Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether dismissal of complaints under Section 256 CrPC amounts to acquittal when the accused never appeared.

Whether revision under Sections 397/401 CrPC was maintainable instead of appeal under Section 378(4) CrPC.

Validity of summoning orders under Section 138 NI Act.

Whether accused's repeated non-appearance amounts to abuse of process.

HEADNOTES

Criminal Law – Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections – 200, 201, 203, 204, 204(4), 247, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 256(1), 257, 258, 259, 378, 378(4), 378(5), 311, 397, 398, 399, 400, 401, 401(2), 402, 482 - Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 - Section - 138, 143, 141: - Application u/s 482 – against revisional orders restoring complaints – seeking relief of quashing – complaint u/s 138 NI Act for dishonour of cheques – cognizance taken – summons - bailable and non-bailable warrants issued – accused never appeared – trial not commenced – complaints dismissed by Magistrate under section 256 CrPC – revision allowed by Sessions Court – connected cases filed by accused challenging revisional orders and summoning orders – applicant pleaded that remedy lay in appeal u/s 378(4) CrPC and cognizance defective – Court finds that acquittal without trial is illegal, revision maintainable, and cheques issued personally – held – (i) Section 256 CrPC cannot be invoked to acquit an accused who never appeared for trial – (ii) Revision is the proper remedy against dismissal of complaints in such circumstances, not appeal - (iii) Accused's conduct of evading summons/warrants for over a decade held to be abuse of process, – (iv) summoning orders are proper – consequently, all eight applications are dismissed with costs of Rs. 50,000 payable to complainant, - however, complainant's Application is allowed with direction to expedite the trial in line with Supreme Court directions on speedy trial under NI Act. (Para – 41, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 60, 61, 62) Leading Application allowed with direction but connected applications are dismissed. (E-11)

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Sushil Shukla, Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Ravitendra Pratap Singh.
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Raj Shekhar Srivastava, AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. This leading case alongwith the connected cases has been taken by this court on being nominated by Hon'ble the Chief Justice on 29.11.2025.

2. The leading case in this bunch is an application under Section 482 CrPC filed by the complainant (Gopal Prasad Sharma) against the accused opposite party no.2 (Ram Anoop Prasad @ Rai Anoop Prasad) for seeking direction of this Court to direct the speedy disposal of complaint filed twelve years back by the complainant for the offence under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, P.S. Shahganj, District Agra. This application is particularly moved to seek direction in Complaint Case No. 74 of 2012 (Gopal Prasad Sharma Vs. Ram Anoop Prasad @ Rai Anoop Prasad), though there are seven other complaints between the same parties arose out of same transaction. Before dealing with the issue, the crux of the matter in all the cases having genesis from the single incident needs to be mentioned.

3. Connected with the above application are eight other applications filed by accused/applicant (Ram Anoop Prasad @ Rai Anoop Prasad), against Gopal Prasad Sharma (complainant) to assail, primarily, the orders allowing the criminal revisions filed by the complainant against the accused/applicant for quashing the orders of the trial Magistrate acquitting the accused/applicant invoking Section 256 CrPC and alternatively, the summoning orders dated 25.02.2012 passed by the Magistrate, summoning the accused/applicant for offence under Section 138 Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881.

For the sake of brevity, comprehensiveness and clarity in the judgement the words used to represent the applicant and opposite party no.2, is taken as "complainant", who has filed the case and "accused", who is summoned in complaint; whereas, Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 will be referred as "NI Act" and The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 as "CrPC".

4. Heard, Sri Sushil Shukla, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Ravitendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel for accused; Sri Rajesh Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for complainant; and Sri Raj Shekhar Srivastava, learned A.G.A. for the State.

5. The complaint has filed eight complaints in the year 2012 against the accused for offence under Section 138 NI Act before the Magistrate at Agra with alleged averments that the complainant and the accused were having close and cordial relations. In the last week of June 2011, the accused came to complainant's house at Shahganj, Agra and asked for some money and also insisted the complainant to purchase his flat situated at Ghaziabad for a consideration of Rs. 80,00,000/-. The complainant accepted the offer and in the first week of July, 2011, he gave Rs. 30,00,000/- as advance to the accused, in presence of three persons, whose names have been disclosed in the complaint. It was agreed between the parties that the remaining amount of Rs. 50,00,000/- would be made good at the time of execution of sale deed. Somehow the deal could not be materialized and the accused has offered to return the advanced money, which was accepted by the complainant. The accused thereafter returned Rs. 30,00,000/- through eight cheques. Four cheques of Rs. 2,50,000/- each and four cheques of Rs. 5,00,000/- each. All these cheques were dishonored due to insufficiency of funds and led to eight criminal complaints.

6. In all the eight complaints the learned Magistrate has taken cognizance against the accused for offence under Section 138 NI Act and issued the summons to the accused. For continuous period of two years, the summons have been issued, but the accused did not appear. The Magistrate then issued bailable warrant, but even then the accused did not appear. On 29.09.2014, the complainant could not appear before the trial court due to the reason of death in his family and his counsel also did not turn up, consequently, the learned Magistrate has dismissed all the eight complaints and acquitted the accused invoking Section 256 CrPC It is this order of Magistrate, which was challenged by the complainant in revision before the court of Sessions and the revisional court has set aside the order of learned Magistrate in all the eight revision petitions. The learned Magistrate has again resorted to issuance of processes and till 24.01.2024, the summons, bailable warrants and non-bailable warrants have continuously been issued against accused, but he did not appear to proceed with the trial; else moved the connected eight applications under Section 482 CrPC for quashing the revisional court's order, alternatively, the cognizance order passed by the Magistrate. Now, it would be expedient to deal with all the eight applications, separately.

[8. Crl. Misc. Application U/S 482 CrPC No. 13020 of 2024 (Rai Anoop Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and Another)] :-

28. The Complaint Case No. 75 of 2012 [Gopal Prasad Sharma Vs. Ram Anoop Prasad @ Rai Anoop Prasad] was filed for dishonor of Cheque No. 125831 dated 28.10.2011 for Rs. 5,00,000/- drawn on South Indian Bank Ltd, Chitranjan Park Branch, New Delhi, 110019. This cheque was deposited by the complainant in his Indian Overseas Bank, Kamla Nagar Agra on 04.11.2011 but the cheque returned unpaid by the Bank. The complainant has contacted the accused, who has asked for re-presentation of cheque, on which the cheque was again presented on 23.11.2011 but again returned unpaid with the remarks that "Funds Insufficient". The information of dishonor of cheque was intimated by the Bank vide memo dated 24.11.2011. The legal notice dated 13.12.2011 has been sent and on 24.01.2012 the complaint was filed. The court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-IV, Agra has taken into consideration the sufficiency of evidence regarding dishonour of cheque and took cognizance of the offence under Section 138 NI Act, consequently, issued summons to the accused by order dated 25.02.2012. From30.03.2012 till 18.06.2014 summons have continuously been issued against the accused. On 14.08.2014, the bailable warrant for Rs. 5,000/- was issued against the accused. On 26.09.2014, the parties did not appear. The case was then fixed for further orders. On 29.09.2014 neither the complainant was present nor the accused, consequently, the complaint was dismissed and accused was acquitted under Section 256 CrPC. The orders is reiterated underneath:-

"29.09.2014- Called out. complainant not present .It is 2:50 p.m. even on the last date of hearing also complainant was not present so, complaint is dismissed u/s 256 CrPC and accused is acquitted. File be consign to RR."

29. This order of learned Magistrate has been challenged in Criminal Revision No. 531 of 2017 [Gopal Prasad Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and Another]. The revision was allowed by order dated 04.04.2018 setting aside the order dated 29.09.2014. It is directed in the revision that the learned Magistrate may dispose of the complaint on merit.

30. The learned Magistrate is again seized with the matter. From 10.04.2018 to 10.05.2018, the summons were continuously issued; from 12.07.2018 to 10.08.2020, the bailable warrants have been issued; and from 31.03.2022 to 24.01.2024, the Non-bailable Warrants have been issued against the accused. It is thereafter that the present Application under Section 482 CrPC is filed.

31. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for the accused submits that the revisional court (Additional Sessions court) has exercised the jurisdiction of revision, which is not applicable in the present matter, where the accused has been acquitted in the Complaint Case for an offence under Section 138 N.I. Act by the Magistrate. The proper remedy available to the complainant was to prefer Leave to Appeal under Section 378(4) CrPC. Further submits that Section 401(4) CrPC clearly bars the jurisdiction of revision where the provision of appeal is provided in the Code. Hence, submitted that the applications are liable to be allowed and the impugned order of revisional court, whereby the order of acquittal has been set aside by the revisional court, shall be quashed and consequently proceedings pending before the Magistrate shall also be quashed. Learned counsel has relied upon the pronouncements in cases of Abhishek Mishra @ Pintu Vs. State of U.P. and Anr.1, Vinay Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and Anr.2, Associated Cement Co. Ltd. Vs. Keshvanand3, S. Anand Vs. Vasumathi Chandrasekar4, S.Rama Krishna Vs. S.Rama Reddy (Dead) by His Lrs & Ors., BLS Infrastructure Ltd. Vs. Rajwant Singh & Ors.6, Anil Kumar Agarwal Vs. State of UP & Anr. and Shitala Baksh Singh Vs. State of U.P. through Secretary (Home) and Another. It is further submitted that the order passed by the revisional court is also bad in the eye of law, because no opportunity has been granted by the revisional court to the accused to defend the order of Magistrate passed in his favour for acquittal. This opportunity is provided under Section 401(2) CrPC. He relied upon the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Manharibhari Muljibhai Kakadia Vs. Shaileshbhai Mohanbhai Patel & Ors9, P. Sundarrajan & Ors Vs. R. Vidhya Sekar10 and Subhash Sahebrao Deshmukh Vs. Satish Atmaram Talekar & Ors. It is further submitted that even otherwise the cognizance taking order passed by the Judicial Magistrate is bad in the eyes of law.

32. He further submits that the Magistrate has committed error in issuing the summons and taking cognizance of offence under Section 138 of N.I.Act against the accused because the cheque has been issued by a company and without impleading the company or taking cognizance against the Director of the company the accused has been summoned in personal capacity. Further submits that the cognizance order is also bad in the eyes of law as the complaint does not disclose that the account from which the cheque was issued was in the name of accused and therefore, the cognizance taking order as well as the summons issued against the accused is bad in the eyes of law and on this count as well, the summoning order issued by the Magistrate shall be quashed. In substantiation of arguments, the learned counsel has relied on the judgments of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Jugesh Sehgal Vs. Shamsher Singh Gogi12, PJ Agro Tech Limited and others Vs. Water Base Limited13 and Aneeta Hadra Vs. Godfather Travels Pvt. Limited.

33. Per contra, learned counsel for the complainant and learned AGA have submitted that larger Bench in Abhishek Mishra @ Pintu Vs. State of U.P. and Anr. by order dated 05.04.2025 has opined that the reference needs no deliberation and does not deserve to be answered. Learned counsel further submits that Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of In Re:- Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of N.I. Act 1881 has issued general directions for expeditious disposal of the cases pertaining to dishonour of cheque. Further submits that the accused has willfully not appeared in the cases of dishonour of cheque and it is in the absence of the accused that the Magistrate has dismissed the complaint invoking Section 256 CrPC, against which the complainant has file the revision petitions, which were rightly allowed by the revisional court. Further submits that the conduct of accused throughout the case about deceiving the summons, on one pretext or the other is with the motive of not returning the money advanced, given for the purchase of flat to the accused which has not been advanced to any company, therefore, impleading of a company or invoking of Section 141 of N.I.Act is not required and therefore, the complaint was filed against the accused in personal capacity. Further submits that the cheques have been issued by the accused to pay the debt, which were dishonoured hence, the complaint, as the notice was not complied. The intention of accused is still clear and explicit that he does not want to return the money even after fourteen long years have elapsed. The accused is an unscrupulous litigant, hence the applications filed by the accused shall be dismissed.

34. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

35. The factual matrix of the case requires reiteration for deliberations to ponder on the legal perspective. The complainant has filed eight complaints under Section 138 N.I.Act against the accused for dishonour of cheque in which learned Magistrate has issued processes under Section 204 CrPC on 25.02.2012. The processes (summons and bailable warrants) have been issued for two years, but the accused did not appear. On 29.09.2014, the Magistrate, in absence of complainant and accused has dismissed the complaint, specifically mentioning acquittal of accused under Section 256 CrPC. At the very threshold, it is required to be pointed out that learned counsel for the accused has not placed any judgment, wherein this fact has been considered by either Hon'ble the Supreme Court or by the High Court regarding the remedy in appeal under Section 378 CrPC or revision under Section 397 read with Section 401 CrPC.

36. It is an admitted fact that the complainant has filed criminal revision invoking Section 397 read with Section 401 CrPC before the court of Sessions to assail the order dated 29.09.2014 passed by the Magistrate, acquitting the accused by dismissing the complaint and the Additional Sessions Court, while invoking revisional jurisdiction has allowed the revision petitions, setting aside the orders dated 29.09.2014 passed by the Magistrate.

37. The record reflects that the complainant was continuously appearing before the court of Magistrate, taking steps for service of summons and bailable warrants for procuring the presence of accused, as is provided under Section 204(4) Cr.P.C., reiterates "When by any law for the time being in force any process- fees or other fees are payable, no process shall be issued until the fees are paid and, if such fees are not paid within a reasonable time, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint."

38. The record further reveals that the Magistrate has continuously issued summons to the accused from 25.02.2012 till 18.06.2014. On 14.08.2014, the complainant was present and bailable warrant of Rs. 5000/- was issued against the accused fixing 27.09.2014 as the next date. On 27.09.2014 the case was fixed for further orders, revealing therein that the parties were not present, there is no satisfaction of the court as to the service of bailable warrant upon the accused. It is also a point to be considered that on 27.09.2014, the court has fixed 29.09.2014, after the gap of a day, on which date, the Magistrate has dismissed the complaint in absence of the complainant and acquitted the accused.

39. Thus the points of concern are :-

(i) Whether the complainant has not taken the steps for service of summons and processes, as is required under Section 204(4) CrPC which provides power to the Magistrate to dismiss the complaint?

(ii) Whether the accused could be acquitted without appearing in a complaint?

(iii) Whether the requirement of section 256 CrPC has been complied by the Magistrate, which requires the presence of complainant on the date of adjourned hearing?

(iv) Whether the Magistrate was having any evidence on record at post cognizance stage, subsequent to the passing of cognizance taking order dated 25.02.2012, till dismissing the complaint on 29.09.2014, which could be considered for the acquittal of accused?

(v) Whether the order of Magistrate acquitting the accused, who is not before the court or facing trial is patently an illegal and erroneous order, which requires to be dealt with in revision under Section 397 read with section 401 CrPC? OR Merely dismissal of the complaint and acquitting the accused under Section 256 CrPC makes the order appealable under Section 378 CrPC? AND if the application under Section 378(4) CrPC is moved for seeking leave to appeal in such a situation, whether the appellate court could exercise the appellate jurisdiction without the evidence on record at the post cognizance stage because the complainant had no occasion to adduce it?

40. Sections 200-203 CrPC provides for complaints to Magistrate (Chapter XV), which deals with entertaining a complaint, examination of complainant and witnesses on oath and the dismissal of complaint under Section 203 CrPC. After considering the statement of complainant and witnesses on oath and result of inquiry or investigation carried out under Section 202 CrPC, if any, the Magistrate does not found sufficient ground to proceed, the complaint is dismissed under Section 203 CrPC but if sufficient ground to proceed then Section 204 CrPC provides for taking of cognizance of offence and issuance of processes upon the accused. In the present case, the Magistrate has taken cognizance of the offence in all the eight cases of dishonour of cheque, separately on 25.02.2012.

41. The complainant has taken required steps for issunace of summons and bailable warrant, which have been issued against the accused, but the accused did not appear. The orders dated 29.09.2014, reiterated herein before clearly reveals that the complaint has not been dismissed for the reasons of non-taking of processes as is provided under Section 204(4) CrPC. Thus, point (i) is accordingly dealt with and decided.

42. At the post cognizance stage, no evidence could be adduced by the complainant because the accused never appeared in the complaint.

43. Section 143 of N.I.Act provides that the power of court is to try the case summarily, the relevant extract is reiterated, "(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) all the offence under this Chapter shall be tried by a Judicial Magistrate of first class or by a Metropolitan Magistrate and the provisions of Sections 262 to 265 CrPC (both inclusive) of the said Code shall, as far as may be, applied to such trial." Moreover, Sub-section (1) of Section 262 CrPC provides that the procedure for summary trial is the same as provided in this Code for the trial of summons-cases, if not otherwise excepted.

44. Whereas, the trial of summons-case is provided in Chapter XX (Sections 251-259) CrPC. It is through this analogy that the provision of Section 256 CrPC is applicable for the cases of N.I.Act. The provision of Section 256 CrPC is reiterated underneath:-

"256. Non-appearance or death of complainant.

(1)If the summons has been issued on complaint, and on the day appointed for the appearance of the accused, or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks it proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day:

Provided that where the complainant is represented by a pleader or by the officer conducting the prosecution or where the Magistrate is of opinion that the personal attendance of the complainant is not necessary, the Magistrate may dispense with his attendance and proceed with the case.

(2)The provisions of sub-section (1) shall, so far as may be, apply also to cases where the non-appearance of the complainant is due to his death."

45. In the present Complaint Case, the accused never appeared for trial and the case was not fixed for hearing, which connotes the presence of parties for trial. Though, the Magistrate invoked Section 256 CrPC. Now the legal pronouncements be taken into consideration.

46. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Associated Cement Co. Ltd. (supra) while dealing with Section 247 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, as applicable to the State of Jammu & Kashmir, the coordinate Section is Section 256 of CrPC considered two requirements, which are to be taken into consideration by the Magistrate while acquitting the accused and found that the Magistrate has not taken into consideration those requirements and passed the order of acquittal under section 247 of the old Code (Section 256 of the CrPC) and considered that the Magistrate while invoking Section 256 CrPC must keep in mind that the attendance of complainant is essential on the date fixed. The relevant paragraphs 16 and 17 are reiterated underneath:-

"16. What was the purpose of including a provision like Section 247 in the old code (or section 256 in the new Code). It affords some deterrence against dilatory tactics on the part of a complainant who set the law in motion through his complaint. An accused who is per force to attend the court on all posting days can be put to much harassment by a complaint. An accused who is per force to attend the court on all posting days can be put to much harassment by a complainant if he does not turn up to the court on occasions when his presence is necessary. The Section, therefore, affords a protection to an accused against such tactics of the complainant. But that does not mean if the complainant is absent, court has a duty to acquit the accused in invitum.

17. Reading the Section in its entirety would reveal that two constraints are imposed on the court for exercising the power under the Section. First is, if the court thinks that in a situation it is proper to adjourn the hearing then the magistrate shall not acquit the accused. Second is, when the magistrate considers that personal attendance of the complainant is not necessary on that day the magistrate has the power to dispense with his attendance and proceed with the case. When the court notices that the complainant is absent on a particular day the court must consider whether personal attendance of the complainant is essential on that day for progress of the case and also whether the situation does not justify the case being adjoined to another date due to any other reason. If the situation does not justify the case being adjourned the court is free to dismiss the complaint and acquit the accused. But if the presence of the complainant on that day was quite unnecessary then resorting to the step of axing down the complaint may not be a proper exercise of the power envisaged in the section. The discretion must therefore be exercised judicially and fairly without impairing the cause of administration of criminal justice."

47. In the case of S. Anand (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court has again considered the applicability of Section 256 CrPC and the exercise of power by the Magistrate, in the light of argument that an application under Section 311 CrPC moved by the accused was pending, when the complaint was dismissed by the Magistrate invoking Section 256 CrPC. The relevant paragraphs 13, 14 and 15 are reiterated underneath:-

"13. The date was fixed for examining the defence witnesses. Appellant could have examined witnesses, if he wanted to do the same. In that case, the appearance of the complainant was not necessary. It was for her to cross-examine the witnesses examined on behalf of the defence.

14. The accused was entitled to file an application under- Section 311 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Such an application was required to be considered and disposed of by the learned Magistrate. We have noticed hereinbefore that the complainant did not examine herself as a witness. She was sought to be summoned again for cross-examination. The said prayer has not yet been allowed. But, that would not mean that on that ground the court would exercise its discretionary jurisdiction under-Section 256 of the Code of Criminal Procedure at that stage or the defence would not examine his witnesses.

15. Presence of the complainant or her lawyer would have been necessary, as indicated here-in-before, only for the purpose of cross- examination of the witnesses examined on behalf of the defence. If she did not intend to do so, she would do so at her peril but it cannot be said that her presence was absolutely necessary. Furthermore, when the prosecution has closed its case and the accused has been examined under Section 311 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the court was required to pass a judgment on merit of the matter."

48. In the case of S. Rama Krishna (supra), the complainant has passed away, the counsel moved application for substitution, the accused moved objection, thereafter, one year none appeared for complainant and the Magistrate has dismissed the complaint and acquitted accused. On which, the Hon'ble the Supreme Court has considered the ingredients of Section 256(1) CrPC in paragraph 9. The same is reiterated underneath:-

"The ingredients of Section 256(1) are: (i) that summons must have been issued on a complaint, (ii) the Magistrate should be of the opinion that for some reasons, it is not proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other date; and (iii) the date on which the order under Section 256(1) can be passed is the day appointed for appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto, to which the hearing of the case has been adjourned."

49. In the case of BLS Infrastructure Ltd.(supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered the scope of Section 256 CrPC, the powers exercised by the Magistrate and considered that if the complainant, who has moved an applications under Section 311 CrPC does not appear before the court for pressing the application, the Magistrate is not justified in straightway dismissing the complaint. The relevant paragraphs 12 and 16 of the aforesaid judgement are reiterated underneath:-

"12. A plain reading of the proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 256 would indicate that where the Magistrate is satisfied that the personal attendance of the complainant is not necessary, he can dispense with the attendance of the complainant and proceed with the case. Such a situation may arise where complainant's/prosecution's evidence has been recorded and to decide the case on merits, complainant's presence is not necessary.

13. xxxxxx

14. xxxxxx

15. xxxxxx

16. Further, if the complainant had not appeared to press the application under Section 311 of the Code, the learned Magistrate could have rejected the application under Section 311 of the Code and proceeded with the case on basis of the available evidence. We are, therefore, of the considered view that the learned Magistrate was not justified in straight away dismissing the complaint(s) and ordering acquittal of the accused on mere non- appearance of the complainant. The High Court too failed to take notice of the aforesaid aspects. Thus, the orders impugned are liable to be set aside."

50. In all the judgments cited for the accused/applicant, the fact in common is the presence of accused in the complaint, who were facing trial when the complainant did not appear and the Magistrate has dismissed the complaint wrongly or rightly invoking Section 256 CrPC. It is also the point of discussion and deliberation in the case of Anil Kumar Agarwal (supra), which has been decided by a larger Bench on reference that complainant/victim has got a right to file an appeal under sub- section (4) and (5) of Section 378 CrPC against the order of acquittal. The difference in the present case and the above dealt cases is presence of accused facing trial. If the accused did not appear to face trial, whether he could be acquitted? The scheme of summons trial provided under Chapter XX of CrPC starts from appearance of accused. Section 251 CrPC provides that when in a summons-case the accused appear the substance of accusation shall be stated to him by the Magistrate to know whether he plead guilty or has defense to make. If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate may convict him under Section 252 CrPC, otherwise, the procedure is laid down under Section 254 CrPC where the accused is pleaded not guilty. This procedure is reiterated underneath:-

"254. Procedure when not convicted.

(1)If the Magistrate does not convict the accused under Section 252 or Section 253, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the prosecution and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

(2)The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the prosecution or the accused, issue a summons to any witness directing him to attend or to produce any document or other thing.

(3)The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that the reasonable expenses of the witness incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court."

51. Section 255 provides for acquittal or conviction, the same is reiterated underneath:-

"255. Acquittal or conviction.

(1)If the Magistrate, upon taking the evidence referred to in Section 254 and such further evidence, if any, as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

(2)Where the Magistrate does not proceed in accordance with the provisions of Section 325 or Section 360, he shall, if he finds the accused guilty, pass sentence upon him according to law.

(3)A Magistrate may, under Section 252 or Section 255, convict the accused of any offence triable under this Chapter, which from the facts admitted or proved he appears to have committed, whatever may be the nature of the complaint or summons, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the accused would not be prejudiced thereby."

52. Thus, the scheme of trial provides the presence of accused to face trial, recording of his statement of pleading guilty or has a defense to make, conviction on pleading guilty and proceeding with the trial for adjudication.

53. The scope and applicability of Section 256 CrPC is again considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ranjeet Sarkar Vs. Ravi Ganesh Bhardwaj, wherein it is observed that Section 256 CrPC could be invoked for acquitting the accused, if the acquittal of accused would follow as its logical result of absence of complainant. The relevant paragraph 23 is reiterated underneath:-

"23. What, therefore, assumes importance for invoking Section 256, Cr. PC is the purpose for which the case is fixed. If the date is not appointed for appearance of the accused but for some other purpose, like in the present case, acquittal of the accused does not necessarily follow as the logical result of absence of the complainant. Also, the words on any day subsequent thereto must be understood in reference to the words preceding, namely, the day appointed for the appearance of the accused. Say, for instance, if a date is fixed by the magistrate for bringing an order from a superior court or for showing cause why an order of dismissal should not be passed for continuous absence of the complainant or for producing any material, which is not intrinsically connected with any step towards progress of the lis, and the complainant is found to be absent, a dismissal of the complaint can be ordered but the provision for acquitting the accused may not be attracted unless it happens to be the date appointed for appearance of the accused and they do appear personally or through an advocate; also, without the magistrate recording a clear acquittal along with the order of dismissal of the complaint, acquittal need not be read into every such order of dismissal of a complaint owing to absence of the complainant."

54. In the present case, the non-appearance of complainant on the date fixed would not lead to acquittal of accused at any stretch of imagination, because the accused was not appearing in the trial. Section 256 CrPC contemplates acquittal of accused, who is before the court and not when he is absconding the trial. Therefore, point no. (ii) & (iii) are accordingly decided in the light of judgment of the Hon□ble Supreme Court considered here-in-above and the provisions of law that acquittal cannot be recorded where the requirement of presence of complainant is not necessary for hearing of the complaint. Hence the order passed by the Magistrate on 29.09.2014 is patently illegal order.

55. So far as the point no. (iv) is concerned it is an admitted position that the evidence recorded at the pre-cognizance stage is the only evidence available on record. At the post-cognizance stage there is no evidence because after taking of cognizance there was no opportunity for the complainant to adduce the evidence, as complaint case was continuously being fixed for appearance of accused, till 29.09.2014 when the order dismissing the complaint was passed. Hence, the point no.(iv) is accordingly replied.

56. The above discussions made it clear that the complainant has taken steps for service of summons and processes as required under Section 204 (4) CrPC and the accused has been acquitted without his facing trial in the complaint proceeding and there is no evidence available with the Magistrate after the post cognizance stage, which could warrant acquittal of the accused. Now, the points of concern is elaborated at point no. (v). To deal with this issue, the first and foremost point of concern is the scope of criminal revision provide under Section 397 to 402 CrPC, which deals with the power and scope of revisional jurisdiction exercised by the High Court and the Sessions Court. The revisional jurisdiction of Sessions court is required to be considered, because the revision has been filed before the Sessions Court and exercised by Additional Sessions Judge as per the provisions of Section 400 CrPC, which provides the exercise of all the powers under Chapter XXX(Reference and Revision) of CrPC by Additional Sessions Judge that could be exercised by the Sessions Judge. The provisions of Section 397, 398, 399 and 401 CrPC are reiterated underneath:-

"397. Calling for records to exercise powers of revision:-

(1)The High Court or any Sessions Judge may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within its or his local jurisdiction for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order, recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of any proceedings of such inferior Court, and may, when calling for such record, direct that the execution of any sentence or order be suspended, and if the accused is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond pending the examination of the record.

(2)The powers of revision conferred by sub-section (1) shall not be exercised in relation to any interlocutory order passed in any appeal, inquiry, trial or other proceeding.

(3)If an application under this section has been made by any person either to the High Court or to the Sessions Judge, no further application by the same person shall be entertained by the other of them.

398. Power to order inquiry:-

On examining any record under Section 397 or otherwise, the High Court or the Sessions Judge may direct the Chief Judicial Magistrate by himself or by any of the Magistrates subordinate to him to make, and the Chief Judicial Magistrate may himself make or direct any subordinate Magistrate to make, further inquiry into any complaint which has been dismissed under Section 203 or sub-section (4) of Section 204, or into the case of any person accused of an offence who has been discharged:

Provided that no Court shall make any direction under this Section for inquiry into the case of any person who has been discharged unless such person has had an opportunity of showing cause why such direction should not be made.

399.Sessions Judge□s powers of revision:-

(1) In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by himself, the Sessions Judge may exercise all or any of the powers which may be exercised by the High Court under sub-section (1) of Section 401.

(2) Where any proceedings by way of revision is commenced before a sessions Judge under sub-section (1), the provisions of sub-sections (2),(3),(4) and (5) of Section 401 shall, so far as may be, apply to such proceeding and references in the said sub-sections to the High Court shall be construed as references to the Sessions Judge.

(3)Where any application for revision is made by or on behalf of any person before the Sessions Judge, the decision of the Sessions Judge thereon in relation to such person shall be final and no further proceeding by way of revision at the instance of such person shall be entertained by the High Court or any other Court.

401. High Court□s powers of revision:-

(1)In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself or which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by Sections 386, 389, 390 and 391 or on a Court of Session by Section 307 and, when the Judges composing the Court of revision are equally divided in opinion, the case shall be disposed of in the manner provided by Section 392.

(2)No order under this section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused or other person unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.

(3)Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorise a High Court to convert a finding of acquittal into one of conviction.

(4) Where under this Code an appeal lies and no appeal is brought, no proceeding by way of revision shall be entertained at the instance of the party who could have appealed.

(5) Where under this Code an appeal lies but an application for revision has been made to the High Court by any person and the High Court is satisfied that such application was made under the erroneous belief that no appeal lies thereto and that it is necessary in the interests of justice so to do, the High Court may treat the application for revision as a petition of appeal and deal with the same accordingly."

57. The scope of revisional jurisdiction is considered by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Amit Kapoor Vs. Ramesh Chandra, (relevant paragraph 12 and 13), wherein it is held that the provisions of revision is to examine by a superior court when the order is grossly erroneous and intervention of superior revisional court is necessitated to prevent the abused of process of law, wherein the point of law is the prime concern of revisional court. Paragraph 12 and 13 are reiterated underneath:-

"12. The jurisdiction of the Court under Section 397 can be exercised so as to examine the correctness, legality or proprietary of an order passed by the trial court or the inferior court, as the case may be. Though the section does not specifically use the expression prevent abuse of process of any court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice, the jurisdiction under Section 397 is a very limited one. The legality, proprietary or correctness of an order passed by a court is the very foundation of exercise of jurisdiction under Section 397 but ultimately it also requires justice to be done. The jurisdiction could be exercised where there is palpable error, non-compliance with the provisions of law, the decision is completely erroneous or where the judicial discretion is exercised arbitrarily. On the other hand, Section 482 is based upon the maxim quando lex liquid alicuiconcedit, conceder videtur id quo res ipsa esse non protest, i.e., when the law gives anything to anyone, it also gives all those things without which the thing itself would be unavoidable. The Section confers very wide power on the Court to do justice and to ensure that the process of the Court is not permitted to be abused.

13. It may be somewhat necessary to have a comparative examination of the powers exercisable by the Court under these two provisions. There may be some overlapping between these two powers because both are aimed at securing the ends of justice and both have an element of discretion. But, at the same time, inherent power under Section 482 of the Code being an extraordinary and residuary power, it is inapplicable in regard to matters which are specifically provided for under other provisions of the Code. To put it simply, normally the court may not invoke its power under Section 482 of the Code where a party could have availed of the remedy available under Section 397 of the Code itself. The inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code are of a wide magnitude and are not as limited as the power under Section 397. Section 482 can be invoked where the order in question is neither an interlocutory order within the meaning of Section 397(2) nor a final order in the strict sense. Reference in this regard can be made to Raj Kapoor & Ors. v. State of Punjab & Ors. [AIR 1980 SC 258 : (1980) 1 SCC 43]. In this very case, this Court has observed that inherent power under Section 482 may not be exercised if the bar under Sections 397(2) and 397(3) applies, except in extraordinary situations, to prevent abuse of the process of the Court. This itself shows the fine distinction between the powers exercisable by the Court under these two provisions. In this very case, the Court also considered as to whether the inherent powers of the High Court under Section 482 stand repelled when the revisional power under Section 397 overlaps. Rejecting the argument, the Court said that the opening words of Section 482 contradict this contention because nothing in the Code, not even Section 397, can affect the amplitude of the inherent powers preserved in so many terms by the language of Section 482. There is no total ban on the exercise of inherent powers where abuse of the process of the Court or any other extraordinary situation invites the court's jurisdiction. The limitation is self-restraint, nothing more. The distinction between a final and interlocutory order is well known in law. The orders which will be free from the bar of Section 397(2) would be the orders which are not purely interlocutory but, at the same time, are less than a final disposal. They should be the orders which do determine some right and still are not finally rendering the Court functus officio of the lis. The provisions of Section 482 are pervasive. It should not subvert legal interdicts written into the same Code but, however, inherent powers of the Court unquestionably have to be read and construed as free of restriction."

58. While dealing the issue, this Court has already considered that there is no evidence on record, which had its logical end in acquittal of accused in absence of complainant, because the accused has never appeared for commencement of trial, which would be commenced, in the present case after putting the substance of accusation before the accused in pursuant to Section 251 CrPC, which provides "when in a summons-case the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate, the particulars of the offence of which he is accused shall be stated to him, and he shall be asked whether he pleads guilty or has any defence to make, but it shall not be necessary to frame a formal charge."

59. The judgments of the Hon□ble Supreme Court and the High Court dealt here-in-above specifically speaks about the filing of appeal for acquittal, invoking Section 378(4)CrPC, but the facts of present case is different from the facts of those cases, which are dealt with in the preceding paragraphs. Section 378 CrPC that deals with the appeal in case of acquittal is reiterated underneath:-

"378.Appeal in case of acquittal :-

(1) Save as otherwise provided in Sub-Section (2) and subject to the provisions of Sub-Sections (3) and (5),-

(a) the District Magistrate may, in any case, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the Court of Session from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of a cognizable and non-bailable offence;

(b) the State Government may, in any case, direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of an acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court [not being an order under clause (a) or an order of acquittal passed by the Court of Session in revision."

(2) If such an order of acquittal is passed in any case in which the offence has been investigated by the Delhi Special Police Establishment constituted under the Delhi Special Police Establishment Act, 1946 (25 of 1946) or by any other agency empowered to make investigation into an offence under any Central Act other than this Code, the Central Government may, subject to the provisions of Sub-Section (3), also direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal"

(a)to the Court of Session, from an order of acquittal passed by a Magistrate in respect of a cognizable and non-bailable offence;

(b)to the High Court from an original or appellate order of an acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court [not being an order under clause (a) or an order of acquittal passed by the Court of Session in revision.

(3) No appeal under Sub-Section (1) or Sub-Section (2) shall be entertained except with the leave of the High Court.

(4) If such an order of acquittal is passed in any case instituted upon complaint and the High Court, on an application made to it by the complainant in this behalf, grants special leave to appeal from the order of acquittal, the complainant may present such an appeal to the High Court.

(5) No application under Sub-Section (4) for the grant of special leave to appeal from an order of acquittal shall be entertained by the High Court after the expiry of six months, where the complainant is a public servant, and sixty days in every other case, computed from the date of that order of acquittal.

(6) If, in any case, the application under Sub-Section (4) for the grant of special leave to appeal from an order of acquittal is refused, no appeal from that order of acquittal shall lie under Sub-Section (1) or under Sub-Section (2).”

60. The meaning and definition of word “acquittal” is not provided in CrPC, but the wordly meaning of the word connotes that a formal finding by a court that the accused is not guilty of the offence charge. The acquittal could only be recorded when the prosecution fails to prove the case. In the present case, neither the accused appeared for hearing on charge nor the complainant was ever provided opportunity of producing the evidence. In such a situation, if the complainant is resorted to move an application for leave to appeal under Section 378(4) CrPC and the leave is granted by the court, that what would be before the appellate court for considering the justifiable evidence or material before the Magistrate for acquitting the accused?

61. Hence, the perception of this Court after deliberation of the entire facts and law on the point of preferring a revision or appeal in the present set of facts is right of preferring revision and not an appeal because the accused never appear for trial and acquittal of accused under Section 256 CrPC is an abuse of process of law and exercise of discretion which is not applicable to the Magistrate. Thus, point no. (v) is accordingly deliberated and decided.

61. As this Court has found that revision under Section 397 read with Section 399 and 401 CrPC is rightly invoked by the complainant, now the point of concern is whether the order passed by revisional court (Additional Sessions Judge), bad in the eye of law due to non-compliance of Section 401(2) CrPC, which deals with an opportunity of hearing to the accused, reiterates as “no order under this section shall be made to the prejudice of the accused or other persons unless he has had an opportunity of being heard either personally or by pleader in his own defence.” It is apparent from the face of revisional order that the accused did not appear, but the accused has not annexed the copy of order sheet of the revisional court on the point of issuance of notice and satisfaction of the court. However, the subsequent order sheet of Magistrate court is annexed, which reveals that from 10.04.2018 to 24.01.2024 continuous processes means, summons, bailable warrant and non-bailable warrant have been issued but accused did not appear and directly approach this Court invoking Section 482 CrPC. This shows that the accused is an unscrupulous litigant, whose main purpose is to ignore the processes of court and delay the proceedings of the case to any stretch.

62. The last point of argument of learned counsel for the accused is for quashing of the summoning order dated 25.02.2012 on the ground that the account is not maintained in the name of accused, which has been acknowledged by the complainant in his complaint and ignored by the Magistrate at the time of issuance of summons and relied upon the cases of Jugesh Sehgal(supra) and P.G.Agro Tech Ltd. (supra) but the plain reading of complaint does not show that the account is not maintained in the name of accused/applicant. Further, the complaint shows transaction between the parties with no involvement of the Company to invoke Section 141 NI Act.

Shiv Pujan Verma ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The appellant was accused of murdering his father with an axe and danda over a dispute regarding the sale of agricultural land.

Headnotes

A. Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder-Circumstantial evidence-Prosecution case based on motive of land dispute, extra judicial confession, and recovery of weapons-Failure of prosecution to complete the chain of circumstances-Complainant and Independent witnesses turning hostile-Extra –judicial confession deemed weak and unreliable as confession allegedly made to a village witness but denied during trial and also recovery memo not supported by independent witnesses who claimed signatures were obtained on blank papers under police pressure-Held, when the links in the chain of circumstances are broken and the evidence fails to unerringly point towards the guilt of accused, the benefit of doubt must accrue to the appellant-Conviction set aside.(Para 40 to 77)

Held

The court held that evidence of recovery and confession cannot be relied upon if the witnesses do not support the prosecution version during cross-examination. Also the testimony of hostile witnesses cannot be used to fill gaps in a case based purely on circumstantial evidence. The prosecution failed to provide eyewitness accounts or forensic links to the accused. The appeal is allowed. The appellant is acquitted. (E-6)

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No.- 79 OF 2008
Shiv Pujan Verma Vs. State of U.P.
From the judgment and order dated 13.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant :-
Sri S.S Imam Rizvi, Sri Diwakar Singh, Sri Rajiva Dubey
Adv. for Respondent:-
G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Zafeer Ahmad, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajiva Dubey learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Pawan Kumar Singh learned A.G.A for the State.

2. The aforesaid criminal appeal arises out of order and judgment dated 15.12.2007 passed by learned Sessions Judge , Balrampur in S.T. No. 48 of 2006 (State v. Shiv Pujan) arising out of case crime no. 06 of 2006 wherein the appellant has been convicted and sentenced to undergo life imprisonment u/s 302 Indian Penal Code (in short I.P.C).

Prosecution Case in Nutshell:

3. The prosecution case, in nutshell, is that the complainant Mangal Prasad Verma submitted a written report (Ex. Ka-1) at Police Station Jarwa, District Balrampur, stating therein that his father Shiv Pujan had two brothers, namely Munshi and Nibber. Shiv Pujan was the eldest, Munshi was the second and Nibber was the youngest. All the three brothers were living separately. The second brother Munshi used to reside with his parents, namely Ragunath and Kamla, in a seperate house situated at the edge of the forest. Furthermore, it was stated that on the morning of 17.01.2006, his uncle Nibber came and informed him that during the preceding night, some unknown persons had dragged Munshi (uncle), Ragunath (grandfather) and Kamla (grandmother) from the said house to the back side of the chak-road and assaulted them with sharp-edged weapons, resulting in their death. On receiving this information, the complainant rushed to the house of his grandfather and found that all the three had been murdered. It was further stated that his uncle Nibber had collected the dead bodies and placed them in the courtyard of the house.

4. On the basis of the aforesaid written report, a FIR was registered under Section 302 IPC against unknown persons (Ex. Ka-8) and corresponding entry was made in the general diary as entry no. 14 (Ex. Ka-9). The investigation was taken up by S.H.O. R.N. Gautam, who reached the place of occurrence and inspected the site. During inspection, samples of blood-stained and plain soil were collected (Ex. Ka-6) and a site plan of the place of occurrence was prepared (Ex. Ka-30).

5. The panchayatnama of the dead body of Smt. Kamla was prepared by S.I. A.P. Singh (Ex. Ka-4). On his directions, the dead body was duly sealed and the following papers were prepared: letter to R.I. (Ex. Ka-13), letter to C.M.O. (Ex. Ka-14), challan lash (Ex. Ka-15), sketch of the dead body (Ex. Ka-16) and sample seal (Ex. Ka-17). The panchayatnama of the dead body of Raghunath was prepared by S.I. Bhagirathi Tiwari (Ex. Ka-2). On his directions, the dead body was duly sealed and the following papers were prepared: letter to R.I. (Ex. Ka-18), letter to C.M.O. (Ex. Ka-19), challan lash (Ex. Ka-21), sketch of the dead body (Ex. Ka-20) and sample seal (Ex. Ka-22). Furthermore, the panchayatnama of the dead body of Munshi was prepared by S.I. A.P. Singh and S.I. Bhagirathi Tiwari (Ex. Ka-3). On his directions, the dead body was duly sealed and the following papers were prepared: letter to R.I. (Ex. Ka-23), letter to C.M.O. (Ex. Ka-24), challan lash (Ex. Ka-25), sketch of the dead body (Ex. Ka-26) and sample seal (Ex. Ka-27).

6. During the preparation of the panchayatnama of the dead body of Munshi, an application addressed to Police Station Jarwa, dated 14.01.2006, was recovered from the pocket of his jacket (Ex. Ka-29). The said application contained allegations against the accused Shiv Pujan. A recovery memo in respect of the said application was prepared at the place of occurrence and the same was attested by witnesses (Ex. Ka-28).

7. Further, on 17.01.2006 at about 8:30 P.M., an application was produced at the police station by constable Mahesh Prasad, which had been received through the office of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Tulsipur. The said application, dated 28.12.2005, had been submitted by the deceased Raghunath on Tehsil Diwas against his son Shiv Pujan, on which the Sub-Divisional Magistrate had passed directions on the same day. Along with the said application, other connected documents were also produced at the police station (Ex. Ka-31).

8. On 20.01.2006, Ram Niwas (brother of the complaint Mangal Prasad) and the accused Shiv Pujan were brought to the police station for interrogation and their statements were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. During the said interrogation, the accused Shiv Pujan confessed the commission of the offence and assured recovery of the axe and danda used in the incident. Thereafter, he was arrested and taken into custody. Pursuant to his disclosure statement, the accused was taken to the house of Raghunath, where a heap of dry sugarcane leaves was lying near a bullock cart placed in the eastern corner of the house, he caused the recovery of an axe and a danda from the said heap, stating that the same had been used by him in killing his parents and brother. A recovery memo of the said weapons was prepared and the same was attested by two independent witnesses, namely Mahendra Nath and Kuddan (Ex. Ka-5).

9. Upon completion of the investigation, a charge-sheet (Ex. Ka-33) under Section 302 IPC was submitted before the Court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate on 25.03.2006. Cognizance was taken and the case was committed to the Court of Session on 19.04.2006.

10. To prove its case, the prosecution examined ten witnesses, namely: PW-1 Mangal Prasad (complainant), PW-2 Ram Chhabiley, PW-3 Mahendra Nath, PW-4 Guddan, PW-5 Govardhan, PW-6 Lalta Prasad, PW-7 Ramashankar Chauhan (constable), PW8- Dr. H.P. Singh (post-mortem doctor), PW9- Ram Nihore Gautam, and PW-10 Israr Husain (constable).

11. Appellant has not produced any oral or documentary evidence in his defence. In his statement under Section 313 CrPC, the appellant denied having committed the crime. Thus, the appellant pleaded innocence.

12. Upon a comprehensive appraisal of the oral and documentary evidence on record, the learned Trial Court convicted the appellant to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC.

Submission made by learned counsel for the accused-appellant:-

13. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order are unsustainable in law and on facts. It was further argued that the Trial Court has erred in placing reliance upon the testimonies of the police witnesses, which, according to the learned counsel, suffer from material contradictions. It was further urged that there is no eyewitness to the occurrence and, therefore, the appellant has been falsely and wrongly implicated in the present case.

14. It was also argued that the entire prosecution case substantially rests upon the testimony of PW-2 Ram Chhabiley, which, according to the learned counsel, is unreliable and unworthy of credence. It was further argued that the judgement of the Trial Court is founded upon conjectures and surmises and on erroneous presumptions, rather than on cogent and trustworthy evidence. It was lastly argued that the appellant was not named in the first information report, which, according to the learned counsel, further weakens the prosecution case.

Submission made by learned A.G.A : -

15. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants. It was argued that the prosecution has successfully established the chain of circumstances pointing unerringly towards the guilt of the appellant and that no material infirmity or illegality has been committed by the Trial Court while recording the conviction. It was further argued that though the appellant was not named in the FIR, the subsequent investigation has clearly brought on record cogent material establishing the motive, conduct and involvement of the appellant in the commission of the offence. It was argued that the recovery of the weapon used during the offence at the instance of the appellant, the extra-judicial confession made by him, and the surrounding circumstances constitute a complete and unbroken chain pointing to his guilt.

16. Thus, learned A.G.A. submitted that the accused-appellants has rightly been convicted in accordance with law and sentenced accordingly. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order. It is further submitted that the appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which is liable to be dismissed.

Oral Testimonies:

In order to appreciate the issues arising in the present appeal, it is appropriate to examine, in brief, the oral evidence adduced by the prosecution.

17. PW-1 Mangal Prasad, son of the accused Shiv Pujan, deposed that his father had two brothers, namely Munshi and Nibber, Shiv Pujan being the eldest, Munshi the middle and Nibber the youngest. He further deposed that his father was residing separately in the village, whereas his grandfather Raghunath, grandmother Kamla and uncles Munshi and Nibber were residing in a house situated about one kilometre to the south of the village. He further deposed that on the night of the incident, Raghunath, Kamla, Munshi and Nibber were sleeping in the said house. He further deposed that in the morning following the occurrence, Nibber came to his house and informed him that during the night some unknown person had dragged Raghunath, Munshi and Kamla to the chak-road and had murdered them by using sharp-edged weapons and danda. Upon receiving this information, he along with his family members reached the spot and saw that all three had been killed. He further deposed that Nibber had brought the dead bodies to the courtyard of the house. He denied acquaintance with the village chowkidar and also denied having gone with him to the police station, though he admitted that the police subsequently came to the spot and thereafter he went to the police station, where a written application was prepared by the police. At this stage, he was declared hostile by the Trial Court.

18. During cross-examination, he denied having made any statement to the police regarding his arrival at the police station along with the village chowkidar and also denied the suggestion that he was deposing falsely to save his father. He further deposed that his uncle Munshi generally lived in a separate house in the village and only occasionally stayed with his grandfather. He further deposed that the second marriage of his uncle Nibber had taken place on the condition that some land would be transferred to his wife, and when Raghunath refused to do so, disputes arose between Nibber's in-laws, Nibber and his grandparents Raghunath and Kamla, due to which Nibber's wife left for her parental home. On being questioned by the Court as to who came into possession of Raghunath's agricultural land after the deaths of Ragunath and Munshi, he stated that he could not say whether the land was vacant or not. He further stated that he had one more uncle and that during chakbandi (consolidation proceedings) Ragunath had received about 12-14 bighas of abadi land, over which disputes existed between Moose, Bachchan, Gadde Yadav and Kalau Rajendra Walender. He further stated that after the murders of his grandfather, uncle and grandmother and after his father was sent to jail, the said land was taken over by Moose, Bachchan, Gadde, Kalu Rajendra and Walender. He further deposed that the three deceased persons were living together in the same house and that Nibber's wife was not present on the date of occurrence as she had gone to her parental home after a quarrel. He further deposed that he was informed about the murders on the following morning, whereafter his entire family reached the place of occurrence on receiving the information from his uncle. He further deposed that his uncle Nibber and his father had went with the dead bodies to Gonda for post-mortem examination and that in his presence no articles were recovered from the bodies of his uncle, grandmother and grandfather.

19. PW-2, Ram Chhabiley, deposed that about 15□20 days prior to the occurrence, he had met deceased Raghunath, who informed him that his son Shiv Pujan had threatened to kill him. He further deposed that frequent quarrels used to take place between Raghunath and the accused over agricultural land and that Raghunath had categorically stated that Shiv Pujan would not receive any share in the land during his lifetime. He further deposed that two days after the occurrence, in the afternoon hours, Shiv Pujan met him and made a confession stating that he had murdered his father Raghunath, his mother Kamla and his brother Munshi. He further stated that the accused requested him to use his influence with the police to save him. Upon being questioned as to why he had killed his mother, the accused replied that he had done so in order that no witness might remain alive.

20. During cross-examination, he deposed that he was not present in the village on the date of occurrence and returned on the following day. He further deposed that the house of deceased Munshi Verma was situated adjacent to the house of Govardhan Yadav and that Munshi and his brother Nibber used to stay alternately with their parents. He stated that the land on which Munshi had constructed his hut was not patta land but was abadi land belonging to the Gram Samaj. He further deposed that Shiv Pujan had earlier assisted Munshi in obtaining land from the village Pradhan. He further deposed that he used to frequently meet deceased Raghunath. He admitted that he was involved in proceedings under Section 151 Cr.P.C. with deceased Munshi Verma about one years prior to the incident, though he denied that the said proceedings were related to any land dispute. He further deposed that Nibber□s first wife had left him and that the in-laws of his second marriage were primarily interested in the family property, but Raghunath had refused to transfer any land in favour of Nibber□s wife. He further stated that Nibber possessed no property of his own and that the entire agricultural land stood in the name of Raghunath. He further deposed that Raghunath had ongoing land disputes with villagers namely Moose, Gudde, Bachchan, Atau and Ghirau in respect of land near the Nevalgarh Dam, and that Shiv Pujan himself had earlier submitted an application at the police station on behalf of his father regarding said dispute.

21. PW-3, Mahendra Nath, deposed that upon receiving information regarding the murder of Munshi, Raghunath and Smt. Kamla of village Pehalwan Purva, he reached the said village. He further deposed that the Inspector conducted the panchayatnama of the dead bodies of Raghunath, Munshi Verma and Smt. Kamla at the place of occurrence and, after sealing the dead bodies in cloth, sent them to Gonda for post-mortem examination. He further deposed that the panchayatnama of all the deceased persons was prepared on the spot by the Station House Officer. He further deposed that on 20.01.2006 the accused Shiv Pujan was neither arrested nor produced before him and that the police did not interrogate Shiv Pujan in his presence. He further deposed that the accused did not lead to any recovery of the alleged murder weapons, namely axe or danda, in his presence, nor did the police prepare any recovery memo in his presence. Upon being shown paper no. 4/13, he admitted that the signatures appearing thereon were his, but deposed that his signatures were obtained by the Inspector on a blank paper. At this stage, the witness was declared hostile in the Trial Court.

22. During cross-examination, he stated that to his knowledge the Investigating Officer had not recorded any of his statement. When his alleged statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was read over to him, he stated that he had not made any such statement to the Investigating Officer and could not explain how the Investigating Officer had recorded the same. He denied the suggestion that he had colluded with the accused and was deliberately not speaking the truth before the Court in order to protect him. He further denied the suggestion that the murder weapon, namely axe, was recovered in his presence, that he had appended his signatures on the recovery memo of the murder weapons, or that any written recovery memo was prepared and read over to him in his presence.

23. PW-4, Guddan, son of Dhagai and resident of Jugulmaria, deposed that on the morning of 17.01.2006, accused Shiv Pujan came to his house in village Pahalwan Purva and informed him that during the preceding night, some unknown person had murdered his father, mother and brother. He further deposed that upon receiving the said information, he went to the place of occurrence and was present when the police prepared the panchayatnama of the three deceased persons, namely Raghunath, Kamla and Munshi. He further deposed that no letter was recovered from the pocket of the jacket of deceased Munshi in his presence. He further deposed that he did not witness the arrest of the accused Shiv Pujan, nor did he see the police interrogate him. He further deposed that no recovery of axe or danda was made in his presence. Upon being shown the recovery memo, the witness admitted that the signatures appearing thereon were his, but deposed that the Inspector filled up the memo and thereafter obtained his signatures. At this stage, the witness was declared hostile in the Trial Court.

24. During cross-examination, he stated that the inspector had not recorded his statement. When his alleged statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was read over to him, he deposed that he had not made any such statement to the inspector and could not explain how the inspector had recorded the same. He further deposed that he is illiterate and is only aware of how to sign his name. He denied the suggestion that he had colluded with the accused and was deliberately not speaking the truth before the Court in order to protect him. He admitted that he is the Pradhan of the village of Shiv Pujan and further admitted that Shiv Pujan had remained his supporter. He denied the suggestion that the murder weapons, namely axe and danda, were recovered in his presence, that he had appended his signatures on the recovery memo of the murder weapons, or that any written recovery memo was prepared and read over to him.

25. PW-5 Govardhan, a neighbour of the deceased Raghunath, deposed that his agricultural land is situated near the house of Raghunath. He deposed that on the day of the incident, he had gone to inspect his land and to ease himself at around 6:00-7:00 p.m., though he could not specify the exact time as he is illiterate and unable to accurately assess time. He deposed that when he proceeded some distance near a brick structure, he saw deceased Ragunath and Munshi coming from that side in a bullock cart. He further deposed that after Munshi reached his house, he heard Munshi saying “kon ho?” and “tum kya kar rahe ho?”, but he could not hear the second voice. He further deposed that he heard only the voices of Munshi and Raghunath and did not hear the voice of any other person. He further deposed that he neither saw nor heard the voice of Shiv Pujan at the spot. He further deposed that his statement was recorded by the Inspector. He also stated that he did not hear any cries for help from Munshi or Raghunath. At this stage, the witness was declared hostile in the Trial Court.

26. During cross-examination, he deposed that he did not inform the Inspector that he had heard cries of Munshi and Raghunath for help or that they were being beaten with a danda. He denied having heard the voices of Munshi, Raghunath or Shiv Pujan at the time of the incident and stated that he had only informed the Inspector that he had seen Raghunath and Munshi while they were coming in a bullock cart. He further deposed that he was not aware of any dispute involving the parties and admitted that he had friendly relations with Shiv Pujan. He denied the suggestion that he was deposing falsely before the Court due to fear or pressure from the accused. He denied the suggestion that his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. had been correctly recorded by the Inspector in accordance with what he had stated. He further denied the suggestion that he had heard the voices of deceased Munshi and Raghunath or of accused Shiv Pujan at the time of the incident and that he was deliberately suppressing the truth before the Court. He further deposed that Munshi and Raghunath had no enmity with anyone in the village, though there was some dispute with one Gudde regarding agricultural land, and that on some occasions he had heard quarrel between Shiv Pujan and Raghunath, with regards to share in the property.

27. PW-6 Lalta Prasad, elder brother of deceased Raghunath, deposed that Raghunath possessed about 26-27 bighas of land at his maternal village Pahalwan Purva and had three sons, namely Shiv Pujan (the eldest), Munshi, and Nibbar (the youngest). He deposed that Shiv Pujan had been residing separately from his parents and brothers for about seven to eight years prior to the occurrence. He further deposed that Shiv Pujan had approached him requesting that he influence Raghunath to give him about five bighas of land for cultivation; to which Raghunath agreed. He further deposed that as per his knowledge there was no dispute between Raghunath and Shiv Pujan.

28. During cross-examination, he stated that the second marriage of the youngest son Nibbar was solemnised on the condition that Raghunath would transfer land in the name of Nibbar’s wife.

When Raghunath refused to do so, disputes arose between Raghunath and Nibbar's in-laws. He further deposed that Raghunath had informed him that threats were being extended by Nibbar's in-laws on account of the property dispute. He further deposed that a portion of Raghunath's land was acquired for the Sarju Canal, for which compensation was paid, and that several villagers, namely Ghirau, Moose, Gudde, Bachchan and Atau, were desirous of occupying the said land. He further deposed that after the deaths of Raghunath, Munshi and Kamla and the subsequent incarceration of Shiv Pujan, the aforesaid villagers occupied the land and have remained in possession thereof till date.

29. PW-7, Ramashankar Chauhan, C.P. 254 Police Station, Uska Bazaar, Siddarth Nagar, depsoed that on 17.01.2006 he was posted as head constable in Kotwali Jarwa police station. He further deposed that on the basis of written complaint of Mangal Prasad Verma he filed a chik FIR No, 2/06, case crime no. 6/06 under Section 302 IPC (Ext. Ka-8). He further deposed that he made the entry of same as entry no. 14 on 17.01.2006 at around 9-10 AM (Ext. Ka-9).

30. No cross-examination of PW-7 was done.

31. PW-8 Dr. H.P. Singh, Consultant Surgeon, District Hospital, Gonda deposed that on 18.01.2006 he was posted at District Hospital Gonda and on that day he conducted the post-mortem of deceased Smt. Kamla, who was brought in sealed cover condition by constable 225 Bachanram and constable 330 Israr Husain of police station Jarwa. On external examination, it was found that the rigor mortis had passed in the upper limbs and was beginning to subside in the lower legs. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the deceased's body:

Injury No. 1: Lacerated wound on forehead measuring 8cm X 6cm X bone deep, 3 cm above the tips of the eyes. There was no fracture.

Injury No. 2: Contusion measuring 4cm X 2cm, which was 2 cm lateral to the right angle of the mouth. There was no fracture of Mandible.

Injury No. 6: Contusion with a swelling on both sides of the front chest, 2cm below the medial end of left clavicle measuring 12 cm X 12cm.

Injury No. 8: Rib bone 2nd to 6th on the right side and 2nd to 9th on the left were broken.

Injury No. 7: Multiple contusion on right thigh, lacerated 10 cm above the right knee, measuring 8 cm X 8 cm.

The left lung was severely lacerated and the pleural cavity was filled. All other organs were normal. The teeth were 9/8 in numbers. There was fluid in the stomach. There was faecal matter in the large intestine. He opined that she could have died from excessive bleeding and shock due to the ante-mortem injuries. Further he opined that she could have died between 36 to 48 hours from the time of post-mortem examination.

32. Furthermore, on the same day at 1:35 PM, he also examined the dead body of deceased Raghunath, who was brought by same constable namely, Bechanram and Israr Hussain. On external examination, he found that the rigor mortis had passed in the upper body and was almost passed in the lower body. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the deceased's body:

Injury No. 1: Lacerated wound measuring 3cm X 1 1/2cm X deep to bone was present at the junction of the eye and forehead. The nasal bone was fractured and the right lower part of the frontal bone was fractured.

Injury No. 2: Lacerated wound measuring 3cmX 1cmX bone deep on the right side of the chin. The lower jaw bone of the right side was fractured and the teeth were protruding and dislodged.

Injury No. 3: Lacerated wound measuring 3cm X 1cm deep to bone, behind the right ear.

Injury No. 4: Lacerated wound measuring 1cm X 1 cm X on the right arm, 12 cm below the right shoulder deep upto bone. The humerus bone of the arm was fractured.

Injury no. 5: Lacerated wound measuring 3cm X 2cm X bone deep on the left forearm, 6cm above the left wrist. Both the radius and ulna bones of the forearm were fractured.

Injury No. 6: Lacerated wound measuring 6cm X 1 1/2 cm X deep up to bone in left leg 12 cm below knee.

Injury No. 7: Multiple abrasions with swelling on the front of the chest, 1cm below the suprasternal notch. Rib bone 2nd to 5th on the left side and 2nd to 9th on the right side were broken and the lung cavity was filled with blood. The liver on the right side was ruptured and the stomach cavity was completely filled with blood. The deceased had 14/ 11 teeth, his stomach was empty and his heart was also empty but there was blood in the heart membrane. Brain was not liquidified. Further, he opined that the Ragunath died due to excessive bleeding and shock caused by the ante-mortem injuries on his body. He may have passed away between 36 to 48 hours prior to the time of post-mortem examination.

33. Furthermore, on the same day at 4:15 PM, he conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased Munshi Verma, who was brought by the same constables as stated above. On external examination, he found that the rigor mortis had passed in the upper body and was beginning to subside in the lower body. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:

Injury No. 2: Incised wound on the right side of the face about 5cm below the ear measuring 5cm X 5cm X deep to the bone. The jaw bone was fractured.

Injury No. 3: Multiple lacerated wounds on right side of the face, 1cm above the injury no. 2, measuring 6cmX 3cm X deep up to bone.

Injury No. 4: Lacerated wound on the right side of the head 5 1/2 cm above the right eyebrow measuring 6cm X 1cm X deep up to bone.

Injury No. 6: Multiple contusions on the chest 4cm below suprasternal notch. The seventh rib on the left side and rib 2nd to 6th on the right side along with middle bone (sternum) were fractured.

On internal examination he found that the right lung membrane and lung were ruptured. The deceased had 11/10 teeth, stomach contained black digested food, the large and small intestines were empty, brain was not liquidified. He opined that the death may have occurred due to bleeding and shock caused by the ante-mortem injuries and he may have passed away between 36 to 48 hours from the time of post-mortem examination.

34. He further deposed that in his opinion the cut wound on the body of Munshi could have likely been caused by a sharp weapon such as an axe and the contusions and lacerated wounds on the bodies of all the deceased could have been caused by a hard and blunt object like a lathi. He further opined that all the deceased may have died sometime during the night of January 16th/17th, 2006 and the injuries inflicted on all the deceased were sufficient to cause the death.

35. During cross-examination, he deposed that under normal circumstance it takes four hours for the food to pass through the stomach. He further deposed that no food was found in the stomachs of deceased Kamla and Ragunath, and black type digested food was found in the stomach of deceased Munshi, which was not recognizable as to what type of the food it was. He further deposed that looking at the contusions and lacerated wounds of all the deceased it would not be possible to conclude as to whether they were caused by same weapon or different weapon.

36. PW-9, Ram Nihor Gautam, DCRV police line Balrampur, Balrampur deposed that on 17.01.2006 he was posted as inspector-in-charge at police station Kotwali Jarwa. He further deposed that on the same day, he had registered a case crime number 06/06, on the bases of the written complaint of Mangal Prasad Verma, under Section 302 IPC and he himself took up the investigation of the case. He further deposed that thereafter he along with constable Ramshankar Chauhan, S.S.I Sri Arvind Pratap Singh, S.S.I. Sri Bhagirathi Tiwari, CP 244 Naval Bihari Pandey, SI CP 225 Bechan Prasad, CP 330 Israr Hussain, CP 361 Radhey Shyam Sharma, H.G. Somai

Prasad, and Pawan Kumar left for the place of the occurrence. He further deposed that after reaching the place of occurrence he recorded the statement of Mangal Prasad. He further deposed that after the witnesses of the panchayatnama were appointed, panchayatnama of dead body of deceased Kamla and Munshi were prepared and after sealing the bodies in separate clothes and stamping them, they were handed over to constable 330 Israr Hussain, constable 225 Bachan Ram and SI Bhagirathi Tiwari for post-mortem. He further deposed that he had prepared the panchayatnama of dead body of Kamla (Ext. Ka-4). He further deposed that on his instruction SI A.P. Singh had prepared letter to RI, letter to CMO, challan lash, sketch of the dead body, and sample of the seal (Ext. Ka-13 to Ka-17). He further deposed that on his instruction the panchayatnama of dead body of Raghunath Verma was prepared by SI Bhagirathi Tiwari (Ext. Ka-2) along with letter to RI, letter to CMO, challan lash, sketch of the dead body, and sample of the seal (Ext. Ka-18 to Ka-22). He further deposed that he had also prepared the panchayatnama of dead body of Munshi Verma (Ext. Ka-3). He further deposed that on his instruction SI Bhagirathi Tiwari and SI A.P. Singh prepared letter to RI, letter to CMO, challan lash, sketch of the dead body, and sample of the seal (Ext. Ka- 23 to Ka-27). He further deposed that while preparing the panchayatnama of dead body of Munshi, an application dated 14.01.2006 was found, addressed to Jarwa police station, against the accused Shiv Pujan and his son. He further deposed that memo of recovery for this application was prepared and it was attested by the witnesses (Ext. Ka-28). He further deposed that the application was taken into custody along with paper number 4/5 (Ext. Ka-29). He further deposed that on 17.01.2006 statement of Nibber was recorded and thereafter the place of occurrence was inspected and a site map was prepared (Ext. Ka-30). He further deposed that on the same day, after the panchayatnama were prepared, plain soil and blood-stained soil were collected from the place of occurrence, placed in separate boxes, sealed and stamped, and single memo for all of them was prepared (Ext. Ka-6). He further deposed that on 17.01.2006 at about 8:30 PM an application dated 28.12.2005 submitted by deceased Raghunath at tehsil diwas against Shiv Pujan and his son was received through the office of S.D.M., Tulsipur and an entry in this regard was made (Ext. Ka-31). He further deposed that SDM, Tulsipur took action on the said application on 28.12.2005. He further deposed that on 20.01.2006 Ramnivas, brother of Mangal Prasad, and accused Shiv Pujan were called to the police station for questioning. He further deposed that the statement of witness Govardhan and Ram Chhabiley were recoded under Section 161 CrPC. He further deposed that thereafter, statement of accused Shiv Pujan was recorded, wherein he confessed to his crime and assured the recovery of the murder weapon, an axe and danda. He further deposed that thereafter accused Shiv Pujan was arrested and taken into custody. He further deposed that public witnesses Mahendra Nath and Kuddan along with accused Shiv Pujan were taken to place of occurrence, where accused took to police to a pile of dry sugarcane leaves near the bullock cart in the eastern corner of Ragunath□s house and from that pile accused himself searched for an axe and a danda, and told that he had killed his parents and brother with the same. He further deposed that after taking possession of the danda and axe, the same were kept in a cloth, sealed and stamped. He further deposed that a memo of the recovery of the murder weapon was prepared at the spot and it was attested by the witnesses (Ext. Ka-5). He further deposed that on the same day, the site plan of the recovery of murder weapon was prepared (Ext Ka-32). He further deposed that on 22.01.2006 statement of Lalta, brother of deceased Ragunath, was recorded wherein he stated that he had bequeathed the property situated in village Pehalwan Purva to the deceased Ragunath (copy of will is marked as Ext. Ka-7). He further deposed that after sufficient evidence against the accused, the charge-sheet was filed in the court on 07.03.2006 (Ext. Ka-33).

37. During cross-examination, he deposed that he received the information of the incident on 17.01.2006 at around 9:10 AM, when he was present at the police station. He further deposed that Mangal came along with the chowkidar for registering FIR. He further deposed that in the panchayatnama of the all three deceased, as per the FIR, it was mentioned that a sharp-edge weapon was used for the murder however, on inspecting the dead bodies and the injuries it was difficult to conclude whether or not such weapon was used and therefore the bodies were sent for post-mortem examination. He further denied the suggestion that injury was shown on the basis of recovery of an axe and he also denied the suggestion that after inspecting the lacerated wounds of the dead bodies he had shown the recovery of danda. He further deposed that it appeared to him that the Raghunath□s right hand was broken and twisted and therefore he had mentioned the same in panchayatnama. He further deposed that the application, which was recovered from the pocket of deceased Munshi during panchayatnama, was not shown by him to Superintendent of Police or District Magistrate or any other officer and on that application, there was no signature or thumb impression of deceased Munshi. He further deposed that the said application was taken into custody. The same was seen by the witnesses, however, it was difficult to conclude that who had written the said application. He further denied the suggestion that a wrong entry was made in the panchayatnama, and initially nothing was recovered and later by cutting the entry he showed the recovery. He further deposed that on 16.01.2006 Nibber went for a bhandara in a temple. He further denied the suggestion that Nibber did not stay in the bhandara. He further deposed that the entry regarding the application given on tehsil diwas (Ext. Ka-34) was made on 17.01.2006 at around 8:30 PM. He further deposed that he had not verified the thumb impression of deceased Ragunath which was affixed on the said application because no record containing the thumb impression could be obtained. He further deposed that the accused had not revealed him that from where had the accused obtained the danda. He further deposed that the appellant did not disclose the source of the danda and admitted that no thumb impressions were obtained from the axe or the danda. He further denied the suggestion that he had concealed the real culprits and falsely named Shiv Pujan and sent to jail on the basis of fake seizures. He further denied the suggestion that he had presented a fake application and fabricated witnesses' statements.

38. PW-10, Israr Hussain, C.P. 330, Police Station Kotwali Jarwa, District Balrampur, deposed that on 17.01.2006 he was posted at Police Station Jarwa and accompanied the Inspector to the place of occurrence. He further deposed that the panchayatnama's of the deceased Kamla Devi, Raghunath and Munshi were prepared at the spot (Ext. Ka-2, Ka-3 and Ka-4 respectively). He further deposed that thereafter the dead bodies were separately wrapped in cloth, duly sealed, and the relevant papers pertaining to the dead bodies were handed over to him and constable Bechan Ram for taking the same for post-mortem examination at Gonda. He further deposed that while the dead bodies remained in his custody, the seals remained intact and no unauthorised person was permitted to touch, inspect or disturb the dead bodies until they were delivered to the post-mortem doctor. He further deposed that upon delivery, identification of the dead bodies was carried out by the doctor and post-mortem examination was thereafter conducted. He further deposed that he collected the post-mortem reports and submitted the same at the police station.

39. During cross-examination, he deposed that at the time when the dead bodies were being shifted for preparation of panchayatnama, Raghunath's son Nibbar was present, whereas the accused Shiv Pujan did not accompany them. He further deposed that he had personally seen the dead bodies before attesting his signatures on the relevant documents and had signed the papers at the direction of the Inspector.

Court Analysis:

Effect of Extra-Judicial Confession:

40. The conviction of the appellant substantially rests upon the extra-judicial confession attributed to him before PW-2 Ram Chhabiley. It is, therefore, necessary to examine the evidentiary value of such confession in the light of settled principles of criminal jurisprudence.

41. The evidentiary value of an extra-judicial confession has been examined in detail by the Supreme Court in Sahadevan v. State of T.N., (2012) 6 SCC 403, wherein the apex court held that in cases founded upon circumstantial evidence, where the prosecution relies upon an extra-judicial confession, the Court must subject such evidence to a greater degree of scrutiny, and the onus lies upon the prosecution to establish a complete chain of circumstances unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused. Furthermore, the apex court held:

"16. …. (i) The extra-judicial confession is a weak evidence by itself. It has to be examined by the court with greater care and caution.

(ii) It should be made voluntarily and should be truthful.

(iii) It should inspire confidence.

(iv) An extra-judicial confession attains greater credibility and evidentiary value if it is supported by a chain of cogent circumstances and is further corroborated by other prosecution evidence.

(v) For an extra-judicial confession to be the basis of conviction, it should not suffer from any material discrepancies and inherent improbabilities.

(vi) Such statement essentially has to be proved like any other fact and in accordance with law."

42. Applying the aforesaid settled principles to the facts of the present case, this Court finds that the alleged extra-judicial confession attributed to the appellant before PW-2 Ram Chhabiley does not satisfy the litmus tests. Firstly, PW-2 does not occupy any position of authority nor has the prosecution established any special relationship of trust between him and the appellant which would render it natural for the appellant to confess a heinous triple murder. The witness himself admits that he was not present in the village on the date of occurrence and returned only on the following day. There is no convincing explanation as to why the appellant would voluntarily choose PW-2 as the confidant of such a serious admission.

43. Secondly, the conduct of PW-2 is wholly inconsistent with ordinary human behaviour. Despite claiming that the appellant confessed to having committed a heinous triple murder and sought his help to manage the police, PW-2 did not inform any authority, village elders, or police officials immediately. Such unnatural silence is inconsistent with ordinary human conduct and considerably weakens the credibility of his version.

44. The Court also cannot lose sight of the fact that PW-2 admitted previous involvement in proceedings under Section 151 Cr.P.C. with deceased Munshi and also admitted the existence of long-standing land disputes involving the deceased family and other villagers. These circumstances indicate the possibility of underlying village factionalism and provide a fertile ground for false implication.

45. In view of the aforesaid, the alleged extra-judicial confession, standing alone and unsupported by unimpeachable corroboration, does not inspire the confidence of this Court. It is unsafe to base a conviction solely or substantially on such a shaky piece of evidence. The Trial Court, in placing heavy reliance upon the extra-judicial confession of PW-2, has not subjected the same to the degree of scrutiny mandated by law. Consequently, the evidentiary value of the said confession is found to be weak and insufficient to independently sustain the conviction.

Validity of Statements Recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and Credibility of the Alleged Recovery of Murder Weapons:

46. The prosecution has also placed reliance upon the statement allegedly made by the appellant during police interrogation and leading to the recovery of an axe and danda claimed to be used in the commission of the offence. The said recovery is stated to have been effected on the basis of the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

47. At the outset, it is necessary to notice the settled position of law that a statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. is not substantive evidence. Such statement can only be utilized for the limited purpose of contradiction in accordance with Section 145 of the Evidence Act. Any confession made to a police officer is hit by Sections 25 and 26 of the Evidence Act and is inadmissible in evidence. Only that portion of a statement which leads to the discovery of a fact may be admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act, provided the discovery is proved to be genuine, voluntary and trustworthy.

48. In the present case, the alleged recovery of the axe and danda is sought to be proved through PW-3 Mahendra Nath and PW-4 Guddan, both cited as independent witnesses to the recovery memo. However, both these witnesses have not supported the prosecution version. They have denied that any recovery was effected in their presence and have stated that their signatures were obtained on blank papers or that they were made to sign without knowing the contents. Both witnesses were declared hostile. Their testimony, therefore, substantially weakens the prosecution version regarding the alleged recovery.

49. What remains thereafter is the solitary testimony of the Investigating Officer regarding the recovery. It is true that a recovery can be proved even through the testimony of a police officer alone; however, when independent witnesses are admittedly available and cited, but they disown the recovery, the Court is required to exercise greater caution before placing reliance solely on official testimony, particularly in a case resting entirely on circumstantial evidence.

50. In such circumstances, the alleged recovery, which is founded primarily upon a police statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and is unsupported by independent corroboration, does not inspire confidence. The prosecution has failed to establish the recovery as a reliable incriminating circumstance against the appellant. Therefore, the said recovery cannot be treated as a strong or conclusive link in the chain of circumstantial evidence.

Effect of Absence of Eyewitness and Failure of the Prosecution to Establish a Complete Chain of Circumstantial Evidence:

51. Admittedly, the prosecution case does not rest upon any direct ocular testimony. No witness has come forward to claim that he had seen the accused committing the murders of Raghunath, Kamla and Munshi. The case is, therefore, founded entirely on circumstantial evidence.

52. It is well settled that where a conviction is sought to be based solely on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution is under a heavy burden to establish a complete and unbroken chain of circumstances which must point unerringly towards the guilt of the accused and must exclude every possible hypothesis consistent with his innocence. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, the Hon'ble Supreme Court laid down the celebrated "five golden principles" (panchsheel) governing cases based on circumstantial evidence, namely:

(i) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must be fully established;

(ii) the facts so established must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused;

(iii) the circumstances must be of a conclusive nature and tendency;

(iv) they must exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved; and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

53. Furthermore, mere recovery of the alleged weapon of assault is not sufficient by itself to record a conviction in cases bases purely on circumstantial evidence particularly when the chain of circumstances is not complete. The Supreme Court consistently held that conviction in circumstantial evidence cases requires a complete and unbroken chain of circumstances that points unerringly and exclusively to the guilt of the accused, and is inconsistent with any hypothesis of innocence. This principle was laid down in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra). Mere recovery of weapon, even if blood-stained or matching victim's blood group via FSL/forensic report, does not fulfil this requirement on its own. The apex court in Raja Naykar v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2024) 3 SCC 481 held that mere recovery of blood-stained weapon, even bearing the same blood group as the victim, is insufficient to prove the charge of murder unless the recovery is convincingly linked to the crime and forms part of a complete and unbroken chain of incriminating circumstances.

54. Therefore, recovery alone, even with a matching FSL report, cannot sustain a conviction without strong corroborative evidence connecting the accused to the crime scene, motive, act etc. If the chain breaks or leaves room for a reasonable doubt - for example, where recovery is made from an open or public place easily accessible to others or where there is no eyewitness or where witnesses have turned hostile, the accused is entitled to acquittal. In cases based entirely on circumstantial evidence, the factum of recovery of the weapon of assault must be dealt with great caution as suspicion, howsoever strong, cannot take the place of, nor substitute, the proof beyond reasonable doubt. In this context, reference may also be taken from the case of Mustkeem alias Sirajudeen v. State of Rajasthan, (2011) 11 SCC 724.

55. When the prosecution evidence in the present case is tested on the anvil of the aforesaid settled principles, it becomes apparent that the chain of circumstances is far from complete. Furthermore, the ratio of the case of Nanhar & Ors. v. State of Haryana, (2010) 11 SCC 423 relied upon by the learned counsel for the appellant, on the aspect of circumstantial evidence would be applicable in the present case.

56. There is no “last seen” evidence or eyewitness account. PW-5 Govardhan, who was examined as a witness who alleged to be present near the place of occurrence, has stated that he neither saw nor heard the appellant at the relevant time and did not hear any cries for help from the deceased. This testimony, instead of strengthening the prosecution case, seriously weakens it.

57. The alleged recovery of the axe and danda has not been supported by any independent/public witnesses, and PW-3 Mahendra Nath and PW-4 Guddan, have denied of witnessing any recovery at the instance of the appellant. Their evidence renders the alleged recovery wholly unreliable.

58. The recovery of the alleged incriminating application from the pocket of deceased Munshi also becomes suspicious, as the panch witnesses to the inquest have not supported such recovery.

59. Even the alleged extra-judicial confession made to PW-2 Ram Chhabiley, which has been projected as the main link in the chain, does not inspire confidence and lacks independent corroboration.

60. Thus, the circumstances relied upon by the prosecution neither stand firmly proved nor form a continuous and unbroken chain. They do not point exclusively towards the guilt of the appellant, nor do they exclude other reasonable hypotheses consistent with his innocence.

61. In such a scenario, the conviction cannot be sustained, as suspicion, however strong, cannot take the place of legal proof. The prosecution having failed to satisfy the panchsheel laid down in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra), the benefit of doubt must necessarily enure to the appellant.

Motive Alone Cannot Sustain Conviction:

62. Much emphasis has been laid by the prosecution upon the alleged motive arising out of the property dispute between the appellant Shiv Pujan and the deceased Raghunath and Munshi. The evidence on record does indicate that there were differences within the family regarding partition and enjoyment of land. However, it is a settled principle of criminal law that motive, even if assumed to be established, cannot by itself be made the sole basis for sustaining a conviction.

63. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Mahendra Singh & Ors. v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2022) 7 SCC 157, has held "it is well settled that only because motive is established, the conviction cannot be sustained" and the reliance taken by the applleant on this aspect is correct. Thus, it can be said that motive may provide a background for the occurrence, but it does not dispense with the requirement of proving the involvement of the accused in the commission of the crime through reliable and cogent evidence.

64. Ld. A.G.A. vehemently argued that the application allegedly recovered from the pocket of the jacket worn by the deceased (Ext. Ka-29) (paper no. 4/5) constitutes an incriminating circumstance against the appellant and lends assurance to the prosecution case. This Court has examined the said submission in the light of the evidence available on record.

65. The prosecution seeks to rely upon the alleged recovery of the application during the preparation of the inquest proceeding. However, PW-4 Guddan, who was cited as an independent witness to the proceedings, has denied that any such letter was recovered in his presence. He further admitted his signatures on the recovery memo pertaining to the alleged recovery of the murder weapon (Ext. Ka-5), yet stated that the same were obtained after the Inspector procured his signatures on blank papers. Such testimony casts a serious shadow upon the authenticity of the documentary proceedings relied upon by the prosecution. When an independent witness disowns the recovery and alleges that signatures were obtained without knowledge of the contents, the evidentiary value of the document becomes doubtful and cannot be accepted without caution.

66. It is equally relevant to notice that the alleged application recovered from the pocket of the deceased has not been proved through unimpeachable evidence. The Investigating Officer himself admitted that the document bore neither signature nor thumb impression of the deceased and that its authorship could not be verified. In the absence of proper proof of origin and authenticity, such recovery cannot be elevated to the status of a reliable incriminating circumstance. The said circumstance, therefore, fails to strengthen the chain of evidence sought to be established by the prosecution.

67. The prosecution has also attempted to rely upon the conduct of the appellant in not lodging the FIR and in not accompanying certain proceedings as indicative of guilt. This Court is unable to subscribe to such submission. Evidence of conduct must be evaluated within the meaning of Section 8 of the Evidence Act and must be such as clearly points towards culpability. On the contrary, the record indicates that the appellant participated in the inquest proceedings. Had he been the perpetrator of the crime, his presence in such formal proceedings cannot be lightly construed as adverse conduct. Likewise, mere absence at the time of lodging of the FIR or failure to take particular steps does not automatically give rise to an inference of guilt. Human conduct varies widely, and criminal liability cannot be fastened on speculative assumptions regarding behaviour.

68. Therefore, neither the alleged recovery of the application nor the conduct attributed to the appellant constitutes a dependable incriminating circumstance. These factors, when examined in the light of the entire evidence on record, do not advance the prosecution case and instead reinforce the doubts already noticed in the chain of circumstances.

69. In the present case, apart from the alleged and rather weak motive, there is no evidence connecting the appellant with the occurrence. The case of the prosecution rests entirely on circumstantial evidence. Moreover, the circumstances relied upon by the prosecution do not form a complete and unbroken chain so as to point unerringly towards the guilt of the appellant and to rule out every hypothesis consistent with his innocence.

70. Therefore, even if the existence of motive is accepted, the same cannot, in the absence of a complete and reliable chain of circumstantial evidence, form the foundation for sustaining the conviction. Motive can only be an additional link in a proved chain of circumstances; it cannot by itself take the place of proof.

Benefit of Doubt and Presumption of Innocence:

71. It is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that every accused is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty beyond all reasonable doubt. The burden squarely lies upon the prosecution to establish each and every link in the chain of circumstances leading unerringly to the guilt of the accused. Suspicion, however grave, cannot take the place of proof.

72. In a case resting entirely on circumstantial evidence, the presumption of innocence becomes even more pronounced, for the Court must be satisfied that the circumstances relied upon by the prosecution form a complete chain and are inconsistent with any hypothesis other than the guilt of the accused. Where two views are possible on the evidence adduced, the view favourable to the accused must necessarily be adopted. It is well settled principal of law that a suspicion however governed can not take place of valid proof. There is considerable difference betweeen “may be proved” and “must be proved”.

73. In the present case, as discussed hereinbefore, the prosecution has failed to establish a complete and unbroken chain of circumstances. The alleged extra-judicial confession suffers from serious infirmities and does not inspire confidence. The recovery of the alleged murder weapons is also shrouded in doubt, having not been supported by independent witnesses and lacking corroborative forensic evidence. There is no eye-witness to the occurrence, and the circumstantial links relied upon by the prosecution are either weak, doubtful or uncorroborated.

74. The cumulative effect of these deficiencies creates a reasonable doubt in the prosecution case. Such doubt is neither fanciful nor speculative, but arises from material contradictions and lacunae in the evidence on record. In criminal law, even a single reasonable doubt is sufficient to entitle the accused to an acquittal.

75. Accordingly, the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt. The presumption of innocence, which accompanies the accused from the inception of the trial and continues throughout the appellate stage, stands fortified in the present case, and the prosecution has failed to dislodge the same by reliable and convincing evidence.

Conclusion:

76. In view of the foregoing discussion and upon an overall re-appraisal of the evidence on record, this Court is of the considered opinion that the prosecution has not been able to establish the charge against the appellant beyond reasonable doubt. The chain of circumstances is found to be incomplete and does not unerringly point towards the guilt of the appellant. The findings recorded by the learned Trial Court, therefore, cannot be sustained in law.

77. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 15th December 2007 passed by the learned Session Judge, District Balrampur in Session Trial No. 06 of 2006 is set aside.

78. The appellant, Shiv Pujan is acquitted of all the charges. He shall be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

79. Pending applications if any stands disposed of.

80. The office is directed to transmit a certified copy of this judgment to the court concerned for immediate compliance.

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder-Circumstantial evidence-Inadmissibility of confessional FIR-Scope of Section 106, Evidence Act-Appellant convicted for the murder of his wife with farsa- Prosecution case primarily rested on a confessional FIR lodged by the accused and subsequent recovery of the weapon-A confessional FIR lodged by an accused is hit by Section 25 of the Evidence Act and is completely inadmissible as substantive evidence-Recovery of the weapon deemed unreliable due to hostile witnesses and procedural inconsistencies-Burden of proof under section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be shifted to the accused unless the prosecution first establishes the foundational fact of the accused's presence at the scene of the crime at the relevant time-Mere existence of matrimonial discord or "could have" committed the crime is insufficient to bridge the gap to "must have" in a case of circumstantial evidence-Chain of circumstances being incomplete ,the conviction is unsustainable-Conviction set aside-Appeal allowed.(Para 54 to 81)

Held

The court ruled that the prosecution failed to prove the case beyond a reasonable doubt as the primary evidence (the confessional FIR) was inadmissible, the recovery of the weapon was suspect, and the foundational facts for shifting the burden under section 106 were not established. The conviction and life sentence passed by the trial court are set aside, and the appellant is acquitted. (E-6)

Radha Charan Sharma Vs. State of U.P.
From the judgment and order dated 11.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Appellant :-
Vishesh Kumar (Amicus Curiae)
Adv. for Respondent:-
A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajiv Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vishesh Kumar, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant, learned AGA for the State and perused the trial court record.

2. The instant criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 19.01.1984, passed by learned Sessions Judge, Mathura in Sessions Trial No. 65 of 1983 (State of U.P. Vs. Radha Charan Sharma), arising out of Case Crime No. 36 of 1983, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Raya, District Mathura, whereby the accused-appellant has been convicted for the offence under Section 302 IPC and awarded the sentence of life imprisonment.

3. In the instant case, the information about the incident, in question, was given by the accused-appellant himself through a written report submitted by him in the Police Station Raya on 02.02.1983 at 7:30 AM, which was registered vide Case Crime No. 36 of 1983, under Section 302 IPC. The FIR particularly reveals that in the night at about 12:00 O□clock, the informant had a quarrel with his wife Pramila and she threatened him that within 2-3 days, she will get her killed. The said conversation could not be tolerated by him and in a fit of anger, he struck a farsa blow on her neck causing her instantaneous death. However, in the late hours of the night, he could not approach the Police Station to lodge the report but has now come to register the report.

4. On the basis of the said written report (Exhibit Ka-5) given by the accused-appellant himself, a chik FIR (Exhibit Ka-6) was drawn and its corresponding G.D. entry was also made, carbon copy whereof has been marked as Exhibit Ka-7.

5. After registration of the said FIR in the presence of Second Officer Mahendra Pal Singh (PW-6), investigation of the said case was entrusted to him. He thereafter recorded the statement of Head Moharrir Kamal Kishor Mishra and thereafter, recorded the statement of accused Radha Charan Sharma, who was also present in the Police Station itself. In the said statement, the accused-appellant made a disclosure that a farsa, by which, he had killed his wife, could be got recovered by him, as such, he was taken into custody and the Investigating Officer alongwith the accused-appellant reached at his house, where number of persons were present. Out of them, Har Prasad and Resham Lal were appointed as witnesses and in front of them, the accused-appellant went into the Kotha and from inside the Kotha, he brought a blood-stained farsa and handed it over to the Investigating Officer, which has been marked as Material Exhibit-1. The said farsa was taken into possession and its recovery memo was prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-4 and signed by the witnesses as well as accused-appellant himself, which was later sent for the chemical examination.

6. The Investigating Officer thereafter conducted an inquest on the person of the deceased and prepared the inquest memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-10. The dead body was lying near the outer door of the Kotha, the photograph of which has been prepared and the same has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-11 and Ka-12. He thereafter sealed the dead body and sent it for the post-mortem.

7. The Investigating Officer thereafter collected the blood-stained earth and plain earth from the place, where the dead body was lying and took it in his possession and prepared its recovery memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-13.

8. An autopsy was conducted on the person of the deceased- Pramila on 03.02.1983 by the Medical Officer Dr. S.S. Saraswat (PW-4). The Doctor has noted following injuries on the person of the deceased :-

(vi). Multiple abrasions with contusions 9 cm x 5 cm area on the lateral aspect of right shoulder and arm.

(vii). Multiple linear abrasions 2 cm x 9 cm. area on the back 7 cm x 1/2 cm.

(viii). Incised wound 2 cm x 1/2 cm x muscle deep on the back of right thigh lower part. Transverse.

9. The right ear was found cut at pinna. The right parietal and occipital bones were found cut. Membrane and mind were found lacerated. The right posterior cranial fossa was also found fractured. In the stomach 3 ozs. whitish fluid was found. Small intestines were empty. In Large intestines faecal matter and gases were found.

10. The Doctor took off a Sari, a Sweater, a Peti-Coat, a Nose-Pin, Bichhiya from the dead-body and sealed the same in a packet which was handed over to the constable who had brought the dead-body. In the opinion of the Doctor the death was the result of the coma due to the ante-mortem injuries. The Doctor proved the post-mortem report Exhibit Ka-8, which was prepared by him at the time of conducting the post-mortem examination.

11. In the opinion of the Doctor, cause of death was noted to be coma, due to the aforesaid injuries.

12. The Investigating Officer then recorded the statement of the witnesses Har Prasad and Resham Lal. The extract of the statement of Resham Lal has been drawn and marked as Exhibit Ka-14.

13. The Investigating Officer inspected the place of incident and prepared the site plan, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-15. He also recorded the statement of one Mahendra Pal Sharma (PW-1) on 7th February, 1983, who handed him over two letters, which were sealed and proved and marked as Exhibits Ka-2 and Ka-3 and recovery memo was also prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-16.

14. On the same day, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the witness Shyam Babu, who also handed over him a letter, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-1, which too was sealed and its recovery memo was prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-17.

15. The Investigating Officer Mahendra Pal Singh conducted the investigation till 07.02.1983 and thereafter, investigation was entrusted to Sub Inspector Ravindra Pal Singh, who, after concluding the investigation, submitted the charge-sheet against the accused-appellant on 19.02.1983, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-18.

16. On the basis of the said charge-sheet, learned Magistrate had taken cognizance, however, since the case was exclusively triable by the court of Sessions, it was committed to the court of Sessions, where it was numbered vide Sessions Trial No. 65 of 1983 (State of U.P. Vs. Radha Charan Sharma). Consequent thereto, on 20.04.1983, learned Sessions Judge, Mathura framed the charge against the accused-appellant under Section 302 IPC, which was read out and explained to him in Hindi, who abjured the said charge, pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

17. During the course of trial, the prosecution in order to bring home the guilt against the accused-appellant, examined as many as two witnesses of fact and three other formal witnesses. Their testimony in brief is enumerated below :-

18. P.W.-1 Mahendra Pal Sharma is the maternal uncle of the deceased, who had handed over two letters written by the deceased herself, which have been proved and marked as Exhibits Ka-2 and Ka-3, which are said to be in the handwriting of the deceased, which according to him, has been received a little earlier before the murder of the deceased. The letter (Exhibit Ka-1) was sent to her father Shankar Lal at his address, which was addressed to her sister Indresh, whereas letter (Exhibit Ka-2) was sent to him. He further testified that after going through the letter (Exhibit Ka-2), which was received on 28.01.1983, it became difficult for him to hold on for the next day as the contents of the letter very serious. Consequent thereto, on the very next day i.e. on 29.01.1983, he left his village in the morning and reached Hardua Ganj and thereafter, reached Raya at 6:00 PM and stayed at the house of Radha Ballabh, in whose house, accused-appellant was a tenant and used to live with his niece Pramila as well as Manju, niece of the accused-appellant, however, none of the three met him there. The other tenants however met him, who informed him that the accused had already left day before yesterday alongwith two others. He thereafter returned to Aligarh and then, went to his brother-in-law□s house at Ghazipur and informed him about the entire incident and then, returned back to his village. On first day of the month, his brother-in-law Shankar Lal received a letter (Exhibit Ka-1) and on receiving the said letter, his brother-in-law reached the Village Imlani and met him. After going through the said letter, on the next day, he sent his brother Satendra to Badhaun to bring back Pramila, however, on reaching Raya, it was revealed that Pramila had already been done to death by her husband and her dead body was lying in the Police Station. When Satendra visited the Police Station, he found that Radha Charan was put in the lock-up and the dead body had been sent to Mathura for an autopsy and thereafter was taken to Imlani. Later, when the police met him, then he had handed over the three letters (Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-3) to the Police.

19. PW-1, in his cross-examination, has testified that he reached Raya on 29th and not on 28th as the letter was received by him on 28th itself. He further testified that he had informed the Investigating Officer on first day of the month, that Shankar Lal had received a letter, who came to him, then he had sent Satendra to Badhaun, however subsequently, it was revealed that Pramila has been done to death by her husband, however, if the said factum has not been stated in his statement recorded by the Investigating Officer, he can not offer any reason for it absence. Before receiving the letters (Exhibits Ka-2 and Ka-3), he had no personal knowledge that there was some matrimonial discord between Pramila and her husband Radha Charan. The letter (Exhibit Ka-3) was received in January, 1983, however, he does not remember its exact date. The letter (Exhibit Ka-2) was received earlier to the letter (Exhibit Ka-3). The accused is M.A., B.Ed and is not a cynic. He further denied the suggestion that Gudiya was unhappy out of the said marriage.

20. PW-2 Har Prasad is another witness of recovery of farsa from the house of the accused Radha Charan. He, in his testimony, testified that wife of Radha Charan was killed about nine months back, however, said murder had not occurred in his presence. The accused Radha Charan had taken out of a blood-stained farsa from his Kotha in his presence and handed it over to the Police, however, he can not identify the said farsa. On showing the said farsa to the witness, he testified that he can not state that this is the same farsa, which was handed over by the accused to the Police, however, the farsa was sealed in his presence by the Investigating Officer, whose recovery memo was prepared at the spot and he had signed it as a witness, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-4, containing his signatures. At the relevant time, Resham Lal was also present with him and he also signed the recovery memo in his presence.

21. During the course of cross-examination, he stated that his house is situate, leaving one house between the accused house. In the morning, it was revealed that Radha Charan had killed his wife and had gone to the Police Station. He further denied that he has given any affidavit in the court nor he knows what an affidavit is. About 2-1/2 months back, he came to the court but did not come in the court room. He was brought by the brother of Radha Charan, who wrote something on a paper, which was singed by him, however, he does not know the contents of the said paper. On his attention been drawn to an Application, marked as Kha-2, he stated that it is signed by him at two places and once, it was signed in the court. On his attention been drawn the affidavits, marked as Kha-3 and Kha-4, he stated that said affidavits has been signed by him at four places. On his attention been drawn to his vakalatnama, marked as 14-Kha-1, he stated that it has been signed by him. He further testified that he does not remember if any counsel got his signatures on the register, may be he has signed it, however, the counsel had not read out the paper to him. He does not know any counsel Daudayal Agrawal but stated that he came in the court to file the papers alongwith counsel, however, he could not identify him. He does not remember, if any question was put to him by the Judge. Counsel had asked to sign the papers before the court, which he did. On the relevant date, Radha Charan at about 10-11:00 AM had handed over a farsa. He further denied the suggestion that he had submitted an affidavit and it is also wrong to state that under the pressure of the Investigating Officer, he is denying to have filed an affidavit.

22. P.W.-3 Kamal Kishor Mishra, was the Moharir in the Police Station on the relevant date i.e. 02.02.1983, on the basis of a written report handed over to him by the accused Radha Charan, he had drawn the chik FIR. The said written report was drawn and signed by the accused, on the basis of which, the chik FIR was prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-6. On the basis of which, corresponding G.D. Entry No.14 was also prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-7. After registering the case, he had taken the accused into custody and put him in the lock-up.

23. During the course of cross-examination, he testified that from the midnight dated 1/2-2-1983 up to 7:30 in the morning, no cognizable report was lodged nor after registering the report, in question, any other report was lodged till 11:30 AM. He further denied the suggestion that the information in respect of the incident was received by him at the Police Station in the night itself, on the basis of which, Investigating Officer had reached the place of incident. He further denied that the accused was called to the Police Station from Raya for interrogation and his written report (Exhibit Ka-5) was got forcefully scribed. The sealed farsa was deposited in the Police Station by the Investigating Officer on 02.02.1983 in the evening at 5:00 PM, which was sent in the Maal Khana on 10.02.1983. The accused was also brought to the Police Station at 5:00 PM alongwith Investigating Officer. He had further stated that the accused was sent to the jail on 03.02.1983 at 6:00 PM and thereafter, sealed farsa could not be deposited in the Sadar Maal Khana for some reasons and was brought back by Constable Bahuran Singh and thereafter, till 10.02.1983, it was not sent back to the Maal Khana, for which, no explanation could be offered. He further stated that he does not remember if any reason was assigned by Constable Bahuran Singh to return back the crime weapon- farsa.

24. P.W.-4 Dr. S.S. Saraswat is the Medical Officer, who had conducted an autopsy on the person of the deceased on 03.02.1983 and had prepared the post-mortem report, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-8. He had noted eight injuries on the person of the deceased, which has been noted in the post-mortem report and has already been discussed in the earlier part of the judgment. The genuineness of the said document was admitted by the prosecution. While making internal examination, the doctor found that the right parietal and occipital bone of the deceased were cut and right posterior cranial fossa was fractured and the cause of death was injuries sustained by the deceased. PW-4 further testified that he had examined the farsa (Material Exhibit-1) with his own hands and since, edges of farsa were not sharp, as such, such injuries could not have been caused by the said farsa, which were found on the body of the deceased, however, if the edges of the farsa, in question, is sharpened, then the said injuries could have been caused by it but the state, in which, the farsa is and on being used, such injuries could not be caused by it, which though may cause incised wound but its margin would be contused, however, in the instant case, margins have been found to be clean cut. The relevant papers were sent alongwith the dead body and the injuries on the person of the deceased were sufficient to cause death of the deceased. At this stage, said witness has been declared hostile and an opportunity was given to the Public Prosecutor to cross-examine him.

25. On being cross-examined by the Public Prosecutor, PW-4 Doctor testified that he has not pointed out in his report that the margins of the incised wounds were clean cut, rather it was not written, if margins were found to be clean cut or contused. Only on the basis of his memory, he had stated that the margins in the instant case were clean cut and more so, because the wounds were found to be cutting the bones. He further testified that if by the said farsa (Material Exhibit-1) is forcefully hit, then bones could be cut.

26. On being cross-examined by the accused, PW-4 stated that blade of the said farsa is rough at some places, while plain at some places but is not sharp. He further stated that he could not state as to how many blows were inflicted to cause the injuries on the body of the deceased. Injuries nos. 6 & 7 could be caused by fall or by lathi-danda

27. P.W.-5 Resham Lal is another witness of recovery of farsa brought out by the accused Radha Charan, who, in his testimony, has candidly stated that no farsa was recovered in his presence. On the next day, when the dead body was taken away at about 4:00 PM, a constable came to him and stated that the paper, on the basis of which, blood test was to be done, has been spoiled and therefore, requested him to sign another paper, consequently, he signed the said paper. At the relevant time, when the paper was signed, he was present in his field mowing the grass. At the relevant time, when he had signed the paper, nothing was written on it and it was a plain paper. On his attention been drawn to recovery memo of blood-stained farsa (Exhibit Ka-4), he admitted that the said paper contains his signatures. However, On his aforesaid testimony, the said witness was declared hostile and the Public Prosecutor was requested to cross-examine him.

28. During his cross-examination, he testified that he had heard that the wife of Radha Charan has been killed. After the said incident, Investigating Officer came in his village at about 10-11:00 AM. Accused Radha Charan was also present there, however, he does not know if Radha Charan came with the Investigating Officer or was already present in the village. He was also a Panch witness of the inquest. On the said date, Investigating Officer had also collected the blood-stained earth and plain earth from the place of incident and prepared its recovery memo, which was signed by him. Har Prasad was also one of the Panch witness and his signatures were also obtained on the inquest memo in his presence, however, recovery of blood-stained earth was not signed by him in his presence. At about 4:00 PM, he signed the inquest and recovery memo of the blood-stained earth. On the relevant date, Radha Charan did not produce the farsa in his presence. On the relevant date and time, the police got his signatures on two papers. The Investigating Officer did not interrogate him nor recorded his statement. He denied the factum that he gave any statement to the Investigating Officer. To quote :-

"(i). मैंने पंचायतनामा पर दस्तख्त करीब चार बजे किये और उसी समय मिट्टी के कागज पर भी दस्तखत किये।

(ii). राधा चरन ने उसी समय मेरे सामने कोठे से फरसा निकाल कर नहीं दिखाया था। उस दिन पुलिस ने मेरे दस्तखत केवल दो कागजों परे कराये।

पश्चिमी कोने से निकालकर आपको दिया। जिसकी फर्द आपने लिखी व फरसा को एक कपड़े में रखकर सील किया। गवाह को बयान उपरोक्त पढ़कर सुनाया गया तो उसने कहा कि मैंने दरोगा जी को ये बयान नहीं दिया, मैं नहीं कह सकता कि उन्होंने मेरा ये बयान कैसे लिख लिया।

(iv). मैंने इस मुकदमें में पहले भी बयान हलफी लगाया था, मेरे सामने कोई फरसा, राधा चरन ने निकालकर पुलिस को नहीं दिया। मैं बयान हलफी देने स्वयं ही आया था, मुझे मुलजिम का भाई अथवा कोई नहीं लाया था। बयान हलफी दाखिल करने के लिए दाऊ दयाल वकील किया था, जिनको 20 रुपए मैंने दिये थे। ये बयान हलफी लगाने मैं इसलिए आया था कि मेरे घरवाले मुझे परेशान करते थे कि तुम तारीख पर कचहरी चले जाते हो और कोई घर का काम नहीं होता है, इसलिए मैंने सोचा कि बयान हलफी देने से कचहरी आने से छुट्टी हो जावेगी। ऐसी बात नहीं है कि मुलजिम के घरवाले मुझे परेशान कर रहे थे कि तुम बयान हलफी दे दो क्यों कि पता नहीं कि तुम तारीख पर क्या कहो क्या नहीं कहो। जो बयान हलफी दाखिल करने में मैंने खर्चा किया वो मुझे आज तक किसी ने नहीं दिया। ये कहना गलत है कि मैं राधा चरन को बचाने के लिए झूठ बोल रहा हूँ।"

29. On being cross-examined by the accused, he testified that he alongwith Har Prasad had come to file an affidavit and the affidavit was read out to him as well as Har Prasad. The Oath Commissioner, who sweared the affidavit had also read out the same to him as well as Har Prasad.

30. P.W.-6 Mahendra Pal Singh is the first Investigating Officer, who, in his testimony, has stated that in February, 1983, he was posted as Second Officer at the Police Station Raya and in his presence, the FIR was registered, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-6, which contains his signatures. The investigation of the said case was entrusted to him, who thereafter recorded the statement of the Head Moharrir Kamal Kishor Mishra at the Police Station and since, the instant case was got registered at the instance of accused Radha Charan himself, who too was present in the Police Station, as such, his statement was also recorded in the Case Diary, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-9. The accused made a disclosure to get the crime weapon-farsa recovered, as such, he was taken into custody and brought to village Bhaisara, at his house, where large number of persons were present, out of them, Har Prasad and Resham Lal were appointed as witnesses and the accused, in their presence, went inside the Kotha and brought out a blood-stained farsa (Material Exhibit-1) and handed it over to him. He prepared its recovery memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-4 and got it signed by Har Prasad and Resham Lal. He further denied the suggestion that the signatures of Resham Lal were obtained on the next date by sending a constable, on which, fard recovery memo has been prepared. The said farsa was recovered in the morning at 10:00 AM, which was later sent by the second Investigating Officer Ravindra Pal Singh for chemical examination, the chemical examination report of which is available on record, marked as Exhibit Ka-23. After making the recovery of farsa, he had conducted an inquest on the person of the deceased and prepared the inquest memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-10. Thereafter, he prepared the photo nash and challan nash, which have been proved and marked as Exhibits Ka-11 and Ka-12 and thereafter, dead body was sent for post-mortem through two constables Suresh Singh and Lala Ram. He further testified that the place, where dead body was kept, blood had fallen and from such place, he had collected the blood-stained earth and plain earth and prepared its recovery memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-13. He recorded the statement of Har Prasad and Resham Lal and other Panch witnesses. The statement of Resham Lal has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-14. The site plan has been prepared by him, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-15. On 07.02.1983, he recorded the statement of Mahendra Pal Sharma, who had handed over him two letters (Material Exhibits-2 and 3), which was sealed by him and its recovery memo was also prepared, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-16. On the same day, he also recorded the statement of Shyam Babu, who handed over him a letter marked as Material Exhibit Ka-1, which was sealed by him and its recovery memo was also prepared by him, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-17, which has been signed by Shyam Babu.

31. On being cross-examined, he testified that he recorded the statement of some witnesses, living in the vicinity of house of the accused but did not record the statement of Ramji Lal, Ram Kishan, Lekhraj, Hetram or Ram Singh, the houses of which, he has shown in the site plan prepared by him, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-15. He further stated that he had gone in the village only twice, first on 01.02.1983 and next on 07.02.1983 but no one amongst them met him, however, again he corrected himself and stated that infact on 07.02.1983, he had not gone in the village rather the statement of all the witnesses that were recorded on 07.02.1983, has infact been recorded in the Police Station itself. He further testified that on 02.02.1983, nobody has informed that they had heard the cries of Pramila in the night or had seen the accused leaving his house, however, in the statement of sister-in-law of the deceased, it has been noted that on the day of incident, accused was at his house. The name of sister-in-law of the deceased is Vimlesh, who lives separately but her house is attached with that of accused Radha Charan and Vimlesh is the wife of Ram Kishan, whose house is situate in the west as shown in the site plan. The boundary walls of Ram Kishan and the accused Radha Charan are the same and it has only one exit. The Investigating Officer further testified that the relevant time of recovery, when the accused went inside the Kotha, he was standing at its doorstep, which was placed in the wall, where the dead body was lying and the farsa was not visible. The said farsa was kept in the north-western corner, however, he did not consider it necessary to find out, if the farsa was hidden in some object or it was simply kept there. No one accompanied the accused inside the Kotha and he alone went inside it. Resham Lal and Har Prasad were present with him at the doorsteps, where the dead body was kept. The place, where they were standing, was about 14 feet long and on the said place, only three persons were present and others were outside the courtyard. In fard recovery memo, marked as Exhibit Ka-4, there is some gap between the Tahreer and the signatures but it is not much. He further denied the suggestion that the plain papers were got signed by the witnesses and then, the recovery memo was subsequently prepared on it. He further denied the suggestion that information of the murder was reported in some other manner and on getting the said information, he reached the village and arrested the accused and took him to the Police Station and thereafter, written report was forcefully got scribed, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-5. He further denied the suggestion that just to create an evidence, fake blood marks were put on the farsa (Material Exhibit-1). Nobody's statement has been recorded in the Case Diary as a link evidence, moreover, the statement of Constable Bahuran Singh has also not been recorded. Further, there is no mention in the Case Diary that the farsa was sent to Maal Khana on 03.02.1983 but could be not deposited there, however, the same may have been mentioned in the General Diary.

32. After recording the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, statement of the accused-appellant Radha Charan has recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. by putting all the incriminating circumstances to him. The accused-appellant denied all the incriminating circumstances and claimed that he has been falsely implicated.

33. In his defence, accused-appellant had got examined one Daudayal Agrawal, Advocate as DW-1, who, in his testimony, has testified that he is a practising Advocate in Collectorate, Mathura. On 02.08.1983, he had prepared the affidavits of Resham Lal, son of Shiv Lal and Har Prasad, son of Nattha Ram, resident of Bhaisara, Police Station Raya. Exhibit Kha-1 is a vakalatnama, which bears the signatures of Har Prasad as well as Resham Lal. Exhibit Kha-2 is an application, which bears the signatures of Resham Lal as well as of Har Prasad. Exhibit Kha-3 is an affidavit of Har Prasad, whereas Exhibit Kha-4 is an affidavit of Resham Lal bearing their respective signatures, which has been identified by him. The said affidavits were read out to both the deponents Har Prasad and Resham Lal and the same were prepared as per their instructions. Thereafter, the said affidavits were sworn before the Oath Commissioner.

34. On being cross-examined, DW-1 Daudayal Agarwal testified that he was very well acquainted with Har Prasad and Resham Lal and also the person, who was accompanying them and on his pointing out, he had identified Har Prasad and Resham Lal, however, he does not remember as to who had identified the two deponents. He further denied the suggestion that brother of the accused Radha Charan had brought the two deponents and on their instance, application and affidavits were prepared.

35. In such facts, learned trial court, after analysing the evidence adduced during the course of trial and considering the submissions made by the accused and the prosecution, has held the appellant guilty of the offence charged with and accordingly convicted him under Section 302 IPC and awarded the sentence of life imprisonment.

36. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied by the said judgment and order, the instant criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellant.

37. Challenging the impugned judgment and order, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has submitted that the trial court has completely misread, misappreciated and misinterpreted the evidence on record and has illegally recorded the findings of conviction and sentence against the appellant, which is bad in law and liable to be set-aside.

38. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that though instant case is based on circumstantial evidence and in a case based on circumstantial evidence, motive is of great significance, however, in the present case, the prosecution has miserably failed to prove the motive of the accused for committing such serious offence of causing the death of his own wife. Moreover, to prove the factum of motive against the appellant, the prosecution has placed implicit reliance upon the three letters said to be written by the deceased herself, addressed to her father (who has not been produced at all) as well as her maternal uncle- Mahendra Pal Sharma (PW-1), however, when we carefully go through the contents of the said letters, it is evident that the necessary inference that could, at the most, be drawn from the said letters is, that the deceased Pramila was not living happily with her husband-accused-appellant Radha Charan and there has been stray incidents of torturing and beating her, however, merely in the backdrop of the said circumstance, it can not be said to be a strong motive to commit the offence of murder of the deceased, however, the trial court, by placing implicit reliance upon the said letters, has treated the conduct of the accused to be strong motive against the appellant and on that basis has illegally and erroneously recorded the findings of conviction and sentence against the appellant, which is bad in law and is liable to be set-aside.

39. It is further pointed out by the learned Amicus Curiae that the trial court while recording the findings in respect of motive has categorically held that "from all the facts coming out of these letters, written by the deceased herself, it can be said that the accused-appellant 'could' be the person, who committed the murder of the deceased."

40. Criticizing the said findings recorded by the trial court, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has submitted that infact, there is a big gap between the findings of "could have" and "must have" committed the murder of the deceased, particularly in a case based on circumstantial evidence.

41. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra reported in (1984) 4 SCC 116, the Hon'ble Apex Court has laid down the following five golden principles i.e. the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence :-

"(i). The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved". It is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions.

(ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(iii) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(v) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused."

42. However, in the instant case, the trial court by completely ignoring the aforesaid five golden principles of law, in a most arbitrary and whimsical manner, has recorded the findings of conviction and sentence against the appellant, which is wholly illegal and against the settled principle of law and is therefore liable to be set-aside.

43. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that the trial court, while recording the findings of conviction and sentence against the accused-appellant, has held that written report handed over by the accused-appellant himself in the Police Station, can not be said to be wholly inadmissible in evidence and can be relied upon to record the findings of conviction and sentence against the accused-appellant. The said findings recorded by the trial court is also against the settled principle of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in several of its decisions, wherein it has been categorically held that an FIR of confessional nature made by an accused person is inadmissible in evidence against him. The trial court has committed an apparent error of law by relying upon the contents of the FIR lodged by the accused-appellant himself, being admissible piece of evidence. Thus, the said view taken by the trial court in this regard, is patently illegal, against the settled principle of law and as such, the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial court is wholly illegal, unsustainable and bad in law and is therefore liable to be set aside.

44. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that even recovery of the crime weapon- farsa shown to be made at the pointing out of the accused-appellant has not been cogently and clearly established by the prosecution and there are number of loop-holes in relying upon the said piece of evidence, however, the trial court by placing implicit reliance upon the said piece of evidence of recovery of farsa, to be proved, has recorded the findings of conviction against the accused-appellant, which is bad in law and is therefore liable to be set aside.

45. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that the findings recorded by the trial court convicting the accused-appellant is further based on the circumstance, that the accused-appellant has not been able to explain his conduct and the circumstance, under which, his wife has been done to death within the four-corners of his house, which is an incriminating circumstance sufficient to prove his guilt as envisaged under Section 106 of Indian Evidence Act, however, the said findings is also based on misreading and misappreciation of evidence on record and is therefore wholly illegal and erroneous and is liable to be set-aside.

46. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that it is well settled principle of law that before relying upon the aforesaid piece of evidence, the prosecution is required to cogently and clearly prove that the accused was at or around his residence at the relevant time, in the absence of which, the said provisions can not be invoked.

47. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has next submitted that before invoking the provisions contained in Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, the prosecution is required to first establish the foundational facts so as to shift the burden of proof upon the accused. If the prosecution fails to establish the foundational facts, invoking the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act would be improper. However, in the present case, when we go through the entire evidence, we find that the prosecution has miserably failed to establish the foundational facts before invoking the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act to shift the burden of proof upon the accused, yet the trial court, by placing implicit reliance upon the said piece of evidence, has recorded the findings of conviction against the accused-appellant, which is bad in law and is therefore liable to be set aside.

48. Per contra, learned AGA for the State has supported the prosecution story and has submitted that the motive, suggested by the prosecution in the form of the letters written by the deceased herself, is admissible in evidence, which cogently and clearly establishes the factum of motive and in the backdrop of which, the accused-appellant had committed the murder of the deceased. Relying thereupon, the trial court has rightly convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant by the impugned judgment and order, which order does not suffer from any illegality nor can be said to be an erroneous approach and therefore, the same can not be set-aside and is liable to be affirmed by this Court.

49. Learned AGA for the State has further supported the findings of the trial court, wherein, it has been held that the alleged report (Exhibit Ka-5) can be considered to be an admissible piece of evidence to establish the guilt against the accused-appellant and therefore, the findings of conviction recorded by the trial court based on such admissible piece of evidence, is just, proper and legal and do not call for any interference by this Court.

50. Learned AGA for the State has further submitted that the conduct of the accused-appellant in not disclosing the fact as to how his wife was murdered in his own house, is also a forceful circumstance to establish the guilty mind of the accused-appellant. Admittedly, accused-appellant is the husband of the deceased and the incident had taken place inside his house, as such, he had the best of the knowledge of the circumstance, under which, his wife was done to death in his own house, however, the accused-appellant has utterly failed to explain the fact and the circumstances as to how his wife was done to death inside his house, which is a strong circumstance against him and relying upon the said circumstance, the trial court has rightly convicted the accused-appellant, which findings can not said to be perverse and illegal and therefore, the same can not be set-aside by this Court.

51. Learned AGA for the State has further submitted that the recovery of crime weapon- farsa at the pointing out of the accused-appellant has also been cogently and clearly established by the prosecution and the trial court, relying upon the said piece of evidence, has rightly convicted the accused-appellant by passing the impugned judgment and order, which does not suffer from any illegality and therefore, the same can not be set-aside by this Court.

52. Having considered the rival submissions made by learned counsel for the parties and taking into consideration the evidence adduced during the course of trial and the findings recorded by the trial court, we find that the trial court has convicted and sentenced the appellant, primarily on the following grounds:-

(i). Motive for committing the offence.

(ii). The FIR lodged by the accused-appellant himself has been held to be an admissible piece of evidence and relying upon such evidence, the trial court has recorded the findings of conviction against the appellant.

(iii). The conduct of the accused before commission of the offence, failure on the part of the accused to explain as to how his own wife has been done to death within the four-corners of his house, of which, he had the special knowledge, particularly, in view of the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, (iv). Lastly the factum of recovery of crime weapon- farsa at the instance of the accused.

53. However, when we critically analyse the findings of the trial court based on the said evidence, on which, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence has been passed, we find that the said findings recorded by the trial court, are based on surmises and conjectures and against the settled principle of law laid down by the Hon’ble Apex Court in several of its decisions.

54. The first fact, which has been considered by the trial court in the impugned judgement is that of "motive" and by placing implicit reliance upon the said motive taking it, to have been proved, the findings of conviction has been recorded by the trial court against the appellant, however, when we critically analyse the said "motive", we find that, infact, inference in respect of the said motive has been drawn by the trial court based on the three letters said to be written by the deceased herself prior to her death, which has been handed over by her maternal uncle PW-1 Mahendra Pal Sharma to the Investigating Officer and has been proved and marked as Exhibits Ka-1, Ka-2 and Ka-3, however, when we go through the contents of the said three letters, we find that it does not, infact, lend cogent evidence, from which, an unimpeachable inference can be drawn that it is the appellant and the appellant alone, who has committed the murder of the deceased. At the most, only thing that could be discerned from the said letters is the conduct of the accused with his wife prior to her death. Perusal of the said letters only shows that there was some bitterness in the matrimonial relations between the husband and wife and in the backdrop of which, the deceased wanted to part company with the appellant.

55. In our opinion, it is germane to point out here that only on the basis of day-to-day conduct of the accused, no conclusive inference can be drawn to hold that the appellant would thus have strong motive to have committed the murder of the deceased, particularly, in a case based on circumstantial evidence. Even, the trial court while categorically recording the said findings has come to the conclusion that from all the facts coming out of these letters written by the deceased herself, it can be said that the accused "could" be the person, who has committed the murder of the deceased.

56. Thus, from the said findings, it is evident that even the trial court is inconclusive in recording the said findings and only on the basis of suspicion and probability, which infact has not been cogently and clearly established, the said findings has been recorded by the trial court.

57. It is well settled principle of law that the suspicion, howsoever strong, it may be, cannot take the place of proof. More so, when there is a wide gap between the fact that the accused "could have" or "must have" committed the murder.

58. It is well settled principle of law that in a criminal trial, the prosecution is required to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubts against the appellant and only on the basis of findings based on suspicion and probability, the conviction can not be recorded.

59. Thus, in the backdrop of the aforesaid circumstances, the findings of conviction based on motive, recorded by the trial court is therefore perverse and illegal and as such, the same can not be sustained in law and is liable to be set aside. The contrary view taken by the trial court is therefore bad in law and is liable to be set-aside.

60. The second ground, on which, the findings of conviction and sentence has been recorded by the trial court against the appellant, is based on the report of the incident of murder, which was lodged by the accused-appellant himself and is in his own handwriting, which has been held to be an admissible piece of evidence by the trial court. It is germane to point out here that the said findings recorded by the trial court on the basis of the aforesaid evidence is wholly misplaced and against the settled principle of law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in a recent decision passed in the case of Narayan Yadav Vs. State of Chhattishgarh reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1603, wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court, by relying upon the decisions passed in the cases of Faddi Vs. State of M.P. reported in 1964 SCC OnLine SC 123 and Aghnoo Nagesia Vs. State of Bihar reported in 1965 SCC OnLine SC 109, has clearly held that :-

"19. In Faddi (supra), this Court stated that :-

"If the FIR given by the accused contains any admission as defined in Section 17 of the Evidence Act there is no bar in using such an admission against the maker thereof as permitted under Section 21 of the Act, provided such admission is not inculpatory in character. In the judgment their Lordships distinguished Nisar Ali case, [AIR 1957 SC 366] in the following lines:-

"But it appears to us that in the context in which the observation is made and in the circumstances, which we have verified from the record of that case, that the Sessions Judge had definitely held the first information report lodged by the co-accused who was acquitted to be inadmissible against Nisar Ali, and that the High Court did not refer to it at all in its judgment, this observation really refers to a first information report which is in the nature of a confession by the maker thereof. Of course, a confessional first information report cannot be used against the maker when he be an accused and necessarily cannot be used against a co-accused. (Emphasis supplied)

20. In Aghnoo Nagesia (supra), this Court sounded a note of caution that when the statement in the FIR given by an accused contains incriminating materials and it is difficult to sift the exculpatory portion therefrom, the whole of it must be excluded from evidence.

21. In Faddi (supra), the issue before this Court was whether the FIR lodged by the accused himself therein was admissible in evidence. In the facts of the said case, this Court held that the objection to the admissibility of the FIR lodged by the appellant was not sound, as the FIR only contained a few admissions, and those admissions did not amount to a confession so as to render the entire FIR inadmissible in evidence. We quote the relevant observations made by this Court in Faddi (supra) as under :-

"14. It is contended for the appellant that the first information report was inadmissible in evidence and should not have been therefore taken on the record. In support, reliance is placed on the case reported as Nisar Ali v. State of U.P, [AIR 1957 SC 366]. We have considered this contention and do not see any force in it.

15. The report is not a confession of the appellant. It is not a statement made to a police officer during the course of investigation. Section 25 of the Evidence Act and Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure do not bar its admissibility. The report is an admission by the accused of certain facts which have a bearing on the question to be determined by the Court viz. how and by whom the murder of Gulab was committed, or whether the appellant's statement in Court denying the correctness of certain statements' of the prosecution witnesses is correct or not. Admissions are admissible in evidence under Section 21 of the Act. Section 17 defines an admission to be a statement, oral or documentary, which suggests any inference as to any fact in issue or relevant fact, and which is made by any of the persons, and under the circumstances, thereafter mentioned, in the Act. Section 21 provides that admissions are relevant and may be proved as against a person who makes them. Illustrations (c), (d) and (e) to Section 21 are of the circumstances in which an accused could prove his own admissions which go in his favour in view of the exceptions mentioned in Section 21 to the provision that admissions could not be proved by the person who makes them. It is therefore clear that admissions of an accused can be proved against him.

16. The Privy Council, in very similar circumstances, held long ago in Dal Singh v. King Emperor, [LR 44 IA 137] such first information reports to be admissible in evidence. It was said in that case at p. 142:

"It is important to compare the story told by Dal Singh when making his statement at the trial with that what he said in the report he made to the police in the document which he signed, a document which is sufficiently authenticated. The report is clearly admissible. It was in no sense a confession. As appears from its terms, it was rather in the nature of an information or charge laid against Mohan and Jhunni in respect of the assault alleged to have been made on Dal Singh on his way from Hardua to Jubbulpur. As such the statement is proper evidence against him . It will be observed that this statement is at several points at complete variance with what Dal Singh afterwards stated in Court. The Sessions Judge regarded the document as discrediting his defence. He had to decide between the story for the prosecution and that told for Dal Singh."

Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the facts of that case were distinguishable in some respects from the facts of this case. Such a distinction, if any, has no bearing on the question of the admissibility of the report. The report was held admissible because it was not a confession and it was helpful in determining the matter before the Court.

17. In Nisar Ali case, [AIR 1957 SC 366] Kapur, J. who spoke for the Court said, after narrating the facts:

"An objection has been taken to the admissibility of this report as it was made by a person who was a co-accused. A first information report is not a substantive piece of evidence and can only be used to corroborate the statement of the maker under Section 157, Evidence Act, or to contradict it under Section 145 of that Act. It cannot be used as evidence against the maker at the trial if he himself becomes an accused, not to corroborate or contradict other witnesses. In this case, therefore, it is not evidence."

It is on these observations that it has been contended for the appellant that his report was inadmissible in evidence. Ostensibly, the expression it cannot be used as evidence against the maker at the trial if he himself becomes an accused supports the appellant's contention. But it appears to us that in the context in which the observation is made and in the circumstances, which we have verified from the record of that case, that the Sessions Judge had definitely held the first information report lodged by the co-accused who was acquitted to be inadmissible against Nisar Ali, and that the High Court did not refer to it at all in its judgment, this observation really refers to a first information report which is in the nature of a confession by the maker thereof. Of course a confessional first information report cannot be used against the maker when he be an accused and necessarily cannot be used against a co-accused. Further, the last sentence of the above-quoted observation is significant and indicates what the Court meant was that the first information report lodged by Qudratullah, the co-accused, was not evidence against Nisar Ali. This Court did not mean- as it had not to determine in that case- that a first information report which is not a confession cannot be used as an admission under Section 21 of the Evidence Act or as a relevant statement under any other provisions of that Act. We find also that this observation has been understood in this way by the Rajasthan High Court in State v. Balchand, [AIR 1960 Raj 101] and in State of Rajasthan v. Shiv Singh, [AIR 1962 Raj 3] and by the Allahabad High Court in Allahdia v. State, [1959 All LJ 340].

18. We therefore hold that the objection to the admissibility of the first information report lodged by the appellant is not sound and that the Courts below have rightly admitted it in evidence and have made proper use of it.

22. We now proceed to look into the decision of this Court in Aghnoo Nagesia (supra). The following observations of this Court at paragraphs 9 to 18 are relevant and are quoted below :-

"9. Section 25 of the Evidence Act is one of the provisions of law dealing with confessions made by an accused. The law relating to confessions is to be found generally in Ss. 24 to 30 of the Evidence Act and Ss. 162 and 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898. Sections 17 to 31 of the Evidence Act are to be found under the heading "Admissions". Confession is a species of admission, and is dealt with in Ss. 24 to 30. A confession or an admission is evidence against the maker of it, unless its admissibility is excluded by some provision of law. Section 24 excludes confession caused by certain inducements, threats and promises. Section 25 provides: "No confession made to a police officer shall be proved as against a person accused of an offence". The terms of S. 25 are imperative. A confession made to a police officer under any circumstances is not admissible in evidence against the accused. It covers a confession made when he was free and not in police custody, as also a confession made before any investigation has begun. The expression "accused of any offence" covers a person accused of an offence at the trial whether or not he was accused of the offence when he made the confession. Section 26 prohibits proof against any person of a confession made by him in the custody of a police officer, unless it is made in the immediate presence of a Magistrate. The partial ban imposed by S. 26 relates to a confession made to a person other than a police officer. Section 26 does not qualify the absolute ban imposed by S. 25 on a confession made to a police officer. Section 27 is in the form of a proviso, and partially lifts the ban imposed by Ss. 24, 25 and 26. It provides that when any fact is deposed to as discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a police officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered, may be proved. Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure forbids the use of any statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation for any purpose at any enquiry or trial in respect of the offence under investigation, save as mentioned in the proviso and in cases falling under sub-s. (2), and it specifically provides that nothing in it shall be deemed to affect the provisions of S. 27 of the Evidence Act. The words of S. 162 are wide enough to include a confession made to a police officer in the course of an investigation. A statement or confession made in the course of an investigation may be recorded by a Magistrate under S. 164 of the Code of Criminal Procedure subject to the safeguards imposed by the section. Thus, except as provided by S. 27 of the Evidence Act, a confession by an accused to a police officer is absolutely protected under S. 25 of the Evidence Act, and if it is made in the course of an investigation, it is also protected by S. 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and a confession to any other person made by him while in the custody of a police officer is protected by S. 26, unless it is made in the immediate presence of a Magistrate. These provisions seem to proceed upon the view that confessions made by an accused to a police officer or made by him while he is in the custody of a police officer are not to be trusted, and should not be used in evidence against him. They are based upon grounds of public policy and the fullest effect should be given to them.

10. Section 154 of the Code of Criminal Procedure provides for the recording of the first information. The information report as such is not substantive evidence. It may be used to corroborate the informant under S. 157 of the Evidence Act or to contradict him under S. 145 of the Act, if the informant is called as a witness. If the first information is given by the accused himself, the fact of his giving the information is admissible against him as evidence of his conduct under S. 8 of the Evidence Act. If the information is a non-confessional statement, it is admissible against the accused as an admission under S. 21 of the Evidence Act and is relevant, see Faddi v. State of Madhya Pradesh, Cri. Appeal No. 210 of 1963, dated 24-1-1964: (AIR 1964 SC 1850), explaining Nisar Ali v. State of U.P., (S) AIR 1957 SC 366 and Dal Singh v. King Emperor, (1916-17) 44 IA 137: (AIR 1917 PC 25). But a confessional first information report to a police Officer cannot be used against the accused in view of S. 25 of the Evidence Act.

11. The Indian Evidence Act does not define “confession”. For a long time, the Courts in India adopted the definition of “confession” given in Art. 22 of Stephen's Digest of the Law of Evidence. According to that definition a confession is an admission made at any time by a person charged with crime, stating or suggesting the inference that he committed that crime. This definition was discarded by the Judicial Committee in Pakala Narayanaswami v. Emperor, (1938-39) 66 IA 66 : (AIR 1939 PC 47 at p. 52). Lord Atkin observed:

“……..no statement that contains self exculpatory matter can amount to confession, if the exculpatory statement is of some fact which if true would negative the offence alleged to be confessed. Moreover, a confession must either admit in terms the offence, or at any rate substantially all the facts which constitute the offence. An admission of a gravely incriminating fact, even a conclusively incriminating fact, is not of itself a confession, e.g., an admission that the accused is the owner of and was in recent possession of the knife or revolver which caused a death with no explanation of any other man's possession.” These observations received the approval of this Court in Palvinder Kaur v. State of Punjab (1), (1952) 2 SCC 177: 1953 SCR 94: (AIR 1952 SC 354 at p. 357). In State of U.P. v. Deoman Upadhyaya, (1961) 1 SCR 14 at p. 21: (AIR 1960 SC 1125 at pp. 1128-1129). Shah, J., referred to a confession as a statement made by a person stating or suggesting the inference that he has committed a crime.

12. Shortly put, a confession may be defined as an admission of the offence by a person charged with the offence. A statement which contains self-exculpatory matter cannot amount to a confession, if the exculpatory statement is of some fact which, if true, would negative the offence alleged to be confessed. If an admission of an accused is to be used against him, the whole of it should be tendered in evidence and if part of the admission is exculpatory and part inculpatory, the prosecution is not at liberty to use in evidence the inculpatory part only. See Hanumant Govind v. State of M.P.,(1952) 2 SCC 71:1952 SCR 1091: (AIR 1952 SC 343 at p. 350) and (1952) 2 SCC 177: 1953 SCR 94: (AIR 1952 SC 354). The accused is entitled to insist that the entire admission including the exculpatory part must be tendered in evidence. But this principle is of no assistance to the accused where no part of his statement is self-exculpatory; and the prosecution intends to use the whole of the statement against the accused.

13. Now, a confession may consist of several parts and may reveal not only the actual commission of the crime but also the motive, the preparation, the opportunity, the provocation, the weapons used, the intention, the concealment of the weapon and the subsequent conduct of the accused. If the confession is tainted the taint attaches to each part of it. It is not permissible in law to separate one part and to admit it in evidence as a non-confessional statement. Each part discloses some incriminating fact, i.e., some fact which by itself or along with other admitted or proved facts suggests the inference that the accused committed the crime, and though each part taken singly may not amount to a confession, each of them being part of a confessional statement partakes of the character of a confession. If a statement contains an admission of an offence, not only that admission but also every other admission of an incriminating fact contained in the statement is part of the confession.

14. If proof of the confession is excluded by any provision of law such as S. 24, S. 25 and S. 26 of the Evidence Act, the entire confessional statement in all its parts including the admissions of minor incriminating facts must also be excluded, unless proof of it is permitted by some other section under as S. 27 of the Evidence Act. Little substance and content would be left in Ss. 24, 25 and 26 if proof of admission of incriminating facts in a confessional statement is permitted.

15. Sometimes, a single sentence in a statement may not amount to a confession at all. Take a case of a person charged under S. 301-A of the Penal Code, 1860 and a statement made by him to a police officer that “I was drunk: I was driving a car at a speed of 80 miles per hour. I could see A on the road at a distance of 80 yards; I did not blow the horn: I made no attempt to stop the car; the car knocked down A”. No single sentence in this statement amounts to a confession; but the statement read as a whole amounts to a confession of an offence under S. 304-A of the Penal Code, 1860, and it would not be permissible to admit in evidence each sentence separately as a non-confessional statement. Again, take a case where a single sentence in a statement amounts to an admission of an offence. “A” states “I struck “B” with a tangi and hurt him”. In consequence of the injury “B” died. “A” committed an offence and is chargeable under various sections of the Penal Code, 1860. Unless he brings his case within one of the recognised exceptions, his statement amounts to an admission of an offence, but the other parts of the statement such as the motive, the preparation, the absence of provocation, concealment of the weapon and the subsequent conduct, all throw light upon the gravity of the offence and the intention and knowledge of the accused, and negatives the right of private defence, accident and other possible defences. Each and every admission of an incriminating fact contained in the confessional statement is part of the confession.

16. If the confession is caused by an inducement, threat or promise as contemplated by S. 24 of the Evidence Act, the whole of the confession is excluded by S. 24. Proof of not only the admission of the offence but also the admission of every other incriminating fact such as the motive, the preparation and the subsequent conduct is excluded by S. 24. To hold that the proof of the admission of other incriminating facts is not barred by S. 24 is to rob the section of its practical utility and content. It may be suggested that the bar of S. 24 does not apply to the other admissions, but though receivable in evidence, they are of no weight, as they were caused by inducement, threat or promise. According to this suggestion, the other admissions are relevant but are of no value. But we think that on a plain construction of S. 24, proof of all the admissions of incriminating facts contained in a confessional statement is excluded by the section. Similarly, Ss. 25 and 26 bar not only proof of admission of an offence by an accused to a police officer or made by him while in the custody of a police officer but also admissions contained in the confessional statement of all incriminating facts related to the offence.

17. A little reflection will show that the expression "confession" in Ss. 24 to 30 refers to the confessional statement as a whole including not only the admissions of the offence but also all other admissions of incriminating facts related to the offence. Section 27 partially lifts the ban imposed by Ss. 24, 25 and 26 in respect of so much of the information whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact discovered in consequence of the information, if the other conditions of the section are satisfied. Section 27 distinctly contemplates that an information leading to a discovery may be a part of the confession of the accused and thus fall within the purview of Ss. 24, 25 and 26. Section 27 thus shows that a confessional statement admitting the offence may contain additional information as part of the confession. Again, S. 30 permits the Court to take into consideration against a co-accused a confession of another accused affecting not only himself but the other co-accused. Section 30 thus shows that matters affecting other persons may form part of the confession.

18. If the first information report is given by the accused to a police officer and amounts to a confessional statement, proof of the confession is prohibited by S. 25. The confession includes not only the admission of the offence but all other admissions of incriminating facts related to the offence contained in the confessional statement. No part of the confessional statement is receivable in evidence except to the extent that the ban of S. 25 is lifted by S. 27."

23. The legal position, therefore, is this - a statement contained in the FIR furnished by one of the accused in the case cannot, in any manner, be used against another accused. Even as against the accused who made it, the statement cannot be used if it is inculpatory in nature nor can it be used for the purpose of corroboration or contradiction unless its maker offers himself as a witness in the trial. The very limited use of it is, as an admission under Section 21 of the Act of 1872, against its maker alone, and only if the admission does not amount to a confession.

24. To put the aforesaid in simpler terms, an FIR of a confessional nature made by an accused person is inadmissible in evidence against him, except to the extent that it shows he made a statement soon after the offence, thereby identifying him as the maker of the report, which is admissible as evidence of his conduct under Section 8 of the Act of 1872. Additionally, any information furnished by him that leads to the discovery of a fact is admissible under Section 27 of the Act of 1872. However, a non-confessional FIR is admissible against the accused as an admission under Section 21 of the Act of 1872 and is relevant.

25. Thus, the first error that the High Court committed was to read the contents of the FIR lodged by the appellant into evidence. As observed earlier, the FIR lodged by the appellant amounts to a confession, and any confession made by an accused before the police is hit by Section 25 of the Act of 1872. There was no question at all for the High Court to seek corroboration of the medical evidence on record with the confessional part of the FIR lodged by the appellant."

61. Thus, in the light of the aforesaid two decisions of the Hon'ble Apex Court, contents of the FIR lodged by the appellant can not be said to be an admissible piece of evidence. Thus, on such inadmissible evidence, findings of conviction can not be recorded by the trial court, however, contrary view taken by the trial court is against the aforesaid settled principle of law and is therefore liable to be set aside and is accordingly set-aside.

62. Now, it is further relevant to note here that the trial court, while recording the findings of conviction and sentence against the appellant, has also relied upon the provisions contained in Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act regarding special knowledge of the facts to the accused about the incident. The trial court, relying upon the said provisions of law, has recorded the findings of conviction and sentence against the appellant, which too, in our opinion, suffers from patent infirmity and illegality and is therefore liable to be set aside, inasmuch as, as per the settled propositions of law before invoking the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, it is necessary for the prosecution to establish the foundational facts to shift the burden of proof upon the accused. In case, the Court finds that the prosecution fails to establish these foundational facts, rendering reliance upon Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, would be improper as held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Balveer Singh reported in (2025) 8 SCC 545.

63. Further, the Hon□ble Apex Court in the case of Manoj Rameshlal Chhabriya Vs. Mahesh Prakash Ahuja and Another reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 451 has held that while invoking the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, the onus was on the prosecution to lead such evidence, which would show that the accused was at or near his residence so as to attract the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, however, in the present case, the prosecution has miserably failed to discharge the said onus, from which, an inference can be drawn that at the relevant time, the accused-appellant was present at his residence or somebody had seen the accused-appellant coming out or going into his house, in the absence of which, we are of the opinion that the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act can not be invoked in the instant case.

64. It is further germane to point out here that PW-1 Mahendra Pal Sharma, maternal uncle of the deceased, in his testimony, has candidly stated that the appellant Radha Charan used to live in his house alongwith his wife Pramila and niece Manju, however, the prosecution has not produced Manju as a witness so as to prove the fact that she had seen the appellant, present in the house before or at the time of the incident, in the absence of which, the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act can not be invoked.

65. It is further germane to note here that in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, it has been testified that apart from the accused-appellant Radha Charan, number of tenants also used to reside in the premises, where the accused-appellant used to reside, however, none of the said tenants have either been interrogated by the police or their evidence has been adduced before the trial court to prove the factum of appellant being present in his house or somebody seeing the appellant coming out or going into his house at the relevant time, when his wife was killed. It is further germane to point out here that no evidence has been led by the prosecution to prove that any of the tenants had seen the appellant present near or inside his house at the time of the incident. Even Smt. Vimlesh, the sister-in-law of appellant Radha Charan, who also used to reside in the same vicinity having a common boundary with that of the accused-appellant, has been withheld by the prosecution for the reasons best known to them. Thus, in the absence of these foundational facts, we are of the opinion that the provisions of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act can not be invoked in this case and the contrary findings recorded by the trial court basing the conviction and sentence thereupon, is therefore erroneous, illegal and bad in law and is liable to be set aside.

66. In the instant case, another ground, on which, the trial court has recorded the findings of conviction, is based on the recovery of crime weapon- "farsa" at the pointing out of the appellant Radha Charan. In this regard, the evidence led by the prosecution is the confessional statement of the accused-appellant recorded by the Investigating Officer, wherein, accused-appellant Radha Charan stated that the crime weapon- farsa, by which, he had given a blow on the neck of his wife causing her death is kept inside the Kotha and he can get it recovered. Subsequently, on the basis of the said statement, the Investigating Officer accompanied the accused and reached the place of the incident and appointed Har Prasad and Resham Lal, the two witnesses for recovery of the said farsa and thereafter, in front of them, the accused Radha Charan went inside the Kotha and brought out a blood-stained farsa and handed it over to the Investigating Officer, on the basis of which, the Investigating Officer prepared the recovery memo and got it duly signed by the two witnesses, namely, Har Prasad and Resham Lal and accused-appellant Radha Charan himself, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-4.

67. In order to prove the recovery of farsa, the prosecution has produced the witness Har Prasad as PW-2, however, when we carefully go through his testimony, we find that he, in his examination-in-chief, stated that :-

"मुलजिम राधा चरन ने कोठे के अन्दर से निकाल कर पुलिस को मेरे सामने फरसा दिया था, वो फरसा खून से सना हुआ था। लेकिन मैं उस फरसे को नहीं पहचान पाऊंगा। गवाह को फरसा प्रदर्श-1 दिखाया गया तो उसने कहा कि मैं नहीं कह सकता कि जो फरसा मुलजिम ने निकालकर दिया था, वो यही फरसा था या नहीं। लेकिन जो फरसा मुलजिम ने निकालकर पुलिस को दिया था, उसे मौके पर ही दरोगा जी ने सील मोहर कर दिया था और उसकी लिखा-पढ़ी भी मौके पर वहीं की थी। उस पर मेरे भी गवाही के दस्तखत कराये थे। वो कागज प्रदर्श क-4 है जिस पर मेरे दस्तखत हो रहे हैं। उस समय मेरे साथ रेशम लाल भी मौजूद था। इस कागज पर उसने भी उसी समय मेरे सामने दस्तखत किये थे।"

68. On being cross-examined, PW-2 Har Prasad testified that he had not given any affidavit by appearing before the court and is not aware as to what affidavit is. About 2-1/2 months back, he attended the court but not this court. He was brought by the brother of Radha Charan, who got something scribed on a paper and got it signed but he does not know what was written on the said paper. He also could not recollect as to how many papers were signed by him.

69. During further cross-examination, the attention of PW-2 Har Prasad was drawn to an application, marked as 12-Kha, whereupon he admitted that he had put his signatures on the said application at two places and once, it was signed in this court itself, when he had come to file the said documents. He further corrected himself and stated that earlier in his testimony, he had stated that he had not come to this court 2-1/2 months back, however, the same is incorrect. On his attention been drawn to his affidavit, marked as 13-Kha/3 and 13-Kha/4, he admitted that it has been signed by him at four places. He further testified that he could not recollect if any counsel got his signature on a register, however, no paper was read out to him by any counsel. He can not identify the counsel Daudayal Agrawal (DW-1), however, on being asked to sign the papers before the court, he had signed the papers.

70. Thus, from his testimony, it is evident that though the said witness is an important witness of the recovery of crime weapon- farsa alleged to be brought out by the appellant, however, while testifying before the court, the said witness is highly inconsistent and shaky. At one place, the said witness is denying to have given any affidavit, while at the other, he accepts to have signed the affidavit, which was filed before this court. Thus, being inconsistent witness, his testimony regarding recovery of crime weapon- farsa is shaky and therefore, no credence can be attached to his testimony, being an unreliable witness.

71. Now, other witness of recovery of crime weapon- farsa is PW-5 Resham Lal, however, in his testimony, he has not supported the prosecution story and candidly stated that no recovery of crime weapon- farsa was made by the appellant Radha Charan, in his presence. He further testified that on the next day, on which, the dead body was taken away, a police constable had approached him and stated that the paper for blood test has been spoiled and the same is to be set right, as such, he may again sign the said paper, whereupon he signed the said paper. At the relevant time, when he signed the papers, it was a blank paper.

72. On his attention been drawn to Exhibit Ka-4, he admitted that it bears his signatures. Upon the said testimony, he was declared hostile and thereafter, he was permitted to be cross-examined by the public prosecutor. He categorically testified that Radha Charan did not got recovered the crime weapon- farsa from inside his Kotha and the police got his signatures only at two places. He further denied to have given any such statement to the Investigating Officer to the extent that the accused Radha Charan got recovered a blood-stained farsa from inside the Kotha, the recovery memo of which was prepared by the Investigating Officer and the same was sealed.

73. On his attention been drawn to his earlier statement, he denied to have given any such statement to the Investigating Officer. He further candidly testified that in the instant case, he had given an affidavit that no farsa was handed over by Radha Charan to the police and he himself had appeared to give the said affidavit and he further denied the suggestion that he is falsely deposing to rescue Radha Charan.

74. Now, when we further analyse the testimony of PW-2 Har Prasad and PW-5 Resham Lal in the light of the testimony of DW-1 Daudayal Agrawal, who in his statement, has categorically and candidly reiterated the factum of filing of the affidavits both by PW-2 Har Prasad and PW-5 Resham Lal alongwith an application, which has been marked as Exhibits Kha-2, Kha-3 and Kha-4 clearly denying therein that Radha Charan handed over the crime weapon- farsa to the police in their presence, which further renders the prosecution story highly shaky and doubtful regarding the factum of recovery of crime weapon- farsa by the accused-appellant Radha Charan, which creates serious dent in the prosecution story and makes it incredible.

75. It is further germane to point out here that the factum of giving an affidavit by PW-2 Har Prasad and PW-5 Resham Lal has also been proved by DW-1 Daudayal Agrawal, Advocate, who had prepared their affidavits got it sworn by them and filed in the court, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Kha-3. Vakalatnama of Resham Lal and Har Prasad as well as an application marked as Exhibits Kha-1 and Kha-2, denying the factum of recovery of farsa in their presence from the house of the accused-appellant has also been brought on record and is a relevant piece of evidence.

76. From the aforesaid testimony, it is evident that the manner, in which, the accused brought out the crime weapon- farsa from inside the Kotha of his house and handed it over to the Investigating Officer, who prepared its recovery memo, which has been proved and marked as Exhibit Ka-4, in our opinion, does not fulfil the requirement of a valid recovery as envisaged under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. For a valid recovery under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, either the crime weapon should have been recovered from the possession of the accused or on his pointing out, however, in the instant case, admittedly, the crime weapon- farsa has been brought out from the Kotha by the accused, while the Investigating Officer and the witnesses were standing out at the door-step, thus, the exact place, from where the recovery of the crime weapon- farsa has been made, has not been clinchingly and clearly established in the instant case, which further renders the recovery of crime weapon- farsa doubtful. To quote :-"जिस समय मुलजिम अन्दर कोठे में गया तो मैं उस दरवाजे पर खड़ा हुआ था जो दोनों खनों के बीच की दीवार में है यानी उस खन में खड़ा था, जहां पर लाश पड़ी थी, वहां से वो फरसा दिखाई नहीं दे रहा था। वो फरसा उत्तरी-पश्चिमी कोने में रखा हुआ था। मैंने ये जानने की जरूरत नहीं समझी की फरसा कोने में किसी चीज में छिपा रखा था या वैसे ही रखा हुआ था।"

77. In respect of the factum of recovery of crime weapon- farsa and its keeping in safe custody for being sent for chemical examination, it is germane to point out here that even according to the prosecution own case, the crime weapon- farsa was shown to be handed over by the accused to the Investigating Officer on 02.02.1983 at about 10:00-11:00 AM and it was thereafter kept at the Police Station and sent to Maal Khana on 03.02.1983, however, it was returned back on 03.02.1983 itself at 5:45 PM and thereafter, was sent to the Maal Khana on 10.02.1983. No explanation whatsoever has been tendered by PW-3 Kamal Kishor Mishra as to in between the period from 02.02.1983 to 10.02.1983, where the crime weapon- farsa was kept, which further raises a big question mark about the veracity of the recovery of the crime weapon- farsa from the accused and its chemical examination report, upon which, implicit reliance has been placed by the trial court while recording the conviction.

78. Thus, in the backdrop of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, even the factum of recovery of blood-stained farsa at the pointing out of the appellant and the F.S.L. report can not be said to be clinchingly proved by the prosecution against the appellant.

79. It is further germane to point out here that even otherwise also, it is well settled principle of law laid down by the Hon□ble Apex Court in several cases that mere recovery of weapon and F.S.L. report as in the present case, is not enough to convict the accused, in the absence of corroborative evidence as held by the Hon□ble Apex Court in the case of Govind Vs. State of Haryana reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2456.

80. In view of foregoing discussions, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has miserably failed to prove the case beyond all reasonable doubts against the appellant and the findings recorded by the trial court convicting the appellant and sentencing him for the offence charged with is therefore set aside by allowing the appeal.

81. In the result, the instant criminal appeal succeeds and is hereby allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 19.01.1984 passed by the trial court is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all the charges and he be set free forthwith, if not wanted in any other case, subject to the compliance of Section 437-A of Cr.P.C. to the satisfaction of the trial court.

82. Let a copy of this judgment and order be forwarded to the trial court alongwith trial court record for information and necessary compliance.

(HON'BLE RAJIV GUPTA, J.
HON'BLE DEVENDRA SINGH-I, J.)

1. Shri Vishesh Kumar, Advocate was appointed an Amicus Curiae to argue the instant criminal appeal on behalf of the appellant. He has rendered valuable assistance to the Court.

2. The Court quantified Rs. 15,000/- to be paid to Shri Vishesh Kumar towards fees for the able assistance provided by him in hearing of the instant criminal appeal.

3. The said fees shall be paid to him by the Registry of this Court within a period of one month from today.

Criminal Appeal No. 534 of 1995

Ram Pheran & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal against a conviction under section, 498-A, 304-B/ 302/34 of the IPC, where the appellant was accused of dowry death (strangulation and subsequent burning) of his wife over dowry demands.

Headnotes

A. Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 498-A, 304-B/ 302/34-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Dowry death Vs. Murder-Circumstantial evidence-Deceased found extensively burnt in matrimonial home-Medical evidence (PW-4) revealing death by asphyxia due to strangulation prior to burning-Absence of carbon particles in the trachea and a fractured hyoid bone are definitive indicators of death by strangulation prior to burning-Harassment for dowry of Rs. 1000 established by testimony of father(PW-1) and brother (PW-2)-Plea o alibi by husband and mother-in-law rejected as it contradicted the initial information given by the father-in-law admitting their presence-Hence, a false plea of alibi in a case of custodial death in a matrimonial home serves as an additional link in the chain of circumstantial evidence-Appellant no. 2 released by the Governor on remission after serving over 24 years-While conviction and sentence are confirmed, the appellant is not required to surrender to undergo the remaining sentence as the constitutional power of remission remains untouched by the court's judgment.(Para 24 to 34)

Held

The court held that the deceased was strangulated to death before being set on fire to stage a suicide or accident. Evidence showed a fractured hyoid bone and absence of sooty particles in the trachea, confirming the burns occurred post-death. The appellants' plea of alibi was discarded due to their own contradictory statement. The court upheld the conviction, finding the chain of circumstantial evidence complete. Since the Governor already granted remission under Article 161, the surviving appellant is not required to surrender to serve the remaining life sentence. (E-6)

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No.- 534 OF 1995
Ram Pheran & Ors Vs. State of U.P.
From the judgment and order dated 16.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s) :-
H.P. Pathak, M.P. Yadav
Adv. for Respondent(s):-
G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

(1) Heard Sri M.P. Yadav, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Pawan Kumar Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

(2) The instant Criminal Appeal has been filed assailing the judgment and order dated 25.08.1995, passed in Sessions Trial No.498/1994 (The State versus Ram Pheran and Others) by the Sessions Judge, Gonda, arising out of Case Crime No.29/94, under Sections 498-A/ 304-B/ 302 read with Section 34 of Indian Penal Code(hereinafter referred to as IPC) and Section 3/5 of Dowry Prohibition Act (hereinafter referred as D.P. Act), Police Station Harraiya, District Gonda, by means of which the appellants have been convicted under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and Section 498-A IPC and sentenced each of them to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and to undergo one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 498-A IPC alongwith a fine of Rs.1000/- payable by each of them and in default of payment of fine, to undergo further rigorous imprisonment for one month. It has further been provided that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

(3) The prosecution story, in short, is that Smt. Meena Devi, daughter of Moti Lal was married to the appellant no.2 Mansha Ram, resident of Village Sonpur, Police Station Harraiya, District Gonda in the year 1989. The accused Ram Pheran is the husband of the accused Smt. Maharani. They are the father-in-law and mother-in-law of the deceased. The accused persons used to demand Rs.1,000/- as dowry from the deceased and harass her on account of non-fulfillment of their demand. It was further alleged that, since the marriage of the brother of the deceased was scheduled to take place on 23.06.1994, her brother Ram Chandra had come to take her on 19.06.1994. However, she was not sent with Ram Chandra, the brother of the deceased and he was forced to return without her. He was told that if the amount of dowry of Rs.1000/- would not be paid, his sister would face dire consequences. In the midnight between19.06.1994 and 20.06.1994, the deceased was allegedly burnt by the appellants, on account of non-fulfillment of their demand of dowry. The written F.I.R. was given at Police Station Harraiya on 20.06.1994 at about 04:45 p.m. by Moti Lal, the father of the deceased. On the basis of the said written report, Chick F.I.R. was prepared and case was registered against all the three accused/appellants at Crime No.29/94, under Sections 498-A/ 304-B I.P.C., entry of which was also made in the GD, a copy of which is on record.

(4) As borne out from the records, before the aforesaid F.I.R. was lodged by Moti Lal on 20.06.1994, a written information had been furnished by the accused/appellant Ram Pheran at Police Station Harraiya on 20.06.1994 at about 8:05 a.m., intimating therein about the death of his daughter-in-law on account of burning. This information was entered in the GD at Serial No.10, a copy of which is on record. Accordingly, the process was undertaken for inquest proceedings of the dead body on the basis of said information at 2:00 p.m. Thereafter, the dead body was sent for post mortem examination, which was conducted on 22.06.1994 at about 1:00 p.m. in the mortuary, Gonda. The Investigating Officer prepared the site plan of the spot, took into his custody the dhibri, prepared Naksha Lash and on completion of the investigation, he submitted the charge sheet against all the three accused persons on 16.09.1994 under Sections 498-A, 304-B and 201 IPC. The cognizance was taken by learned Magistrate. Thereafter the matter was committed to the session. The Session Court framed the charges against all the accused persons i.e. the appellants under Section 304-B, 498-A and Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC as well as Section 3/5 D.P. Act, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

(5) In order to prove it's case, the prosecution examined P.W.1; Moti Lal, the informant and father of the deceased, P.W.2 Ram Chandra; brother of the deceased, P.W. 3 Pawan Kumar, P.W. 4 Dr. Ashok Kumar, who conducted the post mortem examination, P.W.5 Constable Mishri Lal, who took the dead body for post mortem examination, P.W.6 S.I. R.K. Chaudhary, who conducted the inquest proceedings of the dead body, P.W.7 Pradeep Kumar; Investigating Officer of the case and P.W.8 Head Constable Ram Sewak to prove the information furnished by Ram Pheran. The prosecution also placed on record certain documentary evidences and proved the same.

(6) Thereafter, the statements of the accuseds under Section 313 Cr.P.C. were recorded, in which they denied the allegations. They stated that the marriage had taken place nine years back and a wrong post mortem report had been obtained, on account of extraneous consideration. According to the accused Ram Pheran, his wife Smt. Maharani and son Mansha Ram i.e. husband of the deceased were not present at the time of incident, as they were in village Padam Chakki, situated at a distance of about two and a half kilometers from the place of incident. He stated that he alone was present and was sleeping at the door of the house at a distance of about 250 kasies. When the deceased caught fire and raised an alarm, the villagers, particularly the women assembled there. However, he did not enter into the house, as the deceased was his daughter-in-law. Similar pleas of absence were taken by the accused appellants Mansha Ram and his mother Smt. Maharani. The defence examined D.W.1; Rameshwar Prasad and D.W.2; Krishna Mohan, particularly to prove that the appellants Smt. Maharani and Mansha Ram were not in the house at the time of incident.

(7) The learned trial court, thereafter after hearing learned counsels for the parties and considering the evidence and material on record, acquitted the appellants under Section 304-B IPC and 3/5 D.P.Act on the ground that the charges under the said sections could not be proved and convicted the appellants under Section 498-A and Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. Hence, this appeal has been filed.

(8) During pendency of appeal, the appellants no.1 and 3 have died, therefore, this appeal stands abated on their behalf. Now this appeal survives only on behalf of the appellant no.2.

(9) We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(10) In-disputedly, the death of Meena Devi, a young lady of 18 years of age and married to the accused Mansha Ram, had taken place in the intervening of 19/20.6.1994 inside the house of the appellants (accused) in Village Sonpur, on account of excessive burning. The father-in-law of the deceased, who is father of the appellant Mansha Ram, submitted a written report on 20.06.1994 at 8:05 a.m.(Ex Ka-16), intimating therein that a son had been born to his younger brother Kamta Prasad on 19.06.1994 and in celebration thereof, the ladies of the family were playing musical instruments and singing. He, his brother Kamta Prasad and son Mansha Ram were sleeping outside of the house. After the singing and playing of instruments, his daughter-in-law, wife of Mansha Ram was going to sleep, who had glowing lamp(dhibri) of glass in her hand. When she reached near the door, the flame from the lamp caught her terricot saree and she started burning. On the alarm raised by her, they ran and reached the spot. By that time, the daughter-in-law was extensively burnt and lying unconscious. They tried to extinguish the fire but by that time, she died. This incident occurred at about 1:00 a.m. in the night between 19/20.06.1994. As there was no arrangement in the night, therefore, he has sent Triveni @ Teja son of Rajkumar Mishr and Krishna Mohan Tiwari son of Ram Surat Tiwari to the parental house of the daughter-in-law to inform them and thereafter he has come to the police station to give the information.

(11) In view of above, admittedly, the appellants were present at the time of the incident, in which the deceased died on account of burning. However, during trial, they took the plea that only the complainant Ram Pheran was present at the spot, whereas Mansha Ram; the husband of the deceased and his mother i.e. wife of the complainant; Smt. Maharani were not present and had gone to village Padam Chakki. To prove it, they took this defence in their statements under Section 313 C.r.P.C. and also produced two defence witnesses.

(12) D.W.1; Rameshwar Prasad stated that at about 12:30 p.m. in the night, he heard the noise that there is a fire, then he went to the house of Mansha Ram and found that his wife was burning and the persons present were trying to extinguish the fire by the cotton and clothes. At that time, Mansha Ram and Maharani were not present at home,as they had gone to Village Padam Chakki, which is at a distance of about 8-9 kms from Sonpur. Ram Pheran was at his house, at about 250-300 steps in the south. He also stated that Mansha Ram and Maharani returned in the morning, on the information given to them. He denied the suggestion that the appellants had killed the deceased on account of dowry demand.

(13) D.W.2; Krishna Mohan also stated that about 1 year two months back, at about 12:00-1:00 a.m., he heard the noise that the house of Ram Pheran is burning. He ran towards his house and found that the daughter-in-law of Ram Pheran was burning and whoever reached there was trying to extinguish the fire. At that time, Mansha Ram and Maharani were not present at the house. Subsequently, he came to know that they had gone to village Padam Chakki, which is about 5-6 kms. away from Village Sonpur. He, in his cross examination, has admitted that he has affinity with Ram Pheran, the complainant.

(14) The evidence given by D.W.1 and D.W.2 is contrary to the information given by the complainant i.e. the appellant Ram Pheran on 20.06.1994 (Ex. Ka-16) at 8:05 in the morning at the Police Station Harraiya, District Gonda, wherein he admitted that he, alongwith his son and brother Kamta Prasad was sleeping outside the house, therefore, the plea of alibi taken by the appellants is an after thought, and the evidence of D.W.1 and D.W.2 is not reliable. Even otherwise, they are not eye witnesses.

(15) The learned trial court, after considering the evidence and material on record, recorded that the plea of absence required strict proof thereof, which could not be done. D.W.1 and D.W.2 were not found worthy of placing any credence, as they made efforts to state a fact against the own admission of accused Ram Pheran, who had himself admitted his presence at the relevant time and the plea of alibi of Smt. Maharani also could not be proved and discarded the plea. This Court is in agreement with the view taken by the learned trial court. Now this Court has to see as to how the deceased died and the cause of death and under the circumstances, the appellants could only have the perpetrators of crime.

(16) Dr. Ashok Kumar, who appeared as P.W.4, proved the post mortem report (Ex. Ka-2). He found that inner and middle coats of carotid arteries were found lacerated with extravasation of blood within their walls. The cornu of hyoid (left comu) was found broken (fractured). The body was of a young lady of average built and muscularity with both eyes proptosed and mouth semi opened. Whole body was burnt except both feet and both soles. Scalp haris were also diarred. Smell of kerosene was found present on the body and clothes. Abdomen was burst open and the abdominal contents were coming out. Small to medium sized maggots were found present on the body. Occasional blisters were also found present on the body, which were containing air only. As per the post mortem report, the following anti mortem injuries were found:-

"Post mortem burn of face, head, neck, trunks and both extremities including perinium except both soles and both feet. There was no line of redness. Occasional vesications containing air with their bases hard, dry and yellow. No reparative process was found present. It has further been recorded that the larynx were marked by congested mucosa. No sooty particles were found present in trachea of bronchitis. Both lungs were found markedly congested showing haemorrhage i.e. petechiae and exuding dark fluid blood on section. Emphysematous patches on the surface of lungs were also found present. The cause of death was due to asphyxia on account of strangulation."

(17) He opined that the death of the deceased had occurred in the night of 19/20.6.1994. He stated that he alongwith his companion Dr. P.K. Agarwal, found the cause of death was strangulation and thereafter burning of the dead body, which was different than the reason given in the inquest report, therefore, he wrote a letter dated 22.06.1994 to the Superintendent of Police in this regard and as per the directions received, the post mortem was conducted in the presence of Chief Medical Officer by him and his companion Dr. P.K. Agarwal. He proved the letter written to the Superintendent of Police (Ex. Ka-3). He proved the report written on the said letter by the Chief Medical Officer as Ex.Ka-4. In his cross examination, he stated that in his opinion, in the living status, if the dead body is burnt of a living person, then certain particles of carbon necessarily go in the wind pipe, which is called sooty particles. However, in the present case, the wind pipe was congested from inside, which, according to him is reason of death by strangulation. He further stated that the blood was not deposited in the lungs on account of hue because no sooti particles had gone inside. He also stated that the hyoid bone was fractured. He also stated that hyoid bone cannot be fractured in case of pressure at the time of burning. He stated that the dead body of the deceased was about 90% burnt. Thus, it is proved that the deceased had already died before burning.

(18) In view of above, it has been proved that the deceased was killed, thereafter, she was burnt after pouring kerosene oil on her to give it a colour of suicide.

(19) P.W.1, i.e. the complainant, has stated that the appellants used to demand Rs.1000/- as dowry and since he was not in a position to pay the amount, they used to beat his daughter and they also do not give food to her. He also stated that the marriage of his son Shiv Dayal, was fixed for 23.06.1994, therefore, he had sent his another son Ram Chandra on 19.06.1994 to invite her and bring her home, but she was not sent on the ground that the complainant has not given Rs.1,000/- as demanded by the appellants. He proved the F.I.R. lodged by him. He further stated that on the next day, while he was preparing for going to the house of his daughter's in-laws, he received the information regarding her death. Thereafter he went to the house of his in-laws, where he found her dead body and also came to know that her daughter has been killed, therefore, he gave a written complaint i.e. Paper No.4/2 for lodging the F.I.R. He proved the same as Ex. Ka-1. In the cross examination, he stated that in the room of her daughter he had not found any burnt article except the clothes of his daughter. Her face was also burnt. Besides her saree, six-seven other sarees were found burnt. The dead body was near the cot, where she used to sleep. He denied the suggestion that her daughter had died her natural death.

(20) P.W.2 Ram Chandra, the brother of the deceased has also stated that the appellants used to demand Rs.1,000/-. He also stated that he does not know as to whether his father had given the same or not. He further stated that the marriage of his brother was fixed in the month of June 1994, therefore, he had gone to bring his sister on 19.06.1994 but she was not sent on account of non-payment of Rs.1,000/-. He further stated that he was also told that if the money was not paid, then the life of the girl would be in danger. He had also met his sister Meena, who told him that the appellants used to harass her for the money and if the money would not be given, her life would be in danger. She had also informed that they do not give her food. He had made request for sending his sister but they told that she would not be sent, unless the money was paid. On 20.06.1994, he came to know about the death of his sister. In the cross examination, nothing could be extracted, which may create any doubt about the veracity of the evidence given by P.W.2. All the other witnesses, who proved lodging of F.I.R., inquest report, taking the body for post mortem and the investigation, but nothing could be extracted from them, which may create even a single doubt in their evidence.

(21) The learned trial court, after considering the post mortem examination report and the testimony of P.W.4 Dr. Ashok Kumar, has recorded a finding that at first the deceased was strangulated and thereafter she was set ablaze by sprinkling kerosene oil in attempt to conceal the evidence and to give different version of story. Not only hyoid bone was found fractured but there were no sooty particles found in trachea and bronchitis though there was smell of kerosene oil on the body with absence of redness in the injury which alongwith the symptoms as mentioned in the post mortem, indicates clearly that the burns were post death and that the lady had already died on account of strangulation.

(22) On the basis of above, learned trial court has found that the charges under Section 498 A IPC and Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC have been found proved against all the three accused i.e. the appellants, as the deceased was subjected to cruelty soon before her death by her father-in-law, husband and mother-in-law and they committed murder of Smt. Meena by strangulating her with a common intention and thereafter setting her on fire, after sprinkling kerosene oil and convicted accordingly. However, the learned trial court acquitted the appellants from the charges under Section 304-B IPC and Section 3/5 of D.P. Act, as the charges under the said provisions have not been found proved. The said part of the judgment has not been assailed by either the State or the complainant.

(23) This Court is in agreement with the findings recorded by the trial court and the conclusion drawn. On giving thoughtful consideration to the evidence and material on record, this Court also finds that the deceased was subjected to harassment soon before her death and even she was not being given food. She was killed by strangulation and on account of her harassment, even her hyoid bone was fractured. Thereafter to give colour of suicide, she was burnt by pouring kerosene oil on her.

(24) In the facts and circumstances of the case, and upon considering the case in hand on the touch stone of five golden principles of circumstantial evidence enumerated in the case of Sharad Birdichand Sarda versus State of Maharashtra; (1984) 4 SCC 116, the appellants, who were present at the time of crime could only have committed the crime. The plea of alibi of the husband and mother of deceased by the defence could not be proved as discussed above. The relevant paragraphs 153 and 154 of Sharad Birdichand Sarda (supra) judgment are extracted here-in-below:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.
It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra, where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between 'may be' and 'must be' is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheet of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

(25) The aforesaid has been followed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Anwar Ali and Another versus State of Himachal Pradesh (2020) 10 SCC 166.

(26) The aforesaid golden principles still hold the field and upon testing a case appropriately on the said principles and conclusions arrived thereupon, there cannot be any doubt about the conclusions and the conclusions cannot be said to be erroneous or perverse.

(27) In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court does not find any illegality or error in the conviction of the appellants.

(28) The learned trial court has awarded the punishment of life imprisonment under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and further sentenced each of them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year each under Section 498 IPC besides a fine of Rs.1000/- payable by each of the accused and in default of payment of fine, to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one month further. This Court does not find any illegality or error in the sentence and fine awarded to the appellants. However, the appellant no.1 Ram Pheran and appellant no.3 Smt. Maharani have died. Thus, appeal on their behalf has already abated.

(29) The appellant no.1 was released on 08.09.2000 in pursuance of Government Order No.1951/22-2-2000-18(75/2000 dated 11.8.2000), on account of completion of 60 years of age and three years of period of incarceration with remission. Appellant No.2 Mansha Ram has been released on 22.02.2019 in compliance of Government Order No.1014/22-2-2019-17 (519)/ 2019 dated 15.02.2019 on remission granted by His/Her Excellency the Governor of Uttar Pradesh under Article 161 of Constitution of India and Government Order No.82/Provation-6/144 dated 20.02.2019 of IG, Jail Administration and Reforms Department, U.P., Lucknow. The appeal on behalf of appellant no.1 has already abated.

(30) Now the question arises as to whether the appellant no.2 is liable to be sent again to jail to serve out remaining sentence or not in view of remission granted to him by the Governor under Article 161 of the Constitution of India.

(31) This Court is of the view that the punishment awarded to the appellants was sufficient and commensurate to the crime committed by the appellants. However, the appellant no.2 has been released on remission after completion of 24 years 6 months 5 days of incarceration and 29 years 11 months 15 days with remission, therefore, he is not required to surrender to undergo the remaining period of sentence because upholding of conviction and dismissal of appeal confirming sentence will not affect the order passed by Governor under Article 161 of Constitution of India. However, it cannot affect the power of this Court to decide the appeal and take decision in regard to conviction and sentence.

(32) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Union of India versus Sriharan; 2016 (7) SCC 1, has held that right to claim remission, commutation, reprieve etc. as provided under Article 72 or Article 161 of the Constitution will always be available being constitutional remedies untouchable by the Court.

(33) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Suresh Yadav versus State of Chhatisgarh; (2022) 19 SCC 469, in which the appellant was released on remission by the Government and the conviction was upheld, held that dismissal of the appeal shall not be of any adverse effect on such exercise of power of remission by the State Government because under Article 161 of the Constitution of India, the Governor of a State has a power to grant remissions of punishment of any person convicted of any offence against any law relating to a matter to which the executive power of the State extends. The relevant paragraph 11 is extracted hereinbelow:-

As per the office report and the custody certificate placed before us, it appears that on 07.09.2019, the appellant, after having served the sentence of imprisonment for a period of 15 years 9 months and 27 days, was released under Section 432 Cr.P.C. by the Government of Chhatisgarh. Having regard to the circumstances, we make it clear that dismissal of the appeal shall not be of any adverse effect on such exercise of power of remission by the Government of chhatisgarh.

(34) In view of above and considering overall facts and circumstances of case, the appeal is dismissed, upholding the conviction and confirming the sentence awarded by the learned trial court. However, in view of the fact that the appellant no.2 has been released on remission granted by the Governor under Article 161 of the Constitution of India, he is not required to surrender to undergo the remaining period of sentence.

(35) Let a copy of this judgment alongwith the Trial Court's record be sent back forthwith and in any case within a period of one week from today.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE AVNISH SAXENA, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2044 of 1983

Ali Hasan & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal against a dacoity conviction where seven named co-villagers allegedly committed dacoity at Dhanpal's house, looting cash and ornaments while injuring his mother and sisters.

Headnotes

Criminal law- Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 395, 397-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Dacoity and attempt to cause death-Inconsistent ocular testimony vs. medical evidence-Testimonies from related witnesses (PW-1, PW-2, PW3) contained significant discrepancies regarding number of dacoits, whether their faces were covered and the specific weapons carried-The oral testimony of PW-3 alleging a knife injury was directly contradicted by medical findings, which showed injuries caused only by hard and blunt objects-Furthermore, the prosecution failed to prove the injury reports of the sisters of the informant-The investigation was also found lacking as the Investigating Officer failed to collect empty cartridges from alleged gunshots, broken locks, or any evidence of the cash proceeds (Rs. 6000/-) mentioned in the FIR-Despite the arrest of the accused, no looted booty or ornaments were recovered from them, undermining the prosecution's case.-The defense of false implication due to village party-bandi and a prior criminal complaint filed by one of the accused against the informant was not properly considered by the Trial Court-Prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt-Acquittal of surviving appellants. Appeal allowed.(Para 16 to 29)

Held

The court held that conviction for dacoity unsustainable when the trial court fails to establish the factum of the incident and relies on inconsistent ocular testimony that lacks corroboration from medical or investigative evidence. The parties were co-villagers with a history of documented animosity, including a prior criminal complaint filed by one of the accused against the informant and local political rivalry stemming from a Pradhani election. Trial court erred to first determine if the incident actually occurred before assessing the involvement of the accused. Hence, the conviction set aside. (E-6)

Ali Hasan & Ors Vs. State of U.P.
From the judgment and order dated 16.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s) :-
Brij Raj, Narendra Kumar, Sanjive Kumar Gupta, Tejram
Adv. for Respondent(s):-
A.G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. Heard Sri Brij Raj and Sri Sanjive Kumar Gupta, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Chandra Badan, learned A.G.A. for the State. Perused the record.

2. The oldest criminal appeal has been preferred by seven accused-appellants in the year 1983 under Section 374(2) CrPC from District Badaun, on being aggrieved by the judgment of conviction and sentence passed by the court of Special Sessions Judge, Badaun on 29.08.1983 in Special Sessions Trial No.157 of 1982, arising out of Case Crime No.321 reported on 27.07.1982 at 6:30 a.m. at Police Station Ujhani, District Badaun for offence under Section 395 (punishment for dacoity) and 397 (dacoity with attempt to cause death or grievous hurt), whereby the trial court has convicted accused-appellants 1 to 3, Ali Hasan, Narain and Nandey, respectively for offence under Section 395 I.P.C. and accused-appellants 4 to 7 Omkar, Harpal, Latoori, Mehndi, respectively for offence under Sections 395 I.P.C. read with Section 397 I.P.C. Therefore, appellants Omkar, Harpal, Latoori and Mehndi were punished for imprisonment of 7 years rigorous imprisonment, whereas accused Ali Hasan, Narain and Nandey were punished with 5 years rigorous imprisonment.

3. During the pendency of appeal, four appellants, Narain s/o Gindu, Nandey s/o Jhammn, Omkar s/o Dhoom Singh and Mehndi s/o Chunni have passed away and by order dated 21.02.2019, the appeal was abated for appellant no.2, Narain, appellant no.3 Nande, appellant no.4 Omkar and appellant no.7 Mehndi.

4. The prosecution case has its genesis from the written information given by Dhanpal (P.W.-1), scribed by Jagdish s/o Bhole Nath disclosing therein that in the intervening night of 26/27.07.1982 at about 1:00 a.m. while he and his brother, Ishwari, were sleeping in the cattle shed near the house, they heard the shrieks of his mother and sisters. His brother Ishwari and he ran towards the house accompanied by Nanhey Singh, Ram Lal, Prakash and other villagers with lighted torch in their hands and found that the miscreants were beating their mother and sisters and looting the valuables. The informant and other villagers including his brother have challenged the miscreants, on which, the miscreants came out from the house, who have been identified in the light of torch. Mehndi was carrying gun, Harpal, Omkar and Latoori had country-made pistols and other accused were carrying lathi in their hands. While exiting the accused made two fires and threatened the informant and other villagers, not to chase them. In exchange Ganga Ram has also shot three fires from his licensed gun. The accused then sprinted away towards South. In the dacoity, the mother and sisters of informant were badly injured. It is further revealed from the F.I.R. that the informant was having cash of Rs 6,000/- at his residence. Rs.3,000/- was the proceeds from onion sale and Rs.3,000/- was the advance money for selling his land. The accused had looted Rs.3,000/-, but could not found other Rs.3,000/-, which was kept hidden. The accused have also looted nine items. One Hasali of silver (2.450 gm); one Hasli silver (2.400 gm); one phool for nose; one pair bara silver; 16 pair of lachche silver for toes; one pair pahunchi of silver; one shirt taricoat yellow colour with lines; one Tehmad of Khadi white colour 2.25 meters; and one Baniyan with sleeves of white colour. The F.I.R. further reveals that the accused had left at the place of incident one lathi, one aguncha, one pair of shoes, one cheni and one summi. The informant was accompanied to police station with his injured mother and sisters.

5. The F.I.R. got registered against seven named persons, who are residents of same village.

6. Smt. Jaya Devi (mother of informant) was examined at District Hospital Badaun on 27.07.1982 at 12:30 p.m. In the medical examination, the doctor found contusion and swelling 8 cm x 8 cm and lacerated wound 1cm x □ cm x1/4 cm in middle and left forearms (X-ray advised); the second injury was lacerated wound 6cm x1/2 cms □ cm on middle of head, 7 cm above nasion; and the third injury was contused swelling on dorsum of right hand with (X-ray advised). It is mentioned that injury nos.1 and 3 are kept under observation and X-ray advised. Injury no.2 is simple in nature and all the injuries are caused by hard and blunt object and duration is about □ day. In supplementary medical report, it is found that there is fracture in the middle third of ulna bone. This medical report is not exhibited.

7. Smt. Ishwarwati (sister of informant) was examined on the same day at 12:45 p.m. at District Hospital Badaun. Three injuries were reported. Injury no.1 is lacerated wound 2 □ cm x 1 cm bone deep on the right side of forehead just above medial end of right eyebrow; the second injury is contusion 3 cm x 1 □ cm on lateral side of right knee; and the third injury is contused swelling on right side of upper lip. It is reported that all the injuries are simple in nature caused by hard and blunt object with duration about half day old. This injury report is also not proved by the prosecution. Nanhi the second sister of informant, though stated to be taken to the police station and hospital, but her injuries have not been examined.

8. The charge has been framed on 18.01.1983 for offence under Section 395 I.P.C. against Ali Hasan, Narain, Nandey, whereas, for offence under Section 395 I.P.C. read with Section 397 I.P.C. against accused Omkar, Harpal, Latoori and Mehndi. They have denied the charge and opted for trial.

9. The prosecution has placed Dhanpal as P.W.-1, who is informant of the case; Ishwari as P.W.-2, brother of informant; Ishwarwati, P.W.-3 sister of informant and Nanhey, P.W.-4 as independent witness. These four are the witnesses of fact. The prosecution has produced Shiv Shankar Sharma, S.I., who has investigated the case, as P.W.-5.

10. The appellants have produced Shankar Lal, the village Pradhan as defence witness-1 and in documentary evidence has filed, copy of application carrying the signatures of Sarpanch Jagat Pal dated 10.02.1982 of Gram Panchayat Adwalganj, in Case No.1 of 1982, which was filed by Mehndi Hasan against Dhanpal, Nanhe, Ramlal and Ram Prakash stating therein that on 10.01.1982 these accused had taken away two chenni, one summi, 15 Hathoras, 25 dhan, 5 sadasi, total 48 items from the shop of Mehndi Hasan, who is a blacksmith and by doing this work, he used to nurture his family.

