Issue for Consideration

(1) Permissibility of claiming the salary for unauthorized absence on the ground that there is no provision of leave without pay under the Rule 73 of Fundamental Rules.
(2) Application of the Rule 73 of Fundamental Rules.
(3) Application of doctrine of approbate and reprobate.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Salary – Unauthorized absent – Leave without pay – Alongwith leave without pay, the benefit of voluntary retirement was also granted – Sanction of leave without payment was challenged claiming the salary for the period of absent on the ground that there is no provision of leave without pay under Rule 73 – Permissibility – No disciplinary proceeding was initiated for unauthorized absent – Effect – Claim was rejected – Application of Rule 73 felt into consideration – Application of doctrine of approbate and reprobate also felt into consideration .

Held : Fundamental Rule 73 is attracted in cases where a Government servant remains absent after the end of his leave. However, in the present case, we find that the petitioner was not on leave prior to his absence for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016. Thus, Fundamental Rule 73 would not apply in the case of the petitioner and the leave has been sanctioned to him for the purpose of regularizing his services so as to entitle him to voluntary retirement as sought by him by his letter dated 16.02.2015. [Para 13]

Further held : The conduct of the petitioner amounts to availing the benefit of voluntary retirement arising out of the same set of facts, while simultaneously challenging the denial of salary for the period of absence. Such conduct cannot be appreciated and is hit by the doctrine of approbate and reprobate – The petitioner cannot be allowed to claim the benefit of voluntary retirement on one hand and on the other hand challenge the denial of salary for the period of his unauthorized absence from duty as it would not have been possible to grant him voluntary retirement without regularization of his unauthorized absence from duty by sanctioning of leave. Case Arising From Judgment and order dated 07.03.2019 passed by U.P. State Public Service Tribunal, Lucknow in Claim Petition No. 299 of 2016.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Petitioner (In Person), Amit Kumar Srivastava, Ashish Srivastava, Ishan Khanna, Shambhoo Sharan Lal Srivastava, Vaishnavi Srivastava.
Advs. for the Respondents : Akhilesh Srivastava, S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vijay Singh, petitioner appearing in person and Shri Akhilesh Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel representing the State respondents.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed seeking quashing of the judgment and order dated 07.03.2019 passed by learned U.P. State Public Service Tribunal, Indira Bhawan, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as Tribunal) in Claim Petition No.299 of 2016 (Vijay Singh vs. State of U.P. and others) as well as for quashing of the orders dated 29.01.2016 passed by Executive Engineer, Irrigation, Construction Division, Firozabad, Headquarter Shikohabad, to the extent whereby the petitioner has been sanctioned leave without pay for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and for the period 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016. Further relief has been sought for issuance of a direction to the respondents to pay him salary for the aforesaid period.

3. The brief facts of the case as canvassed by the petitioner are that he was initially appointed on the post of Gaze Reader on 28.08.1989 in work-charged establishment and was posted in the Investigation and Planning (Water Resources) Division, Lucknow. Subsequently, he was appointed as Seenchpal and was posted at Bhoganipur Division, Lower Ganga Canal, Etawah vide office memo dated 24.04.1999 issued by the Superintendent Engineer, Irrigation Works Circle, Etawah. The State Government vide order dated 14.10.2014 merged the Sub-Division Shikohabad under Bhoganipur Division, Lower Ganga Canal, Etawah with Irrigation Construction Division, Firozabad at Shikohabad and a consequential order to that extent was also passed by the Engineer-in-Chief, Irrigation, U.P., Lucknow on 31.10.2014. As a result of the aforesaid merger, the petitioner was required to work at Shikohabad and was liable to be transferred thereto. Owing to some physical problem, he was unable to discharge duties on the post of Seenchpal and, therefore, submitted an application dated 16.02.2015 seeking for alternative work and, in case of any legal impediment, requested that he be granted voluntary retirement under Rule 56(c) of the Fundamental Rules contained in Financial Handbook Volume 2, Part II to IV. The petitioner, thereafter submitting a reminder letter dated 16.05.2015 and subsequently filed Claim Petition No.2067 of 2015 before the U.P. State Public Services Tribunal against the inaction of the department in not considering his representation. The said claim petition was disposed of by the Tribunal vide judgment and order dated 04.12.2015 directing the authorities to decide the representation dated 16.02.2015 of the petitioner.

4. In compliance of the order dated 04.12.2015 passed by the Tribunal, the Executive Engineer, Irrigation, Construction Division, Firozabad, Headquarter Shikohabad issued Office Memo No.01/2016 vide letter No.100/सिं०नि०ख०फि०सु०शि०/dated 29.01.2016, whereby his absence from duty for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 was sanctioned as leave without pay under Fundamental Rule 73 contained in Financial Handbook Volume 2, Parts II to IV. By another O.M. No.2/2016 dated 29.01.2016, petitioner was granted voluntary retirement under Rule 56(c) of U.P. Fundamental Rule with effect from 29.01.2016. The date of voluntary retirement was further modified vide another Office Memo No.151 dated 09.02.2016 providing that the voluntary retirement of the petitioner would take effect from the afternoon of 31.01.2016 instead of 29.01.2016. The petitioner, being aggrieved by the sanction of leave without pay for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 filed Claim Petition No.299 of 2016 (Vijay Singh vs. State of U.P. and others), which was dismissed by the learned Tribunal vide judgment and order dated 07.03.2019, which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

5. The petitioner has challenged part of the orders dated 29.01.2016 to the extent of denial of salary for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 and has alleged violation of Fundamental Rules 56 as well as Rule 73, submitting that Fundamental Rules 56 and 73 do not provide for leave without pay and that, in case the authorities were of the view that the petitioner was illegally absenting from duty, disciplinary proceedings ought to have been initiated against the petitioner for such unauthorized absence. It is further submitted that since no such disciplinary proceedings were initiated against the petitioner, it was not open for the departmental authorities to deny the petitioner salary for the aforesaid period while sanctioning leave.

6. The Fundamental Rule 56 reads as hereunder :

"56. (a) Except as otherwise provided in other clauses of this rule, every Government servant shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of fifty-eight years. He may be retained in service after the date of retirement on superannuation, with the sanction of the Government, on public grounds, which must be recorded in writing, but he must not be retained after the age of 60 years except in very special circumstances.

(b) A Government servant in inferior service shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the month in which he attains the age of sixty years. He must not be retained in service after that date, except in very special circumstances and with sanction of the Government.

(c) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (a) or clause (b), the appointing authority may, at any time, by notice to any Government servant (whether permanent or temporary), without assigning any reason, require him to retire after he attains the age of fifty years or such Government servant may, by notice to the appointing authority, voluntarily retire at any time after attaining the age of forty-five years or after he has completed qualifying service of twenty years.

(d) The period of such notice shall be three months:

Provided that-

(i) any such Government servant may by order of the appointing authority, without such notice or by a shorter notice, be retired forthwith at any time after attaining the age of fifty years, and on such retirement the Government servant shall be entitled to claim a sum equivalent to the amount of his pay plus allowances, if any, for the period of the notice or, as the case may be, for the period by which such notice falls short of three months, at the same rates at which he was drawing immediately before his retirement;

(ii) it shall be open to the appointing authority to allow a Government servant to retire without any notice or by a shorter notice without requiring the Government servant to pay any penalty in lieu of notice:

Provided further that such notice given by the Government servant against whom a disciplinary proceeding is pending or contemplated, shall be effective only if it is accepted by the appointing authority, provided that in the case of a contemplated disciplinary proceeding the Government servant shall be informed before the expiry of his notice that it has not been accepted:

Provided also that the notice once given by a Government servant under clause (c) seeking voluntary retirement shall not be withdrawn by him except with the permission of the appointing authority.

(e) A retiring pension shall be payable and other retirement benefits, if any, shall be available in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the relevant rules to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this rule.

Provided that where a Government servant who voluntarily retires or is allowed voluntarily to retire under this rule the appointing authority may allow him, for the purposes of pension and gratuity, if any, the benefit of additional service of five years or of such period as he would have served if he had continued till the ordinary date of his superannuation, whichever be less;

Explanations - (1) The decision of the appointing authority under clause (c) to require the Government servant to retire as specified therein shall be taken if it appears to the said authority to be in the public interest, but nothing herein contained shall be construed to require any recital, in the order of such decision having been taken in the public interest.

(2) In order to be satisfied whether it will be in the public interest to require a Government servant to retire under clause (c) the appointing authority may take into consideration any material relating to the Government servant and nothing herein contained shall be construed to exclude from consideration-

(a) any entries relating to any period before such Government servant was allowed to cross any efficiency bar or before he was promoted to any post in an officiating or substantive capacity or on an ad-hoc basis; or

(b) any entry against which a representation is pending, provided that the representation is also taken into consideration along with the entry; or

(2-A) Every such decision shall be deemed to have been taken in the public interest.

(3) The expression "appointing authority" means the authority which for the time being has the power to make substantive appointments to the post or service from which the Government servant is required or wants to retire; and the expression "qualifying service" shall have the same meaning as in the relevant rules relating to retiring pension.

(4) Every order of the appointing authority requiring a Government servant to retire forthwith under the first proviso to clause (d) of this rule shall have effect from the forenoon of the date of its issue, provided that, if after the date of its issue, the Government servant concerned, bona fide and in ignorance of that order, performs the duties of his office, his acts shall be deemed to be valid notwithstanding the fact of his having earlier retired.

Note- (1) (Deleted)

Note- (2) The grant, under rule 86, of leave extending beyond the date on which a government servant must compulsorily retire, or beyond the date upto which a government servant has been permitted to remain in service, shall not be treated as sanctioning an extension of service, and the government servant shall not be permitted to retain a lien on his permanent post or any other post during the period of such leave.

(This shall come into force with effect from April 1, 1965).

Note- (3) A government servant whose date of birth is the first day of a month shall retire from service on the afternoon of the last day of the preceding month on attaining the age of fifty-eight or sixty years, as the case may be."

7. Section 56(c) of the U.P. Fundamental Rules provides for voluntary retirement after attaining the age of 45 years and completing 20 years of qualifying service, for which the period of notice is three months as provided under sub-rule (d). The first proviso to sub-rule (d)(ii) provides that in case disciplinary proceedings are pending or contemplated, the voluntary retirement shall be effective only if it is accepted by the appointing authority, and in case of contemplated disciplinary proceedings, the concerned government servants shall be informed before the expiry of the notice period that his request for voluntary retirement has not been accepted. Thus, for acceptance of an application for voluntary retirement, it is mandated that no disciplinary proceedings are pending or contemplated against the government servant, except with the approval of the appointing authority.

8. The Fundamental Rule 73 reads as hereunder :

"73. A Government servant who remains absent after the end of his leave is entitled to no leave-salary for the period of such absence, and that period will be debited against his leave account as though it were leave on half average pay, unless his leave is extended by the Government. Wilful absence from duty after the expiry of leave may be treated as misbehaviour for the purpose of Rule 15.

Note - In the case of a Government servant governed by leave rules laid down in Fundamental Rule 81-B and Subsidiary Rule 157-A, who remains absent after the end of his leave, the period of such overstayal of leave should, unless the leave is extended by the competent authority, be treated as follows:

(a) If the Government servant is in superior service and holds a lien on a permanent post-

(i) as leave on private affairs to the extent such leave is due, unless the overstayal is supported by a medical certificate,

(ii) as leave on medical certificate to the extent such leave is due, if the overstayal is supported by a medical certificate,

(iii) as extraordinary leave to the extent the period of leave on private affairs and/or on medical certificate falls short of the period of overstayal:

(b) If the Government servant is in superior service without a lien on a permanent post or in inferior service, as in (a) (ii) and (iii) above mutatis mutandis.

The period of overstayal of leave will be debited as leave taken but no leave salary will be paid for such period unless it is covered by an extension of leave granted by the competent authority."

9. A bare perusal of Fundamental Rule 73 reveals that it is applies to cases where a Government servant remains absent after the end of his leave and provides that he is not entitled to leave salary for such period, which is to be debited against his leave account, unless his leave is extended by the competent authority. The petitioner has not disclosed whether his absence from duty for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 was preceded by sanctioned leave. The records available with the writ petition also do not disclose whether the petitioner was on leave prior to his absence for the aforesaid periods.

10. The Regulation 420 of the U.P. Civil Services Regulations provides that an interruption in the service of a Government Officer entails forfeiture of his past service, except in certain circumstances. The Regulation 420 is reproduced hereinbelow :

"420. An interruption in the service of an officer entails forfeiture of his past service, except in the following cases:

(a) authorised leave of absence.

(b) unauthorised absence in continuation of authorised leave of absence so long as the office of the absentee is not substantively filled; if his office is substantively filled the past service of the absentee is forfeited.

(c) suspension immediately followed by reinstatement which need not be to he same office.

(d) abolition of office or loss of appointment owing to reduction of establishment.

(e) transfer to non-qualifying service in an establishment under government cotrol, the transfer must be made by competent authority; and officer who voluntarily resigns qualifying service cannot claim the benefit of this exception. Transfer to a grant-in-aid school entails forfeiture.

(f) Not printed.

(g) time occupied in transit from the one appointment to another provided that the officer is transferred under the orders of competent authority, or if he is a non-gazetted officer with the consent of the head of his old office. "

11. The effect of forfeiture of past service is that the services rendered prior to interruption will not be considered for the service benefits of the Government Servant, which also include pensionary benefits.

12. The petitioner's absence from duty for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 was unauthorized and was not in continuation of any authorized leave. Thus, if the departmental authorities could not have regularized the services of the petitioner by sanctioning leave for the aforesaid period, then in such circumstances, the past services of the petitioner could not have been considered for grant of service benefits, and it could also have resulted in denial of voluntary retirement of the petitioner. Thus, the departmental authorities, accepting the request of the petitioner for grant of voluntary retirement as made through his letter dated 16.02.2015, took a lenient view and regularized the service of the petitioner by sanctioning leave for the period of unauthorized absence. It appears that the departmental authorities, taking into consideration the long services of the petitioner and the facts and circumstances disclosed by him in his letter dated 16.02.2015, proceeded to grant him voluntary retirement; otherwise, the authorities could have also initiated disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner for his unauthorized absence from duty.

13. Fundamental Rule 73 is attracted in cases where a Government servant remains absent after the end of his leave. However, in the present case, we find that the petitioner was not on leave prior to his absence for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016. Thus, Fundamental Rule 73 would not apply in the case of the petitioner and the leave has been sanctioned to him for the purpose of regularizing his services so as to entitle him to voluntary retirement as sought by him by his letter dated 16.02.2015.

14. Fundamental Rule 85 provides for extraordinary leave which may be granted in special circumstances. Fundamental Rule 85 is reproduced hereinbelow :

"85. (a) Extraordinary leave may be granted in Special circumstances (1) when no other leave is by rule admissible, or (2) when, other leave being admissible, the Government servant concerned applies in writing for the grant of extraordinary leave. Such leave is not debited against the leave account. No leave salary is admissible during such leave.

(b) The authority which has the power to sanction leave may grant extraordinary leave as in clause (a) in combination with, or in continuation of, any leave that is admissible and may commute retrospectively periods of absence without leave into extraordinary leave.

Orders of the Governor regarding Rule 85 (b)

The power of commuting retrospectively periods of absence without leave into extraordinary leave is absolute and not subject to the conditions mentioned in clause (a) of the rule; in other words, such commutation is permissible even when other leave was admissible to the Government servant concerned at the time his absence without leave commenced.

Audit instructions regarding Rule 85

1. Extraordinary leave without pay granted under the rules of the Civil Service Regulations will not also be debited against the leave account under note 2 to Rule 78.

2. "Leave not due" applied for by a Government servant with or without medical certificate is "leave admissible under rule" and in cases where "leave not due" can be granted, the grant of extraordinary leave under Fundamental Rule 85 will be irregular unless the latter kind of leave is specifically applied for in writing."

15. Sub-rule (b) of Rule 85 empowers the competent authority to sanction extraordinary leave retrospectively and to commute absence without leave into extraordinary leave.

16. The Fundamental Rule 81-B vide sub-rule (5), provides that a Government servant may be granted extraordinary leave in accordance with provisions of Fundamental Rule 85 read with Fundamental Rule 18, which could be for a maximum period of five years.

17. It is not the case of the petitioner that he had applied for leave for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016, nor is it shown that he was entitled to any other kind of leave in his leave account. It is an undisputed fact that the petitioner remained unauthorizedly absent for the aforesaid period. In order to enable him to be considered for voluntary retirement, the competent authority sanctioned leave without pay, though it has been wrongly mentioned as leave sanctioned under Fundamental Rule 73. Such leave is, in substance, referable to Fundamental Rule 85 of the U.P. Fundamental Rules as contained in Financial Handbook Volume II, Part II to IV.

18. The incorrect mention of Fundamental Rule 73 instead of extraordinary leave under Fundamental Rule 85 does not ipso facto render the Office Memo No.100 dated 29.01.2016 invalid. In fact, if it is held that the petitioner was wrongly sanctioned such leave, then the petitioner□s service for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016, during which he remained unauthorizedly absent, could not have been regularized, and in such circumstances, it would amount to interruption in service resulting in forfeiture of his past service, thereby denying him qualifying service and other service benefits, including the benefit of voluntary retirement which he sought vide his letter dated 16.02.2015.

19. It is ironic that the petitioner has challenged the Office Memo No.100 dated 29.01.2016 relating to sanctioning of leave for the period 01.02.2015 to 28.02.2015 and thereafter from 01.04.2015 to 29.01.2016 before the learned Tribunal as well as before this Court, though the same were issued to enable him to obtain voluntary retirement by regularizing his service for his unauthorized absence. The petitioner, on the one hand, has availed the benefit of grant of voluntary retirement based on regularization of his services by sanction of leave without pay for his unauthorized absence, while on the other hand he has challenged the sanction of leave on the ground that salary could not have been denied for the said period. The petitioner has nowhere pleaded, nor does the record suggest, that he had ever applied for any leave admissible to him. In such circumstances, the authorities had no option but to regularize the period of absence by sanctioning leave, treating it as extraordinary leave under Fundamental Rule 85, though wrongly mentioned as Fundamental Rule 73.

20. If, for a moment, it is assumed that the leave was wrongly sanctioned, then the petitioner's service for the period prior to absence from duty i.e. prior to 01.02.2015 would amount to break in service and consequential forfeiture of service rendered prior to it. The conduct of the petitioner amounts to availing the benefit of voluntary retirement arising out of the same set of facts, while simultaneously challenging the denial of salary for the period of absence. Such conduct cannot be appreciated and is hit by the doctrine of approbate and reprobate. The petitioner cannot claim the benefit arising out of the Office Memo No.100/सिं०नि०ख०फि०सु०शि०/dated 29.01.2016 and Office Memo No.102/सिं०नि०ख०फि०सु०शि०/dated 29.01.2016 on the one hand and repudiate it on the other hand denying him salary for the period of absence. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and others vs. N. Murugesan and others reported in (2022) 2 SCC 25, observed in paragraph 26 as follows :

"26.These phrases are borrowed from the Scots law. They would only mean that no party can be allowed to accept and reject the same thing, and thus one cannot blow hot and cold. The principle behind the doctrine of election is inbuilt in the concept of approbate and reprobate. Once again, it is a principle of equity coming under the contours of common law. Therefore, he who knows that if he objects to an instrument, he will not get the benefit he wants cannot be allowed to do so while enjoying the fruits. One cannot take advantage of one part while rejecting the rest. A person cannot be allowed to have the benefit of an instrument while questioning the same. Such a party either has to affirm or disaffirm the transaction. This principle has to be applied with more vigour as a common law principle, if such a party actually enjoys the one part fully and on near completion of the said enjoyment, thereafter questions the other part. An element of fair play is inbuilt in this principle. It is also a species of estoppel dealing with the conduct of a party. We have already dealt with the provisions of the Contract Act concerning the conduct of a party, and his presumption of knowledge while confirming an offer through his acceptance unconditionally."

21. The petitioner cannot be allowed to claim the benefit of voluntary retirement on one hand and on the other hand challenge the denial of salary for the period of his unauthorized absence from duty as it would not have been possible to grant him voluntary retirement without regularization of his unauthorized absence from duty by sanctioning of leave. No one can claim the benefit of a transaction at one time claiming that he is entitled to it and later to challenge it for another advantage, as it does not suit his interest. It is a fit case where the cost ought to be imposed upon the petitioner for abusing the process of law; however, taking into consideration that the petitioner had retired way back in the year 2016, we restraint ourselves from imposing any costs.

22. The writ petition stands dismissed.

CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ A No 9145 of 2011

Putti Lal ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of absorption in new higher cadre and entitlement to get service benefits according to new cadre.
(2) Validity of the order, denying the revised IInd and IIIrd pay scales as per new cadre on the ground that initial appointment was made in the Circle Cadre, though the employee was subsequently absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre.
(3) Application of doctrine of equality in public employment in respect of the implementation of earlier judgment of the High Court.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Salary – Revised IInd and IIIrd Pay Scales – Petitioner was initially appointed in the Circle Cadre in the year 1967 and was permanently absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre on 24.04.1978 and further promoted as Office Superintendent – Petitioner was denied revised IInd and IIIrd pay scales on the sole ground that his initial appointment had been made in the Circle Cadre – Validity challenged .

Held : Absorption in service is not a mere administrative arrangement but results in complete integration of an employee into the new cadre. Upon such absorption, the earlier lien and incidents of the previous cadre cease to govern the service conditions of the employee. Consequently, all rights, obligations, promotional avenues and financial benefits become regulated by the service rules applicable to the cadre in which the employee stands absorbed. Therefore, the very basis adopted by the respondents in the impugned order, namely the petitioner's initial appointment in the Circle Cadre, is legally untenable and contrary to settled principles governing absorption in service jurisprudence. [Para 28]

(B) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Public employment – Doctrine of equality – Application – Implementation of earlier judgment of the High Court – Respondent adopted 'pick and choose policy' against the petitioner – Permissibility .

Held : The action of the respondents is hit by the doctrine of equality in public employment. Once the respondents themselves have implemented the judgment dated 23.08.2007 in favour of other employees similarly situated, they cannot discriminate against the petitioner by adopting a 'pick and choose' policy. Such arbitrary discrimination is impermissible and offends the constitutional guarantee of equal treatment under Article 14 of the Constitution. [Para 34] (E-1)

Case Arising From

Impugned order dated 12.01.2012 passed by respondent No. 4 refusing to pay revised IInd and IIIrd pay scales.

Advs. for the Petitioner : Savita Jain, Sabha Jeet Singh, Deep Shanker Verma.
Advs. for the Respondents : Devesh Mishra, ACSC; Manish Jauhari, Neerav Chitravanshi, S. S. Asthana, Vijay Pratap Singh Rathor, Vikrant Raghuvashi.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Savita Jain, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Devesh Mishra, learned Additional CSC for respondent No.1 - State and Sri Manish Jauhari, learned counsel for respondent Nos.2 to 4.

2. The present writ petition has been field for issuance of a direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondents to provide amended second and third time scale with all consequential benefits in pursuance to order dated 23.08.2007 withe a further prayer to quash the impugned order dated 12.01.2012 passed by respondent No.4 contained as Annexure-11 to the writ petition and to not give effect to order dated 12.01.2012 passed by respondent No.4.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was initially appointed as Junior Noter and Drafter (Circle Cadre) on a temporary post at Panki Thermal Power Station, Kanpur, vide appointment order dated 31.08.1967 and joined his duties accordingly. On account of his satisfactory service, the petitioner was promoted to the post of Senior Noter and Drafter (Circle Cadre) on 15.01.1971 and continued to discharge his duties at Panki Thermal Power Station.

4. Vide order dated 24.04.1978, the services of the petitioner were absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre of the U.P. State Electricity Board as Senior Noter and Drafter, whereupon he started working in the office of the General Manager, Panki Thermal Power Station. Subsequently, he was confirmed on the said post vide order dated 01.04.1983.

5. The petitioner was thereafter promoted to the post of Office Superintendent (Chief Cadre) and joined the promotional post. He continued to serve in the Chief Engineer Cadre and ultimately retired from service on 31.07.2001 while working as Office Superintendent in the office of the Chief Regional Engineer, U.P. Power Corporation Ltd., Kanpur.

6. After his retirement, the petitioner was extended all retiral benefits admissible to employees of the Chief Engineer Cadre and has been receiving pension from the said cadre, thereby acknowledging his status as a Chief Cadre employee. The grievance of the petitioner is that although he had been granted the first, second and third time-bound pay scales during service, he was illegally denied the revised second and third time-bound pay scales of Rs. 1850-2930 and Rs. 2600-4000 on the sole ground that his initial appointment had been made in the Circle Cadre, despite his subsequent absorption and continuous service in the Chief Engineer Cadre.

7. The service conditions of ministerial employees of the U.P. State Electricity Board were originally governed by the U.P. State Electricity Board (Ministerial Establishment?Offices of Chief Engineer and Other Subordinate Offices) Regulations, 1970, framed under Section 79 of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948 and duly published in the Official Gazette. Under the 1970 Regulations, a clear promotional hierarchy existed whereby employees appointed as Routine Grade Clerks progressed through the cadre to the posts of Office Assistant Grade-III, Office Assistant Grade-II, Office Assistant Grade-I, Office Superintendent (Special Grade) and thereafter Administrative Officer. The petitioner, after his absorption in the Chief Engineer Cadre, became part of the said promotional cadre.

8. The pay scales applicable to various posts in the Chief Engineer Cadre from 01.04.1984 and after the revision with effect from 01.01.1996 included the revised scales of Rs. 1850-2930 for Office Superintendent (Special Grade) and Rs. 2600-4000 for Administrative Officer, which formed the basis for grant of the second and third time-bound promotional benefits.

9. In the year 1998, the respondents introduced the U.P. Electricity Board (Ministerial Establishment Chief Engineer Office and Other Subordinate Offices) (Second Amendment) Regulations, 1998, whereby Rules 5(1)(a), 5(1)(b) and Rule 9(2) were amended retrospectively with effect from 01.04.1984, thereby altering the promotional avenues, recruitment sources and eligibility conditions applicable to ministerial employees of the Chief Engineer Cadre.

10. According to the petitioner, the retrospective amendments disturbed the long-standing service structure and deprived employees, including the petitioner, of their vested promotional and financial benefits. The amendments also adversely affected the fixation of salary and consequential retiral benefits including pension, gratuity and commutation.

11. Aggrieved by the aforesaid amendments, Vidyut Karyalaya Karmik Sangh filed Writ Petition No. 264 (S/S) of 1999 and A.G. Moinuddin and others filed Writ Petition No. 1289 (S/S) of 2003 challenging the constitutional validity of the amended Regulations on the ground that they had not been validly notified in the Official Gazette as required under Section 79 of the Electricity (Supply) Act, 1948 and that vested service rights could not be taken away retrospectively.

12. This Hon'ble Court, by a common judgment dated 23.08.2007, allowed the aforesaid writ petitions and granted relief to the affected employees, thereby restoring their entitlement to the service benefits available under the unamended Regulations. Pursuant to the aforesaid judgment, the Chairman and Managing Director of U.P. Power Corporation Ltd. issued directions on 04.11.2009 for implementation of the judgment and extension of the consequential service benefits to eligible employees.

13. Despite the aforesaid judgment and administrative directions, the respondents failed to extend the benefit of the revised second and third time-bound pay scales to the petitioner, although he had retired from the Chief Engineer Cadre and was otherwise similarly situated to the employees who had been granted such benefits.

14. The petitioner repeatedly represented before the authorities through representations dated 17.02.2010, 28.09.2010, 10.10.2010, 12.10.2010, 18.10.2010, 02.11.2010 and 28.06.2011, requesting implementation of the judgment dated 23.08.2007 and grant of the revised pay scales, but no effective action was taken.

15. The Executive Engineer, vide letter dated 06.10.2010, informed the petitioner that appropriate action regarding payment of the revised pay scales would be taken after obtaining necessary directions. Similarly, the Chief Engineer, Dakshinanchal Vidyut Distribution Nigam Ltd., by communication dated 25.10.2010, recommended that the petitioner's claim for the revised pay scales be processed.

16. The petitioner asserts that several employees junior to him, including A.G. Moinuddin, and other similarly situated employees of the Chief Engineer Cadre have already been granted the revised second and third time-bound pay scales in compliance with the judgment dated 23.08.2007, whereas the petitioner alone has been denied the same without any rational basis.

17. It is averred that another employee, Aminuddin Ahmad, who had initially been appointed in the Operating Staff and whose initial cadre was different, was nevertheless granted the revised second and third time-bound pay scales after absorption, demonstrating that the respondents have adopted an arbitrary and discriminatory "pick and choose" policy in the petitioner's case. Ultimately, the respondents rejected the petitioner's claim vide order dated 12.01.2012, solely on the ground that his initial appointment had been made in the Circle Cadre and, therefore, he was entitled only to the time scales applicable to that cadre, completely ignoring the fact that his services had been permanently absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre decades earlier and that he had retired from that cadre after rendering long service therein.

18. The petitioner contends that once his services stood absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre, he became a member of that cadre for all service purposes and was legally entitled to the same promotional and financial benefits as all other employees of the cadre. The denial of the revised second and third time-bound pay scales solely on the basis of his initial appointment is wholly arbitrary, discriminatory and contrary to the judgment dated 23.08.2007.

19. It is, therefore, pleaded that the impugned action of the respondents, including the rejection order dated 12.01.2012, violates the guarantees of equality and fairness enshrined under Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India, besides being contrary to the binding judgment of this Hon'ble Court and the applicable service regulations. Hence, the present writ petition has been preferred before this Court.

20. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that once the petitioner has been absorbed in Chief Engineer Cadre, the lien on the earlier post vanished and the petitioner is entitled to get the benefits in the merged cadre. She submitted that an amendment was incorporated in the Rules, which was subject matter of challenge in Writ Petition No.264 (S/S) of 1999 and 5958 (S/S) of 1998, wherein Division Bench of this Court after examining the entire material on record set aside the amendmetn and directed to provide all benefits in Chief Engineer Cadre. Against the said judgment S.L.P. No.2318 of 2007 was filed before Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, which was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 27.07.2009. Meaning thereby, the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court dated 23.08.2007 was affirmed. Therefore, her submission is that the petitioner is also entitled to get the similar benefit, as has been provided by the Division Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 23.08.2007.

21. Her next submission is that the respondents adopted discriminatory exercise of power in not providing benefits to the petitioner of second and third time scale, therefore, the order passed rejecting the claim of the petitioner dated 12.01.2012 is wholly illegal, discriminatory and arbitrary in nature.

22. She submitted that the order dated 12.01.2012 has been passed in utter disregard of the judgment of this Court allowing the writ petition by setting aside the amendment incorporated in the statute book.

23. On the other hand, learned counsel for respondent Nos.2 to 4 submitted that the petitioner was initially appointed in Circle Cadre on temporary basis and was absorbed in Chief Engineer Cadre, therefore, he is not entitled to get benefit of second and third time scale. He also invited attention of this Court on CA-1, page 9 of the counter affidavit, whereby the demarcation in regard to payment of second and third time scale was explained.

24. He next submitted that the impugned order does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and is just and valid.

25. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

26. Upon perusal of the pleadings and material brought on record, this Court finds that the controversy involved in the present writ petition lies in a narrow compass. The only question which arises for consideration is whether, after the permanent absorption of the petitioner in the Chief Engineer Cadre and his continuous service therein till retirement, the respondents were justified in denying him the benefit of the amended second and third time-bound pay scales solely on the ground that his initial appointment had been made in the Circle Cadre.

27. It is not disputed that the petitioner was initially appointed in the Circle Cadre in the year 1967. Equally undisputed is the fact that, vide order dated 24.04.1978, his services were permanently absorbed in the Chief Engineer Cadre. Thereafter, he was confirmed in that cadre, earned further promotions therein, discharged his duties as Office Superintendent under the Chief Engineer Cadre and ultimately retired from the said cadre on 31.07.2001. The respondents have also extended to him all retiral benefits including pension treating him as an employee of the Chief Engineer Cadre. Once these foundational facts are admitted, the respondents cannot selectively rely upon the petitioner's initial appointment in the Circle Cadre for denying only the financial benefits flowing from his absorbed cadre.

28. Absorption in service is not a mere administrative arrangement but results in complete integration of an employee into the new cadre. Upon such absorption, the earlier lien and incidents of the previous cadre cease to govern the service conditions of the employee. Consequently, all rights, obligations, promotional avenues and financial benefits become regulated by the service rules applicable to the cadre in which the employee stands absorbed. Therefore, the very basis adopted by the respondents in the impugned order, namely the petitioner's initial appointment in the Circle Cadre, is legally untenable and contrary to settled principles governing absorption in service jurisprudence.

29. This Court further finds that the issue regarding the validity of the retrospective amendments introduced by the Second Amendment Regulations, 1998 no longer survives for consideration. The Division Bench of this Court, vide judgment and order dated 23.08.2007 rendered in Writ Petition No.264 (S/S) of 1999 and connected matters, declared the impugned amendments unsustainable and restored the service benefits available under the unamended Regulations. The said judgment attained finality after the Special Leave Petition preferred before the Hon'ble Supreme Court, which was dismissed on 27.07.2009. Thus, the respondents were under a legal obligation to faithfully implement the judgment in respect of every similarly situated employee.

30. The records further disclose that the Chairman and Managing Director of the U.P. Power Corporation Ltd. himself issued directions dated 04.11.2009 for implementation of the judgment dated 23.08.2007. Despite such binding judicial and administrative directions, the respondents failed to extend identical benefits to the petitioner. Such conduct is wholly impermissible in law. Administrative authorities cannot refuse to implement a binding judgment by inventing distinctions which were neither recognised nor approved by the Court while deciding the earlier batch of writ petitions.

31. The material brought on record further establishes that several similarly situated employees, including A.G. Moinuddin and others, were extended the revised second and third time-bound pay scales pursuant to the judgment dated 23.08.2007. The petitioner has also specifically pleaded that Aminuddin Ahmad, whose initial appointment was in a different cadre, was likewise granted the benefit after absorption. These pleadings have not been effectively rebutted by the respondents. The denial of identical benefits to the petitioner, while extending the same to other similarly situated employees, is manifestly arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

32. The sole reasoning assigned in the impugned order dated 12.01.2012 is that the petitioner was initially appointed in the Circle Cadre and, therefore, would continue to be governed by the pay scales applicable to that cadre. Such reasoning completely ignores the undisputed fact of permanent absorption, confirmation, promotion and retirement from the Chief Engineer Cadre. The authority has failed to consider the effect of the binding judgment dated 23.08.2007, the dismissal of the Special Leave Petition by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the implementation orders issued by the Corporation itself. Consequently, the impugned order suffers from complete non-application of mind and is liable to be set aside.

33. The stand taken by the respondents in the counter affidavit also cannot be accepted. Merely because the petitioner entered service through the Circle Cadre does not confer any legal authority upon the respondents to deny him benefits available to the cadre in which he permanently served for more than two decades. Acceptance of such a contention would render the very concept of permanent absorption meaningless and would create an artificial classification among employees belonging to the same cadre without any rational nexus with the object sought to be achieved.

34. This Court is further of the opinion that the action of the respondents is hit by the doctrine of equality in public employment. Once the respondents themselves have implemented the judgment dated 23.08.2007 in favour of other employees similarly situated, they cannot discriminate against the petitioner by adopting a "pick and choose" policy. Such arbitrary discrimination is impermissible and offends the constitutional guarantee of equal treatment under Article 14 of the Constitution.

35. The impugned order dated 12.01.2012 is also unsustainable for the additional reason that it completely overlooks relevant considerations while taking into account an irrelevant factor, namely the petitioner's original appointment. It is well settled that an administrative order founded upon irrelevant considerations and ignoring material facts cannot withstand judicial scrutiny under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

36. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the petitioner, after his permanent absorption in the Chief Engineer Cadre, became entitled to all service and financial benefits admissible to employees of that cadre, including the revised second and third time-bound pay scales made available pursuant to the judgment dated 23.08.2007. The respondents were wholly unjustified in denying the same on the basis of his initial appointment in the Circle Cadre.

