree as it may deem just and proper with respect to the custody, maintenance and education of minor children, consistently with their wishes, wherever possible, and may, after the decree, upon application by petition for the purpose, make from time to time, all such orders and provisions with respect to the custody, maintenance and education of such children as might have been made by such decree or interim orders in case the proceeding for obtaining such decree were still pending, and the court may also from time to time revoke, suspend or vary any such orders and provisions previously made:

Provided that the application with respect to the maintenance and education of the minor children, pending the proceeding for obtaining such decree, shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within sixty days from the date of service of notice on the respondent.

27. .....

28. Appeal from decrees and orders.-(1) All decrees made by the court in any proceeding under this Act shall, subject to the provisions of sub-section (3), be appealable as decrees of the court made in the exercise of its original civil jurisdiction, and every such appeal shall lie to the court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the decision of the court given in exercise of its original civil jurisdiction.

(2) Orders made by the court in any proceeding under this Act, under Section 25 or Section 26 shall*, subject to the provisions of sub-section*

(3), be appealable if they are not interim orders and every such appeal shall lie to the court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the decisions of the court given in exercise of its original civil jurisdiction.

(3) There shall be no appeal under this section on the subject of costs only.

(4) Every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of ninety days from the date of decree or order."

5. We have taken note of view taken by co-ordinate Bench in Isma Alam (supra). View was also taken on judgment dated 17th July, 2025 by another co-ordinate Bench, to which one of us (Arindam Sinha, J) was party. It was in First Appeal no. 285 of 2025 (Dr. Prakhar Kumar vs. Dr. Aditi Dhaundiyal). Paragraph 10 from the view is reproduced below.

"10. Guardians and Wards Act, 1890, as aforesaid, has section 12 providing for power to make 'interlocutory order'. Then came legislation by the Act of 1984. Parliament in the 35th year of the Republic of India acted upon the bill bearing statement of objects and reasons saying, inter alia, the need was, therefore, felt, in the public interest, to establish Family Courts for speedy settlement of family disputes. By clause 2(i) in the statement of objects and reasons it was said, the bill sought to, inter alia, provide for only one right of appeal, which shall lie to the High Court. It was one of the objects of the bill, enacted by Parliament. Section 19 as amended stands in the statute by the Act of 1984. To say section 12 in the Act of 1890 cannot control section 19 in the Act of 1984 would lead to presumption that the Legislature attached different meanings for word 'interlocutory' as appearing in the Act of 1890, the Code of 1908 and the Act of 1984."

6. In light of above views, we need to consider section 26 and sub-section (2) in section 28, relied upon by appellant. We do not find sub-section (2) in section 28 to be contrary to the position of law created by enactment of Family Courts Act, 1984, subsequent also to Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. We have laid emphasis on above reproduction of the provision to demonstrate that an order or direction made under section 26 can be appealable if they are not interim orders. Such is also the mandate of section 19 in Family Courts Act, 1984.

7. Section 26 in the Act of 1955 empowers the Court, while dealing with any proceeding under the Act, to from time to time pass such interim orders and make such provisions in the decree as it may deem just and proper with respect to, inter alia, custody of children. Impugned judgment/order is but an interim order/direction. It is not a provision made in the decree because such decree is yet to come on adjudication of the matrimonial dispute, still pending. Where the Court passes a judgment and there is a decree, for example, directing dissolution of the marriage and also providing directions for custody, a party to the proceeding can choose to appeal only against the directions for custody by virtue of section 26 and section 28(2). Such appeal would be maintainable under section 19 in Family Courts Act, 1984.

8. Impugned judgment/order being interlocutory in nature, the appeal is not maintainable. It is accordingly dismissed.

First Appeal From Order No. 130 of 2026

The Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Ramchandrapal Singh & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(i) Whether the Insurance Company could avoid liability to indemnify compensation on the ground that the vehicle had allegedly been sold prior to the accident and there was no relationship of employer and employee between the deceased and the transferee;

(ii) Whether, on the facts of the case, the appeal disclosed any ground for interference with the award passed by the Commissioner.

Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 — Liability — Registered owner — Transfer of vehicle — Effect:

Held: Where the material on record, including the registration certificate, showed that the vehicle continued in the name of the original owner on the date of accident, and no documentary evidence was produced to establish transfer of ownership in favour of the alleged transferee prior to the accident, the plea of transfer was liable to be rejected. [Paras 6–8, 10]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Ownership — Registered owner — Liability towards claimants:

Held: Where the registered owner continued to be recorded as owner in the registration certificate on the date of accident, such status could not be displaced by an unproved plea of prior sale, and liability arising out of the accident could not be avoided on that basis. [Paras 4–5, 7]

Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 — Employer-employee relationship — Admission — Proof:

Held: Where the alleged transferee admitted in his written statement that the deceased was employed as driver of the vehicle and died during the course of employment, the relationship of employer and employee stands established, and such admission is sufficient to fasten liability. [Para 9]

Insurance Law — IMT-29 — Coverage of employees — Scope and effect:

Held: Coverage under IMT-29 extends to employees of the insured travelling or driving the vehicle, and where premium is charged for more than one employee, it includes the driver of the vehicle; mere non-mentioning of the driver in the policy does not absolve the insurer of liability when premium has been paid covering employees. [Paras 14–15]

Insurance — Liability — Private vehicle — Coverage of driver:

Held: Mere absence of specific mention of the driver in the insurance policy does not absolve the insurer of liability where premium has been charged covering employees of the insured. [Para 14]

Insurance — IRDAI Circular dated 18.10.2023 — Effect:

Held: The circular issued by IRDAI providing for compulsory coverage of employees under IMT-29 was taken into consideration while examining the scope of coverage under the policy. [Para 13]

Employees' Compensation Act, 1923 — Appeal — Interference — Scope:

Held: Where no other issue was pressed and the findings of the Commissioner regarding ownership, employment and insurance coverage were based on material on record, and no illegality was found in the award, the appeal was liable to be dismissed at the admission stage. [Paras 16–17]

Case Arising From

Judgment and award dated 03.11.2025 passed by the Employee Compensation Commissioner/Deputy Labour Commissioner, Moradabad in E.C.A. Case No.111 of 2015 (Ramchandrapal Singh and others vs. Nirdosh Kumar and others).

Appearance for Parties

For Appellant: Sri Akhilesh Sharan Srivastava
For Respondent:

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant appeal under Section 30 of the Employee's Compensation Act, 1923 has been filed by the insurer of the offending Qualis Car No.UA-07-C-6274 against the impugned judgment and award dated 03.11.2025 passed by the Employee Compensation Commissioner/Deputy Labour Commissioner, Moradabad in E.C.A. Case No.111 of 2015 (Ramchandrapal Singh and others vs. Nirdosh Kumar and others), whereby for the untimely death of Dharamveer, who was employed as a driver on above vehicle, in a road accident that occurred on 26.02.2015, a compensation of Rs.8,26,495/- along with interest @ 12% per annum has been awarded to the claimants, which has been ordered to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending Qualis Car No.UA-07-C-6274.

2. Learned counsel for the appellant-Insurance Company submitted that the insurance policy of the above vehicle was taken by Rakesh but during the tenure of the policy the vehicle was sold to Nirdosh Kumar, which was also proved from the written statement submitted by them before the Commissioner. It was further submitted that the deceased was not an employee of Nirdosh Kumar, but was an employee of Rakesh, but since Rakesh sold the vehicle to Nirdosh Kumar prior to the accident, as such, there was no relationship of master and servant between the deceased and Nirdosh Kumar, hence, no compensation could have been awarded by the Commissioner to the claimants. It was further submitted that the insurance policy was not transferred in the name of Nirdosh Kumar, as such, the Insurance Company was not liable to pay any compensation to the claimants. It was further submitted that the Insurance Company has not taken any premium for insuring the driver of the above vehicle, which was proved from the insurance policy submitted before the Commissioner but still the Commissioner has held that the appellant was liable to indemnify the compensation payable to the claimants. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal involves substantial questions of law regarding the liability of the Insurance Company to indemnify the compensation in the absence of master and servant relationship between the deceased and the appellant, as such, it be admitted for hearing.

3. I have heard learned counsel for the appellant-insurance company and perused the impugned judgment and documents submitted with the appeal.

4. The Apex Court in the case of Pushpa @ Leela & others Vs. Shakuntala and others (2011) 2 SCC 240, has held that when transfer of ownership of vehicle was made prior to accident, but neither transferor nor transferee took any steps to change the name of owner in registration certificate, hence in view of the said omission transferor must be deemed to continue as the owner of the vehicle for the purposes of the Act, even though under the civil law he ceased to be its owner after its sale. It was held that the transferor was liable to pay compensation.

5. The Apex Court in the case of Brij Bihari Gupta vs Manmet and others 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1650 while considering the liability of registered owner and insurer in the case of transfer of ownership of offending vehicle, held as under:-

"10. There is considerable reliance placed by the insurer on the fact that the appellant had received the vehicle from the Magistrate's Court, asserting his ownership. The order directing handing over the vehicle to the appellant is produced as Annexure-R/4, in IA No. 190313/2022, where it is indicated that even at that point the registered owner's name was not changed. The registered owner was present before the Magistrate as we see from the order and while ordering handing over of the vehicle, the applicant/appellant was directed to change the ownership within 30 days. Hence obviously the balance consideration of Rs. 10,000/- had not been paid till that date. The transfer of the registration as per Section 50 of the Motor Vehicle Act, 1988 requires the transferee to report the fact of transfer in the prescribed form to the Registering Authority within whose jurisdiction the transfer is affected within 14 days of the transfer. There is no contention raised by the registered owner that he made such a report as required under Section 50(1)(a)(i) of the Act. Hence the ownership was with the registered owner even at the time of the accident and it is his liability to compensate the victims in the accident, which also has to be indemnified by the insurer. We also notice that in Naveen Kumar[Naveen Kumar vs. Vijay Kumar & Ors. (2018) 3 SCC 1] the definition of owner in the Act of 1988 was interpreted to facilitate fulfilment of the object of the law, which was not to burden the claimant to follow the trail of successive transfers. The liability to pay falls squarely on the registered owner, even if there has been successive transfers which has to be indemnified by the insurer."

(emphasis supplied)

6. From the perusal of the documents submitted with the appeal, it is evident that the Car No.UA-07-C-6274 was insured with the appellant under a private car liability only policy from 05.12.2014 till 04.12.2015 whereas, the accident occurred on 26.02.2015. It is apparent that on the date of the accident, the vehicle was insured with the appellant-Insurance Company. It is also apparent that the insurance policy was obtained by Rakesh and as per RC verification report annexed with the appeal, the ownership of the vehicle got transferred to Mrs. Jaykari Devi w/o

Ganga Ram on 06.07.2016, which belies the contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the ownership of the vehicle was transferred prior to the accident, to Nirdosh Kumar.

7. From the above facts, it is proved that on the date of the accident, Rakesh was the registered owner of the above vehicle.

8. The owner of the offending vehicle Rakesh duly submitted his written statement before the Commissioner in which he averred that he had previously sold the offending car to Nirdosh Kumar, who had not got it transferred in his name. It was also averred that the car was in the possession and control of Nirdosh Kumar, which was being driven with all the valid documents. It is apparent that it was not proved by any documentary evidence on record that Nirdosh Kumar was ever the registered owner of the offending car.

9. Nirdosh Kumar was also impleaded as opposite party before the Commissioner, who has submitted his written statement in which he accepted that the deceased Dharamveer was employed as a driver on the above vehicle, who died during the course of employment on 26.02.2015 due to the injuries suffered in an accident. It was further averred that the deceased was a private driver, who possessed a valid driving license for driving the car, which was valid upto 09.02.2024. He also accepted that the registered owner of the car Rakesh Kumar, was his relative and he was only power of attorney holder of Rakesh Kumar and the vehicle was insured with the Oriental Insurance Company Limited from 05.12.2014 to 04.12.2015. He further averred that he had not transferred the vehicle in his name because Rakesh was his close relative, but the transfer was in process.

10. From the written statement submitted by Rakesh Kumar and Nirdosh Kumar, it was proved that Rakesh Kumar was the registered owner of the vehicle at the time of the accident and the ownership of vehicle was never transferred to Nirdosh Kumar but instead, on 06.07.2016 Mrs. Jaykari Devi became the registered owner of the vehicle, who was not required to be impleaded in the claim petition before the Commissioner because on the date of the accident, she was not the registered owner of the vehicle.

11. Learned counsel for the Insurance Company submitted that as per insurance policy the Insurance Company has only charged Rs.50/- premium under IMT-29 for the employees of the insured, which does not cover the paid driver of the car, as such, the Insurance Company was not liable to indemnify the compensation payable to the claimants.

12. The Division Bench of the High Court of Madras in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs R. Krishnan and another CMA No. 2307 of 2018 decided on 23.03.2020, while discussing the scope of coverage with respect to IMT-29, held as under:-

"20. Issue No.5 Whether the owner of the vehicle is liable to pay additional premium in terms of IMT-29 to cover its employees?

20.1 As far as fifth issue is concerned, now we have to decide whether the owner of the vehicle is liable to pay additional premium to cover its employees in terms of IMT-29?

To answer this issue it is relevant to extract the IMT-29 as follows:

"IMT-29 Legal Liability to Employees of the Insured other than paid driver and/or conductor and /or cleaner who may be travelling or driving in the employer?s car (Private cars only/Motorized two wheelers (not for hire or reward)

"In consideration of the payment of an additional premium @ Rs.25/- per employee insured notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained in the policy it is hereby understood and agreed that the insurer will indemnify the insured against the insured?s liability at Common Law and Statutory Liability under the Fatal Accidents Act, 1855 for compensation (including legal costs of any claimant) for death of or bodily injury to any employee (other than paid drivers) of the within named insured being carried in or upon or entering in or getting on to or alighting from or driving the vehicle insured.

Provided that in the event of an accident whilst the vehicle insured is carrying more than ... employees of the insured (including the driver) the insured shall repay to the insurer a rateable proportion of the total amount payable by the insurer by the reason of this endorsement in respect of accident in connection with such vehicle insured.*

Subject otherwise to the terms, condition limitations and exception of this policy."

20.2 The IMT-29 is relating to the payment of additional premium to cover the liability to employees of the insured other than the paid drivers/conductors/cleaners.

20.3 The terms and conditions of Section II-Liability to third parties, as stated above, clearly excludes payment of compensation to the employees of the insured under the category of third party liability. Section II ultimately provides that third party liabilities would be covered as provided under Section 147 of the M.V. Act. Section 147 of the M.V. Act, clearly spells out that premium paid by the insured would cover only the statutory liabilities as stated thereunder, excluding the liabilities to the employees of the insured. Therefore, under Section 147 of M.V. Act, it is mandatory for the insured to enter into a private contract with the insurer by way of payment of additional premium to cover its employees.

20.4 The premium paid under basic third party liability does not cover the employees of the insured. As we stated earlier, additional premium paid under IMT-16 to cover unnamed passengers also excludes employees of the insured from any coverage. Therefore, in order to cover the employees of the insured, the insured is required to pay additional premium in terms of IMT-29.

20.5 This Court vide orders dated 05.09.2019 and 23.09.2019 directed the IRDA to answer the following queries:

" (i) Whether the Insurance Company is liable to pay compensation to the occupant in a private car without paying additional premium under IMT-29?

(ii) What is the scope of IMT-29 after the issuance of circular dated 3 December 2009, by IRDA.??

20.6 In compliance with the direction of this Court, Mr.M.B.Raghavan, learned counsel appearing for IRDA filed a memo, dated 30.01.2013 along with enclosures.

20.6.1 As far as first query is concerned, the IRDA submits that the Insurance Company will not be liable to pay compensation in an accident for the occupants in the private car, who are employees of the insured/owner travelling without obtaining coverage under IMT-29.

20.6.2 As far as second query is concerned, the IRDA answered that the circular, dated 03.12.2009 was not intended to modify the policy terms or include coverage for employee/occupant but only to deal with dispute being raised by the insurer for all occupants (other than employees/occupants) contrary to the express wording of the policy.

20.7 Thus, from the memo filed by IRDA dated 30.09.2019, it is clear that insurer will not have liability for occupants in a private car, who are employees of the insured/owner (except the paid driver) without obtaining coverage under IMT-29.

20.8 Therefore, if an employer intends to cover its employees, it is mandatory for the employer to pay additional premium in terms of IMT-29. In the event of non payment of any additional premium, in terms of IMT-29, insurance coverage will not be extended to its employees…"

13. However, upon the direction of the High Court of Madras in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs Ilakkiyamathi & others CMA No. 2166 of 2019 & CMP No. 8871 of 2019 decided on 24.02.2023, the Insurance Regulatory and Development Authority of India (IRDAI) vide Circular/Notification dated 18th October 2023 bearing Ref. No. IRDAI/NL/CIR/MOTOR/178/10/2023-24, issued the following directions:-

i) All General Insurers carrying on motor insurance business shall provide the cover to the employees travelling in employer?s vehicle (including paid driver, if applicable) under IMT-29 of the Indian Motor Tariff, compulsorily as an inbuilt coverage while issuing private car policy for such vehicles.

(ii) The compulsory cover of IMT-29 shall be provided as an inbuilt coverage under the Compulsory Motor Third Party Liability Section of Private Car Package/ Bundled Policies and under standalone policies insuring Compulsory Motor Third Party Liability.

(iii) No additional premium shall be charged until further directions.

14. It is true that the policy discloses that the Insurance Company has taken Rs.50/- premium under IMT-29 but it does not disclose the number of employees regarding which the premium was charged. It is further evident that since the deceased was also working as an employee, being the driver of the car at the time of the accident, as such, mere specific non-mentioning of the driver in the insurance policy does not entitle the Insurance Company to avoid its contractual liability under the Act. It is further evident that the offending car was a private vehicle which only requires a driver to drive it. It is not a commercial vehicle or a truck in which a Conductor or Khalasi is employed, besides the driver. It is further evident that under IMT-29 only a premium of Rs.25/- per employee is charged but in the instant case, the insurance company has charged premium of two persons, which proves that the driver was also covered under the instant insurance policy, which is also corroborated from the above mentioned circular of the IRDAI.

15. The Insurance Company has examined its Investigator Firoz Khan and Pawan Saxena as DW-1 and DW-2 in order to prove that the deceased was not covered under the terms and conditions of the insurance policy but it is evident that under IMT-29, the Insurance Company took premium of two employees regarding the private car, in which only a driver is employed to drive the vehicle. It is also apparent that the car was not registered in the name of Company, so as to enable the Company to carry its employees in the car. In view of the above premium charged by the Insurance Company, which was towards two employees of the insured, which also included paid driver of the car, hence the contention of the learned counsel of the appellant, contrary to it, is liable to be rejected.

16. No other issue was pressed by the learned counsel for the appellant.

17. In view of the aforesaid facts, the instant appeal does not raise any substantial questions of law and there is no illegality in the impugned judgment and award dated 03.11.2025 passed by the Commissioner concerned, as such, this appeal has got no merit and is liable to be dismissed at the admission stage.

18. Accordingly, this appeal is dismissed at the admission stage.

19. It is apparent that the Insurance Company has deposited the amount of compensation along with interest awarded by the Commissioner amounting to Rs.17,94,718/- on 02.01.2016. The Commissioner is directed to disburse the above amount to the claimants, in accordance with the impugned judgment.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SANDEEP JAIN, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 291 of 2015

The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Smt. Savita Tiwari & Ors. ...Respondents

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether compensation under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 could be awarded in absence of negligence of the offending driver;
(ii) Whether absence of valid fitness certificate of the offending vehicle absolves the insurer from liability under Section 149(2) of the Act;
(iii) Whether the compensation awarded by the Tribunal required enhancement.

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Section 166 — Negligence — Proof:

Held: For awarding compensation under Section 166 of the Act, proof of rash and negligent driving is essential; where the testimony of eye-witness established that the offending vehicle was driven rashly and negligently and the accident occurred due to loss of control by the driver, the finding of negligence recorded by the Tribunal was justified. [Paras 9–12]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Accident — Res ipsa loquitur — Applicability:
Held: Where the offending vehicle overturned without involvement of any other vehicle, the principle of res ipsa loquitur applies and supports the inference of negligence on the part of the driver. [Para 12]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Section 149(2) — Defence of insurer — Scope:

Held: The defences available to the insurer are confined to those specified under Section 149(2) of the Act and cannot be enlarged by raising grounds not contemplated therein. [Paras 25–26]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Fitness certificate — Absence — Effect on liability:

Held: Mere absence of a valid fitness certificate of the offending vehicle does not constitute a defence available to the insurer under Section 149(2) of the Act, particularly where the vehicle had a valid permit and no order of cancellation of permit was shown. [Paras 24–25, 30]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Permit — Validity — Finding of Tribunal:

Held: Where the offending vehicle was proved to be having a valid permit on the date of accident, the Tribunal did not err in fastening liability upon the insurer. [Para 13]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Liability of insurer — Statutory obligation:

Held: The insurer cannot avoid its statutory liability on grounds not enumerated in Section 149(2), and breach such as absence of fitness certificate, not being a specified defence, does not absolve the insurer. [Paras 24–26]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Appeal by insurer — Dismissal:

Held: Where the finding of negligence and liability recorded by the Tribunal was based on evidence and did not suffer from perversity, no interference was warranted in appeal. [Paras 12, 31]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Compensation — Assessment — Income:

Held: Where the claimants failed to prove actual income of the deceased, compensation is to be assessed on the basis of minimum wages applicable at the relevant time. [Paras 5–6 (Cross-objection)]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Compensation — Future prospects:

Held: Where the deceased was below 40 years of age, addition towards future prospects at the rate of 50% is permissible in view of statutory rules. [Para 7 (Cross-objection)]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Compensation — Conventional heads:

Held: Compensation towards loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses is to be awarded in accordance with settled principles laid down by the Supreme Court with periodical enhancement. [Paras 8–10 (Cross-objection)]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Compensation — Multiplier — Correction:

Held: Where incorrect multiplier was applied by the Tribunal, the same is liable to be corrected in accordance with settled law. [Para 12 (Cross-objection)]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 — Interest — Rate:

Held: Where statutory rules prescribe a higher rate of interest, the same is to be applied and inadequate rate awarded by the Tribunal requires enhancement. [Para 14 (Cross-objection)]

Appeal dismissed; Cross-objection allowed. (E-14)

Judgment and award dated 29.11.2014 passed by Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, Court No.4, Kanpur Nagar in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 159 of 2013 (Smt. Savita Tiwari and others vs. Susheel Kumar Pandey and another).

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellants: Sri Aditya Singh Parihar
For the Respondents: Sri Anil Kumar Mehrotra, Sri Mohd. Naushad Siddiqui, Sri Vidya Kant Shukla

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

Order on Appeal:-

1. The instant appeal under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 has been preferred by the insurer of the offending Xylo car No.UP-35-H-0005 against the impugned judgment and award dated 29.11.2014 passed by the Motor Accidents Claims Tribunal/Additional District Judge, court no.4, Kanpur Nagar, in Motor Accident Claim Petition No. 159 of 2013 (Smt. Savita Tiwari and others vs. Susheel Kumar Pandey and another), whereby, for the untimely death of Manoj Kumar Tiwari @ Gandhi in an accident that took place on 05.12.2012, the Tribunal has awarded compensation of Rs.4,44,000/- along with interest at the rate of 6% per annum to the claimants(wife, son and mother), which has been ordered to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending Xylo car No.UP-35-H-0005.

2. Shri Aditya Singh Parihar, learned counsel for the appellant-insurance company submitted that the deceased was alleged to be travelling on the date of the accident i.e. 05.12.2012 in the offending Xylo car No.UP-35-H-0005 when the accident occurred in which besides the deceased, three other persons namely Amit Dubey, Pankaj Shukla and Gaurav Mishra also died. He further submitted that from the G.D. entry No.31 dated 05.12.2012 recorded in Police Station Pilua District Etah, it was proved that in the accident there was no negligence of the offending driver. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that even the tribunal did not frame any issue regarding the negligence of the offending driver and also did not conclude that there was any such negligence on the part of the offending driver, as such, without the finding of negligence, compensation under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act,1988 has been awarded to the claimants, which is illegal. It was further submitted that the offending vehicle was a commercial vehicle and for plying it, a valid certificate of fitness was mandatory but the offending vehicle was not having a valid fitness on the date of the accident, as such, the insurance company was not liable to indemnify the compensation payable to the claimants, but this fact was also not considered by the tribunal. It was further submitted that for awarding compensation under Section 166 of the Act, a finding of negligence is sine qua non, but this finding was not recorded by the tribunal, as such, no compensation under Section 166 of the Act could have been awarded to the claimants. It was further submitted that even the eye witness of the alleged accident admits that there was no negligence of the offending driver, as such, the tribunal could not have decided the claim petition under Section 166 of the Act. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal preferred by the appellant-insurance company be allowed and the cross objection of the claimants-respondent be dismissed.

3. Per contra, learned counsel for the claimants-respondents submitted that on the date of the accident, the deceased Manoj Kumar Tiwari was travelling in the offending car alongwith Pankaj Shukla, Gaurav Mishra and Amit Dubey, the vehicle was being driven in a rash and negligent manner, which was proved from the testimony of eye witness Vishnu Tiwari PW-2. He further submitted that due to the rash and negligent driving of the offending driver, the vehicle overturned and it was res ipsa loquitur proved that there was negligence on the part of the offending driver. It was further submitted that the tribunal has also recorded that there was negligence of the offending driver in the accident, as such, it has rightly allowed the claim petition under Section 166 of the Act. It was further submitted that the offending vehicle was having a valid fitness certificate on the date of the accident and even if it is presumed that the fitness was not valid, even then, it is not the defence available to the insurance company to evade its statutory liability under Section 149(2) of the Act. In support of its contention, learned counsel for the claimants-respondent has relied upon the judgment of this Court in United India Insurance Co. Ltd. Vs. Smt. Uma Tripathi & others 2019 SCC OnLine All 4416. He further submitted that the deceased was working as a Supervisor in construction company and was getting a salary of Rs.16,600/- per month which was also proved by PW-3 Brijesh, but still the tribunal has assessed the compensation on the notional income of the deceased by presuming that he was only earning Rs.3,000/- per month, which is grossly inadequate. It was further submitted that the tribunal has not awarded any compensation towards the future prospects of the deceased, awarded inadequate amount of compensation under non-pecuniary heads and has also awarded less interest on compensation and for enhancing it, the claimants have filed the cross objection before this Court. It was submitted that the appeal preferred by the insurance company be dismissed and the cross objection filed by the claimants-respondent be allowed.

4. I have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the impugned judgment and the documents submitted with the appeal.

5. GD No. 31, recorded at 18:45 hours on 05.12.2012 at Police Station Pilua, District Etah, discloses that on the information provided by Devendra Tiwari, on 05.12.2012 the informant, along with Gajendra Tiwari, Krishna Kumar, Vishnu Kumar, Amit Dubey, Pankaj Shukla, Manoj Tiwari, Gopalji and Gaurav Mishra, were travelling from Patel Nagar, Kanpur to Harduaganj, Aligarh to attend the engagement ceremony of his niece, Shweta Tiwari, in a Xylo car bearing registration No. UP-35-H-0005, which was being driven by Gaurav Mishra. At about 5:30 p.m., while attempting to save a bicycle rider, the driver lost control of the vehicle and it suddenly overturned, as a result of which the passengers travelling in the car sustained grievous injuries. The injured persons were sent by the police for treatment to the District Hospital, Etah, where Manoj Kumar Tiwari and Pankaj Shukla were declared dead, while Amit Dubey and Gaurav Mishra were referred to Kanpur for better treatment. The treatment of Gajendra Tiwari, Krishna Kumar and Gopalji continued at the District Hospital, Etah. The said GD entry further records that there was no negligence on the part of the driver of the offending vehicle.

6. It is further evident that the FIR relating to the accident was registered on 08.01.2013 at 15:34 hours as Case Crime No. 2 of 2013 at Police Station Pilua, District Etah, under Sections 279,338,337,304A IPC, on the basis of the report lodged by Satish Chandra Dwivedi. The FIR discloses that on 05.12.2012, the first informant, Amit Dubey, along with other relatives, were travelling in vehicle No. UP-35-H-0005 to attend the engagement ceremony of Km. Shweta Tiwari, at Harduaganj, Aligarh . It is alleged that the driver of the said vehicle was driving rashly and negligently and, despite being cautioned several times to drive carefully, he continued to drive at a high speed. At about 5:30 p.m., while attempting to save a bicycle rider, the driver lost control of the vehicle due to its high speed, as a result of which the vehicle overturned. In the said accident, Manoj Kumar Tiwari and Pankaj Shukla died on the spot, whereas Amit Dubey and Gaurav Mishra were taken in grievous condition to Agra for treatment; however, Amit Dubey succumbed to his injuries on 05.12.2012 while being taken for treatment, and Gaurav Mishra died during treatment after about two hours. It is further disclosed that the initial information furnished by Devendra Tiwari, which was recorded in GD No. 31, indicated that the accident occurred coincidentally which was not correct. The subsequent FIR alleges that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving on the part of the driver of the vehicle.

7. Before the tribunal the claimants examined the wife of the deceased Smt. Savita Tiwari as PW-1, Vishnu Tiwari as PW-2 and Brijesh as PW-3. Whereas, the Insurance Company examined its investigator Kailash Upadhyay as DW-1 and owner of vehicle Sushil Kumar Pandey, as DW-2.

8. Smt. Savita Tiwari PW-1 very fairly accepted that she was not an eye witness of the accident. PW-3 Brijesh is also not an eye witness, who has proved the salary of the deceased.

9. PW-2 Vishnu Tiwari deposed that the accident occurred on 05.12.2012 when he was going to the engagement ceremony of Km. Shweta Tiwari at Harduaganj, Aligarh alongwith his relatives in vehicle No. UP-35-H-0005, then within the jurisdiction of police station Pilua, District Etah, the Xylo Car No. UP-35-H-0005 overturned because it was being driven rashly and negligently by its driver, due to which Amit Dubey, Pankaj Shukla, Gaurav Mishra and Manoj Kumar Tiwari @ Gandhi died. He further deposed that the GD entry regarding the accident was made at police station Pilua on 05.12.2012 on the basis of information provided by Devendra Tiwari and subsequently, an FIR was registered by Satish Chandra Dwivedi. He specifically deposed that the accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the Xylo car driver.

10. In his cross-examination, PW-2 deposed that at the time of the accident he was travelling in the offending vehicle and had also sustained injuries in the said accident. He further deposed that prior to the accident, the driver had been cautioned to drive the vehicle in a controlled manner, but the driver remained unrelenting. He also deposed that the car was being driven by Gaurav Mishra.

11. The insurance company has examined Kailash Upadhyay as DW-1 and owner of vehicle, Sushil Kumar Pandey as DW-2, in order to prove that the offending Xylo car was being driven in violation of the terms and conditions of the policy, in the absence of valid fitness certificate on the date of the accident. It is undisputed that both the above witness are not the eye-witness of the accident, as such, on the basis of their evidence, the negligence of the offending driver and the factum of the accident cannot be determined.

12. From the evidence of eye-witness PW-2 it was proved that he was travelling in the offending car at the time of the accident, which was driven in rash and negligent manner, by its driver and even prior to accident, the driver was cautioned to drive the vehicle slowly, according to rules and regulations of the traffic, but the driver remained unrelenting and he continued to drive the vehicle rashly and negligently and when a bicycle rider suddenly appeared on the road, due to the high speed of the vehicle, the driver in order to save the bicycle rider, lost control and the car overturned causing grievous injuries to the passengers travelling in the offending vehicle. It is further apparent that the tribunal has considered the testimony of the eye witness PW-2 and has recorded that accident occurred due to rash and negligent driving of the offending driver, and even from the facts and circumstance of the accident, it was res ipsa loquitur proved that the accident was caused due to rash and negligent driving of the Xylo car driver because no other vehicle was involved in the accident. It is further apparent that the owner of the offending vehicle has not led any evidence to prove that there was no rashness and negligence of the offending driver in the accident. It is also evident that the offending driver Gaurav Mishra has also died in the accident. In view of the above evidence on record, there is no perversity in the conclusion of the tribunal that the accident occurred due to the rash and negligent driving of the driver of the Xylo car, warranting any interference by this court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction.

13. It is further apparent that the owner DW-2 claimed that the offending vehicle was being driven with all the valid document on the date of the accident but the fitness certificate of the offending vehicle was not produced before the Tribunal. Learned counsel of the insurance company has also submitted that the offending vehicle was not having a valid permit on the date of the accident but this fact is not corroborated by the evidence on record. It is apparent that the vehicle was having a valid UP permit on the date of the accident which was valid from 20.09.2010 to 19.09.2015, whereas the accident occurred on 05.12.2012 as such, the tribunal has not erred in concluding that the permit of the offending vehicle was valid on the date of the accident.

14. Section 149 of the Motor Vehicles Act,1988, which was in force at the relevant time, while specifying the limited grounds of defence available to an insurer, on which it can avoid its statutory liability to indemnify the insured, reads as under:-

149. Duty of insurers to satisfy judgments and awards against persons insured in respect of third party risks.-(1)*

(2) No sum shall be payable by an insurer under sub-section (1) in respect of any judgment or award unless, before the commencement of the proceedings in which the judgment or award is given the insurer had notice through the Court or, as the case may be, the Claims Tribunal of the bringing of the proceedings, or in respect of such judgment or award so long as execution is stayed thereon pending an appeal; and an insurer to whom notice of the bringing of any such proceedings is so given shall be entitled to be made a party thereto and to defend the action on any of the following grounds, namely:-

(a) that there has been a breach of a specified condition of the policy, being one of the following conditions, namely:-

(i) a condition excluding the use of the vehicle-

(a) for hire or reward, where the vehicle is on the date of the contract of insurance a vehicle not covered by a permit to ply for hire or reward, or

(b) for organised racing and speed testing, or

(c) for a purpose not allowed by the permit under which the vehicle is used, where the vehicle is a transport vehicle, or

(d) without side-car being attached where the vehicle is a motor cycle; or

(ii) a condition excluding driving by a named person or persons or by any person who is not duly licensed, or by any person who has been disqualified for holding or obtaining a driving licence during the period of disqualification; or

(iii) a condition excluding liability for injury caused or contributed to by conditions of war, civil war, riot or civil commotion; or

(b) that the policy is void on the ground that it was obtained by the non-disclosure of a material fact or by a representation of fact which was false in some material particular.

(7) No insurer to whom the notice referred to in sub-section (2) or sub-section (3) has been given shall be entitled to avoid his liability to any person entitled to the benefit of any such judgment or award as is referred to in sub-section (1) or in such judgment as is referred to in sub-section (3) otherwise than in the manner provided for in sub-section (2) or in the corresponding law of the reciprocating country, as the case may be.

15. The Division Bench of the Apex Court in the case of Rekha Jain and another vs National Insurance Co. Ltd.(2013) 12 SCC 202 while interpreting S149(2) of the Motor Vehicles Act,1988, held as under:-

"17. This principle has been laid down by a three-Judge Bench decision of this Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Nicolletta Rohtagi [(2002) 7 SCC 456 : 2002 SCC (Cri) 1788] . The relevant paragraphs of the judgment read as under: (SCC p. 468, paras 15-16)

"15. It is relevant to note that Parliament, while enacting sub-section (2) of Section 149 only specified some of the defences which are based on conditions of the policy and, therefore, any other breach of conditions of the policy by the insured which does not find place in sub-section (2) of Section 149 cannot be taken as a defence by the insurer. If Parliament had intended to include the breach of other conditions of the policy as a defence, it could have easily provided any breach of conditions of insurance policy in sub-section (2) of Section 149. If we permit the insurer to take any other defence other than those specified in sub-section (2) of Section 149, it would mean we are adding more defences to the insurer in the statute which is neither found in the Act nor was intended to be included.

16. For the aforesaid reasons, we are of the view that the statutory defences which are available to the insurer to contest a claim are confined to what are provided in sub-section (2) of Section 149 of the 1988 Act and not more and for that reason if an insurer is to file an appeal, the challenge in the appeal would confine to only those grounds."

Precedents of this Court

16. This Court in the case of Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra) where the offending truck was possessing a valid permit, but lacked fitness certificate, which expired a week before the date of the accident, held as under:-

"20. Before coming to the contention of learned counsel for the insurance company with respect to the fitness certificate, it is worth noticing the few relevant sections namely, 56(1), 66(1), and 84(a) of the Act, 1988 touching the aspect of the fitness certificate, which are extracted herein below:-

56. Certificate of fitness of transport vehicles.--

(1) Subject to the provisions of sections 59 and 60, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 39, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed authority, or by an authorized testing station mentioned in sub-section (2), to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder:

Provided that where the prescribed authority or the -authorized testing station- refuses to issue such certificate, it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.

66. Necessity for permits.--

(1) No owner of a motor vehicle shall use or permit the use of the vehicle as a transport vehicle in any public place whether or not such vehicle is actually carrying any passengers or goods save in accordance with the conditions of a permit granted or countersigned by a Regional or State Transport Authority or any prescribed authority authorising him the use of the vehicle in that place in the manner in which the vehicle is being used:

Provided that a stage carriage permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the use of the vehicle as a contract carriage : Provided further that a stage carriage permit may, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the use of the vehicle as a goods carriage either when carrying passengers or not:

Provided also that a goods carriage permit shall, subject to any conditions that may be specified in the permit, authorise the holder to use the vehicle for the carriage of goods for or in connection with a trade or business carried on by him.

84. General conditions attaching to all permits.--The following shall be conditions of every permit--

(a) that the vehicle to which the permit relates carries valid certificate of fitness issued under section 56 and is at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder;

21. According to Section 56(1) of the Act, 1988, for registration of transport vehicles under Section 39, a valid fitness certificate is required and in absence of such fitness certificate, transport vehicle shall not be deemed to have valid registration.

22. Section 66(1) provides necessity for permit for the use of a vehicle as a transport vehicle in a public place. According to Section 66(1), a transport vehicle shall be used or permitted to be used by owner of vehicle in any public place in accordance with the condition of permit.

23. Section 84(a) provides the general condition which are attached to all the permits. One of the condition as contemplated under Section 84(a) of the Act, 1988 is that vehicle to which the permit relates carries valid certificate of fitness issued under Section 56 and is at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of the Act, 1988 and the rules made thereunder.

24. From the aforesaid provisions, it can be safely culled out that for the purposes of registration of transport vehicle, a fitness certificate as contemplated under Section 56 of the Act, 1988 is mandatory and plying of a transport vehicle without a valid fitness certificate amounts to violation of condition of permit.

25. At this juncture, it is useful to notice Section 86(1)(a) which provides that the transport authority which has granted permit may cancel the permit or suspend it for the period as it thinks fit on the breach of any condition specified in Section 84 or of any condition contained in the permit. The proviso to Section 86 (1) of the Act, 1988 provides that no permit shall be suspended or cancelled unless an opportunity of hearing has been given to the holder of permit to furnish his explanation. Section 86(1) of the Act, 1988 is reproduced herein below:-

"86. Cancellation and suspension of permits.- (1) The Transport Authority which granted a permit may cancel the permit or may suspend it for such period as it thinks fit-

(a) on the breach of any condition specified in section 84 or of any condition contained in the permit, or

(b) if the holder of the permit uses or causes or allows a vehicle to be used in any manner not authorised by the permit, or

(c) if the holder of the permit ceases to own the vehicle covered by the permit, or

(d) if the holder of the permit has obtained the permit by fraud or misrepresentation, or

(e) if the holder of the goods carriage permit, fails without reasonable cause, to use the vehicle for the purposes for which the permit was granted, or

(f) if the holder of the permit acquires the citizenship of any foreign country:

Provided that no permit shall be suspended or cancelled unless an opportunity has been given to the holder of the permit to furnish his explanation.-

26. The proviso to Section 86 (1) clearly contemplates an opportunity of hearing to the holder of permit before cancellation or suspension of the permit on the ground specified in Section 86(1)(a) to (f). Thus, it is evident that the Act does not contemplate that if there is violation of any condition of the permit, the permit shall automatically be deemed to have been cancelled. In fact competent authority has to pass an order before cancelling or suspending the permit after affording opportunity of hearing to the holder of permit.

27. In the instant case, it is not in dispute that fitness certificate of the truck was valid upto 16.07.2010. The fitness certificate expired about a week before the date of accident i.e. 24.07.2010. It is also not disputed by the insurance company that the truck was having a valid permit on the date of accident. There is no order passed by the competent authority on record cancelling the permit of the truck after given an opportunity of hearing to the owner of the truck on the ground that condition of permit has been violated by the owner as the truck was plied without valid fitness certificate. Thus, in such situation, it cannot be said that the truck was not having a valid permit. It is further useful to notice that Section 149(2)(a)(i)(c) talks about the breach of condition of policy where vehicle is used for the purpose not allowed by the permit.

28. In the case in hand, it is not the case of the insurance company that there was no permit of the truck or truck was being used for the purpose not allowed by the permit, therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the insurance company that since fitness certificate has expired on 16.07.2010 before the date of accident, therefore, insurance company is not liable to pay compensation is devoid of merit and is rejected."

17. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Oriental Insurance Co. Ltd. vs Roop Rani and another 2019 SCC OnLine All 8154, while dealing with the issue where the owner was not possessing a valid fitness certificate on the date of the accident and after appreciating the relevant provisions of the Motor Vehicles Act, held as under:-

"12. As per Section 39 of the Act a motor vehicle as defined under section 2(28) of the Act has to be compulsorily registered in accordance with the provisions of the Act before it is plied in a public place. Section 39 of the Act reads as under:

Section 39. Necessity for registration. - No person shall drive any motor vehicle and no owner of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit the vehicle to be driven in any public place or in any other place unless the vehicle is registered in accordance with this Chapter and the certificate of registration of the vehicle has not been suspended or cancelled and the vehicle carries a registration mark displayed in the prescribed manner:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a motor vehicle in possession of a dealer subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

13. Section 56 of the Act lays down that without a valid fitness certificate, a transport vehicle shall be deemed to be without registration.

Relevant portion of section 56 reads as under:

Section 56. Certificate of fitness of transport vehicles. -

(1) Subject to the provisions of sections 59 and 60, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 39, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed authority, or by an authorised testing station mentioned in sub-section (2), to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder:

14. In Narinder Singh v New India Assurance Co. Ltd., (2014) 9 SCC 324 the Apex Court has held that the use of a motor vehicle in a public place without any registration is a fundamental breach of the terms and conditions of a policy contract*. Paragraph 12 of the said report is extracted below:*

"12. Indisputably, a temporary registration was granted in respect of the vehicle in question, which had expired on 11-1-2006 and the alleged accident took place on 2-2-2006 when the vehicle was without any registration. Nothing has been brought on record by the appellant to show that before or after 11-1-2006, when the period of temporary registration expired, the appellant, owner of the vehicle, either applied for permanent registration as contemplated under Section 39 of the Act or made any application for extension of period as temporary registration on the ground of some special reasons. In our view, therefore, using a vehicle on the public road without any registration is not only an offence punishable under Section 192 of the Motor Vehicles Act but also a fundamental breach of the terms and conditions of policy contract.-

15. As per section 66 of the Act a vehicle defined under Section 2(28) of the Act can only be used as a -transport vehicle- as defined under Section 2(47) of the Act, only if it has a -permit- as defined under Section 2(31) of the Act. Sub-section (3) of Section 66 of the Act carves out certain exceptions to sub-section (1). Relevant portion of Section 66 of the Act reads as under:

66. Necessity for permits.-(1) No owner of a motor vehicle shall use or permit the use of the vehicle as a transport vehicle in any public place whether or not such vehicle is actually carrying any passengers or goods save in accordance with the conditions of a permit granted or countersigned by a Regional or State Transport Authority or any prescribed authority authorising him the use of the vehicle in that place in the manner in which the vehicle is being used.

16. Section 84 of the Act lays down the general conditions attaching to all permits. As per Sub-section (a) of Section 84 of the Act every vehicle having a permit should have a valid certificate of fitness at all times. Relevant portion of section 84 reads as under:

Section 84. General conditions attaching to all permits. - The following shall be conditions of every permit--

(a) that the vehicle to which the permit relates carries valid certificate of fitness issued under section 56 and is at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder,

17. In National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Challa Upendra Rao, (2004) 8 SCC 517, the Apex Court observed as under:

"12. The High Court was of the view that since there was no permit, the question of violation of any condition thereof does not arise. The view is clearly fallacious. A person without permit to ply a vehicle cannot be placed on a better pedestal vis-a-vis one who has a permit, but has violated any condition thereof. Plying of a vehicle without a permit is an infraction. Therefore, in terms of Section 149(2) defence is available to the insurer on that aspect. The acceptability of the stand is a matter of adjudication. The question of policy being operative had no relevance for the issue regarding liability of the insurer. The High Court was, therefore, not justified in holding the insurer liable.-

18. In Amrit Paul Singh v. TATA AIG General Insurance Co. Ltd., (2018) 7 SCC 558 the Apex Court following Challa Upendra Rao (supra) has held that plying of a transport vehicle in a public place without a permit is a fundamental breach. Paragraph 12 of the said report being relevant is extracted below:

"24. In the case at hand, it is clearly demonstrable from the materials brought on record that the vehicle at the time of the accident did not have a permit. The appellants had taken the stand that the vehicle was not involved in the accident. That apart, they had not stated whether the vehicle had temporary permit or any other kind of permit. The exceptions that have been carved out under Section 66 of the Act, needless to emphasise, are to be pleaded and proved. The exceptions cannot be taken aid of in the course of an argument to seek absolution from liability. Use of a vehicle in a public place without a permit is a fundamental statutory infraction. We are disposed to think so in view of the series of exceptions carved out in Section 66. The said situations cannot be equated with absence of licence or a fake licence or a licence for different kind of vehicle, or, for that matter, violation of a condition of carrying more number of passengers. Therefore, the principles laid down in Swaran Singh and Lakhmi Chand in that regard would not be applicable to the case at hand. That apart, the insurer had taken the plea that the vehicle in question had no permit. It does not require the wisdom of the -Tripitaka-, that the existence of a permit of any nature is a matter of documentary evidence. Nothing has been brought on record by the insured to prove that he had a permit of the vehicle*. In such a situation, the onus cannot be cast on the insurer. Therefore, the Tribunal as well as the High Court had directed that the insurer was required to pay the compensation amount to the claimants with interest with the stipulation that the insurer shall be entitled to recover the same from the owner and the driver. The said directions are in consonance with the principles stated in Swaran Singh and other cases pertaining to pay and recover principle."*

19. In Ramankutty and another v. Pareed Pillai and another, 2018 SCC Online Ker 3542, a 5 Judge Bench of the Kerala High Court considered the question as to whether the absence of 'Permit' or 'Fitness Certificate' relating to a transport vehicle is only a 'technical breach' or a 'fundamental breach' The Bench relying upon the dictum of the Apex Court in the case of Challa Upendra Rao held it to be a 'fundamental breach'. Paragraphs 16, 17 and 18 of the said report is extracted below:

"16. As mentioned above, fitness of a vehicle, to be used as a transport vehicle, is of paramount importance. The necessity to have -Fitness Certificate- is prescribed under Section 56 of the Act. Sub-section (1) of Section 56 clearly stipulates that, a transport vehicle [subject to the provisions of Section 59 (power to fix the age limit of motor vehicle) and Section 60 (registration of the vehicles belonging to the Central Government)] shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purpose of Section 39, unless it carries a -Certificate of Fitness- as prescribed. By virtue of Section 84(a), as mentioned already, it is a mandatory requirement of every Permit, that the vehicle to which the Permit relates, shall carry valid Certificate of Fitness- issued under Section 56 at all time, absence of which will automatically lead to a situation that the vehicle will not be deemed as having a Permit [if it is not having a Fitness Certificate- on a given date]. Using a motor vehicle in an unsafe condition in any public place itself is an offence under Section 190 of the Act. Separate penalty is prescribed under Section 192 for driving or using the motor vehicle in contravention of Section 39 of the Act [i.e. without registration]; which at the first instance by fine upto Rs. 5000/- [not less than Rs. 2000/-] and for the second or subsequent offences, it may be with imprisonment, which may extend to one year or fine upto Rs. 10,000/- [not less than Rs. 5000/-] or with both; of course, conferring power upon the Court to impose a lesser punishment, for reasons to be recorded. Similarly, separate punishment is provided for using vehicles without -Permit- as provided under Section 192A [first offence with fine upto Rs. 5000/- which shall not be less than Rs. 2000/- and for any subsequent offence with imprisonment upto one year [which shall not be less than 3 months or with fine upto Rs. 10,000/- which shall not be less than Rs. 5000/-] or with both; here again conferring power on the Court to impose lesser punishment, for reasons to be recorded. Reference is made to the above provisions only to illustrate the utmost requirement to have a valid -Registration, Permit and Fitness Certificate".

17. Importance of the fitness/road worthiness of a vehicle, right from the time of registration of the vehicle, is further discernible from Rule 47 of the Central Motor Vehicles Rules 1989 [referred to as Central Rules]. The said Rule deals with application for registration of motor vehicles, which, among other things, stipulates that it shall be accompanied by various documents. Under sub-rule (1)(g), it is mandatory to produce road worthiness certificate in Form 22 from the manufacturers [Form 22A from the body builders]. On completing the formalities/procedures, -Certificate of Registration- is to be issued in terms of Rule 48 of the Central Rules in Form 23/23A, as the case may be. The said Rule contains a proviso, insisting that, when Certificate of Registration pertains to a transport vehicle, it shall be handed over to the registered owner only after recording the Certificate of Fitness in Form 38. Validity of the Certificate of Fitness is only to the extent as envisaged under Rule 62 of the Central Rules, which mandates, as per the proviso, that the renewal of a Fitness Certificate shall be made only after the Inspecting Officer or authorised Testing Station as referred to in sub Section 1 of Section 56 of the Act has carried out the test specified in the table given therein.

18. The stipulations under the above provisions clearly substantiate the importance and necessity to have a valid Fitness Certificate to the transport vehicle at all times. The above prescription converges on the point that Certificate of Registration, existence of valid Permit and availability of Fitness Certificate, all throughout, are closely Interlinked. In the case of a transport vehicle and one requirement cannot be segregated from the other. The transport vehicle should be completely fit and road worthy, to be plied on the road, which otherwise may cause threat to the lives and limbs of passengers and the general public, apart from damage to property. Only If the transport vehicle is having valid Fitness Certificate, would the necessary Permit be issued In terms of Section 66 of the Act and by virtue of the mandate under Section 56 of the Act, no transport vehicle without Fitness Certificate will be deemed as a validly registered vehicle for the purpose of Section 39 of the Act, which stipulates that nobody shall drive or cause the motor vehicle to be driven without valid registration in public place or such other place, as the case may be. These requirements are quite -fundamental- in nature; unlike a case where a transport vehicle carrying more passengers than the permitted capacity or a goods carriage carrying excess quantity of goods than the permitted extent or a case where a transport vehicle was plying through a deviated route than the one shown in the route permit which instances could rather be branded as -technical violations-. In other words, when a transport vehicle is not having a Fitness Certificate, it will be deemed as having no Certificate of Registration and when such vehicle is not having Permit or Fitness Certificate, nobody can drive such vehicle and no owner can permit the use of any such vehicle compromising with the lives, limbs, properties of the passengers/general public. Obviously, since the safety of passengers and general public was of serious concern and consideration for the law makers, appropriate and adequate measures were taken by incorporating relevant provisions in the Statute, also pointing out the circumstances which would constitute offence; providing adequate penalty. This being the position, such lapse, if any, can only be regarded as a fundamental breach and not a technical breach and any interpretation to the contrary, will only negate the intention of the law makers.

20. The facts of the present case have to be examined in the light of the above-settled proposition of law. The conclusion recorded by the Tribunal clearly shows that the accident occurred on 8.3.2011 and the respondent no. 2 failed to establish that on the date of accident the offending vehicle had a valid fitness certificate. It is not the case of the insured that the offending vehicle was covered by any of the exceptions mentioned in sub-section (3) of Section 66 of the Act. In the circumstances, in view of the settled legal position that absence of a fitness certificate amounts to the absence of a valid permit, the offending vehicle, in the present case, would be deemed to be without registration and without a valid permit, and as such, the liability cannot be imposed upon the insurer. The impugned award directing the appellant to pay the compensation is set aside."

18. The High Court of Madhya Pradesh in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs Vinod and others 2019 SCC OnLine MP 6107, where the owner of the offending vehicle lacked valid and effective fitness certificate on the date of the accident, held as under:-

"10. Thus, it is clear that for use of a vehicle, Insurance Policy is required under section 147 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, and for use of a vehicle, its registration is compulsory and for registration, the fitness certificate of the transport vehicle is necessary under section 56 of Motor Vehicles Act. Use of vehicle without registration is also punishable under section 192 of Motor Vehicles Act. Thus, in the considered opinion of this Court, the requirement of fitness certificate for the liability of the Insurance Company is not dependent upon the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, but it is the requirement of law for using the vehicle in accordance with law and none of the term or condition of the Insurance Policy allows the owner of the vehicle to ply the vehicle in contravention of any provision of law. Thus, this Court is of the considered opinion that due to non-availability of the fitness certificate, it can be safely said that the vehicle was being used contrary to the provisions of law, and since, the insurance policy is required under section 147 of the Motor Vehicles Act, therefore, it cannot be said that Insurance Policy is a private contract of insurance between the driver and the Insurance Company, but in fact it is the statutory requirement.

11. Further, for holding a valid permit, the fitness certificate is must. Section 84(a) of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 reads as under:

84. General conditions attaching to all permits.- The following shall be conditions of every permit-

(a) that the vehicle to which the permit relates carries valid certificate of fitness issued under section 56 and is at all times so maintained as to comply with the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder;

12. The Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Limited v. Challa Upendra Rao, reported in (2004) 8 SCC 517 has held as under:

12. The High Court was of the view that since there was no permit, the question of violation of any condition thereof does not arise. The view is clearly fallacious. A person without permit to ply a vehicle cannot be placed on a better pedestal vis-a-vis one who has a permit, but has violated any condition thereof. Plying of a vehicle without a permit is an infraction. Therefore, in terms of section 149(2) defence is available to the insurer on that aspect. The acceptability of the stand is a matter of adjudication. The question of policy being operative had no relevance for the issue regarding liability of the insurer. The High Court was, therefore, not justified in holding the insurer liable.

13. The Supreme Court in the case of Amrit Paul Singh v. TATA AIG General Insurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2019 (2) M.P.L.J. (S.C.) 8 : (2018) 7 SCC 558 has held that in case, if the transport vehicle was being plied without permit, then the Insurance Company would not be liable.

14. Section 146 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 provides that no person shall use, except as a passenger, or cause or allow any other person to use, a motor vehicle in a public place, unless there is in force in relation to the use of the vehicle by that person or that other person, as the case may be, a policy of insurance complying with the requirements of this Chapter. Thus, for use of a vehicle, an insurance policy is necessary and for use of a transport vehicle, not only it is required to be registered, but it should have fitness certificate apart from permit. Thus, fitness certificate cannot be read in isolation from other provisions of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

19. Again, the High Court of Madhya Pradesh in the case of Ramdeen and another vs Vikas and another Misc. Appeal No. 4336 of 2018 decided on 24.02.2025, wherein the owner of the offending vehicle lacked fitness certificate on the date of accident and there was no condition prescribed in the insurance policy which mandated obtaining a fitness certificate, held as under:-

"9. The conjoint reading of Sections 39 & 56 of the Motor Vehicles Act makes it clear that a vehicle without fitness certificate would be treated to be a vehicle without valid registration.

10. This Court in the case of Smt. Kvita Balethiya and others Vs. Santosh Kumar and another passed in MA No.691/2016 on 26.06.2019 has considered the interpretation of various provisions of Motor Vehicles Act including provisions of Sections 39 & 56 Motor Vehicles Act and in para-18 as held as under;

18. Thus, it is clear that for use of a vehicle, Insurance Policy is required under Section 147 of Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, and for use of a vehicle, its registration is compulsory and for registration, the fitness certificate of the transport vehicle is necessary under Section 56 of Motor Vehicles Act. Use of vehicle without registration is also punishable under Section 192 of Motor Vehicles Act. Thus, in the considered opinion of this Court, the requirement of fitness certificate for the liability of the Insurance Company is not dependent upon the terms and conditions of the Insurance Policy, but it is the requirement of law for using the vehicle in accordance with law and none of the term or condition of the Insurance Policy allows the owner of the vehicle to ply the vehicle in contravention of any provision of law. Thus, this Court is of the considered opinion that due to non-availability of the fitness certificate, it can be safely said that the vehicle was being used contrary to the provisions of law, and since, the insurance policy is required under Section 147 of the Motor Vehicles Act, therefore, it cannot be said that Insurance Policy is a private contract of insurance between the driver and the Insurance Company, but in fact it is the statutory requirement.

11. Thus, as per the law laid down by this Court in the case of Smt. Kvita Balethiya (supra), the requirement of having fitness certificate is the requirement of law for using the vehicle in accordance with the provisions of Motor Vehicles Act and merely because the policy of insurance does not specifically provides for having the fitness certificate would be inconsequential. In other words, the absence of specific condition for possessing fitness certificate in the Insurance Policy would not allow the owner of the vehicle to ply the vehicle in contravention of the provisions of the Act. Thus, plying the vehicle without fitness certificate amounts to violation of provisions of law."

"16. On the second point regarding liability of the Insurance Company, we find that the fact that the vehicle did not have a fitness certificate on the date of the accident is admitted. If we are to look at the consequence of the absence of the fitness certificate, Section 56 provides the consequence and it reads as follows:-

56. Certificate of fitness of transport vehicles.- (1) Subject to the provisions of sections 59 and 60, a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purposes of section 39, unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed authority, or by an authorized testing station mentioned in subsection (2), to the effect that the vehicle complies for the time being with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder:

Provided that where the prescribed authority or the authorized testing station refuses to issue such certificate, it shall supply the owner of the vehicle with its reasons in writing for such refusal.[Provided further that no certificate of fitness shall be granted to a vehicle, after such date as may be notified by the Central Government, unless such vehicle has been tested at an automated testing station.]

(2) The -authorised testing station-; referred to in subsection (1) means any facility, including automated testing facilities, authorised by the State Government, where fitness testing may be conducted in accordance with the rules made by the Central Government for recognition, regulation and control of such stations.

(3)Subject to the provisions of subsection (4), a certificate of fitness shall remain effective for such period as may be prescribed by the Central Government having regard to the objects of this Act.

(4)The prescribed authority may for reasons to be recorded in writing cancel a certificate of fitness at any time, if satisfied that the vehicle to which it relates no longer complies with all the requirements of this Act and the rules made thereunder; and on such cancellation the certificate of registration of the vehicle and any permit granted in respect of the vehicle under Chapter V shall be deemed to be suspended until a new certificate of fitness has been obtained:[Provided that no such cancellation shall be made by the prescribed authority unless,

(a)such prescribed authority holds such technical qualification as may be prescribed by the Central Government and where the prescribed authority does not hold the technical qualification, such cancellation is made on the basis of the report of an officer having such qualification; and

(b)the reasons recorded in writing cancelling a certificate of fitness are confirmed by an authorised testing station chosen by the owner of the vehicle whose certificate of fitness is sought to be cancelled:Provided further that if the cancellation is confirmed by the authorised testing station, the cost of undertaking the test shall be borne by the owner of the vehicle being tested and in the alternative by the prescribed authority.]

(5)A certificate of fitness issued under this Act shall, while it remains effective, be valid throughout India.

(6) All transport vehicles with a valid certificate of fitness issued under this section shall carry, on their bodies, in a clear and visible manner such distinguishing mark as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(7)Subject to such conditions as the Central Government may prescribe, the provisions of this section may be extended to non-transport vehicles.

17. Section 39 of the Motor Vehicles Act, which provides for registration of the motor vehicles reads as follows:-

39. Necessity for registration.-No person shall drive any motor vehicle and no owner of a motor vehicle shall cause or permit the vehicle to be driven in any public place or in any other place unless the vehicle is registered in accordance with this Chapter and the certificate of registration of the vehicle has not been suspended or cancelled and the vehicle carries a registration mark displayed in the prescribed manner:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a motor vehicle in possession of a dealer subject to such conditions as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

18. Section 56 provides that a transport vehicle shall not be deemed to be validly registered for the purpose of Section 39 unless it carries a certificate of fitness in such form containing such particulars and information as may be prescribed by the Central Government, issued by the prescribed Authority, or by an authorized testing station. The consequence of absence of fitness certificate is very serious, which goes to the extent of nullifying the registration of the vehicle, since the vehicle without fitness certificate is deemed to have been not registered at all.

19. If we are to look at Section 39 which speaks about the necessity of registration, we find that there is a clear bar on persons using vehicles without registration on public roads. Therefore, as pointed out by the Hon-ble Supreme Court in Amrit Paul Singh and othes Vs. Tata

AIG General Insurance Co. Ltd. And others referred to supra, violation is a fundamental statutory refraction.

20. The Hon-ble Supreme Court after referring to the provisions of Section 66 which deal with the permit which after referring to the judgment in National Insurance Co. Ltd., Vs. Swaran Singh and others reported in (2004) 3 SCC 297, concluded that if it is a fundamental statutory infraction then the Insurance Company is absolved of its liability and therefore there cannot be even a direction to the Insurance Company to pay the compensation with liberty to recover it. After discussing other judgments on the issue the Hon-ble Supreme Court observed as follows:-

24. In the case at hand, it is clearly demonstrable from the materials brought on record that the vehicle at the time of the accident did not have a permit. The appellants had taken the stand that the vehicle was not involved in the accident. That apart, they had not stated whether the vehicle had temporary permit or any other kind of permit. The exceptions that have been carved out under Section 66 of the Act, needless to emphasise, are to be pleaded and proved. The exceptions cannot be taken aid of in the course of an argument to seek absolution from liability. Use of a vehicle in a public place without a permit is a fundamental statutory infraction. We are disposed to think so in view of the series of exceptions carved out in Section 66. The said situations cannot be equated with absence of licence or a fake licence or a licence for different kind of vehicle, or, for that matter, violation of a condition of carrying more number of passengers. Therefore, the principles laid down in Swaran Singh [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Swaran Singh, (2004) 3 SCC 297 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 733] and Lakhmi Chand [Lakhmi Chand v. Reliance General Insurance, (2016) 3 SCC 100 : (2016) 2 SCC (Civ) 45] in that regard would not be applicable to the case at hand. That apart, the insurer had taken the plea that the vehicle in question had no permit. It does not require the wisdom of the -Tripitaka-, that the existence of a permit of any nature is a matter of documentary evidence. Nothing has been brought on record by the insured to prove that he had a permit of the vehicle. In such a situation, the onus cannot be cast on the insurer. Therefore, the Tribunal as well as the High Court had directed that the insurer was required to pay the compensation amount to the claimants with interest with the stipulation that the insurer shall be entitled to recover the same from the owner and the driver. The said directions are in consonance with the principles stated in Swaran Singh [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Swaran Singh, (2004) 3 SCC 297 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 733] and other cases pertaining to pay and recover principle."

Conclusion of this Court

21. It is apparent that the judgment of this Court in Roop Rani (supra), which runs contrary to the earlier judgment of this Court in Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra), was delivered without making any reference to the binding precedent in Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra). If the Court was doubting the correctness of the view taken by this Court in Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra) then the matter ought to have been referred to a larger Bench for reconsideration, but this course was not adopted. In view of this, the judgment rendered in Roop Rani (supra) is per incuriam, which is confined to the peculiar facts of that case.

22. It is further apparent that the above contrary or divergent views expressed by other High Courts cannot be relied upon since this Court is bound by the law laid down by this Court in the case of Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra). Further, this Court is in agreement with the view taken in Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra).

23. It is pertinent to mention here that no binding precedents of the Apex Court is available on the controversy involved in this case.The Apex Court in the case of Challa Upendra Rao (supra) and Amrit Paul Singh (supra) was only considering the situation where the offending vehicle was not having a valid permit on the date of accident, which is entirely different to the controversy at hand, which only relates to lack of valid fitness certificate on the date of accident as such, the ratio of that cases has got no applicability on the facts of this case.

24. From the above analysis, it is evident that even if, it is presumed that the offending vehicle was not having a valid fitness certificate, even then, it does not entitle the insurance company to avoid its statutory liability under Section 149(2) of the Act as held by the Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Smt. Uma Tripathi (supra), wherein this Court was specifically dealing with this issue whether, in the absence of a valid fitness certificate, the insurer of the offending vehicle could avoid its statutory liability. This court after examining the relevant provisions came to the conclusion that since the offending vehicle was having a valid permit which was not cancelled for the lapse of fitness, as such, it cannot be held that the offending vehicle was being plied in contravention of the terms and conditions of the policy.

25. It is further apparent from the judgment of the Apex Court in Rekha Jain (supra) that the insurer cannot enlarge his defence by taking additional grounds than those specified in Section 149(2) of the Act, insofar as the breach of the conditions of the policy are concerned. It is for this very reason, breaches such as overloading of vehicle with respect to the goods/passengers carried, deviation of route, driving of vehicle in violation of traffic rules and regulations, are not a ground on which the insurer can avoid its statutory liability. Further, the legislature was fully conscious that fitness certificate is required for plying the vehicle in a public place but still, it is not a ground of defence available to insurer under Section 149(2) of the Act. The legislature purposely restricted the ground of defence to breach of the conditions of permit and lack of effective driving license. The legislature even specified what would amount to breach of the conditions of permit.

26. It is not a case of the insurance company that the offending vehicle was not having a permit to carry passengers for hire or reward. It is also not the case of insurance company that the offending vehicle was a private vehicle, which was carrying passengers for hire or reward. It is proved from record that the vehicle was insured as a commercial passenger carrying vehicle, under a package policy from 18.06.2012 to 17.06.2013, whereas, the accident occurred on 05.12.2012.

27. Further, the insurance policy discloses that requirement of permit was mandatory, but it nowhere mentions that fitness certificate is also mandatory, for plying the vehicle. It is also not a case where the offending vehicle was very old. In this case, the vehicle was only about two years old, having manufactured and registered in the year 2010, whose initial fitness was valid for two years, from the date of registration.

28. Judicial notice can be taken of cases where even after having a valid fitness certificate, the accident occurs because of mechanical failure of the offending vehicle such as failure of brakes, steering, bursting of tyres, failure of propulsion system, loss of engine power while driving uphill, etc.

29. Now the question arises if the fitness certificate was valid, then why there was mechanical failure in the vehicle- It shows that grant of fitness certificate is a mere formality, which can never guarantee that mechanical failure will not occur. The legislature was conscious of all these situations, hence, lack of valid fitness certificate was not a ground, which permitted the insurer to avoid its statutory liability under Section 149(2) of the Act.

30. In view of the above legal position even if the offending vehicle was not having a valid fitness certificate even then, the insurance company cannot avoid its statutory liability under Section 149(2) of the Act.

31. In view of the above analysis, the appeal preferred by the insurance company is liable to be dismissed.

32. According, the appeal preferred by the appellant-insurance company is dismissed.

33. Office is directed to remit back the statutory deposit made by the insurance company at the time of filing of the appeal, to the concerned tribunal, forthwith.

34. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Order on Cross Objection No.156 of 2022

1. As per the office report, there is a delay of 2625 days in filing the instant cross-objection; however, since the cross-appeal filed by the Insurance Company is being disposed of, the delay in filing the cross-objection is condoned.

2. The claimants claimed that the deceased was working as a supervisor in Ashish Contract Pvt. Ltd., Sonipat, Haryana and was getting a salary of Rs.16,600/- per month, which was proved by Brijesh PW-3, but still the Tribunal has disbelieved the evidence of PW-3 on the ground that he was not the employer of the deceased and was only working with him. The Tribunal has assessed the compensation by taking the notional income of the deceased at the rate of Rs.3,000/- per month, which is grossly inadequate.

3. The Apex Court in the case of Gurpreet Kaur and Others vs. United India Insurance Company Ltd. and Others 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1778, held as under:-

"8. Though, there is no evidence on record regarding the income of deceased Pyara Singh, however, from the testimony of P.W.4 - Amar Kumar, Assistant Manager, Kotak Mahindra Bank Limited, it is clear that the deceased - Pyara Singh was regularly making the payment of Rs. 11,550/- as instalment to discharge his loan liability towards the tractor. At this rate, the entire loan was paid back within a year or so. That clearly establishes the earning capacity of the deceased. It is also the case of the appellants-claimants that the deceased was working as a contractor and was earning Rs. 50,000/- per month. The Tribunal adopted a balanced approach and keeping in view factors like : (i) the payment of monthly instalment of Rs. 11,550/- towards loan of the tractor; (ii) Maintaining a family comprising of wife, two minor children and parents; (iii) Affording tractor and motorcycle; (iv) that the deceased was working as a contractor; assessed his income at Rs. 25,000/- per month.

9. In our considered view, the Tribunal's approach is quite justified in law as well as on facts. In the summary proceedings where the approach of the Tribunal's determination must be in conformity with the object of the welfare legislation, it was rightly held that the monthly income of the deceased could not be less than Rs. 25,000/-. The reason assigned by the High Court to reduce the monthly income of the deceased is totally cryptic and has no rationale. The Notification of Minimum Wages Act can be a guiding factor only in a case where there is no clue available to evaluate monthly income of the deceased. Where positive evidence has been led, no reliance on the Notification could be placed, particularly when it was nobody's case that the deceased was a labourer as presumed by the High Court. "

(emphasis supplied)

4. The Apex Court in the case of Jitendra vs. Sadiya & Others 2025 SCC OnLine SC 261, held as under:-

"10. We have heard the learned counsel for the Appellant. We are unable to agree with the view taken by the Tribunal and High Court on the income of the Appellant and the functional disability suffered by him. At the outset, we must refer to the exposition of this Court in Gurpreet Kaur v. United India Insurance Company Ltd. 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1778., wherein it was stated the notifications under the Minimum Wages Act can be a guiding factor in cases where there is no evidence available to evaluate monthly income."

5. It is evident that since the employer of the deceased or his representative were not examined by the claimants in order to prove the salary of the deceased before the Tribunal, as such, the Tribunal has rightly disbelieved the evidence of PW-3 insofar as the quantum of salary of the deceased was concerned, but still the Tribunal was supposed to assess the compensation on the basis of minimum wages paid to an unskilled labour at the time of the accident in the State of Haryana, which was higher than that prevailing in the State of Uttar Pradesh. In the State of Uttar Pradesh, it was Rs.4,677/-per month.

6. In view of the above, the claimants are entitled to receive compensation on the basis that the deceased was an unskilled labourer having a monthly income of Rs.5,000/-.

7. Rule 220-A of the UP Motor Vehicle Rules,1998 w.e.f. 26.09.2011, mandates that when the deceased was aged below 40 years on the date of accident, the claimants are also entitled to compensation on future prospects @50% of his income.

8. The Constitution Bench of the Apex Court in the case of National Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Pranay Sethi & Ors.(2017) 16 SCC 680 has awarded loss of consortium of Rs.40,000/- and Rs.15,000/- each towards loss of estate and funeral expenses, which is to be enhanced at the rate of 10% after every three years.

9. The Apex Court in the case of Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Nanu Ram @ Chuhru Ram & others, (2018) 18 SCC 130, has awarded Rs.40,000/- each towards spousal consortium, parental consortium and filial consortium.

10. Further, the Apex Court in the case of Rahul Ganpatrao Sable vs Laxman Maruti Jadhav (Dead) through LRS and Others (2023) 13 SCC 334, held as under:-

"32. In the present case, MACT had granted a meagre amount of Rs 5000 towards loss of consortium. However, the High Court granted a total amount of Rs 70,000 as consolidated amount under all conventional heads, which included loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses. In Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205] , the Constitution Bench of this Court had provided that all dependents should be separately awarded towards loss of consortium and had actually awarded Rs 40,000 to each of the dependents. Considering the same, an amount of Rs 40,000 each is awarded to each of the four dependents towards loss of consortium."

(emphasis supplied)

11. As per Rule 220-A of the U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998, the claimants are entitled to get compensation on the future prospects of the deceased at the rate of 50% of his income, since the deceased was aged about 40 years at the time of the accident.

12. Further, a multiplier of 15 was to be applied for assessing compensation in this case, but the Tribunal has applied a multiplier of 16, which requires reduction, keeping in view the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra).

13. It is further apparent that the Tribunal has awarded inadequate amount of compensation under non-pecuniary heads, which requires substantial enhancement, keeping in view, the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. (supra) and Rahul Ganpatrao Sable (supra).

14. Further, as per Rule 220-A of the U.P. Motor Vehicle Rules, 1998, the claimants were entitled to get interest at the rate of 7% per annum on the compensation awarded; however, the Tribunal has awarded it at the rate of 6% per annum, which requires enhancement.

15. In view of the above statutory law and precedents of the Apex Court, the compensation payable to the claimants is redetermined as under:-

S.No.	Compensation Heads	Amount Awarded (in Rs.)	In Accordance with.

1.	Monthly income of deceased as per minimum wages of unskilled workman	5,000/-	Gurpreet Kaur (supra) & Jitendr*a (supra)*
2.	Annual Income of deceased	5,000X12=60,000/-	Gurpreet Kaur (supra) & Jitendra (supra)
3.	Less 1/3rd deduction towards self expenses of the deceased (3 dependents)	20,000/-	Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
4.	Net annual income on which claimants were dependent	40,000/-	Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
5.	Add future prospects @50% since deceased was aged about 40 years	20,000/-	Rule 220-A of UP Motor Vehicle Rules,1998
6.	Total annual dependency of claimants on deceased	60,000/-	Rule 220-A of UP Motor Vehicle Rules,1998
7.	Multiplier applied since age of deceased was about 40 years at the time of the accident		Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
8.	Total loss of dependency to the claimants	60,000X15=9,00,000/-	Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
9.	Loss of consortium @Rs.40,000/-each, increased by 10% after every 3 years (3 claimants)	48,400X3=1,45,200/-	Pranay Sethi(supra) and Magma General Insurance Co. Ltd. (supra)
10.	Loss of estate @ Rs.15,000/- increased by 10% after every 3 years.	18,150/-	Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
11.	Funeral Expenses@ Rs.15,000/- increased by 10% after every 3 years.	18,150/-	Pranay Sethi*(supra)*
12.	Total compensation	10,81,500/-

16. In this way, the claimants are entitled to total compensation of Rs.10,81,500/- alongwith interest @ 7% per annum from the date of filing of the claim petition till it's actual payment, which is to be indemnified by the insurer of the offending Xylo car No.UP-35-H-0005.

17. Accordingly, the cross-objection preferred by the claimants for enhancement of compensation is allowed. The impugned judgment and award of the tribunal dated 29.11.2014 is modified to the above extent.

18. If any amount has been paid by the insurance company previously, then the insurance company is entitled to adjust it accordingly. The insurance company is directed to deposit the enhanced amount of compensation before the concerned tribunal within two months. The tribunal will be at liberty to proportionally award the enhanced amount of compensation to the claimants, keeping in view their age and dependency.

THE HON'BLE SANDEEP JAIN, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 1370 of 2024

Subhaschandra Gupta ...Appellant
Versus
Ajay Kumar Sharma & Ors. ...Respondents

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the first appellate court was justified in permitting substituted service under Order V Rule 20 CPC without sufficient material showing that the defendants were avoiding service;
(ii) Whether the ex-parte judgment passed in the appeal without proper service of summons and without affording an opportunity of hearing was sustainable;
(iii) Whether the rejection of the application under Order 41 Rule 21 CPC for recalling the ex parte judgment was legally justified.

Headnotes

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Order V Rule 20 — Substituted service — Preconditions:

Held: Substituted service under Order V Rule 20 CPC is an exception to the normal mode of service and can be resorted to only when the Court, on the basis of material on record, records satisfaction that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service or that summons cannot be served in the ordinary manner; such satisfaction must be based on earlier attempts made for service and cannot be presumed in absence of material. [Paras 26–27]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Order V Rules 17, 20, 21 — Service of summons — Mandatory compliance:

Held: Before resorting to substituted service, the Court must ensure compliance of mandatory provisions relating to service, including attempts through registered post acknowledgment due, service through process server and, where the defendant resides outside jurisdiction, service through the competent Court under Order V Rule 21 CPC; absence of any documentary evidence regarding such attempts vitiates the order permitting substituted service. [Paras 28–32, 35–36]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Substituted service — Absence of material — Illegality:

Held: Where no documentary evidence was available on record regarding issuance, service or refusal of registered notices or summons, no report of process server existed and no compliance of Order V Rule 17 CPC was shown, the appellate court could not have permitted substituted service through publication in newspaper. [Paras 31, 35–36]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Ex-parte proceedings — Opportunity of hearing — Validity:

Held: Where substituted service was not validly effected and there was no proof of service of notice either on the defendant or on his counsel, proceeding to hear the appeal ex-parte without affording opportunity of hearing was unsustainable. [Paras 37–39]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Order 41 Rule 21 — Recall of ex-parte decree — Sufficient cause:

Held: Where service of summons was not duly effected and the defendant had no knowledge of the proceedings, there existed sufficient cause for non-appearance, and the application for recall of ex-parte judgment ought to have been allowed. [Para 41]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Findings — Presumption without evidence — Validity:

Held: Findings of the appellate court presuming service of summons and knowledge of proceedings on the basis of conduct of the defendant, without any supporting documentary evidence, are perverse and legally unsustainable. [Paras 40–41]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Appeal — Interference — Setting aside ex-parte decree:

Held: Where substituted service was illegally permitted, mandatory provisions of service were not complied with and the defendant was denied opportunity of hearing, the impugned order rejecting recall application and the ex-parte judgment and decree were liable to be set aside and the appeal restored for decision on merits. [Paras 41–42]

Appeal allowed. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Order dated 23.05.2024 passed by Additional District Judge, Court No. 6, Ghaziabad in Miscellaneous Case No. 71 of 2019 (Subash Chand Gupta vs. Ajay Kumar Sharma and others), rejecting application under Order 41 Rule 21 CPC for recalling ex-parte judgment dated 17.07.2019 passed in Civil Appeal No. 146 of 2011.

Appearance for Parties
For the Appellants: Sri Pramod Kumar Jain, Senior Advocate, Syed Fahim Ahmed
For the Respondents: Sri Devid Kumar Singh, Sri Prateek Rai

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant appeal under Order 43 Rule 1(t) read with Section 104 CPC has been preferred by the defendant against the impugned order dated 23.5.2024 passed by Indu Dwivedi, Additional District Judge, Court No.6, Ghaziabad in Miscellaneous Case No. 71 of 2019 Subash Chand Gupta vs. Ajay Kumar Sharma and others whereby, the defendants application no.4-C under Order 41 Rule 21 CPC for recalling the ex-parte judgment in Civil Appeal no.146 of 2011, and to rehear the appeal on merits, has been rejected.

2. Appeal is admitted.

3. Factual matrix is that the plaintiff -respondents no. 1 to 3 filed O.S. no. 544 of 1997 against the defendant-appellant and co-defendant /respondent Phool Singh(died during pendency of suit) for the relief of permanent injunction and possession, which was dismissed on merits by Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division) Court No.2 Ghaziabad on 18.8.2011, which was challenged by the plaintiffs by filing Civil Appeal no. 146 of 2011 Ajay Kumar Sharma and others vs. Gangaram and others in the Court of District Judge, Ghaziabad, which was subsequently after admission, transferred to the Additional District Judge, Court no.6, Ghaziabad.

Relevant chronology of C.A. no.146 of 2011

4. Civil Appeal no.146 of 2011 was admitted for hearing on 16.9.2011 and thereafter, notices were issued on the respondents fixing 15.11.2011 for disposal of stay application and the appellants were directed to take steps within 7 days. On 28.11.2011 the appellants moved an application 17-C2 for effecting service of summons through registered post, alongwith application 19-C2 for effecting service through publication in newspaper, and the court fixed 30.11.2011 for disposal of the above applications. On 30.11.2011, the plaintiff-appellants submitted before the court that during the pendency of the suit the disputed property has been sold to the defendant-respondent no.4 Subash Chand Gupta, as such none is taking interest on behalf of respondents no.1 to 3 and respondent no. 4 was deliberately not appearing before the court whereas, he was aware of the appeal. It was further submitted that the respondent was in a hurry to sell the disputed property, because no injunction has been granted. On this ground, it was prayed by the appellants that they be permitted to effect service on respondents through publication, which was supported by an affidavit of appellant Ajay Kumar Sharma(paper no. 20-C).

5. The appellate court recorded a finding that previously also notices were sent on the respondents but service could not be effected on them, hence, in the interest of justice, the court on 30.11.2011 permitted the appellants to effect service through publication on their expenses, and to take steps within 4 days. The appellants application 19-C2 was accordingly disposed and the appellate court fixed 21.12.2011 for hearing.

6. The appellate court on 16.2.2012 recorded that the service on respondents was sufficient by publication in newspaper 21-C2, but none of them was present as such, the court proceeded ex-parte against the defendant/respondents and fixed 29.2.2012 for hearing ex-parte arguments of the plaintiff-appellants.

7. The appellate court on 19.4.2012 recorded that the acknowledgement due(AD) of the registered notices, which were sent to the respondents was not available on the record. Besides that, there was no proof that notice was sufficient on the learned counsel of the respondents,who was appearing in the lower court. The court also noted that the plaintiff 's suit was dismissed on merits, which has been challenged in the appeal. In view of the above facts, the court concluded that it was expedient that notices of hearing of appeal be sent to the learned counsel of the defendant/ respondents appearing in the trial court, in order to hear the appeal on merits and for this, the appellants were directed to take steps within a week.

8. The appellate Court on 23.7.2012 recorded that notices have been again sent to the respondents, but they are not present. The court fixed 13.8.2012 for ex-parte hearing of the appeal. Ultimately,the appellate court heard the arguments of the appellants on 6.7.2019 and fixed 17.7.2019 for pronouncement of judgment. On 17.7.2019, the Civil Appeal was allowed ex-parte and consequently, the decree passed in O.S. no. 544 of 1997 was set aside and the plaintiff 's suit was decreed. The defendant/respondents were directed to handover the possession of the disputed property within 3 months to the appellants, failing which, the appellants were held entitled to get it in accordance with law, through court.

Proceedings of Miscellaneous Case no. 71 of 2019

9. This case was instituted by the defendant-appellant Subash Chand Gupta under Order 41 Rule 21 read with Section 151 CPC for recalling ex-parte judgment dated 17.7.2019 in C.A. 146 of 2011 on 14.8.2019, with the averments that on 2.8.2019 he received an envelope at his residence, but at that time, he was in Dehradun for some necessary work, as such, he was not able to see the envelope but after returning on 8.8.2019, when he opened the envelope, then he came to know that the plaintiff/ appellants had filed a caveat under Section 148-A CPC in the High Court, Allahabad. It was further averred that by going through the contents of the envelope he became aware that in C.A. 146 of 2011 some order has been passed regarding which, the plaintiff has filed a caveat in the High Court. It was further submitted that on 9.8.2019 he contacted his Advocate Braham Prakash Nirbhya and showed him the envelope, then his Advocate inspected the record of the appeal on 13.8.2019 and then he became aware that the above appeal has been ex-parte decided. He further averred that from the inspection of the above file, he became aware that no registered notices or summons were ever served on him and service was deemed sufficient on him through publication in a newspaper, which was not read by him, as such, he never became aware about the appeal. It was further submitted that there was also no notice of the appeal on the learned counsel, who was appearing for him in the trial court. It was further submitted that due to the ex-parte hearing of the appeal, he has suffered severe loss and as such, the order dated 17.7.2019 passed in the appeal be recalled and the appeal be heard and decided on merits, after hearing him. An affidavit of defendant Subash Chand Gupta, was submitted with the above application.

10. The above application of the appellant was opposed by the plaintiffs, on the ground that even in the O.S. 544 of 1997 after filing his written statement, the defendant/ appellant Subash Chand Gupta remained absent in order to delay the disposal of the suit, which was also mentioned in the judgment of the trial court. It was submitted by the plaintiffs, that the defendant/appellant deliberately failed to appear in the appeal whereas, he was fully aware of the appeal. It was admitted that service was effected on the defendant's through publication in the local newspaper, which was paper no. 21-C on the record of the appeal. It was further submitted that since the defendant was fully aware about the appeal as such, the application was not legally maintainable, which was liable to be dismissed. An affidavit of plaintiff Ajay Kumar Sharma was filed in support of the objection.

11. The appellate court by impugned order dated 23.5.2024 has rejected the defendant/appellants application no.4-C under Order 41 Rule 21 CPC on the ground that it is not the case of the defendant that summons and notices were sent on his wrong address because the address mentioned by the defendant in his application was the same, as was mentioned in the plaint and memo of the appeal. It was further concluded by the court that it can be presumed that notices and summons sent to the defendant were duly served on him. Besides that, publication in the newspaper was also effected. The court was of the opinion that since the defendant has not filed the copy of the caveat,his assertion of knowledge through caveat was not reliable. Ultimately, the court on the basis of conduct of the defendant presumed, that he was having notice of the appeal through summon and publication, but he deliberately failed to appear before the appellate court, but immediately after the passing of the ex-parte decree, has appeared before the court within a month, which shows that he was having full knowledge of the appeal, but he deliberately failed to appear. Aggrieved against the rejection of the above application, the defendant has filed this instant appeal under Order 43 Rule 1(t) CPC.

Submissions of learned counsel of the parties

12. Shri Pramod Jain learned senior counsel for the defendant/appellant submitted that there is no documentary proof on record to presume that registered notices were ever sent to the defendant/ appellant ,which were refused to be accepted by him;that summons sent through process server were ever refused to be accepted by the appellant; the appellant was avoiding service of summon sent through process server or registered post, as such, without the above evidence, the appellate court could not have ordered the service to be effected on the appellant through publication in local newspaper. Learned counsel submitted that substituted service through publication in a newspaper can only be effected if, the court is of the opinion that the defendant is deliberately avoiding service through normal mode. Learned counsel further submitted that ordinarily at least twice or thrice registered notices or summons through process server are sent on the defendant/respondent, and when it becomes evident that the defendant was trying to avoid the service,only then, it is ordered that the substituted service be effected through publication in the local newspaper.

13. Learned counsel further submitted that in this case the defendant/appellant was resident of Delhi, but the newspaper in which summons were published, was having no circulation in Delhi, which was not read by the appellant, as such, even after publication, the appellant remained unaware about the appeal and hence, could not appear before the court. Learned counsel submitted that the appellate court even tried to effect service on the counsel of the appellant, who appeared in the trial court, but there is no evidence that notice was duly served on the counsel. Learned counsel submitted that since there was no service of notice or summon on either the appellant or his counsel in the trial court, as such, no one could appear before the appellate court during the hearing of the appeal, but still, the appellate court has presumed from the conduct of the appellant that he was fully aware of the proceedings of the appeal and he deliberately did not appear before the appellate court, which is a perverse finding. It was further submitted that without following the mandatory provisions of Order V CPC, service has been presumed sufficient on the defendant's, which is illegal. Learned counsel in support of his contention has relied upon the case law of :-

(2)K. Raja vs.V.Prabhakar, Neutral Citation 2024 KHC 49086 (Karnataka).

(3)Teharoon Chand vs. Surajmull Nagarmull AIR 1984 Cal 82(DB).

(4)Mrs.Payal Ashok Kumar Jindal vs. Capt. Ashok Kumar Jindal (1992)3 SCC 116.

(5)Smt.Yallawwa vs.Smt.Shantavva (1997)11 SCC 159.

14. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiff-respondents submitted that the defendant/appellant was well aware of the proceedings of the appeal, who deliberately did not appear before the appellate court in order to delay the disposal of the appeal, as such, the appellate court has rightly rejected his recall application. Learned counsel further submitted that notices and summons were duly sent to the appellant, and substituted service was also effected on him through publication in local newspaper, which was in accordance with the relevant provisions of Order V CPC, as such, no illegality was committed by the appellate court in hearing and deciding the appeal ex-parte. It was further submitted that the appellate court has rightly noted the conduct of the appellant, who deliberately avoided appearing before the appellate court during the pendency of the appeal. It was further submitted that notice was also served on the learned counsel of the defendant, who was appearing in the original suit before the trial court, but even the counsel deliberately failed to appear before the appellate court.With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal is meritless and it be dismissed.

15. I have heard the learned counsel of both the sides and perused the impugned order, as well as, the record of the lower court.

16. On the basis of the submissions of the learned counsel of the parties and the perusal of the record, the following questions arise for determination in this appeal:-

(i) Whether the first appellate court was justified in allowing the plaintiff-appellants application for effecting substituted service on the defendant-respondents?

(ii) Whether there was sufficient material on record to arrive at a conclusion that the defendants-respondents were avoiding service and they were deliberately not appearing in the appeal?

(iii) Whether the first appellate court was justified in hearing the appeal ex-parte without affording the defendants-respondents due opportunity of hearing?

Relevant Statutory Provisions

17. For appreciating the controversy in issue, it will be appropriate that the relevant provisions of Order V CPC are considered. The relevant provisions as mentioned in Order V Rule 9,12,15,17,19,20,21 CPC read as under:-

9. Delivery of summons by Court."(1) Where the defendant resides within the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or has an agent resident within that jurisdiction who is empowered to accept the service of the summons, the summons shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, be delivered or sent either to the proper officer to be served by him or one of his subordinates or to such courier services as are approved by the Court.

(2) The proper officer may be an officer of a Court other than that in which the suit is instituted, and, where he is such an officer, the summons may be sent to him in such manner as the Court may direct.

(3) The services of summons may be made by delivering or transmitting a copy thereof by registered post acknowledgment due, addressed to the defendant or his agent empowered to accept the service or by speed post or by such courier services as are approved by the High Court or by the Court referred to in sub-rule (1) or by any other means of transmission of documents (including fax message or electronic mail service) provided by the rules made by the High Court:

Provided that the service of summons under this sub-rule shall be made at the expenses of the plaintiff.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (1), where a defendant resides outside the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is instituted, and the Court directs that the service of summons on that defendant may be made by such mode of service of summons as is referred to in sub-rule (3) (except by registered post acknowledgment due), the provisions of rule 21 shall not apply.

(5) When an acknowledgment or any other receipt purporting to be signed by the defendant or his agent is received by the Court or postal article containing the summons is received back by the Court with an endorsement purporting to have been made by a postal employee or by any person authorised by the courier service to the effect that the defendant or his agent had refused to take delivery of the postal article containing the summons or had refused to accept the summons by any other means specified in sub-rule (3) when tendered or transmitted to him, the Court issuing the summons shall declare that the summons had been duly served on the defendant:

Provided that where the summons was properly addressed, pre-paid and duly sent by registered post acknowledgment due, the declaration referred to in this sub-rule shall be made notwithstanding the fact that the acknowledgment having been lost or mislaid, or for any other reason, has not been received by the Court within thirty days from the date of issue of summons.

(6) The High Court or the District Judge, as the case may be, shall prepare a panel of courier agencies for the purposes of sub-rule (1).

12. Service to be on defendant in person when practicable, or on his agent. -Wherever it is practicable, service shall be made on the defendant in person, unless he has an agent empowered to accept service, in which case service on such agent shall be sufficient.

15. Where service may be on an adult member of defendant's family.- Where in any suit the defendant is absent from his residence at the time when the service of summons is sought to be effected on his at his residence and there is no likelihood of his being found at the residence within a reasonable time and he has no agent empowered to accept service of the summons on his behalf, service may be made on any adult member of the family, whether male or female, who is residing with him.

Explanation. "A servant is not a member of the family within the meaning of this rule.

17. Procedure when defendant refuses to accept service, or cannot be found.-Where the defendant or his agent or such other person as aforesaid refuses to sign the acknowledgment, or where the serving officer, after using all due and reasonable diligence, cannot find the defendant, who is absent from his residence at the time when service is sought to be effected on him at his residence and there is no likelihood of his being found at the residence within a reasonable time and there is no agent empowered to accept service of the summons on his behalf, nor any other person on whom service can be made, the serving officer shall affix a copy of the summons on the outer door or some other conspicuous part of the house in which the defendant ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works for gain, and shall then return the original to the Court from which it was issued, with a report endorsed thereon or annexed thereto stating that he has so affixed the copy, the circumstances under which he did so, and the name and address of the person (if any) by whom the house was identified and in whose presence the copy was affixed.

19. Examination of serving officer*.-Where a summons is returned under rule 17, the Court shall, if the return under that rule has not been verified by the affidavit of the serving officer, and may, if it has been so verified, examine the serving officer on oath, or cause him to be so examined by another Court, touching his proceedings, and may make such further enquiry in the* matter as it thinks fit; and shall either declare that the summons has been duly served or order such service as it thinks fit.

20. Substituted service.-(1) Where the Court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service, or that for any other reason the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way, the Court shall order the summons to be served by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the Court-house, and also upon some conspicuous part of the house (if any) in which the defendant is known to have last resided or carried on business or personally worked for gain, or in such other manner as the Court thinks fit.

(2) Effect of substituted service.-Service substituted by order of the Court shall be as effectual as if it had been made on the defendant personally.

(3) Where service substituted, time for appearance to be fixed.-Where service is substituted by order of the Court, the Court shall fix such time for the appearance of the defendant as the case may require.

21. Service of summons where defendant resides within jurisdiction of another Court.- A summons may be sent by the Court by which it is issued, whether within or without the State, either by one of its officers [or by post or by such courier service as may be approved by the High Court, by fax message or by Electronic Mail service or by any other means as may be provided by the rules made by the High Court] to any Court (not being the High Court) having jurisdiction in the place where the defendant resides.

Case law referred and considered

18. A Division Bench of this Court in Om Prakash (supra) after considering Order V Rule 20 CPC held as under:-

" that substituted service is permissible, provided the courts record the reasons after being fully satisfied that the service cannot be effected in an ordinary manner and it cannot be taken as a matter of right. Party cannot ask the court that it wants to serve the defendant/respondent by substituted service. The courts have deprecated the practice of filing such an application and categorically held that substituted service is not permissible unless the court records the reasons reaching the conclusion that it is not possible to serve the defendant/respondent in an ordinary manner."

19. A Division Bench of the Calcutta High Court in Teharoonchand (supra), while considering service of summons under Order V Rule 20 CPC held as under:-

"Before issuing summons under Order V, Rule 20 of the Code, the court is to be satisfied that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service, or that for any other reason summons cannot be served in the ordinary way. Before such satisfaction, the court has to consider the case carefully having regard to the nature of the earlier attempts made for the service of summons. Mere assertion of the plaintiff in this respect to attract the provisions of Order V, Rule 20 of the Code will not be enough. Only when the court is satisfied from the materials on record that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service, or that for any other reason summons cannot be served in the ordinary way, the court will be entitled to order service of summons under Order V, Rule 20 of the Code."

20. A Single Judge Bench of the High Court of Karnataka in the case of K. Raja (supra) has held that the provisions of Order V Rule 17 and Order V Rule 20 of the Code, are to be read conjointly. It was held that without following the mandatory procedure prescribed in Order V Rule 17, provisions of Order V Rule 20 of the Code cannot be invoked.

21. Similarly, a Single Judge Bench of the High Court of Madhya Pradesh in the case of Virendra Kumar Sondhi vs Sudesh Kumar Suri and others 2022 SCC OnLine MP 1304, held as under:-

"14. However, the substituted service cannot be ordered in a routine manner. Before resorting to the provision of Order 5 Rule 20 of C.P.C., it is obligatory for the Court to record its satisfaction that the defendant was keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service and the summons could not be served in ordinary manner."

22. The Apex Court in the case of Mrs.Payal Ashok Kumar Jindal (supra), where in the matrimonial petition filed by the respondent husband for divorce, registered notices sent to the appellant were returned with the postal endorsement that she could not be found on the given addresses, has held that :-

".....there is no material on the record to reach a conclusion that the appellant refused to receive the notices. After the notices sent by registered post were received back, the Family Court did not make any attempt to serve the appellant through the process of the Court. Under the circumstances, resort to the substitute service by way of publication in the newspaper was not justified. We are, therefore, of the view that there was sufficient cause for the non-appearance of the appellant in the matrimonial petition before the Family Court."

23. The Apex Court in the case of Smt.Yallawwa (supra), while upholding the order of the High Court setting aside the ex-parte decree of divorce passed against the respondent wife, was considering whether in the matrimonial proceeding, service was sufficient on the wife, held as under:-

"The learned counsel for the respondent was also justified in submitting that the trial court could not have almost automatically granted the application for substituted service without taking steps for serving the respondent by ordinary procedure as laid down by Order V Rules 12,15 and 17 CPC. It must be kept in view that substituted service has to be resorted as the last resort when the defendant cannot be served in the ordinary way and the court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service, or that for any other reason the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way. In the present case, it appears that almost automatically the procedure of substituted service was resorted to."

24. The Apex Court in the case of Smruti Pahariya vs.Sanjay Pahariya (2009)13 SCC 338(by 3 Judges), while upholding the judgment of the High Court setting aside the ex-parte divorce decree granted to the appellant wife, held as under:-

"12..... Looking at the service return, the Court found that service was not a proper one and the Court was also not satisfied with the endorsement of the courier. Under such circumstances, the Courts direction on the prayer of the appellant-wife, for substituted service under Order 5 Rule 20 of the CPC is not a proper one. Direction for substituted service under Order 5 Rule 20 can be passed only when Court is satisfied "that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of evading service, or that for any other reason the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way."

13.In the facts of this case, the Court did not, and rather could not, have any such satisfaction as the Court found that the service was not proper. If the service is not proper, the Court should have directed another service in the normal manner and should not have accepted the plea of the appellant-wife for effecting substituted service. From wife's affidavit asking for substituted service, it is clear that the servant of the respondent-husband intimated her advocate's clerk that respondent-husband was out of Bombay and will be away for about two weeks. However, the appellant- wife asserted that the respondent-husband was in town and was evading. But the Court on seeing the service return did not come to the conclusion that the husband was evading service. Therefore, the Court cannot, in absence of its own satisfaction that the husband is evading service, direct substituted service under Order 5 Rule 20 of the Code."

25. The Apex Court in the case of Messers Neerja Realtors Private Limited vs.Janglu (Dead) through LR's (2018) 2 SCC 649 (by 3 Judges), while upholding the judgment of the High Court setting aside the ex-parte decree of specific performance granted in favour of the appellant, held as under:-

"16.Evidently as the report of the bailiff indicates, he was unable to find the defendant at the address which was mentioned in the summons. The report of the bailiff does not indicate that the summons were affixed on a conspicuous part of the house, at the address mentioned in the summons. There was a breach of the provisions of Order V Rule 17. When the application for substituted service was filed before the Trial Court under Order V Rule 20, a cryptic order was passed on 2 September 2011. Order V Rule 20 requires the Court to be satisfied either that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service or that for any other reason, the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way. Substituted service is an exception to the normal mode of service. The Court must apply its mind to the requirements of Order V Rule 20 and its order must indicate due consideration of the provisions contained in it. Evidently the Trial Court failed to apply its mind to the requirements of Order V Rule 20 and passed a mechanical order. Besides this, as observed by the learned Single Judge of the High Court, the Trial Judge ignored the provisions contained in Chapter III of the Civil Manual issued by the High Court on its appellate site for the guidance of civil courts and officers subordinate to it.....

17.The submission that under Order V Rule 20, it was not necessary to affix a copy of the summons at the court house and at the house where the defendant is known to have last resided, once the Court had directed service by publication in the newspaper really begs the question. There was a clear breach of the procedure prescribed in Order V Rule 17 even antecedent thereto. Besides, the order of the Court does not indicate due application of mind to the requirement of the satisfaction prescribed in the provision. The High Court was, in these circumstances, justified in coming to the conclusion that the ex-parte judgment and order in the suit for specific performance was liable to be set aside."

Conclusion by this Court

26. From the above law laid down by the Apex Court and High Courts, it is evident that substituted service under Order V Rule 20 of the Code, is an exception to the normal mode of service and it can only be ordered by the Court if, it is of the belief, on the basis of material on record, that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service or that for any other reason, the summons cannot be served in the ordinary manner. It is further evident that the Court has to apply its mind to the facts and circumstances of the case and then it has to record its satisfaction that service on the defendant is not possible by normal mode and only then, the plaintiff/appellant can be permitted to effect substituted service by publication in local newspaper.

27. It is further evident that the Court has also to consider having regard to the nature of the earlier attempts made for the service of summons and only when the Court is satisfied from the material on record, that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding service, or that for any other reason, summons cannot be served in the ordinary way, the Court will be entitled to order service of summons under Order V Rule 20 of the Code.

28. It is further evident that from the evidence on record it is to be considered by the Court how many times registered post acknowledgement due (AD) notices were sent on the defendant /respondent; what was the postal endorsement made on those undelivered notices; whether acknowledgement due (AD) was received or not; whether process server went at the residence /establishment of the defendant / respondent to serve the summon; how many times the process server went to the residence /establishment of the defendant/respondent; who was present at the residence/establishment of the defendant/respondent; whether the defendant/respondent was personally present who refused to receive the summons or whether his/her family members/servants/employees were present, who in his/her absence refused to receive the summons; whether 2 witnesses of such refusal were noted and their signed statement was duly recorded by the process server in his report to substantiate his version that he went to the residence/establishment of the defendant/respondent but he/she was not present or he/she was present but he/she deliberately failed to receive the summon.

29. It is further evident that when the defendant/respondent resides outside the local jurisdiction of the Court then, service can also be effected on him, through the Court, in whose jurisdiction he /she resides/carries on business, in accordance with Order V Rule 21 CPC.

30. It is further evident that as per Order V Rule 17 CPC, if the defendant/respondent is not found at his residence/establishment or refuses to accept the summons, the process server shall affix the copy of the summons on the outer door or some other conspicuous part of the house in which he/she ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works for gain, and shall then return the original summon to the issuing Court, with his report that he has so affixed the copy and the circumstances under which he did so, and the name and address of the persons (if any) by whom the house was identified and in whose presence the copy was affixed.

31. From the perusal of the record of the Appellate Court it is evident that there is no documentary evidence on record as to how many times and when registered notices with AD or summons through process server were sent to the defendant/ appellant Subash Chand Gupta; what was their fate; whether they were delivered or not; whether they were refused to be accepted; there is no report of the process server that he went to the residence of the appellant who was not found present or he refused to accept the summons; there is no evidence on record to prove that registered AD notices sent to him were returned undelivered; there is no postal AD available on record; no postal registration receipt is available on record to prove that registered notices were ever sent to the defendant/appellant. There is no documentary evidence to prove that the process server went to the house of the appellant and since summons were not served or refused, he affixed the copy of the summon on the outer door or conspicuous part of his house, along with the name and address of witnesses, who identified his house and in whose presence, the copy of summon was affixed. It is apparent that, in fact, there is no compliance of the mandatory provisions of Order V Rule 17 CPC.

32. It is further apparent that the defendant/appellant Subash Chand Gupta resides in Shahdara, Delhi, which is outside the local jurisdiction of the Ghaziabad Court , where the Appellate Court was situated, as such, the Ghaziabad Court could have sent the summons to the competent Delhi Court, for effecting service through Court in accordance with Order V Rule 21 CPC but this procedure was not adopted by the Appellate Court, which is very surprising.

33. From the perusal of the record, it is evident that C.A. no.146 of 2011 was admitted for hearing on 16.9.2011 by the District Judge Ghaziabad, and the appellants were directed to take steps within 7 days and the next date fixed was 15.11.2011. On 15.11.2011, the appeal was transferred to the ADJ Court No. 13, Ghaziabad for hearing and the next date fixed was 28.11.2011. On 28.11.2011, the appellants moved an application 17-C2 for effecting service through registered post AD along with application 19-C2 for effecting service through publication. It is apparent that both the applications were moved simultaneously by the appellants.

34. The record discloses that on 30.11.2011, the appellate court after hearing the learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellants and considering the submission that during the pendency of the suit the disputed property has been sold by the respondents no.1-3 to respondent no.4, hence the respondents no.1 " 3 have lost interest, the respondent no.4 was deliberately not appearing in the appeal whereas, it was asserted, that he was having knowledge of the appeal,who was in a hurry to sell the disputed property, the appellate court believing the affidavit(paper no.20-C) of appellant Ajay Kumar Sharma, allowed application 19-C2 and permitted substituted service on all the respondents, through publication in local newspaper. The appellate court also concluded that previously notices were sent to the respondents, which remained unserved,hence, permitted the appellants to effect substituted service. It is evident that the appellate court did not pass any order on plaintiff-appellants application 17-C2 for permission to effect service through registered post AD.

35. It is apparent from the record that prior to 30.11.2011 and even subsequent thereto, during the pendency of the Civil Appeal, notices through registered post AD was never sent to the respondents, what to say about their service and refusal. Even during the pendency of the appeal, no summons through process server were ever sent to the respondents to effect service on them. No report of process server is available on the record. No undelivered registered letter or registered postal receipt is available on the record. The appellants moved application 17-C2 before the appellate court seeking permission to effect service on the respondents through registered post AD, which was never disposed by the appellate court, itself proves that, this mode was never adopted by the appellants for effecting service on the respondents. There was no documentary evidence on record to prove that registered notices sent to the respondents were returned undelivered ,which were deliberately not received by them, or the summons sent through process server were deliberately not received by them, but still, the appellate court concluded in order dated 30.11.2011, that notices sent earlier to the respondents remained unserved, whereas, there was no documentary evidence on record to arrive at that conclusion.

36. It is apparent that the appellate court before allowing substituted service under Order V Rule 20 CPC, has failed to consider that no registered notice or summon through process server, was ever sent to the respondents in the appeal as such, in the first place,substituted service on respondents should never have been permitted. There was no material on record to prove that the respondents were avoiding service or service cannot be effected through normal mode and they were aware of the pendency of the appeal. The mandatory provisions of Order V Rule 17 CPC have not been complied with by the appellants. In these circumstances, the appellate court certainly could not have permitted the plaintiff-appellants to effect substituted service on the defendant - respondents in the Civil Appeal.

37. The appellate court in the above circumstances concluded that service by publication on the respondents was sufficient, who were not present, hence proceeded to hear the Civil Appeal ex-parte on 16.2.2012 and consequently, the record of O.S. No. 544 of 1997 was summoned from the record room.

38. It is evident from the record that the appellate court on 19.4.2012 noted with concern, that service on respondents was deemed sufficient by publication but on the record, no acknowledgement due(AD) was available. It was further noted that there was also no proof that a notice has been served on the learned counsel, who was representing the defendant/respondents in the trial court. In these circumstances, the appellate Court was of the opinion that for hearing the appeal on merits, it was necessary that notices be issued to the learned counsel of the defendant/respondents and for this, 7 days time was afforded to the appellants to take steps and the office was directed to issue process. On 23.7.2012, the appellate court notes that notices have already been sent on the respondents, but, the record does not disclose that any notice was served on the learned counsel of the defendant/respondents, who was appearing for them before the trial court.

39. It is apparent that the appellate court has failed to record its satisfaction, that service was sufficient on the learned counsel of the defendant/respondents, who was earlier representing them in the proceedings of the original suit before the trial court. In the absence of any documentary proof, it cannot be presumed that the learned counsel of the defendant/respondents was aware of the appellate proceedings, who deliberately failed to appear before the appellate court.

40. The appellate court while dismissing the defendant/appellants application 4-C under Order 41 Rule 21 CPC by impugned order, has concluded that notices and summons were sent several times on the defendant, since the address was not wrong, it was presumed that they were duly served on the defendant. It was also presumed that the copy of the newspaper in which substituted service was effected on the defendant, would also have been received by the defendant. The appellate court further concluded that from the conduct of the defendant it was apparent that, no sooner the appellate court passed ex-parte decree than he appeared within 30 days of the decree, which proved that the defendant/appellant always remained aware of the proceedings of the appellate court but he deliberately did not appear before it.

41. The above reasoning of the appellate court is not supported by any documentary evidence on record, which is a figment of imagination, which is legally unsustainable. It is apparent that the above finding is perverse, which requires to be set aside by this Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. It is proved that there was no basis for the appellate court to permit substituted service on the respondents and to hear the appeal ex-parte. There was sufficient cause for the defendant/appellant for not appearing before the appellate court since service of summons was not sufficient on him. It is pertinent to mention here that the original suit of the plaintiffs was dismissed on merits, which has been illegally allowed ex-parte by the appellate court, without affording an opportunity to the defendants to contest the appeal on merits.

42. For the aforesaid reasons, the instant appeal is allowed. The impugned order dated 23.5.2024 passed in Miscellaneous Case no. 71 of 2019 is set aside. The defendant/ appellants application 4-C and Miscellaneous Case No. 71 of 2019, stands allowed. Consequently, the ex-parte judgment and decree dated 17.7.2019 passed in Civil Appeal no. 146 of 2011 is set-aside and the Civil Appeal is restored to its original number.

43. The first appellate court is directed to rehear and decide the Civil Appeal no. 146 of 2011 afresh on merits, after hearing both the parties, in accordance with law, within a period of four months, from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before it, without affording any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties. afresh on merits, after hearing both the parties, in accordance with law, within a period of four months, from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before it, without affording any unnecessary adjournment to either of the parties.

44. The parties are directed to maintain status quo regarding the disputed property till the disposal of the appeal on merits.

First Appeal From Order No. 2756 of 2025

Radhey Lal Gupta ...Appellant

Versus

Shyam Sunder Gupta @ Ganesh Prasad Gupta & Ors. ...Respondents

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the trial court was justified in rejecting the plaintiff's applications for interim injunction and for restraining construction on the disputed property;
(ii) Whether the plaintiff had established a prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable injury;
(iii) Whether any ground existed for interference by the appellate court with the discretionary order of the trial court.

Headnotes

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Interim injunction — Prima facie case — HUF property — Burden of proof:

Held: Where the plaintiff alleged that the disputed property was purchased from the funds of a HUF but failed to produce any documentary evidence to establish the existence of the HUF at the time of purchase or its continued existence, and failed to prove existence of any joint family nucleus from which the property could have been acquired, no prima facie case was made out. [Paras 27–28, 34, 41]

Hindu Law — Joint family property — Proof — Nucleus:

Held: The burden lies upon the person asserting that the property is joint family property to establish existence of sufficient joint family nucleus from which the property could have been acquired; in absence of such evidence and where the very existence of the HUF at the relevant time is not proved, the claim of joint family property cannot be accepted. [Paras 33–34]

Evidence — Admission — Effect on title:

Held: Mere admission in estate duty proceedings by a third person or in assessment proceedings does not conclusively establish title in respect of property, and title cannot be presumed on the basis of such admission alone. [Paras 28, 42]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Interim injunction — Balance of convenience — Subsequent events:

Held: Where the disputed property had already been sold during pendency of the suit and the purchasers were in possession and had raised construction, the balance of convenience was not in favour of the plaintiff. [Paras 18, 45]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Interim injunction — Absence of declaration — Effect:

Held: Where the plaintiff had not sought declaration of title or partition and failed to establish prima facie right, relief of injunction could not be granted. [Para 46]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Interim injunction — Concealment of material facts:

Held: Where earlier suits involving the same property and similar reliefs between substantially the same parties were pending and the plaintiff had not disclosed such fact, the plaintiff was not entitled to discretionary relief of injunction. [Paras 17, 44]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Appellate jurisdiction — Interference with discretionary order:

Held: The appellate court cannot interfere with an order granting or refusing interim injunction unless the order is shown to be arbitrary, capricious, perverse or contrary to settled principles; where the view taken by the trial court is a possible view based on material on record, no interference is warranted. [Paras 38, 40, 47]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Interim injunction — Findings of trial court — Validity:

Held: Where the trial court, on consideration of material on record, concluded that the plaintiff failed to establish prima facie case and balance of convenience, and such view was a possible and reasonable view, the order rejecting interim injunction did not suffer from perversity. [Paras 41, 45, 47]

Appeal dismissed. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Order dated 29.08.2025 passed by Additional District Judge (FTC), Mahoba in O.S. No. 3 of 2025 (Radhey Lal Gupta vs. Shyam Sunder Gupta alias Ganesh Prasad Gupta and others), rejecting application no. 6-C2 for interim injunction and application no. 31-C2 for restraining construction.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellants: Sri Ankur Sharma, Smt. Nidhi Agarwal
For the Respondents: Sri Devansh Misra, Sri Chandra Prakash Kushwaha, Sri Dileep Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant appeal has been filed by the plaintiff under Order 43 Rule 1(r) read with Section 104 CPC against the impugned order dated 29.8.2025 passed by the court of Additional District Judge(FTC), Mahoba, in O.S. no. 3 of 2025 Radhey Lal Gupta vs. Shyam Sunder Gupta alias Ganesh Prasad Gupta and others, whereby plaintiffs interim injunction application no.6-C2 as well as, application no. 31-C2 for stopping construction on the disputed property, have been rejected.

Plaint case

2. The factual matrix is that the plaintiff filed O.S.no.157 of 2024, which was renumbered as 3 of 2025, with the averments that the disputed property is known as 'Shanker Godam', which is situated in Mohalla Chajmanpura, Mahoba, which was purchased from the income of the HUF of "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad", hereinafter referred to as the 'firm', in the name of its partner Seth Gaya Prasad, through registered sale deed executed on 31.8.1943. It was further averred that at that time, the partners of the above firm were Deokinandan,Gaya Prasad, Ram Nath, Ramcharan and Bhavanideen. It was further averred that whatever property was purchased, it was from the income of the above firm. It was further averred that at that time the disputed property was lying in ruins, in Mohalla Kanoongoyan ,which is now known as Mohalla Chajmanpura. It was further averred that currently the disputed property is in the form of a ground in which an old temple of Lord Shanker, and a well is constructed.

3. It was further averred that since the sale deed of the disputed property was in the name of the father of defendant no.1, as such the defendant no.1 intends to sell the disputed property by misleading persons, whereas, the disputed property is the property of the above HUF. It was further averred that all the partners of the above firm have died and now their legal heirs are joint owners of the property, who intend to sell the property as per their individual wish.

4. It was further averred that the disputed property belongs to the above HUF, in which the plaintiff and defendants have got share, as such, it cannot be sold by a sole person. It was further averred that during the pendency of the suit the disputed property "Shanker Godam"has been sold by defendant no.1 in an illegal manner to defendant No. 7 Mohammed Imtiyaz and defendant No. 8 Chetrapal Singh Yadav through separate sale deeds registered on 30.1.2025, on the basis of which no right title and interest is vested in the above purchasers.

5. It was further averred that the income tax assessment dated 26.7.1978 of the above firm filed by defendant no.1,discloses that the disputed property is of above HUF, and it also discloses the share of defendant no.1 in the property of the HUF as 20%,but still the defendant no.1 intends to sell the disputed property solely and usurp the consideration.

6. The plaintiff has claimed the following reliefs:-

(i)By decree of permanent injunction, the defendant no.1 be restrained from selling the disputed property known as Shanker Godam.

(ii)The registered sale deeds dated 30.1.2025 executed by defendant no.1 in favour of defendant no. 7 and 8 be cancelled and its information be sent to the concerned sub-registrar.

(iii)By decree of permanent injunction granted in favour of the plaintiff against the pendentelite purchasers defendant No. 7 and 8 , they be restrained from making any demolition, construction in the disputed property and also selling it.

Defendant's case

7. The defendant no.1 Shyam Sunder Gupta alias Ganesh Prasad Gupta submitted his written statement in which he admitted that on the basis of sale deed, his father Gaya Prasad was the owner of the disputed property. It was averred that the disputed property was purchased by his father late Gaya Prasad through registered sale deed dated 2.9.1943 from his self earned income, and thereafter, his father became the sole owner in possession of the disputed property. It was averred that subsequently a registered Will was executed by his father, in his favour, and after the death of his father, he is the sole owner in possession of the disputed property, and in exercise of his right as owner, on 30.1.2025 executed sale deeds of the disputed property in favour of defendant no. 7 and 8 and also handed its possession to them.

8. The defendant has denied that the disputed property belongs to the HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad". It was averred that the above firm was constituted on 01.11.1951, whereas the disputed property was purchased on 2.9.1943 from the self earned income of his late father through registered sale deed, which proves that the disputed property was neither the property of HUF nor any plaintiffs right title and interest is vested in it, hence, the plaintiff 's suit was not maintainable and was liable to be dismissed.

9. It was further averred that in the instant suit the member of HUF Jainarain Gupta alias Hindi Bhaiya has been impleaded as defendant no. 2, who has previously filed O.S.no.156 of 2024 in the Court of Civil Judge (Senior Division), Mohaba titled Jainarain Gupta vs. Shyam Sunder Gupta and others and O.S. no. 259 of 1991 in the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Division), Mohaba titled Jainarain Gupta vs. Shyam Sunder Gupta and others, which are pending. It was further averred that in the above mentioned suits, and the instant suit ,the cause of action and the relief claimed is the same as such, the defendant no. 2 should have been impleaded as a co-plaintiff in the instant suit. This shows the collusion between the plaintiff and defendant no. 2. It was further averred that in O.S. No. 259 of 1991, the last Karta of the HUF late Ramcharan Gupta in his affidavit accepted that defendant no.1 was the sole owner of the disputed property, which proves that the disputed property is the self earned property of defendant no.1, in which the plaintiff has got no right title and interest.

10. It was further averred that the plaintiff has filed the photocopy of the estate duty assessment order, which was inadmissible in evidence, in the proceedings of which defendant no.1 was not present, but his cousin Ramswaroop was present, as such any admission made by Ramswaroop was not binding on defendant no.1. It was further averred that since the disputed property during the pendency of the suit has been sold, the plaintiff 's suit has become infructuous. It was further averred that the plaintiff has not filed any documentary evidence such as balance-sheet of the firm, profit and loss account of the firm,etc. to prove that the disputed property belongs to HUF, which prima facie proves that plaintiff has got no right title and interest in the disputed property and the balance of convenience is also not in his favour.

11. The defendant No. 7 and 8 in their written statement have accepted that the disputed property has been purchased by them through registered sale deed dated 30.1.2025, which is in their possession. It was further averred that the old construction on the disputed property has been demolished and in its place three storeyed building has been constructed, hence the plaintiffs suit for the relief of permanent injunction has become infructuous. It was further averred that father of defendant no.1 was the sole owner of the disputed property, who executed a registered Will dated 01.2.1972 regarding his entire movable and immovable property, which became effective after his death, and on the basis of this Will, defendant no.1 has executed the sale deed of the disputed property in their favour. In view of this, the plaintiff has got no right to obtain the relief of cancellation of the above sale deeds.

12. During the pendency of the suit the plaintiff moved an interim injunction application no.6-C2 on the grounds mentioned in the plaint, which are not being repeated for the sake of brevity. The plaintiff also moved an application 31-C2 for restraining the defendant nos. 1,7 and 8 from demolishing the constructions standing on the disputed property and also stopping the construction work, on the disputed property.

13. The defendants objected to the plaintiffs above applications on the same grounds that were mentioned by them in their written statement, as such, they are not being repeated for the sake of brevity.

Findings of the trial court

14. The trial court by impugned order dated 29.8.2025 concluded that the plaintiff has not produced any evidence regarding when the firm "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" came into existence and duration of its existence, was also not proved. It was also concluded that from the perusal of the true copy of the sale deed dated 31.8.1943 it was not proved that the property was purchased from the income of the firm. It only discloses that the purchaser of the property was Gaya Prasad. It was further concluded that the assessment order of estate duty dated 14.5.1974/20.5.1974 discloses that the return regarding the property of deceased Gaya Prasad was filed by defendant no.1 Shyam Sunder Gupta and the necessary information was provided by cousin of the deceased Ramswaroop. The trial court concluded that the above document discloses that in the disputed property the share of the deceased Gaya Prasad was only 20%. The trial court further concluded that the above order discloses that Gaya Prasad was the coparcener of a HUF Deokinandan Gaya Prasad , which was in existence till assessment year 1952 - 53. On 30.10.1951 there was a partial partition of the above HUF and thereafter, partnership firm came into existence on 01.11.1951, in which there were 5 coparceners. It was further concluded that the above document was a photocopy, which was inadmissible in evidence, and further, in the above proceeding the information was supplied by the cousin of the deceased Gaya Prasad, namely Ramswaroop but when the firm "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" came into existence, was not disclosed. The trial court further concluded that the estate duty assessment order was not a conclusive evidence insofar as the ownership of the disputed property was concerned as such, on the basis of this document, plaintiff cannot be presumed to be having any right title and interest in the disputed property.

15. The trial court further concluded that the plaintiff has filed photocopy of the partnership deed dated 21.8.1972, which discloses that it was executed between Ramnath Gupta son of Kashi Prasad, Babulal Gupta and Ramswaroop Gupta sons of Deokinandan, Radhey Lal Gupta son of Bhawani Deen and Shyam Sunder Gupta son of Gaya Prasad. This deed also discloses that there was previous partnership deed of firm "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" dated February 1967, but the trial court concluded that even on this basis, it was not established that on 31.8.1943 the firm "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" was in existence.

16. The trial court also perused the order dated 09.12.2024 passed by the High Court in Writ B No. 6108 of 2024 and concluded that the dispute related to plot no. 1866, which was purchased through sale deed in the year 1956, which was deemed to be the property of the HUF, against which SLP was pending in the Apex Court.

17. The trial court also concluded that in O.S. No. 259 of 1991 and 156 of 2024, the relief of permanent injunction has been claimed regarding the disputed property 'Shanker Godam', which is similar to the relief claimed in the instant suit, and majority of parties are same in the suits. The trial court concluded that the plaintiff has filed the suit by concealing the above fact.

18. In view of the above facts, the trial court concluded that the plaintiff has failed to make out a prima facie case in his favour. It was also concluded that there was also no balance of convenience in plaintiff's favour and since the disputed property has already been sold by defendant no.1 in favour of defendant no. 7 and 8 on 30.1.2025, and constructions have already been raised on the disputed land,as such, it was concluded that the plaintiff was not entitled to the relief of interim injunction, as well as, for the relief of stopping the construction work on the disputed property. Accordingly, both the applications 6-C2 and 31- C2 were rejected, aggrieved against which, the plaintiff has filed the instant appeal.

Submissions of the learned counsel

19. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant submitted that the plaintiff and the defendant's no.1 to 6 are the legal heir's of the members of the HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" and the disputed property "Shanker Godam" was purchased from the income of the above HUF in the name of its partner, the father of defendant no.1 Gaya Prasad, which was also proved from the documentary evidence submitted by the plaintiff before the trial court, but the trial court has held otherwise. It was further submitted that there was presumption that since Gaya Prasad was the partner of above HUF, as such, the property purchased in his name through sale deed dated 31.8.1943, was purchased from the income of the above HUF, which has not been rebutted by the defendants, as such, the trial court has erred in concluding otherwise. It was further submitted that in the estate duty assessment order regarding the property of the deceased Gaya Prasad submitted on 26.7.1978 by his son defendant no.1, there was an explicit admission that the disputed property was the property of the above HUF in which the share of Gaya Prasad was only 20%, but still the trial court has overlooked the above documentary evidence. It was further submitted that since there was admission on the part of defendant no.1, it was binding on him, and in view of that admission, the defendant no.1 cannot claim himself to be the absolute owner of the disputed property.

20. It was further submitted that in Writ 'B' No. 6108 of 2014, which was decided by this Court by order dated 09.12.2024, it was conclusively held that the disputed property was property of HUF, which has not been rebutted by the petitioner Shyam Sunder Gupta, who is the defendant no.1 in the instant suit, as such, even on the basis of above finding recorded by this Court, it was proved that the disputed property was the property of HUF. Learned counsel submitted that in view of the above evidence on record, the trial court has erred in rejecting the plaintiffs interim injunction application 6-C2 and application 31-C2 for restraining the defendants from raising construction on the disputed property. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal be admitted for hearing and allowed on merits.

21. Learned counsel in support of his submission has relied upon the following case law:-

(i)Adiveppa and others vs.Bhimappa and another (2017) 9 SCC 586.

(ii)Ramakant Ambalal Choksi vs. Harish Ambalal Choksi and others 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3538.

(iii)Dalpat Kumar vs. Prahlad Singh (1992) 1 SCC 719.

(iv)Mudigowda Gowdappa Sankh and others vs. Ramchandra Revgowda Sankh by his LR's & others (1969)1 SCC 386.

22. Per contra, learned counsel for the defendant-respondents submitted that the trial court has considered the entire evidence of the plaintiff and has passed a reasoned order, in which there is no perversity, arbitrariness and capriciousness. It was further submitted that the view taken by the trial court is possible, on the basis of evidence on record, as such, even if the appellate court is of the view that, on the basis of evidence another view is possible, even then, the appellate court cannot interfere in the conclusion reached by the trial court. Learned counsel submitted that the parameters of interference by the appellate court in the discretionary order of interim injunction passed by the trial court are well settled, and keeping in view the above parameters, this case is not a fit case, warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction.

23. It was further submitted that the initial burden lied upon the plaintiff to prove that the disputed property was the property of HUF, which was never discharged by the plaintiff, in accordance with law. Learned counsel submitted that on the basis of mere admission, no right title and interest in the property can be created. It was further submitted that on the basis of registered Will of Gaya Prasad dated 01.2.1972, after the death of Gaya Prasad, the disputed property was bequeathed to his son, defendant no.1, and subsequently, his name has also been mutated in the property records but no action has been taken by the plaintiff to challenge that mutation. Learned counsel submitted that the registered sale deed was of 31.8.1943, and nothing prevented the plaintiff from challenging the above sale deed till the filing of the suit in the year 2024, which itself proves that the plaintiff always accepted that the disputed property was the self earned property of late Gaya Prasad. It was further submitted that no declaration of ownership has been claimed regarding the disputed property by the plaintiff as such, the relief of permanent injunction cannot be granted to the plaintiff. It was further submitted that the plaintiff 's suit was barred by limitation and during the pendency of the suit, the disputed property has been sold to defendant no. 7 and 8 and its possession has also been handed to them, who have also raised constructions on it, as such, the plaintiff 's suit for the relief of permanent injunction has become infructuous. It was further submitted that the plaintiff failed to prove that the HUF was in existence at the time of purchasing the disputed property on 31.8.1943.

24. It was further submitted that in the Writ proceeding, the dispute related to plot no.1866, which was purchased through sale deed in the year 1956, which was not at all related to the sale deed of the year 1943, which is the case in the instant suit. Learned counsel submitted that the plaintiff was supposed to prove when the HUF came into existence and the duration of its existence, since after the year 1974, no documentary evidence regarding the existence/continuation of alleged HUF has been submitted by the plaintiff. It was further submitted that in the plaint, it has not been disclosed, the area of the disputed property,plot/khasra number of the disputed property, whereas the judgment of the High Court in the Writ deals specifically with a particular plot number 1866. It was submitted that the judgment of the High Court in the above-mentioned Writ, does not conclude that the disputed property purchased through sale deed dated 31.8.1943, was the property of HUF.

25. It was further submitted that O.S. no. 259 of 1991 and 156 of 2024 are also pending for disposal between the parties,in which the disputed property and the relief claimed is also same, but the plaintiff has concealed the factum of pendency of above suits, and on this ground alone, the plaintiff was not entitled to the discretionary relief of injunction. It was further submitted that since the plaintiff failed to prove that the disputed property was the property of HUF,as such, no relief could have been granted to him by the trial court, which has not committed any illegality in dismissing the plaintiffs interim injunction application 6-C2 and application 31-C2, for restraining the defendants from raising construction on the disputed property. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal is meritless and be dismissed at the admission stage.

26. I have heard Shri Ankur Sharma learned counsel for the appellant, Shri Sanjeev Singh learned Senior Counsel assisted by Shri Dileep Kumar Singh for the respondents no. 7 and 8, Shri Devansh Mishra alongwith Shri Chandra Prakash Kushwaha for the respondent no.1, perused the impugned order and the documents submitted with the appeal.

Conclusion of this Court

27. The plaintiff alleges that there was a HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" and the disputed property "Shanker Godam", which was purchased through sale deed dated 31.8.1943 by late Gaya

Prasad, was purchased from the funds of the above HUF, but except the estate duty assessment order of the year 1974, there is no other documentary evidence to prove the existence of the above HUF. If the above alleged HUF is still in existence at the time of filing of the instant suit in the year 2024, then the plaintiff could have filed its income tax returns, partnership deed ,statement of profit and loss account, balance-sheet, statement of assets held by it,etc. to prove its existence, but no such evidence is available on record.

28. The estate duty assessment order relied upon by the plaintiff discloses that Gaya Prasad died intestate on 4.4.1972 and after his death, estate duty return was filed by his legal heirs, regarding the property held by him. In the assessment proceedings, the nephew of the deceased, Ramswaroop appeared and provided the necessary information to the assessment officer. The assessment order notes that Gaya Prasad was having share in HUF M/S Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad and M/S Kashi Prasad Deokinandan. It also discloses that previously there was a bigger HUF M/S Deokinandan Gaya Prasad till the assessment year 1952-53, however, on 30.10.1951 there was a partial partition of the said HUF, in which the total capital was divided between 5 brothers and the new partnership firm came into existence on 01.11.1951. The order notes that as per the Wealth tax return filed for assessment year 1971 " 72, the capital invested by the deceased with Messers Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad was Rs.42,468/-. The order also notes that at the time of his death, Gaya Prasad was having 20% share in M/S Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad. The question that arises is whether the alleged HUF of "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" is still in existence after the death of Gaya Prasad in the year 1972, because no documentary evidence whatsoever has been produced by the plaintiff to prove its continued existence at the time of filing of the suit in the year 2024.

29. It is further surprising that if the disputed property was of HUF then why the plaintiff remained silent for so many years. It is apparent that after the death of Gaya Prasad in the year 1972, on the basis of his registered Will, the name of his son/defendant no.1 was mutated in the property records, and subsequently on 30.1.2025, he has executed 2 sale deeds of the disputed property in favour of defendant no. 7 and 8 and its possession has also been handed to them, who have raised construction on it.

30. The Apex Court in the case of Adiveppa (supra) was dealing with a situation where the plaintiff had sought declaration that the suit property described in Schedule 'B' and 'C' was self acquired, property of Schedule 'D' was ancestral, in which the plaintiff had 4/9 th share as members of the family, regarding which no partition had taken place among the family members and as such, the plaintiff also sought partition. The defendants denied the plaintiffs claim and averred that the entire suit properties comprising in Schedule 'B,C and D' were ancestral properties, in which an oral partition had taken place amongst the family members during the lifetime of Hanamappa on 28.10.1993, pursuant to which, all family members were placed in possession of their respective shares. In such circumstances, it was concluded by the Apex Court that-

"22.It is a settled principle of Hindu law that there lies a legal presumption that every Hindu family is joint in food, worship and estate and in the absence of any proof of division, such legal presumption continues to operate in the family.The burden, therefore, lies upon the member who after admitting the existence of jointness in the family properties asserts his claim that some properties out of entire lot of ancestral properties are his self acquired property.

23.In our considered opinion, the legal presumption of the suit properties comprising in Schedule B and C to be also the part and parcel of the ancestral one(Scheduled D) could easily be drawn for want of any evidence of such properties being self acquired property of the plaintiffs. It was also for the reason that the plaintiffs themselves had based their case by admitting the existence of joint family nucleus in respect of Schedule D properties and had sought partition by demanding 4/9 th share.

24.In our considered opinion, it was, therefore, obligatory upon the plaintiffs to have proved that despite existence of jointness in the family, properties described in Schedule B and C was not part of ancestral properties but were their self acquired properties. As held above, the plaintiffs failed to prove this material fact for want of any evidence."

31. It is evident that in the case of Adiveppa (supra) there was an admission on the part of the plaintiff that property of Schedule D was ancestral and property of Schedule B and C was self acquired, which was denied by the defendants who averred that all the property of Schedule B,C and D was joint, regarding which an oral partition has already taken place, and the family members are in possession of their respective share. In this backdrop, it was concluded by the Apex Court that since there was an admission on the part of the plaintiff that Schedule D property was joint, as such, the other property of Schedule B and C ,which was claimed by the plaintiff as self earned, due to lack of evidence on the part of plaintiff, would also be treated as joint property.

32. It is evident that the fact situation in the instant case is entirely different from Adiveppa (supra) because the plaintiff has alleged that the disputed property was purchased from the funds of HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad", which has been denied by the defendants on the ground that the sale deed dated 31.8.1943 of the disputed property, was in the name of Gaya Prasad, which has been subsequently bequeathed to defendant no.1 in the year 1972. It is the case of the defendants that the disputed property was purchased from the self income of Gaya Prasad. In view of the above facts, no reliance can be placed on the case law of Adiveppa (supra).

33. The Apex Court in the case of Mudigowda Gowdappa Sankh (supra), while considering whether there is presumption that a Hindu family merely because it is joint, possesses any joint property, held as under:-

"6.... The burden of proving that any particular property is joint family property, is, therefore, in the first instance upon the person who claims it as coparcenery property. But if the possession of a nucleus of the joint family property is either admitted or proved, any acquisition made by a member of the joint family is presumed to be joint family property. This is however subject to the limitation that the joint family property must be such as with its aid the property in question could have been acquired. It is only after the possession of an adequate nucleus is shown, that the onus shifts on to the person who claims the property as self acquisition to affirmatively make out that the property was acquired without any aid from the family estate....."

34. It is apparent that in the instant case the burden is upon the plaintiff to prove that there was adequate income/nucleus of the HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" in the year 1943, through which Gaya Prasad could have purchased the disputed property, but this burden has not been prima facie discharged by the plaintiff. There is no admission on the part of the defendants that the disputed property was purchased from the income of the above HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad", in fact, the very existence of HUF in the year 1943 has been denied by the defendants.

35. The plaintiff has also relied upon the decision of this Court dated 09.12.2024 in Writ- B no. 6108 of 2014 Shyam Sunder Gupta vs. Board of Revenue and others, in which the matter related to rights conferred by registered sale deed that 3.9.1956 executed in favour of the petitioner's father Gaya Prasad, regarding plots no. 1709 and 1866. The order mentions that petitioner averred that after the death of his father in the year 1972, the HUF came to an end, all properties were divided between 5 family members and the new proprietary ship firm was constituted in the year 1972, which the petitioner failed to prove. This Court concluded that the disputed plot number 1866 was the property of HUF of "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" and has accordingly, dismissed the writ petition. Learned counsel of the parties admit that the above order of the High Court has been challenged by filing SLP before the Apex Court, which is pending for disposal.

36. It is apparent that in the above Writ petition the dispute was regarding plot number 1866 only. In the instant case, the plaintiff has not mentioned the plot/khasra number of the disputed property, it's area, as such, the above decision of this Court in the above Writ petition, has got no relevancy to the facts of this case. On the basis of the above decision in the Writ, it cannot be concluded that the disputed property which was purchased through sale deed dated 31.8.1943 is the property of HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad".

37. The Apex Court in the case of the Ambika Prasad Thakur vs. Ram Ekbal Rai AIR 1966 SC 605, Avtar Singh vs. Gurdial Singh (2006)12 SCC 552, Ramchandra Sakharam Mahajan vs. Damodar Trimbak AIR 2007 SC 2577 and Union of India vs. Ibramuddin (2012) 8 SCC 148, has considered inter alia the effect of admission by a party in respect of title. It was held that title cannot pass by a mere admission.

When the Appellate Court can interfere in these matters

38. The Apex Court in the case of Wander Ltd. and another vs. Antox India Pvt. Ltd. 1990 Supp SCC 727, while discussing the scope of interference by the appellate courts while hearing appeals against injunction orders passed by the trial court, held as under :-

"14. The appeals before the Division Bench were against the exercise of discretion by the Single Judge. In such appeals, the appellate court will not interfere with the exercise of discretion of the court of first instance and substitute its own discretion except where the discretion has been shown to have been exercised arbitrarily, or capriciously or perversely or where the court had ignored the settled principles of law regulating grant or refusal of interlocutory injunctions. An appeal against exercise of discretion is said to be an appeal on principle. Appellate court will not reassess the material and seek to reach a conclusion different from the one reached by the court below if the one reached by that court was reasonably possible on the material. The appellate court would normally not be justified in interfering with the exercise of discretion under appeal solely on the ground that if it had considered the matter at the trial stage it would have come to a contrary conclusion. If the discretion has been exercised by the trial court reasonably and in a judicial manner the fact that the appellate court would have taken a different view may not justify interference with the trial court's exercise of discretion. After referring to these principles Gajendragadkar, J. in Printers (Mysore) Private Ltd. v. Pothan Joseph [(1960) 3 SCR 713 : AIR 1960 SC 1156] : (SCR 721)

"... These principles are well established, but as has been observed by Viscount Simon in Charles Osenton & Co. v. Jhanaton [1942 AC 130] "...the law as to the reversal by a court of appeal of an order made by a judge below in the exercise of his discretion is well established, and any difficulty that arises is due only to the application of well settled principles in an individual case"."

39. The Apex Court in the case of Ramakant Ambalal Choksi vs. Harish Ambalal Choksi and others 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3538, has analysed the principles regarding grant of injunction and interference by the appellate court in the discretion exercised by the trial court. The relevant paragraphs read as under:-

"26. The principles of law explained by this Court in Wander [Wander Ltd. v. Antox India (P) Ltd., 1990 Supp SCC 727] have been reiterated in a number of subsequent decisions of this Court. However, over a period of time the test laid down by this Court as regards the scope of interference has been made more stringent. The emphasis is now more on perversity rather than a mere error of fact or law in the order granting injunction pending the final adjudication of the suit.

27. In Neon Laboratories Ltd. v. Medical Technologies Ltd. [Neon Laboratories Ltd. v. Medical Technologies Ltd., (2016) 2 SCC 672 : (2016) 2 SCC (Civ) 190] , this Court held that the appellate court should not flimsily, whimsically or lightly interfere in the exercise of discretion by a subordinate court unless such exercise is palpably perverse. Perversity can pertain to the understanding of law or the appreciation of pleadings or evidence. In other words, the Court took the view that to interfere against an order granting or declining to grant a temporary injunction, perversity has to be demonstrated in the finding of the trial court.

28. In Mohd. Mehtab Khan v. Khushnuma Ibrahim Khan [Mohd. Mehtab Khan v. Khushnuma Ibrahim Khan, (2013) 9 SCC 221 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 285] , this Court emphasised on the principles laid down in Wander and observed that while the view taken by the appellate court may be an equally possible view, the mere possibility of taking such a view must not form the basis for setting aside the decision arrived at by the trial court in exercise of its discretion under Order 39CPC. The basis for substituting the view of the trial court should be mala fides, capriciousness, arbitrariness or perversity in the order of the trial court. The relevant observations are extracted below: (SCC p. 230, para 20)

"20. In a situation where the learned trial court on a consideration of the respective cases of the parties and the documents laid before it was of the view that the entitlement of the plaintiffs to an order of interim mandatory injunction was in serious doubt, the appellate court could not have interfered with the exercise of discretion by the learned trial Judge unless such exercise was found to be palpably incorrect or untenable. The reasons that weighed with the learned trial Judge, as already noticed, according to us, do not indicate that the view taken is not a possible view. The appellate court, therefore, should not have substituted its views in the matter merely on the ground that in its opinion the facts of the case call for a different conclusion. Such an exercise is not the correct parameter for exercise of jurisdiction while hearing an appeal against a discretionary order. While we must not be understood to have said that the appellate court was wrong in its conclusions what is sought to be emphasised is that as long as the view of the trial court was a possible view the appellate court should not have interfered with the same following the virtually settled principles of law in this regard as laid down by this Court in Wander Ltd. v. Antox India (P) Ltd. "

29. This Court in Shyam Sel & Power Ltd. v. Shyam Steel Industries Ltd. [Shyam Sel & Power Ltd. v. Shyam Steel Industries Ltd., (2023) 1 SCC 634 : (2023) 1 SCC (Civ) 301] observed that the hierarchy of the trial court and the appellate court exists so that the trial court exercises its discretion upon the settled principles of law. An appellate court, after the findings of the trial court are recorded, has an advantage of appreciating the view taken by the trial Judge and examining the correctness or otherwise thereof within the limited area available. It further observed that if the appellate court itself decides the matters required to be decided by the trial court, there would be no necessity to have the hierarchy of courts.

30. This Court in Monsanto Technology LLC v. Nuziveedu Seeds Ltd. [Monsanto Technology LLC v. Nuziveedu Seeds Ltd., (2019) 3 SCC 381 : (2019) 2 SCC (Civ) 158] , observed that the appellate court should not usurp the jurisdiction of the Single Judge to decide as to whether the tests of prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable injury are made out in the case or not.

31. The appellate court in an appeal from an interlocutory order granting or declining to grant interim injunction is only required to adjudicate the validity of such order applying the well-settled principles governing the scope of jurisdiction of the appellate court under Order 43CPC which have been reiterated in various other decisions of this Court. The appellate court should not assume unlimited jurisdiction and should guide its powers within the contours laid down in Wander case .

32. In Anand Prasad Agarwalla v. Tarkeshwar Prasad [Anand Prasad Agarwalla v. Tarkeshwar Prasad, (2001) 5 SCC 568] , it was held by this Court that it would not be appropriate for any court to hold a mini-trial at the stage of grant of temporary injunction.

33. The burden is on the plaintiff, by evidence aliunde by affidavit or otherwise, to prove that there is "a prima facie case" in his favour which needs adjudication at the trial. The existence of the prima facie right and infraction of the enjoyment of his property or the right is a condition precedent for the grant of temporary injunction. Prima facie case is not to be confused with prima facie title which has to be established on evidence at the trial. Only prima facie case is a substantial question raised, bona fide, which needs investigation and a decision on merits. Satisfaction that there is a prima facie case by itself is not sufficient to grant injunction. The Court further has to satisfy that non-interference by the court would result in "irreparable injury" to the party seeking relief and that there is no other remedy available to the party except one to grant injunction and he needs protection from the consequences of apprehended injury or dispossession. Irreparable injury, however, does not mean that there must be no physical possibility of repairing the injury, but means only that the injury must be a material one, namely, one that cannot be adequately compensated by way of damages. The third condition also is that "the balance of convenience" must be in favour of granting injunction. The Court while granting or refusing to grant injunction should exercise sound judicial discretion to find the amount of substantial mischief or injury which is likely to be caused to the parties, if the injunction is refused and compare it with that which is likely to be caused to the other side if the injunction is granted. If on weighing competing possibilities or probabilities of likelihood of injury and if the Court considers that pending the suit, the subject-matter should be maintained in status quo, an injunction would be issued. Thus, the Court has to exercise its sound judicial discretion in granting or refusing the relief of ad interim injunction pending the suit. (See Dalpat Kumar v. Prahlad Singh [Dalpat Kumar v. Prahlad Singh, (1992) 1 SCC 719] .)

34. Any order made in conscious violation of pleading and law is a perverse order. In Moffett v. Gough [Moffett v. Gough, (1878) 1 LR Ir 331] , the Court observed that a perverse verdict may probably be defined as one that is not only against the weight of evidence but is altogether against the evidence. In Godfrey v. Godfrey [Godfrey v. Godfrey, 106 NW 814 : 127 Wis 47 (1906)] , the Court defined "perverse" as "turned the wrong way"; not right; distorted from the right; turned away or deviating from what is right, proper, correct, etc.

35. The expression "perverse" has been defined by various dictionaries in the following manner:

(a) Oxford Advanced Learner's Dictionary of Current English, 6th Edn.

Perverse " Showing deliberate determination to behave in a way that most people think is wrong, unacceptable or unreasonable.

(b) Longman Dictionary of Contemporary English " International Edn.

Perverse " Deliberately departing from what is normal and reasonable.

(c) The New Oxford Dictionary of English " 1998 Edn.

Perverse " Law (of a verdict) against the weight of evidence or the direction of the Judge on a point of law.

(d) New Webster's Dictionary of the English Language (Deluxe Encyclopedic Edn.)

Perverse " Purposely deviating from accepted or expected behavior or opinion; wicked or wayward; stubborn; cross or petulant.

(e) Stroud's Judicial Dictionary of Words & Phrases, 4th Edn.

Perverse " A perverse verdict may probably be defined as one that is not only against the weight of evidence but is altogether against the evidence.

36. The wrong finding should stem out on a complete misreading of evidence or it should be based only on conjectures and surmises. Safest approach on perversity is the classic approach on the reasonable man's inference on the facts. To him, if the conclusion on the facts in evidence made by the court below is possible, there is no perversity. If not, the finding is perverse. Inadequacy of evidence or a different reading of evidence is not perversity. (See Damodar Lal v. Sohan Devi [Damodar Lal v. Sohan Devi, (2016) 3 SCC 78 : (2016) 2 SCC (Civ) 36] .)

37. Seen in light of the aforesaid settled position of law, we are of the clear view that in the facts of the present case, the High Court overstepped its appellate jurisdiction under Order 43CPC and substituted its own view for the one taken by the trial court without giving any categorical finding as to why the order of the trial court could be said to suffer from any perversity, capriciousness, arbitrariness, mala fides or having been passed in ignorance of the settled principles governing the grant of injunction under Order 39CPC."

40. It is apparent from the above law laid down by the Apex Court in Wander Ltd (supra) and Ramakant Ambalal Choksi (supra) that the Appellate Court while hearing appeals against the order of the trial court granting or refusing injunction can only interfere where the impugned order is malafide, capricious, arbitrary or perverse. If the view taken by the trial court was a possible view, the Appellate Court was not supposed to substitute its view. It is further apparent that if as per the reasonable man, the conclusion reached by the trial court on facts was possible, there is no perversity. If not, the finding is perverse. It was further held by the Apex Court that inadequacy of evidence or a different reading of evidence is not perversity.

41. From the analysis made hereinbefore, it is apparent that, the trial court has not erred in concluding that there was neither any prima facie evidence to prove the existence of HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad" in the year 1943 nor the disputed property was purchased from the funds/income/nucleus of the HUF.

42. It is further apparent that the trial court has not erred in concluding that merely on the basis of admission by Ramswaroop in proceedings before the estate duty assessment officer, it cannot be presumed that the disputed property was of HUF "Kashi Prasad Gaya Prasad". The trial court has further not erred in concluding that merely on the basis of the above assessment order, the ownership of disputed property cannot be decided. It is also apparent that merely on the basis of admission, the title of disputed property cannot be presumed in favour of the plaintiff.

43. It is further apparent that the trial court has rightly concluded that the matter in the Writ before the High Court related to plot number 1866, which was purchased through sale deed in the year 1956, which is not relevant in the instant suit.

44. It is further apparent that the trial court has rightly concluded that previously O.S. no. 259 of 1991 and 156 of 2024 have also been filed by defendant No.2(of the instant suit) against defendant no.1(of the instant suit) and other's, in which the disputed property is the same and the relief claimed was also the same and the main parties were also same, but this fact was not disclosed by the plaintiff.

45. It is further apparent that the trial court has correctly concluded that since the disputed property has been sold to the defendant no.7 and 8, who are in its possession and who have raised construction on it, as such, neither the plaintiff has proved his prima facie case nor the balance of convenience lies in his favour.

46. It is also apparent that the plaintiff has neither claimed declaration of his rights nor partition of his alleged share in the disputed property, but has simply claimed the relief of permanent injunction and cancellation of registered sale deeds dated 30.1.2025 executed during the pendency of the suit by defendant no.1 in favour of defendant no.7 and 8. It is apparent that the plaintiff has failed to prove that prima facie he is having any right title and interest in the disputed property, as such the trial court has not committed any illegality in rejecting the plaintiffs interim injunction application 6-C2 and application 31-C2 for restraining the defendants from raising any construction on the disputed property.

47. For the aforesaid reasons, this Court is of the opinion that there is no perversity in the impugned order of the trial court. The view taken by the trial court is a possible view, which is in accordance with the evidence on record and prevailing law, which cannot in any manner whatsoever be termed capricious, arbitrary or malafide, as such, keeping in view the parameters of interference laid down by the Apex Court in Wander Ltd (supra) and Ramakant Ambalal Choksi (supra), this Court while exercising its appellate jurisdiction cannot interfere in the impugned order and substitute its own view. The trial court has rightly concluded that the plaintiff has failed to prove his prima-facie case and the balance of convenience is also not in his favour.

48. Accordingly, the instant appeal has got no merit, and is hereby dismissed at the admission stage. Consequently, the impugned order dated 29.8.2025 of the trial court in O.S.no.3 of 2025 stands affirmed.

49. The trial court is directed to decide the instant suit preferably within a period of six months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before it, without affording unnecessary adjournment to either of the party, on merits, in accordance with law.

50. The observations made by this Court in the instant order are only for the purpose of deciding this appeal and the trial court will not be influenced and bound by it, and is at liberty to form its own opinion, on the basis of pleadings and evidence adduced by the parties during trial, in accordance with law.

Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 307 of 2025

Sunil Kumar Gupta @ Sunil Chain ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

A. Whether the detention order has been wrongly passed by terming the 'law and order' situation as public order situation

B. Whether there was an inordinate and unexplained delay in deciding the representation of the detenue by the appropriate government.