11. It is submitted by the learned counsel for these surviving appellants that the trial court in its judgment has not deliberated on the point whether in actuality dacoity took place in the house of Dhanpal. On the contrary, the trial Judge has presumed that the dacoity took place in the house of Dhanpal. The only point deliberated by the trial judge is about the involvement of accused in the said dacoity. Further submits that all the witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution are related and interested witnesses, namely, P.W.-1 Dhanpal, P.W.-2 Ishwari and P.W.-3 Ishwarwati are real brothers and sister. Moreover, there is inconsistency in the statements. Ishwarwati P.W.-3 has stated that accused Harpal, Omkar and Ali Hasan had beaten her, who have been identified by her, whereas, P.W.-4 Nanhey has identified Mehndi, Ali Hasan and Harpal. He has stated to be with the informant, whereas, the informant has identified all the seven accused, though in his examination-in-chief, he has stated that there were 10 to 11 dacoits, who entered his house for dacoity. Therefore, the witnesses are not reliable, but were considered as reliable by the trial court. Further submits that the trial court must have considered evidence on record on the point of dacoity being committed or not in the house of Dhanpal because without deciding the basic question of committing of dacoity, the accused-appellants cannot be convicted for committing dacoity. Further submits that the F.I.R. version if considered to be true, there were five gun shots fires at the place of incident; two fires were shot by the dacoits and three fires by the Ganga Ram through his licensed gun. Ganga Ram has never been produced before the trial court. Even his licensed gun was not checked to see that the fire has been shot from his licensed gun or empty cartridges were collected. The Investigating Officer has neither collected any document pertaining to proposed sale of land by the informant and getting the advance of Rs.3,000/- nor the same is produced before the court. In the same way, the proceed of Rs.3,000/- from the sale of onion is also not examined by the Investigating Officer, which has been narrated specially in the F.I.R. Further submits that the accused-appellants are of same village and are family persons. The trial court has negated this argument of the accused-appellants that the persons of same village can never commit dacoity bare faced if they are not known dacoits and the accused appellants had no criminal history. Further submits that the trial judge has also negated the arguments of the accused that they have been falsely implicated in the case due to village party-bandi and previous animosity nurtured by the informant Dhanpal and scribe of F.I.R. Jagdish. Lastly, because of Pradhani election, wherein the candidate of accused, namely, Shankar Lal D.W.-1 was declared victorious and the candidate of the informant, namely, Ram Prakash was defeated in the election was the cause of false implication. Further submits that there is no recovery of the booty. The informant has specifically stated about the weapons, accused were carrying and has stated that Mehndi was carrying gun, Harpal, Omkar and Latoori had countrymade pistols and all others were carrying lathis, which means that three accused were carrying lathi. If the three accused carrying lathi were seen while exiting from the house of informant then how a lathi was left by the accused in the house of informant. Further submits that the informant has not stated anything about the bundle, wherein the booty was carried away by the accused and who was carrying that bundle. Further submits that the accused-appellants have been falsely implicated in the case of dacoity, who are of same village and four of the appellants have already passed away and surviving appellants are more than 70 years of age. Hence, submitted that the accused-appellants be acquitted in the false case of dacoity and their appeal be allowed.

12. Learned counsel has relied on the judgments of Balbir and others Vs. State of U.P. decided on 09.07.2020 in Criminal Appeal No.648 of 1983 (relied particularly paragraph nos.6, 9, 10, 11, 12), Ram Singh Vs. State decided on 31.08.2018 in Criminal Appeal No.3152 of 1982 (relied particularly paragraph nos.7, 8, 11, 19, 20, 21) and Rama Shanker and another Vs. State of U.P. decided on 19.07.2022 in Criminal Appeal No.2269 of 1982 (relied particularly paragraph nos.18, 20, 21, 22, 23). The judgments of Balbir (supra) and Rama Shanker (supra) are not applicable in the present set of facts because in these judgments the issue was dacoity by less than five persons.

13. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submits that the F.I.R. has been lodged by the P.W.-1 Dhanpal against seven persons, who have been identified while exiting the house of informant. The injured witness Ishwarwati and independent witness Nanhey have specifically identified three accused each. Ali Hasan and Harpal have been identified by both of these witnesses, whereas, Omkar is identified by P.W.-3 Ishwarwati and Mehndi is identified by P.W.-4 Nanhey. The involvement of accused-appellants and their committing dacoity is explicit from the statement of witnesses. It is a general trend of the society that all the persons, who have seen the incident of dacoity, are not inclined to appear as witness in court, because they fear rivalry and the accused-appellants are of same village. Further submits that the trial court has rightly appreciated the evidences adduced by the prosecution and recorded conviction. Further submits that the torch light was sufficient to identify the accused. The police has prepared the memo of recovery of torch and it□s return recovered from Nanhey Singh, Ram Lal, Ram Prakash, Nanhey Ram and Dhanpal. Further submits that the lantern was lit in the house of Dhanpal, which was the source of light to identify the accused. Even if there is no source of light, the villagers could easily identify co-villagers. The point of false implication has rightly been dealt by the trial court in the judgment, considering that the witnesses were not aware whether the accused-appellants are the man of Shankar Lal, village Pradhan and negated political or village rivalry between the two. Therefore, submitted that the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

14. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

15. The point of concern in the present appeal is whether the learned trial judge has rightly appreciated the evidence on record and convicted accused-appellants for the offence of dacoity and attempt to cause death or grievous hurt for attempting dacoity.

16. The trial court at the very start of judgment has made observation that the factum of dacoity is not a subject of any controversy. This observation has been made because according to the trial judge, the factum of dacoity has not been challenged by the accused. This observation of the learned trial judge is against the basic principles of law of appreciation of evidence, because the accused-appellants at the very start of the trial have denied the allegations of committing dacoity in the house of informant Dhanpal, moreso, they have stated false implication because of party politics and previous enmity between them. Therefore, it is the first and foremost duty of trial court to look into the evidences as to where the incident of dacoity took place in the house of informant Dhanpal.

17. Certain glaring facts, which is derived from the evidence adduced by the prosecution like F.I.R., the site plan and the statements of witnesses of fact, are pointed out below:-

I. P.W.-1 Dhanpal, the informant has stated in his examination-in-chief that there were 10 to 11 dacoits entered his house for committing dacoity, though in the written information the specific names of only seven dacoits, who belong to the same village, were named. P.W.-3 Ishwarwati also stated the number of dacoits as seven, who have committed dacoity. It is found in the statement of Ishwarwati P.W.-3 that the dacoits have fired from the gun during the course of dacoity, whereas, P.W.-1 Dhanpal has stated that while exiting after the dacoity, the dacoits had fired two shots and in retaliation Ganga Ram has fired three shots. The investigating Officer has not collected the pellets and empty cartridges of the bullets shot either by the accused or by Ganga Ram. It is specifically averted in the written information as well as in the statement of P.W.-1 Dhanpal that Ganga Ram had fired shot from his licensed gun. The main purpose of inspecting the gun of Ganga Ram by Investigating Officer was to look into the veracity of the statement of informant whether or not dacoity took place in the intervening night of 26/27.07.1982.

II. The Investigating Officer has also not collected the broken lock, which was stated to be broken by the dacoits, while committing dacoity.

III. The Investigating Officer has not investigated on the point of informant having Rs.6,000/- as cash at his residence, which the informant has specifically stated to have received from the proceed of selling onion and received as advance for selling his land, which is stated to be the reason for committing dacoity in the house of informant.

IV. The informant Dhanpal has mentioned in the F.I.R. and stated in his statement that P.W.-1, with precision stated about the weapons being carried by the accused-appellants. Like, Mehndi was carrying gun, Harpal, Omkar and Latoori had countrymade pistols and other accused were having lathis in their hands. The Investigating Officer P.W.-5 Shiv Shankar Sharma, S.I. has made the memo of recovery of all the items, which were stated to be left by the accused-appellants at the house of informant and lathi was one of the item. If the lathi is left in the house then how the informant has seen lathi in the hands of three accused. Contrary to this, P.W.-3 Smt. Ishwarwati has stated that one of the accused was having knife in his hand and she got injury by knife. It is to be made clear at this juncture that Ishwarwati did not suffer knife injury, as is reflected from her medico legal examination carried out at District Hospital Badaun. This medico legal examination is not proved by the prosecution, but is on record and reveals that all the injuries to Ishwarwati were simple in nature and caused by hard and blunt object.

V. The point of concern in respect to the dacoity is also reflected from the bare perusal of F.I.R., which reveals that nearly 9 items have been looted by the dacoits, but none of the witnesses have seen the bundle of those items and how the accused have carried it. This fact is neither reflected from the statement of P.W.-1 Dhanpal nor from the statement of P.W.-3 Smt. Ishwarwati, who was stated to be inside the house.

18. All these points are the matter of concern and the trial judge has not examined the evidence on the point whether the dacoity took place in the house of informant Dhanpal or the accused-appellants, who are of same village have falsely been implicated in a fake dacoity. All the above mentioned infirmities in the evidence are material in nature, because at one hand, it is the dacoity, which has been carried out and on other hand, the accused-appellants stating false implication.

19. The trial judge while appreciating the evidence has given credence to the testimony of witnesses of fact, who have specifically named the accused-appellants, for committing dacoity, without considering the veracity of statement of witnesses through their cross-examination.

20. Hence, the statement of witnesses are required to be dealt with one by one.

21. P.W.-1 Dhanpal has stated that in the intervening night of 26/27.07.1982, there was dacoity at his residence. He was sleeping at the cattle shed when he heard the shrieks of his mother and sisters, hearing which, he came to the house. There is nothing on record either in the site plan to show where the cattle shed is situated, wherein the informant Dhanpal and Ishwari were sleeping or whether there is possibility of hearing the shrieks of his family members, coming from his house to the place where he was sleeping. He further submits that hearing the shrieks of his mother and sisters, he along with his brother Ishwari, Nanhey Singh, Ram Lal, Prakash and other villagers lit their torches and ran towards the house and found that dacoits were beating his mother and sisters and looting the valuables. This statement shows that this witness has entered the house while the dacoits were committing the dacoity. During his cross-examination, he has admitted that the scribe of F.I.R. Jagdish is the son of Bhole. There was dacoity in the house of Bhole some 12 years back, wherein the father of accused Harpal was made accused, but was acquitted by the court. Further submits that in the recent Pradhani election, he stated to have supported Ram Prakash, who has lost to Shankar Lal, but has no idea whether Narain, Omkar, Nandey and Latoori were on the side of Shankar Lal. The village party politics and political rivalry has been stated behind the false implication. He further stated that he knew all the accused and their families. He has also stated that Rajwati is daughter of Ram Lal, but has no idea whether the sister of Latoori has entered into the some land deal with Rajwati, which was not finalized and there was dispute between the two pertaining to return of advance amount. He has stated to have seen the incident from the door of Ram Lal and Ishwari was with him. According to the site plan, two houses of Ram Lal are situated on the north of the lane and the door of one house is shown open towards east on north south lane of the lane and the second house of Ram Lal the door is open towards south of east west lane. The house of this witness is situated on the south of the lane and the doors of his house was shown open towards east on north south lane. The site plan further shows that the accused-appellants had exited from this door, which is opening on east and went away towards South. If it is taken to be true that the witnesses were standing at the door of the house of Ram Lal, either the western or eastern house, they could not see the faces of accused. Moreover, the place where witnesses have seen the accused is not shown in the site plan. P.W.-3 Ishwarwati has stated that four of the accused were covering their faces and therefore, she could not see the faces of other accused except Harpal, Omkar and Ali Hasan, who had beaten her. P.W.-1 further stated that after the incident of dacoity, Mehndi Hasan has filed a compliant at Panchayat. This complaint has not been taken into consideration by the learned trial judge, which is exhibited as Kha-1. The copy of complaint reveals that it is filed by Ali Hasan, the blacksmith against Dhanpal, Nanhey, Ram Lal, Ram Prakash for the incident dated 10.01.1982 for the theft of his Chenni, Summi, Hathora, ghan and sadasi, which was witnessed by Lakhi and Murari. The trial Judge has observed that there is no date and time mentioned in the application about its moving, but it contains the signature of Jagpal, Sarpanch with the date 10.02.1982 and it is the copy of complaint, which is registered as Case No.1 of 1982. Therefore, this application is prior to the date of occurrence.

22. P.W.-2 Ishwari has stated that the dacoits have fired during dacoity; his mother did not disclose the name of any dacoit; his sister suffered knife injury; seven dacoits entered the house, they were carrying guns, lathis and knives; he has not stated about the accused carrying countrymade pistols, which is stated by P.W.-1 Dhanpal, but stated about the knife being carried by the accused merely because P.W.-3 Ishwarwati has stated that she has suffered knife injuries.

23. Ishwarwati P.W.-3 has stated to have suffered knife injury and not the injury by the lathi. Her medical examination reveals that she suffered; (1) lacerated wound 2 □ cm x 1 cm bone deep on right side forehead just above medial end of eyebrow; (2) contusion 3 cm x 1 □ cm on lateral side of right knee; and (3) contused swelling on right side of upper lip. As all the injuries were caused by hard and blunt objects, as per the opinion of the doctor mentioned in the medico legal examination, the injuries does not corroborate with the statement of this witness; she further stated that she did not suffer any injury when the dacoits have snatched her hasli from her neck.

24. P.W.-4 Nanhey has stated that he could identify only three persons, namely, Mehndi, Ali Hasan and Harpal. Mehndi was holding gun, Ali Hasan and Harpal were carrying countrymade pistol. During his cross-examination, he has stated that Dhanpal is his brother by virtue of caste. He has also stated that out of seven dacoits, three were identified and four had covered their faces. Hence, could not be identified.

25. If the statement of all witnesses of fact is taken into consideration, then the points which is culled out from their statements are material inconsistencies on the point of covering of face by the accused, holding the weapon and injuries caused, where P.W.-1 Dhanpal has stated both his sisters had suffered injuries, in his written information and in his statement before the court, he stated that only Ishwarwati and his mother suffered injuries. The accused-appellants are of same village and they are known to the informant and witnesses, most of them are labours and were inimical to the informant, because of recent Pradhani election or the previous complaint or because of land deal. It is hard to believe that the accused, who are having their families in the village, will enter the house of any person of the village bare faced to commit dacoity. Moreover, despite the arrest of the accused, there was no recovery of any item of dacoity. The Investigating Officer has collected only the torch from the witnesses and returned it to them on the same day. The recovery of torch is not sufficient evidence that the witnesses have identified the dacoits.

26. After marshalling the entire evidence on record, this Court found material inconsistencies in the testimonies of witnesses, the benefit of which should be given to the accused. Moreover, the accused-appellants were not the known dacoits, against whom any other case of dacoity was registered, who would fearlessly to enter the houses bare faced. Thus, the observation of the trial judge is not appealing the conscience.

27. In the case of Jitendra Kumar Mishra alias Jittu Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh Hon'ble the Supreme Court held that an appellate court should be slow in interfering with conviction recorded by courts below but where evidence on record indicates that prosecution has failed to prove guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and that a plausible view, different from one expressed by trial court, can be taken. The appellate court should not shy away in giving benefit of doubt to the accused.

28. Therefore, the surviving appellants cannot be held guilty for offence of dacoity or any other minor offence and liable to be acquitted for the offence of dacoity and attempt to cause death or grievous hurt, while committing dacoity, giving benefit of doubt, as the trial court has incorrectly adduced evidence. Thus, the judgment of conviction dated 29.08.1983 in Special Sessions Trial No.157 of 1982, arising out of Case Crime No.321, reported on 27.07.1982 for offences under Sections 395, 397 IPC at Police Station Ujhani, District Badaun, is set aside.

29. The appeal is allowed. The appellant no.1 Ali Hasan is acquitted for offence under Section 395 I.P.C.; whereas, appellant no.5 Harpal and appellant no.6 Latoori are acquitted of offence under Sections 395 read with 397 IPC.

30. Record be remitted back forthwith alongwith the copy of judgment.

THE HON'BLE SANDEEP JAIN, J.

First Appeal No. 94 of 2026

K. P. Pankaj (Keshav Prasad Pankaj) Government Contactor & Suppliers ...Appellant
Versus
Chairman, Distric Urban Development Authority ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, in the facts and circumstances of the case, the trial court was justified in rejecting the plaint under O. VII R. 11 C.P.C. on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction, instead of returning the plaint for presentation before the competent court under O. VII R. 10 C.P.C., particularly when the dispute, as per the terms of the tender, was exclusively triable by the court at Kushinagar.

Headnotes

Civil Procedure Code, 1908 - ss. 20, 96, O.VII R.10, O.VII R.11 - Return of plaint - Jurisdiction clause in Contract - Territorial Jurisdiction - Scope of - Maintainability of Suit - The instant First Appeal u/s 96 C.P.C. has been preferred by the plaintiff - appellant against the judgment and decree whereby the trial court rejected the plaint under O. VII R. 11 C.P.C. on the ground of lack of territorial jurisdiction - The case of plaintiff is that pursuant to a tender floated by the defendants, the plaintiff firm was awarded several work orders for supply of construction materials, which were duly supplied; however, a substantial amount allegedly remained unpaid, giving rise to a claim for recovery along with interest - The defendants contested the maintainability of the suit at Gorakhpur by filing an application under O. VII R. 11 C.P.C., contending that no cause of action arose within its territorial jurisdiction and that, as per the terms of the tender, disputes were triable exclusively at Kushinagar - The trial court accepted the objection and rejected the plaint, leading to the instant appeal before High Court challenging the legality of such rejection.

Held*: It is apparent that as per the terms and conditions of the tender, the dispute was only entertainable by the District Court, Kushinagar, as such, the suit was not maintainable before the District Court, Gorakhpur - Neither the office of defendant no.3 was situated in District Gorakhpur, nor any cause of action ever arose within the territorial jurisdiction of District Court Gorakhpur, as such, the trial court has not erred insofar as concluding that the District Court, Gorakhpur had no jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit, but the trial court has erred in not returning the plaint to the plaintiff under O. 7 R. 10 CPC for presenting before the competent court of jurisdiction -The trial court has erred in rejecting the plaint under O. 7 R. 11 CPC, which was not at all attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case - Thus, impugned judgment and decree dated 02.04.2025 is affirmed but the decision of rejecting the plaint is set aside - Accordingly, appeal partly allowed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: First Appeal No. - 94 of 2026

From the Judgment and Decree dated 02.04.2025 passed by the Court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 3, Gorakhpur

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Appellant:
Ashwani Kumar Pathak

Adv. for the Respondent:
Ugrasen Kumar Pandey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. Heard the learned counsel for the parties.

2. The instant first appeal under Section 96 C.P.C. has been preferred by the plaintiff-appellant in Original Suit No. 244 of 2018 (K.P. Pankaj @ Keshav Prasad Pankaj vs. Chairman, District Urban Development Authority, Kushinagar and others) against the impugned judgment and decree dated 02.04.2025 passed by the Court of Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 3, Gorakhpur, whereby the plaint has been rejected under Order VII Rule 11 C.P.C. on the ground that, as per the terms of the tender, the disputes were to be adjudicated by the competent court at Kushinagar, whereas the plaintiff has filed the suit before the Court at Gorakhpur, which was legally not maintainable.

3. The factual matrix of the case is that a tender was published by the defendants in local newspapers of Gorakhpur on 09.12.2013 and 10.12.2013 for the supply of construction materials for road construction. The plaintiff firm applied pursuant to the said tender which was accepted, and consequently, 13 work orders were awarded to the plaintiff from time to time. On 30.06.2014, the defendants awarded a work order to the plaintiff for the supply of certain construction materials, valued at Rs. 22.31 lakhs.

4. In pursuance of the said work order, the plaintiff firm supplied the construction materials to the defendants strictly in accordance with the terms of the work order.

5. It is the specific case of the plaintiff that a contract was not duly executed between the plaintiff and the defendants in respect of the said work order, and that, from time to time, the plaintiff firm supplied the construction materials in due fulfillment of the obligations arising out of the work order, so awarded.

6. It was further averred that a payment of Rs. 85.94 lakhs was required to be made to the plaintiff firm by defendant no. 1, but only an amount of Rs.18,54,155/- was paid. Hence, a dispute arose as the defendants failed to pay an amount of Rs. 67,39,845/- towards the construction material supplied by the plaintiff firm in pursuance of work orders awarded to it from time to time. The plaintiff firm claimed that it was also entitled to compound interest at the rate of 18% quarterly on the said outstanding amount. It was further alleged that Mr. P.K. Gupta, acting on behalf of defendant no. 4, demanded a commission of 25%, and since the said commission was not paid, the aforesaid amount was wrongfully withheld from the plaintiff firm.

7. Ultimately, when the amount due to the plaintiff was not paid by the defendants, the plaintiffs have filed this suit for the relief of declaration that they are entitled to get an amount of Rs.67,39,845/- along with 18% quarterly interest from the defendants.

8. During the pendency of the suit, an application no.19-A under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was filed by defendant nos. 4 to 6 on the ground that the plaintiff has filed a suit for the recovery of Rs.67,39,845/- alongwith interest at the rate of 18% per month. It was averred that the defendant nos.1, 3 and 4 are working in official capacity in District Kushinagar, whereas defendant no.2 is a Government Officer working in Lucknow and defendant nos. 5 and 6 are residents of District Kushinagar. It was averred that defendant no.3 has awarded work orders to the plaintiff, from his office situated in Collectorate, at District Kushinagar and the construction material was also to be supplied in Nagar Panchayat, Hata, District Kushinagar and the cheque paying for the aforesaid material supplied by the plaintiff, was also issued by the above office of defendant no.3, as such, no cause of action ever arose in District Gorakhpur. It was submitted that due to this no cause of action has arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court, hence, the plaint be rejected under Order 7 Rule 11 C.P.C.

9. The plaintiff submitted its objection 21-C to the defendants above application and averred that the plaintiff firm is situated in Gorakhpur and the construction material was also supplied from Gorakhpur, and the payment was also made to the plaintiff firm at Gorakhpur, which was also accepted by defendant nos.4 to 6, as such, the Gorakhpur Court has jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit. It was further averred that the payment made by the defendants have also been received by the plaintiff's bank in Gorakhpur. It was averred that since the cause of action for filing the suit arose within the jurisdiction of District Court Gorakhpur, as such, the suit was legally maintainable.

10. The trial court by impugned order dated 02.04.2025 has concluded that the tender for supplying construction material was published on 09.12.2013 and 10.12.2013 in newspapers, which were published from Gorakhpur, the work order for supplying the construction material dated 30.06.2014 was issued by the defendants from District Kushinagar, the payment of Rs.22.31 lakhs was also sanctioned by Chairman/District Magistrate (DUDA), Kushinagar on 04.03.2014, the plaintiff firm in compliance of work order dated 20.06.2014 supplied material, which was issued by defendant no.4, another work order nos. 32, 33 and 35 were issued to the plaintiff firm by the Project Officer (DUDA), Kushinagar. The trial court concluded that from time to time work orders were issued to the plaintiff firm for supplying construction material to the defendants.

11. The trial court concluded that as per the terms of the tender, which was accepted by the plaintiff in District Kushinagar, there was a condition that if any dispute arose regarding the terms of the tender, then the jurisdiction for deciding that dispute vested in the Court at Kushinagar. The trial court concluded that the work order was issued to the plaintiff by the Project Director, District Urban Development Authority, Kushinagar and the payment was also to be made by the same authority, and as per terms of the tender, the dispute was only maintainable before the District Court, Kushinagar, hence, the trial court concluded that as per Section 20 of the C.P.C., the District Court at Gorakhpur lacked territorial jurisdiction, as such, the defendants' application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC was allowed, and consequentially, the plaint was rejected.

12. Learned counsel for the plaintiff-appellant submitted that the tender was published in local newspapers of Gorakhpur, the plaintiff firm is also situated in Gorakhpur, the plaintiff submitted his bid from Gorakhpur, the construction materials were supplied by the plaintiff from Gorakhpur and the part payment by defendants for the construction materials supplied by the plaintiff was also made in the plaintiff's bank account in Gorakhpur, hence, the court at Gorakhpur had the jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit and as such, the trial court has committed error in rejecting the plaint. It was further submitted that instead of rejecting the plaint, it should have been returned for presentation to the competent court under Order 7 Rule 10 CPC, since, the court cannot reject the plaint, for want of jurisdiction under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal be admitted and allowed.

13. Per-contra, learned counsel for the defendants-respondents submitted that no cause of action ever arose within the jurisdiction of the District Court at Gorakhpur, as such, the trial court has not committed any illegality in rejecting the plaint under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC.

14. It was submitted that the tender was awarded to the plaintiff firm by the defendants at District Kushinagar. The work order was granted from District Kushinagar, and the construction material in pursuance of the work order, was also supplied by the plaintiff firm at District Kushinagar and the payment was also made by the defendants from District Kushinagar, as such, the dispute was maintainable only before the District Court, Kushinagar.

15. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal is meritless and be dismissed at the admission stage.

16. I have heard learned counsel for both the sides, perused the impugned judgment and documents submitted with the appeal.

17. Appeal is admitted.

18. From the documents submitted with the appeal, it is evident that the tender was floated by the defendant no.3 Project Director, District Urban Development Authority (DUDA), District Kushinagar, and the plaintiff firm made a bid for the tender which was accepted at District

Kushinagar and thereafter, from time to time certain work orders were granted to the plaintiff firm by defendant no.3, in compliance of which construction material was supplied at District Kushinagar and when certain payment was not made by the defendants, then the plaintiff has filed the instant suit for the recovery of the balance amount. It is further apparent that except defendant no.2, all the other defendants are resident of District Kushinagar.

19. It is apparent that as per the terms and conditions of the tender, the dispute was only entertainable by the District Court, Kushinagar, as such, the suit was not maintainable before the District Court, Gorakhpur. Neither the office of defendant no.3 was situated in District Gorakhpur, nor any cause of action ever arose within the territorial jurisdiction of District Court Gorakhpur, as such, the trial court has not erred insofar as concluding that the District Court, Gorakhpur had no jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit, but the trial court has erred in not returning the plaint to the plaintiff under Order 7 Rule 10 CPC for presenting before the competent court of jurisdiction.The trial court has certainly erred in rejecting the plaint under Order 7 Rule 11CPC, which was not at all attracted in the facts and circumstances of the case.

20. The Apex Court in the case of Exl Careers and another vs Frankfinn Aviation Services Private Limited (2020) 12 SCC 667 (By 3 Judges),while considering the procedure to be adopted by the Court in case of lack of jurisdiction, held as under:-

"15.Modern Construction [ONGC v. Modern Construction & Co., (2014) 1 SCC 648 : (2014) 1 SCC (Civ) 617] , referred to the consistent position in law by reference to Ramdutt Ramkissen Dass v. E.D. Sassoon & Co. [Ramdutt Ramkissen Dass v. E.D. Sassoon & Co., 1929 SCC OnLine PC 3 : (1928-29) 56 IA 128 : AIR 1929 PC 103] , Amar Chand Inani v. Union of India [Amar Chand Inani v. Union of India, (1973) 1 SCC 115] , Hanamanthappa v. Chandrashekharappa [Hanamanthappa v. Chandrashekharappa, (1997) 9 SCC 688] , Harshad Chimanlal Modi (2) [Harshad Chimanlal Modi (2) v. DLF Universal Ltd., (2006) 1 SCC 364] and after also noticing Joginder Tuli [Joginder Tuli v. S.L. Bhatia, (1997) 1 SCC 502] , arrived at the conclusion as follows: (Modern Construction case [ONGC v. Modern Construction & Co., (2014) 1 SCC 648 : (2014) 1 SCC (Civ) 617] , SCC p. 654, para 17)

"17. Thus, in view of the above, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that if the court where the suit is instituted, is of the view that it has no jurisdiction, the plaint is to be returned in view of the provisions of Order 7 Rule 10 CPC and the plaintiff can present it before the court having competent jurisdiction. In such a factual matrix, the plaintiff is entitled to exclude the period during which he prosecuted the case before the court having no jurisdiction in view of the provisions of Section 14 of the Limitation Act, and may also seek adjustment of court fee paid in that court. However, after presentation before the court of competent jurisdiction, the plaint is to be considered as a fresh plaint and the trial is to be conducted de novo even if it stood concluded before the court having no competence to try the same."

Joginder Tuli was also noticed in Harshad Chimanlal Modi but distinguished on its own facts.

16. We find no contradiction in the law as laid down in Modern Construction pronounced after consideration of the law and precedents requiring reconsideration in view of any conflict with Joginder Tuli . Modern Construction lays down the correct law. We answer the reference accordingly."

21. It is well settled that if the Court is not having a jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit, the plaint cannot be rejected under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC and it has to be accordingly returned to the plaintiff for presentation to the competent court of jurisdiction.

22. It is also apparent that under Explanation to Order 7 Rule 10(1) CPC, the appellate or revisional court can also direct, after setting aside the decree passed in a suit, the return of the plaint for presentation before the competent court of jurisdiction.

23. In view of this, the trial court instead of rejecting the plaint, should have returned it to the plaintiff for presentation to the competent court of jurisdiction under Order 7 Rule 10 CPC.

24. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed.

25. Consequently, the impugned judgment and decree dated 02.04.2025 insofar as the conclusion of the trial court that it has no territorial jurisdiction to hear and decide the suit, is affirmed but the decision of rejecting the plaint is set aside. The original suit No.244 of 2018 is restored to its original number and the trial court is hereby directed to return the original plaint to the plaintiff in accordance with the provisions of Order 7 Rule 10 CPC, for presentation before the competent Court of jurisdiction.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the reasons and grounds of arrest were supplied to the petitioner and it cannot be said that the arrest is illegal and unjustified from any angle and thus, the writ petition deserves to be dismissed, there being no infirmity in the arrest of the petitioner.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 21, 22(1) & 226; The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023- Section 36- Perusal of the order passed by the learned Magistrate would indicate that the learned Magistrate though has considered the material available on record yet he has failed to consider that the grounds/reasons of arrest, as detailed separately, do not form part of the arrest memo as they do not find mention anywhere in the arrest memo and further also do not conform to the mandatory provisions of Section 36 of B.N.S.S, 2023 and thus it is apparent that the remand order has been passed in an absolutely mechanical manner and consequently, even if the remand has been given by the learned Magistrate yet the instant writ petition in the nature of habeas corpus would be maintainable.

Held- A writ in the nature of habeas corpus is issued declaring the arrest of the petitioner as illegal. The remand order dated 29.01.2026 being consequential to the illegal arrest, is also set aside. The petitioner be set free provided he is not wanted in any other case- Petition allowed. (E-15)

Case Arising From

Praying for a writ of habeas corpus for the petitioner's arrest and detention to be declared illegal and for setting aside the order dated 29.01.2026 passed by the learned Special Judge, POCSO, Pratapgarh and for quashing of the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Skand Bajpai, Abhyudaya Mishra
Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Moin, J.
Hon'ble Mrs. Babita Rani, J.)

1. Heard Sri Skand Bajpai and Sri Abhyudaya Mishra, learned counsels for the petitioner as well as Shri Shiv Nath Tilahari & Shri Anurag Verma, learned Additional Government Advocates appearing on behalf of the respondents no. 1 to 5. Learned AGA states that he is also accepting notice for the respondents no. 7 to 9. Considering the question of law involved in the instant petition, notice to respondent no. 6 is dispensed with.

2. Learned counsels for the petitioner pray for adding the words "Writ of Habeas Corpus" in prayer Clause-A.

3. To the aforesaid prayer, learned AGAs have no objection.

4. Accordingly, the prayer as made by the learned counsels for the petitioner is allowed. Let the learned counsels for the petitioner add " Writ of Habeas Corpus" in prayer Clause -A during the course of the day.

5. Considering the legal issue involved in the instant petition and the respondents having produced the complete records including the case diary before this Court as such, there would not be any requirement of filing of counter affidavit.

6. In this regard, it would be apt to refer to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Union of India and others vs. Shiv Raj and others reported in (2014) 6 SCC 564 wherein it has been held as under:-

"in a case where on the basis of submissions advanced in the court on behalf of the parties the court summons the original record to find out the truth, pleadings remain insignificant".

7. Instant writ petition in the nature of habeas corpus has been filed praying for the following main reliefs:-

"(A). Allow this petition, declare the petitioner's arrest & detention illegal, pass an order (s) setting aside the order dated 29.01.2026 passed by Hon'ble Court of learned Special Judge, POCSO Act, Pratapgarh, U.P. in relation to Case Crime No. 15/2026 registered at Police Station- Kandhai, Pratapgarh, U.P. alleging offences punishable under Sections 137 (2), 87, 64 (1), 351 (3) of B.N.S and 3 & 4 POCSO Act [Annexure-5 from page 49 to 53] and direct the Respondent Nos. 1, 2, 3 & 4 to release the petitioner forthwith by issuance of an order or direction in the nature of writ of Habeas Corpus.

(B). Allow this petition, declare the petitioner's arrest illegal, pass an order (s) quashing the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026 drawn regarding Case Crime No. 15/2026 registered at Police Station- Kandhai, Pratapgarh, U.P. alleging offences punishable under sections 137 (2), 87, 64 (1), 351 (3) B.N.S and 3 & 2 POCSO Act [Annexure-2 from page 34 to 44] and direct Respondent Nos. 1, 2, 3 & 4 to release the petitioner forthwith.

(C). Pass an order (s) or direction (s) in the nature of writ of mandamus commanding the 1st respondent to pay to the petitioner Rs. 10,00,000/- (Rupees Ten Lakh) as compensation on account of illegal deprivation of his liberty within such time as may be deemed fit and proper by this Court.

(D). Pass an order (s) or direction(s) directing the 1st and/ or 2nd respondent to fairly conduct disciplinary proceedings and criminal proceedings against the erring police officials for illegally depriving the petitioner of his liberty within such time as may be deemed fit and proper by this Hon'ble Court."

8. Bereft of unnecessary details, the case set forth by the learned counsels for the petitioner is that the petitioner and the respondent no. 5/ alleged victim, were dating each other but her family was against the said relationship. On 21.01.2026, the First Information Report dated 21.01.2026

registered as Case Crime No. 15 of 2026 under Sections 137 (2), 87, 64 (1), 351 (3) of Bhartiya Nyay Sanhita, 2023 and 3 & 4 of Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 at Police Station- Kandhai District- Pratapgarh was lodged against the petitioner, a copy of which is annexure 1 to the writ petition.

9. It is contended that from a perusal of the First Information Report it emerges that the petitioner had persuaded the daughter of the complainant to establish physical relations by taking a room on rent and had thereafter established physical relations and left her. Subsequently, the petitioner is said to have blackmailed the complainant's daughter by threatening to circulate her video on internet. Certain other allegations have also been levelled in the First Information Report.

10. On the basis of the allegations as levelled and the First Information Report being lodged, the petitioner was asked to reach the Police Station- Narangpur on 28.01.2026. Upon the petitioner having reached the police station, he was detained in the police post. At 07:30 PM, a Sub-Inspector with two constables came out of the chowki and the petitioner was asked to sign an arrest memo. They made the petitioner to sit in a private car. Thereafter the petitioner's brother who was in another car was asked to get down from the car and go home. At about 09:30 PM, the petitioner's arrest was informed to his mother over telephone. The arrest memo dated 28.01.2026, a copy of which is annexure 2 to the writ petition was prepared but the said memo neither contained the reasons for arrest, nor the grounds for arrest except indicating about the aforesaid case crime number being lodged. It is also contended that on 29.01.2026, the authorities produced the petitioner before the learned Special Judge, POCSO Court, Pratapgarh who vide order dated 29.01.2026, a copy of which is Annexure 5 to the writ petition, granted fourteen days judicial custody of the petitioner and sent him to the district jail. It is contended that the learned Special Judge did not even advert to the evidence/material placed by the Investigating Officer and the remand order was passed in the cursory manner.

11. Praying for a writ of habeas corpus for the petitioner's arrest and detention to be declared illegal and for setting aside the order dated 29.01.2026 passed by the learned Special Judge, POCSO, Pratapgarh and for quashing of the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026, the instant writ petition has been filed

12. Argument of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the arrest memo which has been given to the petitioner does not contain any reasons or grounds for arrest and consequently, the same is patently violative and in the teeth of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah Vs. State of Maharashtra- 2026 (1) SCC 500 which thus vitiates the arrest of the petitioner.

13. So far as the role of the learned Magistrate to consider various aspect of the matter while granting remand, reliance has been placed by the learned counsel on the Division Bench judgment of this Court at Allahabad in the case of Manjeet Singh Vs State of U.P and Ors, reported in 2025 SCC Online All 2119.

14. On the other hand, Sri Shiv Nath Tilahari & Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGAs take a preliminary objection on the basis of the case diary that the statement of the victim has been recorded under Sections 180 & 183 of B.N.S.S, 2023, per which the offence against the petitioner is clearly made out and as this Court is exercising jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India as such this Court may not exercise the said jurisdiction once an offence has been committed by the petitioner. Learned AGAs also argue that the radiological examination has been conducted per which the age of the victim has been determined to be seventeen years apart the educational records from which it emerges that the victim is a minor and that the reasons and grounds of arrest were given to the petitioner in the arrest memo which duly bear his signatures along with the signatures of the witnesess.

15. Learned AGAs have also placed reliance on the judgment of the Apex Court in the cases of Serious Fraud Investigation Office Vs Rahul Modi-MANU/SC/0420/2019 to argue that in habeas corpus proceedings, a Court is to have regard to the legality or otherwise of the detention at the time of return and not with reference to the institution of the proceedings meaning thereby that as subsequent to the arrest of the petitioner, the remand has been granted by the learned Magistrate as such, any illegality which might have occurred at the time of arrest would get obliterated on account of the remand having been granted by the learned Magistrate and as now the petitioner is in custody on account of the remand order as such, the petition in the nature of habeas corpus would not be maintainable.

16. Further, reliance has also been placed on the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Kashi Reddy Upendra Reddy Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh and Ors, reported in MANU/SC/0773/2025, contending that as the reasons and grounds of arrest were in fact supplied to the petitioner consequently, it cannot be said that the arrest is illegal and unjustified from any angle and thus, the writ petition deserves to be dismissed, there being no infirmity in the arrest of the petitioner.

17. Heard learned counsels appearing on behalf of the contesting parties and perused the records.

18. From a perusal of records it emerges that on account of the First Information Report dated 21.01.2026 registered as Case Crime No. 15 of 2026 having been lodged against the petitioner, the petitioner has been arrested on 28.01.2026 and the arrest memo was duly supplied to him. The remand has also been given by the learned Magistrate vide order dated 29.01.2026 and consequently, the petitioner is in custody.

19. The Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra) after exhaustively considering the earlier judgments with regard to necessity for supply of grounds of arrest, has held as under:-

"28. It was said that any breach of the constitutional safeguards provided under Article 22 would vitiate the lawfulness of arrest and subsequent remand and entitle the arrested person to be set at liberty. The relevant portion in Prabir Purkayastha [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573] is reproduced herein: (SCC pp. 276 & 278, paras 19-21 & 28-29)

"19. Resultantly, there is no doubt in the mind of the court that any person arrested for allegation of commission of offences under the provisions of UAPA or for that matter any other offence(s) has a fundamental and a statutory right to be informed about the grounds of arrest in writing and a copy of such written grounds of arrest have to be furnished to the arrested person as a matter of course and without exception at the earliest. The purpose of informing to the arrested person the grounds of arrest is salutary and sacrosanct inasmuch as this information would be the only effective means for the arrested person to consult his advocate; oppose the police custody remand and to seek bail. Any other interpretation would tantamount to diluting the sanctity of the fundamental right guaranteed under Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India.

20. The right to life and personal liberty is the most sacrosanct fundamental right guaranteed under Articles 20, 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India. Any attempt to encroach upon this fundamental right has been frowned upon by this Court in a catena of decisions. In this regard, we may refer to the following observations made by this Court in Roy V.D. v. State of Kerala [Roy V.D. v. State of Kerala, (2000) 8 SCC 590 : 2001 SCC (Cri) 42] : (SCC p. 593, para 7)

"7. The life and liberty of an individual is so sacrosanct that it cannot be allowed to be interfered with except under the authority of law. It is a principle which has been recognised and applied in all civilised countries. In our Constitution, Article 21 guarantees protection of life and personal liberty not only to citizens of India but also to aliens."

Thus, any attempt to violate such fundamental right, guaranteed by Articles 20, 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India, would have to be dealt with strictly.

21. The right to be informed about the grounds of arrest flows from Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India and any infringement of this fundamentalright would vitiate the process of arrest and remand. Mere fact that a charge-sheet has been filed in the matter, would not validate the illegality and the unconstitutionality committed at the time of arresting the accused and the grant of initial police custody remand to the accused.

28. The language used in Article 22(1) and Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India regarding the communication of the grounds is exactly the identical. Neither of the constitutional provisions require that the 'grounds' of 'arrest' or 'detention', as the case may be, must be communicated in writing. Thus, interpretation to this important facet of the fundamental right as made by the Constitution Bench while examining the scope of Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India would ipso facto apply to Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India insofar as the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest is concerned.

29. Hence, we have no hesitation in reiterating that the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest or the grounds of detention in writing to a person arrested in connection with an offence or a person placed under preventive detention as provided under Articles 22(1) and 22(5) of the Constitution of India is sacrosanct and cannot be breached under any situation. Non-compliance of this constitutional requirement and statutory mandate would lead to the custody or the detention being rendered illegal, as the case may be"

31. The relevant portion of Vihaan Kumar [Vihaan Kumar v. State of Haryana, (2025) 5 SCC 799 : (2025) 2 SCC (Cri) 762] is reproduced herein: (SCC pp. 814-15, 817 & 822-23, paras 15, 21 & 40-42)

"15. The view taken in Pankaj Bansal [Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India, (2024) 7 SCC 576 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 450] was reiterated by this Court in Prabir Purkayastha [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573] . In paras 28 and 29, this Court held thus: (Prabir Purkayastha case [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573] , SCC p. 278)

"28. The language used in Article 22(1) and Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India regarding the communication of the grounds is exactly the identical. Neither of the constitutional provisions require that the "grounds" of "arrest" or "detention", as the case may be, must be communicated in writing. Thus, interpretation to this important facet of the fundamental right as made by the Constitution Bench while examining the scope of Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India would ipso facto apply to Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India insofar as the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest is concerned.

29. Hence, we have no hesitation in reiterating that the requirement to communicate the grounds of arrest or the grounds of detention in writing to a person arrested in connection with an offence or a person placed under preventive detention as provided under Articles 22(1) and 22(5) of the Constitution of India is sacrosanct and cannot be breached under any situation. Non-compliance of this constitutional requirement and statutory mandate would lead to the custody or the detention being rendered illegal, as the case may be."

21. An attempt was made by the learned Senior Counsel appearing for the first respondent to argue that after his arrest, the appellant was repeatedly remanded to custody, and now a charge-sheet has been filed. His submission is that now, the custody of the appellant is pursuant to the order taking cognizance passed on the charge-sheet. Accepting such arguments, with great respect to the learned Senior Counsel, will amount to completely nullifying Articles 21 and 22(1) of the Constitution. Once it is held that arrest is unconstitutional due to violation of Article 22(1), the arrest itself is vitiated. Therefore, continued custody of such a person based on orders of remand is also vitiated. Filing a charge-sheet and order of cognizance will not validate an arrest which is per se unconstitutional, being violative of Articles 21 and 22(1) of the Constitution of India. We cannot tinker with the most important safeguards provided under Article 22.

N. Kotiswar Singh, J. (supplementing)□I had the benefit of going through the draft opinion of my esteemed Brother Hon'ble Mr Justice Abhay S. Oka and I concur with the analysis and conclusions arrived at. However, I wish to add a few lines in supplement to the aforesaid opinion.

41. The issue on the requirement of communication of grounds of arrest to the person arrested, as mandated under Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India, which has also been incorporated in the Prevention of Money Laundering Act, 2002 under Section 19 thereof has been succinctly reiterated in this judgment. The constitutional mandate of informing the grounds of arrest to the person arrested in writing has been explained in Pankaj Bansal [Pankaj Bansal v. Union of India, (2024) 7 SCC 576 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 450] so as to be meaningful to serve the intended purpose which has been reiterated in Prabir Purkayastha [Prabir Purkayastha v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 8 SCC 254 : (2024) 3 SCC (Cri) 573] . The said constitutional mandate has been incorporated in the statute under Section 50CrPC (Section 47 of the BNSS). It may also be noted that the aforesaid provision of requirement for communicating the grounds of arrest, to be purposeful, is also required to be communicated to the friends, relatives or such other persons of the accused as may be disclosed or nominated by the arrested person for the purpose of giving such information as provided under Section 50-ACrPC. As may be noted, this is in the addition of the requirement as provided under Section 50(1)CrPC.

42. The purpose of inserting Section 50-ACrPC, making it obligatory on the person making arrest to inform about the arrest to the friends, relatives or persons nominated by the arrested person, is to ensure that they would be able to take immediate and prompt actions to secure the release of the arrested person as permissible under the law. The arrested person, because of his detention, may not have immediate and easy access to the legal process for securing his release, which would otherwise be available to the friends, relatives and such nominated persons by way of engaging lawyers, briefing them to secure release of the detained person on bail at the earliest. Therefore, the purpose of communicating the grounds of arrest to the detenue, and in addition to his relatives as mentioned above is not merely a formality but to enable the detained person to know the reasons for his arrest but also to provide the necessary opportunity to him through his relatives, friends or nominated persons to secure his release at the earliest possible opportunity for actualising the fundamental right to liberty and life as guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution. Hence, the requirement of communicating the grounds of arrest in writing is not only to the arrested person, but also to the friends, relatives or such other person as may be disclosed or nominated by the arrested person, so as to make the mandate of Article 22(1) of the Constitution meaningful and effective failing which, such arrest may be rendered illegal.

35. In Joginder Kumar v. State of U.P. [Joginder Kumar v. State of U.P., (1994) 4 SCC 260 : 1994 SCC (Cri) 1172] , this Court while framing guidelines regarding the rights of an arrested person has observed that the existence of a power to arrest and the justification to use such power are two different aspects. The person making arrest must be able to justify the arrest with reasons apart from his power to do so. Arrest of a person can cause irreversible damage to his reputation in the society as well as his self-esteem, therefore, arrest cannot be made in a routine manner. The police officer making an arrest must be cautious while arresting a person and ought to satisfy himself after a reasonable investigation to justify the person's complicity and also the effect as well as the need of arrest. This Court has further observed that except in heinous offences, arrest must be avoided.

37. The mandate contained in Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India is unambiguous and clear in nature, it provides that the arrested person must be informed of the grounds of arrest as soon as they can be. It further provides that the arrested person has the right to defend himself by consulting a legal practitioner of his choice. This constitutional mandate has been effectuated by the legislature in Section 50CrPC (now Section 47 of BNSS 2023) which provides that an arrested person shall be forthwith communicated with the grounds of his arrest.

41. The purpose of securing legal assistance before remand is not merely symbolic, but it is to ensure that the accused is afforded an effective opportunity to oppose the prayer for police custody and to place before the Magistrate any circumstances that may warrant refusal or limitation of such custody. If the accused is not represented through a counsel, he/she should be made aware that he/she is entitled for legal aid. As far as possible, it shall be ensured that every accused person is represented by an advocate, if he is not able to avail such assistance, he should be given free legal aid. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in Ashok v. State of U.P. [Ashok v. State of U.P., (2025) 2 SCC 381 : (2025) 1 SCC (Cri) 744] held that an accused who is not represented by an advocate is entitled for free legal aid at all material stages starting from remand.

43. Section 167CrPC (now Section 187 of BNSS 2023) while dealing with remand provides for a positive mandate on the police officer to forward the accused to the Magistrate before expiry of such period as fixed under Section 57CrPC (now Section 58 of BNSS 2023) when investigation cannot be completed in twenty-four hours. It further mandates that the Magistrate to not authorize the detention of accused unless he is physically produced before him. The purpose of this provision mandating the production of accused before Magistrate for exercise of the power of remanding him to custody under this section is with the dual purpose. First, ensuring physical presence of the accused and second to afford him an opportunity to be heard. The intent of this provision is not merely to be heard at the stage of remand but to be represented by the counsel of his choice. Thereafter, the duty is cast upon the Magistrate to apply his judicial mind to the material produced before him, hear the accused or the counsel representing him to determine whether the accused should be remanded to police custody or should be detained at all within the parameters prescribed in Section 167CrPC (Section 187 of BNSS 2023). The Magistrate is not acting as a post office simply putting a stamp of approval to the remand papers as presented before him. In Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat [Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat, (2013) 1 SCC 314 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 475] this Court held that it is obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to satisfy himself whether the materials placed before him justify such a remand.

45. A plain reading of Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India shows that the intent of the Constitution makers while incorporating the provisions was not to create any exceptional circumstances, instead it reads as ‘No person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed, as soon as may be, of the grounds for such arrest, it casts a mandatory unexceptional duty on the State to provide the arrested person with the grounds of such arrest with the objective to enable that person to be able to defend himself by consulting a legal practitioner of his choice. This mandate of Article 22(1) is notwithstanding any exception. This Court has made it explicit that the constitutional obligation under Article 22 is not statute-specific and it is grounded in fundamental right of life and personal liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, therefore making it applicable to all offences including those under the Penal Code, 1860 (now BNS 2023).

46. The requirement of informing the arrested person the grounds of arrest, in the light of and under Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India, is not a mere formality but a mandatory binding constitutional safeguard which has been included in Part III of the Constitution under the head of Fundamental Rights. Thus, if a person is not informed of the grounds of his arrest as soon as maybe, it would amount to the violation of his fundamental rights thereby curtailing his right to life and personal liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, rendering the arrest illegal.

48. As mentioned above, it has been held while dealing with the mode of communicating the grounds of arrest so as to serve the intended purpose of the constitutional mandate that the language used in Articles 22(1) and 22(5) regarding communication of the grounds is identical and therefore the interpretation of Article 22(5) shall ipso facto apply to Article 22(1). The grounds of arrest must be furnished in writing, in order to attend the true intended purpose of Article 22(1). Reference at this stage may be made to the Constitution Bench judgment of this Court in Harikisan [Harikisan v. State of Maharashtra, 1962 SCC OnLine SC 117] wherein while dealing with Article 22(5) of the Constitution of India in the context of the right of a detainee to be made aware of the grounds of arrest, it has been held that the same should be furnished in a language which he can understand and in a script which he can read, if he is a literate person.

50. Further, the above judgment has been reiterated and followed by this Court in Lallubhai Jogibhai Patel v. Union of India [Lallubhai Jogibhai Patel v. Union of India, (1981) 2 SCC 427 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 463 : (1982) 52 Comp Cas 543] wherein it has been reaffirmed that grounds of detention must be communicated to the detenu in writing in a language which he understands.

51. On perusal of the above two judgments, it turns out that mere communication of the grounds in a language not understood by the person arrested does not fulfil the constitutional mandate under Article 22 of the Constitution of India. The failure to supply such grounds in a language understood by the arrestee renders the constitutional safeguards illusory and infringes the personal liberty of the person as guaranteed under Articles 21 and 22 of the Constitution of India. The objective of the constitutional mandate is to place the person in a position to comprehend the basis of the allegations levelled against him and it can only be realised when the grounds are furnished in a language understood by the person, thereby enabling him to exercise his rights effectively.

52. From the catena of decisions discussed above, the legal position which emerges is that the constitutional mandate provided in Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India is not a mere procedural formality but a constitutional safeguard in the form of fundamental rights. The intent and purpose of the constitutional mandate is to prepare the arrested person to defend himself. If the provisions of Article 22(1) are read in a restrictive manner, its intended purpose of securing personal liberty would not be achieved rather curtailed and put to disuse.

55. This Court is of the opinion that to achieve the intended objective of the constitutional mandate of Article 22(1) of the Constitution of India, the grounds of arrest must be informed to the arrested person in each and every case without exception and the mode of the communication of such grounds must be in writing in the language he understands.

57. The second issue which requires consideration is when grounds of arrest are not furnished either prior to arrest or immediately after the arrest, would it vitiate the arrest for non-compliance of the provisions of Section 50CrPC (now Section 47 of BNSS 2023) irrespective of certain exigencies where furnishing such grounds would not be possible forthwith.

58. It is by now settled that if the grounds of arrest are not furnished to the arrestee in writing, this non-compliance will result in breach of the constitutional and statutory safeguards hence rendering the arrest and remand illegal and the person will be entitled to be set at liberty. The statute is silent with regard to the mode, nature or the time and stage at which the grounds of arrest has to be communicated. Article 22 says as soon as may be which would obviously not mean prior to arrest but can be on arrest or thereafter. The indication is as early as it can be conveyed. There may be situations wherein it may not be practically possible to supply such grounds of arrest to the arrested person at the time of his arrest or immediately.

62. We thus hold, that, in cases where the police are already in possession of documentary material furnishing a cogent basis for the arrest, the written grounds of arrest must be furnished to the arrestee on his arrest. However, in exceptional circumstances such as offences against body or property committed in flagrante delicto, where informing the grounds of arrest in writing on arrest is rendered impractical, it shall be sufficient for the police officer or other person making the arrest to orally convey the same to the person at the time of arrest. Later, a written copy of grounds of arrest must be supplied to the arrested person within a reasonable time and in no event later than two hours prior to production of the arrestee before the Magistrate for remand proceedings. The remand papers shall contain the grounds of arrest and in case there is delay in supply thereof, a note indicating a cause for it be included for the information of the Magistrate.

64. In view of the above, we hold with regard to the second issue that non-supply of grounds of arrest in writing to the arrestee prior to or immediately after arrest would not vitiate such arrest on the grounds of non-compliance with the provisions of Section 50CrPC (now Section 47 of BNSS 2023) provided the said grounds are supplied in writing within a reasonable time and in any case two hours prior to the production of the arrestee before the Magistrate for remand proceedings.

68. We are cognizant that there existed no consistent or binding requirement mandating written communication of the grounds of arrest for all the offences. Holding as above, in our view, would ensure implementation of the constitutional rights provided to an arrestee as engrafted under Article 22 of the Constitution of India in an effective manner. Such clarity on obligation would avoid uncertainty in the administration of criminal justice. The ends of fairness and legal discipline therefore demand that this procedure as affirmed above shall govern arrests henceforth."

20. From a perusal of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra) it clearly emerges that the Apex Court has categorically held, after considering Article 22 (1) of the Constitution of India, that no person who is arrested shall be detained in custody without being informed of the grounds of such arrest meaning thereby that it casts a mandatory and unexceptional duty on the State to provide the arrested person with the grounds of such arrest. Supply of grounds of arrest have also been held to be grounded in fundamental right of life and personal liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and that requirement of informing the arrested person the grounds of arrest is not a mere formality but a mandatory binding constitutional safeguard which has been included in Part III of the Constitution under the head of "Fundamental Rights".

21. The Apex Court has further held that the grounds of arrest must be furnished in writing in order to attend the true intended purpose of Article 22 (1) of the Constitution of India and have also held that supply of grounds of arrest is the Constitutional mandate. Thereafter, the Apex Court has held that if the grounds of arrest are not furnished to the arrestee in writing, the non compliance will result in breach of constitutional and statutory safeguards rendering the arrest and remand illegal and the person will be entitled to be set at liberty. The aforesaid procedure has been directed to govern all arrest henceforth i.e with effect from the date of the judgment of the Apex Court which is dated 06.11.2025.

22. Thus, considering the aforesaid judgment it is apparent that the grounds of arrest are mandatorily to be given to the arrestee.

23. In the instant case, as per prosecution the petitioner has been given the grounds and reasons of arrest as per the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026 which has been annexed with the writ petition. However, Columns 12 & 13 of the arrest memo, which pertain to the reasons of arrest and grounds of arrest, only indicate about Case Crime No. 15 of 2026 having been lodged against the petitioner under Sections 137 (2), 87, 64 (1), 351 (3) of B.N.S, 2023 and Section 3/4 of the POCSO Act, 2012. No grounds or reasons emerge from the arrest memo as to why the petitioner has been arrested. The matter may have ended there but for the fact that the learned AGAs have also produced the copy of reasons for arrest duly bearing the signatures of the petitioner. The said grounds of arrest duly finds placed and noted in the case diary no. CD 8 dated 28.01.2026. For the sake of convenience, the arrest memo and the grounds of arrest, given separately, are reproduced below:-

25. The said separate grounds of arrest have been perused by the Court but no confidence or trust can be reposed on the said grounds of arrest which are alleged to have been supplied separately to the petitioner. The reasons are not far to seek. Apart from the fact that the said reasons for arrest are separate provided on separate paper and do not form part of the arrest memo, the other aspect of the matter is that neither column 12 nor column 13 of the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026

nor anywhere in the arrest memo has it been indicated that the grounds of arrest are being given separately. Further the column no. 13 and sub columns pertaining to providing grounds of arrest have been left blank. As such, there can be no occasion to accept that grounds of arrest has been duly supplied to the arrestee. As per section 36 of the B.N.S.S, 2023, under which the arrest memo is to be issued, it is categorically provided that the memorandum of arrest would be attested by atleast one witness who is the member of a family of a person arrested or a respectable member of the locality where the arrest is made duly countersigned by the person arrested. Though the separate grounds/reasons of arrest are bearing the signature of the petitioner i.e a countersigned by the person arrested- the petitioner, yet there is no witness to the said grounds of arrest. This leads to the only inescapable conclusion that had the said grounds/reasons of arrest been prepared simultaneously with the arrest memo dated 28.01.2026, the same would duly have been mentioned on the arrest memo itself and would also have been attested by the witness who has attested the arrest memo as annexed with the petition. Thus, it is clearly apparent that the said grounds/ reasons of arrest have been prepared subsequently and though may be bearing the signature of the petitioner but do not conform to the mandatory provisions of Section 36 of the B.N.S.S, 2023 and the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra).

26. Thus, it is apparent that the arrest of the petitioner is in the teeth of the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra) and also in breach of constitutional safeguards which thus renders the arrest and remand of the petitioner illegal whereby rendering the petitioner to be set at liberty.

27. So far as the argument of the learned AGAs that as the petitioner is now in custody in pursuance to the remand order passed by the learned Magistrate and thus the illegality, if any, in the arrest gets obliterated which argument has been advanced on the basis of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra), the same merits to be rejected inasmuch as it is a settled proposition of law that once the edifice goes the super structure collapses meaning thereby that in case the arrest itself is declared illegal even if the remand order has been passed, the same would also be rendered bad keeping in view the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra).

28. The other aspect of the matter is that the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Rahul Modi (supra) has been considered by the Apex Court in the case of Gautam Navlakha Vs. National Investigation Agency, reported in (2022) 13 SCC 542 wherein the Apex Court has held has under:-

"Whether a writ of habeas corpus lies against an order of remand under Section 167 CrPC

76. A habeas corpus petition is one seeking redress in the case of illegal detention. It is intended to be a most expeditious remedy as liberty is at stake. Whether a habeas corpus petition lies when a person is remanded to judicial custody or police custody is not res integra. We may notice only two judgments of this Court. In Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat [Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat, (2013) 1 SCC 314 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 475] , we may notice para 24 : (SCC p. 324)

"24. The act of directing remand of an accused is fundamentally a judicial function. The Magistrate does not act in executive capacity while ordering the detention of an accused. While exercising this judicial act, it is obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to satisfy himself whether the materials placed before him justify such a remand or, to put it differently, whether there exist reasonable grounds to commit the accused to custody and extend his remand. The purpose of remand as postulated under Section 167 is that investigation cannot be completed within 24 hours. It enables the Magistrate to see that the remand is really necessary. This requires the investigating agency to send the case diary along with the remand report so that the Magistrate can appreciate the factual scenario and apply his mind whether there is a warrant for police remand or justification for judicial remand or there is no need for any remand at all. It is obligatory on the part of the Magistrate to apply his mind and not to pass an order of remand automatically or in a mechanical manner."

77. However, the Court also held as follows : (Manubhai Ratilal Patel case [Manubhai Ratilal Patel v. State of Gujarat, (2013) 1 SCC 314 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 475] , SCC p. 326, para 31)

"31…….It is well-accepted principle that a writ of habeas corpus is not to be entertained when a person is committed to judicial custody or police custody by the competent court by an order which prima facie does not appear to be without jurisdiction or passed in an absolutely mechanical manner or wholly illegal. As has been stated in B. Ramachandra Rao [B. Ramachandra Rao v. State of Orissa, (1972) 3 SCC 256 : 1972 SCC (Cri) 481] and Kanu Sanyal [Kanu Sanyal v. Distt. Magistrate, Darjeeling, (1974) 4 SCC 141 : 1974 SCC (Cri) 280] , the court is required to scrutinise the legality or otherwise of the order of detention which has been passed. Unless the court is satisfied that a person has been committed to jail custody by virtue of an order that suffers from the vice of lack of jurisdiction or absolute illegality, a writ of habeas corpus cannot be granted.

78. One of us (U.U. Lalit, J.) speaking for a Bench of two, followed the aforesaid line of thought in the decision of Serious Fraud Investigation Office v. Rahul Modi [Serious Fraud Investigation Office v. Rahul Modi, (2019) 5 SCC 266 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 516] and held as follows : (SCC p. 289, para 21)

"21. The act of directing remand of an accused is thus held to be a judicial function and the challenge to the order of remand is not to be entertained in a habeas corpus petition.

79. We may also notice para 19 from the same judgment : (Rahul Modi case [Serious Fraud Investigation Office v. Rahul Modi, (2019) 5 SCC 266 : (2019) 2 SCC (Cri) 516] , SCC p. 285)

"19. The law is thus clear that in habeas corpus proceedings a court is to have regard to the legality or otherwise of the detention at the time of the return and not with reference to the institution of the proceedings.

80. Thus, we would hold as follows : If the remand is absolutely illegal or the remand is afflicted with the vice of lack of jurisdiction, a habeas corpus petition would indeed lie. Equally, if an order of remand is passed in an absolutely mechanical manner, the person affected can seek the remedy of habeas corpus. Barring such situations, a habeas corpus petition will not lie."

29. From a perusal of the aforesaid judgment of Gautam Navlakha (supra) it emerges that the Apex Court has held that the habeas corpus petition would lie when a person is remanded to the judicial custody or police custody where the remand order is passed in an absolutely mechanical manner.

30. A perusal of the order passed by the learned Magistrate would indicate that the learned Magistrate though has considered the material available on record yet he has failed to consider that the grounds/reasons of arrest, as detailed separately, do not form part of the arrest memo as they do not find mention anywhere in the arrest memo and further also do not conform to the mandatory provisions of Section 36 of B.N.S.S, 2023 and thus it is apparent that the remand order has been passed in an absolutely mechanical manner and consequently, even if the remand has been given by the learned Magistrate yet the instant writ petition in the nature of habeas corpus would be maintainable.

31. So far as the preliminary objection raised by the learned AGAs pertaining to the maintainability of the instant petition in the nature of habeas corpus is concerned, apart from the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of Gautam Navlakha (supra), the Apex Court in the case of Nenavath Bujji Vs. State of Telengana and ors- 2024 (17) SCC 294 has held as under :-

"26. In Halsbury's Laws of England, it is stated thus:

“The writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum unlike other writs, is a prerogative writ, that is to say, it is an extraordinary remedy, which is issued upon cause shown in cases where the ordinary legal remedies are inapplicable or inadequate. This writ is a writ of right and is granted ex debito justitiate. It is not, however, a writ of course. Both at common law and by statute, the writ of habeas corpus may be granted only upon reasonable ground for its issue being shown. The writ may not in general be refused merely because an alternative remedy by which the validity of the detention can be questioned. Any person is entitled to institute proceedings to obtain a writ of habeas corpus for the purpose of liberating another from an illegal imprisonment and any person who is legally entitled to the custody of another may apply for the writ in order to regain custody. In any case, where access is denied to a person alleged to be unjustifiably detained, so that there are no instructions from the prisoner, the application may be made by any relation or friend on an affidavit setting forth the reason for it being made.

27. In Corpus Juris Secundum, the nature of the writ of habeas corpus is summarised thus:

“The writ of habeas corpus is a writ directed to the person detaining another, commanding him to produce the body of the prisoner at a designated time and place with the day and cause of his caption and detention to do, submit to, and receive whatsoever the court or Judge awarding the writ shall consider in that behalf. □Habeas corpus□ literally means □have the body□. By this writ, the court can direct to have the body of the person detained to be brought before it in order to ascertain whether the detention is legal or illegal. Such is the predominant position of the writ in the Anglo-Saxon Jurisprudence.

28. In Constitutional and Administrative Law by Hood Phillips & Jackson, it is stated thus:

"The legality of any form of detention may be challenged at common law by an application for the writ of habeas corpus. Habeas corpus was a prerogative writ, that is, one issued by the King against his officers to compel them to exercise their functions properly. The practical importance of habeas corpus as providing a speedy judicial remedy for the determination of an applicant's claim for freedom has been asserted frequently by judges and writers. Nonetheless, the effectiveness of the remedy depends in many instances on the width of the statutory power under which a public authority may be acting and the willingness of the courts to examine the legality of decision made in reliance on wide-ranging statutory provision. It has been suggested that the need for the □blunt remedy□ of habeas corpus has diminished as judicial review has developed into an ever more flexible jurisdiction. Procedural reform of the writ may be appropriate, but it is important not to lose sight of substantive differences between habeas corpus and remedies under judicial review. The latter are discretionary and the court may refuse relief on practical grounds; habeas corpus is a writ of right, granted ex debito justitiae."

29. The ancient prerogative writ of habeas corpus takes its name from the two mandatory words 'habeas' and 'corpus'. 'Habeas corpus' literally means 'have his body'. The general purpose of these writs as their name indicates was to obtain the production of the individual before a court or a Judge. This is a prerogative process for securing the liberty of the subject by affording an effective relief of immediate release from unlawful or unjustifiable detention, whether in prison or in private custody. This is a writ of such a sovereign and transcendent authority that no privilege of power or place can stand against it. It is a very powerful safeguard of the subject against arbitrary acts not only of private individuals but also of the Executive, the greatest safeguard for personal liberty, according to all constitutional jurists. The writ is a prerogative one obtainable by its own procedure. In England, the jurisdiction to grant a writ existed in Common law, but has been recognised and extended by statute. It is well established in England that the writ of habeas corpus is as of right and that the court has no discretion to refuse it. "Unlike certiorari or mandamus, a writ of habeas corpus is as of right to every man who is unlawfully detained. In India, it is this prerogative writ which has been given a constitutional status under Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, it is an extraordinary remedy available to a citizen of this country, which he can enforce under Article 226 or under Article 32 of the Constitution of India.

32. From a perusal of the aforesaid judgment of Nenavath Bujji (supra) it clearly emerges that there is a substantive difference between the writ of habeas corpus and remedies under judicial review inasmuch as the latter are discretionary and the Court may refuse release on practical grounds but a writ of habeas corpus is a writ of right granted ex debito justitiae.

33. Apart from the above, the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra) has categorically held that supply of grounds to the person being arrested is a constitutional mandate and is not a mere procedural formality and thus a writ alleging violation of fundamental rights would be maintainable and the Court may not have any discretion to refuse the same if the allegation of violation of fundamental rights is found to be correct, as in the instant case. From the discussion as aforesaid, it is clearly demonstrated that the arresting officer has not complied with the mandatory provisions provided in BNSS and the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah (supra) while arresting and producing the arrestee before the learned Magistrate/Court concerned for remand, therefore, the arrest of arrestee is bad in the eyes of law, hence, judicial remand granted by the Court for the petitioner upon an illegal arrest, cannot be termed as valid.

34. Keeping in view the aforesaid discussion, the writ petition is allowed. A writ in the nature of habeas corpus is issued declaring the arrest of the petitioner as illegal. The remand order dated 29.01.2026 being consequential to the illegal arrest, is also set aside. The petitioner be set free provided he is not wanted in any other case

35. However, it would be open for the respondents to proceed in accordance with law.

36. The records i.e the Case Diary Nos. CD 1 to CD 13 have been returned back to the learned AGAs after being perused.

37. The Court records the assistance rendered by Mr. Mohd Azam Siddiqui, Research Associate of this Court.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SARAL SRIVASTAVA, J.
THE HON'BLE SUDHANSHU CHAUHAN, J.

Special Appeal No. 219 of 2025

Dr. Dipanwita Singh Roy ...Appellant
Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Legality of invoking emergency power by the Vice Chancellor without getting approval of Executive Council and without explaining the circumstances of urgency to invoke emergency power.
(2) Validity of Selection Committee, consisting of members having expertise in Bharatnatyam stream different from the Katthak stream for which the selection is to be held.

(3) Validity of selection process, in which a candidate was allowed to participate in preparation of list of External Expert of the Selection Committee in the light of principle of biasness.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Career Advancement Scheme – Promotion – Post of Professor (Academic level - 14) – Selection Committee – In the absence of Executive Council, the Vice Chancellor constituted Selection Committee by invoking emergency power – No approval of Executive Council was taken – No opinion regarding existence of urgency was formed by the Vice Chancellor – Effect : (E-1)

Held : Though, Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 requires decision of the Vice Chancellor to be placed before the authority in the next meeting, who in the ordinary course would have dealt with the matter, but the intention behind conferring the emergency power is an exception to the general power and should be exercised in the manner prescribed under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, therefore, before taking any decision to invoke emergency power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, there has to be an opinion of the Vice Chancellor formed on the basis of material on record that emergency is such, which requires immediate action to be taken, and if no action is taken, that would be prejudicial or detrimental to the interest of the University or any wing of the University – The respondent has not placed any opinion of the Vice Chancellor that the emergency is such that if, emergency power under Section 7C (5) is not invoked, and if no action is taken, this would be prejudicial or detrimental to the interest of the University or any wing of the University. [Para 66]

(B) Service law – Career Advancement Scheme – Promotion – Post of Professor for the field of Katthak stream of Dance – Three members Selection Committee consisted of two members, having no expert knowledge of Katthak stream, but of Bharatnatyam stream – Legality of the constitution of Selection Committee was challenged : (E-1)

Held : Statute 27(b) provides for constitution of Selection Committee – It provides that the Expert should have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed, meaning thereby the Expert should possess special knowledge of the subject in which the person is to be appointed – It will undoubtedly refer to the Subject Expert nominated by the Executive Council who has special knowledge in the subject in which the person is to be appointed – In the case in hand, both the candidates namely, appellant and respondent no. 6 are the candidates to be appointed in Katthak stream as both of them have special knowledge of Katthak Dance and as there is no subject in the name of 'Dance', therefore, the Subject Expert cannot have any special knowledge in the subject of 'Dance'. This means that the candidates are to be appointed in the subject in which they have expertise which in the instant case is 'Katthak' as both the candidates, namely, appellant and respondent no. 6 have specialization in Katthak Dance – Inclusion of two expert members namely, Dr. Aarti H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele who have expertise in Bharatnatyam and have no expertise in Katthak would render the constitution of Selection Committee bad. [Para 90, 91, 107, 108 and 120]

(C) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Selection process –Principle of biasness – Applicability – Respondent no. 6, a candidate under Career Advancement Scheme, participated in preparation of list of External Expert of Selection Committee, and experts from this list of External Experts were the members of Selection Committee, who selected the respondent no. 6 – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : There is every likelihood of bias in participation of such expert members in the Selection Committee. Therefore, we find that there is an element of bias in the selection process. Thus, for this reason also, we find that selection of respondent no. 6 is vitiated. [Para 127]

(D) Interpretation of Statute – Cardinal rule of interpretation – Application – Held, when the Statute requires a thing to be done in a particular manner, it should be done in that manner only and not in any other manner. [Para 62] (E-1)

(E) Interpretation of Statute – Purposive construction – Application – Held, statute should be interpreted in a manner so as to achieve the object and purpose of the Statute for which it has been legislated. [Para 110] (E-1)

(F) Principle of estoppel – Applicability – Held, there cannot be any estoppel against a Statute. [Para 119] (E-1)

The present appeal is directed against the judgement and order of learned Single Judge dated 18.02.2025 passed in Writ-A No.4884 of 2024 whereby the learned Single Judge has dismissed the writ petition of the appellant, who was petitioner in Writ-A No.4884 of 2024 before the learned Single Judge.

3. The case of the appellant in the writ petition was that appellant was initially appointed as Assistant Professor (Katthak) at Punjabi University, Patiala vide order dated 27.02.2009 (English translation of the appointment letter is enclosed with the writ petition). The appointment letter indicates that the post on which the appellant was appointed was Lecturer in the Department of Dance at Punjabi University, Patiala.The appellant pursuant to the Advertisement No.07/2014-15 issued by the Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi (hereinafter referred to as the □BHU□) inviting applications for several teaching posts including the post of Associate Professor (Dance) carrying Post Code No.2730 applied for appointment as Associate Professor.

4. The petitioner after having gone through the process of selection was selected as Associate Professor (Dance) by appointment order dated 03.10.2015 issued by the Deputy Registrar (Recruitment and Assessment Cell). The appellant in pursuance of the said appointment order joined as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU, Varanasi. The appointment of the appellant was on probation for a period of one year. The appellant was subsequently confirmed as Associate Professor by the order of Deputy Registrar (Admin.-Teaching) dated 22.02.2017.

5. The appellant while working as Associate Professor was also appointed as Head of the Department of Dance for the period of three years on rotational basis by order dated 23.11.2019 issued by the Assistant Registrar (General Administration). Presently, the appellant is working as Associate Professor in the Academic Level-13A.

6. On 01.09.2023, a Notification was issued by the Deputy Registrar of the BHU inviting applications on or before 30.09.2023 for consideration of promotion under Career Advancement Scheme to different academic levels including promotion to the post of Professor (Academic Level-14).

7. The appellant being eligible, applied in pursuance to the aforesaid Notification in the prescribed form. After requisite processing, the appellant was required to appear before the Selection Committee on 04.01.2024. The appellant appeared before the Selection Committee on the said date.

8. As per the averments made in the writ petition, there does not exist any Executive Council in the BHU for the past almost two years, due to which, the Vice Chancellor has been passing orders on the recommendations of the Selection Committee at his level.

9. The appellant being aggrieved by the constitution of Selection Committee, which did not include external experts for the subject in consideration, filed a representation on 01.03.2024 before the Vice Chancellor of the BHU.

10. As per the case in the writ petition, respondent no.6-Dr. Vidhi Nagar was appointed as Lecturer in Dance (Katthak) by appointment order dated 02.11.2006 in pursuance to the Advertisement No. 2/2005-06. Subsequently, the respondent no.6 was appointed as Associate Professor by an order dated 30.09.2015 in pursuance of the Advertisement No.07/2014-15 with regard to post bearing Post Code-2730.

11. The appellant and respondent no. 6 both are discharging duties in the discipline of Katthak Dance. The qualifications and experience of appellant and respondent no.6 are in the speciality of Katthak Dance. According to the appellant□s case, neither the appellant nor respondent no.6 has any academic qualification or experience in Bharatnatyam.

12. Challenge to the constitution of Selection Committee has been laid by the appellant in the writ petition on three grounds noted below:-

(i). In the absence of Executive Council, the Vice Chancellor had no authority to constitute Selection Committee and nominate subject experts which can only be nominated by the Executive Council as provided under Statute 27 of the First Statute of BHU.

(ii). The post on which the selection is to be made was on a subject of Katthak in the Department of Dance whereas the subject experts nominated by the Vice Chancellor were not in the field of Katthak.

(iii). The respondent no.6 was herself an applicant for selection of Professor Level-14 under Career Advancement Scheme and was involved in forwarding the names of external experts, who participated in the selection proceedings, and thus, the selection proceedings are vitiated on the principle of bias.

13. In the aforesaid backdrop, the appellant prayed for the following relief in the writ petition:-

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction of a suitable nature commanding the respondent to produce the recommendations of the selection committee which met on 04.01.2024 for promotion as Professor (Academic Level - 14), in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, Banaras Hindu University and to quash the same.

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction of a suitable nature restraining the respondent from undertaking any proceedings in pursuance to the recommendations of the selection committee which met on 04.01.2024 for promotion as Professor (Academic Level-14), Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi.

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction of a suitable nature commanding the respondent to reconvene a meeting of selection committee for consideration of the petitioner for promotion as Professor (Academic Level-14) after including therein the external expert in the subject/field of Kathak Dance within a period to be specified by this Hon'ble Court.

(iv) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case.

(v) Award cost to the humble petitioner throughout of the present writ petition "

14. A counter affidavit has been filed by the BHU denying the averments made in the writ petition stating inter alia that the list of External Subject Experts, Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU has been forwarded by the respondent no.6 in the capacity of Head of the Department. It is stated that the Departmental Policy Planning Committee (hereinafter referred to as 'DPPC') of the Department of Dance in its meeting held on 17.07.2023 prepared the list of External Subject Experts in which the appellant was not present due to sabbatical leave. It is further stated that the DPPC submits a list of panel of members to the Selection Committee on the basis of experience. The respondent no.6 was the Head of the Department and others including the appellant are the members of the DPPC. Since, the appellant was on sabbatical leave, therefore, she did not attend the meeting.

15. The respondent no.6, being the Head, in the capacity of Chairperson of the DPPC forwarded the panel to the Dean for further necessary action.

16. It is stated that list of panel of said Experts was submitted by the DPPC. It is further stated that the 'subject/field' for which the Selection Committee met on 04.01.2024 was 'subject/field' of Dance, and not specifically Bharatnatyam, Katthak or any other dance form. Further case of the BHU is that there is no categorisation of imparting teaching work in the Department of Dance.

17. It is further stated that the appellant was initially appointed as Associate Professor of Dance. Since, there is a common syllabus for all specific fields of Dance, therefore, respondent no.6 and appellant have been specifically conducting classes in Katthak Dance in that particular semester which was not confined only to Katthak but they can also impart classes in other fields of Dance.

18. It is also stated that Vice Chancellor nominated three Experts out of the panel of the names approved by him in terms of Section 7C(5) of the BHU Act, 1915 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Act, 1915')

19. The appellant filed rejoinder affidavit to the counter affidavit of BHU denying the averments made in the counter affidavit.

20. The respondent no.6 also filed counter affidavit contending inter alia that she did not perform any role of choosing External Experts because there were other members of the Committee of DPPC and all the members chose the list of Experts which was duly signed by the Dean, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU. It is further stated that the final selection of Experts was in the hands of the Chairman of the Selection Committee i.e. Vice Chancellor. The respondent no.6 denied that she had any role in preparing or finalizing the list of external experts.

21. The learned Single Judge held that the Vice Chancellor under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 has power to nominate the Selection Committee in emergency. He further held that the Selection Committee was constituted by the Vice Chancellor after receiving the directions from the Ministry of Education vide letter dated 06.01.2023.

22. On the contention of the appellant that the Subject Experts nominated by the Vice Chancellor were not in the field of Katthak Dance, whereas the post is in the subject of Katthak Dance in the Department of Dance, the learned Single Judge held that the appellant herself was appointed as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance without any specialization in Katthak or Bharatnatyam, therefore, under the Career Advancement Scheme, there was no requirement of External Experts being an expert of Katthak. Consequently, the second contention was also rejected by the learned Single Judge on the aforesaid reasoning.

23. So far as the contention of the appellant that respondent no.6 was instrumental in preparation of list of External Experts, learned Single Judge held that since the Vice Chancellor has selected the External Experts from the list of 20 External Experts, therefore, merely because the list of External Experts was forwarded by the respondent no.6, the constitution of Selection Committee cannot be said to be vitiated.

24. Challenging the order of learned Single Judge, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant has submitted that the learned Single Judge has erred in law in holding that the Vice Chancellor could invoke the emergency power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 to appoint panel of experts. He submits that the decision of the Vice Chancellor as per Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 is to be validated by the Executive Council in the next meeting, and since in the instant case, the Executive Council was not in existence, therefore, action of the Vice Chancellor in appointing panel of experts is de hors Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915.

25. He further submits that it was not a case which required invocation of emergency power by the Vice Chancellor under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 inasmuch as under the Career Advancement Scheme, there is no post and it is only an upgradation on the post on which the candidate is working. He further contends that the promotion under Career Advancement Scheme is personal to the candidate and the promotion is given from the date of eligibility of the candidate, which is also evident from the order of promotion of respondent no.6 that she has been granted benefit of Career Advancement Scheme w.e.f. 30.09.2018, therefore, there was no urgency in the instant case for the Vice Chancellor to invoke the emergency powers under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915.

26. He submits that the Statute 11A of the Statute of BHU provides constitution of Policy and Planning Committee. The appellant□s case is covered under Clause (1) (b) & (3) (e) of the Statute 11A. He submits that Clause (1) (b) of the Statute 11A provides for the constitution of Policy and Planning Committee (PPC) for small Department, and Clause (3) (e) provides that the terms of □reference of the PPC□ shall be recommending a list of experts to the Vice Chancellor who may place the same before the Executive Council, therefore, the presence of Executive Council is necessary for two reasons; one for approving the panel of Experts and other for appointing outside panel Experts.

27. Accordingly, it is submitted that in the absence of Executive Council in the BHU, the constitution of Selection Committee and Subject Experts is bad in law in view of Statute 27 of the First Statute of BHU. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon the judgement in the case of Gauhati University and others Vs State of Assam & Others, 2017 (5) Gauhati Law Reports 427.

28. He further contends that the learned Single Judge has erred in law in concluding that since the appointment is being made in the Department of Dance Faculty of Performing Arts without specifying any specialisation in Katthak or Bharatnatyam, inasmuch as there does not exist any generic subject like Dance.

29. He contends that only two dance forms namely, Katthak and Bharatnatyam are taught in the Department of Dance. He contends that prior to appointment as Associate Professor in BHU, the appellant had functioned as Lecturer in Katthak at Punjabi University Patiala, and after appointment as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance at BHU, the appellant has been teaching Katthak. He further submits that since, the appointment has been made on the post of

Professor in the stream of Katthak, therefore, the panel Expert should have been from the Katthak stream.

30. He submits that Selection Committee constituted for selection was bad in law, inasmuch as out of three Experts, two Experts namely, Dr. Arti H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele were exponent of Bharatnatyam and did not have any academic qualification and teaching experience or expertise in Katthak Dance.

31. He contends that so far as the third member of the Selection Committee, namely, Dr. Kamalini Asthana is concerned, she was not eligible to be member of the Selection Committee for the reason that she is neither known to have any academic qualification in Katthak nor did she hold the post of Professor or a post equivalent thereto as was a mandatory condition specified in the communication of the Joint Registrar (Recruitment and Assessment Cell) dated 03.07.2023.

32. In this respect he has placed reliance upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Dr. Triloki Nath Singh Vs. Dr. Bhagwan Din Misra & Others, 1990 (4) SCC 510 & Dr. (Mrs.) Kalpana Sinha Vs. Union of India & Others, 2015 SCC OnLine Patna 5269.

33. He contends that the learned Single Judge has erred in law in placing reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the case of Dr. Monika Bansal Vs. Union of India & Others passed in Writ-A No.12176 of 2024.

34. He lastly contends that the Selection Committee is vitiated for the reason that the respondent no.6, who was an applicant and candidate, was instrumental in preparation of the list of External Experts. It is contended that it is a case of bias as the respondent no.6 admittedly was involved in the preparation of panel of Experts, and had forwarded the list of Experts to the Vice Chancellor. In this regard, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of A.K. Kraipak & Others Vs. Union of India & Others, 1969 (2) SCC 262.

35. Rebutting the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the respondents would contend that in the instant case, learned Single Judge has given elaborate reasons in concluding that the Vice Chancellor has rightly invoked the emergency powers under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 which are not unfettered but are subject to checks and balances.

36. He submits that if the Vice Chancellor on the material on record forms an opinion to invoke emergency power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, the Vice Chancellor is well within his right to constitute the Selection Committee in exercise of emergency power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, and the decision of the Vice Chancellor is subject to the approval by the Executive Council in the next meeting. He submits that this Court in Writ-A No.18332 of 2023 has issued a direction to the Vice Chancellor to invoke emergency powers under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 to constitute a Selection Committee for promoting the petitioner under Career Advancement Scheme. He further submits that the judgement in Writ-A No.18332 of 2023 has been affirmed by this Court in Special Appeal No.788 of 2024, and therefore, no illegality has been committed by the Vice Chancellor in invoking power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 to constitute the Selection Committee and finalize the selection.

37. So far as the constitution of Selection Committee is concerned, he submits that the appellant has been appointed as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts carrying Post Code 2730 pursuant to the Advertisement No.07/2014-15, and since, there was no specification/specialization mentioned against the post on which the petitioner was appointed as Associate Professor, therefore, there is no illegality in the constitution of Selection Committee as the appellant's appointment is in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts.

38. He submits that in the Department of Dance various subjects are taught which the appellant is to teach, and Katthak is one of the subject amongst other subjects which the appellant is to teach, therefore, it is not necessary that the members of the Selection Committee should belong to stream of Katthak.

39. He contends that Professor Dr. Uma Rele having specialization in Bharatnatyam interviewed the appellant during selection as Associate Professor, therefore, the appellant's contention that the Selection Committee should consist of the Experts of Katthak stream is misconceived and not sustainable in law. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon the judgement in the case of Dr. Monika Bansal (supra).

40. Lastly, he contends that merely because the respondent no.6 forwarded the names of Expert of panel to the Vice Chancellor that would not vitiate the selection proceeding inasmuch panel of Experts is selected by the DPPC, therefore, the contention of the appellant in this regard is also misconceived. In this respect, he has placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in the Bunch of petitions leading of which is Writ-A No.19427 of 2023 (Prof. (Dr.) Mujahid Beg Vs. Union of India and Others).

41. Sri Ashish Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent no.6 states that he also adopts the arguments raised by the learned counsel for the University. However, he submits that principles of estoppel would apply in the instant case because of the conduct of the appellant.

42. We have considered the rival submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

43. The facts have already been delineated above, therefore, they are not being reiterated to unnecessarily burden the judgement. Accordingly, we proceed to deal with the arguments raised by the learned counsel of respective parties.

44. Now coming to the first submission of learned Senior Counsel for the appellant that it is not a case where Vice Chancellor should have invoked his emergency powers under Section 7C (5) of the Act, 1915, it would be apt to reproduce Section 7C (5) of the Act, 1915:-

"7C. Powers and duties of Vice-Chancellor.

(4)...

(5) If, in the opinion of the Vice-Chancellor, any emergency has arisen which requires immediate action to be taken, the Vice-Chancellor shall take such action as he deems necessary and shall report the same for approval at the next meeting to the authority which, in the ordinary course, would have dealt with the matter:

Provided that, if the action taken by the Vice-Chancellor is not approved by the authority concerned, he may refer the matter to the Visitor, whose decision thereon shall be final:

Provided further that, where any such action taken by the Vice-Chancellor affects any person in the service of the University, such person shall be entitled to prefer, within thirty days from the date on which he receives notice of such action, an appeal to the executive Council.

(6) The Vice-Chancellor shall exercise such other powers as may be prescribed by the Statutes, the Ordinances or the Regulations."

45. Now, the question which arises for consideration in the present case is whether the opinion formed by the Vice Chancellor that in the present case there exists an emergency, which requires invocation of emergency power of the Vice Chancellor and as to whether the decision of Vice Chancellor to invoke emergency power is based upon proper appreciation of facts on record.

46. It is not in dispute that Executive Council does not exist in the BHU for the last two years. It is also not in dispute that selection was held for the grant of benefit of Career Advancement Scheme. In Career Advancement Scheme, there is no post, and it is only an upgradation on the post on which a candidate is working and candidate will be promoted from the date of eligibility. The said fact is also evident from the promotion order of respondent no.6 which reflects that the respondent no.6 has been promoted with effect from 30.09.2018. So the delay in not extending the benefit of Career Advancement Scheme do not prejudice the rights of a candidate eligible for the benefit under Career Advancement Scheme.

47. The Statute as well as Ordinance provides that Vice Chancellor after receiving the list of panel of Experts shall place the same before the Executive Council for its approval. Further, the approval of Executive Council is necessary for appointment of outside panel Experts.

48. Statute 11A of the BHU prescribes formation of Policy and Planning Committee (PPC), which is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"11A. POLICY AND PLANNING COMMITTEE

(1) The Policy and Planning Committee (PPC) shall consist of:

(a) For a large department (containing ten or more teachers):

(i) Two senior most teachers of the Department;

(ii) The present Head of the Department (Convener)

(iii) The past Head of the Department, preceding the present Head;

(iv) The teacher likely to be appointed as the next Head; after the expiry of the terms of the present Head;

(b) For a small department (containing less than ten teachers):

(i) The past Head of the Department, preceding the present Head;

(ii) The present Head of the Department (Convener)

(iii) The teacher likely to be appointed as the next Head after the expiry of the term of the present Head.

NOTE 1: The programme Coordinator of Centre of Advanced Study/Special Assistance Programme etc., be included in the PPC.

NOTE 2: Whenever the required number of teachers for filling the composition of the Policy & Planning Committee is not available or on account of non eligibility, the Vice-Chancellor may nominate any teacher of the Faculty.

NOTE 3: For the Departments as specified at (a) and (b) above-Institute of Medical Sciences shall have representation to super-specialties.

(2) The Head of the Department shall consult the "PPC" and take action only after the decisions are taken by the "PPC".

(3) The terms of reference of the PPC shall be:

(a) taking decisions in all policy matters which effect the long-term growth of the Department keeping in view the requirements of continuity and stability and steady and consistent development;

(b) formulating and finalizing five-year plan proposals and other development plans;

(c) selecting thrust areas for development and for research;

(d) formulating the qualifications for the posts to be advertised including specifying the specializations, if any;

(e) recommending a list of experts to the Vice-Chancellor who may place the same before the Executive Council;

(f) finalizing the equipment to be purchased out of capital grants and their allotment to different laboratories in the Department;

(g) preparing the Annual Report, maintaining an up-to-date information regarding the departmental activities, achievements and other statistical data; and

(h) taking policy decisions on all matters pertaining to discipline and smooth working of the department.

NOTE: In order to ensure the effective working of the Policy and Planning Committee of the Departments all recommendations sent by the Heads of the Departments with respect to Policy and Planning matters to various functionaries of the University be accompanied by a copy of the Resolution passed by the Policy and Planning Committee concerned in respect of recommendations made.

49. Clause-4 of the Ordinance governing the procedure to be followed by the Selection Committee in making recommendations for appointment against the posts of Professor, Associate Professor and Assistant Professor and such other posts as are declared teaching posts by the Academic Council under the provisions of Statute 27 (2) of the Act, 1915 and Statutes provide for nomination of expert members to serve on Selection Committee..

50. According to Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel, Statute 11A(1) (b) is applicable in the present case and placing reliance upon said Statute, he contends that PPC shall consist of the persons mentioned in (i), (ii) (iii) of the said Statute. He further submits that as per Statute 11A (3) (e), the terms of reference of PPC shall be recommending a list of experts to the Vice Chancellor who may place the same before the Executive Council.

51. He further contends that Clause 4(a) of the Ordinance mandates the Vice Chancellor to place the list of expert members for all disciplines recommended by the PPC of the Departments and collected from other sources before the Executive Council for it's consideration and approval. He further contends that Clause 4(b) of the Ordinance further makes it obligatory upon the Vice Chancellor to ordinarily invite Experts for attending the meeting of Selection Committee from the panel approved by the Executive Council, and if the Vice Chancellor finds that there is a special urgency, he may make additions to the panel and report the same to the Executive Council.

52. In the counter affidavit filed by the BHU, it is averred that in compliance of the Notification dated 03.07.2023, the Head of Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts of the BHU provided the names of External Experts through its DPPC as per rules, then the Vice Chancellor nominated three Experts out of panel of names approved by him in terms of Section 7C (5) of the Act, 1915. In this regard, paragraph nos.17 and 18 of the counter affidavit filed by the BHU are being reproduced herein below:-

"17. That the contents of paragraph no.29 of the writ petition as stated are not admitted hence denied. In reply it is stated that in compliance of the notification dated 03.07.2023, the Head of the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, Banaras Hindu University provided the names of External Experts through its Departmental Policy Planning Committee as per rules. Then, the respondent no.3 nominated the three Experts out of the panel of names approved by him in terms of Section 7-C(5) of the Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915.

18. That the contents of paragraphs no.30 and 31 of the writ petition are not admitted as stated. In reply it is stated that the three External Experts in the Department of Dance, Faulty of Performing Arts were nominated by the Vice-Chancellor by exercising the power vested in him under Section 7C(5) of the Banaras Hindu University Act, 1915. The interview for the post of Assistant Professor (Academic Level-10) and Associate Professor (Academic Level-13A) under the Direct Recruitment as well as for promotion as Professor (Academic Level-14) under Career Advancement Scheme was held accordingly. The recommendation of the selection committee in respect of the promotion under Career Advancement Scheme for various Departments of the University including the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, is still under sealed cover. It is pertinent to mention here that the Vice-Chancellor has nominated three External Experts for direct recruitment as well as for promotion under Career Advancement Scheme under the subject of Dance."

53. Perusal of Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 reveals that Vice Chancellor is to form an opinion that emergency is such which requires immediate action to be taken.

54. No material has been placed on record to indicate that for invoking power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, any opinion has been formed by the Vice Chancellor on the basis of material on record indicating that urgency is such which requires immediate action.

55. So far as the letter of Ministry of Education dated 06.01.2023 on which reliance has been placed by the learned counsel for the respondents to support the decision of Vice Chancellor to invoke power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 is concerned, it would be appropriate to reproduce the letter dated 06.01.2023:-

"Government of India
Ministry of Education Department of Higher Education
Shastri Bhawan, New Delhi

Dated: 06.01.2023

To,
The Vice Chancellor
Banaras Hindu University (BHU),
Varanasi-221005,
Uttar Pradesh

Subject: Permission of opening the envelopes containing the recommendations of Selection Committee for promotion of faculty members In Banaras Hindu University-reg.

Sir.

I am directed to refer to BHU's letter No. VC/532 dated 17.12.2022 on the subject mentioned above and to say that Section 7(5) of the BHU Act, 1915 provides that:

"....if, in the opinion of the Vice-Chancellor any emergency has arisen which requires immediate action to be taken, the Vice-Chancellor shall take such action as he deems necessary and shall report the same action for approval at the next meeting to the authority which, in the ordinary course, would have dealt with the matter."

You are therefore requested to take necessary action in terms of Section 7(5) of the BHU Act, 1915.

This issues with the approval of the competent authority."

56. Perusal of 'subject' of the letter dated 06.01.2023 reveals that selection process for promotion of Faculty members of the University was completed, and recommendation of the Selection Committee for promotion was lying with the Vice Chancellor and to open the same, the Vice Chancellor sought permission from the Government. The letter dated 06.01.2023 was written in reference to the letter no.VC/532 dated 17.12.2022 of the Vice Chancellor of the University which is being reproduced herein below:-

"Dear Shri Murthy:

The University as on date has an existing strength of about 1550 teaching faculty. Promotions against various stages as Assistant Professors, Associate Professors and Professors under Career Advancement Scheme are conducted from time to lime on the basis of assessment of academic and research performance of the teaching faculty. In the month of November 2020 selection committee meetings were held for promotion of 48 faculty members in various Departments of the University by the then Vice-Chancellor. The recommendations of selection committees are placed under sealed envelopes.

In spite of the promotions recommended by the Selection Committees the same have not been extended due to lack of approval by the Executive Council. You will agree that holding back promotions by more than two years is a big challenge with respect to faculty morale.

Considering the above situation and the fact that Executive Council of the University is not in place for considerable period, the Vice-Chancellor may therefore be permitted to open the envelopes containing the recommendations of selection committee for promotion so as to enable the University to issue the letters.

With regards,"

57. At this juncture, it would be apt to refer to the letter dated 11.06.2001 issued by the Ministry of Human Resource Development (Department of Secondary Education & Higher Education), which reads as under:-

"OFFICE MEMORANDUM

Sub.: Guidelines for observance by the Vice Chancellors of all the Central Universities while invoking their emergency powers:-

1. In all the Central Universities either the Acts or the Statutes vest certain emergency powers in the Vice Chancellor. By virtue of these powers, the Vice Chancellors are authorised, in matters requiring urgent action, to exercise powers vested in any authority of the University. These powers have enabled Vice Chancellors to deal with emergencies and unforeseen contingencies without having to wait for the relevant bodies of the Universities to meet. There have, of late, been complaints that in a few universities this power is being invoked as a matter of routine with the result that the statutory bodies, like the Court, the Executive Council and the Academic Council etc. are being increasingly asked to endorse action taken on their behalf by the Vice Chancellors. Complaints have also been received that such powers are being used to marginalise these bodies and to reduce frequencies of their meetings. This being a rather regressive development needs to be checked thereby enabling statutory bodies to play the critical important role envisaged for them in the overall democratic governance of the Universities.

2-In view of the above, the President, as the Visitor of all the Central Universities, has approved the following guidelines for observance by the Vice Chancellors of all the Central Universities:

(i) Emergency powers conferred on the Vice Chancellors should be exercised with restraint and only in such emergency situations where the authority ordinarily empowered to exercise such powers is unlikely to meet in the near future and deferring a decision for consideration of the appropriate body is likely to create serious administrative inconvenience.

(ii) Routine matters like creation of teaching and academic posts, appointment to the said posts, finalising recruitment procedures, promotions under Merit Promotion Scheme/Career Advancement Scheme, upgradation of posts making them personal to the incumbents should invariably be placed before the authorities MISSI ordinarily empowered to take decisions in such cases. Emergency powers should not be exercised by the Vice Chancellors in such cases.

(iii) Policy matters like amending/making/repealing of Statutes which, in fact, require assent of the Visitor should in no case be decided by the Vice Chancellors by invoking emergency powers.

3-Contents of this communication may please be noted for information, guidance and compliance in future.

4-This issues with the approval of the Visitor.

5-The receipt of this letter may kindly be acknowledged."

58. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Department of Higher Education, again by letter dated 24.09.2015 reiterated that the Central University is to strictly adhered to the guidelines laid down by the Ministry of Human Resource Development in its letter dated 11.06.2001. Relevant extract of the letter dated 24.09.2015 is reproduced herein below:-

"3. In order to ensure that all Central Universities follow the due procedure in decision making process and approval of the competent statutory authorities is invariably takers in a democratic manner, this Ministry has already circulated the guidelines with the approval of the Visitor vide O.M. No. F.3-9/97-Desk(U), dated 11th June, 2001, regarding invoking of emergency powers by Vice Chancellors (Copy enclosed). It is hereby reiterated that these guidelines should strictly and invariably be complied with by all the Central Universities. It is also requested to ensure that all decisions in the Central Universities are taken with the approval of the concerned competent Statutory Bodies of the University, in accordance with the procedure laid down in the Acts/Statutes.

4. Further, it is to add that the Government has no role in day-to-day functioning of Central Universities.Visitor's nominees in the Statutory Bodies of the Universities have a very vital role to play in taking transparent and fair decisions besides contributing in overall functioning and improvement of the Central Universities. Being nominees of the Visitor, it is also their duty to report the irregularities, if any come to their notice, to the Government. Accordingly, all Central Universities are requested to kindly bring these instructions/guidelines to the notice of all the Members of Court, Academic Council, Executive Council, Finance Committee and Selection Committees for information and strict compliance and send action taken report."

59. The counter affidavit filed by the BHU does not reflect that while invoking power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 for Career Advancement Scheme, the Vice Chancellor has adhered to the guidelines laid down in the letter dated 11.06.2001 and as provided in Paras 2(i) and (ii).

60. It is pertinent to mention that Executive Council has been entrusted with several essential functions with regard to promotion under Career Advancement Scheme. The Executive Council under Career Advancement Scheme is supposed to perform following functions:-

(i). Under Statute 27 (1)(b)(3) of the First Statute of the University, the Executive Council is required to nominate three persons associated with Selection Committee having special knowledge of the subject with which persons to be appointed would be concerned.

(ii). Regulation 5.1.3 read with 5.1.2 of 2010 UGC Regulation requires nomination of Experts from "the panel of names approved by the relevant Statutory body of the University concerned." Relevant statutory body for approving panel of Expert body in the present case is the Executive Council.

(iii) Clause 4 (a) of the Ordinance mandates the Vice Chancellor to place the list of expert members for all disciplines recommended by the PPC of the Departments and collected from other sources before the Executive Council for its consideration and approval. Clause 4(b) of the Ordinance provides that the Vice Chancellor shall ordinarily invite the Experts for attending the meeting of Selection Committee from the panel approved by the Executive Council, and in the event of special urgency, the Vice Chancellor is authorized to make additions to the panel and report the same to the Executive Council.

(iv). Executive Council is entrusted with the duty to approve the recommendation of the Selection Committee before they are implemented.

61. The role of Executive Council detailed above in the process of selection cannot be given a go by in a hushed up manner, so as to defeat the object for which the Executive Council is entrusted with the functions, under the relevant provisions for the purpose of grant of benefit of Career Advancement Scheme. The Ministry of Human Resource Development, Department of Higher Education has also laid the guidelines in the letter dated 11.06.2001, extracted above, which the Vice Chancellor is supposed to abide by while exercising power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915.

62. The law is settled that when the Statute requires a thing to be done in a particular manner, it should be done in that manner only and not in any other manner.

63. The Apex Court in paragraph no.14 of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Opto Circuit India Limited Vs. Axis Bank & Others 2021 (6) SCC 707 held that if statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it should be done in that manner only and not in any other manner. Paragraph no.14 of the said judgement is reproduced herein-below:-

"14. This Court has time and again emphasised that if a statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner alone and in no other manner. Among others, in a matter relating to the presentation of an election petition, as per the procedure prescribed under the Patna High Court Rules, this Court had an occasion to consider the Rules to find out as to what would be a valid presentation of an election petition in Chandra Kishore Jha v. Mahavir Prasad and in the course of consideration observed as hereunder: (SCC p. 273, para 17)

"17. ….. It is a well-settled salutary principle that if a statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner and in no other manner."

Therefore, if the salutary principle is kept in perspective, in the instant case, though the authorised officer is vested with sufficient power; such power is circumscribed by a procedure laid down under the statute. As such the power is to be exercised in that manner alone, failing which it would fall foul of the requirement of complying with due process under law. We have found fault with the authorised officer and declared the action bad only insofar as not following the legal requirement before and after freezing the account. This shall not be construed as an opinion expressed on the merit of the allegation or any other aspect relating to the matter and the action initiated against the appellant and its Directors which is a matter to be taken note of in appropriate proceedings if at all any issue is raised by the aggrieved party."

64. Similarly, the Apex Court in paragraph nos.15 to 17 of the judgement in the case of Union of India & Others Vs. Mahendra Singh, 2022 SCC OnLine SC 909 has held as under:-

"15. A three Judge Bench of this Court in a judgment reported as Chandra Kishore Jha v. Mahavir Prasad held as under:

"17....It is a well-settled salutary principle that if a statute provides for a thing to be done in a particular manner, then it has to be done in that manner and in no other manner. (See with advantage: Nazir Ahmad v. King Emperor [(1935-36) 63 IA 372: AIR 1936 PC 253 (2)], Rao Shiv Bahadur Singh v. State of V.P [AIR 1954 SC 322: 1954 SCR 1098], State of U.P. v. Singhara Singh [AIR 1964 SC 358: (1964) 1 SCWR 57].) An election petition under the rules could only have been presented in the open court up to 16-5-1995 till 4.15 p.m. (working hours of the Court) in the manner prescribed by Rule 6 (supra) either to the Judge or the Bench as the case may be to save the period of limitation. That, however, was not done....."

16. The said principle has been followed by this Court in Cherukuri Mani v. Chief Secretary, Government of Andhra Pradesh wherein this Court held as under:

"14. Where the law prescribes a thing to be done in a particular manner following a particular procedure, it shall be done in the same manner following the provisions of law, without deviating from the prescribed procedure...."

17. Similarly, this Court in Municipal Corporation of Greater Mambal (MCGM) v. Abhilash Lal and OPTO Circuit India Limited v. Axis Bank has followed the said principle. Since the advertisement contemplated the manner of filling up of the application form and also the attempting of the answer sheets, it has to be done in the manner so prescribed. Therefore, the reasoning given by the Division Bench of the High Court that on account of lapse of time, the writ petitioner might have attempted the answer sheet in a different language is not justified as the use of different language itself disentitles the writ petitioner from any indulgence in exercise of the power of judicial review."

65. We are of the view that judgement of Gauhati University (supra) supports the case of the appellant. Paragraph nos.5 & 6 of the said judgement are being reproduced herein below:-

"5. A bare reading of the above quoted section 15A (1) (b) makes it clear that in making recommendations for the appointment of Professors of the University, the Selection Committee shall co-opt the Head of the Department concerned, if he is a Professor, one Professor of the Department to be nominated by the Vice-Chancellor and two persons not in the services of the University to be nominated by the Executive Council out of a panel of not less than five names of persons recommended by the Academic Council, who have special knowledge of the subject for which the Professor is to be selected.

6. Admittedly, in the case at hand, the Selection Committee was not constituted in terms of section 15A (1) (b) of the Act, as the Vice-Chancellor himself nominated two persons as members instead of calling for the nomination of such two persons by the Executive Council.

Section 15A(1)(b) of the Act clearly states that Vice-Chancellor is to nominate one Professor of the Department whereas Executive Council is to nominate two persons who have special knowledge of the subject. The role of participation of such experts is crucial in the selection process because it is expected from the Selection Committee to make endeavour to select the best suitable candidate. Section 15A(1)(b) does not permit the Executive Council to delegate its power on the Vice-Chancellor to nominate two persons who have special knowledge of the subject. Therefore, the nomination of such two persons can be made only by Executive Council and not by the Vice-Chancellor. It is well settled principle of law that a statutory power must be exercised only by the authority or the person on whom it is conferred unless the statute by express words or necessary implication permits delegation. From the language used in section 15A(1)(b) also, it is apparent that requirement of nomination of two persons by the Executive Council from the panel of experts is mandatory, which the learned Single Judge has rightly held by giving cogent reasons in paragraph 31 of the order. There is yet another settled principle of law which says that when power is given to do a certain thing in a certain way, the thing must be done in that way and not at all. In other words, if the manner of doing a particular act is prescribed under any statute the act must be done in that manner and not at all. Therefore, in the constitution of Selection Committee even this principle of law was violated by the appellants"

66. Though, Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 requires decision of the Vice Chancellor to be placed before the authority in the next meeting, who in the ordinary course would have dealt with the matter, but the intention behind conferring the emergency power is an exception to the general power and should be exercised in the manner prescribed under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, therefore, before taking any decision to invoke emergency power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915, there has to be an opinion of the Vice Chancellor formed on the basis of material on record that emergency is such, which requires immediate action to be taken, and if no action is taken, that would be prejudicial or detrimental to the interest of the University or any wing of the University. The respondent has not placed any opinion of the Vice Chancellor that the emergency is such that if, emergency power under Section 7C (5) is not invoked, and if no action is taken, this would be prejudicial or detrimental to the interest of the University or any wing of the University.

67. So far as the judgement of this Court in the case of Dr. Bhaktiputra Rohtam (supra) affirmed by this Court in Special Appeal No.788 of 2024 is concerned, we find that said judgement has been rendered in a different factual backdrop, which is evident from paragraph nos.19 to 22 of the judgement of learned Single Judge. Paragraph no.19 of the judgement of the learned Single Judge reflects that learned Single Judge proceeded on the basis that the promotion under CAS was to be made on the basis of seniority and not on the basis of selection, and therefore, if Executive Council was not there and Vice Chancellor was of the view that papers of the petitioner had reached the assigned cell designated for the purpose of processing of valuation, it was required for the designated cell to have processed the papers. In such circumstances, the learned Single Judge held that Vice Chancellor could have invoked the power under Section 7C(5) and he had no occasion to wait for the decision of the Government asking the Vice Chancellor to act on behalf of Executive Council in purported exercise of power under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915.

68. Hence, the judgement of learned Single Judge as well as Appellate Court affirming the judgement of learned Single Judge did not notice the aforesaid aspect of the matter as detailed above while allowing the writ petition and as such are not applicable in the present case.

69. Similarly, the judgement in the case of Dr. Monika Bansal (supra) relied on the issue of invocation of urgency power by the Vice Chancellor under Section 7C(5) of the Act, 1915 does not help the respondents inasmuch as the said judgement has also not considered the relevant issues, which have been noted by this Court in reference to the powers of Vice Chancellor under Section 7C(5) of the Act,1915.

70. Now, coming to the question as to whether the Selection Committee should consist of the subject expert in the field of Katthak, and for this reason, the constitution of Selection Committee is vitiated as out of the three members of the Selection Committee, two members namely, Dr. Arti H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele, who had expertise in Bharatnatyam and were not eligible to act as member of the Selection Committee.

71. According to the appellant, there is no generic subject like Dance and since the appointment was on the post of Professor in the field of Katthak, therefore, the members of the Selection Committee should have expertise in Katthak Dance and not in any other form of Dance.

72. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents contends that the appointment of the appellant is in the Department of Dance under Faculty of Performing Arts and Career Advancement Scheme is also for the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, in which many subjects are taught and Katthak is only one of the subjects, which the appellant is also supposed to teach, therefore, it is not necessary that the Selection Committee should consist of experts in Katthak Dance.

73. The three experts that were part of the Selection Committee, which met on 04.01.2024 are as follows:-

> "(i) Dr. (Miss.) Uma Rele, Principal, Nalanda Nritya Kala Mahavidyalaya.
>
> (ii) Kamalini Asthana, Padamshree Exponent of Katthak.
> (iii) Dr. Aarty H. Shetty, Eminent Katthak Varanasi Style."

74. It is the case of the appellant in the writ petition, that neither the aforesaid three members were qualified or eligible for participating as experts for consideration for promotion as Professor in the discipline of Katthak dance. According to appellant, Dr. Arti H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele are exponents of Bharatnatyam and do not have any academic qualification, teaching experience or expertise in Katthak Dance.

75. So far as Dr. Kamalini Asthana is concerned, she is an exponent of Katthak dance. However, she is not known to have any academic qualification in Katthak dance nor she holds the post of Professor or a post equivalent thereto as was mandatorily specified in the communication of the Joint Registrar (Recruitment and Assessment Cell) dated 03.07.2023. The letter dated 03.07.2023 issued by the Joint Registrar (Recruitment and Assessment Cell) reads as under:-

"Dear Sir/Madam,

As you are aware that in terms of the provisions contained in the Statute 27 of BHU Statutes and UGC Regulations 2018, external subject experts are associated in the Selection Committees for recommending the names of candidates for appointment/ promotion to the teaching posts in the University.

In view of above, I am directed to request you to kindly provide a specialization-wise list of at least 20 names of external subject experts not below the rank of Professor from top 20 NIRF ranking institutions or from Institutions of National Importance or experts of national/international repute; with their complete contact details in the proforma given hereunder, duly approved by the respective PPC of the concerned Department/School/Centre and send it to the Office of the undersigned on or before 17th July, 2023.

This may kindly be given TOP PRIORITY.

LIST OF EXTERNAL SUBJECT EXPERTS

Department _____ Faculty/Institute: _____

Sl. No.	Name of Expert	Area of Specialization	Contact Details
			Address		Telephone No.		Mobile No.	Email ID
			Office	Residence	Office	Residence

76. According to the said letter, the subject expert should not be below the rank of Professor from the top 20 NIRF ranking institutions, therefore, according to appellant, Dr. Kamalini Asthana was not eligible to participate as expert in the Selection Committee. The appellant in this respect has made necessary averments from paragraph nos.32 to 37 of the writ petition, which has been replied by the BHU in paragraph no.19 of the counter affidavit.

77. The BHU does not deny the fact that Dr. Uma Rele is an exponent of Bharatnayam, however, it is asserted in paragraph no.19 of the counter affidavit that Dr. Kamalini Asthana and Dr. Aarti H. Shetty have specialization in the field of Katthak.

78. The averments of the respondent University in paragraph no.19 of the counter affidavit that Dr. Arti H. Shetty is an expert in Katthak have been denied by the appellant in paragraph no.6 of the rejoinder affidavit. The appellant in paragraph no.6 of the rejoinder affidavit has reiterated that specialization of Dr. Arti H. Shetty is in Bharatnayam.

79. The petitioner in support of her contention that Dr. Arti H. Shetty is an exponent of Bharatnayam has placed on record the detail of Dr. Arti H. Shetty downloaded from the Official Website of Amrita Vidyalayam, annexed as Annexure-18 to the paper book, but the BHU has not enclosed any document on record indicating that Dr. Arti H. Shetty had specialization in Katthak also.

80. At this stage, it would be appropriate to reproduce Statute 27 of the First Statute of the BHU which is as follows:-

"27 - Selection Committee:

(1)(a) There shall be Selection Committee for making recommendations to the Executive Council for appointment to the posts of Professors, Readers, Lecturers, Registrar, Controller of Examinations, Librarian and such other posts as are declared teaching posts by the Academic Council.

(b) Every Selection Committee shall consists of Vice Chancellor who shall be the Chairman thereof and a person nominated by the Visitor, and in addition the Selection Committee for making recommendations for appointment to a post specified in column (1) of the Table below shall have as its members the persons specified in the corresponding entry in column (2) of the said Table:

Post	Members
Professor	(1) The Dean of the Faculty concerned, provided he is a Professor; except in cases where they are applicants or when the post held by them is being filled up. (2) The Head of the Deptt. concerned, provided he is a Professor, except in cases where they are applicants or when the post held by them is being filled up. (3) Not less than three persons not being in the service of the Executive Council who have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed will be concerned, to be nominated by the Executive Council.
Reader/Lecturer and Teaching post	(1) Dean of the Faculty concerned; (2) The Head of the Department concerned. (3) Not less than two persons not being in the service of the University or members of the Executive Council who have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed will be concerned, to be nominated by the Executive Council.
Registrar/ Controller of Examination	Three Members of the Executive Council nominated by it.
Librarian	Not less than three persons not being in the service of the University or members of the Executive Council who have special knowledge of the subject of Library Science to be nominated by the Executive Council.
Professors, Readers and Lecturers and	The Director of the concerned Institute will also be a

other teaching post in the Institute of Technology, Institute of Medical Sciences and the Institute of Agricultural Sciences	member of the Selection Committee constituted as above for the respective post.
Professors, Readers and Lecturers and other teaching post Mahila Mahavidyalaya	Principal, Mahila Mahavidyalaya, will also be a member of the Selection Committee, constituted in as above for the post of Mahila Mahavidyalaya.
Professors, Readers and Lecturers in the Centre of Advanced study/Departments selected for Special Assistance Programme/Schools	Programme Coordinator of the concerned Departments (CAS/SAP and Schools) will also be a member of the Selection Committee

(c) Provided that the meetings of the Selection Committee shall be fixed only after prior consultation with and subject to the convenience of the Visitor's nominee and the persons nominated by the Executive Council under Clause (b) above.

Provided further that the proceedings of the Selection Committee shall not be valid unless:

(i) Where the number of Visitor□s nominee and the persons nominated by the Executive Council is four in all, at least three of them attend the meeting; and

(ii) Where the number of Visitor□s nominee and the persons nominated by the Executive Council is three in all, at least two of them attend the meeting.

(d) Notwithstanding the provision under Statute 27(1)(a) the Executive Council may constitute a Special Committee to suggest names of persons of high academic distinction eminence and professional attainments for filling in Special Chairs of Professors.

(2)The procedure to be followed by a Selection Committee in making recommendations shall be laid down in the Ordinances.

(3)If the Executive Council is unable to except any recommendation made by the Selection Committee, it shall record its reasons and submit the case to the Visitors for orders."

81. Learned counsel for the appellant has laid emphasis upon the word 'concerned subject/field' employed in Regulation 5.1.2 of UGC Regulations. According to him, there is no generic subject like Dance, and Faculty of Dance is imparting education in Katthak or Bharatnatyam. Further he has placed on record the qualifications of the appellant while submitting the application for being appointed as Associate Professor pursuant to the Advertisement No.07/2014-15.

82. He has submitted that the appellant while applying for the post of Associate Professor has disclosed her qualifications showing that she possesses a Degree in Sangeet Prabhakar in Katthak Dance, and M.A. Degree from Indira Kala Sangit Viswavidyalaya in Katthak Dance (both Theory and Practical), Post Diploma from Katthak Kendra, New Delhi in Katthak Dance (Theory & Practical). He has further invited attention of the Court to the application of the appellant with respect to Research Degree, according to which, her specialization is 'Doctoral' in 'Katthak Dance' and Title of Thesis is, 'Comparative Study of the Lucknow and Jaipur Gharanas of Katthak Dance, and for the Post Doctoral, D.Litt/D.Sc., her specialization is, 'Katthak Dance' and Title of Thesis is, Movements Executed On The Technical Compositions of Katthak Dance; an Analytical Study. Thus, considering the qualifications of the appellant, she has been appointed as Associate Professor to teach Katthak.

83. At this stage, it is also relevant to note that respondent no.6 was appointed as Lecturer in Dance (Katthak), which is evident from the appointment letter of the respondent no.6 dated 02.11.2006.

84. The question, which arises for consideration is whether the constitution of Selection Committee consisting two out of three Experts from the stream of Bharatnatyam is a validly constituted Selection Committee when it is not in dispute that when the only two candidates, namely, appellant and respondent no.6, were having expertise in Katthak Dance. Further the issue for consideration is whether the third expert namely, Dr. Kamalini Asthana was eligible to participate as an expert member in the Selection Committee.

85. The appellant in paragraph no.25 of the writ petition has categorically stated that the appellant as well as respondent no.6 are discharging their duties in the discipline of Katthak Dance, qualification of the appellant and respondent no.6 is also in specialty of Katthak Dance. It is also stated that neither the appellant nor the respondent no.6 had any academic qualification nor experience in Bharatnatyam. Paragraph no.25 of the writ petition is reproduced herein below:-

"25. That the petitioner as also Dr. Vidhi Nagar both are discharging duties in the discipline of Katthak Dance. The qualification and experience of the petitioner as also Dr. Vidhi Nagar is in the specialty of Katthak Dance. Neither the petitioner nor Dr. Vidhi Nagar had any academic qualification nor experience in Bharat Natyam."

86. Paragraph no.25 of the writ petition has been replied by the BHU in paragraph no.14 of the counter affidavit. Paragraph no.14 of the counter affidavit is reproduced hereinbelow:-.

"14. That the contents of the paragraph no.25 of the writ petition so far it relates to the petitioner are not admitted as stated and hence denied. In reply it is stated that the petitioner was appointed as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts against Advertisement No.07/2014-2015 under (Post Code-2730) without showing any specialization in Katthak/Bharatnatyam."

87. The respondent no.6 has also replied the paragraph no.25 of the writ petition in paragraph no.18 of her counter affidavit which is also reproduce herein below:-

"18. That, the contents of para no.25 of the writ petition as they stand need no comments."

88. The specific averment made by the appellant in paragraph no.25 of the writ petition, extracted above, with regard to the fact that she as well as respondent no.6 are discharging duties in the discipline of Katthak Dance and they have specialty in Katthak Dance and have no qualification nor experience in Bharatnatyam have not been denied either by the BHU or respondent no.6 in their counter affidavit.

89. So, it is not in dispute that Selection Committee was to adjudge suitability of the candidates for promotion under Career Advancement Scheme of the candidates who admittedly have the qualification and expertise in Katthak Dance, and have been discharging their duties in the discipline of Katthak Dance.

90. The Statute 27(b) provides for constitution of Selection Committee. Column-I of the table below Statute 27 (b) specifies the post and persons referred in Column-II of the said table are the members of the Selection Committee against the post specified in Column-I. Paragraph (3) in Column-II of the table, against the post of Professor prescribes, "not less than three persons who have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed will be concerned, to be nominated by Executive Council."

91. Thus, the Statute provides that the Expert should have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed, meaning thereby the Expert should possess special knowledge of the subject in which the person is to be appointed.

92. In the form filled by the appellant for promotion on the post of Professor under Career Advancement Scheme, the appellant at serial no.9 and 10 has given the following details:-

Department	Dance
Faculty/Institution Department	Faculty of Performing Arts
Present Designation on which you are working	As an Associate Professor Katthak Dance

93. From the aforesaid, it is evident that in the application form, the appellant has given the details of her Department as "Dance" and designation on which she is working as Associate Professor Katthak Dance".

94. She has given her details at Serial No.22 in the form as, 'Assistant Professor Katthak' in Punjabi University, Patiala. In the column of 'Fields of Specialization', she has mentioned her specialization in 'Katthak stream'.

95. At this juncture, it is also relevant to note that respondent no.6 was initially appointed as Lecturer in Dance (Katthak), which is evident from her appointment letter dated 02.11.2006 in the Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU. The relevant extract of the appointment letter of respondent no.6 on the post of Lecturer in Dance (Katthak) is reproduced herein below:-

"Dr. (Ms.) Vidhi Nagar
C-1143, Indira Nagar,
Lucknow-226016

Dated: 2.11.2006

Ref: Your application for the post of Lecturer in Dance (Kathak) against Advt. No. 02/2005-06.

Madam,

The Executive Council of the University at its meeting held on 31.10.2006 has been pleased to appoint you as Lecturer in Dance (Kathak) in the Faculty of Performing Arts, Banaras Hindu University, on the terms noted below….."

96. Learned counsel for the respondent-University has emphasized that the Advertisement No.07/2014-15 pursuant to which the appellant was appointed as Associate Professor, she applied against the Post Code-2730 as Associate Professor, and the specialization column in the Advertisement against the Post Code-2730 was blank, whereas in the specialization column against Post Code-2677, □Bharatnatyam□ is mentioned. Therefore, he submits that the appellant was appointed as Associate Professor (Dance) without any specialization, in the Department of Faculty of Performing Arts. On that basis, he submits that when the appellant was selected as Associate Professor, Professor Dr. Uma Rele having specialization in Bharatnatyam interviewed the appellant during her selection as Associate Professor, and thus, it is established that interview for selection on the post of Associate Professor was in the Department of Dance without any specialization. Thus, he submits that the candidates selected against the Post Code-2730 do not belong to any specific subject as the selection was for Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU.

97. He has further placed the appointment letter of the appellant and also the resolution of the Executive Council to demonstrate that the appointment of the appellant was as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU.

98. To buttress the said submission, he has pointed out that since the appointment of the appellant is in the Department of Dance without any specialization, and if, she has any specialization that is not relevant as she is to be promoted as Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts without there being any specialization.

99. He has also placed on record the syllabus for the Bachelor of Performing Arts to submit that Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts is a composite Department where Dance of various streams namely, Bharatnatyam, Katthak and other forms of Dance are taught, and thus, appellant has been appointed as Dance Teacher without any specialization.

100. We have perused the syllabus of subjects taught in Bachelor of Performing Arts, enclosed with the paper book, wherein various subjects in different semesters are taught to the students, for example in Semester-I students are taught History of Bharatnatyam-1, History of Dance-1

(Common Paper), Nritya Prayog-1 etc. In Semester-II, History of Bharatnatyam-II, History of Dance-II, Nritya Prayog. Similarly, in other semesters, other subjects are taught.

101. Though, it is true that in the Bachelor of Performing Arts, various subjects are taught in different semesters, but we cannot lose sight of the fact that Department of Faculty of Performing Arts also imparts education in the Post Graduate Courses in Dance stream and there is a Post Graduate Course in the name of MPA in Dance Katthak/ Bharatnatyam as per Post Graduate Information Bulletin, 2022. For admission in the aforesaid courses, qualification prescribed is that the candidates should possess B.Music/BPA in Dance in Indian Classical Dance (Katthak/Bharatnatyam).

102. Similarly, the BHU is awarding Post Graduate Degree in Master of Performing Arts Dance (Katthak), and Master of Performing Arts in Bharatnatyam. The BHU is awarding Degree in Bachelor of Performing Arts in specialized subject Katthak, the mark-sheet of various students in respect to Post Graduation as well as Bachelor of Performing Arts have been enclosed by the appellant with the writ petition. The appellant has made submissions in this regard in paragraph nos.47 to 49 which are reproduced herein-below:

"47. That in the Department of Dance the Degrees which are awarded are Bachelor's Degree in Performing Art and Degree in Performing Art. Each such Degree is awarded with reference either to Kathak Dance or Bharat Natyam Dance and there is no Degree awarded generically for Dance as a subject. In support of the aforesaid the petitioner brings on record some mark sheets/degrees pertaining to Bachelor of Performing Art and Master of Performing Art as also Doctorate Degree collectively as Annexure 21 to this writ petition. A perusal of the several degrees so awarded would demonstrate that each such Degree is either in Kathak or in Bharat Natyam Dance.

48. That the petitioner also brings on record the relevant extract of post graduate information bulletin 2022 as Annexure 22 to this writ petition.

49. That clause 3.1.12 (b) of the aforesaid information brochure would demonstrate that University is awarding Master's Degree in Performing Arts either in Kathak Dance or in Bharat Natyam Dance".

103. Paragraphs no.47 to 49 have been replied by the BHU in paragraph no.24 of its counter affidavit and by the respondent no.6 in paragraph no.33 of her counter affidavit.

104. Paragraph no.24 of the counter affidavit of the BHU and paragraph no.33 of the counter affidavit of respondent no.6 are reproduced respectively herein-below:-

"24. That the contents of the paragraphs no. 47, 48, 49 of the writ petition are not admitted as stated. It is further submitted that the Banaras Hindu University is having Department of Dance and the petitioner was appointed as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts without any specialization in Kathak or Bharatnatyam dance. It is further stated that the syllabus for all courses i.e. Bharatnatyam, Kathak or any other dance course is common. The syllabus is to be taught by the dance teacher irrespective of their specialization".

"33. That, the contents of para nos.47, 48 & 49 of the writ petition as they stand are denied being misconceived and incorrect. In reply it is submitted that syllabus of the courses either Bhratnatyam or Kathak Dance is common. The syllabus is to be taught by the Dance Teacher irrespective of her specialization and the said fact is also proved from the appointment of the petitioner as Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts without any specialization in Kathak or Bharat Natyam Dance hence awarding of Degree either in Kathak or Bharatnatayam Dance would not mean that the person who is teaching should also be holding the post of Associate Professor in the said specialized Dance field"

105. The facts delineated above establish that in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, various subjects of different streams are taught, therefore, it is obvious that Expert in those subjects are required to teach those subjects. Various mark-sheets enclosed with the writ petition including thereof graduation and post graduation, and the information brochure would establish that Degrees are being awarded either in Katthak stream or Bharatnatyam stream. The respondents could not demonstrate from the record that there is any Dance form taught in the Department of Dance.

106. The appointment letter of the appellant dated 03.10.2015 states that the appointment of the appellant is made on the post of Associate Professor in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts. So, it is evident that there is a Department of Dance in the Faculty of Performing Arts, and there is no subject in the name of 'Dance', which is being taught in the Department of Dance. But Katthak and Bharatnatyam are two streams/subjects of Dance which are taught in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU.

107. If we appreciate the context in which the words in the Statute 27, 'persons should have special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed will be concerned' has been employed, we can say with certainty that it will undoubtedly refer to the Subject Expert nominated by the Executive Council who has special knowledge in the subject in which the person is to be appointed.

108. In the case in hand, both the candidates namely, appellant and respondent no.6 are the candidates to be appointed in Katthak stream as both of them have special knowledge of Katthak Dance and as there is no subject in the name of 'Dance', therefore, the Subject Expert cannot have any special knowledge in the subject of 'Dance'. This means that the candidates are to be appointed in the subject in which they have expertise which in the instant case is Katthak as both the candidates, namely, appellant and respondent no.6 have specialization in Katthak Dance.

109. The purpose of the Selection Committee is to adjudge the suitability of a candidate for the post for which he/she has applied. If, the appointment is to be made in Katthak stream as both the candidates have special knowledge in Katthak, the two Subject Experts in the Selection Committee namely, Dr. Uma Rele and Dr. Aarti H. Shetty, who have expertise in Bharatnatyam, which said fact is established from the record, obviously cannot assess and adjudge the suitability of the two candidates who are from different stream i.e. Katthak.

110. The law is settled that Statute should be interpreted in a manner so as to achieve the object and purpose of the Statute for which it has been legislated. At this stage, it would also be useful to refer to Regulation 5.1.2 dealing with the constitution of Selection Committee for the Associate Professor and Regulation 5.1.3 dealing with the constitution of Selection Committee for the post of Professor. Regulation 5.1.2 and Regulation 5.1.3 respectively are reproduced herein-below:-

"5.1.2. Associate Professor in the University

(a) The Selection Committee for the post of Associate Professor in the University shall have the following composition:

1. Vice Chancellor to be the Chairperson of the Selection Committee.

2. An academician who is the nominee of the Visitor/Chancellor, wherever applicable.

3. Three experts in the concerned subject/field nominated by the Vice Chancellor out of the panel of names approved by the relevant statutory body of the university concerned.

4. Dean of the faculty, wherever applicable.

5. Head/Chairperson of the Department/School.

6. An academician representing SC/ST/OBC/Minority/Women/ Differently-abled categories, if any of candidates representing these categories is the applicant, to be nominated by the Vice Chancellor, if any of the above members of the selection committee do not belong to that category.

At least four members, including two outside subject experts, shall constitute the quorum.

5.1.3 Professor in the University

The composition of the Selection Committee for the post of Professor in the University shall be similar in composition as that for the post of Associate Professor set out in Clause 5.1.2 above."

111. Regulation 5.1.2 specifies that Vice Chancellor should appoint three Experts in the concerned subject/field.

112. The appellant has placed reliance upon the judgement of Dr. Triloki Nath Singh (supra) wherein the advertisement was issued for selection on the post of Reader in Linguistics in Department of Hindi. However, the Selection Committee consisted of an Expert in Hindi Literature and not in Linguistics, paragraph no.14 of the said judgement is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"14. The above provision laying down essential qualifications also goes to show that first or high second class degree and doctorate in the subject concerned was an essential qualification. As already mentioned above posts were mentioned separately for three Readers in Hindi and one Reader in Linguistics in the Department of Hindi. Explanation II could only apply in a case where the post of teacher to be selected was common to more than one subject of study. Advertisement nowhere provided that one Reader in Linguistics in the Department of Hindi was to be selected as common to more than one subject of study. Merely because the post of Reader in Linguistics was required in the Department of Hindi, it cannot be held that such Reader in Linguistics was to teach the subject of Linguistics as well as the subject of Hindi Language and Literature. It may also be noted that from a perusal of the above advertisement along with the prospectus of the University clearly goes to show that for the post of Reader in Linguistics it was necessary to have an essential qualification of first or high second class master's degree and doctorate in the subject of Linguistics. Explanation II can apply in a case where one common teacher is to be selected for more than one subject of study and in that contingency it provides that the expert may belong to either of such subjects of study. In the case in hand before us the advertisement did not mention that the post of one Reader in Linguistics in the Department of Hindi was common with any other subject of study. Thus the appointment of all the experts in the present case of subject of Hindi for the selection of one Reader in Linguistics in the Department of Hindi was totally wrong and illegal."

113. Reliance has further been placed by the learned counsel for the appellant on the judgement of learned Single Judge in the case of Dr. (Mrs.) Kalpana Sinha (supra) wherein a challenge to the Selection Committee for selection in 'English' was laid on the ground that Selection Committee did not consist of an expert in 'English'.

114. The aforesaid challenge was refuted on the ground that petitioner was to be appointed in the National Institute of Technology (NIT) as Associate Professor in the subject, 'Humanities and Social Sciences', therefore, experts in any field of Humanities and Social Sciences can be treated to be the experts in the 'subject' within the meaning of Clause 23 (5) (a) of the First Statute of National Institute of Technology. Patna High Court in paragraph nos.22 to 25 of the said judgement has held as under:-

"22. As has been noted in the very opening paragraph of the present judgment, what meaning is to be given to the word "expert" as occurring in "Clause 23(5)(A) of the Statutes is the central point which requires determination in the present case for the purpose of constitution of a Selection Committee, to consider cases for grant of advancement in the scale of Professor with A.G.P. under C.A.S., in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences in N.I.T., Patna. It has been stated on behalf of the respondents that there are nearly 170 subjects, which fall within the category of "Humanities and Social Sciences" and it has been canvassed that experts in either of these subjects could be appointed as expert-members of the Selection Committee. According to the respondents, in the absence of the word 'subject' mentioned in Clause 23(5)(a) of the Statutes, the said word cannot be read into the said provision in order to conclude that expert would mean "subject expert".

23. In my opinion, Clause 23(5)(a) of the Statues requires to be read with the purpose for which it is there in the Statutes. The purpose is manifest and obvious. The fundamental and primary purpose of constitution of the Selection Committee is to evaluate and assess the proficiency and knowledge of a faculty member for recruitment to a post/promotion to higher grade or grant of advancement to higher grade and in the present case to the grade of Professor under CA.S. The Selection Committee consists of 6 members, two of whom should be the experts, to make assessment/evaluation in tune with the guidelines, as contained in letter dated 14.03.2012, issued by the Department of Higher Education, Ministry of Human Resource Development, Government of India. The function and duty of the Selection Committee is thus to assess "proficiency and knowledge in once chosen field of research and teaching" (emphasis added). Thus, while considering the case of an Associate Professor, whose chosen field of research is English, it would be difficult to accept the plea that persons having no experience or expertise in such field can still assess the proficiency and knowledge of a person being considered for advancement/promotion under C.A.S.

24. Mr. Kanth, learned senior counsel, appearing on behalf of the petitioner, is right in his contention that the expert, as occurring in Clause 23(5)(a) of the Statutes for the purpose of constitution of Selection Committee, could not mean expert in any subject of the stream under Humanities and Social Sciences and if such interpretation is given, it would give rise to an anomalous and absurd situation. Purposive construction is an effective well accepted and established tool for Interpreting Statutes, and has been applied by Supreme Court in the case of New India Assurance Company Ltd. v. Nusii Neville Wadia" (Supra). In case of "N. Kannadasan v. Ajoy Khose" (Supra), the Supreme Court held that if plain meaning assigned to the sections result into absurdity and anomaly, literal meaning would not be applied and held that the Court may have to change the interpretative tool, if necessary to give effective, contextual meaning to a statutory provision. The Court held that construction of Statute must subserve the tests of justice and reason. Relevant portion of paragraph-55 of the said decision is extracted hereinbelow:-

55. Construction of a statute, as is well known, must subserve the tests of justice and reason. It is a well-settled principle of law that in a given case with a view to give complete and effective meaning to a statutory provision, some words can be read into; some words can be subtracted. Provisions of a statute can be read down (although sparingly and rarely).

25. In my opinion, therefore, while selecting experts for constitution of the Selection Committee for the aforesaid purpose, experts in the subject were required to be appointed as members, otherwise, very purpose of selection, with experts as its members would stand frustrated. I must take note of the fact that though the petitioner was working as an Associate Professor in the Department of Humanities and Social Sciences, but that would not mean that she was appointed to teach all subjects of Humanities and Social Sciences in the said Department. This is not even the case of the respondents. She was appointed to teach English in the said Department. The subjects which are taught in the subject of Humanities and Social Sciences have been mentioned in Paragraph-4 of the judgment. From the reading of the list of subjects/ sub-subjects, it would appear that the petitioner's appointment was for Item Nos.-(i) to (iv) and she had not experience of teaching other items mentioned therein, which position is admitted."

115. As has already been held above that as per the Statute 27 and Regulation 5.1.2, the subject expert in the constitution of Selection Committee refers to the expert having special knowledge of the subject with which the person to be appointed will be concerned, which in the instant case is Katthak, as both the candidates namely, the appellant and the respondent no.6, have qualifications and expertise in Katthak Dance. Further, Katthak is one of the dance forms, which is being taught in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, the said fact is also established from the various mark-sheets of Post Graduation Courses as well as that of Bachelor of Performing Arts, enclosed with the paper book. Therefore, we are of the view that the Selection Committee should consist of experts from the stream of Katthak.

116. The respondents could not demonstrate that there is any subject in the name of Dance or education is being imparted in the Dance stream in the Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, and since, there is no such subject, there cannot be any expert in Dance, and the expert could only be either in the subject of Katthak or Bharatnatyam, which streams are being taught in the Department of Dance. Therefore, in the case in hand, since, the appellant and respondent no.6 are having qualification and specialization in Katthak Dance, it is obvious that the selection is being made on the post of Professor in Katthak, and mentioning of subject in the specialization column is not relevant in the context of the present case.

117. If, the contention of learned counsel for the respondents that since the selection was being made on the post of Professor in the Department of Dance where various forms of Dance are taught and the appellant is supposed to teach any subject in the Department of Dance, therefore, the composition of Selection Committee consisting of two experts namely, Dr. Arati H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele, having expertise in Bharatnatyam would not vitiate the Selection Committee is accepted, that interpretation would render the insertion of words, having special knowledge of subject with which the person to be appointed in Statute 27 otiose and would lead to an absurdity inasmuch as it could not be the intention of the framers of the Statute, while incorporating the said words in the Statute that the expert from other subjects would also be eligible to become members of Selection Committee to adjudge the suitability of a candidate of different stream. The reason why we say so is that the object of formation of the Selection Committee is to adjudge the suitability of the candidate based on qualification, experience and competence in a particular field so that only the best of the candidates are appointed. We find that the aforesaid aspect of the matter has not been considered by the learned Single Judge in the case of Dr. Monika Bansal (supra), which has been heavily relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents in support of their arguments.

118. We also do not agree with the finding of learned Single Judge in the case of Dr. Monika Bansal (supra) that since, the petitioner in that case had been granted the benefit by the same Selection Committee, which had found the petitioner to be unsuitable for promotion at the stage of Level-14, therefore, the petitioner cannot raise objection to the constitution of Selection Committee. Hence, we reject the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the respondents, who has tried to invoke the principles of estoppel on the ground that the Selection Committee for the appointment of appellant as Associate Professor consisted of Dr. Uma Rele who has expertise in Bharatnatyam, therefore, it is not open for the appellant to raise objection in respect of the constitution of Selection Committee, at this stage.

119. It is settled in law that there cannot be any estoppel against a Statute. The Apex Court has also stated the said principle of law in the case of Employees State Insurance Corporation Vs. Union of India & Others, 2022 (11) SCC 392.

120. In view of foregoing discussions, we are of the view that inclusion of two expert members namely, Dr. Aarti H. Shetty and Dr. Uma Rele who have expertise in Bharatnatyam and have no expertise in Katthak would render the constitution of Selection Committee bad. Hence, we do not deem it necessary to consider the eligibility of third expert member namely, Dr. Kamalini Asthana of Selection Committee on the ground that she was not eligible to become a member of the Selection Committee.

121. Now, coming to the third submission raised by Sri Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel for the appellant that preparation of list of external experts is vitiated because of the fact that there was every likelihood of bias in preparing the list of External Experts as respondent no.6 was also an applicant and a candidate in the selection and was also instrumental in preparing the list of external experts, we may note that the fact of participation in preparation of list of external experts is not disputed by the respondents. However, respondent no.6 has stated that she being the Head of Department forwarded the list of external experts and the appellant as well as respondent no.6 both were eligible to participate in the preparation of list of external experts, and appellant did not participate in the preparation of list of external experts because of sabbatical leave, therefore, there is no element of bias in preparation of list of external experts because of participation of the respondent no.6 in the PPC.

122. At this juncture, it would be apt to have a glance at Note-2 of the PPC, extracted above. Note-2 specifically provides that whenever the required number of eligible teachers for filling the composition of PPC is not available, the Vice Chancellor may nominate any teacher of the faculty.

123. The respondent no.6 was an applicant and candidate for selection, therefore, there is every likelihood that there exists an element of bias in preparation of list of external experts because of participation of respondent no.6 in preparation of panel list. It is true that PPC consists of several members and the decision is taken collectively, but in the instant case, the Vice Chancellor had an option to appoint another member of the Department, where a teacher who is member of PPC is not eligible to function as a member of PPC, therefore, to remove the element of bias in preparation of list of panel of experts, the Vice Chancellor should have appointed another member in place of respondent no.6 in PPC for preparation of list of external experts.

124. It would be apt to reproduce paragraph nos.22 & 23 of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of A.K. Kraipak & Others Vs. Union of India & Others, 1969 (2) SCC 262 which are as follows:-

"22. It was next urged by the learned Attorney General that the mere fact that one of the members of the Board was biased against some of the petitioners cannot vitiate the entire proceedings. In this connection he invited our attention to the decision of this Court in Sumer Chand Jain v. Union of India. Therein the Court repelled the contention that the proceedings of a departmental promotion committee were vitiated as one of the members of that committee was favourably disposed towards one of the selected candidates.The question before the Court was whether the plea of mala fides was established. The Court came to the conclusion that on the material on record it was unable to uphold that plea. In that case there was no question of any conflict between duty and interest nor any member of the departmental promotion committee was a judge in his own case. The only thing complained of was that one of the members of the promotion committee was favourably disposed towards one of the competitors. As mentioned earlier in this case we are essentially concerned with the question whether the decision taken by the board can be considered as having been taken fairly and justly.

23. One more argument of the learned Attorney General remains to be considered. He urged that even if we are to hold that Naqishbund should not have participated in the deliberations of the selection board while it considered the suitability of Basu, Baig and Kaul, there is no ground to set aside the selection of other officers. According to him it will be sufficient in the interest of justice if we direct that the cases of Basu, Baig and Kaul be reconsidered by a Board of which Naqishbund is not a member. Proceeding further he urged that under any circumstance no case is made out for disturbing the selection of the officers in the junior scale. We are unable to accept either of these contentions. As seen earlier Naqishbund was a party to the preparation of the select list in order of preference and that he is shown as No.1 in the list. To that extent he was undoubtedly a judge in his own case, a circumstance which is abhorrent to our concept of justice. Now coming to the selection of the officers in the junior scale service, the selections to both the senior scale service as well as junior scale service were made from the same pool. Every officer who had put in service of 8 years or more, even if he was holding the post of an Assistant Conservator of Forests was eligible for being selected for the senior scale service. In fact some Assistant Conservators have been selected for the senior scale service. At the same time some of the officers who had put in more than eight years of service had been selected for the junior scale service. Hence it is not possible to separate the two sets of officers."

125. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon the Division Bench Judgement of this Court in the case of Prof. (Dr.) Mujahid Beg (supra) to contend that the contention of learned Senior Counsel for the appellant on the issue of bias is misplaced. We find that that the judgement relied upon by the learned counsel for the respondents does not help the respondents and is distinguishable on facts, inasmuch as in the said case Professor (Dr.) Mujahid Beg chaired the Executive Council while his wife got recommended by the Visitor for appointment as Vice-Chancellor. In challenge to the appointment of Professor Naima Khatoon, as Vice Chancellor, the respondent contended that the appointment of Vice Chancellor was based on cast of votes as such it was a case of election wherein plea of bias would be unavailable. However, this Court in paragraph no.61 of the judgement has held that appointment on the post of Vice Chancellor was based on selection and not election. Consequently, this Court repelled the objection of respondent-State that concept of bias would not be attracted in the said case.

126. This Court deprecated the participation of husband of Naima Khatoon as Chairperson to Executive Council. However, after appreciating the concept of bias, this Court was of the view that the selection of Naima Khatoon should not be disturbed.

127. The facts of the present case are distinguishable from the facts of Prof. (Dr.) Mujahid Beg (supra) inasmuch as in the present case, respondent no.6 was an applicant and candidate for consideration for the benefit under Career Advancement Scheme and she had participated in preparation of list of External Experts and experts from the list of External Experts forwarded by respondent no.6 were the members of Selection Committee, who selected the respondent no.6. Therefore, there is every likelihood of bias in participation of such expert members in the Selection Committee. Therefore, we find that there is an element of bias in the selection process. Thus, for this reason also, we find that selection of respondent no.6 is vitiated.

128. It has also been brought on record by the learned counsel for the respondent-University that now the Executive Council has been constituted and selection of respondent no.6 has been approved, copy of Resolution of Executive Council, ECR dated 09.10.2025 has been brought on record by the respondent no.3 through supplementary counter affidavit.

129. However, we are of the view that approval of appointment of the respondent no.6 by the Executive Council would not regularize the illegality committed by the respondents in carrying out the selection and therefore, we set aside the Resolution of Executive Council, ECR dated 09.10.2025.

130. For the reasons detailed above, we hold that constitution of Selection Committee is bad in law, and therefore, the selection of respondent no.6 is also bad in law. Consequently, we set aside the judgement of learned Single Judge as well as the selection of respondent no.6 on the post of Professor, Department of Dance, Faculty of Performing Arts, BHU, Varanasi. We further direct the respondent no.3-Vice Chancellor, Banaras Hindu University, Varanasi to hold fresh selection by constituting a Committee by excluding the appellant and respondent no.6 from the PPC for preparation of panel of Experts and form a Selection Committee consisting of Experts from Katthak stream having essential qualifications to become Subject Expert within a period of two months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

131. Consequently, the appeal is allowed with no order as to costs.

Issue for consideration

Whether private individuals should be given security at State cost?

Headnotes

A. Criminal Law – As a matter of principle, private individuals should not be given security at State cost unless there are compelling transparent reasons, which warrant such protection, especially if the threat is linked to some public or national service they have rendered and, the security should be granted to such persons until the threat abates. But, if the threat perception is not real, it would not be proper for the Government to grant security at the cost of taxpayers money and to create a privileged class. (Para 9)

B. This Court, while exercising writ jurisdiction u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India, cannot substitute its decision to the decision of the competent Authority in respect of threat perception of the petitioner to his life and property. The threat perception has to be real and the Security Committee has to assess the threat perception, taking into consideration the reports from Intelligence Unit, the concerned police station and past record of the applicant. The security should be provided only to those who face real threat to their life for having done some work in the interest of the society or the nation from terrorist/naxalite or organized gangs and not otherwise. A personal enmity with other would not come within the parameters for assessing the threat perception of the applicant for providing him security. (Para 9)

The gravity of threat has to be real and not just based upon perceptive apprehension. The satisfaction of the competent authority cannot be ignored in the absence of any trustworthy, credible and reliable evidence. A Court does not stand as an expert to assess the correctness of the decision of the competent authority and to evaluate the threat, if any, faced by an individual. The same has to be left to the competent authority and its assessment and discretion. (Para 10)

The threat perception in the present case has already been assessed by the competent authority and security has already been provided to the petitioners. Further, the nature and gravity of threat perception essentially is a question of fact which is best assessed by the authorities constituted under the various government orders and the assessment of the same does not lie within the domain of this Court while exercising it's powers u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Lastly, the petitioners neither have a statutory right nor a fundamental right to claim police protection and as such, usually the right to claim police protection cannot be enforced in exercise of power u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India. (Para 11)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

For Petitioner(s): M Afzal Parvej, Akhilesh Kumar Tiwari, Arif Ikbal, Sarphraj
For Respondent(s): A.S.G.I., C.S.C., Vinay Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhanshu Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned standing counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The petitioners have filed the present writ petition seeking a direction for the Secretary, Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India to immediately provide armed Central Security Force Protection (CRPF) to the petitioners in the light of the grave and persistent threat to the lives of the petitioners.

3. The contention of the petitioner is that three FIRs have been lodged by the petitioners, the first FIR bearing Case Crime No. 185 of 2020 in respect of breaking of boundary wall and labour quarters in the brick-kiln of the petitioners, the second FIR bearing Case Crime No. 700 of 2020 relating to a false trust/deed (as alleged in the writ petition) and the third FIR bearing Case Crime No. 173 of 2023 relating to hacking of the mobile phone of the petitioners. Under the circumstances, it is contended that the petitioners are facing an imminent threat to their lives and as such they are seeking protection.

4. However, the perusal of the pleadings in the writ petition do not disclose a single specific instance on the basis of which it can be assumed that the petitioners have any threat to their lives. Further, other than the persons who have been named in the FIRs lodged at the instance of the petitioners, not a single person has been named including those named in the FIRs in the writ petition who has hurled any life threat to the petitioners or their family members. It is also duly admitted that vide order dated 06.08.2023, the petitioners have been granted police protection by providing one security guard. Hence, it is evident that the petitioners have already been provided police protection keeping in view the threat perception as assessed by the competent authority.

5. Keeping in view the circumstances of the case and the law laid down in this regard, it can very well be held that the nature of threat perception and the liability to provide security has to be left to be decided by the authorities concerned, since this is clearly a question of fact to be dealt with by the authorities entrusted with the duty and not for this Court to determine while exercising it's jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Moreover, we find that the provision for security in the shape of police personnel has become more of a status symbol by means of which, a privileged class has been created at the expense of the State and the taxpayers? money.

6. In a country governed by the rule of law and democratic polity, a class of privileged persons should not be created by the State. Our country has got a written Constitution and as per the preamble, the goal of the Indian Democratic Republic is to secure justice to all citizens, socially, economically and politically, and equality of status and of opportunity to all. The State cannot be seen as creating a privileged class in the society as it would amount abdication of the very principle of justice and equality enshrined in the Constitution. There may be cases where public interest demand to provide personal security but same should be done in a transparent and fair manner and the State should be able to justify it's decision if, the same is challenged in the Court of law.

7. In this regard, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ramveer Upadhyay Vs. R. M. Srivastava and others, 2015 (13) SCC 370 arising out of a case where Z category security of a Minister in the State of U.P. had been downgraded after he ceased to be a Minister, the Hon'ble Court had held as under:

"6. However, in our experience, we have hardly seen any security of "Z" or "Y" category provided to any ordinary citizen, howsoever grave the threat perception or imminent danger may be to the person concerned. The petitioner, however, has claimed it obviously as a "privileged class" by virtue of being an ex-Minister which at times, may be justified even to an ex-Minister or any other dignitary, considering the nature and function of the duties which he had discharged, which could facilitate the assessment of his threat perception even after laying down the office. But what exactly is his threat perception and whether the same is grave in nature, obviously will have to be left to be decided by the authorities including the authorities of the State or the Centre which may include even the Intelligence Bureau or any other authority concerned which is entitled to assess the threat perception of an individual. But insofar as the court of law is concerned, it would obviously be in a predicament to come to any conclusion as to whether the threat perception alleged by a person claiming security is grave or otherwise which would hold him entitled to the security of a greater degree, since this is clearly a question of factual nature to be dealt with by the authorities entrusted with the duty to provide security after assessing the need and genuineness of the threat to any individual."

8. A Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of M.A. Khan Chaman Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2004 SCC Online All 373, wherein the petitioner had sought continuous security that too free of cost, this Court had held as under:

"There is no right of the petitioner to enjoy this privilege ad infinitum. It is regrettable that on flimsy grounds people exercise undue influence and manage to secure gunners and security at State expense and at tax payers cost. In fact acquisition of a gunner has begun to be treated as a status symbol. This practice must be brought to an end. In the circumstances, it cannot be said that the petitioner is entitled as a matter of right to be provided a security guard at State expense or at reduced cost."

9. Another Coordinate Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 10867(MB) of 2021 (Abhishek Tiwari, Vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 04.08.2021, wherein the petitioner had been refused personal security by the competent authority while dismissing the writ petition, this Court had held as under:

"29. As a matter of principle, private individuals should not be given security at State cost unless there are compelling transparent reasons, which warrant such protection, especially if the threat is linked to some public or national service they have rendered and, the security should be granted to such persons until the threat abates. But, if the threat perception is not real, it would not be proper for the Government to grant security at the cost of taxpayers money and to create a privileged class. In a democratic country governed by rule of law and written Constitution providing security at State expense ought not to become an act of patronage to create a coterie of ?obliged? and ?loyal? persons. The limited public resources must be used carefully for welfare schemes and not in creating a privileged class. From a report of Bureau of Police Research and Development (BPR&D), police think tank of the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA), more than 20,000 additional policemen than the sanctioned strength were deployed in VIP protection duty in the year 2019. As per the report, Data on Police Organizations, 2019, as many as 66,043 policemen were deployed to protect 19,467 Ministers, Members of Parliament, Judges, Bureaucrats and other personalities and, thus number is growing up in every year.

32. This Court, while exercising writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, cannot substitute its decision to the decision of the competent Authority in respect of threat perception of the petitioner to his life and property. From the facts as emanate from the record, it is evident that the petitioner does not face any real threat to his life or property. He has been asking for security as authority of symbol to flaunt his status a VIP. This practice, creating a privileged class on State expense and taxpayers money, is to be deprecated. It is, therefore, provided that the threat perception has to be real and the Security Committee has to assess the threat perception, taking into consideration the reports from Intelligence Unit, the concerned police station and past record of the applicant. The security should be provided only to those who face real threat to their life for having done some work in the interest of the society or the nation from terrorist/naxalite or organized gangs and not otherwise. A personal enmity with other would not come within the parameters for assessing the threat perception of the applicant for providing him security."

10. Similarly, a Division Bench of Punjab and Haryana High Court in LPA No. 2165 of 2017 (Jaskirat Singh Chahal Vs. State of Punjab and others) decided on 28.03.2022 while relying upon the law laid down by this Court in the case of Abhishek Tripathi (supra) has held as under:

"10. The gravity of threat has to be real and not just based upon perceptive apprehension. In the event the competent authority in the State Govt. is convinced that the threat has abated, there can be no justification to extend a personal security cover at the State's expense, only as an act of patronage or as an act aimed to create a coterie of obliged and loyal persons. Limited public resources cannot be deployed for display of eminence and as an attempt to bolster the ego of the recipient of such protection. The satisfaction of the competent authority cannot be ignored in the absence of any trustworthy, credible and reliable evidence. A Court does not stand as an expert to assess the correctness of the decision of the competent authority and to evaluate the threat, if any, faced by an individual. The same has to be left to the competent authority and its assessment and discretion.

11. This Court, while exercising its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, cannot substitute its decision for that of the competent authority pertaining to the threat apprehension entertained by the appellant. The facts that emanate from the record do not establish any real threat and it seems that the demand for security is more to display it as an authority of symbol and to flaunt his status as a VIP. This practice of creating a privileged class on the State's expense, by using the taxpayers' money has to be deprecated."

11. Hence in the above background, we are of the view that the threat perception in the present case has already been assessed by the competent authority and security has already been provided to the petitioners. Further, the nature and gravity of threat perception essentially is a question of fact which is best assessed by the authorities constituted under the various government orders and the assessment of the same does not lie within the domain of this Court while exercising it's powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Lastly, the petitioners neither have a statutory right nor a fundamental right to claim police protection and as such, usually the right to claim police protection cannot be enforced in exercise of power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

12. Under the circumstances, we are not inclined to issue any direction to the authorities concerned for the reasons detailed above.

13. Hence, the writ petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the Magistrate can take cognizance and issue summons without affording the accused an opportunity of hearing under Section 223 BNSS, 2023.
Whether postponement of process and inquiry under Section 225 BNSS, 2023 is mandatory when the accused resides outside the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate.
Whether failure to comply with Sections 223 and 225 vitiates the summoning order.?

CASE ARISING FROM

Criminal Case No. 5524 of 2024 - Order dated 04.10.2024 passed by Additional Civil Judge (S.D.)-I/Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Shri Prabhu Ranjan Tripathi, Counsel for Respondent(s): - AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Lavania, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prabhu Ranjan Tripathi, learned counsel for the applicant and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. In view of the settled legal position, this Court is not inclined to issue notice to opposite party no.2.

3. The applicants have instituted instant application under Section 528 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (here-in-after referred as BNSS) seeking following relief(s):-

"Wherefore, it is most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may kindly be pleased to quash the entire criminal proceeding of Criminal Case No. 5554 of 2024 inclusive of impugned summoning order dated 04.10.2024 passed by Additional Civil Judge (S.D.)-I/Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur, by which the learned Court below has summoned the petitioners in routine and mechanical manner in relation to offences Under section 85, 115(2), 352, 351 (2) B.N.S. & 3/4 D. P. Act (Annexure No. 1), in order to meet ends of justice."

4. In view of relevant provisions pointed out, at the very outset it is stated that at this stage the prayer of the applicant which relates to procedure adopted by learned Additional Civil Judge (S.D.)-1/Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur (in short Magistrate) while passing the order dated 04.10.2024 in Criminal Case No.5524/2024 be considered leaving it open to challenge the pending criminal proceedings, if cause arises. Prayer acceded.

5. Learned counsel for the applicants submitted that by means of the impugned order dated 04.10.2024 the applicants have been summoned to face the trial for the offence under section(s) 85, 115(2), 352, 351(2) B.N.S. and 3/4 D.P. Act.

6. It is further submitted that impugned order dated 04.10.2024 is in violation of the statutory provision i.e. Section 223 of BNSS, according to which before taking cognizance and summoning the accused the Magistrate/Court concerned is under obligation to issue notice(s) for affording an opportunity of hearing, and in the instant case only after recording all the statement(s) of the complainant and the witnesses, the Magistrate has passed the order dated 04.10.2024.

7. Reference has been made to Section 200 Code of Criminal Procedure (in short 'Cr.P.C.') (now repealed) and Section 223 of BNSS which reads as under:-

Examination of complainant. A Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate: Provided that, when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses— (a) if a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or (b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under section 192: Provided further that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under section 192 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them.	Examination of complainant. (1) A Magistrate having jurisdiction while taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate: Provided that no cognizance of an offence shall be taken by the Magistrate without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard: Provided further that when the complaint is made in writing, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and the witnesses- (a) if a public servant acting or purporting to act in the discharge of his official duties or a Court has made the complaint; or (b) if the Magistrate makes over the case for inquiry or trial to another Magistrate under section 212: Provided also that if the Magistrate makes over the case to another Magistrate under section 212 after examining the complainant and the witnesses, the latter Magistrate need not re-examine them. (2) A Magistrate shall not take cognizance on a complaint against a public servant for any offence alleged to have been committed in course of the discharge of his official functions or duties unless- (a) such public servant is given an opportunity to make assertions as to the situation that led to the incident so alleged; and (b) a report containing facts and circumstances of the incident from the officer superior to such public servant is received.

8. Reliance has also been placed on judgment passed by a co-ordinate Bench of this court dated 26.11.2024 in Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No.10390 of 2024 (2024 SCC OnLine All 8212) Prateek Agarwal Vs. State of U.P. and Another, judgment of the High Court of Karnataka passed in the case of Basanagouda R. Patil Vs. Shivananda S. Patil; 2024 SCC Online Kar 96 and judgment rendered by the High Court of Kerala at Ernakulam in the case of Suby Antony S/o Late P.D. Antony Vs. Judicial First-Class Magistrate passed in Crl. MC 508 of 2025 on 22.01.2025 (2025 SCC OnLine Ker. 532).

8.1 The relevant paras of Basanagouda (Supra) are being extracted hereinbelow:-

"8. The obfuscation generated in the case at hand is with regard to interpretation of Section 223 of the BNSS, as to whether on presentation of the complaint, notice should be issued to the accused, without recording sworn statement of the complainant, or notice should be issued to the accused after recording the sworn statement, as the mandate of the statute is, while taking cognizance of an offence the complainant shall be examined on oath. The proviso mandates that no cognizance of an offence shall be taken by the Magistrate without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard.

9. To steer clear the obfuscation, it is necessary to notice the language deployed therein. The Magistrate while taking cognizance of an offence should have with him the statement on oath of the complainant and if any witnesses are present, their statements. The taking of cognizance under Section 223 of the BNSS would come after the recording of the sworn statement, at that juncture a notice is required to be sent to the accused, as the proviso mandates grant of an opportunity of being heard.

10. Therefore, the procedural drill would be this way:

A complaint is presented before the Magistrate under Section 223 of the BNSS; on presentation of the complaint, it would be the duty of the Magistrate / concerned Court to examine the complainant on oath, which would be his sworn statement and examine the witnesses present if any, and the substance of such examination should be reduced into writing. The question of taking of cognizance would not arise at this juncture. The magistrate has to, in terms of the proviso, issue a notice to the accused who is given an opportunity of being heard. Therefore, notice shall be issued to the accused at that stage and after hearing the accused, take cognizance and regulate its procedure thereafter.

11. The proviso indicates that an accused should have an opportunity of being heard. Opportunity of being heard would not mean an empty formality. Therefore, the notice that is sent to the accused in terms of proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 223 of the BNSS shall append to it the complaint; the sworn statement; statement of witnesses if any, for the accused to appear and submit his case before taking of cognizance. In the considered view of this Court, it is the clear purport of Section 223 of BNSS 2023."

8.2. The relevant paras of Suby Antony v. Judicial First-Class Magistrate-III, 2025 SCC OnLine Ker 532, are being extracted hereinbelow:-

4. As the term cognizance is not defined in BNSS, it will be profitable to refer the following erudite exposition of the Supreme Court in S.K. Sinha, Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd. [(2008) 2 SCC 492].

"19. The expression "cognizance" has not been defined in the Code. But the word (cognizance) is of indefinite import. It has no esoteric or mystic significance in criminal law. It merely means "become aware of" and when used with reference to a court or a Judge, it connotes "to take notice of judicially". It indicates the point when a court or a Magistrate takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiating proceedings in respect of such offence said to have been committed by someone.

20. "Taking cognizance" does not involve any formal action of any kind. It occurs as soon as a Magistrate applies his mind to the suspected commission of an offence. Cognizance is taken prior to commencement of criminal proceedings. Taking of cognizance is thus a sine qua non or condition precedent for holding a valid trial. Cognizance is taken of an offence and not of an offender. Whether or not a Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence depends on the facts and circumstances of each case and no rule of universal application can be laid down as to when a Magistrate can be said to have taken cognizance.

5. Thus, the taking of cognisance of an offence occurs when the Magistrate takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiate proceedings in respect of such offence alleged to have been committed by the accused. Once cognisance is taken, then the Magistrate has to decide whether to issue process to the accused or not. Section 225 confers power on the Magistrate to postpone the issue of process to the accused even after taking cognisance of the offence. At that stage the Magistrate can either inquire into the case himself, or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or such other person for the purpose of deciding whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding. The Apex Court in Smt. Nagawwa v. Veeranna Shivalingappa Konjalgi [(1976) 3 SCC 736], dilating on the limited scope of inquiry under Section 202 Cr. P.C., corresponding to Section 225 of BNSS, held as under;

4. It would thus be clear from the two decisions of this Court that the scope of the inquiry under Section 202 of the Code of Criminal Procedure is extremely limited - limited only to the ascertainment of the truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint- (i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the court : (ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie csse for issue of process has been made out; and (iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have. In fact it is well settled that in proceedings under Section 202 the accused has got absolutely no locus standi and is not entitled to be heard on the question whether the process should be issued against him or not."

The above decision leaves no room for doubt that under the Code the accused had no locus standi even at the stage where the Magistrate decides whether or not to issue process to the accused.

6. While on this question, it will also be profitable to refer the decision of the Apex Court in A.R. Antulay v. Ramdas Sriniwas Nayak [(1984) 2 SCC 500], wherein the procedure to be followed by the Magistrate upon filing of a complaint is detailed as under;

"When a private complaint is filed, the court has to examine the complainant on oath save in the cases set out in the proviso to Section 200 CrPC. After examining the complainant on oath and examining the witnesses present, if any, meaning thereby that the witnesses not present need not be examined, it would be open to the court to judicially determine whether a case is made out for issuing process. When it is said that court issues process, it means the court has taken cognizance of the offence and has decided to initiate the proceeding and as a visible manifestation of taking cognizance, process is issued which means that the accused is called upon to appear before the court. This may either take the form of a summons or a warrant, as the case may be. It may be that after examining the complainant and his witnesses, the court in order to doubly assure itself may postpone the issue of process, and call upon the complainant to keep his witnesses present. The other option open to the court is to direct investigation to be made by a police officer.

Upon a complaint being received and the court records the verification, it is open to the court to apply its mind to the facts disclosed and to judicially determine whether process should or should not be issued. It is not a condition precedent to the issue of process that the Court of necessity must hold the inquiry as envisaged by Section 202 or direct investigation as therein contemplated. The power to take cognizance without holding inquiry or directing investigation is implicit in Section 202 when it says that the Magistrate may "if he thinks fit, postpone the issue of process against the accused and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer… for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding". Therefore, the matter is left to the judicial discretion of the court whether on examining the complainant and the witnesses if any as contemplated by Section 200 to issue process or to postpone the issue of process. This discretion which the court enjoys cannot be circumscribed or denied by making it mandatory upon the court either to hold the inquiry or direct investigation. Such an approach would be contrary to the statutory provision. Therefore, there is no merit in the contention that by entertaining a private complaint, the purpose of speedy trial would be thwarted or that a pre-process safeguard would be denied."

7. Indeed, a radical change in procedure is brought about by the proviso to Section 223(1) of BNSS. Pertinently, in spite of the proviso to Section 223(1) making it mandatory to provide opportunity of hearing to the accused before taking cognisance, Section 226 does not reckon the accused's objection at the stage of taking cognisance as a relevant factor for dismissing the complaint. Being guided by the precedents on Sections 200 and 202 of the Code and the plain language of the proviso to Section 223(1) of the BNSS, this Court is of the opinion that, after the complaint is filed, the Magistrate should first examine the complainant and witnesses on oath and thereafter, if the Magistrate proceeds to take cognisance of the offence/s, opportunity of hearing should be afforded to the accused. I am also in complete agreement with the following procedural drill delineated by the High Court of Karnataka in Basanagouda's case (supra);

"9. To steer clear the obfuscation, it is necessary to notice the language deployed therein. The Magistrate while taking cognizance of an offence should have with him the statement on oath of the complainant and if any witnesses are present, their statements. The taking of cognizance under Section 223 of the BNSS would come after the recording of the sworn statement, at that juncture a notice is required to be sent to the accused, as the proviso mandates grant of an opportunity of being heard.

10. Therefore, the procedural drill would be this way : A complaint is presented before the Magistrate under Section 223 of the BNSS; on presentation of the complaint, it would be the duty of the Magistrate/concerned Court to examine the complainant on oath, which would be his sworn statement and examine the witnesses present if any, and the substance of such examination should be reduced into writing. The question of taking of cognizance would not arise at this juncture. The magistrate has to, in terms of the proviso, issue a notice to the accused who is given an opportunity of being heard. Therefore, notice shall be issued to the accused at that stage and after hearing the accused, take cognizance and regulate its procedure thereafter."

8.3. In the case of Prateek Agarwal (supra) similar view has been taken by this court.

9. It is also stated that the impugned order dated 14.10.2024 is also in violation of Section 225 BNSS, akin to Section 202 Cr.P.C. (now repealed). As the applicants are resident of District-Lucknow and complaint was filed at District-Sultanpur and therefore, the Magistrate exercising its power/jurisdiction, in view of Section 225 BNSS, ought have been postponed the issue of process for deciding that whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding. The referred provisions are reproduced hereinunder:-

Postponement of issue of process-	Postponement of issue of process.-

(1) Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 192, may, if he thinks fit,[and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction,] postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made,-- (a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session; or (b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 200. (2) In an inquiry under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witnesses on oath: Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath. (3) If an investigation under sub-section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant.	(1) Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under section 212, may, if he thinks fit, and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction, postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding: Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made,- (a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session; or (b) where the complaint has not been made by a Court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under section 223. (2) In an inquiry under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witnesses on oath: Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath. (3) If an investigation under sub-section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Sanhita on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant.

10. It is also stated that after recording statement of the complainant and the witnesses, if any, the Magistrate before taking cognizance in the matter, shall afford an opportunity of being heard to the accused. It is for the reason that if upon consideration of the statements and enquiry got conducted, if any, the Court finds that there is no sufficient ground to proceed, it can dismiss the complaint under Section 226 BNSS, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"226. Dismissal of complaint- If, after considering the statements on oath (if any) of the complainant and of the witnesses and the result of the inquiry or investigation (if any) under section 225, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he shall dismiss the complaint, and in every such case he shall briefly record his reasons for so doing. Chapter XVII Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates."

11. Learned A.G.A. for the State, though opposed the prayer but he could not contradict the legal position. He further submits that the impugned order may be quashed and the matter may be remitted back, so that the learned Magistrate may proceed in accordance with law and the respondent No.2 cannot be said to be prejudiced at this juncture.

12. Considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

13. The instant case relates to Section 223 BNSS(1). This provision provides that the Magistrate having jurisdiction while taking cognizance of an offence on complaint shall examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses present, if any, and the substance of such examination shall be reduced to writing and shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses, and also by the Magistrate. The first proviso appended to this Section provides that no cognizance of an offence shall be taken by the Magistrate without giving the accused an opportunity of being heard. The second proviso appended to this Section provides certain contingencies under which, the Magistrate need not examine the complainant and witnesses.

14. Considering the aforesaid, this Court is of the view that after filing of complaint under Section 210 BNSS, the learned Magistrate has to first examine upon oath the complainant and the witnesses, if any, and the substance of such examination is to be reduced in writing, which shall be signed by the complainant and the witnesses and also by the Magistrate as per Section 223(1) of BNSS and thereafter, after considering the same, if he finds that there is no sufficient ground to proceed, he shall dismiss the complaint under Section 226 BNSS and if he finds that it can not be dismissed as such, he shall afford opportunity to the accused for which the notice of being heard shall be issued at that stage and the Magistrate would take cognizance only after affording an opportunity of hearing to the accused the Magistrate would take cognizance and regulate its procedure thereafter. It is for the reason that the accused may not be harassed unnecessarily. This opportunity of hearing shall not be a mere formality.

15. On the issue related to Sections 225 BNSS, akin to Section 202 Cr.P.C. (now repealed) it would be useful/appropriate to refer some pronouncements in which section 202 Cr.P.C. (now repealed), akin to Section 225 BNSS was considered and explained:-

15.1 The relevant paras of Sunil Todi v. State of Gujarat, (2022) 16 SCC 762 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 1174, are being extracted hereinbelow:-

"35. The second submission which has been urged on behalf of the appellants turns upon Section 202 CrPC, which is extracted:

"202. Postponement of issue of process.-(1) Any Magistrate, on receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he is authorised to take cognizance or which has been made over to him under Section 192, may, if he thinks fit, and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction, postpone the issue of process against the accused, and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding:*

Provided that no such direction for investigation shall be made,-

(a) where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session; or

(b) where the complaint has not been made by a court, unless the complainant and the witnesses present (if any) have been examined on oath under Section 200.

(2) In an inquiry under sub-section (1), the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take evidence of witnesses on oath:

Provided that if it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

(3) If an investigation under sub-section (1) is made by a person not being a police officer, he shall have for that investigation all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a police station except the power to arrest without warrant.″

36. Under sub-section (1) of Section 202, a Magistrate upon the receipt of a complaint of an offence of which he/she is authorised to take cognizance is empowered to postpone the issuance of process against the accused and either : (i) enquire into the case; or (ii) direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. The purpose of postponing the issuance of process for the purposes of an enquiry or an investigation is to determine whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. However, it is mandatory for the Magistrate to do so in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises jurisdiction.

37. The accused persons in the present case reside at Aurangabad while the complaint under Section 138 was filed before the Magistrate in Mundra. The argument of the appellants is that in these circumstances, the Magistrate was duty-bound to postpone the issuance of process and to either enquire into the case himself or to direct an investigation either by a police officer or by some other person. Section 203 stipulates that if the Magistrate is of the opinion on considering the statement on oath, if any, of the complainant and of the witnesses, and the result of the enquiry or investigation if any under Section 202 that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding, he shall dismiss the complaint recording briefly his reasons for doing so. The requirement of recording reasons which is specifically incorporated in Section 203 does not find place in Section 202. Section 204 which deals with the issuance of process stipulates that if in the opinion of the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence, there is sufficient ground for proceeding, he may issue : (a) in a summons case, a summons for attendance of the accused; (b) in a warrant case, a warrant or if he thinks fit a summons for the appearance of the accused. These proceedings have been interpreted in several judgments of this Court. For the purpose of the present case, some of them form the subject-matter of the submissions by the appellants and the second respondent.

38. The provisions of Section 202 which mandate the Magistrate, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area of its jurisdiction, to postpone the issuance of process so as to enquire into the case himself or direct an investigation by police officer or by another person were introduced by Act 25 of 2005 with effect from 23-6-2006. The rationale for the amendment is based on the recognition by Parliament that false complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places as an instrument of harassment. In Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] , this Court dwelt on the purpose of the amendment to Section 202, observing : (SCC p. 644, paras 11-12).

"11. Section 202 of the Code, inter alia, contemplates postponement of the issue of the process 'in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' and thereafter to either inquire into the case by himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit. In the face of it, what needs our determination is as to whether in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which the Magistrate exercises his jurisdiction, inquiry is mandatory or not.

12. The words 'and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction' were inserted by Section 19 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act (Central Act 25 of 2005) w.e.f. 23-6-2006. The aforesaid amendment, in the opinion of the legislature, was essential as false complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places in order to harass them. The note for the amendment reads as follows:

'False complaints are filed against persons residing at far-off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.'

The use of the expression "shall" prima facie makes the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, by the Magistrate mandatory. The word "shall" is ordinarily mandatory but sometimes, taking into account the context or the intention, it can be held to be directory. The use of the word "shall" in all circumstances is not decisive. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, when we look to the intention of the legislature, we find that it is aimed to prevent innocent persons from harassment by unscrupulous persons from false complaints. Hence, in our opinion, the use of the expression "shall" and the background and the purpose for which the amendment has been brought, we have no doubt in our mind that inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be, is mandatory before summons are issued against the accused living beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate."

39. This Court has held that the Magistrate is duty-bound to apply his mind to the allegations in the complaint together with the statements which are recorded in the enquiry while determining whether there is a prima facie sufficient ground for proceeding. In Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda [Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124] , this Court followed the dictum in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate [Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] , and observed that setting the criminal law in motion against a person is a serious matter. Hence, there must be an application of mind by the Magistrate to whether the allegations in the complaint together with the statements recorded or the enquiry conducted constitute a violation of law. The Court observed : (Mehmood Ul Rehman case [Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124], SCC pp. 429-30, paras 20 & 22)

"20. The extensive reference to the case law would clearly show that cognizance of an offence on complaint is taken for the purpose of issuing process to the accused. Since it is a process of taking judicial notice of certain facts which constitute an offence, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the inquiry conducted thereon, would constitute violation of law so as to call a person to appear before the criminal court. It is not a mechanical process or matter of course. As held by this Court in Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate [Pepsi Foods Ltd. v. Special Judicial Magistrate, (1998) 5 SCC 749 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1400] to set in motion the process of criminal law against a person is a serious matter.

22. The steps taken by the Magistrate under Section 190(1)(a) CrPC followed by Section 204 CrPC should reflect that the Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts and the statements and he is satisfied that there is ground for proceeding further in the matter by asking the person against whom the violation of law is alleged, to appear before the court. The satisfaction on the ground for proceeding would mean that the facts alleged in the complaint would constitute an offence, and when considered along with the statements recorded, would, prima facie, make the accused answerable before the court. No doubt, no formal order or a speaking order is required to be passed at that stage. The Code of Criminal Procedure requires speaking order to be passed under Section 203 CrPC when the complaint is dismissed and that too the reasons need to be stated only briefly. In other words, the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of each and every complaint filed before him and issue process as a matter of course. There must be sufficient indication in the order passed by the Magistrate that he is satisfied that the allegations in the complaint constitute an offence and when considered along with the statements recorded and the result of inquiry or report of investigation under Section 202 CrPC, if any, the accused is answerable before the criminal court, there is ground for proceeding against the accused under Section 204 CrPC, by issuing process for appearance. The application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. If there is no such indication in a case where the Magistrate proceeds under Sections 190/204 CrPC, the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is bound to invoke its inherent power in order to prevent abuse of the power of the criminal court. To be called to appear before the criminal court as an accused is serious matter affecting one's dignity, self-respect and image in society. Hence, the process of criminal court shall not be made a weapon of harassment.″

These decisions were cited with approval in Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar [Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar, (2017) 3 SCC 528 : (2017) 2 SCC (Cri) 192] . After referring to the purpose underlying the amendment of Section 202, the Court observed : (SCC p. 541, para 25)

"25. ... the amended provision casts an obligation on the Magistrate to apply his mind carefully and satisfy himself that the allegations in the complaint, when considered along with the statements recorded or the enquiry conducted thereon, would prima facie constitute the offence for which the complaint is filed. This requirement is emphasised by this Court in a recent judgment in Mehmood Ul Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda [Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124] …"

40. While noting that the requirement of conducting an enquiry or directing an investigation before issuing process is not an empty formality, the Court relied on the decision in Vijay Dhanuka [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] which had held that the exercise by the Magistrate for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused is nothing but an enquiry envisaged under Section 202 of the Code.

41. In Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd. [Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., (2019) 16 SCC 610 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 713 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 828] , the earlier decisions which have been referred to above were cited in the course of the judgment. The Court noted : (SCC p. 628, para 26).