37. Consequently, the impugned order dated 12.01.2012 passed by respondent No.4 cannot be sustained in law and is hereby quashed.

38. The writ petition deserves to be allowed and is hereby allowed.

39. A writ in the nature of mandamus is issued commanding the respondents to grant to the petitioner the amended second and third time-bound pay scales, strictly in terms of the judgment dated 23.08.2007, by treating the petitioner as a member of the Chief Engineer Cadre, together with all consequential service and retiral benefits, including revision of pay fixation, pension, gratuity, commutation, arrears and every other monetary benefit legally flowing therefrom.

40. The respondents are directed to undertake the entire exercise of re-fixation of pay and pension and to calculate and release all consequential arrears payable to the petitioner within a period of four months from the date a certified copy of this judgment is produced before the competent authority. In case the aforesaid amount is not released within the stipulated period, the petitioner shall also be entitled to interest in accordance with law from the date the amount became due till the date of actual payment.

41. There shall be no order as to costs.

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Scope of Article 300-A of the Constitution of India including the right to receive pension in it as the constitutional right of property.
(2) Entitlement to receive gratuity and other retirement benefits after voluntary retirement.
(3) Entitlement to get the interest on delayed payment of gratuity and other retirement benefits.

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 300-A – Right to property – Scope – Right to receive the pension, how far protected as the constitutional right :

Held : After the 44th Amendment Act, 1978 w.e.f. 20.06.1979, though the right to property is not a fundamental right but, still, a constitutional right as provided under Article 300-A of the Constitution; and now since the right to receive pension was treated as a right to property, the denial of the same is also violative of a constitutional right – Pension/gratuity, is not a bounty and an employee earns the same through his longstanding service and as such is a 'property', being protected by the Constitutional mandate under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India; and as such he cannot be deprived of his property saved by authority of law. [Para 12 and 26]

(B) Service law – Financial Handbook – Fundamental Rule 56(e) – Gratuity – Voluntary retirement before the age of superannuation –Entitlement to get post-retirement benefits :

Held : In view of Fundamental Rule 56 sub-Clause (e) of the Financial Handbook, the government servant is entitled for retirement dues admissible under the Rules and also considered that the Government has issued a Government Order dated 31st July, 2001, providing that even in case of a voluntary retirement, a government servant shall be entitled to retirement dues as per Rules – Once he (employee) is permitted to retire, prior to the age of 60 years, he/she is entitled to gratuity, in view of Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook, even if it is a voluntary retirement. The State Government is also bound by its Government Order dated 31.07.2001; and it cannot insist on the requirement of specifically submitting the option, for availing the gratuity, as admittedly, she was permitted to retire, prior to attaining the age of superannuation i.e. 60 years. [Para 14 and 26]

(B) Service law – Interest on delayed payment of gratuity and other retirement benefits – Entitlement – Rate of interest – Determination :

Held : The claim of the petitioner for payment of interest to delayed disbursal of the "gratuity" also is justified, as it is a valuable right in the form of a property and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof, must be visited with the penalty on payment of interest at the current market rate, till the actual payment to the employee – The petitioner shall also be entitled to payment of interest on the delayed payment of gratuity, at the rate of 8%, from the date it was due towards the petitioner – In case, the aforesaid interest is not paid within a period of 2 months from the date of service of certified copy of this order, from the said date till the actual disbursement, 12% interest shall be applicable and the said amount shall be recovered from the disbursement authority's salary. [Para 27 and 29(ii)] (E-1)

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Namman Raj Vanshi, Pramod Kumar Jain, Sr. Adv.
Advs. for the Respondents : C.S.C.

1. Heard Shri Namman Rajvanshi, Advocate, appearing on behalf of the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. By way of the present writ petition, the following prayer has been made: "(I) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to release the amount gratuity legally due and payable to the petitioner along with interest @ 18% per annum from the date of accrual till the date of actual realisation; (II) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to release the amount of unpaid interest on the General provident Fund of the Petitioner from 01.09.2019 till 31.01.2020; (III) Issue and other writ, order or direction as this Hon'ble court may deem fit and proper under the facts and circumstances of the case. (IV) Award the cost of the petition to be paid to the petitioner."

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that petitioner was appointed as a Teacher in the Institution of respondent no. 4, which is a State aided educational institution and has been working continuously in the school, until the time she opted for Voluntary Retirement Scheme; and availed voluntary retirement with effect from 31st August, 2019.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits though the respondent no. 4, vide pension order dated 07.08.2020, had sanctioned the pension to the tune of Rs. 37,150/- per month, which is being duly paid to the petitioner; but the retirement 'gratuity' has not been paid to the petitioner.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that Respondent no. 3 has released the GPF of the petitioner, to which she was duly entitled; but in spite of the fact that the petitioner, who was 55 years of age on the date of retirement (date of birth 26th June, 1964), yet she has been illegally denied the benefit of 'gratuity', which was otherwise legally admissible to her.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook, wherein it has been provided that in case a government servant retires from service, he/she shall be entitled for payment of pension and other retirement benefits; and thus has submitted before this Court that once petitioner has been permitted to retire from service, she cannot be deprived of her right to receive amount of gratuity. For ready reference Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook, is reproduced below:

"A retiring pension shall be payable and other retirement benefits, if any, shall be available in accordance with and subject to the provisions of the relevant rules to every Government servant who retires or is required or allowed to retire under this rule. "

[Provided that where a Government servant who voluntarily retires or is allowed voluntarily to retire under this rule the appointing authority may allow him, for the purposes of pension and gratuity, if any, the benefit of additional service of five years or of such period as he would have served if he had continued till the ordinary date of his superannuation, whichever be less];"

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has also relied upon a Government Order dated 31.07.2001, whereby it has been clarified that if a government servant is permitted voluntary retirement from service, under Fundamental Rule 56 sub-Clause (c) of the Financial Handbook, he/she shall be entitled to pension and other retirement dues including 'gratuity' admissible under the Rules.

8. On a pointed query to the learned Standing Counsel, regarding the legal position, since the facts are admitted and undisputed, he submits that the controversy has since been settled by the judgment and order dated 07.11.2019, rendered in Writ- A No. 17399 of 2019 (Usha Rani v. State of U.P. and others), and accordingly he does not propose to file a counter affidavit and the matter may be decided at the admission stage itself, in view of the aforesaid judgment.

9. In order to determine the lis, this Court proceeds to examine the legal position which is being followed consistently till date. The Hon'ble Apex Court while reiterating the established position of law, regarding the pension and the gratuity, held in the case of State of Kerala vs. M.

Padmanabhan Nair reported in (1985) 1 SCC 429 that, the pension and gratuity are not bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees, but have been elevated as valuable rights of the superannuating employees. Emphasizing the need for prompt payment of retiral dues to a government servant upon his retirement and assessing the reasons for the delay in payment of retiral dues, the consequential directions for payment of interest for the delay caused, was issued. The Apex Court held as follows:

"1. Pension and gratuity are no longer any bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees on their retirement but have become, under the decisions of this Court, valuable rights and property in their hands and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof must be visited with the penalty of payment of interest at the current market rate till actual payment.

2. Usually the delay occurs by reason of non-production of the L.P.C. (last pay certificate) and the N.L.C. (no liability certificate) from the concerned Departments but both these documents pertain to matters, records whereof would be with the concerned Government Departments. Since the date of retirement of every Government servant is very much known in advance we fail to appreciate why the process of collecting the requisite information and issuance of these two documents should not be completed at least a week before the date of retirement so that the payment of gratuity amount could be made to the Government servant on the date he retires or on the following day and pension at the expiry of the following month. The necessity for prompt payment of the retirement dues to a Government servant immediately after his retirement cannot be over-emphasized and it would not be unreasonable to direct that the liability to pay penal interest on these dues at the current market rate should commence at the expiry of two months from the date of retirement."

10. In the case of State of Jharkhand and others vs. Jitendra Kumar Srivastava and another reported in (2013) 12 SCC 210, the Apex Court held that an employee earns the benefits accruing in the form of gratuity and pension, by rendering long, continuous, faithful and unblemished service. In the celebrated judgment in the case of D.S. Nakara vs. Union of India reported in (1983) 1 SCC 305, D.A. Desai,J, while speaking for the Bench in his inimitable style, conceptualized the concept in the following words:

"18. The approach of the respondents raises a vital and none too easy of answer, question as to why pension is paid. And why was it required to be liberalised? Is the employer, which expression will include even the State, bound to pay pension? Is there any obligation on the employer to provide for the erstwhile employee even after the contract of employment has come to an end and the employee has ceased to render service"

19. What is a pension? What are the goals of pension? What public interest or purpose, if any, it seeks to serve? If it does seek to serve some public purpose, is it thwarted by such artificial division of retirement pre and post a certain date? We need seek answer to these and incidental questions so as to render just justice between parties to this petition.

20. The antiquated notion of pension being a bounty a gratuitous payment depending upon the sweet will or grace of the employer not claimable as a right and, therefore, no right to pension can be enforced through court has been swept under the carpet by the decision of the Constitution Bench in Deokinandan Prasad v. State of Bihar [(1971) 2 SCC 330 : 1971 Supp SCR 634] wherein this Court authoritatively ruled that pension is a right and the payment of it does not depend upon the discretion of the Government but is governed by the rules and a government servant coming within those rules is entitled to claim pension. It was further held that the grant of pension does not depend upon anyone's discretion. It is only for the purpose of quantifying the amount having regard to service and other allied matters that it may be necessary for the authority to pass an order to that effect but the right to receive pension flows to the officer not because of any such order but by virtue of the rules. This view was reaffirmed in State of Punjab v. Iqbal Singh [(1976) 2 SCC 1 : 1976 SCC (L&S) 172 : (1976) 2 LLJ 377] ."

11. The right to receive pension has been recognized akin as a right to property, by the Constitutional Bench judgment in the case of Deoki Nandan Prasad vs. State of Bihar reported in (1971) 2 SCC 330. For ready reference, para 27 to 33 is reproduced below:

"27. The last question to be considered, is, whether the right to receive pension by a government servant is property, so as to attract Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. This question falls to be decided in order to consider whether the writ petition is maintainable under Article 32. To this aspect, we have already adverted to earlier and we now proceed to consider the same.

28. According to the petitioner the right to receive pension is property and the respondents by an executive order dated 12-6-1968 have wrongfully withheld his pension. That order affects his fundamental rights under Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. The respondents, as we have already indicated, do not dispute the right of the petitioner to get pension, but for the order passed on 5-8-1996. There is only a bald averment in the counter-affidavit that no question of any fundamental right arises for consideration. Mr Jha, learned counsel for the respondents, was not prepared to take up the position that the right to receive pension cannot be considered to be property under any circumstances. According to him, in this case, no order has been passed by the State granting pension. We understood the learned counsel to urge that if the State had passed an order granting pension and later on resiles from that order, the latter order may be considered to affect the petitioner's right regarding property so as to attract Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution.

29. We are not inclined to accept the contention of the learned counsel for the respondents. By a reference to the material provisions in the Pension Rules, we have already indicated that the grant of pension does not depend upon an order being passed by the authorities to that effect. It may be that for the purposes of qualifying the amount having regard to the period of service and other allied matters, it may be necessary for the authorities to pass an order to that effect, but the right to receive pension flows to an officer not because of the said order but by virtue of the rules. The rules, we have already pointed out, clearly recognise the right of persons like the petitioners to receive pension under the circumstances mentioned therein.

30. The question whether the pension granted to a public servant is property attracting Article 31(1) came up for consideration before the Punjab High Court in Bhagwant Singh v. Union of India [AIR 1962 Punj 503] . It was held that such a right constitutes ?property? and any interference will be a breach of Article 31(1) of the Constitution. It was further held that the State cannot by an executive order curtail or abolish altogether the right of the public servant to receive pension. This decision was given by a learned Single Judge. This decision was taken up in letters patent appeal by the Union of India. The Letters Patent Bench in its decision in Union of India v. Bhagwant Singh [ILR (1965) 2 Punj 1] approved the decision of the learned Single Judge. The Letters Patent Bench held that the pension granted to a public servant on his retirement is ?property? within the meaning of Article 31(1) of the Constitution and he could be deprived of the same only by an authority of law and that pension does not cease to be property on the mere denial or cancellation of it. It was further held that the character of pension as ?property? cannot possibly undergo such mutation at the whim of a particular person or authority.

31. The matter again came up before a Full Bench of the Punjab and Haryana High Court in K.R. Erry v. State of Punjab [AIR 1967 Punj 279 : ILR (1967) 1 Punj 278] . The High Court had to consider the nature of the right of an officer to get pension. The majority quoted with approval the principles laid down in the two earlier decisions of the same High Court, referred to above, and held that the pension is not to be treated as a bounty payable on the sweet will and pleasure of the Government and that the right to superannuation pension including its amount is a valuable right vesting in a government servant. It was further held by the majority that even though an opportunity had already been afforded to the officer on an earlier occasion for showing cause against the imposition of penalty for lapse or misconduct on his part and he has been found guilty, nevertheless, when a cut is sought to be imposed in the quantum of pension payable to an officer on the basis of misconduct already proved against him, a further opportunity to show cause in that regard must be given to the officer. This view regarding the giving of further opportunity was expressed by the learned Judges on the basis of the relevant Punjab Civil Service Rules. But the learned Chief Justice in his dissenting judgment was not prepared to agree with the majority that under such circumstances a further opportunity should be given to an officer when a reduction in the amount of pension payable is made by the State. It is not necessary for us in the case on hand, to consider the question whether before taking action by way of reducing or denying the pension on the basis of disciplinary action already taken, a further notice to show cause should be given to an officer. That question does not arise for consideration before us. Nor are we concerned with the further question regarding the procedure, if any, to be adopted by the authorities before reducing or withholding the pension for the first time after the retirement of an officer. Hence we express no opinion regarding the views expressed by the majority and the minority Judges in the above Punjab High Court decision on this aspect. But we agree with the view of the majority when it has approved its earlier decision that pension is not a bounty payable on the sweet will and pleasure of the Government and that, on the other hand, the right to pension is a valuable right vesting in a government servant.

32. This Court in State of M.P. v. Ranojirao Shinde [AIR 1968 SC 1053 : (1968) 3 SCR 489] had to consider the question whether a ?cash grant? is ?property? within the meaning of that expression in Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution. This Court held that it was property, observing ?it is obvious that a right to sum of money is property"

33. Having due regard to the above decisions, we are of the opinion that the right of the petitioner to receive pension is property under Article 31(1) and by a mere executive order the State had no power to withhold the same. Similarly, the said claim is also property under Article 19(1)(f) and it is not saved by clause (5) of Article 19. Therefore, it follows that the order dated 12-6-1968, denying the petitioner right to receive pension affects the fundamental right of the petitioner under Articles 19(1)(f) and 31(1) of the Constitution, and as such the writ petition under Article 32 is maintainable. It may be that under the Pension Act (23 of 1871) there is a bar against a civil court entertaining any suit relating to the matters mentioned therein. That does not stand in the way of writ of mandamus being issued to the State to properly consider the claim of the petitioner for payment of pension according to law."

12. After the 44th Amendment Act, 1978 w.e.f. 20.06.1979, though the right to property is not a fundamental right but, still, a constitutional right as provided under Article 300-A of the Constitution; and now since the right to receive pension was treated as a right to property, the denial of the same is also violative of a constitutional right.

13. It is no longer res integra that in case petitioner has been permitted to retire prior to 60 years of age and even though if he/she has not submitted his option to retire at the age of 60 years, he/she shall be entitled to gratuity. The aforesaid view is also fortified by a decision of a co-ordinate Bench in the case of Smt. Asha Lata Chaubey v. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2024 (5) ADJ 113, wherein almost an identical controversy was involved and the petitioner therein, though had not submitted an option to retire at the age of 60 years, rather had submitted an application for voluntary retirement and pursuant to the said application, she had retired at the age of 59 years, 2 months, and 10 days i.e. before the date she would have completed the age of 60 years.

14. This Court held that in view of Fundamental Rule 56 sub-Clause (e) of the Financial Handbook, the government servant is entitled for retirement dues admissible under the Rules and also considered that the Government has issued a Government Order dated 31st July, 2001, providing that even in case of a voluntary retirement, a government servant shall be entitled to retirement dues as per Rules. For ready reference of this Court, paragraph nos. 19 and 20 of Smt. Asha Lata Chaubey (supra) is reproduced below:

"19. This Court finds that petitioner has not submitted option to retire at the age of 60 years rather she submitted an application on 29.6.2021 for voluntary retirement and pursuant to said application, she has retired on 31.3.2022 i.e. on completion of age of 59 years 2 months and 10 days i.e. before the date she would have completed the age of 60 years. Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook provides that if a Government servant retires, he is entitled for retiral dues admissible under the rules and further State Government has also issued a Government Order dated 31.7.2001 whereby it has been provided that even in the case of voluntary retirement, Government servant shall be entitled for retiral dues as per rules. 2

20. This Court further finds that petitioner has opted for voluntary retirement and thereby retired before completion of 60 years of age therefore, in view of the provisions made in Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook read with Government Order dated 31.7.2001, she is entitled for all the retiral dues including gratuity admissible to her under the rules."

15. In view of the aforesaid, this Court is of the opinion that the petitioner is also entitled to a similar relief.

16. The second question, which deserves consideration, is as to whether what rate of interest is payable to the petitioner on the gratuity amount, which has been withheld by the respondents, without any justification.

17. The case of the petitioner is that she is entitled to gratuity for an amount of Rs. 14,34,362/- as per the gratuity rules calculated on the basis of 16 months' salary and, thereafter, from the date it is due, she is entitled to interest of 18% per annum, till the date of actual payment.

18. The petitioner has also prayed that the GPF carried an interest rate of 7.9% per annum, however the petitioner was paid interest only up to 30th August, 2019 though the GPF dues of Rs. 24,71,728/- was paid in the month of January, 2020; and accordingly she claims entitlement for the interest at the rate of 7.9% per annum on the GPF amount of Rs. 24,71,728/- from 1st September, 2019 till 31st January, 2020, which comes to Rs. 73,121/-.

19. As far as the entitlement to payment of interest on the delayed payment of gratuity/retirement benefits are concerned, a Division Bench of this Court in Special Appeal (Defective) No. 430 of 2016, Smt. Nazma Khatoon v. State of U.P. and others, has held that interest is a necessary corollary to the retention of money of another person. It is neither compensatory nor penal in nature; and the Division Bench in Smt. Nazma Khatoon (supra), following another Division Bench decision in Smt. Ranjana Kakkar W/O Late Prof. Amarnath Kakkar v. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2008 (10) ADJ 63 (DB), went on to award 8% interest on the 'gratuity' payable.

20. The decision in the case of M. Padmanabhan Nair (supra) was also followed with approval in the case of D.D. Tewari vs. Uttar Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Limited (2014) 8 SCC 894 and held as follows:

"4. The learned Single Judge has allowed the writ petition vide order dated 25.08.2010, after setting aside the action of the respondents in withholding the amount of gratuity and directing the respondents to release the withheld amount of gratuity within three months without awarding interest as claimed by the appellant. The High Court has adverted to the judgments of this Court particularly, in State of Kerala V. M. Padmanabhan Nair, wherein this Court reiterated its earlier view holding that:

"1. [the] pension and gratuity are no longer any bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees on their retirement but have become, under the decision of this Court, valuable rights and property in their hands and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof must be visited with the penalty of payment of interest at the current market rate till actual payment to the employees."

21. There is cetana of decisions in which timely payment of retiral dues was emphasized by the Apex Court (Refer: Vijay L. Mehrotra v. State of U.P. reported in (2001) 9 SCC 687 and Gorakhpur University vs. Sitla Prasad Nagendra (Dr.) (2001) 6 SCC 591); and in the case of S.K. Dua vs. State of Haryana reported in (2008) 3 SCC 44, the Apex Court held that interest on delayed payment of retirement dues was not contingent to the existence of Statutory Rules, Administrative Instructions and Guidelines and even in absence thereof, the delinquent employee is entitled to claim interest under Part-III of the Constitution of India; and held as follows:

"14. In the circumstances, prima facie, we are of the view that the grievance voiced by the appellant appears to be well founded that he would be entitled to interest on such benefits. If there are statutory rules occupying the field, the appellant could claim payment of interest relying on such rules. If there are administrative instructions, guidelines or norms prescribed for the purpose, the appellant may claim benefit of interest on that basis. But even in absence of statutory rules, administrative instructions or guidelines, an employee can claim interest under Part III of the Constitution relying on Articles 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution. The submission of the learned counsel for the appellant, that retiral benefits are not in the nature of ?bounty? is, in our opinion, well founded and needs no authority in support thereof. In that view of the matter, in our considered opinion, the High Court was not right in dismissing the petition in limine even without issuing notice to the respondents."

22. The Apex Court recently in the case of Dr. Poornima Advani and another vs. Government of NCT and another reported in (2025) 7 SCC 269, on the issue of awarding interest on delayed payment held that when a person is deprived from using of his money to which he is legitimately entitled, he has a right to be compensated for the deprivation which may be called interest or compensation. Interest is being paid for the deprivation of use of money in general terms which has returned or compensation for the use or retention by a person of a sum of money belonging to other.

23. In the case of Commissioner of Income Tax vs. Sham Lal Narula reported in AIR 1963 Punjab 411, a Division Bench of the High Court of Punjab articulated the concept of interest as under:

"The words "interest" and "compensation" are sometimes used interchangeably and on other occasions they have distinct connotation. ?Interest? in general terms is the return or compensation for the use or retention by one person of a sum of money belonging to or owed to another. In its narrow sense, "interest?"is understood to mean the amount which one has contracted to pay for use of borrowed money. ? In whatever category "interest" in a particular case may be put, it is a consideration paid either for the use of money or for forbearance in demanding it, after it has fallen due, and thus, it is a charge for the use or forbearance of money. In this sense, it is a compensation allowed by law or fixed by parties, or permitted by custom or usage, for use of money belonging to another, or for the delay in paying money after it has become payable."

24. The Apex Court in the case of Dr. Poornima Advani (supra) while emphasizing on the doctrine of restitution, held that the term ?restitution? is used in 3 senses:

(i) return or restoration of some specific thing to its rightful owner or status;

(ii) the compensation for benefits derived from wrong done to another;

(iii) compensation or reparation for the loss caused to another.

25. Definition of ?Compensation? is reproduced below:-

"COMPENSATION

The word ?compensation? has been defined in P. Ramanatha Aiyar's Advanced Law Lexicon, 3rd Edn. 2005, p. 918 as follows:

"An act which a court orders to be done, or money which a court orders to be paid, by a person whose acts or omissions have caused loss or injury to another in order that thereby the person damnified may receive equal value for his loss, or be made whole in respect of his injury; the consideration or price of a privilege purchased something given or obtained as an equivalent, the rendering of an equivalent in value or amount; an equivalent given for property taken or for an injury done to another; the giving back an equivalent in either money which is but the measure of value, or in actual value otherwise conferred; a recompense in value, a recompense given for a thing received, recompense for the whole injury suffered, remuneration or satisfaction for injury or damage of every description, remuneration for loss of time, necessary expenditures, and for permanent disability if such be the result; remuneration for the injury directly, and proximately caused by a breach of contract or duty; remuneration or wages given to an employee or officer."

26. From the aforesaid, this Court is inclined to hold that pension/gratuity, is not a bounty and an employee earns the same through his longstanding service and as such is a ?property?, being protected by the Constitutional mandate under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India; and as such he cannot be deprived of his property saved by authority of law; and once he is permitted to retire, prior to the age of 60 years, he/she is entitled to gratuity, in view of Fundamental Rule 56(e) of the Financial Handbook, even if it is a voluntary retirement. The State Government is also bound by its Government Order dated 31.07.2001; and it cannot insist on the requirement of specifically submitting the option, for availing the gratuity, as admittedly, she was permitted to retire, prior to attaining the age of superannuation i.e. 60 years.

27. Further, the claim of the petitioner for payment of interest to delayed disbursal of the ?gratuity? also is justified, as it is a valuable right in the form of a property and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof, must be visited with the penalty on payment of interest at the current market rate, till the actual payment to the employee.

28. Even in absence of Statutory Rules, Administrative Instructions and Guidelines, an employee can claim interest under Part-III of the Constitution, relying on Articles 14, 19 and 21 of the Constitution of India; and it is the duty of the Court to compensate such deprivation by award of interest or compensation.

29. In view of the aforesaid, the following directions are issued to the respondent Authorities.

(i) The respondent Authorities shall calculate the 'gratuity' amount as per the Gratuity Rules and pay the sum within a period of two months from the date of service of a certified copy of this order, along with the interest payable and as directed by this Court, commensurate to the calculation indicated herein above, towards the principal amount of Rs.14,34,362/-.

(ii) The petitioner shall also be entitled to payment of interest on the delayed payment of gratuity, at the rate of 8%, from the date it was due towards the petitioner, i.e. the date on which she was granted the voluntary retirement, which is 31st August, 2019, till the actual date of payment/disbursement of the interest amount. In case, the aforesaid interest is not paid within a period of 2 months from the date of service of certified copy of this order, from the said date till the actual disbursement, 12% interest shall be applicable and the said amount shall be recovered from the disbursement authority's salary.

(iii) The petitioner is also entitled to interest at the rate of 7.9% per annum on the GPF amount of Rs. 24,71,728/- from 1st September, 2019 till 31st January, 2020, which comes to Rs.73,121/-.

30. The present writ petition is allowed, with a note of caution to the respondent Authorities that in cases where it is found that the delinquent employee was entitled to the payment of gratuity and still the said gratuity amount was withheld, only to be paid at a later stage, along with the interest, the State Authorities shall recover the said interest component, from the salary of the officer concerned, who is found to have wrongly rejected the claim of the petitioner; and initiate proceedings against the said employee, even if he has retired, if the applicable service Rules, permits such proceedings and as per law.

31. There shall be no order as to costs.

32. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send forthwith, a copy of this order to the Principal Secretary (Madhyamik Shiksha), Secretariat Building, Lucknow and the Director (Madhyamik Shiksha), 18 Park Road, Lucknow; and the said respondents shall ensure circulating a copy of this order to all the District Inspector of Schools in the State of U.P. for strict compliance.

Advs. for the Petitioner : Arvind Srivastava, Yogendra Pati Tripathi.
Advs. for the Respondents : Standing Counsel.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arvind Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioners and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Mr. Yogendra Pati Tripathi, learned counsel, has appeared before the Court at the time of disposal of delay condonation / restoration application as well as substitution application on 01.04.2026, but on the subsequent dates, Sri Yogendra Pati Tripathi had not appeared before the Court. Accordingly, the matter was heard finally in presence of learned counsel for the petitioners as well as learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents, and judgment was reserved on 29.04.2026.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the dispute relates to Chak No. 70, situated in Village Gursardi, Tehsil and District Mirzapur. Respondent No. 4, Mathura Prasad Pandey (dead) now represented by his legal heirs, was recorded Bhumidhar of the aforementioned Chak No. 70. Respondent No. 4, Mathura Prasad Pandey applied for permission before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as 'the U.P. C.H. Act') to transfer the Chak No. 70 in favour of the petitioners (dead) now represented by their legal heirs. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation granted the permission on 30.06.1972 with the condition that the transfer shall be made up to 29.07.1972. Since there was a restriction on the transfer of agricultural land at the relevant point of time on account of legislative changes, accordingly, the registered agreement to sell was executed between the parties on 15.07.1972 and possession was delivered to the petitioners. As soon as the restriction of transfer of agricultural land was lifted, the registered sale deed was executed by respondent No. 4 in favour of the petitioners on 16.02.1973. In pursuance of the execution of the sale deed in favour of the petitioners on 16.02.1973, an application for mutation was filed before the Consolidation Officer. In the aforementioned proceeding, respondent No. 4 filed an objection that mutation should be refused as the sale deed was executed after 29.07.1972, which was the condition, mentioned in the order of permission granted by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P. C.H. Act. The Consolidation Officer, vide order dated 10.05.1977, rejected the application / objection of the petitioners for recording of his name on the basis of the sale deed dated 12.02.1973 and maintained the earlier entry of the chak in question. Petitioners challenged the order of the Consolidation Officer dated 10.05.1977 by way of appeal under Section 11 (1) of the U.P.C.H. Act before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. The aforementioned appeal was heard and dismissed by the Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation vide order dated 15.09.1977. Petitioners challenged the order of the consolidation authorities before the Deputy Director of Consolidation under Section 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act, which was heard and dismissed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation vide order dated 05.07.1978. Hence, this writ petition on behalf of the petitioners for the following relief:

"(a). Issue account of certiorari quashing the ordrs dated 5.7.1977, 15.9.1977 and 10.5.1977 passed by respondent nos.1 to 3 respectively."

4. This Court admitted the writ petition on 20.7.1978 and stayed the dispossession of the petitioners from the land in dispute.

5. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 20.7.1978, parties have exchanged their pleadings.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that there was no necessity to get permission to transfer the complete chak comprising of a compact holding even then, petitioners applied for permission under Section 5 (1) (c) (ii) of the U.P.C.H.Act by way of abundant caution, accordingly, permission was granted by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation with the condition that the transfer shall be made up to 29.7.1972. He submitted that there was a restriction on transfer at the relevant point of time, accordingly, instead of execution of a sale deed, a registered agreement to sell was executed between the parties on 15.7.1972 and possession of the chak was delivered in favour of the petitioners. He submitted that as soon as the restriction on transfer was lifted, a registered sale deed was executed by respondent no. 4 himself on 16.2.1973, as such, respondent no. 4 cannot object to the mutation of the names of the vendees over the chak in dispute. He further submitted that the object of permission under Section 5 (1) (c) (ii) of the U.P.C.H.Act was to see that the transfer did not result in fragmentation of holdings, and in the instant case, there was a transfer of the complete chak no. 70 in favour of the petitioners, as such, there was no fragmentation of holdings at all. He submitted that in view of the restriction on transfer at the relevant point of time and the execution of the sale deed on 16.2.1973 as soon as restriction on transfer was lifted is sufficient grounds for the execution of the sale deed after the time period fixed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation under Section 5 (1) (c) (ii) of the U.P.C.H.Act He placed reliance upon the following judgments of this Court in order to demonstrate that if a sale deed has been executed after the time period fixed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation under Section 5 (1) (c) (ii) of the U.P.C.H.Act it cannot be held to be void.

1. 1996 (87) RD 544 Lalta Prasad Srivastava vs. IXth Additional District Judge,Agra.

2. 1997 (88) RD 285 Smt. Sita Devi vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation, Jaunpur and others

3. 2018 (138) RD 685 Surya Narayan vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation

7. On the other hand, learned standing counsel for the State respondents submitted that there is no illegality in the exercise of jurisdiction by consolidation authorities, as the sale deed was executed by respondent no. 4 in violation of the condition mentioned in the order of permission granted by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act. He submitted that all three consolidation authorities have recorded concurrent findings; as such, there is no scope for interference against the impugned judgments passed by the consolidation authorities. He further submitted that the argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners that possession was transferred to the petitioners on 15.7.1972 in pursuance of the registered agreement to sell executed by respondent no. 4 cannot be accepted, as there is no document which demonstrates that possession was transferred to the petitioners. He further submitted that the argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners that complete chak was transferred by respondent no. 4 in favour of the petitioners is also incorrect as such, permission was very much necessary for making transfer during consolidation operations. He further submitted that no interference is required in this matter and the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

8. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners, learned standing counsel for the State respondents, and perused the record.

9. There is no dispute about the fact that respondent no. 4 was the recorded owner of Chak No. 70 and respondent no. 4 had applied for permission to transfer Chak No. 70 in favour of the petitioners. There is also no dispute about the fact that the Settlement Officer of Consolidation granted permission on 30.6.1972 under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act in favour of respondent no. 4 to execute the sale deed of Chak No. 70 in favour of the petitioners up to 29.7.1972. There is also no dispute about the fact that the sale deed was actually executed on 16.2.1973 by respondent no. 4 in favour of the petitioners.There is also no dispute about the fact that an application for mutation was filed on behalf of the petitioners which has been rejected by the Consolidation Officer on the ground that the sale deed executed on 16.2.1973 is void, as the time limit for execution of the sale deed was only up to 29.7.1972. There is also no dispute about the fact that the appeal under Section 11(1) of the U.P.C.H. Act and the revision under Section 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act filed by the petitioners have also been dismissed by the Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation and Deputy Director of Consolidation.

10. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, perusal of Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act will be relevant, which is as under:

"5.Effect of notification under Section (4) .....

(c) notwithstanding anything contained in the U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, no tenure-holder, except with the permission in writing of the Settlement Officer, Consolidation, previously obtained shall-

(ii). transfer by way of sale, gift or exchange his holding or any part thereof in the consolidation area."

11. The aforesaid Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act has been omitted by U.P. Act No. 30 of 1991 w.e.f. 19.2.1991. In view of the aforesaid omission of Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act, there is no necessity for taking permission for making transfer during consolidation operations with effect from 19.2.1991, but in the instant matter execution of sale deed was made in the year 1973 in pursuance of the permission granted in the year 1972, as such, the instant matter will be examined in the light of the provisions of Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of U.P.C.H. Act, which was existing in the year 1972-73.

12. In order to adjudicate the controversy involved in the matter, it will be necessary to examine the ratio of law laid down by this Court in the case of Lalta Prasad Srivastava (supra), in which this Court, while considering the provision contained under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of U.P.C.H. Act, has held that the invalidity of a transfer resulting in the absence of prior permission as provided under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act does not per-se render the transaction void or legally ineffective and the invalidity is curable. Paragraphs No. 28, 29, and 30 of the judgment rendered in Lalta Prasad Srivastav (supra) will be relevant for perusal, which are as under:

"28. A Full Bench of this Court in its decision in the case of Smt. Ram Rati and others v. Gram Samai. Jehwa and others reported in A. I. R. 1974 Allahabad 106 had clarified that the ban envisaged under clause (ii) of Section 5 of U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act was intended to prevent fragmentation of holdings and as such it was placed only on a transfer of a part of the holding. There could be no objection to the transfer of the holding as a whole because it would not involve fragmentation but would involve only a change in ownership. The Full Bench observed that the scheme under lying the Act was to consolidate agricultural holdings and to prevent their further fragmentation for which the said provision and been made. It is also observed that it was not the intention to restrict the right of an owner to deal with his property by way of sale, exchange or transfer except to the ex tent that the necessary to carry out the objects of the Act. The Full Bench further observed that the expression any holding occurring in clause (i) of S. 5 (I) (c) of the act does not include the whole holding so that it is not necessary to obtain the permission of Settlement Officer (Consolidation) for the transfer of the holding as a whole.

29. It seems to me that the invalidity of a transfer resulting in the absence of the prior permission as envisaged under Section 5(1) (c) (i) of the U. P. Consolidation of Holdings Act does not per se render the transaction void or legally ineffective. The invalidity is curable.-Considering the policy and the object behind the aforesaid provisions, this invalidity can be cured before the finalisation of the provisional consolidation scheme. It is obvious that to begin with the Settlement Officer (Consolidation) had granted the permission which was to remain effective for thirty days but considering that the sale had been executed after the period provided for in the order passed in the year 1977, the Settlement Officer (Consolidation) again granted the permission in March 1978 extending the duration of the earlier permission. The in validity if any, therefore, stood cured as it is no bodys case that the provisional consolidation scheme had attained finality by the date of permission which had been granted for the second time.

30. In the aforesaid view of the matter the transfer in question could not be held to be void or non-est being legally ineffectual or without any authority of law."