C. Whether the detention order was passed despite the petitioner being already in custody and on grounds of likelihood of bail which itself vitiates the detention order

D. Whether Detenue's/petitioner's criminal history was used as the basis of the illegal detention order.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 21, 22(1) & 226; The National Security Act, 1980-Section 3, 8, 9, 10, 11 & 12- The power of preventive detention under the Act, 1980 can only be exercised where a person acts in a manner prejudicial to public order or security of the State or in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community.

Breach of law in all cases does not lead to public disorder and that the contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. From the incident which has occurred on 15.06.2025 it clearly emerges that it is the public at large which has been affected.

No hard and fast rule exists for determining the timeline within which the representation is supposed to be determined by the concerned authority and it has to be decided on the basis of the facts of each individual case. The affidavits filed by the respondent authorities demonstrate their conduct in dealing with the representation of the detenue petitioner and it cannot be said that they acted with indifference. The petitioner was also provided an opportunity to present his case before the Advisory Board which he duly exercised. Thus, the argument pertaining to the delay in deciding the representation is rejected.

Where the detaining authority is of the opinion that the circumstances of a particular case necessitate the passing of a detention order despite the presence of the accused in jail, then in such a scenario, the detaining authority, while recording its reasons and satisfaction for such compelling circumstances, may pass the detention order.

While passing an order of detention under the Act, 1980, the detaining authority has to record its satisfaction to the effect that the detention of the detenue is necessary in order to prevent him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the public order or any of the other grounds specified in Section 3. The previous conduct or criminal antecedents of the detenue can be considered in arriving at such subjective satisfaction.

Held- Petitioner was provided a detailed description of the grounds considered by the authority while passing the detention order dated 02.07.2025. He was also informed about his right to prefer a representation before the concerned authorities and the right to appear before the Advisory Board-No infirmity in the detention order dated 02.07.2025- Petition dismissed. 1. Heard Sri Nadeem Murtaza, Advocate assisted by Sri Sudhanshu Tripathi, Advocate & Sri Raghav Bansal, learned counsel for the petitioner, Dr. Pooja Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 1 and Sri S.N.Tilahari, learned AGA appearing on behalf of the respondents no. 2 to 4.

2. The Apex Court, vide order dated 18.12.2025, passed in Special Leave to Appeal (Crl) No. 20664 of 2025 Inre; Sunil Kumar Gupta Vs. Union of India and Ors has requested the High Court to decide the issue of maintainability of Habeas Corpus Writ Petition within a period of four weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of the order which order has been received on 03.01.2026.

3. Considering the aforesaid, the matter has been heard at length.

4. Instant Habeas Corpus Writ Petition has been filed praying for a direction to the respondents to release the petitioner from the illegal detention under the National Security Act, 1980 (in short "Act, 1980"). Further prayer is for quashing the detention order dated 02.07.2024 passed under the Act, 1980 by the District Magistrate, Mathura and all consequential proceedings emanating therefrom as well as for a direction to pay appropriate compensation for the illegal detention.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner states that on account of typographical error in the prayer clause, the date has been indicated as 02.07.2024 rather the same should be read as 02.07.2025 as the detention order is of 02.07.2025.

6. The aforesaid statement of learned counsel for the petitioner is recorded.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner had been required to indicate as to how the petition in the nature of Habeas Corpus would lie against the detention order passed under the Act, 1980.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Additional Secretary to the Government of India Vs. Alka Subhas Gadia, reported in (1992) Supp (1) SCC 496 wherein the Apex Court has categorically held that it is always open for the detenue or anyone on his behalf to challenge the detention order by way of Habeas Corpus petition on any of the grounds available to him.

9. Dr. Pooja Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 1 and Sri S.N.Tilahari, learned AGA appearing on behalf of the respondents no. 2 to 4 do not dispute the aforesaid proposition of law as laid down by the Apex Court.

10. Accordingly, keeping in view the aforesaid, we find that the petition in the nature of Habeas Corpus raising a challenge to the detention order passed under the Act, 1980 is maintainable. We hold accordingly.

11. Broadly, the detention order has been challenged by the petitioner/detenue on the following grounds:

i) The detention order has been wrongly passed by terming the 'law and order' situation as public order situation.

ii) There was an inordinate and unexplained delay in deciding the representation of the detenue by the appropriate government.

iii) The detention order was passed despite the petitioner being already in custody and on grounds of likelihood of bail which itself vitiates the detention order.

iv) Detenue's/petitioner's criminal history was used as the basis of the illegal detention order.

12. Before proceedings further and examining the legality and validity of the detention order, it is important to refer to the relevant provisions of the Act. The petitioner in the instant case has been detained under Section 3 of the Act, 1980, which deals with the power and procedure of detention under the Act. Section 8 of the Act, 1980 confers the right on the detenue to be informed of the grounds of detention as soon as may be and to be afforded the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the detention order to the appropriate government. Sections 9 to 12 deal with the Advisory Board and Section 13 provides that the maximum period of detention under the Act, 1980 shall not exceed a period of 12 months from the date of detention. Section 14 states that the power of revocation of detention lies with the State as well as Central Government.

13. For the sake of convenience, the relevant provision of the Act, 1980 are reproduced herewith:

"3. Power to make orders detaining certain persons.-(1) The Central Government or the State Government may,-

(a) if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the defence of India, the relations of India with foreign powers, or the security of India, or

(b) if satisfied with respect to any foreigner that with a view to regulating his continued presence in India or with a view to making arrangements for his expulsion from India, it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

(2) The Central Government or the State Government may, if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the security of the State or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of Public order or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this sub-section, "acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community" does not include "acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies of commodities essential to the community" as defined in the Explanation to sub-section (1) of section 3 of the Prevention of Blackmarketing and Maintenance of Supplies of Essential Commodities Act, 1980 (7 of 1980), and accordingly, no order of detention shall be made under this Act on any ground on which an order of detention may be made under that Act.

(3) If, having regard to the circumstances prevailing or likely to prevail in any area within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Magistrate or a Commissioner of Police, the State Government is satisfied that it is necessary so to do, it may, by order in writing, direct, that during such period as may be specified in the order, such District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police may also, if satisfied as provided in sub-section (2), exercise the powers conferred by the said sub-section:

Provided that the period specified in an order made by the State Government under this sub-section shall not, in the first instance, exceed three months, but the State Government may, if satisfied as aforesaid that it is necessary so to do, amend such order to extend such period from time to time by any period not exceeding three months at any one time.

(4) When any order is made under this section by an officer mentioned in sub-section (3), he shall forthwith report the fact to the State Government to which he is subordinate together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in his opinion, have a bearing on the matter, and no such order shall remain in force for more than twelve days after the making thereof unless, in the meantime, it has been approved by the State Government:

Provided that where under section 8 the grounds of detention are communicated by the officer making the order after five days but not later than fifteen days from the date of detention, this sub-section shall apply subject to the modification that, for the words "twelve days", the words "twenty days" shall be substituted.

(5) When any order is made or approved by the State Government under this section, the State Government shall, within seven days, report the fact to the Central Government together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in the opinion of the State Government, have a bearing on the necessity for the order.

8. Grounds of order of detention to be disclosed to persons affected by the order.-(1) When a person is detained in pursuance of a detention order, the authority making the order shall, as soon as may be, but ordinarily not later than five days and in exceptional circumstances and for reasons to be recorded in writing, not later than fifteen days from the date of detention, communicate to him the grounds on which the order has been made and shall afford him the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order to the appropriate Government.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall require the authority to disclose facts which it considers to be against the public interest to disclose.

9. Constitution of Advisory Boards.-(1) The Central Government and each State Government shall, whenever necessary, constitute one or more Advisory Boards for the purposes of this Act.

(2) Every such Board shall consist of three persons who are, or have been, or are qualified to be appointed as, Judges of a High Court, and such persons shall be appointed by the appropriate Government.

(3) The appropriate Government shall appoint one of the members of the Advisory Board who is, or has been, a Judge of a High Court to be its Chairman, and in the case of a Union territory, the appointment to the Advisory Board of any person who is a Judge of the High Court of a State shall be with the previous approval of the State Government concerned.

10. Reference to Advisory Boards.-Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, in every case where a detention order has been made under this Act, the appropriate Government shall, within three weeks from the date of detention of a person under the order, place before the Advisory Board constituted by it under section 9, the grounds on which the order has been made and the representation, if any, made by the person affected by the order, and in case where the order has been made by an officer mentioned in sub-section (3) of section 3, also the report by such officer under sub-section (4) of that section.

11. Procedure of Advisory Boards.-(1) The Advisory Board shall, after considering the materials placed before it and, after calling for such further information as it may deem necessary from the appropriate Government or from any person called for the purpose through the appropriate Government or from the person concerned, and if, in any particular case, it considers it essential so to do or if the person concerned desires to be heard, after hearing him in person, submit its report to the appropriate Government within seven weeks from the date of detention of the person concerned.

(2) The report of the Advisory Board shall specify in a separate part thereof the opinion of the Advisory Board as to whether or not there is sufficient cause for the detention of the person concerned.

(3) When there is a difference of opinion among the members forming the Advisory Board, the opinion of the majority of such members shall be deemed to be the opinion of the Board.

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle any person against whom a detention order has been made to appear by any legal practitioner in any matter connected with the reference to the Advisory Board; and the proceedings of the Advisory Board and its report, excepting that part of the report in which the opinion of the Advisory Board is specified, shall be confidential.

12. Action upon the report of the Advisory Board.-(1) In any case where the Advisory Board has reported that there is, in its opinion, sufficient cause for the detention of a person, the appropriate Government may confirm the detention order and continue the detention of the person concerned for such period as it thinks fit.

(2) In any case where the Advisory Board has reported that there is, in its opinion, no sufficient cause for the detention of a person, the appropriate Government shall revoke the detention order and cause the person concerned to be released forthwith.

14. It goes without saying that detention casts a restriction on the liberty of an individual and thus, this power has to be exercised sparingly. There can be no second opinion to the fact that the liberty guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution is one of the most sacred and cherished fundamental rights. Thus, the power of preventive detention must be exercised with a degree of circumspection.

15. The power of preventive detention under the Act, 1980 can only be exercised where a person acts in a manner prejudicial to public order or security of the State or in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community.

16. In Ram Bali Rajbhar vs. State of W.B. (1975) 4 SCC 47, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under,

"13. .... On a habeas corpus petition, what has to be considered by the Court is whether the detention is prima facie legal or not, and not whether the detaining authorities have wrongly or rightly reached a satisfaction on every question of fact. Courts have, no doubt, to zealously guard the personal liberty of the citizen and to ensure that the case of a detenu is justly and impartially considered and dealt with by the detaining authorities and the Advisory Board. But, this does not mean that they have to or can rightly and properly assume either the duties cast upon the detaining authorities and Advisory Boards by the law of preventive detention or function as courts of appeal on questions of fact. The law of preventive detention, whether we like it or not, is authorised by our Constitution presumably because it was foreseen by the Constitution-makers that there may arise occasions in the life of the nation when the need to prevent citizens from acting in ways which unlawfully subvert or disrupt the bases of an established order may outweigh the claims of personal liberty."

17. While the scheme of preventive detention has been recognized in the Constitution, it cannot be lost sight of that the Constitution also mandates several safeguards against the arbitrary exercise of this extraordinary power. Provisions have been made for the constitution of Advisory Boards which consist of eminent persons who are qualified to be judges of High Courts and the right to prefer a representation against the detention has also conferred upon the detenue.

18. After going through the objectives of the Act, we now proceed to analyze the arguments presented by the petitioners in light of the provisions mentioned above.

'Public Order' and 'Law and Order'

19. The learned counsel for the petitioner states that the grounds for detention, as communicated to the petitioner, indicate about disturbance of public order which has also been made a ground for invocation of the detention order apart from other grounds.

20. In this regard, learned counsel for the petitioner has taken us through the grounds for detention dated 02.07.2025 which indicate that an incident had taken place on 15.06.2025 per which the petitioner along with others had been carrying out digging and construction work at a particular spot despite objections by other residents which resulted in five houses collapsing and about half dozen houses having developed cracks. On account of collapse of the houses, three persons died including children and various persons were injured. On account of the said incident, the shopkeepers shut down their shops and jammed the road which resulted in PAC, Fire Brigade, NDRF, SDRF and senior police officials reaching on the spot and a Case Crime No. 248 of 2025 under Section 105 of Bhartiya Nyay Sanhita, 2023 was registered. Again on 16.06.2025, the residents of locality shut their shops and establishment claiming award of adequate compensation for the deceased and for the collapsed houses. It emerged that there was no permission granted towards the digging. It further emerged that despite repeated protests by the residents, the petitioner and his acquaintance had carried the construction and digging work which on account of the collapsing of the houses and death of various persons had caused fear in the society. The place of incident is situated adjacent to Shree Krishna Janam Bhoomi & Dwarkadees temple where thousands of persons visit everyday and on account of the said incident of collapsing of houses, there is large scale fear amongst the general public and on account of persons having protested for the purpose of compensation towards the collapse of houses and death, huge jam had occurred in the locality and the entire public order had been disturbed.

21. Argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner, while placing reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ameena Begum Vs. State of Telengana and Ors., reported in (2023) 9 SCC 587 is that the Apex Court has categorically held that there is a difference between the "Public Order" & "Law & Order" and that the incident which has been invoked against the petitioner while passing the detention order can atmost fall within the ambit of being an incident relating to "Law & Order" and not "public order" and thus, the respondents have wrongly passed the detention order on the basis of the act of the petitioner allegedly resulting in public disturbance of public order and on the said ground itself, the detention order merits to be set aside.

22. On the other hand, Sri S.N.Tilahari, learned AGA has placed reliance on the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Lalit Gupta and Ors Vs. Union of India, reported in MANU/UP/1067/2021 to argue that the distinction between the two concepts of "Public Order" & "Law & Order" has been lucidly explained by the Division Bench of this Court after placing reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Vs. Delhi Administration, reported in MANU/SC/0052/1982 and has thus argued that the act of the petitioner which has resulted in passing of the impugned order of detention is in fact an act of disturbance of public order and consequently, the detention order has correctly been passed.

23. Further, placing reliance on the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Mohd. Faiyyaz Mansuri Vs. Union of India, reported in 2021 (6) ALJ 247, argument of Sri Tilahari is that it is the subjective satisfaction of the competent authority to pass an order of detention and thus the Court may not substitute its own satisfaction for that of the authority concerned and decide whether the satisfaction of the authority invoking the detention order was reasonable or proper.

24. From a perusal of the grounds of detention accompanying the detention order it emerges that the competent authority has invoked the detention order on the basis of an incident of houses having collapsed on 15.06.2025 which has resulted in the death of three persons, various houses having developed cracks and residents having resorted to demonstration and protest against the said incident and also demanding compensation for the collapsed houses and death of certain persons. Adjacent to the place of incident, two temples namely Shree Krishna Janam Bhoomi & Dwarkadees temple are situated where thousands of persons visit everyday and on account of the said incident and the road being jammed and demonstration by the residents, there is fear in the society which has resulted in disturbance in the public order.

25. The Apex Court in the case of Ameena Begum (supra) has held has under:-

"36. It is trite that breach of law in all cases does not lead to public disorder. In a catena of judgments, this Court has in clear terms noted the difference between "law and order" and "public order".

37. We may refer to the decision of the Constitution Bench of this Court in Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar [Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar, 1965 SCC OnLine SC 9 : (1966) 1 SCR 709] , where the difference between "law and order" and "public order" was lucidly expressed by Hon'ble M. Hidayatullah, J. (as the Chief Justice then was) in the following words :

"54. ... Public order if disturbed, must lead to public disorder. Every breach of the peace does not lead to public disorder. When two drunkards quarrel and fight there is disorder but not public disorder. They can be dealt with under the powers to maintain law and order but cannot be detained on the ground that they were disturbing public order. Suppose that the two fighters were of rival communities and one of them tried to raise communal passions. The problem is still one of law and order but it raises the apprehension of public disorder. Other examples can be imagined. The contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. A mere disturbance of law and order leading to disorder is thus not necessarily sufficient for action under the Defence of India Act but disturbances which subvert the public order are. ?

55. It will thus appear that just as "public order" in the rulings of this Court (earlier cited) was said to comprehend disorders of less gravity than those affecting "security of State", "law and order" also comprehends disorders of less gravity than those affecting "public order". One has to imagine three concentric circles. Law and order represents the largest circle within which is the next circle representing public order and the smallest circle represents security of State. It is then easy to see that an act may affect law and order but not public order just as an act may affect public order but not security of the State."

38. For an act to qualify as a disturbance to public order, the specific activity must have an impact on the broader community or the general public, evoking feelings of fear, panic, or insecurity. Not every case of a general disturbance to public tranquillity affects the public order and the question to be asked, as articulated by Hon'ble M. Hidayatullah, C.J. in Arun Ghosh v. State of W.B. [Arun Ghosh v. State of W.B., (1970) 1 SCC 98 : 1970 SCC (Cri) 67], is this :

"3. - Does it [the offending act] lead to disturbance of the current of life of the community so as to amount a disturbance of the public order or does it affect merely an individual leaving the tranquillity of the society undisturbed?"

26. Per contra, the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Lalit Gupta (supra), after considering the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ashok Kumar (supra), has held as under:-

"(15) The distinction between the two concepts of "public order" and "law and order" has been lucidly explained by the Apex Court in Ashok Kumar Vs. Delhi Administration : AIR 1982 SC 1143, wherein the Apex Court has observed that the true distinction between the areas of "public order" and "law and order", being fine and sometimes overlapping, does not lie in the nature or quality of the act but in the degree and extent of its reach upon society. The Apex Court has further observed that the act by itself is not determinant of its own gravity. It is the potentiality of the act to disturb the even tempo of the life of the community which makes it "prejudicial to the maintenance of public order". If the contravention in its effect is confined only to a few individuals directly involved, as distinct from a wide spectrum of public, it would raise the problem of "law and order" only. It is the length, magnitude and intensity of the terror wave unleashed by a particular act or violence creating disorder that distinguishes it as an act affecting "public order" from that concerning "law and order". On the facts of that case the Apex Court held that whenever there is an armed hold up by gangsters in a residential area of the city and persons are deprived of their belongings at the point of knife or revolver they become victims of organised crime and such acts when enumerated in the grounds of detention, clearly show that the activities of a detenue cover a wide field falling within the ambit of the concept of "public order".

(16) The Apex Court, to the aforesaid effect, has made observations in Victoria Fernandes Vs. Lalmal Sawma : AIR 1992 SC 687, wherein, relying on its earlier decisions, including Ashok Kumar Vs. Delhi Administration (supra), it was reiterated that while the expression "law and order" is wider in scope, in as much as contravention of law always affects order, "public order" has a narrower ambit and public order would be affected by only such contravention which affects the community and public at large.

(17) The distinction between violation of 'law and order' and an act that would constitute disturbing the maintenance of 'public order' had also fallen for consideration of the Apex Court in State of U.P. & Anr. Vs. Sanjay Pratap Gupta @ Pappu and others : 2004 (8) SCC 591, wherein the Apex Court, after an extensive survey of authority on the issue brought out the distinction in fine detail, which reads as under :-

"12. The true distinction between the areas of law and order and public order lies not merely in the nature or quality of the act, but in the degree and extent of its reach upon society. Acts similar in nature, but committed in different contexts and circumstances, might cause different reactions. In one case it might affect specific individuals only, and therefore touches the problem of law and order only, while in another it might affect public order. The act by itself, therefore, is not determinant of its own gravity. In its quality it may not differ from other similar acts, but in its potentiality, that is, in its impact on society, it may be very different.

13. The two concepts have well-defined contours, it being well established that stray and unorganized crimes of theft and assault are not matters of public order since they do not tend to affect the even flow of public life. Infractions of law are bound in some measure to lead to disorder but every infraction of law does not necessarily result in public disorder. Law and order represents the largest scale within which is the next circle representing public order and the smallest circle represents the security of State. "Law and order" comprehends disorders of less gravity than those affecting "public order" just as "public order" comprehends disorders of less gravity than those affecting "security of State". (See Kuso Sah v. State of Bihar 1974 1 SCC 185, Harpreet Kaur v. State of Maharashtra 1992 2 SCC 177, T.K Gopal Alias Gopi v. State Of Karnataka 2000 6 SCC 168 and State of Maharashtra v. Mohd. Yakub 1980 2 SC 1158).

14. The stand that a single act cannot be considered sufficient for holding that public order was affected is clearly without substance. It is not the number of acts that matters. What has to be seen is the effect of the act on the even tempo of life, the extent of its reach upon society and its impact."

(18) The issue has also been dealt with in the case of Sant Singh vs. District Magistrate, Varanasi : 2000 Cri LJ 2230, wherein in paragraph 7 of the report, while dealing with the point, the Apex Court has held as under :-

"7. The two connotations 'law and order' and 'public 'order' are not the words of magic but of reality which embrace within its ambit different situations, motives and impact of the particular criminal acts. As a matter of fact, in a long series of cases, these two expressions have come to be interpreted by the apex Court. It is not necessary to refer all those cases all over again in every decision for one simple reason that they have been quoted and discussed in earlier decision of this Court dated 14-10-1999 in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 33888 of 1999- Udaiveer Singh v. State of U.P. and the decision dated 1-12-1999 in Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 38159 of 1999 Rajiv Vashistha v. State of U.P. (Reported in 1999 All Cri R 2777). The gamut of all the above decisions in short is that the true distinction between the areas of 'public order' and 'law and order' lies not in nature and quality of the act, but in the degree and extent of its reach upon society. Sometimes the distinction between the two concepts of law and order' and 'public order' is so fine that it overlaps. Acts similar in nature but committed in different contexts and circumstances might cause different reactions. In one case it might affect specific individuals only and therefore, touch the problem of 'law and order', while in another it might affect 'public order'. The act by itself, therefore, is not determination of its own gravity. It is the potentiality of the act to disturb the even tempo of the community which makes it prejudicial to the maintenance of 'public order".

(19) The scope of expression "acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order" as appearing in Sub-Section 2 of Section 3 of the Act, 1980 also came up for consideration of the Apex Court in Mustakmiya Jabbarmiya Shaikh Vs. M.M. Mehta, (1995) 3 SCC 237; Amanulla Khan Kudeatalla Khan Pathan Vs. State of Gujarat, (1999) 5 SCC 613 and Hasan Khan Ibne Haider Khan Vs. R.H. Mendonca, (2000) 3 SCC 511. The Apex Court held that the fallout, the extent and reach of the alleged activities must be of such a nature that they travel beyond the capacity of the ordinary law to deal with the person concerned or to prevent his subversive activities affecting the community at large or a large section of the society. It is the degree of disturbance and its impact upon the even tempo of life of the society or the people of a locality which determines whether the disturbance caused by such activities amounts only to a breach of "law and order" or it amounts to a breach of "public order". In Amanulla Khan Kudeatalla Khan Pathan Vs. State of Gujarat (supra), the Apex Court has held that the activities involving extortion, giving threat to public and assaulting businessmen near their place of work were sufficient to affect the even tempo of life of the society and in turn amounting to the disturbance of the "public order" and not mere disturbance of "law and order".

(20) While dealing with the question as to whether one solitary instance can be the basis of an order of detention, the Apex Court in Smt. Bimla Rani Vs. Union of India : 1989 (26) ACC 589 SC, observed that the question is whether the incident had prejudicially affected the 'public order'. In other words, whether it affected the even tempo of the life of the community. In Alijan Mian v. District Magistrate Dhanbad, 1983 (3) SCR 930 AIR 1983 SC 1130 it was held that even one incident may be sufficient to satisfy the detaining authority in this regard, depending upon the nature of the incident. Similar view has been expressed in the host of other decisions. The question was answered more appropriately and with all clarity in the case of Attorney General of India v. Amratlal Prajivandas : AIR 1994 SC 2179, wherein the Apex Court ruled that it is beyond dispute that the order of detention can be passed on the basis of a single act. The test is whether the act is such that it gives rise to an inference that the person would continue to indulge in similar prejudicial activities. It cannot be said as a principle that one single act cannot be constituted the basis for detention. Thus, the argument of learned counsel for the petitioners that since it is solitary incident of the petitioners, he deserves sympathy, is rejected. Now the law, as it stands, is that even one solitary incident may give rise to the disturbance of 'public order'. It is not the multiplicity but the fall out of various criminal acts. Though there is consistency in the various decisions of the apex Court about the interpretation of the expressions of 'law and order' and 'public order' undue insistence on the case law is not going to pay any dividend as each case revolves round its own peculiar facts and has to be viewed in the light of the various attending factors. It is difficult to find a case on all fours with the case in hand."

27. From a perusal of the aforesaid judgments it clearly emerge that although breach of law in all cases does not lead to public disorder and that the contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. From the incident which has occurred on 15.06.2025 it clearly emerges that it is the public at large which has been affected.

28. Perusal of the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Lalit Gupta (supra) also indicates that where potentiality of the act is to disturb the even tempo of the life of the community, it would be "prejudicial to the maintenance of public order" and that public order would be affected by only such contravention which affects the community or the public at large.

29. Clearly, the ground of detention indicate that the action of the petitioner on the fateful date i.e 15.06.2025 has resulted in disturbance of the public order, even tempo of the life of the community and has affected the community and public at large. Even otherwise, the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mohd. Faiyyaz Mansuri (supra) has held that preventive detention is not punitive but preventive and is resorted to with a view to prevent a person from committing activities regarded as prejudicial to certain objects. The Court cannot substitute its own satisfaction for that of the authority concerned and decide whether its satisfaction was reasonable or proper or whether in the circumstances of the matter, the person concerned should have been detained or not.

30. For the sake of convenience, the relevant observations of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Mohd. Faiyyaz Munsuri (supra) are reproduced below:-

satisfaction of the Executive. The reason for this view is that preventive detention is not punitive but preventive and is resorted to with a view to prevent a person from committing activities regarded as prejudicial to certain objects that the law of preventive detention seeks to prescribe. Preventive detention is, thus, based on suspicion or anticipation and not on proof. The responsibility for security of State, or maintenance of public order, or essential services and supplies, rests on the Executive and it must, therefore, have necessary powers to order preventive detention. Having said that, subjective satisfaction of a detaining authority to detain a person or not, is not open to objective assessment by a Court. A Court is not a proper forum to scrutinize the merits of administrative decision to detain a person. The Court cannot substitute its own satisfaction for that of the authority concerned and decide whether its satisfaction was reasonable or proper, or whether in the circumstances of the matter, the person concerned should have been detained or not. It is often said and held that the Courts do not even go into the question whether the facts mentioned in grounds of detention are correct or false. The reason for the rule is that to decide this, evidence may have to be taken by the Courts and that is not the object of law of preventive detention. This matter lies within the competence of Advisory Board. While saying so, this Court does not sit in appeal over decision of detaining authority and cannot substitute its own opinion over that of detaining authority when grounds of detention are precise, pertinent, proximate and relevant.

(26) It is apt to mention here that our Constitution undoubtedly guarantees various freedoms and personal liberty to all persons in our Republic. However, it should be kept in mind by one and all that the constitutional guarantee of such freedoms and liberty is not meant to be abused and misused so as to endanger and threaten the very foundation of the pattern of our free society in which the guaranteed democratic freedom and personal liberty is designed to grow and flourish. The larger interests of our multi-religious nation as a whole and the cause of preserving and securing to every person the guaranteed freedom peremptorily demand reasonable restrictions on the prejudicial activities of individuals which undoubtedly jeopardize the rightful freedoms of the rest of the society. Main object of Preventive Detention is the security of a State, maintenance of public order and of supplies and services essential to the community demand, effective safeguards in the larger interest of sustenance of peaceful democratic way of life.

31. Considering the aforesaid, the said ground is found to be misconceived and rejected.

Regarding the alleged delay in deciding the representation

32. Another contention which is pressed into service by the Learned counsel for the petitioner is that there was an inordinate delay in deciding his representation by the concerned authorities, namely the District Magistrate, Mathura, State Government and the Central Government. The learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently submitted that a detenue has a right to have his representation determined by all the three authorities in a timely manner, whereas the authorities took unexplained 24 days to process his application, thereby violating his right to liberty. Per contra, the learned counsels for the respondents contended that there was no delay caused in deciding the representation of the petitioner and the entire procedure was carried out promptly and in the minimum time frame as provided under the Act, 1980.

33. The respondents have further contended that the Act nowhere stipulates any time frame for deciding the representation and does not require the state authorities to explain day-to-day delay. However, the respondent authorities have decided the representation of the petitioner with utmost urgency at every step.

34. The right to prefer representation against the order of detention stems from Article 22(5) of the Constitution itself which states that a person being detained has to be afforded the earliest opportunity to make representation against such detention. This right is a valuable constitutional right, violation of which would certainly render a detention illegal. Further, Section 8 of the Act, 1980 reaffirms the right of the detenue to be afforded the 'earliest' opportunity of making a representation against the detention order.

35. So far as the contention of the respondents that since no definite time frame has been fixed by the Act, 1980 for deciding the representation of the detenue and thus, the Courts cannot call upon the state to explain the delay is concerned, we do not agree with such a view. It has been settled through several pronouncements that the power of detention is to be sparingly exercised as it partakes the nature of an unusual restriction on the liberty of an individual. The right to make representation is a safeguard against the arbitrary exercise of this power and thus, it is the duty of the courts to ensure that such a right is provided to a detenue in a real and effective manner, which also includes the right to have the representation decided within a reasonable time frame.

36. In Sarabjeet Singh Mokha v. District Magistrate, Jabalpur, (2021) 20 SCC 98, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, while emphasizing on the importance of expeditious consideration of the representation of the detenue by the concerned Government, made the following observations:

"47. By delaying its decision on the representation, the State Government deprived the detenu of the valuable right which emanates from the provisions of Section 8(1) of having the representation being considered expeditiously. As we have noted earlier, the communication of the grounds of detention to the detenu "as soon as may be" and the affording to the detenu of the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order of detention to the appropriate government are intended to ensure that the representation of the detenu is considered by the appropriate government with a sense of immediacy. The State Government failed to do so. The making of a reference to the Advisory Board could not have furnished any justification for the State Government to not deal with the representation independently at the earliest. The delay by the State Government in disposing of the representation and by the Central and State Government in communicating such rejection, strikes at the heart of the procedural rights and guarantees granted to the detenu. It is necessary to understand that the law provides for such procedural safeguards to balance the wide powers granted to the executive under the NSA. The State Government cannot expect this Court to uphold its powers of subjective satisfaction to detain a person, while violating the procedural guarantees of the detenu that are fundamental to the laws of preventive detention enshrined in the Constitution."

(Emphasis added by Court)

37. In Abdulla Kunni & Another v. Union of India (1991) 1 SCC 476, the Hon'ble Supreme Court made the following observations regarding the rights of a detenue as emanating from Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India:

"7. The detenu has two rights under clause (5) of Article 22 of the constitution: (i) to be informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds on which the order of detention is based, that is, the grounds which led to the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority, and (ii) to be afforded the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order of detention."

38. We are also conscious of the fact that no strict formula can be applied to determine whether delay has occurred in deciding the representation or not. This has to be determined in view of the facts of each case and the delay, if any, has to be tested on the anvil of reasonableness. The statute may or may not prescribe any fixed time period for deciding the representation. However, since the power of detention is of a hard and exceptional nature, it is expected that the authorities will act in an expeditious manner and any delay would be accompanied by a reasonable explanation.

"7. Another submission of the learned counsel was that there was considerable delay in the disposal of the representation by the detaining authority and this was sufficient to vitiate the detention. The learned counsel submitted that the detaining authority was under an obligation to adequately explain each day's delay and our attention was invited to the decisions in Pritam Nath Hoon v. Union of India & Others and in Shanker Raju Shetty v. Union of India. We do not doubt that the representation made by the detenu has to be considered by the detaining authority with the utmost expedition but as observed by one of us in Francis Coralie Mullin v. W.C. Khambra. "The time imperative can never be absolute or obsessive". The occasional observations made by this Court that each day's delay in dealing with the representation must be adequately explained are meant to emphasise the expedition with which the representation must be considered and not that it is a magical formula, the slightest breach of which must result in the release of the detenu. Law deals with the facts of life. In law, as in life, there are no invariable absolutes. Neither life nor law can be reduced to mere but despotic formulae*. Considered in that light, can it be said that there was an unreasonable delay in the present case? The representation was despatched on 5.2.1981 and was received in the office of the detaining authority on 13.2.1981. Apparently it was in postal transit from 5th to 13th. It was put up before the detaining authority on 19.2.1981 and disposed of that very day. From the records produced before us we notice that the detaining authority, Shri B.B. Gujral, was not available from 13th to 16th as he had gone abroad. He returned on 16th and considered the matter on 19th. The learned counsel for the detenu urged that the absence of the detaining authority from India cannot be allowed to violate the fundamental right of the detenu to have his representation considered with the utmost expedition. We agree that in such cases appropriate arrangements must be made for considering the detenu's representation. Apparently, it was not thought necessary in the present case as Shri Gujral was returning on 16th, that is, within a few days. After the 16th the delay, was for a period of three days only. It can hardly* be described as delay though one wishes there was no room even for that little complaint. We are of the view that there has not been any unaccountable or unreasonable delay in the disposal of the representation by the detaining authority."

(Emphasis added by Court)

40. In Aslam Ahmed Zahire Ahmed Shaik v. Union of India and Others, (1989) 3 SCC 277, the Hon'ble Apex Court made the following observations,

"5. This Court in Sk. Abdul Karim and Others v. State of West Bengal, [1969] 1 SCC 433 held: (SCC p. 439, para 8)

"The right of representation under Article 22(5) is a valuable constitutional right and is not a mere formality."

6. This view was reiterated in Rashid SK. v. State of West Bengal, [(1973) 3 SCC 476 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 376] while dealing with the constitutional requirement of expeditious consideration of the petitioner's representation by the Government as spelt out from Article 22(5) of the Constitution observing thus: (SCC p. 478, para 4)

"The ultimate objective of this provision can only be the most speedy consideration of his representation by the authorities concerned, for without its expeditious consideration with a sense of urgency the basic purpose of affording earliest opportunity of making the representation is likely to be defeated. This right to represent and to have the representation considered at the earliest flows from the constitutional guarantee of the right to personal liberty- the right which is highly cherished in our Republic and its protection against arbitrary and unlawful invasion."

7. It is neither possible nor advisable to lay down any rigid period of time uniformly applicable to all cases within which period the representation of detenu has to be disposed of with reasonable expedition but it must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each case. The expression 'reasonable expedition' is explained in Sabir Ahmed v. Union of India, [(1980) 3 SCC 295: 1980 SCC (Cri) 675] as follows:

"What is 'reasonable expedition' is a question depending on the circumstances of the particular case. No hard and fast rule as to the measure of reasonable time can be laid down. But is certainly does not cover the delay due to negligence, callous inaction avoidable red-tapism and unduly protracted procrastination."

8. See also Vijay Kumar v. State of J&K [(1982) 2 SCC 43 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 348] and Raisuddin v. State of U.P. [(1983) 4 SCC 537 : 1984 SCC (Cri) 16] .

9. Thus when it is emphasised and re-emphasised by a series of decisions of this Court that a representation should be considered with reasonable expedition, it is imperative on the part of every authority, whether in merely transmitting or dealing with it, to discharge that obligation with all reasonable promptness and diligence without giving room for any complaint of remissness, indifference or avoidable delay because the delay, caused by slackness on the part of any authority, will ultimately result in the delay of the disposal of the representation which in turn may invalidate the order of detention as having infringed the mandate of Article 22(5) of the Constitution."

41. In the instant case, admittedly the petitioner was detained on 02.07.2025. From a perusal of the pleadings on record, it emerges that the detention order, along with other connected documents, were forwarded by the District Magistrate, Mathura to the State Government on the same day, i.e., on 02.07.2025 and which were received by the State Government on 03.07.2025. Thereafter, the State Government approved the same on 11.07.2025 and the decision was communicated to the petitioner on 12.07.2025. Further, a copy of the detention order, grounds of detention and other related documents had also been forwarded to the Central Government within the statutory time period.

42. As per the mandate of Section 3(4) of the Act, the detention order cannot remain in force unless the same is approved by the concerned State Government within a period of 12 days from the date of passing of the detention order. Section 3(5) states that once the detention order is approved by the State Government, the same has to be reported to the Central Government within 7 days along with the grounds of detention. The detention order dated 02.07.2025 was approved by the State Government on 12.07.2025 and same was also forwarded to the Central Government. Thus, the mandate of Section 3(4) and 3(5) stood complied in the present case.

43. The representation against the detention was submitted by the petitioner on 07.07.2025 to jail authorities, Mathura. The Superintendent, District Jail forwarded the representation to the DM Mathura on the same day. Thereafter, the representation was rejected by the District Magistrate on 11.07.2025 and the decision was communicated to the detenue petitioner on the same day. The District Magistrate had forwarded the representation, along with his comments to the State and Central Government.

44. The representation dated 07.07.2025 was received by the concerned section of the State Government on 14.07.2025 along with the letter and comments of the District Magistrate dated 11.07.2025. The copy of the representation was sent to both the Central Government and Advisory Board on 15.07.2025. Thereafter, the representation was examined by the Under Secretary, Home Department, Uttar Pradesh on 16.07.2025 and on the same day the representation was also considered by the Joint Secretary and subsequently Special Secretary, Home Department, Uttar Pradesh. Subsequently, on 17.07.2025 the representation was examined by the Secretary, Home Department, Uttar Pradesh and on 18.07.2025, the representation was examined by the Principal Secretary, Home Department, Uttar Pradesh. 19.07.2020 and 20.07.2020 were holidays and thereafter, the representation was sent to the higher authorities who, after considering all the relevant documents, approved the detention order on 23.07.2025. On the same day, decision of the State Government was communicated to the petitioners. Thus, a total of 16 days were taken by the State Government in deciding the representation of the petitioners, on which the petitioner also has no dispute.

45. On the part of the Central Government, the representation dated 07.07.2025, along with the para-wise comments of the detaining authority dated 11.07.2025, were received by the concerned Ministry of the Central Government on 14.07.2025 and reached the concerned Section of the Ministry on 15.07.2025. Thereafter, the Central Government waited for the copy of the report of the State Government, which was received on 22.07.2025 after the State Government had considered and approved the detention. The Central Government wanted to peruse the comments of the State Government before deciding the representation and the State Government communicated its own satisfaction after considering the material available on record. The learned counsel also produced certain email communications dated 18.07.2025 and 22.07.2025 to establish that the Central Government was acting with diligence and had requested the State Government for the record of the case.

46. Thereafter, the representation dated 07.07.2025 as well as the report sent by the State Government containing the grounds of detention, comments and related documents, were examined at the section level on 23.07.2025 and forwarded to the Under Secretary on 24.07.2025. On the same day, the Under Secretary forwarded the same to the Deputy Secretary, along with her comments. Thereafter, the same was forwarded to Joint Secretary on 25.07.2025 and to the Union Home Secretary on 26.07.2025. Since 27.07.2025 was Sunday, the same was considered and rejected by the Union Home Secretary on 28.07.2025 and sent back to the Joint Secretary. The file reached the concerned section on 30.07.2025 and was communicated to the detenue petitioner on 30.07.2025. Therefore, a total of 23 days were taken in transmitting the representation, deliberating, deciding and communicating the decision.

47. Thus, within a span of 23 days, all three authorities, whom the petitioner has claimed are bound by a duty to expeditiously decide the representation of the detenue, had decided the representation of the petitioner. The respondents have contended that the representation was decided by the concerned authorities within the shortest possible time. However, we deem it appropriate to mention that it is not merely the duration or number of days which have to be looked upon, rather a holistic view has to be taken to determine if there was any indifference, slackness or callous attitude on the part of the authority concerned. Further, delay in itself is not fatal and it is only where the delay is unexplained or depicts a callous and indifferent approach on the part of the authorities that can an adverse view be taken.

48. From a perusal of the above, nothing is on record to demonstrate deliberate or fatal delay on the part of either the State Government or the Central Government.

49. The detention order dated 02.07.2025 had informed the petitioner detenue that he has a right to prefer a representation against the detention order before the District Magistrate, State Government as well as Central Government. The detention order further specified that if the representation is preferred after the confirmation of the detention order by the State Government or after the statutorily mandated period of 12 days for confirming the detention, then no representation would lie before the District Magistrate and only the State Government or the Central Government would be empowered to decide the representation. The detenue was also informed about the right of being heard by the Advisory Board. Thereafter, since the representation dated 07.07.2025 was preferred prior to the confirmation of the detention by the State Government, thus, the District Magistrate, vide its order dated 11.07.2025, decided the same and communicated his decision to the petitioner detenue as well as the State and the Central Government.

50. The Advisory Board, vide its letter dated 05.08.2025, had informed the State Government that the petitioner's case was fixed for hearing on 08.08.2025 and the petitioner was free to attend the hearing along with his next friend (non-advocate), and the same was communicated to the petitioner through district authorities on 05.08.2025. The petitioner appeared before the Advisory Board on 08.08.2025 and after hearing the petitioner, the Advisory Board submitted a report affirming the presence of sufficient cause for the detention of the petitioner and the said report was communicated to the State Government vide letter dated 12.08.2025. The report of the Advisory Board reached the concerned section of the State Government on 13.08.2025 and on 18.08.2025, the State Government affirmed the detention of the petitioner for a period of 12 months from the date of detention under Section 12 of the Act and the same was communicated to the petitioner detenue on 19.08.2025.

51. The State Government, on its part, has explained the procedure followed in deciding the representation and the time taken by each concerned official. The State Government affirmed the detention order dated 02.07.2025 on 12.07.2025 and thereafter, decided the representation of the detenue petitioner on 23.07.2025 after considering all the material on record including the comments of the District Magistrate dated 11.07.2025. The Central Government, on its part, decided the representation on 30.07.2025 after considering the detention order, grounds, comments of the District Magistrate as well as the State Government. The Central Government has furnished the details about the time taken by each concerned official and has also furnished records of emails and other communication to establish that while some time had been spent in obtaining the comments from the State Government, the same cannot be said to be indicative of lethargy, indifference or callous attitude on the part of the Central Government as it was dealing with the matter promptly and had requested for the comments immediately after receiving the representation.

52. In the case of Kamarunnissa Etc. vs Union Of India And Ors, 1991 (1) SCC 128, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, while holding that the time taken by the concerned authorities in obtaining the views or comments of the sponsoring authority cannot be said to be futile, made the following observations:

"7. The learned counsel for the petitioners raised several contentions including the contentions negatived by the High Court of Bombay. It was firstly contended that the detenus had made representations on 18th December, 1989 which were rejected by the communication dated 30th January, 1990 after an inordinate delay. The representations dated 18th December, 1989 were delivered to the Jail Authorities on 20th December, 1989. The Jail Authorities despatched them by registered post. 23rd, 24th and 25th of December, 1989 were non-working days. The representations were received by the COFEPOSA Unit on 28th December, 1989. On the very next day i.e 29th December, 1989 they were forwarded to the sponsoring authority for comments. 30th and 31st December, 1989 were non-working days. Similarly 6th and 7th January, 1990 were non-working days. The comments of the sponsoring authority were forwarded to the COFEPOSA Unit on 9th January, 1990. Thus it is obvious that the sponsoring authority could not have received the representations before 1st January, 1990. Between 1st January, 1990 and 8th January, 1990 there were two non-working days, namely, 6th and 7th January, 1990 and, therefore, the sponsoring authority can be said to have offered the comments within the four or five days available to it. It cannot, therefore, be said that the sponsoring authority was guilty of inordinate delay. The contention that the views of the sponsoring authority were totally unnecessary and the time taken by that authority could have been saved does not appeal to us because consulting the authority which initiated the proposal can never be said to be an unwarranted exercise. After the COFEPOSA Unit received the comments of the sponsoring authority it dealt with the representations and rejected them on 16th January, 1990. The comments were despatched on 9th January, 1990 and were received by the COFEPOSA Unit on 11th January, 1990. The file was promptly submitted to the Finance Minister on the 12th; 13th and 14th being non-working days, he took the decision to reject the representations on 16th January, 1990. The file was received back in the COFEPOSA Unit on 17th January, 1990 and the Memo of rejection was despatched by the post on 18th January, 1990. It appears that there was postal delay in the receipt of the communication by the detenus but for that the detaining authority cannot be blamed. It is, therefore, obvious from the explanation given in the counter that there was no delay on the part of the detaining authority in dealing with-the representations of the detenus. Our attention was drawn to the case law in this behalf but we do not consider it necessary to refer to the same as the question of delay has to be answered in the facts and circumstances of each case. Whether or not the delay, if any, is properly explained would depend on the facts of each case and in the present case we are satisfied that there was no delay at all as is apparent from the facts narrated above. We, therefore, do not find any merit in this submission."

53. The view that calling for the views of the sponsoring authority cannot be said to be intentional delay on the part of the deciding authority has been further affirmed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India v. Yumnam Anand (2007) 10 SCC 190. Similarly, in Union of India v. Laishram Lincola (2008) 5 SCC 490, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the explanation pertaining to the time taken by the Central Government in obtaining the comments of the State Government must be considered while determining whether the delay in deciding the representation of the detenue was fatal or not.

54. Certainly, no hard and fast rule exists for determining the timeline within which the representation is supposed to be determined by the concerned authority and it has to be decided on the basis of the facts of each individual case. The affidavits filed by the respondent authorities demonstrate their conduct in dealing with the representation of the detenue petitioner and it cannot be said that they acted with indifference. The petitioner was also provided an opportunity to present his case before the Advisory Board which he duly exercised. Thus, the argument pertaining to the delay in deciding the representation is rejected.

Regarding detenue already being in custody and apprehension of grant of bail

55. Another contention raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the since the petitioner was already in jail at the time of passing of the detention order, there was no occasion for the detaining authority to have passed the detention order dated 02.07.2025. On the other hand, the learned counsel for the respondents has urged that the detaining authority had recorded its satisfaction to the effect that the petitioner detenue is likely to engage in activities prejudicial to public order upon being released on bail, as is evident from his previous conduct, and thus, the authorities passed the detention order dated 02.07.2025 in order to prevent the detenue from disturbing the public order and societal peace.

56. After hearing arguments of both the parties in this regard, it is appropriate to mention here that there is no dispute regarding regarding the fact that the tila had collapsed due to the unauthorized construction and digging activities carried out by the petitioner and others. As a result, the shopkeepers shut down their shops and the local residents protested against such illegal acts which resulted in the death of three persons, including children, and the collapse of several houses. The incident was also broadcast on news channels and published in newspapers. Subsequently, an FIR was lodged under Section 105 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (B.N.S., 2023) and the petitioner was arrested. The bail application had been filed by the petitioner detenue on 30.06.2025 and the detention order was passed on 02.07.2025.

57. Now the question that arises for our consideration is whether a detention order can be passed against an accused who is already in jail and in anticipation of his release on bail and for the purpose of preventing him from committing acts prejudicial to public order. We find the answer to be in the affirmative. Reasons for this is clear from the plain reading of Section 3 of the Act, 1980 which stipulates that the government can pass an order of preventive detention for the purpose of preventing an accused persons from committing acts prejudicial to public order. Thus, where the detaining authority is of the opinion that a person, who is in jail, is likely to be released and upon being released, there is a reasonable apprehension of such person indulging in acts prejudicial to public order, then the detaining authority may pass a detention order under Section 3 of the Act, 1980.

58. Therefore, where the detaining authority is of the opinion that the circumstances of a particular case necessitate the passing of a detention order despite the presence of the accused in jail, then in such a scenario, the detaining authority, while recording its reasons and satisfaction for such compelling circumstances, may pass the detention order.

59. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Kamarunnissa (supra), while dealing with the issue of whether a person who is already in jail can be detained under the preventive detention law on the basis of probability of him being released on bail, made the following observations after referring to a catena of judgments relating to the same issue:

"13. From the catena of decisions referred to above it seems clear to us that even in the case of a person in custody a detention order can validly be passed (1) if the authority passing the order is aware of the fact that he is actually in custody; (2) if he has reason to believe on the basis of reliable material placed before him (a) that there is a real possibility of his being released on bail, and (b) that on being so released he would in all probability indulge in prejudicial activity and (3) if it is felt essential to detain him to prevent him from so doing. If the authority passes an order after recording his satisfaction in this behalf, such an order cannot be struck down on the ground that the proper course for the authority was to oppose the bail and if bail is granted notwithstanding such opposition, to question it before a higher court. What this court stated in the case of Ramesh Yadav (supra) was that ordinarily a detention order should not be passed merely to preempt or circumvent enlargement on bail in cases which are essentially criminal in nature and can be dealt with under the ordinary law. It seems to us well settled that even in a case where a person is in custody, if the facts and circumstances of the case so demand. resort can be had to the law of preventive detention. This seems to be quite clear from the case law discussed above and there is no need to refer to the High Court decisions to which our attention was drawn since they do not hold otherwise. We, therefore. find it difficult to accept the contention of the counsel for the petitioners that there was no valid and compelling reason for passing the impugned orders of detention because the, detenus were in custody."

60. From a perusal of the detention order dated 02.07.2025, it is apparent that the detaining authority was conscious of the pending bail application of the petitioner detenue. After the bail application was filed by the petitioner on 30.06.2025, the Station House Officer of Govind Nagar Police Station, District Mathura made a representation to the Senior Superintendent of Police for requesting the District Magistrate for the detention of the petitioner under Section 3 of the Act and thereafter, on 02.07.2025, the detention order was passed by the District Magistrate.

61. Further, this is also not disputed by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the bail application dated 30.06.2025 had been withdrawn only after the passing of the detention order dated 02.07.2025. The detention order further records that the people of the affected area were apprehensive that the petitioner, upon being released on bail, will continue his illegal demolition activities. The criminal history of the petitioner was also relied upon by the detaining authority. Thus, we find this ground to be lacking merits in the backdrop of the facts of the instant case.

Regarding the alleged extraneous grounds pertaining to criminal history

62. The last contention of the petitioners is that extraneous grounds, such as criminal history of the dentenue, were taken into consideration while passing the detention order dated 02.07.2025. Per contra, the learned counsel for the respondents have submitted that the previous criminal history of the detenue is a valid ground for arriving at the subjective satisfaction. The learned counsels for the respondents have vehemently stressed that all the relevant grounds had been specified in the detention order and the court is not required to substitute its own satisfaction in place of the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority.

63. While passing an order of detention under the Act, 1980, the detaining authority has to record its satisfaction to the effect that the detention of the detenue is necessary in order to prevent him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the public order or any of the other grounds specified in Section 3. The previous conduct or criminal antecedents of the detenue can be considered in arriving at such subjective satisfaction.

64. FIRs pertaining to serious offenses such as murder, criminal intimidation and sexual offenses against children had been lodged against the petitioner dentue in the years 2018, 2019, 2020 and 2024. On 16.06.2025, another FIR had been lodged against the petitioner under Section 105 of the B.N.S., 2023. These facts were taken into consideration by the detaining authority while arriving at the subjective satisfaction that the detention of the petitioner was needed in order to prevent him from engaging in activities prejudicial to the public tranquility and social harmony. Further, the detaining authority was also conscious of the fact that a charge-sheet could not be filed in any of the cases filed lodged the petitioner as the witnesses and complainants did not come forward to support the allegation against him due to the fear of the petitioner. Facts pertaining to the criminal history of the petitioner which have found place in the detention order is a significant factor while assessing whether a person will contribute positively to the society after being released on bail or will he prejudice the momentum of society by engaging in activities prejudicial to public order. Thus, the detention order cannot be set aside solely because the detaining authority took into consideration the previous criminal cases lodged against the detenue. Hence, there is no substance in the arguments of the petitioner regarding this ground.

65. The Court is not required to delve into the subjective satisfaction of the detention authority and has to only consider whether relevant and material circumstances and grounds were considered by the detaining authority. The detention order dated 02.07.2025 clearly specified the grounds on the basis of which the petitioner was detained. The detaining authority had considered the illegal and unauthorized excavation activities of the detenue which resulted in the demolition of several houses in a crowded area, claiming lives of 3 persons including children. Several houses had been affected due to the unauthorized drive of the petitioner. Evidently, people were forced to abandon their own homes and those who decided to stay had to witness tractors and heavy machineries clamping down on their homes. The fear, apprehension and panic of the general public has also been considered by the detaining authority.

66. The petitioner was provided a detailed description of the grounds considered by the authority while passing the detention order dated 02.07.2025. He was also informed about his right to prefer a representation before the concerned authorities and the right to appear before the Advisory Board. As such, we not find any infirmity in the detention order dated 02.07.2025 (wrongly indicated as 02.07.2024 in prayer clause of the writ petition.

67. Accordingly, the instant habeas corpus petition is dismissed.

68. Before parting with the case, we may also record that the operative portion of the judgment including maintainability was dictated in open Court. However, as voluminous pleadings had to be gone into including consideration of the detailed arguments as had been advanced by the learned counsels for the contesting parties for four days from 28.01.2026 to 30.01.2026 and thereafter, on 02.02.2026 (31.01.2026 and 01.02.2026 being holidays), consequently, the judgment itself became voluminous which took some time to dictate and upload. Some time was also taken as one of us was not available for four days at the station.

Case Arising From

Case No. 71 of 2024 (Dharmendra Kumar Versus Smt. Ayushi Singh) pending before the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra.

Appearance for Parties

For Appellant: Sri Akash Deep Singh
For Respondent: Sri Sudhir Shukla.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Sri Akash Deep Singh, learned Counsel for the applicant, Sri Sudhir Shukla, learned counsel for the opposite party are present.

2. This Court repeatedly allowed time to the learned counsel for the opposite party to file objection but till date, no objection has been filed.

3. Today, on the matter being taken up, Sri Sudhir Shukla Advocate, who appears for the opposite party, at the very outset, stated that despite his best efforts, he could not get any instructions from his client (opposite party), as such, he is unable to file any reply or objection on behalf of the opposite party. Thus, the Court proceeds to dispose of the present Application on the basis of the material available on record.

4. The present application under Section 24 of C.P.C. has been filed by the applicant seeking transfer of Case No. 71 of 2024 (Dharmendra Kumar Versus Smt. Ayushi Singh) filed by the opposite party under Section 13(1)(a) of Hindu Marriage Act, from the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra to the Court of equivalent jurisdiction at District Unnao.

5. The case in brief as put-forth by learned counsel appearing for the applicant is that the applicant was married to the Opposite Party on 01.12.2022 as per Hindu rites and customs. At the time of marriage, an amount of Rs.10,00,000/- was transferred through RTGS along with various customary gifts by the applicant's parents and relatives. After marriage, the applicant initially lived peacefully at her matrimonial house, but subsequently, she was subjected to physical and mental harassment, by the opposite party and his family members, for want of dowry and ultimately the applicant was forcefully ousted from her matrimonial house.

6. It is pleaded on behalf the applicant that on 09.01.2024, the Opposite Party instituted a divorce petition dated 09.01.2024 before the Court of learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra. Furthermore, on 28.05.2024, the Opposite Party threatened the applicant with dire consequences, including life threat, in order to stop her from participating in the Court proceedings.

7. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the applicant that on account of serious threats from the opposite party and also due to the financial constraints as well as unavoidable personal difficulties, the applicant, being a lady, having no one in her family to escort her to attend the Court proceedings on every date fixed in the case; preferred the instant Application under section 24 of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, praying therein for the transfer the case from Agra, which is approximately 300 Kms. away to Unnao.

8. As is evident from the record that with the consent of the parties the matter was initially referred to the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this court vide order dated 04.02.2025. For ready reference the same is quoted herein below:

"1. Heard learned counsel for applicant and Mr. Krishan Tiwari, Advocate holding brief on behalf of Mr. Sudhir Shukla, learned counsel for opposite party.

2. Application under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure has been filed seeking transfer of Case No.71 of 2024; (Dharmendra Kumar versus Smt. Ayushi Singh) instituted by opposite party under Section 13(1)(A) of Hindu Marriage Act, from the Court of learned Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra to equally competent Family Court, Unnao.

3. Learned counsel for applicant on the basis of instructions submits that the matter may be referred to mediation.

4. Learned counsel appearing for opposite party also on the basis of instructions concedes to the aforesaid prayer.

5. In view thereof, applicant and opposite party are directed to appear before Mediation and Conciliation Center of this Court on 25.02.2025.

6. Endeavor shall be made by the Center to file its report within a period of four weeks.

7. List this case on 27.03.2025.

8. Till next date of listing, proceedings of Case No.71 of 2024; (Dharmendra Kumar versus Smt. Ayushi Singh) pending in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra shall remain stayed."

9. It is testified by the applicant in the supplementary affidavit dated 15.10.2025 that mediation proceeding started on 25.02.2025 and the parties agreed for settlement on Rs.32,00,000, out of the said amount, the respondent deposited only Rs.16,00,000 on 25.07.2025 by way of 'demand draft' and took a month's time for depositing rest of the amount on 25.08.2025. It is averred by the applicant that during the pendency of the mediation proceeding, the opposite party filed a case before this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. having Application U/S 482 No. 7060 of 2025, wherein this Court taking into consideration the ongoing mediation proceedings, stayed the criminal proceedings arising out of Case Crime No. 0084 of 2024, under Sections 498-A, 323, 504, 506 IPC and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Dahi, District Unnao vide order dated 27.08.2025. After passing of the aforesaid stay/order the opposite party herein just to defeat the mediation proceedings immediately withdrew the said amount of Rs. 16,00,000/-,

10. It is very emphatically argued by the learned counsel for the applicant that due to the above-mentioned vicious conduct of the opposite party, the applicant has suffered serious mental agony as she was made to run from pillar to post for doing 'Pairvi' of the cases.

11. For ready reference the relevant part of the Order dated 27.08.2025 passed on Application under section 482 having case No. 7060 of 2025 is extracted herein below:

"Instant application under section 482 Cr.P.C./528 of the B.N.S.S.,2023, has been filed with the prayer to quash the Charge-Sheet no. 01/2024, dated 07.08.2024, under sections-498-A, 323, 504, 506 of I.P.C. & section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Dahi, District Unnao, as well as Bailable Warrant Order Dated 11.04.2025, passed by Learned J/JD/FTC/LAW, Unnao, in Case No. 1460/2024, 'State Vs Dharmendra Kumar', arising out of Case Crime No. 0084/2024, under section 498-A, 323, 504, 506 of I.P.C. & section 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Dahi, District - Unnao.

It is argued by the learned counsel for the applicants that the instant matter is arising out of a matrimonial dispute and a divorce petition was instituted by the applicant no. 1,Dharmendra Kumar, whereafter, the transfer application was moved before this court bearing Transfer Application No.(TACL) 141 of 2024, wherein the order dated 04-02-2025 was passed and the proceeding of the divorce case was stayed and the matter was referred to the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this court, which is still going on and in pursuance thereof, the applicant no. 1 has deposited Rs. 16 Lac in the form of demand draft in favour of the informant/opposite party no. 2 before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this court.

He argued that the proceedings of Case Crime No. 0084 of 2024, under sections 498-A,323,504,506 of I.P.C. and section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, are still continuing and since the matter is pending before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this court, thus, the proceedings of Case Crime No. 0084 of 2024, may be stayed.

Learned counsel appearing for the State has no objection to the contentions aforesaid.

In view of the aforesaid, matter requires consideration.

Let notice be issued to opposite party no. 2 returnable at an early date.

Steps be taken within a week.

If the steps are taken, the office shall proceed accordingly.

List/put up this matter in the week commencing 06-10-2025.

In the meantime, the opposite parties may file their Counter Affidavits.

Till the next date of listing, the criminal proceedings arising out of Case Crime No. 0084/2024, under section 498-A, 323, 504, 506 of I.P.C. & section 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Dahi, District - Unnao, shall remain stayed so far as the present applicants are concerned."

12. Mediation Report dated 03.09.2025, reflects failure of mediation. On the failure of the mediation proceedings a report to that effect was sent by the Mediation and Conciliation Centre was sent this Court for adjudication.

13. After the re-start of the adjudicatory process, this Court on the request of the learned counsel for the opposite party granted him sufficient opportunity to file objections/reply in the matter. However, no objection/reply has been filed on behalf of the opposite party, till date.

14. In the absence of any reply from the side of the opposite party, this Court proceeded to decide the instant matter on the basis of the pleadings/averments made in the present Application duly supported by affidavit.

15. Learned counsel for the applicant in support of his case relied upon the judgements passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Anjali Ashok Sadhwani Versus Ashok Kishinchand Sadhwani, reported in AIR 2009 SC 1374, and also in Fatima Versus Jafri Syed Husain (Parvez), reported in AIR 2009 SC 1773.

16. In the case of Anjali Ashok Sadhwani (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

“1. Heard learned counsel for the parties. This is an application for transfer filed at the instance of the petitioner wife under Section 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure read with Order 13-B of the Supreme Court Rules, 1966 seeking transfer of Petition No. 83 of 2006 (Ashok Kishinchand Sadhwani v. Anjali Ashok Sadhwani) now pending in the Family Court at Indore to the Family Court at Bandra in Mumbai, Maharashtra.

2. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and after going through the materials on record and considering the fact that the distance between Mumbai, Maharashtra and Indore, Madhya Pradesh is about 900 kms and also considering the fact that the petitioner wife has no one in her family to escort her during her journey from Mumbai to Indore, we feel it proper to transfer the case from Family Court of Indore, Madhya Pradesh to Family Court at Bandra, Mumbai. Accordingly, the case being Petition No. 83 of 2006 stands transferred from Family Court of Indore, Madhya Pradesh to Family Court of Bandra at Mumbai, Maharashtra."

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Fatima (supra) has been pleased to pass the following order:-

"1. This is a petition for transfer of Petition No. A-55 of 2008 pending before the Family Court at Aurangabad Jafri Syed Husain (Parvez) v. Fatima to the Civil Court at Srinagar, in the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

2. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and after going through the materials on record and considering the fact that the petitioner wife is only 22 years of age and therefore, it would be difficult for her to attend the court proceedings at Aurangabad from Srinagar. Accordingly, we allow this petition for transfer of the aforesaid case now pending before the Family Court at Aurangabad to the Civil Court at Srinagar, Jammu and Kashmir for final disposal. The learned Judge, Family Court at Aurangabad is directed to transmit the case records of the aforesaid case to the Family Court at Srinagar, Jammu and Kashmir within a period of two months from the date of supply of a copy of this order to him."

18. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding in the case of Sumita Singh versus Kumar Sanjay and another reported in (2001) 10 Supreme Court Cases 41 in paragraph no. 3 of its judgment has observed as under:

"3. It is the husband's suit against the wife. It is the wife's convenience that, therefore, must be looked at. The circumstances indicated above are sufficient to make the transfer petition absolute."

19. Taking into consideration the uncontroverted facts and particularly the fact that once the opposite party expressed readiness for the settlement of the dispute through mediation and the Court accepting the request of the parties, referred the matter to the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court, where on 25.02.2025 the opposite party agreed to pay Rs.32 Lacs, and submitted a bank-draft of Rs.16 Lacs on 21.07.2025 out of the total amount before the Mediation Centre of this court and sought further time to deposit the balance amount on 25.08.2025. At the same time, on the other hand, he preferred an application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. before the Court, which was registered as Application U/S 482 No. 7060 of 2025, wherein the Court granted stay of the proceeding of Case Crime No. 0084 of 2024 vide order dated 27.08.2025 in his favour on the premise of pendency of mediation proceeding going on before the Mediation and Conciliation Centre of this Court. From the perusal of the order dated 27.08.2025 passed by this Court, it is evident that the Court by taking note of the fact that the opposite party herein has deposited Rs.16 Lacs in the form of Demand Draft in favour of the informant/applicant herein passed the stay order, in favour of the opposite party. Taking advantage of the protection in the criminal proceeding vide order dated 27.08.2025 passed by this court, the opposite party-husband withdrew the aforesaid amount of Rs.16 Lacs on 03.09.2025 from the Mediation Centre causing mediation process to fail. There was no occasion for the opposite party to withdrew the same knowingly well that his withdrawal of amount deposited as part payment towards settlement would defeat the mediation process. This strategical move on the part of the opposite party-husband goes to show his malafide intention to defeat the process of law and is nothing but abuse of Court. Further, the statement of the learned counsel for the opposite party that despite his best efforts, the opposite party is not providing any instructions to him to defend his case, goes to show his disrespectful behaviour towards the Court's proceeding.

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court while deciding in the case of N.C.V. Aishwarya versus A.S. Saravana Karthik Sha reported in AIR 2022 SC 4318 as held as under:

"9. The cardinal principle for exercise of power under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure is that the ends of justice should demand the transfer of the suit, appeal or other proceeding. In matrimonial matters, wherever Courts are called upon to consider the plea of transfer, the Courts have to take into consideration the economic soundness of both the parties, the social strata of the spouses and their behavioural pattern, their standard of life prior to the marriage and subsequent thereto and the circumstances of both the parties in eking out their livelihood and under whose protective umbrella they are seeking their sustenance to life. Given the prevailing socio- economic paradigm in the Indian society, generally, it is the wife's convenience which must be looked at while considering transfer."

21. In the light of the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court as quoted herein above, this Court taking into consideration the facts pleaded on behalf of the applicant that the applicant is a lady aged about 31 years, having no independent source of income and having no one in her family to escort her during the journey between Unnao and Agra to regularly attend the proceedings of the case filed by the opposite party under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 on each and every date, finds it to be a reasonable case for exercise of its power under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure as the inconvenience caused to the applicant wife in the above uncontradicted facts of the present case is evident and cannot be ignored or disbelieved.

22. The instant transfer application is accordingly allowed. The Case No. 71 of 2024 (Dharmendra Kumar Versus Smt. Ayushi Singh) filed by the opposite party under Section 13(1)(a) of Hindu Marriage Act, be transferred from the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra to the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, at Unnao.

23. The concerned Court at Agra shall ensure early transmission of the record to the learned Family Court at Unnao, which shall proceed in the matter from the stage it has been transferred to the said Court.

24. Looking to the inconvenience caused to the applicant-wife as discussed herein above, this court is inclined to levy costs on the opposite party-husband of Rs.50,000/- (Rs. Fifty Thousand) to be paid to the applicant-wife, who appears to have endured suffering during the pendency of the present transfer application.

25. Costs as directed shall be paid by the opposite party-husband to the applicant-wife within a period of one month from today. If the costs are not paid, the same shall be recovered in accordance with law as arrears of land revenue by the Collector, Agra and shall be paid over to the applicant-wife. A copy of the receipt/acknowledgement of payment of costs shall be placed before the Transferee Court by the opposite party-husband.

Transfer Application (Civil) No. 940 of 2023

Smt. Akansha Saxena ...Applicant
Versus
Shikhar Saxena ...Opposite Party

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether transfer of matrimonial proceedings under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 can be allowed on the basis of consent or non-opposition of the opposite party;
(ii) Whether, in matrimonial disputes, the convenience of the wife and attending socio-economic circumstances justify transfer of proceedings to another jurisdiction.

Headnotes

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Section 24 — Transfer of proceedings — Scope and nature of power:

Held: Section 24 CPC confers wide, discretionary and equitable jurisdiction upon the Court to transfer proceedings at any stage to secure ends of justice — The power is supervisory and remedial in character and intended to prevent hardship, inconvenience or failure of justice. [Para 7, 13.1]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Transfer — Dominus litis — Limitation of principle:

Held: Though plaintiff is dominus litis and entitled to choose forum, such right is not absolute — The Court may override such choice where insistence on chosen forum results in hardship, inequity or denial of access to justice — Section 24 CPC constitutes statutory exception to the doctrine. [Paras 8, 13.2]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Transfer by consent — Permissibility:

Held: Transfer of proceedings on the basis of consent or non-opposition of the opposite party is legally permissible — Procedural right to object to forum can be waived — Where parties are ad idem, apprehension of prejudice stands substantially mitigated. [Paras 9, 13.3–13.4]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Transfer — Consent — Scope of judicial scrutiny:
Held: In consent-based or unopposed transfer applications, necessity for elaborate comparative analysis of balance of convenience stands diluted — The Court is only required to be satisfied that transfer is lawful, fair and subserves ends of justice — Detailed reasoning is not mandatory in absence of contest. [Paras 10–11, 13.5–13.6]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Matrimonial disputes — Transfer — Convenience of wife:
Held: In matrimonial matters, convenience of wife deserves priority consideration having regard to socio-economic realities — Where wife has no independent source of income, is residing with minor child and faces hardship in travelling long distance, transfer is justified — The overarching test remains advancement of justice and prevention of hardship. [Paras 12, 13.7–13.8, 14]

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 — Transfer — Application of principles:
Held: Where the applicant-wife resides at Agra with minor child, has no independent income, and the opposite party does not oppose transfer, and no prejudice is caused to either side, the transfer of proceedings from Ghaziabad to Agra is justified and in furtherance of justice. [Para 14]

Case Arising From

Matrimonial Petition No. 2130 of 2023 instituted under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, pending before the Court of Additional Family Court No. 5, Ghaziabad.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellant: Sri Madhav Jain
For the Respondents: Sri Mahesh Narain Singh, Smt. Akansha Saxena

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard Sri Madhav Jain, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Mahesh Narain Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party.

2. The present transfer application has been filed by the applicant?wife under Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, seeking transfer of Matrimonial Petition No. 2130 of 2023, instituted by the opposite party under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, pending before the Court of Additional Family Court No. 5, Ghaziabad, to the Court of competent jurisdiction at Agra.

3. Though the lis arises out of a matrimonial dispute between private parties, the issues which arise for consideration transcend the individual facts of the case and touch upon the nature, scope, and contours of the jurisdiction exercised by this Court under Section 24 CPC, particularly in cases where transfer is sought by consent or where the opposite party does not oppose the prayer. The matter, therefore, calls for a consideration of the applicable legal principles governing exercise of powers of transfer under Section 24, on the basis of consent of parties.

4. The factual position brought on record indicates that the marriage between the applicant and the opposite party was solemnized on 18.02.2011 at Agra in accordance with Hindu rites and rituals. Out of the wedlock, a son was born on 31.01.2020. Due to matrimonial discord, the applicant is presently residing at her parental home at Agra along with her minor son. It has been specifically pleaded that the applicant has no regular or independent source of income and is entirely dependent upon her parents for her sustenance as well as that of the minor child. It has further been stated, and not disputed, that the opposite party is not paying any maintenance either to the applicant or to the minor child.

5. The opposite party has instituted Matrimonial Petition No. 2130 of 2023 under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, seeking dissolution of marriage, which is pending before the Court of Additional Family Court No. 5, Ghaziabad. The applicant has asserted that the distance between Agra and Ghaziabad is approximately 200 kilometers and that repeated travel to Ghaziabad would cause grave inconvenience, financial strain, and physical hardship, particularly in view of her limited financial means and her responsibility towards a school-going minor child. It has also been pleaded that the applicant's father, aged about 65 years, is suffering from serious ailments and is not in a position to accompany her during such travel. It has further been pointed out that the opposite party himself is a resident of Agra, where his parental house is also situated. These facts are not controverted and form the factual substratum of the present application.

6. Significantly, the opposite party has categorically stated before this Court that he does not wish to oppose the present transfer application. The prayer for transfer is, therefore, not contested and is, in effect, founded on the consent or at least the unequivocal non-opposition of the opposite party. This aspect assumes considerable importance, as it has a direct bearing on the nature of scrutiny required to be undertaken by the Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 24 CPC.

7. Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, confers wide and discretionary jurisdiction upon the High Court and the District Court to transfer or withdraw any suit, appeal, or other proceeding at any stage, either on the application of any of the parties or even suo motu. The provision is couched in broad and enabling language and does not prescribe rigid conditions or straitjacketed parameters for the exercise of power. The legislative intent underlying Section 24 CPC is to vest the superior courts with sufficient flexibility to ensure fairness of procedure, to avoid hardship, inconvenience, or oppression, and to secure the proper administration of justice. The power is remedial, equitable, and supervisory in character and is intended to prevent failure of justice that may otherwise result from a rigid adherence to procedural form.

8. It is no doubt a settled principle that ordinarily the plaintiff, being dominus litis, has the right to choose the forum of institution and that such choice is not to be interfered with lightly. This principle recognises the autonomy of a litigant to prosecute his cause in a forum permitted by law.

However, the doctrine of dominus litis is not an inflexible or absolute rule. Section 24 CPC itself constitutes a statutory exception to this principle and empowers the Court to override the plaintiff's choice on an application for transfer by any of the parties or of its own motion. The right of forum selection cannot be elevated to a position where it defeats substantive justice or imposes undue hardship upon the opposite party. Where the insistence on the chosen forum results in inequity, prejudice, or denial of effective access to justice, the doctrine of dominus litis must necessarily yield in order to prevent hardship and ensure fairness in proceedings.

nothing in the provision prohibits the Court from ordering a transfer where both parties agree or where the opposite party raises no objection. The provision is enabling and permissive, not restrictive. Procedural rights, including the right to object to a particular forum, are capable of being waived. When a party expressly consents to transfer or states that he or she has no objection to the prayer, the procedural privilege flowing from the principle of dominus litis stands voluntarily relinquished. In such a situation, the foundational concern of prejudice, which ordinarily animates contested transfer applications, stands substantially diluted, if not entirely removed.

10. Where parties are ad idem on the question of transfer, the necessity for an elaborate comparative examination of balance of convenience stands considerably reduced. Consent reflects a mutual acceptance of the proposed forum and carries with it a presumption that no party apprehends injustice or disadvantage. In such cases, the Court is not required to engage in a hyper-technical or mechanical exercise of weighing relative inconvenience. A consensual transfer ordinarily advances the interest of justice by avoiding unnecessary procedural contest, conserving judicial time, and facilitating expeditious adjudication. Where no legal impediment is shown to exist, insistence on continuation of proceedings at the original forum serves no substantive or meaningful purpose.

11. The requirement that judicial orders must be reasoned is well settled. However, the nature and extent of reasons required depend upon the context and the nature of controversy involved. In consent-based or unopposed transfer applications, the requirement of recording reasons is sufficiently met by noting the consent or non-opposition of the parties and the Court's satisfaction that the transfer is lawful, fair, and does not occasion injustice. The law does not mandate an elaborate reasoning exercise where the factual foundation of contest is absent and where the parties themselves invite the Court to exercise its jurisdiction.

12. Matrimonial disputes occupy a distinct position in transfer jurisprudence owing to their personal nature and the socio-economic realities that attend them. In such matters, the "balance of convenience" assumes particular significance and must be assessed not in abstract or theoretical terms but in the context of lived realities. In the Indian socio-economic milieu, it is often the wife who bears primary responsibility for the care and upbringing of minor children and who is more likely to be financially constrained or dependent. Courts have, therefore, consistently recognised that while convenience is a relative concept, the convenience of the wife deserves priority consideration in matrimonial transfer petitions. This approach is rooted not in any presumption of preference but in pragmatic considerations of access to justice and fairness. The overarching and controlling principle remains that the ends of justice must be subserved.

13. From the statutory framework and the foregoing discussion, the following general principles may be stated:

13.1 Section 24 of the Code of Civil Procedure confers wide, discretionary, and equitable power upon the Court to transfer proceedings at any stage in order to secure the ends of justice.

13.2 The plaintiff's right as dominus litis to choose the forum of institution is subject to judicial control and may be overridden where adherence to such choice would result in hardship or injustice.

13.3 Transfer of proceedings by consent or where the opposite party raises no objection is legally permissible and well within the scope of Section 24 CPC.

13.4 Consent to transfer operates as a voluntary waiver of objection to the forum, and in such cases, the apprehension of prejudice stands substantially mitigated.

13.5 Where transfer is sought by consent or is unopposed, the necessity for an elaborate comparative analysis of balance of convenience stands diluted, though the Court must be satisfied as to the legality and fairness of the transfer.

13.6 In consent-based transfer orders, the requirement of recording reasons is adequately satisfied by noting the consensual stand of the parties and the Court's satisfaction that the transfer advances the ends of justice.

13.7 In matrimonial proceedings, having regard to social realities, the convenience of the wife, particularly where her personal, familial or economic circumstances place her at a comparative disadvantage, deserves priority consideration.

13.8 The ultimate and controlling test for exercise of power under Section 24 CPC is whether the transfer prevents hardship and subserves the cause of justice.

14. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, this Court finds that the applicant-wife resides at Agra with her school-going minor son. It is stated that she has no independent source of income, and is dependent upon her parents. The distance between Agra and Ghaziabad would necessitate repeated travel entailing financial strain and physical hardship. The applicant has also pleaded lack of adequate assistance and the ill-health of her aged father. The opposite party has categorically stated that he does not oppose the transfer. No prejudice, actual or apprehended, is shown to be caused to either side. The transfer sought is bona fide, consensual, and clearly in furtherance of justice.

15. For all the reasons aforesaid, this Court is of the considered opinion that the present case is a fit one

16. Accordingly, the Civil Misc. Transfer Application is allowed with the following directions:

(ii) Matrimonial Petition No.2130 of 2023, pending before the Court of Additional Family Court No. 5, Ghaziabad, is hereby withdrawn and transferred to the Court of competent jurisdiction at Agra.

(iii) The Court at Ghaziabad shall transmit the entire original record of the case to the transferee court within a period of fifteen days from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

(iv) The transferee Court shall proceed with the matter from the stage at which it is transferred and shall endeavour to decide the same expeditiously, in accordance with law.

Special Appeal No. 28 of 2026

Ratan Buildtech Pvt. Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Anil Kumar ...Respondent

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether special appeal is maintainable against an order passed u/s 58 of the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016, before the Division Bench?

Headnotes

A. Real Estate Law - Civil Procedural Law – Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016: Section 58 – Tribunals which are set up in an organised State for the Administration of Justice are courts and have been described as bodies of men which are appointed to decide controversies arising under certain special laws. The procedure before the Tribunal and Courts may differ but the functions are not essentially different. Further, it depends on a particular Act whether the functions of a particular Tribunal are akin to those of the courts which provide for the basic administration of justice. (Para 24)

When Company Law Board ('CLB') exercised its powers, it exercised its quasi-judicial power as original authority, it may not be a court but it has all the trappings of a court. Therefore, CLB, while exercising its original jurisdiction passed the order and against that order, appeal lies to the learned Single Judge of the High Court and thereafter no further appeal could be filed. (Para 15)

In the present case, the proceedings were initiated before the Real Estate Adjudicating Officer u/s 31 of the Act, 2016. A bare perusal of provisions reveals that the Act, 2016 provides for a complete machinery for adjudication of disputes between promoters and allottees or the real estate agents. The Adjudicating Officer u/s 35 has the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the CPC, 1908 and the Appellate Tribunal u/s 53(4) has same powers as are vested in civil courts under the CPC in respect of the matters enumerated in the said sub-section, and sub-section (5) provides that all proceedings before the Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be judicial proceedings and Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be civil court for the purpose of certain provisions of IPC and CrPC respectively. (Para 16 to 20)

The appellate provision u/s 58 of the Act, 2016 provides for appeal from the order of the Appellate Tribunal to the High Court. (Para 21)

B. A comparison of provisions of Section 10E(4C) and (4D) of the Companies Act, 1956 with provisions of Section 53 of the Act, 2016 dealing with powers of the Appellate Tribunal, would reveal that the same are almost in identical terms, wherein both the CLB and the Tribunal have been deemed to be civil court and proceedings before them to be judicial proceedings. Further, the power of review along with their orders being executable, are also identical in nature. Therefore, it can safely be concluded that the UPREAT has trappings of the court similar to the CLB and, thereby no special appeal would be maintainable against an order passed u/s 58 of the Act, 2016 before the Division Bench. (Para 26, 27)

C. Recently the Calcutta High Court in Glorious Investment Limited Vs. Dunlop International Limited & Ors. (infra), has come to the conclusion that Letters Patent appeal against judgment of learned Single Judge sitting in the Intellectual Property Rights Division under the Trade Marks Act, 1999 would not be maintainable. (Para 30)

The present appeal u/Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 against order passed by learned Single Judge on an appeal u/s 58 of the Act, 2016, would be barred u/s 100-A CPC. (Para 31)

Special appeal dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Appellant(s): Sudeep Kumar (Sr. Adv.), Mahima Pahwa, Shreshth Srivastava, Alok Kumar Mishra, Prashant Kumar Singh
For Respondent(s): Shivendra Rao

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Bhansali, C.J.)

1. This special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 ('Rules, 1952') is directed against order dated 04.09.2025 passed in RERA Appeal No. 72 of 2025, whereby learned Single Judge dismissed the appeal filed by the appellant against judgment dated 14.05.2025 passed by the U.P. Real Estate Appellate Tribunal, Lucknow ('UPREAT').

2. The facts, in brief, may be noticed thus:

3. The respondent made a booking in the project of the appellant and was allotted a flat/apartment and a builder buyer agreement was executed between the parties in which the expected offer of possession was in December 2019. On account of the delay, the respondent made a complaint for grant of compensation under the Real Estate (Regulation and Development) Act, 2016 ('Act, 2016') before the Adjudicating Officer at Gautam Buddha Nagar. The appellant filed objections to the complaint and raised preliminary objections with regard to the absence of jurisdiction.

4. The Adjudicating Officer, by order dated 10.02.2023, granted certain reliefs to the respondent. The appellant assailed the judgment and order dated 10.02.2023 by filing appeal before the UPREAT. The UPREAT, by its judgment and order dated 14.05.2025, quashed and set aside the order dated 10.02.2023 passed by the Adjudicating Officer and substituted the same by its own directions for payment of delayed interest on the deposited amount.

5. Feeling aggrieved, the appellant filed appeal under Section 58 of the Act, 2016 before the learned Single Judge. The learned Single Judge, after hearing the parties, dismissed the appeal.

6. Aggrieved of the order passed by the UPREAT and the learned Single Judge, the present appeal has been filed.

7. The appeal was initially reported to be barred by limitation by the office which delay has been condoned by order dated 19.01.2026.

8. When the appeal came up before the Court for admission, a preliminary objection was raised by counsel for the respondent that special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 was not maintainable. Reliance was placed on the judgment of a Full Bench of this Court in Sheet Gupta Vs. State of U.P. & others: AIR 2010 All 46 (FB).

9. Learned counsel for the respondent made submissions that from a plain reading of provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952, it is very clear that a special appeal from the judgment passed by one Judge in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction, in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court will not lie, as has been laid down by judgment in the case of Sheet Gupta (supra) as well and as neither the adjudicating authority nor the Tribunal are a court, therefore, the appeal deserves to be dismissed as not maintainable.

10. Learned Senior Counsel for the appellant made submissions that judgment in the case of Sheet Gupta (supra) as well as provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 do not bar filing of the appeal against judgment impugned, inasmuch as the restriction is 'in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court' and that the judgment impugned before the learned Single Judge was of the Tribunal and not Court and therefore, the plea raised in this regard has no substance.

11. Learned counsel for the appellant was confronted with the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kamal Kumar Dutta & Anr. Vs. Ruby General Hospital Ltd. & Ors.: (2006) 7 SCC 613, wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court, based on provisions of Section 100-A CPC, came to the conclusion that special appeal, irrespective of the provisions of Letters Patent of a particular High Court, would not be maintainable.

12. Counsel for the appellant made detailed submissions placing all his emphasis on a Division Bench judgment of Delhi High Court in Promoshirt SM SA Vs. Armassuisse & Anr.: 2023:DHC:6352-DB and submitted that the Division Bench of Delhi High Court in the said case, has thoroughly considered the effect and implication of judgment in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra) and in a case where the special appeal was filed against a judgment of learned Single Judge under Section 91 of the Trade Marks Act, 1999, it was held that such an appeal would be maintainable. Based on the said judgment, it was sought to be emphasised that the appeal would not be barred under Section 100-A CPC.

13. We have considered the submissions made by counsel for the appellant and have perused the judgments in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra) and Promoshirt (supra).

14. It would be appropriate to notice that Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra), in a case where Special Leave Petition was filed from judgment of a Single Judge passed under Section 10F of the Companies Act, 1956, wherein an objection was raised that Letters Patent appeal was maintainable before Division Bench of the High Court and therefore, the Special Leave Petition should not be entertained, came to the following conclusion:

'21. But after the amendment the power which was being exercised under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act by the learned Single Judge of the High Court is being exercised by CLB under Section 10-E of the Act. Appeal against the order passed by CLB, lies to the High Court under Section 10-F of the Act. Therefore, the position which was obtaining prior to the amendment in 1991 was that from any order passed by the Single Judge exercising the power under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act, the appeal used to lie before the Division Bench of the High Court. But after the amendment the power has been given to CLB and appeal has been provided under Section 10-F of the Act. Thus, Part 1-A was inserted by the amendment with effect from 1.1.1964. But the constitution of the Company Law Board and the power to decide application under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act was given to CLB with effect from 31.5.1991 and appeal was provided under Section 10-F of the Act with effect from 31.5.1991. Therefore, on reading of Sections 10-E, 10-F, 397 and 398 of the Act, it becomes clear that it is a complete code that applications under Sections 397 and 398 the Act shall be dealt with by CLB and the order of CLB is appealable under Section 10-F of the Act before the High Court. No further appeal has been provided against the order of the learned Single Judge. Mr. Nariman, learned Senior Counsel for the respondents submitted that an appeal is a vested right and, therefore, under clause 15 of the Letters Patent of the Calcutta High Court, the appellants have a statutory right to prefer appeal irrespective of the fact that no appeal has been provided against the order of the learned Single Judge under the Act. In this connection, learned counsel invited our attention to a decision of this Court in Garikapatti Veeraya v. N. Subbiah Choudhury and in that it has been pointed out that the appeal is a vested right. The majority took the view that the appeal is a vested right. It was held as follows: (SCR p.488)

'... that the contention of the applicant was well-founded, that he had a vested right of appeal to the Federal Court on and from the date of the suit and the application for special leave should be allowed.

The vested right of appeal was a substantive right and, although it could be exercised only in case of an adverse decision, it was governed by the law prevailing at the time of commencement of the suit and comprised all successive rights of appeal from court to court, which really constituted one proceeding. Such a right could be taken away only by a subsequent enactment either expressly or by necessary intendment."

22. So far as the general proposition of law is concerned that the appeal is a vested right there is no quarrel with the proposition but it is clarified that such right can be taken away by a subsequent enactment either expressly or by necessary intendment. Parliament while amending Section 100-A of the Code of Civil Procedure, by amending Act 22 of 2002 with effect from 1.7.2002, took away the Letters Patent power of the High Court in the matter of appeal against an order of the learned Single Judge to the Division Bench. Section 100-A of the Code of Civil Procedure reads as follows:

'100-A. No further appeal in certain cases.-Notwithstanding anything contained in any Letters Patent for any High Court or in any other instrument having the force of law or in any other law for the time being in force, where any appeal from an original or appellate decree or order is heard and decided by a Single Judge of a High Court, no further appeal shall lie from the judgment and decree of such Single Judge."

23. Therefore, where appeal has been decided from an original order by a Single Judge, no further appeal has been provided and that power which used to be there under the Letters Patent of the High Court has been subsequently withdrawn. The present order which has been passed by CLB and against that an appeal has been provided before the High Court under Section 10-F of the Act, that is an appeal from the original order. Then in that case no further letters patent appeal shall lie to the Division Bench of the same High Court. This amendment has taken away the power of the Letters Patent in the matter where learned Single Judge hears an appeal from the original order. Original order in the present case was passed by CLB exercising the power under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act and appeal has been preferred under Section 10-F of the Act before the High Court. Learned Single Judge having passed an order, no further appeal will lie as Parliament in its wisdom has taken away its power. Learned counsel for the respondents invited our attention to a letter from the then Law Minister. That letter cannot override the statutory provision. When the statute is very clear, whatever statement by the Law Minister made on the floor of the House, cannot change the words and intendment which is borne out from the words. The letter of the Law Minister cannot be read to interpret the provisions of Section 100-A. The intendment of the legislature is more than clear in the words and the same has to be given its natural meaning and cannot be subject to any statement made by the Law Minister in any communication. The words speak for themselves. It does not require any further interpretation by any statement made in any manner. Therefore, the power of the High Court in exercising the Letters Patent in a matter where a Single Judge has decided the appeal from the original order, has been taken away and it cannot be invoked in the present context. There are no two opinions in the matter that when CLB exercised its power under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act, it exercised its quasi-judicial power as original authority. It may not be a court but it has all the trapping of a court. Therefore, the CLB while exercising its original jurisdiction under Sections 397 and 398 of the Act passed the order and against that order appeal lies to the learned Single Judge of the High Court and thereafter no further appeal could be filed.'

15. Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that when Company Law Board ('CLB') exercised its powers, it exercised its quasi-judicial power as original authority, it may not be a court but it has all the trappings of a court. Therefore, CLB, while exercising its original jurisdiction passed the order and against that order, appeal lies to the learned Single Judge of the High Court and thereafter no further appeal could be filed.

16. In the present case, the proceedings were initiated before the Real Estate Adjudicating Officer under Section 31 of the Act, 2016. Section 35 of the Act, 2016 deals with powers of officer to call for information, conduct investigations and Section 36 thereof grants power to issue interim orders, Section 37 confers the power to issue directions and Section 38 confers the power to impose penalty or interest. Section 39 gives power for rectification of orders and Section 40 provides for procedure for recovery of interest or penalty or compensation and enforcement of orders.

17. Section 44 of the Act, 2016 provides for appeals to the Appellate Tribunal against the decision of the Adjudicating Officer. The powers of the Appellate Tribunal are enumerated in Section 53, which reads as under:

'53. Powers of Tribunal.'(1) The Appellate Tribunal shall not be bound by the procedure laid down by the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) but shall be guided by the principles of natural justice.

(2) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the Appellate Tribunal shall have power to regulate its own procedure.

(3) The Appellate Tribunal shall also not be bound by the rules of evidence contained in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872).

(4) The Appellate Tribunal shall have, for the purpose of discharging its functions under this Act, the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) in respect of the following matters, namely:

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) issuing commissions for the examinations of witnesses or documents;

(e) reviewing its decisions;

(f) dismissing an application for default or directing it ex parte; and

(g) any other matter which may be prescribed.

(5) All proceedings before the Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be judicial proceedings within the meaning of Sections 193, 219 and 228 for the purposes of Section 196 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), and the Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be civil court for the purposes of Section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).'

18. Further, under Section 57 of the Act, 2016, orders passed by the Appellate Tribunal are executable as a decree, which provision reads as under:

'57. Orders passed by Appellate Tribunal to be executable as a decree.-(1) Every order made by the Appellate Tribunal under this Act shall be executable by the Appellate Tribunal as a decree of civil court, and for this purpose, the Appellate Tribunal shall have all the powers of a civil court.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), the Appellate Tribunal may transmit any order made by it to a civil court having local jurisdiction and such civil court shall execute the order as if it were a decree made by the court.'

19. Against an order passed by the Appellate Tribunal, the appeal lies to the High Court under Section 58, which reads as under:

'58. Appeal to High Court.- (1) Any person aggrieved by any decision or order of the Appellate Tribunal, may, file an appeal to the High Court, within a period of sixty days from the date of communication of the decision or order of the Appellate Tribunal, to him, on any one or more of the grounds specified in Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908):

Provided that the High Court may entertain the appeal after the expiry of the said period of sixty days, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from preferring the appeal in time.

Explanation.'The expression 'High Court' means the High Court of a State or Union Territory where the real estate project is situated.

(2) No appeal shall lie against any decision or order made by the Appellate Tribunal with the consent of the parties.'

20. A bare perusal of above provisions reveals that the Act, 2016 provides for a complete machinery for adjudication of disputes between promoters and allottees or the real estate agents. The Adjudicating Officer under Section 35 has the same powers as are vested in a civil court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and the Appellate Tribunal under Section 53(4) has same powers as are vested in civil courts under the CPC in respect of the matters enumerated in the said subsection, and sub-section (5) provides that all proceedings before the Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be judicial proceedings and Appellate Tribunal shall be deemed to be civil court for the purpose of certain provisions of IPC and CrPC respectively.

21. The appellate provision under Section 58 of the Act, 2016 provides for appeal from the order of the Appellate Tribunal to the High Court.

22. In Kihoto Hollohan Vs. Zachillhu & Ors: 1992 Supp (2) SCC 651, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:

'98. But then is the Speaker or the Chairman acting under Paragraph 6(1) a Tribunal? "All tribunals are not courts, though all courts are tribunals". The word "courts" is used to designate those tribunals which are set up in an organised State for the Administration of Justice. By Administration of Justice is meant the exercise of judicial power of the State to maintain and uphold rights and to punish "wrongs". Whenever there is an infringement of a right or an injury, the courts are there to restore the vinculum juris, which is disturbed. (See *Harinagar Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Shyam Sundar Jhunjhunwal*a: (1962) 2 SCR 339. In that case Hidayatullah, J. said: (SCR p. 362)

"...By 'courts' is meant courts of civil judicature and by 'tribunals', those bodies of men who are appointed to decide controversies arising under certain special laws. Among the powers of the State is included the power to decide such controversies. This is undoubtedly one of the attributes of the State, and is aptly called the judicial power of the State. In the exercise of this power, a clear division is thus noticeable. Broadly speaking, certain special matters go before tribunals, and the residue goes before the ordinary courts of civil judicature. Their procedures may differ, but the functions are not essentially different. What distinguishes them has never been successfully established. Lord Stamp said that the real distinction is that the courts have 'an air of detachment'. But this is more a matter of age and tradition and is not of the essence. Many tribunals, in recent years, have acquitted themselves so well and with such detachment as to make this test insufficient."

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Gujarat & Anr. Vs. Gujarat Revenue Tribunal Bar Association & Anr.: (2012) 10 SCC 353, has dealt with the aspect in the following manner:

'18. Tribunals have primarily been constituted to deal with cases under special laws and to hence provide for specialised adjudication alongside the courts. Therefore, a particular Act/set of rules will determine whether the functions of a particular Tribunal are akin to those of the courts, which provide for the basic administration of justice. Where there is a lis between two contesting parties and a statutory authority is required to decide such dispute between them, such an authority may be called as a quasi-judicial authority i.e. a situation where, (a) a statutory authority is empowered under a statute to do any act; (b) the order of such authority would adversely affect the subject; and (c) although there is no lis or two contending parties, and the contest is between the authority and the subject; and (d) the statutory authority is required to act judicially under the statute, the decision of the said authority is a quasi-judicial decision. An authority may be described as a quasi-judicial authority when it possesses certain attributes or trappings of a 'court', but not all.

In case certain powers under CPC or CrPC have been conferred upon an authority, but it has not been entrusted with the judicial powers of State, it cannot be held to be a court.'

24. From the above judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is apparent that Tribunals which are set up in an organised State for the Administration of Justice are courts and have been described as bodies of men which are appointed to decide controversies arising under certain special laws. The procedure before the Tribunal and Courts may differ but the functions are not essentially different. Further, it depends on a particular Act whether the functions of a particular Tribunal are akin to those of the courts which provide for the basic administration of justice.

25. The powers of CLB, which were the subject matter before Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra), inter alia under Section 10E(4C) and (4D) of the Companies Act, 1956, provided as under:

"10E. Constitution of Board of Company Law Administration.-

' ...

(4C) Every Bench referred to in sub-section (4B) shall have powers which are vested in a Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), while trying a suit, in respect of the following matters, namely :-

(a) discovery and inspection of documents or other material objects producible as evidence;

(b) enforcing the attendance of witnesses and requiring the deposit of their expenses;

(c) compelling the production of documents or other material objects producible as evidence and impounding the same;

(d) examining witnesses on oath;

(e) granting adjournments;

(f) reception of evidence on affidavits.

(4D) Every Bench shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for the purposes of section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), and every proceeding before the Bench shall be deemed to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of sections 193 and 228 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860) and for the purpose of section 196 of that Code.'

26. As would be seen, the emphasis of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra) for applicability of provisions of Section 100-A CPC was that the CLB has all the trappings of a court.

27. A comparison of provisions of Section 10E(4C) and (4D) of the Companies Act, 1956 with provisions of Section 53 of the Act, 2016 dealing with powers of the Appellate Tribunal, would reveal that the same are almost in identical terms, wherein both the CLB and the Tribunal have been deemed to be civil court and proceedings before them to be judicial proceedings. Further, the power of review along with their orders being executable, are also identical in nature. Therefore, it can safely be concluded that the UPREAT has trappings of the court similar to the CLB and therefore, the ratio of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra) would apply with all force to the present case as well, thereby no special appeal would be maintainable against an order passed under Section 58 of the Act, 2016 before the Division Bench.

28. So far as the Division Bench judgment in the case of Promoshirt (supra), heavily relied on by counsel for the appellant is concerned, one of the considerations for coming to the conclusion regarding maintainability of appeal and for distinguishing the judgment in the case of Kamal Kumar Dutta (supra) can be noticed in para 58, which reads as under:

'58. In Kamal Kumar Dutta the Supreme Court came to conclude that Section 100-A of the Code would bar a further appeal in terms of a letters patent provision since it found that while the erstwhile Company Law Board may not be a court it had all the trappings thereof. We in this regard bear in mind the provisions of Section 10E (4D) of the Companies Act, 1956, which had ordained that all proceedings before the Company Law Board would be deemed to be judicial proceedings albeit for the limited purposes indicated therein. We note that similar is the position which prevails under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 with Section 169 thereof, prescribing that the Motor Vehicle Claims Tribunal shall be deemed to be a civil court for purposes enumerated therein. It is also relevant to note that the Intellectual Property Appellate Board, as it existed prior to the promulgation of the Tribunals Reforms Act, 2021 had been clothed with an identical status by virtue of Section 92. The decisions that thus came to be rendered in Kamal Kumar Dutta, Gandla Pannala Bhulaxmi, Rouf Ahmad Zaroo and United India Insurance all emanated from special statutes with a deeming provision. The decision of the Full Bench of the Kerala High Court in Kesava Pillai Sreedharan Pillai arose out of proceedings instituted under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 and the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 whose distinguishing characteristics have already been explained hereinabove.'

29. The Division Bench attempted to distinguish the judgment on the ground that in case of CLB, there is a deeming provision under Section 10E(4D) of the Companies Act, 1956, quoted herein before, which features distinguish the case. In view of the fact that such deeming provisions, as existed in Section 10E(4D) of the Companies Act, 1956, are available under Section 53 of the Act, 2016, the judgment as such would have no application to the present case.

30. Besides the above, recently the Calcutta High Court in Glorious Investment Limited Vs. Dunlop International Limited & Ors.: 2025 SCC Online Cal 8647, has dissented with the view taken in the case of Promoshirt (supra) and has come to the conclusion that Letters Patent appeal against judgment of learned Single Judge sitting in the Intellectual Property Rights Division under the Trade Marks Act, 1999 would not be maintainable.

31. In view of above discussion, we are firmly of the opinion that the present appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 against order passed by learned Single Judge on an appeal under Section 58 of the Act, 2016, would be barred under Section 100-A CPC.

32. Consequently, the appeal is dismissed as not maintainable.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 23.02.2026

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAJAN ROY, J.
THE HON'BLE ABDHESH KUMAR CHAUDHARY, J.

Special Appeal No. 48 of 2026

S.B.I. Stressed Assets Recovery Branch Thru. Chief Manager ...Appellant
Versus
M/s G.S.M. Bricks & Tiles & Ors. ...Respondent

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether in the present case, learned Single Judge Bench of this Court could exercise its jurisdiction u/Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India?

Headnotes

A. Debt Recovery Law – Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002: Section 17(3), 18 - It is well-settled that ordinarily relief u/Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India is not available if an efficacious alternative remedy is available to any aggrieved person. (Para 22)

B. The writ petition could not have been allowed on the very first day without giving any opportunity to the appellant-bank to file any counter affidavit and also that learned Single Judge Bench did not have jurisdiction to decide a matter u/Article 227 of the Constitution of India on the date on which the writ petition was listed before him.

According to the roster determined by Hon'ble the Chief Justice of this Court on 31.07.2025, the jurisdiction of entertaining petitions u/Article 227 of the Constitution of India and exercising such powers was not vested with the learned Single Judge Bench rather these matters were assigned to two Courts i.e. Court No. 5 and 7, but, Court No. 5 had such jurisdiction only in respect of specified matters under which an order passed by the DRT would not fall, therefore, such powers remained only with Court No. 7, whereas, the learned Single Judge Bench has passed the order while sitting in Court No. 6. (Para 23, 24)

Therefore, the order passed by the learned Single Bench is in the teeth of the law, is without jurisdiction and is unsustainable on the reasons given for entertaining the writ petition in spite of availability of a statutory remedy u/s 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, the same is liable to be quashed. (Para 25)

The respondent nos. 1 to 3 are at liberty to prefer an appeal u/s 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and seek such reliefs as may be permissible in law.

Special appeal allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Appellant(s): Alok Saxena
For Respondent(s): Jitendra Saksena

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.)

1. Heard Shri Alok Saxena, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Jitendra Saxena, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 1 to 3 and Shri Sarvesh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4.

2. By means of this special appeal the appellant-Bank has assailed a judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge Bench of this Court in a Writ Petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India albeit exercising powers under Article 227 thereof, as stated therein.

3. By the impugned judgment the learned Single Judge has quashed an order dated 20.09.2025 passed by the Debt Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow in S.A. No. 290 of 2025 rejecting the interim relief application of the applicant before the DRT, Lucknow.

4. As regards maintainability of this appeal filed under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 we may fruitfully refer to a Co-ordinate Bench judgment of this Court rendered in Special Appeal No. 220 of 2023; Sharp Industries Vs. Bank of Maharashtra and Ors., wherein, after considering Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 and the decision of a Full Bench of this Court it has been held that constitution of Debt Recovery Tribunal being in exercise of powers by the Parliament under Entry 45 of List I i.e. banking, and not under any entry of the State List or Concurrent List, the exclusionary clauses contained in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII referred above does not apply and a special appeal in such matters would be maintainable. The said decision has been followed by another Division Bench of which one of us (Rajan Roy, J.) was a Member in Special Appeal No. 61 of 2024; M/s Susheela Taxfab Private Limited Vs. Debts Recovery Tribunal, Lucknow decided on 03.04.2024.

5. In view of the aforesaid exposition of law, we hold that this special appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 challenging the judgment and order passed by learned Single Judge, is maintainable.

6. As regards merits of the appeal it has been contended by the learned counsel for the appellant-bank that there is an effective statutory remedy available under Section 18 of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as 'the SARFAESI Act, 2002') against the order passed by Debt Recovery Tribunal (hereinafter referred to as 'DRT') but, instead of availing of said remedy and in violation of the law declared on this issue by Hon'ble the Supreme Court right from the case of United Bank of India Vs. Satyawati Tondon and Ors. reported in (2010) 8 SCC 110 to the latest decision rendered on 16.10.2025 in Civil Appeal arising out of SLP (C) Nos. 27984-27988 of 2023; Leelawati N. and Ors. Vs. State of Karnataka and Ors. and connected appeals, a writ petition was filed by the respondent nos. 1 to 3 under Article 226 of the Constitution of India challenging the above-mentioned interim order passed by the DRT, Lucknow in proceedings under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and the writ Court not only entertained the writ petition but allowed it on the first day itself without giving any opportunity to the appellant-bank to file a counter affidavit in the matter nor issuing any notice to the auction purchaser who was arrayed as an opposite party therein.

7. It is submitted that a mention was made in the morning for taking up the case and the case was taken up on the same day and the writ petition was allowed. The submission was that Hon'ble the Supreme Court has deprecated entertainment of writ petitions by the High Court under Article 226 or petitions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India against such an order in spite of availability of statutory remedy under the SARFAESI Act, 2002. He invited our attention in this regard to Para 43 to 46 and 55 of the judgment in Satyawati Tandon (supra), especially, Para 55 wherein Hon'ble the Supreme Court expressed its serious concern that despite its repeated pronouncements the High Courts continue to ignore the availability of statutory remedies under the DRT Act and the SARFAESI Act and exercise jurisdiction under Article 226 for passing orders which have serious adverse impact on the rights of banks and other financial institutions to recover their dues as also the hope expressed by the Supreme Court that in future the High Courts will exercise their discretion in such matters with greater caution, care and circumspection. Reliance was also placed on subsequent decisions wherein the said concerned and hope was reiterated.

8. In spite of it, the writ petition was filed, entertained and allowed on the first day itself quashing the interim order passed by the DRT, Lucknow, though, it was amenable to challenge under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002.

referred in Satyawati Tandon (supra) and other cases, as, the order impugned before the writ Court was one which had been passed after hearing learned counsel for the parties and noticing in detail the submissions of rival parties and giving reasons for rejection of the interim relief application.

10. It was also his submission that very basis of the impugned order passed by the learned Writ Court that the order passed by the DRT, Lucknow was a non speaking order, is factually incorrect. The fallacy of it would be evident on a bare reading of the interim order passed by the DRT, Lucknow.

11. He also invited our attention to Section 17(3) of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 under which the DRT after examining the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence produced by the parties, comes to conclusion that any of the measures referred to in sub-section (4) of Section 13, taken by the secured creditor are not in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 2002 and the rules made thereunder, can pass restitutive orders, to the effect of restoration of the management or restoration of possession, of the secured assets to the borrower or other aggrieved person, and in that regard may, pass suitable orders in terms of Clause (a), (b) and (c) referred therein.

12. Learned counsel for the auction purchaser Shri Sarvesh Kumar Tiwari heavily relied upon the recent decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Leelawati N. (supra) to contend that the writ petition itself was not maintainable in the first place what to say of it being allowed on the very first day without even issuing any notice to his client i.e. auction purchaser.

13. He further emphasized the fact that though the writ petition was filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the learned Single Judge allowed the writ petition and passed the impugned order exercising the powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, though, he did not have jurisdiction to exercise such powers under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and the said jurisdiction vested, by order of Hon'ble the Chief Justice, in two different Benches as per the roster determined by him on 31.07.2025 which was effective as on 23.09.2025 i.e. date of passing of the impugned order.

14. Learned counsel for the respondent nos. 1 to 3 on the other hand contended that his clients had taken three loans in respect of three bank accounts and had also applied under the OTS Scheme for one time settlement which was accepted and in spite of closure of one of the accounts the notice for recovery etc. was issued including the loan amount in respect of all the three accounts. The loan amount pertaining to the closed bank account was about 5 lac and odd and total loan amount, according to him, was Rs.55 lacs and odd, but, ignoring this fact the proceedings were held.

15. He also submitted that various submissions made before the DRT, Lucknow on behalf of his clients were not taken note of and the order was a non speaking order. He attempted to address the Court on the merits of the order passed by the DRT, Lucknow to contend that it is wholly illegal order. He also emphasized the fact that the order passed on 20.09.2025 by the DRT, Lucknow which was a Saturday and the next day being a Sunday and as 23.09.2025 was the date fixed for taking of the possession, therefore, his clients had no other remedy but to file a writ petition before the High Court and on a mention being made the same was taken up on 23.09.2025 itself and requisite orders were passed. He relied upon a decision of Hon'ble the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Whirlpool Corporation Vs. Registrar of Trade Marks, Mumbai and Ors. reported in (1998) 3 SCC 1, wherein, exceptions have been carved out for entertaining a writ petition in spite of availability of statutory remedy, to support the impugned judgment of the learned Singh Judge Bench.

16. In response, learned counsel for the appellant- Bank refuted the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent nos. 1 to 3 by stating that one of three bank accounts was closed only after settlement had been arrived at in the OTS Scheme and not because loan amount had been paid, but, subsequently respondent nos. 1 to 3 failed to deposit the amount as per the OTS Scheme, as such, they were liable to be proceeded for the due amount and there was no illegality in this regard. He submitted that all these objections were brought on record before the DRT, Lucknow. He reiterated that no opportunity was given to the appellant- Bank to file any counter affidavit before the writ Court. Though, orally an objection was raised by him with regard to the maintainability of the writ petition itself which has been noted but cursorily rejected on the ground that the order impugned was a non speaking order which was not the case. He also submitted that in view of the loan advanced by the bank in respect of three bank accounts the same house, which was belonging to respondents no. 1 to 3, was mortgaged and on non satisfaction of the loan, proceedings were undertaken under the SARFAESI Act, 2002. Consequently, an auction was held on 06.05.2025, wherein, respondent no. 4 was the auction purchaser. A Sale Certificate was also issued. Prior to the said auction, S.A. No. 290 of 2025 was filed by the respondent nos. 1 to 3, belatedly. During its pendency order was passed under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 for handing over possession of the secured assets to the secured creditor bank, therefore, amendment application was filed which was allowed. Thereafter, an interim application was filed for restraining the concerned Bank from taking possession of the secured assets which was rejected by the DRT, Lucknow by speaking order on 20.09.2025 after hearing all the necessary parties, against which there was a statutory remedy under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 which was not availed, therefore, the writ petition was not maintainable.

17. After hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusing the records, especially, the impugned order as also the order dated 20.09.2025 passed by the DRT, Lucknow in proceedings under Section 17 of SARFAESI Act, 2002 bearing S.A. No. 290 of 2025, what comes out is that the only ground on which the writ petition was entertained was that the interim order passed by the DRT, Lucknow is a non speaking order. With respect, we have perused the order passed by the learned DRT, Lucknow. We find that the order notices contentions of the parties and the factual aspects in detail in at least three pages and thereafter, DRT has recorded its conclusion that all statutory compliances had been made by the Bank and the Sale Certificate had been issued in favour of the auction purchaser, hence there was no ground to restrain the appellants- bank from taking physical possession of secured assets in order to hand over the same to the auction purchaser, since after issuance of Sale Certificate the auction purchaser is the real owner of the property.

18. Now, in the light of the order passed by the DRT, Lucknow it can not be said that it is a non speaking order. Whether the reasons given by the DRT, Lucknow are justified in the facts of the case can be a matter of challenge on the grounds which are permissible and available in an appeal under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002. An appeal under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 can be filed against any order passed by the DRT, Lucknow under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002. The scope of an appeal under the very provision is wide and it does not foreclose an appeal against an interim order passed by the DRT, Lucknow under Section 17 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 whether granting or declining the interim relief.

19. Hon'ble the Supreme Court has repeatedly held right from the case of Satyawati Tondon (supra) till the latest decision in the case of Leelawati N. (supra) that the High Court should not entertain a writ petition under Article 226 or a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India where effective statutory remedies are available under the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and has, in fact, expressed serious concern in respect to such practice. The only exception being, if the order of the Tribunal is against the provisions of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 or rules made thereunder, it is against the principle of natural justice or is without the jurisdiction or vires of any provisions of SARFAESI Act, 2002 or Rules made thereunder are under challenge.

20. In the case at hand it is not as if the respondent nos. 1 to 3 were not heard before the DRT, Lucknow. In fact, it is their application which was argued and was rejected vide order dated 20.09.2025. As regards the order of the DRT, Lucknow being non speaking order we have already expressed our opinion that it can not be said to be a non speaking order. It can also not be said to be an order without jurisdiction. The learned Single Judge while setting it aside has not mentioned apparent violation of any provision of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 or the rules made thereunder. It was also not a case where vires of provision of SARFAESI Act, 2002 or rules made thereunder were under challenge. In this view of the matter we have no hesitation in saying that the impugned judgment of the learned Single Judge Bench is in the teeth of repeated pronouncements of Hon'ble the Supreme Court. We may in this regard refer to decisions of Hon'ble the Supreme Court rendered in the case of Satyawati Tondon (supra) (Para 43 to 46 and 55); Phoenix ARC Private Limited Vs. Vishwa Bharti Vidya Mandir reported in AIR 2022 SC 1045 (Para 75.1, 75.2, 8 and 10); South Indian Bank Limited Vs. Naveen Mathew Philip reported in AIR Online 2023 SC 427 (Para 15 and 17); PHR Invent Educational Society Vs. UCO Bank and Ors. reported in (2024) 6 SCC 579 (Para 22 to 30, 36, 37 and 41). In fact, Para 41 of UCO Bank (supra) needs to be quoted for obvious reasons. It reads as under:-

"41. While dismissing the writ petition, we will have to remind the High Courts of the following words of this Court in Satyawati Tondon since we have come across various matters wherein the High Courts have been entertaining petitions arising out of the DRT Act and the SARFAESI Act in spite of availability of an effective alternative remedy: (SCC p. 128, para 55)

"55. It is a matter of serious concern that despite repeated pronouncement of this Court, the High Courts continue to ignore the availability of statutory remedies under the DRT Act and the SARFAESI Act and exercise jurisdiction under Article 226 for passing orders which have serious adverse impact on the right of banks and other financial institutions to recover their dues. We hope and trust that in future the High Courts will exercise their discretion in such matters with greater caution, care and circumspection."

21. Para 97 to 101 and 110.1 of Celir LLP Vs. Bafna Motors (Mumbai) Private Limited and Ors. reported in (2024) 2 SCC 1 are also relevant. They are quoted below:-

"97.This Court has time and again, reminded the High Courts that they should not entertain petition under Article 226 of the Constitution if an effective remedy is available to the aggrieved person under the provisions of the Sarfaesi Act. This Court in Satyawati Tondon [United

Bank of India v. Satyawati Tondon, (2010) 8 SCC 110 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 260] made the following observations : (SCC pp. 123 & 128, paras 43-45 & 55)

"43. Unfortunately, the High Court [Satyawati Tondon v. State of U.P., 2009 SCC OnLine All 2608] overlooked the settled law that the High Court will ordinarily not entertain a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution if an effective remedy is available to the aggrieved person and that this rule applies with greater rigour in matters involving recovery of taxes, cess, fees, other types of public money and the dues of banks and other financial institutions. In our view, while dealing with the petitions involving challenge to the action taken for recovery of the public dues, etc. the High Court must keep in mind that the legislations enacted by Parliament and State Legislatures for recovery of such dues are a code unto themselves inasmuch as they not only contain comprehensive procedure for recovery of the dues but also envisage constitution of quasi-judicial bodies for redressal of the grievance of any aggrieved person. Therefore, in all such cases, the High Court must insist that before availing remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution, a person must exhaust the remedies available under the relevant statute.

44. While expressing the aforesaid view, we are conscious that the powers conferred upon the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution to issue to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases, any Government, directions, orders or writs including the five prerogative writs for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III or for any other purpose are very wide and there is no express limitation on exercise of that power but, at the same time, we cannot be oblivious of the rules of self-imposed restraint evolved by this Court, which every High Court is bound to keep in view while exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution.

45. It is true that the rule of exhaustion of alternative remedy is a rule of discretion and not one of compulsion, but it is difficult to fathom any reason why the High Court should entertain a petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution and pass interim order ignoring the fact that the petitioner can avail effective alternative remedy by filing application, appeal, revision, etc. and the particular legislation contains a detailed mechanism for redressal of his grievance.

55. It is a matter of serious concern that despite repeated pronouncement of this Court, the High Courts continue to ignore the availability of statutory remedies under the DRT Act and the Sarfaesi Act and exercise jurisdiction under Article 226 for passing orders which have serious adverse impact on the right of banks and other financial institutions to recover their dues. We hope and trust that in future the High Courts will exercise their discretion in such matters with greater caution, care and circumspection."

99. In Phoenix ARC (P) Ltd.v.Vishwa Bharati Vidya Mandir [Phoenix ARC (P) Ltd. v. Vishwa Bharati Vidya Mandir, (2022) 5 SCC 345 : (2022) 3 SCC (Civ) 153] , it was observed as under : (SCC pp. 359-61, paras 18 & 21)

"18. Even otherwise, it is required to be noted that a writ petition against the private financial institution - ARC - the appellant herein under Article 226 of the Constitution of India against the proposed action/actions under Section 13(4) of the Sarfaesi Act can be said to be not maintainable. In the present case, the ARC proposed to take action/actions under the Sarfaesi Act to recover the borrowed amount as a secured creditor. The ARC as such cannot be said to be performing public functions which are normally expected to be performed by the State authorities. During the course of a commercial transaction and under the contract, the bank/ARC lent the money to the borrowers herein and therefore the said activity of the bank/ARC cannot be said to be as performing a public function which is normally expected to be performed by the State authorities. If proceedings are initiated under the Sarfaesi Act and/or any proposed action is to be taken and the borrower is aggrieved by any of the actions of the private bank/bank/ARC, borrower has to avail the remedy under the Sarfaesi Act and no writ petition would lie and/or is maintainable and/or entertainable. Therefore, decisions of this Court in Praga Tools Corpn. [Praga Tools Corpn. v. C.A. Imanual, (1969) 1 SCC 585] and Ramesh Ahluwalia [Ramesh Ahluwalia v. State of Punjab, (2012) 12 SCC 331 : (2013) 3 SCC (L&S) 456 : 4 SCEC 715] relied upon by the learned counsel appearing on behalf of the borrowers are not of any assistance to the borrowers.

21. Applying the law laid down by this Court in Mathew K.C. [State Bank of Travancore v. Mathew K.C., (2018) 3 SCC 85 : (2018) 2 SCC (Civ) 41] to the facts on hand, we are of the opinion that filing of the writ petitions by the borrowers before the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is an abuse of process of the court. The writ petitions have been filed against the proposed action to be taken under Section 13(4). As observed hereinabove, even assuming that the communication dated 13-8-2015 was a notice under Section 13(4), in that case also, in view of the statutory, efficacious remedy available by way of appeal under Section 17 of the Sarfaesi Act, the High Court ought not to have entertained the writ petitions. Even the impugned orders passed by the High Court directing to maintain the status quo with respect to the possession of the secured properties on payment of Rs 1 crore only (in all Rs 3 crores) is absolutely unjustifiable. The dues are to the extent of approximately Rs 117 crores. The ad interim relief has been continued since 2015 and the secured creditor is deprived of proceeding further with the action under the Sarfaesi Act. Filing of the writ petition by the borrowers before the High Court is nothing but an abuse of process of court. It appears that the High Court has initially granted an ex parte ad interim order mechanically and without assigning any reasons. The High Court ought to have appreciated that by passing such an interim order, the rights of the secured creditor to recover the amount due and payable have been seriously prejudiced. The secured creditor and/or its assignor have a right to recover the amount due and payable to it from the borrowers. The stay granted by the High Court would have serious adverse impact on the financial health of the secured creditor/assignor. Therefore, the High Court should have been extremely careful and circumspect in exercising its discretion while granting stay in such matters. In these circumstances, the proceedings before the High Court deserve to be dismissed."

100. In Varimadugu Obi Reddy [Varimadugu Obi Reddy v. B. Sreenivasulu, (2023) 2 SCC 168 : (2023) 1 SCC (Civ) 58] , it was held as under : (SCC p. 183, para 36)

"36. In the instant case, although the respondent borrowers initially approached the Debts Recovery Tribunal by filing an application under Section 17 of the Sarfaesi Act, 2002, but the order of the Tribunal indeed was appealable under Section 18 of the Act subject to the compliance of condition of pre-deposit and without exhausting the statutory remedy of appeal, the respondent borrowers approached the High Court by filing the writ application under Article 226 of the Constitution. We deprecate such practice of entertaining the writ application by the High Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution without exhausting the alternative statutory remedy available under the law. This circuitous route appears to have been adopted to avoid the condition of pre-deposit contemplated under the second proviso to Section 18 of the 2002 Act."

101. More than a decade back, this Court had expressed serious concern despite its repeated pronouncements in regard to the High Courts ignoring the availability of statutory remedies under the Rdbfi Act and the Sarfaesi Act and exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. Even after, the decision of this Court in Satyawati Tondon [United Bank of India v. Satyawati Tondon, (2010) 8 SCC 110 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 260] , it appears that the High Courts have continued to exercise its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 ignoring the statutory remedies under the Rdbfi Act and the Sarfaesi Act.

110.1. The High Court was not justified in exercising its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution more particularly when the borrowers had already availed the alternative remedy available to them under Section 17 of the Sarfaesi Act."

22. Relevant extract of Para 23 of Kanaiyalal Lalchand Sachdev and Ors. Vs. State of Maharashtra and Ors. reported in (2011) 2 SCC 782 is also quoted herein below:-

23. ..... It is well-settled that ordinarily relief under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India is not available if an efficacious alternative remedy is available to any aggrieved person. (See: Sadhana Lodh v. National Insurance Co. Ltd. & Anr., Surya Dev Rai v. Ram Chander Rai & Ors. and SBI v. Allied Chemical Laboratories)."

23. Moreover, we find merit in the submission of Shri Sarvesh Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 that the writ petition was allowed on the very first day without even issuing notice to the auction purchaser.

24. We also find merit in the contention of learned counsel for the appellant-bank that the writ petition in any case could not have been allowed on the very first day without giving any opportunity to the appellant-bank to file any counter affidavit and also that learned Single Judge Bench did not have jurisdiction to decide a matter under Article 227 of the Constitution of India on the date on which the writ petition was listed before him. We have perused the roster determined by Hon'ble the Chief Justice of this Court on 31.07.2025 and find that in fact, the jurisdiction of entertaining petitions under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and exercising such powers was not vested with the learned Single Judge Bench rather these matters were assigned to two Courts i.e. Court No. 5 and 7, but, Court No. 5 had such jurisdiction only in respect of specified matters under which an order passed by the DRT would not fall, therefore, such powers remained only with Court No. 7, whereas, the learned Single Judge Bench has passed the order while sitting in Court No. 6. The roster dated 31.07.2025 be kept on record.

25. In view of the above discussion, as, the order passed by the learned Single Bench is in the teeth of the law declared by Hon'ble the Supreme Court and its dictum, is without jurisdiction and is unsustainable on the reasons given for entertaining the writ petition in spite of availability of a statutory remedy under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, the same is liable to be quashed. We accordingly quash the impugned order.

26. The respondent nos. 1 to 3 are at liberty to prefer an appeal under Section 18 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 and seek such reliefs as may be permissible in law.

27. The Special Appeal is allowed.

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Writ A No. 118 of 2026

Committee of Management Sri Gandhi Inter College Harpur ...Petitioner
Versus
State Of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Maintainability of writ petition filed by the Manager against an order of authority without having resolution of authorization of the Committee of Management.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ – Maintainability – D.I.O.S. passed the impugned order turning down the suspension order of the Committee of Management – Manager challenged it without having resolution of authorization of the Committee of Management – As per the scheme of administration, the Manager is authorised to represent on behalf Committee of Management i.e to plead, to affirm or to file any case or swear an affidavit, but it does not specifically authorise the Manager to take a decision to institute any suit or a writ petition – Relevance – Preliminary objection regarding maintainability of writ was raised by the respondent – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : In case of any adverse order is passed by the State-Respondent, then Committee of Management has to take a decision for further legal recourse and the Manager alone not being competent to take a decision on it's own or on behalf of Committee of Management, to take a decision for further legal recourse as it would be a collective decision of the Committee of Management. This is the reason that such power is not specifically dedicated to the Manager under Scheme of Administration rather it authorise Manager to act subsequent to decision of taking legal recourse – The Manager cannot act contrary to the decision of Committee of Management. In a case where Committee of Management takes a decision not to challenge an action of

State-Respondent, can Manager under the grab of above referred clause still challenge it taking a contrary view and answer to it obviously would be 'No' – Preliminary objection is sustained. [Para 13, 14 and 17]

4. Learned Senior Advocate further submits that said Scheme of Administration has incorporated all clauses of model Scheme of Administration provided under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 as well as various other clauses and it was approved also.

5. Learned Senior Advocate has referred a resolution dated 13.01.2026 (adopted subsequent to filing of present writ petition) in a meeting of the Committee of management to authorise it's Manager to sign pleadings on behalf of it, in terms of above referred clause as an abundant caution to meet the preliminary objection, despite it was not required.

6. Learned Senior Advocate has not disputed a settled position of law that a Manager of the Committee of Management, in sole capacity, cannot file a writ petition and it is always the Committee of Management who could file a writ petition, if aggrieved by any action of State-Respondent, through it's Manager.

7. According to learned Senior Advocate above referred Clauses 20 (3) (9) of Scheme of Administration completely authorise the Manager to take a decision so as to challenge an order passed by State-Respondent or by any other authority, before a Competent Court and for that there is no mandatory requirement to adopt a fresh resolution by the Committee of Management to the effect whether a proceeding is required to be instituted before a Competent Court and the Manager being authorised to plead on it's behalf, can take a decision on his own for institution of such cases.

8. Per contra, Sri R.C. Dwivedi, learned counsel for Private Respondent-3 has referred judgments passed in the cases of Saraswati Vidya Mandir Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh, 2003 (3) AWC 1917; C/M Junior High School Sayar Vs. State of U.P. and 2 Ors, 2019:AHC:19863; Umesh Chandra and Anr. Vs. Mahila Vidyalaya Society, Aminabad, Lucknow and Ors., 2006(24) LCD 1373 that it is Committee of Management who could only be aggrieved by any act of State-Respondent and not it's Manager independently, therefore, a decision to institute a challenge to it, could only be taken by the Committee of Management and not by it's Manager alone. The referred clause of Scheme of Administration authorise the Manager to act on behalf of the Committee of Management, to plead pleadings and to represent before Court or forum, as the case may be, and does not authorise to take a policy decision on behalf of the Committee of Management to institute a proceeding before a Court of Law since Committee of Management may resolve otherwise.

9. Heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

10. The Scheme of Administration provides for constitution of a Committee of Management having authority to manage and conduct the affairs of the institution. Sub-section (6) of section 16-A of U.P. Intermediate Act, 1921, provides that every recognized institution shall be managed in accordance with the Scheme of Administration framed under and in accordance with sub-section (1) to sub-section (5) of the said Section and Section 16-B and Section 16-C. Section 16-CC of the Act provides that a Scheme of Administration in relation to an institution, whether recognized before or after the commencement of the Intermediate Education (Amendment) Act, 1980, shall not be inconsistent with the principles laid down in the 3rd Schedule. The 3rd Schedule provides the principles on which approval to a Scheme of Administration shall be accorded. It provides that every Scheme of Administration shall provide for proper and effective functioning of the Committee of Management.

11. In the present case, College concerned has Scheme of Administration duly approved. It provides duties and responsibilities of Office Bearers of Committee of Management including President and Manager. A Manager in individual capacity can not file any suit or writ petition. It is the Committee of Management who can file a suit or writ petition and for that Manager or any other can be authorised to file it and to sign pleadings. The Counsels for rival parties are also in agreement on this issue.

12. In the present case, as per the scheme of administration, the Manager is authorised to represent on behalf Committee of Management i.e to plead, to affirm or to file any case or swear an affidavit, but it does not specifically authorise Manager to take a decision to institute any suit or a writ petition. In other words a Manager can carry out a decision of Committee of Management. In some eventualities, the Manager is being authorise to take decision also but such authorization must be specific.

13. Under any circumstance, if any one could aggrieved by an action of State-Respondent would only be the Committee of Management since in maximum cases orders are passed on basis of decision of Committee of Management through resolutions adopted in their meetings such as order of termination or suspension, therefore, in case of any adverse order is passed by the State-Respondent, then Committee of Management has to take a decision for further legal recourse and the Manager alone not being competent to take a decision on it's own or on behalf of Committee of Management, to take a decision for further legal recourse as it would be a collective decision of the Committee of Management. This is the reason that such power is not specifically dedicated to the Manager under Scheme of Administration rather it authorise Manager to act subsequent to decision of taking legal recourse.

14. The Manager cannot act contrary to the decision of Committee of Management. In a case where Committee of Management takes a decision not to challenge an action of State-Respondent, can Manager under the grab of above referred clause still challenge it taking a contrary view and answer to it obviously would be 'No'.

15. There is an evident difference between a decision to take legal recourse and to authorise Manager to act accordingly. Under no circumstance, a Manager can question a decision of the Committee of Management or General Body of a Society, as the case may be, or to proceed on it's own will, since it would be against the bye laws of a society or a decision of the Committee of Management under Scheme of Administration.

16. In above background Court takes note of Saraswati Vidya Mandir (supra), C/M Junior High School Sayar (supra) and Umesh Chandra (supra), wherein same view was taken. Relevant part of said judgments are reproduced hereinafter :-

Saraswati Vidya Mandir

'(3) THIS Court in Writ Petition No. 10663 of 1976, Sardar Patel Higher Secondary School, Dev nagar, Mathura v. Deputy Director of Education, Agra Region, Agra and Ors. , 1976 AWC 18, vide judgment and order dated 1. 3. 1976 observed :

"sri N. C. Upadhyay, learned counsel for the respondent No. 3, Babu Lal Sharma raised a preliminary objection to the maintainability of the petition at the instance of the manager Kedar nath. He urged that the Committee of Management had authority to hold enquiry and to dismiss the petitioner from service, its proposal to dismiss respondent No. 3 was disapproved by the deputy Director of Education in appeal, therefore, the aggrieved party was the Committee of management and the petition could be filed only by it, the manager Sri Kedar Nath had no locus standi to maintain this petition. I find considerable force in this contention. In paragraph 43 of the second affidavit of respondent No. 3, it was clearly stated that the petition was not maintainable on behalf of the school as it was not the legal entity itself and it ought to have been filed by the Committee of Management. It was further stated that no proof has been shown that the Managing Committee had directed the manager to file the petition. Reply to this assertion is contained in paragraph 45 of the rejoinder-affidavit filed by the petitioner. It states that the contents of paragraph 43 are wholly misconceived and are not admitted, the same being argumentative will more adequately be replied at the time of arguments. There is thus no assertion in the rejoinder-affidavit that the Committee of Management had adopted any resolution to challenge the order of the Deputy Director of Education nor there is any assertion that Kedar Nath was authorised by the Committee of Management to file the present petition. There is further no assertion in the rejoinder-affidavit that the Committee of Management was aggrieved or that it had permitted the manager to file the petition. In fact the averments contained in paragraph 45 of the rejoinder-affidavit have been shown on legal advice, it does not contain any assertion of facts. The present petition has been filed by Sadar Patel Higher Secondary School through its Manager sri Kedar Nath. The petition has not been filed on behalf of the Committee of Management or on behalf of the Society, if any, registered under the Societies Registration Act. Obviously, the school or the manager cannot be aggrieved on behalf of the Committee of Management. It is the society and the Committee of Management which is legally entitled to challenge the orders of the Deputy Director of Education. The Manager cannot assume the functions of the Committee of Management unless he is authorised to do so. Sardar Patel Higher Secondary School is not a legal entity to maintain any legal action on behalf of the Society or the Committee of management. In Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 5808 of 1970, Mahtab Rai, Manager, Har Narain intermediate college v. Deputy Director of Education, decided on 7th January, 1974, a learned single Judge of this Court, almost in similar circumstances, held that the Manager or the school has no locus standi to maintain petition against the order of the District Inspector of Schools or the Deputy director of Education refusing to grant approval. The learned single Judge observed that the appointment of Principal of college and termination of his services were within the powers of the managing Committee or the Society and it was the Managing Committee alone which exercises control. That being so, the Manager is not the Managing Committee or the Society and he cannot maintain a writ petition in this Court unless he is authorised to do so. Relying on a Full Bench decision of this Court in Hart Raj Swarup v. Security to Government of U. P. , AIR 1951 All 1, the learned Judge dismissed the petition on the ground that it was not filed on behalf of the managing Committee or the Society. I am in respectful agreement with the view taken by the learned single Judge in Mahtab Rais case. In the instant case, neither the Society nor the managing Committee has filed the writ petition nor there is any material before the Court to show that the Committee of Management or the Society authorised the Manager to file this petition. In the circumstances the petition is not maintainable. During the course of hearing, learned counsel for the petitioner made a request for adjournment of the hearing to enable him to file documentary evidence to show that he had been authorised by the Committee of Management. I find no good ground to adjourn the hearing to enable the petitioner to produce evidence to show authorisation by the Committee of Management. As already noted, respondent No. 3 had clearly stated that the petitioner had no locus standi to maintain the petition and no proof was placed before the Court that the Committee of management had authorised him. In the rejoinder-affidavit, the petitioner did not even whisper that he was been authorised. If the petitioner had made any statement in the rejoinder-affidavit that the Committee of Management had authorised him to file the petition, I would have granted adjournment but in the absence of any such averment in the rejoinder-affidavit I do not consider it desirable to adjourn the hearing to enable the petitioner to produce authorisation by the committee of Management. In the result the writ petition is dismissed as not maintainable. There will be no order as to costs. The stay order is vacated. Dated : 1. 3. 1976 sd. K. N. Singh. j"

(4) AGAIN in the Writ Petition Nos. 6879 of 1974 and 12582 of 1975 : V. V. Inter College, Shamli v. U. P. Shiksha Nideshak, Pratham Mandal, Meerut and Ors. , vide Judgment and order dated 7. 4. 1976 it was observed :

". . . . . These two petitions were taken up for hearing on 6th April, 1976. At the very outset of the hearing learned counsel for the respondent-principal raised preliminary objection about the maintainability of these two petitions. He urged that the petitions have not been filed by the aggrieved party, instead these have been filed by V. V. Inter College, Shamli, which is neither aggrieved party nor a juristic person to maintain the petitions. I find considerable force in the contention. It is admitted between the parties that there is a registered society which runs and maintains the Vaish College, Shamli, Muzaffarnagar. The college is recognised under the U. P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921. The college is run and managed by a Committee of management constituted in accordance with the Scheme of Administration approved by the authorities under the Act. Under the provisions of the Act and the Regulations framed thereunder, it is the Committee of Management which is empowered to make appointments, to take disciplinary action and to pass orders of removal or suspension against the Principal or a teacher. No other member, or authority of the registered society has any power to exercise jurisdiction in these matters. The Committee of Management is empowered to file appeal against the order of the District Inspector of Schools. The Committee of Management is a statutory authority under the Act and the Regulations and it is legally entitled to take action in matters relating to the affairs of the administration of the college.

The Committee of Management has not filed these petitions. There is no material on record to show that the Committee of management adopted any resolution authorising the manager to file these petitions. The petitions as framed are not maintainable because the V. V. Inter College, Shamli, cannot be an aggrieved person to challenge the impugned orders. The aggrieved party, if any could be the Committee of management of the Society itself. In Writ Petition No. 10663 of 1975 decided on 1st March, 1976, I took a similar view. Another learned single Judge of this Court dismissed Writ Petition no. 580 of 1970 on 7th January, 1974, precisely on this very ground. The view taken by me and other learned single Judge is fully supported by a Full Bench decision of this Court in Indian sugar Mills Association through its President Hari Raj Swarup v. Secretary to Government, AIR 1951 All 1. During the course of hearing, amendment applications were filed seeking relief for the amendment of the writ petitions for adding Committee of Management as petitioner. The applications have been rejected by me by a separate order. So far as Writ Petition No. 12582 of 1975 is concerned, there is another reason to dismiss the same without going into merits. The writ petition was presented before this Court on 17th december, 1975. It appears that during the course of the preliminary hearing the Bench observed that the petitioner should file appeal before the Deputy Director of Education. The petitioner college thereupon filed appeal before the Deputy Director of Education, Meerut Region, against the impugned order of the District Inspector of Schools dated 6th December, 1975. The appeal has not been disposed of as yet, instead it is still pending. There is no dispute that the appeal against the order of the District Inspector of Schools refusing to accord approval is maintainable under Section 16g (3) (c). There is further no dispute that the petitioner college has availed that remedy and appeal is pending before the Deputy Director of Education. It is thus, clear that the petitioner has availed statutory alternative remedy of appeal available to him in law and that remedy is still being perused by him. In the circumstances it would not be a sound exercise of discretion under Article 226 of the Constitution to hear and adjudicate the issues raised by the petitioner in the present petition which can effectively be decided by the Deputy Director of education. The petitioner is not entitled to relief on this ground also. In the result both the petitions fail and are dismissed. There will be no order as to costs. Dated : 7. 4. 1976 sd. K. N. S. "

(5) AFORESAID judgment was affirmed by Division Bench in intra court appeal, S. A. No. 154 of 1976, V. V. Inter College, Shamli v. U. P. Shiksha Nideshak Pratham Mandal, Meerut and Ors. , vide judgment and order dated 2. 8. 1976 quoted below :

"sri R. K. Jain, learned counsel for the appellant, states that he does not press this appeal. The appeal is accordingly dismissed. " dated : 2. 8. 1976 sd. G. C. M. Sd. K. C. A. "

(6) IN view of the aforesaid decisions, petition is not maintainable in the name of the petitioner as it stands today.'

C/M Junior High School Sayar

'1. When the matter was taken up a preliminary objection has been raised by Mr. Kunal Shah, Advocate, holding brief of Mr. N. K. Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no.3 that the writ petition was filed by the Manager of the Committee of Management without their being any resolution of the Committee of Management. In this regard, he also relied upon a judgement rendered by the Lucknow Bench of this Court in Misc. Single No.2694 of 2013, Baba Hulasi Das Shiksha Sansthan Thru its Manager & Another Vs. Deputy Registrar, Firms, Societies & Chits Lucnow Region & An. decided on 2.5.2013, which is quoted belwo:-

"Short counter affidavit on behalf of opposite party no. 2 filed today in Court is taken on record.

Heard learned counsel for petitioner as well as learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and learned counsel for opposite party no. 2.

Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has raised preliminary objection regarding maintainability of writ petition on the ground that there is no resolution of the Committee of Management authorizing petitioner to challenge the impugned order, as such, the writ petition is not maintainable.

On the basis of instructions, it is further submitted by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that there is no dispute to the election held on 21.8.2010 wherein the petitioner no. 2 was said to be elected as Manager and opposite party no. 2 as President, however, subsequently the petitioner no. 2 had resigned from the post of Manager and his resignation was duly accepted by the Committee of Management in the meeting dated 11.9.2012 and vide resolution dated 18.9.2012 list of office bearers for 2012-13 was sent to the Deputy Registrar which contain the name of one Sunder Lal as Manager who was earlier elected as Deputy Manager in the election held on 21.8.2010. The Deputy Registrar has accepted the said list of office bearers for the year 2012-13.

Learned counsel for petitioner submitted that petitioner no. 2 had categorically denied the resignation as alleged by the opposite party no. 2, as such, there arose a dispute with respect to continuation of an office bearer of the Society and, as such, it was required to be referred to the Prescribed Authority for adjudication under Section 21 (1) of Societies Registration Act.

In support of his submission, learned counsel for petitioner relies on a Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Maha Narayan Pandey and others Vs. Registrar, Chit Funds, Firms & Societies, U.P. Lucknow and others; [1984 UPLBEC 550], particularly paragraphs 7 & 9 which on reproduction read as under:

"7. In his impugned order the Registrar formulated the points requiring his determination as follows:-

(1) Removal of Mewa Ram Tewari and Bharat Singh from the membership of the Society.

(2) Resignation of Maha Narayan Pandey from the office of Manager.

(3) Amendment in Smriti Patra and Niyamawali.

(4) List of new office bearers of the Society.

9. In respect of the amendment of Smriti Patra and Niyamawali the Registrar held that the Basic Education Department had been requiring the petitioner No. 1 to amend the said documents so as to bring them in conformity with law, but petitioner No. 1 was not taking any steps in that behalf. The Registrar further held that the amendment now made in the Smriti Patra and Niyamawali are in accordance with the requirement of law and they are, therefore, valid. The question of amendment of Smriti Patra and Niyamawai is not mentioned in sub-section (1) of Section 25 reproduced above. Obviously this question was not one which was required to be decided by the Prescribed Authority. However, point Nos. 2 and 3 are clearly covered by the provisions of sub-section (1) of Section 25. Annexure No. 1-A shows that Bharat Singh was Agriculture Secretary. He was, thus, an office bearer of the Society. Implicit in his alleged removal from the membership of the Society was his removal from the office of the Agriculture Secretary. Therefore, one of the questions that arose and which has been decided by the Registrar was whether Bharat Singh could continue to hold office of the Agriculture Secretary. In view of the finding recorded by the Registrar, Bharat Singh continues to hold that office. Again there was dispute as to whether petitioner No. 1 continue to hold office of the Manager or the said office had devolved upon opposite party No. 2 on the basis of the alleged nomination made by petitioner No. 1. This dispute became necessary to be decided in view of the new list of the office bearers submitted to the Registrar by opposite party No. 2. The new list could be accepted or rejected only after recording finding on the disputed question mentioned hereinbefore. In other words, point No. 4 formulated by the Registrar required determination of the question whether petitioner No. 1 continued to hold office of the Manager or he ceased to hold that office. this question was clearly covered by sub-section (1) of Section 25. The Registrar, of course, held that it was not necessary to decide the question of resignation, but if he had entered into the factual controversy raised in this regard by the parties it would have involved determination of the question whether petitioner No. 1 continued to hold office of the Manager or ceased to hold the office by resigning from the office and nominating opposite party No. 2 as his successor. This question was also necessary to be decided as even after amendment of the Rules, Petitioner No. 1 would continue to hold the office till fresh elections took place, unless he resigned. In view of the discussion herein the Registrar proceeded to decide ta part of the dispute which did not fall within his jurisdiction. Reference under sub-section (1) of Section 25 could be made by one-fourth of the members of the Society as well as by the Registrar. In the present case no reference was made to the Prescribed Authority by the members of the Society. But once it came to the notice of the Registrar that a dispute which could be decided by the Prescribed Authority alone had arisen between the parties, he should have referred the matter to the Prescribed Authority instead of assuming jurisdiction in himself to decide the said dispute."

Before deciding the controversy involved in the writ petition, it would be appropriate to decide the maintainability of writ petition.

Learned counsel for petitioner admits that no resolution has been passed in favour of the Society or its Manager, Shankar Lal Yadav to challenge the impugned order.

The Deputy Registrar vide impugned order has accepted the list of office bearers of the Committee of Management for the year 2012-13 wherein one Sunder Lal has been shown as Manager of the Committee of the Management of the Society.

I am of the view that in absence of a resolution authorizing the Society through its Manager or Shankar Lal Yadav in his individual capacity, the writ petition as such is not maintainable.

It is to be noted that Shankar Lal Yadav does not have any independent right to challenge the impugned order.

It is to be observed that the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Umesh Chandra and another Vs. Mahila Vidyalaya Society, Aminabad, Lucknow and others; [2006 (24) LCD 1373] has observed that the writ petition filed by the Manager on behalf of the society was not maintainable unless he was authorized to file the same. The view of the Court is that in absence of any resolution the writ petition by the Manager for that purpose or by any other person on behalf of the committee of management is not maintainable.

The relevant paragraph 34 on reproduction reads as under:

"34. The Full Bench of Allahabad High Court in a case reported in AIR (38) 1951 Allahabad 1, Indian Sugar Mills Association through its President Shri Hari Rai Swarup V. Secretary to Government, Uttar Pradesh Labour Department and others, held that writ petition under Article 226 may be maintainable on behalf of Association through a person only in case it is proved that the Association had right to move a writ petition on behalf of a person who preferred the writ petition.

For convenience relevant portion from the Full Bench judgment of Indian Sugar Mills Association is reproduced as under:

"It has been urged by learned counsel for the applicant that, though the amount may not be payable out of the property of the Association, yet inasmuch as the payments have to be made out of the funds of the Sugar Mills, a large number of which are members of the Association, the Association has the right to move the application on their behalf. We have already said that it is the interest of the applicant which must be directly affected by the statute or the order complained against and the applicant cannot claim that its interests are directly affected."

The Full Bench judgment of this Court referred hereinabove has been relied upon in a case reported in (2002) 3 UPLBEC 2777, Saraswati Vidya Mandir, Rewatipur, Ghazipur through its Manager Smt. Ram Rakhi Devi V. State of U.P. and others, where writ petition filed on behalf of Society was dismissed this Court on teh ground that petition filed by the Manager on behalf of Managing Committee or Society was not maintainable unless he was authorized to file the same. Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court had relied upon the earlier unreported judgment of this Court.

Relevant portion from the judgment of Sarswati Vidya Mandir (supra) is reproduced as under:

"Mahtab Rai, Manager, Har Narain Intermediate College V. Deputy Director of Education (Civil Misc. Writ Petition No. 5808 of 1970 decided on 7th January, 1974) a learned Single Judge of this Court, almost in similar circumstances, held that the Manager or the School has no locus standi to maintain petition against the order of the District Inspector of Schools or the Deputy Director of Education refusing to grant approval. The learned Single Jude observed that the appointment of Principal of College and termination of his services were within the power of the Managing Committee or the Society and it was the Managing Committee alone which exercises control. That being so, the Manager is not the Managing Committee or the Society and he cannot maintain a writ petition in this Court unless he is authorized to do so. Relying on a Full Bench decision of this Court in Hari Rai Swarup V. Secretary to Government of U.P., AIR 1951 Allahabad 1, the learned Judge dismissed the petition on the ground that it was filed on behalf of the Managing Committee or the Society."

Reliance placed by Shir Raghvendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondents on the Division Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Shanti Sarup seems to be misconceived. In the case of Shanti Sarup as to whether the Secretary can institute a suit on behalf of Society in the absence of any specific delegation of power by the Rules of the Society or by the resolution of the governing body. Accordingly the case of Shanti Sarup does not seem to be applicable under the facts and circumstances of the present case.

In the case of Sardar Patel Higher Secondary School, Deve Nagar, Mathura (supra) again Hon'ble Single Judge of this Court held that a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India shall not be maintainable by the Manager of Institution. Only the Managing Committee or Society can maintain a writ petition. The Manager can not assume the function of Committee of Management unless he is authorized to do so.

In the case of Arya Samaj Ganesh Ganj (supra) a Division Bench of this Court had held that in the event of dissolution of Society, Secretary or Manager have got no right to file a suit in view of provision contained in Section 6 of the Societies Registration Act."

In view of above, the writ petition is dismissed.

Since the writ petition has been dismissed on the ground of maintainability, as such, there is no need to adjudicate the controversy involved in the writ petition."

2. In view of the same, learned counsel for the petitioner makes a prayer for dismissal of the writ petition as not pressed with liberty to file a fresh writ petition.

3.The liberty as prayed is granted.

4.The writ petition is dismissed.'

Umesh Chandra

'2. Substantial question of law raised by the appellants in the present appeal, is as to whether in the absence of any resolution of Committee of Management or General Body of a Society, a writ petition can be filed by its office bearer(in the present case, Secretary of the Society) to plead the cause of Society? Whether after deciding the controversy while exercising appellate power under the Rules of Court one of the member of the Division Bench deciding the appeal may decide the writ petition while sitting single? Other questions raised by the appellants relates to power of review of an order passed by the Deputy Registrar as well as applicability of Section 340 of the Code of Criminal Procedure and other co-related issues.'

'68. In view of above, we proceed to record our finding as under:

(i) The word "determine" or "determination" used in the Section 6 of the Act means that while framing the rules, bylaws or constitution of the Society. General Body of the Society must provide specifically in the rules by discussing the matter as to who shall be authorized to institute a suit representing the Society. In the absence of such specific provisions under the rules of a Society it is for the Committee of Management or governing body to determine as to who shall represent the Society in the Court of competent jurisdiction for institution of a suit. Only a person authorized by the rules or by the governing body or the executive body to institute a suit shall be entitled to file a suit or a petition in this Court or in other Courts or tribunals.

(ii) Under Section 6 of the Act, it shall be incumbent upon the members of a Society while framing rules or byelaws to categorically provide as to who shall be entitled to sue on behalf of Society in representative capacity. In the absence of categorical provision in the rules or byelaws of the Society, none of the office bearer like President, Secretary or Manager or the Chairman shall be entitled to institute a suit or file an objection in representative capacity. Mere conferment of administrative or executive power on an office bearer shall not be sufficient to meet the requirement of Section 6 of the Act.

(iii) In the absence of specific or categorical provisions in the rules or bylaws of the Society constituted under the Act, only such person shall be entitled to represent a Society who is being duly authorized by the governing body of the Society vide its resolution.

(iv) A petition or suit filed by a person duly empowered shall be maintainable only in case it is being filed to represent the cause of Society in accordance to its aims and objects or rules or in accordance to the resolution of the Committee of Management. In the absence of such specific pleading in a petition or suit, such suit or petition shall not be maintainable.

(v) Ordinarily under extraordinary remedy of Article 226 of the Constitution of India writ petition shall not be maintainable in case the outcome of the election or irregularity committed during the course of election can be challenged by adopting other alternative remedy provided by the Act or Statute or bye laws of the Society.

(vi) While exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution it is not open for this Court to decide a disputed question of fact co-related with the membership issue of a Society registered under the Act. Membership issue should be decided in accordance to provision contained in the Act or Rules framed thereunder or according to bylaws of the Society or aggrieved party may approach the competent civil Court by filing a regular suit. Accordingly interference by Hon'ble Single Judge on membership issue by recording a finding seems to be not permissible.

(vii) In the present case Shri Y.C. Rai who had filed the writ petition has not been conferred power either by the rules, or the constitution of the Society or by the resolution of the executive body, hence, he was not competent to file the writ petition in this Court. Accordingly the writ petition was not maintainable.

(viii) The writ petition was also not maintainable because of the fact that there is no pleading on record in the memo of writ petition that it was filed to represent or protect the cause of the Society.

(ix) Legally and technically the judgment delivered by Hon'ble Single Judge does not seem to suffer for want of jurisdiction on the ground that Hon'ble Single Judge was one of the member of the Division Bench and after demanding the matter he had decided the writ petition on merit. However, in view of discussion made hereinabove ordinarily in such circumstances special care should be taken not to decide a controversy on merit by Hon'ble Judge of this Court who had been the member of Division Bench while remanding the matter for adjudication by Hon'ble Single Judge to maintain and strengthen the people's faith in the administration of justice. In case any objection is raised by the member of bar then it shall always be incumbent upon Hon'ble Single Judge transfer such cases to other Hon'ble Judge to decide the controversy.