"26. The scope of enquiry under this section is extremely restricted only to finding out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process should be issued or not under Section 204CrPC or whether the complaint should be dismissed by resorting to Section 203CrPC on the footing that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding on the basis of the statements of the complainant and of his witnesses, if any. At the stage of enquiry under Section 202CrPC, the Magistrate is only concerned with the allegations made in the complaint or the evidence in support of the averments in the complaint to satisfy himself that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.″

42. Hence, the Court held : (Birla Corpn. Ltd. case [Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., (2019) 16 SCC 610 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 713 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 828] , SCC p. 631, para 33)

"33. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The application of mind has to be indicated by disclosure of mind on the satisfaction. Considering the duties on the part of the Magistrate for issuance of summons to the accused in a complaint case and that there must be sufficient indication as to the application of mind and observing that the Magistrate is not to act as a post office in taking cognizance of the complaint, in Mehmood Ul Rehman [Mehmood UI Rehman v. Khazir Mohammad Tunda, (2015) 12 SCC 420 : (2016) 1 SCC (Cri) 124]

43. The above principles have been reiterated in the judgment in Krishna Lal Chawla v. State of U.P. [Krishna Lal Chawla v. State of U.P., (2021) 5 SCC 435 : (2021) 2 SCC (Cri) 601]

44. In this backdrop, it becomes necessary now to advert to an order dated 16-4-2021 of a Constitution Bench in Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of NI Act, 1881, In re [Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of NI Act, 1881, In re, (2021) 16 SCC 116] . The Constitution Bench notes "the gargantuan pendency of complaints filed under Section 138" and the fact that the "situation has not improved as courts continue to struggle with the humongous pendency". The Court noted that there were seven major issues which arose from the responses filed by the State Governments and the Union Territories including in relation to the applicability of Section 202 CrPC. Section 143 of the NI Act provides that Sections 262 to 265 CrPC (forming a part of Chapter XXI dealing with summary trials) shall apply to all trials for offences punishable under Section 138 of the NI Act. On the scope of the inquiry under Section 202 CrPC in cases under Section 138 of the NI Act, there was a divergence of view between the High Courts. Some High Courts had held that it was mandatory for the Magistrate to conduct an inquiry under Section 202 CrPC before issuing process in complaints filed under Section 138, while there were contrary views in the other High Courts. In that context, the Court observed : (SCC p. 125, paras 10-11)

"10. Section 202 of the Code confers jurisdiction on the Magistrate to conduct an inquiry for the purpose of deciding whether sufficient grounds justifying the issue of process are made out. The amendment to Section 202 of the Code with effect from 23-6-2006, vide Act 25 of 2005, made it mandatory for the Magistrate to conduct an inquiry before issue of process, in a case where the accused resides beyond the area of jurisdiction of the court. (See : Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] , Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar [Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar, (2017) 3 SCC 528 : (2017) 2 SCC (Cri) 192] and Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd. [Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., (2019) 16 SCC 610 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 713 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 828] ). There has been a divergence of opinion amongst the High Courts relating to the applicability of Section 202 in respect of complaints filed under Section 138 of the Act. Certain cases under Section 138 have been decided by the High Courts upholding the view that it is mandatory for the Magistrate to conduct an inquiry, as provided in Section 202 of the Code, before issuance of process in complaints filed under Section 138. Contrary views have been expressed in some other cases. It has been held that merely because the accused is residing outside the jurisdiction of the court, it is not necessary for the Magistrate to postpone the issuance of process in each and every case. Further, it has also been held that not conducting inquiry under Section 202 of the Code would not vitiate the issuance of process, if requisite satisfaction can be obtained from materials available on record.

11. The learned Amici Curiae referred to a judgment of this Court in K.S. Joseph v. Philips Carbon Black Ltd. [K.S. Joseph v. Philips Carbon Black Ltd., (2016) 11 SCC 105 : (2016) 4 SCC (Civ) 616 : (2017) 1 SCC (Cri) 270] where there was a discussion about the requirement of inquiry under Section 202 of the Code in relation to complaints filed under Section 138 but the question of law was left open. In view of the judgments of this Court in Vijay Dhanuka [Vijay Dhanuka v. Najima Mamtaj, (2014) 14 SCC 638 : (2015) 1 SCC (Cri) 479] , Abhijit Pawar [Abhijit Pawar v. Hemant Madhukar Nimbalkar, (2017) 3 SCC 528 : (2017) 2 SCC (Cri) 192] and Birla Corpn. Ltd. [Birla Corpn. Ltd. v. Adventz Investments & Holdings Ltd., (2019) 16 SCC 610 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 713 : (2020) 2 SCC (Cri) 828] , the inquiry to be held by the Magistrate before issuance of summons to the accused residing outside the jurisdiction of the court cannot be dispensed with. The learned Amici Curiae recommended that the Magistrate should come to a conclusion after holding an inquiry that there are sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused. We are in agreement with the learned Amici.″

45. Section 145 of the NI Act provides that evidence of the complainant may be given by him on affidavit, which shall be read in evidence in an inquiry, trial or other proceeding notwithstanding anything contained in CrPC. The Constitution Bench held that Section 145 has been inserted in the Act, with effect from 2003 with the laudable object of speeding up trials in complaints filed under Section 138. Hence, the Court noted that if the evidence of the complainant may be given by him on affidavit, there is no reason for insisting on the evidence of the witnesses to be taken on oath. Consequently, it was held that Section 202(2)CrPC is inapplicable to complaints under Section 138 in respect of the examination of witnesses on oath. The Court held that the evidence of witnesses on behalf of the complainant shall be permitted on affidavit. If the Magistrate holds an inquiry himself, it is not compulsory that he should examine witnesses and in suitable cases the Magistrate can examine documents to be satisfied that there are sufficient grounds for proceeding under Section 202.

46. In the present case, the Magistrate has adverted to:

(i) The complaint;

(ii) The affidavit filed by the complainant;

(iii) The evidence as per evidence list and; and

(iv) The submissions of the complainant.

47. The order passed by the Magistrate cannot be held to be invalid as betraying a non-application of mind. In Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal [Chief Controller of Imports & Exports v. Roshanlal Agarwal, (2003) 4 SCC 139 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 788] , this Court has held that in determining the question as to whether process is to be issued, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction can only be determined at the trial. [See also in this context the decision in Bhushan Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi) [Bhushan Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2012) 5 SCC 424 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 872]].

48. The High Court did not quash the complaint against the appellants since it was prima facie established that they were triable for dishonour of cheque. Section 141 of the NI Act provides:

"141. Offences by companies.-(1) If the person committing an offence under Section 138 is a company, every person who, at the time the offence was committed, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company for the conduct of the business of the company, as well as the company, shall be deemed to be guilty of the offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any person liable to punishment if he proves that the offence was committed without his knowledge, or that he had exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of such offence:

Provided further that where a person is nominated as a Director of a company by virtue of his holding any office or employment in the Central Government or State Government or a financial corporation owned or controlled by the Central Government or the State Government, as the case may be, he shall not be liable for prosecution under this Chapter.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Act has been committed by a company and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to, any neglect on the part of, any Director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company, such Director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section,-

(a) "company" means any body corporate and includes a firm or other association of individuals; and

(b) "director", in relation to a firm, means a partner in the firm.

49. Section 141 of the NI Act stipulates that if a company is alleged to have committed an offence under Section 138, then every person who "was in charge of, and responsible to, the company for the conduct of the business of the company" shall also be deemed guilty of the offence. The proviso provides an exception if she proves that the offence was committed without her knowledge or that she had exercised due diligence. In Sunil Bharti Mittal v. CBI [Sunil Bharti Mittal v. CBI, (2015) 4 SCC 609 : (2015) 2 SCC (Cri) 687] , a three-Judge Bench of this Court observed that the general rule is that criminal intent of a group of people who undertake business can be imputed to the Company but not the other way around. Only two exceptions were provided to this general rule : (i) when the individual has perpetuated the commission of offence and there is sufficient evidence on the active role of the individual; and (ii) the statute expressly incorporates the principle of vicarious liability. Sikri, J. writing for a three-Judge Bench observed : (SCC p. 638, paras 43-44)

"43. Thus, an individual who has perpetrated the commission of an offence on behalf of a company can be made an accused, along with the company, if there is sufficient evidence of his active role coupled with criminal intent. Second situation in which he can be implicated is in those cases where the statutory regime itself attracts the doctrine of vicarious liability, by specifically incorporating such a provision.

44. When the company is the offender, vicarious liability of the Directors cannot be imputed automatically, in the absence of any statutory provision to this effect. One such example is Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881. In Aneeta Hada [Aneeta Hada v. Godfather Travels & Tours (P) Ltd., (2012) 5 SCC 661 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 350 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 241] , the Court noted that if a group of persons that guide the business of the company have the criminal intent, that would be imputed to the body corporate and it is in this backdrop, Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act has to be understood. Such a position is, therefore, because of statutory intendment making it a deeming fiction. Here also, the principle of "alter ego", was applied only in one direction, namely, where a group of persons that guide the business had criminal intent, that is to be imputed to the body corporate and not the vice versa. Otherwise, there has to be a specific act attributed to the Director or any other person allegedly in control and management of the company, to the effect that such a person was responsible for the acts committed by or on behalf of the company."

50. In S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla [S.M.S. Pharmaceuticals Ltd. v. Neeta Bhalla, (2005) 8 SCC 89 : 2005 SCC (Cri) 1975] , a three-Judge Bench while construing the provisions of Section 141 of the Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881, has noted that the position of a Managing Director or a Joint Managing Director of a company is distinct since persons occupying that position are in charge of and responsible for the conduct of the business. It was observed that though there is a general presumption that the Managing Director and Joint Managing Director are responsible for the criminal act of the company, the Director will not be held liable if he was not responsible for the conduct of the company at the time of the commission of the offence. The Court observed : (SCC pp. 98-99, paras 9-10)

"9. The position of a Managing Director or a Joint Managing Director in a company may be different. These persons, as the designation of their office suggests, are in charge of a company and are responsible for the conduct of the business of the company. In order to escape liability such persons may have to bring their case within the proviso to Section 141(1), that is, they will have to prove that when the offence was committed they had no knowledge of the offence or that they exercised all due diligence to prevent the commission of the offence.

10. .... Every person connected with the company shall not fall within the ambit of the provision. It is only those persons who were in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of the company at the time of commission of an offence, who will be liable for criminal action. It follows from this that if a Director of a company who was not in charge of and was not responsible for the conduct of the business of the company at the relevant time, will not be liable under the provision. The liability arises from being in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of the company at the relevant time when the offence was committed and not on the basis of merely holding a designation or office in a company. Conversely, a person not holding any office or designation in a company may be liable if he satisfies the main requirement of being in charge of and responsible for the conduct of business of a company at the relevant time."

51.The same principle has been followed by a Bench of two Judges in Mainuddin Abdul Sattar Shaikh v. Vijay D. Salvi [Mainuddin Abdul Sattar Shaikh v. Vijay D. Salvi, (2015) 9 SCC 622 : (2015) 4 SCC (Civ) 685 : (2015) 4 SCC (Cri) 55] : (SCC p. 627, para 12)

"12. The respondent has adduced the argument that in the complaint the appellant has not taken the averment that the accused was the person in charge of and responsible for the affairs of the Company. However, as the respondent was the Managing Director of M/s Salvi Infrastructure (P) Ltd. and sole proprietor of M/s Salvi Builders and Developers, there is no need of specific averment on the point. This Court has held in National Small Industries Corpn. Ltd. v. Harmeet Singh Paintal [National Small Industries Corpn. Ltd. v. Harmeet Singh Paintal, (2010)

3 SCC 330 : (2010) 1 SCC (Civ) 677 : (2010) 2 SCC (Cri) 1113] , as follows : (SCC p. 346, para 39)

'39. …. (v) If the accused is a Managing Director or a Joint Managing Director then it is not necessary to make specific averment in the complaint and by virtue of their position they are liable to be proceeded with.'"

52. The test to determine if the Managing Director or a Director must be charged for the offence committed by the company is to determine if the conditions in Section 141 of the NI Act have been fulfilled i.e. whether the individual was in charge of and responsible for the affairs of the company during the commission of the offence. However, the determination of whether the conditions stipulated in Section 141 of the MMDR Act have been fulfilled is a matter of trial. There are sufficient averments in the complaint to raise a prima facie case against them. It is only at the trial that they could take recourse to the proviso to Section 141 and not at the stage of issuance of process.

53. In the present case, it is evident that the principal grounds of challenge which have been set up on behalf of the appellants are all matters of defence at the trial. The Magistrate having exercised his discretion, it was not open to the High Court to substitute its discretion. The High Court has in a carefully considered judgment, analysed the submissions of the appellants and for justifiable reasons has come to the conclusion that they are lacking in substance. "

15.2 The relevant paras of National Bank of Oman v. Barakara Abdul Aziz, (2013) 2 SCC 488 , are extracted hereinbelow:-

"9. The duty of a Magistrate receiving a complaint is set out in Section 202 CrPC and there is an obligation on the Magistrate to find out if there is any matter which calls for investigation by a criminal court. The scope of enquiry under this section is restricted only to find out the truth or otherwise of the allegations made in the complaint in order to determine whether process has to be issued or not. Investigation under Section 202 CrPC is different from the investigation contemplated in Section 156 as it is only for holding the Magistrate to decide whether or not there is sufficient ground for him to proceed further. The scope of enquiry under Section 202 CrPC is, therefore, limited to the ascertainment of truth or falsehood of the allegations made in the complaint:

(i) on the materials placed by the complainant before the court;

(ii) for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case for issue of process has been made out; and

(iii) for deciding the question purely from the point of view of the complainant without at all adverting to any defence that the accused may have.

10. Section 202 CrPC was amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act, 2005 and the following words were inserted:

"and shall, in a case where the accused is residing at a place beyond the area in which he exercises his jurisdiction,"

The notes on clauses for the abovementioned amendment read as follows:

"False complaints are filed against persons residing at far off places simply to harass them. In order to see that innocent persons are not harassed by unscrupulous persons, this clause seeks to amend sub-section (1) of Section 202 to make it obligatory upon the Magistrate that before summoning the accused residing beyond his jurisdiction he shall enquire into the case himself or direct investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person as he thinks fit, for finding out whether or not there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused."

The amendment has come into force w.e.f. 23-6-2006 vide Notification No. S.O. 923(E) dated 21-6-2006.

11.We are of the view that the High Court has correctly held that the above mentioned amendment was not noticed by the CJM, Ahmednagar. The CJM had failed to carry out any enquiry or order investigation as contemplated under the amended Section 202 CrPC. Since it is an admitted fact that the accused is residing outside the jurisdiction of the CJM, Ahmednagar, we find no error in the view taken by the High Court."

"37. It is evident that in the said complaint, no reference was made by the complainant as regards the arbitration proceedings. There was also no disclosure of facts to show that earlier complaints in respect of the same subject-matter had been dismissed on merits by the same court.

38. A copy of the award made by the arbitrator was placed on record, wherein Issue 13 which dealt with the present controversy i.e. some material and documents were placed in the premises of Iffco and the return of the same was refused. The claim as regards the same has been rejected. There has been no mention of such claim and its rejection by the said concern in either of the writ petitions filed before the High Court earlier or even for that matter, in the application filed by the said concern before Iffco, for the purpose of making appointment of an arbitrator or in the application filed under Section 11 of the 1996 Act before the High Court.

39. In the counter-affidavit filed by Respondent 2, it has been submitted that the contract was terminated by Iffco fraudulently, to usurp the entire amount towards the work done by it and that Iffco took illegal possession of all the goods and articles belonging to the firm lying within its premises, and as the amount had not been paid, the officers were guilty of criminal breach of trust and were therefore, liable to be punished. However, the fact that earlier complaints had been filed by the brother of Respondent 2 Sabha Kant Pandey has been admitted. It has further been admitted that arbitration proceedings are still pending, but it has also simultaneously been urged that criminal prosecution has nothing to do with the arbitral award.

40. The Magistrate had issued summons without meeting the mandatory requirement of Section 202 CrPC, though the appellants were outside his territorial jurisdiction. The provisions of Section 202 CrPC were amended vide the Amendment Act, 2005, making it mandatory to postpone the issue of process where the accused resides in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. The same was found necessary in order to protect innocent persons from being harassed by unscrupulous persons and making it obligatory upon the Magistrate to enquire into the case himself, or to direct investigation to be made by a police officer, or by such other person as he thinks fit for the purpose of finding out whether or not, there was sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused before issuing summons in such cases. 15.4 The relevant paras of Shivjee Singh v. Nagendra Tiwary, (2010) 7 SCC 578 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 452 , are extracted hereinbelow:-

"11. Section 202(1) empowers the Magistrate to postpone the issue of process against the accused and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or by such other person whom he thinks fit for the purpose of deciding whether or not there exists sufficient ground for proceeding. By amending Act 25 of 2005, the postponement of the issue of process has been made mandatory where the accused is residing in an area beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the Magistrate concerned. Proviso to Section 202(1) lays down that direction for investigation shall not be made where it appears to the Magistrate that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session or where the complaint has not been made by a court unless the complainant and the witnesses have been examined on oath under Section 200.

12. Under Section 202(2) the Magistrate making an inquiry under sub-section (1) can take evidence of the witnesses on oath. If the Magistrate thinks that the offence complained of is triable exclusively by the Court of Session then in terms of the proviso to Section 202, he is required to call upon the complainant to produce all his witnesses and examine them on oath.

13. Section 203 empowers the Magistrate to dismiss the complaint if, after considering the statements made by the complainant and the witnesses on oath and the result of the inquiry or investigation, if any, made under Section 202(1), he is satisfied that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding. The exercise of this power is hedged with the condition that the Magistrate should record brief reasons for dismissing the complaint. Section 204, which talks of issue of process lays down that if the Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence is of the view that there is sufficient ground for proceeding then he may issue summons for attendance of the accused in a summons case. If it is a warrant case, then the Magistrate can issue warrant for causing attendance of the accused.

14. Section 207 casts a duty on the Magistrate to supply to the accused, copies of the police report, the first information report recorded under Section 154, the statements recorded under Section 161(3), the confessions and statements, if any, recorded under Section 164 and any other document or relevant extract thereof, which is forwarded to the Magistrate along with the police report. Section 208 provides for supply of copies of statement and documents to the accused in the cases triable by the Court of Session. It lays down that if the case, instituted otherwise than on a police report, is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall furnish to the accused, free of cost, copies of the statements recorded under Section 200 or Section 202, statements and confessions recorded under Section 161 or Section 164 and any other document on which prosecution proposes to rely.

15. Section 209 speaks of commitment of a case to the Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it. This section casts a duty on the Magistrate to commit the case to the Court of Session after complying with the provisions of Section 208. Once the case is committed, the trial is to be conducted by the Court of Session in accordance with the provisions contained in Chapter XVIII.

16. The object of examining the complainant and the witnesses is to ascertain the truth or falsehood of the complaint and determine whether there is a prima facie case against the person who, according to the complainant has committed an offence. If upon examination of the complainant and/or witnesses, the Magistrate is prima facie satisfied that a case is made out against the person accused of committing an offence then he is required to issue process.

17. Section 202 empowers the Magistrate to postpone the issue of process and either inquire into the case himself or direct an investigation to be made by a police officer or such other person as he may think fit for the purpose of deciding whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding. Under Section 203, the Magistrate can dismiss the complaint if, after taking into consideration the statements of the complainant and his witnesses and the result of the inquiry/investigation, if any, done under Section 202, he is of the view that there does not exist sufficient ground for proceeding. On the other hand, Section 204 provides for issue of process if the Magistrate is satisfied that there is sufficient ground for doing so.

18. The expression "sufficient ground" used in Sections 203, 204 and 209 means the satisfaction that a prima facie case is made out against the person accused of committing an offence and not sufficient ground for the purpose of conviction. This interpretation of the provisions contained in Chapters XV and XVI CrPC finds adequate support from the judgments of this Court in Ramgopal Ganpatrai Ruia v. State of Bombay [AIR 1958 SC 97 : 1958 Cri LJ 244 : 1958 SCR 618] , Vadilal Panchal v. Dattatraya Dulaji Ghadigaonkar [AIR 1960 SC 1113 : 1960 Cri LJ 1499 : (1961) 1 SCR 1] , Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokash ChandraBose [AIR 1963 SC 1430 : (1963) 2 Cri LJ 397 : (1964) 1 SCR 639] , Nirmaljit Singh Hoon v. State of W.B. [(1973) 3 SCC 753 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 521] ,Kewal Krishan v. Suraj Bhan [1980 Supp SCC 499 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 438] , Mohinder Singh v. Gulwant Singh [(1992) 2 SCC 213 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 361] and Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd. [(2008) 2 SCC 492 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 471]

19. In Chandra Deo Singh v. Prokash Chandra Bose [AIR 1963 SC 1430 : (1963) 2 Cri LJ 397 : (1964) 1 SCR 639] , it was held that where there was prima facie evidence, the Magistrate was bound to issue process and even though the person charged of an offence in the complaint might have a defence, the matter has to be left to be decided by an appropriate forum at an appropriate stage. It was further held that the issue of process can be refused only when the Magistrate finds that the evidence led by the complainant is self-contradictory or intrinsically untrustworthy.

20. In Kewal Krishan v. Suraj Bhan [1980 Supp SCC 499 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 438] , this Court examined the scheme of Sections 200 to 204 and held: (SCC p. 503, para 10)

"10. ... At the stage of Sections 203 and 204 of the Criminal Procedure Code in a case exclusively triable by the Court of Session, all that the Magistrate has to do is to see whether on a cursory perusal of the complaint and the evidence recorded during the preliminary inquiry under Sections 200 and 202 of the Criminal Procedure Code, there is prima facie evidence in support of the charge levelled against the accused. All that he has to see is whether or not there is 'sufficient ground for proceeding' against the accused. At this stage, the Magistrate is not to weigh the evidence meticulously as if he were the trial court. The standard to be adopted by the Magistrate in scrutinising the evidence is not the same as the one which is to be kept in view at the stage of framing charges."

16. From the observations made in pronouncement(s) referred above as also the observations of the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of A.R. Antulay v. Ramdas Sriniwas Nayak (1984) 2 SCC 500, relevant paras of which has been referred in para 6 of the judgment passed in the case of Suby Antony (supra), this Court is of the view that the inquiry or the investigation, as the case may be,

17. Upon due consideration of the facts of the case, relevant statutory provisions and also the pronouncements related to the issues involved in the case, this court is of the view that impugned order dated 04.10.2024 is liable to be set aside. It is for the reasons that from the order in issue dated 04.10.2024 it is apparent that an opportunity of hearing was not provided to the accused by the Magistrate before passing the impugned order dated 04.10.2024, which ought to be in view of the aforesaid.

18. The instant application is accordingly allowed. The impugned order dated 04.10.2024 passed by learned Additional Civil Judge (S.D.)-1/Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Sultanpur in Criminal Case No.5524/2024, is hereby set aside. It is open for the Magistrate to proceed afresh as per law.

CASE ARISING FROM

NCR No.30 of 2014, P.S. Sammanpur, District Ambedkar Nagar - Offences under Sections 352, 504, 427 IPC.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Ranvijay Singh,
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri S.P. Tripathi, Shri S.K. Pandey, AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Bharti, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ranvijay Singh, learned counsel for the applicant, Shri S.P. Tripathi, learned counsel for opposite party no.2, Shri S.K. Pandey, learned A.G.A. and perused the material available on record.

2. By means of the present application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the applicant has prayed for quashing of order dated 28.03.2014 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ambedkar Nagar granting permission under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C., charge sheet dated 10.06.2015 and summoning order dated 21.11.2015, arising out of N.C.R. No.30 of 2014, under Sections 352, 504 and 427 I.P.C., Police Station- Sammanpur, District- Ambedkar Nagar.

Factual Matrix of the case

3. An N.C.R. was lodged on 26.03.2014, thereafter the complainant moved an application before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate seeking permission under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. to investigate the matter. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate allowed the application on 28.03.2014 pursuant thereto, investigation was conducted and charge sheet was submitted on which cognizance was taken and the applicant was summoned.

Submission made by learned counsel for the applicant

4. Shri Ranvijay Singh, learned counsel for the applicant submits that under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C., the permission for investigation could have been sought only by the police officer. Since the application was moved by the complainant, the permission granted by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate is illegal. Consequently, the entire investigation and subsequent proceedings are vitiated.

5. Reliance has been placed upon the case of Navin Chandra Pandey Vs. State of U.P. reported in 1995 All LJ 1688 wherein this Court has held as under.

"3. The material difference in between the cognizable and non-cognizable offence is that in the former case the police starts investigation without any order of a magistrate but in non-cognizable case the police can start investigation only after an order of the Magistrate is passed allowing him to do the investigation. So the responsibility lies with the police to obtain the order and not on the complainant."

6. Learned counsel for the applicant has also placed reliance upon the judgment of Karnataka High Court in the case of Vijesh Pillai Vs. State of Karnataka reported in 2023 LiveLaw (Kar) 229, especially para nos.19 and 20 which read as under.

"19. Chapter V Rule 1 of Karnataka Criminal Rules of Practice, 1968 also deals with investigation of non-cognizable case. The said provision reads as follows:-

"INVESTIGATION AND PROSECUTION

1. Report under Section 154.-(1) On receipt of the report of the Police Officer under Section 154 of the Code, the Magistrate shall make a note on the report of the date and time of the receipt thereof and initial the same. Before initialing, the Magistrate shall also endorse on the report whether the same has been received by the post or muddam.*

2. (1) When a Magistrate directs an investigation of a case under Sections 155(2), 156(3) or 202 of the Code, he shall specify in his order the rank and designation of the Police Officer or the Police Officers by whom the investigation shall be conducted."

20. Therefore, under Rule 1, the Magistrate shall endorse on the report whether the same has been received by post or muddam. Under Rule 2, Magistrate has to specify in his order the rank and designation of the Police Officer or the Police Officer by whom the investigation shall be conducted. Considering the mandatory requirement of Section 155(1) and (2) of Cr. P.C., and Rule 1 and 2 of Chapter V of the Karnataka Criminal Rules of Practice, this Court proceed to laid down the following guidelines for the benefit of the judicial Magistrate working in the State.

i) The Jurisdictional Magistrates shall stop hereafter making endorsement as 'permitted' on the police requisition itself Such an endorsement is not an order in the eyes of law and as mandated under Section 155(2) of Cr.P.C.

ii) When the requisition is submitted by the informant to the Jurisdictional Magistrate, he should make an endorsement on it as to how it was received, either by post or by Muddam and direct the office to place it before him with a separate order sheet. No order should be passed on the requisition itself. The said order sheet should be continued for further proceedings in the case.

iii) When the requisition is submitted to the Jurisdictional Magistrate, he has to first examine whether the SHO of the police station has referred the informant to him with such requisition.

iv) The Jurisdictional Magistrate should examine the contents of the requisition with his/her judicious mind and record finding as to whether it is a fit case to be investigated, if the Magistrate finds that it is not a fit case to investigate, he/she shall reject the prayer made in the requisition. Only after his/her subjective satisfaction that there is a ground to permit the police officer to take up the investigation, he/she shall record a finding to that effect permitting the police officer to investigate the non-cognizable offence.

v) In case the Magistrate passes the orders permitting the investigation, he/she shall specify the rank and designation of the Police Officer who has to investigate the case, who shall be other than informant or the complainant."

Submissions made by learned counsel for opposite party no.2 as well as learned A.G.A.

7. Per contra, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. placed reliance on the judgment of Brij Lal Bhar Vs. State of U.P. through Principal Secretary reported in 2006 (4) ALJ 731 wherein this Court has held as under.

"6. Now I deal with issue no.2. According to the provision of Section 155 Cr.P.C. only officer-in-charge or any police officer of a police station concerned can move an application to obtain the order for investigation from the magistrate concerned of a non-cognizable case and there is no legal bar for moving such application by the first informant, Section 155(2) Cr. P.C. also envisages that no police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the 'order' of magistrate, here the word 'order' as mentioned above, it is relevant to deal with issue no. 2, in the wording of the provision of Section 155(2) the word 'without order' is used. Therefore, the order may be passed by the magistrate concerned on the application of police officer concerned or on the application of the first informant also. According to the provisions of Section 154 Cr. P.C. also the case is registered on the information given to the officer in-charge of a police station, relating to the commission of a cognizable offence. In default, the first informant may move an application under Section 156(3) for passing the 'order' for doing investigation, it provides a right to the first informant to move an application on this analogy the first informant is also a competent person to move an application under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C."

Analysis

8. After hearing the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the following issue for determination has been made:-

(i) Whether permission under Section 155 (2) Cr.P.C. for investigation of a non-cognizable case can be granted by the Magistrate on an application moved by the complainant or aggrieved person?

9. After perusal of the above case laws, this Court perused the statutory provision of Section 155 (2) Cr.P.C., which is hereby reproduced for a ready reference.

"155. Information as to non-cognizable cases and investigation of such cases. - (1) When information is given to an officer in charge of a police station of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter or cause to be entered the substance of the information in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf, and refer the informant to the Magistrate.

(2) No police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial.

(3) Any police officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a police station may exercise in a cognizable case.

(4) Where a case relates to two or more offences of which at least one is cognizable, the case shall be deemed to be a cognizable case, notwithstanding that the other offences are non-cognizable."

10. Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. provides that "no police officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate having power to try such case or commit the case for trial". The provision restricts the power of investigation, but it does not specify the person who may approach the Magistrate. In Navin Chandra Pandey (supra), it was held that police cannot investigate a non-cognizable case without Magistrate order. Responsibility lies with the police to obtain such permission, however, the judgment does not lay down that the complainant is barred from moving application before the Magistrate. In Brij Lal Bhar (supra), the later Co-ordinate bench held that there is no legal bar for the first informant to move an application under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. The Magistrate may pass the order on the application of police or the informant, the provision only requires an order of a Magistrate and not a specific applicant.

11. Both the aforesaid decisions are by Co-ordinate Benches. It is a settled principle that a Bench of equal strength is bound by decision of a Co-ordinate Bench. However, in case of divergence, the later decision should ordinarily be followed, unless the matter is referred to a larger bench. Reference may be made to a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Bihar Vs. Kalika Kuer @Kalika Singh & Ors. reported in (2003) 5 SCC 448 and Union of India & Another Vs. Raghubir Singh (Dead) By LRs. Etc. reported in (1989) 2 SCC 754, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has emphasized that certainty and consistency are essential for judicial discipline. Since the later decision in Brij Lal Bhar (supra) examines the statutory scheme in detail and clarifies the legal position, this Court respectfully follows the same.

12. The reliance placed upon by the learned counsel for the applicant in the case of Vijesh Pillai (supra) is misplaced, as the said rules are based on Karnataka Criminal Rules of Practice, 1968, which have no application in the State of Uttar Pradesh. In the State of Uttar Pradesh, the requirement under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. is only that Magistrate should apply his judicial mind and pass an order permitting investigation. There is no statutory requirement to follow the procedural formality as provided under Karnataka Criminal Rules of Practice, 1968. There is no specific rules in the State of Uttar Pradesh equivalent to Karnataka Criminal Rules of Practice, 1968.

13. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has repeatedly held that procedural provisions relating to investigation should be interpreted to advance justice and not to frustrate legitimate prosecution.

14. A reference may be made in the case of Sakiri Vasu Vs. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2008 (2) SCC 409, wherein it has been held by Hon'ble the Supreme Court that the Magistrate has vide power to ensure proper investigation. This decision indicates that procedural technicalities should not invalidate proceedings unless jurisdictional illegality or miscarriage of justice is demonstrated.

15. Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. imposes a restriction only on the police officer and it does not prohibit the complainant from approaching the Magistrate. The object of the provision of Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. is to ensure judicial supervision over investigation, not to restrict access to justice. Once the Magistrate has applied his judicial mind and granted permission, the investigation conducted pursuant thereto cannot be held illegal merely because the application was moved by the complainant.

16. Interference under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is warranted only where proceedings are without jurisdiction or there is an abuse of process or continuation would result in miscarriage of justice. No such circumstances is made out in the present case. The issue raised in the present case is purely technical and does not affect the jurisdiction of the Magistrate.

17. In view of the law laid down in Brij Lal Bhar (supra) and the settled principle of judicial discipline, this Court holds that permission under Section 155(2) Cr.P.C. may be granted by the Magistrate on an application moved by the complainant or any aggrieved person, and the investigation conducted pursuant thereto is not vitiated.

18. In view of the foregoing reasons, no ground for interference in this application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is made out. The application u/s 482 Cr.P.C. is hereby dismissed. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Anurag Kumar Pandey, Shri Chandra Badan, A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. The present application under Section 528 BNSS has been moved by the accused-applicants to quash the Charge Sheet No. 70/2025 dated 12.02.2025, the cognizance taking order dated 28.02.2025 and the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 1686/2025 (State Vs. Neeraj Kumar and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 883/2024, for offence under Section 376(2)(n), 323 &

2. Heard Shri Amit Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for applicants, Shri Anurag Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and Shri Chandra Badan, learned A.G.A. for State.

3. The first information report has been lodged by opposite party no. 2 on 01.12.2024 at 20:37 hours against the accused applicants alleging therein that opposite party no. 2 (victim) is a married woman whose husband is in Army. During her preparation of PCS (Provincial Civil Service), she became friend with one Mamta, who has introduced the victim with her brother accused applicant no. 1 Neeraj Kumar. On 07.08.2022 accused applicant no. 1 has called the victim at Rajrani Hotel, Pilibhit bypass road Bareilly to attend his birthday celebration, on that date accused has forcefully raped her and recorded her indecent videos and photographs. The victim was then threatened that he will make the video viral. On threatening of making the video viral, the accused has again called the victim at Rajrani Hotel on 14.08.2022, thereafter on 27.10.2022 and committed rape on her. She was again called to hotel Radisson Bareilly on 18.11.2023, where she was again subjected to rape on being blackmailed. On 19.05.2024, the accused has called the victim on her mobile phone and threatened to make her video viral. Thereafter, he has transferred those video and photo to his cousin brother, applicant no. 2, who has also threatened her to make her video viral and asked her for sexual favours, but she has refused the demand, on which the accused applicant no. 2 has sent the videos and photographs to the family members of victim and made her life became miserable, she has also thought of ending her life.

4. In the statement of victim recorded under Section 180 BNSS, she has stated that while preparing for PCS examination, she came in contact with one Mamta, who has intimated her that her brother Neeraj is also preparing for PCS examination and she could take his help. The victim has started visiting the house of Neeraj for taking notes. After sometime Neeraj has called the victim at Rajrani Hotel to celebrate his birthday, where he has forcefully entered into physical relation with her and recorded her videos. Subsequently, he has started blackmailing her and called her to hotel and committed rape on her. Further reveals that he has transferred the videos to his cousin brother Shobhit, who has also started blackmailing her and has passed all the videos to her family members.

5. The victim in her statement under Section 183 BNSS has further disclosed that she came in contact with Mamta through facebook in the year 2022, while she was preparing for her PCS examination. Mamta has intimated her that her brother Neeraj got selected in PCS and could help in getting her examination cracked. The two started visiting each other's house and sometime she also meet Neeraj outside but only for the purpose of taking guidance. She further stated that once Neeraj has called her at Rajrani Hotel on his birthday. She entered the room of the hotel. She was tired and drank the water kept in the hotel room, within no time she felt dizziness, on which Neeraj entered the room and has forcefully raped her. He has also recorded videos of committing rape, he has not shown it to her but has been consistently threatening that the video would be made viral. The applicant no. 1 also beat her and she was repeatedly subjected to rape on threatening of getting the videos viral. Whenever she refused to enter into sexual intercourse, the accused used to threaten that he will kill her children and kidnap them, due to which she could not intimate the same to her husband. Subsequently, accused Neeraj has transferred the videos to his brother Shobhit, who has also started blackmailing her. She further submits that, last time accused Neeraj has entered into sexual intercourse with her at her residence. The cousin brother of Neeraj has also blackmailed her and tried to enter into physical relations, but she has refused. On which both the applicants have transferred the videos and photographs to her husband and family members. She further states that she has two sons of 13 & 12 years of age. Further submits that on 18.11.2023 she was called at hotel Radisson and was not only beaten up but also raped.

6. The statement of husband of victim recorded under Section 161 CrPC is considered on the point, what the victim has stated about the transfer of video. He on questioning about the video received to his mobile phone, has stated that he has deleted the videos and photographs, which were sent by Neeraj and Shobhit, hence, presently not available with him.

7. Raja Ram the father of victim has stated in his statement under Section 161 CrPC that he has not received any videos or photographs. He further submits that his elder daughter (victim) was married in the year 2006, having two sons.

8. The statement of Mamta Rani, whose name is reflected in the FIR, has stated in her statement under Section 161 CrPC that she did not know the victim but received a friend request on 03.04.2021 on her facebook account. For about a year, she did not accept the friend request but finally has accepted the same on 03.04.2022 and started chatting. With no time there was friendship between the two and frequent visits between the families. She states that she is already married, having two children and working in primary school at Bareilly, since 2016.

9. She further states that within no time she became apprehensive of the behaviour of victim and maintained distance with her, but she has no knowledge about the relations between Neeraj and Suman (victim). She submits that accused Neeraj is her real brother and working as Child Development Program Officer under the Government of Uttar Pradesh, Director of ICDS.

10. Shri Adesh Kumar, the Manager of hotel Rajrani has given his statement under Section 161 CrPC that the hotel registers of the year 2022-23 are with CO-III, as such, he could not provide any report about the stay of visitors during that period.

11. Jakir Ali, the Manger of hotel Radisson has stated that on 18.11.2023 one Room No. 506 was booked through makemytrip.com app by Neeraj Kumar for two persons. On 18.11.2023 at about 15:12 hrs. there was entry in the hotel and on 19.11.2023 at about 9:39 hrs. exit from the hotel. He has provided the IDs and bill of the visitors but stated that the CCTV camera records is kept only for 15 days, which is not available.

12. Learned counsel for applicants submits that the FIR is grossly delayed. The informant is a married lady having two children, who has some oblique motive to fulfil. The record shows that the victim herself has sent friend request to the sister of accused through facebook, came closer to her and thereafter made distance with Mamta and came closer to accused applicant Neeraj. It is the statement of victim that initially the accused applicant Neeraj and victim used to meet at their residence and sometime outside. The victim has changed her stand in the FIR and in her statement that on the date of birthday celebration of accused applicant Neeraj, she was called at Rajrani Hotel. At one place she has stated that she was being forcefully raped and at the other, she states that she has taken the water kept in hotel room, which has a dizziness effect on her and she was raped. She herself has stated that her video of sexual intercourse was shot by the accused Neeraj but he has not showed it to her but has blackmailed her through those videos and raped her at hotels. Further submits that there is no material that the videos and photographs of victim were transferred to her husband and family members because the husband of victim has stated that he received videos but deleted the same and father of the victim states that he never received any videos. Thus, submits that the basis of blackmail does not exist and the victim was consistently being raped, which is only considered to be the consensual and consenting sexual relations between the accused applicant no. 1 and the victim. Further submits that invoked provision of Information Technology Act is not attracted against the applicants. In substantiation of arguments, learned counsel has relied on the judgments in Tomaso Bruno and another Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2015) 7 SCC 178 (Paragraph No. 21 & 27) , on the point of non availability of best evidence. On the point of delay of lodging the FIR the applicant relied on the judgments in Hasmukhlal D. Vora and another Vs. State of Tamil Nadu reported in (2022) 15 SCC 164 (Paragraph No. 23 & 24) and Chanchalpati Das Vs. State of West Bengal and another reported in (2023) 20 SCC 120 (Paragraph No. 21), on the point of quashing of charge sheet relied on the judgments in Pankaj Singh Vs. State of Haryana reported in [(2024(3) JIC 124 (SC)] (Paragraph No. 11 & 15) and Shiv Pratap Singh Rana Vs. State of M.P. and another reported in [2024(128) ACC 966] (Paragraph No. 24 & 25) . Further submits that the mobile chats annexed with the application shows that it is the victim, who has pressurized the accused applicant no. 1 to enter into relations. The relevant paragraphs of each citation are quoted underneath:-

In Tomaso Bruno (supra):-

21. To invoke Section 106 of the Evidence Act, the main point to be established by the prosecution is that the accused persons were present in the hotel room at the relevant time. PW-1 Ram Singh-Hotel Manager stated that CCTV cameras are installed in the boundaries, near the reception, in the kitchen, in the restaurant and all three floors. Since CCTV cameras were installed in the prominent places, CCTV footage would have been best evidence to prove whether the accused remained inside the room and whether or not they have gone out. CCTV footage is a strong piece of evidence which would have indicated whether the accused remained inside the hotel and whether they were responsible for the commission of a crime. It would have also shown whether or not the accused had gone out of the hotel. CCTV footage being a crucial piece of evidence, it is for the prosecution to have produced the best evidence which is missing. Omission to produce CCTV footage, in our view, which is the best evidence, raises serious doubts about the prosecution case.

27. As per Section 114 (g) of the Evidence Act, if a party in possession of best evidence which will throw light in controversy withholds it, the court can draw an adverse inference against him notwithstanding that the onus of proving does not lie on him. The presumption under Section 114 (g) of the Evidence Act is only a permissible inference and not a necessary inference. Unlike presumption under Section 139 of Negotiable Instruments Act, where the court has no option but to draw statutory presumption under Section 114 of the Evidence Act. Under Section 114 of the Evidence Act, the Court has the option; the court may or may not raise presumption on the proof of certain facts. Drawing of presumption under Section 114(g) of Evidence Act depends upon the nature of fact required to be proved and its importance in the controversy, the usual mode of proving it; the nature, quality and cogency of the evidence which has not been produced and its accessibility to the party concerned, all of which have to be taken into account. It is only when all these matters are duly considered that an adverse inference can be drawn against the party.

In Hasmukhlal D. Vora (supra):-

23. In the present case, the Respondent has provided no explanation for the extraordinary delay of more than four years between the initial site inspection, the show cause notice, and the complaint. In fact, the absence of such an explanation only prompts the Court to infer some sinister motive behind initiating the criminal proceedings.

24. While inordinate delay in itself may not be ground for quashing of a criminal complaint, in such cases, unexplained inordinate delay of such length must be taken into consideration as a very crucial factor as grounds for quashing a criminal complaint.

In Chanchalpati Das (supra) :-

"21. As regards inordinate delay in filing the complaint it has been recently observed by this Court in Hasmukhlal D. Vora v. State of T.N. that though inordinate delay in itself may not be a ground for quashing of a criminal complaint, however unexplained inordinate delay must be taken into consideration as a very crucial factor and ground for quashing a criminal complaint."

In Pankaj Singh (supra) :-

"11. In this case, no charge was framed against the appellant- accused for the offence punishable under clause (f) of sub-Section(2) of Section 376 of the IPC. A perusal of clause (f) of sub- Section (2) of Section 376 shows that the punishment for the offence covered by sub-Section (2) of Section 376 is more stringent than the punishment for the offence under sub-Section (1) of Section 376. In the absence of the charge framed at any stage against the appellant-accused for the offence punishable under clause (f) of sub-Section (2) of Section 376 of the IPC, now, at this stage, neither the prosecution nor the victim can contend that clause (f) of sub-Section (2) of Section 376 of the IPC was applicable. Another important aspect which goes to the root of the matter is that in his examination under Section 313 of the Cr.PC, the case that he was in a position of trust to the victim, was not put to him. In any event, the contention of the learned counsel appearing for the Prosecutrix that the appellant-accused was a person in a position of trust as far as the Prosecutrix is concerned is completely erroneous. There was no fiduciary relationship between the appellant-accused and the Prosecutrix, which will be apparent when we examine the Prosecutrix's evidence. Therefore, on the face of it, the presumption under Section 114A of the Evidence Act will not apply, and, therefore, the burden will be on the prosecution to prove that the sexual intercourse was without the consent of the Prosecutrix. We may also add here that in our jurisprudence unless there is a specific legislative provision which puts a negative burden on the accused, there is no burden on the accused to lead evidence for proving his innocence. The accused may have some burden to discharge in case of a statutory prescription, such as Section 114A of the Evidence Act. In this case, the burden was on the prosecution to lead evidence to prove the guilt of the accused beyond a reasonable doubt.

15.Thus, the evidence of the Prosecutrix and the other prosecution witnesses shows that more than one month before the alleged incident, the appellant-accused and the Prosecutrix exchanged frequent WhatsApp messages. Secondly, the appellant- accused met the Prosecutrix when she was travelling on the way to Hansi. The Prosecutrix had informed the appellant about her visit to Hansi. Thirdly, while coming out of the hotel room, the Prosecutrix did not raise any protests, did not make any hue and cry, or did not complain. She signed the hotel register while leaving the hotel with the appellant. Lastly, while entering the Hotel, the appellant-accused and the Prosecutrix posed as husband and wife. All this has to be appreciated in light of the fact that we are dealing with a case of a well-educated victim who was married and a graduate. Her age at the time of the incident was about 28 years.″

In Shiv Pratap Singh Rana :-

"24. Learned counsel for respondents had relied heavily on the expression "misconception of fact". However, according to us, there is no misconception of fact here. Right from the inception, it is the case of the prosecution that while the appellant was insisting on having a relationship with the prosecutrix, the later had turned down the same on the ground that appellant was the friend of her younger brother and a distant relative of her jijaji. That apart, according to the prosecutrix, the appellant was younger to her. Nonetheless, the prosecutrix had accompanied the appellant to a temple, where she had voluntarily taken bath under a waterfall. Her allegation that appellant had surreptitiously taken photographs of her while she was bathing and later on changing clothes and was blackmailing her with such photographs remain unfounded in the absence of seizure of such photographs or the mobile phone on which such photographs were taken by the appellant. If, indeed, she was under some kind of threat from the appellant, it defies any logic, when the prosecutrix accompanied the appellant to Gwalior from Dabra, a journey which they had made together by train. On reaching Gwalior, she accompanied the appellant on a scooter to a rented premises at Anupam Nagar, where she alleged that appellant had forced himself upon her. But she did not raise any alarm or hue and cry at any point of time. Rather, she returned back to Dabra alongwith the appellant. The relationship did not terminate there. It continued even thereafter. It is the case of the prosecutrix herself that at one point of time the family members of the two had met to discuss about their marriage but nothing final could be reached regarding their marriage. It was only thereafter that the FIR was lodged. As already pointed out above, neither the affidavit nor stamp papers have been recovered or seized by the police; so also the jewellery. The alleged cheque of the prosecutrix's mother given to the appellant or the bank statement to indicate transfer of such money have not been gathered by the police. In the absence of such materials, the entire sub-stratum of the prosecutrix's case collapses. Thus, there is hardly any possibility of conviction of the appellant. As a matter of fact, it is not even a case which can stand trial. It appears to be a case of a consensual relationship which had gone sour leading to lodging of FIR. In the circumstances, Court is of the view that compelling the appellant to face the criminal trial on these materials would be nothing but an abuse of the process of the Court, result of the trial being a foregone conclusion.

25. From the factual matrix of the case, the following relevant features can be culled out:

(i) the relationship between the appellant and the prosecutrix was of a consensual nature;

(ii) the parties were in a relationship for a period of almost two years; and

(iii) though there were talks between the parties and their family members regarding marriage, the same did not fructify leading to lodging of FIR.″

13. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 and learned A.G.A. for State have stated that the delay in lodging the FIR is fully explained as there were threats of life on the victim, moreover, the victim was merely saving her family and family life being a married woman. On the point of delay in lodging the FIR and its explanation the learned counsel has relied on the judgment in Deepak Vs. State of Haryana reported in (2015) 4 SCC 762 (Paragraph No. 15) and Manendra Prasad Tiwari Vs. Amit Kumar Tiwari and another reported in (2022) 20 SCC 757 (Paragraph Nos. 21, 22 and 23). The relevant paragraphs of each citation are quoted underneath:-

In Deepak (supra):-

15. The courts cannot overlook the fact that in sexual offences and, in particular, the offence of rape and that too on a young illiterate girl, the delay in lodging the FIR can occur due to various reasons. One of the reasons is the reluctance of the prosecutrix or her family members to got to the police station and to make a complaint above the incident, which concerned the reputation of the prosecutrix and the honour of the entire family. In such cases, after giving very cool though and considering all pros and cons arising out of an unfortunate incident, a complaint of sexual offence is generally lodged either by the victim or by any members of her family. Indeed, this has been the consistent view of this Court as has been held in State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh.

In Manendra Prasad Tiwari (supra):-

"21. At the cost of repetition, we state that the impugned order of the High Court is utterly incomprehensible. We have yet to come across a case where the High Court has thought fit to discharge an accused charged with the offence of rape on the ground of delay in the registration of the FIR.

22. The law is well settled that although it is open to a High Court entertaining a petition under Section 482 of the CrPC or a revision application under Section 397 of the CrPC to quash the charges framed by the trial court, yet the same cannot be done by weighing the correctness or sufficiency of the evidence. In a case praying for quashing of the charge, the principle to be adopted by the High Court should be that if the entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed, would it constitute an offence or not. The truthfulness, the sufficiency and acceptability of the material produced at the time of framing of a charge can be done only at the stage of trial. To put it more succinctly, at the stage of charge the Court is to examine the materials only with a view to be satisfied that prima facie case of commission of offence alleged has been made out against the accused person.

23. It is also well settled that when the petition is filed by the accused under Section 482 CrPC or a revision Petition under Section 397 read with Section 401 of the CrPC seeking for the quashing of charge framed against him, the Court should not interfere with the order unless there are strong reasons to hold that in the interest of justice and to avoid abuse of the process of the Court a charge framed against the accused needs to be quashed. Such an order can be passed only in exceptional cases and on rare occasions. It is to be kept in mind that once the trial court has framed a charge against an accused the trial must proceed without unnecessary interference by a superior court and the entire evidence from the prosecution side should be placed on record. Any attempt by an accused for quashing of a charge before the entire prosecution evidence has come on record should not be entertained sans exceptional cases."

14. Further submits that accused applicant no. 1 is a public servant and the opposite party-victim is aspirants of PCS examination. She was taking guidance from the accused applicant no. 1 but the applicant has committed rape on the victim and shot indecent videos and photographs to blackmail her. The several act of rape on victim was due to blackmailing her to viral the video. Further submits that the accused no. 1 has after exploiting the victim through indecent videos and photographs has transferred those obscene videos to his cousin brother, who has started blackmailing the victim. It is then that the victim has protested and lodged the FIR. Further submits that there is no consent of victim for the sexual intercourse, on the contrary, she was subjected to continuous fear of injury and her consent was subjected to that fear. Hence, it cannot be considered that the accused applicant entered into sexual intercourse with the victim on her consent, which has been obtained on fear of getting the videos viral. On this point of argument, learned counsel has relied on the judgment of co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Raghav Kumar Vs. State of U.P. and another passed in Application U/S 482 No. 9501 of 2019 (Paragraph Nos. 20, 22 & 23). The relevant paragraphs are quoted underneath:-

"20. In Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra), while dealing with the consent for the offence under Sections 375, 376 I.P.C. the Apex Court has observed as under:

"18. To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act."

22. Thus, in the light of the judgements of the aforesaid position of law, if the facts of the instant case are examined, we will find that though the applicant and the opposite party no.2 were friends, the opposite party no.2 had never agreed for any relationship with the applicant other than the friendship and that is apparent from the fact that initially the opposite party no.2 has rejected the proposal of marriage with the applicant. However, she was continuously in talking terms with the applicant. As per the allegations in the F.I.R., which are supported in her 161 Cr.P.C. statement as well as in her 164 Cr.P.C. statement, the applicant herein has taken opposite party no.2 to his house on the pretext of illness and hospitalization of his mother where she has been given tea which was intoxicated and after consuming the said tea the opposite party no.2 became unconscious and she was sexually assaulted without her consent and nude pictures of the opposite party no.2 were taken, thereafter, she was blackmailed to give consent to the relationship. Therefore, for the initial incident as alleged in the F.I.R. there was no consent on the part of the opposite party no.2 herein. Therefore, the offence of rape is prima facie constituted against the applicant, however, the subsequent relationship of the applicant with the opposite party no.2 was initially under threat perception created by the applicant and his family members and subsequently a promise of marriage was also stated to have been given by the applicant, which was accepted by the opposite party no.2 under the threat perceptions created by the applicant and his family members. However subsequently, they are stated to have been in consensual relationship for sufficiently a long period of time and applicant and his family member have refused to marry the opposite party no.2, the instant F.I.R. has been lodged and the fact that they were in continuous physical relationship is sufficiently established during the investigation and even by the photographs annexed as Annexure '21' in the instant application, which has also been found established during the investigation from the examination of the hotel staff where they used to stay.

CONCLUSION

23. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court since the initial relationship was established by the applicant with an element of cheating, threat etc., against the will of the opposite party no.2, prima facie an offence under Section 376 I.P.C. is made out against the applicant. Though, the subsequent relationship, which appears to be a consensual relationship under the promise of marriage, however, such consent is also stated to be given by the opposite party no.2 initially under the threat perception created by the applicant herein. Therefore, in the considered opinion of this Court the judgements relied upon by the applicant in Shivashankar (supra), Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra) and Jiyaullah (supra) are of no help to the applicant, in view of the initial act committed against the will of the opposite party no.2. Therefore, this Court does not find any good reason to quash the proceedings as prayed by the applicant, in view thereof, the instant application is accordingly dismissed*.*

15. This Court has taken into consideration, rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

16. The point of concern before this Court, on the point of quashing of charge sheet, cognizance taking order and the proceeding of the criminal case is whether there is prima facie case of repeated rape of victim by accused applicant no. 1 and disrobing the modesty of victim by accused applicant no. 2 which required to be tried or the trial of the case would lead to prejudice cause to the applicants and would be an abuse of process of law.

17. If the contents of the FIR, statements under Sections 180 & 183 BNSS of the victim is prima facie taken into consideration, following points have been culled out from the bare of perusal on the same:

17.1 The victim is a married woman having children, who was married to an army man in the year 2006 and her children are aged about 13 & 12 years;

17.2 The victim was preparing for Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission examination in the year 2022, due to which she started meeting accused no. 1 Neeraj Kumar for guidance, who has already cleared the examination. There is nothing on record to show that the victim is U.P.

Public Service Commission exam aspirant and when she has filled the form and which attempt she is going to take. This is an important fact not disclosed, but necessary because victim is a married woman and meeting with accused only for the purpose of qualifying the examination and prosecution case starts with this fact;

17.3 The victim has entered into friendship with Mamta, sister of accused applicant no. 1 through facebook and started the intimacy with her and met the applicant, though Mamta was already married and the applicant , being her brother was residing at his parental home;

17.4 The victim started meeting accused applicant no. 1 in his house as well as outside;

17.5 On 07.08.2022 accused applicant Neeraj Kumar has called the victim at Rajrani Hotel to celebrate his birthday. In the FIR, it is stated that the accused applicant has forcefully raped her and taken out her indecent videos and photographs, whereas, in her statement under Section 183 BNSS, she has stated that she entered the hotel room, she was tired and took the water kept in the room and after taking water she felt dizziness, then the accused applicant no. 1 had entered the room and raped her. She was not shown the video shot by the accused applicant no. 1. This shows that the victim was not having specific knowledge about the video shot by the accused applicant no. 1 but remain apprehensive of getting that video viral;

17.6 It is on the basis of this unseen video that the victim was consistently raped by accused applicant no. 1 at different hotels on 14.08.2022, 27.10.2022 and 18.11.2023 on the threat perception of making that video viral;

17.7 The said video, which was shot on 07.08.2022, was then transferred to accused applicant no. 2 sometime before 19.05.2025 and on 19.05.2024 accused applicant no. 2 has called the victim on her mobile and threatened to make the video viral, or she may agree to sexual favour, which she has refused;

17.8 It is thereafter that the video has been sent to the family members and husband of victim. When this video was sent to the husband or the family member and which of the family members is not disclosed either in the FIR or in the statement of victim. The father of victim has refused to have received any such video, whereas the husband of victim has stated that he received the video but deleted the same, without disclosing that when he received the video;

17.9 Despite the video sent to the family members and husband of victim, the FIR was lodged with delay on 01.12.2024.

18. The contents of FIR and the statements of victim is being considered in the preceding paragraphs. If the facts alleged is considered to be true, the test is whether it can stand trial ? It is an admitted fact that the victim is a married woman having two children. The rape for the first time was allegedly committed by the accused on 07.08.2022 when the victim was called to celebrate birthday in a hotel, whereby victim herself has took water kept in the hotel room and stated that she felt dizziness and was subjected to rape. The victim is an educated married lady and when subjected to rape, why she has not reported the rape, soon thereafter or intimated to her husband.

Subsequent fact is that she was subjected to rape on specific dates in hotel three times in the year 2022 and once in the month of November 2023. There was ample time to report the incident, but she was subjected to blackmail for the video or photo, which she has not seen.

19. The sexual intercourse was consented or forceful sexual act is to be considered in the light of other alleged facts stated by the victim herself. She has stated specific dates when the accused applicant no. 1 has called the victim to the hotel and she under fear of getting her video viral always admit to the notice of applicant no. 1, without ensuring that the accused applicant is having any video or not. The victim herself has stated that she has not seen the video on 07.08.2022. This is hard to believe that a married woman was consistently subject to sexual intercourse at the hotel under the fear that her video be made viral by the accused applicant no. 1, who himself is a public servant. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Prashant Vs. State (NCT of Delhi) reported in (2025) 5 SCC 764, while considering the sexual intercourse between the parties for a long period as forceful sexual act, found that it is inconceivable that the parties could maintain a prolonged physical relations in absence of voluntary consent. The relevant paragraph nos. 17 & 18 are reiterated underneath:-

"17. In the present case, the issue that had to be addressed by the High Court was whether, assuming all the allegations in the FIR are correct as they stand, an offence punishable under Sections 376 and 506 IPC were made out. A bare perusal of the FIR reveals that the appellant and the complainant first came in contact in the year 2017 and established a relationship thereafter. The parties met multiple times at various places during the years 2017 and 2019, including at parks and their respective houses. Although the complainant stated that the appellant had a forceful sexual relationship with her, neither did she stop meeting the appellant thereafter, nor did she file a criminal complaint during the said period.

18. It is inconceivable that the complainant would continue to meet the appellant or maintain a prolonged association or physical relationship with him in the absence of voluntary consent on her part. Moreover, it would have been improbable for the appellant to ascertain the complainant's residential address, as mentioned in the FIR unless such information had been voluntarily provided by the complainant herself."

20. In the case of Rajnish Singh @ Soni Vs. State of U.P. and another reported in (2025) 4 SCC 197, Hon'ble the Supreme Court has again taken to consideration the sexual act between the parties, who are highly qualified, to be under any forceful act and consider that where the complainant kept quite about the sexual abuse meted out her for a prolonged period shall only be considered as consenting.

21. In the present case the victim is a married woman who has stated to be pursuing the Provincial Civil Services examination and to achieve success in the competitive exams she came in contact with applicant no. 1, but there is nothing on record to show that she is really an aspirant of competitive exams. The victim herself has stated that she met applicant no. 1 at his residence and even outside. She came to attend the birthday of accused applicant no. 1 at hotel and subsequently she under duress of getting the video viral, which she has never seen, succumbed to the alleged pressure. The record is silent about the transfer of any indecent video or photographs of victim either to her husband or to family members. There is no CCTV footage of hotel. All these facts shows that the victim is a consenting party, whose consent has neither been obtained for the fear of death of her children nor on blackmailing her with indecent video and photographs.

22. The accused applicant no. 2 has also been roped in this case. There is no evidence even against the accused applicant no. 2 that he has ever transferred any video or photo of victim or used it for the purpose of blackmailing the victim.

23. Before parting with, it would be appropriate to mention that the accused applicant has annexed the whatsapp chatting between the accused applicant no. 1 and victim and mentioned it in paragraph 17 of the application, which is replied in paragraph 10 of the counter affidavit in a way that chatting is frequent but only for the purpose of guidance. These chats on the face of it reveals intimate communications other than guidance for study.

24. The application moved under Section 528 BNSS has merit and is allowed.

25. Consequently, the Charge Sheet No. 70/2025 dated 12.02.2025, the cognizance taking order dated 28.02.2025 and the entire proceedings of Criminal Case No. 1686/2025 (State Vs. Neeraj and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 883/2024, for offence under Section 376(2)(n), 323 & 506 IPC and Section 67 of Information Technology (Amendment) Act, Police Station- Izzatnagar, District- Bareilly against applicant no. 1 and Sections 354(d) & 506 IPC and Section 67 of Information Technology (Amendment) Act against applicant no. 2, are hereby quashed.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether the impugned order rejecting the applicant's request for further opportunity to produce defence evidence (like handwriting expert report) in a cheque dishonour case under Section 138 NI Act should be quashed under Section 528 BNSS, 2023?

HEADNOTES

Criminal Law – Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023 – Section 528 - Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 – Sections 138, 143, 144, 145 - Constitution of India, 1950 – Article 21 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Sections 260, 265 : - Application under Section 528 BNSS, 2023 – filed by accused – against judgment and order of Judicial Magistrate as well as seeking quashing of entire proceedings under NI Act, - complaint filed in 2013 regarding cheque dishonour – statement of accused recorded, evidence and cross-examination concluded – defence sought further opportunity to produce handwriting expert report but failed despite repeated chances – Application filed by applicant-accuse for further opportunity to provide to produce defence evidence – trial court rejected the application – court finds that, proceeding in question under the NI Act are summary proceedings - and Supreme Court directions for expeditious disposal – further, accused had sufficient opportunities, but delayed proceedings for over 13 years – court held that, justice delayed is justice denied and right to speedy trial under Article 21 violated by protracted pendency – thus, no illegality in trial court's order as more than sufficient opportunities of defence were provided by the trial court and therefore, prayer for quashing the proceedings is refused - application dismissed with direction for expedite disposal of trial. CASE ARISING FROM

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Raj Nath Bhakta.
Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Subhendra Singh and Mr. B.P. Pandey, A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Satya Veer Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr Raj Nath Bhakta, learned counsel for the applicant, Mr. Subhendra Singh along with Mr B.P. Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under Section 528 BNSS, 2023 has been filed with the prayer to quash the impugned judgment and order dated 16.10.2025 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 22, Azamgarh, in Misc. Case No. 3817 of 2024 (Anand Kumar vs. Brajesh Kumar), under Section 138 The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881 (hereinafter referred as N.I. Act), Police Station Kotwali, District Azamgarh. It is further prayed that the Hon'ble Court may be pleased to quash the entire proceeding of Misc. Case No. 3817 of 2024 (Anand Kumar vs. Brijesh Kumar), under Section 138 N. I Act, Police Station - Kotwali, District - Azamgarh, pending in the court of learned Judicial Magistrate, Court No.22, Azamgarh, during pendency of the present application, otherwise applicant shall suffer irreparable loss and injury.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the application dated 08.09.2025 has been rejected by the impugned order dated 16.10.2025. It is further submitted that the impugned order is illegal as no proper opportunity was provided to produce the defence evidence; therefore, the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed.

4. By the impugned order dated 16.10.2025, the trial court rejected the application filed by the applicant-accused with the prayer to reject the order dated 18.08.2025, by which further opportunity to produce evidence was closed, i.e. production of the report of the verification of writing and signature by the expert for the just decision of the case. The relevant portion of the order dated 16.10.2025 is reproduced below:-

5. Per contra, Learned A.G.A. submits that the proceedings under Section 138 N.I. Act are summary proceedings. Therefore, the proceeding should be concluded expeditiously within six months and has placed reliance on various judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, namely: Damodar S. Prabhu vs. Sayed Babalal H., (2010) 5 SCC 663, Indian Bank Association and Ors. vs. Union of India and Ors., (2014) 5 SCC 590, Meters and Instruments Pvt. Ltd. & Anr. vs. Kanchan Mehta, (2018) 1 SCC 560, Makwana Mangaldas Tulsidas vs. State of Gujarat and Ors, (2020) 4 SCC 695 and In Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases Under Section 138 N.I. Act (Suo Motu Writ Petition (Criminal) No. 2 of 2020).

6. Considering the submissions, it is an admitted fact that a complaint under section 138 N.I. Act was filed in the year 2013, and since then, the said complaint has been pending. More than 12 years have already passed, rendering this case a stark exemplification of inordinate delay in the adjudication of a summary trial. Such protracted pendency constitutes a gross abuse of the process of Court in summary trial cases.

7. In the old code, i.e. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (Now repealed), summary trials were introduced in Chapter XXI from Section 260 to 265, and the summary trials have been provided in the new code, i.e. BNSS, 2023, in Chapter XXII from Section 283 to 288.

8. So far as the cases under the N.I. Act are concerned with expeditious disposal, the legislature, in its wisdom, introduced the provision for summary trial by way of amendment in the year 2002. Section 143 was inserted by Act 55 of 2002, and by the same amendment act, Sections 144 and 145 were also inserted. Sections 143 to 145 of the N.I. Act are reproduced below :-

"[143. Power of Court to try cases summarily.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) all offences under this Chapter shall be tried by a Judicial Magistrate of the first class or by a Metropolitan Magistrate and the provisions of sections 262 to 265 (both inclusive) of the said Code shall, as far as may be, apply to such trials:

Provided that in the case of any conviction in a summary trial under this section, it shall be lawful for the Magistrate to pass a sentence of imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year and an amount of fine exceeding five thousand rupees:

Provided further that when at the commencement of, or in the course of, a summary trial under this section, it appears to the Magistrate that the nature of the case is such that a sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding one year may have to be passed or that it is, for any other reason, undesirable to try the case summarily, the Magistrate shall after hearing the parties, record an order to that effect and thereafter recall any witness who may have been examined and proceed to hear or rehear the case in the manner provided by the said Code.

(2) The trial of a case under this section shall, so far as practicable, consistently with the interests of justice, be continued from day to day until its conclusion, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the trial beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded in writing.

(3) Every trial under this section shall be conducted as expeditiously as possible and an endeavour shall be made to conclude the trial within six months from the date of filing of the complaint.

[143A. Power to direct interim compensation.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the Court trying an offence under section 138 may order the drawer of the cheque to pay interim compensation to the complainant-

(a) in a summary trial or a summons case, where he pleads not guilty to the accusation made in the complaint; and

(b) in any other case, upon framing of charge.

(2) The interim compensation under sub-section (1) shall not exceed twenty per cent of the amount of the cheque.

(3) The interim compensation shall be paid within sixty days from the date of the order under sub-section (1), or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the drawer of the cheque.

(4) If the drawer of the cheque is acquitted, the Court shall direct the complainant to repay to the drawer the amount of interim compensation, with interest at the bank rate as published by the Reserve Bank of India, prevalent at the beginning of the relevant financial year, within sixty days from the date of the order, or within such further period not exceeding thirty days as may be directed by the Court on sufficient cause being shown by the complainant.

(5) The interim compensation payable under this section may be recovered as if it were a fine under section 421 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974).

(6) The amount of fine imposed under section 138 or the amount of compensation awarded under section 357 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), shall be reduced by the amount paid or recovered as interim compensation under this section.]

[144. Mode of service of summons.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) and for the purposes of this Chapter, a Magistrate issuing a summons to an accused or a witness may direct a copy of summons to be served at the place where such accused or witness ordinarily resides or carries on business or personally works; for gain, by speed post or by such courier services as are approved by a Court of Session.

(2) Where an acknowledgment purporting to be signed by the accused or the witness or an endorsement purported to be made by any person authorised by the postal department or the courier services that the accused or the witness refused to take delivery of summons has been received, the Court issuing the summons may declare that the summons has been duly served.]

145. Evidence on affidavit.-(1)Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), the evidence of the complainant may be given by him on affidavit and may, subject to all just exceptions be read in evidence in any enquiry, trial or other proceeding under the said Code.*

(2) The Court may, if it thinks fit, and shall, on the application of the prosecution or the accused, summon and examine any person giving evidence on affidavit as to the facts contained therein."

9. As per the intent of legislation under Section 143 to conduct a trial so far as applicable consistently with the interest of justice, it is to be continued from day to day until its conclusion. Unless the Court finds the adjournment of the trial beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded in writing, and in Section 143, the intent of legislation is to conclude the trial as expeditiously as possible, and an endeavour shall be made to conclude the trial within six months from the date of filing of the complaint. The above-mentioned provisions are also intended to make the transaction smoother by using cheques instead of cash and to protect the commercial rights of the parties and save time from long litigation, as litigation between the parties is the worst position in business transactions and development and is a loss of mental peace. These provisions are intended to secure justice within a reasonable time and protect the rights of both parties, and are consistent with the concept of a speedy trial, i.e., a fundamental right of the litigant.

10. Under Section 145, i.e. evidence on affidavit is also to save the valuable time of the litigants and the Court; therefore, the trial courts are duty-bound to follow the above-mentioned provisions strictly.

11. The N.I. Act is a special act. The summary trial in N.I. Act is for quick disposal. The intent of the legislation is to try the cases on a day-to-day basis until their conclusion, as expeditiously as possible, within six months, and the object is to facilitate smooth transactions by cheque.

12. The Apex Court in the case of Suo Motu Writ Petition (Crl.) No. 02 of 2020 titled as In Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases Under Section 138 of N.I. Act ,[(2021) 16 SCC 116], pleased to issue various directions regarding the conduct of trials of complaints under Section 138 of N.I. Act. Para 24 of the said judgment is reproduced below :-

"24. The upshot of the above discussion leads us to the following conclusions:

24.1. The High Courts are requested to issue practice directions to the Magistrates to record reasons before converting trial of complaints under Section 138 of the Act from summary trial to summons trial.

24.2. Inquiry shall be conducted on receipt of complaints under Section 138 of the Act to arrive at sufficient grounds to proceed against the accused, when such accused resides beyond the territorial jurisdiction of the court.

24.3. For the conduct of inquiry under Section 202 of the Code, evidence of witnesses on behalf of the complainant shall be permitted to be taken on affidavit. In suitable cases, the Magistrate can restrict the inquiry to examination of documents without insisting for examination of witnesses.

24.4. We recommend that suitable amendments be made to the Act for provision of one trial against a person for multiple offences under Section 138 of the Act committed within a period of 12 months, notwithstanding the restriction in Section 219 of the Code.

24.5. The High Courts are requested to issue practice directions to the trial courts to treat service of summons in one complaint under Section 138 forming part of a transaction, as deemed service in respect of all the complaints filed before the same court relating to dishonour of cheques issued as part of the said transaction.

24.6. Judgments of this Court in Adalat Prasad (supra) and SubramaniumSethuraman (supra) have interpreted the law correctly and we reiterate that there is no inherent power of trial courts to review or recall the issue of summons. This does not affect the power of the trial court under Section 322 of the Code to revisit the order of issue of process in case it is brought to the court's notice that it lacks jurisdiction to try the complaint.

24.7. Section 258 of the Code is not applicable to complaints under Section 138 of the Act and findings to the contrary in Meters and Instruments (supra) do not lay down correct law. To conclusively deal with this aspect, amendment to the Act empowering the Trial Courts to reconsider/recall summons in respect of complaints under Section 138 shall be considered by the Committee constituted by an order of this Court dated 10.03.2021.

24.8. All other points, which have been raised by the Amici Curiae in their preliminary report and written submissions and not considered herein, shall be the subject-matter of deliberation by the aforementioned Committee. Any other issue relating to expeditious disposal of complaints under Section 138 of the Act shall also be considered by the Committee."

13. For compliance with directions issued in In Re: Expeditious Trial of Cases under Section 138 of N.I. Act (supra), a circular letter was issued bearing Letter No. 10383/2022/Admin G-II/ Allahabad/ Dated : 23.08.2022, having Sub : For compliance of directions issued by Hon'ble Court with regard to expeditious disposal of cases under Section 138 N.I. Act 1881 addressed to all the District Judges subordinate to the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

14. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sanjabij Tari vs. Kishore S. Borcar & Anr. (Criminal Appeal No. 1755 of 2010) decided on 25.09.2025, took into consideration the substantial backlog and protracted pendency of complaints u/s 138 of the NI Act, and issued the following guidelines :-

"KEEPING IN VIEW THE MASSIVE BACKLOG OF CHEQUE BOUNCING CASES, THE FOLLOWING GUIDELINES ARE ISSUED

33. Before parting with this matter, this Court takes judicial notice of the fact that despite repeated directions by this Court in various judgments including Indian Bank Association and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors., (2014) 5 SCC 590, Damodar S. Prabhu v. Sayed Babalal H., (2010) 5 SCC 663 and In Re: Expeditious Trial of cases Under Section 138 of NI Act 1881, (2021) 16 SCC 116*, pendency of cheque bouncing cases under the NI Act in District Courts in major metropolitan cities of India continues to be staggeringly high. For instance, the pendency of Section 138 cases as on 01st September 2025 in Delhi District Courts is 6,50,283 (Six Lakhs Fifty Thousand Two Hundred Eighty Three), Mumbai District Courts is 1,17,190 (One Lakh Seventeen Thousand One Hundred Ninety) and Calcutta District Courts is 2,65,985 (Two Lakhs Sixty Five Thousand Nine Hundred Eighty Five) [Source: National Judicial Data Grid]. This pendency is putting an unprecedented strain on the judicial system as in some States, cases Under Section 138 of the NI Act constitute nearly fifty per cent (50%) of the pendency in Trial Court (in Delhi Section 138 NI Act cases constitute 49.45% of total Trial Court pendency).*

34. In P. Mohanraj and Others v. Shah Brothers Ispat Private Limited, (2021) 6 SCC 258*, this Court while re-iterating the position of law with regard to the nature of offence Under Section 138 of the NI Act, has held as under:*

"53. A perusal of the judgment in Ishwarlal Bhagwandas [S.A.L. Narayan Row v. Ishwarlal Bhagwandas, (1966) 1 SCR 190: AIR 1965 SC 1818] would show that a civil proceeding is not necessarily a proceeding which begins with the filing of a suit and culminates in execution of a decree. It would include a revenue proceeding as well as a writ petition filed Under Article 226 of the Constitution, if the reliefs therein are to enforce rights of a civil nature. Interestingly, criminal proceedings are stated to be proceedings in which the larger interest of the State is concerned. Given these tests, it is clear that a Section 138 proceeding can be said to be a "civil sheep" in a "criminal wolf's" clothing, as it is the interest of the victim that is sought to be protected, the larger interest of the State being subsumed in the victim alone moving a court in cheque bouncing cases*, as has been seen by us in the analysis made hereinabove of Chapter XVII of the Negotiable Instruments Act.*

35. Admittedly, the offence Under Section 138 of the NI Act is quasi-criminal in character and is compoundable [See: Damodar S. Prabhu (supra)]. Recently, in Gian Chand Garg v. Harpal Singh and Anr. (Criminal Appeal No. 3789 of 2025 dated 11th August 2025), a co-ordinate Bench of this Court has set aside concurrent convictions rendered by the Courts below on the ground that the proceeding Under Section 138 of the NI Act is essentially a civil proceeding and it is open to the parties to enter into a voluntary compromise. Consequently, this Court is of the view that not only a voluntary compromise can bring the proceedings Under Section 138 NI Act to an end, but the accused under the said offence are entitled to benefit under the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 [See: Chellammal& Another vs. State Represented by the Inspector of Police, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 870]. Observations to the contrary by Kerala HC in M.V. Nalinakshan v. M. Rameshan and Anr. 2009 All MR (Cri) Journal 273 are set aside.

36. Keeping in view the massive backlog of cheque bouncing cases and the fact that service of summons on the accused in a complaint filed Under Section 138 of the NI Act continues to be one of the main reasons for the delay in disposal of the complaints as well as the fact that punishment under the NI Act is not a means of seeking retribution but is more a means to ensure payment of money and to promote credibility of cheques as a trustworthy substitute for cash payment, this Court issues the following directions:-

A. In all cases filed Under Section 138 of the NI Act, service of summons shall not be confined through prescribed usual modes but shall also be issued dasti i.e. summons shall be served upon the accused by the complainant in addition. This direction is necessary as a large number of Section 138 cases under the NI Act are filed in the metropolitan cities by financial institutions, by virtue of Section 142(2) of the NI Act, against accused who may not be necessarily residing within the territorial jurisdiction of the Court where the complaint has been filed. The Trial Courts shall further resort to service of summons by electronic means in terms of the applicable Notifications/Rules, if any, framed under sub-Sections 1 and 2 of Section 64 and under Clause (i) of Section 530 and other provisions of the Bhartiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (for short 'BNSS, 2023') like Delhi BNSS (Service of Summons and Warrants) Rules, 2025. For this purpose, the complainant shall, at the time of filing the complaint, provide the requisite particulars including e-mail address, mobile number and/or WhatsApp number/messaging application details of the accused, duly supported by an affidavit verifying that the said particulars pertain to the accused/respondent.

B. The complainant shall file an affidavit of service before the Court. In the event such affidavit is found to be false, the Court shall be at liberty to take appropriate action against the complainant in accordance with law.

C. In order to facilitate expeditious settlement of cases Under Section 138 of the NI Act, the Principal District and Sessions Judge of each District Court shall create and operationalise dedicated online payment facilities through secure QR codes or UPI links. The summons shall expressly mention that the Respondent/Accused has the option to make payment of the cheque amount at the initial stage itself, directly through the said online link. The complainant shall also be informed of such payment and upon confirmation of receipt, appropriate orders regarding release of such money and compounding/closure of proceedings Under Section 147 of the NI Act and/or Section 255 of Cr.P.C./278 BNSS, 2023 may be passed by the Court in accordance with law. This measure shall promote settlement at the threshold stage and/or ensure speedy disposal of cases.

D. Each and every complaint Under Section 138 of the NI Act shall contain a synopsis in the following format which shall be filed immediately after the index (at the top of the file) i.e. prior to the formal complaint:

E. Recently, the High Court of Karnataka in Ashok v. FayazAahmad 2025 SCC OnLine Kar 490 has taken the view that since NI Act is a special enactment, there is no need for the Magistrate to issue summons to the Accused before taking cognizance (Under Section 223 of BNSS) of complaints filed Under Section 138 of NI Act. This Court is in agreement with the view taken by the High Court of Karnataka. Consequently, this Court directs that there shall be no requirement to issue summons to the Accused in terms of Section 223 of BNSS i.e., at the pre-cognizance stage.

F. Since the object of Section 143 of the NI Act is quick disposal of the complaints Under Section 138 by following the procedure prescribed for summary trial under the Code, this Court reiterates the direction of this Court in In Re: Expeditious Trial of cases Under Section 138 of NI Act (supra) that the Trial Courts shall record cogent and sufficient reasons before converting a summary trial to summons trial. To facilitate this process, this Court clarifies that in view of the judgment of the Delhi High Court in Rajesh Agarwal v. State and Anr., 2010 SCC OnLine Del 2511, the Trial Court shall be at liberty (at the initial post cognizance stage) to ask questions, it deems appropriate, Under Section 251 Code of Criminal Procedure/Section 274 BNSS, 2023 including the following questions:

(i) Do you admit that the cheque belongs to your account? Yes/No
(ii) Do you admit that the signature on the cheque is yours? Yes/No
(iii) Did you issue/deliver this cheque to the complainant? Yes/No
(iv) Do you admit that you owed liability to the complainant at the time of issuance? Yes/No
(v) If you deny liability, state clearly the defence:

(a) Security cheque only;
(b) Loan repaid already;
(c) Cheque altered/misused;
(d) Other (specify).

(vi) Do you wish to compound the case at this stage? Yes/No

G. The Court shall record the responses to the questions in the order-sheet in the presence of the accused and his/her counsel and thereafter determine whether the case is fit to be tried summarily under Chapter XXI of the Cr.P.C./Chapter XXII of the BNSS, 2023.

H. Wherever, the Trial Court deems it appropriate, it shall use its power to order payment of interim deposit as early as possible under Section 143A of the NI Act.

I. Since physical courtrooms create a conducive environment for direct and informal interactions encouraging early resolution, the High Courts shall ensure that after service of summons, the matters are placed before the physical Courts. Exemptions from personal appearances should be granted only when facts so warrant. It is clarified that prior to the service of summons the matters may be listed before the digital Courts.

J. Wherever cases Under Section 138 of the NI Act are permitted to be heard and disposed of by evening courts, the High Courts should ensure that pecuniary limit of the cheque amount is realistic. For instance, in Delhi, the jurisdiction of the evening courts to hear and decide cases of cheque amount is not exceeding Rs. 25,000/-. In the opinion of this Court, the said limit is too low. The High Courts should forthwith issue practice directions and set up realistic pecuniary benchmarks for evening Courts.

K. Each District and Sessions Judge in Delhi, Mumbai and Calcutta shall maintain a dedicated dashboard reflecting the pendency and progress of cases Under Section 138 of the NI Act. The dashboard shall include, inter alia, details regarding total pendency, monthly disposal rates, percentage of cases settled/compounded, average number of adjournments per case and the stage-wise breakup of pending matters. The District and Sessions Judges in aforesaid jurisdictions shall conduct monthly reviews of the functioning of Magistrates handling NI Act matters. A consolidated quarterly report shall be forwarded to the High Court.

L. The Chief Justices of Delhi, Bombay and Calcutta are requested to form Committee on the Administrative side to monitor pendency and to ensure expeditious disposal of Section 138 of the NI Act cases. These Committees should meet at least once a month and explore the option of appointing experienced Magistrates to deal with Section 138 of the NI Act cases as well as promoting mediation, holding of LokAdalats and other alternative dispute resolution mechanisms in Section 138 NI Act cases.

37. It is pertinent to mention that this Court framed guidelines for compounding offences under the NI Act nearly fifteen years back in Damodar S. Prabhu (supra). The relevant portion of the said judgment is reproduced hereinbelow:

THE GUIDELINES

(i) In the circumstances, it is proposed as follows:

(a) That directions can be given that the writ of summons be suitably modified making it clear to the accused that he could make an application for compounding of the offences at the first or second hearing of the case and that if such an application is made, compounding may be allowed by the court without imposing any costs on the accused.

(b) If the accused does not make an application for compounding as aforesaid, then if an application for compounding is made before the Magistrate at a subsequent stage, compounding can be allowed subject to the condition that the accused will be required to pay 10% of the cheque amount to be deposited as a condition for compounding with the Legal Services Authority, or such authority as the court deems fit.

(c) Similarly, if the application for compounding is made before the Sessions Court or a High Court in revision or appeal, such compounding may be allowed on the condition that the accused pays 15% of the cheque amount by way of costs.

(d) Finally, if the application for compounding is made before the Supreme Court, the figure would increase to 20% of the cheque amount.

XXXXXXXXX

24. We are also conscious of the view that the judicial endorsement of the above quoted Guidelines could be seen as an act of judicial law-making and therefore an intrusion into the legislative domain. It must be kept in mind that Section 147 of the Act does not carry any guidance on how to proceed with the compounding of offences under the Act. We have already explained that the scheme contemplated under Section 320 Cr.P.C. cannot be followed in the strict sense. In view of the legislative vacuum, we see no hurdle to the endorsement of some suggestions which have been designed to discourage litigants from unduly delaying the composition of the offence in cases involving Section 138 of the Act.

25. The graded scheme for imposing costs is a means to encourage compounding at an early stage of litigation. In the status quo, valuable time of the court is spent on the trial of these cases and the parties are not liable to pay any court fee since the proceedings are governed by the Code of Criminal Procedure, even though the impact of the offence is largely confined to the private parties. Even though the imposition of costs by the competent court is a matter of discretion, the scale of costs has been suggested in the interest of uniformity. The competent court can of course reduce the costs with regard to the specific facts and circumstances of a case, while recording reasons in writing for such variance. Bona fide litigants should of course contest the proceedings to their logical end.

26. Even in the past, this Court has used its power to do complete justice Under Article 142 of the Constitution to frame guidelines in relation to the subject-matter where there was a legislative vacuum.″

38. Since a very large number of cheque bouncing cases are still pending and interest rates have fallen in the last few years, this Court is of the view that it is time to 'revisit and tweak the guidelines'. Accordingly, the aforesaid guidelines of compounding are modified as under:

(a) If the accused pays the cheque amount before recording of his evidence (namely defence evidence), then the Trial Court may allow compounding of the offence without imposing any cost or penalty on the accused.

(b) If the accused makes the payment of the cheque amount post the recording of his evidence but prior to the pronouncement of judgment by the Trial Court, the Magistrate may allow compounding of the offence on payment of additional 5% of the cheque amount with the Legal Services Authority or such other Authority as the Court deems fit.

(c) Similarly, if the payment of cheque amount is made before the Sessions Court or a High Court in Revision or Appeal, such Court may compound the offence on the condition that the accused pays 7.5% of the cheque amount by way of costs.

(d) Finally, if the cheque amount is tendered before this Court, the figure would increase to 10% of the cheque amount.

39. This Court is of the view that if the Accused is willing to pay in accordance with the aforesaid guidelines, the Court may suggest to the parties to go for compounding. If for any reason, the financial institutions/complainant asks for payment other than the cheque amount or settlement of entire loan or other outstanding dues, then the Magistrate may suggest to the Accused to plead guilty and exercise the power Under Section 255(2) and/or 255(3) of the Cr.P.C. or 278 of the BNSS, 2023 and/or give the benefit under the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 to the Accused.″

15. For the compliance of these above mentioned guidelines issued by Hon'ble Apex Court, a circular Letter No. 14295 2025/Admin G-II/ Allahabad, Dated 04.11.2025 has been circulated with the judgment of Hon'ble Apex Court addressed to all the District Judges, Principal Judges of Family Courts & Presiding Officers of MACTs, LARRAs and Commercial Courts of State of Uttar Pradesh with the request to circulate the same amongst all the Judicial Officers working under their kind supervision and Administrative control for information and necessary compliance and the copy of the judgment was also sent to the Director, Judicial Training & Research Institute, Lucknow for information.

16. Guidelines issued by Hon'ble Apex Court in the Case of Sanjabij Tari vs. Kishore S. Borcar & Anr. (Supra) are to be followed by the Courts/Magistrates handling N.I. Act matters strictly in its letter and spirit.

17. Reverting to the merits of the case, considering the arguments of learned counsel for the parties and after perusing the record, this Court finds that there is no need to issue notice to opposite party no. 2 at this stage. As per the record, the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act has been filed on 01.02.2013 which is annexed as Annexure No. 1 to the application, and as per Annexure No. 4, it reflects that the statement of the accused applicant has been recorded on 30.07.2021 and on the last questionnaire, the accused applicant has been asked as below :-

"प्रश्न-४-क्या आपको कुछ कहना है?

18. On query, learned counsel for the applicant has replied that no document could be filed in defence after 30.07.2021 till the filing of this petition.

19. On perusal of the impugned order, it appears that the first application was given on 11.08.2022, followed by the second application on 10.01.2023 and upon that application, on 18.04.2023, the expert obtained a sample signature of the accused, but after that, the accused-applicant did not pursue and ultimately after giving so many reminders, the opportunity of the accused-applicant was closed. It further appears that the examination-in-chief and cross-examination were concluded, and also the statement of the accused-applicant under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded. Much later, the application for a further opportunity to produce evidence was filed on 08.09.2025, which was rejected by the impugned order dated 16.10.2025.

20. On perusal of the records annexed as annexure to the affidavit filed in support of the application, in the present matter, the complaint under Section 138 N.I. Act was filed on 01.02.2013, and now 2026 is running. Almost 13 years have passed. In the hallowed pursuit of justice, the maxim "In diem vivere in lege sunt detestabilis" stands as an eternal rebuke to protracted litigation and signifies that unnecessary procrastination or stalling tactics in legal proceedings are abhorrent to justice. Such tardiness not only erodes public confidence but also renders the law an instrument of distress rather than relief. In this context, the words of William Shakespeare ring true: "Defer no time; delays have dangerous ends." Such prolonged legal proceedings starkly illustrate the maxim 'Justice Delayed is Justice Denied'. Furthermore, such delays also run counter to the essence of the right to speedy trial under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, 1950.

21. In view of the above discussion, this Court finds no illegality or irregularity in the impugned order as more than sufficient opportunities of defence were provided by the trial court. Therefore, the prayer for quashing the impugned judgment and order dated 16.10.2025, as well as to quash the entire proceeding is refused. This Court is of the considered view that such matters which are affected by unnecessary delay at the ends of the parties should be expedited, and an endeavour should be made to dispose of them within the statutory period unless there are orders of the higher courts staying the proceeding. This judgment be placed before the learned District and Sessions Judge concerned. The office to do needful.

22. With the above observation and directions, the application is finally disposed of.

Civil Misc. Arbitration Application No. 19 of 2025

M/S Progressive Construction Company ...Appellant
Versus
Engineer-In-Chief & H.O.D., Pwd & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether, in exercise of jurisdiction u/s 11(6) of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, the High Court can appoint a sole arbitrator for adjudication of disputes between the parties, notwithstanding the arbitration agreement providing for a panel of three arbitrators, in a situation where the parties have failed to constitute the arbitral tribunal in terms of the agreed procedure and the applicant seeks such modification to reduce costs.

Headnotes

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - s. 11(6) - Appointment of Arbitrator - Arbitration Clause - Deviation from agreed procedure - Failure of parties to appoint arbitrators - Power of Court - The applicant, entered into a contract dated 06.11.2015 with the opposite parties, namely the Engineer-in-Chief and others of the Public Works Department, which contained an arbitration clause (Clause 25.1.3) providing for resolution of disputes through arbitration - Upon arising of disputes, the applicant invoked the arbitration clause and requested the appointment of an arbitrator in terms of agreement - The Executive Engineer, Construction Division-II, PWD, by letter dated 06.12.2024, recommended the appointment of an arbitrator to the competent authority, however, no arbitrator was appointed by respondents in accordance with the agreed procedure - Consequently, the applicant filed the instant application u/s 11(6) of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 before the High Court seeking appointment of an arbitrator, while the respondents did not dispute the existence of arbitration agreement, nor that the Executive Engineer, by letter dated 06.12.2024, had requested the Superintending Engineer to appoint an arbitrator.

Held: Although the arbitration agreement contained provision for constituting a panel of three arbitrators - one arbitrator to be appointed by each of the parties and the third arbitrator or the umpire being appointed by the two arbitrators, the parties fail to appoint their arbitrators, an application u/s 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 is filed and a party requests that it is not willing to bear the high cost of arbitration to be conducted by a panel of three arbitrators and in order to reduce the costs, it requests appointment of a sole arbitrator, the Court can accede to the request - Accordingly, arbitrator appointed for adjudication of the disputes between the parties, thus, application allowed. Appearances for Parties

Adv. for the Applicant:
Vipul Rai

Adv. for the Opposite Party:
C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Abhishek Dwivedi, Advocate holding brief of Shri Vipul Rai, the learned counsel for the applicant and Shri S.K. Khare, the learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. By means of the instant application filed under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, the applicant is seeking appointment of an arbitrator for adjudication of the disputes between the parties arising out of a contract dated 06.11.2015.

3. Clause 25.1.3 of the agreement contains an arbitration clause. The applicant had requested the opposite parties for appointment of arbitrator as per the aforesaid arbitration clause.

4. On 06.12.2024, the Executive Engineer, Construction Division-II, Public Works Department wrote a letter to the Superintending Engineer, Hamirpur Circle, Public Works Department, Hamirpur recommended appointment of an arbitrator as per the Clause 25.1.3 but when arbitrator was not appointed in spite of this recommendation, the applicant has filed this application.

5. The opposite parties have filed objections against the application which principally contains pleas of the opposite parties disputing the correctness of the claims of the applicant. However, while deciding an application under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, this Court is not required to examine correctness of the claims of the applicant and that has to be done by the arbitrator.

6. The State has not disputed the existence of arbitration agreement and it has not disputed that through the aforesaid letter dated 06.12.2024, the Executive Engineer had himself requested the Superintending Engineer to appoint an arbitrator.

7. As arbitrator has not been appointed by the opposite parties, occasion has arose for this Court to appoint an arbitrator.

8. The learned counsel for the applicant has stated that although the arbitration clause contains a provision for arbitration by a panel of three arbitrators, the opposite party has not appointed the arbitrators in terms of the aforesaid clause. Now, that the Court has to appoint the arbitrator, the applicant requests that to reduce the cost of arbitration, a single arbitrator be appointed in place of a Tribunal consisting of three arbitrators.

9. In Union of India v. Singh Builders Syndicate: (2009) 4 SCC 523, the appellant had challenged an order of the Delhi High Court appointing a retired Judge of the High Court as sole arbitrator to decide the disputes arising in respect of a construction contract between the Northern Railways and the respondent, whereas arbitration clause in the contract between the parties required two serving gazetted railway officers of equal status being appointed as arbitrators, one by the contractor from a panel made available by the General Manager of the Northern Railways and the other by the Northern Railways, and the two arbitrators so appointed, in turn appointing an umpire. The High Court was of the view that the matter was pending since 1999 and that the cumbersome process of constituting an Arbitral Tribunal in terms of the arbitration agreement and the delays on the part of the Railways in complying with the provisions of the arbitration agreement, led to the arbitration becoming virtually a non-starter and no useful purpose would be served by reconstituting a three-Member Arbitral Tribunal. Therefore, the High Court allowed the petition and appointed a retired Judge of the Delhi High Court as the arbitrator. The said order was challenged by filing an appeal before the Hon'ble Supreme Court The question that arises for consideration by the Hon'ble Supreme Court was whether the appointment of a retired Judge of the High Court as sole arbitrator should be set aside and an Arbitral Tribunal should again be constituted in the manner provided in the arbitration agreement. Upholding the order of the High Court and dismissing the appeal, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:-

"13. The position after the new Act came into force, is different, as explained by this Court in Northern Railway Admn., Ministry of Railway v. Patel Engg. Co. Ltd. [(2008) 10 SCC 240] This Court held that the appointment of arbitrator(s) named in the arbitration agreement is not mandatory or a must, but the emphasis should be on the terms of the arbitration agreement being adhered to and/or given effect, as closely as possible.

14. It was further held in Northern Railway case [(2008) 10 SCC 240] that the Chief Justice or his designate should first ensure that the remedies provided under the arbitration agreement are exhausted, but at the same time also ensure that the twin requirements of sub-section (8) of Section 11 of the Act are kept in view. This would mean that invariably the court should first appoint the arbitrators in the manner provided for in the arbitration agreement. But where the independence and impartiality of the arbitrator(s) appointed/nominated in terms of the arbitration agreement is in doubt, or where the Arbitral Tribunal appointed in the manner provided in the arbitration agreement has not functioned and it becomes necessary to make fresh appointment, the Chief Justice or his designate is not powerless to make appropriate alternative arrangements to give effect to the provision for arbitration."

10. The aforesaid judgment has been followed by the Delhi High Court in the case of 24 Secure Services Pvt. Ltd. v. Competent Automobile Ltd.; 2024 SCC OnLine Delhi 4358, as per the Arbitration Clause, there had to be a panel of three Arbitrators but the parties could not appoint one arbitrator each and, therefore, an application was filed under Section 11(6) of the Act. The Delhi High Court held that: -

"22. In Union of India (UOI) v. Singh Builders Syndicate, (2009) 4 SCC 523 the High Court rejected the contention on behalf of the Government that the Court was not vested with any powers to appoint a Sole Arbitrator in distinction to the Arbitration Agreement which provided for the Tribunal of three members. The Apex Court upheld the order of this Court appointing a Sole Arbitrator by observing that the appointment of the Sole Arbitrator was valid. 23. In view of the submissions made as well as Clause 7 of the Services Agreement dated 16.08.2021 which provides for arbitration and the petitioner has raised the arbitrable disputes and without prejudice to the rights and contentions of the parties, the present petition is allowed. Mr. Sidharth Sharma Adv. Mobile No. 7400111111, is hereby appointed as the Arbitrator to adjudicate the disputes between the parties."

11. This decision has been followed by Delhi High Court in the case of Jhajharia Nirman Ltd. v. South Western Railways through Dy. Chief Engineer/IV Construction reported in 2024 SCC OnLine Del 7133 wherein also, the arbitration clause contained a stipulation of appointment of an Arbitral Tribunal consisting of three arbitrators but the parties had failed to constitute the Tribunal by consent.

12. I find myself in agreement with the aforesaid decision taken by the Delhi High court in the aforesaid cases and I am also of the view that although the arbitration agreement contained provision for constituting a panel of three arbitrators ? one arbitrator to be appointed by each of the parties and the third arbitrator or the umpire being appointed by the two arbitrators, the parties fail to appoint their arbitrators, an application under Section 11(6) of the Act is filed and a party requests that it is not willing to bear the high cost of arbitration to be conducted by a panel of three arbitrators and in order to reduce the costs, it requests appointment of a sole arbitrator, this Court can accede to the request.

13. Accordingly, I propose the name of Hon'ble Mr. Justice V. K. Mathur (Retd.), a former Judge of this Court, resident of Flat No.- 203, Samiah Melrose Square, Vrindawan Colony, Sector 6C, Near C.N.G. Pump, Lucknow (U.P.) / 304, Radium Apartments, New Hyderabad, Lucknow, U.P., Mobile Nos. 8004928876, 9717779924 to act as an arbitrator for adjudication of the disputes between the parties.

14. Office is directed to communicate this order to Hon'ble Mr. Justice V. K. Mathur for obtaining his consent.

15. List after receipt of service.

Versus
Union of India & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains to whether, in exercise of powers u/s 11(6) of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, the High Court is required to appoint a sole Arbitrator upon prima facie satisfaction of the existence of a valid arbitration agreement between the parties and the failure of the parties to mutually agree upon such appointment, without delving into the merits of the underlying dispute.

Headnotes

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 - s. 11(6) - Appointment of Arbitrator - Arbitration Agreement - Arbitration Clause - Appointing Authority - Scope of - The applicant, invoked the arbitration clause contained in the agreement between the parties by issuing a notice dated 11.08.2023 to the respondents, namely the Union of India and others, seeking resolution of disputes through arbitration - The respondents, however, vide reply dated 10.10.2023, denied the invocation of arbitration - In view of existence of disputes between the parties and the failure to arrive at a consensual appointment of an arbitrator in terms of agreed procedure, the applicant instituted the instant application u/s 11(6) of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 before the High Court for appointment of a sole arbitrator.

Held: In the facts of the present case, on prima facie basis, it has to be accepted that there exists an arbitration clause, between the parties - Also, it is clear that the parties have not been able to appoint consented arbitrator and therefore, the appointing authority has to be assumed by Court upon the instant application - At the same time, no final conclusion is being drawn as may affect the merits of the claim - That matter would remain to be considered by the appropriate forum at the appropriate stage, upon claim, objection, challenge or appeal being filed - Thus, amongst others it would remain open to the opposite party to raise all objections as the Act permits - With the consent of parties, the Court appoints Arbitrator for resolving the disputes between the parties - Accordingly, application allowed. [Paras 8, 9, 11] (E-13)

Restoration Application No. 4 of 2026.

Heard learned counsel for the applicant. Cause shown is sufficient. The order dated 15.12.2025 is recalled. The case is restored to its original number. The application is allowed.

Heard learned counsel for the applicants and learned counsel for the opposite parties.

1. Heard the learned counsel for the parties.

2. The instant application has been preferred under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996 for appointment of a sole Arbitrator.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that a notice/letter was issued to the respondent on 11.8.2023 invoking the arbitration clause to which he replied on 10.10.2023 denying the same. Hence, this application.

4. Learned counsel for the opposite party does not dispute the fact about the existence of dispute between the parties.

5. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, the scope of the present proceedings under Section 11 of the Act does not require any elaboration in view of that position in law having been made crystal clear by a recent three judge decision of the Supreme Court in the case of M/S Mayavati Trading Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Pradyuat Deb Burman, Civil Appeal No. 7023 of 2019, decided on 05.09.2019 in which it has been held as below:

"This being the position, it is clear that the law prior to the 2015 Amendment that has been laid down by this Court, which would have included going into whether accord and satisfaction has taken place, has now been legislatively overruled. This being the position, it is difficult to agree with the reasoning contained in the aforesaid judgment as Section 11(6A) is confined to the examination of the existence of an arbitration agreement and is to be understood in the narrow sense as has been laid down in the judgment Duro Felguera, S.A. (supra) -- see paras 48 & 59."

6. While laying down that law, the Supreme Court had itself referred to paragraph nos. 48 & 59 of its earlier decision in the case of Duro Felguera, S.A. Vs. Gangavaram Port Ltd., (2017) 9 SCC 729.

7. That position in law has been reiterated in a recent decision of the Supreme Court in GOQII Technologies Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Sokrati Technologies Pvt. Ltd., (2025) 2 SCC 192.

8. In the facts of the present case, on prima facie basis, it has to be accepted that there exists an arbitration clause, between the parties. Also, it is clear that the parties have not been able to appoint consented arbitrator and therefore, the appointing authority has to be assumed by this Court upon the present application.

9. At the same time, no final conclusion is being drawn as may affect the merits of the claim. That matter would remain to be considered by the appropriate forum at the appropriate stage, upon claim, objection, challenge or appeal being filed. Thus, amongst others it would remain open to the opposite party to raise all objections as the Act permits.

10. Leaving that course completely open to the respective parties, at present, only a forum is being provided for adjudication of a claim proposed to be raised and resisted, in accordance with the law.

11. With the consent of the parties, this Court appoints Mr. Bibhuti Narain Singh, Adovcate (AOR No. A/B 0181/2012) (e-mail advsinghbibhutinarayan@gmail.com) (Mb. No. 9450591217/ 9792947895) resident of H.No. CKN-C-189, Chak Niratul (Jagma Hata) infront of Pani Ki Tanki)

Prayagraj who is present in the Court and has given his consent, to act as an Arbitrator for resolving the disputes between the parties. 12. The Arbitrator shall be entitled to his fees and expenses in accordance with the fourth Schedule to the Arbitration & Conciliation Act, 1996.

13. In view of the above, the present arbitration application stands allowed.

14. Office to intimate this order to the Arbitrator.

Issue for Consideration

Whether various aspect of the matter were not taken into consideration while allowing the writ petition.

Head Notes

The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XLVII Rule 1- That review-petitioner/respondent in the writ petition seeking review of the judgement delivered by this Court merely for the purpose of rehearing and fresh decision of the case. Normally the principal is that a judgement pronounced by Court is final, and departure from that principle is justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so- The scope of review is limited and under the guise of review, the parties cannot be permitted to re-agitate and reargue the questions which have already been addressed and decided.

Held- Review petitioners have failed to make out any mistake or error apparent on the face of record in the impugned judgment, and have failed to bring the case within the parameters laid down by this Court as well as Hon'ble Supreme Court in various decisions for reviewing the impugned judgment- Review petition dismissed.

Counsel for Applicant(s) : Vineet Pandey
Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : C.S.C., Uma Nath Pandey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Prakash Padia, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Vineet Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant for review/respondent and Sri Uma Nath Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party/writ petitioner and perused the record.

2. The present review application has been filed with the prayer to review the judgement and order dated 09.06.2025 passed in Writ C No.10075 of 2024.

3. Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Counsel placed reliance upon the ground Nos.7, 11 & 25 of the review application which reads as follows:-

7. Because in the impugned order dated 23.11.2023, on the basis of the record, a categorical finding has been returned that the entire sector in which the demised land is situated is a completely developed sector with all the world class infrastructure facilities. The petitioner has concealed material facts in the writ petition and therefore the petition deserved to outrightly rejected on this ground alone.

11. Because the amendment, 2022 is in addition to the conditions stipulated in the lease deed dated 16.08.2010, which does not contemplate any service of notice of cancellation on account of non-development of the land. The contractual obligations are totally binding upon the petitioner, hence it cannot absolve from its liabilities for non-performance by taking support of a government order/amendment, which is not applicable in the present case.

25. Because the government order dated 30.07.2021 provides for service of notice only to the allottees who could not utilize the land for the purpose it was allotted within five (5) years from the date of possession. Hence, the interpretation to the service of notice has been clearly spelled out by the respondent no.1 with respect to such notice and the petitioner unquestionably does not qualify for being served any notice and the automatic cancellation of allotment is applicable in the present case.

4. In support of the aforesaid grounds, he placed reliance upon following portion of the order dated 30.06.2023 passed by the State Government :-

(2) आन्तरिक विकास कार्य (एप्रोच रोड, विद्युत आपूर्ति, जलापूर्ति, इत्यादि कार्य) पूर्ण की माँग

याची कम्पनी द्वारा आवंटित भूखण्ड पर आवंटन के लगभग 10 वर्षों के उपरान्त भूखण्ड पर एप्रोच रोड, विद्युत आपूर्ति, जलापूर्ति, इत्यादि कार्य पूर्ण न होने का आधार मात्र अपील को बल देने के उद्देश्य से किया जा रहा है। याची द्वारा वर्तमान तक प्राधिकरण में कभी भी भूखण्ड पर एप्रोच रोड, विद्युत आपूर्ति, जलापूर्ति, इत्यादि कार्य पूर्ण न हाने के संबंध में कोई साक्ष्य उपलब्ध नहीं कराया गया है और न ही उक्त अपील के साथ कोई साक्ष्य सलग्न किया गया है। अवगत कराना है कि याची कम्पनी को जिस सैक्टर के अन्तर्गत भूखण्ड आवंटित किया गया है उस सैक्टर में आई०टी० एवं संस्थागत के अन्य भूखण्ड भी आवंटित हैं, जिसमें से कतिपय आवटनो में आवंटियों द्वारा उन्हें आवंटित भूखण्डों पर परियोजना निर्मित कर क्रियाशील किया जा चुका है तथा कतिपय भूखण्डों पर निर्माण कार्य तीव्र गति से प्रगति पर है। उदाहरण स्वरुप संस्थागत योजनान्तर्गत आवंटित मैसर्स बेनेट इन्सटिट्यूट ऑफ हायर एजुकेशन, भूखण्ड संख्या-8,9,10,11 वर्तमान में क्रियाशील है इसके अतिरिक्त उक्त सेक्टर में ही आवंटी कम्पनी के सनिकट आई०टी०/आई०टी०ई०एस० प्रयोगार्थ हेतु मैसर्स समरागी इन्फोटेक प्रा० लि० को आवंटित भूखण्ड संख्या-टीजेड-04, पर तीव्र गति से निर्माण कार्य चल रहा है।"

5. It is argued by learned Senior Counsel that various aspect of the matter were not taken into consideration while allowing the writ petition. It is argued that in the impugned order dated 23.11.2023, cogent finding has been returned that the entire sector in which the demised land is situated is a completely developed sector with all the world class infrastructure facilities which fact has concealed by the petitioner, therefore, the writ petition deserved to be rejected. It is further argued that the amendment made by the State Government by U.P. Act, No.5 of 2022 in addition to the condition stipulated in the Lease Deed dated 16.08.2010 which does not contemplate any service of notice of cancellation on account of non-development of land. It is further argued that Government Order dated 30.07.2021 provides for service of notice only to the allottees who could not utilized the land for the purpose for which it was allotted within five years from the date of possession.

6. On the other hand, it is argued by Sri Uma Nath Pandey, learned counsel for the opposite party/writ petitioner that all aspects of the matter has already been dealt with by the Writ Court in its judgement & order dated 09.06.2025. It is further argued that no notice had been issued to the petitioner prior to three months, i.e., on 31.12.2022 which is condition precedent as per proviso of Section 7 as amended by Act No.5 of 2022. It is further argued that there is no provision in the proviso to issue any notice after 31st December, 2022, hence the order of cancellation as well as order passed in the Revision by the State Government which were based upon proviso (d) & (e) of Section 7 of the Act, is without jurisdiction. Sri Uma Nath Pandey, learned counsel placed reliance upon the law laid down by Hon?ble Supreme Court in review petition of Sanjay Kumar Agrawal Vs. State Tax Officer (1) and another connected with other review petitions reported in (2024) 2 SCC 362.

7. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. From perusal of the record specially the judgement dated 09.06.2025 passed in Writ C No.10075 of 2024, it transpires that after noting down the entire argument made by learned counsel for the parties, order of cancellation as well as order passed by the State Government were set aside on the ground that no notice has been issued to the writ petitioner prior to three months of 31st December, 2022. In this view of the matter, findings recorded by the writ Court that both the orders are without jurisdiction. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment & order dated 09.06.2025 reads as follows:-

18. Thus, the aforesaid provisions make it mandatory to the development authority to issue notice of three months prior to 31.12.2022, i.e. upto 30.9.2022 to complete the construction by 31.12.2022. There is no provision in amending the Act empowering the authority to issue notice after 31.12.2022. The intention of legislature is clear that the development authority has to issue notice to all the allottee as contemplated under proviso (d) and the allotment shall stand automatically cancelled by 31.12.2022.

19. In the present case, no notice has been issued to the petitioner prior to 3 months of 31.12.2022. Under the provisions, the said notice is alleged to have been issued under proviso to section 7 (as amended by Act No. 5 of 2022), whereas, there is no provision in proviso to issue any notice after 31.12.2022. Thus, the impugned orders of cancellation which are based on proviso (d) & (e) of section 7 of the Act is without jurisdiction and the development authority has no authority or jurisdiction to issue such notice and passed consequential order after 31.12.2022.

20. Since the impugned orders are wholly without jurisdiction, as such, hereby quashed. The findings recorded by the Revisional Authority that the notice was issued more than 3 months prior to passing of the order of cancellation is wholly perverse. No notice could be issued after 30.09.2022 as provided under proviso (d) of Section 7 of the Act.

21. In view of the aforesaid, the impugned order dated 30.6.2023 passed by the respondent no.2-Greater Noida Industrial Development Authority and consequential order dated 23.11.2023 passed by the respondent no.1-Principal Secretary, Industrial Development, Civil Secretariate, U.P., Lucknow are hereby quashed. The petitioner is entitled for all the consequential benefits.

9. The relevant findings recorded in the judgement & order dated 09.06.2025 which is quoted above has not been denied by learned counsel for applicant for review either in the grounds of review or during course of arguments.

10. In paragraph 9 & 10 of the judgement of Sanjay Kumar Agrawal (supra), scope of review has been dealt with in great detail which reads as follows:-

9. In the words of Krishna Iyer J., (as his Lordship then was) "a plea of review, unless the first judicial view is manifestly distorted, is like asking for the Moon. A forensic defeat cannot be avenged by an invitation to have a second look, hopeful of discovery of flaws and reversal of result. A review in the counsel's mentation cannot repair the verdict once given. So, the law laid down must rest in peace."

10. It is also well-settled that a party is not entitled to seek a review of a judgment delivered by this Court merely for the purpose of a rehearing and a fresh decision of the case. The normal principle is that a judgment pronounced by the Court is final, and departure from that principle is justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so.

11. After quoting down the aforesaid principles, certain principles/guidelines were laid down by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in paragraph 16 of the judgment of Sanjay Kumar Agrawal (supra) which reads as follows:-

16. The gist of the aforestated decisions is that:

16.1. A judgment is open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record.

16.2. A judgment pronounced by the court is final, and departure from that principle is justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so.

16.3. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of record e justifying the court to exercise its power of review.

16.4. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order XLVII Rule 1 CPC, it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected".

16.5. A review petition has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise".

16.6. Under the guise of review, the petitioner cannot be permitted to reagitate and reargue the questions which have already been addressed and decided.

16.7. An error on the face of record must be such an error which, mere looking at the record should strike and it should not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

16.8. Even the change in law or subsequent decision/judgment of a coordinate or larger Bench by itself cannot be regarded as a ground for review.

12. After noting down the aforesaid principles, it was held by the Hon?ble Supreme Court that review petition should be examined in the ambit of Order XLVII Rule 1 C.P.C.

13. From perusal of the record as well as arguments as has been raised by learned counsel for the parties, it is clear that review-petitioner/respondent in the writ petition seeking review of the judgement delivered by this Court merely for the purpose of rehearing and fresh decision of the case. Normally the principal is that a judgement pronounced by Court is final, and departure from that principle is justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so.

14. In Parsion Devi v. Sumitri Devi (1997) 8 SCC 715 it was held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that a judgment may be open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record. Paragraph 9 of the aforesaid judgement reads as follows:

"9. Under Order XLVII Rule 1 CPC a judgment may be open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of the record justifying the court to exercise its power of review under Order XLVII Rule 1 CPC. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order XLVII Rule | CPC it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected A review petition, it must be remembered has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise"." (emphasis supplied)

15. In the case of Shanti Conductors (P) Ltd. Assam SEBI reported in (2020) 2 SCC 677 a three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Apex Court following the judgement of Parsion Devi (supra) dismissed the review petitions holding that the scope of review is limited and under the guise of review, the parties cannot be permitted to reagitate and reargue the questions which have already been addressed and decided.

16. In this view of the matter and above stated possession, Court is of the opinion that judgement in question does not fall within the scope and abmit of review. The learned counsel for the review petitioners have failed to make out any mistake or error apparent on the face of record in the impugned judgment, and have failed to bring the case within the parameters laid down by this Court as well as Hon?ble Supreme Court in various decisions for reviewing the impugned judgment.

17. In that view of the matter, the review petition is dismissed. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE RAJNISH KUMAR, J.
THE HON'BLE ZAFEER AHMAD, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 255 of 2005

Shankar & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the learned trial Court has examined the evidence and material on record appropriately in a case of alleged mass murder of five persons by multiple accused persons and whether conviction based primarily on testimonies of related eye-witnesses is sustainable in law.

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 148, 452, 307/149, 302/149, and 404 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 374(2) - Conviction for murder and rioting - Appreciation of evidence.

Criminal Trial-Appreciation of Evidence-Case based on testimony of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3-Requirement of careful scrutiny in case involving "5 persons have been killed allegedly by 18 persons". (Para 33)

F.I.R. – Credibility - Where "the report has been written very articulately giving not only the names of accused persons but their parentage in seriatim"- creates doubt about spontaneity and authorship by complainant under trauma. (Para 37)

Eye-witness - Presence Doubtful-Contradictions regarding place of hiding, conduct, and sequence of events - "his evidence is not consistent and there is contradiction in examination-in-chief and cross-examination". (Para 39)

Identification of accused-Improbability - "as to how a person could count 23-24 persons and also identified at least fifteen persons"- casts doubt on reliability. (Para 41)

Appreciation of Evidence - Material contradictions and improvements - Where testimony is inconsistent with F.I.R., site plan and medical evidence - credibility of prosecution case is affected. (Para 40–41)

Criminal Jurisprudence - Burden of Proof - Trial Court's reasoning that omissions should not benefit accused held erroneous as "in the criminal trial the question of any punishment to the deceased and injured does not arise". (Para 41)

Held: The whole case is to be considered on the basis of evidence of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 and such evidence requires deep scrutiny in view of seriousness of allegation -The F.I.R. appears doubtful as it is written very articulately which creates doubt to have been got written solely by complainant - Testimony of complainant suffers from contradictions: "his evidence is not consistent and there is contradiction in examination-in-chief and cross-examination - Identification of large number of accused is improbable - this Court failed to comprehend that as to how a person could count 23-24 persons and also identified at least fifteen persons-Presence and capacity to witness entire घटना doubtful - it cannot be said that he could have seen all the accused persons from the place, where he was hiding himself -Trial Court's reasoning flawed: finding that omissions should not benefit accused is "not tenable. (Paras 33,37,39,41) (E-7)

Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri Pawan Kumar Misra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

(1) Heard Shri Adarsh Mehrotra, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 255 of 2005, Shri Amar Nath Dubey, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 254 of 2005, Shri Shreesh Kumar Mishra Atal, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005, Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 231 of 2005 and Shri Pawan Kumar Misra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

(2) All the aforesaid criminal appeals under Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (here-in-after referred to as Cr.P.C.) emanate from common judgment and order dated 18.12.2004 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge (Essential Commodities Act), Unnao, in Sessions Trial No. 228 of 2001; State Versus Rampal and 14 others, arising out of Case Crime No.41 of 2001, under Sections 148, 404, 452, 307/149 and 302/149 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (here-in-after referred to as I.P.C.), Police Station Makhi, District Unnao.

(3) Since the above-captioned criminal appeals emanate from a common factual matrix/incident, F.I.R. and impugned judgment and order 18.12.2004, therefore, the same are clubbed together and we proceed to decide the same by a common judgment.

(4) The prosecution case, in short, is that on 12.02.2001, the complainant Guddu had submitted a written report (Ext. Ka.1) at police station Makhi, district Unnao, alleging therein that he is a resident of village Meharavan Khera, a hamlet of Methitikur, police station Makhi, district Unnao. Gajju, Ram Kumar, Ram Kishan and brother-in-law of Raj Kumar, namely, Hari of his village had killed his uncle Kishan about 19 years ago, in which all four accused persons were sentenced to life imprisonment, among whom, Gajju and Ram Kishan have died. Sons of his uncle deceased Kishan, namely, Anil and Siddha Nath and sons of Chotta, namely, Subedar and Ram Bali, had killed Gajju in the year 1999. Due to this family enmity yesterday, on 11.02.2001, around 08:00-09:00 in the night, accused, (1) Ram Pal, (2) Shankar, (3) Shiv Nath, (4) Mishra, (5) Shiv Ram sons of Shiv Charan Das, (6) Desha, (7) Ram Singh, (8) Babbun, (9) Indrapal sons of Gajju, (10) Shiv Kumar, (11) Manoj sons of Shankar, (12) Ram Prakash (13) Ram Kumar, (14), Ram Vilas sons of Pritam and (15) Mewa Lal son of Hemraj, who all are of his village and belong to his community, came to his doorstep along with 7-8 outsider miscreants carrying a short barreled countrymade gun, countrymade pistol, axes etc. and shot his father Sarju, who was warming himself by the fire, as a consequence of which, his father fell down and died. Then, his brother Chandrika came out of the house and ran. 6-7 miscreants shot him down on dung hill (?kwjs ij) in east-north side of his village. Some miscreants entered his house and killed his sister-in-law (HkkHkh) Smt. Satana, wife of Chandrika and when his brother Mangal shouted, then, they also shot him. Due to fear, he (complainant) hid inside the house and was watching the incident and saw that the miscreants were looking here and there inside the house with torches and they got his nephew Arvind aged 12 years son of Chandrika Prasad, they assaulted him also by butts of the guns and axe. Thereafter, all the miscreants came out from the house and killed his cousin Ram Khelawan son of Tekchand also. Thereafter, all the miscreants, while firing and threatening the villagers, came again into his house and snatched the gold chain from the neck and silver ornaments from the ears of his sister-in-law (HkkHkh) Satana, who was dead and they also picked four boxes, four wallets (cVqvk) of big pinked (cs/kk), four plates (Fkkfy;k), tharra, glass and lota and all the miscreants fired 25-30 round and created so much terror that no villager came out of house and all closed windows and doors due to fear. When miscreants went away, then, he came out and saw that his father, brother Mangal and sister-in-law Satana were dead and nephew Arvind was lying unconscious. When he saw on the east north side of village, he found that his brother Chandrika was lying dead on dung-hill. This collective massacre continued nearly for an hour, which was seen by him, his wife Puppi, his mother Kishana and wife of Ram Khelawan and several villagers had come hearing the sound of fire and they saw and recognized. Due to terror of miscreants, no one came near there. Ornaments, clothes and money were kept in the boxes, about which he does not have complete knowledge. They recognized 7-8 miscreants came from outside by their face and appearance. At the time of incident, lantern and lamp (nhid) were alight inside the house and fire was burning outside. He, his wife and his mother can recognize the things on seeing, which were taken away by the miscreants. Seeing dead bodies of his both brothers, sister-in-law, father and cousin brother, he became scared and fell unconscious. When he gained consciousness, it was already 12 O□clock in the night and there was no other person available to go along with him, therefore, he could not come to the police station. Three dead bodies are lying in the house and dead body of Chandrika outside of village on east-north and dead body of cousin brother Ram Khelawan is lying in his house. He has come to report. Report may be written and legal action be taken.

(5) On the basis of aforesaid written report, F.I.R., bearing Case Crime No. 41 of 2001, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 452, 302, 307, 404 I.P.C. was registered at police station Makhi, district Unnao on 12.02.2001 at 07:00 A.M. The investigation of the case was taken over himself by S.H.O. Shri Lajja Ram Yadav (P.W.8), Police Station Makhi, district Unnao.

(6) The Investigating Officer (P.W.8), after taking copy of chik F.I.R., copy of report, recording of statement of scriber of F.I.R., Constable Deena Nath Singh (P.W.9) and complainant Guddu (P.W.2), proceeded to the place of occurrence at village Meharvan and prepared inquest reports of deceased Ram Khelawan, Sarju, Mangal, Smt. Satana, Chandrika and necessary papers for the purpose of postmortem of their dead bodies as Ext. Ka.12 to Ext. Ka. 34 and handed over the dead bodies in a sealed condition to Constable Daddan Pandey (P.W.5) and Constable Rajesh Pandey (P.W.4). He also collected plain and blood stained soil from the place of occurrence and prepared memos as Ext. Ka. 35 to Ext. Ka.39. He recovered broken wood of butts of gun and gun arc from the place of occurrence under the recovery memo (Ext. Ka.40). He also recovered 13 empty cartridges 12 bore, one empty cartridge 315 bore and a bullet 315 bore under the recovery memo as Ext. Ka.41. On the pointing out of complainant, he inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan as Ext. Ka.42. In the intervening night of 12/13.02.2001 at about 11:00 p.m., he arrested named accused Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas and Mewalal. He recovered one countrymade pistol 315 bore and two cartridges from the possession of accused Ram Kumar; one countrymade pistol 12 bore and two catridges 12 bore from the possession of accused Mewa Lal; and one blood stained axe from the possession of accused Ram Vilas, under a recovery memo as Ext. Ka. 43. On 14.02.2001, he arrested accused Shivram, Shiv Kumar and Shivnath and from the possession of accused Shivram, he recovered one countrymade pistol 12 bore and two catridges and on the pointing out of accused Shiv Kumar and Shiv Nath, he recovered axes. On 19.02.2001, he arrested accused Ram Singh and Babbun and on their pointing out, he recovered axe and lathi. On 20.02.2001, he recorded the statement of accused Shankar in jail, as, accused Shankar had surrendered in Court. On 21.02.2021, on getting information from informer, he arrested accused Deshraj, Indrapal and Mishri Lal and on the pointing out of accused Deshraj, he recovered one countrymade pistol, two cartridges 12 bore and on the pointing out of accused Indrapal, he recovered one countrymade pistol and two cartridges and on the pointing out of accused Mishrilal, one country-made pistol and one cartridge 12 bore, under the recovery memo. On 23.02.2001, he arrested accused Manoj and from his possession, he recovered one lathi with challa (a bamboo stick with a metal ring at the end). On 03.03.2001, he arrested accused Pappu and from his possession, he recovered one pistol and one cartridge 12 bore and from his left pocket of shirt, he recovered one pair of silver jhala jhumki (bell-shaped drop earring) under the recovery memo.

(7) The postmortem on the dead body of the deceased Ram Khelawan was performed by Dr. Vinay Prakash (P.W.7) on 12.02.2021 at about 08:10 P.M. The doctor found the age of the deceased about 45 years and probable time of death was on 11.02.2001 between 08:00-09:00 P.M.. The deceased was of average built and height. The eyes and mouth were closed and rigor mortis was present in upper and lower extremities. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased Ram Khelawan:-

1. An incised wound size 3.5 cm x 1 cm bone deep on forehead on Lt. side 3 cm above Lt. eye brow. Skull bone Lacerated.

2. An incised wound 4 cm x 3 cm bone deep on Lt. parietal region 8 cm above Lt. ear. Skull bone Lacerated.

3. An incised wound size 8 cm x 2 cm on occipital Sic in middle 5 cm below occiput, brain matter coming out, wound is bone deep. Skull bone Lacerated.

Margins inverted, blackening present and exit wound size 3 cm x 2.5 cm, on the back 3 cm lateral to spine at the level of inferior angle of scapula. Margins everted.

On internal examination, Dr. Vinay Prakash found that the left lung was ruptured; the membrances of the heart were torn; about 1.5 liters of blood was present inside the chest cavity; and the stomach contained approximately 100 grams of semi-digested food.

As per the opinion of Dr. Vinay Prakash, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The ante-mortem injury no.1 could be attributable by a sharp edged weapon like axe etc. and injury no.2 could be attributable by fire arm like pistol, countrymade gun.

(9) The postmortem on the dead body of the deceased Mangal was performed by Dr. Vinay Prakash (P.W.7) on 12.02.2021 at about 08:50 P.M. The doctor found the age of the deceased Mangal about 35 years and probable time of death was on 11.02.2001 between 08:00-09:00 P.M. The deceased was of average built and height. The eyes were open and mouth was closed and rigor mortis was present in upper and lower extremities. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased Mangal:-

. A firearm entry wound size 3 cm x 2.5 cm surrounded by multiple pellets entry wound around one cm, cavity deep on the Lt. side of sic 9 cm lateral to Lt. Nipple at 4 O□clock position. Direction of wound is medial and towards Rt. side traversing Lt. lung, heart and Rt. lung.

2. An incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm on occipital region 13 cm above Lt. ear, bone deep.

On internal examination, Dr. Vinay Prakash found that the left lung was ruptured; the membrances of the heart were torn; about 1.5 liters of blood was present in the chest cavity; and the stomach contained approximately 100 grams of partially semi-digested food.

As per the opinion of Dr. Vinay Prakash, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem firearm injuries. The ante-mortem injury no.1 could be attributable by a firearm like country made gun or pistol and injury no.2 could be attributable by sharp edged weapon like axe etc.

(10) The postmortem on the dead body of the deceased Smt. Satana was performed by Dr. Vinay Prakash (P.W.7) on 12.02.2021 at about 09:15 P.M. The doctor found the age of the deceased Smt. Satana about 35 years and probable time of death was on 11.02.2001 between 08:00-09:00 P.M. The deceased was of average built and height. The mouth and eyes were open and rigor mortis was present in upper and lower extremities. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased Smt. Satana:-

1. A firearm entry wound size 5 cm x 3 cm on the neck joints lateral to trachea on Lt. side, Blackening & tattoing present. Margins are inverted, direction of wound is downwards and Rt. side and chest cavity deep, medial end of Lt. & Rt. clavicle fractured neck vessels damaged.

2. A firearm entry wound size 6 cm x 4 cm on Lt. Umber regions on lateral aspects 3 cm above iliac crest. Blackening & tattoing present, margins are inverted cavity deep, goes medially & right side. Small intestine is coming out from wound.

3. An abrasion size 8 cm x 7 cm on the Lt. knee joints.(cap)

On internal examination, Dr. Vinay Prakash found that the right lung was ruptured; about 750 milliliters of blood was present inside the chest cavity along with one wadding piece and ten small pellets; and the stomach contained approximately 150 grams of blood along with two wadding piece and 12 small pellets and 100 grams of digested food; the right side of the large intestine was full; and the spleen and the left kidney were ruptured.

As per the opinion of Dr. Vinay Prakash, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem fire arm injuries. The ante-mortem injuries no.1 and 2 could be attributable by a fire arm like country made gun or pistol and injury no.3 could have resulted from a fall.

(11) The postmortem on the dead body of the deceased Chandrika was performed by Dr. Vinay Prakash (P.W.7) on 12.02.2021 at about 09:45 P.M. The doctor found the age of the deceased Chandrika about 40 years and probable time of death was on 11.02.2001 between 08:00-09:00 P.M. The deceased was of average built and height. The mouth was half open and eyes were closed and rigor mortis was present in upper and lower extremities. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased Chandrika:-

1. An incised wound size .15 cm x 1.5 cm on Rt. parietal region of scalp, obliquely placed behind ear, skull bones cut & badly Lacerated brain matter coming out 5 cm behind the Rt. ear.

2. An incised wound size 7 cm x 1 cm on Lt. sic region 5 cm posterior to Lt. ear, skull bone badly lacerated and brain matter coming out.

3. An abrasion 2 cm x 1 cm on Lt. side of chest 3 cm below Lt. nipple.

On internal examination, Dr. Vinay Prakash found that the skull bones were fractured; the brain membrances and brain were completely lacerated and 150 grams of digested food was found in the stomach.

As per the opinion of Dr. Vinay Prakash, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem head injuries. The ante-mortem injuries no.1 and 2 could be attributable by a sharp edged weapon like axe and injury no.3 could have resulted from a fall.

(12) The injuries of injured Arvind were examined by Dr. Satya Prakash (P.W.16) at District Hospital, Unnao on 12.02.2021 at 09:00 A.M. The doctor found the age of the injured about 13 years and probable time of injures was about half day old. He found the following injuries on the body of injured Arvind :-

1. Lacerated wound multiple on back of skull & back of Left ear of various size X bone deep.

2. Incised wound 7 cm x 1 cm on top of skull at middle.

3. Lacerated wound 2 cm x cm x muscle deep on left side of face.

4. Multiple contusion on Rt. side of face.

As per Dr. Satya Prakash (P.W.16), injuries no. 1, 2 and 4 were kept under observation and advised for x-ray. Injury no.2 could be caused by sharp edged weapon and other injuries could be caused by blunt object. In examination-in-chief, he stated that injuries no. 1, 3 and 4 could be attributable by butts of gun and injury no.2 could be attributable by axe and these injuries could be caused on 11.02.2001 between 8:00-09:00 p.m. In cross-examination, P.W.16 has stated that injuries no. 1, 3 and 4 could be caused by lathi and danda and injury no.2 could be caused by sharp edged weapon.

(13) On 14.04.2001, the Investigating Officer Lajja Ram Yadav (P.W.8) was transferred and, thereafter, SO Kumari Mamta Vidyarthi (P.W.10) took over further investigation of the case, who, after completing the necessary formalities including recording of statements of the witnesses, sent the recovered weapons of assault from the accused for examination at Forensic Science Laboratory on 08.05.2001. On 09.05.2001, after completing investigation, she submitted charge sheet (Ext. Ka.66) against accused (1) Ram Pal, (2) Shankar, (3) Shiv Nath, (4) Mishra alias Mishri Lal, (5) Shiv Ram, (6) Desha alias Deshraj, (7) Ram Singh, (8) Babbun, (9) Indrapal, (10) Shiv Kumar, (11) Manoj, (12) Ram Prakash, (13) Ram Kumar, (14) Ram Vilas, (15) Mewa Lal, (16) Pappu, (17) Kunju, (18) Mansaram and (19) Chota Raidas under Sections 147, 148, 149, 452, 302, 307, 404, 411 I.P.C. out of which accused no.(7) Ram Singh, (8) Babbun, (9) Indrapal and (11) Manoj were declared juvenile, therefore, their cases were forwarded to the Juvenile Justice Board. In the order dated 21.06.2002, learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Unnao noted that accused Mansaram appeared in Court, but accused Chota Raidas was absconding, therefore, case lodged against accused Chota Raidas was separated.

(14) Learned Chief Judicial Magistrate took cognizance on the aforesaid charge-sheet and committed the case to the Court of Sessions by means of the order dated 21.06.2002 against accused Ram Pal, Shankar, Shivnath, Mishri Lal, Shiv Ram, Desh Raj, Ram Singh, Babbun, Indrapal, Shiv Kumar, Manoj, Ram Prakash, Ramkumar, Ram Vilas, Mewa Lal, Pappu, Kunji, where the case was registered as Sessions Trial No. 228 of 2001 : State Vs. Ram Pal and others.

(15) The learned Sessions Judge, Unnao, by means of the order dated 28.08.2001, framed charges against fifteen accused persons, however, subsequently, by means of order dated 05.10.2001, the learned Sessions Judge referred the case of accused Ram Singh to the Juvenile Justice Board. Accordingly, fourteen accused persons, namely, Ram Pal, Shiv Nath, Shanker, Misra alias Mishri Lal, Shiv Ram, Desha alias Desh Raj, Shiv Kumar, Ram Prakash, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas, Mewa Lal, Pappu, Kunji and Mansha Ram, have been tried by the learned Sessions Judge in Sessions Trial No.228 of 2001. All aforesaid fourteen accused persons denied their charges and claimed to be tried.

(16) Apart from the aforesaid case, the cases under Section 25 of the Arms Act were also registered and clubbed with the aforesaid case and tried together against the aforesaid accused persons.

(17) In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined sixteen witnesses, which are as under :-

(19) After completion of the evidence of the prosecution, the statement of the accused persons was recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the occurrence and shown ignorance to many things placed from evidence and stated that police has lodged the false case against them and the evidence has been given on the basis of enmity. They stated that false recovery of weapon on their pointing out has been shown by the police and they have been arrested from home.

(20) In defence, no evidence either oral or documentary has been led by the accused persons/appellants.

(21) After hearing the Public Prosecutor and learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the defence and considering the evidence and material on record, the learned Sessions Court, Unnao, acquitted the accused Pappu, Kunji, Munshi Ram from the charges under Section 148, 302/149, 307/149, 452, 404 I.P.C. and acquitted the accused Ram Kumar and Mewa Lal from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 229 of 2001, accused Shiv Ram from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 230 of 2001, accused Pappu from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 231 of 2001; accused Desha alias Deshraj and Mishra alias Mishri Lal from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 232 of 2001, accused Shankar from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 233 of 2001, accused Ram Prakash from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 234 of 2001 and accused Rampal from the charges under Section 25 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 235 of 2001 and convicted and sentenced the accused Ram Pal, Shanker, Shiv Nath, Mishra alias Mishri Lal, Shiv Ram, Desha alias Deshraj, Shiv Kumar, Ram Prakash, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas and Mewa Lal in Sessions Trial No. 228 of 2001 arising out of Case Crime No. 41 of 2001 by means of a common judgment and order dated 18.12.2004 as stated here-in-below :-

i. Under section 148 I.P.C. to undergo 3 years R.I.;

ii. Under section 302 read with section 149 I.P.C. to undergo life imprisonment;

iii. Under Section 307 read with section 149 I.P.C. to undergo 12 years R.I.;

iv. Under Section 452 I.P.C. to undergo 6 years R.I.;

v. Under Section 404 I.P.C. to undergo 6 years R.I.

It has further been directed by the learned trial Court that all the aforesaid sentences shall run concurrently.

(22) Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 18.12.2004, convicts/appellants Shankar, Desha alias Deshraj, Shiv Ram, Shiv Nath, Mishra alias Mishri Lal and Ram Pal have preferred Criminal Appeal No. 255 of 2005, convict/appellant Shiv Kumar preferred Criminal Appeal No. 254 of 2005, convicts/appellants Ram Prakash, Ram Kumar and Ram Vilas preferred Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005 and convict/appellant Mewa Lal preferred Criminal Appeal No. 231 of 2005.

(23) Learned A.G.A. has informed that no appeal, against the acquittal of other accused persons by means of order dated 18.12.2004, has been preferred either on behalf of the State or complainant.

(24) It is pertinent to mention that in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005, appellant no.2-Ram Kumar has died, therefore, Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005 filed on behalf of appellant no.2-Ram Kumar was abated by means of order dated 04.04.2025. Now, Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005 survives only on behalf of appellant no.1-Ram Prakash and appellant no.3-Ram Vilas.

(25) Shri Shreesh Kumar Mishra Atal, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 43 of 2005 submitted that the impugned judgment and order of the conviction and sentence has been passed by the trial Court without considering and appreciating the evidence and material on record appropriately. He submitted that a large number of assailants have been shown but the injuries are two or three only to the injured and the deceased. No specific role has been assigned to any assailant. He further submitted that recovery of weapons could not be proved, therefore, appellants have been acquitted under Section 3/25 of the Arms Act and once recovery could not be proved, the trial Court has committed material irregularity in convicting the appellants. He further submitted that learned trial Court has failed to consider that there was no source of light at the place of incident and the light shown was not sufficient to recognize the assailants. He further submitted that the alleged incident shown is of 08:00-09:00 in the night of 11.02.2001, but no food has been found in the stomach of the deceased persons, whereas in villages, people normally take food by that time. Thus, the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set-aside and appellants are liable to be acquitted.

(26) Shri Chandra Shekhar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 231 of 2005 submitted that the F.I.R. is not only belated but ante-time also for the reason that the presence of the complainant (P.W.2-Guddu) at the place of incident is doubtful and from his testimony, it comes out that he was in his in-laws house at the time of the alleged incident and he has not suffered any injury along with his wife and mother, which is not possible in the kind of massacre by the appellants alleged by him. It has also been submitted that the scribe of the F.I.R. has not been produced. He further submitted that the testimony of P.W.1-Smt. Agana is not reliable, as, all the accused persons could not have come in a small room as shown by her. P.W.1-Smt. Agana has also admitted that she had child but no child has been shown. He further submitted that P.W.1-Smt. Agana is a related and interested witness and has made improvement after post-mortem. He further submitted that P.W.2-Guddu is the son of brother-in-law of the deceased and his presence at the spot is also doubtful. P.W.3-Arvind is related and interested witness. He further submitted that though P.W.3-Arvind is a injured witness but his testimony is not reliable, as, there was no evidence of sending him hospital by the police and his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded by the Investigating Officer after eighteen days, in which, the Investigating Officer Lajjaram Yadav (P.W.8) has also not disclosed his injuries. It has also been submitted that there is no independent witness and also no evidence of fire of warming by the deceased has been found. Thus, submission is that evidence adduced by the prosecution is only of related and interested witnesses, which was to be considered with care and caution, but the trial Court has failed to consider accordingly. He further submitted that the motive attributed in the F.I.R. as well as by the prosecution is not against the appellants and the mention of old incident in the F.I.R. shows that the F.I.R. was lodged in consultation and after thinking over it, only to implicate the appellants after dacoity and murder by unknown persons. He also submitted that timing of post-mortem of five deceased persons and the gap between them is very short, therefore, it has also not been done appropriately. He also submitted that P.W.2-Guddu has admitted that Mewalal and Ram Vilas were arrested from his house and if they would have been involved in the alleged massacre by the appellants and were resident of the same village, they would not have stayed at home, particularly, when they were seen by the injured Arvind, compalainant and others. He further submitted that it was a case of dacoity with murder of the deceased persons by unknown persons and on account of the enmity, appellants have falsely been implicated in the case. He also submitted that about twenty-five persons have been shown in the F.I.R., who all have been entered into in a small room and killed the deceased Ram Khelawan, which is not possible. He also submitted that it is very strange that no effort was made to provide any medical aid to the injured child. The incident is of the evening between 08:00-09:00 and the injured witness (P.W.3-Arvind) has stated that he went for medical treatment in the morning around 08:00-08:30 a.m., where he was admitted for about eighteen days and his statement was recorded after his relieving from the hospital, whereas there is neither any proof of his admission in the hospital for such a long period nor his injuries show that it was required. Thus, the evidence of injured witness P.W.3-Arvind is also not reliable and his presence is also doubtful. Hence, he submitted that impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set-aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted.

(27) Shri Adarsh Mehrotra, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 255 of 2005 submitted that the contents of the F.I.R. appears to be false. He also submitted that no independent witness has been produced by the prosecution to prove its case. There are numerous inconsistencies in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses. The prosecution has also failed to prove the recovery of weapons. He further submitted that acquittal under Section 3/25 of the Arms Act by the trial Court, itself demolishes the case alleged in the F.I.R, but the trial Court without considering the evidence and material on record appropriately and recording findings on the basis of presumption and assumption, has convicted the appellants. He further submitted that motive shown by the prosecution is not proved as no enmity with Gajju and Ram Kishore has been proved. He also submitted that F.I.R. was lodged against certain persons along with eight unknown persons but their identity has neither been disclosed nor proved by the prosecution. He further submitted that enmity could have been with Rajesh, who vowed that he will kill the family of Sarju, which has also not been proved by the prosecution witnesses. He also submitted that it is very strange that in such a massacre, complainant Guddu (P.W.2) has not suffered any injury while he admitted that he had seen the accused persons and became unconscious and remained as such for about two hours. He also submitted that evidence of P.W.1-Smt. Agana is not reliable for the reason that on the one hand, she states that she had gone to meet her parents after the massacre in the morning and on the other hand, she says that they had died, therefore, it appears that either she was not present on the spot or lying. P.W.1-Smt. Agana also states that she had gone to mortuary after three days when she came to know the names of the assailants. He further submitted that it is very strange that a married woman, whose husband has been killed in front of her eyes, would go to her parents house and stay there for three days and thereafter she would go to the mortuary and could find her family members there, whereas the post-mortem was done on the next day. He further submitted that story of dacoity (yqV) and return of assailants after about half an hour after killing Ram Khelawan for the said purpose are also very improbable, as, only one earring (>qedk) has been recovered from Pappu, who has been acquitted. He also submitted that as per the evidence, the accused persons had covered their faces with towel (अंगोछा), therefore, the question of their recognition by the witnesses does not arise and on this count also, their evidence is not trustworthy. Thus, he submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set-aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted.

(28) In support of his submissions, Shri Adarsh Mehrotra relied on Md. Jabbar Ali and others Vs. State of Assam; 2022 SCC OnLine SC 1440, Digamber Vaishnav and another Vs. State of Chhatisgarh; Criminal Appeal Nos. 428-430 of 2019, decided on 05.03.2019, Nanje Gowda Vs. State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police; 2017 CRI.L.J. 2830, Periyasamy Vs. The State Rep. By the Inspector of Police; 2024 SCC OnLine SC 314, and Ram Singh Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh; (2024) 4 SCC 208.

(29) Shri Amar Nath Dubey, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 254 of 2005 has also raised similar arguments and submitted that prosecution story of massacre and dacoity (लूट) are highly improbable and the evidence of prosecution witnesses is not sustainable in view of contradictions in their evidence. He also submitted that a small room in which P.W.1-Smt. Agana was lying along with her husband is only 5-6 hands long and of similar width, in which it is not possible that all assailants could have entered and killed her husband. Thus, he submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set-aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted.

(30) Learned Additional Government Advocate vehemently opposed the submissions of the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants in all the four appeals and submitted that in the murder of Ram Kishan, accused Pappu, Kunji and Mansa Ram have been acquitted. He further submitted that merely because motive has been shown in the F.I.R., it cannot be said that the F.I.R. is concocted. There was source of light of lantern and diyas (a small cup-shaped oil lamp made of baked clay). He further submitted that there is eye-witness account of the incident and P.W.1-Smt. Agana, P.W.2-Guddu and P.W.3-Arvind, the injrued witness, are eye-witnesses, who have proved the incident and when the eye-witnesses are intact, the motive looses relevance. He also submitted that P.W.1-Smt. Agana is a rustic woman of village and the chronology of the events given by her as well as P.W.2-Guddu is natural and merely because there are certain contradictions in their evidence, they cannot be said to be not reliable and their evidence cannot be discarded. He also submitted that certain contradictions are possible due to passage of time and also it differs person to person on account of their capacity to recollect. He also submitted that the plea of dacoity (लूट) and murder of the deceased by unknown persons is misconceived and is not tenable, as, no defence witness has been produced to prove it. He further submitted that enmity has been proved. Thus, the impugned judgment and order of conviction has been passed rightly in accordance with law by the learned trial Court after considering the evidence and material on record and appreciating it appropriately by reasoned and speaking order. There is no illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court, which may call for any interference by his Court. All the appeals are misconceived and lacks merit, therefore, liable to be dismissed.

(32) We have heard learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(33) The learned trial Court, after hearing learned Counsels for the parties, recorded that to consider the case in hand, in which 5 persons have been killed allegedly by 18 persons, the whole case is to be considered on the basis of evidence of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3. It is a very serious matter, therefore, as argued by learned Counsels for the parties, the evidence is required to be examined deeply. Thus, it is evident that the learned trial Court proceeded to examine the evidence on record, keeping in mind 5 murders in the incident and alleged involvement of 18 persons. The seriousness of the incident cannot be disputed. However, since the judgment passed by learned trial Court has been assailed, therefore, this Court has to see as to whether the learned trial Court has examined the evidence and material on record appropriately or not.

(34) The F.I.R. of the incident was lodged by P.W.2-Guddu, which starts from a murder of his uncle Ram Kishan about 19 years ago and a murder of Gajju, an accused in murder of his uncle, about two years ago to show the motive of the crime in the incident in the present case. It has been alleged that Gajju, Ram Kumar, Ram Kishan and brother-in-law of Raj Kumar, namely, Hari had killed his uncle Kishan about 19 years back, in which all these accused persons were convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Gajju and Ram Kishan have died. Anil and Siddha Nath, sons of his uncle Kishan (deceased) and Subedar and Ram Bali, sons of Chotta had killed Gajju in the year 1999. On account of the said family enmity, incident has been committed on 11.02.2001, at around 08:00-09:00 in the night, by 15 named accused persons along with 7-8 other unknown accused persons, as stated in the F.I.R. and killed five persons of family and injured one child in the manner stated in it.

(35) P.W.2-Guddu stated that the incident is of about eight months ago. It was around 08:00-09:00 in the night when he was going out of the house for warming from fire. He saw that Ram Pal, Shankar, Mishra, Shiv Ram, Shiv Nath, Desha, Indrapal, Badduan, Ram Singh, Shiv Kumar, Manoj, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas, Ram Prakash, Mewa Lal and 7-8 other persons came. They were armed with अद्धी (a short barreled countrymade gun), axe, gun, and lathi. His father was warming from fire under thatch and lantern was alight under the door. The said accused persons fired on his father Sarju, who fell down and died. His brother Chandrika, upon hearing the noise of fire, came out, then, 7-8 accused persons chased and killed him near dung hill (घूरे) out of the village. Some persons entered into his house and killed his brother Mangal by assaulting him with axe and by firing from gun. His sister-in-law Satana was also killed by the accused persons by firearm shots in the kitchen. His nephew Arvind was feeding the buffalo under the thatch. When he started shouting to save his sister-in-law, the accused assaulted him with the butt of gun, butt of pistol and axe, thereby causing him injuries. Thereafter, the accused persons said, Let us go to kill Ram Khelawan. Ram Khelawan was his cousin brother. Accused also killed him. After that, the accused persons returned to his house again and then they snatched away the gold chain and earrings from his deceased sister-in-law Satana. Accused persons also took away four purses (बटुआ) kept for the wedding, big plates (थाल), four boxes containing jewellery etc. and while firing shots, the accused ran out of the village.

(36) P.W.2-Guddu (complainant) further stated that thereafter he and others came out and he fell unconscious, seeing the deceased persons. He regained consciousness at about 12 o'clock in the night. At 4:00 in the morning, he went to Methitikur and from there, he went to Belsi. His in-laws house is in Belsi. When he informed his relatives, they came to his house. He got the report written from Ram Khelawan in Belsi. Ram Khelawan read over the report to him and then he put his thumb impression on the report. Paper No. Ka 4/3 was read over to him, upon which he stated that this was the same report which he had got written by Ram Khelawan. He further stated that whatever he had told was written by Ram Khelawan and read over to him and thereafter he put his thumb impression on the same. The report is Ext. Ka. 1. Thereafter, he went to police station and handed over the report to Munshi (Constable/Clerk), on the basis of which, F.I.R. was lodged, a copy of which was given to him after taking his thumb impression on the register. He also stated that Radha was his real sister, whose marriage was solemnized with Rakesh of Jamal Nagar. Rakesh had killed his sister Radha by giving poison. He also stated that his statement was recorded by the Inspector in the police station. Thereafter, the Inspector came with him to village, from where the police personnel took his nephew Arvind to the hospital by Jeep.

(37) In cross-examination, P.W.2-Guddu stated that his father-in-law and brother-in-law are residing in Belsi. He had gone alone to Methitikur, where father of his brother-in-law Pohkar is residing. He informed him and thereafter with him, he went to Belsi. Pohkar stayed in his in-laws house. He also stated that his earlier statement, that relatives of Methitikur had come to his house, is wrong and the relatives of Belsi came to his house but they had not come with him to his village because he had gone to police station. In his further cross-examination, he stated that Police Station Makhi is in Belsi village, which is two kilometers from his in-laws house. He reached Belsi at 05:00 in the morning. He stayed ten minutes in in-laws house. It took about twenty minutes in reaching the police station from his in-laws house. He went to the house of Ram Khelawan from his in-laws house. He did not know Ram Khelawan prior to it. His father-in-law told the name of Ram Khelawan. He had not gone to the police station with Ram Khelawan. The F.I.R. of the incident was lodged on 12.02.2001 at 07:00 A.M., therefore, there is time gap between the time stated by P.W.2-Guddu in reaching the police station and lodging of the F.I.R. and also contradiction in his testimony because firstly he says that from his in-laws house, it took 20 minutes to reach police station, thereafter, he says that he went to Ram Khelawan from his in-laws house, about whom his father-in-law had told. The scriber of the F.I.R. Ram Khelawan has not been produced, though his name has been mentioned in the written report as scriber. The report has been written very articulately giving not only the names of accused persons but their parentage in seriatim, which creates doubt to have been got written solely by complainant, who would have been in trauma for the whole night due to alleged massacre in which his five family members were killed and one was injured. A normal person would not have over come such a trauma in such a short period to get written an F.I.R. so articulately. Though P.W.2-Guddu stated about the accused of the said murders but in his cross-examination he states that he was quite young at the time of murder of his uncle Kishan, therefore, he cannot tell that Santu Yadav was also murdered by using an axe. He also cannot tell as to whether Santu Yadav had given evidence or not and he also does not know as to whether the accused persons were convicted on the evidence of Santu Yadav. Thus, on the one hand, he got the F.I.R. written connecting the incident of the instant case with the said incident of about 19 years back to show the motive and naming the accused of that case and their relations but he does not recollect as to whether Santu Yadav was an accused or witness or not. Even otherwise, his age at the time of his evidence in the trial Court was 30 years, therefore, at the time of aforesaid incident, he must have been around 11 years of age, which also creates doubt that he would have got report written himself.

(38) P.W.2 has also stated that he had got written in the report that lantern was alight outside the house, if it has not been written by Ram Khelawan in the report as stated above, then, he cannot tell the reason for the same, whereas earlier he had stated in the evidence that after the report was written by Ram Khelawan as told by him, the same was read over to him and thereafter he had put his thumb impression. During the evidence also, the said written report was read over to him and thereafter he stated that it was the same report, which was written as told by him. In view of these contradictions and the time lapse in reaching the police station from his in-laws house as stated above, it appears that the report was not written as told by him and also that the report was got written by some one else and in any case, the F.I.R. cannot be said to have been got written by the complainant himself, that too without any consultation and assistance and it may not be an afterthought, but the same was submitted by the complainant before the police station for lodging the F.I.R.

(39) An argument was also raised that Guddu (P.W.2) was not present at the time of alleged incident and he was in his in-laws house from where he went to lodge the F.I.R. The complainant Guddu stated in his examination-in-chief that on the date of incident at about 08:00-09:00 in the night, he was coming out from the house for warming from fire, when the accused persons, Rampal, Shankar, Mishra, Shivram, Shivnath, Desha, Indrapal, Badduan. Ram Singh, Shiv Kumar, Manoj, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas, Ram Prakash, Mewa Lal and 7-8 persons came, who were armed with अद्धी (a short barreled countrymade gun), axe, guns and lathies. At that time, his father Sarju was warming from fire under thatch outside the house. Lantern was alight under the door. The said accused persons fired shot upon his father, who fell down. His brother Chandrika, on hearing the noise of fire, came out of the house, then, 7-8 persons chased him and killed him on dung hill outside the village. Thereafter, he stated as to how other persons were killed, which has been disclosed above. He also stated that after killing his cousin brother Ram Khelawan, they came back and snatched the gold chain and earrings of his sister-in-law Satana and after taking the purses etc. went away. In cross-examination, he stated that after his father was shot, he hid himself near the door. He did not hide outside beside the door, rather he hided himself inside the room beside the door. He further stated that a room is adjacent to the thatch on the back side, under which his father Sarju was warming himself from fire. He remained hid there until the accused persons went away and kept on seeing the incident from there. Thus, his evidence is not consistent and there is contradiction in examination-in-chief and cross-examination. His place of hiding is also contradictory in comparison to site-plan, which has been prepared on his pointing out.

(40) P.W.2-Guddu further stated that he had shown the place of incident to the Inspector. He had not told him that he was hiding in the room in the east side of the house and he could not tell the reason as to how it has been shown by the Inspector. He also stated that he had not told to the Inspector that he was coming out for warming from fire. He further stated that only one shot was fired at his father and remaining shots were fired in the air and thereafter his father was assaulted with axe and in cross-examination, he also stated that when his father was shot, he hid himself, whereas in the F.I.R. and examination-in-chief, he has stated only about a fire and death on account thereof. It shows that there is contradiction in evidence and in view of post-mortem report, he has made improvement. He further stated that he was hiding and the accused persons were searching him. On account of fear, he could not tell anything to his brother Chandrika. When he was outside, his brother Chandrika came out and ran away. He further stated that when accused persons attacked on his father Sarju, he had identified the accused persons. However, he further stated that he could not tell the names of the accused persons who had chased his brother. He could not say whether all the accused persons entered the house or how many of them entered the house. He also could not say how many accused persons were searching for him. All the accused persons were lighting torches and searching all inside the house, therefore, he assumed that they were also searching for him. The other accused persons had killed Mangal and his sister-in-law. He further stated that his nephew Arvind was not sleeping at the time of the incident, rather he was feeding fodder to the buffalo. Outside the house towards the north, there is a thatched shed. A buffalo was tied there and his nephew was feeding it. Arvind was beaten under the thatch in the east side. He further stated that at the time of incident, Arvind was sleeping. He had not shown to the Inspector that Arvind was sleeping on the south inside the house, where he was beaten. He could not tell the reason as to how the Inspector shown in the site plan that his nephew was sleeping and beaten on the South inside the house. He further stated that at the time of incident, four lamps (दिया) were alight inside and one lantern was alight outside. He further stated that one lamp (दिया) was alight in the courtyard (चौके), one in the varandah, one in the room and one under the thatch. He further stated that when Arvind ran from outside towards inside, he had thrown डलिया The accused persons had taken 10-15 minutes in inflcting injuries to his sister-in-law, Mangal and Arvind. He has further stated that when the accused persons came back again after killing Ram Khelawn and committed looting, he was hiding inside the house at the same place. He was hiding on account of fear. The door of his house was not closed. The accused persons had not told for coming back. The accused persons were searching him in the light of torch but he was hiding behind the gunny bags, therefore, they could not see him. He further stated that he had not told the description of any of the accused persons to the Inspector nor disclosed in report. He had not made any conversation with his mother and nephew after accused persons left from the place of the incident. He has further stated that the names of the accused persons, for the first time, got written by him in the report from Ram Khelawan.

(41) In view of above, according to the complainant P.W.2-Guddu, he had seen all the accused persons while he was coming out of the house and he has named 15 persons and stated about 7-8 unknown persons. He also stated that while he was coming out from inside the house, accused persons had killed his father, upon which he hided himself. This Court failed to comprehend that as to how a person could count 23-24 persons in that period, which may have been very short and also identified at least fifteen persons. It is also very unobvious that a person, who hide himself inside a room on the back of gunny bags, could have seen all the incident, whereas the different persons have been killed at different places of house and one person in other house at a distant place i.e. his cousin brother that too in the kind of light shown by him and as to how he came to know that accused persons came back after killing him and till then, he would hid himself. It is not believable that a person, who is hiding himself, would have seen such a number of accused persons snatching the jewellery of his sister-in-law, who was lying somewhere else and going with lot of articles, which appears were kept for some marriage, which has come out of the evidence of witnesses. He has disclosed the relationship of the accused persons with Gajju, who were accused in the murder of his uncle Kishan. Though he stated that Mewalal was accomplice but admitted that there is no enmity with Mewalal and Pritam and his sons. There is contradiction in the place of beating of Arvind in comparison to the statement recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and site plan, which was prepared on his pointing out. Thus, the presence of the complainant P.W.2 at the place of the incident is doubtful. Even if he was present at the place of incident, it cannot be said that he could have seen all the accused persons from the place, where he was hiding himself in a room behind the gunny bags. Thus, the evidence and conduct of the complainant P.W.2-Guddu creates doubt on the prosecution case and truthfulness of his evidence. However, argument in regard to doubt of presence of the complainant at the place of incident has been discarded by learned trial Court on the ground that it is based on imagination, which is not tenable. The learned trial Court also recorded finding that his evidence is consistent and natural on the ground that if on perusing the whole evidence, the truth is inferred, then, on account of any omission in evidence, the deceased persons and injured cannot be punished and the accused would not be benefitted in any manner, whereas in the criminal trial the question of any punishment to the deceased and injured does not arise.

(42) P.W.1-Smt. Agana, wife of Ram Khelawan, has stated that about eight months back, around 8:00-09:00 in the night, she was sleeping inside the house in room and lantern was alight inside the room. When the door of her house was forcefully knocked and noise of firing were heard, she woke up. When accused persons started breaking the door of her house, her husband Ram Khelawan went and sat on the wooden beam (टाड) of the room. When the door was being broken, firing was taking place outside. Shankar, Rampal, Mishri Lal, Shiv Ram, Shiv Nath, Shiv Kumar, Manoj, Desha, Indrapal, Ram Singh, Badduan, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas, Ram Prakash, Mewa Lal, Mansha Ram, son of Mansha Ram, Kunji and Pappu armed with अद्धी (a short barreled countrymade gun), countrymade pistol, axe, lathi, danda, entered into her house. These persons pushed down her husband from the beam and then they started assaulting her husband with axes, lathi and danda. Her husband died. She recognized the accused persons present in trial Court. From there, accused persons went towards the house of Guddu. In this incident, Satana wife of Chandrika, Chandrika, her father-in-law Sarju and Mangal died. Accused persons went shouting and firing.

(43) The evidence of P.W.1-Smt. Agana raises serious doubt about her presence and evidence because she states that the aforesaid 18 persons entered into her room, which, according to her, was about 5 to 6 hands long and 5 to 6 hands wide. This Court fails to comprehend that eighteen persons can come in such a small room and a young lady like P.W.1-Smt. Agana can recognize all of them with their names, particularly when according to her, all eighteen persons had covered their faces with towel, even if they were known to her, which although has not been stated by her. She has also stated that after her husband was killed, she had not gone out to see as to what happened because she was having her problem but she went to his parents house in the next morning to inform about the incident, where she met to her brother as her parents had already died and she stayed there for two days and on the 3rd day, she directly went to mortuary along with her brother, where she came to know that names of the aforesaid persons have been written in the F.I.R.. Thus, P.W.1-Smt. Agana, for the first time, came to know the names of persons, who were alleged to have been involved in the incident on the 3rd day of the incident in mortuary. The incident is of the intervening night of 11/12.02.2021. Hence, according to her, she went to parents house in the morning of 12.02.2021 and would have gone to mortuary on 14.02.2021, whereas the post-mortem of the deceased persons were performed in the evening of 12.02.2021, therefore, the question of dead bodies of the deceased persons lying at mortuary on 3rd day of the incident and presence of relatives, there would not arise and it cannot be believed also because once the post-mortem was conducted, the dead bodies must have been received by the family members for cremation and the cremation must have been done on the same day or next day. It is highly improbable that a young lady, whose husband has been killed in such a massacre would leave the dead body of her husband and go to the parents house and stay there for two days, leaving dead body of her husband.

(44) P.W.2-Smt. Agana also stated that food was prepared at 07:00-08:00 in the evening on the date of the incident. The food, which was prepared in the noon, was eaten at 04:00-05:00 in the evening. The food, which was prepared in the evening, was eaten by the children and they had not taken the food. In this regard, the contention was raised by learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants that it has deliberately been stated in the evidence after knowing the post-mortem report. Looking to the conduct and kind of evidence of P.W.2-Smt. Agana, the possibility of it cannot be ruled out.

(45) In regard to the source of light in the examination-in-chief, P.W.1-Smt. Agana stated that lantern was alight inside the room, whereas in the cross-examination, she stated that lantern was hanging on hook (खूंटी) outside the room and its beam just above the door, on which her husband was sitting. Therefore, there is contradiction in her statement in regard to the source of light in her room, as, if the lantern was outside the room, it cannot be accepted that she would have recognized the persons who entered into her room because while they entered in her room, light must have been on their back and as per her evidence, all the persons had got their faces covered with towel (अंगोछा) and only their mouth and eyes were blinking. She also stated that to save her husband, she had fallen on him, on account of which, her bangles in the hands were broken, therefore, she had suffered injuries and blood had oozed out. When she had fallen on her husband, the accused persons had beaten her with lathies on her back, on account of which, she had suffered injuries and blood had also come on her clothes, but neither broken bangles nor the blood stained clothes of P.W.1-Smt. Agana have been recovered, whereas she had stated that she had given it to the Inspector and he had taken away the same, whereas earlier she stated that in the morning, she had gone to parents house to inform and stayed there, therefore, she would not have present at least at the time, when the Inspector had come in morning.

(46) On perusal of record, it transpires that there is no medical examination report of P.W.1-Smt. Agana. If the bangles of P.W.1 were broken and if she was beaten by lathies on her back by such large number of persons, she should have suffered serious injuries. She had also stated that after husband was murdered, she had not gone out to see other deceased persons, which is not conduct of a normal person, because normally such a lady would have gone out shouting for help. The injuries of Ram Khelawan were also not commensurate to her evidence because she stated that her husband was beaten by axes, lathi and danda but there was no injury of lathi and danda. The aforesaid evidence of P.W.1 shows that this witness is not telling the truth. There are material contradictions in her evidence and her evidence is neither consistent nor believable. Thus, either she was not present at the place of incident or she is telling lie and hiding the truth. The learned trial Court even after considering contradictions in her evidence, records a finding that her evidence is consistent, completely natural and believable in totality of evidence without any basis and merely on the ground that the Counsels have not followed the rules of cross-examination and law, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law because the effect of contradictions have not been considered, which we have considered.

(47) P.W.3-Arvind stated that it was about eight months back around 08:00-09:00 in the night when he was feeding fodder to the buffalo. Rampal, Shankar, Mishra alias Mishri Lal, Shiv Ram, Shiv Nath, Desha, Indrapal, Ram Singh, Babbuan, Shiv Kumar, Manoj, Ram Kumar, Ram Vilas, Ram Prakash, Pappu, Mewa Lal, Mansha Ram and son of Mansha Ram Kunji, who were present in Court, came. They all were armed with अद्धी (a short barreled countrymade gun), lathi, axe and gun. His grandfather Sarju was warming from fire under thatch. Rampal fired a shot at his grandfather Sarju, then, his father Chandrika, on account of fear, ran shouting outside the house. 7-8 persons chased him and some of the accused persons entered into his house. His father was killed on dung hill at some distance from the village. The accused persons, who had entered into his house, killed his mother Satana and his uncle Mangal. Thereafter, accused persons started searching here and there in the light of torch. He was hiding inside the house on the southern side, however, accused searched him and assaulted him with the butt of अद्धी (a short barreled countrymade gun) and axe. He sustained injury. After assaulting him, the accused persons said Let us go to kill Ram Khelawan and by saying this, they went towards the house of Ram Khelawan. He further stated that lantern was alight in front of his house under the thatched roof and inside the house also, चिराग (lamp) was alight. Subsequently, he came to know that accused persons have killed Ram Khelawan. Thereafter, the accused persons returned and took away his mother□s gold chain, silver earrings and four purses, four boxes etc. He further stated that his injuries were not seen by doctor. Thereafter, he stated that he had come to Uma Shankar Government Hospital, Unnao, where his injuries were examined and he remained admitted in that hospital for twenty days. His statement was recorded after returning from hospital by the police officer.

(48) The evidence of P.W.3-Arvind shows that he was also chased by 7-8 accused persons, who had beaten him, in which he suffered serious injuries and fell unconscious. It is very strange that a child of the family was beaten by the accused persons, but no effort was made by any body for providing first aid to him throughout the night. It is also very strange that the said accused persons, who had killed five persons of the family, left P.W.3 only after beating and he also had not suffered injuries commensurate to the beating by 7-8 persons shown by him. The medical examination of P.W.3 was conducted on 12.02.2021 at 09:00 A.M. P.W.2 stated that when after lodging the F.I.R., he reached back along with Inspector to the spot, then, P.W.3-Arvind was sent for medical examination by the police by Jeep, however, no letter in this regard for medical examination of P.W.3 is on record. However, the medical examination of P.W.3 indicates that he was brought by Constable for medical examination. P.W.3 also stated in his evidence that he was admitted in hospital for 20 days and after discharge from hospital, his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer, whereas there is no report in regard to his admission in hospital, which may indicate that he was admitted for twenty days in Hospital after the aforesaid incident. Thus, it appears that P.W.3 has also not told the truth. This Court fails to comprehend that P.W.3-Arvind, who was a child of about 11 years at the time to incident, would have been left alive by persons, who committed such a massacre, in which they killed five persons of a family, but he has not suffered injuries commensurate to it. The learned trial Court recorded similar finding, as in regard to P.W.1 and P.W.2, in regard to this witness also for accepting his evidence without considering aforesaid aspect, even after recording, therefore, the same is not sustainable.

(49) An argument was also raised on behalf of the appellants that it is very strange that around eighteen named accused persons and 7-8 unknown accused persons were seen by these three prosecution witnesses and they recognized them in the dark of the night, when there was no source of light. The unknown persons could also not been traced and booked.

(50) The aforesaid testimony of P.W.2 and P.W.3 indicates that there was a lantern at the door of the house and there were lamps (दिया) in the house at different places, which does not seem to be sufficient for recognizing such large number of assailants by them from the places, they were hiding. There is contradiction in the evidence of P.W.1 in regard to source or light at the door or inside her room, where she had seen such large number of persons and her husband was killed by the accused persons.

(51) In view of above, the evidence of all the three witnesses of fact raises serious doubts about their evidence and presence and prosecution case. The other witnesses are formal witnesses and the case hinges on the ocular evidence of three witnesses of fact i.e. P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3. Therefore even if there may be any laxity in the investigation, post-mortem, preparation of site plan etc, the prosecution case would have no adverse effect, if the ocular evidence is consistent and intact in support of prosecution, but if the presence of eye-witnesses at the place of incident becomes doubtful or even not trustworthy on the ground that they could not have seen the incident in the manner as described by them, the conviction on that basis cannot sustain. They are also family members and no independent witness has been produced and the evidence of aforesaid witnesses does not inspire confidence.

(52) Upon considering the evidence and material on record, it is apparent that eye-witnesses have stated that on account of fear and terror created by accused persons, no body came out, whereas as per F.I.R., the villagers had come and recognized the accused persons, but none has been produced. It is true that family members would not implicate the innocent persons and leave the actual culprits, but in the present case, the implication is on the ground of enmity due to earlier murders, as discussed above, otherwise, the same would not have shown in the F.I.R. and evidence of the prosecution witnesses, therefore, the said enmity should have been proved with cogent evidence, which the prosecution has failed to do. P.W.2, complainant laid great emphasis on it. He also disclosed the relationship of the accused persons accordingly but failed to show that the said enmity still persisted and on account of the said incident of 19 years back, accused persons could have committed such a massacre, whereas he had admitted that there was no enmity with the accused Mewalal and Preetam and his sons, but they have also been implicated. It is also very strange that if Mewalal was an accomplice of the accused persons without any enmity, even then he and one of the accused Ram Vilas would stay at home in the vicinity in the village because according to P.W.2, the police had arrested them on the very next day after lodging of the F.I.R. by the Inspector, when he had come with him, whereas, according to Investigating Officer, they were arrested from somewhere else, when they were about to flee but no money was recovered from them. Thus, there is major contradiction in arrest of at least two accused persons. The prosecution has also failed to prove the recovery and connect the cartridges etc. with the crime. No evidence of fire has been found at the place, where Sarju was killed, from which he would have been warming.

(53) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Haribhau and others Vs. the State of Maharashtra (supra), has considered the scope of Section 149 of the Indian Penal Code and observed that it is not necessary for each member of the unlawful assembly to have committed a specific overt act. Once participation and sharing of the common object are proved, every member becomes vicariously liable for offences committed in prosecution of that object Similar view was taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Lalji and others Vs. State of U.P. (supra) and Masalti and others Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (supra).

(54) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Naresh and others (supra), has held that the evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness, thus, his presence cannot be doubted and evidence of injured witness should be relied upon unless there are grounds for the rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein. The relevant paragraphs 23 and 25 are extracted here-in-below :-

23. The High Court has disbelieved Balak Ram (PW.5), who had suffered the gun shot injuries. His evidence could not have been brushed aside by the High Court without assigning cogent reasons. Mere contradictions on trivial matters could not render his deposition untrustworthy.

The evidence of an injured witness must be given due weightage being a stamped witness, thus, his presence cannot be doubted. His statement is generally considered to be very reliable and it is unlikely that he has spared the actual assailant in order to falsely implicate someone else. The testimony of an injured witness has its own relevancy and efficacy as he has sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence and this lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence. Thus, the testimony of an injured witness is accorded a special status in law. The witness would not like or want to let his actual assailant go unpunished merely to implicate a third person falsely for the commission of the offence. Thus, the evidence of the injured witness should be relied upon unless there are grounds for the rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein. [Vide: Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab, (2009) 9 SCC 719; Balraje @ Trimbak v. State of Maharashtra, (2010) 6 SCC 673; and Abdul Sayed v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2010) 10 SCC 259].

25. In all criminal cases, normal discrepancies are bound to occur in the depositions of witnesses due to normal errors of observation, namely, errors of memory due to lapse of time or due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of occurrence. Where the omissions amount to a contradiction, creating a serious doubt about the truthfulness of the witness and other witnesses also make material improvement while deposing in the court, such evidence cannot be safe to rely upon. However, minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters which do not affect the core of the prosecution case, should not be made a ground on which the evidence can be rejected in its entirety. The court has to form its opinion about the credibility of the witness and record a finding as to whether his deposition inspires confidence."Exaggerations per se do not render the evidence brittle. But it can be one of the factors to test credibility of the prosecution version, when the entire evidence is put in a crucible for being tested on the touchstone of credibility."

Therefore, mere marginal variations in the statements of a witness cannot be dubbed as improvements as the same may be elaborations of the statement made by the witness earlier. The omissions which amount to contradictions in material particulars i.e. go to the root of the case/materially affect the trial or core of the prosecution's case, render the testimony of the witness liable to be discredited. [Vide: State Represented by Inspector of Police v. Saravanan & Anr., AIR 2009 SC 152; Arumugam v. State, AIR 2009 SC 331; Mahendra Pratap Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2009) 11 SCC 334; and Dr. Sunil Kumar Sambhudayal Gupta & Ors. v. State of Maharashtra, JT 2010 (12) SC 287].

(55) The Hon'ble Supreme Court has considered about the ocular evidence account and testimony of injured witness in the case of Om Pal and others vs. State of U.P. (Now State of Uttarakhand) (supra). The relevant paragraphs 33 and 35 are extracted here-in-below :-

33. The present case before us is not the one based on circumstantial evidence, but is based on ocular evidence. Time and again this Court has held that ocular evidence is the best evidence unless there are reasons to doubt it. This Court in Shahaja alias Shahajan Ismail Mohd. Shaikh(supra) held thus:

30. To put it simply, in assessing the value of the evidence of the eyewitnesses, two principal considerations are whether, in the circumstances of the case, it is possible to believe their presence at the scene of occurrence or in such situations as would make it possible for them to witness the facts deposed to by them and secondly, whether there is anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence. In respect of both these considerations, the circumstances either elicited from those witnesses themselves or established by other evidence tending to improbabilise their presence or to discredit the veracity of their statements, will have a bearing upon the value which a court would attach to their evidence. Although in cases where the plea of the accused is a mere denial, yet the evidence of the prosecution witnesses has to be examined on its own merits, where the accused raise a definite plea or puts forward a positive case which is inconsistent with that of the prosecution, the nature of such plea or case and the probabilities in respect of it will also have to be taken into account while assessing the value of the prosecution evidence.

31. There is nothing palpable or glaring in the evidence of the two eyewitnesses on the basis of which we can take the view that they are not true or reliable eyewitnesses. Few contradictions in the form of omissions here or there is not sufficient to discard the entire evidence of the eyewitnesses.

35. It is settled that the testimony of an injured eyewitness is accorded a special status in law. As being a stamped witness, his presence cannot be doubted. The testimony of an injured eyewitness has its own relevancy as he has sustained injuries at the time and place of occurrence and this lends support to his testimony that he was present during the occurrence. Thus, the testimony of the injured eyewitness should be generally given due importance unless there are glaring contradictions.

(56) In the aforesaid case, it has also been held that merely non-recovery of weapon of assault is not fatal to the case of the prosecution as has been in the instant case, where recovery of weapon of assault has been found illegal, in which the accused persons have been acquitted for the offence under Section 3/25 of the Arms Act and the same has not been challenged either by the State or the complainant.

(57) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Dalip Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab (supra), has dealt about the veracity of the evidence of closed relatives. Paragraph-26 is extracted here-in-below :-

26. We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the High Court that the testimony of the two eyewitnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rule. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this court endeavoured to dispel in Rameshwar v. The State of Rajasthan: [1952] S.C.R. 377 at 390. We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel.

(58) The Hon□ble Supreme Court, in the case of Baban Shankar Daphal and others Vs. The State of Maharashtra (Supra), also dealt with the interested or related witnesses. The relevant paragraphs-28 and 29 are extracted here-in-below :-

28. In criminal cases, the credibility of witnesses, particularly those who are close relatives of the victim, is often scrutinized. However, being a relative does not automatically render a witness interested or biased. The term interested refers to witnesses who have a personal stake in the outcome, such as a desire for revenge or to falsely implicate the accused due to enmity or personal gain. A related witness, on the other hand, is someone who may be naturally present at the scene of the crime, and their testimony should not be dismissed simply because of their relationship to the victim. Courts must assess the reliability, consistency, and coherence of their statements rather than labelling them as untrustworthy.

29. The distinction between interested and related witnesses has been clarified in Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab; 1954 SCR 14, where this Court emphasized that a close relative is usually the last person to falsely implicate an innocent person. Therefore, in evaluating the evidence of a related witness, the court should focus on the consistency and credibility of their testimony. This approach ensures that the evidence is not discarded merely due to familial ties, but is instead assessed based on its inherent reliability and consistency with other evidence in the case. This position has been reiterated by this Court in:

i. Md. Rojali Ali v. The State of Assam Ministry of Home Affairs through secretary; (2019) 19 SCC 567

ii. Ganapathi v State of T.N.; (2018) 5 SCC 549

iii. Jayabalan v Union Territory of Pondicherry; (2010) 1 SCC 199

(59) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Nanje Gowda Vs. State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police (supra), has held that there is no absolute rule that the evidence of related witnesses has to be corroborated by the evidence of independent witnesses, it would be trite in law to have independent witnesses when the evidence of related eye-witnesses is found to be incredible and not trustworthy. The relevant paragraphs 25 and 25-A are extracted herein-in-below :-

25. It is to be noted that all the eyewitnesses were relatives and the prosecution failed to adduce reliable evidence of independent witnesses for the incident which took place on a public road in the broad day light. Although there is no absolute rule that the evidence of related witnesses has to be corroborated by the evidence of independent witnesses, it would be trite in law to have independent witnesses when the evidence of related eyewitnesses is found to be incredible and not trustworthy. The minor variations and contradictions in the evidence of eyewitnesses will not tilt the benefit of doubt in favor of the accused but when the contradictions in the evidence of prosecution witnesses proves to be fatal to the prosecution case then those contradictions go to the root of the matter and in such cases accused gets the benefit of doubt.

25A. It is the duty of the Court to consider the trustworthiness of evidence on record. As said by Benthem, witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice. In the facts on hand, we feel that the evidence of these witnesses is filled with discrepancies, contradictions and Page□21 21 improbable versions which draws us to the irresistible conclusion that the evidence of these witnesses cannot be a basis to convict the accused.

(60) Similar view was taken in regard to interested witnesses in the case of Gangabhavani Vs. Rayapati Venkat Reddy and others (supra), Md. Jabbar Ali and others Vs. State of Assam (supra), Periyasamy Vs. The State Rep. By the Inspector of Police (supra) and Sucha Singh and others Vs. State of Punjab (supra), in which it has also been held that □exaggerated devotion to the rule of doubt must not nurture fanciful doubts or lingering suspicion and thereby destroy social defence. Justice cannot be made sterile on the plea that it is better to let hundred guilty escape than punish an innocent. Letting guilty escape is not doing justice according to law.

(61) The Hon□ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ram Singh Versus State of Uttar Pradesh (supra), has held that □When there is direct eye witness account which is found to be credible, omission to obtain ballistic report and non- examination of ballistic expert may not be fatal to the prosecution case but if the evidence tendered including that of eyewitnesses do not inspire confidence or suffer from glaring inconsistencies coupled with omission to examine material witnesses, the omission to seek ballistic opinion and examination of the ballistic expert may be fatal to the prosecution case but if the evidence tendered including that of eyewitnesses do not inspire confidence or suffer from glaring inconsistencies coupled with omission to examine material witnesses, the omission to seek ballistic opinion and examination of the ballistic expert may be fatal to the prosecution case.

(62) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Pruthiviraj Jayantibhai Vanoi Vs. Dinesh Dayabhai Vala and others (Supra), has held that Ocular evidence is considered the best evidence unless there are reasons to doubt it and it is only in a case where there is a gross contradiction between medical evidence and oral evidence, and the medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable and rules out all possibility of ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved.

(63) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Digamber Vaishnav and another Vs. State of Chhattisgarh (supra), has held that It is also well-settled principle that in criminal cases, if two views are possible on evidence adduced in the case, one binding to the guilt of the accused and the other is to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused, should be adopted. This principle has a special relevance in cases wherein the guilt of the accused is sought to be established by circumstantial evidence. The relevant paragraphs 15 and 19 are extracted here-in-below :-

15. One of the fundamental principles of criminal jurisprudence is undeniably that the burden of proof squarely rests on the prosecution and that the general burden never shifts. There can be no conviction on the basis of surmises and conjectures or suspicion howsoever grave it may be. Strong suspicion, strong coincidences and grave doubt cannot take the place of legal proof. The onus of the prosecution cannot be discharged by referring to very strong suspicion and existence of highly suspicious factors to inculpate the accused nor falsity of defence could take the place of proof which the prosecution has to establish in order to succeed, though a false plea by the defence at best, be considered as an additional circumstance, if other circumstances unfailingly point to the guilt.

19. It is also well-settled principle that in criminal cases, if two views are possible on evidence adduced in the case, one binding to the guilt of the accused and the other is to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused, should be adopted. This principle has a special relevance in cases wherein the guilt of the accused is sought to be established by circumstantial evidence [See Kali Ram v. State of Himachal Pradesh, (1973) 2 SCC 808].

(64) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ravasaheb and others Vs. State of Karnataka (supra), has observed that It is stated that it is the quality and not the quantity of the witnesses that matters. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further enumerated the principles essential for consideration of criminal cases. In regard to Testimony of a close relative, Hon'ble Supreme Court in paragraph-17.4 has observed that A witness being a close relative is not a ground enough to reject his testimony. Mechanical rejection of an even partisan or interested witness may lead to failure of justice. The principle of falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus is not one of general application. In regard to Preponderance of probabilities, Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that to entitle a person to the benefit of a doubt arising from a duality of views, the possible view in favour of the accused must be as nearly reasonable probable as that against him

(65) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Tahsildar Singh and Others Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh (Supra), has considered about the cross-examination, which is not much relevant in the present case under the facts and circumstances of the case.

(66) Adverting to the facts of the present case and the judgment passed by learned trial Court, we find that learned trial Court, after recording the facts and arguments in regard to the false implication, has recorded a finding that there is no force in the arguments of learned Counsel for the accused that the occurrence were committed by any other persons. This finding has been recorded without any reason or independent finding in support thereof. Thus, it is apparent that learned trial Court proceeded thereafter on the basis of assumption that the incident has been committed by the appellants only. Once the Court proceeds on this assumption, after recording categorical finding in this regard, then, it would certainly ignore or reject the contentions regarding innocence for one or other reasons, as the Court would have to justify its finding of involvement of accused persons in the incident recorded by it in the beginning without examining the evidence. In such circumstances, the impugned judgment and order vitiates on this ground alone.