13. This Court, in the case of Smt. Sita Devi (supra), has held that a sale deed executed beyond the period fixed in the permission order cannot be held to be void. Paragraph No. 6 of the judgment rendered in Smt. Sita Devi (supra), for perusal, which is as under:

"6. In case the permission is granted to execute the sale deed within a specified period and it has not been executed within that period but the vendees indicate the circumstances on account of which the delay occurred and if it is not on account of their conduct, the sale deed executed after the period fixed for its execution cannot be held to be void for want of permission as provided under Section 5(1) (c) of the Act. The intention of the legislature was that the sale deed should be executed with the permission of the Settlement Officer Consolidation so that the consolidation proceedings should not be jeopardised in the carvation of chaks. In Lalji v. Joint Director of Consolidation and others, it was held that the purpose of grant of permission by the Settlement Officer Consolidation to the proposed transfer of the land under Section 5(1) (c) is that the transfer does not have adverse effect on the consolidation scheme. Respondent No.1 has found that the vendees were not in any way guilty of laches. The sale deed shall be obtained by them cannot be treated as invalid."

14. In the case of Surya Narayan (supra), it has been held that in case the whole land is transferred, there is no necessity for taking permission from the Settlement Officer of Consolidation. Paragraphs 21 to 26 of the judgment rendered in Surya Narayan (supra) will be necessary, which are as under:

"21. From the above discussion, it is quite clear that for transfer of part of the land, the permission from the Settlement Officer, Consolidation is required as per Section 5 (c) (ii) of the Act. In case whole land is transferred, then there is no necessity for taking the permission from the Settlement Officer, Consolidation. The permission has been obtained by the respondent-5 from the Settlement Officer, Consolidation in the present case on 31.1.1973 and accordingly, the registered sale-deed was executed by the respondent-5 in favour of the petitioners. Therefore, the sale-deed has been executed in accordance with the permission granted by Settlement Officer, Consolidation.

22. So far as the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner that the registered instrument cannot be ignored in the mutation proceeding and for that purpose, suit has to be filed for cancellation of the said instrument. Here the statute provides that permission has to be obtained in respect of the transfer of any part of the holding falls within consolidation area and in absence of the said permission, the registered instrument rendered void and in such circumstances, there is no necessity for filing any suit for cancellation of sale-deed.

23. So far as the question that the present sale-deed in question has been executed by the respondent-5 in favour of the petitioners in order to evade the payment of loan alleged to have taken from the Society, it is clear from the record that the award as well as sale-deed has been executed on the same day and prior to sale-deed, 20 times land revenue has been deposited by the respondent-5, even he applied for obtaining the permission from the Settlement Officer, Consolidation and in such circumstances, it cannot be said that the sale-deed has been executed by the respondent-5 in order to evade the payment of loan and to render the award ineffective. If any award is passed against the respondent-5 under any statute that has to be executed in accordance with law even in absence of the land, which has been sold by the respondent-5.

24. All the Consolidation Authorities have committed illegality while holding that the sale-deed has been executed contrary to the permission granted by the Settlement Officer, Consolidation. The provisions of Section 5 (c) (ii) of the Act as stood prior to amendment by U.P. Act No. 34 of 1974 has totally been ignored by them.

25. The writ petition deserve to be allowed and the impugned orders dated 23.7.1979, 25.10.1975 and 15.9.1973 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Deoria, Settlement Officer, Consolidation, Deoria and Consolidation Officer, Deoria respectively are quashed. Writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

26. The matter is remanded to the Consolidation Officer, Deoria to decide the mutation application of the petitioners afresh after hearing the parties in the light of the observations made above. Since, the matter is an old one and therefore, the same should be decided expeditiously preferably within a period of six months from the date of production of certified copy of this order. In the circumstances of the case, the parties shall bear their cost throughout."

15. Perusal of the judgment rendered in Lalta Prasad Srivastva (supra) fully demonstrates that transfer made in absence of prior permission as provided under Section 5(1)(c)(ii) of the U.P.C.H. Act does not per se render the transaction void or legally ineffective; rather, the invalidity is curable.

16. In the instant matter, the permission was granted, but due to ban on the transaction at the relevant point of time, the transfer could not be made; rather, a registered agreement to sell was executed and as soon as the ban was lifted, the registered agreement to sell was executed by respondent no. 4 on 16.2.1973 in favour of the petitioners, in pursuance of the permission granted by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation on 30.6.1972, as such, the mutation applied by the petitioners cannot be refused by the Consolidation Officer on the ground that the sale deed executed by respondent no. 4 is void

17. It is material to mention that respondent no. 4 himself executed the sale-deed as such, he cannot object the mutation proceedings in order to deprive the petitioners from the property which has been transferred in his favour by respondent no. 4 himself. It is also material to mention that, according to the petitioners, the entire Chak No. 70 was transferred by respondent no. 4 in favour of the petitioner but the version of the petitioners for transfer of the entire holding has been denied by private respondent no. 4.

18. Considering the ratio of law laid down by this Court in Lalta Prasad Srivastva (supra), Smt. Sita Devi (supra), and Surya Narayan (supra), as well as in the facts and circumstances of the case as mentioned, the orders dated 5.7.1978 passed by respondent no.1, 15.9.1977 passed by respondent no.2 and 10.5.1977 passed by respondent no.3 are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside.

19. The writ petition stands allowed.

20. Respondent No. 3- Consolidation Officer, Mirzapur, is directed to restore the proceeding on its original number and record the name of the petitioners in pursuance of the sale deed executed on 16.2.1973 over Chak No. 70, within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

21. No order as to costs.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SANTOSH RAI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 212 of 1986

Subhash Singh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction of the appellants under S. 376 read with S. 34 IPC for facilitating the commission of rape by the principal offenders is sustainable on the basis of the testimony of the prosecutrix and other witnesses, notwithstanding alleged contradictions, absence of an overt act of penetration by the appellants, the allegation of merely standing guard, the medical evidence regarding intact hymen, the affidavit of the related witness, and whether the sentence imposed by the trial court was legally sustainable in view of the statutory punishment prescribed for the offence. (Paras 6-23)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 376/34 - Common intention - Constructive liability - Participation in commission of rape - Exact role of each accused - Held, once common intention and participation are proved, it is not necessary to determine the precise role played by each accused in causing the final result - Participation may be active or even passive, provided it is intended to facilitate or advance the common design - Mere presence without sharing common intention or participating in commission of offence is insufficient - Common intention may be formed before the occurrence or even at the spot and may be inferred from conduct, nature of assault, behaviour before, during and after incident and surrounding circumstances. (Paras 11-12)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 34 - Rape - Facilitation of commission of offence - Standing guard - Absence of penetration by participant - Held, it is not necessary that an overt act of penetration be attributed to every person sought to be convicted with the aid of S. 34 - Catching hold of victim, pressing mouth and hands, overpowering victim and standing guard to warn companions of danger constitute participation intended to facilitate commission of rape and reflect a shared design - Such conduct attracts constructive liability. (Para 12)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Appreciation of evidence in sexual assault cases - Testimony of prosecutrix - Corroboration - Held, testimony of a prosecutrix, if found to be trustworthy, does not require corroboration as a rule of law - Minor discrepancies arising out of rustic, illiterate background of witnesses, trauma and passage of time cannot be treated as fatal - Broader probabilities of the case are to be examined and minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies which are not of a fatal nature are insufficient to discard an otherwise reliable prosecution case. (Paras 7-10)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 375 - Medical evidence - Intact hymen - Partial penetration - Held, penetration, howsoever slight, is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary for the offence of rape - Rupture of hymen is not a sine qua non for proving the offence - Absence of injuries or an intact hymen cannot, by itself, be a ground to discredit otherwise credible and consistent testimony of a victim of sexual assault. (Para 13)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376(2)(g) - Gang rape - Common intention - Deeming fiction - Held, for an offence committed in 1984, S. 376(2)(g) governed rape committed by more than one person acting together - Explanation 1 created a deeming fiction whereby where a woman is raped by one or more persons constituting a group acting in furtherance of their common intention, each person was deemed to have committed the offence of rape irrespective of whether he himself committed the act of penetration - Actual penetration by every accused was not necessary. (Paras 19-20)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376(2)(g) - Sentence - Minimum punishment - Fine - Adequate and special reasons - Held, the minimum punishment was ten years rigorous imprisonment unless the court recorded adequate and special reasons for awarding a lesser sentence - Failure to impose fine, though legally erroneous, could not be rectified in an appeal preferred by the convicted accused alone where such rectification would amount to enhancement of sentence and neither the State nor the victim had preferred an appeal seeking enhancement. (Para 21-22)

Criminal Law - Evidence - Related witness - FIR - Affidavit - Appreciation of testimony - Held, mere relationship of a witness with the victims cannot be a ground to discard testimony - A natural witness who responded to the alarm raised by the victims may inspire confidence and corroborate the core prosecution case - An affidavit sworn to oppose bail, by itself, does not discredit substantive testimony recorded before the Court on oath where the material particulars are broadly consistent. (Para 16)

Criminal Law - Sexual offences - Sentencing - Collective culpability - Appreciation of prosecutrix testimony - Held, sentencing must strike a judicious balance between the interests of the victim, the society and the accused - The testimony of the prosecutrix, where clear, clinching and unwavering, is sufficient to sustain conviction without insisting on corroboration in each and every particular - Circumstances involving multiple accused acting with a shared design to overpower and violate the victim aggravate the offence. (Paras 17-18)

Held: The testimony of a prosecutrix, if found to be trustworthy, does not require corroboration as a rule of law - minor discrepancies arising out of the rustic, illiterate background of the witnesses, or the trauma and passage of time, cannot be treated as fatal to the prosecution case - the consistent thread running through the statements of the witnesses, namely that the principal accused committed rape while the remaining accused persons facilitated and stood guard, was rightly accepted as the reliable core of the prosecution case - S. 34 of the Indian Penal Code embodies the principle of joint or constructive liability and is not a substantive offence but a rule of evidence and interpretation - when a criminal act is committed by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of them is liable for the entire act as if he alone had committed it - once common intention and participation are proved, it is not necessary to determine the precise role played by each accused in causing the final result - participation may be active or even passive, provided it is intended to facilitate or advance the common design - mere presence at the place of occurrence, without sharing the common intention or without participating in the commission of the offence, is not sufficient to invoke S. 34 - common intention may be formed before the occurrence or even at the spot and may be inferred from the conduct of the accused, the nature of the assault, their behaviour before, during and after the incident, and the surrounding circumstances - it is not necessary that an overt act of penetration be attributed to every person sought to be convicted with its aid - conduct consisting of catching hold of the victim, pressing her mouth and hands, assisting in overpowering the victim and standing guard to warn the other accused of any danger was not that of a passive bystander but reflected a shared, pre-arranged design to overpower the victims and facilitate their ravishment - the argument founded on intact hymen does not assist the accused as penetration, howsoever slight, is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary for the offence of rape and rupture of the hymen is not a sine qua non for proving the offence - the absence of injuries or an intact hymen cannot, by itself, be a ground to discredit an otherwise credible and consistent testimony of a victim of sexual assault - for an offence committed in 1984, S. 376(2)(g) IPC governed rape committed by more than one person acting together and Explanation 1 created a deeming fiction that where a woman is raped by one or more persons constituting a group acting in furtherance of their common intention, each of the persons shall be deemed to have committed the offence of rape, irrespective of whether he himself committed the act of penetration - actual penetration by every accused was not necessary - the trial court correctly appreciated the oral testimony of the witnesses of fact read with the medical and other corroborative evidence and rightly attributed distinct and specific roles to the accused in furtherance of the common intention to facilitate the commission of rape - the minimum punishment under S. 376(2)(g) was ten years rigorous imprisonment unless adequate and special reasons were recorded for awarding a lesser sentence - the trial court committed material legal error in not imposing the fine and in not recording adequate and special reasons for awarding sentence below the statutory limit - nevertheless, in an appeal preferred by the convicted accused alone, imposition of fine would amount to enhancement of sentence and could not be rectified in the present appellate proceedings - no perversity, illegality or infirmity was shown in the impugned judgment warranting interference in appeal - appeal dismissed and conviction and sentence affirmed in respect of the surviving appellants, with direction to surrender before the trial court within two weeks to serve out the remaining sentence and with benefit under S. 428 Cr.P.C. (Paras 7-27) (E-7)

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal against the judgment and order dated 6.12.1985 passed by the II Additional Sessions Judge, Rampur, in Sessions Trial No.142 of 1984, whereby the accused appellants were convicted and sentenced under S. 376/34 IPC.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae
Advs. for the Respondents:
Sri Purushottam Maurya, learned AGA for the State

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant nos.1,3; Sri Purushottam Maurya, learned AGA for the State and perused the material on record.

2. Three accused appellants have filed the instant appeal in the year 1986, but when the matter is taken up for hearing today, we were informed that one of them namely, Shanti has already died, hence the appeal qua him has already abated. The surviving appellants are Subhash Singh and Sher Singh.

3. The present appeal has been preferred by the appellants to set aside the judgment and order dated 6.12.1985 passed by the II Additional Sessions Judge, Rampur, in Sessions Trial No.142 of 1984 (State Vs. Subhash Singh & Ors.), under Section 376/34 IPC, Police Station Tanda, District Rampur, whereby the accused appellants have been convicted and sentenced to five years rigorous imprisonment under Section 376/34 IPC.

4. The prosecution case, briefly stated, is that on 14.3.1984 the prosecutrix Smt. Rafeeqan (P.W.2) and her brother's daughter Kumari Nayab Jahan (P.W.3) had gone to the jungle of village Badli to collect dry leaves from the grove of Vishnu Autar, where the five accused persons, who were tending their cattle nearby, are alleged to have surrounded the two girls. It is alleged that accused Preetam and Shanti caught hold of Smt. Rafeeqan and threw her into a pit, while accused Pooran and Sher Singh similarly overpowered Kumari Nayab Jahan. Accused Preetam is alleged to have cut the naara of the shalwar of Smt. Rafeeqan with a knife and committed rape upon her, appellant Subhash Singh and Shanti having pressed her mouth and hands. Accused Pooran is alleged to have committed rape upon Kumari Nayab Jahan, appellant Sher Singh having assisted in overpowering her and standing guard. The alarm raised by the victims attracted P.W.1 Amir Ahmed, brother of P.W.2 and father of P.W.3, whereupon the accused persons fled. A first information report was lodged the same day, and after investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against all five accused persons.

5. The learned trial court, upon appreciation of the ocular testimony of P.W.1 Amir Ahmed, P.W.2 Smt. Rafeeqan and P.W.3 Kumari Nayab Jahan, read with the medical evidence of P.W.5 Dr. S.C. Gupta and P.W.6 Dr. (Mrs.) Sheela Khanna, held that the prosecution had proved beyond reasonable doubt that accused Preetam committed rape upon Smt. Rafeeqan and accused Pooran committed rape upon Kumari Nayab Jahan, and that the appellants Subhash Singh and Shanti had, in furtherance of the common intention to facilitate the commission of rape upon Smt. Rafeeqan, caught her hands and pressed her mouth, while appellant Sher Singh had similarly assisted in facilitating the rape upon Kumari Nayab Jahan and stood guard to warn his companions of any danger. The trial court accordingly convicted the appellants with the aid of Section 34 IPC.

6. Learned Amicus Curiae for the appellants has assailed the impugned judgment on the following grounds: (i) that the statements of P.W.2 and P.W.3 are riddled with material contradictions regarding the specific role attributed to each accused, rendering their testimony unsafe for conviction; (ii) that no specific overt act constituting rape has been attributed to the appellants, who were, at best, alleged to have facilitated the commission of the offence by the principal accused; (iii) that no independent role has been assigned to appellant Sher Singh, who was merely alleged to be "standing guard", which cannot by itself found a conviction with the aid of Section 34 IPC; (iv) that the medical evidence, particularly the finding of an intact hymen in respect of Kumari Nayab Jahan, is inconsistent with the prosecution case of rape by five persons; and (v) that the FIR and the testimony of P.W.1, being interested witnesses, ought not to have been relied upon, more particularly in view of the affidavit dated 30.3.1984 wherein P.W.1 had alleged that all five accused persons had committed rape upon both the prosecutrix turn by turn, a version at variance with the case set up at trial.

7. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, we find no merit in these submissions. It is well settled that the testimony of a prosecutrix, if found to be trustworthy, does not require corroboration as a rule of law, and minor discrepancies arising out of the rustic, illiterate background of the witnesses, or the trauma and passage of time, cannot be treated as fatal to the prosecution case.

8. In Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat, (1983) 3 SCC 217, Honble Supreme Court held in para 11 as under:-

"11.....We are therefore of the opinion that if the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity, and the probabilities factor does not render it unworthy of credence, as a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except from the medical evidence, where, having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming, subject to the following qualification : Corroboration may be insisted upon when a woman having attained majority is found in a compromising position and there is a likelihood of her having levelled such an accusation on account of the instinct of self-preservation. Or when the probabilities factor is found to be out of tune."

9. In State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384 Honble Apex Court held in para 21 as under:-

"21. Of late, crime against women in general and rape in particular is on the increase. It is an irony that while we are celebrating woman's rights in all spheres, we show little or no concern for her honour. It is a sad reflection on the attitude of indifference of the society towards the violation of human dignity of the victims of sex crimes. We must remember that a rapist not only violates the victim's privacy and personal integrity, but inevitably causes serious psychological as well as physical harm in the process. Rape is not merely a physical assault it is often destructive of the whole personality of the victim. A murderer destroys the physical body of his victim, a rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female. The courts, therefore, shoulder a great responsibility while trying an accused on charges of rape. They must deal with such cases with utmost sensitivity. The courts should examine the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix, which are not of a fatal nature, to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. If evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence, it must be relied upon without seeking corroboration of her statement in material particulars. If for some reason the court finds it difficult to place implicit reliance on her testimony, it may look for evidence which may lend assurance to her testimony, short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. The testimony of the prosecutrix must be appreciated in the background of the entire case and the trial court must be alive to its responsibility and be sensitive while dealing with cases involving sexual molestations."

10. Thus, in the light of principle laid down in above cases, the trial court has, in my view, correctly appreciated the ocular testimony of P.W.2 and P.W.3 by separating the core of their statements, namely, that they were forcibly waylaid, thrown into a pit, and ravished, from the embellishments and exaggerations natural to young, agitated victims giving evidence of a traumatic sexual assault before a court of law. The consistent thread running through the statements of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3, namely that accused Pooran raped Kumari Nayab Jahan and accused Preetam raped Smt. Rafeeqan while the remaining three accused persons facilitated and stood guard, has rightly been accepted by the trial court as the reliable core of the prosecution case.

11. Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code embodies the principle of joint or constructive liability. It is not a substantive offence but a rule of evidence and interpretation which provides that when a criminal act is committed by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of them is liable for the entire act as if he alone had committed it. The law proceeds on the principle that where two or more persons act together to achieve a common unlawful object, the act of one becomes the act of all. Once common intention and participation are proved, it is not necessary to determine the precise role played by each accused in causing the final result. In such a situation, the responsibility is common because the intention is common. For attracting Section 34 IPC, the prosecution must establish not only the existence of a common intention but also the participation of the accused in the commission of the crime. Such participation may be active or even passive, provided it is intended to facilitate or advance the common design. Mere presence at the place of occurrence, without sharing the common intention or without participating in the commission of the offence, is not sufficient to invoke Section 34. The common intention may be formed before the occurrence or even at the spot, and in most cases it has to be inferred from the conduct of the accused, the nature of the assault, their behaviour before, during and after the incident, and the surrounding circumstances. Thus, where the accused jointly participate in carrying out the criminal act in furtherance of a shared intention, each of them becomes equally liable for the offence committed.

12. On the question of constructive liability under Section 34 IPC, it is well settled that common intention may develop on the spot and can be inferred from the conduct of the accused, the manner of the assault, and the roles played by each participant, and that it is not necessary that an overt act of penetration be attributed to every person sought to be convicted with its aid. In the present case, the evidence establishes that appellants Subhash Singh and Shanti caught hold of Smt. Rafeeqan and pressed her mouth and hands to facilitate the rape upon her by accused Preetam, and that appellant Sher Singh actively assisted in overpowering Kumari Nayab Jahan and thereafter stood guard to warn the other accused of any danger, thereby enabling the commission of rape upon her by accused Pooran. Such conduct is not that of a passive bystander but reflects a shared, pre-arranged design to overpower the two girls and facilitate their ravishment, squarely attracting Section 34 IPC. The argument that no role can be fastened on appellant Sher Singh merely because he did not himself commit penetration is misconceived; one who keeps watch to enable his companions to commit an offence is as much a participant in the common intention as the principal offender, on the time-tested principle that "they also serve who only stand and wait□.

13. The submission founded on the medical evidence, namely that the hymen of Kumari Nayab Jahan was found intact and therefore rape could not have taken place, does not assist the appellants. The Explanation to Section 375 IPC, as it stood at the relevant time, makes it clear that penetration, howsoever slight, is sufficient to constitute the sexual intercourse necessary for the offence of rape, and rupture of the hymen is not a sine qua non for proving the offence. The medical witness herself admitted the possibility of partial penetration without rupture of the hymen. This position has since been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, which has repeatedly held that the absence of injuries or an intact hymen cannot, by itself, be a ground to discredit an otherwise credible and consistent testimony of a victim of sexual assault. In State of H.P. v. Sanjay Kumar, (2017) 2 SCC 51 Honble Apex Court held as under:-

"31...By now it is well settled that the testimony of a victim in cases of sexual offences is vital and unless there are compelling reasons which necessitate looking for corroboration of a statement, the courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of the victim of a sexual assault alone to convict the accused. No doubt, her testimony has to inspire confidence. Seeking corroboration to a statement before relying upon the same as a rule, in such cases, would literally amount to adding insult to injury. The deposition of the prosecutrix has, thus, to be taken as a whole. Needless to reiterate that the victim of rape is not an accomplice and her evidence can be acted upon without corroboration. She stands at a higher pedestal than an injured witness does. If the court finds it difficult to accept her version, it may seek corroboration from some evidence which lends assurance to her version. To insist on corroboration, except in the rarest of rare cases, is to equate one who is a victim of the lust of another with an accomplice to a crime and thereby insult womanhood. It would be adding insult to injury to tell a woman that her claim of rape will not be believed unless it is corroborated in material particulars, as in the case of an accomplice to a crime. Why should the evidence of the girl or the woman who complains of rape or sexual molestation be viewed with the aid of spectacles fitted with lenses tinged with doubt, disbelief or suspicion? The plea about lack of corroboration has no substance (See Bhupinder Sharma v. State of H.P. [Bhupinder Sharma v. State of H.P., (2003) 8 SCC 551 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 31])....."

14. In Raju @ Umakant Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh 2025 8 SCC 281, Honble Supreme Court held in para nos.22,23 as under:-

22. Further, in Ashok Kumar v. State of Haryana [Ashok Kumar v. State of Haryana, (2003) 2 SCC 143 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 446] , it was held as under: (SCC p. 146, para 8)

"8. Charge against the appellant is under Section 376(2)(g)IPC. In order to establish an offence under Section 376(2)(g)IPC, read with Explanation I thereto, the prosecution must adduce evidence to indicate that more than one accused had acted in concert and in such an event, if rape had been committed by even one, all the accused will be guilty irrespective of the fact that she had been raped by one or more of them and it is not necessary for the prosecution to adduce evidence of a completed act of rape by each one of the accused. In other words, this provision embodies a principle of joint liability and the essence of that liability is the existence of common intention; that common intention presupposes prior concert which may be determined from the conduct of offenders revealed during the course of action and it could arise and be formed suddenly, but, there must be meeting of minds. It is not enough to have the same intention independently of each of the offenders. In such cases, there must be criminal sharing marking out a certain measure of jointness in the commission of offence.

23. In view of this, it is very clear that in a case of gang rape under Section 376(2)(g), an act by one is enough to render all in the gang for punishment as long as they have acted in furtherance of the common intention. Further, common intention is implicit in the charge of Section 376(2)(g) itself and all that is needed is evidence to show the existence of common intention."

15. Thus, in the light of principle laid down by the Supreme Court in above case laws and fact and circumstances in totality, I am of considered view that the argument of the learned amicus curiae for the appellants in this regard is very fake, hence liable to be rejected.

16. As regards the affidavit of P.W.1 dated 30.3.1984, the trial court has rightly noted that the same appears to have been sworn to oppose the bail application of the accused persons and does not, by itself, discredit the substantive testimony of P.W.1 recorded before the court on oath, which is broadly consistent with the statements of P.W.2 and P.W.3 on the material particulars. The mere relationship of P.W.1 with the victims, being the brother of one and father of the other, cannot be a ground to discard his testimony; rather, being a natural witness present at or near the spot of occurrence who responded to the alarm raised by the victims, his evidence inspires confidence and is corroborative of the core prosecution case.

17. This Court may also usefully refer to the recent pronouncement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court on the approach to be adopted while dealing with offences of gang rape and the appreciation of the collective culpability of persons acting in concert. In Ehsaan v. State (NCT of Delhi), 2026 SCC OnLine SC 1356, the Supreme Court held in para 6.3 and 6.4 as under:-

6.3. In State of Karnataka v. Krishnappa (2000) 4 SCC 75 three-Judge Bench of this Court observed as follows to the effect that a retributive view in cases involving the offence of rape is entirely justified:

"18. .The measure of punishment in a case of rape cannot depend upon the social status of the victim or the accused. It must depend upon the conduct of the accused, the state and age of the sexually assaulted female and the gravity of the criminal act. Crimes of violence upon women need to be severely dealt with. The socio-economic status, religion, race, caste or creed of the accused or the victim are irrelevant considerations in sentencing policy. Protection of society and deterring the criminal is the avowed object of law and that is required to be achieved by imposing an appropriate sentence. The sentencing courts are expected to consider all relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence. Courts must hear the loud cry for justice by the society in cases of the heinous crime of rape on innocent helpless girls of tender years, as in this case, and respond by imposition of proper sentence. Public abhorrence of the crime needs reflection through imposition of appropriate sentence by the court. ."

The view above was referred to by a Bench of equal strength in Shimbhu v. State of Haryana (2014) 13 SCC 318.

6.4. When a sentence is imposed on an offender, it is done so with tri-fold purpose i.e. punitive, deterrent and protective. The overall objective is to rid the society of criminal proclivity.

The same is done by ensuring that the sentence imposed is proportional to the offence or in other words not overly influenced by the possibility of reformation and instead, striking a judicious balance between the interest of the victim, society and the accused, after following the due process of law. We have considered a number of other judgments also inter-alia Allauddin Mian v. State of Bihar (1989) 3 SCC 5; Navas v. State of Kerala (2024) 14 SCC 82; Sevaka Perumal v. State of T.N (1991) 3 SCC 471; and Parsuram v. State of M.P.1 (2019) 8 SCC 382. The following aspects reveal themselves when viewed from the lens of imposition of sentence. It must:

(a) Be in accordance with the nature and gravity of the crime;

(b) Adequately protect the interest of the society;

(c) Take into account the deterrent purpose of punishment;

(d) Consider the motive behind the crime, if any;

(e) Give due weight to the conduct of the accused;

(f) Examine whether the crime in question was pre-meditated or not;

(g) Keep in view the age of the accused and whether he has engaged in any similar offence in past for which he has been duly convicted;

(h) Account for the number of victims of the offence;

(i) Not consider the religion, race, caste or creed of the offender as a factor;

(j) Consider the possibility of reformation of the accused. It is the duty of the State to establish that the same does not exist; and

(k) The abuse of trust or misuse of personal relationship, if any.

The facets identified by us above are illustrative and not exhaustive. A holistic view of the entire case must be taken in the attending facts of each case. Considering all these factors among others, the foremost duty of the Court is to assess the evidence in a given case; imposing just and adequate punishment upon the accused."

18. The Supreme Court in the above judgment, while dealing with a conviction under Section 376D IPC (gang rape), reiterated that sentencing in such cases must strike a judicious balance between the interests of the victim, the society and the accused, and that the testimony of the prosecutrix, where clear, clinching and unwavering, is sufficient to sustain a conviction without insisting on corroboration in each and every particular. The Court further emphasized that circumstances such as the involvement of multiple accused acting with a shared design to overpower and violate the victim aggravate the offence, and that courts must remain alive to the trauma and helplessness of victims subjected to sexual violence by more than one person acting in concert. Though the said decision arises under Section 376D IPC, a provision introduced by the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 2013 and therefore not attracted to an offence of 1984, which continues to be governed by Section 376(2)(g), the underlying principles of appreciation of victim testimony and collective culpability of persons acting in concert to facilitate a sexual offence remain equally instructive and apposite to the facts of the present case.

19. In this case at hand, the offence was committed in 1984, the applicable law was the Indian Penal Code, 1860 as it stood before the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 2013. The concept of □gang rape□ existed, but in a more limited form than today. The applicable provision was Section 376(2)(g) IPC, which was inserted by the Criminal Law (Amendment) Act, 1983 (Act 43 of 1983) and came into force on 25 December 1983. Thus, for an offence committed in 1984, Section 376(2)(g) IPC governed rape committed by more than one person acting together. Section 376(2)(g) Explanation 1 provided, in substance:-

"Where a woman is raped by one or more persons constituting a group acting in furtherance of their common intention, each of the persons shall be deemed to have committed the offence of rape, irrespective of whether he himself committed the act of penetration."

20. This provision created a deeming fiction. Therefore actual penetration by every accused was not necessary. If the accused acted as a group in furtherance of their common intention, every participant was legally guilty of rape. It was a statutory application of the principle similar to Section 34 IPC, specifically incorporated into the offence of gang rape.

21. The punishment under Section 376(2) IPC, including clause (g):-

"376.(2) (g)-Whoever commits gang rape, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than ten years, but which may for life and shall also be liable to fine.

Provided that the court may, for adequate and special reasons to be mentioned in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment of either description for a term of less than ten years."

22. The Court could impose a sentence of less than 10 years only for adequate and special reasons, which had to be recorded in the judgment. Thus, the minimum punishment was 10 years□ rigorous imprisonment, unless the court recorded special reasons for awarding a lesser sentence. The trial court has committed material legal error in this regard, no specific reasons have been recorded with the impugned judgment. Where the IPC provision prescribes punishment in the form:□□shall be punished with imprisonment □ and shall also be liable to fine□, or□ □with imprisonment and fine□, the trial court is expected to impose fine also. Failure to impose fine amounts to an error in sentencing. It is true that the learned trial court has committed an error in not imposing the fine though the penal provision contemplates punishment of imprisonment coupled with fine. Nevertheless, the present appeal has been preferred only by the convicted accused. Neither the State nor the victim has preferred any appeal seeking enhancement of sentence, nor has any revisional jurisdiction for enhancement been invoked after due notice. Since imposition of fine would undoubtedly amount to enhancement of the sentence already awarded, this Court, while deciding the appeal preferred by the accused alone, cannot place him in a more disadvantageous position.

The omission of the trial court, though legally erroneous, cannot therefore be rectified in the present appellate proceedings.

23. Having regard to the foregoing discussion, we find that the trial court has correctly appreciated the oral testimony of the witnesses of fact, read with the medical and other corroborative evidence on record, and has rightly attributed distinct and specific roles to each of the appellants in furtherance of the common intention to facilitate the commission of rape upon the two victims, so as to bring their case within the ambit of Section 376 read with Section 34 IPC (gang rape) The findings recorded by the trial court regarding conviction are well reasoned and proper, being in consonance with the settled principles governing appreciation of evidence in cases of sexual assault, and call for no interference by this Court, at the same time committed material legal error by not imposing mandatory fine for the offence of rape. Furthermore no adequate and special reason has been recorded in the judgment for awarding sentence below the statutory limit and excess leniency has been adopted by the Trial Court, except as discussed above, no perversity, illegality or infirmity has been shown in the impugned judgment warranting interference in appeal.

24. For the reasons aforesaid, the appeal fails and is hereby dismissed qua appellants Subhash Singh and Sher Singh.

25. The conviction and sentence recorded by the II Additional Sessions Judge, Rampur, vide judgment and order dated 6.12.1985 in Sessions Trial No.142 of 1984 is hereby affirmed in respect of appellants Subhash Singh and Sher Singh.

26. The appellants Subhash Singh and Sher Singh, who are on bail, shall surrender before the trial court within a period of two weeks from today to serve out the remaining sentence, failing which the trial court shall take coercive steps including non bailable warrant, to secure their custody in accordance with law.

27. The appellants shall be entitled to benefit under Section 428 Cr.P.C.

28. Let trial court record along with copy of this judgment be transmitted □forthwith□ to the court concerned for information and necessary compliance.

29. The trial court is directed to submit its compliance report within two months from the date of receipt of this order. Further more, the registry is also directed to place the compliance report on record.

30. The Registrar (Compliance) is also directed to serve a copy of this order within two days by FAX/e-mail to the trial court through District & Sessions Judge concerned for compliance.

31. Let Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae, who has been appointed as Amicus Curiae in this case vide order dated 5.12.2025 be paid remuneration of Rs.25,000/-, within a period of two weeks from today.

32. Before parting with this judgment, this Court records its appreciation for the sincere assistance rendered by the Research Associates, Mr. Shivansh Pandey, Mr. Sandeep Kumar Singh and Law Intern Ms. Ishika Rai, in researching the legal issues involved and assisting in the preparation of this judgment. Their efforts are gratefully acknowledged.

Criminal Appeal No. 217 of 2021

Sabal Singh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The appellants challenged their conviction and sentence under section 147, 149, 302, 201 IPC for the alleged abduction of the victim from the informant's house and fatally assaulted him with lathis and dandas over personal enmity, leaving his body in front of a neighbor's house.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

Both these criminal appeals bearing Nos. 241 of 2021 and 217 of 2021 have been preferred by accused-appellants, Sabal Singh, Man Singh, Mangal Singh, Lallu Kahar and Sumer Singh, against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.12.2020 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot in Session Trial No. 70 of 2012 (State of Uttar Pradesh v. Sabal Singh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 23 of 2012, under Sections 147, 302/149, 201, 120B IPC, Police station Pahadi, District Chitrakoot.

2. By the impugned judgment and order dated 10.12.2020, the learned Trial Court sentenced the accused-appellants under Section 147 IPC to undergo two years imprisonment and fine of Rs. 2000/- each and in default of payment of fine, to undergo one month s additional imprisonment. Under Section 302 read with Section 149 IPC, the accused-appellants were sentenced for life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 20,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they were directed to undergo additional imprisonment of six months. Under Section 201 IPC, the accused-appellants were sentenced to undergo three years imprisonment and fine of Rs. 2000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they were directed to undergo three months additional imprisonment. All the sentences were ordered to run concurrently.

3. The facts of the case as revealed from the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, which was lodged by informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) are that he has given a written report, Exhibit Ka-1, dated 08.02.2012. In this written report, informant (PW-1) has stated that he is a resident of Village Kaheta, Police Station Pahadi, District Chitrakoot. Yesterday on 07.02.2012 at 10:30 PM, Veer Singh, son of his aunt (bua), resident of Village Ranipur, Police Station Kamasin, was sitting on the door. At that time, Sabal Singh, Man Singh, Mangal Singh and Sumer Singh, all sons of Kedar Singh, and Lallu Kahar, resident of the village came to his door and took Veer Singh with them. They in front of their door brutally assaulted Veer Singh, due to which he died on the spot. The dead body of the deceased is lying in front of the door of Natthu Teli. Due to grief at night, he could not come to police station. Now he came to the police station to give information.

4. On the basis of written report, Exhibit Ka-1, as was lodged by informant PW-1 at police station Pahadi, the first information report (chik F.I.R.), Exhibit Ka-2, was registered by Head Constable Lala Bhaiya at Case Crime No. 23 of 2012, under Sections 147, 302, 201 IPC against all the named accused persons, appellants herein, and Sub Inspector Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5) took the charge of the investigation of the case.

5. Investigating Officer Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5) reached the place of occurrence, prepared the site plan, and inquired the witnesses present at the spot. He conducted the inquest proceedings (panchayatnama) of the deceased, Veer Singh, prepared the requisite police papers, and thereafter sent the dead body for post-mortem examination.