(x) While finalizing the electoral roll in pursuance to power conferred by the sub-section 2 of Section 25 of the Act it shall always be incumbent upon the Deputy Registrar or the competent authority to comply with the principle of natural justice keeping in view the observation made in the present judgment Without providing reasonable opportunity, to defend the members of the Society can not deprive to participate in the election process.,'

17. In the present case, a subsequent resolution is adopted by the Committee of Management, which is placed by way of a supplementary affidavit, however it still not contains a decision of Committee of Management to file present writ petition, therefore, even it would not fill the lacunae. Therefore, this writ petition in present form is not maintainable since it is not accompanied with a resolution of Committee of Management to file present writ petition. Preliminary objection is sustained and writ petition is accordingly dismissed reserving a liberty to file a fresh alongwith a resolution of Committee of Management to file it.

18. Registry is directed to check that writ petitions filed by Committee of Management shall accompany a copy of resolution of Committee of Management to file a writ petition and further authorize the Manager to act accordingly.

19. Registrar (Compliance) to take necessary steps.

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether the present writ petition is maintainable?

Headnotes

A. Administrative Law - Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985: Section 14 - The tribunals created u/Article 323A and 323B of the Constitution of India, are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules and even the vires of the act of the statutory legislation can also be looked into, by the Tribunals. Such Tribunals have all jurisdiction from the day, they came into existence. (Para 18)

The issue herein, is w.r.t. the advertisement for the recruitment of two posts, namely, the Assistant Store Officer as well as Private Secretary, which essentially is the subject matter of clause 14(i)(a) of the 'Act 1985'. (Para 14)

The case in hand is that the advertisement for recruitment of the posts in question, was published on 11.11.2025 and Institution has subsequently been notified on 13.01.2026 by Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions. The further fact is that the writ petition was also preferred on 08.01.2026 that too was prior to the notification dated 13.01.2026. (Para 15)

It emerges that Section 14 of the Act 1985 provides the jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Central Administrative Tribunal and it says that 'the administrative tribunals shall exercise, on and from the appointed day, all the jurisdiction, power and authority exercisable immediately before the day, by all courts.' The appointed day is 'the day', when any 'authority' mentioned section 14(2) is notified. The institution, who published the advertisement for recruitment of posts, has been notified by the Central Govt. on 13.01.2026, on the appointed day, the instant writ petition is pending. Section 29 of the Act 1985 envisages the provision of transfer of pending cases. (Para 12, 15)

In the above-noted provisions the word 'pending before a court or authority' has substantive meaning. Every suit or other proceeding before any court or other authority, immediately before the date of establishment of a tribunal under the Act 1985, shall stand transferred, on that date to the Tribunals. (Para 17)

The writ petition remained pending until the notification dated 13.01.2026 was issued, therefore, the mandate of Section 29 of the Act 1985 would be applicable to the present case and the plea taken by the counsel for the petitioner that the notification has subsequently been issued than that of filing of the writ petition would have no contrary effect. (Para 17)

B. Where an efficacious alternative remedy is available, the High Court should not entertain a Writ Petition u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India, in matters falling squarely within the domain of Tribunals. Petitioners have failed to substantiate their arguments that their case do not fall under the domain of the Tribunals, constituted under the scheme of the Constitution of India. (Para 19)

Writ petitions dismissed as not maintainable. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Anand Dubey
For Respondent(s): A.S.G.I., Anagh Misra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Anand Dubey, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Varun Pandey, learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2, Mr. Surya Bhan Pandey, learned D.S.G.I. assisted by Mr. Anagh Mishra and perused the record.

2. Instant petition has been filed with the following reliefs:-

"Issue a writ order direction in the nature of certiorari thereby quashing the advertisement dated 11.11.2025 with respect to recruitment of two posts of Assistant Store Officer and three post of Private Secretary in AIIMS Raebareli same are annexed as Annexure no.1 to this writ petition.

ii. Issue a writ order direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the opposite party No.-3 to 5 to fill up two vacant posts of Assistant Store Officer and three post of Private Secretary through promotion in AIIMS Raebareli by mechanism provided in office memorandum dated: 20.11.2024 issued by AIIMS New Delhi.

ii. Any appropriate order/direction which this Hon'ble court may deem fit and proper, in the circumstances of the case.

iv. Award the cost of the writ petition."

3. In Writ A No. 132 of 2026, additionally, the advertisement dated 11.07.2025 is also under challenge.

4. Preliminary objection is raised by counsels for the respondents that the writ petition is not maintainable, as the advertisement dated 11.11.2025 and 11.07.2025, which are published by the competent authority of All India Institute of Medical Science, Raebareli(hereinafter referred to as "Institution"), under challenge herein, in fact, put the recruitment in motion/process, whereas, the provisions of Section 14 of the Administrative Tribunal Act, 1985 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act 1985") prescribes the jurisdiction, power and authority of the administrative tribunals, therefore, the efficacious alternative remedy is available to the petitioners to approach the Central Administrative Tribunal sitting at Lucknow.

5. He further submitted that the law rendered in the case of L. Chandra Kumar V. Union Of India reported in AIR 1997 SC 1125, it has been held in paragraphs 94 to 100 that every suit or case subject matter as given under Article 14, shall be triable before the tribunals, established under the Act 1985. The aforesaid paragraphs of the judgment and order are extracted as under:-

"94. The directions issued by us in respect of making the decisions of Tribunals amenable to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the respective High Courts will, however, come into effect prospectively i.e. will apply to decisions rendered hereafter. To maintain the sanctity of judicial proceedings, we have invoked the doctrine of prospective overruling so as not to disturb the procedure in relation to decisions already rendered.

95. We are also required to address the issue of the competence of those who man the Tribunals and the question of who is to exercise administrative supervision over them. It has been urged that only those who have had judicial experience should be appointed to such Tribunals. In the case of Administrative Tribunals, it has been pointed out that the Administrative Members who have been appointed have little or no experience in adjudicating such disputes; the Malimath Committee has noted that at times IPS Officers have been appointed to these Tribunals. It is stated that in the short tenures that these Administrative Members are on the Tribunal, they are unable to attain enough experience in adjudication and in cases where they do acquire the ability, it is invariably on the eve of the expiry of their tenures. For these reasons, it has been urged that the appointment of Administrative Members to Administrative Tribunals be stopped. We find it difficult to accept such a contention. It must be remembered that the setting up of these Tribunals is founded on the premise that specialist bodies comprising both trained administrators and those with judicial experience would, by virtue of their specialised knowledge, be better equipped to dispense speedy and efficient justice. It was expected that a judicious mix of Judicial Members and those with grassroot experience would best serve this purpose. To hold that the Tribunal should consist only of Judicial Members would attack the primary basis of the theory pursuant to which they have been constituted. Since the Selection Committee is now headed by a Judge of the Supreme Court, nominated by the Chief Justice of India, we have reason to believe that the Committee would take care to ensure that Administrative Members are chosen from amongst those who have some background to deal with such cases.

96. It has been brought to our notice that one reason why these Tribunals have been functioning inefficiently is because there is no authority charged with supervising and fulfilling their administrative requirements. To this end, it is suggested that the Tribunals be made subject to the supervisory jurisdiction of the High Courts within whose territorial jurisdiction they fall. We are, however, of the view that this may not be the best way of solving the problem. We do not think that our constitutional scheme requires that all adjudicatory bodies which fall within the territorial jurisdiction of the High Courts should be subject to their supervisory jurisdiction. If the idea is to divest the High Courts of their onerous burdens, then adding to their supervisory functions cannot, in any manner, be of assistance to them. The situation at present is that different Tribunals constituted under different enactments are administered by different administrative departments of the Central and the State Governments. The problem is compounded by the fact that some Tribunals have been created pursuant to Central Legislations and some others have been created by State Legislations. However, even in the case of Tribunals created by parliamentary legislations, there is no uniformity in administration. We are of the view that, until a wholly independent agency for the administration of all such Tribunals can be set up, it is desirable that all such Tribunals should be, as far as possible, under a single nodal ministry which will be in a position to oversee the working of these Tribunals. For a number of reasons that Ministry should appropriately be the Ministry of Law. It would be open for the Ministry, in its turn, to appoint an independent supervisory body to oversee the working of the Tribunals. This will ensure that if the President or Chairperson of the Tribunal is for some reason unable to take sufficient interest in the working of the Tribunal, the entire system will not languish and the ultimate consumer of justice will not suffer. The creation of a single umbrella organisation will, in our view, remove many of the ills of the present system. If the need arises, there can be separate umbrella organisations at the Central and the State levels. Such a supervisory authority must try to ensure that the independence of the members of all such Tribunals is maintained. To that extent, the procedure for the selection of the members of the Tribunals, the manner in which funds are allocated for the functioning of the Tribunals and all other consequential details will have to be clearly spelt out.

97. The suggestions that we have made in respect of appointments to Tribunals and the supervision of their administrative function need to be considered in detail by those entrusted with the duty of formulating the policy in this respect. That body will also have to take into consideration the comments of expert bodies like the LCI and the Malimath Committee in this regard. We, therefore, recommend that the Union of India initiate action in this behalf and after consulting all concerned, place all these Tribunals under one single nodal department, preferably the Legal Department.

98. Since we have analysed the issue of the constitutional validity of Section 5(6) of the Act at length, we may now pronounce our opinion on this aspect. Though the vires of the provision was not in question in Dr Mahabal Ram case [(1994) 2 SCC 401 : 1994 SCC (L&S) 642 : (1994) 27 ATC 97] , we believe that the approach adopted in that case, the relevant portion of which has been extracted in the first part of this judgment, is correct since it harmoniously resolves the manner in which Sections 5(2) and 5(6) can operate together. We wish to make it clear that where a question involving the interpretation of a statutory provision or rule in relation to the Constitution arises for the consideration of a Single Member Bench of the Administrative Tribunal, the proviso to Section 5(6) will automatically apply and the Chairman or the Member concerned shall refer the matter to a Bench consisting of at least two Members, one of whom must be a Judicial Member. This will ensure that questions involving the vires of a statutory provision or rule will never arise for adjudication before a Single Member Bench or a Bench which does not consist of a Judicial Member. So construed, Section 5(6) will no longer be susceptible to charges of unconstitutionality.

99. In view of the reasoning adopted by us, we hold that clause 2(d) of Article 323-A and clause 3(d) of Article 323-B, to the extent they exclude the jurisdiction of the High Courts and the Supreme Court under Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution, are unconstitutional. Section 28 of the Act and the "exclusion of jurisdiction" clauses in all other legislations enacted under the aegis of Articles 323-A and 323-B would, to the same extent, be unconstitutional. The jurisdiction conferred upon the High Courts under Articles 226/227 and upon the Supreme Court under Article 32 of the Constitution is a part of the inviolable basic structure of our Constitution. While this jurisdiction cannot be ousted, other courts and Tribunals may perform a supplemental role in discharging the powers conferred by Articles 226/227 and 32 of the Constitution. The Tribunals created under Article 323-A and Article 323-B of the Constitution are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules. All decisions of these Tribunals will, however, be subject to scrutiny before a Division Bench of the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Tribunal concerned falls. The Tribunals will, nevertheless, continue to act like courts of first instance in respect of the areas of law for which they have been constituted. It will not, therefore, be open for litigants to directly approach the High Courts even in cases where they question the vires of statutory legislations (except where the legislation which creates the particular Tribunal is challenged) by overlooking the jurisdiction of the Tribunal concerned. Section 5(6) of the Act is valid and constitutional and is to be interpreted in the manner we have indicated.

100. All these matters may now be listed before a Division Bench to enable them to be decided upon their individual facts in the light of the observations contained in this judgment.""

6. Further submission is that the present writ petition is not maintainable, as there is an efficacious statutory remedy is available to the petitioners, under section 14 of Act 1985, thus, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

7. On the other hand, Mr. Anand Dubey, learned counsel appearing for the petitioners has submitted that the present writ petition is maintainable, as the advertisement has been published under the provisions of the Recruitment Rules For Non-Faculty Posts For New AIIMS, 2015(hereinafter referred as 'Rules 2015') and the writ petition was instituted prior to the notification of the Institution, under Section 14 of the Act 1985. He also added that the recruitment process has also been initiated prior to that notification.

8. He further argued that, in fact, two posts are advertised; one of the Assistant Store Officer and the second one is of Private Secretaries and as per the rules, 75% of total posts of Assistant Store Officer shall be filled up either on promotion or on the deputation and 25% of posts by the direct recruitment, whereas, no promotion has ever been done. Further also, so far as the post of Private Secretaries are concerned, there are six posts, out of which three posts have already been filled up through direct recruitment and by way of the present advertisement, three other posts have been advertised, for appointment, through direct recruitment. He also submitted that as per the Rules 2015, there is 50% quota for promotion for the post of Private Secretaries, which has apparently been violated by the respondent institute as the same is in derogation of the rules. He submitted that, in fact, if there is any illegal exercise of powers by a statutory authority, then the writ petition can be entertained, under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the case of Leelavathi N. And Ors. Etc. Versus The State of Karnatata passed in SLP (Civil) No(s). 27984-27988 of 2023 and has referred paragraph 37, which is quoted hereinunder:-

"37. Nevertheless, a writ petition under Article 226 may still be maintainable notwithstanding the existence of such an alternative remedy in exceptional circumstances, including the enforcement of fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution; instances of ultra vires or illegal exercise of power by a statutory authority; violation of the principles of natural justice; or where the vires of the parent legislation itself is under challenge. While these exceptions have been carved out and reiterated by this Court in a catena of decisions, the facts of the present case do not fall within any of these exceptions so as to warrant the maintainability of the writ petitions before the High Court."

10. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that it has been held in so many words that the alternative remedy would be no bar, in the exceptions, where there is prayer for enforcement of fundamental rights guaranteed under Part III of the Constitution of India, instances of ultra vires or illegal exercise of power by statutory authority or there is violation of principle of natural justice. He submitted that in fact it is apparent that the respondent-institute, by way of the advertisement for the post of private secretaries, has proceeded for the direct recruitment, thus, has violated the law prescribed under the Rules 2015, which is an unlawful exercise of powers by the authority concerned, therefore, the writ petition is maintainable.

11. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the records, it transpires that the petitioners have instituted the present writ petition, challenging the advertisement, which has been published by the 'Institution,' for recruitment, under the provisions of 'Rules 2015.'

12. Upon considering the preliminary objection regarding availability of alternative remedy, it is apt to say that section 14 of the Act 1985, envisaged the jurisdiction and power of the Central Administrative Tribunal, which says that 'the administrative tribunals shall exercise, on and from the appointed day, all the jurisdiction, power and authority exercisable immediately before the day, by all courts.'

13. Section 14 of the Act 1985 reads as under:-

""14. Jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Central Administrative Tribunal.?(1) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Central Administrative Tribunal shall exercise, on and from the appointed day, all the jurisdiction, powers and authority exercisable immediately before that day by all courts (except the Supreme Court 2) in relation to?

(a) recruitment, and matters concerning recruitment, to any All-India Service or to any civil service of the Union or a civil post under the Union or to a post connected with defence or in the defence services, being, in either case, a post filled by a civilian;

(b) all service matters concerning?

(i) a member of any All-India Service; or

(ii) a person [not being a member of an All-India Service or a person referred to in clause (c)] appointed to any civil service of the Union or any civil post under the Union; or

(iii) a civilian [not being a member of an All-India Service or a person referred to in clause (c)] appointed to any defence services or a post connected with defence, and pertaining to the service of such member, person or civilian, in connection with the affairs of the Union or of any State or of any local or other authority within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India or of any corporation 3[or society] owned or controlled by the Government;

(c) all service matters pertaining to service in connection with the affairs of the Union concerning a person appointed to any service or post referred to in sub-clause (ii) or sub-clause (iii) of clause (b), being a person whose services have been placed by a State Government or any local or other authority or any corporation 3[or society] or other body, at the disposal of the Central Government for such appointment.

4[Explanation.?For the removal of doubts, it is hereby declared that references to "Union" in this sub-section shall be construed as including references also to a Union territory.]

(2) The Central Government may, by notification, apply with effect from such date as may be specified in the notification the provisions of sub-section (3) to local or other authorities within the territory of India or under the control of the Government of India and to corporations 3[or societies] owned or controlled by Government, not being a local or other authority or corporation 3[or society] controlled or owned by a State Government:

Provided that if the Central Government considers it expedient so to do for the purpose of facilitating transition to the scheme as envisaged by this Act, different dates may be so specified under this sub-section in respect of different classes of, or different categories under any class of, local or other authorities or corporations 1[or societies].

(3) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, the Central Administrative Tribunal shall also exercise, on and from the date with effect from which the provisions of this sub-section apply to any local or other authority or corporation 1[or society], all the jurisdiction, powers and authority exercisable immediately before that date by all courts (except the Supreme Court 2) in relation to?

(a) recruitment, and matters concerning recruitment, to any service or post in connection with the affairs of such local or other authority or corporation 1[or society]; and

(b) all service matters concerning a person [other than a person referred to in clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1)] appointed to any service or post in connection with the affairs of such local or other authority or corporation 1[or society] and pertaining to the service of such person in connection with such affairs.""

14. The issue herein, is with respect to the advertisement for the recruitment of two posts, namely, the Assistant Store Officer as well as Private Secretary, which essentially is the subject matter of clause 14(i)(a) of the 'Act 1985'.

15. The case in hand is that the advertisement for recruitment of the posts in question, was published on 11.11.2025 and Institution has subsequently been notified on 13.01.2026 by Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions. The further fact is that the writ petition was also preferred on 08.01.2026 that too was prior to the notification dated 13.01.2026. When this court examines the aforesaid facts under the prevalent law, it emerges that Section 14 of the Act 1985 provides the jurisdiction, powers and authority of the Central Administrative Tribunal and it says that the Central Administrative Tribunal shall exercise on and from the appointed day, all the jurisdiction, authority and powers, exercisable by all the courts. The appointed days is 'the day', when any 'authority' mentioned section 14(2) is notified. The institution, who published the advertisement for recruitment of posts, has been notified by the Central Govt. on 13.01.2026, on the appointed day, the instant writ petition is pending. Section 29 of the Act 1985 envisages the provision of transfer of pending cases.

""29. Transfer of pending cases.?(1) Every suit or other proceeding pending before any court or other authority immediately before the date of establishment of a Tribunal under this Act, being a suit or proceeding the cause of action whereon it is based is such that it would have been, if it had arisen after such establishment, within the jurisdiction of such Tribunal, shall stand transferred on that date to such Tribunal: Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to any appeal pending as aforesaid before a High Court 4.

(2) Every suit or other proceeding pending before a court or other authority immediately before the date with effect from which jurisdiction is conferred on a Tribunal in relation to any local or other authority or corporation 5 [or society], being a suit or proceeding the cause of action whereon it is based is such that it would have been, if it had arisen after the said date, within the jurisdiction of such Tribunal, shall stand transferred on that date to such Tribunal: Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to any appeal pending as aforesaid before a High Court 1 Explanation.?For the purposes of this sub-section "date with effect from which jurisdiction is conferred on a Tribunal", in relation to any local or other authority or corporation 2 [or society], means the date with effect from which the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 14 or, as the case may be, sub-section (3) of section 15 are applied to such local or other authority or corporation 2 [or society].

(3) Where immediately before the date of establishment of a Joint Administrative Tribunal any one or more of the States for which it is established, has or have a State Tribunal or State Tribunals, all cases pending before such State Tribunal or State Tribunals immediately before the said date together with the records thereof shall stand transferred on that date to such Joint Administrative Tribunal.

Explanation.?For the purposes of this sub-section, "State Tribunal" means a Tribunal established under sub-section (2) of section 4.

(4) Where any suit, appeal or other proceeding stands transferred from any court or other authority to a Tribunal under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2),?

(a) the court or other authority shall, as soon as may be after such transfer, forward the records of such suit, appeal or other proceeding to the Tribunal; and

(b) the Tribunal may, on receipt of such records, proceed to deal with such suit, appeal or other proceeding, so far as may be, in the same manner as in the case of an application under section 19 from the stage which was reached before such transfer or from any earlier stage or de novo as the Tribunal may deem fit.

(5) Where any case stands transferred to a Joint Administrative Tribunal under sub-section (3), the Joint Administrative Tribunal may proceed to deal with such case from the stage which was reached before it stood so transferred.

3[(6) Every case pending before a Tribunal immediately before the commencement of the Administrative Tribunals (Amendment) Act, 1987 (51 of 1987), being a case the cause of action whereon it is based is such that it would have been, if it had arisen after such commencement, within the jurisdiction of any court, shall, together with the records thereof, stand transferred on such commencement to such court.

(7) Where any case stands transferred to a court under sub-section (6), that court may proceed to deal with such case from the stage which was reached before it stood so transferred.]""

17. The aforesaid provision is very clear in its terms that every suit or other proceeding before any court or other authority, immediately before the date of establishment of a tribunal under the Act 1985, shall stand transferred, on that date to the Tribunals. In the above-noted provisions the word 'pending before a court or authority' has substantive meaning. The question is that when a matter could be said to be pending before any court or authority, is the date, when it is filed and the date, when it's decided finally. So far as the case in hand is concerned, admittedly, the date of notification of the Institution is 13.01.2026 and the present writ petition has been filed on 08.01.2026, while the date of advertisement is 11.11.2025 as is apparent from the advertisement itself and the writ petition has been filed with the main prayer of quashing the aforesaid advertisement. This is an undisputed fact that the writ petition remained pending until the notification dated 13.01.2026 was issued, therefore, the mandate of Section 29 of the Act 1985 would be applicable to the present case and the plea taken by the counsel for the petitioner that the notification has subsequently been issued than that of filing of the writ petition would have no contrary effect.

18. The law rendered in the case of L. Chandra Kumar(Supra), it has been held that such Tribunals have all jurisdiction from the day, they came into existence and even in paragraph 99, it has been said that the tribunals created under Article 323A and 323B of the Constitution of India, are possessed of the competence to test the constitutional validity of statutory provisions and rules and even the vires of the act of the statutory legislation can also be looked into, by the Tribunals.

19. The law, relied upon by the counsel for the petitioners, rendered in the case of Leelavathi N.(Supra), it has been held in paragraph 36, that where an efficacious alternative remedy is available, the High Court should not entertain a Writ Petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, in matters falling squarely within the domain of Tribunals. Counsel for the petitioners has failed to substantiate his arguments that the case of the petitioners do not fall under the domain of the Tribunals, constituted under the scheme of the Constitution of India.

20. Consequently, this Court finds force in the argument of learned counsel for respondents, thus, preliminary objection sustains.

21. Ergo, both the writ petitions are hereby dismissed as not maintainable.

22. Liberty is given to the petitioners to pursue the appropriate remedy provided under the law.

DATED: ALLAHABAD 04.02.2026

Special Appeal No. 1195 of 2025

Dr. Sushil Kumar Sinha, President, Kayasth Pathshala, Prayagraj ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Scope of writ jurisdiction in interfering with the certificate dated 28.03.2025 granted by the Assistant Registrar after recounting done in pursuance of the order of the Prescribed Authority dated 22.03.2025, against which statutory appeal is pending before the Commissioner.

Headnotes

(A) Society law – Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ – Scope – Election of society – Recounting of vote – In pursuance of order of Prescribed Authority dated 22.03.2025, the

Assistant Registrar held recounting and issued election certificate dated 28.03.2025 declaring respondent as President of society and cancelled the election certificate granted earlier to the appellant – Statutory appeal against order dated 22.03.2025 was filed u/s 25(1)(d) proviso – While appeal was pending, writ petition against certificate dated 28.03.2025 was filed – Against refusal to grant interim relief, Special Appeal and Special Leave Petition was dismissed – Effect – Jurisdiction of Assistant Registrar to grant certificate dated 28.03.2025 was challenged in writ petition :

Held : Assistant Registrar was bound to obey the directions issued by the Prescribed Authority vide his order dated 22.03.2025 'to get the recount done and declare its result' and, hence, questioning the nature of the said direction or its consequence could only possibly be entertained in proceedings raising a challenge to the order dated 22.03.2025 itself and not in the writ petition where the said order is not impugned – Admittedly, the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority is not the subject matter of the writ petition and a statutory appeal under Clause (d) of proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 25 of the Act against the said order is still pending before the Commissioner concerned. Therefore, neither the writ Court nor this Appellate Court can record a finding which may, directly or indirectly, result in either setting aside or upholding the order passed or directions issued by the Prescribed Authority. The same, if done, would amount to going beyond the scope of the writ petition and the appeal. [Para 20 and 21] (E-1)

Goyal, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel alongwith Shri Jagdish Pathak, learned Standing Counsel appearing for respondents no. 1 to 3 and Shri Radha Kant Ojha alongwith Shri Prabhakar Awasthi, learned Senior Advocates assisted by Shri Anuj Srivastava and Shri Varad Nath Advocates appearing for the respondent no. 4.

THE CHALLENGE

2. The present intra-court appeal has been filed challenging the final order dated 15.11.2025, whereby the learned Single Judge has dismissed the Writ-C No. 9752 of 2025 which had been filed by the appellant questioning the order (election certificate) dated 28.03.2025 issued by the Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Prayagraj, pursuant to an order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority/Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Prayagraj on a reference earlier made to him.

3. The dispute is regarding Kayasth Pathshala, Prayagraj, a Society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 ('the Act'). The appellant and the respondent no. 4 (in short 'the respondent') contested the election for the post of President of the Society. Elections were held on 25.12.2023, counting of votes was done on 26.12.2023 and the appellant, having received highest number of votes, was declared elected President on 26.12.2023, consequent whereupon a certificate of his election was issued to him by the Returning Officer.

Reference before the Prescribed Authority

4. The respondent approached the Assistant Registrar questioning the election of the appellant. The Assistant Registrar, by order dated 06.04.2024, referred the matter to the Prescribed Authority who, by his order dated 22.03.2025, directed the Assistant Registrar to conduct recounting of votes and declare the result. In pursuance of the said order, the Assistant Registrar, after getting the recounting of votes done, issued an election certificate dated 28.03.2025 declaring the respondent as President of the Society and also cancelled the election certificate dated 25.12.2023 earlier issued by the Returning Officer in favour of the appellant.

Statutory Appeal before the Commissioner

5. Against the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority, the appellant has filed an appeal under the proviso (d) of Section 25(1) of the Act before the Commissioner, Prayagraj, which appeal is still pending.

PROCEEDINGS BEFORE THIS COURT AT INTERIM STAGE

6. Assailing validity of the certificate dated 28.03.2025 issued by the Assistant Registrar, the writ petition giving rise to the present appeal was filed and interim relief was claimed requesting the Court to stay effect and operation of the order dated 28.03.2025 and to restrain respondent no. 4, i.e. the elected President, not to interfere in the functioning of the appellant as President of the Society during the pendency of the writ petition.

7. The writ court, by an order dated 25.04.2025, refused to grant interim relief to the appellant. Challenging the said order, the appellant filed Special Appeal No. 388 of 2025, which was dismissed by order dated 21.05.2025. The said order was carried to Hon'ble Supreme Court in the form of S.L.P. No. 16985 of 2025, however, the same was also dismissed on 04.07.2025. Thereafter, the writ petition was finally heard by the learned Single Judge and by the order impugned dated 15.11.2025, the same has been dismissed.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANT

8. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant has made following submissions:-

(i) The Learned Single Judge has failed to consider the mandate of Section 25(2) of the Act and has proceeded on an erroneous premise that, after recounting under Section 25, one candidate can simply be substituted by another in terms of declaration made by him and without holding fresh elections.

(ii) The Learned Single Judge has failed to appreciate that the challenge in writ petition was inter alia to the jurisdiction of the Assistant Registrar who has no statutory power to cancel or set aside election or to declare the respondent as elected and, therefore, the order passed by him is contrary to the mandate of Section 25(2) of the Act which provides that where by an order made by the Prescribed Authority under 25(1), the election is set aside and the office bearer is no longer entitled to continue in office, then the Registrar may call a meeting of the General Body of the Society for electing office bearers and such meeting shall be presided by the Registrar or any officer authorized by him.

(iii) Although in the order of the Prescribed Authority, there is no indication or mention that election of the appellant has been set aside, alternatively, if the Prescribed Authority is deemed to have set aside the election of the appellant, the only consequence could be that the Assistant Registrar, in exercise of powers under Section 25(2) of the Act, shall proceed to hold a fresh meeting to elect the President, however the same having not been done, the order/certificate issued by the Assistant Registrar becomes invalid as per the statutory scheme itself.

(iv) Only the Prescribed Authority could have decided the dispute in respect of the election and continuance or removal of the appellant as the President of the Society and the Assistant Registrar could not have cancelled the appellant's election or the certificate earlier issued in his favour and, simultaneously, appoint the respondent as the President.

(v) The Prescribed Authority has, after passing order dated 22.03.2025, closed the proceedings before him, whereas, even if he was of the view that recounting should take place, he could have asked the Assistant Registrar to get recounting done and, then, to send the record before him (Prescribed Authority). The same, having not been done, closure of proceedings by the Prescribed Authority and leaving everything to the Assistant Registrar, amounts to illegal exercise of power by the Prescribed Authority.

(vi) The Prescribed Authority and the Assistant Registrar, by declaring the losing candidate as the winning candidate after recount, have assumed such power within themselves which otherwise is available only to the High Court while entertaining an election petition under the provisions of Representation of the People Act, 1951 (in short 'R.P. Act'), which analogy could not be applied in society matters which are governed by the statutory scheme contemplated under the Act of 1860. Reference was made to Sections 84, 98, 100 and 101 of the R.P. Act in this regard.

(vii) Pleadings contained in paragraph 24 of the writ petition to the effect that, as per Section 25 of the Act of 1860, it is only the Prescribed Authority who is authorized by the State Government by notification to set aside the election of office bearers of the Society, having been specifically admitted in paragraph 15 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State-respondents, such admission, in itself, is sufficient to set aside the order/election certificate dated 28.03.2025.

9. Placing reliance on a co-ordinate Bench judgment of this Court in the case of All India Council and another vs. Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits, Varanasi Region, Varanasi and another, 1988 (2) AWC 1154, submission has been made that the scope of Section 4(1) being different from the one under Section 25 of the Act, if a dispute of the nature covered by Section 25 is raised before the Registrar in connection with the submission of annual list under Section 4(1) of the Act, the same must be referred by him to the Prescribed Authority.

10. Accordingly, prayer has been made to set aside the order of the learned Single Judge and to allow the writ petition granting reliefs claimed therein; alternatively, to direct the Assistant Registrar to hold a fresh meeting to elect the President as per Section 25(2) of the Act.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE RESPONDENTS NO. 1, 2 AND 3

11. Learned Standing Counsel submits that the appellant, on the one hand, has challenged the basic order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority by way of statutory appeal which is pending before the Commissioner, on the other hand, challenge has been laid to the consequential order/certificate issued by the Assistant Registrar by means of writ petition which was not maintainable. It is further submitted that this Court, while dismissing the Special Appeal No. 388 of 2025, has already found election certificate dated 28.03.2025 as of no legal status and, therefore, dismissal of writ petition by the learned Single Judge cannot be faulted.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT NO. 4

12. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the respondent has made following submissions:-

(i) In the elections held on 25.12.2023, 148 valid votes were not counted and, therefore, the Prescribed Authority rightly directed recount of votes and, on recount having been lawfully and fairly done, the appellant lost by 77 votes.

(ii) The result of recounting of votes having never been challenged by the appellant, the writ petition against a mere election certificate dated 28.03.2025 was legally not maintainable and, therefore, the same has rightly been dismissed.

(iii) Once the appeal against the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority is still pending before the Commissioner, any indirect challenge to the said order by way of challenge to the consequential act done by the Assistant Registrar, through the writ petition, is untenable.

(iv) The Assistant Registrar, by his order dated 02.04.2025, has already registered the list of office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Act and signatures of the respondent have also been attested and there being no challenge to registration of list or attestation of signatures, no relief can be granted to the appellant in these proceedings.

DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

13. We have considered the submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and have perused the material available on record.

Prayers in the writ petition

14. A perusal of the writ petition indicates that the first prayer made therein was to quash the order dated 28.03.2025 passed by the Assistant Registrar which is in the form of a certificate. Second prayer was to direct the respondents not to interfere in the functioning of the appellant as President of Kayastha Pathshala, Prayagraj.

The impugned order/election certificate

15. It would be apt to reproduce the order/certificate impugned in the writ petition, which reads as under:-

"निर्वाचन प्रमाण पत्र

सन्दर्भ वाद संख्या: 6998/2024, चौधरी राघवेंद्र नाथ सिंह बनाम आर ओ कायस्थ पाठशाला अंतर्गत धारा 25(1) उत्तर प्रदेश सोसाइटीज रजिस्ट्रीकरण अधिनियम 1860 में नियत प्राधिकारी/उप जिलाधिकारी सदर प्रयागराज द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांक 22.03.2025 के अनुपालन में व माननीय जिला अधिकारी द्वारा प्रेषित पत्र संख्या 3033 दिनांक 26.03.2025 के क्रम में समस्त मत पत्रों की पुनर्मतगणना के पश्चयात चौधरी राघवेंद्र नाथ सिंह कायस्थ पाठशाला के अध्यक्ष निर्वाचित घोषित किया जाता है।

दिनांक 25.12.2023 को निर्वाचन अधिकारी कायस्थ पाठशाला श्री प्रमोद कुमार के हस्ताक्षर से जारी निर्वाचन प्रमाण पत्र जो डॉ सुशील कुमार सिन्हा के पक्ष में जारी किया गया था एतद्वारा निरस्त किया जाता है।"

16. When prayer to stay the effect and operation of the order/certificate dated 28.03.2025 and to restrain the respondents from interfering in the functioning of the appellant as President of the Society was declined by the writ court by order dated 25.04.2025, the appellant laid challenge to the same by filing Special Appeal No. 388 of 2025. At that stage, the matter was extensively heard on nature and significance of the election certificate and the appeal was dismissed by recording following observations:-

"25. A perusal of above would reveal that the certificate indicated that pursuant to the recounting, respondent no. 4 is declared as elected President of the Society and went on to cancel the election certificate issued pursuant to the election dated 25.12.2023 in favour of the appellant. As specifically stated by learned counsel for the appellant that in so far as the result of the counting as declared by the Assistant Registrar is concerned, the appellant does not have any grievance in the writ petition as his appeal against the order dated 22.03.2025 is pending. The grievance is qua the cancellation of his election certificate.

26. Nothing has been pointed out that the Act/Rules requires issuance of any such election certificate and, therefore, in our opinion, the same by itself, does not have any legal status. It is not in dispute that pursuant to the recounting held and the declaration of result on 28.03.2025, the Assistant Registrar by his order dated 02.04.2025 has registered the list of office bearers in terms of Section 4(1) of the Act and it is claimed that signatures also have been attested. The issuance of the certificate, whatever value can be attached to the said certificate, does not empower the elected President in any manner, the power is derived based on the registration of the office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Act and even the said order is appealable under Section 4(1A) of the Act.

27. In view of above fact situation, the submissions made by learned counsel for the respondent regarding the nature of challenge laid by the petitioner in relation to the election certificate, which on its own does not have any legal sanctity appear to be justified and consequently seeking of interim relief qua the working of the society despite passing of the order dated 02.04.2025 under Section 4(1) of the Act appears to be wholly misplaced.

28. So far as the judgements cited by both the sides are concerned, in view of what has been found, the same would have no application to the present circumstances.

29. In view of above, in the context of the submissions made, in a petition, seeking to question a part of the election certificate i.e. only regarding cancellation of appellant's certificate and seeking therein interim relief of restraint against the respondent no. 4 from working as President of the Society, the prayer made, cannot be countenanced.

30. In view of above discussion, the order passed by learned Single Judge does not call for any interference, though for different reasons.

31. Consequently, the appeal has no substance, the same is, therefore, dismissed."

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, on a further challenge laid on behalf of the appellant, dismissed the S.L.P. by order dated 04.07.2025, which reads as under:-

"1. We are informed that the main writ petition is now listed for final hearing. In this view of the matter, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned order, which is interim in nature.

2. The Special Leave Petition is dismissed. Needless to say, we have not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case.

3. Pending application(s), if any, shall stand disposed of."

18. In light of aforesaid, if we proceed to examine the rival contentions of the parties, we first find that the Prescribed Authority, by order dated 22.03.2025, had issued following directions:-

"उपरोक्त तथ्यों को दृष्टिगत रखते हुए सभी 9543 मतपत्रों की पुर्न मतगणना का आदेश जारी किया जाता है। सहायक रजिस्ट्रार, फर्म्स, सोसाइटीज एवं चिट्स प्रयागराज को यह निर्देशित किया जाता है कि 7 दिवस के अन्दर पुर्न मतगणना कराना तथा उसका परिणाम घोषित करना सुनिश्चित करें। इसके साथ ही नायब तहसीलदार उत्तरी सदर प्रयागराज को यह निर्देशित किया जाता है कि मतगणना की पूरी प्रक्रिया के दौरान मतगणना स्थल पर उपस्थित रहकर सतत पर्यवेक्षण करेंगे। आदेश की दूसरी प्रति co कर्नलगंज को इस निर्देश के साथ भेजी जाय कि नियत स्थान एवं समय पर पर्याप्त पुलिस बल तैनात करें। यह भी आदेशित किया जाता है कि पुर्न मतगणना की सम्पूर्ण प्रक्रिया विडियोग्राफी में कराया जाय।"

19. Assistant Registrar, accordingly, through the State Machinery, got the recounting done and, then, issued the certificate dated 28.03.2025. The challenge to the said order/certificate is primarily on the ground that the Assistant Registrar had no power or jurisdiction, either to declare the respondent as President or to cancel the election of the appellant, which was earlier recognized in terms of issuance of certificate dated 25.12.2023 issued by the Returning Officer.

20. Though the argument advanced on behalf of the appellant to the effect that in terms of proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 25 of the Act, election of an office bearer can be set aside only by the Prescribed Authority, if one or the other contingency enumerated in Clause (a), (b) and/or (c) occurs, is certainly in consonance with the scheme of the Act, the mere fact that the Assistant Registrar had issued the certificate and that the Prescribed Authority, in its order dated 22.03.2025, had not specifically indicated setting aside the election of the appellant, by itself, is not sufficient to grant reliefs, as prayed by the appellant. The reason is that the Assistant Registrar was bound to obey the directions issued by the Prescribed Authority vide his order dated 22.03.2025 'to get the recount done and declare its result' and, hence, questioning the nature of the said direction or its consequence could only possibly be entertained in proceedings raising a challenge to the order dated 22.03.2025 itself and not in the writ petition where the said order is not impugned.

21. Admittedly, the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority is not the subject matter of the writ petition and a statutory appeal under Clause (d) of proviso to sub-Section (1) of Section 25 of the Act against the said order is still pending before the Commissioner concerned. Therefore, neither the writ Court nor this Appellate Court can record a finding which may, directly or indirectly, result in either setting aside or upholding the order passed or directions issued by the Prescribed Authority. The same, if done, would amount to going beyond the scope of the writ petition and the appeal.

22. We may add here certain aspects relating to the appeal against the order dated 22.03.2025 pending before the Commissioner. Therein also, the appellant moved an application seeking interim relief pending appeal. The Commissioner, Prayagraj, while admitting the appeal by order dated 11.09.2025, rejected the application observing that the said order would remain subject to any order to be passed in the pending Writ-C No. 9752 of 2025, i.e. the writ petition giving rise to the present appeal. Therefore, even in the appeal against the main order passed by the Prescribed Authority, the appellant did not get any interim relief and nothing has been brought on record before us to demonstrate that at any point of time, arising out of the appeal, the appellant has got any interim relief.

23. Further, there is an order dated 23.11.2024 passed by this Court in another Writ-C No. 38500 of 2024 filed by the appellant wherein he had made certain prayers with regard to Reference Case No. 6998 of 2024 during its pendency before the Prescribed Authority. The said writ petition disposed of directing the Commissioner, Prayagraj Division, Prayagraj to decide the pending appeal expeditiously preferably within a period of one month from the date of production of certified copy of the order, if there is no legal impediment. As to what are the reasons for non-disposal of the pending appeal within the time fixed by this Court, is not a matter of concern of this Court in these proceedings; however the fact remains that the appeal is still pending and without any interim relief to the appellant.

24. Another significant aspect of the matter is that admittedly, list of office bearers pursuant to the election result after recount, has already been registered under Section 4(1) of the Act on 02.04.2025 and signatures of the respondent as President have also been attested. In such view of the matter, when basic order passed by the Prescribed Authority is under challenge in appeal before the Commissioner and the order subsequent to issuance of certificate registering the list of office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Act, has not been challenged in appropriate proceedings, challenge to an intervening event in terms of issuance of certificate dated 28.03.2025, in our opinion, has no substance.

25. We may reiterate that no provision under the Act or the Rules contemplates issuance of any such election certificate and, therefore, the same by itself does not have any legal status. While dismissing Special Appeal No. 388 of 2025, we have already held that issuance of certificate, whatever value can be attached to the same, does not empower the elected President in any manner and the power to act as such is derived based on the registration of the list of office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Act, which order is appealable under Section 4(1-A) of the Act. If the appellant chose not to challenge the same, we cannot restrain the respondent from acting as President and, therefore, both the reliefs claimed in the writ petition cannot be granted.

26. As far as reliance placed on behalf of the appellant on the judgment in the case of All India Council (supra), it would be necessary to refer paragraph 10 of the decision, much emphasis whereupon was laid on behalf of the appellant. The same reads as under:-

“10. It was urged that the Registrar derives jurisdiction under this provision to determine the dispute. We are unable to agree. In the first place, the dispute has not arisen in the' context of the submission of the annual list of the managing body which is required to be filed under Section 4(1). Secondly, the power of the Registrar to decide objections filed under the proviso to Section 4(1) must be held to operate in a field not covered by Section 25 of the Act. Under the proviso to Section 4(1), the Registrar deals only such matters as may arise in the context of the submission of the annual list of the managing body. Further in the present case we are concerned here not with the election of the managing body but with the election of the office-bearers of the Society. The managing body here is the AH India Council which is different from the Pratinidhi Sabha. In any case, insofar as the disputes relating to the election of the office-bearers of a society registered in Uttar Pradesh is concerned, the same has to be decided only in the manner prescribed under Section 25(1) on the principle that the 'special excludes the general'. This is the only way in which the proviso to Section 4 can be harmonised with Section 25. Consequently if a dispute of the nature covered by Section 25 is raised before the Registrar in connection with the submission of the annual list under Section 4(1) of the Act the same must, in view of the Legislative mandate embodied in Section 25(1), be referred by him to the Prescribed Authority. The Bench deciding writ petn. No. 14879 of 1986 referred to above was also of the opinion that the proviso to Section 4(1) does not have the effect of whittling down the scope of Section 25(1)."

27. We find that the controversy before this Court in the case of All India Council (supra) had arisen from a situation where there was a Society namely, 'Bharat Dharm Mahamandal' registered under the Act, whereas its management and control was in the hands of its general body, namely 'All India Pratinidhi Sabha'. Elections of office bearers of Pratinidhi Sabha were held and parallel elections were also set up by the rival group and when two parallel proceedings and the decisions thereof regarding continuance of the beneficiaries of such proceedings came before the Assistant Registrar, he disposed of the proceedings, one pertaining to certain amendments in the by-laws which he had disapproved and the other relating to the question of continuance of a person as Chief Secretary after submission of his resignation. In that factual background, this Court had proceeded to examine the competence of Assistant Registrar to pass an order of the said nature and observed that such election dispute could only be referred by him to the Prescribed Authority under Section 25(1) of the Act.

28. The facts of the present case are totally different wherein there is no dispute regarding any parallel elections having been set up, rather the case in hand has arisen from a situation where, after the Assistant Registrar had made a reference to the Prescribed Authority, the latter exercised its power in terms of Section 25 (1) of the Act and passed the order dated 22.03.2025, which itself is under challenge in Appeal before the Commissioner. Therefore, the appellant cannot get any advantage out of the decision cited.

29. Submission made by Shri Tiwari that closure of proceedings by the Prescribed Authority after passing order dated 22.03.2025, and not requiring the Assistant Registrar to transmit record of recounting done before him (Prescribed Authority) amounts to illegal exercise of power by the Prescribed Authority, is essentially an attack on validity of the order passed by the Prescribed Authority, which is under challenge in appeal before the Commissioner and does not form subject matter of the proceedings before us or the writ court.

30. As far as alternative submission made by Shri Tiwari that if the election of the appellant is deemed to have been set aside vide order of the Prescribed Authority, the only consequence would be the one as provided under Section 25(2) of the Act requiring the Assistant Registrar to hold a fresh meeting, we are not inclined to accept the same. The reason is that once the certificate dated 28.03.2025 is of no independent legal status or consequence, what remains of significance is the order of the Prescribed Authority passed prior to issuance of certificate and registration of the list under Section 4(1) by the Assistant Registrar subsequent to issuance of certificate. Challenge to the order of the Prescribed Authority and registration of list by the Assistant Registrar having been statutorily recognized under the scheme of the Act, 1860, we are not inclined to hold in these proceedings that occasion for the Assistant Registrar to hold meeting as per Section 25(2) of the Act has arisen, particularly when the appeal against the order of the Prescribed Authority is under challenge in Appeal pending before the Commissioner.

31. In order to appreciate submissions made on behalf of the appellant with reference to the provisions of R.P. Act, a composite reading of Sections 84, 98, 100 and 101 of the said Act makes it clear that the High Court, in an election petition filed under the said Act, can entertain a challenge to an election on various grounds and the relief that may be claimed by the election petitioner or that may be granted to him, includes a declaration that he himself or any other candidate has been duly elected. However to observe in this case that the declaration made in favour of the respondent vide certificate dated 28.03.2025 would amount to borrowing/importing powers from the Act of 1951, which otherwise are not available under the Act of 1860, the Court has to see the nature of challenge in its entirety and not on piecemeal basis. Once we have arrived at a concrete conclusion that the challenge laid to the certificate alone which has no independent or separate legal status in itself, we are not inclined to quash either the certificate or any part thereof or the order of learned Single Judge dismissing the writ petition.

32. The learned Single Judge, after taking note of the proceedings of previous round of litigation in terms of declining to grant interim relief by the writ Court, unsuccessful challenge made by the appellant in the Special Appeal and, then, before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, came to the conclusion that the writ petition is an indirect way to invoke jurisdiction of the writ Court to pass comments or return finding qua the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority on merits, despite a challenge having been laid to the same by way of appeal pending before the Appellate Authority.

33. Although observation made by the learned Single Judge in paragraph no. 17 of the order impugned that after the respondent was declared elected, the only legal consequence would be that election certificate be issued in his favour and the election certificate already issued in favour of the appellant has to be set aside and the same was done by the concerned respondent who was empowered to do so, appears to be not in strict consonance with the scheme of the Act of 1860, the same, in itself, would not suffice reversal of the ultimate conclusion drawn by the writ Court. We are satisfied that the learned Single Judge has assigned cogent multiple reasons for dismissing the writ petition in light of statutory appeal being pending before the Commissioner against the order passed by the Prescribed Authority and no challenge having been laid to registration of the list under Section 4(1) of the Act, either way.

CONCLUSION

34. Consequently, we do not find any error in the order passed by the learned Single Judge and without making any comment on the validity of the order dated 22.03.2025 passed by the Prescribed Authority against which statutory appeal is pending before the Commissioner, or registration of list of office bearers under Section 4(1) of the Act, we are not inclined either to upset the order of the learned Single Judge or to grant any relief to the appellant.

35. The appeal has no merit and the same is, accordingly, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Permissibility of making plea of not getting approval of the Appointment Committee to challenge the order of compulsory retirement passed by the President, being the appointing authority.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Compulsory retirement – Commissioner of Income Tax – Order of compulsory retirement was issued by the President – No approval of Appointment Committee was taken before compulsory retirement – Effect – Validity of compulsory retirement was challenged on one more ground that Review Committee failed to consider the entire service record – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : Appointing authority of the petitioner is the President and the order of compulsory retirement has been issued by the President. Hence, the claim of the petitioner that no approval was taken from the competent authority before passing the order of compulsory retirement, is misconceived, as the President, being the appointing authority of the petitioner, has passed the order dated 10.06.2019 – The Review Committee considered the entire service record of the petitioner including his ACRs/APARs, charge memos communicated as well as uncommunicated remarks, disciplinary cases etc. and recommended the compulsory retirement of petitioner which was accepted by the Appropriate Authority i.e. the President – The contention of the petitioner that the procedure prescribed under the Office Memorandums dated 10.05.1974, 21.03.2014 and 11.09.2015 has not been followed is also misconceived. Advs. for the Respondents: Devrishi Kumar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Shri J. N. Mathur, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Shobhit Mohan Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Devrishi Kumar, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The instant writ petition arises from the judgment and order dated 20.02.2023 passed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow in Original Application No.332/00450/2019 "Alok Kumar Mitra vs. Union of India", whereby the petitioner had challenged before the learned Tribunal the order dated 10.06.2019, by which he was compulsorily retired from the post of Commissioner of Income Tax in the Indian Revenue Service by invoking Fundamental Rule 56(j) as well as the order dated 16.08.2019, by which his representation against the order of compulsory retirement was rejected.

3. The petitioner was an officer of the Indian Revenue Service, 1992 Batch. After selection through the Union Public Service Commission, he was initially appointed to the post of Assistant Commissioner (Income Tax). Upon completion of his training, he was posted in the Income Tax Department and served there from 1995 to 2014. From 2014 to 2017, he was on deputation to the Government of Uttar Pradesh as Chief Executive Officer of the State Agency for Comprehensive Health and Integrated Services (SACHIS). Thereafter, the petitioner was promoted to the post of Commissioner of Income Tax (Senior Administrative Grade) vide order dated 16.09.2015.

4. The petitioner was compulsorily retired from the post of Commissioner of Income Tax (Appeals) III, Kochi (Kerala) vide order dated 10.06.2019, which was challenged before the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow. The said order was served upon the petitioner on 11.06.2019. He submitted a representation dated 30.06.2019 against the order of compulsory retirement in terms of paragraph 5 of the Office Memorandum dated 11.10.1976, which was rejected vide order dated 16.08.2019.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019 passed under Fundamental Rule 56(j) is perverse, inasmuch as it is contrary to the guidelines contained in the Office Memorandums dated 10.05.1974, 21.03.2014 and 11.09.2015. It has been submitted that the due process prescribed therein was not followed and the petitioner s representation was rejected by a non-speaking and unreasoned order, without adhering to the timeline provided in the Office Memorandum dated 11.10.1976.

6. It has further been submitted that neither approval from the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) was obtained nor the Central Vigilance Commission was consulted before passing the order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019, which is contrary to the Office Memorandum dated 10.05.1974.

7. It has also been submitted that the Government of India issued Office Memorandum dated 21.03.2014 providing for periodical review under Fundamental Rule 56(j). Paragraphs 4 and 5 thereof prescribe the criteria to be followed by the Review Committee while making recommendations for compulsory retirement.

8. It has been submitted that as per the Office Memorandum dated 21.03.2014, only those officers whose integrity is doubtful or who have become ineffective in the discharge of their duties ought to be considered for compulsory retirement. For this purpose, only the immediate preceding five years of the service record or the service record post-promotion is required to be taken into consideration. In the specific case of the petitioner, both his past service record and his record after promotion are stated to be excellent.

9. It has also been submitted that the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 issued by the Government of India makes reference to the judgment rendered by the Hon ble Supreme Court in State of Gujarat vs. Umedbhai M. Patel reported in (2001) 3 SCC 314. Paragraph 2 of the said Office Memorandum details the circumstances under which the candidature of an officer may be scrutinized for compulsory retirement.

10. It is the case of the petitioner that the guidelines contained in the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 were also violated while considering his case for compulsory retirement by the Review Committee.

11. It has further been submitted that the petitioner was promoted to the post of Commissioner of Income Tax on the basis of merit-cum-seniority vide order dated 16.09.2015. His promotion itself is sufficient to indicate that his merit was beyond doubt. Prior to his promotion, vigilance clearance was granted and the recommendation of the Departmental Promotion Committee was duly scrutinized by the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) and only thereafter the petitioner was promoted. As such, there was no adverse material available before the Review Committee to justify recommending compulsory retirement.

12. It has also been submitted that the remarks recorded in the Annual Confidential Reports of the petitioner consistently indicate that he was considered an officer of outstanding category, whose integrity was beyond doubt and whose general reputation was appreciated at various levels.

13. It has been submitted that a combined reading of the Office Memorandum dated 10.05.1974, 21.03.2014 and 11.09.2015 provides that screening under Fundamental Rule 56(j) is to be undertaken only in cases where the services of an officer are no longer useful to the general administration and for the purpose of weeding out dead wood. For arriving at such a conclusion, due regard must be given to the entire service record of the officer. Adverse material prior to promotion loses its significance and greater weightage is required to be given to the service record post-promotion. It has further been submitted that if an officer is promoted despite adverse entries, such promotion operates in his favour and compulsory retirement in such circumstances cannot be used as a tool for punishment.

14. It is further submitted that after the petitioner s promotion to the post of Commissioner of Income Tax, his services were placed on deputation as Chief Executive Officer of the State Agency for Comprehensive Health and Integrated Services, where he remained posted in that capacity up to November 2017. During the period of deputation, his Annual Confidential Reports indicate that he was consistently graded as an outstanding officer.

15. On the contrary, the respondents, while denying the claims of the petitioner, have drawn attention to the minutes of the Review Committee, which form the sole basis for recommending compulsory retirement of the petitioner, as indicated in paragraph 7 of the counter affidavit filed along with the application for dismissal of the Original Application No.332/00450/2019.

16. It has been submitted that the Review Committee took into consideration the entire service record of the officer including his Annual Confidential Reports (ACR)/Annual Performance Appraisal Reports (APAR) and the charge sheets issued against the petitioner and only after recording its satisfaction recommended the petitioner s compulsory retirement.

17. Learned counsel for the respondents has further submitted that the Representation Committee duly considered the representation filed by the petitioner in accordance with the procedure prescribed in the various Office Memoranda against the order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019. The Committee examined the entire service record of the petitioner and held that there was no illegality in the order of compulsory retirement. While taking the decision, the Office Memoranda issued from time to time on the subject were duly considered and after following the prescribed procedure of law, the petitioner was compulsorily retired.

18. With regard to the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that no approval from the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) was obtained, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that at the time of joining government service the petitioner was appointed by the President. His promotion to the Senior Administrative Grade was also made under the orders of the President after empanelment by the ACC. This does not mean that the ACC is the appointing authority; rather, the appointing authority of the petitioner continues to be the President. Thus, it has been argued that the petitioner s claim that he was not compulsorily retired after obtaining approval from the competent authority is misconceived.

19. In rejoinder submission, learned counsel for the petitioner contended that the Review Committee relied upon adverse material which, in fact, did not exist. In particular, the charge sheet dated 15.07.2013 initiating disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner was quashed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow, vide judgment and order dated 09.04.2018 passed in Original Application No.332/00353/2013. The said order attained finality and was accepted by the department itself.

20. It has been submitted that once the charge sheet was quashed, the allegations contained therein could not have been taken into consideration by the Review Committee for forming an adverse opinion against the petitioner and could not have been made the basis for action under Fundamental Rule 56(j).

21. To sum up, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted:

(i) The petitioner has been targeted and the order of compulsory retirement has been passed in an arbitrary manner, inasmuch as when the department failed to take any action in the disciplinary proceedings, it adopted the course of compulsory retirement under Fundamental Rule 56(j) and compulsorily retired the petitioner.

(ii) The decision to invoke Fundamental Rule 56(j) against the petitioner was not taken in public interest. The Hon ble Supreme Court, in S. Ram Chandra Raju vs. State of Orissa reported in (1994) 3 SCC 424, explained the expression public interest to mean that the conduct and reputation of an officer must be such that his continuance in service would be a menace to public service and injurious to public interest. No such pleading has been made by the respondents in the counter affidavit. The Hon ble Supreme Court in State of Gujarat and another vs. Suryakant Chunilal Shah reported in (1999) 1 SCC 529; Union of India vs. Col. J. N. Sinha reported in (1970) 2 SCC 458; and Gian Singh Mann vs. High Court of Punjab and Haryana reported in (1980) 4 SCC 266, has further explained the expression public interest in the context of compulsory retirement to refer to cases where the interest of public administration requires the retirement of a government servant who, with the passage of time, has prematurely ceased to possess the standard of efficiency and utility expected in government service.

(iii) The order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019 is based upon non-existent material and the opinion of the Review Committee cannot supersede the satisfaction of the appointing authority.

(iv) The opinion to compulsorily retire the applicant was formed by the Review Committee, however, the approval of the prescribed Appropriate Authority i.e.,the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) was not obtained. Since the petitioner is an ACC appointee, such approval was mandatory under Fundamental Rule 56(j). Consequently, the opinion was not formed by the appropriate authority, rendering the action illegal.

(v) The Office Memorandums dated 10.05.1974, 21.03.2014 and 11.09.2015 mandate that an officer may be considered for screening only at the age of 50/55 years. For consideration at any other age, the Hon ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Chandra Mohan Nigam reported in (1977) 4 SCC 345 (paragraph 29) has held that there must be fresh or new material (post 50 years) relating to integrity. By operation of law and as per the mandatory scheme of Fundamental Rule 56(j), as clarified by the Hon ble Supreme Court in various decisions, the fact that the petitioner continued in service till the age of 52.5 years clearly establishes that he had successfully cleared the mandatory screening at the age of 50 years, which is necessarily undertaken for all government servants as a statutory requirement.

(vi) While passing the judgment and order dated 20.02.2023, the learned Tribunal did not return any finding on the issues raised by the petitioner. Instead, it relied upon the judgment in Captain Pramod Kumar Bajaj vs. Union of India and another passed by the Hon ble High Court on 31.05.2022 in Writ-A No.24856 of 2020, which was subsequently set aside by the Hon ble Supreme Court on 03.03.2023 in Civil Appeal No.6161 of 2022. Thus, the judgment of the learned Tribunal is based upon a decision that stands overruled by the Hon ble Supreme Court.

(vii) The impugned order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019 lacks approval of the Appropriate Authority , as defined in Note-1 to Fundamental Rule 56(j). On this ground alone, the order of compulsory retirement is void ab initio and in any case, deserves to be quashed as being vitiated by legal malice.

22. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, we proceed to examine the decision taken by the respondents to compulsorily retire the petitioner in the light of the statutory provisions governing compulsory retirement of a Government servant.

23. Fundamental Rule 56(j) is reproduced herein below :

CHAPTER IX

RETIREMENT

Fundamental Rule 56(a) .

(j) Notwithstanding anything contained in this rule, the appropriate authority shall, if it is of the opinion that it is in the public interests so to do, have the absolute right to retire any Government servant by giving him notice of not less than three months in writing or three months' pay and allowances in lieu of such notice;

(1) If he is, in Group 'A' or Group 'B' service or post in a substantive, quasi-permanent or temporary capacity and had entered Government service before attaining the age of 35 years, after he has attained the age of 50 years;

(ii) in any other case after he has attained the age of fifty-five years:

Provided that nothing in this clause shall apply to a Government servant referred to in clause (c), who entered Government service on or before the 23rd July, 1966.

(j) (i) If on a review of the case either on a representation from the Government servant retired prematurely or otherwise, it is decided to reinstate the Government servant in service, the authority ordering reinstatement may regulate the intervening period between the date of premature retirement and the date of reinstatement by the grant of leave of the kind due and admissible, including extraordinary leave, or by treating it as dies non depending upon the facts and circumstances of the case:

Provided that the intervening period shall be treated as a period spent on duty for all purposes including pay and allowances, if it is specifically held by the authority ordering reinstatement that the premature retirement was itself not justified in the circumstances of the case, or, if the order of premature retirement is set aside by a Court of Law.

(ii) Where the order of premature retirement is set aside by a Court of Law with specific directions in regard to regulation of the period between the date of premature retirement and the date of reinstatement and no further appeal is proposed to be filed, the aforesaid period shall be regulated in accordance with the directions of the court."

24. Fundamental Rule 56(j) provides that the appropriate authority has the absolute right to compulsorily retire a government servant. The term Appropriate Authority has been defined as the authority which has the power to make substantive appointments to the post or service. The Office Memorandum dated 30.05.2016, annexed as Annexure No.17 to the writ petition, issued under the subject Strengthening of Administration-Periodical Review clarifies that under Fundamental Rule 56(j), the Appropriate Authority is the authority competent to make substantive appointments. The Office Memorandum dated 30.05.2016 is reproduced herein below :

"DoP&T vide their O.M. dated 11.09.2015 has directed all the Ministries/Departments to conduct periodical review inder FR 56 (j) and Rule 48 of CCS (Pension) Rules to ascertain whether the Government servant should be retained in service or retired from Services in the Public interest.

1. FR 56 (j) and Rule 48 of CCS (Pension) Rules, 1972 provide as under :

FR 56 (j) Notwithstanding anything contained in this rule, the Appropriate Authority shall, if it is of the opinion that it is in the public interest so to do, have the absolute right to retire any Government servant by giving him notice of not less than three months in writing or three months" pay and allowances in lieu of such notice;

(i) If he is, in Group A or Group B service or post in a substantive, quasi-permanent or temporary capacity and had entered Government service before attaining the age of 35 years, he has attained the age of 50 years.

(ii) in any other case after he has attained the age of fifty-five years.

Under FR 56, the "Appropriate Authority" has been defined as the authority which has the power to make substantive appointments to the post or service."

25. It is not disputed that the appointing authority of the petitioner is the President and the order of compulsory retirement has been issued by the President. Hence, the claim of the petitioner that no approval was taken from the competent authority before passing the order of compulsory retirement, is misconceived, as the President, being the appointing authority of the petitioner, has passed the order dated 10.06.2019.

26. Thus, the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that approval of the Appointments Committee of the Cabinet (ACC) was required before passing the order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019 is misconceived, as there is no such requirement stipulated in the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 regarding approval of the ACC.

27. The contention of the petitioner that the procedure prescribed under the Office Memorandums dated 10.05.1974, 21.03.2014 and 11.09.2015 has not been followed is also misconceived. The Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015, annexed as Annexure No.16 to the writ petition, provides in paragraph 3 that during every review, the entire service record of the concerned officer is required to be considered and the review should not be confined merely to the ACRs/APARs.

28. Paragraph 7 of the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 further provides that the Secretaries of the Cadre Controlling Authorities shall constitute Review Committees consisting of two members at the appropriate level. It also stipulates that in the case of officers holding Group A posts, the Review Committee may be headed by the Secretary of the concerned Ministry/Department, being the Cadre Controlling Authority, particularly in respect of ACC appointees. In the present case, the Review Committee which considered the petitioner s case for compulsory retirement was a two member committee headed by the Secretary (Revenue) and another member who was Chairman, Central Board of Direct Taxes in conformity with the requirements of paragraph 7 of the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 governing the process of compulsory retirement. The Review Committee was assisted by Internal Committee members comprising of Pr. DGIT (HRD) as Chairperson, ADG (HRD-1 and ADG (Vig)-1 as member as required Paragraph 9 of Circular dated 11.09.2015. The Review Committee considered the entire service record of the petitioner including his ACRs/APARs, charge memos communicated as well as uncommunicated remarks, disciplinary cases etc. and recommended the compulsory retirement of petitioner which was accepted by the Appropriate Authority i.e. the President.

29. The contention of the petitioner that he has been targeted and victimized while passing the order of compulsory retirement dated 10.06.2019 is also misconceived. While undertaking the exercise of compulsory retirement, action was taken against 67 officers along with the petitioner by the Union of India. It is, therefore, not a case where the petitioner alone was singled out for such action. The due process was followed, the matter was initially examined by the Review Committee, whose recommendation was considered and accepted by the Appointing Authority and thereafter the decision to compulsorily retire the petitioner was taken. The matter was again examined by the Representation Committee constituted by the Cabinet Secretary comprising of officers of the level of Secretary to Government of India, an officer of the level of Addl. Secretary/Joint Secretary to the Government of India and one Officer nominated from the Cadre-Controlling Authority of the officer concerned, which affirmed the order of compulsory retirement and rejected the petitioner s representation. The O. M. No.25013/01/2013-Estt. A-IV dated 01.03.2016 provides for the composition of Representation Committee which was duly adhered to while constituting the Representation Committee in the case of the petitioner. In these circumstances, it cannot be said that any malice was harboured against the petitioner. The allegation of arbitrariness is also misconceived, as the order of compulsory retirement was passed after following the due procedure prescribed under the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 and in accordance with the statutory requirements contained in Fundamental Rule 56(j).

30. With regard to the satisfaction recorded by the Review Committee, we are of the opinion that as per the details contained in paragraph 7 of the written statement/counter affidavit filed before the learned Tribunal by the Union of India, which sets out the minutes of the decision-making process of the Review Committee, it cannot be said that the Review Committee arrived at its decision without any material basis. The Review Committee duly recorded its satisfaction before recommending the petitioner s compulsory retirement. The minutes of the Review Committee, as contained in paragraph 7 of the written counter affidavit, are reproduced herein below:

"Para-7 - At the outset it is submitted that the Review Committee had passed a reasoned order after examining the entire service records of the Applicant. The Committee took note of the following facts and passed its reasoned order:

(i) On perusal of File F. No. DGIT(V)/EZ/COM/62/03 it was seen that a complaint was processed against the Applicant and which resulted in issuance of a charge sheet (DGIT(V)/DP/483/2013) dated 15.07.2013 for major penalty under Rule 14 of CCS (CCA) Rules. The Applicant was charged with carrying out a shoddy investigation in Tax Evasion Petition (TEP) relating to Sahara Group, while functioning as DDIT (inv. II), Lucknow. The Applicant was charged with sending a report to Higher Authorities even when the Inquiries were not concluded) The said report dated 30.05.2002 could have resulted in undue benefit to Sahara Group as the applicant had given a clean chit to the group. The investigation conducted by the Dept. showed that the officer had handled TEP in a shoddy manner and had not completed the inquiries diligently. However, the charge sheet was later quashed by CAT, Lucknow bench on technical grounds such as delay in processing the case. The manner in which the TEPS were taken up on priority by the Applicant raises suspicions about the whole episode. Thus, the committee was of the view that integrity of Shri Alok Kumar Mitra is doubtful.

(ii) The perusal of file F. No.DGIT(V)/NZ/COM/64/03 shows that a complaint received on 24.02.2003 from Ms. Rajlakshmi Verma, MLA, U.P. against Shri Alok Kumar Mitra, the then DDIT (Inv.), Lucknow and another officer was processed. It was alleged in the complaint that the applicant, the then Dy. Director of Income-tax (Inv.), Lucknow and another officer Ms. Archana Chaudhary, the then Addl. Director of Income-tax (Inv.), Lucknow had misused their office and had been handling files in an improper manner. Allegations of lavish holidays abroad, possession of Benami properties in NOIDA/Delhi and illegal withdrawals from secret funds of Search Wing had been made in the complaint. It was alleged that the applicant and Ms. Chaudhary had managed their posting at Lucknow for more than nine years continuously. Hon'ble MLA also forwarded a report of the Director of Income Tax (Inv.), Kanpur dated 10/11/12.2002, addressed to DGIT(Inv.), North, Lucknow, wherein findings of both these officers of having misused their office were recorded.

(iii) The Review Committee had further noted that Six Tax Evasion Petition (TEP) cases, which were handled by these officers, were examined by the Department. In its report dated 10/11.12.2002, DIT (Inv.), Kanpur had stated that the TEPs in these six cases were not even entered in the Register and nor were forwarded to the Director of Income-tax (Inv.), Kanpur for categorisation as was required at that time. The TEPs in these six cases were taken up for enquiry out of turn while a large number of TEPs were pending unattended in the office of the Addl. DIT (Inv.), Lucknow for a long time at that moment. The report categorically pointed out the possibility of creating of these TEPS in the office of the Addl. DIT (Inv.), Lucknow with some ulterior motives. The manner in which the TEPs were dealt with clearly show malafide intention on the part of these two officers. Since both these officers were Group-A officers, DIT (Inv.) recommended to make a reference to the DIT (Vig.) for taking necessary action at its end.

(iv) The DIT(Vig.), North & Dy. CVO, New Delhi, furnished a report to DGIT (Vig.) vide letter dated 23.09.2002 forwarded by Shri Ravi Gautam, the then Minister U.P. and complaint dated Nil by Mrs. Rajlakshmi Verma the then MLA UP. The allegations in the first complaint were found general in nature and found to be based on hearsay. Regarding the second complaint, the records of the TEPs were requisitioned and an inspection thereof indicated serious irregularities in handling of the said TEPS, which are listed as under :

(a) Failed to enter these TEPs in the TEP Register in complete defiance of the prescribed procedure/guidelines and also did not report these TEPS in the Prescribed format in the monthly report. Thus sought to hide the existence of these TEPs from higher authorities/CBDT;

(b) Issuance of inquiry letter/notice u/s 133(6), 135 and 136 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 without seeking approval of the competent authority in blatant contravention of the Income Tax Act, 1961.

(c) Directing the Assessee for personal appearance which was not required;

(d) Not processing the complaints of alleged undisclosed black money under the appropriate section of the IT Act or seeking the direction or guidance of the superior authority;

(e) Instead of conducting enquiry in secretive manner to unearth black money deliberately made the assessee aware of the inquiry with a malafide intention;

(f) Not taking any action for a considerable time after having received all the requisite information.

(v) Accordingly, the case was referred to CVC for its first stage advice on 13.07.2004 with a recommendation for initiation of major penalty proceedings against both these officers. The CVC, vide OM dated 28.07.2004, advised initiation of major penalty proceedings against the applicant and Ms. Chaudhary and also nominated Inquiry Officer in the case.

(vi) During that time, CBDT vide order dated 06.05.2004 transferred the jurisdiction of the cases pertaining to CCIT, Lucknow Charge to DIT(Vig.), East. Therefore, DIT(Vig), North recommended to delink both the complaints and open a new file for further investigation of the complaint of Mrs. Rajlakshmi Varma, the then MLA UP by DIT(Vig.), East who then held Jurisdiction over the case. In light of the fresh facts gathered in the subsequent investigation, the Minister of State for Finance (Revenue) gave approval to refer the case for reconsideration to the CVC with the recommendation for closure of the case against the applicant and for taking administrative action against the other officer. The complaint against the officer was closed on 09.05.2008 as per CVC'S OM No.004/ITX/086-65406 dated 17.08.2007.

(vii) Though the complaint was closed the committee noted that as per DOPT OM No.25013/01/2013-Estt. A-IV dated 11.09.2015 while considering the integrity of an employee, the action or decision taken by the employee which do not appear to be above board, complaints made against him, or suspicious property transactions, for which there may be sufficient evidence to initiate departmental proceedings, may be taken into account. The committee noted that though the complaint was closed on the grounds that though the complaint did not specifically mention demand for illegal gratification and the applicant was transferred out before the finalisation of the TEP cases, the manner in which the TEPS were taken up on priority raises suspicions about the whole episode

(viii) The committee also examined the file F. No.DGIT (V)/NZ/VCR/01/18 wherein a complaint dated 24.01.2011 made by Shri Zubair, Partner M/s Metro Cargo Carriers, Lucknow, against the applicant, Addl. CIT, Lucknow and Ms. Ranu Biswas, DCIT, Lucknow was processed. It was alleged that the assessment was getting barred on 31.12.2010 but Ms. Ranu Biswas obtained signatures of his Advocate Shri K.S. Rastogi on a bank acknowledgement slip on 21.12.2010. It was alleged that Ms. Ranu Biswas demanded Rs.50 lacs to complete the case of without any tax demand. The complainants advocate was shown a copy of the unsigned assessment order mentioning an addition of Rs.38.06 crores. It was also alleged that Ms. Ranu Biswas conveyed the same to the complainant by using the mobile phone of the advocate Shri K.S. Rastogi. It was alleged that when the complainant expressed his inability to pay Rs.50 lacs Ms. Ranu Biswas offered that this amount could be split in two Installments. When the assessee expressed his inability to pay even in two installments. Ms. Ranu Biswas advised the advocate to file a rectification application, which she will accept in case the complainant is able to pay.

(ix) An inspection of the file was done by Addl. CIT, Range 5, who commented adversely about the quality of the order. It was noted that the addition made were legally untenable, poorly investigated and did not deal with the assessee's submissions. It was found that the additions made by Ms. Ranu Biswas were based on incomplete investigation. It was also noted that during appellate proceedings, the case was remanded to the AO for verification and the AO conducted necessary enquiries and verified the claims of the assessee and found the same in order as per the evidences and books of account. Thus the allegation regarding high pitched assessments in this case, without any valid reasons, was found to be true. Both the above noted additions have been deleted by CIT(A) and ITAT as the additions were found to be not sustainable as per law.

(x) It was also noted that the matter was brought to the notice of the Addl. CIT being the applicant, who failed to supervise the AO in ensuring proper investigation and appreciation of facts and evidences filed by the assessee. It was held that the Applicant failed in his supervisory duty. The matter was referred to CVC and no action has been recommended by the CVC in their advice tendered vide CVC OM No.018/ITX/041-415794 dated 09.04.2019.

(xi) The committee was of the view that when an irregularity of his subordinate was brought to the notice of the applicant, it was his responsibility to ensure that the assessment order was passed as per the provisions of IT Act.

(xii) The Committee also noted that the applicant failed to act on a complaint of bribery against his subordinate Ms. Ranu Biswas which resulted in a high-pitched assessment order being passed and caused undue harassment to the taxpayer. Thus, the applicant proved to be an ineffective supervisory officer and the complaint raises serious doubts about his integrity. The committee observed that even though the disciplinary proceedings and the complaints against the applicant have been closed, the facts on record raise serious doubts about his integrity. Further he has also proved to be ineffective as brought out by his inaction in the complaint of bribery against Ms. Ranu Biswas,"

31. In the case of Baikuntha Nath Das vs. District Medical Officer reported in (1992) 2 SCC 299, Hon ble Supreme Court summarized the principles governing compulsory retirement. The same are recorded in Paragraph 34 of the judgment, which is reproduced herein below :

34. The following principles emerge from the above discussion:

(1) An order of compulsory retirement is not a punishment. It implies no stigma nor any suggestion of misbehaviour.

(ii) The order has to be passed by the government on forming the opinion that it is in the public interest to retire a government servant compulsorily. The order is passed on the subjective satisfaction of the government.

(iii) Principles of natural justice have no place in the context of an order of compulsory retirement. This does not mean that judicial scrutiny is excluded altogether. While the High Court or this Court would not examine the matter as an appellate court, they may interfere if they are satisfied that the order is passed (a) mala fide or (b) that it is based on no evidence or (c) that it is arbitrary in the sense that no reasonable person would form the requisite opinion on the given material, in short, if it is found to be a perverse order.

(iv) The government (or the Review Committee, as the case may be) shall have to consider the entire record of service before taking a decision in the matter of course attaching more importance to record of and performance during the later years. The record to be so considered would naturally include the entries in the confidential records/character rolls, both favourable and adverse. If a government servant is promoted to a higher post notwithstanding the adverse remarks, such remarks lose their sting, more so, if the promotion is based upon merit (selection) and not upon seniority.

(v) An order of compulsory retirement is not liable to be quashed by a Court merely on the showing that while passing it uncommunicated adverse remarks were also taken into consideration. That circumstance by itself cannot be a basis for interference.

Interference is permissible only on the grounds mentioned in (iii) above. This aspect has been discussed in paras 30 to 32 above."

32. The contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the charge sheet could not have been taken into consideration by the Review Committee as it had been quashed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow vide judgment and order dated 09.04.2018 passed in Original Application No.332/00353/2013, is also misconceived. The learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow quashed the charge sheet primarily on the ground of delay of issuance of charge sheet after 11 years and on merits, it has been observed by learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow that to maintain any charge sheet against a quasi judicial authority, something more has to be alleged than a mere mistake of law and an inquiry would be a farcical exercise. This Court is of the view that the Review Committee is required to scrutinize the entire service record and can not be precluded from looking into the allegations which may from the basis of the charge sheet, even though the charge sheet has been quashed in relation to disciplinary proceedings. It is open for the Review Committee to consider such allegations while scrutinizing the service record of the petitioner for the purpose of compulsory retirement. The Paragraphs 5 and 6 of Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015 are relevant in these circumstances and are reproduced herein below :

5. As far as integrity is considered, the following observations of the Hon'ble Supreme may, while upholding compulsory retirement in a case, may be kept in view :

The officer would live by reputation built around him. In an appropriate case, there may not be sufficient evidence to take punitive disciplinary action of removal from service. But his conduct and reputation is such that his continuance in service would be a menace to public service and injurious to public interest.

S. Ramachandra Raju vs. State of Orissa

[(1994) 3 SCC 424]

*Thus while considering integrity of an employee, actions or decisions taken by the employee which do not appear to be above board, complaints received against him, or suspicious property transactions, for which there may not be sufficient evidence to initiate departmental proceedings, may be taken into account. Judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Shri K. Kandaswamy I.P.S. (TN: 1966) in K Kandaswamy vs Union Of India & Anr. 1996 AIR 277, 1995 SCC (6) 162 is relevant here. There were persistent reports of Shri Kandaswamy acquiring large assets and of his getting money from his subordinates. He also indulged in property transactions which gave rise to suspicion about his bonafides. The Hon'ble Supre*me Co*urt upheld his compulsory retirement under provisions of the relevant Rules.*

6. Similarly, reports of conduct unbecoming of a Government servant may also form basis for compulsory retirement. As per the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State Of U.P. And Others vs Vijay Kumar Jain, Appeal (civil) 2083 of 2002:

If conduct of a government employee becomes unbecoming to the public interest or obstructs the efficiency in public services, the government has an absolute right to compulsorily retire such an employee in public interest.

33. Upon going through the minutes of the Review Committee as recorded hereinabove, we are satisfied that the decision taken by the Review Committee is based upon the subjective satisfaction of the Review Committee and it cannot be said that the same is based on no evidence. The Review Committee scrutinized the entire service record of the petitioner, as required under the Office Memorandum dated 11.09.2015. The earlier service record of the petitioner outweighed the later part of his service record, favouring him.

34. The reliance placed by the petitioner on the judgment rendered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Captain Pramod Kumar Bajaj vs. Union of India and another, decided on 03.03.2023 in Civil Appeal No.6161 of 2022, is also of no avail. In the said case, the Hon ble Supreme Court took into consideration the fact that Captain Pramod Kumar Bajaj (Supra) was due to retire within one year at the time the order of compulsory retirement was passed. The said decision, therefore, turned on its own facts and is distinguishable from the present case.

35. The facts of the present case are distinguishable as the petitioner has been compulsorily retired after following due process and well before attaining the age of superannuation. Therefore, the judgment in Captain Pramod Kumar Bajaj (Supra) cannot be of any assistance to the petitioner.

36. The judgment rendered by Hon ble Supreme Court in the case of Suryakant Chunilal Shah (Supra) is also of no help to the petitioner, as the minutes of the Review Committee, recorded hereinabove, reflect that there was sufficient material before the Review Committee for its subjective satisfaction to reach the conclusion recommending the compulsory retirement of the petitioner.

37. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the judgment of Hon ble Supreme Court in Suryakant Chunilal Shah (Supra) to contend that there was no material before the Review Committee, inasmuch as there were no adverse remarks in the character roll entries. Reliance was also placed on paragraph 11 of the judgment of Hon ble Supreme Court in Umedbhai M. Patel (Supra), wherein the law relating to compulsory retirement has been summarized, to contend that adverse entries prior to promotion cannot be taken into consideration for compulsory retirement.

38. The aforesaid contention of the petitioner is misconceived, as Hon ble Supreme Court in the case of Umedbhai M. Patel (Supra) has held that such a factor operates in favour of the officer, meaning thereby that it is not absolute principle of law that adverse material prior to promotion cannot be taken into consideration by the Review Committee.

39. A three judge Bench of Hon ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Punjab vs. Gurdas Singh reported in (1998) 4 SCC 92 considered the argument that the order of compulsory retirement was based on material which was non-existent inasmuch as there were no adverse remarks against him and if there were any such remarks, it should have been communicated to him. Hon ble Supreme Court has held as under :

" 11 .....Before the decision to retire a government servant prematurely is taken the authorities are required to consider the whole record of service. Any adverse entry prior to earning of promotion or crossing of efficiency bar or picking up higher rank is not wiped out and can be taken into consideration while considering the overall performance of the employee during whole of his tenure of service whether it is in public interest to retain him in the service. The whole record of service of the employee will include any uncommunicated adverse entries as well."

40. Hon ble Supreme Court in the case of Rajasthan State Road Transport Corporation and others vs. Babu Lal Jangir reported in (2013) 10 SCC 551 has observed that :

"22. It clearly follows from the above that the clarification given by a two-Judge Bench judgment in Badrinath [(2000) 8 SCC 395: 2001 SCC (L&S) 13: (2000) 6 Scale 618] is not correct and the observations of this Court in Gurdas Singh ((1998) 4 SCC 92: 1998 SCC (L&S) 1004: AIR 1998 SC 1661) to the effect that the adverse entries prior to the promotion or crossing of efficiency bar or picking up higher rank are not wiped off and can be taken into account while considering the overall performance of the employee when it comes to the consideration of case of that employee for premature retirement.

23. The principle of law which is clarified and stands crystallised after the judgment in Pyare Mohan Lal v. State of Jharkhand [(2010) 10 SCC 693: (2011) 1 SCC (L&S) 550] is that after the promotion of an employee the adverse entries prior thereto would have no relevance and can be treated as wiped off when the case of the government employee is to be considered for further promotion. However, this "washed-off theory" will have no application when the case of an employee is being assessed to determine whether he is fit to be retained in service or requires to be given compulsory retirement. The rationale given is that since such an assessment is based on "entire service record", there is no question of not taking into consideration the earlier old adverse entries or record of the old period. We may hasten to add that while such a record can be taken into consideration, at the same time, the service record of the immediate past period will have to be given due credence and weightage. For example, as against some very old adverse entries where the immediate past record shows exemplary performance, ignoring such a record of recent past and acting only on the basis of old adverse entries, to retire a person will be a clear example of arbitrary exercise of power. However, if old record pertains to integrity of a person then that may be sufficient to justify the order of premature retirement of the government servant."

41. Hon ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Murti Yadav vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another reported in (2020) 1 SCC 801 has held that the scope for judicial review of an order of compulsory retirement, based on the subjective satisfaction of the employer, is extremely narrow and restricted and the Court, in judicial review, cannot sit in judgment over the same as an appellate authority. Paragraph 6 of the said judgment is quoted herein below :

" 6 .....The scope for judicial review of an order of compulsory retirement based on the subjective satisfaction of the employer is extremely narrow and restricted. Only if it is found to be based on arbitrary or capricious grounds, vitiated by mala fides, overlooks relevant materials, could there be limited scope for interference. The court, in judicial review, cannot sit in judgment over the same as an appellate authority. Principles of natural justice have no application in a case of compulsory retirement."

42. Thus, we are of the opinion that the judgment and order dated 20.02.2023 passed by the learned Central Administrative Tribunal, Lucknow in Original Application No.332/00450/2019 "Alok Kumar Mitra vs. Union of India" as well as the order dated 10.06.2019 whereby the petitioner was compulsorily retired from the Indian Revenue Service by invoking Fundamental Rule 56(j) from the post of Commissioner of Income Tax and the order dated 16.08.2019 rejecting the petitioner s representation against the order of compulsory retirement, do not suffer from any illegality or infirmity. The petitioner has been compulsorily retired after following the due process of law and in accordance with the recommendation of the Review Committee.

43. This Court is of the view that there was sufficient material before the Screening/Review Committee to record its subjective satisfaction, which cannot be substituted by this Court while exercising the power of judicial review under writ jurisdiction, as held by the Hon ble Supreme Court in a catena of judgments. Accordingly, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

44. The writ petition is dismissed.

45. No order as to costs.

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether petitioner is entitled to post retiral benefits?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – University of Allahabad Act, 2005: Section 5(d) - Status of Institute – (i) The Court takes note of order dated 13.04.2018 whereby it was specifically held that concerned Institute is a Self Financed Institute of the University. Therefore, burden of post retiral benefits to petitioner or similarly situated other employees cannot be made on public exchequer or Government and said benefits, if permissible, would be paid only by University concerned and at that stage also even the petitioner was already retired, the Court has only directed for payment of salary for the period of November, 2014 till 2017. Petitioner has not raised at that stage any claim about post retiral dues and aforesaid findings were upheld by Supreme Court also. (Para 15)

(ii) The Court also takes note of earlier Statute that Institute to be an integral part of University and staff of said Institute will be borne on the strength of respective Departments. However, Court is of opinion that aforesaid declaration or status of Institute would not itself mean that petitioner is entitled for post retiral benefits as a regular employee, except if the petitioner is able to show the rules governs their service, provides such post retiral benefits. (Para 16)

(iii) The Court also takes note that when University became the Central University in 2005, services of the petitioner and others remained same and in case petitioner and similarly situated other employees are entitled for post retiral benefits before Act, 2005 came into force, said entitlement shall be continued otherwise not. However, none of provisions referred above has specifically indicated that petitioner and similarly situated persons were entitled for post retiral benefits. No service rule is brought on record in support of their submissions. (Para 17)

The post retiral benefits could only be granted if rule permits.

In present case, petitioner is not able to show that any rule or statute provides that petitioner is entitled for post retiral benefits. Only on basis that Institute is an integral part of University or petitioner was granted other benefits, it cannot be held that she is entitled for post retiral benefits. (Para 18, 19)

B. A principle, axiomatic in this country's constitutional lore is that there is no negative equality. In other words, if there has been a benefit or advantage conferred on one or a set of people, without legal basis or justification, that benefit cannot multiply, or be relied upon as a principle of parity or equality.

It is a settled legal proposition that Article 14 of the Constitution is not meant to perpetuate illegality or fraud, even by extending the wrong decisions made in other cases. The said provision does not envisage negative equality but has only a positive aspect. If a wrong is committed in an earlier case, it cannot be perpetuated.

Once petitioner is not able to show any provision in support of her claim of post retiral benefits, there would be no negative parity. (Para 20 to 22)

Writ petition dismissed.

For Respondent(s): A.S.G.I., Chandan Sharma, Rijwan Ali Akhtar

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Petitioner has worked as Assistant Director/ Director in Institute of Correspondence Courses and Continuing Education, University of Allahabad and she has

2. Earlier she has approached this Court by filing Writ-A No. 31696 of 2016 when she was in service and sought a direction commanding University to pay arrears of salary to her from November, 2014. The said writ petition was allowed vide order dated 13.04.2018 that petitioner be paid salary from November, 2014 till her retirement in 2017 and taking note that meanwhile, she has attained age of superannuation. Relevant part of the order is mentioned hereinafter:

"In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, we are of the opinion that in exercise of powers under Section 28(3) of the Act, 2005 the Visitor has no authority of law to deny or refuse grant of assent to the proposed amendment to the Statues as resolved by the Executive Council and that the power of withholding the assent is not unfettered so as to permit him to keep it pending or withheld for years together as withholding of the assent is permissible only for a limited period which may be fair and reasonable in the given facts and circumstances of the case.

Accordingly, the Ministry of Human Resource Development, Department of Higher Education, Shastri Bhawan, New Delhi is directed to place the matter once again before the Visitor and to have his final opinion for the grant of assent or for remittance of the matter to the Executive Council of the University for reconsideration, if necessary.

Since the ICC&CE is a Self-Financing Institute of the university, we do not certainly like to burden the public exchequer or the Government with the liability to pay salary and the emoluments admissible to the petitioner as Assistant Director of the ICC&CE but are of the clear opinion that as the petitioner had continuously worked there from November, 2014 till her retirement in 2017, there is no justification not to pay her salary/remuneration admissible to her otherwise it would amount to Begar which is not only prohibited under Article 23 of the Constitution of India but is also punishable.

Accordingly, we direct the University to make immediate arrangement for payment of salary and emoluments to the petitioner for the period November, 2014 till 2017 and to make the entire payment within a period of two months of the receipt of the copy of this order failing which criminal action for punishing the erring officers shall be taken in accordance with law.

The Writ Petition is allowed as above."

3. Aforesaid order was challenged at behest of University of Allahabad before Supreme Court by way of filing a Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 25675 of 2018, which was dismissed vide an order dated 04.07.2019 and a Review Petition thereof was also dismissed by Supreme Court vide an order dated 19.09.2019.

4. After the petitioner got retired on 31.08.2017 she again approached this Court by way of filing Writ-A No. 23048 of 2018 being aggrieved for non payment of her post retiral dues. The said writ petition was disposed of vide an order dated 27.10.2018 that her representation be considered in accordance with law. Relevant part of order is mentioned hereinafter:

"4. Since the aforesaid claim involves factual aspect, no useful purpose would be served in keeping this writ petition pending or calling for counter affidavit. Hence, the same is disposed of with the following observations and directions:

(i) since the petitioner has already filed a representation on 05.07.2018, he may also file a certified copy of this order before the respondent no.3 -Registrar, Allahabad University, Allahabad within a period of two weeks from today;

(ii) in the event the said respondent is of prima facie view that the representation deserves to be rejected, he may issue a prior show cause notice to the petitioner specifying the points on which the petitioner's representation is proposed to be rejected within two weeks therefrom;

(iii) the petitioner shall be at liberty to file his final reply to such notice, if issued, within two weeks and no more from the date of receipt of that notice;

(iv) the respondent no.3 may proceed to hear and decide the same strictly, in accordance with law and pass a reasoned and speaking order within a period of one month from the date of filing of last reply by the petitioner, if any;"

5. In aforesaid circumstances, claim of petitioner was considered, however, it was rejected by office order dated 30.05.2019 after giving her an opportunity of hearing and relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:

"In compliance of the order dated 27.10.2018 passed in Writ-A No. 23048 of 2018 (Rekha Singh Vs Union of India & others) notice was issued to you to submit your response/reply to that notice.

You have submitted your reply dated 18.03.2019 to the served notice dated 12.03.2019 sent by the registrar, university of Allahabad. After going through the reply, the undersigned has proceeded to calculate the dues if any deducted from your then salary, as illustrated by you in your reply to the notice in paragraph no. 15, and will be payable to you only after the final disposal of the SLP pending in the Apex court.

As per the averments in the contempt petition, you retired from ICC&CE on 31.07.2018 and thereafter filed the aforesaid writ petition praying for direction to the University to pay retiral benefits i.e. contributory provident fund, gratuity, encashment, general insurance and pension etc. alongwith arrears with interest.

Under Statute 30(2) of the Statutes of the University, the ICC&CE is a temporary self-financed institution and all matters relating to the Institute is provided under Ordinance XXXII of the Ordinance of the University. Clause 5(a) of the Ordinance XXXII provides that the staff of the ICC&CE other than the Director shall consist of persons engaged by the Advisory Board (i) temporarily, on such remuneration, as may be approved by the Executive Council on contractual basis, on such rates and remuneration and through the agency or agencies empanelled for the purpose in accordance with such rule as may be approved by the Executive Council.

Since the Institute is running under the self finance mode, the payment of salary and other emoluments are dependent upon the income of the Institute which is in the form of fees collected by the Institute from the students. Further, except the Director, all engagement of staff of the Institute is made at the level of the Institute itself by the Director and the same is purely temporary in nature. The University is not receiving any grant from the UGC for ICC&CE. None of the employees of the Institute is receiving the post retiral benefits as there is no provision under the Ordinance for payment of post- retiral dues.

You are also aware of the fact, that the issue regarding the payment of salary to you is engaging attention of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the SLP preferred by the University of Allahabad and therefore the university will be giving all your deductions if any as illustrated by you in your reply to the notice dated 12.03.2019, specifically in paragraph no. 15 where it is stated by you that the deductions were done from your salary and are kept in Punjab National Bank only after the final disposal of the SLP by the apex court."

6. Aforesaid order is now challenged by filing present writ petition in the year 2021. Pleadings are exchanged, therefore, the matter has been heard finally.

7. According to impugned order, claim of petitioner for post retiral benefits such as pension etc. was rejected mainly on a ground that Institute concerned is running under Self Finance Mode and payment of salary and other emoluments were depended upon the income of Institute, i.e., from collection of fee from students. Further the Staff of Institute was made the level of Institute itself and was always temporary in nature. It was also declared that none of the employees of Institute have received post retiral benefits. A reference was made that a Special Leave Petition filed by University is pending, though as referred above, it was subsequently dismissed vide an order dated 04.07.2019.

8. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Pradeep Kumar Upadhyay, learned counsel for petitioner, submitted that there is no dispute that concerned Institute is a Self Financed Institute. However, it"s status was always considered as an integral part of University as well as that Staff of said Institute was borne on the strength of respective University Department and for that learned Senior Advocate referred the Ordinances applicable when University was a State University, i.e., Clauses 2 and 8(b) of Correspondence Courses (Ordinances), which are reproduced hereinafter:

"2. The Correspondence Courses will be administered by an Institute of Correspondence Courses and Continuing Education which will be an integral part of the University"

"8(b) The staff of Correspondence Courses will be borne on the strength of the respective University departments."

9. Learned Senior Advocate further submitted that when in the year 2005 University become a Central University, then also the nature of service of petitioner was protected in terms of Section 5(d) of University of Allahabad Act, 2005 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 2005") and the same is reproduced hereinafter:

"5(d)- Every person employed by the University of Allahabad immediately before the appointed day shall hold his office or service in the University by the same tenure, at the same remuneration and upon the same terms and conditions and with the same rights and privileges as to pension, leave, gratuity, provident fund and other matter as he would have held the same if this Act had not been passed, and shall continue to do so unless and until his employment is terminated or until such tenure, remuneration and terms and conditions are duly altered by the statutes."

10. Learned Senior Advocate also referred that according to Section 37 of Act, 2005 petitioner is entitled for pension. He submitted that aforesaid statute and protection of service under Act, 2005 were not considered by concerned respondent, therefore, an illegality was committed.

11. Per contra, Sri Manish Goyal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Chandan Sharma, learned counsel for Respondent-University, submitted that nature of concerned Institute was always temporary and under Act, 2005 also its temporary status was continued and for that he referred Section 30(2) of Act, 2005. Learned Senior Advocate also referred Clause 1(b) and 1(d) as well as Clause 5(a) of Ordinance XXXII. For reference Section 30(2) of Act, 2005 and Clause 1(b), 1(d) and 5(a) of Ordinance XXXII, are reproduced hereinafter:

"30(2) The Institute of Correspondence Courses and Continuing education shall continue as a temporary self-financing University Institute, and all matters relating thereto shall be provided for by the Ordinances."

"1(b) The Institute shall have a Director, an Advisory Board and an Academic Committee (hereafter in this Ordinance referred to as "the Director", "the Advisory Board" and "the Academic Committee", respectively)"

"1(d) The funds of the Institute shall consist of income from assets, endowments and investments, receipts from fees and other dues charged to the students and from publications, facilities, consultancy and other services, revenues from such other activities as are consistent with the provisions of the Ordinances and Regulations, and grants or contributions, for various purposes, received, with the concurrence of the Executive Council, from other sources;

Provided that no such grant or contribution shall be utilized, except in accordance with the terms and conditions governing the same"

"5(a) The staff of the Institute other than the Director (hereafter in this Ordinance referred to as the staff") shall consist of persons engaged by the Advisory Board-

(i) temporarily, on such remuneration, as may be approved by the Executive Council; or

(ii) on contractual basis, on such rates of remuneration, and through the agency or agencies empanelled for the purpose in accordance with such rules, as may be approved by the Executive Council:"

12. In rejoinder, learned Senior Advocate for petitioner referred a judgment passed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Harendra Pratap Singh and others vs. Union of India and others (Writ-A No. 19384 of 2017), decided on 14.05.2018, which was arising out of same Institute and wherein it was held that services of employees of said Institute would continue even after the University become a Central University as it stood prior to 14th July, 2005, by virtue of Section 5(d) of Act, 2005.

13. Learned Senior Advocate for petitioner also referred some documents annexed alongwith second supplementary affidavit filed on 20.03.2025 that some of employees of said Institute were granted post retiral benefits such as, pension, gratuity etc. therefore, the decision of respondents is arbitrary also.

14. I have heard learned counsel for parties and perused the material available on record.

15. The first issue before this Court is to consider the status of Institute and for that the Court takes note of earlier judgment passed by this Court with regard to said Institute. The Court takes note of order dated 13.04.2018 whereby it was specifically held that concerned Institute is a Self Financed Institute of the University. Therefore, burden of post retiral benefits to petitioner or similarly situated other employees cannot be made on public exchequer or Government and said benefits, if permissible, would be paid only by University concerned and at that stage also even the petitioner was already retired, the Court has only directed for payment of salary for the period of November, 2014 till 2017. Petitioner has not raised at that stage any claim about post retiral dues and aforesaid findings were upheld by Supreme Court also.

16. In above background, the Court also takes note of earlier Statute that Institute to be an integral part of University and staff of said Institute will be borne on the strength of respective Departments. However, Court is of opinion that aforesaid declaration or status of Institute would not itself mean that petitioner is entitled for post retiral benefits as a regular employee, except if the petitioner is able to show the rules governs their service, provides such post retiral benefits.

17. The Court also takes note that when University became the Central University in 2005, services of the petitioner and others remained same and in case petitioner and similarly situated other employees are entitled for post retiral benefits before Act, 2005 came into force, said entitlement shall be continued otherwise not. However, as referred above none of provisions referred above has specifically indicated that petitioner and similarly situated persons were entitled for post retiral benefits. No service rule is brought on record in support of their submissions.

18. In above background, the Court takes note of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in the case of U.P. Roadways Retired Officials & Officers Assn. v. State of U.P., (2024) 9 SCC 331 and relevant paras 30, 31, 32, 33 and 34 thereof are reproduced hereinafter:

"30. The High Court, under the impugned judgment, has observed that the appellants having received retiral benefits including the benefit under the Employees Provident Fund Scheme, cannot be permitted to turn round and contend that they should also be given pension. We have also considered this aspect of the matter and we approve the observations of the High Court on the principle that a party to the litigation cannot be permitted to approbate and reprobate. See National Council of Educational Research and Training vs. Shyam Babu Maheshwari & Ors., (2011) 6 SCC 412 Krishna Kumar vs. Union of India (1990) 4 SCC 207 and Union of India vs. Kailas (1998) 9 SCC 721.

31. Similarly, in the matter of V.K. Ramamurthy vs. Union of India & Anr., (1996) 10 SCC 73 this Court considered the claim for pension of those who opted for pension after a long gap of retirement and held in para 4 that the contributory provident fund retirees form a different class from those who had opted for pension scheme and as such they are not entitled to claim as of right to switch over from Provident Fund Scheme to Pension Scheme. Similar is the proposition in the matter of All India Reserve Bank Retired Officers Association & Ors. Vs. Union of India & Anr. (1992) Supp (1) SCC 664.

32. In somewhat similar situation concerning employees of Oil Natural Gas Commission which was earlier run as a department of the Government of India prior to the enactment of Oil and Natural Gas Commission Act, 1959, this Court in The Committee for Protection of Rights of ONGC Employees & Ors. Vs. Oil and Natural Gas Commission, through its Chairman & Anr., (1990) 2 SCC 472 held thus in para 13:

"13. This indicates that the scheme of Contributory Provident Fund, by way of retiral benefit, envisaged by the Provident Fund Act, is in the nature of a substitute for old age pension because it was felt that in the prevailing conditions in India, the institution of a pension scheme could not be visualised in the near future. It was not the intention of Parliament that Provident Fund benefit envisaged by the said Act would be in addition to pensionary benefits. Section 12 of the Provident Fund Act seeks to protect the wages of an employee to whom the scheme framed under the said Act applies as well as the total quantum of certain specified benefits to which he is entitled under the terms of his employment. With that end in view, Section 12 prohibits an employer from reducing, whether directly or indirectly, the wages of an employee to whom the Scheme applies or the total quantum of benefits in the nature of old age pension, gratuity, provident fund or life insurance to which the employee is entitled under the terms of his employment express or implied. The said section proceeds on the basis that if an employee is entitled to any benefit in the nature of old age pension under the terms of his employment the said benefit would not be denied to him on the application of the Scheme. It is not the case of the petitioners that on June 30, 1961, when the Provident Fund Scheme was made applicable to the Commission, the petitioners had become permanent and were entitled to pension. It cannot, therefore, be said that on the date of the application of the Provident Fund Scheme to the Commission, the petitioners were entitled to pension under the terms of their employment. They cannot, therefore, invoke the provisions of Section 12 of the Provident Fund Act."

33. In the matter of Prabhu Narain vs. State of U.P., (2004) 13 SCC 662, this Court held that to receive pension the employees must establish that they are entitled to pension under a particular rule or scheme. The following has been held in para 5:

"5. No doubt pension is not a bounty, it is a valuable right given to an employee, but, in the first place it must be shown that the employee is entitled to pension under a particular rule or the scheme, as the case may be."

34. In yet another judgment rendered in Rajasthan Road Transport Corporation & Anr. Vs. Mohini Devi, (2013) 11 SCC 603 it is held thus in para nos. 7, 8 & 9:

"7. The Division Bench has considered the Regulations but failed to notice that there is apparent error in the order passed by the learned Single Judge. Indisputably, the employees concerned retired from service in 1991 and 1992 and after retirement they were paid CPF including the share of employer's contribution. Hence, as per Regulation 3 of the Regulations, no right accrued to the appellants/employees to claim pensionary benefits without first depositing the amount and complying with the Regulations.

8. The matter was examined by this Court in Pepsu RTC v. Mangal Singh [(2011) 11 SCC 702 : (2011) 2 SCC (L&S) 322] wherein it was held as under: (SCC p. 722, paras 51-52)

"51. The common thread which runs through all these appeals canvassed before us is that the respondents have failed to comply with the terms and conditions of the Regulations, which govern the Pension Scheme. We have already considered the nature and effect of the Regulations, which are made under a statute. These statutory regulations require to be interpreted in the same manner which is adopted while interpreting any other statutory provisions. The Corporation as well as the respondents are obliged and bound to comply with its mandatory conditions and requirements. Any action or conduct deviating from these conditions shall render such action illegal and invalid. Moreover, the respondents have availed the retiral benefits arising out of CPF and gratuity without any protest.

52. The respondents in all these appeals, before us, have made a claim for pensionary benefits under the Pension Scheme for the first time only after their retirement with an unreasonable delay of more than 8 years. It is not in dispute, in some appeals, that the respondents never opted for the Pension Scheme for their alleged want of knowledge for non- service of individual notices. In other appeals, although the respondents applied for the option of the Pension Scheme but indisputably never fulfilled the quintessential conditions envisaged by the Regulations which are statutory in nature."

9. We are, therefore, of the opinion that, in the facts and circumstances of the case and in view of the law laid down by this Court in the judgment referred to hereinabove, the impugned orders passed by the learned Single Judge [Madugiri v. Rajasthan SRTC, WP (C) No. 5425 of 1993 (Civil Writ 5425/1993), order dated 5-1-2006 (Raj)] and the Division Bench [Rajasthan SRTC v. Madugiri, Civil Special Appeal (Writ) No. 212 of 2006, decided on 11-10-2006 (Raj)] of the High Court cannot be sustained in law."

19. As referred above, the post retiral benefits could only be granted if rule permits. However, in present case, petitioner is not able to show that any rule or statute provides that petitioner is entitled for post retiral benefits. Only on basis that Institute is an integral part of University or petitioner was granted other benefits, it cannot be held that she is entitled for post retiral benefits. Therefore, on the strength of above arguments the claim of petitioner is not sustainable.

20. The last argument is about the fact that some employees of Institute were granted post retiral benefits and a reference was made on documents annexed alongwith this writ petition.

21. In this regard, the Court is of the view that once petitioner is not able to show any provision in support of her claim of post retiral benefits, there would be no negative parity and, therefore, such argument cannot be accepted. In this regard, the Court takes note of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in the case of R. Muthukumar and others vs. Chairman and Managing Director, TANGEDCO and others, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 151 and for reference it"s relevant part is reproduced hereinafter:

"28. A principle, axiomatic in this country's constitutional lore is that there is no negative equality. In other words, if there has been a benefit or advantage conferred on one or a set of people, without legal basis or justification, that benefit cannot multiply, or be relied upon as a principle of parity or equality. In Basawaraj v. Special Land Acquisition Officer14, this court ruled that:

"8. It is a settled legal proposition that Article 14 of the Constitution is not meant to perpetuate illegality or fraud, even by extending the wrong decisions made in other cases. The said provision does not envisage negative equality but has only a positive aspect. Thus, if some other similarly situated persons have been granted some relief/benefit inadvertently or by mistake, such an order does not confer any legal right on others to get the same relief as well. If a wrong is committed in an earlier case, it cannot be perpetuated."

29. Other decisions have enunciated or applied this principle (Ref : Chandigarh Admn. v. Jagjit Singh15, Anand Buttons Ltd. v. State of Haryana16, K.K. Bhalla v. State of M.P.17; Fuljit Kaur v. State of Punjab18, and Chaman Lal v. State of Punjab19). Recently, in The State of Odisha v. Anup Kumar Senapati20 this court observed as follows:

"If an illegality and irregularity has been committed in favour of an individual or a group of individuals or a wrong order has been passed by a judicial forum, others cannot invoke the jurisdiction of the higher or superior court for repeating or multiplying the same irregularity or illegality or for passing a similarly wrong order. A wrong order/decision in favour of any particular party does not entitle any other party to claim benefits on the basis of the wrong decision."

22. In aforesaid circumstances, since petitioner is not able to show that there is any legal provision to support her claim for post retiral benefits and she cannot get any benefit of negative parity also, therefore, there is no ground to interfere with impugned order.

23. The writ petition is accordingly dismissed.

Writ A No. 7539 of 2025
alongwith connected cases

Rajkumar Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether the requisition sent under the earlier Act of 1982, creates any right on persons who were included in the panel, if it has not moved even a step forward?
(b) Whether Section 31 of Act of 2023 and Section 6 of U.P. General Clauses Act would give any protection to petitioners so far as earlier requisition is concerned?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023: Section 31; Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921: Chapter II; U.P. General Clauses Act of 1904: Section 6.

The requisition sent earlier does not create a right on persons who were included in the panel and since it has not moved a step forward, therefore, only by sending requisitions would not mean that it has created any right or a substantive process was initiated under the earlier Act of 1982, therefore, Repeal and Savings' will not help the case of petitioners. (Para 20)

None of the petitioners have come up with a case that before new Act came into force in the year 2023, they have approached concerned respondents or this Court to expedite the recruitment process on basis of earlier requisitions. Apparently, a number of requisitions were sent for appointment of Principals and Headmasters in the requisition year 2019-20 and 2021-22. Despite after 3 years, no further process was undertaken in pursuance of said requisitions and resultantly senior most teachers who were working as Officiating Principal continued to work i.e. it was an advantage to them. (Para 15, 16)

Section 31(2) of the Act of 2023 states that anything done or any action taken under the Acts referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to have been done or taken under this Act, as if the provisions of this Act were in force at all material times, therefore, it would mean that procedure undertaken in terms of the Act of 1982, would be considered as it was taken under the new Act of 2023 and since now recruitment process is entirely different and earlier requisition has not forwarded even a step ahead, therefore, a new requisition was sought. (Para 19)

B. Since Act of 2023 has a different intention and it can be gathered by necessary implication, therefore, none of the earlier requisitions which were only in the preliminary stage and the Board has not taken any step on them, therefore it would not create any liability or right in favour of petitioners as such S.31 of Act of 2023 and S.6 of U.P. General Clauses Act would not give any protection to petitioners so far as earlier requisition is concerned, as intention of Act of 2023 is contrary, therefore no case is made out to grant relief to the petitioners. S. 11 of Act of 2023 provides manner of selection that it could be conducted by way of an examination or interview both, therefore, Court is of the view that Act of 2023 has a new mechanism or procedure for selection. (Para 24)

Section 31(3), which has a reference of S.6 of Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act 1904, states that repeal of Act of 1982 will not have an adverse effect on general application of said section. (Para 21)

The savings of S.6 do not apply to some extent or in entirety when the legislative intent is different. The contrary intent can be expressed or gathered by necessary implication. Further, the ambit of repeal cannot be wider than the boundary envisaged by the repealing enactment. Therefore, a comprehensive repeal may be limited if the repealing enactment directly or by necessary implication clamours that it will not apply to certain matters. (Para 22)

Court applies aforesaid law to present case and also takes note of S.10 of Act of 2023, though it does not start with a non-obstante clause, but if the words used in that section are read carefully, there will be no doubt that it provides that Commission would have right to decide eligibility for the purpose of appointment as well as to decide the procedure of selection of a candidate for direct recruitment. (Para 23)

This Court previously directed Chairperson U.P. Education Service Selection Commission, Prayagraj to take all endeavour to conclude process for appointment of Head Masters and Principals in an order passed in Nov., 2025, therefore a direction is now passed that it shall be concluded within a period of 6 months from today. (Para 25)

Writ petitions disposed of. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Siddharth Khare, Sr. Advocate
For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Kushmondeya Shahi

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Mohd. Yaseen, Sri Prashant Shukla and Ms.Diksha Upadhyay on behalf of petitioners, Sri Kushmondeya Shahi on behalf of respondent no.3, Sri D.P.Singh and Sri Saurabh, learned Standing Counsel.

2. Petitioners before this Court have claimed that they were eligible for appointment on the post of Principal and for that procedure was initiated to fill up 884 posts of Principal and 729 posts of Headmaster in the recruitment year 2019-2020 and 2021-2022, in terms of relevant provisions of regulation under the UP Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board of 1982 however, Board does not commence further process and it remained pending for almost 2 to 3 years and meanwhile, Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2023 was enacted and it came into force with effect from 21.8.2023 and subsequently rules thereunder i.e. Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Rules, 2023 were also framed.

3. By the enforcement of aforesaid Act, Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board of 1982 was repealed.

4. In the aforesaid circumstances, Secretary, Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission took a decision on 9.12.2024, whereby earlier requisition for selection of Principals and Headmasters which was not commenced except receiving requisitions and accordingly not concluded under the Repeal Act of 2019 therefore was withdrawn and all earlier requisitions were declared void-ab-initio and fresh process was directed to commence in terms of the Act of 2023 and rules framed thereunder.

5. It is not under dispute that on basis of earlier requisition even an Advertisement was not issued, therefore, no progress was made under the Act of 2019 or rules framed thereunder.

6. Petitioners have challenged the decision dated 9.12.2014, mainly on a ground that once a procedure was initiated under the Act of 2019, it ought to have been continued even after it was repealed by way of enforcement of new Act of 2023.

7. Admittedly, procedure prescribed under the Act of 2023 is different and it prescribed a open selection and petitioners have now to go through rigours of open competition, whereas earlier when panel was to sent, from a particular College, name of two seniormost teachers was also required to be sent for consideration for post of Principals and Headmasters as the case may be and according to petitioner , their names were included in the respective panel.

8. Learning Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners has vehemently referred Section 31 of the Act of 2023 i.e. 'Repeals and Savings'. For reference, same is reproduced hereinafter:

"31. Repeal and Savings.-(1) The Uttar Pradesh Higher Education Services Commission Act, 1980, the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board Act, 1982 and the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2019 are hereby repealed.

(2) Notwithstanding such repeal, anything done or any action taken under the Acts referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to have been done or taken under this Act, as if the provisions of this Act were in force at all material times.

(3) Save as otherwise provided in this Act, the repeal of the Acts referred to in sub-section (1) shall not have an adverse effect on the general application of section 6 of the Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act, 1904 (U.P. Act no. 1 of 1904) in relation to the enforcement of provisions."

dependent of an employee dying in harness cases may be made as per the provisions given in the relevant Acts or rules or regulations."

11. Learned Senior Counsel appearing on behalf of petitioners submits that requisition sent under provisions of Act of 1982 are protected by virtue of Section 31 of the Act of 2023 and further proceedings will be required to be undertaken under provisions of Act of 1982 only and not in terms of Act of 2023, otherwise petitioners who are senior most Assistant Teachers in their respective schools and their names were sent in the panel in the requisition will now have to face either written examination and subsequent interviews as decided by the Commission under the Act of 2023. He also refers Section 6 of U.P. General Clauses Act of 1904 that it also protects earlier requisition.

12. Per Contra, learned counsel for the respondents submits that by way of Act of 2023, a different process is required to be adopted for selection of Principals and Head Masters.

13. Earlier requisition was not proceeded further effectively, except requisition sought by the Board under the Act of 1982, and since it has not proceeded even a step forward, therefore, it is not required that said requisition be carry forwarded in terms of Repealed Act of 1982.

14. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

15. It is not under dispute that number of requisitions were sent for appointment of Principals and Headmasters in the requisition year 2019-20 and 2021-22. Further it is also not disputed that despite after 3 years, no further process was undertaken in pursuance of said requisitions and resultantly senior most teachers who were working as Officiating Principal continued to work i.e. it was an advantage to them.

16. None of the petitioners have come up with a case that before new Act came into force in the year 2023, they have approached concerned respondents or this Court to expedite the recruitment process on basis of earlier requisitions.

17. Learned Senior Counsel has not disputed that now under the provisions of Act of 2023, a new regime has taken place that Assistant Teachers who were either working as Officiating Principal or not, have to participate in the open examination either by way of a written examination or subsequent interview for appointment of Principal or Headmaster as the case may be.

18. Section 31 of the Act of 2023 provides for Repeal and Savings according to which Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Service Selection Board Act, 1982 and the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission Act, 2019 was repealed.

19. Sub-section 2 of Section 31 of the Act of 2023 states that anything done or any action taken under the Acts referred to in sub-section (1) shall be deemed to have been done or taken under this Act, as if the provisions of this Act were in force at all material times, therefore, it would mean that procedure undertaken in terms of the Act of 1982, would be considered as it was taken under the new Act of 2023 and since now recruitment process is entirely different and earlier requisition has not forwarded even a step ahead, therefore, a new requisition was sought.

20. The requisition sent earlier does not create a right on persons who were included in the panel and since it has not moved a step forward, therefore, only by sending requisitions would not mean that it has created any right or a substantive process was initiated under the earlier Act of 1982, therefore, Repeal and Savings' will not help the case of petitioners.

21. Court also takes note of sub-section 3 of Section 31 which has a reference of Section 6 of Uttar Pradesh General Clauses Act 1904 that repeal of Act of 1982 will not have an adverse effect on general application of said section.

22. In this regard Court takes note of few paragraphs of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Special Leave Petition (Civil) No.13093-13094 of 2018, The Executive Engineer, Gosikhurd Project Ambadi, Bhandara, Maharashtra Vidarbha Irrigation Development Corporation Vs. Mahesh and Ors, and its relevant paragraph being 7 is reproduced hereinafter:

'7. Before we interpret the above provisions, it would be appropriate to refer to Section 6 of the General Clauses Act, 1897 which deals with the effect of repeal of any statute or regulation and reads:

'6. Effect of repeal"Where this Act, or any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, repeals any enactment hitherto made or hereafter to be made, then, unless a different intention appears, the repeal shall not'

(a) revive anything not in force or existing at the time at which the repeal takes effect; or

(b) affect the previous operation of any enactment so repealed or anything duly done or suffered thereunder; or

(c) affect any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired, accrued or incurred under any enactment so repealed; or

(d) affect any penalty, forfeiture or punishment incurred in respect of any offence committed against any enactment so repealed; or

(e) affect any investigation, legal proceeding or remedy in respect of any such right, privilege, obligation, liability, penalty, forfeiture or punishment as aforesaid; and any such investigation, legal proceeding or remedy may be instituted, continued or enforced, and any such penalty, forfeiture or punishment may be imposed as if the repealing Act or Regulation had not been passed.'

Section 6 of the General Clauses Act interdicts the common law principle that an enactment after repeal is ineffective as if it had never existed, except as to matters past and closed. Section 6 is a general transitory provision that resurrects operation of the repealed law in terms of comprehensive and broadly worded clauses (a) to (e). Clauses (b), (c) and (e) of Section 6, in particular, state that the repeal does not affect anything duly done or suffered under the repealed enactment; any right, privilege, obligation or liability acquired or accrued under any repealed enactment; or any investigation, legal proceedings or remedy in respect of any such right, privilege, obligation, liability, penalty, etc. Legal proceedings, investigation or remedy may be instituted, continued or enforced, and any penalty, punishment or forfeiture may be enforced as if the repealed Act or regulation were still in existence notwithstanding its repeal. However, the savings of Section 6 do not apply to some extent or in entirety when the legislative intent is different. The contrary intent can be expressed or gathered by necessary implication. Further, the ambit of repeal cannot be wider than the boundary envisaged by the repealing enactment. Therefore, a comprehensive repeal may be limited if the repealing enactment directly or by necessary implication clamours that it will not apply to certain matters.'

23. Court applies aforesaid law in the facts and circumstances of present case and also takes note of Section 10 of Act of 2023, though it does not starts with a non-obstante clause, but if the words used in that section are read carefully, there will be no doubt that it provides that Commission would have right to decide eligibility for the purpose of appointment as well as to decide the procedure of selection of a candidate for direct recruitment.

24. Similarly, Section 11 of Act of 2023 also provides manner of selection that it could be conducted by way of an examination or interview both, therefore, Court is of the view that Act of 2023 has a new mechanism or procedure for selection and since earlier requisition has not forwarded substantially, therefore, it would not be considered that it has created any right, privilege or obligation for the State to continue procedure in terms of earlier requisition when the Act of 2023, provides absolutely new regime, therefore, Court is of opinion that since Act of 2023 has a different intention and it can be gathered by necessary implication, therefore, Court is of firm opinion that none of the earlier requisitions which were only in the preliminary stage and the Board has not taken any step on the requisition, therefore it would not create any liability or right in favour of petitioners as such Section 31 of Act of 2023 and Section 6 of U.P. General Clauses Act would not give any protection to petitioners so far as earlier requisition is concerned, as intention of Act of 2023 is contrary, therefore no case is made out to grant relief to the petitioners.

25. Court also takes note that this Court has passed a direction in Abhishek Mishra & Anr. Vs. State of U.P.& 2 Ors, 2025:AHC:192985, wherein Chairperson U.P. Education Service Selection Commission, Prayagraj was directed to take all endeavour to conclude process for appointment of Head Masters and Principals and since that order was passed in November, 2025, therefore a direction is now passed that it shall be concluded within a period of 6 months from today.

26. All the writ petitions are accordingly disposed of.

27. Registrar (Compliance) to take steps.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Legality of the order not appointing the senior most Professor on the post of the Director-cum-Professor.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Appointment – Post of Director-cum-Professor in Dept. of Ophthalmology at Motilal Nehru Medical College – Entitlement of senior most Professor – Government Order dated 26.07.1976 was issued creating the nomenclature of Director-cum-Professor for the Head of Department – Government Order dated 24.03.2021 was also came into effect whereby the post of Head of Department was directed to be filed on rotational basis from amongst the senior Professors – Effect : (E-1)

Held : From the Government Order dated 26.7.1976, it becomes categorical clear that in the nomination/designation of a person as Director-cum-Professor, the person must be Professor/Senior professor of the Institute and he is also required to be the Head of Department as there is no separate post of Director created in the Institute. Only the nomenclature of the Head of Department and Professor was created as Director-cum-Professor. The appointment Dr. Santosh Kumar to the post of Head of Department of the institute in consonance with the Government Order dated 24.03.2021 with regard to which there is no dispute between the parties. Therefore, Dr. Santosh Kumar being the Head of Department was entitled to be nominated/designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute, which has rightly been done initially vide order dated 24.4.2025 and subsequently vide order dated 29.8.2025 – Therefore, this Court does not find any illegality on the designation of Dr. Santosh Kumar, Professor and Head of Department of the Ophthalmology Department of the Motilal Nehru Medical College, which is known as Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute, Allahabad as the Director-cum-Professor of the said Institute. (Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Since the controversy involved in both the petitions is similar in nature therefore both the petitions are being heard together.

2. Heard Sri Narendra Kumar Pandey, assisted by Sri Manish Kumar Kesarwani, learned counsel for the petitioner in Writ A No. 14985 of 2025 and Sri Rahul Agrawal, assisted by Sri Gaurav Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents in both the petitions and Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri G.K. Malviya and Sri Sankalp Narain, Advocates for the respondent no.6 in the Writ A No. 14985 of 2025 and for the petitioner in Writ A No. 9584 of 2025. Sri Narendra Kumar Pandey, has also argued for respondent no. 5 in Writ A No. 9584 of 2025.

3. The controversy involved in both the aforesaid petitions is with regard to the post / nomenclature of the Director to be given to whom in the Regional Institutes of Ophthalmology, Manohar Das Eye Hospital which is the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj. Both the petitioners are claiming that they should be given the nomenclature as well as the power of Director-cum-Professor in the aforesaid institute. In view thereof, both the petitions are heard together and are being decided together.

4. It is undisputed in the instant case that Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary was working on the post of Professor from 04.08.2017 and Dr. Santosh Kumar was working as Professor from 07.08.2020. Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary had worked as Head of Department of Ophthalmology at Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj w.e.f. 24.03.2023 to 23.03.2025 and subsequent thereto Dr. Santosh Kumar is working as Professor and Head of Department of Ophthalmology of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj from 24.3.2025. Previously, Manohar Das Eye Hospital was a separate hospital affiliated to Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad and Motilal Nehru Medical College had its own Ophthalmology Department.

5. On 20.01.1976, the State Government had merged the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad as well as the Manohar Das Eye Hospital at Allahabad and a new nomenclature was given to it as Institute of Ophthalmology, Allahabad. However, the same continued to be a Department of Ophthalmology of Motilal Nehru Medical College for all practical purposes. Subsequently on 26.07.1976, the State Government notified that the Head of Department and Professor of the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad and affiliated eye hospital shall be designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute of Ophthalmology, Allahabad with the condition that no special pay or allowances shall be payable to him. By virtue of the aforesaid Government Order dated 26.07.1976, the Head of Department and Professor of the Ophthalmology Department continued to be nominated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute of Ophthalmology, Allahabad. Subsequent thereto vide Government Order dated 05.04.2006, the status of Manohar Das Eye Hospital, Allahabad was upgraded and it was recognized as Regional Eye Institute. However, it was clarified that no additional grant shall be payable to the Regional Eye Institute, Manohar Das Eye Hospital, Allahabad. In the said Government Order dated 05.04.2006, it was further provided that the Senior Professor of the said Regional Eye Institute shall be given nomenclature of Professor-cum-Director of the Institute, however no additional pay or allowances shall be payable to him.

6. Subsequently, pursuant to the directions issued in Writ-A No. 2926 of 2020 (Dr. Pradeep Kumar Maheshwari vs. State of U.P. and 3 others) vide order dated 05.03.2020 that any decision taken by the State of U.P. regarding Head of Department of the medical colleges shall be binding in all the medical colleges of the State of Uttar Pradesh. The government has passed the Government Order dated 24.03.2021 with regard to the appointment of Head of Departments in the government medical colleges. Clause-4 of the aforesaid Government Order provides that in each of the department the Medical Professor who was selected / appointed through the Public Service Commission and was having the qualification of post graduation in the same specialization shall be appointed as the Head of Department. It further provides that due to non-availability of the senior most Professor, the Associate Professor shall be appointed as Head of Department and in case of non-availability of the Associate Professor, the Assistant Professor shall be appointed as Head of Department. It further provided that the charge of Head of Department shall be given on the rotation of two years to the senior most Professor and, if in any department, if only one Professor is there, then he shall continue on the post of Head of Department till other Professors are available in the department. Thus, by the aforesaid Government Order, the post of head of various departments of medical colleges was to be fulfilled on rotation basis from amongst the senior most Professors. Thus, on completion of two years period as Head of Department by Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary on 24.03.2025, the Principal of Motilal Nehru Medical College has directed Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary to hand over the charge of Head of Department to Dr. Santosh Kumar. Thereafter, on 04.04.2025, the Principal of Motilal Nehru Medical College has given the charge of Director-cum-Professor to Dr. Santosh Kumar as he was the Head of Department of the Institute appointed on the rotation basis. Being aggrieved by the appointment of Dr. Santosh Kumar, who was the Professor and Head of Department of the Institute as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute vide order dated 04.04.2025, Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary has filed Writ-A No. 6352 of 2025. However, no interim orders were passed in the said writ petition.

7. Simultaneously, being aggrieved by the aforementioned order dated 04.04.2025, Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary had made a representation dated 09.04.2025 to the Principal, Motilal Nehru Medical College claiming that only the senior most professor of the institute can be given the nomenclature of the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. Therefore, she claimed that she, being the senior most Professor of the Institute, be given the nomenclature of Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. In her representation, she has also claimed that though she was appointed as the Head of Department on 03.03.2023, however, since Dr. S.P. Singh was the senior most Professor of the Institute, had continued as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute till he retired on 31.03.2024 and only thereafter she was handed over the charge of Director-cum-Professor of the Institute on 01.04.2024. The similar representation has also been made by Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary to Chief Secretary Medical Education and Health Department, U.P. On receipt of the representation made by Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary, the Principal, Motilal Nehru Medical College sought a clarification in this regard from the Director General of Medical Education and Training, Uttar Pradesh vide its letter dated 28.04.2025. Vide letter dated 07.05.2025, the Director General, Medical Education and Training, Uttar Pradesh has clarified that only the senior Professor of the Institute should be given the nomenclature of the Director-cum-Professor. Pursuant to the aforementioned directions issued by the Director General of Medical Education and Training, on 09.05.2025, the Principal, Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj has appointed Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary as the Director-cum-Professor of Manohar Das Eye Hospital, Prayagraj without any special pay or allowances. In view of the order dated 09.05.2025 passed in favour of Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary, she withdrew her Writ Petition No. 6352 of 2025 on 12.05.2025. Thereafter, Dr. Santosh Kumar has filed writ-A No. 9584 of 2025 challenging the order dated 09.05.2025 whereby Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary was appointed as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute.

8. Vide order dated 18.07.2025, the Coordinate Bench of this Court has framed the legal issues to be decided by the government and directed Dr. Santosh Kumar, the petitioner No.1 as well as Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary to appear before the Secretary of the State Government along with their independent representations and the State Government was directed to decide the issues framed in the said order by passing a reasoned and speaking order considering all the material before it. The aforementioned order dated 18.07.2025 was challenged by Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary by filing the Special Appeal No. 720 of 2025. The Division Bench of this Court noted that vide impugned order dated 18.07.2025, only the clarifications had been asked from the government, therefore, the hearing of the special appeal was adjourned and it was clarified that the proceedings of the writ petition shall continue as the same has not been stayed in the special appeal. The relevant portion of the order dated 18.07.2025 passed by this Court in Writ-A No. 9584 of 2025 is reproduced herein below:

"16. In the circumstances therefore, for resolving this contentious issue, whether two independent posts of Head of the Department and Director co exist in the Institute or Head of the Department would be ex officio Director of the Institute, the final stand of the State Government by means of a well informed decision over and above the decision taken by the respondent no.2 impugned herein this petition, becomes a must. Accordingly, while keeping this petition pending I direct the State Government to take a final decision as to the status of the post of Director in the Institute.

17. The issues are framed as under:

(i) Whether the post of Director for the Manohar Das Regional Institute of Ophthalmology has been created and special pay scale and allowances have been made admissible to the post, under the relevant rules and regulations?

(ii) Whether the Head of the Department of the Manohar Das Regional Institute of Ophthalmology is part and parcel of the Motilal Nehru Medical College and hence Head of the Department of Ophthalmology of the College will hold position of Director of Institute ex officio with no additional pay and allowances?

18. Both the petitioner no.1 as well as the respondent no.5 are also directed to appear before the concerned Secretary of the State Government on or before 31st July 2025 alongwith their independent representations defending their respective claims. The State Government shall thereafter proceed to decide the matter qua the issues framed above by passing reasoned and speaking order considering all the relevant material before it and strictly in accordance with law positively within a further period of 30 days.

19. Needless to add, the State Government shall be taking its independent decision without being influenced by observations made above while considering the arguments of respective parties.

20. In the meanwhile, in the given facts and circumstances when the Court has not been apprised of any Circular Letter or Government Order giving independent status in terms of assignment of duties whether, administrative or financial to the Director of Institute, I hereby provide that all the administrative and financial powers that respondent no.5 may have been exercising pursuant to the order impugned shall now be exercised by the Principal of the Moti Lal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj whereas the Head of the Department namely, petitioner no.1 shall be looking after only academic activity and supervision of the Eye Hospital, until further orders of this Court. The impugned order dated 07.05.2025 passed by respondent no.2 is put in abeyance.

21. List this case on 03.09.2025.

22. Decision to be taken by the State Government shall be placed in a sealed cover before this Court on the next date fixed failing which the concerned Secretary shall be appearing in person before this Court. "

9. Thereafter, both the parties have represented to the Secretary, Medical Education Department and subsequently vide order dated 29.08.2025, the Special Secretary of Medical Education Department has nominated Dr. Santosh Kumar as Professor-cum-Director of the aforementioned hospital, who was working as Professor and Head of Department of the aforementioned institute.

10. Vide separate order dated 31.08.2025, the Chief Secretary, relying upon the Government Order dated 05.04.2006 held that the said order permits the senior Professor to be appointed as Director-cum-Professor and not the senior most Professor, and in the said order it has also been observed in answer to the issues raised by this Court that in terms of the Government Order dated 20.04.2010, the pay scale of Rs. 18,400 - 22,400, equivalent pay band of Rs. 37,400 and 67,000, and grade pay of Rs.10,000 has been approved for the post of Director-cum-Professor of the Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute, Prayagraj. It is further observed that the Head of Department of the Eye Department is a part of Motilal Nehru Medical College. Vide order dated 03.09.2025, the Coordinate Bench of this Court has taken note of the aforementioned observation in the following manner:

"Upon perusal of the order dated 31st August, 2025 I find that in reply to the three issues framed by way of reference in the order of Court dated 18th July, 2025, they have been answered like this:

(I). Under the Government order dated 28th April, 2010, against the post of Director-Professor of Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute, Prayagraj, pay scale of Rs.18400-22400 has been sanctioned as against the pay band of Rs. 37400 ? 67000 with grade pay of Rs.10,000/-;

(II). The institute is a part and parcel of department of Ophthalmology of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj with its head of department; and

(III). Under the Government order dated 5th April, 2006, the Director is only a name given in the institute to a senior professor and therefore, any senior professor can be made Director.

Looking to the discussions and observations made by this Court in its order dated 18th July, 2025 with reference to the Government orders dated 28th April, 2010 and 5th April, 2006, point Nos. (I) and (III) seem to be quite contradictory to each other as no pay scale or salary can be assigned to a post that has not been created and still further, I find that respondent concerned does not say anywhere that a head of department who enjoys the post of Director by nomination, is also given conditional pay, nor this would be with a Professor who may be nominated as Director as per the order passed."

11. The parties have exchanged their affidavits in the matter. Learned counsel for the petitioner i.e. Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary, has vehemently submitted that the Manohar Das Eye Hospital has always been a separate institute from the Medical College, though it was affiliated with the medical college and vide Government Order dated 20.01.1976, it was well recognized as Institute of Ophthalmology. He further submits that recognizing as a separate Institute, the post of Director-cum-Professor was created and recognizing the services of the Institute vide Government Order dated 05.04.2006, Manohar Das Eye Hospital was upgraded and was recognized as Regional Eye Hospital. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that vide Government Order dated 05.04.2006, only the senior Professor can be designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Regional Eye Institute. Therefore, the petitioner, being the senior most Professor, she is entitled for designation to the post of Director-cum-Professor of the aforementioned Institute. Prior to 24.03.2021, there was no confusion as Head of Department used to be the senior most Professor and he was also used to be nominated as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute.

12. Vide Government Order dated 24.03.2021, which is applicable to all the departments of the government medical colleges, it is settled position that the post of Head of Department shall be filled up from amongst the senior most professors of the department concerned. The tenure of such Head of Department shall be two years on the rotational basis and if in any department only one professor is there, he may continue as Head of Department. He further submits that in terms of the aforementioned Government Order dated 24.03.2021, the petitioner herein was appointed as Head of Department from 23.03.2023 and she has worked till 23.03.2025, and since Dr. S.P. Singh, who was previous Head of Department till 2015 and thereafter since 2005 to 2015, he also continued as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. Even subsequent thereto, despite the change of Head of Departments in 2015, Dr. S.P.Singh continued as Director of the Institute till the date of his retirement i.e. 31.03.2024 being the senior most Professor of the Institute and it is only after his retirement, Dr. Aparajita Chadhary was nominated as the Director-cum-Professor from 01.04.2024 of the aforesaid Institute despite she was previously designated as Head of Department of the Institute.

13. Thus, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the designation of the Director and the Head of Department are two different posts. He has further relied upon the Government Order dated 20.04.2010, whereby the separate pay scale has been fixed for the post of Director-cum-Professor of the Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute, Allahabad. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon the Government Order dated 05.04.2006 and submits that though the aforesaid Government Order is in continuation of the previous Government Order dated 26.07.1976, the requirement of being the Head of Department was dispensed with for designation of the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute by the aforesaid Government Order. The senior Professor has been designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute, which has been apparent from settled practice in the previous appointments of Dr. S.P.Singh as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute despite he not being the Head of Department since 2015, still he continued on the post of Director-cum-Professor till the date of his retirement i.e. 31.03.2024 despite Dr. Kamaljeet Singh was appointed as Head of Department from 2015 till 30.03.2023. Therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the two posts are entirely separate and only the senior most Professor can be appointed as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. Therefore, the appointment of respondent no.6, Dr. Santosh Kumar as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute vide impugned order dated 24.08.2025 is not sustainable and is liable to be quashed and accordingly, the petitioner has also prayed for quashing of the impugned office memo dated 31.08.2025 whereby the State has tried to distinguish that senior Professor does not mean the senior most Professor as described in the Government Order dated 05.04.2006.

14. Per contra, Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Additional Advocate General appearing for the State respondents submits that previously the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj was a separate department and the Manohar Das Eye Hospital was a separate hospital, though it was affiliated to the aforesaid medical college. Vide Government Order dated 20.01.1976, the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad and Manohar Das Eye Hospital, Allahabad, which was affiliated to the Medical Colelge was clubbed together and renamed as Institute of Ophthalmology. Since thereafter the Institute of Ophthalmology continued to be the Ophthalmology Department of Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad, though the nomenclature was Institute of Ophthalmology. He further submits that vide Government Order dated 26.07.1976, no separate post of Director-cum-Professor was created but the nomenclature of the Head of Department-cum-Professor of Institute of Ophthalmology, Allahabad was directed to be renamed as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. While providing such nomenclature, it was also provided that the Director-cum-Professor would not be entitled for any special pay and allowances. Thus, for designating a person as Director-cum-Professor, he is required to be the Head of Department as well as the Professor of the Institute. It does not require that only the senior most Professor can be designated as Director-cum-Professor.

15. He further submits that vide Government Order dated 05.04.2006, though the Institute of Ophthalmology, Allahabad was upgraded to the Regional Eye Institute but that upgradation was granted without any additional grant to the Institute. Thus, the aforesaid Institute continued to be the Department of Motlal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad and the aforesaid order is in continuation of the previous Government Order dated 26.07.1976, which provided that for the nomination of Director-cum-Professor, the Professor must be the Head of Department and in that sense, it has been observed in the Government Order dated 05.04.2006 that the senior Professor shall be nominated as Director-cum-Professor. In this Government Order also, it is further provided that no special pay or allowances are available to such Director -cum-Professor. Since vide Government Order dated 24.03.2021, it is first time the post of Head of Department was to be filled on the rotational basis for two years from amongst the senior most Professors and in the absence of the Professors, the Associate Professors as well as the Assistant Professors. At the time of the aforesaid Government Order, since Dr. S.P. Singh was the Head of Department as well as the senior Professor of the Institute, he continued to be nominated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. Thus, as per 1976 Government Order, the post of Head of Department and Professor is to be nominated as Director-cum-Professor and there is no separate post of Director-cum-Professor, which has never been created in the Manohar Das Regional Eye Hospital, Allahabad. So far as the Government Order dated 20.04.2010 is concerned, which though provides a separate pay scale to the Director of the Institute including two other Institutes namely Cardiology Institute, Kanpur as well as the Cancer Institute, Kanpur, which are under the Kanpur Medical College.

16. The learned Additional Advocate General submits that so far as those Institutes of Cardiology and cancer are concerned, vide Government Order dated 22.03.2013, the separate post of Directors was created in the Cardiology Institute affiliated to the Kanpur Medical College. So far as the Manohar Das Regional Institute of Ophthalmology affiliated to the Motilal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad/Prayagraj is concerned, no post of Director-cum-Professor was ever created and none of the Directors-cum-Professors who were previously nominated in the Institute, have ever been given benefit of the aforesaid Government Order dated 20.04.2010 giving them any special pay scale and allowances or grade pay. They have continued to get the pay scale of the Head of Department and senior Professor. Since there is no separate post of Director-cum-Professor in the Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute and vide Government Order dated 26.07.1976, the nomenclature of Director-cum-Professor was granted to the Head of Department-cum-Professor. Thus the Head of Department as well as the Director-cum- Professor continued to be one and the same person. The basic requirement for nomination of Director is that the person must be the Head of Department. Since in terms of the Government Order dated 24.03.2021, the post of Head of Department is to be rotated amongst the Professors of the Institute, therefore, whosoever is the Head of Department is required to be designated as Director of the Institute as well. Therefore, the learned Additional Advocate General submits that there is no illegality in the impugned order dated 29.08.2025 whereby Dr. Santosh Kumar being the Head of Head of Department of the Institute has been nominated as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute as well without any special pay scale or allowances. Thus, the claim of the petitioner Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary that since she is the senior most Professor be given the nomination and other powers of the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute, is not sustainable.

17. Thus, learned Additional Advocate General for the State has prayed for dismissal of the Writ-A No. 14985 of 2025 and supports the claim of Dr. Santosh Kumar, the petitioner in Writ-A No. 9584 of 2025 whereby the challenge was made to the order dated 09.05.2025 whereby Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary was designated as Director-cum-Professor without any special pay and allowances which has otherwise been superseded vide order dated 29.08.2025 passed by the Special Secretary, Government of U.P.

18. Sri G.K. Singh, learned counsel appearing for Dr. Santosh Kumar, who is respondent no.6 in Writ-A No. 14985 of 2025 and petitioner in Writ-A No. 9584 of 2025 supports the submissions advanced by Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Additional Advocate General and submits that in the same Institute, there cannot be two heads. None of the Government Orders provide that there will be two heads, one Head of Department and the other the Director-cum-Professor. But the Government Order dated 26.07.1976 specifically provides that the designation of the Head of Department shall be done as the Director-cum-Professor and none else. Thus, the primary requirement for designation to the post of Director is that the person must be the Head of Department. He further submits that none of the Director-cum-Professor previously appointed Director-cum-Professor have been given any separate pay scale or allowances in terms of the Government Order dated 20.04.2010. So far as it concerned to the Manohar Das Regional Institute of Ophthalmology nor Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary who previously held the designation of Director-cum-Professor and was erroneously appointed vide impugned order dated 09.05.2025 as Director-cum-Professor nor the respondent no.6, Dr. Santosh Kumar, who was appointed previously on 04.04.2025 and subsequently on 29.08.2025 as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute in capacity of being the Head of Department of the Institute, have ever been granted the benefit of the Government Order dated 20.04.2010. Simply, therefore, there is no separate post of Director-cum-Professor in the Institute. All the orders of nomination specifically mention that they will not be entitled for any special pay scale or allowances only because they were designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. Thus, it is apparent that the Government Order dated 24.3.2010 has never been given effect to in the Institute because there is no creation of separate post of Director in the Institute till date.

19. Sri G.K. Singh, learned Senior Advocate submits that the nomination/designation of Dr. Santosh Kumar as Director-cum-Professor was done only because he was appointed as the Head of Department on rotational basis in terms of the Government Order dated 24.3.2021. Therefore, there is no illegality in the nomination / designation of Dr. Santosh Kumar as Director-cum-Professor being the Head of Department and the claim of Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary is not sustainable in law for designation as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute only because she is the senior most Professor of the institute, as she had ceased to be the Head of Department.

20. Having heard the rival submissions so made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully perused the record of the case. The facts of the case have already been noted hereinabove. It is undisputed that prior to the Government Order dated 20.01.1976, the Ophthalmology Department of the Moti Lal Nehru Medical College and the Manohar Das Eye Hospital were separate to each other, though, the Manohar Das Eye Hospital was affiliated to Moti Lal Nehru Medical College. By the aforesaid order dated 20.01.1976, the Ophthalmology Department of the Medical College as well as Manohar Das Eye Hospital were clubbed together and directed to be nominated as Institute of Ophthalmology, which continued as the Ophthalmology Department of the Medical College. Thus, for all practical purposes, though the nomenclature of the Institute has been changed, it continued as Ophthalmology Department of Moti Lal Nehru Medical College, Allahabad for all practical purposes.

21. Vide Government Order dated 26.07.1976, it has been provided that the Head of Department and Professor of the Institute of Ophthalmology to be designated as Director-cum-

Professor. Thus, vide order dated 26.07.1976, only the nomenclature of the Head of Department was changed as Director-cum-Professor and no separate post was created by the aforesaid Government Order dated 26.07.1976. Vide Government Order dated 05.04.2006, the nomenclature of the Institute of Ophthalmology has been changed as Regional Institute of Ophthalmology by upgrading the said institute. However, the aforesaid Government Order does not say that the aforesaid Institute would, in any case, be an independent Institute. Thus, for all practical purposes, it continued to be the Ophthalmology Department of the Medical College. The Government Order dated 05.04.2006 refers the senior Professor, who earlier used to be the Head of Department and in that context it was observed that the senior Professor shall be designated as the Director-cum-Professor of the aforesaid Regional Eye Institute. However, it has not dilated the situation i.e. the Director-cum-Professor and the Head of Department would remain the same person governing the affairs of the Institute.

22. The problem has arisen only after the Government Order dated 24.03.2021 came into effect whereby the post of Head of Department was directed to be filled on rotational basis from amongst the senior Professors. It talks about the senior most Professors to be appointed as Head of Department, but simultaneously, it also provides that in the absence of senior most Professors, the Associate Professor as well as the Assistant Professor can be appointed. Since at present, Dr. Aparajita Choudhary is undisputedly is the senior most Professor, she was given first preference while appointing her the Head of Department with effect from 23.03.2023 till 23.03.2025 and she also held the post of Director-cum-Professor of the Institute from 01.04.2024 being the Head of Department of the Institute and with effect from 24.03.2025, Dr. Santosh Kumar has been appointed as Head of Department of the Institute and there is no dispute in his appointment on rotational basis being the second senior most Professor of the Institute as Head of Department of the Institute.

23. Since the Government Order dated 26.07.1976, which first time created the nomenclature of Director-cum-Professor for the Head of Department and Professor of the Institute, therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court, it is only the Head of Department of the Institute who could be nominated as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute and none else. By the subsequent Government Order dated 5.4.2006, when the aforesaid Institute was declared as Regional Eye Institute, which is in continuation of the earlier Government Order, does not provide that only senior most Professor to be appointed as the Director-cum-Professor rather, it provides that senior Professor of the Institute can be nominated as the Director-cum-Professor. From the Government Order dated 26.7.1976, it becomes categorical clear that in the nomination/designation of a person as Director-cum-Professor, the person must be Professor/Senior professor of the Institute and he is also required to be the Head of Department as there is no separate post of Director created in the Institute. Only the nomenclature of the Head of Department and Professor was created as Director-cum-Professor. The appointment Dr. Santosh Kumar to the post of Head of Department of the institute in consonance with the Government Order dated 24.03.2021 with regard to which there is no dispute between the parties. Therefore, Dr. Santosh Kumar being the Head of Department was entitled to be nominated/designated as Director-cum-Professor of the Institute, which has rightly been done initially vide order dated 24.4.2025 and subsequently vide order dated 29.8.2025.

24. Therefore, this Court does not find any illegality on the designation of Dr. Santosh Kumar, Professor and Head of Department of the Ophthalmology Department of the Motilal Nehru Medical College, which is known as Manohar Das Regional Eye Institute, Allahabad as the Director-cum-Professor of the said Institute. Thus, Dr. Santosh Kumar being the Head of Department was entitled to be nominated/ designated as the Director-cum-Professor of the Institute. It has rightly been done vide order dated 04.04.2025 passed by the Principal of the Motilal Nehru Medical College, Prayagraj, as well as by the Special Secretary, Government of U.P. vide order dated 29.08.2025.

25. In view of the aforesaid finding, this Court finds that the appointment of Dr. Aparajita Chaudhary vide order dated 09.05.2025 to the post of Director-cum-Professor is not sustainable in law. Accordingly, the same is hereby set aside.

26. With the aforesaid observations, both the petitions are disposed of.

27. It is further held, till a separate post of Director-cum-Professor, is specifically created in the Manohar Das Regional Institute of Ophthalmology, Prayagraj, it is the Head of Department-cum-Professor of the said Institute, who can be designated as Director-cum-professor of the aforesaid Institute and none else.

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 19530 of 2024

Rajeev Kumar ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether a mandamus can be issued, ordering the Nagar Panchayat and its President, to extend benefits of the promotion post, including all remuneration w.e.f. the date of promotion order as well as to pay the petitioner a Clerk's salary from the date of his promotion together with interest?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916: Section 70 – Petitioner did not challenge order dated 16.05.2018, cancelling his promotion proceedings. Instead, he has applied for a writ of mandamus to pay him salary according to the apparent tenor of the promotion order passed in his favour.

Order dated 16.05.2018 was made without hearing the petitioner but was communicated to him. (Para 26)

In the service book relating to the petitioner, a promotion order dated 01.05.2018 finds mention and there is no cancellation of that order recorded by any competent authority, but the fact remains that the entire proceedings for the petitioner's promotion were cancelled by the Executive Officer vide order dated 16.05.2018 as non est, since no post was available. The order cancelling the petitioner's promotion proceedings is recorded in the original records as an order dated 16.05.2018 passed by the Executive Officer, which reads: "Pronnati ki prakriya pad na hone ke karan nirast ki jati hai". (Para 25)

B. It is true that a writ of mandamus is one of the widest import and can be issued to undo wrongs in the absence of the formality of challenge. But, where the rights are not clear and orders stand in way, which have to be quashed, and those orders have not been substantially questioned, it is difficult to quash such orders and grant relief. It is also noteworthy that the order dated 16.05.2018 passed by the Executive Officer, read together with the circumstance that the petitioner was never paid his emoluments attached to a Class-III post, would show that the petitioner's promotion, that he claims to have been made by the President, was never a concluded transaction, in terms of which, his rights crystallized. It was inchoate. Therefore, it was undone by the Executive Officer by a cancellation of proceedings for promotion and not a revocation of the promotion order. The endorsement of the promotion order in the petitioner's service book, which carries no endorsement of its revocation, would, therefore, be not of much consequence. (Para 27)

C. The inaction for a period of four years is telltale of the fact that the petitioner knew all along that he had no claim founded on the promotion order. Else, he would have swung into action to claim higher emoluments, when he was deprived of his higher salary or emoluments within a month or two. Ever since the petitioner's promotion order was made, though he says that he performed duties attached to the post of a Clerk, he never claimed emoluments admissible for the promotion post right from 01.05.2018 until 03.09.2022. He admittedly filed the first of his representations on 03.09.2022, claiming higher emoluments, addressed jointly to the President and the Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat. It is surprising and very unnatural for a promotee to discharge duties on the promotion post and not claim emoluments attached to it for as long a period as four years and more. This is a case where the petitioner did not move at all and continued to receive his Class-IV salary. (Para 28)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

For Petitioner(s): Mr. Harsh Vardhan Gupta
For Respondent(s): Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, Standing Counsel Mr. Bhanu Bhushan Jauhari

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. The petitioner claims to have been promoted as a Clerk in the employ of the Nagar Panchayat Khutar, District Shahjahanpur (for short, 'the Nagar Panchayat') from the lower post of a Class-IV employee. The petitioner says that though promoted by the President of the Nagar Panchayat vide order dated 01.05.2018, he has not been paid his emoluments for the promotion post. Instead, he is being remunerated as a Class-IV employee. It is asserted that pursuant to the promotion order dated 01.05.2018, the petitioner has joined the promotion post and is discharging duties attached to the post. The petitioner, therefore, prays that a mandamus be issued, ordering the Nagar Panchayat and its President, to extend benefits of the promotion post, including all remuneration w.e.f. 01.05.2018. He has also prayed for the issue of a mandamus to the respondents to pay him a Clerk's salary from the date of his promotion together with interest.