(67) We also find that findings have been recorded by the learned trial Court on the basis of presumption and assumption. In regard to the source of light, learned trial Court has recorded that the incident is of between 08:00-09:00 in the night and it would be ludicrous to presume that if the light of lantern, chirag, diya or dibri would not be in the homes, then, there would be no source of light. It has further been recorded that lantern was alight in the house. It is not unnatural from any angle and besides it witnesses knew and recognize the accused persons since prior to the incident, therefore, it cannot be said that there would be any mistake in naming the accused persons but learned trial Court has failed to consider that the source of light and manner in which the witnesses have said to have recognized the accused persons as discussed above is not sufficient to record a finding that accused persons/appellants could have been recognized by the witnesses and there is no evidence that they knew them from earlier. Even if they knew them from earlier, this Court is of the view that they could not have been recognized in such light and source of light from where it was coming, when they had covered their faces also and P.W.2 and P.W.3, who were hiding, could also not have seen the incident committed at different places and at different houses from the place of their hiding. P.W.1 has given contrary statement in regard to the source of light, in which recognition of the accused persons is doubtful. Even otherwise, if the finding of learned trial Court is taken to be correct and accused persons were known to the witnesses from earlier, the case of false implication in the facts and circumstances of the case cannot be ruled out. Thus, this Court is of the view that the learned trial Court failed to consider and appreciate the evidence appropriately and recorded the findings to convict the appellants only because it was a case of five murders and the appellants were named.

(68) It is also noticed that three accused persons, Mansa Ram, Pappu and Kunji Ram, were not named in the F.I.R. but the charge-sheet was filed against them, but, learned trial Court acquitted them on the ground that since they were not named in the F.I.R. but the charge-sheet was filed against them, they cannot be convicted even if witnesses have given evidence against them because even if the involvement of such accused persons may be imagined in a concealed manner, it would not be safe to convict them and they are entitled to benefit of doubt. If this finding of learned trial Court is taken to be correct, then merely because the appellants, who were named in the F.I.R., could also not have been convicted and would be entitled to benefit of doubt, because if, on same set of evidence, certain persons can be acquitted merely because they were not named, the named accused persons cannot be convicted. However, on account of tainted investigation and laxity on the part of investigating agency, the actual culprits could not be booked.

(69) In view of above and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the view that the findings recorded by learned trial Court are not tenable in the eyes of law and the appellants are also entitled for benefit of doubt and the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court is liable to be set-aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted.

(70) The appeals succeed and are allowed. The impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 18th December, 2004, passed by the learned trial Court, is hereby set aside. The appellants are acquitted. They shall be released forthwith, unless they are required to be detained in connection with any other matter.

(71) Let a copy of this order as well as trial Court's record be transmitted to the Court concerned forthwith and in any case within ten days from today for information and compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 492 of 1982

Ram Narain & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal against a conviction where the accused reportedly surrounded and assaulted the deceased Ram Shankar in a field near village Patkhauli, resulting in his death.

Headnotes

A. Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302, 34, 147, 148, 149-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)- Murder-common intention –Appellant along with deceased co-accused assaulted victim with lathis and farsa due to prior enmity-Eye-witness testimony of injured witness and others found consistent and reliable-Medical evidence showing multiple fractures and incised wounds corroborating use of alleged weapons-Non-recovery of weapons held not fatal to prosecution case where ocular evidence is cogent-Statements of accused recorded on old proforma is a procedural irregularity-mere use of incorrect proforma does not vitiate trial unless "failure of justice" or "prejudice" is proved-Non-compliance with technicalities of section 313 CrPC is a curable irregularity-Relationship of witnesses to deceased is not ground for discarding testimony if the testimony is found natural and consistent-Injuries including fractures and incised looking wounds on tense body structures, were consistent with the brutal assault described by eye-witnesses-Conviction of surviving appellants under section 302/34 affirmed.(Para 29 to 58)

Held

The court ruled that where ocular evidence is cogent and provides a clear account of assault, minor discrepancies between the weapon used and the nature of injury do not undermine the prosecution's case.

furthermore, the non-recovery of the weapon of offence is not fatal when the eye-witness accounts are found to be reliable and are corroborated by the post-mortem findings. The court found no illegality or infirmity in the findings of the Trial court, the conviction and life imprisonment sentence are upheld. (E-6)

Adv. for Respondent(s):-
G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

(1) Heard Sri Rajendra Prasad Mishra, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Arunendra, learned A.G.A. for the State.

(2) The instant Criminal Appeal under Section 374(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (here-in-after referred as Cr.P.C.) has been filed against the judgment and order dated 18.06.1982 passed by learned IInd-Additional Sessions Judge, Gonda in Sessions Trial No.209 of 1979, arising out of F.I.R./Crime No.71 of 1979, under Sections 147, 148, 149, 302 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (here-in-after referred as I.P.C.), Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Gonda, whereby the appellants have been convicted and sentenced under Section 302/34 I.P.C. for life imprisonment.

(3) The case of the prosecution, in short, as disclosed in the F.I.R. (Ex. Ka-2), is that one Devi Prasad son of Samai Deen got registered a case of murder in December, 1978 against complainant of the present case, namely Rajendra Prasad and his deceased uncle Ram Shanker at Police Station Kotwali City, District Gonda, wherein both i.e. the complainant Rajendra Prasad and his uncle Ram Shanker were bailed out. It is alleged that on account of the said case, Ram Narain son of Samai Deen was keeping much enmity with them. It has further been stated that on 08.03.1979 at 08:00 AM, the complainant Rajendra Prasad and his uncle Ram Shanker headed for Village Khamariha, where his uncle Ram Shanker has his cultivation. At 10:30 AM they reached in Village Khamariha and after seeing the work of cultivation, they proceeded at about 02:00 PM from Village Khamariha to Village Madadeva and when they reached Village Salpur (Sajpur) at about 03:00 PM, Gur Charan Kori of his village met them. The complainant Rajendra Prasad, his uncle Ram Shanker and Gur Charan Kori were coming on foot. At about 04:00 PM, on the road in front of Village Patkhauli, the accused Ram Narain son of Samai Deen, Janendri son of Lalta Prasad, Ram Phere son of Lalta Prasad, Resident of Village Mahadeva, Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Gonda, Naiyer son of Ram Anuj R/o Village Gaura, Police Station Mankapur, District Gonda, who is son-in-law of Samai Deen and Ram Uggar son of Mata Prasad R/o Village Pathkauli, Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Gonda, armed with lathi, ballam and farsa, came out from field of Arhar crop, located at west side of the road, and chased them with intention to assault. Ram Uggar shouted to kill them. In the meantime, five accused persons surrounded Ram Shanker at about 100 gaj on the eastern side of the road and started assaulting him, therefore, the complainant, Rajendra Prasad raised alarm, on which Laxmi Prasad son of Amrica Prasad R/o Village Pipri and Bhikham Datt R/o Village Dhanauli, who were passing from the road, came running and scolded, on which the accused fled away towards the east. It has also been stated in the report that the complainant alongwith Gur Charan Kori went towards Ram Shanker and found that Ram Shanker had died on account of injuries sustained by him and, thereafter, leaving Gur Charan and others near the dead body, he has come for information, therefore, report may be written and appropriate action may be taken. Accordingly, on the basis of written report (Ex. Ka-2), the F.I.R. was lodged at Police Station Kotwali (Dehat), District Gonda at 18:45 hours on 08.03.1979 vide Chik F.I.R. (Ex. Ka-5), under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 I.P.C. and the same was registered in G.D. at Serial No.32 (Ex. Ka-6).

(4) Investigation of the case was entrusted to Sub Inspector B.N. Singh (P.W.-6). He recorded the statement of complainant at the Police Station itself and then went to the place of occurrence at 10:30 PM. However, inquest proceedings could not be held for want of source of light in the night and, accordingly, it was held in the following morning. The Investigating Officer also prepared diagram of the dead body, challan of the dead body and letter to C.M.O. He also recovered blood-stained and plain soil from the place of occurrence and prepared memo of the dead body. The dead body was sealed in a cloth and sent for post mortem. He then prepared the site plan. He searched for the accused with no result. Further investigation of the case was taken up by the S.O.

(5) Dr. Y. N. Pathak; P.W.-1 conducted the post mortem of the dead body of the deceased and prepared post mortem report on 09.03.1979. The Investigating Officer, after recording the statements and completion of the investigation, submitted charge sheet. The case was committed to sessions on 07.08.1979. The Sessions Court framed charges under Sections 147 and 302/149 I.P.C. on 28.01.1980. The accused persons pleaded not guilty to the charges and claimed to be tried.

(6) In order to prove its case, the prosecution produced Dr. Y. N. Pathak as P.W.-1, Complainant Rajendra Prasad as P.W.-2, Gur Charan as P.W.-3, Bhikam Dutt as P.W.-4, Mohd. Umar as P.W.-5 and I.O. Brij Narain Singh as P.W.-6 and Government Finger Print Expert Shiv Mangal Pandey was examined as C.W.-1 and Nanhu as C.W.-2.

(7) The prosecution also produced and proved the post mortem report as Ex. Ka-1, written F.I.R. as Ex. Ka-2, receipt and counter foil regarding purchase of cattle as Ex. Ka-3 & Ex. Ka-4, chik F.I.R. as Ex. Ka-5, G.D. of registration of case as Ex. Ka-6, inquest report as Ex. Ka-7, diagram of dead body as Ex. Ka-8, challan as Ex. Ka-9, letter to C.M.O. as Ex. Ka.10, memorandum of blood stained and plain soil as Ex. Ka-11, site plan as Ex. Ka-12, extract of Khatauni of deceased Ram Shanker as Ex. Ka-13 and receipt as Ex. Ka-14 in documentary evidences. The prosecution also produced sweater etc. of the deceased as Material Ex. 1 to 8 and blood stained and plain soil of earth as Material Ex. 9 & 10. C.W.-1 has also proved his expert report and cognate papers as Ex. C-1 to C-8.

(8) The defence produced extract of statement of P.W.-1 as Ex. Kha-1, affidavit of Rajendra Prasad etc. as Ex. Kha-1(A) to Kha-4 and expert's reports etc. as Ex. Kha-5 to Kha-9, copy of charge sheet as Ex. Kha-10, copy of statement of Ram Shanker as Ex. Kha-11 and police report under Sections 107/116 Cr.P.C. as Ex. Kha-12.

(9) The trial Court, after affording opportunity of hearing to the learned Government Counsel as well as learned counsel for the defence, passed the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence. Hence, this appeal has been filed on behalf of the appellant No.1; Ram Narain, appellant No.2; Gyanendri (Janendri), appellant No.3; Ram Pher and appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra.

(10) During pendency of this appeal, the appellant No.2; Gyanendri (Janendri) and the appellant No.3; Ram Pher died, therefore, the appeal on their behalf abated. Hence this appeal survives only on behalf of the appellant No.1; Ram Narain and the appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra.

(11) Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the appellants have been convicted and sentenced by the impugned judgment and order without considering the evidence and material on record appropriately. He further submitted that there are contradictions in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, presence of the P.W.-2 and P.W.-4 i.e. complainant on the spot is doubtful, there is material contradiction in the testimony of P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and C.W.-1. He further submitted that the P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and C.W.-1 are of one village and they are interested witness. He further submitted that injuries does not tally with the alleged weapon used in the crime and the post mortem report also does not support the prosecution case. He further submitted that the signatures on the receipt of purchase of Ox are not tallied either in the report of the hand writing expert submitted by the appellants or in the report of the Government Hand Writing Expert, who appeared as court witness. He further submitted that as per prosecution story, Ram Pher and Gyanendri were armed with farsa, Ram Uggar and Naiyer with lathi and Ram Narain with bhala in their hands. The learned trial Court has acquitted the Naiyer giving benefit of doubt, therefore, Ram Uggar is also entitled to be acquitted on the benefit of doubt but the learned trial Court failed to consider it and convicted him also. He also submitted that the aunt/chachi of the deceased Ram Shanker, who was material witness, has not been examined. He further submitted that the trial vitiated on account of non application of mind because the statement of the accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has been recorded under the old Cr.P.C. i.e. under Section 364 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898. He further submitted that the evidence was closed in the trial Court on 03.05.1981 and since the judgment was not pronounced by the Presiding Officer, who has passed the impugned judgment and order, even after fixing several dates for judgment, therefore, an application was moved before this Court i.e. High Court for transfer of the case and the case was transferred by means of the order dated 05.10.1981 to the Court of Second Additional District and Session Judge and in the meantime, the said Presiding Officer had assumed the charge of Second Additional District and Session Judge and he passed the impugned judgment and order, whereas when the case was transferred by this Court from his Court on a transfer application, he could not have decided it, therefore, the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

(12) On the basis of above, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellants are liable to be acquitted. He relied on Anil Phukan Vs. State of Assam; AIR 1993 SC 1462, State of Karnataka Vs. Babu and Others; AIR 1994 SC 31, Suresh Rai and Others Vs. State of Bihar; AIR 2000 SC 2207, Surendra Koli Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh & Another; Curative Petition (Crl.) No..... of 2025 @ Diary No.49297 of 2025 in R.P. (Crl.) No.395/2014 in Crl. A. No.2227 of 2010, Indrakunwar Vs. The State of Chhattisgarh; 2023 LiveLaw (SC) 932, Kalicharan & Ors. Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh; 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 1027 and Reena Hazarika Vs. State of Assam; (2019) 13 SCC 289.

(13) Per contra, learned A.G.A. submitted that the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence has rightly been passed by the learned trial Court in accordance with law. He further submitted that the F.I.R. was lodged promptly and merely because there are minor contradictions in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and the Court witnesses, it cannot be said that their testimony is not reliable. He further submitted that the post mortem report corroborates the prosecution case and there was strong motive. He further submitted that the fact of sale of Ox was raised by the defence and in this regard an affidavit was also filed, which was sealed immediately. He further submitted that recording of statement of the appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on the proforma of old Act can be an irregularity but not an illegality, on account of which, the trial may be said to have vitiated.

(14) On the basis of above, learned A.G.A. submitted that the appellants have rightly been convicted and sentenced by the impugned judgment and order, which has been passed by a reasoned and speaking order. It has also been submitted that the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the appellants that even after transfer of the case to the Court of Second Additional District and Session Judge from the Court of the Presiding Officer, who has passed the impugned order, he could not have passed the order and the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside, is misconceived and not tenable for the reason, firstly, no such order has been produced and the same was considered by the trial Court and after passing an order, trial was decided, which was not challenged. Secondly, learned counsel for the appellants also failed to show any prejudice caused to the appellants on account of it. Thus, learned A.G.A. submitted that the appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds and none of the contentions of learned counsel for the appellants are sustainable. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

(15) We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(16) One of the grounds of challenge to the impugned judgment and order is that even after closure of evidence on 03.05.1981, since the judgment was not pronounced by the Presiding Officer of the concerned Court, which was being held by the Officer, who has passed the impugned judgment and order at that time, therefore, an application was moved before this Court for transfer of the case and the case was transferred by means of the order dated 05.10.1981 by this Court to the Court of Second Additional District and Session Judge and in the meantime, the said Presiding Officer had assumed the charge of Second Additional District and Session Judge, therefore, in view of the order passed by this Court, he could not have decided the case. However, the order passed by this Court is neither available in the Trial Court's record nor the same has been produced by learned counsel for the appellants.

(17) On perusal of the Trial Court's record, it is found that on 13.05.1981, the evidence of C.W.-1 was recorded and the case was fixed for arguments on 28.05.1981. Thereafter some dates were fixed for arguments. On 08.07.1981, the case was adjourned on account of transfer of the Presiding Officer and on 14.07.1981, certain documents were placed on record by learned counsel for the accused. By means of the order dated 05.10.1981, the case was transferred to the Court of Second Additional Session Judge as per order of the High Court. However, neither the date of order of the High Court is mentioned nor the case number of the High Court is mentioned. It could also not be produced and shown by learned counsel for the appellants. The C.W.-2 was examined on 03.05.1982. Thereafter statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of accused were recorded and the case was fixed for arguments. On 24.05.1984, it was fixed for 29.05.1982. On the said date, after hearing arguments, the case was fixed on 31.05.1982 for judgment. However, on an application moved by the accused subsequently, the date was changed to 07.06.1982.

(18) The learned trial Court passed an order on 07.06.1982 on the point of transfer of the case, in view of ensuing shift in order of Session Judge after hearing learned counsel for the parties. It is mentioned in the order that the case was transferred to the said Court by order passed by the High Court on 28.09.1981. It was not a case transferred to the said Court under the transfer order passed by him as In-charge Sessions Judge in July, 1981 but one made by the High Court on 28.09.1981. It has been observed that this fact was never brought to his notice earlier and the order was filed in the Court of Third Additional Session Judge, Gonda and since this case found mention in the list of cases directed to be transferred under Section 409 Cr.P.C., it was taken to have landed in the said Court in compliance of that order. He further recorded that he had gone through the Hon′ble High Court′s order and it appears from the perusal of that order that it was transferred to his Court by name, therefore, the case was to be disposed of by him alone under the existing position. Lastly, it has been recorded that the accused also said that he should dispose of the case. The said order was not challenged.

(19) In view of above, since the order passed by this Court has not been placed before this Court and is also not in the Trial Court′s record, the position, as emerged from the aforesaid order, could not be doubted in any manner. The consent of the appellants for disposal of the case by the said Presiding Officer and the Court is also recorded in the said order. Thus, this Court does not find any illegality or error in disposal of the case by the said Presiding Officer. Even otherwise, learned counsel for the appellants has failed to show any prejudice caused to the appellants on account of passing of the impugned order by the said Presiding Officer. This Court also does not find any prejudice to have been caused to the appellants on account of the aforesaid facts. Thus, the contention raised by learned counsel for the appellants is misconceived and not tenable, hence rejected.

(20) The other ground raised by learned counsel for the appellants is that the learned Trial Court recorded the statements of the appellants under Section 364 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 on the proforma prescribed for the same, whereas the said Act was not in existence because the said Act was repealed by Section 484 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, which came into force w.e.f. 01.04.1974, therefore, the entire proceedings are vitiated and liable to be quashed. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 was repealed by Section 484 but, by means of the Section 484(2)(b) Cr.P.C., 1973, all forms prescribed alongwith others, which were enforced immediately before commencement of the said Code, have been deemed respectively to have been published, issued, conferred, prescribed defined, passed or made under the corresponding provisions of this Code, which is extracted here-in-below:-

"all notifications published, proclamations issued, powers conferred, forms prescribed, local jurisdictions defined, sentences passed and orders, rules and appointments, not being appointments as Special Magistrates, made under the Old Code and which are in force immediately before the commencement of this Code, shall be deemed, respectively, to have been published, issued, conferred, prescribed, defined, passed or made under the corresponding provisions of this Code;

(21) Section 8 of The General Clauses Act, 1897 provides Construction of references to repealed enactments. It provides that where this Act, or any Central Act or Regulation made after the commencement of this Act, repeals and re-enacts, with or without modification, any provision of a former enactment, then references in any other enactment or in any instrument to the provision so repealed shall, unless a different intention appears, be construed as references to the provision so re-enacted. In view of above, the object of the provision is that where any act is repealed and re-enacted, references in any other enactment or instrument to provisions of the repealed former enactment must be read and construed as references to the corrosponding provision of re-enacted new provision, unless a different intention appears. Thus, the reference to the provision in the format, on which the statement under Section 364 Cr.P.C., 1898 was recorded, would be referable to Section 313 Cr.P.C., 1973.

(22) In view of above, the forms prescribed under the old Act have been deemed to have been prescribed under the corresponding provisions of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. Perusal of the records indicates that though the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of the accused/appellants were recorded, but it started on the proforma prescribed for statement under Section 364 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 on 10.05.1982, whereas in the order sheet of the said date, it has been mentioned that the statement of accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

(23) Learned counsel for the appellants failed to point out any discrepancy, illegality or error in the statements of the appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. except above. This Court is of the view that it may be an irregularity and cannot be said to an illegality affecting the trial or merit of case in itself, on account of which the whole trial may be said to have vitiated. Even otherwise, learned counsel for the appellants has failed to point out any discrepancy or illegality in the statements of the appellants recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., as referred in the order sheet of the said date, in any manner or it may have caused any prejudice to the appellants in any manner. It is also settled in law that merely by mentioning of wrong provision, the order or any proceeding etc. cannot be said to be vitiated and set aside. Even otherwise, it may have been a procedural violation only, therefore, the appellants have to show that on account of it, they could not get proper opportunity to defend them and it prejudiced them in any manner, but they failed to do so. Thus, the contention in this regard is wholly misconceived and not tenable and liable to be repelled, repelled accordingly.

(24) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Indrakunwar Vs. The State of Chhattisgarh (Supra), has held that under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the Court is obligated to put, in the form of questions, all incriminating circumstances to the accused so as to give him an opportunity to articulate his defence. The defence so articulated must be carefully scrutinized and considered. Non-compliance with the Section may cause prejudice to the accused and may impede the process of arriving at a fair decision. However, this statement does not qualify as a piece of evidence under Section 3 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. However, the inculpatory aspect as may be borne from the statement may be used to lend credence to the case of the prosecution.

"19. Section 313, Cr.P.C. cannot be seen simply as a part of audi alteram partem. It confers a valuable right upon an accused to establish his innocence and can well be considered beyond a statutory right as a constitutional right to a fair trial under Article 21 of the Constitution, even if it is not to be considered as a piece of substantive evidence, not being on oath under Section 313(2), Cr.P.C. The importance of this right has been considered time and again by this court, but it yet remains to be applied in practice as we shall see presently in the discussion to follow. If the accused takes a defence after the prosecution evidence is closed, under Section 313(1)(b) Cr.P.C. the Court is duty bound under Section 313(4) Cr.P.C. to consider the same. The mere use of the word 'may' cannot be held to confer a discretionary power on the court to consider or not to consider such defence, since it constitutes a valuable right of an accused for access to justice, and the likelihood of the prejudice that may be caused thereby. Whether the defence is acceptable or not and whether it is compatible or incompatible with the evidence available is an entirely different matter. If there has been no consideration at all of the defence taken under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in the given facts of a case, the conviction may well stand vitiated. To our mind, a solemn duty is cast on the court in dispensation of justice to adequately consider the defence of the accused taken under Section 313 Cr.P.C. and to either accept or reject the same for reasons specified in writing."

(26) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Sudhir Kumar Singh and Others; (2021) 19 SCC 706, held that breach of the audi alteram partem rule cannot by itself, without more, lead to the conclusion that prejudice is thereby caused. Where procedural and/or substantive provisions of law embody the principles of natural justice, their infraction per se does not lead to invalidity of the orders passed.

(27) Adverting to the facts of the present case, the incident had occurred on 08.03.1979 at about 04:00 PM. The F.I.R. of the incident was lodged on the same date at about 06:45 PM at Police Station Kotwali Dehat, District Gonda. The distance of the Police Station and the place of occurrence is about 6.5 miles. The F.I.R. (Ex. Ka-5) was lodged on the basis of written complaint (Ex. Ka-2) of P.W.-2; Rajendra Prasad. The G.D. entry of the same was made, which was proved as Ex. Ka-6 by the Investigating Officer; Brij Narain Singh. The Investigating Officer also proved the F.I.R., the time of lodging of the F.I.R. and start of investigation. Thus, the F.I.R. was lodged promptly and there was no delay in lodging the F.I.R. The learned Trial Court also, after considering the evidence and material on record, found that there was no delay in lodging the F.I.R. and it has not been lodged in consultation with anybody.

(28) So far as the motive for perpetration of the crime is concerned, the learned Trial Court has recorded a finding that there is proximate and perpetuated motive for the crime by the accused. The learned Trial Court found that the motive is locative in the nomination of the complainant and the deceased in the roll call of murders of Samai Deen father of Ram Narain, who was murdered in December, 1978. The P.W.-2; Rajendra Prasad has deposed in his examination-in-chief about the motive and stated that he and the deceased Ram Shanker, who was his uncle, were accused in the aforesaid murder of Samai Deen. They were released on bail, barely 22 days ago of the incident. This fact has also been mentioned in the F.I.R. He also stated that his father′s cousin, accused Ram Pher and Gyanendri wanted to cultivate his land and infact they cultivated for two fasli years. The accused Naiyar, son-in-law of the aforesaid Samai Deen, also stated that his uncle Ram Pher had assaulted accused Ram Ugra about three years ago and a criminal case under Section 325 I.P.C., emanating therefrom, was pending, when his murder took place. In the cross-examination, he has not deviated from his statement in examination-in-chief, which may create any doubt about his statement. Though the defence tried to show that the complainant, Rajendra Prasad had some illicit nexus with the widow of his uncle Ram Shanker and he was murdered in the night by somebody else but they have falsely been implicated. However, it failed to prove it or extract anything from the complainant, which may infer in any manner about the illicit nexus between the complainant and the widow of the deceased.

(29) This is a case of direct evidence and eye witness account. In the case of direct evidence, motive is insignificant if the ocular evidence is strong enough to record the finding of guilt and in such circumstances, motive can only have a corroborative role and not more than that. Thus, this case is to be tested on the basis of ocular evidence adduced by the prosecution and the material placed on record.

(30) The complainant Rajendra Prasad appeared as P.W.-2. He stated that about 18 months back, he was going alongwith his uncle Ram Shanker from his home to Khamaria, where his uncle had five and half bighas of land, which was being ploughed. They had gone to see it. They reached Khamaria at 10:00 AM and after seeing the field, which was half ploughed by Sattar, they, as per their commitment, went towards Sajpur market at 10:30 AM for purchasing bull for Gurcharan Kori of his village. Gurcharan Kori met them in Sajpur market then they went to Dhanepur by taxi and there in the Vardahi market, they purchased the bull from Nanhu of their village. The doctor had passed the bull and a receipt of which was given. After purchasing the bull, all the three persons came back to Sajpur by tempo. They had asked the owner of the bull, Nanhu, to handover the bull in the village. From there, he and his uncle went to Khamaria and Gurcharan went to Sajpur market to see bull for his maternal uncle, as his maternal uncle had asked him to see a bull of a man in Sajpur and if it is good, he would purchase it. He and his uncle Ram Shanker went to Khamaria on foot asking Gurcharan that they will meet him after returning in Sajpur and then they will go together. He and his uncle Ram Shanker returned from Sajpur at 02:00 PM, where Gurcharan met.

(31) He further stated that they took tea and then they started for their village on foot, which is about 1.5 - 1.75 miles. They were coming from Utraula Dhanepur Road and reached near village Patkhauli at about 04:00 PM, where the accused Ram Narain, Ram Pher, Janendri, Ram Ugra and Naiyar were sitting in the field of Arhar in the West of the road and when they reached near to it, all the five accused came out and chased them. Ram Narain was having a gun in his hand, Ram Pher and Janendri were having farsa in their hands and Naiyar and Ram Ugra were having lathi in their hands. He further stated that accused Ram Ugra came ahead and exhorted to kill and with this exhortation, he gave a blow of lathi on the knee of Ram Shanker. His uncle crying ran towards the east, he and Gurcharan ran towards the north. They suddenly dragged Ram Shanker about 100 yards towards the east in the field of gram and canola (राई) having canola (राई) harvested and gram standing. Ram Shanker fell there and the accused persons kept on beating with the aforesaid arms. He and Gurcharan started shouting from the road, on which the witnesses Bhikham Datt and Laxmi Prasad came. Laxmi was having lathi, who was going towards south and Bhikham was going by cycle towards the north. The witnesses scolded but the accused ran away, but only after killing Ram Shanker. Thereafter, they went near the deceased and found him dead. Thereafter, leaving Gurcharan near the dead body, he went to his house. The witnesses also remained there.

(32) He also stated in his evidence that he knows the accused Ram Narain, Ram Pher, Janendri, Ram Ugra and Naiyar. Father of the Ram Narain was murdered and he and his uncle i.e. the deceased Ram Shanker were accused in the said case and they were released on bail, barely 22 days ago from the date of incident. Ram Pher and Janendri are his co-tenure holders. Their father and his Aaja were real brothers. After death of his father, he started living with the deceased Ram Shanker. The accused Ram Pher and Janendri wanted to plough his field but on account of his company with Ram Shanker, they could not do it, therefore, they were keeping enmity with Ram Shanker and after the death of Ram Shanker, for two half years, they ploughed the field. Naiyar is son-in-law of Samai Deen. Samai Deen was father of accused Ram Narain, in whose murder he and his uncle were accused. His uncle Ram Shanker had beaten the accused Ram Ugra about three years ago, on account of which, a case under Section 325 I.P.C. was instituted and on account of the aforesaid enmity, the accused have committed crime.

(33) He further stated that after reaching his house, he wrote a report on a paper and after seeing the report, he stated that it is the same report, which was written by him and it was marked as Ex. Ka-2. From the house he went to Kotwali and gave the report to Munshi and the Munshi gave him chik. He further stated that the Inspector had recorded his statement at the Police Station. Thereafter, the Inspector came with him to his house and after consoling his aunt etc. they went to the place of incident. In the meantime, night stood advanced, therefore, the Investigating Officer sent for a cot from his house and he stayed at the place of occurrence. The inquest was prepared in the morning. He was also witness to the inquest and proved his signatures on the inquest report. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer prepared the site plan on his pointing out. Seeing the site plan, he stated that the site plan was rightly prepared. Thereafter, a sealed bundle containing blood stained and earth stained yellow sweater of the deceased was opened, which he proved of his and and marked as Ex. 1 to 8. He stated that no cut or gap in the sweater was visible. There was, however, a blood stained and earth stained cut on the lower portion and another on the collar of the coat, shown by the witness. In the cut on the coat, brown threads stood turn, while yellow ones were intact. The witness also showed the dried up under clothing of the coat resulting from blood. He also showed the cut mark above the bloody spot on the shirt with warp intact. He also maintains that on the inner side too, there were locative bigger bloody spots emitting bloody odour. He then showed bloody patches on the Dhoti with a cut on the lower part. The Dhoti was in shambles. The witness did placing of those pieces to make Dhoti one piece on the floor. He also showed a bloody mark on the Dhoti in the middle, which became a bloody train of desperate pieces. He also showed two holes lengthwise near the border of the Dhoti. The underwear was shown to be tattered. He then showed some reddish matter agglutinated to the underwear and maintained that it smelt of faecal matter.

(34) In the cross-examination, Rajendra Prasad had maintained his evidence given in examination-in-chief. He also stated that receipt of bullock sale is bearing his signature and those of others and he and Ram Shanker were the witnesses of that receipt prepared in the cattle fair and removal of receipt by the accused from the pocket of deceased Ram Shanker. He stated that loan for purchase of bullock could be taken from co-operative society through veterinary doctor only. He also stated that the doctor gave a sum of Rs.2,112/- that day for purchase of two bulls, from which, the said two bulls were purchased. The receipt was kept by the Ram Shanker in his pocket, which was snatched by the accused. However, he could not tell what other things were robbed by the accused. He further stated in the cross-examination that on account of anguish at that time, he omitted to explain his visit to Dhanepur in the company of Ram Shanker and Gurcharan in F.I.R. and in his statement to the Investigating Officer and the affidavit (Ex. Kha-1A) sworn at the time of bail. However, the fact of going for purchasing of bulls has been mentioned in the F.I.R. The meeting of Gurcharan with the complainant and the deceased at Sajpur at 03:00 PM is also mentioned in the F.I.R. In fact, as born out from the record and the finding recorded by the learned Trial Court, the defence has produced the receipt and the doctor's certificate and the counter foil receipt was summoned and sealed in Sessions Court at the time of bail. Those receipts are Ex. Ka-3 and Ex. Ka-4 in the prosecution evidence and Ex. Kha-3 and Ex. Kha-4 in the defence evidence, wherein Gurcharan figures as vendee and Nanhu as vendor of the two bulls. Thus, it can not be contended that the F.I.R. does not contain anything regarding his visit to Dhanepur cattle fair with the deceased.

(35) In his cross-examination, he has also deposed that he, Gurcharan, Nanhu and Ram Shanker reached to the doctor at 12:00 noon, who had obtained his and his deceased uncle's signatures and thumb impression of the Gurcharan and Nanhu. Thereafter, the veterinary doctor had given money to Gurcharan, who handed over to Nanhu. He also disclosed the distance of the doctor's office i.e. about 1.5 - 2 furlongs from the cattle fair. He has denied the suggestion given by the defence that they had not gone to the cattle fair and forged thumb marks were obtained on the receipt. Even otherwise, the learned Trial Court has rightly recorded that once the plea was taken in the bail application by the defence before the Trial Court in this regard, then they themselves cannot have put it to any doubt. In his further cross-examination, he had explained the omission of the details of his and Ram Shanker's going to Khamaria to supervise their field being ploughed by Sattar and his statement to the Investigating Officer on the plea of anguish and their visiting to Khamaria finds mention therein.

(36) The P.W.-2 has also added that Rajaram had two real brothers whereas Ram Shanker was their step brother and he maintained that Ram Shanker owns 25 bighas of land at Mahadeva. However, he could not tell as to how he got it. He had also asserted that Ram Shanker owned 5.5 bighas of land at Khamaria but failed to show its acquisition and denied the suggestion of the defence that the land at Khamaria is cultivated by Rajaram and he volunteered to produce papers showing Ram Shanker's tenure holdership of that land. Ex. Ka-13 and Ex. Ka-14 are the revenue papers filed by the witness and Ex. Kh-13 is the khatauni showing about 8 - 9 acres of land at Khamaria, whereas Ex. Ka-14 is a copy of receipt of land revenue of 3-45 issued to Ram Shanker on 10.09.1975. Thus, on the basis of the said evidence, the learned Trial Court has recorded that the witness has shown the up to date position in the revenue records and also his stand that the land revenue was paid up to 4 - 5 years ago stood proved. In contradiction to the same, the defence failed to produce any cogent evidence and substantiate its case that Ram Shanker had no right over the land in Khamaria, when the incident took place. Thus, the stand of the complainant that he and the deceased Ram Shanker had visited Khamaria to look after their cultivation stands proved and production of Rajaram by the defence to substantiate their case that Ram Shanker had left his right over the land in Khamaria when the incident took place could not be proved create any doubt about the prosecution case.

(37) The learned Trial Court, after considering the material and evidence on record, has recorded that the tillage etc. are matters of detail to be told in the witness box and could not render his testimonial credibility shrunken, therefore, the only missing link of visit of both for purchasing bulls to Dhanepur and their return to Khamaria via Sajpur stands explained. He has also demolished the suggestion given by the defence that the deceased Ram Shanker had no land at Khamaria.

(38) P.W.-2, Rajendra Prasad has deposed in his evidence that from Khamaria, he alongwith the deceased Ram Shanker had proceeded towards the home and in the way they stopped at Sajpur, where P.W.-3, Gurucharan joined them at 03:00 PM and all the three had taken tea and besan namkeen there at that time. Thereafter, they proceeded when the incident took place. P.W.-3, Gurucharan has supported the prosecution version and the evidence of P.W.-2 and there is no material contradiction in his evidence in examination-in-chief as given in comparison to P.W.-2, Rajendra Prasad. He has also maintained that loan transaction had taken place between him and Amin Ram Pher before the actual sale. The learned Trial Court has recorded a finding, after considering the evidence of P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, that the slight dichotomy between their evidences show that their evidences are natural and they are not tutored witnesses. This Court is in agreement with the finding recorded by the learned Trial Court.

(39) He has also stated that bulls purchased by him were later sold to some Kurmi after six months of the said purchase. He has stated in his cross-examination that he and Nanhu had headed towards Dhanepur with the pair of bullocks from their Village Mahadeva and the distance was of nine miles, which was covered by 12:00 Noon. He met Rajendra and Ram Shanker at Dhanepur and after purchasing the bulls, he went towards home. He has also stated that about 6 - 7 days prior to the incident, he had gone to the veterinary doctor to contract the loan for purchase of bulls and the day before the incident, Amin Ram Pher asked him to go to the cattle fair and had the sale transaction reduced into writing. He has stated in his cross-examination that on that day he had gone only to purchase bulls and there was no other work to him. He had made reference of his visit to Village Dhanepur for purchasing of bulls in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., however, he does not know as to why it has not been mentioned. He has also stated that he had told the Inspector that the accused had searched the pocked of Ram Shanker and took out a paper but he does not know as to why it is not in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. He had also told the Inspector about visiting Sajpur for purchase of bulls and for seeing the bulls for his maternal uncle. He has also stated that his statement was recorded by the Inspector near the dead body. He has also stated that he has filed an affidavit in this case after two months of the murder. He has further stated in his cross-examination that he had not seen the accused beating Ram Shanker by farsa and ballam in his back or stomach, however, he had seen them beating on head. He also stated that the farsa was blown on head only and the dhoti of the deceased was cut and no other cloth was cut. He also stated that the father of Laxmi had taken away the bullock cart and Laxmi and Bhikham Datt were at the spot till the Inspector had come. He also stated that the Inspector had not taken any statement in the night. He has denied the suggestion that Ram Shanker was alone and was killed in the dark and looted and he had not seen the incident.

(40) The P.W.-4, Bhikham Datt has stated that on the date of incident, he was going in his relationship in the north of his village from his house by cycle at about 04:00 PM in the evening. While he reached ahead of Mahadeva Village, he saw Gurcharan, Ram Shanker and Rajendra coming from north. When they reached near Patkhauli Village, they cried, then he heading his cycle rapidly, saw that Ram Narain, Ram Pher, Janendri, Naiyar and Ram Ugra came from the west and started beating Ram Shanker in front of Village Patkhauli. It was the field of canola (राई) and they hit in the said field. Ram Pher and Janendri had farsa in their hands, Ram Narain had bhala in his hands and Naiyar and Ram Ugra had lathi in their hands. Ram Shanker had some paper in his pocket, which was taken out by the accused, on which, he had also shouted. He further stated that the accused persons, after killing Ram Shanker, ran away towards the east. The incident was seen by Laxmi, Gurcharan, Rajendra etc. beside him. Rest of the persons were at distance. When he went near Ram Shanker, he found him dead. Rajendra Prasad went to the Police Station keeping him stay there. He remained there for some time and thereafter went in his relationship.

(41) He stated in his cross-examination that his statement was recorded by the Inspector after 8 - 10 days in Mahadeva. He had told the Inspector about his visit to Uttari Village. It was not told as to where he had gone and the work for which he had gone. He has further stated that he had informed to the persons in Uttari about the murder, who asked him not to return being an eye witness. He has denied the suggestion that on account of relative of Ram Shanker, he is giving a false evidence. He has also stated in his cross-examination by the Court that he knows the wife of Ram Shanker, who is aunt of Rajendra and Rajendra alongwith his family lives there. His younger brother and aunt also live there. The age of Rajendra would be 20 - 25 years. He is Mota Brahmin (मोटा ब्राह्मण) and in Mota Brahmin, marriage takes places up to old age. He, in regard to the allegation of illicit relation of the wife of Ram Shanker with Rajendra, stated that it is made by the bad people and not by good people. His presence on the spot and the manner of assault told by him is in consonance with the evidence of P.W.-2 and P.W.-3, therefore, neither his presence on the spot can be doubted nor his testimony and nothing could also be shown to create any doubt about it.

(42) In view of above, P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-4 are the eye witnesses, who have proved the incident and nothing material could be extracted from them, which may create any doubt about their testimony, except minor contradictions, which are natural. It is very obvious that two persons cannot tell about an incident or anything in one and the same language or same manner and it may vary on account of their memory and way of expression, which may differ from person to person. However, there is consistency in their ocular evidence in regard to the incident, according to which when the complainant and the deceased reached near Patkhauli on Uttaraula Dhanepur Road at about 04:00 PM, all the accused persons, who were sitting in the field of Arahar in the west of road, came out with gun, farsa and lathi in their hands and assaulted the deceased in the manner as stated above and ran away only after killing him. Thus, all the accused persons, who arrived with the weapons as disclosed above, were sitting in the field of Arahar near the place of incident with intention to kill the deceased and when the deceased alongwith the complainant reached near the place of incident, they suddenly appeared and on the exhortation and blow of lathi of one accused, all of them dragged, assaulted and killed him.

(43) Section 34 of I.P.C. provides that when a criminal act is done by several persons with a pre-meditated mind of committing crime, each of them is liable for the said criminal act in the same manner as if it was done by him alone. Section 34 I.P.C. is extracted here-in-below:-

"34. Acts done by several persons in furtherance of common intention. - When a criminal act is done by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of such persons is liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone."

(44) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ramesh Singh @ Photti Vs. State of A.P.; AIR 2004 (SC) 4545, held that essence of the liability under Section 34 I.P.C. is to be found in the existence of a common intention connecting the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention and the inference can be gathered by the manner in which the accused arrived at the scene, mounted the attack, determination and concert with which the attack was made, from the nature of injury caused by one or some of them. It has further been held in this regard that an illegal omission on the part of such accused can indicate the sharing of common intention. Thus, the totality of circumstances is to be taken into consideration in each case. The relevant paragraph 12 is extracted here-in-below:-

"12. To appreciate the arguments advanced on behalf of the appellants it is necessary to understand the object of incorporating Section 34 in the Indian Penal Code. As a general principle in a case of criminal liability it is the primary responsibility of the person who actually commits the offence and only that person who has committed the crime can be held to guilty. By introducing Section 34 in the penal code the Legislature laid down the principle of joint liability in doing a criminal act. The essence of that liability is to be found in the existence of a common intention connecting the accused leading to the doing of a criminal act in furtherance of such intention. Thus, if the act is the result of a common intention then every person who did the criminal act with that common intention would be responsible for the offence committed irrespective of the share which he had in its perpetration. Section 34 IPC embodies the principles of joint liability in doing the criminal act based on a common intention. Common intention essentially being a state of mind it is very difficult to procure direct evidence to prove such intention. Therefore, in most cases it has to be inferred from the act like, the conduct of the accused or other relevant circumstances of the case. The inference can be gathered by the manner in which the accused arrived at the scene, mounted the attack, determination and concert with which the attack was made, from the nature of injury caused by one or some of them. The contributory acts of the persons who are not responsible for the injury can further be inferred from the subsequent conduct after the attack. In this regard even an illegal omission on the part of such accused can indicate the sharing of common intention. In other words, the totality of circumstances must be taken into consideration in arriving at the conclusion whether the accused had the common intention to commit an offence of which they could be convicted."

(45) The testimony of P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.4 cannot be disbelieved merely because they are either relative or of the same village, on account of which they may be said to be interested witnesses, because their evidence is consistent and nothing could be extracted from them to create any doubt about their testimony, when considered whole and appropriately.

(46) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Anil Phukan Vs. State of Assam (Supra), has held that mere relationship with the deceased is no ground to discard his testimony if it is otherwise found to be reliable and trustworthy. In the normal course of events, a close relation would be the last person to spare the real assailant of his uncle and implicate a false person. However, the possibility that he may also implicate some innocent person along with the real assailant cannot be ruled out and therefore, as a matter of prudence, we shall look for some independent corroboration of his testimony, to decide about the involvement of the appellant in the crime.

(47) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of Karnataka Vs. Babu and Others (Supra), considering the facts of the case and observing that conduct of the children and the wife of the deceased was unnatural for the reason that in the first instance both the children could not have left their father alone after he had been beaten mercilessly and in any case after knowing from her children about the occurrence; instinctively the wife should have rushed to the place of occurrence immediately, dismissed the appeal on the ground that in spite of the eye witnesses evidence of two children of the deceased, the Court is not able to take the case against the respondents beyond doubt. It is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the case in hand and distinguishable.

(48) Now, it is to be seen as to whether the post mortem report and the injures also support the prosecution case or not, though in the case of ocular evidence, it is not very material.

(49) The P.W.-1, Dr. Y.N. Pathak, who was posted as Medical Officer in the Sadar Hospital, Gonda and conducted the post mortem of the dead body of the deceased on 09.03.1979, has stated that the deceased had died about a day ago, Rigor Mortis was present on all four limbs and there was no decomposition. He proved the post mortem report, which was marked as Ex. Ka-1 and gave an opinion that the cause of death was due to coma, shock and hemorrhage due to cumulative result of ante-mortem injuries. He has proved the following injuries sustained by the deceased in the incident:-

Antimortem Injuries

1. Lacerated wound: 1.5 cm x .5 cm. x bone deep on the front left Leg, 12 cm below left knee joint.

2. Lacerated wound 1 cm x .5 cm x bone deep left 1eg, 8 cm below knee joint.

3. Lacerated wound 1.5 cm x .5 cm x bone deep and fracture of both bones leg joint below left knee.

4. Penetrating wound .5 cm x .5 cm x muscle deep on the front of left thigh, 12 cm above knee joint. Spindle shaped; Margins clean cut.

5. Contusion: 18 cm x 6 cm on the back of left thigh in the middle with fracture of bone underneath.

6. Contusion, 14 cm X 8 cm on the left.

7. Contusion, 18 cm x 2 cm on the left side abdomen vertically placed.

8. Contusion, 13 cm x 2 on the left side abdomen chest, transversely placed.

9. Contusion, 16 cm x 2 cm on the left side abdomen, just above injury no.8 at nipple.

10. Contusion, 4 cm x 2 cm on the back of wrist joint.

11. Multiple contusion, 46 cm x 22 cm on the right side on front of asilume in whole.

12. Abrasion, 2 cm x 1 cm on the right wrist joint outerside.

13. Contusion, 12 cm x 7 cm on the right thigh middle front fracture underneath.

14. Penetrating wound, .5 cm x .5 cm x muscle deep on the front of Rt. thigh, 14 cm above the joint. Spindle shaped. Magins are clean cut.

15. Lacerated wound, 13 cm x 1 cm (1.5 cm x 1 cm) on the right leg front 8 cm below knee joint.

16. Lacerated wound 2.5 cm x .5 cm x bone deep and fracture of right libia, 10 cm below the right knee joint.

17. Incised wound 1.5 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on the right side chin. Fracture of lower jaw, bone present.

18. Incised wound 2 cm x .5 cm x skin deep on the tip of chin.

19. Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on the left side of chin.

20. Incised wound, 1 cm x .25 cm x lip cut with fracture of lower jaw and two teeth.

21. Incised wound, 1.5 cm x .5 cm x bone deep over left eye-brow.

22. Lacerated wound, 3 cm x 1 cm x scalp on right side head, 6 cm above left ear.

23. Incised wound 9 cm x 2 cm x bone deep on right side of head, 12 cm above right ear.

24. Lacerated wound, 1.5 cm x 1 cm x skin deep over back of head, 8 cm below right ear.

25. Contusion, 30 cm x 18 cm on left side back scapula.

(50) He further stated that right parietal, occipital and frontal bones were fractured and all the ribs from 1 to 9 on both sides were found fractured. Heart was full of blood and weighed 220 gms. Lower jaw bone was fractured. Stomach was empty. Small intestines were half full and large intestines were full of faecal matter. A dhoti, coat, sweater, kurta, underwear, taviz, janeoo and kardhan were recovered, which were sealed and handed over to the constable. He further stated that all the injuries could have come by lathi, farsa and ballam and the probable time of death was 04:00 PM on 08.03.1979. In regard to injury Nos.4 and 10, he stated that they were also of superficial depth and could have been caused by a light sharp pointed object. Ballam is a heavy weapon. On a query of the Court, he stated that the said injuries were possible from the tip of a ballam. Bone was not cut but fractured. Injuries No.21, 23, 17 and 20 were on tense structure. He has also stated that by a blow of lathi on the tense structure, the injury in the shape of an incised wound comes. Under the injury No.21, bone was neither fractured nor cut. Under the injury No.23, bone was not cut but fractured. Injury Nos.17, 20, 21 and 23 were possible by hard impact blunt objects. Thus, the injuries sustained by the deceased and proved by the doctor are in consonance with the weapons to have been used by the accused persons in the incident as proved by the P.W.-2, P.W.-3 and P.W.-4.

(51) The injuries proved by the doctor indicate that the assault by the convicts was highly brutal. The injuries are consistent with the ocular account of manner of assault given by the eye witnesses and weapons used as proved by them. Thus, the injuries suffered by the deceased and post mortem report also supports the prosecution case.

(52) The learned Trial Court, after considering the injuries and the evidence on record, has also recorded a finding that the injuries scribable to lathi stands explained by participation of lathi man Ram Ugra of Village Mahadeva itself and since the other accused Naiyar alias Rajkumar was of distant place and his presence was found doubtful, he has been acquitted. This Court does not find any illegality or error in it and the appellant, Ram Ugra is not entitled for any parity with the acquittal of co-accused, Naiyar alias Rajkumar as his participation in the crime has been proved and he was of the same village, of which, the other appellants belong. Even otherwise, an accused is not entitled for parity in acquittal with other accused, merely because both have been shown having used same weapon of assault, unless the complicity of the said accused is also not proved or found doubtful, therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the appellant in this regard is misconceived and not tenable, hence rejected.

(53) The PW.-6, Brij Narayan Singh, the Investigating Officer has proved the F.I.R. as Ex. Ka-5 and its entry in G.D. at Rapat No.32 at 18:45 hours as Ex. Ka-6. He further stated that he has recorded the statement of Kandhai; the complainant at the Police Station and thereafter he proceeded towards the spot where he reached about 10:30 PM in the night. There was no arrangement of light. He sent the constable for lantern, which was brought by him, however, its light was very dim, therefore, he remained there and in the morning, he firstly prepared the inquest report. He proved the inquest report, the photolash prepared by him and a letter to the CMO, which have been marked as Ex. Ka-8, Ex. Ka-9 and Ex. Ka-10. He had collected blood stained mud, which was near the dead body and plain mud in presence of the witnesses, which has been marked as Ex. Ka-11. Thereafter, he inspected the spot and prepared the site plan, which has been marked as Ex. Ka-12. The investigation was taken up by the Inspector on 11th day. In his cross-examination, he stated that the F.I.R. was written at 18:45 hours and he started the investigation at 19:15 hours, when he started to reduce F.I.R. in case diary. He remained busy at Police Station up to 21:20 hours. He denied the suggestion regarding ante-dating of the F.I.R. by stopping the case diary at the Police Station. He has also stated that he had gone by cycle, not by jeep. He further stated that the Inspector had proceeded at 10:35 as per the case diary and he reached at the spot in some minutes. He also stated that as per case diary, the Inspector had returned, though he has not mentioned that he had come by a vehicle but as per his memory, he had come by a jeep. He has also denied the suggestion regarding lodging of forged report of Idrish under Section 498 I.P.C. to show the correct time of ante-time reporting. Thereafter extensive cross-examination has been made from him but nothing could be extracted, which may create any doubt about the veracity of his evidence or investigation. In the cross-examination, he has stated that he had not searched the houses of the accused persons because their houses were locked, which was mentioned in the case diary. However, no memo was prepared. He has further stated that witness Rajendra had told him that after seeing the agricultural work in Village Khamaria, they had proceeded from Khamaria to their Village Mahadeva at about 02:00 PM. He has also stated that witness Gurucharan had not told him that the accused persons had taken out a paper from the pocket of deceased Ram Shanker. He had told about the purchase of bull in Sajpur but he had not made any reference of his bulls and his maternal uncle's bulls. He has denied the suggestion that some unknown persons had lodged the F.I.R. of the dead body at the Police Station and he had prepared the aforesaid story. He has also denied the suggestion that after spot inspection with Rajendra in the village, the F.I.R. was lodged in the morning. The judgment of Surendra Koli Vs. The State of Uttar Pradesh & Another (Supra) relied by learned counsel for the appellant in this regard is not applicable on the facts and circumstances of this case.

(54) In view of above, the incident and the manner of assault and the arms, by which the assault was made and place of incident, have been proved by the aforesaid witnesses. The learned Trial Court has recorded the findings in accordance with law after considering the pleadings and evidence on record by reasoned and speaking order.

(55) One of the grounds of challenge is that the visit of the deceased and the complainant to the cattle market, Sajpur is not tenable on the ground that since the bulls of Nanhu were purchased, who was of the same village i.e. village of the complainant and the deceased, therefore, there was no question of going to the market as the said bulls could have been purchased in the village itself. The other ground has been raised on the ground that the receipts of purchase of bulls could not be proved as the thumb impressions were not proved either in both the experts opinion, out of which, one was conducted by the Court. So far as the plea on the ground of purchase of bulls of Nanhu of the same village from market is concerned, P.W.-2, the complainant Rajendra Prasad has stated that loan for purchase of bulls could have been taken from the co-operative society through veterinary doctor only, therefore, they had gone to the cattle market for doctor's certificate and received the receipt and the loan amount. So far as the proof of thumb impression on receipt is concerned, the learned Trial Court recorded that the experts have given opinion that two sets of thumb marks differ, however, the experts infact found interse similarity between thumb marks purporting to be those of Rajendra and Ram Shanker on the receipt in question. Even otherwise, it was merely an expert opinion and if the receipts could not have been proved in a case of ocular evidence, it cannot be a ground for suspecting the prosecution case and acquittal, when by the ocular evidence the complicity of the accused persons in crime has been proved.

(56) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Suresh Rai and Others Vs. State of Bihar (Supra), has held that Inquest Report cannot be treated as substantive evidence but may be utilised for contradicting the witness of inquest. It has also been held that Inquest Report is prepared by the Investigating Officer to find out prima facie the nature of injuries and the possible weapon used in causing those injuries as also the possible cause of death. It is of no assistance to the appellants in the facts and circumstances of the instant case.

(57) In view of above and considering the over all facts and circumstances of the case, it has been proved beyond reasonable doubt by the prosecution that the accused/appellants with the common intention and in furtherance thereof assaulted the deceased with intention of causing death and left the place of incident only after killing despite the alarm by the witnesses. Thus, on the basis of evidence and material on record and the findings recorded by the learned Trial Court, this Court does not find any illegality or error in the impugned judgment and order, which has been passed by a reasoned and speaking order after considering the evidence and material on records and none of the grounds taken by the appellants are tenable in the eyes of law.

(58) The appeal is misconceived and is liable to be dismissed, which is accordingly dismissed, upholding the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned Trial Court. The conviction of the appellants for the offence punishable under Section 302/34 I.P.C. is upheld and the sentence awarded to them under Section 302/34 I.P.C. is confirmed.

(59) The appellant No.2; Gyanendri (Janendri) and the appellant No.3; Ram Pher had died during pendency of the appeal, whereas the appellant No.1; Ram Narain and the appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra are on bail, therefore, the appellant No.1; Ram Narain and the appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra are directed to surrender within two weeks from today before the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned, who shall send them to jail to serve out the remaining sentence. In case the appellant No.1; Ram Narain and the appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra do not surrender within a period of two weeks from today, the Chief Judicial Magistrate concerned shall take appropriate steps for arrest of the appellant No.1; Ram Narain and the appellant No.4; Ram Uggar alias Ram Ugra.

(60) Let a copy of this judgment alongwith the Trial Court's record be transmitted to the Court concerned forthwith for information and compliance.

THE HON'BLE ZAFEER AHMAD, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 546 of 2012

Omkar Misra ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to "whether the prosecution has proved the involvement of the appellant in the murder of the deceased beyond reasonable doubt in light of contradictions in the ocular evidence and other attending circumstances" (Paras 41, 43, 45)

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S.s 302/34, 498-A - Murder - Appreciation of evidence - "there is material contradiction in the prosecution case, as set up in the F.I.R., and the prosecution witnesses and among themselves and the material on record" - Prosecution case not proved beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 43, 41)

Evidence - Ocular testimony - Reliability - "P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are not reliable as there are contradictions in their testimony" - Presence of eye-witness doubtful. (Paras 23, 34)

Criminal Trial - Benefit of doubt - "the appellant is entitled for benefit of doubt" - Conviction cannot be sustained. (Para 41)

Dowry demand - Proof - "the demand of dowry and harassment, on account thereof is not true" - Motive not established. (Para 27)

Non-production of material witnesses - "Non production of the parents of the deceased creates serious doubt on the prosecution story" - Adverse inference. (Para 29)

Parity - Similar evidence against co-accused - "Court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other when there is similar or identical evidence" - Principle applicable. (Para 35)

Held: The prosecution story and the involvement of the appellant in the murder of the deceased, cannot be said to have been proved beyond reasonable doubt - there is serious doubt on the prosecution story - the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - The appeal is, accordingly, allowed - The impugned judgment and order is hereby set aside - The appellant is acquitted." (Para 34,41,45,46) (E-7)

(1) This appeal under Section 374 (2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (here-in-after referred to as "Cr.P.C.") emanates from the judgment and order dated 27.03.2012 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Sitapur, in Sessions Trial No. 649 of 2000; State Versus Omkar Mishra & others, arising out of Case Crime No.139 of 2000, under Sections 498A, 302/34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (here-in-after referred to as "I.P.C.") and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, Police Station Maholi, District Sitapur, whereby the appellant, Omkar Mishra, has been convicted under Section 302/34 I.P.C. for life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.5,000/- and in default of payment of fine, to undergo additional one month's imprisonment.

(2) The prosecution case, in short, is that on 20.05.2000, at 12:30 p.m., complainant, Navin Kumar Shukla (P.W.1), had lodged a written report at Police Station Maholi, District Sitapur, alleging that in the year 1994, marriage of his sister (hereinafter referred to as 'victim') was solemnized with Omkar Mishra (appellant herein) according to Hindu rites and customs, after giving dowry as per capacity. After marriage, Omkar Mishra, his brother Lallan son of Hari Shankar, Puttan son of Hari Shankar, Sachidanand son of Hari Shankar and their father Harishankar, his wife Bitti and wife of Sachidanand have started harassing his sister for not bringing a Suzuki Motorcycle in dowry. They tortured his sister for not giving a motorcycle in dowry in such manner that out of fear of her life, his sister had to leave her matrimonial home and come to live with him. Within two years of marriage, she was compelled to leave her in laws' house. Even after that many times, Omkar Mishra, Sachidanand and Harishankar came to his house demanding a motorcycle. When his sister was so terrified due to the continuous harassment for dowry, then, she had to seek protection from the Court and file a dowry harassment case in the Court at Sitapur, in which the statement of his sister and other witnesses had already been recorded. Thereafter, Omkar Nath and his father Harishankar Mishra came to his house and asked him to withdraw the case and give the motorcycle but due to lack of financial capacity, they could not give motorcycle to them.

It has further been alleged that on 19.05.2000, at 08:00 in the morning, Omkar Nath, Sachidanand, Harishankar Mishra and his wife Bitti came to his house and asked him that they have come last time to his home and if by tomorrow morning, motorcycle would not be send to their home and they do not come to Court to withdraw the case, then, they will cause them to face consequences. At that time, his family and sister pleaded a lot from them, but they did not agree.

It has further been alleged that on 20.05.2000, his sister was returning from Primary School, Kusaila after teaching, sitting on her Bsfy;k (Tricycle loader), upon which he (complainant) and his uncle Kamlesh Kumar Shukla were also coming to home. Bsfy;k (Tricycle loader) was being driven by Ganeshi. When Bsfy;k (Tricycle loader) reached near Tara Talab (pond) at about 11:35 p.m., then, Hari Shankar and his wife Bitti, who were already sitting aside the road, suddenly stood up and stopped the Bsfy;k (Tricycle loader) and Hari Shankar slapped Ganeshi, upon which he shouted and ran away. In the meantime, Omkar Nath and Sachidanand, waiving pistol in their hands, arrived and Omkar Nath fired with close range near eye of his sister, upon which he (complainant) and his uncle Kamlesh raised alarm, then, persons working in the fields, crasher and ponds, along with people coming on the road and children ran for saving. Then, Omkar while firing said that if anyone would come forward to save them, he would shoot them as well. At that moment, Sachidanand pulled down his sister from Bsfy;k and fired a second shot on her back and overturned Bsfy;k on her. Thereafter, Omkar Nath, Sachidanand and Hari Shankar started firing indiscriminately, due to which persons working in the field, passerby and school children left their belongings and ran to save their lives. Both of us (complainant and his uncle) also ran to save their lives. Thereafter, accused persons waiving pistols in air, ran towards eastern side, consequently, there was complete silence on the spot and belongings of the passerby etc. are lying at the place, therefore, and police force should go immediately, otherwise, corpse of his sister could be disappeared.

(3) On the basis of the aforesaid written report (Ext. Ka-1), which has been scribed by Manoj Mishra as mentioned in the said report, whereas in the chik F.I.R. the name is mentioned as Pankaj Misra, bearing Case Crime No. 139 of 2000, under Sections 498-A, 304-B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 was registered at police station Maholi, district Sitapur by Head Moharrir Iktidar Husain (P.W.4) and the investigation of the case was entrusted to C.O. Shishu Pal Singh (P.W.5).

(4) The investigating officer C.O. Shishu Pal Singh (P.W.5), on getting information about the lodging of the aforesaid F.I.R., reached the place of occurrence on the date of the incident. The Investigating Officer, after keeping carbon copy of chik F.I.R. in G.D., recorded the statement of the eye-witnesses and complainant Navin Kumar Shukla (P.W.1) under Section 161 Cr.P.C., inspected the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka.5), collected the blood stained and plain soil and prepared the recovery memo (Ext. Ka. 6). S.H.O. Parmanand (P.W.6) and other police personnel reached the place of occurrence for panchanama (inquest) of the dead body of the deceased. After some time, Tehsildar Harishchandra also reached at the place of occurrence and on his direction, inquest of the dead body of the deceased was conducted, a letter was prepared for Reserve Inspector, Police Line, Sitapur seeking permission for post-mortem of the dead body of the deceased and photo lash, letter to Chief Medical Officer and challan lash were also prepared.

(5) The post-mortem of the deceased was conducted by Dr. V.R. Saxena (P.W.3) at P.A.C. Hospital, Sitpaur on 21.05.2000 at 11:00 a.m. Dr. V.R. Saxena (P.W.3) found the age of the deceased about 27 years; probable time of death about one day before the time of postmortem; the deceased was of average built and height; rigor mortis was passed in upper and was passing in lower extremities; and PM staining was present on back. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body of the deceased :-

1. Firearm wound of entry 7.5 cm x 5 cm x brain deep on forehead and face involving left eye ball just lateral to root of nose. Margins of wound are inverted and lacerated. Blackening, charring and tattooing present around wound. Direction front to back.

2. Fire arm wound of Entry 3 cm x 3 cm x chest cavity deep on the left side chest 2.5 cm below and medial to left inferior angle of scapula. Margins inverted and lacerated. Direction left to right."

In the opinion of doctor, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem firearm injuries. The ante-mortem injuries no.1 and 2 could have come by firearm and the death of the deceased could be possible on 20.05.2000 at 11:35 a.m.

(6) The Investigating Officer, after completion of investigation, submitted the charge-sheet on 17.08.2000 under Sections 498A, 304B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 against accused Omkar Mishra, Lallan, Puttan, Sachidanand, Hari Shankar, Smt. Bitti and Smt. Archana.

(7) Learned A.C.J.M.-II, Sitapur took cognizance on the aforesaid charge-sheet and by means of order dated 03.10.2000, committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where charges against the accused persons were framed under Sections 498-A, 147, 148, 302/149 I.P.C. and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 on 08.07.2003. All the accused persons denied the charges and prayed for trial.

(8) In order to prove its case, the prosecution produced complainant Naveen Kumar Shukla as P.W.-1, Ganeshi as P.W.-2, Dr. V.R. Saxena, (who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased) as P.W.-3, Constable Iktidar Husain (who prepared the chik-F.I.R. on the basis of written report) as P.W.-4, C.O. Shishupal Singh (Retd.) (Investigating Officer) as P.W.-5 and S.I. Sri Parmanand, S.H.O., Police Station Baddupur, District Barabanki, (who conducted inquest) as P.W.-6.

(9) In order to prove its case, the prosecution also placed on record and proved written complaint given by the complainant as Ext. Ka.1, post-mortem of the deceased as Ext. Ka.2, chik F.I.R. as Ext. Ka.3, carbon copy of G.D. as Ext. Ka. 4, site plan of the place of occurrence as Ext. Ka. 5, recovery memo in regard to blood stained and plain soil as Ext. Ka. 6, charge-sheet as Ext. Ka. 7, inquest report as Ext. Ka.8, letter to Reserve Inspector as Ext. Ka. 9, sample seal as Ext. Ka.10, photo lash as Ext. Ka.11, letter to Chief Medical Officer as Ext. Ka. 12 and Police Form No.13 as Ext. Ka.13.

(10) The accused persons, in their defense, produced Vijay Kumar Singh as D.W.1, Satyaveer Tyagi as D.W.2, Ram Gopal Gupta as D.W.3 and Smt. Rampati as D.W.4. Accused persons have also produced four documentary evidence viz. (1) certificate issued by Parshad (corporator), Nagar Nigam Gaziabad certifying that accused Sachidanand is residing with his wife Archana on rent in House No. H.457, Mariyam Nagar, Nand Gram, Ghaziabad w.e.f. January, 1992 to June, 1998 as Ext. Kha.1; certificate issued by Ram Gopal Gupta, owner of the aforesaid house, certifying that accused Archana Mishra was residing with children in his house on rent w.e.f. July, 1998 to May, 2004 as Ext. Kha.2; certificate issued by Smt. Ramdhati, resident of Badagaon, Maholi, district Sitapur, certifying that accused Smt. Suman Bala was residing with family in her house w.e.f. 01.01.1992 to 31.12.1994 as Ext. Kha.3; and certified copy of the statement of victim recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. dated 05.01.2000 in re: Case No. 2350 of 1999 : Smt. Kusum Mishra, Vs. Omkar Mishra and others, under Sections 498A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section $^{3/4}$ of the Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Maholi, district Sitapur as Ext. Kha.4.

(11) After completion of the evidence of the prosecution, the statement of the accused persons was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the occurrence and all of them have stated that the marriage of Omkar Mishra was solemnized with victim in the year 1992. Complainant and his family members have lodged false report on account of lust of property of the victim and feeling of revenge. They also stated that brother of P.W.2-Ganeshi was driving the Jeep of complainant, therefore, at the instance of complainant, he gave false evidence.

In addition to the aforesaid, accused Omkar has filed written statement, stating therein that his marriage was solemnized with victim prior to eight years of the incident and before his marriage, victim was doing teaching job in Sakaran Primary School, which was at a distance of 80 Kms. from his in-laws′ house and often she stayed there. He further stated that his one house was at Maholi. Before marriage, he was looking after the agricultural work while living separately from the family. He also stated that his wife wanted that he should live with her at Sakran, leaving the agricultural work, which he could not do, on account of which, disagreement between them persisted and his wife and her family members became annoyed with him and his family members. He further stated that after visiting in-laws house for some time, his wife lastly used to reside in Sakran. He tried to explain her, but due to instigation of his in-laws, she did not listen him. After three years of this incident, she was transferred to Primary School Kusaila and used to reside in his in-laws′ house. Kusaila was not far from in her in-laws′ house, therefore, on number of times, he tried to explain and also tried to get her back to his house, but on account of old rift, she did not come nor his in-laws helped him in sending back her in in-laws house. In November, 1999, he told that he would file a case for restitution under compulsion, upon which she and her family members got angry and lodged a false case against them. He also stated that he had a scooter prior to marriage. In May, 2000, unknown persons killed her wife and due to old malice and with intention to take revenge, he, his father, mother and brothers have falsely been implicated in the case.

Accused Devendra Kumar alias Lalla has stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he is innocent. He lived in New Delhi along with family w.e.f. 10.06.1991 to 04.10.1995 and was working there in a firm, namely, Special Cables Pvt. Ltd. and thereafter, while working there, he along with family was staying in Unchagaon village, Ballabhgarh, Haryana for quite a long time after the incident. He also stated that Sachidanand was also living in Unchagaon along with him separately while working in Bhivadi w.e.f. June, 1998 till the date of the incident and wife of Sachidanand Archana and son Abhinav had returned to Sitapur.

Accused Surendra Nath Mishra alias Puttan has also filed a written statement, stating that before marriage, his wife Suman Bala Mishra was working on the post of B.H.W (Woman) in Primary Health Centre, Maholi and he used to reside in sub-station Semarawa (Parsehara Gram Sabha) of Primary Health Centre, Maholi with his wife and son Dipak in the house of Pradhan till 31.12.1994 and w.e.f. 04.01.1995 till after the incident, they resided in Government accommodation Housing Colony, P.H.C. (Woman). He has no concern with family of Omkar or Omkar. Being brother, he has falsely been implicated. He is innocent.

Accused Sachindanand has also filed written statement, stating therein that prior to marriage of Omkar, he was working as Tenning Engineer in Vishwakarma Industries Ltd., Mukund Nagar, Ghaziabad w.e.f. 25.06.1991. He got opportunity to work in Uttam Industries Engineering Pvt. Ltd., Rath Road, Ghaziabad in April, 1992, where he worked till 13.11.1995 and by that time, he used to reside with wife Archana and son Abhinav in Ghaziabad. In November, 1995, he switched the job and started working in Global Engineering Ltd., Rajendra Place, New Delhi but he used to reside in Ghaziabad and in June, 1997, he was transferred in Bhivadi unit of this company and w.e.f. June, 1998 till the incident, he alone resided with his brother Bhailal alias Devendra at Unchagaon, Ballabhgarh, Haryana. His wife Archana and son Abhinav resided in Ghaizabad till the end of academic session and thereafter his wife came back to Sitapur along with son Abhinav and while living therein, admitted his son in Secret Heart. On getting information about the incident, he reached Maholi on 21.05.2000 at 06:00 a.m., upon which complainant got him arrested from police near tempo stand. He has no concern with Omakar and his family members prior to marriage and after the marriage.

Accused Hari Shankar has also filed written statement, stating therein that before marriage of Omkar with the victim, he was working in Secondary School, Aurangabad district panchayat, Lakhimpur. By means of the order of the Additional Secretary, Regional Office, Allahabad of Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P. Board dated 25.04.2000, he was appointed as Assistant Examiner for examining the answer papers of Social Science. His examiner number was 00102. He was directed to present at Examiner Centre, Rajkiya Inter College Lakhimpur on 11.05.2000 at 10:00 a.m. for examining the copy. He was doing the work of examiner w.e.f. 11.05.2000 to 22.05.2000 between 10:00 a.m. to 05:00 p.m. On 22.05.2000, at 05:00 p.m., he was relieved. He joined his District Panchayat School Higher Secondary School Aurangabad on 23.05.2000 at 07:00 p.m. Being father of Omkar, he and his wife have falsely been implicated in the case.

Accused Archana Mishra has also filed written statement, stating therein that his husband Sachidanand was working in Ghaziabad and she used to live with him there. When her husband was transferred to Bhivadi, then, on completion of academic session, he came to Sitapur along with her son Abhinav and admitted her son in Secred Heart and started living there. Her husband was working in Bhivadi and he resided there along with his brother Lallan alias Devendra in Ballabhgarh, Haryana. She further stated that she is innocent.

(12) The trial Court, after analyzing and appreciating the evidence on record, found the case of the prosecution against accused Omkar Mishra under Section 302/34 I.P.C. proved beyond reasonable doubt and convicted and sentenced him as disclosed in first paragraph of this judgment, however, acquitted other accused persons from charges framed against them, by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 27.03.2012. Hence the instant appeal has been filed against the same by Omkar Nath Mishra.

(13) Learned A.G.A. informed that no appeal either on behalf of the State or the complainant has been filed against the order of acquittal of other accused persons by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 27.03.2012.

(14) Heard Shri Aakash Srivastava, learned Counsel for the appellant and Shri R.S. Dwivedi, learned A.G.A. for the State.

(15) Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the appellant has wrongly and illegally been convicted by means of the impugned judgment, whereas no crime has been committed by him. He further submitted that the appellant has wrongly and falsely been implicated in the case on account of matrimonial dispute between him and the deceased, in regard to which, a case was also filed by the deceased and on account of the said dispute, the complainant implicated the appellant and his family members to get the monetary and service benefits, as the deceased was in government service. He further submitted that the alleged eye witness i.e. uncle of the complainant, namely, Kamlesh has not been produced in evidence, which creates serious doubt about the prosecution story. He further submitted that the thelia, pellets and the weapon of crime have not been recovered and the learned Trial Court, even after finding that the complainant, who claims to be an eye witness is not reliable and there are contradictions in the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and the post-mortem also does not support the prosecution case, but relying on their evidence, convicted the appellant, which could not have been done. He also submitted that all the family members of the appellant were implicated in the case but, except the appellant, none have been convicted considering the plea of alibi as they have not been found present on the place of incident. Therefore, the prosecution story itself is false and not reliable. Thus, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellant is liable to be acquitted.

(16) Learned counsel for the appellant relied on the judgment and order dated 23.01.2025 passed in Criminal Appeal No.1588 of 2015; The State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Raghuvir Singh and judgment and order dated 23.11.2024 passed in Criminal Appeal No.477 of 2017; Yogarani Vs. State by the Inspector of Police by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the judgments rendered in the case of Ram Laxman Vs. State of Rajasthan; (2016) 12 SCC 389 and Balaram Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh; (2023) SCC OnLine SC 1468.

(17) Learned A.G.A. vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that the appellant has rightly and in accordance with law been convicted by the impugned judgment by the Trial Court after considering the evidence and material on record. He further submitted that the prosecution case has been proved by the eye witnesses, which is corroborated by the injuries sustained by the deceased, therefore, there cannot be any doubt about the prosecution case. He further submitted that the deceased was wife of the appellant but he has not lodged any F.I.R., therefore, his conduct also creates doubt on him. He also submitted that merely because the co-accused persons have been acquitted considering their plea of alibi, the appellant is not entitled for any benefit of the same and parity is not applicable in the claim of alibi and the plea of alibi is to be specifically pleaded and proved. He further submitted that the case laws relied by learned counsel for the appellant are not applicable on the facts and circumstances of the case. This appeal has been filed on baseless and misconceived grounds, which is liable to be dismissed. He relied on Moniruddin Ahmed alias Lalu Dealer and Others Vs. State of West Bengal; (2010) 12 SCC 238.

(18) We have considered the submissions of learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(19) The deceased was the wife of the appellant. Their marriage was solemnized in the year 1992, which has been shown as 1994 in the F.I.R., as found by learned Trial Court upon considering the evidence and material on record. On account of matrimonial dispute, the deceased was living separately. She was in a Government Job as a teacher. Undisputedly, on account of the matrimonial dispute, a case under Section 498-A, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Section $^{3/4}$ of the Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Maholi, district Sitapur; Smt. Kusum Mishra, Vs. Omkar Mishra and others, filed by the deceased was pending at the time of the incident and on account of the said dispute, the deceased was residing with her brother i.e. the complainant.

(20) On the date of incident, while the deceased was returning from the school after it was over, the incident had happened. As per prosecution story, the school of the deceased was from 7:00 AM to 11:30 AM and after the school was over, she was returning home by the thelia, which was being driven by P.W.-2, Ganeshi. The said thelia was purchased by the deceased. It has also been alleged that the complainant and his uncle; Kamlesh were also coming by the said thelia with the deceased.

(21) The complainant, who appeared as P.W.-1, stated that when they reached near Tara Talab, the accused Hari Shankar (father-in-law of the deceased) and his wife Bitti, who were sitting aside the road, stopped the thelia. Hari Shanker slapped Ganeshi, on account of which, he ran away raising voice. In the meantime, Omkar and Sachidanand, waiving country made pistol in their hands, came and Omkar put the pistol near the left eye of the deceased and fired, on account of which, the complainant and his uncle Kamlesh shouted. Then the persons working in the fields, crushers and pond came on the road and the passer-by and the children ran to save them. Omkar fired and said that if anybody would come forward to save, he will kill. In the meantime, Sachidanand pulled down the deceased from thelia and made second fire on her back and subverted the thelia on her. Thereafter, Omkar, Sachidanand and Hari Shanker started making repeated fires, on account of which, the persons working in the fields, passer-by and the children of school ran to save their lives. They both also ran. Thereafter, the accused persons waiving their country made pistols in their hands ran towards east, on account of which, it was complete silence and the complainant went to lodge the F.I.R.

(22) The Ganeshi appeared as P.W.-2. He, in his evidence, stated that he used to drive the thelia of Kusum Mishra, who was a teacher in Kusaila School, and used to take her to school and bring back daily, whereas the deceased, in her statement under Section 200 Cr.P.C. recorded in case by her i.e. Ex. Kha-4, had stated that Nandu was driving the thelia. He further stated that on the date of incident, he had gone to school to leave Kusum Mishra and while returning, her brother, Naveen and Munna alias Kamlesh were also coming on the thelia, who met him in Kusaila where they had gone for walking and when they reached near Tara Talab at about 11:30 AM, the accused persons, Omkar, Sachidanand, Hari Shanker and Bitti came and stopped the thelia. Thereafter he stated that Hari Shanker and Bitti stopped the thelia. He also stated that Hari Shanker slapped him and thereafter Omkar made fire in the eye of Kusum by a country made pistol and, thereafter, Hari Shanker fired in the back (कोख) of the deceased. He further stated that he ran away and hid himself in the pond and came back near the dead body only when the Inspector had come. He also stated that the Omkar said to the villagers that if anyone will come near, he would kill him. In cross-examination, he admitted that Nandu is his real brother, who is driver of jeep of Naveen Kumar. He also stated that he does not know anything about any accused, except their name and killing by them. He also admitted that he was brought by the complainant for evidence and he has also engaged an advocate who is standing near him.

(23) In view of above, there is contradiction in evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 in regard to the person, who made the second fire by the country made pistol on the deceased because the P.W.-1 stated that the second fire was made by the Sachidanand near the dead body, whereas the P.W.-2 stated that Hari Shanker made the second fire. According to P.W.-1, Hari Shanker stopped the thelia and slapped Ganeshi, on account of which he ran away, therefore, he cannot be said to be an eye witness. But Ganeshi, the P.W.-2 states that he ran away after the second fire was made by Hari Shanker and came back near the dead body only when the Inspector had come and P.W.-1, in his cross-examination, has stated that he had seen Ganeshi in evening after the incident. He also does not know about the accused persons and knows only their names and that they have killed. He was also brought by the complainant for evidence. The complainant has failed to disclose as to how he and his uncle; Kamlesh reached Kusaila and were coming on thelia. Therefore, presence of P.W.-2 at the place of occurrence is doubtful. It appears that he has been tutored to show him an eye witness and gave evidence accordingly as he is brother of driver of the complainant.

(24) P.W.-1, complainant stated that his sister; the deceased was married to Omkar Mishra, the appellant about 7 to 8 years back. He had given the dowry as per his capacity in the marriage but the appellant and his family members were not happy with the same. They started making demand of Suzuki motorcycle immediately after marriage but he could not give the motorcycle on account of the financial condition, therefore, the appellant and his family members used to harass his sister, therefore, with the fear of murder, his sister left her in-laws' house and started living in his house. It has also been stated by him that even thereafter the appellant and his family members came to his house for demanding Suzuki motorcycle, on account of which his sister was so fearful that she filed a case of harassment, on account of dowry, in the court, which is pending.

(25) A statement of the deceased i.e. wife of the appellant was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C. before the learned Trial Court and the same has been placed on record by the defense as Ex. Kha-4. Perusal of the said statement indicates that the deceased has not stated in her statement, which was recorded on 05.01.2000, that there was any demand of dowry of Suzuki motorcycle. It belies the allegations of the complainant that there was any demand of dowry of Suzuki motorcycle. Even otherwise, the appellant and the co-accused have stated that the appellant had a scooter at the time of incident and since prior to that, therefore, there was neither any requirement nor any question arises for demand of motorcycle. Thus, the motive of the incident shown by the complainant also is not proved. However, in the case of ocular evidence account, the motive is not of much importance. The learned Trial Court also was of the view that in the case of ocular evidence, the motive looses its effect and will not have any effect on the prosecution case because the demand of dowry could only have a motive for the incident. However, the Trial Court, on the basis of documentary and oral evidence, found that the appellant had scooter.

(26) The P.W.-1, complainant, in his statement, has also stated that his parents were alive but now they have died. He further stated that the deceased was his eldest sister and she was B.A./B.T.C. and teacher in a Government School since prior to her marriage. He further stated that there is a brother about 10 years younger to the said sister and then a sister, who was married about 2.5 to 3 years prior to the incident. He also stated that the marriage of the deceased was got solemnized by his parents, but now they have died. Thus, learned Trial Court recorded a finding that the claim of the complainant that he had married his sister as per his capacity and gave the dowry, is not sustainable because the marriage of the deceased was solemnized by their parents.

(27) P.W.-2, Ganeshi stated in his cross-examination that the parents of the complainant, Naveen Kumar are alive and residing with him and he had seen them yesterday i.e. a day prior to the date on which his evidence was recorded, which was recorded after P.W.-1. He further stated that they are capable of movement and talking. Thus, it is apparent that the complainant was speaking lie that his parents have died. A copy of his family register was also placed on record by the defense in proof thereof. Considering it, the learned Trial Court also recorded a finding that it is apparent from its perusal that the parents of the complainant are alive and this fact has deliberately been concealed by him. Thus, upon consideration of evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 and the material on record, the learned Trial Court recorded a finding that the demand of dowry and harassment, on account thereof, by the appellant and his family members, as alleged by the complainant, is not true. However, it is apparent from the statement of P.W.-1 that the deceased has been murdered and the question arises as to who killed her which would be decided after examining the evidence of other witnesses. Thereafter, the learned Trial Court proceeded to consider the statement of P.W.-2, Ganeshi, which we have dealt above and found that there is contradiction in the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 with regard to the assault made by the accused persons and the two gun shot fires made because, according to P.W.-1, it was by Sachidanand, whereas the P.W.-2, Ganeshi has stated that second fire was made by Hari Shanker.

(28) The P.W.-1 has also stated that after second fire made by the Sachidanand, he subverted the thelia on the deceased and, thereafter, they left the place. The complainant has stated in his evidence that he has neither removed thelia from the dead body of the deceased nor tried to provide any medical assistance to her on the ground that as per him she was dead. It has also been stated by the P.W.-1 that his uncle Kamlesh never returned at the place of incident. He has also not been produced in evidence.

(29) Upon consideration of evidence of both the witnesses, it is apparent that there is contradiction in the evidence and conduct of the witnesses is also not natural. Non production of the parents of the deceased, in evidence to prove the demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased on account thereof, creates serious doubt on the prosecution story coupled with the fact that contradictions for demand of Suzuki motorcycle in the evidence of P.W.-1, which is not in the statement of the deceased before the learned Trial Court in other case by the deceased, a certified copy of which has been placed on record as Ex. Kha-4, which is considerable and has been considered by the learned Trial Court also.

(30) P.W.-1 has admitted in cross-examination that he had not seen as to which side, Ganeshi had gone and he had also not seen the thelia after the incident and blood on it. The non recovery of thelia from the place of incident and no crusher near the place of incident as admitted by the Investigating Officer also raises serious doubt on the prosecution story and testimony of the eye witnesses.

(31) The P.W.-3, Dr. V. R. Saxena has proved the post-mortem conducted by him and the injuries suffered by the deceased. The aforesaid two injuries were found and there are contradiction in the manner of assault, which is apparent from the ocular evidence of eye witnesses and the evidence given by the doctor. According to P.W.-1, the thelia was subverted on the deceased after second fire but no injuries on account of it has been found. However, the learned Trial Court recorded a finding that these minor contradictions would not have any adverse effect on the prosecution case. But it creates doubt on prosecution story.

(32) It has also been mentioned in the FIR that a day prior to the date of incident i.e. 19.05.2000 at about 08:00 AM, the appellant and his family members had come for demand of dowry and stated that they have come for the last time for it and in case it is not fulfilled by tomorrow and the case is not withdrawn from the court, then they would have to face consequences, whereas it has not been stated by the complainant in his evidence before the learned Trial Court. Even otherwise it appears to be unobvious for the reason that the school of the deceased was w.e.f. 7:00 AM to 11:30 A.M., therefore, at that time she would not be at home. Even otherwise this Court failed to comprehend that the accused persons of a dowry case would make demand of dowry and for the said purpose, they would come to home of the complainant. The learned Trial Court, after considering the evidence and material on record and the proof of scooter with the appellant, recorded a finding that the case of the prosecution for demand of dowry and harassment of the deceased, on account thereof, has not been proved. This Court is in agreement with the finding recorded by the learned Trial Court.

(33) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Ram Laxman Vs. State of Rajasthan (Supra), has held that no doubt, it is an established principle of criminal law in India that only on account of detecting some falsehood in the statement of a witness, who is otherwise consistent and reliable, his entire testimony should not be discarded. It is equally settled law that if a witness is found un-dependable and un-reliable his evidence can not be split to grant benefit to some co-accused while maintaining conviction of another when in all respects he stands on same footing and deserves parity.

(34) In view of above, there is serious doubt on the prosecution story and P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are not reliable as there are contradictions in their testimony and the case of demand of Suzuki motor cycle is not tenable. All other accused persons, except the appellant, have not been found present at the place of incident on the basis of evidence and material on record. It is seen that in the cases of matrimonial dispute, the whole family is implicated and it is a classical case in this regard and in this case neither the demand of dowry could be proved nor the involvement of the accused persons.

(35) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Yogarani Vs. State by the Inspector of Police (Supra), has held that Court Cannot convict one accused and acquit the other when there is similar or identical evidence pitted against two accused persons. The relevant paragraph 10 is extracted here-in-below:-

"10. The Court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other when there is similar or identical evidence pitted against two accused persons. In the case of Javed Shaukat Ali Qureshi v State of Gujarat reported in 2023 INSC 829, this court has held that:

15. When there is similar or identical evidence of eyewitnesses against two accused by ascribing them the same or similar role, the Court cannot convict one accused and acquit the other. In such a case, the cases of both the accused will be governed by the principle of parity. This principle means that the Criminal Court should decide like cases alike, and in such cases, the Court cannot make a distinction between the two accused, which will amount to discrimination.

In the case on hand, allegations against the appellant being the same as made against Accused No.3 & 4, the Courts below could not have convicted the Appellant while acquitting the other two.

(36) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Balaram Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (Supra), has held that it is well settled that there are three types of witnesses, which are (i) whole reliable, (ii) wholly unreliable, and (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. It is further held that if the witness is wholly reliable, there is no difficulty inasmuch as relying on even the solitary testimony of such a witness conviction could be based, again, there is no difficulty in the case of wholly unreliable witness in as much as his/her testimony is to be totally discarded. It is only in the case of the third category of witnesses, which is partly reliable and partly unreliable, that the Court faces the difficulty and the Court is required to separate the chaff from the grain to find out the true genesis of the incident. The relevant paragraphs 11 and 12 are extracted here-in-below:-

"11. It is well settled, as laid down in a locus classicus case of Vedivelu Thevar v. State of Madras1, there are three types of witnesses, which are

(i) wholly reliable,

(ii) wholly unreliable, and

(iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unereliable.

12. The law laid down in Vedivelu Thevar (supra) is consistently followed by this Court in a catena of judgments. It can thus be seen that, there are three types of witnesses. If the witness is wholly reliable, there is no difficulty inasmuch as relying on even the solitary testimony of such a witness conviction could be based. Again, there is no difficulty in the case of wholly unreliable witnesses inasmuch as his/her testimony is to be totally discarded. It is only in the case of the third category of witnesses which is partly reliable and partly unreliable that the Court faces the difficulty. The Court is required to separate the chaff from the grain to find out the true genesis of the incident."

(37) The learned Trial Court found that the charge of murder against the Hari Shankar is not proved as he was a teacher in the government school and he was checking copies at a distant place from 10:00 AM till 05:00 PM w.e.f. 11.05.2000 to 22.05.2000. The charge against the accused, Sachidanand has also not been found proved as it has been proved by the evidence and material placed on record that he was living separately since prior to the marriage of the deceased, Kusum and he was also not present at the place of incident on the date and time of the incident. The learned Trial Court also found that on account of the contradictions in the evidence of P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, the involvement of these accused is not found. The Charges on Devendra Kumar Mishra @ Lallan and Surendra Nath Mishra alias Puttan have also not been found proved as they were living separately at different places, therefore, they were not present at the place of occurence. The charge on the accused Smt. Archana Mishra is not found proved as she was found to be living with her husband Sachidanand and separately from the deceased. The charge of demand of dowry and harassment has also not been found proved against them.

(38) A plea has also been taken by the defense that since the deceased was in a government job and on account of her death, the complainant, who is her brother, could have been benefited not only financially but could also have got the job in dying-in-harness, therefore, the appellant and his family members have been implicated in the case. Though it could not be proved but the evidence and material on records show serious doubt on the prosecution case.

(39) Perusal of the written report, on the basis of which F.I.R. has been lodged and chik F.I.R. was prepared, indicates that the same has been written by the same person, who has signed it i.e. the complainant Naveen Kumar but the signatures of the writer are of Manoj Mishra, which is in different handwriting and pen. The chik F.I.R. also discloses that the F.I.R. has been scribed by the Pankaj Mishra, which creates doubt and even the Manoj Mishra and Pankaj Mishra, the scriber of the F.I.R. have not been produced in the evidence, whereas the P.W.-1, complainant has stated in his evidence that the F.I.R. was scribed by the Manoj Mishra. Thus, it appears that the written complaint has been prepared by the complainant himself and got the signatures of Manoj Mishra subsequently.

(40) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of The State of Uttar Pradesh Vs. Raghuvir Singh (Supra), held that a trial Judge owes a responsibility to weigh the probability of the prosecution evidence, which he has to do for arriving at the decision whether the prosecution allegations have been proved by the standard laid down in Section 3 of the Evidence Act and for the said purpose he has to consider all the probabilities. The relevant paragraphs 40 and 41 are extracted here-in-below:-

"40. The trial Judge owes a responsibility to weigh the probability of the prosecution evidence, which he has to do for arriving at the decision whether the prosecution allegations have been proved by the standard laid down in Section 3 of the Evidence Act. In so weighing the probability of the prosecution allegations, of necessity, other probabilities also appearing from the evidence brought before the Court have to be considered for comparative assessment which of the probabilities should be accepted as a fact proved. If, from the evidence, any probability consistent with the innocence of the accused is equally strong as the probability pointing to his guilt, then on the strength of the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, it could be said that the prosecution has failed to prove its allegations. Even if the probability consistent with innocence is not equally strong with other probability of his guilt, yet the probability of innocence is such as would cast a doubt, then it may be a case of reasonable doubt, the benefit of which must go to the accused. That being so, it is incumbent upon the trial Judge to consider all the probabilities that appear from the evidence before him and he cannot afford to be credulous and omit to consider reasonable probabilities.

41. In the aforesaid context, we may quote with profit the observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Lal Mandi v. State of West Bengal, reported in (1995) Criminal Law Journal, 2659, as contained in paragraph 5 of the decision.

"5. To say the least, the approach of the High Court is totally fallacious. In an appeal against conviction, the Appellate Court has the duty to itself appreciate the evidence on the record and if two views are possible on the appraisal of the evidence, the benefit of reasonable doubt has to be given to an accused. It is not correct to suggest that the "Appellate Court cannot legally interfere with" the order of conviction where the trial Court has found the evidence as reliable and that it cannot substitute the findings of the Sessions Judge by its own, if it arrives at a different conclusion on reassessment of the evidence. The observation made in Tota Singh's case, which was an appeal against acquittal, have been misunderstood and mechanically applied. Though, the powers of an appellate Court, while dealing with an appeal against acquittal and an appeal against conviction are equally wide but the considerations which weigh with it while dealing with an appeal against an order of acquittal and in an appeal against conviction are distinct and separate. The presumption of innocence of an accused which gets strengthened on his acquittal is not available on his conviction. An appellate Court may give every reasonable weight to the conclusions arrived at by the trial Court but it must be remembered that an appellate Court is duty bound, in the same way as the trial Court, to test the evidence extrinsically as well as intrinsically and to consider as thoroughly as the trial Court, all the circumstances available on the record so as to arrive at an independent finding regarding guilt or innocence of the convict. An Appellate Court fails in the discharge of one of its essential duties, if it fails to itself appreciate the evidence on the record and arrive at an independent finding based on the appraisal of such evidence."

(41) In view of the aforesaid discussion and upon considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case, the prosecution story and the involvement of the appellant in the murder of the deceased, cannot be said to have been proved beyond reasonable doubt. Thus, this Court is of the view that the appellant is entitled for benefit of doubt.

(42) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Moniruddin Ahmed alias Lalu Dealer and Others Vs. State of West Bengal (Supra), has held that it is basic law that the prosecution is to prove that the accused was present at the scene and had participated in the crime and once the prosecution succeeds in discharging its burden, it is incumbent on the accused, who adopts the plea of alibi, to prove it with certainty so as to exclude the possibility of his presence at the place of occurrence. The relevant paragraph 15 is extracted here-in-below:-

"15. It is basic law that the prosecution is to prove that the accused was present at the scene and had participated in the crime. The plea of the accused in such cases need be considered only when the burden has been discharged by the prosecution satisfactorily. However, once the prosecution succeeds in discharging its burden, it is incumbent on the accused, who adopts the plea of alibi, to prove it with certainty so as to exclude the possibility of his presence at the place of occurrence. It is also settled that when the presence of the accused at the scene of occurrence has been established satisfactorily by the prosecution through reliable evidence, normally the court would be slow to believe any counter-evidence to the effect that he was elsewhere when the occurrence happened. In the case on hand, we have already noted the absolute evidence indicating the presence of Lalu Dealer at the scene of occurrence. He was not only at the spot but also caused the death of Abdul Hasib by a fatal blow with spear. As rightly observed by the High Court, the stand taken by the defence witnesses is unacceptable."

(43) Adverting to the facts of the present case, as discussed above, there is material contradiction in the prosecution case, as set up in the F.I.R., and the prosecution witnesses and among themselves and the material on record. The case set up by the prosecution has also not been completely proved by the prosecution witnesses. There is material contradiction in the ocular evidence account of the prosecution witnesses i.e. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2, in which there is contradiction in the manner of assault and the gun shot fires and the presence of the persons, who fired, considering which as well as the evidence adduced by the defense and the material placed on record, the accused persons have been acquitted except the appellant. Thus, there is serious cloud on prosecution story because all the accused, except the appellant, have been acquitted considering the plea of alibi, which has been proved. It is true that parity cannot be claimed in the plea of alibi and it is to be specifically pleaded and proved but certainly it raises serious doubt about the prosecution case.

(44) The prosecution has also failed to produce the best witnesses to prove the demand of dowry and harassment on account thereof and death of deceased, therefore, it appears that the plea was taken by P.W.-1 that the parents of the deceased and the complainant are not alive, whereas according to evidence of P.W.-2, they were alive. The testimony of such a person, who only to get his brother-in-law convicted by taking a plea of death of his parents, creates serious doubts about his testimony and it appears that they and the Kamlesh, the eye witness have been withheld so that the correct thing or picture may not come before the Court. This Court is of the view that evidence of such a witness could not be accepted, unless it is corroborated by the other evidence and material on record because if a person can state in his evidence on oath that his parents are not alive then he can do anything.

(45) This Court also cannot lose sight of the fact that on the basis of same prosecution evidence, all the accused, except the appellant, have been acquitted on one or other ground, as their presence has not been found at the place of incident and the fact that an eye witness i.e. uncle of the complainant, Kamlesh has not been produced in evidence and, admittedly, he had not returned to the place of incident after the incident, it creates serious doubt on prosecution story. Thus, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has failed to prove it's case beyond reasonable doubt but the learned Trial Court even after finding contradictions in ocular evidence account and falsehood in evidence of complainant convicted the appellant, discarding it on probabilities and assumption.

(46) The appeal is, accordingly, allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 27.03.2012, convicting and sentencing the appellant, is hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted. The appellant is in jail. He shall be released forthwith, if he is not required in any other case.

(47) Let a copy of this judgment as well as Trial Court's record be sent to the Court concerned forthwith and in any case within a week from today for information and compliance.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.
THE HON'BLE VINAI KUMAR DWIVEDI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1502 of 2021 and Jail Appeal No. 63 of 2021

Smt. Seema Gupta ...Appellant

Versus

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to "whether the inculpatory circumstances urged by the prosecution form that unbroken chain, which leads to no other conclusion, but the appellants' guilt" and "whether the victims died by homicide or suicide." (Para 14, 25)

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 read with S. 34 - Murder - Circumstantial evidence - Homicidal vs. Suicidal strangulation - Motive - Honour killing - Daughter's pregnancy outside wedlock - Burden of proof under S. 106 of the Evidence Act.

Criminal Law - Circumstantial Evidence - "the case rests entirely on circumstantial evidence if these form that unbroken chain beyond all reasonable doubt." (Para 14)

Motive - Illicit Relationship & Pregnancy - "daughter entered into carnal relations pregnancy outside wedlock serves as a motive." (Paras 16, 20-21)

Homicidal Death vs Suicide - Strangulation - "strangulation is mostly consistent with a case of homicide and suicidal strangulation is rare." (Para 36)

Absence of Contrivance - Suicidal Strangulation Ruled Out - "no such contrivance was found rules out suicide by self-strangulation." (Paras 36-37)

Place of Occurrence - Inside Accused's Premises - "dead bodies were lying inside a room located on the appellants' premises." (Para 44)

Burden under S. 106 Evidence Act - "burden would lie upon the appellants to explain the circumstances within their special knowledge." (Para 45)

Alibi-Failure - "alibi has to be strictly proved does not inspire confidence." (Para 59)

Extra-Judicial Confession – Inadmissible - "confessions while in police custody inadmissible under S. 26 Evidence Act." (Paras 66-69)

Chain of Circumstances Complete - "complete and unbroken chain only consistent with the guilt." (Para 76)

Held: This is a commonplace homicidal death by strangulation and certainly not suicidal strangulation - burden under S. 106 lies upon the appellants to explain homicidal death - failure to explain would add a link pointing to the appellants' guilt - the alibi does not inspire confidence failure becomes a further damning circumstance - appellants having failed to come up with a cogent explanation serves as an important link - circumstances proved establish a complete and unbroken chain only consistent with the guilt - Conviction under S. 302/34 IPC rightfully convicted appeals fail and are dismissed. (Paras 38,45,46,59,61,76,78) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Judgment and order dated 18.02.2020 Sessions Trial No.519 of 2014 convicting the appellants under S. 302/34 IPC.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Ms. Shweta Singh Rana, learned Counsel for the appellants

Advs. for the Respondents:

Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This appeal is directed against a judgment and order of Mr. Mohd. Quamar, the then Additional Sessions Judge/ Fast Track Court No.2, Shahjahanpur dated 18.02.2020 passed in Sessions Trial No.519 of 2014, convicting the appellants for an offence punishable under Section 302/ 34 of the Indian Penal Code (for short, 'IPC') and sentencing each of them to suffer imprisonment for life, besides a fine in the sum of Rs.10,000/- each; and, in default, ordering six months' simple imprisonment.

2. A First Information Report ('FIR' in short) was lodged by Brajesh Kumar with Police Station Kalan, District Shahjahanpur on 20.08.2014, saying that the informant was a resident of Village Mahodavan, Police Station Bilhaur, District Kanpur Nagar. His younger brother of full blood, Pradeep Kumar aged about 28 years, who was unmarried, was teaching for the three years past as a private tutor at Barah Kalan, P.S. Kalan. He was employed privately as a teacher with the Srinagar Inter College there. The employment would fetch him Rs.2500/- (presumably per month) and some money he would earn from the coaching he offered to students. Pradeep Kumar lived at Barah Kalan village in a room, he had rented from Mukesh Gupta, part of the latter's house. The informant's mother Smt. Siyarani would also frequent his brother's place. On 19.08.2014 at 11.38 p.m., the informant received a phone call on his mobile number 9621820180 from a mobile phone, bearing number 8853630754. The informant said that Mukesh Gupta had called him from Barah Kalan, who was his brother's landlord, telling him that the informant's brother had done something awful to his daughter. Mukesh Gupta, according to the informant, said that Pradeep had impregnated his daughter outside wedlock and he did not know what to do about it. The caller made Pradeep talk to the informant. The informant's brother told him that his landlord Mukesh Gupta and his wife Seema, accusing him of illicit relations with their daughter 'X', had locked him up in a room and intend to do him to death. He wanted to talk to their mother. The informant made their mother Siyarani talk to his brother, who was very panicky. The informant further on says that he and his mother pleaded with Mukesh and wife not to harm Pradeep and that he along with his mother would reach their place by the following morning. According to the informant, the way Mukesh Gupta spoke to him over mobile, made him sense some evil in the offing. Therefore, the informant, besides his mother, also took along Rakesh Katiyar, Narendra Katiyar, Ashok, Vinod, Ishwar Dayal and Pradeep, hiring a vehicle and left for Barah Kalan. The informant received a phone call from one Master Yadav, a colleague of his brother, calling from the latter's mobile number 7525079412, who informed him that his brother Pradeep Katiyar and 'X' have both been done to death by Mukesh Gupta and his wife Seema, throttling the two by tightening something around their neck. The informant and his family were deeply saddened and reached Barah Kalan only to find the dead bodies of his brother Pradeep and Mukesh's daughter 'X', lying in an anteroom of Mukesh Gupta's shop. The informant said that Mukesh and his wife had done the two to death on account of the illicit relations. The informant also reported that Mukesh owed his brother a sum of about Rs.1 lac. This too, according to the informant, was the reason for Mukesh to murder his brother and his own daughter.

3. On the basis of the said information, an FIR was lodged on 20.08.2014 at 12.30 p.m., giving rise to Case Crime No.429 of 2014, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Kalan, District Shahjahanpur. The Police commenced investigation. They held inquests regarding Pradeep

Kumar's unnatural death as well as that of 'X' on 20.08.2014. The inquest on Pradeep's cadaver commenced at 1.15 p.m. ending 2.25 p.m., whereas 'X's inquest commenced at 2.30 p.m. ending at 3.30 p.m. The dead bodies were then sent for autopsy. Pradeep Kumar's autopsy report dated 21.08.2014 opined the cause of death as asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem strangulation. 'X's autopsy report, also dated 21.08.2014, shows the cause of death as asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem strangulation.

4. There is on record a report from Verma Clinic and Maternity Home, Railway Station Road, Civil Lines, Budaun dated 19.08.2014, marked Ex. Ka-2, relating to 'X', which shows her to be in the family way.

5. The Police, after investigation, filed a charge-sheet on 17.09.2014 against Mukesh Gupta and Smt. Seema Gupta, his wife, charging them of an offence punishable under Section 302 IPC.

6. The learned Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the appellants. They appeared before the Court, whereupon the learned Magistrate furnished them copies of the relevant prosecution papers as provided under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Sessions, where it came up before the learned Sessions Judge for framing of charges.

7. The learned Sessions Judge vide order 19.11.2014 jointly charged Mukesh Gupta and Seema Gupta of sharing a common intention, and in furtherance thereof, murdering the informant's brother Pradeep Kumar and their daughter 'X' by throttling the two to death. They were charged with the commission of an offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC. The appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution produced the following witnesses in support of their case:

1. PW-1 - Brajesh Kumar, the first informant and brother of the deceased Pradeep Kumar,
2. PW-2 - Siyarani, mother of the deceased Pradeep Kumar,
3. PW-3 - Narendra Kumar, one of the men, who accompanied the informant from Bilhaur, Kanpur Nagar,
4. PW-4 - Rakesh, another man, who had accompanied the informant from Bilhaur, Kanpur Nagar,
5. PW-5 - Dr. Smt. Manju Verma, the doctor from Badaun, who had examined 'X', done an ultrasound of the abdomen and opined her pregnant,
6. PW-6 - Dr. Manoj Kumar Srivastava, who had done autopsy on the cadavers of Pradeep and 'X',
7. PW-7 - SI Prem Chandra Sharma, then a Head Moharrir posted at P.S. Kalan, District Shahjahanpur, who had registered the check FIR and made the necessary G.D. Entries,
8. PW-8 - Retired SI Ranveer Singh, then a Sub-Inspector posted at P.S. Kalan, District Shahjahanpur, who held inquests of the dead bodies, and,
9. PW-9 - Sher Singh Tomar, the then Station House Officer, P.S. Kalan, District Shahjahanpur and the Investigating Officer of the crime.

9. The following documentary evidence and materials were produced by the prosecution to establish their case:

20.	Material Ex. 2	Clothe by which the mobile was sealed

10. Upon conclusion of the prosecution evidence, statements of the appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

11. The Trial Court vide judgment and order dated 18.02.2020 has convicted and sentenced the appellants in the terms already indicated.

12. Aggrieved, Criminal Appeal No.1502 of 2021 has been instituted by Smt. Seema Gupta whereas Jail Appeal No.63 of 2021 has been preferred by Mukesh Gupta. Both the appeals have been heard together and proposed to be decided by this common judgment and order.

13. Heard Ms. Shweta Singh Rana, learned Counsel for the appellants in support of the present appeal and the connected Jail Appeal and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State.

14. The case rests entirely on circumstantial evidence as no one has seen the occurrence. We would, therefore, proceed to consider the inculpatory circumstances urged by the prosecution and find out if these form that unbroken chain, which leads to no other conclusion, but the appellants' guilt. On the other, we would consider the circumstances emphasized on behalf of the appellants in order to determine, if upon a realistic consideration of the prosecution case as a whole pitted against the appellants' evidence, a legitimate and probable doubt can be inferred about the prosecution story, so as to entitle the appellants to the benefit of it. It need not be gainsaid that the prosecution have to establish their case beyond all reasonable doubt.

15. The foremost is the motive that could have driven the appellants to take the life of their own daughter. Iconoclasts apart, the affinity of blood between the parents and a child would make the parents the most unlikely suspect in a child's murder. If not unique or rare, a very different kind of motive, is required for a sane and prudent person to deprive his/ her own child of the priceless thing called life. Nevertheless, there are some persons with deviant behaviour who could take such an unusual step and commit a crime of this kind, where another would never. More than that, there could be very prudent persons in the society who could take their child's life if confronted with certain kinds of circumstances that drive them counter to their ordinary instincts.

16. The evidence in this case suggests that the appellants' minor daughter, a girl of 15 years, entered into carnal relations with Pradeep Kumar, a matured man of 28 years. He stayed in the appellants' house as a tenant and earned his livelihood by privately coaching students, besides working as a teacher with the Srinagar Inter College. The carnal relationship between Pradeep and 'X' led the latter to conceive and the pregnancy had advanced. There is on record an ultrasound (obstetric) report dated 19.08.2014 proved by Dr. Manju Verma, Ex. Ka-2, which shows that on 19.08.2014, when the said report was scripted, 'X' was pregnant with a single live intrauterine foetus of 25 weeks. Dr. Manju Verma appeared in the witness-box as PW-5 and proved the aforesaid report. It is, thus, clearly established that the appellants' daughter, who was admittedly unmarried, was pregnant outside wedlock.

17. The fact of her pregnancy is further established upon a perusal of the autopsy report, Ex. Ka-4, dated 21.08.2014, which reports a gravid uterus. The autopsy report estimates the time of death as about one and a half day. The report being dated 21.08.2014, the date of death clearly works out to 19.08.2014, when Dr. Manju Verma's report, finding her pregnant, came into existence. According to the first informant, on 19.08.2014 at 11.38 p.m., he had received a phone call on his cellphone, where Mukesh Gupta, the appellant and 'X's father, called up the informant to say that the informant's brother had illicit relations with his daughter. He had impregnated her. Mukesh Gupta then put the informant's brother, Pradeep, on line, who said that Mukesh Gupta owed him a sum of Rs.1 lac and was falsely charging him of impregnating his daughter.

18. The informant also said in the FIR that his brother sounded very scared. The informant's family and acquaintances, all left for Barah Kalan, where the appellants lived, but later he received a phone call from a certain Ramveer Singh Yadav, saying that his brother Pradeep and 'X' had been murdered. This caller said that the appellants had tied nooses around Pradeep's and 'X's neck and done both of them to death. Upon arrival at the appellants' place, the informant found the dead bodies of his brother Pradeep and 'X' inside a room, part of Mukesh's house.

19. Testifying as PW-1, he has supported the first information version about receiving a phone call from the appellant Mukesh Gupta about his brother's illicit relations with his daughter, resulting in an unwanted pregnancy. The deceased was also put on line to speak to the informant, who said things about himself as reported in the FIR. In the examination-in-chief, these statements find place and also the fact that the informant's family left for Mukesh Gupta's place along with their relatives and associates at 7 o'clock in the morning of 20.08.2014, a fact which figures in the cross-examination of PW-1. It is then said in the examination-in-chief that later on the informant received a call from Master Ramveer Singh Yadav that his brother Pradeep and 'X' have been murdered. It was upon reaching Gupta's place that he went to his brother's room, where he found the dead bodies-both his brother's and 'X's. Mukesh was not to be found, but his wife was there, who is said to have told the informant that his brother had impregnated her daughter outside wedlock. It is also said in the informant's testimony that Mukesh's wife, that is to say, Smt. Seema Gupta, was shouting a confession that it is for this reason that she killed both of them.

20. The above evidence makes it pellucid that the appellants' daughter was believed by them to have been into an illicit relationship with the informant's brother, Pradeep, which resulted in her becoming pregnant outside wedlock. This fact was apparently believed to be true by both the appellants. As the unfolding of events would show the fact that 'X' was in the family way, the discovery on the 19th of August, 2014 apparently came as a big shock for the appellants going by the values of the society, of which they are a part. The appellants' reaction, which the informant has reported and the homicidal death of the two victims the same day that 'X's pregnancy was reported by the doctor, if indeed the appellants murdered the two victims, clearly serves as a motive for them to undertake the evil deed.

21. We must take judicial notice of the fact that since times of yore until contemporary ones, a daughter's pregnancy outside wedlock for an average Indian is a nightmare. It always invites uncontrollable reactions from parents, mostly violent, either for themselves or the daughter or the wrongdoer or both of them. The embarrassment would be there generally amongst any class of persons, but those refined by education might react in a different way, where notwithstanding disapproval, rapprochement etc., violence may or may not be there. Some might work towards avoiding the embarrassment devising some ways and means, legal or illegal. The appellants represent the ordinary and average cross-section of the Indian society, where extreme reactions to the situation are commonplace. Therefore, we are of opinion that the appellants had motive to commit the crime charged. The forceful submission of learned Counsel for the appellants, Ms. Sweta Singh Rana, that there was no motive established by the prosecution against the appellants, cannot be countenanced.

22. The next circumstance to be considered is the fact that in the late night hours of 19th August, 2014 at 11.38 p.m., the informant received a phone call on his cellphone number 9621820180 from cellphone number 8853630754. The caller identified himself as the appellant Mukesh Gupta from Barah Kalan and abruptly reported the fact to the informant that the latter's brother Pradeep Kumar was into an illicit relationship with Mukesh's daughter. He also said that Pradeep had impregnated his daughter. This circumstance shows that soon after the discovery of his daughter's pregnancy, the appellant Mukesh Gupta was desperate and called the deceased Pradeep's brother, the informant, over his cellphone late in the night. Apparently, as evidence would show, the two were not known to each other and much less on terms where one would call the other during late night hours. The subject of the phone call and the hour it was made, speaks of desperation that the appellant Mukesh Gupta experienced. Dovetailed into the above circumstance is the fact that the appellant Mukesh Gupta made the informant's brother speak to him over cellphone.

23. The telephonic conversation between the informant and his brother did reveal that Pradeep was facing an allegation of impregnating Mukesh's daughter by the latter and his wife, the other appellant Seema Gupta, and he sounded scared. The phone call that the informant received from Mukesh was followed by another two, which must have been later in the night. The informant made Mukesh speak to his own mother. There also, the subject matter was about his daughter's pregnancy. These facts find mention in the testimony of PW-1 (examination-in-chief) and that of his mother Smt. Siyarani, PW-2. As part of this circumstance is the fact that when the informant along with his family and associates reached Barah Kalan, the next day at 11.00 a.m., he found his brother and 'X' dead in a room, located inside the appellants' house, both strangulated.

24. The learned Counsel for the appellants has endeavoured to show that the communication over cellphone about his brother's death at 6.00 a.m. in the morning from Ramveer Singh Yadav before he reached Barah Kalan or even left for that destination, is incorrect about the timing, which would be proved from the cellphone record. She has invited our attention to Ex. Ka-21 in this connection, where the informant received a call from Ramveer Singh Yadav at 10.38 a.m. and not 6.00 a.m. on 20.08.2014. The timing of the phone call reporting the murder is not at all material, even if there is some discrepancy about it. What is material is the circumstance that the appellant Mukesh Gupta was very agitated in the evening of 19.08.2014 upon discovery of his daughter's pregnancy. He blamed it upon the deceased, which made him call the informant late at night on 19.08.2014, and, again still later in the night once again. These together with the fact that the victims were murdered sometimes between the late night hours on 19.08.2014 and the morning hours on 20.08.2014 before 11.00 a.m., and their bodies were found in a room, located inside the appellants' premises, make the picture inculpatory.

25. If the deaths were homicidal or suicidal, is the next moot question. The prosecution say that the deaths were homicidal, pointing an unerring finger towards the appellants, whereas the appellants say that the two victims died by suicide. The relevant fact here is whether the victims died by homicide or suicide. If they died by suicide, there would be no culpability for the appellants. However, if they died as a result of homicide, it would add to the chain of circumstances appearing against the appellants.

26. The learned A.G.A. has argued forcefully that not only the victims were murdered, but it is a case of honour killing, where the appellants eliminated the two, outraged over the illicit relationship between their daughter and the informant's brother, which would disgrace them in society.

27. In order to determine whether the deaths were suicidal or homicidal, the nature of injuries as evidenced by the autopsy and the surrounding circumstances have to be evaluated.

28. The autopsy report relating to the deceased Pradeep, Ex. Ka-3, notices the following ante-mortem injury(s):

(1) A Ligature mark - 40cm x 3.0cm all around the neck continuous encircling horizontally and completely, Ligature mark is situated below thyroid cartilage 6.0cm below Rt. mastoid process & 7.0cm below chin and 6.0cm below left mastoid process, the bone of the groove reddish with echhymosed margin on section subcutaneous tissue mid the ligature mark is echhymosed.

29. The cause of death opined is 'asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem strangulation'. Though the hyoid bone has not been found fractured, but the tracheal rings are fractured.

30. The autopsy report relating to the deceased 'X', Ex. Ka-4, reports the following ante-mortem injury(s):

(1) A Ligature mark - 30.0cm x 4.0cm all around the neck continuous encircling horizontally and completely, Ligature mark is situated below thyroid cartilage 6.5cm below chin 5.5cm below Rt. mastoid process 5.6cm below Lt. mastoid process. The base of groove reddish with echhymosed margin on section subcutaneous tissue under the ligature mark is echhymosed.

31. The cause of death is asphyxia as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The tracheal rings and hyoid bone both were found fractured.

32. The autopsy doctor, Dr. Manoj Kumar Srivastava, PW-6, who entered the witness-box to prove the postmortem reports, after a description of the injuries and whatever he found during autopsy in his examination-in-chief, has said in his cross-examination that he did not find any other external injury or abrasion, except the ligature mark on the cadavers. There was no sign of struggle. According to the autopsy report, it could be a case of suicide because there was no sign of struggle. Ex. Ka-4 does not mention any external injury. The deceased 'X' could have died by suicide. It is possible, according to the autopsy doctor, that both the deceased died by suicide.

33. The learned Counsel for the appellants has harped much on the testimony of the autopsy doctor as well as the evidence of PW-3 and PW-4 to submit that no injuries were found on the dead bodies. She has invited our attention to the testimony of PW-3, where in his cross-examination, this witness, Narendra Kumar, has said:

"लाश को मैंने देखा था लेकिन उस पर कोई चोट नहीं थी।"

34. The learned Counsel for the appellants has also emphasized that the autopsy doctor has observed that the deceased Pradeep Kumar was a well built man with a heavy body structure. It is submitted by the learned Counsel for the appellants with great force that the lack of any other injury, except the ligature mark that resulted in deaths, shows that the deceased, particularly Pradeep, died without struggle. This in turn, according to the learned Counsel, would decisively indicate that there was no altercation, employment of force or struggle, which is characteristic of a murder by strangulation. The absence of no other injury, except the fatal wound, indicates that the death was suicidal. To a pointed query by us that strangulation was incompatible with a case of suicide and that it was suggestive of homicide, the learned Counsel for the appellants impressed upon us the fact that medical jurisprudence recognized cases, where suicide could be committed by strangulation. She has relied upon the celebrated treaties on medical jurisprudence, entitled 'A Textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology' by Jaising P Modi, Twenty Seventh Edition. She has invited our attention to the tabulated differences between telltale signs of death by hanging on one hand and strangulation, on the other, mentioned in Chapter 20-'Deaths from Asphyxia' at Pages 586 and 587. She has referred to the first item in the table, which says that hanging is mostly suicidal, whereas strangulation is mostly homicidal. The learned Counsel for the appellants urges that this comparison of difference shows that strangulation is not always consistent with a case of homicide. There could be suicidal strangulation as well. In order to further impress upon us the aforesaid fact, the learned Counsel has drawn our attention to the following passage in Modi at Page No.585:

"20.3.6.2 Whether the Strangulation was Suicidal, Homicidal or Accidental Suicidal strangulation is not very common, though sometimes cases are met with. In these cases, some contrivance is always made to keep the ligature tight after insensibility supervenes. This is done by twisting a cord several times round the neck and then tying a knot, which is usually single and in front or at the side or back of the neck, by twisting a cord tightly by means of a stick, stone or some other solid material, or by tightening the ends of a cord by tying them to the hands or feet or to a peg in a wall or to the leg of bed. In such cases, injuries to the deep structures of the neck and marks of violence on other parts of the body are, as a rule, absent."

35. The learned A.G.A, on the other hand, has submitted that there is no doubt about the fact that the deceased died by strangulation, which, under the overall circumstances, is consistent with homicide; not suicide.

36. We have given a thoughtful consideration to the matter. Medico-legal opinion generally accepts the position that strangulation is mostly consistent with a case of homicide and suicidal strangulation is rare. The exposition in Modi, relied upon eloquently, accepts it for a fact that suicidal strangulation is uncommon. In cases where suicidal strangulation may have happened, Modi acknowledges that some contrivance is always employed to keep the ligature tight until time that consciousness is lost and life ebbs away. Modi has clearly opined that, "This is done by twisting a cord several times round the neck and then tying a knot, which is usually single and in front or at the side or back of the neck, by twisting a cord tightly by means of a stick, stone or some other solid material, or by tightening the ends of a cord by tying them to the hands or feet or to a peg in a wall or to the leg of bed". These are the contrivances that must be employed in order to keep the ligature tight until fatal effect sets in. In this case, no such contrivance was found around the dead bodies.

37. It is not that there was a cord or a ligature that was attached to a peg or the bedpost in order to exert constant pressure consistent with a case of self-strangulation, and, a fortiori suicide. The autopsy doctor, PW-6, has no doubt testified to the fact that there is no other injury or sign of struggle on the dead body. He has opined that going by the autopsy report, it could be a case of suicide because there was no sign of struggle. He has also opined that in both cases, that is to say, the cases of Pradeep and 'X', it is possible that deaths were caused by suicide. The testimony of PW-6 on this point is after all opinion evidence of an expert. Here also, the cross-examination does not show that it was put to the doctor, based on what Modi has opined, if in the absence of a contrivance to sustain the fatal pressure through ligatures, it could still possibly be a case of death by suicide in one or both the cases. Therefore, the doctor's opinion too does not have any decisive bearing on the point, where any inference about a case of that rare kind, that is self-strangulation, can be drawn. In this connection, reference may be made to Godabarish Mishra v. Kuntala Mishra and another, (1996) 11 SCC 264, where it was held:

"23. In our view, the case of committing suicide by self-strangulation by the deceased must be ruled out. Both in Modi's Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology and in Talyor's Principles and Practice of Medical Jurisprudence, to which our attention was drawn by Mr Ranjit Kumar, it has been clearly indicated that suicide by self-strangulation is very rare. For committing suicide by self-strangulation, the person committing suicide must take aid of a contrivance so as to ensure application of sufficient force until death by strangulation. Without such contrivance, sufficient force cannot be applied because initially with the application of force, insensitivity will develop for which the hands pulling the ends of the string must get loosened. In the instant case, no contrivance was noticed either by PW 6 and PW 7 who had come to examine the deceased on hearing the alarm. The accused has also not seen any contrivance at the place of incident and in her statement under Section 313 Criminal Procedure Code, she has not disclosed any fact, which was within her special knowledge, in support of a case of suicide by self-strangulation.

25. In the instant case, it has been clearly established that the death occurred on account of strangulation. Simply because the doctor (PW 11) noticed injuries on the deep muscle of the neck of the deceased at the time of holding post-mortem, it cannot be held that such injuries noticed by the doctor had convincingly established that it was a case of death by self-strangulation, because of what has been opined by Modi. We may indicate here that suicide by self-strangulation, according to the learned author, is a rare incident. Such view has also been expressed in Taylor's Principle and Practice of Medical Jurisprudence. It is not unlikely that for want of large number of cases of suicide by strangulation to be studied carefully, various features associated with such suicide could not be indicated more precisely. That apart, opinions expressed in the said treatise are, at best, opinions of expert, which though deserve due consideration with respect, cannot be held absolutely conclusive particularly, when other evidences clearly established give a contra-indication.

26. It may also be indicated here that both in Modi's book on medical jurisprudence and Taylor's book on medical jurisprudence, it has been categorically stated that for committing suicide by self-strangulation, the aid of a contrivance to maintain force till death is got to be taken, otherwise, it is not possible to maintain the force required. The absence of such contrivance clearly rules out any possibility of suicide by self-strangulation. In the aforesaid fact, excepting the accused no other person had any opportunity whatsoever to cause the murder of the deceased. The circumstantial evidence in this case are absolutely clinching in establishing the complicity of the accused in committing the murder of the deceased. The view taken by the High Court is clearly against the weight of the evidence and cannot be held to be a possible view which could have been taken."

38. We, therefore, hold that this is a commonplace homicidal death by strangulation and certainly not that uncommon and rare case of suicidal strangulation.

39. The circumstance that the homicides happened in a room, that is part of the appellants' premises, about which no alternative explanation as to who, besides the appellants, had access or could have committed homicide, is very relevant in the chain of circumstances.

40. PW-1, Brajesh Kumar, in his examination-in-chief has testified:

".. फिर मैं प्रदीप के कमरे पर आया। मेरे भाई की और 'x' की लाश कमरे के अन्दर पड़ी थी।..."

41. PW-2, Smt. Siyarani, has stated in her examination-in-chief:

".... जब हम लोग मुकेश के मकान पर वीराकलाँ पहुंचे तो मेरा लड़का प्रदीप मुकेश के अन्दर घर के कमरे मे मरा पड़ा था तथा दूसरी तरफ उसकी लड़की 'x' मरी पड़ी थी।....."

42. PW-3, Narendra Kumar, has testified in the examination-in-chief about the place, where the dead bodies have been found, thus:

"..... और 11 बजे बारह कला पहुचे जब हम लोग मुकेश व सीमा के घर पहुंचे तो देखा प्रदीप मरा पड़ा था उसके गले कपड़ा लिपटा था तथा पड़ोस के ही सीमा की बेटी 'x' का भी लाश पड़ी थी उसके गले मे भी कपड़ा बंधा था।...."

43. Likewise, PW-4, Rakesh, has stated in his examination-in-chief:

"..... सभी लोग सफेद गाड़ी से बाराकला को निकले मै भी था, बाराकला सुबह करीब 10-11 बजे के बीच मे पहुंचे, मुकेश गुप्ता के मकान मे बहुत भीड़ थी तथा पुलिस भी मौजूद थी उसके बाद हम लोग मकान के अन्दर गये तथा एक कमरे मे गले मे फन्दा लगी दो लाश एक प्रदीप की थी तथा दूसरी मुकेश गुप्ता की लड़की की थी...."

44. In the cross-examination of some of these witnesses, though endeavour has been made to ascertain the geographical location of Mukesh Gupta's house or the size of the room, where the dead bodies were found lying, there is neither suggestion given nor anything elicited from the prosecution witnesses to contradict their consistent stand that the dead bodies were lying inside a room located on the appellants' premises. The other things apart, even if the room, where the dead bodies were found, was tenanted to the deceased Pradeep, it was an integral part of the appellants' premises. Therefore, some explanation has to be given by the appellants about the circumstances in which Pradeep and their daughter were murdered, consistent with their innocence. This is particularly so as both the dead bodies were lying in the same room within the appellants' premises.

45. A careful perusal of the site-plan shows that Pradeep's rented room is to the west of the room where the dead bodies were found. It is, therefore, apparent that the room where the dead bodies were found, was not the room in which Pradeep lived, but a part of the premises in the appellants' occupation. The dead bodies have been found inside a room located on the appellants' premises, which too was not in Pradeep's exclusive tenancy. Burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act would lie upon the appellants to explain the circumstances, in which the deceased met with a homicidal death. This is so because it is the appellants, who are the owners and inmates of the house and would have special knowledge of the fact, which no one else has seen or could possibly see.

46. Admittedly, this is a case of circumstantial evidence. So far as the prosecution are concerned, none amongst those who have testified for the prosecution or could have testified for them, have seen what have happened inside the appellants′ house on the fateful night of 19/20th August, 2014, leading to Pradeep and 'X′s homicidal death. It is, therefore, for the appellants to explain the circumstances in which the homicide was committed. A failure to explain the circumstances or giving an explanation, which is not found true, would add a link to the circumstances, pointing to the appellants' guilt. In Gajanan Dashrath Kharate v. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 4 SCC 604, it was held by the Supreme Court:

"13. As seen from the evidence, appellant Gajanan and his father Dashrath and mother Mankarnabai were living together. On 7-4-2002, mother of the appellant-accused had gone to another Village Dahigaon. The prosecution has proved presence of the appellant at his home on the night of 7-4-2002. Therefore, the appellant is duty-bound to explain as to how the death of his father was caused. When an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on the accused to offer. On the date of the occurrence, when the accused and his father Dashrath were in the house and when the father of the accused was found dead, it was for the accused to offer an explanation as to how his father sustained injuries. When the accused could not offer any explanation as to the homicidal death of his father, it is a strong circumstance against the accused that he is responsible for the commission of the crime."

47. In order to give an explanation about the crime committed on their premises, the appellants have come forward under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'Cr.P.C.') and put in separate statements under Section 233(2) Cr.P.C. The explanation offered by the two appellants are complementary. The appellant Seema Gupta in her written statement has said that her minor son Vagesh, aged 12 years, had sustained burn injuries 3-4 days after Holi from heated oil and he was undergoing treatment. In the night intervening 19/20.08.2014, she was asleep on the upper floor of her house along with her son Vagesh aged 12 years, daughters Babita aged 10 years, Sarita aged 8 years and son Kuldeep aged 6 years. Her daughter 'X′ was asleep on the ground floor.

48. Her husband at the relevant time owned a Maxi Mahindra Mini Truck, bearing registration No. UP-27T-5190. He had left for Jaswant Nagar, Etawah with a herd of goats to sell them off in some kind of a Wednesday market there. When the appellant Seema Gupta woke up on the following morning, she called out her daughter 'X', but there was no response. When she came down to the ground floor, she saw Pradeep and 'X' lying dead in Pradeep's room. She informed her husband over his cellphone No. 9794339343 from a P.C.O. Upon his bidding, she called the Barah Kalan Police Chowki, P.S. Kalan, informing them of the two deaths. The Police detained her at the Chowki and informed Pradeep's family members. After their arrival, the Police concocted a story and got this appellant and her husband implicated in the crime. She has further said that Cell No. 8853630754 does not belong to her or her husband. The Police's story is fabricated and she is innocent.

49. Likewise, the appellant Mukesh Gupta in his statement under Section 313 read with Section 233(2) Cr.P.C. has said that he had left home in his Maxi Truck, bearing registration No. UP-27T-5190, along with driver Jaiveer son of Ravindra, on 19.08.2014 with a herd of goats to sell at Jaswant Nagar, Etawah in the Wednesday market there. He received a phone call over his Cell No. 9794339343 from his wife that his daughter 'X' and Pradeep's dead bodies were lying in Pradeep's room. He promptly advised his wife to inform the Police. His wife informed the Barah Kalan Police Chowki, P.S. Kalan. The Police called up Pradeep's home at Kanpur Nagar and also informed S.O. P.S. Kalan. In the early morning hours, the Police carried off both the dead bodies to P.S. Kalan and upon arrival of Pradeep's family members, concocted a story, implicating him and his wife in a false case. He has then said that his wife was sleeping with the children on the upper flour and that Pradeep and 'X' had committed suicide. This appellant has also stated that mobile No. 8853630754 does not belong to him and the Police have concocted the entire story.

50. The appellants entered defence and examined two defence witnesses, to wit, Jaiveer son of Ravi, DW-1 and Sone Lal @ Sonu son of Om Prakash, DW-2.

51. Jaiveer is the driver, who is said to have driven the appellant Mukesh Gupta on his trade journey to Jaswant Nagar Etawah to sell off goats in the Wednesday market there. DW-1 has testified in his examination-in-chief thus:

"……मैं प्राइवेट चालक हूं तथा मेरे पास कई वर्षो से वाहन चलाने का लाइसेंस है करीब 5-6 वर्षो से हैवि वाहन चलाने का लाइसेंस है हाज़िर अदालत मुल्जिम मुकेश गुप्ता के पास मैक्सी मेहिन्द्र छोटा ट्रक UP 27 T 5190 था जिसको मैं मुकेश गुप्ता के साथ रहकर चलाता था, दिनांक 19-8-2014 को मगंलवार के दिन धर्मेन्द्र व्यापारी की बकरियां लोड करके जसवतनगर इटावा लेकर मुकेश गुप्ता के साथ गया था सुबह करीब चार बजे जसवंतनगर के पास ढावे पर रोक गये थे। सुबह के समय मुकेश गुप्ता के मोबाईल नम्बर 9794339343 पर मुकेश गुप्ता की पत्नी सीमा गुप्ता का फोन आया जिस पर मुकेश गुप्ता ने उन्हे चौकी पर पुलिस को सूचना देने को कहा था तथा मुझे बताया था कि 'x' और प्रदीप ने प्रदीप के कमरे में लाशें पड़ी होने की बात बतायी है उस दिन सुबह बुधवार था....."

52. In his cross-examination, DW-1 has said:

"मैं तारीख पता चलने पर आया हूं पुलिस ने विवेचना के दौरान पुलिस ने मुझसे कोई पूछताछ नही किया था और न ही मैने पुलिस को कुछ बताया था अब मुकेश गुप्ता का ट्रक उनके पास नही है। बीक चुका है। घटना के दो तीन माह बाद बिक गया था इस घटना के बाद भी मैं ट्रक चलाता रहा मुझे वकील साहब ने कोई गवाही नही सिखाई है। 'x' प्रदीप जब मरे थे तब मैं मौके पर नही था ट्रक लेकर गया था यह कहना गलत है कि मैने जो भी बयान दिया वह मुकेश गुप्ता के वकील साहब के सिखाने की वजह से झूठा दिया है। यह भी कहना गलत है कि दिनांक 19-8-2019 को शाम के वक्त मुकेश गुप्ता के साथ बकरियां लेकर जसवंत नगर इटावा न गया हो।....."

53. DW-2 Sone Lal @ Sonu, who is a brother (Sadhu) of Mukesh Gupta, has endeavoured to explain how the Police planted Cell No. 8853630754 by making him and his mother sign blank papers. He has stated in his examination-in-chief thus:

".... हाज़िर अदालत अभियुक्त मुकेश गुप्ता मेरे साढ़ू है 'x' की मृत्यु के करीब 15 दिन पश्चात मैं अपनी मां के साथ मुकेश गुप्ता के घर पर व उनके छोटे छोटे बच्चों की देखभाल के लिए था मेरी पत्नि भी वही थी पुलिस वाले मुकेश गुप्ता के घर पर आये और मुझसे व मेरी मां से एक साथ कागज पर दस्तखत कराये थे लेकिन मैने उन्हे कोई मोबाइल सिम पड़ा हुआ या बिना सिम का नही दिया था। मुझसे व मेरी मां से दस्तखत कराते समय कागज सादा था। कोई लिखापढ़ी नही हुई थी। 'x' की मृत्यु के समय मुकेश गुप्ता के साथ मोबाइल नं0 9794339343 रहता था। मुकेश गुप्ता का मोबाइल नं0 8853630754 नही था। किसका था? मुझे नही पता।

पत्रावली में संलग्न कागज सं0 7क जो प्रदर्श क-16 हैं, पर मेरे हस्ताक्षर बने है। तथा मेरी मां के भी हस्ताक्षर बने है लेकिन उस पर सारी लिखा पढ़ी पुलिस ने बाद में थी। मैने कोई मोबाइल फोन पुलिस को नही दिया था और न ही किसी पुलिस वाले ने मुझसे पूछताछ की थी।"

54. In his cross-examination, DW-2 has stated:

"यह कहना गलत है कि मोबाइल नं0 8853630754 मैने पुलिस को दिया हो।

यह कहना गलत है कि पुलिस ने फर्द की लिखा पढ़ी करके सुनाकर मुझसे उस पर हस्ताक्षर कराये हो।"

55. The appellants have endeavoured to come with a consistent explanation, or rather an alibi, demonstrating their absence from the scene of crime - in case of the appellant Mukesh Gupta from his house and village, and in case of Seema Gupta, from the part of the house, where the crime was committed. We are afraid that it cannot be accepted.

56. So far as Mukesh Gupta is concerned, who has pleaded his absence from home in his alibi, relies on the testimony of the driver, who is said to have driven him to Jaswant Nagar, Etawah with a herd of goats belonging to Dharmendra, a trader in livestock on Tuesday, the 19th of August. No doubt, this witness has supported the appellants' case of driving to Jaswant Nagar, Etawah with goats belonging to Dharmendra, which Mukesh would sell in the Wednesday market there, as well as the case of Mukesh receiving a call from his wife at 4.00 a.m. in the morning of 20th about the crime, but it is a well regarded principle that if the prosecution have established the presence of the accused at the scene of crime, alibi is a plea which has to be strictly proved by the defence. Now, in this case, proof of Mukesh Gupta's presence at the scene of crime has been established by the prosecution witnesses, PW-1 and PW-2, that is to say, Brajesh Kumar, the deceased Pradeep's brother and PW-2, Smt. Siyarani, Pradeep's mother. It has been categorically said by these witnesses in their examination-in-chief that Mukesh made Pradeep speak to both of them over cellphone.

57. PW-1 has testified to the fact that a call was received on his cellphone No. 9621820180 from cellphone No. 8853630754. This cellphone may not be using a simcard issued in the name of Mukesh Gupta, but was certainly in his use. The Police recovered this SIM number on 09.09.2014, lodged in a mobile Nokia, black colourded handset, from Sonu Gupta, Mukesh Gupta's brother-in-law (Sadhu) and placed it under a seal. The recovery memo, relating to this mobile phone carrying cell No. 8853630754, was prepared in the presence of two witnesses, to wit, Yogesh Kumar Gupta and Gyan Devi Gupta. The calls, that PW-1 received on his cellphone No. 9621820180 from Mukesh Gupta, according to the call detail record, Ex. Ka-19, were two in number on 19.08.2014. The first call was made at 11.53 p.m. and the other at 11.55 p.m. This call detail record has been proved by the Investigating Officer, PW-9, in his testimony sufficiently to establish its veracity. It was this mobile phone, which was used by Mukesh Gupta to speak to PW-1, the first informant. Even if it be assumed that PW-1 was not familiar with Mukesh Gupta's voice, he was certainly familiar with his brother, the deceased Pradeep's voice. The conversation, that PW-1 had with Mukesh and Pradeep through these calls, is reported by PW-1 in his examination-in-chief thus:

"दि० 19-8-2014 को रात 11.38 पर मेरे फोन नं० 9621820180 पर फोन नम्बर 8853630754 से फोन आया। पहले कहा कि सीमा गुप्ता बोल रही थी। फिर कहा कि मुकेश गुप्ता बाराकलां बोल रहा हूँ और इन्होंने बताया कि आपके भाई प्रदीप कुमार के मेरी लड़की के साथ नाजायज सम्बन्ध है। प्रदीप ने मेरी लड़की को गर्भवती बना दिया है। फिर मुकेश गुप्ता ने मेरे भाई प्रदीप से मेरी बात करायी। प्रदीप ने मुझे बताया कि मेरे मकेश गुप्ता पर एक लाख रूपये उधार के है। जिसकी मैंने उनसे मांग की थी। तब उन लोगों ने मुकेश गुप्ता व सीमा गुप्ता ने यह आरोप लगा दिया कि तुमने हमारी लड़की 'x' को बिन ब्याहे गर्भवती बना दिया। उसके बाद मेरे भाई से फोन ले लिया गया। मेरा भाई बात करते समय बहुत डरा-डरा था। बाद में फिर फोन आया 2 बार आया तब मेरी माँ से बात हुई दुबारा फोन आया तो कहा कि मेरी बेटी को गर्भवती बना दिया है।"

58. PW-2, who is PW-1's mother, also had a conversation with Mukesh Gupta and Pradeep on PW-1's cellphone No. 9621820180 with Mukesh speaking using cellphone bearing No.

8853630754. This call was made within minutes of the first call in the night of 19th August. PW-2, Smt. Siyarani, has reported the subject matter of the call in her examination-in-chief as follows:

"दिनांक 19.8.2014 को रात मे फोन आया था। मेरे बड़े लड़के ब्रजेश के पास, फोन आया था। फोन मुकेश गुप्ता का था। मेरे लड़के ने बात की उसके बाद मेरे लड़के ने मुकेश से मेरी बात करायी मुकेश ने मुझसे कहा कि तुम्हारे लड़के प्रदीप ने मेरी लड़की को गर्भवती बना दिया है। मैने कहा कि जो भी बात हुई हो मै सुबह आ जाऊंगी फिर मैने मुकेश से कहा कि प्रदीप से मेरी बात करा दो तो प्रदीप से मेरी बात हुई तो मुकेश ने मेरे लड़के प्रदीप को फोन दिया। मैने उधर से कहा कि बेटा तुम कहां हो? प्रदीप ने बताया कि मै मुकेश गुप्ता के घर मे हूं। मैने कहा कि इतनी रात में तुम वहां क्या कर रहे हो तो प्रदीप ने बताया कि मेरे एक लाख रुपया मुकेश पर उधार के है जो मैने मांगे है वही रुपये दने के लिए मुझे आज मुकेश ने अपने घर बुलाया था। जब मै घर आया तो मुकेश ने अपनी बेटी के साथ मेरे गलत सम्बन्ध होने का। आरोप मुझपर लगाया है और कह रहे है कि हम तुमको जान से मार देंगे। मेरा लड़का बहुत घबराया हुआ था और कह रहा था कि अम्मा जल्दी आ जाओ नही तो ये लोग हमे मार देंगे।"

59. In his cross-examination, PW-1 has stood by his case that he received the phone call from Mukesh Gupta using mobile No. 8853630754 in the dead of night on 19.08.2014, where he spoke whatever has been extracted hereinabove, and at the same time made Pradeep speak to PW-1. Mukesh also made Pradeep, the deceased, speak to PW-2, who is PW-1's mother as well as Pradeep's. These facts go to establish that in the late night hours of 19th August, Pradeep and Mukesh were together. Since Pradeep died in the night intervening 19/ 20.08.2014 at Barah Kalan in Mukesh's house, it is evident that Mukesh was present in his house about time when the crime was committed. The alibi that Mukesh has put forward of leaving Barah Kalan to sell goats, belonging to a cattle trader, on his Mini Truck for Jaswant Nagar, Etawah, does not inspire confidence. The reason, all the more why the testimony of DW-1, Jaiveer, the driver, who claims to have driven Mukesh to Jaswant Nagar on 19th, does not inspire confidence, is that except for his bald assertions, there are no documents to evidence the journey to Jaswant Nagar. Taking it that there would be no consignment notes or GST papers for the stock that the two were carrying to Jaswant Nagar, considering the petty nature of their trade, there would certainly be toll receipts from different toll plaza or tollbooths lying on way, a charge always levied on vehicles moving on highways. Even if there was no tollbooths on way, there would be some other documents, such as a fuel receipt of the relevant date from a distant place to show that the journey, in fact, was undertaken. In the absence of any document to prove that the journey to Jaswant Nagar was, in fact, undertaken, may be through a substantial distance, if not all the way, it is difficult to believe the bald testimony of DW-1 for the standard to prove an alibi are by means of evidence of the highest quality. The appellant Mukesh Gupta's presence at the place and time of crime being established, the failure of his alibi becomes a further damning circumstance in the chain.

60. So far as the other appellant, Seema Gupta is concerned, she has urged a case that she was fast asleep in a room on the upper floor of the house along with four of her children and came to know of the crime in the morning, when she got up and called her daughter 'X'. It is, indeed, unbelievable that 'X', who herself was a minor, aged 15 years and was discovered to be pregnant in a test done earlier in the day on 19th at Budaun, would have been left by the appellant Seema Gupta to sleep by herself on the ground floor, a part of the house where Pradeep was staying in his room. Pradeep was after all blamed of impregnating 'X'.

61. The learned Trial Judge has also adopted this reasoning to reject the appellant Seema Gupta's case of alibi placing her away from the crime scene and we wholeheartedly agree with the learned Trial Judge's reasoning on this score. Seema Gupta's alibi too having failed the circumstance that homicides happened in a room, that is part of the appellants' premises, stares in the appellants' face. The appellants having failed to come up with a cogent explanation supported by necessary evidence about the twin homicides inside their house, the fact serves as an important link in the chain of evidence against the appellants, speaking about their complicity.

62. The next circumstance is an extrajudicial confession by the appellant, Seema Gupta, which though in itself a weak evidence, but read together with the other circumstances, may have decisive bearing on the fact-in-issue. It has come in the testimony of PW-1, that is to say, in his examination-in-chief that when he, along with his father, mother and other associates, reached Barah Kalan, he found his brother's and 'X's dead bodies inside the deceased Pradeep's room. The appellant Mukesh was not around, but his wife, that is to say, Seema Gupta was there and she said to the witness that his brother had impregnated her daughter outside wedlock and for that reason she did them to death. In the cross-examination, though this witness has acknowledged that the informant and his associates went to Police Station Kalan at 11.00 a.m. and from there they proceeded to Village Barah Kalan, where they found the Police present, who had apprehended the appellant Seema Gupta before 11.00 a.m., but there is nothing to contradict that Seema Gupta did not confess to this witness or the other, who are ad idem about the fact.

63. The Investigating Officer, PW-9, in his examination-in-chief and cross-examination, has stood by the fact that after the case was registered at Police Station Kalan at 12.30 p.m. on 20.08.2014, the Police left for Village Barah Kalan, where they did not find the appellant Mukesh Gupta.

64. The testimony of PW-1 as well, who says in his cross-examination that the Police had apprehended Seema in words, 'lekin Seema ko police pakade hue thi', renders the testimony of PWs-1, 2, 3 and 4 consistent that when they reached the place of occurrence, Seema was sitting somewhere between the two dead bodies and confessing to having murdered Pradeep and 'X', a confession after all in police custody.

65. Seema Gupta in her statement under Section 313 read with Section 233(2) Cr.P.C. has taken the stand that upon discovery of the deaths of 'X' and Pradeep, she immediately informed her husband, who was away to Jaswant Nagar of the mis-happening. He advised her to immediately inform Police Chowki Barah Kalan, which she did, but the Police detained her at the police chowki. This assertion finds support from PW-1's admission of the fact in his cross-examination that Seema had been apprehended by the Police before 11.00 a.m.

66. It seems that Seema was apprehended by the Police before 11.00 a.m. without a formal arrest and available at home by time the informant and his associates arrived there. The confessions which PW-1 to PW-4, therefore, heard from Seema about having murdered the two victims, were apparently made while in police custody, may be held under a suspicion and before the lodging of an FIR. These confessions would be inadmissible under Section 26 of the Evidence Act.

67. It was submitted on behalf of the State by the learned A.G.A. that confession made to a police officer is inadmissible after investigation commences, that is to say, after registration of the FIR. It is urged that before a person is accused of an offence, a confession made by him would not be hit by Section 25 of the Evidence Act. The FIR was registered in this case at 12.30 p.m. and these confessions were made at about about 11.00 a.m. Even if Seema was held as a suspect, she was in the custody of a police officer within the meaning of Section 26 of the Evidence Act.

68. There is a distinction between a confession made to a police officer and a confession made by a person while in the custody of a police officer. The former is governed by Section 25 of the Evidence Act and the latter by Section 26. The confession referred to under Section 26 may be made to any person other than a police officer but while in the custody of one, whereas that under Section 25 is necessarily one made to a police officer. The confession under Section 26 may be made to any other person while in police custody, or may be to a police officer himself, but in the custody of the Police. The scope of Section 26 is wider because the embargo there applies to the case of a person, who is in the legal sense of the term not yet accused of an offence, but in the custody of the Police, which may be as a suspect pending ascertainment of facts or the formal registration of a crime.

69. By contrast, Section 25 would be attracted to a case where the person, making the confession is accused of an offence, may be as the result of an FIR registered against him or being accused pending investigation. He may or may not be in custody. Therefore, the scope of Sections 25 and 26 is very different. Here, what is attracted is Section 26 of the Evidence Act, where Seema was apparently in police custody as a suspect, when she made the confessions attributed to her by PWs-1, 2, 3 and 4. The FIR was registered later in the day. Nevertheless, Seema apparently being in police custody, the extrajudicial confessions attributed to her cannot be read against her, unless these were in the immediate presence of a Magistrate, which is not the case here. We are, therefore, of opinion that the circumstance about the extrajudicial confession cannot be read against the appellants in this case.

70. The learned A.G.A. has placed reliance upon Ishwari Lal Yadav and another v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2019) 10 SCC 437, where speaking for a three Judge Bench of their Lordships of the Supreme Court, R. Subhash Reddy, J. held

"21. The confessional statements made to the police by the appellants, cannot be the basis to prove the guilt of the accused but at the same time there is no reason to discard the confessions made to the independent witnesses at the time when Chirag's body was found, prior to the arrival of police. It is true that extra-judicial confession, is a weak piece of evidence but at the same time if the same is corroborated by other evidence on record, such confession can be taken into consideration to prove the guilt of the accused. In the case on hand, the evidence from independent witnesses is in one voice and consistent. The medical evidence on record also substantiated the case of the prosecution. In addition to the same, PW 2 and PW 3, who are the parents of the deceased have identified the clothes, which the deceased child was wearing on the date of missing. It is also clear from the evidence that the skeletal remains were removed. They have also found the cloth pieces, attached to skeletal remains. The colour of such cloth pieces was tallied with the description in the missing report lodged by PW 2 earlier on 4-3-2010. As such it is clearly proved beyond any reasonable doubt that the appellants are responsible for the offence alleged against them."

71. We must note that Ishwari Lal Yadav (supra) was a case where the confessions were made to an independent witnesses before the Police arrived. It was not a case where the confessor was in police custody even as a suspect. The principle in Ishwari Lal Yadav, therefore, has no application in the context of the present case, where Seema was in the custody of the Police, albeit as a suspect, when she is said to have made the confessions. We are of opinion that the confessions were hit by Section 26 of the Evidence Act and cannot be read against her; much less against Mukesh Gupta. To this extent, we do not agree with the reasoning of the learned Trial Judge to the contrary.

72. The last circumstance to be noticed is the phone call, which PW-1 received from a certain Master Ramveer Singh Yadav. He was apparently a colleague of the deceased Pradeep and called his brother, PW-1, at 6.00 a.m. in the morning and informed him that his brother and 'X' have been done to death by the appellants. PW-1 in his examination-in-chief has testified:

"..... उसके बाद मैं अपनी माता जी व पिता ईश्वर दयाल व राकेश कटियार अशोक कटियार, नारेन्द्र कटियार, प्रदीप कटियार को लेकर बोलैरो गाड़ी में बाराकलां आये उसी बीच मुझे मेरे भाई के साथ पढ़ाने वाले मास्टर रामवीर सिंह यादव का फोन मिला। तो उन्होंने सूचना दी कि तुम्हारे भाई प्रदीप का व 'x' का Murder हो गया है। उन्हीं दोनों को मुकेश गुप्ता व उसकी पत्नी सीमा ने गले में फन्दा डालकर हत्या कर दी है फिर मैं प्रदीप के कमरे पर आया....

73. In his cross-examination, this witness has said:

".....जिन मास्टर जी (रामवीर सिंह यादव) का फोन आना मैने बताया है उनका नम्बर 7525079412 था। यह फोन करीब 6 बजे सुबह मेरे मोबाइल पर आया था। मुझे ध्यान नही है कि उपरोक्त फोन मोबाइल वाली बाते सही है या गलत है।...."

74. Though, in the last line of his cross-examination noted, he has said that he does not remember if the fact about the mobile call from Ramveer Singh Yadav is correct, that is a general reference to the mobile call earlier received from the appellant Mukesh and Master Ramveer Singh Yadav. This inconsistency does not derogate from the fact that the call from Master Ramveer Singh Yadav, speaking through his mobile No. 7525079412, was received by PW-1 at 6.00 a.m. in the morning, intimating him that his brother and 'X' had been murdered by the appellants. The receipt of this call by the informant on his mobile No. 9621820180 is evident from a perusal of the call detail records, Ex.21, where the incoming call on PW-1's phone number from cell No. 7525079412 is shown in the call detail records as one received at 10.35 a.m. Therefore, the call was received by PW-1 from Master Yadav, but not at 6.00 a.m. It was received at 10.35 a.m. on 20.08.2014. The fact of PW-1 receiving the call from Master Ramveer Singh Yadav is, therefore, proved as well as the information, which PW-1 received over his mobile phone from Master Ramveer Singh Yadav, though not the fact if the information was indeed correct that the twin murders had been committed, as reported by Ramveer Singh Yadav. That for a fact was discovered to be true later on, after PW-1 and the other prosecution witnesses reached the place of occurrence. The circumstance, therefore, proved is that there was a phone call received by PW-1 from Master Ramveer Singh Yadav, a colleague of the deceased Pradeep, to the effect that 'X' and Pradeep had been murdered by the appellants, which to the extent of the twin murder being committed was found true for a fact.

75. The following circumstances have, therefore, been proved by the prosecution to the hilt:

(a) that Pradeep was a tenant in a part of the appellants' house;

(b) that PW-1, the deceased Pradeep's brother received a phone call from mobile No. 8853630754 in the night of 19.08.2014, where the caller identified himself as the appellant Mukesh Gupta and accused the deceased Pradeep of impregnating his unmarried daughter, and made Pradeep talk to PW-1 over phone. The call was repeated once and Pradeep also spoke to PW-2, calling from the same number on PW-1's number;

(c) that the phone, bearing mobile No. 8853630754, was recovered by the Police from the appellant Mukesh Gupta's house from the custody of one Sonu, a brother-in-law of the appellant Mukesh, who was staying in the premises;

(d) that Pradeep was alive on 19.08.2014 until the last call received by PW-1 at 11.56 p.m.;

(e) that Pradeep and 'X' died sometime between the midnight of 19.08.2014 and the morning hours of 20.08.2014, certainly before 11.00 a.m. on 20.08.2014 and the dead bodies of Pradeep and 'X' were found in a room within the appellants' premises;

(f) that 'X', a girl of 15 years, had been examined by a gynecologist, Dr. Manju Verma, at Budaun on 19.08.2014 and though unmarried, she was found pregnant in the medical report dated 19.08.2014;

(g) that Pradeep and 'X' were both murdered in the night intervening 19/ 20.08.2014, soon after discovery of her pregnancy outside wedlock, where Pradeep was suspected by the appellants of impregnating 'X';

(h) that the cause of death is strangulation and there is no such extraordinary contrivance, which may show the strangulation to be suicidal;

(i) that there was a strong motive in the totality of circumstances for the appellants to murder Pradeep and 'X'; and,

(j) the fact that the appellants have not come up with an explanation about the twin murders within the confines of their premises, a fact exclusively within their knowledge and failed to discharge their burden in this regard under Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

76. All these circumstances put together, in our considered opinion, establish a complete and unbroken chain, which are only consistent with the guilt of the appellants and no other possible hypothesis. We are, therefore, of opinion that the appellants have been rightfully convicted by the learned Trial Judge of the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC. The minimum permissible sentence has been awarded, which, in our opinion, is condign.

77. We place on record our appreciation for the very able assistance rendered in these appeals by Ms. Sweta Singh Rana, who made the best out of a difficult cause for her clients.

78. In the result, both the appeals fail and are dismissed. The appellant Smt. Seema Gupta is on bail. She will surrender within a period of two weeks of the date of this judgment, failing which the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Shahjahanpur, shall cause her to be taken into custody and commit her to prison to serve out her sentence. The bail bonds furnished by the appellant Smt. Seema are cancelled and the sureties discharged.

79. This order shall be communicated to the appellant, Mukesh Gupta, who is in jail through the Jail Superintendent, Pilibhit by the Registrar (Compliance).

80. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the lower court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 2926 of 1985

Ramchandra & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction of the appellants under S. 302 IPC is sustainable on the basis of eyewitness testimony despite alleged defects in investigation, non-recovery of weapon, non-examination of some witnesses and minor contradictions in evidence. (Para 29, 30, 31, 36, 37)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Double Murder - Eyewitness Testimony - Defective Investigation - Appreciation of evidence - "the testimony of PW1, Khem Karan Lal and PW-2 Smt Maya Devi their versions can be seen to be corroborating each other" - conviction based on consistent eyewitness account upheld. (Para 31).

Defective investigation - "error, illegality or defect in investigation cannot have any impact unless miscarriage of justice is brought about" - non-recovery of weapon not fatal. (Para 31).

Non-examination of witnesses - "persons avoid to testify they do not want to involve in a criminal case much less in the crime of the present magnitude" - not fatal to prosecution. (Para 36).

Minor contradictions - "very trivial in nature does not affect the foundation of the prosecution case" - cannot discredit evidence. (Para 38).

Defence evidence - found "untrustworthy and cannot be believed" - does not dent prosecution case. (Para 43, 44, 45).

Motive - dispute over land and share in property leading to Panchayat and assault - proved. (Para 47-52).

Conclusion - "prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt" - appeal dismissed. (Para 56-57).

Held: No prejudice is caused to the accused by non-recovery of the weapon of assault - their versions can be seen to be corroborating each other inspires confidence of this Court - persons avoid to testify in such cases it was quite natural that they did not come forward - minor contradiction is of no help to the appellant does not affect the foundation - evidence of DW-1 is untrustworthy and cannot be believed - the evidence of DW-2 is of no help rather it strengthen the case of the prosecution - the evidence of DW-3 is also not helpful - the prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt - Accordingly, the criminal appeal is dismissed. (Paras 31,36,38,43,44,45,56,57) (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal arising from judgment and order dated 18.10.1985 passed by the Sessions Judge, Bareilly in Sessions Trial No. 489 of 1984 convicting the appellants under S. 302 IPC.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Shri Raj Kumar Vaishya
Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

.1. This criminal appeal has been filed against a judgement and order dated 18.10.1985 passed by the learned Sessions Judge, Bareilly in Sessions Trial No. 489 of 1984, under Section 302 IPC, police station Baheri, district Bareilly whereby the learned Judge convicted and sentenced both the appellants Ram Chandra and Babu Ram to life imprisonment under section 302 IPC or in the alternative under Section 302/34 IPC for committing the murder of Damodar.

2. Both the appellants were also convicted and sentenced to imprisonment for life under Section 302 IPC or in the alternative, under Section 302/34 IPC for committing the murder of the deceased Chandra Pal.

3. However, both the sentences, were directed to run concurrently.

Facts of the case

4. The facts that formed the bedrock of the present criminal appeal, in short compass, are that an oral information was given by the first informant Maya Devi, wife of Damodar Gaderia at the police station Bahedi, district Bareilly that she is the resident of village Rajpura, police station Bahedi. Her father-in-law was three brothers, namely Munna Lal, Dhani Ram and Chunni Lal. Munna Lal had three sons namely Ram Chandra, Babu Ram and Om Prakash. Chunni Lal had one son namely Beche Lal. After the death of first wife of her father-in-law, he brought another lady, who has two sons namely her husband Damodar and Chandrapal. Her uncle-in-law (Chachiya Sasur) Jhodi had a field of one Bigha, in which, this year there was a crop of sugar cane, which was being ploughed and cultivated jointly. The crop was harvested by Ram Chandra, Babu Ram and Om Prakash. On enquiry by her husband Damodar and brother-in-law Chandrapal, they told that Jhodi had made an agreement of the said filed in their favour. Due to that reasons, there had been certain altercation between her husband and brother-in-law on one side and Ram Chandra, Babu Ram and Om Prakash on other. In the field of nine bighas which was being ploughed and cultivated by Ram Chandra and his real brothers, whereas all the sons of her three father-in-law are the shareholders. A few days ago, when her husband and brother-in-law demanded their share in the property, Ram Chandra denied.

5. The first information report further recounts that today at 09:00 PM, a Panchayat was convened for the partition of field in which several persons of the village have participated. In the Panchayat, lantern and Tabri were burning. In the panchayat, her husband Damodar and brother-in-law Chandra Pal had asked Ram Chandra and Babu Ram that they got a forged agreement of the land of Jhodi done. Thereupon, Ram Chandra and Babu started abusing and attacked her husband Damodar and brother-in-law Chandra Pal by knife and lathis. The first informant and her sister-in-law Smt Ram Wati made hue and cry. Her husband ran towards Masjid, whereas her brother-in-law ran towards his Ghair. Ram Chandra and Babu Ram chased Chandra Pal and assaulted him badly by knife and lathis and fled away. When injured Chandra Pal was being taken to the police station, he succumbed to the injuries. Beside the Masjid, his husband was also found dead. The FIR also alleges that her husband Damodar (hereinafter referred to as the deceased-Damodar) and brother-in-law Chandra Pal (hereinafter referred to as the deceased Chandra Pal) have been assassinated by Ram Chandra and Babu Ram assaulting by knife and lathis. The incident was witnessed by Roshan

Gaderia, Khem Karan Gaderia, Jameel and Khem Karan Gangwar and several other persons of the village in the lantern, Tabri and Torches.

6. On the basis of the aforesaid oral information given by the first informant Smt. Maya Devi, a case was registered by the Head Muharrir Ram Prakash Gangwar, Ext. Ka-2, on which the first informant put her thumb impression.

7. After the registration of the case, the law set into motion and investigation of the case was taken up by PW-3 SI Laxmi Narain. On 03.07.1985, after completing formalities in respect of registration of the FIR, he recorded the statement of Head Muharrir Ram Prakash. He copied the relevant papers in the Case Diary and left for the place of occurrence along with Constable Puran Singh, Ram Pal and Shakil Ahmad. On the way, the dead bodies of Damodar and Chandra Pal were found. He inspected the spot and prepared site plan, Ext. Ka 5. After appointing Panch (witnesses of inquest), he got the inquest on the bodies of the deceased conducted, Ext. Ka-6 and Ext. Ka-7. After getting the inquest conducted, he recorded the statements of the first informant Smt. Maya Devi and witness Khem Karan. PW-3 collected bloodstained earth and simple earth from the place where body of the deceased-Damodar was lying, which was marked as Ext. Ka-8. He also collected bloodstained earth and simple earth from the place where deceased-Chandra Pal was lying, Ext. Ka-9. He also recorded the statement of witnesses Ram Wati, Mala, Jameel and Ajay in the case diary. After preparing necessary documents, he handed over both the dead bodies to Constable Puran Singh and Constable Ram Pal for getting the postmortem examination done. PW-3, SI Laxmi Narain on 04.07.1984 raided the house of the appellants. However, no articles relating to the crime was recovered. He also inspected the torch of the informant , witnesses Jameel and Pradhan Khem Karan, which were found in working conditions and have been given in Supurdgi Exts. Ka. 3, Ka-11 and Ka-1. He came to know that on 07.07.1985, accused surrendered before the Court and have been sent to jail.

8. Pursuant to the order of Circle Officer dated 19.07.1984, the investigation of the case was transferred to SI Maan Singh. On 19.07.1984, PW-3, SI Laxmi Narain accompanied SI Maan Singh to the place of occurrence and took into possession the Lantern and Dibbi, which were found in working condition and made memos thereof. On 04.08.1984 SI Maan Singh recorded the statements of the accused-appellants in jail and after completing necessary formalities, SI Maan Singh submitted charge sheet against the accused-appellants, which has been marked as Ext. Ka-13.

9. As the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where case was registered as ST No. 489 of 1984. The learned Sessions Judge, Bareilly framed the charges against the accused-appellants under Section 302 IPC vide order dated 21.05.1985, which were read over and explained to the accused in Hindi.

10. To bring home guilt of the appellant beyond the hilt, the prosecution has examined as many as four witnesses, out of which PW-1, Khem Karan Lal and PW-2 Maya Devi are the witnesses of facts, whereas PW-3, Laxmi Narain is the first investigating officer, who carried out almost all the investigation, and PW-4, Dr. M.C. Sharma, who conducted autopsy on the bodies of the deceased.

11. PW-1, Khem Karan Lal, son of Seva Ram, in his examination-in-chief deposed that he is the Gram Pradhan of village Narain Nagla. The murdered took place in village Rajpura. He is Gangwar by caste. He knows accused-appellants as well as deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal. At the time of incident, appellants and the deceased were residing separately. The land of Karat of appellants and the deceased were joint, which was being ploughed and cultivated separately. Two bighas of land belonging to Jodhi, who was uncle of the accused-appellant and deceased, was also being cultivated by the accused and the deceased. The standing crop on the said land of Jodhi was harvested by accused Ram Chandra, on which deceased Damodar objected. In addition to the aforesaid land, there was a field of 09-10 bighas, which was being harvested by Ram Chandra and he does not allow the deceased to harvest. Deceased Chandra Pal and Damodar have purchased four bighas of land from Chhadmi Lal. In the said land, accused-appellant wanted to make drainage, due to which quarrel took place between the accused and the deceased a day prior to the incident of murder. He further deposed that a Panchayat was convened at the Chaupal of of Ram Autar at 09:00 PM, which was attended by this witness along with Roshan Lal, Jameel Ahmad, Khem Karan and 24-25 other persons. Accused-appellants also participated in the Panchayat. At the place of Panchayat, lantern was burning. Dibri was also burning at the Chabutra (a raised platform) of Momsen, a place of deity. In addition to the aforesaid lantern and Dibri, this witness along with Jameel Ahmad and one Mala Devi was also having torch. PW-1, further deposed that as soon as the Panchayat started, deceased-Damodar asked the accused Ram Chandra that he has wrongly done the agreement. On hearing this accused Ram Chandra slapped him and thereafter Ram Chandra and Babu started assaulting the deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal with lathis. As soon as accused-appellant started assault, stampede broke out. Both the accused-appellants assaulted deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal by knife. After being injured deceased-Damodar ran towards Masjid. Chandra Pal was shielding Damodar, both the accused assaulted him with knife. After being injured, Chandra Pal ran towards his Gher where he was assaulted by the accused-appellant by knife. This incident was witnessed by this witness in Lantern, Dibiya and torches. When, he reached there, Chandra Pal was alive, who told his sister-in-law (first informant) to take him to Bahedi. As soon as he reached near Masjid, he found the dead body of the deceased-Damodar. Chandra Pal after seeing the dead body of Damodar, also breathed his last.

12. PW-2, Maya Devi, in her examination-in-chief, deposed that deceased-Damodar was her husband and deceased-Chandra Pal was her brother-in-law, who were killed by accused Ram Chandra and Babu. There was a dispute over two bighas of sugar cane filed. The field initially belonged to Jodhi. The standing crops on the said field had been harvested by accused Ram Chandra, which have been ploughed and cultivated by deceased Damodar. In addition to the aforesaid land/field, there had been a filed of about 09-10 bighas, which was being cultivated by the accused Ram Chandra, Babu and Beche Lal and they did not allow the deceased to cultivate, whereas all have equal share. This witness further deposed that deceased Damodar and Ram Chandra have purchased four bighas of land, accused-appellant wanted to make drainage in the said land, due to which quarrel took place between the accused-appellants and the deceased a day prior to the incident of murder. In order to settle the dispute between the parties, a Panchayat was convened at 09:00 PM on the date of incident at the Chaupal of Ram Autar. The Panchayat was attended by Jameel, Vishan Lal, Khem Karan and others. A lantern and a Dibiya were burning at the place of Panchayat. She was also present at the place of Panchayat along with her sister-in-law (Devrani) Smt. Ram Wati and nand Mala. In the Panchayat both the appellants and both the deceased were also present. She was having a torch. Jameel and Chairman were also having torch. PW-2 Smt. Maya Devi further deposed that deceased-Damodar asked the accused Ram Chandra that he has wrongly done the agreement. On hearing this, accused Ram Chandra slapped him and thereafter Ram Chandra and Babu started assaulting the deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal with lathis. Thereafter, both the accused-appellants assaulted deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal by knife. After being injured deceased-Damodar ran towards Masjid. Deceased-Chandra Pal ran towards north to the Gher, where he was assaulted by the accused-appellants by knife. This witness also went to Gher and saw that Chandra Pal was alive. While he was being taken to hospital and as soon as she reached near Masjid, she found her husband lying dead. On the way to Bahedi, injured Chandra Pal succumbed to the injuries.

13. PW-4, Dr. M.C. Sharma, in his examination-in-chief deposed that on 03.07.1984, he was posted as Senior Surgeon in district Hospital, Bareilly. On that date at about 04:30 PM, he conducted postmortem on the body of the deceased-Damodar and found the following ante-mortem injuries on his person:

1. Stab wound 2 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep right side of back of chest 9 cm below lower border of scapula.

2. Stab wound 2 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep on back of chest $^{1/2}$ cm from midline, 27 cm below root of neck.

3. Stab wound 2 cm x 1 cm x chest cavity deep on back of chest, $^{1/2}$ cm lateral to midline, 25 cm below root of neck.

14. On internal examination, puncture of both sides in pleura, puncture in lower lobe of right lung and puncture in lower lobe of left lung were noticed. It was also observed that semi digested food was present in the stomach and gases and faecal matter were present in the large and small intestines.

15. In the opinion of the doctor, the death of the deceased might have occurred due to shock and haemorrhage on account of ante-mortem injuries caused with a sharp edged weapon like knife about $^{3/4}$ day prior to the time of medical examination. He was also of the opinion that the death might have occurred at about 10:00 PM on 02.7.1984 subject to variation of about 4 to 6 hours either side.

16. PW-4, Dr. M.C. Sharma conducted postmortem examination on the same day at about 05:00 PM on the body of the deceased Chandra Pal and found the following ante-mortem injuries.

1. Incised wound 1 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep, on back of right elbow upper part.

2. Incised wound 5 cm x 2 cm x muscle deep on right back of elbow.

3. Incised wound 8 cm x 2 cm x muscle deep on right forearm back, 4 cm below elbow joint.

4. Three linear incised wounds 5 cm x $^{1/2}$ cm , 2 cm x $^{1/4}$ cm, 1 cm x $^{1/4}$ cm , on back of right forearm below elbow.

5. Four incised wounds in an area of 8 cm x 6 cm , 2 cm x 1/2 cm , 3 cm x 1 cm, 2-1/2 cm x 1/2 cm x 1 cm x 1/2 cm, all muscle deep, on back of right side of abdomen, 10 cm above base of sacral region, 2 cm from midline.

6. 2 incised wounds 2 cm x 1/2 cm , 3 cm x 2 cm x muscle deep on left back, 3 cm from midline, 8 cm above the sacral region .

7. Incised wound 8 cm x 1/2 cm x muscle deep on midline o back, 2 cm above sacral region.

8. Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep, back of right buttock upper part.

9. Contused abrasion 2 cm x 2 cm, on the upper part of buttock fold in between.

10. Three incised wound 3 cm x 1 cm, 1 cm x 1/2 cm, 1 cm x 1/2 cm, all muscle deep on back of right thigh in the middle.

11. Incised wound 6 cm x 2 cm x muscle deep, on right iliac fossa.

12. Incised wound 6 cm x 2 cm x cavity deep on left loin with a tailing of 13 cm long (cutting the kidney).

13. Incised wound 3 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep on arm, lower 1/3rd back left.

14. Incised wound 2 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep back of left elbow.

15. Incised wound 2 cm x 1/2 cm outer side of back of elbow left side.

16. Contused abrasion 2 cm x 1/2 cm outer side of back.

17. Incised wound 1 cm x 1/2 cm x bone deep, on back distal side phalanx middle finger left.

18. Incised wound 1/2 cm x 1/2 cm x bone deep on back of ring finger left hand.

19. Abrasion with contusion 5 cm x 4 cm, on front of left knee.

20. Contusion 7 cm x 4 cm on middle of right thigh inner side.

21. Incised wound 2 cm x 1/2 cm x muscle deep on inner left foot.

22. Incised wound 1/2 cm x 1/2 cm x muscle deep front of left leg upper part.

23. Lacerated wound 3 cm x 2 cm x muscle deep front of lower 1/3rd of right leg.

17. In the opinion of the doctor, incised wounds might have been inflicted with some sharp edged weapon like a knife while contusions etc. might have been inflicted with a blunt weapon like a lathi. Doctor further opined that death of the deceased Chandra Pal might have occurred due to shock and haemorrhage on account of ante-mortem injuries about 3/4 day prior to the medical examination.

18. Evidence of PW-3, SI Laxmi Narain has already been discussed above.

19. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused-appellants Ram Chandra and Babu Ram were recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in which he denied the circumstances appearing against them and stated that they have been falsely implicated in this case at the instance of Pradhan.

20. In this case three defence witnesses have also been examined, namely DW-1, Ram Autar, DW-2, Roshan Lal and DW-3, Khem Karan.

21. DW-1, Ram Autar has deposed that he knows the accused-appellants and both the deceased as they are the resident of his village. Both the deceased had good relation with Khem Karan, who is the Chairman. They were having visiting terms. Deceased has no enmity with the appellants. He further deposed that a day prior to the incident, neither any Panchayat was held in his Chaupal between the accused-appellants and the deceased nor any quarrel took place. On the date of occurrence, he was present in his house throughout the day and night and when he woke up in the morning, he came to know that Damodar and Chandra Pal have been done to death. There is no other person in the village in his name and parentage. He further deposed that on 16.09.1985, when he along with Khem Karan, son of Ghanshyam and Roshan Lal, were going to Court, they were arrested by the police and kept them in the police station till 20.09.1985 where they were being beaten at the instance of Khem Karan.

22. DW-2, Roshan Lal, son of Jorawar, deposed that he is the Vice-Chairman, whereas Khem Karan is Chairman. There is no other person of his name and parentage in the village. Khem Karan, Chairman has good relation with the deceased. He does not know whether any Panchayat was convened at the Chaupal of Ram Autar or not. No body has come to call me. Deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal have not been assassinated before him. He further deposed that on 16.09.1984, when he was going for his evidence, a constable from police station Bahedi came to him and took him to the police station. Thereafter, Ram Autar and Khem Karan also went to the police station. In the police station, they have been detained for four days where they were being abused and beaten.

23. DW-3, Khem Karan, son of Ghanshyam, deposed that there is no other person in the village of his name and parentage. He knows deceased and the appellants. Khem Karan is the Chairman of his village. Deceased had good relation with Khem Karan. He further deposed that no Panchayat was held either in his house or in the house of Ram Autar. Police have detained him for four days in the police station.

24. Learned Sessions Judge, Bareilly after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and assessing, evaluating and scrutinizing the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as indicated herein above.

25. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied with the aforesaid judgement and order, the appellants have preferred the instant appeal.

Submission on behalf of the appellants

26. Shri Raj Kumar Vaishya, learned counsel for the appellants submits as under:

(a) That place of incident and presence of the witnesses at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful.

(b) That weapon of assault have not been recovered from the appellant, which makes the entire prosecution story doubtful.

(c) That only two witnesses namely Khem Karan Lal and Smt. Maya Devi have been examined during the trial, whereas as per prosecution case Roshan Gadariya, Khem Karan Gadariya and Jameel were shown to have witnessed the occurrence, but they have not been produced.

(d) That there is contradiction in the statement of PW-2, Maya Devi.

(e) That the evidence of defence witnesses have demolished the prosecution case.

Submissions on behalf of the State

27. On the other hand, Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-Ist submitted as under:

(a) From the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, the place of incident and presence of witnesses at the place of occurrence is fully established.

(b) Non-recovery of weapon of assault from the accused-appellants may be a lapse on the part of investigating officer, the benefit of the same cannot be extended to the appellants.

(c) Minor contradictions should not be given unnecessary weightage.

(d) That the learned Trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellants on the basis of cogent and concrete evidence.

Analysis and conclusion

28. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State and perused the record of the case.

29. As per the evidence of two eyewitnesses namely PW-1, Khem Karan and PW-2, Smt. Maya Devi, the attacked on the deceased was launched at the Chaupal of Ram Autar from where deceased Damodar started running away and his dead body was found near the mosque (Masjid), which is situated at a distance of about 77 paces from the Chaupal in question, whereas deceased Chandra Pal ran to his Gher and was also attacked there. The Gher of the deceased-Chandra Pal is situated at a distance of about 25 paces as per the evidence of the the PW-3, Laxmi Narain, the investigating officer of the case. PW-3, Laxmi Narain, the investigating officer of the case, in his examination-in-chief deposed that he collected bloodstained earth and simple earth from the place where body of the deceased-Damodar was lying, which was marked as Ext. Ka-8 and the boxes were marked as Ext. 1 and 2. He also collected bloodstained earth and simple earth from the place where deceased-Chandra Pal was lying, Ext. Ka-9, the boxes were marked as Ext. 3 and 4. At the time of post-mortem examination, the Medical Officer, took off bloodstained Baniyan Ext. 5, Bloodstained underwear Ext. 6 and bloodstained Kurta Ext. 7 from the body of the deceased-Damodar and duly sent the same to the investigating officer in a sealed packet. Similarly at the time of post-mortem examination of the deceased-Chandra Pal, the Medical Officer (Dr. M.C. Sharma, PW-4) removed some bloodstained clothes from the body of deceased Chandrapal, i.e. shirt, Ext. 8, Baniyan, Ext. 9 and underwear Ext. 10 and sent the same to the investigating officer after getting the same duly sealed. The aforesaid items were sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory. The Serologist report dated 19.02.1982 confirmed the presence of human blood on the bloodstained earth collected by the investigating officer, Ext. 1 from the place where the dead body of the deceased Damodar was lying and Ext. 2 from the place where place where the dead body of deceased Chandra Pal was lying. The report further indicates that on Ext. 3 to 8 , which relate to the clothes of the deceased large bloodstained was found, measuring 70, 45, 25, 50, 40 and 25 cms. From the above facts, statements of the PW-1, Khem Karan and PW-2, Smt. Maya Devi that the accused have been murdered by the accused-appellants and that the dead body of deceased Damodar was found near the mosque, situated at a distance of about 77 paces from the Chaupal of Ram Autar as also the dead body of deceased Chandra Pal was found from his hut, which is situated at a distance of about 25 paces from the Chaupal of Ram Autar, certain drops of blood must have spilled on the way, which must have been disintegrated/effaced by the movement of the people.

30. So far as contention of learned counsel for the appellants that weapon of assault has not been recovered from the appellants, it is to be noted that after the registration of the case on 03.07.1984, the investigation of the case was taken up by PW-3, Laxmi Narain on 03.07.1985. In his examination-in-chief, he stated that during the course of investigation, he recorded the statement of Head Muharrir Ram Prakash. He inspected the spot and prepared site plan, Ext. Ka 5. After appointing Panch (witnesses of inquest), he got the inquest on the bodies of the deceased conducted, Ext. Ka-6 and Ext. Ka-7. After getting the inquest conducted, he recorded the statements of the first informant Smt. Maya Devi and witness Khem Karan. He also collected bloodstained earth and simple earth from the place where bodies of the deceased-Damodar and Chandra Pal were lying, prepared necessary documents and handed over both the dead bodies to Constable Puran Singh and Constable Ram Pal for getting the postmortem examination done. PW-3, SI Laxmi Narain has specifically mentioned that on 04.07.1984, he raided the house of the appellants, but neither accused-appellants could be apprehended nor any articles relating to the crime was recovered. PW-3- further stated that search of the accused was made in several places in Bareilly, but they could not be arrested. He came to know that on 07.07.1985, accused surrendered before the Court and have been sent to jail. On the order of the Circle Officer, the investigation of the case had been transferred to SI Maan Singh on 19.07.1984. It is also mentioned that although SI Maan Singh has been transferred to Shahjanpur, but he did not take charge and was on leave. On 04.08.1984, SI Maan Singh recorded the statements of the accused-appellants in jail and next day, i.e. 05.08.1984, he submitted the charge sheet.

31. As a general principle, it can be stated that error, illegality or defect in investigation cannot have any impact unless miscarriage of justice is brought about or serious prejudice is caused to the accused. In the instance case, no prejudice is caused to the accused by non-recovery of the weapon of assault when the testimony of PW1, Khem Karan Lal and PW-2 Smt Maya Devi, is seen cumulatively, their versions can be seen to be corroborating each other. Both of them being eyewitnesses what is material to be seen is that their stand is consistent when they said that it was accused-appellants, who were responsible for assaulting and inflicting blows on both the deceased. Hence, the version put forth by the prosecution witnesses inspires confidence of this Court. The specific role attributed by the prosecution witnesses cannot be challenged on extraneous grounds which have been raised by the defense. Admittedly, there was an enmity between the deceased and the appellants and accused and the witnesses were well acquainted with each other being close relatives.

32. In Karnel Singh Vs. State of M.P., 1995 SCC (5) 518, Hon′ble Supreme Court held as under:

"Notwithstanding our unhappiness regarding the nature of investigation, we have to consider whether the evidence on record, even on strict scrutiny, establishes the guilt. In cases of defective investigation the court has to be circumspect in evaluating the evidence but it would not be right in acquitting an accused person solely on account of the defect; to do so would tantamount to playing into the hands of the investigating officer if the investigation is designedly defective."

33. In Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar, J.T. (1998) 3 SC 290, Hon′ble Supreme Court, held as under:

"In such cases, the story of the prosecution will have to be examined de hors such omissions and contaminated conduct of the officials otherwise the mischief which was deliberately done would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party and this would obviously shake the confidence of the people not merely in the law enforcing agency but also in the administration of justice."