6. Dr. A.K. Mohan (PW-4) conducted the postmortem of the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh and prepared paper no. 19K/Exhibit Ka-4. According to the postmortem report, which was prepared by Dr. A.K. Mohan (PW-4), following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh :

(1) Contusion present on right side of scalp on frontal parietal region, size 10 cm x 4 cm.

(2) Abrasion present on left side of face and forehead size (1) 3 cm x 2 cm, (2) 2 cm x 2 cm, (3) 21 cm x 1 cm, (4) 1 cm x 1 cm.

(3) Contusion present on posterior aspect of right elbow size 8 cm x 6 cm, on incision, posterior dislocation of elbow present.

(4) Contusion present on left elbow posteriorly, size 7 cm x 8 cm and posterior dislocation of elbow present.

(5) Four contusion present on right thigh just above knee two transverse and two oblique size of transverse (1) 12 cm x 3 cm, (2) 11 cm x 3 cm oblique size (1) 15 cm x 3 cm, (2) 11 cm x 3 cm. No fracture of shaft of femur.

(6) Three contusion present on left thigh just above knee, two transverse on one oblique, size of transverse are (1) 10 cm x 3 cm, (2) 11 cm x 3 cm, oblique contusion size 16 cm x 3 cm. No fracture of underlying bone.

(7) Contusion present on left ankle on middle side size 5 cm x 2 cm. No fracture.

According to the postmortem report, cause of death of the deceased was asphyxia as a result of neurological shock (head injury).

7. Investigating Officer Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5) recorded the statements of the prosecution witnesses during the course of investigation. He further arrested the accused-appellants, Man Singh and Sabal Singh, on 09.02.2012 from Chaura Turning on the road and allegedly recovered one lathi and one danda, both made of bamboo, which were stated to have been used in the commission of the murder of the deceased, Veer Singh. The Investigating Officer made a fard recovery of these objects as Exhibit Ka-4. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, Investigating Officer Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5) submitted a charge-sheet against the accused-appellants in the Court of concerned Magistrate having jurisdiction.

8. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, hence learned concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial.

9. Charges were framed against the accused-appellants under Sections 147, 302/149, 201 and 120B IPC and they denied from the charges and claimed trial.

10. In order to substantiate the charges against the accused-appellants, the prosecution examined Sumer Singh (PW-1), the informant; Prabha Bai (PW-2); Lala Bhaiya (PW-3); Dr. A.K. Mohan (PW-4); Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5); Baldev Prasad (PW-6); Harivansh (PW-7); Kashi Prasad (PW-8); and Suresh Singh (PW-9). In addition to the oral testimony of these witnesses, the prosecution also relied upon documentary evidence, marked as Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-7.

11. In the Trial Court, the prosecution examined its witnesses and recorded their evidence. After the prosecution witnesses evidence was recorded, the accused-appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statements, the appellants denied the charges and contended that they had been falsely implicated due to village rivalry and politics. Although in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused-appellants have stated that they shall adduce evidence in their defence, but no defence evidence was adduced by them.

12. After completion of the trial, learned Sessions Judge, Chitrakoot after hearing the arguments of both the parties, perusing the oral as well as documentary evidence, held the accused-appellants guilty under Sections 147, 302/149, 201, 120B IPC and convicted them vide order dated 10.12.2020. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.12.2020, the appellants have preferred these criminal appeals before this Court.

13. We have heard the arguments of learned Counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the respondent/State. We have gone through all oral and documentary evidences and also perused the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.12.2020 passed by learned Trial Court.

14. Learned Counsel for the appellants has argued that Investigating Officer recorded the statement of prosecution witnesses but they did not attribute specific role to any of the accused as to who was the author of the fatal injury rather only general role of causing injuries was assigned to all accused persons. It is also submitted that after committal of the case, prosecution examined as many as nine witnesses, out of which, one Prabha Bai (PW-2) claimed herself to be the eye witness of the incident but she failed to describe the manner of occurrence of the event and she also failed to connect the appellants with the present case. It is further submitted that similarly, Harivansh (PW-7) also claimed himself to be the eye-witness of the said incident but he in his statement could not establish the guilt of the appellants and made material contradictory statement, which goes to show that he is not the eye-witness of the incident. In fact, there is no eyewitness to the incident; rather, the prosecution case is based on circumstantial evidence, but the chain of circumstances is incomplete and does not unerringly point to the guilt of the appellants. He has also submitted that although Investigating Officer claimed to have recovered lathi and danda at the instance of accused but no bloodstain was found on it. During the course of investigation, Investigating Officer did not find involvement of the appellant Sumer Singh in this case, as such, he submitted final report in his favour but during trial, learned trial Court summoned him under Section 319 Cr.P.C. to face trial on the application of the prosecution. Learned counsel for the appellants has also submitted that prosecution failed to prove the motive of the occurrence rather some of the witnesses deposed that present incident occurred due to previous enmity between the parties. All accused-appellants have been implicated on the basis of suspicion, village party bandi and enmity. Prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt by adducing cogent and reliable evidence.

15. On the basis of above arguments, learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that learned Trial Court has not appreciated the prosecution evidence in right perspective. Learned Trial Court misread the evidence. Learned Trial Court only considered the examination-in-chief of all the prosecution witnesses and has not considered the cross-examination of any of the prosecution witnesses in the finding and reasoning as given by the learned Trial Court. In the light of the above arguments and submissions, learned Counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by learned Trial Court is totally against the evidence available on record and is also against the settled principles of law. Hence, in view of the above, criminal appeals of the accused-appellants are liable to be allowed and judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by learned Trial Court is liable to be set aside.

16. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the respondent/State has submitted that prosecution story has been supported by the reliable eye-witnesses in this case, who have fully supported the prosecution story. Deceased Veer Singh was brutally assaulted by the accused-appellants with lathi and danda, which caused fatal injuries on the body of the deceased, due to which deceased Veer Singh died on the spot. Learned A.G.A. for the State has also submitted that there are no material and major contradictions in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses as recorded in the trial Court. The evidence of the prosecution witnesses fully supported the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. Learned A.G.A. for the State lastly submitted that prosecution was fully able to prove the guilt of the accused-appellants by their evidence beyond reasonable doubt. The finding and reasoning given by the learned Trial Court to hold the accused-appellants guilty is fully based on the evidence available on record. No perversity or illegality has been committed by the learned Trial Court in convicting the accused-appellants, hence criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants are liable to be rejected.

17. In view of the rival submissions advanced by learned Counsel for the parties, we find that all accused-appellants were named in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, by informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) for brutally assaulting the deceased Veer Singh with lathi and danda and causing his death.

18. From perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is revealed that the incident took place on 07.02.2012 at 10:30 PM. However, the informant, Sumer Singh (PW-1), lodged the written report at the concerned police station on 08.02.2012 at 7:30 AM. The delay of more than nine hours in lodging the F.I.R. is stated to be due to the grief caused by the incident. Informant Sumer Singh (PW-1), in his examination-in-chief, stated that the cause of delay was that, due to fear during the night, he did not go to the police station. However, in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the cause of delay in lodging the report promptly was stated by the informant as grief caused by the incident. Thus, in the written report, the reason for the delay is mentioned as grief due to the incident, whereas in his examination-in-chief, the reason for not lodging the F.I.R. during the night is stated to be fear. It is also revealed from the evidence of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) that he has a two-wheeler motorcycle. It is further revealed that the neighbors living adjacent to his house have a four-wheeler vehicle, and there were many other two and four-wheeler vehicles in the village. From the evidence, it is also revealed that Police Station Pahadi was situated at a distance of only seven kilometers from the place of occurrence. It is also amply clear that, after the incident, the informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and other prosecution witnesses did not take the deceased, Veer Singh, to any hospital for treatment. The above facts and conduct of the prosecution witnesses including informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) clearly indicate that prosecution has not come with real truth of the case in the Court. It is also clear that prosecution is concealing real facts of the incident. Proper and judicious explanation for delay in lodging the F.I.R. of more than nine hours has not been explained by the prosecution in a confidence creating manner.

19. The above conduct and behavior of the prosecution witnesses indicate that, after a full night of consideration, deliberation, and afterthought, the accused-appellants were implicated in this case for the alleged commission of the crime. These facts and circumstances create serious doubt about the veracity of the prosecution story. The conduct and behaviour of the prosecution witnesses make the prosecution story suspicious and doubtful.

20. The informant, Sumer Singh (PW-1), stated in his examination-in-chief that the incident took place on 07.02.2012 at about 10:30 p.m. The deceased, Veer Singh, who was the son of his aunt (Bua), was sitting in front of the door. He, his mother, and Veer Singh were sitting at the doorway, warming themselves by the fire. Sumer Singh, Mangal Singh, Man Singh, Sabal Singh, and Lallu Kahar came and, on some pretext, took Veer Singh with them to the door of Sabal Singh. The house of Sabal Singh is located at a distance of about fifty steps from his house. All five accused brutally beaten Veer Singh with lathi, and he started crying. Upon hearing his cries, he, his mother, and other villagers reached the door of Sabal Singh. They saw that all five accused were beating Veer Singh with lathi and danda. As soon as they reached there, the accused persons fled away after killing Veer Singh. They left his dead body at the door of Natthu Teli and escaped. While they were fleeing, he saw them. Due to fear during the night, he did not go to the police station. The next morning, he went to the police station to lodge the report.

21. In his cross-examination, the informant, Sumer Singh (PW-1), stated that Police Station Pahadi is located at a distance of seven kilometers from his village. There is a metalled (damar) road connecting the village to the police station. He has a two-wheeler motorcycle, and his adjacent neighbor has a four-wheeler vehicle. There are also several other two and four-wheeler vehicles in the village. He further stated that during the night, he asked his uncles, Umashankar, Shiv Shankar and Ram Kishan Singh, to accompany him to the police station to lodge the F.I.R., but they refused due to some dispute. Thereafter, he did not speak to anyone else about lodging the report. This witness also stated in his cross-examination that he had mentioned in his written report that, upon hearing the cries of the deceased, he, his mother, and other villagers ran to the spot. However, upon going through the report, he admitted that this fact was not recorded therein and he could not tell any reason for this. He further admitted that he had not asked the accused why they were taking Veer Singh with them. He stated that his mother□s name is Smt. Prabha Bai. He and his mother searched for the deceased throughout the night. The dead body of the deceased was found lying in front of the house of Natthu Teli during the night. He did not carry the dead body to his house; it remained there. He stated that he saw the accused beating the deceased and fleeing from the spot after assaulting him, and denied that this statement was made at the instance or tutoring of others. He further stated that there were no bloodstains on the ground in front of the house of Natthu Teli, nor did he see any blood marks in any direction near the house. He also stated that at the time of the incident, accused Sumer Singh was studying at Bhadosa and residing there. The incident occurred at about 10:30 p.m., and he reached the spot approximately ten minutes later. He and his mother remained awake throughout the night, sitting in their house and talking to each other. Thus, from the testimony of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1), it emerges that all the accused-appellants came to the door of his house, where he, his mother Prabha Bai (PW-2), and the deceased Veer Singh were sitting and warming themselves by the fire. The accused called Veer Singh and took him away. According to this witness, the accused brutally assaulted Veer Singh with lathi and danda. After beating him, the accused-appellants allegedly left his dead body at the door of Natthu Teli and fled.

22. However, this witness has not gone to the police station Pahadi to lodge the written report against the accused-appellants, which is situated at a distance of seven kilometers only. According to this witness, due to fear, this witness has not gone to the police station. From the evidence of this witness, it is also revealed that this witness and his mother Prabha Bai (PW-2) were awaking full night in their home and were talking with each other. This witness has two wheeler motorcycle and there were many other two and four wheeler vehicles in the village. However, this witness could not try to take the deceased Veer Singh to any hospital for medical treatment.

23. As per the evidence of this witness in his cross-examination, he and his mother have searched Veer Singh throughout the night. This statement of the informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) clearly indicate the fact that this witness and also his mother Prabha Bai (PW-2) have not seen any occurrence or beating the deceased Veer Singh by the accused-appellants. Statement of this witness in his cross-examination also demolished his statement that all accused-appellants came to his door and took Veer Singh away with them. Statement of this witness as given by him in his cross-examination amply shows that this witness has not seen any incident with his own eyes. According to this witness, he had also not seen any bloodstains or blood mark at any direction of the house of Natthu Teli, where dead body of the deceased was lying. In his cross-examination at one place, this witness has stated that he had reached at the spot after ten minutes of the incident. This statement of this witness clearly indicate that he has not seen any happening of the incident. The evidence of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) also clearly indicate this fact that he after hearing the news that dead body of the deceased Veer Singh is lying in front of door of house of Natthu Teli, he with his mother Prabha Bai after deliberation and afterthought throughout the night, concocted and fabricated a false prosecution story implicating accused-appellants for commission of the crime.

24. Thus, from perusal of the whole evidence of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1), this fact clearly emerged that this witness had not seen any incident with his own eyes. This witness was not present at the spot where the accused attacked upon the deceased Veer Singh. The conduct of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) indicate this fact that till the morning at 07:30 AM of 08.02.2012, this witness was unaware about the persons, who killed the deceased Veer Singh. After imagination, consideration and deliberation, this witness implicated accused-appellants next day on 08.02.2012 at 07:30 AM by lodging the written report, Exhibit Ka-1.

25. In view of the above contradictions and discrepancies, which are present in the evidence of this witness, are the material and major contradictions, which shake the veracity and reliability of this witness. In this way, the evidence of this witness Sumer Singh (PW-1) does not inspire any confidence. The testimony of this witness is wholly unreliable and unbelievable.

26. Prosecution adduced Prabha Bai (PW-2) as prosecution witness in the Court. She is mother of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1). In her examination-in-chief, she deposed the same facts as those stated by her son, the informant Sumer Singh (PW-1). The only new fact, which was not stated by the informant Sumer Singh during his examination-in-chief, has been stated for the first time by this witness, Prabha Bai, that there was electric light. However, in her cross-examination, this witness has stated that "I have told to the Investigating Officer that on 07.02.2012 in the night, I was at my house and was cooking food. At that time, Lallu @ Balak Kahar came to my house and asked about Veer Singh, then I asked him what is the work. Lallu had not taken Veer Singh with him by saying that Virendra Singh and Vijay Singh are cooking fish and calling Veer Singh. How the Investigating Officer had written this, I could not tell reason for this." Further, in her cross-examination, this witness has stated that "when Lallu had taken Veer Singh, it was too late at night then I suspected and told my son Sumer Singh. When I told Sumer Singh, it was 10:00 PM at that time. Then Sumer Singh went to search Veer Singh, returned and told that nothing is known about the whereabouts of Veer Singh. The dead body of the deceased was found in the front of house of Natthu Teli in the morning. At that time, there were about twenty five people of the village gathered. Harvansh Singh was not with Sumer Singh in searching the deceased Veer Singh. I do not remember the exact time in the morning when the discussion took place between my son and me regarding the murder of Veer Singh. Before this, there was no discussion. Before that, I have no knowledge about murder of Veer Singh." She has also stated that "there was no enmity with any person in the murder of Veer Singh."

27. Thus, from perusal of the testimony of the so-called eye-witness of prosecution Prabha Bai (PW-2), it is clearly revealed that although in her examination-in-chief, this witness narrated the prosecution story in the same way as was narrated by her son informant Sumer Singh (PW-1). However, in her cross-examination, this witness spoke about name of accused Lallu Kahar and stated that Lallu came to her home and said to the deceased Veer Singh that Vijay Singh and Virendra Singh are cooking fish. They called you. After late night at about 10:00 PM, when deceased Veer Singh had not returned, then this witness suspected and told her son Sumer Singh. After that Sumer Singh (PW-1) went to search Veer Singh and returned home and told to Prabha Bai (PW-2) that whereabouts of Veer Singh are not known. In the morning, dead body of deceased was found lying in front of the house of Natthu Teli. How in the light of above statement of Prabha Bai (PW-2), this witness and informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) could see the incident and brutal beating by accused-appellants and commission of the crime. In other words, statement of this witness in her cross-examination clearly establish this fact that Prabha Bai (PW-2) and her son Sumer Singh (PW-1) had not seen any incident with their eyes and they had also not seen brutal beating of Veer Singh by the accused-appellants with lathi and danda. This fact also clearly establish this fact that so-called eye-witnesses of the prosecution PW-1 and PW-2 are not the eye-witnesses of the incident and also accused-appellants had not come to the home of informant and Prabha Bai on 07.02.2012 and had not taken the deceased Veer Singh with them. To strengthen the prosecution story with consideration and deliberation, Prabha Bai (PW-2) has stated about the light of electricity on the date of incident on 07.02.2012. From the evidence of this witness, it is clearly established that when in the morning of 08.02.2012, dead body of the deceased, Veer Singh, was found lying in front of house of Natthu Teli, then hearing about the lying of the dead body of the deceased, Veer Singh, informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and his mother Prabha Bai (PW-2) reached at the place where the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh was lying. Since the informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2) had not seen the incident with their eyes, they did not lodge any written report against any person promptly on the night of 07.02.2012. Only after the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh was found in front of the house of Natthu Teli in the morning of 08.02.2012, then informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and his mother (PW-2) with afterthought, consideration and deliberation only on the ground of suspicion and conjectures named all accused persons as accused implicating them for commission of the alleged crime. Thus, in the light of discussions, we find testimony of Prabha Bai (PW-2) wholly unreliable. The deposition of Prabha Bai (PW-2) shattered the entire case of the prosecution.

28. On behalf of prosecution, Harivansh (PW-7) was adduced as eye-witness of the prosecution story. This witness in his examination-in-chief has stated that □I am resident of village Ranipur. I have relation with Sumer Singh of village Kaheta. One day prior to the incident, I came to the house of Sumer Singh at village Kaheta.□ Further, in his examination-in-chief, this witness has narrated the same story as was narrated by the informant Sumer Singh (PW-1). This witness in his examination-in-chief stated himself to be the eye-witness of the incident. However, in the evidence of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2), name of this witness was not stated to be present at their home on 07.02.2012 when accused-appellants had come to their home. If really this witness would have been present on 07.02.2012 at the home of informant PW-1 and PW-2 then in this condition, informant PW-1 and his mother PW-2 would have stated in their evidence that Harivansh was also present at their door when accused-appellants came to their home and carried deceased, Veer Singh, with them. This fact clearly indicate this fact that prosecution with a view to strengthen its case and to give force to the prosecution story, later with afterthought and deliberation tried to project Harivansh (PW-7) as eye-witness of the incident. Further in his cross-examination, Harivansh (PW-7) has stated that "I have not told to the Investigating Officer that I have seen the incident with my own eyes and was present at the spot. I have told first time in the Court that I was present at the place of incident and saw the incident with my own eyes. I have not told this fact to any person before 15.04.2019. Further, in his cross-examination, this witness has stated that "I had given an affidavit to the Police Superintendent in respect of this incident. I had heard the contents of my affidavit and thereafter I had endorsed my signature. It is true that the affidavit has been given by me to Superintendent of Police. In my affidavit, this fact was not written that I have seen the incident. I was present at the place of incident."

29. Thus, from perusal of the testimony of the so-called eye-witness of the prosecution Harivansh (PW-7), it is clearly emerged that prosecution projected this witness as an eye-witness of the incident. However, in his cross examination, this witness has clearly accepted this fact that this witness was not present at the place of occurrence and also he has not seen any incident with his own eyes. During the course of cross-examination, this witness in clear words accepted this fact that he had not given affidavit to Police Superintendent, Chitrakoot stating therein that he was present at the place of occurrence and he witnessed the commission of crime. In this way, it is clearly established from the testimony of this witness that this witness Harvansh (PW-7) is not the eye-witness of the incident. This witness was not present at the place of incident. After hearing about the murder of Veer Singh, this witness came in village Kaheta on 08.02.2012 and tried to project himself as the eye-witness of the incident. In view of the above testimony and statement of this witness, we find the testimony of this witness is fully unacceptable. Prosecution finds no support from the evidence of this witness.

30. Kashi Prasad (PW-8) is a witness of panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh.

31. Prosecution witness Suresh Singh (PW-9), who is father of the deceased Veer Singh, is a witness of hearsay. After hearing the news of murder of his son Veer Singh, this witness came to village Kaheta Mafi. This witness came to know about the fact of murder of his son from his nephew Harvansh Singh (PW-7), who gave information to me on 08.02.2012. Suresh Singh (PW-9) stated that Sabal Singh, Man Singh, Mangal Singh, Sumer Singh and Lallu Kahar of the village had murdered Veer Singh. On receiving this information, he reached at Village Kaheta Mafi. Whatever have been stated by this witness is based on only hearsay evidence since this witness was at his home at Village Ranipur, Police Station Kamasin, District Banda, whereas the incident occurred in Village Kaheta Mafi. Since the entire evidence and testimony of Suresh Singh (PW-9) is hearsay and is based only on the information told to him by his nephew Harivansh Singh (PW-7), we find no relevancy in the testimony of this witness.

32. From the perusal of the cross-examination of the Investigating Officer, Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5), we find that he has stated that Smt. Prabha Bai (PW-2) had told him that she herself, along with many other persons, searched Veer Singh throughout the night. The dead body of Veer Singh was found on the platform (chabutra) of house of Natthu Teli near the house of Man Singh in the morning. The Investigating Officer has also stated in his cross-examination that this witness has also given this statement that "my son with his maternal brother Harvansh, son of Shiv Singh, resident of Ranipur, Police Station Kamasin, District Banda, has made a hectic search." This witness has also stated that "Prabha Bai has not given this statement that at the time of incident, there was electricity in the village." This witness deposed in his cross-examination that "in the site plan shown by letters □A□ and □B□, I had not found any blood in the site plan shown by letters □A□ and □B□. Even the statement of Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5) establishes the fact that the murder of Veer Singh was committed at some other place and, after murdering him, his dead body was left at the place of occurrence. Due to this reason, no mark or stain of blood was found from the place where the dead body of the deceased Veer Singh was lying. This fact also makes the prosecution story highly doubtful and suspicious. It also indicates that prosecution witnesses have narrated a concocted and artificial story against the accused-appellants and they were implicated in this case for commission of alleged crime only on the ground of suspicion. However, no prosecution witness have seen the commission of the crime with their own eyes. Thus, from the evidence of the Investigating Officer Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5), testimony and evidence of the so-called eye-witnesses of the prosecution also becomes highly doubtful and suspicious.

33. It is worthwhile to mention here the case law of Supreme Court in the case of Badam Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2003) 12 SCC 792 wherein in para 16, it has been held that;

"The learned Sessions Judge after considering the evidence on record and accepting the evidence of the eyewitnesses found the appellant guilty of the offence under Section 302 IPC and sentenced him to imprisonment for life. The High Court by its impugned judgment dismissed the appeal preferred by the appellant. We have perused the impugned judgment of the High Court. The High Court which was the first court of appeal did not even carefully appreciate the facts of the case. It mentions that the FIR was lodged by PWs 5 and 6 whereas the fact is that the FIR was lodged by PW 4, the Forest Officer. Without subjecting the evidence on record to a critical scrutiny, the High Court was content with saying that the three eyewitnesses having deposed against the appellant, the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. In our view, the High Court has not approached the evidence in the manner it should have done being the first court of appeal. The mere fact that the witnesses are consistent in what they say is not a sure guarantee of their truthfulness. The witnesses are subjected to cross-examination to bring out facts which may persuade a court to hold, that though consistent, their evidence is not acceptable for any other reason. If the court comes to the conclusion that the conduct of the witnesses is such that it renders the case of the prosecution doubtful or incredible or that their presence at the place of occurrence as eyewitnesses is suspect, the court may reject their evidence."

34. In the light of legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Badam Singh (supra), when we have perused the finding and reasoning as recorded by the Trial Court in the judgment and order of conviction dated 10.12.2020, we find that learned Trial Court has only considered the evidence of the prosecution witnesses in their examination-in-chief. Trial Court only on the basis of so-called eye-witnesses of the prosecution held the accused-appellants guilty for commission of the alleged crime. Meaning thereby that Trial Court has not considered and kept in view the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses, in which there are major and material contradictions, which shake the testimonies of all prosecution witnesses. Trial Court only on the ground of evidence as given by the prosecution witnesses in their examination-in-chief without considering and giving any finding in the light of the major and material contradictions that crept into their cross-examination delivered a finding that is against the settled principles of law of evidence.

35. The meaning of □evidence□ is defined in Section 3 of the Evidence Act as under:;

"1. all statements which the Court permits or requires to be made before it by witnesses, in relation to matters of fact under inquiry; such statements are called oral evidence;

2. all documents including electronic records produced for the inspection of the Court; such documents are called documentary evidence."

As per Section 3 of the Evidence Act, both examination-in-chief and cross-examination are included within the definition of oral evidence.

36. It is settled principle of law that cross-examination of a witness is as relevant as his examination-in-chief. Court cannot consider and record a finding only on the basis of examination-in-chief of a witness and neglect the cross-examination of that witness. It is also a settled principle of law that evidence of any witness must be read and appreciated in totality by considering both examination-in-chief and cross-examination. By means of cross-examination, veracity of the witnesses is to be tested by the opposite party that whether witnesses are stating in Court true facts or misleading the Court and stating wrong facts. However, in the case at hand, trial Court has not considered the cross-examination of any prosecution witness. We cannot totally neglect the cross-examination of any witness and only on the ground of examination-in-chief cannot record a finding of guilty and conviction. From the appreciation of evidence of informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2), it is clear that these two prosecution witnesses are not the eye-witnesses of the incident. In view of the statements of these witnesses, accused-appellants have not come to their home nor they have taken the deceased Veer Singh with them. From the cross-examination of these witnesses, it is apparent that informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) has a motorcycle and there are many other two and four wheeler vehicles in their neighbourhood. Informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2) due to so-called grief and fear were sitting in their house and they have not attempted to inform the police even by a telephonic call and informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2) discussed and considered the matter throughout the night. This conduct of these two above prosecution witnesses makes the prosecution story highly doubtful and suspicious.

37. Apart from this, from the statement as given by prosecution witnesses informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2), it is also revealed that whereabouts of deceased Veer Singh were not known. Due to this reason, whole night of 07.02.2012, prosecution witnesses informant Sumer Singh (PW-1) and Prabha Bai (PW-2) had made a search of deceased Veer Singh. From the evidence of these prosecution witnesses, it is also clear that when they came to know about this fact that dead body of the deceased Veer Singh was lying in front of house of Natthu Teli then these prosecution witnesses came to the place of occurrence in the morning of 08.02.2012 and with full consideration and afterthought, the informant falsely implicated the accused-appellants for commission of the alleged crime. Thus, the conduct of so-called prosecution witnesses in this respect is highly unnatural and against the human behaviour. The conduct and behaviour of the prosecution witnesses is highly suspicious due to which statement of these prosecution witnesses as given by them in their evidence are found wholly unreliable. The Trial Court has not considered the major and material contradictions, which are present in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, that are so grave and fatal that shakes the foundation of the prosecution story itself.

38. From the evidence of Investigating Officer Dharmendra Kumar (PW-5), it is also clear that where dead body of the deceased Veer Singh was found, there was no bloodstain or blood mark on the ground. From this, it is emerged that after murder of deceased Veer Singh at another place, his dead body was thrown on the place of occurrence in front of house of Natthu Teli. This fact also makes the prosecution story doubtful.

39. From perusal of the overall prosecution evidence, it is clear that there is no eye-witness of the incident, prosecution with afterthought and consideration projected and produced all the prosecution witnesses of fact as the eye-witnesses but prosecution miserably failed in its attempt to substantiate the allegations against the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt. In other words, prosecution totally failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against the accused-appellants.

40. Therefore, in the light of above discussions, we find that judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by learned trial Court dated 10.12.2020 in Session Trial No. 70 of 2012 (State of Uttar Pradesh v. Sabal Singh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 23 of 2012, under Sections 147, 302, 149, 120B, 201 IPC, Police Station Pahadi, District Chitrakoot is not sustainable. Hence, we find that judgment and order of conviction of learned trial Court is liable to be set aside and the appeals of the accused-appellants are liable to allowed.

41. Accordingly, the criminal appeals of the accused-appellants are allowed and the judgment and order of conviction dated 10.12.2020 is set aside. The appellants are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged. However, they shall comply with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

42. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Laloo @ Sanjay & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

In the present case, the appellants were tried for the unnatural death of the deceased by kerosene burn injuries under sections 498-A, 304-B, and 302 IPC alongside Section ¾ of the Dowry Prohibition Act, premised on allegations of unquantified dowry demands and harassment by her husband and father-in-law.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302 & Section ¾ of the Dowry Prohibition Act,1961-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 113-B-Dowry death-Cruelty and harassment "soon before her death"-Absence of proximity and link-Non-applicability of presumption under section 113-B-Deceased returning to matrimonial home amicably 14 days prior to incident-No demand for dowry or harassment during said period-Essential ingredient of "soon before her death" under section 304-B IPC not satisfied-Statutory persumption under section 113-B Evidence Act does not operate, nor does the onus shift to the defense-However , Consistent testimony of prosecution witnesses alleging demands for motorcycle, color TV and gold chain alongside harassment-Offence of cruelty and demand for dowry established beyond reasonable doubt-Conviction under section 498-A and section 4 DP Act upheld-Reduction of Sentence-Protracted litigation of over 15 years causing mental incarceration-Appellants spent substantial period in custody (over 1.5 years)-Maximum sentence of 3 years reduced to period already undergone.(Para 18 to 33) (E-6)

Held

The court held that merely proving unnatural death within seven years of marriage is insufficient; the prosecution must establish a proximate link between dowry harassment and death. Where the deceased lived amicably at the matrimonial home for 14 days preceding death with no fresh demand made, the "soon before death" test fails, and the presumption under section 113-B does not arise. Unproved dowry death under section 304-B IPC does not automatically exonerate the accused of cruelty under section 498-A IPC if reliable witness evidence proves persistent demands for specific valuables.

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. – 246 of 2013

Laloo @ Sanjay & Anr. Vs. State of U.P.

From the judgment and order dated 02.07.2026 of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Appellant(s):-

B.P. Nigam

Adv. for Respondent(s):-

G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri B.P. Nigam, the learned counsel for the appellant and Shri G.D. Bhatt, the learned AGA-I for the State U.P.

2. By means of the instant appeal, the appellant had challenged the validity of the judgment and order dated 07.02.2013 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 12, Hardoi in Session Trial No. 226/2011 arising out of Case Crime No. 424/2010, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302 of IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Manjhila, District Hardoi lodged against the appellant No.1- Laloo @ Sanjay, the appellant No.2 Hardwari and mother of the appellant No.1.

3. The complainant- Asha Ram Agnihotri gave a written complaint to the police on 27.07.2010 stating that he had got his niece married to the appellant No.1- Laloo @ Sanjay, son of Hardwari (the appellant No.2), about one year ago. The complainant's niece used to tell through mobile phone that the appellant No.2 Hardwari and his wife used to demand additional dowry. On 27.06.2010, he got a telephonic information that his niece had got burnt and upon reaching there, he found her lying dead. The complainant expressed a suspicion that his niece had been killed by setting her ablaze for demanding dowry.

4. A 3 liters' plastic container having smell of kerosene, some burnt clothes and other articles were recovered from the spot.

5. The postmortem examination report mentions burning from first to third degree burns in patches present all over the body except both soles, line of redness was present, vasicles present at places, skin peels at places, burn was about 95%. The cause of death was opined to be ante-mortem burn injuries.

6. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet dated 03.08.2010 against the appellants and involvement of Premwati (mother of the appellant No.1 and wife of the appellant no. 2) could not be established during investigation.

7. The complainant was examined as PW-1. He stated that he had got his niece married to the appellant No.1 about two years ago. The accused persons were not satisfied with the dowry given at the time of marriage. Her husband Laloo @ Sanjay (the appellant No.1), his mother Premwati, father Hardwari, Fufa Jai Prakash, Bua Sukkho, sister Ranu etc. used to demand a motor-cycle, a color television and a gold chain as dowry. The complainant, his wife and some other family members tried to persuade the accused persons that they could not give additional dowry but the accused persons pressed their demand of dowry even in presence of the persons who had gone with the complainant. He stated his niece was killed because of his failure to give additional dowry.

8. Bhure Shukla, a maternal uncle of the deceased, was examined as PW-3. He stated that the appellant and their family members were not happy with the dowry given in the deceased's marriage and they were demanding a motor-cycle, a color television and a gold chain. He had gone to the matrimonial home of the deceased about two months after the wedding and the demand of the aforesaid articles was made in his presence. PW-3 had tried to persuade the appellant No.1 but he did not agree.

9. DW-1 Amit Kumar and DW-2 Ashok Kumar stated that the appellant did not harass his wife. Her mental balance was not normal. She had gone away from her matrimonial home on 3-4 occasions without informing any person. The appellant No.1 and his family members used to search her out and bring her back. DW-2 Ashok Kumar stated that a day before the incident, the deceased had gone away without informing any person. The appellant No.2 Hardwari had brought her back. He stated that the appellants and their family members did not harass the deceased for demanding dowry. Both the defence witnesses stated that the appellant No.2 Hardwari was not present in the village and he had gone to visit a satsang along with several other villagers, on a tractor driven by DW-1. The appellant No.1 was breaking stones for the road outside the village.

10. The trial Court held that the accused persons did not give information of death of the deceased to her family members. The deceased died within seven years of her marriage in unnatural circumstances due to burn injuries. She had been harassed soon before her death. The trial Court held that all the ingredients of Section 304-B IPC were established. The presumption under Section 113-B IPC was also attracted against the appellants. The accused persons had failed to adduce evidence to prove that the deceased committed suicide. They did not make any submission and lead any evidence to establish that before the incident also the deceased had tried to commit suicide. The aforesaid material proves the appellants guilty of the offences under Sections 304-B/34, 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. The charges under Sections 302 IPC and 306 IPC were not proved.

11. Assailing validity of the aforesaid order, the learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that there is no evidence to establish that the deceased had been harassed for demanding dowry soon before her death. He has placed reliance on the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Major Singh and Anr. v. State of Punjab: (2015) 5 SCC 201 and State of Uttarakhand v. Sanjay Ram Tamta @ Sanju @ Prem Prakash: (2025) 3 SCC 433.

12. Per contra, the learned AGA-I has submitted that the trial court has rightly come to the conclusion that the accused persons used to demand dowry from the family members of the deceased and that the deceased had been harassed soon before her marriage. Therefore, the trial court has rightly convicted the appellants for offences under Section 304-B, 498-A and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

13. Section 304-B IPC reads as follows: -

"304B. Dowry death.?

(1) Where the death of a woman is caused by any burns or bodily injury or occurs otherwise than under normal circumstances within seven years of her marriage and it is shown that soon before her death she was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, such death shall be called "dowry death", and such husband or relative shall be deemed to have caused her death.

Explanation.? For the purpose of this sub-section, "dowry" shall have the same meaning as in section 2 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (28 of 1961).

(2) Whoever commits dowry death shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may extend to imprisonment for life."

14. When we examine the evidence in the present case, it appears that the complainant PW-1 stated that she had got her niece married to the appellant No.1. The appellant's family members were not satisfied with the dowry given at the time of marriage. They were demanding a motorcycle, a colour TV, and a gold chain and for this reason, they killed the victim by pouring kerosene on her and setting her ablaze. During cross-examination, PW-1 stated that the pair-pujai ceremony of the deceased was performed in the house of the appellant. No dowry had been settled at the time of the marriage. The Bhawar (Saptpadi) was performed in the village of the appellants. After the deceased had stayed in the house of the appellant for eight days, her mother had gone to bring her from her matrimonial home. The mother of the deceased had told this witness that the family members of the appellant No.1 were demanding dowry. PW-1's brother Maya Prakash (father of the deceased) was alive at that time. PW-1 Maya Prakash, Suresh, Ved Prakash, Dharmendra and Bhure had gone to the house of the appellant to convince his family members, but they did not agree and demanded a motorcycle, a gold chain, and a color television. The marriage was performed in the month of Asadh and the deceased died in the month of Poos (after about 7 months). PW-1 stated that after the marriage of his niece and before the death of his brother, he had visited the matrimonial home of his niece on 6-7 occasions. He always found his niece unhappy in her matrimonial home. She was beaten up in her matrimonial home. However, she did not make any complaint to any authority in this regard. PW-1 stated that before her death, the appellants, Hari Prakash and two other persons had happily taken her to her matrimonial home 14 days prior to her death. Thereafter, he got telephonic information regarding her death.