2. Since a dispute was raised during the hearing of the petition about the genuineness of the promotion order dated 01.05.2018, signed by the then President of the Nagar Panchayat, Anupam Shukla, he was impleaded eo nomine under our orders. He was put to notice vide order dated 06.05.2025 and summoned to appear before the Court on 14.05.2025. Anupam Shukla, the former President of the Nagar Panchayat, appeared in person on 14.05.2025 and verified the contents of the promotion order as well as his signatures thereon in Court. By an earlier order, original records, including the petitioner's service book, were summoned. The parties having exchanged affidavits, the petition was admitted to hearing.

3. Heard Mr. Harsh Vardhan Gupta, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of State-respondent Nos. 1 and 2 and Mr. Bhanu Bhushan Jauhari, learned Counsel appearing for the Nagar Panchayat, respondent Nos. 3 and 4. The records produced in original have been perused.

4. It is not disputed that the petitioner was appointed as a Safai Karamchari, a Class-IV employee, with the Nagar Panchayat, after being selected in accordance with rules and appointed by the Executive Officer against a supernumerary post. The petitioner was appointed on probation for a period of one year. He was appointed as aforesaid by the Executive Officer vide order dated 20.06.2008. He joined duties as a Class-IV employee. Later on, upon the death of a regular Class-IV employee, one Ramchandra, in harness on 14.04.2013, the petitioner was placed against Ramchandra's vacant post, bringing to end his functioning against a supernumerary post. The petitioner's case is that there were two Class-III employees working in the Nagar Panchayat, one Anil Singh and the other Rajpal. Rajpal had been promoted as a Clerk on 30.05.1997, after approval by the Nagar Panchayat Board and following the due process. Rajpal was remunerated as a Class-III employee, consequent upon his promotion. Rajpal died in harness while serving as a Clerk on 18.04.2004. A direction was issued on 16.01.2014 by the Director, Local Bodies, requiring all the Nagar Nigam and Nagar Palika Parishad/ Nagar Panchayat in the State to ensure promotion of educated Safai Karamchari in accordance with the resolution of a Committee dated 08.11.2013, presided over by the Secretary, Urban Development.

5. The petitioner emphasizes that the Government Order endorsed by the Director, Local Bodies vide order dated 16.01.2014 was applicable to Safai Karamchari alone, employed in the Nagar Nigam, Nagar Panchayat and Nagar Palika Parishad, who were educated and not the other Class-IV employees. The petitioner has come up with a case that the Government Order, that was endorsed by the Director for compliance in accordance with the resolution of the Committee presided over by the Secretary, Urban Development, is one dated 04.12.2001. The aforesaid Government Order provides for promotion of Class-IV employees to Class-III positions, who have passed the High School or an equivalent examination and served for five years continuously on a Class-IV post. The Government Order aforesaid provides for promotion to the extent of 15% of the available vacancies. There is a further provision of 5% vacancies for promotion in the Class-III cadre out of the Class-IV employees, who have passed their Intermediate examination or any equivalent, and at the same time, completed five years' continuous service in the Class-IV cadre.

There is, thus, a total of 20% earmarking for promotion amongst Class-III employees from the Class-IV establishment of a Local Body, like the Nagar Panchayat.

6. The petitioner says that he moved an application on 07.02.2018 to the President of the Nagar Panchayat, seeking promotion to the post of Clerk, as he was a graduate and had experience in computer operation. The President of the Nagar Panchayat addressed a memo dated 24.02.2018 to the Director, Local Bodies, seeking the latter's permission to promote the petitioner, pointing out that a vacancy in the Class-III cadre had occurred due to death in harness of Rajpal, and the petitioner had a B.A. Degree, besides a computer operator certificate, called a Course on Computer Concepts (CCC) Certificate. It was pointed out by the President that there was a single incumbent in the cadre of Class-III post, leading to the Nagar Panchayat's work being affected.

7. In response, the Director, Local Bodies, addressed a memo dated 23.03.2018 to the President as well as the Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat, saying that for employees of non-centralized services, a Local Body was competent to take decisions in service matters. It was further remarked that since the matter related to an employee of non-centralized service of the Nagar Panchayat, in regard to whom, the Appointing/ Disciplinary Authority was the President himself, necessary steps had to be taken by the President. The President was directed to proceed in accordance with rules in the matter and inform the Directorate. The President caused a proposal to be placed in the Board Meeting of the Nagar Panchayat held on 27.03.2018, where a unanimous decision was taken by all the members to promote the petitioner.

8. Following this resolution dated 27.03.2018 passed by the Nagar Panchayat Board, a Departmental Promotion Committee (for short, 'the DPC') was constituted, as the petitioner avers in paragraph No.24 of the writ petition, "to initiate the promotion process of Class-IV employees of Nagar Panchayat Khutar and a seniority list was prepared in which the petitioner was placed at Serial No. 7." The DPC met on 18.04.2018 and recommended the petitioner's name for promotion against the vacant Class-III post in the Nagar Panchayat. The recommendations of the DPC dated 18.04.2018 are on record. The candidates, who were senior to the petitioner, were not found eligible, as they lacked the minimum qualifications prescribed. The petitioner's candidature was considered and not only found eligible, but also fit. Acting on the recommendations of the DPC, the President of the Nagar Panchayat, vide promotion order dated 01.05.2018, promoted the petitioner to the post of a Clerk in the Nagar Panchayat and a copy of the order was forwarded to the Director, Local Bodies.

9. The petitioner submitted a joining report, in compliance with the promotion order passed by the President, also on 01.05.2018, which was accepted. The petitioner says that he has been regularly discharging his duties in the clerical cadre ever-since his promotion on 01.05.2018, but has not been remunerated as a Class-III employee till date. He is still being paid the salary of a Class-IV employee. Though, the petitioner asserts in paragraph No.33 of the writ petition that he has been regularly representing in the matter to the President, Nagar Panchayat as well as the Executive Officer, claiming his remuneration, attached to a Class-III post and designation of the said post, the first of the representations that the petitioner has annexed is one dated 03.09.2022. It is also asserted that non-payment of salary to the petitioner attached to a Class-III post is discriminatory and arbitrary. There is no reason to deny him the higher salary.

10. Two counter affidavits have been filed on behalf of the Nagar Panchayat - one on behalf of the Executive Officer, and the other, on behalf of the President of the Nagar Panchayat, that is to say, respondent Nos.3 and 4. Another counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the Director, Local Bodies, Government of U.P., Lucknow, respondent No.2. Besides these, an affidavit dated 14.12.2024 has been filed on behalf of the then Executive Officer, Satyendra Prakash. The foremost objection that has been taken in this affidavit is that the State Government had sanctioned one post of Clerk, one post of Watchman-cum-Peon and five posts of Sweeper vide letter dated 20.04.1987, and thereafter, no post of Clerk/ Class-III employee has been sanctioned by the Government. It is conceded that in case of emergency, employees of this rank can be appointed by the President under Section 70 of the U.P. Municipalities Act, 1916 (for short, 'the Act of 1916'), but it is averred that there is one sanctioned post of a Class-III employee with the Nagar Panchayat, against which, Anil Kumar Singh is appointed and discharging his duties. The stand in brief, therefore, in this affidavit is that against the solitary post of Clerk in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat, Anil Kumar Singh is already working and there was no scope for the President to promote the petitioner to a Class-III post.

11. In the counter affidavit dated 05.01.2025, that has been filed by the Executive Officer, the stand is essentially the same, and it is averred that since there is one post of a Class-III employee, against which Anil Kumar Singh is functioning, the petitioner, who is a Class-IV employee, is being paid his salary as such. It is averred in paragraph No.16 of this affidavit that against the recommendations of the DPC dated 18.04.2018 and the promotion order dated 01.05.2018, passed by the President of the Nagar Panchayat, promoting the petitioner to a Class-III post, several complaints were lodged on the Integrated Grievance Redressal System of the State Government. An office report was invited from Anil Kumar Singh, a Clerk in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat, who mentioned in his report that there is no sanctioned post for promoting the petitioner to a Class-III position. On the basis of the said report, the Executive Officer submitted a report to the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Shahjahanpur dated 23.12.2018 saying that though proceedings were taken to promote the petitioner by the then President and the then Executive Officer, but, in the absence of a vacant post in the Class-III cadre to place the petitioner against, no promotion was granted to him. It is averred in paragraph No.17 of the counter affidavit that the petitioner was never paid the benefits attached to the post of a Class-III employee and proceedings for his promotion were cancelled by the Executive Officer vide order dated 18.05.2018, of which the petitioner is well aware.

12. It is also asserted that the petitioner did not take any step against the order dated 18.05.2018, declining his promotion and cancelling proceedings thereof. It is acknowledged that the Executive Officer had certified in Form-I the cadre strength of Class-III employees in the Nagar Panchayat as two, but there is only one sanctioned post of a Class-III employee. There is a reference to the details of the affairs of the Nagar Panchayat for the financial years 2019-20, 2020-21 and 2021-22 submitted by the Executive Officer, where only one sanctioned post of a Class-III employee in the Nagar Panchayat establishment finds place. A copy of the relevant information in Form-I is annexed to the counter affidavit dated 05.01.2025.

13. There is another counter affidavit, also dated 05.01.2025, which has been filed by the President of the Nagar Panchayat, where the stand taken is the same that there is a single post of a Class-III employee, against which, Anil Kumar Singh is functioning. There was no scope for the former President to have promoted the petitioner and those proceedings taken in favour of the petitioner are of no consequence.

14. The last of the counter affidavits is the one filed by the Director, Local Bodies, Lucknow. Here too, the stand taken is clearly encapsuled in paragraph No.8 of this counter affidavit, which reads:

"8. That it is respectfully submitted that as per the Government Order No. 1509/9-1-87-45-NaVi-ANU-1 dated 20.04.1987, there is only one sanctioned post of Clerk in Nagar Panchayat, Khutar, Shahjahanpur. This sanctioned post is currently occupied by a regularly appointed employee, Shri Anil Singh, who continues to discharge his duties on the said post. Presently, there is no vacancy in the Clerk cadre in the Nagar Panchayat, Khutar. True photocopy of the Government Order dated 20.04.1987 is being annexed herewith and marked as ANNEXURE NO. C.A.-1 to this counter affidavit."

15. Rebutting the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Director, Local Bodies, a rejoinder has been filed on behalf of the petitioner, where, it is emphasized that there were two working clerks in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat prior to the petitioner's promotion. It is pointed out that one Deenanath was employed as a Clerk with the Nagar Panchayat and that after his death, one post of clerk fell vacant. On the basis of a proposal by the Board dated 06.12.1996, Rajpal, a Peon in the establishment, was promoted against Deenanath's post. It is emphasized that Rajpal was paid all benefits of clerk after promotion and upon his death, his wife was appointed as a Class-IV employee. It is averred in paragraph No.22 of this rejoinder affidavit that the Government Order dated 20.04.1987 relates to sanctioned posts in Town Area Khutar, District Shahjahanpur. The said G.O. does not say anything about the sanctioned posts available with the Nagar Panchayat Khutar. The Government Order dated 20.04.1987 relied upon by the respondents in order to determine the sanctioned strength of clerks with the Nagar Panchayat is misplaced; misplaced because it relates to the former Town Area and not the successor Nagar Panchayat.

16. In the rejoinder affidavit filed in reply to the counter affidavit dated 14.12.2024 filed on behalf of the Nagar Panchayat by their Executive Officer, the same stand is taken, whereby two posts of Clerk in the Nagar Panchayat establishment are mooted. It is pointed out that Rajpal was promoted in the vacancy caused by Deenanath's death in harness. After promotion, Rajpal was given all benefits attached to a clerk's post and his wife received leave encashment calculated on that basis. She was also granted compassionate appointment. Upon Rajpal's death, the post of Clerk fell vacant in the Nagar Panchayat establishment. The affairs of the Nagar Panchayat for the financial year 2016-17 reported to the Department of Urban Development by the then Executive Officer have been emphasized to show that the posts of clerks are not one, but two. The return, which has been submitted in Form-I, shows that in Class-III or Group-C, two posts are sanctioned, against which, one incumbent was working.

17. Mr. Harsh Vardhan Gupta, learned Counsel for the petitioner, has argued that the petitioner is still receiving the salary of a Class-IV employee (Safai Karamchari), even after his promotion to a Class-III post vide order dated 01.05.2018. He has represented to the President and the Executive Officer for grant of his due remuneration attached to the promotion post, but to no avail. It is next argued that the order of promotion passed in favour of the petitioner is still subsisting and the petitioner is working as a Clerk in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat. The promotion order dated 01.05.2018 has never been cancelled by the President of the Nagar Panchayat. It is particularly urged by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that a perusal of the petitioner's service book shows that no cancellation of promotion has been recorded there, though the promotion order dated 01.05.2018 is eloquently mentioned.

18. Learned Counsel next submits that there were always two clerks working in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat, a fact evident from details of affairs of the Nagar Panchayat for the year 2016-17 submitted to the Department of Urban Development. About the Government Order dated 20.04.1987 relied upon by the respondents, it is said by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the Government Order of 1987 relates to sanctioned post for Town Area Khutar, but not the upgraded Nagar Panchayat.

19. The Director, Local Bodies, in his affidavit, does not say anything about the applicability of the Government Order dated 20.04.1987 to the Nagar Panchayat. On the other hand, it is pointed out by the learned Counsel for the petitioner that details of affairs of the Nagar Panchayat for the year 2015-16 published by the Department of Urban Development confirmed that there are two posts of Clerk in the Nagar Panchayat. Out of these, one is occupied and the other, vacant. In this connection, our attention has been drawn by the learned Counsel for the petitioner to Annexure No.5, page No.51 of the affidavit dated 18.12.2024 filed on behalf of the petitioner.

20. It is also urged that the clerk, who is said to be functional on one of the two posts and claimed to be validly appointed as such in the Nagar Panchayat establishment, was actually a daily-wager, who was illegally appointed as a Clerk by the Nagar Panchayat in their establishment on temporary basis, without any regularization. In this connection, learned Counsel for the petitioner has drawn the Court's attention to Anil Singh's appointment letter, annexed as Annexure No. RA-4 to the rejoinder affidavit dated 10.01.2025, filed by the petitioner, in reply to the counter affidavit filed by the Director, Local Bodies.

21. Mr. Bhanu Bhushan Jauhari, learned Counsel for the Nagar Panchayat, on the other hand, sticks to the Nagar Panchayat's stand that there is no other post of a Clerk in their establishment sanctioned by the Government except one, and for the purpose, places reliance on the Government Order dated 20.04.1987, sanctioning a solitary post in the clerical cadre for the then Town Area Khutar, District Shahjahanpur. He has drawn our attention to Annexure No. CA-2 to the counter affidavit dated 05.01.2025. He has submitted that the President of the Nagar Panchayat was directed by the Director, Local Bodies, to promote Class-III employees in accordance with rules, but that does not mean that against a non-existing vacancy, promotion could be granted to the petitioner. He says that after the resolution had been passed by the Board to grant promotion to the petitioner on 27.03.2018, the DPC was a mere formality at the hands of the then President to ignore the claims of seniors in the Class-IV cadre.

22. It is emphasized that the petitioner, after his promotion, under orders of the then President, did not claim emoluments attached to the post from the month of May, 2018 till 30.09. 2022, which is the first time that he moved the Nagar Panchayat Authorities, claiming higher emoluments. It is urged that the said fact makes it clear that non-raising of grievance by the petitioner was the result of his awareness of the fact that he had no case to claim promotion. The petitioner's promotion was withheld, because Rakesh Kumar Bhargav, another eligible employee, had complained against the DPC's recommendations on the Integrated Grievance Redressal System, and in reply to queries by the State Government, the Executive Officer had conceded that there is only one post in the Class-III cadre, to which the petitioner Rajeev Kumar has not been promoted. The information regarding the vacancy position in Class-III submitted in Form-I for the financial year 2016-17 is submitted by the learned Counsel for the Nagar Panchayat to be based on the information submitted by the then Executive Officer for the year 2015-16. The said information is incorrect. It is for this reason that in the subsequent years 2019-20, 2020-21 and 2021-22, the cadre position has been rectified and a solitary post of Class-III shown in the establishment of the Nagar Panchayat. It is asserted that the solitary post of Class-III is the one against which Anil Kumar Singh is functioning.

23. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, what we find is that irrespective of the question whether the sanctioned post in the Class-III cadre are one in number or two, it is difficult to accept the petitioner's contention that his promotion could be considered against a promotion quota of 20%, where the number of posts at best is only two. The quota of 20% would work out to a figure of less than 0.5 or half, where the quota would remain largely ineffective unless the strength of the cadre increases, assuming that some reservation under the promotion quota is admissible. The record shows that there is statement for two years given by the Nagar Panchayat and approved by the State Government, where the number of posts in the clerical cadre are shown as two. This is for the years 2015-16 and 2016-17. The fact that this was a mistaken mention in Form-I submitted by the Nagar Panchayat is evident from the fact that for the subsequent financial years 2019-20, 2020-21 and 2021-22, the Executive Officer has clearly mentioned one sanctioned post of Class-III in the Nagar Panchayat establishment.

24. Our attention has been drawn to Annexure No. CA-4 of the counter affidavit dated 05.01.2025 filed by the Executive Officer, where in Form-I, the number of posts sanctioned in Class-III or Group-C is mentioned one, which is shown as occupied. The said form relates to the financial year 2020-21. This position of the cadre strength has been repeated in Form-I submitted by the Nagar Panchayat for the financial year 2021-22. It is, thus, evident that the mention earlier made in the financial years 2015-16 and 2016-17, showing the cadre strength of Class-III as two posts, is a mistaken reference. It was revised by the Nagar Panchayat in subsequent financial years, without objection from the State Government or the Director, Local Bodies. Apparently, therefore, there is a solitary post in the Class-III cadre, against which, Anil Kumar Singh is working. The challenge to Anil Kumar Singh's appointment to Class-III cannot be examined in this petition, because neither originally nor through an amendment, the appointment letter in favour of Anil Kumar Singh, also issued by the President of the Nagar Panchayat, has been challenged. It has been brought on record along with a rejoinder affidavit filed by the petitioner on 10.01.2025, and if the petitioner so desired, he could have challenged the said promotion letter/ order passed in favour of Anil Kumar Singh. The petitioner has never done that.

25. So far as the petitioner's own promotion to the post of a Clerk is concerned, no doubt, in the service book relating to the petitioner, a promotion order dated 01.05.2018 finds mention and there is no cancellation of that order recorded by any competent authority, but the fact remains that the entire proceedings for the petitioner's promotion were cancelled by the Executive Officer vide order dated 16.05.2018 as non est, since no post was available. The order cancelling the petitioner's promotion proceedings is recorded in the original records as an order dated 16.05.2018 passed by the Executive Officer, which reads: "Pronnati ki prakriya pad na hone ke karan nirast ki jati hai".

26. True, it is again, that this order dated 16.05.2018 was communicated to the petitioner, as the records would show, when it was made and apparently, it was made without hearing him, but a copy of this order has been annexed as Annexure No. CA-3, along with the detailed office note, also dated 16.05.2018, on the foot of which, the Executive Officer has passed the order dated 16.05.2018. This order figures as Annexure No. CA-3 to the counter affidavit dated 05.01.2025 filed by the Executive Officer. If the petitioner wanted to challenge this order, he could have challenged it, but, has not done that. He has applied for a writ of mandamus to pay him salary according to the apparent tenor of the promotion order passed in his favour.

27. It is true, no doubt, that a writ of mandamus is one of the widest import and can be issued to undo wrongs in the absence of the formality of challenge. But, where the rights are not clear and orders stand in way, which have to be quashed, and those orders have not been substantially questioned, it is difficult to quash such orders and grant relief. It is also noteworthy that the order dated 16.05.2018 passed by the Executive Officer, read together with the circumstance that the petitioner was never paid his emoluments attached to a Class-III post, would show that the petitioner's promotion, that he claims to have been made by the President, was never a concluded transaction, in terms of which, his rights crystallized. It was inchoate. Therefore, it was undone by the Executive Officer by a cancellation of proceedings for promotion and not a revocation of the promotion order. The endorsement of the promotion order in the petitioner's service book, which carries no endorsement of its revocation, would, therefore, be not of much consequence.

28. There is another and the most substantial feature of the matter, which stares the petitioner in the face, when he seeks relief based on the promotion order dated 01.05.2018. The fact is that eversince the petitioner's promotion order was made, though he says that he performed duties attached to the post of a Clerk, he never claimed emoluments admissible for the promotion post right from 01.05.2018 until 03.09.2022. He admittedly filed the first of his representations on 03.09.2022, claiming higher emoluments, addressed jointly to the President and the Executive Officer of the Nagar Panchayat. It is, indeed, surprising and very unnatural for a promotee to discharge duties on the promotion post and not claim emoluments attached to it for as long a period as four years and more. Rather, the petitioner continued to receive salary attached to the Class-IV post and it is not that, that he asserted his rights to higher emoluments based on the promotion allegedly granted to him during all this while. This is a case where the petitioner did not move at all and continued to receive his Class-IV salary. This inaction for a period of four years is telltale of the fact that the petitioner knew all along that he had no claim founded on the promotion order. Else, he would have swung into action to claim higher emoluments, when he was deprived of his higher salary or emoluments within a month or two.

29. In the totality of circumstances, we are of clear opinion that the petitioner is not entitled to any relief.

30. In the result, this writ petition fails and stands dismissed.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

32. Let the original records produced by Mr. Bhanu Bhushan Jauhari, Advocate be returned forthwith for their onward transmission to the Executive Officer, Nagar Panchayat Khutar, District Shahjahanpur.

The circular is of 9.4.2008. Learned counsel for petitioner submits that circular is internal document of respondent-Bank and it was not within the knowledge of legal heirs of deceased employee and as such, application for Ex-gratia payment could not be made. Even otherwise, it is the Bank, who has communicated by letter dated 23.2.2013 to apply for Ex-gratia payment, then the application has been filed within six months.

4. Learned counsel for respondent-Bank submits that as per circular of the Bank Ex-gratia payment is required to be applied within six month from the date of death of employee. Learned counsel for respondent-Bank has relied upon circular dated 9.4.2008 of the Bank, which is filed as Annexure No.CA-1 to the counter affidavit. Learned counsel for respondent-Bank submits that in view of the fact that application was filed beyond limitation prescribed in the aforesaid circular, the claim for Ex-gratia payment has been rejected.

5. On a query being made to learned counsel for respondent-Bank as to why Bank has issued a letter dated 23.2.2013 filed along with writ petition as Annexure No.3 for inviting application for Ex-gratia payment when the Bank was very well aware that the application is required to be filed as per circular within six months from the date of death of employee, learned counsel for respondent-Bank could not give any satisfactory reply in this respect.

6. It is to be seen that Ex-gratia payment is in lieu of compassionate appointment. The mother of petitioner was employee of Bank, which fact is admitted to the Bank. The internal circular of Bank are normally not within the knowledge of any person, who is not connected with the Bank unless the same is published and is widely circulated. It is not the case of the Bank that petitioner was having knowledge of the circular dated 9.4.2008 at the time of death of employee. It is not shown by learned counsel for respondent-Bank that the legal heirs of deceased employee was communicated with the circular of the Bank dated 9.4.2008. Coupled with the facts that Bank itself by letter dated 23.2.2013 has invited the application from the petitioner for submitting application for Ex-gratia payment then the date of knowledge of aforesaid circular, at best, can be taken from the date of letter dated 23.2.2013. As per impugned order, application for Ex-gratia payment has been made on 7.7.2013 by the brother of petitioner, namely, Sanjeev Mishra. Although, learned counsel for respondent-Bank tries to impress upon the Court that brother of petitioner had applied for Ex-gratia payment and his application was rejected by means of impugned order. It is not in dispute that brother of petitioner Sanjeev Mishra has expired in the year 2017. It is further to be noted that Ex-gratia payment is for the benefit of family members of the deceased employee and as such, each member of the family would be entitled to claim the same.

7. In view of the letter dated 23.2.2013 of the respondent-Bank and coupled with the fact that internal circular cannot by itself cause a limitation on applying unless the internal document is communicated to legal heirs of deceased employee, which in the present case, Bank has not shown.

8. In view of aforesaid, the impugned letter/orders dated 19.9.2013 and 8.11.2013 passed by respondent no.2 is hereby set aside and the matter is remanded bank to respondent no.2 to consider the application of petitioner for Ex-gratia payment in lieu of compassionate appointment without going into the question of limitation, within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of the order. If the Bank requires any document or formality is to be completed, the same may be communicated to the petitioner in writing within 15 days from the date of production of a certified copy of the order and the petitioner would oblige to complete the aforesaid formality within one month thereafter.

9. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

THE HON'BLE SAURABH SHYAM SHAMSHERY, J.

Writ A No. 34343 of 2013

Santosh Kumar Sharma ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether the Court in the present case can interfere with the outcome of the disciplinary proceedings?
(b) Whether on the basis of subsequent acquittal in criminal trial, impugned order (dated 15.05.2013 which held the correctness of the inquiry report, wherein all charges against petitioner were found proved) can be set aside?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Mere suspicion should not be allowed to take the place of proof even in domestic enquiries. The High Court can and must enquire whether there is any evidence at all in support of the impugned conclusion. In other words, if the whole of the evidence led in the enquiry is accepted as true, does the conclusion follow that the charge in question is proved against the respondent? This approach will avoid weighing the evidence. It will take the evidence as it stands and only examine whether on that evidence illegally (sic, legally) the impugned conclusion follows or not. (Para 14)

In present case, petitioner was granted ample opportunity to appear and place his case before Inquiry Officer. Inquiry Officer has submitted a very detailed inquiry report wherein statement of victim girls were recorded and despite granting various opportunities, he has not availed the same and as such Court is of considered opinion that, inquiry was conducted after complying principles of natural justice. (Para 11)

After second show cause notice was issued, again petitioner was granted ample opportunities to present his case, however, he has opted not to appear, therefore, Committee of Management adopted a very detailed proposal, wherein all materials were mentioned specifically, after detailed consideration. (Para 12)

On basis of directions of this Court, matter was referred to Commission, which has passed impugned order that outcome of inquiry was against petitioner and punishment was correctly awarded considering nature of allegations. There is no ground for this Court to disbelieve the statement of victim girls recorded during inquiry wherein they have supported their respective complaints that petitioner was indulged in explicit sexual conversation and unwarranted touch with victims. (Para 13)

Therefore, this Court does not find that within very limited scope of interference, outcome of disciplinary proceedings can be interfered. (Para 14)

B. As per the cardinal principle of law an acquittal in a criminal trial has no bearing or relevance on the disciplinary proceedings as the standard of proof in both the cases are different and the proceedings operate in different fields and with different objectives. (Para 17)

The first thing is whether acquittal is an honourable acquittal or not? In present case, despite victims have made categorical statement before trial Court and supported the prosecution case, still only on a ground that there was an enmity between petitioner and Manager of concerned Committee of Management, the cogent statement of victim was disbelieved and order of acquittal was granted. (Para 16)

Acquittal in criminal trial would have no bearing on the outcome of disciplinary proceedings and Court also finds that nature of allegations against petitioner are very serious and which have been proved on basis of statement of victims which also remained consistent even during criminal trial. The acquittal was not an honourable acquittal. (Para 18)

3. Subsequently, an inquiry was conducted and a detailed inquiry report dated 12.03.2012 was submitted wherein all four charges against petitioner were found proved. A copy of inquiry report was not enclosed along with present writ petition though it was annexed with counter affidavit. From perusal of inquiry report, it would be clearly evident that it was passed on basis of statement of victim girls before Inquiry Officer as well as evidence of other witnesses.

4. Subsequently, a show cause notice was issued along with copy of Inquiry Report to petitioner and he was asked to appear and to submit his reply. Finally, the petitioner submitted a reply to show cause notice on 07.05.2012 though it appears that despite various notices, he has not appeared in person and accordingly, the Committee of Management adopted the proposal dated 27.05.2012 wherein matter was considered at length and Inquiry Report was accepted. In the proposal, it was specifically noted that petitioner has intentionally not appeared to submit his stand on Inquiry Report.

5. Above referred adopted proposal was send to D.I.O.S. concerned for approval, however, by an order dated 08.08.2012, approval was disapproved. Aforesaid order was thereafter challenged at behest of Committee of Management by way of filing Writ A No. 42480/2012 which was allowed vide order dated 28.08.2012 and order dated 08.08.2012 was quashed and it was directed that D.I.O.S. will transmit entire papers to U.P. Secondary Education Services Board, Allahabad who will take a decision in accordance with law. For reference, relevant part of said order is quoted below:-

"After respective arguments have been advanced, factual situation, which has so emerged in the present case, is that the charges levelled against respondent No.4 were serious in nature, and this Court had passed a precise order that disciplinary proceedings be concluded within two months and it had been categorically mentioned that respondent No.4 would remain under suspension. The Committee of Management of the institution thereafter proceeded to undertake disciplinary proceedings and concluded the same, and thereafter resolution has been passed for dispensing with the services of respondent No.4 after the report of the Inquiry Officer had been received on 12.03.2012. Respondent No.4 had been given opportunity to show cause vide notice dated 13.04.2012 followed by reminder dated 28.04.2012. It is precise case of the Committee of Management that respondent No. 4 did not turn up and thereafter o 27.05.2012 resolution had been passed and entire papers had been forwarded to the District Inspector of Schools for the purposes of approval under Section 21 of U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982, as the termination order cannot be passed without there being prior approval of the U.P. Secondary Education Service Selection Board.

Requirement of forwarding papers to the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board is governed by the provisions of U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Procedure for Approval or Punishment) Regulation, 1985. In spite of the fact that under the aforementioned U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Procedure for Approval or Punishment) Regulation, 1985, respondent No.4 had no role to play, even then purported appeal was filed by him before the District Inspector of Schools, the District Inspector of Schools entertained the said appeal and most surprisingly thereafter has proceeded to pass the impugned order dated 13.08.2012. The District Inspector of Schools had no authority to go into the validity of the resolution dated 27.05.2012, inasmuch as authority to examine the validity of the said resolution was within the domain of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board, and under clause 5 of the U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Procedure for Approval or Punishment) Regulation, 1985, the only option open to the District Inspector of Schools was to transmit the entire papers to the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board and in case there was any shortcoming in the documents so submitted, the only course open to the District Inspector of Schools was that he could have made a note thereof and forwarded the same to the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board. In the present case, the District Inspector of Schools deliberately deliberated upon the resolution passed by the Committee of Management and has given his own findings. This exercise undertaken by the District Inspector of Schools is totally beyond his competence and reflects his unawareness of statutory provisions, as in the garb of deciding appeal totally unwarranted order has been passed. While exercising the authority under Section 21 of U.P. Act No. 5 of 1982 even as per the provisions of U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission (Procedure for Approval or Punishment) Regulation, 1985, the U.P. Secondary Education Services Board is empowered to call for the records from the Management, as such the District Inspector of Schools has totally misused his authority in the present case while proceeding to pass the impugned order.

Sri R. K. Ojha's submission, that proceedings is bad, has to be examined by the U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board and not by this Court, and here the only question is qua the exercise of authority by District Inspector of Schools.

Consequently, present writ petition succeeds and the same is allowed. The impugned order dated 08.08.2012 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Varanasi is hereby quashed and set aside. The District Inspector of Schools is directed to transmit the entire papers to the U.P. Secondary Education Services Board, Allahabad within one month from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order, and the U.P. Secondary Education Services Board, Allahabad is directed to deal with the same and take appropriate decision on the same, in accordance with law, by means of reasoned and speaking order, within next two months, after taking view point of the Committee of Management of the institution as well as respondent No. 4."

6. In aforesaid circumstances, matter was heard by Secretary, U.P. Secondary Education Services Board and proposal of concerned Committee of Management was approved by impugned order dated 15.05.2013 that inquiry report has come to correct conclusion. Aforesaid order dated 15.05.2013 is impugned in present writ petition.

7. During disciplinary proceedings, one of victims has also lodged an FIR against petitioner which was ultimately culminated into criminal trial, however, trial was concluded vide judgment dated 24.01.2019 whereby petitioner was granted acquittal.

8. In said judgment, victim girl who appeared as PW-1 has in fact supported the prosecution case in entirety. The PW-4 another victim has also stated that petitioner has misbehaved sexually with her, however, trial Court has disbelieved statement of victims despite they remained consistent only on a ground that there was prior enmity between petitioner and Manager and victims were created and finally held that prosecution has failed to prove charge beyond reasonable doubt.

9. Sri Santosh Kumar Sharma, Petitioner-in-person has made an attempt to take advantage of order of acquittal that if statement of victims is disbelieved in criminal trial, petitioner cannot be punished in disciplinary proceedings on basis of same nature of statement given by victim girls, though he has also submitted that order impugned is not a reasoned order.

10. Per contra, Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for respondent-5 has supported the impugned order.

11. As referred above, petitioner was granted ample opportunity to appear and place his case before Inquiry Officer. Inquiry Officer has submitted a very detailed inquiry report wherein statement of victim girls were recorded and despite granting various opportunities, he has not availed the same and as such Court is of considered opinion that in present case, inquiry was conducted after complying principles of natural justice. During inquiry, statement of victim girls were recorded who have supported their respective complaint. Victims have given answers to questions asked during inquiry. Petitioner was asked to appear during inquiry but he refused on one or other reason.

12. After second show cause notice was issued again, petitioner was granted ample opportunities to present his case, however, he has opted not to appear, therefore, Committee of Management has adopted a very detailed proposal wherein all materials were mentioned specifically and Members of Committee of Management being adopted it after detailed consideration.

13. On basis of directions passed by this Court, matter was referred to Commission and Secretary of it has passed impugned order that outcome of inquiry was against petitioner and punishment was correctly awarded considering nature of allegations. There is no ground for this Court to disbelieve the statement of victim girls recorded during inquiry wherein they have supported their respective complaints that petitioner was indulged in explicit sexual conversation and unwarranted touch with victims.

14. Therefore, this Court does not find that within very limited scope of interference, outcome of disciplinary proceedings can be interfered and for that Court takes note of few paragraphs of Bhupinderpal Singh Gill Vs. State of Punjab and others, 2025 SCC Online SC 113 which are quoted below :-

"33."Certain generic principles governing interference with orders of punishment that are passed following inquiry proceedings have evolved over a period of time. Law is well settled that an administrative order punishing a delinquent employee is not ordinarily subject to correction in judicial review because the disciplinary authority is the sole judge of facts. If there is some legal evidence on which the findings can be based, then adequacy or even reliability of that evidence is not a matter for canvassing before the high court in a writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution. However, should on consideration of the materials on record, the court be satisfied that there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice,"or"that the inquiry proceedings have been conducted contrary to statutory regulations prescribing the mode of such inquiry,"or"that the ultimate decision of the disciplinary authority is vitiated by considerations extraneous to the evidence and merits of the case,"or"that the conclusion of the disciplinary authority is"ex facie"arbitrary or capricious, so much so that no reasonable person could have arrived at such conclusion,"or"there is any other ground very similar to the above, the high court may in the exercise of its discretion interfere to set things right. After all, public servants to whom Article 311 of the Constitution apply do enjoy certain procedural safeguards, enforcement of which by the high court can legitimately be urged by such servants depending upon the extent of breach that is manifestly demonstrated.

34.It would further be of immense profit, at this stage, to consider a specific principle which is tailored to the particular situation and could clinch the issue. The Constitution Bench of this Court, speaking through Hon'ble P.B. Gajendragadkar, J., in"Union of India"v."H.C. Goel8"laid down a specific test which could be applied if a contention were raised that the conclusion is based on no evidence. Relevant passages from the said decision evincing one of the two questions arising for decision and the answer thereto, read as follows:

"1. Two short questions of law arise for our decision in the present appeal. The first question is " ; and the other question is whether the High Court in dealing with a writ petition filed by a Government Officer who has been dismissed from Government service is entitled to hold that the conclusion reached by the Government in regard to his misconduct if (sic, is) not supported by any evidence at all. As our judgment will show, we are inclined to answer both the questions in the affirmative. Thus, the appellant, the Union of India, succeeds on the first point, but fails on the second. "

20. ...It still remains to be considered whether the respondent is not right when he contends that in the circumstances of this case, the conclusion of the Government is based on no evidence whatever. It is a conclusion which is perverse and, therefore, suffers from such an obvious and patent error on the face of the record that the High Court would be justified in quashing it. In dealing with writ petitions filed by public servants who have been dismissed, or otherwise dealt with so as to attract Article 311(2),the High Court under Article 226 has jurisdiction to enquire whether the conclusion of the Government on which the impugned order of dismissal rests is not supported by any evidence at all.It is true that the order of dismissal which may be passed against a Government servant found guilty of misconduct, can be described as an administrative order; nevertheless, the proceedings held against such a public servant under the statutory rules to determine whether he is guilty of the charges framed against him are in the nature of quasi-judicial proceedings and there can be little doubt that a writ of certiorari, for instance, can be claimed by a public servant if he is able to satisfy the High Court that the ultimate conclusion of the Government in the said proceedings, which is the basis of his dismissal, is based on no evidence...

23. .. In exercising its jurisdiction under Article 226 on such a plea, the High Court cannot consider the question about the sufficiency or adequacy of evidence in support of a particular conclusion. That is a matter which is within the competence of the authority which deals with the question;but the High Court can and must enquire whether there is any evidence at all in support of the impugned conclusion. In other words, if the whole of the evidence led in the enquiry is accepted as true, does the conclusion follow that the charge in question is proved against the respondent This approach will avoid weighing the evidence. It will take the evidence as it stands and only examine whether on that evidence illegally (sic, legally) the impugned conclusion follows or not.""

26. " Though we fully appreciate the anxiety of the appellant to root out corruption from public service, we cannot ignore the fact that in carrying out the said purpose,mere suspicion should not be allowed to take the place of proof even in domestic enquiries.It may be that the technical rules which govern criminal trials in courts may not necessarily apply to disciplinary proceedings, but nevertheless, the principle that in punishing the guilty scrupulous care must be taken to see that the innocent are not punished, applies as much to regular criminal trials as to disciplinary enquires held under the statutory rules."

35.It also needs to be emphasised that although the traditional concept of natural justice comprises of the two rules that prohibit anyone from being condemned unheard and anyone from being a judge of his own cause, jurisprudence on natural justice principles have seen a distinct shift ever since the decision in"Maneka Gandhi"v."India9"constitutionalised principles of natural justice, as held in"Madhayamam Broadcasting Ltd."v."Union of India10. Drawing inspiration from such authorities, it would be apt to observe that in relation to disciplinary proceedings, subject to just exceptions, natural justice would envisage observance of procedural fairness before holding a public servant guilty of misconduct and imposing a punishment on him for such misconduct. While it is true that principles of natural justice supplement, and not supplant, the law, such principles have been declared by this Court to be a constituent feature of Article 14. Validity of any disciplinary action, whenever questioned, has to be tested on the touchstone of Articles 14, 16 and 21 as well as Article 311(2), wherever applicable. To test whether interference is warranted, this Court has laid down that the scrutiny ought to be confined to finding out whether the disciplinary proceedings have been conducted fairly; if not, an inference can be drawn that this has caused prejudice to the charged employee. Be that as it may, there can be no gainsaying that the consequences of violation of a fair procedure, which principles of natural justice embody, in a given situation has to be considered on a case-by-case basis bearing in mind that judicial review is not intended to be an appeal in disguise."

15. Now, Court proceeds to consider whether on basis of subsequent acquittal in criminal trial, impugned order can be set aside.

16. The first thing is whether acquittal is an honourable acquittal or not. As mentioned in earlier paragraphs, despite victims have made categorical statement before trial Court and supported the prosecution case, still only on a ground that there was an enmity between petitioner and Manager of concerned Committee of Management, the cogent statement of victim was disbelieved and order of acquittal was granted, therefore, it is not a case of honourable acquittal and for reference, relevant part of judgments passed by Supreme Court in Deputy Inspector General of Police and another Vs. S.Samuthiram, 2013 (1) SCC 598 as well as State of Rajasthan and Ors. Vs. Love Kush Meena, 2021 SCC Online SC 252 are quoted below :-

DIGP vs. S. Samuthiram

"24. The meaning of the expression "honourable acquittal' came up for consideration before this Court in RBI Vs. Bhopal Singh Panchal, (1994) 1 SCC 541. In that case, this Court has considered the impact of Regulation 46(4) dealing with honourable acquittal by a criminal court on the disciplinary proceedings. In that context, this Court held that the mere acquittal does not entitle an employee to reinstatement in service, the acquittal, it was held, has to be honourable. The expressions "honourable acquittal', "acquitted of blame', "fully exonerated' are unknown to the Code of Criminal Procedure or the Penal Code, which are coined by judicial pronouncements. It is difficult to define precisely what is meant by the expression "honourably acquitted'. When the accused is acquitted after full consideration of prosecution evidence and that the prosecution had miserably failed to prove the charges levelled against the accused, it can possibly be said that the accused was honourably acquitted." (Emphasis added)"

State of Rajasthan vs. Love Kush Meena

"15. It is pointed out that various nuances arising in this judgment has been considering even in the subsequent judgments. In Union Territory, Chandigarh Administration & Ors. v. Pradeep Kumar & Anr., (2018) 1 SCC 797, a two Judge Bench of this Court dealt with the expression "honourable acquittal". It was opined that acquittal in a criminal case was not conclusive for suitability of the candidate concerned and it could not always be inferred from an acquittal or discharge that the person was falsely involved or has no criminal antecedents. Thus, unless it is an honourable acquittal, the candidate cannot claim the benefit of the case. No doubt, it was mentioned by relying on the earlier judgment of this Court in Inspector General of Police v. S. Samuthiram, (2013) 1 SCC 598, that while it was difficult to define precisely what is meant by the expression "honourable acquittal", an accused who is acquitted after full consideration of the prosecution evidence and prosecution has miserably failed to prove the charges levelled against the accused...."

(emphasis added)"

17. In this background, Court takes note of a judgment passed by Supreme Court in Maharana Pratap Singh vs. The State of Bihar and others, 2025 INSC 554, Ram Lal Vs. State of Rajasthan, (2024) 1 SCC 175 and Maharashtra State Road Transport Corporation vs Dilip Uttam Jayabhay, (2022) 2 SCC 696 wherein it has been held that :-

"As per the cardinal principle of law an acquittal in a criminal trial has no bearing or relevance on the disciplinary proceedings as the standard of proof in both the cases are different and the proceedings operate in different fields and with different objectives"

18. In aforesaid circumstances, Court finds that in present case, acquittal in criminal trial would have no bearing on the outcome of disciplinary proceedings and Court also finds that nature of allegations against petitioner are very serious and which have been proved on basis of statement of victims which were also remained consistent even during criminal trial. The acquittal was not a honourable acquittal.

19. Therefore, on both grounds, this writ petition has no force, hence, it is dismissed.

Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Barabanki & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether only an assertion of the fact regarding abandonment or withdrawal of the proceedings by the plaintiff/appellants, can result in the transposition of the applicants as appellants, or whether these facts must be proved to the satisfaction of the court?

Headnotes

A. Civil Procedural Law – Code of Civil Procedure: Order 1 Rule 10, Order XXIII Rule 1; U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953: Section 9-A(2), 11(1) - The basic requirement for exercise of powers u/Rule 1-A, would be to examine if the plaintiff is seeking to withdraw or to abandon his claim u/Rule 1 of Order XXIII, and the defendant seeking transposition is having an interest in the subject-matter of the suit and thereby, a substantial question to be adjudicated against the other defendant. In such a situation, the pro forma defendant is to be allowed to continue with the same suit as plaintiff, thereby averting the likelihood of his right being defeated and also obviating the unnecessary multiplicity of proceedings. (Para 20)

In the present case, it is noticed that the only ground stated in the application dated 24/06/2025 filed by the petitioners before the appellate court was that the appellants for some unknown reasons have colluded with the defendant no.2 due to which they are not diligently prosecuting the said appeal, and therefore it is necessary for the applicants to be transposed as the appellants for protection of the rights. (Para 21)

B. Transposition can have serious consequences and therefore, the courts have to be circumspect before allowing any such application. Once the application for transposition is allowed, then the defendant becomes the plaintiff, and they would have full rights as dominus litus to prosecute the case before the court in the manner they choose. (Para 24)

One essential fact that cannot be lost sight of is that the appeal against the order of the Consolidation Officer was not filed by Haripal or even by the petitioners who had purchased 1/3 share of the entire property from him. This defect and lacuna cannot be allowed to be cured by invoking provisions of order XXIII rule 1A. (Para 25)

Apart from the above, neither before the Appellate Court nor before this Court could any cogent evidence, material or even the order-sheet of proceedings have been produced, which may indicate that the appeal is not being prosecuted diligently by the appellants therein. The findings returned by the appellate court in this regard does not deserve any interference as a mere assertion of abandonment of appellate proceedings is not sufficient and it has to be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff/appellants have abandoned their claim before invoking the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 1 A. (Para 26)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties:

For Petitioner(s): Somesh Tripathi
For Respondent(s): Sri Dev Prakash Mishra, Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent no. 1 and Sri Amar Deep Yadav on behalf of respondent no. 2

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.)

1. Heard Sri Somesh Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioners as well as Sri Dev Prakash Mishra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for respondent no. 1 and Sri Amar Deep Yadav on behalf of respondent no. 2.

2. The petitioners have approached this Court being aggrieved by the order dated 14/10/2025 passed by the Settlement of Consolidation whereby he has rejected the application of the petitioners, which is formed for being transposed as appellants before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation where the appeal preferred by some of the private respondents is under consideration in accordance with the remand order passed by this Court on 29/02/2024 in Writ Petition B No. 238 of 2024.

3. The facts in brief as submitted by the petitioners are that the dispute pertains to the land situated Gata No. 314 area 0 - 8 - 17, situated at Village Aseni, Paragana Dewa Tehsil, Nawabganj district, Barabanki, which was initially recorded in the name of Ghasite. Ghasite had 4 sons, namely Haripal, Bihari, Kailas and Mangal. Bihari died during the lifetime of Ghasitay. After the death of Ghasitay, the 3 surviving sons got their names mutated in the revenue records, showing 1/3 share each.

4. During the Consolidation proceedings, Ragghu, the son of Bihari, filed objections under section 9(A)1 of the U.P Consolidation of Holding Act, 1953 claiming 1/4th share in the property, and accordingly, by means of an order dated 11/08/1999 his objection was allowed, and the shares of the co-sharers were decided as one-fourth each.

5. Haripal filed an application before the Consolidation Officer for recalling the order dated 11/08/1999 on 24/04/2001. During the proceedings, Haripal sold 1/3rd share of the property to the petitioners, and on 09/05/2003, the case was restored to its original number, and subsequently dismissed for non-presence of the parties on 04/11/2011.

6. Against the order dated 04/11/2011, only Kailash and Mangal filed an appeal under section 11 (1) of the Act of 1953, which was registered as case No. 524/2015 (Kailash and others vs Ragghu). According to Ragghu, the disputed land was his ancestral land where his father Bihari had a 1/4 share in the property, along with 3 uncles. Before the appellate authority petitioners were impleaded as opposite parties on the basis of a sale deed executed by Harpal pertaining to 1/ 3 share of the property in dispute.

7. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation (Appellate Authority) decided the appeal vide his order dated 30/08/2013 on the basis of a compromise dated 29/08/2013.

8. Ragghu being aggrieved by the order dated 30/08/2013, preferred a revision before the Deputy Director of Consolidation, challenging the compromise and stating that he was not a party to the same, and one of the parties to the compromise was a minor. The revisional authority, after due consideration of the arguments and on the basis of the material record, upheld the contention of Ragghu and set aside the order of Settlement Officer of Consolidation dated 20/08/2013 and restored the order of the Consolidation Officer dated 11/08/1999 by means of an order dated 03/02/2024.

9. Petitioners had approached this Court assailing the validity of the order dated 3.2.2024 by filing a writ petition, being Writ -B- No. 238 of 2024. This Court was of the view that the matter ought to have been remanded by the Director of Consolidation rather than affirming the order dated 11/08/1999, and consequently allowed the writ petition remanding the matter back to the appellate authority for deciding the appeal afresh on merits after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties concerned.

10. It is in the remand proceedings that the petitioners have moved an application for their transposition as appellants. In the application dated 24/06/2025 it was contended that the appellants have colluded with opposite party No.2 and therefore, they are not appearing for prosecuting the appeal and for the aforesaid reason, they prayed for being transposed as plaintiffs.

11. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation (Appellate Authority) rejected the prayer stating that there was no evidence adduced by the applicants in support of the contention that the appellants have colluded with the opposite party and it is only on the basis of apprehension that the application for transposition has been moved. It was further submitted that the applicants had an opportunity to make the said application before the High Court, but no such application was moved by them and at this stage such an application would not be entertained.

12. Lastly, it was contended that the appeal was filed by Kailash and Mangal, and in case the applicants were aggrieved by the order of the Consolidation officer they could have themselves filed the appeal, but no such appeal was filed either by the petitioners by the predecessor in interest Haripal and therefore they cannot be permitted to be transposed as appellants in the present factual circumstances and accordingly rejected the prayer by means of order dated 14/10/2025.

13. The order dated 14/10/2025 has been assailed before this Court in the present writ petition.

14. The law of procedure relating to the parties to a civil suit is essentially contained in Order I of the Code of Civil Procedure, dealing with various aspects concerning joinder, non-joinder and mis-joinder of parties. Rule 10 of Order I specifically provides for addition, deletion and substitution of parties; and the proposition for transposition of a party from one status to another, by its very nature, inheres in sub-rule (2) of Rule 10 of Order I CPC that reads as under:-

"(2) Court may strike out or add parties. - The Court may at any stage of the proceedings, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appeared to the Court to be just, order that the name of any party improperly joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, be struck out, and that the name of any person who or to have been joined, whether as plaintiff or defendant, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit be added."

15. On the other hand, the law of procedure in relation to withdrawal and adjustment of suits is contained in Order XXIII of the Code of Civil Procedure. As per Rule 1 thereof, a plaintiff may seek permission for the withdrawal of the suit or abandonment of a part of the claim. Rule 1-A thereof 1 deals with an eventuality where the plaintiff withdraws his suit or abandons his claim, but a pro forma defendant has a substantial question to be decided against the co-defendant. This Rule 1-A of Order XXIII CPC reads as under:-

"-R.1-A. When transposition of defendants as plaintiff may be permitted.- Where a suit is withdrawn or abandoned by a plaintiff under Rule 1, and a defendant applies to be transposed as a plaintiff under Rule 10 of Order 1, the Court, shall, in considering such application, have due regard to the question whether the applicant has a substantial question to be decided as against any of the other defendants.- "

16. It remains trite that the object of Rule 10 of Order I CPC is essentially to bring on record all the persons who are parties to the dispute relating to the subject matter of the suit so that the dispute may be determined in their presence and the multiplicity of proceedings could be avoided. This Court explained the principles, albeit in a different context, in the case of Anil Kumar Singh v. Shivnath Mishra: (1995) 3 SCC 147 in the following:-

"7. -.. The object of the rule is to bring on record all the persons who are parties to the dispute relating to the subject- matter so that the dispute may be determined in their presence at the same time without any protraction, inconvenience, and to avoid multiplicity of proceedings."

17. As per Rule 1-A ibid., in the eventuality of the plaintiff withdrawing the suit or abandoning his claim, a proforma defendant, who has a substantial question to be decided against the co-defendant, is entitled to seek his transposition as inserted by the Amendment Act No. 104 of 1976. The aforesaid amendment seeks to enable a defendant, who has an identical interest, from being denied his interest if he rested on the success of the plaintiff's suit and the plaintiff wanted to withdraw the suit. Before the defendant could invoke this provision, it must be shown that the plaintiff is seeking to withdraw or abandon the scheme under Rule 1 of Order XXIII, CPC. It is a condition precedent to enable a defendant to get himself transposed.

18. The principle that follows this rule is that there must be identity of interest between the plaintiff and such a defendant who wants to transpose as a plaintiff. It must be a suit where the defendant is entitled to succeed automatically on the success of the plaintiff in the suit. Such a defendant is usually called a pro forma defendant. To put it in other words, both parties are projecting the same claim against other defendants, and therefore, the success of one is the success of the other. In such cases, the law comes to the rescue of such a defendant so that the plaintiff, who has a similar right, cannot defeat the right of the defendant by colluding with other contesting defendants.plaintiff for the determination of such a question against the said co-defendant in the given suit itself.

19. The very nature of the provisions contained in Rule 1-A, ibid. leaves nothing to doubt that the powers of the Court to grant such a prayer for transposition are very wide and could be exercised for effectual and comprehensive adjudication of all the matters in controversy in the suit.

20. The basic requirement for exercise of powers under Rule 1-A, ibid. would be to examine if the plaintiff is seeking to withdraw or to abandon his claim under Rule 1 of Order XXIII, and the defendant seeking transposition is having an interest in the subject-matter of the suit and thereby, a substantial question to be adjudicated against the other defendant. In such a situation, the pro forma defendant is to be allowed to continue with the same suit as plaintiff, thereby averting the likelihood of his right being defeated and also obviating the unnecessary multiplicity of proceedings.

21. Upon consideration of the facts in the present case, it is noticed that the only ground stated in the application dated 24/06/2025 filed by the petitioners before the appellate court was that the appellants for some unknown reasons have colluded with the defendant no.2 due to which they are not diligently prosecuting the said appeal, and therefore it is necessary for the applicants to be transposed as the appellants for protection of the rights.

22. Apart from the aforesaid facts, no other fact or evidence was adduced by the petitioners in support of the contention for transposition as appellants.

23. As discussed above, certain necessary and basic facts have to be established before a person can invoke the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 1A CPC, namely, abandonment or withdrawal of the proceedings by the plaintiff/appellants. The only ground taken by them before the appellate court was with regard to collusion between the appellants and defendant no.1; the appeal is not being prosecuted diligently.

24. The question for determination is whether only an assertion of this fact can result in the transposition of the applicants as appellants, or whether these facts must be proved to the satisfaction of the court. Undoubtedly, transposition can have serious consequences and therefore, the courts have to be circumspect before allowing any such application. Once the application for transposition is allowed, then the defendant becomes the plaintiff, and they would have full rights as dominus litus to prosecute the case before the court in the manner they choose.

25. One essential fact that cannot be lost sight of is that the appeal against the order of the Consolidation Officer was not filed by Haripal or even by the petitioners who had purchased 1/3 share of the entire property from him. This defect and lacuna cannot be allowed to be cured by invoking provisions of order XXIII rule 1A.

26. Apart from the above, neither before the Appellate Court nor before this Court could any cogent evidence, material or even the order-sheet of proceedings have been produced, which may indicate that the appeal is not being prosecuted diligently by the appellants therein. The findings returned by the appellate court in this regard does not deserve any interference as a mere assertion of abandonment of appellate proceedings is not sufficient and it has to be demonstrated to the satisfaction of the court that the plaintiff/appellants have abandoned their claim before invoking the provisions of Order XXIII Rule 1 A.

27. In view of the above, the writ petition lacks merits and is accordingly dismissed.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

What would be the fate of appeal filed against a dead person who was the sole defendant and what would have been the proper course to be followed by the petitioner in such a situation, when the petitioner came to know about the death of the sole defendant after filing the appeal.

HEADNOTE

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 – Or.XXII R.4, Or.I R.10, Or.XXIII R.1(3) – Appeal filed against dead person – Nullity – Formal defect – Substitution of legal heirs – Maintainability

Held: In the present case, the sole defendant died prior to the filing of the appeal and the appeal was filed against a dead person – District Judge rejected the application for substitution on the ground of delay, whereas the application itself was not maintainable – An application for substitution of legal heirs is maintainable only when the defendant has died during the pendency of the appeal and, therefore, the application filed under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. was not maintainable at all – Since the appeal was filed against a dead person, the appeal from its inception was a nullity and, as such, an application under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C. for amendment would also not have been maintainable – Holding that the appeal stood abated was incorrect inasmuch as the appeal itself being a nullity, no question arises of its dismissal as abated – Suit/appeal against the sole defendant who died prior to filing suffers from the defect of misjoinder of necessary party and constitutes a "formal defect" – In such a scenario, the only permissible course was to move an application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C. for withdrawal of the appeal with liberty to file a fresh appeal impleading the legal heirs – Petitioner permitted to avail such remedy and the appellate court directed to consider the same on its own merits and pass an appropriate order in accordance with law – Procedure is meant only to facilitate the administration of justice and not to defeat it. CASE ARISING FROM

From the order dated 10.12.2025 passed by District Judge, Gonda in Civil Appeal No. 54 of 2024.

Advs For Petitioner: Rakesh Kumar Saini.

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 10.12.2025 passed by District Judge, Gonda in Civil Appeal No.54 of 2024, Smt. Johra Begam @ Johra Khatoon vs. Ishhaq Ali, filed under Section 96 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (hereinafter referred to as "C.P.C."), whereby the substitution application filed by the petitioner under Order XXII Rule 4 of C.P.C. along with the application for condonation of delay was rejected and the appeal was also dismissed, holding it to be abated due to the death of the sole respondent.

3. The facts relevant for the purpose of disposal of the present petition are that the petitioner, on the death of her father, Late Jumai, on 08.04.2008, came into possession of the land in question being the successor and the relevant entries in the revenue records were entered, bringing on record the petitioner as tenure holder of the agricultural land and the other properties.

4. It has been submitted by the counsel for the petitioner that the mother of the petitioner also died on 08.03.2008, one month prior to the death of her father. However, one Ishhaq Ali, having no succession right over the property in question, on the basis of a fraudulent will deed, claimed titled right of the agricultural land mentioned in the will deed. The petitioner, on coming to know of the fraudulent will deed dated 20.01.2006, filed suit for cancellation of the will deed along with relief for permanent injunction before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Gonda on 26.05.2008. The suit was decreed ex parte vide judgment and order dated 18.07.2011, and the will deed dated 26.05.2008 was cancelled. Against the order dated 18.07.2011, Ishhaq Ali filed an application for restoration on 23.08.2011, which was allowed vide order dated 13.03.2014, and the ex parte judgment and order dated 23.08.2011 was recalled. Ultimately, the suit filed by the petitioner was dismissed vide exparte judgment and order dated 22.11.2024. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner filed Civil Appeal No.54 of 2024 on 18.12.2024, impleading Ishhaq Ali as the sole respondent in the appeal.

5. It is the case of the petitioner that she was not aware of the fact that Ishhaq Ali by that time had died on 10.07.2023, and in ignorance, she filed the appeal against the dead person. However, when she came to know about the death of Late Ishhaq Ali, she filed an application for substitution along with an application for condonation of delay under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. for impleading the legal heirs of the deceased, Ishhaq Ali. It seems that notices were issued on the application for substitution and for condonation of delay and the legal heirs of the deceased Ishhaq Ali filed objections to both the applications. The Court, after taking into consideration the objections, rejected the application for condonation of delay, consequentially rejecting the substitution application vide impugned judgment and order dated 10.12.2025 and closed the proceedings of the appeal holding it to be abated.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that the Court of District Judge, Gonda, has wrongly rejected the application for condonation of delay in filing the substitution application, in as much as the petitioner was not aware of the death of Late Ishhaq Ali at the time of filing of the appeal and as soon as the petitioner, coming to know of the death of Ishhaq Ali, immediately filed an application for substitution along with application for condonation of delay. The appellate Court, without appreciating reasons assigned in the application for condonation of delay and substitution application, rejected both applications, which is per se illegal.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner as well as learned counsel for the State, the issue that falls for consideration is what would be the fate of appeal filed against a dead person who was the sole defendant. The petitioner filed an application for substitution of legal heirs of the defendant under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. which reads as under :-

4. Procedure in case of death of one of several defendants or of sole defendant.

(1) Where one of two or more defendants dies and the right to sue does not survive against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, or a sole defendant or sole surviving defendant dies and the right to sue survives, the Court, on an application made in that behalf, shall cause the legal representative of the deceased defendant to be made a party and shall proceed with the suit.

(2) Any person so made a party may make any defence appropriate to his character as legal representative of the deceased defendant.

(3) Where within the time limited by law no application is made under sub-rule (1), the suit shall abate as against the deceased defendant.

(4) The Court whenever it thinks fit, may exempt the plaintiff from the necessity of substituting the legal representatives of any such defendant who has failed to file a written statement or who, having filed it, has failed to appear and contest the suit at the hearing; and judgment may, in such case, be pronounced against the said defendant not withstanding the death of such defendant and shall have the same force and effect as if it has been pronounced before death took place.

(5) Where-

(a) the plaintiff was ignorant of the death of a defendant, and could not, for that reason, make an application for the substitution of the legal representative of the defendant under this rule within the period specified in the Limitation Act, 1963 (36 of 1963) and the suit has, in consequence, abated, and

(b) the plaintiff applies after the expiry of the period specified therefor in the Limitation Act, 1963 (36 of 1963), for setting aside the abatement and also for the admission of that application under section 5 of that Act on the ground that he had, by reason of such ignorance, sufficient cause for not making the application within the period specified in the said Act, the Court shall, in considering the application under the said Section 5, have due regard to the fact of such ignorance, if proved.

8. A bare perusal of the aforesaid provision and its analysis indicates that an application for substitution of legal heirs is maintainable only when the defendant has died during the pendency of the appeal. In the present case, it is an admitted fact that the sole defendant died prior to the filing of the appeal, and the appeal was filed against a dead person. Thus, this Court is of the view that the application filed by the petitioner under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. was not maintainable at all.

9. The other issue that falls for consideration is what would have been the proper course to be followed by the petitioner in such a situation, when the petitioner came to know about the death of the sole defendant after filing the appeal. The other option could have been to file an application under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C., read with Sections 151 and 153 C.P.C., for amendment of the appeal so as to bring on record the legal heirs of the deceased defendant. However, this Court is of the view that since the appeal was filed against a dead person, the appeal, from its inception, was a nullity; as such, an application under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C. for amendment would also not have been maintainable.

10. Neither an application under Order XXII Rule 4 nor under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C. could be permitted for substitution of the legal heirs of the sole defendant who had died prior to the filing of the appeal. The reason being that there was only one defendant and he had died before the appeal was instituted, therefore, such an appeal was itself a nullity and no application for amendment of the appeal under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C., or under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C., for deleting the name of the original defendant and substituting any person in his place, can be permitted. In such a scenario, the only permissible course is to move an application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C. for withdrawal of the appeal, with liberty to file a fresh appeal impleading the legal heirs of the sole defendant.

11. This issue came up for consideration before the Bombay High Court in the case of Indana International Ltd. v. Santana Miguel Fernandes, 2007 SCC OnLine Bom 381, wherein the Court held in paragraphs 6 and 7 as under:

6. The learned trial Court has made a correct observation that the legal heirs of a sole defendant who is dead, cannot be brought on record, since the suit against a dead person itself is a nullity. In fact, it appears that to prevent this, that the plaintiff sought to withdraw the suit itself, which has been denied on the ground that the suit is a nullity.

7. Undisputedly, such a suit must be held to be a nullity and therefore not instituted at all. However, it does not follow that the fact that a suit has been filed upon payment of Court fees must be ignored. In such a case, the withdrawal that is sought by the plaintiff must be viewed as a request for withdrawal of the filing of the suit which is the physical aspect of the suit. For this purpose therefore, filing of the suit against a dead person must be treated to be a formal defect within the meaning of Order 23, Rule 1(3) since the defect is in the nature of mis-joinder and non-joinder.

12. The Punjab and Haryana High Court, while dealing with a similar issue in Naseem Hushain v. Mahender Kaur, 2015 SCC OnLine P&H 8414, held in paragraph 4 as under:

4. In the present case, petitioners while filing the suit had impleaded Virsa Singh as defendant No. 1. However, defendant No. 1 had already died on 22.12.1999, whereas, the suit was filed in the year 2008. The said fact was highlighted by defendant No. 1 at the time of filing of the written statement. Thereafter, petitioner No. 1 moved an application for bringing on record the legal representatives of deceased-Virsa Singh. However, the said application was dismissed. Since the defendant No. 1 was already dead at the time of filing of the suit, the trial Court should have permitted the petitioners to withdraw the suit with permission to file a fresh one on the same cause of action as per law.

13. The Karnataka High Court in C. Muttu v. Bharath Match Works, Sivakasi, 1963 SCC OnLine Kar 88, held that such a suit is a nullity from its inception. The Court has also held that any proceedings taken in such a suit are non est. For ready reference paragraph no.9 is quoted hereinbelow :-

9. A careful review of the decisions of the several High Courts relating to substitution of a defendant in a suit in place of the original defendant makes it clear(1) that no such substitution can be permitted in a case where there was a sole defendant, (2) where there are more defendants than one and one of them was dead when the suit was filed, the Courts have held that the legal representatives of the deceased defendant can be brought on record subject to any question of limitation that may be raised by the legal representatives of the deceased person who were brought on record as the suit had been validly presented in so far as the living defendants are concerned, and (3) where an appeal is filed against a person who was dead on the date of the presentation of the memorandum of appeal, the Courts have held that the appellant can be permitted to bring the legal representatives of the dead person on record. In other words, the Courts have held that substitution is permissible. The principle on the basis of which the Courts have taken this view is that an appeal is a continuation of the original proceedings and as the suit had been validly instituted and the defendant died subsequently, an application to bring his legal representatives under Order XXII, Rule 4 is maintainable and the legal representatives can be brought on record. But in cases where there was a sole defendant and he was dead before the suit was instituted, all the High Courts have held that such a suit is a nullity and no application for amendment of the plaint by deleting the name of the original defendant and substituting another person in his place, can be permitted. In Municipal Corporation of Karachi v. Baradiojumoo Mughal, AIR 1946 Sind 20 Thadani, J. after reviewing the decisions of the several High Courts dealing with this question, held that Where a suit is filed against a dead person, a Court has no jurisdiction to grant an application under O.I.R. 10, or under O. 22, Rr. 4 and 9 or do any other act authorised by the Civil Procedure Code, as the suit filed against a dead person, is a nullity. His Lordship further held that bona fides or mala-fides of the plaintiff are immaterial. There is no direct decision of the Supreme Court on the point. But some observations of the learned Chief Justice in Hira Lal v. KalinathAIR 1962 SC 199 lend support to our view that a suit filed against a dead person is a nullity. This is what the learned Chief Justice says:

"The only ground on which the decision of the High Court is challenged is that the suit instituted on the original side of Bombay High Court was wholly incompetent for want of territorial jurisdiction and that therefore, the award that followed on the reference between the parties and the decree of the Court, under execution, were all null and void. Strong reliance was placed upon the decision of the Privy Council in the case of Ledgard v. Bull, 13 Ind App 134 (PC). In our opinion, there is no substance in this contention. There was no inherent lack of jurisdiction in the Bombay High Court where the suit was instituted by the plaintiff-decree-holder. The plaint had been filed after obtaining the necessary leave of the High Court under Clause 12 of the Letters Patent. Whether the leave obtained had been rightly obtained or wrongly obtained is not a matter which can be agitated at the execution stage. The validity of a decree can be challenged in execution proceedings only on the ground that the Court which passed the decree was lacking in inherent jurisdiction in the sense that it could not have seisin of the case because the subject-matter was wholly foreign to its jurisdiction or "that the defendant was dead at the time the suit had been instituted or decree passed, or some such other ground which could have the effect of rendering the Court entirely lacking in jurisdiction in respect of the subject-matter of the suit or over the parties to it. But in the instant case there was no such inherent lack of jurisdiction.""

14. In the instant case, this Court finds that under ignorance, the petitioner filed the appeal against the dead person which is a "formal defect" as it is a case of misjoinder of party and in such a situation, the proper course would have been to file an application for withdrawal of appeal with permission to file fresh under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C.

15. In V. Rajendran v. Annasamy Pandian, (2017) 5 SCC 63, the issue before the Hon"ble Supreme Court was that a suit for permanent injunction had been filed in respect of the suit property. After filing of the written statement, the plaintiff came to know that the respondents, while transferring the patta in respect of the suit property (Survey No. 192/9), had transferred it as Survey No. 192/14. This fact was not in the knowledge of the plaintiff at the time of filing the suit. The plaintiff filed an application for withdrawal of the suit under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C., which was allowed by the trial court. However, in the revision before the High Court, the order of the trial court was set aside on the ground that the plaintiffs had failed to establish either a "formal defect" or sufficient grounds for withdrawal of the suit. For ready reference paragraph Nos.8 to 13 of V. Rajendran (Supra) are quoted hereinbelow :-

8. The High Court vide the impugned order held that the defect mentioned by the appellants in the application seeking withdrawal of suit, is not a "formal defect" and that the provision of withdrawal of the suit contemplated under Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC cannot be allowed to be misused by the parties. The High Court took note of the fact that the appellants participated in the trial of the suit for about a decade and when the suit was listed for framing additional issues and for examining the additional witnesses, the appellants moved abruptly an application seeking withdrawal of the suit on an inapposite ground which could have been easily addressed by way of an application under Order 6 Rule 17 CPC for amendment of pleadings and that the appellants failed to establish either a "formal defect" or "sufficient grounds" for withdrawal of the suit.

9. Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC lays down the following grounds on which a Court may allow withdrawal of suit. It reads as under:

*"1. Withdrawal of suit or abandonment of part of claim."(1)-(2) * * **

(3) Where the Court is satisfied"

(a) that a suit must fail by reason of some formal defect, or

(b) that there are sufficient grounds for allowing the plaintiff to institute a fresh suit for the subject-matter of a suit or part of a claim, it may, on such terms as it thinks fit, grant the plaintiff permission to withdraw from such suit or such part of the claim with liberty to institute a fresh suit in respect of the subject-matter of such suit or such part of the claim."

(emphasis supplied)

As per Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC, suit may only be withdrawn with permission to bring a fresh suit when the Court is satisfied that the suit must fail for reason of some formal defect or that there are other sufficient grounds for allowing the plaintiff to institute a fresh suit. The power to allow withdrawal of a suit is discretionary. In the application, the plaintiff must make out a case in terms of Order 23 Rules 1(3)(a) or (b) CPC and must ask for leave. The Court can allow the application filed under Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC for withdrawal of the suit with liberty to bring a fresh suit only if the condition in either of the clauses (a) or (b), that is, existence of a "formal defect" or "sufficient grounds". The principle under Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC is founded on public policy to prevent institution of suit again and again on the same cause of action.

10. In K.S. Bhoopathy v. Kokila [K.S. Bhoopathy v. Kokila, (2000) 5 SCC 458] , it has been held that it is the duty of the Court to be satisfied about the existence of "formal defect" or "sufficient grounds" before granting permission to withdraw the suit with liberty to file a fresh suit under the same cause of action. Though, liberty may lie with the plaintiff in a suit to withdraw the suit at any time after the institution of suit on establishing the "formal defect" or "sufficient grounds", such right cannot be considered to be so absolute as to permit or encourage abuse of process of court. The fact that the plaintiff is entitled to abandon or withdraw the suit or part of the claim by itself, is no licence to the plaintiff to claim or to do so to the detriment of legitimate right of the defendant. When an application is filed under Order 23 Rule 1(3) CPC, the Court must be satisfied about the "formal defect" or "sufficient grounds". "Formal defect" is a defect of form prescribed by the rules of procedure such as, want of notice under Section 80 CPC, improper valuation of the suit, insufficient court fee, confusion regarding identification of the suit property, misjoinder of parties, failure to disclose a cause of action, etc. "Formal defect" must be given a liberal meaning which connotes various kinds of defects not affecting the merits of the plea raised by either of the parties.

11. In terms of Order 23 Rule 1(3)(b) where the court is satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for allowing the plaintiff to institute a fresh suit, the Court may permit the plaintiff to withdraw the suit. In interpretation of the words "sufficient grounds", there are two views : one view is that these grounds in clause (b) must be "ejusdem generis" with those in clause (a), that is, it must be of the same nature as the ground in clause (a), that is, formal defect or at least analogous to them; and the other view was that the words "other sufficient grounds" in clause (b) should be read independent of the words a "formal defect" and clause (a). Court has been given a wider discretion to allow withdrawal from suit in the interest of justice in cases where such a prayer is not covered by clause (a). Since in the present case, we are only concerned with "formal defect" envisaged under clause (a) of Rule 1 sub-rule (3), we choose not to elaborate any further on the ground contemplated under clause (b), that is, "sufficient grounds".

12. In the present case, the appellants have filed the suit describing the suit property as Survey No. 192/9 but the respondents are said to have transferred the patta for the suit property settling as Survey No. 192/14. The defect in the survey number of the suit property goes to the very core of the subject-matter of the suit and the entire proceedings would be fruitless if the decree-holder is not able to get the decree executed successfully and thus, the said defect will constitute to be a "formal defect" within the meaning of Order 23 Rule 1(3)(a) CPC. That apart, the respondents are said to have executed an Inam settlement deed on 21-9-2012, in favour of their son Aranmanai Pandian, mentioning the suit property as Survey No. 192/14. We are convinced that the case of the appellants would fall under clause (a) of Rule 1(3) CPC.

13. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the trial court considered the allegation set out in the application as a ground for withdrawal. The view taken by the trial court that the suit suffered from a formal defect to allow the appellants to withdraw the suit with permission to institute a fresh suit, is correct. The High Court, in our view, was not right in interfering with the discretion exercised by the trial court, permitting the appellants to withdraw the suit with liberty to file a fresh suit. Based on the order passed by the trial court, the appellants have already filed suit before the District Munsif and the same is numbered as OS No. 11 of 2015. The High Court while passing the order on 9-3-2015 [Annasamy Pandian v. V. Rajendran, 2015 SCC OnLine Mad 261 : (2015) 2 LW 360] does not seem to have kept in view the said suit filed by the appellants. In the facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order passed by the High Court cannot be sustained.

16. From the above discussion it can be succinctly summaries that :

(a) The suit or appeal against the sole defendant, who died before filing of suit/appeal, is nullity since its inception and non est.

(b) Neither any application under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. nor under Order I Rule 10 C.P.C. is maintainable in such suit/appeal.

(c) Since the suit/appeal is nullity since its inception, hence no question of dismissal of such suit/appeal arises as being abated.

(d) The suit/appeal against the sole defendant who died prior to filing of the suit/appeal suffers from the defect of misjoinder of necessary party and is a "formal defect" and in such situation proper course is to move application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C. for withdrawal of suit/appeal with permission to file fresh suit/appeal.

17. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the view that since the Civil Appeal No.54 of 2024 filed by the petitioner against the dead person (sole defendant) was a nullity, the substitution application along with application for condonation of delay moved by the petitioner under Order XXII Rule 4 of the C.P.C. was not maintainable itself, and the proper course would have been to move an application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) of C.P.C. by the appellant/petitioner for withdrawal of the appeal with permission to file a fresh appeal impleading the legal heirs of the deceased, Late Ishhaq Ali.

18. The District Judge, Gonda vide impugned order dated 10.12.2025 has rejected the application for substitution filed under Order XXII Rule 4 C.P.C. on the ground of delay, whereas the application itself was not maintainable as indicated hereinabove and as such the order dated 10.12.2025 to that extent calls for no interference. However, this Court finds that while passing of the order dated 10.12.2025, the District Judge, Gonda has also held that the appeal itself stands abated and has been consigned to record. In this regard, it is worthwhile to mention that the provisions of Order XXII Rule 4 of the C.P.C. are attracted in cases where a party dies during the pendency of the proceedings and not in a case where the suit or appeal is a nullity from its inception, as there is no pending proceeding in which an application for substitution can be made and hence no question arises of abatement of such suit or appeal. It has consistently held that a suit/appeal filed against the dead person at the time of institution is a nullity and this principle is rooted in the fundamental legal tenet that a dead person has no legal existence and, therefore, cannot be sued or be a party to any legal proceedings.

19. Thus, the order dated 10.12.2025 passed by District Judge, Gonda in Civil Appeal No.54 of 2024, Smt. Johra Begam @ Johra Khatoon vs. Ishhaq Ali to the extent that the appeal has been abated is incorrect inasmuch as the appeal itself was a nullity since its inception and therefore, no question arises of the appeal being dismissed as abated. In fact there was a "formal defect" in the institution of the appeal as a dead person was impleaded as sole defendant, who was died prior to filing of the appeal. The appropriate remedy in such a situation was filing of an application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C. for withdrawal of the appeal, with permission to file a fresh appeal impleading the legal heirs of the deceased, Late Ishhaq Ali.

20. Thus, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case, it is provided that if the petitioner files an application under Order XXIII Rule 1(3) C.P.C. for withdrawal of the appeal, with permission to file a fresh appeal impleading the legal heirs of the deceased, Late Ishhaq Ali within a period of one month from today, the learned appellate court shall consider the same on its own merits and pass an appropriate order in accordance with law. After all, procedure is meant only to facilitate the administration of justice and not to defeat it.

21. The writ petition is disposed of. No order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a case of custodial death has been made out; and if so, whether the Writ Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India should direct payment of compensation to the family of the victim.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India – Arts.21, 226 – Custodial death – Unnatural death in custody – Suicide in jail – Compensation – Public law remedy – Strict liability of State

Held: Petitioner's minor son, an undertrial prisoner, died in judicial custody and the post mortem report indicated the cause of death as asphyxia due to ante-mortem hanging – Inquest report submitted under Section 176 CrPC concluded that the deceased committed suicide and no material indicating harassment by jail authorities was found – However, the fact remains that the death occurred in custody and was an unnatural death, attracting strict liability of the State – National Human Rights Commission, upon consideration of the material on record, recommended payment of compensation of Rs.3,00,000/- to the next of kin and the State accepted the recommendation, yet the amount was not disbursed – It was undisputed that the deceased was in the custody of the State and had committed suicide, resulting in a patently unnatural death, and therefore the State was held to be absolutely liable for the unnatural death of the deceased, as an amplified duty is cast upon the State for the death of a prisoner in custody without any exception – The State cannot shirk its duties and responsibilities for providing better facilities to prisoners – The death having occurred while in custody and control of the State authorities unmistakably established a violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, and failure to discharge this obligation attracted public law liability – The Court rejected the defence of the State by holding that the explanations offered were neither cogent nor sufficient to displace the presumption, and the onus which squarely lay upon the State to account for the circumstances leading to the death had not been satisfactorily discharged – Suicide would amount to an (internal) intentional injury and would be an unnatural death wherein the liability would squarely fall on the State – Persons who suffer an unnatural death in a prison are also victims and there is no reason to exclude their next of kin from receiving compensation only because the victim of an unnatural death is a criminal – The Court, in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, is empowered to award monetary compensation as a remedy in public law for established violations of fundamental rights, independent of and in addition to remedies available in private law – Monetary compensation, while not a complete substitute for the loss of life, could provide some measure of solace for the bereaved family and act as a deterrent against future custodial violence – The writ petition was allowed and the respondents were directed to pay compensation of Rs.10,00,000/- to the legal heirs of the deceased.

Further directions were issued that in case of custodial death: (i) the family members of the deceased must be informed immediately by the jail authorities and a panchnama with independent panchas shall be prepared forthwith in accordance with Section 174 CrPC (corresponding Section 194 BNSS); (ii) post mortem examination must be conducted promptly indicating cause of death and video recording thereof shall be mandatorily carried out; (iii) an inquest report by the Judicial Magistrate shall be submitted in accordance with Section 176 CrPC (corresponding Section 196 BNSS) after considering all material; (iv) monetary compensation must be paid to provide solace to the next of kin as per the determination of the National Human Rights Commission; and the State Government was directed to frame guidelines fixing compensation by adopting relevant parameters akin to the multiplier method based on age, income and dependants as recognised under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. CASE ARISING FROM

From custodial death in District Prison and non-payment of compensation recommended by the National Human Rights Commission.

Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Rama Kant Dixit, Uday Kumar

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.)

The present writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India wherein the petitioner has prayed for the issuance of a writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to pay just and adequate compensation to the petitioner on account of unnatural death of her minor son (Sukhvinder) on February 20, 2024 in District Prison Pilibhit. The petitioner in furtherance seeks direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to ensure action against the guilty persons, who are responsible for the unnatural death of the son of the petitioner.

FACTS

1. The factual matrix of the present writ petition is delineated below:

a. A criminal case bearing case no. 742/2016, under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of IPC and 3/4 of the POCSO Act, P.S. Puranpur, District Pilibhit was registered against the minor son of the petitioner, for which he had already undergone imprisonment for about three years and ten months and was enlarged on bail on February 12, 2022.

b. Petitioner's son was required to appear before the trial court, but due to unavoidable circumstances, he could not appear. Consequently, he was arrested by the police on February 7, 2024 in execution of a warrant and thereafter detained in jail.

c. On February 20, 2024, the petitioner was informed by the respondents that her son had died in custody. Before handing over the dead body to the family for cremation, a Panchnama and Post Mortem examination were conducted on the same day. The Panchnama indicated that the deceased had died on account of hanging by a muffler and the post mortem report disclosed the cause of death of the deceased as 'asphyxia due to antimortem hanging' with the presence of ligature mark on the neck.

d. The petitioner was informed by respondent authorities about the various financial beneficial schemes and was assured for the grant of the same vide letter dated February 22, 2024.

e. On October 5, 2024, an inquest report to inquire into the cause of death of the deceased was submitted by Judicial Magistrate in accordance with Section 176 CrPC (corresponding Section 196 BNSS), after taking into consideration the Panchnama and Post Mortem report. It was observed therein that the deceased had succumbed to suicide by hanging himself and it was further noted that no external injury of any kind was found on the body of the deceased. Additionally, it was observed that no information regarding harassment and instigation by jail authorities had been given by the jail inmates.

f. The National Human Rights Commission, after considering the panchnama, inquest report, and post mortem report furnished by the jail authorities, vide order dated October 10, 2024, directed payment of compensation of Rs. 3,00,000/- to the nearest family member of the deceased.

g. In pursuance thereof, the State issued a letter dated November 21, 2024 to the Director General of Police, Prison Administration, communicating the direction of NHRC to pay compensation to the next of kin of the deceased prisoner and submit an inquest report with regard to the same as soon as possible.

h. The petitioner moved an application dated December 6, 2024, seeking compensation on account of the unnatural death of her son.

i. Being aggrieved by the inaction on the part of the respondents in not granting compensation to the petitioner for the unnatural death of her son while in custody of District Jail, the writ petitioner has come before this Court by filing the present writ petition.

CONTENTIONS OF PETITIONER

2. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of petitioner has made the following submissions:-

a. The minor son of the petitioner was subjected to torture by the police personnel of prison due to non fulfilment of illegal money demands, including a monthly expenses of Rs. 4500/- for relief from such torture, which ultimately resulted in his unnatural death.

b. The petitioner was pressurized by the respondent authorities to perform the last ritual immediately.

c. Despite the petitioner having moved an application for compensation and notwithstanding the assurance given by the respondent authorities, no compensation has been provided to the petitioner so far.

d. By the inaction on the part of the respondents, the petitioner's fundamental rights guaranteed under Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India have been violated.

e. To buttress his aforesaid submissions, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner has relied on the following Supreme Court and High Courts judgments:-

i. Nilabati Behera v. State of Orissa reported in (1993) 2 SCC 746 [Supreme Court]

ii. Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons reported in (2017) 10 SCC 658 [Supreme Court]

iii. In Suo Motu Custodial Violence and Other Matters Relating to Prison Conditions v. State of Meghalaya reported in (2023) 5 GLT 19 [Meghalaya High Court]

iv. Rasheda Khatun v. State of Tripura in W.P.(c) no.797 of 2021 [Tripura High Court]

iv. Smt. Meena v. State of U.P. and others in Writ-C No.7217 of 2019 [Allahabad High Court]

CONTENTIONS OF RESPONDENTS

3. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondents has made the following submissions:-

a. It is submitted that the petitioner's son died by hanging himself from the ventilator of the toilet situated within the prison premises. The incident was an act of suicide and there is no material on record to suggest any negligence, misconduct or involvement on the part of the respondent-authorities in causing death of the deceased.

b. It is further submitted that the State Government, upon consideration of the recommendation made by the National Human Rights Commission, has accorded approval for payment of compensation amounting to ₹3,00,000/- to the nearest family member of the deceased.

c. It is submitted that the compensation could not be disbursed immediately as the process of verification and identification of the rightful next of kin of the deceased is presently underway. Upon completion of the said identification process and receipt of the requisite budgetary allocation from the Government, the approved compensation shall be released in accordance with law.

d. It is also submitted that after conducting an inquiry, an inquest report was submitted by the Judicial Magistrate, wherein the cause of death of the deceased was opined to be ante-mortem hanging, and no material was found to indicate any external injury or custodial violence.

ISSUE

Whether a case of custodial death has been made out? If yes, then whether the Writ Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India should direct compensation to be paid to the family of the victim?

4. I have given my thoughtful consideration to the submissions canvassed by the learned counsel for the parties and have also perused the materials placed on record.

5. Custodial death depicts one of the most serious challenges to the protection of fundamental rights within the Indian Justice System. The right to life and human dignity guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India is an intrinsic, inviolable and omnipresent right which is extended even to an individual who is illegally arrested and detained by the State. The Constitution of India does not vouchsafe the suspension of fundamental rights merely because a person is in custody. On the contrary, the Constitutional jurisprudence casts the onus upon the State for the death of such nature, therefore raises presumption on the State and demands strict Constitutional scrutiny [see State of Andhra Pradesh v. Challa Ramakrishna Reddy and others reported in (2000) 5 SCC 712].

6. The phenomena of custodial death exposes the dichotomic tussle between the coercive powers of the State and the Constitutional mandate to protect individual liberty. Law enforcement agencies being vested with the wide powers of arrest, detention and investigation to maintain public order and ensure effective administration of justice are attenuated by constitutional limitations designed to prevent abuse and arbitrariness. Custodial death can result from torture, coercion, neglect, abuse of power by law-enforcement authorities [see D.K. Basu v. State of West Bengal reported in (1997) 1 SCC 416].

7. It is flabbergasting to note that there is no express mandate in our Indian Constitution for the grant of compensation for unlawful detention or custodial death. India has ratified to the International Covenant in Civil and Political Rights, 1966 wherein Article 9(5) states that 'Anyone who has been the victim of unlawful arrest or detention shall have an enforceable right to compensation'. In consistence with the above ratification, India owes its obligation to the international community. Furthermore, the Law Commission of India, in its 273rd report on implementation of United Nations Convention Against Torture, has observed custodial violence marked by weak accountability, lack of transparency and institutional protection of errant officials.

8. If the death in custody occurs naturally then State can not be faulted with, but if the death is caused unnaturally then State is absolutely liable for its act/omission which resulted in death of an individual. The International Committee of Red Cross (ICRC) has also issued guidelines on investigating deaths in custody, wherein a clear distinction between natural and unnatural death has been carved. According to ICRC, death is the irreversible cessation of all vital functions including brain activity. It is natural when it is caused solely by disease and/or aging process. It is unnatural when the causes are external such as intentional injury, negligence or unintentional injury (death by accident).

9. The Tripura High Court in the decision of Rasheda Khatun (Supra), directed the State to pay compensation for custodial death, relying upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in D.K. Basu (Supra) wherein it was observed that the purpose of compensation is to ameliorate the wound of the kin of the deceased and not to act as a deterrent for the transgressor. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are delineated below:-

" 17. For determination of the quantum of compensation we may profitably refer to the decision of the Apex Court in the case of D.K. Basu v. State of W.B: reported in (1997) 1 SCC 416 wherein the Apex Court has held that the objective of such monetary compensation is to apply balm to the wounds and not to punish the transgressor or the offender, as awarding appropriate punishment for the offence must be left to the criminal courts in which the offender is prosecuted. Observation made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in paragraph-54 of the judgment is as under:

"54. Thus, to sum up, it is now a well accepted proposition in most of the jurisdictions, that monetary or pecuniary compensation is an appropriate and indeed an effective and sometimes perhaps the only suitable remedy for redressal of the established infringement of the fundamental right to life of a citizen by the public servants and the State is vicariously liable for their acts. The claim of the citizen is based on the principle of strict liability to which the defence of sovereign immunity is not available and the citizen must receive the amount of compensation from the State, which shall have the right to be indemnified by the wrongdoer. In the assessment of compensation, the emphasis has to be on the compensatory and not on punitive element. The objective is to apply balm to the wounds and not to punish the transgressor or the offender, as awarding appropriate punishment for the offence (irrespective of compensation) must be left to the criminal courts in which the offender is prosecuted, which the State, in law, is duty bound to do. That award of compensation in the public law jurisdiction is also without prejudice to any other action like civil suit for damages which is lawfully available to the victim or the heirs of the deceased victim with respect to the same matter for the tortious act committed by the functionaries of the State. The quantum of compensation will, of course, depend upon the peculiar facts of each case and no strait-jacket formula can be evolved in that behalf. The relief to redress the wrong for the established invasion of the fundamental rights of the citizen, under the public law jurisdiction is, thus, in addition to the traditional remedies and not in derogation of them. The amount of compensation as awarded by the Court and paid by the State to redress the wrong done, may in a given case, be adjusted against any amount which may be awarded to the claimant by way of damages in a civil suit."

18. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case and the law laid down by the Apex Court in the Judgment cited to (supra) we direct the state respondents to pay a sum of Rs. 10,00,000/- (rupees ten lakhs) as compensation to the petitioners for the custodial death of Jamal Hossain by depositing the said amount with the Registry of this Court within a period of four weeks from today. The petitioners who are the widow, children and mother of the deceased shall be entitled to equal share of the said amount of compensation. On deposit of the compensation, Registry shall disburse the share of the mother and wife of the deceased by transferring the same to their individual bank account. The share of the children shall be invested in term deposits in their names in any nationalised bank until they attain majority and the monthly interest generated from those deposits shall be transferred to the account of their mother for their educational and other expenses.'

10. In Suo Motu Custodial Violence and Other Matters Relating to Prison Conditions (Supra), the High Court of Meghalaya at Shillong has held that there is no room to apply the strict liability theory when it comes to a death of a person in custody of the State. The State's liability in such regard is absolute unless it demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Court that the death was due to natural causes. The Court would reasonably infer otherwise and hold the State liable. Furthermore, it was inter alia observed to quantify compensation as per the age of deceased. The relevant paragraphs of which are quoted herein below:-

"24. A death in custody is a slur on a civilised State and completely unacceptable. Ideally, there should be no death, except due to natural causes, while in custody. Of course, the natural causes are beyond the control of the State and convicts serving long sentences may also have age-related problems which may lead to their death. But it is particularly distressing to note the number of deaths of under-trial prisoners as the investigating agency uses third-degree methods to get information from the arrested person rather than go out in the field and investigate the matter. Oftentimes, the excesses indulged in by the State through its police personnel result in admissions, which may be inaccurate, but which are made to stave off or delay the further torture. If police brutalities and inhuman treatment of persons in custody have to be arrested, the compensation for custodial death has to be pegged at a level where the State will bleed to make the payment; not what the State is happy to pay off.

25. At any rate, there is no room to apply the strict liability theory when it comes to a death of a person in the custody of the State. The State's liability in such regard is absolute and unless it demonstrates to the satisfaction of the Court that the death was due to natural causes, the Court may reasonably infer otherwise and hold the State liable. The State ought also to be liable for the actions of its officers and employees. It is possible that in several cases exuberant officials would go beyond the call of duty or the SOP in place. In such cases, the State will remain liable for the acts and conduct of its officials, but the State will also be free to proceed against such officials and even extract the compensation that it has to pay from such officials in accordance with law. Though the classification indicated in the Haryana notification and as has been mindlessly adopted by the State appears to be abhorrent and obnoxious, there should be some other form of classification based on a precedent therefor in our jurisprudence. In respect of motor accident claims, there is a classification of the quantum of compensation payable based on the age of the victim. Accordingly, it is deemed fit and proper to classify the victims who have died in custody into three categories, namely, below 30; between 30 and 45; and, above 45.

26. Since the judgment of this Court in Smti. Meena S. Marak has already established the quantum, the sum of Rs. 15 lakh may be taken as the compensation payable for death in custody to the next of kin of a person age below 30. For victims in the age-group of 30 to 45, the quantum of compensation should be Rs. 12 lakh and for those above 45 years, it should be Rs. 10 lakh. There is an element of subjectivity in arriving at such ballpark figures; however, when it comes to assessment of damages or quantification of compensation, there is an element of guesstimation that is always indulged in.'

11. Dealing with the first issue, it is pertinent to examine the panchnama prepared in accordance with Section 174 CrPC (corresponding Section 194 BNSS), which was conducted in the presence of Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Circle Officer, Inspector and jail authorities on the date of death itself at prison. It was recorded in the panchnama that the deceased had committed suicide by hanging himself from the ventilator of toilet using a muffler.

12. Moreover, the post mortem report indicates the presence of ligature mark around the neck and a superficial abrasion on the anterior aspect of mid of left lower leg. Furthemore, the inquest report prepared in accordance with Section 176 CrPC (corresponding Section 196 BNSS) has also been submitted, wherein after considering the statements of all the witnesses, it was concluded that the deceased had committed suicide. As per the statements of doctor who conducted post mortem examination on the body of the deceased, the injuries found on the body were minor in nature which were not sufficient enough to have resulted in death of the deceased.

13. It is undisputed that the deceased was in the custody of the State and had committed suicide. There may have been circumstances surrounding him which drove him to take such an extreme step, resulting in a patently unnatural death. Ergo, the State is absolutely liable for the unnatural death of the deceased, as an amplified duty is cast upon the State for the death of a prisoner in custody of police without any exception. No State can shirk its duties and responsibilities for providing better facilities to prisoners. Accordingly the case of custodial death is made out in the present case.

14. Now adverting to the issue with regard to grant of compensation by the Writ Court, we may refer to a judgment of the Supreme Court rendered in Rudul Sah v. State of Bihar reported in (1983) 4 SCC 141. While dealing with a case of illegal detention even after an acquittal in a trial, the Court has categorically held that the kin of the deceased was entitled to compensation for the illegal detention and rejected the stale and sterile objection of the State that the compensation can be recovered by filing a suit for damages. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are delineated below:

"9. It is true that Article 32 cannot be used as a substitute for the enforcement of rights and obligations which can be enforced efficaciously through the ordinary processes of courts, civil and criminal. A money claim has therefore to be agitated in and adjudicated upon in a suit instituted in a Court of lowest grade competent to try it. But the important question for our consideration is whether in the exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 32, this Court can pass an order for the payment of money if such an order is in the nature of compensation consequential upon the deprivation of a fundamental right. The instant case is illustrative of such cases. The petitioner was detained illegally in the prison for over 14 years after his acquittal in a full-dressed trial. He filed a habeas corpus petition in this Court for his release from illegal detention. He obtained that relief, our finding being that his detention in the prison after his acquittal was wholly unjustified. He contends that he is entitled to be compensated for his illegal detention and that we ought to pass an appropriate order for the payment of compensation in this habeas corpus petition itself.

10. We cannot resist this argument. We see no effective answer to it save the stale and sterile objection that the petitioner may, if so advised, file a suit to recover damages from the State Government. Happily, the State's counsel has not raised that objection. The petitioner could have been relegated to the ordinary remedy of a suit if his claim to compensation was factually controversial, in the sense that a civil court may or may not have upheld his claim. But we have no doubt that if the petitioner files a suit to recover damages for his illegal detention, a decree for damages would have to be passed in that suit, though it is not possible to predicate, in the absence of evidence, the precise amount which would be decreed in his favour. In these circumstances, the refusal of this Court to pass an order of compensation in favour of the petitioner will be doing mere lip-service to his fundamental right to liberty which the State Government has so grossly violated. Article 21 which guarantees the right to life and liberty will be denuded of its significant content if the power of this Court were limited to passing orders of release from illegal detention. One of the telling ways in which the violation of that right can reasonably be prevented and due compliance with the mandate of Article 21 secured, is to mulct its violators in the payment of monetary compensation. Administrative sclerosis leading to flagrant infringements of fundamental rights cannot be corrected by any other method open to the judiciary to adopt. The right to compensation is some palliative for the unlawful acts of instrumentalities which act in the name of public interest and which present for their protection the powers of the State as a shield. If civilisation is not to perish in this country as it has perished in some others too well known to suffer mention, it is necessary to educate ourselves into accepting that, respect for the rights of individuals is the true bastion of democracy. Therefore, the State must repair the damage done by its officers to the petitioner's rights. It may have recourse against those officers.'

15. Moreover, in Nilabati Behera (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme has recognised compensation for custodial deaths as public law remedy and held that in cases of violation of fundamental right by state's instrumentalities or servants, Writ Court can direct the State to pay compensation to the victim or his/her legal heir(s) by way of monetary amends. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted herein below:-

"23.'The question now, is of the quantum of compensation. The deceased Suman Behera was aged about 22 years and had a monthly income between Rs 1200 to Rs 1500. This is the finding based on evidence recorded by the District Judge, and there is no reason to doubt its correctness. In our opinion, a total amount of Rs 1,50,000 would be appropriate as compensation, to be awarded to the petitioner in the present case. We may, however, observe that the award of compensation in this proceeding would be taken into account for adjustment, in the event of any other proceeding taken by the petitioner for recovery of compensation on the same ground, so that the amount to this extent is not recovered by the petitioner twice over. Apart from the fact that such an order is just, it is also in consonance with the statutory recognition of this principle of adjustment provided in Section 357(5) CrPC and Section 141(3) of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

24. Accordingly, we direct the respondent State of Orissa to pay the sum of Rs 1,50,000 to the petitioner and a further sum of Rs 10,000 as costs to be paid to the Supreme Court Legal Aid Committee. The mode of payment of Rs 1,50,000 to the petitioner would be, by making a term deposit of that amount in a scheduled bank in the petitioner's name for a period of three years, during which she would receive only the interest payable thereon, the principal amount being payable to her on expiry of the term. The Collector of the District will take the necessary steps in this behalf, and report compliance to the Registrar (Judicial) of this Court within three months.'

16. In Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has extensively and in great detail dealt with the issue of custodial death and held as under:-

"9. On the issue of defining natural and unnatural deaths, the learned Amicus Curiae drew our attention to the Guidelines on Investigating Deaths in Custody issued by the International Committee of the Red Cross (ICRC). According to ICRC, 'death' is the irreversible cessation of all vital functions, including brain activity. Death is 'natural' when it is caused solely by disease and/or the aging process. It is 'unnatural' when its causes are external, such as intentional injury (homicide, suicide), negligence or unintentional injury (death by accident). We have perused the guidelines provided by ICRC and are of the view that these guidelines deserve consideration and circulation by the Central Government and all the State Governments.

NHRC and suicide prevention

10.It has been pointed out by the learned Amicus Curiae that a disproportionately large number of unnatural deaths are attributable to suicides. In this regard, it has been brought to our notice by the learned Amicus Curiae that in relation to suicides in prisons, the National Human Rights Commission or NHRC has published a monograph sometime in December 2014 entitled 'Suicide in Prison ' Prevention Strategy and Implication from Human Rights and Legal Points of View'. This monograph records that during the period 2007-2011, deaths in prisons on account of suicide formed 71% of the total number of unnatural deaths. It was also pointed out that the average suicide rate among the general public for this period is 11 (per 100,000) whereas the average suicide rate in prison is 16.9 (per 100,000). In other words, the average suicide rate in prisons is over 50% more than in normal conditions. The monograph refers to certain communications issued by NHRC from time to time on the aspect of custodial deaths, but we will refer to them in somewhat greater detail a little later.

12.'Detailing the characteristics of a prison environment that make suicides in prisons more likely, NHRC monograph mentions the following:

1. Authoritarian environment

2. No apparent control over the future

3. Isolation from family, friends and community

4. The shame of incarceration

5. Dehumanising aspects of incarceration

6. Fears

7. Staff insensitivity to the arrest and incarceration phenomenon

8. Hostility and bullying by other inmates

9. Lack of adequate medical and psychological counselling and treatment facility

10. Delay in deciding the parole.

14.NHRC has suggested various protective factors or measures that could be employed to reduce the number of suicides in prisons. Among them are visits and contact that the prisoner could have with the family, constructive occupation in prison, instilling hopes and plans for the future and support from staff.

15.NHRC also conducted a National Seminar on Prison Reforms on 15-4-2011. The recommendations made in the National Seminar have also been indicated in the monograph as also some actionable points for suicide prevention programmes. In its conclusion, NHRC has recorded that the success of efforts to prevent suicides in prisons depends on the ability and willingness to identify the vulnerability of each prisoner, provide necessary supervision and support and offer alternative ways of coping and reducing emotional distress. It is noted that any proposed piecemeal solution to the problem of suicides in prisons will not result in any long-term improvement.

16.What we have mentioned above is only a brief indication of the extent to which NHRC has put in an effort to bring about a composite monograph and a detailed study on suicides in prisons. In our view, this would certainly be useful to prison officials and staff in reducing, if not eliminating suicides in prisons. The monograph prepared by NHRC, in our opinion, deserves to be freely distributed amongst the staff and prisons all over the country since it is a document of immense utility insofar as suicide prevention in prisons is concerned.

38.The need for an inquiry into every death in custody was also emphasised by the learned Amicus Curiae, who submitted that there was discrepancy of data between deaths reported in prisons as per NCRB and deaths reported in prisons as derived from the data available with NHRC. It was submitted by the learned Amicus Curiae that this discrepancy needs to be reconciled and adequate reasons must be provided for every death that takes place in a prison.

48.In addition to the above decisions and several others rendered by this Court, almost every High Court in the country has, at one time or another, also granted compensation for the unnatural death of a person in custody, whether an undertrial or a convict. A few such illustrations may be noted:

The need to compensate

54.'The case law indicates that over the last several decades this Court and almost every High Court has relied on Article 21 of the Constitution and thought it appropriate to compensate the next of kin for an unnatural custodial death. The constitutional courts can go on delivering judgment after judgment on this issue and award compensation, but unless the State realises that custodial death is itself a crime and monetary compensation is not necessarily the only appropriate relief that can be granted to the next of kin of the deceased, such unnatural deaths will continue unabated. Therefore, what is needed is a review of all prisons with a humanitarian nuance.

55.'Over the last several years, there have been discussions on the rights of victims and one of the rights of a victim of crime is to obtain compensation. Schemes for victim compensation have been framed by almost every State and that is a wholesome development. But it is important for the Central Government and the State Governments to realise that persons who suffer an unnatural death in a prison are also victims'sometimes of a crime and sometimes of negligence and apathy or both. There is no reason at all to exclude their next of kin from receiving compensation only because the victim of an unnatural death is a criminal. Human rights are not dependent on the status of a person but are universal in nature. Once the issue is looked at from this perspective, it will be appreciated that merely because a person is accused of a crime or is the perpetrator of a crime and in prison custody, that person could nevertheless be a victim of an unnatural death. Hence, the need to compensate the next of kin.'

CONCLUSION

17. In view of the foregoing analysis, this Court finds that the death of the deceased occurred while in custody and control of the State authorities, and that the material placed on record unmistakably establishes a violation of the fundamental rights guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Custodial torture is a naked violation of human dignity and degradation that destroys self-esteem and being of the victim to the absolute core. Custodial torture is a calculated assault on human dignity and whenever human dignity is wounded, civilisation takes a step backwards. Despite recommendations for banishing torture from the investigative system, growing incidence of torture and deaths in police custody and prisons continue to persist. Custodial violence and deaths strike the very core of the rule of law and are an affront to human dignity. The State, being the custodian of life and liberty of persons in its custody, bears a strict and non-delegable duty to ensure their safety. Failure to discharge this obligation attracts public law liability.

18. The explanations offered by the respondents is neither cogent nor sufficient to displace the presumption of the death of the petitioner's son eventuated in prision. Accordingly, the onus which squarely lay upon the State to account for the circumstances leading to the death, has not been satisfactorily discharged. The contention of the State that the death was due to suicide and was not an unnatural death does not hold water as has been categorically demonstrated by the judgments as discussed above. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Re-Inhuman Conditions in 1382 Prisons (Supra) has categorically held that a suicide would amount to an (internal) intentional injury and would be an unnatural death wherein the liability would squarely fall on the State. In light of the same, one may patently come to a conclusion that the facts of the present case disclose a clear infringement of constitutional protections, warranting intervention under Article 226 of the Constitution.

19. It is well settled, inter alia, in Nilabati Behera (Supra) and D.K. Basu (Supra) that this Court, in exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, is empowered to award monetary compensation as a remedy in public law for established violations of fundamental rights, independent of and in addition to remedies available in private law. Monetary compensation, while not a complete substitute for the loss of life, could provide some measure of solace for the bereaved family and act as a deterrent against future custodial violence.

20. With regard to the issue of the amount of compensation to be paid to the victim, in the judgment of Meghalaya High Court in Suo Motu Custodial Violence (Supra), a categorization was made with regard to the quantum to be paid creating three categories- (a). sum of Rs.15 lacs for a person below the age of 30 years; (b). between the age group of 30 to 45 years quantum of Rs.12 lacs and (c). for those above 45 the quantum to be Rs.10 lacs. However, it appears that this judgment has been stayed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in The State of Meghalaya Vs. Killing Jana and others in SLP(C) Diary No.47683/2023 vide order dated January 22, 2024 especially with regard to the categories created by the High Court for award of different compensations based on the age of the victim. In light of the same, one cannot apply the said judgment as an authoritative precedent for taking a decision on the quantum of compensation. In recent years, as illustrated in the judgments cited above, the High Courts and the Hon'ble Supreme Court have awarded a sum of Rs.10 lacs for custodial deaths.

21. Upon sifting through the ratios laid down in the aforesaid judgments, the following steps must be taken as a preliminary step in case of custodial death:

A. The family members of the deceased must be informed immediately by the jail authoritiees about the death of the deceased. A panchnama with independent panchas shall be prepared immediately on the spot in accordance with Section 174 CrPC (corresponding Section 194 BNSS) without any delay.

B. A post mortem examination must be conducted promptly mentioning the cause of death without any delay. The video recording of the post mortem examination in case of custodial death of the deceased must be mandatorily carried out.

C. An inquest report by the judicial magistrate concerned must be submitted in accordance with Section 176 CrPC (corresponding Section 196 BNSS) immediately after considering all the witnesses, post mortem report and panchnama.

D. The monetary compensation in order to provide solace to the next of kin of the deceased in custody must be paid as fixed by National Human Rights Commission after considering the peculiar facts and circumstances of the individual custodial death case.

22. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. Consequently, the respondents are directed to pay compensation of Rs.10,00,000 (Rs Ten Lacs Only) to the legal heirs of the deceased within a period of three weeks from date.

23. This compensation shall be without prejudice to the right of the petitioners to pursue appropriate civil or criminal proceedings against the officials concerned. The State Government is further directed to frame guidelines fixing compensation by adopting relevant and cogent parameters in awarding compensation in custodial death cases akin to the multiplier method based on age, income and dependants as available under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988.

24. The writ petition stands allowed in the above terms.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed by the petitioner challenging the order dated 11.03.2025 passed by the U.P. State Human Rights Commission (hereinafter referred to as the "Commission") in Case No. 4294/24/75/2022 registered on 20.12.2022, whereby the complaint of the petitioner has been disposed of indicating therein that no further action is required in the complaint lodged by the petitioner.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the Commission has closed the complaint of the petitioner without any affirmative action, ignoring the fact that the grievance of the petitioner is still to be redressed.

4. The petitioner initially made a complaint vide his letter dated 20.11.2022, which was registered as Case No. 4294/24/75/2022, and thereafter, in the proceedings before the Commission, submitted an application dated 15.12.2024, which is annexed with the writ petition as Annexure No. 10, in which a specific point-wise complaint has been made by the petitioner, which are 14 in number.

5. The Commission, while entertaining the complaint of the petitioner initially, vide order dated 20.12.2024, sought a report from the District Magistrate, Bareilly, due to a typing error, as in fact it should have been from the District Magistrate, Sambhal. However, the Additional District Magistrate (Nagar), Bareilly, vide his letter dated 21.01.2025, forwarded the matter to the office of the District Magistrate, Sambhal and a copy of the same was also forwarded to the Commission for information. Subsequently, the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Sambhal, vide his letter dated 12.02.2025, informed the Commission that the complaint dated 15.12.2024 was got inquired into by the Tehsildar, Sambhal, who, in his report dated 12.02.2025, has indicated that the matter stands resolved between the parties with regard to the flow of the drain and encroachment on the pond land as well as on the land of the petitioner. The Commission taking note of report submitted by Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Sambhal vide letter dated 12.02.2025 proceeded to pass order dated 11.03.2025, which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

6. We have gone through the order dated 11.03.2025 passed by the Commission, which records that the grievance of the petitioner with regard to the land in question, i.e., Gata No. 132 admeasuring 0.154 hectare, situated in Village Mumbai Thakuran, Sambhal, recorded as abadi land, Category 6(2), in the revenue records, was taken up by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sambhal, on 20.05.2021 for resolving the dispute between the parties after deliberation with the interested parties and, with their consent, the drain has been made through Gata No.132 and has been connected with the pond so that the problem of waterlogging is solved. Regarding the other Gata No. 130, it has been indicated in the order dated 11.03.2025 that the said land is the private land of the petitioner/complainant and it is in possession of the petitioner. Regarding other Gata Nos. 123, 131 and 128, it has been indicated that the said plots of land belongs to Gram Samaj, and are public utility land. It is also indicated that Gata No. 134 is recorded in the revenue record as a pond and is free from encroachment.

7. The aforesaid facts have been recorded in the order dated 11.03.2025 on the basis of report dated 12.02.2025 submitted by the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Sambhal. The Commission has taken into consideration the 14-points complaint made by the petitioner, out of which points 1 and 2 of the complaint were in respect of the landed property of the petitioner, whereas points nos.3 to 5 were in respect to public utility land, regarding which, as per the report of the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Sambhal dated 12.02.2025, necessary steps were already taken. In reference to points 6 to 14 of the complaint, it has been noticed by the Commission that the petitioner, with regard to such complaint, has already filed Case No. 58 of 2021 in the Court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sambhal, which is pending. In such circumstances, the Commission, by order dated 11.03.2025, disposed of the complaint of the petitioner recording therein that no further action is required in reference to the complaint lodged by the petitioner/complainant.

8. Having considered the arguments of learned counsel for the petitioner, we proceed to analyse the nature of the complaint filed by the petitioner before the Commission and the steps taken by the Commission in furtherance of such complaint while finally disposing of the complaint vide order dated 11.03.2025. The complaint, as per the application of the petitioner dated 15.12.2024 annexed with the writ petition as Annexure No. 10, reflects that the petitioner"s primary allegation is in reference to a dispute relating to his private land, i.e., Gata No. 130, and the easementary right of the passage of the drain through abadi land, i.e., Gata No. 132, and removal of encroachment from land Gata No. 134, which is recorded in the revenue records as a pond. Further allegations in the complaint dated 15.12.2024 are with respect to the high-handedness of the authorities while disposing of the claim of the petitioner.

9. When we go through the scheme of the statutory enactment, i.e., the Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993 (hereinafter referred to as the Act, 1993), we find that Section 21 of the Act, 1993 provides for the constitution of the State Human Rights Commission. Section 21(5) provides that the State Commission may inquire into violation of human rights only in respect of matters relatable to any of the entries enumerated in List II and List III in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, meaning thereby those State matters which are mentioned in the State List and the Concurrent List. The term "human rights" has been defined in Section 2(1)(d) to mean the rights relating to life, liberty, equality and dignity of the individual guaranteed by the Constitution or embodied in the International Covenants and enforceable by courts in India. Thus, the State Commission has the power to inquire into violation of human rights as defined under Section 2(1)(d) in reference to matters relatable to any of the entries enumerated in List II and List III in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution.

10. The nature of the dispute/complaint that has been raised by the petitioner before the Commission vide his complaint dated 15.12.2024 reflects that the same are related to the property dispute of the petitioner, for which there is already a remedy provided under the common civil law related to property as well as statutory enactments as in the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006, that is to say, Section 67 for removal of encroachment from public utility land and Section 134 pertaining to individual right. In this regard, the judgment of the Hon"ble Supreme Court in the case of G. Manikyamma v. Roudri Coop. Housing Society Ltd., (2014) 15 SCC 197, is worth mentioning. Paragraph Nos. 40 to 46 of the same are quoted hereinbelow:"

40. The Human Rights Commission, in our view, would not be competent forum for the examination of the abovementioned issues. Both the first respondent Society as well as the encroachers, in our view, wrongly invoked the jurisdiction of the Human Rights Commission instead of pursuing the appropriate remedies available to them in law, and the Human Rights Commission was too willing to exercise authority without any jurisdiction. We are also of the opinion that the High Court resorted to more of a mediation activity than the determination of the legal issues involved in the case.

41. In our opinion, the Human Rights Commission does not have any jurisdiction to deal with the disputed questions of title and possession of the property.

42. We make it clear that in P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma [P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59] , this Court examined the impact of a claim of adverse possession over rented property in the context of the claim of a person who has a valid title in his favour. This Court upon examination of Beaulane Properties Ltd. v. Palmer [Beaulane Properties Ltd. v. Palmer, 2005 EWHC 817 : (2005) 3 WLR 554 : (2005) 4 All ER 461 (Ch)] and J.A. Pye (Oxford) Ltd. v. United Kingdom [J.A. Pye (Oxford) Ltd. v. United Kingdom, (2005) 49 ERG 90 : 2005 ECHR 921] opined: (P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy case [P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59] , SCC p. 77, para 43)

"43. Human rights have been historically considered in the realm of individual rights such as, right to health, right to livelihood, right to shelter and employment, etc. but now human rights are gaining a multifaceted dimension. Right to property is also considered very much a part of the new dimension. Therefore, even claim of adverse possession has to be read in that context. The activist approach of the English courts is quite visible from the judgments of Beaulane Properties Ltd. v. Palmer [Beaulane Properties Ltd. v. Palmer, 2005 EWHC 817 : (2005) 3 WLR 554 : (2005) 4 All ER 461 (Ch)] and J.A. Pye (Oxford) Ltd. v. United Kingdom [J.A. Pye (Oxford) Ltd. v. United Kingdom, (2005) 49 ERG 90 : 2005 ECHR 921] . The Court herein tried to read the human rights position in the context of adverse possession. But what is commendable is that the dimensions of human rights have widened so much that now property dispute issues are also being raised within the contours of human rights."

43. P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy case [P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59] arose out of a suit filed under Section 9 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (for short "CPC") where both the plaintiff and defendant asserted their title to the property in dispute. The plaintiff in the alternative claimed that he had perfected the title by adverse possession. It was a case where the original owner of the property sold the same piece of land to both the parties to the suit. The sale in favour of the defendant is anterior to the sale in favour of the plaintiff. It was in the background of the abovementioned facts, this Court examined the question. P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy case [P.T. Munichikkanna Reddy v. Revamma, (2007) 6 SCC 59] is not an authority for the proposition that the Human Rights Commission either National or State constituted under the Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993 are competent to adjudicate upon the disputed questions of title and possession.

44. The functions and powers of the Commission are enumerated under Section 12 of the Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993, which reads as follows:

"12. Functions of the Commission."The Commission shall perform all or any of the following functions, namely"

(a) inquire, suo motu or on a petition presented to it by a victim or any person on his behalf, into complaint of"

(i) violation of human rights or abetment thereof; or

(ii) negligence in the prevention of such violation, by a public servant;

(b) intervene in any proceeding involving any allegation of violation of human rights pending before a court with the approval of such court;

(c) visit, under intimation to the State Government, any jail or any other institution under the control of the State Government, where persons are detained or lodged for purposes of treatment, reformation or protection to study the living conditions of the inmates and make recommendations thereon;

(d) review the safeguards provided by or under the Constitution or any law for the time being in force for the protection of human rights and recommend measures for their effective implementation;

(e) review the factors, including acts of terrorism, that inhibit the enjoyment of human rights and recommend appropriate remedial measures;

(f) study treaties and other international instruments on human rights and make recommendations for their effective implementation;

(g) undertake and promote research in the field of human rights;

(h) spread human rights literacy among various sections of society and promote awareness of the safeguards available for the protection of these rights, through publications, the media, seminars and other available means;

(i) encourage the efforts of non-governmental organisations and institutions working in the field of human rights;

(j) such other functions as it may consider necessary for the promotion of human rights."

It can be seen from the language, there is nothing in Section 12 which authorises the Human Rights Commission to adjudicate upon the disputes of title and possession of property.

45. Apart from that, there is neither any examination nor any determination by any competent body of the rights of the first respondent Society and its members on one hand, and the encroachers on the other hand, for that matter, even the rights and authority of the State over the property in dispute.

46. In the circumstances, we deem it appropriate to set aside the orders of the Andhra Pradesh Human Rights Commission dated 17-2-2011 and 18-3-2011 and the judgment of the learned Single Judge dated 26-12-2012 in Roudri Coop. Housing Society Ltd. v. Deptt. of Revenue [Roudri Coop. Housing Society Ltd. v. Deptt. of Revenue, WP No. 10414 of 2011, order dated 26-12-2012 (AP)] and also the judgments in Y. Muthyalu v. Roudri Coop. Housing Society [Y. Muthyalu v. Roudri Coop. Housing Society, Writ Appeal No. 580 of 2011, decided on 2-7-2012 (AP)] dated 2-7-2012 and the judgment in State of A.P. v. Roudri Coop. Housing Society Ltd. [State of A.P. v. Roudri Coop. Housing Society Ltd., Writ Appeal No. 1125 of 2013, decided on 20-8-2013 (AP)] leaving it open to the parties to seek their remedies before the appropriate fora, if they are so advised. We also direct all the parties including the authorities of the State to maintain status quo obtaining as on today with respect to the possession of the various parties until the competent court/forum determines the rights of the first respondent Society and also the encroachers with respect to the land in question admeasuring 4 acres 10 guntas.

11. With regard to some of the allegations which are referred to in the complaint from point Nos.5 to 14, the petitioner has already initiated proceedings before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sambhal. Thus, we are of the view that, in fact, the complaint of the petitioner primarily related to his property, for which he has an efficacious remedy under the common civil law, and hence the complaint of the petitioner before the Commission was misconceived and, in fact, could not have been entertained at all. Hence, we do not find any illegality or irregularity in the impugned order dated 11.03.2025.

12. Accordingly, the writ petition stands dismissed.

13. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

A. Whether the subsequent government order dated 08.07.2021 is clarificatory to the earlier one and, being clarificatory in nature, can be used as a external aid to understand the government notification dated 02.08.2018 for the purpose of granting ex gratia relief in a case where the death due to snake bite occurred on 23.08.2019.

B. Whether in the absence of a conclusive opinion regarding the cause of death in the postmortem report, the claim of the petitioner can be sustained on the basis of consistent and statements of witnesses which find mention in official proceedings, particularly when such evidence uniformly supports the petitioner's version and the policy in question is a welfare measure in cases of State specific disaster/ natural calamity, which are listed in government notification.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 226; Notification dated 27.06.2016 bearing notification number 303/1- 11-2016-4(G)/16, Notification dated 02.08.2018, bearing notification number-UO 30/1-11-2018-4(G)/201- Petitioner's wife died due to snake bite and under the Government notification dated 02.08.2018, and the petitioner claimed ex gratia payment of Rs.4,00,000/-

That subsequent legislation or policy can be referred to as an external aid to understand an earlier provision, particularly when the later measure is beneficial, clarificatory, or declaratory in nature and not creating any new right. It is an established principle of law that later legislation or policy can sometimes throw light on the legislative intent behind an earlier provision, especially when the later law clarifies rather than changes the position. Later statute, amendment, or policy may be used as an interpretative aid if it explains or clarifies an ambiguity in the earlier law or is declaratory or explanatory in nature or the same reflects the legislature's understanding of the earlier provision.

The petitioner had promptly informed the police about the death of his wife explaining the reason of the death as well. The General Diary entry records the cause of death as a snake bite. The inquest proceedings and spot inspection conducted by the Lekhpal further corroborate the petitioner's version, with statements of eyewitnesses confirming that the death occurred due to snake bite while the deceased was working in the agricultural field. There is no discrepancy or conflict in the statements recorded at any stage, and the postmortem report merely states that the cause of death could not be ascertained, without contradicting the consistent evidence of the eyewitnesses. In such circumstances, the principle of contemporanea expositio is relevant here and reliance on consistent official records should be placed to decide petitioner's claim.

Held- Petitioner is entitled to relief under the Government notification dated 02.08.2018, read harmoniously with the clarificatory order dated 08.07.2021, which is brought to control possible mischief under order 02.08.2018. The impugned rejection of the claim on technical grounds cannot be sustained and, therefore, the order dated 02.08.2018 and 08.07.2021 are hereby quashed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shashi Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Shruti Malviya, learned brief holder appearing for the State-respondents.

2. The petition is filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India with the prayer to issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondent No. 2 to pay Rs.4,00,000/- to the petitioner in view of the Government notification dated 02.08.2018 and the government order dated 08.07.2021.

3. The background fact of the matter is that on 23.08.2019, wife of the petitioner, Smt. Raj Kumari, while working in an agricultural field got snake bite and resultantly died. Subsequently, in this regard, General Diary entry bearing No. 015 dated 24.08.2019 was recorded by the police, wherein it was written that the deceased had died due to snake bite. On the same day, inquest report was prepared, and the statements of the witnesses got recorded, which indicated that the death had occurred due to snake bite. The postmortem examination of the deceased was also conducted on 24.08.2019, however, the postmortem report did not conclude the cause of death as such and recorded that the cause of death could not be ascertained. Consequently, the viscera of the deceased was preserved and handed over to authorities for examination.

4. Subsequently, petitioner applied for the ex gratia payment, claiming that death of his wife was due to snake bite, which stood covered under the Government notification dated 02.08.2018 for benefits in terms of compensation. According to the procedure, site inspection was conducted, during which the Lekhpal interacted with people in village, who were present and had witnessed the incident. Thereafter, report dated 23.03.2022 was prepared and submitted by the Lekhpal. The report recorded that people present there had stated that the death was due to snake bite. Following this, on 30.03.2022, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Konch, District Jalaun, wrote a letter to the Additional District Magistrate, Jalaun. The letter relied on the Lekhpal's report, mentioning the on-site inspection and statements made by people in village, who were present at that time. People present there, stated that the petitioner's wife while engaged in agriculture work in her field died on 23.08.2019 due to snake bite. However, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate concluded as finding that the case did not get covered under government notifications and, therefore, the petitioner was not entitled to ex gratia payment. The reason for the rejection was that postmortem report did not record the reason for death as snake bite, whereas the report, in fact, stated that the cause of death could not be ascertained.

5. Petitioner also raised his grievance through the ?Jansunwai Portal? by filing online complaints bearing reference Nos. 40016522003379 and 40016522005028. He reiterated his claim that his wife had died due to snake bite and that ex gratia payment had not been granted to him. The Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Konch, again rejected the claim of the petitioner vide order dated 28.05.2022, referring the same Lekhpal?s report dated 23.03.2022 and the postmortem report dated 24.08.2019. The order also referred the Government order dated 08.07.2021, however, this time concluded that since the death had occurred before 08.07.2021, the case of the petitioner?s wife of her death due to snake bite would not be covered under this notification.

6. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner submitted that the death of the petitioner?s wife was due to snake bite and, therefore, this case was covered under the Government notification dated 02.08.2018, and the petitioner was entitled to ex gratia payment of Rs.4,00,000/-. He further submitted that from the very inception, including the General Diary entry, the inquest report, and the statements of people in village during spot inspection by the Lekhpal, a consistent version had been that the deceased died due to snake bite while working in the agricultural field.

7. Learned counsel further submitted that the impugned order itself referred to the report, which mentioned statements of people present at the place of occurrence who all had supported petitioner?s statement regarding the cause of death. It was contended that there was no material on record suggesting any cause of death other than the snake bite and the rejection of the claim of the petitioner was baseless for want of due without application of mind.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the petitioner further submitted that the postmortem report did not attribute the death to any other cause and merely recorded that the cause of death could not be ascertained. In such circumstances, the inability of the medical report to conclusively determine the cause of death could not have been construed against the petitioner, particularly when the medical evidence did not contradict the eyewitnesses accounts. Learned counsel submitted that where there was no conflict between medical evidence and eyewitness testimony because postmortem report did not state any direct reason for death. He further submitted that where the medical report did not negate the version of eyewitnesses, the consistent and corroborated statements of eyewitnesses deserved due weight, and the application of the petitioner should not have been rejected stating that there was no document to support cause of death being snake bite. He further submitted that the rejection of the petitioner?s claim for ex gratia payment was an arbitrary decision and hence unsustainable in law.

9. Per contra, learned brief holder appearing for the State supports the impugned orders passed by the authorities and submitted that the same is rightly passed in accordance with the applicable government notifications. She contends that the petitioner failed to furnish any documentary evidence along with his application to establish that the death of his wife had occurred due to snake bite. She further submitted that the claim of the petitioner cannot be considered under the subsequent Government order dated 08.07.2021, as the death of the petitioner?s wife had taken place much before 08.07.2021.

10. In the light of aforesaid facts and the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties, the question that falls for consideration before this Court is whether the subsequent government order dated 08.07.2021 is clarificatory to the earlier one and, being clarificatory in nature, can be used as a external aid to understand the government notification dated 02.08.2018 for the purpose of granting ex gratia relief in a case where the death due to snake bite occurred on 23.08.2019. Thereafter this court is to consider whether in the absence of a conclusive opinion regarding the cause of death in the postmortem report, the claim of the petitioner can be sustained on the basis of consistent and statements of witnesses which find mention in official proceedings, particularly when such evidence uniformly supports the petitioner?s version and the policy in question is a welfare measure in cases of State specific disaster/ natural calamity, which are listed in government notification.

11. To appreciate the issues that arise for consideration, it is necessary to trace the circumstances leading to the issuance of government notifications. State of Uttar Pradesh issued notifications to address problem of State specific disaster in Uttar Pradesh. In this regard the first notification was issued on 27.06.2016 bearing notification number 303/1-11-2016-4(G)/16 providing for the modalities with respect to funds for expenditure to be incurred from State Disaster Response Fund (SDRF). For ready reference, relevant part of the above mentioned notification is reproduced below:

“2. Every year, a large number of lives and property are lost in the state due to unseasonal heavy rains, storms, lightning and heat waves. Therefore, in view of the above arrangement made by the Government of India, while cancelling Government notification No. 249/1-11-2015-4 (G)/2015, dated 15.04.2015 (as amended on 16.04.2015), the Governor is pleased to give his approval to declare unseasonal heavy rains, storms, lightning and heat waves as state disasters.

3. Relief will be provided to the families of the persons affected by the said State disaster as per the standards and rates fixed by the Government of India for the State Disaster Relief Fund.

4. Expenditure in connection with the above mentioned State Disasters under Grant No. 51 under the Account Head "2245-Relief due to Natural Calamity-05-State Disaster Response Fund-800-Other Expenditure-06-Expenditure from State Disaster Response Fund-09-For other disasters declared by the State Government Expenditure from Disaster Response Fund-42 will be borne from other expenditure.

5. Action should be ensured as per the above decision taken by the State Government."

(Notification is originally in Hindi)

12. Subsequently on 02.08.2018, State issued another notification bearing notification number-UO 30/1-11-2018-4(G)/2015, where snake bite got specifically included along with other natural calamities. For ready reference the relevant part of the notification is reproduced below:

"2. In continuation of the above arrangement made by the Government of India, by Notification No. 303/1-11-2016-4 (G)/2015, dated 27.06.2016, unseasonal heavy rainfall, lightning strikes, storm and heat wave have been declared as State Disaster.

3. Hon?ble Governor accords approval to declare the following incidents as State-notified disasters, in addition to the disasters declared under the Government Notification dated 27.06.2016, namely: unseasonal heavy rainfall, lightning, thunderstorm and heat-wave, as well as boat accidents, snakebite*, accidents during sewer cleaning, gas leakage, and accidents resulting from falling into borewells within the State.*

4. There has been an agreement in principle to declare human-wildlife conflict a state disaster. Detailed guidelines in this regard will be issued separately.

5. The expenditure incurred in connection with the above declared State disasters will be borne under Grant No. 51 under the account head "2245- Relief due to natural calamity-05-State Disaster Response Fund-800-Other Expenditure-06-Expenditure from State Disaster Response Fund-09-Expenditure from Disaster Response Fund for other disasters declared by the State Government-42-Other Expenditure".

13. Snake bite got included in the list in the year 2018 and with the experience, it was realized by the State that certain clarifications were required to make the welfare scheme effectively implemented and, therefore, the State through its additional chief secretary, has issued clarifications, which was sent to all district magistrates by the letter No.-157/A-11-2020-

04(G)/2015-TC dated 08.07.2021. For convenience and clarity, complete letter is reproduced below:

Subject:- Regarding the grant of ex-gratia assistance to the dependents of persons who have died due to snakebite.

Sir,

1. In the above mentioned Government notification No. U.O.-20/Ek-11-2018-4(G)/2015 dated 02.08.2018, snakebite has been declared a State disaster, and it is provided that, in the event of death due to snakebite, ex-gratia assistance of Rs. 4.00 lakh shall be granted to the dependents of each deceased person.

2. It has come to the notice of the Government that, for the purpose of certifying death due to snakebite, the viscera of the deceased is sent to a forensic laboratory for examination, and during the pendency of the viscera examination report, ex-gratia assistance is not made available in a timely manner to the dependents of the deceased. As per the opinion of the State Forensic Legal Cell, there is no justification for insisting upon a viscera examination report in cases of snakebite, and it has been informed that death due to snakebite is not established solely on the basis of a viscera examination report.

3. In pursuance of the advice of the State Medico Legal Cell, and upon due consideration, it has been decided that, in cases of death due to snakebite, since the viscera examination report has no relevance, the following procedure shall be followed for the purpose of providing ex-gratia assistance to the dependents of the deceased:

(1) A Panchnama of the deceased should be prepared.

(2) A post-mortem examination of the deceased should be conducted.

(3) There is no need to preserve the viscera report of the deceased after post-mortem.

(4) In case of death due to snake bite, ex gratia assistance shall be provided to the dependents of the deceased within a maximum period of 7 days.

4. Accordingly, I am directed to state that, in cases of death due to snakebite, while strictly adhering to the procedure mentioned above, all matters relating to the grant of ex-gratia assistance to the dependents of the deceased shall be endeavoured to be disposed of within a period of 7 days.

Yours truly
Manoj Kumar Singh)
Additional Chief Secretary."
(Letter originally in Hindi)

14. Bare reading of the above noted notifications as well as subsequent communication leads us to infer that the underlying objective of the State is to extend timely support to families who have lost family member due to the circumstances contemplated therein. The scheme is in the nature of a welfare measure intended to provide relief to persons in need. Therefore, while determining entitlement under the scheme, rejection based on technicalities would be antithetical to the very aim and object sought to be achieved by the State.

15. After discussion on background and underlying principle qua purpose of above notifications, the issue for determination is, whether the subsequent government notification dated 08.07.2021 can be relied upon as an external aid to understand or interpret the government notification dated 02.08.2018. It is a well-established principle of administrative law that subsequent instructions, circulars, or notifications can be used as clarificatory aids in interpreting an earlier policy, particularly where the earlier policy is beneficial in nature. Beneficial schemes or policies of the State are required to be construed purposively and liberally to advance their intended objective, and not to be seen in a hyper-technical or restrictive manner.

16. In WPIL Ltd. Ghaziabad vs Commissioner Of Central Excise, Meerut, (2005) 3 SCC 73, the Supreme Court, while considering the nature and effect of clarificatory notifications, referred to its earlier decision in CCE vs Wood Craft Products Ltd., (1995) 3 SCC 454. The Supreme Court observed that where a notification is clarificatory in character, it operates retrospectively, as it does not introduce something new but merely clarify and makes explicit what was already implicit in the existing legal framework. The Supreme Court has held as under :

"15. The learned counsel for the appellant is also right in relying upon a decision of this Court in CCE v. Wood Craft Products Ltd. [(1995) 3 SCC 454] In that case, this Court held that a clarificatory notification would take effect retrospectively. Such a notification merely clarifies the position and makes explicit what was implicit. Clarificatory notifications have been issued to end the dispute between the parties."

17. In State Bank of India vs V. Ramakrishnan, (2018) 17 SCC 394, the Supreme Court has dealt with the issue of amendment which held to be retrospective in nature. In this case, the Supreme Court has quoted the judgment in case of CIT vs Vatika Township (P) Ltd., (2015) 1 SCC 1, observing as follows:

"32. Let us sharpen the discussion a little more. We may note that under certain circumstances, a particular amendment can be treated as clarificatory or declaratory in nature. Such statutory provisions are labelled as ?declaratory statutes?. The circumstances under which provisions can be termed as ?declaratory statutes? are explained by Justice G.P. Singh [Principles of Statutory Interpretation, (13th Edn., LexisNexis Butterworths Wadhwa, Nagpur, 2012)] in the following manner:

'Declaratory statutes. The presumption against retrospective operation is not applicable to declaratory statutes. As stated in Craies [W.F. Craies, Craies on Statute Law (7th Edn., Sweet and Maxwell Ltd., 1971)] and approved by the Supreme Court (in Central Bank of India v. Workmen [Central Bank of India v. Workmen, AIR 1960 SC 12, p. 27, para 29]): ?For modern purposes a declaratory Act may be defined as an Act to remove doubts existing as to the common law, or the meaning or effect of any statute. Such Acts are usually held to be retrospective. The usual reason for passing a declaratory Act is to set aside what Parliament deems to have been a judicial error, whether in the statement of the common law or in the interpretation of statutes. Usually, if not invariably, such an Act contains a Preamble, and also the word ?declared? as well as the word ?enacted?.? But the use of the words ?it is declared? is not conclusive that the Act is declaratory for these words may, at times, be used to introduced new rules of law and the Act in the latter case will only be amending the law and will not necessarily be retrospective. In determining, therefore, the nature of the Act, regard must be had to the substance rather than to the form. If a new Act is ?to explain? an earlier Act, it would be without object unless construed retrospective. An explanatory Act is generally passed to supply an obvious omission or to clear up doubts as to the meaning of the previous Act. It is well settled that if a statute is curative or merely declaratory of the previous law retrospective operation is generally intended. The language ?shall be deemed always to have meant? is declaratory, and is in plain terms retrospective. In the absence of clear words indicating that the amending Act is declaratory, it would not be so construed when the pre-amended provision was clear and unambiguous. An amending Act may be purely clarificatory to clear a meaning of a provision of the principal Act which was already implicit. A clarificatory amendment of this nature will have retrospective effect and, therefore, if the principal Act was existing law which the Constitution came into force, the amending Act also will be part of the existing law."

18. In view of the above principle, we are of the view that subsequent legislation or policy can be referred to as an external aid to understand an earlier provision, particularly when the later measure is beneficial, clarificatory, or declaratory in nature and not creating any new right. It is an established principle of law that later legislation or policy can sometimes throw light on the legislative intent behind an earlier provision, especially when the later law clarifies rather than changes the position. Later statute, amendment, or policy may be used as an interpretative aid if it explains or clarifies an ambiguity in the earlier law or is declaratory or explanatory in nature or the same reflects the legislature?s understanding of the earlier provision.

19. It is also a well settled principle that statements, reports, and records created at or near the time of an event carries a considerable weight in determining facts, particularly when there is no conclusive evidence. In the present case, the General Diary entry, the inquest report, and the statements of witnesses recorded by the Tehsildar and other officials immediately following the death of the petitioner?s wife constitute contemporaneous records, consistently stating that the death occurred due to snake bite. The postmortem report, though inconclusive, does not contradict these records. Therefore, after applying the principle of contemporanea expositio, consistency of statements indicate that they are reliable evidence in determining the cause of death, and the authorities are bound to give due weight to such contemporaneous material while adjudicating claims under a beneficial policy. Failure to consider contemporaneous evidence and giving undue weightage to hyper-technical reasons like inconclusive postmortem is against well-recognized legal principles.

20. Having considered this preceding issue, the next question that arises for consideration is the nature of the order/circular dated 08.07.2021 issued by the State Government. It is clear from the bare reading of the order that it merely clarifies as to how claims arising from snake bite deaths should be considered under the earlier policy to make the beneficiaries get compensation without delay. It does not impose any new limitation, nor does it affect deaths that occurred prior to its issuance. The principle regarding clarificatory notification is well recognized, and according to which, a notification or circular that only elaborate the intention of an earlier policy is to be read harmoniously with the original notification and the subsequent notification is especially relevant in guiding authorities on proper implementation.

21. After careful consideration of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the records, it is evident that the government notification dated 02.08.2018 clearly recognizes death due to snake bite as a circumstance entitling the dependents of the deceased to ex gratia relief. It is also apparent that the notification dated 02.08.2018 is a State-specific policy intended to aid in cases of disasters or calamities which are not included for relief under other policies. The said notification, therefore, contemplates relief to families affected by specific local contingencies, including death due to snake bite.

22. The subsequent government notification dated 08.07.2021 specifically addresses circumstances where dependents of a deceased person who died due to snake bite were being denied or delayed ex gratia relief on technical grounds, particularly due to the non-availability of viscera reports. The notification explicitly clarifies that the absence of a viscera report shall not be a ground to reject the claim and instructs the District Magistrates across the State to ensure timely disbursement of ex gratia relief, preferably within seven days. Bare reading of the order demonstrates that it is clarificatory in nature and intended to reinforce the objective of the notification dated 02.08.2018, rather than creating any new policy. Learned Standing Counsel?s argument justifying rejection of the petitioner?s claim on the ground of inconclusive postmortem findings or unavailability of the viscera report is therefore wholly untenable. The clarificatory notification was issued precisely to prevent denial or delay of relief to affected families on such technical grounds, ensuring that the purpose of the policy is fulfilled.

23. In the present case, the petitioner had promptly informed the police about the death of his wife explaining the reason of the death as well. The General Diary entry records the cause of death as a snake bite. The inquest proceedings and spot inspection conducted by the Lekhpal further corroborate the petitioner?s version, with statements of eyewitnesses confirming that the death occurred due to snake bite while the deceased was working in the agricultural field. There is no discrepancy or conflict in the statements recorded at any stage, and the postmortem report merely states that the cause of death could not be ascertained, without contradicting the consistent evidence of the eyewitnesses. In such circumstances, the principle of contemporanea expositio is relevant here and reliance on consistent official records should be placed to decide petitioner?s claim.

24. Applying the principles discussed in forgoing paragraphs, it is clear that the order dated 08.07.2021 is a guidance to interpret and implement the notification dated 02.08.2018 in cases of death due to snake bite. Consequently, we are of the view that the petitioner?s claim very much fell within the ambit of the policy framework, and the authorities ought to have considered it on that basis.

25. In the light of the above discussion, it is evident that the petitioner is entitled to relief under the Government notification dated 02.08.2018, read harmoniously with the clarificatory order dated 08.07.2021, which is brought to control possible mischief under order 02.08.2018. The impugned rejection of the claim on technical grounds cannot be sustained and, therefore, the order dated 02.08.2018 and 08.07.2021 are hereby quashed. Matter is required accordingly remitted to the District Magistrate, Jalaun, with a direction to consider the petitioner?s claim afresh in accordance with the policy, without raising technical objections regarding the inconclusive postmortem report or unavailability of viscera report.

26. It is one of those cases where we find that documents speak volume of the merit of claims for compensation set up by petitioner having discussed the provisions contained under the Government Order and further policy with regard to grant of compensation not depending upon the viscera report etc., we are of the clear view that claim of compensation deserves to be allowed.

27. There are authorities to the effect that if the High Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution finds facts of the case to be full setting merit of the case set up by petitioner that it should not hesitate in granting appropriate relief instead of remitting the matter for reconsideration by the authority. 28. In our above considered view, we are supported by the recent decision of the Supreme Court dated 10.02.2026 in the case of Mahendra Prasad Agarwal vs. Arvind Kumar Singh and Others being SLP (C) No. 1714 of 2025, in which vide paragraph 13,14, and 15, the Court has observed thus:

"13. Facts that we have recounted till now reveal a sad reflection, not our laws, but the way we practice our laws and work our judicial remedies. We are not be mistaken as sermonising, for such episodic disposal could feature even in the practice of Supreme Court. Our endeavour is to ensure that we take notice of it and adopt course correction.

14. There is no doubt about the fact that the "consider jurisprudence", so routinely adopted these days and if we may use the expression - to throw the ball out of the Court, is counterproductive and harms the system.

15. When a claim of a right is legal and justified, relief must follow. The Constitutional or statutory remedies are not intended for academic discourse. If a case deserves relief, it must be granted then and there, unflinchingly if need be. Balancing of equities is not to be confused with avoiding or postponing the relief. These are not matters of law, but of its working and practice. Unlike law and its procedures, good practices that evolve over a period of time are far more precious than written laws, as it is in this practice that we see acceptance and internalization of the spirit of law. It is necessary to recognize, nurture and develop good practices which become habits. These habits come from the shared belief, values and attitudes that breathe vitality into rule of law. Legal culture integrates collective beliefs, fostering habits. It is necessary and in fact compelling to keep our remedies simple, effective and efficient."

29. In view of above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The District Magistrate, Jalaun is directed to accord benefit of compensation to the petitioner for untimely death of the deceased due to snake bite. The District Magistrate, shall pass the order within a period of six weeks from the date of presentation of certified copy of this order.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether tenants, by continuing in occupation and asserting tenancy rights, can prevent or delay demolition of a building declared dangerous under Section 331 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1959.

HEADNOTE

Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1959 – ss.331, 334 – U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021 – s.21 – Dangerous and dilapidated building – Demolition – Tenancy rights vis-à-vis public safety – Vacation of premises

Held: Petitioner–Samiti was the owner of a building which had become highly dilapidated and posed imminent danger to passers-by and occupants, and a notice dated 03.08.2021 was issued under Section 331 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1959 directing demolition of the unsafe structure – On 29.08.2025, a portion of the building collapsed causing obstruction to traffic and risk to public safety – Certain tenants continued to occupy the remaining portion of the building and instituted civil suits seeking injunction, though no interim protection was granted in their favour, yet their continued occupation prevented demolition, compelling the petitioner to approach the Court seeking a direction to the authorities to demolish the building – Once the building had been declared to be in a ruinous and dangerous condition and a demolition notice had been issued, the occupants were under a legal obligation to vacate the premises, and their continued occupation, despite structural danger and partial collapse, was contrary to Section 334(3) – Municipal Commissioner fully empowered to order vacation of the building and to remove occupants with police assistance under Section 334(4) for ensuring demolition – It is well recognised that public safety overrides tenancy rights, and a tenant cannot insist on continuing in occupation of a structure which is unsafe and poses risk to life – Once a building is found unfit for human habitation, municipal authorities are legally empowered to proceed with demolition, and tenants cannot obstruct such statutory action – Tenants cannot object to expeditious demolition where the authorities have found the building unsafe – Accordingly, the building having been found to be in a ruinous condition and posing threat to life, demolition cannot be delayed on account of tenancy disputes – Respondent authority directed to demolish the building within the stipulated time with necessary police assistance. Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Trivikram Singh
Advs For Respondents: Abhishek Kumar Yadav, C.S.C., Vineet Sankalp

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Garima Prashad, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents, and Sri Abhishek Kumar Yadav, learned counsel appearing for respondent no.3.

2. The present writ petition has been filed seeking a direction to the respondent authorities to demolish the building owned by the petitioner/Mukteshwar Mahadev Mukteshwari Durga Dharmarth Seva Samiti, situated at Inglishialine, House No. S-21/71-A, Varanasi, which, according to the petitioner, is in a highly dilapidated condition and poses imminent danger to passers-by as well as to persons residing in the building and its neighborhood.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that respondent no.3-Nagar Nigam, Varanasi issued a notice dated 03.08.2021 under Section 331(1)(2) of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1959 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act of 1959"), directing demolition of the unsafe structure within seven days. Pursuant thereto, the petitioner submitted representations dated 03.08.2021, 13.08.2021 and 17.08.2021 before the concerned Magistrate. It is further submitted that the Municipal Commissioner sought a report from Police Station Sigra, which submitted a detailed report dated 21.08.2021 confirming that the building had become dilapidated and required demolition. Despite the aforesaid, no effective action was taken. Consequently, on 29.08.2025, a portion of the building collapsed, disrupting traffic and posing serious risk to public safety.

4. Learned Standing Counsel, on instructions, submits that the notice regarding the dangerous building was issued in 2021 and that a part of the structure has already been demolished by the petitioner. However, certain tenants continue to reside in the remaining portion, which has not been repaired. It is further stated that one tenant has instituted Original Suit No. 2307 of 2021 against the owner and that proceedings are still pending, which fact has allegedly been concealed by the petitioner.

5. Refuting the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the pendency of litigation has been duly disclosed in paragraphs 15 and 16 of the writ petition as well as in the supplementary affidavit. It is submitted that a Suit No. 1977 of 2021 was filed by a tenant Rita Jaiswal, wherein interim injunction was initially declined but subsequently granted in appeal, but the suit itself came to be dismissed in default on 17.03.2023. As on date, no interim protection subsists in her favour. It is further submitted that tenant Vinod Kumar has instituted Suit No. 2307 of 2021 seeking permanent injunction, however, no interim relief has been granted therein. His earlier claim of ownership before the Small Causes Court also stood withdrawn. Similarly, a third tenant Anant Kumar filed Suit No. 2971 of 2021 seeking injunction, but he too has failed to secure any interim protection from any competent court.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner vehemently submits that none of the tenants has obtained any stay against demolition or dispossession from any competent court. Importantly, no proceedings have been initiated challenging the demolition notice dated 03.08.2021. It is contended that while the Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Tenancy Act, 2021 protects tenant rights, such protection cannot override statutory powers under Section 331 of the Act of 1959 where a structure is found to be ruinous and dangerous to human life.

7. This Court has examined the provisions of the U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021 so as to ensure that the right available to a tenant under the statutory scheme is clearly protected. Chapter V of the Tenancy Act, 2021, contains provisions relating to protection of tenants against eviction. Section 21(1) of the Tenancy Act, 2021 confers protection upon a tenant in the manner provided in the Statute itself. Sub-section (2) of Section 21 permits the Rent Authority to make an order of eviction where the tenanted premises requires demolition. Sub-section (2)(e) of Section 21 reads as under :-

"21. Protection of tenant against eviction- (1) """""". (2) The Rent Authority may, on an application made to it by the landlord in such manner as may be prescribed, make an order for eviction and recovery of possession of the premises on one or more of the following grounds, namely:-

(d) """""""..."

(e) where it is necessary for the landlord to carry out any repair or construction or rebuilding or addition or alteration or demolition in respect of the premises or any part thereof, which is not possible to be carried out without the premises being vacated:"

Provided that after such repair, construction, rebuilding, addition or alteration, the tenant may be allowed to reoccupy the premises only when it has been mutually agreed to between the landlord and the tenant and a new tenancy agreement has been submitted with the Rent Authority:"

Provided further that the tenant shall not be allowed to reoccupy the premises,-"

(i) in the absence of submission of such mutual tenancy agreement with the Rent Authority; and"

(ii) in cases where the tenant has been evicted under the orders of a Rent Authority.

"""""""."

8. Section 4 of the Tenancy Act, 2021 provides for tenancy agreement. It also deals with tenancy created before the commencement of the Tenancy Act, 2021."

9. Having examined the statutory framework, this Court finds that any tenant claiming protection under the Tenancy Act, 2021 is at liberty to approach the competent Authority for appropriate relief, which may thereafter pass suitable orders in accordance with law. The right which is available to a tenant in respect of dilapidated building, however, will have to be enforced subject to the provisions of Section 331 of the Act, 1959 which deal with a special exigency where the tenanted building requires imminent demolition for protection of life of individuals. Sections 331(1) and 331(3) of the Act, 1959 are as under:-

331 (1) If it shall at any time appear to the Municipal Commissioner that any structure (including under this expression any building wall, parapet, pavement, floor steps, railing, door or window frames or shutters or roof, or other structure and anything affixed to or projecting from or resting on, any building, wall, parapet or other structure) is in a ruinous condition or likely to fall, or in any way dangerous to any person occupying, resorting to or passing by such structure or any other structure or place in the neighborhood thereof, the Municipal Commissioner may, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of such structure to pull down, secure, remove or repair, such structure or thing or do one or more of such things and to prevent all cause of danger therefrom."

"(3) If it appears to the Municipal Commissioner that the danger from a structure which is ruinous or about to fall is imminent he may, before giving notice as aforesaid or before the period of notice expires, fence off, take down, secure or repair the said structure or take such steps or cause such work to be executed as may be required to arrest the danger."

10. This Court further notes that Section 334 of the Uttar Pradesh Municipalities Act, 1959 expressly empowers the Municipal Commissioner to order vacation of a building or any portion thereof where such structure is found to be in a ruinous or dangerous condition within the meaning of Section 331. Upon issuance of such notice, every person in occupation is statutorily bound to vacate the premises, and continued occupation is prohibited unless the notice is withdrawn. The provision also authorises removal of occupants through police assistance in case of non-compliance. Sections 334 of the Act, 1959 are as under:-

334. (1) Notwithstanding the provisions of any other law to the contrary, the [Municipal Commissioner] may, by notice in writing specifying the grounds therefor, order any building or any portion thereof to be vacated forthwith or within such time as may be specified in the notice "

(c) if the building or part thereof is in a ruinous or dangerous condition within the meaning of section 331.

(2) The affixing of such written notice on any part of such premises shall be deemed a sufficient intimation to the occupiers of such building or portion thereof.