34. In Paras Yadav and others Vs. State of Bihar, 1999 Cr.L.J, 1122, it was held that if the lapse or omission is committed by the investigating agency or because of negligence the prosecution evidence is required to be examined dehors such omissions to find out whether the said evidence is reliable or not. The contaminated conduct of officials should not stand on the way of evaluating the evidence by the courts; otherwise the designed mischief would be perpetuated and justice would be denied to the complainant party.

35. In a recent judgement, Hon′ble Supreme Court in Edakhandi Dineshan alias P. Dineshan and others Vs. State of Kerala, 2025 Live Law (SC) 25, held as under

"Hence, the principle of law is crystal clear that on the account of defective investigation the benefit will not inure to the accused persons on that ground alone. It is well within the domain of the courts to consider the rest of the evidence which the prosecution has gathered such as statement of the eyewitnesses, medical report etc. It has been a consistent stand of this court that the accused cannot claim acquittal on the ground of faulty investigation done by the prosecuting agency. As the version of eyewitnesses in specifically naming the appellants have been consistent throughout the trial, we find that there is enough corroboration to drive home the guilt of the accused persons…."

36. The next contention of learned counsel for the appellants is that only two witnesses namely Khem Karan Lal and Smt. Maya Devi have been examined during the trial, whereas as per prosecution case Roshan Gadariya, Khem Karan Gadariya and Jameel were shown to have witnessed the occurrence, but they have not been produced. This contention of the learned counsel is totally mis-conceived. It may be noted that the presence of aforesaid persons at the spot cannot be denied as PW-3, Laxmi Narain, in his examination-in-chief has stated that he inspected the torch of Jameel and handed over the same in his Supurdgi vide Ext. Ka 11, but looking to the manner in which both the deceased were done to death, no one can dare to depose against the accused. Moreover, it cannot be denied that persons avoid to testify in such cases as they do not want to involve in a criminal case much less in the crime of the present magnitude. Therefore, it was quite natural that they did not come forward to assist the prosecution.

37. The next contention of the learned counsel for the appellants is that there are contradictions in the evidence of PW-2, Smt Maya Devi inasmuch as in her cross-examination, which was done on 26.08.1985, PW-2, Smt Maya Devi has deposed that the accused-appellants gave 4-5 lathis blows on both the deceased and when the accused-appellants inflicted knife on her husband-Damodar, he fell down whereas her brother-in-law-Chandra Pal ran towards his Gher. However, PW-2, in her cross-examination, which was done on 28.08.1985, she deposed that after receiving knife blow, her husband (deceased-Damodar) did not fell and ran towards mosque (Masjid).

38. The contradictions pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants is very trivial in nature. In the depositions of witnesses there may always be some normal discrepancies. These discrepancies are due to lapse of time and mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of the occurrence. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal and go to the root of the prosecution case and not expected of a normal person. Therefore, such a minor contradiction pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellant is of no help to the appellant. Further the discrepancies pointed out by the learned counsel for the appellants is very trivial in nature, which does not, in any way, affect the foundation of the prosecution case.

39. In State of Rajasthan Vs. Kalki (1981)2 SCC 752, High Court of Rajasthan acquitted the accused on the grounds that PW-1 was highly interested witness because she is the wife of the deceased and that there was discrepancies in her statement. Against the order of High Court, State of Rajasthan preferred a Criminal Appeal. Hon'ble Supreme Court set aside the order of the High Court and convicted the accused. The Court in paragraphs 5, 6 and 7 held as under:

5. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W.1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W.1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents.

6. The second ground on which the High Court refused to place reliance on the evidence of P.W. 1 was that there were "material discrepancies". As indicated above we have perused the evidence of P.W. 1. We have not found any "material discrepancies" in her evidence. The discrepancies referred to by the High Court are, in our opinion, minor, insignificant, natural and not 'material'. The discrepancies are with regard to as to which accused "pressed the deceased and at which part of the body to the ground and sat on which part of the body; with regard to whether the respondent Kalki gave the axe blow to the deceased while the latter was standing or lying on the ground, and whether the blow was given from the side of the head or from the side of the legs. In the depositions of witnesses there are always some normal discrepancies however honest and truthful they may be. These discrepancies are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of the occurrence, and the like. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. As indicated above we have not found any material discrepancies in the evidence of the P. W. 1.

7. Learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the appeal involved only appreciation of evidence and this Court may not interfere with the findings of facts resulting from appreciation of evidence. It is true that in an appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution this Court normally does not interfere with findings of facts arrived at by the High Court. But when it appears that the findings of facts arrived at are bordering on perversity and result in miscarriage of justice, this Court will not decline to quash such findings to prevent the miscarriage of justice."

40. In State of U.P. Vs. M.K. Anthony, (1985)1 SCC 505, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, draw-backs and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hyper-technical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the : root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details. Even honest and truthful witnesses may differ in some details unrelated to the main incident because power of observation, retention and reproduction differ with individuals. Cross examination is an unequal duel between a rustic and refined lawyer. Having examined the evidence of this witness, a friend and well-wisher of the family carefully giving due weight to the comments made by the learned Counsel for the respondent and the reasons assigned to by the High Court for rejecting his evidence simultaneously keeping in view the appreciation of the evidence of this witness by the trial court, we have no hesitation in holding that the High Court was in error in rejecting the testimony of witness Nair whose evidence appears to us trustworthy and credible."

41. In State represented by Inspector of Police Vs. Saravanam and another, (2008) 17 SCC 587, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that while appreciating the evidence, the court has to take into consideration whether the contradictions/omissions had been of such magnitude that they may materially affect the trial. Minor contradictions, inconsistencies, embellishments or improvements on trivial matters without effecting the core of the prosecution case should not be made a ground to reject the evidence in its entirety. The Trial Court, after going through the entire evidence, must form an opinion about the credibility of the witnesses and the appellate Court in normal course would not be justified in reviewing the same again without justifiable reasons.

42. Three defence witnesses have also been produced in this case, namely DW-1, Ram Autar, DW-2, Roshan Lal and DW-3, Khem Karan. DW-1, Ram Autar deposed inter alia that no Panchayat had been held at his Chaupal in the night in question nor did any incident occurred there. DW-2, Roshan Lal testified that any Panchayat at the Chaupal of Ram Autar had not been attended by him nor did the incident in question take place in his presence, whereas DW-3, Khem Karan of village Rajpura has deposed that no Panchayat was held at the Chaupal of Ram Autar in the night in question.

43. DW-1, Ram Autar in his deposition, which was done on 24.09.1985 has stated that in the night of the incident in question, he was present in his house and in the morning when he woke up, he came to know that Damodar and Chandra Pal have been done to death. The case of the prosecution from the very beginning was that Panchayat was held at the Chaupal of Ram Autar, but he was not present in the Panchayat. PW-2, Smt Maya Devi in her cross-examination, which was done on 26.08.1985 has specifically stated that Panchayat was held at the Chaupal of Ram Autar (DW-1) in which about 20-25 persons have participated. Ram Autar was not present in the Panchayat. His wife and children were also not present. PW-3, Laxmi Narain, the investigating officer of the case has specifically stated in his examination-in-chief that he made a search of Ram Autar (DW-1) on whose Chaupal, Panchayat was alleged to have been held, but he came to know that he had gone to Bahedi and therefore, Lantern and Dibbi, could not be taken into possession. On 19.07.1985, he again visited the house of Ram Autar (DW-1) in whose Chaupal, Panchayat was allegedly held where lantern and Dibbi were burning, took into possession and given in Supurdgi vide Ext. Ka-12, which was signed by Ram Autar and Brij Lal. Therefore, the evidence of DW-1, Ram Autar that no Panchayat was held at his Chaupal is untrustworthy and cannot be believed.

44. DW-2, Roshan Lal in this evidence has only stated that he was ignorant about the Panchayat and he also stated that he did not meet Ram Autar on the date of occurrence and that he saw Ram Autar 2-4 days after the occurrence. Therefore, the evidence of DW-2 is of no help to the accused-appellants rather it strengthen the case of the prosecution that on the date of occurrence, Ram Autar was not present at his house.

45. DW-3, Khem Karan, son of Ghan Shyam in his evidence has stated that neither Panchayat was held at the Chaupal of Ram Autar nor deceased was assassinated in his presence. However, in his cross-examination, he stated that he is not aware in which case, he is deposing against the accused-appellants. The evidence of DW-3, Khem Karan is also not helpful to the appellants.

46. Moreover, all the defence witnesses have stated that they have been detained by the police for four days in the police station where they have been subjected to harassment and they were also beaten badly by the police, but surprisingly, they have neither made any complaint to the superior police officer nor got themselves medically examined.

47. So far as motive behind the incident is concerned, it is stated by PW-2, Smt. Maya Devi that the incident in question took place over two bighas of land, which belonged to her uncle-in-law (Chachiya Sasur) Jhodi, in which crop of sugar cane was cultivated by the decesed-Damodar, but the same had been harvested by the accused-Ram Chandra. In addition to the aforesaid field, there was another field of 09-10 bighas. The said field was being ploughed and cultivated by the accused-appellants Ram Chandra, Babu and Beche Lal and they do not allow her husband to cultivate the same, whereas her husband had share. It is further stated that her husband-Damodar and brother-in-law Chandra Pal had purchased four bighas of land. In the said land, accused-appellants wanted to make drainage, due to which quarrel took place between the accused and the deceased a day prior to the incident of murder and to settle the said dispute, a Panchayat was convened.

48. PW-1, Khem Karan Lal, in his evidence has also stated that two bighas of land belonging to Jodhi, who was uncle of the accused-appellants and deceased, was also being cultivated by the accused and the deceased. The standing crop on the said land of Jodhi was harvested by accused Ram Chandra, on which deceased Damodar objected. In addition to the aforesaid land, there was a field of 09-10 bighas, which was being harvested by Ram Chandra and he does not allow the deceased to harvest. Deceased Chandra Pal and Damodar have purchased four bighas of land from Chhadmi Lal. In the said land, accused-appellant wanted to make drainage in, due to which quarrel took place between the accused and the deceased a day prior to the incident of murder for which Panchayat was convened.

49. The aforesaid facts have not specifically been denied by the accused-appellants in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. During the course of statement, a specific question was put to the accused that "it has come in the evidence of the prosecution that 09-10 bighas of land, in which the mother of the deceased is shareholder, was being ploughed and cultivated by the accused-appellants and they do did not allow the deceased to cultivate. In reply to this question, accused-appellant Ram Chandra has specifically stated that in the filed in question there is no share of the deceased, but their mother is the share holder.

50. In reply to the same question, accused-Babu Ram has not specifically denied and stated that he is not aware about the share of the mother of the deceased.

51. From the perusal of the aforesaid statements of the two accused-appellants namely Ram Chandra and Babu Ram, it is manifestly clear that both the deceased namely Damodar and Chandra Pal were not allowed by the accused-appellants to cultivate their mother's 1/3rd share in the joint land having an area of about 09-10 bighas of land as accused alone were exercising possession over the said land. Therefore, the evidence of PW-1, Khem Karan and PW-2, Smt Maya Devi that the entire land having an area of 9-10 bighas of land was being cultivated by the two accused persons and their cousin Bachey Lal and both the deceased were prevented by the accused-appellants from cultivating any part thereof, has substance and worth acceptance.

52. In addition to the aforesaid land, four bighas of land, which the deceased had purchased on their own and in the said land, accused-appellants wanted to make drainage, due to which quarrel took place between the accused and the deceased a day prior to the incident of murder, which resulted in the incident in question in which both the deceased Damodar and Chandra Pal have been assassinated.

53. In view of the aforesaid facts, it can be inferred that both the deceased were excluded from the joint property/land by the two accused persons, despite the fact that they could exercise possession over 1/3rd share of the land in question on behalf of their mother. Further, the accused-appellants were also making drainage on the filed of the deceased, which they had purchased from Chhadmi Lal. In order to get the matter settled, they might have thought of entering into some sort of settlement with the accused persons through some influential persons of the village and accordingly a Panchayat was convened, which resulted in the incident in question wherein both the deceased have been done to death by the appellants.

54. It was a gruesome murder in which two persons have been assassinated in a dare devil manner. Perusal of postmortem shows that the both the deceased were mercilessly attacked. Severity of injuries clearly demonstrate the brutality of the attacks.

55. We have carefully scrutinized and examined the evidence of prosecution witnesses and we find that they have been correctly marshalled and assessed by the learned Trial Court.

56. In view of what has been indicated above, we are of the view that the prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond all reasonable doubt against both the accused-appellants.

57. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is dismissed.

58. The appellants Ram Chandra and Babu Ram are on bail. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. They are directed to surrender before the Court concerned within three weeks to serve out the sentence awarded to them by the learned Trial Court.

59. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned along with necessary documents for compliance and compliance report be submitted to this Court within two months.

Criminal Appeal No. 6760 of 2017
& Other Connected Case

Smt. Seema ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether "in a case based on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution succeeded in establishing the chain of the circumstances leading to an inescapable conclusion that the accused-appellant had committed the crime." (Para 43)

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S.s 302/34, 201 and 120B - Murder - Criminal Conspiracy - Circumstantial Evidence - Conviction and sentence of life imprisonment - Appeal against judgment of Trial Court.

Criminal Trial - Circumstantial Evidence - "the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature" (Para 33)

Circumstantial Evidence - Chain of Evidence - "all the circumstances should be complete forming a chain and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence" (Para 33)

Circumstantial Evidence - Inference of Guilt - "the inference of the guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be in compatible with the innocence of the accused" (Para 33)

Homicidal Death - Proof - "from the evidence of the doctor coupled with the evidence of prosecution witnesses, it is clear that the death of the deceased-Chandra Pal was homicidal" (Para 47)

Recovery - Weapon of Assault - "the weapons of assault were recovered on the pointing out of the appellant - Dildar from the house of the deceased" (Para 49)

Motive - Illicit Relation - "the appellant-Seema had illicit relation with appellant-Dildar" (Para 54)

Hostile Witness - Evidentiary Value - "evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile" (Para 55)

Burden of Proof - S. 106 Evidence Act - "burden lies on her to explain as to how body had been buried in her house" (Para 63)

S. 106 Evidence Act – Application - "there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed" (Para 67)

Failure to Explain - Adverse Inference - "both the accused - appellants have failed to give any explanation about the afore-mentioned foundational facts" (Para 75)

Held: The death of the deceased-Chandra Pal was homicidal - the appellant-Seema had illicit relation with appellant-Dildar and that the weapon of assault has been recovered on the pointing out of the appellant-Dildar - the dead body of the deceased was recovered from the house of the appellant-Seema and burden lies on her to explain as to how body had been buried in her house - the aforementioned circumstances constitute more than a prima facie case to enable the prosecution to invoke S. 106 of the Evidence Act and shift the burden on the accused" - both the accused-appellants have failed to give any explanation - the prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants - both the criminal appeals are dismissed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Arising out of "the judgement and order dated 24.10.2017 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra in ST No. 730 of 2007, arising out of Case Crime No. 159 of 2007"

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Shri Mohd. Kalim; Shri Ashish Pandey
Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-Ist

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. After being convicted and sentenced in ST No. 730 of 2007 arising out of Case Crime No. 159 of 2007, under Sections 302/34, 201 and 120B IPC, police station Etmaddaula, district Agra by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra vide judgement and order dated 24.10.2017, appellant-Seema filed Criminal Appeal No. 6760 of 2017, whereas appellant-Dildar filed Criminal Appeal No. 7030 of 2017.

2. By the impugned judgement and order dated 24.10.2017, the learned Judge convicted and sentenced the appellant Dildar to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 20,000/- (rupees twenty thousand only) under Section 302 IPC and in case of default in payment of fine, the appellant was further directed to undergo additional imprisonment of six months. He was further convicted and sentenced to seven years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- (rupees ten thousand only) under Section 201 IPC and in default, four months additional imprisonment.

3. Appellant Seema was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 20,000/- (rupees twenty thousand only) under Section 120-B read with Section 302 IPC and in default six months additional imprisonment. All the sentences of the appellants were directed to run concurrently.

4. Since, both the afore-captioned criminal appeals have been filed against the judgement and order dated 24.10.2017 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra in ST No. 730 of 2017, arising out of Case Crime No. 159 of 2007, under Sections 302/34, 201, 120-B IPC, PS Etmaddaula, district Agra, both the appeals have been heard together and are being disposed of by means of this common judgement.

Facts of the case

5. The facts giving rise to the present criminal appeals, in nutshell, are that a written report was given by Netrapal Singh, son of Shri Saudan Singh, resident of village Maan, police station Iglas, district Aligarh on 16.03.2007 that the marriage of his brother Chandra Pal (hereinafter referred to as the deceased) was solemnized in the year 1996-1997 with one Seema, who was the resident of district Allahabad and that they were not agree with the said marriage. Seema had a daughter named Roshni, who was born from the wedlock of Seema and her earlier husband. Three children were born from the wedlock of Seema and his brother-Chandra Pal. After the marriage, her brother (deceased) was distressed with the demeanour of his wife, who always used to quarrel with his brother and go to her maternal house. Due to the demeanour of Seema, some persons of the locality used to come to the house to meet Seema. Out of the aforesaid persons, one Dildar (hereinafter referred to as the accused-Dildar) always comes to the house of his brother. In the morning of 16.03.2007, Seema informed that after committing the murder, the dead body of Chandra Pal has been buried in the heap of sand. On the aforesaid information, when the first informant along with family members reached to his brother's house at Sadahra, the police personnel dug out the body from the heap of sand. The first information report further alleges that his brother has been killed by Seema with the help of Dildar and his 2-3 accomplices and hid the body in the heap of sand.

6. On the basis of the aforesaid information, PW-2, Constable Maherwan Singh registered the first information report at Case Crime No. 169 of 2007, under Section 302, 201 IPC against Seema, which was entered in GD No. 27 at 10:30 AM on 16.03.2007.

7. After the registration of first information report, the law set into motion and investigation of the case was taken up by SI Rajiv Yadav. He copied the FIR and recorded the statement of Chik writer, Constable Maherwan Singh and first informant Netrapal Singh and inspected the spot on the pointing out of the informant and prepared site plan, Ext. Ka-11. Thereafter, he recorded the statements of Rajpat Singh, Shri Chandra Jaat. He recorded the statement of named accused Smt. Seema and took her into custody. On the pointing out of the accused-Dildar, the investigating officer recovered weapon of assault, i.e. handle of hand pump and spade in the presence of witnesses Raghvendra Singh and Virendra Singh. SI D.P. Singh made the memo of weapon of assault in his writing, which was signed by the investigating officer, Ext. Ka-10. On 19.03.2007, he recorded the statements of witnesses of inquest namely Shri Chandra, Virendra Singh, son of Heera Singh, Virendra Singh, son of Lochan Singh, Roshan Singh, Vijay Pal Singh and Radhey Shyam as well as the scribe of FIR Shri Devendra Kumar. After culmination of investigation, the investigating officer submitted charge sheet against the appellants under Sections 302/201/120-B IPC, which he proved as Ext. Ka-12.

8. As the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions, where case was registered as ST No. 730 of 2007. Learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra vide order dated 09.08.2007 framed the charges against the appellant Dildar under Sections 302/201 IPC. Learned Judge also framed the charges against the appellant Seema under Section 302/34 and 120-B IPC.

9. The charges were read over and explained to both the accused-appellants, who denied the charges and claimed to be tried.

10. To bring home guilt of the appellant beyond all reasonable doubt, the prosecution has examined as many as eight witnesses.

11. PW-1, Dr. Shri Ram, in his examination-in-chief deposed that on 17.03.2007, he was posted as Medical Officer, at Police Hospital, Agra. On that date, he conducted post-mortem on the body of the deceased and found the following ante mortem injuries:

1. A wound of 2 cm x 1 cm x bone deep 4 cm away from the left side of the face.

2. A wound of 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep on the left side of face, 1 cm below the left eye.

3. A wound of 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep on the left side face, 1.5 cm anterior to left ear.

4. A wound of 3 cm x 2 cm on the lower face on the chin.

5. Abrasion 3 cm x 1.5 cm on forehead 2 cm above bridge of nose.

12. Bones of left mandible and maxilla were fractured. Frontal bone was also fractured.

13. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injures, which may have been caused 3-4 days before.

14. PW-2, Maherwan Singh, in his examination-in-chief deposed that on 16.03.2007, he was posted as Constable in police station Edmaddaula. On that date, on the basis of written report, he prepared Chik FIR, which he proved as Ext. Ka-1.

15. PW-3, Netrapal Singh, son of Saudan Singh, is the first informant of the case. In his examination-in-chief, he deposed that deceased-Chandra Pal was his younger brother. He lived in Shahadra, Nai Basti, Agra along with his wife and children. He was married to Seema Nishad, who was resident of Allahabad, prior to 12-13 years before the murder of the deceased. She has a daughter named Roshni. Seema deserted her first husband and came to the deceased along with her daughter Roshni. Three children were also born from the wedlock of Seema and the deceased. Four years prior to the murder, he along with the deceased used to reside in the same flat in separate portion. Seema was a lady of bad character and when he objected about the demeanour of Seema, she used to quarrel with him due to which after disposing of his house, he shifted to village. He further deposed that his marriage was solemnized in Assam. Accused-Dildar is his brother-in-law. Initially accused-Dildar used to reside with him, but after his departure, he used to come to the place of Seema as a result thereof he developed illicit relation with Seema.

16. PW-3, Netra Pal further deposed that on 16.03.2007, he received information about the death of Chandra Pal. Seema informed one Gambhir of the village about the death of the deceased, who in turn informed him. On the aforesaid information, he along with his family members, Rajendra, Prabhu Singh, Balveer and Munna came to the house of the deceased at about 08:30-08:45 AM. On entering the house, he saw that the dead body of the deceased near the heap of sand. Thereafter, he went to the police station Etmaddaula and got a written report scribed by one Devendra Kumar, son of Amar Singh, lodged after putting his thump impression, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9.

17. PW-4, Rajpat Singh, son of Shri Ram Prasad, in his examination-in-chief deposed that he is the resident of Nagla and ex-Pradhan of Nagla Vihari. He knew deceased-Chandra Pal. He lived ahead of his house in Nai Basti, Shahdara. Deceased's wife is Seema. Deceased-Chandra Pal used to live in his house along with his wife and children. Accused-Dildar was the regular visitor of deceased's house. Accused-Dildar is brother-in-law (Sala) of the first informant Netra Pal. Chandra Pal was murdered a year ago. He saw the dead body of the deceased lying on the door. He had neither talked to anyone nor anyone informed him that the dead body of the deceased was lying on the floor.

18. At this juncture, on the request of ADGC, this witness was declared hostile and he was permitted to cross examine him.

19. PW-5, Constable Devendra Kumar, in his cross-examination has deposed that he knows deceased-Chandra Pal, who lives in Shahdara Colony. Accused-Seema also lives with the deceased. The first informant Netra Pal is the brother of the deceased. Accused-Seema had illicit relation with accused-Dildar. Accused-Seema used to extend threat to the deceased that if he does not desert her, she will get him killed. Seema and Dildar along with their accomplices eliminated the deceased and hid the dead body in the heap of sand. On 16.03.2007, he was told by Netra Pal that Seema has killed Netra Pal and hid the body in the heap of sand. The dead body of deceased-Chandra Pal was dug out by the police in his presence. The report of the occurrence was written by him on the dictation of Netra Pal on which he put his thump impression, which he proved as Ext. Ka-9.

20. PW-6, Virendra Singh, son of Heera Singh, in his examination-in-chief has deposed that the deceased was the resident of Shahdara, Agra. On 16.03.2007, he came to Agra on the information received by him in respect of the death of the deceased where Shri Chandra, who is the brother of the deceased was also present. At that time, police personnel also reached along with Dildar. On the pointing out of accused-Dildar, handle of hand pump and spade were recovered and memos were prepared on which he put his signature. Shri Chandra also put his thumb impression, which was marked at Ext. Ka-10.

21. However, on cross-examination, this witness has been declared hostile.

22. PW-7, Rajiv Yadav, was is investigating officer of the case. His evidence has already been discussed above.

23. PW-8. SI Dinesh Pal Singh, in his examination-in-chief has deposed that on 16.03.2007, he was posted at police station. He prepared inquest report of the deceased Chandra Pal. He appointed Panch (inquest witnesses) and recorded their opinion in the inquest report and obtained their signature. He also prepared required papers.

24. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C, in which they denied the charges levelled against them and plead false implication and they claimed trial.

25. Kumari Roshni, daughter of the deceased-Chandra Pal and the accused-appellant Seema, was produced as defence witness to prove that the deceased and the accused-Seema had good relation.

26. DW-1, Kumari Roshni in her deposition has stated that her parents used to live together and there was no dispute between them. After the death of her father, her mother has been arrested and sent to jail. At that time, she was kept by her maternal grand-parents, who live in Allahabad. At the time of death of her father, she was with her mother. Her mother was in Allahabad. She had gone to Allahabad along with her mother eleven days prior to the incident in question. At that time, there was holidays on account of Holi. She was living with her maternal grand-parents when her mother was in Jail. She further deposed that the information about the death of her father was received from her Tau (father's elder brother).

27. Learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra after hearing the learned counsel for the parties and assessing, evaluating and scrutinizing the evidence on record, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as indicated herein above.

28. Hence, these appeals.

29. Heard Shri Mohd. Kalim, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 6760 of 2017, Shri Ashish Pandey, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 7030 of 2017 and Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-Ist representing the State and gone through the record of the case.

Submissions on behalf of the appellants

30. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that it is a case of circumstantial evidence and there is neither any eyewitness of the occurrence nor any witness of last seen and the appellants have been dragged in the present case only on the presumption that both the accused-appellants have illicit relations without there being any evidence to that effect.

31. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that so called recovery of handle of hand pump and spade have been effected on the pointing out of the accused-Dildar in the presence of PW-6, Virendra Singh and Shri Chandra. PW-6, Virendra Singh did not support the prosecution case and declared hostile, whereas Shri Chandra has not been produced by the prosecution, which makes the recovery doubtful.

Submissions on behalf of the State

32. On the other hand Shri S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate supported the findings of the learned trial court by stating that the prosecution has discharged its burden by establishing the guilt of the appellant beyond reasonable doubt. He further submitted that the judgement is well reasoned and calls for no interference by this Court.

Analysis and conclusions

33. So far as the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that it is a case of circumstantial evidence and there is no witness of last seen, is concerned, it may be noted that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete forming a chain and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence. Further the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused totally in consistent with his evidence. It has been consistently laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court that where a case rests on circumstantial evidence, the inference of the guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be in compatible with the innocence of the accused or guilt of any other person.

34. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda Vs. State of Maharashtra, AIR (1984) (SC) 1622, the Hon'ble Apex Court has framed five golden principles for the circumstantial evidence, which are as under;

(i) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

(ii) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(iii) The circumstances should be of conclusive nature and tendency

(iv) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved and,

(v) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

35. In State of U.P. Vs. Ashok Kumar Srivastava, (1992) Crl. L.J. 1104, it was pointed out that great care must be taken in evaluating circumstantial evidence and if the evidence relied on is reasonably capable of two inferences, the one in the favour of the accused must be accepted. It was also pointed out that the circumstances relied upon must be found to have fully established and cumulative effect of all the facts so established must be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt.

36. In the case of Hanumant Govind Nargundkar v. State of M.P., AIR 1952 SC 343, Hon'ble Apex Court observed as under:

"It is well to remember that in cases where the evidence is of a circumstantial nature, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should in the first instance be fully established, and all the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused. Again, the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency and they should be such as to exclude every hypothesis but the one proposed to be proved. In other words, there must be a chain of evidence so far complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and it must be such as to show that within all human probability the act must have been done by the accused. ...."

37. In the case of Padala Veera Reddy v. State of A.P., 1989 Supp (2) SCC 706, Hon'ble Apex Court opined as under:

"10. Before adverting to the arguments advanced by the learned Counsel, we shall at the threshold point out that in the present case there is no direct evidence to connect the accused with the offence in question and the prosecution rests its case solely on circumstantial evidence. This Court in a series of decisions has consistently held that when a case rests upon circumstantial evidence such evidence must satisfy the following tests:

(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else; and (4) the circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence. (See Gambhir v. State of Maharashtra, (1982) 2 SCC 351)"

38. In the case of C. Chenga Reddy & Ors. v. State of A.P., (1996) 10 SCC 193, Hon'ble Apex Court while considering a case of conviction based on the circumstantial evidence, held as under:

"21. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the settled law is that the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is drawn should be fully proved and such circumstances must be conclusive in nature. Moreover, all the circumstances should be complete and there should be no gap left in the chain of evidence. Further, the proved circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused and totally inconsistent with his innocence. In the present case the courts below have overlooked these settled principles and allowed suspicion to take the place of proof besides relying upon some inadmissible evidence."

39. In the case of Ramreddy Rajesh Khanna Reddy v. State of A.P., (2006) 10 SCC 172, Hon'ble Apex Court again considered the case of conviction based on circumstantial evidence and held as under:

"26. It is now well settled that with a view to base a conviction on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution must establish all the pieces of incriminating circumstances by reliable and clinching evidence and the circumstances so proved must form such a chain of events as would permit no conclusion other than one of guilt of the accused. The circumstances cannot be on any other hypothesis. It is also well settled that suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot be a substitute for a proof and the courts shall take utmost precaution in finding an accused guilty only on the basis of the circumstantial evidence. (See Anil Kumar Singh v. State of Bihar, (2003) 9 SCC 67 and Reddy Sampath Kumar v. State of A.P., (2005) 7 SCC 603)."

40. In the case of Sattatiya v. State of Maharashtra, (2008) 3 SCC 210, Hon'ble Apex Court held as under:

"10. We have thoughtfully considered the entire matter. It is settled law that an offence can be proved not only by direct evidence but also by circumstantial evidence where there is no direct evidence. The court can draw an inference of guilt when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be totally incompatible with the innocence of the accused. Of course, the circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances." This Court further observed in the aforesaid decision that:

"17. At this stage, we also deem it proper to observe that in exercise of power under Article 136 of the Constitution, this Court will be extremely loath to upset the judgment of conviction which is confirmed in appeal. However, if it is found that the appreciation of evidence in a case, which is entirely based on circumstantial evidence, is vitiated by serious errors and on that account miscarriage of justice has been occasioned, then the Court will certainly interfere even with the concurrent findings recorded by the trial court and the High Court--Bharat v. State of M.P., (2003) 3 SCC 106. "

41. In the case of State of Goa v. Pandurang Mohite, (2008) 16 SCC 714, Hon'ble Apex Court reiterated the settled law that where a conviction rests squarely on circumstantial evidence, the inference of guilt can be justified only when all the incriminating facts and circumstances are found to be incompatible with the innocence of the accused or the guilt of any person. The circumstances from which an inference as to the guilt of the accused is drawn have to be proved beyond reasonable doubt and have to be shown to be closely connected with the principal fact sought to be inferred from those circumstances.

42. The decision in Sharad Birdichand Sarda (Supra) has recently been followed by Hon’ble Supreme Court in catena of judgement including Laxman Pradad alias Laxman Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 2023(3) SCC (Cri) 27 and R. Sreenivasa Vs. State of Karnataka (2024) 17 SCC 426.

43. In the light of the above pronouncements of Hon'ble Apex Court, we shall now consider whether in the present case, the prosecution succeeded in establishing the chain of the circumstances leading to an inescapable conclusion that the accused-appellant had committed the crime. The following circumstances have to be proved.

1. Whether the death of the deceased-Chandra Pal was homicidal.

2. Whether weapons of assault, i.e. handle of hand pump and spade and dead body of the deceased-Chandra Pal have been recovered on the pointing out of the appellant-Dildar.

3. Whether deceased was done to death by the appellant-Dildar with criminal conspiracy of appellant-Seema.

44. PW-1, Dr. Shri Ram, who conducted the postmortem examination on the body of the deceased noted the following ante-mortem injuries:

1. A wound of 2 cm x 1 cm x bone deep 4 cm away from the left side of the face.

2. A wound of 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep on the left side of face, 1 cm below the left eye.

3. A wound of 2 cm x 1.5 cm x bone deep on the left side face, 1.5 cm anterior to left ear.

4. A wound of 3 cm x 2 cm on the lower face on the chin.

5. Abrasion 3 cm x 1.5 cm on forehead 2 cm above bridge of nose.

45. Bones of left mandible and maxilla were fractured. Frontal bone was also fractured.

46. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injures, which may have been caused 3-4 days before. Doctor further opined that ante-mortem injuries received by the deceased was sufficient to cause death. He also stated that the injuries can be caused by the rod of hand pump. In the opinion of the doctor, the death was caused at about 11:00 PM on 13.03.2007. Doctor further opined that if the dead body is buried under the sand, the symptom which is found in this case during postmortem examination is present. The dead body was covered in soil.

47. From the evidence of the doctor coupled with the evidence of prosecution witnesses, it is clear that the death of the deceased-Chandra Pal was homicidal.

48. The genesis of the case is the alleged information given by the accused-appellant Seema to one Gambhir for being conveyed to the first informant Netra Pal, about the death of the deceased-Chandra Pal. The first informant in his deposition has stated that on the basis of information given by the appellant-Seema when he rushed to the house of the deceased-Chandra Pal along with Rajendra, Prabhu Singh, Balveer and Munna, at about 08:30-08:45 AM and when he entered the house, he saw that the dead body of Chandra Pal was lying beside the heap of sand. Thereafter, he lodged the report scribed by PW-5, Devendra Kumar. Thereafter, he came back to the house of the deceased Chandra Pal along with police personnel, where dead body was dug out of the sand and after conducting inquest on the body of the deceased, it was sent for postmortem examination.

49. The weapons of assault, i.e. handle of hand pump and one spade, were recovered on the pointing out of the appellant-Dildar from the house of the deceased, which was hidden behind the double bed. As the aforesaid articles do not have bloodstained, they were not sealed. Memo Ext. Ka- 10 was prepared, which was signed by Virendra Singh, Heera Singh and the accused-appellant Dildar. While recording the statement of the accused-appellant Dildar under Section 313 Cr.P.C., when this question was put to the accused-Dildar that weapon of assault was recovered on his pointing out, he has not given any specific reply and only stated that false charge sheet has been filed against him.

50. Accused-appellant Dildar is real brother-in-law (Sala) of PW-3, Netra Pal, who is the elder brother of the deceased Chandra Pal. In his deposition PW-3, Netra Pal, the first informant has stated that the character of appellant-Seema was not good and when he complaints about her demeanour, she used to quarrel. Due to her bad conduct, PW-3 Netra Pal sold out his house and settled in the village. His marriage was solemnized in Assam. Accused-Dildar is his real brother-in-law. Initially, he used to live with him, but after his departure, he used the come to Seema and developed illicit relations with Seema. On 16.03.2007, Seema informed Gambhir, who is his cousin about the murder of deceased-Chandra Pal.

51. PW-4, Rajpat Singh, who was later on declared hostile, in his examinaion-in-chief has stated that accused-appellant Dildar was the regular visitor to the house of deceased-Chandra Pal.

52. PW-5, CP Devendra Kumar in his deposition has stated that accused-Dildar used to come to the house of accused-Seema. He was having illicit relation with accused-Seema. Accused-Seema used to extend threat to the deceased that if he does not desert her, she will get him killed. Seema and Dildar along with their accomplices eliminated the deceased and hid the dead body in the heap of sand.

53. PW-6, Virendra Singh in his examination-in-chief has deposed that on 16.03.2007, he came to Agra on the information received by him in respect of the death of the deceased where Shri Chandra, who is the brother of the deceased was also present. At that time, police personnel also reached along with Dildar. On the pointing out of accused-Dildar, handle of hand pump and spade were recovered and memo whereof was prepared on which he put his signature. Shri Chandra also put his thumb impression, which was marked at Ext. Ka-10.

54. Cumulative effect of the statements of the aforesaid witnesses is that the appellant-Seema had illicit relation with appellant-Dildar and that the weapon of assault has been recovered on the pointing out of the appellant-Dildar. Appellant Dildar has also confessed to have killed the deceased.

55. So far as the evidence of hostile witness is concerned, a three Judge Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Khujji alias Surendra Tiwari Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (1991)3 SCC 627, relying upon catena of judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court, held that evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. It was further held that the evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof.

56. In State of U.P. Ramesh Prasad Mishra, (1996) 10 SCC 635, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that evidence of a hostile witness would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused, but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon.

57. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhajju Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh (2012) 4 SCC 327 discussed the worth of the evidence of a hostile witness in the following words:

It is settled law that the evidence of hostile witnesses can also be relied upon by the prosecution to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version of the incident. The evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as washed off the records, it remains admissible in trial and there is no legal bar to base the conviction of the accused upon such testimony, if corroborated by other reliable evidence.

58. In Selvamani Vs. State represented by Inspector of Police, 2024 SCC OnLinw SC 837, after considering a catena of its earlier judgements on the point, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

Thus, the law can be summarised to the effect that the evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant parts thereof which are admissible in law, can be used by the prosecution or the defence.

59. The judgement in Ramesh Prasad Mishra (Supra) was reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dadu alias Ankush and another Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and another, 2025 LiveLaw (SC) 1178.

60. In view of the above, the contention of learned counsel for the appellants that evidence of some of the prosecution witnesses, who turned hostile, cannot be taken into account has no leg to stand.

61. Now the question for consideration before this Court is as to how the accused-appellant Seema, who claims that she was not present in Agra and was in Allahabad, had the knowledge about the death of the deceased.

62. The First Information Report has been lodged on 16.03.2007 at 10:30 AM and autopsy on the cadaver was done on 17.03.2007. Dr. Shri Ram, who conducted the postmortem examination on the body of the deceased opined that the death was caused at about 11:00 PM on 13.03.2007. From the above observations, of the doctor, it cannot be denied that the appellant-Seema was present in Agra and after the incident she left for Allahabad and on 16.03.2007, she informed Gambhir about the death of the deceased.

63. Moreover, the dead body of the deceased was recovered from the house of the appellant-Seema and burden lies on her to explain as to how body had been buried in her house.

64. Scope of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act was examined inconsiderable details by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shambhu Nath Mehra Vs. State of Ajmer, AIR 1956 SC 404, wherein Hon'ble Supreme Court spelt out the legal principle in paragraph 11, which is as under:

11."This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that it means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge."

65. The question of burden of proof, where some facts are within the personal knowledge of the accused, was examined by this Court in the case of State of West Bengal Vs. Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 in the following words:

31. The pristine rule that the burden of proof is on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused should not be taken as a recognized doctrine as though it admits no process of intelligent reasoning. The doctrine of presumption is not alien to the above rule, nor would it impair the temper of the rule. On the other hand, if the traditional rule relating to burden of proof of the prosecution is allowed to be wrapped in pedantic coverage, the offenders in serious offences would be the major beneficiaries and the society would be the casualty.

32. In this case, when the prosecution succeeded in establishing the afore-narrated circumstances, the court has to presume the existence of certain facts. Presumption is a course recognized by the law for the court to rely on in conditions such as this.

33. Presumption of fact is an inference as to the existence of one fact from the existence of some other facts, unless the truth of such inference is disproved. Presumption of fact is a rule in law of evidence that a fact otherwise doubtful may be inferred from certain other proved facts. When inferring the existence of a fact from other set of proved facts, the court exercises a process of reasoning and reaches a logical conclusion as the most probable position. The above principle has gained legislative recognition in India when Section 114 is incorporated in the Evidence Act. It empowers the court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened. In that process the court shall have regard to the common course of natural events, human conduct etc. in relation to the facts of the case.

34. When it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that Mahesh was abducted by the accused and they took him out of that area, the accused alone knew what happened to him until he was with them. If he was found murdered within a short time after the abduction the permitted reasoning process would enable the Court to draw the presumption that the accused have murdered him. Such inference can be disrupted if the accused would tell the Court what else happened to Mahesh at least until he was in their custody.

66. The applicability of Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 has been lucidly explained by the Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Kashi Ram, JT 2006 (12) SCC 254, which reads as under:-

The provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act itself are unambiguous and categoric in laying down that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of a person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Thus, if a person is last seen with the deceased, he must offer an explanation as to how and when he parted company. He must furnish an explanation which appears to the Court to be probable and satisfactory. If he does so he must be held to have discharged his burden.

67. When an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on the accused to offer an explanation.

68. The Supreme Court in Trimukh Maroti Kirkan Vs. State of Maharashtra, (2007) 10 SCC 445 reiterated as here under :-

"14. If an offence takes place inside the privacy of a house and in such circumstances where the assailants have all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in circumstances of their choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence to establish the guilt of the accused if the strict principle of circumstantial evidence, as noticed above, is insisted upon by the Courts. A Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties. xxxxxx

15. Where an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence. The burden would be of a comparatively lighter character. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give a cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on an accused to offer any explanation."

69. In Jagdish Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2009)9 SCC 495, Hon'ble Supreme Court observed as under:

"It bears repetition that the appellant and the deceased family members were the only occupants of the room and it was therefore incumbent on the appellant to have tendered some explanation in order to avoid any suspicion as to his guilt."

70. The Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs Thakur Singh, (2014) 12 SCC 211, while allowing the appeal preferred before it by the State of Rajasthan against the judgment and order of the Rajasthan High Court, by which the High Court had set aside the conviction of accused Thakur Singh recorded by the trial court under Section 302 I.P.C. on the ground that there was no evidence to link the respondent with the death of the deceased which had taken place inside the room in the respondent's house, in which he had taken the deceased (his wife) and their daughter and bolted it from within and kept the room locked throughout and later in the evening when the door of the room was broken open the deceased was found lying dead in the room occupied by her and the respondent-accused. The High Court did not consider the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act at all. The law is quite well settled, that burden of proving guilt of the accused is on the prosecution, but there may be certain facts pertaining to a crime that can be known only to the accused, or are virtually impossible for the prosecution to prove. These facts need to be explained by the accused, and if he does not do so, then it is a strong circumstance pointing to his guilt based on those facts. In the instant case, since the deceased died an unnatural death in the room occupied by her and the respondent, cause of unnatural death was known to the respondent. There is no evidence that anybody else had entered their room or could have entered their room. The respondent did not set up any case that he was not in their room or not in the vicinity of their room while the incident occurred, nor did he set up any case that some other person entered room and cause to the unnatural death of his wife. The facts relevant to the cause of the death of the deceased being known only to the respondent, yet he chose not to disclose them or to explain them. The principle laid down in Section 106, Evidence Act, is clearly applicable to the facts of the case and there is, therefore, a very strong presumption that the deceased was murdered by the respondent. It is not that the respondent was obliged to prove his innocence or prove that he had not committed any offence. All that was required of the respondent was to explain the unusual situation, namely, of the unnatural death of his wife in their room, but he made no attempt to do this.

71. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held as under

In our opinion,he High Court has very cursorily dealt with the evidence on record and has upset a finding of guilt by the trial court in a situation where the respondent failed to give any explanation whatsoever for the death of his wife by asphyxia in his room. In facts of the case, approach taken by the trial court was the correct approach under the law and the High Court was completely in error in relying primarily on the fact that since most of the material prosecution witnesses (all of whom were relatives of the respondent) had turned hostile, the prosecution was unable to prove its case. The position in law, particularly Section 106, Evidence Act, was completely overlooked by the High Court, making it a rife at a perverse conclusion in law.

72. In Nagendra Sah Vs. State of Bihar reported in (2021) 10 SCC 725, wherein Supreme Court observed as under:

22. Thus, Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the court can always draw an appropriate inference.

23. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused.

73. In a recent judgement in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Balveer Singh, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 390, Hon'ble Supreme Court after considering a catena of judgements on the point, held thus:

86. Cases are frequently coming before the Courts where the husbands, due to strained marital relations and doubt as regards the character, have gone to the extent of killing the wife. These crimes are generally committed in complete secrecy inside the house and it becomes very difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence. No member of the family like in the case on board, even if he is a witness of the crime, would come forward to depose against another family member.

87. If an offence takes place inside the four walls of a house and in such circumstances where the accused has all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in the circumstances of its choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead direct evidence to establish the guilt of the accused. It is to resolve such a situation that Section 106 of the Evidence Act exists in the statute book. In the case of Trimukh Maroti Kirkan (supra), this Court observed that a Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. The Court proceeded to observe that a Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties. The law does not enjoin a duty on the prosecution to lead evidence of such character, which is almost impossible to be led, or at any rate, extremely difficult to be led. The duty on the prosecution is to lead such evidence, which it is capable of leading, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case.

74. In view of the legal position enunciated herein above, we are of the view that the aforementioned circumstances constitute more than a prima facie case to enable the prosecution to invoke Section 106 of the Evidence Act and shift the burden on the accused to explain the following circumstances:

1. How the deceased-Chandra Pal died.

2. How and who buried the body of the deceased under the heap of sand.

3. How the appellant-Seema came to know about the presence of the dead body in her house.

4. How weapon of assault reached the house of Seema.

5. How the appellant-Dildar had the knowledge of weapon of assault in the house of appellant-Seema.

75. In the instant case both the accused-appellants have failed to give any explanation about the afore-mentioned foundational facts. When the aforesaid facts have been put to the accused-appellants while recording their statements, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., they have not not made any whisper in this regard.

76. In view of what has been indicated herein above, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt against the appellants. The impugned judgement and order dated 24.10.2017 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Agra in ST No. 730 of 2007, which has been assailed in these criminal appeals do not call for any interference.

77. Accordingly, both the criminal appeals are dismissed. Appellants are in jail. They shall remain in jail to serve out the sentence awarded to them by the Trial Court.
78. Office is directed to send a copy of this order to the court concerned for compliance and compliance report be submitted to this Court within two months.

CRIMINAL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ANIL KUMAR-X, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 10405 of 2024

Sonu & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

The appellant challenged orders from the Special Judge SC/ST , Kannuj , after charges were framed without the court considering a subsequent Final Report that found the allegations against them false.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 147, 452, 323, 504, 506-SC/ST (Prevention of Atrocities) Act,1989-Section 3(1)(d)-Investigation-Supplementary Report-Procedure to be followed by Magistrate upon submission of a "Final Report" under section 173(8) subsequent to taking cognizance of an initial charge-sheet-A supplementary report submitted under section 173(8) Crpc must be treated as an integral part of the primary report-The magistrate is legally bound to exercise judicial mind and consider all police reports submitted during the investigations of a single case-Even if cognizance was previously taken on a primary charge-sheet, the Magistrate must evaluate the cumulative effect of all reports, reading them conjointly, to determine if sufficient grounds exist to proceed against the accused-The recording of a contrary opinion based on fresh facts in a supplementary report does not amount to a "review" or "recall" of the earlier cognizance order, as the judicial duty is continual and the case is not "disposed of" at the cognizance stage within the meaning of section 362 Crpc-Proceeding with a trial or framing charges without considering a subsequent Final Report constitutes a procedural illegality-Appeal allowed.(Para 12 to 26)

Held

The court ruled that the primary report, and all further supplementary must be read conjointly before reaching any conclusion. The impugned orders are set aside. The learned trial court directed to consider both the initial report. if it comes to the conclusion that a conjoint reading of both the reports prima facie makes out a case against the appellants, only then shall it proceed to frame charges against the appellants. Case Arising from

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No.- 10405 OF 2024

Sonu & 5 Ors Vs. State of U.P. & Anr.

From the judgment and order dated 13.02.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Appellant(s) :-
D.K. Tripathi
Adv. for Respondent(s):- G.A.,
Manoj Kumar Srivastava

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anil Kumar-X, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Amrit Raj, learned AGA for the State.

2. None appeared on behalf of the respondent even in the revised call.

3. The present criminal appeal under Section 14-A(1) Scheduled Castes & Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act has been preferred to allow this present appeal and set aside the impugned order dated 21.08.2024, 27.06.2024 and 10.05.2024 and all other consequential orders also passed by Special Judge SC/ST Act, District-Kannauj in S.C. No.1374/2023 (State Vs. Sonu @ Bhagwan Bhakt and others) arising out of Case Crime No.627/2023 U/s 147, 452, 323, 504, 506 I.P.C. and 3 (1)(d) SC/St Act, Police Station-Kotwali Kannauj District-Kannauj.

4. Before embarking upon the above framed legal question, it will be expedient to refer proceedings of the case under challenge. An FIR in Case Crime No. 627 of 2023, under Section 147, 452, 323, 504, 506 IPC and 3(1)(d) SC/ST Act, P.S. Kotwali, District Kannauj was lodged against the appellants. Matter was investigated and I.O. submitted charge sheet against appellants on 15.9.2023. Learned court took cognizance over the said charge sheet on 21.12.2023. As the investigation was still under progress, supplementary report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. was submitted by I.O. on 31.3.2024 by concluding that allegations against the appellants were found false. It can be said that a final report was submitted by I.O. subsequent to the order of taking cognizance upon the charge sheet on 21.12.2023.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that court, after taking cognizance upon the charge sheet on 21.12.2023, framed charges against the appellants on 7.8.2025. It was submitted that proceedings under Section 228 Cr.P.C. were carried without considering the final report submitted on 31.3.2024. Learned counsel submitted that it was incumbent for the court to pass appropriate orders on final report dated 31.3.2024 before framing charges against the appellants on 7.8.2025.

6. Sri Amrit Raj, learned AGA has conceded to the facts disclosed by counsel for the appellants.

7. In light of the submissions made by learned counsel, a short question which arises for consideration in this appeal is:-

"What is the legal procedure and the nature of the judicial order to be passed by a Magistrate under the Code of Criminal Procedure when, following the cognizance of an initial charge sheet, a subsequent 'Final Report' (negative report) is submitted after further investigation conducted under Section 173(8)?"

8. Before expressing any opinion upon the above question, it will be appropriate to ponder upon the procedure provided by the Cr.P.C. regarding the powers which a Magistrate is bound to exercise after submission of report under Section 173 (2) Cr.P.C.

9. Upon the procedure to be adopted by Magistrate after submission of a police report (formerly under Section 173 of the Cr.P.C., now governed by Section 193 of the BNSS). Magistrate has several distinct options upon submission of police report and those options are summarized below:-

1. Accept the Report and Take Cognizance

If the report (charge sheet) indicates that an offence has been committed, the Magistrate may:

Take Cognizance: Act upon the facts disclosed in the report and issue a process (summons or warrant) to the accused.

Independent Review: The Magistrate is not legally bound by the police report. Even if the police submits Final Report because of "insufficient evidence", the Magistrate may still take cognizance if he finds that the records actually disclose a prima facie offence.

2. Reject the Report (Closure or Final Report)

A. If the police submits a "closure report" (Final Report) stating no offence was found, the Magistrate can:

Accept and Drop Proceedings: Agree with the police and discharge the accused.

Mandatory Notice: Before accepting a closure report, the Magistrate must notify the informant or victim, giving him an opportunity to be heard through a "protest petition".

B. Order Further Investigation

If the Magistrate finds the investigation was incomplete or flawed:

Direct Further Investigation: Order the police to gather more evidence under the powers now found in Section 175(3) (formerly 156(3) Cr.P.C. or Section 193(9) BNSS (formerly 173(8) Cr.P.C.

C. Convert Protest Petition into complaint

If the victim or informant files a protest petition challenging the police report (Closure Report), the Magistrate can:

Treat as a Complaint: Magistrate can treat the protest petition as a private complaint under Section 223 of the BNSS (formerly Section 200 Cr.P.C.) and then proceed further in accordance with the procedure laid down under Chapter 15 of Cr.P.C.

Dismiss the Petition: If no prima facie case is made out even after hearing the complainant, the Magistrate may dismiss the petition and accept the original police report.

10. An investigating officer may complete the entire investigation at once. If he does, he must submit a police report. However, I.O by virtue of Section 173(8) Cr.P.C have a broad power to continue the investigation even after submitting initial report (known as a charge sheet or final report). If he later discovers new evidence or facts directly related to and crucial for the case, he can conduct further investigation and file another police report. These police reports submitted after initial report are also police reports and form part of the same initial police report. Initial report may be described as "primary report" and the latter report may be classified as "supplementary report". Supreme Court in Vinay Tyagi vs Irshad Ali @ Deepak & Ors ,2013 (5) SCC 762 held that supplementary report has to be treated by the Court in continuation of the primary report and the same provisions of law, i.e., sub-section (2) to sub-section (6) of Section 173 shall apply when the Court deals with such report.

11. Supplementary reports under Section 173(8) Cr.P.C. may be of the following types:

Type (A): Further oral or documentary evidence that continues from the earlier police report and indicates commission of offences. It is commonly known as supplementary charge sheet.

Type (B): A conclusion opposite to the initial report, where further investigation discloses no offence was found to have been committed, commonly known as Final Report.

Type (C): An empty formality with no substantive content. It is also commonly called as supplementary charge sheet.

12. As discussed above, a "supplementary report" is essentially the same as a "primary report" and a Magistrate must treat it as part of the primary report. However, a dilemma arises particularly in those situations where a Magistrate has already taken cognizance based on an earlier "primary report" disclosing the commission of an offence, but the investigating officer thereafter submits a supplementary report in the form of a closure report (commonly termed a "Type B report"). A Magistrate is faced with a question;whether he is empowered to pass any order on the Final Report particularly if he had already taken cognizance of offence after submission of earlier police report (primary report). This dilemma occurs due to two reasons. First one is, once a court has passed an order, either way, it cannot review its own order. Second is,existence of a perception that once a Magistrate has passed an order of taking cognizance upon charge sheet, then he is not required to pass any order upon any further supplementary report (Final Report). But, both logics are against the canon of law.

13. The act of taking cognizance of an offense is not finalized by the submission of an initial report. The investigating officer's duty to pursue the investigation to its logical conclusion continues beyond the "primary report." Just as the Investigation Officer must continue their investigation until a final logical conclusion is reached, the Magistrate's obligation persists until the police submits their final conclusive report. Consequently, the Magistrate is duty-bound to exercise judicial mind and consider all police reports submitted during the investigation of a single case.

14. Now it will be relevant to discuss the dilemma of the Magistrate as mentioned earlier. Review generally refers to a court re-examining its own decision to correct an error. At this stage, it will be relevant to mention Section 362 of Cr.P.C. which reads as follows:-

"Section 362:-Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no court when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall after or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error."

15. It is apparent from the reading of the said section that it only restricts re-examining the merits, facts, or legal findings of a case. The power of review in criminal matters has been restricted due to the principle of Functus Officio-once a court signs its judgment or final order, its authority over that specific matter end. Therefore, it is evident that the provision of Section 362 Cr.P.C. applies to only those cases where the Court has "disposed of a case ".

16. But where a Magistrate has to pass various orders alike in the case of investigation coupled with the fact that he has to apply his judicial mind on each and every report submitted by police under Section 173 Cr.P.C., his judicial duty is continual. Different facts may arise at different stages and naturally he will have to pass orders independently applying his judicial mind.Section 362 Cr.P.C. prohibits review but does not restrain Magistrate from passing fresh orders on emergent facts under Section 173(8). Therefore, if he, after applying his judicial mind, has to pass a contradictory order during the continuance of investigation proceedings, his latter order passed in contradiction of his earlier order of taking cognizance is not a "review" of the earlier order but it would amount only to a fresh order upon fresh facts. Passing order of cognizance at earlier stage when "primary report " has been submitted, does not "dispose of " the case as mentioned under Section 362 Cr.P.C. Similarly, Final Report submitted under Section 173 does not differ from any other report submitted under the said section. Reports may either disclose commission of offence or they may be submitted to the effect that no offence was found to be committed. Content of the report submitted under Section 173 will not change the nature of the report and Magistrate is bound to pass order upon it. Hence, both the fallacies are ill- founded.

17. Now coming to the question framed for this appeal, it will be relevant to discuss the law laid by Superior Court in order to address this issue. A similar question was raised before the Supreme Court in Vinay Tyagi (Supra). However, its context was a bit different. The question which was dealt with by the Supreme Court was, "Whether in exercise of its powers under Section 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'the Code'), the Trial Court has the jurisdiction to ignore any one of the reports, where there are two reports by the same or different investigating agencies in furtherance of the orders of a Court? If so, to what effect?" The answer of Supreme Court was;

"31. .... Further investigation conducted under the orders of the Court, including that of the Magistrate or by the police of its own accord and, for valid reasons, would lead to the filing of a supplementary report. Such supplementary report shall be dealt with as part of the primary report. This is clear from the fact that the provisions of Sections 173(3) to 173(6) would be applicable to such reports in terms of Section 173(8) of the Code.

32. Both these reports have to be read conjointly and it is the cumulative effect of the reports and the documents annexed thereto to which the Court would be expected to apply its mind to determine whether there exist grounds to presume that the accused has committed the offence. If the answer is in the negative, on the basis of these reports, the Court shall discharge an accused in compliance with the provisions of Section 227 of the Code."

18. Supreme Court then proceeded to answer the issue before it and it held that;

"48. Once a Report under Section 173(2) of the Code has been filed, it can only be cancelled, proceeded further or case closed by the court of competent jurisdiction and that too in accordance with law. Neither the Police nor a specialised investigating agency has any right to cancel the said Report. Furthermore, in the present case, the High Court had passed no order or direction staying further investigation by the Delhi Police or proceedings before the court of competent jurisdiction.

49. On the contrary, the court had noticed explicitly in its order that it was a case of supplementary or further investigation and filing of a supplementary report.

50. Once the Court has taken this view, there is no question of treating the first report as being withdrawn, cancelled or capable of being excluded from the records by the implication. In fact, except by a specific order of a higher court competent to make said orders, the previous as well as supplementary report shall form part of the record which the trial court is expected to consider for arriving at any appropriate conclusion, in accordance with law. It is also interesting to note that the CBI itself understood the order of the court and conducted only 'further investigation' as is evident from the status report filed by the CBI before the High Court on 28th November, 2007.

51. In our considered view, the trial court has to consider the entire record, including both the Delhi Police Report filed under Section 173(2) of the Code as well as the Closure Report filed by the CBI and the documents filed along with these reports.

52. It appears, the trial court may have three options, firstly, it may accept the application of accused for discharge. Secondly, it may direct that the trial may proceed further in accordance with law and thirdly, if it is dissatisfied on any important aspect of investigation already conducted and in its considered opinion, it is just, proper and necessary in the interest of justice to direct 'further investigation', it may do so."

19. Hence, it is evident from the above judgment that a supplementary report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. must be treated as an integral part of the primary (initial) report. Before reaching any conclusion, the court must evaluate the cumulative effect of all reports submitted under this section, reading them conjointly (together as a whole) and will apply its mind to the reports to determine if there are sufficient grounds to presume that the accused has committed the offence. The proposition laid down by Supreme Court will apply equally at the time when Magistrate is confronted with more than one police reports and has to pass an order.

20. Situation may arise, as it has arisen in this case, where the Investigating Officer submitted a Final Report under Section 173 Cr.P.C. after filing the charge sheet, disclosing an offence of which the Court had already taken cognizance under Section 190 Cr.P.C. Such situations have also been discussed by Supreme Court. The issue came before Supreme Court in Ram Lal Narang Etc. Etc vs State Of Delhi (Admn.),1979 AIR 1791, 1979 SCC (2) 322 and it held:-

"Anyone acquainted with the day today working of the criminal courts will be alive to the practical necessity of the police possessing the power to make further investigation and submit a supplemental report. It is in the interests of both the prosecution and the defence that the police should have such power. It is easy to visualise a case where fresh material may come to light which would implicate persons not previously accused or absolve persons already accused. When it comes to the notice of the investigating agency that a person already accused of an offence has a good alibi, is it not the duty of that agency to investigate the genuineness of the plea of alibi and submit a report to the Magistrate ? After all the investigating agency has greater resources at its command than a private individual. Similarly, where the involvement of persons who are not already accused comes to the notice of the investigating agency, the investigating agency cannot keep quiet and refuse to investigate the fresh information. It is their duty to investigate and submit a report to the Magistrate upon the involvement of the other persons. In either case, it is for the Magistrate to decide upon his future course of action depending upon the stage at which the case is before him. If he has already taken cognizance of the offence, but has not proceeded with the enquiry or trial, he may direct the issue of process to persons freshly discovered to be involved and deal with all the accused, in a single enquiry or trial. If the case of which he has previously taken cognizance has already proceeded to some extent, he may take fresh cognizance of the offence disclosed against the newly involved accused and proceed with the case as a separate case. What action a Magistrate is to take in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in such situations is a matter best left to the discretion of the Magistrate. The criticism that a further investigation by the police would trench upon the proceedings before the Court is really not of very great substance, since whatever the police may do, the final discretion in regard to further action is with the Magistrate. That the final word is with the Magistrate is sufficient safeguard against any excessive use or abuse of the power of the police to make further investigation."

21. This issue was again revisited by the Supreme Court in Dharmatma Singh vs Harminder Singh & Ors ,2011(74) ACC 266 (SC), where it held :-

"10. It follows that where the police report forwarded to the Magistrate under Section 173 (2) of the Cr.P.C. states that a person has committed an offence, but after investigation the further report under Section 173 (8) of the Cr.P.C. states that the person has not committed the offence, it is for the Magistrate to form an opinion whether the facts, set out in the two reports, make out an offence committed by the person. This interpretation has given by this Court in Abhinandan Jha & Ors. v. Dinesh Mishra [AIR 1968 SC 117] to the provisions of Section 173 and Section 190 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, which were the same as in the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973. In Abhinandan Jha (supra), para 15 at page 122 of the AIR this Court observed:

"... The police, after such investigation, may submit a charge-sheet, or, again submit a final report, depending upon the further investigation made by them. If ultimately, the Magistrate forms the opinion that the facts, set out in the final report, constitute an offence, he can take cognizance of the offence, under Section 190(1)(b), notwithstanding the contrary opinion of the police, expressed in the final report."

22. Hence, it becomes abundantly clear that if a Final Report is submitted by the police after the submission of the charge sheet upon which the Magistrate has already passed an order taking cognizance, he will have to pass another order on the Final Report after applying his judicial mind to the contents available in both reports. He will have to assess both the reports conjointly for arriving at a conclusion. Again, he has the same options as are available at the time when the "primary report" under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. is placed before him namely, to issue process by taking cognizance, accept the Final Report and drop proceedings, or to direct further investigation.This ensures the Magistrate's continuing duty to independently evaluate supplementary police reports post-cognizance, maintaining procedural fairness.

23. Hence, the Magistrate/ Courts are bound to pass orders on every subsequent reports under Section 173(8) unless supplementary charge sheet lacks fresh materials. This proposition was held by Supreme Court in Mariam Fasihuddin & Anr. versus State by Adugodi Police Station & Anr.: 2024 LiveLaw (SC) 53, where it was held that :-

"27. The provision for submitting a supplementary report infers that fresh oral or documentary evidence should be obtained rather than re evaluating or reassessing the material already collected and considered by the investigating agency while submitting the initial police report, known as the chargesheet under Section 173(2) CrPC. In the absence of any new evidence found to substantiate the conclusions drawn by the investigating officer in the supplementary report, a Judicial Magistrate is not compelled to take cognizance, as such a report lacks investigative rigour and fails to satisfy the requisites of Section 173(8) CrPC. What becomes apparent from the facts on record of this case is that the investigating agency acted mechanically, in purported compliance with the Trial Magistrate's order dated 24.06.2015."

24. Therefore, it becomes abundantly clear that if a Magistrate has taken cognizance of an offence and, thereafter, the Investigating Officer submits a Final Report (closure report) stating that no case is made out, the Magistrate cannot ignore that report. He is legally bound to consider the Final Report and pass an appropriate order on it. He may accept it, reject it, or take cognizance despite it but he must apply his judicial mind to the report. If the Magistrate proceeds further in the case without considering the Final Report at all, such inaction amounts to a procedural illegality.

25. Therefore, it becomes evident from the above discussion that –

(i) Every supplementary report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C. is not different from the initial report (primary report) filed by the I.O.

(ii) Though the Magistrate is empowered to take cognizance upon a police report only once, if supplementary police reports are filed, he must treat such supplementary reports as an integral part of the primary (initial) report under Section 173(2) Cr.P.C.

(iii) The primary report (initial report) and all further supplementary must be read conjointly before reaching any conclusion.

(iv) On every supplementary report, a Magistrate/Court is bound to apply his mind independently, without being influenced by his earlier order of taking cognizance upon primary report (initial report/charge sheet).

(v) If a Magistrate, after applying his judicial mind to the supplementary report, arrives at a conclusion contrary to his earlier decision of taking cognizance on the charge sheet (primary report), the recording of such a contrary opinion will not amount to a review or recall of his earlier order.

26. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The impugned orders dated 21.08.2024, 27.06.2024 and 10.05.2024 vide which processes were issued against the appellants in pursuance of taking cognizance of the charge sheet dated 15.9.2025 and all other consequential orders including the order of framing charge dated 7.8.2025 are set aside. The learned trial court is directed first to consider the final report and pass an order after considering both the initial report (charge sheet) and the final report. If thereafter it comes to the conclusion that a conjoint reading of both reports prima facie makes out a case against the appellants, only then shall it proceed to frame charges against the appellants.

27. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate this judgment/order to all the District Courts.

Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 139 of 2026

Jai Kumar Aggarwal ...Petitioner
Versus
Directorate General of Gst Intelligence & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the petitioner has been arrested illegally and detained in jail since 16.1.2026 and the order dated 17.01.2026 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Meerut, in Case No. 1361/2025, under Section 132(1)(c) of the CGST Act, 2017, and whether the "grounds of arrest" and "reasons to believe" are mandatorily required to be supplied to the arrestee

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 21, 22(1) & 226; The Central Goods and Services Tax Act-Sections 67, 69 & 132 (1) (c) - It is for the Commissioner to ascertain and record the "reasons to believe" explicitly and with reference to the material and evidence underlying his opinion. It is not provided anywhere that the "reasons to believe" should be supplied to the accused- There is serious factual dispute about actual service of "grounds of arrest" on the petitioner before affecting his arrest since in the remand order, there is no recital that the copy of "grounds of arrest" was provided to the petitioner at the time of his arrest and before producing him before the Remand Magistrate and finding of the remand order to be not in accordance with law and also keeping in view of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil- The remand order suffers from legal infirmity and cannot be sustained.

Held- Impugned order set aside- Writ Petition allowed. (E-15)

1. Heard Sri Imran Ullah, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Mohit Singh, Sri Nadeem Murtaza, Sri Vedant Gupta, Ms. Snigdha Singh and Sri Harsh Vardhan Kediya and Sri Vineet Vikram, learned counsel for the petitioner; Sri Dhnanjay Awasthi, Sri Gopi Krishan Soodh and Sri Harmanpreet Singh, Senior Standing Counsel DGGI, Delhi (online), learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 and Mrs. Manju Thakur, learned A.G.A.-Ist for State-respondent nos. 3 & 4 and perused the material on record.

2. The above noted habeas corpus writ petition has been filed by the petitioner praying for following reliefs:-

i. To issue a writ, order or direction, in the nature of Habeas Corpus directing the respondents herein to produce the corpus/petitioner while declaring the detention, arrest, and subsequent remand and custody of the petitioner as unconstitutional, illegal and arbitrary and consequently directing that the Petitioner be released forthwith;

ii. to issue a writ, order, or direction in the nature of certiorari setting aside the order dated 17.01.2026 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Meerut, in Case No. 1361/2025, under Section 132(1)(c) of the CGST Act, 2017, Department DGGI, Ghaziabad, and all consequential proceedings thereof;

iii. to issue any other and further writ, order, or direction, which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

iv. To allow the instant petition with costs.

3. The brief facts of the case is that on 29.12.2025 at about 8:00 a.m., officers of respondent no.1 detained the petitioner and started search proceedings at his residential premises as per Section 67 of CGST Act. After the search proceedings under Section under Section 67 of the CGST Act, petitioner was arrested on 16.1.2026 as per Section 69 of the Act aforesaid.

4. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners submits that at about 6:40 p.m. on 16.1.2026 respondent no.1 handed over an arrest memo without any annexure and search memo to the petitioner and directed the petitioner and his wife to accompany them. Apart from the aforesaid documents, no other documents were supplied to the petitioner at the time of his arrest. Neither "ground of arrest" nor "reasons to believe" as mandatorily required under Section 69 CGST Act read with the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal Vs. Union of India, (2025) 5 SCC 545 were furnished to the petitioner. It has been submitted that the arrest of the petitioner under Section 69 of CGST Act is unwarranted since the offence alleged is punishable up to 5 years only and therefore in view of the recent judgment of Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. C.B.I. & Another, passed in S.L.P.(Crl.) No. 5191 of 2021, dated 11.7.2022, the arrest of petitioner could not have been made.

5. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has pointed out to the circular dated 17.8.2022 issued by the department of Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (GST- Investigation Wing), the relevant portion of which reads as under:-

" F.No. GST/INV/Instructions/2021-22 GST-Investigation Unit
17th August 2022
Instruction No. 02/2022-23 [GST - Investigation]

Subject: Guidelines for arrest and bail in relation to offence punishable under the CGST Act, 2017-reg.

Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in its judgment dated 16th August, 2021 in Criminal Appeal No. 838 of 2021, arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 5442/2021, has observed as follows:

"We may note that personal liberty is an important aspect of our constitutional mandate. The occasion to arrest an accused during investigation arises when custodial investigation becomes necessary or it is a heinous crime or where there is a possibility of influencing the witnesses or accused may abscond. Merely because an arrest can be made because it is lawful does not mandate that arrest must be made. A distinction must be made between the existence the existence of the power to arrest and the justification for exercise of it. If arrest is made routine, it can cause incalculable harm to the reputation and self-esteem of a person. If the Investigating Officer has no reason to believe that the accused will abscond or disobey summons and has, in fact, throughout cooperated with the investigation we fail to appreciate why there should be a compulsion on the officer to arrest the accused."

Conditions precedent to arrest:

3.1 Sub-section (1) of Section 132 of CGST Act, 2017 deals with the punishment for offences specified therein. Sub-section (1) of Section 69 gives the power to the Commissioner to arrest a person where he has reason to believe that the alleged offender has committed any offence specified in clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (1) of Section 132 which is punishable under clause (i) or clause (ii) of subsection (1), or sub-section (2) of the Section 132 of CGST Act, 2017. Therefore, before placing a person under arrest, the legal requirements must be fulfilled. The reasons to believe to arrive at a decision to place an alleged offender under arrest must be unambiguous and amply clear. The reasons to believe must be based on credible material.

3.2 Since arrest impinges on the personal liberty of an individual, the power to arrest must be exercised carefully. The arrest should not be made in routine and mechanical manner. Even if all the legal conditions precedent to arrest mentioned in Section 132 of the CGST Act, 2017 are fulfilled, that will not, ipso facto, mean that an arrest must be made. Once the legal ingredients of the offence are made out, the Commissioner or the competent authority must then determine if the answer to any or some of the following questions is in the affirmative:

3.2.1 Whether the person was concerned in the non-bailable offence or credible information has been received, or a reasonable suspicion exists, of his having been so concerned?

3.2.2 Whether arrest is necessary to ensure proper investigation of the offence?

3.2.3 Whether the person, if not restricted, is likely to tamper the course of further investigation or is likely to tamper with evidence or intimidate or influence witnesses?

3.2.4 Whether person is mastermind or key operator effecting proxy/ benami transaction in the name of dummy GSTIN or non-existent persons, etc. for passing fraudulent input tax credit etc.?

3.2.5 As unless such person is arrested, his presence before investigating officer cannot be ensured.

3.3 Approval to arrest should be granted only where the intent to evade tax or commit acts leading to availment or utilization of wrongful Input Tax Credit or fraudulent refund of tax or failure to pay amount collected as tax as specified in sub-section (1) of Section 132 of the CGST Act 2017, is evident and element of mens rea / guilty mind is palpable.

3.4 Thus, the relevant factors before deciding to arrest a person, apart from fulfillment of the legal requirements, must be that the need to ensure proper investigation and prevent the possibility of tampering with evidence or intimidating or influencing witnesses exists.

3.5 Arrest should, however, not be resorted to in cases of technical nature i.e. where the demand of tax is based on a difference of opinion regarding interpretation of Law. The prevalent practice of assessment could also be one of the deterrnining factors while ascribing intention to evade tax to the alleged offender. Other factors influencing the decision to arrest could be if the alleged offender is co-operating in the investigation, viz. compliance to summons, furnishing of documents called for, not giving evasive replies, voluntary payment of tax etc."

6. He has submitted, relying upon the aforesaid circular, that there was no special reason assigned at the time of the arrest of the petitioner justifying his arrest. The arrest of petitioner was made casually in disregard of the procedural safe guards provided in the circular aforesaid.

7. Further reliance has been made on paragraph no. 34 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (Supra), which is quoted herein below:-

"34. The contention of the DoE that while "grounds of arrest" were mandatorily required to be supplied to the arrestee, "reasons to believe", being an internal and confidential document, need not be disclosed, was decisively rejected in Arvind Kejriwal Vs. Directorate of Enforcement, (2025) 2 SCC 248 . It was held that "reasons to believe" are to be furnished to the arrestee such that they can challenge the legality of their arrest. Exceptions are available in one-off cases where appropriate redactions of "reasons to believe" are permissible. The relevant portion reads:

"41. Once we hold that the accused is entitled to challenge his arrest under Section 19(1) of the PML Act, the court to examine the validity of arrest must catechise both the existence and soundness of the "reasons to believe", based upon the material available with the authorized officer. It is difficult to accept that the "reasons to believe", as recorded in writing, are not to be furnished. As observed above, the requirements in Section 19(1) are the jurisdictional conditions to be satisfied for arrest, the validity of which can be challenged by the accused and examined by the court. Consequently, it would be incongruous, if not wrong, to hold that the accused can be denied and not furnished a copy of the "reasons to believe". In reality, this would effectively prevent the accused from challenging their arrest, questioning the "reasons to believe". We are concerned with violation of personal liberty, and the exercise of the power to arrest in accordance with law. Scrutiny of the action to arrest, whether in accordance with law, is amenable to judicial review. It follows that the "reasons to believe" should be furnished to the arrestee to enable him to exercise his right to challenge the validity of arrest. 42. We would accept that in a one-off case, it may not be feasible to reveal all material, including names of witnesses and details of documents, when the investigation is in progress. This will not be the position in most cases. DoE may claim redaction and exclusion of specific particulars and details. However, the onus to justify redaction would be on the DoE. The officers of the DoE are the authors of the "reasons to believe" and can use appropriate wordings, with details of the material, as are necessary in a particular case. As there may only be a small number of cases where redaction is justified for good cause, this reason is not a good ground to deny the accused's access to a copy of the "reasons to believe" in most cases. Where the non-disclosure of the "reasons to believe" with redaction is justified and claimed, the court must be informed. The file, including the documents, must be produced before the court. Thereupon, the court should examine the request and if they find justification, a portion of the "reasons to believe" and the document may be withheld. This requires consideration and decision by the court. DoE is not the sole judge.

43. Section 173(6) of the Code, permits the police officer not to furnish statements or make disclosures to the accused when it is inexpedient in public interest. In such an event, the police officer is to indicate the specific part of the statement and append a note requesting the Magistrate to exclude that part from the copy given to the accused. He has to state the reasons for making such request. The same principle will apply."

8. Further reliance has been made on paragraph Nos. 51, 52, 54, 64 & 66 of the aforesaid judgement:

"51. We shall now draw our attention to the provisions of the GST Acts. We have collectively referred to the Central as well as the State GST as "the GST Act".

55. To a large extent, our reasoning and the ratio on the applicability of the Code to the Customs Act would equally apply to the GST Acts in view of Sections 4 and 5 of the Code. Sub-section (10) to Section 67 of the GST Acts postulates that the provisions of the Code relating to search and seizure shall, as far as may be, apply to search and seizure under the GST Acts, subject to the modification that for the purpose of sub-section (5) to Section 165 of the Code, the word 'Magistrate' shall be substituted with the word 'Commissioner'. Section 69, which deals with the power of arrest, a provision which we will refer to subsequently, also deals with the provisions of the Code when the person arrested for any offence under the GST Acts is produced before a Magistrate. It also deals with the power of the authorised officers to release an arrested person on bail in case of non-cognizable and bailable offence, having the same power and subject to the same provisions as applicable to an officer in charge of a police station. We would, therefore, agree with the contention that the GST Acts are not a complete code when it comes to the provisions of search and seizure, and arrest, for the provisions of the Code would equally apply when they are not expressly or impliedly excluded by provisions of the GST Acts.

54. Section 69 of the GST Acts states that where a Commissioner has reasons to believe that a person has committed any offence specified in clauses (a) to (d) of sub-section (1) to Section 132, which is punishable under clauses (i) or (ii) of sub-section (1), or sub-section (2) of the said section, he may authorise any officer of central or state tax to arrest such person. Sub-section (2) requires that when a person is arrested for an offence specified in sub-section (5) to Section 132, the officer authorised to arrest, must inform the person of the grounds of arrest and produce him before the Magistrate within 24 hours.

64. The circular also refers to the procedure of arrest and that the Principal Commissioner/Commissioner has to record on the file, after considering the nature of the offence, the role of the person involved, the evidence available and that he has reason to believe that the person has committed an offence as mentioned in Section 132 of the GST Act. The provisions of the Code, read with Section 69(3) of the GST Acts, relating to arrest and procedure thereof, must be adhered to. Compliance must also be made with the directions in D.K. Basu Vs. State of W.B., 1997 SCC (Cri) 92.

64.1. The format of arrest, as prescribed by the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs in Circular No. 128/47/2019-GST dated 23.12.2019, has also been referred to in this Instruction. Therefore, the arrest memo should indicate the relevant section(s) of the GST Act and other laws.

64.2, In addition, the grounds of arrest must be explained to the arrested person and noted in the arrest memo. This instruction regarding the grounds of arrest came to be amended by the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (GST- Investigation Wing) vide Instruction No. 01/2025-GST dated 13.01.2025 (GST/INV/Instructions/21-22). The circular dated 13.01.2025 now mandates that the grounds of arrest must be explained to the arrested person and also be furnished to him in writing as an Annexure to the arrest memo. The acknowledgement of the same should be taken from the arrested person at the time of service of the arrest memo.

64.3. Instruction 02/2022-23 GST (Investigation) dated 17.08.2022 further lays down that a person nominated or authorised by the arrested person should be informed immediately, and this fact must be recorded in the arrest memo. The date and time of the arrest should also be mentioned in the arrest memo. Lastly, a copy of the arrest memo should be given to the person arrested under proper acknowledgement.

64.4. The circular also makes other directions concerning medical examination, the duty to take reasonable care of the health and safety of the arrested person, and the procedure of arresting a woman, etc. It also lays down the post-arrest formalities which have to be complied with. It further states that efforts should be made to file a prosecution complaint under Section 132 of the GST Acts at the earliest and preferably within 60 days of arrest, where no bail is granted. Even otherwise, the complaint should be filed within a definite time frame. A report of arrests made must be maintained and submitted as provided in paragraph 6.1 of the Instruction.

9. It has been submitted by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that it is clear from remand order dated 17.1.2026 that the "medical report" and "memo of arrest" were served on the petitioner on 17.1.2026 after remand order dated 17.1.2026 was passed by the learned Magistrate, when his arrest was effected on 16.1.2026. Therefore, it is clear that the prior to his arrest, he was no supplied the "grounds of arrest" or "reasons to believe". In fact the "reasons to believe" have not been supplied to the petitioner as yet. It has been submitted that once it is found by this Court that the after remand order was passed, "grounds of arrest" were supplied to the petitioner, the order of remand become illegal and therefore the court has jurisdiction to entertain the habeas corpus writ petition preferred by the petitioner before this Court in view of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Mihir Rajesh Shah Vs. State of Maharastra and another, MANU/SC/1492/2025. Relevant paragraph no. 56 thereof is quoted herein below:-

" 56. In conclusion, it is held that:

i) The constitutional mandate of informing the arrestee the grounds of arrest is mandatory in all offences under all statutes including offences under IPC 1860 (now BNS 2023); ii) The grounds of arrest must be communicated in writing to the arrestee in the language he/she understands; iii) In case(s) where, the arresting officer/person is unable to communicate the grounds of arrest in writing on or soon after arrest, it be so done orally.

The said grounds be communicated in writing within a reasonable time and in any case at least two hours prior to production of the arrestee for remand proceedings before the magistrate.

iv) In case of non-compliance of the above, the arrest and subsequent remand would be rendered illegal and the person will be at liberty to be set free."

10. It has finally been submitted that from the material on record and judgements cited above at bar it is clear that petitioner has been arrested illegally and detained in jail since 16.1.2026. Hence this writ petitioner deserves to be allowed by granting reliefs sought in the writ petition.

11. Sri Dhnanjay Awasthi, learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2, has vehemently opposed the submissions made by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner. The first argument of learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 is that "reasons to believe" are not required to be supplied to the petitioner. There are only internal documents to be perused by the department and the court as Section 69 (1) of the CGST Act, only provides that where Commissioner has reasons to believe that a person has committed any offence specified in clause (a) or clause (b) or clause (c) or clause (d) of sub-section (1) of section 132 which is punishable under clause (i) or (ii) of sub-section (1), or sub-section (2) of the said section, he may, by order, authorise any officer of central tax to arrest such person.

12. He has submitted that "reasons to believe" are not required to be supplied to such person and only Commissioner should have "reasons to believe" that such person has committed the alleged offence. He has submitted that word "may" used in Section has effect of word "shall" and is mandatory in nature and not merely directory.

13. Second argument of learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 is that in paragraph no. 58 of the judgment in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra) the Apex Court has held that Commissioner must record "reasons to believe" in his order while directing arrest of the person so implicated. There is no requirement of serving copy of the "reasons to believe" of the accused.

14. He has thirdly submitted that vires of Section 69 of CGST Act has already been upheld in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra) and therefore argument made by learned counsel for the petitioner is legally misconceived and deserves to be turned down.

15. He has forthly submitted that since vires of Section 69 and 70 of CGST Act has been upheld by the Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra), therefore, unless the aforesaid provisions of CGST Act are again challenged with reference to the service of "reasons to believe", it is not open for the petitioner to raise such an argument as has been raised before this Court.

16. Learned Counsel for respondent nos. 1 and 2 has finally submitted that judgment of Apex Court in the Case of Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. C.B.I. & Another (supra) does not applies to the case of CGST Act which is complete code in itself and judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. C.B.I. & Another (supra) is contrary in part to the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (Supra). He submits that the ratio of case Satendra Kumar Antil Vs. C.B.I. & Another (supra), that where offence is/are punishable upto 7 years or below arrest cannot be effected, is not applicable to the present case under CGST Act.

17. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 has submitted that the service of grounds of arrest on the petitioner on 17.1.20256 at 5:00 p.m. will not affect the merits of the remand order since grounds of arrest was admittedly supplied to the petitioner.

18. After hearing the rival submissions, this Court finds that the first issue to be decided is regarding the maintainability of the writ petition. It has been vehemently argued by the learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 that the petition is not maintainable since petitioner has been arrested by following procedure of law as per Section 67/69 of CGST Act. We find that such a contention raised before this Court is not apparent from record. It is settled law that if the court finds that the order of remand passed by the Magistrate is not in accordance with law. The arrest of the accused in such a case becomes illegal and the this Court has jurisdiction to entertain the habeas corpus writ petition preferred under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. This view finds support from the paragraph no. 28 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of V. Senthil Balaji Vs. State represented by Deputy Director and others, (2024) 2 Supreme Court Cases 51.

19. The argument of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that the "reasons to believe" were required to be furnished to the petitioner alongwith the "grounds of arrest" also needs consideration. From the paragraph no.34 of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra) it is clear that “grounds of arrest” and "reasons to believe" are mandatorily required to be supplied to the arrestee. We find that the aforesaid observation of Hon'ble Supreme Court was with regard to the provisions of P.M.L.A. Act and not GST Act.

20 Our view finds support from the paragraph nos. 58, 59, 60, 61, 64.2 of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra), quoted herein below:-

"58. It is clear from the aforesaid provisions that, to pass an order of arrest in case of cognizable and non-cognizable offences, the Commissioner must satisfactorily show, vide the reasons to believe recorded by him, that the person to be arrested has committed a non-bailable offence and that the pre-conditions of sub-section (5) to Section 132 of the Act are satisfied. Failure to do so would result in an illegal arrest. With regard to the submission made on behalf of the Revenue that arrests are not made in case of bailable offences, in our considered view, the Commissioner, while recording the reasons to believe should state his satisfaction and refer to the 'material' forming the basis of his finding regarding the commission of a non-bailable offence specified in clauses

(a) to (d) of sub-section (1) to Section 132. The computation of the tax involved in terms of the monetary limits under clause (i) of sub-section (1), which make the offence cognizable and non-bailable, should be supported by referring to relevant and sufficient material.

59. The aforesaid exercise should be undertaken in right earnest and objectively, and not on mere ipse dixit without foundational reasoning and material. The arrest must proceed on the belief supported by reasons relying on material that the conditions specified in sub-section (5) of Section 132 are satisfied, and not on suspicion alone. An arrest cannot be made to merely investigate whether the conditions are being met. The arrest is to be made on the formulation of the opinion by the Commissioner, which is to be duly recorded in the reasons to believe. The reasons to believe must be based on the evidence establishing - to the satisfaction of the Commissioner - that the requirements of sub-section (5) to Section 132 of the GST Act are met.

60. Our attention was drawn to the judgment of the High Court of Delhi in Makemytrip (India) Private Limited and Another v. Union of India and Others, 2016 SCC OnLine Del 4951. which is a decision interpreting the power of arrest under the Finance Act, 1994. These provisions are related to service tax. Excise duty, service tax, and other taxes are subsumed under the GST regime. Accordingly, we are in agreement with the findings recorded in this decision to the extent that the power of arrest should be used with great circumspection and not casually. Further, as in the case of service tax, the power of arrest is not to be used on mere suspicion or doubt, or for even investigation, when the conditions of sub- section (5) to Section 132 of the GST Acts are not satisfied.

61. However, relying upon the judgment in the case of Makemytrip (supra), it has been submitted on behalf of the petitioners, that the power under sub-section (5) to Section 132 cannot be exercised unless the procedure under Section 73 of the GST Act is completed and an assessment order is passed quantifying the tax evaded or erroneously refunded or input tax credit wrongly availed. According to us, this contention should not be accepted as a general or broad proposition. We would accept that normally the assessment proceedings would quantify the amount of tax evaded, etc. and go on to show whether there is any violation in terms of clauses (a) to (d) to sub-section (1) of Section 132 of the GST Acts and that clause (i) to sub-section (1) is attracted. But there could be cases where even without a formal order of assessment, the department/Revenue is certain that it is a case of offence under clauses (a) to (d) to sub-section (1) of Section 132 and the amount of tax evaded, etc. falls within clause (i) of sub-section (1) to Section 132 of the GST Acts with sufficient degree of certainty. In such cases, the Commissioner may authorise arrest when he is able to ascertain and record reasons to believe. As indicated above, the reasons to believe must be explicit and refer to the material and evidence underlying such opinion. There has to be a degree of certainty to establish that the offence is committed and that such offence is non-bailable. The principle of benefit of doubt would equally be applicable and should not be ignored either by the Commissioner or by the Magistrate when the accused is produced before the Magistrate.

64.2. In addition, the grounds of arrest must be explained to the arrested person and noted in the arrest memo. This instruction regarding the grounds of arrest came to be amended by the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (GST- Investigation Wing) vide Instruction No. 01/2025-GST dated 13.01.2025 (GST/INV/Instructions/21-22). The circular dated 13.01.2025 now mandates that the grounds of arrest must be explained to the arrested person and also be furnished to him in writing as an Annexure to the arrest memo. The acknowledgement of the same should be taken from the arrested person at the time of service of the arrest memo."

21. It is amply clear from the above paragraphs of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra) that it is for the Commissioner to ascertain and record the "reasons to believe" explicitly and with reference to the material and evidence underlying his opinion. It is not provided anywhere that the "reasons to believe" should be supplied to the accused. Therefore, the arguments advanced by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is turned down.

23. The argument of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner ought not to have been arrested since he has been implicated for committing an offence, which is punishable below 7 years appears to be correct since Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil (supra) has not excluded the application of ratio of the judgment to the offences covered under the Special Act. Therefore we agree that the ratio of the judgment in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil (supra) will apply to this case also.

24. Learned counsel for respondent nos. 1 & 2 has pointed to the counter affidavit and has demonstrated that the arrest memo, Jama Talasi, grounds of arrest and intimation regarding arrest of the petitioner sent to his wife were handed over to the petitioner and his wife and their signatures were taken on 16.1.2026 itself when the remand order was passed on 17.1.2026. Therefore, it is clear that the service of grounds of arrest and other documents were made on the petitioner before producing him before Remand Magistrate on 17.1.2026. Therefore, there is full compliance of the mandate of law regarding providing of the "memo of arrest" and "grounds of arrest" to the petitioner and also providing the copy of intimation to his wife about his arrest.

25. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner submits that the argument of counsel for respondent nos.1&2 is absolutely incorrect. He has submitted that the signatures of the petitioner were taken on all the documents while in custody and the copy of the same was never supplied to the petitioner or his wife. He has submitted that before the Remand Magistrate it was specifically argued on behalf of the petitioner that the "grounds of arrest" of petitioner was never provided to him in violation of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (supra), Rihan Kumar, etc. and the mandate of Apex Court has been violated. There is also no document evidencing that "reasons to believe" were present on the record and hence remand application of the prosecution should have been rejected. He has pointed out further that the Remand Magistrate has not recorded any finding that the "grounds of arrest" has been supplied to the petitioner. The findings recorded by the Remand Magistrate only is that on 16.1.2026 the accused was arrested and the"grounds of arrest"were communicated to him in Hindi and English, orally and his signatures were taken thereon 16.1.2026 and after his arrest, memo of "grounds of arrest" was provided to him which has been brought on record. The copy of "reasons to believe" has been provided to the Court in sealed cover by the prosecution, which has been perused by the Court.

26. We find from paragraph No. 64.2 of the judgment of Apex Court in the case of Rakhika Agrawal (Supra) that as per the circular dated 13.1.2025, grounds of arrest must be explained to the arrested person and also be furnished to him in writing as an Annexure to the arrest memo. In this case we find that in the arrest memo, there is no mention of any annexure. Therefore it appears that opposite party nos. 1 & 2 have not been complied their own circular dated 13.1.2025 by furnishing to the petitioner the "grounds of arrest" alongwith the arrest memo as its annexure. On this account also we find that the remand order of petitioner is illegal.

27. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has pointed out that the copy of medical report and grounds of arrest were received by learned counsel for the petitioner in Court at 5:00 p.m. on 17.1.2026 as per the endorsement made in the remand order dated 17.1.2026. Therefore he contends that after the remand order was passed, the medical report and grounds of arrest were provided to the counsel for the petitioner. Earlier his signatures were taken only on grounds of arrest. Further the court did the "reasons to believe" recorded by Commissioner by opening the sealed cover, wherein it was produced before the court. As per the paragraph of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Radhika Agrawal (Supra) the court was required to ascertain whether the "reasons to believe" show that the arrest of petitioner has been made relying upon any credible evidence or it has been made only to investigate the suspicion against petitioner. Whether the power of arrest was used with circumspection and case was required to be ascertained by court before allowing remand application of respondents, which is not apparent from the remand order.

28. After the considering the fact that there is serious factual dispute about actual service of "grounds of arrest" on the petitioner before affecting his arrest since in the remand order, there is no recital that the copy of "grounds of arrest" was provided to the petitioner at the time of his arrest and before producing him before the Remand Magistrate and finding of the remand order to be not in accordance with law and also keeping in view of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Satendra Kumar Antil (supra), we hold that the remand order suffers from legal infirmity and cannot be sustained. It is hereby set aside.

29. This writ petition is allowed.

30. The petitioner shall be released from custody on production of copy of this order before the court/authority concerned duly downloaded in official website of this Court without waiting for production of certified copy of this order, which shall be filed after the court reopens after weekly holidays.

31. It shall be open for the respondent to proceed afresh against the petitioner in accordance with law, if so warranted.

Habeas Corpus Writ Petition No. 428 of 2025

Issue for Consideration

(A) Whether the constitutional and statutory safeguards governing preventive detention, including supply of relied-upon material, consideration of representations, reference to and opinion of the Advisory Board, and adherence to prescribed timelines, were duly complied with.
(B) Whether the detaining authority's satisfaction was reached in accordance with law, on relevant and proximate material, and whether the grounds are precise and sufficient to enable an effective representation under Article 22(5).
(C) Whether the impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately pertains to "public order", as distinguished from a mere "law and order" situation.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 21, 22(1) & 226; The National Security Act, 1980-Section 3, 5A, 8, 10, 11, 12 & 13- No specific grievance of non-supply of relied-upon documents or of inadequacy of grounds disabling representation has been substantiated before this Court by the petitioners. The requirements of Section 8 and Article 22(5) are accordingly found to have been complied with.

The entire chain of statutory safeguards, i.e. from the making of the detention order and its approval by the State Government, through the communication of grounds, consideration of representations, reference to and hearing before the Advisory Board, receipt of the Board's opinion, and final confirmation by the State Government, has been observed in strict compliance with the timelines and requirements prescribed under Sections 3(4), 3(5), 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13 of the National Security Act, 1980, and with the constitutional mandate of Article 22(5). The requisite satisfaction has been independently arrived at by the detaining authority at each stage. No procedural infirmity has been made out by the petitioners on this count.

The detaining authority's satisfaction was independently and lawfully reached, on relevant and rationally probative material drawn from a layered chain of field assessments and intelligence inputs, with a live and proximate link to the apprehended future conduct.

The impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately and demonstrably pertains to "public order". The alleged activity and its aftermath community-wide fear and behavioural change, inter-community tension, risk of communal violence, extraordinary administrative response, and a contemporaneous intelligence assessment of public order collapse collectively establish a disturbance of the even tempo of community life in named localities going well beyond an isolated criminal offence. The detaining authority not only had before it rationally probative material establishing a public order disturbance but also expressly applied the correct legal test in the grounds themselves. No case has been made out that the detention orders have been founded on a mere law and order situation dressed up as a public order concern.

Held- There are no cogent reasons to entertain the petitions and allow the prayers sought therein. In the aforesaid terms, the petitions stand dismissed. (E-15)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Dhari Singh, J.)

1. Before this Court there are three habeas corpus petitions challenging preventive detention orders passed under the National Security Act, 1980, arising from an incident of alleged cattle slaughter in the town of Kalpi, District Jalaun committed, as the detaining authority found, on the first day of Chaitra Navratri, the very event of Eid. The detaining authority found that this act shattered public order, created inter-community tension across multiple localities, generated fear and terror among the general public, and carried within it the very real risk of communal violence. The petitioners urge that their detention is illegal, that the grounds are insufficient, and that the matter is at best one of law and order, not public order. The State urges that every constitutional and statutory safeguard has been complied with and that the detention was a necessary measure to preserve communal harmony in the area. It is these competing contentions that this Court is called upon to adjudicate.

INTRODUCTION

2. Personal liberty is the most elemental of freedoms, the one from which all others draw breath. Our Constitution, in its profound wisdom, protects it fiercely. Yet the same Constitution, with equal wisdom, acknowledges that there are moments when the safety of the community demands that one person's liberty yield to the larger imperative of preserving the peace in which all others live their lives. Preventive detention is that solemn exception, drastic, exceptional, and never to be ordinary. It is a power the courts have always viewed with searching scrutiny, for when the State detains without trial, without proof, and without the presumption of innocence, it must be held to the strictest account. The constitutional safeguards surrounding preventive detention are not technicalities to be observed in form alone, they are the thin but firm line between a constitutional democracy and arbitrary executive power. This Court, as a sentinel of personal liberty, approaches every habeas corpus petition with that awareness squarely in mind.

3. Yet liberty, however precious, does not exist in a vacuum. A nation as ancient and as diverse as ours carries within it the constant responsibility of tending to the fragile bonds of communal co-existence. When an act deliberate in its commission, precise in its timing, strikes at the deepest religious sentiments of a community at its most sacred moment, it carries within it the potential to fracture those bonds with swift and devastating effect. The law of preventive detention, when invoked on proper material and in strict accordance with constitutional safeguards, serves not merely an administrative purpose but a deeper social one, the preservation of that even tempo of life that every citizen is entitled to live, undisturbed by those who would exploit communal sensitivities to foment disorder. It is against this backdrop that this Court proceeds to examine the legality of the impugned detention orders.

FACTUAL MATRIX

4. The matter has arisen out of the facts as detailed hereunder:

(i) On 31.03.2025, an FIR was lodged at Police Station Kotwali Kalpi, District Jalaun, registered as Case Crime No. 68 of 2025, under Sections 3/5/8 of the U.P. Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, Section 11 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, and Sections 4/25 of the Arms Act, 1959, against eight accused persons, including the present petitioners/detenues Sikandar, Saiyyaj Ali, and Hasnen, in relation to the alleged illegal slaughter of cattle within the jurisdiction of the said police station.

(ii) As per the FIR narrative, the police personnel were on patrolling duty on 30.03.2025. It is alleged that upon receiving information regarding illegal slaughter by 7□8 persons between fields/shrubs, the police party reached the spot and allegedly saw one person filling meat in a plastic bag and others allegedly engaged in slaughtering animals. It is further alleged that a raid was conducted and petitioner Sikandar was apprehended, and recovery of a knife and approximately 2-3 quintals of beef/cattle meat was made from Sikandar, and it is further alleged that he disclosed the names of Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen.

(iii) It is the petitioners□ case that the prosecution version is founded primarily on the statement of the informant and other witnesses, who, as pleaded, are police personnel, and that the investigation materials collected (including statements and other documents) formed part of the record placed before the detaining authority.

(iv) The investigation in Case Crime No. 68 of 2025 culminated in a charge-sheet dated 24.05.2025. Sikandar was remanded to judicial custody on 31.03.2025, whereas Husnen surrendered before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai on 11.04.2025, and Saiyyaj Ali was remanded to judicial custody on 04.04.2025.

(v) Saiyyaj was directed to be released on bail vide order dated 21.04.2025 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 300 of 2025 (Saiyyaj Ali v. State of U.P.). Hasnen was directed to be released on bail vide order dated 25.04.2025 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 313 of 2025 (Hasnen v. State of U.P.). In the case of Sikandar, it is stated that his bail application was pending in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 16469 of 2025.

(vi) In relation to Sikandar, the Circle Officer, Kalpi, District Jalaun submitted a report dated 23.04.2025 to the Superintendent of Police, Jalaun, and on the same date the Superintendent of Police forwarded his report to the District Magistrate, Jalaun, whereafter the District Magistrate, in exercise of powers under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980, passed the detention order dated 28.04.2025, which is under challenge in the present petition filed by Sikandar.

(vii) In relation to Saiyyaj Ali, the Circle Officer, Kalpi, District Jalaun submitted a report dated 26.04.2025 to the Superintendent of Police, Jalaun, and on the same date the Superintendent of Police forwarded his report to the District Magistrate, Jalaun, whereafter the District Magistrate, in exercise of powers under Section 3(2) NSA, passed the detention order dated 28.04.2025, which is under challenge in the petition filed by Saiyyaj Ali.

(viii) In relation to Husnen, the Circle Officer, Kalpi, District Jalaun submitted a report dated 26.04.2025 to the Superintendent of Police, Jalaun, and on the same date the Superintendent of Police forwarded his report to the District Magistrate, Jalaun, whereafter the District Magistrate, in exercise of powers under Section 3(2) NSA, passed the detention order dated 28.04.2025, which is under challenge in the petition filed by Husnen.

(ix) Prior to the passing of the detention order, a communication dated 03.04.2025 was issued from the confidential section to the Superintendent of Police, Jalaun, indicating that if the petitioners were released on bail, they were likely to repeat the alleged offence.

(x) The detention orders dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025 were passed by the District Magistrate, Jalaun on the basis of reports/inputs of the Station House Officer, Circle Officer, Additional Superintendent of Police, and Superintendent of Police, District Jalaun.

(xi) A copy of the detention order, the grounds of detention, and all other connected documents, as received from the District Magistrate, Jalaun, were also forwarded to the Central Government vide letter dated 05.05.2025.

(xii) Under Section 10 of the NSA, the State Government placed before the Advisory Board the detention order, grounds on which the order has been made and ancillary material on 05.05.2025. The petitioners submitted representations/replies dated 07.05.2025/08.05.2025 seeking revocation of the detention orders under the NSA. The same were examined and finally rejected by the State Government on 20.05.2025/21.05.2025 and communicated on the next day. Copies of the representations were also placed before the Advisory Board.

(xiii) The U.P. Advisory Board, Lucknow, vide letter dated 26.05.2025, informed the State Government that the case of the petitioner would be taken up for hearing on 28.05.2025. The Board further directed that the petitioner be informed that, if he so desired, he could appear before the U.P. Advisory Board along with a □next friend□ (non-advocate) and, upon request, be permitted to take such next friend with him. This intimation was accordingly communicated to the petitioner through the district authorities by the State Government vide letter dated 26.05.2025. The petitioner appeared before the U.P. Advisory Board on the date fixed. The U.P. Advisory Board heard the petitioner in person as well as the Government officials, and thereafter forwarded its report along with its opinion that there existed sufficient cause for the preventive detention of the petitioner under NSA.

(xiv) Acting on the said report in exercise of its powers under Section 13 of the Act, the State Government vide order dated 12.06.2025 confirmed the detention order and directed continuance of the detention for a period of one year from the date of detention.

(xv) Aggrieved by the detention orders dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025, the petitioners have approached this Hon'ble Court under Article 226 seeking, inter alia, quashing of the impugned detention orders and their release.

SUBMISSIONS

Petitioners' Submissions

5. The Petitioners' case, in brief, is that the instant habeas corpus petitions under Article 226 of the Constitution of India have been filed to challenge the detention orders dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Jalaun under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980, whereby the petitioners have been directed to be detained for a period of one year. It is submitted that the petitioners have been in illegal custody in pursuance of the said order and seek issuance of a writ of habeas corpus directing that they be set at liberty, along with quashing of the impugned detention orders.

6. It is stated that an FIR dated 31.03.2025 was lodged at Police Station Kotwali Kalpi, District Jalaun, registered as Case Crime No. 68 of 2025 under Sections 3/5/8 of the Prevention of Cow Slaughter Act, Section 11 of the Prevention of Animal Cruelty Act, 1960 and Sections 4/25 of the Arms Act against the petitioner and seven other co-accused.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioners refers to the contents of the FIR and submits that they have been falsely implicated in the said case. It is further submitted that the prosecution version is founded upon the statements of the informant and other witnesses, who, as pleaded, are police personnel.

8. In the case of Sikander, it is pleaded that he was sent to jail on 31.03.2025 in the aforementioned case. It is further submitted that Saiyyaj Ali was neither apprehended from the spot nor anything had been recovered from his possession and had been imprisoned since 04.04.2025; he was directed to be released on bail vide order dated 21.04.2025 in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 300 of 2025 (Saiyyaj Ali v. State of U.P.). In the case of Hasnen, it is stated that he surrendered before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Jalaun at Orai on 11.04.2025 and has remained in jail since then in connection with the aforesaid case; he was directed to be released on bail vide order dated 25.04.2025 passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. 313 of 2025 (Hasnen v. State of U.P.).

9. It has further been contended that the investigation in Case Crime No. 68 of 2025 has been completed and a chargesheet has been filed on 24.05.2025. It is also pleaded that the petitioners have no other criminal history apart from the aforesaid case.

10. So far as the detention proceedings are concerned, it is stated that the Station House Officer submitted a report to the Superintendent of Police regarding detention of the petitioner under the National Security Act. It is further stated that the Circle Officer and the Additional Superintendent of Police also submitted reports to the Superintendent of Police, who then forwarded a Report to the District Magistrate for passing an order under Section 3(2) of the Act, pursuant to which the District Magistrate passed the impugned detention order(s) dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025.

11. On the basis of the above pleadings, learned counsel for the Petitioners submit that the detention orders are bad in the eye of law. It is further pleaded that the impugned order(s) has been passed without due application of mind. Learned counsel for the Petitioners also alleges violation of the principles of natural justice and infringement of Articles 14 and 19 of the Constitution of India.

12. Accordingly, it is prayed that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to issue a writ of habeas corpus directing the respondents to set the petitioner at liberty and to quash the detention order(s) dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025 passed by the District Magistrate, Jalaun under Section 3(2) of the National Security Act, 1980.

Respondents' Submissions

13. Learned counsels for the respondents/State submit that an FIR dated 31.03.2025 was registered as Case Crime No. 68 of 2025 at Police Station Kotwali Kalpi, District Jalaun, under Sections 3/5/8 of the U.P. Cow Slaughter Act, 1955, Section 11 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act, 1960, and Sections 4/25 of the Arms Act, 1959, against eight accused persons including the petitioners/detenues Sikandar, Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen. It is stated that Sikandar is in judicial custody since 31.03.2025, Saiyyaj Ali since 04.04.2025, and Hasnen since 11.04.2025 in the aforesaid case. After investigation, the charge-sheet has been submitted against the accused persons including the petitioners/detenues.

14. It has been submitted that a substantial quantity of beef (about three quintals) was recovered, and cattle were found tied as well as bones/skin/weapons were also recovered. One detenue was apprehended at the spot while the others fled. The incident, having regard to its extent and local impact, caused fear and tension in and around the area and disturbed communal harmony, thereby impacting public order, not merely law and order.

15. The detaining authority/District Magistrate, Jalaun passed separate detention orders under Section 3 (2) of the National Security Act, 1980 against the petitioners/detenues. Learned counsels for the Respondents stated that the said detention orders were approved by the State Government on 03.05.2025 within the period prescribed under Section 3(4) of the Act, 1980.

16. It is submitted that the matter was placed before the U.P. Advisory Board, Lucknow. The detenues were informed to appear before the Advisory Board along with a next friend. The detenues appeared in person and were heard on 28.05.2025. The Advisory Board thereafter opined that sufficient cause exists for preventive detention of the petitioners under the National Security Act, 1980. The State Government received the Advisory Board□s report/opinion on 05.06.2025 within the time contemplated under Section 11(1) of the Act, 1980, and upon independent reconsideration of the entire material, the State Government confirmed the detention orders for twelve months from 25.04.2025 under Sections 12 and 13 of the National Security Act, 1980.

17. It is stated that the grounds of detention disclose the incident and the activities attributed to each detenue separately. The detaining authority has recorded satisfaction, on the basis of cogent material, that (i) the detenues were attempting to secure bail and there was a real possibility of their release, and (ii) upon release, they were likely to indulge in activities prejudicial to the maintenance of public order.

18. It is submitted that the entire procedure applicable to preventive detention has been duly complied with. The detention orders, grounds of detention and relied upon materials were duly served. The detenues submitted representations dated 08.05.2025, which were processed within reasonable time as reflected in the respective counter affidavits. It is stated that the representations of Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen were rejected on 20.05.2025, and that of Sikandar was rejected on 21.05.2025, followed by communication to the detenues.

19. In view of the foregoing, it was submitted that the detention orders are based on relevant material and contain specific grounds. There is no material indicating mala fides or vagueness. The subjective satisfaction recorded by the detaining authority, being founded on cogent material, is not open to interference in habeas jurisdiction except on well-settled grounds, which are not made out herein.

20. Thus, it was prayed by learned counsels appearing for the Respondents that in view of the aforesaid facts and the statutory compliance at every stage, and considering the Advisory Board□s opinion and the material demonstrating disturbance of public order, the State respectfully submits that the present habeas corpus petitions are devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed.

21. During the course of the submissions, the learned counsels appearing for the Respondents placed reliance on plethora of judgments including:

Pesala Nookaraju v. Government of Andhra Pradesh
Kartik Chandra Guha v. State of West Bengal
Alijan Mian v. District Magistrate, Dhanbad
Yofendra Muraari v. State of U.P.
N. Meera Rani v. Government of Tamil Nadu
Arun Ghosh v. State of West Bengal
Raisuddin alias Babu Mamchi
Ashok Kumar v. Delhi Administration
Dr. Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar

Hetchin Haokip v. State of Manipur
A. Maimoona v. State of Tamil Nadu

22. Heard Mr. Sunil Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Manish Pandey, learned counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 2, Mr. S.K. Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State of U.P. and perused the material on record.

PREVENTIVE DETENTION & JUDICIAL REVIEW

23. Prior to adverting to the questions for consideration, and before examining the legality of the impugned detention orders, this Court deems it apposite to recapitulate the settled principles governing preventive detention, namely, the object and rationale for which such extraordinary power may be invoked, the essential requirements that must inform and sustain a valid detention order, and the limited but strict contours of judicial review in habeas corpus over such executive satisfaction.

Concept of Preventive Detention

24. The essential defining feature of preventive detention is that the restraint is not imposed to punish a person for what he has already done, but to prevent him from doing so in future. The foundation of such detention is the executive's satisfaction, on the basis of relevant material, that there exists a reasonable probability of the detenu acting in a manner akin to his past conduct, and that his detention is necessary to forestall such anticipated conduct. In cases of preventive detention, the past act is merely the material for inference about the future course of probable conduct on the part of the detenu. Preventive detention is not to punish an individual for any wrong done by him, but by curtailing his liberty, with a view to preventing him from committing certain injurious activities in future. Preventive detention is thus preventive, and not punitive.

25. Proceedings in a court of law and an order of detention under the 1980 Act operate in distinct fields: the former is punitive, while the latter is preventive. In prosecution, punishment follows only upon proof of guilt, tested against the standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt; in preventive detention, the restraint is imposed with a view to preventing the commission of acts of the nature contemplated by the statute authorising such detention.

26. Preventive detention is thus qualitatively different from punitive detention. It is a precautionary power exercised in reasonable anticipation, and may or may not be linked to a specific offence. It is neither a substitute for, nor a parallel to, criminal prosecution, and does not overlap with it merely because it may draw upon certain facts that could also furnish the basis for prosecution. A preventive detention order may be made prior to, or during, prosecution; it may be made with or without prosecution; and it may even be made in anticipation of, or after, discharge or acquittal. The pendency of prosecution is no impediment to the making of a preventive detention order, just as a detention order does not operate as a bar to prosecution.

27. Article 22(1) and (2) of the Constitution guarantee protection to a person against arbitrary arrest, except under a warrant issued by a court of law, and are vital and fundamental for safeguarding personal liberty. Nonetheless, the protection so guaranteed is subject to clause (3) of Article 22 which operates as an exception to clauses (1) and (2) and ordains that nothing therein shall apply to, inter alia, any person who is arrested or detained under any law providing for preventive detention. The purpose of preventive detention, as delineated in Haradhan Saha v. State of W.B.12, is to prevent the greater evil of elements imperilling the security and safety of a State, and the welfare of the Nation. Preventive detention, though a draconian and dreaded measure, is permitted by the Constitution itself however with the rider of safeguards as inherent in the text of the said article itself, and with the riders carved out by the constitutional courts through judicial decisions which have stood the test of time.

28. It is well settled that the executive may resort to preventive detention on the basis of reasonable suspicion and as a precautionary measure, to avert anticipated acts by the proposed detenu which are prejudicial to the specified statutory objects under a validly enacted law. Since a preventive detention order entails a serious curtailment of personal liberty on suspicion, is preventive rather than punitive in character, and since the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority, founded on the material before it, is not ordinarily amenable to judicial scrutiny on merits, constitutional courts do not sit in appeal over whether such satisfaction has been correctly reached on each factual aspect or whether the detention is justified on a reappreciation of facts. The scope for granting relief is therefore necessarily confined. Precisely for this reason, it is imperative that such an extraordinary and drastic power is invoked only in appropriate cases and exercised with due responsibility, rationality, and reasonableness.

29. At the same time, having regard to the grave consequence of deprivation of liberty under a preventive detention order, often enforced without affording the detenu an opportunity to present his case beforehand, constitutional courts, as sentinel on the qui vive, have consistently intervened to set aside detention orders whenever they are found to suffer from any legally recognized infirmity within the limited ambit of judicial review.

Writ of Habeas Corpus

30. The ancient prerogative writ of habeas corpus takes its name from the two mandatory words “habeas” and “corpus”. “Habeas Corpus” literally means “have the body”. The general purpose of these writs as their name indicates was to obtain the production of the individual before a court or a Judge. This is a prerogative process for securing the liberty of the subject by affording an effective relief of immediate release from unlawful or unjustifiable detention, whether in prison or in private custody. This is a writ of such a sovereign and transcendent authority that no privilege of power or place can stand against it. It is a very powerful safeguard of the subject against arbitrary acts not only of private individuals but also of the executive, the greatest safeguard for personal liberty, according to all constitutional jurists. The writ is a prerogative one obtainable by its own procedure.

31. In Halsbury's Laws of England, it is stated as under:

“The writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum” unlike other writs, is a prerogative writ, that is to say, it is an extraordinary remedy, which is issued upon cause shown in cases where the ordinary legal remedies are inapplicable or inadequate. This writ is a writ of right and is granted ex debito justitiae. It is not, however, a writ of course. Both at common law and by statute, the writ of habeas corpus may be granted only upon reasonable ground for its issue being shown. The writ may not in general be refused merely because an alternative remedy by which the validity of the detention can be questioned. "Any person is entitled to institute proceedings to obtain a writ of habeas corpus for the purpose of liberating another from an illegal imprisonment and any person who is legally entitled to the custody of another may apply for the writ in order to regain custody. In any case, where access is denied to a person alleged to be unjustifiably detained, so that there are no instructions from the prisoner, the application may be made by any relation or friend on an affidavit setting forth the reason for it being made."

32. In Corpus Juris Secundum, the nature of the writ of habeas corpus is summarised thus:

"The writ of habeas corpus is a writ directed to the person detaining another, commanding him to produce the body of the prisoner at a designated time and place with the day and cause of his caption and detention to do, submit to, and receive whatsoever the court or Judge awarding the writ shall consider in that behalf." "Habeas corpus" literally means "have the body". By this writ, the court can direct to have the body of the person detained to be brought before it in order to ascertain whether the detention is legal or illegal. Such is the predominant position of the writ in the Anglo-Saxon Jurisprudence."

33. In England, the jurisdiction to grant a writ existed in Common law, but has been recognised and extended by statute. It is well established in England that the writ of habeas corpus is as of right and that the court has no discretion to refuse it. Unlike certiorari or mandamus, a writ of habeas corpus is as of right to every man who is unlawfully detained. In India, it is this prerogative writ which has been given a constitutional status under Articles 32 and 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, it is an extraordinary remedy available to a citizen of this Country, which he can enforce under Article 226 or under Article 32 of the Constitution of India.

34. It is the duty of the Writ Courts to issue this writ to safeguard the freedom of the citizen against arbitrary and illegal detention. Habeas corpus is a remedy designed to facilitate the release of persons detained unlawfully, not to punish the detaining person and it is not, therefore, issued after the detention complained of has come to an end. It is a remedy against unlawful detention. It is issued in the form of an order calling upon the person who has detained another, whether in prison or in private custody, to "have the body" of that other before the Court in order to let the Court know on what ground the latter has been confined and thus to give the Court an opportunity of dealing with him as the law may require. By the writ of habeas corpus, the Court can cause any person who is imprisoned to be brought before the Court and obtain knowledge of the reason why he is imprisoned and then either set him free then and there if there is no legal justification for the imprisonment, or see that he is brought speedily to trial. Habeas corpus is available against any person who is suspected of detaining another unlawfully and not merely against the police or other public officers whose duties normally include arrest and detention. The Court must issue it if it is shown that the person on whose behalf it is asked for is unlawfully deprived of his liberty. The writ be addressed to any person whatever an official or a private individual who has another in his custody.

35. A writ of habeas corpus is simply a judicial command directed to a specific jailer directing him or her to produce the named prisoner together with the legal cause of detention in order that this legal warrant of detention might be examined. The said detention may be legal or illegal. The right which is sought to be enforced by such a writ is a fundamental right of a citizen conferred under Article 21 of the Constitution of India, which provides: "21. Protection of life and personal liberty. No person shall be deprived of his life or personal liberty except according to procedure established by law."

Scheme & Relevant Provisions under the National Security Act, 1980

36. The relevant provisions of the National Security Act, 1980 ("NSA") are set out in the following paragraphs, so as to indicate both the purpose and scheme of preventive detention under the statute, and the statutory safeguards that condition the exercise of such extraordinary power. The Long Title and Statement of Objects and Reasons show that the Parliament conceived the NSA as an exceptional measure to address grave situations affecting defence, security, public order, and essential supplies/services, while simultaneously embedding institutional checks through Governmental scrutiny and Advisory Board oversight. The Long Title & Statement of Objects & Reasons of the National Security Act, 1980 is extracted hereunder:

"An Act to provide for preventive detention in certain cases and for matters connected therewith

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Thirty-first year of the Republic of India as follows:-

Statement of Objects and Reasons.-In the prevailing situation of communal disharmony, social tensions, extremist activities, industrial unrest and increasing tendency on the part of various interested parties to engineer agitation on different issues, it was considered necessary that the law and order situation in the country is tackled in a most determined and effective way. The anti-social and anti-national elements including secessionist communal and pro-caste elements and also other elements who adversely influence and affect the services essential to the community pose a grave challenge to the lawful authority and sometimes even hold the society to ransom.

2. Considering the complexity and nature of the problems, particularly in respect of defence, security, public order and services essential to the community, it is the considered view of the Government that the administration would be greatly handicapped in dealing effectively with the same in the absence of powers of preventive detention. The National Security Ordinance, 1980, was, therefore, promulgated by the President on September 22, 1980.

3. Subject to a modification, the Bill seeks to replace the aforesaid Ordinance. The modification relates to the composition of Advisory Boards, and is for providing that the Chairman of an Advisory Board shall be a person who is, or has been, a Judge of a High Court and the other members of the Advisory Board may be persons who are, or have been, or are qualified to be appointed as, Judges of a High Court."

37. Section 3 is the substantive source of the NSA□s preventive detention power. It authorises the Central/State Government to order detention on specified grounds, and under Section 3(2) specifically, where detention is considered necessary to prevent a person from acting prejudicially to the security of the State, the maintenance of public order, or the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community. The State Government may further delegate this power to a

District Magistrate/Commissioner of Police for limited periods under Section 3(3). Where an officer so empowered makes a detention order, Section 3(4) mandates prompt reporting to the State Government and makes the order short-lived unless approved within the prescribed time; Section 3(5) thereafter requires reporting to the Central Government within the stipulated period. Section 3 is extracted hereunder for reference:

"3. Power to make orders detaining certain persons.-(1) The Central Government or the State Government may,-

(a) if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the defence of India, the relations of India with foreign powers, of the security of India, or

(b) if satisfied with respect of any foreigner that with a view to regulating his continued presence in India or with a view to making arrangements for his expulsion from India, it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

(2) The Central Government or the State Government may, if satisfied with respect to any person that with a view to preventing him from acting in any manner prejudicial to the security of the State or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order or from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community it is necessary so to do, make an order directing that such person be detained.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this sub-section, "acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies and services essential to the community" does not include "acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of supplies of commodities essential to the community" as defined in the explanation to sub-section (1) of Section 3 of the Prevention of Blackmarketing and Maintenance of Supplies of Essential Commodities Act, 1980 (7 of 1980), and accordingly, no order of detention shall be made under this Act on any ground on which an order of detention may be made under that Act.

(3) If, having regard to the circumstances prevailing or likely to prevail in any area within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a District Magistrate or a Commissioner of Police, the State Government is satisfied that it is necessary so to do, it may, by order in writing, direct, that during such period as may be specified in the order, such District Magistrate or Commissioner of Police may also, if satisfied as provided in sub-section (2), exercise the powers conferred by the said sub-section:

Provided that the period specified in an order made by the State Government under this sub-section shall not, in the first instance, exceed three months, but the State Government may, if satisfied as aforesaid that it is necessary so to do, amend such order to extend such period from time to time by any period not exceeding three months at any one time.

(4) When any order is made under this section by an officer mentioned in sub-section (3), he shall forthwith report the fact to the State Government to which he is subordinate together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in his opinion, have a bearing on the matter, and no such order shall remain in force for more than twelve days after the making thereof unless, in the meantime, it has been approved by the State Government:

Provided that where under Section 8 the grounds of detention are communicated by the officer making an order after five days but not later than ten days from the date of detention, this sub-section shall apply subject to the modification that, for the words "twelve days", the words "fifteen days" shall be substituted.

(5) When any order is made or approved by the State Government under this section, the State Government shall, within seven days, report the fact to the Central Government together with the grounds on which the order has been made and such other particulars as, in the opinion of the State Government, have a bearing on the necessity for the order."

38. Section 5A embodies the doctrine of severability of grounds. Where a detention order under Section 3 is made on two or more grounds, the law deems the order to have been made separately on each ground, so that the order does not automatically fail merely because one ground is vague, non-existent, irrelevant, not proximate, or otherwise invalid. The provision thus prevents the detention order from being struck down solely because one among multiple grounds is defective, provided the remaining ground(s) can independently sustain the requisite satisfaction. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

"5-A. Grounds of detention severable.-Where a person has been detained in pursuance of an order of detention [whether made before or after the commencement of the National Security (Second Amendment) Act, 1984] under Section 3 which has been made on two or more grounds, such order of detention shall be deemed to have been made separately on each of such grounds and accordingly-

(a) such order shall not be deemed to be invalid or inoperative merely because one or some of the grounds is or are-

(i) vague,

(ii) non-existent,

(iii) not relevant,

(iv) not connected or not proximately connected with such person, or

(v) invalid for any other reason whatsoever, and it is not, therefore, possible to hold that the Government or officer making such order would have been satisfied as provided in Section 3 with reference to the remaining ground or grounds and made the order of detention;

(b) the Government or officer making the order of detention shall be deemed to have made the order of detention under the said section after being satisfied as provided in that section with reference to the remaining ground or grounds."

39. Section 8 operationalises the constitutional safeguard under Article 22(5) by requiring that, when a person is detained, the detaining authority must communicate the grounds of detention to the detenu as soon as may be, ordinarily within five days (and in exceptional circumstances, within the extended period specified in the statute), and must afford the detenu the earliest opportunity to make a representation against the order to the appropriate Government. Section 8(2) preserves a limited privilege permitting non-disclosure of facts whose disclosure is considered against public interest, while keeping the obligation of meaningful disclosure intact to enable an effective representation. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

"8. Grounds of order of detention to be disclosed to persons affected by the order.-(1) When a person is detained in pursuance of a detention order, the authority making the order shall, as soon as may be, but ordinarily not later than five days and in exceptional circumstances and for reasons to be recorded in writing, not later than ten days from the date of detention, communicate to him the grounds on which the order has been made and shall afford him the earliest opportunity of making a representation against the order to the appropriate Government.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall require the authority to disclose facts which it considers to be against the public interest to disclose."

40. Section 10 establishes the mandatory institutional check of Advisory Board scrutiny. It requires the appropriate Government, in every case of detention under the NSA (save as otherwise expressly provided), to place before the Advisory Board within the prescribed time from the date of detention the grounds of detention, the representation (if any), and where the order is made by an empowered officer like a District Magistrate, the officer's report under Section 3(4). This ensures that detention does not remain solely within the executive's unilateral assessment and is subjected to an independent statutory review mechanism. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

"10. Reference to Advisory Boards.-Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act, in every case where a detention order has been made under this Act, the appropriate Government shall, within three weeks from the date of detention of a person under the order, place before the Advisory Board constituted by it under Section 9, the grounds on which the order has been made and the representation, if any, made by the person affected by the order, and in case where the order has been made by an officer mentioned in sub-section (3) of Section 3, also the report by such officer under sub-section (4) of that section.

41. Section 11 governs the Advisory Board's procedure and timelines. The Board must consider the materials placed before it, may call for further information, and must submit its report to the appropriate Government within the prescribed period from the date of detention. Importantly, if the detenu desires to be heard, or if the Board considers it essential, the detenu must be heard in person. The report must specify the Board's opinion on whether there is sufficient cause for detention; proceedings and most parts of the report are confidential, and the detenu has no entitlement to appear through a legal practitioner in matters connected with the Board. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

11. Procedure of Advisory Boards.-(1) The Advisory Board shall, after considering the materials placed before it and, after calling for such further information as it may deem necessary from the appropriate Government or from any person called for the purpose through the appropriate Government or from the person concerned, and if, in any particular case, it considers it essential so to do or if the person concerned desires to be heard, after hearing him in person, submit its report to the appropriate Government within seven weeks from the date of detention of the person concerned.

(2) The report of the Advisory Board shall specify in a separate part thereof the opinion of the Advisory Board as to whether or not there is sufficient cause for the detention of the person concerned.

(3) When there is a difference of opinion among the members forming the Advisory Board, the opinion of the majority of such members shall be deemed to be the opinion of the Board.

(4) Nothing in this section shall entitle any person against whom a detention order has been made to appear by any legal practitioner in any matter connected with the reference to the Advisory Board; and the proceedings of the Advisory Board and its report, excepting that part of the report in which the opinion of the Advisory Board is specified, shall be confidential.

42. Section 12 sets out the consequence of the Advisory Board's opinion. If the Board reports that there is sufficient cause for detention, the appropriate Government may confirm the detention order and continue detention for such period as it thinks fit (subject to the statutory maximum). Conversely, if the Board reports that there is no sufficient cause, the Government is under a mandatory duty to revoke the detention order and cause the detenu to be released forthwith. Section 12 thus makes the Advisory Board's "no sufficient cause" opinion binding in its operative effect. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

12. Action upon the report of the Advisory Board.-(1) In any case where the Advisory Board has reported that there is, in its opinion, sufficient cause for the detention of a person, the appropriate Government may confirm the detention order and continue the detention of the person concerned for such period as it thinks fit.

(2) In any case where the Advisory Board has reported that there is, in its opinion, no sufficient cause for the detention of a person, the appropriate Government shall revoke the detention order and cause the person concerned to be released forthwith."

43. Section 13 imposes a statutory ceiling by providing that the maximum period for which a person may be detained pursuant to a detention order confirmed under Section 12 is twelve months from the date of detention. The proviso clarifies that this maximum does not curtail the Government's power to revoke or modify the detention order earlier. Section 13 therefore simultaneously limits executive detention temporally while preserving the capacity for earlier release upon reconsideration or changed circumstances. The said provision is extracted hereunder:

"13. Maximum period of detention." The maximum period for which any person may be detained in pursuance of any detention order which has been confirmed under Section 12 shall be twelve months from the date of detention:

Provided that nothing contained in this section shall affect the power of the appropriate Government to revoke or modify the detention order at any earlier time."

Judicial Review of Preventive Detention

44. Preventive detention, though constitutionally recognised, remains an exceptional executive power which directly trenches upon personal liberty and is therefore subject to strict constitutional and statutory control.

45. In the case of A.K. Roy v. Union of India13, the Hon'ble Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the NSA and held that a law relating to detention cannot be struck down on a general plea of interference with the liberties of the people if otherwise constitutional. It also simultaneously reaffirmed that a detention law cannot be invalidated on a general plea of interference with liberty if otherwise constitutionally compliant, and that the safeguards in Article 22(4) and 22(5) operate as mandatory checks irrespective of whether they are expressly incorporated in the statute.

46. Earlier, in Shalini Soni v. Union of India14 the Hon'ble Supreme Court explained that Article 22(5) has two inseparable facets, viz. communication of grounds and opportunity of representation, and that "grounds" must be self-sufficient and self-explanatory, comprising not merely inferential conclusions but the constituent factual material relied upon, including supply of documents referred to therein.

47. The doctrinal journey of preventive detention jurisprudence in this country began with A.K. Gopalan v. State of Madras15, the first case in post-independent India where the Fundamental Rights provisions of the Constitution came up for comprehensive consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, decided by its full strength of six Judges within four months of India becoming a Republic. In that case, detention ordered under the Preventive Detention Act, 1950 was challenged both on the vires of the enactment and on the validity of the detention order itself. The Court, in that foundational moment, adopted an approach of circumscribing Article 21 by a relatively literal interpretation, treating the fundamental rights articles as operating in distinct, watertight compartments. That early formalism, however, did not endure. The doctrinal evolution from A.K. Gopalan (supra) to the effects-based fundamental rights approach ushered in by R.C. Cooper v. Union of India16 marked a decisive shift, one that reinforced that preventive detention must survive scrutiny not only under Article 22 but also within the broader discipline of Articles 14, 19 and 21, with courts insisting on strict compliance with procedural safeguards and meaningful opportunity to represent. What began as a narrow, compartmentalised reading of liberty has thus matured into a holistic constitutional framework within which preventive detention must justify itself at every stage.

48. Within this settled framework, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has consistently maintained that although the detaining authority's "satisfaction" is subjective and the Court does not sit in appeal over the sufficiency of grounds, the satisfaction is not immune from judicial review.

49. As early as Shibban Lal Saksena v. State of U.P.17 and Rameshwar Shaw v. DM, Burdwan18, the Hon'ble Supreme Court recognised that detention is vulnerable where grounds are irrelevant/foreign to the statute or so vague as to disable representation, and that where multiple grounds operate on the detaining authority's mind, the Court cannot speculate which ground weighed how much. In Sibban Lal (supra), it was held as under:

"8. The first contention raised by the learned counsel raises, however, a somewhat important point which requires careful consideration. It has been repeatedly held by this Court that the power to issue a detention order under Section 3 of the Preventive Detention Act depends entirely upon the satisfaction of the appropriate authority specified in that section. The sufficiency of the grounds upon which such satisfaction purports to be based, provided they have a rational probative value and are not extraneous to the scope or purpose of the legislative provision cannot be challenged in a court of law, except on the ground of mala fides [State of Bombay v. Atma Ram Shridhar Vaidya, 1951 SCC 43] . A court of law is not even competent to enquire into the truth or otherwise of the facts which are mentioned as grounds of detention in the communication to the detenue under Section 7 of the Act. What has happened, however, in this case is somewhat peculiar. The Government itself in its communication dated 13-3-1953, has plainly admitted that one of the grounds upon which the original order of detention was passed is unsubstantial or non-existent and cannot be made a ground of detention. The question is, whether in such circumstances the original order made under Section 3(1)(a) of the Act can be allowed to stand. The answer, in our opinion, can only be in the negative. The detaining authority gave here two grounds for detaining the petitioner. We can neither decide whether these grounds are good or bad, nor can we attempt to assess in what manner and to what extent each of these grounds operated on the mind of the appropriate authority and contributed to the creation of the satisfaction on the basis of which the detention order was made. To say that the other ground, which still remains, is quite sufficient to sustain the order, would be to substitute an objective judicial test for the subjective decision of the executive authority which is against the legislative policy underlying the statute. In such cases, we think, the position would be the same as if one of these two grounds was irrelevant for the purpose of the Act or was wholly illusory and this would vitiate the detention order as a whole."

50. In Khudiram Das v. State of W.B.19, the Hon'ble Supreme Court authoritatively delineated the limited but real area of review, i.e. non-application of mind, improper purpose, dictation, self-created fetters, wrong test/misconstruction, reliance on extraneous material, and lack of rationally probative material; thereby ensuring that "subjective satisfaction" is a jurisdictional condition which must exist in law.

51. The proposition that Preventive detention is not permissible when the ordinary law of the land can deal with the situation, is per incuriam paras 19 and 32 to 34 of the Constitution Bench in Haradhan Saha v. State of W.B.20

52. In Rameshwar Shaw v. District Magistrate, Burdwan21, a Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as follows :

"7. There is also no doubt that if any of the grounds furnished to the detenu are found to be irrelevant while considering the application of clauses (i) to (iii) of Section 3(1)(a) and in that sense are foreign to the Act, the satisfaction of the detaining authority on which the order of detention is based is open to challenge and the detention order liable to be quashed. Similarly, if some of the ground supplied to the detenu are so vague that they would virtually deprive the detenu of his statutory right of making a representation, that again may introduce a serious infirmity in the order of his detention. If, however, the grounds on which the order of detention proceeds are relevant and germane to the matters which fall to be considered under Section 3(1)(a), it would not be open to the detenu to challenge the order of detention by arguing that the satisfaction of the detaining authority is not reasonably based on any of the said grounds.

8. It is, however, necessary to emphasise in this connection that though the satisfaction of the detaining authority contemplated by Section 3(1)(a) is the subjective satisfaction of the said authority, cases may arise where the detenu may challenge the validity of his detention on the ground of mala fides and in support of the said plea urge that along with other facts which show mala fides, the Court may also consider his grievance that the grounds served on him cannot possibly or rationally support the conclusion drawn against him by the detaining authority. It is only in this incidental manner and in support of the plea of mala fides that this question can become justiciable; otherwise the reasonableness or propriety of the said satisfaction contemplated by Section 3(1)(a) cannot be questioned before the Courts."

53. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Khudiram Das v. State of W.B.22, while examining a challenge to an order of detention passed under Section 3 of the Maintenance of Internal Security Act, 1971 by a District Magistrate, held as follows :

"8. Now it is clear on a plain reading of the language of sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 3 that the exercise of the power of detention is made dependent on the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority that with a view to preventing a person from acting in a prejudicial manner, as set out in sub-clauses (i), (ii) and (iii) of clause (a) of sub-section (1), it is necessary to detain such person. The words used in sub-sections (1) and (2) of Section 3 are "if satisfied" and they clearly import subjective satisfaction on the part of the detaining authority before an order of detention can be made. And it is so provided for a valid reason which becomes apparent if we consider the nature of the power of detention and the conditions on which it can be exercised. The power of detention is clearly a preventive measure. It does not partake in any manner of the nature of punishment. It is taken by way of precaution to prevent mischief to the community. Since every preventive measure is based on the principle that a person should be prevented from doing something which, if left free and unfettered, it is reasonably probable he would do, it must necessarily proceed in all cases, to some extent, on suspicion or anticipation as distinct from proof. Patanjali Sastri, C.J. pointed out in State of Madras v. V.G. Row [State of Madras v. V.G. Row, (1952) 1 SCC 410] that preventive detention is "largely precautionary and based on suspicion" and to these observations may be added the following words uttered by the learned Chief Justice in that case with reference to the observations of Lord Finlay in R. v. Halliday [R. v. Halliday, 1917 AC 260 (HL)] , namely, that "the court was the least appropriate tribunal to investigate into circumstances of suspicion on which such anticipatory action must be largely based". This being the nature of the proceeding, it is impossible to conceive how it can possibly be regarded as capable of objective assessment. The matters which have to be considered by the detaining authority are whether the person concerned, having regard to his past conduct judged in the light of the surrounding circumstances and other relevant material, would be likely to act in a prejudicial manner as contemplated in any of sub-clauses (i), (ii) and (iii) of clause (1) of sub-section (1) of Section 3, and if so, whether it is necessary to detain him with a view to preventing him from so acting. These are not matters susceptible of objective determination and they could not be intended to be judged by objective standards. They are essentially matters which have to be administratively determined for the purpose of taking administrative action. Their determination is, therefore, deliberately and advisedly left by the legislature to the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority which by reason of its special position, experience and expertise would be best fitted to decide them. It must in the circumstances be held that the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority as regards these matters constitutes the foundation for the exercise of the power of detention and the Court cannot be invited to consider the propriety or sufficiency of the grounds on which the satisfaction of the detaining authority is based. The Court cannot, on a review of the grounds, substitute its own opinion for that of the authority, for what is made a condition precedent to the exercise of the power of detention is not an objective determination of the necessity of detention for a specified purpose but the subjective opinion of the detaining authority, and if a subjective opinion is formed by the detaining authority as regards the necessity of detention for a specified purpose, the condition of exercise of the power of detention would be fulfilled. This would clearly show that the power of detention is not a quasi-judicial power. "

9. But that does not mean that the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority is wholly immune from judicial reviewability. The courts have by judicial decisions carved out an area, limited though it be, within which the validity of the subjective satisfaction can yet be subjected to judicial scrutiny. The basic postulate on which the courts have proceeded is that the subjective satisfaction being a condition precedent for the exercise of the power conferred on the executive, the Court can always examine whether the requisite satisfaction is arrived at by the authority : if it is not, the condition precedent to the exercise of the power would not be fulfilled and the exercise of the power would be bad. There are several grounds evolved by judicial decisions for saying that no subjective satisfaction is arrived at by the authority as required under the statute. The simplest case is whether the authority has not applied its mind at all; in such a case the authority could not possibly be satisfied as regards the fact in respect of which it is required to be satisfied. King Emperor v. Sibnath Banerjee [King Emperor v. Sibnath Banerjee, 1943 SCC OnLine FC 15 : AIR 1943 FC 75 : (1944) 6 FCR 1] is a case in point. Then there may be a case where the power is exercised dishonestly or for an improper purpose : such a case would also negative the existence of satisfaction on the part of the authority. The existence of "improper purpose", that is, a purpose not contemplated by the statute, has been recognised as an independent ground of control in several decided cases. The satisfaction, moreover, must be a satisfaction of the authority itself, and therefore, if, in exercising the power, the authority has acted under the dictation of another body as the Commissioner of Police did in State of Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji [State of Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, 1951 SCC 1088] and the officer of the Ministry of Labour and National Service did in Simms Motor Units Ltd. v. Minister of Labour & National Service [Simms Motor Units Ltd. v. Minister of Labour & National Service, (1946) 2 All ER 201] the exercise of the power would be bad and so also would the exercise of the power be vitiated where the authority has disabled itself from applying its mind to the facts of each individual case by self-created rules of policy or in any other manner. The satisfaction said to have been arrived at by the authority would also be bad where it is based on the application of a wrong test or the misconstruction of a statute. Where this happens, the satisfaction of the authority would not be in respect of the thing in regard to which it is required to be satisfied. Then again the satisfaction must be grounded 'on materials which are of rationally probative value'. (Machindar Shivaji Mahar v. R. [Machindar Shivaji Mahar v. R., 1950 SCC OnLine FC 4 : AIR 1950 FC 129 : (1949-50) 11 FCR 827]) The grounds on which the satisfaction is based must be such as a rational human being can consider connected with the fact in respect of which the satisfaction is to be reached. They must be relevant to the subject-matter of the inquiry and must not be extraneous to the scope and purpose of the statute. If the authority has taken into account, it may even be with the best of intention, as a relevant factor something which it could not properly take into account in deciding whether or not to exercise the power or the manner or extent to which it should be exercised, the exercise of the power would be bad. (S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab [S. Pratap Singh v. State of Punjab, 1963 SCC OnLine SC 10 : AIR 1964 SC 72 : (1964) 4 SCR 733] .) If there are to be found in the statute expressly or by implication matters which the authority ought to have regard to, then, in exercising the power, the authority must have regard to those matters. The authority must call its attention to the matters which it is bound to consider."

54. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has also placed the burden squarely on the detaining authority to justify detention as "procedure established by law", emphasising strictness in liberty cases in Icchu Devi Choraria v. Union of India23.

55. In Sunil Fulchand Shah v. Union of India24, it was reiterated that given the limited safeguards available, statutory timelines and procedural requirements must be scrupulously complied with, and any default can render detention or continued detention illegal. Thus, modern preventive detention jurisprudence recognises that no detention order is insulated merely because it is facially valid; constitutional courts will interdict detention where the statutory purpose, material foundation, clarity of grounds, live link, and procedural timelines do not withstand judicial scrutiny. It was held as under:

"11. ... The safeguards available to a person against whom an order of detention has been passed are limited and, therefore, the courts have always held that all the procedural safeguards provided by the law should be strictly complied with. Any default in maintaining the time-limit has been regarded as having the effect of rendering the detention order or the continued detention, as the case may be, illegal. The justification for preventive detention being necessity a person can be detained only so long as it is found necessary to detain him. If his detention is found unnecessary, even during the maximum period permissible under the law then he has to be released from detention forthwith. It is really in this context that Section 10 and particularly the words "may be detained" shall have to be interpreted."

56. On a conspectus of the decisions noticed above, it emerges that in the early years of constitutional adjudication, a plea was often advanced on behalf of detaining authorities that once an order of detention, ostensibly valid on its face, was produced, the Court's enquiry should practically cease. The law, however, has decisively evolved. Constitutional courts do not treat preventive detention as insulated merely because the order is formally couched within statutory language. With the deepening of Article 21 jurisprudence and the reinforcement of Articles 14, 19 and 22, it is now settled that a preventive detention order, despite prima facie regularity, remains open to judicial scrutiny on well-recognised grounds, including non-application of mind, reliance on irrelevant or extraneous material, vagueness disabling representation, absence of a live and proximate link, colourable exercise of power, and breach of mandatory procedural safeguards. In matters of personal liberty, no executive order can claim an impermeable shield against constitutional review.

TEST FOR LEGALITY OF DETENTION ORDER

57. Be that as it may, culling out the principles of law flowing from all the relevant decisions in the field, make it clear that the "subjective satisfaction" of the detaining authority is a jurisdictional foundation which must exist in law and must be demonstrable from the detention record, including the order and grounds served. The authority for the detention flows from the order of detention itself, which the detenu or the Court can read and discern therefrom the manner in which the activity of the detenu was viewed by the detaining authority to be prejudicial to maintenance of public order and what exactly he intended should not be permitted to happen.

58. Therefore, even in the absence of elaborate pleadings, where the order itself or the materials disclosed raise a serious doubt that the detaining authority misconceived the extent of its powers, applied a wrong test, acted on extraneous considerations, or failed to address the statutory pre-requisites, the Court ought not to shut its eyes. Without embarking upon re-appreciation of evidence or substituting its own view on the adequacy of material, the Court is entitled to examine whether the order discloses: (i) a lawful nexus between the alleged activity and the statutory purpose (e.g., "public order" as distinct from "law and order"), (ii) clear, precise and self-explanatory grounds enabling an effective representation under Article 22(5), and (iii) strict adherence to the procedural timelines and safeguards. Any detention order which, on its own terms, travels beyond the power conferred or is vitiated on these jurisdictional parameters cannot be sustained and is vulnerable to interdiction in habeas jurisdiction.

59. In the case of Ameena Begum v. State of Telangana25, the Hon'ble Supreme Court collated and laid down the test for orders of preventive detention in the following terms:

"28. In the circumstances of a given case, a constitutional court when called upon to test the legality of orders of preventive detention would be entitled to examine whether:

28.1. The order is based on the requisite satisfaction, albeit subjective, of the detaining authority, for, the absence of such satisfaction as to the existence of a matter of fact or law, upon which validity of the exercise of the power is predicated, would be the sine qua non for the exercise of the power not being satisfied;

28.2. In reaching such requisite satisfaction, the detaining authority has applied its mind to all relevant circumstances and the same is not based on material extraneous to the scope and purpose of the statute;

28.3. Power has been exercised for achieving the purpose for which it has been conferred, or exercised for an improper purpose, not authorised by the statute, and is therefore ultra vires;

28.4. The detaining authority has acted independently or under the dictation of another body;

28.5. The detaining authority, by reason of self-created rules of policy or in any other manner not authorised by the governing statute, has disabled itself from applying its mind to the facts of each individual case;

28.6. The satisfaction of the detaining authority rests on materials which are of rationally probative value, and the detaining authority has given due regard to the matters as per the statutory mandate;

28.7. The satisfaction has been arrived at bearing in mind existence of a live and proximate link between the past conduct of a person and the imperative need to detain him or is based on material which is stale;

28.8. The ground(s) for reaching the requisite satisfaction is/are such which an individual, with some degree of rationality and prudence, would consider as connected with the fact and relevant to the subject-matter of the inquiry in respect whereof the satisfaction is to be reached;

28.9. The grounds on which the order of preventive detention rests are not vague but are precise, pertinent and relevant which, with sufficient clarity, inform the detenu the satisfaction for the detention, giving him the opportunity to make a suitable representation; and 28.10. The timelines, as provided under the law, have been strictly adhered to.

29. Should the Court find the exercise of power to be bad and/or to be vitiated applying any of the tests noted above, rendering the detention order vulnerable, detention which undoubtedly visits the person detained with drastic consequences would call for being interdicted for righting the wrong."

60. Accordingly, the settled position of law is that while the Court does not re-appreciate evidence or substitute its own assessment for the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority, it is duty-bound to scrutinise whether the detention is rooted in relevant, proximate and rationally probative material, whether the authority has applied its mind independently within the confines of the statute, whether the grounds are precise and self-explanatory so as to enable an effective representation under Article 22(5), and whether the mandatory timelines and procedural safeguards have been strictly complied with. Any detention which fails on these touchstones, now authoritatively collated in Ameena Begum (supra), ceases to be preventive in nature and becomes an impermissible curtailment of liberty, warranting interference in habeas jurisdiction.

QUESTIONS FOR CONSIDERATION

61. The sum and substance of the present dispute is whether the continued custody of the detenues under the impugned preventive detention orders can be sustained in law, having regard to the constitutional limits on preventive detention and the settled distinction between "law and order" and "public order". The challenge essentially turns on the legality of the decision-making process and the validity of the foundation of the detention. The matter, therefore, warrants determination of the following questions:

I. Whether the constitutional and statutory safeguards governing preventive detention, including supply of relied-upon material, consideration of representations, reference to and opinion of the Advisory Board, and adherence to prescribed timelines, were duly complied with.

II. Whether the detaining authority's satisfaction was reached in accordance with law, on relevant and proximate material, and whether the grounds are precise and sufficient to enable an effective representation under Article 22(5).

III. Whether the impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately pertains to "public order", as distinguished from a mere "law and order" situation.

I. Whether the constitutional and statutory safeguards governing preventive detention, including timely consideration of representations and adherence to prescribed timelines, were duly complied with.

62. The National Security Act, 1980 prescribes a precise and sequenced chain of procedural safeguards, each operating as a mandatory check upon the executive's power to deprive a person of liberty without trial. These safeguards are not mere directory formalities, they are the constitutional price exacted for the extraordinary power of preventive detention, and any breach thereof renders the detention or its continuance illegal. As the Hon'ble Supreme Court reminded in Sunil Fulchand Shah *(supra), the safeguards available to a person against whom a detention order has been passed are limited, and therefore all procedural safeguards provided by law must be strictly complied with, any default in maintaining time-limits having the effect of rendering the detention or continued detention illegal.

63. This Court, therefore, first examines whether each of these safeguards was duly observed in the present cases, as also whether the requisite satisfaction was independently arrived at by the detaining authority, in terms of the tests laid down in Ameena Begum *(supra).

Approval by State Government under Section 3(4)

64. Since the detention orders were made by the District Magistrate, Jalaun, who is an officer empowered under Section 3(3) of the Act, Section 3(4) mandated that the fact of detention, along with the grounds and other relevant particulars, be forthwith reported to the State Government, and that the order would not remain in force for more than twelve days unless approved by the State Government within that period. In the present case, the detention orders dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025 were approved by the State Government on 03.05.2025, which falls within the prescribed period of twelve days from the respective dates of detention. The requirement of Section 3(4) is accordingly found to have been complied with.

Reporting to Central Government under Section 3(5)

65. Section 3(5) requires that when any order is made or approved by the State Government, the State Government shall, within seven days, report the fact to the Central Government together with the grounds on which the order has been made and other relevant particulars. In the present case, the detention orders along with connected material were forwarded to the Central Government vide letter dated 05.05.2025, i.e., within seven days of the approval dated 03.05.2025. The requirement of Section 3(5) is accordingly found to have been complied with.

Communication of grounds under Section 8 and Article 22(5)

66. Section 8 of the Act, read with Article 22(5) of the Constitution, requires that the detaining authority communicate to the detenu, as soon as may be and ordinarily within five days, the grounds on which the detention order has been made, and afford the earliest opportunity to make a representation. As the Hon'ble Supreme Court explained in Shalini Soni *(supra), Article 22(5) has two inseparable facets, communication of grounds and opportunity of representation, and the grounds must be self-sufficient and self-explanatory, comprising not merely inferential conclusions but the constituent factual material relied upon, including supply of documents referred to therein.

67. In the present case, an examination of the grounds of detention reveals that the detaining authority relied upon five specific documents, which were enclosed therein, namely, the forwarding letter of the Inspector-in-Charge, Police Station Kotwali Kalpi dated 25.04.2025, the detention proposal dated 25.04.2025, the forwarding letter of the Circle Officer Kalpi dated 26.04.2025, the forwarding letter of the Additional Superintendent of Police Jalaun dated 26.04.2025, the report of the Local Intelligence Unit, Orai dated 03.04.2025, and the letter of the Superintendent of Police Jalaun dated 27.04.2025. These documents were expressly identified in the grounds and their attested copies were enclosed for the detenues' perusal. The detenues thus had before them not merely the grounds but the entirety of the relied-upon material when making their representations.

68. Thus, the record discloses that the grounds of detention and all relied-upon documents were duly served upon the detenues, and that the detenues were able to and did submit representations dated 07.05.2025/08.05.2025 against the impugned detention orders. No specific grievance of non-supply of relied-upon documents or of inadequacy of grounds disabling representation has been substantiated before this Court by the petitioners. The requirements of Section 8 and Article 22(5) are accordingly found to have been complied with.

Consideration of representations

69. The representations submitted by the detenues dated 07.05.2025/08.05.2025 were duly considered by the State Government. The representations of Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen were rejected on 20.05.2025, and that of Sikandar was rejected on 21.05.2025, with communication to the respective detenues following on the next day. Copies of the representations were also placed before the Advisory Board. No infirmity in the consideration or communication of the outcome of these representations has been demonstrated before this Court.

Reference to Advisory Board under Section 10

70. Section 10 mandates that in every case of detention under the Act, the appropriate Government shall, within three weeks from the date of detention, place before the Advisory Board the grounds of detention, the representation if any, and where the order is made by a District Magistrate the officer's report under Section 3(4) as well. In the present case, as the uncontroverted record suggests the matter and all relevant material was placed before the U.P. Advisory Board on 05.05.2025, which is well within three weeks from the respective dates of detention. The requirement of Section 10 is accordingly found to have been complied with.

Procedure of Advisory Board under Section 11

71. Section 11(1) requires the Advisory Board to submit its report to the appropriate Government within seven weeks from the date of detention. The detenues were informed of the hearing date and were permitted to appear before the Advisory Board along with a next friend as contemplated under Section 11(4). The detenues duly appeared before the U.P. Advisory Board on 28.05.2025 and were heard in person along with Government officials. The Advisory Board thereafter submitted its report, which was received by the State Government on 05.06.2025. Reckoning from the earliest detention date of 25.04.2025, the report was received within the seven-week period mandated by Section 11(1). The requirements of Section 11 are accordingly found to have been complied with.

Confirmation under Sections 12 and 13

72. The Advisory Board opined that sufficient cause existed for the preventive detention of the petitioners under the National Security Act, 1980. Acting upon the said opinion, the State Government, upon independent reconsideration of the entire material, confirmed the detention orders vide order dated 12.06.2025 under Sections 12 and 13 of the Act, directing continuance of detention for a period of twelve months from the respective dates of detention, which falls within the maximum period prescribed under Section 13. The confirmation thus reflects independent application of mind by the State Government and is not a mere rubber-stamping of the Advisory Board's opinion, satisfying the requirement in Ameena Begum (supra) that the detaining authority's satisfaction be reached independently and not under the dictation of another body (para 28.4).

73. Thus, upon a careful examination of the procedural record, and testing the same against the parameters laid down in Ameena Begum (supra), this Court finds that the entire chain of statutory safeguards, i.e. from the making of the detention order and its approval by the State Government, through the communication of grounds, consideration of representations, reference to and hearing before the Advisory Board, receipt of the Board's opinion, and final confirmation by the State Government, has been observed in strict compliance with the timelines and requirements prescribed under Sections 3(4), 3(5), 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13 of the National Security Act, 1980, and with the constitutional mandate of Article 22(5). The requisite satisfaction has been independently arrived at by the detaining authority at each stage. No procedural infirmity has been made out by the petitioners on this count, and accordingly, Question I is answered against the petitioners.

II. Whether the detaining authority’s satisfaction was reached in accordance with law, on relevant and proximate material, with clear and specific grounds sufficient to enable an effective representation under Article 22(5).

74. The second issue that needs to be answered is whether all relevant circumstances were considered or whether extraneous factors weighed in the mind of the detaining authority leading to the conclusion that for prevention of further crimes by the said person(s), they ought to be detained. Incidentally, the issue of whether application of mind is manifest in first ordering detention and then confirming it by continuing such order upon rejection of the representation filed on behalf of the detenu would also be required to be answered.

A. Whether all relevant circumstances were considered and whether the satisfaction was independently reached?

Independence of the detaining authority and the 03.04.2025 communication (Ameena Begum, para 28.4)

75. The petitioners' record discloses a communication dated 03.04.2025 issued from the confidential section to the Superintendent of Police, Jalaun, indicating that if the petitioners were released on bail, they were likely to repeat the alleged offence. It was urged, by implication, that this communication predetermined the detaining authority's conclusion and that the detention orders were not the product of independent application of mind but were instead passed under the dictation or influence of another body.

76. This Court is unable to accept this contention. An examination of the grounds of detention themselves dispels any such inference. The grounds expressly identify the 03.04.2025 communication as a report of the Inspector of the Local Intelligence Unit, Orai, a field-level intelligence assessment forwarded through the chain of command. Crucially, this document was enclosed as one of five Annexures to the grounds of detention and supplied to the detenues for their perusal, demonstrating complete transparency in its use. It was not a direction to detain; it was an intelligence input, one component among a layered chain of material that was placed before the detaining authority along with the forwarding letter of the Inspector-in-Charge dated 25.04.2025, the detention proposal dated 25.04.2025, the forwarding letters of the Circle Officer Kalpi and Additional Superintendent of Police Jalaun dated 26.04.2025, and the letter of the Superintendent of Police Jalaun dated 27.04.2025.

77. The detention orders dated 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025 were passed by the District Magistrate on the basis of this consolidated, multi-layered assessment by multiple officers across different levels of the administrative hierarchy, each independently evaluating the material before forwarding their recommendation. The sequential reporting chain from the Inspector-in-Charge through the Circle Officer and Additional Superintendent of Police to the Superintendent of Police and finally to the District Magistrate is precisely the institutional mechanism the statute contemplates to ensure that the detaining authority receives a field-tested, independently verified assessment before forming its satisfaction. No material has been placed before this Court to demonstrate that the District Magistrate was directed to pass the detention order or that his satisfaction was pre-empted or overridden by any external authority. The requirement of Ameena Begum para 28.4 is accordingly satisfied.

Application of mind to relevant circumstances (Ameena Begum, para 28.2)

78. It is well settled that the subjective satisfaction of the detaining authority, while not open to challenge on sufficiency, must reflect genuine application of mind to all relevant circumstances, without being coloured by extraneous considerations. A particularly significant feature of the grounds in the present case is that the detaining authority has expressly adverted to the correct legal test. The grounds themselves employ the phrase "even tempo of life" rendered in Hindi as "जनजीवन के सामान्य प्रवाह, सामान्य निर्वहन, सामान्य शान्ति, अमन चैन (इवेन टैम्पो आफ लाइफ)" which is the very touchstone of the distinction between law and order and public order as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Manohar Lohia *(supra) and Arun Ghosh *(supra). The deliberate use of this phrase in the grounds demonstrates that the detaining authority applied its mind not merely to the commission of an offence but specifically to the impact of the alleged activity upon the even tempo of community life which is the precise inquiry that the law demands. This is a strong indicator of genuine and informed application of mind to the relevant statutory purpose.

79. Further, the detention orders record separate satisfaction in respect of each detenu Sikandar, Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen on the basis of their individual roles as disclosed in the investigation. No material extraneous to the scope and purpose of the National Security Act has been shown to have influenced the detaining authority's satisfaction. The requirement of para 28.2 is accordingly satisfied.

Rationally probative material (Ameena Begum, para 28.6)

80. As held in Khudiram Das *(supra), the satisfaction of the detaining authority must be grounded on materials which are of rationally probative value, the grounds must be such as a rational human being can consider connected with the fact in respect of which the satisfaction is to be reached. In the present case, the material before the detaining authority was neither thin nor speculative. It comprised: the FIR dated 31.03.2025 recording recovery of 2-3 quintals of beef, cattle found tied at the spot, and recovery of bones, skin and weapons; field reports from the Inspector-in-Charge, Circle Officer, Additional Superintendent of Police and Superintendent of Police; a Local Intelligence Unit report dated 03.04.2025 assessing the community impact of the incident; and specific ground-level intelligence regarding the likelihood of repetition upon release on bail. Taken together, this constitutes a substantial body of rationally probative material capable of supporting the detaining authority's satisfaction. The requirement of para 28.6 is accordingly satisfied.

Live and proximate link (Ameena Begum, para 28.7)

81. It is equally settled that there must exist a live and proximate link between the past conduct of the detenu and the imperative need to detain him. Detention founded on stale material, with no rational nexus to an apprehended future act, cannot be sustained. In the present case, the incident occurred on 30/31.03.2025. The detention orders were passed on 25.04.2025 and 28.04.2025, within approximately three to four weeks of the incident, and crucially, at a stage when two of the detenues had been granted bail and the third's bail application was pending. The grounds expressly record that the detenues were attempting to secure bail and that upon release there was every possibility of repetition of similar offences and of the communal atmosphere being vitiated. The proximity of the detention orders to both the incident and the bail orders is not evidence of mala fides, rather it reflects precisely the situation which the law of preventive detention is designed to address: that the ordinary criminal process, including the grant of bail, may be insufficient to prevent acts prejudicial to public order. The pendency of prosecution or grant of bail is no impediment to the making of a detention order, as this Court has noted in the preceding section. The live link between the incident of 30/31.03.2025 and the detention orders of 25/28.04.2025 is sufficiently proximate and cannot be characterised as stale. The requirement of para 28.7 is accordingly satisfied.

Precision and clarity of grounds effective representation under Article 22(5) (Ameena Begum, paras 28.8 and 28.9)

82. Article 22(5) of the Constitution and Section 8 of the Act together require that the grounds communicated to the detenu be precise, pertinent and relevant and not vague or inferential, so as to afford him a meaningful opportunity to make an effective representation. As held in Shalini Soni *(supra), the grounds must be self-sufficient and self-explanatory, comprising not merely conclusions but the constituent factual material relied upon. In the present case, the grounds of detention served upon each detenu contain specific particulars of the incident of 30/31.03.2025, the role attributed to each detenu individually, the recoveries made, the community impact in named localities of Kalpi town, village Guloli and surrounding areas, the administrative response necessitated, and the basis of the detaining authority's apprehension regarding future conduct. Five relied-upon documents as already discussed in the analysis of Question I were also enclosed therein. The grounds are thus not inferential labels but a detailed, factual narrative enabling each detenu to understand precisely why he was being detained and to make an informed representation. That the detenues did in fact make substantive representations dated 07/08.05.2025 which were duly considered and rejected is itself indicative that the grounds were not so vague as to disable representation. No specific ground has been assailed before this Court as being vague, non-existent or incapable of being responded to. The requirements of paras 28.8 and 28.9 of Ameena Begum *(supra) are accordingly satisfied.

Single incident and absence of prior criminal history

83. The petitioners have urged that the detention is founded essentially on a single FIR and that the detenues have no prior criminal history. It is true that preventive detention based on a solitary incident, with no antecedent criminal history, calls for closer scrutiny. However, the law does not prescribe a minimum number of incidents as a precondition for preventive detention. What is required is that the single incident, if relied upon, must be of such a nature and magnitude as to rationally support the detaining authority's apprehension of future prejudicial conduct. As this Court shall examine in greater detail under Question III, the nature of the alleged activity in the present case, its timing on the first day of Chaitra Navratri, coinciding with the eve of the festival of Eid, its impact on communal harmony in named localities, and the scale of administrative response it necessitated is not a routine or isolated offence of a purely individual character. The detaining authority's satisfaction, even in the absence of a prior criminal history, cannot therefore be said to be irrational or without probative foundation.

B. Whether application of mind is manifest in the confirmation of detention?

84. The second limb of this question requires examination of whether the subsequent stages, viz. the rejection of the detenues' representations and the confirmation of the detention orders by the State Government, also reflect genuine and independent application of mind, or whether they were merely mechanical exercises rubber-stamping the initial detention.

85. This Court finds that the record discloses meaningful engagement at each subsequent stage. The representations filed by the detenues dated 07/08.05.2025 were independently considered by the State Government. The representations of Saiyyaj Ali and Hasnen were rejected on 20.05.2025, and that of Sikandar on 21.05.2025, reflecting considered decisions reached within a reasonable time of the representations being filed, and communicated to the detenues on the following day. Copies of the representations were also placed before the Advisory Board, ensuring that the detenues' own case was before the independent statutory body.

86. The Advisory Board, after hearing the detenues in person on 28.05.2025, each of whom appeared with a next friend, and after considering the Government's material, independently opined that sufficient cause existed for the preventive detention of each detenu. The Board's opinion is thus not the product of a mechanical exercise but of an independent institutional assessment after hearing both sides.

87. Most significantly, the State Government did not merely act upon the Advisory Board's opinion as a formality. The confirmation order dated 12.06.2025 records that the State Government, upon independent reconsideration of the entire material, confirmed the detention orders under Sections 12 and 13 of the Act. This independent reconsideration at the confirmation stage is a critical safeguard, since it ensures that the detaining authority's satisfaction is not a one-time, un-revisited conclusion but a continuing assessment of the necessity of detention in light of all available material including the detenues' own representations. The confirmation order thus reflects a fresh, independent application of mind and is not a rubber-stamping of either the initial detention order or the Advisory Board's opinion.

88. No material has been placed before this Court to suggest that the rejection of representations or the confirmation of the detention orders was perfunctory, mechanical, or devoid of application of mind. The requirement of Ameena Begum (supra) para 28.1, that the order be based on the requisite satisfaction of the detaining authority, is accordingly found to be satisfied not merely at the stage of the initial detention order but throughout the chain of executive decision-making.

89. Thus, upon examination of the material on record and testing the same against the parameters in Ameena Begum *(supra), this Court finds that the detaining authority's satisfaction was independently and lawfully reached, on relevant and rationally probative material drawn from a layered chain of field assessments and intelligence inputs, with a live and proximate link to the apprehended future conduct. The grounds served upon the detenues were precise, pertinent, self-explanatory and supported by five enclosed Annexures, enabling effective representations which were duly considered. The detaining authority demonstrably applied the correct legal test by expressly adverting to the "even tempo of life" standard in the grounds themselves. Application of mind is further manifest not merely in the initial detention order but throughout in the considered rejection of representations, the independent assessment by the Advisory Board after hearing the detenues, and the State Government's independent reconsideration at the confirmation stage. No infirmity in the detaining authority's satisfaction or in the clarity of the grounds has been established.

90. Accordingly, Question II is answered against the petitioners.

III. Whether the impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately pertains to "public order", as distinguished from a mere "law and order" situation.

91. Turning our attention in the instant case to Section 3 of the Act, the Government has to arrive at a subjective satisfaction that the said person has to be detained, in order to prevent him from acting in a manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. Therefore, we first direct ourselves to the examination of what constitutes "public order". An order of detention under Section 3(2) of the Act can be issued against a detenu to prevent him "from acting in any manner prejudicial to the maintenance of public order". Therefore, if the impugned detention order fails to differentiate between offences which create a "law and order" situation and which prejudicially affect or tend to prejudicially affect "public order", the same would be rendered unsustainable.

92. What needs to be addressed now with respect to the detention orders is whether the alleged acts of commission for which the detenu has been kept under detention are prejudicial to "public order". While addressing this issue, it has to be first understood as to how the Hon'ble Supreme Court has distinguished between disturbances related to "law and order" and disturbances caused to "public order".

93. It is trite that breach of law in all cases does not lead to public disorder. In a catena of judgments, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly carved out the distinction between "law and order" and "public order". A Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar26, expounded the difference between "law and order" and "public order". Hon'ble M. Hidayatullah, J. (as the Chief Justice then was) expressed the same in the following words :

"54. ... Public order if disturbed, must lead to public disorder. Every breach of the peace does not lead to public disorder. When two drunkards quarrel and fight there is disorder but not public disorder. They can be dealt with under the powers to maintain law and order but cannot be detained on the ground that they were disturbing public order. Suppose that the two fighters were of rival communities and one of them tried to raise communal passions. The problem is still one of law and order but it raises the apprehension of public disorder. Other examples can be imagined. The contravention of law always affects order but before it can be said to affect public order, it must affect the community or the public at large. A mere disturbance of law and order leading to disorder is thus not necessarily sufficient for action under the Defence of India Act but disturbances which subvert the public order are. ...

55. It will thus appear that just as "public order" in the rulings of this Court (earlier cited) was said to comprehend disorders of less gravity than those affecting "security of State", "law and order" also comprehends disorders of less gravity than those affecting "public order". One has to imagine three concentric circles. Law and order represents the largest circle within which is the next circle representing public order and the smallest circle represents security of State. It is then easy to see that an act may affect law and order but not public order just as an act may affect public order but not security of the State."

94. Further, as illustrated in Arun Ghosh v. State of W.B. (1970) 1 SCC 98, it is thus evident that for an act to qualify as a disturbance to public order, the specific activity must have an impact on the broader community or the general public, evoking feelings of fear, panic, or insecurity. Not every case of a general disturbance to public tranquillity affects the public order and the question to be asked, is that: does the offending act lead to disturbance of the current of life of the community so as to amount to a disturbance of the public order or does it affect merely an individual leaving the tranquillity of the society undisturbed

95. In Arun Ghosh case, the detenu was detained since he had been indulging in teasing, harassing and molesting young girls and assaults on individuals of a locality. While holding that the conduct of the petitioning detenu could be reprehensible, it was further held that it does not add up to the situation where it may be said that the community at large was being disturbed or in other words there was a breach of public order or likelihood of a breach of public order. In the process of quashing the impugned order, the Hon□ble Supreme Court while referring to the decision in Ram Manohar Lohia v. State of Bihar, 1965 SCC OnLine SC 9 ruled as under:

"3. ... Public order was said to embrace more of the community than law and order. Public order is the even tempo of the life of the community taking the country as a whole or even a specified locality. Disturbance of public order is to be distinguished from acts directed against individuals which do not disturb the society to the extent of causing a general disturbance of public tranquillity. It is the degree of disturbance and its effect upon the life of the community in a locality which determines whether the disturbance amounts only to a breach of law and order. ... It is always a question of degree of the harm and its effect upon the community. ... This question has to be faced in every case on facts. There is no formula by which one case can be distinguished from another."

96. In Kuso Sah v. State of Bihar, (1974) 1 SCC 185, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"4. ... The two concepts have well defined contours, it being well-established that stray and unorganised crimes of theft and assault are not matters of public order since they do not tend to affect the even flow of public life. Infractions of law are bound in some measure to lead to disorder but every infraction of law does not necessarily result in public disorder. ...

6. ...The power to detain a person without the safeguard of a court trial is too drastic to permit a lenient construction and therefore Courts must be astute to ensure that the detaining authority does not transgress the limitations subject to which alone the power can be exercised."

97. Having analysed the aforementioned authorities, this Court must first apply the settled distinction between "law and order" and "public order" as not every infraction of law disturbs public order; the act must affect the community or the public at large and disturb the "even tempo of life" in the locality. Therefore, the key inquiry is the degree, reach and impact: does the incident (and the apprehended future conduct) show a community-wide disturbance (fear or panic or probable communal tension) rather than an isolated offence?

Application to the facts of the present case

98. With the above principles as the lodestar, this Court now turns to examine whether the material before the detaining authority in the present case legitimately crosses the threshold from "law and order" into "public order".

99. The incident of 30/31.03.2025 cannot, on a fair reading of the grounds of detention, be characterised as an isolated offence affecting only the individuals involved. The grounds paint a picture of a community-wide disturbance of a particularly grave character, for the following reasons.

The timing a double festival confluence

100. The incident occurred on the first day of Chaitra Navratri. As the grounds expressly record, the very next day was Eid, one of the most important and sensitive festivals in the Islamic calendar. The confluence of these two festivals, one of the most sacred occasions for the Hindu community and the most significant for the Muslim community created an atmosphere of extraordinary communal sensitivity in the locality. The slaughter of bovine animals by the accused on the first day of Navratri, in circumstances where the cow is venerated as sacred by the Hindu community, was not merely a criminal act, it was an act that directly and foreseeably struck at the religious sentiments of a significant section of the community at a moment of heightened communal sensitivity. The grounds record that this hurt the sentiments of the Hindu community and that the fear of communal frenzy spreading was real and immediate. The timing of the incident thus elevates it qualitatively beyond the category of an ordinary criminal offence into territory where its impact upon community life and public order becomes manifest.

Community-wide fear, terror and behavioural change

101. The grounds of detention record with specificity that the incident caused fear and terror, "भय व आतंक" not merely among the parties to the incident but among the general public in Kalpi town, village Guloli and surrounding areas. This fear was not abstract or inferential, it manifested in concrete behavioural change: the general public in Kalpi town and surrounding areas stopped leaving their cattle outside their homes and stopped tying them outside, out of fear. This is a precise and specific indicator of the kind of community-wide impact that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Arun Ghosh *(supra) described as the disturbance of the "even tempo of life" of the community. The disruption of a routine aspect of daily agricultural and community life, the keeping and grazing of cattle across an entire locality is not the hallmark of a law and order situation; it is evidence of a disturbance that has penetrated the normal current of community life.

Tension between two communities and risk of communal violence

102. The grounds further record that the incident created a tense atmosphere between people of the Hindu and Muslim communities in Kalpi town and surrounding areas. The general public began viewing the incident as a conspiracy to cause riots and communal violence "दंगा फसाद कराने की साजिश". Preparations for demonstrations had begun, and letters were submitted by social and religious organizations seeking strict action. The Local Intelligence Unit report dated 03.04.2025, a contemporaneous field assessment, not a post-hoc reconstruction recorded that public order had been completely shattered "लोक व्यवस्था छिन्न-भिन्न हो गयी थी" and that there was a strong possibility of communal harmony being disturbed. This is precisely the kind of inter-community tension that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Manohar Lohia *(supra) described as raising the apprehension of public disorder going beyond a mere law and order problem to threaten the fabric of communal co-existence in the locality.

Unprecedented administrative response

103. The scale and nature of the administrative response to the incident is itself a powerful indicator of the degree of public order disturbance. The grounds record that in order to manage and control the atmosphere of tension, fear and terror, the following extraordinary measures were taken: police forces from other police station areas of the district were deployed at sensitive locations in Kalpi town and village Guloli as picket and patrol parties; a riot control drill was conducted in Kalpi town; the Superintendent of Police Jalaun, Inspector-in-Charge Kalpi, Sub-Divisional Magistrate Kalpi and Circle Officer Kalpi personally conducted foot patrols; adequate police force conducted foot patrolling at sensitive locations during both day and night; communication was established with the general public to instill a sense of security; and a Peace Committee meeting was organised and dialogue was held with both communities. It is a well-recognised principle that the deployment of riot control measures, the convening of Peace Committee meetings, and the personal presence of senior district officials on patrol are responses reserved for situations of genuine public order breakdown, not for ordinary law and order incidents that can be managed through normal policing.

The detaining authority's application of the correct legal test

104. As this Court has already noted in the context of Question II, the grounds of detention themselves employ the phrase "even tempo of life" viz. "जनजीवन के सामान्य प्रवाह, सामान्य निर्वहन, सामान्य शान्ति, अमन चैन (इवेन टैम्पो आफ लाइफ)" while recording that the detenues' activities have become prejudicial to the maintenance of public order. The deliberate and conscious use of this very phrase, the touchstone laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Manohar Lohia (supra) and Arun Ghosh (supra) demonstrates that the detaining authority was alive to the distinction between law and order and public order and consciously found that the present case fell within the latter category. The present case is thus materially distinguishable from cases where detention orders have been struck down on the ground that the detaining authority merely labelled an offence as a public order disturbance without engaging with the substance of that distinction.

The apprehension of future prejudicial conduct

105. Preventive detention is directed not at punishing past conduct but at preventing future conduct prejudicial to the statutory purpose. The grounds expressly record that upon release on bail, there is every possibility that the detenues will again commit similar offences of cattle slaughter, and will make every effort to vitiate the communal atmosphere in Kalpi town and surrounding areas. This apprehension is not speculative, it is grounded in the nature, scale and communal impact of the original incident, the intelligence assessment of the Local Intelligence Unit, and the field-level assessment of multiple officers across the administrative hierarchy. Given the communal sensitivity of the area, the confluence of festivals, and the demonstrated willingness of the detenues to commit the alleged acts in circumstances of maximum communal provocation, the detaining authority's apprehension of future prejudicial conduct cannot be said to be without rational foundation.

The present case is not Arun Ghosh

106. In Arun Ghosh (supra), the detenu's reprehensible conduct teasing, harassing and molesting young girls was found to fall short of public order because it affected only specific individuals and did not disturb the community at large. The present case is of an entirely different character. The alleged activity here did not merely affect the individuals directly involved, it generated community-wide fear and behavioural change across multiple localities, created inter-community tension between Hindus and Muslims, risked erupting into communal violence, necessitated riot control measures and Peace Committee interventions, and struck at the religious sentiments of a significant section of the community on one of its most sacred occasions. The degree, reach and impact of the alleged activity in the present case places it squarely beyond the Arun Ghosh category of individual-directed conduct, and within the territory of genuine public order disturbance as described in Ram Manohar Lohia (supra) and Kuso Sah (supra).

107. Thus, upon a careful examination of the grounds of detention in the light of the settled legal principles governing the distinction between "law and order" and "public order", this Court finds that the impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately and demonstrably pertains to "public order". The alleged activity and its aftermath community-wide fear and behavioural change, inter-community tension, risk of communal violence, extraordinary administrative response, and a contemporaneous intelligence assessment of public order collapse collectively establish a disturbance of the even tempo of community life in named localities going well beyond an isolated criminal offence. The detaining authority not only had before it rationally probative material establishing a public order disturbance but also expressly applied the correct legal test in the grounds themselves. No case has been made out that the detention orders have been founded on a mere law and order situation dressed up as a public order concern.

108. Accordingly, Question III is answered against the petitioners.

FINDINGS & CONCLUSION

109. Preventive detention, conceived as an extraordinary measure by the Founding Fathers and Mothers of our Constitution, should not be rendered ordinary with its invocation on a routine basis. To unchain the shackles of preventive detention, it is important that the safeguards enshrined in our Constitution, particularly under the "golden triangle" formed by Articles 14, 19 and 21, are enforced in letter and spirit. In this light, once the safeguards and tests against misuse of such provision are satisfied, a preventive detention order may be sustained to nip in the bud the risk of disturbing public order.

110. In view of the foregoing discussion, this Court records its findings on the three questions for consideration as under:

a. On Question I, this Court finds that the entire chain of constitutional and statutory safeguards governing preventive detention from the making of the detention order and its approval by the State Government, through the communication of grounds along with all relied-upon documents, the consideration of representations, the reference to and independent hearing before the Advisory Board, and the final confirmation by the State Government has been observed in strict compliance with the timelines and requirements prescribed under Sections 3(4), 3(5), 8, 10, 11, 12 and 13 of the National Security Act, 1980, and with the constitutional mandate of Article 22(5). No procedural infirmity has been established.

b. On Question II, this Court finds that the detaining authority's satisfaction was independently and lawfully reached on relevant and rationally probative material, drawn from a layered chain of field assessments and intelligence inputs. The grounds served upon the detenues were precise, pertinent and self-explanatory, supported by five documents enclosed comprising the forwarding letter of the Inspector-in-Charge Kotwali Kalpi, the detention proposal, the forwarding letters of the Circle Officer Kalpi and Additional Superintendent of Police Jalaun, the Local Intelligence Unit report dated 03.04.2025, and the letter of the Superintendent of Police Jalaun, each representing an independent tier of assessment, and collectively constituting a robust evidentiary foundation that was transparently placed before the detenues to enable effective representations. Those representations were duly considered and rejected at each stage. Application of mind is manifest not merely in the initial detention order but throughout, viz in the considered rejection of representations, the independent assessment by the Advisory Board after hearing the detenues in person, and the State Government's independent reconsideration at the confirmation stage. The detaining authority demonstrably applied the correct legal test by expressly adverting to the "even tempo of life" standard in the grounds themselves reflecting not a mechanical invocation of statutory language but a conscious and informed engagement with the precise legal distinction that the law demands.

c. On Question III, this Court finds that the impugned detention orders are founded on material that legitimately and demonstrably pertains to "public order" as distinguished from a mere "law and order" situation. The alleged activity and its aftermath community-wide fear and behavioural change across named localities, inter-community tension between Hindus and Muslims, a real risk of communal violence, an extraordinary administrative response including riot control drills and Peace Committee interventions, and a contemporaneous Local Intelligence Unit assessment of public order collapse collectively establish a disturbance of the even tempo of community life going well beyond an isolated criminal offence. The timing of the incident on the first day of Chaitra Navratri, coinciding with the eve of Eid, further underscores the communal sensitivity of the context in which the alleged acts were committed and the apprehension of future prejudicial conduct upon release.

111. This Court therefore finds that the impugned detention orders satisfy the standards laid down in Ameena Begum v. State of Telangana27, and are founded on relevant and proximate material demonstrating disturbance of public order. Statutory timelines and representation requirements have also been complied with. Consequently, the impugned detention orders do not disclose procedural or legal infirmity warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction. Hence, in light of the aforesaid, there are no cogent reasons to entertain the petitions and allow the prayers sought therein. In the aforesaid terms, the petitions stand dismissed.

112. Pending applications, if any, also stand disposed of.

113. It is made clear that any observations made herein shall have no bearing whatsoever on the merits of the case during any other proceedings before any other Court.