15. After the death of his brother- Maya Prakash. PW-2 visited the matrimonial home of his niece on two occasions, along with the mother of the deceased but at that time, the deceased was not there, she was at her maika. Some altercation had taken place between PW-1 and the family members of the appellant No.1. After 8-10 days, the appellants had come to take the deceased to their home. They have taken the deceased with the consent of PW-1. PW-1 stated that the deceased was found in the house of Amarnath in village Dhighia a day prior to her death because the accused persons had beaten her up about three days ago. She was limping. She was sitting in front of the house of Ramnath in village Dhighia. Ramnath had telephonically informed and thereafter, the family members of the appellants had taken her away. The deceased had asked to save her life.

16. The deceased's mother was examined as PW-9 and she gave a similar statement. She stated that pair-pujai ceremony of her daughter was performed in the house of the appellants because she was not in a position to host a feast for the baraat. Her daughter used to visit her from her matrimonial home once a month and thereafter, she used to go back. Whenever the appellant No.1 came to take her daughter, she used to send her. She also stated that after she had sent her daughter to her matrimonial home, she never visited her father's home. PW-9 also stated that her husband and his elder brother Asha Ram (the complainant) did not have good relations. The complainant did not want the deceased to get married to the appellant No.1 but PW-9 and her husband got her married to the appellant No.1 against the wishes of the complainant. She stated that quarrels had taken place between her husband and his elder brother on 1-2 occasions and the complainant had assaulted her husband with a lathi. The PW-1 had caught hold of the lathi.

17. The doctor who conducted the post-mortem examination, was examined as PW-6. He proved the postmortem examination report and stated that the deceased had approximately 95% burns and smell of kerosene was present over the body. During the cross-examination, PW-6 stated that if a person pours kerosene and sets himself/herself ablaze, 95% burn injuries are possible.

18. From the aforesaid statements, it is established that the marriage ceremony of the deceased was performed in the house of the appellants, because her family's financial condition was poor and they were not in a position to even host a feast for the baraat. No dowry was settled and no dowry was given at the time of the marriage. The prosecution witnesses alleged that after the marriage, the accused persons started demanding a motorcycle, a color television and a gold chain as dowry. The witnesses have stated that they used to demand dowry whenever the deceased's uncle and mother visited the appellants' place. They also alleged that the deceased was harassed for demanding dowry. However, none of the prosecution witnesses have stated the date and time of the alleged demand of dowry. The prosecution witnesses have stated that the deceased was staying at the residence of the complainant for some time. 14 days prior to the incident the appellants themselves had gone to bring her back to her matrimonial home. She was sent with the appellants willingly, without there being any dispute. There is absolutely no evidence that the deceased was harassed for demanding dowry at any time soon before her death.

19. For making out the offence punishable under Section 304-B IPC, it is necessary that soon before her death, the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment on account of any demand for dowry in connection with any demand for dowry. In absence of evidence to establish that the deceased was subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative or husband for or in connection with any demand for dowry, the offence under section 304-B IPC is not made out.

20. The trial Court has referred to Section 113-B of the Evidence Act, which provides as follows:

"113-B. Presumption as to dowry deathWhen the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman had been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death.Explanation. - For the purpose of this section, "dowry death" shall have the same meaning as in Section 304-B of Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)]."

21. In Major Singh (Supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"10. If any death is caused in connection with dowry demand, Section 113-B of the Evidence Act also comes into play. Both these Sections 304-B IPC and Section 113-B of the Evidence Act were inserted by the Dowry Prohibition (Amendment) Act 43 of 1986 with a view to combat the increasing menace of dowry deaths. Section 113-B reads as follows:-

"113-B: Presumption as to dowry death-the question is whether a person has committed the dowry death of a woman and it is shown that soon before her death such woman has been subjected by such person to cruelty or harassment for, or in connection with, any demand for dowry, the Court shall presume that such person had caused the dowry death. Explanation. For the purposes of this Section, 'dowry death' shall have the same meaning as in Section 304B, of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)"*

It is imperative to note that both these sections set out a common point of reference for establishing guilt of the accused person under Section 304-B, which is "the woman must have been 'soon before her death' subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with the demand of dowry"

22. In State of Uttarakhand v. Sanjay Ram Tamta: (2025) 3 SCC 433, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. That the death was suicidal is very clear from the expert evidence, which however would not absolve the accused under Section 304-B IPC. This Court in Surender Kumar Singh v. State of U.P. [(2009) 17 SCC 243] considered the effect of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act on Section 304-B IPC. It was held that Section 304-B IPC presupposes several factors for its applicability, which are: (i) the death of a woman caused by burns or bodily injury or otherwise than under normal circumstances; (ii) such death having occurred within seven years from the date of the marriage; (iii) soon before her death, the woman having been subjected to cruelty or harassment by her husband or any relative of her husband; and (iv) such cruelty or harassment being in connection with the demand of dowry. It was categorically held that if one of the ingredients is absent, the presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act would not be available to the prosecution and the onus of proof would not shift to the defence."

23. Section 113-B Evidence Act would apply when it is shown that soon before her death, the woman had been subjected to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with any demand for dowry. When the prosecution has failed to establish that the deceased had been subjected to cruelty or harassment for demanding dowry, the ingredients of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act are not made out and therefore, no presumption can be drawn against the appellants under section 113-B of the Evidence Act.

24. The learned AGA-I has placed reliance upon a judgment of a Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Paranagouda and Anr. v. State of Karnataka: (2024) 18 SCC 793, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: - "We are aware that the word "soon" finds place in Section 304-B, but we would prefer to interpret its use not in terms of days or months or years, but as necessarily indicating that the demand for dowry should not be stale or an aberration of the past, but should be the continuing cause for the death under Section 304-B or the suicide under Section 306 IPC/Once the presence of these concomitants is established or shown or proved by the prosecution, even by preponderance of possibility, the initial presumption of innocence is replaced by an assumption of guilt of the accused, thereupon transferring the heavy burden of proof upon him and requiring him to produce evidence dislodging his guilt, beyond reasonable doubt. It seems to us that what Parliament intended by using the word "deemed" was that only preponderance of evidence would be insufficient to discharge the husband or his family members of their guilt. This interpretation provides the accused a chance of proving their innocence. This is also the postulation of Section 101 of the Evidence Act. The purpose of Section 113-B of the Evidence Act and Section 304-B IPC, in our opinion, is to counter what is commonly encountered the lack or the absence of evidence in the case of suicide or death of a woman within seven years of marriage. If the word "shown" has to be given its ordinary meaning then it would only require the prosecution to merely present its evidence in court, not necessarily through oral deposition, and thereupon make the accused lead detailed evidence to be followed by that of the prosecution. This procedure is unknown to common law systems, and beyond the contemplation of CrPC."

25. It is correct that the phrase "soon before her death" cannot be put in a straight jacket formula and interpreted strictly but it has to be adjudged keeping in view the entire facts and circumstances of the case. PW-9, mother of the deceased, has stated that the deceased had stayed in her parental house for 8-10 days and thereafter the appellant had gone to take her back to her matrimonial home. PW-9 had sent her back with the appellants amicably and congenially. The deceased died 14 days thereafter and no demand of dowry was made during this period. Therefore, it cannot be said that the deceased was harassed for demanding dowry soon before her death.

26. The prosecution witnesses PW-2 and PW-9 have established that no dowry was given at the time of the marriage but the appellants used to harass the deceased and this harassment of the deceased drove her to commit suicide. Therefore, the offence under Section 498-A IPC is made out and the trial Court has rightly convicted the appellant for the said offence. Further, the prosecution witnesses have categorically stated about the demand of dowry made by the appellants and therefore, the offence under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act is also established.

27. In view of the foregoing discussion, the appeal is allowed in part. Conviction and sentence of the appellants for the offence under section 304-B IPC is unsustainable in law and the same is set aside. However, there is no error or illegality in the conviction of the appellants for the offences under Sections 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

28. The offence under Section 498-A carries a maximum sentence of imprisonment up to 3 years and the trial court had awarded the maximum sentence.

29. The accused ? appellants had submitted before the trial Court on the point of sentence that the appellant No. 2, Hardwari is an old person and the appellant No.1- Laloo @ Sanjay, has the responsibility to look after his old parents. The trial Court discarded these mitigating circumstances without assigning any reason and awarded the maximum sentence of three years' imprisonment to the appellants.

30. In K. Pounammal v. State, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1784, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to numerous precedents on the question of reduction of sentence and held that: -

"6. The conviction and sentence have their respective realms. While the conviction would be recorded on the basis of evidence adduced before the Court which would establish the implication of the accused in the offence, the guilty person or the convicted when to be awarded a sentence, a host of factors would operate to govern.

6.1. In determining the final sentence and the nature thereof, variety of factors that would operate would include the intervening time between the commission of offence and the actual award of the sentence, age of the accused, the stress which he or she might have suffered because of passage of time during each case has remained pending and undecided, the family circumstance and such other factors, without becoming exhaustive.

7. The process of sentencing by the courts is guided by theories such as punitive, deterrent or reformative. Each school of thought has its own object and purpose to explain awarding of sentence and its utility. Amongst these theories, reformative approach has become increasingly acceptable to the modern jurisprudence. Reformation is something always considered progressive. When there are mitigating circumstances, the court would lean towards reducing of the sentence. The focus would be on the crime, and not on the criminal. The society and system would nurture the guilt with positivity, while selecting the sentence.

8. In light of the above principles guiding the sentencing process, the submission of learned advocate for the appellant could be countenanced that in the case on hand the incident had taken place on 23.09.2002. Since then, more than two decades have passed by. The appellant underwent imprisonment for 31 days. The appellant is a widow lady. It was stated that she is now 75 years of age. The appellant has been staying alone, the husband having died, stated her learned counsel. She belongs to scheduled caste and has been spending her life negotiating all hardships.

9. The prolongation of a criminal case for an unreasonable period is in itself a kind of suffering. It amounts to mental incarceration for the person facing such proceedings. For a person who is convicted and who has appealed against his or her conviction and sentence and who everyday awaits the fate of litigation, spends time in distress. In the present-day system of administration of justice, in which proceedings have often go on protracted unreasonably and therefore unbearably, the passage of long time itself makes the person suffer a mental agony." (Emphasis added)

31. In V.K. Verma v. CBI: (2014) 3 SCC 485, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"7. In imposing a punishment, the concern of the court is with the nature of the act viewed as a crime or breach of the law. The maximum sentence or fine provided in law is an indicator on the gravity of the act. Having regard to the nature and mode of commission of an offence by a person and the mitigating factors, if any, the court has to take a decision as to whether the charge established falls short of the maximum gravity indicated in the statute, and if so, to what extent.

8. The long delay before the courts in taking a final decision with regard to the guilt or otherwise of the accused is one of the mitigating factors for the superior courts to take into consideration while taking a decision on the quantum of sentence. As we have noted above, the FIR was registered by CBI in 1984. The matter came before the Sessions Court only in 1994. The Sessions Court took almost ten years to conclude the trial and pronounce the judgment. Before the High Court, it took another ten years. Thus, it is a litigation of almost three decades in a simple trap case and that too involving a petty amount.

9. In Ashok Kumar v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1980) 2 SCC 282], the commission of offence of theft was committed in 1971 and the judgment of this Court was delivered in 1980. The conviction was under Section 411 IPC. This Court having regard to the purpose of punishment and "the long protracted litigation", reduced the sentence to the period already undergone by the convict.

10. In Sharvan Kumar v. State of U.P. [(1985) 3 SCC 658], the commission of offence was in 1968 and the judgment was delivered in 1985. The conviction was under Sections 467 and 471 IPC. In that case also, the long delay in the litigation process was one of the factors taken into consideration by this Court in reducing the sentence to the period already undergone.

12. The appellant is now aged 76. We are informed that he is otherwise not keeping in good health, having had also cardiovascular problems. The offence is of the year 1984. It is almost three decades now. The accused has already undergone physical incarceration for three months and mental incarceration for about thirty years. Whether at this age and stage, would it not be economically wasteful, and a liability to the State to keep the appellant in prison, is the question we have to address. Having given thoughtful consideration to all the aspects of the matter, we are of the view that the facts mentioned above would certainly be special reasons for reducing the substantive sentence but enhancing the fine, while maintaining the conviction." (Emphasis added)

32. The incident took place in the year 2010. The appellant No.1 has already spent about 1 years and 9 months 10 days in custody and the appellant No.2 has spent about 1 year and 5 months 6 days in custody. The appellant No.2 is presently aged about 68 years. Making the appellants undergo the remaining part of the sentence of three years' imprisonment will not serve any purpose of incarceration - either deterrence or reformation. Keeping in view the aforesaid facts, the sentence of three years' imprisonment imposed upon the appellants is reduced and modified to the period of custody already undergone by them. The amount of fine shall remain unaltered.

33. The appeal is partly allowed in terms of the aforesaid order.

34. The appellant shall furnish a personal bond and two sureties to the satisfaction of the trial Court within two weeks from today in compliance with Section 446 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. In case an appeal against this judgment/order is preferred before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and notice is issued to the appellant therein, the appellant shall appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in accordance with such notice.

1. This Criminal Appeal is directed against a judgment and order of Mr. Vivek, the then Special Judge (D.A.A.)/Additional Session Judge-III, Agra dated 25.10.2019 in S.T. No. 543 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No. 173 of 2015, under Section 302 I.P.C., Police Station- Shamsabad, District- Agra. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Additional Session Judge has convicted the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, under Section 302 I.P.C. and sentenced him to rigorous imprisonment for life along with a fine of Rs. 25,000/-; in default of payment, one year additional rigorous imprisonment has been ordered.

2. On the basis of a written report (Ex.Ka.1) dated 06.07.2015, submitted by the informant Mahipal (PW-1), an FIR dated 13.07.2015 (Ex.Ka.2) was registered against the accused, to wit, Tilluka @ Manoj (appellant herein), Misrilal, Vinod and Smt. Hari Devi, under Sections 307, 506 I.P.C., Police Station- Shamsabad, District- Agra.

3. According to the prosecution, the informant Mahipal along with his wife Smt. Satyavati, two sons, and one daughter, reside in Village Hirner, Police Station- Shamsabad, District- Agra. The appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj S/o Misrilal, who is a cousin of the informant, is also a resident of the same village and lives in the neighbourhood. The appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj had been dismantling and renovating his house. About 7-8 days prior to the occurrence, the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj along with Misrilal, Vinod S/o Misrilal, and Smt. Hari Devi W/o Misrilal, approached the informant and requested that they may cook at his house, saying that due to the ongoing construction work, they had no place to cook food. Though the informant had limited space, his wife Smt. Satyavati, due to affinity of the family, allowed them to bring their supplies and cook food on her hearth (Chulha). It is further alleged that about one month ante-dating the incident, the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj had borrowed a sum of Rs. 5,000/- from Smt. Satyavati for the construction of his house, promising to repay the loan within a month. On 02.07.2015 at about 6:30 a.m., in the absence of the informant, all the accused came to the informant's house to cook food. At that time, when Smt. Satyavati demanded return of the borrowed money, the accused became agitated, and telling her threateningly that they would return all her outstandings right away, left the place. They returned half an hour later and all the accused with a common intention to kill, surrounded Smt. Satyavati. Misrilal exhorted the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj to pick up the kerosene Can, douse her (Satyawvati) with it and set her afire. Upon those words falling from Misrilal, Hari Devi and Vinod caught hold of the informant□s wife, Smt. Satyavati, and the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj doused the informant□s wife, Satyavati with kerosene oil and set her afire employing a matchstick. In consequence, the informant□s wife sustained substantial burn injuries. The emanating smoke led people from the neighbourhood to reach the spot, who conveyed the informant□s wife with burn injuries to the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra, where she was undergoing treatment. The informant, who was at his workplace, received information about the incident and reached the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra at about 10:00 a.m., where his wife was undergoing treatment. Upon inquiry, Smt. Satyavati narrated the entire incident to him. The medical examination of the victim and her statement before the Magistrate was recorded on the same day, i.e., 02.07.2015. The incident is said to be within knowledge of the villagers and the nearby residents.

4. It is evident from the record of the case that, on 02.07.2015, when the victim, later deceased Satyavati, was admitted to the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra after the incident, the prosecution witness J.P. Chauhan, ACM-II, PW-7, recorded her dying declaration.

5. The incident occurred on 02.07.2015 at about 6:30 AM. The informant, Mahipal (PW-1), lodged an FIR against the accused, namely, Tilluka @ Manoj, Misrilal, Vinod and Hari Devi, under Sections 307, 506 IPC. However, during treatment at Sarojini Naidu Medical College (S.N.M.C.), Agra, the victim, Satyavati, died due to Septicemic Shock resulting from the ante-mortem burn injuries. Consequently, the case was converted from Sections 307, 506 IPC to one under Section 302 IPC.

6. After lodging of the First Information Report, the Investigating Officer (I.O.) commenced investigation, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared a site plan. The I.O. collected incriminating materials from the place of occurrence. The I.O. also recorded statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After completing all the formalities of investigation, the I.O. submitted a charge-sheet against the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj alone, under Sections 302, 506 IPC. The other nominated accused in the FIR, to wit, Misrilal, Vinod, and Hari Devi, were not charge-sheeted as the I.O. did not find any evidence against them. Their implication was found to be false.

7. Since, the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial. In the Trial Court, charge was framed against the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj, only under Section 302 IPC by the Sessions Judge, Agra, on 16.12.2015. The appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, denied the charge and claimed trial.

8. The prosecution produced as many as 10 witnesses, namely, Mahipal (PW-1), Avaran Singh (PW-2), Devi Singh (PW-3), Anand Ratan (PW-4), Dr. Pawan Paitreek (PW-5), Vinod Kumar (PW-6), J.P. Chauhan (PW-7), Indrajeet Singh (PW-8), Dr. SN Gupta (PW-9), and Bantoo (PW-10), to substantiate their case.

9. Apart from the oral evidence, the prosecution also produced and relied upon documents, such as, written report (Ex.Ka.1), chik first information report (Ex.Ka.2), carbon copy of the general diary (Ex.Ka.3), post-mortem report (Ex.Ka.4), inquest report (panchayatnama) (Ex.Ka.5), challan nash (Ex.Ka.6), photo nash (Ex.Ka.7), C.M.O. Report (Ex.Ka.8), R.I. Report (Ex.Ka.9), site plan (Ex.Ka.10), dying declaration of deceased (Ex.Ka.11), recovery memo of pieces of burnt blouse (Ex.Ka.12), charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.13) and the medico-legal report of the deceased (Ex.Ka.14). Apart from these, material evidence was also produced, such as, pieces of blouse marked Material Exhibit-1, plastic pieces marked Material Exhibit-2, and a cloth bundle marked Material Exhibit-3..

10. The Trial Court recorded the statement of the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, under Section 313 Cr.P.C., after hearing the prosecution evidence. In his statement, the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, claimed that he was falsely implicated in the case due to his relationship with Satyavati. He stated that when the deceased Satyavati was cooking, she sustained burn injuries accidentally on account of vegetable oil catching fire, and that he had committed no crime. In his defence, the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, has produced Meva Ram as DW-1.

11. After hearing evidence led on both sides and hearing learned Counsel for parties, the learned Trial Judge found the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, guilty of the offence under Section 302 IPC. He convicted the appellant accordingly and sentenced him to rigorous imprisonment for life together with a fine of Rs. 25,000/-. In default of payment, he was ordered to serve one additional year of rigorous imprisonment.

12. Aggrieved by the judgement and order dated 25.10.2019 passed by the learned Trial Judge in S.T. No. 543 of 2015, the appellant has preferred the present criminal appeal.

13. Learned Counsel for the appellant submitted that there is a delay of eleven days in lodging the FIR, and no explanation for the delay has been given by the prosecution. In her dying declaration, Satyavati stated that the appellant had doused her in vegetable oil while she was cooking and set her afire. However, the post-mortem report indicates smell of kerosene, which brings in discrepancy. Learned Counsel for the appellant next submitted that the learned Trial Judge overlooked the fact that PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 are not eyewitnesses and they had not seen the incident. The Trial Court wrongly relied on their evidence, contrary to the hearsay rule. It is also submitted that the appellant with the help of his mother, cousin and PW-10, got the deceased admitted to the hospital, a fact which the learned Trial Judge ignored without assigning any cogent reason about this crucial point figuring in the evidence.

14. The learned Counsel for the appellant further submitted that the appellant is innocent but the Trial Court, in a very casual manner, ignored material evidence available on record and passed an illegal order, which is unsustainable in law. Based on this, the learned Counsel argues that the judgment and order of conviction dated 25.10.2019 passed by the learned Trial Judge, is against the weight of evidence and the law, which deserves to be set aside and the appeal allowed.

15. Rebutting the submissions of the learned Counsel for the appellant, the learned AGA, appearing on behalf of the State, vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the appellant and submitted that the learned Trial Judge, after perusing all the prosecution evidence, both oral and documentary, found appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, guilty of the offence under Section 302 IPC. The learned Trial Judge found evidence against the appellant to be reliable and trustworthy. It was found that before her death, the deceased Satyavati had named the appellant in her dying declaration (Ex.Ka.11), which was considered fully reliable and believable. The learned Trial Judge also found that the prosecution witnesses i.e. PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 corroborated the prosecution story and the dying declaration made by the deceased Satyavati. The learned AGA also submitted that no illegality or perversity was committed by the Trial Court in appreciating the evidence and drawing plausible conclusion therefrom, which are countenanced by the law. To sum up, the learned AGA submitted that there is no merit in the appeal, which deserves to be dismissed and the conviction affirmed.

16. Upon hearing the submissions advanced by learned Counsel for both the parties, we find that the incident occurred on 02.07.2015 at about 6:30 a.m. After the incident, the injured Satyavati was admitted to the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra, for treatment. However, during treatment at the Sarojini Naidu Medical College (S.N.M.C.), Agra, shedied due to Septicemic Shock resulting from ante-mortem burn injuries. Her dying declaration was recorded by J.P. Chauhan, ACM-II, PW-7, on 02.07.2015. The FIR, which was registered for offences punishable under Sections 307 and 506 IPC upon PW-1's information at the concerned police station on 13.07.2015 at 10:10 a.m., was converted to a case under Section 302 IPC after Satyavati□s death on 14.07.2015.

17. Upon examining the written report (Ex.Ka.1), it is evident that it was a typed-written document, comprising three pages and addressed to the S.H.O, Shamsabad, Agra. Copies of the same, were also sent to the Deputy Inspector General of Police, Agra Range, Agra and the Senior Superintendent of Police, Agra. The report bears the date 06.07.2015, with the name of the informant mentioned there as Mahipal Singh S/o Sri Charan Singh, resident of Village- Hirner, Police Station- Shamsabad, District- Agra.

18. The informant Mahipal (PW-1) supported the prosecution story in his examination-in-chief as stated in the written report (Ex.Ka.1). However, from his examination-in-chief, it is revealed that at the time of the incident he was not present on the spot (his home). At that time, he was engaged at his workplace, and reached the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra only after receiving the information. In his cross-examination, informant Mahipal (PW-1) confirmed that he had not seen the incident and after receiving the information, he reached the hospital on a motorcycle. Thus, it is clear that the informant Mahipal (PW-1) is not an eyewitness in this case as he was not present at the place of occurrence. In his cross-examination, PW-1 said:

"I reached the hospital at about 10 o'clock. At that time, I did not lodge the report because I was perturbed and did not know what to do. I went to the police station to lodge a report on the following day, but they (the police) did not register my report telling me to get that done inside. I cannot remember how many days later I went to the police station again to lodge the report. When no action was taken, I got the report written by my Advocate, S.C. Saxena. This report was got written by S.C. Saxena (Advocate), who is present in court today."

19. Therefore, upon a perusal of the evidence of the informant Mahipal (PW-1), it appears that this witness is not an eyewitness of the incident as he was not present at home when it happened. This witness was working at another place when the incident occurred. Upon a perusal of the testimony of this witness, the question why he delayed lodging the FIR is not of much significance, when the totality of circumstances are seen. An FIR, in its essence, is the earliest information that the Police receive about the commission of a cognizable offence. All subsequent statements, in whatever form rendered, may not really and substantially reckon as an FIR. Even if a much later written information is entered as a check FIR, that information may not at all be regarded as the first information. The first information is an information that the Police receive for the first time about the commission of a cognizable offence, which is a little more than scanty news. In this case, it cannot be said that the Police were not in the know of details of the entire occurrence before the FIR was lodged. The occurrence happened on 02.07.2015 at 6.30 p.m. and the victim was rushed to Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Agra, immediately after sustaining the injury. The Additional City Magistrate, Agra, reached the hospital to record the victim's dying declaration on 02.07.2015 itself. The Additional City Magistrate, who recorded the dying declaration, has said in his testimony that he went to the hospital because he had received a memo from the District Magistrate's office to do so. It is impossible that the Police would not have information of the occurrence, if the District Magistrate had issued a memo to the A.C.M. to record the deceased's dying declaration.

20. There is absolutely no cavil that the dying declaration was recorded on 02.07.2015, and that was the day of the occurrence. The dying declaration itself carries whatever is said in the FIR about the assault. The delay, therefore, that occurred in lodging the FIR, for which PW-1 has given an explanation, looses much of its importance considering these circumstances, particularly the promptly recorded dying declaration of the victim. PW-1 has said that he had panicked when he reached the hospital at 10 p.m. on 02.07.2015 upon getting the news of the incident. He did go to the police station to lodge the FIR the following day, but his report was not registered and he was told to go inside and get it lodged. It was then that he took assistance of Mr. S.C. Saxena, Advocate, to draft and lodge the FIR and this no doubt took a long period of time. It is not uncommon that the Police resist and show a reluctance in registering an FIR, sometimes even in heinous offences. The reluctance shown by the Police the second day and the fact that PW-1 was the deceased's husband, who had panicked on account of the turn of events, where the deceased was still battling for her life in hospital, the delay of thirteen days in lodging the FIR cannot be said to be fatal or one that puts the prosecution under a serious cloud of suspicion. The deceased passed away on 14.07.2015. The FIR was lodged a day earlier. It is also relevant that according to the testimony of PW-9, who attended to the deceased in the Medico-legal Department of Ishwari Devi Hospital, Agra, information was sent to the Police to record the victim's dying declaration as she had freshly received burn injuries. In our opinion, the delay in lodging the FIR, in the totality of circumstances, is well explained.

21. The prosecution witness Avaran Singh (PW-2), in his examination-in-chief, has testified that the incident occurred on 02.07.2015 at about 6:30 a.m. He has testified that while he was at his home, he heard cries regarding the fire coming from the informant’s house. Upon hearing noise about the fire, he rushed to the spot and saw the victim Satyavati in flames. At that time, the appellant, Tilluka @ Manoj, besides the non-appellant, Vinod, and Misrilal, were present there. He further testified that several villagers had also gathered at the place of occurrence upon hearing the distress calls.

22. In his cross-examination, PW-2 admitted that he did not see any one dousing the victim Satyavati in kerosene or setting her afire. He, however, stated that the victim Satyavati was crying repeatedly and saying that the appellant Tilluka @ Manoj had doused her in kerosene and set her afire. PW-2 further said in his cross-examination that he had disclosed this facts to the Investigating Officer. The witness was shown his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., upon reading which he said that if it has not been recorded, he could not say the reason why it has not been done. This is not a contradiction of the witness with reference to his previous statement as contemplated by the proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. Section 162 Cr.P.C. reads:

"162. Statements to police not to be signed: Use of statements in evidence.-(1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made:

Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); or to affect the provisions of section 27 of that Act.

Explanation.-An omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement referred to in sub-section (1) may amount to contradiction if the same appears to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context shall be a question of fact."

23. The proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. makes it clear that a statement of the witness reduced to writing under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by a police officer in the course of investigation, can be used to contradict such witness with reference to what he testifies in Court, if the earlier statement before the Police is duly proved in the manner provided under Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act. Section 145 of the Evidence Act reads:

"145. Cross-examination as to previous statements in writing. - A witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing or reduced into writing, and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him, or being proved; but, if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him."

24. The credit of a witness can be impeached in the manner provided under Section 155 of the Evidence Act. Section 155 reads:

"155. Impeaching credit of witness.-The credit of a witness may be impeached in the following ways by the adverse party, or, with the consent of the Court, by the party who calls him:-"

(1) By the evidence of persons who testify that they, from their knowledge of the witness, believe him to be unworthy of credit;

(2) By proof that the witness has been bribed, or has accepted the offer of a bribe, or has received any other corrupt inducement to give his evidence;

(3) By proof of former statements inconsistent with any part of his evidence which is liable to be contradicted;

Explanation. - A witness declaring another witness to be unworthy of credit may not, upon his examination-in-chief, give reasons for his belief, but he may be asked his reasons in cross-examination, and the answers which he gives cannot be contradicted, though, if they are false, he may afterwards be charged with giving false evidence.

25. What is relevant in this case are the provisions of sub-section (3) of Section 155 read with Section 145 of the Evidence Act and the proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. It is these three provisions of the law that carry the complete charter how a witness is to be contradicted during cross-examination with reference to a previous statement of his reduced to writing by a police officer.

26. The law on how a witness is to be contradicted with reference to his previous statement was long ago explained by a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Tahsildar Singh v. State of U.P., 1959 SCC OnLine SC 17, where it was observed:

"13. The learned counsel's first argument is based upon the words in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 found in Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 145 of the Evidence Act, it is said, empowers the accused to put all relevant questions to a witness before his attention is called to those parts of the writing with a view to contradict him. In support of this contention reliance is placed upon the judgment of this Court in Shyam Singh v. State of Punjab10. Bose, J. describes the procedure to be followed to contradict a witness under Section 145 of the Evidence Act thus at p. 819:

"Resort to Section 145 would only be necessary if the witness denies that he made the former statement. In that event, it would be necessary to prove that he did, and if the former statement was reduced to writing, then Section 145 requires that his attention must be drawn to these parts which are to be used for contradiction. But that position does not arise when the witness admits the former statement. In such a case all that is necessary is to look to the former statement of which no further proof is necessary because of the admission that it was made."

It is unnecessary to refer to other cases wherein a similar procedure is suggested for putting questions under Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, for the said decision of this Court and similar decisions were not considering the procedure in a case where the statement in writing was intended to be used for contradiction under Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 145 of the Evidence Act is in two parts : the first part enables the accused to cross-examine a witness as to previous statement made by him in writing or reduced to writing without such writing being shown to him; the second part deals with a situation where the cross-examination assumes the shape of contradiction : in other words, both parts deal with cross examination; the first part with cross-examination other than by way of contradiction, and the second with cross-examination by way of contradiction only. The procedure prescribed is that, if it is intended to contradict a witness by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him. The proviso to Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure only enables the accused to make use of such statement to contradict a witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Evidence Act. It would be doing violence to the language of the proviso if the said statement be allowed to be used for the purpose of cross-examining a witness within the meaning of the first part of Section 145 of the Evidence Act. Nor are we impressed by the argument that it would not be possible to invoke the second part of Section 145 of the Evidence Act without putting relevant questions under the first part thereof. The difficulty is more imaginary than real. The second part of Section 145 of the Evidence Act clearly indicates the simple procedure to be followed. To illustrate : A says in the witness box that B stabbed C; before the police he had stated that D stabbed C. His attention can be drawn to that part of the statement made before the police which contradicts his statement in the witness box. If he admits his previous statement, no further proof is necessary; if he does not admit, the practice generally followed is to admit it subject to proof by the police officer. On the other hand, the procedure suggested by the learned counsel may be illustrated thus : If the witness is asked □did you say before the police officer that you saw a gas light?□ and he answers □yes□, then the statement which does not contain such recital is put to him as contradiction. This procedure involves two fallacies : one is it enables the accused to elicit by a process of cross-examination what the witness stated before the police officer. If a police officer did not make a record of a witness's statement, his entire statement could not be used for any purpose, whereas if a police officer recorded a few sentences, by this process of cross-examination, the witness's oral statement could be brought on record. This procedure, therefore, contravenes the express provision of Section 162 of the Code. The second fallacy is that by the illustration given by the learned counsel for the appellants there is no self-contradiction of the primary statement made in the witness box, for the witness has yet not made on the stand any assertion at all which can serve as the basis. The contradiction, under the section, should be between what a witness asserted in the witness box and what he stated before the police officer, and not between what he said he had stated before the police officer and what he actually made before him. In such a case the question could not be put at all : only questions to contradict can be put and the question here posed does not contradict; it leads to an answer which is contradicted by the police statement. This argument of the learned counsel based upon Section 145 of the Evidence Act is, therefore, not of any relevance in considering the express provisions of Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure."

27. A fully illustrated statement of the law on the point is to be found in a very recent decision of the Supreme Court in Vinod Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2025) 3 SCC 680, where it was held:

"15. Before we part with the judgment, we must refer to a peculiar practice followed by the trial court. PW 1 and PW 3 were confronted in the cross-examination with their statements recorded under Section 161CrPC. In the depositions, it is mentioned that the attention of the witness was invited to a particular portion of the prior statement. After recording the answer of the witness, the portion of the prior statement used to contradict the witness has been reproduced in brackets. The law is well settled. The portion of the prior statement shown to the witness for contradicting the witness must be proved through the investigating officer. Unless the said portion of the prior statement used for contradiction is duly proved, it cannot be reproduced in the deposition of the witnesses. The correct procedure is that the trial Judge should mark the portions of the prior statements used for contradicting the witness. The said portions can be put in bracket and marked as AA, BB, etc. The marked portions cannot form a part of the deposition unless the same are proved."

28. Now, what the Trial Court did is that they did not mark the relevant part of the witness's statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., where he had omitted to mention the fact that he heard Satyavati shout and say that it was Tilluka, who had set her afire after dousing her in kerosene oil. What was required was that after marking this portion by brackets and alphabets or whichever way it could be identified, the omission in the previous statement should have been put to the witness. If he admitted the omission, the portion of the witness's statement previously reduced to writing by the Police, would stand proved and used for the purpose of contradicting PW-2. If he denied, as he did here, the Investigating Officer, who took down the statement carrying this material omission, should have been required to prove it. If he proved it then also, the marked portion would become part of the evidence and could be used. This is not what has been done by the Trial Court. A casual confrontation of a witness in the dock by the statement taken down by the Police, where there was an omission, cannot serve the purpose of the proviso to Section 162 Cr.P.C. The witness could, therefore, not be held discredited on the basis of his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. regarding the fact that he said in Court that he heard Satyavati shout that Tilluka had doused her in kerosene oil and set her afire.

29. We would, therefore, hold that the testimony of PW-2 in the dock regarding the fact is absolutely admissible and also reliable.

30. It is true that this witness is not an eye-witness of the incident. He arrived there soon after the assault and when Satyavati was already in the anguish of flames. She was crying. He arrived soon after Tilluka's assault, and, in fact, saw him around the place. PW-2 is a witness of res gestae and not the fact in issue. His testimony nevertheless is valuable and weighty because soon after the occurrence, he saw Satyavati in flames, conveying in her agony the identity of her assailant, who was still about the place.