(3) On the issue of a notice under sub-section (1) every person in occupation of the building or portion thereof to which the notice relates shall vacate such building or portion as directed in the notice and no person shall so long as the notice is not withdrawn enter the building or portion thereof except for the purpose of carrying out any work which he may lawfully carry out.

(4) The [Municipal Commissioner] may direct that any person who acts in contravention of sub-section (3) shall be removed from such building or part thereof by any police officer.

(5) The [Municipal Commissioner] shall, on the application of nay person who has vacated any premises in pursuance of a notice under sub-section (1), reinstate such person in the premises on the withdrawal of such notice, unless it is in his opinion impracticable to restore substantially the same terms of occupation by reason of any structural alteration or demolition.

(6) The [Municipal Commissioner] may direct the removal from the said premises by any police officer of any person who obstructs him in any action taken under sub-section (5) and may also use such force as is reasonably necessary to affect entry in the said premises.

11. In the present case, once the building of Mukteshwar Mahadev Mukteshwari Durga Dharmarth Seva Samiti has been officially declared dangerous and a demolition notice dated 03.08.2021 has already been issued, the occupants are under a legal obligation to vacate the premises. Their continued occupation, despite clear findings of structural danger and partial collapse of the building on 29.08.2025, is directly contrary to Section 334(3). The Municipal Commissioner is, therefore, fully empowered under Section 334(4) to seek police assistance for removal of occupants and to ensure execution of demolition.

12. While sub-section (5) preserves limited reinstatement rights upon withdrawal of notice, such provision has no application where demolition becomes inevitable due to safety concerns. Accordingly, the statutory scheme makes it abundantly clear that once a building is declared dangerous, individual occupancy rights stand subordinated to public safety, and obstruction to demolition cannot be legally sustained.

13. This Court also takes note of the settled legal position that public safety overrides tenancy rights. A tenant"s right to occupy premises under the U.P. Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021 cannot be invoked to compel continued residence in a structure declared dangerous, nor can such right be used to expose occupants or the public to risk of life. Once a building is found unfit for human habitation, municipal authorities are legally empowered to proceed with demolition, and tenants cannot obstruct such statutory action.

14. It is equally well recognised that landlords are entitled to seek eviction where premises become unsafe for occupation. Conversely, tenants possess the right to demand maintenance of the property in habitable condition, and in case of neglect, may undertake necessary repairs and seek reimbursement in accordance with law.

15. However, none of these private rights can prevail over statutory duties of the Nagar Nigam to remove dangerous structures. That said, procedural fairness requires that occupants be afforded a reasonable opportunity to remove their personal belongings prior to demolition, unless emergent circumstances warrant immediate action.

16. It is held that the rights of the tenants in such an exigency will have to be dealt with under the Tenancy Act, 2021. The tenants, however, will not be entitled to object to the expeditious demolition of the tenanted building, particularly when the authorities have inspected the said premises and found the requirement of its demolition as imperative. The applicable scheme under the Act, 1959 for protection of life of individuals on account of building being dilapidated and posing threat to life of individuals will have to be given primacy over the protection of tenancy rights of individual applicants."

17. In view of the facts and circumstances, this Court is satisfied that the building in question is in a ruinous condition and deserves to be demolished without waiting for the dispute with the tenants to be resolved. Whatever rights they may be having under the provisions of Tenancy Act will always be available to them and the same cannot be held to be a ground to further delay the demolition of the building in question.

18. Accordingly, the Respondent No.3 is directed to demolish the building in question within two weeks from today duly notifying the date and time of demolition. Respondent No.4 is directed to ensure that necessary police force is provided during the time of demolition to ensure safety, security as well as maintenance of law and order. The respondent authority may recover the costs so incurred in demolition of the building from the petitioner as per law.

19. With the aforesaid observations/ directions, the writ petition is allowed.

Issue for Consideration

(A). Whether the State Government was bound by Arbitration Committee' report as an award and to question it, it could have applied only under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 and not otherwise.
(B). Whether Secretary who represented State Government could have recalled his earlier order accepting the report/ recommendation of Arbitration Committee without there being any averment or recitals coming in the order impugned that earlier order was obtained by fraud and/or misrepresentation.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 226; The Arbitration and Conciliation and Act, 1996-Section 34- Authority is not vested with power to recall its order for the sake of recall only. The authority is hide bound in law to record reasons and justify its action for recalling order- If an order does not suffer from any misrepresentation or fraud or an order in not bad for want of authority of law, it is to be taken as genuine order passed after due application of mind and hence such order cannot be permitted to be recalled.

While this court remanded the matter, it did not set aside the order of under Secretary dated 16th March, 2017 accepting the report/recommendation of three member arbitration committee. It recommend the matter for hearing petitioner as the order dated 11th July, 2017 recalling the order 30th June, 2017 was being set aside- There is no whisper of misrepresentation or fraud in getting order 30th June, 2017 passed, rather the findings are that recommendation of arbitration committee are flawed one. Secretary tried to sit over and above the recommendations of the Arbitration Committee which was earlier accepted by the State Government to test whether it was a mere recommendation or it was a complete award under order passed by Arbitration Committee. This remand does not empower the authority to travel beyond findings returned to a different conclusion than what has been returned by Arbitration Committee. Thus without challenging the matter under Section 34 of Arbitration and Conciliation and Act, 1996, the government is bound to accept recommendation of the arbitration committee.

Order of recall does not pass the test of principles upon which a recall can be justified qua administration or quasi judicial action.

Held- Findings returned on the basis of documents available in 2016 cannot be disturbed on the basis of some new report obtained after 8 years. This was certainly beyond scope of enquiry by the State to dilute the findings arrived at in the arbitration proceedings. The order of recall even on merits is bad. Thus order of recall cannot be sustained in law-Petition allowed. (E-15)

Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ramendra Pratap Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Alok Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri S.K.Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Briefly stated facts of the case are that in terms of Government Order dated 08th March, 2000 and consequential amended Government Order dated 20th April, 2001 fisheries department of the State published notice for auction of reservoir in district Sonbhadra and Mirzapur namely, Dhandhraul Reservoir and Baraudha Reservoir, Class I and Class III category respectively for fisheries on 8th December, 2014 and petitioner being highest bidder was granted fisheries lease in respect of Dhandhraul reservoir, Class I category, for a lease rent of Rs. 60,00,000/- per year, extandable to next two years on a year to year basis. The standard qua fisheries rights in reservoir came to be awarded to the petitioner on 17.12.2014 for the financial year 2014-15 and petitioner immediately undisputedly deposited 25 percent amount to Rs. 15 lacs before Auction Committee. The agreement was entered and petitioner spent money on seeds to grow fishes for the purposes of fishing. In order to lay eggs/ seeds in the clean reservoir seeds for growing fish for the fishing purposes and to start with fishing, petitioner was directed to enter an agreement vide letter dated 18th March, 2015 and was directed to deposit entire dues by 31st March, 2015, failing which interest would accrue @ 2 percent per month on delayed payment and in the event he failed to make deposits, tender lease qua fishing rights would automatically stand terminated.

3. Petitioner since failed to deposit any further amount, he was served with another notice on 25th June, 2015 to deposit remaining amount of Rs. 45 lacs alongwith interest by 30th June, 2015, else amount will be recoverable as arrears of land revenue. Petitioner replied to this notice vide letter dated 30th June, 2015, lamenting upon conduct of the people managing the dam, in opening the dam gate, which resulted in the grown fishes get slipped into canal from the reservoir and resultantly he suffered huge loss and resultantly he could not do much fishing and since this was done without notice to petitioner, he could not do anything in the matter and hence considering the quantum of remaining there in the reservoir, the contract money deposited was sufficient. Vide letter dated 14th July, 2015, petitioner informed to Joint Director of fisheries' department that as against expected 850 quintal of fish, he could fish out only 45.5. quintal of fish from the Dhandhraul reservoir and this was informed to the officers of the department who were posted at the reservoir. However, since there was serious disputed questions of fact as per arbitration clause under the agreement, one Bhishm Lal Vermal , Director Fisheries, U.P. was appointed as an arbitrator who issued a notice to the petitioner on 17th February, 2016 to appear and to put up his defence. The arbitrator further passed an order on 4th March, 2016 to the effect that since matter was engaging attention in a pending arbitration, therefore, recovery certificate dated 3rd December, 2015 for a sum of Rs. 49,27,905/- should not have been pressed into service. However upon this assurance that arbitration was going, petitioner withdrew his complaint made before consumer forum and order to that effect was passed by presiding officer of the consumer forum on 30th September, 2016. It is further noticeable that sole arbitrator stood transferred and consequently matter of arbitration was referred to Arbitration Committee appointed by the concerned Secretary, State of U.P. under his order dated 21st September, 2016. This committee consisted of Dr. Nazul Haq, Managing Director of Fisheries, Cooperative Societies Ltd. Lucknow as Chairman with N.S. Rahmani, Chief Manager of Fishing Development Board and A.K.Lal, Deputy Director, Headquarters, Directorate of Fisheries, member of Secretary. The matter was contested before Arbitration Committee by petitioner and ultimately arbitration committee arrived at a conclusion that since maximum fishes got slipped away into the canal on the opening of dam sluice gate reducing to lowest level of water in the reservoir, hence not much fishing could be done and fishing was only to the extent of 45.5. quintals as against 850 quintals, for which lease was awarded. The Arbitration Committee reached out to the conclusion that fishing for the financial year 2014-15 could be only of 45.5 quintals of which, the average cost would be Rs.4.60 lacs and petitioner since had already deposited Rs. 15 lacs as security amount in terms of bank guarantee of Rs, 9.93 lacs with respondent and since Rs. 22 lacs has been determined as lowest price and of contract amount money deposited by petitioner to the tune of Rs. 24.93 lacs was more than 22 lacs, hence there was no loss caused to the department. It was a finding returned by the Arbitration Committee that since contract was not there on 'as is where is' basis, it was duty of the department to have ensured enough water in the reservoir in the event if sluice gates were to be opened so as to ensure that fishes do not get slipped away into the canal causing loss to contractor and hence contractor cannot be held responsible for the loss. The Arbitration Committee, thus, concluded that though loss was caused to the department but since fish lease had already been cancelled, therefore, government should waive off recovery dues taking sympathetic consideration of the matter. Upon this arbitration, judgment being submitted to the State Government, the State Government accepted the same and waived off recovery vide order dated 16th March, 2017. Paragraphs 4 and 5 of the order are important and hence reproduced hereunder:

English Translation by this Court:

" 4. It has been apprised by above constituted arbitration committed vide its report that because of carelessness flawed service and illegal application of business rules and that too without notice the gate of reservoir dam and that of the main Dhandhraul Canal were opened which resulted in bringing dam water in its lowest level and fishes worth crores of rupees slipped away into Dhandhraul reservoir and main canal for which only 45.5. quintals of fishing could be done under the contract. This has also been submitted in the report that in subsequent order through rains the price of Dhandhraul reservoir were fixed as Rs. 22 lacs, which was less than Rs. 24.93 lacs (15 lacs price 25 percent of the contract and Rs. 9.93 lacs secured amount) already deposited. There was no loss caused to the fishing department comparing previous year and the coming year rainy season. Accordingly, arbitration committee recommends State Government to write-off liability of petitioner by way of recovery of setting of the amount already paid taking sympathetic consideration in the matter.

5. I have been directed to state in this matter that government has decided to write-off the remainder amount of recovery Rs. 49,27,905 in the light of recommendation made by the arbitration committee in favour of contractor Mustaq Ahmad, S/o Ishak Ahamd, R/o East Mohal, Hamidnagar, district Sonbhadra.

Accordingly, necessarily, it may be proceeded"

4. This order, however, came to be recalled on 30th June, 2017 not assigning any specific reason, but only recording a fact that upon re-examination of report submitted by Arbitration Committee, it was found that there was no transparency and proper appreciation of evidence and documents before Arbitration Committee arriving at conclusion to recommend for waiving off of debts, consequentlly recovery came to be issued on 11th July, 2017 for a sum of Rs. 49,27,905/-.

Petitioner challenged this order on the ground that authority has proceeded ex parte in recalling order, which was not proper administrative exercise of power.

5. Writ petition being Writ C No. 37592 of 2017 was entertained and interim protection was granted, but subsequently while petition was allowed setting aside the order and recovery order dated 30.6.2017 dated 11th July, 2017 and also recovery citation dated 21st July, 2017, remitting matter to the Principle Secretary, Department of Animal Husbandry and Fisheries, Government of U.P. Lucknow to decide afresh. Now after matter was remitted, again an order came to be passed on 9th January, 2024 rejecting the representation of the petitioner dated 19.9.2023 being baseless and directing for 90 percent of recoverable amount of Rs. 49,27,905/- from the petitioner and 10 percent from the Chief Fish Development Officer. This order, therefore, was awarded in a sense that the order dated 30th June, 2017 stands modified.

6. Two fold arguments have been advanced by learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner:

(a) Once arbitral award had been passed holding petitioner not guilty for violating any terms of contract though department suffered loss, thus findings became final and were subject to review only in the event arbitration petition was filed before District Judge and thereafter an appeal preferred, if aggrieved; and

(b) Administrative exercise of power by the State to accept Arbitration Committee recommendation could not have been recalled unless and until findings came to be returned and that order was obtained by fraud and/or misrepresentation and that the order was without any authority of law and this being no fact position of the case earlier, order dated 16th March, 2017 could not have been recalled.

7. Yet another argument has been advanced by Sri Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner that matter was remanded by court only for a limited purpose and this is to the extent that petitioner was to be heard as order was passed without hearing, but opportunity of hearing does not mean that authority which is vested with power can pass order reviewing/recalling is earlier order on merits when it was no questioned. Thus Mr. Singh submits that petition deserves to be allowed and order as well as recovery deserves to be quashed.

8. Meeting the above submission Sri S.K.Singh, learned Chief Standing Counsel raised three points:

a. There was no concept of Arbitration Committee and only single member arbitrator was to appoint and hence committee could not have acted as an arbitrator;

b. Arbitration Committee's order dated 17.10.2016 was only recommendation, and therefore, it was open for the State government to have taken a different stand.

c. The order passed by Secretary is based on sound legal principle of justice as opportunity of hearing was afforded, inasmuch as, sufficient material was there to doubt the findings returned by the arbitration committee.

9. In support of his above submission, Sri Srivastava, emphasized upon a point of law that once party had entered an agreement with another party, it was bound by arbitration of the agreement, and therefore, petitioner was required to deposit entire lease rent by 31st March, 2015 and in any case by extended period of 30th June, 2015. He argued that subsequent report dated 5.12.2023 raised by Director, Fisheries, reservoir water could not be emptied or could not be brought to its minimal level by opening the sluice gate of dam to allow fishes pushed in reservoir to get overflowed with water through gate. Thus, according to him finding returned by the Arbitration Committee was perverse. He also reiterated a fact position that Arbitration Committee colluded with petitioner in recording a finding in his favour by concluding that he was liable to the dues and amount already deposited by him could not have been set off against dues. He submitted that against all these members of the Arbitration Committee, disciplinary proceedings had been initiated.

10. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, two legal points emerged for our consideration:

i. Whether the State Government was bound by Arbitration Committee' report as an award and to question it, it could have applied only under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 and not otherwise

ii. Whether Secretary who represented State Government could have recalled his earlier order accepting the report/ recommendation of Arbitration Committee without there being any averment or recitals coming in the order impugned that earlier order was obtained by fraud and/or misrepresentation.

11. Coming to the first aspect involved in the matter, we find there to be no quarrel between the parties as to arbitration clause, nor there is any quarrel in respect of the matter of reference made to arbitrator as State Government itself had appointed one Bhism Lal Verma as an arbitrator.

12. The averment has been made vide paragraph 28 that arbitrator was transferred from department of fisheries to revenue department and said arbitration matter was thereafter referred to a three member committee appointed by the State Government through order passed by Special Secretary dated 21st September, 2016. Paragraph 28 of the writ petition runs as under:

"2*8. That the sole Arbitrator was transferred from the Department of Fisheries and Revenue Department, hence the Arbitration matter was referred to the three member Arbitrator committee. The appointment of three member Arbitrators committee were made by office order dated 21.09.2016. Section 2d defines about Arbitrational Tribunal. Section 10 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, defines about numbers of Arbitrator. The photocopy of the order dated 21.09.2016 is being filed here and marked as Annexure No. 18 to this writ petition"*

13. This appointment of Arbitration Committee has not been denied, rather allegations have been made against petitioner that since he did not appear before sole arbitrator, he closed arbitration proceeding on 7.4.2016 and in the circumstances, government was compelled to appoint three member arbitration committee. Paragraph 36 of the counter affidavit runs as under:

"That the contents of paragraph no. 28 of the writ petition, as stated, are absolutely wrong and incorrect, hence vehemently denied. It is wrong to say that the sole arbitrator was transferred from the department of fisheries and revenue department, hence the arbitration matter was referred to the three-member Arbitrator Committee. It is reiterated that the petitioner himself did not appear and cooperate the sole arbitration proceedings, it is therefore, the sole arbitrator closed the arbitration proceeding vide order dated 7.4.2016. Thereafter, the Government proceeded to appoint three member Conciliation Committee."

14. This above quoted paragraph 36 of the counter affidavit has been sworn on the basis of record, but no records have been appended in form of order dated 7.4.2016 by which it could be inferred that arbitrator had closed the arbitration proceedings, instead what we find is that order of Secretary of the State Government appointing a three member arbitration committee does not refer to any such order. Thus in absence of specific denial to what has averred in paragraph 28 in the writ petition, it is liable to be assumed a that three member arbitration committee came to be appointed by the State Government after sole arbitrator had stood transferred.

15. In any view of the matter, once matter stood transferred to a three member arbitration committee, it will be taken as arbitration proceedings and Sri Sravastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel could not point out anything from the relevant clauses of the agreement that there was a provision for appointment of a sole arbitrator and not a three member arbitration committee.

16. We have gone through terms of agreement entered between the parties and we do not find anything there to be any such thing in any of clauses which mandated for only sole /one member arbitrator. The relevant provision of agreement is quoted hereunder:

"11. जलाशय के ठेके के सम्बन्ध में किसी भी प्रकार का विवाद उत्पन्न होने की स्थिति में प्रकरण मध्यस्थ को दिया जायेगा। मध्यस्थ की नियुक्ति निदेशक मत्स्य द्वारा की जायेगी, जिनके द्वारा निर्णय अन्तिम एवं सभी पक्षों को मान्य होगा।"

English translation by this Court:

"In the event of any dispute relating to contract of reservoir, matter will be referred for mediation. Mediator shall be appointed by Director Fisheries who decision shall be final and shall be binding upon the parties."

17. Thus, it is clear that there was a valid appointment of three member arbitration committee and it came to pass an award on 17.10.2016 settling payments already made by petitioner against recovery and directing for State to waive off recovery in terms of findings returned by the the Arbitration Committee. So finding part of the Arbitration Committee clearly records that as per agreement petitioner was to do fishing to the tune of 850 quintals of fish from reservoir whereas he could do finishing only 45.5. quintals because water of the reservoir got at the bottom and most of the fishes slipped through sluice gate into canal and nearby area after it was opened and that too without notice to the petitioner. These findings were never assailed and hence would be taken for the purpose of arbitration as having a binding effect under the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996. The Arbitration Committee's award could have been challenged of course, before District Judge under Section 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 but the State chose not question it but to accept the same. Accordingly on behalf of State Government an order came to be passed by under Secretary on 16th March, 2017 accepting report and writing off of the entire dues of the petitioner.

18. From the above quoted paragraphs (vide paragraph 3 above) of the order of the Under-Secretary dated 16th March, 2017, it has become absolutely clear that findings returned by the Arbitration Committee had been accepted in toto and consequently relief was granted to the petitioner but suddenly this order came to be recalled for no justifiable reasons, vide order dated 30th June, 2017. Findings returned in the order dated dated 30th June, 2017 given justified reason for recall was that the order passed by the Arbitration Committee was without proper appreciation of documents and suffered from lack of transparency, inasmuch as, report was ex parte. The reasons assigned in the order dated 30th June, 2017 vide paragraphs 2 and 3 of the order is reproduced hereunder:

"2. इस सम्बन्ध में मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि प्रकरण मे मध्यस्थता समिति द्वारा उपलब्ध करायी गयी रिपोर्ट/संस्तुति का पुनः परीक्षण करने पर यह पाया गया कि मध्यस्थता समिति द्वारा प्रकरण के सम्बन्ध मे सम्पूर्ण तथ्यों का निष्पक्ष व पारदर्शी विश्लेषण न करते हुए एक पक्षीय आख्या प्रस्तुत करते हुए श्री मुस्ताक अहमद पुत्र श्री इस्हाक अहमद निवासी पूरब मोहान हामिदनगर जनपद सोनभद्र पर श्रेणी-1 क धंधरौल जलाशय जनपद सोनभद्र की अवशेष धनराशि/किश्त रू0 49,27,905/- की आर०सी० मे माध्यम से वसूली को माफ किये जाने के सम्बन्ध में अनियमित रूप से अपनी संस्तुति शासक को प्रस्तुत की गयी।

English Translation by this Court:

"2. In this regard I have been directed to state that after re-examining the report/recommendation of the arbitration committee and having analysed in an impartial and transparent manner, it has been found that arbitration committee had submitted ex parte report directing/recommending for writing off the dues of Rs. 49,27,905/- in respect of class I reservoir

Dhandhraul of which contract was awarded to Mustaq Ahmad S/o Ishhaq Ahmad, R/o- East Mohan, Hamidnagar, district Sonbhadra .

3. Having examined the matter comprehensively regarding liability imposed upon Mustaq Ahmad S/o Ishhaq Ahmad, R/o- East Mohan, Hamidnagar, district Sonbhadra of Rs. 49,27,905 through recovery certificate in respect of Dhandhraul reservoir, the order being no.1959/17-M-2016-0-9(320)/2016 dated 16th March, 2017 issued to write-off of dues, is hereby cancelled.

Please do needful measures accordingly immediately."

19. Recitals as contained in the above quoted paragraphs amounted to reviewing the order passed earlier by the under Secretary dated 16th March, 2017. If the Chief Secretary or the Special Secretary is taken to be higher authority, then it amounted to an appeal sitting over and above the order of the Under-Secretary which in our considered view may be a gross indiscipline for want of statutory provision may invite disciplinary action. Power of review cannot be, therefore, available, but power to recall would of course, be available provided, it is brought to the notice of the authority that earlier the order was obtained by fraud/misrepresentation or of course, in the event order was without authority of law. What we find is that in earlier order dated 16th March, 2016, there was absolute discussion on the findings returned by the Arbitration Committee, but in order of recall dated 13th June, 2017, there was no reason assigned as to why this finding earlier accepted was bad. Upon being challenged before this Court ,this order came to be set aside by the court by a detailed judgement dated 26th April, 2023 directing for reconsideration of the matter and passing order afresh. The Court basically quashed the order for the reason that order was passed by the Secretary to the Government without affording opportunity of hearing. Now this time, petitioner represented the matter and the order was passed after considering the representation.

20. One of the arguments advanced by Sri Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner was that merely for a fact that matter was remanded, it did not mean that authority got vested with power to take fresh decision on merits. It was further argued before this Court that it would remain question of law as to whether order passed by Secretary on behalf of the State after applying its mind could have been recalled in the absence of any finding of misrepresentation or fraud.

21. The legal position as emerges out in the case of Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd. (1996) 5 SCC 550, the Supreme Court vide paragraph 20 has held thus:

"20. By filing letter No.2775 of 26.8.91 along with the Review Petition and contending that the other letter, namely, letter No.2776 of the even date, was never written or issued by the respondent, the appellant, in fact, raised the plea before the Commission that its judgment dated 16.11.93, which was based on letter No. 2776, was obtained by the respondent by practising fraud not only on the appellant but on the Commission too as letter No.2776 dated 26.8.91 was forged by the respondent for the purpose of this case. This plea could not have been legally ignored by the Commission which needs to be reminded that the Authorities, be they Constitutional, Statutory or Administrative, (and particularly those who have to decide a lis) possess the power to recall their judgments or orders if they are obtained by fraud as Fraud and Justice never dwell together (Fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant). It has been repeatedly said that Fraud and deceit defend or excuse no man (Fraus et dolus nemini patrocinari debent).

21. In Smith v. East Elloe Rural District Council (1956) AC 736, the House of Lords held that the effect of fraud would normally be to vitiate any act or order. In another case, Lazarus Estates Ltd. v. Beasley (QB at p. 712). Denning, L.J. said:

" No judgment of a court, no order of a minister, can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud. Fraud unravels everything.'

22. This view has been further approved by Supreme Court in the matter in the case of Budhia Swain and Others v. Gopinath Deb and Others (1999)4 SCC 396, in which the Supreme Court vide paragraph 6 has held thus:

"What is a power to recall? Inherent power to recall its own order vesting in tribunals or courts was noticed in Indian Bank v. Satyam Fibres (India) (P) Ltd. [(1996) 5 SCC 550] Vide para 23, this Court has held that the courts have inherent power to recall and set aside an order.

i) obtained by fraud practised upon the court,

(ii) when the court is misled by a party, or

(iii) when the court itself commits a mistake which prejudices a party.

In A.R. Antulay v. R.S. Nayak [(1988) 2 SCC 602 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 372 : AIR 1988 SC 1531, para 130] (vide para 130), this Court has noticed motions to set aside judgments being permitted where

(i) a judgment was rendered in ignorance of the fact that a necessary party had not been served at all and was shown as served or in ignorance of the fact that a necessary party had died and the estate was not represented,

(ii) a judgment was obtained by fraud,

(iii) a party has had no notice and a decree was made against him and such party approaches the court for setting aside the decision ex debito justitiae on proof of the fact that there was no service."

23. From the above sound legal principle of law enunciated in above cited decisions, it is clear that authority is not vested with power to recall its order for the sake of recall only. The authority is hide bound in law to record reasons and justify its action for recalling order.

24. In our considered view an order if does not suffer from any misrepresentation or fraud or an order in not bad for want of authority of law , it is to be taken as genuine order passed after due application of mind and hence such order cannot be permitted to be recalled. We find apt here to mention that while this court remanded the matter, it did not set aside the order of under Secretary dated 16th March, 2017 accepting the report/recommendation of three member arbitration committee. It recommend the matter for hearing petitioner as the order dated 11th July, 2017 recalling the order 30th June, 2017 was being set aside. After going through the entire order impugned in this petition, we find that there is no whisper of misrepresentation or fraud in getting order 30th June, 2017 passed, rather the findings are that recommendation of arbitration committee are flawed one. Secretary tried to sit over and above the recommendations of the Arbitration Committee which was earlier accepted by the State Government to test whether it was a mere recommendation or it was a complete award under order passed by Arbitration Committee. This remand does not empower the authority to travel beyond findings returned to a different conclusion than what has been returned by Arbitration Committee. Thus without challenging the matter under Section 34 of Arbitration and Conciliation and Act, 1996, the government is bound to accept recommendation of the arbitration committee.

25. In view above, first point stands answered in favour of petitioner and against the State.

26. Coming to second point as to whether order could have been recalled. We have already held above held that order of recall does not pass the test of principles upon which a recall can be justified qua administration or quasi judicial action .

27. Besides above, we find that under the order impugned new report has come to be relied upon which is dated 5th December, 2023 much after cancellation of lease. There was no occasion for respondents to have obtained report only in the year 2023 more than eight years expiring since 2015. The maintenance of reservoir and minimum level of water was an issue in 2015 and what happened in 2015 cannot be said to have remained same in 2023. For investigation or enquiring a matter of incident happened in the year 2015, there was absolutely no occasion for calling a fresh report in 2015 to test the order passed on the basis of report available in the year 2015. No recitals contained in the order impugned go on to demonstrate that this report of the year 2023 was shown to the petitioner at any point of time. The entire order is based upon report which shows that minimum level of water was maintained and the reservoir cannot be emptied and hence findings were bad.

28. In our considered view findings returned on the basis of documents available in 2016 cannot be disturbed on the basis of some new report obtained after 8 years. This was certainly beyond scope of enquiry by the State to dilute the findings arrived at in the arbitration proceedings. The order of recall even on merits is bad. Thus order of recall cannot be sustained in law.

29. In view of above, writ petition thus succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 9.1.2024 passed by Additional Chief Secretary, U.P. Government, Annexure No. 1 is quashed and consequential order dated 18.1.2024 passed by respondent no. 4 (Annexure no. 2) if any shall be automatically quashed.

30. No order as to cost.

Writ C No. 8940 of 2025

Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a revision under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 against a demand notice is maintainable;
Whether the revisional authority has jurisdiction to review its own order;
Whether absence of opportunity of hearing vitiates the revisional order; and Whether the allottee was entitled to grant of zero period benefit in the facts of the case.

HEADNOTE

U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 – s. 41(3) – Revision – Maintainability – Review jurisdiction – Opportunity of hearing – Lease allotment – Reduction of land area –Zero period

Held: On 14.12.2022, GNIDA issued a demand notice regarding lease premium and lease rent calculated up to 15.12.2022, amounting to Rs.1,06,78,71,600.15 – The opposite party no.2 filed a revision under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, read with Section 12 of the U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, 1976 – The revision was allowed by the order dated 19.10.2023, holding that the allottee is entitled to be granted zero period benefit till execution of the supplementary deed on 29.04.2014.
The power conferred upon the State Government under Section 41(3) is wide enough to examine the propriety of a demand – After having submitted to the jurisdiction of the revisional authority and having contested the revision on merits and having filed successive review applications, the petitioner cannot be permitted to raise the plea of non-maintainability for the first time in writ proceedings – Court held that the revisional authority has no power to review its orders – Court found no force in the submission of the petitioner that the impugned revisional order was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing, as the record revealed that the petitioner had filed detailed objections against the revision, which were taken into consideration while deciding the revision and were dealt with appropriately.
Although the lease-deed was executed on 24.11.2010, a supplementary lease-deed was executed on 29.04.2014, reducing the area of the leased land by about 40%. The opposite party no.2 was not at fault for the substantial decrease in the area leased out and suffered for the delay in finalisation of the area – Execution of lease deed in respect of land which GNIDA had no right to transfer and subsequent execution of a correction deed decreasing the land area was without any fault of the opposite party no.2 – The lessee could not even prepare a development plan till a possession certificate in respect of the revised land area was issued on 05.05.2014 – The Court held that the revisional authority has not committed any error or illegality and that the opposite party no.2 is entitled to be granted the benefit of zero period till execution of the supplementary deed on 29.04.2014 – Accordingly, the orders dated 29.05.2024 and 07.11.2024 passed by the Revisional Authority on the review applications filed by the petitioner were set aside, while the finding that the lessee is entitled to get zero period benefit till execution and registration of the supplementary deed dated 29.04.2014 is upheld, with consequential directions. Mathur, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Siddharth Nandwani, Advocate, the learned counsel for the respondent No.2.

2. By means of means of the instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India the petitioner-Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority (hereinafter referred to as 'GNIDA') has challenged the validity of an order dated 19.10.2023, passed by the opposite party no.1 - the State Government, in Revision No.6430/77-4-23/01 Appeal/23, under Section 41(3) of U. P. Urban Development and Planning Act, 1973 (Annexure No.3 to the petition), order dated 29.05.2024, passed by the opposite party no.1 in Case No.2836/77-4-24/01/Appeal/23, under Section 41(3) of U. P. Urban Development and Planning Act, 1973 (Annexure No.2 to the petition) and order dated 07.11.2024 (Annexure No.7 to the petition).

3. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that in the year 2010 GNIDA had invited applications for allotment of land for developing residential township in Sector 16-C, Greater Noida (West) as per scheme code BRS03/2010. The tender submitted by M/s Mahagun India Private Limited (the opposite party no.2) was accepted and an allotment letter dated 19.08.2010 was issued in its favour. On 24.11.2010, GNIDA executed a lease-deed in favour of the opposite party no.2 in respect of land bearing plot No. GH-04, situated in Sector 16C, Greater Noida admeasuring 2,41,570 square meters, for a total premium of Rs.279,27,90,770/-. The opposite party no.2 paid Rs.27,92,79,077/- and the balance amount of premium was to be paid in instalments between the period 19.02.2011 and 19.08.2020. As per the terms and conditions of the lease, the opposite party no.2 was obliged to submit a building plan and the master plan showing the phases for execution of the project for approval within six months from the date of possession and it was required to commence construction within 12 months from the date of delivery of possession, which was the date of execution of the lease-deed. The project was to be completed in a maximum of five phases within a period of seven years from the date of execution of the lease-deed, which could be extended by three years, subject to payment of the stipulated time extension charges. Clause-4 of the lease-deed specifically provided that in case the lessee fails to complete the project within the aforesaid period, including the extended period of 10 years, the allotment and the lease shall be cancelled.

4. On 26.07.2011, GNIDA informed the opposite party no.2 that a correction deed was required to be executed, changing the leased area from 2,41,570 square meters to 1,45,737.80 square meters and the correction deed was executed on 22.04.2014. On 05.05.2014, physical possession of the leased land was handed over to the opposite party no.2 and a possession certificate was issued.

5. On 10.05.2016, the opposite party no.2 wrote a letter to GNIDA, stating that out of the revised area of 1,45,737.80 square meters, physical possession of only 1,37,400.80 square meters had been handed over to it and possession of 8,337 square meters of land had not been delivered to the lessee because of some pending litigation. Subsequently, possession of land bearing khasra no.189, measuring 3,070 square meters and khasra no.257, measuring 950 square meters (totalling to 4,020 square meters), was given to the lessee, but physical possession of land bearing khasra no. 192, measuring 4,317 square meters was not delivered to the lessee. The lessee stated that GNIDA was not entitled to charge any interest on the outstanding amount till possession of the entire leased land was handed over to it.

6. On 28.10.2016, the opposite party no.2 submitted a drawing of the project for approval of GNIDA. On 23.01.2017, the opposite party no.2 moved an application for extension of time for completion of the project by allowing an initial three years' period and zero period for construction and completion of a minimum 15% area, and paid Rs.50,56,625/- as time extension fee. On 30.01.2017, GNIDA sent a letter to the opposite party no.2, informing that the zero period from 12.05.2011 till 24.08.2012 (470 days) had been granted. It was stated in the letter that the time for completing the first phase stood expired on 09.03.2015 and the first phase of the project ought to have been completed by 07.11.2016. Paid time extension for completion of the first phase of the project was granted till 09.03.2017.

7. On 09.10.2016 GNIDA approved the development plan for the total plot area measuring 1,45,737.80 square meters, which was valid for a period of five years.

8. On 23.02.2017 the petitioner issued a partial occupancy certificate for 10 towers constructed by the opposite party no.2. On 07.03.2017 the opposite party no.2 requested for execution of sub-lease-deeds in favor of the allottees. On 19.04.2017 GNIDA issued a letter to the opposite party no.2 demanding payment of the pending dues. On 25.01.2018, an allottee of the opposite party no.2 filed a complaint before GNIDA, stating that the opposite party no.2 was executing conveyance deeds in respect of areas exceeding the area approved by GNIDA in the partial occupancy certificate. On 09.02.2018, GNIDA issued an occupancy certificate in respect of 1649 units in nine residential blocks and commercial blocks to the opposite party no.2.

9. The opposite party no.2 filed an application before the Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Gautam Buddha Nagar, for refund of excess stamp duty paid by it, which application was rejected by means of an order dated 21.08.2018. The opposite party no.2 challenged the order dated 21.08.2018 by filing Writ-C No. 36468 of 2018 before this Court sitting at Allahabad. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed off by means of an order dated 01.11.2018 by providing that the opposite party no.2 may file an application before the Joint Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, who shall re-adjudicate the matter regarding refund of stamp duty in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the judgment of Committee-GFIL Versus. Libra Buildtech Private Limited and others reported in (2015) 16 SCC 31 and the order dated 28.05.2018 passed by this Court in Writ-C No. 16639 of 2018.

10. On 22.08.2019, GNIDA issued a notice to the opposite party no.2, stating that it had committed default in payment of Rs.32,36,93,305/-. The letter informed them that a policy for re-scheduling the dues was in vogue and in case the petitioner wanted to avail the benefit under the policy, he could submit an application until 31.08.2019. The letter asked the petitioner to deposit the balance amount by 31.08.2019 or to apply for re-scheduling the payment of dues, failing which proceedings for the cancellation of the lease would be initiated.

11. On 23.12.2019, opposite party no.2 gave a letter to GNIDA stating that the area of land allotted and leased and the amount payable by the lessee was altered and adjusted by GNIDA and the opposite party no.2 had not been handed over possession of the entire land area as per the allotment letter and the initial lease-deed. The affected area was more than 30% of the total area allotted, which had effected the project planning, execution and cash flow of the company and, therefore, the opposite party no.2 was eligible for getting the zero period benefit as per the policy. The opposite party no.2 requested that approval be accorded for a zero-interest period from day one i.e. 19.08.2010 to 05.05.2014 (the date of handing over possession).

12. In this regard, the contention of GNIDA is that land measuring 1,45,737 square meters had been allotted and handed over to the opposite party no.2 on 05.05.2014. The demands had been revised accordingly, the amount already deposited had been adjusted and the balance amount was payable in 16 half-yearly instalments. The opposite party no.2 had already been granted the benefit of a zero period from 12.05.2011 till 24.08.2012 by means of a letter dated 30.01.2017. GNIDA claims that the lessee was not entitled to any further benefit of zero period. GNIDA issued a notice dated 31.01.2020 directing the opposite party no.2 to pay the pending lease premium and stating that in case of failure of the opposite party no.2 to pay the amount, its lease shall be cancelled.

13. The opposite party no.2 filed Writ-C No. 6647 of 2020 before this Court sitting at Allahabad, regarding refund of stamp duty. On 03.03.2020, this Court passed an order in the aforesaid writ petition directing the State and GNIDA to file counter affidavits clarifying as to whether the State of U.P. or GNIDA is the authority responsible for refund of the proportionate amount of stamp duty.

14. On 14.12.2022, GNIDA issued a demand notice regarding lease premium and lease rent calculated till 15.12.2022, amounting to Rs.1,06,78,71,600.15. The opposite party no.2 filed a revision under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, read with Section 12 of the Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority Act with the following prayers: -

"I. To issue a suitable order or direction calling for the record and quashing the impugned order dated 14.12.2022 passed by the respondent authority vide letter No.ग्रे.नौ./बिल्डर्स/2022/4307.

II. To issue a suitable order or direction directing the respondent to pay excess stamp duty amounting to Rs.6,14,18,000/- (Rupees Six Crores Fourteen Lakhs Eighteen Thousand only) alongwith interest @ 18% p.a. calculated w.e.f. 25.11.2010 till actual payment to petitioner;

III. To issue a suitable order or direction directing the respondent authority to declare the period from 2011 to 2015 as 'zero period' due to farmer agitation, subsequent waiver of the entire interest of the zero period and adjustment with principal amount of the land premium paid to Respondent for plot no. GH-04, Sector-16C, Greater Noida (WEST) and reschedule the payment plan of the said plot of land as the entire project of the petitioner company was stalled without any fault of the petitioner, firstly due to farmer agitation, and Secondly due to inaction of Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority (GNIDA) in regard to repeated request for Zero period;

IV. To issue a suitable order or direction directing the respondent authority to declare the period from 15-03-2020 to 25-09-2020 as 'zero period' due to outbreak of Noval Corona Virus (COVID-19), subsequent waiver of the entire interest of the zero period and adjustment with principal amount of the land premium paid to Respondent for plot no. GH-04, Sector-16C, Greater Noida (West);

V. To issue a suitable order or direction directing the respondent authority to declare the period from 01-04-2021 to 30-06-2021 as 'zero period' due to second wave of Covid-19 as a force majeure event and subsequent waiver of the entire interest of the zero period sand adjustment with principal amount of the land premium paid to Respondent for plot no. GH-04, Sector-16C, Greater Noida (West);

VI. To issue a suitable order or direction. directing the respondent authority to declare the period from 10-06-2020 to 07-11-2022 as 'zero period' due to pending litigation between authority and the builders in Supreme Court in WP (C) No. 940 of 2017 Bikram Chatterji & Anr Vs Union of India, subsequent waiver of the entire interest of the zero period and adjustment with principal amount of the land premium paid to Respondent for plot no. GH-04, Sector-16C, Greater Noida (West);

VII. Issue appropriate orders for awarding damages for the financial loss and loss of time suffered by the petitioner;

VIII. Pass such other and further orders as this Hon'ble Authority may deem fit and property in the facts and circumstances of this case."

15. GNIDA filed objections against the revision inter alia stating that the petitioner had already been granted the benefit of zero period from 12.05.2011 to 24.08.2012 and the instalments payable after the zero period were postponed by six months each. The petitioner had submitted a representation dated 24.12.2019 for being given the benefit of zero period in terms of the Government Order dated 05.12.2019, which was examined by a committee. The committee recommended that after the Hon'ble Supreme Court cancelled the acquisition of land in village Shahberi, 95,832.20 square meters of land was affected and only 145,737.80 square meters of land remained to be allotted. GNIDA had communicated with the opposite party no.2 for execution of a declaration/correction deed on 26.07.2011, but the allottee caused a delay in execution of the deed till 22.04.2014. As the delay in execution of the declaration/correction deed has been caused by the allottee, it is not entitled to get the benefit of time extension. It is specifically stated in its reply that plot no. GH04, Sector C, allotted to the opposite party no.2, consists of lands bearing Khasra numbers 190, 192, 261, 262, 263, 266, 255, 253, 252, 251, 249, 248, 269, 290, 271, 272, 274, 275, 270, 268, 245, 246, 243 and 250 situated in village Chipiana Khurd and as per a report dated 22.01.2020 submitted by the legal department of the authority, no writ petitions were pending regarding the aforesaid lands.

16. The report submitted by the committee further stated that the building plan was approved on 12.05.2016 and the completion certificate of 1802 flats constructed in 10 towers in the first phase of the project was issued on 23.02.2017, which shows that constructions had been raised till that date.

17. The revision was allowed by the impugned order dated 19.10.2023, passed by the State Government holding that although the land was allotted to the opposite party no.2 and a lease-deed was executed on 24.11.2010, as the acquisition of land in village Shahberi was quashed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court a supplementary lease-deed was executed on 29.04.2014 reducing area of the leased land. This High Court had also quashed the acquisition of a part of the land by an order dated 12.05.2011. In these circumstances, it was not possible to raise any construction on the land. The land allotted to the opposite party no.2 got affected by the orders passed by the Court due to fault of the GNIDA and there was no fault of the allottee in it and, therefore, the allottee is entitled to be granted zero period benefit till execution of the supplementary deed on 29.04.2014. The revisional authority further held that the High Court had passed a stay order dated 16.03.2016 in respect of 9,937 square meters area of the allotted land, which continued to remain operative till 04.08.2017 and declared zero period for the aforesaid area for the aforesaid period. The revisional authority further ordered that the allottee will be entitled to a reduction of the interest rate as per the Government Order dated 09.06.2020 and zero period for the Covid-19 pandemic in furtherance of the Government Order dated 20.07.2022. The revisional authority directed GNIDA to ensure refund of the amount of excess stamp duty in compliance with the Government Order dated 25.06.2019. The revisional authority set aside the notice dated 14.12.2022, directed the GNIDA to recalculate the dues of the opposite party no.2 and directed the opposite party no.2 to deposit 25% of the amount of dues within one month and to pay the balance amount in four six-monthly instalments.

18. GNIDA has contended that Writ-C No.6647 of 2020 filed by the opposite party no.2 regarding refund of excess amount paid as stamp duty is still pending consideration of this Court sitting at Allahabad and this fact was concealed by the opposite party no.2 and the State Government has passed the impugned order dated 23.10.2023 directing refund of the amount of stamp duty ignoring the fact of pendency of writ petition regarding the aforesaid prayer. Placing reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhaskar Laxman Jadhav and others Vs. Karamveer Kakasaheb Wagh Education Society and others: (2013) 11 SCC 531, the learned Counsel for GNIDA has submitted that a person who indulges in misleading, concealing and clever drafting is guilty of fraud and is not entitled to invoke the jurisdiction of any Court of law.

19. The petitioner has also placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Meghmala Vs. J. Narssimha Reddy: (2010) 8 SCC 383 in which the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as under: -

"28. It is settled proposition of law that where an applicant gets an order/office by making misrepresentation or playing fraud upon the competent Authority, such order cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. "Fraud avoids all judicial acts ecclesiastical or temporal." (Vide S.P. Chengalvaraya Naidu (dead) by L.Rs. Vs. Jagannath (dead) by L.Rs. & Ors. AIR 1994 SC 853). In Lazarus Estate Ltd. Vs. Besalay 1956 All. E.R. 349), the Court observed without equivocation that 'no judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud, for fraud unravels everything.'

33. Fraud is an intrinsic, collateral act, and fraud of an egregious nature would vitiate the most solemn proceedings of Courts of justice. Fraud is an act of deliberate deception with a design to secure something, which is otherwise not due. The expression 'fraud' involves two elements, deceit and injury to the person deceived. It is a cheating intended to get an advantage. (Vide Dr. Vimla Vs. Delhi Administration AIR 1963 SC 1572; Indian Bank Vs. Satyam Fibres (India) Pvt. Ltd. (1996) 5 SCC 550; State of Andhra Pradesh Vs. T. Suryachandra Rao AIR 2005 SC 3110; K.D. Sharma Vs. Steel Authority of India Ltd. & Ors. (2008) 12 SCC 481; and Regional Manager, Central Bank of India Vs. Madhulika Guruprasad Dahir & Ors. (2008) 13 SCC 170).

34. An act of fraud on Court is always viewed seriously. A collusion or conspiracy with a view to deprive the rights of the others in relation to a property would render the transaction void ab initio. Fraud and deception are synonymous. Although in a given case a deception may not amount to fraud, fraud is anathema to all equitable principles and any affair tainted with fraud cannot be perpetuated or saved by the application of any equitable doctrine including res judicata. Fraud is proved when it is shown that a false representation has been made (i) knowingly, or (ii) without belief in its truth, or (iii) recklessly, careless whether it be true or false. Suppression of a material document would also amount to a fraud on the Court. (Vide S.P. Changalvaraya Naidu (supra); Gowrishankar & Anr. Vs. Joshi Amba Shankar Family Trust & Ors. AIR 1996 SC 2202; Ram Chandra Singh Vs. Savitri Devi & Ors. (2003) 8 SCC 319; Roshan Deen Vs. Preeti Lal AIR 2002 SC 33; Ram Preeti Yadav Vs. U.P. Board of High School & Intermediate Education AIR 2003 SC 4628; and Ashok Leyland Ltd. Vs. State of Tamil Nadu & Anr. AIR 2004 SC 2836).

36. From the above, it is evident that even in judicial proceedings, once a fraud is proved, all advantages gained by playing fraud can be taken away. In such an eventuality the questions of non-executing of the statutory remedies or statutory bars like doctrine of res judicata are not attracted. Suppression of any material fact/document amounts to a fraud on the Court. Every Court has an inherent power to recall its own order obtained by fraud as the order so obtained is non est."

20. On 28.12.2023, GNIDA filed an application before the State Government for review of the order dated 19.10.2023 and it filed another application dated 01.03.2024 for recalling the order dated 19.10.2023 inter alia stating that the revisional authority had not taken into consideration the fact that the zero period benefit had already been granted to the opposite party no.2 and further, that there was no stay order passed in respect of the plot in question. This application was decided by means of an order dated 29.05.2024 recalling the direction for declaring zero period from 16.03.2016 to 04.08.2017 in respect of 9,937 square meters land as there was no stay order operating in respect of the said land. The remaining pleas of GNIDA were rejected.

21. GNIDA filed yet another application for review of the order dated 29.05.2024 which was rejected by means of an order dated 07.11.2024 passed by the State Government stating that the original allotment was made in favour of the opposite party no.2 on 24.11.2010. A supplementary deed was executed on 29.04.2014 because acquisition of 95,832.20 square meters was affected by means of an order passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. The land could not be demarcated immediately and it has been demarcated by letters dated 17.04.2012, 08.07.2013, and 04.02.2014, issued by GNIDA. Thereafter, a declaration deed was executed on 22.04.2014, it was registered on 29.04.2014 and a possession certificate in respect of the revised land area was issued. It does not appear that the opposite party no.2 has caused a delay in the matter and, therefore, a zero period was declared from 24.11.2010 till 22.04.2014. The revisional authority directed GNIDA to ascertain the benefits to which the opposite party no.2 is entitled. The Revisional Authority clarified that in case the allottee has deposited any excess amount, the same would not be refunded to it in furtherance of the order dated 07.11.2024.

22. Assailing the validity of the aforesaid orders, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that all the orders passed by the revisional authority are without jurisdiction as Section 41 (3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act provides for filing revision against orders by which any case is decided. He has submitted that it has been held by a Division Bench of this Court in the judgment dated 30.05.2022, passed in the case of M/s Apace Buildltech Private Limited Vs. State of U.P. and two others: Writ-C No. 3010 of 2022, that the condition precedent for the State Government to exercise its powers under Section 41 (3) of the Act of 1973 is that there has to be a record of a case disposed off or there has to be an order passed by the Authority/Chairman. In the absence of any case disposed of or an order passed by the authority/Chairman, the State Government is not vested with the powers of revision. The demand notice cannot be termed to be a case disposed off or an order passed by the Authority and a revision filed under Section 41 (3) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act against a demand notice will not be maintainable.

23. The second submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that Section 41(3) of the Act of 1973 makes it mandatory to provide an opportunity of hearing before any order is passed, but the order dated 29.05.2024 has been passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

24. The learned counsel for the petitioner has next submitted that in the order dated 27.03.2025, passed in Case No.1508/77-4-25-53-Appeal 2023 titled M/s Easter Agro Products Industries Private Limited Vs. UPCIDA, Lakhanpur, Kanpur, the revisional authority itself has held that an application for review of an order passed in revision is not maintainable. In the judgment dated 21.05.2025, passed by a Division bench of this Court in M/s Eco Green Build Tech Private Limited Vs. State of U.P. Writ-C No. 26214 of 2020 (Neutral Citation 2025AHC-LKO-30241-DB) it has been held that the revisional authority has no jurisdiction to review its order.

25. The learned counsel for the petitioner GNIDA has submitted that all the orders passed by the revisional authority are without jurisdiction.

26. The opposite party no.2 has raised a preliminary objection that the writ petition suffers from the latches.

27. Upon this objection being raised, the petitioner filed a supplementary affidavit stating that the order on the second review application was passed on 07.11.2024. The opposite party no.2 preferred an application dated 10.02.2025 seeking approval of occupancy certificate and sub lease-deed for proportionate area of the project. A payment intimation notice was issued to the opposite party no.2 on 17.02.2025 and thereafter the file was sent to the Finance Department of the petitioner authority for obtaining approval for filing of the writ petition. Thereafter opinion of a Chartered Accountant was obtained, who initially gave an opinion without considering the zero period policy. Therefore, the matter was again sent to the Chartered Accountant. Upon examination of the documents and opinions, it was found that the petitioner authority stands at the risk of suffering loss to the tune of Rs.149.93 Crores and, therefore, guidelines/reconsideration of the State Government was sought. A letter for review was prepared, but the same was retracted as the petitioner authority decided that the State Government does not have the power to review its orders passed under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Urban Development and Planning Act, 1973. In June, 2025 the petitioner authority again sought legal opinion in the matter and thereafter the petitioner's counsel advised that a writ petition should be filed after the summer vacations challenging the order dated 19.10.2023, passed by the State Government on the ground that the demand notice should not be construed as an order as per the order dated 30.05.2025, passed by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of M/s Apace Buildltech Private Limited Vs. State of U.P. and two others: 2022:AHC-LKO:30003-DB.

28. In the counter affidavit filed by the opposite party no.2 it has been stated that the demand notice dated 14.12.2022 was in the nature of a final order as the petitioner had made quantification of the alleged liability of the opposite party no.2 and had demanded the quantified amount, failing which coercive measures would be taken against it. This is not a demand notice and this is final order of demand coupled with a threat of coercive measures in case of non-compliance with the order. Therefore, the writ petition is maintainable. Regarding the petitioner's plea of non-maintainability of the revision and the review applications on the ground of lack of jurisdiction the opposite party no.2 has stated that these pleas were never raised by the petitioner before the revisional authority. The petitioner cannot be permitted to raise new pleas for the first time before this Court which pleas were not raised either in the revision or in the two review applications filed by the petitioner itself. The opposite party no.2 has further stated that although the review applications filed by the petitioner were not maintainable, para 17 of the impugned order dated 19.10.2023 was modified by the revisional authority on the basis of concession/ undertaking given by the opposite party no.2 as it did not intend to join issue with the petitioner authority and to put a quietus to the disputes in the interest of allottees of the project who are still awaiting execution of the sub lease-deeds in their favour, which has been withheld owing to the continuing disputes between the petitioner and the opposite party no.2.

29. In reply to the objection regarding maintainability of the Revision, the learned Counsel for the opposite party has relied upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra: (2006) 12 SCC 33 and a judgment rendered by a Single Judge Bench of this Court in Harjinder Singh Vs. State of U. P.: 2011 SCC OnLine All 2094.

30. In Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

'9.'Although ordinarily a writ court may not exercise its discretionary jurisdiction in entertaining a writ petition questioning a notice to show cause unless the same inter alia appears to have been without jurisdiction as has been held by this Court in some decisions including'State of U.P.'v.'Brahm Datt Sharma'[(1987) 2 SCC 179],'Special Director'v.'Mohd. Ghulam Ghouse'[(2004) 3 SCC 440] and'Union of India'v.'Kunisetty Satyanarayana'[(2006) 12 SCC 28], but the question herein has to be considered from a different angle viz. when a notice is issued with premeditation, a writ petition would be maintainable. In such an event, even if the court directs the statutory authority to hear the matter afresh, ordinarily such hearing would not yield any fruitful purpose. (See'K.I. Shephard'v.'Union of India'[(1987) 4 SCC 431). It is evident in the instant case that the respondent has clearly made up its mind. It explicitly said so both in the counter-affidavit as also in its purported show-cause notice.

10.'The said principle has been followed by this Court in'V.C., Banaras Hindu University'v.'Shrikant'[(2006) 11 SCC 42], stating:

'48. The Vice-Chancellor appears to have made up his mind to impose the punishment of dismissal on the respondent herein. A post-decisional hearing given by the High Court was illusory in this case.

49. In'K.I. Shephard'v.'Union of India'[(1987) 4 SCC 431 : 1987 SCC (L&S) 438 : AIR 1988 SC 686] this Court held: (SCC p. 449, para 16)

'It is common experience that once a decision has been taken, there is a tendency to uphold it and a representation may not really yield any fruitful purpose.' '

(See also'Shekhar Ghosh'v.'Union of India'[(2007) 1 SCC 331 : (2006) 11 Scale 363] and'Rajesh Kumar'v.'D.C.I.T.'[(2007) 2 SCC 181 : (2006) 11 Scale 409])

11.'A bare perusal of the order impugned before the High Court as also the statements made before us in the counter-affidavit filed by the respondents, we are satisfied that the statutory authority has already applied its mind and has formed an opinion as regards the liability or otherwise of the appellant. If in passing the order the respondent has already determined the liability of the appellant and the only question which remains for its consideration is quantification thereof, the same does not remain in the realm of a show-cause notice. The writ petition, in our opinion, was maintainable.'

(Emphasis added)

31. In Harjinder Singh v. State of U.P.: (Supra), a Single Judge Bench of this Court held that: -

"10. ... it is apparently clear that a wide power has been conferred upon the State Government to act suo-moto or an application by a person and to call for the records for satisfying itself with regard to legality or propriety of any order passed or direction issued by the Development Authority or its Chairman. The State Government has been conferred a power to issue such directions in the matter under Section 41(3) as it may deem fit.

11.'In the opinion of the Court, the power conferred upon the State Government under Section 41(3) is wide enough to entitle it to examine the propriety of the demand of Rs. 22,16,640/- as compounding fee on the plea raised by the present petitioner that it was exorbitant. It is for the State Government to satisfy itself whether in the fact of the case such demand of compounding fee is legal and proper or not and to issue such direction as it may deem fit.

12.'Since the State Government has failed to exercise its powers vested in it under Section 41(3) of the Act 1973. The order impugned dated 12.12.2011 cannot legally be sustained. It is held that the State Government is not correct in holding that the revision-petition as filed against the order of the Vice-Chairman demanding the compounding fee, was not maintainable. The order is, therefore, set aside. The revision is restored to its original number."

32. M/s Apace Buildltech Private Limited Vs. State of U.P. and two others: Writ-C No. 3010 of 2022 had been filed challenging the demand notices and an order dated 28.10.2020 passed by the State Government in purported exercise of its revisional powers vested in it under Section 41(3) of the U.P. Planning and Development Act read with Section 12 of U.P. Industrial Area Development Act, 1976. The petitioners had sought a direction to the respondent-New Okhla Industrial Development Authority to decide the claim of Zero Period. The order dated 28.10.2020 was challenged on the ground that an opportunity of hearing was not provided to the petitioner and the order was passed in violation of the principles of natural justice. This Court accepted this submission and held that adequate opportunity of hearing was not provided to the petitioner. Having observed this, the Court further noticed that if the order dated 28.10.2020 was quashed for the reason of non-observance of the principles of natural justice, the matter will have to be remitted to the State Government for decision of the revision petition afresh. The Division Bench held that 'The demand notice dated 17.01.2018, in our considered opinion, cannot be termed to be a case disposed of or an order passed by the Noida authority. In this view, the revision petitioner under Section 41(3) of the Urban Planning and Development Act against the demand notice dated 17.01.2018 is not maintainable.' Yet, the Division Bench did not quash the order passed in revision holding that 'no fruitful purpose would be served even if we quash the order passed by the State Government on 18.10.2020. (sic: 28.10.2020)'

Regarding the prayer for issuing a direction to the Noida Authority for deciding the petitioner's claim in respect of Zero Period Policy, this Court found that the petitioner's claim for benefit of Zero Period Policy had not been rejected. Therefore, this Court disposed off the writ petition with a direction to New Okhla Industrial Development Authority to take a reasoned decision on the claim of the petitioner in respect of the Zero Period Policy.

33. Thus it is significant to note that the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (Supra) was not placed before the Division Bench deciding the case of Apace Buildtech (Supra) and, therefore, it has not been taken into consideration by the Division Bench. In the case of Apace Buildtech the revision had been allowed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. Although this Court held that the revision against the notice was not maintainable, this Court did not quash the order allowing the revision, as it would not serve any useful purpose. Another significant fact in that case was that the authority had not taken any final decision regarding the claim of the builder for zero period. In the present case, the authority has already taken a final decision rejecting the builder's claim of zero period, like it was the case in the case of Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (supra). The petitioner GNIDA had filed detailed objections against the revision and it did not submit that the revision was not maintainable. On 28.12.2023, GNIDA filed an application for review of the order dated 19.10.2023 and it filed another application dated 01.03.2024 for recalling the order dated 19.10.2023 inter alia stating that the revisional authority had not taken into consideration the fact that the zero period benefit had already been granted to the opposite party no.2 and further, that there was no stay order passed in respect of the plot in question. This application was decided by means of an order dated 29.05.2024 recalling the direction for declaring zero period from 16.03.2016 to 04.08.2017 in respect of 9,937 square meter land as there was no stay order operating in respect of the land. Even in review, GNIDA did not contend that the revision was not maintainable. Thereafter GNIDA filed yet another application for review of the order dated 29.05.2024 and even in this application it was not contended that the revision was not maintainable.

34. After having submitted to the jurisdiction of the revisional authority and having contested the revision on its merits and after itself having filed two successive applications for review of the order passed in revision, the petitioner has contended before this Court for the first time in this petition which has been filed on 09.09.2025, i.e. about two years after the order passed in revision, about ten months after the order passed in the second review application filed by GNIDA, that the revision and the review applications were not maintainable. This plea has been raised on legal advice keeping in view the fact that the order of the revisional authority would cause financial loss to the petitioner.

35. Keeping in view the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case and the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (supra), and the view taken by the Single Judge Bench in Harjinder Singh v. State of U.P.: (Supra), that the power conferred upon the State Government under Section 41(3) is wide enough to examine the propriety of a demand, which view is in consonance with the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Siemens Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra (supra), I reject the contention of the petitioner that the revision filed by the opposite party no. 2 under Section 41(3) of the U. P. Urban Planning and Development Act was not maintainable. However, I find force in the submission of the learned Counsel for the petitioner that the revisional authority has no power to review its orders. The learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 2 has also not opposed submission and he has submitted that the opposite party no. 2 had not opposed the maintainability of the successive review applications filed by the petitioner to give a quietus to the dispute.

36. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the revisional authority has decided the revision without giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, however, the record reveals taht the petitioner had filed detailed objections against the revision, which have been taken into consideration while deciding the revision and have been dealt with appropriately. Therefore, I find no force in the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the impugned revisional order has been passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitinoer.

37. Now I proceed to examine the validity of the revisional order on its merits. GNIDA had invited applications for allotment of land for developing residential township in the year 2010. An allotment letter was issued in favour of the opposite party no.2 on 19.08.2010. GNIDA had executed a lease-deed in favour of the opposite party no.2 on 24.11.2010, in respect of land bearing plot No. GH-04, situated in Sector 16C, Greater Noida admeasuring 2,41,570 square meters.

38. On 26.07.2011, GNIDA informed the opposite party no.2 that a correction deed was required to be executed reducing the leased area from 2,41,570 square meters to 1,45,737.80 square meters and the correction deed was executed on 22.04.2014. Thus the leased area was decreased by about 40%. A certificate of handing over physical possession of the leased land was issued on 05.05.2014.

39. On 10.05.2016, the opposite party no.2 wrote a letter to GNIDA, stating that out of the revised area of 1,45,737.80 square meters, physical possession of only 1,37,400.80 square meters had been handed over to it and possession of 8,337 square meters of land had not been delivered to the lessee because of some pending litigation. Subsequently, possession of land bearing khasra no.189, measuring 3,070 square meters and khasra no.257, measuring 950 square meters (totalling to 4,020 square meters), was given to the lessee, but physical possession of land bearing khasra no. 192, measuring 4,317 square meters was not delivered to the lessee. The lessee stated that GNIDA was not entitled to charge any interest on the outstanding amount till possession of the entire leased land was handed over to it.

40. GNIDA claims to have granted the benefit of a zero period from 12.05.2011 till 24.08.2012. On the claim of the opposite party no. 2 for zero period benefits, GNIDA claims that it had informed the opposite party no.2 about the requirement for execution of a declaration/correction deed on 26.07.2011, but the opposite party no. 2 has caused the delay in the execution of the deed till 22.04.2014.

41. The revisional authority held that although the lease-deed was executed on 24.11.2010, a supplementary lease-deed was executed on 29.04.2014, reducing the area of the leased land by about 40%. The opposite party no. 2 is not at fault for the substantial decrease in the area leased out by GNIDA. The opposite party no.2 would suffer for the delay in finalisation of the area of the project, as it would have an adverse impact on the planning and completion of the project. Therefore, the opposite party no. 2 is entitled to be granted the benefit of zero period till execution of the supplementary deed on 29.04.2014. I find no error or illegality in this recommendation of the committee. The revisional authority further held that the High Court had passed a stay order dated 16.03.2016 in respect of 9,937 square meters area of the allotted land, which continued to remain operative till 04.08.2017 and declared zero period for the aforesaid area for the aforesaid period. The revisional authority further ordered that the allottee will be entitled to a reduction of the interest rate as per the government order dated 09.06.2020 and zero period for the Covid-19 pandemic in furtherance of the Government Order dated 20.07.2022. The revisional authority directed GNIDA to ensure refund of the amount of excess stamp duty in compliance with the Government Order dated 25.06.2019.

42. The revisional authority set aside the notice dated 14.12.2022, directed the GNIDA to recalculate the dues of the opposite party no.2 and directed the opposite party no.2 to deposit 25% of the amount of dues within one month and to pay the balance amount in four six-monthly instalments. However, as refund of the excess amount paid as stamp duty is still pending consideration of this Court sitting at Allahabad in Writ-C No.6647 of 2020 filed by the opposite party no.2, the direction passed by the revisional authority for refund of the amount of stamp duty ignoring the fact of pendency of writ petition regarding the aforesaid prayer is unsustainable in law.

43. On the first review application filed by GNIDA, the revisional authority has recalled the direction for declaring zero period from 16.03.2016 to 04.08.2017 in respect of 9,937 square meters land as there was no stay order operating in respect of the land. On the second review application filed by GNIDA, the revisional authority has directed GNIDA to ascertain the benefits to which the opposite party no.2 is entitled and in case the allottee has deposited any excess amount, the same would not be refunded to it in furtherance of the order dated 07.11.2024.

44. The original allotment was made in favour of the opposite party no.2 on 24.11.2010. A supplementary deed was executed on 29.04.2014 and registered on 29.04.2014 and a possession certificate in respect of the revised land area was issued on 05.05.2014, as has been pleaded by GNIDA itself in para 37 of the Writ Petition. Execution of lease deed in respect of land in respect of which it has been held that GNIDA had no right to transfer and subsequent execution of a correction deed decreasing the land area, was without any fault of the opposite party no. 2. The lessee could not even prepare a development plan, what to say about execution of the plan, till a possession certificate in respect of the revised land area was issued on 05.05.2014. Therefore, the revisional authority has not committed any error or illegality.

45. Accordingly, the petition is allowed. The orders dated 29.05.2024 (Annexure No.2 to the petition) and 07.11.2024 (Annexure No.7 to the petition) passed by the Revisional Authority on the review applications filed by the petitioner are set aside. The finding recorded in the order dated 19.10.2023, passed by the opposite party no.1 - the State Government, in Revision No.6430/77-4-23/01 Appeal/23, under Section 41(3) of U. P. Urban Development and Planning Act, 1973 (Annexure No.3 to the petition) that the lessee ' opposite party no. 2 is entitled to get zero period benefit till execution and registration of the supplementary deed dated 29.04.2014 is upheld. The direction for declaring zero period from 16.03.2016 to 04.08.2017 in respect of 9,937 square meter land is set aside. The direction of the revisional authority regarding refund of stamp duty is also set aside. The petitioner is directed to issue a revised demand notice by giving zero period benefit to the opposite party no. 2 till execution and registration of the supplementary deed dated 29.04.2014 and giving a reasonable time to the opposite party to deposit the amount. In case the opposite party deposits the amount as aforesaid, no coercive action shall be taken against it and the petitioner will execute the requisite deeds/documents in favour of the opposite party no.2/its allottees in accordance with the law.

Held

The court held that the Collector functions as a "court" while adjudicating claims, as the the Public Liability Insurance Act and rules confer inherent powers under section 151 of CPC. Consequently, Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act,1963 applies, as its provisions are not expressly excluded by the special statute. Petitioners who were minors at the time of accident, are entitled to the benefit of section 6 and may file for relief within three years of attaining majority. Furthermore, the Collector cannot dismiss a claim as time barred when he failed his statutory duty under section 5 to verify the accident and invite applications. The impugned order was quashed and the matter was remanded for a fresh decision on its merits. (E-6)

CIVIL JURISDICTION: WRIT-C No.- 12432 of 2025

Vansh Nigam & Anr. Vs. Workmens Compensation Commissioner/Collector Lakhimpur Kheri & 3 Ors

From the judgment and order dated 27.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Petitioner(s):-

Deo Raj Singh

Advs. for Respondent(s):-

C.S.C., Aprajita Bansal, Neerav Chitravanshi

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Deo Raj Singh, Advocate, the learned counsel for the petitioner and Ms. Aparajita Bansal, Advocate, the learned counsel for the opposite parties.

2. The instant writ petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the petitioners namely (i) Vansh Nigam, aged about 19 years, S/o Late Indresh Kumar and (ii) Khushi Nigam, aged about 17 years, minor daughter of Late Indresh Kumar, through her brother and guardian Vansh Nigam, aged about 19 years, challenging the validity of an order dated 05.06.2025 passed by the Collector, Lakhimpur Kheri, in Case No. 673 of 2024 under Section 6 of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 rejecting the petitioners' claim under Section 6 of the Public Liability Insurance Act 1991.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that the petitioners' father, Indresh Kumar expired on 28.04.2015 due to electrocution while he was merely 30 years of age. He used to run a beetle shop cum provision store and also used to do cultivation. His income was Rs.20,000/- per month and he was the sole earning member of his family. At the time death of their father, the petitioners were aged 9 years and 7 years respectively.

4. When the petitioner no. 1 attained majority and the petitioner no. 2 was still a minor aged 16 years, they filed an application under Section 6 (3) of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 before the Prescribed Authority / Collector, Kheri for claiming compensation under the aforesaid Act. The opposite parties filed a written statement stating that no claim under Section 6(3) of the aforesaid Act can be filed after the expiry of 5 years since the date of the accident and, therefore, the suit is time-barred.

5. Upon this, the petitioners filed an application under Section 14 of the Limitation Act, 1963 stating that they had filed a Miscellaneous Case No. 3 of 2016, under Order XXXIII, Rule 1 CPC for permission to file a suit in forma pauperis. That suit was dismissed in default on 25.11.2023. After the petitioner no.1 attained majority, he has filed the application under Section 6(3) of the Public Liability Insurance Act without any further delay.

6. The Prescribed Authority / Collector has rejected the application by the impugned order dated 05.06.2025 holding that an application under Section 6(3) of the Public Liability Insurance Act can be entertained only within a period of 5 years since the date of the accident. The application under Section 14 of the Limitation Act has been filed belatedly, and therefore, the same cannot be allowed.

7. Challenging the validity of the aforesaid order, the learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Laxmi Engineering Works Vs. P.S.G. Industrial Institute: (1995) 3 SCC 583 and M/s Consolidated Engg. Enterprises Vs. Principal Secy. Irrigation Deptt. and others: 2008 (7) SCC 169, which are on the point of applicability of Section 14 of the Limitation Act.

8. Per contra, Ms. Aprajita Bansal, the learned counsel for the opposite party has submitted that Section 6(3) of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 permits entertaining applications under Section 6(1) within a period of five years from the date of accident and it does not contain any provision for condonation of delay for filing of application. She has submitted that the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality.

9. Before proceeding to examine the validity of the impugned order, it would be appropriate to have a look at some relevant provisions of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991, which are being reproduced below:

'5. Verification and publication of accident by Collector.- Whenever it comes to the notice of the Collector that an accident has occurred at any place within his jurisdiction, he shall verify the occurrence of such accident and cause publicity to be given in such manner as he deems fit for inviting applications under sub-section (1) of Section 6.

6. Application for claim for relief.'(1) An application for claim for relief may be made'*

(a) by the person who has sustained the injury;

(b) by the owner of the property to which the damage has been caused;

(c) where death has resulted from the accident, by all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased; or

(d) by any agent duly authorised by such person or owner of such property or all or any of the legal representatives of the deceased, as the case may be:

Provided that where all the legal representatives of the deceased have not joined in any such application for relief, the application shall be made on behalf of or for the benefit of all the legal representatives of the deceased and the legal representatives who have not so joined shall be impleaded as respondents to the application.

(1-A) Where any damage has been caused to any public property or private property due to manufacture, processing, treatment, package, storage, transportation, use, collection, destruction, conversion, transfer or such other processes, of such hazardous substance, an application for claim for restoration of the property may be made by the owner of the property or such other person, as may be prescribed, to the Collector.

(2) Every application under sub-section (1) shall be made to the Collector and shall be in such form, contain such particulars and shall be accompanied by such documents as may be prescribed.

(3) No application for relief shall be entertained unless it is made within five years of the occurrence of the accident.'

7. Award of relief.'(1) On receipt of an application under sub-section (1) of Section 6, the Collector shall, after giving notice of the application to the owner and after giving the parties an opportunity of being heard, hold an inquiry into the claim or, each of the claims, and may make an award determining the amount of relief which appears to him to be just and specifying the person or persons to whom such amount of relief shall be paid.

(2) The Collector shall arrange to deliver copies of the award to the parties concerned expeditiously and in any case within a period of fifteen days from the date of the award.

(3) When an award is made under this section,'

(a) the insurer, who is required to pay any amount in terms of such award and to the extent specified in sub-section (2-B) of Section 4, shall, within a period of thirty days of the date of announcement of the award, deposit that amount in such manner as the Collector may direct;

(b) the Collector shall arrange to pay from the Relief Fund, in terms of such award and in accordance with the scheme made under Section 7-A, to the person or persons referred to in sub-section (1) such amount as may be specified in that scheme;
(c) the owner shall, within such period, deposit such amount in such manner as the Collector may direct.

(4) In holding any inquiry under sub-section (1), the Collector may, subject to any rules made in this behalf, follow such summary procedure as he thinks fit.

(5) The Collector shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material objects and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Collector shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of Section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(6) Where the insurer or the owner against whom the award is made under sub-section (1) fails to deposit the amount of such award within the period specified under sub-section (3), such amount shall be recoverable from the owner, or as the case may be, the insurer as arrears of land revenue or of public demand.

(7) A claim for relief in respect of death of, or injury to, any person or damage to any property shall be disposed of as expeditiously as possible and every endeavour shall be made to dispose of such claim within three months of the receipt of the application for relief under sub-section (1) of Section 6.

(8) Where an owner is likely to remove or dispose of his property with the object of evading payment by him of any amount of the award, the Collector may, in accordance with the provisions of Rules 1 to 4 of Order XXXIX of the First Schedule to the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act.

(9) Where the environment is affected or damaged due to manufacture, processing, treatment, package, storage, transportation, use, collection, destruction, conversion, transfer or such other processes, of such hazardous substance, the Central Government may, on an application made by the Central Pollution Control Board or the State Pollution Control Board, as the case may be, allocate the fund from the Environmental Relief Fund for restoration of the damage so caused in the manner as may be prescribed.'

10. In exercise of the powers conferred by Section 23 of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991, the Central Government has framed the'Public Liability Insurance Rules, 1991, Rule 5 whereof is as follows:

'5. Powers of Collector.'(i) The Collector may follow such summary procedure for conducting an inquiry on an application for relief under the Act, as he thinks fit.

(ii) The Collector shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the following purposes namely:'

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath.

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents;

(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;

(d) subject to the provisions of Sections 123 and 124 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, requisitioning any public record or document or copy of such record or document from any office;

(e) issuing commissions for the examining of witness or documents;

(f) dismissing an application for default or proceeding ex-parte;

(g) setting aside any order of dismissal of any application for default or any order passed by it ex parte;

(h) inherent powers of a civil court preserved under Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.'

11. It is also important to note that there is no provision in the Public Liability Insurance Act which prohibits applicability of the Limitation Act to proceedings under the Act.

12. Section 5 of the Public Liability Insurance Act casts a statutory duty upon the Collector that upon coming to know about the occurrence of an accident, he should himself verify the occurrence of such accident and thereafter he should invite applications under Section 6(1) of the Act for claiming relief under the Act by making a proper publication. There is nothing on record to indicate that the Collector has performed this statutory duty by making any publication inviting applications after the accident in which the petitioners aged 9 and 7 years had lost their father.

13. As the Public Liability Insurance Act is a special Act, Section 6(3) whereof provides the limitation period of five years for filing an application under Section 6(1) of the Act, which is different from the limitation period of three years prescribed by the Schedule for suits claiming money decrees, the provisions of Section 3 shall apply as if the period of five years was the period prescribed by the Schedule under the Limitation Act and for the purpose of determining any period of limitation prescribed for an application under Section 6(1) of the Public Liability Insurance Act, the provisions contained in sections 4 to 24 shall apply as they are not expressly excluded by any provision of the Public Liability Insurance Act.

14. One more aspect needs to be examined, and that is that the Limitation Act normally applies to Courts and not Tribunals. In this regard, it becomes important to keep in mind the provisions of Section 7 (5) of the Public Liability Insurance Act, which provides that the Collector shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purpose of taking evidence on oath and of enforcing the attendance of witnesses and of compelling the discovery and production of documents and material objects and for such other purposes as may be prescribed; and the Collector shall be deemed to be a Civil Court for all the purposes of Section 195 and Chapter XXVI of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974). The most important thing is that Rule 5 (ii) (h) of the'Public Liability Insurance Rules, 1991, provides the Collector shall have the inherent powers of a civil court under Section 151 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908. The Civil Courts' inherent powers under Section 151 C.P.C. are not conferred upon tribunals and it is the single most important feature which indicates that while performing adjudicatory functions under the Public Liability Insurance Act, the Collector functions as a Court so as to make the provisions of the Limitation Act applicable to it.

15. In the case of'Vijay Madanlal Choudhary'v.'Union of India,'2022 SCC OnLine SC 929, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to a King's Bench judgment in the case of'Seaford Court Estates ld., which is as follows: -

'274*.'We may profitably advert to the judgment in'Seaford Court Estates ld.'[1949] 2 K.B. 481, which states:*

"A judge, believing himself to be fettered by the supposed rule that he must look to the language and nothing else, laments that the draftsmen have not provided for this or that, or have been guilty of some or other ambiguity. It would certainly save the judges trouble if Acts of Parliament were drafted with divine prescience and perfect clarity. In the absence of it, when a defect appears a judge cannot simply fold his hands and blame the draftsman. He must set to work on the constructive task of finding the intention of Parliament, and he must do this not only from the language of the statute, but also from a consideration of the social conditions which gave rise to it, and of the mischief which it was passed to remedy, and then he must supplement the written word so as to give 'force and life' to the intention of the legislature*.'That was clearly laid down by the resolution of the judges in'Heydon's case,'(1584) 3 Co. Rep. 7a, and it is the safest guide today. Good practical advice on the subject was given about the same time by Plowden in his second volume'Eyston'v.'Studd'(1574) 2 Plowden 465.'Put into homely metaphor it is this: A judge should ask himself the question: If the makers of the Act had themselves come across this ruck in the texture of it, how would they have straightened it out? He must then do as they would have done. A judge must not alter the material of which it is woven, but he can and should iron out the creases.' (Emphasis added)

16. The Public Liability Insurance Act is a beneficial legislation which has been enacted to provide for public liability insurance for the purpose of providing immediate relief to the persons affected by accidents covered under the provisions of the Act. Section 5 of the Public Liability Insurance Act casts a statutory duty upon the Collector that upon coming to know about the occurrence of an accident, he should himself verify the occurrence of such accident and thereafter he should invite applications under Section 6(1) of the Act for claiming relief under the Act by making a proper publication. Therefore, its provisions should be interpreted in a manner which would be in consonance with the object of the Act. It could never have been the intention of the framers of the Public Liability Insurance Act that the benefits under the Act will be denied to minor children of a deceased victim of an accident merely because they were minors and due to this legal disability, they could not file the application within that period and when they filed the application immediately after attaining majority, the limitation period of five years mentioned in Section 6(3) of the Act had expired.

17. Therefore I hold that the Prescribed Authority / Collector acts as a Court and applicability of the provisions of the Limitation Act, 1963 to an application under Section 6(1) of the Public Liability Insurance Act is not barred.

18. Now I proceed to examine certain relevant provisions of the Limitation Act, which are being reproduced below: -

'Section 6 - Legal disability

(1) Where a person entitled to institute a suit or make an application for the execution of a decree is, at the time from which the prescribed period is to be reckoned, a minor or insane, or an idiot, he may institute the suit or make the application within the same period after the disability has ceased, as would otherwise have been allowed from the time specified therefore in the third column of the Schedule.

(2) Where such person is, at the time from which the prescribed period is to be reckoned, affected by two such disability, or where, before his disability has ceased, he is affected by another disability, he may institute the suit or make the application within the same period after both disabilities have ceased, as would otherwise have been allowed from the time so specified.

(3) Where the disability continues up to the death of that person, his legal representative may institute the suit or make the application within the same period after the death, as would otherwise have been allowed from the time so specified.

(4) Where the legal representative referred to in sub-section (3) is, at the date of the death of the person whom he represents, affected by any such disability, the rules contained sub-sections (1) and (2) shall apply.

(5) Where a person under disability dies after the disability ceases but within the period allowed to him under this section, his legal representative may institute the suit or make the application within the same period after the death, as would otherwise have been available to that person had he not died.

Explanation.--For the purposes of this section, 'minor' includes a child in the womb.'

Section 7 - Disability of one of several persons

Where one of several persons jointly entitled to institute a suit or make an application for the execution of a decree is under any such disability, and a discharge can be given without the concurrence of such person, time will run against them all; but, where no such discharge can be given, time will not run as against any of them until one of them becomes capable of giving such discharge without the concurrence of the others or until the disability has ceased.

Explanation I.-- This section applies to a discharge from every kind of liability, including a liability in respect of any immovable property.

Explanation II.-- For the purposes of this section, the manager of a Hindu undivided family governed by the Mitakshara law shall be deemed to be capable of giving a discharge without the concurrence of the other members of the family only if he is in management of the joint family property.

Section 8 - Special exceptions

Nothing in section 6 or in section 7 applies to suits to enforce rights of pre-emption, or shall be deemed to extend, for more than three years from the cessation of the disability or the death of the person affected thereby, the period of limitation for any suit or application.'

Section 29 - Savings

(1) Nothing in this Act shall affect section 25'of the Indian Contract Act, 1872 (9 of 1872).

(2) Where any special or local law prescribes for any suit, appeal or application a period of limitation different from the period prescribed by the Schedule, the provisions of section 3 shall apply as if such period were the period prescribed by the Schedule and for the purpose of determining any period of limitation prescribed for any suit, appeal or application by any special or local law, the provisions contained in sections 4 to 24 (inclusive) shall apply only in so far as, and to the extent to which, they are not expressly excluded by such special or local law.

(3) Save as otherwise provided in any law for the time being in force with respect to marriage and divorce, nothing in this Act shall apply to any suit or other proceeding under any such law.

(4) Section 25 and 26'and the definition of "easement" in section 2'shall not apply to cases arising in the territories to which the Indian Easements Act, 1882 (5 of 1882), may for the time being extend.'

19. In'Bhakra Beas Management Board v. Excise & Taxation Officer: (2020) 17 SCC 692, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the provisions contained in Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act would be attracted where there is no express exclusion or by implication.

20. In'Consolidated Engg. Enterprises v. Irrigation Deptt. (supra) it was held that: -

"20.'Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act inter alia provides that where any special or local law prescribes for any suit, appeal or application a period of limitation different from the period of limitation prescribed by the Schedule, the provisions of Section 3 shall apply as if such period was the period prescribed by the Schedule and for the purpose of determining any period of limitation prescribed for any suit, appeal or application by any special or local law, the provisions contained in Sections 4 to 24 shall apply only insofar as, and to the extent, they are not expressly excluded by such special or local law'.'

21. As the petitioners were minors at the time of the accident in which they lost their father, they certainly have the right to file the application within a period of three years after attaining majority, as per the provisions contained in Sections 6 and 8 of the Limitation Act.

22. It is also to be kept in mind that at the time of the accident, the petitioners were children aged 9 and 7 years and due to legal disability they could not file an application for claiming compensation for death of their father and for their failure to file an application during their disability due to minority, the Collector has rejected their application as barred by limitation period whereas the Collector himself is guilty of non-performance of his statutory duty under Section 5 of the Public Liability Insurance Act which requires that after coming to know about the occurrence of an accident, the Collector should himself verify the occurrence of an accident and thereafter he should invite applications under Section 6(1) of the Act for claiming relief under the Act by making a proper publication.

23. Therefore, the Collector has committed a legal error in dismissing the application under Section 6(1) of the Public Liability Insurance Act as barred by the period of limitation of five years as provided in Section 6(3) of the Act.

24. In view of the foregoing discussion, the writ petition is allowed. The impugned order dated 05.06.2025 passed by the District Magistrate / Collector Lakhimpur Kheri in Case No. 673 of 2024 under Section 6 of the Public Liability Insurance Act, 1991 , rejecting the petitioners' claim under Section 6 of the Public Liability Insurance Act 1991 as time barred, is quashed. The matter is remanded to the Prescribed Authority / Collector Lakhimpur Kheri for being decided afresh on its merits in accordance with the law, expeditiously, without granting any unnecessary adjournment to any of the party keeping in view the provision contained in Section 7(7) of the Public Liability Insurance Act, which mandates that a claim for relief in respect of death of any person shall be disposed of as expeditiously as possible and every endeavour shall be made to dispose of such claim within three months of the receipt of the application for relief under sub-section (1) of Section 6.

Issue for consideration

The matter involves an IPS officer challenging CIC orders that imposed a maximum penalty and recommended disciplinary action for a 145-day delay in providing RTI information.

Headnotes

Civil law-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-Right to Information Act,2005-Sections 20(1) & 20(2)-Penalty and Disciplinary Action-Applicability-Pre conditions for penalty-Requirement of "without reasonable cause" or "mala fide" intent-Delay of 145 days in furnishing information-Staff shortage and heavy workload justifying delay-Imposing maximum penalty of Rs. 25000 without awaiting the directed inquiry report is a procedural impropriety-Disparaging remarks and pre-determined bias by Information Commissioner is against the natural justice-Allowed.(Para 16 to 36)

Held

The court held that Section 20 of the RTI Act does not mandate a penalty for every delay, the Commission must first form a reasoned opinion that the officer acted without "reasonable cause" or with "mala fide" intent. Mere institutional negligence or delays caused by staff shortages and heavy workloads do not constitute "persistent default" as required for disciplinary recommendations under section 20(2).The CIC committed procedural impropriety by imposing the maximum penalty of Rs. 25000 without awaiting the results of its own directed inquiry report. Disparaging remarks made by the Information Commissioner against the petitioner reflected a pre-determined bias and a lack of impartiality, violating the principles of natural justice. The court quashed the impugned orders finding them arbitrary and legally unsustainable. (E-6)

1. Heard Sri C.B. Yadav, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nisheeth Yadav, learned counsel appearing for the petitioner, Sri Santosh Kumar Mishra, learned counsel appearing for respondents concerned and Sri Vinay Kumar Singh, learned counsel

2. This writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, seeking reliefs against the orders passed under the Right to Information Act, 2005. The petitioner prays for issuance of a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing the orders dated 08.02.2007 and 19.03.2007 passed by Dr O. P. Kejriwal, Information Commissioner, Central Information Commission. The petitioner further seeks issuance of a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents not to give effect to the aforesaid orders dated 08.02.2007 and 19.03.2007, so far as they relate to the petitioner. The petitioner also prays for issuance of a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to drop the entire proceedings initiated against the petitioner in pursuance of the above mentioned order dated 19.03.2007.

3. The brief fact of the matter is that at the relevant time, the Petitioner, an IPS officer was serving on deputation as the Regional Passport Officer (RPO), as well as Public Information Officer (PIO) in Ghaziabad. On 26.03.2006, respondent no.4, submitted an application under the Right to Information Act, 2005, seeking some information regarding duplicate passports, submission forms, procedures and time limits. The Petitioner endorsed the application on the same day, however, the application was returned to the applicant on 14.06.2006, by the Assistant Public Information Officer (APIO) due to the reason that the accompanying demand draft was drawn in favour of "Public Information, Ghaziabad" rather than the "Public Information Officer read with Passport Officer". Thereafter Respondent No. 4, resubmitted the application with the corrected draft on 26.06.2006. The Petitioner marked it to "PRO-I and the APIO, on 04.08.2006, directed the applicant to furnish a "Key Number" and "File Number," stating that the website could not be operated without these details. Aggrieved by this non-furnishing of information respondent no.4 filed a complaint under Section 18 of the RTI Act with the Central Information Commission (CIC), which has resulted into impugned orders challenged before this court in this petition.

4. The impugned order dated 08.02.2007 records that the information required by respondent no.4 has already been furnished by the petitioner vide letter dated 19.12.2006 and two weeks time was sought from the Commission to resolve the issue with the complainant, which got expired on 24.01.2007, however the PIO and RPO Ghaziabad did not produce any note of satisfaction. The order further records that the Commission decided to initiate penal action against the PIO under section 20(1) of the RTI Act 2005 for the delay of more than four months in providing the information, for which the penalty notice is being issued separately. With this observation the Central Information Commissioner passed the order dated 08.02.2007,where CIC made recommendation to the Chief Passport Officer and Joint Secretary, (CPV Division), Ministry of External Affairs to hold the enquiry into the matter and take strictest action against Regional Passport Officer, Ghaziabad under the intimation to the Commission at the earliest and in no case later than 31.03.2007.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that it is a matter for fact that the impugned orders have been passed after hearing the petitioner but at the same time it is passed in complete violation of the principles of natural justice. He further submitted that the impugned order dated 08.02.2007 was passed arbitrarily and with mala fide intentions, which recommended the action against petitioner even before the petitioner files his explanation to the show cause issued to him regarding penalty imposition, which is also for the same allegation due to which the recommendation to the government is made to take action against petitioner in a time bound matter. Learned counsel further submitted that the impugned order dated 19.03.2007 is also bad in law as the CIC has failed to consider the explanation offered by the petitioner against the show cause notice while passing the order for imposing the maximum amount of penalty against the petitioner.

6. Learned counsel argued that the petitioner, by utilizing the "State Level Coordination Committee" guidelines, which allow RPOs to coordinate with the Local Intelligence Unit (LIU), instructed the Deputy Superintendent of Police (LIU) to approach the applicant regarding his satisfaction with the information provided. An LIU Sub-Inspector visited the applicant, who subsequently sent a letter to the CIC on 14.01.2007, stating that he had received the information and the controversy was resolved, subject to certain conditions regarding the improvement of the Passport Office's attitude. He further submitted that on 06.01.2007 the letter was sent by respondent no.4 to the concerned registrar of the Central Information Commission, bringing to his notice that information sought by the respondent has been received by him, and as such, as requested by the petitioner, the controversy has been resolved.

7. Learned counsel also argued regarding imposition of penalty, and submitted that the petitioner replied to the show-cause notice on 26.02.2007, however, the CIC, vide the impugned order dated 19.03.2007, imposed a penalty of Rs. 25,000/-, which is severe penalty and observed incorrectly that there is deployment of police to the applicant's residence which is amounted to intimidation and defamation, and thereafter recommended disciplinary action by the Ministry of External Affairs. He contends that the directions to the concerned department to hold enquiry was not desirable on the part of the Commission to proceed against the petitioner under section 20(1) of the Act of 2005 without waiting the report of the enquiry which was directed to be conducted by the Chief Passport Officer. He has reiterated that the order imposing penalty vide order dated 19.03.2007 was passed by the CIC without waiting the report from the Chief Passport Officer who was the highest authority of the office occupied by the petitioner at the relevant time.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the enquiry report and argued that the Chief Passport Officer has already held the enquiry and submitted its report on 21.03.2007. The report stated that if any mistake has been committed, it was on account of severe shortage of staff, increased work burden and continue pressure to clear the back-log of Passports in the office of Regional Passport Officer, Ghaziabad. He has further contended that the report clearly states that no officer can be blamed, and therefore, the decision taken by the Central Information Commission to impose penalty upon the petitioner was not advisable, The report further demonstrated that the office of Regional Passport Officer, Ghaziabad is already overburdened as it was receiving about 400 applications for issuing passport every day, and if any bonafide mistake has been done, the same cannot be treated any misconduct because it is neither deliberate nor intentional.

9. Learned counsel argued that the CIC did not indicate and advert as to how the petitioner is liable for delay caused therein and if the delay is caused by the machinery deployed therein, the petitioner cannot be blamed and no penalty can be imposed against him, especially when the enquiry report demonstrates that it was the situation which was responsible for the delay and no individual was to be held liable. Passing the impugned order to impose penalty without even waiting for the last date to conclude the enquiry as per its own order, indicates the element of malice, unfairness and arbitrariness.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that in a separate matter, respondent nos. 2 and 3, who was the same person, had passed an order dated 23.01.2009 imposing a penalty of Rs. 25,000/- upon the petitioner. He further stated that the said order came to be passed at a time when the petitioner, after completing his deputation in the Passport Office, was serving at the All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi. By the said order, the Director (Admin), All India Institute of Medical Sciences, New Delhi was directed to ensure compliance by recovering the penalty amount of Rs. 25,000/- in two installments from the salary of the petitioner and to remit the same to the Commission by way of demand draft to the Assistant Registrar, Central Information Commission, with a further direction that the first installment should reach the Commission by 10.03.2009 and the second installment by 10.04.2009.

11. The petitioner assailed the above-mentioned order before this court in Writ C No. 9948 of 2009, wherein this court observed that there was no finding of any mala fide conduct on the part of the petitioner qua the alleged delay in supply of information. Though this court declined to interfere in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India to set aside the order but the penalty was reduced from Rs. 25,000/- to Rs. 5,000/-. Against this order, the petitioner preferred Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 10430 of 2009 before the Supreme Court, which was allowed by the order dated 07.07.2014. The Supreme Court observed that while the High Court had reduced the penalty, it had also recorded that the delay occurred on account of proper arrangements not having been made in the office regarding the records of applications received and placed before the petitioner, and that such delay was not alleged to be deliberate. The Supreme Court, being satisfied that the imposition of penalty was not justified, set aside the order of the High Court as well as the penalty order passed by the Central Information Commission. Learned counsel asserted that the similar order by the same person against the petitioner, demonstrates that respondent CIC, Mr Kejriwal, was unfairly and arbitrarily targeting the petitioner and was misusing the office of the Central Information Commission in a high-handed manner.

12. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents no. 2 and 3 placed reliance upon the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.2 and 3 and submitted that there was a delay of 145 days in providing information. He argued that the penalty imposed was not extreme penalty and the respondent no.2 under the RTI Act, could have imposed heavier penalty. He took the stand that the decision to impose penalty was taken after giving full opportunity to the petitioner and the petitioner participated in the penalty proceedings before the Commission on 11.03.2007. He has further contended that respondent no.2 was not satisfied with the explanation of the petitioner and by a detailed and speaking order dated 19.03.2007 imposed a penalty of Rs.25,000/- on the petitioner.

13. As per learned counsel for respondents, respondent no.2 took serious view of the defamatory statements made by the petitioner and the scant regard shown to the members of the public and statutory body. He placed emphasis on paragraph 11 of the penalty order dated 19.03.2007, where respondent number two clearly observe as under :

"The Commission was mortified to observe that the passport officer and PIO, Shailesh Kumar Yadav, happens to be an officer from the Indian police services does not have any respect for the RTI act 2005, not does he have any respect for the members of the public or statutory body like the Central information commission. It is because of such officials that the general public perception about our bureaucracy being insensitive and high-handed gains strength."

14. He further submitted that after above observation, the impugned order recorded that the reply of the show cause notice did not have explanation, but it was full of lame excuses and abuses. He further argued that the PIO was responsible under the RTI Act and the error of subordinate officer did not absolve the PIO of the duty to ensure timely response. He further argued that the reasons given for delay were lame and the penalty was mandatory under Section 20(1) for delay without reasonable cause.

15. In rejoinder, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the submissions advanced on behalf of the respondent, when read with the tenor of the impugned orders, revealed a pre-determined approach. It was urged that the observations recorded therein traveled beyond objective adjudication and reflected a clear mindset, which was averse to the petitioner. He further contended that the undue haste with which the orders were passed, without proper appreciation of the material on record, strengthened the apprehension of bias. He emphasized particularly on the fact that the authority invoked both facets of Section 20, namely, the imposition of penalty as well as the recommendation to the Government for action against petitioner, without awaiting the enquiry report or expiry of the last date given for providing the report. According to the counsel of the petitioner, such simultaneous recourse, at a premature stage, demonstrates undue anxiety to proceed against the petitioner. It was thus submitted that cumulatively these circumstances, give rise to a reasonable likelihood of unfairness and vitiated the decision-making process, rendering the impugned orders arbitrary and unsustainable in law.

16. On the basis of the pleadings and submissions, the issue for consideration before this Court is whether imposition of the maximum penalty in the facts of the case was justified along with recommendation to the government to take action within a negligible time gap, and it is also to be determined that whether the question of penalty without first considering the enquiry report is legally justified.

17. Having heard learned counsel for the parties at length and upon careful perusal of the pleadings and documents on record, the core controversy appears as the power of the Commission to impose penalty and make recommendations, and therefore, we proceed to examine Section 20 of the Right to Information Act, 2005, which reads as under:

"20. Penalties. (1) Where the Central Information Commission or the State Information Commission, as the case may be, at the time of deciding any complaint or appeal is of the opinion that the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, has, without any reasonable cause, refused to receive an application for information or has not furnished information within the time specified under sub-section (1) of section 7 or malafidely denied the request for information or knowingly given incorrect, incomplete or misleading information or destroyed information which was the subject of the request or obstructed in any manner in furnishing the information, it shall impose a penalty of two hundred and fifty rupees each day till application is received or information is furnished, so however, the total amount of such penalty shall not exceed twenty-five thousand rupees; Provided that the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, shall be given a reasonable opportunity of being heard before any penalty is imposed on him: Provided further that the burden of proving that he acted reasonably and diligently shall be on the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be. (2) Where the Central Information Commission or the State Information Commission, as the case may be, at the time of deciding any complaint or appeal is of the opinion that the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, has, without any reasonable cause and persistently, failed to receive an application for information or has not furnished information within the time specified under sub-section (1) of section 7 or malafidely denied the request for information or knowingly given incorrect, incomplete or misleading information or destroyed information which was the subject of the request or obstructed in any manner in furnishing the information, it shall recommend for disciplinary action against the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, under the service rules applicable to him."

18. Upon a careful reading of the above provision, it becomes evident that the power to impose penalty is not for every delay or deficiency in furnishing information. The provision mandates that the Commission must first form an opinion that the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, has acted without reasonable cause in refusing to receive the application, in failing to furnish information within the stipulated time, or has acted mala fide, knowingly furnished incorrect or misleading information, destroyed the requested information, or otherwise obstructed its disclosure. The existence of one of these jurisdictional facts is a necessary condition for the imposition of penalty.

19. Further, the first proviso incorporates the principles of natural justice by requiring that a reasonable opportunity of hearing be afforded before any penalty is imposed. It is a matter of fact that the second proviso places the burden upon the concerned officer to demonstrate that he acted reasonably and diligently. Thus, while the statute shifts the evidentiary burden on petitioner, it does not dispense with the foundational requirement that the Commission must record a clear and reasoned finding as to absence of reasonable cause or presence of mala fide conduct and the enquiry report, which got submitted timely, could have been used for the determination of the reason for delay.

20. Moving further, Sub-section (2) of section 20 operates in related yet in a distinct circumstance. Sub-section (1) contemplates monetary penalty for specified lapses, sub-section (2) empowers the Commission to recommend disciplinary action where the failure is not only without reasonable cause but also persistent. The expression recommend used in sub-section (2) is also significant, as it indicates that the Commission does not itself initiate or impose disciplinary punishment, but merely sets in motion the process under the applicable service rules.

21. Therefore, we are of the considered view that Section 20 provides a mechanism, that is, imposition of monetary penalty upon satisfaction of the statutory conditions, and recommendation for disciplinary action in cases of persistent and unjustified professional default. The exercise of such power must necessarily be preceded by objective consideration of the explanation offered and supported by cogent reasons reflecting application of mind.

22. Recommendations under Section 20 is intended to guide the administration and facilitate corrective action, however, when expressed in mandatory and time-bound language, they risk assuming the character of a binding direction. The statute does not empower the Commission to issue directions that override the discretion or functions of the administrative authorities. To make recommendations of binding nature would be seen as extension of the Commission?s powers beyond the statutory scheme.

23. The Supreme Court in a similar fact of the case, Manohar vs State of Maharashtra, (2012) 13 SCC 14, discussed various aspects of Section 20 of the RTI Act 2005, and observed that:

"31. It appears that the facts have not been correctly noticed and, in any case, not in their entirety by the State Information Commission. It had formed an opinion that the appellant was negligent and had not performed the duty cast upon him. The Commission noticed that there was 73 days' delay in informing the applicant and, thus, there was negligence while performing duties. If one examines the provisions of Section 20(2) in their entirety then it becomes obvious that every default on the part of the officer concerned may not result in issuance of a recommendation for disciplinary action. The case must fall in any of the specified defaults and reasoned finding has to be recorded by the Commission while making such recommendations. ?Negligence? per se is not a ground on which proceedings under Section 20(2) of the Act can be invoked. The Commission must return a finding that such negligence, delay or default is persistent and without reasonable cause. In our considered view, the Commission, in the present case, has erred in not recording such definite finding. The appellant herein had not failed to receive any application, had not failed to act within the period of 30 days (as he had written a letter calling for information), had not mala fide denied the request for information, had not furnished any incorrect or misleading information, had not destroyed any information and had not obstructed the furnishing of the information..."

24. In Manohar (supra), the Supreme Court analysed the term ?recommend? provided in Section 20 and held that:

"33. All the attributable defaults of a Central or State Public Information Officer have to be without any reasonable cause and persistently. In other words, besides finding that any of the stated defaults have been committed by such officer, the Commission has to further record its opinion that such default in relation to receiving of an application or not furnishing the information within the specified time was committed persistently and without a reasonable cause. Use of such language by the legislature clearly shows that the expression ?shall? appearing before ?recommend? has to be read and construed as ?may?. There could be cases where there is reasonable cause shown and the officer is able to demonstrate that there was no persistent default on his part either in receiving the application or furnishing the requested information. In such circumstances, the law does not require recommendation for disciplinary proceedings to be made. It is not the legislative mandate that irrespective of the facts and circumstances of a given case, whether reasonable cause is shown or not, the Commission must recommend disciplinary action merely because the application was not responded to within 30 days. Every case has to be examined on its own facts..."

25. The Supreme Court in Manohar (supra), has examined the scope and ambit of Section 20 of the Right to Information Act, 2005 and thereafter it was held that every default on the part of a Public Information Officer does not automatically trigger the imposition of penalty or a recommendation for disciplinary action. While the State Information Commission in that case was found negligence due to a delay of 73 days, the Supreme Court held that mere negligence or delay is not a ground for proceedings under Section 20(2). The Commission must record a reasoned opinion that the default was both persistent and without reasonable cause. Further, the Court emphasized that the term recommend in Section 20(2) must be read as ?may? rather than ?shall,? highlighting that the Commission is not obliged to recommend disciplinary action if the officer is able to show reasonable cause or if the default is not persistent. Each case must therefore be examined on its own facts, and the Commission?s opinion must be based on objective findings rather than assumptions or mere delay.

26. While dealing with identical issue, High Court of Punjab and Haryana has considered the amount of penalty being Rs. 25,000/- imposed upon the petitioner in case of Yudhister vs State Information Commission, Haryana and Others, 2017 SCC OnLine P&H 6592. While dealing with the matter, the High Court has observed that it is settled principle of law that a hammer is not to be used to swat a fly and further observed that the petitioner appears to have not committed any act warranting disciplinary proceedings. The penalty in that case was already recovered from the petitioner but the disciplinary proceeding which was directed got set-aside by the High Court.

27. Applying the above principles to the facts at hand, it is to be determined whether orders passed by CIC and petitioner?s alleged defaults fulfil the conditions prescribed under Section 20(1) and (2) of the Right to Information Act, 2005. The fact of the present case clearly show that at no stage, there was any allegation or observation supported by any evidence, by any authority or the Central Information Commission that there was any deliberate act or omission by the petitioner in supplying the information desired by the complainant. Instead, the fact finding inquiry report has clearly given justification for the delay at institutional level, which was more of infrastructure problem than has anything to do with the petitioner and the report in fact clearly says that the reason for delay shall not be assigned to any of the Officer.

28. On a careful consideration of the facts in the present case in the light of Section 20 of the Right to Information Act, 2005 and the principles enunciated by the Supreme Court in Manohar (supra), it is evident that the imposition of penalty upon the petitioner by the Central Information Commission vide order dated 19.03.2007 cannot be sustained. The petitioner had replied to the show-cause notice on 26.02.2007, and the enquiry directed to be conducted by the Chief Passport Officer was still in progress when the Commission imposed a penalty of Rs. 25,000/- and recommended disciplinary action. The enquiry report, submitted on 21.03.2007, clearly establishes that any inadvertent lapses, if at all, were attributable to severe shortage of staff, increased work pressure, and the extraordinary volume of applications being processed daily at the Regional Passport Office, Ghaziabad, and not due to any mala fide, deliberate, or intentional conduct by the petitioner.

29. In the facts and circumstances of the present case, there was no persistent default, nor was there any absence of reasonable cause, as contemplated under Section 20(1) and (2) of the RTI Act. The Commission?s action in imposing maximum monetary penalty and recommending disciplinary action without awaiting the report, reflects a procedural impropriety and an element of arbitrariness. In view of the statutory scheme and settled judicial principles, the penalty imposed on the petitioner was unjustified, especially when the complainant has later send the letter stating that he has received the required information.

30. Close scrutiny of the impugned order reveals that penalty order reveals that respondent no. 2 and 3 had already formed a prejudiced view against the petitioner even before a proper enquiry could be conducted. In paragraph 11 of the order dated 19.03.2007, respondent no. 2 described the petitioner in highly disparaging terms, noting that he does not have any respect for the members of the public or statutory body like the Central Information Commission, and further attributing to him the cause of public perception that bureaucracy is insensitive and high-handed. Such observations demonstrate that respondent no.2 approached the matter with a pre-determined opinion and a mindset already hostile to the petitioner, rather than an objective assessment of the facts.

31. The order imposing penalty dated 19.03.2007 has also observed in paragraph 13 that the Commission only wishes that it had the powers to dismiss the services of such ill-behaved, bureaucrats, and direct the foreign secretary to initiate disciplinary proceeding immediately on receipt of this order, against the PIO and Passport Officer, Ghaziabad, Shailesh Kumar Yadav. Proceeding to determine the penalty and also recommending action to the Government without awaiting the completion of the enquiry undermines the procedural safeguards enshrined in the statute.

32. The language used in both impugned orders travel far beyond consideration of statutory defaults under Section 20 of the RTI Act and indicates a lack of impartiality, reflecting that the penalty and disciplinary recommendation were influenced by bias and personal disapprobation, rather than grounded in reasoned findings. Such conduct may give rise to a reasonable apprehension of bias or pre-judgment, thereby offending the principles of natural justice. Fairness, and due consideration of evidence are indispensable before any punitive or consequential action is taken.

33. Further, the order dated 07.07.2014 passed by the Supreme Court in Shailesh Kumar Yadav vs Union of India and Others, Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 10430 of 2009, demonstrates that there is no allegation or observation for deliberate act or omission on the part of the petitioner, and therefore the respondent nos. 2 and 3 are not justified to impose penalty on the petitioner. Similar order is being passed against petitioner by same respondent officer in its order dated 19.03.2007 impugned in the present case and, therefore, the rational of the Supreme Court?s order in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 10430 of 2009 applies to this case as well and the impugned penalty order is not justified.

34. We are of the considered view that Section 20 of the RTI Act confers power to impose a penalty on officers who deliberately obstruct or delay the supply of information, however, the exercise of this power must be reasoned, proportionate, and preceded by a fair enquiry. Issuing the maximum penalty in tandem with a recommendation for Government action within a negligible time gap suggests undue haste and raises concerns of arbitrariness. While the Commission is entrusted with enforcement, it must ensure that its decisions are grounded in careful consideration of facts, statutory limits, and procedural fairness. The imposition of penalty and related recommendations must not appear rushed, prejudged, or compromise the statutory safeguards and the rule of law.

35. For the foregoing reasons, having regard to the statutory scheme under Section 20 of the Right to Information Act, 2005, the enquiry report of the Chief Passport Officer, and the circumstances demonstrating bias and pre-determined opinion on the part of respondent no. 2, this Court is satisfied that order dated 08.02.2007 and order dated 19.03.2007 passed by the Information Commissioner, Central Information Commission were unjustified, arbitrary, and contrary to law. Consequently, both the impugned orders dated 08.02.2007 and 19.03.2007 are quashed.

36. Thus this writ petition stands allowed as above with no order as to cost.

Central Information Commission New Delhi & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a challenge by the Union of India against CIC(Central Information Commission) orders directing the disclosure of marks and photocopies of answer sheets for a departmental examination under the RTI Act.

Headnotes

Civil law-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-Right to Information Act,2005-Sections 8(1)(j) & 11-Disclosure of candidate marks-Public activity vs. Private information-Marks obtained by participants in a competitive public examination are not "confidential private information" and must be disclosed as they relate to a public activity –There is no vested right for an applicant to obtain physical photocopies of another candidate's evaluated answer book, providing marks and allowing a perusal of the records is sufficient to satisfy the mandate of the Act-Thus, the orders of the Information Commission directing the supply of photocopies of third party answer sheets are liable to be quashed-Allowed partly.(Para 12 to 23)

Held

The court held that marks obtained by candidates in a public examination do not constitute "personal information" under section 8(1(j) of the RTI Act and must be disclosed to ensure transparency. While a candidate may peruse the answer sheets of others, there is no vested right to obtain photocopies of another candidate's evaluated scripts. The examining body does not share a fiduciary relationship with the examiner, but it does owe a duty to the examinee to maintain the confidentiality of their specific answer book against third parties. Consequently, the disclosure of marks is considered sufficient information to satisfy the mandate of the Act. The CIC orders were quashed to the extent they directed the supply of photocopies of third party answer sheets. (E-6)

Adv. for Respondent(s):-

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.
Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Krishna Ji Shukla, learned Advocate appearing for the petitioners and learned panel counsel for the Union of India.

2. Petitioners, Union of India and Public Information Officer, Diesel Locomotive Works, Varanasi are aggrieved by the two orders passed by Central Information Commission dated 13.05.2009 and the order dated 04.06.2009 dismissing the review petition.

3. Briefly stated facts of the case are that one Santosh Kumar, Office Superintendent-II, who had appeared in the written test held by the respondent Railways for the purpose of selection on the post of Legal Assistant, made an application under the Right to Information Act, 2005 (in short ?Act, 2005?) to the Information Officer, Diesel Locomotive Works, Varanasi asking for marks obtained by three candidates, himself, Manish Kumar Singh and Gorakh Sharma and photostat copies of their answer sheets. This application was made on 10.10.2008 in response to which the Senior Personnel Officer acting as nodal officer, Public Information supplied copy of the question paper demanded for,but in so far as the photocopies of the answer sheets was demanded, it was refused. However, the said Santosh Kumar who is respondent no. 3 here in this petition, was permitted to peruse the answer sheet on any working day. The information as to marks was also not disclosed. He filed an appeal against the order before the appellate authority on 23.10.2008 and the appellate authority, namely the Central Information Commission, New Delhi under its order dated 13.05.2009 directed for supplying the photocopies of answer sheets demanded by the appellant for Law Assistant Exams held on 30.07.2004. Aggrieved of this order, though the petitioners revealed the marks obtained by the three candidates to Sri Santosh Kumar vide letter dated 28.05.2009 but instead of supplying the photocopies of answer sheets, filed a review application taking plea that in the light of Full Bench decision of the Central Information Commission itself, such an information could be declined under Section 8(1)(j) of the Act, 2005.

4. However, the review petition was dismissed vide order dated 04.06.2009 on the ground that Indian Railways would fall under the category of Public Authority whose main action is not to conduct examinations, but is to conduct examination to fill up the posts and, therefore, answer sheets could have been supplied. The reviewing authority referred para 40 of the Full Bench judgment in which disposal of answer sheets was held to be not a general rule but each case will have to be examined individually.

5. The submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners is that the judgment of Full Bench of the Commission has not been appreciated properly by the appellate/ reviewing authority otherwise it would not have insisted for the photocopies of the answer sheets.

6. Per contra it is argued by learned counsel for the respondent no. 4 that there is no manifest error in the judgment of the Central Information Commission both initially passed in appeal and subsequently dismissing the review petition and, therefore, petition is devoid of merits. However, learned counsel for the respondents could not dispute that the marks of three candidates sought for in the information have been disclosed.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the records, in order to appreciate the legal arguments advanced on behalf of the petitioners and the issue of giving information regarding answers obtained in the answer sheet by the candidate in an open competition and then supplying the copies of the answer sheets.

8. It is true that if a candidate seeks an information about the other candidate?s marks, the it becomes a third party information and therefore, Rule 11 of Act, 2005 gets attracted but the information must be such in nature that if disclosed, it would cause any damage in terms of privacy of third party.

9. In order to appreciate the legal argument advanced, first we reproduce Section 8(1)(j) of Act, 2005 which runs as under:

"(j) information which relates to personal information the disclosure of which has no relationship to any public activity or interest, or which would cause unwarranted invasion of the privacy of the individual unless the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer or the Appellate Authority, as the case may be, is satisfied that the larger public interest justifies the disclosure of such information:

Provided that the information which cannot be denied to the Parliament or a State Legislature shall not be denied to any person."

10. From the reading of the aforesaid provisions, the intendment of legislature can be drawn to the effect that a personal information and disclosure thereof which has no relation to any public interest or to any public activity, such an information may not be given or the information which may cause unwarranted invasion of privacy of an individual, that may also not be given. So the authority will ensure that larger public interest justifies the disclosure of such information. The proviso further provides that an information which cannot be denied to Parliament or State Legislature shall also not be denied to any person. Thus, in substance, any information that does not invade the privacy of any individual may be withheld and the authority may not be placed under obligation to give this information, but otherwise, if an information can be given looking to larger public interest or where public activity may be involved, then such information shall be given. Section 11 speaks of an obligation in the matter of 3rd party information. Relevant provisions as contained under Section 11 are reproduced hereunder:

"11. Third party information. -- (1) Where a Central Public Information Officer or a State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, intends to disclose any information or record, or part thereof on a request made under this Act, which relates to or has been supplied by a third party and has been treated as confidential by that third party, the Central Public Information Officer or State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, shall, within five days from the receipt of the request, give a written notice to such third party of the request and of the fact that the Central Public Information Officer or State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, intends to disclose the information or record, or part thereof, and invite the third party to make a submission in writing or orally, regarding whether the information should be disclosed, and such submission of the third party shall be kept in view while taking a decision about disclosure of information:

Provided that except in the case of trade or commercial secrets protected by law,disclosure may be allowed if the public interest in disclosure outweighs in importance any possible harm or injury to the interests of such third party.

(2) Where a notice is served by the Central Public Information Officer or State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, under sub-section (1) to a third party in respect of any information or record or part thereof, the third party shall, within ten days from the date of receipt of such notice, be given the opportunity to make representation against the proposed disclosure.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 7, the Central Public Information Officer or State Public Information Officer, as the case may be, shall, within forty days after receipt of the request under section 6, if the third party has been given an opportunity to make representation under sub-section (2), make a decision as to whether or not to disclose the information or record or part thereof and give in writing the notice of his decision to the third party.

(4) A notice given under sub-section (3)shall include a statement that the third party to whom the notice is given is entitled to prefer an appeal under section 19 against the decision."

(emphasis added)

11. From the bare reading of aforesaid provisions it goes clear that sufficient safeguards have been provided in the event any third party information is sought and in such circumstances, the authority, which is under the obligation to give information shall be giving notice to that third party to give its reply before the information is given. The main threat is on the confidentiality of information on the principle of right to privacy.

12. In a matter before the Supreme Court where the Central Information Commission had passed an order on 18.06.2009 against which an SLP was filed before the Supreme Court, the issue raised was whether the personal information could have been given or not particularly when the disclosure of which had no relationship with any public activity or public interest. Paragraph nos. 12, 13, 14 & 15 of the judgment in the matter of Special Leave Petition (Civil) No. 27734 of 2012, Girish Ramchandra Deshpande v. Central Information Commissioner & Others reported in (2013 (1) SCC 212 is reproduced hereunder:

"12. We are in agreement with the CIC and the courts below that the details called for by the petitioner i.e. copies of all memos issued to the third respondent, show cause notices and orders of censure/punishment etc. are qualified to be personal information as defined in clause (j) of Section 8(1) of the RTI Act. The performance of an employee/officer in an organization is primarily a matter between the employee and the employer and normally those aspects are governed by the service rules which fall under the expression ?personal information?, the disclosure of which has no relationship to any public activity or public interest. On the other hand, the disclosure of which would cause unwarranted invasion of privacy of that individual. Of course, in a given case, if the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer of the Appellate Authority is satisfied that the larger public interest justifies the disclosure of such information, appropriate orders could be passed but the petitioner cannot claim those details as a matter of right.

13. The details disclosed by a person in his income tax returns are "personal information" which stand exempted from disclosure under clause (j) of Section 8(1) of the RTI Act, unless involves a larger public interest and the Central Public Information Officer or the State Public Information Officer or the Appellate Authority is satisfied that the larger public interest justifies the disclosure of such information.

14. The petitioner in the instant case has not made a bona fide public interest in seeking information, the disclosure of such information would cause unwarranted invasion of privacy of the individual under Section 8(1)(j) of the RTI Act.

15. We are, therefore, of the view that the petitioner has not succeeded in establishing that the information sought for is for the larger public interest. That being the fact, we are not inclined to entertain this special leave petition. Hence, the same is dismissed."

13. From the above quoted paragraphs of the judgment, we find that words and expression ?personal information?, ?public intent? and ?public activity? have been considered contextually to the information sought for. Any information which is specific to a third party would be a personal information would not be disclosed unless and until it relates to some public activity or where paramount public interest may outweight consideration of confidentiality in the name of privacy.

14. Public activity may be of varied nature i.e. chants, assembly, meetings etc. such as programmes with large gatherings men, women and youngsters/ children for social awareness, meetings organized for programmes and services. So the public activity means an activity relating to public in general in context to private or individual activity. Where the government or a public functionary gets involved either as organizer or promoter or an participant and such public functionary falls within the meaning of authority under the Right to Information Act, 2005, information relating to such activities becomes accessible to people in public interest.

15. In the case of Dr. Naresh Trehan & 5 others v. Rakesh Kumar Gupta, 2014 SCC OnLine Del 6600 vide paragraph no. 25 the Delhi High Court has held that ?public activity? would denote activity done for the public and/ or in some manner available for participation by public or some section of the public.? The said High Court was distinguishing ta return of an individual or his consent being pursued by him as an information relating to a third party and there being no participation by public or some section of public, such an information was rightly not disclosed.

16. Here it would be relevant also to refer to the aims and objects for which the RTI was enacted. The very object in the preamble of the Act refers to an object of promotion of transparency and accountability in working of every public authority and also to contain corruption and to hold Governments and their instrumentalities accountable to the Government. So the purpose and object of the Act has been to provide information particularly in public interest affairs and where public activity may be involved. Public interest and public activity have not been defined under the Act. Public interest normally in general could be where the common man?s interest in particular affairs may be not an individual interest but relating to society or otherwise a class or a group which can be classified for a limited extent with reference to subject matter for which the information relates to. Public activity is also in our considered view relates to substantial public interest involved where public at large gets affected. So in a matter where in general a public interest may be involved, the information must be given as a realm. The object of the Act is to give information subject to the riders created under Section 8. So wherever there is public interest involved and there is absolutely no private information sought for, the endeavour of the authority would be to furnish the information sought for.

17. In the instant case information required was relating to public examination held by the respondents for the post of Legal Assistant to which the applicant namely respondent no. 4 was an applicant like others regarding whose information was sought. The information was sought regarding marks obtained and we fail to understand as to how this information is private information or giving of this information to a candidate would amount to invading the privacy of a candidate. All those who have obtained marks, are open to all ultimately when the merit is prepared. While it may be true that for a certain period an information may be withheld in a matter where any investigation or enquiry is pending and marks have not been disclosed, but where no investigation or enquiry is pending such an information, if sought for under the RTI Act, such information can always be provided for and must be provided content of examination for a post may be for a classified section has an element of public activity where disclosure of marks obtained by candidates shall serve a larger public interest. Marks obtained by a candidate, if information regarding that is sought by another candidate who has also participated in examination, is not such a confidential private information which may require even consent of that third party under Section 8. Well of course, if an outsider seeks information, department may take a valid defence of confidentiality. However, on the question of photocopies of the answer sheets, it may involve checking of answer sheets, signatures of examiners etc. and therefore, it may not be appropriate to disclose the names, signatures of the examiners and for that purpose therefore, if the authority directs the applicants seeking information to peruse the answer sheets, it would suffice the need. There is no vested right in an applicant to obtain the photocopies of answer sheets of another candidate, however, he can always ask for the photocopy of his own answer sheet. The purpose of a candidate seeking information in such competitive examination can be understood as a curiosity to know how many marks he has obtained and whether his answer sheet is correctly examined or not, inasmuch as, the perusal of other candidate?s answer sheet can also be helpful to him but in no case we can compel an authority to supply the photocopies of answer sheets of other candidates. In matters of providing photocopies of the answer sheets, the local departmental rules can of course, be framed and there may be cases where Rules may not permit for providing photocopies of answer sheets and so in that case a candidate can be permitted to peruse the answer sheet. If a candidate is aggrieved in any manner for wrongful checking of answer sheet or he finds upon perusal that the answer sheets of other candidates contained wrongly awarded marks, he can always question this in an appropriate legal proceeding drawn in a court of law, where the court is always vested with the power to summon the answer sheets and the court has been summoning the answer sheets on case to case basis. Thus, on the count of furnishing marks of other desired candidates, the judgment and order passed by the Central Information Commission cannot be faulted with, nor we find any manifest error in the order dismissing the review petition, but in the present case we find that the marks have not been disclosed to respondent no. 4 by the petitioners vide their letter dated 28.05.2009 which is sufficient desired information and therefore, we do not find that any further information is required to be furnished to the petitioner.

18. We may further observe that an application moved under the Right to Information Act, 2005 seeking relevant information, if furnished, the application stands satisfied. It may not be necessary always to provide the copies of the official records/ documents which the department considers would neither be necessary nor, would serve any purpose practically for which the information has been sought. If sufficient information is there and perusal of records is permitted, it should suffice the need qua mandate contained under the Act, 2005.

19. We would like here to further refer judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Central Board of Secondary Education & Anr v. Aditya Bandopadhyay & Ors, (2011) 8 SCC 497 in which while dealing with the issue of supplying the copies of the answer books, the Court has observed vide paras 45, 46, 47, 48 & 49 thus:

"45. One of the duties of the fiduciary is to make thorough disclosure of all relevant facts of all transactions between them to the beneficiary, in a fiduciary relationship. By that logic, the examining body, if it is in a fiduciary relationship with an examinee, will be liable to make a full disclosure of the evaluated answer-books to the examinee and at the same time, owe a duty to the examinee not to disclose the answer-books to anyone else. If A entrusts a document or an article to B to be processed, on completion of processing, B is not expected to give the document or article to anyone else but is bound to give the same to A who entrusted the document or article to B for processing. Therefore, if a relationship of fiduciary and beneficiary is assumed between the examining body and the examinee with reference to the answer-book, section 8(1)(e) would operate as an exemption to prevent access to any third party and will not operate as a bar for the very person who wrote the answer-book, seeking inspection or disclosure of it.

46. An evaluated answer book of an examinee is a combination of two different `informations'. The first is the answers written by the examinee and second is the marks/assessment by the examiner. When an examinee seeks inspection of his evaluated answer-books or seeks a certified copy of the evaluated answer-book, the information sought by him is not really the answers he has written in the answer-books (which he already knows), nor the total marks assigned for the answers (which has been declared). What he really seeks is the information relating to the break-up of marks, that is, the specific marks assigned to each of his answers.

47. When an examinee seeks `information' by inspection/certified copies of his answer-books, he knows the contents thereof being the author thereof. When an examinee is permitted to examine an answer-book or obtain a certified copy, the examining body is not really giving him some information which is held by it in trust or confidence, but is only giving him an opportunity to read what he had written at the time of examination or to have a copy of his answers. Therefore, in furnishing the copy of an answer-book, there is no question of breach of confidentiality, privacy, secrecy or trust. The real issue therefore is not in regard to the answer-book but in regard to the marks awarded on evaluation of the answer-book. Even here the total marks given to the examinee in regard to his answer-book are already declared and known to the examinee. What the examinee actually wants to know is the break-up of marks given to him, that is how many marks were given by the examiner to each of his answers so that he can assess how is performance has been evaluated and whether the evaluation is proper as per his hopes and expectations. Therefore, the test for finding out whether the information is exempted or not, is not in regard to the answer book but in regard to the evaluation by the examiner.

48. This takes us to the crucial issue of evaluation by the examiner. The examining body engages or employs hundreds of examiners to do the evaluation of thousands of answer books. The question is whether the information relating to the `evaluation' (that is assigning of marks) is held by the examining body in a fiduciary relationship. The examining bodies contend that even if fiduciary relationship does not exist with reference to the examinee, it exists with reference to the examiner who evaluates the answer-books. On a careful examination we find that this contention has no merit.

49. The examining body entrusts the answer-books to an examiner for evaluation and pays the examiner for his expert service. The work of evaluation and marking the answer-book is an assignment given by the examining body to the examiner which he discharges for a consideration. Sometimes, an examiner may assess answer-books, in the course of his employment, as a part of his duties without any specific or special remuneration. In other words the examining body is the `principal' and the examiner is the agent entrusted with the work, that is, evaluation of answer- books. Therefore, the examining body is not in the position of a fiduciary with reference to the examiner."

20. In the counter affidavit also nothing has been stated about any illegality or irregularly in checking the answer sheets.

21. Thus, according to us, sufficient information has been given and therefore, providing for photocopies of answer sheets of the petitioners is not necessary and the original order of commission to that extent and order in review offering the same deserve to reverse.

22. Writ petition thus, partly succeeds and is allowed to the extent the respondent nos. 1 & 2 are directed to provide photocopies of the answer sheets of the candidates. Since the petitioners have not raised any irregularity in his answer sheets therefore, information regarding marks is taken to be sufficient.

23. In view of the above, writ petition succeeds and is allowed in part. The orders passed by the Central Information Commission and the Information Commission dated 13.05.2009 and 04.06.2009 are hereby quashed to the extent they directed for supply of photocopies of answer sheets to the respondents.

24. Cost made easy.

Adv. for Respondent(s):-
C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Kumar Singh, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shwetashwa Agarwal, learned Senior Counsel appeared as Amicus Curiae and assisted by Sri Yashraj Verma, Sri Dinkar Lal, Sri Sirajuddin, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioners, Sri Ashwani Kumar Tripathi & Sri Prabhash Kumar Tiwari, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel alongwith Sri Yogesh Kumar, Sri Pramit Kumar Pal, Sri Suresh Babu, Sri Arvind Kumar Singh, Sri Vijay Kumar Srivastava, and Sri Phool Chand, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents, in all the writ petitions.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for a writ in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents not to interfere in their peaceful life and liberty and also for a direction to provide protection.

3. A large number of petitions are being filed in this Court wherein the petitioners have decided to stay together in an interfaith live-in relationship and they claim that they have an apprehension of life threat from the private respondents. The Police of concerned Districts have been approached by them, but no heed was paid, therefore, they have approached this Court by way of filing these writ petitions. In all the writ petitions, the petitioners have prayed that the Police of their District be directed to provide protection from private respondents as well as other family members/relatives/associates of the private respondents from causing any harm to the petitioners.

4. Since controversy involved in all the writ petitions is similar, hence they are being decided by a common judgment.

5. This Court, taking note of the involvement of the important issue in the matter, requested Mr. Shwetashwa Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate, to assist the Court, as amicus curiae, which was accepted by the learned Senior Counsel and he argued the matter with the assistance of learned counsels named above.

6. Learned Senior Counsel argued that Article 21 of the Constitution of India grants the personal choice of whether to marry or not and be in a live-in relationship. A major person has a right to marry a person of his/her choice or to live with his/her partner. They have a right to live out of the wedlock.

7. The learned Senior Counsel citing several judgments of the Supreme Court as well as of the High Courts, stated that a live-in relationship between consenting adults of heterogenic sex does not amount to any offence. It is also submitted that Article 14 of the Constitution of India guarantees equal protection of law within the territory of India and Article 21 protects the right to life and personal liberty. In these cases, the petitioners, claimed to be in an interfaith live-in relationship, have attained the age of majority which is a legal age to enter into any relationship with protection, according to their prayer.

8. On the other hand, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submitted that the petitioners are interfaith couples and they have not complied with the provisions of Section 8 and 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Prohibition of Unlawful Conversion of Religion Act, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 2021"). No application for conversion has been moved though the Act came into force on 27.11.2020. It is also submitted that the act of the petitioners is unlawful and illegal and the same cannot be protected in view of Section 3 and 5 of the Act, 2021. It is further submitted that the apprehensions of the petitioners are vague, speculative and unsupported by any contemporaneous complaint to local police authorities. There is no real and immediate threat to the life or liberty of the petitioners. No specific time, date or incident has been mentioned in the application allegedly moved before the police authorities. The State's obligations to protect arises only when no unlawful act has been done by the petitioners and the protection by the police authorities may be granted only when there exists a credible and immediate threat.

9. It is further submitted by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel that the case laws relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners will not come to the aid of the petitioners since these judgments were passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court prior to the promulgation of the Act, 2021, which came into force on 27.11.2020.

10. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has relied upon judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kiran Rawat and Another vs. State of U.P. Thru. Secy. Home, Lko and Others reported in 2023 SCC Online ALL 323, to contend that a Muslim cannot reside in a live-in relationship as per their personal laws. He further relied upon the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Asha Devi and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, passed in Writ C No. 18743 of 2020, and opposed the petition.

11. In view of the order proposed to be passed, there is no need to issue notice to the private respondents and the petition is being disposed of finally with the consent of the learned counsels appearing for the parties.

12. It is submitted by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners that they are major and are residing in a live-in relationship and this particular fact has not been disputed by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. The petitioners belong to different religions. This Court is dealing with 12 writ petitions, wherein 7 girls are Muslims and they are residing with Hindu boys, whereas five girls are Hindu and they are residing with Muslim boys. It is further submitted that in all the petitions, it is stated that the petitioners fell in love with each other and they have decided to reside in a live-in relationship, but the private respondents are interfering in their peaceful living. The petitioners approached the police authorities, but no action was taken by the police authorities, therefore, they preferred the present writ petitions.

13. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance on the judgment passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Razia and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, passed in Writ-C No. 27338 of 2023, in which the co-ordinate Bench of this Court relying upon various judgments, granted protection to the couple who were residing in an interfaith live-in relationship.

14. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners further submitted that in the case of Razia (supra) also, one of the party was Muslim by faith and the other party was Hindu by religion and in the identical situation, the Court has granted protection in the case of Razia (supra).

15. Opposing the arguments advanced by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State of U.P., placed reliance upon judgment of Kiran Rawat (supra) and argued that a Muslim cannot reside in a live-in relationship prior to his/her marriage.

16. Learned Senior counsel for the petitioners has relied upon the law laid down by Supreme Court in the case of Lata Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and another (2006) 5 SCC 475, to contend that once a person has attained majority, he/she can live with whomsoever they like and their choice cannot be interfered with by anyone. It would be apposite to reproduce the relevant part of the judgment of Supreme Court in the case of Lata Singh (supra) for convenience and ready reference:

"17. The caste system is a curse on the nation and the sooner it is destroyed the better. In fact, it is dividing the nation at a time when we have to be united to face the challenges before the nation unitedly. Hence, inter-caste marriages are in fact in the national interest as they will result in destroying the caste system. However, disturbing news are coming from several parts of the country that young men and women who undergo inter-caste marriage, are threatened with violence, or violence is actually committed on them. In our opinion, such acts of violence or threats or harassment are wholly illegal and those who commit them must be severely punished. This is a free and democratic country, and once a person becomes a major he or she can marry whosoever he/she likes. If the parents of the boy or girl do not approve of such inter-caste or inter-religious marriage the maximum they can do is that they can cut off social relations with the son or the daughter, but they cannot give threats or commit or instigate acts of violence and cannot harass the person who undergoes such inter-caste or inter- religious marriage. We, therefore, direct that the administration/police authorities throughout the country will see to it that if any boy or girl who is a major undergoes inter-caste or inter-religious marriage with a woman or man who is a major, the couple are not harassed by any one nor subjected to threats or acts of violence, and any one who gives such threats or harasses or commits acts of violence either himself or at his instigation, is taken to task by instituting criminal proceedings by the police against such persons and further stern action is taken against such persons as provided by law. We sometimes hear of `honour' killings of such persons who undergo inter-caste or inter-religious marriage of their own free will. There is nothing honourable in such killings, and in fact they are nothing but barbaric and shameful acts of murder committed by brutal, feudal minded persons who deserve harsh punishment. Only in this way can we stamp out such acts of barbarism."

17. To contend the freedom of an individual who has attained the age of majority to live with anyone whom he/she likes, reliance is also placed by the learned Senior counsel for the petitioners on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Shafin Jahan Vs. Asokan K.M. and Ors. reported in (2018) 16 SCC 368, wherein the Supreme Court emphasized due importance to the right of choice of an adult person, which the Constitution accords to an adult person. The Hon'ble Apex Court has held that right to marry a person of own choice is integral part of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. There is a complete freedom to choose life partner of any faith, belief, religion, caste etc. Neither State, nor law, nor society can dictate the choice of partner. The right cannot be taken away except through law which is substantially and procedurally fair, just and reasonable. The relevant paragraphs of Shafin Jahan (supra) are reproduced as under:

"26. In Ummu Sabeena vs. State of Kerala and Others, (2011) 10 SCC 781, the Court further ruled that the principle of habeas corpus has been incorporated in our constitutional law and in a democratic republic like India where judges function under a written Constitution and which has a chapter of fundamental rights to protect individual liberty, the judges owe a duty to safeguard the liberty not only of the citizens but also of all persons within the territory of India; and the same exercise of power can be done in the most effective manner by issuing a writ of habeas corpus.

27 . Thus, the pivotal purpose of the said writ is to see that no one is deprived of his/her liberty without sanction of law. It is the primary duty of the State to see that the said right is not sullied in any manner whatsoever and its sanctity is not affected by any kind of subterfuge. The role of the Court is to see that the detenue is produced before it, find out about his/her independent choice and see to it that the person is released from illegal restraint. The issue will be a different one when the detention is not illegal. What is seminal is to remember that the song of liberty is sung with sincerity and the choice of an individual is appositely respected and conferred its esteemed status as the Constitution guarantees. It is so as the expression of choice is a fundamental right Under Articles 19 and 21 of the Constitution, if the said choice does not transgress any valid legal framework. Once that aspect is clear, the enquiry and determination have to come to an end.

52. It is obligatory to state here that expression of choice in accord with law is acceptance of individual identity. Curtailment of that expression and the ultimate action emanating therefrom on the conceptual structuralism of obeisance to the societal will destroy the individualistic entity of a person. The social values and morals have their space but they are not above the constitutionally guaranteed freedom. The said freedom is both a constitutional and a human right. Deprivation of that freedom which is ingrained in choice on the plea of faith is impermissible. Faith of a person in intrinsic to his/he meaningful existence. To have the freedom of faith is essential to his/her autonomy; and it strengthens the core norms of the Constitution. Choosing a faith is the substratum of individuality and sans it, the right of choice becomes a shadow. It has to be remembered that the realisation of a right is more important than the conferment of the right. Such actualisation indeed ostracises any kind of societal notoriety and keeps at bay the patriarchal supremacy. It is so because the individualistic faith and expression of choice are fundamental for the fructification of the right. Thus, we would like to call it indispensable preliminary condition.

53 . Non-acceptance of her choice would simply mean creating discomfort to the constitutional right by a Constitutional Court which is meant to be the protector of fundamental rights. Such a situation cannot remotely be conceived. The duty of the Court is to uphold the right and not to abridge the sphere of the right unless there is a valid authority of law. Sans lawful sanction, the centripodal value of liberty should allow an individual to write his/her script. The individual signature is the insignia of the concept.

54. In the case at hand, the father in his own stand and perception may feel that there has been enormous transgression of his right to protect the interest of his daughter but his view point or position cannot be allowed to curtail the fundamental rights of his daughter who, out of her own volition, married the Appellant. Therefore, the High Court has completely erred by taking upon itself the burden of annulling the marriage between the Appellant and the Respondent No. 9 when both stood embedded to their vow of matrimony."

18. Learned Senior counsel for the petitioner has also placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Nandkumar and another Vs. State of Kerala reported at (2018) 16 SCC 620 to contend that the live in relationship is now recognized by the legislature itself and it has found its place under the provisions of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act.

19. Reliance is also placed by the learned Senior counsel for the petitioner on the decision of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Kamini Devi Vs. State of U.P Writ C No. 11108 of 2020, to contend that the live in relationship is no offence and the petitioners, if they are major, are legally entitled to live in live-in relationship.

20. In reply, it is stated by the learned counsel for the State that the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel/amicus curiae, though grant the fundamental right of choice of an adult person while marrying within the same religion, however, these judgments will not come to the aid of the petitioners after the promulgation of the Act, 2021, which came into force on 27.11.2020. All the aforementioned judgments relied upon by the learned Senior Counsel were passed prior to the promulgation of the Act, 2021 and in none of the judgment, the Act of 2021 was considered.

21. According to the State Counsel, as per the Act, 2021, one cannot freely move with another except in accordance with the procedure prescribed in Section 8 and 9 of the Act, 2021, or by marriage under the Special Marriage Act. In the present cases, none of the petitioners claimed that they have moved application under Section 8 and 9 of the Act, 2021, rather they stated that they are residing in a live-in relationship. No one claimed that any application under the Special Marriage Act was preferred by them. Therefore, they have violated the law and no relief can be granted to a wrong doer.

22. In rebuttal, it is stated by learned Senior Counsel/amicus curiae, that the petitioners herein are only living in a relationship and as such, compliance of Section 8 and 9 of the Act, 2021, is not necessary for the petitioners. If a person intends to convert his/her religion, only then he/she will give a declaration in terms of Section 8 and 9 of the Act, 2021.

23. The above argument was strongly opposed by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. and he referred Section 3 and 5 of the Act, 2021 and stated that for the purpose of living together in a live-in relationship, the Act, 2021, will apply and whoever contravenes the provisions of Section 3, will be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than three years but which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than Rs. 50,000/-. Reference may be made to Section 3 and 5 of the Act, 2021 which run as under:

"Section 3. Prohibition of conversion from one religion to another religion by misrepresenta-tion, force, fraud, undue influence, coercion, allurement.-

(1) No person shall convert or attempt to convert, either directly or otherwise, any other person from one religion to another by use or practice of misrepresentation, force, undue influence, coercion, allurement or by any fraudulent means. No person shall abet, convince or conspire such conversion.

Explanation:- For the purposes of this sub-section conversion by solemnization of marriage or relationship in the nature of marriage on account of factors enumerated in this sub-section shall be deemed included.

(2) If any person re-converts to his immediate previous religion, the same shall not be deemed to be a conversion under this Act.

Explanation:- For the purposes of this sub-section immediate previous religion means the religion in which the person had faith, belief or was practiced by the person voluntarily and freely.

Section 5. Punishment for contravention of provisions of section 3.-(1) Whoever contravenes the provisions of section 3 shall, without prejudice to any civil liability, be punished with imprisonment for a term, which shall not be less than three years but which may extend to ten years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than fifty thousand rupees:

Provided that whoever contravenes the provisions of section 3 in respect of a minor, a disabled or mentally challenged person, a soman or a person belonging to the Scheduled Castes or the Scheduled Tribes, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than five years but which may extend to fourteen years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees:

Provided further that whoever contravenes the provisions of section 3 in respect of mass conversion of religion shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to fourteen years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than one lakh rupees.

(2) Whoever receives money from any foreign or illegal institutions in connection with unlawful religious conversion shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to fourteen years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than ten lakh rupees.

(3) Wherever, with the intent to convert, puts any person in fear of his life or property, assaults or uses force or marries or promises to marry o induces or conspires for the same, or traffics a minor, a woman or a person by enticing them or otherwise selling them, or abets, attempts or conspires in this behalf, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not less than twenty years but which may extend to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person?s natual life, and shall also be liable to fine :

Provided that such fine shall be just and reasonable to meet the medical expenses and rehabilitation of the victim :

Provided further that any fine imposed under this section shall be paid to the victim.

(4) The Court shall also approve appropriate compensation payable by the accused to the victim of the said conversion, which may extend to five lakh rupees, in addition to the fine.

(5) Whoever, having previously been convicted of an offence under this Act, is again convicted of an offence punishable under this Act, shall, for every such subsequent offence, be liable to a punishment not exceeding twice the punishment provided in that behalf under this Act."

24. By referring the aforesaid provision, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel further stated that the explanation of Section 3 of the Act, 2021, goes to show that conversion is not only required for the purpose of marriage, but it is also required in all relationship in the nature of marriage, therefore, the Act, 2021, will also apply to relationship in the nature of marriage or staying together in a live-in relationship. None of the petitioners have applied for conversion as per provisions of Section 8 and 9 of the Act, 2021, hence the relationship of the petitioners cannot be protected in contraventions of the provisions of law. Such residing of the petitioners in relationship like marriage cannot get approval by the Court of law.

25. I have heard submissions of both the sides and perused the record.

26. In the case of Kiran Rawat (supra), the Division Bench of this Court has observed that no recognition can be given to sex outside the marriage in the Muslim Law. The relevant paragraph no. 21 of the Kiran Rawat (supra) is reproduced hereunder.

"21. However, in Muslim law no recognition can be given to sex outside marriage. "Zina" which has been defined as any sexual intercourse except that between husband and wife includes both extramarital sex and premarital sex and is often translated as fornication in English. Such premarital sex is not permissible in Islam. In fact any sexual, lustful, affectionate acts such as kissing, touching, staring etc. are "Haram" in Islam before marriage because these are considered parts of "Zina" which may lead to actual "Zina" itself. The punishment for such offence according to Quran (chapter 24) is hundred lashes for the unmarried male and female who commit fornication together with the punishment prescribed by the "Sunnah" for the married male and female that is stoning to death."

27. In the context of Kiran Rawat's (supra) judgment, there is no provisions in the Indian Penal Code or any other Act to punish a man or woman with lashes or stoning to death. Therefore, a person, cannot be punished according to Muslim Law/Islam, as quoted in Kiran Rawat's (supra) judgment.

28. In the opinion of this Court, for attracting the offence under Sections 3 and 5 of the Act, 2021, conversion from one religion to another religion is necessary and that conversion should be by practice of misrepresentation, force, undue influence, coercion or allurement or by any fraudulent means or by marriage or by relationship in the nature of marriage. Sub-section (1) of Section 3 mandates that no person shall convert or attempt to convert any other person from one religion to another religion. "Conversion' has been defined under Section 2(c) of the Act, 2021, which is reproduced hereunder:

"2(c). "Conversion" means renouncing one's own religion and adopting another religion."

29. In the present batch of cases, no petitioner claimed that any attempt, in any manner, was made by other petitioner for conversion of his/her religion. It is only claimed by the petitioners that they are living together in a live-in relationship and following their religion. Section 4 of the Act, 2021, gives power to any person to lodge F.I.R./complaint relating to the contravention of the provisions of the Act, 2021. In these cases, no F.I.R. or complaint has been lodged against any person that religion of one petitioner was converted or attempted to be converted. Therefore, it cannot be said under the facts and circumstances of these cases that any act in contravention of the provision of the Act, 2021, was made by the petitioners and a punishable offence was done by them.

30. Even the interfaith marriage, per se, is not prohibited under the Act, 2021. Provision has also been made under the Act, 2021, and according to which, if a person wishes to change/convert his or her religion, he/she is expected to follow the procedure prescribed under Section 8 & 9 of the Act, 2021. But one cannot be forced to convert his or her religion for the purposes of marriage or for living together in a live-in relationship. For ready reference, Sections 8 & 9 of the Act, 2021, are reproduced hereunder:

"Section 8. Declaration before conversion of religion and pre-report about conversion (1) One who desires to convert his/her religion, shall give a declaration in the form prescribed in Schedule-I at least sixty days in advance, to the District Magistrate or the Additional District Magistrate specially authorized by the District Magistrate, that he wishes to convert his/her religion on his/her own and with his/her free consent and without any force, coercion, undue influence or allurement.

(2) The religious convertor, who performs conversion ceremony for converting any person of one religion to another religion, shall give one month's advance notice in the form prescribed in Schedule-II of such conversion, to the District Magistrate or any other officer not below the rank of Additional District Magistrate appointed for that purpose by the District Magistrate of the district where such ceremony is proposed to be performed.

(3) The District Magistrate, after receiving the information under sub-section (1) and (2), shall get an enquiry conducted through police with regard to real intention, purpose and cause of the proposed religious conversion.

(4) Contravention of sub-section (1) and/or sub-section (2) shall have the effect of rendering the proposed conversion, illegal and void.

(5) Whoever contravenes the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months but may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than rupees ten thousand.

(6) Whoever contravenes the provisions of sub-section (2) shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than one year but may extend to five years and shall also be liable to fine which shall not be less than rupees twenty five thousand.

Section 9. Declaration post conversion of religion (1) The converted person shall send a declaration in the form prescribed in Schedule-III within sixty days of the date of conversion, to the District Magistrate of the District in which converted person resides ordinarily.

(2) The District Magistrate shall exhibit a copy of the declaration on the notice board of the office till the date of confirmation.

(3) The said declaration shall contain the requisite details, i.e., the particulars of the convert such as date of birth, permanent address, and the present place of residence, father?s/husband?s name, the religion to which the convert originally belonged and the religion to which he has converted, the date and place of conversion and nature of process gone through for conversion.

(4) The converted individual shall appear before the District Magistrate within 21 days from the date of sending/filing the declaration to establish her/his identity and confirm the contents of the declaration.

(5) The District Magistrate shall record the factum of declaration and confirmation in a register maintained for this purpose. If any objections are notified, he may simply record them, i.e., the name and particulars of objectors and the nature of objection.

(6) Certified copies of declaration, confirmation and the extracts from the register shall be furnished to the parties, who gave the declaration to his/her authorized legal representative on his/her request.

(7) The contravention of sub-sections 1 to 4 shall have the effect of rendering the said conversion illegal and void."

31. This Court does not see the petitioners herein as Hindu and Muslim, rather as two grown up individuals who out of their own free will and choice are living together peacefully and happily for a considerable time. The Courts and the Constitutional Courts in particular are enjoined to uphold the life and liberty of an individual guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Right to live with a person of his/her choice, irrespective of religion professed by them, is intrinsic to right to life and personal liberty. Interference in a personal relationship, would constitute a serious encroachment into the right to freedom of choice of the two individuals. This Court fails to understand that if the law permits two persons even of the same sex to live together peacefully then neither any individual nor a family nor even State can have objection to hetrosexual relationship of two major individuals who out of their own free will are living together. Decision of an individual who is of the age of majority, to live with an individual of his/her choice is strictly a right of an individual and when this right is infringed it would constitute breach of his/her fundamental right to life and personal liberty as it includes right to freedom of choice, to choose a partner and right to live with dignity as enshrined in Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

32. In a more recent decision of a three judge Bench in Soni Gerry v Gerry Douglas, (2018) 2 SCC 197, the Hon'ble Supreme Court dealt with a case where the daughter of the appellant and respondent, who was a major had expressed a desire to reside in Kuwait, where she was pursuing her education, with her father. This Court observed thus:

"9. She has, without any hesitation, clearly stated that she intends to go back to Kuwait to pursue her career. In such a situation, we are of the considered opinion that as a major, she is entitled to exercise her choice and freedom and the Court cannot get into the aspect whether she has been forced by the father or not. There may be ample reasons on her behalf to go back to her father in Kuwait, but we are not concerned with her reasons. What she has stated before the Court, that alone matters and that is the heart of the reasoning for this Court, which keeps all controversies at bay.

10. It needs no special emphasis to state that attaining the age of majority in an individual's life has its own significance. She/He is entitled to make her/his choice. The courts cannot, as long as the choice remains, assume the role of parens patriae. The daughter is entitled to enjoy her freedom as the law permits and the court should not assume the role of a super guardian being moved by any kind of sentiment of the mother or the egotism of the father. We say so without any reservation."

33. A perusal of the aforesaid judgment manifests that the Apex Court has respected the liberty of an individual who has attained the age of majority.

34. The Apex Court in Shakti Vahini Vs. Union of India (2018) 7 SCC 192 came down heavily on the perpetrators of "honour killings", which the Court found not only horrific and barbaric but also interfering with the right to choose a life partner and the dignity of an individual. The Apex Court held as under:- "
44. The concept of liberty has to be weighed and tested on the touchstone of constitutional sensitivity, protection and the values it stands for. It is the obligation of the Constitutional Courts as the sentinel on qui vive to zealously guard the right to liberty of an individual as the dignified existence of an individual has an inseparable association with liberty. Without sustenance of liberty, subject to constitutionally valid provisions of law, the life of a person is comparable to the living dead having to endure cruelty and torture without protest and tolerate imposition of thoughts and ideas without a voice to dissent or record a disagreement. The fundamental feature of dignified existence is to assert for dignity that has the spark of divinity and the realization of choice within the parameters of law without any kind of subjugation. The purpose of laying stress on the concepts of individual dignity and choice within the framework of liberty is of paramount importance. We may clearly and emphatically state that life and liberty sans dignity and choice is a phenomenon that allows hollowness to enter into the constitutional recognition of identity of a person.