114. The judgment be uploaded on the website forthwith.

विचारणीय मुख्य विधिक मुद्दा यह था कि क्या ग्राम सभा की भूमि (विशेषतः तालाब एवं खाद गड्ढे जैसी सार्वजनिक उपयोग की भूमि) पर अवैध अतिक्रमण करने वाले व्यक्ति, जो कि न तो भूमिहीन है और न ही वास्तविक रूप से निराश्रित श्रेणी में आता है, के विरुद्ध विधिवत पारित बेदखली आदेश के क्रियान्वयन से पूर्व उसे वैकल्पिक आवास प्रदान करना आवश्यक है, अथवा ऐसे आदेश का तत्काल विधिसम्मत क्रियान्वयन किया जाना चाहिए, तथा क्या शासनादेशों में निहित संरक्षण का लाभ ऐसे व्यक्ति को दिया जा सकता है जो शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत होकर सार्वजनिक भूमि पर अतिक्रमण का दोषी पाया गया है|

उत्तर प्रदेश राजस्व संहिता, 2006 - धारा 67 - वर्तमान जनहित याचिका ग्राम सभा की भूमि पर किए गए अवैध अतिक्रमण को हटाने से संबंधित है, जिसमें याचिकाकर्ता ने तहसीलदार, बहराइच द्वारा उत्तर प्रदेश राजस्व संहिता, 2006 की धारा 67 के अंतर्गत वाद संख्या 5380 सन् 2018 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 27.11.2020 के प्रभावी क्रियान्वयन हेतु निर्देश की प्रार्थना की है - उक्त आदेश में यह अभिनिर्धारित किया गया कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 द्वारा ग्राम दुहलेवा स्थित तालाब एवं खाद गड्ढे की भूमि (गाटा संख्या 300 एवं 312) पर अवैध निर्माण कर अतिक्रमण किया गया है, जिसके परिणामस्वरूप उसे बेदखल करने तथा क्षतिपूर्ति वसूलने का निर्देश दिया गया - यह भी तथ्यगत है कि पूर्व में लेखपाल की रिपोर्ट के आधार पर कार्यवाही प्रारंभ हुई, तत्पश्चात पुनरीक्षण आदेश के अनुपालन में सीमांकन कराया गया, साक्ष्य संकलित हुए, किंतु विपक्षी संख्या 6 द्वारा पर्याप्त अवसर प्रदान किए जाने के बावजूद कोई साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया, जिसके उपरांत अंतिम आदेश पारित हुआ - उक्त आदेश को विपक्षी संख्या 6 द्वारा अपील में चुनौती दी गई, जो दिनांक 07.11.2023 को निरस्त कर दी गई, फलस्वरूप बेदखली आदेश की वैधता पुष्ट हो गई - तथापि आदेश के क्रियान्वयन में विलंब होने पर याचिकाकर्ता ने पुनः प्रार्थना की - इस दौरान प्रशासन की ओर से यह अभिमत व्यक्त किया गया कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 को वैकल्पिक आवास प्रदान करने पर विचार किया जा रहा है, जबकि याचिकाकर्ता ने यह प्रस्तुत किया कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 न तो भूमिहीन है और न ही निराश्रित, अपितु वह सामुदायिक स्वास्थ्य केंद्र में चौकीदार के पद पर शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत है, अतः ऐसे परिस्थितियों में, विधिवत पारित एवं अपीलीय स्तर पर पुष्ट बेदखली आदेश के क्रियान्वयन में किसी प्रकार की बाधा या पुनर्वास की अनिवार्यता का प्रश्न उत्पन्न नहीं होता।

अभिनिर्धारित: विपक्षी संख्या 6 शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत व्यक्ति हैं| ऐसा व्यक्ति गरीब एवं निराश्रित की श्रेणी में नहीं आता हैं। एक शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत व्यक्ति द्वारा तालाब की भूमि पर कब्जा किया जाना किसी भी दशा में उचित नहीं कहा जा सकता है तथा ऐसे व्यक्ति को अन्यत्र वैकल्पिक आवास प्रदान किए जाने का कोई वैधानिक आधार भी नहीं हैं। ऐसा नहीं है कि तालाब की भूमि पर अतिक्रमण हटाने का कार्य बिना विधिक प्रक्रिया अपनाए किए जाना प्रस्तावित हैं। इस उद्देशय से धारा 67, उत्तर

प्रदेश राजस्व संहिता 2006 के अंतर्गत वाद संस्थित करके विधिक प्रकार से कार्यवाही की गई। विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने बार-बार अवसर दिए जाने के उपरांत भी साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया तथा अंतिम आदेश पारित होने के उपरांत अपील के माध्यम से बेदखली आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती भी दी। बेदखली आदेश अपीलीय न्यायालय से पुष्ट किए जाने के उपरांत उसके क्रियान्वयन में अतिक्रमण हटाया जाना किसी भी प्रकार से बिना विधिक प्रक्रिया अपनाए हुए किसी व्यक्ति का उत्पीड़न करना नहीं कहा जा सकता – अतः, याचिका स्वीकार कर ली गई। [पैरा 16 से 18] (E-13)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री अनिल कुमार शुक्ला, राज्य सरकार के विद्वान स्थायी अधिवक्ता श्री राम कुमार मौर्य तथा विपक्षी संख्या 5 ग्राम सभा के विद्वान अधिवक्ता श्री पंकज गुप्ता की तरफ से उपस्थित अधिवक्ता श्री मोहम्मद तालिब खान को सुना तथा याचिकाकर्ता की तरफ से प्रस्तुत पूरक शपथ पत्र अभिलेख पर लिया गया।

2. जनहित में प्रस्तुत इस रिट याचिका द्वारा याचिकाकर्ता ने तहसीलदार बहराइच द्वारा धारा 67 उत्तर प्रदेश राजस्व संहिता, 2006 के अंतर्गत प्रस्तुत वाद संख्या 5380 सन् 2018 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 27/11/2020 के क्रियान्वयन में विपक्षी संख्या 6 को ग्राम सभा की भूमि गाटा संख्या 300 क्षेत्रफल 0.0036 हेक्टेयर तथा गाटा संख्या 312 क्षेत्रफल 0.0238 हेक्टेयर स्थित ग्राम दुहेलवा, परगना बहराइच से बेदखल करने एवं क्षतिपूर्ति की धनराशि वसूल करने का निर्देश देने का अनुरोध किया है।

3. उपरोक्त निर्णय में तहसीलदार बहराइच ने यह अंकित किया कि क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल ने इस आशय की रिपोर्ट प्रस्तुत की कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने ग्रामसभा के तालाब खाते की भूमि पर अनधिकार मकान निर्माण करके ग्रामसभा को क्षति पहुँचाई। तत्कालीन तहसीलदार ने आदेश दिनांक 12/12/2011 द्वारा लेखपाल की रिपोर्ट को पोषणीय न होना अवधारित करते हुए विपक्षी संख्या 6 के विरुद्ध जारी नोटिस वापस लिए जाने का आदेश पारित किया। याचिकाकर्ता ने इस आदेश के विरुद्ध जिलाधिकारी/कलेक्टर के समक्ष पुनरीक्षण प्रस्तुत किया जो आदेश दिनांक 17/06/2015 द्वारा स्वीकार कर प्रकरण सर्वे मैनुअल के अनुसार पैमाइश हेतु एक टीम गठित कर तालाब की भूमि पर अवैध कब्जे के संबंध में गुण-दोष के आधार पर पुनः निर्णीत करने हेतु प्रति-प्रेषित किया।

4. इसके उपरांत सर्वे मैनुअल के अनुसार सीमांकन करवाकर आख्या दिनांक 23/03/2017 प्रस्तुत हुई एवं क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल का सशपथ बयान अंकित हुआ एवं प्रतिपरीक्षा भी की गई। विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने अनेक अवसर दिए जाने के उपरांत भी साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया। इस कारण से विपक्षी संख्या 6 का साक्ष्य का अवसर दिनांक 18/11/2020 को समाप्त कर दिया गया।

5. विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने दिनांक 23/11/2020 को आदेश दिनांक 18/11/2020 को वापस लिए जाने एवं साक्ष्य का अवसर दिए जाने का अनुरोध किया, जो प्रार्थना पत्र दिनांक 23/11/2020 को निरस्त कर दिया गया।

6. दिनांक 27/11/2020 के निर्णय में यह अंकित है कि राजस्व टीम की सीमांकन आख्या दिनांक 23/03/2017 एवं क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल के सशपथ बयान से यह सिद्ध हो गया है कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने तालाब की भूमि गाटा संख्या 300 में 36 वर्ग मीटर तथा खाद गड्डा गाटा संख्या 312 में 38 वर्ग मीटर पर पक्का निर्माण किया तथा 0.020 क्षेत्र हेक्टेयर सहन के रूप में अवैध कब्जे में लिया हुआ है। विपक्षी संख्या 6 को उपरोक्त भूमि से बेदखल करने एवं उनसे रु०2000/- क्षतिपूर्ति वसूल करने का आदेश दिया गया।

7. इस याचिका के प्रस्तर 12 में यह कथन है कि आदेश दिनांक 27/11/2020 की वैधता को चुनौती देते हुए विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने अपील संख्या 283/2021 प्रस्तुत की, जो अपर आयुक्त के निर्णय दिनांक 07/11/2023 द्वारा निरस्त हो गई।

8. जब अपील निरस्तीकरण के उपरांत भी बेदखली आदेश दिनांक 27/11/2020 का क्रियान्वयन नहीं किया गया तो याचिकाकर्ता ने आदेश के क्रियान्वयन हेतु प्रार्थना पत्र दिया। दिनांक 31/5/2025 को तहसीलदार पयागपुर, जनपद बहराइच ने विपक्षी संख्या 6 को नोटिस निर्गत कर बेदखली आदेश दिनांक 27/11/2020 के अनुपालन में 14 दिन के अंदर कब्जा हटाने का निर्देश दिया तथा नोटिस में यह भी कहा कि अन्यथा की स्थिति में अवैध कब्जा नियमानुसार हटवा दिया जाए।

9. यह याचिका प्रस्तुत किए जाने पर दिनांक 12/02/2026 को तहसीलदार पयागपुर, बहराइच ने विद्वान स्थायी अधिवक्ता को लिखित अनुदेश प्रेषित किए, जिसमें कहा गया कि प्रतिवादी संख्या 6 के पास तालाब तथा खाद गड्ढे की भूमि पर अतिक्रमण करके बनाए गए मकान के अतिरिक्त अन्य कोई आवास नहीं है एवं न ही उनके नाम अन्य कोई भूमि अभिलेख में अंकित है तो ऐसी स्थिति में विपक्षी संख्या 6 को नियमानुसार अन्यत्र स्थान पर भूमि आवंटन हेतु विचार किया जा रहा है। विद्वान स्थायी अधिवक्ता ने कहा कि दिनांक 19/10/2023 को निर्गत शासनादेश में सार्वजनिक श्रेणी की भूमि पर बसे गरीब एवं भूमिहीन लोगों को हटाए जाने के पूर्व उनको अन्यत्र बसाए जाने के संबंध में निर्देश दिए गए हैं। शासनादेश में यह कहा गया है कि विभिन्न माध्यमों से शासन के संज्ञान में आया है कि सार्वजनिक भूमि पर पूर्व से अध्यासित अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जन जाति के गरीब तथा भूमिहीन व्यक्तियों, जिनके पास अन्यत्र निवास का कोई उचित स्थान नहीं है, उन्हें बिना विधिक प्रक्रिया के अनुपालन के हटाने, बेदखल करने और उत्पीड़न किए जाने की शिकायतें निरंतर प्राप्त हो रही हैं। इस शासनादेश में पूर्व शासनादेश दिनांक 16/05/2017, 19/02/2018 एवं 14/1/2021 का उल्लेख करते हुए यह निर्देश दिए गए हैं कि अवैध संपत्तियों एवं भू-माफियाओं का चिन्हीकरण तथा आरक्षित श्रेणी की भूमि से अतिक्रमण हटाए जाने संबंधी कार्यवाही करते समय अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जनजाति के किसी गरीब व्यक्ति तथा अन्य भूमिहीन एवं निराश्रित व्यक्तियों का उत्पीड़न न होने पाए। यथासंभव उक्तवक्त वर्णित गरीब एवं निराश्रित व्यक्तियों के आवास की व्यवस्था किए जाने के बाद ही उनको बेदखल करने की कार्यवाही की जाए।

10. याचिकाकर्ता के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने कहा कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 निराश्रित एवं भूमिहीन व्यक्ति नहीं है। याचिकाकर्ता ने एक पूरक शपथ पत्र के माध्यम से कहा कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 सामुदायिक स्वास्थ्य केंद्र भिनगा, जनपद श्रावस्ती में चौकीदार के पद पर शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत है।

11. तहसीलदार पयागपुर द्वारा दिनांक 25/02/2026 को दिए गए लिखित अनुदेशों में यह स्वीकार किया गया है कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 वर्तमान समय में सामुदायिक स्वास्थ्य केंद्र भिनगा, श्रावस्ती में चौकीदार

के पद पर कार्यरत है। लिखित अनुदेशों में यह भी अंकित है कि ग्राम पयागपुर, परगना बहराइच, तहसील पयागपुर, जनपद बहराइच की भूमि गाटा संख्या 1776 क्षेत्रफल 2.6570 हेक्टेयर में से 0.2430 हेक्टेयर आदित्य प्रसाद गौतम नाबालिग पुत्र संजय गौतम, संरक्षक सगी नानी कलावती, पत्नी नकछेद प्रसाद के नाम दर्ज अभिलेख हैं।

12. जगपाल सिंह बनाम पंजाब राज्य (2011) 11 SCC 396 के प्रकरण में माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने यह अंकित किया है कि राष्ट्र की स्वतंत्रता के बाद से गाँव की सामुदायिक उपयोग के भू-खंडो को धन-बल, बाहु-बल अथवा राजनैतिक प्रभाव के चलते व्यक्तियों द्वारा कब्जा कर लिया गया तथा कई राज्यों में सामुदायिक उपयोग के लिए गाँव में भूमि वास्तव में नहीं बची हैं। यद्यपि अभिलेखों में भूमि उपलब्ध हो सकती हैं। ऐसा राज्य सरकार के अधिकारियों तथा क्षेत्रीय स्तर के सशक्त व्यक्ति, जिनके अपने हित सन्निहित थे तथा अपराधियों की मिलीभगत से होता है। हमारे पूरवजों ने भविष्य की आवश्यकताओं एवं होने वाली पानी की कमी को ध्यान में रखते हुए हर गाँव में तालाब तथा हर मन्दिर के साथ कुआं इत्यादि बनवाए थे। पिछले दशकों में अधिकाँश तालाबों में मिट्टी भर के कब्जे कर लिए गए हैं तथा तालाब का मूलस्वरूप नष्ट कर दिया गया है, जिससे देश में पानी की कमी बढ़ी है, कई तालाबों की भूमियां अत्यन्त सस्ते दामों पर नीलाम कर दी जाती है। अब समय आ गया है कि यह कुप्रथा बन्दी होनी चाहिए।

13. माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय ने जगपाल सिंह के निर्णय में प्रत्येक राज्य सरकार को यह निर्देश दिया कि वह ग्राम सभा/ग्राम पंचायत आदि की भूमियों पर अवैध कब्जेदारों को हटाने के लिए योजना बना कर इन भूमियों को ग्राम सभा/ग्राम पंचायत को वापस दिलवाएं, जिससे कि यह भूमि सामुदायिक उद्देश्यों के लिए प्रयोग की जा सकें। मात्र अवैध कब्जे के लम्बे समय से बने होने के आधार पर उसे वैध नहीं बनाया सकता है। कब्जे का नियमितीकरण मात्र अपवाद स्वरूप हो सकता है, जैसे की जहां किसी सरकारी विज्ञप्ति द्वारा भूमिहीन श्रमिकों अथवा अनुसूचित जाति/अनुसूचित जन जाति के व्यक्तियों के पक्ष में पट्टा निष्पादित कर दिया गया हो अथवा जहाँ भूमि पर कोई विद्यालय, चिकित्सालय या अन्य सामुदायिक सुविधा का निर्माण हो चुका हो।

14. महादेव सिंह दल बहादुर सिंह बनाम उत्तर प्रदेश राज्य AIR 2024 ALLD पेज 13 के निर्णय में इस न्यायालय ने यह कहा कि तालाब के अतिक्रमणकारी को विनिमय में भी कोई दूसरी भूमि नहीं दी जा सकती है। अतिक्रमण द्वारा तालाब के अंश पर कब्जा की गई भूमि का विनिमय (अदला-बदली) किसी अन्य भूमिधरी भू-खंड से नहीं किया जा सकता है।

15. महादेव सिंह दल बहादुर सिंह के उपरोक्त निर्णय में इस न्यायालय ने यह भी कहा कि यदि अतिक्रमणकारियों को विनिमय (अदला-बदली) में दूसरी मूल्यवान भूमि देने की प्रथा बना दी जाएगी तो इससे बाहुबलियों को अतिक्रमण करने हेतु प्रोत्सोहन मिलेगा।

16. उपरोक्त तथ्यों से यह स्पष्ट है कि विपक्षी संख्या 6 शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत व्यक्ति है। ऐसा व्यक्ति गरीब एवं निराश्रित की श्रेणी में नहीं आता है। एक शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत व्यक्ति द्वारा तालाब की भूमि पर कब्जा किया जाना किसी भी दशा में उचित नहीं कहा जा सकता। ऐसा नहीं है कि तालाब की भूमि पर अतिक्रमण हटाने का कार्य बिना विधिक प्रक्रिया अपनाए किए जाना प्रस्तावित है। इस उद्देशय से धारा 67, उत्तर प्रदेश राजस्व संहिता 2006 के अंतर्गत वाद संस्थित करके विधिक प्रकार से कार्यवाही की गई। विपक्षी संख्या 6 ने बार-बार अवसर दिए जाने के उपरांत भी साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया तथा अंतिम आदेश पारित होने के उपरांत अपील के माध्यम से बेदखली आदेश की वैधता को चुनौती भी दी। बेदखली आदेश अपीलीय न्यायालय से पुष्ट किए जाने के उपरांत उसके क्रियान्वयन में अतिक्रमण हटाया जाना किसी भी प्रकार से बिना विधिक प्रक्रिया अपनाए हुए किसी व्यक्ति का उत्पीड़न करना नहीं कहा जा सकता।

17. ऐसी स्थिति में विपक्षी संख्या 6, जो राजकीय सेवा में होते हुए तालाब एवं खाद गड्ढे की लोक उपयोगी भूमि पर अतिक्रमण करने का दोषी पाया गया है, उसे अन्यत्र आवास प्रदान किए जाने की कोई आवश्यकता नहीं है तथा अन्यत्र आवास प्रदान किए जाए बिना भी तहसीलदार सदर बहराइच द्वारा वाद संख्या 5380 सन् 2018 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 27.11.2020, जो अपर आयुक्त द्वारा अपील में पुष्ट किया जा चुका है, का क्रियान्वयन सुनिश्चित कराना विपक्षी संख्या 4 का विधिक उत्तरदायित्व है। शासकीय सेवा में कार्यरत व्यक्ति द्वारा सरकारी भूमि पर अतिक्रमण एक दुराचरण है तथा ऐसे व्यक्ति को अन्यत्र वैकल्पिक आवास प्रदान किए जाने का कोई वैधानिक आधार भी नहीं है।

18. तदनुसार, याचिका स्वीकार की जाती है। विपक्षी संख्या 4 को निर्देश दिया जाता है कि वाद संख्या 5380 सन् 2018 में पारित आदेश दिनांक 27/11/2020 का क्रियान्वयन विधिनुसार शीघ्रतापूर्वक यथासंभव आज की तिथि से तीन माह के भीतर करना सुनिश्चित करें।

Public Interest Litigation (P.I.L.) No. 1427 of 2025

Rajendra Tyagi & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Issue pertains whether the determination and fixation of "Minimum Monthly Rate of Rent (MMRR)" by Municipal Commissioner, forming the basis for assessment and enhancement of property tax in Ghaziabad, is in conformity with the statutory scheme prescribed u/s 174 of U.P. Municipal Corporations Act, 1959 read with

R. 4-A and 4-B of U.P. Municipal Corporation (Property Taxes) Rules, 2000, or whether the same suffers from arbitrariness, illegality, and non-compliance with mandatory statutory parameters, thereby vitiating the consequent levy of property tax.

Headnotes

U.P. Municipal Corporations Act, 1959 - ss. 2(74), 116, 148, 172, 173, 174 - U.P. Municipal Corporation (Property Taxes) Rules, 2000 - R. 4-A, 4-B, 4-C - Municipal Law - Revision of Property tax - Validity of - Determination of annual value - Fixation of MMRR - PIL by Corporators - Maintainability - The instant Public Interest Litigation arises from a challenge to the revision and enhancement of property taxes by Ghaziabad Municipal Corporation for the financial year 2025 - 26 - The petitioners, who are present or former corporators, assail the impugned actions including the order dated 03.05.2025, notice dated 09.01.2024, and Resolution No. 139 dated 07.03.2025, contending that the increase in property tax allegedly to an excessive extent is founded upon an unlawful and arbitrary determination of Minimum Monthly Rate of Rent (MMRR) - It is their case that such determination was undertaken without adhering to the mandatory statutory framework under the U.P. Municipal Corporations Act, 1959 and the Rules of 2000, particularly by disregarding relevant factors such as prevailing rental values and by improperly relying upon circle rates, as well as by introducing impermissible criteria like road width - The petitioners further allege that the enhancement was effected without due approval of Corporation's Board and in contravention of prescribed procedures, including those relating to periodic revision and grant of rebates - The respondent -Corporation, on the other hand, submits that the MMRR was determined after due survey, classification, publication, and consideration of objections in accordance with statutory provisions, and that the revised tax regime seeks to rectify anomalies in the earlier system.

Held: Despite questioning procedural aspects such as issuance of notice, their publication etc, in the writ petition and supplementary affidavits, submissions on that line were not advanced on behalf of the petitioners - Even otherwise the Court was convinced that all steps appear to have been taken by the respondents in that regard - The dispute, therefore, remains qua determination of 'MMRR' and it has to be examined as to whether such determination is or is not in consonance with the statutory provisions - Further, the petitioners have not been able to come out with any specific submission or suggestion as to what better methodology or concrete formula could have been adopted or exercise undertaken by Municipal Commissioner for such determination - On the face of record that the petitioners never wanted any exercise to be undertaken, rather they were somehow interested in either maintaining the property tax rates as it were or its revision/enhancement not based upon any fresh exercise according to law but as per previous arrangement like 5% per year increase which was almost negligible - The Court neither find any error in determination of 'MMRR' based upon categorization/classification of properties nor any illegality in the impugned decision of respondents to revise/enhance the property taxes based upon 'MMRR' - The exercise undertaken by respondents was found to be in consonance with the statutory provisions requiring no interference, thus, petition lacks substance, dismissed. PRAYERS IN WRIT PETITION

2. The petitioners, who are three (3) in number and are either Ex or present Corporators in the Municipal Corporation, Ghaziabad (in short 'the Corporation' or 'Nagar Nigam'), also having held different offices therein, have filed the present writ petition in purported public interest with a prayer to quash the order dated 03.05.2025, notice dated 01.04.2024, Resolution No. 139 dated 07.03.2025 issued by the Corporation, whereby revision in property taxes has been approved. Further prayer has been made to direct the Corporation to extend the benefit of rebate on property taxes as provided under Section 174(2)(a) of U.P. Municipal Corporations Act, 1959 ('the Act'); further restraining the Corporation from implementing the decision dated 15.02.2024 of the Executive Committee of the Corporation with a further direction to extend the benefit of rebate on early deposit of property tax.

3. The matter was heard on various dates and, on the last day of final hearing, a Civil Misc. Amendment Application No. 7 of 2026 was pressed on behalf of the petitioners, wherein prayer was made to read the date "09.01.2024" in place of "01.04.2024" in the first relief claimed in the petition.

4. For the reasons stated in the affidavit supporting amendment application, the same is allowed. Accordingly, the notice impugned shall be treated as dated 09.01.2024 in place of 01.04.2024.

FACTS OF THE CASE

Pleadings on behalf the petitioners (Writ Petition and Supplementary Affidavits)

5. The petitioners have claimed themselves to be public spirited citizens having instituted certain petitions earlier before this Court and, by referring to various provisions of the Act, mainly sections 148, 172, 173, 174, 207 to 213, 221-B and Rules 2, 3, 4, 4-A, 4-B, 4-C, 5, 5-A and 7 of U.P. Municipal Corporation (Property Taxes) Rules, 2000 ('the Rules'), it is pleaded that in the meeting of the Board of Nagar Nigam, Ghaziabad ('the Board') on 07.06.2022, the matter regarding increase in property taxes in accordance with the DM circle rate was discussed, however, after due discussion, it was unanimously resolved that the matter be put up again for discussion in the next meeting of the Board. Subsequently, in the meeting held on 16.09.2022, the aforesaid resolution was never placed before the Board, instead the Municipal Commissioner orally informed the Board that the proposal had already been forwarded to the State Government, to which the petitioners raised serious objections.

6. In the meeting of the Board held on 07.01.2023, again, no proposal regarding enhancement of the property taxes was put up for discussion, however, the Board suo-moto took up the matter and a decision was taken to increase the property taxes by 10%. The said resolution of the Board was implemented on 01.04.2023. Thereafter, a notice was published on 09.01.2024 in local news papers in Ghaziabad proposing enhancement of property taxes for residential properties within Municipal limits of the Nagar Nigam in 100 wards on the basis of DM circle rates, whereby objections were invited. Prior to publishing the notice/proposal dated 09.01.2024, the same was neither placed in the meeting of the Board nor were the members of the Board informed about any such proposal.

7. In the meeting of the Executive Committee of Nagar Nigam held on 15.02.2024, members unanimously objected to the enhancement of property tax and resolved that till the matter was taken up before the Board, recovery of property tax according to the new rates be not made, however, the aforesaid proposal was finalized and published in newspapers but the same was not given effect to during the year 2024-25. Thereafter, in the meeting of the Board held on 09.10.2024, vide resolution no. 54, the proposal for enhancement of property tax on the basis of DM circle rates was rejected but, vide letter dated 26.10.2024 of the Municipal Commissioner, resolution dated 09.10.2024 was forwarded to the State Government. In response to the same, vide letter dated 06.03.2025 issued by the under Secretary, Anubhag Nagar Vikas, Lucknow, it was indicated that the property taxes be fixed according to the minimum rental value in accordance with the provisions of section 174 of the Act and the Rules.

8. Subsequently, a meeting of all Zonal Incharges and Tax Superintendents was held on 03.05.2025 for the purposes of determination of property taxes for the Financial Year 2025-26 in accordance with the newly prescribed rates of tax and it was decided that property taxes be determined for residential buildings on the basis of carpet area and for non-residential buildings, on the basis of the covered area in accordance with the newly prescribed rates. By the said order dated 03.05.2025, a decision was taken to implement the enhanced property tax rates w.e.f 01.04.2025.

9. It is further pleaded that, earlier, the Board, vide resolution dated 07.06.2016, had decided to grant rebates providing 25% rebate on depositing house tax till the month of August, 15% rebate on deposit till September, 10% rebate on deposit till December and 5% rebate on deposit till January but, due to the Covid-19 pandemic in the year 2021, benefit of 20% rebate was extended till the month of October (instead of August). However, in the meeting of the Board held on 07.06.2022, the Municipal Commissioner informed that the rebate was discontinued and the earlier rates had been revived. Nevertheless, the Board unanimously passed the resolution that 20% rebate be extended for deposit of house tax till the month of September, while 15% rebate to be removed. Accordingly, necessary orders were issued and the same rates of rebate continued for the Financial Year 2022-23 and 2023-24, however, in the meeting of the Executive Committee held on 15.02.2024, vide resolution no. 38, the 20% rebate, which was being granted for timely deposit of house tax till the month of September, was reduced till the month of July only, which decision is illegal, arbitrary and unreasonable as the same was never approved by the Board.

10. It is further pleaded that the Board, vide resolution no. 139 dated 07.03.2025, has taken a decision that the width of the road for the purposes of calculation of rental value be fixed by taking into account the area of parking, green belt, drains, etc. As fixation of width of the roads is done in accordance with the Master Plan which is duly notified by the concerned Development Authority under U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 and approved by the State Government, the resolution dated 07.03.2025 to the extent it directs fixation of such width by adding the area of parking, green belt, drains, etc, is illegal, arbitrary and without jurisdiction.

11. It is further pleaded that even though, since the year 2001 onwards, in accordance with the resolutions of the Nagar Nigam, rate of increase of property tax was to the extent of 10% every two years, by means of the impugned action, it has been increased by approximately 300% w.e.f 01.04.2025 and without any approval of the Board. The increase of property taxes is said to be exorbitant, arbitrary, unreasonable, violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, in teeth of section 174 (2) (a) of the Act, without jurisdiction and against public interest.

12. By means of supplementary affidavit and second supplementary affidavit, it has been pleaded that prior to impugned order dated 03.05.2025 or implementing the revised rates of property tax w.e.f. 01.04.2025 for the year 2025-26, neither any public notice was published under Rule 4-A nor the procedure prescribed under Rules 4-A and 4-B was followed. A meeting of the Board was convened on 30.06.2025 in which the agenda to consider enhancement of the property tax on the basis of DM circle rates was placed but the proposal was unanimously rejected. Despite the said decision, the respondents are issuing and sending bills of property tax at the increased rates due to which, the Corporators have started protests and dharna etc.

Pleadings on behalf the respondents (Short Counter Affidavit and Supplementary Short Counter Affidavit)

13. Whereas, no counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of State of U.P., short counter affidavit and supplementary short counter affidavit have been filed on behalf of respondent no. 4-Corporation stating therein that as per statutory provisions, the Municipal Commissioner, Ghaziabad classified and categorized the localities situate within the entire municipal limits into Developed (A), Normally Developed (B) and Backward Area/Slum (C) categories based upon the DM circle rates in effect at that time. The Corporation conducted a survey of the then minimum monthly rent rates (in short 'MMRR') for buildings and lands in these areas. It calculated the monthly rent rates in per square foot unit and determined its average. For example: for developed areas (category-A), the average monthly rent was calculated at Rs. 13/- per square feet and was notionally taken as 4/- for the purposes of imposition of property tax; for normally developed (category-B), it was calculated as Rs. 11/- per square feet and was notionally taken as Rs. 3.5; and for backward areas/slum (category-C), it was calculated as Rs. 8/- per square feet and was notionally taken as 3/-.

14. It is further pleaded that the monthly rent rates, so classified and categorized, were published in the news dailies, having wide circulation in the city and objections were invited. Total 318 objections were received, they were heard and disposed of by the committee constituted as per the rules. The petitioners had also lodged their written objections dated 16.02.2021 and 20.02.2021, they too were heard and their objections were also duly disposed of. The monthly rent rates determined by Corporation were presented in the meeting of Executive Committee dated 29.04.2022 in the form of proposal no. 206. Thereafter, it was presented in the meeting of the House dated 21.05.2022 but discussion thereon was deferred for the next meeting. Thereafter, in the meeting dated 07.06.2022, vide proposal no. 492, it was decided by majority that the tenure of the present House was very short, therefore, it should be placed for discussion in the next constituted House.

15. It is further pleaded that regarding implementation of revision of taxes, the then Municipal Commissioner requested for guidance from the Principal Secretary, Urban Development Department, Government of Uttar Pradesh, vide office letters dated 16.06.2022 and 06.10.2023, in response whereto, Urban Development Department directed the Municipal Commissioner to take action as per the Rules at his own level as per the powers contained in Rules 4-A and 4-B. Thereupon, the Municipal Commissioner, acting in the interest of the Corporation and following the prescribed procedure, made final publication on 09.01.2024, to be effective from 01.04.2024.

16. It is further pleaded that the homeowners/city dwellers/taxpayers of Ghaziabad started depositing tax on the basis of new rates without any objection, revenue of Rs. 38.67 crores was collected under the new regime during the financial year 2024-25 and more than Rs. 65 crores have been collected so far in the financial year 2025-26.

17. It is further pleaded that the last exercise for determination of annual rental value was carried out in the year 2001. The determination so made was permitted to form basis for imposition of property tax uptil the year 2015. In the year 2015, the rental values determined in the year 2001 were enhanced by 10%, thereafter, the same were further enhanced by 5% in the year 2016, by another 10% in the year 2018, by 15% in the year 2021 and by 10% in the year 2023.

18. Further stand has been taken that the previously determined monthly rent rates had various anomalies, like the provisions contained in the Rules regarding application of category-wise monthly rent rates were not being followed, one uniform rate was being made applicable in fully developed posh areas, normally developed areas and backward areas/slums, which was not in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules, wherein there is a provision for fixing the minimum monthly rent per square foot unit of carpet area but, under the old regime, the rates for carpet area and covered area were fixed separately, such that carpet area rates were higher than covered area rates. Further, taxation of residential buildings was being done according to the covered area rates and taxation of the non-residential buildings was being done according to the carpet area rates, whereas the statutory mandate is to determine the tax of non-residential buildings according to the covered area and that of residential buildings according to the carpet area.

19. Further stand is that the new tax rates remove anomalies in the past regime and determine the rates according to the specific area, width of the road, location of the building in developed/undeveloped/backward/rural/urban areas, so that the disparity can be removed. The determination based on proper categorization of areas and survey of prevalent rent rates in each area is as per the Act and the Rules and that the prescribed procedure has been fully followed.

Rejoinder affidavits (Rejoinder and Supplementary Rejoinder Affidavits)

20. Stand of the petitioners in these affidavits is that in case the decision taken by the Corporation vide resolution no. 139 dated 07.03.2025, whereby the width of the roads on which the property is situated is taken into account, annual value would be calculated by adding the green area, drains, parks etc. falling between the property and road and its effect would be that it would inflate the annual value of a property which comes within the category of a slum (in case there is a public drain or green belt adjacent to the road in front of the slum) while, on the other hand, the annual value of properties in a posh colony would remain the same. It amounts to treating un-equals equally on the basis of increasing/decreasing the width of the road on which the property is situated, thereby increasing or decreasing the annual value.

21. It is further stated that section 148 of the Act specifically provides a time period within which the property taxes have to be revised/implemented. If the decision to increase the property tax on the basis of DM circle rates was taken in the year 2022, the said decision could not be implemented in the year 2025-26. Admittedly, the 'MMRR' per square foot was revised in Ghaziabad, lastly in the year 2023, the same could not have been revised just the next year in 2024 (for the year 2024-25).

22. As far as the contention of the respondent no.4 that some amount as per revised rate has been deposited by some property owners for the year 2025-26, stand is that the same may have been done only due to ignorance on the part of the property owners regarding the resolutions passed by the House of the Corporation.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONERS

23. Though, as per pleadings contained in the writ petition and supplementary affidavits, procedural aspects as regards issuance of notices, their publication etc were indicated, during the course of arguments, submissions on that line were not advanced by learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners. He has, however, made vehement submissions that as per Section 173(2) of the Act, corporation taxes can be assessed and levied in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules framed thereunder and though Section 173(2) provides that the taxes shall be levied on the annual value of buildings or land, in the present case, determination of annual value is erroneous and in teeth of the provisions of Section 174 read with Rule 4-A.

24. Elaborating his submissions, it has been argued that whereas annual value, in case of a building or land, means twelve (12) times of the value arrived at on multiplying the carpet area of the building or the land by applicable 'MMRR' per square foot of carpet area, in the present case, such determination has not been made according to the provisions contained under Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A and no exercise has been undertaken by the respondents in consonance with the said provisions.

25. It is further contended that whereas Rule 4-A provides that 'MMRR' is to be worked out for every group of buildings/land within a ward having regard to circle rate fixed by the Collector for purposes of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and the current 'MMRR' in the area for such building or land, the respondents have made determination only based upon the circle rates fixed by the Collector and no computation/determination has been made having regard to the current 'MMRR'. It has further been argued that whereas Section 174(1)(b) provides that 'MMRR' may be fixed once in every two years by the Municipal Commissioner, in the instant case, the last revision was done w.e.f. 01.04.2023, however, the impugned determination/ enhancement has been made effective w.e.f. 01.04.2024, i.e. within one year without waiting for expiry of two years period and, hence, for this reason alone, the impugned notice/order/resolution is liable to be set aside.

26. It is further submitted that though, vide Resolution no. 38 passed in the Board Meeting dated 15.02.2024, decision to grant rebate in different percentages was unanimously passed, no rebate is being provided by the respondents while issuing demand bills and, therefore, the Corporation is not obeying its own decision. It is further submitted that the Municipal Commissioner has attempted to justify impugned determination by categorising properties of Ghaziabad in different categories/classes based upon the width of road, but since 'road' has not been defined under the Act but only word 'street' has been defined, the respondents have no authority to make any such classification/categorisation, which is beyond their competence and also dehors the provisions of the Act itself.

27. By referring to Resolution No. 139 passed in the meeting dated 07.03.2025, it has been submitted that the respondents have illegally and arbitrarily included road, footpath, divider, central verge, green belt, parking space, service road, drain/mini drain etc. while prescribing 'MMRR' for different categories, which determination is not contemplated under the Act, inasmuch as it is only the Development Authority or the Government which has competence to determine width of the road and to decide about various parameters to be included in the said width. The very Resolution

No. 139 is, therefore, said to be illegal and also consequential determination based upon the categorisation/classification so as to arrive at 'MMRR'.

28. Further submission has been made that as per Section 174(1)(b), three (3) components compositely determine annual value of building/land, i.e. the carpet area, 'MMRR' and the figure '12' by which the carpet has to be multiplied and, out of these three components, two (2) are static and the only variable component is 'MMRR' and, unless this variable component is determined strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules, figure of consequential property tax would be erroneous and, therefore, the respondents were under statutory obligation to determine 'MMRR' wisely, carefully and in accordance with law and not in an arbitrary manner.

29. Reliance has been placed on behalf of the petitioners on the following judgments:-

(i) Dipak Babaria and another Vs. State of Gujarat and others: (2014) 3 SCC 502;
(ii) Commissioner of Income Tax, Mumbai Vs. Anjum M.H. Ghaswala and others: (2002) 1 SCC 633

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT-CORPORATION AND ITS OFFICERS

30. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondent-Corporation and its Officers has made submissions that the controversy involved in the petition is only about 'MMRR' and not about rate of property tax. Elaborating his submissions, it is contended that as per Section 148 of the Act, power to determine rates of taxes lies with Corporation, taxes are to be imposed as per Sections 172 and 173 of the Act and determination of 'annual value' is the sole prerogative of the Municipal Commissioner. Reference has also been made to Rules 2(k) and (l) to address on the definition of 'annual value' and monthly rate and submission has been made that the Municipal Commissioner has followed the statutory mandate contained under Rule 4(1) while making 'ward-wise and nature-wise' classification of properties by forming nine (9) groups. Rules 4-A, 4-B and 4-C were read with vehemence to show strict compliance done by the Municipal Commissioner.

31. As far as the steps undertaken by the Municipal Commissioner so as to arrive at the impugned decision, submission has been made that in the year 2020, every locality in every ward was categorized into three categories: Developed Areas (A), Normally Developed Areas (B) and Backward/Slum Areas (C) based upon the DM circle rates. A team of Nagar Nigam officials was deputed by the Municipal Commissioner to carry out a survey of every locality in every ward of District Ghaziabad for determination of 'MMRR' of each category A, B and C.

32. It is further contended that on 05.02.2021, the provisionally determined 'MMRR' were widely published in two reputed newspapers of the District and objections were invited from the masses and a detailed notification was also published on the official website. On 26.04.2022, total 318 objections were received. Petitioner nos. 1 and 2 also filed their objections. All the objections were heard by a duly constituted Committee and were disposed of by reasoned and speaking orders. The outcome of the decision taken on the objections of petitioners no.1 and 2 was duly communicated to them. On 29.04.2022, the provisionally determined 'MMRR' were placed before the Board in its meeting, vide agenda no. 206, however, discussion on it was postponed uptil the next meeting. On 21.05.2022, the provisionally determined 'MMRR' were once again placed before the Board, however, no discussions were made qua such determination.

33. It is further contended that on 07.06.2022, discussion on the provisionally determined 'MMRR' was once again postponed by the Board for the next session. On 16.06.2022, Municipal Commissioner intimated the Principal Secretary, Urban Development about the exercise carried out by him under section 174 of the Act and determination of 'MMRR' reached by him. When Municipal Commissioner did not receive any response to his letter dated 16.06.2022, he again wrote to the Principal Secretary on 06.10.2023 asking for guidance in respect of exercise carried out under section 174. On 27.10.2023, Under Secretary to the State Government required the Municipal Commissioner to carry out determination of 'MMRR' at his own level in accordance with provisions of section 174 and Rules 4-A and 4-B. On 09.01.2024, final publication of the revised rental values was made in two reputed newspapers dailies and the same were made effective from 1.4.2024.

34. It is further contended that on 15.02.2024, the Executive Committee of the Nagar Nigam resolved to keep the newly determined 'MMRR' in abeyance for the time being, consequently its implementation was suspended. Thereafter, on 09.10.2024, the Board passed a resolution bearing No. 54 rejecting the proposal for enhancement of property tax on the basis of DM circle rates. On 26.12.2024, Municipal Commissioner intimated Principal Secretary, Urban Development, Government of U.P. about the resistance being made by the Board and sought his guidance. On 10.01.2025, Under Secretary to the Government of U.P. forwarded the letter of the Municipal Commissioner dated 26.12.2024 to Director, Nagriya Nikay Nideshalaya, U.P. Lucknow and sought its report/comments in the matter.

35. On 28.01.2025, the Secretary, Financial Resources Development Board submitted a detailed report to the Government opining that the resolution no. 54 dated 09.10.2024 passed by Nagar Nigam Board is without any authority of law and is legally unsustainable. On 06.03.2025, based upon the aforesaid report, the Under Secretary to the Government of U.P. responded to the letter of the Municipal Commissioner dated 26.12.2024 requiring him to determine the monthly rental values in accordance with section 174 of the Act of 1959 and Rules 4-A and 4-B of the Rules, 2000, at his own level.

36. It is further contended that Nagar Nigam started assessing property tax as per the new regime. On 07.03.2025, its Board passed a fresh resolution taking into account the opinion of the State Government dated 06.03.2025 and accepting the determination of 'MMRR' done by the Municipal Commissioner. On 07.03.2025, the Board passed resolution no. 139 resolving to categorize localities in each ward on the basis of the width of the road indicated in the Master plan and, in its absence, as per the sanctioned map of Awasiya Yojna. On 30.06.2025, the Board convened a special session and once again passed a resolution rejecting the adoption of a 'MMRR' determined by the Municipal Commissioner under Section 174.

37. As regards submissions made on behalf of the petitioners that the Municipal Commissioner was not competent to prescribe 'MMRR' based upon width of the road, learned counsel for the respondents has made submissions that as per Section 2(74) of the Act, 'street' includes road also and, therefore, contrary submission made has no substance.

38. It is further contended that during the course of ward-wise categorization of localities, for developed areas falling under Category (A), the rent per square foot of carpet area varied from Rs.6/- to Rs.17/-, for normally developed areas, it varied from Rs.5/- to Rs.20/- and for backward/slum areas, the range was from Rs.4/- to Rs.11/-. Reference was made to a table appended as Annexure SCA-2 to the short counter affidavit indicating that an average of the monthly rent per square foot qua all the three categories was separately taken in the manner that for developed areas, the average figure was indicated as '13', for normally developed areas, the figure was shown as '11' and for backward/slum areas, it was indicated as Rs.8/-.

39. On a pointed query made by the Court from the learned counsel appearing for the Corporation that when 'MMRR' was shown to be based upon the average figures taken as 13, 11 and 8, as to why the said figures were further brought down respectively to Rs. 4, 3.5 and 3, submission was made that the 'lowest' figure of rent for all categories A, B, and C was respectively Rs. 6, 5 and 4 and the Municipal Commissioner, in his own wisdom, thought it proper to bring down the 'MMRR' even below the lowest figures and, accordingly, indications were made in the public notice dated 09.01.2024.

40. As far as the submissions made on behalf of the petitioners that since Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A obliges the Municipal Commissioner to determine the 'MMRR' once in every two years and, therefore, impugned exercise of revising the same within one year is unsustainable, it has been argued on behalf of the respondents that previous exercise under the said provisions was undertaken only in the year 2001 and not thereafter and, therefore, challenge laid to the impugned action on this ground, has no substance. Submission is that the 'MMRR' was kept intact since 2001 and it was only since 2015-16 that the same was increased to Rs. 1.10 and, then, in the year 2018, it was increased to Rs. 1.27, thereafter in the year 2021, the figure reached to Rs. 1.46 and, lastly, w.e.f. 01.04.2023, the 'MMRR' was indicated as Rs. 1.61; however, the said increment was not based upon any statutory exercise under Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A, rather it was a percentage increase based upon wisdom of the Commissioner and periodic decisions taken by the Board.

41. Lastly, it has been contended that the petitioners being Ex or present Corporators of the Corporation, they are bound by the decision of the Board and any action or stand taken by them against Board's decision cannot be made subject matter of a petition filed in purported public interest. Submission is that the petition has been filed by the petitioners only to settle their political scores with one or the other authority of the Corporation and, therefore, the same deserves to be dismissed with costs.

42. Reliance has been placed on behalf of the respondents on the following judgments:-

(i) Shiv Sewak Singh and others Vs. State of U.P. and others: 2012 (7) ADJ 724;

(ii) Akola Municipal Corporation and another Vs. Zishan Hussain Azhar Hussain and another: 2025 SCCOnline SC 2729

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

43. Shri Manish Goyal, learned Additional Advocate General, has made submissions that as per Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A, Municipal Commissioner is the competent authority to determine 'MMRR' and based thereupon, property taxes are levied. By referring to Section 116 of the Act, submission has been made that in case of any doubt or dispute arising as to which Corporation Authority any particular function belongs, reference can be made to the State Government whose decision shall be final and, in the present case also, Municipal Commissioner had sought opinion from the State Government, which was furnished. Specific reference has been made to communication dated 06.03.2025 whereby the State Government had required the Commissioner to proceed at his own level as per Section 174 and Rules 4-A and 4-B. In sum and substance, the contention is that determination made by the Municipal Commissioner in furtherance of the guidelines and directions issued and request made by the State Government, is strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Act requiring no interference by this Court.

DISCUSSION

44. Since applicability and interpretation of various provisions of the Act and Rules is involved in this matter and 'levy/determination of property taxes' and 'annual value' of a property, are germane to the controversy involved, it would be appropriate to refer to certain relevant provisions, which read as under:-

"172. Taxes to be imposed under this Act.- (1) For the purposes of this Act and subject to the provisions thereof and of Article 285 of the Constitution of India the Corporation shall impose the following taxes, namely –

(a) property taxes,

(3) The Corporation taxes shall be assessed and levied in accordance with the provisions of this Act and the rules and bye-laws framed thereunder.

(4) .....

173. Property taxes leviable.- (1) For the purposes of sub-section (1) of section 172 property taxes shall comprise the following taxes which shall, subject to the exceptions, limitations and conditions hereinafter provided, be levied on buildings and lands in the city -

(a) a general tax which may be levied, if the Corporation so determines, on a graduated scale;

(b) a water tax leviable in areas where water is supplied by the Corporation;

(c) drainage tax leviable in areas provided with sewer system by the Corporation;

(d) a conservancy tax in areas in which the Corporation undertakes the collection, removal and disposal of excrementitious and polluted matter from privies, urinals and cess-pools.

(2) Save as otherwise expressly provided in this Act or rules made thereunder, these taxes shall be levied on the annual value of buildings or land as the case may be:

Provided that the aggregate of the property taxes shall in no case be less than 22 percent and not more than 32 percent of the annual value of the building or land or both assessed to such taxes, so however, that the general tax shall not be less than 10 percent and not more than 15 percent, the water tax shall not be less than 7.5 percent and not more than 12.5 percent, the drainage tax shall not be less than 2.5 percent and not more than 5 percent and the conservancy tax shall not be more than 2 percent of the annual value.

174. Definition of "annual value".- (1) "Annual value" means

(a) in case of railway stations, colleges, schools, hotels, factories, commercial buildings and other non-residential buildings, twelve times the value arrived at on multiplying with multiplier to be fixed by rules in the monthly rate of rent per square foot of residential buildings fixed under clause (b) with the covered area of the building or open area of the land or both as the case may be.

(b) in the case of a building or land not falling within the provisions of clause (a), twelve times the value arrived at on multiplying the carpet area of the building, or the area of the land, by the applicable minimum monthly rate of rent per square foot of the carpet area in the case of building or the applicable minimum monthly rate of rent per square foot of the area in the case of land, as the case may be, and for this purpose the minimum monthly rate of rent per square foot shall be such as may be fixed once in every two years by the Municipal Commissioner on the basis of the location of the building or the land, nature of the construction of the building, the circle rate fixed by the collector for the purposes of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and the current minimum rate of rent in the area for such building or land such other factors, and in such manner, as may be prescribed:

Provided that where the annual value of any building would by reason of exceptional circumstances, in the opinion of the Corporation, be excessive if calculated in the aforesaid manner the Corporation may fix the annual value at any less amount which appears to it equitable."

45. Since 'MMRR' is determined as per Rules of 2000, relevant Rules 4, 4-A, 4-B and 4-C read as under:-

"4. Classification of Property.- (1) Municipal Commissioner shall classify the location of property falling within the provisions of Section 174 of the Act, ward-wise and thereafter within each ward, it shall be classified basing on the situation of property on three different types of roads, namely

(a) roads having a width of more than 24 metres,

(b) roads having width of 12 metres to 24 metres,
(c) roads having width less than 12 metres.

(2) Municipal Commissioner shall classify the nature of construction of buildings falling, within the provisions of Section 174 of the Act, on the following basis-

(a) pakka building with R.C.C roof or R.B roof;
(b) any other pakka building; or
(c) kachcha building that is all other buildings not covered in Clauses (a) and (b)

(3) Municipal Commissioner shall accordingly arrange all buildings in a ward in maximum number of nine different groups and in case of all vacant plots of land, in maximum number of three different groups as shown below:

(a) in case of building, the nine groups shall be as follows-

(i) pakka building with R.C.C roof situated on a road having a width of more than 24 metres,
(ii) pakka building with R.C.C roof situated on a road having width of 12 metres to 24 metres
(iii) pakka building with R.C.C roof situated on a road having width less than 12 metres,
(iv) other pakka building situated on a road having a width of more than 24 metres,
(v) other pakka building situated on a road having a width of 12 metres to 24 metres,
(vi) other pakka building situated on a road having width less than 12 metres,
(vii) kachcha building situated on a road having a width of more than 24 metres,
(viii) kachcha building situated on a road having a width of 12 metres to 24 metres,
(ix) kachcha building situated on a road having width less than 12 metres,

(b) In case of land, the three groups will be as follows-

(i) Land situated on a road having a width of more than 24 metres;
(ii) Land situated on a road having a width of 12 metres to 24 meters;
(iii) Land situated on a road having a width less than 12 metres.

4-A Fixation of minimum monthly rate of rent.- (1)The Municipal Commissioner shall once in every two years work out minimum monthly rate of rent per unit area (square foot) of the carpet area for every group of building within a ward or the applicable minimum monthly rate of rent per unit area (square foot) of the area for every group of land as the case may be and f ix the rate as residential building having regard to-

(i) the circle rate fixed by the Collector for purposes of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899; and

(ii) the current minimum rate of rent in the area for such building or land:

Provided that before fixing such monthly rate of rent, the Municipal Commissioner shall notify such proposed rates in two daily newspapers having circulation in such city and thereafter providing a minimum fifteen days time for filing objections by interested persons. All such objections shall be heard ward-wise after grouping the objections received in maximum number of 12 different bunches. Each bunch shall contain the objections received from one group of buildings or one group of land, as the case may be. All objections shall be disposed of by the Municipal Commissioner himself or an officer authorised by Municipal Commissioner in this behalf after giving the opportunity of being heard to at least ten per cent of the total number of objections. It shall not be necessary to hear personally all the objectors or the interested persons. The objections may be decided in bunches.

Explanation.- Keeping in view of difficulties in fixation of carpet area, the rate on the basis of covered area would be 80% of carpet area based rates for purposes of self-assessment.

(2) In the case of non-residential building and land the monthly rate of rent per unit area of covered area and the land shall be multiple of the monthly rates of rent fixed under sub-rule (1) as mentioned in the Schedule.

4-B. Publication of the rates of minimum monthly rent.- The objections when decided under Rule 4-A, the Municipal Commissioner shall notify in two daily newspapers having circulation in such city, the minimum monthly rate of rent per square foot of the carpet area for every group of building within a ward, or the applicable minimum monthly rate of rent per square foot of the area for every group of land, as the case may be, and thereafter it shall become final.

4-C. Tax Assessment.- The assessment of tax shall be made on the basis mentioned hereunder:-

(a)(i) Calculation of Annual Value of residential building-Carpet area x fixed per unit area monthly rate of rent x 12 or

Covered area x fixed per unit area monthly rate of rent x 12 x 80%

(ii) Calculation of Annual Value of residential land-Area of land x fixed per unit area monthly rate of rent x 12

(b) (i) Calculation of Annual Value of non residential buildings - Covered area x monthly rate of rent per unit area fixed on the basis of the multiplier in relation with the rate of residential building x 12

(ii) Calculation of Annual Value of non residential lands - Area of land x monthly rate of rent per unit area fixed on the basis of the multiplier in relation with the rate of residential building x 12

(2) Payable tax. - Taxes would be payable in accordance with the rates fixed under Section 148 of the Act on the basis of annual value.

(3) Rebates - Rebates shall be admissible in annual value of residential buildings and taxes shall be payable in accordance with the provisions prescribed in the Act.

46. We may observe here that despite questioning procedural aspects such as issuance of notice, their publication etc, in the writ petition and supplementary affidavits, submissions on that line were not advanced on behalf of the petitioners. Even otherwise we are convinced that all steps appear to have been taken by the respondents in that regard. The dispute, therefore, remains qua determination of 'MMRR' and it has to be examined as to whether such determination is or is not in consonance with the statutory provisions.

47. A perusal of the record indicates that the Municipal Commissioner, after dividing the entire city into 100 wards, each ward comprising of different colonies and localities and also based upon the width of the road, area of the building, monthly rent and its calculation on per square foot of carpet area, classified and categorised the localities situated within the entire municipal limits of Ghaziabad in the following three categories:-

(A) Developed areas;
(B) Normally developed areas; and
(C) Backward/slum areas.

48. The classification on record indicates that for developed areas, the rent per square foot of carpet area varied from Rs.6/- to Rs.17/-, for normally developed areas, it varied from Rs.5/- to Rs.20/- and for backward/slum areas, it varied from Rs.4/- to Rs.11/-. The table appended as Annexure SCA-2 to the short counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no. 4 further indicates that an average of the monthly rent per square foot qua all the three categories was separately taken in the manner that for developed areas, the figure was indicated as '13', for normally developed areas, the figure was shown as '11' and for backward/slum areas, it was indicated as Rs.8/-.

49. In view of the above, though the Municipal Commissioner could have determined 'MMRR' for three categories as respectively 13, 11 and 8, in the final public notice dated 09.01.2024 the said figures were indicated quite below the average figures. For a ready reference, the entire public notice dated 09.01.2024 is reproduced as under:-

50. A perusal of the tabulated depiction of the monthly rent per square foot, as indicated in the impugned notice dated 09.01.2024, shows that for buildings falling under category (A) wherein nature of construction was that of RCC/RB and which were abutting roads having width of more than 24 metres, the monthly rent was indicated as Rs.4/- and not Rs.13/-. Similarly, for categories (B) and (C), the buildings having same nature of construction and situated abutting roads having same width, instead of monthly rent being 11/- and 8/-, as determined, the figure was indicated as Rs.3.50 and 3/- respectively. 'MMRR' in other categories of buildings and based upon width of road etc. can be perused from the table itself, which is self explanatory and requires no elaboration.

51. We find substance in the submission made on behalf of the respondents that bringing down the figures of 'MMRR' even below the average values, was the step taken by the Municipal Commissioner in his own wisdom and he had exercised his power under proviso to Section 174(1)(b) which provides that where the annual value of any building would, by reason of exceptional circumstances, be excessive, the Corporation may fix the annual value at any less amount which appears to be equitable.

52. A perusal of the impugned notice dated 09.01.2024 further indicates that the Municipal Commissioner had clearly notified therein that category-wise details of locations spread in 100 wards was available on the website of the Municipal Corporation being www.nagarnigamghaziabad.in and the same can be perused on any working day by making contact at the Head Office of the Corporation or in any zonal office. The aforesaid category-wise description of localities spread in 100 wards, being large in size, probably for this reason the clause regarding its availability on official website was inserted in the impugned public notice dated 09.01.2024.

53. Since the challenge raised in the petition is on the methodology of such categorization and arguments have been advanced on that line, the Court deems it appropriate to make a reference of such categorization. The same forms part of record as Annexure No. SCA-4 to the short counter affidavit filed by respondent no. 4. The tabulated depiction being quite large in size, it would be appropriate to refer few portions thereof indicating zone-wise, ward-wise and category-wise classification of the entire localities within the municipal limits of the Corporation. The same depicts as under:-

54. A bare perusal of the aforesaid tabulated depiction clearly indicates that extensive exercise was undertaken by the Municipal Commissioner covering all the localities in district Ghaziabad spread in 100 wards of the Corporation and the determination was based upon disposal of the objections received by the Corporation after providing opportunity of hearing to the objectors and in consonance with statutory provisions. Therefore, it cannot be said that determination made is cursory or arbitrary in nature.

55. Further, the petitioners have not been able to come out with any specific submission or suggestion as to what better methodology or concrete formula could have been adopted or exercise undertaken by the Municipal Commissioner for such determination. Therefore, we are of the view that the determination of 'MMRR' cannot be said to be excessive, rather in accordance with the categorization/classification of the properties, as provided under the Rules.

56. Now, to deal with the rival submissions made with reference to the words 'street' and 'road', it would be necessary to refer the definition of 'street' as contained in Section 2(74) of the Act. The same reads as under:-

"2(74)- "street" includes any highway and any causeway, bridge, viaduct, arch, road, lane, foot-way, sub-way, court, alley or riding path or passage, whether a throughfare or not, over which the public have a right of passage or access or have passed and had access uninterruptedly for a period of twenty years; and, when there is a footway as well as a carriage way in any street, the said term includes both;"

57. A bare perusal of the definition of 'street' clearly indicates the legislative intent so as to include therein not only the road but also highway, causeway, bridge, viaduct, arch, lane, foot-way, sub-way, court, alley or riding path or passage. The definition being inclusive in nature, submission that the Commissioner is competent to take any decision only qua 'street' and not qua 'road' and, therefore, determination of 'MMRR' based upon the width of road is contrary to the provisions of the Act, has no substance at all and is discarded.

58. In this regard, we may also refer to Agenda No. 139 taken up in the Board meeting dated 07.03.2025 wherein the issue of determination of 'MMRR' based upon width of road was taken up. For a ready reference the said Agenda, which was unanimously approved, is reproduced as under:-

"प्रस्ताव संख्या 139

A. 24 मी0 से अधिक चौड़ी सड़क

8. 12 से 24 मी0 के मध्य चौड़ी सड़क

C. 12 मी0 से कम चौड़ी सड़क

उक्तानुसार सम्पत्तिकर निर्धारण हेतु मासिक किराया दरों का भवन की प्रकृति के अनुसार निर्धारण होता है, परन्तु सड़क की चौड़ाई के सम्बन्ध में मत-भिन्नता रहती है। उक्त को स्पष्ट करने हेतु सड़क की चौड़ाई नियत करने का मार्गदर्शक सिद्धान्त प्रतिपादित होना आवश्यक है। यहाँ यह स्पष्ट करना है कि वार्षिक मुल्यांकन निर्धारित करने हेतु सड़क की चौड़ाई का मापदण्ड लेने के पीछे भवन की अव्यस्थिति के अनुसार किराया दरों का निर्धारण है। यदि भवन अधिक चौड़ी सड़क पर स्थित है तो उस भवन का स्थान के अनुसार मूल्य अधिक होगा। इस प्रकार वार्षिक मूल्यांकन भी अधिक होगा। उपरोक्त अवधारणा के अनुसार भवन के मुख्य द्वार के सामने स्थित सड़क की चौड़ाई का निर्धारण करते समय सड़क के विन्यास, जिसमें आवागमन हेतु निर्धारित सड़क, फुटपाथ, डिवाईडर, सैन्ट्रल वर्ण, ग्रीन बेल्ट, पार्किंग स्थान (यदि सड़क से संलग्न है), सर्विस रोड और आवागमन हेतु निर्धारित सडक के बीच का नाला नाली, मुख्य सड़क से भवनों में प्रवेश हेतु संलग्न सर्विस रोड आदि को समवेत मानते हुये सड़क की चौड़ाई नियत करना समीचीन होगा। यहाँ यह भी स्पष्ट करना है कि महा योजना में सड़क की चौड़ाई में यह सभी घटक सम्मिलित होते है। सड़क के चौड़ाई के निर्धारण में स्पष्टता हेतु महायोजना में दर्शायी गयी सड़क की चौड़ाई ही मानक होगी।

जहाँ पर महायोजना में सड़क की चौड़ाई का विवरण उपलब्ध नहीं है ऐसी स्थिति में विकास प्राधिकरण द्वारा स्वीकृत नक्शे में प्रदर्शित सड़क की चौड़ाई या सार्वजनिक स्थान पर फुटपाथ समेत सड़क की चौड़ाई होगी। साथ ही गाजियाबाद नगर निगम सीमान्तर्गत स्थित समस्त हाईराईज्ड बिल्डिंग/सोसायटी, टाउनशिप में स्थित फ्लैटों के कर निर्धारण हेतु सड़क की चौड़ाई का निर्धारण उक्त आवासीय योजना के स्वीकृत मानचित्र, जिसे विकास प्राधिकरण अथवा आवास विकास के द्वारा स्वीकृत किया गया है, में दर्शायी गयी सड़क की चौड़ाई के आधार पर किया जायेगा। अतः उक्त प्रस्ताव मा० सदन के समक्ष सादर विचारार्थ एवं अनुमोदनार्थ प्रस्तुत है।"

59. The challenge laid by the petitioners to the determination of 'MMRR' corresponding to width of road is essentially a challenge to a part of the proceedings of Board meeting dated 07.03.2025 and though we cannot approve challenge in part to any Board meeting or decision taken therein, even if, for the sake of challenge, we examine the contents of Agenda No. 139, we find that no independent decision qua the road was taken in the said Board meeting. Rather, the discussion was made with reference to width of the road described in the master plan and, in case the details of width were not available in the master plan, aid was decided to be taken based upon the width shown in the maps sanctioned by the Development Authority. Therefore, in our opinion, the decision was to standardise the component of width of road while determining 'MMRR' so as to keep it in consonance with the already decided parameters, either as per the master plan of the city or as per the record of the Development Authority. Therefore, we do not find any error in Agenda No. 139 on this score. Consequently, the challenge to the same stands discarded.

60. One of the main contentions raised on behalf of the petitioners is that since Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A obliges the Municipal Commissioner to determine/work out the 'MMRR' 'once in every two years', the impugned decision to enforce revised taxes based upon the determination of 'MMRR' made before expiry of two years, is unsustainable. The said contention, when critically examined based upon the record position, reveals that the exercise as per Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A was previously undertaken by the respondents in the year 2001 only. Thereafter, whatever revision in 'MMRR' was made from time to time, the same was not based upon any such exercise which has now been undertaken in consonance with the provisions of law, rather the documents reflect that 'MMRR' was revised from time to time based upon percentage increase therein. For example, in the year 2015-16, for RCC buildings situated on roads having less than 12 metres width, 'MMRR' was increased as Rs.1.10, in the year 2018, it was increased to Rs.1.27, in the year 2021, the said figure reached to Rs.1.46 and, lastly, w.e.f. 01.04.2023, the 'MMRR' was indicated as Rs.1.61.

61. In view of the above, whatever revisions were made from time to time, the same cannot be said to be strictly in consonance with the statutory requirements of Section 174(1)(b) read with Rule 4-A, rather such periodical revision/enhancement was based upon the wisdom of Municipal Commissioner or periodic decisions taken by the Board. There is nothing on record to show that, at any point in time, any such decision providing 5% increase in 'MMRR' was ever challenged or objected to by anyone; probably for the reason that such enhancement/revision being insignificant in nature, was not adversely affecting either the Corporators or even the public at large. The exercise in accordance with the provisions of the Act and the Rules having been undertaken after a passage of over 20 years, the challenge laid has no substance.

62. Now we proceed to deal with the contention raised on behalf of the petitioners that vide Agenda No. 54 in the Board meeting dated 09.10.2024, the decision to enhance property tax as per circle rate was turned down and, vide Agenda No. 113 placed in the Board meeting dated 07.03.2025, the previous Agenda No. 54 was approved and, therefore, no revision/enhancement could be done.

63. On perusal of record, we find that though there was an agenda to the aforesaid effect, a contrary decision was taken in the meeting dated 07.03.2025 wherein it was resolved that whatever decision was taken by the State Government, the same would be unanimously accepted. Even otherwise, when the matter was forwarded by the State Government to the Financial Resources Development Board, the said Board, vide communication dated 28.01.2025, with reference to Section 537 of the Act, held that the Agenda No. 54 passed on 09.10.2024 does not appear to be as per law. Accordingly, the said agenda did not survive further and, ultimately, it was the State Government whose directions/guidelines issued to the Municipal Commissioner vide communication dated 06.03.2025 had to prevail, whereby the Commissioner was left at his own wisdom to proceed in accordance with the provisions of Section 174 of the Act read with Rules 4-A and 4-B of the Rules.

64. Now while dealing with the submissions made on behalf of the State that as per Section 116(2) of the Act, in the event any doubt or dispute arises as to which Coropration Authority in a particular function belongs, the Municipal Commissioner may refer the doubt or dispute to the State Government whose decision shall be final, we find that as per Section 5 of the Act 'Corporation Authorities' include the Corporation, the ward committees, an executive committee, the Mayor, a Development Committee and a Municipal Commissioner and one or more Additional Municipal Commissioners. Therefore, when the dispute had arisen in the mind of the Municipal Commissioner being a Corporation Authority, in decision making qua revision in tax based upon the determination of 'MMRR', the matter was rightly referred to the State Government. For reference, we may reproduce Sections 116 and 5 of the Act to examine the action of the State in this matter.

"116. Division of functions between Corporation authorities.- (1) The respective functions of the several Corporation authorities shall be such as are specifically prescribed by or under this Act.

(2) In the event of any doubt or dispute arising as to which Corporation authority any particular function belongs, the Municipal Commissioner may, and if the Mayor so requires shall, refer the doubt or dispute to the State Government whose decision shall be final and not open to question in any court of law.

5. Corporation authorities.- The Corporation authorities charged with carrying out the provisions of this Act for each City shall be-

(a) the Corporation;
(aa) the Ward Committees];
(b) an Executive Committee of the Corporation;
(bb) The [Mayor];
(c) a Development Committee of the Corporation;
[(d) a Municipal Commissioner and one or more Additional Municipal Commissioner appointed for the Corporation under this Act]; and
(e) in the event of the Corporation establishing or acquiring electricity supply or public transport undertaking or other public utility services, such other committee or committees of the Corporation as the Corporation may with the previous sanction of the State Government establish with respect thereto.″

65. It is, therefore, apparent that the State Government, on a reference made to it, had required the Municipal Commissioner to take a decision on his own as per statutory mandate contained under Section 174(1)(b) and Rule 4-A and reference made to the State Government and its decision received by the Municipal Commissioner, being in consonance with Section 116(2) of the Act, we do not find any error in such decision and, therefore, as the State is not objecting to revision in the property taxes as a result of determination of 'MMRR′ or even otherwise, there appears to be no substance in the challenge laid by the Corporators.

66. As far as relief regarding rebate is concerned, we do not find any such foundation in the petition or even the provision whereunder rebate is granted except as per Rule 4-C(3) of the Rules which indicates that rebates shall be admissible in annual value and payable tax in accordance with the provisions prescribed in the Act. The petitioners have, though referred to Section 174(2)(a) of the Act so as to claim relief extending the benefit of rebate on property tax, we do not find any such stipulation in the said provision. Nevertheless, considering the arguments advanced that vide earlier resolution dated 07.06.2016, the Board had decided to grant certain rebates, we find that the same was only with respect to deposit of house tax based upon a time schedule. Therefore, we do not find any ground to issue a mandamus directing the respondents to extend the benefit of rebate and infact the relief of extending the rebate is tangent to the frame of the writ petition and the same stands discarded.

Sanctity of challenge laid by Corporators

67. We also find from various letters and correspondences on record that the petitioners and one or other Corporator(s) was having clash of interest with the decisions taken by the Mayor in one or the other meeting or the proceedings thereof. The resentment and displeasure shown by them over a period of time wherein, on the one hand, the Municipal Commissioner was undertaking the exercise qua determination of 'MMRR′ in furtherance of the guidelines issued by the State Government in exercise of powers under Section 116 of the Act, the petitioners, on the other hand, were acting in such a manner so that the proceedings may not be finalized and even when the Mayor proceeded to take up the matter, all kind of opposition was raised.

68. We need not go into the details of communications, letters and correspondences made in between petitioners, Mayor and the Municipal Commissioner as discussion on that line would unnecessarily overstretch this judgment; however, one thing is apparent on the face of record that the petitioners never wanted any exercise to be undertaken, rather they were somehow interested in either maintaining the property tax rates as it were or its revision/enhancement not based upon any fresh exercise according to law but as per previous arrangement like 5% per year increase which was almost negligible.

69. Very recently, the Hon′ble Supreme Court, in the case of Akola Municipal Corporation (supra) dealt with an identical matter arising from a Division Bench judgment of the High Court of Judicature at Bombay, passed in a pubic interest litigation, wherein revision of property tax of the concerned Municipal Corporation for the year 2017-18 to 2021-22 was challenged. The said petition was filed by a Corporator in the said Corporation. The High Court interfered with the policy decision of the Corporation and granted reliefs as claimed. On challenge laid by the Municipal Corporation before the Hon′ble Supreme Court, not only the nature of relief claimed by a Corporator through a PIL was examined by the Hon′ble Supreme Court from the point of view of his locus, but also the scope of judicial review in economic policy matters was extensively dealt with.

70. The Hon′ble Supreme Court, in paragraph 12 of the report, referred to the averment made by the respondent-petitioner wherein he had stated that he was a practising doctor having M.D. (medicine) degree, a social worker and Corporator of the Akola Municipal Corporation. The Hon′ble Supreme Court observed that the petitioner had not claimed that he was representing the entire populous of Akola city and, in paragraph 14 of the judgment, it was observed that the petitioner had never claimed that he had been authorized or acting on behalf of the citizens of the Akola city for challenging the action of the Corporation in revising the tax structure and, apparently, he had raised his individual grievance against the action of increase of tax by filing writ petition under the garb of a public interest litigation.

71. Though, in the present case, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the petitioners has referred to the plea raised in rejoinder affidavit that the writ petition has been filed in ‘representative capacity′, a bare perusal of 4th paragraph of the rejoinder affidavit indicates that as to whom the three petitioners (Corporators) were representing, has not been indicated; that is to say as to whether they are representing the entire city of Ghaziabad or have been authorized by the residents to lay a challenge to the revision in property taxes. Therefore, the reasoning recorded by the Hon′ble Supreme Court in the case of Akola Municipal Corporation (supra) as regards the locus of a Corporator to lay such a challenge, applies in full force in the present case also and it is held that the challenge laid by three Corporators in purported public interest, cannot be said to be actually laid in public interest, rather the record reflects that there was conflict of interests between the Corporators, Municipal Commissioner and Mayor and, repeatedly, one or the other resolution passed in one or other meeting of the Board was either opposed or not permitted to take effect.

72. We also find that in the case of Akola Municipal Corporation (supra) also, the taxes had remained at a stagnant rates for almost 16 years and when statutory exercise was undertaken by the Corporation concerned for revision of tax rates after such a long period of time and the High Court interfered with the decision, the Hon′ble Supreme Court upset the decision of the High Court by observing that the High Court had transgressed the permissible limits of judicial review in economic policy decision taken by the Corporation. It was further observed by the Hon′ble

Supreme Court that in absence of any challenge to the substantive authority of the Corporation to revise municipal taxes, the scope of scrutiny before the High Court stood confined solely to examine as to whether the statutory procedure had been complied with and the High Court ought not to have embarked upon a roving inquiry into the merits or wisdom of the decision to revise tax rates.

73. Though learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners tried to contend that even the Hon'ble Supreme Court had, in the case of Akola Municipal Corporation (supra), observed that unless the procedure adopted by the Corporation was ex-facie arbitrary, perverse, unreasonable or in derogation of the governing statutory provisions, interference could not be made and in the present case, since the procedure adopted by the Municipal Commissioner is dehors the provisions of the Act and the Rules, the ratio laid down in the case of Akola Municipal Corporation (supra) has to be seen in that light, we are not inclined to accept the said submissions as we have already found that the exercise undertaken by the Municipal Commissioner was strictly in consonance with the statutory provisions.

74. In the case of Shiv Sewak Singh (supra), a coordinate Bench of this Court extensively dealt with challenge laid by the elected Corporators, Ex-Officio Corporators and Ex-Corporators of Nagar Nigam, Allahabad to increase in the property tax levied on the properties for the year 2011-12. Though the challenge was confined to adoption of Geographical Information System (GIS) in identifying and calculating the property tax, fixation of annual value of the properties, enhancement of monthly rate of rent and assessment of house tax coupled with resolutions passed by the Corporation, the matter was extensively dealt with by this Court. It was found that monthly rates of rent notified by the Municipal Commissioner were valid and assessment lists were treated to be final and conclusive under Section 212 of the Act. The resolutions passed by the Corporation and also exercise of powers of the State Government in that matter was also found not faulty as is the situation in the present case also.

75. The judgment relied on in the case of Anjum M.H. Ghaswala (supra) is of no assistance to the petitioners as the same was passed totally on different context arising out of Income Tax Act where subject matter was the powers of Settlement Commission to grant relief under CBDT Circulars and though submissions were made that powers vested in any authority have to be exercised in a particular manner as prescribed in the statute, since we have not found any flaw or illegality in exercise of powers by the Municipal Commissioner in revising/enhancing the property taxes based upon determination of 'MMRR', the judgment cited has no application in the facts of the case. Similar is the position with regard to the other decision cited on the same lines in the case of Dipak Babaria (supra) and the same is also of no help to the petitioners.

CONCLUSION

76. In view of the detailed discussion made above, we neither find any error in determination of 'MMRR' based upon categorization/classification of the properties nor any illegality in the impugned decision of the respondents to revise/enhance the property taxes based upon 'MMRR'. The exercise undertaken by the respondents is found to be fully in consonance with the statutory provisions requiring no interference by this Court.

77. The petition has no substance and the same is, therefore, dismissed.

CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 13.02.2026

THE HON'BLE PRASHANT KUMAR, J.

Second Appeal Defective No. 87 of 2017

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Appellant
Versus
Vinod Kumar Chopra & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the appellants/State have demonstrated "sufficient cause" within the meaning of s. 5 of Limitation Act, 1963, so as to justify the condonation of an inordinate and unexplained delay of 4957 days (or substantially reduced delay even after exclusion of time u/s 14), in filing the instant second appeal against the impugned judgment and decree, thereby warranting adjudication of the appeal on merits by the High Court.

Headnotes

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 - s.96 - Limitation Act, 1963 - ss.5, 14 - Condonation of delay - Sufficient cause - Maintainability - The instant matter arises out of a suit for recovery instituted by the plaintiffs (respondent nos. 1 and 2), who were engaged in the business of manufacturing and supplying bricks, against the State authorities - Pursuant to an order dated 07.03.1992, the plaintiffs supplied 35,000 bricks at the agreed rate of Rs. 875 per thousand, and additionally supplied 8,000 bricks on further directions, out of the total supply, 15,024 bricks were returned as substandard, while 28,476 bricks were retained by the defendants, valued at Rs. 24,966.50, payable within three months, i.e., by 27.06.1992 - Upon failure of defendants to make payment, the plaintiffs instituted Regular Suit No. 108 of 1995, which was decreed on 15.05.2000 - The defendants preferred a delayed first appeal, which was dismissed on 23.07.2003 on the ground of limitation as well as on merits, thereafter, a civil revision filed before the High Court was also dismissed on 18.09.2015 as not maintainable with liberty to approach the appropriate forum - Subsequently, the State filed the instant second appeal on 16.02.2017, accompanied by an application for condonation of an inordinate delay of 4957 days.

Held: While dealing with an application for condonation of delay, the vital test is whether "sufficient cause" has been made out - However, in cases involving bureaucratic inefficiency, the Court must examine whether there is a valid explanation for the delay or merely an excuse has been set up - Though the two concepts may sometimes overlap, there is a fine distinction between a genuine explanation and a mere excuse, which the appellant is required to establish satisfactorily - Since the rule of limitation are based on principle of sound public policy, hence it cannot be contended in a mechanical manner - The appellant has been pursuing a trivial issue of Rs.24,966/- upto this Court - All the proceedings initiated after the dismissal of the civil suit have been filed with the delay - In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, since sufficient cause is not made out for condonation of delay in filing second appeal, the application for condonation of delay is rejected - Accordingly, the second appeal also dismissed with costs. [Paras 56, 59 to 61] (E-13)

C.M. Application No.20593 of 2017

1. Heard Shri Anuj Kudesia, Additional Advocate General as well as Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Hemant Kumar Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for the appellant/State.

2. The second appeal has been preferred against the judgment and decree dated 23.07.2003 passed by learned Additional District Judge, Court No.5, Lakhimpur Kheri in Civil Appeal No.230 of 2001 (Prabhagiya Van Adhikari and others v. Dev Kumar Chopra and others), whereby the application for condonation of delay in filing the appeal under Section 96 of the Civil Procedure Code against the judgement and decree dated 15.05.2000 passed by learned Additional Civil Judge (S.D.), Lakhimpur Kheri in Regular Suit No.108 of 1995 (Dev Kumar Chopra v. Prabhagiya Van Adhikari and others) moved by the appellants under Section 5 of the Limitation Act has been rejected. This appeal was filed with the delay of 4957 days.

3. This is an application for condonation of delay under Section 5 read with Section 14 of the Limitation Act.

Factual matrix of the case are as follows:

4. The respondent nos.1 and 2 (plaintiffs) owned a brick-kiln and was in a business of manufacturing bricks. The respondents supplied bricks to the Government and other government agencies from time to time and whenever quotation was called for, they used to give quotation for the same. In the year 1992, the defendant no.1/appellant no.2 sought for a quotation for 35,000 best quality bricks. The same was given by the plaintiffs/respondent nos.1 and 2. On 07.03.1992 an order was placed to provide 35,000 best quality bricks and to be delivered in the office of the defendant no.1/appellant no.2. The agreed rate was Rs.875/- per thousand, which included transportation, unloading and stacking. As per order the plaintiffs/respondent nos.1 and 2 supplied 35,000 bricks. The defendant no.1/appellant no.2 further directed him to provide additional 8,000 bricks, which were also supplied and transported, unloaded and stacked in the office of the defendant no.2/appellant no.3. At that point of time, defendant no.1/appellant no.2 returned 15024 bricks, which were not upto the mark, however, the defendant no.1/appellant no.2 retained 28,476 bricks, which according to the agreement were valued Rs.24,966.50/-. All the bricks were supplied on 27.03.1992. As per agreement the payment was to be made within three months. Accordingly, the payment became due on 27.06.1992. After getting the bricks, the defendant no.1/appellant no.2 did not pay the amount. Hence, plaintiff preferred a suit for recovery of the amount. In this suit, written statement was filed by the appellants. After hearing the parties, the civil court framed issues and ultimately decreed the suit vide order dated 15.05.2000.

5. The appellants herein assailed this decree and judgement dated 15.05.2000 passed by the civil court by preferring appeal bearing Civil Appeal No.230 of 2001 before the appellate court i.e. Additional District Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri. This appeal was filed after a delay of 1 year and 4 months and the same was rejected vide order dated 23.07.2003 on the ground of delay and on merits.

6. Further after a delay of almost about 9 months, on an advice given by the counsel for the appellants, a civil revision bearing Civil Revision No.61 of 2004 was filed before this Court on 21.04.2004, which got rejected vide order dated 18.09.2015, which is quoted below:

"Sri Adnan Ahmad, State Law Officer candidly states that this revision is not maintainable in view of the decision of this Court in the case of Smt. Prem Wati and Anr. vs. Smt. Munni Devi [2009(27)LCD 508].

Accordingly, revision is dismissed as not maintainable.

It will be open for the revisionist to approach appropriate forum in accordance with law, if so advised."

7. After rejection of the civil revision, instant second appeal along with application for condonation of delay has been filed on 16.02.2017 challenging the order dated 23.07.2003. The Registry of this Court pointed out a delay of 13 years, 3 months and 26 days (4957 days). The reasons for the delay mentioned in the affidavit filed in support of the delay condonation application was that, the impugned order was passed on 23.07.2003, but due to some legal advice, a civil revision was filed before this Court on 21.04.2004, which ultimately got dismissed on 18.09.2015 on the ground that the revision is not maintainable. However, this Court granted a permission to the revisionist to approach any forum in accordance with law. This order was passed on 18.09.2015 and after that the appellants sought permission from the Legal Department of the State for filing the appeal. The permission was accorded on 04.11.2016. Thereafter the District Forest Officer, Lakhimpur Kheri wrote a letter on 17.11.2016 and requested the Chief Standing Counsel to file instant second appeal, who in turn advised the officer to bring documents along with certified copy of the impugned decree and order. Certified copy was applied on 21.11.2016 and the same was made available on 24.12.2016. Somehow the certified copy was not given to the counsel and hence the certified copy of the decree was applied, which was made available on the same day. Thereafter the instant second appeal was filed on 16.02.2017.

8. Since the reasons for condonation of delay were not properly explained, a supplementary affidavit was filed, wherein it has been stated that against the impugned order dated 23.07.2003 passed by the civil court, the appellant had preferred a civil revision before this Court on 21.04.2004 and the same was dismissed on 18.09.2015. After passing the aforesaid order by the High Court on 18.09.2015, the Regional Forest Officer, Sharda Nagar informed the same to the Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri vide letter dated 30.09.2015. On 15.10.2015, the Divisional Forest Officer, Kheri requested the Chief Standing Counsel for obtaining the certified copy of the order dated 18.09.2015 and to furnish legal opinion regarding future course. The Regional Forest Officer, Sharda Nagar vide his letter dated 12.01.2016 sent certified copy of the order dated 18.09.2015 to the Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri for his guidance, who sought for the legal opinion and the same was submitted on 14.01.2016 by the State Law officer to the Divisional Forest Officer on 18.01.2016. The Divisional Forest Officer on 26.01.2016 requested the District Government Counsel (Civil), Lakhimpur Kheri to prepare short history of the case and submit his legal opinion on the subject. The Regional Forest Officer, Sharda Nagar vide his letter dated 24.09.2016 submitted his synopsis of the case and his opinion to the District Government Counsel (Civil) Lakhimpur Kheri. The Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri vide his letter dated 01.03.2016 requested the Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow for filing instant second appeal. The Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow vide his letter dated 04.03.2016 sought further report on certain subject from the Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri, who in turn submitted his report to the Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow on 15.03.2016. The Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow vide his letter dated 21.03.2016 requested the Principal Secretary, Forest and Forest Animal, U.P. to accord permission to file second appeal, but the matter was kept pending before the Principal Secretary, Forest. The Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, he again on 28.07.2016 requested the Principal Secretary, Forest to accord permission. Similar requests were also made on 12.09.2016 and 15.09.2016. The Divisional Forest Officer again asked the Regional Forest Officer to personally contact the State Government for obtaining necessary approval for filing second appeal. It is on 14.10.2016, the Chief Forest Conservator, Lucknow Division, Lucknow directed the Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri to proceed for filing of the instant second appeal. The Additional Legal Remembrancer accorded the approval for filing of the instant second appeal on 04.11.2016. Thereafter on 17.11.2016, the Divisional Forest Officer, South Kheri requested the Chief Standing Counsel for filing of instant second appeal and thereafter instant second appeal was filed on 16.02.2017.

Submissions

9. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellant/State further submits that the delay so occasioned in filing the appeal is a procedural delay and further the benefit of period for which the civil revision was pending, may be granted to them as per the Limitation Act.

10. He further submits that in view of above, any delay so occasioned is not because of the laches or laxity, but because of the procedure adopted by the State, wherein approval has to be taken at various levels and accordingly, the delay may be condoned.

11. He also submits that the sufficient cause has been shown in the delay condonation application and the delay, so occasioned, is purely a procedural. He further submits that while condoning the delay, the Court should take liberal view looking into the facts that some delay do happen as the file has to move at different levels before permission is granted and the appeal is filed and hence a lenient view should be taken for the State and its instrumentalities as has been laid down in various judgements passed by the Apex Court.

12. To buttress his arguments, he placed reliance on the judgement passed by Hon′ble Supreme Court in the matter of State of Haryana v. Chandra Mani and Ors., Reported in (1996) 3 SCC 132, wherein it has been held as under:

"In G. Ramegowda, Major & Ors, v. Spl, Land Acquisition Officer, Bangalore; [(1988) 2 SCR 198], it was held that no general principle saving the party from all mistakes of its counsel could be laid. The expression "sufficient cause" must receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice and generally delays in preferring the appeals are required to be condoned in the interest of justice where no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bona fides is imputable to the party seeking condonation of delay. In litigations to which Government is a party, there is yet another aspect which, perhaps, cannot be ignored. If appeals brought by Government are lost for such defaults, no person is individually affected; but what, in the ultimate analysis, suffers is public interest. The decisions of Government are collective and institutional decisions and do not share the characteristics of decision of private individuals. The law of limitation is, no doubt, the same for a private citizen as for Governmental authorities. Government, like any other litigant must take responsibility for the acts or omissions of its officers. But a somewhat different complexion is imparted to the matter where Government makes out a case where public interest was shown to have suffered owing to acts of fraud or bad faith on the part of its officers or agents and where the officers were clearly at cross-purposes with it. It was, therefore, held that in assessing what constitutes sufficient cause for purposes of Section 5, it might, perhaps, be somewhat unrealistic to exclude from the consideration that go into the judicial verdict, these factors which are peculiar to and characteristic of the functioning of the Government. Government decisions are proverbially slow encumbered, as they are, by a considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process of their making. A certain amount of latitude is, therefore, not impermissible. It is rightly said that those who bear responsibility of Government must have a little play at the joints'. Due recognition of these limitations on Governmental functioning - of course, within reasonable limits - is necessary if the judicial approach is not to be rendered unrealistic. It would, perhaps, be unfair and unrealistic to put Government and private parties on the same footing in all respects in such matters. Implicit in the very nature of Governmental functioning is procedural delay incidental to the decision making process. The delay of over one year was accordingly condoned.″

13. He further placed reliance upon a judgement of Hon′ble Supreme Court in the matter of N. Balakrishnan v. M. Krishnamurthy, reported in (1998) 7 SCC 123, wherein it has been held as under:

10. The reason for such a different stance is thus: The primary function of a court is to adjudicate the dispute between the parties and to advance substantial justice. Time limit fixed for approaching the court in different situations in not because on the expiry of such time a bad cause would transform into a good cause.

12. A court knows that refusal to condone delay would result foreclosing a suitor from putting forth his cause. There is no presumption that delay in approaching the court is always deliberate. This Court has held that the words "sufficient cause" under Section 5 of the Limitation Act should receive a liberal construction so as to advance substantial justice vide Shakuntala Devi Jain Vs. Kuntal Kumari; [1969] 1 SCR 1006 and State of West Bengal Vs. The Administrator, Howrah Municipality; [1972] 2 SCR 874.

13. It must be remembered that in every case of delay there can be some lapse on the part of the litigant concerned. That alone is not enough to turn down his plea and to shut the door against him. If the explanation does not smack of mala fides or it is not put forth as part of a dilatory strategy the court must show utmost consideration to the suitor. But when there is reasonable ground to think that the delay was occasioned by the party deliberately to gain time then the court should lean against acceptance of the explanation. ...″

14. Further he placed reliance on a judgement passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Sridevi Datla v. Union of India and Ors, reported in (2021) 5 SCC 321, wherein it has been held as under:

"27. It is evident that the term sufficient cause is relative, fact dependant, and has many hues, largely deriving colour from the facts of each case, and the behaviour of the litigant who seeks condonation of delay (in approaching the court). However, what can broadly be said to be universally accepted is that in principle, the applicant must display bona fides, should not have been negligent, and the delay occasioned should not be such that condoning it would seriously prejudice the other party.

28. Keeping these principles in mind, it is relevant to consider whether the NGT's refusal to exercise discretion, in the facts and circumstances of this case, was erroneous. The court is conscious of the fact that exercise of discretion, per se, is a fact dependent one, and considerable latitude should be given to the court or tribunal of the first instance, in the performance of that task. Nevertheless, as decided, cases and judgments have shown that the exercise of discretion does at times, call for appellate scrutiny by this court. This is one such. The appellant pleaded that since the documentation attendant to the clearance granted to the Project Applicant was voluminous, and expert as well as professional legal advice of the kind necessary to approach the NGT was not available in the State of Andhra Pradesh, the procuring of relevant documents, and correspondence with counsel in Delhi and drafting of the appeal entailed some delay.

30. In view of the foregoing findings, this court is of the opinion that the impugned order of NGT has to be and is, therefore set aside. The delay in filing the appeal before the NGT is hereby condoned; the parties shall now appear and proceed to argue the appeal on its merit, which shall then be disposed in accordance with law. The appeal is allowed. There shall be no order on costs.

15. He also placed reliance upon a judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Inder Singh v. The State of Madhya Pradesh, reported in 2025 INSC 382, wherein it has been held as under:

"14. There can be no quarrel on the settled principle of law that delay cannot be condoned without sufficient cause, but a major aspect which has to be kept in mind is that, if in a particular case, the merits have to be examined, it should not be scuttled merely on the basis of limitation.

15. In the present case, the filing of the Review Petition before the First Appellate Court was with a delay of two years and four months and the Second Appeal before the High Court was delayed by about a year from the date of the dismissal of the Review Petition i.e., 30.09.2019. Pausing for a moment, it is necessary to indicate that in the present case, the dispute over title of a land is not between private parties, but rather between the private party and the State. Moreover, when the land in question was taken possession of by the State and allotted for public purpose to the Youth Welfare Department and the Collectorate and has continued in the possession of the State, the claim of the State that it is government land cannot be summarily discarded. We find, upon a perusal of the record, that the appellant had, in fact, filed an execution case for taking over possession of the land, which would demonstrate clearly the admitted position that he was not in possession thereof. Thus, the matter would, in our considered view, require adjudication on its own merits due to various reasons, inter alia, the fact that a new district has been formed after the initial claim of the appellant of being allotted the land in the years 1975-1976/1977-1978. Therefore, the delay of 1537 days reckoned from 01.10.2015 i.e. when the First Appellate Court decreed the suit, includes two years and four months delay in filing a Review Petition (which was itself dismissed on the ground of delay by the First Appellate Court) and of about a year thereafter for filing the Second Appeal before the High Court, in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, which, at the cost of repetition relate to land claimed by the State as government land and in its possession, persuade us to not interfere with the Impugned Order. Relevantly, initially the suit was dismissed by the Trial Court, which decision was reversed by the First Appellate Court.

18. Considering the above pronouncements and on an overall circumspection, we are of the opinion that the Second Appeal deserves to be heard, contested and decided on merits. However, a note of caution is sounded to the respondent to exhibit promptitude in like matters henceforth and in futuro, failing which the Court may not be as liberal.

16. Hence, in view of the ratio laid down by Hon′ble Supreme Court, a lenient view should be taken against the State and its intrumentalities, and owing to the genuine problem, which they face, the Court should take a lenient view while dealing with the condonation the delay. He further submits that in this matter sincere efforts were made by the revenue authorities to avoid the delay but in spite of that, the delay could not be avoided and the same is bona fide and that there is no deliberate lapse on the part of the authorities.

17. Learned counsel, Shri Hemant Kumar Pandey, further submitted that, though sincere efforts were made by the revenue authorities to avoid delay but in spite of that, the delay could not be avoided and the same is bonafide. There is no deliberate lapse on the part of authorities but due to procedures involved, the delay was caused. He further submits that the State is a multi-functioning body and it has to follow the rules of obtaining sanction etc. for filing an appeal, therefore, it took some time for the State to obtain sanction etc. from the highest authorities of the State for preferring this appeal. The delay caused in filing the instant appeal may kindly be condoned on the basis of ratio as laid down in various judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that if the delay is not condoned, as the delay was because of reasons beyond the control of the appellant, then it would be very harsh upon the appellant and it will have far-reaching consequences. He further submits that the delay, which has so occasioned in preferring the instant appeal was procedural and unintentional, hence the same may be condoned and the instant appeal may be heard on merit.

Analysis

19. Looking into the facts of this case, it is apparent that the plaintiffs (respondents) were in a business of manufacturing bricks and used to supply to the defendants. An order was placed by the defendants to supply 35,000 best quality bricks at the rate of Rs.875/- per thousand. As per order the plaintiff supplied 35,000 bricks, however, the defendant no.4 further directed him to provide additional 8,000 bricks and all the bricks were provided and transported, unloaded and stacked in the office of the defendant no.2 on 07.03.1992. At that point of time, defendant no.1 returned 15,024 bricks, which were not upto the mark, however, the defendant retained 28,476 bricks, which according to the agreement were valued Rs.24,966.50/-and as per agreement entire payment has to be made within three months. Accordingly the last date of payment is 27.06.1992, but the defendants chose not to pay the same. Since the payment was not made, the plaintiff preferred a suit for recovery against defendants being Civil Suit No.108 of 1995, which was decreed vide order dated 15.05.2000.

20. This order was assailed by the appellants by filing civil appeal before the Additional District Judge, Lakhimpur Kheri and the appeal was filed with the delay of more than about 16 months and the appellate court vide order dated 23.07.2003 was pleased to dismissed the appeal on the ground of delay as well as on merits.

21. This appellate order was challenged after a delay of about 11 months by preferring a civil revision before this Court being Civil Revision No.61 of 2004, which was dismissed on the ground of maintainability, however, a liberty was granted to the appellants to approach any other forum. Thereafter the appellants have assailed the order passed by the appellate authority by means of the instant second appeal.

22. The Registry of this Court has pointed out a delay of 13 years, 3 months and 26 days (4957 days) in filing this appeal.

23. It was contended, because of wrong advice, a civil revision was filed on 21.04.2004 and the same was kept pending and was dismissed on 18.09.2015. Hence the benefit of this period may be given to the appellants and the delay, because of the pendency of the civil revision, may not be included in the delay as the delay so occasioned was purely technical. The details of the delay in filing the respective cases is as follows :

Case Number	Filed on	Decided on	Gap in filing case	Gap in filing second appeal from decision of first appeal	Days lapse during the period of revision
Regular Suit No.108 of 1995		15.05.2000	N.A.	4957 days	4167 days
Civil Appeal No.230 of 2001	19.12.2001	23.07.2003	583 days
Civil Revision No.61 of 2004	21.04.2004	18.09.2015	273 days
Second Appeal Defective No.87 of 2017	16.02.2017	N.A.	517 days

Days left after reduction of revision period:

Gap in filing Second Appeal after first appeal is: 4957 days minus delay during pendency of civil revision: - 4167 days

minus statutory period of 90 days for filing second appeal:= 700 days

24. Even after granting the benefit the actual delay to condone will be 700 days. Even if this Court do not consider the entire period lapse before final decision of civil revision still there is a delay of 517 days, which requires sufficient explanation for condonation of delay.

25. The aforesaid chart showing the date of filing of various proceedings in the matter shows that throughout the appellant had been casual, lethargic in safeguarding his interest. The application for condonation of delay filed along with this appeal does not show any sufficient cause. However, even an affidavit so filed by the appellant is nothing, but an eye wash. An attempt has been made to explain the delay. The contents of the affidavit cannot be relied on as it is apparent that the same is tailor made just to overcome the delay. In the affidavit, it has been pointed out that Divisional Forest Officer had issued a letter on 26.01.2016.

The date had been filled without applying the mind and realizing that 26.01.2016 happened to be Republic day and all the offices are mandatorily closed on that date. No offices are open or can be opened on the Republic Day.

It is apparent that the reasons given in the affidavit are all fabricated.

Even keeping this issue aside, the original suit was decreed on 15.05.2000 on the basis of some compromise. If the appellants were adversely affect by the order, they ought to have challenged the same within time, but this order was challenged after a gap/lapse of about 583 days and the appeal was also dismissed on the ground of delay. Still the appellant did not get up from slumber and, challenged the same by filing a civil revision against after a further gap/lapse of about 273 days. The matter kept pending in the High Court for about 4167 days and thereafter it was dismissed. Even after dismissal of the revision, which was well within the knowledge of the lawyers of the appellants, instant second appeal has been filed with the gap/lapse of about 517 days. It is not a case that any of the order was passed ex parte. The counsel for the appellants were present before the courts below on each and every proceedings.

The reasons given in the delay condonation application and along with supplementary affidavit are not sufficient. The reasons are engineered. There has been inordinate delay in challenging the civil court′s order, challenging the appellate court′s order and further rejection of the civil revision assailing the civil court′s order in this second appeal, which had not been sufficiently explained in the delay condonation application.

26. Before delving into the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court on limitation, this Court would like to look into Section 5 of the Limitation Act, which reads as under:

"5. Extension of prescribed period in certain cases.- Any appeal or any application, other than an application under any of the provisions of Order XXI of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), may be admitted after the prescribed period, if the appellant or the applicant satisfies the court that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal or making the application within such period.

Explanation.-The fact that the appellant or the applicant was misled by any order, practice or judgment of the High Court in ascertaining or computing the prescribed period may be sufficient cause within the meaning of this section.

27. A plain reading of Section 5 of the Limitation Act clearly shows that an appeal may be admitted after the prescribed period, if the appellant satisfies the court that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within such time.

28. The burden to prove 'sufficient cause' lies on the appellant, who is seeking condonation of delay and he has to prove sufficient cause that the reasons for not approaching the court are real and bonafide and free of negligence. No doubt this expression has been constituted with justice-oriented approach so as to not punish an innocent litigant for circumstances beyond the control. However, the Courts must not condone gross negligence, deliberate inaction, or casual indifference, for to do so would undermine the maxim interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium and destabilise the certainty that limitation law seeks to secure.

29. The length of delay normally is not a deciding factor while condoning the delay rather the conduct of the party seeking condonation of delay should be seen while doing so it should be seen and the court should see whether the party had any reasonable deliberations during the prescribed period. A long delay naturally casts a heavier burden on the applicant to furnish cogent, credible, and convincing explanations. The proof required becomes stricter in proportion to the delay. The longer time elapsed, the stronger the justification must be put forth.

30. Earlier the view of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of G. Ramegowda, Major & Ors. v. Special Land Acquisition Officer, Bangalore, reported in (1988) 2 SCC 142 was that a certain degree of latitude must be extended to the State and its instrumentalities in matters concerning the condonation of delay, lest the rigidity of limitation operate to the detriment of public interest. A certain degree of leeway ought to be accorded to the Government and Public Authorities owing to the innate complexities in the way the State apparatus functions. Since the way inherent bureaucracy moves certain laxity should be provided to them.

31. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Chandra Mani (supra) reiterated that some latitude must be shown to the State and its instrumentalities in matters of condonation of delay. It observed that 'the State represents the collective cause of the community' and so a pragmatic view ought to be adopted while dealing with applications for condonation of delay filed by public authorities. It further emphasised that technicalities of limitation should not result in grave injustice to the public interest, especially where the delay was not tainted by mala fides. The relevant observations read as under: -

"11. It is notorious and common knowledge that delay in more than 60 per cent of the cases filed in this Court - be it by private party or the State - are barred by limitation and this Court generally adopts liberal approach in condonation of delay finding somewhat sufficient cause to decide the appeal on merits. It is equally common knowledge that litigants including the State are accorded the same treatment and the law is administered in an even-handed manner. When the State is an applicant, praying for condonation of delay, it is common knowledge that on account of impersonal machinery and the inherited bureaucratic methodology imbued with the note-making, file-pushing, and passing-on-the-buck ethos, delay on the part of the State is less difficult to understand though more difficult to approve, but the State represents collective cause of the community. It is axiomatic that decisions are taken by officers/agencies proverbially at slow pace and encumbered process of pushing the files from table to table and keeping it on table for considerable time causing delay - intentional or otherwise - is a routine. Considerable delay of procedural red-tape in the process of their making decision is a common feature. Therefore, certain amount of latitude is not impermissible. If the appeals brought by the State are lost for such default no person is individually affected but what in the ultimate analysis suffers, is public interest. The expression "sufficient cause" should, therefore, be considered with pragmatism in justice-oriented approach rather than the technical detection of sufficient cause for explaining every day's delay. The factors which are peculiar to and characteristic of the functioning of the governmental conditions would be cognizant to and requires adoption of pragmatic approach in justice- oriented process. The court should decide the matters on merits unless the case is hopelessly without merit. No separate standards to determine the cause laid by the State vis-a-vis private litigant could be laid to prove strict standards of sufficient cause. The Government at appropriate level should constitute legal cells to examine the cases whether any legal principles are involved for decision by the courts or whether cases require adjustment and should authorise the officers to take a decision or give appropriate permission for settlement. In the event of decision to file appeal needed prompt action should be pursued by the officer responsible to file the appeal and he should be made personally responsible for lapses, if any. Equally, the State cannot be put on the same footing as an individual. The individual would always be quick in taking the decision whether he would pursue the remedy by way of an appeal or application since he is a person legally injured while State is an impersonal machinery working through its officers or servants. Considered from this perspective, it must be held that the delay of 109 days in this case has been explained and that it is a fit case for condonation of the delay."

(Emphasis added)

32. Thereafter, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Special Tehsildar, Land Acquisition v. K.V. Ayisumma, reported in (1996) 10 SCC 634 held that since the State represents the collective cause of the public, any delay on its part ought not to be viewed through the same lens as that of a private party. It observed that adoption of a strict standard of proof in respect of the State or its instrumentalities, where no one takes personal responsibility in processing the matters expeditiously, would lead to grave miscarriage of public justice. Thus, it held that in such circumstances, the correct approach to be adopted is to be pragmatic and condone the delay without insisting upon explaining every day's delay. The relevant observations read as under: -

"2. It is now settled law that when the delay was occasioned at the behest of the Government, it would be very difficult to explain the day-to-day delay. The transaction of the business of the Government was being done leisurely by officers who had no or evince no personal interest at different levels. No one takes personal responsibility in processing the matters expeditiously. As a fact at several stages, they take their own time to reach a decision. Even in spite of pointing at the delay, they do not take expeditious action for ultimate decision in filing the appeal. This case is one of such instances. It is true that Section 5 of the Limitation Act envisages explanation of the delay to the satisfaction of the court and in matters of Limitation Act made no distinction between the State and the citizen. Nonetheless adoption of strict standard of proof leads to grave miscarriage of public justice. It would result in public mischief by skilful management of delay in the process of filing the appeal. The approach of the Court should be pragmatic but not pedantic. Under those circumstances, the Subordinate Judge has rightly adopted correct approach and had condoned the delay without insisting upon explaining every day's delay in filing the review application in the light of the law laid down by this Court. The High Court was not right in setting aside the order. Delay was rightly condoned."

33. Then in the matter of State of Nagaland v. Lipok AO, reported in (2005) 3 SCC 752, Hon'ble Supreme Court acknowledged the bureaucratic realities that on account of delay in governmental decision-making. It held that deference must be shown to the fact that governmental actions are "conducted by officers who cannot act on their own but must obtain approvals at different levels," and thus, the element of delay is almost "inbuilt in the governmental decision-making process." Accordingly, it held that factors which are peculiar to and characteristic of the functioning of the governmental conditions requires adoption of pragmatic and justice-oriented approach by the courts in matters pertaining to condonation of delay. The relevant observations read as under: -

"13. Experience shows that on account of an impersonal machinery (no one in charge of the matter is directly hit or hurt by the judgment sought to be subjected to appeal) and the inherited bureaucratic methodology imbued with the note making, file-pushing, and passing-on-the-buck ethos, delay on its part is less difficult to understand though more difficult to approve. The State which represents collective cause of the community, does not deserve a litigant-non-grata status. The courts, therefore, have to be informed with the spirit and philosophy of the provision in the course of the interpretation of the expression of sufficient cause. Merit is preferred to scuttle a decision on merits in turning down the case on technicalities of delay in presenting the appeal. Delay as accordingly condoned, the order was set aside and the matter was remitted to the High Court for disposal on merits after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties. In Prabha v. Ram Parkash Kalra [1987 Supp SCC 339] this Court had held that the court should not adopt an injustice-oriented approach in rejecting the application for condonation of delay. The appeal was allowed, the delay was condoned and the matter was remitted for expeditious disposal in accordance with law.

15. It is axiomatic that decisions are taken by officers/agencies proverbially at a slow pace and encumbered process of pushing the files from table to table and keeping it on the table for considerable time causing delay - intentional or otherwise - is a routine. Considerable delay of procedural red tape in the process of their making decision is a common feature. Therefore, certain amount of latitude is not impermissible. If the appeals brought by the State are lost for such default no person is individually affected but what in the ultimate analysis suffers, is public interest. The expression "sufficient cause" should, therefore, be considered with pragmatism in a justice-oriented approach rather than the technical detection of sufficient cause for explaining every day's delay. The factors which are peculiar to and characteristic of the functioning of the governmental conditions would be cognizant to and requires adoption of pragmatic approach in justice-oriented process. The court should decide the matters on merits unless the case is hopelessly without merit. No separate standards to determine the cause laid by the State vis-a-vis private litigant could be laid to prove strict standards of sufficient cause. The Government at appropriate level should constitute legal cells to examine the cases whether any legal principles are involved for decision by the courts or whether cases require adjustment and should authorise the officers to take a decision or give appropriate permission for settlement. In the event of decision to file appeal, needed prompt action should be pursued by the officer responsible to file the appeal and he should be made personally responsible for lapses, if any. Equally, the State cannot be put on the same footing as an individual. The individual would always be quick in taking the decision whether he would pursue the remedy by way of an appeal or application since he is a person legally injured while the State is an impersonal machinery working through its officers or servants.

34. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Chandra Mani (supra) and Lipok AO (supra) explicitly held that the State or any of its instrumentalities cannot be put on the same footing as that of a private party for the purposes of condonation of delay under Section 5 of the Limitation Act. It observed that an individual would always be quick in taking the decision whether he would pursue the remedy by way of an appeal or application since he is a person legally injured while the State is an impersonal machinery working through its officers or servants, bound by bureaucratic methodology. Thus, it held that although equality before law is sacrosanct, equality does not mandate a refusal to recognise institutional realities.

35. However, what is equally significant to note is that the aforesaid observations of this Court in Chandra Mani (supra) and Lipok AO (supra) were accompanied by a clear message to the State and all its instrumentalities, that a leisurely and lethargic approach cannot continue for all times to come. The State and all public authorities were directed to constitute legal cells to examine the cases whether any legal principles are involved for decision by the courts, if not then the endeavour should be made towards arriving at a settlement instead, rather than reagitating the belated causes before the courts. It further observed that where the case requires an appeal or application to be filed, despite the delay, then prompt action should be taken by the officer responsible to file the appeal and he should be made personally responsible for lapses, if any.

36. For a long period, the Court has noticed the lethargic and apathetic manner in which appeals are filed by the State and its instrumentalities. Such conduct of dilatory tactics and a bureaucratic approach has become the order of the day. Almost every second matter filed by the State is accompanied by an application for condonation of delay. It is then the Apex court took a divergent stand then what was taken earlier.

37. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Postmaster General and others v. Living Media India Limited and another, reported in (2012) 3 SCC 563 has held as under:

"27. It is not in dispute that the person(s) concerned were well aware or conversant with the issues involved including the prescribed period of limitation for taking up the matter by way of filing a special leave petition in this Court. They cannot claim that they have a separate period of limitation when the Department was possessed with competent persons familiar with court proceedings. In the absence of plausible and acceptable explanation, we are posing a question why the delay is to be condoned mechanically merely because the Government or a wing of the Government is a party before us.

28. Though we are conscious of the fact that in a matter of condonation of delay when there was no gross negligence or deliberate inaction or lack of bonafide, a liberal concession has to be adopted to advance substantial justice, we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances, the Department cannot take advantage of various earlier decisions. The claim on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. The law of limitation undoubtedly binds everybody including the Government.

29. In our view, it is the right time to inform all the government bodies, their agencies and instrumentalities that unless they have reasonable and acceptable explanation for the delay and there was bonafide effort, there is no need to accept the usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red-tape in the process. The government departments are under a special obligation to ensure that they perform their duties with diligence and commitment. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as an anticipated benefit for government departments. The law shelters everyone under the same light and should not be swirled for the benefit of a few."

38. In this judgement, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has clearly held that no delay can be condoned mechanically. The delay on account of impersonal machinery and inherited bureaucratic methodology of making several notes cannot be accepted in view of the modern technologies being used and available. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has also clearly held that the law of limitation undoubtedly binds everybody including the Government equally. Condonation of delay is an exception and should not be used as a benefit for the government departments.

39. From the aforesaid, it is manifest that prior to the decision of Hon′ble Supreme Court in Postmaster General (supra), the approach was characterised by judicial sympathy towards the State and its instrumentalities in matters of condonation of delay, owing to the peculiar nature of their functioning. At the same time, there also existed contrary views such as State of West Bengal Vs. The Administrator, Howrah Municipality, reported in [1972] 2 SCR 874. and Lanka Venkateswarlu v. State of A.P., reported in (2011) 4 SCC 363 which held that, irrespective of whether the litigant is a Government entity or a private individual, the provisions of limitation would apply uniformly, and any leeway shown by the courts would also remain the same.

40. In State of Madhya Pradesh & Ors. v. Bherulal, reported in (2020) 10 SCC 654, Hon′ble Supreme Court expressed its deep anguish over the routine manner in which the State and its instrumentalities continue to seek condonation of delay on the pretext of bureaucratic inefficiencies. It held that the earlier decisions that had afforded a degree of leeway for such inefficiencies no longer reflects the correct position of law insofar as condonation of delay is concerned. It was further held that in view of the decision of Postmaster General (supra), any delay as a result of unavailability of the documents or the process of arranging them through bureaucratic process is no longer an acceptable "reason or excuse" to condone such delay.

41. A similar view was reiterated by Hon′ble Supreme Court in Government of Maharashtra (Water Resources Department) represented by Executive Engineer v. Borse Brothers Engineers and Contractors Pvt. Ltd., reported in (2021) 6 SCC 460, wherein the Court placing reliance on Postmaster General (supra) held that a different yardstick for condonation of delay cannot be laid down merely because the Government is involved. The relevant observations read as under: -

"59. Likewise, merely because the Government is involved, a different yardstick for condonation of delay cannot be laid down. This was felicitously stated in Postmaster General v. Living Media (India) Ltd."

(Emphasis added)

42. In State of Odisha & Ors. v. Sunanda Mahakuda, reported in (2021) 11 SCC 560, Hon′ble Supreme Court held that the leeway which was earlier enjoyed by the State and its instrumentalities on account of bureaucratic inefficiencies in matters of condonation of delay is no longer available in view of the technological advancement and the shift in jurisprudence as elucidated in Postmaster General (supra). It observed that no case under Section 5 of the Limitation Act could be said to be made out where there is no reason or excuse given in respect of the period for which condonation is sought.

43. Similarly, in State of U.P. v. Sabha Narain, reported in (2022) 9 SCC 266, Hon′ble Supreme Court once again deprecated the tendency of State and its instrumentalities to proceed on the assumption that they may approach the courts at their own convenience and sweet will, disregarding the period of limitation prescribed by statute, as though the Limitation statute does not apply to them. It held that the leeway which was at one point extended to the Government/public authorities on account of innate functional inefficiencies is no more the norm, particularly in the wake of the decision of Postmaster General (supra). The relevant observations read as under: -

"3. We have repeatedly discouraged State Governments and public authorities in adopting an approach that they can walk in to the Supreme Court as and when they please ignoring the period of limitation prescribed by the statutes, as if the Limitation statute does not apply to them. In this behalf, suffice to refer to our judgments in State of M.P. v. Bherulal [State of M.P. v. Bherulal, (2020) 10 SCC 654 : (2021) 1 SCC (Cri) 117 : (2021) 1 SCC (Civ) 101 : (2021) 1 SCC (L&S) 84] and State of Odisha v. Sunanda Mahakuda [State of Odisha v. Sunanda Mahakuda, (2021) 11 SCC 560 : (2022) 1 SCC (Cri) 300 : (2022) 2 SCC (L&S) 393] . The leeway which was given to the Government/public authorities on account of innate inefficiencies was the result of certain orders of this Court which came at a time when technology had not advanced and thus, greater indulgence was shown. This position is no more prevalent and the current legal position has been elucidated by the judgment of this Court in Postmaster General v. Living Media India Ltd. [Postmaster General v. Living Media India Ltd., (2012) 3 SCC 563 : (2012) 2 SCC (Civ) 327 : (2012) 2 SCC (Cri) 580 : (2012) 1 SCC (L&S) 649] Despite this, there seems to be little change in the approach of the Government and public authorities."

(Emphasis added)

44. In Union of India v. Jahangir Byramji Jeejeebhoy, reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 489, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that it hardly matters whether a litigant is a private party or a State or Union of India when it comes to condoning a gross delay in filing of an appeal or application, as the case may be. It held that unless the Department has reasonable and acceptable reason for the delay and there was bona fide effort, there is no need to accept the usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process. The relevant observations read as under: -

"25. It hardly matters whether a litigant is a private party or a State or Union of India when it comes to condoning the gross delay of more than 12 years. If the litigant chooses to approach the court long after the lapse of the time prescribed under the relevant provisions of the law, then he cannot turn around and say that no prejudice would be caused to either side by the delay being condoned. This litigation between the parties started sometime in 1981. We are in 2024. Almost 43 years have elapsed. However, till date the respondent has not been able to reap the fruits of his decree. It would be a mockery of justice if we condone the delay of 12 years and 158 days and once again ask the respondent to undergo the rigmarole of the legal proceedings.

27. We are of the view that the question of limitation is not merely a technical consideration. The rules of limitation are based on the principles of sound public policy and principles of equity. We should not keep the 'Sword of Damocles' hanging over the head of the respondent for indefinite period of time to be determined at the whims and fancies of the appellants.

30. In Postmaster General v. Living Media India Limited, (2012) 3 SCC 563, this Court, while dismissing the application for condonation of delay of 427 days in filing the Special Leave Petition, held that condonation of delay is not an exception and it should not be used as an anticipated benefit for the government departments. In that case, this Court held that unless the Department has reasonable and acceptable reason for the delay and there was bona fide effort, there is no need to accept the usual explanation that the file was kept pending for several months/years due to considerable degree of procedural red tape in the process cannot be accepted. [...]

45. In this judgement the Apex court had further held that when it comes to Section 5 of the Limitation Act, delay should not be excused as a matter of generosity. Rendering substantial justice is not a free-pass to cause prejudice to the opposite party. The vital test for condoning the delay is for the party that is praying for such condonation to prove that it was reasonably diligent in prosecuting the matter.

46. Once the State chooses to litigate, it must shoulder the same responsibilities and abide by the same limitations that bind every litigant. To permit the State to evade the consequences of delay on the ostensible plea that the fault lay with individual officers would amount to diluting the rigour of limitation statutes and undermining their very object. Such an approach would not only privilege the State unjustly over private parties but would also perpetuate a culture of indifference and irresponsibility within the administration.

47. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the latest judgement passed in the matter of Shivamma (Dead) by L.Rs. vs. Karnataka Housing Board and Ors., reported in MANU/SC/1262/2025 has held as under:

"261. Thus, for the reasons aforesaid, the impugned order of the High Court deserves to be set aside. Before we proceed to close this judgment, we deem it appropriate to make it abundantly clear that administrative lethargy and laxity can never stand as a sufficient ground for condonation of delay, and we want to convey an emphatic message to all the High Courts that delays shall not be condoned on frivolous and superficial grounds, until a proper case of sufficient cause is made out, wherein the State-machinery is able to establish that it acted with bona fides and remained vigilant all throughout. Procedure is a handmaid to justice, as is famously said. But courts, and more particularly the constitutional courts, ought not to obviate the procedure for a litigating State agency, who also equally suffer the bars of limitation from pursuing litigations due to its own lackadaisical attitude.

262. The High Courts ought not give a legitimizing effect to such callous attitude of State authorities or its instrumentalities, and should remain extra cautious, if the party seeking condonation of delay is a State-authority. They should not become surrogates for State laxity and lethargy. The constitutional courts ought to be cognizant of the apathy and pangs of a private litigant. Litigants cannot be placed in situations of perpetual litigations, wherein the fruits of their decrees or favourable orders are frustrated at later stages. We are at pains to reiterate this everlasting trend, and put all the High Courts to notice, not to reopen matters with inordinate delay, until sufficient cause exists, as by doing so the courts only add insult to the injury, more particularly in appeals under Section 100 of the Code of Civil Procedure, wherein its jurisdiction is already limited to questions of law.

263. Limitation periods are prescribed to maintain a sweeping scope for the lis to attain for finality. More than the importance of judicial time, what worries us is the plight of a litigant with limited means, who is to contest against an enormous State, and its elaborate and never-exhausting paraphernalia. Such litigations deserve to be disposed of at the very threshold, because, say if a party litigating against the State, for whatever reason, is unable to contest the condonation of delay in appeal, unlike the present case, it reopens the lis for another round of litigation, and leaves such litigant listless yet again. As courts of conscience, it is our obligation that we assure that a litigant is not sent from pillar to post to seek justice.

264. No litigant should be permitted to be so lethargic and apathetic, much less be permitted by the courts to misuse the process of law."

48. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in this judgement has clearly stated that administrative lethargy and laxity can never stand as a sufficient ground for condonation of delay, and it shall not be condoned on frivolous and superficial grounds, until a proper case of sufficient cause is made out, wherein the State-machinery is able to prove that they have acted with bona fides and remained vigilant in pursuing the lis throughout and for some unforeseen reason, the appeal could not be filed then only the delay can be condoned.

49. In this judgement the Apex Court has further held that, no court, especially a constitutional court, shall obviate the procedure applicable to a litigating State and its instrumentalities, which must be placed on the same footing as other litigants when it comes to applications under the Limitation Act.

50. In light of the ratio laid down by latest judgement passed Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Shivamma (Dead) by LRs (supra), it is clear that limitation laws are themselves grounded in public policy, as already discussed in the preceding paragraphs of this judgment, it is based on the maxim 'interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium' i.e., "it is for the general welfare that a period be put to litigation". Therefore, public interest is better served by timely governmental action than by condoning repeated lapses. State cannot simultaneously seek to represent the interest of the public and yet consistently fail to protect that very interest by allowing limitation periods to lapse.

51. Public interest is best served by ensuring efficiency and diligence in governmental functioning, rather than by condoning its lapses as a matter of course. Thus, a liberal inclination towards the State or any of its instrumentalities, in matters of condonation of delay, cannot be adopted. Merely on the presumption that, if the delay is not condoned, public interest runs the risk of a meritorious matter being thrown out. Public interest lies not in condoning governmental indifference, but in compelling efficiency, responsibility, and timely action.

52. To allow condonation of delay as a matter of course, for the Government would have the deleterious effect of institutionalising inefficiency. It would, in substance, incentivise indolence and foster a culture where accountability for delay is eroded. If the State is assured that its lapses will invariably be excused under the rubric of "public interest," there would remain little incentive for its officers to act with vigilance or for its instrumentalities to streamline procedures for timely action. The consequence would not be the advancement of public interest but rather its betrayal.

53. The Hon'ble Supreme Court earlier had laid down that the lenient view should be taken for condonation of delay, if the same is filed on behalf of the State and its instrumentalities on the ground that refusal might affect a meritorious matter. Public interest is not synonymous with the cause of the Government; it is, instead, synonymous with the enforcement of rule of law, certainty in legal rights, and an administrative machinery that functions with diligence and accountability. Hence, refusal to entertain meritorious matter, would not be a touchstone for the condonation of delay.

54. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Shivamma (Dead) by LRs (supra) has held that the guiding principle is not the protection of governmental indifference but the promotion of responsible governance. The State is under a higher duty to act in time, for in every matter it litigates, it does so not in its private capacity, but as the trustee of the people's interest. Hence, repeated indulgence in condoning delays on grounds of bureaucratic inefficiency would amount to eroding the very object of limitation statutes, which are enacted in every civilised jurisdiction for the sake of finality, certainty, and public order.

55. If the State is granted a special treatment when he comes for condonation of delay then it will deviate the object of the Limitation Act and would further encourage the State and its officers' inaction and casual behaviour. The earlier ratio if followed would give the officer a "carte blanche" power to act against the public. Hon'ble Supreme Court has further held that the delay cannot be condoned, merely because, not doing so would result in non-suiting the State and thereby run the ostensible risk of public interest suffering. Such by no stretch can be the sole consideration for the purpose of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, as to do so would be to ignore the provision of Section 3 and the overarching public policy of giving "quietus to lis", that forms the bedrock of the Limitation Act.

56. While dealing with an application for condonation of delay, the vital test is whether "sufficient cause" has been made out. However, in cases involving bureaucratic inefficiency, the Court must examine whether there is a valid explanation for the delay or merely an excuse has been set up. Though the two concepts may sometimes overlap, there is a fine distinction between a genuine explanation and a mere excuse, which the appellant is required to establish satisfactorily.

57. Whenever an explanation in an application for condonation of delay refers to bureaucratic delay and the inherent complexities of governmental decision-making, the same would, in most cases, fall within the ambit of an "excuse. Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Postmaster General (supra) and Shivamma (Dead) by LRs (supra) as well as in several other judgments has held that where there is bureaucratic lethargy or red-tapism, the Court must examine whether there exists a genuine reason and whether there was due promptitude in the conduct of the officers. However, where the Court finds that the explanation is merely an excuse to cover up the delay, or that the delay is attributable to gross negligence, deliberate inaction, lack of bona fides, or a casual approach, the Court ought to adopt a strict view while dealing with an application for condonation of delay.

58. In the present case, the appeal arose out of a very trivial matter. The appellants placed an order for supply of bricks, which plaintiffs/respondent had supplied, but when the money was not paid, the plaintiff/respondent filed a suit for recovery, which was allowed and a decree of Rs.24,966/- was passed. Subsequently a civil appeal was filed with the delay of almost 16 months and the same was dismissed on 23.07.2003 and again a civil revision was wrongly filed that too with a gap/lapse of about 273 days on 21.04.2004, which was dismissed as not maintainable and then again instant second appeal has been filed on 16.02.2017 with a delay of almost 517 days challenging the order dated 23.07.2003. Apparently there was a gap/lapse of about 4957 days in filing instant second appeal. Even giving benefit to the appellant for challenging the same before wrong a forum, still the present appeal is delayed by about 700 days and the reasons for condonation of delay are not sufficient rather the reasons shown is nothing but an eye wash and present appeal has been filed after thought. The affidavit filed in support of the application for condonation of delay shows that the Divisional Forest Officer written a letter on 26.01.2016 is not sufficient. Rather it seems a subsequent efforts has been done to fill in the lacuna by filing Supplementary Affidavit and while doing so the reasons stated cannot be trusted.

The date had been filled without applying the mind and realizing that 26.01.2016 had happened Republic day and all the offices are mandatorily closed on that date. No offices are open or can be opened on the Republic Day.

59. Since the rule of limitation are based on principle of sound public policy, hence it cannot be contended in a mechanical manner. The appellant has been pursuing a trivial issue of Rs.24,966/- upto this Court. All the proceedings initiated after the dismissal of the civil suit have been filed with the delay.

60. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, since sufficient cause is not made out for condonation of delay in filing second appeal, the application for condonation of delay is rejected.

61. Consequently, this second appeal is also dismissed.

Filing of Trivial & Frivolous cases

62. Apparently, present appeal is a perfect example of delay, callous approach of the appellant on trivial issue a decree of Rs.24,966/- had been challenged by the appellant in three various forums. It would not be incorrect to say that the State Government may have incurred litigation expenses exceeding the decretal amount awarded against it. This case has also been argued at length before this Court. It is high time until and unless an exemplary cost is imposed on the State, nothing is going to change.

63. Filing of trivial and frivolous litigation is a menace, which the Court had been facing, to curb the problem of legal pendency and to curb the filing of trivial and frivolous cases, the National Litigation Policy for the Centre and States was evolved at All India Law Ministers Conference in the year 1972, this was followed by the report of the Law Commission of India, which in its 54th had reported that, there should not be unnecessary litigation or appeals.

64. Thereafter Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dilbagh Rai Jerry v. Union of India, reported in (1974) 3 SCC 554 considered as to what should be the approach of Government in litigation to curb this problem and observed as under:

"The judgment just delivered has my full concurrence but I feel impelled to make a few observations not on the merits but on governmental disposition to litigation, the present case being symptomatic of a serious deficiency. In this country the State is the largest litigant to-day and the huge expenditure involved makes a big draft on the public exchequer. In the context of expanding dimensions of State activity and responsibility, is it unfair to expect finer sense and sensibility in its litigation policy, the absence of which, in the present case, has led the Railway callously and cantankerously to resist an action by its own employee, a small man, by urging a mere technical plea which has been pursued right up to the summit court here and has been negatived in the judgment just pronounced. Instances of this type are legion as is evidenced by the fact that the Law Commission of India in a recent report on amendments to the Civil Procedure Code has suggested the deletion of Section 80, finding that wholesome provision hardly ever utilised by Government, and has gone further to provide a special procedure for government litigation to highlight the need for an activist policy of just settlement of claims where the State is a party. It is not right for a welfare' State like ours to be Janus-faced, and while formulating the humanist project of legal aid to the poor, contest the claims of poor employees under it pleading limitation and the like. That the tendency is chronic flows from certain observations I had made in a Kerala High Court decision which I may usefully excerpt here "The State, under our Constitution, undertakes economic activities in a vast and widening public sector and inevitably gets involved in disputes with private individuals. But it must be remembered that the State is no ordinary party trying to win a case against one of its own citizens by hook or by crook; for the State's interest is to meet honest claims, vindicate a substantial defence and never to score a technical point or overreach a weaker party to avoid a just liability or secure an unfair advantage, simply because legal devices provide such an opportunity. The State is a virtuous litigant and looks with unconcern on immoral forensic successes so that if on the merits the case is weak, government shows a willingness to settle the dispute regardless of prestige and other lesser motivations which move, private parties to fight in court. The lay-out on litigation costs and executive time by the State and its agencies is so staggering these days because of the large amount of litigation in which it is involved that a positive and wholesome policy of cutting back on the volume of law suits by the twin methods of not being tempted into forensic show-downs where a reasonable adjustment is feasible and ever offering to extinguish a pending proceeding on just terms, giving the legal mentors of government some initiative and authority in this behalf. I am not indulging in any judicial homily but only echoing the dynamic national policy on State litigation evolved at a Conference of Law Ministers of India way back in 1957. This second appeal strikes me as an instance of disregard of that policy."

65. Thereafter in the case of Mundrika Prasad Singh v. State of Bihar, reported in (1979) 4 SCC 701, Hon'ble Supreme Court held as under:

"5. The State of Bihar, like many other States in the country, has an enormous volume of litigation. Government litigation policy is vital for any State if resources are to be husbanded to reduce rather than increase its involvement in court proceedings. It is lamentable that despite a national litigation policy for the States having been evolved at an all-India Law Ministers' Conference way back in 1957 and despite the recommendations of the Central Law Commission to promote settlement of disputes where Government is a party what we find in actual practice is a proliferation of government cases in courts uninformed by any such policy. Indeed, in this country where government litigation constitutes a sizeable bulk of the total volume, it is important that the State should be a model litigant with accent on settlement. The Central Law Commission, recalling a Kerala decision, emphasised this aspect in 1973 and went to the extent of recommending a new provision to be read as Order 27 Rule 5B."

(Emphasis added)

66. However, the litigation policy was not followed, the Law Commission of India in its 126th Report (1988) adversely commented upon the reckless manner in which appeals are filed routinely. The relevant paragraphs of the law Commission Report is as follows:

"2.5. The litigation is thus sometimes engendered by failing to perform duty as if discharging a trust. Power inheres a kind of trust. The State enjoys the power to deal with public property. That power has to be discharged like a trust keeping in view the interests of the cesti que trust. Failure on this front has been more often commented upon by the court which, if it was taken in the spirit in which it was made, would have long back energised the Government and the public sector to draw up its litigation policy. When entirely frivolous litigation reaches the doorsteps of the Supreme Court, one feels exasperated by the inaction and the policy of do nothingness evidenced by blindly following litigation from court to court. Dismissing a Special Leave Petition by the State of Punjab, the Court observed that the deserved defeat of the State in the courts below demonstrates the gross indifference of the administration towards litigative diligence. The court then suggested effective remedial measures. It may be extracted:

We would like to emphasize that Government must be made accountable by parliamentary Social audit for wasteful litigative expenditure inflicted on the community by inaction. A statutory notice of the proposed action under Section 80 CPC is intended to alert the state to negotiate a just settlement or at least have the courtesy to tell the potential outsider why the claim is being resisted. Now Section 80 has become a ritual because the administration is often unresponsive and hardly lives up to parliament's expectation in continuing Section 80 in the Code despite the Central Law Commission's recommendations for its deletion. An opportunity for setting the dispute through arbitration was thrown away by sheer inaction. A litigative policy for the State involves settlement of governmental disputes with citizens in a sense of conciliation rather than in a fighting mood. Indeed, it should be a directive on the part of the State to empower its law officer to take steps to compose disputes rather than continue them in court. We are constrained to make these observations because much of the litigation in which governments are involved adds to the case load accumulation in courts for which there is public criticism. We hope that a more responsive spirit will be brought to bear upon governmental litigation so as to avoid waste of public money and promote expeditious work in courts of cases which deserve to be attended to."

67. Decades have passed, but nothing moved time and again, the constitutional courts lamented about the frivolous appeals/petitions being filed by the Government agencies. However, there was no affect on the bureaucratic psyche. It was not that there is no realization at the level of policy makers to curtail unwanted Government litigation, but the ground reality is completely contrary. Appeals after appeals have been filed by the Government agencies on trivial issues. It should not even succeed on the test of legality, but still were filed for various reasons.

68. It was only in 2010 the Central Government formulated National Litigation Policy, with the "vision/mission" to transform the Government into an efficient and responsible litigant. This policy formulated by the Central Government is based on the recognition that it was its primary responsibility to protect the rights of citizens, and to respect their fundamental rights and in the process it should become "responsible litigant". The policy even defines the expression 'responsible litigant' as under:

"Responsible litigant" means-

(i) That litigation will not be resorted to for the sake of litigating.

(ii) That false pleas and technical points will not be taken and shall be discouraged.

(iii) Ensuring that the correct facts and all relevant documents will be placed before the Court.

(iv) That nothing will be suppressed from the Court and there will not attempt to mislead any court or tribunal.

2. That Government must cease to be a compulsive litigant. The philosophy that matters should be left to the courts for ultimate decision has to be discarded. The easy approach, "Let the Court decide", must be eschewed and condemned.

3. The purpose underlying this policy is also to reduce government litigation in courts so that valuable court time would be spent in resolving other pending cases so as to achieve the goal in the national legal mission to reduce average pendency time from 15 years to 3 years. Litigators on behalf of the Government have to keep in mind the principles incorporated in the national mission for judicial reforms which includes identifying bottlenecks which the Government and its agencies may be concerned with and also removing unnecessary government cases.

Prioritisation in litigation has to be achieved with particular emphasis on welfare legislation, social reform, weaker sections and senior citizens and other categories requiring assistance must be given utmost priority."

(Emphasis added)

69. This policy recognises the fact that its success will depend upon its strict implementation. Pertinently there is even a provision of accountability on the part of the officers who have to take requisite steps in this behalf.

70. In the matter of Urban Improvement Trust, Bikaner v. Mohan Lal, reported in (2010) 1 SCC 512, Hon'ble Supreme Court took notice of unwarranted litigation by Governments and State authorities and held as under:

"10. Unwarranted litigation by governments and statutory authorities basically stem from the two general baseless assumptions by their officers. They are:

(i) All claims against the government/ statutory authorities should be viewed as illegal and should be resisted and fought up to the highest court of the land.

(ii) If taking a decision on an issue could be avoided, then it is prudent not to decide the issue and let the aggrieved party approach the Court and secures a decision.

The reluctance to take decisions, or tendency to challenge all orders against them, is not the policy of the governments or statutory authorities, but is attributable to some officers who are responsible for taking decisions and/or officers in charge of litigation. Their reluctance arises from an instinctive tendency to protect themselves against any future accusations of wrong decision making, or worse, of improper motives for any decision making. Unless their insecurity and fear is addressed, officers will continue to pass on the responsibility of decision-making to courts and Tribunals.

11. The Central Government is now attempting to deal with this issue by formulating realistic and practical norms for defending cases filed against the government and for filing appeals and revisions against adverse decisions, thereby, eliminating unnecessary litigation. But, it is not sufficient if the Central Government alone undertakes such an exercise. The State Governments and the statutory authorities, who have more litigations than the Central Government, should also make genuine efforts to eliminate unnecessary litigation. Vexatious and unnecessary litigations have been clogging the wheels of justice, for too long making it difficult for courts and Tribunals to provide easy and speedy access to justice to bona fide and needy litigants."

71. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter case of Gurgaon Gramin Bank v. Khajani, reported in (2012) 8 SCC 781, considered the approach of Government to litigate in small and trivial matters and held as under:

"2. Number of litigations in our country is on the rise, for small and trivial matters, people and sometimes Central and State Governments and their instrumentalities Banks, nationalized or private, come to courts may be due to ego clash or to save the Officers' skin. Judicial system is over-burdened, naturally causes delay in adjudication of disputes. Mediation centers opened in various parts of our country have, to some extent, eased the burden of the courts but we are still in the tunnel and the light is far away. On more than one occasion, this Court has reminded the Central Government, State Governments and other instrumentalities as well as to the various banking institutions to take earnest efforts to resolve the disputes at their end. At times, some give and take attitude should be adopted or both will sink. Unless, serious questions of law of general importance arise for consideration or a question which affects a large number of persons or the stakes are very high, courts' jurisdiction cannot be invoked for resolution of small and trivial matters*."*

(Emphasis added)

72. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Punjab State Power Corporation Limited Patiala and others v. Atma Singh Grewal, reported in (2014) 13 SCC 666 held as under:

"13. Alas, inspite of the Government's own policy and reprimand from this Court, on numerous occasions, there is no significant positive effect on various Government officials who continue to take decision to file frivolous and vexatious appeals. It imposes unnecessary burden on the Courts. The opposite party which has succeeded in the Court below is also made to incur avoidable expenditure. Further, it causes delay in allowing the successful litigant to reap the fruits of the judgment rendered by the Court below.

14. No doubt, when a case is decided in favour of a party, the Court can award cost as well in his favour. It is stressed by this Court that such cost should be in real and compensatory terms and not merely symbolic. There can be exemplary costs as well when the appeal is completely devoid of any merit. [See Rameshwari Devi and Ors. v. Nirmala Devi and Ors.; (2011) 8 SCC 249]. However, the moot question is as to whether imposition of costs alone will prove deterrent? We don't think so. We are of the firm opinion that imposition of cost on the State/ PSU's alone is not going to make much difference as the officers taking such irresponsible decisions to file appeals are not personally affected because of the reason that cost, if imposed, comes from the government's coffers. Time has, therefore, come to take next step viz. recovery of cost from such officers who take such frivolous decisions of filing appeals, even after knowing well that these are totally vexatious and uncalled for appeals. We clarify that such an order of recovery of cost from the concerned officer be passed only in those cases where appeal is found to be ex-facie frivolous and the decision to file the appeal is also found to be palpably irrational and uncalled for."

73. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Pandurang Vithal Kevne v. Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited and another; Special Leave Petition (Civil) Diary No.56230 of 2024 held as under:

"18. The petitioner's repeated and frivolous litigation has wasted the court's valuable time and resources. It is in interest of justice that genuine and timely claims are addressed efficiently, without being hindered by such unscrupulous litigation. We may refer here an observation given by this Court in Subrata Roy Sahara Vs Union of India5: "150. The Indian judicial system is grossly afflicted, with frivolous litigation. Ways and means need to be evolved, to deter litigants from their compulsive obsession, towards senseless and ill-considered claims. One needs to keep in mind, that in the process of litigation, there is an innocent sufferer on the other side, of every irresponsible and senseless claim. He suffers long drawn anxious periods of nervousness and restlessness, whilst the litigation is pending, without any fault on his part."

20. Time and again, this Court has raised deterrence against frivolous appeals and petitions by imposition of costs on the litigating parties. This court in the case of K.C. Tharakan Vs State Bank of India & Ors.7 held the following: "No legal system can have a scenario where a person keeps on raking up the issue again and again once it is resolved at highest level. This is complete wastage of judicial time. We, thus, dismiss this petition with costs, though we limit the amount of costs considering the petitioner is a dismissed person. The writ petition is dismissed with costs of Rs.10,000/- to be deposited with the Supreme Court Advocates-on-Record Welfare Fund to be utilized for the SCBA library."

22. Considering that precious time of this Court and the High Court was wasted by the petitioner, in our opinion the petitioner deserves to be burdened with heavy cost, to give clear message to the unscrupulous litigants like the petitioner for not daring to play with the Judicial System. Such type of litigants are not only polluting the stream of justice but putting hurdles in its dispensation to others. The precious judicial time which the petitioner has wasted, could very well be used for taking up the cases of other litigants who are waiting for justice. In fact these types of litigants are choking the system of the court, which is resulting in delays in decision of other cases. It is also the duty of the Courts at different levels to curb such type of litigation so that more time is available for dealing with genuine litigation."

(Emphasis added)

74. Even the State of U.P. came out with a National Litigation Policy, but the same has not been followed.

75. In spite of the Government's own policy and reprimand from the Apex Court, on numerous occasions, there is no significant positive effect on various Government officials who continue to take decision to file trivial, frivolous and vexatious appeals. It imposes unnecessary burden on the Courts.

76. The opposite party which has succeeded in the Court below is also made to incur avoidable expenditure. Further, it causes delay in allowing the successful litigant to reap the fruits of the judgment rendered by the Court below.

77. It is a classic case where small money decree, which is less than Rs.25,000/-, the State had filed an appeal and thereafter preferred a revision before this Court and after dismissal of the same, instant second appeal has been filed before this Court. On the whole, the State appears to have spent more money than the decreed amount in pursuing the present litigation. Apart from this, valuable time of this Court has also been consumed.

78. The Government of India has taken a policy decision not to pursue appeals in trivial matters relating to income tax and other taxes. However, the State is still sleeping and no serious decision has been taken nor any serious litigation policy has been made and followed.

79. Looking into the period of delay and casual manner in which the appellant had proceeded to file the appeal, such kind of trivial and frivolous litigation clogs the wheel of justice and the poor genuine litigant do not get chance of hearing, this practice has to be stopped. This Court find it a fit case to impose a cost on the appellants, to curb this practice.

80. Accordingly, a cost of Rs.50,000/- (Rupees Fifty Thousand Only) is imposed on the appellants. The amount of cost will be paid to the widows of C.R.P.F. personnel, who had lost their lives fighting with Naxalites. Accordingly, the cost shall be paid to the "C.R.P.F. Family Welfare Association", Block-I, CGO Complex, Lodhi Road, New Delhi.

81. Since putting a cost on the State will not solve the problem, the only way to push the officers to get out the slumber is, if the cost so imposed may be recovered from them. Hence, it is open for the appellant, if they so desire, to recover the said amount of cost from the officers, who were responsible for the delay in filing the proceedings before different courts.

82. Before parting, I would like to appreciate my Research Associate, Mr. Utkarsh Shukla, for his in-depth research and valuable assistance rendered by him in the preparation of this judgment.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the impugned orders are passed without considering the evidence and documents placed on record

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227- Power under article 227 of the Constitution is to be exercised sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority. This Power is not in the nature of power of appellate authority enabling re-appreciation of evidence- Both the courts have passed reasoned and speaking orders, which reflect due application of judicial mind- Trial Court has discharged the opposite party No.5, from the case, which is indicative of the fact that trial Court has applied it's judicial mind on the facts and evidence available before it- Appellate Court has specifically recorded that summons which were issued by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Aligarh to opposite parties, were received by the father of appellants- It cannot be said that appellants were not aware of the case in question.

Held- No prima facie perversity or illegality is found in the impugned judgment and order of Revisional Court, as well as in the impugned summoning order of trial Court- Petition dismissed. (E-15)

Powers U/A 227; exercised sparingly; not to enable re-appreciation of evidence; keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority.

Case Arising From

The impugned order dated 02.12.2024, passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.2, Aligarh in Criminal Appeal No.90 of 2024, (Under Section 29 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005) by means of which the appeal of the petitioner rejected and ex-parte order dated 26.07.2022 was affirmed and the impugned order 27.07.2022, passed by the Judicial Magistrate/ Civil Judge (Junior Division), F.T.C.-01, Aligarh in Case No.408 of 2021, under Section 12,18,19,20,21 and 22 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Byas Kumar Prasad, Pradeep Kumar Keshri
Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar-II, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioners and learned A.G.A. for the State-respondent and perused the material available on record.

2. The present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed with the following prayers:

" I) Issue order or direction and set-aside the impugned order dated 02.12.2024, passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.2, Aligarh in Criminal Appeal No.90 of 2024, Dharmendra Kumar and others Vs. State of U.P. and another (Under Section 29 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005) by means of which the appeal of the petitioner rejected and ex-parte order dated 26.07.2022 was affirmed.

II) Issue order or direction and set-aside the impugned order 27.07.2022, passed by the Judicial Magistrate/ Civil Judge (Junior Division), F.T.C.-01, Aligarh in Case No.408 of 2021, Smt. Sangeeta Vs. Dharmendra Kumar and others, under Section 12,18,19,20,21 and 22 of the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act, 2005.

III. Issue any other order or direction as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper to meet ends of justice.

IV. Award the cost of this petition to the petitioners"

3. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that opposite party No.2 filed a false and frivolous First Information Report dated 03.05.2024, which was registered as Case

Crime No.0111 of 2021, under Sections 147, 323 and 506 IPC, Police Station Dando, District Aligarh against petitioners and others. Thereafter she filed an application under Section 12 of Domestic Violence Act, in which ex-parte order was passed on 26.07.2022 on the same allegation, in which sister of petitioner No.1was discharged. The aforesaid impugned order dated 26.07.2022 was challenged by petitioners by way of filing first appeal before Sessions Judge, Aligarh. Appellate Court was informed that total 5 cases were pending before the parties, but without considering the pendency of those five cases as well as evidence and documents placed on record, their revision has been rejected vide impugned order dated 22.10.2024. It was lastly urged that both impugned orders are bad in law and are liable to be set-aside.

4. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the above submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner by contending that the impugned orders are well reasoned and have been passed in accordance with law. Learned A.G.A. thus, urges for dismissal of the present petition.

5. It is well settled that power under Article 227 is of the judicial superintendence, which cannot be used to up-set conclusions of facts, howsoever erroneous those may be, unless such conclusions are so perverse or so unreasonable that no Court could ever have reached them. (Chandra Bhushan Vs. Beni Prasad & ors., (1999) 1 SCC 70; Savitrabai Bhausaheb Kevate & ors. Vs. Raichand Dhanraj Lunja, (1999) 2 SCC 171).

6. In Indian Overseas Bank Vs. Indian Overseas Bank Staff Canteen Workers' Union (2000) 4 SCC 245, the Apex Court observed that it is impermissible for the Writ Court to re-appreciate evidence liberally and drawing conclusions on its own on pure questions of fact for the reason that it is not exercising appellate jurisdiction over the awards passed by Tribunal. The findings of fact recorded by the fact finding authority duly constituted for the purpose ordinarily should be considered to have become final. The same cannot be disturbed for the mere reason of having based on materials or evidence not sufficient or credible in the opinion of Writ Court to warrant those findings. At any rate, as long as they are based upon some material which are relevant for the purpose, no interference is called for. Even on the ground that there is yet another view which can reasonably and possibly be taken the High Court can not interfere.

7. In case of Jasbir Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2006) 8 SCC 294, it was held that while invoking the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution, it is provided that the High Court would exercise such powers most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority. The power of superintendence exercised over the subordinate courts and tribunals does not imply that the High Court can intervene in the judicial functions of the lower judiciary. The independence of the subordinate courts in the discharge of their judicial functions is of paramount importance, just as the independence of the superior courts in the discharge of their judicial functions.

8. Thus, it is apparent that the power under article 227 of the Constitution is to be exercised sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority. This Power is not in the nature of power of appellate authority enabling re-appreciation of evidence.

9. In the light of above well settled principles of law and after having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, as well as upon careful perusal of the record, this Court finds that both the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate and Additional Session Judge have passed reasoned and speaking orders, which reflect due application of judicial mind.

10. A perusal of impugned order of the Court of Judicial Magistrate/ Civil Judge (JD) F.T.C. -01 Aligarh dated 26.07.2022 reveals that trial Court considered the statement of father of petitioners No.1 and 2 Geetam Singh, which was recorded in the report of D.P.O. that marriage of Dharmendra was solemnized with opposite party No.2 without any dowry. Opposite parties of Case No.408 of 2021 were proceeded ex-parte on the service report of District Probation Officer, Aligarh as well as on the strength of delivery report that summons were sent to opposite parties through registered post. Trial Court has discharged the opposite party No.5, Jai Lalita from the said case, which is indicative of the fact that trial Court has applied it's judicial mind on the facts and evidence available before it. Thereafter the aforesaid ex-parte judgment dated 26.07.2022 was challenged by petitioners as well as Dharmendra Kumar by way of filing an appeal, which was registered as Case Crime No. 90 of 2024. The appellant Court in it's impugned judgment and order dated 02.12.2024, has specifically recorded that summons which were issued by Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.2, Aligarh to opposite parties, were received by Geetam Singh, who is the father of appellants and even in the report of District Probation Officer, it is specifically mentioned that said Geetam Singh met on spot and his statement was also recorded by District Probation Officer. It is in this background, the Appellate Court recorded its finding that it cannot be said that appellants were not aware of the case in question. It is important that original domestic violence complaint was filed against Dharmendra Kumar, Geetam Singh, Shesh Kumar, Akash Kumar, Jai Lalita and Smt. Vineeta. Trial Court discharged opposite party No.5 Jai Lalita. Thereafter appeal was filed by Dharmendra Kumar, Shesh Kumar, Akash Kumar and Vineeta. Now present petition has been filed by Akash Kumar, Shesh Kumar and Vineeta. At the stage of filing appeal, the appellants left their father Geetam Singh. At the stage of present petition, even the husband of opposite party No.2 i.e. Dharmendra Kumar has been intentionally left. It is not the case of petitioners that father of petitioner Nos. 1 and 2 and father-in-law of petitioner No.3 namely Geetam Singh resides separately and they have no concern with him. On every stage, an effort has been made just to defeat the finding of fact that notices of opposite parties were received by said Geetam Singh.

11. In the aforesaid circumstances, no prima facie perversity or illegality is found in the impugned judgment and order of Revisional Court, as well as in the impugned summoning order of trial Court. Therefore, no ground for interference by this Court in exercise of it's writ jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is made out.

12. Accordingly, the writ petition is found to be devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

Writ A No. 179 of 2026 & other connected cases

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 issued for deployment of teachers to maintain the pupil-teacher ratio in basic educational institution.
(2) Scope of judicial review in the matter of transfer.
(3) Applicability of principle of natural justice in the matter of transfer.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Head master/Assistant Teacher – Redeployment – Government Order dated 14.11.2025 was issued to maintain the pupil-teacher ratio – Validity of GO dated 14.11.2025 was challenged on the ground of its being discriminatory and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution – GO dated 14.11.2025 was also attacked on the ground of its being tending to alter the statutory provision – Permissibility :

Held : The obligation of the State to ensure uninterrupted education and compliance with the student–teacher ratio is a continuing one. If subsequent developments, such as change in enrolment, closure of schools, or acute shortage of teachers, necessitate intervention, the State cannot be rendered powerless merely on account of the passage of the month of July – The issuance of the Government Order in November 2025, therefore, cannot be said to be illegal or without jurisdiction, as it seeks to address pressing administrative exigencies and to safeguard the larger interest of students – The Government Order dated 14.11.2025, issued for implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, cannot be held to be arbitrary. [Para 88, 89 and 103]

Further held : The impugned Government Order neither amends nor overrides the statutory rules. On the contrary, it supplements the Rules by facilitating their effective implementation. It is settled law that executive instructions may validly fill in gaps where the rules are silent, provided they are not inconsistent with the statutory framework. [Para 90]

(B) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ – Scope of judicial review –Transfer – Interference, when not warranted :

Held : Transfer and adjustment of teachers is an incidence of service, and no employee can claim a vested right to continue at a particular place of posting. In the absence of any pleading or proof of mala fides, arbitrariness, or violation of statutory provisions, the Court finds no ground to interfere – The power to transfer is ordinarily exercised in public interest and to meet administrative exigencies, and the courts, while exercising jurisdiction under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution, do not sit in appeal over such decisions. [Para 93 and 95]

(C) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Principle of natural justice – Transfer – Doctrine of adopting fairness in administrative action – Applicability :

Held : Even in matters of transfer, though an incidence of service, an opportunity of representation ought to be afforded where the action results in civil consequences or appears to operate arbitrarily. The doctrine of fairness in administrative action mandates that affected teachers be made aware of the basis of their proposed displacement, particularly when such transfers are undertaken en masse pursuant to executive instructions – Each petitioner shall submit a separate and comprehensive representation/objection before the District Level Committee constituted under the chairmanship of the District Magistrate within a period of one week from today. Upon receipt of such objections, the Committee shall examine the same in light of the applicable rules, the mandate of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, and the relevant Government Orders, and shall pass a reasoned and speaking order in accordance with law within one month thereafter. [Para 118 and 145]

(D) Jurisprudence – Principle – Government Order/Executive Instruction vis-à-vis Statutory framework – Held, Executive Instructions may validly fill in gaps where the rules are silent, provided they are not inconsistent with the statutory framework. [Para 90] (E-1)

Advs. for the Respondents : Abhishek Srivastava, C.S.C., Rishi Kumar, A.C.S.C.; Shailendra Singh, S.C.; R. P. Srivastava, S.C. Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Written submissions provided by learned counsel for the parties are taken on record.

2. As a common cause of action has been agitated in all the writ petitions, the same are being decided by a common judgment.

3. A composite counter affidavit has been filed in Writ-A No. 179 of 2026, addressing legal issues rather than factual ones. Learned counsel for the petitioners does not propose to file a rejoinder affidavit to the same, as the petitions are being decided solely on the legal issues.

4. Heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Siddharth Khare, Mr. Mohd. Yaseen and Mr. Navin Kumar Sharma, Mr. Nipun Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Shashank Shekhar Mishra, Mr. Tarun Agrawal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Prashant Mishra, learned counsels for the petitioners in the present case as well as connected petitions, Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel-VII assisted by Mr. Rishi Kumar, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel, Mr. R. P. Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for the State and Mr. Ashish Kumar Nagvanshi, learned counsel for the respondent and perused the records.

5. The aforesaid writ petitions have been filed challenging the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, as well as the subsequent orders issued pursuant thereto.

6. The petitioners are working either as Assistant Teachers or Headmasters in all the writ petitions. Since the petitions are being decided on legal issues, the details of the petitioners in this batch of petitions are not being mentioned, except for the fact that the petitioners are either Assistant Teachers in Junior Basic Schools or Senior Basic Schools, or Headmasters in Junior Basic Schools and Senior Basic Schools.

7. The Government Order dated 14.11.2025 and the proceedings consequent thereto purport to be for the redeployment of teachers in order to maintain the pupil-teacher ratio, in accordance with the provisions of The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 (hereinafter referred to as the '2009 Act').

8. In Writ-A Nos. 179 of 2026, 568 of 2026, and 787 of 2026, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that Section 19 of the 2009 Act specifies the norms and standards for a school as mentioned in the Schedule to the said Act.

9. A perusal of the Schedule demonstrates that there is a minimum requirement of two teachers in every institution, with additional teachers based on the student strength as specified in the Schedule. In the case of a Junior Basic School having more than 150 students, there is a requirement for one Headmaster, and for a Senior Basic School with a student strength of more than 100, there is a requirement for one Headmaster.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that Section 38 of the 2009 Act confers power upon the appropriate Government to frame rules for carrying out the provisions of the Act. In exercise of such powers, the Government of Uttar Pradesh has framed the Uttar Pradesh Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2011 (hereinafter referred to as the 'Rules of 2011'). To effectuate the norms and standards specified under the 2009 Act, there is a requirement for provisions to be made for the redeployment to be conducted every year in the month of July. Rule 21(2) of the Rules of 2011 is extracted below:-

(21) Maintaining of Pupil-Teacher Ratio in each school (section-25)-

(1) The sanctioned strength of teachers in every school shall be notified by the District Magistrate of the respective district. Such notification shall be displayed on the district website; the sanctioned strength of teachers in a school shall be informed to the respective school and local authority:

Provided that the District Magistrate, shall, within two months of such notification, redeploy teachers of schools having strength in excess of the sanctioned strength prior to the notification referred to in sub-rule (1).

(2) In order to maintain the specified pupil-teacher ratio, the District Magistrate shall review the sanctioned strength of teacher in every school every year before the month of July and redeploy the teachers as per requirement.

(3) For the purpose of maintaining the pupil-teacher ratio, no teacher posted in a school shall be made to serve in any other school or office or deployed for any noneducational purpose, other than the decennial population census, disaster relief duties or duties relating to elections to the local authority or the State Legislatures or Parliament.

(4) If any teacher found to be engaged in private tuition or private teaching, disciplinary action will be taken under the service rules applicable to him or her."

11. The aforesaid Rule does not envisage a repeated exercise of the powers of redeployment under Rule 21(2) for maintaining the specified pupil-teacher ratio. The District Magistrate is required to review the sanctioned strength of teachers in every school each year before the month of July and redeploy the teachers as per the requirement.

12. For the purpose of such annual redeployment, the exercise was conducted pursuant to the Government Order dated 23.05.2025, followed by the orders of the concerned Basic Shiksha Adhikari dated 01.07.2025. Thus, the exercise was carried out as required under Rule 21 of the Rules of 2011 for maintaining the pupil-teacher ratio in each school.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that a few teachers have already joined at their transferred places pursuant to the order dated 01.07.2025. Similar exercise should also be completed in all other districts of the State, including Chitrakoot.

14. Surprisingly, a fresh exercise has been initiated by the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, under the pretext of implementing the provisions of the 2009 Act and the Rules of 2011 framed thereunder.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the two Government Orders, i.e. G.O. dated 23.05.2025 and 14.11.2025, are contrasting. The Government Order dated 23.05.2025 contained detailed guidelines requiring full details to be uploaded on the option website, thereafter, it called for the options from all surplus teachers willing to opt for institutions found to be deficient, and on the basis of such information, the final orders were to be passed. In contrast, the present Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is in a skeletal form, not specifying any procedure as set out in the earlier Government Order. However, it indicates that the redeployment exercise was intended to be undertaken for the academic session 2025-26.

16. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 has been construed in contrast to the Government Order dated 23.05.2025. The procedure specified under the Government Order dated 23.05.2025 necessarily involved the publication of a list of surplus institutions, a list of surplus teachers, a seniority list of teachers treated as surplus, and a list of deficient institutions. It also provided that surplus teachers would have the option to choose an institution of their preference from the list of deficient institutions. Such options were to be exercised by the surplus teachers, and the same were to be scrutinized accordingly. However, no such procedure has been specified in the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, which renders it unreasonable and arbitrary.

17. On account of the non-specification of any norms in the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, each district has, therefore, adopted its own procedure or norms for identifying surplus teachers. The computation of surplus teachers may be based either on the persons who have put in the longest length of stay in a given institution or on those who have most recently joined. There is no clarity regarding the procedure followed by each district.

18. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that no proceedings were undertaken in any of the districts for nearly one and a half months following the issuance of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, and the impugned orders have been passed in each district on different dates. There is no justification for such complete inaction on the part of the respondents during the aforesaid period.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that Section 25 of the 2009 Act specifies the provisions for maintaining the pupil-teacher ratio. It requires the appropriate Government and local authorities to ensure that the pupil-teacher ratio, as specified in the Schedule, is maintained in each school within three years from the date of commencement of the Act.

20. For the purpose of maintaining the pupil-teacher ratio, no teacher posted in schools shall be transferred to any other school or deployed for any purpose other than those specified in Section 27 of the 2009 Act.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that there was no justification for issuing the fresh Government Order dated 14.11.2025 and the consequential orders, when, pursuant to the earlier Government Order dated 23.05.2025, the entire exercise for the session 2025-26 had already been concluded, following the joining of Assistant Teachers and Headmasters, as the case may be, on 01.07.2025 in all the districts.

22. He further submits that there existed no justification for conducting any such redeployment exercise in the middle of the academic session, as the students' strength, which existed at the commencement of the academic session, had substantially remained the same in December 2025. Therefore, there existed no justification for issuing of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 and the consequential orders. It is a settled principle of law that actions must be taken in accordance with the prescribed procedure, and any deviation therefrom vitiates the action itself.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, which was skeletal in nature and did not specify the details of the procedure to be followed, created a chaotic situation in each district, as each district followed its own procedure.

24. Another aspect of the controversy is that a large number of Headmasters have been treated as surplus in Junior Basic Schools and Senior Basic Schools where the students' strength is less than 150 and 100, respectively. However, such reasoning is illogical and contrary to departmental circulars as well as the orders previously passed by this Court. Learned counsel for the petitioners has drawn the attention of the Court to the order dated 04.09.2024 passed by the Lucknow Bench of this Court in Writ-A No. 7241 of 2024 (Seema Jaiswal and others vs. State of U.P. and others).

25. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that these are individual grievances of the petitioners, which have not been addressed, as no notice or opportunity of hearing was provided and no option was made available, as required, prior to the passing of the impugned orders and the consequential orders.

26. As no detailed counter affidavit has been filed in response to the individual grievances mentioned in the bunch of petitions, the same have not been addressed before this Court. However, an opportunity of hearing is required to be afforded to the petitioners to present their individual grievances, which affect them in any manner, rendering the impugned orders unreasonable and arbitrary.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioners in Writ-A No. 564 of 2026 has challenged the illegality and validity of the impugned posting order dated 13.12.2025. The impugned exercise constitutes the third round of adjustment undertaken by the respondents during the same academic session. The earlier two rounds have already resulted in a spate of writ petitions; therefore, the present case should be examined in the backdrop of this continuing administrative history.

28. The passing of the impugned order demonstrates a systemic administrative failure in implementing the statutory norms governing the deployment of teachers, which has persisted despite repeated judicial intervention.

29. The petitioners, who are duly appointed as Assistant Teachers working in Primary and Upper Primary Schools, belong to a district-level cadre, and their service conditions are governed by the U.P. Education (Teachers) Service Rules, 1981, read with the U.P. Basic Education (Teachers) (Posting) Rules, 2008.

30. It is a settled principle of service jurisprudence that, once service conditions are governed by statutory rules framed under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, the same cannot be altered, supplanted, or overridden by executive instructions or administrative convenience. This means that any transfer or adjustment dehors the statutory framework is liable to be interdicted.

31. The controversy arose when the Government Order dated 23.05.2025 was issued, whereby the State-respondents initiated a policy for the rationalization of teachers to ensure compliance with Section 25 of the 2009 Act. The policy was followed by guidelines dated 13.06.2025 and 16.06.2025, and a list of surplus and deficit schools was published on 24.06.2025.

32. While undertaking the aforesaid exercise, the respondents failed to adhere to the statutory mechanism prescribed under Section 25 of the 2009 Act read with Rule 21 of the Rules of 2011. The said rule mandates that the District Magistrate shall annually determine the sanctioned strength of teachers in each school, having regard to the pupil-teacher ratio prescribed in the Schedule to the Act. Thus, the entire exercise was in violation of the statutory requirement and is therefore bad in law.

33. The first round of transfer orders culminated in the list dated 30.06.2025, which was prepared without regard to the statutory norms, resulting in several schools being rendered as solitary-teacher schools. This was in direct violation of Section 25 of the 2009 Act, which mandates the maintenance of minimum teacher strength, and also defeated the very object sought to be achieved by the policy.

34. Aggrieved by the aforesaid actions, two distinct sets of teachers approached this Court: (i) teachers whose schools were rendered solitary as a result of the impugned adjustments; and (ii) teachers who were transferred pursuant to the said list and were subsequently sought to be reverted.

35. A batch of writ petitions, including Writ-A No. 16303 of 2025, is pending adjudication. The present Government Order dated 14.11.2025 has given rise to the third round of litigation.

36. By the aforesaid Government Order, the State Government directed a fresh exercise based on U-DISE+ data through a District-Level Committee. While the said Government Order sought to correct earlier mistakes, it conspicuously failed to prescribe any policy or guideline for the identification of surplus teachers within a school. Thus, the absence of such a policy is not a mere procedural irregularity but constitutes substantive illegality, as it confers unguided discretion upon subordinate authorities.

37. Pursuant to the letter dated 19.11.2025 issued by the concerned respondents, they proceeded to determine surplus schools in the District, which was illegal as no proper procedure was followed.

38. In the aforesaid procedure, the Shiksha Mitras and contractual instructors were included as regular teachers while determining surplus schools in the districts. As already submitted, there was no criteria for the selection of surplus teachers; consequently, each district followed its own procedure, which created a chaotic situation.

39. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submits that, in the absence of any guidelines to be followed for the implementation of the 2009 Act to maintain the student-teacher ratio, the earlier principle of treating the junior-most teacher as surplus, i.e., 'Last Come, First Go,' was also not to be followed, as it has been held to have no statutory backing. The aforesaid has been held in the case of Smt. Reena Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2019 (1) ADJ 319 (LB)."

40. The said position has been reiterated in the case of Pushkar Singh Chandel and others vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2024 (12) ADJ 375 (LB), wherein this Court held that the inclusion of Shiksha Mitras for determining surplus strength of the teachers and the mechanical displacement of junior teachers is constitutionally impermissible. Thus, the impugned posting order dated 31.12.2025 is directly in the teeth of the aforesaid binding precedents.

41. The issuance of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, instead of rectifying the errors committed in the earlier rounds, has created a more precarious situation, which cannot be addressed without inviting objections from the petitioners. Such selective action amounts to hostile discrimination and is violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Being in contravention of statutory provisions, binding judicial precedents, and constitutional guarantees, it cannot be sustained in law and warrants interference by this Court.

42. Learned counsel for the petitioners in Writ-A No.707 of 2026 submits that the petitioners are Assistant Teachers serving in Primary, Upper Primary and Composite Schools and have challenged the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 as well as transfer order dated 31.12.2025 with the following grounds:-

(a) Transfers effected without counseling, without inviting options or preferences and without publication of any consolidated list of surplus or transferred teachers. Settled policy of transfers based on seniority abandoned.

(b) New criterion of length of stay introduced and applied mechanically.

(c) Teachers appointed in English Medium Schools after undergoing a rigorous selection process displaced solely on the basis of length of stay.

(d) Senior teachers transferred to far-off locations despite availability of nearby schools.

(e) Objections invited only after transfer orders had already been finalized and uploaded, rendering the opportunity illusory.

(f) Thus the impugned exercise suffers from complete non-application of mind and is ex-facie arbitrary.

(g) The transfers are in violation of 2009 Act as well as Rules of 2011 as mandatory pupil-teacher ratio and subject-teacher ratios have been disturbed.

(h) Mechanical reliance on length of stay as the sole criterion in irrational and contrary to statutory staffing requirements.

(i) Displacement of trained English Medium teachers defeats the very object of establishing English Medium Schools and adversely affects educational standards.

(j) Entire process lacks transparency, with no public disclosure of criteria or consolidated date, violating principles of fairness and equality under Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

(k) Post-decisional invitation of objections does not cure the illegality and amounts to a mere formality.

43. On the cumulative strength of the aforesaid submissions, learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the impugned government order dated 14.11.2025 as well as consequential transfer order dated 31.12.2025 are liable to be quashed.

44. On the other hand, Mr. Abhishek Srivastava, learned Chief Standing Counsel VIIth assisted by Mr. Ashish Kumar Nagwanshi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents submits that the 2009 Act itself provides that the said Act has been enacted by the Parliament to provide for free and compulsory education to all children of the age of 6 to 14 years.

45. Article 21A of the Constitution of India guarantees the fundamental right to free and compulsory education for all children aged 6 to 14 years, and this right is further reinforced by the 2009 Act. Specifically, Section 25 of the Act places an obligation on the State to ensure an adequate Pupil-Teacher Ratio (PTR), thus mandating that the government not only to provide access to education but also guarantees the quality of education by ensuring sufficient and trained teachers. As such, the State is constitutionally and statutorily bound to fulfill its duty by addressing teacher shortages, maintaining infrastructure, and ensuring that every child receives an education of adequate quality, with the judiciary playing a key role in enforcing these rights when the state fails to do so.

46. It would be appropriate to refer to Sections 3 and 8 of the 2009 Act, which provides as follows:-

"3. Right of child to free and compulsory education.- [(1) Every child of the age of six to fourteen years, including a child referred to in clause (d) or clause (e) of section 2, shall have the right to free and compulsory education in a neighbourhood school till the completion of his or her elementary education.]

(2) For the purpose of sub-section (1), no child shall be liable to pay any kind of fee or charges or expenses which may prevent him or her from pursuing and completing the elementary education.

[(3) A child with disability referred to in sub-clause (A) of clause (ee) of section 2 shall, without prejudice to the provisions of the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995 (1 of 1996), and a child referred to in sub-clauses (B) and (C) of clause (ee) of section 2, have the same rights to pursue free and compulsory elementary education which children with disabilities have under the provisions of Chapter V of the Persons with Disabilities (Equal Opportunities, Protection of Rights and Full Participation) Act, 1995:

Provided that a child with "multiple disabilities" referred to in clause (h) and a child with "severe disability" referred to in clause (o) of section 2 of the National Trust for Welfare of Persons with Autism, Cerebral Palsy, Mental Retardation and Multiple Disabilities Act, 1999 (44 of 1999) may also have the right to opt for home-based education.]

8. Duties of appropriate Government.-The appropriate Government shall-

(a) provide free and compulsory elementary education to every child:

Provided that where a child is admitted by his or her parents or guardian, as the case may be, in a school other than a school established, owned, controlled or substantially financed by funds provided directly or indirectly by the appropriate Government or a local authority, such child or his or her parents or guardian, as the case may be, shall not be entitled to make a claim for reimbursement of expenditure incurred on elementary education of the child in such other school.

Explanation.-The term "compulsory education" means obligation of the appropriate Government to-

(i) provide free elementary education to every child of the age of six to fourteen years; and

(ii) ensure compulsory admission, attendance and completion of elementary education by every child of the age of six to fourteen years;

(b) ensure availability of a neighbourhood school as specified in section 6;

(c) ensure that the child belonging to weaker section and the child belonging to disadvantaged group are not discriminated against and prevented from pursuing and completing elementary education on any grounds;

(d) provide infrastructure including school building, teaching staff and learning equipment;

(e) provide special training facility specified in section 4;

(f) ensure and monitor admission, attendance and completion of elementary education by every child;

(g) ensure good quality elementary education conforming to the standards and norms specified in the Schedule;

(h) ensure timely prescribing of curriculum and courses of study for elementary education; and

(i) provide training facility for teachers.

47. It would also be appropriate to refer to Sections 25 of the 2009 Act, which provides as follows:-

"25. Pupil-Teacher Ratio.--(1) [Within three years] from the date of commencement of this Act, the appropriate Government and the local authority shall ensure that the Pupil-Teacher Ratio, as specified in the Schedule, is maintained in each school.

(2) For the purpose of maintaining the Pupil-Teacher Ratio under sub-section (1), no teacher posted in a school shall be made to serve in any other school or office or deployed for any non-educational purpose, other than those specified in section 27."

48. Under Section 3 of the Right to Education Act, 2009, every child between the ages of 6 to 14 years has the right to free and compulsory education. This right ensures that all children in this age group are entitled to access quality elementary education. The Pupil-Teacher Ratio has been specified in the Schedule, which has been annexed at Page 43 of the writ petition.

49. Any rule, regulation, or government order that obstructs or hampers the implementation of the Right to Education Act, 2009, or the constitutional mandate under Article 21A of the Constitution of India, shall not be given effect to by the State Government, as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal Nos. 4347-4375 of 2014 (State of U.P. and others vs. Shiv Kumar Pathak and others). Paragraph 16 of the aforesaid judgment reads as under:-

"16. There is no manner of doubt that the NCTE, acting as an 'academic authority' under Section 23 of the RTE Act, under the Notification dated 31st March, 2010 issued by the Central Government as well as under Sections 12 and 12A of the NCTE Act, was competent to issue Notifications dated 23 rd August, 2010 and 11th February, 2011. The State Government was under obligation to act as per the said notifications and not to give effect to any contrary rule. However, since NCTE itself has taken the stand that notification dated 11 th February, 2011 with regard to the weightage to be given to the marks obtained in TET is not mandatory which is also a possible interpretation, the view of the High Court in quashing the 15 th Amendment to the 1981 Rules has to be interfered with. Accordingly, while we uphold the view that qualifications prescribed by the NCTE are binding, requirement of weightage to TET marks is not a mandatory requirement."

50. Therefore, any claim of the teachers which comes in the way of maintaining pupil teacher ratio of at least two teachers in every school would be hit by Section 25 of the RTE Act, 2009.

51. He further submits that if the State Government in order to maintain pupil teacher ratio in terms of Section 25 of the RTE Act of 2009 had issued a Government Order dated 14.11.2025 whereby in School where either there is no Teacher or a single Teacher then in that case, the only option which is left with the District Level Committee is to transfer/adjust the (surplus or higher in numbers) Teachers available in one Institution/School to a School where either there is no Teacher or there is only one Teacher as in case the only teacher suffers from any aliment and unable to attend the School then the students should not suffer due to unavailability of teachers.

52. He further submits that the State Government vide Government Order dated 14.11.2025 has given power to a District Level Committee to examine time to time the necessity of a school and to provide teachers in a school where there is no teacher or there is only one teacher as there may be a situation throughout the year that some of the Teachers may retire, promoted, go on leave, suspended due to any misconduct etc., therefore, to deal with all such situations, the District Level Committee would be the competent authority to deal with the said situation and in order to achieve the goal of pupil teacher ratio, they may transfer a teacher from a school that has surplus teachers to a school where there is either no teacher or only one teacher, therefore, such transfer would be based on an administrative decision and the same being exigency of service, it is not proper to challenge any such decision of District Level Committee unless the Hon'ble Court finds that the order is based on a mala fide and since all these transfer orders are issued by the District Level Committee for maintaining pupil teacher ratio in schools in terms of Section 25 of the RTE Act, 2009 then any Rule, Regulation, Government Order or circular which would come in the way of said transfer orders shall be hit by Section 25 of the RTE Act, 2009 and the fundamental right of children as enshrined under Article 21A of the Constitution of India.

53. He further submits that if under said transfer/adjustment, a Teacher is posted within the same District then in that case they cannot claim that they have got an indefeasible right to continue in one School because the purpose of appointment of Teachers in Primary and Upper Primary Schools is to maintain pupil teacher ratio for achieving the aim and object of the RTE Act, 2009 i.e. to provide free and compulsory education to all children of the age of 6 to 14 years.

54. He further submits that the State Government in the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 has put no conditions upon the District Level Committee regarding teacher who will be transferred because there may be a circumstance where Science and Mathematics Teacher may be senior in Upper Primary School but there are two teacher for teaching Languages and are junior to the Science Teacher in that case the District Level Committee will obviously transfer Teacher teaching Languages, therefore, there cannot be a universal formula to deal with those situations and as per administrative grounds/needs of the children, the District Level Committee is the best authority to determine/examine these issues before making transfers and therefore, the State Government in its wisdom has given a discretion to the District Level Committee to examine the ground situations and pass appropriate orders.

55. So far as any ground of resistance by the Teachers taking plea of mid-session is concerned, it is most respectfully submitted that if a pupil teacher ratio is not maintained in a school where there is no teacher or there is only one teacher then it will adversely affect the rights of the children to get free and compulsory education under the Act, 2009 and it would be a violation of fundamental right of the children as enshrined under Article 21A of the Constitution of India, therefore, any restrictions which come in the way of maintaining pupil teacher ratio would be hit by Article 21A read with Section 25 of the Act of 2009 and the right children of getting free and compulsory education would always supersede the rights of the Teachers to remain posted in a School and hence the Government Order dated 14.11.2205 issued by the State Government in order to achieve the aim of maintaining the pupil teacher ratio cannot be challenged by the Teachers on artificial grounds. The seniority of the Teachers shall not get affected by any transfer/adjustment which will made in terms of government order dated 14.11.2025.

56. He further submits that the Committee which has been constituted in terms of Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is to be headed by District Magistrate along with three other members who will take care of the interest of the Teachers also and in absence of any allegations of mala fide against the said committee, a transfer which is an incidence of service cannot be challenged by the petitioners on artificial grounds, therefore, claim of the petitioners against the said transfer/posting is in teeth of Section-25 of the Act, 2009 read with Article 21A of the Constitution of India and the same is liable to be rejected by this Court.

57. He further submits that the petitioners have failed to show as to how the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is contrary to the provisions of RTE Act, 2009 as the same has been issued in order to maintain pupil teacher ratio and even in case there are some discrepancies in transfer of posting the same would be rectified accordingly but for such minor discrepancies would not be a ground of challenge the validity of government order dated 14.11.2025.

58. He further submits that as per the National Education Policy, 2020, the Central Government through Ministry of HRD, in Para - 4.11 provided as follows:-

"बहुभाषावाद और भाषा की शक्ति

4.11 यह सर्वविदित है कि छोटे बच्चे अपनी घर की भाषा / मातृभाषा में सार्थक अवधारणाओं को अधिक तेजी से सीखते हैं और समझ लेते हैं। घर की भाषा आमतौर पर मातृभाषा या स्थानीय समुदायों द्वारा बोली जाने वाली भाषा है। हालांकि, कई बार बहुभाषी परिवारों में, परिवार के अन्य सदस्यों द्वारा बोली जाने वाली एक घरेलू भाषा हो सकती है, जो कभी-कभी मातृभाषा या स्थानीय भाषा से भिन्न हो सकती है। जहाँ तक संभव हो, कम से कम ग्रेड 5 तक लेकिन बेहतर यह होगा कि यह ग्रेड 8 और उससे आगे तक भी हो, शिक्षा का माध्यम, घर की भाषा / मातृभाषा / स्थानीय भाषा / क्षेत्रीय भाषा होगी। इसके बाद, घर / स्थानीय भाषा को जहाँ भी संभव हो भाषा के रूप में पढ़ाया जाता रहेगा। सार्वजनिक और निजी दोनों तरह के स्कूल इसकी अनुपालना करेंगे। विज्ञान सहित सभी विषयों में उच्चतर गुणवत्ता वाली पाठ्यपुस्तकों को घरेलू भाषाओं/मातृ-भाषा में उपलब्ध कराया जाएगा। यह सुनिश्चित करने के लिए सभी प्रयास जल्दी किए जाएंगे कि बच्चे द्वारा बोली जाने वाली भाषा और शिक्षण के माध्यम के बीच यदि कोई अंतराल मौजूद हो तो उसे समाप्त किया जा सके। ऐसे मामलों में जहाँ घर की भाषा की पाठ्य सामग्री उपलब्ध नहीं है, शिक्षकों और छात्रों के बीच संवाद की भाषा भी जहाँ संभव हो, वहाँ घर की भाषा बनी रहेगी। शिक्षकों को उन छात्रों के साथ जिनके घर की भाषा/मातृ-भाषा शिक्षा के माध्यम से भिन्न है, द्विभाषी शिक्षण अधिगम सामग्री सहित द्विभाषी एप्रोच का उपयोग करने के लिए प्रोत्साहित किया जाएगा। सभी भाषाओं को सभी छात्रों को उच्चतर गुणवत्ता के साथ पढ़ाया जाएगा; एक भाषा को अच्छी तरह से सिखाने और सीखने के लिए इसे शिक्षा का माध्यम होने की आवश्यकता नहीं है।

59. That after the N.E.P., 2020 the medium of teaching is emphasized in Native Language (Matra Bhasha) as there is only one cadre of Assistant Teacher in Service Rules for teaching in School run by Basic Education Board and there is no separate cadre of teacher (English Medium) in Primary School and therefore, a Teacher cannot request to create a Class within a Class more importantly when at least two Teachers are required to be posted in every School run by the Basic Education Board and there is no infirmity in the government order dated 14.11.2025 and for any individual grievances, the candidate can always represent before the District Level Committee raising their objection, if any.

60. Any notification issued under a Central Act shall prevail over conflicting State Rules, in accordance with the principle of federal supremacy. In case of inconsistency, the provisions of the Central Act shall take precedence over those of the State legislation or subordinate rules.

61. If an employee is engaged by the employer under specific service conditions that include a provision for transfer, such conditions must be upheld, even in exceptional circumstances. The fact that certain service rules exist does not negate the possibility of transfer. Furthermore, an employee cannot claim exemption from transfer on the basis of Section 25 of the Right to Education Act, 2009, which mandates the maintenance of an appropriate teacher-student ratio. The objective of ensuring an adequate teacher-student ratio as stipulated under the Act supersedes any individual claim to non-transferability, provided such transfers are consistent with the service conditions agreed upon at the time of employment.

62. If a general transfer is implemented in June across departments or schools, and no specific rule or regulation mandates it, such transfers may still be valid if justified by administrative needs. In the absence of a governing rule, transfers must be based on reasonable grounds and conducted with fairness and transparency.

63. The transfers in question are within the same district, aimed at minimizing hardship in normal circumstances. The argument against transfer pertaining to inter-district transfers, which is not applicable here, as the transfers are confined to the same district.

64. To maintain the pupil-teacher ratio as mandated under Section 25 of the Right to Education Act, 2009, the State Government issued a Government Order dated 14.11.2025. The Order provides that in cases where a school has no teacher or only one teacher, the District Level Committee may transfer or adjust surplus teachers from other institutions or schools. This measure ensures that, even in the event of a teacher′s illness or absence, students are not deprived of education due to the unavailability of teachers.

65. In support of his contention, he has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Union of India and others vs. S.L. Abbas reported in 1993 AIR 2444.