31. PW-3 is also a witness of res gestate. On 02.07.2015 at about 6.30 in the morning hours, he was returning home after answering the call of nature, when he saw some people running towards his brother Mahipal's house. He also raced towards his brother's house and found his sister-in-law Satyavati in flames. He attempted to douse the fire with the assistance of other residents of the village and arranging a car, rushed Satyavati to Ishwari Devi Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra. He has said in his examination-in-chief further that at the time of occurrence, he had seen Tilluka @ Manoj at the place of occurrence. He has further said in his examination-in-chief that at the time of occurrence, he saw Tilluka's brother Vinod and father Mishri Lal running away from home. Tilluka's mother Har Devi had already escaped from the scene of occurrence. In his cross-examination, the witness has clearly said that he did not see his sister-in-law being set ablaze, but it was she who told him that Tilluka had set her afire. This witness too stated that in his statement given to the Police, he had said that Satyavati had told him that Tilluka had set her afire and he could not say the reason why the Investigating Officer had not recorded it. This statement, casually confronting him without proof of the statement carrying the omission recorded by the Investigating Officer, cannot be read to discredit this witness, as already held in the case of PW-2. What, therefore, appears is that this witness is again a witness of res gestate and arrived soon after the occurrence. He saw Tilluka around the place, but his brother and father fleeing their homes. He saw his sister-in-law up in flames, who told him that she was set afire by Tilluka. The evidence of this witness of whatever weight, he is a truthful witness.

32. Two prosecution witnesses, that is to say, Avaran Singh, PW-2, and Devi Singh, PW-3, are witnesses of res gestae as they arrived soon after the assault and saw the deceased up in flames. She was also shouting or telling the name of her assailant. It could be thought that there being no eye-witnesses, it would be utterly unsafe to convict the appellant on the basis of the testimony of these witnesses of res gestate. PW-1, of course, is not a witness of anything.

33. Now, we turn to the dying declaration (Ex.Ka.11) of the deceased Satyavati. The dying declaration of the deceased Satyavati was recorded on 02.07.2015 by J.P. Chauhan, ACM-II, PW-7, Agra, while she was undergoing treatment at Ishwari Devi Nursing Home, Agra. It is worthwhile to produce the dying declaration as recorded by PW-7, which is in question answer form:

"1. आपका नाम क्या है?

सत्यवती है।

2. आपके पति का क्या नाम है?

महीपाल है।

3. आग कैसे लगी। किसी ने लगाया तो नहीं?

मैं सब्जी बना रही थी। मेरे देवर टिलुवा ने मेरे ऊपर सब्जी का तेल डाल करके आग लगा दी। मेरा किसी से झगड़ा नहीं थी। मेरे पति से भी कोई लड़ाई नहीं थी।"

34. The deceased Satyavati's dying declaration was recorded by J.P. Chauhan, ACM-II, Agra (PW-7) at the Ishwari Devi Nursing Home, Agra on 02.07.2015. Below the last answer, PW-7 made his initials and endorsed the date as 02.07.2015. The thumb impression of the deceased's right foot was also taken on the right side of the dying declaration. There is an endorsement by a doctor of Ishwari Devi Hospital, Rajpur Chungi, Agra, certifying to the following effect:

"Pt. Satyavati Devi is conscious. She is able to give her D/D."

35. It is no doubt true that the doctor has signed the certificate without mentioning his name or appending the date or time, but that is a matter of little consequence.

36. At the end of the dying declaration, the same doctor endorsed another certificate, which reads to the following effect:

37. There was much debate at the Bar if this dying declaration qualifies as valid, because the doctor has not properly certified the patient fit to give her dying declaration. We do not think that the law is any longer in a flux on the subject and the dying declaration, that is on record as Ex. Ka-11, suffers from any infirmity.

38. The prosecution have produced J.P. Chauhan, the then Additional City Magistrate-II, Agra as PW-7. He has testified that on 02.07.2015, while posted as ACM-II, he received a memo from the District Magistrate's office to record the dying declaration of injured Satyavati at Ishwari Devi Hospital. He recorded her statement in his own handwriting, asking her the three questions. He read over the statement to Satyavati and took the thumb impression of her right foot. This dying declaration, as already remarked, in our opinion, is unimpeachable.

39. There was earlier some conflict of opinion between two decisions of the Supreme Court in Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P., (1999) 7 SCC 695 and Koli Chunilal Savji v. State of Gujarat, (1999) 9 SCC 562. What that conflict is about, can best be understood the way it is expressed by the Constitution Bench of their Lordships in Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710. In Laxman (supra), the conflict of opinion has been introduced in the following words:

"1. In this criminal appeal, the conviction of the accused-appellant is based upon the dying declaration of the deceased which was recorded by the Judicial Magistrate (PW 4). The learned Sessions Judge as well as the High Court held the dying declaration made by the deceased to be truthful, voluntary and trustworthy. The Magistrate in his evidence had stated that he had contacted the patient through the medical officer on duty and after putting some questions to the patient to find out whether she was able to make the statement; whether she was set on fire; whether she was conscious and able to make the statement and on being satisfied he recorded the statement of the deceased. There was a certificate of the doctor which indicates that the patient was conscious. The High Court on consideration of the evidence of the Magistrate as well as on the certificate of the doctor on the dying declaration recorded by the Magistrate together with other circumstances on record came to the conclusion that the deceased Chandrakala was physically and mentally fit and as such the dying declaration can be relied upon. When the appeal against the judgment of the Aurangabad Bench of the Bombay High Court was placed before a three-Judge Bench of this Court, the counsel for the appellant relied upon the decision of this Court in the case of Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P. [(1999) 7 SCC 695 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1361] and contended that since the certification of the doctor was not to the effect that the patient was in a fit state of mind to make the statement, the dying declaration could not have been accepted by the Court to form the sole basis of conviction. On behalf of the counsel appearing for the State another three-Judge Bench decision of this Court in the case of Koli Chunilal Savji v. State of Gujarat [(1999) 9 SCC 562 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 432] was relied upon wherein this Court has held that if the materials on record indicate that the deceased was fully conscious and was capable of making a statement, the dying declaration of the deceased thus recorded cannot be ignored merely because the doctor had not made the endorsement that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make the statement in question. Since the two aforesaid decisions expressed by two Benches of three learned Judges was somewhat contradictory the Bench by order dated 24-7-2002 [Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (2019) 11 SCC 512] referred the question to the Constitution Bench."

40. Setting at rest this conflict, their Lordships of the Constitution Bench held:

"4. Bearing in mind the aforesaid principle, let us now examine the two decisions of the Court which persuaded the Bench to make the reference to the Constitution Bench. In Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P. [(1999) 7 SCC 695 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1361] the dying declaration in question had been recorded by a Judicial Magistrate and the Magistrate had made a note that on the basis of answers elicited from the declarant to the questions put he was satisfied that the deceased is in a fit disposing state of mind to make a declaration. The doctor had appended a certificate to the effect that the patient was conscious while recording the statement, yet the Court came to the conclusion that it would not be safe to accept the dying declaration as true and genuine and was made when the injured was in a fit state of mind since the certificate of the doctor was only to the effect that the patient is conscious while recording the statement. Apart from the aforesaid conclusion in law the Court had also found serious lacunae and ultimately did not accept the dying declaration recorded by the Magistrate. In the latter decision of this Court in Koli Chunilal Savji v. State of Gujarat [(1999) 9 SCC 562 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 432] it was held that the ultimate test is whether the dying declaration can be held to be a truthful one and voluntarily given. It was further held that before recording the declaration the officer concerned must find that the declarant was in a fit condition to make the statement in question. The Court relied upon the earlier decision in Ravi Chander v. State of Punjab [(1998) 9 SCC 303 : 1998 SCC (Cri) 1004] wherein it had been observed that for not examining by the doctor the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the dying declaration orally made need not be doubted. The Magistrate being a disinterested witness and a responsible officer and there being no circumstances or material to suspect that the Magistrate had any animus against the accused or was in any way interested for fabricating a dying declaration, question of doubt on the declaration, recorded by the Magistrate does not arise.

5. The Court also in the aforesaid case relied upon the decision of this Court in Harjit Kaur v. State of Punjab [(1999) 6 SCC 545 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1130] wherein the Magistrate in his evidence had stated that he had ascertained from the doctor whether she was in a fit condition to make a statement and obtained an endorsement to that effect and merely because an endorsement was made not on the declaration but on the application would not render the dying declaration suspicious in any manner. For the reasons already indicated earlier, we have no hesitation in coming to the conclusion that the observations of this Court in Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P. [(1999) 7 SCC 695 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1361] (at SCC p. 701, para 8) to the effect that has been too broadly stated and is not the correct enunciation of law. It is indeed a hypertechnical view that the certification of the doctor was to the effect that the patient is conscious and there was no certification that the patient was in a fit state of mind especially when the Magistrate categorically stated in his evidence indicating the questions he had put to the patient and from the answers elicited was satisfied that the patient was in a fit state of mind whereafter he recorded the dying declaration. Therefore, the judgment of this Court in Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P. [(1999) 7 SCC 695 : 1999 SCC (Cri) 1361] must be held to be not correctly decided and we affirm the law laid down by this Court in Koli Chunilal Savji v. State of Gujarat [(1999) 9 SCC 562 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 432]."

"in the absence of a medical certification that the injured was in a fit state of mind at the time of making the declaration, it would be very much risky to accept the subjective satisfaction of a Magistrate who opined that the injured was in a fit state of mind at the time of making a declaration"

41. The holding of the Constitution Bench would show that it is broadly to be gathered by the Magistrate on the questions put to the injured that he/ she is in a fit state of mind, whereafter the Magistrate could record the dying declaration. If he had medical opinion about the victim's state of mind and he testified to it that would be enough. There is no particular form of the medical certificate to be insisted upon in order to regard a dying declaration valid. All that is to be seen, therefore, is whether the dying declaration can be held to be one that is truthful and voluntary. Of course, the Magistrate or the Officer, recording the dying declaration, must find that the declarant was in a fit condition to make a statement.

42. In his cross-examination, PW-7 has testified thus:

"उनका नाम पूछता हूँ। किसी घटना में वजह का प्रश्न पूछना जरूरी है। हमने सत्यवती से यह पूछा आग कैसे लगी किसी ने आग लगाई मै सब्जी बना रही थी। मेरा देवर टिलुआ मेरे ऊपर सब्जी का तेल डालकर आग लगा दी। ब्यान देते समय कोई हिचकिचाहट घबराहट नही थी सीधा बोल रही थी। डाक्टर के रिपोर्ट के अनुसार उस समय सत्यवती होश हवाश में थी और ब्यान देने में सक्षम थी। मैंने यह प्रश्न नही किया कि तुम्हारे देवर टिल्लुका उर्फ मनोज ने तुम्हारे ऊपर सब्जी का तेल डालकर आग क्यो लगायी। मुझे नही पता ब्यानकर्ता के ऊपर किसी असम्यक असर का प्रभाव हो। मैंने यह सन्तुष्टि कर ली थी वह ब्यान बिना किसी दबाव मे दे रही है। मेरे पास कोई खबर नही आयी। ब्यान के बाद कितने दिनो बाद उनकी मृत्यु हुयी थी। हमे नही मालूम किसी का ब्यान दुबारा हो सकता हो। यह कहना गलत है ब्यान लेते समय मृतका के परिवारीजनो पति, जेठ और देवर मौजूद हो। यह कहना भी गलत है उनके कहने पर यह प्रश्न किये हो। यह कहना गलत है मैंने आज वजह जान बूझकर न पूछी हो।"

43. From the testimony of PW-7 and a reading of the dying declaration, there is not a shadow of doubt in our mind that the dying declaration was made by Satyavati in a fit state of mind and she did so voluntarily. It was not also influenced by any extraneous factor. It is entitled to all the weight that attaches to a dying declaration that passes the threshold. It is, therefore, entitled to great weight.

44. The next witness, whose testimony is of some importance on the issue, is Dr. S.N. Gupta. He is a retired doctor of the S.N. Medical College, Agra and has, after retirement, taken up employment with the Ishwari Devi Memorial Hospital, Agra, where he has been employed to look after medico-legal cases. These facts appear in his examination-in-chief. Further on in his examination-in-chief, PW-9 has testified:

"उस दिन मैने सुबह 9.30 पर सत्यवती (उम्र 28 वर्ष) w/o महीपाल निवासी हिन्नौर थाना शमशाबाद आगरा के शरीर पर आई चोटो का डाक्टरी परीक्षण किया उनको लेकर मोहन सिंह s/o चरन निवासी उपरोक्त आये थे उनके शरीर पर निम्न चोटे थी मरीज superficial से deep जला हुआ था मरीज के दोनो गाल, ढोड़ी, गर्दन, दोनो ऊपरी भुजाए सीना, पेट, पूरी पीठ दोनो जांग व दोंनो टॉग जली हुई थीं करीब 80% जली हुई थी मिट्टी के तेल की बू आ रही है कही कही फफोले, चमड़ी उधरी हुई थी मरीज होश मे था मरीज को ईश्वरी देवी हास्पिटल में भर्ती किया गया था। हालत बहुत गम्भीर थी सम्बन्धित अस्पताल को प्लास्टिक सर्जन को उपचार हेतु बुलाने की व पुलिस को मृत्यु पूर्व व्यान नोट करने के लिए सूचना दी गई मरीज ताजा जला हुआ था।"

45. PW-9, Dr. S.N. Gupta, in his cross-examination has said:

"मै घटना के समय प्राइवेट हास्पीटल मे प्राइवेट डाक्टर के रूप में काम करता था मुझे टेलीफोन से सूचना मिली उस समय मैं घर पर था पत्रावली देखकर समय बताया कि 9-00 बजे हास्पीटल (ईश्वरी देवी) में पहुंच गया था. □□□ मै हास्पीटल पहुँचा चुटैल सत्यवती इमरजेन्सी वार्ड मे थी मैने हास्पीटल प्रबंधक के कहने पर मेडीकल किया था हास्पीटल अन्य मरीज थे उनकी संख्या ध्यान नही है।

जब मैने चुटैल सत्यवती का मेडीकल किया तो उस समय पूर्ण होश में थी मैंने चोटो का इसरजेन्सी वार्ड में निरीक्षण किया चोटों का विवरण याद नहीं है। मूल मेडिकल सर्टिफिकेट तैयार किया था जो मैने 80% जला बताया है।"

46. The testimony of PW-9, who was the doctor who attended on the victim Satyavati, soon after she was admitted on 02.07.2015, has clearly stated that she was fully conscious, a stand which he has maintained in his cross-examination. PW-9, who is a doctor and attended on Satyavati, is the best person who speak about her position regarding being conscious or not. The testimony of this witness, together with the doctor's certificate endorsed on the dying declaration, which we do not know if it was by Dr. Gupta, and the testimony of PW-7, the Additional City Magistrate, who found Satyavati conscious and capable of making a statement, place the matter beyond all cavil of doubt that the dying declaration given by Satyavati was in possession of her full senses and while she was conscious and capable of making it. She has clearly attributed the assault to Tilluka. The discrepancy about the kind of of oil, that was poured on her, is logical. She has said in her dying declaration that it was vegetable oil, whereas elsewhere it has been reported as kerosene, a fact which the doctor, who examined her, also suggests. Any person in the victim's position, who has suffered an assault by fire, sustaining 80% burn injuries, could mistake the kind of oil, that was employed in the assault. On this score, the worth of the dying declaration cannot be discounted.

47. The question, whether conviction can be solely based on a dying declaration, has often come up before Courts for consideration and the law is well settled. The principles are clearly adumbrated in Panneerselvam v. State of T.N., (2008) 17 SCC 190. In Panneerselvam, it was observed by the Supreme Court:

"7. This is a case where the basis of conviction of the accused is the dying declaration. The situation in which a person is on his deathbed, being exceedingly solemn, serene and grave, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason that the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Besides should the dying declaration be excluded it will result in miscarriage of justice because the victim being generally the only eyewitness in a serious crime, the exclusion of the statement would leave the court without a scrap of evidence.

8. Though a dying declaration is entitled to great weight, it is worthwhile to note that the accused has no power of cross-examination. Such a power is essential for eliciting the truth as an obligation of oath could be. This is the reason the court also insists that the dying declaration should be of such nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its correctness. The court has to be on guard that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court must be further satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind after a clear opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Once the court is satisfied that the declaration was true and voluntary, undoubtedly, it can base its conviction without any further corroboration. It cannot be laid down as an absolute rule of law that the dying declaration cannot form the sole basis of conviction unless it is corroborated. The rule requiring corroboration is merely a rule of prudence.

9. This Court has laid down in several judgments the principles governing dying declaration, which could be summed up as under as indicated in Paniben v. State of Gujarat [(1992) 2 SCC 474 : 1992 SCC (Cri) 403 : AIR 1992 SC 1817] : (SCC pp. 480-81, paras 18-19)

(i) There is neither rule of law nor of prudence that dying declaration cannot be acted upon without corroboration. (See Munnu Raja v. State of M.P. [(1976) 3 SCC 104 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 376 : (1976) 2 SCR 764])

(ii) If the court is satisfied that the dying declaration is true and voluntary it can base conviction on it, without corroboration. (See State of U.P. v. Ram Sagar Yadav [(1985) 1 SCC 552 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 127 : AIR 1985 SC 416] and Ramawati Devi v. State of Bihar [(1983) 1 SCC 211 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 169 : AIR 1983 SC 164] .)

(iii) The court has to scrutinise the dying declaration carefully and must ensure that the declaration is not the result of tutoring, prompting or imagination. The deceased had an opportunity to observe and identify the assailants and was in a fit state to make the declaration. (See K.

Ramachandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor [(1976) 3 SCC 618 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 473 : AIR 1976 SC 1994] .)

(iv) Where the dying declaration is suspicious it should not be acted upon without corroborative evidence. (See Rasheed Beg v. State of M.P. [(1974) 4 SCC 264 : 1974 SCC (Cri) 426])

(v) Where the deceased was unconscious and could never make any dying declaration, the evidence with regard to it is to be rejected. (See Kake Singh v. State of M.P. [1981 Supp SCC 25 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 645 : AIR 1982 SC 1021])

(vi) A dying declaration which suffers from infirmity cannot form the basis of conviction. (See Ram Manorath v. State of U.P. [(1981) 2 SCC 654 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 581])

(vii) Merely because a dying declaration does not contain the details as to the occurrence, it is not to be rejected. (See State of Maharashtra v. Krishnamurti Laxmipati Naidu [1980 Supp SCC 455 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 364 : AIR 1981 SC 617] .)

(viii) Equally, merely because it is a brief statement, it is not to be discarded. On the contrary, the shortness of the statement itself guarantees truth. (See Surajdeo Ojha v. State of Bihar [1980 Supp SCC 769 : 1979 SCC (Cri) 519 : AIR 1979 SC 1505] .)

(ix) Normally, the court in order to satisfy itself whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitness has said that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the dying declaration, the medical opinion cannot prevail. (See Nanhau Ram v. State of M.P. [1988 Supp SCC 152 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 342 : AIR 1988 SC 912])

(x) Where the prosecution version differs from the version as given in the dying declaration, the said declaration cannot be acted upon. (See State of U.P. v. Madan Mohan [(1989) 3 SCC 390 : 1989 SCC (Cri) 585 : AIR 1989 SC 1519] .)

(xi) Where there are more than one statement in the nature of dying declaration, the one first in point of time must be preferred. Of course, if the plurality of dying declarations could be held to be trustworthy and reliable, they have to be accepted. (See Mohanlal Gangaram Gehani v. State of Maharashtra [(1982) 1 SCC 700 : 1982 SCC (Cri) 334 : AIR 1982 SC 839] .)

48. The law being what it is, we have already held that the dying declaration in this case is one that inspires confidence with us and is free from the blemish of vitiating factors, like tutoring, prompting or imagination. PW-7, the Magistrate who recorded the dying declaration, has clearly said in his cross-examination that it is incorrect to say that at the time of recording it, the deceased's family, to wit, her husband or brothers-in-law were present. There was, thus, reason to infer any kind of prompting or influence that could have made the deceased speak falsehood. Her statement is very clear and in the question and answer form. She has clearly said that she was cooking vegetables, when her devar (brother-in-law), Tilluka, poured vegetable oil on her and set her afire.

She has also said that she did not have any quarrel or dispute with any one, not even her husband. This kind of a dying declaration made by a person in a fit state of mind, to which there is ample testimony, both medical and non-medical, is hard to ignore. It is also supported by the evidence of res gestage offered by PW-2 and PW-3, who reached the scene of occurrence, shortly after the assault and while the deceased was suffering the flames. She was shouting that she had been set afire by Tilluka.

49. This takes us to the testimony of the last witness of fact, PW-10. This witness goes by the name Bantoo. There is no quarrel about the fact, even from the testimony of PW-2 and PW-3, that it was his car that was used to convey the victim to the hospital. This witness has said that he took Satyavati in his car, bearing registration No. UP-80AB-0153, to the Ishwari Devi Hospital, Agra. Tilluka @ Manoj, Tilluka's mother and the son of an uncle of his, called Bhura, got Satyavati admitted to the hospital. He has also said that Bhura went away, leaving behind Tilluka @ Manoj and Tilluka's mother, besides the injured at Ishwari Devi Hospital. In his cross-examination, the witness says that he had heard about the sudden incident of accident by fire suffered by the victim and his house is one house away from the victim's. There was a big crowd there and it was Tilluka's mother, who asked him that Satyavati had to be conveyed to the hospital as she had suffered burn injuries. He has said in his cross-examination that at that time Tilluka, Avaran, Chhotu and Tilluka's mother, helped Satyavati sit in his car and it was Tilluka and his mother, who got her admitted to the hospital and paid his fare too.

50. Though, this witness has not been cross-examined by the prosecution for some inexplicable reason, but his evidence on one fact is apparently incorrect, that is, where he says that it was Tilluka and his mother, who got Satyavati admitted to the hospital. PW-9, the doctor, who attended on Satyavati on the basis of records, said that it was Mohan Singh son of Charan Singh, who had brought Satyavati for her medical examination. There is no mention of either Tilluka or his mother in the doctor's statement. This is a fact, which somewhat derogates from the reliability of this witness. This witness is otherwise an independent man and has no reason to speak falsehood. Even if it is accepted that Tilluka and his mother helped Satyavati's conveyance to the hospital, the contention of the learned Counsel for the appellant that this belies the entire prosecution case that Tilluka was involved in setting Satyavati afire, cannot be accepted in the face of clear, cogent, reliable and damning dying declaration made to the Magistrate. Tilluka's presence or that of his mother, might be odd or clever behaviour, falsehood or even half truth, but it cannot be accepted in the face of the overbearing weight of a very clear dying declaration by Satyavati against the appellant.

51. In the totality of circumstances, we are of opinion that there is no error in the judgment and order impugned passed by the learned Sessions Judge.

52. In the result, this appeal fails and is dismissed.

53. Let this order be communicated to the sole appellant in the Jail, where he is serving, by the Registrar (Compliance) through the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Agra.

54. The Trial Court record, along with a copy of this judgment and order, be transmitted to the Court concerned forthwith.

Criminal Appeal No. 400 of 2005

Khalid & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging the conviction and life imprisonment under section 302/34 IPC following a fatal dispute over borrowing a tractor-trolley at a farmhouse, appellant was convicted of murder.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302/34-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-FIR-Evidentiary Value-Informant dead-Contents not proved-Eyewitness Testimony-Inherent implausibility-Benefit of doubt-The informant died before entering the witness-box and his death was unconnected with the occurrence, the scribe of the FIR could prove its writing and execution but not the truth of its contents-Unexplained presence and conduct of the alleged eyewitnesses at the place of occurrence created a serious doubt regarding prosecution version-The prosecution evidence, though consistent in material particulars, being inherently unreliable and untrustworthy, failed to establish the appellant's guilt beyond reasonable doubt-Appeal allowed.(Para 16 to 37) (E-6)

Held

The court held that the prosecution case suffered from material infirmities, the FIR contents having remained unproved and the ocular evidence being inherently unreliable; hence, the appellant was entitled to the benefit of doubt and acquittal.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This criminal is directed against the judgment and order of Mr. Shri Prakash, the then Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No.2, Ghaziabad, dated 25.01.2005 in Sessions Trial No. 82 of 1994, under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short, 'IPC'), convicting the appellants Khalid and Nannu of the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and passing a sentence of life imprisonment upon each of them, besides imposing a fine in the sum of Rs.10,000/- each, together with a direction that in the event of failure to pay the fine, the appellant in default would undergo one year rigorous imprisonment.

2. Pending this appeal, appellant No.2, Nannu, died on 30.04.2021 and this appeal was ordered to abate on his behalf by an order of this Court dated 21.01.2022. Therefore, this appeal shall now proceed at the behest of appellant No.1, Khalid alone. However, for the sake of convenience, while detailing the course of proceedings and discussing evidence, necessary reference would be made to appellant No.2, Nannu, as regards his role in the crime at the relevant time by describing him as 'appellant No.2' or 'Nannu'.

3. A written information was given by the first informant, Wahiuddin son of Abdul Majid, a resident of Bani Sarai, Meerut, to the Station House Officer, Police Station Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad on 07.01.1990 at 10.25 p.m. regarding an incident that happened earlier in the day at 3.00 p.m., where his son Sarafraz @ Pappu was murdered. The written information says that on 07.01.1990 at about 3.00 p.m., his son Sarafraz @ Pappu was called over by his nephew Khalid (appellant No.1) through his servant, Nannu (appellant No.2) to the latter's barn (gher). At that time, the informant and his son were there in their barn. The informant's son, in response to the message, set about for his nephew's barn and the informant too followed him. When the informant's son reached Khalid's barn, the latter told him that he was sending his servant to pick up Sarafraz's tractor-trolley and that Sarafraz should not refuse to oblige him, like he had done the day before yesterday. In response, Sarafraz said that his trolley was not currently free as they had to send a trolley full of chaff to Meerut. Upon hearing this, Khalid uttered a vulgar abuse and said that today the trolley would carry their consignment of paddy first and that Sarafraz's chaff would be dispatched later. Upon hearing these words, Sarafraz said that Khalid should not abuse and talk politely and that, if the latter had so much of fascination for the trolley, he should get his own repaired. To this Khalid reacted by saying that Sarafraz would not relent like this and asked his servant Nannu to catch hold of Sarafraz. Nannu caught hold of Sarafraz from the rear side, whereas Khalid picked up a double barrel gun, that was at hand, and aiming it at his son, was about to shoot, when the informant suddenly caught hold of the weapon. In consequence, when Khalid opened fire, the deflected led hit Khalid's servant Nannu in his lower limbs. In a quick manoeuvre, Khalid drew out a pistol from the waist of his pant and shot the informant's son in the head. Sarafraz collapsed and was rushed by the informant on his Jeep car to Meerut, reaching the Pyare Lal Sharma Hospital for medical aid. The doctors declared Sarafraz dead. It is further reported by the informant that at the time of occurrence, Iqbal son of Ibrahim and the informant's other son, Sartaj @ Babli were also present.

4. On the basis of the aforesaid written report, which is marked Ex. Ka-1, the Police registered a check First Information Report (for short, 'FIR') on 07.01.1990 at 10.25 p.m., giving rise to Crime No.2 of 1990, under Section 302 IPC, P.S. Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad. The case was registered vide G.D. Entry No. 44 dated 07.01.1990. The check FIR is on record as Ex. Ka-5, whereas G.D. Entry No.44 is marked as Ex. Ka-6.

5. The appellant Nannu was examined for his injuries by the Medical Officer, Primary Health Centre, Bhojpur, Ghaziabad on 07.01.1990 at 7.30 p.m. brought by his father Ummed Ali. He had a firearm would sustained to his left lower limb.

6. The Inquest was held on 07.01.1990, commencing 10.15 p.m. and ending 11.30 p.m. The inquest report is on record as Ex. Ka-9.

7. The dead body of the deceased was subjected to autopsy on 08.01.1990, where a gunshot wound of entry 0.5 x 0.5 cm cranial cavity deep on the left side of head, 2.5 cm above the left ear was noted. In addition, an abrasion was also noticed. The autopsy report is on record and marked as Ex. Ka-2.

8. The Investigating Officer investigated the crime and drew up a site-plan, which is on record as Ex. Ka-7. After completion of investigation, he submitted a charge-sheet dated 09.02.1990 against both the appellants Khalid and Nannu, marked Ex. Ka-8.

9. The appellants were produced before the learned Magistrate, who took cognizance and furnished them copies of the relevant prosecution papers as provided under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case against them was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial on 31.01.1994.

10. After committal, the case came up before Mr. N.K. Garg, the then Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No.2, Ghaziabad on 08.09.2003 for framing of charges. The learned Judge proceeded to frame a charge under Section 302 IPC against the appellant Khalid and another charge against Nannu, the deceased appellant, under Section 302/34 IPC.

11. The prosecution examined the following witnesses in support of their case:

1. PW-1 - Jalis Ahmad, who scribed the written information on the dictation of the first informant,

2. PW-2 - Sartaj @ Babli, brother of the deceased,

3. PW-3 -Iqbal, cousin of the deceased,

4. PW-4 - Dr. V.K. Bajpayee, who conducted postmortem of the deceased,

5. PW-5 - Dr. P.S. Agrawal, who examined the injuries of the accused, Nannu,

6. PW-6 - HCP Rakesh Kumar Tyag, the then Head Moharrir, who drew up the check FIR and made other G.D. entries,

7. PW-7 - Constable No. 629 Ravi Kiran Singh, in whose presence inquest, challan lash, photo lash, letter to the CMO, letter to the RI etc. were prepared.

12. The prosecution produced the following documentary evidence:

Sr. No.	Exhibit No.	Exhibited documents with brief particulars
1	Ex. Ka-1	Written report dated 07.01.1990 lodged with Police Station Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad, proved by PW-1, Jalis Ahmad
2	Ex. Ka-2	Postmortem report dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-4, Dr. V.K. Vajpayee
3	Ex. Ka-3	Injury report of Nannu dated 07.01.1990, proved by PW-5, Dr. P.S. Agrawal
4	Ex. Ka-4	Application for examination of the injuries of Nannu given by him to the Medical Officer, PHC, Bhojpur, dated 07.01.29, proved by PW-5, Dr. P.S. Agrawal
5	Ex. Ka-5	Check FIR dated 07.01.1990, proved by PW-6, HCP Rakesh Kumar
6	Ex. Ka-6	Carbon Copy of GD Entry No.44 Time 22.25 hours dated 07.01.1990, proved by PW-6, HCP Rakesh Kumar
7	Ex. Ka-7	Site-plan of the place of occurrence dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-6, HCP Rakesh Kumar
8	Ex. Ka-8	Charge sheet dated 09.02.1990, proved by PW-6, HCP Rakesh Kumar
9	Ex. Ka-9	Inquest report dated 07.01.1990, proved by PW-7, Constable Ravi Kiran Singh
10	Ex. Ka-10	Challan Lash dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-7, Constable Ravi Kiran Singh
11	Ex. Ka-11	Letter to the C.M.O. dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-7, Constable Ravi Kiran Singh
12	Ex. Ka-12	Photo Lash dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-7, Constable Ravi Kiran Singh

13	Ex. Ka-13	Letter to the R.I. dated 08.01.1990, proved by PW-7, Constable Ravi Kiran Singh

13. After the prosecution evidence was over, the statement of the accused-appellant Khalid under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'Cr.P.C.') was recorded by the learned Trial Judge on 24.09.2004 and that of the deceased appellant Nannu on 17.08.2004. After trial, the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge by his judgment and order impugned held the appellants guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and passed sentences upon them as hereinabove mentioned.

14. Aggrieved, this appeal has been preferred by both the convicts Khalid and Nannu. Nannu being dead, as already pointed out, this appeal has been heard at the behest of Khalid alone.

15. Heard Mr. Ayush Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant, Mr. Sunil Singh, learned Counsel appearing on behalf of the informant and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State.

The evidentiary value of the FIR

16. The first informant in this case, Wahiuddin, was admittedly dead before the case went to trial, and, therefore, never entered the witness-box to prove the FIR. The scribe of the FIR, Jalis Ahmad, was examined as PW-1. The question is, could Jalis Ahmad prove the contents of the FIR, and, if not, what could he prove by his testimony in the dock and what would be the evidentiary value of the FIR.

17. This question has engaged the attention of the Courts much in the past as well and the issue has also been considered that if the informant is dead, could the FIR be proved with the aid of Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (for short, "Evidence Act"). The question fell for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Pradeep v. State of U.P., 2022 SCC OnLine All 1139. In Pradeep (supra), to which one of us (J.J. Munir, J.) was party, it was held:

"20. There is a distinctive feature about this case, where the first informant, Satya Prakash has been abducted some time in the year 2007, a fact that can be reckoned about the time of its occurrence from the testimony of PW-2, Ram Autar. Ram Autar, in his examination-in-chief on 02.04.2008, has stated that Satya Prakash was abducted 6-7 months ago. He does not know, whether he is dead or alive. It has figured in the judgment of the learned Trial Judge that a photostat copy of the FIR is on record, where, relating to the abduction of Satya Prakash, a crime was registered against Pradeep and some other persons under Section 364 IPC. Thus, Satya Prakash was no longer available to testify in the dock. It is for this reason that the FIR lodged by Satya Prakash has been proved by PW-2, Ram Autar, who is the scribe of the written first information.

30. Learned Counsel for the appellants has urged that until time when the trial was held, hardly two years had passed by and apart from the FIR accusing Pradeep of causing Satya Prakash to be abducted, there was no proof that he was dead. He further argues that Satya Prakash's death cannot be presumed until the lapse of seven years without him being heard of by any one of those, who would naturally have known of his whereabouts. In short, Satya Prakash cannot be presumed to have suffered a civil death by time the trial was held.

31. We are of opinion that unless the case be one where the first informant is dead and what he reports through the FIR are facts related to the cause of his death, the FIR is not admissible as substantive evidence under Section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 18724. Their Lordships of the Supreme Court in Munnu Raja v. The State of Madhya Pradesh5 decisions, do not doubt the principle that an FIR can qualify as a dying declaration, if the informant dies in consequence of injuries that he reports through the FIR, or to put it more in the form of principle, if the FIR has some nexus with the informant's death. If the informant, after lodging the FIR, were to die a natural death, the FIR cannot be read as substantive evidence with the aid of Section 32 of the Evidence Act. Here, the informant has not reported anything that bears any nexus with his death. Moreover, it is not established whether the informant is dead or alive. What is true is that he is untraceable and there is an allegation that he has been abducted by the appellant, Pradeep, which now stands vindicated with Pradeep's conviction for that offence. The fact remains, however, that the first informant, who is the author of the FIR, could not be produced at the trial.

32. The moot question is whether the FIR, in the absence of the informant being produced in the dock, would be admissible for the purpose of corroborating or contradicting the eye-witnesses who have testified at the trial. In our opinion, that cannot be done. In fact, the FIR is the earliest account of the occurrence and it is only the author of the FIR, that is to say, the first informant, who can prove its contents. It is he alone who can be cross-examined to contradict or corroborate him. Once he proves the FIR, the account can be looked into to judge the probity of other witnesses and their testimony also. But, in the absence of the informant entering the witness-box to prove the FIR, its contents cannot be held to be proved by examining the scribe, who has written it, or the police personnel, who have registered it. The scribe i.e. PW-2 has testified that the informant dictated the FIR to him by word of mouth, which he reduced to writing. He read over the contents to the first informant, who signed the FIR after understanding the same. The evidence of PW-2, Ram Autar, is competent to establish that the written information is one that was narrated to the scribe by the informant and is faithfully transcribed. It proves that it was written by the scribe, PW-2 and signed by the informant, but does not prove the contents of the FIR.

33. An FIR is nevertheless the basis to set the process of criminal law in motion and it is proved that the FIR here was lodged by the first informant and registered at the police station. On its basis, investigation could and did commence, where material had to be collected and was collected. It is on the basis of that material that the appellants have been charge-sheeted and tried. It is on the basis of evidence led at the trial that the appellants have been found guilty beyond reasonable doubt, a conclusion that they assail before us. Admissibility and evidenciary value of an FIR, in the context of a dead first informant, whose death was not connected to the occurrence reported through the FIR, was considered by the Gujarat High Court in Bhavanbhai Premjibhai Vaghela v. State of Gujarat6 in an interlocutory challenge raised to the order of the Trial Court. The order challenged before the High Court had permitted the contents of the FIR to be proved by the Investigating Officer entering the witness-box, because pending trial, the first informant had suffered a natural death. The accused had objected to it and said that the Investigating Officer could not prove the contents of the FIR. The Trial Court rejected the objection and permitted the Investigating Officer to prove the FIR. This order was challenged under Article 227 of the Constitution, where, after survey of authority bearing on the issue, it was held in Bhavanbhai Premjibhai Vaghela (supra):

"11. The basic purpose of filing a First Information Report is to set the criminal law into motion. A First Information Report is the initial step in a criminal case recorded by the police and contains the basic knowledge of the crime committed, place of commission, time of commission, who was the victim, etc. The term "First Information Report" has been explained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 by virtue of Section 154, which lays down that:

"Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a police station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and be read over to the informant and every such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it, and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the State Government may prescribe in this behalf.