45. The choice of an individual is an inextricable part of dignity, for dignity cannot be thought of where there is erosion of choice. True it is, the same is bound by the principle of constitutional limitation but in the absence of such limitation, none, we mean, no one shall be permitted to interfere in the fructification of the said choice. If the right to express one's own choice is obstructed, it would be extremely difficult to think of dignity in its sanctified completeness. When two adults marry out of their volition, they choose their path; they consummate their relationship; they feel that it is their goal and they have the right to do so. And it can unequivocally be stated that they have the right and any infringement of the said right is a constitutional violation... "

35. Right to choose a partner irrespective of caste, creed or religion, is inhered under right to life and personal liberty, an integral part of the Fundamental Right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. The Apex Court in KS Puttaswamy vs Union of India (2017) 10 SCC 1 while deciding the issue of right to privacy, held as under:-

298. Privacy of the individual is an essential aspect of dignity. Dignity has both an intrinsic and instrumental value. As an intrinsic value, human dignity is an entitlement or a constitutionally protected interest in itself. In its instrumental facet, dignity and freedom are inseparably inter-twined, each being a facilitative tool to achieve the other. The ability of the individual to protect a zone of privacy enables the realization of the full value of life and liberty. Liberty has a broader meaning of which privacy is a subset. All liberties may not be exercised in privacy. Yet others can be fulfilled only within a private space. Privacy enables the individual to retain the autonomy of the body and mind. The autonomy of the individual is the ability to make decisions on vital matters of concern to life. Privacy has not been couched as an independent fundamental right. But that does not detract from the constitutional protection afforded to it, once the true nature of privacy and its relationship with those fundamental rights which are expressly protected is understood. Privacy lies across the spectrum of protected freedoms. The guarantee of equality is a guarantee against arbitrary state action. It prevents the state from discriminating between individuals. The destruction by the state of a sanctified personal space whether of the body or of the mind is violative of the guarantee against arbitrary state action. Privacy of the body entitles an individual to the integrity of the physical aspects of personhood. The intersection between one's mental integrity and privacy entitles the individual to freedom of thought, the freedom to believe in what is right, and the freedom of self-determination. When these guarantees intersect with gender, they create a private space which protects all those elements which are crucial to gender identity. The family, marriage, procreation and sexual orientation are all integral to the dignity of the individual. Above all, the privacy of the individual recognises an inviolable right to determine how freedom shall be exercised. An individual may perceive that the best form of expression is to remain silent. Silence postulates a realm of privacy. An artist finds reflection of the soul in a creative endeavour. A writer expresses the outcome of a process of thought. A musician contemplates upon notes which musically lead to silence. The silence, which lies within, reflects on the ability to choose how to convey thoughts and ideas or interact with others. These are crucial aspects of personhood. The freedoms Under Article 19 can be fulfilled where the individual is entitled to decide upon his or her preferences. Read in conjunction with Article 21, liberty enables the individual to have a choice of preferences on various facets of life including what and how one will eat, the way one will dress, the faith one will espouse and a myriad other matters on which autonomy and self-determination require a choice to be made within the privacy of the mind. The constitutional right to the freedom of religion Under Article 25 has implicit within it the ability to choose a faith and the freedom to express or not express those choices to the world. These are some illustrations of the manner in which privacy facilitates freedom and is intrinsic to the exercise of liberty. The Constitution does not contain a separate Article telling us that privacy has been declared to be a fundamental right. Nor have we tagged the provisions of Part III with an alpha suffixed right of privacy: this is not an act of judicial redrafting. Dignity cannot exist without privacy. Both reside within the inalienable values of life, liberty and freedom which the Constitution has recognised. Privacy is the ultimate expression of the sanctity of the individual. It is a constitutional value which straddles across the spectrum of fundamental rights and protects for the individual a zone of choice and self-determination. (emphasis supplied)

299. Privacy represents the core of the human personality and recognises the ability of each individual to make choices and to take decisions governing matters intimate and personal. Yet, it is necessary to acknowledge that individuals live in communities and work in communities. Their personalities affect and, in turn are shaped by their social environment. The individual is not a hermit. The lives of individuals are as much a social phenomenon. In their interactions with others, individuals are constantly engaged in behavioural patterns and in relationships impacting on the rest of society. Equally, the life of the individual is being consistently shaped by cultural and social values imbibed from living in the community.

323. Privacy includes at its core the preservation of personal intimacies, the sanctity of family life, marriage, procreation, the home and sexual orientation. Privacy also connotes a right to be left alone. Privacy safeguards individual autonomy and recognises the ability of the individual to control vital aspects of his or her life. Personal choices governing a way of life are intrinsic to privacy. Privacy protects heterogeneity and recognises the plurality and diversity of our culture. While the legitimate expectation of privacy may vary from the intimate zone to the private zone and from the private to the public arenas, it is important to underscore that privacy is not lost or surrendered merely because the individual is in a public place. Privacy attaches to the person since it is an essential facet of the dignity of the human being;

36. An individual on attaining majority is statutorily conferred a right to choose a partner, which if denied would not only affect his/her human right but also his/her right to life and personal liberty, guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. I say so for the reason that irrespective of the conversion being under clout, the mere fact that the couple were living together, the alleged relationship can very well be classified as a relationship in the nature of marriage distinct from the relationship arising out of marriage, in view of the provisions of Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005. To disregard the choice of a person who is of the age of majority would not only be antithetic to the freedom of choice of a grown up individual but would also be a threat to the concept of unity in diversity.

37. Earlier, the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Baby Aaliya (minor) vs. State of U.P. and Others, Writ-C No. 6408 of 2025, granted protection to the interfaith live-in couple vide order dated 08.04.2025. The relevant part of the judgment of Baby Aaliya (supra), is reproduced as under:

"5. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India filed by the petitioner, who is a child, through her biological parents.

6. It appears that the father and mother of the child are of different religion and have been living together since 2018. The child is presently one year and four months old. The parents of the child are apprehensive of certain threats from the private respondents who are the erstwhile in-laws of the biological mother.

7. It is to be noted that after the death of the erstwhile husband, biological mother started living with the biological father.

8. In our view, under the Constitutional scheme the parents, who are major, are entitled to live together, even if they have not undergone marriage (see: Gyan Devi vs. Superintendent, Nari Niketan, Delhi and others reported in (1976) 3 SCC 234; Lata Singh vs. State of U.P. and another reported in (2006) 5 SCC 475; and Bhagwan Das vs. State (NCT of Delhi) (2011) 6 SCC 396).

9. The parents of the child submits that the police authorities are not willing to register the first information report against the private respondents and the police authorities time and again are humiliating them when they approach the police station for lodging the first information report.

10 In light of the same, the Superintendent of Police, Sambhal is directed to ensure that the first information information report should be registered at Police Station Chandausi, District Sambhal, if the parents of the child approach the police station. The Superintendent of Police, Sambhal is also directed to look into the aspect whether any security is required to be provided to the child and the parents in accordance with law. The authorities are also directed to act in accordance with the judgements indicated above.

11. With the above directions, the writ petition is allowed."

38. The Delhi High Court in the case of Mohammad Shahnoor Mansoori vs. State of Delhi through Commissioner of Police and Others, W.P. (CRL) No. 2305 of 2025, decided on 08.08.2025, has granted protection to an interfaith couple. The relevant paragraph of aforesaid judgment is reproduced as under:

"6. Article 21 of the Constitution guarantees to every individual the right to life and personal liberty, a guarantee that has been judicially recognised to encompass the freedom to marry a person of one?s choice. The role of the State in this context is neither passive nor discretionary; it carries a positive obligation to safeguard the life and liberty of its citizens, even when such protection is sought against the wishes of their own families."

8. The Supreme Court has unequivocally recognised that the right of consenting adults to choose their life partner is a fundamental facet of personal liberty under Article 21. That right cannot be rendered illusory by fear, coercion, or social disapproval. It follows that the State?s protective machinery must be activated promptly and effectively, ensuring that the choice of an adult citizen, made freely and within the bounds of law, is preserved in substance and not merely in form.

9. In view of the above circumstances, and taking into consideration that the Couple have submitted their application for marriage under the Special Marriage Act, 1954, the petition is disposed of with the following directions:

The State shall ensure continued protection to the Petitioner and Ms.?X? until such time as they solemnize their marriage under the Special Marriage Act, 1954.

The Petitioners shall continue to be accommodated in a safe house for as long as deemed necessary to safeguard their life and liberty. The threat perception shall be assessed periodically and meaningfully by the concerned DCP, keeping in mind the principles and preventive measures outlined by the Supreme Court in Shakti Vahini (supra).

In the event of any coercive, intimidating, or threatening act, whether direct or indirect, by any person, including family members of Ms. ?X?, such incident, upon being reported to the police, shall be promptly recorded in the DD, and appropriate preventive and penal measures shall be taken forthwith in accordance with law. The police shall also keep the petitioners informed of any action taken, so as to ensure their confidence in the protective process.

10. Before parting, it must be emphasised that the constitutional guarantee under Article 21 enables every adult citizen may shape the course of their own life, free from fear, coercion, or unlawful restraint. The choice to marry, especially across lines of faith, may test the resilience of social norms and familial expectations, yet in law, it remains a matter of personal liberty and individual autonomy, immune from any external veto. While the anguish of a parent is understandable, it cannot eclipse the rights of a major to select their life partner. The State?s role, therefore, is not confined to the passive avoidance of harm, but extends to the creation of conditions in which such rights can be safely and meaningfully exercised. The directions issued herein are thus intended to ensure that this freedom remains both real and protected.

39. Earlier the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Supriyo @ Supriya Chakraborty and Another vs. Union of India, AIR 2023 SC 5823, has discussed the law relating to inter-caste and interfaith marriage. It was observed by the Hon'ble Apex Court that couples in interfaith relationship have historically been forced to contend with and continue to contend that enormous difficulty while solemnizing their unions. It was further observed that the Constitution does not require individuals to first convince others of the legitimacy of the exercise of the constitutional rights before they exercise them. The relevant paragraphs of Supriyo (supra) are reproduced hereunder:

"116. Inter-caste and interfaith marriages were uncommon in the colonial era and established customs or usages did not govern such marriages. Then, as now, society subjected those who entered into inter-caste and interfaith marriages to discrimination and lence. There was initially no legal framework in place which governed such marriages. The Special Marriage Act 1872 was enacted to enable the solemnisation of marriages independent of personal law. If two people be-longing to different religions wished to marry, they were each required to renounce their respective religion in order to avail of its pro-visions. The law at the time did not supply a framework in terms of which two persons belonging to different religions could retain their association or spiritual connection to their respective religions and still marry one another.

117. Parliament was conscious of the limiting and restrictive character of the Special Marriage Act 1872 and enacted the SMA in 1954, which was a more permissive legislation in that any two persons could marry, with out having to repudiate their respective religions. By stipulating that "a marriage between any two persons may be solemnized under this Act," 106 the SMA also set out a mechanism for inter-caste marriages to be solemnized independent of personal law.

118. The families or relatives of couples who entered into inter-caste or interfaith marriages would frequently inflict violence upon them, even to the extent of brutally murdering them. Their communities would either ordain or participate in these atrocities. Such murders are colloquially referred to as "honour killings" and are more accurately termed as caste-based murders. It is a most unfortunate truth that this culture of violence persists to date. Couples who face this violence against couples in inter-caste and inter-opprobrium have knocked on the doors of this Court inter alia seeking protection from their families and others who oppose their relationship and this Court has otherwise been seized of cases arising from violence in this context. In Shakti Vahini v. Union of India, this Court took note of the viofaith marriages. It directed the state machinery to take preventive as well as remedial measures to protect such couples who wished to marry or who were recently married.

119. It is beyond dispute that couples in inter-caste and interfaith relationships have historically been forced to contend with and continue to contend with enormous difficulty while solemnizing their unions. As evident from the discussion in the preceding para-graph, large sections of society were and are fiercely opposed to such marriages. The op-position stems, at least in part, from a belief that a marriage ought to consist of two indi-viduals from the same religion or caste. Par-liament chose to enact the SMA despite the opposition to atypical marriages and has not chosen to repeal the SMA or otherwise ex-clude the celebration of inter-caste marriages under personal laws despite continuing hostility from the communities of such couples. Parliament has presumably done so because it is cognizant of the fact that the exercise of fundamental rights is not contingent upon the approval of the community. Similarly, this Court has carried out the constitutional man-date by protecting the rights of individuals and couples in the face of considerable opposition from their families. In a democracy, certain rights inhere in all individuals. If the exercise of rights was contingent upon everyone else or, at least a substantial portion of the commu-nity approving of such exercise, we would be doing a disservice to a constitutional democ-racy. The Constitution does not require indi-viduals to first convince others of the legiti-macy of the exercise of constitutional rights before they exercise them."

40. This Court has already dealt with interfaith marriage contracted by the petitioners and total 17 petitions pertain to interfaith marriage were heard and allowed by this Court in case of Mayra @ Vaishnvi Vilas Shirshikar and Another vs. State of U.P. and Others, Writ- C No. 14806 of 2021, decided on 18.11.2021 and it was observed that the choice of a partner whether within or outside marriage lies within the exclusive domain of each individual. It was further observed that the Act, 2021, per se does not prohibit interfaith marriage. The relevant paragraph of Mayra (Supra), are reproduced hereunder:

"I. Analysis and Conclusions

100. The Supreme Court, as well as, other Constitutional Courts have time and again realized that in a society undergoing rapid social and economic change, static judicial interpretation of the Constitution would stultify the spirit of the Constitution.

101. The right to privacy is implicit in the right to life and liberty guaranteed to the citizens of this country by Article 21. A citizen has a right to safeguard the privacy of his own, his family, marriage, procreation, motherhood, child-bearing and education among other matters.

102. The consent of the family or the community or the clan or the State or Executive is not necessary, once the two adult individuals agree to enter into a wedlock which is lawful and legal. Their consent has to be piously given primacy, with grace and dignity. The Marriage Officer/Registrar cannot refuse to register a duly solemnized marriage, and/or, insist of a conversion approval of the district authority.

103. The factum of marriage and the registration of marriage are entirely distinct and different. The registration merely evidences the factum of marriage between the parties, whereas, legality of the marriage, whether void or voidable, is for the aggrieved party to settle in accordance with the law before the designated forum/court.

104. The duty of the court is to uphold the right and not to abridge the sphere of the right unless there is a valid authority of law. The choice of a partner, whether within or outside marriage, lies within the exclusive domain of each individual. Intimacies of marriage lie within a core zone of privacy, which is inviolable. The absolute right of an individual to choose a life partner is not in the least affected by matters of faith.

105. The Constitution as a living instrument, which enunciates eternal values for Indian society, possesses the resilience necessary to ensure its continued relevance. Constitution is not cast in stone to make it rigid beyond change. The features that is basic to the Constitution is fluid adapting and precisely responding to the changing social-cultural milieux in its ability to allow succeeding generations to apply the principles on which it has been founded, to find innovative solutions to intractable problems of their times. In doing so, we must equally understand that our solutions must continuously undergo a process of re-engineering. The Constitution is in the realm of philosophy than grammar. The Constitution has undergone change (over 100 amendments) in 70 years since 1950, in conformity with the changing social milieu reflecting the aspiration of the Indian people.

106. The law would be assessed not with reference to its object but on the basis of its effect and impact on the fundamental rights based on the test of fairness and reasonableness. The Unlawful Conversion Act, 2021, per se, does not prohibit interfaith marriage. The Marriage Registrar/Officer, however, lacks power to withhold the registration of marriage, merely for the reason that the parties have not obtained the necessary approval of conversion from the district authority. Such an approval is directory and not mandatory. If interpreted otherwise the Act would not satisfy the test of reasonableness and fairness, and would fail to pass the muster of Article 14 and Article 21.

J. Relief

107. The writ petitions are allowed by passing the following orders:

(i) The State respondents and the private respondents are restrained from interfering with the life, liberty and privacy of the petitioners to live as man and woman;

(ii) The police authorities of the respective districts shall ensure the safety of the petitioners and provide protection to them, if demanded or needed;

(iii) The Marriage Registrar/Officer of respective districts are directed to forthwith register the marriage of the petitioners, without, insisting/awaiting approval of the competent district authority with regard to conversion of faith;

(iv) It will be open to the aggrieved party, in the event of fraud and misrepresentation, to take recourse of law, both - criminal and civil, including, annulment of marriage before the competent forum;

(v) The Government of India to consider the constitution of a Committee/Commission for implementing the mandate of Article 44, as directed by the Supreme Court;

(vi) The State Government to issue appropriate Government Order to the Marriage Registrar/Officer, District Authority, to comply and implement this order;

(vii) It will be open to the private respondents to seek modification/recall of this order in the event of being affected by the order;

(ix) The Registrar General of this Court is directed to supply copy of this order to -

(a) Department of Justice, Ministry of Law and Justice, Government of India, New Delhi.

(b) The Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow."

41. This Court in the case of Akanksha and Another vs. State of U.P. and Three Others, Writ- C No. 35171 of 2025, decided on 17.12.2025, granted protection to the petitioners, of same religion, who were major and had taken a decision to reside together without the sanctity of the marriage. The relevant paragraphs of Akanksha (supra) are reproduced hereunder:

"46. Once an individual, who is a major, has chosen his/her partner, it is not for any other person, be it a family member, to object and cause a hindrance to their peaceful existence. It is the bounden duty of the State, as per the Constitutional obligations casted upon it, to protect the life and liberty of every citizen. Right to human life is to be treated on much higher pedestal, regardless of a citizen being minor or major, married or unmarried. Mere fact that the petitioners have not solemnized marriage, would not deprive them of their fundamental right as envisaged in the Constitution of India being citizens of India. This Court has no hesitation to hold that the Constitutional's fundamental right under Article 21 of the Constitution of India stands on a much higher pedestal. Being sacrosanct, under the Constitutional scheme it must be protected, regardless of the solemnization of marriage or even the absence of any marriage between the parties.

47. The petitioners herein, who are major, have taken a decision to reside together without the sanctity of the marriage and it is not for the Courts to judge them on their decision. If the petitioners herein have not committed any offence, this Court sees no reason as to why their prayer for grant of protection cannot be acceded to. Therefore, with due respect to the judgments rendered by the co-ordinate Benches, who have denied protection to couples, who were in a live-in relationship, this Court is unable to adopt the same view.

48. It is well settled legal position as expounded by the Hon'ble Supreme court in the case of Lata Singh (supra), S. Khushboo (supra), Indra Sarma (supra) and Shafin Jahan (supra) and other judgments passed by various High Courts including ours, that the life and liberty of the individuals has to be protected, except according to procedure established by law, as mandated by Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

49. In the opinion of the Court, a person, who has attained the age of majority as per Section 3 of the Majority Act, is able to understand his/her welfare and, therefore, he/she could not be restricted to go wherever he/she likes. He/she is free to live with anybody and could not be restrained from doing so.

51. Having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the petitioners are at liberty to live together peacefully and no person shall be permitted to interfere in their peaceful living. As right to life is a fundamental life ensured under Article 21 of the Constitution wherein it is provided that no person shall be deprived of his right to life and personal liberty except according to procedure established by law.

52. In case, any disturbance is caused in the peaceful living of the petitioners, the petitioners shall approach the Commissioner of Police/SSP/SP concerned with certified copy of this order and the Police Officer after being satisfied that the petitioners are major and willingly living together, will provide immediate protection to the petitioners. If the petitioners are educated and they produce their educational certificates and other certificates admissible under law, from which it is evident that they have attained the majority and they are living with their free will then no Police Officer shall take any coercive action against them unless an F.I.R. is registered against them in respect of any offence whatsoever. If they do not have any documentary proof regarding age and they come from rural background and or illiterate/semi-literate, the Police Officer can subject such boy or girl to ossification test to verify their correct age and he can also follow the other procedure permissible under the law.

53. Accordingly, aforesaid writ petitions are allowed."

42. This Court sees no reason to take a different view in this matter also since the law is equal for all as per Article 14 and 15 of the Constitution of India and if two persons of same religion may reside together in a live-in relationship, the other persons having different religion may also live together in a live-in relationship.

43. The Article 14 and 15 of the Constitution of India ensure equal treatment of all individual. It does not discriminate against citizens based on religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth. For reference Article 14 & 15 of the Constitution of India are reproduced hereunder:

"14. Equality before law.-The State shall not deny to any person equality before the law or the equal protection of the laws within the territory of India.

15. Prohibition of discrimination on grounds of religion, race, caste, sex or place of birth.-(1) The State shall not discriminate against any citizen on grounds only of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth or any of them.*

(2) No citizen shall, on grounds only of religion, race, caste, sex, place of birth or any of them, be subject to any disability, liability, restriction or condition with regard to?

(a) access to shops, public restaurants, hotels and places of public entertainment; or

(b) the use of wells, tanks, bathing ghats, roads and places of public resort maintained wholly or partly out of State funds or dedicated to the use of the general public.

(3) Nothing in this article shall prevent the State from making any special provision for women and children.

(4) Nothing in this article or in clause (2) of article 29 shall prevent the State from making any special provision for the advancement of any socially and educationally backward classes of citizens or for the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes.

(5) Nothing in this article or in sub-clause (g) of clause (1) of article 19 shall prevent the State from making any special provision, by law, for the advancement of any socially and educationally backward classes of citizens or for the Scheduled Castes or the Scheduled Tribes in so far as such special provisions relate to their admission to educational institutions including private educational institutions, whether aided or unaided by the State, other than the minority educational institutions referred to in clause (1) of article 30.

(6) Nothing in this article or sub-clause (g) of clause (1) of article 19 or clause (2) of article 29 shall prevent the State from making,?

(a) any special provision for the advancement of any economically weaker sections of citizens other than the classes mentioned in clauses (4) and (5); and

(b) any special provision for the advancement of any economically weaker sections of citizens other than the classes mentioned in clauses (4) and (5) in so far as such special provisions relate to their admission to educational institutions including private educational institutions, whether aided or unaided by the State, other than the minority educational institutions referred to in clause (1) of article 30, which in the case of reservation would be in addition to the existing reservations and subject to a maximum of ten per cent. of the total seats in each category.

Explanation.?For the purposes of this article and article 16, "economically weaker sections" shall be such as may be notified by the State from time to time on the basis of family income and other indicators of economic disadvantage."

44. Justice D.Y. Chandrachud, while delivering the judgment of Shafin Jahan (supra) has held that right to marry a person of one's choice is integral to Article 21 of the Constitution. It guarantees the right of life and personal liberty. The Constitution protects the ability of each individual to pursue a way of life or faith to which he or she seeks to adhere. The relevant paragraphs of Shafin Jhana (supra), are reproduced as hereunder:

"17. The exercise of the jurisdiction to declare the marriage null and void, while entertaining a petition for habeas corpus, is plainly in excess of judicial power. The High Court has transgressed the limits on its jurisdiction in a habeas corpus petition. In the process, there has been a serious transgression of constitutional rights. That is the second facet to which we now turn.

18. Hadiya and Shafin Jahan are adults. Under Muslim law, marriage or Nikah is a contract. Muslim law recognises the right of adults to marry by their own free will. The conditions for a valid Muslim marriage are:

(i) Both the individuals must profess Islam;

(ii) Both should be of the age of puberty;

(iii) There has to be an offer and acceptance and two witnesses must be present;

(iv) Dower and Mehar; and

(v) Absence of a prohibited degree of relationship.

19. A marriage can be dissolved at the behest of parties to it, by a competent court of law. Marital status is conferred through legislation or, as the case may be, custom. Deprivation of marital status is a matter of serious import and must be strictly in accordance with law. The High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction Under Article 226 ought not to have embarked on the course of annulling the marriage. The Constitution recognises the liberty and autonomy which inheres in each individual. This includes the ability to take decisions on aspects which define one's personhood and identity. The choice of a partner whether within or outside marriage lies within the exclusive domain of each individual. Intimacies of marriage lie within a core zone of privacy, which is inviolable. The absolute right of an individual to choose a life partner is not in the least affected by matters of faith. The Constitution guarantees to each individual the right freely to practise, profess and propagate religion. Choices of faith and belief as indeed choices in matters of marriage lie within an area where individual autonomy is supreme. The law prescribes conditions for a valid marriage. It provides remedies when relationships run aground. Neither the state nor the law can dictate a choice of partners or limit the free ability of every person to decide on these matters. They form the essence of personal liberty under the Constitution. In deciding whether Shafin Jahan is a fit person for Hadiya to marry, the High Court has entered into prohibited terrain. Our choices are respected because they are ours. Social approval for intimate personal decisions is not the basis for recognising them. Indeed, the Constitution protects personal liberty from disapproving audiences.

20. Article 16 of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights underscores the fundamental importance of marriage as an incident of human liberty:

"Article 16.

(1) Men and women of full age, without any limitation due to race, nationality or religion, have the right to marry and to found a family. They are entitled to equal rights as to marriage, during marriage and at its dissolution.

(2) Marriage shall be entered into only with the free and full consent of the intending spouses.

(3) The family is the natural and fundamental group unit of society and is entitled to protection by society and the State."

21. The right to marry a person of one's choice is integral to Article 21 of the Constitution. The Constitution guarantees the right to life. This right cannot be taken away except through a law which is substantively and procedurally fair, just and reasonable. Intrinsic to the liberty which the Constitution guarantees as a fundamental right is the ability of each individual to take decisions on matters central to the pursuit of happiness. Matters of belief and faith, including whether to believe are at the core of constitutional liberty. The Constitution exists for believers as well as for agnostics. The Constitution protects the ability of each individual to pursue a way of life or faith to which she or he seeks to adhere. Matters of dress and of food, of ideas and ideologies, of love and partnership are within the central aspects of identity. The law may regulate (subject to constitutional compliance) the conditions of a valid marriage, as it may regulate the situations in which a marital tie can be ended or annulled. These remedies are available to parties to a marriage for it is they who decide best on whether they 06-12-2024 (Page 25 of 27) www.manupatra.com Legal Observer Trust should accept each other into a marital tie or continue in that relationship. Society has no role to play in determining our choice of partners.

22. In Justice K.S. Puttaswamy v. Union of India MANU/SC/1044/2017 : 2017 (10) SCC 1*, this Court in a decision of nine judges held that the ability to make decisions on matters close to one's life is an inviolable aspect of the human personality:*

"The autonomy of the individual is the ability to make decisions on vital matters of concern to life The intersection between one's mental integrity and privacy entitles the individual to freedom of thought, the freedom to believe in what is right, and the freedom of self-determination. The family, marriage, procreation and sexual orientation are all integral to the dignity of the individual."

A Constitution Bench of this Court, in Common Cause (A Regd. Society) v. Union of India, Writ Petition (Civil) No. 215 of 2025*, held:*

"Our autonomy as persons is founded on the ability to decide: on what to wear and how to dress, on what to eat and on the food that we share, on when to speak and what we speak, on the right to believe or not to believe, on whom to love and whom to partner, and to freely decide on innumerable matters of consequence and detail to our daily lives."

The strength of the Constitution, therefore, lies in the guarantee which it affords that each individual will have a protected entitlement in determining a choice of partner to share intimacies within or outside marriage.

23. The High Court, in the present case, has treaded on an area which must be out of bounds for a constitutional court. The views of the High Court have encroached into a private space reserved for women and men in which neither law nor the judges can intrude. The High Court was of the view that at twenty four, Hadiya "is weak and vulnerable, capable of being exploited in many ways". The High Court has lost sight of the fact that she is a major, capable of taking her own decisions and is entitled to the right recognised by the Constitution to lead her life exactly as she pleases. The concern of this Court in intervening in this matter is as much about the miscarriage of justice that has resulted in the High Court as much as about the paternalism which underlies the approach to constitutional interpretation reflected in the judgment in appeal. The superior courts, when they exercise their jurisdiction parens patriae do so in the case of persons who are incapable of asserting a free will such as minors or persons of unsound mind. The exercise of that jurisdiction should not transgress into the area of determining the suitability of partners to a marital tie. That decision rests exclusively with the individuals themselves. Neither the state nor society can intrude into that domain. The strength of our Constitution lies in its acceptance of the plurality and diversity of our culture. Intimacies of marriage, including the choices which individuals make on whether or not to marry and on whom to marry, lie outside the control of the state. Courts as upholders of constitutional freedoms must safeguard these freedoms. The cohesion and stability of our society depend on our syncretic culture. The Constitution protects it. Courts are duty bound not to swerve from the path of upholding our pluralism and diversity as a nation.

24. Interference by the State in such matters has a seriously chilling effect on the exercise of freedoms. Others are dissuaded to exercise their liberties for fear of the reprisals which may result upon the free exercise of choice. The chilling effect on others has a pernicious tendency to prevent them from asserting their liberty. Public spectacles involving a harsh exercise of State power prevent the exercise of freedom, by others in the same milieu. Nothing can be as destructive of freedom and liberty. Fear silences freedom."

45. This Court notes that in view of the large number of young couples approaching this Court seeking protection of their life and liberty, this Court, in Writ-C No. 24328 of 2019 (Suman Ahirwar and others vs. State of U.P. and others), after taking note of the judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Shakti Vahini vs. Union of India, 2018 (7) SCC 192, directed the State authorities to evolve an effective mechanism and frame guidelines to address such cases at the district level. Pursuant to the said directions, the State Government issued Government Order No. 1/2019/591WRIT/Chh-Pu.-3-2019-2(344)P/2019 (संख्या -1/2019/591 ि◌रट/छ-पु-3-2019-2(344)पी/2019) dated 31.08.2019, laying down mandatory preventive, remedial and punitive measures for protection of couples facing threats on account of marriage or any consensual relationship.

46. The said Government Order mandates that the police authorities shall assess threat perception in each case, extend necessary protection, including safe accommodation and security shall be provided depending upon the gravity of the situation. It further provides that cases involving Khap Panchayats or honour-based threats are to be treated as serious matters, however even in other cases of familial opposition, the authorities are duty-bound to evaluate risk and grant appropriate relief. Failure to comply with these directions has been made punishable by departmental action. The relevant extract of the aforesaid Government Order dated 31.8.2019 reads as under:

The District Magistrate/Superintendent of Police or Additional Superintendent of Police shall conduct a preliminary inquiry in relation to the gravity of the case and threat perception and he shall submit a report to the Senior Superintendent of Police within one week?"

48. The Hon'ble Apex Court as well as this Court in a catena of decision have held that live-in relation is neither prohibited nor punishable under any law. Therefore, considering Article 14, 15 and 21 of the Constitution of India and the Act, 2021, it cannot be said that live-in relationship of interfaith couple is an offence. If an offence had been committed, it would have been reported by any person in terms of Section 4 of the Act, 2021. No F.I.R. or complaint has been registered till date in respect of live-in relationship of the petitioners. Secondly, this Court is not a trial court to find out as to whether any offence has been committed by the petitioners by putting themselves in a live-in relationship. This Court at this stage is only examining the issue of apprehension of the petitioners based on threat to their life and liberty for the reasons/circumstances as narrated in the petition. If the petitioners have not committed any offence, this Court sees no reason as to why their prayer for grant of protection cannot be acceded to.

49. The issue in hand, is the deprivation of fundamental right of seeking protection of life and liberty. I have no hesitation to hold that Constitutional Fundamental Right under Article 21 of Constitution of India stands on a much higher pedestal. Being sacrosanct under the Constitutional Scheme it must be protected, regardless of the solemnization of an invalid or void marriage or even the absence of any marriage between the parties.

50. It is the bounden duty of the State as per the Constitutional obligations casted upon it to protect the life and liberty of every citizen. Right to human life is to be treated on much higher pedestal, regardless of a citizen's religious belief. The mere fact that the petitioners are living in an interfaith relationship, would not deprive them of their fundamental right as envisaged in Constitution of India, being citizens of India. No discrimination can be made on the basis of caste, creed, sex or religion.

51. Accordingly, the writ petitions filed by the petitioners stand allowed with the following observations:

(i) The petitioners herein are at liberty to approach the police authorities for reddressal of their grievances, in case any harm is caused by private respondents or their associates. Upon receipt of such application, the police authorities shall examine the matter and age of the petitioners and if they find any substance in the allegations of the petitioners, they will act in accordance with law for protection of life, limb and liberty of the petitioners.

(ii) The petitioners may lodge a report/complaint if anybody attempts to convert their religion against their wishes, or by any fraudulent means, force, coercion, allurement, undue influence or practice of misrepresentation.

(iii) The directions contained in the above Government Order dated 31.08.2019 are binding upon all concerned authorities and shall be strictly complied with.

(iv) This order would not come in way of investigation, if any, pending before the Police Authorities.

52. No order as to cost.

53. Before parting with these cases, I would render my gratitude and appreciation for the invaluable assistance provided to the Court by Mr. Swetashwa Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate, as Amicus Curiae, ably assisted by Sri Subir Lal and Sri Sausthav Guha, learned counsels for the petitioners.

54. The hard work as well as arguments advanced by above named State Counsels, are also appreciable.

55. I would like to put in a word of appreciation for my Research Associate Ms. Priyanshi Hirwani, for her dexterity in research and superlative assistance in drafting of this judgment.

56. However, it is made clear that this Court has not adjudicated the correct age of the petitioners. It is further clarified, this order has not been passed to protect the petitioners against any action or proceedings instituted in accordance with law.

57. Since the petition is being disposed of in limine, any person aggrieved by it is at liberty to apply for its recall, if the order has been obtained by suppression or concealment of facts or on false averments.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether rejection of the petitioner's claim under the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020 on the ground that the deceased was not travelling by train at the time of the incident and that it could not be confirmed whether the death was accidental or suicidal, in absence of any evidence of suicide, was legally sustainable.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India – Art. 226 – Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana – Welfare scheme – Claim for compensation on death of farmer in train accident – Rejection of claim by authority – Claim rejected on ground that deceased was not travelling by train and that it could not be confirmed whether death was accidental or suicidal and no evidence available to ascertain nature of death – Reliance placed on report stating no information could be obtained to determine suicide – Justification:

Held: Petitioner's father, a farmer, died after being hit by a moving train near a railway track and the petitioner, being his legal heir, applied for compensation under the Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020, but the claim was rejected on the ground that it could not be confirmed whether the death was accidental or suicidal and that the deceased was not travelling by train – Purpose of the welfare scheme is to advance the object of the policy – Where the report does not conclusively establish the probability of suicide, denial of benefit amounts to an arbitrary exercise of discretion – There was absolutely no evidence to show that the death of the deceased falls under the exception of suicide - Rejection of claim unsustainable – Impugned order quashed and matter remanded for fresh consideration. CASE ARISING FROM

Order dated 24.06.2022 passed by Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bidhuna, District Auraiya.

Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Shams Uz Zaman

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shams Uz Zaman, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. This writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India has been filed by the petitioner seeking issuance of an appropriate writ, or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 24.06.2022 passed by the respondent no. 3, Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bidhuna, District Auraiya, whereby the claim of the petitioner under the 'Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana' has been rejected, and further praying for a direction in the nature of mandamus to the respondent no. 2 to forthwith process and grant the admissible financial assistance/compensation to the petitioner under the aforesaid scheme along with statutory interest.

3. Brief facts of the case are that on 21.02.2022, the father of the petitioner, namely Late Ajay Kumar Singh met with a tragic accident near Rambharna Railway Track and died on the spot after being hit by a moving train, resulting in multiple grievous injuries. The incident was duly reported to the local police and the concerned railway authorities.

4. It is a matter of fact that the State Government has brought a welfare scheme known as 'Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana' to provide financial assistance to the families of farmers who die in accidents. In this regard, the Additional Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, issued a Government Order dated 28.02.2020 laying down the guidelines for extending benefits under the said scheme. Accordingly, after the death of his father, the petitioner submitted a claim under the aforesaid scheme after completing all required formalities.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner contends that the petitioner submitted an application before the Tehsil Office, Bidhuna under the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020, enclosing all necessary documents stating that his father Ajay Kumar Singh died accidentally after being hit by a train near Rambharna Railway Track. It is stated that the Death Certificate of the deceased Ajay Kumar Singh, issued by the competent authority on 23.03.2022, confirms that the death occurred due to accidental injuries.

6. It was further submitted that the Family Register (Parivar Register) issued by the competent revenue authority on 26.03.2022 recorded the names of the deceased Ajay Kumar Singh and his legal heirs, including the petitioner Pramod Kumar Singh, thereby establishing the petitioner's status as the lawful heir entitled to claim benefits under the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020. As per the Station Master's memo and subsequent investigation conducted by the concerned police authorities, it has been clearly recorded that the deceased Ajay Kumar Singh died due to grievous injuries sustained in a train accident and pursuant thereto, a Panchnama was prepared and Post-Mortem Examination conducted on 22.02.2022, which establishes that the cause of death was accidental in nature resulting from multiple injuries for being hit by a moving train. There is no finding of suicide or any other foul play by a third party, thereby substantiating that the death squarely falls within the ambit of an "accidental death" as defined under Clause 2 of the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020.

7. It was also contended on behalf of the petitioner that the Khasra-Khatauni of the agricultural holding standing in the name of the deceased Ajay Kumar Singh clearly demonstrated that he was a recorded tenure holder and an active cultivator of agricultural land. The said revenue record established beyond doubt that the deceased was a "Krishak" (farmer) within the meaning of the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020 and, therefore, fully eligible to claim the benefits under the said welfare scheme.

8. It was further contended that the Lekhpal's Report dated 05.04.2022, prepared after local inquiry, further corroborated accidental death of the deceased, Ajay Kumar Singh, which occurred due to he being hit by a train. The report of the Lekhpal recorded that it could not be ascertained as to whether the incident was a case of accident, suicide, or homicide. Such a speculative remark, without any cogent evidence or investigation, was wholly arbitrary and of casual nature. It is pertinent to mention that no criminal case, FIR, or police report has ever suggested suicide or foul play.

9. Larned counsel appearing for the petitioner submitted that the Sub-Divisional Magistrate (SDM), Bidhuna vide letter dated 02.05.2022, recommended that petitioner be treated as ineligible without any concrete basis or cogent evidence. Subsequently, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate passed impugned order dated 24.06.2022, whereby the petitioner's claim under the Mukhya Mantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna, 2020 was rejected, declaring him "ineligible" on the ground that the deceased was not travelling by train at the time of the incident and that it could not be confirmed whether the death was accidental or suicidal. The SDM's conclusion, based on conjecture and without any evidence, amounted to an arbitrary and mechanical denial of welfare benefits envisaged by the scheme and hence, the impugned order deserved to be quashed.

10. Learned counsel representing state authorities attempted to defend the impugned order and submitted that the case of suicide was outside the scope of the benefits provided under the scheme but he could not demonstrate any document or evidence which led to the conclusion that the death was suicide and not the accidental death.

11. As appeared from the records that the death of the deceased Ajay Kumar Singh was not under dispute and it was also not disputed that he was depending upon farming for his livelihood and that he was sole bread earner of his family. The death certificate annexed with the petition demonstrated the accidental injuries that could have been considered as conclusive evidence of the accidental death.

12. After perusal of records, it also appears that the order dated 24.06.2022 was passed along with several pending applications and disposed of in a cursory manner through a tabular chart, where the outcome of each application was written in a line or two. In the present case, it was written that relying on the report of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bidhuna, District Auraiya, it was decided that the deceased was not travelling by train and that there was no evidence to ascertain whether the death was accidental or suicidal. The report further noted that agricultural land stood in the name of the deceased's father in Village Kaithna and that no information was received from anyone in the village regarding the suicide of the deceased, and thereafter it was written that the death was not to be treated as accidental, and consequently, the dependents were ineligible for benefits under the Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the Additional Chief Secretary U.P. Government has issued Government Order dated 28.02.2020 for determination of the guidelines for providing benefits under the scheme of "Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana" and present case is fully covered under Clause 2 of the Government Order dated 28.02.2020. Relevant part of the guideline is reproduced below for ready reference:

"Subject: Guidelines for the implementation of the "Chief Minister's Farmer Accident Welfare Scheme" in case of accidental death/disability of farmers in Uttar Pradesh.

The State Government has decided to implement the "Chief Minister's Farmer Accident Welfare Scheme" with the objective of providing social security to the families of farmers in case of accidental death or disability. The following guidelines are being issued for this purpose:

1. This scheme will be effective from September 14, 2019.

2. Eligibility (Definition of Farmer):

This scheme is for farmers residing in Uttar Pradesh who suffer accidental death or disability. A farmer is defined as follows:

(1) Account holder/co-account holder recorded in the revenue records, i.e., the land register (Khatauni).

OR

(2) Earning members of the account holder/co-account holder's family whose primary source of livelihood is agricultural income from the land registered in the name of the account holder/co-account holder.

OR

(3) Landless individuals who cultivate land obtained on lease or on a sharecropping basis, and whose main source of livelihood is agriculture on such leased or sharecropped land. Lessees include tenant farmers, government lessees, and private lessees.

4. Age:

The farmer's age should be between 18 and 70 years on the date of death/disability.

5. Coverage of the Scheme:

(1) If a farmer suffers accidental death/disability due to fire, flood, lightning, electric shock, snakebite, attack/injury by animals/creatures, drowning in the sea, river, lake, pond, or well, storm, falling from or being crushed by a tree, house collapse, accident involving train/road/aircraft/other vehicles, landslide, earthquake, gas leak, explosion, falling into a sewer chamber, or any other cause, then financial assistance will be provided to the farmer/legal heir(s) under this scheme."

14. After reading relevant provisions in the policy and the clause explaining coverage of the scheme, it is clear that in case of death or disability also, the benefits would not be given if the same has not occurred due to suicide or it is not the outcome of any crime. In the facts of the case, there is absolutely no evidence to show that the death of the deceased falls under any of these exceptions and it is just a statement made by authorities which also states that they could not find any evidence to prove that the death was a suicide, which cannot be the justified reason to deny benefits of the scheme to the petitioner.

15. It appears that the impugned order dated 24.06.2022 relies on the report of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Bidhuna, District Auraiya, which states that no information could be obtained from the villagers or elsewhere to determine whether the death was a suicide. The purpose of the welfare scheme is to advance the object of the policy. Where the report does not conclusively establish the probability of suicide, denial of the benefit amounts to an arbitrary exercise of discretion, based on a purely mechanical presumption against the petitioner, in deciding entitlement under a state welfare scheme.

16. This Court in case of Gayatri Devi vs. State of U.P. and Others, 2025 SCC OnLine All 8086, has considered similar issue and held as under:-

"17. From a perusal of the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, it is evident that the object of the 'Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana' is to provide financial assistance to the dependents of farmers who die in accidents. The scheme does not make it mandatory that the agricultural land must be recorded in the name of the deceased farmer alone. What is required to be examined is whether the deceased was primarily engaged in agricultural work and whether agriculture was the main source of livelihood for him and his family. In rural set-ups, it is a common practice that land continues to remain recorded in the name of the elder family member, while other members of the family carry on agricultural activities jointly."

17. In Smt. Gayatri Devi (supra) has also relied upon judgement of the Supreme Court in Union of India Vs Prabhakaran Vijaya Kumar, (2008) 9 SCC 527, and thereafter held that:

"21. Applying the principle laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that beneficial and welfare schemes must receive a liberal and purposive interpretation so as to advance their object and not defeat it on technical grounds, the petitioner's claim could not have been rejected in casual manner because from a bare perusal of the guidelines, it is evident that the scheme is intended to protect persons and families who are engaged in farming activities and have agriculture as their main source of livelihood. In the facts of the present case, the land stands recorded in the name of the deceased's grandfather in the Khatauni, and there is no material on record to show that the deceased, his father, or his wife had any other source of income. The family was dependent upon farming for its survival, particularly in view of the submission made by the petitioner in the rejoinder that the same land was mortgaged with the Bank of India by the deceased at the time of purchasing a tractor in the year 2011. This fact ought to have been properly examined by the authorities instead of rejecting the petitioner's claim in a casual manner. 22. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the considered view that the rejection of the petitioner's claim is based on an unduly drawn narrow interpretation of the scheme and merely based on assumptions not supported by proper enquiry, and therefore, the writ petition deserves to be allowed and is hereby allowed. The impugned order dated 25.08.2021 passed by the respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Kannauj, rejecting the petitioner's claim under the 'Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojana' and the information order dated 31.07.2021 issued by respondent no. 3 are hereby quashed. The matter is remanded to the District Magistrate, Kannauj, to reconsider the petitioner's claim afresh in accordance with law and in the light of the observations made hereinabove, after affording an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and after conducting a proper enquiry, if required. The said exercise shall be completed expeditiously, preferably within a period of eight weeks from the date of production of a certified copy of this order. No order as to costs."

18. In view of the above legal proposition which is fully applicable to the facts of this case, in our considered view, the writ petition deserves to be allowed. Thus the writ petition is allowed and the impugned order dated 24.06.2022 passed by respondent no. 2, District Magistrate, Auraiya, is accordingly quashed insofar as it relates to the petitioner's application regarding deceased Ajay Kumar Singh. The matter is remanded to the District Magistrate, Auraiya, for fresh consideration of the petitioner's claim in accordance with law. The petitioner may file a fresh representation within four weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order, which shall be decided by the competent authority by a reasoned and speaking order within a further period of eight weeks. No order as to costs.

Issue for consideration

The main issue before the court was whether recovery proceedings under general recovery statutes are maintainable for large dues in presence of special recovery laws governing financial institutions.

Headnotes

A. Civil law-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-SARFAESI Act,2002- Section 13(4)-Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act,1993-U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act,1972-Revenue Recovery Act,1890- State Financial Corporations Act,1951-Maintainability of recovery-Recourse to U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act,1972-Revenue Recovery Act,1890-Amount exceeding Rs. 10 lac-Overriding effect of special statutes-Applicability of SARFAESI Act,2002 and Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act,1993-Jurisdictional error-Improper exercise of recovery powers-Recovery certificate liable to be quashed.(Para 11 to 23)

Held

The court held that the recovery proceedings initiated under general laws were without jurisdiction. The field of recovery for financial institutions is governed by special enactments which have overriding effect. The State Financial Corporation, being covered under the definition of financial institution, was required to adopt measure under the SARFAESI Act. Consequently the recovery certificate and consequential orders were quashed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ajit Kumar, J.
Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri J.P. Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Utkarsh Kharwar, learned Advocate holding brief of Mohd. Saleem Khan, learned counsel for the State Financial Corporation, Sri Mukul Tripathi, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. Petitioner before this Court claims to be a third party to the advance made by the State Financial Corporation to the erstwhile proprietor of the proprietorship firm namely, M/s N.B. Industries, which of course been run by his father.

3. It is stated that in order to realize the dues and clear the debts, the State Financial Corporation had already auctioned the industrial unit of the firm and now has sought to per se recovery of the interest part from the petitioner for seven years since death of his father. Two fold arguments have been advanced by learned counsel appearing for the petitioner which is as under:-

(i) Firstly, the amount of recovery admittedly being more than Rs. 10 lakh is not recoverable by the State Financial Corporation taking recourse to the provisions as contained under the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890 or U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1972 as has been admitted in the counter affidavit, by way of arrears of land revenue.

(ii) Secondly, the petitioner having not succeeded the proprietorship of his father, he could not have been saddled with the liability to clear the dues of the proprietorship firm inasmuch as the industrial unit having been auctioned and sold away, no liability would be upon a third party who was not connected with the proprietorship firm.

4. In support of his first submission, learned counsel has placed reliance upon judgment of Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Man Mohan Rai vs. U.P. Financial Corporation And Others, 2014 (8) ADJ 25 (DB), and has placed before the Court paragraph nos. 2, 5, 7, 8, 10, 11, 12, 15, 16 and 17 of the said judgment.

5. It is contended that the legal issue was raised in the said case as to the maintainability of the recovery proceedings under the U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1972 in the face of the emergence of the new law in which name of Recovery of Debts and Bankruptcy Act, 1993 and the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002.

6. Sri Pandey has placed relevant provisions of two Acts to buttress his arguments on point no. (i) and also reliance has been placed on paragraph no. 44 of the counter affidavit.

7. Meeting the submissions, learned counsel for the State Financial Corporation though tried to defend the recovery for the reasons assigned in the counter affidavit, but could not cite any judgment to the contrary, nor could place any other judgment to draw any inference there from that the ratio of the judgment in case of Man Mohan Rai (supra), stood diluted subsequently.

8. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the record, we first proceed to dealt with the argument raised as point no. (i) and if, as we are of the considered view, this argument is upheld, the recovery would stand vitiated in law and there may not be necessity to dealt with point no. (ii).

9. From the recovery certificate which has been issued in the matter and which has been brought on record at page no. 37 of the paper book, we find that it was issued under the Revenue

Recovery Act, 1890 (as amended in the year 1966) by the Managing Director, U.P. Financial Corporation and addressed to the Deputy Commissioner, Delhi (West), to issue a consequential recovery order. It transpires from the record that he petitioned against the recovery certificate before the authority but the Managing Director rejected the same vide order dated 28.08.2007 which has been challenged before this Court and therefore, it appears that before the consequential action could have been taken by the Commissioner of Delhi, petitioner had approached this Court and got the order for interim protection on 12.09.2007.

10. We have perused the recovery certificate and it transpires that the principal amount is found to be nil whereas the interest has been charged for back seven years @ Rs. 7,340.06/- per day w.e.f. 21.06.2005. It, therefore, clearly comes out that the State Financial Corporation has sold away the entire assets of the firm to clear its debts and now for the interest part recovery has been issued.

11. Upon reading the recitals contained in the recovery certificate, we find that the recourse has been taken to the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890 to pursue the recovery of dues of the State Financial Corporation under Section 32G of the State Financial Corporation Act, 1951. Relevant provisions as contained under Section 32G of the Act, 1951 is reproduced hereunder:-

"Section 32G. Recovery of amounts due to the Financial Corporation as an arrear of land revenue.?Where any amount is due to the Financial Corporation in respect of any accommodation granted by it to any industrial concern, the Financial Corporation or any person authorised by it in writing in this behalf, may, without prejudice to any other mode of recovery, make an application to the State Government for the recovery of the amount due to it, and if the State Government or such authority, as that Government may specify in this behalf, is satisfied, after following such procedure as may be prescribed, that any amount is so due, it may issue a certificate for that amount to the Collector, and the Collector shall proceed to recover that amount in the same manner as an arrear of land revenue."

12. A bare reading of the aforesaid provisions clearly demonstrate that the power is vested with the State Financial Corporation to recover the dues from the industrial concerned by pursuing it through the Collector of the District who would consequentially act as a recovery officer to recover the dues by way of arrears of land revenue. Naturally, therefore, the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890 would come into play for the purposes of initiation of action of recovery pursuant to the recommendation made by the State Financial Corporation. However, upon perusal of para no. 33 of the counter affidavit sworn by one Sri K.S. Sonkar, Deputy Senior Manager (Law), U.P. Financial Corporation, the recovery certificate is claimed to have been issued under the U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1972. Thus, in view of this admission made in para no. 33 of the counter affidavit, there would be no quarrel about the status of the recovery as a land revenue and the modus operandi is the U.P. Land Revenue Act.

13. Admittedly, the recovery is of more than one crore, may be by way of dues towards the interest as against the loan advanced to the industrial concerned and, therefore, the question rightly framed is, as to whether such recovery could have been pursued whereas the recovery under the U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1972 could not be of an amount more than 10 lakhs in view of the provisions contained under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act of 1993') and more especially in the circumstances when the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Securities Interest Act, 2002 had already come into existence prior to the recovery in question being pursued by the State Financial Corporation.

14. The controversy as to the legal issue may not detain us any longer in view of the judgment of the Division Bench which has remained unreplied to in the sense that no contrary judgment has been cited before us. Division bench in Man Mohan Rai (supra), has dealt with this specific issue and overriding effect of Section 34 of Act of 1993.

15. Although the question no. (i) as framed above would stand answered in favour of the petitioner but we would like here to also notice the Act of 2002 which in view of the judgment of Supreme Court can equally be invoked by way of measures to recover the dues by the Banking as well as Non-Banking Financial Institution.

16. Section 2(1)(m) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 defines 'financial institution' as under:-

"Section 2(1)(m) : ?financial institution? means?(i) a public financial institution within the meaning of section 4A of the Companies Act, 1956 (1 of 1956);

(ii) any institution specified by the Central Government under sub-clause

(ii) of clause (h) of section 2 of the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (51 of 1993);

(iii) the International Finance Corporation established under the International Finance Corporation (Status, Immunities and Privileges) Act, 1958 (42 of 1958);

(iiia) a debenture trustee registered with the Board and appointed for secured debt securities;

(iiib) asset reconstruction company, whether acting as such or managing a trust created for the purpose of securitisation or asset reconstruction, as the case may be;

(iv) any other institution or non-banking financial company as defined in clause (f) of section 45-I of the Reserve Bank of India Act, 1934 (2 of 1934), which the Central Government may, by notification, specify as financial institution for the purposes of this Act."

17. Section 2(1)(ma) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 defines 'financial lease' as under:-

"Section 2(1)(ma) ?financial lease? means a lease under any lease agreement of tangible asset, other than negotiable instrument or negotiable document, for transfer of lessor's right therein to the lessee for a certain time in consideration of payment of agreed amount periodically and where the lessee becomes the owner of the such assets at the expiry of the term of lease or on payment of the agreed residual amount, as the case may be."

18. The State Financial Corporation of the State of U.P. is a creation of statutes to advance loan and grant financial lease to raise an industrial concerned for any amount and comprehensive Act namely, State Financial Corporation Act, 1951 was enacted by the State Legislature. Since it is a body corporate, created under the statute without any financial limits, this Non-Banking Financial Institution would not land into any of the exception clauses of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 to hold it back from issuing any recovery for recovering its dues to get cleared its debts.

19. In the circumstances, therefore, in our considered view the measures as prescribed under Section 13(4) of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 would have been also adopted by the State Financial Corporation.

20. Upon a pointed query being made, learned respondent Corporation could not bring to our notice any provisions of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, which may otherwise operate as a bar from any action under this Act by the State Financial Corporation more especially in the circumstances when it is Non-Banking Financial Institution falling within the meaning of ' financial institution' as prescribed under the Act of 2002 which is reproduced herein above.

21. So we are also of this view that in view of the provisions contained under the the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, the measures ought to have been adopted under Section 13(4) by the State Financial Corporation instead of taking recourse to the Revenue Recovery Act, 1890 or U.P. Public Moneys (Recovery of Dues) Act, 1972.

22. Thus, in view of the above, the recovery certificate deserves to be quashed and the petition deserves to be allowed on this score alone. So far as second question is concerned regarding liability, that stage has yet not arisen because we are holding the recovery as untenable. This question would be decided in an appropriate case when it comes for consideration of this Court in a matter of recovery, though legally but whether reasonable.

23. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The order recovery certificate dated 30.09.2005 is hereby quashed, so also the decision taken by the competent authority of the State Financial Corporation to uphold the recovery certificate vide order dated 09.07.2007, the same is also quashed. It is left open for the respondents to pursue the recovery otherwise if tenable by taking recourse to such provisions as may be available in law.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a person who does not fall within the expression "person aggrieved" under Section 198(4) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, can maintain proceedings for cancellation of lease and invoke writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution challenging orders passed therein; and what is the scope and meaning of the term "person aggrieved".

HEADNOTE

U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – ss.198(4), 333 – Constitution of India – Art.226 – Petition for cancellation of lease alleging that land was not vacant and allotment in favour of private respondents was illegal – Proceedings initiated under Section 198(4) – Dismissed by Collector – Revision dismissed – Writ petition filed – Maintainability.

Held: Proceedings under Section 198(4) can be initiated either suo motu or by a "person aggrieved" – A "person aggrieved" must be a person who has suffered a legal grievance, i.e., a person against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully affected his title – The expression does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or imaginary injury or mere disappointment or personal inconvenience.

A stranger who is not an aggrieved person cannot maintain a writ for certiorari or mandamus – A stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in proceedings unless he satisfies that he falls within the category of aggrieved persons – Existence of a legal right is a condition precedent for invoking writ jurisdiction under Article 226 – A person shall have no locus standi to file a writ petition if he is not personally affected by the impugned order or his rights have neither been directly nor substantially invaded – Only a person who has suffered a legal injury can challenge the action.

In the instant case, aggrieved by the allotment of Plot No. 1560M in favour of Respondent Nos. 5 and 6, the petitioner instituted proceedings for cancellation of the lease, asserting possession over the land, though admittedly no formal allotment had ever been made in his favour – The petitioner had no legal allotment in his favour at any point of time and thus had no enforceable right over the land in question – The petitioner does not fall within the definition of "person aggrieved".

In absence of any legal injury or enforceable right, the writ petition is not maintainable. [Paras 10, 11, 13, 14, 15, 17] (E-5)

CASE ARISING FROM

From the order dated 08.10.2024 passed by Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Kannauj and 16.10.2024 passed by Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Kanpur Division under Sections 198(4) and 333 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 respectively.

Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Girish Chandra Maurya, Omraj Singh

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C., Hari Narayan Singh, Vimal Kumar

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard counsel for the petitioner, learned Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent Nos.1, 2 & 3, Shri Hari Narayan Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent No.4 and Shri Vimal Kumar, learned counsel appearing on behalf of Respondent Nos.5 & 6 and perused the record.

2. The present writ petition has been filed inter-alia with the following prayers:-

"a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of Certiorari quashing the judgment and order dated 06.10.2025 passed by the respondent no.2/Additional Commissioner Judicial 1st Kanpur, Division Kanpur in Revision No.3421 of 2024 (Computerized Case No.C20240300003421) (Sughar Singh Vs. Indrapal and others) under Section 333 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950 as well as judgment and order dated 8.10.2024 passed by the respondent no.3/Additional District Magistrate Finance and Revenue/Additional Collector Kannauj in case no.1176 of 2018 (Computerized Case No.D201803390001176 (Sughar Singh Vs. Land Management Committee and others) under section 198(4) U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950."

3. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the plot no.1560M area 0.121 hectare situated in village Ummedpurwa Mauza Anaugi, Pargana & Tehsil & District Kannauj recorded in revenue record as Banzar land. It is stated in paragraph-7 of the writ petition that Respondent Nos.5 & 6 are not eligible to be allotted agricultural lease over the said plot having sufficient agricultural land. Petitioner is still in possession over the plot in question from his ancestral period and during the course of the allotment of agricultural lease in favour of the Respondent Nos. 5 & 6 dated 04.01.2014, such land was not vacant because the land of the petitioner i.e., plot no.1562 and 1563 is situated adjacent to the plot no.1560 and the petitioner has constructed house over the plot no.1560 and installed tube-well over it for irrigation of his agricultural land and some trees are also grown over it.

4. It is argued that since at the time of allotment the plot in question was not vacant, the same should not be allotted in favour of the private-respondents.

5. In this view of the matter, after the allotment was made in favour of the private-respondents on 04.01.2014, suit for cancellation of lease under Section 198(4) of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act was filed by the petitioner in the court of District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), District Kannauj. The said suit was dismissed by the Respondent No.3 namely Additional District Magistrate Finance and Revenue/Additional Collector Kannauj vide order dated 08.10.2024.

6. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, statutory revision as provided under Section 333 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 was filed by the petitioner before the Respondent No.2 namely Additional Commissioner Judicial Ist Kanpur Division Kanpur which was numbered as Case No.3421 of 2024. The aforesaid revision was also dismissed by the Respondent No.2 vide order dated 16.10.2024. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, the petitioner has preferred the present writ petition.

7. It is argued that the petitioner is in possession over the land in question which was allotted in favour of the private-respondents in the year 2014. When a query was raised by the Court that whether any legal allotment by any competent authority was ever made in favour of the petitioner or at any point of time by the revenue authorities, it is very fairly argued that at no point of time the land in question was allotted in favour of the petitioner.

8. Heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

9. A complete procedure for cancellation of lease has been provided under Section 198 of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950. Sub-section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950 reads as follows:-

"(4) The [Collector] [Substituted by U.P. Act No. 20 of 1982 (w.e.f. 18.08.1980).] may of his own motion and shall on the application of any person aggrieved by an allotment of land inquire in the manner prescribed into such allotment and if he is satisfied that the allotment is irregular, he may cancel the allotment and the lease, if any."

10. From perusal of the averments made in the writ petition as well as order passed which are under challenge in the present writ petition, it is clear that proceedings under sub-section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950 was initiated by the petitioner. The proceedings under Section 198(4) should be initiated under suo motu or by a person aggrieved.

11. From perusal of the record it is clear that the petitioner does not fall within the definition of person aggrieved.

12. In Munshi vs. State of U.P. and others reported in R.D. (117) page 615, it was held by this Court that a person aggrieved must be a man who had suffered a legal grievance. Paragraph-16 of the judgment of this Court in the case of Munshi (Supra) is relevant for the purpose and is reproduced below:

"Point No. 2:- Though I have already held that the order passed by the learned Member of Board of Revenue is without jurisdiction but assuming for a moment that it was within his competence to maintain the revision and decide the same, even then learned Member has erred in cancelling the lease without assigning any reason. So far as the view taken by the learned Member of Board of Revenue that the respondent no. 6 is an aggrieved person is concerned, controversy in this regard is no more res integra as the Apex Court as well as this Court in a catena of decisions, while considering as to who could be said to be the "person aggrieved", held that although the meaning of expression "person aggrieved" may vary according to the context of the Statute and facts of the case nevertheless normally, a person aggrieved must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance; a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongly deprived him of something or wrongfully refused something, or wrongfully affected his title to someone.

In M.S. Jayaraj Vs. Commissioner of Excise, Kerala & Ors., (2000) 7 SCC 552, the Supreme Court considered the matter at length and placing reliance upon a large number of its earlier judgments including the Chairman, Railway Board & Ors., Vs. Chandrima Das (Mrs.) & Ors., AIR 2000 SC 988; held that the Court must examine the issue of locus standi from all angles and the petitioner should be asked to disclose as what is the legal injury suffered by him.

The term "person aggrieved" was also considered and defined in Re: Sidebotham, (1880) 14 Ch. D. 458, wherein it has been observed as under :-

"The words "person aggrieved' do not really mean a man who is disappointed of a benefit which he might have received if some other order had been made. A 'person aggrieved' must be a man who has suffered a legal grievance, a man against whom a decision has been pronounced which has wrongfully deprived him of something or wrongfully refused him something or wrongfully affected his title to something."

*The "person aggrieved" means a person who is wrongfully deprived of his entitlement which he is legally entitled to receive and it does not include any kind of disappointment or personal inconvenience. "Person aggrieved" means a person who is injured or he is adversely affected in a legal sense. (Vide K.N. Lakshminarasimaiah Vs. Secretary, Mysore S.T.A.T., (1966) 2 Mys. L.J. 199).

Whether a person is injured in strict legal sense, must be determined by the nature of the injury considering the facts and circumstances involving in each case. A fanciful or sentimental grievance may not be sufficient to confer a standi to sue upon the individual. There must be injuria or a legal grievance, as the law can appreciate and not a stat pro ratione valuntas reasons.

13. The existence of a right in favour of an aggrieved party furnishes the locus standi to maintain a writ petition as held in Vinoy Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in (2001) 4 SCC 734 thus:

"2. Generally speaking, a person shall have no locus standi to file a writ petition if he is not personally affected by the impugned order or his fundamental rights have neither been directly or substantially invaded nor is there any imminent danger of such rights being invaded or his acquired interests have been violated ignoring the applicable rules. The relief under Article 226 of the constitution is based on the existence of a right in favour of the person invoking the jurisdiction. The exception to the general rule is only in cases where the writ applied for is a writ of habeas - corpus or quo warranto or filed in public interest. It is a matter of prudence, that the court confines the exercise of writ jurisdiction to cases where legal wrong or legal injuries caused to a particular person or his fundamental rights are violated, and not to entertain cases of individual wrong or injury at the instance of third party where there is an effective legal aid organisation which can take care of such cases. Even in cases filed in public interest, the court can exercise the writ jurisdiction at the instance of a third party only when it is shown that the legal wrong or legal injury or illegal burden is threatened and such person or determined class of persons is, by reason or poverty, helplessness or disability or socially or economically disadvantages position, unable to approach the court for relief."

14. Similarly in Ayaaubkhan Noorkhan Pathan Vs. State of Maharashtra and others reported in (2013) 4 SCC 465, the Supreme Court emphasized that existence of enforceable rights of aggrieved parties form the pre-condition to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India vested in this Court:

"9. It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding, unless he satisfies the authority/court, that he falls within the category of aggrieved persons. Only a person who has suffered, or suffers from legal injury can challenge the act/action/order, etc. in a court of law. A writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable either for the purpose of enforcing a statutory or legal right, or when there is a complaint by the appellant that there has been a breach of statutory duty on the part of the authorities. Therefore, there must be a judicially enforceable right available for enforcement, on the basis of which writ jurisdiction is resorted to. The Court can, of course, enforce the performance of a statutory duty by a public body, using its writ jurisdiction at the behest of a person, provided that such person satisfies the Court that he has a legal right to insist on such performance. The existence of such right is a condition precedent for invoking the writ jurisdiction of the courts. It is implicit in the exercise of such extraordinary jurisdiction that the relief prayed for must be one to enforce a legal right. In fact, the existence of such right, is the foundation of the exercise of the said jurisdiction by the Court. The legal right that can be enforced must ordinarily be the right of the appellant himself, who complains of infraction of such right and approaches the Court for relief as regards the same. [Vide State of Orissa v. Madan Gopal Rungta [AIR 1952 SC 12] , Saghir Ahmad v. State of U.P. [AIR 1954 SC 728] , Calcutta Gas Co. (Proprietary) Ltd. v. State of W.B. [AIR 1962 SC 1044] , Rajendra Singh v. State of M.P. [(1996) 5 SCC 460 : AIR 1996 SC 2736] and Tamilnad Mercantile Bank Shareholders Welfare Assn. (2) v. S.C. Sekar [(2009) 2 SCC 784].]

10. A "legal right", means an entitlement arising out of legal rules. Thus, it may be defined as an advantage, or a benefit conferred upon a person by the rule of law. The expression, "person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or an imaginary injury; a person aggrieved must, therefore, necessarily be one whose right or interest has been adversely affected or jeopardised. (Vide Shanti Kumar R. Canji v. Home Insurance Co. of New York [(1974) 2 SCC 387 : AIR 1974 SC 1719] and State of Rajasthan v. Union of India [(1977) 3 SCC 592 : AIR 1977 SC 1361] .)

11. In Anand Sharadchandra Oka v. University of Mumbai [(2008) 5 SCC 217 : AIR 2008 SC 1289] , a similar view was taken by this Court, observing that, if a person claiming relief is not eligible as per requirement, then he cannot be said to be a person aggrieved regarding the election or the selection of other persons."

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in case of Jasbhai Motibhai Desai Vs. Roshan Kumar, Haji Bashir Ahmed reported in 1976 (1) SCC 671 held that a stranger who is not an aggrieved person cannot maintain a Writ for either Certiorari or Mandamus. The relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is reproduced hereunder:-

"50. While a Procrustean approach should be avoided, as a rule, the Court should not interfere at the instance of a "stranger" unless there are exceptional circumstances involving a grave miscarriage of justice having an adverse impact on public interests. Assuming that the appellant is a "stranger", and not a busybody, then also there are no exceptional circumstances in the present case which would justify the issue of a writ of certiorari at his instance. On the contrary, the result of the exercise of these discretionary powers, in his favour, will, on balance, be against public policy. It will eliminate healthy competition in this business which is so essential to raise commercial morality; it will tend to perpetuate the appellant's monopoly of cinema business in the town; and above all, it will in effect, seriously injure the fundamental rights of Respondents Nos. 1 and 2, which they have under Article 19(1)(g) of the Constitution, to carry on trade or business subject "reasonable restrictions imposed by law".

16. In the case of Pyare Lal and others Vs. The Deputy Director of Consolidation Mainpuri and others reported in 2005 ALL L. J. 1966 it has been held in paragraph-7 that :-

"Dictionary meaning of word aggrieved is "having suffered loss or injury. "According to the Black's Law Dictionary aggrieved party/person is "one whose legal right is invaded by an act complained of, or whose pecuniary interest is directing affected by a decree or judgment. The word aggrieved refers to a substantial grievance, a denial of some personal or property right, or the imposition upon a party of a burden or obligation". According to Corpus Juris Secundum volume IV 356 (1st edition) a party or a person can be said to be aggrieved by a decision only when it operates directly and injuriously upon his personal, pecuniary or proprietary rights."

17. In this view of the matter, since petitioner does not fall within the definition "aggrieved person" present writ petition filed on his behalf is not maintainable and liable to be dismissed.

18. Accordingly, the present writ petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a complaint under Section 198(4) of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 can be maintained by persons who are merely residents of the village and do not fall within the ambit of "person aggrieved"; and Whether cancellation of allotment at the instance of such persons is legally sustainable.

U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 – s.198(4) – Cancellation of patta – Residents of village – "Person aggrieved" – Locus standi – Preferential right – Justification:
Held: The complaint filed under sub-section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950 could only be decided either suo motu by the Collector or on the complaint made by the "person aggrieved" – The expression "person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or imaginary injury; a person aggrieved must be one whose right or interest has been adversely affected or jeopardised – If any person moves an application for cancellation of patta granted in favour of another person, he has to satisfy that he falls within the ambit and scope of "person aggrieved" in order to initiate such proceedings – A person who seeks to question the allotment has to show that he has a preferential right for the said allotment and seeking cancellation of allotment without showing such preference cannot be questioned except on the intervention of the Gaon Sabha – It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding unless he satisfies that he falls within the category of aggrieved person, and merely by virtue of being a resident of the village one cannot be said to fall within the scope of "person aggrieved" – The Court found that nothing was stated nor any argument raised that the complainant stood on a higher preferential category in respect of the petitioners, which was sine qua non for maintaining the application under Section 198(4), and in absence thereof the application was liable to be rejected – The private respondents, being merely residents of the village, did not fall within the ambit of "person aggrieved" and were strangers – Accordingly, the impugned orders dated 03.10.2016 and 30.06.2016 were set aside and quashed and the writ petition was allowed. 4. Facts in brief as contained in the writ petition are that the Land Management Committee of the Gaon Sabha namely Biraudi Tajpur Tehsil Sikandarabad, District Bulandshahar passed a unanimous resolution on 20-04-1994, whereby an agricultural lease was granted in favour of various persons including the present petitioners. The aforesaid resolution was duly approved by the then Deputy Collector/Sub Divisional Officer vide order dated 12-5-1994. The private respondents namely Respondents Nos. 4 to 33 moved an application dated 29-06-1994 under sub section (4) of Section 198 of Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 (hereinafter to be referred as "Act 1950"), before the Collector, Bulandshahar.

5. On the basis of the aforesaid application, 2 cases were registered under Sub section (4) of Section 198 of the Act 1950, being Case No.17 of 2013, Computer Case No.D2013111700177, (Brahm Singh and Another vs. Kamal Singh and Others) and Case No. 21 of 2013, Computer Case No. D20131117001146, (Ravindra Singh and Another vs. Harbhajan Singh and Others).

6. In the aforesaid proceedings, a report was submitted by the concerned Sub Divisional Officer before the District Collector, Bulandshahar on 15-07-1994. In the aforesaid report the allegations were made to the effect that so called resolution was not carried out properly. In the aforesaid cases Petitioners submitted their Written Statements on 23-03-1995 whereby and whereunder they vehemently refuted the allegation as contained in the application in question. The aforesaid application was allowed by the Additional District Magistrate (Administration) vide its order dated 18-07-1995.

7. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, some of the petitioners filed a Revision before the Commissioner, Bulandshahar which was allowed vide order dated 9-12-1997. The aforesaid order was challenged by the complainant/Private respondents before the Board of Revenue and ultimately the Revision of the complainant was dismissed vide order dated 19-10-2001 passed by the Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad.

8. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, the private respondents approached this Court by filing two writ petitions namely Writ B No.40986 of 2001 (Brahm singh v Board of Revenue, UP Alld. and others) and Writ B No.40983 of 2001 (Fateh Mohd. vs. Board of Revenue U.P. at Alld. and Others). Both the writ petitions were clubbed together and finally decided by the Coordinate Bench of this court vide judgement and order dated 03-09-2012. Order reads as follows:

"Heard Sri R.B. Singhal learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri A.B. Singhal learned counsel for the petitioner Sri M.C. Singh for respondent nos. 5, 29 and 30 and learned Standing Counsel for respondent nos. 1 and 2 as also learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha.

According to Sri R.B. Singhal learned counsel for the petitioner under the order dated 9.12.1997 in Revision no. 126 of 1995 (Harbhajan Singh and others Vs Ravindra Singh and others) connected with Revision no. 127 of 1997 (Kanwal Singh Vs Brahm Singh and others) the Additional Commissioner has set aside the order dated 18.7.1995 of the Additional Collector solely on the ground that the principles of natural justice were violated and that the Gaon Sabha which is a necessary party was not impleaded in proceedings under Section 198 (4) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act (herein after referred to as the Act).

Learned counsel states that the petitioner feeling aggrieved filed Revision no. 22 of 1997-98 and 23 of 1997-98 (Brahm Singh Vs Kanwal Singh) before the Board of Revenue wherein by the impugned order dated 19.10.2001 the revision of the petitioner has been rejected on two grounds. According to Sri Singhal the first ground taken by the Board of Revenue was that the Additional Collector cannot exercise the power or jurisdiction of a Collector in proceedings under Section 198 (4) of the Act and the second was that the Board of Revenue has affirmed the order passed by the Additional Commissioner on the question of violation of principles of natural justice.

According to Sri Singhal in case there is violation of principles of natural justice and such an order is set aside then the matter ought to have been remanded to the authority to reconsider the matter under Section 198 (4) of the Act.

Learned Standing Counsel and learned counsel for the Gaon Sabha and Sri M.C. Singh learned counsel for the contesting respondents have justified the impugned order and state that there was gross violation of principles of natural justice and hence the order of the Additional Collector was rightly set aside by the Additional Commissioner and revision filed by the petitioner was rightly rejected by the Board of Revenue. He states that insofar as the merits of the matter is concerned a concurrent finding of fact has been recorded that there was violation of principles of natural justice and hence the impugned order should not be interfered with.

Having considered the submission of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record clearly the observation of the Board of Revenue that the Additional Collector cannot exercise the power and jurisdiction of the Collector in proceedings under Section 198 (4) of the Act is erroneous in view of the Full Bench decision dated 29.04.2008 passed on a reference made in this writ petition reported in 2008 (105) RD 1 as such the aforesaid view taken by the Board of Revenue being illegal is set aside.

Insofar as the concurrent findings of fact recorded by the Additional Commissioner and the Board of Revenue on the issue of violation of principles of natural justice is concerned they are concurrent findings of fact and there is nothing on record of this writ petition to indicate that the principles of natural justice were not violated by the Additional Collector. Clearly the Gaon Sabha was a necessary party which was not made a party and the respondents before the Additional Collector were not heard. As such the order was exparte.

However while not interfering in the concurrent findings of fact recorded therein it appears that when there was violation of principles of natural justice and the order of the Additional Collector required to be set aside the matter ought to have been remanded by the Additional Commissioner and the Board of Revenue to the Additional Collector for re-deciding the matter in accordance with law after giving opportunity of hearing to the parties. As such no interference is required in the impugned orders where findings of fact have been recorded regarding violation of principles of natural justice.

However, this writ petition is finally disposed of by providing that the matter stands remanded to the Additional Collector to proceed in the application under Section 198 (4) of the Act in accordance with law.

No order is passed as to costs. "

9. By the aforesaid order the matter was remanded to the Additional Collector to proceed in the application under sub section (4) of section 198 of the Act, 1950 in accordance with Law. After remand of the matter, the concerned Gaon Sabha submitted its Written statement on 27-03-2015. In the aforesaid Written Statement the Gaon Sabha clearly refuted the allegations contained in the complaint.

10. Subsequently an order dated 30-06-2016 was passed by the Respondent no. 2/ Additional Collector (Administration), Bulandshahar, by which land which was allotted in favour of the petitioners dated 20-04-1994 as well as its approval order passed by the Deputy Collector/SDO dated 12-05-1994 were cancelled.

11. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, the Petitioners have preferred as many as 4 Revisions before the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut, which was subsequently transferred to the Court of Additional Commissioner (Judicial-Ist), Meerut Division, Meerut under Section 333 of the Act, 1950, which was numbered as Revision No.125 of 2015 (Satish and Others vs. Jaipal and Others), Revision No.126 of 2015 (Harbhajan and Others vs Ramgopal and Others), Revision No.117 of 2015 (Ikram and Others vs. Ravindra and Others) and Revision No.116 of 2015 (Kanwal Singh and Others vs. Raghuraj and Others). The aforesaid Revisions were clubbed together and Revision No.125 of 2015 (Satish and Others vs. Jaipal and Others) was treated as a leading Revision. The aforesaid revisions were dismissed by the Respondent no. 1 namely Additional Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut vide its order dated 3-10-2016.

12. Aggrieved against the aforesaid, the petitioners have preferred the present writ petition. The Writ Petition was duly entertained and interim order of status quo has been passed by this Court in favour of the Petitioners on 23-12-2016.

13. It is argued by the counsel for the Petitioners that the allotment of the land was made in favour of near and dear of the Pradhan of the Gaon sabha is absolutely false and incorrect and in this regard Written statement filed by the Gaon Sabha dated 27-03-2015 has not at all been taken into consideration. It is further argued that though various grounds were taken in the memo of Revision but not a single ground was taken into consideration by the Respondent no.1 while dismissing the aforesaid Revision. Hence, the Revisional Court clearly committed an error of law in proceedings with the matter and dismissing the Revisions by non-speaking order. It is further argued that complainant has not stated anywhere in their complaint that they stood on higher preferential category in respect to the Petitioners and this was sine qua non for maintaining the application under section 198(4) of the Act 1950 and as such in the absence of the same application was liable to be rejected but this aspect of the matter has not been taken into consideration by the court below.

14. It is further argued that the court below relied upon the report dated 15-07-1994 submitted by the concerned Sub Divisional Officer, Sikandarabad but copy of the aforesaid report has never been provided to the petitioners. It is further argued that the entire matter was remanded back vide order dated 03-09-2012 by this Court in Writ B No.40986 of 2001 (Brahm Singh vs. Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad and Others), and in such contingencies it was incumbent upon the respondent no.2 to have record a fresh finding qua denovo enquiry as the earlier orders were already set aside by the concerned Commissioner and which has also been affirmed by the Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad and those findings of concerned Revisional Court qua court of Additional Commissioner as well as Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad was not entirely upset by the Hon'ble court in Writ B No.40986 of 2001 (Brahm Singh vs. Board of Revenue U.P. at Allahabad and Others), and such being the position then it was legally mandatory for the Respondent No.2 to have carried out fresh exercise for proceeding further and admissible evidence but this salutary exercise was not adhered by the respondent no.2 and accordingly it manifested grave error of law apparent on record.

15. It is further argued that as per sub Section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950 proceedings could only be initiated either suo motu by the Collector or on the application of any "Aggrieved Person" by a allotment of land. It is further argued that insofar as the present case is concerned nothing has been stated in the complaint made by the private respondents that they are the 'aggrieved person'. It is further argued that though this aspect of the matter has been duly raised by the petitioners before the Revisional Authority and though the same was also duly taken note, but the same was not decided in a proper manner. Hence, the orders which are under challenged are liable to be quashed.

behalf of Gaon Sabha as well as counsel for the private-respondents that after looking into the entire aspect of the matter and going through the records, impugned orders were passed by the Authorities which does not call for any interference by this court under Article 226 of the Constitution of the India. It is further argued that since large number of irregularities were committed at the time of allotment of land, the resolution of allotment of Land dated 20.04.1994 and approval order dated 12.05.1994 were rightly cancelled.

17. Heard counsel for the parties and perused the record.

18. From perusal of the record, it transpires that the complaint was made by the Private Respondents against the Petitioners under Sub Section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950. A complete procedure has been provided under the aforesaid Section which reads as follows:-

Section 198(4) "[The [Collector] [Substituted by U.P. Act No. 20 of 1982 (w.e.f. 18.08.1980).] may of his own motion and shall on the application of any person aggrieved by an allotment of land inquire in the manner prescribed into such allotment and if he is satisfied that the allotment is irregular, he may cancel the allotment and the lease, if any."

19. From the bare reading of the said provisions, the position which emerged out that the Collector may of his own motion or on an application of any person aggrieved initiate a proceeding in respect to grant of patta, thus, if any person who moves an application for cancellation of patta which is granted in favour of another person then he has to satisfy that whether he comes within the ambit and scope of person aggrieved in order to enable him to initiate the proceedings for cancellation of patta.

20. In the present case, the ground taken by the private-respondent for initiating a proceeding under section 198(4) of the Act that they are resident of the said village by virtue of the same, they did not fall within the ambit and scope of the word "person aggrieved" rather they are strangers.

21. It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding, unless he satisfies the Authority/Court, that he falls within the category of aggrieved person. Any person means only a person who has suffered, or suffers from legal injury can challenge the act/action/order etc. in a Court of law. A writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable either for the purpose of enforcing a statutory or legal right, or when there is a complaint by the appellant that there has been a breach of statutory duty on the part of the Authorities. Therefore, there must be a judicially enforceable right available for enforcement, on the basis of which writ jurisdiction is resorted to.

22. From perusal of the aforesaid it is clear that the complaint filed under sub section (4) of Section 198 of the Act, 1950 could only be decided either by suo motu by the Collector or on the complaint made by the 'person aggrieved'. Nothing has been stated in the entire writ petition nor any argument has been raised that the complainant stood on higher preferential category in respect to the Petitioners and this was sine qua non for maintaining the application under section 198(4) of the Act, 1950 and as such in the absence of the same application is liable to be rejected.

23. In Ram Kumar vs. State of U.P. and Others reported in 2017 (134) RD 428, definition as well as the scope of the term "Aggrieved Person" as per Section 198 of the Act was briefly discussed. One who moves an application has to satisfy the mandate of being an aggrieved person. Merely by virtue of being a resident of the village one cannot be said to be falling within the scope of an aggrieved person, reinforcing the settled legal proposition that a stranger to the suit cannot be said to be person aggrieved. Further, "Person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from psychological or imaginary injury. Paragraph Nos.10, 11, 12 and 14 of the aforesaid Judgment passed in the case of Ram Kumar (Supra) is reproduced below:

10. Thus, if any person who moves an application for cancellation of patta which is granted in favour of another person then he has to satisfy that whether he comes within the ambit and scope of person aggrieved in order to enable him to initiate the proceedings for cancellation of patta.

11. In the present case, the ground taken by the petitioner for initiating a proceeding under section 198(4) of the Act that he is resident of the said village by virtue of the same, he does not come within the ambit and scope of the word "person aggrieved" rather he is a stranger person.

12. It is a settled legal proposition that a stranger cannot be permitted to meddle in any proceeding, unless he satisfies the Authority/Court, that he falls within the category of aggrieved person.

14. Further, a "legal right", means an entitlement arising out of legal rules. Thus, it may be defined as an advantage, or a benefit conferred upon a person by the rule of law. The expression, "person aggrieved" does not include a person who suffers from a psychological or an imaginary injury; a person aggrieved must therefore, necessarily be one, whose right or interest has been adversely affected or jeopardised.

24. In the case of Kanhai and Others vs. State of U.P. and Ors. reported in 212 (4) ADJ 767 It was held that, a person who seeks to question the allotment has to show that he has a preferential right for the said allotment. Seeking cancellation of allotment order without showing preference cannot be questioned except on the intervention of the Gaon Sabha. Thus, having failed to disclose their right to possess the land, respondents could not be said to have any locus to question the order. Relevant para reads as follows:-

5. The Gaon Sabha has competence to allot the said land in terms of Section 198 of the UPZA & LR Act to class of persons defined therein. While making allotment provision of Section 198 of the Act are required to be complied with. Section 198 of the Act stipulates allotment to be made on the basis of preference to be given to a particular Class. A person who seeks to question the allotment has to show that he had preferential right for the said allotment. Seeking cancellation of allotment order without showing preference cannot be questioned except on the intervention of the Gaon Sabha. Petitioner claims that the land has been wrongly allotted to the respondents without claiming that they have right to seek allotment of the said land under the Act.

6. Rules with regard to locus standi is that judicial redress is available only to a person who has suffered a legal injury by reason of violation of his legal right or legal protected interest by the impugned action of the State or a public authority. Aggrieved person must show that he had suffered a legal grievance against whom a decision which has been pronounced which has wrongfully refused him of something, which he had a right to demand. It is within this precincts that the aggrieved person can seek redressal of his grievance under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

25. Similarly in the case of Hari Shankar Kushwaha and Ors. vs. State of U.P. and Ors. Reported in 2018 (139) RD 521, it was emphasized that only a person aggrieved be allowed to challenge the patta. Revevant portion of the judgment reads as follows:-

5. Who is a person aggrieved was a subject matter of judicial interpretation in Adi Pheroz Shah Gandhi v. H.M. Seervai MANU/SC/0044/1970 : AIR 1971 SC 385. The Hon'ble Apex Court had said:- "From these cases it is apparent that any person who feels disappointed with the result of the case is not a person aggrieved. He must be disappointed of a benefit which he would have received if the order had gone the other way. The order must cause him a legal grievance by wrongfully depriving him of something."

6. From the above, it is clear that a person can be said to be aggrieved only when his rights are affected because of the existence of the patta, meaning thereby that if the patta goes then he would either continue to remain in possession or come into possession and thereafter till the land. The expression " person aggrieved" was also explained in Pyare Lal v. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Mainpuri Camp at Etah and others MANU/UP/0991/2004 : 2005 (98) RD 106, wherein this Court had held that only if a person who was aggrieved had sought to get a patta cancelled would the Collector initiate proceedings. In the instant case, the complainants were not persons aggrieved and, therefore, the very fact that the complaint was not filed by a person who was eligible to file the complaint would make the impugned orders unsustainable in law. After it has been found that the complaint itself was not maintainable nothing further ought to be looked into. However, since the Collector/Assistant Collector himself was required to make the enquiry and he did not make the enquiry himself, I also hold that orders were bad on account of the fact that the Collector/Assistant Collector himself did not make the enquiry.

26. It is settled law that a person who suffers from legal injury only can challenge the act/action/order etc. by filing a writ petition. Writ Petition under Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable for enforcing a statutory or legal right or when there is a complaint by the petitioner that there is a breach of the statutory duty on the part of the authorities. Therefore, there must be a judicially enforceable right for the enforcement of which the writ jurisdiction can be resorted to. The Court can enforce the performance of a statutory duty by public bodies through its writ jurisdiction at the behest of a person, provided such person satisfies the Court that he has a legal right to insist on such performance. The existence of the said right is the condition precedent to invoke the writ jurisdiction. [Utkal University etc. Vs. Dr. Nrusingha Charan Sarangi and others (AIR 1999 SC 943) and Laxminarayan R. Bhattad and others vs. State of Maharashtra and another (2003) 5 SCC 413].

27. Legal right is an averment of entitlement arising out of law. It is, in fact, an advantage or benefit conferred upon a person by a rule of law [Shanti Kumar R. Canji vs. Home Insurance Co. of New York (AIR 1974 SC 1719) and State of Rajasthan v. Union of India and others (AIR 1977 SC 1361)].

28. In Jasbhai Motibhai Desai v. Roshan Kumar Hazi Bashir Ahmad and others [AIR 1976 SC 578], the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that only a person who is aggrieved by an order, can maintain a writ petition. The expression 'aggrieved person' has been explained by the Apex Court observing that such a person must show that he has a more particular or peculiar interest of his own beyond that of the general public in seeing that the law is properly administered. In the said case, a cinema hall owner had challenged the sanction of setting up of a rival cinema hall in the town contending that it would adversely affect monopolistic commercial interest, causing pecuniary harm and loss of business from competition. The Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:-

"Such harm or loss is not wrongful in the eye of law because it does riot result in injury to a legal right or a legally protected interest, the business competition cousing it being a lawful activity. Judicially, harm of this description is called daminum sine injuria. The term injuria being here used in its true sense reason why law suffers a person knowingly to inflict harm of this description on another, without holding him accountable for it, is that such harm done to an individual is a gain to society at large. In the light of the above discussion, it is demonstratively clear that the appellant has not been denied or deprived of a legal right. He has not sustained injury to any legally protected interest. In fact, the impugned order does not operate as a decision against him, much less does it wrongfully effect his title to something. He has not been subjected to legal wrong. He has suffered no grievance. He has no legal peg for a justiciable claim to hand on. Therefore, he is not a "person aggrieved" to challenge the ground of the no objection certificate. (see Babua Ram and others Vs. State of U.P. and another (1995) 2 SCC 689 and Northern Plastics Ltd. Vs. Hindustan Photo Films Mfg. Co. Ltd. and others (1997) 4SCC 452) and a decision given by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Dharam Raj Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2009 (27) LCD 1373".

29. In Collin's English Dictionary, the word "aggrieved" has been defined to mean "to ensure unjustly especially by infringing a person's legal rights". In Webster Comprehensive Dictionary, International Edition at page 28, 'aggrieved person' is defined to mean "subjected to ill-treatment, feeling an injury or injustice. Injured, as by legal decision adversely infringing upon one's rights". In Stroud's Judicial Dictionary, Fifth Ed., Vol. 1, pages 83-84, person aggrieved means "person injured or damaged in a legal sense".

30. In Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Ed. at page 65, aggrieved has been defined to mean "having suffered loss or injury; damnified; injured", aggrieved person has been defined to mean:

"One whose legal right is invaded by an act complained of, or whose pecuniary interest is directly and adversely affected by a decree or judgment. One whose right of property may be established or divested. The word "aggrieved" refers to a substantial grievance, a denial of some personal, pecuniary or property right, or the imposition upon a party of a burden or obligation."

31. Thus, the person aggrieved is, therefore, in this context, would mean a person who had suffered legal injury or one who has been unjustly deprived or denied of something.

32. From perusal of the facts as narrated above and also for the arguments as has been raised by the counsel for the respondents it is clear that complainants who moved application under Section 198(4) of the Act, 1950 against the petitioners does not fall within the defenition of person aggrieved.

33. In this view of the matter, the Court is of the opinion that the order dated 03.10.2016 passed by the Respondent No.1 namely Additional Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut as well as order dated 30.06.2016 passed by the Respondent No.2 namely Additional Collector/ A.D.M., (Administration), Bulandshahar are liable to be set aside and are hereby quashed.

34. The writ petition is allowed. No order as to costs.

Held

The court examined the statutory framework under the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act,1950 & Rules and held that the power to confirm sale is vested exclusively in the Collector. The court further held that the appellate authority committed a procedural illegality by deciding the appeal on merits without formally allowing the delay condonation application, rendering the order unsustainable in law. Emphasizing that delegated authorities must act strictly within the limits of their conferred powers and that procedural compliance is mandatory, the court concluded that the order passed by the S.D.O. confirming the sale was without jurisdiction and void. The impugned order was quashed and the matter was remanded back to the Additional Commissioner to decide the issue afresh. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Shri Syed Ahmad Jamal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Satrughan Chaudhary, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents-State.

2. None has put in appearance for the private respondents.

3. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for issuance of a writ in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order dated 10.5.2002 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Lucknow Division, Lucknow contained in Annexure No.3 to this writ petition.

4. Factual matrix of the case is that plot no.611 measuring 311, plot no.11/1 measuring 7.653, plot no.116 measuring 759 and plot no.51 measuring 0.63 are said to have been auctioned for recovery of certain alleged dues against the petitioner. On 15.2.2000, auction is said to have taken place. On 23.3.2000, the said auction is said to have been approved.

Rule 281 onwards of the Rules provide for sale of immovable property. According to Rule 281 of the Rules recourse can only be had to the sale of holding under Section 284 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950. When the processes specified in clauses (a), (b), (c) or (d) of Section 279 of the Act would be insufficient for the recovery of the arrears.

The process for sale of holding under Section 284 of the Act and other immovable property under Section 286 shall be issued by the Collector. Section 284 of the Act provides that the Collector may in additional to or instead of any of the processes herein before specified either on his own motion or on the application of the Land Management Committee, attach the holding in respect of which an arrears is due.

Rule 272 of the Rules provides that process for attachment of holding under clause (d) of Section 279 may be issued only by the Collector. Rule 273 of the Rules provides that wherein any land is attached a proclamation in Z.A. Form-73 shall be affixed at a conspicuous place in the village in which the land is situate and it shall also be notified by beat of drum. The attachment of holding under the Rules shall be effected in the matter prescribed under Order 21 Rule 54 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Rule 282 of the Rules provides for a proclamation of sale.

Rule 283 of the Rules provides the manner in which the Collector has to issue the sale proclamation. Rule 283 also deals regarding the said manner. Rule 285-A provides that every sale under Sections 284 and 286 shall be made either by the Collector in person or by an Assistant Collector specially appointed by him in this behalf. It further makes it clear that no such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other gazetted holiday or until after the expiration of atleast 30 days from the date on which the proclamation under Rule 282 was issued. It also provides that the Collector may from time to time postpone the sale.

Rule 285-C provides that if the defaulter pays the arrears in respect of which the land for other immovable property is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the same, the person authorized to collect the amount in arrears or to the person appointed under Rule 282-A to conduct the sale, the sale officer, on being satisfied of the payment shall stay the sale.

Rule 285-H of the Rules provides that any persons whose holding or other immovable property has been sold under the Act may, at any time within 30 days from the date of sale, apply to have the sale set aside on his depositing in the Collector's office (a) for payment to the purchaser, a sum equal to 5% of the purchase-money; and (b) for payment on account of the arrears, the amount specified in the proclamation in Z.A. Form-74 as that for the recovery of which the sale was ordered, less any amount which may, since the date of such proclamation of sale, have been paid on that account; and (c) the costs of the sale. On the making of such deposit the Collector shall pass an order setting aside the sale.

The S.D.O., Sadar passed an order on 23.3.2000 approving the sale. The petitioner preferred an appeal before the Commissioner and the Commissioner without passing order on the delay condonation application set aside the matter on merits vide order dated 10.5.2002. Prior to passing of the order, an interim order was also also granted on 26.4.2000.

5. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the order passed by the S.D.O. is wholly without jurisdiction as he is not empowered to confirm/ approve the sale. In the memo of appeal, the petitioner took specific ground that the S.D.O. has no power to pass order of approval of sale and in spite of that, without condoning the delay, the appellate Court proceeded to decide the appeal on merits. In this view of the matter, submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that without allowing delay condonation application, there was no justification on the part of the appellate Court to decide the appeal on merits.

6. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the following judgments:

(i) Brahm Singh v. Board of Revenue and others reported in 2008(5)ADJ 331

(ii) Ajay Upadhayay v. Collector, Ballia and others reported in 2008 SCC OnLine All 28

7. Reverting the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, Shri Chaudhary, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submitted that the S.D.O. is empowered to pass order of sale and placed reliance upon Full-Bench judgment rendered in the case of Jagar Pal Singh v. State of U.P. and others reported in the case of (1994) 12 LCD 612.

8. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel also placed reliance upon the provisions contained in 285(i) and 285(k) and submitted that the petitioner cannot traveled beyond limitation of 30 days in approaching the Commissioner in revision.

9. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel lastly submitted that remedy lies in filing civil suit in case of any default or irregularity in passing the order by the S.D.O..

10. Having heard the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties, I have perused the material on record as well as law-reports cited by learned counsel for the parties.

11. For deciding the controversy involved in the present writ petition, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner is being quoted below:

(i) Brahm Singh (supra):-

34. The contention raised was that under Section 15A of 1952 Act, the Collector has only been empowered to cancel the grant of any land made under Section 14 of 1952 Act if it is found to have been obtained by misrepresentation or fraud. It was further contended in that matter that the Collector appointed under Section 14 of 1901 Act is a distinct and separate authority to that of the Additional Collector appointed under Section 14A of 1901 Act and thus, in view of Section 15A of 1952 Act, the Additional Collector is not vested with the power to cancel the grant. Their Lordships repelled the contention and held as under:

We find no merit in aforementioned submission made by the learned counsel for the petitioners. Sub-section (3) of Section 14A of the U.P. Land Revenue Act empowers an Additional Collector in such cases or class of cases as the Collector concerned may direct. Sub-section (4) then lays down that the U.P. Land Revenue Act and every other law for the time being applicable to a Collector shall apply to every Additional Collector, when exercising any powers or discharging any duties under Sub-section (3), as if he were the Collector of the district. This provision makes it absolutely clear that in cases, whether they pertain to U.P. Land Revenue Act or to any other law, assigned by the Collector to an Additional Collector, the Additional Collector is fully entitled to perform the functions of the Collector. Accordingly in cases assigned to him by the Collector, the Additional Collector is fully competent to exercise the functions of a Collector under Section 15A of the U.P. Bhoodan Yagna Act and it cannot be said that the Additional Collector lacks jurisdiction to pass an order cancelling the grant made in favour of the petitioners on ground that he was not the Collector of the districts.

35. We, having taken note of the provisions contained in 1901 Act and 1950 Act and in view of the discussions made earlier, endorse the similar view. Therefore, in Brij Kishore (supra) it has rightly been held that by virtue of Sub-section (4) of Section 14A of 1901 Act the Additional Collector when exercises power of Collector as directed by the Collector. Is Collector of the District for the purpose of all such Acts where the Bench with respect, while considering the validity of an order passed by the Additional Collector under Section 198(4) of 1950 Act, has only considered the provisions contained in Sub-section (3) of Section 14A of 1901 Act and it appears that their Lordships attention was not drawn to Sub-section (4) and, therefore, their Lordships proceeded as there was no order that the Additional Collector, Deoria was directed to exercise power. However, their Lordships, with respect, did not consider the effect of Sub-section (4) of Section 14A and, therefore, there is no discussion with respect to Sub-section (4) of Section 14A while interpreting the expression 'Collector' in the aforesaid case nor their Lordship's attention was drawn to the their judgment in the case of Brij Kishore (supra) and thus, with respect, in our view, the judgment in the case of Shiv Avtar (supra) is per incuriam and does not lay down the correct law and therefore, the law laid down in the case of Brij Kishore and Ors. v. Atrtkta Zila Adhikari and Ors. (supra) is the correct law.

(ii) Ajay Upadhayay (supra):-

8. According to Government Order No.1/1/76(2)(6)-Rajasva-7 dated 17-1-1976, all Assistant Collectors and In-charge of Tahsildars have been authorized to sanction auction and on this basis, it has been argued that S.D.O./ Dy. Collector, Sikandrpur, Ballia was authorised to set aside the sale, but we do not agree with the interpretation made by learned counsel for the respondents. In the case of Jagat Pal Singh v. State of U.P., 1994 ACJ 608, this Court has clearly held that in view of said Notification/ Government Order, the S.D.O./Dy. Collector concerned has been given power only to conduct sale and not to confirm or set aside sale. That power lies only with the Collector concerned and no one else.

12. On perusal of the above-extracted judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner, it is evident that whether Sub-divisional Officer had power to confirm the sale or not. It has been seen in the earlier part of this judgment that under Rule 285J of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules the Collector has to confirm the sale after expiry of the period of 30 days if the sale does not contravene the provisions of Section 154 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act. The power to confirm the sale vests with the Collector and not with the Sub Divisional Officer.

13. The Board of Revenue has delegated the power to the Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer on 17.11.1976 to perform the functions of the Collector which are performed by the Collector vide Revenue Board Notification No.1/1/76(3)6 dated 17.11.1976. Notification goes to show that the Sub Divisional Officer/ Assistant Collector has only been authorised by this Notification to conduct the auction proceedings under Section 286 of the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act subject to the condition that confirmation of sale shall be done by the Collector.

14. The power of the Collector, when he acts under Section 284 of the Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act has not been conferred upon the Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer by this notification. As seen in the earlier part of this judgment the sale in the present case has taken place under the provisions of Section 284 of the Act and not under Section 286. Therefore, this notification dated 17.11.1976 will not apply to the facts of the case.

15. Moreover, there is another ground on the basis of which it cannot be said that the Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer has been invested with the power to confirm the sale. The last sentence of the notification dated 17.11.1976 clearly goes to show that the power of conducting sale proceedings under Section 286 of the Act has been conferred upon the Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer with the condition that confirmation of sale shall be done by the Collector. It means that only a power to auction the property or conduct the sale has been given to the Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer and not a power to confirm the sale which has been given to the Collector under the provisions of Rule 285I of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules.

16. In the judgment in the case of Ajay Upadhayay (supra), a similar view was taken by the Division Bench of this Court.

17. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel relied upon judgment of Full Bench rendered in the case of Brahm Singh (supra) and submitted that once the Collector authorizes to Assistant Collector/ Sub Divisional Officer to confirm the sale, he can pass an order in this regard.

18. On perusal of the above-extracted judgment relied upon by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, it is crystal clear that authorization is must by the Collector to pass an appropriate order by the Assistant Collector.

In the present case, there is no material to establish that at any point of time, the Collector authorized to the Assistant Collector/ Sub-Divisional Officer to confirm the sale. Therefore, the judgment relied upon by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel is not applied to the present facts and circumstances of the case.

19. In regard to second objection that under provision of Rule 285(i) and Rule 285(k) of the Rules, in case no objection is filed within 30 days from the date of auction sale, there is no remedy available to the petitioner to approach before any Forum, I have perused the record as well as aforesaid provisions of Rules and on its perusal it is clear that the petitioner filed appeal against the order of S.D.O. along with delay condonation application. The Additional Commissioner passed the order rejecting claim set up by the petitioner without condoning the delay on merits. Meaning thereby, in approaching the Commissioner, delay was condoned and the order was passed on merits, although no formal order was passed on delay condonation application. Therefore, the impugned order passed by the Additional Commissioner is wholly without jurisdiction and is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

20. The judgment relied upon by learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has no where considered the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner.

21. Considering in totalities of facts and circumstances of the case and the reasons assigned above, this Court of the considered opinion that the S.D.O. has no power to confirm the sale. It is the Collector who is empowered to confirm the sale. The Additional Collector has no where considered in his order in regard to ground taken in paragraph 14 of the memo of appeal, especifically that the power to confirm the sale does not lie upon the S.D.O.

22. In the result, this writ petition succeeds and is hereby allowed. Order dated 10.5.2002 passed by the Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Lucknow Division, Lucknow is quashed.

23. However, the matter is remanded back to the Additional Commissioner to decide the jurisdiction of the S.D.O. that whether the order dated 23.03.2000 is within his jurisdiction or not.

24. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 3000077 of 1999

State of U.P. ...Petitioner
Versus
Addl. Commissioner Lucknow ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The case involved the agricultural land of late Shri Gaindan lal in Hardoi. While initial ceiling proceedings were dropped, fresh proceedings after his death led the Prescribed Authority to declare 4.8528 hectares as surplus.

Headnotes

Civil law-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act,1960-Section 4-A-Determination of irrigated land-Mandatory procedure-Necessity of examining Khasras for Fasli years 1378, 1379, 1380-Failure to summon or peruse original records vitiates the finding-Onus of Proof-Burden lies squarely on the State to establish the irrigated character of land once challenged by the tenure-holder-Remand order-Subordinate authorities and Prescribed Authorities are strictly bound by directions issued in remand-legal presumptions-No presumptions of correctness for disputed entries in the notice served under Section 10(2)-Jurisdiciton-Non-compliance with mandatory procedural requirements under section 4-A results in a lack of jurisdiction to declare land as surplus-Dismissed.(Para 12 to 19)

Held

The court ruled that the determination of "irrigated land" under the Act,1960 must strictly follow the mandatory procedure in Section 4-A. This requires the Prescribed Authority to examine khasras for Fasli years 1378, 1379,1380, village map and relevant records rather than relying on oral evidence. The onus of proof lies squarely on the State to establish the irrigated character of the land once a tenure-holder challenges the ceiling notice. Furthermore, subordinate authorities are legally bound to carry out the specific directions contained within a remand order. Findings at intermediate stages of litigation possess only provisional finality and do not prevent a higher court for examining the legal position. Since the Prescribed Authority failed to adhere to these statutory mandates and record-based inquiries, the resultant order was deemed vitiated in law. Consequently, the High court found no perversity in the appellate order setting aside the surplus declaration and dismissed the writ petition. (E-6)

CIVIL JURISDICTION: Writ C No. 3000077 of 1999

State of U.P. Through Collector Vs. Addl. Commissioner Lucknow

From the judgment and order dated 27.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Petitioner(s):-

Chief Standing Counsel,

Advs. for Respondent(s):-

Chief Standing Counsel, C.S.C, Pawan Kumar Maurya, Prabhakar Vardhan Chaudhary, Usman Siddiqui

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.G. Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the petitioner-State and Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri P.V. Chaudhary, learned counsel for the respondent.

2. Heard learned Standing Counsel appearing for the petitioner"State and learned counsel appearing for the respondents. The Court has also perused the original records, pleadings exchanged between the parties and the short notes of arguments filed on behalf of the respondents.

3. The present writ petition has been filed by the State, challenging the order dated 07.09.1998 passed by the learned Additional Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, whereby the appellate authority set aside the order of the Prescribed Authority dated 21.03.1998, passed under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960.

4. The facts giving rise to the present controversy, in brief, are that the original tenure holder late Shri Gaindan Lal held agricultural land measuring 13.9690 hectares in village Rampur Majhiyara, Pargana and Tehsil Bilgram, District Hardoi. Ceiling proceedings were initially initiated against him, however, the same were dropped as his holding did not exceed the prescribed ceiling limit. Shri Gaindan Lal expired on 21.10.1989, and thereafter the land came to be recorded in the name of his son, Vinod Kumar.

5. Subsequently, proceedings under the Ceiling Act were again initiated by issuance of notice under Section 10(2) of the Act. Vinod Kumar filed objections on 14.11.1994. The Prescribed Authority, after considering the objections, passed an order dated 30.12.1995, declaring 4.8528 hectares of land as surplus. The said order was challenged in appeal, which resulted in a remand order dated 29.03.1997, requiring the Prescribed Authority to reconsider the matter in the light of the holdings as existing on the relevant date i.e. 8.6.1973.

6. After remand, the Prescribed Authority passed an order dated 21.03.1998. Aggrieved thereby, an appeal was preferred, which came to be allowed by the learned Additional Commissioner by order dated 07.09.1998. The State has assailed the said appellate order by filing the present writ petition.

7. Learned Standing Counsel for the petitioner"State submitted that the appellate authority has committed a patent error of law in extending the benefit of Section 5(3)(b) of the Act by taking into consideration events which occurred after the relevant date of 8.6.1973. It was contended that on the relevant date the original tenure holder was alive and admittedly had a major son, and therefore, the statutory condition for grant of additional land under Section 5(3)(b) was not fulfilled. It was further urged that the impugned order is contrary to Rule 19(3) of the U.P. Ceiling Rules, 1961, as notice under Section 10(2) had been issued during the lifetime of the tenure holder, and thus the proceedings could not have been shifted to the heirs by taking into account subsequent death. It was also argued that the appellate authority exceeded the scope of the remand and re-determined issues which stood concluded.

8. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents sought to sustain the impugned order by contending that re-determination of land could be made only in cases where, due to passage of time, unirrigated land became irrigated or grove land lost its character. It was submitted that no spot inspection had been conducted by the Prescribed Authority, that relevant khasras of Fasli years 1378-80 had not been examined, and that the Prescribed Authority had failed to comply with the remand order dated 29.03.1997. It was also urged that on an earlier occasion the original tenure holder had not been found to possess surplus land and that, except for a negligible purchase by the mother, no further land had been acquired by the family. On the aforesaid premises, it was contended that re-determination was impermissible even under Sections 29 and 30 of the Act.

9. In support of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the respondents placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Ram Nagina Chaudhary v. State (1978 RD 280). Relevant paragraphs 5 to 8 are being quoted below :-

"5. In my opinion, the first contention raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner, is correct. It is not denied that the aforesaid remand order was not questioned by any of the parties in any higher forum. It cannot also be doubted that so far as the Prescribed Authority and the lower appellate court itself are concerned, the said order was binding on them. In the judgment of the Division Bench reported in Fritam Singh v. Asstt. Director of Consolidation, 1978 AWC 137 the implication and effect of a remand order have been considered and discussed. After a review of the case law, the Division Bench laid down certain propositions as emerging from such case law. The 7th proposition laid down in the said judgment is as follows:"

"So far as the court passing the remand order is concerned, it cannot question it at any subsequent stage and similarly the court below to whom the case has been remanded is bound to carry out the remand order and cannot allow it to be questioned. The remand order can be questioned only in a court higher than the court which passed the remand order."

6. It is not necessary to pause here to examine whether the Prescribed Authority is a court or not. Even if the officer acting as the Prescribed Authority be held to be not a presiding officer of a regular court, still, in view of Section 37 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, he undoubtedly has all the powers and privileges of a civil court and he has to follow the procedure laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 for the trial and disposal of suits relating to immovable property. Similarly, Section 38 vests in the appellate court all the powers and privileges of a civil court and enjoins that the procedure for the hearing and disposal of appeals laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 should be followed. It seems to me that the aforementioned 7th proposition laid down by the Division Bench would be applicable to a remand order passed by an appellate authority under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act also. In this view of the matter, I have reached the conclusion that it was not open to the Prescribed Authority to act contrary to the directions given in the remand order passed by the lower appellate court and the Prescribed Authority was indeed bound to carry out the said directions. The lower appellate court in its remand order had, inter alia, observed"

"Plots of khata no. 181 of village Sisotar and 621 of village Sisotar measuring 17.46 acres were recorded under the orders of the S.D.O. of Bansdih dated 7-9-1968 as tenure not only of the appellant but also of five other persons. The Prescribed Authority treated the entire area as belonging to the appellant himself. This was wrong. The Prescribed Authority should have made enquiries to find out as to what was the share of the appellant in those plots. The learned counsel for the appellant tells me that the appellant did not own the entire area and that the appellant's share should prima facie be not more than 1/6. I think that the case should go back to the Prescribed Authority for fresh decision after enquiry in this respect."

7. In the operative part of the remand order the lower appellate court directed as under:"

"I, therefore, allow this appeal, set aside the impugned order and remand the case to the Prescribed Authority for fresh decision after allowing the parties reasonable opportunity of being heard and in the light of the observations made above."

8. In view of the said position, it was not open to the Prescribed Authority to hold that the petitioner alone was the exclusive holder of the entire 17.46 acres of Khatas nos. 181 and 621. When no evidence was forthcoming in respect of the respective shares of the recorded tenure-holders, the ordinary presumption would be that all the six co-tenure-holders had equal share in the said khatas and the Prescribed Authority should have proceeded on the said base. Therefore, the order of the Prescribed Authority and the subsequent order of the lower appellate court affirming the decision of the Prescribed Authority must be held to be illegal and the mistakes are apparent on the face of the record."

(ii) Jasraj Indersingh v. Hemraj Multanchand (AIR 1977 SC 1011). Relevant paragraph 14 is being quoted below :-

"14. Be that as it may, in an appeal against the High Court's finding, the Supreme Court is not bound by what the High Court might have held in its remand order. It is true that a subordinate court is bound by the direction of the High Court. It is equally true that the same High Court, hearing the matter on a second occasion or any other court of coordinate authority hearing the matter cannot discard the earlier holding, but a finding in a remand order cannot bind a higher court when it comes up in appeal before it. This is the correct view of the law, although Shri Phadke controverted it, without reliance on any authority. Nor did Shri S.T. Desai, who asserted this proposition, which we regard as correct, cite any precedent of this Court in support. However, it transpires that in Lonankutty [Lonankutty v. Thomman, (1976) 3 SCC 528] this proposition has been affirmed. Viewed simplistically, the remand order by the High Court is a finding in an intermediate stage of the same litigation. When it came to the trial court and escalated to the High Court, it remained the same litigation. The appeal before the Supreme Court is from the suit as a whole and, therefore, the entire subject-matter is available for adjudication before us. If, on any other principle of finality statutorily conferred or on account of res judicata attracted by a decision in an allied litigation the matter is concluded, we too are bound in the Supreme Court. Otherwise, the whole lis for the first time comes to this Court and the High Court's finding at an intermediate stage does not prevent examination of the position of law by this Court. Intermediate stages of the litigation and orders passed at those stages have a provisional finality. After discussing various aspects of the matter, Chandrachud, J. speaking for the Court in Lonankutty [Lonankutty v. Thomman, (1976) 3 SCC 528] observed: "The circumstance that the remaining judgment of the High Court was not appealed against, assuming that an appeal lay therefrom, cannot preclude the appellant from challenging the correctness of the view taken by the High Court in that judgment." The contention barred before the High Court is still available to be canvassed before this Court when it seeks to pronounce finally on the entirety of the suit."

(iii) Balaswaraswami Varu v. Millidi Dorayya (AIR 1972 AP 250 DB). Relevant paragraphs 5, 9 and 12 are being quoted below :-

"5. The learned Judge overruled the plea that the Tribunal and Asst. Settlement officer acted in excess of jurisdiction. He confirmed the Tribunal's view that the land in question is "Communal waste land" and rejected the writ petitions.

9. The Assistant Settlement Officer held in the first instance on 30-5-1958 that the tenants were ryots within the meaning of Sec. II of the Estates Abolition Act and directed the issue of a patta accordingly. This decision was questioned on appeal not by the Government but only by the deities. The tribunal that decided the appeal set aside the finding and directed a fresh enquiry. So far as the Government was concerned there was no challenge of the finding that the land was ryoti. In view of this position, it is contended by counsel for the appellants that the Government is precluded from asserting after the remand that the land is of such a nature that it vests in Government absolutely and no ryotwari patta is capable of being granted to any party. The scope of the remand is very limited. The function of the settlement officer is to determine in terms of the order of remand, whether the deities or the tenants are to be the grantees of the patta. There is no warrant for reopening the settled issue that a patta could be granted. This position was not canvassed in the counter affidavit of the Collector filed on behalf of the respondent.

12. The position therefore is that one of the two rival claimants is entitled to the issue of ryotwari patta. The tribunal, it is manifest did not consider that question. Nor did the Asst-Settlement officer approach the question in the true perspective. He exceeded the limit of his jurisdiction which was to conform to the limits of the orders of remand."

(iv) Mohammad Miyan v. State [2001 (3) AWC 2359). Relevant paragraphs 9 to 13 are being quoted below :-

"9. A reading of the aforesaid statutory provisions clearly reveals that all proceedings under sub-sections (3) to (7) of Section 14 of the principal Act, as it stood immediately before the commencement of this Ordinance pending before any Court or authority immediately before the date of such commencement shall abate. A reading of sub-section (2) of Section 27 further reveals that where any order is passed by the competent authority under the principal Act before January 17, 1975 determining the surplus land in relation to a tenure holder and the Prescribed Authority is required to redetermine the surplus land under Section 9 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1974 (U.P. Act II of 1975), then notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2) of Section 19 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holding (Amendment) Act, 1972, every appeal under Section 13 of the principal Act or other proceedings in relation to such appeal, preferred against the said order on or after January 17, 1975, and pending immediately before the date of commencement of this Ordinance shall abate.

10. In the present case, as stated above, the proceedings were initiated in the year 1974, the surplus land was determined under the principal Act. The appeal was partly allowed on 30-7-1980, therefore, the provisions of sub-section (2) of Section 27 have got full application to the facts of the present case. The proceedings before the appellate authority after amending the Act came into force were liable to abate. The appellate authority acted illegally in proceeding with the appeal and declaring 7 bigha 7 baswa 10 biswansi land of the petitioner as surplus land and in asking the petitioner to give his choice.

11. The order passed by the appellate authority is, thus, liable to be quashed.

12. In view of the provision of sub-section (3) of Section 27 of the Act, after abatement, the Prescribed Authority is legally entitled to redetermine the surplus land in accordance with the amended Act. Therefore, in view of sub-section (3) of the Section 27, it will be open to the Prescribed Authority to redetermine the ceiling limit of the petitioner and to declare his land as surplus land, if any, in accordance with law and after following the procedure prescribed for the same.

13. Subject to what has been stated above, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The order dated 20-11-1974 passed by the Prescribed Authority and that of appellate authority dated 30-7-1980 are hereby quashed. So far as the claim of respondent Nos. 4 and 5 is concerned, they will be at liberty to participate in the proceedings before the Prescribed Authority and to show that the land held by them was not liable to be declared as surplus land."

(v) Jaswant Singh v. State of U.P. (1979 All LJ 25). Relevant paragraphs 6 and 16 are being quoted below :-

"6. The term "irrigated land has been defined in Sec. 3(11) of the Act which reads as follows:

"Irrigated land" means land determined as such in the manner laid down in Section 4-A.

In view of the definition of the term "irrigated land" contained in Sec. 3(11) of the Act, it is obvious that the Prescribed Authority can only act in accordance with the procedure contained in Sec. 4-A of the Act in order to determine the same. It is not open to the Prescribed Authority to adopt a procedure inconsistent with the provisions of Sec. 4-A of the Act in order to find out "irrigated land." The relevant part of Sec. 4-A reads as follows:

"The Prescribed Authority shall examine the relevant khasras for the years 1378 fasli, 1379 fasli and 1380 fasli, the latest village map and such other records as it may consider necessary, and may also make local inspection where it considers necessary, and thereupon if the Prescribed Authority is of opinion:

Firstly (a) that, irrigation facility was available for any land in respect of any crop in any one of the aforesaid years; by (i) any canal included in Schedule No. 1 of irrigation rates notified in notification no. 1579-W-XXIII-62-W-1946, dated March 31, 1953, as amended from time to time or;

(ii) any lift irrigation canal; or

(iii) any State tube-well or a private irrigation work; and

(b) that at least two crops were grown in such land in any one of the aforesaid years; or

Secondly, that irrigation facility became available to any land by a State irrigation work coming into operation subsequent to the enforcement of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972, and at least two crops were grown in such land in any agricultural year between the date of such work coming into operation and the date of issue of notice under Sec. 10; or

Thirdly (a) that any land is situated within the effective command area of a lift irrigation canal of a State tube-well or a private irrigation work; and

(b) that the class and composition of its soil is such that it is ??? growing at least two crops in an agricultural year; then the ??? Authority shall determine such land to be irrigated land for the purpose of this Act"""""

A perusal of the above would show that Sec. 4-A makes it obligatory on the Prescribed Authority, to examine khasras for the years are 1378, 1379 and 1380 Faslis. It further makes it obligatory for the Prescribed Authority also to examine the latest village map. It then confers a discretion on the Prescribed Authority to examine such other records as it may consider necessary and also to make local inspection, if that too be necessary. The section then proceeds to say that thereafter, if the Prescribed Authoriiy be of opinion, as mentioned in sub-sections Firstly, Secondly and Thirdly, he shall determine the land to be "irrigated land." The word "thereupon" occurring in Sec. 4-A of the Act, to our mind, is meaningful. According to Webster's New International Dictionary, the word "thereupon" means "as a result of some specified things." Reading the word "thereupon" occurring in Sec. 4-A in that manner, the mandate contained in Sec. 4-A appears to be that the opinion specified in sub-sections Firstly, Secondly and Thirdly of Sec. 4-A has to be formed by the Prescribed Authority upon the khasra for the years 1378, 1379 and 1380 faslis, upon the village map, upon such other records as it may consider necessary and upon local inspection, if the Prescribed Authority considers it necessary to make one. There are no words in Sec. 4-A to justify anything other than that specified therein to be made use of by the Prescribed Authority for the formation of opinion on the points specified in sub-sections Firstly, Secondly and Thirdly thereof. The legislature thought it fit to confine the scope of enquiry to the examination of documents and local inspection presumably because almost everything that is mentioned in various sub-sections of Sec. 4-A was capable of being ascertained on the basis thereof and, indeed, where any fact can be ascertained on the basis of documents, oral evidence can serve no useful purpose.

16. For all the reasons stated above, we find ourselves in agreement with the view expressed by Hon'ble R.M. Sahai, J. in Ghasiram v. State (supra), and we hold that it is not permissible for a Prescribed Authority to make use of any oral evidence in the course of an enquiry under section 4-A of the Act."

(vi) Ram Sagar v. Civil Judge Bahraich (1985 All LJ 125). Relevant paragraphs 4, 5 and 7 are being quoted below :-

"4. I have carefully considered the arguments of the learned counsel for the parties and I find much substance in the arguments of the learned counsel for the petitioner. It is well settled that while computing the irrigated area, the Prescribed Authority has to consider Khasra and relevant revenue records in order to find out other irrigation facilities were available to any land in respect of any crop in 1378F, to 1379 and 1380F. by any canal, or any State tube well or by a private irrigation work and also to find out whether two crops were grown over such land in any of the aforesaid years, see Roshan Singh v. State of U.P., 1978 All LJ 1376.

5. It is also equally well settled that the onus lies on the State to establish that the land which is mentioned in the notice is irrigated land when a challenge is made by the tenure-holder while filing objection. State Government is a party to every proceedings under Section 10(2) of the Act. In such a case there is an adversary proceedings before the Prescribed Authority between the tenure-holder and the Government. It has been held in Roshan Singh's case (supra) that in such a case what comes out is that the Government assumes the role of plaintiff and the tenure-holder that of the defendant. On the basis of the statement prepared under Section 10 and the objection filed by the tenure-holder-petitioner thereto, the Prescribed Authority strikes the issue and decides the case. When it is disputed by a tenure-holder in the objection filed against a notice that any particular plot is unirrigated and that the same has been wrongly treated as irrigated land, the onus lies squarely on the State to establish that any land treated as irrigated land in the notice actually bears that character. It is not for the tenure-holder to establish in negative that the land is unirrigated and that it has been wrongly treated to be irrigated land in the notice. It is incumbent upon the Prescribed Authority to examine the relevant Khasras for the years 1378, 1379 and 1380 Fs. in order to ascertain the nature and character of the land in question. This question cropped up for consideration before the Full Bench of this Court in "Hareshwar Dayal Seth v. Second Addl. Distt. Judge decided on 27-7-1981 in writ petn. No. 767 of 1977. Reported in 1982 All CJ 207, wherein it was held that the Prescribed Authority has to summon and examine the aforesaid relevant Khasras. Thus the onus does not lie on the tenure-holder to establish that the land which has been treated to be irrigated in the notice does not bear that character because there is no presumption as to the correctness or validity of the entries which are disputed or challenged.*

7. Although the lower appellate court has observed that the Prescribed Authority has wrongly decided the issue and the manner in which the issue was approached and dealt with is incorrect, but in spite of this finding he has quite apparently erred in repelling the contention of the petitioner. As already observed above it was incumbent upon the Prescribed Authority to have summoned and perused the relevant Khasras for the years 1378, 1379 and 1380F. While recording a finding as to whether plot No. 210 is irrigated or unirrigated. The Prescribed Authority has not mentioned that the aforesaid Khasras were perused by him while deciding the said issue. When the extracts of the Khasras were not on record it is difficult to hold that the prescribed authority should have looked to the entries in the said relevant Khasras, and, as such, no presumption could be drawn in the matter that he had perused those Khasras referred to in Section 4-A of the Act. The onus lay on the State to establish that the plot in question was rightly treated as irrigated land in the notice served on the tenure-holder and, as such, either the extracts of the aforesaid relevant Khasras should have been filed by it or the original record should have been summoned and perused by the Prescribed Authority itself."

(vii) State of U.P. Vs. Mukh Ram Singh (1991 RD 312). Relevant paragraphs 5 and 6 are being quoted below :-

"5. It will be clear from a perusal of the abovementioned provisions that before a land may be held to be an irrigated land, it is the duty of the Prescribed Authority to examine the relevant khasras for the years 1378 Fasli to 1380 Fasli, the latest village map and such other records as may be considered necessary. Then he may also make local inspection where it is considered necessary. After that, the prescribed Authority has to record a finding whether the land is situated within the effective command area of a lift irrigation canal of a State Tube-well or a private irrigation work and also whether the class and composition of its soil is such that it is capable of growing at least two crops in an agricultural year. If the prescribed procedure has not been followed and no such findings are recorded then the Prescribed Authority will have no jurisdiction to determine the land to be an irrigated land for the purposes of the Act.

6. In the present case, it has been observed by the Prescribed Authority in his judgment that he did not examine the khasras for 1378 to 1380 Fasli because they were not produced by the party concerned. He has mentioned that there are private tube wells near the disputed plot and only on this basis he had recorded the finding that the said plot is an irrigated land. It was open to the Prescribed Authority to ask for the Khasras from his own records and examine the same, and not only the khasras but also the village map and other necessary records. He has not specifically recorded the finding that the class and composition of soil is such that it is capable of growing at least two crops in an agricultural year. Therefore simply because there are two tube wells near the disputed plot, it cannot be held in view of Section 4-A, and clause thirdly of that Section, that it is an irrigated plot. Moreover the finding recorded by the learned Additional District Judge is a finding of fact based on appreciation of evidence including entires in Khasra 1380 Fasli and there is no justification to interfere with the said finding, in the writ petition. It may be incidently mentioned that the learned counsel for the opposite parties has also referred to the case reported in 1979 AWC 9Dhirendra Mohan Chaudhary v. IInd Additional District Judge, Bareilly, in which it has been held that in order that a land may be termed as irrigated one, it is necessary that the land must be irrigated from the canal or any lift irrigation canal or any State Tube well or a private irrigation work and that even if the land is irrigated by boring Tube-well, it cannot be said that the irrigation work was done from a private irrigation work and it cannot be termed as irrigated land."

(viii) Nathoo Singh v. State of U.P. (1979 All LJ 354). Relevant paragraph 2 is being quoted below :-

"The first contention is that plot No. 230/2 measuring four bighas, has been wrongly held to be irrigated. It appears from the judgment of the Additional District Judge, acting as the appellate authority under the Act, that no Khasras were prepared for 1378F, 1379F, and 1380F due to consolidation operations. Rule 3 provides that in such cases, Khasras for earlier years could be examined by the prescribed authority. The Additional District Judge has held that the tenure-holder having failed to produce the khasras for the preceding years, it should be presumed against him that the land was irrigated. This view is contrary to that taken by the Division Bench in Jaswant Singh v. State (1978 All WC 577): (1979 All LJ 25). According to their Lordships, it is for the prescribed authority to examine the Khasras entries for 1378F. to 1380F. if available and the latest village map, and it is also open to the Prescribed Authority to examine other records (which would include khasras for the preceding years) and to make a local inspection. The finding about irrigation has to be given on the basis of the evidence referred to in S. 4-A and it is for the Prescribed Authority to comply with the requirements of this section. The finding based on non-production of the relevant records cannot, therefore, be sustained."

10. After having heard the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record as well as the judgments relied upon by the respondents.

11. The primary contention advanced on behalf of the petitioner- State is that the appellate authority committed an error in extending the benefit of Section 5(3)(b) of the Act by taking into account events subsequent to the relevant date. However, upon a closer scrutiny of the impugned appellate order, this Court finds that the appellate authority has not acted in contravention of the statutory scheme.

12. The judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the respondents clearly emphasize the binding nature of remand orders and the obligation of subordinate authorities to act strictly within their confines. In Ram Nagina Chaudhary v. State, it has been categorically held that the authority to whom the matter is remanded cannot act contrary to the directions contained therein. In the present case, the appellate authority rightly noticed the deficiencies in the approach adopted by the Prescribed Authority while reconsidering the matter after remand.

13. Further, the reliance placed upon the principles laid down in Jasraj Indersingh v. Hemraj Multanchand fortifies the position that findings at intermediate stages of litigation possess only provisional finality. The appellate authority was therefore well within its jurisdiction to examine whether the Prescribed Authority had complied with the remand directions in their true spirit.

14. The respondents have consistently asserted that the Prescribed Authority failed to undertake the mandatory exercise contemplated under the Act and Rules, particularly with regard to examination of relevant khasras and revenue records. The judgments cited, including Jaswant Singh v. State of U.P., Ram Sagar v. Civil Judge Bahraich, and State of U.P. Vs. Mukh Ram Singh, unequivocally lay down that determination of irrigated land must strictly conform to the procedure prescribed under Section 4-A of the Act.

15. From the record, this Court finds substance in the submission of learned counsel for the respondents that the Prescribed Authority did not adhere to the statutory mandate in its proper perspective. The appellate authority, while passing the impugned order, has taken into account these material irregularities.

16. It is well settled that where an authority fails to comply with mandatory procedural requirements, the resultant order stands vitiated in law. The appellate authority, therefore, cannot be said to have committed any jurisdictional error warranting interference by this Court.

17. The scope of interference under Article 226 of the Constitution is limited. This Court does not sit in appeal over findings of fact recorded by the competent appellate authority unless the same are shown to be perverse or manifestly illegal. No such infirmity has been demonstrated by the petitioner-State.

18. In view of the settled legal principles emerging from the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the respondents, this Court finds no illegality or perversity in the impugned appellate order dated 07.09.1998.

19. The writ petition, being devoid of merit, is accordingly dismissed.

20. No order as to costs.

Writ C No. 3000084 of 1993

Himanshu Dhar Singh ...Petitioner

State of U.P. ...Respondent

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the two impugned orders passed by the Ceiling Authorities can be said to be without jurisdiction in light of the transitory provisions introduced by the U.P. Amending Act No. 18 of 1973 and U.P. Amending Act No. 20 of 1976 and Whether the impugned orders passed by the Ceiling Authorities are otherwise erroneous in law.

U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 – U.P. Amending Act No.18 of 1973 – U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976 – ss.9(2), 10(2), 19, 31, 38-B – Re-determination of surplus land – Transitory provisions

The petitioner contended that since the determination of surplus land had been finally concluded on 24.07.1964 and that order was not challenged by the State Authorities, there could have been no re-determination of surplus land against the petitioner, especially when there was no addition to the land held by him – It was further contended that the findings of the ceiling authorities had attained finality on 24.07.1964 and would operate as res judicata, and therefore the authorities were not justified in re-agitating the same issue in the fresh proceedings initiated by notice dated 15.05.1976 – The impact of the amendments, particularly the transitory provisions, was that where final determination had already been made before the commencement of the Amending Act, the proceedings were to be continued and concluded in accordance with the Principal Act – Thus, it was contended that since final determination had already been made by order dated 24.07.1964, even the subsequent proceedings pursuant to notice dated 15.05.1976 were required to be governed by the Principal Act by virtue of Section 19(2) of the Amending Act – It was urged that this aspect had not been considered by the authorities, thereby vitiating the impugned orders.

Held: By the two Amending Acts, i.e. U.P. Amending Act No.18 of 1973 and U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976, there was a complete change in the scheme of the Act and the amended provisions were made applicable retrospectively – The Amending Act of 1976 came into force w.e.f. 10.10.1975 and required the Authorities to re-determine the surplus land within two years therefrom – It was in furtherance thereof that a fresh notice was issued to the petitioner on 15.05.1976 after the Amending Act had come into force – It is not a case where any pending proceedings had abated in light of the transitory provisions; rather, it is a case of fresh determination made in pursuance of the notice issued under Section 10(2) post the U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976 – Section 38-B, inserted by the Amending Act, provides that any finding or decision given before commencement shall not operate as a bar for retrial of such proceeding or issue in accordance with the Act as amended from time to time – Taking a holistic view of the Act of 1960 along with the amendments of 1973 and 1976, a composite scheme has been brought into play by the Legislature – The amended provisions were made applicable retrospectively w.e.f. 10.10.1975 and were insulated from challenge – The transitory provisions under Section 19 are confined to proceedings referable to Section 14 and Chapter III and IV and have no bearing on determination of surplus land - The Court held that the orders passed by the two Ceiling Authorities cannot be said to be bad for want of jurisdiction or as being contrary to the dictum of the Apex Court in Devendra Nath and Arvind Kumar – The Court further held that the petitioner was attempting to indirectly assail proceedings which had already attained finality by raising issues of transitory provisions which had no role to play – Accordingly, the judgment and order dated 27.06.1986 passed by the Prescribed Authority and the judgment dated 11.06.1993 passed by the Appellate Authority were confirmed. CASE ARISING FROM rom judgment dated 27.06.1986 of Prescribed Authority and order dated 11.06.1993 of Appellate Authority

Advs For Petitioner: D.C. Mukherjee, Amit Mukerjee, Ananttika Singh, Gopesh Tripathi, Sarvesh Kumar Dubey

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C., Alok Kumar Mishra.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. By means of the instant writ petition, the petitioner assails the impugned judgment and order dated 27.06.1986, passed by the Prescribed Authority under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 1960', in short), which has been affirmed in Appeal by the Appellate Authority vide its judgment dated 11.06.1993.

2. Though, this is the first writ petition filed by the petitioner, however, the orders impugned herein, have been passed in the fourth round of litigation between the petitioner and the State Authorities.

3. In this view of the matter, it will be appropriate at this stage to briefly take a glance as to how the dispute between the parties have unfolded. For the sake of convenience, the Court has referred to the parties as they were originally impleaded at the time of filing of the writ petition.

4. With the advent of the Act of 1960, a notice was issued to the petitioner, namely, Himanshu Dhar Singh, under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960 on 28.07.1962. The petitioner filed his objections to the said notice and the Prescribed Authority after considering the same discharged the notice under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960, by means of its order dated 24.07.1964. Significantly, this order was not assailed by the State Authorities and with this order the first round of litigation came to an end.

5. A fresh litigation emerged when the State Authorities issued a fresh notice on 15.06.1976, under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960. This notice was again contested by the petitioner on the ground that the land which was recorded in the name of his wife and adult sons and daughters were clubbed with the land of the petitioner, which was legally not permissible, as the adult sons and daughters were holding the land in their own individual rights in terms of a decree passed in a civil suit decided by the District Judge, Raebareli on 28.08.1954.

6. This issue was considered by the Prescribed Authority, who by means of its order dated 15.11.1978 excluded the land held by the sons and daughters of the petitioner but continued to keep the land of the petitioner's wife, clubbed with that of the petitioner.

7. This order of the Prescribed Authority dated 15.11.1978 was assailed by the petitioner in an appeal under Section 13 of the Act of 1960, which was registered as Appeal No.16/1978. In the appeal, the petitioner agitated his ground that the land belonging to his wife, in her individual capacity, could not be clubbed with the land of the petitioner. It was also urged that the Prescribed Authority has failed to consider that the son of the petitioner was a co-tenant and erroneously held him not to be a co-tenant. Another ground raised was that the petitioner could not exercise his choice in terms of Section 12-A of the Act of 1960 regarding the land he desired to retain with himself.

8. This Appeal No.16/1978 was decided by the Appellate Authority on 20.03.1979 and the matter was remanded with the observations to re-determine the surplus land after determining the land whether it was irrigated or non-irrigated and also permitted the petitioner to furnish his choice which was directed to be considered by the Prescribed Authority. With this judgment of the Appellate Authority dated 20.03.1979, the second round of litigation came to an end.

9. After remand, vide order dated 20.03.1979 as aforesaid, the third round of litigation commenced and the Prescribed Authority vide its judgment dated 23.04.1982 dismissed the objections of the petitioner and held that the petitioner had given a vague statement relating to the land in village Dadu Tikari and Salon to be retained and the rest may be considered for the purposes of determination of surplus land. The Prescribed Authority found that the said choice had not been made at all, by the petitioner, as it was vague and as far as the claim relating to the land of his wife to be separated was concerned, it did not find favour with the Prescribed Authority.

10. This order of the Prescribed Authority dated 23.04.1982 was again assailed in appeal by the petitioner before the Appellate Authority which was registered as Appeal No.3/1982.

11. The Appellate Authority once again considering the three issues raised before him noticed that the Prescribed Authority had not considered the Plots bearing No.353, 432, 433, 498 and 503 of Village Dadu Tikari as non-irrigated which was required to be done in terms of the earlier order of remand dated 20.03.1979 passed in Appeal No.16/1978, hence, the matter required a remand again.

12. The Appellate Authority further found that the plea taken by the petitioner that he was entitled to have additional 2 hectares of land on account of his major son Akhileshwari Pratap Singh could not be raised as the said plea had already been turned down in the Rent Appeal No.16/1978 and the said findings at that point of time had not been assailed any further coupled with the fact that the Rent Appeal No.16/1978 was allowed only for a limited purpose of permitting the petitioner to furnish his choice and re-determination of surplus land treating the land of plots number (as mentioned aforesaid) as non-irrigated land.

13. The Appellate Authority also considered that even though the petitioner had given a vague statement regarding his choice but since the matter was being remanded, accordingly, another opportunity was granted to the petitioner to furnish his choice regarding the land he wanted to retain and by passing this order dated 16.09.1983, it allowed the Appeal No.3/1982 and remitted the matter to the Prescribed Authority for a limited purpose and this brought to an end, the third round of litigation.

14. Once again the matter was before the Prescribed Authority, who taking note of the directions of the Appellate Authority passed a fresh order dated 27.06.1986 wherein 7.3 hectares of land was permitted to be retained, rest was declared surplus and it also noticed that despite specific liberty having been granted by the Appellate Authority, yet the petitioner did not give any clear choice rather a fresh plea was raised that there were proceedings pending under Section 161 of the U.P. Z.A. & L.R. Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act of 1950', in short) relating to exchange of land and the land which was proposed to be exchanged, as put forward by the daughters of the petitioner, may be the land which may be retained by the petitioner and it may be treated to be his choice. This did not find favour with the Prescribed Authority noticing that the proceedings under Section 161 of the Act of 1950 were different and they had no bearing on the proceedings under the Act of 1960, hence, by means of the judgment dated 27.06.1986, the contention was turned down.

15. Once again in this fourth round of litigation, the petitioner filed an appeal bearing Appeal No.25/85-86 and this appeal also came to be dismissed by means of the order dated 11.06.1993 whereby the findings of the Prescribed Authority dated 27.06.1986 were affirmed. By this appellate order, the fourth round of litigation before the Ceiling Authorities came to an end. At this stage for the first time the two orders dated 27.06.1986 passed by the Prescribed Authority and the judgment and order dated 11.06.1993 passed by the Appellate Authority were challenged in the instant writ petition.

16. It may also be noticed that the instant writ petition was filed on 27.10.1993 and while entertaining the petition, the operation of the orders passed by the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Authority were stayed with a further observation that the possession of the petitioner shall not be disturbed. However, after almost two decades, an application for amendment was moved by the petitioner incorporating new grounds and certain new facts. This application for amendment of the writ petition was allowed by a Coordinate Bench of this Court, by means of the order dated 25.05.2023.

17. It is in the aforesaid backdrop that the parties have advanced their submissions based on the amended writ petition. It will also be relevant to notice that during pendency of the writ petition, the original petitioner expired and his son, namely, Akhileshwari Pratap Singh, on the basis of a Will executed by his father, was substituted in his place.

18. Shri Vivek Raj Singh, learned Senior Counsel ably assisted by Shri Shantanu Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that originally the petitioner was served with a notice in the year 1962 which was contested by the original-petitioner and considering the law as it existed at that point of time, the Prescribed Authority vide its judgment and order dated 24.07.1964 discharged the notice.

19. It was urged that again on 15.05.1976 another notice was issued to the petitioner proposing to declare 91.48 hectares of land as surplus land under the Act of 1960. It was contended by the learned Senior Counsel that once by means of the order dated 24.07.1964, the notice under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960 had been discharged, it was now not open for the State Authorities to have re-initiated the proceedings. Even if at all, the said proceedings were to be initiated, but then it had to be considered in accordance with the Principal Act, as it stood prior to the amendments brought in the Act, in the year 1973 and 1976 respectively.

20. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner while elaborating his submissions specifically pointed out that the Principal Act of 1960 was drastically amended vide U.P. Amending Act No.18 of 1973, whereby major changes were brought in the definition clause and more specifically in respect of the word 'family' (which is relevant for the instant petition) and also that the ceiling limit had been drastically reduced from 40 acres to 7.3 hectares. It was also pointed out that Section 29 was introduced in the Act of 1960 for the first time by the aforesaid Amending Act and it also brought in a transitory provision in shape of Section 19. The impact of the aforesaid amendment and more particularly the transitory provision brought in would be that in case if any final determination of surplus land had been made in respect of any tenure holder before the commencement of the Amending Act then it was to be continued and concluded in accordance with the provisions of the Principal Act. It was thus contended that as in the instant case, since, the final determination had already been done in terms of the order dated 24.07.1964 then even in context with the subsequent notice dated 15.05.1976, the proceedings were to be concluded in terms of the Principal Act giving the benefit of the transitory provision as provided under Section 19(2) of the Amending Act and this aspect of the matter has not been considered by either of the Authorities, which has vitiated the two judgments under challenge before this Court.

21. Learned Senior counsel for the petitioner has further raised his submission, one notch up, by urging that since the determination of surplus land had been finally concluded on 24.07.1964 and that order was not challenged by the State Authorities, hence, there could have been no re-determination of surplus land against the petitioner especially when there was no addition to the land held by the petitioner. It was also submitted that only contingency in which such further determination could be made, would be in a situation, where the provisions of Section 29 of the Act of 1960 were attracted and as already stated that there was no addition to the land in the hands of the petitioner, hence, the said Section did not empower the Authority to re-determine the land and as such the impugned orders have been passed by the authorities which are without jurisdiction and cannot be sustained in law.

22. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner further urged that by the amendments introduced to the Principal Act in the year 1976, Section 38-B was inserted in the Act. It was to be read with the transitory provision i.e. Section 31(3). It was urged that since there was no addition or change in the circumstances nor any land was added either by purchase, succession or by prescription that is to say by adverse possession, hence, the petitioner was covered by the transitory provision and the provisions of the Principal Act of 1960 would be applicable.

23. Taking his submissions forward, learned Senior Counsel urged that the provisions of Section 38-B were interpreted by the Apex Court in Devendra Nath Singh v. Civil Judge, Basti and another, 1999 (1) SCC 71 and as per the learned Senior Counsel, the Apex Court held that any finding or decision which was given by any forum prior to the commencement of the Section in respect of a matter governed by the Ceiling Act, then it would operate as res judicata provided the findings given in the ceiling proceedings had not attained finality.

24. It is urged that applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the instant case, it would be clear that the findings of the ceiling authorities in the instant case had attained finality on 24.07.1964, hence, they would operate as res judicata and the ceiling authorities were not justified in re-agitating the same issue in the fresh round of litigation commenced on issuance of the notice dated 15.05.1976.

25. Learned Senior Counsel further submitted that the transitory provision as introduced in the Amending Act of 1976 and Section 38-B should be construed in a harmonious manner so that it achieves its purpose and can be taken to a logical conclusion. In case if the Section 31(3) i.e. transitory provision is construed in a narrow manner then it would result in complete chaos as that would permit the ceiling authorities to unsettle everything, at their discretion, to the detriment of the tenure holders moreso when the matters may have been settled finally under the Ceiling Act.

26. It is urged that with the aforesaid object, the provisions of the Amending Act of 1976 may be read down to make it prospective in operation, as permitting it to have a retrospective operation, would lead to the said provisions being declared unconstitutional.

27. It was also urged that a right which is vested in a party cannot be divested by making a provision operational, retrospectively. It has been submitted that since the issues involved are purely legal, hence, they can be considered by this Court in this writ petition even though it may not have been cogently raised before the Ceiling Authorities. Since, the impugned orders are per-se, bad in the eyes of law, in light of the aforesaid submissions, hence, they are liable to be quashed and set aside.

28. Learned Senior Counsel in support of his submissions has relied upon the following decisions:-

(a) Devendra Nath Singh v. Civil Judge, Basti and others, (1999) 1 SCC 71;

(b) Arvind Kumar v. State of U.P. and others, (2016) 9 SCC 221;

(c) Ram Kali Devi v. State of U.P. and others, 2023 SCC OnLine All 3483;

(d) Kamla Kant and another v. Third Additional District Judge, 2013 SCC OnLine All 2228.

29. Shri Hemant Kumar Pandey along with Shri L.M. Khare, learned standing counsel for the State-respondents has vehemently controverted the submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner.

30. It was urged that the entire arguments advanced by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner are fallacious. It was pointed out that first and foremost the transitory provision of Section 19(2) of the Amending Act No.18 of 1973 is not applicable in the instant case. Hence, the said provisions cannot come to the aid of the petitioner.

31. Elaborating his submissions, Shri Pandey has urged that on a bare perusal of Section 19 of the Amending Act No.18 of 1973, it would reveal that it specifically holds that it would be applicable only in respect of the proceedings which were pending at the time of enforcement of the Act of 1960. It further reveals that all the proceedings which at the time of enforcement whether under Sections 9, 10, 11, 12, 13 or 30 of the Principal Act, if pending would stand abated. The Prescribed Authority is required to initiate fresh proceedings for determination of ceiling area under the provisions of the Amended Act by issuing notice under Section 9(2) of the Act. This fresh determination of the surplus land is to be made in accordance with the provisions of the Act of 1960 as amended by the Amending Act No.18 of 1973.

32. Shri Pandey has further pointed out that by introducing the Amending Act No.18 of 1973, the Principal Act was radically amended and the same came into effect on 08.06.1973. The provision as introduced by the Amending Act No.18 of 1973 received the Presidential Assent. Earlier under the Principal Act, there was a concept of ceiling limit of 40 acres of fair quality land with addition of 8 acres for each family member exceeding 5 subject to a maximum of 24 acres. However, with the introduction of Amending Act No.18 of 1973 which came into force on 08.06.1973. The Act required the surplus land to be determined by taking into consideration irritated land. The ceiling limit was reduced from 40 acres to 7.3 hectares of irrigated land with permissible addition upto 6 hectares depending on the family size.

33. It was further pointed out by Shri Pandey that Section 19(2) of the Amending Act No.18 of 1973 has limited applicability and that too in respect of proceedings under Section 14 or those which fall under Chapter III or Chapter IV of the Principal Act which are required to be continued and are to be concluded in accordance with the provisions of the Principal Act. It was submitted that the Legislature by using the words 'be continued and concluded' clearly indicates that the provision has been made applicable only to such proceedings which were pending at the time of commencement of the Amending Act and only such proceedings as referred to i.e. proceedings under Section 14, Chapter III & IV of the Principal Act could be taken to be its logical conclusion in terms of the Principal Act. However, there is no indication that the said provisions would be applicable to the proceedings which had already been decided. It has also been urged that the aforesaid provisions also has an overriding applicability as the provision clearly clarifies that even if the proceedings have been concluded under the old Act, the new inserted provisions of Section 9(2) and Section 13-A would still be applicable.

34. Shri Pandey has referred to several provisions of the Act both prior to the amendment as well as the amended provisions to demonstrate the changes brought in by the amendments. He submitted that Section 14 of the Act of 1960 does not relate to determination of ceiling area rather it only gives a guideline as to how the surplus land is to be taken over and it cannot have any applicability insofar as the determination of surplus land is concerned.

35. It has further been urged that with a further amendment introduced in the year 1976, it made re-determination of the surplus land mandatory in accordance with the Principal Act of 1960 as amended by the Amending Act No.20 of 1976 within a limit of two years, commencing from 10 October, 1975. In this regard, he has specifically referred to Section 31(3) of the Amending Act No.20 of 1976 to submit that the Legislature in clear terms expected that all surplus land which was determined prior to the 10 October, 1975 be re-determined and it is in this context that the subsequent notice under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960 was issued to the petitioner on 15.05.1976 i.e. after the Act was amended by the Amending Act No.20 of 1976.

36. Shri Pandey further urged that by the Amending Act No.20 of 1976, Section 38-B was also introduced which clearly indicated that any finding to the decision, order or decree rendered before the commencement of the Amending Act, made by any Court or Tribunal or any Authority in respect of the ceiling matter shall bar the re-trial or consideration, notwithstanding the principles of res judicata.

37. It has further been submitted that the decisions cited by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner relating to Section 13-A are not applicable to the facts of the instant case. It is urged that in the instant case, fresh proceedings were initiated under Section 9(2)/10(2) of the Act of 1960 which came into effect after the amendment was introduced vide Amending Act No.20 of 1976 also taking into consideration Section 31(3). The instant proceedings were not for correction of records as provided under Section 13-A, hence, the decision cited by the learned Senior Counsel, which is referable to Section 13-A of the Act of 1960 cannot be pressed into service in the instant case, as it would have no applicability.

38. It has further been pointed out that the petitioner has changed the entire complexion of the petition by raising issues which were never raised before the ceiling authorities. It has further been urged that the initial case set up by the petitioner was only confined to the issue of land recorded in the name of the wife, sons and daughters of the petitioner, being clubbed with the land of the petitioner and the issue relating to choice as per Section 12-A of the Act of 1960 and the issue relating to the land being considered as irrigated or unirrigated.

39. It has further been urged that this issue had been decided more specifically in the third round of litigation between the parties vide judgment dated 16.09.1983 passed by the Appellate Authority in Appeal No.3/1982, whereby the Appellate Authority had crystallized and narrowed the controversy only on two points that is to say (i) the Plots bearing No.353, 432, 433, 498 and 503 were to be considered as unirrigated and for the aforesaid purpose, the matter was remanded (ii) Further indulgence was granted to the petitioner to give his choice regarding the land he wanted to retain, and all other issues had been turned down.