66. He has also relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Sri Pubi Lombi vs. The State of Arunachal Pradesh and Others reported in 2024 INSC 200.

67. In the matters of transfer, scope of judicial review is limited, only when such transfer is in violation of the statutory provisions or due to mala fide reasons.

68. In the counter-affidavit filed on behalf of the respondent no.1, it has been specifically averred that the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 was issued transferring the teachers in the larger interest of children and in compliance with Section 25 of the Right to Education Act, 2009.

69. The Government Order dated 14.11.2025 has been issued to ensure that all schools maintain the required teacher-student ratio and that no school remains without a teacher, thereby safeguarding the educational interests of children.

70. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. With the consent of learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respective parties, the present matter is being decided on the legal issues alone, which have been duly addressed before this Court.

71. The controversy raised in the present bunch of petitions centres around the issuance of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, providing for adjustment and redeployment of Basic School teachers. The said Government Order has been issued in furtherance of the statutory mandate of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, with the specific object of maintaining the prescribed teacher′student ratio, which is fundamental for ensuring quality education and protecting the larger interest of students.

72. The policy underlying the impugned Government Order seeks to achieve a rational and equitable distribution of teaching staff across institutions. It aims to prevent a situation where certain schools are overstaffed while others suffer from acute shortage of teachers, a circumstance which would otherwise defeat the very object of the 2009 Act.

73. It is well settled that formulation and implementation of policy falls within the exclusive domain of the executive, and the Courts, while exercising powers of judicial review, does not sit in appeal over such policy decisions. Interference is warranted only where the policy is shown to be arbitrary, discriminatory, or in violation of statutory provisions or constitutional mandates. In the absence of any such infirmity, particularly when the policy is demonstrably framed in public interest and to fulfill a statutory obligation, the Court would be slow to interfere with the same.

74. While issuing a Government Order for implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, particularly with regard to adjustment and redeployment of teachers in primary schools to maintain the prescribed teacher student ratio, the State is required to be guided by the statutory mandate contained in Section 25 of the 2009 Act read with the Schedule appended thereto. The paramount consideration must be the larger interest of students and the effective enforcement of Article 21A of the Constitution of India. The policy must ensure rational, equitable and non-discriminatory distribution of teachers on the basis of objective criteria such as student strength, sanctioned posts and availability of teaching staff, so that no institution remains understaffed while others are overstaffed. The process of adjustment should be transparent, reasonable and administratively feasible, without adversely affecting the service conditions of teachers except as permissible under law. So long as the Government Order is framed in public interest, founded on intelligible criteria, and aimed at achieving compliance with the teache-student ratio prescribed under the Act of 2009, the same would fall within the domain of policy and ordinarily would not invite judicial interference.

75. A careful examination of the Government Orders dated 23.05.2025 and 14.11.2025 reveals that though both were issued with the common objective of implementing the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 and ensuring adherence to the prescribed teacher-student ratio, they differ substantially in scope, operative mechanism, and degree of enforceability.

76. The Government Order dated 23.05.2025 was essentially an enabling and facilitative measure. It contemplated adjustment of teachers primarily on the basis of options or willingness, thereby attempting to achieve rationalisation without causing large-scale disruption. The emphasis under the said order was on administrative convenience and consensual redeployment, with limited discretion vested in the authorities.

77. In contrast, the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is comprehensive, mandatory and corrective in character. It was issued upon noticing that despite earlier option-based measures, several institutions continued to suffer from either surplus or acute shortage of teachers, resulting in non-compliance with the statutory teacher-student ratio. The later Government Order, therefore, accords primacy to strict statutory compliance and vests wider authority in the administration to undertake compulsory adjustment wherever necessary to fulfill the mandate of Section 25 of the 2009 Act read with the Schedule appended thereto.

78. Whereas the earlier Government Order sought to balance institutional requirements with individual convenience of teachers, the subsequent Government Order unmistakably prioritises the larger public interest and the welfare of students. It proceeds on the well-recognised principle that individual hardship or preference must yield to constitutional and statutory obligations flowing from Article 21A of the Constitution of India.

79. Thus, the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 cannot be construed as inconsistent with or repugnant to the Government Order dated 23.05.2025. Rather, it is supplemental and curative in nature, issued to remedy deficiencies that persisted under the earlier regime and to ensure effective and meaningful implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009.

80. The learned Senior Counsel, Mr. Ashok Khare, for the petitioners in few writ petitions has raised the principal objections to the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 at the very outset.

81. Firstly, it is contended that the said Government Order suffers from a fundamental infirmity inasmuch as it does not specify the procedure to be followed for adjustment of teachers. In the absence of any prescribed mechanism, guidelines, or safeguards, the process of adjustment is left unguided and open to arbitrariness.

82. Secondly, the timing of the issuance of the Government Order is assailed as being wholly improper and contrary to the statutory scheme. Rule 21 of the Rules of 2011 mandates that the District Magistrate shall review the sanctioned strength of teachers in every school annually before the month of July and thereafter re-deploy teachers strictly in accordance with the assessed requirement. Once the statutory exercise is required to be completed prior to July of each year, there was no occasion or justification for issuing a Government Order in November 2025 for the purpose of adjusting teachers in December 2025.

83. Thirdly, it is submitted that the impugned Government Order is in clear violation of the Rules of 2011, which occupy the field and have statutory force. Any executive instruction issued in derogation of the statutory rules cannot be sustained in law.

84. On the aforesaid grounds, the learned Senior Counsel submits that the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is arbitrary, dehors the statutory framework, and liable to be struck down.

85. This Court has given anxious consideration to the submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioners. However, upon a careful examination of the statutory framework and the object sought to be achieved by the impugned Government Order dated 14.11.2025, this Court finds no merit in the challenge laid thereto.

86. As regards the contention relating to non-specification of procedure, it is to be noted that the Government Order does not operate in isolation. The adjustment of teachers is governed by the Rules of 2011 and other executive instructions issued from time to time. The impugned Government Order is merely an enabling and facilitative measure intended to give effect to the statutory mandate of maintaining the prescribed student-teacher ratio. Absence of a detailed procedure in the Government Order itself does not render it arbitrary, particularly when the field is already occupied by statutory rules and administrative practice.

87. However, in the present case, while issuing the impugned Government Order, a District-Level Committee under the chairmanship of the District Magistrate has been constituted. The said Committee has been duly empowered to periodically assess and review the ground realities with a view to maintaining the prescribed student-teacher ratio throughout the academic session. Such empowerment has been conferred to meet administrative exigencies and to ensure that the welfare of students is not compromised, thereby effectuating and advancing the object and purpose of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009.

88. With respect to the objection concerning timing, Rule 21 of the Rules of 2011 no doubt contemplates an annual review of sanctioned strength before the month of July. However, the said provision cannot be read as placing an absolute embargo on the State from taking corrective or emergent measures thereafter. The obligation of the State to ensure uninterrupted education and compliance with the student-teacher ratio is a continuing one. If subsequent developments, such as change in enrolment, closure of schools, or acute shortage of teachers, necessitate intervention, the State cannot be rendered powerless merely on account of the passage of the month of July.

89. The issuance of the Government Order in November 2025, therefore, cannot be said to be illegal or without jurisdiction, as it seeks to address pressing administrative exigencies and to safeguard the larger interest of students. The power of the State to issue executive instructions to meet unforeseen situations is well recognised, so long as such instructions do not directly contravene any statutory provision.

90. As regards the alleged violation of the Rules of 2011, this Court finds that the impugned Government Order neither amends nor overrides the statutory rules. On the contrary, it supplements the Rules by facilitating their effective implementation. It is settled law that executive instructions may validly fill in gaps where the rules are silent, provided they are not inconsistent with the statutory framework.

91. The submission advanced by learned counsel for certain petitioners alleging inaction on the part of the respondents on the ground that the transfer orders were issued after a gap of about one and a half months from the issuance of the Government Order is misconceived. Mere passage of time in implementing a policy decision, by itself, does not vitiate the action, particularly when the delay is attributable to administrative exigencies such as assessment of vacancies and compliance with the student-teacher ratio.

92. The grievance that teachers, who had joined pursuant to earlier order dated 17.07.2025, are being repatriated without assigning reasons is equally devoid of substance. The impugned action is neither punitive nor stigmatic but is a consequence of a general policy decision taken in public interest. In such circumstances, individual notice or assignment of personal reasons is not a legal requirement.

93. It is well settled that transfer and adjustment of teachers is an incidence of service, and no employee can claim a vested right to continue at a particular place of posting. In the absence of any pleading or proof of mala fides, arbitrariness, or violation of statutory provisions, the Court finds no ground to interfere.

94. In matters of policy and administrative adjustment, particularly in the field of education, the scope of judicial review is limited. Unless the policy is shown to be manifestly arbitrary, mala fide, or in clear violation of statutory provisions, this Court would be slow to interfere. No such infirmity has been demonstrated in the present case.

95. It is a settled principle of service jurisprudence that transfer of an employee is an incident and condition of service, falling squarely within the administrative discretion of the employer. The power to transfer is ordinarily exercised in public interest and to meet administrative exigencies, and the courts, while exercising jurisdiction under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution, do not sit in appeal over such decisions. Judicial review in transfer matters is, therefore, exceptional and not routine.

96. The Hon′ble Supreme Court in Shilpi Bose v. State of Bihar reported in 1991 Supp(2) SCC 659, has authoritatively held that courts should not interfere with transfer orders unless the same are shown to be vitiated by mala fides or are in clear violation of statutory provisions. Mere inconvenience, hardship, or personal difficulty of the employee does not furnish a legally sustainable ground for interference.

97. However, the rule of non-interference is not absolute. A transfer order becomes amenable to judicial scrutiny where it is established that the same has been passed with mala fide intent, by way of victimisation, or as a colourable exercise of power. Likewise, where the order is issued in contravention of statutory rules governing service conditions, or by an authority lacking competence or jurisdiction, the court would be justified in exercising its power of judicial review. In State of U.P. and others vs. Gobardhan Lal reported in (2004) 11 SCC 402, the Hon′ble Supreme Court observed that violation of statutory rules or proven mala fides alone can warrant interference in transfer matters.

98. The court may also interfere where a transfer, though innocuously worded, is in substance punitive or stigmatic and has been resorted to as a substitute for disciplinary proceedings, without following the procedure prescribed in law. Such an action would be arbitrary and violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution, as held in Somesh Tiwari v. Union of India reported in (2009) 2 SCC 592.

99. Conversely, deviation from executive guidelines or transfer policies, which do not have statutory force, does not confer any legally enforceable right upon an employee. In S.L. Abbas

(Supra), it was clearly held that administrative guidelines are meant for internal governance and their breach, by itself, does not justify judicial interference.

100. In conclusion, judicial intervention in transfer matters is confined to cases where the impugned order is shown to be mala fide, arbitrary, punitive in disguise, without jurisdiction, or in clear breach of statutory provisions. In absence of these grounds, the court must exercise judicial restraint, recognising that administrative authorities are best positioned to assess institutional requirements and public interest. Such restraint is essential to maintain the delicate balance between constitutional oversight and administrative autonomy.

101. In the present case, neither the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 nor the consequential transfer orders issued pursuant thereto are shown to be in contravention of any statutory provision. There is also no material on record to establish that the same suffer from mala fides or have been issued with any oblique motive.

102. However, insofar as the grievance of arbitrariness is concerned, the same cannot be adjudicated in abstract. Whether the impugned action is arbitrary or not must necessarily be examined on the touchstone of the individual facts and circumstances of each case.

103. The Government Order dated 14.11.2025, issued for implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, cannot be held to be arbitrary.

104. It is pertinent to note that under the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, a Committee has been constituted at the district level under the Chairmanship of the concerned District Magistrate, who is the competent authority to oversee and supervise the implementation of the said Government Order. The Committee has been empowered to consider factual aspects on the basis of relevant data, particularly with a view to maintaining the prescribed student-teacher ratio and ensuring effective implementation of the provisions of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009.

105. The Act of 2009 being a Central enactment enacted to secure the fundamental right to education under Article 21-A of the Constitution, its mandate shall prevail and must guide administrative action in the matter of deployment and adjustment of teachers.

106. In view thereof, any individual grievance regarding hardship or alleged arbitrariness may appropriately be placed before the competent Committee, which shall examine the same objectively on the basis of available data and in accordance with law.

107. The Act of 2009, particularly Sections 19 and 25 read with the Schedule, mandates maintenance of the prescribed student-teacher ratio. The impugned Government Order has been issued to rationalise and adjust teaching staff so as to ensure compliance with the statutory requirement and to effectuate the mandate of Article 21-A of the Constitution. A policy framed to implement a legislative command and to advance the larger public interest of students cannot, by its very nature, be termed arbitrary.

108. Judicial review of policy decisions is limited. In Union of India v. S.L. Abbas, (1993) 4 SCC 357, and State of U.P. v. Gobardhan Lal, (2004) 11 SCC 402, the Supreme Court held that transfer is an incident of service and courts should not interfere unless the action is vitiated by mala fides or contravention of statutory provisions. Further, as observed in E.P. Royappa v. State of Tamil Nadu, (1974) 4 SCC 3, arbitrariness is antithetical to equality; however, arbitrariness must be demonstrable and not presumed.

109. In the absence of any pleading or proof of mala fides, hostile discrimination, or violation of statutory rules, and when the Government Order is founded upon objective criteria to maintain the statutory student-teacher ratio, it cannot be characterised as arbitrary but is a bona fide policy measure in furtherance of the constitutional and statutory mandate.

110. A transfer policy can be said to be arbitrary when it lacks a rational basis, confers unguided discretion, or operates in a discriminatory or unreasonable manner, thereby offending Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution.

111. Though transfer is an incident of service and policy matters ordinarily lie outside judicial review, the Court may interfere where the policy is manifestly unreasonable, capricious, mala fide, or violative of statutory provisions. As held in E.P. Royappa (Supra), arbitrariness is antithetical to equality; hence, any policy that is irrational or unfair is liable to be struck down.

112. The contention raised by the petitioners cannot be brushed aside on the premise that the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 is bereft of any procedural framework. On the contrary, the Government Order does contemplate a definite procedure for rationalization of teachers so as to maintain the prescribed student-teacher ratio in terms of the Right to Education Act, 2009. However, the grievance which merits consideration is not about absence of procedure, but about its improper and inconsistent implementation.

113. Once a procedure is prescribed, whether expressly in the Government Order or by necessary implication, it is incumbent upon the authorities to adhere to the same in letter and spirit. Administrative discretion, howsoever wide, cannot transgress the bounds of procedural fairness. If the record reveals that no consolidated and verified list was prepared prior to effecting transfers, or that the exercise was undertaken without transparent consideration of relevant data, the action would suffer from arbitrariness.

114. Further, the inclusion of Shiksha Mitras and contractual instructors in the process of identifying surplus teachers, if done contrary to the governing statutory framework or settled legal principles, would amount to a misapplication of the procedure itself. The doctrine of fairness in administrative action mandates that similarly situated persons be treated alike and that distinct categories not be amalgamated in a manner inconsistent with law.

115. Thus, the issue is not of non-existence of procedure, but of non-compliance therewith. Where a prescribed mechanism exists but is not scrupulously followed, the resulting action becomes vulnerable to judicial scrutiny on the ground of arbitrariness and violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Administrative expediency cannot be permitted to override procedural discipline.

116. The State Government, in exercise of its statutory and administrative powers, has consistently issued Government Orders and circulars from time to time for the purpose of implementing the provisions of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, with due regard to the larger public interest and the overarching objective of safeguarding the educational rights and welfare of students.

117. It is also required to be noticed that, from time to time, several Government Orders have been issued for the implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009. However, the frequent issuance and modification of such Government Orders, in the absence of reliable and updated data regarding surplus and deficit teachers in primary schools, has led to an administrative disarray. The resultant uncertainty has compelled the petitioners to approach this Court repeatedly, thereby giving rise to avoidable rounds of litigation.

118. It is a settled principle of law that even in matters of transfer, though an incidence of service, an opportunity of representation ought to be afforded where the action results in civil consequences or appears to operate arbitrarily. The doctrine of fairness in administrative action mandates that affected teachers be made aware of the basis of their proposed displacement, particularly when such transfers are undertaken en masse pursuant to executive instructions.

119. The Court cannot remain oblivious to the fact that frequent transfers and readjustments, carried out without a transparent and data-driven exercise, have the potential to disrupt the academic environment and adversely impact the education of students, which is the paramount consideration under the Act of 2009.

120. In order to bring quietus to the prevailing controversy and to restore administrative stability, it would be appropriate that objections be invited from the affected teachers within a stipulated time. Upon receipt of such objections, the Committee already constituted under the chairmanship of the concerned District Magistrate may examine the same in light of verified data relating to student strength and teacher availability, and thereafter pass reasoned and speaking orders in accordance with law.

121. Such a course would not only uphold the principles of natural justice but would also ensure that the larger interest of students remains protected while maintaining administrative discipline.

122. This being the situation, how much interference is permissible is to be seen, as the scope of judicial review in policy matters is limited. Any policy or action of the Government, unless inconsistent with the Constitution and the laws, or arbitrary, irrational, or an abuse of power, is not subject to judicial review. In the case of Federation of Railway Officers Association and Others vs. Union of India, reported in (2003) 4 SCC 289, the Hon′ble Apex Court, observing the aforesaid principles, held as follows:-

"12. In examining a question of this nature where a policy is evolved by the Government judicial review thereof is limited. When policy according to which or the purpose for which discretion is to be exercised is clearly expressed in the statute, it cannot be said to be an unrestricted discretion. On matters affecting policy and requiring technical expertise Court would leave the matter for decision of those who are qualified to address the issues. Unless the policy or action is inconsistent with the Constitution and the laws or arbitrary or irrational or abuse of the power, the Court will not interfere with such matters."

123. The right of the Government to change its policy from time to time, under changing circumstances, cannot be questioned. While holding the aforesaid, the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Punjab and Others vs. Ram Lubhaya Bagga and Others, reported in (1998) 4 SCC 117, observed as follows:-

"25. Now we revert to the last submission, whether the new State policy is justified in not reimbursing an employee, his full medical expenses incurred on such treatment, if incurred in any hospital in India not being a Government hospital in Punjab. Question is whether the new policy which is restricted by the financial constraints of the State to the rates in AIIMS would be in violation of Article 21 of the Constitution of India. So far as questioning the validity of governmental policy is concerned in our view it is not normally within the domain of any court, to weigh the pros and cons of the policy or to scrutinize it and test the degree of its beneficial or equitable disposition for the purpose of varying modifying or annulling it, based on however sound and good reasoning, except where it is arbitrary or violative of any constitutional, statutory or any other provision of law. When Government forms its policy, it is based on number of circumstances on facts, law including constraints based on its resources. It is also based on expert opinion. it would be dangerous if court is asked to test the utility, beneficial effect of the policy or its appraisal based on facts set out on affidavits. The Court would dissuade itself from entering into this realm which belongs to the executive. It is within this matrix that it is to be seen whether the new policy violates Article 21 When it restricts reimbursement on account of its financial constraints."

124. In the case of Union of India and others vs. S.L. Abbas reported in (1993) 4 SCC 357, the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that an order of transfer is an incident of Government service. Who should be transferred where, is a matter for the appropriate authority to decide. Unless the order of transfer is vitiated by mala fides or is made in violation of any statutory provisions, the court cannot interfere with it.

125. In the case of Balco Employees' Union (Regd.) vs. Union of India and Others, reported in (2002) 2 SCC 333, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that the scope of judicial review is limited in policy decisions. Unless the decision is contrary to any statutory provision or the Constitution, the Court cannot interfere with it and cannot examine the relative merits of different policies merely on the ground that another policy might have been fairer or better. Relevant paragraphs 45, 46, and 87 of the aforesaid judgment are as under:-

45. In Narmada Bachao Andolan v. Union of India (2000) 10 SCC 664 there was a challenge to the validity of the establishment of a large dam. It was held by the majority at p. 762 as follows: (SCC para 229)

"229. It is now well settled that the courts, in the exercise of their jurisdiction, will not transgress into the field of policy decision. Whether to have an infrastructural project or not and what is the type of project to be undertaken and how it has to be executed, are part of policy-making process and the courts are ill-equipped to adjudicate on a policy decision so undertaken. The court, no doubt, has a duty to see that in the undertaking of a decision, no law is violated and people's fundamental rights are not transgressed upon except to the extent permissible under the Constitution.

46. It is evident from the above that it is neither within the domain of the courts nor the scope of the judicial review to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise or whether better public policy can be evolved. Nor are our courts inclined to strike down a policy at the behest of a petitioner merely because it has been urged that a different policy would have been fairer or wiser or more scientific or more logical.

87. Lastly, we need only to refer to the following observations in the majority decision in Narmada Bachao Andolan case (2000) 10 SCC 664 at p. 763: (SCC paras 232-34)

*232. While protecting the rights of the people from being violated in any manner utmost care has to be taken that the court does not transgress its jurisdiction. There is, in our constitutional framework a fairly clear demarcation of powers. The court has come down heavily whenever the executive has ought to impinge upon the court's jurisdiction.

233. At the same time, in exercise of its enormous power the court should not be called upon to or undertake governmental duties or functions. The courts cannot run the Government nor can the administration indulge in abuse or non-use of power and get away with it. The essence of judicial review is a constitutional fundamental. The role of the higher judiciary under the Constitution casts on it a great obligation as the sentinel to defend the values of the Constitution and the rights of Indians. The courts must, therefore, act within their judicially permissible limitations to uphold the rule of law and harness their power in public interest. It is precisely for this reason that it has been consistently held by this Court that in matters of policy the court will not interfere. When there is a valid law requiring the Government to act in a particular manner the court ought not to, without striking down the law, give any direction which is not in accordance with law. In other words, the court itself is not above the law.

234. In respect of public projects and policies which are initiated by the Government the courts should not become an approval authority. Normally such decisions are taken by the Government after due care and consideration. In a democracy welfare of the people at large, and not merely of a small section of the society, has to be the concern of a responsible Government. If a considered policy decision has been taken, which is not in conflict with any law or is not mala fide, it will not be in public interest to require the court to go into and investigate those areas which are the function of the executive. For any project which is approved after due deliberation the court should refrain from being asked to review the decision just because a petitioner in filing a PIL alleges that such a decision should not have been taken because an opposite view against the undertaking of the project, which view may have been considered by the Government, is possible. When two or more options or views are possible and after considering them the Government takes a policy decision it is then not the function of the court to go into the matter afresh and, in a way, sit in appeal over such a policy decision."

126. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has time and again opined that projects of public importance should not be halted as the same would be against the larger public interest and the constitutional courts should weigh public interest vis-a-vis private interest, while exercising its discretion. The courts are not equipped to comment upon the viability and feasibility of a particular project and whether a particular alignment is good or there can be better option. In such matters, the scope of judicial review is very limited.

127. The Hon'ble Apex Court recently in a case of Kirloskar Ferrous Industries Limited and another vs. Union of India and others reported in 2024 INSC 848 , has held as under:-

"54. The doctrine of judicial restraint, which is central to this discussion, emphasizes that courts should exercise caution and avoid involvement in policy decisions, as these are complex judgments that require a balancing of diverse and often competing interests. Policies are crafted based on thorough analysis of social, economic, and political factors, considerations beyond the court's purview. The court is tasked with ensuring that policies do not breach constitutional provisions or statutory limits; however, they should not replace policymakers' judgments with their own unless absolutely necessary.

56. While courts have the power of judicial review to ensure that executive actions and legislative enactments comply with the Constitution, this power is not absolute. Judicial review is meant to act as a safeguard against actions that overstep legal boundaries or infringe on fundamental rights, but it does not entail a comprehensive re-evaluation of the policy's wisdom. The judicial review of policy decisions is limited to assessing the legality of the decision-making process rather than the substantive merits of the policy itself. For example, if a government policy infringes on fundamental rights or discriminates against a particular group, the courts have a duty to strike down such policies. However, in the absence of constitutional or legal violations, the courts should respect the policy choices made by the executive or legislature.

57. The duty of the court in policy-related cases is primarily to determine whether the policy falls within the scope of the authority granted to the relevant body. If the policy decision is within the executive's legal authority and has been made following proper procedures, the courts should defer to the expertise and discretion of the policy-makers, even if the policy appears unwise or imprudent. This restraint ensures that the courts do not impose its own perspective on policy matters that are rightly the responsibility of other branches.

128. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. and another vs. Johri Mal reported in (2004) 4 SCC 714 has observed that the power of judicial review is not intended to assume a supervisory role or don the robes of the omnipresent. The courts while exercising the power of judicial review, do not sit in appeal over the decisions of administrative bodies. An order passed by an administrative authority exercising discretion vested in it, cannot be interfered in judicial review unless it is shown that exercise of discretion itself is perverse or illegal. The courts cannot be called upon to undertake the government duties and functions. The court shall not ordinarily interfere with a policy decision of the State. While examining and scrutinizing the decision making process it becomes inevitable to also appreciate the facts of a given case as otherwise the decision cannot be tested under the grounds of illegality, irrationality or procedural impropriety. Thus, to a limited extent of scrutinizing the decision making process, it is always open to the court to review the evaluation of facts by the decision maker.

129. In the case of Census Commissioner and others vs. R. Krishnamurthy reported in (2015) 2 SCC 796, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"33. From the aforesaid pronouncement of law, it is clear as noon day that it is not within the domain of the courts to embark upon an enquiry as to whether a particular public policy is wise and acceptable or whether a better policy could be evolved. The court can only interfere if the policy framed is absolutely capricious or not informed by reasons or totally arbitrary and founded ipse dixit offending the basic requirement of Article 14 of the Constitution. In certain matters, as often said, there can be opinions and opinions but the court is not expected to sit as an appellate authority on an opinion."

130. Further, in Rajendra Singh v. State of U.P., (2009) 15 SCC 178, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that a transfer policy is not enforceable as a statute and deviation therefrom does not ipso facto render a transfer order illegal. Judicial review is confined to examining the decision-making process and not the merits of the decision itself.

131. In Major General J.K. Bansal v. Union of India, (2005) 7 SCC 227, the Apex Court held that in matters involving organizational requirements and administrative exigencies, courts must exercise greater restraint, as the employer is the best judge of where an employee's services are required.

132. In view of the foregoing discussion, the challenge to the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 fails and is accordingly rejected. The said Government Order, having been issued in furtherance of the statutory mandate of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 and with the object of maintaining the prescribed teacher-student ratio, is hereby upheld.

133. The respondent authorities are directed to ensure expeditious and effective implementation of the Government Order dated 14.11.2025 in a fair, transparent and non-discriminatory manner. While undertaking adjustment and redeployment of teachers, due regard shall be had to objective criteria such as student strength (on the basis of Mid-Day Meal) and sanctioned posts, and unnecessary hardship shall be avoided, as far as practicable, without compromising the larger public interest.

134. It is further observed that the process of adjustment shall not be used as a tool for punitive transfer or victimisation of teachers and shall remain confined to the purpose for which the policy has been framed. Any grievance arising out of implementation may be considered by the competent authority strictly in accordance with law.

135. This Court is of the opinion that transfers must conform to the applicable Service Rules and Government Orders issued for implementation of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009. Any action contrary thereto is legally unsustainable. The following should be kept in mind while passing transfer orders.

(i) Maintenance of the prescribed student-teacher ratio is the dominant and overriding factor. Transfers must be based on verified data identifying surplus and deficit schools.

(ii) A rational exercise founded on consolidated district-level data regarding sanctioned strength, working strength, and enrolment is mandatory. Absence of such data renders the process arbitrary.

(iii) Transfers must be justified by genuine administrative necessity and the larger interest of students. Courts ordinarily do not interfere unless statutory violation or mala fides is established, as held in Shilpi Bose (Supra).

(iv) Transfer cannot be punitive, discriminatory, or whimsical. Judicial interference is permissible only when the order is vitiated by mala fides or breach of statutory rules, as reiterated in Gobardhan Lal (Supra).

(v) Accordingly, transfers of Assistant Teachers must be data-driven, policy-compliant, and guided solely by administrative exigency and educational welfare. In the absence of arbitrariness, mala fides, or statutory violation, such transfers do not warrant judicial interference.

136. It is a settled proposition of service jurisprudence that a writ petition challenging a transfer order ordinarily ought not to be entertained unless the employee first complies with the order and joins at the transferred place. Transfer being an incidence of service, courts refrain from interdicting such orders at the threshold. The Supreme Court in S.L. Abbas (Supra) authoritatively held that who should be transferred and where is a matter for the employer to decide, and judicial review is confined to cases of mala fides or violation of statutory provisions. A similar principle was reiterated in Shilpi Bose (Supra), wherein it was observed that courts should not interfere with transfer orders made in public interest and for administrative reasons.

137. However, the rule is one of prudence and self-imposed restraint, not an absolute bar. In exceptional circumstances, where the action is shown to be arbitrary, based on non-existent or unverified data, or likely to seriously prejudice public interest, constitutional courts are not powerless. As elucidated in Gobardhan Lal (Supra), interference is warranted where the transfer order is vitiated by mala fides or contravenes statutory provisions.

138. Upon perusal of the material placed on record, particularly the data available on the UDISE portal, it is not discernible whether, while effecting transfers pursuant to the Government Order dated 14.11.2025, the prescribed criteria, namely, maintenance of pupil-teacher ratio, identification of surplus and deficit institutions, and objective district-level assessment have been scrupulously adhered to.

139. It is further noticed that each writ petition comprises more than one petitioner, however, the individual factual matrices, including the particulars of posting, sanctioned strength, and institutional requirement, have neither been specifically pleaded nor substantiated by cogent material. Since this Court has confined itself to adjudication of the legal validity of the Government

Order and finds no statutory infirmity or manifest arbitrariness therein, the individual grievances require factual examination at the administrative level.

140. The Court is confronted with considerable difficulty in adjudicating upon the factual matrix of the present matter. A multitude of writ petitions have been instituted, wherein numerous petitioners have been arrayed in a single proceeding. However, the pleadings are conspicuously silent with regard to the foundational facts necessary for effective judicial scrutiny, particularly the specific data reflecting surplus or deficit of teachers in the respective institutions concerned.

141. In the absence of such essential particulars, this Court is deprived of the requisite factual substratum to meaningfully examine the legality, arbitrariness, or propriety of the impugned action. It is well settled that in proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the burden lies upon the petitioners to place complete and cogent material before the Court so as to enable an informed adjudication. Vague, omnibus, and generalized pleadings cannot form the basis for issuance of a writ.

142. Accordingly, unless the petitioners furnish institution-wise details indicating the sanctioned strength, working strength, and the extent of surplus or deficiency of teachers, this Court would be constrained to decline interference for want of necessary factual foundation.

143. However, in the peculiar facts of the present case, a disturbing situation has emerged owing to the apparent non-availability or non-verification of accurate institutional data, particularly concerning sanctioned strength of teacher and pupil-teacher ratio. Such uncertainty has the potential to adversely affect the educational framework and the larger interest of students. When administrative action, though ostensibly lawful, results in systemic imbalance due to factual infirmities, limited judicial scrutiny becomes imperative to ensure adherence to fairness and reasonableness under Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

144. Therefore, while conscious of the restricted scope of judicial review in transfer matters, this Court finds that the present circumstances constitute an exception warranting calibrated interference, not to supplant administrative discretion, but to ensure that such discretion is exercised on the basis of correct, verified, and objective data so as to safeguard the larger public interest.

145. Accordingly, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the individual claims, and in the interest of justice, it is directed that each petitioner shall submit a separate and comprehensive representation/objection before the District Level Committee constituted under the chairmanship of the District Magistrate within a period of one week from today. Upon receipt of such objections, the Committee shall examine the same in light of the applicable rules, the mandate of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, and the relevant Government Orders, and shall pass a reasoned and speaking order in accordance with law within one month thereafter.

146. For a period of one month from today or until the passing of a final order by the competent authority, whichever is earlier, status quo as existing today shall be maintained.

147. The concerned authority is further directed to forthwith verify, rectify, and update the correct and authentic data on the UDISE portal and, on the basis of such updated data, to undertake posting and deployment of teachers strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009, so as to ensure and maintain the prescribed pupil-teacher ratio in its true letter and spirit.

148. With the aforesaid observations/directions, these writ petitions are disposed of.

149. The Court records its appreciation for the diligent efforts and valuable assistance rendered by Ms. Vaishanavi Kesarwani, Research Associate. The precision and clarity reflected in the legal research and analysis submitted by her demonstrate commendable attention to detail. The Court acknowledges her contribution in aiding the adjudication of the matter.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE MAHESH CHANDRA TRIPATHI, J.
THE HON'BLE KUNAL RAVI SINGH, J.

Special Appeal No. 191 of 2026 and other cases

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Sakshi & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Binding nature of Regulations of 2014 requiring the candidates to complete the Diploma course within two years' time, subject to a maximum time of three years.
(2) Validity of the orders of Secretary providing additional chance to the failed students, which consequently extend the maximum three years time period of Diploma course as provided under the statute.
(3) Permissibility of claiming parity of negative equality under Article 14 of the Constitution.
(4) Entitlement of right to appear for an additional chance in the examination in contravention of right of children to get quality education guaranteed under Article 21-A and directed under Article 45 of the Constitution of India.

Headnotes

(A) Education law – Diploma Course – Maximum time limit of passing the course – Regulations of 2014 framed under the Act of 1993 require the candidates to complete the course in two years' time, subject to a maximum time of three years – Binding nature :

Held : NCTE Act and the Regulations framed in pursuance of the powers given in Section 32 have binding effect in relation to norms and qualifications of teachers. Thus, it is patently obvious that the norms laid down in Regulation 2 to Appendix-2 of Regulations 2014 have a binding effect, and the time period prescribed under Regulation 2 of Appendix-2 is binding and mandatory in nature leading to the irresistible conclusion that the maximum time limit for passing a Diploma in Elementary Education course is three years. [Para 32]

(B) Education law – Diploma Course – Students failed in one subjects three times – Additional chance sought – Relaxation – Secretary issued an order dated 11.09.2021 to give additional chance to the students failed in one subjects of their first semester, and further another order dated 19.04.2022 to the students failed in any subjects in any of the semester – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : The orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 are only executive orders. They are subordinate to the Regulations, 2014. The executive order would not in any way override the Regulations having statutory force – The Examination Regulatory Authority would have powers to issue executive orders to deal with issues as described in the Government order dated 27.02.2004, but the Authority could not issue any executive order that transgressed upon the norms and qualifications imposed by the Regulations, 2014. [Para 36]

(C) Constitution of India – Article 14 – Right to Equality – Negative equality – Scope – Additional chance was claimed by the students of Diploma course failed in one subjects three times – Entitlement – Secretary passed the orders granting additional chances to those students who had filed representation – Similar opportunity was sought by the petitioners-respondent, who had not filed representation and whose name was not in the list – Plea of right to equality under Article 14 was taken – Permissibility – Writ court found the action of the respondent of not granting the petitioners additional chance as discriminatory – Validity challenged : (E-1)

Held : Article 14 of the Constitution of India guarantees equal protection to similarly situated persons. The intention of the Article is in a positive sense as it seeks to eliminate discrimination between persons who are similarly situated – Article 14 protects the rights in a positive manner meaning thereby that any rights based on an illegality cannot be claimed under Article 14 – Moreover, the petitioners (respondents herein) have admittedly not filed any representation before the Secretary. Therefore, even otherwise, they cannot claim any parity with the candidates, who have filed representations before the Secretary and consequently, their names were found placed in all the lists issued thereafter by the Secretary – Once it is the opinion of this Court that the executive orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 were in contravention of the Regulations, 2014, then there would be no question with regard to granting a similar benefit to the respondents herein, as no rights can be claimed based on the illegal orders. [Para 42, 43 and 45]

(D) Constitution of India – Article 21-A and 45 – Fundamental right of Education – Scope – Right of children to get quality education vis-à-vis Right of Diploma-student to appear for an additional chance in the examination – Superseding effect – Regulation was framed with the object to provide quality education – Enforceability – In contravention of the constitutional guarantee, the order were passed by the State or the authorized officer – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : The power to lay down norms and qualifications by Regulations is to ensure quality education to the children of age 6-14 years. These young formative minds will shape the future of the country, therefore the persons to be recruited as teachers should be of utmost quality and standards – The Constitutional Court owe a duty to protect the rights of the children, it would be apt to reinforce that the actions of the State must align with the constitutional guarantees provided to the children, keeping in mind the directive principles as enshrined in Article 45 of the Constitution of India. The Constitution has cast a permanent obligation on the State to fulfill the right to education of children. Besides this the State under the Constitution and various statutes is also a guarantor of rights and guardian of the children therefore before taking any executive action, the State must ensure that any order/direction/circular issued by the State or any authorized officer under any delegation of power under the Act, 2009 must be in compliance with the constitutional guarantees towards the children. FACTS:

[4] The respondents herein (petitioners in the writ petitions) are the students of Diploma in Elementary Education Course of various batches across various Colleges offering the Diploma Course. The common feature with all the respondents herein is that all the respondents herein have failed in one subject three times, thereby cancelling their enrollment as students of the Diploma Course. Upon numerous representations being filed by such failed students before the Secretary, Examination Regulatory Authority, Prayagraj, the Secretary issued an order dated 11.09.2021 by means of which one additional chance was provided to students, who had failed in one subject of their first semester three times and who had represented to the Secretary for an additional chance to clear the course. The order gave one additional chance to students whose names figured in the list enclosed with the order dated 11.09.2021. Thereafter, another order dated 19.04.2022 was issued by the Secretary by which one additional chance was given to the students, who had failed in any subject three times in any of the semesters. The order was issued in respect of students, who had represented to the Secretary, and an additional chance was given to students whose names figured in the enclosed list. As the names of the respondents herein did not figure in the enclosed list of the two orders, the respondents herein preferred several writ petitions claiming that the actions of the State appellants in denying similar opportunity to the respondents were in violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The respondents herein claimed to be similarly situated to the students, who were granted additional chances by the two orders of the Secretary. The respondents herein also claimed that their representations had remained pending, and as such, by adopting a pick-and-choose policy, the State appellants had allowed only selective students to appear in the examination. On the above averments, the respondents herein prayed that the State appellants be directed to permit the respondents herein to appear in the subject in which they had failed after granting them an additional chance in the Diploma Course of their respective year.

[5] The Learned Single Judge, while entertaining the petitions, on 03.05.2023, framed several issues which were required to be answered by the State appellants and National Council for Teacher Education. The order dated 03.05.2023 is hereinafter reproduced below:

"Shri Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner, is present.

Shri Bharat Pratap Singh, learned counsel, has entered an appearance on behalf of the NCTE. The NCTE shall file counter affidavit disclosing all relevant facts, including the following:

A. The stand of the NCTE regarding the additional chance given by the State Government to D.El.Ed. candidates who had been admitted in the academic Sessions commencing from 2013, 2014, 2015, 2017 and 2018.

B. Whether the said decision is contrary to standards of the D.El.Ed. course determined by the NCTE?

C. Whether any prior permission was required and taken from the NCTE for relaxing the outer limit of D.El.Ed. examination?

The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State is not satisfactory. The State shall file a fresh counter affidavit disclosing all relevant facts including:

A. Whether the relaxation granted is consistent with the standards for D.El.Ed. course set by the NCTE?

B. Whether the said standards are binding on the State Government? In case counter affidavits are not forthcoming on behalf of the State as well as NCTE respectively on the next date of listing, the Court may summon concerned officials in person. Name of Shri Bharat Pratap Singh, learned counsel shall be shown in the cause list as counsel for the respondent-NCTE whenever the matter is listed next. Put up this case on 25.05.2023 in the list of fresh cases.″

[6] In pursuance of the queries of the Court, the State appellants and NCTE filed their respective affidavits, which were taken on record. In the affidavit filed by the State appellants, a Government Order dated 27.02.2004 was placed on record, which detailed certain powers given to the Secretary about the conduct of the examinations in the Diploma Course. The State appellants averred that relaxation/additional chance was only given to those students, who had represented to the Secretary before the date of issuance of the orders by the Secretary.

[7] In the affidavit filed by NCTE, it was stated that as per Clause 2.1 of Appendix-2 of the National Council for Teachers Education (Recognition Norms and Procedure) Regulation, 2014, the Diploma Course shall be of two (2) years however the students shall be permitted to complete the course within a maximum period of three (3) years. Furthermore, it was averred that any decision of the State Government contrary to the norms and standards fixed by NCTE or any concession granted by the State Government for completing the Diploma Course would violate the Regulations 2014.

[8] The Learned Single Judge, after considering the replies of the State appellants and NCTE by means of judgment and order dated 06.07.2023, allowed the writ petitions and held that the respondents herein have been discriminated as they were not granted an additional chance to clear their course. A writ of mandamus was issued to the State appellants to provide one additional chance to the respondents herein to appear in the paper in which the respondents herein had failed in the Course. However, the Learned Single Judge further directed that the judgment and order shall not be treated as a binding precedent in relation to those petitions which shall be filed after the date of the decision, and all arguments shall remain open for the State insofar as the factual background of such petitions would reflect. When several other petitions came to be filed relying upon the judgment and order dated 06.07.2023, the same were allowed in terms of the mandamus issued in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023. The present Special Appeal, along with other connected appeals have been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 06.7.2023 and other orders in the respective writ petitions by means of which the mandamus issued in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023 (Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and 32 others) was extended.

APPELLANTS SUBMISSION:

[9] The State appellants have filed the present Special Appeals challenging the judgment and order dated 06.07.2023 and other orders extending the benefit of the judgment and order dated 06.07.2023 to the other writ petitions on the following grounds:-

(i) The course duration is of two (2) years, with a maximum of three (3) years being allowed to clear the Course. By the time the orders were issued by the Secretary, the course duration was over, and no further chances could be given to the respondents herein.

(ii) As per Clause 2.1 of Appendix-2 of the Regulation, 2014, the maximum duration of the Course is three years; no further relaxation could be given about the number of years required to clear the Course. The bar in the Regulations, 2014 has not been relaxed, and the orders issued by the Secretary could not extend the period of course completion, as the Regulations, 2014 of NCTE are binding upon the State authorities. Statutory Rules prevail over executive orders.

(iii) The power to make regulations is in light of Section 32 of the National Council for Teachers Education Act, 1993, especially Section 32 (2) (d) (ii), which empowers the NCTE to lay down norms/ guidelines and standards in respect of the category of courses or training in Teacher Education. The regulations made under the statutory duty are binding in nature, and their effect cannot be curtailed.

(iv) There is no violation of Article 14 of the Constitution as there cannot be any negative parity. Even though the orders of the Secretary gave benefits to some of the students, the same benefits cannot be given to the respondents herein, as the same would amount to an illegal act being done. Wrong consequences of the orders cannot be extended to the respondents herein.

(v) There cannot be any estoppel against the statute especially because the time limit for the course duration was not extended by NCTE; therefore, the orders of the Secretary would not amount to a valid exercise of jurisdiction, as any executive order/ government order could not dilute the Regulations which have been framed by NCTE and have binding force.

(vi) The Learned Single Judge has been swayed by the fact that some students were given benefits, but the respondents herein were denied the same, thus violating Article 14 of the Constitution. The respondents herein did not file their respective representations before the orders were passed by the Secretary, and as such, no benefits could have extended to the respondents herein.

(vii) The judgment of the learned Single Judge has overlooked the Regulations, 2014, while granting benefits to the respondents herein, which is completely arbitrary and illegal. No benefits contrary to the Regulations, 2014 could be given to the respondents herein. Learned Senior Advocate for the State appellants relied upon the following judgments in support of his arguments:

(a) Employees' State Insurance Corporation vs. Union of India and others;

(b) Jyotsana Mayee Mishra vs. State of Odisha and others;

(c) State of Haryana vs. Ram Kumar Mann

(d) Harshad Chima Lal Modi vs. DLF Universal Ltd

(e) Director of Elementary education vs. Pramod Kumar Sahu

RESPONDENTS SUBMISSIONS:

[10] The counsels for the respondents have refuted the stand of the State appellants and have contended the following:-

(i) The judgment of the learned Single Judge does not suffer from any illegality as the same has addressed an arbitrary action on the part of the respondents in giving benefits to only some of the students.

(ii) Since the representations filed by the petitioners were never addressed, the mandamus issued by the learned Single Judge does not need any interference.

(iii) There is no question of any negative parity as the power to issue executive orders by the Secretary was never questioned; the appellants stated that the orders were issued under special circumstances. Once there is no challenge to the orders, then there is no question of any negative parity, and the respondents herein are entitled to be treated on the same footing as that given to the other students whose names appeared in the two lists attached to the Orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022.

(iv) The State cannot approbate and reprobate on the issue as the State has earlier taken the submission that the executive order was valid, and as such, the appellants were stopped from saying otherwise.

(v) The State respondents in the compliance affidavit filed in the contempt application had stated categorically that the State can conduct the examination, and necessary orders have been passed; therefore, now they cannot be permitted to resile from their admission.

LEGISLATIVE MATRIX:

[11] Before delving into the various issues and submissions advanced by the respective learned counsels, it is necessary to keep in mind the legislative provisions that are in play in the controversy at hand. By means of Act no. 73 of 1993, the Parliament enacted the Act, 1993. The aims and objectives of the Act, 1993 are as follows:

"An Act to provide for the establishment of a National Council for Teacher Education with a view to achieving planned and coordinated development of the teacher education system throughout the country, the regulation and proper maintenance of norms and standards in the teacher education system [including qualifications of school teachers] and for matters connected therewith."

The Act sought to provide statutory powers to the NCTE to determine, maintain, and coordinate standards in teacher education, laying down norms and guidelines for various courses, promotion of innovation in the said field and establishment of a suitable system of conducting education of teachers.

[12] Under Section 2(l), Teacher Education is described as following:

"(l) teacher education means programmes of education, research or training of persons for equipping them to teach at pre-primary, primary, secondary and senior secondary stages in schools, and includes non-formal education, part-time education, adult education and correspondence education"

[13] Under Section 12, the functions of the Council are described as follows:

"12. Functions of the Council- It shall be the duty of the Council to take all such steps as it may think fit for ensuring planned and co-ordinated development of teacher education and for the determination and maintenance of standards for teacher education, and for the purposes of performing its functions under this Act, the Council may-

(e) lay down norms for any specified category of courses or trainings in teacher education, including the minimum eligibility criteria for admission thereof, and the method of selection of candidates, duration of the course, course contents and mode of curriculum; …."

[14] Further Section 12-A grants power to the Council to determine minimum standards of education of school teachers: its reads as following :

"12-A. Power of Council to determine minimum standards of education of school teachers.-For the purpose of maintaining standards of education in schools, the Council may, by regulations, determine the qualifications of persons for being recruited as teachers in any pre-primary, primary, upper primary, secondary, senior secondary or intermediate school or college, by whatever name called, established, run, aided or recognised by the Central Government or a State Government or a local or other authority:

[15] Section 27 of the Act, 1993 deals with the delegation of powers, which reads as follows:

"27. Delegation of powers and functions. -The Council may, by general or special order in writing, delegate to the chairperson or to any other member or to any officer of the Regional Committee, subject to such conditions and limitations, if any, as may be specified in the order, such of its powers and functions under this Act (except the power to make regulations under section 32), as it may deem necessary.″

[16] Section 32 of the Act, 1993 grants power to the Council to make regulations for the effective implementation of the provisions of the Act. The only limitation is that the Regulations cannot be inconsistent with the Act, 1993. It reads as follows:

"32. Power to make regulations. - (1) The Council may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make regulations not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act and the rules made thereunder, generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such regulations may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely: -

(d) the norms, guidelines and standards in respect of-

(ii) the specified category of courses or training in teacher education under clause (e) of section12.″

[17] In pursuance of the powers given under sub-section (2) of Section 32 of the Act, 1993, the Council promulgated Regulations, 2014 on 28.11.2014. As per Regulation 3, the Regulations shall be applicable to all matters relating to teachers' education programme for preparing norms and standards. The Regulations 2014 further lay down norms for Diploma in Elementary Education in Appendix-2. The preamble to Appendix 2 states as follows:

1.1. The Diploma in Elementary Education (D.El.Ed) is a two-year professional programme of teacher education. It aims to prepare teachers for the elementary stage of education, i.e. classes I to VUI. Elementary education aims to fulfil the basic learning needs of all children in an inclusive school environment, bridging social and gender gaps with the active participation of the community.

1.2. The elementary teacher education programme carries different nomenclatures such as BTC, J.B.T, D.Ed. and (Diploma in Education). Henceforth, the nomenclature of the programme shall be the same across all states and it shall be referred to as the 'Diploma in Elementary Education'(D.El.Ed).″

Furthermore, the course duration is prescribed in Regulation 2 to the appendix which reads as follows:

"2. The D.El.Ed. programme shall be of a duration of two academic years. However, the students shall be permitted to complete the programme within a maximum period of three years from the date of admission to the programme.″

[18] The State Government in pursuance of the Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009 enacted the Uttar Pradesh Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Rules, 2011. Part VII of the Rule 2011 provides as follows:

"Part-VII (1) For Section 29 the State Council of Educational Research and Training shall lay down the curriculum and evaluation procedure for elementary education.

(2) The State Council of Education Research and Training, while laying down the curriculum and evaluation procedure, shall perform the following functions: (a) Formulate the relevant and age-appropriate syllabus and textbooks and other learning material;

(b) Develop in-service teacher training design; and

(c) Prepare guidelines for putting into practice continuous and comprehensive evaluation.″

[19] In light of the above, the Curriculum for Diploma Course was prepared by the District Institute of Education & Training working under the State Council for Educational Research and Training. As per the curriculum prepared by DIET, it is provided that a student will have three attempts to clear any failed subject otherwise, his candidature for training shall come to an end.

Clause-19 of the Rules of Training provides a condition for cancellation of candidature, which is as follows:

"प्रशिक्षु यदि अधिकतम किन्हीं दो विषयों की लिखित परीक्षा में अनुत्तीर्ण होता है तो उसे आगे आने वाले सेमेस्टर में पुनः लिखित परीक्षा में सम्मिलित होने की अनुमति दी जायेगी, किन्तु यदि दो से अधिक विषयों में अनुत्तीर्ण होता है तो उसे पूरा सेमेस्टर दोबारा करना होगा।"

Furthermore, Clause 20 provides for a representation of candidates whose candidature has been cancelled. Clause 20 provides as follows:

"अभ्यर्थन निरस्त होने पर / बी०टी०सी० प्रमाण पत्र रद्द किये जाने पर प्रशिक्षु द्वारा अपीलीय प्राधिकारी के समक्ष आदेश जारी होने की तिथि से तीस दिन के अंदर अपील प्रस्तुत की जा सकती है। अपील के निस्तारण के पूर्व प्रशिक्षु को सुनवाई का अवसर दिया जाएगा। अपीलीय प्राधिकारी, निदेशक, राज्य शैक्षिक अनुसंधान एवं प्रशिक्षण परिषद, उ०प्र० लखनऊ तथा उनके द्वारा अधिकृत प्राधिकारी होंगे। अपीलीय अधिकारी का निर्णय अन्तिम होगा″

Thus, from the aforesaid, it is clear that it is for those candidates, whose candidature has been cancelled, to file an Appeal before the Appellate Authority, which is to be decided after giving a proper opportunity of hearing. The Appellate Authority is the Director, SCERT or an officer authorized by him.

[20] As per the Government Order dated 27.02.2004, Examination Regulatory Authority, U.P. Prayagraj was created, and the Secretary of the said Authority was vested with powers to conduct examinations and the same was made applicable to SCERT and Director, Basic Education.

[23] The Constitution of India was amended by the Parliament by means of enactment of the 86th Amendment Act in 2002. Article 21-A was added which provided as follows:

"21A: The State shall provide free and compulsory education to all children of the age of six to fourteen years in such manner as the State may, by law, determine."

[24] In pursuance of the 86th Amendment, the Parliament enacted Act No.35 of 2009 i.e. The Right of Children to Free and Compulsory Education Act, 2009. The Act, 2009, sought to provide for free and compulsory education to all children of the ages of six to fourteen years. One of the aims of the Act, 2009 is to ensure good quality elementary education conforming to the standards and norms specified in the Schedule of the Act, 2009. The overall purpose of the Act, 2009 is to ensure compliance of Article 21A and to ensure that children of formative years get a good quality education by Teachers, who are fully qualified and trained to teach the young minds.

POINTS OF DETERMINATION:

[25] Heard rival submissions and perused the records of the Special Appeals. To adjudicate the controversy in the present Special Appeal, the following points of determination are framed whose decision would effectively determine the issues at hand:

(I) Whether the NCTE regulations with regard to Diploma in Elementary Education are binding and mandatory on the State appellants?

(II) Whether the non-extension of time period to complete the course within 3 years as per Regulation 2.1 of Appendix-2 to the Regulations, 2014 would invalidate the order dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 passed by the Secretary?

(III) Whether the respondents herein are entitled to one additional chance as given to students whose name figured in the lists enclosed with orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022?

(IV) Whether there is any violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India?

DISCUSSIONS:

[26] The Act 1993 was enacted to ensure that there is a planned and coordinated development of teachers′ education system throughout the country and the regulation and proper maintenance of norms and standards in the teacher education system. The aim and purpose of the Act was to ensure that a uniform development took place in teacher training so that the best-trained teacher could be employed to teach the future generation of the country. To further the provisions of the Act, 1993 the power was given to frame regulations to ensure quality training and education. Under Section 32 of the Act, 1993, the Council had the power to frame regulations on a variety of topics as stated in Section 32 (2). The power to make regulations to carry out the aims and objects of the Act, 1993 is also clear from Section 12-A of the Act, 1993. Section 12-A gives the power to make regulations for determining the minimum standards of education of school teachers.

[27] In furtherance of the said powers, the Council framed the Regulations 2014, which covered qualifications for teachers and provided various criteria for different diploma qualifications. Regulation 2.1 to Appendix-2 of the Regulations, 2014 stated the time period for obtaining a diploma in Elementary Education. The candidates were required to complete the course in two years' time, subject to a maximum time of three years. In short, the diploma has to be obtained by any candidate in a maximum of three years. No further extension is allowed.

[28] The question with regard to the binding nature of the Act, 1993 and the Regulations that were framed in pursuance of Section 32(2) is no longer res-integra. This Court in the Full Bench judgment of Shiv Kumar Sharma and others vs. State of U.P. and others, has clearly held that there is a binding effect of the Act, 1993 and the Regulations framed thereunder. The Court held that after insertion of Section 12-A in the Act, 1993 there is no doubt any more with regard to the authority of the NCTE to fix norms and qualifications that are to be possessed by teachers of all categories of institutions including elementary education. Though in the present case, the question of the qualifications of the teachers is not under consideration but the norms fixed by the Regulations as framed under Section 32(2) of the Act have binding and mandatory effect.

[29] In Ram Surat Yadav and others vs. State of U.P. Through Secretary and others, the Full Bench of this Court held that NCTE is duly empowered to prescribe the minimum qualifications for persons who are recruited as teachers from the pre-primary to the intermediate of college level. The Court relied upon Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra) to reiterate the binding effect of the provision and Regulations framed under the Act, 1993. Even though the Full Bench was dealing with recruitment process prior to the amending Act of 2011 yet the Full Bench held the binding nature of the provisions and the regulations framed thereunder.

[30] In Syed Shakeb Ashraf and 3 others vs. State of U.P. Through Principal Secretary, Department of Basic Education, Lucknow and others.; the Court reiterated the binding and mandatory effect of the provisions and Regulations framed under the Act, 1993. The Court relied upon Shiv Kumar Sharma (supra) and Ram Surat Yadav (supra) to hold the NCTE Act and its Regulations have binding effect.

[31] Furthermore in State of U.P. And others vs, Shiv Kumar Pathak and others; the Supreme Court held that the State Government was under an obligation to act in accordance with the notification issued by NCTE and cannot give effect to any contrary rule.

[32] Thus, from the above precedents, it is clear that the NCTE Act and the Regulations framed in pursuance of the powers given in Section 32 have binding effect in relation to norms and qualifications of teachers. Thus, it is patently obvious that the norms laid down in Regulation 2 to Appendix-2 of Regulations 2014 have a binding effect, and the time period prescribed under Regulation 2 of Appendix-2 is binding and mandatory in nature leading to the irresistible conclusion that the maximum time limit for passing a Diploma in Elementary Education course is three years.

[33] A question now that needs to be answered is whether there is any power to the State to relax the norms as imposed by the Regulations, 2014. Under Section 27 of the Act,1993 the Council may by general or special order in writing delegate to the Chairperson or any other member or to any officer of the Regional Committee subject to such terms and conditions and limitations as may be specified in the said order, such powers or functions as it may deem necessary but the section has specifically excluded the power to make regulations meaning thereby the power to make a regulation prescribing norms and qualifications vests absolutely in the Council. The delegated power to the Regional Committee (the Secretary in the present case) cannot override the norms prescribed in the Regulations. Thus, Regulation 2 of Appendix-2 of the Regulations, 2014 cannot be changed under any power under Section 27. Once no power exists in the Secretary to modify the Regulations then the time period to complete the Diploma Course is fixed at three years maximum as per the Regulations 2014.

[34] The Government order dated 27.02.2004 gives powers to the Examination Regulatory Authority to deal with issues arising out of the conduct of examinations. The powers given under Clause (5) relates to fixation of examination dates, finalization of examination centers, the directions to be issued to the examiners and the center supervisors, holding of examination with the time schedule, collection of the examination booklets, the valuation of the examination booklets, preparation of result and its declaration and the issuance of mark sheets and other certificates. Under Clause (6), the Secretary shall be responsible for secrecy of the examination papers and their safe travel to the examination centers. Thus, the power to issue executive orders is with the Secretary to deal with situations as contemplated under Clause (5) and (6) of the Government order dated 27.02.2004.

[35] In Ram Kishore Yadav Vs. M.P. Board of Secondary Education; as well as in Poonam Pattaya and others vs. Board of Secondary Education and others; the M.P. High Court while dealing with the power to issue executive orders, held that the Board (in this case, the Examination Regulatory Authority) has the power to issue executive directions but the Board could not issue any such executive directions that are covered by the regulations. In the above-noted cases, the M.P. High Court was dealing with a situation when the National Council for Teacher Education (Recognition Norms and Procedure) Regulations, 2009 in Regulation 2 of Appendix-2 did not prescribe any maximum number of years to clear the diploma course and in light of such lacuna the M.P. Secondary Board had issued orders limiting the number of chances available to clear the exams. Though the Court upheld the executive order, however it held that the executive order was valid as the Regulations were silent on the maximum time period required to clear the course. Regulations, 2009 merely stated that the course duration would be of two years only. But in the Regulations, 2014, the Council prescribed the maximum time period for completion of the Course i.e. three years.

[36] The orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 are only executive orders. They are subordinate to the Regulations, 2014. The executive order would not in any way override the Regulations having statutory force [vide Employees' State Insurance Corporation (supra)]. Thus, in light of what has been observed above, it is clear that the Examination Regulatory Authority would have powers to issue executive orders to deal with issues as described in the Government order dated 27.02.2004, but the Authority could not issue any executive order that transgressed upon the norms and qualifications imposed by the Regulations, 2014. As long as the Executive orders covered matters which were not specifically stated in the Regulations, 2014, there is no conflict, but if the Executive order transgressed the Regulations, 2014, then the Executive order would be in violation of the Regulations, 2014 and would lose its efficacy to that extent. In simpler terms, the Council has the power to issue a policy in the form of Regulations and the Secretary (Examination Regulatory Authority) has the power to enforce the policy as laid out in the Regulations.

[37] Thus, the finding given by the learned Single Judge that the executive order (Circulars/ Office Memorandum) would have the force of law does not appear to be correct. The Executive orders are supplementary in nature and cannot in any manner erode the norms prescribed by the Regulations, 2014 [vide Vijay Singh and others v. State of U.P. and others, Ram Ganesh Tripathi v. State of U.P. By means of the executive order, the Secretary would not have the power to supplant the maximum time period granted to clear the course. Furthermore, as per the syllabus of the Diploma Course, the number of attempts had already been exhausted. Therefore, without corresponding changes in the essential conditions of the syllabus as prescribed by SCRET, no additional chance could be given. In our considered opinion, the finding of the learned Single Judge that the Secretary had the power to give one additional chance is incorrect. Also, the finding that the benefit of the executive orders should be extended to the petitioners is also incorrect.

[38] As to the challenge to the Government order dated 27.02.2004, suffice to say that the Examination Regulatory Authority by means of executive orders lay down conditions with regard to the conduct of examinations. But the Authority would not have any power to supersede any Regulation as Section 27 of the Act, 1993 does not give such a power. Thus, even though executive orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2002 have been issued, the same would be in violation of the Regulations, 2014, as the authority does not vest with the power to change any norms given in Regulations, 2014.

[39] Nothing has been brought on record to show that NCTE by means of any other Regulation had increased the time period given in the Regulations, 2014 to clear the diploma course. It is not the case of the respondents herein that NCTE in its wisdom had amended the Regulations, 2014 and thereby the executive orders were justified. Rather it has always been the case of NCTE that the course duration remained for two years with one additional year given to complete the course. Thus, in total three years were given to complete the two years diploma course.

[40] In the order dated 03.05.2023, the Court had framed query "C" for NCTE with regard to any prior permission required to be taken from NCTE to relax the outer limit of the D.El.Ed Course. Although there is no specific finding given by the learned Single Judge with regard to this query, the answer to the said query is in Section 27 of the Act, 1993. Section 27 allows for delegation of powers on such terms and conditions as the order may deem fit but there is no power to make any Regulation under Section 32. Thus, the other powers of the Council may be delegated upon a specific reason being provided but the Regulation making power only vests with the Council and Council alone. Once the power to make Regulations is not delegated, then by necessary implication the power to relax norms of maximum time period as prescribed in the Regulations could also not be delegated. Thus, in our considered opinion, without answering query "C" in the order dated 03.05.2023, the executive orders could not have been held to have force of law.

[41] The respondents herein claimed benefit of Article 14 of the Constitution of India to claim parity with the students whose names figured in the list enclosed with the orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022. The argument being that the State appellants had adopted a pick and choose policy while granting one additional chance and as such, they were discriminated.

[42] Article 14 of the Constitution of India guarantees equal protection to similarly situated persons. The intention of the Article is in a positive sense as it seeks to eliminate discrimination between persons who are similarly situated. There are authoritative judgments on this point of law which need not be reiterated. Suffice to say that there is no arguments with regard to the positive enforcement of Article 14. Article 14 protects the rights in a positive manner meaning thereby that any rights based on an illegality cannot be claimed under Article 14.

(43). Moreover, the petitioners (respondents herein) have admittedly not filed any representation before the Secretary. Therefore, even otherwise, they cannot claim any parity with the candidates, who have filed representations before the Secretary and consequently, their names were found placed in all the lists issued thereafter by the Secretary.

[44] In Chandigarh Administration vs. Jagjit Singh; the Supreme Court held that before any mandamus can be issued in favour of any person who seeks parity with another person on the basis of some order, the validity of the order has to be seen. If the order is found to be illegal then such an illegal order cannot be the basis for issuance of a writ. In State of Odisha Vs. Anup Kumar Senapati; the Supreme Court held that there is no concept of negative equality under Article 14. The Supreme Court further held that negative equality when the right does not exist, cannot be claimed. In R. Muthukumar vs. The Chairman and Managing Director TANGEDCO, the Supreme Court again upheld the concept that Article 14 does not envisage negative equality. The Court further held that if some similarly situated persons have been granted some benefits inadvertently or by mistake, such an order does not confer any legal right on others to get the same relief. In Rajasthan Public Service Commission, Ajmer vs. Yati Jain and others; the Supreme Court again reiterated the above principles and held that some illegality committed by the State cannot be made a basis for seeking the same benefit.

[45] As has been held above, the executive orders were in violation of Regulations, 2014 with regard to giving one additional chance over and above the time period prescribed for clearing the Course under the Regulations. Since the time limit was not increased by the Council by means of any Regulations, the executive orders would be in contradiction to the Regulations and such would be invalid. Once it is the opinion of this Court that the executive orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 were in contravention of the Regulations, 2014, then there would be no question with regard to granting a similar benefit to the respondents herein, as no rights can be claimed based on the illegal orders. In the considered opinion of the Court, the findings recorded by the learned Single Judge that Article 14 would be applicable and similar benefits could be granted is incorrect. The respondents herein cannot claim a parity which is based upon an illegal exercise of power.

[46] Learned counsels for the respondents have laid great emphasis on the compliance affidavit filed in Contempt Application (Civil) No.2851 of 2024 (Sheetal vs. Smt. Sarita Tiwari, Director, State Council of Education Research and Training), wherein the State appellants had issued an order directing the holding of the exam. On the basis of the said order, the Counsels contend that the State cannot now challenge the impugned orders as they have now implicitly accepted the judgment and order dated 06.07.2023 passed by the learned Single Judge. In Mahendra Dev vs. Radhey Shaym Pandey as well as The State of U.P. and others vs. Association of Retired Supreme Court and High Court Judges at Allahabad and others held that contempt proceedings cannot be used to obstruct parties or their counsel from availing legal remedies. Even though the order may have been issued by the Director but the issuance of an order cannot come in the way of challenging the judgment by means of filing an appeal. Suffice to say that the decision in the contempt application would depend upon the fate of the appeal and not vice versa.

ANSWERS TO THE POINTS OF DETERMINATION:

(47). The respondents herein cannot possibly claim any benefit from the order of the State Government as contained in the Contempt Application (Civil) No.2851 of 2024 for holding the examination. It is well settled that any illegal order passed by the State Authority (contemnor) under the pressure and duress of contempt proceeding will not create a vested right in favour of the applicants (respondents herein).

[48] Regarding issue no.1 i.e. Whether the NCTE regulations with regard to Diploma in Elementary Education are binding and mandatory on the State appellants, the issue is answered in the affirmative holding that the Regulations are binding and mandatory.

[49] Regarding issue no.2 i.e. whether the non-extension of time period to complete the course within 3 years as per Regulation 2.1 of Appendix-2 to the Regulations, 2014 would invalidate the order dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 passed by the Secretary, the issue is answered in affirmative holding that there is illegal exercise of power in issuing the two executive orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022 without any corresponding increase in the time period mandated under the Regulations, 2014.

[50] Regarding issue no. 3 i.e. whether the petitioners are entitled to one additional chance as given to students whose name figured in the lists enclosed with orders dated 11.09.2021 and 19.04.2022, the issue is answered in the negative and against the petitioners.

[51] Regarding issue no. 4 i.e. whether there is any violation of Article 14 of the Constitution of India, the issue is answered in the negative, holding that negative parity cannot be claimed by the petitioners.

[52] Before we conclude, there is yet another issue at hand that needs to be dealt with. The issue is whether the right to appear for an additional chance in the examination of the Diploma course would supersede the fundamental right of children as enshrined under Article 21-A of the Constitution of India and the protection given by the Act 2009?. It is to be kept in mind that the Act, 2009, has been enacted in furtherance of the 86th Amendment Act of the year 2002 with the sole purpose of providing free and compulsory education to children. Further, for the purpose of maintaining standards of education to the children, Section 12A was incorporated in the Act of 1993 w.e.f. 01.06.2012 through the Act No.18 of 2011. The power to lay down norms and qualifications by Regulations is to ensure quality education to the children of age 6-14 years. These young formative minds will shape the future of the country, therefore the persons to be recruited as teachers should be of utmost quality and standards.

(53) The role of quality teachers as educators of young minds does not need much elaboration. Recently, this Court in the case of Shailendra Kumar vs. State of U.P. And others; has very elaborately dealt with the fundamental rights guaranteed to the children under Article 21A of the Constitution of India vis-a-vis the teachers. The Court while relying upon Avinash Nagra v. Navodaya Vidyalaya Samiti and others (with regard to the place of teachers in students life); State of Maharashtra v. Vikas Sahebrao Roundale and others (declining to lower teacher training standards); Ram Sharan Maurya and others v. State of U.P. and others (right to quality education vis-a-vis prescription of high examination levels) and Devesh Sharma v. Union of India and others, (recruitment of best qualified teachers for providing quality education) held that fundamental right to education envisages quality education for all children. The Court further stated that quality education is possible only if the appointment of the most meritorious teachers is ensured. The Court, keeping in mind the interplay of various provisions and the fundamental rights, held that Article 21A of the Constitution has made education an irrevocable feature of the constitutional conscience. Article 21A vests the fundamental right to education in all children and the Right to Education Act, 2009 provides a detailed mechanism for implementation of the aforesaid right.

[54] In Sharda v. Dharmpal the Supreme Court held that where there is a conflict between fundamental rights between two parties, the right which would advance public morality or public interest would prevail. The same view has been taken by the Supreme Court in Modern Dental College & Research Centre and others v. State of M.P. and others.

[55] Keeping in mind the above observations and the fact that the Constitutional Court owe a duty to protect the rights of the children, it would be apt to reinforce that the actions of the State must align with the constitutional guarantees provided to the children, keeping in mind the directive principles as enshrined in Article 45 of the Constitution of India. The Constitution has cast a permanent obligation on the State to fulfill the right to education of children. Besides this the State under the Constitution and various statutes is also a guarantor of rights and guardian of the children therefore before taking any executive action, the State must ensure that any order/direction/circular issued by the State or any authorized officer under any delegation of power under the Act, 2009 must be in compliance with the constitutional guarantees towards the children. If such orders/directions/circulars are not in consonance with the constitutional guarantees then the same are certainly amenable to judicial scrutiny.

CONCLUSIONS:

[56] In light of the findings and the opinion given above, the Special Appeal is allowed. The order of the learned Single Judge dated 06.07.2023 is set aside. There shall be no order as to cost.

Order in SPLA-189 of 2026; State of U.P. & others vs. Seema Yadav and others:

As the judgment dated 23.08.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Order dated 23.08.2023 is set aside. There is no order as to cost

Order in SPLA-188 of 2026; State of Uttar Pradesh & Others vs. Shalini & Others:

As the judgment dated 07.07.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Order dated 07.07.2023 is set aside. There is no order as to cost

Order in SPLA- 186 of 2026; State of U.P. and 4 others vs. Ruvendra Kumar and 45 others

As the judgment dated 07.07.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Order dated 07.07.2023 is set aside. There is no order as to cost

Order in SPLA-970 of 2024 State of UP & 4 others vs. Deepak Kumar and 29 others

As the judgment dated 18.09.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Order dated 18.09.2023 is set aside. There is no order as to cost

Order in SPLA-190 of 2026 State of U.P. and 2 others vs. Mayank Yadav

As the judgment dated 19.07.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Order dated 19.07.2023 is set aside. There is no order as to cost.

Order in SPLA-184 of 2026State of U.P. and 4 others vs. Satakshi Parasari and 45 others

As the judgment dated 03.08.2023 was passed in light of the benefits granted in Writ C No. 9773 of 2023, Sakshi and 77 others vs. State of U.P. and others, therefore, in light of the above observations and findings, the appeal is also allowed. Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of dismissal order on the charge of unauthorized absence without recording finding of its' being a willful absence.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Dismissal – Disciplinary proceeding – Charge of unauthorized absence from duty while working as the Constable – Petitioner's statement that he had repetitively gone to Mainpuri for joining at the transferred post but he was not allowed to join as the transfer order had not reached Mainpuri, has not been specifically denied in the counter affidavit – Petitioner's explanation was not considered – No finding on unauthorized absence being a willful absence was recorded – Effect : (E-1)

Held : The impugned dismissal order has been passed without taking into consideration the petitioner's explanation that he was absent firstly because of his illness and thereafter because he was not allowed to join his duties. The dismissal order does not take into consideration these aspects of the matter and it merely records that the petitioner had been absent unauthorisedly, without recording any finding that the unauthorised absence of the petitioner was willful – Therefore, in any case, the failure of the petitioner to report for duty after passing of the transfer order dated 26.03.2008, cannot be said to be due to any fault of the petitioner himself. The petitioner cannot be made to suffer for the fault of any other person and he cannot be penalized for this reason – The petitioner is entitled to get all benefits consequential to quashing of the dismissal order. Case Arising From Impugned orders dated 14.01.2008 passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow and 22.10.2009 passed by the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow Zone, Lucknow.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Ashutosh Shukla, K.S. Rai, Rakesh Kumar Chaudhary, Suresh Chandra Verma, Vishwajeet Rai.

Advs. for the Respondents : S. K. Khare, S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri K.S. Rai, the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri S.K. Khare, the learned Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. and perused the record.

2. By means of the instant writ petition the petitioner has challenged the order dated 14.01.2009 (which is wrongly mentioned in the order as 14.01.2009) passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow, dismissing the petitioner from his service on the post of constable in Civil Police. The petitioner had challenged the dismissal order by filing an appeal which has been dismissed by means of an order dated 22.10.2009 passed by the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow Zone and validity of the appellate order has also been challenged through this Writ Petition.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as a constable in civil police in the month of March, 1975 and he was posted at District Sitapur from where he was transferred to Lucknow in the year 1993. On 27.10.2006, the petitioner was assigned Mela duty at Garhmukteshwar where he remained till 02.12.2006, but after returning from the Mela duty, he did not report for duty. The petitioner claims to have fallen sick and to have sent its information to the Inspector Sahadatganj Police Station, to the Circle Officer as well as to the Superintendent of Police.

4. The petitioner was placed under suspension by means of an order dated 29.01.2008 on the ground that he did not report after coming back from the mela duty. While he was already under suspension, the petitioner was transferred from Lucknow to Mainpuri on administrative grounds by means of an order dated 26.03.2008.

5. On 14.01.2009, the Senior Superintendent of Police passed the impugned dismissal order wherein it is stated that while the petitioner was working as a constable and was posted at Police Station Sahadatganj, Lucknow, he was assigned duty in a mela at Garhmukteshwar. The petitioner was sent for the mela duty at 06:50 hours on 27.10.2006. After completion of mela duty the petitioner did not report to Police Station Sahadatganj, Lucknow and he became absent unauthorizedly. Circle Officer, Sarojani Nagar has held in the report dated 11.12.2008 submitted in the disciplinary proceedings instituted against the petitioner under Rule 14(1) of U.P. Subordinate Police Officers/ Employees (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Rules of 1991) that the petitioner's unauthorized absence was reported on 12.12.2006. The petitioner did not submit any information regarding his absence for a period of about 1 year and 3 months. The petitioner was guilty of autocratic behavior, indiscipline and negligence in performance of duty.

6. A copy of the aforesaid findings were sent to the petitioner along with a show cause notice dated 18.12.2008 asking him to submit an explanation as to why he should not be dismissed from service under Rule 4(1)(a)(i) of the Rules of 1991. The petitioner submitted his explanation dated 09.01.2009 stating that he performed mela duty at Garhmukteshwar till 26.10.2006 but thereafter he had fallen ill, he was suffering from severe pain, he had sent an information about the same to his office and got some medicines but he did not get any relief. After returning to Lucknow, he had sent information of his illness to the Superintendent of Police-West, Circle Officer, Bazar Khala and Inspector Incharge Sahadatganj. He was treated by doctors for sciatica, diarrhea and jaundice. After being treated for some time at Lucknow, he got relief in diarrhea but he did not get any relief in his pain. As a lot of money had been spent in his treatment and there was scarcity of money, his family members took him to his native place Bharawan, where his treatment continued. Meanwhile the petitioner received the suspension order and thereafter, he came to police lines, Lucknow for getting himself treated in the police hospital. He was told to first seek permission for joining from Reserve Inspector and only thereafter his joining would be recorded. The petitioner obtained permission from the Reserve Inspector and he went to Gadna Munshi (Attendance Clerk) who told him to obtain permission from the Superintendent of Police. The petitioner showed him the suspension order which mentioned that during suspension period, the petitioner would ensure staying in the police lines of the District but no heed was paid to his request. The petitioner tried to meet the Superintendent of Police-West but he was not allowed to meet him. The petitioner was quite distressed, he was not capable of walking and, therefore, he started getting himself treated in Balrampur Hospital and sent this information to the concerned officers through registered post. After recovering, the petitioner again went for joining whereupon he was told that he had been transferred to Mainpuri and he had been relieved in absentia on 04.04.2008.

7. Thereafter, the petitioner went to Mainpuri where he was told that the transfer order had not been received there and he should bring a copy of the transfer order from Lucknow. He kept his articles in the police lines in Mainpuri and thereafter returned to Lucknow and met the concerned official who told the petitioner to go to Mainpuri and said that he would sent the order to Mainpuri. The petitioner again went to Mainpuri and kept on waiting for the transfer order for several days but the order did not reach there. He again came to Lucknow and met the concerned official who told that he had forgotten to send the order. The petitioner requested him to hand him over a copy of the transfer order so that he could report at the transferred place but the official told that he could not give the transfer order by hand and that he would send the order to Mainpuri. The petitioner again went to Mainpuri and kept on waiting for the order for several days but the order did not reach there. The petitioner again returned to Lucknow and met the concerned official who got angry and said he would not hand over the order. Thereafter, the petitioner tried to obtain the transfer order under the Right to Information Act but it was not provided to him. The petitioner went to the residence of Senior Superintendent of Police but could not meet him due to the later's engagements. The following day he could meet the Superintendent of Police (Security) who told that the transfer letter had already been sent to the Superintendent of Police, Mainpuri and the petitioner should go there. The petitioner again went to Mainpuri but the letter had not reached there. Thereafter the petitioner was given a letter on 03.11.2008 (and not a copy of the transfer order). The petitioner again went to Mainpuri with the letter but the Superintendent of Police declined to register his reporting for want of the transfer order.

8. The petitioner stated that he had been running between Lucknow and Mainpuri repetitively and had spent a lot of money on it. When the petitioner got a notice from the Circle Officer, he went to get his statement recorded but his statement was not recorded stating that first he should get his reporting recorded and thereafter his statement would be recorded. Copies of his medical documents were also not received stating that the same would be received only after his reporting is recorded.

9. The petitioner further stated that he had served the police department without any blemish since the year 1975. He had actually fallen ill and the financial constraints restricted his treatment and delayed his recovery. He had been placed under suspension, he was transferred to a district which is 460 km away from his home district and he had suffered immensely both mentally and financially.

10. All the submissions made by the petitioner in his reply were turned down, the Superintendent of Police held him guilty of unauthorized absence from 27.10.2006 to 04.04.2008 and he was dismissed from service. The appellate authority has simply affirmed the dismissal order.

11. A supplementary affidavit has been filed by the petitioner stating that the Inquiry Officer had declined to record his statement unless he joined his duties. The petitioner was not permitted to join his duties without a copy of the transfer order and his evidence was not recorded by the Inquiry Officer. The inquiry report has been submitted without recording his evidence.

12. A counter affidavit has been filed by the opposite parties opposing the writ petition wherein it has inter alia been stated that the petitioner deliberately absented himself from duty without any authority. Through the letter dated 09.09.2008, the Superintendent of Police, Mainpuri was requested to record reporting of the petitioner at Mainpuri.

13. In the rejoinder affidavit the petitioner has stated that he had gone to join at Mainpuri but his joining was not accepted and thereafter he had sent a fax massage for his joining at Mainpuri yet he was not allowed to join in absence of original transfer order, which was never provided to him.

14. Assailing the validity of the dismissal order, the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the charge of unauthorized absence from duty cannot be decided without deciding the question whether absence was willful or it was because of some compelling circumstances. In support of this contention the petitioner has relied upon a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Krushnakant B. Parmar v. Union of India and another: (2012) 3 SCC 178.

15. The learned counsel for the petitioner has next submitted that the punishment of dismissal from service is too harsh, disproportionate and not commensurate with the nature of the charges proved against the petitioner. In support of this contention, he has placed reliance on a judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. R.K. Sharma: 2022 SCC OnLine SC 2010.

16. He has submitted that the penalty of dismissal can only be imposed in case of grave misconduct indicating incorrigibility and complete unfitness for police service as held by this Court in Surendra Nath Tripathi v. State of U.P. & Ors., Writ Petition No. 3126 (S/S) of 1991 decided on 28.10.2006.

17. The petitioner's contention that his evidence was not recorded on the pretext that till his reporting is recorded, his evidence will not be recorded and his reporting was not recorded due to unavailability of the transfer order, has also not been denied. The impugned dismissal order has been passed without taking into consideration the petitioner's explanation that he was absent firstly because of his illness and thereafter because he was not allowed to join his duties. The dismissal order does not take into consideration these aspects of the matter and it merely records that the petitioner had been absent unauthorisedly, without recording any finding that the unauthorised absence of the petitioner was wilfull.

18. In in the case of Krushnakant B. Parmar v. Union of India and another: (2012) 3 SCC 178, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"15. Rules 3(1)(ii) and 3(1)(iii) of the Central Civil Services (Conduct) Rules, 1964, relates to all time maintaining integrity, devotion to duty and to do nothing which is unbecoming of a government servant and reads as follows:

"3.General.-(1) Every government servant shall at all times?

(i) maintain absolute integrity;

(ii) maintain devotion to duty; and

(iii) do nothing which is unbecoming of a government servant."

16. In the case of the appellant referring to unauthorised absence the disciplinary authority alleged that he failed to maintain devotion to duty and his behaviour was unbecoming of a government servant. The question whether "unauthorised absence from duty" amounts to failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a government servant cannot be decided without deciding the question whether absence is wilful or because of compelling circumstances.

17. If the absence is the result of compelling circumstances under which it was not possible to report or perform duty, such absence cannot be held to be wilful. Absence from duty without any application or prior permission may amount to unauthorised absence, but it does not always mean wilful. There may be different eventualities due to which an employee may abstain from duty, including compelling circumstances beyond his control like illness, accident, hospitalisation, etc., but in such case the employee cannot be held guilty of failure of devotion to duty or behaviour unbecoming of a government servant.

18. In a departmental proceeding, if allegation of unauthorised absence from duty is made, the disciplinary authority is required to prove that the absence is wilful, in the absence of such finding, the absence will not amount to misconduct."

19. Therefore, the dismissal of the petitioner for his mere unauthorised absence, without recording a finding that the unauthorised absence was wilful, is unsustainable in law in view of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krushnakant B. Parmar v. Union of India and another (supra).

20. Although no submission was advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner assailing the validity of the petitioner's transfer during his suspension, in Smt. Sadhna Gupta v. State of U.P. & 2 Ors., Writ A No. 36187 of 2013 decided on 24.07.2013. A Coordinate Bench of this Court held that: -

"9. ... where an employee is under suspension, occasion to transfer such an employee, besides the fact that under the rules, it would not be permissible, but, even otherwise cannot be justified for any reason whatsoever. It is not a case where the employee is being shifted from one post to another to discharge her duties. She is already under suspension and is not supposed to discharge her regular duties.

10. If that be so, there cannot be any administrative exigency so as to justify his/her transfer from one post to another. Such an employee, who is not getting full salary, cannot be compelled to disturb his/her entire establishments incurring extra expenses by shifting a place particularly when he/she is not getting full salary of the office which is payable, if he/she would not have been under suspension. Suspension though does not have the effect to severing the relationship of employer and employee as such, but, definitely have the effect of suspending such relationship to the extent that the employee cannot be compelled to discharge his/her regular duties and the employer would not be obliged to pay full salary, if so authorized under the rules.

11. It is always open to the employer to transfer employee as soon as suspension comes to an end, and the incumbent is reinstated, but otherwise, neither I could find out any justification to insist for transfer of a suspended employee nor any such justification has been provided/shown by the respondents. It is in these facts and circumstances, I have no hesitation in declaring the impugned order of transfer bad and illegal."

21. The aforesaid judgment was followed in Suresh Chandra Belwal, Sub-Inspector v. State of U.P. & Ors., (2013) SCC OnLine Alld. 10162.

22. Therefore it appears that the petitioner was transferred from Lucknow to Mainpuri purportedly on administrative grounds while he was under suspension, there was no administrative ground for his transfer and his transfer was done in an illegal manner. The petitioner's specific contention that he had repetitively gone to Mainpuri for joining at the transferred post but he was not allowed to join as the transfer order had not reached Mainpuri, has not been specifically denied in the counter affidavit. Therefore, in any case, the failure of the petitioner to report for duty after passing of the transfer order dated 26.03.2008, cannot be said to be due to any fault of the petitioner himself. The petitioner cannot be made to suffer for the fault of any other person and he cannot be penalized for this reason. The petitioner's explanation has not been dealt with appropriately by the disciplinary authority and the appellate authority and the same have been rejected in a cursory manner.

23. For all the aforesaid reasons, I am of the considered view that the impugned order dated 14.01.2009 dismissing the petitioner from service and the appellate order dated 22.10.2009 are not sustainable in law.

24. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed.

25. The impugned orders dated 14.01.2008 passed by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow and 22.10.2009 passed by the Inspector General of Police, Lucknow Zone, Lucknow are hereby quashed. The petitioner is entitled to get all benefits consequential to quashing of the dismissal order. The arrears of service benefits payable to the petitioner shall be calculated and paid to him within a period of four months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

26. This writ petition is pending since the year 2010 whereas the petitioner was inducted in service in March, 1975 and he was dismissed in January, 2009. At the time of filing of the writ petition the petitioner was already aged about 55 years and presently the petitioner would have attained the age of 70 years. In these circumstances, it would not be proper to permit fresh disciplinary proceedings being held against the petitioner after giving a proper opportunity of hearing. Accordingly, this liberty is not being granted.

Writ A No. 2700 of 2014

Ram Kishore ...Petitioner
Versus
U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of disciplinary proceeding and punishment order passed against the charged person holding the post of Accountant on the allegation of irregularity caused in sanctioning the loan, though the Accountant has no role in sanctioning the loan.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Disciplinary proceeding – Punishment – Stoppage of two annual increments in the salary with cumulative effect – Inquiry – Charge of sanctioning a loan of Rs. 1,50,000/- in violation of guidelines and of disbursing the installment without following the time limit was leveled – The petitioner, being an Accountant, had no role in sanctioning the loan and making inspection before sanctioning the loan – Relevance – However, the petitioner was held guilty of charges – Validity challenged : (E-1)

Held : Recommending sanction of loan fell within the purview of duties of the field officer and sanctioning the loan was within the duty of the branch manager and the accountant has no role to play in it. Therefore, the petitioner can in no manner be held guilty for the first charge – Moreover, making inspection and ensuring proper utilization of the loan amount and reporting misutilization of loan amount or improper execution of the project falls within the duties of the field officer and ensuring proper utilization of the loan falls within the duties of the branch manager. The petitioner, who was merely an accountant, had no role to play in these processes. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be held guilty of the second charge also. [Para 15 and 16]

Case Arising From

Punishment order dated 25.06.2009 passed by Managing Director and the Order dismissing the appeal by the appellate authority against the punishment order.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Piyush Asthana.
Advs. for the Respondents : Singh Vinod Kumar, Balram Yadav.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Piyush Asthana, the learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Balram Yadav, the learned counsel for the opposite parties and perused the records.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 25.06.2009, passed by the Managing Director of U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. imposing the punishments of stoppage of two annual increments in the salary with cumulative effect and recovery of 20% of the amount of loss in case the loan irregularly disbursed by the petitioner is not recovered. The petitioner had challenged the aforesaid order by filing an appeal. The Chief General Manager, Administration U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. Lucknow has written a letter dated 12.08.2011 stating that the petitioner's appeal has been found to be not maintainable and has been disposed off by means of an order passed by the Prescribed Authority/Principal Secretary, Cooperative. However, a copy of any order passed by the Prescribed Authority/Principal Secretary, Cooperative has not been provided to the petitioner.

3. Briefly stated, facts of the case are that while the petitioner was working as an Accountant in U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank, Branch Kuwayan, District Shahjahanpur, disciplinary proceedings were instituted against him on 15.05.2008 on the allegations that a loan of Rs.1,50,000/- was sanctioned in favour of a farmer under a dairy scheme, a cheque for Rs.75,000/- was handed over to him on 09.01.2007 towards the first installment and the second installment of Rs.75,000/- was released on 11.01.2007 in violation of the guidelines issued by the Bank.

4. A charge-sheet was issued to the petitioner on 02.08.2008 containing two charges - (i) that he had not followed the time limit between disbursal of two installments of loan as per the directions of the head office and (ii) during local inspection by Senior Manager, buffaloes were not found as per the standards.

5. The petitioner submitted a reply dated 08/09.09.2008 stating that he had prepared and handed over the cheques as per the instructions of the Branch Manager. After disbursal of the first installment of loan, the Field Officer of the Bank had conducted an inquiry and had submitted a report that the farmer had purchased the buffaloes from the first installment and he had recommended disbursal of the second installment. This recommendation was approved by the Branch Manager and the petitioner was directed to prepare a cheque for Rs.75,000/- on 11.01.2007. The petitioner categorically stated that it was his duty to comply with the orders of the Branch Manager and he had prepared the cheques in compliance of this duty. Regarding second charge the petitioner submitted that the Senior Manager had made a verification and found the buffaloes to be not of the requisite standards but the petitioner is not guilty for it it because the project had been verified by the Field Officer and the Branch Manager. In the verification report submitted by the Field Officer it was not mentioned that the amount of loan had been misappropriated. The inquiry was to be done by the Field Officer and the Branch Manager and not by the petitioner who was working as an Accountant.

6. The inquiry officer submitted a report dated 06.11.2008, specifically stating that the petitioner does not appear to be guilty directly, but as the loan was given in an irregular manner, the petitioner cannot escape his responsibilities. Regarding the second charge also the inquiry officer held that the Field Officer and Branch Manager were responsible for local inspection because it is their duty to furnish a verification report. The Field Officer has conducted a local inspection in the present case and had submitted a utilization certificate. However, the inquiry officer stated that when the loan has been given in an irregular manner the Accountant could not escape his responsibility.

7. A show cause notice dated 18.02.2009 was issued to the petitioner asking him to show cause as to why two annual increments be not stopped with cumulative effect and why 20% of the amount of loan be not recovered from him. The petitioner submitted his reply dated 13.03.2009 reiterating the version given by him during inquiry. The petitioner further stated that he had not misappropriated any money of the bank because neither he had prepared the loan file nor had he given the utilization certificate. He stated that he is a subordinate employee and he had merely complied with the directions of his officer and he was duty bound to do so.

8. On 25.06.2009 the Managing Director has passed the impugned order inflicting punishment of stoppage of two annual increments in the salary with cumulative effect and also providing that in case the loan irregularly disbursed by the appellant is not recovered 20% of the amount involved will be recovered from salary/dues of the petitioner. The appellate authority has merely affirmed the order and a copy of the reasoned order passed by the appellate authority has not yet been provided to the petitioner and it has not been annexed even with the counter affidavit.

9. Before proceeding to deal with the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties, it is important to mention that the impugned order merely states that the reply given by the petitioner to the show cause notice had been taken into consideration by the competent authority, without disclosing as to who was the competent authority who had considered the petitioner's explanation. The authority which passes an order adverse to any person, has himself to take into consideration the explanation submitted by the affected person so that he may have a fair chance of defence. The consideration of the explanation by any other authority indicates that the authority who has passed the order adverse to the employee, has not applied his mind to the explanation given by the employee. The aforesaid error vitiates the decision making process adopted by the disciplinary authority and renders the impugned order violative of principles of natural justice. The impugned order could be quashed on this limited ground alone, but as detailed submissions have been advanced by the learned Counsel for the parties on merits of the order, I proceed to examine deal with the same.

10. Assailing the validity of the punishment order and the appellate order the learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that duties of various officers and employees of U.P. Rajya Sahkari Bhumi Vikas Bank have been provided in a Circular dated 18.02.1976/19.02.1976, a copy whereof has been annexed as Annexure No.6 to the writ petition. The duties of an accountant are to work under control of the Branch Manager and to prepare the documents. His duties also include comply with audit reports and inspection reports. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that sanctioning loans, making field inspections or submitting field reports, and disbursement of loans were not within the purview of the duties of the petitioner and he had not performed any of such duties. The alleged misconduct is of disbursal of two installments of a loan within a short period in violation of the guidelines and that the borrower had purchased buffaloes which were not as per the standards. The inquiry officer himself has recorded a categorical finding that the applicant is not involved in the aforesaid acts directly. When as per the circular the alleged irregular acts were not within the purview of duties of the petitioner and the inquiry officer himself has found that the petitioner is not guilty of the commission of the aforesaid acts directly, the petitioner cannot be punished for an act for which the inquiry officer has held him to be not guilty directly.

11. The learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the provision contained in Regulation 84 (i) of the Co-operative Societies Employee Service Regulations, 1975, which is as follows: -

"Without prejudice to the provisions contained in any other regulation, an employee who commits a breach of duty enjoined upon him or has been convicted for criminal ofence or an offence under Section 103 of the Act or does anything prohibited by these regulations, shall be liable to be punished by anyone of the following penalties: -

(a) Censure
(b) withholding of increment,
(c) fine on employee of category IV (peon, chaukidar etc.)
(d) recovery from pay of security deposit to compensate in whole or in part for any pecuniary loss caused to the Bank by the employee's conduct,
(e) reduction in rank or grade held substantively by the employee,
(f) removal from service, or
(g) dismissal from service."

12. He has submitted that although the regulations permit imposition of any one of the prescribed penalties, by means of the impugned order two penalties have been imposed upon the petitioner: recovery from pay and withholding of two increments with cumulative effects, which is not permissible in the regulations.

13. Opposing the writ petition, Shri Balram Yadav, the learned counsel for the opposite party has submitted that the duties of the accountant include compliance with audit and inspection reports and, therefore, it was incumbent on the petitioner to have verified whether the inspection report submitted by the field officer was correct or not. I am unable to accept this submission because compliance with audit and inspection report does not mean verification of inspection report. Being a subordinate employee the petitioner was bound to comply with the inspection report submitted by the field officer and the direction issued by the branch manager in furtherance thereof.

14. It is also relevant to note that the Circular dated 18/19.02.1976 issued by U. P. Rajya Sahkari Bhumi Vikas Bank Ltd. lays down the duties of branch manager, which include examination of loan applications, examination of fulfillment of conditions for grant of loan, ensuring proper utilization of the loan and exercising control over all the employees of his branch and supervision of their work. The duties of field officers include making recommendations for sanction of loans, examining the loan documents, making inspection and ensuring proper utilization of the loan amount, collecting loan applications and reporting misutilization of loan amount or improper execution of the project. He is also responsible to exercise control over the working of the branch in absence of the branch manager.

15. From the aforesaid provisions, it is clear that recommending sanction of loan fell within the purview of duties of the field officer and sanctioning the loan was within the duty of the branch manager and the accountant has no role to play in it. Therefore, the petitioner can in no manner be held guilty for the first charge.

16. Moreover, making inspection and ensuring proper utilization of the loan amount and reporting misutilization of loan amount or improper execution of the project falls within the duties of the field officer and ensuring proper utilization of the loan falls within the duties of the branch manager. The petitioner, who was merely an accountant, had no role to play in these processes. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be held guilty of the second charge also.

17. Shri Balram Yadav has next submitted that the petitioner has not been inflicted with two penalties as the impugned order merely states that in case the amount is not recovered from the borrower, 20% amount will be recovered from the petitioner. This is a contingent order. The contingency has not yet arrived and 20% of the amount of loss has not been recovered from the petitioner. Therefore, his submission is that only one penalty has been inflicted upon the petitioner. I find no force in this submission also, as imposing a penalty and execution of the punishment order are two different and distinct things. The impugned order clearly and categorically inflicts two penalties on the petitioner which is not permissible as per Regulation 84(i) quoted above.

18. In the aforesaid facts circumstances of the case, I am of the considered view that the impugned punishment order dated 25.06.2009, passed by the Managing Director of U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. Is not sustainable in law and it deserves to be quashed.

19. The dismissal of the petitioner's appeal against the punishment order has been communicated by a letter dated 12.08.2011 sent by the Chief General Manager, Administration U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Ltd. Lucknow. The appeal has purportedly been dismissed by the appellate authority - the Prescribed Authority/Principal Secretary, Cooperative. However, a copy of any order passed by the Prescribed Authority/Principal Secretary, Cooperative has not been provided to the petitioner and no such order has been annexed with the counter affidavit. From, the aforesaid facts, it appears that the appeal has been dismissed in a cursory manner without any application of mind by the appellate authority and without any reasoned order having passed by the appellate authority himself, which is also unsustainable in law.

20. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The punishment orders are hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be entitled to receive all consequential benefits. The opposite parties are directed to calculate the benefits payable to the petitioner and pay the same expeditiously in accordance with law say within a period of four months from the date of receipt of a certified copy of this order.

21. No order as to the costs.

THE HON'BLE SHREE PRAKASH SINGH, J.

Writ A No. 9735 of 2016

Mishri Lal ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Entitlement of retired employee to get interest on delayed payment of retiral benefits.
(2) Applicability of Government Order dated 26.03.2010 providing benefit of the recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission to the petitioner, who was already retired on 31.07.2007.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Retiral benefits – Inordinate delay in payment of the retiral dues, including the gratuity and leave encashment – Interest on the delayed payment claimed – Entitlement : (E-1)
Held : It is trite law that retiral benefits are not a bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees after their retirement, but these are valuable rights and property in the hands of the retired employees. In fact, non-payment of retiral dues is the harassment of the retired employee, who rendered his services with dedication and devotion, and if the retiral dues are paid with inordinate delay, suitable interest in a compensatory nature shall suffice the purpose so as to solace harassed employee – The competent authority is directed to make payment of interest on the delayed payment of post terminal dues (gratuity and leave encashment), with interest of 7% per annum, to the petitioner, within period of eight weeks. [Para 22 and 36]

(B) Service law – Recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission, benefit thereof – Petitioner was retired on 31.07.2007 – Entitlement to get the benefit of recommendation – Government Order dated 26.03.2010 was issued providing the same benefits with immediate effect – Applicability – Authority declined to provide the benefit – Validity challenged : (E-1)
Held : The government order dated 26.03.2010, which is still intact, prescribes that the benefit of the Sixth Pay Commission shall be provided with immediate effect, meaning thereby i.e. from the date of the issuance of the government order dated 26.03.2010 and it further says that the notional benefits shall also be considered since January, 2006. The admitted position is that the benefit of recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission has notionally been granted to the petitioner and since the petitioner was retired in the year, 2007, therefore, the benefit of the govt. order dated 26.03.2010 would not be available to the petitioner, in totality. (Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Shishir Jain,learned counsel for the respondent-U.P.State Bridge Corporation Ltd.,(hereinafter referred to as 'Corporation'), Mr. Brijendra Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel and Mr. Ashutosh Mishra, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. The present writ petition has been preferred assailing the order dated 02-03-2016 passed by the Managing Director of the respondent-corporation, whereby the petitioner has been declined the benefit for payment of interest over the delayed payment of retiral dues and the benefit of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission, which was granted to the employees of the respondent-corporation by virtue of the government order dated 26-03-2010.

3. Contention put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the petitioner was appointed in the respondent-corporation on 09-01-1979, on the post of Sub. Engineer at district-Ghaziabad and his work and conduct was always above board and remained unblemished. He submitted that the petitioner was promoted in the month of October, 1997 on the post of Deputy Project Manager and he was posted at district-Lucknow and subsequently, in the month of May,2003, the petitioner was again promoted on the post of Project Manager. He added that the petitioner has been retired on 31-07-2007 after attaining the age of superannuation and after the retirement, when the retiral dues were not paid to the petitioner, he moved an application on 11-10-2007, before the Managing Director of the respondent-corporation, and the department paid the retiral dues in the year 2014, after passing of about 7 years, but, the interest on the delayed payment of gratuity and the leave encashment etc. have not been paid.

4. Further submission is that the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission are prevalent in the respondent-corporation w.e.f. 01-01-2006, which is apparent from the government order dated 26-03-2010 and the benefit of the aforesaid recommendations has been given to the petitioner only w.e.f. 26-03-2010, though he is entitled for the said benefit started from the date of it's commencement i.e. 01-01-2006. He argued that once the authority did not pay any heed to make payment of interest, the petitioner approached this court by way of instituting Writ Petition No. 1838(S/B) of 2015, wherein the final Judgment and Order was passed on 01-10-2015 while directing the Managing Director of the respondent-corporation to take the decision on the claim of the petitioner within the period of three months and the Managing Director of the respondent-corporation vide order dated 02-03-2016 impugned herein, has rejected the claim of the petitioner for payment of the interest, erroneously and arbitrarily.

5. Adding his arguments, he submitted that it is an admitted fact in between the parties that the payment of retiral dues have been done in the year 2014, though the petitioner has been retired in the year, 2007 and therefore, the petitioner is infact entitled for interest for that period of time. He also submitted that so far as the payment of arrears of benefit of recommendation of Sixth Pay Commission, started from the year 2006 to the year 2010, is concerned, the claim of the petitioner is covered with the ratio of the Judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India Vs Balbir Singh Turn, reported in AIR 2018 SC 206. The relevant paragraph 11 is extracted as under:-

"11. We are only concerned with the interpretation of the Resolution of the Government which clearly states that the recommendations of the 6th CPC as modified and accepted by the Central Government insofar as they relate to pay structure, pay scales, grade pay, etc. will apply from 1-1-2006. There may be some gainers and some losers but the intention of the Government was clear that this Scheme which is part of the pay structure would apply from 1-1-2006. We may also point out that the Resolution dated 30-8-2008 whereby the recommendation of the Pay Commission has been accepted with modifications and recommendations with regard to pay structure, pay scales, grade pay, etc. have been made applicable from 1-1-2006. This is a decision of the Cabinet. This decision could not have been modified by issuing executive instruction. The letter dated 30-5-2011 flies in the face of the Cabinet decision reflected in the Resolution dated 30-8-2008. Thus, administrative instruction dated 30-5-2011 is totally ultra vires the Resolution of the Government."

6. Referring the paragraph no. 11 of the aforesaid Judgment, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the Hon'ble Apex Court has held that so far as the executive orders are concerned, that will not have override effect over the decision taken by the legislature and therefore, the benefit was granted to those petitioners with effect from the actual commencement of the Sixth Pay Commission.

7. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that the petitioner is entitled for the interest on the delayed payment of the retiral dues and therefore, the order dated 02-03-2016 is unsustainable.

8. Per contra, Mr. Shishir Jain, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-corporation has opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that so far as the application dated 11-10-2007, said to be submitted by the petitioner is concerned, that has never been received in the office of the respondent-corporation and in this regard, the specific stand is taken in paragraph no. 5 of the Supplementary Affidavit dated 13-08-2024.

9. He further submitted that so far as the Payment of Gratuity Act,1972 (hereinafter referred to as 'Act,1972') is concerned, Form No. 'I' is prescribed for claiming the gratuity and the petitioner has never submitted this Form No. 'I' before the employer and as soon as the formalities were completed, in the year,2014, the payments were made to the petitioner.

10. He argued that so far as the payment of arrears of Sixth Pay Commission w.e.f. 01-01-2006 is concerned, that is not available to the petitioner as the state government in it's order dated 26-03-2010, itself has clarified the position and therefore, the actual benefit has been provided since the date of the government order dated 26-03-2010. Thus, there is no errorneousness in the order impugned dated 02-03-2016, wherein the decision has been taken that the petitioner is not entitled for such benefits, therefore no interference is warranted, in this matter.

11. Upon considering the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of records, it borne out that the claim of the petitioner is of two folds; First, whether the petitioner is entitled for the interest on the delayed payment of the retiral dues, including the gratuity and leave encashment started from the year 2007 to the year 2010 ? Secondly, whether the entitlement of the petitioner for the benefit of the recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission, w.e.f. 01-01-2006 has been rightly declined .

12. The law regarding the payment of gratuity to an employee is codified under the Payment of Gratuity Act,1972(hereinafter referred to as ?Act,1972?).

13. Section 7 of the Act, 1972 provides for determination of the amount of gratuity. Section 7 of the Act, 1972, reads as under:-

"7. Determination of the amount of gratuity.-(1) A person who is eligible for payment of gratuity under this Act or any person authorised, in writing to act on his behalf shall send a written application to the employer, within such time and in such form, as may be prescribed, for payment of such gratuity.

(2) As soon as gratuity becomes payable, the employer shall, whether an application referred to in sub-section (1) has been made or not, determine the amount of gratuity and give notice in writing to the person to whom the gratuity is payable and also to the controlling authority specifying the amount of gratuity so determined.

[(3) The employer shall arrange to pay the amount of gratuity within thirty days from the date it becomes payable to the person to whom the gratuity is payable.

(3A) If the amount of gratuity payable under sub-section (3) is not paid by the employer within the period specified in sub-section (3), the employer shall pay, from the date on which the gratuity becomes payable to the date on which it is paid, simple interest at such rate, not exceeding the rate notified by the Central Government from time to time for repayment of long-term deposits, as that Government may, by notification specify:

Provided that no such interest shall be payable if the delay in the payment is due to the fault of the employee and the employer has obtained permission in writing from the controlling authority for the delayed payment on this ground.]

(4)(a) If there is any dispute to the amount of gratuity payable to an employee under this Act or as to the admissibility of any claim of, or in relation to, an employee for payment of gratuity, or as to the person entitled to receive the gratuity, the employer shall deposit with the controlling authority such amount as he admits to be payable by him as gratuity.

(b) Where there is a dispute with regard to any matter or matters specified in clause (a), the employer or employee or any other person raising the dispute may make an application to the controlling authority for deciding the dispute.

(c)] The controlling authority shall, after due inquiry and after giving the parties to the dispute a reasonable opportunity of being heard, determine the matter or matters in dispute and if, as a result of such inquiry any amount is found to be payable to the employee, the controlling authority shall direct the employer to pay such amount or, as the case may be, such amount as reduced by the amount already deposited by the employer.]

[(d)] The controlling authority shall pay the amount deposited, including the excess amount, if any, deposited by the employer, to the person entitled thereto.

[(e)] As soon as may be after a deposit is made under clause (a), the controlling authority shall pay the amount of the deposit-

(i) to the applicant where he is the employee; or

(ii) where the applicant is not the employee, to the "Inominee or, as the case may be, the guardian of such nominee or] heir of the employee if the controlling authority is satisfied that there is no dispute as to the right of the applicant to receive the amount of gratuity.

(5) For the purpose of conducting an inquiry under sub-section (4), the controlling authority shall have the same powers as are vested in a court, while trying a suit, under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908), in respect of the following matters, namely:-

a) enforcing the attendance of any person or examining him on oath,
(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents:
(c) receiving evidence on affidavits;
(d) issuing commissions for the examination of witnesses.

(6) Any inquiry under this section shall be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of sections 193 and 228. and for the purpose of section 196, of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860).

(7) Any person aggrieved by an order under sub-section (4) may, within sixty days from the date of the receipt of the order, prefer an appeal to the appropriate Government or such other authority as may be specified by the appropriate Government in this behalf:

Provided that the appropriate Government or the appellate authority, as the case may be, may, if it is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by suficient cause from preferring the appeal within the said period of sixty days, extend the said period by a further period of sixty days:

[Provided further that no appeal by an employer shall be admitted unless at the time of preferring the appeal, the appellant either produces a certificate of the controlling authority to the effect that the appellant has deposited with him an amount equal to the amount of gratuity required to be deposited under sub-section (4), or deposits with the appellate authority such amount.]

(8) The appropriate Government or the appellate authority, as the case may be, may, after giving the parties to the appeal a reasonable opportunity of being heard, confirm, modify, or reverse the decision of the controlling authority."

14. From bare reading of the provision of Section 7(1) of the Act, 1972, it reveals that the same provides that a person who is eligible for payment of gratuity, shall send a written application to the employer. The form of the application is appended as Form 'I', meaning thereby that as soon a person becomes eligible for payment of gratuity under the 'Act, 1972', he himself or by authorising some other person, shall submit a written application to the employer within the time prescribed under the 'Act, 1972'.

15. Form 'I' as prescribed under the ?Act, 1972?, is extracted hereinunder :-

2. Strike out paragraph or paragraphs not applicable."

16. This provision in the considered opinion of this court, is mandatory and the reason behind it is that the aforesaid Form 'I' prescribes certain statements/information furnished by the retired employee to the employer. These are not the simple statements/information, but, this is in the form of an undertaking, which is given to the employer. Apart from the information, the undertaking is also to be given that ?in an event, if the petitioner is disabled, as a result of some disease or accident and the evidences and witnesses are also to be given in case of total disablement?. It is also to be undertaken by the employee that the ?payment may please be made in cash/open or crossed bank cheque'.

17. Rule 7 of the U.P. Payment of Gratuity Rules, 1975(hereinafter referred as 'Rules,1975') is reproduced herein below;

"7. Application For gratuity Section 7.-(1) An employee who is etigible for payment of gratuity under the Act, or any person authorised, in writing, to act on his behalf, shall apply, ordinarily within thirty days from dne date the gratuity became payable, in Form 'T' to the employer:

Provided that where the date of superannuation or retirement of an employee is known, the employee may apply to the employer before thirty days of the date of superannuation or retirement.

(2) A nominee of an employee who is eligible for payment of gratuity wider the second proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 4 shall apply, ordinarily within thirty days from the date the gratuity became payable to him, in From 'y to the employer:

Provided that an application in plain paper with relevant particulars shall also be accepted. The employer may obtain such other particulars as may be deemed necessary by him.

(3) A legal heir of an employee who is eligible for payment of gratuity under the second proviso in sub-section (1) of Section 4 shall apply, ordinarily within one year from the date the gratuity became payable to him, in Form 'K' to the employer.

(4) Where gratuity becomes payable under the Act before the commencement of these rules, the period of limitation specified in sub-rules (1), (2) and (3) shall be deemed to be operative from the date of such conunencement.

5) An application for payment of gratuity filed after the expiry of the period specified in this rule shall also be entertained by the employer, if the applicant adduces sufficient cause for the delay delay in preferring his claim, and no claim for gratuity under the Act shall be invalid merely because because the claimant failed to present his application within the specified period. Any dispute in this regard shall be referred to the controlling authority for his decision.

(6) An application under this rule shall be presented to the employer either by personal service or by registered post acknowledgment due"

18. When this court examines the matter, it is apparent that the petitioner has claimed that he has made an application, on 11-10-2007, for payment of all the retiral dues, whereas this has specifically been denied by the employer-respondent corporation in paragraph no. 5 of the Supplementary Affidavit that no such application has ever been received in the office of the Managing Director.

19. There is no assertion all over in the writ petition that such application is submitted in the year 2007 by the petitioner to the respondent-corporation and as per the submission of learned counsel for the respondent-corporation, all the formalities were fulfilled in the year 2014 and the retiral dues were paid in the year,2014 itself.

20. Section 7(2) of the 'Act, 1972' fastens the liability upon the employer to determine the amount of gratuity and further to give a notice in writing to the person, who is entitled for gratuity and the same has also to be informed to the controlling authority. Section 7(2) of the 'Act,1972' reads as under :-

"7. Determination of the amount of gratuity.-(1)….

(2) As soon as gratuity becomes payable, the employer shall, whether an application referred to in sub-section (1) has been made or not, determine the amount of gratuity and give notice in writing to the person to whom the gratuity is payable and also to the controlling authority specifying the amount of gratuity so determined."

21. The petitioner has taken no specific pleading in all over the writ petition regarding non compliance of the mandate of section 7(2) of the ?Act,1972?, by the employer, whereas, upon a question asked by the court, the counsel for the respondents has stated that though the amount of gratuity has been determined and the same has also been intimated to the controlling authority, but, what is lacking is that the notice to the empoyee/petitioner, has not been furnished. The provision is very obvious in it's term that there are three stages of the mandate of Section 7(2) of the 'Act, 1972'. First that the employer shall determine the amount of gratuity; second is that a notice shall be given in writing to the person, who is entitled for such gratuity and third is that the computation of gratuity shall also be brought into the notice of the controlling authority. What is apparent is that the procedure as prescribed under the provision of Section 7(2) of the 'Act,1972' has not properly been undertaken, as no notice has been given to the petitioner by the employer deparatment.

22. It is trite law that retiral benefits are not a bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees after their retirement, but these are valuable rights and property in the hands of the retired employees. In fact, non-payment of retiral dues is the harassment of the retired employee, who rendered his services with dedication and devotion, and if the retiral dues are paid with inordinate delay, suitable interest in a compensatory nature shall suffice the purpose so as to solace harassed employee. The procedure established by law, in fact, does not permit someone to escape from any lawful duty, causing injury to the person, who is entitled to some lawful dues.

23. This Court is aware of the law rendered in the case of State of Kerala Vs. M. Padmanabhan Nair, reported in (1985) 1 SCC 429. The relevant paragraph of the judgment is extracted as under:-

"1. [the] pension and gratuity are no longer any bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees on their retirement but have become, under the decisions of this Court, valuable rights and property in their hands and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof must be visited with the penalty of payment of interest at the current market rate till actual payment [to the employees)."

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court, while dealing with identical issue, has held in the abovenoted case that payment of post terminal dues are the valuable rights and property and an unreasonable delay in such payment creates liability to penal interest.

25. The law rendered in the case of Delhi Development Authority Vs. Skipper Constructions, reported in 1994(23) ALR 40 (SC), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, has held as under:-

"A democratic Government does not mean a lax Government. The rules of procedure and/or principles of natural justice are not mean to enable the guilty to delay and defeat the just retribution. The wheel of justice may appear to grind slowly but it is duty of all of us to ensure that they de grind steadily and grind well and truly. The Justice system cannot be allowed to become soft, supine and spineless."

26. It has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that no procedure can be left to be open to permit anyone to delay or defeat just retribution, meaning thereby that if things are not undertaken within a reasonable period of time and extraordinary delay is caused, the person standing at the other end should not be left to suffer. The employer is always on the upper hand, and a retired employee, in case of unreasonable non-payment of the retiral dues, suffers hard and the interest for such delay would compensate.

27. In another Judgment rendered in the case of D.D. Tewari (Dead) through Legal Representatives Vs. Uttar Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Limited and others, reported in (2014) 8 SCC 894, it has been held that retiral dues are valuable right of the retired employee, and any culpable delay in settlement or disbursement must visit with penalty of payment of interest.

28. I have also considered the law rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of H.Gangahanume Gowda Vs Karnataka Agro Industries Corpn. Ltd. reported in (2003) 3 SCC 40, wherein paragraph no. 7, it has been held that as soon as gratuity becomes payable, the employer is under obligation to determine the amount of gratuity and furnish the notice in writing to the person to whom the gratuity is payable.

29. The another issue is that whether the petitioner is entitled for payment of the benefits of the recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission ? The government order dated 26.03.2010 provides that the benefits of recommendation of Seventh Pay Commission shall also be available to the employees of the respondent-corporation.

30. Clause 2 of the government order dated 26-03-2010 is quoted hereinunder:-

"2- (1) उपर्युक्त विषय पर मुझे यह कहने का निदेश हुआ है कि सार्वजनिक उद्यम अनुभाग-1 के शासनादेश संख्या-1105/44-1-2009-77/09, दिनांक 16 अक्टूबर, 2009 में निहित व्यवस्था के कम में सार्वजनिक उद्यम अनुभाग / के कार्यालय ज्ञाप दिनांक 06 नवम्बर, 2009 द्वारा गठित अधिकृत समिति की संस्तुतियों पर लिये गये निर्णय के अनुसार उ०प्र० राज्य सेतु निगम लिमिटेड के नियमित एवं पूर्णकालिक कार्मिकों को उपर्युक्त शासनादेश दिनांक 16 अक्टूबर, 2009 के प्रस्तर (2) (क) में निहित प्राविधान के अनुरूप संलग्न तालिका के अनुसार पुनरीक्षित वेतन संरचना में वेतन बैण्ड एवं ग्रेड वेतन दिनांक 01 जनवरी, 2006 से परिकल्पित आधार पर आगणित करते हुये उसका वास्तविक लाभ तात्कालिक प्रभाव से अनुमन्य कराये जाने की स्वीकृति इस प्रतिबन्ध के अधीनं प्रदान की जाती है कि इससे आने वाले 5 अतिरिक्त व्ययभार को निगम द्वारा अपने स्रोतों से वहन किया जायेगा और इस हेतु कोई शासकीय अनुदान देय न होगा"

31. From bare perusal of the aforesaid provision, it is apparent that the state government consciously took the decision that the benefit of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission will be given with immediate effect, on computing the aforesaid benefit notionally, since 01-01-2006. The govt. order dated 26-03-2010 is not under challenge, in this writ petition and even the petitioner has also failed to demonstrate any order, wherein the order dated 26-03-2010 has ever been quashed by any of the court or authority. The petitioner has been retired on 31-07-2007 and as per the stand of respondent-corporation, the notional benefits have been provided as per the decision taken by the state vide issuing the government order dated 26-03-2010, to the regular and full time employees.

32. It's long settled law that a thing should be done in a manner prescribed and not otherwise, and so far as the issue with respect to payment of recommendations of Sixth Pay Commission is concerned, the government order dated 26-03-2010, which is still intact, prescribes that the benefit of the Sixth Pay Commission shall be provided with immediate effect, meaning thereby i.e. from the date of the issuance of the government order dated 26-03-2010 and it further says that the notional benefits shall also be considered since January,2006. The admitted position is that the benefit of recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission has notionally been granted to the petitioner and since the petitioner was retired in the year, 2007, therefore, the benefit of the govt. order dated 26.03s.2010 would not be available to the petitioner, in totality.

33. So far as the reliance is placed by the petitioner upon the law rendered by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Balbir Singh Turn(Supra) is concerned, the same would not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present case, as in the aforesaid matter, which went upto the Hon'ble Apex Court, the executive order was under challenge, by which, the benefit of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission to the Central Government Employees were declined, whereas the government order dated 26-03-2010 has never been challenged and declared nullity.

34. In view of the above, this court finds no illegality in the order of rejection dated 02-03-2016, to the extent of the denial of the actual benefits of the recommendations of the Sixth Pay Commission to the petitioner, since 01-01-2006.

35. Ergo, the writ petition is partly allowed. The order impugned dated 02-03-2016 is hereby quashed to the extent of the decision of the respondent authority for non payment of the interest, on the delayed payment of the gratuity and the leave encashment.

36. The competent authority is directed to make payment of interest on the delayed payment of post terminal dues (gratuity and leave encashment), with interest of 7% per annum, to the petitioner, within period of eight weeks

37. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Permissibility of framing the charge and holding enquiry against the filing of writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution on the strength that it was filed without getting permission of Nagar Ayukt.
(2) Legality of dismissal order passed on the strength of enquiry held without giving sufficient notice to answer the charge-sheet and without intimating date, time and place of inquiry and without adopting the due process of examining and cross examining the witnesses.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 226 – Rule of law – Right to approach the High Court by filing writ petition – Restriction imposed to it – In the charge-sheet, fourth charge was framed against filing of writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution on the strength that it was filed without getting permission of Nagar Ayukt – Permissibility : (E-1)

Held : If it were held that an employee must seek permission from his employer, before approaching us in our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, it would shake the very foundations of the rule of law. In fact, this kind of insistence, by the employer, is an act which prejudices and interferes with the due course of judicial proceedings, competently brought by any citizen, including an employee against his employer or an Authority of the State which constitutes criminal contempt within the meaning of Section 2(c) of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971 – A charge of this kind must, therefore, neither be permitted to be framed nor inquired into in departmental proceedings. [Para 21 and 23]

(B) Service law – Dismissal – Disciplinary enquiry – Principle of natural justice – Applicability – Charge of corruption and embezzlement –Burden to prove the charge – Duty of Establishment – No sufficient notice to answer the charge-sheet was given – No intimation of date, time and place for holding the inquiry was given – No due process of examination and cross examination of witnesses was adopted during inquiry – Effect : (E-1)

Held : There is not the slightest mention of the basic imputations, in what manner, where and when the loss was caused so as to afford the petitioner sufficient notice to answer this charge-sheet as well. We, therefore, find and hold that the charge-sheet dated 01.11.2018 lacks essential imputations that could enable the petitioner to answer the second charge-sheet, carrying as it does, a serious charge. We, therefore, hold that this charge-sheet, too, is vitiated. [Para 24]

Held further : In a case where a major penalty may be imposed, the inquiry officer or Tribunal must fix a date, time and venue for holding the inquiry and intimate the Establishment as well as the employee of the date, time and place so fixed – At the appointed date, time and venue, the inquiry officer must not assume the role of an officer of the Establishment, even if he is one, but don the mantle of an impartial arbiter. He must require the Establishment, in the first instance, to prove the charge or charges against the employee carried in the charge-sheet by leading evidence, both documentary and oral, with a right to the employee to cross-examine the Establishment's witnesses. If the Establishment are able to discharge their burden, the employee is to be called upon to enter defence and produce both documentary and oral evidence in support, if he so chooses. If he produces witnesses, the Establishment's presenting officer can cross-examine the employee's witnesses. If the employee does not produce any evidence, the Establishment's burden, to prove the charges in the first instance, cannot be relieved. [Para 26]

Advs. for the Respondents : Sharad Chandra Upadhya, Pankaj Srivastava

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order of the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam Meerut dated 27.06.2019, dismissing the petitioner, a Clerk, from service, after holding disciplinary proceedings. Also under challenge is the order of the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut, dismissing the petitioner's appeal against the last mentioned order of the Nagar Ayukt, and affirming his dismissal from service.

2. The petitioner was employed as a Senior Clerk in the service of the Nagar Nigam Meerut. A complaint was laid against him by a former Corporator, Ajay Gupta, on 16.08.2017, relating to allegations of corruption and embezzlement, as it appears. The complaint, somehow, was taken cognizance of by the Commissioner of the Division, who constituted a three Member Committee to inquire into the matter. Apparently, the aforesaid inquiry, that was directed by the Commissioner, was a preliminary inquiry. Pending this inquiry, a First Information Report (FIR) was lodged against the petitioner, giving rise to Case Crime No.34 of 2018, under Section 409 IPC, Police Station Dehli Gate, District Meerut. Apart from the FIR, that was lodged by the Nagar Swasthya Adhikari on 20.02.2018, the petitioner was suspended pending inquiry vide order dated 08.03.2018, on ground that he was not cooperating with the inquiry undertaken under orders of the Divisional Commissioner. The inquiry apparently bears reference to the preliminary inquiry that was then afoot under directions of the Commissioner of the Division.

3. Upon suspension from service, a regular inquiry was initiated against the petitioner and the Chief Finance and Accounts Officer, Nagar Nigam, Meerut was appointed the Inquiry Officer. The petitioner was issued a charge-sheet dated 11.07.2018. According to the petitioner, the charge-sheet did not mention evidence by which the charges were proposed to be proved nor the witnesses. It is averred that the charge-sheet has not been drawn up in accordance with Rule 31 of the Uttar Pradesh Mahapalika Service Rules, 1962 (for short, 'the Rules of 1962'). Upon receipt of the charge-sheet, the petitioner vide letters dated 20.07.2018, 31.07.2018, 20.08.2018 and 29.08.2018 requested the Inquiry Officer for provision of documents, so that he could submit a reply to the charge-sheet. However, the documents in support of the charges were never supplied. Deprived of this opportunity, the petitioner submitted a reply dated 24.09.2018, answering the charge-sheet dated 11.07.2018. Objection in the reply as to validity of the charge-sheet was also taken in that, that it was issued without prior approval of the Nagar Ayukt.

4. Next, the Nagar Ayukt issued a second charge-sheet dated 01.11.2018. On the basis of whatever materials were collected by the Commissioner of the Division in the preliminary inquiry held under his directions, this charge-sheet imputed to the petitioner, causing the Nagar Nigam a loss to the tune of Rs.14,89,600/-. He was asked to submit his reply to the charge-sheet dated 01.11.2018 (for short, 'the second charge-sheet) within three days. This charge-sheet too, according to the petitioner, was not drawn up in compliance with Rule 31 of the Rules of 1962. The petitioner vide letters dated 06.11.2018 and 11.12.2018 asked for the provision of a copy of the inquiry report, which apparently refers to the preliminary inquiry report that the Commissioner secured through the Committee set up by him.

5. It is the petitioner's case that instead of providing a copy of the preliminary inquiry report, he was furnished a gist of the said report vide letter dated 22.12.2018. The petitioner vide letter dated 08.01.2019 asked for the furnishing of a complete copy of the preliminary inquiry report dated 16.02.2018, but to no avail. Deprived of the particulars of the charge against him, which was based on the preliminary inquiry report, the petitioner submitted, as he says, a reply to the second charge-sheet on 04.02.2019. In his reply, it was asserted that the charge-sheet had been issued without annexing a copy of the preliminary inquiry report or evidence in support of the charge, sought to be relied upon by the respondents. The charge-sheet was, therefore, assailed as illegal. Time and again, it was also asserted by the petitioner that there was no mention in the charge-sheet that he had a right to cross-examine witnesses and produce witnesses in his defence. There are other objections of technical detail raised to the two charge-sheets, but we need not mention them.

6. Suffice it to say that the petitioner denied the charges. It is the petitioner's case that the inquiry that was held did not intimate to the petitioner any date, time and venue of inquiry and the Inquiry Officer proceeded in violation of principles of natural justice. There is an assertion to this effect in paragraph No.33 of the writ petition. It is pleaded in paragraph No.35 of the writ petition that the Inquiry Officer did not adhere to Rule 31 of the Rules of 1962, which prescribes a detailed procedure, in case a major penalty is in contemplation, to be followed by the Inquiry Officer when disciplinary proceedings are taken against a servant of the Mahapalika. This procedure requires, apart from serving the charge-sheet drawn up in the manner prescribed, opportunity to be provided to the delinquent employee to examine and cross-examine witnesses. But, no such procedure was followed.

7. It is also averred in paragraph No.37 of the writ petition that Rule 32 of the Rules of 1962 was observed in breach by the respondent Mahapalika in that, that a copy of the inquiry report along with the show cause notice was not served upon the petitioner before final orders in the disciplinary matter, dismissing him from service, were made. The petitioner was dismissed from service, on the basis of the Inquiry Officer's report, by the Disciplinary Authority vide order dated 27.06.2019. The petitioner challenged this order through a departmental appeal dated 12.07.2019 under Rule 35 of the Rules of 1962 before the Commissioner of the Division. The appeal remained pending and the petitioner had to move this Court by means of Writ-A No.15517 of 2021 in order to seek a direction to the Commissioner to decide his appeal expeditiously. The directions were issued in the aforesaid writ petition vide order dated 02.11.2021. The order of this Court was served upon the Divisional Commissioner by registered post on 20.11.2021. Those directions to decide the appeal were not complied with by the Commissioner. This compelled the petitioner to move an application for contempt, being Contempt Application (Civil) No.1539 of 2022, where this Court granted a further time of three months to the Commissioner to comply with the order dated 02.11.2021 passed in Writ-A No.15517 of 2021.

8. It is averred in paragraph No.31 of the writ petition that the Commissioner, after the order dated 24.03.2022 made in the contempt application, proceeded to reject the petitioner′s appeal in haste vide order dated 23.05.2022.

9. Aggrieved by the orders of the Disciplinary Authority and the Appellate Authority, this writ petition has been instituted under Article 226 of the Constitution.

10. The parties having exchanged affidavits, the writ petition was admitted to hearing on 12.12.2024. Later on, after hearing parties, judgment was reserved.

11. Heard Mr. Anwar Hussain, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned Standing Counsel, appearing on behalf of respondent Nos. 1 and 2 and Mr. Pankaj Srivastava, learned Counsel, appearing for respondent No. 3.

12. The petitioner has been punished with the imposition of a major penalty - dismissal from service - after holding disciplinary proceedings. The foremost question to be seen is if the procedure, in holding the inquiry as well as the entirety of disciplinary proceedings culminating in the order of dismissal from service impugned, is one that is in accordance with the rules, and, above all, in accordance with the rules of natural justice applicable to proceedings that are involved here.

13. The service conditions of the petitioner, who is an employee of the Mahapalika, not covered by Rule 11 of the Rules of 1962, are governed by the said rules. Rules 31 and 32 of the Rules of 1962 read:

"31. Procedure for disciplinary proceedings.-(1) No order (other than an order based on facts which have led to his conviction on a criminal charge) of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank (which includes reduction to a lower post or time-scale or to a lower stage in a time-scale but excludes the reversion to a lower post of a person who is officiating in a higher post), shall be passed on any servant of the Mahapalika unless he has been informed in writing of the grounds on which it is proposed to take action and has been afforded an adequate opportunity of defending himself. The grounds on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of a definite charge or charges which shall be communicated to the person charged and which shall be so clear and precise as to give sufficient indication to the charged servant of the facts and circumstances against him. He shall be required, within a reasonable time, to put in a written statement of his defence and to state whether he desires to be heard in person. If he so desires or if the authority concerned so directs an oral enquiry shall be held in respect of such of the allegations as are not admitted. At that inquiry such oral evidence will be heard as the inquiring officer considers necessary. The person charged shall be entitled to cross-examine the witnesses to give evidence in person and to have such witnesses called as he may wish provided that the officer conducting the inquiry may for sufficient reason to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness. Neither the Mahapalika nor the servants of the Mahapalika shall be entitled to be represented by a counsel. The proceedings shall contain a sufficient record of the evidence and statement of the findings and the grounds thereof. The officer conducting the enquiry may also separately from these proceedings make his own recommendation regarding the punishment to be imposed on the charged servant.

(2) This rule shall not apply where the person concerned has absconded or where it is for other reasons impracticable to communicate with him. All or any of the provisions of the rule may for sufficient reasons to be recorded in writing be waived, where there is difficulty in observing exactly the requirements of the rule and those requirements can in the opinion of the inquiring officer be waived without injustice to the person charged.

(3) This rule shall also not apply where it is proposed to terminate the employment of either a temporary servant, or of a probationer whether during or at the end of the period of probation. In such cases a simple notice of termination, which in the case of temporary servant, must conform to the conditions of his service, will be sufficient.

32. (1) After an inquiry against a servant has been completed and after the punishing authority has arrived at provisional conclusions in regard to the penalty to be imposed, the servant charged shall, if penalty proposed is dismissal, removal or reduction in rank, be supplied with a copy of the proceedings prepared under Rule 31 excluding the recommendations, if any, in regard to punishment made by the officer conducting the inquiry and asked to show cause by a particular date, which affords him reasonable time, why the proposed penalty should not be imposed on him.

Provided that if for sufficient reasons the punishing authority disagrees with any part or whole of the proceedings prepared under Rule 31 the point or points of such disagreement, together with a brief statement of the grounds thereof, shall also be communicated to the officer or servant charged along with the copy of the proceedings under Rule 31.

(2) Every order of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank shall be in writing and shall specify the charge or charges brought, the defence, if any, and the reasons for the order.″

14. Here, two charge-sheets were issued to the petitioner on the basis of which disciplinary proceedings were drawn. The first charge-sheet dated 11.07.2018 must be quoted for every word of it:

16. A look at Rule 31 of the Rules of 1962 shows that it is mandatory in the holding of disciplinary proceedings that the grounds upon which it is proposed to take action, be reduced to the form of a definite charge or charges, which have to be so clear and precise so as to give sufficient indication to the employee of the facts and circumstances appearing against him. The rule, under reference, embodies nothing more than the requirements of natural justice and procedure salutary. A charge, after all, need not be in a particular form so far as disciplinary proceedings or for that matter, any administrative proceedings are concerned as distinguished from proceedings in a Court of law. But, it is essential that the charge must convey imputations on the foot of which action is proposed to be taken in terms that are intelligible enough for the employee to understand all the necessary particulars of the allegations sufficiently, in order to enable him to effectively answer the charge.

17. A look at the first charge-sheet would show that the four charges, mentioned in the first charge-sheet, are mere labels of the charges without the substance of imputations being there. It is not mentioned as to which of the records the petitioner did not make available to the inquiry officers holding the preliminary inquiry under orders of the Divisional Commissioner. There is a vague allegation that the petitioner did not make available files and documents relating to the inquiry being undertaken. Likewise, there is the first charge that the petitioner did not cooperate with the inquiry undertaken under orders of the Divisional Commissioner; in what precise manner and by what acts or omissions, when and where, is not specified. In the absence of these, what, where and when about the charges, the charges are hollow incantations with no answerable substance to them.

18. The third charge mentioned in the first charge-sheet dated 11.07.2018 carries somewhat of the necessary particulars saying that from 19.02.2018 to an unspecified date the petitioner left headquarters without permission or seeking leave of the Nagar Ayukt. Again, even if this were regarded as a charge, which could be answered and inquired into, it is one of the four charges and certainly not grave enough to invite the imposition of a major penalty. The major penalty would have been imposed on the other charges based on findings of the inquiry officer.

19. The first of the two charges, we have already shown to be in terms that cannot lead us to a conclusion that those are "answerable charges" and, therefore, valid.

20. The fourth charge is absolutely illegal; in fact, contumacious. The charge says that the petitioner instituted an action before this Court without permission of the Nagar Ayukt. Elsewhere, it has come that the proceedings instituted by the petitioner were before this Court and it was a writ petition challenging an FIR that the respondents had lodged against him.

21. Now, if it were held that an employee must seek permission from his employer, before approaching us in our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, it would shake the very foundations of the rule of law. In fact, this kind of insistence, by the employer, is an act which prejudices and interferes with the due course of judicial proceedings, competently brought by any citizen, including an employee against his employer or an Authority of the State which constitutes criminal contempt within the meaning of Section 2(c) of the Contempt of Courts Act, 1971. A reference, in this context, may be made to a Bench decision of this Court in Shankar Lal Sharma v. M.S. Bisht, AIR 1956 All 160, where the facts and holding read:

"1. Sri Shankar Lal Sharma, an employee in the Public Works Department of the Uttar Pradesh, moved in this Court an application for the grant of a writ against Sri M.S. Bisht, Chief Engineer, P.W.D., U.P., Lucknow, praying for a direction to the opposite party to forward to the Public Service Commission, U.P. his application for employment in some higher post, which he had sent to the said Commission through the opposite party. While the writ petition was pending in this Court Sri M.S. Bisht purporting to act in accordance with certain directions contained in Government Order No. O-3237/II-B-32-52, dated December 24, 1952, asked for an explanation from Sri Shankar Lal as to why he had submitted a writ application in the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad (Lucknow Bench) Lucknow. It was clearly an attempt to hold out a threat of departmental action against an employee of the Government, who had approached the High Court for what he considered to be the protection of his rights under the Constitution. This matter was brought to the notice of the Court by a petition filed by Sri Shankar Lal and thereupon a notice was issued to Sri N.S. Bisht to show cause why action should not be taken against him for contempt of court.

2. Sri M.S. Bisht has filed an application explaining the circumstances under which he took the action complained of and disclaiming all intention of intimidating the applicant. He has tendered an unqualified apology to this Court. With his application he has appended a copy of the Government order.

3. There is no doubt that if any kind of threat or any action which may amount to such threat is held out to a person, who has approached the civil courts for a redress of such grievances as he may consider that he has, with a view to induce him to forego the assistance of the civil courts, the action amounts to a contempt of court. It is a clear interference with the right of every citizen who claims redress from the civil courts for any grievance that he may have. No kind of Government order in this respect can excuse such an action. It is true that the order of the Government to which reference is made does contain some passages from which it may be inferred that if any person approaches the civil courts, he may in certain circumstances, be called upon to submit an explanation. We are not satisfied that in the present case those conditions were fulfilled, but in any case even if they were that would be no justification for an action to be taken and we cannot allow any impediment to be placed in the way of a citizen seeking redress from the courts of law.″

22. In Pratap Singh and another v. Gurbaksh Singh, AIR 1962 SC 1172, it was held by the Supreme Court (Raghubar Dayal, J. dissenting):

"9. Assuming that the circular letter contained certain executive instructions, what then is the position? It should perhaps be made clear at the very outset that the question before us is not so much the validity of the circular letter in the abstract, but the propriety of the action taken against the respondent on the basis of the circular letter at a time when his suit was awaiting decision in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge at Amritsar. It must not, however, be assumed that we are holding the circular letter to be valid in the sense that compliance with it will, in no circumstances, amount to contempt of court. We do not come to any such conclusion. The argument before us is that the circular letter did not impose an absolute ban on a government servant seeking redress of his grievances arising out of his employment or service conditions in a court of law; it is submitted that all that it did was to ask government servants to exhaust first the normal official channels of redress before proceeding to a court of law. The emphasis, it is stated, is on propriety and discipline in the conduct of a government servant; and it has been submitted that judged from that point of view, the circular letter cannot be said to constitute an interference with the course of justice in any court of law. Theoretically and in the abstract, this may be true; and if the circular letter merely lays down that ordinarily a government servant should exhaust his departmental remedies before going to a court of law, no objection can be taken to it. Speaking generally, a government servant does not ordinarily go to court, unless and until he fails to get what he considers to be justice from the departmental authorities. But we have to consider in this case a somewhat different problem, namely, the action taken against the respondent during a pending litigation, as though going to a court of law before exhausting departmental remedies must in all cases be visited with punishment.

10. What, after all, is contempt of court? "To speak generally, contempt of court may be said to be constituted by any conduct that tends to bring the authority and administration of the law into disrespect or disregard, or to interfere with or prejudice parties litigant or their witnesses during the litigation". (Oswald's Contempt of Court, 3rd Edn., p. 6). We are concerned in the present case with the second part, namely, "to interfere with or prejudice parties litigant during the litigation". In the case under our consideration the respondent had instituted a suit in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge, Amritsar, in respect of his grievance that a certain sum of money was being illegally deducted from his salary. On behalf of the respondent it was alleged that he had no further departmental remedies to exhaust, inasmuch as the order by which a part of his salary was being deducted was a final order made by the Punjab Government after considering the respondent's explanation. On behalf of the appellants it has been contended that the respondent had still a further remedy by way of an appeal to the Governor. That is a matter with which we are not really concerned, as it relates to the question whether the respondent had or had not violated the terms of the circular letter. We are concerned with the action that was taken against the respondent on the footing, right or wrong, that he had violated the instructions of the circular letter. His suit was pending in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge, Amritsar. When the summons in the suit was served on the Government, the Under-Secretary to the Government, drew the attention of one of the appellants to the circular letter and asked the latter to intimate to the Government what action he proposed to take against the respondent. Appellant Pratap Singh then forwarded the memorandum of the Under-Secretary to the Conservator of Forests, South Circle, and in his forwarding endorsement Pratap Singh directed that the respondent should be proceeded with in accordance with the instructions in the circular letter and that a copy of the proceedings recorded and orders passed should be forwarded to him. It appears, therefore, that appellant Pratap Singh was not merely content with forwarding the memorandum of the Under-Secretary. He directed his subordinate officer to take action against the respondent. In accordance with that direction a proceeding was drawn up against the respondent and the appellant Bachan Singh was asked to enquire into it. The appellant Bachan Singh then drew up a charge-sheet and in that charge-sheet it was stated that the respondent had gone to a court of law before exhausting all his departmental remedies. What would be the effect of these proceedings on the suit which was pending in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge, Amritsar? From the practical point of view, the institution of the proceedings at a time when the suit in the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge, Amritsar, was pending could only be to put pressure on the respondent to withdraw his suit, or face the consequences of disciplinary action. This, in our opinion, undoubtedly amounted to contempt of court. There are many ways of obstructing the court and "any conduct by which the course of justice is perverted, either by a party or a stranger, is a contempt; thus the use of threats, by letter or otherwise, to a party while his suit is pending; or abusing a party in letters to persons likely to be witnesses in the cause, have been held to be contempts". (Oswald's Contempt of Court, 3rd Edn., p. 87). The question is not whether the action in fact interfered, but whether it had a tendency to interfere with the due course of justice. The action taken in this case against the respondent by way of a proceeding against him can, in our opinion, have only one tendency, namely, the tendency to coerce the respondent and force him to withdraw his suit or otherwise not press it. If that be the clear and unmistakable tendency of the proceedings taken against the respondent, then there can be no doubt that in law the appellants have been guilty of contempt of court, even though they were merely carrying out the instructions contained in the circular letter.

11. We have been referred to a large number of decisions dealing with various aspects of contempt of court. We consider it unnecessary to refer to them all, because it is clear to us that any conduct which interferes with or prejudices parties litigant during the litigation is undoubtedly contempt of court. There is, however, one decision which is very much in point and to which we must refer. In Shankar Lal Sharma v. M.S. Bisht in very similar circumstances it was held by the Allahabad High Court that if any kind of threat or any action which may amount to a threat is held out to a person who has approached the civil courts for a redress of his grievances, with a view to induce him to forego the assistance of the civil courts, the action amounts to a contempt of court. In that case also an employee of the Public Works Department of Uttar Pradesh moved the High Court for the grant of a writ. While the writ petition was pending in the High Court the Chief Engineer, PWD., U.P., purporting to act in accordance with certain directions contained in a circular letter asked for an explanation from the employee as to why he has submitted a writ application to the High Court. The learned Judges expressed the view that there was no doubt that the action taken by the Chief Engineer in accordance with the instructions contained in the circular letter amounted to a threat with a view to induce the employee to forego the assistance of the civil courts. An unqualified apology having been tendered in the case, no further action was taken. On behalf of the appellants reliance was placed on the decision of this Court in S.S. Roy v. State of Orissa. That was a case in which a First Class Magistrate misconceiving his powers and exercising a jurisdiction not vested in him by law and without any justifying circumstances made an order under Section 144 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, by which a civil court peon was restrained from executing a warrant of arrest issued by an Additional Munsif in connection with the execution of a money decree; the Magistrate was not influenced by any extraneous consideration or dishonest motive in making the order and it was held that the Magistrate was not guilty of contempt of the Court of the Additional Munsif, because there was nothing to suggest any wilful culpability on his part. We are unable to agree with the learned advocate for the appellants that the principle of that decision should apply to the present case. The appellants in the instant case were not judicial officers who misconceived their powers. They were no doubt carrying out executive instructions given by their employer, but they carried out those instructions at a time when a civil suit was pending and they carried out the instructions in such a manner as to exert pressure on the respondent to withdraw the suit. That is the finding at which the High Court arrived and on that finding the appellants were clearly guilty of contempt of court. The decision in Webster v. Bakewell Rural District Council on which also learned advocate for the appellants relied is not in point. That was a case in which the yearly tenant of a cottage and land, adjoining a highway and forming part of a settled estate, issued a writ against the local authority for an injunction to restrain an alleged trespass on his land; the solicitor of the tenant for life wrote to the local authority with a view to arrange the matter and at the same time wrote to the tenant that the tenant for life required him to withdraw the writ, and that, if he did not comply, his tenancy would be determined. It was held that the solicitor had not committed a contempt of court. The decision proceeded on the footing that the tenant for life had the right to turn out the yearly tenant and there was nothing to prevent the tenant for life, who was the landlord, from exercising his legal rights if he did so honestly to protect the rights he had in the property.

12. We have, therefore, come to the conclusion that the appellants were guilty of contempt of the Court of the Senior Subordinate Judge, Amritsar and in awarding the sentence the High Court correctly took into consideration the circumstance that the appellants were merely carrying out the instructions contained in the circular letter. Though that circumstance does not afford a defence to the charge, it is undoubtedly a consideration relevant to the sentence.″

23. A charge that holds the act of instituting of a writ petition before this Court challenging an FIR, as appears from other material to be the case, apart from constituting criminal contempt of Court, a matter with which we are now not concerned, would render the charge void and non-est. Something that is done, if it is against the law, to an extent that it would constitute criminal contempt of Court, must not be done at all. A charge of this kind must, therefore, neither be permitted to be framed nor inquired into in departmental proceedings. We, therefore, hold that charge no. 4, in the first charge-sheet dated 11.09.2018, is not only fit to be quashed but never to be framed against the petitioner on the basis of which a departmental inquiry may be held.

24. So far as the second charge-sheet goes, though it mentions that the preliminary inquiry, held by the Divisional Commissioner into financial irregularities during the period of the petitioner's posting from 2011-12 to 2015-16, found that the purchase of lime, malathion and other materials, as well as their storage, caused during that period financial loss to the Mahapalika to the tune of Rs. 14,89,600/-, there is not the slightest mention of the basic imputations, in what manner, where and when the loss was caused so as to afford the petitioner sufficient notice to answer this charge-sheet as well. We, therefore, find and hold that the charge-sheet dated 01.11.2018 lacks essential imputations that could enable the petitioner to answer the second charge-sheet, carrying as it does, a serious charge. We, therefore, hold that this charge-sheet, too, is vitiated.

25. That apart, what we find is that though subject to the petitioner's demand Rule 31 incorporates the necessity for the Establishment to lead oral evidence in support of the charge before it can be proved against an employee, who is to likely to be awarded a major penalty.

26. It is a salutary principle governing inquiries against employees whose tenure is protected by statute that in a case where a major penalty may be imposed, the inquiry officer or Tribunal must fix a date, time and venue for holding the inquiry and intimate the Establishment as well as the employee of the date, time and place so fixed. At the appointed date, time and venue, the inquiry officer must not assume the role of an officer of the Establishment, even if he is one, but don the mantle of an impartial arbiter. He must require the Establishment, in the first instance, to prove the charge or charges against the employee carried in the charge-sheet by leading evidence, both documentary and oral, with a right to the employee to cross-examine the Establishment's witnesses. If the Establishment are able to discharge their burden, the employee is to be called upon to enter defence and produce both documentary and oral evidence in support, if he so chooses. If he produces witnesses, the Establishment's presenting officer can cross-examine the employee's witnesses. If the employee does not produce any evidence, the Establishment's burden, to prove the charges in the first instance, cannot be relieved. In this regard reference may be made to the law laid down by the Supreme Court in State of Uttar Pradesh and others v. Saroj Kumar Sinha, (2010) 2 SCC 772, Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank and others, (2009) 2 SCC 570, State of Uttaranchal and others v. Kharak Singh, (2008) 8 SCC 236 and the Bench decisions of this Court in State of U.P. and another v. Kishori Lal and another, 2018 (9) ADJ 397 (DB) (LB), Smt. Karuna Jaiswal v. State of U.P., 2018 (9) ADJ 107 (DB) (LB) and State of U.P. v. Aditya Prasad Srivastava and another, 2017 (2) ADJ 554 (DB) (LB).

27. In the present case, it is averred in paragraph no. 33 that the inquiry proceedings were held without intimation of date, time and place for holding the inquiry.

28. It is further averred in paragraph no. 35 that the procedure envisaged for the holding of an inquiry, in a matter where a major penalty may be imposed regarding examination of witnesses and cross-examination by the other side, have not been followed. There is vague denial of these assertions in paragraphs nos. 66 and 68 of the counter affidavit without specifically saying that a date, time and place was indeed fixed and evidence led by the Establishment to prove the charges with opportunity to the petitioner to cross-examine the Establishment's witnesses.

29. A perusal of the inquiry report dated 17.06.2019, submitted by the Inquiry Officer in this case, shows to its face, that the Inquiry Officer virtually took sides with the Establishment and assumed everything said in the charge-sheet to be proof of itself. The inquiry officer also relied upon the findings of the preliminary inquiry ordered by the Commissioner of the Division, in proof of the charges, which could never have been done.

30. A reading of the slipshod inquiry report dated 17.06.2019 submitted by the Chief Finance and Accounts Officer, Mahapalika, Meerut shows that the officer had no idea about the manner in which a departmental inquiry into charges, where a major penalty may ensue, has to be held. This would be apparent from the following findings of the inquiry officer carried in his report dated 17.06.2019:

"चूंकि श्री अख्तर के उक्त आख्या में आरोप बिन्दु के प्रतिउत्तर में कोई जवाब नही दिया गया। अतः अधोहस्ताक्षरी द्वारा पुनः पत्रांक 132 दिनांक 21.08.2018 के द्वारा आरोप पत्र दिनांक 11.07.2018 को बिन्दुवार आख्या प्रस्तुत करने के लिए नोटिस दिया गया जिसके क्रम में पुनः श्री अख्तर द्वारा पत्र दिनांक 20.08.2018 एवं दिनांक 29.08.2018 के द्वारा माननीय उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश तथा महापालिका नियमावली की धारा 31 का उल्लेख करते हुए उक्त सूचनाएं मांगी जा रही है जबकि श्री अख्तर अली आलोच्य अवधि में स्वयं नगर निगम, मेरठ के स्वास्थ्य अनुभाग विभाग में स्टोर कीपर/लिपिक के पद पर कार्यरत थे। उनके द्वारा विभिन्न पत्रों के माध्यम से मांगी जा रही समस्त सूचनायें इनके कार्य व कार्यकाल से सम्बन्धित है। किन्तु जांच अधिकारी को भ्रमित करने व जांच में सहयोग न करने की मंशा से श्री अख्तर अली द्वारा निरन्तर जांच बिन्दु से इतर अन्य बिन्दुओं पर सूचनायें मांगी जा रही है तथा अनुशासनिक कार्यवाही से सम्बन्धित अनेक शासनादेशों व नियमों का उल्लेख करते हुए जांच को प्रभावित करने का प्रयास किया जा रहा है। अवगत ही हैं कि नगर निगम में आलोच्य वर्ष 2011-12 से 2015-16 तक स्वास्थ्य विभाग में क्रय किये गये चूना, मैलाथियान व अन्य सामग्रियों के क्रय व रख-रखाव में की गई अनियमितताओं की जांच मण्डलायुक्त महोदय, मेरठ मण्डल, मेरठ के द्वारा की जा रही थी। चूंकि जांच के दायरे में लिये गये सम्पूर्ण अवधि में श्री अख्तर अली ही स्टोर लिपिक के पद पर तैनात थे। अतः जांच के समय मण्डलायुक्त महोदय को श्री अख्तर अली द्वारा सम्बन्धित अभिलेख उपलब्ध न कराये जाने तथा अभिलेखों को गायब करने के आरोप में दिनांक 19.12.2018 को थाना देहली गेट में प्रथम सूचना रिपोर्ट (एफ०आई०आर०) दर्ज करायी गई जिसके विरूद्ध श्री अख्तर अली द्वारा माच० उच्च न्यायालय में रिट याचिका संख्या 5174/2018 योजित की गई, जिसे मा० उच्च न्यायालय द्वारा दिनांक 28.02.2018 को खारिज कर दिया गया। इसी बीच मण्डलायुक्त महोदय के निर्देश पर जांच कर रहे अपर आयुक्त, मेरठ मण्डल, मेरठ द्वारा प्रश्नगत प्रकरण में श्री अख्तर अली को प्राकृतिक न्याय व नियमों के परिपेक्ष्य में पूर्ण

31. The findings of the inquiry officer are based upon a procedure that is far from one that is essential to be followed in a disciplinary inquiry involving the likely imposition of a major penalty. In fact, the inquiry report is no report at all and the findings there no more than a blanket acceptance of the Establishment's case, with no evidence offered by them at the inquiry or opportunity to the petitioner to rebut it.

32. The impugned orders passed by the Nagar Ayukt and the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut, in appeal, overlook these essential flaws in procedure which vitiate the departmental inquiry held as these go to the root of the matter. Also, we hold that one of the charges in the first charge-sheet, that is to say, the charge, regarding the institution of proceedings before this Court, without permission of the respondents, is manifestly illegal, void and a nullity. Upon remand even if the respondents deem it fit to take fresh disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner, the aforesaid charge or a charge to the aforesaid effect, howsoever worded, shall not be framed or inquired into by the respondents. Of course, on the other charges, it would be open to the respondents to take fresh proceedings, if they so elect, after issuing a properly drawn up chargesheet carrying sufficient and intelligible particulars of the charges or imputations that may enable the petitioner to understand and answer the same effectively.

33. In the event of the respondents electing to pursue fresh disciplinary proceedings, after the issue of a charge-sheet conforming to the law, the inquiry shall be held afresh strictly, in accordance with the procedure indicated in the body of this judgment relating to inquiries where a major penalty may be imposed.

34. In the circumstances of the case, not only the impugned orders, with the aforesaid liberty, are fit to be quashed and the petitioner reinstated in service but, the charge-sheets as well, again with the liberty indicated. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders dated 29.06.2019 passed by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut and the impugned appellate order dated 23.05.2022 passed by the Commissioner, Meerut Division, Meerut are hereby quashed. The charge-sheet dated 11.07.2018 as well as the one dated 01.11.2018, both issued by the Nagar Ayukt, Nagar Nigam, Meerut, are hereby quashed. The petitioner shall be reinstated in service forthwith and paid his current salary, in the same manner as any other employee of the Nigam.

35. It will be open to the respondents to pursue fresh disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner, if they so elect, in the manner indicated in this judgment. If the respondents elect to pursue fresh proceedings against the petitioner, his entitlement to receive arrears of salary shall abide by the result of those proceedings. In the event no fresh proceedings are elected to be taken, the petitioner shall be entitled to 50% of his emoluments for the period that he has remained out of service, together with 6% simple interest from the date of this order until payment of arrears.

36. There shall be no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE J.J. MUNIR, J.

Writ A No. 16994 of 2024

Anuj Kumar & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of denial of payment of salary for the period, during which the petitioners were forced to stay away from work, in consequence of an order, which was subsequently quashed.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Arrears of salary – Petitioner's appointment as Instructor was cancelled on the ground of not possessing the certificate – Writ petition against the cancellation order was allowed – Though the petitioner was reinstated in service, his claim of arrear of salary was rejected on the ground of 'No work, no payment' – Validity challenged : (E-1)

Held : Not rendering work, cannot be made basis of denying emoluments to the petitioners for the period that they were forced to stay away from work, in consequence of a decision of the respondents themselves, that has not survived judicial scrutiny in the first instance, and after remand, their own consideration of the matter – The respondents cannot deny the petitioners their arrears of salary for the different periods of time payable to petitioner Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and the impugned order is manifestly illegal. [Para 13 and 19]

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This writ petition is directed against an order dated 01.10.2024 passed by the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, declining payment of salary to the petitioners for the different periods of time that they were out of service on account of an order, that was subsequently quashed by this Court in a writ petition earlier preferred by them, and their reinstatement in service pursuant to this Court's order in Writ-A No.4569 of 2017 decided on 19.12.2018. The petitioners have further prayed that a mandamus be issued to the respondents to sanction and pay arrears of salary in case of petitioner No.1 for the period 19.01.2017 to 02.01.2020, petitioner No.2 for the period 01.01.2017 to 07.01.2020, and, petitioner No.3 for the period 01.01.2017 to 16.12.2019, within a period of time to be specified by this Court. A further mandamus has been sought, directing the respondents to treat the period of this absence as period spent on duty for the purpose of granting them other service benefits.

2. The Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow issued an advertisement, bearing No. Instructor Training/2/2014 dated 07.11.2014, inviting applications for a large number of posts of instructors in different trades to be appointed to various Government Industrial Training Institutes in the State. The posts advertised include posts of Instructors in the trade of Machinist (Grinder). The petitioners were eligible and qualified for the said posts. They applied in response to the advertisement aforesaid. The petitioners were awarded quality points based on their High School Certificate, National Trade Certificate and Craft Instructor Certificate in the manner that the High School Certificate was granted a weightage of 50%, the National Trade Certificate 20% and the Craft Instructor Certificate 15%.

3. A merit list was drawn up on the basis of the quality point marks earned. The petitioners were called to participate in an interview. Each of the petitioners appeared on the scheduled date and were interviewed. The interview carried 15% marks. A final merit list was drawn up by the respondents, where each of the three petitioners stood selected. The quality point marks awarded to petitioner Nos.1, 2 and 3 on the basis of their academic qualifications worked out to 52.157, 56.992 and 51.186, respectively. To these quality point marks awarded to the petitioners, marks earned in the interview were added, on the foot of which the final selection list was drawn up.

4. The petitioners were appointed as Instructor Machinist (Grinder) and were issued letters of appointment, all dated 13.11.2016. They were appointed on probation for a period of two years. The first petitioner was posted at the Government Industrial Training Institute, Farrukhabad; petitioner No.2 at the Government Industrial Training Institute, Pandu Nagar, Kanpur; and, petitioner No.3 at the Government Industrial Training Institute, Karaundi, Varanasi. Each of the petitioners joined duties at their respective stations of posting. The petitioners say that their work and conduct have been satisfactory.

5. On 18.01.2017, similarly worded orders were passed by the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, cancelling the petitioners' appointments. The appointments were cancelled on the ground that each of the petitioners did not possess the certificate under the Craft Instructor Training Scheme (CITS) in the relevant trade and were not, therefore, entitled to appointment. Consequential orders were issued by the Principals of the Government Industrial Training Institutes, where the petitioners were serving, notifying cancellation of the petitioners' appointment. These orders were challenged before this Court by means of Writ-A No.4569 of 2017, jointly filed by all the three petitioners here. The writ petition aforesaid was allowed by this Court vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2018 in terms of the following findings and orders:

"Having considered the rival submissions, the Court notes that there is no dispute that the impugned orders came to be passed without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioners. The order on its plain terms and impact does visit the petitioners with grave and serious civil consequences. It was therefore, incumbent upon the respondents to place the petitioners on notice of the proposed action. More importantly what emerges from the above discussion is that the respondents have failed to consider the defence which could have been proffered namely of the CITS certificate in the relevant trade being only a preferential qualification and not an essential prerequisite. The Court further notes that Rule 9 carries to it a proviso which postulates that in case a candidate does not possess the preferential qualification as prescribed for different trades, he still obtains a right to be considered for selection and if selected is statutorily granted time as per Rule 17(3) to acquire the said qualification.

These grounds and aspects would clearly merit the matter being remitted to the concerned respondent for taking a decision afresh.

Accordingly the writ petition is allowed. The orders dated 18 January 2017 are hereby quashed. The matter shall in consequence stand remanded to the second respondent for decision afresh and in light of the observations made hereinabove.

The consequential orders dated 19 January 2017 and 20 January 2017 shall also consequently stand set aside."

6. In compliance with the said order, unconditional orders of reinstatement in service were passed by the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, where one of these, relating to petitioner No.3, Dharmendra Kumar, has been annexed to the writ petition as Annexure No.7. The petitioner asserts in paragraph No.15 that similarly worded orders were issued in regard to other two petitioners as well. The order of reinstatement passed in compliance with the orders of this Court dated 19.12.2018 in Writ-A No.4569 of 2017 reads:

7. In compliance, petitioner Nos.1, 2 and 3 were reinstated in service by the Principals, Government Industrial Training Institute, Naini, Prayagraj and Karaundi vide orders dated 03.01.2020, 08.01.2020 and 17.12.2019, respectively. The petitioners joined duties and have been working satisfactorily. The petitioners, however, were not paid salary for the period that they were out of employment on account of the order impugned, since quashed by this Court and which was submitted to unconditionally by the respondents. The periods of time, for which arrears of salary were claimed by the petitioners, is as follows: petitioner No.1 19.01.2017 to 02.01.2020, petitioner No.2 01.01.2017 to 07.01.2020, and, petitioner No.3 from 01.01.2017 to 16.12.2019.

8. The petitioners represented their cause for sanction and disbursement of arrears of salary, but the same remained unheeded. Representations dated 24.06.2021, 14.09.2023 have been mentioned in this connection and copies brought on record. When no action was taken, the petitioners filed Writ-A No.3329 of 2024, which was disposed of, ordering the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, to look into the matters and consider the petitioners' claim for arrears of salary for the respective periods of time between the orders of cancellation of appointment and reinstatement in service and pass final orders in the matter, as expeditiously as possible, preferably within a period of three months from the production of a certified copy of the order made by this Court. The order was directed to be a speaking order.

9. Eschewing unnecessary detail, the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow by means of the impugned order dated 01.10.2024 rejected the petitioners' claim on ground that for the periods of time that the petitioners claimed salary, they were not in service, and, therefore, not entitled to it without having worked. In substance, the principle of 'no work no pay' was invoked. Representations of all the three petitioners were rejected by the order impugned.

10. Aggrieved, this writ petition has been instituted under Article 226 of the Constitution.

11. Heard Mr. Siddharth Khare, learned Counsel for the petitioners and Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned Standing Counsel, appearing on behalf of all the respondents.

12. Upon hearing learned Counsel for the parties, what we find is that this Court vide judgment and order dated 19.12.2018 passed in Writ-A No.4569 of 2017, instituted by the petitioners raising challenge to the orders of cancellation of their appointments, allowed the writ petition and quashed those orders, remanding the matter to the second respondent to take decision afresh, bearing in mind the remarks in the judgment. Now, upon remand, the orders for reinstatement of the petitioners in service were passed without imposing any condition, restricting emoluments payable to the period after reinstatement. Possibly, that could not have been done either. The reason is that the petitioners did not discharge duties for the period of time that they now claim arrears on account of the impugned orders, cancelling their appointments. Prior to those orders, the petitioners were regularly discharging their duties. After this Court quashed the orders cancelling the petitioners' appointments with a remand to the respondents, the respondents acknowledged their mistake and granted unqualified reinstatement in service. In these circumstances, no blame can be fastened upon the petitioners for not performing their duties during the respective periods of time after the orders of cancellation since quashed by this Court and the orders of reinstatement passed in each case. The petitioners were kept away from their duties by the respondents and forced not to work pursuant to a decision, which the respondents themselves acknowledged to be illegal, when considering the petitioners' claim, post judgment of this Court in Writ-A No.4569 of 2017. The respondents have found no flaw in the petitioners' appointments.

13. In our opinion, therefore, not rendering work, cannot be made basis of denying emoluments to the petitioners for the period that they were forced to stay away from work, in consequence of a decision of the respondents themselves, that has not survived judicial scrutiny in the first instance, and after remand, their own consideration of the matter.

14. The question that falls for consideration here arose in Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Limited and others, (2016) 16 SCC 663, where it was observed:

"1. It is not a matter of dispute, that the appellant was retired from service on 31-12-2002, even though he would have, in the ordinary course, attained his date of retirement on superannuation, only on 31-12-2005. The appellant assailed the order of his retirement dated 31-12-2002 by filing Writ Petition No. 751 of 2003. The same was allowed by a learned Single Judge of the Punjab and Haryana High Court, on 14-9-2010 [Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd., WP (C) No. 751 of 2003, order dated 14-9-2010 (P&H)] . The operative part of the order is extracted hereunder:

"Accordingly the present writ petition is allowed; order dated 31-12-2002 (Annexure P-4) is quashed. The petitioner would be treated to be in continuous service with all consequential benefits. However it is clarified that since the petitioner has not worked on the post maxim of "no work, no pay" shall apply and the consequential benefits shall only be determined towards terminal benefits. However there will be no order as to costs."

2. The denial of back wages to the appellant by the High Court vide its order dated 14-9-2010 [Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd., WP (C) No. 751 of 2003, order dated 14-9-2010 (P&H)] was assailed by the appellant by filing Letters Patent Appeal No. 489 of 2011. The High Court rejected the claim of the appellant, while dismissing the letters patent appeal on 26-5-2011 [Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd., 2011 SCC OnLine P&H 17610] . The orders dated 14-9-2010 [Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd., WP (C) No. 751 of 2003, order dated 14-9-2010 (P&H)] and 26-5-2011 [Shobha Ram Raturi v. Haryana Vidyut Prasaran Nigam Ltd., 2011 SCC OnLine P&H 17610] passed by the High Court limited to the issue of payment of back wages, are the subject-matter of challenge before this Court.

3. Having given our thoughtful consideration to the controversy, we are satisfied, that after the impugned order of retirement dated 31-12-2002 was set aside, the appellant was entitled to all consequential benefits. The fault lies with the respondents in not having utilised the services of the appellant for the period from 1-1-2003 to 31-12-2005. Had the appellant been allowed to continue in service, he would have readily discharged his duties. Having restrained him from rendering his services with effect from 1-1-2003 to 31-12-2005, the respondent cannot be allowed to press the self-serving plea of denying him wages for the period in question, on the plea of the principle of "no work no pay"."

(emphasis by Court)

15. This decision was followed by this Court in Prayag Narain Dubey (P.N. Dubey) v. U.P.S.R.T.C. and another, 2018 (8) ADJ 561, which was upheld on appeal by the Division Bench in U.P.S.R.T.C. and another v. Prayag Narain Dubey (P.N. Dubey), 2018 ADJOnline 0727. The principle in all these cases is clear, and that is where the employee has remained out of service on account of the unilateral act of the employer, which is subsequently found not valid and lawful, the employer cannot refuse to pay him emoluments on the principle of 'no work no pay'.

16. I had occasion to consider the same issue in Rajesh Kumar Yadav v. State of U.P. and others, 2023 SCC OnLine All 3097 relating to the same service governed by the same rules and a similar denial of emoluments for the period that the petitioner in that case remained out of service on account of cancellation of his appointment. In Rajesh Kumar Yadav (supra), I held:

"In the circumstances, to attribute the petitioner any blame for not performing his duties between the period 14.09.2011 to 01.05.2017 would be patently arbitrary. But for the respondents' decision to terminate his services on 14.09.2011 on a particular view about the essential qualification that the petitioner ought to have possessed, the petitioner would have continued in service and served the respondents. However, later on, when this Court sent the matter back to the respondents to reconsider the issue, the respondents acknowledged their mistake and held that cancellation of the petitioner's appointment, was for the reason indicated, not tenable. Therefore, the petitioner remaining out of job or not rendering work cannot be made the basis of denying him his emoluments for the period that he was forced to stay away It becomes all the more relevant in this case because the respondents have acknowledged their mistake while reinstating the petitioner, and, done so, without any limitation regarding the terms of reinstatement."

17. The respondents preferred Special Appeal (D) No.704 of 2024, State of U.P. and 2 others v. Rajesh Kumar Yadav, where the Division Bench upheld the order and dismissed the appeal vide judgment and order dated 05.10.2023. The respondents further challenged the order of the Division Bench by moving the Supreme Court praying for grant of Special Leave to Appeal vide SLP (Civil) Diary No.4870 of 2024. The Special Leave Petition was summarily dismissed vide order dated 12.02.2024.

18. Mr. Sharad Chandra Upadhyay, learned Standing Counsel, however, resisted the petitioners' claim and placed reliance upon a decision of the Supreme Court in Management of Reserve Bank of India, New Delhi v. Bhopal Singh Panchal, (1994) 1 SCC 541. Bhopal Singh Panchal (supra) was a case relating to an employee of the Reserve Bank of India, who was arrested on a criminal charge and placed under suspension under Regulation 46(1) of the Reserve Bank of India (Staff) Regulations, 1948. He was convicted by the learned Sessions Judge for an offence under Section 304 Part-I IPC and sentenced to 8 years' R.I. Upon an appeal, the High Court acquitted him, granting him the benefit of doubt. He was not reinstated in service by the Reserve Bank of India, but upon raising an industrial dispute, the Industrial Tribunal passed an award directing reinstatement in service with full wages and continuity, as if he had never been dismissed. It was in the context of the aforesaid facts and Regulation 46 of the Regulations of 1948 that it was held that in the circumstances, it could not be said that the employee was absent from duty on account of circumstances beyond his control. He had indulged in misconduct, of which he had not been honourably acquitted. It was in those circumstances that Regulations 39, 46 and 47 were interpreted to empower the Bank to deny salary on the principle of 'no work no pay' to the employee concerned. This decision stands on the edifice of a completely different principle, which is not even remotely attracted to the facts of the present case, as already indicated.

19. In the totality of circumstances, we are of opinion that the respondents cannot deny the petitioners their arrears of salary for the different periods of time payable to petitioner Nos.1, 2 and 3, and the impugned order is manifestly illegal.

20. In the result, this petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 01.10.2024 passed by the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, the Principal, Government Industrial Training Institute, Naini, Prayagraj and the Principal, Government Industrial Training Institute, Karaundi, Varanasi, to ensure, amongst themselves, payment of arrears of salary to petitioner No.1 for the period 19.01.2017 to 02.01.2020, petitioner No.2 for the period 01.01.2017 to 07.01.2020, and, petitioner No.3 for the period 01.01.2017 to 16.12.2019, within a period of two months of receipt of a copy of this order.

21. There shall be no order as to costs.

22. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the Director, Training and Employment, U.P., Lucknow, the Principal, Government Industrial Training Institute, Naini, Prayagraj and the Principal, Government Industrial Training Institute, Karaundi, Varanasi by the Registrar (Compliance).

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of non-compliance of principle of oral hearing by the Inquiry Officer, even in the absence of provision on it in the Rules of 1999.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Termination – Inquiry proceeding – Principle of natural justice – Opportunity of oral hearing – The delinquent employee, who was Lekhpal, was charged with of treating a person as dead and passing the mutation order – No date and time was ever fixed by the Inquiry Officer for any further hearing – No opportunity of oral hearing was given to the petitioner – Effect – Rule 7 of Rules of 1999 require no oral inquiry to the delinquent employee before concluding the inquiry proceedings – Relevance : (E-1)

Held : There is no express requirement in the said rules for according any oral inquiry to the delinquent employee before concluding the inquiry proceedings. However, in Kaptan Singh's case, the Division Bench of this Court while interpreting the aforesaid Rules, relying upon the general principles of law as held in Roop Singh Negi's case and other judgments relied upon by the Division Bench, has interpreted the aforesaid Rules so as to mean that after submission of the reply by the delinquent employee or even in the absence of reply by the delinquent employee to the charge-sheet, it is implicit in the aforesaid Rules, though not expressed, that there is requirement of holding of an oral inquiry as it is sine qua non for providing reasonable opportunity to defend and it is part of principles of natural justice under Articles 311 and 14 of the Constitution of India – In view of the aforesaid binding precedent in Kaptan Singh's case, it is an implicit duty of the Inquiry Officer to afford an opportunity of hearing to the delinquent employee before concluding the inquiry proceedings. Since, such opportunity has never been granted in the instant case to the petitioner herein, thus, the inquiry report without affording such opportunity of hearing to the delinquent employee to the petitioner cannot be relied upon for termination of service of the petitioner herein. Thus, the entire proceedings against the petitioner is vitiated. [Para 24 and 25]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Santosh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Girijesh Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The instant petition has been filed by the petitioner herein seeking quashing of the order dated 17.12.2009, passed by respondent no.3, whereby the services of the petitioner herein were terminated and also seeking quashing of the order dated 30.04.2010, whereby the appeal preferred by the appellant herein was dismissed by the respondent no.2.

FACTS

3. The brief facts of the case are the petitioner herein was appointed on the post of Lekhpal in the year, 1980 and in the year, 2008, he was posted in the area of Domagor of Tehsil and District-Jhansi. On 04.10.2008, an F.I.R. being Case Crime No. 686 of 2008 under Sections 419, 420, 467, 471, 477-A and 120B I.P.C. was registered at the behest of the Revenue Inspector, Shri Buddhi Prakash, making out the allegations that the petitioner has treated one Brij Kishore as dead and passed a mutation order in favour of Rajendra Singh and Hari Mohan. In the aforesaid case, after investigation a final report was submitted on 21.10.2008.

4. In the final order it was categorically observed by the Investigation Officer (IO) that since the said Brij Kishore had left his house in the year, 1988 and has taken Sanyas and renowned the world, but his sons and relatives continued to search for him sufficiently for long period upto 1997. When the said Brij Kishore could not be traced out by them, in the year 1997 his sons and relatives have performed his last rites treating he is dead and thereafter they have applied for mutation of their names in place of his father. Since, the entire village has accepted that said Brij Kishore has died, in such circumstances it is further observed that Village Pradhan has also certified that he is dead. However, later on in the year, 2006, said Brij Kishore came in the village in the form of a Sadhu and did not raise any objection with regard to the mutation of his property in the name of his legal heirs i.e., his sons. Since, the neighbors of the land belonging to the sons of the said Brij Kishore, wanted to purchase the land from Hari Mohan etc., which they have refused to sell. Having regard to this he has made the complaints to the Higher Officials, therefore, it was concluded that there was no criminality attached to the action taken by the petitioner herein in passing the mutation order in favor of the legal heirs of the said Brij Kishore, on the basis of the Death Certificate issued by the Village Pradhan.

5. Subsequent to the filing of the aforesaid final report, another F.I.R. being Case Crime No. 2293 of 2008 under Section 420 I.P.C. was lodged against the petitioner herein alleging therein that the petitioner herein had torned the order ?o?o-11 with regard to the Khata No. 349, whereby an alive person was shown as dead and name of his heirs were mutated.

6. The criminal proceedings of the aforesaid case was stayed by this Court on a Criminal Misc. Application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. No. 17392 of 2009 filed by the sons of the said Brij Kishore. Subsequent thereto, vide order dated 11.11.2008, the petitioner herein was suspended on the allegation that he has torned the order ?o?o-11-? relating to Khata No. 349 of the year, 1359 Fasli, while inspecting the aforesaid file. Thereupon, on 21.03.2009, the inquiry officials has issued the following charge-sheet against the petitioner herein:

7. In the aforesaid charge-sheet, the inquiry officer has not proposed any of the witnesses to be examined in support of the charges.

8. In the reply to the aforesaid charge-sheet as well, the petitioner herein has also not proposed any of the witnesses to be examined in support of his defense. Though, he has submitted the following documents along with his reply dated 23.06.2009:

"संलग्नक :-

1. भूमि प्रबंधक समिति डोमागोर प्रस्ताव की छाया प्रति।
2. श्री कैलाश नारायण गुप्ता दिया गया शपथपत्र।
3. श्री लक्ष्मीदेवी द्वारा दिया गया शपथ पत्र।
4. थाना नवाबाद व थाना पूंछ की एफ. आई. आर. की छाया प्रति।
5. अभिलेखापाल श्री बृजेश श्रीवास्तव व ओमप्रकाश आदि के ब्यानों की छाया प्रति।
6. अभिलेखागार में दिया गये प्रश्नोत्तरी की छाया प्रति ।"

9. After submission of the reply by the petitioner herein, Inquiry Officer has proceeded to examine the charge-sheet, reply submitted by the petitioner and the documents available on record and on the basis thereof, he has recorded its finding with regard to all the three charges without giving any opportunity of oral hearing to the petitioner herein or without examining any witnesses in support of the case of the department and with regard to the first charge of tearing of the order ?o?o-11 from the revenue records, it has been found that Charge No.1 has been proved against the petitioner. Charge No.2 has been found to have been proved partially against the petitioner and Charge No.3 found to have been proved against the petitioner.

10. In the inquiry report dated 31.10.2009. After receipt of the said inquiry report by the SDM, the Disciplinary Authority issued show cause notice dated 10.11.2000 against the petitioner herein along with copy of the inquiry report. Thereupon, the petitioner herein has submitted a detailed reply on 11.12.2009 to the aforesaid show cause notice. Thereupon, vide impugned order dated 17.12.2009, the Disciplinary Authority has terminated the services of the petitioner herein.

11. Against the aforesaid termination order dated 17.12.2009, the petitioner herein has approached this Court by filing Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.1760 of 2010. The aforesaid writ petition was disposed of vide judgement and order dated 18.01.2010, directing the petitioner herein to file the statutory appeal within 15 days before the District Magistrate, Jhansi. Thereupon, the petitioner herein has filed his statutory appeal on 01.02.2010 before the District Magistrate. The District Magistrate vide impugned order dated 30.04.2010 has considered the submissions made in the appeal by the appellant herein and thereupon the Appellate Authority has found the Charges

No. 1 and 3 to have been proved against the appellant and Charge No.2 was partially proved against the petitioner. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid two orders, the instant petition has been filed by the petitioner herein.

SUBMISSION BY THE PETITIONER

12. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioner is that while concluding the inquiry, the Inquiry Officer has not followed the procedure as prescribed under Uttar Pradesh Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules 1999, neither the Inquiry Officer has examined any of the witnesses in support of the documents relied upon by the petitioner herein nor any opportunity of oral hearing has ever been accorded by the Inquiry Officer to explain to the charges leveled by the Inquiry Officer. Therefore, the entire inquiry proceeding is vitiated and cannot be relied upon for his dismissal.

13. It has further argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the Disciplinary Authority has also not taken any independent decision after considering his reply to the show cause notice and the charges leveled against the petitioner herein. The Disciplinary Authority has simply relied upon the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer and the same has been upheld and the termination order has been passed against the petitioner herein. Likewise, the Appellate Authority has also not applied its mind to the facts of the case and has simply relied upon the findings recorded by the Inquiry Officer and dismissed the appeal.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that after submission of reply to the charge-sheet by the petitioner, it was the duty of the Inquiry Officer to fix a date and time for oral hearing in the matter, giving an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner herein before concluding the inquiry proceedings, the same has not been done in the instant case by Inquiry Officer. Therefore, the entire inquiry proceedings is vitiated and against the settled principles of natural justice and against the provisions of 1999 Rules as has been interpreted by various judgments of this Court as well by the Apex Court.

15. In support of his submission, he has relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Roop Singh Negi v. Punjab National Bank, (2009) 2 SCC 570, Divl. Forest Officer v. Madhusudhan Rao, (2008) 3 SCC 469, Rani Lakshmi Bai Kshetriya Gramin Bank v. Jagdish Sharan Varshney, (2009) 4 SCC 240 and Satyendra Singh vs. State of U.P. and Another arising out of SLP (Civil) No.(2). 29758 of 2018 dated 18.11.2024. He has also relied upon the judgements of the Division Benches of this Court in State of U.P. and Others vs. Mam Chand Tyagi and Another, [2017 (6) ADJ 723 (DB)(LB)] of Lucknow Bench, Kaptan Singh vs. State of U.P. and Another (Writ A No. 25240 of 2014, judgement dated 14.05.2014) and the judgements. He has further relied upon the judgements of the Coordinate Bench of this Court in Rajesh Kumar Mall vs. State of U.P. and Another (Writ A No. 1498 of 2024 dated 15.02.2024).

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF STATE

16. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State submitted that Rule 7(iii) of 1999 Rules provides that while issuing the charge-sheet, it is incumbent upon the Inquiry

Officer to name all the witnesses and also the documents which are to be relied upon by the Inquiry Officer during the disciplinary proceedings against the delinquent employee. From the perusal of the charge-sheet, it is apparent that though certain documents have been mentioned in the charge-sheet, however, the Disciplinary Authority has not proposed any witnesses to be examined in support of the charges. Likewise, Rule 7(iv) also provides that delinquent employee is also supposed to categorically mention the names of the witnesses which he wish to propose to be examined during inquiry and also the documents to be relied upon by the delinquent employee. From the perusal of the reply submitted by the petitioner herein, it is apparent that he has not proposed any witnesses to be examined during inquiry proceedings in support of his version. Though, he has relied upon certain documents which were annexed along with reply.

17. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State submits that since both sides have not proposed any witness to to be examined during inquiry proceedings, therefore, there was no occasion for the Inquiry Officer to examine any of the witnesses during the inquiry proceedings. Therefore, he was not obliged to fix any date and time in the instant disciplinary proceedings. Further, 1999 Rules do not provide that any oral hearing be accorded prior to concluding the disciplinary proceeding against the delinquent employee. In view thereof, there is no infirmity in the procedure adopted by the Inquiry Officer in the instant case. So far as the disciplinary proceedings as well as the Appellate Authority are concerned, they have given detailed discussion with regard to the charges leveled and the findings of the Inquiry Officer as well as the explanation submitted by the petitioner herein and thereupon the Disciplinary Authority having found the charges against the petitioner having been proved, has passed the order of termination of the petitioner herein. Likewise, in the appeal preferred by the petitioner herein, the Appellate Authority has also applied its mind to the facts and circumstances of the case, explanation submitted by the petitioner herein as well as the material available on record and thereupon has upheld the termination of the petition by dismissing the appeal. Therefore, there is no illegality in the entire procedure adopted in the instant case by the respondents. Accordingly, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State prayed for dismissal of the instant petition.

ANALYSIS

18. Having heard the rival submissions so made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case. The facts of the case have already been noted hereinabove. Before proceeding further, it would be relevant to take note of the Rule 7 of Rules 1999, which reads as under:

"7. Procedure for imposing major penalties.-Before imposing any major penalty on a Government servant, an inquiry shall be held in the following manner:

i.The disciplinary authority may himself inquire into the charges or appoint an authority subordinate to him as Inquiry Officer to inquire into the charges.

ii.The facts constituting the misconduct on which it is proposed to take action shall be reduced in the form of definite charge or charges to be called charge-sheet. The charge-sheet shall be approved by the disciplinary authority: Provided that where the appointing authority is Governor, the charge-sheet may be approved by the Principal Secretary or the Secretary; as the case may be, of the concerned department.

iii.The charges framed shall be so precise and clear as to give sufficient indication to the charged Government servant of the facts and circumstances against him. The proposed documentary evidence and the name of the witnesses proposed to prove the same alongwith oral evidence, if any, shall be mentioned in the charge-sheet.

iv.The charged Government servant shall be required to put in a written statement of his defence in person on a specified date which shall not be less than 15 days from the date of issue of charge-sheet and to state whether he desires to cross-examine any witness mentioned in the charge-sheet and whether desires to give or produce evidence in his defence. He shall also be informed that in case he does not appear or file the written statement on the specified date, it will be presumed that he has none to furnish and Inquiry Officer shall proceed to complete the inquiry ex parte.

v.The charge-sheet, alongwith the copy of the documentary evidence mentioned therein and list of witnesses and their statements, if any, shall be served on the charged Government servant personally or by registered post at the address mentioned in the official records. In case the charge-sheet could not be served in aforesaid manner, the charge-sheet shall be served by publication in a daily newspaper having wide circulation: Provided that where the documentary evidence is voluminous, instead of furnishing its copy with charge-sheet, the charged Government servant shall be permitted to inspect the same before the Inquiry Officer.

vi.Where the charged Government servant appears and admits the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall submit his report to the disciplinary authority on the basis of such admission.

vii.Where the charged Government servant denies the charges, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed to call the witnesses proposed in the charge-sheet and record their oral evidence in presence of the charged Government servant who shall be given opportunity to cross-examine such witnesses. After recording the aforesaid evidence which the charged Government servant desired in his written statement to be produced in his defence:

Provided that the Inquiry Officer may for reasons to be recorded in writing refuse to call a witness.

viii.The Inquiry Officer may summon any witness to give evidence or require any person to produce documents before him in accordance with the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Departmental Inquiries (Enforcement of Attendance of Witnesses and Production of Documents) Act, 1976.

ix.The Inquiry Officer may ask any question he pleases, at any time of any witness or from person charged with a view to discover the truth or to obtain proper proof of facts relevant to charges.

x.Where the charged Government servant does not appear on the date fixed in the inquiry or at any stage of the proceeding inspite of the service of the notice on him or having knowledge of the date, the Inquiry Officer shall proceed with the inquiry ex parte. In such a case the Inquiry Officer shall record the statement of witnesses mentioned in the charge-sheet in absence of the charged Government servant.

xi.The disciplinary authority, if it considers it necessary to do so, may, by an order appoint a Government servant or a legal practitioner,to be known as "Presenting Officer" to present on its behalf the case in support of the charge.

xii.The Government servant may take the assistance of any other Government servant to present the case on his behalf but not engage a legal practitioner for the purpose unless the Presenting Officer appointed by the disciplinary authority is a legal practitioner of the disciplinary authority having regard to the circumstances of the case so permits: Provided that this rule shall not apply in following cases:

(i) Where any major penalty is imposed on a person on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(ii) Where the disciplinary authority is satisfied that for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, that it is not reasonably practicable to hold an inquiry in the manner provided in these rules; or

(iii)Where the Governor is satisfied that, in the interest of the security of the State, it is expedient to hold an enquiry in the manner provided in these rules."

19. So far as the judgment in Roop Singh Negi (supra) is concerned, the Apex Court has relied upon the general principle to be applied in the disciplinary proceedings in the cases where there are no specific rules in this regard. In Roop Singh Negi (supra), the Apex Court has observed as under:

"14. Indisputably, a departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial proceeding. The enquiry officer performs a quasi-judicial function. The charges levelled against the delinquent officer must be found to have been proved. The enquiry officer has a duty to arrive at a finding upon taking into consideration the materials brought on record by the parties. The purported evidence collected during investigation by the investigating officer against all the accused by itself could not be treated to be evidence in the disciplinary proceeding. No witness was examined to prove the said documents. The management witnesses merely tendered the documents and did not prove the contents thereof. Reliance, inter alia, was placed by the enquiry officer on the FIR which could not have been treated as evidence.

23. Furthermore, the order of the disciplinary authority as also the appellate authority are not supported by any reason. As the orders passed by them have severe civil consequences, appropriate reasons should have been assigned. If the enquiry officer had relied upon the confession made by the appellant, there was no reason as to why the order of discharge passed by the criminal court on the basis of selfsame evidence should not have been taken into consideration. The materials brought on record pointing out the guilt are required to be proved. A decision must be arrived at on some evidence, which is legally admissible*. The provisions of the Evidence Act may not be applicable in a departmental proceeding but the* principles of natural justice are*. As the report of the enquiry officer was based on merely ipse dixit as also surmises and conjectures, the same could not have been sustained. The inferences drawn by the enquiry officer apparently were not supported by any evidence. Suspicion, as is well known, however high may be, can under no circumstances be held to be a substitute for legal proof."*

20. Likewise, in Moni Shankar v. Union of India [(2008) 3 SCC 484 : (2008), the Apex Court held as under:

"17. The departmental proceeding is a quasi-judicial one*. Although the provisions of the Evidence Act are not applicable in the said proceeding, principles of natural justice are required to be complied with. The courts exercising power of judicial review are entitled to consider* as to whether while inferring commission of misconduct on the part of a delinquent officer relevant piece of evidence has been taken into consideration and irrelevant facts have been excluded therefrom*. Inference on facts must be based on evidence which meet the requirements of legal principles. The Tribunal was, thus, entitled to arrive at its own conclusion on the premise that the evidence adduced by the Department, even if it is taken on its face value to be correct in its entirety, meet the requirements of burden of proof, namely, preponderance of probability. If on such evidences, the test of the doctrine of proportionality has not been satisfied, the Tribunal was within its domain to interfere. We must place on record that the doctrine of unreasonableness is giving way to the doctrine of proportionality."*

21. In Satyendra Singh (supra), the Apex Court though has referred to the 1999 Rules, has observed as under:

"17. Thus, even in an ex-parte inquiry, it is sine qua non to record the evidence of the witnesses for proving the charges. Having tested the facts of the case at hand on the touchstone of the Rules of 1999, and the law as expounded by this Court in the cases of Roop Singh Negi and Nirmala J. Jhala, : (2013) 4 SCC 301 , we are of the firm view that the inquiry proceedings conducted against the appellant pertaining to charges punishable with major penalty, were totally vitiated and non-est in the eyes of law since no oral evidence whatsoever was recorded by the department in support of the charges."

22. In Kaptan Singh (supra), the Division Bench of this Court, while considering the Rule 7 of Rules 1999, has observed as under:

"Even if the delinquent does not demand personal hearing or does not give the names of witnesses with brief synopsis of points on which he wishes to examine or cross-examine the witnesses, the Inquiry Officer is not absolved from fixing a date of enquiry, with intimation to the delinquent and if he does not appear on the date fixed to either adjourn the enquiry to some other date or to proceed exparte, as he deems fit. In either eventuality, he is required to hold inquiry, if delinquent is present, in his presence, if he is absent, exparte. If oral evidence is referred in the charge-sheet, same is required to be recorded/examined, if not, even then the documentary evidence is required to be examined in the light of the charges for ascertaining the truth in respect thereof. The delinquent is also entitled to be intimated the date for oral enquiry, wherein the Inquiry Officer should confront the delinquent with the charges and the evidence in support thereof, put relevant queries to him, elicit and record his replies/response in respect thereof. Such oral enquiry is necessary as it gives an opportunity, to the delinquent to explain his conduct and to the Inquiry Officer to have a better perspective of the controversy, as, it is not always possible to discern the truth from written replies and documents which may not necessarily convey the complete truth. Even where the delinquent does not dispute the veracity of the documentary evidence, oral enquiry is necessary as he may still have an explanation to offer. "

"The Rules of 1999 also require the Inquiry Officer to hold an enquiry into the charges except where the delinquent admits the charges (Rule 7vi), in such an eventuality, he can submit a report straight away. As per Sub Rule (iv) and (x) of Rule 7 if the delinquent does not file his written statement or does not appear, the Investigating officer shall proceed exparte. Where he files the written statement and denies the charges, as in the instant case, it shall proceed as per Rule 7(vii) and the following sub rules.

The reference to "documentary evidence" in Rule 7(iii) and (v) clearly indicates that the same have to be examined, as aforesaid, on the date to be fixed for enquiry, whether in the presence of the delinquent or in absentia (exparte). This requirement though not express is implicit in the aforesaid rules, as is the requirement of holding an oral enquiry,as it is a sine qua non for providing reasonable opportunity to defend and is part of the principles of natural justice under Article 311 and 14 of the Constitution."

23. In Rajesh Kumar Mall (supra), the Co-ordinate Bench of this Court has observed as under:

"17. It is well settled law that during enquiry proceeding the principle of natural justice must be followed i.e. the documents relied upon, be provided to the charged employee, opportunity to adduce the evidence be provided, statement of witnesses for establishing the charges be recorded and opportunity to cross examine the witnesses be provided, whereas in the present case no such procedure has been followed. The petitioner has not been given opportunity to adduce the evidence and cross examine the witnesses and no witnesses has been examined by the enquiry officer in support of the charges levelled against the petitioner. "

CONCLUSION

24. Thus, from the perusal of the aforesaid rules, it is apparent that in case if neither in the charge-sheet nor in the reply submitted by the delinquent employee, any witness has been proposed, there is no express requirement in the said rules for according any oral inquiry to the delinquent employee before concluding the inquiry proceedings. However, in Kaptan Singh (supra), the Division Bench of this Court while interpreting the aforesaid Rules, relying upon the general principles of law as held in Roop Singh Negi (supra) and other judgments relied upon by the Division Bench, has interpreted the aforesaid Rules so as to mean that after submission of the reply by the delinquent employee or even in the absence of reply by the delinquent employee to the charge-sheet, it is implicit in the aforesaid Rules, though not expressed, that there is requirement of holding of an oral inquiry as it is sine qua non for providing reasonable opportunity to defend and it is part of principles of natural justice under Articles 311 and 14 of the Constitution of India.

25. Admittedly, in the instant case, it is evident from the record as well as and from the inquiry report itself that after submission of reply to the charge-sheet by the petitioner herein, no date and time has ever been fixed for any further hearing in the instant case by the Inquiry Officer, nor any opportunity of oral hearing to the petitioner has ever been granted. In view of the aforesaid binding precedent in Kaptan Singh (supra), it is an implicit duty of the Inquiry Officer to afford an opportunity of hearing to the delinquent employee before concluding the inquiry proceedings. Since, such opportunity has never been granted in the instant case to the petitioner herein, thus, the inquiry report without affording such opportunity of hearing to the delinquent employee to the petitioner cannot be relied upon for termination of service of the petitioner herein. Thus, the entire proceedings against the petitioner is vitiated. In view thereof, the orders passed by the Disciplinary Authority as well as by the Appellate Authority are not sustainable in law.

26. Therefore, the instant writ petition is allowed. The order dated 17.12.2009 passed by the Disciplinary Authority and order dated 30.04.2010 passed by the Appellant Authority are set-aside. Ordinarily, while setting aside the order of termination order, the matter is required to be remitted back for concluding the disciplinary proceedings from the stage it was vitiated. However, since the petitioner has already attained the age of superannuation on 09.01.2018, no fruitful purpose would be served in remitting back the matter at this stage, hence, this Court refrains from remitting back the matter to the Disciplinary Authority.

Writ A No. 62515 of 2017

Raghvendra Prasad Mishra ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Jurisdiction of District Magistrate to intervene into the matter relating to Secondary Education Department.
(2) Liability of management to pay exemplary costs for its mala fide in scuttling the career of employee.
(3) Effect of non-communicated adverse entry to the entitlement of selection grade and promotion.
(4) Effect of an illegal termination order to the entitlement of selection grade and promotion.

(5) Effect of retirement occurred during the course of pendency of writ petition to the entitlement of arrears of salary and post retiral benefits.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Termination – Assistant Teacher – Termination order passed by the manager was disapproved by the D.I.O.S. – District Magistrate find no place in the hierarchy of Secondary Education Department – However, the District Magistrate intervened into the matter by issuing certain direction – Permissibility.

Held : The District Collector or the District Magistrate is the Head of the Revenue and the Civil Administration in the district and has nothing to do with the Department of Secondary Education. He has no jurisdiction, authority or power in matters of the Department of Secondary Education – A direction of the kind, that the District Magistrate issued, could either be done by an administrative superior, 'in-line' in the hierarchy, sitting over the DIOS or it could be done by a Judge, exercising judicial powers of the State, may be the ordinary original civil jurisdiction, that is exercised by a Civil Judge – The law does not invest the District Magistrate with any kind of general supervisory powers over authorities and functionaries of other Departments of the Government of the same or a higher rank stationed in the district. [Para 13, 14 and 15]

(B) Service law – Termination – Assistant Teacher – Selection was made by the Board – However, Committee of Management terminated the appointment leveling the charge of committing fraud to obtain the same – Termination order was disapproved by the D.I.O.S. – Validity was challenged by the management – Mala fide of the management in scuttling the career of employee – Exemplary costs – Liability to pay :

Held : The fact that Mishra was indeed selected by the Commission/Board is beyond cavil as appears upon a conjoint perusal of all these documents. The notification number is also confirmed upon a perusal of the original stenciled copy of the notification dated 24.12.2004, bearing No. 491/2004, which has been produced by the Board. In the said notification, Mishra's name finds place at serial No. 9 and the roll number mentioned is 020110023. In the face of all these documents, there is no scope for the Management to come up with a case of fraudulent appointment against Mishra, based upon a non-existent selection by the Board – The order impugned passed by the DIOS is not only unexceptionable, but the Management's stand is mala fide, which must invite imposition of exemplary cost of Rs. 50,000/-. [Para 24 and 25]

(C) Service law – Assistant Teacher – Adverse entry was made, but was not communicated to the employee – Effect – Selection grade was denied on the basis of non-communicated adverse entry – Permissibility :

Held : It is not permissible for an employer to rely on adverse entries for the purpose of denying promotion or withholding grant of selection grade or visiting the employee with any other adverse civil consequences, if the relevant adverse entries have not been communicated to the employee concerned – Mishra is entitled to the grant of selection grade, not w.e.f. 01.07.2019, that is to say, when he completed 10 years of service from the date of the last adverse entry awarded to him, but w.e.f. 19.01.2015 upon completion of 10 years service from the date he joined the Management's institution, to wit, on 20.09.2005. [Para 40 and 41]

(D) Service law – Assistant Teacher – Promotion to the post of Lecturer – Termination order was declared illegal – Employee was retired from services during the course of pendency of writ petition – Effect – Notional promotion – Post retiral benefits – Entitlement – Non-communicated adverse entries was relied upon to refuse the promotion – Permissibility :

Held : If Mishra is found entitled to promotion or his case on this score held wrongfully denied by the respondents, entitling him to a quashing of that part of the impugned order with a direction to re-consider it, Mishra would also be entitled to notional promotion from the date he is found by this Court to be entitled or by the Authority to which the matter is remitted, i.e. if his claim is substantiated before the said Authority – Uncommunicated prejudicial entries cannot be relied upon for the purpose of considering the employee's case for promotion. Such uncommunicated adverse entries are to be ignored – The impugned order passed by the Joint Director of Education, declining Mishra's case for promotion, cannot be sustained. [Para 43, 49 and 70]

Further held : Mishra, however, will not be entitled to salary for the promotion post of Lecturer, on whichever date he is granted the notional promotion because he did not actually work on that post till his retirement. He would be granted the status of a Lecturer, if found fit by the Selection Committee, as above directed, and shall be entitled to a suitable revision of his post retiral benefits, including pension, worked out on the basis of the Lecturer's grade. Of course, he would be entitled to arrears of pension and other post retiral benefits on account of the revision, but nothing by way of salary arrears or other in-service benefits. [Para 71] (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J.Munir, J.)

1. By this judgment, we propose to decide Writ-A No.62515 of 2017, Writ-A No.42077 of 2016, Writ-A No.19042 of 2022 and Writ-A No.5197 of 2024, three of these relating to the claim of Raghvendra Prasad Mishra, an Assistant Teacher with the Sri Shiv Mohar Nath Pandey Kisan Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti, for promotion as a Lecturer in the said institution and the award of selection grade as an Assistant Teacher from the appropriate date. Of these writ petitions, Writ-A No.5197 of 2024 has been preferred by the Management of the Sri Shiv Mohar Nath Pandey Kisan Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti (for short, 'the Management'), challenging an order dated 07.02.2024 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Basti (for short, 'the DIOS'), virtually disapproving the resolution of the Committee of Management dated 26.01.2024, deciding to terminate the services of Raghvendra Prasad Mishra on ground that his selection by the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board, Prayagraj (for short, 'the Board') was never made and his appointment was the result of fraud.

2. We have heard Writ-A No.62515 of 2017 as the leading case. Nevertheless, we propose to decide Writ-A No.5197 of 2024, preferred by the Management for a first as the said writ petition carries facts and a cause of action slightly different from those involved in the other three writ petitions preferred by Raghvendra Prasad Mishra, who shall hereinafter be referred to as 'Mishra' in respect of all the writ petitions.

3. Writ-A No.5197 of 2024 preferred by the Management was heard together with the three writ petitions preferred by Mishra for reason that the action of the Management in terminating Mishra's services, dubbing his selection by the Board as non-existent, was really meant to scuttle consideration of Mishra's claim for promotion to the post of a Lecturer. As we would presently see, there was absolutely no basis for the Management to say that Mishra was never selected as a Lecturer by the Board, and, therefore, his appointment was non est, entitling them to terminate his services vide resolution dated 26.01.2024 and notified by the Manager vide order dated 29.01.2024. The Management also want in this petition, after quashing the order of the DIOS dated 07.02.2024, the issue of a mandamus to the Uttar Pradesh Education Service Selection Commission (for short, 'the Commission'), the successor of the Board, to approve the order dated 29.01.2024, terminating Mishra's services.

4. The case of the Management is that an order dated 13.09.2005 was issued by the DIOS that in accordance with a memo dated 09.08.2005 issued by the Secretary of the Board, Mishra had been selected as an Assistant Teacher (Trained Graduate) in Hindi and that he be appointed by the Management as such, in their institution. It is the Management's case that in compliance with the said statutory direction issued by the DIOS, they issued a letter of appointment dated 16.09.2005 in Mishra's favour and on 20.09.2005, he joined as an Assistant Teacher. It is the Management's case that in the year 2017, it came to their knowledge that Mishra was never selected in the selection examination, held pursuant to Advertisement No. 01/2002 and Roll No.020110023 mentioned in the order dated 13.09.2005 issued by the DIOS was not available in the entire despatch list of joining letters issued by the Board. The Management say that the despatch list of letters show the name of a man, called Raghvendra Mishra, but his posting is indicated with an institution, called the R.R. Inter College, Hardoi. The Management further assert that upon personal verification of the fact, they found that Raghvendra Mishra is working with the institution, known as R.R. Inter College, Hardoi and is a man different from Mishra, who was appointed by the Management.

5. It is the Management's case further that they submitted multiple applications under the Right to Information Act to the Board and their successor Commission, in order to secure information regarding Mishra's selection against Advertisement No. 01/2002. They were ultimately furnished with a copy of the adjustment register, where letter No. Patrank-2053-2120/2005 dated 09.08.2005, bears the same number as that mentioned in the order dated 13.09.2005 issued by the DIOS, directing Mishra's appointment in the Management's institution. It is the Management's case that in the entire letter No. Patrank-2053-2120/2005 dated 09.08.2005, Roll No. 020110023, mentioned in the DIOS' order, directing Mishra's appointment, is not available. It is also said that in the aforesaid list, a man, named Raghvendra Mishra, finds mention, but his posting is with the R.R.

Inter College, Hardoi. The Management, after receipt of the said information, informed the DIOS, to take action against Mishra regarding the fraud committed by him, saying that Raghvendra Mishra, who was selected by the Board, is another man, who sat the selection examination under Roll No. 090110640 and now serving with another institution. Mishra was never selected, and, therefore, his appointment was the outcome of fraud. It was non est. No action was taken by the DIOS in the matter nor inquiry held into the fraud that Mishra committed. The DIOS on a later representation preferred by the Management dated 16.12.2023, called evidence from the Management through his letter dated 20.12.2023, fixing 26.12.2023 for hearing. The DIOS heard parties, but did not look into the relevant material, disclosing Mishra's fraudulent appointment. Instead, a letter dated 27.12.2023 was issued by the DIOS to pay arrears of selection grade to Mishra. At the end of it all, when the DIOS did not take action, the Management granted opportunity to Mishra to show cause in the matter and resolved by the resolution dated 26.01.2024 to terminate his services.

6. A formal order, dispensing with Mishra's services, was issued by the Manager, on the Management's behalf, on 29.01.2024. The DIOS then called for a report regarding the order dated 29.01.2024 from the Management passed against Mishra. The Management answered it by their reply dated 02.02.2024 with a request that the order, terminating Mishra's services, be approved.

7. It is the Management's case that no action was taken by the DIOS in the matter of granting approval to the order, terminating Mishra's services. The Management, aggrieved by the inaction, went to the District Magistrate, Basti, with a representation dated 06.02.2024, which is short, very odd and by no means sweet. The material part of the representation, together with the request made, reads:

उपरोक्त के सम्बन्ध में अधोहस्ताक्षरी ने जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक बस्ती को कुल 09 पत्र भेजकर दिशा-निर्देश/ अनुमति मांगा। इसके बावजूद उनके द्वारा कोई दिशा-निर्देश या अनुमति नहीं दी गयी और दिनांक 26.12.2023 को सुनवाई की। उसके बाद करीब 43 दिन व्यतीत हो जाने पर भी निर्णय नहीं लिया।

अधोहस्ताक्षरी ने दिनांक 29.01.2024 को श्री राघवेन्द्र प्रसाद मिश्र फर्जी शिक्षक की सेवा समाप्त कर दी। तब जिला विद्यालय निरीक्षक बस्ती प्रबन्धतंत्र को भंग करने की धमकी दिये।

महोदय जनपद का सर्वोच्च अधिकारी होने के कारण उपरोक्त के सम्बन्ध में आप से उचित कार्यवाही का अनुरोध है।"

8. The Management say that the District Magistrate, Basti directed the DIOS to take a decision in the matter, in consequence of which the DIOS passed the order impugned dated 07.02.2024, disapproving the order dated 29.01.2024 passed by the Manager, terminating Mishra's services. It is the validity of this order dated 07.02.2024 passed by the DIOS, that is impugned in the writ petition, presently under consideration.

9. In this writ petition, notice was issued to the State, the Commission as well as Mishra, but no return has been filed.

10. We have heard Mr. Shachindra Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the Management in support of the present writ petition, Dr. Santosh Kumar Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel along with Mr. Roopesh Tiwari, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent Nos.1, 2, 3 and 4, Mr. A.K. Yadav, Advocate, holding brief of Mr. Vibhanshu Vaibhav, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent No.5, the Secretary of the Commission, and Mr. Arvind Kumar Singh along with Mr. Bashisth Narain Pandey, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of Mishra. The record has been perused.

11. Before we proceed to examine the validity of the impugned order and the Management's claim to allied relief, we consider it appropriate to notice a few things, that relate to matters of jurisdiction of certain authorities, vis-a-vis each other, in particular the District Magistrate and the DIOS.

12. The District Inspector of Schools is a district level officer in his own right and the Head of the Secondary Education Establishment of the State Government in the district. The Department of Secondary Education is an independent department of the Government with its own hierarchy of officers. The next in line to the District Inspector of Schools is the Deputy Director of Education (Secondary), above whom, there is a Regional Joint Director of Education (Secondary). The next higher officer is the Additional Director of Education (Secondary). The next officer is the Director of Education (Secondary), who is the Head of the Directorate of Secondary Education in the State. The next in hierarchy is part of the State Government and he is the Additional Chief Secretary/ Principal Secretary (Secondary Education). The Department is headed by the Minister of Secondary Education.

13. In this entire hierarchy, the District Collector or the District Magistrate figures nowhere. The District Collector or the District Magistrate is the Head of the Revenue and the Civil Administration in the district and has nothing to do with the Department of Secondary Education. He has no jurisdiction, authority or power in matters of the Department of Secondary Education. It is, therefore, odd, though not surprising, that the Management faced with inaction upon their proposal to approve their order terminating Mishra's services, approached the District Magistrate for a direction to the DIOS to act with dispatch and take a quick decision. What is more odd, though again not surprising, is that the District Magistrate indeed issued directions, as the Management say, to the DIOS, who promptly complied and discharged his duties in passing an order that he was obliged to do under the law in the matter of approval/ disapproval of the Management's resolution.

14. We are of clear opinion that if the Management were faced with inaction on the District Magistrate's part, they ought have complained in the matter to the next higher officer in the hierarchy of Secondary Education Department, that is to say, the Deputy Director of Education or the Regional Joint Director of Education. The necessary directions could have been issued by these officials to the DIOS. Failing a suitable direction by higher officials in the Department of Secondary Education or even without going to them, the Management could always have moved this Court for the issue of a mandamus to the DIOS to undertake his duty and take a decision on their proposal, terminating Mishra's services. A direction of the kind, that the District Magistrate issued, could either be done by an administrative superior, 'in-line' in the hierarchy, sitting over the DIOS or it could be done by a Judge, exercising judicial powers of the State, may be the ordinary original civil jurisdiction, that is exercised by a Civil Judge. A Civil Judge, on the Management's suit, could have issued a mandatory injunction, commanding the necessary action to be taken by the DIOS. If for some reason that remedy was advised not to be efficacious, the Management could always come and invoke our jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, praying for the issue of a mandamus to the DIOS to take a decision in the matter of approval of their proposal to terminate Mishra's services. The District Magistrate did not have the semblance of a jurisdiction to direct the DIOS in the matter.

15. Why we say that the Management going to the District Magistrate was odd, has been indicated by us hereinabove. The reason why we say that this was not surprising is that there are prevalent notions amongst the citizens at large, both educated and uneducated, that the District Magistrate is some sort of a 'head' of all authorities, public functionaries and statutory bodies functioning in the district, in relation to which he functions as the Collector, being head of the civil administration, responsible for the maintenance of law and order. The law does not invest the District Magistrate with any kind of general supervisory powers over authorities and functionaries of other Departments of the Government of the same or a higher rank stationed in the district. Even if the citizens at large have such mistaken notions about the District Magistrate's authority, it is the District Magistrate's duty to dispel such notions by declining to interfere in matters related to functionaries of other departments, not related to his establishment, or remit under the law. If a statute invests the District Magistrate with any kind of authority in certain matters that would affect the establishment of other authorities, that, of course, is a different matter, but not otherwise. Here, that is not at all the case.

16. There is still another aspect of the matter that we must notice. It is just not that the District Magistrate in this case assumed jurisdiction and issued directions to the DIOS to decide a matter pending before him, but again, surprisingly, the DIOS promptly complied with the District Magistrate's directions. This shows that independent functionaries of the district serving departments, not at all connected to the District Magistrate's establishment, acknowledge the District Magistrate's authority over them without any legal basis to it. This is a case, where the DIOS should have firmly told the District Magistrate not to intervene in matters of his department, but, instead, he submitted to the District Magistrate's command issued without authority.

17. We must notice here that these kind of situations are commonplace and District Magistrates across the State, virtually act as knights errant, interfering in matters of absolutely unrelated departments upon representations or memorials presented to them by members of the public. Because, independent functionaries, who are in no way subject to the District Magistrate's authority, promptly succumb to all such commands, it re-enforces the public faith that the District Magistrate is some kind of a plenipotentiary in the district, who holds a magic wand that is a panacea to redress any grievance that the public may have against any functionary of the State belonging to whatever establishment, sitting in the district. This perception leads to administrative and legal aberrations, which have to be eliminated with a firm hand. It is advisable for the District

Magistrates to tread a safe course and refrain from acting under colour of authority, where they do not have it under the law. Else, for future instances, this Court may have to think of resorting to penal measures against incumbents, who cross line and violate the law.

18. Now turning to the issue involved in the writ petition under consideration, what we find from a reading of the impugned order is that the DIOS, upon inquiries made from the Secretary of the Board, was intimated through letter No. 1325/ अधियाचन/ 677-2023/2023-24 dated 30.01.2024 that the records maintained in the office of the Board show that letter No. 2053-2120 dated 09.08.2005 had forwarded an adjusted panel to the DIOS. In the said panel, Mishra, who was selected in response to Advertisement No. 01/2002 by the Board as a Trained Graduate Teacher Hindi (Biklang) and recommended for appointment to the Ganga Prasad Mishri Lal Inter College, Kaudia, Gonda vide notification dated 24.12.2004, had subsequently been recommended for appointment vide adjustment letter No. मा0शि0च0बो0/2053-2120/2005 dated 09.08.2005 to the Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti. The DIOS, therefore, held that Mishra's case was one of a genuine selection and appointment made by the Board and the order terminating his services on ground that he had secured an appointment without selection, fraudulently, cannot be countenanced. The order of termination was, therefore, disapproved with directions to pay all outstandings of salary etc. upon pain of coercive action against the Management under the Uttar Pradesh High Schools and Intermediate Colleges (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1971.

19. The learned Counsel for the parties urged before us their respective cases with the Management saying that Mishra was never selected by the Board and indeed appointed fraudulently, whereas the learned Standing Counsel and the Board, both said that Mishra was genuinely selected and appointed. We, therefore, summoned the original records from the Board relating to Mishra's appointment and perused the same.

20. The foremost document that has been perused is a covering letter, bearing No. मा0शि0च0बो0/ 9588-9603/ 2002 from the Secretary of the Board to the District Inspectors of School, Gonda and Balrampur dated 25.01.2005, enclosing therewith a panel in duplicate of selected candidates in the subject of Hindi under the relevant rules, with a direction to ensure that the selected candidates are placed in the appropriate college. Along with this memo, there are other memoranda addressed to other unrelated District Inspector of Schools, not concerned with Mishra. There is then a notification carrying the panel enclosed with the memo dated 25.01.2005. The notification issued by the Board is dated 24.12.2004 and bears No.491/2004. This notification clearly mentions that the notified selection of teachers, whose names are mentioned there, relates to Advertisement No. 01/2002 issued by the Board. It carries a total number of 12 names of teachers selected for different districts. At serial No.9 of this notification, Mishra's name is mentioned in the following terms:

> "9. Ganga Prasad Mishri Lal Inter College, Kaudia, Gonda
> 0202110023 Shri Raghvendra Prasad Mishra,
> Gram-Agai Pad, Post Pipra Gautam, Basti."

21. The second document that we have perused is a list of LT Grade Teachers-Select, drawn up by the Board in its meeting dated 02.08.2005, where the concerned selectees have been adjusted against institutions other than the ones they were first placed against for appointment. The list carries eight columns. The first carries the serial number, the second the subject, the third the roll number, the fourth the name and address of the teacher-select, the fifth the caste, the sixth the notification number and date, the seventh the name of the institution initially allotted, and the eighth, the adjusted/ re-allotted institution. This document has been produced before us by the learned Counsel for the Board, like the other documents.

22. What appears to be serial No.29 of the list (the precise serial number being removed from the frame of the stenciled copy), mentions in the second column 'L.T. Hindi', the roll number mentioned in the third column is 020110023, in the fourth column, Mishra's name is mentioned with his address. In the column relating to caste, the entry is 'Biklang'. In the sixth column, the notification number and date shown is 491/04, dated 24.12.2004. In the seventh column, the name of the institution originally allotted to Mishra is mentioned as 'Ganga Prasad Mishri Lal Inter College, Kaudia, Gonda. In the eighth column, the adjusted/ re-allocated institution mentioned is 'Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti'. There is little dispute that the institution run by the Management, the full name whereof is Sri Shivmohar Nath Pandey Kisan Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti is the same as Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti. No one has disputed before us that reference in the adjustment list to the re-allocated institution as Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti, is a reference to the Management's institution. Also placed in original before us is the adjustment register relating to the Board, which again has eight columns. The original register is certified to be a document containing 189 leaves. Leaves are no doubt 189, two successive pages being treated as one leaf. The adjustment entries commence from the second page of the first leaf and end at the first page of the eighth leaf. The adjustment register has eight columns, wherein the first carries the serial number, the second the teacher′s-select roll number, the third the 'Subject', the fourth the teacher′s-select name and address, the fifth his/ her caste, the sixth the notification number and date, against which the teacher-select had applied, the seventh the name of the institution that was originally allotted, and the eighth, the re-allocated institution. One set of serial numbers end at the first page of leaf No.5 and proceed from 1 to 31. At the second page of leaf No.5, fresh serial numbers commence. Here, at this page of the adjustment register, against serial No.1, the roll number mentioned is 020110023, the subject is Hindi, the teacher′s-select name is that of Mishra, the notification number mentioned is 491/2004 and the date of the notification is 24.12.2004. The institution originally allotted to Mishra is Ganga Prasad Mishri Lal Inter College, Kaudia, Gonda and the re-allotted institution, shown in the last column, is Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti.

23. The assertions in paragraph Nos.5 and 8 of Writ-A No.5197 of 2024, based on the inaccuracy pointed out in Mishra's roll number from a copy of the adjustment register, loose all significance. A perusal of the adjustment register clearly shows that Mishra's roll number is 020110023 and the notification number is 491/2004 dated 24.12.2004. The adjustment register also shows that Mishra was originally allotted the Ganga Prasad Mishri Lal Inter College, Kaudia, Gonda and then re-allocated to the Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti, that is to say, the Management's institution.

24. The fact that Mishra was indeed selected by the Commission/Board is beyond cavil as appears upon a conjoint perusal of all these documents. The notification number is also confirmed upon a perusal of the original stenciled copy of the notification dated 24.12.2004, bearing No.491/2004, which has been produced by the Board. In the said notification, Mishra's name finds place at serial No.9 and the roll number mentioned is 020110023. In the face of all these documents, there is no scope for the Management to come up with a case of fraudulent appointment against Mishra, based upon a non-existent selection by the Board. In fact, the Management's case, which has led them to pass the resolution dated 26.01.2024 and the consequential order dated 29.01.2024, terminating Mishra's services is clearly mala fide. It is based on no evidence.

25. We are of opinion that it has been made deliberately in order to scuttle Mishra's career and send him on a diversion to redeem his employment and service, when he would otherwise be agitating his claim for promotion, that has been denied. We, therefore, hold that the order impugned passed by the DIOS is not only unexceptionable, but the Management's stand is mala fide, which must invite imposition of exemplary cost of Rs.50,000/-.

26. We may now turn attention to the remainder of the three writ petitions, all preferred by Mishra.

27. Heard Mr. Arvind Kumar Singh along with Mr. Bashisth Narain Pandey, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of Mishra, Mr. Shachindra Kumar Mishra, learned Counsel for the Management and Dr. Santosh Kumar Shukla, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel along with Mr. Roopesh Tiwari, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of the State-respondents, in three of the remaining writ petitions.

28. Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 seeks the issue of a mandamus to the DIOS to decide Mishra′s representation dated 11.01.2016. The representation is about Mishra′s claim to be granted his selection grade, which, according to him, fell due on 20.09.2015. The DIOS has not filed a counter affidavit in response to the present writ petition. However, a counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the Management, saying many things, resisting Mishra's claim, but what is relevant is the plea set out in paragraph No.31 of their counter affidavit. It is said there that Mishra's claim regarding grant of the selection grade has been decided by the DIOS vide order dated 25.07.2023, where selection grade has been ordered to be provided to Mishra w.e.f. 01.07.2019.

29. It is also averred that the order dated 25.07.2023 has never been challenged by Mishra. A perusal of the order dated 25.07.2023 shows that Mishra has been granted the selection grade indeed w.e.f. 01.07.2019. The reasoning in the order apparently discernible is that Mishra was appointed as an Assistant Teacher w.e.f. 02.09.2005, and indeed, completed his qualifying service of 10 years on 19.09.2015, entitling him to selection grade, but it was recommended for him by the Management vide their resolution dated 05.05.2023, because the last adverse entry awarded to him was one dated 30.06.2009 and the period of 10 years would have to be reckoned from the date of the said entry. It is in this manner that the DIOS vide order dated 25.07.2023 decided to grant selection grade w.e.f. 01.07.2019.

30. No doubt, it is true that Mishra has not challenged the order dated 25.07.2023, but in the other two writ petitions, to which we would soon allude in this judgment, he has questioned the validity of the adverse entries awarded to him. Therefore, if the adverse entries awarded to Mishra, the last being admittedly the one dated 30.06.2009, were to be held ineffectual by this Court, while deciding the remainder of the two writ petitions, we would think that consequences that would follow would obviate the necessity for any order to be made in the present writ petition.

31. In Writ-A No.62515 of 2017, Mishra has sought quashing of the order dated 12.10.2017 passed by the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti, declining Mishra's claim to the grant of selection grade as an Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade as well as promotion to the post of Lecturer (Sanskrit). Here, Mishra has further sought our mandamus directing each of the respondents to promote Mishra to the post of a Lecturer in Sanskrit with the institution maintained by the Management.

32. Writ-A No.19042 of 2022 has been instituted by Mishra, seeking to quash the order dated 30.08.2022 passed by the Joint Director of Education, promoting respondent No.5 to the post of a Lecturer in Economics with the institution maintained by the Management. Mishra has further prayed for the issue of a mandamus to the respondents to promote Mishra to the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit with the institution, apparently against the 50% quota reserved for promotion.

33. In the logical sequence of things, it would be apposite to take up Writ-A No.62515 of 2017 at this stage as it is this petition and Writ-A No.19042 of 2022, that now encapsule all of Mishra's claims to be determined by this Court.

34. In Writ-A No.62515 of 2017, we may notice that a counter affidavit has been filed on behalf of the DIOS, to which there is no rejoinder. There is a supplementary counter affidavit on behalf of the DIOS, which has been answered in terms of a supplementary rejoinder by Mishra. There is a separate counter affidavit on behalf of the Management answering Mishra's writ petition. Mishra has filed a rejoinder in answer to the Management's case.

35. Now, there are two facets to Mishra's claim in this petition, to wit, the grant of selection grade from the date of his entitlement as an Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade, and, the other is consideration of his case for promotion to the post of a Lecturer in Sanskrit. The impugned order denies both the claims. This we have already noticed while referring to Mishra's claim involved in Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 that Mishra has indeed been granted a selection grade w.e.f. 01.07.2019 vide order dated 25.07.2023 passed by the DIOS. This order proceeds on the basis that Mishra was awarded his last adverse entry on 30.06.2009 and 10 years of satisfactory service were completed on 01.07.2019, when he was granted the selection grade. Mishra has claimed it w.e.f. 19.01.2015, inasmuch as he joined the institution maintained by the Management as an L.T. Grade Teacher w.e.f. 20.09.2005. It is, therefore, apparently the adverse entries, that Mishra was awarded, which form the foundation or the basis to deny him selection grade as an L.T. Grade Teacher for a period as long as four years. It has, therefore, to be examined if the adverse entries awarded to Mishra are in accordance with law or these are vitiated by illegalities, that may entitle this Court to interfere.

36. A reading of the impugned order dated 12.10.2017 shows that Mishra was awarded adverse entries for the years 2005-06, 2006-07, 2007-08 and 2008-09 by the Principal of the institution, besides being given a warning by the Manager for indulging in 'anti-institutional activities', described in the order impugned as 'sanstha virodhi karya'. The impugned order records the fact that Mishra was not only awarded these adverse entries, but duly communicated the same. This fact was brought to the notice of the DIOS by the Management vide their letter dated 29.12.2015.

37. Mishra, in paragraph No.17 of the writ petition, has asserted that adverse entries for the years 2005-06, 2006-07, 2007-08 and 2008-09 were neither awarded nor communicated to him and the same cannot be taken into consideration for that reason. It is also asserted that opportunity to show cause regarding the adverse entries awarded has not been given to Mishra till date, but the Manager has set up this story in order to resist Mishra's claim for promotion. Apparently, not only promotion, the adverse entries as the Management say, which mar Mishra's service record are the basis to deny him for a considerable period of time, the award of selection grade. Paragraph No.17 of the writ petition has been answered in the Management's counter affidavit vide paragraph No.39, where replying to it along with paragraph Nos.18, 19 and 20 of the writ petition, all that is said on the issue is that Mishra's service is unsatisfactory and bad entries are there on record. In his service book, those bad entries are available and Mishra cannot deny this fact. It is also asserted that all adverse entries are recorded lawfully and Mishra has never challenged the adverse entries in any earlier writ petition.

38. Be that as it may, the Management do not deny the fact that has been asserted in paragraph No.17 of the writ petition that the adverse entries were never communicated to him. The finding of the DIOS that these entries were duly communicated to Mishra, therefore, suffers from an error apparent. The fact that the adverse entries were there in the service book is not sufficient notice to Mishra as it is nowhere asserted that he was given a copy of the service book at the relevant time, when the entries were made or the entries otherwise brought to his notice. We are of opinion, therefore, that the adverse entries for the four years, mentioned hereinabove, were never communicated to Mishra.

39. In this connection, reference may be made to Regulations 72 and 73 of Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the Intermediate Education Act, 1921 (for short, 'the Act of 1921'), which apply to the Management and the institution, where Mishra served. Regulations 72 and 73 aforesaid read:

"72. In the case where an adverse entry is made in the Character Roll of a person in a particular year, the entire entries of the year, both adverse and favourable shall be communicated to him within 30 days of the making of such an entry and an acknowledgment obtained, information about the withholding of the integrity certificate shall be communicated likewise.

73. A representation against an adverse entry in the character Roll may be made to the Committee of Management whose decision thereon shall be final."

40. In view of the specific provisions, requiring an adverse entry in the character roll to be communicated to a person employed in an institution governed by the Act of 1921, it was incumbent upon the Management to communicate the four adverse entries that they now cite against Mishra to deny him selection grade for a period as long as four years. Even apart from the statutory provisions contained in Regulations 72 and 73, on general principle, it is not permissible for an employer to rely on adverse entries for the purpose of denying promotion or withholding grant of selection grade or visiting the employee with any other adverse civil consequences, if the relevant adverse entries have not been communicated to the employee concerned. I had occasion to consider this question, both on the terms of Regulations 72 and 73 of the Regulations last mentioned and general principle, in Surendra Kumar Gupta v. State of U.P. and others, 2022 SCC OnLine All 1918, where I held:

"37. At this stage, it is of the prime importance to notice the stand of the District Inspector of Schools about the adverse entries awarded to the petitioner during the years 2001-2002, 2002-2003, 2003-2004 and 2004-2005. The stand of the District Inspector of Schools in this regard is disclosed in Paragraph Nos. 17 and 18 of his personal affidavit dated 07.10.2021. The said paragraphs read:

17. That bare perusal of the duplicate service book of the petitioner it clearly transpires that uptill 2000 there was no any adverse entry against him and in the year 2001-2002, 2002-2003, 2003-2004, 2004-2005 adverse remarks were made against the service of the petitioner as the same was not found satisfactory and even his integrity was also found doubtful as such warning as well as adverse entry, withholding of increment as well as deduction from salary, such type of orders were found but there was not a single whisper about this respect that whether prior to awarding the aforesaid punishment due procedure was followed or not and even the petitioner was whether provided opportunity of hearing or not and bare perusal of the said orders it clearly transpires that the then manager and Principal done the alleged proceedings against the petitioner without following any procedure with ill intention as such the said entries are itself void and on the basis of the same no benefit of the petitioner can be stopped on the basis of said illegal entries.

18. That bare perusal of the aforesaid service book it also clearly transpires that vide order dated 29.03.2009 a decision was taken by the respondent No. 6 to suspend the petitioners and the approval of the same was also alleged to be granted by the then D.I.O.S. on 26.05.2009 and later on vide final order dated 28.05.2010 passed by the respondent no. 6 two increment of the petitioner was directed to withheld and even the salary during the suspension period was also directed to be forfieted except the subsistence allowance and later on the petitioner was reinstated in service but as provided under Regulation 21 no approval of the said order was ever done by Secondary Education Service Selection Board as such the said punishment order is also illegal and void."

38. Indeed, the act of the Manager in recording adverse entries behind the petitioner's back, which were never communicated to him, contrary to the provisions of Regulation 72, cast a shadow of grave doubt about the authenticity and the resultant validity of the adverse entries, on which the respondents rely. If statutory regulations require a particular thing to be done in a specified manner, it has to be done in that manner, is a principle too well-known. If a mandatory provision in a statutory regulation, that has adverse civil consequences on the rights of an employee, is observed in breach, there is a clear case of mala fides in law. Here, the District Inspector of Schools has opined breach of the regulation in failing to communicate the adverse entries and getting them signed by the petitioner to be an instance of mala fide in fact. The circumstances, indeed, indicate that the non-communication was mala fide. The mala fides were clearly on the Management's part in not getting the adverse entries duly acknowledged by the petitioner under his signatures on the service-book, which would be due notice to him. The petitioner could then represent against those adverse entries in the manner provided under Regulation 73. All this has not all been done. Apart from the provisions of Regulations 72 and 73, the law is clear on the point that the remarks entered in the ACRs must be communicated to the employee concerned within a reasonable period of time, as held by the Supreme Court in Sukhdev Singh v. Union of India, (2013) 9 SCC 566. In Sukhdev Singh (supra), it was held:

3. Subsequent to the above two decisions, in Dev Dutt v. Union of India [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771], this Court had an occasion to consider the question about the communication of the entry in the ACR of a public servant (other than military service). A two-Judge Bench [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] on elaborate and detailed consideration of the matter and also after taking into consideration the decision of this Court in U.P. Jal Nigam [U.P. Jal Nigam v. Prabhat Chandra Jain, (1996) 2 SCC 363 : 1996 SCC (L&S) 519 : (1996) 33 ATC 217] and principles of natural justice exposited by this Court from time to time particularly in A.K. Kraipak v. Union of India [(1969) 2 SCC 262]; Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [(1978) 1 SCC 248]; Union of India v. Tulsiram Patel [(1985) 3 SCC 398 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 672]; Canara Bank v. V.K. Awasthy [(2005) 6 SCC 321 : 2005 SCC (L&S) 833] and State of Maharashtra v. Public Concern for Governance Trust [(2007) 3 SCC 587] concluded that every entry in the ACR of a public servant must be communicated to him within a reasonable period whether it is poor, fair, average, good or very good entry. This is what this Court observed in paras 17 and 18 of the Report in Dev Dutt [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] at SCC p. 733:

"17. In our opinion, every entry in the ACR of a public servant must be communicated to him within a reasonable period, whether it is a poor, fair, average, good or very good entry. This is because non-communication of such an entry may adversely affect the employee in two ways : (1) had the entry been communicated to him he would know about the assessment of his work and conduct by his superiors, which would enable him to improve his work in future; (2) he would have an opportunity of making a representation against the entry if he feels it is unjustified, and pray for its upgradation. Hence non-communication of an entry is arbitrary, and it has been held by the Constitution Bench decision of this Court in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [(1978) 1 SCC 248] that arbitrariness violates Article 14 of the Constitution.

18. Thus, it is not only when there is a benchmark but in all cases that an entry (whether it is poor, fair, average, good or very good) must be communicated to a public servant, otherwise there is violation of the principle of fairness, which is the soul of natural justice. Even an outstanding entry should be communicated since that would boost the morale of the employee and make him work harder."

(emphasis in original)

4. Then in para 22 at SCC p. 734 of the Report this Court in Dev Dutt case [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] made the following weighty observations:

"22. It may be mentioned that communication of entries and giving opportunity to represent against them is particularly important on higher posts which are in a pyramidical structure where often the principle of elimination is followed in selection for promotion, and even a single entry can destroy the career of an officer which has otherwise been outstanding throughout. This often results in grave injustice and heart-burning, and may shatter the morale of many good officers who are superseded due to this arbitrariness, while officers of inferior merit may be promoted.″

5. In paras 37 and 41 of the Report this Court then observed as follows : (Dev Dutt case [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771], SCC pp. 737-38)

"37. We further hold that when the entry is communicated to him the public servant should have a right to make a representation against the entry to the authority concerned, and the authority concerned must decide the representation in a fair manner and within a reasonable period. We also hold that the representation must be decided by an authority higher than the one who gave the entry, otherwise the likelihood is that the representation will be summarily rejected without adequate consideration as it would be an appeal from Caesar to Caesar. All this would be conducive to fairness and transparency in public administration, and would result in fairness to public servants. The State must be a model employer, and must act fairly towards its employees. Only then would good governance be possible.

41. In our opinion, non-communication of entries in the annual confidential report of a public servant, whether he is in civil, judicial, police or any other service (other than the military), certainly has civil consequences because it may affect his chances for promotion or get other benefits (as already discussed above). Hence, such non-communication would be arbitrary, and as such violative of Article 14 of the Constitution.″

6. We are in complete agreement with the view in Dev Dutt [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] particularly paras 17, 18, 22, 37 and 41 as quoted above. We approve the same.

7. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in Abhijit Ghosh Dastidar v. Union of India [(2009) 16 SCC 146 : (2010) 1 SCC (L&S) 959] followed Dev Dutt [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771]. In para 8 of the Report this Court with reference to the case under consideration held as under : (Abhijit Ghosh Dastidar case [(2009) 16 SCC 146 : (2010) 1 SCC (L&S) 959], SCC p. 148)

"8. Coming to the second aspect, that though the benchmark 'very good' is required for being considered for promotion, admittedly the entry of 'good' was not communicated to the appellant. The entry of 'good' should have been communicated to him as he was having 'very good' in the previous year. In those circumstances, in our opinion, noncommunication of entries in the ACR of a public servant whether he is in civil, judicial, police or any other service (other than the armed forces), it has civil consequences because it may affect his chances for promotion or getting other benefits. Hence, such noncommunication would be arbitrary, and as such violative of Article 14 of the Constitution. The same view has been reiterated in the abovereferred decision (Dev Dutt case [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771], SCC p. 738, para 41) relied on by the appellant. Therefore, the entries 'good' if at all granted to the appellant, the same should not have been taken into consideration for being considered for promotion to the higher grade. The respondent has no case that the appellant had ever been informed of the nature of the grading given to him.″

8. In our opinion, the view taken in Dev Dutt [Dev Dutt v. Union of India, (2008) 8 SCC 725 : (2008) 2 SCC (L&S) 771] that every entry in ACR of a public servant must be communicated to him/her within a reasonable period is legally sound and helps in achieving threefold objectives. First, the communication of every entry in the ACR to a public servant helps him/her to work harder and achieve more that helps him in improving his work and give better results. Second and equally important, on being made aware of the entry in the ACR, the public servant may feel dissatisfied with the same. Communication of the entry enables him/her to make representation for upgradation of the remarks entered in the ACR. Third, communication of every entry in the ACR brings transparency in recording the remarks relating to a public servant and the system becomes more conforming to the principles of natural justice. We, accordingly, hold that every entry in ACR-poor, fair, average, good or very good-must be communicated to him/her within a reasonable period.

39. The precise point, that uncommunicated adverse ACRs/entries cannot be relied upon for the purpose of consideration for promotion, was subject matter of consideration before the Supreme Court in Rukhsana Shaheen Khan v. Union of India, (2018) 18 SCC 640. Their Lordships in Rukhsana Shaheen Khan (supra) held:

1. The sole issue involved in this appeal is whether the uncommunicated Annual Confidential Reports (ACRs), which are adverse to the appellant, should have been relied upon for the purpose of consideration of the appellant for promotion.

2. In view of the decision of this Court in Sukhdev Singh v. Union of India [Sukhdev Singh v. Union of India, (2013) 9 SCC 566 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 279], there cannot be any dispute on this aspect. This Court has settled the law that uncommunicated and adverse ACRs cannot be relied upon in the process.

3. This appeal is, accordingly, allowed and the impugned judgment [Rukhsana Shaheen Khan v. Union of India, 2006 SCC OnLine Del 1840] is set aside with the following directions:

(a) The competent authority is directed to ignore the uncommunicated adverse ACRs and take a fresh decision in accordance with law.

(b) The appellant shall be afforded an opportunity of hearing in the process.

4. It will be open to the appellant to make all available submissions, including the reference to the judgment of this Court in Prabhu Dayal Khandelwal v. UPSC [Prabhu Dayal Khandelwal v. UPSC, (2015) 14 SCC 427 : (2016) 1 SCC (L&S) 825].

40. The legal position being clear that uncommunicated adverse entries cannot form the basis to deny promotion and a fortiori denial of promotion pay scale to an employee, the action of the respondents in seeking to deny consideration for grant of promotion pay scale to the petitioner on the basis of uncommunicated ACRs/entries for the years 2000-2001, 2001-2002, 2002-2003, 2003-2004 and 2004-2005, cannot be countenanced. The District Inspector of Schools in his affidavit has, on larger grounds, opined those entries to be inherently vitiated.

41. Be that as it may, this Court is of the firm opinion that the adverse ACRs/entries in the petitioner's service-book cannot be made the basis of denying him consideration for the grant of promotion pay scale. It is, accordingly, held.″

41. We have already held earlier in this judgment that the adverse entries for the four years in question were never communicated to Mishra. In view of the legal position regarding uncommunicated adverse entries in the matter of consideration of a teacher′s claim for grant of selection grade or promotion, we are of opinion that the order dated 12.10.2017, impugned in Writ-A No.62515 of 2017, passed by the Joint Director of Education, declining Mishra′s claim for grant of selection grade as an Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade w.e.f. 19.01.2015 based on the four adverse entries, deserves to be quashed to that extent. Mishra is entitled to the grant of selection grade, not w.e.f. 01.07.2019, that is to say, when he completed 10 years of service from the date of the last adverse entry awarded to him, but w.e.f. 19.01.2015 upon completion of 10 years service from the date he joined the Management′s institution, to wit, on 20.09.2005. Mishra would be entitled to a revision of his emoluments on that basis as well as his post retiral benefits, accordingly. Mishra would also be entitled to arrears on account of revision of emoluments w.e.f. 19.01.2015 until time these are paid.

42. This takes us to the other question involved in this petition, regarding which Mishra has claimed a mandamus to promote him to the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit.

43. Regarding this part of Mishra′s relief, it must be noticed that he has retired from service pending this petition on 31.03.2024. It was urged on behalf of the respondents that Mishra's claim for promotion has now become infructuous and this part of the relief cannot be granted to him. We do not agree. If Mishra is found entitled to promotion or his case on this score held wrongfully denied by the respondents, entitling him to a quashing of that part of the impugned order with a direction to re-consider it, Mishra would also be entitled to notional promotion from the date he is found by this Court to be entitled or by the Authority to which the matter is remitted, i.e. if his claim is substantiated before the said Authority.

44. The impugned order passed by the Joint Director of Education holds that Mishra's case for promotion to the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit was refused to be recommended by the Management on ground that his services were not satisfactory. The order notes that the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant on 30.06.2011 on account of the incumbent retiring, but the resultant vacancy was forwarded to the Board vide requisition dated 12.12.2011. It is then remarked that Mishra has instituted Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 before this Court aggrieved by his non-promotion, which is pending. It is also said that pending the writ petition, Mishra had appealed to the Joint Director, claiming the relief of promotion. It must be remarked here that so far as the pendency of Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 before this Court relating to Mishra's claim for promotion is concerned, the impugned order makes an unnecessary and uncalled for reference to it.

45. Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 claims the inconsequential relief of the issue of a mandamus to the DIOS to decide his representation dated 11.01.2016. The said representation is about claiming selection grade w.e.f. 20.09.2015, a matter which we have already pronounced upon. The writ petition does not claim any substantive relief, either regarding award of selection grade or promotion to the post of Lecturer. In fact, there is no claim about promotion to the post of Lecturer in the representation dated 11.01.2016, which Mishra has sought a decision of by a command of this Court. The remarks in the impugned order, making an allusion to the aforesaid writ petition, are absolutely unnecessary and ones made deliberately by the Joint Director to confound the issue and lend a hollow buttress to his reasoning, declining Mishra's claim to promotion. We have already held earlier in this judgment that the uncommunicated adverse entries awarded to Mishra are inconsequential, which cannot be relied upon to deny him the benefit of selection grade. A fortiori, the remarks in the impugned order, that Mishra's case for promotion was refused to be recommended by the Management on account of his unsatisfactory service record, too lose their factual basis.

46. With the adverse entries awarded to Mishra being declared inconsequential, there is nothing in his service record that may entitle the Management to say that his services were unsatisfactory. For the same reason, the remarks to this effect carried in the impugned order are also without foundation to rest. It is recorded in the Joint Director's order impugned that the post of a Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant on 30.06.2011 and it was recommended for being filled up by direct recruitment to the Board on 12.12.2011. The tenor of the impugned order shows that the Joint Director proceeded on the basis that when the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant, that is to say, 30.06.2011, Mishra's service record being not satisfactory, he was not recommended and that, therefore, this vacancy was intimated to the Commission to be filled up by direct recruitment. There is nothing else said in the impugned order in justification for upholding the denial of promotion to Mishra. It is beyond cavil that the validity of an order under challenge is to be judged on its own terms and contents. The reasons cannot be supplemented by affidavit. Nevertheless, in this case, since we propose to rest some substantial issues here, we have looked into the justification offered by the Education Authorities, as well as the Management, to decline Mishra's promotion.

47. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the DIOS, which represents the stand of the Education Authorities, it is averred that after re-determination of the sanctioned strength of staff in the college, four posts of Lecturers were held to be there as sanctioned posts. It is said in paragraph No.17 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the DIOS that after the man, who was holding the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit, retired on 30.06.2019, an intimation was sent to the Board, inasmuch as the post that fell vacant, falls under the direct recruitment quota. It is then added as the reason to refuse promotion that Mishra's services not being satisfactory, as there were adverse entries recorded in his service-book, he was declined promotion.

48. In the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the Management, it is averred in paragraph No.35, after pleading a denial of paragraph Nos.8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 of the writ petition, that the Management had sent information to the Board to fill up the vacancy of Lecturer in Sanskrit through direct recruitment and Mishra, therefore, cannot claim it by way of promotion. It is asserted by the Management that the vacancy belongs to the direct recruitment quota and not earmarked for promotion. It is then pleaded consistently in paragraph Nos.35, 37, 38, 39, 40, of the Management′s counter affidavit, amongst other things that we would shortly notice, that Mishra's service record is unsatisfactory on account of adverse entries awarded to him. Those entries we have already held to be inconsequential and without force. The effect of our declaration as aforesaid is that the adverse entries must be regarded as ones that never existed. It is not that these adverse entries can be regarded as existing at the relevant time and in consequence of our order made today, declaring these inconsequential, they would loose force from the date of our judgment. The effect of our declaration is without doubt one that for all intents and purposes renders the entries meaningless, though these were in fact awarded and figured on record.

49. After all, the law about adverse entries is well settled that uncommunicated prejudicial entries cannot be relied upon for the purpose of considering the employee′s case for promotion. Such uncommunicated adverse entries are to be ignored. Reference in this connection may be made to Dev Dutt v. Union of India and others, (2008) 8 SCC 725 and Rukhsana Shaheen Khan v. Union of India and others, (2018) 18 SCC 640. Mishra's service record can, therefore, not be regarded as unsatisfactory.

50. As already remarked, so far as the impugned order regarding denial of promotion is concerned, this would be sufficient to quash it, but the matter would then have to be remitted to the statutory Authority to determine the question of Mishra's entitlement to notional promotion. It is for this reason that we have examined the other plea raised in denial of Mishra's claim through affidavit. This plea is that the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit, which Mishra claims on the basis of promotion, in fact, falls under the direct recruitment quota.

51. In order to justify the aforesaid position, the profile of the cadre of Lecturers in the institution maintained by the Management, that is to say, profile of the cadre on the premise which posts of Lecturer were earmarked for promotion and direct recruitment, we find the Management's stand set forth in paragraph No.36 of their counter affidavit, as hereinafter described. It is asserted that Surendra Kumar Bharti was promoted as a Lecturer in Economics on 16.09.2022 and Rajit Ram Verma was promoted as Lecturer in Geography. The post of Lecturer in Hindi was filled up by direct recruitment and the post of Lecturer in Civics too was filled up by direct recruitment. In the aforesaid manner, the Management have attempted to justify that there was no post available to be filled up by way of promotion, the quota thereof i.e. 50% under the statute being full.

52. It is asserted in paragraph No.36 of the counter affidavit further that in the subject of Sanskrit, the number of students is very less and during certain sessions, students are not at all available. It is for the said reason that the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit was intimated to the Commission for filling up through direct recruitment. There appears to be some conflict in the Management's stand because in paragraph No.36, they do not speak about any post of a Lecturer in Sanskrit being there. They have explained all the posts of Lecturers are filled up, both by way of promotion and direct recruitment, in the subjects of Economics, Geography, Hindi and Civics. Nevertheless, the order impugned passed by the Joint Director of Education shows that one post of Lecturer in Sanskrit is there, which has been intimated to the Board for being filled up by way of direct recruitment. The Management also do not dispute the said fact notwithstanding their confounding assertions about the posts of Lecturers, numbering four, subject-wise. It cannot, therefore, be doubted that there is a post of Lecturer in Sanskrit with the Management's institution, which they have intimated to the Board to be filled up by way of direct recruitment.

53. A supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of the DIOS endeavours to give a more accurate description of the Lecturers cadre profile, subject-wise and quota-wise - quota about promotion and direct recruitment. In paragraph No.13 of the supplementary counter affidavit filed by the DIOS, the stand taken is that on 23.12.2022, the Management intimated through a report of that date the fact that the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit had fallen vacant on 30.06.2011 due to retirement of Jagdamba Prasad Mishra and that it was to be filled up by direct recruitment. It is then averred that the said post was filled up by adjustment of Smt. Gayatri Devi, Lecturer (Economics) on transfer from another institution. It is asserted that Rajit Ram Verma, Assistant Teacher, L.T. Grade, was promoted to the post of Lecturer (Geography) on 10.04.2014 and the post of Lecturer (Hindi) was filled up by adjustment of Krishna Kanhaiya Verma upon his transfer. About the post of Lecturer (Economics), which fell vacant due to retirement of Smt. Gayatri Devi on 31.02.2022, it is asserted that Surendra Kumar Bharti was promoted on 30.08.2022 as Lecturer (Economics). The stand in paragraph No.14 of the supplementary counter affidavit is that out of the four sanctioned posts of Lecturers, two have been filled up by way of promotion under the 50% quota, one by direct recruitment, adjusting Krishna Kanhaiya Verma, Lecturer (Hindi) upon his transfer and one post of Lecturer is vacant, which falls under the direct recruitment quota. It is asserted that there is no vacancy of Lecturer under the 50% quota, entitling Mishra to promotion.

54. In the supplementary rejoinder affidavit filed by Mishra in response to the supplementary counter affidavit filed by the DIOS, it is averred in paragraph No.4, answering paragraph Nos.3 and 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit, but in effect answering paragraph Nos.13 and 14 as well, thus:

"4. That the contents of paragraph nos. 3 and 4 of the supplementary counter affidavit are incorrect hence denied. The post of lecturer (Sanskrit) fell vacant on 30.06.2011 due to retirement of Jagdamba Prasad Mishra and on the said date out of 4 posts following person were working:-

A. Sri Krishna Nand Shukla was granted the Lecturer Grade being Physical Education Teacher pursuant to the Govt. order dated 28.02.1990 therefore Sri Shukla cannot be treated under promotion quota.

B. Sri Shyam Lal was granted the Lecturer Grade as Language Teacher pursuant to the Govt. order dated 28.02.1990 therefore he cannot be treated under promotion quota and apart from this the controversy has been decided that awarding the lecturers grade the person is not entitled to be treated as lecturers. True copy of the service book are being filed herewith and marked as Annexure No. 1 to this supplementary rejoinder affidavit.

C. Sri Gajadhar Nath Mishra was promoted as lecturer under 50% quota therefore out of 4 posts only one post has been filled up under promotion quota and as such the petitioner was eligible and qualified for the post of lecturer in Sanskrit under promotion quota but his claim was rejected."

55. The most crucial fact to be seen in order to determine Mishra's right to be considered for promotion to the post of a Lecturer is the date when the right accrued to him. The post of Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant on 30.06.2011 and the right to be considered for promotion for Mishra is to be seen with reference to the relevant recruitment year, as defined under Section 2(l) of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education (Services Selection Boards) Act, 1982 (for short, 'the Act of 1982'). Section 2(l) of the Act of 1982 defines year of recruitment as follows:

"2. Definitions.- In this Act,- x x x x

(l) Year of recruitment' means a period of twelve months commencing from first day of July of a calendar year."

56. Rule 14 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Rules, 1998 (for short, 'the Rules of 1998'), dealing with the procedure for recruitment by promotion, reads:

"14. Procedure for recruitment by promotion.-(1) Where any vacancy is to be filled by promotion all teachers working in trained graduates grade or Certificate of Teaching grade, if any, who possess the qualifications, prescribed for the post and have completed five years continuous regular service as such on the first day of the year of recruitment shall be considered for promotion to the lecturers grade or the trained graduates grade, as the case may be, without their having applied for the same.*

Notes-For the purposes of this sub-rule, regular service rendered in any other recognised institution shall be counted for eligibility, unless interrupted by removal, dismissal or reduction to a lower post.

(2) The criterion for promotion shall be seniority subject to the rejection of unfit.

(3) The Management shall prepare a list of teachers referred to in sub-rule (1), and forward it to the Inspector with a copy of seniority list, service records, including the character rolls, and a statement in the proforma given in Appendix 'A'.

(4) Within three weeks of the receipt of the list from the management under sub-rule (3), the Inspector shall verify the facts from the record of his office and forward the list to the Joint Director.

(5) The Joint Director shall consider the cases of the candidates on the basis of the records referred to in sub-rule (3) and may call such additional information as it may consider necessary, The Joint Director shall place the records before the Selection Committee referred to in sub- section (1) of Section 12 and after the committee's recommendation, shall forward the panel of selected candidates within one month to the Inspector with a copy thereof to the Management.

(6) Within ten days of the receipt of the panel from the Joint Director under sub-rule (5), the Inspector shall send the name of the selected candidates to the Management of the institution which has notified the vacancy and the Management shall accordingly on authorisation under its resolution issue the appointment order in the proforma given in Appendix 'F' to the such candidate."

(emphasis by Court)

57. Section 12 of the Act of 1982 provides:

"12. Procedure of selection by promotion.-

(1) For each region, there shall be a selection Committee, for making selection of candidates for promotion to the post of a teacher, comprising:-

(i) Regional Joint Director of Education – Chairman

(ii) Senior most Principal of Government Inter college - member in the region;

(iii) Concerned District Inspector of School - member /secretary

(2) The procedure of selection of candidates of promotion to the post of a teacher shall be such as may be prescribed."

58. The procedure for selection of a candidate by promotion, we have already alluded to by making a reference to Rule 14 of the Rules of 1998, quoted in extenso hereinabove. Considering the provisions of the Act of 1982 and the Rules of 1998, it is pellucid that Mishra was eligible for promotion when the vacancy of Lecturer in Sanskrit came into existence on 30.06.2011, as by then he had completed five years continuous and regular service as a Teacher in the Trained Graduates Grade. There is no issue that he did not possess the requisite qualifications prescribed for the post. The reason why Mishra was not considered for promotion was unsatisfactory service record, marred as it was, by adverse entries for the years 2005-06, 2006-07, 2007-08 and 2008-09. These adverse entries, we have already held, were fit to be ignored. In the circumstances, we are of considered opinion that after the post of Lecturer fell vacant on 30.06.2011, Mishra was eligible to be considered for promotion, as he rightly says, on 01.07.2011 or as soon thereafter as might have been, 01.07.2011 being the commencement of a new recruitment year following the occurrence of vacancy.

59. Admittedly, when the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant on 30.06.2011 upon the retirement of Jagdamba Prasad Mishra, there were six sanctioned posts of Lecturers. Mishra's entitlement and his right to be considered for promotion crystallized at that time. By then, the sanctioned strength had not at all been revised in terms of the Government Order dated 22.02.2013, bringing down the sanctioned strength of Lecturers to four from six. The case of the DIOS is that in the relevant recruitment year, that is to say, the one commencing 01.07.2011, when the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit fell vacant on the then sanctioned strength of six in the Lecturers' cadre, three Lecturers, to wit, Krishna Chandra Shukla, Shyam Lal Verma and Gajadhar Nath Mishra, were working under the promotion quota and, therefore, the vacancy of Lecturer in Sanskrit, that occurred due to Jagdamba Prasad Mishra's retirement on 30.06.2011, would go to the direct recruitment quota.

60. In the supplementary rejoinder affidavit, it is pointed out by the learned Counsel for Mishra that Krishna Chandra Shukla was never promoted to the post of a Lecturer, but was granted the Lecturers' grade in terms of a Government Order dated 28.02.1990. He was a Physical Education Teacher. The grant of the Lecturers' grade did not constitute his promotion to the cadre of Lecturers. Similarly, Shyam Lal Verma too was granted the Lecturers' Grade as a language teacher in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. It is urged that he cannot be treated ever to have been promoted to the post of a Lecturer, the award of the Lecturer's grade in terms of the G.O. last mentioned notwithstanding.

61. In order to resolve this part of the controversy, we summoned the service records of these two teachers, to wit, Krishna Chandra Shukla and Shyam Lal Verma, in order to find out if they were indeed promoted to the post of a Lecturer or were merely given the Lecturer's grade. We have also looked into the terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990, on the basis of which it is said that these two teachers were simply given the Lecturer's grade, but never promoted as such. Shyam Lal Verma's service book has been produced in original, whereas a xerox copy of Krishna Chandra Shukla's service-book attested by the Manager and the Principal of the institution has been produced. None of the parties dispute the genuineness of these documents, including the State.

62. A perusal of Shyam Lal Verma's service-book shows that he was appointed on the basis of the Management's resolution dated 07.07.1972 in the C.T. Grade. Later on, in terms of an order dated 03.03.1981, he was placed in the L.T. Grade. A perusal of page No.5 of the service-book shows that Verma functioned as an Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade and Physical Education up to 31.07.1990. However, w.e.f. 01.08.1990, he was granted the Lecturer's grade upon completion of 10 years continuous service in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. The following order has been endorsed in red ink in the service-book:

"10 वर्ष की निरन्तर सेवा पर शा० सं० 2111/8-5-90/3087/89 दिनांक 28-2-90 के अनुसार दिनांक 1-8-90 से प्रवक्ता वेतनक्रम दिया गया एवं दिनांक 1-8-90 को रु० 1650=00 वेतन निर्धारित किया गया।"

Just beyond where the aforesaid order is endorsed in Verma's service-book, in the left hand column, he is described as Pravakta Vyayam Shiksha.

63. It would be apposite to refer to the Government Order dated 28.02.1990 issued by a Joint Secretary to the Government of Uttar Pradesh and addressed to the Director of Education, Lucknow/ Allahabad. The said Government Order reads:

"प्रेषक,

64. A perusal of paragraph Nos.1 and 2 of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990 shows that it is about sanction of revised pay scale based on the recommendations of the U.P. Wages Revision Committee, 1989 for teaching posts in non-government aided higher secondary schools/ inter colleges. A conjoint perusal of paragraph Nos.1 and 2 of the Government Order under reference shows that in modification of an earlier Government Order dated 04.10.1989, L.T. Grade Teachers inter alia in Physical Education, who have been appointed in accordance with Rules and taught Classes XI and XII for ten years, would be entitled to be paid the Lecturer′s Grade in the pay scale of Rs.1600-50-2300-EB-60-2600. By no means does the Government Order dated 28.02.1990 speak of any kind of promotion to an L.T. Grade Teacher. Rather, the Government Order speaks of provision of the Lecturer′s pay scale to L.T. Grade Teachers, teaching certain subjects to Classes XI and XII for a period of ten years. Physical Education is one of the subjects, where an incumbent L.T. Grade Teacher would be entitled to receive the pay scale of a Lecturer, upon completion of ten years′ service.

65. The order in the service-book and the relative entry shows that Shyam Lal Verma was given the Lecturer′s pay scale or grade in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. He was never promoted to the post of a Lecturer. If there were any kind of doubt about the fact, the statute obviates the possibility. Rule 14 of the Rules of 1998 read with Section 12 of the Act of 1982 provides a procedure for promotion of L.T. Grade Teachers, staking claim to be appointed a Lecturer, in a private aided intermediate college. The procedure involves, amongst other things, consideration of the candidature by the Selection Committee envisaged under Section 12 of the Act of 1982. Apparently, Verma was never promoted to the post of a Lecturer following the procedure prescribed. He was just given the Lecturer's pay scale in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990.

66. So far as Krishna Chandra Shukla is concerned, he appears to have been a substantively appointed L.T. Grade Language Teacher, who was given the Lecturer's pay scale in accordance with the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. A perusal of his service-book shows that he was an L.T. Grade Teacher until 30.06.1990 and was given the Lecturer's pay scale in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990 w.e.f. 01.07.1990, placing him in the pay scale of Rs.1600/-. Though the subsequent entries show and describe him as Pravakta Hindi, but it is apparent that Krishna Chandra Shukla was granted the Lecturer's pay scale as a Language Teacher. There is nothing to show that he was promoted to the post of a Lecturer. There is no reference to a promotion order in the service-book, promoting him to the Lecturer's cadre. It must, therefore, be held that Krishna Chandra Shukla was given the Lecturer's pay scale, though he was an L.T. Grade Teacher. He was, therefore, not part of the Lecturer's cadre. The Management have also sent along a seniority list of Lecturers for the session 2010-11, where Shyam Lal Verma and Krishna Chandra Shukla have been shown as Lecturers.

67. We are of opinion that the said lists are flawed. These teachers were L.T. Grade Teachers, who were given the Lecturer's grade, but, by no means, promoted to the post of Lecturers. There is also a list of Assistant Teachers for the year 2010-11. The said list ranks thirteen Assistant Teachers L.T. Grade, senior to Mishra in the year 2010-11. There is no case that any of the Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade, senior to Mishra in the year 2011, were entitled to be promoted on the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit vacated by Jagdamba Prasad Mishra on 30.06.2011. Therefore, in the year 2011, there was only one teacher Gajadhar Nath Mishra, who was promoted as Lecturer under the 50% quota. The other posts to the extent of 50% had to be filled up by promotion. The number of posts being six way back on 01.07.2011, when that recruitment year commenced, Mishra was apparently entitled to be considered for promotion.

68. We notice that the stand in paragraph No.13 of the supplementary counter affidavit filed on behalf of the DIOS is that the vacancy on the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit, that occurred on 30.06.2011, was filled up by direct recruitment on 30.06.2013 by adjustment of Smt. Gayatri Devi, Lecturer (Economics) on transfer from another institution. The settled principle is that the 50% promotion quota in the higher cadre of Lecturers is to be filled first and the remainder of 50% posts then filled in through direct recruitment. In this connection, reference may be made to Rakesh Bhardwaj v. State of U.P., 2007 (5) ALJ 39, where it has been held:

"17. .....It is only after promotion quota of 50 per cent stands exhausted, the management is empowered to determine the vacancy to be filled in by way of direct recruitment"

69. The DIOS in paragraph No.13 of the supplementary counter affidavit has said that the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit, that fell vacant on 30.06.2011 on account of retirement of Jagdamba Prasad Mishra, was to be filled up by direct recruitment, and for that reason, it was filled up on 30.06.2013 by adjustment of Smt. Gayatri Devi, Lecturer (Economics) on transfer from another institution. The fact that the vacancy, that occurred on 30.06.2011, was to be filled by direct recruitment, is apparently a flawed stand. The reason is that this assertion proceeds on the supposition that on the date the vacancy occurred, two Lecturers were functioning in the cadre in the promotion quota, to wit, Shyam Lal Verma and Krishna Chandra Shukla. We have already held that these teachers were not Lecturers, but merely given the Lecturers pay scale in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. There presence on the faculty would not account for a Lecturer duly appointed to the cadre. They would still be regarded as L.T. Grade Teachers, who were receiving the Lecturers' pay scale in terms of the Government Order dated 28.02.1990. Thus, on 30.06.2011, or rather 01.07.2011, there was ample vacancy within the 50% quota for promotion to consider Mishra's case, which the respondents did not. They apparently did not consider Mishra's claim for the post of Lecturer in Sanskrit because they banked upon his service record, which had been marred by adverse entries across four years.

70. We have already held that the adverse entries are inconsequential because they were never communicated. These could not have been taken into account to deny consideration of promotion to Mishra. We also notice that one Surendra Kumar Bharti was promoted on 30.08.2022 on the post of Lecturer (Economics) consequent upon the retirement of Smt. Gayatri Devi. There is no reason why at this point of time, Mishra could not have been considered for promotion, considering the cadre profile of Lecturers divided on the basis of promotion quota and direct recruitment. There is no justification in any view of the matter for denying consideration of Mishra's case for promotion right from the year 2011 until the date he retired, except that the Management relied throughout on poor service record based on the uncommunicated adverse entries that they could not have done, as already held. In our opinion, therefore, the impugned order passed by the Joint Director of Education, declining Mishra's case for promotion, cannot be sustained. That part of the impugned order passed by the Joint Director of Education too has to be quashed.

71. The question that survives is that what relief can be extended to Mishra in the matter of promotion. He has retired from service on 31.03.2024. Mishra's right to be considered for promotion crystallized way back on 01.07.2011, or so to speak during the aforesaid recruitment year. He was wrongfully denied promotion relying mostly on his service record, which we have held, could not have been done. Mishra, now being a retired employee, cannot be granted actual promotion. But, that does not deprive him of the opportunity to be considered for promotion and if found fit by the Selection Committee, bearing in mind the guidance in this judgment, granted notional promotion w.e.f. 01.07.2011. The Selection Committee would, therefore, proceed to consider Mishra′s case for promotion ignoring the adverse entries and if found fit, he would be given notional promotion w.e.f. 01.07.2011 or such date as the Joint Director of Education may determine. Mishra, however, will not be entitled to salary for the promotion post of Lecturer, on whichever date he is granted the notional promotion because he did not actually work on that post till his retirement. He would be granted the status of a Lecturer, if found fit by the Selection Committee, as above directed, and shall be entitled to a suitable revision of his post retiral benefits, including pension, worked out on the basis of the Lecturer′s grade. Of course, he would be entitled to arrears of pension and other post retiral benefits on account of the revision, but nothing by way of salary arrears or other in-service benefits.

72. In the view that we take regarding denial of salary for the promotion post to Mishra in the event he is found fit, we are fortified by S.D. Raghunandan Singh v. State of Karnataka and others, 1994 Supp (2) SCC 526; State of Haryana and others v. O.P. Gupta and others, (1996) 7 SCC 533; V.N. Meenakshi v. Union of India and others, 1999 SCC (L&S) 669; A.K. Soumini v. State Bank of Travancore and another, (2003) 7 SCC 238; Union of India v. B.M. Jha, (2007) 11 SCC 632; and, Abhijit Ghosh Dastidar v. Union of India and others, (2009) 16 SCC 146. In some of the above authorities the principle has been laid down whereas in others, the principle has been regarded as settled and directions for the grant of notional promotion alone given, where the employees had not worked on the promotion post on account of retirement or any other reason.

73. Now, so far as Writ-A No.19042 of 2022 is concerned, the thrust of Mishra′s challenge is to the promotion of Surendra Kumar Bharti, Assistant Teacher, as a Lecturer vide order dated 30.08.2022 passed by the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti. The other relief claimed is a mandamus directing the respondents to promote Mishra to the post of Lecturer (Sanskrit) in the institution maintained by the Management. Mishra has admittedly retired from service on 31.03.2024. Therefore, he has no right, in the changed circumstances, to seek quashing of Surendra Kumar Bharti′s promotion as a Lecturer with the institution. So far as his claim for a direction to promote him to the post of Lecturer in the said institution is concerned, we have already held that he is entitled to limited relief by way of a consideration for the grant of notional promotion, may be from a much earlier date, in accordance with rules. No orders are, therefore, required to be made in this petition, which deserves to be consigned to record.

74. Likewise, Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 seeks no more than a relief for the issue of a mandamus directing the DIOS to consider Mishra′s representation dated 11.01.2016. That representation, annexed as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, is about the grant of selection grade. We have already held Mishra entitled to that relief by our orders made during the course of this judgment in Writ-A No.62515 of 2017. Therefore, no orders are required to be made in this petition, which is fit to be consigned to record. We, accordingly, proceed to decide the four writ petitions in terms of the following order:

A. Writ-A No.5197 of 2024 preferred by the Management shall stand dismissed with costs of Rs.50,000/-, payable by the Management to Mishra. The costs shall be paid to Mishra in account within a period of one month of receipt of this judgment by the Manager of the institution. In the event, the costs, as above directed, are not paid, it will be open to Mishra to move an application before the Registrar General, who will cause the costs to be recovered as arrears of land revenue from the Management through the District Magistrate, Basti and credited to Mishra′s bank account.

B. Writ-A No.62515 of 2017 stands allowed. The impugned order dated 12.10.2017 passed by the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti is hereby quashed. A mandamus is issued to the Management, the DIOS and the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti to ensure amongst themselves grant of selection grade to Mishra w.e.f. 19.01.2015, revise his emoluments and post retiral benefits accordingly, after doing a re-fixation for him and pay all arrears together with 6% simple interest within a period of three months from the date of receipt of this order by either of these three respondents. A mandamus is further issued to the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti to consider Mishra's case for promotion to the post of Lecturer on a notional basis by placing the same before the statutory Selection Committee within a month of receipt of this order. In case Mishra is found fit to be promoted by the Committee, he would be entitled to promotion to the Lecturer's grade on a notional basis w.e.f. 01.07.2011 or as soon thereafter as may be, but no emoluments for the promotion post shall be payable to him. He would be shown in the records notionally promoted as a Lecturer and entitled to a revision of his post retiral benefits, including pension, arrears whereof alone reckoned from the date of his superannuation shall be payable to him. In the event Mishra is found fit to be promoted, he will be sanctioned and paid his due and revised post retiral benefits together with arrears within a period of three months of the date of receipt of a copy of this order by the respondents. There shall be no order as to costs.

C. Writ-A No.42077 of 2016 and Writ-A No.19042 of 2022 are consigned to record. There shall be no order as to costs in both these writ petitions.

75. Let a copy of this judgment be communicated to the Joint Director of Education, Basti Region, Basti, the District Inspector of Schools, Basti, the Manager and the Principal of Sri Shiv Mohar Nath Pandey Kisan Janta Inter College, Nagar Bazar, Basti by the Registrar (Compliance).

76. A copy of this order shall be placed before the Registrar General.

विचारणीय विशय

1. याचिनी के तलाकशुदा होने के बारे में मृतक के चचेरे भाई (नातेदार) के बयान की भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम की धारा 50 के अन्तर्गत सुसंगतता।
2. विपक्षी द्वारा दाखिल उजुरदारी (आपत्तिं) की धारा–12 चकबन्दी अधिनियम के दरख्वास्त के रूप में मान्यता।
3. चकबन्दी अधिनियम में अभिवचन का नियम लागू होने की सीमा।

सार–टिप्पणी (हेडनोट्स)

क. चकबन्दी कानून – जोत चकबन्दी मामला – नामान्तरण विवाद – मृतक के विधवा होने का दावा करने वाली याचिनी जैजुला एवं भांजे हबीबुल्लाह के मध्य विवाद – भांजे द्वारा दावा किया गया कि मृतक ने याचिनी को पहले ही तलाक दे दिया है – दावे की सच्चाई – नातेदार के रूप में मृतक के चचेरे भाई के बयान की सुसंगतता :

अभिनिर्धारित : मो0 जुबेर जोकि लियाकत हुसैन के चचेरे भाई हैं, के बयान से यह भलीभांति सिद्ध है कि लियाकत हुसैन ने अपने जीवनकाल में याची जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया था और उसके बाद जैजुला ने मो0 जुबेर से निकाह किया, परन्तु कुछ समय बाद मो0 जुबेर ने भी जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया। उसके बयान से यह भी सिद्ध है कि लियाकत हुसैन का तनहा वारिस

हबीबुल्लाह है – भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम, 1872 की धारा 50 के अनुसार मो0 जुबेर का बयान विवाद के निर्णय में सुसंगत तथ्य है, जिसको नजरअन्दाज नहीं किया जा सकता है – चकबन्दी अधिकारी ने विपक्षी संख्या–3 हबीबुल्लाह के मौखिक साक्ष्य को बिना सही रूप से विचार करते हुए अपना निर्णय दिया है, जोकि कानूनी रूप से उचित नहीं है। बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी ने दोनों पक्षों के मौखिक साक्ष्यों का सही परीक्षण करते हुए विपक्षी संख्या–3 हबीबुल्लाह के अपील को स्वीकार किया है, जोकि अपीलीय क्षेत्राधिकार का उचित इस्तेमाल है। (पैरा 17, 19 एवं 20)

ख. चकबन्दी कानून – जोत चकबन्दी मामला – विपक्षी द्वारा दाखिल उजुरदारी – महत्व – धारा–12 चकबन्दी अधिनियम के दरख्वास्त के रूप में विपक्षी के उजुरदारी को मान्यता देने पर आपत्ति – स्वीकार्यता :

अभिनिर्धारित : विपक्षी संख्या 3 मो0 हबीबुल्लाह द्वारा दाखिल उजुरदारी अपने नाम को दर्ज करने हेतु धारा–12 चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत उचित कार्यवाही मानी जाएगी तथा याची के वरिश्ठ अधिवक्ता की बहस कि विपक्षी संख्या–3 हबीबुल्लाह की उजुरदारी को धारा–12 चकबन्दी अधिनियम की दरख्वास्त नहीं माना जा सकता, को स्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता है। (पैरा 23)

१. श्री आर. सी. सिंह विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता को सहयोगी अधिवक्तागण श्री बृजेश शुक्ला, श्री शेख मोहम्मद मुजीबुर रहमान, श्री मोहम्मद राशिद, श्री मोहम्मद सलमान के साथ याचीगण संख्या १/३ की तरफ से सुना गया तथा श्री त्रिपाठी बी. जी. भाई विद्वान अधिवक्ता को याची संख्या १/१ एवं १/२ की तरफ से सुना गया। श्री वजाहत हुसैन खां विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता को सहयोगी अधिवक्ता श्री जावेद हुसैन खां के साथ विपक्षीगण संख्या 3/१ की तरफ से सुना गया तथा श्री शरद चंद्र सिंह विद्वान अतिरिक्त मुख्य स्थाई अधिवक्ता को राज्य विपक्षीगण की तरफ से सुना गया।

२. वर्तमान वाद के मुख्य तथ्य यह है कि विवाद चक संख्या २ व ३२० स्थित ग्राम करही, तप्पा-उजियार, परगना मगहर पूर्व, तहसील खलीलाबाद, जिला बस्ती का है। चकबंदी के आधार वर्ष में हाजी लियाकत हुसैन पुत्र अशरफ का नाम विवादित चक संख्या-२ पर सहखातेदार तथा विवादित चक संख्या-३२० पर तनहा खातेदार के रूप में दर्ज था। हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की मृत्यु दिनांक ०१.०४.१९७२ को हुई। आधार वर्ष के इन्द्राज के विरुद्ध हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की मृत्यु के उपरांत याची जैजुला ने अपने को बेवा लियाकत हुसैन कहते हुए एक प्रार्थना पत्र दिनांकित ०२.०४.१९७२ को (मृत्यु के दूसरे दिन) अंतर्गत धारा १२ उत्तर प्रदेश जोत चकबंदी अधिनियम १९५३ (जिसको आगे चकबंदी अधिनियम कहा जाएगा), दाखिल किया और यह प्रार्थना किया कि उसका नाम विवादित आराजी पर हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की बेवा के रूप में दर्ज किया जाए। सहायक चकबंदी अधिकारी ने किसी प्रतिवाद की अनुपस्थिति में आदेश दिनांक २५.०४.१९७२ द्वारा याची जैजुला का नाम मृतक हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की जगह दर्ज करने का आदेश दिया। सहायक चकबंदी अधिकारी के आदेश दिनांक २५.०४.१९७२ के विरुद्ध विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह ने अपील बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी के समक्ष प्रस्तुत किया जिसको आदेश दिनांकित २४.०२.१९७३ द्वारा स्वीकार करते हुए सहायक चकबंदी अधिकारी के आदेश दिनांकित २५.०४.१९७२ को निरस्त किया गया तथा प्रकरण को चकबंदी अधिकारी के समक्ष सुनवाई हेतु भेजा गया। प्रकरण चकबंदी अधिकारी के समक्ष वाद संख्या ६२०/६६१ धारा १२ चकबंदी अधिनियम के रूप में दर्ज हुआ। चकबंदी अधिकारी के समक्ष तीन वाद बिंदु विरचित किए गए तथा पक्षकारों ने अपने केस के समर्थन में जबानी साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत किए एवं कुछ अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य भी प्रस्तुत किए गए। चकबंदी अधिकारी ने अपने आदेश दिनांकित ०४.०५.१९८१ के द्वारा विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह की उजुरदारी खारिज करते हुए याची जैजुला का नाम विवादित आराजी पर लियाकत हुसैन की बेवा के रूप में दर्ज करने का आदेश दिया। चकबंदी अधिकारी द्वारा पारित आदेश दिनांकित ०४.०५.१९८१ के विरुद्ध विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह द्वारा अपील अंतर्गत धारा ११(१) चकबंदी अधिनियम बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी के समक्ष योजित की गई, जो कि अपील संख्या २३३/१३४० के रूप में दर्ज हुई। उपरोक्त अपील बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी द्वारा आदेश दिनांक ११.१२.१९८१ द्वारा स्वीकार हुई, चकबंदी अधिकारी का आदेश दिनांक ०४.०५.१९८१ निरस्त किया गया तथा विवादित आराजी पर मृतक लियाकत हुसैन के स्थान पर विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह सगे भांजे का नाम वरासत के आधार पर दर्ज करने का

आदेश दिया। बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी के आदेश दिनांक ११.१२.१९८१ के विरुद्ध याची जैजुला द्वारा निगरानी अंतर्गत धारा ४८ चकबंदी अधिनियम उप संचालक चकबंदी के समक्ष योजित की गई, जो कि निगरानी संख्या ३७ के रूप में दर्ज हुई। उप संचालक चकबंदी द्वारा आदेश दिनांक २६.०४.१९८२ द्वारा याची द्वारा योजित निगरानी खारिज की गई। अतः वर्तमान याचिका निम्नलिखित अनुतोष हेतु योजित की गईः-

"१- एक रिट आदेश या निर्देश उत्प्रेषण प्रकृति का विवाद की पत्रावलियाँ मँगाने हेतु और विवादित निर्णय को निरस्त करने हेतु जो उ०स०च० एवम् ब०अ०च० के निर्णय और आदेश क्रमशः इस रिट के संलग्नक १ और २ है।

३- एक रिट आदेश या निर्देश जो यह माननीय न्यायालय विवाद की परिस्थिति को देखते हुए न्याय की दृष्टि में उचित समझें।

४- याचिनी को खर्च विपक्षीगण से दिलावें।"

३. वर्तमान याचिका इस न्यायालय द्वारा आदेश दिनांक २१.०५.१९८२ द्वारा अंगीकृत की गई तथा उप संचालक चकबंदी के आदेश दिनांक २६.०४.१९८२ के क्रियान्वयन को स्थगित किया गया।

४. इस न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांक ३०.०७.१९८६ द्वारा पूर्व पारित अंतरिम आदेश दिनांक २१.०५.१९८२ को निरस्त किया गया। इस न्यायालय द्वारा दिनांक ०५.०५.१९८७ पूर्व पारित अंतरिम आदेश दिनांक २१.०५.१९८२ को पुनः संशोधित किया गया।

५. इस न्यायालय के आदेश के अनुपालन में पक्षकारों ने प्रति शपथ पत्र तथा प्रति उत्तर शपथ पत्र दाखिल किए।

६. याचीगण के वरिष्ठ विद्वान अधिवक्ता का कथन है कि चकबंदी अधिकारी ने साक्ष्यों का परिशीलन करने के बाद यह सही निष्कर्ष दिया कि याची जैजुला का नाम हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की जगह उनकी कानूनी वारिस/बेवा के रूप में दर्ज किया जाए। उनका यह भी कथन है कि बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने याची जैजुला के द्वितीय विवाह की उपधारणा मानकर स्पष्ट भूल की है। उनका यह भी कथन है कि बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने जबानी साक्ष्यों का सही विश्लेषण नहीं किया तथा विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह को हाजी लियाकत हुसैन का भांजा मानते हुए हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की जगह विवादित आराजी पर नाम दर्ज करने का आदेश पारित किया है, जो कि नियम विरुद्ध है। अतः अपीलीय आदेश दिनांक ११.१२.१९८१

निरस्त होने योग्य है। उनका यह भी कथन है कि किसी भी साक्ष्य से विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह हाजी लियाकत हुसैन का भांजा सिद्ध नहीं है, अतः विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह का नाम हाजी लियाकत हुसैन के स्थान पर वरासत के आधार पर दर्ज नहीं किया जा सकता है। याची के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता का यह भी कथन है कि विपक्षी संख्या ३ ने धारा १२ चकबंदी अधिनियम के अंतर्गत नियमानुसार कोई कार्यवाही नाम दर्ज कराने की नहीं किया, बल्कि याची की धारा १२ चकबंदी अधिनियम की कार्यवाही में उजुरदारी दाखिल किया था, अतः अपीलीय आदेश दिनांक ११.१२.१९८१ गैरकानूनी है। याची के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने निम्नलिखित निर्णयों को अपने बहस के समर्थन में पेश कियाः-

i. AIR 2017 SUPREME COURT 5494; (Shivaji Balaram Haibatti Vs. Avinash Maruthi Pawar)

७. याची संख्या १/१ व १/२ के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने भी उपरोक्त तर्कों के आधार पर अपीलीय आदेश दिनांक ११.१२.१९८१ व निगरानी अदालत के आदेश दिनांक २६.०४.१९८२ के निरस्तीकरण की प्रार्थना की।

८. विपक्षी संख्या ३/१ के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने कथन किया कि हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की मृत्यु दिनांक ०१.०४.१९७२ को हुई तथा याची जैजुला द्वारा धारा १२ चकबंदी अधिनियम की दरख्वास्त दूसरे दिन ०२.०४.१९७२ दाखिल कर दिया गया, जो कि विश्वास करने योग्य नहीं है कि पति की मृत्यु के बाद पत्नी दूसरे दिन अपना नाम चढ़वाने की कार्यवाही करेगी। उनका यह भी कथन है कि हाजी लियाकत हुसैन ने अपनी जिंदगी में ही याची जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया था तथा तलाक के बाद जैजुला ने मोहम्मद जुबैर से निकाह कर लिया था, अतः याची जैजुला का नाम हाजी लियाकत हुसैन की बेवा के रूप में दर्ज नहीं हो सकता। उनका यह भी कथन है कि विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह, हाजी लियाकत हुसैन का सगा भांजा है तथा कानूनी वारिस के रूप में दर्ज करने का उचित आदेश अपीलीय अदालत ने पारित किया है। उनका कथन है कि चकबंदी अधिकारी ने सभी साक्षीगण के साक्ष्यों का सही विश्लेषण नहीं किया परन्तु बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने सभी साक्षीगण के साक्ष्यों का सही विश्लेषण करके विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह का नाम सगे भांजे के आधार पर दर्ज करने का उचित आदेश पारित किया है। विपक्षी संख्या ३/१ के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता यह भी कथन है कि विपक्षी संख्या ३ ने उचित प्रार्थना पत्र देकर अपना नाम वरासत के आधार पर दर्ज करने की

प्रार्थना की तथा याची जैजुला की दरख्वास्त नाम दर्ज करने हेतु को निरस्त करने की प्रार्थना की। विपक्षी संख्या ३/१ के विद्वान वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता ने निम्नलिखित निर्णयों को अपने बहस के समर्थन में पेश किया:-

i. (2015) 1 Supreme Court Cases 553; (Krishnanand (Dead) through legal representatives and others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation)

viii. Anand Pal and others Vs. Deputy Director Consolidation, Meerut 2011 (113) R.D. 569

९. मैंने उभय पक्ष के विद्वान अधिवक्ताओं के तर्कों को सुना तथा पत्रावली का अवलोकन किया।

१०. यह निर्विवाद तथ्य है कि चकबंदी अधिकारी ने याची जैजुला के धारा १२ चकबंदी अधिनियम के दरख्वास्त को स्वीकार करते हुए याची का नाम हाजी लियाकत हुसैन के स्थान पर उसकी बेवा के रूप में दर्ज करने का आदेश दिया तथा विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह का सगे भांजे के आधार पर नाम दर्ज करने की प्रार्थना को अस्वीकार कर दिया। यह भी निर्विवाद है कि बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह की अपील स्वीकार करते हुए चकबंदी अधिकारी का आदेश निरस्त कर दिया तथा विपक्षी संख्या ३ हबीबुल्लाह का नाम हाजी लियाकत हुसैन के सगे भांजे होने के आधार पर दर्ज करने का आदेश दिया। यह भी निर्विवाद है कि याची जैजुला द्वारा दाखिल निगरानी अंतर्गत धारा ४८ चकबंदी अधिनियम उप संचालक चकबंदी द्वारा निरस्त कर दी गई।

११. विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह ने चकबन्दी अधिकारी के समक्ष दाखिल अपने उजुरदारी में परिवार की जो वंशावली प्रस्तुत की थी, वह निम्न है:-

अशरफ

लियाकत हुसैन	सिराजुलहक	श्रीमती मिसरा खातून (लड़की)
		हबीबुल्लाह

१२. याची जैजुला के अनुसार श्रीमती मिसरा खातून नाम की कोई लड़की अशरफ की नहीं थी तथा याची जैजुला लियाकत हुसैन की बेवा है।

१३. चकबन्दी अधिकारी के समक्ष निर्मित तीन वाद बिन्दु का परिशीलन आवश्यक होगा, जो कि निम्नलिखित हैंः-

१- उक्त उजुरदारी हबीबुल्लाह दिनांक २.४.७३ श्रीमती जैजुला की लियाकत हुसैन ने अपनी जिन्दगी में ही तलाक दे दिया था और अब अनुसार दफा ३ उजुरदारी मु० जुबेर की औरत हैं?

२. क्या मु० जैजुला बतौर बेवा मृतक लियाकत हुसैन की वारिस है?

३.फरीकेन श्रीमती जैजुला व हबीबुल्ला ने मृतक लियाकत हुसैन का और वारिस है किसी अन्य तनकीह में नहीं कहा गया।

१४. याची जैजुला की तरफ से मौखिक साक्ष्य में साक्षी अतीकुर्ररहमान व नजीर अहमद तथा स्वयं को पेश किया।

१५. विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह की तरफ से मौखिक साक्ष्य में निम्न छः गवाहों को पेश किया गयाः-

(i). सिराजुलहक
(ii). मो० जुबैर
(iii) हस्मतुल्ला.
(iv). शौकत अली
(v). अब्दुल वहीद
(vi). हबीबुल्लाह

१६. विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह के गवाह मो० जुबेर रिश्ते में लियाकत हुसैन के चचेरे भाई हैं, अतः उनके बयान के प्रमुख अंश का परिशीलन आवश्यक होगा जोकि निम्नवत् हैः-

"जेरे कार्यवाही २०-३-७९

प्रतिलिपि ब्यान श्री मो० जुबेर

ब इजलास मुजहर के नाम अपना श्री मोहम्मद जुबेर बाप का नाम मो० खलील कौम साकिन करही उम्र ५० साल पेशा खेती बहलफ बयान किया कि मेरे चचेरे भाई लियाकत हुसैन थे लियाकत हुसैन मर गये। मरने से पहले लियाकत हुसैन की बीबी का नाम जैजुला था। मरने के एक साल पहले उन्होंने जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया था। मैंने जैजुल्ला के साथ निकाह सानी किया व तलाक के चार महीने बाद। उसके बाद एक साल बाद लियाकत हुसैन मर गए। जैजुल्लाह अब हमारे साथ नहीं है हमने भी तलाक दे दिया क्योंकि उसका चाल चलन ठीक नहीं था फिर तलाक के बाद मेरे गाँव में खानदान के भतीजा से जैजुल्लाह ने तीसरा निकाह

किया। लियाकत को मरे आज से ५ साल से कुछ ज्यादा हुआ। उनको मरने के वक्त उनका तनहा वारिस हबीबुल्लाह था। लियाकत हुसैन की जायदाद पर व मकान पर हबीबुल्लाह का भी वहैसियत वारिस व कब्जा है। x x x x x x

लियाकत के बाप अशरफ और हमारे बाप खलील दोनों सगे चचाजात भाई थे। खलील के बाप का नाम बाबूलाह। बाबूल्लाह तीन भाई थे नाम नहीं बता सकता। बाबूल्लाह के जो हकीकी भाई थे उनके लड़के अशरफ थे। जो लियाकत के बाप थे।"

१७. मो० जुबेर जोकि लियाकत हुसैन के चचेरे भाई हैं, के बयान से यह भलीभाँति सिद्ध है कि लियाकत हुसैन ने अपने जीवनकाल में याची जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया था और उसके बाद जैजुला ने मो० जुबेर ने निकाह किया, परन्तु कुछ समय बाद मो० जुबेर ने भी जैजुला को तलाक दे दिया। उनके बयान से यह भी सिद्ध है कि लियाकत हुसैन का तनहा वारिस हबीबुल्लाह है।

१८. भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम, १८७२ की धारा-५० का परिशीलन भी आवश्यक होगा। जोकि निम्नवत् हैः-

"५०. नातेदारी के बारे में राय कब सुसंगत है- जबकि न्यायालय को एक व्यक्ति की किसी अन्य के साथ नातेदारी के बारे में राय बनानी हो, तब ऐसी नातेदारी के अस्तित्व के बारे में ऐसे किसी व्यक्ति के आचरण द्वारा अभिव्यक्त राय, जिसके पास कुटुम्ब के सदस्य के रूप में या अन्यथा उस विषय के संबंध में ज्ञान के विशेष साधन हैं, सुसंगत तथ्य हैं:

परन्तु भारतीय विवाह-विच्छेद अधिनियम, १८६९ (१८६९ का ४) के अधीन कार्यवाहियों में या भारतीय दण्ड संहिता (१८६० का ४५) की धारा ४९४, ४९५, ४९७ या ४९८ के अधीन अभियोजनों में ऐसी राय विवाह साबित करने के लिए पर्याप्त नहीं होगी।"

१९. भारतीय साक्ष्य अधिनियम १८७२ की धारा-५० के अनुसार मो० जुबेर का बयान विवाद के निर्णय में सुसंगत तथ्य है, जिसको नजरअन्दाज नहीं किया जा सकता है।

२०. चकबन्दी अधिकारी ने विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह के मौखिक साक्ष्य को बिना सही रूप से विचार किए हुए अपना निर्णय दिया है, जोकि कानूनी रूप से उचित नहीं है। बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी ने दोनों पक्षों के मौखिक साक्ष्यों का सही परीक्षण करते हुए विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह की अपील को स्वीकार किया है, जोकि अपीलीय क्षेत्राधिकार का उचित इस्तेमाल है।

२१. विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह द्वारा चकबन्दी अधिकारी के समक्ष दाखिल उजुरदारी अंतर्गत धारा-१२ चकबन्दी अधिनियम का परिशीलन भी आवश्यक होगा, जोकि निम्न हैः-

"१- यह कि दसख्वास्त दाखिल खारिज सायला सरीहन खिलाफ कानून खिलाफ वाकया है और लायक खारिजी के है।

२- यह कि श्रीमती जैजूला सायला हरगिज लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फी बेवा नहीं है और न उनका कोई कब्जा दखल ही तरकए लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फी पर है।

३- यह कि श्रीमती जैजूला सायला को लियाकत हुसैन ने अपने जिन्दगी में ही तलाक दे दिया था और श्रीमती जैजुला ने उसी वक्त वाद गुजरने इद्दत मु० जुबेर साकिन करही से निकाहसानी कर लिया।

४- यह कि हम उजुरदारान लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फी का सगा भान्जा है और उनकी जिन्दगी से ही उनकी खिदमत व फरमाबरदारी करते रहे हैं और वाद वफात लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फ तरकए लियाकत हुसैन पर बहैसियत सगा भान्जा और कानूनी जायज वारिस काबिज दाखिल है।

५- यह कि सजरा खानदान लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फी हस्व जैल है।

६- यह कि सरपन्च हाजी अब्दुल मजीद साकिन से मरिवाहां सायला को रंजिशन लड़ा रहे हैं हालांकि श्रीमती जैजुला का न कोई हक है और न कोई हिस्सा है।

७- यह कि दरख्वास्त सायला दाखिल खारिज है और लायक खारिजी है।

अतः उजुरदारी दाखिल करके उम्मीदवार की दरख्वास्त सायला खारिज फरमायी जावे और तरकए लियाकत हुसैन मुतवल्फी पर हम उजुरदार का नाम बतौर वारिस दर्ज किया जावे।"

अशरफ प्रार्थी

हबीबुल्लाह उजुरदार

लियाकत हुसैन	सिराजुलहक	श्रीमती मिसरा खातून (लड़की)
बेवा जैजुलाह		हबीबुल्लाह

२२. इस न्यायालय द्वारा निर्गत निर्णय आनन्दपाल (पूर्व लिखित पहले) के प्रस्तर सं०-८ का परिशीलन आवश्यक होगा, जोकि निम्न हैः-

"8. The technical objection that has been taken by the Deputy Director of Consolidation appears to be on a misreading of the document dated 20.1.2006. The objection filed by the petitioners did begin with, in the shape of a written statement against the objection of Kewal, but the prayer clause clearly recites that the name of the recorded tenure holders be expunged and that their objections be allowed and the petitioners be recorded as tenure holders. The Deputy Director of Consolidation should not have gone by the literal form of the objection raised by the petitioners but by its pith and substance. The prayer and the nature of the pleadings are clearly an objection under Section 9A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act 1953."

२३. विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह द्वारा दाखिल उजुरदारी तथा इस न्यायालय के निर्णय जो कि आनन्द पाल (पूर्व लिखित पहले) में निर्गत किया गाय है, से यह भलीभांति सिद्ध है कि विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह द्वारा दाखिल उजुरदारी अपने नाम को दर्ज करने हेतु धारा-१२ चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत उचित कार्यवाही मानी जाएगी तथा याची के वरिष्ठ अधिवक्ता की बहस कि विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह की उजुरदारी को धारा-१२ चकबन्दी अधिनियम की दरख्वास्त नहीं माना जा सकता, को स्वीकार नहीं किया जा सकता है।

२४. यहाँ यह भी कहना प्रासंगिक होगा कि चकबन्दी अधिनियम में अभिवचन का नियम पूरी तरह से लागू नहीं होता है, अतः यह कहना कि याची की उजुरदारी को धारा-१२ चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत की दरख्वास्त के रूप में मान्यता नहीं दी जा सकती पूर्णतया गलत है, क्योंकि विपक्षी संख्या-३ हबीबुल्लाह ने अपने उजुरदारी में हर बात को वंशावली के साथ इंगित किया है।

२५. उपसंचालक चकबन्दी के आदेश दिनांक २६-०४-१९८२ के प्रस्तर-५ का परिशीलन भी आवश्यक होगा, जोकि निम्नवत् हैः-

"५- इस संबंध में सबसे महत्वपूर्ण बयान स्वयं श्रीमती जैजुला का है, उसने अपने बयान में कहा है कि उसके दोनों हाथों में चूड़ियाँ हैं, वह सिर पर दुपट्टा ओढ़े हुए है और कुरान उठाकर वह यह नहीं कह सकती कि उसने शकील अहमद से निकाह नहीं किया है। यह बात सर्वविदित है कि मुस्लिम विधवाएँ भी हाथों में चूड़ियाँ नहीं पहनती हैं। जैजुला का पुनः शकील से निकाह करने के प्रश्न पर शपथ लेने से कतराना भी इस बात का प्रबल साक्ष्य है कि उसने शकील से पुनः निकाह कर लिया है और इसलिए वह शपथ खाकर इस बात से इनकार नहीं कर सकी। इस बात का तीसरा सबूत यह है कि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय में शकील के भतीजे इफ्तखार ने जैजुला की ओर से पैरवी की थी जो याचिका की प्रमाणित प्रतिलिपि से स्पष्ट है। इस बात का चौथा सबूत यह है कि विद्वान अतिरिक्त जिलाधिकारी के यहाँ इसी वरासत से संबंधित एक दूसरे ग्राम के पुनरीक्षण में जैजुला की ओर से श्री तारकेश्वर उपाध्याय वकील के नाम जो वकालतनामा दाखिल किया गया, उसमें जैजुला पत्नी जुबेर लिखा हुआ था। यह सही है कि बाद में इसको गलत कहकर वकालतनामे को शुद्ध करने का प्रार्थना पत्र दिया गया, किंतु वास्तव में यह गलती नहीं थी, बल्कि असावधानी से सही बात लिख दी गई थी। दिनांक १३.१२.७८ के ट्यूवेल ऑपरेटर की रसीद पर जैजुला की जौजियत शकील अहमद अंकित है, इन तथ्यों के आधार पर विद्वान बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने यह सही निष्कर्ष निकाला है कि जैजुला ने पुनर्विवाह कर लिया और हबीबुल्ला भांजे के रूप में मृतक का वारिस है।"

२६. उपसंचालक चकबन्दी ने मौखिक साक्ष्य तथा अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य का सही विश्लेषण करते हुए याची जैजुला की निगरानी को खारिज किया तथा बन्दोबस्त अधिकारी चकबन्दी के निर्णय को सही माना, जोकि धारा-४८ चकबन्दी अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत उचित निर्णय है।

२७. वाद के समस्त तथ्यों एवं परिस्थितियों पर विचार करने के उपरान्त उपरोक्त विवादित आदेशों को जो कि हक प्रक्रिया में पारित है, को निरस्त करने का कोई उचित आधार नहीं बनता है।

२८. तदनुसार वर्तमान याचिका निरस्त की जाती है।

२९. वाद व्यय के बारे में कोई आदेश नहीं किया जाता है।

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 33 of 2020

Anurag Agarwal ...Petitioner
Versus
I.O.C. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the legality and validity of termination of petroleum dealership by the respondent Indian Oil Corporation on allegations of tampering with dispensing units, in the absence of proof of dealer's complicity and in violation of principles of natural justice due to non-supply of relied upon technical reports.

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - ss. 265, 267, 420, 120-B and 34 - Legal Metrology Act, 2009 - ss. 12 and 30 - The petitioner was appointed as a retail outlet dealer of respondent - Oil Corporation under a dealership agreement dated 06.12.1996 for the sale of petroleum products - Pursuant to certain inspections conducted in 2016 and thereafter, the dispensing units at the petitioner's outlet were initially found to be functioning correctly with intact seals and no deficiency in delivery, however, a subsequent inspection dated 01.05.2017 alleged the presence of unauthorized fittings in pulsar of dispensing units and noted stock variations - On the basis of these allegations, a show cause notice was issued, to which the petitioner submitted a detailed reply denying any tampering and asserting that the sealed units were beyond his access or control - Notwithstanding the reply, the competent authority, by order dated 30.01.2018, terminated the dealership and forfeited the security deposit, primarily relying upon certain OEM reports which were not furnished to petitioner prior to the decision - The petitioner's statutory appeal before Dispute Resolution Panel was dismissed on 23.05.2019, leading to institution of instant writ petition challenging both termination order and appellate order on grounds inter alia of absence of cogent evidence, non-supply of material documents, and violation of principles of natural justice.

Held: In the instant case, the material on record clearly indicates that the termination order has been passed in breach of procedural safeguards contained in Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 as well as the principles of natural justice, inasmuch as the petitioner was not supplied with the OEM reports forming the basis of impugned action prior to passing of termination order - Consequently, the appellate authority, while dismissing the petitioner's appeal by order dated 23.5.2019, also failed to consider the procedural infirmities and merely affirmed the decision of original authority without independently examining whether the allegations against the petitioner had been established in accordance with law - The impugned order dated 30.1.2018 terminating the petitioner's retail outlet dealership agreement and appellate order dated 23.5.2019 passed by Dispute Resolution Panel are hereby quashed - The respondents are directed to permit the petitioner to continue to operate the retail outlet in accordance with law and strictly in terms of the dealership agreement, subject to compliance of all applicable conditions - It is left open to competent authority of respondent -Corporation to proceed afresh from the stage of issuance of show cause notice, after supplying to petitioner all documents, including the reports of Original Equipment Manufacturers - In case show cause notice is issued in accordance with law, necessary order in accordance with law shall be passed after affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Writ - C No. - 33 of 2020

From the Judgment and Order dated 31.01.2018 passed by respondent No.2 terminating the retail outlet dealership agreement dated 6.12.1996 and order dated 23.5.2019, passed by Dispute Resolution Panel of Oil Industry (respondent No.3), dismissing the Appeal No.DRP/ IOC/ RET/0014/2018 filed by petitioner against the termination order dated 31.1.2018.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner:
Subhash Vidyarthi, Anshuman Singh, Ashok Kumar Singh, Geetika Yadav, Prabhat

Adv. for the Respondent:
Manish Jauhari

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Geetika Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner in presence of Mr. Prashant Chandra, learned Senior Advocate and Mr. Manish Johari, learned counsel for the respondent-Corporation.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner is challenging the order dated 30.1.2018, passed by respondent No.2 (Annexure-1 to the writ petition), terminating the petitioner's retail outlet dealership agreement dated 6.12.1996 and order dated 23.5.2019, passed by the Dispute Resolution Panel of Oil Industry (respondent No.3), dismissing the Appeal No.DRP/ IOC/ RET/0014/2018 filed by the petitioner against the termination order dated 30.1.2018.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the respondent No.1 entered into a petrol/ HSD pump dealer agreement (Annexure-3 to the writ petition), appointing the petitioner has its dealer for retail sale of petrol/ high speed diesel/ motor oil/ grease and other petroleum products. On 28.6.2016, the corporation conducted a random inspection, in which it was found that the weights and measures seals and the totaliser seals of all the 16 nozzles put on all the four dispensing units installed at the petitioner's retail outlet were intact and all the 16 nozzles were delivering correct quantities of the product.

4. On 7.12.2017, the Legal Metrology Department verified the seals and quantity of products being delivered from the dispensing units after charging a fee of Rs.16,000/- from the petitioner. On 1.5.2017, an inspection was carried out by a joint team, which had no representative of respondent No.1-corporation. During the inspection, the weights and measurement seals were found to be OK and the team found no irregularity in the quantity of the product being delivered. After the report had been signed by all the persons, it was inserted at the bottom of the report that a tampered pulsar having a resistance was taken from the Dresser Wayne dispensing unit and the pulsar of Midco contained an additional wire.

5. On 1.5.2017, the Regional Food Inspector, who was a member of inspection team, submitted an inspection report (Annexure-7) to the District Supply Officer, stating that upon stock verification, it was found that the stock of petrol was less by 2016 litres and the stock of high speed diesel was less by 1280 litres.

6. On 23.5.2017, the Senior Divisional Retail Sales Manager of the Corporation sent a fact finding letter (Annexure-8), asking the petitioner to submit reply on the following points :-

(i) Additional/ unauthorised fittings/ gears found in dispensing unit/ tampering with dispensing unit (violation of clause 5.1.4 of MDG 2012)

(ii) Stock variation of MS/ HSD (beyond permissible limits) fuels (violation of clause 5.1.11)

7. The petitioner sent a reply on 1.6.2017 that no extra chip/ fitting was found affixed to any of the machines installed at its outlet during the inspection. The Weights and Measurements Department seals put on all the machines were found intact at the time of inspection, indicating that no manipulation had been done by the petitioner. The petitioner is responsible for delivery and Weights and Measurements Department seals and both were found OK. Since the delivery and seals were found to be correct, no allegation of manipulation/ tempering of the machines can be imposed upon him. Regarding stock reconciliation, the petitioner stated that it was not done as per the norms and specifications of MDG 2012.

8. On 7.7.2017, the Chief Divisional Retail Sales Manager of the respondent-Corporation sent a show cause notice to the petitioner alleging that at its retail outlet, tampering/ unexpected wires were found in pulsar. A copy of the inspection report was enclosed with the show cause notice but copies of the testing report of the Original Equipment Manufacturers were not provided to the petitioner. The allegation of stock variation, which was there in the fact finding letter, had been dropped from the show cause notice.

9. On 20.7.2017, the petitioner sent a reply to the show cause notice stating that maintenance and repairing of the dispensing units was the responsibility of the respondent No.1 as per the dealership agreement as also as per the Marketing Discipline Guidelines and the allegation of tampering or the presence of an extra wire in pulsar card cannot be imputed on the petitioner when the weights and measurement seals were found intact/ perfect at the time of inspection and there was no allegation of short delivery.

10. On 30.1.2018, the respondent No.2 passed an order (Annexure-1) that the competent authority has decided to terminate the petitioner's RO agreement and accordingly, the dealership of the petitioner is terminated with immediate effect and the security amount is forfeited. A copy of the undated test report issued by Midco was enclosed with the aforesaid order alongwith a covering letter dated 25.9.2017 and a perusal of the report indicates that it was prepared merely on a visual inspection of the pulsar without providing power to the received material under test. Although the test report was prepared on or before 25.9.2017, its copy was not provided to the petitioner prior to passing of the termination order. The analysis report of the other OEM i.e. Dresser Wayne was provided to the petitioner only on 24.4.2019 i.e. long after passing of the termination order, during the pendency of the appeal before the Dispute Resolution Panel.

11. On 27.2.2018, the petitioner filed an appeal before the Executive Director, Retail Sales of the respondent No.1- corporation. On 1.6.2018, the Deputy Director, Forensic Science Laboratory, U.P. at Lucknow has written a letter clarifying the procedure for testing of pulsar of petrol pumps, which was not followed for testing of the pulsar.

12. On 16.1.2018, the Deputy Controller, Legal Metrology, Haryana has informed that the fuel dispensers should be checked physically and in operational mode and parts are to be checked on power and the visual checking report is not final as per the Legal Metrology (General) Rules, 2011.

13. A new dispensing unit was being installed at another retail outlet in which extra fittings (a wire and a diode) were found on the motherboard that was fitted in the new machine. When additional fittings have been found in new unused machine, the petitioner cannot be held guilty of any alleged additional fitting found in a properly sealed machine.

14. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that when additional fitting has been found in new unused machine, the petitioner cannot be held guilty of any alleged additional fitting found in a properly sealed machine. She next submitted that the officers of the respondent No.1-corporation made e-mail correspondence with the Original Equipment Manufacturer Company regarding the additional wire found on the motherboard of a new machine and the representative of the OEM admitted having installed an additional wire.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner has been acquitted in a complaint case under Sections 12/30 and 26 of the Legal Metrology Act on the same allegations as are contained in the inspection note dated 1.5.2017. On the same allegations as are mentioned in the inspection report dated 1.5.2017, a First Information Report was registered in Police Station PGI, Lucknow under Sections 265, 267, 420, 120-B and 34 IPC and Sections 12 and 30 of the Legal Metrology Act, which was registered as Case Crime No.401/2017. After investigation, the police has filed the final report in the court of First Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.25, Lucknow and the Supply Inspector also filed an application requesting that the final report be accepted. On 24.7.2019, the final report was accepted.

16. It is also submitted by petitioner's counsel that upon inspection at the petitioner's outlet, the weights and measurement seals were found OK and the inspection team found no irregularity in the quantity of the product being delivered. Without tampering with the seals put by Legal Metrology Department, the petitioner did not have access to any part inside the unit and he was not liable for any alleged tampering found inside the sealed unit. Further submission is that while issuing show cause notice to the petitioner, no OEM report was made available to the petitioner, therefore, the petitioner could not reply properly in regard to the allegations levelled. It is next submitted that on the date of making inspection, the testing reports were not supplied to the petitioner. Her submission is that due to not supplying the OEM report, the principles of natural justice have been violated, therefore, the impugned orders ware liable to be set aside. It has also been submitted that the appellate court has also not considered this aspect of the matter that report of OEM was not made available to the petitioner while issuing the show cause notice.

17. In support of the submissions advanced, learned counsel for the petitioner placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Indian Oil Corporation Limited Vs. Pullareddy Service Center [2021 SCC OnLine AP 2909]. Relevant paragraphs 16, 18 to 27 are being quoted below :-

"16. The whole controversy centers around the crucial observation in the inspection report dated 05.02.2015 about the presence of additional/double gear, which is not in dispute. While it is the contention of the appellants that since the dispensing unit and other equipment are in the care and custody of the petitioner/dealer, the responsibility lies with it and the benefit by virtue of such additional gear coupled with variations in stock would enure to the dealer, the same is opposed by the petitioner contending that it is well-nigh impossible to meddle with the dispensing unit when there is no allegation of tampering of seals, which in fact, undisputedly are intact, as per the inspection report. Further, the dealer cannot be held responsible for the presence of additional equipment as it is the authorities alone who have access to the dispensing unit.

18. In Ram Lal Agarwal's case (referred 2 supra), wherein reliance was placed on the judgment in P. Laxmikanth Rao's case (referred 1 supra) which was later upheld by the Division Bench in W.A. No. 318 of 2011, the learned Single Judge was examining more or less similar factual situation, but there is no allegation of stock variation as pointed out by the learned Senior Counsel. In the said case, the Inspecting Team observed the presence of double gear in one of the dispensing units. However, they did not find any irregularity or illegality in the functioning of the dispensing units, no differentiation was noted in dispensing of fuel nor the quantity of petroleum products was found to be deficient in any manner. It was inter alia contended on behalf of the Oil Company/respondent therein that mere existence of double gear in the dispensing unit is sufficient to hold a dealer responsible as double gear gets installed only to manipulate delivery and actual shortage of delivery is not material.

19. The learned Single Judge while interpreting Clause 5.1.4 of MDG which is pressed into service in the present case also, opined that double gear in dispensing unit would assume critical irregularity only if deficiency is noticed in the quantity of fuel dispensed with. The said clause reads thus:

"5.1.4 Additional/unauthorized fittings/gears found in dispensing unit/tampering with dispensing unit:

Any mechanism/fittings/gear found fitted in the dispensing unit with the intention of manipulating the delivery…"

20. At para 27 of the judgment, the learned Single Judge opined as follows:

"……If the material available on record does not necessarily lead to the conclusion that the tampering and tinkering has taken place at the hands of the writ petitioner, it will be totally unjust to penalize him. It is a fundamental principle of law that no innocent person should be penalized for no fault of his. That would be contrary to cannons of justice. In the absence of linkage of the presence of the additional gear with 39 teeth in the equipment at the premises of the retail outlet run by the petitioner to him, it will not be safe to infer that he is guilty of tampering with the equipment. If there is no reasonable substratum to a conclusion that the petitioner is guilty of tampering with the equipment, no adverse action of termination of his dealership agreement could have been drawn against him. The petitioner therefore could not have been faulted unnecessarily."

21. It may be trite to observe here that it is not the case of the appellants that by virtue of presence/or help of double gear, less quantity of petrol/diesel is dispensed with on testing at the time of the inspection conducted on 05.02.2015. No doubt, no satisfactory explanation is forthcoming with regard to the stock variations. However, in the absence of any evidence to the effect that additional gear was inserted by/or at the behest of the petitioner/dealer and as a result of the same, there was stock variation which reaps benefit to the petitioner, no conclusion can be arrived at for penalizing the petitioner. In this regard, it may be apt to refer to the judgment of the Division Bench cited by Mr. N. Ashwani Kumar in support of his contentions. In W.A. No. 318 of 2011, the Hon'ble Division Bench while confirming the orders of the learned Single Judge in P. Laxmikanth Rao's case (referred 1 supra) vide orders dated 21.07.2011 elaborately dealt with the similar issues. In the said case, the dealership of the petitioner therein was terminated on the allegation that a spurious gear was found to have been introduced into the unit resulting in the short supply of High Speed Diesel (HSD). It is the case of the Oil Company that the dealer committed malpractice/irregularity of short supply by tampering with the Corporation's equipment, namely, dispensing unit by using unauthorized fittings/gears and that the said act of the dealer putting additional gear to the dispensing unit resulting in short supply tantamount to tampering with the dispensing unit. It was contended before the learned Single Judge that once the seal is found to be intact, the dealer cannot be held responsible for any error or defect as to the measurement and further that the dealer has no control over the dispensing unit and the Corporation and the Maintenance Agency are in complete control over the units.

22. While upholding the judgment of the learned Single Judge, the Division Bench held as follows:

"On the basis of the charge, it is appropriate that before any conclusion as to misconduct or malpractice or tampering by the dealer is arrived at, it must be demonstrated by the appellants by the standards of preponderance of probabilities (no lesser standard known to law exists) that the dealer could access the internal mechanism of the unit and could introduce the spurious gear. Alternatively, a compelling inference as to tampering by or on behalf of the dealer could have perhaps been legitimately arrived at if the respondents could establish that proper gear was in fact installed in the unit on an earlier occasion and the dealer or his agents could have substituted the gear with a spurious one, even while the seal to the unit was intact. In the absence of officials of Weights and Measures Department and by obtaining only their telephonic approval, the seals were broken by agents of the appellants and the Metering Unit opened. It is the admitted factual scenario that the seals of the dispensing unit were intact and as observed by the learned Single Judge it is not the case of the appellants that the dealer or any other individual could gain access to the unit where the ?spurious gear? was introduced even while the seal of the unit was intact. It is not the case of the appellants that the seals of the unit were tampered with or duplicate seals substituted for the seals put by officials of the Legal Metrology Department. Neither the show cause notice nor the final order impugned in the writ petition unravels the mystery of the closed unit and metaphysical entry of the spurious gear into the unit. This was a fatal error in the order of termination of the dealership, on account of which the learned Single Judge was persuaded to invalidate the order of termination of the respondent's dealership, by the appellants."

23. Further, with regard to the presence of the spurious gear, the Hon'ble Court recorded its conclusions as follows:

"Responding to a query from this Court as to how the appellants could explain the curious case of the spurious gear inside a locked unit, the learned senior counsel would urge that since the authorized dealer of the gears supplied by Larsen and Turbo had through a letter, dated 10.05.2010, informed the appellants that the gear found in the dealer's unit was an unauthorized gear and not manufactured and supplied by the authorized supplier, the inference is compelling that since it was only the dealer who stood to gain from short delivery of HSD, he must have introduced the gear notwithstanding that the unit was sealed and despite absence of an explanation as to how a spurious gear could have been introduced into the sealed unit. His contention does not commend acceptance by this Court as it suffers from the logical fallacy of an undistributed middle. The letter of the supplier to the appellants, dated 10.05.2010, is not conclusive of the fact that a standard gear was in place till the inspection nor it is to be construed by any principle of law that a spurious gear was not installed.

Since the HSD vended by the dealer is clearly found to be in short supply and that is an undisputed fact, and since a spurious gear having 39 teeth instead of 38 was also found embedded inside the HSD unit, the conclusion is irresistible in a world governed by physical laws that someone or some agent introduced a non-standard gear into the HSD unit. But from this fact to take a logical leap to infer that it was introduced by the dealer, is irrational. The chain of circumstances is not complete and merely because the dealer alone would stand to benefit from the short supply, no such inference could legitimately be drawn.

It is the admitted position that the supplier of the gears is a private agent. Neither the State nor an instrumentality of the State is the accredited supplying agent of the appellants. There is nothing in the pleadings, including in the counter affidavit of the appellants herein before the learned Single Judge that establishes that the introduction or replacement of the gears is by the respondent dealer."

24. While disposing of the writ appeal, the Division Bench opined that "the conclusion as to the dealer's malfeasance was arrived at by the appellants therein on the singular fact that there was short supply of HSD and on the opening of the seal of the unit after breaking it, the spurious gear was found.? It was further observed that ?the basis of these two facts found is inadequate and is flawed for the reason that the fact that a spurious gear was introduced by the dealer was not legitimately inferred and the fact of the external seals of the unit being intact was not adverted to nor explained in the order of termination."

25. This Court is of the considered view that the above said judgment of the Hon'ble Division Bench applies to the facts of the case in principle and is, therefore, not persuaded to take any different view in the facts and circumstances of the case, wherein no material/evidence was brought on record to the effect that the additional gear was inserted by the dealer with a view to manipulate the delivery of petrol/diesel. It is neither the case of the appellants that unauthorized fittings/additional gears in the dispensing units were inserted by the dealer in collusion with the authorities nor any such allegations were made to that effect. In the absence of which, nothing adverse against the petitioner/dealer can be inferred. This Court is, therefore, inclined to uphold the submissions made by the learned counsel for the respondent and reject the contentions contra of the learned Senior Counsel for the appellant No. 1/Corporation.

26. In Indian Oil Corporation's case relied on by the learned counsel for the appellants, the Hon'ble Supreme Court looking to the facts and circumstances of the case and on perusing the material on record held that acknowledgment of inspection report by putting seal and signature cannot be allowed to be resiled on the ground that the same were signed in good faith and the officials of the Oil Company cannot take advantage of the same. The said Judgment, in the considered view of this Court, is not applicable to the facts of the present case. Signing of the inspection report acknowledging the presence of additional gear would not ipso facto amount to accepting the insertion of the same by the petitioner. The burden lies on the appellants to establish that the same was inserted to manipulate the delivery of the fuel. In the present case, respondent No. 3/the Original authority arrived at the conclusions to the effect that being custodian of the outlet/equipment, the petitioner is responsible for presence of additional/unauthorized gear without adverting to the plea that it is not possible to do so when seals are intact. Even the appellant No. 2/appellate authority based its findings on assumptions and presumptions while opining that termination of the dealership was based on established fact of unauthorized fitting alone and the issue of excess stock of MS and negative stock in HSD is of no further consequence, is not being dealt with. As pointed out by the Division Bench, no finding was recorded as to how a spurious gear can be inserted in the dispensing unit when the seals are intact. It may be pertinent to note here that Clause 8.5.2 of MDG provides as follows:

"All cases of irregularities needs to be established before any action is taken against a dealer."

27. Against the back ground of the above stated factual and legal position, the orders impugned in the writ petition cannot stand to legal scrutiny."

(ii) M/s Prakash Automobiles Indian Oil Dealer Vs. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. Lucknow [Writ-C No.558 of 2020]. Relevant paragraphs 12, 14 to 24, 25, 26, 27, 29 are being quoted below :-

"12. The facts in between the parties is not much in dispute. It is not disputed that on 17.04.2017 a maintenance report was generated by the OEM, a copy of which is on record as Annexure no. 5 which did not find anything suspicious addition or party or fitting in the DUs nor there was any material to indicate that any of the DUs were making short delivery.

14. It is also not disputed that during the inspection on 04.05.2017, the seals placed by the Department of Weights and Measures were found to be intact.

15. It is also not disputed that the petitioner was issued with a show cause notice on 13.06.2017, a copy of which is on record as Annexure 8 WRIT C No. - 558 of 2020 no. 10 and apart from the copy of the inspection report, no other document was annexed with the show cause notice nor any other report was provided to the petitioner which was sought to be relied upon by the respondents while taking a decision.

16. It is also not disputed that the petitioner submitted his reply on 30.06.2017 and it was only in context with the points raised in the show cause notice and by that given time it was only the inspection dated 04.05.2017 which had been provided to the petitioner to respond.

17. Later, the petitioner was required to be present at the Lab of the OEM where the pulsar cards were to be examined and in this regard it was stated that the petitioner was present but in his presence no such inspection was done and on 30.01.2018, the termination order was passed along with which the report dated 26.07.2017 issued by Gilbarco Veeder Root (GVR) was provided to the petitioner. Admittedly, the said report was never provided to the petitioner prior to the passing of the order.

18. It is also not disputed that the petitioner filed an appeal where these issues were raised regarding not providing of the copy of the report which was relied upon by the Authorities while passing the termination order yet it did not find favour with the appellant.

19. Now, in the aforesaid background, the copy of the analysis report dated 26.07.2017 issued by the OEM GVR, a copy of which has been placed on record at running page 204 to 205 of the paper-book, at the outset, would indicate that on visual inspection, it appeared that a replaced micro controller had been placed on the pulsar which could lead to variation in delivery. It also concluded that the said micro controller was not part of the OEM and the same can lead to variation in the delivery.

20. In so far as the other report of the OEM dated 24.11.2017 which is at running page 206 to 212 is concerned, it would reveal that though it observed that there was an alternation/addition in the pulsar card, however, it was further observed that there were some technical aspects i.e. to say an 8 pin SMD IC has been mounted (glued) on the PCB and jumper wires from that IC were connected to pulsar sensors. This was found in two pulsars and for the remaining three pulsars, there was no malfunctions or abnormality detected.

21. It also noticed that all operational pulsar units were checked for accuracy test and it was found to be in permissible limits and finally it concluded that it could not be said whether any abnormality could affect the delivery.

22. In the given fact scenario, what this Court finds that admittedly the seals of the Weights and Measures Department were found to be intact. There was no material to suggest that the petitioner had tampered with the seal or could have tampered with the pulsar cards.

23. In order for the Corporation to have terminated the dealership of the petitioner on the aforesaid ground, it was necessary to have established that the petitioner had tampered with the seals and was responsible for incorporating any additional part which is not part of the OEM in the pulsar cards, coupled with the fact that such anomaly could have affected the delivery.

24. It is also relevant to notice that the only basis for passing the impugned orders is the report by the OEM and as noticed above, the report of the OEM is also inconclusive for the reason the OEM also could not state with certainty that the said alien part as detected in the pulsar card was responsible for any short delivery. The report merely draws a conclusion but it does not indicate how and what tests were done to arrive at such a conclusion, apart from the fact that the said report of the OEM was not even put or given to the petitioner before passing of the impugned order of termination.

25. Learned counsel for the IOC could not dispute that the show cause notice was based merely on the basis of the inspection report and at that point of time, the report of the OEM was not there and the show cause notice also did not indicate that the Corporation would be relying upon the said report and even if they proposed to do so then it was a duty of the Corporation to have provided the copy of the report to the petitioner prior to the passing of the order to enable the petitioner to meet the reasons or contest the same and having not done so it has resulted in deprivation of an opportunity of hearing especially when the proposed action was in the nature of termination which impacted the rights of the petitioner to run the dealership which was a right to do business and earn livelihood.

26. The submission of learned counsel for the respondents Corporation that the additional part was responsible for manipulation in the pulsar card and it was beneficial for the petitioner, hence, it should be held against him, is also misconceived for the reason that the pulsar card could not have been inserted in the DU without the presence of theofficials of the OEM and the representative of the IOC as well as the officials of the Department of Weights and Measures and no such material or evidence was brought on record to indicate the complicity of the petitioner in the said act of manipulation of the pulsar cards.

27. The seals of the Weights and Measures Department was found to be intact and once the position was so obtained then any anomaly or irregularity found in the pulsar card ought to have been explained by the respondent corporation and establish as to what material was available with them which could give rise to a clear finding with sufficient certainty that in a particular manner the dealer could have tampered with the pulsar card which had a direct impact on short delivery of the petrol and this is conspicuously absent. Thus, for the aforesaid reason, this Court is not inclined to accept the submission of the learned counsel for the IOC regarding the involvement of the petitioner in manipulation without any cogent material.

29. Similarly, another coordinate Bench of this Court in R.S. Filling Station Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. Vs. Indian Oil Corporation; 2025:AHC-LKO:19838, after taking note of the relevant clauses of the MDG and taking note of a decision of Andhra Pradesh High Court in Indian Oil Corporation Vs. Pullareddy Service Centre (2021) SCC Online AP 2909 and more specifically paragraphs 18 to 27 and then concluded in paragraph 60 as under:-

"60. In the present case, as expressed above, the orders impugned cannot be sustained for the following reasons:

(i). the clarificatory e-mail, relied upon in the two orders was never supplied to the petitioner and was never made a relied upon document in the show cause notice although the same was available prior to the issuance of the show cause notice as claimed by the respondents;

(ii). the finding recorded by the first authority while considering the report of the OEM Dreser Wayne, as noticed in para 42 above, were without any material either alleged in the show cause notice or made available during the course of the proceedings, the said view appears to be a personal view and is perverse in absence of any material to justify the said view.

(iii). the appellate authority while invoking the 'deeming provisions' in para 5.1.4 of the MDG has taken two diametric views in respect of similar reports submitted by the OEM and the second view taken by the appellate authority in the case of M/s Firozabad Fuels has been accepted by the Corporation and thus, two different views interpreting a similar provision are arbitrary; and

(iv). the Para 5.1.4 of the MDG, is divided into two parts, the first being there being an additional, removal, replacement of manipulation, however the same has to be read in conjunction with the likelihood of manipulating delivery in order to gain undue benefit, to substantiate the second part of clause 5.1.4, no material exists except the clarificatory e-mail which was never made a part of the show cause notice and was never proposed to be relied upon.""

(iii) R.S. Filling Station Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. Kheri Vs. ICOL and others [Writ-C No.4944 of 2023]. Relevant paragraphs 47, 48, 54, 60 are being quoted below :-

"47. It is also essential to notice at this stage that para 5.1.4 of the MDG, prescribes that if any unauthorised fittings etc. are found in the dispensing unit, which are likely to manipulate the delivery, the material should be existent to demonstrate that the irregularities noticed in the pulsar card could have led to manipulation of delivery. To substantiate on the said allegations with regard to second part of para 5.1.4 of the MDG, the Corporation has founded the two impugned orders, based upon the clarificatory e-mail of MIDCO, referred to in the order as well the opinion expressed by the licensing authority while analysing the report of Dresser Wayne, as extracted above. The clarificatory e-mail, even as per the orders impugned, was available with the Corporation before the issuance of the first show cause notice, however, the same was not made a 'relied upon document' or 'document proposed to be relied upon' in the show cause notice, which is evident from the perusal of the show cause notice. At no point, even after remand from the Supreme Court was any fresh show cause notice issued indicating that the respondents were intending to rely upon the said document (clarificatory e-mail) to establish the allegations levelled against the petitioner.

48. The submission of the counsel for the respondents that the clarificatory e-mail was supplied during the appellate proceedings at the first instance and thus, was available, cannot be accepted to be sufficient compliance of principals of natural justice for the sole reason that for a material to be relied upon in the show cause notice and providing the material during the course of the hearing are two different things. When the material proposed to be relied upon, is indicated in the show cause notice, the dealer is confronted and is aware of the materials proposed to be relied upon and thus, would be entitled to challenge the said material including by way of right of cross examination. Making a person aware of the material during the course of the appellate proceedings without there being anything to indicate that the said material is proposed to be relied upon, is clearly in violation of principles of natural justice as, the person against whom the document is relied upon is never given an opportunity to defend the said evidence or to controvert it in any manner. Thus, I have no hesitation in holding that the reliance on the clarificatory e-mail which was available to the corporation even before issuance of the first show cause notice and the same not being made a part of the document relied upon in the show cause notice, has resulted in violation of the principle of natural justice.

54. The next judgment cited is in the case of Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Limited v. Super Highway Services, (2010) 3 SCC 321. In the said case, the Supreme Court had noticed that the cancellation of the dealership agreement of a party is a serious business and cannot be taken lightly. Para 31 to 33 of the Supreme Court judgment is quoted herein below:

"31. The cancellation of dealership agreement of a party is a serious business and cannot be taken lightly. In order to justify the action taken to terminate such an agreement, the authority concerned has to act fairly and in complete adherence to the rules/guidelines framed for the said purpose. The non-service of notice to the aggrieved person before the termination of his dealership agreement also offends the well-established principle that no person should be condemned unheard. It was the duty of the petitioner to ensure that Respondent 1 was given a hearing or at least serious attempts were made to serve him with notice of the proceedings before terminating his agreement.

32. In the instant case, we are inclined to agree with Mr. Bhatt's submissions that the High Court did not commit any error in allowing the writ petition filed by Respondent 1 herein, upon holding that notice of the laboratory test to be conducted at Barauni Terminal had not been served upon Respondent 1, which has caused severe prejudice to the said respondent since its dealership agreement was terminated on the basis of the findings of such test. Admittedly the dealership agreement was terminated on the ground that the product supplied by the petitioner Corporation was contaminated by the respondent. Such contamination was sought to be proved by testing the TT retention sample in the laboratory at Barauni Terminal.

33. The guidelines being followed by the Corporation require that the dealer should be given prior notice regarding the test so that he or his representative also can be present when the test is conducted. The said requirement is in accordance with the principles of natural justice and the need for fairness in the matter of terminating the dealership agreement and it cannot be made an empty formality. Notice should be served on the dealer sufficiently early so as to give him adequate time and opportunity to arrange for his presence during the test and there should be admissible evidence for such service of notice on the dealer. Strict adherence to the above requirement is essential, in view of the possibility of manipulation in the conduct of the test, if it is conducted behind the back of the dealer."

60. In the present case, as expressed above, the orders impugned cannot be sustained for the following reasons:

(i). the clarificatory e-mail, relied upon in the two orders was never supplied to the petitioner and was never made a relied upon document in the show cause notice although the same was available prior to the issuance of the show cause notice as claimed by the respondents;

(ii). the finding recorded by the first authority while considering the report of the OEM Dreser Wayne, as noticed in para 42 above, were without any material either alleged in the show cause notice or made available during the course of the proceedings, the said view appears to be a personal view and is perverse in absence of any material to justify the said view.

(iii). the appellate authority while invoking the 'deeming provisions' in para 5.1.4 of the MDG has taken two diametric views in respect of similar reports submitted by the OEM and the second view taken by the appellate authority in the case of M/s Firozabad Fuels has been accepted by the Corporation and thus, two different views interpreting a similar provision are arbitrary; and

(iv). the Para 5.1.4 of the MDG, is divided into two parts, the first being there being an additional, removal, replacement of manipulation, however the same has to be read in conjunction with the likelihood of manipulating delivery in order to gain undue benefit, to substantiate the second part of clause 5.1.4, no material exists except the clarificatory e-mail which was never made a part of the show cause notice and was never proposed to be relied upon.47. It is also essential to notice at this stage that para 5.1.4 of the MDG, prescribes that if any unauthorised fittings etc. are found in the dispensing unit, which are likely to manipulate the delivery, the material should be existent to demonstrate that the irregularities noticed in the pulsar card could have led to manipulation of delivery. To substantiate on the said allegations with regard to second part of para 5.1.4 of the MDG, the Corporation has founded the two impugned orders, based upon the clarificatory e-mail of MIDCO, referred to in the order as well the opinion expressed by the licensing authority while analysing the report of Dresser Wayne, as extracted above. The clarificatory e-mail, even as per the orders impugned, was available with the Corporation before the issuance of the first show cause notice, however, the same was not made a 'relied upon document' or 'document proposed to be relied upon' in the show cause notice, which is evident from the perusal of the show cause notice. At no point, even after remand from the Supreme Court was any fresh show cause notice issued indicating that the respondents were intending to rely upon the said document (clarificatory e-mail) to establish the allegations levelled against the petitioner."

(iv) Chaudhary Filling Point Vs. State of U.P. [2019 SCC OnLine All 3620]. Relevant paragraphs 13 to 19 are being quoted below :-

"13. It has also been averred in the writ petition that after termination of the dealership, a First Information Report was also lodged on 25.6.2017 bearing case Crime No. 232 of 2017 under Section 419/420/409 IPC read with Section 3 and 7 of the Legal Metrology Act against the petitioner.

14. Counsel for the petitioner has vehemently argued that the impugned order of termination has been passed in blatant disregard of the principles of natural justice and statutory procedure as laid down in the MDG-2012. The entire exercise of termination was a sham transaction as the OEM report dated 10.2.2018 and 30.4.2018 came into existence much after the passing of the order of termination. Moreover, the constitution of Inspection Team for inspecting the RO was not in accordance with the provision of Government Order dated 5.8.2008 read with the Government Order dated 2.5.2017 and as such it has been asserted that the alleged Inspection and the consequential action for cancellation of the applicant's dealership is patently in breach of the aforesaid Government Orders.

15. Pointing out the defect in the termination order, it has been urged that in sheer violation of clause 5.1.4 of MDG, no independent opinion of OEM regarding the alleged extra wire and extra soldering marks in the pulsar card of the Midco and Gilbaro was obtained prior to taking punitive action against the petitioner. Moreover, the allegation of tampering of seal as levelled by the Weight and Measurement Department was not found correct by the competent court as the charges under Section 26 and 44 of the Legal Metrology Act were not found proved and the complaint filed by the Department was rejected by the competent court vide order dated 16.8.2018. The defects/irregularities which have been pointed out by the Counsel for the petitioner can be summarized as under:

1. The allegation of tampering of W & M seal was not made in accordance with Clause 5.1.2(b) of MDG inasmuch as the allegation in the show cause notice did not specifically provide as to under which of the three types of tampering of seal as provided in clause 5.1.2(b) is applicable on the petitioner.

2. Prior to issuance of the termination order of the petitioner's RO independent opinion of the W & M authorities was not taken by IOCL, which is clear violation of clause 5.1.2(B) of the MDG.

3. Similarly, prior to issuance of the termination order of the petitioner's retail out, independent opinion of the OEM as provided in clause 5.1.4 of the MDG was not obtained by the IOCL and the dealership was terminated solely on the basis of the joint inspection report itself.

4. In Clause 8.5.2 of the MDG, it has been provided that "all cases of irregularities need to be established before any action is taken against a dealer", however prior to terminating the petitioner's RO no steps were taken by the IOCL for establishing any irregularity and merely on the basis of the inspection report dated 2.6.2017, the exercise of termination was undertaken.

5. The IOCL authorities, did not provide any ?pre decisional hearing? to the petitioner, which is mandated in clause 8.6 of the MDG and stipulates that in case of critical irregularities leading to termination, like that of seal tampering, the Head of the State Office/Regional Office/Zonal Office of the concerned OMC or their nominee before recommending/approving the termination of Dealership will provide a personal hearing to the signatories of the dealership or their nominees.

16. Thus, it is crystal clear that the IOCL authorities have disregarded and blatantly violated the mandatory procedure prescribed in the MDG and the appellate authority before whom all these pleas were raised has also rejected the appeal in a cursory manner without appreciating all these aspects of the matter in its correct prospective, has not applied its independent mind and upheld the order of termination in a cursory manner.

17. Refuting the assertion of the petitioner, learned Counsel for the Indian Oil Corporation submitted that on 2.6.2017 when the inspection team checked the retail outlet of the petitioner, several irregularities were found for which a fact finding letter dated 3.6.2017 was issued to the petitioner together with the Inspection note to which no reply was tendered and as such a show cause notice dated 20.6.2017 was issued to show cause why his retail outlet dealership may not be terminated. The petitioner responded to the said show cause notice by tendering reply on 3.7.2017 which was duly considered by the competent authority, who did not find the reply submitted by the petitioner to be satisfactory with regard to breaking/tamper of W & M seal of meter assembly, which is a serious irregularity. Thus, the petitioner/retailer committed breach of clause 5.1.2(b) and clause 15, 16, 19 & 44 read with clause 58 of dealership agreement and as the reply was not found satisfactory, the impugned order of termination was passed.

18. It has been urged that the pleas which have been raised by the petitioner have been considered by the appellate authority, who after considering the evidences has come to the conclusion that the termination of the dealership is in accordance with the provisions of MDG-2012 and clauses of dealership agreement. It has also been added that the appeal was decided after giving opportunity of hearing. Therefore, there is no illegality or irregularity in the impugned orders and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

19. First of all, we would like to mention that the very purpose of enacting Marketing Discipline Guidelines was to maintain discipline in the operation of retail network and provide high customer service standards. For the First time, the Marketing Discipline Guidelines (MDG) were formulated in the 1981-82. Recently, when the Government as well as Industry felt the need to review the MDG in view of the changing circumstances and market scenario, Marketing Discipline Guidelines-2012 were introduced."

(v) M/s M.K. Fuel Centre Vs. IOCL and others [Writ-C No.31629 of 2021]. Relevant paragraphs 23 to 29, 31, 33 and 35 are being quoted below :-

"23. The order of termination has also been attacked with vehemence on the ground of not affording opportunity of oral hearing before passing the said order. There is no denial of the said fact by the IOCL. It is settled principle of law that any order, which entails civil consequences, must be in conformity with the principles of natural justice. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in D.K. Yadav v. J.M.A. Industries Ltd.11 has held that an order involving civil consequences must be made consistently with the rules of natural justice. Clause 8.6 of the MDG-2012 provides in clear words that in case of critical irregularities leading to termination, like that of seal tampering, the Head of the State Office/Regional Office/Zonal Office of the Oil Manufacturing Company concerned or their nominee before recommending/approving the termination of dealership will provide personal hearing to the signatories of dealership or their nominee. Principles of natural justice require that a person must be allowed an adequate opportunity to present their case where certain interests and rights may be adversely affected by such a decision.

24. Thus, there is clear non-compliance of Clause 8.6 of the MDG by the respondent Authorities. Moreover, the respondents have failed to show any rule or regulation to demonstrate that when the dealership is terminated as per terms and conditions of the agreement, provisions of the MDG would not be applicable. The MDG has been enacted for such dealership agreements as the one involved in the instant case and therefore, we are of the view that these guidelines need to be strictly construed by both the parties. Further, any dealership agreement cancelled by the respondent Corporation cannot be effected on the basis of dealership agreement itself as the MDG have to be followed while taking recourse to such action. The respondent Corporation cannot act arbitrarily at its own sweet will like a private individual and deal with any person it pleases, but rather its action must be in conformity with standards or norms, which are not irrational or irrelevant. Therefore, respondents cannot be exempted from the application of MDG merely by following the dealership agreement.

25. It may be observed here that the respondent Corporation has departed from the standard norms laid down in the Marketing Discipline Guidelines and the standard norms of natural justice and fair play and such departure was clearly unreasonable and discriminatory. It may be noted that the manufacturer of the unit calibrates the equipment ensuring proper delivery of the product and the relevant part of the machinery is sealed by the Department concerned after verification of the accuracy. The very purpose of sealing of the equipment by the department is to ensure that the dealer does not tamper with the same. As seen from the reading of the impugned order, the only reason assigned for being not satisfied with the explanation offered by the petitioner was that there was manipulation in the software of the dispensing unit at the RO with an intention to manipulate the delivery of the fuel. However, what was not considered by the competent authority was that at what point of time this unauthorised tampering/soldering was done in the dispensing unit and how the dealer is manipulating the distribution of fuel. No material, much less credible one has been brought on record by the respondents to disclose the unauthorised access to the equipment by the petitioner.

26. It was specific stand of the petitioner that periodically the Weights and Measurements Department officials inspected the seals and they were found to be intact. Further more, what is the impact of tampering/manipulating the software of the dispensing unit is not disclosed by the respondent. How the dealer can manipulate delivery of fuel by inserting such unit is also not explained. The only objective of a dealer to tamper with dispensing unit is to manipulate delivery of fuel. In this case, the delivery of fuel was found to be accurate prior to checking of unit and after the checking. Merely on assumptions, that the tampering/manipulating the software of the dispensing unit was found, the petitioner dealer cannot be visited with severe consequence of termination of dealership. Thus, the action of the respondent Corporation, in the facts of this case, in terminating the dealership of the petitioner on the sole ground that manipulation of the software was found in the dispensing unit is illegal, unreasonable and excessive.

27. Another point, which has been canvassed by the petitioner, is that a perusal of the show-cause notice dated 4-1-2021 would indicate that the basis for the entire proceedings initiated against the petitioner is the inspection note dated 16-7-2020 and there was no other material before the competent authority to proceed against the petitioner. He had submitted that the inspection report dated 16-7-2020 has been made a sole basis of passing the impugned termination order, which was in fact no ?actionable evidence?, since the allegations contained therein were mere suspicions raised by the authorities and has not been verified by the experts before the impugned termination order was passed.

28. A perusal of the show-cause notice would indicate that the petitioner was asked to reply to the allegations regarding the tampering with the dispensing unit for manipulating the delivery. The inspection report itself could not be taken as to make any short selling of fuel by the petitioner. The inspection report could not have been made a basis for initiating proceedings against the petitioner, inasmuch as from the said report it could not have been concluded that the petitioner was involved in any action, which could be said to be infringement of the guidelines with regard to the tampering of the machines and short selling of the fuel.

29. Identical issue came up for consideration before High Court of Chhattisgarh in case of Mahamaya Service Centre v. Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd.12, wherein Chhattisgarh High Court held that provisions of Clause 8 of the Order, 2005 read with MDG, 2005 have not been complied with, thus, the respondents cannot claim any sanctity in law and the court is well within its jurisdiction to declare such an act illegal and invalid. Chhattisgarh High Court also observed as under:

"26. It is a duty cast on the authorities of the State and the instrumentalities of the State that they should follow the proper procedure prescribed in the rules and regulations. The contravention of the same cannot be permitted. It is uncontroverted legal position that where a statute requires to do a certain thing in a certain way, the thing must be done in that way or not at all."

31. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hindustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd. v. Super Highway Services9, has considered the similar issue of termination of dealership in the similar set of facts and circumstances, wherein the Supreme Court has held as under : (SCC pp. 328-329, paras 28-36)

"16. Having carefully considered the submissions made on behalf of the respective parties and also having considered the various decisions referred to by learned counsel, we are of the view that the case made out on behalf of Respondent 1 is more probable. Although, the transporter's representative was present at the terminal at the stipulated time on 29-5-2008, that by itself cannot give rise to a presumption that service had been effected also on Respondent 1, in the absence of any proof in that regard. Except for the endorsement on the handwritten notice said to have been given by Mr Dash, there is nothing else on record to even suggest that notice had been sent to Respondent 1 and that the same had been refused. It is also rather difficult to accept that in respect of a test to be conducted on 29-5-2008, at 3.00 p.m., an attempt was made to serve the said notice on the representative of Respondent 1 on the date of the proposed test itself. Although, the notice is dated 28-5-2008, the endorsement alleged to have been made by the representative of Respondent 1 is dated 29-5-2008, and we would be justified in assuming that Respondent 1 could not have arranged for being represented at the laboratory in the Barauni Terminal of the petitioner Corporation on such short notice. Nothing has been shown by the petitioner to disprove the allegation made on behalf of Respondent 1 that the notice alleged to have been tendered to the representative of Respondent 1 was not in the manner and the form in which such notice is required to be given to a dealer. It is obvious that the same had been made out in haste to indicate that service had been attempted on Respondent 1.

17. The cancellation of dealership agreement of a party is a serious business and cannot be taken lightly. In order to justify the action taken to terminate such an agreement, the authority concerned has to act fairly and in complete adherence to the Rules/Guidelines framed for the said purpose. The non-service of notice to the aggrieved person before termination of his dealership agreement also offends the well-established principle that no person should be condemned unheard. It was the duty of the petitioner to ensure that Respondent 1 was given a hearing or at least serious attempts were made to serve him with notice of the proceedings before terminating his agreement.

18. In the instant case, we are inclined to agree with Mr Bhatt's submissions that the High Court did not commit any error in allowing the writ petition filed by Respondent 1 herein, upon holding that notice of the laboratory test to be conducted at the Barauni Terminal had not been served upon Respondent 1, which has caused severe prejudice to the said respondent since its dealership agreement was terminated on the basis of the findings of such test. Admittedly the dealership agreement was terminated on the ground that the product supplied by the petitioner Corporation was contaminated by the respondent. Such contamination was sought to be proved by testing the TT retention sample in the laboratory at Barauni Terminal. The guidelines being followed by the corporation require that the dealer should be given prior notice regarding the test so that he or his representative also can be present when the test is conducted. The said requirement is in accordance with the principles of natural justice and the need for fairness in the matter of terminating the dealership agreement and it cannot be made an empty formality. Notice should be served on the dealer sufficiently early so as to give him adequate time and opportunity to arrange for his presence during the test and there should be admissible evidence for such service of notice on the dealer. Strict adherence to the above requirement is essential, in view of the possibility of manipulation in the conduct of the test, if it is conducted behind the back of the dealer. In the present case, there is no admissible evidence to prove service of notice on the respondent or refusal of notice by the respondent. Further, the notice dated 28-5-2008 which was allegedly refused by respondent, did not give him adequate time to arrange for the presence of himself or his representative during the test to be conducted at 3.00 p.m. on 29-5-2008. It is also to be noted that the endorsement regarding the alleged refusal is dated 29-5-2008 itself. Thus, the termination of the dealership agreement of the respondent was arbitrary, illegal and in violation of the principles of natural justice.

19. Although, Clause 68 of the Dealership Agreement refers to arbitration, it is unfortunate that the said question was not raised before the High Court. It is now too late in the day for the petitioner Corporation to contend that in view of Clause 68 of the Dealership Agreement, Respondent 1 was not entitled to seek its remedy before the writ court. In any event, by filing appeal against the order of the learned Single Judge, the petitioner herein also submitted to the jurisdiction of the writ court, without objecting to the same.

20. In the aforesaid circumstances, we are not inclined to admit the special leave petition, which is, accordingly, dismissed, without, however, any order as to costs."

33. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Allied Motors Ltd. v. Bharat Petroleum Corpn. Ltd.5 while dealing with a similar matter, wherein the Marketing Discipline Guidelines were not followed and termination was held to be illegal, held as under :

"In the instant case, samples were taken on 15-5-2000. On the very next day i.e. on 16-5-2000, without even giving a show-cause notice and/or giving an opportunity of hearing, the respondent Corporation terminated the dealership of the appellant. The appellant had been operating the petrol pump for the respondent for the last 30 years and was given 10 awards declaring its dealership as the best petrol pump in the entire State of NCT of Delhi. During this period, on a number of occasions, samples were tested by the respondent and were found to be as per specifications.

In the instant case, the haste in which 30 years old dealership was terminated even without giving show-cause notice and/or giving an opportunity of hearing clearly indicates that the entire exercise was carried out by the respondent Corporation non-existent, irrelevant and on extraneous considerations. There has been a total violation of the provisions of law and the principles of natural justice. Samples were collected in complete violation of the procedural laws and in non-adherence of the guidelines of the respondent Corporation.

On consideration of the totality of the facts and circumstances of this case, it becomes imperative in the interest of justice to quash and set aside the termination order of the dealership. We, accordingly, quash the same. Consequently, we direct the respondent Corporation to handover the possession of the petrol pump and restore the dealership of petrol pump to the appellant within three months from the date of this judgment.

The appeal is consequently allowed with costs which is quantified at Rs 1,00,000 (Rupees one lakh only) to be paid by the respondent-Corporation to the appellant within four weeks from today."

35. In Chaudhary Filling Point case6 it has been held by this Court as under:

"As regard the arbitration, it has rightly been asserted that the arbitrator has no power to restore the distributorship, in the event the termination is found unlawful. The Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd. v. Amritsar Gas Service17; E. Venkatakrishna v. Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd.18 and Sanjana M. Wig v. Hinsustan Petroleum Corpn. Ltd.19 has held in explicit words that an arbitration forum does not have the jurisdiction for the restoration of dealership, which was earlier terminated. All that the arbitrator could do, if he found that the termination of the distributorship was unlawful, was to award damages, as any civil court would have done in a suit. In Navin Filling Station v. Indian Oil Corpn. Ltd.20, this Court observed as under:

"The presence of the arbitration clause, is not to drive away a genuine grievance arising out of disproportionate action of the corporation, to the Arbitral Tribunal which in any case will not have the authority to give an award to restore the dealership. In the present case the Indian Oil Corporation terminated the agreement relying upon the clauses, which were not attracted and on the Marketing Discipline Guidelines framed for facilitating the marketing of the petroleum products on the principles of good governance and excellent customary service. The preamble to the guidelines itself provide that the guidelines need to be constantly updated to meet the customer satisfaction and to the discipline dealership network and for preventing malpractices in the sale of petroleum products."

In these circumstances, we find force in the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner that arbitration between the parties is not an efficacious and proper remedy in such cases"

18. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submits that the impugned orders are just and valid and they do not require interference by this Court, thus, he submits that the writ petition may be dismissed. He placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. & another Vs. T. Natarajan [Civil Appeal No.6748 of 2018]. Relevant paragraph(s) is/ are being quoted below :-

"In our opinion, the writ court (Single Judge) was, therefore, justified in dismissing the respondent's writ petition and upholding the rejection on the ground that the High Court cannot interfere in the administrative decision of IOC and nor can it substitute its decision by acting as an appellate court over such decision in exercise of writ jurisdiction. It is more so when such decision is based on reasons involving no arbitrariness of any nature therein which may call for any interference by the High Court."

(ii) M/s Maharashi Filling Station (Indian Oil Dealer) Vs. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd and another [Writ-C No.20271 of 2018]. Relevant paragraph(s) is/ are being quoted below :-

"19. The competent authority of the Indian Oil Corporation considered the reply of the show cause notice submitted by the petitioner and passed the impugned order dated 29.7.2017 wherein finding has been recorded that Midco Engineer was present at the time of inspection on 6.5.2017 and he has submitted his report that additional fitting was found in the dispensing unit at the retail outlet dealership of the petitioner therefore, there is no need for any subsequent report. Since any additional fitting inside the dispensing unit is in violation of the provisions made in the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 and also is in violation of the provisions of the dealership agreement accordingly, petitioner's retail outlet dealership and dealership agreement have been terminated."

(iii) M/s Kisan Sewa Kendra Vs. Union of India and others [Writ-C No.32973 of 2018]. Relevant paragraph(s) is/ are being quoted below :-

"20. In view of the aforesaid test report, it is evident that the pulsar assemblies that were obtained from the dealership from the four dispensing units, were reflected as tampered with in the test reports by the OEM, which, as per clause 5.1.4 of the Guidelines would be deemed as tampering of the dispensing unit, and thus the same would be covered under the definition ?malpractices? as defined in the Order, 2005. The aspect of tampering of pulsar assemblies would definitely be violation of directive of the respondent Oil Corporation as provided in its guideline and, therefore, it would come within the ambit of 'unauthorized sale' as defined in the Order, 2005."

(iv) M/s Shree Rajendra Agro Service Centre Vs. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. and others [High Court of Judicature for Rajasthan at Jodhpur (Writ No.456/2023)]. Relevant paragraph(s) is/ are being quoted below :-

"18. Having regard to Clause 5.1.4 of the Guidelines of 2012, this Court is of the opinion that the term mentioned in the aforesaid Clause i.e. manipulation in the tempering Dispensing Unit is wide enough and action on the part of the dealer of disconnecting the original E-Cal connector of the Dispensing Unit very well comes within the definition of tempering with the Dispensing Unit."

(v) State of U.P. and others Vs. Rajit Singh [Civil Appeal Nos.2049-2050 of 2022]. Relevant paragraph(s) is/ are being quoted below :-

"It appears from the order passed by the Tribunal that the Tribunal also observed that the enquiry proceedings were against the principles of natural justice inasmuch as the documents mentioned in the charge-sheet were not at all supplied to the delinquent officer. As per the settled proposition of law, in a case where it is found that the enquiry is not conducted properly and/or the same is in violation of the principles of natural justice, in that case, the Court cannot reinstate the employee as such and the matter is to be remanded to the enquiry officer/disciplinary authority to proceed further with the enquiry from the stage of violation of principles of natural justice is noticed and the enquiry has to be proceeded further after furnishing the necessary documents mentioned in the charge-sheet, which are alleged to have not been given to the delinquent officer in the instant case. In the case of Chairman, Life Insurance Corporation of India Vs. A. Masilamani (2013) 6 SCC 530, which was also pressed into service on behalf of the appellants before the High Court, it is observed in para 16 as under :

"16. It is a settled legal proposition, that once the court sets aside an order of punishment, on the ground that the enquiry was not properly conducted, the court cannot reinstate the employee. It must remit the case concerned to the disciplinary authority for it to conduct the enquiry from the point that it stood vitiated, and conclude the same. (Vide ECIL v. B. Karunakar [ECIL v. B. Karunakar, (1993) 4 SCC 727 : 1993 SCC (L&S) 1184] , Hiran Mayee Bhattacharyya v. S.M. School for Girls [Hiran Mayee Bhattacharyya v. S.M. School for Girls, (2002) 10 SCC 293 : 2003 SCC (L&S) 1033] , U.P. State Spg. Co. Ltd. v. R.S. Pandey [U.P. State Spg. Co. Ltd. v. R.S. Pandey, (2005) 8 SCC 264 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 78] and Union of India v. Y.S. Sadhu [Union of India v. Y.S. Sadhu, (2008) 12 SCC 30])"

9. From the impugned judgment and order passed by the High Court, it appears that when the aforesaid submission and the aforesaid decision was pressed into service, the High Court has not considered the same on the ground that the other officers involved in respect of the same incident are exonerated and/or no action is taken against them. Applying the law laid down in A. Masilamani [LIC v. A. Masilamani, (2013) 6 SCC 530 : (2013) 2 SCC (L&S) 608] to the facts of the case on hand, we are of the opinion that the Tribunal as well as the High Court ought to have remanded the matter to the disciplinary authority to conduct the enquiry from the stage it stood vitiated. Therefore, the order passed by the High Court in not allowing further proceedings from the stage it stood vitiated i.e. after the issuance of the charge-sheet, is unsustainable."

19. After having heard the rival submission of learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record as well as the judgments relied upon by the parties.

20. From the pleadings on record, the primary allegation against the petitioner relates to the alleged presence of an additional wire and tampered pulsar in the dispensing units at the petitioner's retail outlet, which according to the respondent-Corporation amounted to violation of Clause 5.1.4 of the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 (MDG-2012). It is not in dispute that during the inspection carried out on 1.5.2017, the seals of the Weights and Measures Department on the dispensing units were found intact and the inspection team did not find any discrepancy in the quantity of petroleum products being delivered through the nozzles. The controversy thus essentially revolves around whether the presence of the alleged additional fitting inside the dispensing unit, in absence of any evidence of tampering of seals or short delivery of fuel, could justify the extreme penalty of termination of the dealership.

21. Another aspect which assumes significance in the present case is that the termination order dated 30.1.2018 was passed primarily relying upon the reports of the Original Equipment Manufacturers (OEM), namely Midco and Dresser Wayne. The material on record indicates that the report of Midco was enclosed along with the termination order and the report of Dresser Wayne was supplied to the petitioner only during the pendency of the appeal before the Dispute Resolution Panel in the year 2019. Admittedly, these reports were not supplied to the petitioner prior to the issuance of the show cause notice or before passing of the termination order.

22. Learned counsel for the petitioner has vehemently contended that non-supply of the OEM reports prior to passing of the termination order has resulted in denial of adequate opportunity to the petitioner to rebut the allegations levelled against him. In this regard, reliance has been placed upon the judgments in Indian Oil Corporation Limited vs. Pullareddy Service Centre (2021 SCC OnLine AP 2909), M/s Prakash Automobiles Indian Oil Dealer vs. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd., and R.S. Filling Station vs. IOCL, wherein it has been held that where the termination of dealership is based upon technical reports or materials which were not supplied to the dealer at the stage of show cause notice, such action is violative of the principles of natural justice.

23. In M/s Prakash Automobiles (supra), this Court observed that where the OEM report forms the sole basis of termination and the said report was never supplied to the dealer prior to passing of the termination order, the action of the Corporation would suffer from violation of principles of natural justice. The Court further held that when the seals of the Weights and Measures Department are found intact and no material is brought on record to demonstrate how the dealer could have accessed the internal mechanism of the dispensing unit, the inference that the dealer himself introduced the additional fitting cannot be sustained.

24. Similarly, in Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. vs. Pullareddy Service Centre (supra), the Andhra Pradesh High Court held that merely because an additional gear or fitting is found in the dispensing unit, it cannot automatically lead to the conclusion that the dealer is responsible for the same, particularly when the seals of the unit are intact and there is no evidence that the dealer had access to the internal mechanism of the machine.

25. The same principle has also been reiterated by this Court in R.S. Filling Station vs. IOCL, wherein it was held that any material sought to be relied upon against the dealer must be made part of the show cause notice so that the dealer may effectively defend himself. Supplying such material at the appellate stage cannot cure the defect as it deprives the dealer of an opportunity to rebut the evidence at the appropriate stage.

26. In the present case, it is evident from the record that the show cause notice dated 7.7.2017 was issued only on the basis of the inspection report dated 1.5.2017. The reports of the OEMs, which subsequently formed the foundation of the termination order, were neither referred to in the show cause notice nor supplied to the petitioner before passing of the order dated 30.1.2018. Therefore, the petitioner had no opportunity to contest the conclusions drawn in those reports.

27. Another circumstance which cannot be ignored is that during inspection the seals of the Weights and Measures Department were found intact and there was no allegation of short delivery of fuel. In the absence of any material to establish that the petitioner had access to the internal mechanism of the dispensing unit or had tampered with the seals, the mere presence of an additional wire inside the pulsar card cannot automatically lead to the conclusion that the petitioner was responsible for the alleged manipulation.

28. The submission of the petitioner that the testing of the pulsar was not carried out in accordance with the procedure prescribed under the Legal Metrology (General) Rules, 2011 also finds support from the letter issued by the Deputy Controller, Legal Metrology, Haryana and the communication from the Forensic Science Laboratory, which indicate that such components are required to be tested in operational mode with power supply. In the present case, the report of Midco indicates that the examination was carried out merely through visual inspection without providing power to the device.

29. Learned counsel for the respondents has relied upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. vs. T. Natarajan to contend that the writ court should not interfere with administrative decisions of the Corporation unless the same are arbitrary or perverse. There can be no dispute regarding the said proposition of law. However, the said judgment is distinguishable on facts as in the present case the termination order is found to be based upon materials which were not supplied to the petitioner prior to the passing of the order and thus the decision-making process itself stands vitiated.

30. The reliance placed by the respondents upon the judgment in M/s Kisan Sewa Kendra vs. Union of India is also of no assistance to them in the present case. In that case, the OEM reports had clearly established tampering with the pulsar assemblies and the same had been made part of the proceedings. In contrast, in the present case the reports relied upon by the respondents were neither supplied to the petitioner prior to the passing of the termination order nor do they conclusively establish that the alleged additional fitting had resulted in manipulation of delivery.

31. It is well settled that termination of a petroleum dealership has serious civil and financial consequences. The Supreme Court in Hindustan Petroleum Corporation Ltd. vs. Super Highway Services has emphasized that such action must strictly comply with the procedure prescribed in the applicable guidelines and the principles of natural justice.

32. In the present case, the material on record clearly indicates that the termination order has been passed in breach of the procedural safeguards contained in the Marketing Discipline Guidelines, 2012 as well as the principles of natural justice, inasmuch as the petitioner was not supplied with the OEM reports forming the basis of the impugned action prior to passing of the termination order.

33. Consequently, the appellate authority, while dismissing the petitioner's appeal by order dated 23.5.2019, also failed to consider the aforesaid procedural infirmities and merely affirmed the decision of the original authority without independently examining whether the allegations against the petitioner had been established in accordance with law.

34. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned orders dated 30.1.2018 passed by respondent No.2 and 23.5.2019 passed by the Dispute Resolution Panel cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. Accordingly, the writ petition deserves to be allowed.

35. The impugned order dated 30.1.2018 terminating the petitioner's retail outlet dealership agreement as well as the appellate order dated 23.5.2019 passed by the Dispute Resolution Panel are hereby quashed. The respondents are directed to permit the petitioner to continue to operate the retail outlet in accordance with law and strictly in terms of the dealership agreement, subject to compliance of all applicable conditions.

36. However, it is left open to the competent authority of the respondent-Corporation to proceed afresh from the stage of issuance of show cause notice, after supplying to the petitioner all documents proposed to be relied upon, including the reports of the Original Equipment Manufacturers. In case show cause notice is issued in accordance with law, necessary order in accordance with law shall be passed after affording fullest opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

37. The aforesaid exercise shall be completed expeditiously, preferably within a period of four months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the concerned authority.

38. The writ petition is accordingly allowed. No order as to costs.

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether the Prescribed Authority has to act in accordance with the majority opinion of the Members of the concerned Gram Panchayat while nominating the officiating Pradhan?

Headnotes

A. Panchayat Election Law – U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947: Section 12-J - The Prescribed Authority has to act in accordance with the majority opinion of the Members of the concerned Gram Panchayat while nominating the officiating Pradhan. The law laid down is in consonance with the spirit of the provisions of Chapter IX inserted in our Constitution by the Constitution (Seventy third) Amendment Act 1992 which provides for constitution of Panchayats at the village, empowering the villagers to manage their affairs at the local level themselves. (Para 9, 10)

B. The requirement of consultation with the members cannot be said to be contrary to the intent of the legislature or adding words which have not been provided by the Statute. The office of Pradhan of a village is filled in by elections. The legislature, aware of this position, has made a specific provision under the Act, conferring powers on the Prescribed Authority to nominate a member to discharge the duties and exercise the powers of Pradhan until the vacancy of the office of Pradhan is filled in. This exercise is for the purpose of seeing that the functions of the Panchayat proceed smoothly and that there is no vacancy in the post till the vacancy is filled, as the Panchayat constitutes the basic unit of our democratic structure. Those in majority, shall have their nominee elected as an elected Pradhan should have the confidence of the members. (Para 11)

C. Longstanding precedents should not ordinarily be interfered with. Even the Hon'ble Supreme Court does not ordinarily interfere with the long standing precedents of High Courts regarding State legislations. (Para 16 to 18)

D. The rule of reservation has to be applied even while making nomination of a member of a village Panchayat u/s 12-J of the U. P. Panchayat Raj Act to perform the duties of a Pradhan against a casual vacancy of Pradhan. (Para 21)

It is apparent that the arrangement made for filling up temporary vacancy in the office of Pradhan which may cause, because of certain factors including removal of Pradhan would not mean that the office of Pradhan is filled up by a person or member or Up-Pradhan who is otherwise not eligible or was not eligible to contest for the seat of Pradhan in a particular reserved constituency. This being only a simple arrangement during a temporary vacancy, no exception of the same can be taken and it cannot be read in derogation with the provisions regarding reservation made under the Act and prescribed under the Rules. (Para 20)

The impugned order dated 26.06.2025, passed by the District Panchayat Raj Officer, Sitapur, whereby the District Panchayat Raj Officer has nominated the opposite party No. 4 to perform the duties of Gram Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, Sikauha, Development Block Reusa, District Sitapur until further orders, or until a Pradhan is appointed, is unsustainable in law and the same is quashed. The District Magistrate/District Panchayat Raj Officer, Sitapur is directed to make a fresh appointment of officiating Pradhan, keeping in view the observations made in this judgment. (Para 22)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Prabhat Kumar, Lalla Ji Maurya
For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Narsingh, Satish Kumar Sharma

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prabhat Kumar Advocate, the learned counsel for the petitioner, and Shri Rahul Shukla, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State of U.P. and Sri. Anurag Shukla Senior Advocate assisted by Sri. Aman Dwivedi Advocate, the learned Counsel for the opposite party no. 4.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, the petitioner has challenged the validity of an order dated 26.06.2025, passed by the District Panchayat Raj Officer, Sitapur, whereby the District Panchayat Raj Officer has nominated the opposite party No. 4 to perform the duties of Gram Pradhan of Gram Panchayat, Sikauha, Development Block Reusa, District Sitapur until further orders, or until a Pradhan is appointed, as the post had fallen vacant consequent to the death of the Village Pradhan Ori Lal on 06.06.2025.

3. The learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the post of Gram Pradhan in question is reserved for persons belonging to the Other Backward Class Category whereas the opposite party No. 4 is not a person belonging to that category. The petitioner is a member of the Gram Panchayat and he belongs to the Other Backward Class Category, and he ought to have been nominated as the officiating Gram Pradhan.

4. The learned counsel for the petitioner has next submitted that the appointment has been made without obtaining the consent of members of the Panchayat. In this regard, he has relied on a judgment dated 19.05.2017 passed by a Coordinate Bench of this court in the case of Savitri Devi v. State of U.P. and 4 others: 2017:AHC:70818, wherein this court has held that it is imperative for the District Magistrate to seek opinion of the members of the Gram Panchayat before taking a final decision for nomination of a suitable member to officiate as Gram Pradhan until the vacancy is filled up by a regular election.

5. Shri S.K. Khare, the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel has opposed the writ petition on the basis of written instructions dated 24.09.2025 and he has submitted that Section 12-J of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, does not provide that the provision for reservation will be observed even while appointing an officiating Pradhan. Shri Khare has also received supplementary instructions dated 06.10.2025, informing that prior to making the appointment of opposite party No. 4 as officiating Pradhan, the consent of the Village Panchayat Members had not been obtained.