12. F.I.Rs. can be registered by a victim, a witness or someone else with the knowledge of the crime. The police can record three different kinds of statements. The first kind of statement is one which can be recorded as an F.I.R., the second kind of statement is one which can be recorded by the police during the investigation, and the third kind of statement is any kind of statement which would not fall under any of the two categories mentioned above. Evidence is the matter of testimony manifesting the fact on a particular precision or circumstances. The First Information Report is not by itself a substantial piece of evidence and the statement made therein cannot be considered as evidence unless it falls within the purview of Section 32 of the Evidence Act. It is an admitted fact that the original first informant because of the injuries caused by the applicants. The relative importance of a First Information Report is far greater than any other statement recorded by the police during the course of the investigation. It is the foremost information the police gets about the commission of an offence and which can be used to corroborate the story put-forward by the first informant under Section 157 of the Evidence Act or to contradict his version by facts under Section 145 of the Act in case he is summoned as a witness in the case by the Court. It may happen that the informant is the accused himself. In such cases, the First Information Report lodged byjhim cannot be used as an evidence against him because it is embodied in the basic structure of our Constitution that a person cannot be compelled to be a witness against himself.

13. x x x

14. If the informant dies, the First Information Report can be, unquestionably, used as a substantive evidence. A prerequisite condition must be fulfilled before the F.I.R. is taken as a substantive piece of evidence i.e. the death of the informant must have nexus with the F.I.R. filed or somehow having some link with any evidence regarding the F.I.R. This is what has been explained by the Supreme Court in the case of Damodar Prasad v. State of U.P., [(1975) 3 SCC 851 : (1975) 3 SCC 851 : AIR 1975 SC 757].

15. There are plethora of decisions taking the view that an F.I.R. can be a dying declaration if the informant dies of his injuries after lodging the same. [See Munna Raja v. State of M.P. ((1976) 3 SCC 104 : (1976) 3 SCC 104 : AIR 1976 SC 2199)].

16. Another important thing is that for an F.I.R. lodged by a deceased person to be treated as substantial, its contents must be proved. It has to be corroborated and proved for there to be any value of the same in the case. The F.I.R. can be used by the defence to impeach the credit of the person who lodged the F.I.R. under Section 154(3) of the evidence Act. In case the death of the informant has no nexus with the complaint lodged i.e. he died a natural death and did not succumb to the injuries inflicted on him in relation to a matter, the contents of the F.I.R. would not be admissible in evidence. In such circumstances, the contents cannot be proved through the Investigating Officer. The Investigating Officer, in the course of his deposition, should not be permitted to depose the exact contents of the F.I.R. so as to make them admissible in evidence. All that is permissible in law is that the Investigating Officer can, in his deposition, identify the sgnature of the first informant and that of his own on the First Information Report and he can depose about the factum of the F.I.R. being registered by him on a particular date on a particular police station.

17. It is absolutely incorrect on the part of the Trial Court to say that in the absence of the first informant, the police officer can prove the contents of the F.I.R. as per Section 67 of the Evidence Act.

18. In the case of Harkirat Singh v. State of Punjab, [(1997) 11 SCC 215 : (1997) 11 SCC 215 : AIR 1997 SC 3231], the Supreme Court observed as under:

"In our considered view, the High Court was not justified in treating the statement allegedly made by Kharaiti Ram during inquest proceedings as substantive evidence in view of the embargo of Section 162, Cr. P.C. Equally unjustified was the High Courts reliance upon the contents of the FIR lodged by Walaiti Ram who, as stated earlier, could not be examined during the trial as he had died in the meantime. The contents of the FIR could have been used for the purpose of corroborating or contradicting Walaiti Ram if he had been examined but under no circumstances as a substantive piece of evidence."

19. In the case of Hazarilal v. State (Delhi Administration), [(1980) 2 SCC 390 : (1980) 2 SCC 390 : AIR 1980 SC 873], the Supreme Court, in para 7, observed as under: The learned counsel was right in his submission about the free use made by the Courts below of statements of witnesses recorded during the course of investigation. Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure imposes a bar on the use of any statement made by any person to a Police Officer in the course of investigation at any enquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made, except for the purpose of contradicting the witness in the manner provided by S. 145 of the Indian Evidence Act. Where any part of such statement is so used any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of the witness for the limited purpose of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination. The only other exception to this embargo on the use of statements made in the course of an investigation relates to the statements falling within the provisions of S. 32 (1) of the Indian Evidence Act or permitted to be proved under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act. Section 145 of the Evidence Act provides that a witness may be cross-examined as to previous statements made by him in writing and reduced into writing and relevant to matters in question, without such writing being shown to him or being proved but, that if it is intended to contradict him by the writing, his attention must, before the writing can be proved, be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him. The Courts below were clearly wrong in using as substantive evidence statements made by witnesses in the course of investigation. Shri. H.S. Marwah, learned counsel for the Delhi Administration amazed us by advancing the argument that the earlier statements with which witnesses were confronted for the purpose of contradiction could be taken into consideration by the Court in view of the definition of □proved□ in Section 3 of the Evidence Act which is, □a fact is said to be proved when, after considering the matters before it, the Court either believes it to exist or considers its existence so probable that a prudent man, ought, in the circumstances of the particular case to act upon the supposition that it exists□. We need say no more on the submission of Shri. Marwah except that the definition of proved does not enable a Court to take into consideration matters, including statements, whose use is statutorily barred."

20. I have to my benefit a very lucid and erudite judgment rendered by a learned Single Judge of the Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Umrao Singh v. State of M.P. [1961 Criminal L.J. 270]. In this case, the petitioners Umrao Singh and Kunwarlal were convicted of the offence punishable under Section 323 of the Penal Code and sentenced to two months rigorous imprisonment. The case of the prosecution was that on 27th August 1959, the petitioners named above belaboured Barelal who had gone out to graze his cattle, and who was blamed by the accused to have caused damage to their crops. Barelal, however, died a natural death after six months of the occurrence, but before he could be examined as a witness. It was contended that the F.I.R. lodged by Barelal could not be considered by the Courts below and that the evidence of the solitary witness, Pannala was unreliable, as he was not mentioned in the list of witnesses filed by the prosecution. In this set of facts, the Court observed as under:

"4. It is true that the first information report is not by itself a substantive piece of evidence and the statement made therein cannot be considered as evidence unless it falls within the purview of S. 32 of the Evidence Act. It is an admitted fact that Barelal did not die because of the injuries caused by the petitioners. Section 32 was inapplicable.

5. It is true that in the list of witnesses Pannalal's name has been mis-spelt as "Dhannalal", but this doubt is removed when the first information report is looked into. There, Pannalal's name is mentioned. Shri. Dey contends that it is not permissible to look at the F.I. R. at all. In my opinion this argument cannot be accepted. It is proved by Ram Ratan P.W. 6 that he recorded the report which was lodged by Barelal There is a distinction between factum and truth of a statement. It has been aptly pointed out by Lord Parker C.J. in R. v. Willis, [1960] 1 WLR 55 that evidence of a statement made to a witness by a person who is not himself called as witness may or may not be hearsay.

It is hearsay and inadmissible when the object of the evidence is to establish what is contained in the statement; it is not hearsay and is admissible when it is proposed to establish by the evidence not the truth of the statement but the fact that it was made. According to Ram Ratan, Barelal mentioned Pannalal's name to him. Applying the above dictum, Ramratan's evidence is inadmissible to prove that Pannalal was in fact present at the time of the occurrence; but Ram Ratan's statement is admissible to prove that Barelal had mentioned the name of Pannalal to the witness."

35. The first informant, for whatever reason not being available or produced in the witness-box to prove the contents of the FIR, we are of opinion that the FIR cannot be looked into to corroborate or contradict the prosecution witnesses. The contents of the FIR are not proved. It is also held that the FIR is not one that has any nexus with the death of the informant and, therefore, not admissible as substantive evidence under Section 32 of the Evidence Act. However, the fact that the FIR was dictated by word of mouth by the informant to PW-2, who has transcribed it and that it bears the signatures of the first informant and the scribe, are well proved. The registration of the FIR at the police station on the date and the time specified is also proved. This Court must also say that the fact that the FIR is not proved for the informant's absence does not impair the prosecution in establishing its case at the trial on the basis of material collected during investigation and proved by leading cogent evidence."

18. We are fortified in the view that we have taken in Pradeep and followed here by the Supreme Court in Lalita v. Vishwanath and others, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 370, where it is observed:

"34. Another important thing is that for an F.I.R. lodged by a deceased person to be treated as substantial, its contents must be proved. It has to be corroborated and proved for there to be any value of the same in the case. 37. In the case of Hazarilal v. State (Delhi Administration) [(1980) 2 SCC 390 : AIR 1980 SC 873], this Court, in para 7, observed as under:-

"The learned counsel was right in his submission about the free use made by the Courts below of statements of witnesses recorded during the course of investigation. 19. In this case, as already remarked, the FIR was attempted to be proven by PW-1, Jalis Ahmad son of Riazuddin, who is admittedly the scribe of the FIR. This witness in his testimony has said that he had scribed the FIR on the dictation of Wahiuddin on 07.01.1990, reducing to writing whatever Wahiuddin dictated. After the dictation was over, the contents were read over to Wahiuddin and he signed the same in the presence of the scribe, PW-1. It is further said that the witness□s name appears on the written report as the scribe. This witness has clearly said that Wahiuddin, PW-1, was already dead, that is to say, by time the trial commenced. The written information was read over to the witness, who verified the fact that this is the same written report that he had transcribed. It was exhibited as Ex. Ka-1. Considering the fact that Wahiuddin was dead by time the case went to trial and the FIR does not relate to the cause of his death or as to any circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, to borrow the phraseology of Section 32(1), the contents of the FIR cannot be held proved by the scribe. The evidence of PW-1, the scribe of the FIR, would, therefore, be limited to proving the facts that the FIR was dictated by word of mouth by the informant to PW-1, who has transcribed it and that it bears signatures of the first informant and the scribe as well. The registration of the FIR at the police station on the date and time specified is also proved. But, mere non-proof of the FIR, as held by us in Pradeep, does not impair the prosecution from proving their case otherwise by producing evidence in the dock. Of course, the prosecution would have one disadvantage that the earliest account of the occurrence is not available, of which an FIR, duly proved in accordance with law, is a treasured and reliable repository unless impeached by very cogent evidence about its veracity.

The date, time, place and manner of occurrence

20. On the basis of evidence available on record, there is little quarrel about the date, time and place of occurrence. The date was 07.01.1990, the time 3.00 p.m. and the place of occurrence was the appellant Khalid's barn, located on his farmhouse. The farmhouses of the appellant Khalid and the deceased were located close-by in Village Nahli. We accept these facts to be established on the basis of the prosecution evidence. The principal issue involved in this case is about the manner of occurrence and who inflicted the fatal injury. The charge is upon the appellant that he shot the victim Sarafraz @ Pappu to death.

21. Now, in this regard, the most dependable testimony is that of Sartaj @ Babli son of the late Wahiuddin, a brother of the deceased and the informant's son. According to the prosecution, he is an eye-witness of the occurrence. According to this witness, in his examination-in-chief, he has said that on 07.01.1990, his brother Sarafraz @ Pappu was murdered. That day, he along with his father Wahiuddin and younger brother, the deceased Sarafraz and Iqbal, a cousin of the deceased were at the farmhouse of the deceased's family, situate at Village Nahli, P.S. Bhojpur. They had gone over there. As soon as they reached the farm, they received a message from Khalid through his servant Nannu, the other co-accused, that Khalid was calling Sarafraz over. The time was about quarter to three in the afternoon. The deceased Sarafraz started out in response to Khalid's call to meet him at the latter's farmhouse. The witness's and the deceased's father, Wahiuddin, and the witness himself along with Iqbal, trailed his brother to Khalid's farmhouse. As soon as the party arrived there, Khalid demanded of his brother, the deceased, lending of the latter's tractor-trolley, a proposal which the witness's brother promptly declined on the ground that their own chaff had to be carried to destination.

22. Upon the deceased telling Khalid that the tractor-trolley was not available, Khalid abused the deceased. Sarafraz, the deceased, told him to mind his language. At the drop of these words from Sarafraz, Khalid exhorted his servant Nannu to catch hold of the deceased, saying that he would not agree with ease. Nannu caught hold of Sarafraz from his backside and Khalid, picking up his gun, aimed it at Sarafraz. The witness's father, at that time, intervened and forced the barrel downwards, in consequence of which the projectiles from the gun, that was fired to shoot Sarafraz, hit Nannu in his lower limbs. At this stage, Khalid took out a pistol from the pocket of his pant and shot Sarafraz, hitting him in the head. In consequence of the gunshot wound, Sarafraz collapsed. Thereupon, Khalid and Nannu, collecting their weapons, escaped. The witness put his brother in the Jeep and rushed him to Pyare Lal Hospital, Meerut, where the doctors declared him dead.

23. There are some oddities about the prosecution case that appear from the testimony of PW-2, who is an eye-witness, and also PW-3. Whereas PW-2 is the brother of the deceased, PW-3 is the latter's cousin, that is to say, he is the deceased's father's sister's son. It would be important to note that Khalid too is a cousin of the deceased and he is the deceased's father's brother's son. The place of occurrence is not the deceased's farmhouse or any part of it, but the appellant's farmhouse. The oddity that creeps into the prosecution account is due to the fact that when Khalid called the deceased over through his servant Nannu, the deceased's father, PW-2 and PW-3, all trailed him to Khalid's farmhouse and right into the gher, where Khalid and the deceased met and had a verbal altercation to begin with. There is no evidence to the effect that the relationship between the deceased or his family and Khalid or his family was in any manner soured by any dispute or otherwise. To the contrary, the two not only had adjoining farmhouses, but it seems from the evidence that they were on reasonably amiable terms. If the terms between parties were good and it was commonplace for Khalid to call Sarafraz and for him to go there, there was no reason why on occasion, when Sarafraz went over to Khalid at the latter's call, his father, brother and cousin trooped behind him. The relevant part of PW-2's cross-examination in this regard may be noticed the way it has been recorded by the learned Trial Judge. It reads:

"मैंने नन्नू से नहीं पूछा था कि क्यू बुलाया है। खालिद इससे पहले भी बुला लेता था और सरफराल चला जाता था। मुझे भी बुला लेता था ओर मैं भी चला जाता था। घटना वाले दिन खालिद के बुलाने पर सरफराज के साथ हम तीनों भी चले गये थे। इसकी कोई खास वजह नहीं है। हमसे सरफराज या अन्य किसी ने खालिद के यहां चलने को नहीं कहा था यू ही चल दिये थे।"

24. The alternative hypothesis why besides the deceased, PW-2, PW-3 and their late father were at the place of occurrence and how actually the deceased was shot and Nannu received fatal injuries, also figures from PW-2's cross-examination, where it is said:

"□..यह कहना गलत है कि घटना से पहले खालिद ने हमारी ट्राली माँगी थी और वह खराब कर दी थी। यह कहना गलत है कि हमने खालिद से अपनी ट्राली ठीक कराने को कहा हो और उसने कहा हो कि ऐसा तो हो ही जाता है। यह कहना गलत है कि इस बात पर मेरे वालिद बन्दूक लेकर और हम तमंचे लेकर खालिद के घेर पर पहुँचे ओर उस पर हमला किया। यह कहना भी गलत है कि हमारी चलाई गई गोली से नन्नू जख्मी हुआ और खालिद ने अपनी जान बचाने के लिए सरफराज को कौली भरी हो और हमारे द्वारा चलाई गई गोली सरफराज को लगी हो। यह कहना गलत है कि हमने पुलिस से मिलकर मुलजिमान के विरूद्ध झूठा मुदकमा कायम कराया हो।"

25. The suggestion is that there was a dispute that erupted between the families of the two brothers and their children, who are collaterals, over the use of the deceased's tractor-trolley. Tempers ran high about the issue of borrowing the tractor-trolley, in consequence of which the deceased's father entered Khalid's farmhouse with a gun and PW-2 and PW-3 with country-made pistols. They opened fire injuring Nannu. Khalid, in order to save his life, caught hold of Sarafraz, making a shield out of him. When the witnesses and their party opened fire, Sarafraz sustained a bullet injury, in consequence of which he died.

26. It must be noticed here that Nannu lodged a cross-version under Section 307 IPC with P.S. Bhojpur, that was registered as Crime No.2-A of 1990 on 10.02.1990 at 3.45 p.m. The accused in the said FIR are Wahiuddin, Sarafraz (the deceased), Sartaj (PW-2) and Iqbal (PW-3). In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., Khalid took the following defence in answer to the question, if he had any other thing to say:

"जी, सरफराज वगैरह मेरे (घेर) पर हथियारों से लैस होकर आये थे, उनके द्वारा चलायी एक गोली नन्नू को लगी तथा दूसरी गोली चलाते समय धक्कम धक्का होने के कारण इन्ही की गोली सरफराज को लगी तथा उन लोगों ने इस अपराध से बचने के लिये ही हम पर झूठा मुकदमा कराया है।"

27. The appellant has also produced documents in defence and one of these is the FIR in the cross-case, giving rise to Crime No.2-A of 2005, under Section 307 IPC, which is on record as paper No. 63-Kha / 3. This FIR was lodged by Nannu, Khalid's servant. It says that on 07.01.1990, Khalid was taking out moonji (paddy crop), when at about 3.00 p.m., Khalid's uncle Wahiuddin, carrying a gun in his hand and his son Sarafraz @ Pappu and Sartaj @ Babli armed with country-made pistols, besides Iqbal son of Ibrahim also carrying a country-made pistol, entered their barn, saying it with an abuse that they had ruined their trolley and Khalid should get it repaired. In response, Khalid said that what is there to turn abusive about it, because in farming work, such things happen. He also said that you also use our trolley and that he had not damaged the trolley. To this, Wahiuddin said with another abuse that Khalid had the dare to argue with him and saying so opened fire, aiming at Khalid. The informant (Nannu) came between the assailant and Khalid, on account of which he received gunshot injuries to his leg. Khalid, in order to save himself, caught hold of Sarafraz, making a shield out of him. Iqbal then opened fire at Khalid, which instead of hitting the desired target, struck Sarafraz.

28. This is the cross-version that the appellant has come up with. However, the Police did not accept the cross-version and put in a final report, which was pending until judgment was passed in this case. The Trial Judge discounted this defence on the ground that apart from a final report being put in by the Police, though not conclusive as proceedings were pending until then, the FIR, that as lodged by Nanny, was after a delay of a little over one month. It is also remarked that against the first informant of the cross-case, FIR had been registered on 08.01.1990, and, therefore, the cross-version was a defence set up to escape the consequences. It is also remarked by the learned Trial Judge that 14 years have rolled by, but the final report is still pending and the appellants have not secured any orders from the Court.

29. It is to be seen, therefore, if the prosecution, going by the manner of occurrence, have established their case beyond reasonable doubt. It is quite another matter that the cross-version that Khalid's servant and appellant No.2 (since deceased) came up with, did not convince the Police into filing a charge-sheet. Possibly, they could not have done that after putting in a charge-sheet on the first informant's version here. The oddities in the prosecution case noticed so far, based as it is on the eye-witness account of PW-2, do not end at Wahiuddin, Sartaj and Iqbal following Sarafraz when the latter went over to Khalid's barn upon his call. We may remark here that this conduct of trailing Sarafraz to Khalid's barn could have been understood if there were any evidence of a hostility between the two families. There is none.

30. The oddity about the prosecution story continues when one looks to the manner of assault propounded by the prosecution: firstly, it is an absolutely unbelievable story by the very nature of things that Khalid would have asked Nannu to catch hold of Sarafraz for the purpose of enabling him to shoot the victim. In the standing position, a man, who catches hold of the victim, who is shot from the opposite direction, always runs the risk of being shot himself. Therefore, the story is highly improbable; almost unbelievable. The next strong improbability about the manner of occurrence is that if Nannu had caught hold of Sarafraz from the backside to disable him as he was being shot by Khalid, the flying led from the shot would certainly have hit Nannu, even if the barrel was pushed down by Wahiuddin, but not without injuring Sarafraz in his legs or foot or the lower part of his body. Sarafraz has sustained no injury referable to the gunshot that hit Nannu, when Wahiuddin pushed the barrel of the gun down, according to the prosecution, as Khalid opened fire from his gun. It is almost fantastic to think that the led would have flown around Khalid's lower limbs, as if those were in bulletproof armour, and work their way around to hit Nannu in his left lower limb.

31. This is all the more so because Nannu's injury report, Ex. Ka-3, shows that what he received were pellet injuries and the weapon used was apparently a double barrel shotgun. This kind of a firearm, where there is a spread of pellets, could never have left Sarafraz unscathed in his lower limbs, if Nannu had received injuries in the manner described by the prosecution. Both the aforesaid infirmities casts a grave shadow of doubt about the veracity of the prosecution case.

32. Turning to the testimony of PW-3, the fabric of the prosecution story is no doubt consistent between both the eye-witnesses and the examination-in-chief for this reason is unremarkable. About this rather strange behaviour of Wahiuddin following his son, when he went to Khalid and PW-2 and PW-3 following Wahiuddin, is testified to by PW-3 in the following words:

"हमारे पहुंचने के थोडी देर के बाद यानि 4-5 मिनट के बाद खालिद नौकर सरफराज को बुलाने आया था। उसने कहा कि खालिद बुला रहा था। सरफराज ने नही पूछा कि मुझे क्यों बुला रहा है। हम तीनों में से भी किसी ने नही पूछा कि खालिद क्यों बुला रहा हौ। उसके कहते ही सरफराज उसके साथ चल दिया सरफराज ने हम से किसी से नही कहा कि मेरे साथ चलो। चूकि वहीदुद्दीन चल दिये इसलिए हम भी चल दिये। सरफराज से हम 1-2 कदम के फासले पर चल दिये।"

33. There is, therefore, no earthly reason assigned by this witness as well as to why three men followed Sarafraz to Khalid's barn, located in his farmhouse when the latter called him over. As already remarked, in the testimony of PW-3 as well, there is no evidence about any such hostility between parties, which might have made Wahiuddin or the two witnesses fear for Sarafraz, if he went to Khalid alone. There is absolutely a meaningless explanation offered by PW-3 as well. All that he says is that because Wahiuddin went after Sarafraz, PW-2 and PW-3 followed suit. This explanation about the presence of the three men, besides Sarafraz at Khalid's barn, is indeed very odd; something that we have remarked about earlier in this judgment in greater detail. This behaviour of the three eye-witnesses, one of whom is dead, that is to say, the first informant Wahiuddin, by itself casts a grave cloud of doubt on the prosecution.

The prosecution case if proved beyond reasonable doubt

34. It is too well settled a proposition that the prosecution have to prove their case, whether it be direct or circumstantial evidence by the exacting criminal standard, that is to say, proof beyond reasonable doubt. Reference in this connection may be made to: Vijayee Singh v. State of U.P., (1990) 3 SCC 190, Sunil Kundu v. State of Jharkhand, (2013) 4 SCC 422, Anand Ramachandra Chougule v. Sidarai Laxman Chougala, (2019) 8 SCC 50, Vasudev v. State of M.P., (2022) 4 SCC 735, and Pawan Kumar Sharma v. Manoj Kumar, 2026 SCC OnLine SC 934.

35. Here, we have found the evidence produced by the prosecution despite the consistent account of witnesses to be inherently unreliable and untrustworthy for the reasons indicated above.

36. In our opinion, the appellant Khalid is entitled to the benefit of doubt.

37. In the result, this appeal succeeds and is allowed. The impugned and order dated 25.01.2005 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No.2, Ghaziabad, is hereby set aside and the appellant acquitted of the charge. He is in jail. He shall be set at liberty forthwith unless wanted in any other case.

38. The appellant Khalid shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

39. Let this judgment and order be communicated to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad and through him to the Jail Superintendent, wherever the appellant is serving, for prompt compliance.

40. Let the lower court records be returned.

Criminal Appeal No. 441 of 2020

Bhanwar Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging conviction and life imprisonment under section 302/34 IPC. The deceased Sukhpal @ Munna was found murdered after he failed to return home from his milk-delivery work, leading to investigation and subsequent prosecution of the appellants.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302/34 –Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 3, 60-Murder-Appreciation of evidence-Conviction based on hearsay, suspicion and alleged motive-Prosecution initially implicated different person in the FIR and upon subsequent CBCID investigation, proceeded against the appellants, thereby giving rise to two inconsistent prosecution versions-No eye witness to the occurrence-Evidence relied upon by the Trial court regarding the alleged illicit relations of the deceased was admittedly based upon village rumours and hearsay-Suspicion however grave cannot take the place of proof-Conviction in a criminal case must rest upon cogent, reliable and legally admissible evidence establishing guilt beyond reasonable doubt.(Para 64 to 80) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that evidence founded merely upon rumours regarding the deceased's alleged illicit relationships could not constitute reliable proof of guilt. In the absence of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence establishing guilt beyond reasonable doubt, the appellants were entitled to the benefit of doubt. Conviction under sections 302/34 IPC set aside and appeals allowed.

1. Both these criminal appeals bearing Criminal Appeal No. 441 of 2020 (Bhanwar Singh v. State of U.P.) and Criminal Appeal No. 392 of 2020 (Beniram and 2 others v. State of U.P.), have been preferred by the convicts, to wit, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Om Prakash and Kaptan Singh, against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 13.01.2020, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 15, Agra, in Sessions Trial No. 1144 of 2007 (State v. Beniram and Others) arising out of Case Crime No. 178 of 1998, under Section 302/34 of I.P.C., Police Station Kagarol, District Agra.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 15, Agra, has convicted the appellants for an offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced them to suffer imprisonment for life. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 13.01.2020, the appellants have preferred this appeal.

3. Brief facts of the case are that informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1), son of Bhagwan Singh, resident of Bisalpur, Police Station Kagarol, District Agra, has got scribed a written report dated 15.10.1998 (Exhibit Ka-1) from Kishan Singh Rawat Jat and lodged at Police Station Kagarol, District Agra. Informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) has stated in his written report (Exhibit Ka-1) that yesterday i.e. 14.10.1998, my brother Sukhpal @ Munna had gone to Munna Khan's dairy at Gaharra Ki Pyau to deliver milk. Usually, my brother would return home by around 9:00 P.M., but when he did not return on time that night, I, along with my brother Jawahar Singh, uncle Mahaveer Singh, brother-in-law Jawahar Singh and cousin Udaiveer, went towards Gaharra ki Pyau to look for him. On the way, we met Rajveer Singh, son of Hardam Singh and Dharmpal Singh, son of Jagan Singh, who do milk business in my village. When asked about my brother, these two men stated that Munna was returning to the village with them. However, at the second kilometer mark, they met Shivraj Singh & Mangal Singh, sons of Veeri Singh and Harpal Singh, son of Laxman Singh, from the village, with whom Munna started talking and stayed with them. Since there was an old dispute with these three individuals, they became suspicious. Moving forward, they noticed noise and screaming about three or four fields ahead of the second kilometer mark. They ran toward the sound shouting, we are coming and just as they were about to reach, they heard three or four gunshots. Upon hearing their voices, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh fled, saying, now he is dead, his family members are coming. In the light of our torches, we saw and identified these three men fleeing. When we reached the spot, we found the body of my brother Sukhpal @ Munna in the field of Laccho, a resident of Beri Chahar. It was about 11:00 P.M. at night. There were several wounds from gunshots and knives on my brother's body. Upon seeing the dead body, we wept and screamed gradually, people from the surrounding area gathered. Some local leaders prevented us from going to the police station, saying that they would call the officials to the spot, initiate action, and block the road. The leaders did exactly that as soon as morning arrived. The aforementioned Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh brutally murdered my brother due to personal enmity.

4. On the basis of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), a first information report was registered at Police Station Kagarol, District Agra, on 15.10.1998 at about 11:15 A.M., against the accused Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, bearing Case Crime No. 178 of 1998, under Section 302 IPC.

5. After registration of the first information report, the investigation was taken up by Investigating Officer Sanjeev Katiyar (PW-8). He visited the place of occurrence, inspected the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna and prepared the panchayatnama (Exhibit Ka-4). He also prepared other necessary police papers, such as, the photolash (Exhibit Ka-5), the report to the C.M.O. (Exhibit Ka-6), the letter to the R.I. (Exhibit Ka-7), and the challanlash (Exhibit Ka-8). He also prepared the site plan (Exhibit Ka-9) and collected two empty .315 bore cartridges and one bullet found near the deceased□s body, for which he prepared a recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-10). The Investigating Officer further collected and took into custody a bloodstained chappal (slipper) found near the deceased□s body and prepared a recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-12).

6. The Investigating Officer (PW-8) recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and sent the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, for post-mortem examination. After completing all necessary formalities of the investigation, PW-8 submitted a charge-sheet (Exhibit Ka-13) against the accused persons, namely, Mangal Singh and Shivraj Singh, under Section 302 IPC. Since accused Harpal Singh could not be arrested, the investigation against him remained pending.

7. Meanwhile, an application (Exhibit Ka-2) dated 19.11.1998, was submitted by the residents of village Bisalpur, Police Station Kagarol, District Agra, before the Superintendent of Police, Agra. In the said application, it was submitted by the villagers that in the night of 14/15.10.1998, near the Naga Beri Chahar Canal, the murder of Sukhpal @ Munna, son of Bhagwan Singh, was committed by unknown persons. It was also submitted in the application that, due to prior enmity, the informant falsely implicated Shivraj Singh and Mangal Singh, sons of Veeri Singh and Harpal Singh, son of Lakshman Singh, in the present case. In their application, the villagers also submitted that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, was a man of loose character and that when he went to deliver milk, he used to halt at night in Nagla Mohana at the house of Badan Singh and Phool Singh. The villagers also stated that there were rumours about Sukhpal @ Munna that he had illicit relations with a woman and a girl of Nagla Mohana. They further stated that after the murder, dog squad reached the room of Phool Singh, from which, it is apparent that in the night of the incident, the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna was present in that room. On the basis of the alleged illicit relations of Sukhpal @ Munna with a woman and a girl of Nagla, the villagers expressed their suspicion upon Phool Singh and Badan Singh. They further stated that an impartial investigation must be done so that innocent persons are not implicated in this case and the real culprits are brought to justice.

8. On the basis of the aforesaid application submitted to the Superintendent of Police, District Agra, by the villagers of Bisalpur, the case was handed over to the CBCID (The Crime Branch-Criminal Investigation Department). The CBCID re-investigated the matter and, after completing its investigation, rejected the previous charge-sheet filed against Shivraj Singh and Mangal Singh. Thereafter, the CBCID filed charge-sheets against the appellants, namely, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Om Prakash and Kaptan Singh, under Sections 302/34 IPC and Section 27 of the Arms Act, vide Charge Sheet Nos. 10, 10A & 10B. In this way, the CBCID, in its investigation, found no role or involvement of the accused named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1).

9. Dr. A. K. Singh (PW-7), conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, and prepared the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-2). According to the postmortem report, the following ante-mortem injuries were present on the dead body of deceased:

"(i) Firearm entry wound measuring 3 cm □ 3 cm. A gunshot wound of entry measuring 4 cm* 3.5 cm was present just above the right ear. The margins were inverted (turned inward).

(ii) A gunshot wound of entry measuring 4 cm □ 3.5 cm was present on the front side of the neck towards the right side. Blackening and tattooing were present around the wound.

(iii) Superficial burn injury measuring 20 cm □ 15 cm was present on the front of the chest.

(iv) An incised wound measuring 1.5 cm * 1 cm was present on the right side of the chest at the 4 o'clock position from the right nipple.

(v) Multiple incised wounds were present in an area of 28 cm * 20 cm, approximately 13 in number, each measuring about 2 cm □ 1.5 cm, present on the upper abdomen. The intestines were protruding out.

(vi) Four incised wounds were present over an area of 15 cm * 10 cm on the front aspect of the arm.

(vii) An abrasion measuring 10 cm □ 8 cm was present on the front of the left arm."

According to Dr. A. K. Singh (PW-7), the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries.

10. On 01.12.2007, the Trial Court framed charges against the appellants, namely, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Om Prakash and Kaptan Singh, under Sections 302/34 of IPC and Section 27 of Arms Act, on the basis of the charge-sheets submitted by the CBCID against them. The appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

11. In support of its case, the prosecution initially examined twelve witnesses, namely, Harbhan Singh (PW-1), Rajendra Singh (PW-2), Lal Singh (PW-3), Mohan Singh (PW-4), Ajay Pal Singh (PW-5), Dharam Pal Singh (PW-6), Dr. A.K. Singh (PW-7), Sanjeev Katiyar (PW-8), Ranjeet (PW-9), Suresh Chand (PW-10), Suresh Chandra (PW-11) and Gopal Singh (PW-12). Thereafter, the prosecution further examined Jawahar Singh son of Bhagwan Singh as PW-1, Raj Kunwar Singh as PW-2, Jawahar Singh son of Lakhan Singh as PW-3, Dharam Pal Singh as PW-4, and Mahaveer Singh as PW-5. Apart from the oral evidence, the prosecution also relied upon documentary evidence marked as Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-14.

12. After the examination of all prosecution witnesses, the Trial Court proceeded to record the statements of the appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the appellants denied all allegations levelled against them by the prosecution and asserted that they have been falsely implicated in the case. They further contended that the prosecution had relied upon false and fabricated evidence and that they have wrongly been charge-sheeted. The appellants, however, did not adduce any evidence in their defence.

13. After hearing the arguments advanced by the prosecution as well as the defence, the Trial Court found the appellants, namely, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Om Prakash and Kaptan Singh, guilty of the alleged offence, therefore, convicted and sentenced them vide judgment and order dated 13.01.2020, for the offence punishable under Section 302/34 I.P.C. to imprisonment for life, along with a fine of Rs. 20,000/- each. However, the Trial Court acquitted the appellants of the charge under Section 27 of the Arms Act in Sessions Trial No. 1144 of 2007 (arising out of Case Crime No. 178 of 1998). Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 13.01.2020, passed by the learned Trial Court under Section 302/34 I.P.C. in the aforesaid Sessions Trial, the appellants have preferred these two criminal appeals before this Court.

14. We have heard the arguments advanced by Mr. Satya Dheer Singh, learned Counsel for the appellants in both the appeals, Mr. Arvind Kumar Singh, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 441 of 2020 and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocates on behalf of the State. We have also perused the entire evidence on record, as well as the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 13.01.2020, passed by the learned Trial Court.

15. Learned Counsel for the appellants have submitted that the impugned judgment and order dated 13.01.2020 passed by the Trial Court, is based on conjectures and surmises, which is contrary to the evidence available on record. The trial of three accused named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) has been separated as Sessions Trial No. 1144-A of 2007, and they were acquitted by the Trial Court, vide order dated 30.01.2014. Trial Court has wrongly decided the case of the appellants and convicted them to life imprisonment. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that they are elderly persons, suffering from multiple ailments due to their advanced age.