40. This judgment dated 16.09.1983 was never assailed by the petitioner and thereafter he succumbed to the jurisdiction of the Prescribed Authority and in the fourth round also, no such issues were raised which are now being raised before this Court. Moreover, even the issue of choice did not find favour with the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Authority for the reason that the manner in which the choice was expressed by the petitioner was in context with the certain proceedings for exchange initiated by the daughters of the petitioner which had no bearing with the ceiling proceedings. In the aforesaid circumstances, the petitioner now cannot turn around and raise an issue which was never the subject matter before the ceiling authority and by an indirect method the petitioner is trying to enlarge the scope of adjudication which is not permissible also noticing the fact that since 1976 more than 4 decades have gone by and the petitioner has been successful in prolonging the litigation and it is for the same very reason that in the petition instituted in the year 1993 an amendment was introduced in the year 2022 by which new facts and grounds have been raised which apparently in the given fact situation, have no applicability and the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

41. In support of his submissions, Shri Pandey has relied upon the following decisions:-

(a) Darshan Prasad and others v. Civil Judge-II, Gorakhpur and others, 1992 Suppl. 2 SCC 87;

(b) Viroj Kunwar and others v. II Additional District Judge and others, (1996) 1 SCC 570;

(c) Rajendra Prasad Singh v. 4th Additional District Judge, 1980 SCC OnLine All 402;

(d) Gurdeep Singh v. State of U.P. and others, MANU/UP/2265/2019.

42. The Court has heard learned counsel for the parties at length and also perused the material on record including the written submissions submitted by the contesting parties.

43. In light of the submissions advanced by the parties, certain undisputed facts which emerge from the record are:-

(a) The original petitioner late Himanshu Dhar Singh was served with a notice under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960. The petitioner had furnished his objections and the Prescribed Authority, Raebareli by means of the order dated 24.07.1964 had discharged the notice.

(b) A fresh notice was issued to the petitioner on 15.05.1976 which was again contested by the petitioner on the ground that the land recorded in the name of his wife, sons and daughters was clubbed with the land of the petitioner despite the wife, daughters and sons being recorded owners in their own individual capacity.

(c) It is also not disputed that the Prescribed Authority vide its order dated 15.11.1978 excluded the land recorded in the names of sons and daughters of the petitioner and thereafter re-determined the surplus land by considering the land recorded in the name of the petitioner's wife as land available with the petitioner.

(d) It is also an undisputed fact that the petitioner had assailed the order dated 15.11.1978 by filing Appeal No.16/1978 which was allowed on 20.03.1979 by remanding the matter to the Prescribed Authority to re-determine the surplus land by treating certain plots as unirrigated and also directed the Prescribed Authority to take the preference of the petitioner in respect of the land he proposed to retain with himself.

(e) It is also undisputed that the Prescribed Authority in pursuance of the remand order dated 20.03.1979, re-determined the matter and rejected the objection holding that no specific choice was given by the petitioner rather a vague statement was given that except for the land in Village Dadu Tikari and Salon, rest can be considered for being declared surplus.

(f) It is also undisputed that this order of the Prescribed Authority dated 23.04.1982 was assailed by the petitioner in Appeal No.3/1982 which was allowed by the Appellate Authority on 16.09.1983, wherein the Appellate Authority remanded the matter directing the Prescribed Authority to consider the Plots No.353, 432, 433, 498 and 503 as unirrigated and the petitioner was permitted to submit his choice for the land which he wished to retain.

(g) It is also an undisputed fact that this judgment dated 16.09.1983 was never assailed by the petitioner any further and the matter went back to the Prescribed Authority for the fourth time and now the Prescribed Authority accepted the directions of the Appellate Authority and considering Plots No.353, 432, 433, 498 and 503 as unirrigated land, permitted the petitioner to retain 7.3 hectares of land and rest was declared surplus.

(h) Effectively, it was only the issue of choice which remained to be considered by the Prescribed Authority, but the same was turned down. It is also an undisputed fact that this order of the Prescribed Authority was again assailed in an appeal, which came to be dismissed on 11.06.1993 and the orders dated 27.06.1986 or 11.06.1993 are now under challenge in this writ petition.

44. In the backdrop of the undisputed facts noted above, the two issues which arise for consideration are:-

(I) Whether the two impugned orders passed by the Ceiling Authorities can be said to be without jurisdiction in light of the transitory provisions introduced by the U.P. Amending Act No. 18 of 1973 and U.P. Amending Act No. 20 of 1976.

(ii) Whether the impugned orders passed by the Ceiling Authorities are otherwise erroneous in law?

45. In order to examine the first issue as noticed above, it will be appropriate to consider the certain provisions of the Amending Act No. 18 of 1973 and the Amending Act No. 20 of 1976 by which the U.P. Act of 1960 was drastically amended.

46. The U.P. Act of 1960 came to be amended by the U.P. Amending Act No. 18 of 1973 and the provisions of the said Amending Act No. 18 of 1973 are being noticed hereinafter:-

The Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings, (Amendment) Act, 1972)

Transitory provisions

Provided that the ceiling area in such cases shall be determined in the following manner :-

(a) firstly, the ceiling area shall be determined in accordance with the principal Act, as it stood before its amendment by this Act;

(b) thereafter, the ceiling area shall be re-determined in accordance with the provisions of the principal Act as amended by this Act.

(2) Notwithstanding, anything in sub-section (1), any proceeding under section 14 or under Chapter III or Chapter IV of the principal Act, in respect of any tenure-holder in relation to whom the surplus land has been determined finally before the commencement of this Act, may be continued and concluded in accordance with the provisions of the principal Act, without prejudice to the applicability of the provisions of sub-section (2) of section 9 and section 13-A of that Act, as inserted by this Act, in respect of such land.

47. Now, once again, the U.P. Act no. 1960 was amended by the U.P. Amending Act No. 20 of 1976 and certain relevant provisions which were introduced in the Act of 1960 by the U.P. Amending Act No. 20 of 1976 are being noticed hereinafter:-

The Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1976)

(U.P. Act No. 20 of 1976)

Transitory Provisions

31. (1) All proceedings under sub-sections (3) to (7) of section 14 of the principal Act, as it stood immediately before the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Ordinance, 1976, pending before any Court or authority immediately before the date of such commencement shall be deemed to have abated on such date.

(2) Where an order determining the surplus land in relation to a tenure-holder has been made under the principal Act before January 17, 1975 and the Prescribed Authority is required to re-determine the surplus land under sec-tion 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amend-ment) Act, 1974, then notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2) of section 19 of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amend-ment Act, 1972, every appeal under section 13 of the principal Act or other proceedings in relation to such appeal, preferred against the said order, and pending immediately before the tenth day of October. 1975, shall be deemed to have abated on the said date.

(3) Where an order determining surplus land in relation to a tenure-holder has been made under the principal Act before the tenth day of October, 1975, the Prescribed Authority (as defined in the principal Act) may, at any time within a period of two years from the said date,redetermine the surplus land in accordance with the principal Act as amended by this Act, whether or not any appeal was filed against such order and notwithstanding any appeal (whether pending or decided) against the original order of determination of surplus land.

(4) The provisions of section 13 of the principal Act shall mutatis mutandis apply to every order re-dermining surplus land under sub-section (3) of this section or section 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Amendment) Act, 1974:

Provided that the period of thirty days shall, in the case of an appeal against the order referred to in section 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1974, be computed from the date of such order or October 10, 1975, whichever is later.

(5) The provisions of section 13-A of the principal Act shall mutatis mutandis apply to every re-dermination of surplus land under the section or under section 9 of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1974.

(6) Where any Assessment Roll has become final under sub-section (4) of section 21 before the sixteenth day of February, 1976, this same shall not be reopened, notwithstanding any amendment made in Chapter III of the principal Act read with the Schedule thereof by this Act.

48. Having taken note of the aforesaid statutory provisions which were introduced by the two Amending Acts i.e. U.P. Amending Act No.18 of 1973 and the U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976, it would reveal that there is a complete change in the scheme of the Act and the amended provisions have been made to apply retrospectively. Having noticed the aforesaid legislative scheme of the Act of 1960 which was put through several amendments, as noticed above, it is now the stage to consider the decisions cited by the learned counsel for the petitioner to completely comprehend the thrust of the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the respective petitioner.

49. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner heavily relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Arvind Kumar (Supra) wherein the Apex Court in paragraph 14 to 18 held as under:-

'14. The argument of the learned counsel for the State, therefore, leads us to analyse the four Acts in question a little closely. One thing becomes clear at the outset : that the original statutory scheme of 1960 which spoke of surplus 'fair quality land' was substituted in its entirety by a completely new and different scheme by the 1972 Amendment Act read with the 1974 Amendment Act. Both of these Acts, as has been noticed above, with certain minor exceptions, came into force on the same date, namely, 8-6-1973. The new statutory scheme would necessarily involve 'fair quality land' being substituted by 'irrigated land', the ceiling area in the two cases also being entirely different. This being the case, it is important to now construe Section 9 of the 1974 Amendment Act in this backdrop:

14.1 Be it noted that Section 9 itself comes into force only on 17-1-1975. For Section 9 to apply, an order has to be made determining surplus land in relation to a tenure-holder before the commencement of the Amendment Act. By Section 1(2), 'this section' and Section 9 both come into force at once i.e. on 17-1-1975. The expression 'this section' refers to Section 1(1) which in turn refers to the Act as the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1974. This being the case, it is clear that the Act has commenced only on 17-1-1975, even though a number of sections shall be deemed to have come into force retrospectively i.e. on 8-6-1973. The order passed by the prescribed authority being on 13-1-1975, the first condition of Section 9 is met, namely, that this order has been passed before 17-1-1975.

14.2. It is the second part of the section on which a lot of the debate featured. According to the learned counsel for the State a discretion is vested in the prescribed authority by use of the expression 'may'. We may hasten to add that the very expression 'may, at any time within a period of two years " also occurs in Section 31(3) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1976. This sub-section makes it clear that the expression 'may' goes along with the words 'at any time within a period of two years " as it is clear that on a correct reading of the sub-section, the prescribed authority has,'in every case, to redetermine surplus land if an order determining surplus land has been made before the 10th day of October, 1975. The idea is that a period of two years is given to redetermine surplus land in accordance with the principal Act as amended by the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1974. This being the case, it is clear that no discretion is vested in the prescribed authority to redetermine the surplus land. Surplus land has, in all cases, to be redetermined, as a completely different and new scheme applicable to'all'lands has replaced the existing scheme. The only exception is where, prior to 8-6-1973, a determination of surplus land has been made finally, that is, an appeal has been disposed of under Section 13.

15. The matter may be looked at from a slightly different angle. Section 19 of the 1972 Amendment Act, which is a transitory provision, provides for abatement of proceedings that are pending on the commencement of the said Act. We have already indicated that the pending proceedings of 1967 had to start afresh on the issuing of a general notice under Section 9(2) as inserted by the 1972 Amendment Act, which was in fact done. Thus, the 13-1-1975 order is a consequence of Section 19(1) of the Act. Section 19(2) on facts has no application for the simple reason that surplus land had not in this case been determined finally before commencement of the 1972 Act ' that is, an appeal had not been decided under Section 13 of the principal Act prior to this date.

16. This brings us then to the transitory provision contained in the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1976. Under Section 31(2), clearly, the order determining the surplus land in the present case had been made four days before 17-1-1975 and thus the first condition or prerequisite for the application of the section is met. The second prerequisite is also met for the simple reason that Section 9 of the 1974 Act, which forms part of the same legislative scheme as the 1972 Amendment Act, would apply for the reason that an order determining surplus land had been made prior to commencement of the said Act, namely, 17-1-1975, [which happens to be the same as the first prerequisite for the application of Section 31(2) of the 1976 Amendment Act]. This being the case, the language of Section 31(2) makes it clear that every appeal preferred against such orders and pending immediately before the 10th day of October, 1975, shall be deemed to have abated on the said date. On facts, we are informed that an appeal had been filed prior to this date.

17. This being the case, it was necessary for the prescribed authority to redetermine the surplus land under Section 31(3) in accordance with the principal Act as amended by the 1976 Act, for which purpose, the provisions of Section 13 of the principal Act shall apply mutatis mutandis to every order redetermining surplus land under sub-section (3) of this section or Section 9 of the 1974 Amendment Act [vide'Section 31(4) of the 1976 Amendment Act]. This never having been done on facts in the present case, it is clear that the appeal filed in 1975 has abated and could not therefore have been heard by the Additional Commissioner, Agra on merits. This being so, the judgment and order passed by the Commissioner dated 13-1-1975 is without jurisdiction.

18. It only remains to consider the reasoning of the appellate authority and the High Court. Both the appellate authority and the High Court were of the view that no fresh notice had been issued under Section 9(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972. It has been pointed out to us, on facts, that in fact such a notice had been issued on 24-11-1975. Despite this, the appellate authority and the High Court, in their anxiety to decide against the abatement, have wrongly held that no such notice was proved to have been issued. Be that as it may, it is clear that abatement under Section 31 does not depend upon the issuance or non-issuance of any notice under Section 9(2) as amended. This being the case, the finding of fact of non-issuance of notice itself being a non-issue, it is unnecessary for us to pursue the same. It is only necessary to reiterate that no fresh exercise under the 1976 Amendment Act was undertaken by the prescribed authority as is required by Section 31(3) of the 1976 Amendment Act. This being the case, the impugned judgment [Kamla Devi'v.'State of U.P., 2007 SCC OnLine All 1621] of the High Court has necessarily to be set aside. The appeal is, therefore, allowed with no order as to costs.'

50. A careful reading of the decision of the Apex Court in Arvind Kumar (Supra), reveals that the Apex Court noticed the import of Section 31(2) of the Amending Act of 1976 and held that two conditions must be present to draw the applicability of Section 31(2) i.e. (i) there should have been an order declaring the surplus land which had been made prior to the Principal Act as amended vide the U.P. Amending Act No. 20 of 1976 and (ii) The Prescribed Authority was required to re-determine the surplus land under Section 9 of the U.P. Amending Act No.18 of 1973.

51. The aforesaid decision does not come to the aid of the petitioner for the reason that the facts of the instant case are quite different. After the U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976 had come into force, it mandated the authorities to re-determine the land and it is in furtherance thereof that fresh notice was issued to the petitioner. It is not a case where any pending proceedings had abated in light of the transitory provision and thereafter if the proceedings had to be continued then the original Act of 1960 would have been made applicable. Admittedly, here it is a case of fresh determination made in pursuance of the notice issued under Section 10(2) post the U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976 having been introduced. Thus, the said decision cannot be pressed into service per se and also for an additional reason that admittedly, the issue which was being considered and pressed by the petitioner before the ceiling authorities was in respect of the the land recorded in the name of petitioner's wife which, as per the petitioner, could not be clubbed with the land of the petitioner, as she held her land in her separate right.

52. The learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner also relied heavily on the decision of the Apex Court in Devendra Nath Singh (Supra), more specifically paragraph 3, which is being reproduced hereinafter for ready reference:-

'3. Having examined the provisions of Section 13-A and Section 38-B of the Act, we are of the considered opinion that under Section 13-A, the prescribed authority has the power to reopen the matter within two years from the date of the notification under sub-section (4) of Section 14 to rectify any apparent mistake which was there on the face of the record. That power will certainly not include the power to entertain fresh evidence and re-examine the question as to whether the two sons, namely, Hamendra and Shailendra were major or not. The power under Section 38-B merely indicates that if any finding or decision was there by any ancillary forum prior to the commencement of the said section in respect of a matter which is governed by the Ceiling Act then such findings will not operate as res judicata in a proceeding under the Act. That would not cover the case where findings have already reached their finality in the very case under the Act. In this view of the matter, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the prescribed authority had no jurisdiction to reopen the question of the majority of the two sons in purported exercise of the power under Section 13-A. If the authority had no jurisdiction, question of waiver of jurisdiction does not arise, as contended by learned counsel for the respondent.'

53. From a careful perusal of the aforesaid decision, it would indicate that the aforesaid judgment is in context with Section 13-A of the Act of 1960. If the aforesaid Section 13-A is seen, it would reveal that the said provision applies is in a very limited sphere and becomes applicable when any rectification is necessitated on account of any mistake apparent on the face of the record and that too can be done within two years from the date of the notification made in respect of Section 14(4) of the Act of 1960.

54. Keeping this in mind, if the said judgment of Devendra Nath Singh (supra) is noticed, it would reveal that it is not applicable to the facts of the instant case as in the present case fresh notice had been issued under Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960 after the U.P. Amending Act No.20 of 1976 had came into effect, the scope of Section 10(2) of the Act of 1960 is completely different to the scope of Section 13-A of the Act of 1960.

55. It is not a case where the Prescribed Authority had given any finding which were found to be erroneous. Had it been a case of Section 13-A only then the limitation provided in the said Section itself i.e. of two years, could have been nudged into play. Moreover, the Apex Court has also noticed the provisions of Section 38-B but then, again if it is seen in context with Section 13-A, it would reveal that the same has no applicability to the facts of the instant case, hence, the said decision also cannot help the petitioner.

56. Apart from the aforesaid decisions, the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner relied upon the decision in Ramkali Devi (Supra) and Kamla Kant (Supra).

57. Considering the decision of Ramkali Devi (supra) it would reveal that the said decision is on completely different facts situation, hence, it does not come to the aid of the petitioner as the issue being considered therein was in context with Section 13-A and considering whether the Prescribed Authority under the Act of 1960 has the power of review which is not the case at hand, hence, the said decision does not help the petitioner.

58. As far as the decision of Kamla Kant (supra) is concerned, needless to say that the same is based on a parallel drawn from the authority of the Supreme Court of Devendra Singh (supra) which as already noticed above, had no role to play in the instant case and for the same reason, the decision of Kamla Kant (supra) also cannot save the day for the petitioner.

59. Now, it will be appropriate to examine the decisions cited by Sri Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

60. The Apex Court in Viroj Kuwar (Supra) in paragraph 8 has held as under:-

'8. In other words, in computation of the ceiling area the family defined under Section 3(7) becomes relevant in computation of the members of the family to give additional land to the extent of the members of the family envisaged therein. While aggregating the ceiling area a judicially separated wife has been excluded to be a member of the family. The question, therefore, is whether judicially separated wife is a tenure-holder under the Act. It is seen that Section 3(17)(a) would exclude the wife when husband is a tenure-holder and that, therefore, she cannot be at the same time an independent tenure-holder when the husband is a tenure-holder, though she was judicially separated from her husband. In this definition, the judicially separated wife has not been excluded for obvious reason that though by judicial separation the wife and the husband may not be living together, in law, still she remains to be his wife so long as there is no divorce putting an end to the marital tie.

9. Under those circumstances, judicially separated wife cannot be an independent tenure-holder when her husband is a tenure-holder within the meaning of Section 3(17) of the Act. If this construction is adopted, it is consistent with the provisions of the Act for the reason that under the Amendment Act judicially separated wife has been brought in for computation of the aggregate of the ceiling area under Section 5 obviously for the reason that the legislators intended that when there is judicial separation between wife and husband, she cannot be treated to be a member of the family for the purpose of aggregating the ceiling area held by the tenure-holder. The learned Single Judge in the judgment (supra) obviously has overlooked the impact of the definition under Section 3(17)(a) and held that in the absence of any express exclusion of the judicially separated wife to be the tenure-holder she is entitled to a separate holding as a tenure-holder. We are of the opinion that the view of the learned Judge is clearly in negation of the expressed provision contained in Section 3(17)(a) of the Act. Therefore, it is not correct law.'

61. The next decision relied upon by the learned Standing Counsel is that of Darshan Prasad (Supra) wherein the Apex Court has held as under:-

'3.'We do not find any force in this contention. The Amendment Act 20 of 1976 inserted two Sections 38-A and 38-B in the Principal Act of 1960. Sections 38-A and 38-B are reproduced as under:

'38-A.'Power to call for particulars of land from tenure-holders.' (1) Where the prescribed authority or the appellate court considers it necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of this Act, it may, at any stage of the proceedings under this Act, require any tenure-holder to furnish such particulars by affidavit in respect of the land held by him and members of his family as may be prescribed.

(2) The particulars of land filed under sub-section (1) may be taken into consideration in determining the surplus land of such tenure-holder.

38-B.'Bar against res judicata.' No finding or decision given before the commencement of this section in any proceeding or on any issue (including any order, decree or judgment) by any court, tribunal or authority in respect of any matter governed by this Act, shall bar the retrial of such proceeding or issue under this Act, in accordance with the provisions of this Act as amended from time to time.'

4.'The above provisions clearly show that the prescribed authority was given power to require any tenure-holder to furnish such particulars, by affidavit in respect of the land held by him and members of his family as may be prescribed which may be considered necessary for the enforcement of the provisions of the Ceiling Act. It is clearly provided under Section 38-B inserted by the Amending Act as mentioned above that any finding or decision given before the commencement of this section will not operate as a bar for the retrial of such proceeding or issue in accordance with the provisions of the Act as amended from time to time. The appellants had raised a similar objection before the High Court, but the same was rejected on the ground that if an earlier judgment is said to operate as res judicata in the subsequent proceedings, then all the necessary facts including pleadings of the earlier litigation must be placed in the subsequent proceedings. The High Court further observed that in the instant case, the earlier notice under Section 10(2) which was issued to the tenure-holder along with the statement prepared in Form No. 3 were not placed before the ceiling authorities in subsequent proceedings. It was further held that even in the writ petition no such material was placed in order to enable the Court to decide whether the second notice could be said to be illegal. Section 30(3) of the U.P. Act 20 of 1976 clearly provided that the prescribed authority was authorised to issue fresh notice within a period of two years from the date of any order passed in earlier ceiling proceedings. We are in agreement with the view taken by the High Court. Learned counsel for the appellants was unable to show that in the facts and circumstances of the case, the notice issued under Section 10(2) of the present proceedings was in any manner illegal or without jurisdiction.

6.'We do not find any force in the above contention in view of the clear provisions of the Ceiling Act, 1960. Section 3(7) defines 'family' as under:

'3.(7) 'family' in relation to a tenure-holder, means himself or herself and his wife or her husband, as the case may be (other than a judicially separated wife or husband), minor sons and minor daughters (other than married daughters);'

7.'It is clear from the above definition that the wife is included in the family of her husband other than a judicially separated wife.

8.'It is important to note that the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 had come into force on May 18, 1955. Section 10 of this Act provided for the judicial separation. Under Section 10 of the Hindu Marriage Act either party to a marriage was entitled to present a petition to the District Court praying for a decree for judicial separation on any of the grounds specified in sub-section (1) of Section 13 and in the case of wife also on any of the grounds specified in sub-section (2) thereof, as grounds on which a petition for divorce might have been presented. Thus, in order to get a judicial separation, it was necessary to obtain a decree under the above provision and then alone it could be recognised as a judicial separation. The Ceiling Act, 1960 was enacted and brought into operation long after the Hindu Marriage Act, and as such the legislature was fully aware of the meaning of judicially separated wife or husband while using this term in the definition of 'family' under Section 3(7) of the Ceiling Act, 1960. It is further important to note that sub-section (3) of Section 5 of the Ceiling Act, 1960, prescribes, while determining the ceiling area, the land of 'adult son/sons' who were themselves tenure-holders being excluded, but no such land is allowed to be excluded in the case of the wife, even though she might be a separate tenure-holder. Thus, it is abundantly clear from a perusal of the above provisions that in the case of determining ceiling area of the land belonging to a person, the land even if owned or possessed by his wife in her own right would have to be included in the land of the husband treating the wife as a member of his family. The only exception has been made in the case of a judicially separated wife. It was contended by the learned counsel for the appellants that a wider meaning should be given to the term 'judicially separated' wife to include a wife who may be living separately from her husband and agricultural land owned or possessed in lieu of her right of maintenance should be excluded from the ceiling limit of her husband. It is difficult for us to accept this contention in view of the clear provisions of the Ceiling Act, 1960 which apart from being a beneficial act for the landless has used the term 'judicially separated' wife after the coming into force of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955. This cannot be given a meaning to include a wife merely living separately from the husband, but having not obtained a decree for judicial separation under the provisions of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955.'

62. The learned Standing Counsel has relied upon a decision of this Court in Gurdeep Singh (Supra) wherein noticing the definition of the word 'family' as amended, this Court held as under:-

'7. The word "family' has been defined in Section 3 (7) of the Ceiling Act to mean the tenure holder himself or herself and his/her spouse as the case may be (other than a judicially separated wife or husband), minor sons and minor daughters (other than married daughter). The said definition occurring in Section 3 (7) is extracted herein below:-

"(7) "family" in relation to tenure-holder means himself or herself and his wife or her husband, as the case may be (other than a judicially separated wife or husband), minor sons and minor daughters (other than married daughter)."

8. A perusal of definition of "family' as given in the Ceiling Act leaves no doubt that family in relation to a tenure holder would exclude judicially separated wife or husband. However, what is of significance in this case is to consider the relevant date for determination as to who constitutes family of a tenure holder.

9. The Ceiling Act was amended by U.P. Act No.2 of 1975 with effect from 08.06.1973. Sub-section (3) of Section 5 as it existed in the Principal Act was also substituted by the said amending Act. Section 5 (3) as it stands amended vide U.P. Act No.2 of 1975 is extracted herein below:-

"(3) [Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (4), (5), (6) and (7)] the ceiling area for purposes of sub-section (1) shall be -

(a) in the case of a tenure-holder having a family of not more than five members, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land (including land held by other members of his family) plus two additional hectares of irrigated land or such additional land which together with the land held by him aggregates to two hectares, for each of his adult sons, who are either not themselves tenure-holders or who hold less than two hectares of irrigated land, subject to a maximum of six hectares of such additional land;

(b) in the case of a tenure-holder having family of more than five members, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land (including land held by other members of his family), besides, each of the members exceeding five and for each of his adult sons who are not themselves tenure-holders or who hold less than two hectares of irrigated land, two additional hectares of irrigated land or such additional land which together with the land held by such adult son aggregates to two hectares, subject to a maximum of six hectares of such additional land;

(c) [x x x]

(d) [x x x]

(e) in the case of any other tenure-holder, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land;

(f) for purposes of determining whether an adult son of a tenure-holder is himself a tenure-holder within the meaning of [clause (a) or clause (b)];

(g) for purposes of service of notice under Section 9".

10. In the case of Murari Lal vs. District Judge, Mathura and others, reported in 1987 RD 103, it has clearly been held that relevant date for determination as to whether the wife was judicially separated would be 08.06.1973 and not any other date. In the instant case, admittedly the decree of divorce on which Gurdeep Singh as also Smt Prakash Kaur relied upon to contend that the land recorded in the name of Smt Prakash Kaur could not have been clubbed with the land of tenure holder-Gurdeep Singh, was passed on 10.05.1984 i.e. much after the relevant date which is 08.06.1973. Sub-section (3) of Section 5 provides for determination of ceiling area in the case of tenure holder having a family of not more than five members and also a tenure holder having a family of more than five members. Thus, for the purpose of determination of surplus land, the family which existed on 08.06.1973 is to be taken into consideration.

11. Any judicial separation or decree of divorce passed or obtained after 08.06.1973 will be a factor to be taken into consideration for the purpose of clubbing or excluding the land held by such judicially separated or divorced wife. Even otherwise, the Prescribed Authority has categorically recorded a finding that Gurdeep Singh and Smt Prakash Kaur have been living together and in fact it is Gurdeep Singh who has been doing agriculture even on the land recorded in the name of Smt Prakash Kaur.

12. Legally, in the proceedings for determination of ceiling area/surplus area, a woman whose husband is tenure holder, does not have any status as tenure holder and her land is thus to be clubbed with the land of her husband. Exclusion of land held by wife is possible only in a case where there exists a judicial separation, that too on the relevant date i.e. 08.06.1973.'

63. The learned Standing Counsel also relied upon the decision of this Court in Rajendra Prasad Singh (Supra), wherein this Court in paragraph 6 held as under:-

'6.'Accordingly, the first point is rejected.

POINT No. 2:' So far as this point is concerned, it should be seen that it is wholly immaterial that Smt. Sushila Devi, the wife of the petitioner, was treated as a separate tenure-holder in the earlier ceiling proceedings. It should be seen that the provisions contained in the Ceiling Act before its amendment by the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act 1972 (U.P. Act No. 18 of 1973) were radically different. There was no provision for the clubbing of the land held by the wife with the holding of her husband-tenure-holder. In view of the definition of the 'family' in Section 3(7) and of the 'tenure-holder' in Section 3(17), it is clear that when the husband has been treated as the tenure-holder, the wife herself cannot be treated to be a tenure-holder. Further, Section 5(3) provides for the clubbing of the land held by the members of the family of a tenure-holder with the holding of the tenure-holder. Reading all these provisions together, it is obvious that the land held by Smt. Sushila Devi as the member of the family of her husband tenure-holder was bound to be clubbed with the holding of her husband tenure-holder and she could not herself be treated as a tenure-holder in her own rights. Therefore, it is not at all material that in the earlier ceiling proceedings, which were held under the provisions of the Act as they stood before 8-6-1973, the were had been treated as a Separated tenure-holder. The said finding lost its relevance and effect in view of the change in the law brought about by the U.P. Act No. 18 of 1973. The constitutionality of the provisions of the Ceiling Act providing for the clubbing of the lands held by the members of the family with the holding of the tenure-holder concerned, was sought to be attacked on the ground of the infringement of fundamental rights, but such a challenge cannot be entertained in view of the fact that the Ceiling Act and its amending Acts were included in the 9th schedule of the Constitution. (See'State'v.'Rajesh Pachauri1977 All WC 180 : 1977 Rev Dec 160 : ((1977) 2 SCC 548 : AIR 1977 SC 915)).'

64. In the aforesaid backdrop of the submissions, the undisputed facts and the decisions relied upon by the respective parties, this Court finds that in the instant petition actually there is no challenge to the validity or vires of Sections or provisions of the Act of 1960. Hence, the submission of the learned Senior Counsel that the provisions of the Act should be construed harmoniously and be given prospective application is misconceived.

65. It will not be out of place to mention that the provisions of the Act of 1960 amended by the Amending Act of 1976 has been made applicable retrospectively i.e. w.e.f. 10th October, 1975 and the said provisions have been insulated from judicial review by placing them under Chapter IX of the Constitution of India. For this additional reason as well, there cannot be any challenge to the provisions of the Act as suggested by the learned Senior Counsel. Needless to say that this aspect of the matter was considered by this Court way back in Rajendra Prasad Singh (supra) and this Court does not find that the matter requires any fresh re-determination.

66. Moreover, if the provisions are to be given a harmonious and prospective construction, as suggested by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner, then the only conclusion that will be evident, would lead to an anomaly. The basic purpose of the Act of 1960 was transitional in nature and was a step forward taken after the abolition of the Zamindari in the State of U.P. Huge land holdings which were concentrated in the hands of few privileged sections, were to be distributed amongst the actual tilling class, landless labourers and to achieve an optimum and widespread use of the State resources to subserve the common good and this would not be achieved.

67. Another anomaly which will set in and that would be that the ceiling limit contained in the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 will get violated. The two Acts of 1950 and Act of 1960 are complimentary and are not supposed to derogate each other. If the ceiling of 40 acres as initially available in the unamended Act of 1960 is retained then it will cause more harm than good and it would result in violating the language and provisions of the Act of 1960, as amended by several amendments which are not under challenge here.

68. Learned Senior Counsel laid heavy emphasis on the transitory Section 19 of the Amending Act no. 18 of 1973 and Section 31 of the Amending Act of 1976. In case if the said Sections are closely examined, it would be clear that the said transitory provision is confined to proceedings which were referable to Section 14 and Chapter III and IV of the Principal Act. Section 14 apparently is a procedural aspect relating to process as to how the possession of the surplus land as declared is to be taken and how it is to be dealt with. This is the stage, after the surplus land has already been declared and the orders have attained finality. Similarly, Chapter III is titled 'determination and payment of amount' and comprises of Sections 17 to 23 and Chapter IV is titled 'disposal and settlement of surplus land' and comprises of Section 24 (which was deleted by the Amending Act No.18 of 1973) till Section 31. These are provisions which relate to payment of compensation and as noticed above relating to disposal of land declared surplus and it has got nothing to do with the determination of rights and declaration of surplus land.

69. The Amending Act of 1976 (U.P. Act no. 20 of 1976) came into force from 10.10.1975 and it required the Authorities to re-determine the surplus land within two years w.e.f. 10.10.1975. It was in furtherance thereof that fresh notice was issued to the petitioner on 15.05.1976 after the Amending Act had come into force. This situation is further clarified by Section 38-B introduced by the Amending Act No. 20 of 1976. Hence, this Court is inclined to accept the reasoning of Sri Pandey, learned Standing Counsel on the aforesaid aspects.

70. Taking a complete holistic view of the Act of 1960 along with Amendments introduced in the year 1973 and 1976, it would reveal that a composite scheme has been brought into play by the Legislature. The submissions made by the learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner appears to be based on disjointed and selective reading of the provisions and is based on tearing observations out of context, from a decision or from the provisions of the Act of 1960. The interpretation suggested does not impress this Court, and it cannot be accepted as it would violate the provisions of the Act of 1960 and it would run contrary to the legislative scheme.

71. Thus, this Court finds that the orders passed by the two Ceiling Authorities cannot be said to be bad for want of jurisdiction or having been passed in contradiction or against the dictum of the Apex Court in Devendra Nath (Supra) and Arvind Kumar (Supra). Thus, the first question is answered accordingly.

72. Now, considering the second question, this Court finds that in light of the facts noticed hereinabove first, it would reveal that one part of the submission/objection of the original tenure-holder i.e. that the land belonging to the sons and daughters should not be clubbed with the land of the original tenure-holder. This was already accepted in the second round vide order dated 15.11.1978 and the matter rested. The other issue that was raised was regarding clubbing of the land belonging to the wife of the original tenure-holder (though as per the original petitioner, his wife held the land in her own separate right.

73. In this regard, it will be relevant to take note of the definition of the word 'family' which has been defined in Section 3(7). Simultaneously, the definition of words 'surplus land and tenure holder' which has been mentioned in Section 3(16) and (17) may also be perused.

'3 (7) 'family' in relation to a tenure-holder means himself or herself and his wife or her husband as the case may be (other than a judicially separated wife or husband), minor sons and minor daughters (other than married daughters) ;

3 (16) 'surplus land' means land held by a tenure-holder in excess of the ceiling area applicable to him, and includes any buildings, wells and trees existing thereon ;

3 (17) 'tenure-holder' means a person who is the holder of a holding but 1[except in Chapter III] does not include-

(a) a woman whose husband is a tenure-holder ;

(b) a minor child whose father or mother is a tenure-holder ;

74. From the perusal of the above definition, it would clearly indicate that in the word 'family' in relation to tenure holder, the wife or the husband as the case may be are included alongwith minor sons and daughters.

75. Similarly, in the definition of the words 'tenure holder', it clearly prohibits the inclusion of a woman whose husband is a tenure holder. It also prohibits a minor child to be treated as a tenure holder whose father or mother is already a tenure holder. Thus, it would be seen that a determination has to be made as to who would be a tenure holder, then for the purposes of Ceiling Act either the husband or the wife can only be treated as a tenure holder but both cannot be tenure holders together to exclude the land held by them, while determining the ceiling and surplus land under the Act of 1960.

76. Since, the definition clause was amended and in the word 'family', in relation to a tenure-holder it included the husband or wife, of the tenure holder. Taking note of the definition of the word 'tenure holder' it will reveal that it can either be the husband or the wife as a tenure-holder for the purposes of the Act of 1960 and in such a situation, if the husband is treated as a tenure holder, then his wife, will be excluded and if any land is held by her it will be clubbed with the husband being a family and in case if the wife is treated to be a tenure holder then her husband will be excluded and his land would be clubbed with his wife, being a family.

77. In the instant case, it was always the husband (the original petitioner) who was treated as a tenure holder and he had always raised this issue that the land recorded in the name of his wife may not be included, but that was turned down by the ceiling authorities. It is also relevant to notice that the Prescribed Authority in the second round of litigation vide its order dated 15.11.1978 had already excluded the adult sons and daughters whereas it continued to club the land recorded in the name of the petitioner's wife as the land of the petitioner. Thus, the order passed by the Prescribed Authority to include the land of the wife of the tenure holder along with the land of the petitioner cannot be said to be bad or against the law.

78. There is another aspect to this issue, though, the original petitioner had raised this issue of clubbing of his wife's land by filing Appeal No.16/1978 which did not find favour with the Appellate Authority and it partly allowed the appeal vide judgment dated 20.03.1979. A limited issue was left and remanded for consideration whereby certain plots were directed to be considered unirrigated. Had the petitioner been aggrieved by the finding that his wife's land was being clubbed with him, he could have raised the matter at that stage by escalating the matter further, but he did not and once having succumbed to it, the issue before the Prescribed Authority naturally remained confined to the issue relating to certain plots being treated as unirrigated and liberty was granted to the petitioner for making his choice known for the land he wished to retain in terms of Section 12-A of the Act of 1960.

79. As the admitted facts would indicate that Appeal No.3/1982 was allowed by the Appellate Authority on 16.09.1983 and again the only issue was regarding the choice and certain plots to be treated as unirrigated and admittedly this judgment dated 16.09.1983 was never challenged. In the fourth round, the Prescribed Authority excluded Plots bearing No.353, 432, 433, 498 and 503 as unirrigated. At this stage, the only issue remained was regarding choice. The decision rendered by the Prescribed Authority dated 27.06.1986 cannot be examined for any other purpose except as to relating to the issue of choice whether it has been properly considered by the Prescribed Authority.

80. As noticed above, 7.3 hectares was permitted to be retained by the petitioner and rest was declared surplus and this finding apparently could not be demonstrated to be erroneous, hence, it does not suffer from any manifest error which may persuade this Court to enter into the factual dispute under Articles 226/227 of the Constitution of India.

81. As far as the issue regarding choice is concerned, despite on two occasions, liberty was granted to the petitioner to express his choice explicitly yet on one earlier occasion, he gave a vague statement. However, the authority giving indulgence to the petitioner gave another opportunity to express his choice and on the second occasion, the petitioner gave a reason that his choice must be treated to be dependent on the exchange proceedings which were initiated at the behest of married daughters of the original petitioner, who wanted to get their land exchanged with that of their mother. Once the exchange proceedings under Section 161 of the Act of 1950 could not have any bearing on the ceiling authorities, it could not be treated as a valid expression of choice.

82. Even before this Court, learned Senior Counsel could not demonstrate that despite having been granted two opportunities to express the choice, why no cogent choice was given, knowing well that the provisions of Section 161 of the Act of 1950 are different and operate in a different sphere and it could not bind the ceiling authorities or have any impact.

83. Even otherwise though this petition has been pending before this Court since 1993 and the writ petition came to be amended drastically in the year 2022 i.e. after about two decades yet nothing has been brought on record to indicate the status of exchange proceedings which allegedly were initiated by the daughters of the original petitioner, nor any option of choice has been made and no prayer for seeking another opportunity to give choice to the Prescribed Authority has been made.

84. In this backdrop, the petitioner is attempting to raise issues indirectly by trying to hit at the proceedings which had already attained finality by raising issues of transitory provisions which have no role to play and as already considered, this Court finds that submissions advanced by the learned Senior Counsel have no force and substance, they have been raised only to perpetuate the litigation before this Court and it does not find favour with this Court. Thus, the second question is answered accordingly.

85. In light of the facts and law discussed hereinabove, this Court finds that the view taken and expressed by the Ceiling Authorities in the impugned orders cannot be faulted.

86. This Court unhesitatingly holds the writ petition to be sans merit and it is dismissed. The judgment and order dated 27.06.1986, passed by the Prescribed Authority and the judgment dated 11.06.1993 passed by the Appellate Authority are confirmed. In the facts and circumstances, there shall be no order as to costs.

87. The original records provided to this Court has been handed over to Shri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned standing counsel, for the State.

३. वर्तमान प्रकरण में निर्वाचन याचिका, आदेश ७ नियम ११ सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता के अंतर्गत दायर आवेदन पत्र व आक्षेपित आदेश के मुख्य अंश निम्न उल्लेखित किये जा रहे हैः-

(क) निर्वाचन याचिका के मुख्य अंश

"८- यह कि विपक्षी सं०- ४ भाजपा की सक्रिय कार्यकर्ता है तथा उसका उठना बैठना भी भा०ज०पा० के बड़े बड़े राजनैतिक व्यक्तियों व पूर्व विधायक व बड़े बड़े अधिकारी में है और उन्होंने अपने प्रभाव से मतदान होने से पूर्व मतदाता सूची के बनते समय नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी के परिसीमन क्षेत्र से बाहर के गाँव के लोगों के लगभग २५० वोट नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी की वोटर लिस्ट में बढ़वा दिये जबकि यह लोग स्थायी व अस्थायी किसी भी रूप से नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी, जिला बदायूँ में नहीं रहते है और उक्त सभी लोगों ने नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी के चुनाव में वोट डाले है।

११- यह कि याची को वार्ड सं० १ में १३९ वोट प्राप्त हुये जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को २९२ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० २ में याची को ९४ वोट पड़े विपक्षी सं० ४ को १५१ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० ३ में याची को ३३३ मत पड़े और विपक्षी सं० ४ को ११९ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० ४ में याची को १९७ वोट पड़े जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को ११९ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० ५ में याची १८९ वोट पड़े विपक्षी सं० ४ को ४९ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० ६ में याची को ८६ वोट पड़े जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को १२७ वोट पड़े जिसे बढ़ाकर १२८ किया गया। वार्ड सं० ७ में याची को २६४ वोट पड़े जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को ५९ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० ८ में याची को ३२ वोट पड़े जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को २४२ वोट पड़े जिन्हें बढ़ाकर २४७ किया गया। वार्ड नं० ९ में याची को ४३ वोट पड़े जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को १०२ वोट पड़े। वार्ड सं० १० में याची को ११३ वोट पड़े जिसे घटाकर ११२ किया गया। जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को २२० वोट पड़े जिन्हें बढ़ाकर २२५ किया गया। मतगणना के दौरान याची को १४९० वोट मिले विपक्षी सं ४ को मात्र १४८० वोट मत मिले। याची को पोस्टल वोट १ मिला जबकि विपक्षी सं० ४ को पोस्टल वोट ४ मिले। इसके आधार पर याची को १४९१ वोट मिले और विपक्षी सं० ४ को १४८४ वोट मिले। परन्तु मतगणना अधिकारी ने निजी स्वार्थ तथा राजनैतिक प्रभाव के कारण याची का वार्ड नं० १० में १ वोट घटाकर और विपक्षी सं० ४ के वार्ड नं० ६ में १ वोट, वार्ड नं० ८ में ५ वोट तथा वार्ड नं० १० में ५ वोट बढ़ाकर वार्ड संख्या १ ता १० के मतगणना के समय रद्द / अस्वीकृत मतों को गलत प्रकार से रद्द (अस्वीकृत) करना दर्शाया जो वास्तव में याची को प्राप्त होने थे।"

(ख) आदेश ७ नियम ११, सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता अंतर्गत दायर आवेदन के मुख्य अंश

"3. That to test of section 19 (2) (b) as well as section 20 has to specifically plead and establish the violations of rules 2010, that it is pertinent to mention here that there is no averment or specification as to on which counting booth, table and as to which counting agent tied the wrong bundling of votes as alleged. The election petition had to specify and disclose full particulars of any corrupt practices that the petitioner alleges a full statement disclosing the names of the parties alleged to have been committed such corrupt practices as well as the dates and place of the commission such practices and also as to which of the procedure specified in rule 51 of the rule 10 was violated and the requisite security has also not been deposited by the petitioner.

4. That it is submitted that even if the election petition could be filed under section 19(2)(b) of the U.P. Municipality Act, the petition should have disclosed 'material facts' and 'particulars' as specified in Section 20(1) and on failure of such disclosure of the material facts in the petition, it is liable to be dismissed and as such the the instant application be allowed and the Petition filed by the Petitioner should have dismissed which lacks in 'material facts' and 'particulars', as is clear from the perusal of the election petition itself.''

४. यह निवेदन है कि यदि निर्वाचन याचिका उत्तर प्रदेश नगरपालिका अधिनियम की धारा १९(२)(ख) के तहत दायर की जा सकती है, तब भी याचिका में धारा २०(१) में निर्दिष्ट 'भौतिक तथ्यों' और 'विवरण' का उल्लेख किया जाना चाहिए था। याचिका में ऐसे भौतिक तथ्यों के प्रकटीकरण की विफलता पर याचिका निरस्त होने योग्य है। अतः, वर्तमान आवेदन को स्वीकार किया जाए और याचिकाकर्ता द्वारा दायर याचिका को निरस्त किया जाना चाहिए, क्योंकि चुनाव याचिका के अवलोकन मात्र से ही यह स्पष्ट है कि इसमें 'भौतिक तथ्यों' और 'विवरण' का पूर्ण अभाव है।"

(ग) आक्षेपित आदेश के मुख्य अंश

"१३- याची द्वारा चुनाव याचिका में याची को विजयी घोषित किये जाने हेतु व विपक्षी संख्या-४ का चुनाव अवैध तरीके अपनाये जाने व भ्रष्ट आचरण के तहत पड़े मतों को रद्द किये जाने तथा सक्षम प्राधिकारी द्वारा आयोजित कराये गये चुनाव पर जो आपत्ति की गयी हैं, वह मुख्यत: चुनाव याचिका की मद संख्या-८, ९, १०, ११ में उल्लेखित हैं।

याची ने चुनाव याचिका की मद संख्या-९ में यह कथन किया है कि विपक्षी संख्या-४ ने अपने प्रभाव से नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी जिला बदायूँ में निर्वाचन को पूरी तरह से प्रभावित किया है, जिसका प्रभाव यह कि विपक्षी संख्या-४ का मायका रहोली विकास खण्ड बनिया खेडा, जिला सम्भल में भी मतदाता सूची में नाम हैं तथा मायके वालों के हाथ पता मुरादाबाद गेट वार्ड सं०-१६ निकास चन्दौसी नगर पालिका परिषद निर्वाचक नामावली २०२२ में भी विपक्षी संख्या-४ और उनके मायके के लोगों के वोट हैं। इसके अतिरिक्त विपक्षी संख्या-४ के सगे भाई कपिल पाठक, आशुतोष पाठक पुत्रगण विनोद कुमार के वोट नगर पंचायत निर्वाचक नामावली २०२२ में वार्ड नं ०-१ मतदान स्थल प्रा० स्कूल मुडिया का नं०-२ में है, जबकि

विपक्षी संख्या-४ के सगे भाई आशुतोष पाठक पुत्र विनोद उर्फ विनोद कुमार पाठक, नगर पंचायत निर्वाचक नामावली २०२२ वार्ड सं०- १ के अतिरिक्त वार्ड सं०-३ की रियान में नाम अंकित है जो विपक्षी सं०-१ के भ्रष्ट आचरण को स्पष्ट दर्शाता है।

१६- उ०प्र० नगर पालिका अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा-१९ (२) के अनुसार नगर पालिका के सदस्य के निर्वाचन के सम्बन्ध में इस आधार पर आपत्ति नहीं की जायेगी कि किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति का नाम जो मतदान के लिए पात्र था, परन्तु उसका नाम निर्वाचक नामावली में छोड़ दिया गया है या किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति का नाम जो मतदान करने के लिए पात्र नहीं था और उसका नाम निर्वाचक नामावली में जोड दिया गया हो।

इस प्रकार प्रस्तुत प्रकरण में चुनाव याचिका में वर्णित यह आधार देखा जाये कि विजयी उम्मीदवार विपक्षी सं०-४ ने नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी से बाहर के गांव के लोगों के लगभग २५० वोट नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी की वोटर लिस्ट में बढ़वा दिये तथा यह आधार कि विपक्षी सं०-४ के घर वालों के नाम गैर जनपद की मतदाता सूची में अंकित हैं तो उ०प्र० नगर पालिका अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा-१९ (२) के आलोक में याची को नगर पालिका सदस्य के चुनाव पर आपत्ति करने का अधिकार प्राप्त नहीं होगा क्योंकि अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा-१९ (२)(क) स्पष्ट रूप से प्रावधानित किया गया है कि मतदाता सूची में गलत मतदाता का नाम अंकित हो जाने से निर्वाचन पर आपत्ति करने की शक्ति किसी व्यक्ति को प्राप्त नहीं होगी।

उ०प्र० नगर पालिका अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा-१९ (२) (ख) के अनुसार किसी अधिकारी द्वारा अधिनियम की किसी नियम ले त्रुटि, भूल या अनियमितता के आधार पर निर्वाचन के सम्बंध में आपत्ति नहीं की जायेगी, जबकि यह परिलक्षित न हो कि ऐसी त्रुटि, भूल या अनियमितता का निर्वाचन के परिणाम पर कोई सारवान प्रभाव पडा हो। इस प्रकार यदि किसी अधिकारी के ओवरराईटिंग पर हस्ताक्षर नहीं है तो इससे मतदाता की संख्याओं पर कैसे प्रभाव पडा, इस सम्बंध में चुनाव याचिका मौन है। मतगणना के समय भरे

गये प्रारूप ३८ और प्रारूप ५७ में ओवर राईटिंग पर हस्ताक्षर न होने से किसी प्रकार की सारवान प्रभाव का होना प्रदर्शित नहीं है, ऐसे में मतदान अधिकारी का यह कृत्य भ्रष्ट आचरण की परिधि में नहीं आता हैं और न ही इस आधार पर चुनाव याचिका योजित की जा सकती है।

१८- याची की ओर से याचिका की मद संख्या-११ में यह कथन किया है कि मतगणना अधिकारी ने निजी स्वार्थ तथा राजनैतिक प्रभाव के कारण याची का वार्ड नं०- १० में १ वोट घटाकर और विपक्षी संख्या-४ के वार्ड नं०-६ में १ वोट, वार्ड नं०-८ में ५ वोट, वार्ड नं०- १० में ५ वोट बढ़ाकर विपक्षी संख्या-४ को ५ मतो से विजयी घोषित किया गया और वार्ड सं०-१ ता १० के मतगणना के समय रद्द/अस्वीकृत मतों को गलत प्रकार से रद्द/अस्वीकृत करना दर्शाया गया, जो मत वास्तव में याची को प्राप्त होना थे।

उ०प्र० नगर पालिका अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा-२० के अनुसार याची को चुनाव याचिका प्रस्तुत करते समय ऐसे सारवान तथ्यों का विवरण देना होता है और ऐसे भ्रष्ट आचरण के, जो अर्जीदार ने आरोपित किये हो, पूरे ब्योरे देने होंगे, इसमें ऐसे पक्षो के नामों का विवरण देना होगा, जिन पर भ्रष्ट आचरण का आरोप लगाया हो और ऐसा प्रत्येक आचरण करने का दिनांक तथा स्थान का यथासंभव पूरा ब्योरा देना होगा।

ऐसे में यदि याची द्वारा चुनाव याचिका के मद संख्या -११ में जो आपत्ति की गयी है, वह सारवान तथ्यों की श्रेणी में नहीं आती है क्योंकि याची ने उस अधिकारी का ब्योरा नहीं दिया है, जिसने याची या विपक्षी के वोट घटाये या बढाये। मात्र चुनाव अधिकारी पर आरोप लगा दिये जाने से यह नहीं माना जा सकता है कि याची के पक्ष में पडे वोट घटाये गये व विपक्षी के पक्ष में पडे वोट बढाये गये। धारा-२० के अनुक्रम में याची को सम्बन्धित मतगणना अधिकारी का पूर्ण ब्योरा देना चाहिए, जो कि नहीं दिया गया है, ऐसे ने निष्कर्ष निकलता है कि मद संख्या -११ में किये गये कथन सारवान तथ्यों की श्रेणी में नहीं आता है।

१९- माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय द्वारा विधि व्यवस्था -कानीमोझी करूणानिधि बनाम ए० सन्थना कुमार २०२३ LiveLaw (SC)३९८ में विधि व्यवस्था दी गयी है कि

1. In case material facts are not disclosed in the election petition, the same is liable to be dismissed on that ground alone, as the case would be covered by the clause (a) and Rule 11 of Order VII of the CPC.

2. The Election petition is a serious matter and it cannot be treated lightly or in a fanciful manner nor is it given to a person who uses it as a handle for vexatious purpose.

[१. यदि चुनाव याचिका में भौतिक तथ्यों का उल्लेख नहीं किया गया है, तो वह केवल उसी आधार पर निरस्त होने योग्य है, क्योंकि ऐसा मामला संहिता के आदेश ७ के नियम ११ के खंड (क) के अंतर्गत आएगा।

२. चुनाव याचिका एक गंभीर मामला है और इसे हल्के में या काल्पनिक तरीके से नहीं लिया जा सकता है, न ही यह उस व्यक्ति को दी जाती है जो इसका उपयोग तंग करने वाले उद्देश्य के लिए करता है।]

(हिन्दी अनुवाद न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया है।)

२०- इस प्रकार माननीय सर्वोच्च न्यायालय , द्वारा दी गयी विधि व्यवस्था के आलोक में हस्तगत चुनाव याचिका में, निर्वाचन पर की गयी आपतियों को देखा जाये तो यह सारवान तथ्यों की श्रेणी में नहीं आते हैं। याची द्वारा चुनाव याचिका में ऐसी कोई आपत्ति अंकित नहीं की गयी है जो कि निर्वाचन के दौरान किसी भी व्यक्ति के भ्रष्ट आचरण को दर्शित करता हो। "

४. श्री राहुल सहाय, याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने पूर्व में उल्लेखित निर्वाचन याचिका के मुख्य प्रस्तरो पर इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित कराया कि वर्तमान निर्वाचन में हार-जीत का अंतर मात्र ५ वोट का रहा। उपरोक्त प्रस्तरो में निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता ने स्पष्ट रूप से यह कथन किया है कि २५० मतदाताओं के नाम विरोधी राजनैतिक पार्टी के प्रभाव से मतगणना सूची में बढ़ाये गये। यह भी स्पष्ट रूप से उल्लेखित किया कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार के करीबी रिश्तेदारों के नाम दो मतदाता सूचियों में है और दोनों स्थानों में उन्होनें मतदान भी किया। प्रारूप ३८ व प्रारूप ३९ में ओवर राईटिंग की गयी है। प्रस्तर १२ में वार्ड संख्या क्रमांक के अनुसार वर्णित किया कि कैसे याचिकाकर्ता के ५ से अधिक वोटों को घटाकर कम कर दिया गया, जिसके कारण निर्वाचन के परिणाम पर सारवान् प्रभाव पड़ा।

५. श्री सहाय ने अग्रतर, उत्तर प्रदेश नगरपालिका अधिनियम, १९१६ की धारा १९,२० व २८ को संदर्भित किया कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार को एक से अधिक मतों को अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकार या स्वीकार किये जाने के कारण निर्वाचित घोषित किया गया है अतः इस कारण से वो वैध मतों के बहुमत से सम्यक रूप से निर्वाचित नहीं हुआ है। निर्वाचन अधिकारियों द्वारा इस अधिनियम के नियमों का समुचित पालन नहीं किया, जैसे प्रारूप ३८ व ३९ में ओवर राईटिंग, २५० मतदाताओं के नाम मतदाता सूची में अनुचित प्रभाव से सम्मिलित करना, कई मतों को अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकार या स्वीकार करना एवं कई मतदाताओं द्वारा एक से अधिक मतदान केंद्रो पर मत देना आदि। और ऐसी अनुपालक भूल, त्रुटि व अनौपचारिकता का प्रभाव निर्वाचन के परिणाम पर सारवान रूप से हुआ।

६. उत्तर प्रदेश नगरपालिका अधिनियम, १९१६ की धारा १९, २० एवं २८ निम्नलिखित हैः-

"१९. याचिका द्वारा नगरपालिका निर्वाचन पर आपत्ति करने की शक्ति (१) किसी व्यक्ति के नगरपालिका के सदस्य के रूप में निर्वाचन के सम्बन्ध में निर्वाचन याचिका द्वारा इस आधार पर आपत्ति की जा सकती है कि-

(क) ऐसे व्यक्ति ने निर्वाचन कार्यवाहियों के दौरान या उसके सम्बन्ध में धारा २८ में यथा परिभाषित कोई भ्रष्ट आचरण किया है;

(ख) ऐसा व्यक्ति एक से या अधिक मतों के अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकार या स्वीकार किये जाने के कारण निर्वाचित घोषित किया गया है, या किसी अन्य कारण से वैध मतों के बहुमत से सम्यक् रूप से निर्वाचित नहीं हुआ है;

(ग) ऐसा व्यक्ति निर्वाचन के लिए उम्मीदवार के रूप में नाम-निर्देशित किये जाने के लिए अर्ह नहीं था या यह कि याचिका देने वाले का नाम-निर्देशन-पत्र अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकृत किया गया था।

(२) नगरपालिका के सदस्य के रूप में किसी व्यक्ति के निर्वाचन के सम्बन्ध में इस आधार पर आपत्ति नहीं की जायेगी कि-

(क) किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति का नाम, जो मत देने के लिए अर्ह था, निर्वाचक नामावली या नामावलियों में से छोड़ दिया गया है, या किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति का नाम, जो मत देने के लिए अर्ह नहीं था, उसमें या उनमें रख दिया गया है;

(ख) इस अधिनियम या किसी नियम का अनुपालन किया गया है, या एतद्द्वारा अपेक्षित प्रपत्रों में कोई भूल है, या किसी ऐसे अधिकारी या अधिकारियों ने, जिस पर या जिन पर इस अधिनियम या किन्हीं नियमों को कार्यान्वित करने का भार सौंपा गया हो, कोई त्रुटि, अनियमितता या अनौपचारिकता की है, जब तक कि ऐसा अनुपालन भूल, त्रुटि या अनौपचारिकता का निर्वाचन के परिणाम पर कोई सारवान प्रभाव न पड़ा हो।

२०. याचिका का प्ररूप और उसका प्रस्तुत किया जाना- (१) जिस दिन रिटर्निंग आफिसर द्वारा ऐसे निर्वाचन का परिणाम घोषित किया जाये, जिसके सम्बन्ध में आपत्ति ईप्सित हो, उसके पश्चात् ३० दिन के भीतर निर्वाचन याचिका प्रस्तुत की जायेगी और उसमें ऐसा आधार या ऐसे आधार विनिर्दिष्ट किये जायेंगे जिन पर प्रत्यर्थी के निर्वाचन पर आपत्ति की गई हो और उसमें ऐसे सारवान् तथ्यों का संक्षिप्त विवरण होगा जिन पर याचिका देने वाला निर्भर करता हो और ऐसे भ्रष्ट आचरण के, जो अर्जीदार ने आरोपित किए हों, पूरे ब्यौरे होंगे जिसमें ऐसे पक्षों के नामों का जिन पर ऐसे भ्रष्ट आचरण करने का आरोप लगाया हो और ऐसा प्रत्येक आचरण करने का दिनांक तथा स्थान का यथासम्भव पूरा ब्यौरा होगा।

(२) याचिका पर याची द्वारा हस्ताक्षर किया जायेगा और उसे सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता, १९०८ (१९०८ का ५) में अभिवचन के सत्यापन के लिये अधिकथित रीति से सत्यापित किया जायेगा।

(३) याचिका किसी ऐसे उम्मीदवार द्वारा जिसके पक्ष में मत अभिलिखित किये गये हों और जिसको याचिका में ऐसे व्यक्ति के स्थान पर जिसके निर्वाचन के सम्बन्ध में आपत्ति की गयी हो, निर्वाचित घोषित किये जाने का दावा किया हो या नगरपालिका के दस या उससे अधिक निर्वाचकों द्वारा या किसी ऐसे व्यक्ति द्वारा जो यह दावा करे कि उसका नाम-निर्देशन पत्र अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकृत किया गया था, प्रस्तुत की जा सकती है।

(४) वह व्यक्ति जिसके निर्वाचन के सम्बन्ध में आपत्ति की गई हो और जहाँ याची यह दावा करे कि ऐसे व्यक्ति के स्थान पर कोई अन्य व्यक्ति निर्वाचित घोषित किया जाये तो प्रत्येक असफल उम्मीदवार जो याचिका में याची न हो, याचिका में प्रत्यर्थी बनाया जायेगा।

(५) याचिका उस क्षेत्र में अधिकारिता का प्रयोग करने वाले जिला न्यायाधीश को प्रस्तुत की जायेगी जिसमें वह नगरपालिका स्थित है, जिससे निर्वाचन याचिका सम्बन्धित है:

परन्तु याचिका जिला न्यायाधीश द्वारा ग्रहण नहीं की जायेगी जब तक कि उसके साथ कोषागार चालान न हो जिसमें यह दर्शित हो कि विहित प्रतिभूति जमा कर दी गयी है।

२८. भ्रष्ट आचरण- ऐसा व्यक्ति, जो प्रत्यक्ष या अप्रत्यक्ष रूप से, स्वयं या किसी अन्य व्यक्ति द्वारा-

(i) किसी मतदाता को किसी उम्मीदवार के पक्ष में मत देने या मत देने से विरत रहने के लिए कपट, साशय दुर्व्यपदेशन, प्रपीड़न, क्षति पहुँचाने की धमकी, द्वारा उत्प्रेरित करे या उत्प्रेरित करने का प्रयत्न करे;"

"(ii) किसी उम्मीदवार के पक्ष में मत देने या मत देने से विरत रहने के लिए किसी मतदाता को उत्प्रेरित करने के उद्देश्य से, किसी व्यक्ति को कोई धन या मूल्यवान प्रतिफल या कोई स्थान या नियोजन देने का प्रस्ताव करे या दे या किसी व्यक्ति को कोई व्यक्तिगत फायदा या लाभ का वचन दे;

(iii) किसी ऐसे मतदाता के नाम से जो इस प्रकार मत देने वाला व्यक्ति नहीं है कोई मत दे या मत उपाप्त करे;

(iv) खण्ड (i), (ii) और (iii) में विनिर्दिष्ट किसी कार्य को करने में (भारतीय दण्ड संहिता (अधि० सं० १५ वर्ष १८६०) के अर्थान्तर्गत दुष्प्रेरित करे;

(v) किसी उम्मीदवार अथवा निर्वाचक को ऐसा विश्वास करने के लिए उत्प्रेरित करे या उत्प्रेरित करने का प्रयत्न करे कि वह, या अन्य कोई व्यक्ति, जिसमें वह हित रखता है, दैवी अप्रसाद या आध्यात्मिक परिनिन्दा का पात्र हो जायेगा बना दिया जायेगा;

(vi) जाति, सम्प्रदाय, पंथ या धर्म के आधार पर संरचना करे;

(vii) कोई ऐसा अन्य कार्य करे जिसे राज्य सरकार नियम द्वारा भ्रष्ट आचरण विहित करे, यह समझा जायेगा कि उसने भ्रष्ट आचरण किया है।"'

७. श्री सहाय ने यह भी कथन किया कि मतदाता सूची में बहुत से मतदाताओं के नाम एक से अधिक मतदाता सूचियों में है, जिसके कारण वह हर एक मतदाता 'अधिनियम, १९१६' की धारा १२(घ) (iii) के अंतर्गत, निर्वाचन संबंधी 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' के कारण मतदान करने का अधिकारी नहीं रहा और ऐसा कृत्य 'अधिनियम १९१६' धारा २८ के अंतर्गत 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' माना जाएगा, क्योंकि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार के प्रभाव में ऐसे मतदाताओं के नाम दो मतदाता सूचियों में सम्मिलित कराये गए। 'अधिनियम, १९१६' की धारा १२ घ(iii) को निम्न वर्णित किया जा रहा हैः-

"१२-घ (iii) निर्वाचन सम्बन्धी भ्रष्ट आचरण और अन्य अपराधों से सम्बन्धित किसी विधि के उपबन्धों के अधीन मत देने के लिए तत्समय अनर्ह हो।"

८. श्री सहाय ने अपने उपरोक्त तर्कों को बल देने हेतु उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा डी. रामचंद्रन बनाम आर.वी. जनकिरामन ए.आई.आर १९९९ एस.सी. ११२८ व पी.वी. गुरु राज रेड्डी और अन्य बनाम पी. नीरथा रेड्डी और अन्य (२०१५) ८ एससीसी ३३१ के प्रकरणों में पारित निर्णयों का संदर्भ दिया और उनके द्वारा क्रमशः निम्न अंशो का वाचन किया गयाः-

"10. On the other hand, Rule 11 of Order 7 enjoins the court to reject the plaint where it does not disclose a cause of action. There is no question of striking out any portion of the pleading under this Rule. The application filed by the first respondent in OA No. 36 of 1997 is on the footing that the averments in the election petition did not contain the material facts giving rise to a triable issue or disclosing a cause of action. Laying stress upon the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11(a), learned Senior Counsel for the first respondent took us through the entire election petition and submitted that the averments therein do not disclose a cause of action. On a reading of the petition, we do not find it possible to agree with him. The election petition as such does disclose a cause of action which if unrebutted could void the election and the provisions of Order 7 Rule 11(a) CPC cannot therefore be invoked in this case. There is no merit in the contention that some of the allegations are bereft of material facts and as such do not disclose a cause of action. It is elementary that under Order 7 Rule 11(a) CPC, the court cannot dissect the pleading into several parts and consider whether each one of them discloses a cause of action. Under the Rule, there cannot be a partial rejection of the plaint or petition. See Roop Lal Sathi v. Nachhattar Singh Gill [(1982) 3 SCC 487] . We are satisfied that the election petition in this case could not have been rejected in limine without a trial.

11. Designedly, we are refraining from adverting to the arguments pertaining to each allegation of corrupt practice, lest any observation by us might affect the views of the trial Judge. Suffice it to point out that this Court has repeatedly clarified the difference between □material facts□ and □full particulars□ and the different consequences of failure to set out either of them. In L.R. Shivaramagowda v. T.M. Chandrashekar [(1999) 1 SCC 666 : (1998) 6 Scale 361] cited by counsel on both sides, the case-law has been traced and the propositions are reiterated.''

P.V. Guru Raj Reddy

''5. Rejection of the plaint under Order 7 Rule 11 of CPC is a drastic power conferred in the court to terminate a civil action at the threshold. The conditions precedent to the exercise of power under Order 7 Rule 11, therefore, are stringent and have been consistently held to be so by the Court. It is the averments in the plaint that have to be read as a whole to find out whether it discloses a cause of action or whether the suit is barred under any law. At the stage of exercise of power under Order 7 Rule 11, the stand of the defendants in the written statement or in the application for rejection of the plaint is wholly immaterial. It is only if the averments in the plaint ex facie do not disclose a cause of action or on a reading thereof the suit appears to be barred under any law the plaint can be rejected. In all other situations, the claims will have to be adjudicated in the course of the trial.

"१०. दूसरी ओर सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता के आदेश ७ का नियम ११ न्यायालय को व्यादेश देता है कि वह उस वादपत्र को खारिज कर दे जहाँ वह 'वाद हेतुक' प्रकट नहीं करता है। इस नियम के तहत अभिवचन के किसी भी हिस्से को निरस्त कर देने का कोई प्रश्न ही नहीं है। ओ.ए. संख्या ३६/१९९७ में प्रथम प्रत्यर्थी द्वारा दायर आवेदन इस आधार पर है कि निर्वाचन याचिका के अभिवचनों में ऐसे 'सारवान तथ्य' नहीं हैं जो कोई विचारणीय मुद्दा उत्पन्न करते हों या वाद हेतुक प्रकट करते हों। आदेश ७ नियम ११(क) के प्रावधानों पर बल देते हुए, प्रथम प्रत्यर्थी के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने हमें पूरी निर्वाचन याचिका का अवलोकन कराया और यह तर्क दिया कि इसमें निहित अभिवचन कोई वाद हेतुक प्रकट नहीं करते हैं। याचिका को पढ़ने के उपरांत, हम उनसे सहमत हो ऐसा संभव नहीं हैं। यह निर्वाचन याचिका अपने आप में एक वाद हेतुक प्रकट करती है, जिसे यदि अखंडित रहने दिया जाए तो वह निर्वाचन को शून्य कर सकती है, और इसलिए इस प्रकरण में सी.पी.सी. के आदेश ७ नियम ११(क) के प्रावधानों का सहारा नहीं लिया जा सकता। इस तर्क में कोई बल नहीं है कि कुछ आरोप 'सारवान तथ्यों' से रहित हैं और इस प्रकार

११. हम जानबूझकर 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' के प्रत्येक आरोप से संबंधित तर्कों का उल्लेख करने से बच रहे हैं, कहीं ऐसा न हो कि हमारी कोई टिप्पणी विचारण न्यायाधीश के दृष्टिकोण को प्रभावित कर दे। यह इंगित करना पर्याप्त होगा कि इस न्यायालय ने बार-बार "सारवान तथ्यों" और "पूर्ण ब्यौरे" के मध्य के अंतर को स्पष्ट किया है और यह भी कि उनमें से किसी एक को भी प्रस्तुत करने में विफलता के अलग-अलग परिणाम क्या होते हैं। दोनों पक्षों के अधिवक्ताओं द्वारा उद्धृत एल.आर. शिवरामगौड़ा बनाम टी.एम. चंद्रशेखर [(१९९९) १ एस.सी.सी. ६६६ : (१९९८) ६ एस.सी.ए.एल.ई. ३६१] में, निर्णय-विधि का उल्लेख किया गया है और सिद्धांतों को दोहराया गया है।"

पी.वी. गुरु राज रेड्डी

"५. सी.पी.सी. के आदेश ७ नियम ११ के तहत वादपत्र को निरस्त करना न्यायालय को प्रदत्त एक कठोर शक्ति है जिससे दीवानी कार्यवाही को आरंभ में ही समाप्त किया जा सके। इसलिए, आदेश ७ नियम ११ के तहत शक्ति का प्रयोग करने के लिए पूर्व-शर्तें अत्यंत सख्त हैं और न्यायालय द्वारा लगातार ऐसा ही माना गया है। यह केवल वादपत्र के अभिवचन ही हैं जिन्हें यह पता लगाने के लिए समग्र रूप से पढ़ा जाना चाहिए कि क्या यह कोई वाद हेतुक प्रकट करता है या क्या यह वाद किसी विधि के तहत वर्जित है। आदेश ७ नियम ११ के तहत शक्ति के प्रयोग के चरण में, लिखित कथन में या वादपत्र निरस्त करने के आवेदन में प्रतिवादियों का पक्ष पूरी तरह से महत्वहीन है। वादपत्र को केवल तभी निरस्त किया जा सकता है यदि वादपत्र के अभिवचन प्रथम दृष्टया कोई वाद हेतुक प्रकट नहीं करते हैं या उसे पढ़ने पर वाद किसी विधि के अंतर्गत वर्जित प्रतीत होता है। अन्य सभी स्थितियों में, दावों का निर्णय विचारण के दौरान ही करना होगा।"

(हिन्दी अनुवाद न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया है।)

९. उपरोक्त तर्कों का विरोध, प्रतिवादी संख्या ४ (निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार) के वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता श्री तरून अग्रवाल ने अपने सहयोगी अधिवक्ता सर्वश्री शिखर अवस्थी एवं सौरभ मिश्रा द्वारा किया गया।

१०. श्री तरून अग्रवाल ने निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर संख्या ८, ९, १०, ११ व १२ को सन्दर्भित किया कि प्रस्तर ८,९ व १० में निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता ने मतदाता सूची की त्रुटियों का हवाला दिया है, कि निर्वाचित

उम्मीदवार ने अपने प्रभाव से नगर पंचायत मुड़िया धुरेकी के परिनियम क्षेत्र के बाहर के लगभग २५० मतदाताओं के नाम नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी में अवैधानिक रूप से सम्मिलित कराए। परन्तु कथित २५० मतदाताओं में से किसी एक भी मतदाता का नाम व अन्य विवरण का संक्षेप में भी उल्लेख नहीं किया तथा यह भी स्पष्ट नहीं किया कि उक्त २५० मतदाताओं ने किसके पक्ष में संभावित मतदान किया। वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने अधिनियम, १९१६ की धारा १९ (२)(क) का संदर्भ दिया कि किसी व्यक्ति के निर्वाचन को मात्र इस आधार पर प्रश्नगत नहीं किया जा सकता कि कोई व्यक्ति मतदाता बनने के लिए सक्षम नहीं था, फिर भी उसे मतदाता की सूची में सम्मिलित कर दिया गया। वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने वर्तमान प्रकरण में पूर्व में दायर पुर्ननिरीक्षण याचिका के निर्णय दिनांक ३०.०५.२०२५ के प्रस्तर २२ पर इस न्यायालय का ध्यान आकर्षित कराया जिसे निम्न उल्लेखित किया जा रहा हैः-

"22. Similarly, clause (b) of Sub-section (2) of Section 19 also oust the institution of election petition on the ground of non-compliance of any provision of the act or rules. Prima facie there is no disclosure in the election petition as to who had wrongly voted in favour of election petitioner not being the member of Nagar Panchayat Mudiya Dhureki. A vague figure of 250 voters have been given without there being any disclosure as to their names.

११. वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता श्री अग्रवाल ने यह भी कथन किया कि भ्रष्ट आचरण के निर्धारण के लिए अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा २० के अंतर्गत जहां निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रारूप के संबंध में प्रावधान बताए गए हैं, निर्वाचन याचिका में 'पूरे ब्योरे' देने होंगे, ऐसा प्रावधान बनाया है, परंतु वर्तमान याचिका में न तो सारवान् तथ्यों का संक्षिप्त विवरण है और न ही पूर्ण ब्यौरा ही दिया गया है। वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने उत्तर प्रदेश नगरपालिका (सदस्यों, पार्षदों, अध्यक्षों और महापौरों के चुनाव) नियम, २०१० (संक्षेप में 'नियम २०१०') के नियम ४७,४८,४९,५० व ५१ का संदर्भ दिया कि मतों की गिनती उक्त नियमों के अनुसार ही की गयी। हर उम्मीदवार ने गणन अभिकर्ता (काउनटिंग एजेन्ट) नियुक्त किये और रिटर्निंग आफिसर ने गणन अभिकर्ताओं को इलेक्ट्रानिक मशीन की जाँच करने का अवसर भी प्रदान किया। मतगणना के दौरान चुनाव याचिकाकर्ता के गणन अभिकर्ता द्वारा किसी भी प्रकार की शिकायत नहीं की गयी और न ही कोई ऐसी पत्रावली याचिका के साथ संलग्न करी और इस संदर्भ में कोई अभिवचन भी नहीं किया है। ऐसा भी कोई ब्यौरा नहीं दिया गया है कि निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता के निर्वाचन अभिकर्ता ने अस्वीकृत मत की सत्यता पर

कोई प्रश्न ही किया हो। नियम २०१० के नियम क्रमांक ४७,४८,४९,५० व ५१ को निम्न वर्णित किया जा रहा हैः-

"४७- मतगणना- प्रत्येक निर्वाचन में जहां मतदान आयोजित किया जाता है वहां मतगणना रिटर्निंग अधिकारी द्वारा या उसके पर्यवेक्षण और निर्देश के अधीन की जायेगी।

४८- मतगणना हेतु समय, स्थान और दिनांक का नियत किया जाना- (१) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी मतदान समाप्त होने के पश्चात आयोग द्वारा यथा नियत मतगणना का दिनांक परिनिश्चित करेगा और ऐसा स्थान तथा समय नियत करेगा जिस स्थान तथा समय पर मतगणना की जायेगी।*

(२) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी निर्वाचन लड़ने वाले अभ्यर्थियों या उनके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ताओं को ऐसे दिनांक, समय और स्थान के संबंध में सूचना देगा।

(३) यदि मतगणना हेतु इस प्रकार नियत किये गये समय पर परिगणित किये जाने वाले मतों से अन्तर्विष्ट मतपेटिकायें, रिटर्निंग अधिकारी द्वारा नहीं प्राप्त की जाती हैं या यदि किसी अन्य अपरिहार्य कारण से गणना की कार्यवाही करने में असमर्थ हो तो वह मतगणना को अन्य दिनांक तक के लिये टाल सकता है और इसके लिये जिला निर्वाचन अधिकारी के पूर्व अनुमोदन से समय और स्थान को नियत कर सकता है और तत्सम्बन्ध में सूचना, निर्वाचन लड़ने वाले अभ्यर्थियों या उनके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ताओं को दे सकता है।

४९- गणन अभिकर्ता - (१) निर्वाचन लड़ने वाला अभ्यर्थी या उसके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ता, मतगणना के समय उसके गणन अभिकर्ताओं के रूप में उपस्थित रहने के लिये किसी एक व्यक्ति को परिनिश्चित कर सकता/सकते हैं।*

(२) ऐसी प्रत्येक नियुक्ति, मतगणना प्रारम्भ होने के पूर्व लिखित रूप में किया जायेगा।

(३) किन्ही गणन अभिकर्ताओं को गणना हेतु नियत स्थान पर तब तक प्रवेश नहीं दिया जायेगा जब तक वह उपनियम (२) के अधीन अपनी नियुक्ति का पत्र रिटर्निंग अधिकारी को न दे दे।

५० -ऐसे व्यक्ति, जो मतगणना के समय उपस्थित रह सकते हैं - (१) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी ऐसे व्यक्तियों को छोड़कर, किसी व्यक्ति को मतगणना के समय उपस्थित रहने की अनुज्ञा नहीं देगा, जैसाकि वह मतगणना में उसकी, और प्रत्येक निर्वाचन लड़ने वाले अभ्यर्थी, उसके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ताओं, और उसके गणन अभिकर्ताओं की सहायता करने के लिये नियत करें।*

(२) ऐसे किसी व्यक्ति, जिसे निर्वाचन में या उसके संबंध में किसी अभ्यर्थी द्वारा या उसकी ओर से नियोजित किया गया हो या वह उस अभ्यर्थी के लिये अन्यथा कार्य रहा हो, को मतगणना में रिटर्निंग अधिकारी की सहायता करने के लिये नियुक्त नहीं किया जायेगा।

(३) ऐसे किसी व्यक्ति, जो मतगणना के दौरान स्वयं कदाचार करता है या रिटर्निंग अधिकारी के विधिसम्मत निर्देशों का पालन करने में विफल रहता है, को ऐसे स्थान से हटाया जा सकता है जहां पर रिटर्निंग अधिकारी द्वारा या कर्तव्यरत किसी पुलिस अधिकारी द्वारा या इस निमित्त रिटर्निंग अधिकारी द्वारा प्राधिकृत किसी व्यक्ति द्वारा मतों की गणना की जा रही हो।

५१- गणना की प्रक्रिया -नियम ४८ के अधीन नियत दिनांक, समय और स्थान पर रिटर्निंग अधिकारी निम्नलिखित कार्यवाही करेगा - (क) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी स्वयं का समाधान करेगा कि मतदान के समय प्रयुक्त और उस स्थान पर परिगणित की जाने वाली समस्त मतपेटिकाएं या इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीनें प्राप्त कर लिये गये हैं और उनका विवरण दिया जा चुका है,

(ख) तत्पश्चात रिटर्निंग अधिकारी मतगणना के समय उपस्थित अभ्यर्थियों और उनके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ताओं तथा गणन अभिकर्ताओं को यथास्थिति मतपेटिकाओं या इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन और यह समाधान करने के लिये मुहरों का निरीक्षण करने का अवसर देगा कि वे उचित क्रम में हैं।

(ग) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी इस बात का भी स्वयं समाधान करेगा कि किसी भी पेटिका या इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन के साथ छेड़छाड़ नहीं की गयी है; यदि उसके द्वारा यथास्थिति, किसी मतपेटिका या इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन के साथ छेड़छाड़ किया गया या उसे नष्ट किया गया या खोया हुआ पाया जाता है तो रिटर्निंग अधिकारी मतगणना को रोक देगा और नियम ४२ के उपबन्धों के अनुसार कार्यवाही करेगा।

(घ) यदि रिटर्निंग अधिकारी का यह समाधान हो जाता है कि यथास्थिति ऐसी समस्त मतपेटिकाएं या इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन, जिनकी ऐसे स्थानों पर गणना की जानी हो, प्राप्त कर लिये गये हैं और वे उचित क्रम में हैं तो वह मतपेटिकाओं में अन्तर्विष्ट मतपत्रों की गणना प्रारम्भ करेगा। मतदान स्थल पर प्रयुक्त समस्त मतपेटिकाओं और इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीनों को खोला जायेगा और उसी समय उन पेटिकाओं में पाये गये मतपत्रों की गणना की कार्यवाही राज्य निर्वाचन आयोग के अनुदेशों के अनुसार की जायेगी।

(ङ) मतदान स्थल की पेटिकाओं में पाये गये मतपत्रों या उस स्थल के इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन में अभिलिखित मतों के लेखा को निर्वाचन आयोग द्वारा विनिर्दिष्ट प्रारूप वाले विवरण में अभिलिखित किया जायेगा।

(च) रिटर्निंग अधिकारी अभ्यर्थियों या उनके निर्वाचन अभिकर्ताओं और गणन अभिकर्ताओं, जो उपस्थित हो, को समस्त मतपत्रों, जो रिटर्निंग अधिकारी की राय में अस्वीकृत किये जाने योग्य हों, का निरीक्षण करने का युक्तियुक्त अवसर प्रदान करेगा किन्तु उन्हें इन पत्रों या किसी अन्य पत्र को संभालने नहीं देगा। रिटर्निंग अधिकारी प्रत्येक मतपत्र, जो अस्वीकृत हो गया हो, पर हिन्दी में देवनागरी लिपि में अस्वीकृति के संबंध में पृष्ठांकन करेगा। यदि कोई अभ्यर्थी या उसका निर्वाचन अभिकर्ता किसी मतपत्र की अस्वीकृति की सत्यता के संबंध में प्रश्न करता है तो रिटर्निंग अधिकारी ऐसे मतपत्र पर संक्षेप में अपनी अस्वीकृति के आधारों को भी अभिलिखित करेगा।

(छ) मतदान स्थल की मतपेटिकाओं में अन्तर्विष्ट समस्त मतपत्रों या उक्त स्थल की इलेक्ट्रानिक वोटिंग मशीन में अभिलिखित मतों की गणना को पूरा कर लिये जाने के पश्चात रिटर्निंग अधिकारी ऐसे समस्त मतपत्रों को ऐसे पृथक पृथक पैकेट में रखवायेगा जिस पर ऐसे विवरण इंगित किये जायेंगे जिससे कि मतदान स्थल, नगरपालिका का नाम और निर्वाचन क्षेत्र, जिनसे मतपत्र या मत संबंधित हो, की पहचान हो सके।"

१२. प्रारूप ३८ व प्रारूप ३९ में कथित गड़बड़ी/ओवर राईटिंग के आरोप व निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर १०,११ व १२ के संबंध में वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता श्री अग्रवाल ने राज्य निर्वाचन आयोग, उत्तर प्रदेश द्वारा मतगणना अधिकारियों/कर्मचारियों के उपयोग हेतु निर्देश पुस्तिका, २०२२ में दिये गये संबंधित निर्देशों का संदर्भ दिया कि मतगणना में उक्त निर्देशों का उचित पालन हुआ है। श्री अग्रवाल नें यह भी कथन किया कि याचिकाकर्ता ने निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर १९ में यह अभिकथन किया है कि इस संबंध में मतगणना अधिकारी की शिकायत करी, परन्तु बिना किसी विवरण दिये याचिकाकर्ता ने इस संदर्भ में कोई प्रपत्र भी सम्मिलित नहीं किया है। प्रारूप ३८ व ३९ की प्रति भी संलग्न नहीं करी है कि यह जाँच की जा सके कि प्रथम दृष्टया ही सही, त्रुटियों या ओवर राईटिंग का कोई सारवान् प्रभाव है अथवा नहीं, और ऐसा भी नहीं है कि ये प्रपत्र विधिक रूप से उपलब्ध नहीं हो सकते है। साथ ही अन्य विवरण जैसे मतगणना पटल तथा मतगणना अभिकर्ता के नाम का भी उल्लेख नहीं किया गया हैं।

१४. विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के कथनों को ध्यानपूर्वक श्रवण किया एवं पत्रावली का अध्ययन किया।

१५. आदेश ७ नियम ११, सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता को निम्न उल्लेखित किया जा रहा हैः-

"११. वादपत्र का नामंजूर किया जाना- वादपत्र निम्नलिखित दशाओं में नामंजूर कर दिया जाएगा-

(क) जहां वह वाद-हेतुक प्रकट नहीं करता है;

(ख) जहां दावाकृत अनुतोष का मूल्यांकन कम किया गया है और वादी मूल्यांकन को ठीक करने के लिए न्यायालय द्वारा अपेक्षित किए जाने पर उस समय के भीतर जो न्यायालय ने नियत किया है, ऐसा करने में असफल रहता है;

(ग) जहां दावाकृत अनुतोष का मूल्यांकन ठीक है किन्तु वादपत्र अपर्याप्त स्टाम्प-पत्र पर लिखा गया है और वादी अपेक्षित स्टाम्प-पत्र के देने के लिए न्यायालय द्वारा अपेक्षित किए जाने पर उस समय के भीतर, जो न्यायालय ने नियत किया है, ऐसा करने में असफल रहता है;

(घ) जहां वादपत्र में के कथन से यह प्रतीत होता है कि वाद किसी विधि द्वारा वर्जित है;

[(ङ) जहां यह दो प्रतियों में फाइल नहीं किया जाता है;]

[(च) जहां वादी नियम ९ के उपबंधों का अनुपालन करने में असफल रहता है :]

[परन्तु मूल्यांकन की शुद्धि के लिए या अपेक्षित स्टाम्प-पत्र के देने के लिए न्यायालय द्वारा नियत समय तब तक नहीं बढ़ाया जाएगा जब तक कि न्यायालय का, अभिलिखित किए जाने वाले कारणों से यह समाधान नहीं हो जाता है कि वादी किसी असाधारण कारण से, न्यायालय द्वारा नियत समय के भीतर, यथास्थिति, मूल्यांकन की शुद्धि करने या अपेक्षित स्टाम्प-पत्र के देने से रोक दिया गया था और ऐसे समय के बढ़ाने से इन्कार किए जाने में वादी के प्रति गंभीर अन्याय होगा।]"

१६. उपरोक्त आदेश ७ नियम ११ व निर्वाचन याचिका की विधि के विश्लेषण की पृष्ठभूमि में वर्तमान निर्वाचन याचिका के अभिवचनों का आकलन करना होगा कि क्या आदेश ७ नियम ११ के अंतर्गत उक्त याचिका निरस्त की जा सकती है अथवा नहीं? और यह कि आक्षेपित आदेश विधिक है अथवा नहीं।

१७. सर्वोच्च न्यायालय द्वारा करीमुद्दीन बरभुइया बनाम अमीनुल हक लशकर एवं अन्य, २०२४ आई.एन.एस.सी. २८२ में लक्ष्मी नारायण नायक बनाम रामरतन चतुर्वेदी एवं अन्य, (१९९०) २ एस.सी.सी. १७३ के प्रकरण में दिए गए निर्णय का संदर्भ लेना समीचीन होगा, जिसमें उच्चतम न्यायालय ने पूर्व के निर्णयों की समीक्षा करते हुए, भ्रष्ट आचरण से जुड़े निर्वाचन प्रकरणों पर आदेश ७ नियम ११, सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता के लागू होने वाले निम्नलिखित सिद्धांतो को निर्धारित किया है:-

''14. A beneficial reference of the decision in case of Laxmi Narayan Nayak v. Ramratan Chaturvedi be also made, wherein this Court upon review of the earlier decisions, laid down following principles applicable to election cases involving corrupt practices:

''5. This Court in a catena of decisions has laid down the principles as to the nature of pleadings in election cases, the sum and substance of which being:

(1) The pleadings of the election petitioner in his petition should be absolutely precise and clear containing all necessary details and particulars as required by law vide Dhartipakar Madan Lal Agarwal v. Rajiv Gandhi [1987 Supp SCC 93] and Kona Prabhakara Rao v. M. Seshagiri Rao [(1982) 1 SCC 442].

(2) The allegations in the election petition should not be vague, general in nature or lacking of materials or frivolous or vexatious because the court is empowered at any stage of the proceedings to strike down or delete pleadings which are suffering from such vices as not raising any triable issue vide Manphul Singh v. Surinder Singh [(1973) 2 SCC 599 : (1974) 1 SCR 52], Kona Prabhakara Rao v. M. Seshagiri Rao [(1982) 1 SCC 442] and Dhartipakar Madan Lal Agarwal v. Rajiv Gandhi [1987 Supp SCC 93].

(3) The evidence adduced in support of the pleadings should be of such nature leading to an irresistible conclusion or unimpeachable result that the allegations made, have been committed rendering the election void under Section 100 vide Jumuna Prasad Mukhariya v. Lachhi Ram [(1954) 2 SCC 306 : (1955) 1 SCR 608 : AIR 1954 SC 686] and Rahim Khan v. Khurshid Ahmed [(1974) 2 SCC 660].

(4) The evidence produced before the court in support of the pleadings must be clear, cogent, satisfactory, credible and positive and also should stand the test of strict and scrupulous scrutiny vide Ram Sharan Yadav v. Thakur Muneshwar Nath Singh [(1984) 4 SCC 649].

(5) It is unsafe in an election case to accept oral evidence at its face value without looking for assurances for some surer circumstances or unimpeachable documents vide Rahim Khan v. Khurshid Ahmed [(1974) 2 SCC 660], M. Narayana Rao v. G. Venkata Reddy [(1977) 1 SCC 771 : (1977) 1 SCR 490], Lakshmi Raman Acharya v. Chandan Singh [(1977) 1 SCC 423 : (1977) 2 SCR 412] and Ramji Prasad Singh v. Ram Bilas Jha [(1977) 1 SCC 260].

(6) The onus of proof of the allegations made in the election petition is undoubtedly on the person who assails an election which has been concluded vide Rahim Khan v. Khurshid Ahmed [(1974) 2 SCC 660], Mohan Singh v. Bhanwarlal [(1964) 5 SCR 12 : AIR 1964 SC 1366] and Ramji Prasad Singh v. Ram Bilas Jha [(1977) 1 SCC 260].

15. The legal position with regard to the non-compliance of the requirement of Section 83(1)(a) of the RP Act and the rejection of Election Petition under Order VII Rule 11, CPC has also been regurgitated recently by this Court in case of Kanimozhi Karunanidhi v. A. Santhana Kumar (supra):-

''28. The legal position enunciated in afore-stated cases may be summed up as under:-

i. Section 83(1)(a) of RP Act, 1951 mandates that an Election petition shall contain a concise statement of material facts on which the petitioner relies. If material facts are not stated in an Election petition, the same is liable to be dismissed on that ground alone, as the case would be covered by Clause (a) of Rule 11 of Order 7 of the Code.

ii. The material facts must be such facts as would afford a basis for the allegations made in the petition and would constitute the cause of action, that is every fact which it would be necessary for the plaintiff/petitioner to prove, if traversed in order to support his right to the judgment of court. Omission of a single material fact would lead to an incomplete cause of action and the statement of plaint would become bad.

iii. Material facts mean the entire bundle of facts which would constitute a complete cause of action. Material facts would include positive statement of facts as also positive averment of a negative fact, if necessary.

iv. In order to get an election declared as void under Section 100 (1)(d)(iv) of the RP Act, the Election petitioner must aver that on account of non-compliance with the provisions of the Constitution or of the Act or any rules or orders made under the Act, the result of the election, in so far as it concerned the returned candidate, was materially affected.

v. The Election petition is a serious matter and it cannot be treated lightly or in a fanciful manner nor is it given to a person who uses it as a handle for vexatious purpose.

vi. An Election petition can be summarily dismissed on the omission of a single material fact leading to an incomplete cause of action, or omission to contain a concise statement of material facts on which the petitioner relies for establishing a cause of action, in exercise of the powers under Clause (a) of Rule 11 of Order VII CPC read with the mandatory requirements enjoined by Section 83 of the RP Act.''

"१४. लक्ष्मी नारायण नायक बनाम राम रतन चतुर्वेदी के प्रकरण में दिए गए निर्णय का भी एक उपयोगी संदर्भ दिया जा सकता है, जिसमें इस न्यायालय ने पिछले निर्णयों की समीक्षा करने के बाद, भ्रष्ट आचरण से जुड़े चुनाव प्रकरणों पर लागू होने वाले निम्नलिखित सिद्धांत निर्धारित किए:-

"५. इस न्यायालय ने निर्णयों की एक लंबी श्रृंखला में निर्वाचन प्रकरणों में अभिवचनों की प्रकृति के संबंध में सिद्धांत निर्धारित किए हैं, जिनका सार और तत्व इस प्रकार है:

(१) चुनाव याचिकाकर्ता की याचिका में अभिवचन पूर्णतः यथार्थ और स्पष्ट होने चाहिए, जिसमें समस्त आवश्यक विवरण और ब्यौरा शामिल हो, जैसा कि धरतीपकड़ मदन लाल अग्रवाल बनाम राजीव गांधी [१९८७ सप० एस.सी.सी. ९३] और कोना प्रभाकर राव बनाम एम शेषगिरी राव [(१९८२) १ एस.सी.सी. ४४२] में उल्लेखित किया गया है।

(२) चुनाव याचिका में लगाए गए आरोप अस्पष्ट, सामान्य प्रकृति के या सारवान तथ्यों के अभाव वाले या निर्थक या कष्टप्रद करने वाले नहीं होने चाहिए; क्योंकि न्यायालय को कार्यवाही के किसी भी चरण में उन अभिवचनों को निरस्त या खण्डित करने के लिए शसक्त है जो ऐसे दावों से ग्रस्त है और जैसा कि मनफूल सिंह बनाम सुरिंदर सिंह [(१९७३) २ एस.सी.सी. ५९९ : (१९७४) १ एस.सी.आर. ५२], कोना प्रभाकर राव बनाम एम.शेषगिरी राव [(१९८२) १ एस.सी.सी. ४४२] और धरतीपकड मदन लाल अग्रवाल बनाम राजीव गांधी [१९८७ सप० एस.सी.सी. ९३] में कहा गया है।

(३) अभिवचनों के समर्थन में प्रस्तुत साक्ष्य इस प्रकृति का होना चाहिए जो एक अकाट्य निष्कर्ष या निर्विवाद परिणाम की ओर ले जाए कि लगाए गए आरोप कारित किए हैं, जिससे धारा १०० के तहत

चुनाव शून्य हो सकता है, जैसा कि जमुना प्रसाद मुखरिया बनाम लच्छी राम [(१९५४) २ एस.सी.सी. ३०६ : (१९५५) १ एस.सी.आर. ६०८ : ए.आई.आर १९५४ एस.सी. ६८६] और रहीम खान बनाम खुर्शीद अहमद[(१९७४) २ एस.सी.सी. ६६०] में कहा गया है।

(४) अभिवचनों के समर्थन में न्यायालय के समक्ष प्रस्तुत साक्ष्य स्पष्ट, सुसंगत, संतोषजनक, विश्वसनीय और सकारात्मक होने चाहिए और उन्हें सख्त एवं सावधानी पूर्वक जांच की कसौटी पर भी खरा उतरना चाहिए।, जैसा कि राम शरण यादव बनाम ठाकुर मुनेश्वर नाथ सिंह में कहा गया है। [(१९८४) ४ एस.सी.सी. ६४९].

(५) चुनाव के मामले में, कुछ पक्के साक्ष्य या बिना शक वाले पत्रावली को देखे बिना मौखिक साक्ष्य को सीधे तौर पर मान लेना सुरक्षित नहीं है, देखें रहीम खान बनाम खुर्शीद अहमद [(१९७४) २ एस.सी.सी. ६६०], एम. नारायण राव बनाम जी. रेड्डी [(१९७७) १ एस.सी.सी. ७७१ : (१९७७) १ एस.सी.आर. ४९०], लक्ष्मी रमन आचार्य बनाम चंदन सिंह [(१९७७) १ एस.सी.सी. ४२३ : (१९७७) २ एस.सी.आर. ४१२] और रामजी प्रसाद सिंह बनाम राम बिलास झा [(१९७७) १ एस.सी.सी. २६०]।

(६) चुनाव याचिका में लगाए गए आरोप को साबित करने का बोझ निसंदेह उस व्यक्ति पर होता है जो पहले से हो चुके चुनाव को चुनौती देता है, देखें रहीम खान बनाम खुर्शीद अहमद [(१९७४) २ एस.सी.सी. ६६०], मोहन सिंह बनाम भंवरलाल [और रामजी प्रसाद सिंह बनाम राम बिलास झा [(१९७७) १ एस.सी.सी. २६०]।''

१५. आर.पी. एक्ट की धारा ८३(१)(क) की आवश्यकता के अनुपालन न करने और सिविल प्रक्रिया संहिता के आदेश ७ नियम ११ के तहत चुनाव याचिका को खारिज करने के संबंध में विधिक स्थिति को हाल ही में इस न्यायालय द्वारा 'कनिमोझी करुणानिधि बनाम ए. संथान कुमार (उपरोक्त)' के मामले में फिर से दोहराया गया है:-

''२८. पूर्वोक्त मामलों में प्रतिपादित कानूनी स्थिति को निम्नानुसार संक्षेपित किया जा सकता है:-

I. लोक प्रतिनिधित्व अधिनियम, १९५१ की धारा ८३(१)(क) यह अधिदेश देती है कि एक चुनाव याचिका में उन भौतिक तथ्यों का संक्षिप्त विवरण होना चाहिए जिन पर याचिकाकर्ता भरोसा करता है। यदि चुनाव याचिका में भौतिक तथ्यों का उल्लेख नहीं किया गया है, तो वह केवल उसी आधार पर निरस्त होने योग्य है, क्योंकि ऐसा मामला संहिता के आदेश ७ के नियम ११ के खंड (क) के अंतर्गत आएगा।*

II. भौतिक तथ्य ऐसे तथ्य होने चाहिए जो याचिका में लगाए गए आरोपों के लिए आधार प्रदान करें और वाद हेतुक का गठन करें, अर्थात प्रत्येक वह तथ्य जिसे वादी/याचिकाकर्ता के लिए साबित करना*

आवश्यक होगा, यदि न्यायालय के निर्णय के अधिकार का समर्थन करने के लिए उसे चुनौती दी जाती है। एक भी भौतिक तथ्य का लोप एक अपूर्ण वाद हेतुक की ओर ले जाएगा और वाद-पत्र का विवरण दोषपूर्ण हो जाएगा।

III. भौतिक तथ्यों का अर्थ तथ्यों का वह पूरा समूह है जो एक पूर्ण वाद हेतुक का गठन करता है। भौतिक तथ्यों में तथ्यों का सकारात्मक विवरण यदि आवश्यक हो, तो नकारात्मक तथ्य का सकारात्मक अभिकथन भी शामिल होगा।

IV. लोक प्रतिनिधित्व अधिनियम की धारा १००(१)(घ)(iv) के तहत किसी चुनाव को शून्य घोषित कराने के लिए, चुनाव याचिकाकर्ता को यह अभिकथन करना चाहिए कि संविधान के प्रावधानों या अधिनियम या अधिनियम के तहत बनाए गए किसी भी नियम या आदेश के अनुपालन न होने के कारण, निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार से संबंधित चुनाव का परिणाम तात्विक रूप से प्रभावित हुआ था।

V. चुनाव याचिका एक गंभीर मामला है और इसे हल्के में या काल्पनिक तरीके से नहीं लिया जा सकता है, न ही यह उस व्यक्ति को दी जाती है जो इसका उपयोग तंग करने वाले उद्देश्य के लिए करता है।

VI. एक चुनाव याचिका को एक ही भौतिक तथ्य की चूक, जिससे वाद-कारण अपूर्ण रह जाता है, या उन भौतिक तथ्यों के संक्षिप्त विवरण के अभाव में जिन पर याचिकाकर्ता वाद-कारण स्थापित करने के लिए भरोसा करता है, सीपीसी के आदेश ७ नियम ११ के खंड (क) के तहत शक्तियों का प्रयोग करते हुए और लोक प्रतिनिधित्व अधिनियम की धारा ८३ द्वारा अनिवार्य आवश्यकताओं के साथ पढ़ते हुए, सरसरी तौर पर खारिज किया जा सकता है।''

(हिन्दी अनुवाद न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया है।)

१८. निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर ८ में निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता ने यह अभिकथन किया कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार का उठना-बैठना भा.ज.पा. के बड़े बड़े राजनैतिक व्यक्तियों तथा पूर्व विधायक एवं कई बड़े अधिकारियों से है। परंतु किसी भी ऐसे व्यक्ति, विधायक या अधिकारी के नाम का उल्लेख नहीं किया है। इसके उपरांत उक्त प्रस्तर में यह भी अभिकथन किया कि, किसी व्यक्ति, विधायक या अधिकारी ने अपने प्रभाव से परिसीमन की प्रक्रिया के दौरान, गांव के बाहर के लोगों के लगभग २५० वोटरों के नाम पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी की मतदाता सूची में शामिल करा दिया, जबकि वह उक्त क्षेत्र के निवासी नहीं थे और उन सबने इस चुनाव में मतदान भी किया, परंतु न तो प्रभाव डालने की प्रक्रिया में कथित रूप से शामिल किसी व्यक्ति के नाम का उल्लेख किया गया है और न ही कथित २५० व्यक्तियों में से किसी भी एक व्यक्ति का नाम बताया गया तथा न ही यह उल्लेख किया कि उन्होंने किस वार्ड में किस मतदान स्थल पर मतदान किया और न ही यह घोषित किया कि यह २५० मतदाता या इसमें से कितने मतदाताओं ने निर्वाचित

उम्मीदवार के पक्ष में मतदान किया। यहाँ यह उल्लेख करना आवश्यक है कि निर्वाचन याचिका इस आधार पर संस्थित नहीं करी जा सकती कि इन मतदाताओं का नाम अर्ह न होते हुए भी निर्वाचन नामावली में उनके नाम सम्मिलित किये गये। [देखें 'अधिनियम १९१६' की धारा १९(२) (क)]

१९. उपरोक्त अभिवचनों में कथित अनियमितताओं का संदर्भ तो दिया है परंतु उससे होने वाली त्रुटियों का किसी भी प्रकार से निर्वाचन प्रक्रिया पर हुए कथित सारवान् प्रभाव का उल्लेख करने में निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता पूर्ण रूप से असफल रहा है।, निर्वाचन याचिका में मात्र तथ्यों का संक्षिप्त विवरण ही आवश्यक नहीं है अपितु तथ्यों का सारवान् होना भी आवश्यक है, ऐसा अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा २० (१) की अपेक्षा है। अन्यथा ऐसी अपूर्ण निर्वाचन याचिका को प्रारम्भ में ही निरस्त किया जा सकता है। उपरोक्त विश्लेषण के निर्णय स्वरूप इस न्यायालय का यह निश्चित मत है कि उपरोक्त वर्णित प्रस्तर ८ में अभिवचन इस परीक्षा में पूर्ण रूप से अनुतीर्ण रहे है और ऐसे अभिवचन सारवान् तथ्यों की श्रेणी में नहीं आ सकते है। ऐसे अभिवचन पूर्णतः अस्पष्ट व असंगत माने जायेंगे।

२१. निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर ९ में आगे यह कथन किया है कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार के सगे भाई आशुतोष पाठक का वर्तमान निर्वाचन क्षेत्र परीसीमन में व ग्राम पंचायत निर्वाचन नामावली- २०२२ के वार्ड संख्या १ व वार्ड संख्या ३ में भी नाम अंकित है। जो एक भ्रष्ट आचरण है। प्रस्तर १७ में यह कथन किया है कि कपिल पाठक ने नगर पालिका चंदौसी व नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी में भी मतदान किया व आशुतोष पाठक ने नगर पंचायत मुडिया धुरेकी के दोनो वार्ड से वोट डाला। यहाँ न्यायालय यह ध्यान में रखता है कि वर्तमान प्रकरण में हार जीत का फासला मात्र ५ मत है अतः अगर एक मतदाता का नाम दो वार्ड की मतदाता सूची में अंकित है और दोनो स्थानों पर उसने मतदान किया है तो उसके दोनों मत अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा १३ ङ (३) के अंतर्गत शून्य माने जा सकते है। अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा १३ (ङ) को निम्न उल्लेखित किया जा रहा हैः-

"१३-ङः मत देने का अधिकार (१) कोई व्यक्ति, जिसका नाम तत्समय किसी कक्ष की निर्वाचक नामावली में प्रविष्ट न हो उस कक्ष में मत देने का हकदार न होगा जैसा कि इस अधिनियम में स्पष्टतः उपबन्धित है उसके सिवाय प्रत्येक व्यक्ति जिसका नाम तत्समय किसी कक्ष की निर्वाचक नामावली में प्रविष्ट हो, उस कक्ष में मत देने का हकदार होगा।

(२) कोई व्यक्ति किसी कक्ष में निर्वाचन में मत नहीं देगा, यदि वह धारा १२-घ में निर्दिष्ट किसी अनर्हता के अधीन है।

(३) कोई व्यक्ति किसी साधारण निर्वाचन में एक से अधिक कक्षों में मत नहीं देगा और यदि कोई व्यक्ति ऐसे एक से अधिक कक्षों में मत देता है तो ऐसे सभी कक्षों में उसके दिये हुये मत शून्य हो जायेंगे।

(४) कोई व्यक्ति किसी निर्वाचन में एक ही कक्ष में एक से अधिक बार मत नहीं देगा भले ही उस कक्ष की निर्वाचक नामावली में उसका नाम एक से अधिक बार रजिस्ट्रीकृत किया गया हो, और यदि वह इस प्रकार मत देता है, तो उस कक्ष में उसके दिये हुये सभी मत शून्य हो जायेंगे।

(५) कोई व्यक्ति किसी निर्वाचन में मत नहीं देगा, यदि वह कारागार में, चाहे कारावास के या निर्वासन दण्डादेश के अधीन या अन्य प्रकार से परिरुद्ध हो, या पुलिस की विधिपूर्ण अभिरक्षा में हो:

परन्तु इस उपधारा की कोई बात ऐसे व्यक्ति पर लागू न होगी, जिसको तत्समय प्रवृत्त किसी विधि के अधीन निवारक निरोध किया गया हो।"

२२. इस स्तर पर यह भी विचार करना होगा कि निर्वाचन याचिका में उपरोक्त कथन के साक्ष्य में जब कोई भी प्रलेखी साक्ष्य संलग्न नहीं किया है तो क्या ऐसा कृत्य ' भ्रष्ट आचरण' में सम्मिलित होगा। 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' जो अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा २८ में परिभाषित किया गया है उसमें एक मतदाता द्वारा दो स्थान पर मतदान कारित करना, निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार के 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' का कारण नहीं हो सकता। अतः यह कृत्य यदि कारित भी हुआ है तब भी 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' नहीं माना जा सकता है।

२३. इसके अतिरिक्त उक्त कथन पर जो किसी प्रालेखी साक्ष्य पर आधारित नहीं है, ऐसे अस्पष्ट आधार पर क्या निर्वाचन याचिका को बनाए रखना चाहिये अथवा गुण-दोष पर पुनः मतगणना का आदेश पारित करना चाहिये, जबकि अविवादित रूप से गणन अभिकर्ता ने मतगणना स्थल पर कोई लिखित शिकायत नही करी व दो मत के कम होने से भी निर्वाचन का परिणाम सारवान् रूप से प्रभावित नहीं होगा। जबकि यह 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' नहीं है और न ही यह अभिवचन 'पूरे ब्यौरे' की कसौटी पर खरा उतरता है जो ' अधिनियम १९१६' की धारा २० के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत करना आवश्यक होता है।

२४. इस स्तर पर निर्वाचन याचिका की प्रार्थना पर ध्यान देना भी आवश्यक है। याचिकाकर्ता ने 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' के आधार पर ही याचिका दाखिल की है और चुनाव रद्द किये जाने की प्रार्थना की है। उसने पुर्नगणना की कोई प्रार्थना नहीं की है। इसलिए याचिकाकर्ता ने यह आधार नहीं लिया कि, यदि मतगणना में त्रुटि है तो पुनः गणना करें। निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता नें मुख्य रूप से यह आधार लिया है कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार ने २५० नयें मतदाताओं का नाम मतदाता सूची में सम्मिलित कराया और निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार

के दो भाईयों ने एक से अधिक मतदान केंद्रों पर अपना मत डाला जो निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार का भ्रष्ट आचरण है। याचिका में की गई प्रार्थना निम्न हैः-

"It is, therefore most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to:-

Issue a order, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing the impugned judgment/order dated 14.08.2025 passed by the Additional District Judge Court No. 10 Budaun in Election Petition No. 1 of 2023 (Dinesh Chandra @ Dinesh Chandra Bhatt Vs. Sunil Kumar and others) (Annexure-1 to the petition).

Issue any such other and further order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

III. Award the cost of the writ petition to the petitioner, against the respondent

हिन्दी अनुवाद

अतः, इस माननीय न्यायालय से अत्यंत विनम्रतापूर्वक निवेदन है कि वह कृपापूर्वक निम्नलिखित आदेश जारी करे:

I. अतिरिक्त जिला न्यायाधीश, न्यायालय संख्या १०, बदायूं द्वारा चुनाव याचिका संख्या १/२०२३ (दिनेश चंद्र उर्फ दिनेश चंद्र भट्ट बनाम सुनील कुमार और अन्य) (याचिका का अनुलग्नक-१) में दिनांक १४.०८.२०२५ को पारित निर्णय/आदेश को रद्द करने हेतु सर्टिओरारी(उत्प्रेषण) प्रकृति का परमादेश निर्गत करे।

II. प्रकरण की परिस्थितियों के अनुसार माननीय न्यायालय जो उचित समझे ऐसे आदेश अथवा अन्य आदेश निर्गत करे।

III. याचिकाकर्ता को प्रतिवादी के विरुद्ध रिट याचिका का खर्च प्रदान करायें।"

(हिन्दी अनुवाद न्यायालय द्वारा किया गया है।)

२५. जैसा पूर्व में विश्लेषण किया गया है कि उपरोक्त वर्णित प्रस्तर संख्या १९,२० व २८ में भ्रष्ट आचरण के आरोप के लिए अपेक्षित पूर्ण ब्यौरे उपलब्ध नहीं है और न ही 'अधिनियम १९१६' की धारा २८ में दिये गये कारक ही उपस्थित है।

२६. निर्वाचन याचिका के प्रस्तर १० में निर्वाचन याचिकाकर्ता ने यह अभिवचन किया कि वार्ड सं० ६,७,८,९ व १० मतगणना के दौरान मतगणना अधिकारी ने निजी स्वार्थ तथा राजनैतिक प्रभाव के कारण याची के मतों को गलत रूप से घटाया और निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार के मतों को गलत रूप से बढाया गया। एक संख्या का भी उल्लेख किया है परन्तु यह कथन किस आधार पर आधारित है न तो कोई उल्लेख किया और

न ही ऐसा कोई प्रलेख ही संलग्न किया। आरोप, मतगणना अधिकारी पर लगाये गये परन्तु वह नाम से प्रतिवादी नहीं बनाया गया है। मात्र गणना पर्यवेक्षक ही प्रतिवादी बनाये गये है। यह भी अभिवचन नहीं किया है कि कितने मतों को गलत रूप से अस्वीकृत किया गया जो उसके पक्ष में डाले गये थे। यह सही है, कि धारा १९ (१)(ख) के अंतर्गत एक से अधिक मतों को अनुचित रूप से अस्वीकार या स्वीकार किया गया है तो ऐसे निर्वाचन पर आपत्ति की जा सकती है परन्तु यह कारण 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' के अंतर्गत सम्मिलित नहीं है। इसके अतिरिक्त ऐसा कोई सारवान् तथ्य उल्लेखित नहीं है कि, निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार ने स्वयं ऐसा कारित किया हो या किसी और से करवाया हो। मात्र कथित आरोप पर निर्वाचन याचिका संस्थित नहीं करी जा सकती है। कोई ऐसा कथन भी पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध नहीं है कि मतगणना के दौरान कोई लिखित शिकायत ही करी गई हो।

२७. अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा २० के अनुसार यदि याचिकाकर्ता 'भ्रष्ट आचरण' का आरोप लगाता हो तो उसे निर्वाचन याचिका में पूरे ब्यौरे उपलब्ध कराने होते हैं, जिसमें ऐसे पक्षों के नाम हो जिस पर भ्रष्ट आचरण करने का आरोप लगाया हो और ऐसा प्रत्येक भ्रष्ट आचरण करने का दिनाँक तथा स्थान का यथा सम्भव पूरा ब्यौरा देना होता है, परन्तु उपरोक्त वर्णित याचिका के प्रस्तरों के अध्ययन से ऐसा कोई भी ब्यौरा उपलब्ध नहीं कराया गया है वरन् बहुत ही सरलता से यह आरोप लगाया है कि निर्वाचित उम्मीदवार ने २५० अनर्ह मतदाताओं के नाम मतदाता सूची में सम्मिलित करवाये, जो उस परिसीमन के अन्तर्गत नहीं आते थे परन्तु न तो किसी ऐसे मतदाता का नाम उल्लेखित किया और न ही किसी मतदाता सूची का ही उल्लेख किया। इसके अतिरिक्त उक्त आरोप अधिनियम १९१६ की धारा २८ में भ्रष्ट आचरण की किसी भी श्रेणी के अंतर्गत नहीं आता है। प्रारूप ३८ व ३९ के संबंध में कथित आरोप, जैसे कि ओवर राईटिंग आदि के समर्थन में भी निर्वाचन याचिका में न तो कोई विवरण ही दिया गया और न ही किसी प्रकार के आरोप की स्पष्टता है।

२८. इसी प्रकार मतों का गलत ढंग से स्वीकार या अस्वीकार करना भी भ्रष्ट आचरण की श्रेणी में नहीं आता है। अतः यह प्रार्थना कि भ्रष्ट आचरण के कारण पड़े मतों को रद्द किया जायें अपने आप में एक अस्पष्ट प्रार्थना है जिसके लिए निर्वाचन याचिका में न तो कोई सारवान् तथ्यों का संक्षिप्त विवरण है और न तो पूरा ब्यौरा ही दिया गया है।

२९. उपरोक्त विश्लेषण का एक मात्र निष्कर्ष है कि निर्वाचन याचिका में वर्णित अभिवचन अस्पष्ट,असंगत और साधारण प्रवृत्ति के है। अतः ऐसी याचिका को संक्षेप में निरस्त करने में आक्षेपित आदेश में कोई विधिक त्रुटि नहीं की गई है।

३०. अतः वर्तमान याचिका निरस्त की जाती है।

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

(i) Whether the invocation of the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and the consequent dispensation of enquiry under Section 5-A, was justified in the facts and circumstances of the case?
(ii) Whether reservation of land for "future planning" amounts to utilization?
(iii) Whether the auction and subsequent transfer in favour of the private respondent are hit by the doctrine of lis pendens?
(iv) Whether the impugned actions result in deprivation of property otherwise than by authority of law, infringing Article 300-A?
(v) Whether the landowner is entitled to seek reversion or challenge auction and whether actions are arbitrary, illegal and violative of Articles 14 and 300-A?

HEADNOTE

Land Acquisition Act, 1894 – ss. 4, 5-A, 6, 16, 17(1), 17(4), 17(3-A) – Transfer of Property Act, 1882 – s. 52 – Constitution of India – Arts. 14, 300-A – Acquisition proceedings – Urgency clause – Dispensation of enquiry – Auction – Lis pendens – Utilisation – Deprivation of property:
Held:
A. The condition precedent for invoking Section 17(1) is the existence of real, genuine and compelling urgency. The appropriate Government must be satisfied that possession of the land is urgently required and that any delay would frustrate the very purpose of acquisition, to the extent that even the minimum statutory period prescribed for filing objections and conducting enquiry under Section 5-A cannot be afforded without defeating the public purpose. Such urgency must be based on objective material and due application of mind. Mere administrative exigency or convenience, however pressing, does not meet the statutory threshold. A mechanical recital of urgency in the notification, unsupported by reasons or contemporaneous record, is bad in law, and non-application of mind vitiates the invocation of Section 17. The power to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A is an extraordinary and exceptional power. The right under Section 5-A is a valuable statutory right available to the landowner, and its exclusion cannot be resorted to as a matter of routine. Such dispensation is permissible only in exceptional circumstances where strong and demonstrable reasons exist, justifying the elimination of even a brief enquiry. (Para 14, 17, 23)

B. The right of objection under Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is not an empty formality but a valuable and substantive right available to a landholder prior to compulsory acquisition. Dispensation of such enquiry by invoking the urgency clause under Section 17 can be sustained only in exceptional circumstances where the urgency is real, immediate and compelling. Any routine, casual or mechanical exercise of this extraordinary power undermines the statutory safeguard embodied in Section 5-A and is liable to be interdicted by constitutional courts. Section 17(4), which enables such dispensation, has the effect of depriving the landowner of the valuable right to object and be heard; hence, it cannot be invoked lightly or as a matter of routine. Mere planned development of a city or town does not automatically justify invoking Section 17(4) of the Act. The possibility of encroachment or future need for land is not a sufficient reason to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A. (Para 28, 57)

C. By insertion of sub-section (3-A) in Section 17 of the Act, it is made obligatory that 80% of the estimated compensation must be tendered prior to taking possession. Absolute vesting of land in the State is contingent upon compliance with this condition. The statutory scheme contemplates a clear sequence—first, payment of 80% of the estimated compensation; second, taking of possession; and third, consequent vesting. Failure to adhere to any stage of this sequence vitiates the invocation of the emergency provision. Accordingly, possession taken without prior payment of 80% of the estimated compensation cannot be regarded as lawful, nor can it result in absolute vesting of the land in the State. Compulsory acquisition, undertaken in breach of this mandatory safeguard, stands rendered illegal. Even where possession is purportedly assumed under Section 17, non-compliance with Section 17(3-A) defeats the legal fiction of vesting. Court has held that where such payment is not made before dispossession, the acquisition loses its character under Section 17, and in the absence of an award within the prescribed period, the entire proceedings lapse. Thus, non-payment of 80% compensation prior to possession renders such possession unlawful, and vesting cannot be treated as absolute or indefeasible. In the present case, the mandatory requirement under Section 17(3-A) was admittedly not fulfilled (Paras 61, 74).

D. Article 300-A of the Constitution provides that no person shall be deprived of property except by authority of law. The expression "authority of law" requires that the State strictly follow the procedure prescribed under the statute, and that the power of acquisition be exercised fairly, legally, and in accordance with all mandatory provisions. Dispensing with the right of objection under Section 5-A casually or without genuine urgency is neither fair nor lawful, and mechanical or arbitrary exercise of power cannot satisfy constitutional requirements. The deprivation of the property shall be only by authority of law, be it an Act of Parliament or State Legislature, but not by executive fiat or an order. Though the right to property is no longer a fundamental right, it remains a constitutional right. A person can be deprived of property only by authority of a valid law, and such law must prescribe a just, fair and reasonable procedure. State cannot take property by executive action or in an arbitrary manner; deprivation must strictly conform to statutory provisions. Any action not supported by valid law or taken in violation of prescribed procedure would be unconstitutional and liable to be struck down. (Para 56, 59, 60)

E. Where land acquired for a public purpose remains unused for a considerable period and is thereafter selectively alienated, the action ceases to serve the declared purpose and amounts to arbitrary deprivation. The doctrine of eminent domain permits acquisition only for a predominantly public purpose, not for transfer to private parties under the guise of development. Such selective alienation, particularly after long non-utilisation, reflects misuse of statutory power and defeats the very object of acquisition. Even if compensation has been paid, deprivation of property in such circumstances does not satisfy the mandate of Article 300-A of the Constitution. Consequently, the action warrants strict judicial scrutiny and cannot be sustained merely on the ground of formal compliance with procedure.

F. The object of the proviso to Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 is to prevent indefinite retention of land acquired for public purpose without its utilization. the proviso confers a substantive right upon the ousted landholder to apply for restoration after five years of non-utilisation. The right so conferred is not an empty formality but a substantive safeguard intended to ensure that land acquired for a declared public purpose is not retained indefinitely without being put to meaningful and bonafide use. Where land remains unutilised for a prolonged period and the Authority fails to utilise it for the declared purpose, the right of the landholder to seek restoration cannot be defeated by mere procedural delay or inaction. (Para 84)

G. The expression "utilization" in the relevant statutory provision connotes actual use of the land for the purpose for which it has been acquired, and not a mere proposal, intention or reservation for an uncertain future. Reservation of land for "future planning" is inherently contingent and indeterminate and does not result in any present or tangible use.* Mere earmarking or retention of land for a prospective project, in the absence of concrete steps towards development or implementation, cannot in law be regarded as utilisation. The State is not permitted to retain acquired land for an indefinite period on the vague ground of "future planning". The land must be put to real and effective use for the stated public purpose. Utilisation must be real, substantive and demonstrable, and not illusory, and reservation of land without actual development or use does not satisfy the requirement of utilisation. (Paras 34, 35, 37)

H. The doctrine of lis pendens, embodied in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, is founded on public policy and mandates that during the pendency of litigation wherein rights to immovable property are directly and substantially in issue, the property cannot be transferred so as to prejudice the rights of any party to the lis. A transfer pendente lite is not void ab initio; however, it does not confer any independent or superior right on the transferee, who merely steps into the shoes of the transferor and holds the property subject to the final outcome of the proceedings. (Para 36)

I. The only ground assigned was that delay in making the land available would delay construction of the residential scheme and affect development in the region. The Court held that such reasoning merely reflects administrative convenience and apprehension of project delay, which are routine features of development activities, and do not disclose any extraordinary or emergent circumstance warranting dispensation of the statutory safeguard under Section 5-A. There was no material to indicate that even the brief period required for conducting an enquiry under Section 5-A would frustrate the declared public purpose. The satisfaction recorded was mechanical and not based on objective considerations. Accordingly, invocation of Section 17 was held to be arbitrary, unconstitutional and unsustainable in law. (Para 30)

J. The entire auction process undertaken by the Raebareli Development Authority was arbitrary, non-transparent and contrary to the mandatory Government Orders and statutory provisions. The disputed land, originally reserved for future planning, was selectively converted into Commercial Plot C-1A and auctioned without proper publication, correct valuation or adherence to the prescribed procedure.The reserve price was arbitrarily and erroneously fixed, without applying the correct commercial circle rates and mandatory additions, and in clear disregard of applicable circle rate enhancements, coupled with non-compliance of the requirement of adequate publication in widely circulated newspapers. As a result, the property was sold at a grossly inadequate and undervalued price.The Court found that the auction proceedings suffered from material irregularities and procedural violations. (Para 55)

K. The continued non-utilisation of the acquired land, its physical possession remaining with the petitioner, coupled with the selective carving out and auction of only his land during the pendency of the proceedings, reinforces the arbitrariness of the action. The fact that the petitioner's land alone was segregated and promptly auctioned supports the contention that the exercise was intended to defeat his pending claim for release of unutilised land and to render the writ petition infructuous. Such steps, undertaken only after initiation of the writ proceedings and in the absence of any satisfactory explanation for the prolonged non-utilisation, cannot be treated as bona fide utilisation for the declared public purpose and are, therefore, subject to judicial scrutiny. No material has been placed on record to indicate that the land was utilised for the stated public purpose for several years after acquisition. The subsequent act of auctioning does not constitute bona fide utilisation in furtherance of the original scheme, nor does it reflect any immediate necessity connected with the declared purpose. (Para 88)

L. Point No. (i) was answered in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents. The invocation of the urgency clause under Section 17, together with the dispensation of the enquiry under Section 5-A, was held to be arbitrary, unconstitutional and unsustainable in law. It was further held that reservation of land for "future planning", in the absence of actual development or use, does not amount to utilisation within the meaning of the provision; accordingly, Point No. (ii) was answered in the negative. Point No. (iii) was decided in favour of the petitioner. The Court found that the auction proceedings conducted by the Raebareli Development Authority suffered from material irregularities and procedural violations. It was also held that invocation of the urgency clause dispensing with the enquiry under Section 5-A, in the absence of any real, immediate or compelling urgency, demonstrated non-application of mind and amounted to a colourable exercise of statutory power, the cumulative effect whereof resulted in deprivation of the petitioner's property otherwise than by authority of law, in contravention of Article 300-A; accordingly, Point No. (iv) was answered in favour of the petitioner. It was further held that the original landowner, whose land remained unutilised for a prolonged period, whose compensation was not tendered in compliance with Section 17(3-A), and who continued in physical possession till June 2023, was entitled to seek reversion/restoration and to challenge the hurried transfer/auction. The belated carving out and auction of only the petitioner's land during pendency of the writ proceedings, without demonstrable public purpose or bona fide utilisation, was held to be arbitrary and tainted with malice in law, offending Article 14 and resulting in deprivation of property contrary to Article 300-A; accordingly, Point No. (v) was answered in the affirmative, in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents.

M. The Court held that the acquisition proceedings and the consequential actions of the respondents, insofar as they related to the petitioner's land, were unsustainable in law. The invocation of urgency under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, in the absence of any real or demonstrable urgency, and the mechanical dispensation of the valuable right under Section 5-A, vitiated the acquisition. Further, non-compliance with the mandatory requirement under Section 17(3-A) regarding tender of 80% compensation prior to taking possession rendered the alleged possession illegal and incapable of conferring lawful vesting. The prolonged non-utilisation of the land belied the claim of urgency, and the subsequent carving out and auction of Plot C-1A during the pendency of the writ petition was arbitrary and not in furtherance of the declared public purpose. (Para 104)

N. The writ petitions were allowed to the extent of the petitioner's land; the impugned auction and consequential allotment were quashed; and the respondents were directed to restore possession to the petitioner, subject to deposit of acquisition charges with interest at 12% per annum in terms of the proviso to Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, upon which the land was to stand restored free from encumbrances, and the auction purchaser was to be refunded the deposited amount with interest at 7% per annum or the prevailing bank rate, whichever was higher, within three months. (Para 104) (E-5)

1. This is a bunch of three petitions filed by petitioner Mata Baksh Singh, which relate to the acquisition proceedings initiated by the State Government with respect to 08.08.2016 ha of land situated in three villages, Ratapur, Baraeepur, and Akhtiyarpur in District Raebareli. The State of U.P. and the Raebareli Development Authority are the respondents in two of such Writ Petitions, and in the third Writ Petition that has been filed in 2024, the auction purchaser of the land in question has been arrayed as respondent no. 5 (hereinafter referred to as 'the private respondent').

2. For the purposes of clear exposition and consideration, the judgment has been divided into the following sections-

Submissions of the Counsel for the Petitioner

3. Sri Vishwajeet Singh, learned Senior Counsel, assisted by Sri Anand Shankar Asthana, presented the case on behalf of the petitioner and advanced his submissions as follows:

(i) The petitioner had purchased a plot admeasuring 204 sq. m. (2200 sq. ft.) out of khasra no.201/1, situated in village Akhtiyarpur on the Lucknow Allahabad Highway, Tehsil Sadar, District Raebareli, through a registered sale deed on 09.04.2002, and applied for mutation, which was also done in his name. The stamp duty was inadvertently calculated at residential rates, although the property in question was commercial in nature as it was situated adjoining the Lucknow Allahabad Highway, and a Suit No. 5111 of 2002 was instituted against the petitioner, which was decided on 31.05.2004, imposing a fine as well as stamp duty to the tune of Rs. 11,006/-, which was deposited by the petitioner in the office of the Tehsildar on 15.10.2004. Consequently, the said plot stood registered as commercial property in favour of the petitioner.

(ii) Subsequently, a Notification under Section 4 read with Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 was issued on 05.04.2006 for developing a residential colony by the Raebareli Development Authority in the name of Yatayat Nagar. A Notification under Section 6/17 was issued on 25.07.2007. Since, Section 17 was invoked, the Section 5-A enquiry was dispensed with, and the first opportunity to file objections came to be given to the petitioner only when notice under Section 9 was issued by the S.L.A.O.

(iii) The petitioner raised an objection before the Special Land Acquisition Officer saying that his land was commercial and compensation be paid to him at commercial rates. An inspection was done on 23.09.2008 and a report filed on 06.10.2008. The S.L.A.O., Raebareli, however, rejected such objections and calculated compensation at residential circle rate and offered Rs.75,371/- through Award dated 30.05.2009. The petitioner did not accept the compensation but filed a Reference application for enhancement under Section 18 of the Act, 1894. The Raebareli Development Authority deposited compensation in the Treasury as revenue deposit on 08.02.2011. The petitioner remained in possession of the land of khasra no. 201/1 and also filed a Suit Regular Suit No.36 of 2015 for injunction against the Raebareli Development Authority, in which a Commission was called for by the Civil Judge. The site was inspected and a Commission Report was submitted on 04.04.2015, indicating the possession of the petitioner over the said land.

(iv) Subsequently, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No. 170 (Land Acquisition) of 2015 challenging the notifications issued under Sections 4/17 and 6/17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. Such writ petition was renumbered as Writ-C No. 2000170 of 2015 seeking quashing of the acquisition notifications and the Award, relying on Pune Municipal Corporation v. Harakchand Misirimal Solanki AIR 2014 SC 982 wherein it was held that under Section 24(2) of the Land Acquisition Act of 2013, acquisition lapses if possession is not taken and compensation is not paid for more than five years prior to commencement of the new Act. Government Orders dated 28.02.2014 and 24.03.2014 had directed authorities to act in accordance with the said judgment and the petitioner relying upon them asserted that compensation was neither offered nor paid and relied on Khatauni dated 24.03.2015 showing his continued ownership.

(v) During pendency, the petitioner also filed Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022 seeking release of his unutilized land in khasra no. 201/1. He alleged discriminatory treatment, as similarly situated landholders were restored possession and permitted constructions, contrary to the principle of equality laid down in State of Karnataka v. Karnataka State Patel Sangha (2007) 4 SCC 207.

(vi) In Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022, the petitioner asserted that his land remained unutilized for more than five years after acquisition and was therefore liable to be released under Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973. By order dated 13.09.2022, this Court directed the counsel for the respondent to obtain instructions on whether the land of the petitioner had been utilized under the scheme. However, instead of answering this specific query, the Raebareli Development Authority filed a counter-affidavit on 03.09.2023, nearly one year later, without disclosing that the land had already been auctioned in favour of respondent no. 5.

(vii) The petitioner further alleges that the auction was conducted clandestinely. His land, earlier marked as D-1, was later shown as commercial Plot C-1A, in the auction notice and that it formed part of Ekta Vihar Colony. The plot area was wrongly shown as 175 sq. m. instead of 204 sq. m. After learning that possession of the entire 204 sq. m. had been handed over pursuant to the auction, the petitioner lodged a complaint, following which an allegedly incorrect report dated 19.09.2023 was submitted by the Raebareli Development Authority to the State Government. Consequently, Writ-C No. 9486 of 2023 was filed and disposed of on 02.11.2023 with liberty to submit a fresh representation. The petitioner thereafter filed a representation on 10.11.2023 seeking release of land under Sections 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 and 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, which was rejected on 20.02.2024, leading to the present writ petition.

(viii) That the rejection of the representation of the petitioner rests on an erroneous interpretation of Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973. The provision itself contemplates acquisition for development purposes under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and its proviso grants a substantive right of restoration where the acquired land remains unutilized for five years. The petitioner asserts that he continued in lawful possession of the land until June 2023, having earlier let it out for a licensed liquor vend and thereafter retaining possession even after the tenancy ended. Despite this, the Development Authority allegedly dispossessed him and proceeded to auction the land without paying compensation. It is submitted that such prolonged deprivation of property, forcing a 73-year-old landholder to litigate for nearly two decades, is arbitrary and unconstitutional. Reliance is placed on Tukaram Kana Joshi & Ors. vs. M.I.D.C. & Ors. (2013) 1 SCC 565 and Sukh Dutt Ratra and Anr. vs. State of Himachal Pradesh and Ors., (2022) 7 SCC 505 to contend that the State cannot divest citizen of his property without authority of law and just compensation, consistent with Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution.

(ix) That the State Government invoked the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act,1894 without proper application of mind to the statutory prerequisites. Although, the satisfaction regarding urgency is subjective, it must be founded on relevant material showing a genuine need for immediate possession. In cases of planned urban development or residential schemes, no presumption operates in favour of the State, and the burden lies on the Government to justify both the urgency and the dispensation of the enquiry under Section 5A. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly held that recourse to Section 17 is an exception and cannot be adopted as a routine measure. While the power exercised under Section 17 is administrative and ordinarily commands deference, it remains open to judicial review where the opinion is based on extraneous or irrelevant considerations or reflects non-application of mind. Strong reliance is placed on Radhy Shyam(D)Thr. Lrs & Ors vs State Of U.P.& Orr, Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority vs. Devendra Kumar and ors (2011) 12 SCC 375, Laxmi Devi versus State of Bihar and others, reported in 2015 (10) SCC 241 (para 13□20); Ram Dhari Jindal Trust v. Union of India & Others reported in 2012 (11) SCC 370 (para 15, 17 to 21); Anand Singh v. State of U.P. & Others, reported in 2010 (11) SCC 242 (para 41 to 51), to contend that the impugned invocation of urgency is legally unsustainable.

(x) That Section 17(3-A) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, mandates that at least eighty percent of the estimated compensation must be tendered and paid before taking possession, failing which the vesting of the land does not become absolute. In Delhi Airtech Services Pvt. Ltd. v. State of U.P. (2022 SCC OnLine SC 1408), the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that the urgency clause cannot be invoked as a mere formality and emphasised that the protective safeguards under Section 17(3-A) must be complied with strictly; non-payment of the required compensation would render the acquisition invalid and possession unlawful. In the present case, neither tender nor payment of the requisite compensation was made to the petitioner, and therefore, the possession taken is illegal. Consequently, the protection against lapse under Section 11-A cannot be invoked by the State.

(xi) That the auction conducted by the Raebareli Development Authority was illegal and arbitrary. The disputed land was earmarked for future planning in the 2016 layout plan, yet was selectively carved out and auctioned without proper publicity or compliance with relevant Government Orders. Such auction, allegedly resulting in inadequate consideration, is liable to be set aside as per K. Kumara Gupta v. Sri Markendaya and Sri Omkareswara Swamy Temple, reported in 2022 (5) SCC 710 and allied precedents. Additionally, reliance is placed on Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, contending that since the land remained unutilized for over five years, the petitioner was entitled to seek restoration, which was wrongly denied.

(xii) The learned Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Lucknow Development Authority v. Gopal Das (Deceased), (2019) 8 SCC 172, wherein it was held that the applicability of the proviso to Section 17(1) of the Act of 1973 depends upon whether the acquired land was actually developed after completion of acquisition proceedings. The Court clarified that where no development or utilization of the land takes place within five years from the date of acquisition, the tenure holder becomes entitled to restoration of the land on payment of statutory charges, in accordance with law.

(xiii) In view of the aforesaid facts and the settled legal position, it has been submitted that the impugned acquisition, forcible deprivation of possession in 2023, and subsequent auction of the land of the petitioner suffer from arbitrariness, illegality, and non-compliance with mandatory statutory safeguards. The prolonged non-utilization of the land, non-payment of compensation, unlawful invocation of urgency, and denial of the statutory right of restoration clearly vitiate the action of the respondents. It has therefore been prayed that the writ petition be allowed. ,

Submissions of the respondent State of Uttar Pradesh

4. The State Respondents has been represented by Sri Manish Mishra, Additional Chief Standing Counsel and it has been stated as follows-

(i) That the petitioner repeatedly approached this Court belatedly, despite the Award dated 30.05.2009 and possession having been taken. The petitioner earlier sought only enhancement of compensation by filing a Section 18 reference and never challenged the acquisition on merits. Statutory notices were duly issued, objections were considered, surveys conducted, and possession taken in 2009. As the petitioner did not accept compensation, the awarded amount was deposited in the Treasury under Section 31 of the 1894 Act. Subsequent writ petitions were successive and misconceived.

(ii) That the acquisition proceedings strictly complied with the 1894 Act. Notifications under Sections 4/17 and 6/17 were issued within the statutory period and were valid in law. Actual possession was taken by preparing a panchnama and handing over land to the Development Authority, which is sufficient for large tracts as held in Banda Development Authority versus Moti Lal Agarwal and others, (2011) 5 SCC 394. Section 17(3A) was neither applicable nor available, being prospective in nature. Compensation was duly offered after declaration of the Award. The petitioner, having accepted the acquisition by filing a Section 18 reference, raised belated and untenable challenges.

(iii) That the second writ petition, filed after more than six years of the first, was barred as it arose from the same cause of action, namely the acquisition proceedings, and attracted the bar under Order II Rule 2 CPC, as explained in Cuddalore Powergen Corporation Ltd. v. Chemplast Cuddalore Vinyls Ltd., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 82. The petitioner could not raise new grounds which were available earlier, including violation of Section 17(3A), based on Laxmi Devi v. State of Bihar, (2015) 10 SCC 241, or Delhi Airtech Services Pvt. Ltd. v. State of U.P., 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1408. No pleading of prejudice was made, except inadequacy of compensation, which is irrelevant at the Section 5-A stage. Possession was taken on 30.05.2009, and the land vested absolutely in the State under Section 16, as held in Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal, (2020) 8 SCC 129.

(iv) That once possession of acquired land is taken, power under Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 cannot be exercised, as held in Visakhapatnam Urban Development Authority v. S.S. Naidu (2016) 13 SCC 180. In the present case, acquisition stood completed on 30.05.2009, with declaration of the Award and taking of possession, followed by vesting of land in the State free from encumbrances. Reliance was placed on State of M.P. v. V.P. Sharma, AIR 1966 SC 1593; Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation v. Subodh Singh (2011) 11 SCC 100; and Government of A.P. v. Syed Akbar (2005) 1 SCC 558. Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 was inapplicable as the land formed part of the approved development plan. The petitioner's representation was belated, and successive writ petitions were barred by delay, acquiescence, and Order II Rule 2 CPC, particularly after filing a Section 18 Reference.

(v) In view of the undisputed fact that the Award was declared on 30.05.2009, possession of the land was taken, and the land vested absolutely in the State under Section 16 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, the petitioner is not entitled to any relief from this Court. Compensation was duly offered and, upon refusal, deposited in the Treasury in accordance with law. The acquisition proceedings attained finality, and the petitioner himself accepted the same by seeking enhancement under Section 18. Subsequent challenges are barred by delay, acquiescence, and Order II Rule 2 CPC. The land having been utilized under an approved development plan, no case for interference under Article 226 is made out. In view of the foregoing submissions, the writ petitions are liable to be dismissed.

Submissions of the Counsel for the Raebareli Development Authority

5. Learned Senior Counsel Sri Asit Chaturvedi assisted by Sri Dharmendra Kumar Dixit appearing for the Raebareli Development Authority, while opposing the writ petition, submitted that-

a. That after declaration of Award on 30.05.2009, possession was taken of the land in question. Compensation of Rs.75,371/- was offered to the petitioner on 26.06.2009, but on his refusal to take the same, it was deposited in the District Treasury on 08.02.2011. Land was acquired for the purpose of a residential colony and it has been utilized. 8.816 hectares of land was acquired for construction of Yatayat Nagar Residential Colony. Under Section 14 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, a development plan was finalized on 11.11.2009, which was revised on 26.07.2016. Land admeasuring 1185 m^2, which includes 175.11 m^2 of land of the petitioner, has been reserved for future planning. It was later numbered as C-1A Commercial Plot and approved for auction by the Vice-Chairman, Raebareli Development Authority, on 30.05.2003. Since the utilization of the acquired land has been completed, it cannot be released in favour of the petitioner. It was also stated in the counter-affidavit that the judgments cited by the petitioner are inapplicable to the facts of the case. Issues settled by the Award dated 30.05.2009 cannot be reopened. The Reference made by petitioner under Section 18 is pending solely for enhancement of compensation. The Raebareli Development Authority has deposited Rs. 3,35,62,147/- as compensation for the entire scheme and its name was duly recorded in revenue records on 26.12.2015 for plot no. 201/1 also.

(ii) That Possession of the land was duly taken by the Raebareli Development Authority after payment of compensation; hence, the Act of 2013 is inapplicable in view of Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal (2020) 8 SCC 129. All land acquired under the notifications dated 05.04.2006 and 25.07.2007 and Award dated 30.05.2009 is with the Authority. No original owner, including the petitioner, remains in possession or raised construction. Relevant possession documents were duly filed.

(iii) The acquired land forms part of a duly approved development scheme. An area of 8.816 hectares was acquired for construction of the Yatayat Nagar Residential Colony. The development plan was finalized on 11.11.2009 and subsequently revised on 26.07.2016. The land admeasuring 1185 square metres, including 175.11 square metres claimed by the petitioner, was reserved for future planning and later designated as Commercial Plot No. C-1A, which was approved for auction by the competent authority on 30.05.2023. It was emphasized that once possession is taken and the land is incorporated into an approved development plan, it is deemed to have been utilized in law. Physical construction is not a sine qua non for utilization, as consistently held by judicial precedents.

(iv) The argument regarding Appellate Authority of Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is wholly misconceived. The power to withdraw from acquisition under Section 48 can be exercised only prior to taking possession. In the present case, possession was taken on 30.05.2009, rendering any subsequent request for release or reconveyance legally impermissible. The representation made by the petitioner under Section 48 in the year 2023, after the land had already been auctioned and allotted, was therefore untenable and devoid of any legal foundation.

(v) The provisions of the Act of 2013 are inapplicable, as both the Award and possession preceded its enforcement. In view of the Constitution Bench judgment in Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal, acquisition does not lapse once possession has been taken and compensation has been paid or deposited in accordance with law. The contention regarding alleged non-compliance with Section 17(3-A) is also liable to be rejected, as the Award was passed well within the period prescribed under Section 11-A, and no prejudice was either pleaded or has been established. The petitioner, having sought enhancement of compensation by filing a Section 18 Reference, accepted the acquisition and is estopped from assailing it on merits after a prolonged delay.

(vi) The writ petition is barred by delay, laches, acquiescence, and abuse of process. The petitioner has raised successive challenges arising from the same cause of action, which have already attained finality. The auction proceedings were conducted strictly in accordance with law, culminating in execution of a registered sale deed, delivery of possession, and commencement of construction by the allottee, who has altered his position irreversibly. Any interference at this belated stage would unsettle concluded transactions and prejudice third-party rights. Accordingly, no ground for interference under Article 226 of the Constitution is made out, and the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

Contentions of the Counsel for the Private Respondent

6. Sri Apoorva Tiwari, learned counsel for the private respondents, vehemently advanced his submissions by drawing strength from the relevant statutory provisions and placed reliance upon several judicial authorities, as follows:

(i) Writ-C No. 3283 of 2024 was filed by Petitioner challenging the order dated 24.02.2024 whereby release of land bearing Khasra Plot No. 201/1, Akhtiyarpur was refused, and also seeking quashing of the auction of the carved-out Plot No. C-1-A, Ekta Vihar, Raebareli, its allotment to the private respondent, and consequential reliefs restraining change of nature, construction, or creation of third-party rights. During pendency, the sale deed was executed on 20.03.2024, possession delivered on 22.03.2024, and the building plan sanctioned on 28.03.2024, pursuant to which construction commenced. By interim order dated 10.07.2024, construction was stayed. The private respondent's SLP was disposed of by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 01.04.2025 with a request to decide the matter within three months.

(ii) Petitioner's reliance on Delhi Airtech Services (P) Ltd. (supra) to contend that possession was illegal due to non-compliance with Section 17(3-A) is misconceived. The Act of 1894 separately provides for taking possession and vesting. As clarified in Delhi Airtech Services, (supra) non-compliance with Section 17(3-A) mandates that an Award must be made within two years from the Section 6 declaration, failing which the acquisition lapses under Section 11-A. In the present case, the Section 6/17 declaration was issued on 25.07.2007 and the Award was delivered on 30.05.2009, well within the statutory period.

(iii) The challenge of the petitioner founded on Section 48 of the Act of 1894 is misconceived. It is well settled by the Supreme Court in Mahadeo (dead) Through L.R.s and others v. State of U.P. and others, (2013) 4 SCC 524, that once possession of acquired land is taken, it vests absolutely in the State free from all encumbrances and cannot be reconveyed merely on the ground of alleged non-utilisation. Section 48 does not confer any vested or enforceable right upon a landowner, but only enables the State, in its discretion, to withdraw from acquisition prior to taking possession, as reiterated in Babu v. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2008 SCC OnLine All 2513. In the present case, the petitioner approached the State under Section 48 only on 10.11.2023, long after the land had been auctioned and allotted in July 2023.

(iv) In Shanti Sports Club v. Union of India, (2009) 15 SCC 705, the Hon□ble Supreme Court has categorically held in paragraph 70 that the burden of establishing discrimination in matters arising under Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 squarely lies upon the person alleging it. The petitioner was therefore required to place on record cogent and concrete material demonstrating complete parity with other landowners whose land had allegedly been released from acquisition. In the absence of any such particulars or supporting evidence, the plea of discrimination is wholly unsustainable and liable to be rejected.

(v) The petitioner invoked Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 for the first time in his representation dated 10.11.2023, simultaneously with Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. Both provisions operate in distinct and mutually exclusive fields: Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 applies prior to taking possession, whereas Section 17 of the Act of 1973 contemplates restoration of unutilized land upon payment of development charges, acquisition cost, and interest. Such mutually inconsistent pleas are impermissible. As held in Heera Singh v. State of U.P. & Others, Writ-C No. 12112 of 2022, decided on 11.05.2022, Section 17 does not result in automatic lapse of acquisition; land is deemed utilized once a development plan under Section 14 is approved. In the present case, possession was taken on 30.05.2009, the development plan was approved on 11.11.2009, and the land had already been allotted to respondent no. 5 prior to the petitioner's representation. Hence, recourse to Section 17 was legally untenable.

(vi) It has been argued that in Shyoraj Singh and another v. State of U.P. and Others, 2021 SCC OnLine Allahabad 873, and in Tejal Uppal v. State of U.P. & others, Writ-C No. 526 of 2022 decided on 25.01.2022, this Court has held that handing over of possession of the acquired land by the State Government to the Development Authority is sufficient for the land to be treated as utilized. The Development Authority, in its counter affidavit filed in Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022, has categorically stated that the land stood utilized once the development plan under Section 14 of the Act of 1973 had been approved on 11.11.2009. Any acquired land can be said to be utilized when its possession has been taken over by the State Government, when the development plan is approved by the Development Authority, and when the said land is allotted to a third person by the Development Authority.

(vii) The objections raised by the petitioner are legally untenable and hit by settled principles of delay, acquiescence, and lack of locus. The land stood vested in the State upon taking possession and declaration of the Award, and all subsequent rights of the petitioner stood extinguished. The auction process was undertaken after due publicity and in accordance with statutory norms, culminating in execution of a registered sale deed and delivery of possession to the private respondent, who has altered his position by commencing construction. The petitioner, not being an intending bidder and having no subsisting right in the land, cannot question the auction proceedings. Any interference at this stage would unsettle concluded transactions and cause grave prejudice to third-party rights. The challenge to the acquisition and allied proceedings has been raised after an inordinate and unexplained delay, despite the petitioner having availed the remedy of Reference under Section 18. Such belated and successive challenges, founded on grounds already settled by authoritative pronouncements, are liable to be rejected on the ground of laches alone.

(viii) It was further emphasized that invocation of urgency under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act is based on the subjective satisfaction of the State Government. Such satisfaction can be judicially reviewed only on limited grounds, namely: absence of public purpose, mala fides, or non-application of mind. None of these grounds have been pleaded or substantiated by the petitioner.

(ix) Learned counsel for the private respondent in Delhi Airtech Services Pvt. Ltd. (supra) highlighted that the normal acquisition process begins with a Section 4 notification, followed by compliance with Section 5A, declaration under Section 6, and confirmation of public purpose. Compensation and possession are then determined under Sections 9, 11, and 16. Section 11A, introduced in 1984, ensures that if the award is not passed within two years, the acquisition lapses. Paragraph 19 clarifies that prior cases, including Satendra Prasad Jain versus State of U.P., 1993 (4) SCC 369 and Laxmi Devi v. State of Bihar, (2015) 10 SCC 241, involved attempts by authorities to exploit procedural lapses, which the Court rejected, reinforcing that the protections under Sections 16 and 17(3A) safeguard landowners' rights.

(x) Reliance was placed on Ghulam Mustafa versus State of Maharashtra, 1976 (1) SCC 800 to contend that once an Award is made and possession is taken under Section 16, the land vests absolutely in the State and cannot be restored to the erstwhile owner. Reference was also made to Urban Improvement Trust v. Vidya Devi & ors, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3725, wherein it was held that writ petitions assailing land acquisition proceedings are liable to be dismissed on the ground of delay and laches, particularly when the acquisition is for public housing and development schemes.

(xi) Lastly, he submitted that the writ petition is wholly devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed. The acquisition proceedings have attained finality long back with declaration of the Award and taking of possession, resulting in absolute vesting of the land in the State free from all encumbrances. The petitioner has repeatedly invoked mutually inconsistent remedies after an inordinate and unexplained delay, despite having availed statutory remedies for compensation. There is no enforceable legal right of the petitioner shown to have been infringed. The petition therefore deserves to be dismissed.

Reply on Behalf of the Petitioner to Contentions of the Respondents

7. The reply on behalf of the petitioner to the contentions raised by the respondents is as under-

(i) In reply to the above submissions by the respondents, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner candidly submits that the original challenge to the acquisition proceedings was based exclusively on the ground that compensation had neither been paid nor possession taken, and therefore the acquisition had lapsed under Section 24(2) of the Act of 2013. In light of the law subsequently settled by a Larger Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, this ground has since become untenable.

(ii) That Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022 was instituted on 08.09.2022, wherein the petitioner sought a writ of mandamus directing release of land bearing Khasra No. 201/1, village Akhtiyarpur, on the ground of its non-utilisation under Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, and also prayed for a declaration that the acquisition proceedings stood vitiated. It was submitted that prior thereto the petitioner had made a representation dated 06.08.2022 to the District Magistrate and the Raebareli Development Authority, which was forwarded to the State Government. The said representation asserted that the land had remained unutilised even after thirteen years from the date of Award and taking over of possession.

(iii) That, as per the counter affidavit in Writ-C No. 3283 of 2024, Plot C-1A was not listed for auction on 15.07.2023, nor were circle rates provided by the Sub-Registrar on 26.12.2022. The plot remained un-utilised and reserved for future planning when the Court passed the interim order on 13.09.2022.

(iv) That the Raebareli Development Authority maliciously singled out 204 sq.m. of the petitioner from a 1185 sq. m. area, renumbered it as Plot C-1A on 30.05.2023, and auctioned 173 sq. m. to defeat the petitioner's claim. The auction notice dated 01.06.2023 misidentified the property as in Ekta Vihar, not Akhtiyarpur, and applied a 'non-agricultural' circle rate instead of the correct commercial rate, ignoring its location adjacent to commercial establishments and the National Highway. The reserve price was arbitrarily fixed, undervaluing the land. The auction also violated the Government Order dated 20.06.2001, as the notice was published only once in insufficiently circulated newspapers, instead of twice in one national and one State-level newspaper, rendering the auction procedurally flawed.

(v) The petitioner relied on Attavur Rahman Kamal v. State of Andhra Pradesh, Writ Petition No. 7482 of 2023, decided on 19.06.2023 to stress the importance of proper publication of auction notices, noting that newspaper publication must be meaningful and not perfunctory. Learned Senior Counsel further contended that under Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894, 80% of estimated compensation must be tendered before possession, which was violated in the petitioner's case. Although the Award and possession were recorded on paper on 30.05.2009 and 06.06.2009, compensation was only tendered to the petitioner on 26.06.2009 and deposited on 08.02.2011. This violation, per Delhi Airtech Services, (Supra) renders the possession and vesting of land in the respondents legally defective.

(vi) That the RaeBareli Development Authority violated Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894, as 80% of the estimated compensation was deposited only after possession, which was taken on 30.05.2009, with compensation tendered to the petitioner on 26.06.2009 and deposited on 08.02.2011.

(vii) The doctrine of lis pendens was also invoked, as the petitioner had filed Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022 after making representation on 06.08.2022 regarding release of unutilised land, binding subsequent purchasers under Shingara Singh v. Daljit Singh, reported in 2024 SCCOnLine SC 2823. Relying upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Cuddalore Powergen Corporation Limited versus Chemplast Cuddalore Vinyls Limited and another, reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 82, and paragraphs 36, 37, 38, 39, 41, 45 and 47 of the same, it has been submitted that the Hon'ble Supreme Court has itself held that when there is a separate cause of action for each petition, then bar under Order II Rule 2 C.P.C. is not applicable. Reference was also made to Urban Improvement Trust v. Vidya Devi & ors, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3725, establishing that no limitation bars the Court from exercising constitutional jurisdiction to ensure substantial justice, irrespective of procedural delays.

(viii) That further the doctrine of lis pendens, as reiterated in Usha Sinha versus Dina Ram and others, (2008) 7 SCC 144 and Sanjay Verma versus Manik Roy and others, 2006 (13) SCC 608, binds a transferee pendente lite to the outcome of the litigation, irrespective of notice or bona fides, as it is founded on public policy to prevent frustration of judicial proceedings. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that compulsory acquisition without strict compliance with statutory safeguards, particularly payment of 80% compensation under Section 17(3A) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, renders possession illegal (Delhi Airtech Services, (supra)). Even delay cannot defeat challenges where there is a continuing cause of action or grave procedural illegality, as delay and laches are matters of discretion, not rigid rules as held in, Sukh Dutt Ratra and another versus State of Himachal Pradesh and others, 2022 (7) SCC 508 and Ramchandra Shankar Deodhar & Others versus State of Maharashtra & Others, 1974 (1) SCC 317).

(ix) That several procedural anomalies have occurred. Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894 was not complied with, as possession was taken on 30.05.2009 before tendering compensation. The Section 5-A enquiry was dispensed with under the urgency clause of Section 17, despite no real urgency, as the acquisition process began in 2004 and notifications were issued in 2006 2007. The land remained unutilised, with development plans in 2009 and 2016, reserving 1185 m^2 for future planning. Reliance on Hamid Ali Khan v. State of U.P. (Supra) emphasized that dispensing with Section 5-A violates the valuable right of the landowner. The claim of respondents that possession followed Section 16 confirms that invocation of Section 17 was unnecessary and arbitrary, violating due procedure and Article 300-A of the Constitution.

(x) He relied upon the judgment of Gian Chand & Brothers v. Rattan Lal AIR 2013 SC 1078 to contend that every allegation of fact in the petition must be specifically denied in the written statement, failing which such averments shall be deemed to be admitted. Reliance has also been placed on Sanjay Sharma v. Kotak Mahindra Bank Ltd., 2025(3) ALD19 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that under Section 54 of the Transfer of Property Act, ownership of immovable property valued above ₹100 is transferred only through a registered instrument, and mere payment of consideration or delivery of possession does not complete or validate the transfer in absence of registration.

(xi) That publication of an auction notice through newspapers cannot be treated as an empty or ritualistic formality. Its object is to meaningfully inform the public at large, attract genuine participation, and ensure fair competition so as to secure maximum revenue for the public authority. In matters involving State largesse, especially public auctions, fairness, transparency, and adequate publicity are mandatory. Absence of wide and effective publication vitiates the auction, as held in Attavur Rahman Kamal v. State of Andhra Pradesh, Writ Petition No. 7482 of 2023 and State of Madhya Pradesh and another versus Shri Ram Ragubir Prasad Agarwal, (1979) 4 SCC 686 which clarified that publication means making information known to the public generally.

(xii) Recent decisions, including Urban Improvement Trust v. Vidya Devi & ors, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3725 and D.B. Basnett (D) through Legal Representatives vs. Collector, East District, Gangtok, Sikkim & Another, 2020 (4) SCC 572, reaffirm that the right to property under Article 300-A is a constitutional right, and expropriatory Statutes must be strictly construed. Courts may intervene despite delay where procedural anomalies are glaring and dispossession is without due process.

Points for Consideration

8. With reference to the above rival factual and legal contentions urged on behalf of the parties, the points that would arise for consideration are as follows:

(i) Whether the invocation of the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and the consequent dispensation of enquiry under Section 5-A, was justified in the facts and circumstances of the case?

(ii) Whether reservation of land for 'future planning' amounts to utilization within the meaning of the said provision?

(iii) Whether the auction and subsequent transfer in favour of the private respondent are hit by the doctrine of lis pendens, and if so, to what extent such transfer is subject to the outcome of the present proceedings?

(iv) Whether, in the facts of the case, the impugned actions of the respondents result in deprivation of property otherwise than by authority of law, infringing Article 300-A of the Constitution?

(v) Whether the original landowner, whose land remained unutilized for a prolonged period, whose compensation was not received, and who retained possession till June 2023, is entitled to seek reversion of the land or challenge its hurried transfer/auction in favor of a third party, and whether the actions of the respondents are arbitrary, illegal, and tainted with malice in law, and violative of Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution?

Analysis

9. Before proceeding to analyze the submissions of the parties, a brief reference to the relevant provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 would be necessary. The normal procedure for acquisition of land under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 can broadly be divided into two parts. In the first part, comprising Sections 4, 5-A and 6, the process commences with the issuance of a preliminary notification under Section 4 when it appears to the appropriate Government that land is needed or is likely to be needed for a public purpose. Such notification is published in the Official Gazette and public notice of its substance is given in the locality concerned. Thereafter, under Section 5-A, any person interested in the land may, within thirty days from the publication of the notification, file objections in writing before the Collector, who is required to grant an opportunity of hearing and submit a report with recommendations to the Government. Upon consideration of such report, if the Government is satisfied that the land is required for a public purpose, it makes a declaration under Section 6, which is published in the Official Gazette and constitutes conclusive evidence of such requirement.

10. The second part, consisting of Sections 7, 9, 11 and 16, deals with the steps following the declaration. After the declaration under Section 6, the Government issues directions to the Collector under Section 7 to take steps for acquisition of the land. The Collector then issues notices under Section 9 to persons interested, calling upon them to submit their claims for compensation. Upon conducting an enquiry, the Collector makes an Award under Section 11 determining the area of the land, the compensation payable and its apportionment among the interested persons. Thereafter, under Section 16, upon making the Award, the Collector may take possession of the land, and once possession is taken, the land vests absolutely in the Government free from all encumbrances.

11. Section 17 of the 1894 Act gives special powers to the State government in the cases of urgency and emergency. To the extent it is relevant, Section 17 reads as under:

Section 17. Special powers in case of urgency. --In cases of urgency, whenever the State Government so directs the Collector though no such award has been made may, on the expiration of fifteen days from the publication of the notice mentioned in Section 9, Sub-section (1), take possession of any waste or arable land needed for public purposes or for a company. Such land shall thereupon vest absolutely in the State Government free from all encumbrances.

2. xxx

3. xxx

3(A). Before taking possession of any land under sub-section (1) or sub-section(2), the Collector shall, without prejudice to the provisions of sub-section (3),-

(a) tender payment of eighty per centum of the compensation for such land as estimated by him to the persons interested (sic therein and) entitled thereto, and

(b) pay it to them, unless prevented by someone or more of the contingencies mentioned in Section 31, sub-section (2), and where the Collector is so prevented, the provisions of Section 31, sub-section (2), (except the second proviso thereto), shall apply as they apply to the payment of compensation under that section.

3(B). The amount paid or deposited under sub-section (3-A), shall be taken into account for determining the amount of compensation required to be tendered under Section 31, and where the amount so paid or deposited exceeds the compensation awarded by the Collector under Section 11, the excess may, unless refunded within three months from the date of the Collector's award, be recovered as an arrear of land revenue.

4. In the case of any land to which in the opinion of the State Government the provisions of Sub-sections (1) or Sub-section (2) are applicable the State Government may direct that the provisions of Section 5-A shall not apply and, if it does so direct a declaration may be made Under Section 6 in respect of the land at any time after the publication of the order Under Sub-section (1) of Section

12. Section 17 of the Act provides a special and exceptional procedure for acquisition in cases of urgency, and operates as a departure from the normal process prescribed under Sections 4, 5-A, and 6. Under sub-section (1), where the appropriate Government is satisfied that the situation demands urgent action, it may direct the Collector to take possession of the land after the expiry of fifteen days from the publication of notice under Section 9(1), even though no award has been made. Upon such possession being taken, the land vests absolutely in the Government, free from all encumbrances.

13. Sub-section (4) of Section 17 contemplates cases of extreme urgency and empowers the appropriate Government to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A, which otherwise confers a valuable right of objection upon the landowner. If such a direction is issued, a declaration under Section 6 may be made at any time after publication of the notification under Section 4(1), without waiting for the completion of the Section 5-A enquiry. Being an exception to the ordinary rule, this power must be invoked sparingly and only in genuine cases of urgency.

14. The condition precedent for invoking Section 17(1) is the existence of real and genuine urgency. The appropriate Government must be satisfied that possession of the land is urgently required and that any delay would frustrate the very purpose of acquisition. Likewise, before exercising power under Section 17(4) to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A, the Government must form a clear opinion that the case is one of extreme urgency. The urgency must be of such a nature that even the minimum statutory period of thirty days for filing objections, along with the reasonable time required for enquiry under Section 5-A, cannot be afforded without defeating the public purpose.

15. Section 17(4) has the effect of depriving a landowner of a valuable statutory right to object and to be heard. Therefore, the power to dispense with Section 5-A cannot be exercised lightly or in a routine manner.

16. On a careful examination of Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, it is evident that the said provision incorporates the urgency clause and vests extraordinary powers in the State to take possession of the land even prior to the making of an award and to dispense with the enquiry contemplated under Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act,1894. Such power being exceptional in nature and having the effect of depriving the landholder of the valuable and substantive right of objection, its scope is necessarily narrow and circumscribed. The invocation of Section 17, therefore, cannot be justified as a matter of course or administrative expediency and is required to be strictly construed and sparingly exercised.

17. It further stipulates that the existence of a real, immediate, and compelling urgency is a condition precedent for the invocation of Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act. The urgency contemplated by the statute must be of such a nature that even the minimal time required for holding an enquiry under Section 5-A would defeat or frustrate the public purpose sought to be achieved. Mere administrative exigency or convenience, howsoever pressing, does not meet the statutory threshold of urgency envisaged under Section 17. Moreover, the satisfaction of the appropriate Government must be based on objective material and due application of mind. A mechanical recital of urgency in the notification, without supporting reasons or contemporaneous record, is bad in law. Non-application of mind vitiates the invocation of Section 17.

18. In Dora Phalauli v. State of Punjab (AIR 1979 SC 1594), the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the right to file objections under Section 5-A should not be interfered with in a casual or cavalier manner. Similarly, in State of Punjab v. Gurdial Singh (AIR 1980 SC 319), the Court observed:

"...Without referring to supportive case-law, it is fundamental that compulsory taking of a man's property is a serious matter and the smaller the man the more serious the matter. Hearing him before depriving him is both reasonable and pre-emptive of arbitrariness, and denial of this administrative fairness is constitutional anathema except for good reasons. Save in real urgency where public interest does not brook even the minimum time needed to give a hearing land acquisition authorities should not, having regard to Articles 14 (and 19), burke an enquiry under Section 17 of the Act...."

19. It has been the consistent view of the Apex Court and this Court that since the invocation of Section 17 results in denial of hearing and exclusion of the principle of natural justice, audi alteram partem, its exercise is subject to strict judicial scrutiny. Such extraordinary power can be justified only in cases of real, immediate, and compelling urgency. The action of the State must satisfy the constitutional requirements of fairness, non-arbitrariness, and reasonableness under Article 14 and must also conform to the protection against unlawful deprivation of property under Article 300-A of the Constitution. Any mechanical, routine, or unjustified invocation of Section 17 vitiates the entire acquisition proceedings.

20. A three Judge Bench of the Hon□ble Supreme Court in Narayan Narayan Govind Gavate v. State of Maharashtra AIR 1977 SC 183 has elaborately considered the ambit and scope of Section 17 of the Act and held as under:

"40. In the case before us, the public purpose indicated is the development of an area for industrial and residential purposes. This, in itself, on the face of it, does not call for any such action, barring exceptional circumstances, as to make immediate possession, without holding even a summary enquiry under Section 5A of the Act, imperative. On the other hand, such schemes generally take sufficient period of time to enable at least summary inquiries under Section 5A of the Act to be completed without any impediment whatsoever to the execution of the scheme. Therefore, the very statement of the public purpose for which the land was to be acquired indicated the absence of such urgency, on the apparent facts of the case, as to require the elimination of an enquiry under Section 5A of the Act."

21. In Dev Sharan and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors., (2011)4SCC769, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that the extraordinary power under Section 17 to dispense with the valuable right of objection under Section 5-A can be exercised only in cases of real urgency and not as a matter of routine, and such action must conform to constitutional safeguards, which is quoted below-

"14. In connection with land acquisition proceeding whenever the provision of Section 17 and its various Sub-sections including Section 17(4) are used in the name of taking urgent or emergent action and the right of hearing of the land holder under Section 5A is dispensed with, the Court is called upon to consider a few fundamentals in the exercise of such powers.

15. Admittedly, the Land Acquisition Act, a pre-Constitutional legislation of colonial vintage is a drastic law, being expropriatory in nature as it confers on the State a power which affects person's property right. Even though right to property is no longer fundamental and was never a natural right, and is acquired on a concession by the State, it has to be accepted that without right to some property, other rights become illusory. This Court is considering these questions, especially, in the context of some recent trends in land acquisition. This Court is of the opinion that the concept of public purpose in land acquisition has to be viewed from an angle which is consistent with the concept of a welfare State.

16. The concept of public purpose cannot remain static for all time to come. The concept, even though sought to be defined under Section 3(f) of the Act, is not capable of any precise definition. The said definition, having suffered several amendments, has assumed the character of an inclusive one. It must be accepted that in construing public purpose, a broad and overall view has to be taken and the focus must be on ensuring maximum benefit to the largest number of people. Any attempt by the State to acquire land by promoting a public purpose to benefit a particular group of people or to serve any particular interest at the cost of the interest of a large section of people, especially of the common people, defeats the very concept of public purpose. Even though the concept of public purpose was introduced by pre- Constitutional legislation, its application must be consistent with the constitutional ethos and especially the chapter under Fundamental Rights and also the Directive Principles.

17. In construing the concept of public purpose, the mandate of Article 13 of the Constitution that any pre-constitutional law cannot in any way take away or abridge rights conferred under Part-III must be kept in mind. By judicial interpretation the contents of these Part III rights are constantly expanded. The meaning of public purpose in acquisition of land must be judged on the touchstone of this expanded view of Part-III rights. The open-ended nature of our Constitution needs a harmonious reconciliation between various competing principles and the overhanging shadows of socio-economic reality in this country.

18. Therefore, the concept of public purpose on this broad horizon must also be read into the provisions of emergency power under Section 17 with the consequential dispensation of right of hearing under Section 5A of the said Act. The Courts must examine these questions very carefully when little Indians lose their small property in the name of mindless acquisition at the instance of the State. If public purpose can be satisfied by not rendering common man homeless and by exploring other avenues of acquisition, the Courts, before sanctioning an acquisition, must in exercise of its power of judicial review, focus its attention on the concept of social and economic justice.

While examining these questions of public importance, the Courts, especially the Higher Courts, cannot afford to act as mere umpires. In this context we reiterate the principle laid down by this Court in Authorised Officer, Thanjavur and Anr. v. S. Naganatha Ayyar and Ors. (1979) 3 SCC 466, wherein this Court held:

"...It is true that Judges are constitutional invigilators and statutory interpreters; but they are also responsive and responsible to Part IV of the Constitution being one of the trinity of the nation's appointed instrumentalities in the transformation of the socio- economic order. The judiciary, in its sphere, shares the revolutionary purpose of the constitutional order, and when called upon to decode social legislation must be animated by a goal-oriented approach. This is part of the dynamics of statutory interpretation in the developing countries so that courts are not converted into rescue shelters for those who seek to defeat agrarian justice by cute transactions of many manifestations now so familiar in the country and illustrated by the several cases under appeal. This caveat has become necessary because the judiciary is not a mere umpire, as some assume, but an activist catalyst in the constitutional scheme."

19. In other words public purpose must be viewed through the prism of Constitutional values as stated above.

20. The aforesaid principles in our jurisprudence compel this Court to construe any expropriartory legislation like the Land Acquisition Act very strictly.

21. The judicial pronouncements on this aspect are numerous, only a few of them may be noted here.

22. In DLF Qutab Enclave Complex Educational Charitable Trust v. State of Haryana and Ors. (2003) 5 SCC 622, this Court construed the statute on Town Planning Law and held "Expropriatory statute, as is well known, must be strictly construed." (See para 41 page 635).

23. The same principle has been reiterated subsequently by a three-Judge Bench of this Court in State of Maharashtra and Anr. v. B.E. Billimoria and Ors. (2003) 7 SCC 336 in the context of ceiling law. (See para 22 at page 347 of the report).

24. These principles again found support in the decision of this Court in Chairman, Indore Vikas Pradhikaran v. Pure Industrial Coke and Chemicals Ltd. and Ors. (2007) 8 SCC 705, wherein this Court construed the status of a person's right to property after deletion of Article 19(1)(f) from Part III. By referring to various international covenants, namely, the Declaration of Human and Civic Rights, this Court held that even though right to property has ceased to be a fundamental right but it would however be given an express recognition as a legal right and also as a human right.

25. While discussing the ambit and extent of property right, this Court reiterated that expropriatory legislation must be given strict construction. (See para 53 to 57 at pages 731 to 732 of the report)

26. In the background of the aforesaid discussion, this Court proceeds to examine the scope of a person's right under Section 5A of the Act.

27. Initially, Section 5A was not there in the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 but the same was inserted long ago by the Land Acquisition (Amendment) Act, 1923 vide Section 3 of Act 38 of 1923.

28. The history behind insertion of Section 5A, in the Act of 1894 seems to be the basis of a decision of the Division Bench of Calcutta High Court in J.E.D. Ezra v. The Secretary of State for India and Ors. 7 C.W.N. 249. In that case, the properties of Ezra were sought to be acquired under the pre amended provision of the Act for expansion of the offices of the Bank of Bengal. In challenging the said acquisition, it was argued that the person whose property is going to be taken away should be allowed a hearing on the principles of natural justice. However the judges found that there was no such provision in the Act. (see p. 269)

29. In order to remedy this shortcoming in the Act of 1894, an amendment by way of incorporation of Section 5A was introduced on 11th July, 1923. The Statement of Objects and Reasons for the said Amendment is as follows:

The Land Acquisition Act I of 1894 does not provide that persons having an interest in land which it is proposed to acquire, shall have the right of objecting to such acquisition; nor is Government bound to enquire into and consider any objections that may reach them. The object of this Bill is to provide that a Local Government shall not declare, under Section 6 of the Act, that any land is needed for a public purpose unless time has been allowed after the notification under Section 4 for persons interested in the land to put in objections and for such objections to be considered by the Local Government. (Gazette of India, Pt. V, dated 14th July, 1923, page 260)

30. The said amendment was assented to by the Governor General on 5th August, 1923 and came into force on 1st January, 1924.

Relying upon earlier pronouncements in Nandeshwar Prasad and Ors Vs. U. P. Government and Others AIR 1964 SC 1217; Munshi Singh and Ors. v. Union of India (1973) 2 SCC 337; Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited v. Darius Shahpur Chennai and Ors. (2005) 7 SCC 627 and quoting Essco Fabs (supra), (2009) 2 SCC 377; The Court observed as follows:-

41. Whereas Sub-section (1) of Section 17 deals with cases of "urgency", Sub-section (2) of the said section covers cases of "sudden change in the channel of any navigable river or other unforeseen emergency". But even in such cases i.e. cases of "urgency" or "unforeseen emergency", enquiry contemplated by Section 5A cannot ipso facto be dispensed with which is clear from Sub-section (4) of Section 17 of the Act.

The Court further observed in Para 35 onwards:

35. This Court, therefore, held that once a case is covered under Sub-section (1) or (2) of Section 17, Sub-section (4) of Section 17 would not necessarily apply.

54. In our opinion, therefore, the contention of learned Counsel for the Respondent authorities is not well founded and cannot be upheld that once a case is covered by sub- sections (1) or (2) of Section 17 of the Act, Sub-section (4) of Section 17 would necessarily apply and there is no question of holding inquiry or hearing objections under Section 5A of the Act. Acceptance of such contention or upholding of this argument will make sub- section (4) of Section 17 totally otiose, redundant and nugatory.

36. This Court also held that in view of the ratio in Union of India v. Mukesh Hans (2004) 8 SCC 14, Sub-section (4) of Section 17 cannot be pressed into service by officers who are negligent and lethargic in initiating acquisition proceedings.

37. The question is whether in the admitted facts of this case, invoking the urgency clause under Section 17(4) is justified. In the writ petition before the High Court, the Petitioners have given the details of the land holding, and it has also been stated that the entire holding of Petitioners 2, 5, 7, 9, 10, 11 and 13 have been acquired, and as a result of such acquisition, the Petitioners have become landless. From the various facts disclosed in the said affidavit it appears that the matter was initiated by the Government's letter dated 4th of June, 2008 for issuance of Section 4(1) and Section 17 notifications. A meeting for selection of the suitable site for construction was held on 27th June, 2008, and the proposal for such acquisition and construction was sent to the Director, Land Acquisition on 2nd of July, 2008. This was in turn forwarded to the State Government by the Director on 22nd of July, 2008. After due consideration of the forwarded proposal and documents, the State Government issued the Section 4 notification, along with Section 17 notification on 21st of August, 2008. These notifications were published in local newspapers on 24th of September, 2008. Thereafter, over a period of 9 months, the State Government deposited 10% of compensation payable to the landowners, along with 10% of acquisition expenses and 70% of cost of acquisition was deposited, and the proposal for issuance of Section 6 declaration was sent to the Director, Land Acquisition on 19th of June, 2009. The Director in turn forwarded all these to the State Government on 17th July, 2009, and the State Government finally issued the Section 6 declaration on 10th of August, 2009. This declaration was published in the local dailies on 17th of August, 2009.

38. Thus the time which elapsed between publication of Section 4(1) and Section 17 notifications, and Section 6 declaration, in the local newspapers is 11 months and 23 days, i.e. almost one year. This slow pace at which the government machinery had functioned in processing the acquisition, clearly evinces that there was no urgency for acquiring the land so as to warrant invoking Section 17(4) of the Act.

39. In paragraph 15 of the writ petition, it has been clearly stated that there was a time gap of more than 11 months between Section 4 and Section 6 notifications, which demonstrates that there was no urgency in the State action which could deny the Petitioners their right under Section 5A. In the counter which was filed in this case by the State before the High Court, it was not disputed that the time gap between Section 4 notification read with Section 17, and Section 6 notification was about 11 months.

40. The construction of jail is certainly in public interest and for such construction land may be acquired. But such acquisition can be made only by strictly following the mandate of the said Act. In the facts of this case, such acquisition cannot be made by invoking emergency provisions of Section 17. If so advised, Government can initiate acquisition proceeding by following the provision of Section 5A of the Act and in accordance with law.

41. For the reasons aforesaid, we hold that the State Government was not justified, in the facts of this case, to invoke the emergency provision of Section 17(4) of the Act. The valuable right of the Appellants under Section 5A of the Act cannot flattened and steamrolled on the 'ipse dixit' of the executive authority. The impugned notifications under Sections 4 and 6 of the Act in so far as they relate to the Appellants' land are quashed. The possession of the Appellants in respect of their land cannot be interfered with except in accordance with law.

22. In Union of India v. Kishan Lal Arneja AIR2004SC3582, Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as under:

"Section 17 confers extraordinary powers on the authorities under which it can dispense with the normal procedure laid down under Section 5A of the Act in exceptional case of urgency. Such powers cannot be lightly resorted to except in case of real urgency enabling the Government to take immediate possession of the land proposed to be acquired for public purpose. A public purpose, however laudable it may be, by itself is not sufficient to take aid of Section 17 to use this extraordinary power as use of such power deprives a landowner of his right in relation to immovable property to file objections for the proposed acquisition and it also dispenses with the enquiry under Section 5A of the Act. The authority must have subjective satisfaction of the need for invoking urgency clause under Section 17 keeping in mind the nature of the public purpose, real urgency that the situation demands and the time factor i.e. whether taking possession of the property can wait for a minimum period within which the objections could be received from the landowners and the inquiry under Section 5A of the Act could be completed. In other words, if power under Section 17 is not exercised, the very purpose for which the land is being acquired urgently would be frustrated or defeated. Normally urgency to acquire a land for public purpose does not arise suddenly or overnight but sometimes such urgency may arise unexpectedly, exceptionally or extraordinarily depending on situations such as due to earthquake, flood or some specific time-bound project where the delay is likely to render the purpose nugatory or infructuous, A citizen's property can be acquired in accordance with law but in the absence of real and genuine urgency, it may not be appropriate to deprive an aggrieved party of a fair and just opportunity of putting forth its objections for due consideration of the acquiring authority. While applying the urgency clause, the State should indeed act with due care and responsibility. Invoking urgency clause cannot be a substitute or support for the laxity, lethargy or lack of care on the part of the State administration."

(emphasis supplied by us)

23. From the above judgments, the law is clear that the power to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act is an extraordinary and exceptional power. The right under Section 5-A is a valuable statutory right available to the landowner, and its exclusion cannot be resorted to as a matter of routine or administrative convenience. The State Government may invoke Sections 17(1) and 17(4) only when there exists real, genuine, and demonstrable urgency of such a nature that even the brief enquiry contemplated under Section 5-A cannot be tolerated. The satisfaction regarding urgency must be based on relevant material and must reflect due application of mind. In short, the dispensing of enquiry under Section 5A of the Act is not a normal procedure but is resorted to only in exceptional circumstances where strong reasons exist for the same.

23. In Union of India (UOI) and Ors. v. Shiv Raj and Ors., (2010) 11 SCC 242, the Hon'ble Supreme Court emphatically reiterated the scope, object and significance of Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 in the context of the principles of natural justice and the valuable right of objection conferred upon landowners, which are as under-

"8. The rules of natural justice have been ingrained in the scheme of Section 5A of the Act 1894 with a view to ensure that before any person is deprived of his land by way of compulsory acquisition, he must get an opportunity to oppose the decision of the State Government and/or its agencies/instrumentalities to acquire the particular parcel of land.

Section 5A(2) of the Act 1894, which represents statutory embodiment of the rule of audi alteram partem, gives an opportunity to the objector to make an endeavour to convince the Collector that his land is not required for the public purpose specified in the notification issued Under Section 4(1) of the Act 1894 or that there are other valid reasons for not acquiring the same. Thus, Section 5A of the Act 1894 embodies a very just and wholesome principle that a person whose property is being or is intended to be acquired should have a proper and reasonable opportunity of persuading the authorities concerned that acquisition of the property belonging to that person should not be made.

On the consideration of the said objection, the Collector is required to make a report. The State Government is then required to apply mind to the report of the Collector and take final decision on the objections filed by the landowners and other interested persons. Then and then only, a declaration can be made Under Section 6(1) of the Act 1894.

9. Therefore, Section 5A of the Act 1894 confers a valuable right in favour of a person whose lands are sought to be acquired. It is trite that hearing given to a person must be an effective one and not a mere formality. Formation of opinion as regard the public purpose as also suitability thereof must be preceded by application of mind having due regard to the relevant factors and rejection of irrelevant ones. The State in its decision making process must not commit any misdirection in law. It is also not in dispute that Section 5A of the Act, 1894 confers a valuable important right and having regard to the provisions, contained in Article 300A of the Constitution of India has been held to be akin to a fundamental right.

10. Thus, the limited right given to an owner/person interested Under Section 5A of the Act, 1894 to object to the acquisition proceedings is not an empty formality and is a substantive right, which can be taken away only for good and valid reason and within the limitations prescribed Under Section 17(4) of the Act, 1894.

25. The Apex Court in Anand Singh and Ors. Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Ors. (2010) 11 SCC 242 has dealt with the scope, extent and ambit of the power of the State Government under Section 17(1) and (4) of the 1894 Act and the legal position has been culled out as follows:

"43. The exceptional and extraordinary power of doing away with an enquiry Under Section 5-A in a case where possession of the land is required urgently or in an unforeseen emergency is provided in Section 17 of the Act. Such power is not a routine power and save circumstances warranting immediate possession it should not be lightly invoked. The guideline is inbuilt in Section 17 itself for exercise of the exceptional power in dispensing with enquiry Under Section 5-A. Exceptional the power, the more circumspect the Government must be in its exercise. The Government obviously, therefore, has to apply its mind before it dispenses with enquiry Under Section 5-A on the aspect whether the urgency is of such a nature that justifies elimination of summary enquiry Under Section 5-A.

44. A repetition of the statutory phrase in the notification that the State Government is satisfied that the land specified in the notification is urgently needed and the provision contained in Section 5-A shall not apply, though may initially raise a presumption in favour of the Government that prerequisite conditions for exercise of such power have been satisfied, but such presumption may be displaced by the circumstances themselves having no reasonable nexus with the purpose for which the power has been exercised. Upon challenge being made to the use of power Under Section 17, the Government must produce appropriate material before the Court that the opinion for dispensing with the enquiry Under Section 5-A has been formed by the Government after due application of mind on the material placed before it.

45. It is true that power conferred upon the Government Under Section 17 is administrative and its opinion is entitled to due weight, but in a case where the opinion is formed regarding the urgency based on considerations not germane to the purpose, the judicial review of such administrative decision may become necessary.

46. As to in what circumstances the power of emergency can be invoked are specified in Section 17(2) but circumstances necessitating invocation of urgency Under Section 17(1) are not stated in the provision itself. Generally speaking, the development of an area (for residential purposes) or a planned development of city, takes many years if not decades and, therefore, there is no reason why summary enquiry as contemplated Under Section 5-A may not be held and objections of landowners/persons interested may not be considered. In many cases, on general assumption likely delay in completion of enquiry Under Section 5-A is set up as a reason for invocation of extraordinary power in dispensing with the enquiry little realising that an important and valuable right of the person interested in the land is being taken away and with some effort enquiry could always be completed expeditiously.

47. The special provision has been made in Section 17 to eliminate enquiry Under Section 5-A in deserving and cases of real urgency. The Government has to apply its mind on the aspect that urgency is of such nature that necessitates dispensation of enquiry Under Section 5-A. We have already noticed a few decisions of this Court. There is a conflict of view in the two decisions of this Court viz. Narayan Govind Gavate (1977) 1 SCC 133 and Pista Devi (1986) 4 SCC 251. In Om Prakash (1998) 6 SCC 1 this Court held that the decision in Pista Devi (1986) 4 SCC 251 must be confined to the fact situation in those days when it was rendered and the two-Judge Bench could not have laid down a proposition contrary to the decision in Narayan Govind Gavate (1977) 1 SCC 133.

26. In the case of Radhy Shyam (Dead) through L.Rs. and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors., the Hon'ble Apex Court summarized the legal position governing the exercise of power under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, particularly with regard to dispensing with the enquiry under Section 5-A, and laid down guiding principles for judicial review of such action.

"53. From the analysis of the relevant statutory provisions and interpretation thereof by this Court in different cases, the following principles can be culled out:

(i) Eminent domain is a right inherent in every sovereign to take and appropriate property belonging to citizens for public use. To put it differently, the sovereign is entitled to reassert its dominion over any portion of the soil of the State including private property without its owner's consent provided that such assertion is on account of public exigency and for public good. - Dwarkadas Shrinivas v. Sholapur Spinning and Weaving Co. Ltd.,AIR (1954) SC 119, Chiranjit Lal Chowdhuri v. Union of India AIR (1951) SC 41 and Jilubhai Nanbhai Khachar v. State of Gujarat (1995) Supp. (1) SCC 596.

(ii) The legislations which provide for compulsory acquisition of private property by the State fall in the category of expropriators legislation and such legislation must be construed strictly - DLF Qutab Enclave Complex Educational Charitable Trust v. State of Haryana (2003) 5 SCC 622; State of Maharashtra v. B.E. Billimoria (2003) 7 SCC 336 and Dev Sharan v. State of U.P., civil Appeal No. 2334 of 2011 decided on 7.3.2011.

(iii) Though, in exercise of the power of eminent domain, the Government can acquire the private property for public purpose, it must be remembered that compulsory taking of one's property is a serious matter. If the property belongs to economically disadvantaged segment of the society or people suffering from other handicaps, then the Court is not only entitled but is duty bound to scrutinize the action/decision of the State with greater vigilance, care and circumspection keeping in view the fact that the land owner is likely to become landless and deprived of the only source of his livelihood and/or shelter.

(iv) The property of a citizen cannot be acquired by the State and/or its agencies/instrumentalities without complying with the mandate of Sections 4, 5A and 6 of the Act. A public purpose, however, laudable it may be does not entitle the State to invoke the urgency provisions because the same have the effect of depriving the owner of his right to property without being heard. Only in a case of real urgency, the State can invoke the urgency provisions and dispense with the requirement of hearing the land owner or other interested persons.

(v) Section 17(1) read with Section 17(4) confers extraordinary power upon the State to acquire private property without complying with the mandate of Section 5A. These provisions can be invoked only when the purpose of acquisition cannot brook the delay of even few weeks or months. therefore, before excluding the application of Section 5A, the concerned authority must be fully satisfied that time of few weeks or months likely to be taken in conducting inquiry under Section 5A will, in all probability, frustrate the public purpose for which land is proposed to be acquired.

(vi) The satisfaction of the Government on the issue of urgency is subjective but is a condition precedent to the exercise of power under Section 17(1) and the same can be challenged on the ground that the purpose for which the private property is sought to be acquired is not a public purpose at all or that the exercise of power is vitiated due to mala fides or that the concerned authorities did not apply mind to the relevant factors and the records.

(vii) The exercise of power by the Government under Section 17(1) does not necessarily result in exclusion of Section 5A of the Act in terms of which any person interested in land can file objection and is entitled to be heard in support of his objection. The use of word "may" in sub-section (4) of Section 17 makes it clear that it merely enables the Government to direct that the provisions of Section 5A would not apply to the cases covered under Sub-section (1) or (2) of Section 17. In other words, invoking of Section 17(4) is not a necessary concomitant of the exercise of power under Section 17(1).

(viii) The acquisition of land for residential, commercial, industrial or institutional purposes can be treated as an acquisition for public purposes within the meaning of Section 4 but that, by itself, does not justify the exercise of power by the Government under Section 17(1) and/or 17(4). The Court can take judicial notice of the fact that planning, execution and implementation of the schemes relating to development of residential, commercial, industrial or institutional areas usually take few years. therefore, the private property cannot be acquired for such purpose by invoking the urgency provision contained in Section 17(1). In any case, exclusion of the rule of audi alteram partem embodied in Section 5A(1) and (2) is not at all warranted in such matters.

(ix) If land is acquired for the benefit of private persons, the Court should view the invoking of Section 17(1) and/or 17(4) with suspicion and carefully scrutinize the relevant record before adjudicating upon the legality of such acquisition."

27. Recently, in Hatam Singh and Others v. State of U.P. Thru Secy. Housing (WRIT C No. 4986 of 2005), decided on 17 October 2025 along with 32 connected petitions, this Court, after a detailed survey of binding precedents of the Hon'ble Supreme Court and this Court, observed that Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 embodies a substantive safeguard for landowners. It further held that recourse to Section 17 to dispense with such enquiry is permissible only in cases of real urgency, founded on cogent material and a conscious application of mind by the competent authority.

Issue No. (I)

28. We now proceed to consider the first issue that arises for determination, namely, whether the invocation of the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 and the consequent dispensation of the enquiry contemplated under Section 5-A were justified in the facts and circumstances of the present case. This issue goes to the very root of the matter and requires determination at the threshold. It is now well settled that the right of objection under Section 5-A of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is not an empty formality but a valuable and substantive right available to a landholder prior to the compulsory acquisition of his property. The enquiry contemplated under Section 5-A constitutes the sole and effective opportunity afforded to the affected person to raise objections with regard to the public purpose, suitability, and necessity of the proposed acquisition. Dispensation of such enquiry by resorting to the urgency clause under Section 17 can be sustained only in exceptional circumstances where the urgency is real, immediate, and compelling. Any routine, casual, or mechanical exercise of this extraordinary power undermines the statutory safeguard embodied in Section 5-A and is liable to be interdicted by the constitutional courts.

29. Keeping the above principles in mind discussed in preceding paragraphs, it is to be considered whether there was any justification for applying the urgency clause and for dispensing with the requirements of Section 5-A of the Act. As per the record produced on behalf of the State Government, which was produced before this Court, the Chairman, Raebareli Development Authority and the Special Land Acquisition Officer, Sanyukta Sangathan, Raebareli, jointly signed a request, which is being quoted verbatim hereinbelow in its entirety:

रायबरेली विकास प्राधिकरण की आवासीय योजना के निर्माण हेतु भूमि की तुरंत आवश्यकता है क्योंकि भूमि उपलब्ध होने में विलंब होने से निर्माण कार्य की पूर्ति में देरी होगी, जिससे आवासीय योजना के निर्माण में विलंब होगा और प्रदेश के विकास में रुकावट पड़ेगी। अतः धारा 17(1) के अनुसार भू-अर्जन की कार्यवाही आवश्यक है ताकि शीघ्रातिशीघ्र भूमि उपलब्ध कराई जा सके।

30. On a careful examination of the reasons recorded for invoking Section 17(1), it becomes evident that no real, immediate or exceptional urgency has been demonstrated. The only ground assigned is that delay in making the land available would consequently delay construction of a residential scheme and affect development in the region. Such reasoning merely reflects administrative convenience and apprehension of project delay, which are routine features in almost every development activity. These grounds are vague and general in nature and do not disclose any extraordinary or emergent circumstance warranting dispensation of the statutory safeguard under Section 5-A. There is no material to show that even the short period required to conduct an enquiry under Section 5-A would frustrate or defeat the declared public purpose. In the absence of any special, unforeseen or compelling situation, the satisfaction recorded under Section 17 appears mechanical and not based on objective considerations. Therefore, the reasons given do not satisfy the strict legal requirements for properly invoking the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Act.

31. Moreover, such invocation of the urgency clause is clearly contrary to the settled legal principles consistently laid down by authoritative judicial pronouncements noticed in several preceding paragraphs. The Apex Courts have repeatedly held that the power under Section 17 is extraordinary in nature and must be exercised with great caution and only in cases of genuine and compelling urgency. It cannot be invoked on the basis of routine administrative delay, convenience, or anticipated project timelines. The law is well settled that the valuable right of objection under Section 5-A cannot be taken away lightly or in a mechanical manner. Any satisfaction recorded without concrete, objective and exceptional circumstances stands vitiated in law.

32. Upon an anxious and careful consideration of the statutory scheme of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 and the authoritative pronouncements noticed in several preceding paragraphs, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the mandatory pre-condition of real, immediate and compelling urgency for invoking Section 17 of the Act has not been satisfied in the present case. The reasons relied upon by the State disclose nothing beyond administrative convenience and apprehended delay in execution of the project, which are wholly insufficient in law to justify dispensation of the valuable right of objection under Section 5-A.

33. The material on record does not demonstrate any circumstance of such pressing urgency as would render even the minimal enquiry contemplated under Section 5-A impracticable or frustrative of the public purpose. The statutory threshold for exercise of the extraordinary power under Section 17, therefore, remains unsatisfied, in clear violation of the settled principles of law consistently laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as by this Court discussed in preceding paragraphs. Consequently, Point No. (i) is answered in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents. The invocation of the urgency clause under Section 17, together with the dispensation of the enquiry under Section 5-A, is held to be arbitrary, unconstitutional and unsustainable in law.

Point No. (ii)

34. We now proceed to consider Point No.(ii) as framed by us. The expression 'utilization' occurring in the relevant statutory provision necessarily connotes actual use of the land for the purpose for which it has been acquired, and not a mere proposal, intention, or reservation for an uncertain future. Reservation of land for 'future planning' by its very nature, is contingent and indeterminate and does not result in any present or tangible use of the land.

35. Mere earmarking of land or its retention for a prospective future project, in the absence of any concrete steps towards development or implementation, cannot, in law, be regarded as utilisation. Any contrary interpretation would defeat the very object of the provision, which mandates that land acquired for a specified public purpose be put to effective and timely use.

36. In our considered view, the law does not permit the State to keep acquired land for an unlimited period on the vague ground of 'future planning'. The land must be put to real and actual use. Its utilisation must be genuine and visible, not merely on paper or based on uncertain future possibilities. Simply reserving the land without carrying out any development or using it for the stated public purpose does not fulfill the legal requirement of utilisation. 'Utilisation' must be real, substantive and demonstrable, and not illusory.

37. It must be borne in mind that the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 was framed in a different era. In the present Constitutional framework, every statutory power has to be exercised in accordance with the Constitution of India, the Supreme law of the land, and in keeping with the principles of a welfare State. The rule of law, which is a foundational feature of our constitutional framework and finds expression in Article 14 of the Constitution of India, requires that all State action to be fair, transparent, reasonable and free from arbitrariness. It ensures that power is exercised within defined legal limits and for the purpose for which it is conferred. In a constitutional democracy governed by the rule of law, the State cannot act on vague assumptions or indefinite plans while dealing with valuable property rights of citizens. Retention of acquired land for years together without any concrete development or utilisation defeats the very purpose for which the power of acquisition is granted. Such inaction not only weakens the statutory intent but also violates the constitutional guarantee against arbitrary State action.

Accordingly, this Court holds that reservation of land for 'future planning' in the absence of actual development or use, does not amount to utilisation within the meaning of the said provision. Point No. (ii) is, therefore, answered in the negative.

Point No. (iii)

36. Point No. (iii) concerns the applicability of the doctrine of lis pendens, as embodied in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, to the auction and subsequent transfer of the subject land in favour of the private respondent during the pendency of the present proceedings. The doctrine of lis pendens, embodied in Section 52 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, is founded on public policy and mandates that during the pendency of any litigation in which rights to immovable property are directly and substantially in issue, the property cannot be transferred so as to prejudice the rights of any party to the lis. The principle is not based on notice or bona fides of the transferee, but on the necessity to preserve the subject matter of the litigation until its final adjudication. In the present case, it is undisputed that at the time when the auction was conducted and the subsequent transfer was made in favour of the private respondent, writ proceedings concerning the very same land, particularly with respect to its utilisation, release, and legality of acquisition were already pending before this Court. The subject land thus formed an integral part of the lis. A transfer pendente lite is not void ab initio; however, it does not confer any independent or superior right upon the transferee. The transferee merely steps into the shoes of the transferor and takes the property subject to the final outcome of the pending proceedings. Accordingly, this Court holds that any rights claimed by the private respondent shall abide by and be governed by the final decision rendered by this Court.

39. It is also clear that such auction was done in a clandestine manner. The petitioner's land was shown marked as 'D-1' at the time of depositing compensation. It was thereafter shown as commercial Plot C-1A on 30.05.2023. The auction notice dated 01.06.2023 states that commercial Plot C-1A situated in Ekta Vihar was proposed to be auctioned but the auction notice dated 01.06.2023 only stated that 'the Raebareli Development Authority's Ekta Vihar, Jawahar Vihar, Indira Nagar, in front of Supermarket, Raebareli Development Authority Complex consisting of vacant commercial shops, office space and commercial plots would be allotted by way of auction on 30th/31st of every month. Auction information shall be notified later. The auction was held on 07.07.2023 just after one publication of this notice without separately notifying auction information later.

40. Disputed land was kept for future planning in the layout plan of Ekta Vihar Colony prepared in 2016 by Raebareli Development Authority itself. Picking up the said land and marking it as C-1A and auctioning it alone out of 1185 sq. m. kept aside for future planning cannot be justified under any circumstances and is liable to be set aside. Not only was the auction notice not published in one national daily and one other daily having statewide circulation, such notice was not published twice as is required under the relevant Government Order. Without adequate publicity in well-known newspapers, people willing to offer more money for commercial plot adjacent to Lucknow Allahabad Highway were prevented from participating in the auction. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of K. Kumara Gupta v. Sri Markendaya and Sri Omkareswara Swamy Temple, reported in 2022 (5) SCC 710, has been pleased to hold that a sale pursuant to a public auction can also be set aside in an eventuality where it is found, on the basis of material on record, that the property has been sold away at a throwaway price and/or on a wholly inadequate consideration because of fraud and/or collusion and/or after any material irregularity and/or illegality is found in conducting/holding of such public auction. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram and Shyam Company v. State of Haryana and others, 1985 (3) SCC 267 (para 12); Kolkata Municipal Corporation & another v. Bimal Kumar Shah & others (para 30 and 31); State of Punjab & Others v. Mehar Din, 2022 (5) SCC 648 (para 25); Lakshmanasami Gounder v. Commissioner of Income Tax, Selvamani & others, 1992 (1) SCC 91 (para 4 and 5) has held that very low price for the property in question can be set aside by the Court.

41. It is evident from paragraph 23 of the counter affidavit of the Raebareli Development Authority in Writ C No. 3283 of 2024, the Raebareli Development Authority through its letter dated 15.07.2022 (Annexure-23) had requested the Sub-Registrar, Raebareli, for providing circle rates of properties mentioned in the enclosure to the said letter, which were proposed to be put to auction. Plot No.C-1A was not mentioned in such enclosure. The Sub-Registrar replied to the Raebareli Development Authority on 26.12.2022 (Annexure-25), enclosing the rates of properties as requested by the Raebareli Development Authority. A perusal of C.A.-23 and C.A.-24 shows that Plot C-1A was not mentioned either in the list of properties proposed to be auctioned by the Raebareli Development Authority on 15.07.2022 or in the list of properties whose rates were given by the Sub-Registrar, Raebareli, by his letter dated 26.12.2022. It makes it clear that the petitioner's plot was still unutilised and was not proposed for any auction and was admittedly reserved for future planning at the time when this Court passed the interim order on 13.09.2022.

42. The property in question was marked and sold as commercial by the Raebareli Development Authority. However, the rate of commercial property was not taken as the reserve price. Rate of non residential property was taken arbitrarily. At the time when the property in question was auctioned, the circle rate list effective from 01.11.2022 had become operative. The shops which the Raebareli Development Authority proposed to auction had a reserve price of Rs.1,05,000 per sq. m. The portion of land belonging to the petitioner proposed to be auctioned was 173.11 sq. m. As such, its reserve price ought to have been fixed at more than Rs.1.80 crore, because under Clause 4(kha) of the circle rate list effective from 01.11.2022, if a property is adjacent to a property being commercially used, 30% of the value as per Circle Rate is to be added in the circle rate for valuation, and if the property is adjacent to a National Highway 20% of its value must be added for its valuation, which was admittedly not done by the Raebareli Development Authority. It has been informed to the Court that the property in question is situated right next to Bajaj Agency /Shakti Agencies on Lucknow Allahabad Highway.

43. Not only was the reserve price arbitrarily fixed by the Raebareli Development Authority, it never followed the procedure for auction as provided in the Government Order dated 20.06.2001 (C.A.-11), which provides guidelines for how auction is to be conducted. In Clause 5 of the same, it has been provided that auction notice has to be published in one national and one State-level newspaper, and such publication is to be at least twice in each newspaper. It is evident from the counter affidavit filed by the Raebareli Development Authority that the auction notice was published in Lucknow Mail and Aaj newspapers only once. Lucknow Mail is not a newspaper which can be said to be widely circulated in the State of U.P., and Aaj newspaper could not be said to be a national daily, at the time when notice was published in such newspapers in the State of U.P. much less at national level. It was also not published twice in each of such newspapers as is evident from the counter affidavit filed by the Raebareli Development Authority.

44. With regard to the argument raised regarding the auction conducted by the Raebareli Development Authority and that respondent no. 5 was a bona fide auction purchaser; the circle-rate list circulated for District Raebareli with effect from 01.11.2022 has general instructions given on page-1 and paragraph-4 thereof. Evaluation of non-agricultural plots which are adjoining a commercial/industrial property shall be done in such a manner that 30% of its value will be added to its nominal value determined on the basis of the circle-rate list. The plot of the petitioner was situated next to a commercial establishment/ Bajaj Shakti Agency. Similarly, in Clause 21-A of the Circle Rate list, it has been provided that value of any non-agricultural land which is adjoining a national highway/State Highway/District Road or any other main road may be determined after adding 20% of its normal value to it. It is not disputed that the land of the petitioner is adjoining the national highway, i.e., Allahabad□Lucknow National Highway. Praroop-3 relates to non-agricultural or commercial land in urban and semi-urban areas. Undoubtedly subject land in Ekta Vihar Colony is situated adjacent to the Lucknow-Allahabad National Highway.

45. In case the R.D.A. had sought valuation of Commercial Plot C-1A from the office of the Sub-Registrar, Raebarile indicating it to be situated in Ekta Vihar Colony, then its reserved price would have been fixed at much higher value.

46. In the counter-affidavit of Raebareli Development Authority, page 49, paragraph 23, mention has been made of the land in question actually being sold as commercial. If 30% of its value for being situated adjacent to commercial premises had been added and also 20% of its value had been added because it was situated adjoining the national highway, then the reserve price of the plot in question would have been more than Rs.2 Crores, however, it was sold off for only Rs.67 lakhs to the private respondent for extraneous considerations.

47. In State of Madhya Pradesh and another versus Shri Ram Ragubir Prasad Agarwal, (1979) 4 SCC 686, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that, 'contextually speaking, we are satisfied that publication means more than mere communication to concerned officials or departments. To publish a news item is to make known to people in general; and advising of the public or making known of something to the public for a purpose_. In our view, the purpose of Section 3 animates the meaning of the expression 'published.' 'Publication' is an act of publishing anything, offering it to public notice, or rendering it accessible to public scrutiny _and advising of the public; making known of something to them for a purpose_.

48. In ICICI Bank and another versus Municipal Corporation of Greater Bombay and others, (2005) 6 SCC 404, the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that 'an advertisement is a matter that draws attention of the public or a segment of the public to a product, service, person, organisation, line of conduct in a manner calculated to promote or oppose, directly or indirectly, that product, service, person, organisation, or line of conduct intended to promote sale or use of product or range of products.

49. A perusal of such notice dated 01.06.2023 itself shows that the Raebareli Development Authority, in its table published along with the auction notice, had shown the plot of the petitioner as admeasuring 175 sq. metres instead of its actual area of 204 sq. metres.

50. The petitioner approached this Court in Writ Petition No. 9486 of 2023 which was disposed of on 02.11.2023. Consequent to such order, the petitioner filed a representation to the State Government on 10.11.2023, praying for exemption of his land from acquisition under the provisions of Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and release of unutilized land under Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973. The State Government, by its order dated 20.02.2024, rejected the representation of the petitioner, against which the petitioner has filed Writ-C No.3283 of 2024. The petitioner has also challenged the auction proceedings and the consequent allotment made on 24.07.2023 in favour of the private respondent.

51. It is not in dispute that the petitioner remained in possession of the land until the month of June 2023, when the Raebareli Development Authority forcibly evicted him from his land and delivered its possession to respondent no. 5. Until 2018, the petitioner had leased the said plot, and it was in tenancy of persons who were running a liquor vend on it, as is evident from the rent agreement between the parties from 2013 up to 2017, a copy of which has been filed as annexure to the petition. The liquor vend was running on the commercial plot of the petitioner, and he was in continuous possession until June 2023, even after the tenants vacated his plot.

52. A perusal of the auction notice dated 01.06.2023 also reveals that proper identification of the khasra no. 201/1 in village Akhtiyarpur was not mentioned. Instead, it was stated that Plot C-1A was situated in Ekta Vihar Colony. The circle rate which was used for determining the reserve price was also much less, and the criteria used was 'non-agricultural' instead of 'commercial'.

53. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforecited judgments had relied upon the definition of advertisement given in Black's Law Dictionary, Law and Commercial Dictionary, Collins Dictionary of the English Language, and the Chambers Dictionary, and observed that an advertisement is an information intended for potential customers and not only a display of the name of the company, unless the same happens to be a trademark or trade name.

54. In view of the aforesaid judgments, publication in newspaper should not be an empty formality. Its purpose is to make publicly known all relevant information and to attract the attention of public/individuals concerned to such information for the purposes for which such publication is made. In the context of a public auction, the purpose of publication is to make the public aware that on a particular date, the public auction is to take place and to enable them to participate, giving sufficient time to fulfill the requisite formalities as provided under the terms of the publication. The question is not who could have participated or could not have participated, in spite of a reasonable period's notice through publication in the newspapers, but certainly, if wide publicity was given by newspaper publication, giving sufficient time, it could have fetched more persons to participate. Such possibility cannot be ruled out. It is a public auction and revenue to the Development Authority being involved, the requirement is for adopting a fair and transparent procedure. State largesse can be granted only by following that procedure. The Auction notice in the instant case was published indicating the 30th or 31st of each month as dates for holding public auction. However, auction was held on 7th of July, 2023.

55. In view of the aforesaid facts and settled legal position discussed above, it is evident that the entire auction process undertaken by the Raebareli Development Authority was arbitrary, non-transparent and contrary to the mandatory Government Orders and statutory provisions. The disputed land, originally reserved for future planning, was selectively converted into Commercial Plot C-1A and auctioned without proper publication, correct valuation, or adherence to the prescribed procedure. The reserve price was arbitrarily and erroneously fixed without applying the correct commercial circle rates and mandatory additions, in clear disregard of the applicable circle rate enhancements, and without complying with the requirement of proper publication in widely circulated newspapers as prescribed under the relevant Government Order, thereby resulting in the property being sold at a grossly inadequate and undervalued price. Such material irregularities, coupled with deviation from notified auction dates, vitiate the process. The impugned auction and consequential allotment therefore deserves to be quashed in the interest of fairness, transparency, and protection of public revenue. Therefore, point No. (iii) is decided in favour of the petitioner. The Court finds that the auction proceedings conducted by the Raebareli Development Authority suffered from material irregularities and procedural violations.

Point No. (iv)

56. We now proceed to consider Point No. (iv). Article 300-A of the Constitution provides that no person shall be deprived of property except by authority of law. The expression ‘authority of law’ requires that the State strictly follow the procedure prescribed under the statute, and that the power of acquisition be exercised fairly, legally, and in accordance with all mandatory provisions. Dispensing with the right of objection under Section 5-A casually or without genuine urgency is neither fair nor lawful, and mechanical or arbitrary exercise of power cannot satisfy constitutional requirements.

57. In Om Prakash & Anr. v. State of U.P. & Ors., 1998 (6) SCC 1, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that mere planned development of a city or town does not automatically justify invoking Section 17(4) of the Act. The possibility of encroachment or future need for land is not a sufficient reason to dispense with the enquiry under Section 5-A. The Court emphasized that, in the absence of any material to demonstrate genuine urgency, Section 17(4) cannot be invoked to bypass the rights of landowners under Section 5-A.

58. In the present case, the respondents have deprived the petitioner of property without proper authority of law. The reasons recorded do not show any real urgency as noticed in preceding paragraphs and the statutory procedure, including the Section 5-A enquiry, has not been followed. Resort to Section 17(4) to waive this right, without legitimate or legally sustainable grounds, is therefore arbitrary, unconstitutional, and legally unsustainable.

59. The deprivation of the property shall be only by authority of law, be it an Act of Parliament or State Legislature, but not by executive fiat or an order.

60. In Jilubhai Nanbhai Khachar vs. State of Gujarat, 1995 Supp (1) SCC 596 the Hon'ble Supreme Court authoritatively explained the scope of Article 300-A and held that though the right to property is no longer a fundamental right, it remains a constitutional right. A person can be deprived of property only by authority of a valid law, and such law must prescribe a just, fair and reasonable procedure. The Court clarified that the State cannot take property by executive action or in an arbitrary manner; deprivation must strictly conform to statutory provisions. Any action not supported by valid law or taken in violation of prescribed procedure would be unconstitutional and liable to be struck down. The Hon'ble Supreme Court stated the law in the following terms:

"34. The right of eminent domain is the right of the sovereign State, through its regular agencies, to reassert, either temporarily or permanently, its dominion over any portion of the soil of the State including private property without its owner's consent on account of public exigency and for the public good. Eminent domain is the highest and most exact idea of property remaining in the Government, or in the aggregate body of the people in their sovereign capacity. It gives the right to resume possession of the property in the manner directed by the Constitution and the laws of the State, whenever the public interest requires it. The term 'expropriation' is practically synonymous with the term 'eminent domain'.

It was further observed:

"48. The word 'property' used in Article 300-A must be understood in the context in which the sovereign power of eminent domain is exercised by the State and property expropriated. No abstract principles could be laid. Each case must be considered in the light of its own facts and setting. The phrase 'deprivation of the property of a person' must equally be considered in the fact situation of a case. Deprivation connotes different concepts. Article 300-A gets attracted to an acquisition or taking possession of private property, by necessary implication for public purpose, in accordance with the law made by Parliament or a State Legislature, a rule or a statutory order having force of law. It is inherent in every sovereign State by exercising its power of eminent domain to expropriate private property without owner's consent. Prima facie, State would be the judge to decide whether a purpose is a public purpose. But it is not the sole judge. This will be subject to judicial review and it is the duty of the court to determine whether a particular purpose is a public purpose or not. Public interest has always been considered to be an essential ingredient of public purpose. But every public purpose does not fall under Article 300-A nor every exercise of eminent domain an acquisition or taking possession under Article 300-A. Generally speaking preservation of public health or prevention of damage to life and property are considered to be public purposes. Yet deprivation of property for any such purpose would not amount to acquisition or possession taken under Article 300-A. It would be by exercise of the police power of the State. In other words, Article 300-A only limits the powers of the State that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. There has to be no deprivation without any sanction of law. Deprivation by any other mode is not acquisition or taking possession under Article 300-A. In other words, if there is no law, there is no deprivation."

61. By inserting Sub-section (3-A) in section 17 of the Act, it has been made mandatory to tender payment of 80% of estimated compensation before taking possession. Therefore, only if 80% of the compensation is offered and paid, the vesting would become absolute, and in such event, the consequence of lapsing in respect of absolutely vested land cannot occur, and as such, in that circumstance alone Section 11-A will not be applicable. In the present case, the mandatory requirement of the provision under Sub-section (3-A) of Section 17 was never fulfilled.

62. The power under Section 17 of the Act of 1973 could have been exercised by the competent authority for restoring back the land to the petitioner, as it was not utilized till June 2023, in spite of having been acquired and taken possession of on paper by the Raebareli Development Authority in June, 2009. Section 17 of the Act is designed to impose an obligation on the State Government to acquire any land for the Authority in terms of the provisions of the Act of 1894. However, the same carves out a proviso that even if after expiry of five years from the date of such acquisition, the land has not been utilized, then the tenure holder can apply to the State Government for restoration of their land and on a satisfaction to that effect, the restoration can be allowed provided the tenure holders deposit the charges that were incurred in connection with the acquisition together with interest at the rate of 12%. There are two sub-sections in Section 17 of the Act of 1973. The first gives a discretion to the Government that if land is required for the purpose of planned development for an Urban Development Authority, then the State Government can take action in this regard by resorting to the Land Acquisition Act, 1894. The proviso clearly stipulates that if after expiry of a period of five years from the date of such acquisition, the land has not been utilized for the purpose for which it was acquired, then the State Government shall order restoration of land to the tenure holder on payment of charges which were incurred during the process of acquisition alongwith inherent as aforesaid.

63. The possession is ordinarily taken in land acquisition proceedings under Section 16 of the Land Acquisition Act after the Award has been made under Section 11, and not prior to it. Only thereafter vesting is complete. However, when urgency clause under Section 17 is invoked, then Section 16 does not come into the picture. Under Section 17(3-A), 80% of the estimated compensation should be tendered to the land loser before possession is taken, and admittedly, as per the counter affidavit dated 21.08.2024 of the opposite party nos. 1, 2, and 3 in Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022, the Award was declared on 30.05.2009 and possession on paper was taken on 30.05.2009 and on 06.06.2009. Compensation was tendered to all land losers only on 20.06.2009 after possession was taken. Also, only by letter dated 26.06.2009 compensation was offered to the petitioner, and by Revenue Deposit Form No. 175, in the case of the petitioner, the amount was deposited in the Treasury on 08.02.2011. It is evident that Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894 was violated by the respondents.

64. Also, it is evident from a perusal of the Government Order dated 09.12.1996, only the pre-deposit condition before issuance of Notification under Section 4 and Section 6 was relaxed and not the pre-condition of payment to the land loser prior to taking possession under Section 17. That deposit of 70% of estimated compensation was not made at the time when Section 6/17 declaration was made is evident from the letter dated 18.10.2006 of the District Magistrate, Raebareli, to the Director, Land Acquisition, which states that the Raebareli Development Authority had requested that it would deposit the 70% compensation at the time of taking possession, after receipt of money from HUDCO. HUDCO loan was sanctioned to the Raebareli Development Authority only on 24.08.2006, which meant that till 18.10.2006, the Raebareli Development Authority had not received any money from HUDCO. Admittedly, 80% of the estimated compensation for the land was deposited in the Treasury after Section 4/17 declaration was made on 05.04.2006. and it was tendered to the land losers after taking possession, and therefore the strict conditions as laid down under Section 17(3-A) of the Act were not complied with, and possession was taken illegally. Therefore, the land never vested in the State.

65. In the instant case, there were several procedural anomalies. There was non-compliance of Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894. Illegal possession was taken on paper by the R.D.A. on 30.05.2009. Compensation was offerred later on. The enquiry under Section 5-A was dispensed with by invoking the urgency provision of Section 17 of the Act of 1894, whereas no urgency existed, as is evident from the conduct of the Raebareli Development Authority which had initially proposed acquisition of land for Yatayat Nagar in 2004. The Notification under Section 4 read with Section 17 was issued in 2006, the Notification under Section 6 read with Section 17 was issued in 2007, and the Award was declared in 2009. Possession was taken in 2009, but the land remained unutilised. One development plan was made on 11.11.2009. It was amended on 26.07.2016, but 1185 m^2 of land in which the petitioner's land was included was reserved for future planning.

66. Regarding the argument made by counsel for the R.D.A. that the Award was passed within the stipulated period of two years from the date of Section 6 declaration, and possession being taken only thereafter, it is evident therefrom that the acquisition proceedings had followed the procedure as laid down under the Act of 1894 and such possession shall be understood to have been taken under Section 16 of the Act, is an argument which proves the petitioner's point that the urgency clause under Section 17, which dispensed with the enquiry under Section 5-A, had been invoked unnecessarily and arbitrarily. The respondents had not followed due procedure in depriving the petitioner of his property, thereby violating Article 300-A of the Constitution.

67. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Delhi Airtech Services Private Limited and another versus State of U.P. and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1408, had held that "even if possession is taken, such possession cannot be considered as legal so as to vest the land absolutely if the prerequisite condition for payment of 80% before taking possession is not complied with. In such circumstances, by legal fiction, it loses its character as an acquisition under Section 17, and since the absolute vesting does not take place, it will lapse if the further process is not complied with and the award is not passed within two years from the date of declaration of Award. Therefore, even though Section 11A is applicable to the cases of acquisition initiated under Section 17 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, the consequence of it will not affect the case where the land has absolutely vested on compliance of subsection 3A to Section 17 of the Act and 80% of the estimated compensation is tendered and paid."

68. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Lucknow Development Authority & another v. Gopal Das (Deceased) & others, reported in 2019 (8) SCC 172, has been pleased to hold that the applicability of Section 17(1) proviso of the Act of 1973 would depend on whether the development of the land proposed to be released had indeed been carried out or not immediately after completion of acquisition proceedings. This clearly reflects that if no development work towards utilization of the said land is carried out within five years of the date of acquisition, the tenure holder would be entitled for restoration of his land and payment of usual charges as stipulated in law.

69. In the case of Tukaram Kana Joshi & others through Power of Attorney Holders and Others vs. Maharashtra Industrial Development Corporation and Others, reported in 2013 (1) SCC 353, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that the State, especially the welfare State, which is governed by the Rule of Law, cannot arrogate to itself a status beyond that as provided by the Constitution. The question of condonation of delay, moreover, is one of discretion and has to be decided on the basis of the facts of the case at hand, as they may vary from case to case. It will depend upon what the breach of fundamental right and the remedy claimed are, and when and how the delay arose. Ultimately, it would be a matter within the discretion of the Court, and such discretion must be exercised fairly and justly so as to promote justice and not to defeat it. The validity of a party's defence must be tried upon principles substantially equitable.

70. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has held in State of Karnataka & Another vs. Karnataka State Patel Sangh & Others, 2007 (4) SCC 207, that when two different lands have been acquired under the same acquisition proceedings for the same purpose, then the concerned authorities cannot discriminate between them and proceed against one but not the other. Lands adjacent to the land of the petitioner, which were acquired in the same acquisition proceedings for construction of Yatayat Nagar, are still in possession of the original owners. They have permanent constructions thereon, but it is only the petitioner who was threatened with eviction by the respondents.

71. In Delhi Airtech Services Private Limited and another versus State of U.P. and another, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1408, the Larger Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court was considering an Appeal which had been decided by a two-Judges Bench on 18.08.2011 with divergent opinions. One of the Judges, after consideration of the matter, arrived at the conclusion that taking over possession of the land without complying with the requirement under Section 17(3A) of the Act of 1894 was clearly illegal and in violation of the statutory provision, which automatically violated the constitutional guarantee under Article 300A of the Constitution. On the other hand, Justice Swatantra Kumar came to the conclusion that Section 11A of the Act had no application to acquisition under Section 17 of the Act of 1894. He held that default in complying with Section 17(3A) of the Act does not invalidate or vitiate the entire acquisition proceedings. The Hon'ble Judge, while deciding so, had however believed that 80% of the estimated value in terms of sub-section (3A) of Section 17 had been paid to the land loser, and in that context had held that the interest provided in terms of Section 34 will be payable.

72. Due to divergence of opinion between the Learned Judges, the Chief Justice placed the matter before a Larger Bench to resolve the conflict. No specific question had been framed and referred for decision to the three-Member Bench. Hence, the Bench heard the matter on factual aspects involved in the case de novo so as to determine the legal aspects which touched upon the same.

73. Justice A.K. Ganguly had found Satendra Prasad Jain v. State of U.P., (1993) 4 SCC 369, to be rendered per incuriam. Justice Swatantra Kumar had relied on it and held that compliance with Section 17(3A) of the Act is not mandatory. The Supreme Court has referred to the questions which arose for its consideration in paragraph 8 as:

(a) Is the requirement to tender payment of 80% of the estimated compensation as contemplated under subsection(3A) to Section 17 of Act, 1894, mandatory to ensure absolute vesting of the notified land.

(b) Whether the requirement to pass the award within the time frame contemplated under Section 11A applicable to the acquisition notified under Section 17 of Act, 1894.

74. The Larger Bench considered the language of Section 11A of the Act and Section 17 and then observed in paragraphs 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 & 17 as follows:

"12. ... The question however is as to whether the rigour of Section 11A of Act, 1894 will apply when the appropriate Government exercises its special power in cases of urgency, which does not contemplate the same procedure as in the normal acquisition process noted above. under Section 17 of Act, 1894, possession is permitted to be taken even before the award is passed. Though such power was absolute earlier, sub-section (3A) was inserted by Act 68 of 1984, w.e.f 24.09.1984 whereby the pre-condition imposed before taking possession is that 80% of the estimated compensation is to be tendered and paid to the persons interested in the land. The tendered amount should be paid unless prevented by one or more of the contingencies mentioned in Section 31(2) of Act, 1894. It would necessarily mean that Section 31 will come into play and the 80% of the estimated compensation amount, though no award is passed, will have to be tendered and paid to the persons interested. If tendered, but not able to pay due to valid reasons, it is to be deposited in Court. The word employed in sub-section (3A) of Section 17 of the Act, 1894 is "shall" and it is to be tendered and paid "before taking possession". Hence it cannot be understood as providing any discretion to the acquiring authority. In fact, the last sentence of sub-section (1) of Section 17 uses the word "thereupon" with respect to vesting. This word "thereupon" is correlated to taking possession and payment in terms of sub-section (3A) is a sine qua non for taking possession. Therefore (1) payment of 80% (2) taking over possession thereafter and (3) vesting of land in the government take place in a sequence. Absent anyone of these in the sequence, the emergency provision fails. It is a pre-requisite condition to acquire and take possession of the land since such acquisition is permitted by exempting the requirement of the procedure under Section 5A and possession is permitted to be taken prior to an award being passed under Section 11 of Act, 1894.

13. That apart, sub-section (4) to Section 17 of Act, 1894 provides the discretion to the appropriate Government to waive the application of the provisions of Section 5A and make the declaration under Section 6 in respect of the land at any time after the initial publication of the notification under Section 4 of Act, 1894. This makes it clear that even in a case where the appropriate Government exercises its power to invoke the special power in case of urgency, all other procedure contemplated under the Act except the requirement under Section 5A of Act, 1894 is to be complied. Therefore, after issue of the initial notification under Section 4 read with Section 17(1) and on taking possession after issue of notice under Section 9, the declaration under Section 6 of Act, 1894 is to be made so as to complete the process of acquisition, which indicates that the objection to acquisition of land shall alone stand muted and not the right to compensation which is to be paid in strict compliance of the requirement in that regard.

15. However, on a careful composite perusal of all the provisions noted above, it is evident that the requirement to tender and pay 80% of the estimated compensation before taking possession assumes significance so as to carve out an exception for non-applicability of 'lapsing' as contemplated under Section 11A of Act, 1894. This is so, since the terms "vesting absolutely" and "lapsing" cannot co-exist and cannot go hand in hand. Post amendment w.e.f 24.09.1984, two elements have been inserted in Section 17 for the land to vest absolutely in the Government for public purpose even before the award is passed. One, is that possession should be taken. The other is, by inserting sub-section (3A) it has been made mandatory to tender payment of 80% of estimated compensation before taking possession. Therefore, 80% of the estimated compensation, on payment of which only if tendered and paid, the vesting would become absolute and in such event the consequence of lapsing in respect of absolutely vested land cannot occur and as such, in that circumstance alone Section 11A though applicable will not take effect. The right of the land loser would be to enforce passing of award which will include the balance 20% of compensation even if it is beyond two years and get adequately compensated in terms of Section 23 and 34 of Act, 1894 for the delay if any.

16. But it is a different matter altogether, when Section 17(1) is invoked but the requirement thereunder which is a pre-requisite condition is not complied. As noted, sub-section (3A) has been inserted w.e.f. 24.09.1984, whereunder it is made mandatory to tender and pay 80% of the estimated compensation before taking possession. Therefore, even if possession is taken, such possession cannot be considered as legal so as to vest the land absolutely if the pre-requisite condition for payment of 80% before taking possession is not complied.

17. Therefore, we are of the considered view that Section 11A though applicable to the cases of acquisition initiated under Section 17(1) of Act, 1894 the consequence of it will not affect the case where the land has absolutely vested on compliance of sub-section (3A) to Section 17 of Act, 1894 and 80% of estimated compensation is tendered and paid. Hence, when there is a challenge by the land loser, each case will have to be considered on its own merits to determine whether the pre-requisite condition to tender and pay as contemplated under sub-section (3A) is made before possession is taken. If in the case concerned the mandatory prerequisite is not complied, such acquisition will loose its character as being under Section 17"

(emphasis supplied by us)

75. The Hon'ble Supreme Court categorically held that even where possession is purportedly taken under Section 17, such possession cannot be regarded as lawful so as to result in absolute vesting of the land in the State if the mandatory precondition of payment of 80% of the estimated compensation under Section 17(3A) has not been complied with. The Court observed that in the absence of such payment prior to dispossession, the acquisition loses its character under Section 17 by legal fiction, and since absolute vesting does not take place, the proceedings would lapse if the award is not made within the stipulated period. Therefore, if 80% of the estimated compensation is not paid to the landowner before taking possession, as mandatorily required under Section 17(3A), such possession must be treated as illegal and not in accordance with law. In such circumstances, vesting cannot be said to be absolute or indefeasible.

76. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Anil Kumar Gupta Vs. State of Bihar & others, (2012) 12 SCC 443, where the Supreme Court observed that a person who is deprived of his land can challenge the acquisition proceedings at various stages. He can question the Notification issued under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act on the ground of violation of the mandate contained therein, like publication of the Notification in the Official Gazette and/or two newspapers, including the one in the regional language, failure of the Collector to cause public notice of the substance of the Notification to be given at convenient places in the locality. He can challenge the declaration issued under Section 6(1) of the Land Acquisition Act on the ground of non-compliance with Section 5A(i) and/or (ii) or violation of the first proviso to Section 6(1). In a given case, the landowner can also challenge the notice issued under Section 9 of the Land Acquisition Act and the Award passed under Section 11 of the Land Acquisition Act on the ground that he had not been heard, that the acquisition proceedings are a nullity. He can also challenge the Award if it is not made within the period prescribed under Section 11A of the Act. The vesting of land in the Government can be challenged on the ground that the possession had not been taken in accordance with the prescribed procedure. The invoking of the urgency clause contained in Section 17 can be questioned on the ground that there was no real urgency.

77. Till the date of filing of the Writ Petitions no. 170 of 2015 and 6261 of 2022, no construction whatsoever had commenced under the proposed residential scheme, nor was there any material to indicate that such construction was likely to begin in the near future. Even the allotment process had not been initiated. These undisputed facts clearly belie the claim of urgency. The invocation of the urgency clause, in the absence of any immediate or compelling necessity, demonstrates non-application of mind and lack of sufficient cause. The power under the urgency provisions, being extraordinary in nature and resulting in deprivation of the valuable right under Section 5-A, could not have been exercised in a routine or mechanical manner.

78. It must be borne in mind that the expression 'subjective satisfaction' does not confer an unfettered or absolute discretion upon the acquiring authority. Even though the formation of opinion rests with the authority, such opinion must be based on objective facts and relevant material. The power under the urgency clause is exceptional in nature and, therefore, its exercise must reflect due application of mind to the necessity of dispensing with the enquiry under Section 5-A. If the record fails to disclose any material justifying immediate action, or if the circumstances do not demonstrate real urgency, the invocation of such power would be open to judicial scrutiny and liable to be set aside. Further, the authority must apply its mind to the material. This is apart from the requirement that action must not be mala fide. Undoubtedly, the purpose must be a public purpose. But merely because the purpose of the acquisition is found to be a public purpose, the duty of the authority does not end. He must be satisfied that there is real urgency, such that the invaluable right saved to a person to ventilate his grievances against the Act is not unjustifiably extinguished. Section 5A of the Land Acquisition Act guarantees a right to the person interested in the property which is the only statutory safeguard against compulsory acquisition of property. The power under Section 17(4) is discretionary. Being a discretion, it must be exercised with due care. It is true that if there is material, however meagre it may be, and the authority has, without being guided by extraneous considerations, applied its mind and taken the decision, then a hands-off approach is warranted. The authorities must remain alive and alert to the precious right created in favour of the citizens, which is not meant to be an empty ritual.

79. A recent judgment of the Apex Court in Yerikala Sunkalamma and Ors. vs. State of A. P., Department of Revenue and Ors. 2025 SCC Online SC 630, observed-

"Article 300-A provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. This Article has been inserted by the Constitution (44th Amendment) Act, 1978. Prior to this amendment, the right to property was guaranteed by Article 31. While Clause (1) of that Article has been shifted from Part III to Article 300-A, Clause (2) of that Article, which dealt with compulsory acquisition of property, has been repealed. Sub-clause (f) of Clause (1) of Article 19, which guaranteed the right to acquire and hold property, has also been omitted by the same 44th Amendment Act, 1978. The result of these changes, in short, is that the right to hold property has ceased to be a fundamental right under the Constitution and it has been left to the Legislature to deprive a person by the authority of law.

125. Article 300-A provides that the property of a person can be deprived by authority of law. The phrase "save by authority of law" came before the Court for interpretation. This Court in the case of Wazir Chand v. State of H.P., reported in (1954) 1 SCC 787 held that under the Constitution, the Executive cannot deprive a person of his property of any kind without specific legal authority which can be established in Court of law, however laudable the motive behind such deprivation may be. In the same decision, this Court also held that in case of dispossession of property except under the authority of law, the owner may obtain restoration of possession by a proceeding for mandamus against the governmental authorities. Further, this Court in Bishambhar Dayal Chandra Mohan v. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (1982) 1 SCC 39 held that the phrase "by authority of law" means by or under a law made by the competent Legislature. The same position is reiterated by this Court in the case of Jilubhai Nanbhai Khachar v. State of Gujarat reported in 1995 Supp. (1) SCC 596 wherein it has been observed that "Article 300-A only limits the powers of the State that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. There has to be no deprivation without any sanction of law. Deprivation by any other mode is not acquisition or taking possession Under Article 300-A. In other words, if there is no law, there is no deprivation."

80. In the light of the settled legal position and the authoritative pronouncements of the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to in the preceding paragraphs, it is clear that deprivation of property must be strictly in accordance with a validly enacted law and scrupulous compliance with the procedure prescribed thereunder. In the present case, the respondents have admittedly failed to comply with the mandatory requirement under Section 17(3-A) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, which mandates tender and payment of 80% of the estimated compensation prior to taking possession. Such non-compliance strikes at the root of the acquisition proceedings, vitiates the very act of taking possession, and renders the alleged vesting legally untenable.

Moreover, the invocation of the urgency clause dispensing with the enquiry under Section 5-A, in the absence of any real, immediate, or compelling urgency, demonstrates non-application of mind and amounts to a colourable exercise of statutory power. The cumulative effect of these procedural and substantive lapses results in deprivation of the petitioner□s property otherwise than by authority of law, in clear contravention of Article 300-A of the Constitution. Accordingly, Point No. (iv) is answered in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents.

Point no. (v)

81. Now we proceed to deal with last point i.e., Point No. (v), namely, whether the original landowner, whose acquired land remained unutilized for a prolonged period, who did not receive compensation in accordance with law, and who continued to retain possession till June 2023, is entitled to seek reversion of the land or to challenge the hurried transfer/auction in favour of a third party; and further, whether the impugned actions of the respondents are arbitrary, illegal, tainted with malice in law, and violative of Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution of India.

82. The petitioner had, prior to the auction, submitted a representation dated 06.08.2022 seeking release/restoration of the land on the ground of prolonged non-utilization. The existence of such representation has not been specifically controverted by the respondents. On the contrary, it was only during the pendency of the writ proceedings, and pursuant to interim directions of this Court on 13.09.2022 to find out whether land had been utilized, that the subject land was for the first time carved out and marked as Plot C-1A on 30.05.2023 and hurriedly put to auction on 01.06.2023.

83. Further, the material on record discloses that although possession was shown to have been taken in 2009 by invoking the urgency provisions, the mandatory requirement under Section 17(3-A) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, namely tender of 80% of the estimated compensation prior to taking possession, was not complied with. The compensation was admittedly offered on 26.06.2009 and deposited in the treasury only on 08.02.2011. In Delhi Airtech Services Private Limited and another v. State of U.P. and another (2022 SCC OnLine SC 1408), the Hon□ble Supreme Court held that the urgency provisions under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 can be invoked only upon strict compliance with statutory safeguards, particularly the requirement of tendering 80% of the estimated compensation prior to taking possession under Section 17(3-A). In the present case, possession was taken in 2009 by invoking the urgency provisions, but the mandatory requirement of Section 17(3-A) was not complied with, and the compensation was deposited only in 2011. The non-compliance with the statutory safeguard strikes at the legality of taking possession and casts serious doubt on the completeness of vesting in favour of the State. This non-compliance, coupled with prolonged non-utilisation of the land and its selective alienation during the pendency of the writ petition, indicates that the acquisition cannot be said to have been carried out for a genuine public purpose and raises a substantial question under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India. In view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Delhi Airtech Services Pvt. Ltd. (Supra) and allied decisions, such non-compliance strikes at the legality of the taking over of possession and renders the completeness of vesting open to serious doubt.

84. As much emphasis has been placed on the proviso to Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, it is necessary to examine the provision in the light of the rival submissions of the parties. The object of the proviso is to prevent indefinite retention of land acquired for public purpose without its utilization. Although, the provision does not provide for automatic lapse merely by the passage of time, the proviso confers a substantive right upon the ousted landholder to apply for restoration after five years of non-utilisation. The right so conferred is not an empty formality but a substantive safeguard intended to ensure that land acquired for a declared public purpose is not retained indefinitely without being put to meaningful and bonafide use. The discretion vested in the State Government is not unfettered and must be exercised in a fair, reasonable and non-arbitrary manner, consistent with the constitutional mandate enshrined under Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution of India. Where land remains unutilised for a prolonged period and the Authority fails to utilise it for the declared purpose, the right of the landholder to seek restoration cannot be defeated by mere procedural delay or inaction.

85. This Court, by its order dated 13.09.2022 passed in Writ-C No. 6261 of 2022, had specifically directed the respondents to seek instructions as to whether the land of the petitioner had been utilised or not. A perusal of the counter affidavits filed by opposite party nos. 1, 2 and 3 shows that there is no specific denial of the pleading of the Petitioner that a representation dated 06.08.2022 had been submitted seeking release of his land on the ground of prolonged non-utilisation. Even in paragraph 21 of the counter affidavit filed by the Raebareli Development Authority on 26.08.2024, the factum of such representation has not been denied, instead, the Authority has merely stated that a Reference for enhancement of compensation preferred by the petitioner was pending before the Land Acquisition Tribunal. In view of the settled principle that if there is no specific denial, then such averment is deemed to have been admitted by the Respondent as held by the Apex Court in the case of Asha vs. Pt. B.D. Sharma University of Health Sciences and Ors. MANU/SC/0542/2012, and it cannot be accepted that the petitioner had not invoked his remedy under Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973.

86. It is also evident from perusal of records available that when this Court passed the interim order dated 13.09.2022, the respondents were fully aware that a writ petition seeking release of the alleged unutilised land had been instituted on 08.09.2022 and was pending consideration. The Development Authority was, therefore, under a clear obligation to place before the Court the true and complete factual position regarding the utilisation of the land as it existed on that date.

However, the Raebareli Development Authority filed its counter affidavit only on 26.08.2024, wherein it was disclosed that although the development plan of Ekta Vihar dated 11.11.2009 was amended on 26.07.2016, the petitioner's land formed part of 1185 sq. m. shown as "reserved for future planning" and had not been put to any actual or effective use for a considerable period thereafter.

87. The record further shows that out of the said 1185 sq. m. of land reserved for future planning, only 173.11 sq. m., corresponding to the land of the petitioner, was carved out, numbered as Plot C-1A, and approved by the Vice-Chairman of the Raebareli Development Authority on 30.05.2023. The remaining land continued to remain reserved for future planning. Significantly, an auction notice in respect of Plot C-1A was issued the very next day, i.e. on 01.06.2023. Thus, the land was treated as utilised for the first time only on 30.05.2023, more than fourteen years after the Award and during the pendency of the writ proceedings.

88. What reflects from these circumstances is that the timing and manner in which the petitioner's land alone was carved out and immediately put to auction lends credence to the contention of the petitioner that such action was undertaken with a view to defeat his pending claim for release of unutilised land and to render the writ petition infructuous. Such belated steps, initiated only after the filing of the writ petition and in the absence of any satisfactory explanation for the prolonged non-utilisation, cannot be regarded as bona fide utilisation for the declared public purpose and are, therefore, open to judicial scrutiny. The concept of a welfare State, as explained by the Hon□ble Supreme Court in Lala Ram v. Union of India ((2015) 5 SCC 813), is that the State bears a positive and affirmative obligation to protect and promote the economic and social well-being of its citizens, guided by the principle of securing the greatest good of the greatest number. The Court emphasised that public welfare must remain the central commitment of all State action, and that the Directive Principles embodied in Articles 38 and 39 of the Constitution mandate the State to strive for equitable distribution of resources, meaningful livelihood, and dignified living conditions, particularly for the poor, the weak, and other vulnerable sections of society. The true test of a welfare State, as held therein, lies in whether its actions advance the happiness and well-being of the people, and not merely in formal or technical compliance with the law. Further, in People's Union for Democratic Rights v. Union of India ((1982) 3 SCC 235), the Apex Court cautioned that the Rule of Law cannot be reduced to an instrument for protecting vested interests or perpetuating existing inequities. The Court observed that legal protection must not be confined to a privileged few, and that the law cannot be permitted to be 'prostituted' to legitimise the exploitation of the weak and powerless under the guise of enforcing civil or political rights. Read together, these decisions reaffirm that State action, particularly when it affects constitutional guarantees and fundamental rights, must be just, humane, and welfare-oriented, and cannot be sustained where it results in arbitrariness, exclusion, or injustice to those whom the Constitution seeks to protect most.

89. The expression 'public purpose' under the law of land acquisition is wide, however, it is not unlimited and is always subject to judicial scrutiny. Deprivation of property under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India is permissible only when the acquisition is supported by a genuine and subsisting public purpose and when the statutory provisions are complied with in a fair and reasonable manner. Mere reservation of land for 'future planning,' without actual utilization or demonstrable steps towards execution of the declared purpose for a prolonged period, cannot by itself satisfy the requirement of public purpose.

90. The reliance placed by the respondents on the decisions in Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal and others 2020 SCC OnLine SC 316, Shyoraj Singh and another v. State of U.P. and others (2022) 1 All LJ 546), Heera Singh v. State of U.P. and others (2023 (1) UPLBEC 604), and Banda Development Authority v. Moti Lal Agarwal and others ((2011) 5 SCC 394) does not advance their case, as the facts, statutory context, and issues considered in those decisions are materially different from those arising in the present matter.

91. The Constitution Bench judgment of the Hon□ble Supreme Court in the case of Indore Development Authority v. Manoharlal and others, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 316 pertains to the interpretation of Section 24 of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013, and the concept of deemed lapse of acquisition proceedings. The facts and legal issues in the present case are totally different. The present petition does not involve the 2013 Act or any question of deemed lapse. It concerns prolonged non-utilisation of the acquired land, continued possession by the petitioner, failure of the Authority to utilise the land for the declared public purpose, and the sudden alienation/auction of the same during the pendency of writ proceedings. Therefore, the principles laid down in Indore Development Authority (Supra) are not attracted to the facts of this case.

92. We have also gone through the judgment of Shyoraj Singh (Supra) and find that the facts and issues involved therein are clearly distinguishable from the facts and issues of the present case. The said decision was rendered in a different factual and statutory context and does not deal with a situation where the acquired land remained unutilised for a prolonged period and was sought to be dealt with only after initiation of judicial proceedings. In the referred case, petitioners had no continuing possession or any credible claim of prolonged non-utilisation. Whereas in the present case, the land remained unutilised for an extended period, and the original owner in continued physical possession. The respondents also failed to utilise the land for the declared purpose and instead, after long delay, created and numbered the plot only to auction it immediately, thereby defeating the petitioner's pending claim. Therefore, Shyoraj Singh (Supra) is clearly distinguishable. Further, the Court in Shyoraj Singh (Supra) had also found that possession had been lawfully taken and the land had been utilised for the declared public purpose, or that the statutory requirements governing acquisition stood substantially complied with. In those cases, there was no prolonged and unexplained non-utilisation of the acquired land, no continuation of physical possession with the original landholder for years after the award, and no belated steps taken to alienate the land during the pendency of judicial proceedings, as is evident in the present case.

93. In Heera Singh (Supra) the Court held that mere delay in project implementation does not amount to non-utilisation when the land was in the possession of the Authority and earmarked for Tech Zone-2. However, in the present case, the land remained unutilised for a prolonged period, and the petitioner continued in actual possession. The Authority's failure to utilise the land and sudden auction after filing the writ petition demonstrates arbitrariness, making the petitioner's claim valid.

94. The decision of Banda Development Authority v. Moti Lal Agarwal (Supra) also turned on its own facts, where the Hon'ble Hon'ble Supreme Court upheld the acquisition upon finding that possession had been duly taken and the land had vested absolutely in the Development Authority, followed by utilisation in furtherance of the planned development scheme. The said decision does not deal with a situation where land remains unused for over a decade, continues to remain in the physical possession of the landowner, and is thereafter selectively carved out and auctioned while a challenge to non-utilisation is pending before the Court. Further, the reliance placed by respondent State on Visakhapatnam Urban Development Authority v. S.S. Naidu, (2016) 13 SCC 180; State of M.P. v. V.P. Sharma, AIR 1966 SC 1593; Dedicated Freight Corridor Corporation v. Subodh Singh, (2011) 11 SCC 100; and Government of A.P. v. Syed Akbar, (2005) 1 SCC 558 is not tenable in the present case, as the said judgments were rendered in distinct factual and statutory contexts and do not deal with prolonged non-utilization of the acquired land, non-payment of compensation, or the statutory right of restoration under Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, which are central to the present case.

95. So far as the submission of learned counsel for the private respondent that the application of the petitioner under Section 48 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 is not maintainable is concerned, the same has to be examined in the light of the judgments relied upon and the factual matrix of the present case. A reliance has been placed on Mahadeo (Dead) Through L.R.s and others v. State of U.P. and others, (2013) 4 SCC 524 and Babu v. State of U.P., 2008(5) ADJ 171. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in said decisions held that once land is lawfully acquired under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 and mandatory requirements are complied with, including taking possession, the land vests absolutely in the State free from all encumbrances. Even if any part of the acquired land remains unutilised, neither Section 48 nor any executive decision permits reconveyance or release of such land to the erstwhile owners. Section 48 applies only before possession is taken. Internal resolutions or proposals of a development authority cannot compel the State to withdraw from a validly completed acquisition.

96. However, the said principle applies only where acquisition is validly completed, compensation is paid, and possession lawfully vests in the State. In the present case, neither compensation was paid in accordance with Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894, nor was possession lawfully taken. On the contrary, the land admittedly remained in the physical possession of the petitioner till June 2023 and the acquisition was never implemented in accordance with the statutory mandate or utilised for the declared public purpose. The application of the petitioner under Section 48, filed on 10.11.2023, was necessitated after an illegal and clandestine auction conducted in July 2023 during the pendency of Writ proceedings. Section 48 cannot be used as a shield to deny restoration where vesting itself is incomplete, possession is unlawful, and the land has remained unutilised for years. The belated auction reflects malice in law and misuse of statutory power. In the absence of lawful vesting and utilisation, the refusal to restore or withdraw from acquisition is arbitrary and violative of Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution, besides being contrary to the scheme of Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973. In Babu v. State of U.P., 2008(5) ADJ 171, this Court held that Section 48 confers only a discretionary liberty on the State and no enforceable right on landowners, a principle applicable only where acquisition is validly completed with payment of compensation and lawful taking of possession. In the present case, compensation was never paid in accordance with Section 17(3-A) of the Act of 1894 and possession admittedly remained with the petitioner till June 2023. The land was never utilised for the declared public purpose, and a belated auction was conducted during pendency of proceedings. Section 48 cannot be used to protect unlawful vesting. The impugned action is arbitrary, tainted by malice in law, and violative of Articles 14 and 300-A, besides being contrary to Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973.

97. The present case raises distinct and substantial issues relating to prolonged non-utilisation of the acquired land, its continued physical possession with the petitioner, and the belated and selective carving out and auction of only the petitioner's land during the pendency of the writ proceedings. No material has been placed on record to demonstrate that the land was utilised for the stated public purpose for several years after acquisition. The subsequent action of auctioning the land cannot be construed as bona fide utilisation in furtherance of the original scheme, nor does it disclose any immediate necessity connected with the declared public purpose. In view of the materially different factual foundation and legal issues involved, the aforesaid decisions do not govern the controversy in the present case, which is required to be examined independently in the light of the applicable statutory and constitutional principles.

98. Further, when land acquired for a public purpose remains unused for a long time and is later selectively alienated, the action can no longer be said to serve the declared public purpose and becomes arbitrary deprivation. The doctrine of eminent domain allows acquisition only for a predominantly public purpose, and not for transfer to third parties under the guise of planning or development. Such selective alienation, especially after prolonged non-utilisation, indicates misuse of statutory powers and defeats the object of acquisition. Even where compensation has been paid, deprivation of property in such circumstances does not meet the requirements of Article 300-A of the Constitution. Therefore, the action is liable to strict judicial scrutiny and cannot be sustained merely because a formal procedure has been followed.

99. It is well settled that where the State invokes the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, it assumes a higher burden to demonstrate strict adherence to statutory safeguards, particularly those enacted for the protection of landowners. Section 17(3-A) is not a mere procedural formality but a substantive safeguard intended to balance the extraordinary power of dispossession without enquiry. Any infraction thereof strikes at the root of the acquisition process and weakens the claim of the State of lawful vesting. It is also well settled that the urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, being an exception to the normal procedure, must be strictly construed and can be invoked only in cases of real emergency. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Radhy Shyam (D) Thr. Lrs. & Ors. v. State of U.P. & Ors., Air Online 2011 SC 429 and Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority v. Devendra Kumar & Ors. (2011) 12 SCC 375, has held that the power under Section 17 cannot be used as a device for acquiring land for ordinary development projects. Similarly, in Laxmi Devi v. State of Bihar 2015 (10) SCC 241, Ram Dhari Jindal Trust v. Union of India 2012 (11) SCC 370), and Anand Singh v. State of U.P. 2010 (11) SCC 242, the Court emphasised that the urgency clause is not a mere procedural formality but a substantive safeguard intended to protect landowners from arbitrary dispossession, and any violation thereof vitiates the acquisition.

100. In these circumstances, the prolonged non-utilisation of the acquired land, coupled with its continued possession by the original owner, casts serious doubt on the bona fides of the Authority. The State holds acquired land in a fiduciary capacity and must utilise it for the declared public purpose. Selective auction of only the land of the petitioner, without any rational basis, is arbitrary and violative of Article 14. Moreover, the initiation of auction proceedings only after the writ petition was filed, during its pendency, suggests an attempt to frustrate the litigation and cannot be sustained.

101. At this juncture, it must be borne in mind that justice is the foundational virtue by which a society, court, or tribunal ensures that every individual receives what is lawfully due to him, rather than being subjected to injury or injustice. Justice is not merely the absence of wrong, but the positive act of rendering what is right, fair, and equitable to one who has suffered a legal injury. The Constitution of India, in its Preamble, accords a position of primacy to justice - social, economic, and political - thereby making it the cornerstone of our constitutional framework. It is evident that without the assurance of justice, the other cherished ideals of liberty, equality, and fraternity would be rendered hollow and illusory.

102. Judicial review seeks to ensure fairness, legality, and accountability in State action. It is a Constitutional mechanism through which courts examine the actions of the legislature and the executive to ensure that they act lawfully, fairly, and within the limits of their authority. Under the Constitution of India, the power of judicial review flows primarily from Articles 13, 32, 226, and 136, which empower Constitutional Courts to scrutinize legislative enactments and administrative decisions to determine whether they violate fundamental rights, exceed jurisdiction, or suffer from arbitrariness, thereby ensuring that all State action conforms to constitutional mandates and the rule of law.

103. In view of the above discussion, this Court holds that the original landowner, whose land remained unutilised for a prolonged period, whose compensation was not tendered in compliance with Section 17(3-A) of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, and who continued in physical possession till June 2023, is entitled to seek reversion/restoration of the land and to challenge its hurried transfer/auction in favour of a third party. The mandatory statutory safeguard having not been complied with, lawful vesting did not take place. The belated carving out and auction of only the petitioner’s land during pendency of the writ proceedings, without demonstrable public purpose or bona fide utilisation, reflects arbitrariness and malice in law. Such action offends Article 14 and results in deprivation of property otherwise than by authority of law, contrary to Article 300-A of the Constitution of India. Accordingly, Point No. (v) is answered in the affirmative, in favour of the petitioner and against the respondents.

Conclusion

104. In view of the foregoing discussion and the findings recorded on Points (i) to (v), this Court is of the considered opinion that the acquisition proceedings and the subsequent actions of the respondents, insofar as they relate to the land of the petitioner, cannot be sustained in law. The representation was wrongly rejected by the Respondent No.1 without due consideration. The urgency clause under Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 was invoked without any real or demonstrable urgency, and the valuable right of objection under Section 5-A was dispensed with mechanically and arbitrarily. The mandatory requirement under Section 17(3-A) to tender and pay 80% of the estimated compensation before taking possession was not complied with, and possession taken without this statutory precondition cannot vest lawful ownership in the State. The land remained un-utilised for several years, contradicting the claim of urgency and casting serious doubt on the bona fides of the acquisition. Moreover, the hurried carving out and auction of Plot C-1A during the pendency of the writ petition was arbitrary, non-transparent, and not in furtherance of the declared public purpose.

Accordingly, the Writ Petition is allowed insofar as it relates to the land of the petitioner. The order dated 20.02.2024 rejecting the representation of the petitioner is hereby set aside. The impugned auction proceedings and the consequential allotment, insofar as they pertain to the land of the petitioner, are hereby quashed. The respondents are directed to restore possession of the land to the petitioner.

However, in terms of the proviso to Section 17 of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, and having regard to the equities of the case, the petitioner shall deposit with the competent Authority the acquisition charges together with interest at the rate of 12% per annum, as contemplated under the said provision, within such reasonable period as may be prescribed by the Authority. Upon such deposit, the land in question shall stand restored to the petitioner, free from all encumbrances created pursuant to the impugned auction proceedings. It is further provided that the amount deposited by respondent no. 5 shall be refunded to him along with interest at the rate of 7% per annum or the prevailing bank rate, whichever is higher, within a period of three months from the date of this order.

105. The Writ Petitions are allowed to the aforesaid extent. No order as to costs.

This Judgement pronounced under Chapter VII Rule 1(2) of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

Ka-20. Thereafter, the investigation was transferred. Thereafter the investigation was completed by SI Jagan Nath Prasad Pandey, who submitted the charge sheet Ext. Ka-21.

16. As the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions where case was registered as ST No. 78 of 1979. Learned Additional Sessions Judge-II, Sultanpur vide order dated 06.08.1979 framed the charges against the appellants under Section 302/34 IPC. The charges were read over and explained to the accused in Hindi, who pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

17. To bring home guilt of the appellant beyond the hilt, the prosecution has examined as many as 11 witnesses, out of whom PW-1, Bhawani Sevak, PW-4, Jag Ram and PW-5 Ram Murat are eyewitnesses of the case whereas remaining witnesses are formal one.

18. PW-1, Bhawani Sevak is the first informant. In his examination-in-chief, he deposed that accused Ram Hirday is his Pattidar, accused Shiva Ram is the ploughman of Ram Hirday and accused Gur Prasad is the companion of Ram Hirday. He further deposed that he is five brothers and all of them are residing separately in different houses and had separate cultivation. This witness in his deposition has told about the location of the houses of the accused and the deceased. He deposed that Ram Acchaiber, brother of Ram Hirday, was having a single barrel licensed gun at the time of occurrence. Mahesh Narain is his (Bhawani Sevak) elder brother. In 1977 his brother Mahesh Narain had filed a complaint against 23 persons including the present accused persons, namely Ram Hirday, Shiva Ram and Gur Prasad, which ended in acquittal on 20.06.1977. Accused persons harbour enmity on account of that criminal litigation. He further deposed that on 13.03.1978, his brother Mahesh Narain was assaulted by Ram Hirday and a report to this effect was lodged by Mahesh Narain at the police station. He further deposed that on 14.03.1978, in the morning Mahesh Narain had gone to Sultanpur to get an x-ray done of the injuries received by him. Since Mahesh Narain was living all alone at this house, he had asked Tribhuwan Dutt (deceased) to look after his cattle. He further deposed that on 14.03.1978 at about 1:00 PM, he was sitting at his door and his brother Tribhuwan Dutt (deceased) had gone to the house of Mahesh Narain at about 12:30 noon to look after the cattle. He along with Raj Narain and Bhawani Prasad proceeded towards the house of Mahesh Narain and on reaching in front of the house of Jagjiwan, he saw that accused Ram Hirday was armed with a gun and Shiva Ram and Gur Prasad were carrying lathis. Hot talks were going on between Ram Hirday and Tribhuwan Dutt (deceased). There was distance of about 16-17 paces between Ram Hirday and deceased-Tribhuwan Dutt. After exchange of words, Ram Hirday came near the deceased and opened fire causing injury over the right axilla as a result thereof Tribhuwan Dutt fell down. Jagram and Ram Murat reached there and scolded the accused persons. Report of the incident was lodged by PW-1, Bhawani Sevak at police station, Musafirkhana Ext. Ka-1. Thereafter, he took his brother to the hospital at Musafirkhana. 20. PW-3, Dr. Mohd Taufiq had examined the injuries of the injured, the details of which have already been given above.

21. PW-4, Jag Ram, who claims himself to be the eyewitness of the occurrence, in his examination-in-chief deposed that on the date of occurrence at about 12:00 in the noon, he was present at his door which is towards the south of the house of Tribhuwan (deceased). After sometime accused Ram Hirday armed with gun and accused Shiva Ram and Gur Prasad armed with lathis reached near the wall of the house of Mahesh Narain which is on the public way. He further deposed that Ram Hirday started abusing Tribhuwan Dutt. Bhawani Sewak and others also reached there. Tribhuwan Dutt (deceased) also came on the public way. On the exhortation of Ram Hirday to kill Tribhuwan Dutt, Shiva Ram and Gur Prasad proceeded further. At the same time Ram Hirday fired at the deceased, due to which he fell down. Blood had also oozed at the spot. The bloodstained and plain earth was taken into possession by the Sub-Inspector in his presence, memo whereof was prepared Ext Ka-5 on which he put his thumb impression.

22. PW-5, Ram Murat, another eyewitness of the occurrence deposed that about two years ago at about 01:00 PM, he was taking bath at the well situated at the door of Mahesh Narain. Tribhuwan Dutt (deceased) also reached there and started feeding the cattle. However, he denied to have seen anyone or abusing anyone. He also deposed that he had not seen anyone firing at Tribhuwan Dutt.

23. On this statement, PW-5, Ram Murat has been declared hostile and prosecution was permitted to cross-examine him.

24. PW-6, Mahesh Narain, is not an eyewitness of the occurrence. He deposed about his enmity with Ram Hirday and others. He further deposed that he filed a complaint against Ram Hirday and others which ended in acquittal on 20.06.1977. 25. PW-7, Dr. Virendra Bahadur had conducted autopsy on the cadaver and his deposition has already been discussed above.

26. PW-8, Bodh Ram in his examination-in-chief deposed that on 21.3.1978, he was posted at police station Cantt, Lucknow. Inquest Ext. Ka-8 was prepared in his presence by SI R.P. Dohray. He had also taken the dead body along with relevant documents for post mortem examination.

27. PW-9, Ram Lal, an employee of Military Hospital, Lucknow, is also a witness of the inquest, which was prepared by the police personnel.

30. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., who denied the charges levelled against them and stated that they have been dragged in the present case on account of previous enmity and claimed to be tried.

31. Learned Additional Sessions Judge, Sultanpur after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and assessing, evaluating and scrutinizing the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as indicated herein above.

32. Hence, this appeal.

Submissions on behalf of the appellant

33. Shri Shashwat Shukla, learned counsel for the appellant-Gur Prasad submits that only surviving appellant Gur Prasad has been convicted with the aid of Section 34 IPC and no overt act has been assigned to him. He was shown to have armed with lathi, but neither any witness has stated that Gur Prasad assaulted the deceased with lathi nor PW-3, Dr. Mohammad Taufiq, who has examined the injured at Musafirkhana nor PW-7 Virendra Bahadur, who conducted pos-mortem examination on the body of the deceased found any injury caused by lathi. It is pointed out that Section 34 IPC requires that all accused persons share a common intention and participate in the criminal act.

34. Shri Shashwat Shukla further pointed out that for conviction under Section 34 IPC, the prosecution must prove a pre-arranged plan or a meeting of minds, which is missing in this case. He submits that merely being present at the scene of occurrence does not prove common intention to commit the murder. In support of his case, learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance upon the judgement o Hon'ble Supreme Court in Constable Surendra Singh and another Vs. State of Uttrakhand (2025 INSC 114).

Submissions on behalf of State

35. On the other hand, Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-Ist representing the State submits that the appellant Gur Prasad was present at the place of occurrence armed with lathi and, therefore, he is liable for his conviction under section 302/34 IPC.

Analysis and conclusion

36. Heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and perused the record of the case.
37. To invoke Section 34 IPC, it must be established that the criminal act was done by more than one person in furtherance of common intention of all. It must, therefore, be proved that:- (i) there was common intention on the part of several persons to commit a particular crime and (ii) the crime was actually committed by them in furtherance of that common intention. The essence of liability under Section 34 IPC is simultaneous conscious mind of persons participating in the criminal action to bring about a particular result. Minds regarding the sharing of common intention gets satisfied when an overt act is established qua each of the accused. Common intention implies pre-arranged plan and acting in concert pursuant to the pre-arranged plan. Common intention is an intention to commit the crime actually committed and each accused person can be convicted of that crime, only if he has participated in that common intention.

38. The earliest judgement on the point is Mahbub Shah Vs. Emperor, AIR 1945 PC 118, wherein it was held as under:-

"Section 34 IPC lays down a principle of joint liability in the doing of a criminal act. The section does not say "the common intentions of all" nor does it say "an intention common to all". Under the section, the essence of that liability is to be found in the existence of a common intention animating the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention. To invoke the aid of Section 34 IPC successfully, it must be shown that the criminal act complained against was done by one of the accused persons in the furtherance of the common intention of all; if this is shown, then liability for the crime may be imposed on any one of the persons in the same manner as if the act were done by him alone. This being the principle, it is clear to their Lordships that common intention within the meaning of the section implies a pre-arranged plan, and to convict the accused of an offence applying the section it should be proved that the criminal act was done in concert pursuant to the pre-arranged plan. As has been often observed, it is difficult if not impossible to procure direct evidence to prove the intention of an individual; in most cases it has to be inferred from his act or conduct or other relevant circumstances of the case.″

39. In Gadhdhar Chandra Vs State of Wet Bengal, (2022) 6 SCC 576, Hon′ble Supreme Court while upsetting the judgement of the High Court and the trial Court convicting the appellant with the aid of Section 34 IPC, held as under:

"As consistently held by this Court, common intention contemplated by Section 34 of IPC pre-supposes prior concert. It requires meeting of minds. It requires a pre-arranged plan before a man can be vicariously convicted for the criminal act of another. The criminal act must have been done in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused. In a given case, the plan can be formed suddenly. In the present case the non-examination of two crucial eyewitnesses makes the prosecution case about the existence of a prior concert and pre-arranged plan extremely doubtful.″

40.. Constable 907 Suendra Singh and another Vs. State of Uttrakhand, (2025)5 SCC 433, was a case in which on the basis of secret information about smuggling of liquor in a Maruti Car, Head Constable along with appellants three Constables set out in their Indica Car to intercept the Maruti Car. In order to stop the Maruti Car, the Head Constable fired a single shot from his revolver, which hit the wife of the driver of the Maruti Car, who was seated in the front seat in her temporal region, resulting in her death. The Trial Court convicted and sentenced the Head Constable who fired from his revolver under Section 302 IPC and 27(1) of the Arms Act, but all the three Constables acquitted by the trial Court. In appeal, acquittal of all the three constables were set aside by the High Court by applying Section 34 IPC against them. Hon′ble Supreme Court while upsetting the judgement of the High Court held as under″

"27. Upon consideration of these factors, the lerned trial Judge came to a conclusion that even if it was assumed that the remaining three accused had accompanied accused-Jagdish Singh, there was no evidence to come to a conclusion that accused No. 2, 3 and 4 (appellants herein), who were in car with accused-Jagdish Singh had shared a common intention with him to fire upon or to kill the deceased.

28. The learned trial Judge, therefore, found that the prosecution had failed to prove the mental involvement of accused No. 2, 3 and 4 (the appellants herein) who were in car with accused-Jagdish Singh beyond the shadow of reasonable doubt.

29. However, this well-reasoned finding of the learned trial court has been upset by the High Court on the ground that the remaining three accused were sitting in the same vehicle along with accused-Jagdish Kumar was sufficient to convict them with the aid of Section 34 IPC.

30. By now it is settled principle of law that for convicting the accused with the aid of Section 34 IPC, the prosecution must establish prior meeting of minds. It must be established that all the accused had pre-planned and shared a common intention to commit the crime with the accused who has actually committed the crime. It must be established that criminal act has been done in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused."

41. In view of the aforesaid legal position enunciated by Hon'ble Supreme Court, this Court will now consider whether In the facts and circumstances of the case, the learned Trial Court was right in reaching the conclusion that the appellants acted in furtherance of common intention in committing murder of Tribhuwan Dutt and in attributing constructive liability to the appellants while convicting them under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC.

42. The first information report was lodged by PW-1, Bhawani Sevak, who is the brother of the deceased with the allegations inter alia that on the date of occurrence when he was sitting along with his brother Raj Narain and Bhawani Prasad was standing at their door, Ram Hirday armed with gun, Gur Prasad and Shiva Ram carrying lathi surrounded his brother and Ram Hirday fired at his brother Tribhuwan Dutt, due to which he got injured and fell down. The first informant in his deposition has also stated that Ram Hirday was armed with gun, whereas Gur Prasad and Shiva Ram were carrying lathis. Ram Hirday fired at his brother Tribhuwan Dutt.

43. PW-4, Jag Ram, who also claimed himself to be the eyewitness of the case, in his deposition has stated that when he reached at the place of occurrence accused Ram Hirday exhorted that Tribhuwan Dutt be killed. Shiva Ram and Gur Prasad proceeded towards Tribhuwan Dutt with lathis in their hands. At the same time, Ram Hirday fired at Tribhuwan.

44. PW-5, Ram Murat, who was the witness of the case, did not support the prosecution case and turned hostile.

45. Both the eyewitnesses namely PW-1, Bhawani Sevak and PW-4, Jag Ram in their deposition has only stated that present appellant Gur Prasad and Shiva Ram (now dead) were only standing at the place of occurrence having lathi. There is no whisper in the evidence of any of the prosecution witnesses assigning any role to the present appellant Gur Prasad. Moreover, role of exhortation and firing both have been assigned to Ram Hirday, (whose appeal has been disposed of as abated) by the prosecution witnesses and no role has been assigned to the present appellant Gur Prasad, except of standing at the place of occurrence with lathi.

46. In view of the above, we are of the view that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the appellant-Gur Prasad with the aid of Section 34 IPC.

47. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The order dated 18.03.1981 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Sultanpur in ST No. 78 of 1979 convicting and sentencing the appellant Gur Prasad to life imprisonment under Section 302/34 IPC is set aside.

48. The appellant-Gur Prasad is on bail. His bail bond is cancelled and sureties are discharged.

49. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned for compliance and compliance report be submitted to this Court within two months.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether an order passed in mutation proceedings without notice to the recorded tenure holder, resulting in deletion of his name in violation of principles of natural justice, can be sustained; and whether such order is amenable to challenge under Article 226.

HEADNOTE

Constitution of India – Art. 226 – U.P. Land Revenue Act – Mutation proceedings – Principles of natural justice – Deletion of name of recorded tenure holder without notice – Maintainability of writ petition.

Held: Petitioner's name was mutated in the revenue records on 30.06.1998 and he came into possession of the bhumidhari land - Such entry remained operative for several years and was not challenged within reasonable time - Subsequent mutation proceedings in the year 2002 conducted behind the back of the petitioner without issuing notice or impleading him despite he being the recorded tenure holder - Tehsildar allowed the mutation application without recording the mandatory statement of the Lekhpal and without examining whether the applicant had any subsisting right and the order was passed in a mechanical manner in violation of statutory requirements – Sub-Divisional Officer rightly set aside the mutation order and remanded the matter for fresh consideration after affording opportunity of hearing to both sides – Revisional authority, despite noticing that no notice was served upon the petitioner, allowed the revision on misconception of law and facts and failed to appreciate that any order adversely affecting the rights of a recorded tenure holder without hearing him is void ab initio – Impugned order resulted in serious miscarriage of justice by depriving the petitioner of his recorded rights and possession without due process of law – Rule of alternative remedy is a rule of discretion and does not operate as a bar where the impugned order is without jurisdiction or has been passed in breach of fundamental procedural safeguards – Writ petition held to be maintainable – Impugned order set aside and order of remand restored. CASE ARISING FROM

Order dated 15.02.2005 passed by the Additional Commissioner in Civil Revision No. 591/281/198 of 2003-05.

Appearances for Parties

Advs For Petitioner: Girish Chandra Sinha, Kuldeep Kumar Srivastava, Praveen Kumar Tripathi.

Advs For Respondents: C.S.C., A.S. Chaudhary, Prabhakar Vardhan Chaudhary.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri G.C. Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri P.V. Chaudhary, learned counsel for respondent No.1 and Sri Devesh Mishra, learned Additional CSC for respondent No.2.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the impugned judgment and order dated 15.02.2005 passed by respondent No.2 in Civil Revision No.591/281/198 of 2003- 05 contained as Annexure NO.1 to the writ petition.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that for the purpose of clarifying the fact the following pedigree is required to be produced hereinbelow:

Narayan Singh	Arjun Singh Gaya Din Singh Bhagwati Singh
Gaya Din Singh	Ram Nath (Petitioner) Ram Lakhan - Phoola Devi
Bhagwati Singh	Amar Nath Singh
Amar Nath Singh	Ram Kuber Ram Singh

	Lal Sahab Singh

4. The above referred Ram Lakhan died on 16.01.1998 and has left his married daughter Phoola Devi to be his only heir (in normal course of Hindu Law) but as per the provisions of Zamindari Abolition Act, the petitioner being the real brother of late Ram Lakhan Singh has inherited the Bhumidhari Property of the said Ram Lakhan Singh and his name accordingly mutated in the revenue records on 30.06.1998.

5. The petitioner on the basis of inheritance and order of mutation took possession over the Bhumidhari lands of the deceased ram Lakhan Singh. The opposite party no.1 has nothing to do with the property of the late Ram Lakhan Singh but he misled Smt. Phoola Devi, the daughter of Ram Lakhan Singh and obtained a general power of attorney from her.

6. The opposite party no.1 who had obtained a power of attorney from Smt. Phoola Devi by misleading her, prepared a fake will deed of Shri Ram Lakhan Singh dated 14.01.1998 in which it has been mentioned that Shri Ram Lakhan Singh wants to inherit all of his property in favour of his daughter Smt. Phoola Devi.

7. It is pertinent to mention here that the said will deed was written by one Shyam Sunder Pandey and opposite party no.1 was one of the witness on the said will deed.

8. On the basis of the forged will deed an objection has been filed after 3 years in the name of Smt. Phoola Devi against the mutation already done in favour of the petitioner.

9. The opposite party no.1 immediately after filing the objection on behalf of Smt. Phoola Devi, when realized that Smt. Phoola Devi will not support him for the fraud committed by him, he immediately prepared another will of Ram Lakhan Singh dated 15.01.1998 in his own favour and what is important in this reference is that this will deed was also written by some person i.e. Shyam Sunder Pandey.

10. The opposite party no.1 on the basis of new will deed filed an application for mutation in the court of Tahsildar, Lalganj, District Pratapgarh on 05.03.2002 for substitution of his name in the place of deceased Ram Lakhan. It is pertinent to mention here at this stage that at the time of moving application for mutation by opposite party no.1 the name of Ram Lakhan Singh was not existing on record and the name of the petitioner was already being mutated but opposite party no.1 has deliberately intentionally concealed this fact from the court and not impleaded the petitioner in that case.

11. The Tahsildar Lalganj has not recorded the statement of Lekhpal which is mandatory in law for making an order for mutation, summarily allowed the application for mutation of Ram Lakhan and passed an order on 16.8.2002, by which he has directed the name of opposite party no.1 to be mutated at the place of deceased Ram Lakhan Singh. (However, the name of Ram Lakhan Singh was nowhere in record) and an order of mutation of the name of the petitioner have already been mutated 4 years ago.

12. On the basis of said mutation order, the name of the petitioner has been deleted from the revenue records (however, there is no such order for deletion of the name of the petitioner) and when this fact came into knowledge of the petitioner, he preferred an appeal before the court of Sub Divisional Officer, Lalganj, under Section 210 of the Land Revenue Act against the judgment and order passed by the Tahsildar, Lalganj.

13. The appeal was registered at case No. 14 'Ram Nath Singh Versus Lal Sahab and the Sub Divisional Officer, Lalganj, Pratapgarh after hearing the counsel of both the parties, has quashed the order of Tahsildar Lalganj and recorded a finding that no order of mutation can be passed without affording opportunity to the petitioner whose name was already entered in the revenue records and the appellate court has remanded the matter back to the court of Tahsildar Lalganj, District Pratapgarh with a direction that he should dispose of the application for mutation filed by Lal Sahab after giving both of the partiers a reasonable opportunity of being heard.

14. The order passed by the Sub Divisional Officer, Lalganj, was legal and acquitable order and neither of the parties were adversely affected by that order but the malicious opposite party no.1 who just want to grab the property of the late Ram Lakhan Singh had filed a revision before the court of opposite party no.2 against the order of Sub Divisional Officer, Lalganj, District Pratapgarh.

15. The Additional Commissioner, Allahabad, before whom the revision was transferred for disposal, has heard the counsel for both of the parties and has found that no notice was ever served to the petitioner in the case of mutation filed by opposite party no.1 but the court has wrongly allowed the revision on misconception of law and fact.

16. The said order dated 15.02.2005 is impugned order in this writ petition and as the judgment and order passed by the opp. party no.2 was initially illegal and against the proposition of law. The opposite party No.1 who was absconding is is informed in the court to be no more alive and one Ram Singh is claiming to be his elder brother and legal representative, therefore, the said Ram Singh is impleaded as Opposite party No.1/1.

17. By way of the impugned order the opposite party has deprived the petitioner to protect his right and title which was over thrown from the revenue records without any order against him and having no other efficacious and alternative remedy the petitioner has filed the present writ petition before this Court.

18. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the order dated 15.02.2005 passed by opposite party No.2 in Revision No. 591/281/198 is wholly illegal, arbitrary, and contrary to settled principles of law. The said order has been passed without proper appreciation of facts and evidence on record and deserves to be quashed.

19. He further submitted that the petitioner is the lawful successor and recorded tenure holder. It is submitted that Ram Lakhan Singh, brother of the petitioner, expired on 16.01.1998 leaving behind only a married daughter, Smt. Phoola Devi. Under the provisions of the Zamindari Abolition Act, the petitioner, being the real brother, inherited the bhumidhari property of the deceased. Consequently, the petitioner's name was duly mutated in the revenue records on 30.06.1998 and he has since been in lawful possession of the land.

20. He next submitted that the mutation in favour of the petitioner was carried out in accordance with law after due verification and has remained unchallenged for several years. The petitioner took possession on the basis of the said mutation and has been cultivating and enjoying the property peacefully.

21. It is submitted that opposite party No.1 has no right, title, or interest in the property of late Ram Lakhan Singh. He is a complete stranger to the family and has no legal relationship with the deceased.

22. He further submitted that opposite party No.1 misled Smt. Phoola Devi and fraudulently obtained a General Power of Attorney from her. On the basis of the said document, he prepared forged and fabricated will deeds in order to usurp the property. It is submitted that two alleged wills dated 14.01.1998 and 15.01.1998 have been brought on record by opposite party No.1. Both the wills were prepared by the same scribe, namely Shyam Sunder Pandey and opposite party No.1 himself is a witness to one of them. The preparation of multiple wills in close proximity of time and the active involvement of opposite party No.1 clearly establishes fraud, manipulation, and fabrication.

23. He submitted that on the basis of the forged will, objections were filed after about three years against the mutation already standing in favour of the petitioner. The delay itself shows malafide intention and abuse of process of law.

24. He submitted that opposite party No.1 deliberately concealed the fact that the petitioner's name was already recorded in the revenue records and that he was in possession of the land. He also failed to implead the petitioner in the mutation proceedings, thereby violating principles of natural justice.

25. It is submitted that the Tahsildar, Lalganj, without recording the mandatory statement of the Lekhpal and without issuing notice to the petitioner, illegally allowed the mutation application on 16.08.2002. The said order was passed mechanically and in complete disregard of statutory provisions.

26. He further submitted that on the basis of the illegal mutation order, the petitioner's name was deleted from the revenue records without any specific order for deletion and without affording him an opportunity of hearing, which is against law.

27. He next submitted that the Sub-Divisional Officer, Lalganj, after hearing both parties, rightly quashed the order of the Tehsildar and held that no mutation order could be passed without hearing the petitioner. The matter was remanded for fresh decision in accordance with law.

28. He submitted that despite the lawful order of the Sub-Divisional Officer, opposite party No.1 filed a revision only with the intention to grab the property and prolong the litigation.

Although the Additional Commissioner found that no notice was served upon the petitioner in mutation proceedings, he wrongly allowed the revision on misconception of law and facts, thereby causing serious miscarriage of justice.

29. He further submitted that the impugned order has been passed without granting proper opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and without considering his lawful rights, which amounts to violation of natural justice. Due to the impugned order, the petitioner has been unlawfully deprived of his right, title and possession over the property without any valid judicial determination. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance upon following judgments:

a) Jagdish Narayan Tondon and 3 others; Civil Revision No.95 of 2017 decided on 20.04.2017

b) Videocon Appliances Ltd. Vs. Maker chambers V Premises Co-Op. Socy.; 2006 (1) BOMCR6

c) Satyadhyan Ghosal Vs. Smt. Deorjin Debi; AIR 1960 Supreme Court 941

30. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent No.1 as well as learned Additional CSC for respondent No.2 - State at the very outset submitted that the present writ petition is not maintainable in law, as the dispute pertains to mutation proceedings under Section 34 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act. It is well settled that mutation proceedings are fiscal in nature and do not determine title. Therefore, invocation of the extraordinary jurisdiction of this Hon′ble Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is wholly misconceived. The writ petition is liable to be dismissed with costs on this ground alone.

31. They next submitted that the order dated 15.02.2005 passed by the competent authority is just, proper, legal and in accordance with law. The said order does not suffer from any illegality, arbitrariness or procedural irregularity and, therefore, does not call for any interference by this Hon′ble Court in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction.

32. They further submitted that the petitioner has deliberately suppressed and distorted the correct pedigree of the parties with an intention to mislead this Hon′ble Court. The respondent has placed on record the complete and correct genealogy along with counter affidavit showing the lawful succession. The petitioner has failed to disclose material facts and has approached this Court with unclean hands.

33. It is submitted that Ram Lakhan Singh expired on 16.01.1998. On the date of his death, succession was governed by Section 171 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, as amended w.e.f. 19.09.1997. In view of the amended provision, the married daughter, namely Smt. Phoola Devi became the preferential heir and was legally entitled to succeed to the property of her father in preference to the brother of the deceased.

34. They submitted that the entry dated 30.06.1998, whereby the petitioner′s name was recorded, was made in collusion with the Supervisor Kanoongo and the Prescribed Authority. The said entry was illegal and void, as the petitioner was not an heir in the presence of the lawful daughter. The petitioner never came in lawful possession of the property.

35. They submitted that the allegations that the respondent misled Smt. Phoola Devi or fabricated any will are wholly false and baseless. Smt. Phoola Devi herself moved the mutation application on the basis of the will and other relevant documents. The respondents played no role in manipulating the proceedings.

36. It is submitted that the Will dated 15.01.1998 was executed by late Ram Lakhan Singh voluntarily, in sound disposing state of mind and without any pressure or coercion. The same is genuine, valid and legally enforceable. The petitioner has failed to produce any cogent material to challenge the authenticity of the said Will.

37. The petitioner, in connivance with revenue officials, managed to get his name recorded with undue haste on 30.06.1998, and the corresponding entries in the Khatauni were also made on the same day, which itself reflects mala fide intention and fraudulent conduct. Such hurried proceedings cast serious doubt on the legality and genuineness of the petitioner′s claim.

38. They further submitted that the orders passed by the Tehsildar and other revenue authorities are lawful and based on proper appreciation of facts and evidence. The authorities rightly rectified the fraudulent entry and restored the lawful position. The criticism levelled by the petitioner against these orders is unwarranted and misconceived.

39. They next submitted that though the respondent filed an appeal, it is submitted that the order passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer was improper and illegal, as it failed to consider the fraudulent manner in which the petitioner′s name was recorded. A person who himself commits fraud is not entitled to equitable relief or prior hearing for rectification of such fraud.

40. They submitted that the present writ petition has been filed with an oblique motive to grab the property of late Ram Lakhan Singh by abusing the process of law. The petitioner has suppressed material facts, made false allegations and indulged in forum shopping. Such conduct disentitles him to any discretionary relief under Article 226.

41. They pointed out that it is well settled that this Hon′ble Court does not act as a court of appeal over factual findings in mutation matters. In absence of any patent illegality, perversity or violation of natural justice, no interference is warranted. The present case does not disclose any such exceptional circumstances.

42. They also pointed out that the dispute relates to proceedings under Section 34 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, and therefore, the writ petition is absolutely not maintainable. The petitioner has an alternative statutory remedy, which he has failed to pursue effectively. They submitted that in view of the facts and circumstances of the case, the writ petition is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed with exemplary costs for wasting valuable judicial time. In support of submissions, learned counsel for respondent No.1 placed reliance upon following judgments:

a) A.V. Venkateswaran, Collector of Customs, Bombay Vs. Ramchand Sobhraj Wadhwani; 1961 AIR Supreme Court 1506.

b) M/s Radha Krishan Industries Vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (SC); 2021 SCC Online SC 334.

c) British India Steam Navigation Co. Ltd. Vs. Jasjit Singh (SC); 1964 AIR Supreme Court 1451.

d) Pramod Kumar Vs. Sub - Divisional Officer, Khaga (Allahabad((DB) ; 1999 (90) RD 649.

e) Kali Shanker Dwivedi Vs. Board of Revenue (Allahabad) (Lucknow Bench); 2000 (18) LCD 1401

f) Gudiya (Obje. Filed) Vs. State of U.P. thr. P.S.R.L. (Allahabad) (Lucknow Bench); 2015 (33) LCD 1303.

g) Shiv Raj Gupta Vs. Board of Revenue, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow (Allahabad); 1989 (15) ALR 30.

43. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as law reports cited by learned counsel for the parties.

44. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the parties are being quoted below:

Judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner:

a) Jagdish Narayan Tondon (Supra):

"8. Due to some contradictory observations of Supreme Court in Qama-ruddin v. Rasul Baksh,5 the matter was again referred for consideration of Full Bench of this Court in Ganag Saran v. Civil Judge.6 The Full Bench after considering entire controversy afresh upheld and followed Full Bench's decisions in Har Prasad Singh v. Ram Swarup,7 and Jupiter Chit Fund (Pvt.) Ltd. v. Dwarika Dinesh Dayal8, and Supreme Court's decisions in Vishesh Kumar v. Shanti Prasad,9 and Vishnu Awatar v. Shiv Autar,10 and held that revision under section 115, C.P.C. is not maintainable against the order of Appellate or Revisional Court.

14. In view of the aforesaid discussions, do not find any reason to doubt correctness of the decisions of three Full Benches of this Court as well as Supreme Court, holding that the words "or other proceedings" have to be read ejus-dem getieris with the words "original suits". They will not include appeals or revisions. Present revision has been filed from the order passed by Appellate Court rejecting amendment application, filed in appeal as such the revision is not maintainable under section 115, C.P.C. as amended in Uttar Pradesh."

b) Videocon Appliances Ltd. (Supra):

"5. Insofar as the maintainability of second revision is concerned, the learned counsel appearing for the petitioner has contended that in the light of the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Ishwar Singh v. State of Rajasthan, reported in (2005) 2 SCC 334 that the second revision is maintainable. It has been contended that the Hon'ble Supreme Court was considering the identical provisions of the Rajasthan Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 which is section 128 of the said Act and has held that the power conferred on the Joint Registrar and the State Government is concurrent and not alternative and, therefore, a second revisionary power can be exercised under the very same provision of revision under section 128 of the Rajasthan Co-operative Societies Act, 1965. The learned counsel has particularly relied upon paras 13 and 14 of the said judgment to contend that the second revisionary power can be made applicable. The learned counsel for the petitioner has also contended that in light of the recent judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Ishwar Singh v. State of Rajasthan (supra) all the earlier judgments of this Court which have taken a consistent view that under section 154 of the Maharashtra Cooperative Societies Act, a second revision is not available and the power of second revision cannot be exercised by the State Government are impliedly overruled and thus cannot be considered. The respondent society on the other hand has brought to my attention the judgments of the learned Single Judges of this Court, particularly the unreported judgment of Lodha, J. in W.P. No. 4180 of 1998 dated 18-2-1999, the judgment in the case of Bhupendra Villa Premises Co-operative Society Ltd. v. Chandrakant G. Shah, reported in 2007 (2) Mh.L.J. 834, a judgment of another learned Single Judge in the case of Shri Ramesh T. Gopalani v. The Janata Sahakari Bank Ltd., reported in 2000 (3) Mh.L.J. 115 : 2000 (3) BCR 474, a judgment of another learned single Judge in the case of Virendra Bhanji Rathod v. Anand Vihar Co-operative Housing Society Ltd., Mumbai, reported in 2004 (1) Mh.L.J. 656 and lastly the judgment of another learned Single Judge in the case of Dadar Avanti Co-operative Housing Society Ltd. v. State of Maharashtra, reported in 2004 (5) Mh.L.J. 222 : 2005 (2) Bom.C.R. 604. Each of the aforesaid judgment have taken a consistent view that the power of revision under section 154 of the Maharashtra Co-operative Societies Act, 1960 cannot be exercised twice over and once the power having been exercised by the Registrar or the Secretary, the said power is exhausted and revision against the order of Registrar in exercise of revisionary power under section 154 is not maintainable before the Secretary and/or Minister of Co-operation of the State of Maharashtra under very same provision of law. The view has been consistently taken that the power of revision can only be exercised once and cannot be exercised twice over under section 154 of the Act. However, the learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently contended that the aforesaid views are all impliedly overruled by the recent judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ishwar Singh v. State of Rajasthan (supra). I have considered the judgment of the Supreme Court in case of Ishwar Singh v. State of Rajasthan (supra). Firstly, in my opinion the said judgment has no application because the provisions of section 128 of the Rajasthan Co-operative Societies Act, 1965 is in pari materia different to the provisions of the present case. The power under section 128 is simultaneously conferred on the Government and the Registrar because the opening words of the provisions of section 128 reads as under:"

"The State Government and the Registrar may call for and examine the record of any enquiry or proceedings of any other matter."

In contrast to the same, the provisions of section 154 does not give a concurrent jurisdiction to the Registrar and the State Government because the words prescribed thereunder are "the State Government or the Registrar may call for and examine the records."The wording in that section by substitution of the word "or" in place of "and" is materially significant because in case where the word "and" is used is a conjoint power conferred both on the Registrar as well as the Government whereas the word "or" indicates that it is the power conferred on "either" or "or" in such cases the power cannot be exercised by both but it can be exercised by one of the two and in that view of the matter, I am not inclined to accept the contention that by virtue of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ishwar Singh v. State of Rajasthan (supra) all the learned Single Judges judgments of this Court interpreting the very section 154 are deemed to be impliedly overruled. Thus, the contention that the order passed by the Secretary holding that the second revision is not maintainable is bad in law is rejected. The order passed by the Secretary holding that the second revision is not maintainable is upheld."

c) Satyadhyan Ghosal (Supra) :

16. It is clear therefore that an interlocutory order which had not been appealed from either because no appeal lay or even though an appeal lay an appeal was not taken could be challenged in an appeal from the final decree or order. A special provision was made as regards orders of remand and that was to the effect that if an appeal lay and still the appeal was not taken the correctness of the order of remand could not later be challenged in an appeal from the final decision. If however an appeal did not lie from the order of remand the correctness thereof could be challenged by an appeal from the final decision as in the cases of other interlocutory orders. The second sub-section did not apply to the Privy Council and can have no application to appeals to the Supreme Court, one reason being that no appeal lay to the Privy Council or lies to the Supreme Court against an order of remand.

22. In our opinion the order of remand was an interlocutory judgment which did not terminate the proceedings and so the correctness thereof can be challenged in an appeal from the final order. We hold therefore that the appellant is not precluded from raising before us the question that Section 28 of the original Thika Tenancy Act was not available to the tenants after the Thika Tenancy Amendment Act came into force. On this question we have already decided, as already indicated above, in Mahadeolal Kanodia case [(1960) 3 SCR 578] that Section 28 after its omission by the amending Act is not available in respect of proceedings pending on the date of the commencement of the Thika Tenancy Ordinance of 1952.

Judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the respondent No.1:

a) A.V. Venkateswaran, Collector of Customs, Bombay (Supra):

"8. The only point, therefore, requiring to be considered is whether the High Court should have rejected the writ petition of the respondent in limine because he had not exhausted all the statutory remedies open to him for having his grievance redressed. The contention of the learned Solicitor-General was that the existence of an alternative remedy was a bar to the entertainment of a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution unless (1) there was a complete lack of jurisdiction in the officer or authority to take the action impugned, or (2) where the order prejudicial to the writ petitioner has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and could, therefore, be treated as void or non est. In all other cases, he submitted, Courts should not entertain petitions under Article 226, or in any event not grant any relief to such petitioners. In the present case, he urged, the High Court in appeal had expressly dissented from the reasoning of the learned Single Judge as regards the lack of jurisdiction of the Customs officers to adjudicate regarding the item under which the article imported fell and the duty leviable thereon. Nor was there any complaint in this case that the order had been passed without an opportunity to the importer to be heard, so as to be in violation of the principles of natural justice. The learned Solicitor-General questioned the correctness of the reasoning of the learned Chief Justice in condoning the conduct of the respondent in not moving the Government in revision by taking into account the time that had elapsed between the date of the impugned order and that on which the appeal was heard. The submission was that if this were a proper test, the Rule as to a petitioner under Article 226 having to exhaust his remedies before he approached the Court would be practically a dead letter because in most cases by the date the petition comes on for hearing, the time for appealing or for applying in revision to the departmental authorities would have lapsed.

9. We see considerable force in the argument of the learned Solicitor-General. We must, however, point out that the Rule that the party who applies for the issue of a high prerogative writ should, before he approaches the Court, have exhausted other remedies open to him under the law, is not one which bars the jurisdiction of the High Court to entertain the petition or to deal with it, but is rather a Rule which Courts have laid down for the exercise of their discretion. The law on this matter has been enunciated in several decisions of this Court but it is sufficient to refer to two cases : In Union of India v. T.R. Varma [(1958) SCR 499 at pp. 503-504] Venkatarama Ayyar speaking for the Court said:

"It is well settled that when an alternative and equally efficacious remedy is open to a litigant, he should be required to pursue that remedy and not invoke the special jurisdiction of the High Court to issue a prerogative writ. It is true that the existence of another remedy does not affect the jurisdiction of the Court to issue a writ; but, as observed by this Court in Rashid Ahmed v. Municipal Board, Kairana "the existence of an adequate legal remedy is a thing to be taken into consideration in the matter of granting writs". Vide also K.S. Rashid and Son v. Income Tax Investigation Commission. And where such remedy exists, it will be a sound exercise of discretion to refuse to interfere in a petition under Article 226, unless there are good grounds therefor."

There is no difference between the above and the formulation by Das, C.J., in State of Uttar Pradesh v. Mohammad Nooh [(1958) SCR 595 at pp. 605-607] where he observed;

"....It must be borne in mind that there is no Rule, with regard to certiorari as there is with mandamus, that it will lie only where there is no other equally effective remedy. It is well established that, provided the requisite grounds exist, certiorari will lie although a right of appeal has been conferred by statute. The fact that the aggrieved party has another and adequate remedy may be taken into consideration by the superior court in arriving at a conclusion as to whether it should, in exercise of its discretion, issue a writ of certiorari to quash the proceedings and decisions of inferior courts subordinate to it and ordinarily the superior court will decline to interfere until the aggrieved party has exhausted his other statutory remedies, if any. But this Rule requiring the exhaustion of statutory remedies before the writ will be granted is a Rule of policy, convenience and discretion rather than a Rule of law and instances are numerous where a writ of certiorari has been issued in spite of the fact that the aggrieved party had other adequate legal remedies."

After referring to a few cases in which the existence of an alternative remedy had been held not to bar the issue of a prerogative writ, the learned Chief Justice added:

"It has also been held that a litigant who has lost his right of appeal or has failed to perfect an appeal by no fault of his own may in a proper case obtain a review by certiorari."

In the result this Court held that the existence of other legal remedies was not per se a bar to the issue of a writ of certiorari and that the Court was not bound to relegate the petitioner to the other legal remedies available to him."

b) M/s Radha Krishan Industries (Supra):

"27.5. When a right is created by a statute, which itself prescribes the remedy or procedure for enforcing the right or liability, resort must be had to that particular statutory remedy before invoking the discretionary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution. This rule of exhaustion of statutory remedies is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion."

c) British India Steam Navigation Co. Ltd. (Supra):

"7. We have heard all these matters together because they raise the same question which was raised for our decision by the appellant in C.A. No. 770 of 1962 [Indo-China Steam Navigation Co. Ltd. v. Additional Collector of Customs, Calcutta(1964) 34 Comp. Cas. 435 (S.C.).] . If these matters had not been placed together for hearing along with the said civil appeal, we would not have entertained them, except C.A. No. 299 of 1963. This latter appeal has been brought against the decision of the Calcutta High Court and the only point which could have been argued by the appellant would be one of jurisdiction, since the appellant had moved the said High Court under article 226, and that too against the order of the Collector of Customs. But in regard to the other matters, the parties have come to this court directly against the orders of the Collector of Customs and this court generally does not entertain appeals against the orders passed by a Tribunal unless the alternative remedies provided by the relevant Act by way of appeals or revisions have been pursued by the aggrieved party. We have already seen that, against the order of confiscation and fine passed by the Collector of Customs, an appeal is competent, and against the decision of the appellate authority, a revision also lies. That being so, we would have hesitated to entertain these appeals if each one of them had come separately for hearing before us. In fact, the question as to whether the writ jurisdiction of the High Court could be successfully invoked by a party immediately after an order is passed against him by the Collector of Customs under section 167(12A) and section 183, does not appear to have ben argued before the Calcutta High Court when it entertained the writ proceedings from which Appeal No. 299 of 1963 has been brought to this court. As was observed by this court in A.V. Venkateswaran v. Ramchand Sobhraj Wadhwani [(1962) 1 S.C.R. 753.] the rule that a party who applies for the issue of a high prerogative writ should, before he approaches the court, have exhausted other remedies open to him under the law, though not one which bars the jurisdiction of the court to entertain the petition or to deal with it, but is a rule which courts have laid down for the exercise of their discretion. That is one aspect which has to be borne in mind in dealing with C.A. No. 299 of 1963, and the other writ petitions in this group."

d) Pramod Kumar Vs. Sub - Divisional Officer, Khaga (Supra):

"6. Apart from the aforesaid infirmities, we find substance in the submissions made by Sri H.R. Mishra, learned Standing Counsel, that this writ petition is not maintainable as it arises out of proceedings under the Land Revenue Act, which does not involve adjudication of right, title and interest of a party concerning the lands and the remedy, If at all, to an aggrieved person, is to file arevislon under Section 219 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act."

e) Kali Shanker Dwivedi (Supra):

"2. The matter pertains to mutation of agricultural land under Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act. A preliminary objection was raised to the effect that no writ petition lie in a case where the proceedings are not conclusive and can be decided by regular suit and that mutation proceedings being also of summary nature and do not decide the title of the parties, therefore, no writ petition lie under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. It was also opposed on the ground that since alternative remedy is available, therefore, the writ petition also does not lie in cases of mutation proceedings. Learned counsel supported his argument with the case of Akhtar Hussain v. Board of Revenue [1987 RD 33.] , wherein it has been held that question of title is not conclusively decided in mutation proceedings and parties can get a judgment from appropriate court on question of their title over disputed property. The other case is that of Shiv Raj Gupta v. Board of Revenue U.P. [1989 RD 35.] , wherein it has been held that a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is not maintainable challenging an order passed by revenue authorities in mutation proceedings under Land Revenue Act because the judgment and order passed by the revenue authorities in mutation proceedings are not conclusive because competent court in a regular suit for title can ignore the observations made by the revenue authorities in mutation proceedings. In the present case also it is not disputed that the order was passed in mutation proceedings under the Land Revenue Act. In view of the above citations the writ petition is not maintainable and is to be dismissed."

f) Gudiya (Obje. Filed) (Supra):

"2. Admittedly, in the present case, the proceeding arising out of section 34 of the U.P.L.R. Act an order 30.4.2003 has been passed, thereafter in a revision the order dated 10.12.2007 has been passed by Additional Commissioner, Lucknow Mandal, Lucknow, so taking into the said fact as well as the settled proposition of law that the proceedings under section 34 of the Land Revenue Act does not decide the right and title of the parties. The object of mutation proceedings is as to from whom the State has to recover the land revenue. It becomes immediately imperative to have got the name of some successor mutated in place of the deceased so that the land revenue can be recovered from him. The scope of these proceedings are not that any right or title of any body is sought to be decided.

3. Further, it is settled view of this Court that it should not interfere with the order issued by the authorities while deciding the proceedings under section 34 of the Land Revenue Act, as in the said proceedings the issue only in respect to record the name of tenure holder in the revenue record is under consideration. Such an entry does not ordinarily confer upon the person in whose favour it is made any title of property in question and his right is to be established as per the procedure provided under law (See Jaipal v. Board of Revenue, U.P., Allahabad, [1956 ALJ 807.] Smt. Lakhpati v. Board of Revenue, U.P. [1984 RD 378.] State of U.P. through Collector, Agra v. Board of Revenue at Lucknow, [1993 RD 206.] Shiv Raj Gupta v. Board of Revenue, U.P., Lucknokw, [1989 RD 35.] Pooran Singh v. Baord of Revenue, [2004 (1) AWC 853.] and Ram Kumar v. Board of Revenue U.P. Lucknow). [2003 (94) RD 73 (HC).]

4. For the foregoing reasons, the writ petition is dismissed, on the ground of availability of alternative statutory remedy under section 229-B of the U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act."

g) Shiv Raj Gupta (Supra):

"3. The apprehension is unfounded as any observations made by the Board of Revenue while disposing of the impugned proceedings touching upon the title of the petitioner shall be subject to the decision by a court of competent jurisdiction. If, therefore, the petitioner files a suit he will not be in the slightest degree prejudiced by any finding or observation made by the Board Revenue.

4. With these observations the petition is dismissed without going into the merits of the petitioner's claim on the ground that the petitioner has an effective alternative remedy available by way of a regular suit in the court of a competent jurisdiction. A copy of this order may be given to the learned counsel for the petitioner on payment of requisite charges within two days."

45. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the pleadings on record and the authorities cited at the bar, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned judgment and order dated 15.02.2005 passed by respondent No.2 is unsustainable in law and liable to be set aside.

46. At the outset, it is evident from the record that after the death of Ram Lakhan Singh on 16.01.1998, the petitioner's name was duly mutated in the revenue records on 30.06.1998 in accordance with law and he came into possession of the bhumidhari land. This entry remained operative for several years and was not challenged within a reasonable time. The subsequent proceedings initiated at the instance of opposite party No.1 were conducted behind the back of the petitioner despite the fact that he was the recorded tenure holder. It is undisputed that no notice was issued to the petitioner, nor was he impleaded in the mutation proceedings which ultimately resulted in deletion of his name from the revenue records. Such an action strikes at the very root of the principles of natural justice.

47. The Tehsildar, Lalganj allowed the mutation application without recording the mandatory statement of the Lekhpal and without examining whether the applicant had any subsisting right to seek mutation when the name of the deceased was no longer on record. The order was, thus, passed in a mechanical manner and in flagrant violation of statutory requirements. The Sub-Divisional Officer, Lalganj rightly appreciated these infirmities and set aside the mutation order, remanding the matter for fresh consideration after affording opportunity to both sides. The said order was neither perverse nor illegal and, in fact, restored procedural fairness.

48. However, the revisional authority despite noticing that no notice had been served upon the petitioner, proceeded to allow the revision on a misconception of law and facts. The revisional court failed to appreciate that any order adversely affecting the rights of a recorded tenure holder passed without hearing him is void ab initio. The impugned order, therefore, has resulted in serious miscarriage of justice by depriving the petitioner of his recorded rights and possession without due process of law.

49. The judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner lend support to this conclusion. The principle emerging from those decisions is that revisional jurisdiction cannot be exercised in a manner that perpetuates illegality or defeats procedural safeguards. Further, an interlocutory or procedural order which causes prejudice to a party and has not attained finality can be questioned at a later stage. The reliance on precedents emphasizing the limited scope of revision and the impermissibility of entertaining successive or misconceived revisions reinforces the view that the revisional authority exceeded its jurisdiction while interfering with a well-reasoned remand order.

50. On the contrary, the authorities cited by learned counsel for respondent No.1 relating to non-maintainability of writ petition in mutation matters and availability of alternative remedies are clearly distinguishable. It is true that mutation proceedings are summary in nature and ordinarily do not decide title; however, the present case does not merely concern a routine mutation dispute. The petitioner′s name, already recorded in the revenue records, was deleted without notice, without hearing and without any adjudication against him. Such an action constitutes a clear violation of natural justice and an arbitrary exercise of jurisdiction. The rule of exhaustion of alternative remedies is a rule of discretion and does not operate as an absolute bar where the impugned order is without jurisdiction or has been passed in breach of fundamental procedural safeguards.

51. Moreover, the allegation that the petitioner procured mutation by fraud remains unsubstantiated by any credible material. Conversely, the conduct attributed to opposite party No.1 setting up multiple wills within a short span, filing objections after considerable delay and pursuing mutation proceedings without impleading the recorded tenure holder casts serious doubt on the bona fides of his claim. The revisional authority failed to examine these aspects and instead upset a just and equitable order of remand.

52. In these circumstances, this Court is satisfied that the impugned revisional order has been passed on a patent misappreciation of law and facts and has resulted in manifest injustice. Allowing such an order to stand would amount to endorsing deprivation of property rights without due process, which is impermissible.

53. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

54. The impugned judgment and order dated 15.02.2005 passed by respondent No.2 in Civil Revision No. 591/281/198 of 2003-05 is hereby quashed.

55. The order of the Sub-Divisional Officer, Lalganj, Pratapgarh remanding the matter to the Tehsildar for fresh decision after affording opportunity of hearing to all concerned parties is restored.

56. The Tehsildar shall decide the mutation proceedings afresh strictly in accordance with law, after issuing notice to all affected parties and granting them full opportunity of hearing, expeditiously.