16. The alleged incident occurred in the night, and none of the witnesses has claimed to have seen the incident. However, the appellants have been implicated in the present case only on the basis of suspicion and doubt, which was also not proved against them. In the present case, two stories were run by the prosecution. First by the informant, who gave direct evidence against accused Shivraj, Mangal and Harpal, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) but did not give any evidence against the appellants. Only on the basis of the statements of Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2) and Jawahar Singh (PW-3), who were not the eyewitnesses of the alleged incident, and were later produced as prosecution witnesses, the appellants have been convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellants that there is no eyewitness of the incident, who could have seen commission of the crime by the appellants with their own eyes. Only on the grounds of rumour, suspicion and doubt, which have been expressed by the later prosecution witnesses i.e., Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2) and Jawahar Singh (PW-3), the appellants have been wrongly convicted and sentenced by the Trial Court, against the settled principle of law of evidence.

17. It is a well-settled principle of the law of evidence that no person can be convicted of any offence merely on the basis of rumours prevailing in the village or on the basis of doubt and suspicion. In the present case, the Trial Court has misread and misappreciated the evidence on record and has erroneously relied upon material which, in law, was not admissible or could not have been safely relied upon against the appellants. On the basis of the above arguments, it is submitted by the learned Counsel for the appellants that the impugned judgment and order passed by the Trial Court is contrary to law and not supported by any reliable and cogent evidence, therefore, both the criminal appeals preferred by the appellants are liable to be allowed.

18. Per contra, the learned Additional Government Advocate for the State submitted that subsequent to the registration of the first information report on the basis of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) lodged by the informant, Harbhan Singh (PW-1), the villagers of Bisalpur submitted an application to the Superintendent of Police, District Agra. In the said application, it was asserted that the persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) have been falsely implicated due to prior enmity, and a prayer was made for a fair and impartial investigation. It is further submitted that, pursuant to the said application submitted by the villagers, the investigation of the case was entrusted to the CBCID. Upon re-investigation, the CBCID concluded that the persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) have been falsely implicated and have no role in the commission of the alleged offence.

19. It is further submitted that the CBCID, during the course of its investigation, found evidence against the appellants, namely, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Om Prakash, in connection with the alleged crime, hence, charge-sheeted them under Section 302/34 of IPC & Section 27 of Arms Act. The prosecution witnesses, as adduced by the prosecution, have fully supported the prosecution case, and there exists a strong motive against the appellants for the commission of the alleged crime. On the basis of the evidence subsequently adduced by the prosecution witnesses, i.e., Jawahar Singh (PW-1) son of Bhagwan Singh, Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2), Jawahar Singh (PW-3) son of Lakhan Singh, Dharam Pal Singh (PW-4), and Mahaveer Singh (PW-5), the Trial Court found ample evidence in their depositions against the appellants. Accordingly, the Trial Court, in the correct perspective and in a legal manner, appreciated the evidence available on record, found the appellants guilty and convicted them for the alleged crime. There is no illegality or perversity in the impugned judgment and order passed by the learned Trial Court. Hence, both the criminal appeals, preferred by the appellants, are devoid of merit and are liable to be dismissed.

20. In light of the above submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the appellants and the counter submissions advanced by the learned A.G.A. for the State, we have perused the evidence of the prosecution witness, Harbhan Singh (PW-1). Upon perusal, we find that PW-1 has deposed before the Court in the same manner as stated by him in his written report (Exhibit Ka-1). In this way, the informant (PW-1) has stated that he, along with other prosecution witnesses, saw Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh running away from the place of occurrence in the light of a torch. However, Rajendra Singh (PW-2) has narrated a different version of the incident.

21. From a perusal of the testimony of Rajendra Singh (PW-2), we find that PW-2 stated that he was acquainted with the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan Singh and Bhanwar Singh. He further deposed that on the date of the incident, i.e., 14.10.1998 at about 11:00 PM, while he was returning from Kagarol after procuring diesel for his tractor, he saw all four appellants in the light of the tractor. Upon noticing him, the appellants turned back and moved down from the road. According to this witness, on the following morning, at about 7-7:30 A.M., Ajay Pal, son of Rameshwar Ram, came to the Devi Mandir near Bisalpur and informed that Sukhpal @ Munna, had been murdered and that his dead body was lying in the field of Laccho. PW-2 further stated that Sukhpal @ Munna, was a characterless man and he had illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash. According to PW-2, the murder was committed by the appellants as an act of revenge for the alleged illicit relations. The witness also stated that he had given his statement before the police as well as before the CBCID.

22. Rajendra Singh (PW-2), in his cross-examination had stated that it is correct that Harbhan Singh (PW-1) son of Bhagwan Singh, resident of Bisalpur, had filed a written report (Exhibit Ka-1) regarding the murder of his brother. The written report (Exhibit Ka-1) was filed on 15.10.1998. PW-2 stated that it is correct that Harbhan Singh had filed the written report for this incident against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh under Section 302 I.P.C. PW-2 further stated that it is also correct to say that the police had filed a charge-sheet against named accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh under Section 302 I.P.C. In connection of this case, a senior police officer recorded my statement after two-three months. I have given statement to the police that one kilometer before Nagla Mohana from the direction of the canal, near Lachho's field, all four appellants were coming towards the road and I identified them in the light of the tractor. After that CBCID officials arrived, they interrogated me and recorded my statement.

23. From perusal of the cross-examination of PW-2, we find that this witness in a clear cut words stated that he did not inform the police officers or any other officer or the Station In-charge of Kagarol, etc., in writing or orally on the second, third, fourth day, or within a month of the incident, that in the night of 14.10.1998, he saw appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniam, Bhanwar Singh and Kaptan Singh coming from the direction of the road near Laccho's field from the side of Beri Chahar in Nagla Mohana and identified them in the light. PW-2 has accepted in his cross-examination that he had not seen the alleged illicit relations of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh, and with Savitri, the daughter of Om Prakash.

24. From a perusal of the evidence of the informant, Harbhan Singh (PW-1), it is apparent that he deposed against the accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), in a doubtful and uncertain manner. The CBCID, during its investigation, did not find any involvement of the said accused in the present case. Subsequently, after re-investigation, the CBCID submitted charge-sheets against the appellants, namely, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Om Prakash, and Kaptan Singh. It is noteworthy that the informant, Harbhan Singh (PW-1), deposed against persons who are not parties to these criminal appeals, and therefore, his evidence holds no relevance in the present case. The deposition and testimony of Harbhan Singh (PW-1) are neither reliable nor trustworthy, being entirely doubtful and suspicious.

25. From a perusal of the evidence of Rajendra Singh (PW-2), it is evident that despite his claim of having seen and identified in the light the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh, and Kaptan Singh coming from the roadside, he failed to disclose this fact for a period of four months from the date of the incident, i.e., 14.10.1998. In his cross-examination, this witness also admitted that he had not seen the alleged illicit relations of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh, and with Savitri, the daughter of Om Prakash. In view of these admissions, it becomes amply clear that Rajendra Singh (PW-2) has deposed falsely against the appellants in his testimony before the Court. In reality, this witness did not witness the incident with his own eyes on 14.10.1998. From a further perusal of the evidence of PW-2, it is apparent that he is giving false evidence in the Court against the appellants only on the ground of doubt and suspicion, which was based on the so-called illicit relations of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and with Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash.

26. In this way, we find that Rajendra Singh (PW-2) has given evidence in the Court against the appellants only on the ground of suspicion and so-called rumours which were prevalent in the village that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had illicit relationship with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh, and with Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash. Thus, evidence and statements which are wholly based on doubt, suspicion, and rumours cannot be treated as evidence according to the settled principles of law. Hence, we find no relevancy or reliability in the evidence of the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) and Rajendra Singh (PW-2).

27. The prosecution produced Lal Singh as PW-3. From the perusal of the evidence of Lal Singh (PW-3), we find that this witness has not seen the commission of the crime by the appellants with his own eyes. This witness received information on 15.10.1998 at 7-8 A.M. that the dead body of Sukhpal @ Munna was lying in the field. This witness has only stated in his evidence that about one week prior to the incident, Phool Singh and Madan Singh had come to the house of Bhagwan Singh during the daytime and had said that he should advise his child not to halt at night in their houses. At that time, according to this witness, he was sitting at the chabutra of temple situated near the house of Bhagwan Singh, and other people were also sitting there. According to this witness, Bhagwan Singh stated that he would advise his child.

28. From a perusal of the evidence of PW-3, it is revealed that this witness and many other villagers of Bisalpur had written a typed application (Exhibit Ka-2) to the Superintendent of Police, Agra, stating therein that the alleged murder had been committed by unknown persons. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of this witness, we find that this witness is not an eyewitness to the alleged incident. Whatever has been stated by this witness, in his evidence, is only hearsay evidence as received by him from other persons of the village.

29. This witness was also a party in writing the application (Exhibit Ka-2) to the Superintendent of Police, Agra, for fair and impartial investigation in the case because, according to this witness himself, the murder was committed by unknown persons. Hence, there is no relevancy in the evidence of this witness, and the prosecution finds no legal support from the evidence of Lal Singh (PW-3).

30. The prosecution adduced Mohan Singh as PW-4. From the perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that this witness is also not an eyewitness to the alleged incident. Information about the murder of Sukhpal @ Munna was received by this witness from other people. After receiving this information, he also reached the place of occurrence and saw the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. Apart from this, according to this witness, dog of the police after smelling the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, reached the house of Phool Singh situated in Nagla Mohana. This witness also stated that the deceased had illicit relations with the wife of Hari Singh, due to which the wife of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, being angry, had gone to her parental home. The wife of Hari Singh wanted to keep Sukhpal @ Munna with her.

31. We find that, according to Mohan Singh (PW-4), it was the common opinion of the crowd that the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had been committed by appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan Singh, and Bhanwar Singh due to the alleged illicit relationship, and after committing the murder, appellants had thrown the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. However, in his cross-examination, this witness has also accepted that Harbhan Singh (PW-1) had lodged a report against Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh, which was wrong.

32. Thus, from a perusal of the whole evidence of this witness, Mohan Singh (PW-4), it is amply clear that this witness is expressing doubt only on the basis that it is the common opinion of the crowd that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, was murdered by the appellants due to the illicit relations. Thus, it clearly emerges from the evidence of this witness that, on the ground of rumours prevalent in the village that the deceased had illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash, for this reason the appellants committed murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. However, whatever this witness has deposed in his evidence, is only based on hearsay facts and rumours prevalent in the village Bisalpur and nearby villages, hence, there is no relevancy or reliability in the evidence of this witness (PW-4). The prosecution story finds no support against the appellants from the evidence of this witness. Thus, the evidence of this witness has no relevancy in respect of the prosecution case. The evidence of this witness is wholly unreliable and unworthy of credit.

33. From a perusal of the evidence of Ajay Pal Singh (PW-5), it is revealed that this witness has also not seen the commission of the alleged crime with his own eyes. Information about the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna was received by this witness from Virendra, son of Ram Gopal, who told this witness that Sukhpal @ Munna of your village had been murdered by shooting in the night by some unknown person, and his dead body was lying in the field of Laccho. In his cross-examination, this witness has accepted that till date he has no knowledge as to who committed the murder of Munna.

34. Dharam Pal Singh (PW-6) has not supported the prosecution story and was declared hostile. According to the evidence of this witness, on 14.10.1998, the deceased had gone to the dairy with milk, after which he did not return and the next day his dead body was found. I do not know who murdered deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. However, in a surprising manner during course of his cross-examination by the defence, this witness stated that 'I used to go with Rajveer to deliver milk to Agrasen Dairy and on that day as well, both of us were returning. We met the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna at Gaharra Ki Pyau. Three of us were going to our village Bisalpur on bicycles. When we were two km away from the village, accused, Shivraj, Mangal Singh, and Harpal met us on the way. They stopped Sukhpal @ Munna and started talking to him. Rajveer and I returned to the village. After this, I do not know what happened. No incident took place in my presence.'

35. Thus, we find that PW-6 has turned hostile towards the appellants. However, he has wrongly pointed fingers towards accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). In this way, we find that highly contradictory statements and evidence have been given by this witness, which we find to be wholly unreliable and without any relevancy in support of the prosecution case. Thus, we find that the evidence of this witness is also wholly unreliable.

36. Prosecution adduced Ranjeet Singh as PW-9. In his examination-in-chief, Ranjeet (PW-9) has stated that on 14/15.10.1998 in the night at about 10:00 P.M., I was going to plough the field. There, I saw some people standing in the shade of a tree. Among them were appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan and Bhanwar Singh. A dead body was lying next to the burji. The body belonged to Munna. At that time, I did not realize whose body it was, I found out in the morning that it was Munna's body. By morning, this news had spread through my village and the surrounding area. People had also blocked the road at Laheri Ki Pyau. I also went near the body the next day. The deceased had been shot in the chest. Sniffer dogs of police also arrived. The dogs went up to the houses of the accused. This is all that I saw. Munna used to work in the milk business.

37. In his cross-examination PW-9 has stated that, 'Harbhan Singh has lodged the first information report of this case, who is the real brother of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. Harbhan Singh had lodged the report against accused, Shivraj, Mangal and Harpal at Police Station Kagarol. It is true that today accused Shivraj has come to Court with me. It is true that on the date of the incident i.e., 14.10.1998, I had met Munna at Gaharra Ki Pyau at the time of delivering the milk. After that, I had not met Munna. This thing is also true that I had also not seen the appellants with Munna. I had seen the appellants in the light of the tractor about 1/2 km from the field. I had not asked the appellants standing in the night why they were standing there. The appellants also had not talked to me.'

38. This witness has further stated in his cross-examination that on the next day, he came to know at 9:00 A.M. in the morning that this dead body was of Munna. It is true that I had not seen the dead body in the night. I had told this fact of seeing the dead body in the night in my examination-in-chief in the Court for the first time. It is true that I had not told the Darogaji that I had seen the dead body in the night. This thing is true that my statement was recorded by the CBCID after three years. When I reached near the dead body of Munna, there were thousands of people. The brothers of the deceased, Harbhan Singh and Jawahar Singh were also present. I had not told the brothers of the deceased, Harbhan and Jawahar that I had seen the appellants in the night standing near the dead body. This thing is true that at that time there were police and higher officials of the police present. I do not know whether the police and higher officials of the police were inquiring with the people present there or not. I had also not told the police and other higher officers of the police that I had seen the accused persons near the dead body of the deceased in the night. I had never told the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) that I had seen the appellants standing near the dead body in the night. There were gunshot injuries on the dead body of the deceased. I had not seen any article near the dead body of the deceased. The dead body was covered with a white cloth. Sniffer dog arrived at the place of occurrence in the morning at 10-11 A.M. At that time, I was also present there. After smelling the dead body, the sniffer dog immediately proceeded towards Nagla Mohana. I have no knowledge of what report was prepared by the police team regarding the sniffer dog. There is no report on record indicating that the sniffer dog went towards the houses of the appellants at Nagla Mohana, therefore, I am unable to provide any reason for this.

39. In his cross-examination, PW-9 has further stated that I had told the Darogaji of the CBCID that I had seen the dead body from the road. If this fact has not been written in my statement, I cannot give any reason for the same. It is correct to say that I had stated before the Darogaji of the CBCID that on 15.10.1998 at about 9:00 A.M., I heard from villagers that Sukhpal @ Munna had been murdered during the night. After hearing this news, I went near the dead body. It is also correct that prior to receiving this information, I had no knowledge regarding the occurrence. It is further correct that the accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh, who were named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), were taken to the police station after being arrested. I had given my statement to the Darogaji of the CBCID after three years of the incident. During this period of three years, I had not disclosed these facts elsewhere, for which I cannot assign any reason.

40. Thus, from a perusal of the entire evidence of prosecution witness Ranjeet (PW-9), it is revealed that although this witness, in his examination-in-chief, stated that on the date of the incident, i.e., 14/15.10.1998 at about 10:00 P.M., while he was going to plough his field, he saw the appellants standing in the shade of a tree, but he did not disclose this important fact either to the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) or to any police officer, including the SHO in-charge present at the place of the incident. This witness kept this fact to himself and concealed it, and did not inform any person, including the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1), any police officer, or any superior police officer present at the place of occurrence, although he also reached the place where the dead body of the deceased Munna @ Sukhpal was lying. Despite these circumstances, the witness withheld this information and did not disclose it to any person, whether private or public, and stated it for the first time before the Court during the course of recording his evidence. This fact was admitted by the witness in his cross-examination.

41. From an overall analysis and perusal of the evidence of this witness, Ranjeet (PW-9), it is revealed that the prosecution produced and projected this witness to support its case, however, during his deposition before the Court, the witness narrated and fabricated a false story. From the testimony of this witness, it is evident that his evidence inspires no confidence and lacks reliability and truthfulness, on the basis of which it could not be regarded as reliable and trustworthy.

42. The prosecution produced Gopal Singh as PW-12, who turned hostile and did not support the prosecution's case. This witness clearly stated that he had no knowledge as to when the murder of Sukhpal @ Munna was committed. He also expressed his ignorance regarding the prosecution case and its facts.

43. After examining twelve witnesses in support of its case, the prosecution also adduced Jawahar Singh, son of Bhagwan Singh, as PW-1. Jawahar Singh (PW-1), is the real brother of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it emerges that Ajay Pal son of Rameshwar, a resident of the same village, had told this witness that the dead body of Sukhpal @ Munna, was lying in Beri Gaon in the field of Laccho. This witness has also stated that, due to party bandi, his elder brother Harban Singh lodged a false report against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh. In the evidence of this witness, it is also stated that at the place of occurrence, thousands of villagers had gathered and blocked the road. At about 11:00 A.M., sniffer dog of the police came there and after smelling the clothes of the deceased, went at Nagla Mohana up to the houses of appellants, namely, Beniram, Kaptan Singh, Om Prakash and Bhanwar Singh.

44. During cross-examination by the defence, Jawahar Singh (PW-1) stated that after reinvestigation of the case by the CBCID, appellants were charge-sheeted and made accused in the present case. This witness, in his cross-examination, also stated that it is true that the murder of his brother, Sukhpal @ Munna, was committed at another place and after the murder, the dead body was laid in the field of Laccho. He further stated that it is true to say that accused, Mangal Singh, Shivraj Singh and Harpal Singh have not commit the murder of his brother.

45. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of Jawahar Singh (PW-1), it is found that this witness has only stated that sniffer dog, after smelling the dead body and the clothes of the deceased, went up to the appellants houses. This witness has not seen the commission of the offence by the appellants with his own eyes. The witness clearly stated that his elder brother, Harban Singh, due to party bandi, falsely lodged a report against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh. We find no relevance, reliability, or truthfulness in the evidence of this witness. From a perusal of the testimony of Jawahar Singh (PW-1), it is evident that he has made self-contradictory statements in his deposition before the Court. The prosecution derives no support from the evidence of this witness. There is no reliability or creditworthiness in the evidence of Jawahar Singh (PW-1) on the basis of which the appellants can be held guilty for the alleged crime. Thus, the evidence of this witness is self-contradictory and wholly unreliable.

46. Among the second set of witnesses, Raj Kunwar Singh has been adduced by the prosecution in support of its case as PW-2. From a perusal of the evidence of Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2), it is evident that this witness is the cousin brother of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is also evident that on 14.10.1998, he had seen on the way accused, Shivraj, Mangal and Harpal, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), interacting with Munna. According to this witness, when Harbhan Singh, Udaiveer, Mahaveer, and Jawahar, who were searching for the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, approached him, this witness had told them that he had seen accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh on the way interacting with the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. Later, it came to be known that accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh had murdered Sukhpal @ Munna.

47. From a perusal of the cross-examination of Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2), it is evident that he had not seen the accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh murdering the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. He only heard about the incident. He stated that the murder of Sukhpal @ Munna, had been done by the accused persons present in the Court. I am stating this fact solely on the basis of hearsay facts.

48. From a perusal and analysis of the evidence of Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2), it is evident that he did not witness the commission of the alleged crime by the accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). He only saw them interacting with the deceased, Sukhpal @ Munna, on 14.10.1998. The statements of this witness are doubtful, suspicious, and appear to be fabricated and concocted. During cross-examination, he admitted that his evidence is based on hearsay, derived from what he heard from others.

49. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2), it is clear that his testimony is based on hearsay facts and cannot be relied upon according to settled principles of the law of evidence. In this respect, the prosecution derives no support from the evidence of this hearsay witness. The testimony of this witness has not inspired any confidence. It is highly doubtful and suspicious and therefore, wholly unreliable.

50. From a perusal of the evidence of Jawahar Singh (PW-3), son of Lakhan Singh, as deposed by this witness in Court, we find that this witness, after the alleged incident, had seen the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, in the Laccho□s field of Beri Gaon and identified the dead body. According to this witness, after hearing about the incident, the family members of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had gone to the place of occurrence. According to this witness, on the date of the incident, the accused, Shivraj, Harpal and Mangal, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), had not met him on the way. This witness became hostile and denied any involvement of the named accused in the present case.

51. However, during the course of his cross-examination by the defence, PW-3 stated that later he came to know that Munna had illicit relationship with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash. Due to the alleged illicit relations, the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh and Kaptan Singh have enmity with the deceased Munna. He further stated that, due to said enmity, the appellants had murdered the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, the brother-in-law of this witness and had thrown the dead body in the field of Laccho.

52. Thus, from the evidence of this witness, it clearly emerges that he did not give any evidence against the accused, Harpal Singh, Mangal Singh and Shivraj Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). However, on the basis of hearsay i.e., rumors prevalent in the village, the witness expressed doubt and suspicion against the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh, and Kaptan Singh, alleging that they had killed the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna because the deceased had illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash, residents of Nagla Mohana. This witness, however, had not seen any direct facts or circumstances regarding such alleged relations and only expressed suspicion against the appellants based on hearsay facts.

53. This witness has also not seen the commission of the crime by the appellants with his own eyes and has deposed against them solely on the basis of hearsay facts. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence as discussed and analyzed above, it is clear that there is no relevance or reliability in the testimony of this witness, as it is based entirely on facts and statements heard and known by others. Accordingly, we find that the evidence of this witness is not reliable and cannot support the prosecution's case.

54. The prosecution adduced Dharam Pal Singh as PW-4. This witness is also the cousin of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness stated that he had not seen accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), interacting with the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. This witness has not supported the prosecution version and turned hostile.

55. During cross-examination by the defence, PW-4 stated that it is true that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, was a characterless man. He used to sleep in the village Nagla Mohana and he had illicit relations with Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash and Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh. The CBCID re-investigated the case and after completing the investigation, filed charge-sheets against the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh and Kaptan Singh and did not file charge-sheet against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). According to this witness, the sniffer dogs had went and stopped at the houses of the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh and Kaptan Singh. The murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had been committed by the appellants.

56. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of PW-4, it is clear that he did not see the commission of the alleged crime with his own eyes. Instead, on the basis of the so-called, unproven, and unseen illicit relationship of deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with the aforementioned ladies, this witness expresses the opinion that the appellants may have committed the murder. From a perusal of the evidence of Dharam Pal Singh (PW-4), it is further evident that this witness is stating the involvement of the appellants in the present case solely on the basis of hearsay evidence i.e., information he received from other persons. Thus, we find no relevance in the evidence of this witness. His testimony lacks trustworthiness and credibility, rendering the entire evidence unreliable. Consequently, the prosecution derives no support from the evidence of this witness.

57. Among the second set of witnesses produced by the prosecution in support of its case, Mahaveer Singh has been adduced as PW-5. From the evidence of this witness, it has emerged that this witness has not stated against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), and has not supported the prosecution story. Hence, this witness was also declared hostile.

58. However, in his cross-examination, PW-5 also stated the same facts and story as narrated and stated by Dharam Pal Singh (PW-4), that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, was a characterless man, who had illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash, residents of the village Nagla Mohana. According to this witness, sniffer dogs had gone up to the houses of the appellants, namely, Beniram, Kaptan Singh, Om Prakash and Bhanwar Singh, situated at Nagla Mohana. According to this witness also, there is party bandi in the village, due to which Harbhan Singh (PW-1) had lodged a false first information report against accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh. However, due to opposition of the villagers, the CBCID had re-investigated the case, and after completing the investigation, the CBCID had charge-sheeted the appellants.

59. According to PW-5, the murder of Sukhpal @ Munna had not been committed by accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), but had been committed by the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan Singh and Bhanwar Singh. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it has emerged that this witness, on the basis of the so-called illicit relationship of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with the abovementioned ladies, and also on the ground that the sniffer dog had gone up to the houses of the appellants, expressed his view that the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had been committed by the appellants. However, this witness has also not seen the alleged incident with his own eyes, as he was not present at the place of occurrence at the time of the incident.

60. From the evidence of this witness, it becomes clear that this witness is also deposing in the Court against the appellants only on the basis of hearsay facts and rumours prevalent in the village. Thus, we find no truth or creditworthiness in the evidence of this witness. The evidence of this witness is also found to be unreliable and not creditworthy.

61. In this way, from a perusal of the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses adduced in support of the prosecution case, it is clear that the prosecution projected two versions of the case. First, in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal were named as accused persons. Subsequently, the villagers of Bisalpur submitted a joint application before the Superintendent of Police, Agra for fair and impartial investigation. Thereafter, the CBCID re-investigated the matter. However, earlier, a charge-sheet had been filed against the accused, Shivraj Singh and Mangal Singh by the Investigating Officer, and the investigation remained pending against Harpal Singh. Before the framing of charges by the Trial Court, the CBCID rejected the earlier charge-sheet filed against the accused, Shivraj Singh and Mangal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), and filed a charge-sheet against the present appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh and Kaptan Singh, for the commission of the alleged crime. The second prosecution story, as projected by the prosecution itself is that the appellants committed the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna due to the alleged illicit relations of the deceased with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash.

62. From a perusal of the record of the Trial Court, it is revealed that after the submission of the charge-sheets by the CBCID against the appellants, namely, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh, Om Prakash and Kaptan Singh, when the evidence of Harbhan Singh (PW-1), Rajendra Singh (PW-2), Lal Singh (PW-3) and Mohan Singh (PW-4) had been recorded, then applications under Section 319 Cr.P.C. were filed against the accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). These applications were filed on behalf of the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) and a Senior Prosecution Officer of the CBCID, praying for summoning the above persons as accused to face trial. Accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh were summoned by the Trial Court to face trial under Section 302/34 IPC vide order dated 06.07.2009.

63. From the record, it is also apparent that the accused Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh filed Application No. 124-B for the separation of their trial. Thereafter, the then Presiding Officer, vide order dated 27.01.2014, separated their trial as Sessions Trial No. 1144-A of 2007 (State v. Shivraj Singh and others) under Section 302 of the IPC. After the trial, on 30.01.2014, the accused Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh, and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), were acquitted of the alleged charges. However, the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 15, Agra, who delivered the impugned judgment and order dated 13.01.2020, adversely commented on the separation of the trial on page 5, in the last lines of the impugned judgment and order dated 13.01.2020.

64. Thus, the prosecution itself projected two prosecution stories in this case. From the above facts, it is evident that the prosecution is not clear about its own case and appears to be confused between the two prosecution stories. Regarding the two sets of accused persons, the first set, as mentioned in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), comprises Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, while the second set, according to the second prosecution story, comprises the appellants, namely, Beniram, Bhanwar Singh, Kaptan Singh and Om Prakash, who were charge-sheeted by the CBCID. Therefore, this is a very peculiar case presented by the prosecution, in which there are two prosecution stories against two sets of accused persons, one named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and the second charge-sheeted by the CBCID. Thus, the prosecution itself is not clear and certain as to which prosecution story, and against which set of accused persons, it is adducing evidence.

65. From a perusal of the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses, it is evident that the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1) is still giving so-called doubtful evidence against the accused Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), despite the fact that the CBCID, after reinvestigation of the case, rejected the first charge-sheet filed against the accused named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). Thereafter, the Presiding Officer (not the Presiding Officer who delivered the impugned judgment dated 13.01.2020) of the Trial Court separated the trial of the accused persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and acquitted them of the charges.

66. Rajendra Singh (PW-2), in opposition to and against the doubtful evidence of the informant Harbhan Singh (PW-1), has given evidence on a hearsay basis against the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan Singh and Bhanwar Singh, based on so-called rumors prevalent in the village that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna had illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh, and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash. Similarly, Lal Singh (PW-3), indirectly, on the basis of rumors and suspicion regarding the illicit relationship of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with the aforementioned two ladies, expressed doubt and suspicion against the appellants, but also submitted that some unknown persons may have killed the deceased. This fact is also written in the application (Exhibit Ka-2), which was submitted to the Superintendent of Police, Agra, for a fair and impartial investigation. Mohan Singh (PW-4) also exonerated the accused Shivraj Singh, Harpal Singh, and Mangal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), from the alleged crime, and expressed his suspicion against the appellants based on the opinion of the crowd gathered at the place of occurrence, that the appellants had committed the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna due to the alleged illicit relations with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash.

67. Ajay Pal Singh (PW-5) has not supported the prosecution story against any set of accused persons in his evidence. Dharam Pal Singh (PW-6) has also not supported the prosecution case, has not given any evidence against the appellants, and was declared hostile, clearly stating that no incident had occurred in his presence. Prosecution witness Ranjeet (PW-9) has given suspicious and doubtful evidence against the appellants, based on rumours and so-called tracking of sniffer dog reaching the houses of the appellants. Gopal Singh (PW-12) has not supported the prosecution story and was declared hostile. This witness has also not implicated any set of accused persons in the commission of the alleged crime.

68. Among the second set of prosecution witnesses adduced in support of its case, Jawahar Singh (PW-1), son of Bhagwan Singh, has not given any evidence against the accused persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and stated that the sniffer dogs, after smelling the clothes of the deceased, went up to the houses of the appellants, namely, Beniram, Kaptan Singh, Om Prakash and Bhanwar Singh, situated in the village Nagla Mohana. Raj Kunwar Singh (PW-2) has given evidence only on the basis of hearsay facts against the first set of accused Shivraj Singh, Harpal Singh and Mangal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). Jawahar Singh (PW-3), son of Lakhan Singh, has clearly exonerated the first set of accused Harpal Singh, Mangal Singh and Shivraj Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), and only expressed doubt that, due to the so-called illicit relationship of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna with Chandravati, wife of Hari Singh, and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash, the appellants had murdered the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna and threw the dead body in Laccho's field.

69. Dharam Pal Singh (PW-5) exonerated the first set of accused, Shivraj Singh, Mangal Singh and Harpal Singh, named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), and turned hostile. He stated that the sniffer dogs had stopped at the houses of the appellants, namely, Om Prakash, Beniram, Kaptan Singh and Bhanwar Singh, and on that basis, stated that the appellants had murdered the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. Mahaveer Singh (PW-6) similarly exonerated the accused named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and turned hostile. He also, on the basis that the sniffer dog, after smelling the dead body and clothes of the deceased, reached the houses of the appellants, stated that the appellants had committed the murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna.

70. Therefore, from the above analysis and discussion of all the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, it is evident that the prosecution itself is not clear as to against which set of accused persons it is adducing evidence, whether the evidence is against the persons named as accused in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) or against the appellants. Some of the prosecution witnesses exonerated the accused persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and, on the basis of suspicion, doubt, or hearsay, expressed their doubt against the present appellants. Conversely, some of the prosecution witnesses exonerated the appellants and implicated the persons named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) on the basis of their suspicions and doubt. Hence, the prosecution is found to be confused and has no clear idea about the accused persons against whom it is prosecuting the case and adducing evidence.

71. From the above discussion of the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses, it clearly emerges that those who implicate the appellants in the commission of the alleged crime, do so, on the basis of hearsay evidence and rumours prevalent in the village regarding the alleged illicit relations of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna. They have also expressed suspicion against the appellants on the ground that the sniffer dogs had reached the appellants' houses. However, a perusal of the record, as well as the statements of the prosecution witnesses, reveals that there is no report or document on record to establish that the sniffer dogs had, in fact, reached the appellants houses. Thus, there is no report about the proceeding of sniffer dog.

72. In our opinion, there must be a reliable and complete record of the exact manner in which tracking was done in the Panchnama. The dog tracking evidence will have to be clear and complete, properly proved and supported by the evidence of the handler. There must be no discrepancy between the version as recorded in the Panchnama and the evidence of the handler as deposed before the Court. The handler's evidence will have to pass the test of cross-examination independently.

73. However, in the present case, there is no document or report regarding the movements of the sniffer dogs from the place where the dead body of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna was found, nor is there any record to show that, after smelling the dead body or clothes of the deceased, the sniffer dog reached and stopped at the houses of the appellants. The handler of the sniffer dogs has also not been examined as a prosecution witness before the Court. In view of the above facts and circumstances of the case, the so-called evidence of the sniffer dogs, as stated by the prosecution witnesses in their testimony, cannot be relied upon as evidence against the appellants for the commission of the alleged crime.

74. The Suprme Court in Gade Lakshmi Mangaraju alias Ramesh v. State of A.P.; (2001) 6 SCC 205 has held:

"There are inherent frailties in the evidence based on sniffer or tracker dogs. The possibility of an error on the part of the dog or its master is the first among them. The possibility of misunderstanding between the dog and its master is close to its heels. The possibility of a misrepresentation or a wrong inference from the behaviour of the dog could not be ruled out. Last, but not the least, is the fact that from a scientific point of view, there is little knowledge and much uncertainty as to the precise faculties which enable police dogs to track and identify criminals. Police dogs engage in these actions by virtue of instincts and also by the training imparted to them. Criminal courts need not bother much about such evidence based on sniffer dogs, although the investigating agency can employ such sniffer dogs for helping the investigation to track down criminals. Investigating exercises can afford to make attempts or forays with the help of canine faculties but judicial exercise can ill afford them."

75. However, upon examining the findings and reasoning recorded by the Trial Court while convicting the appellants, we find that, only upon the evidence of prosecution witnesses Rajendra Singh (PW-2), Lal Singh (PW-3), Mohan Singh (PW-4) and Ranjeet Singh (PW-9), the Trial Court held the appellants guilty and convicted them for the alleged murder of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, solely on the basis of hearsay evidence. The said prosecution witnesses have stated that the deceased had illicit relations with Chandrawati, wife of Hari Singh and Savitri, daughter of Om Prakash. However, these prosecution witnesses themselves admitted in their testimonies that they had merely heard, as part of village rumours, that the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, had such illicit relations. This clearly indicates that the Trial Court relied upon hearsay evidence, which was not proved by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt through cogent and reliable evidence, to conclude that the deceased had illicit relations with the aforementioned ladies and that, on account of which, the appellants committed his murder.

76. Thus, only on the ground of hearsay evidence, rumours prevalent in the village, doubt and suspicion, the Trial Court by misreading and misappreciating the prosecution evidence, wrongly held the appellants guilty for the commission of the alleged crime, which is, in our considered view, against the settled principles of law that no accused person can be convicted and held guilty only on the basis of hearsay evidence, which is based on suspicion and rumor. For the conviction of any person in any crime, strong and irrefutable evidence beyond reasonable doubt must be adduced by the prosecution. Therefore, we are totally in disagreement with the findings and reasoning given by the Trial Court. It appears that the Trial Court, only on the ground of suspicion and doubt as expressed by the prosecution witnesses about the illicit relations of the deceased Sukhpal @ Munna, held the appellants guilty and convicted them for the alleged crime.

77. The Supreme Court in Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam; (2013) 12 SCC 406 has held in para-13 as under:

"13. Suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot take the place of proof, and there is a large difference between something that "may be" proved, and something that will be proved. In a criminal trial, suspicion no matter how strong, cannot and must not be permitted to take place of proof. This is for the reason that the mental distance between may be" and "must be" is quite large, and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. In a criminal case, the court has a duty to ensure that mere conjectures or suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The large distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, must be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence produced by the prosecution, before an accused is condemned as a convict, and the basic and golden rule must be applied. In such cases, while keeping in mind the distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, the court must maintain the vital distance between mere conjectures and sure conclusions to be arrived at, on the touchstone of dispassionate judicial scrutiny, based upon a complete and comprehensive appreciation of all features of the case, as well as the quality and credibility of the evidence brought on record. The court must ensure, that miscarriage of justice is avoided, and if the facts and circumstances of a case so demand, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused, keeping in mind that a reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely probable doubt, but a fair doubt that is based upon reason and common sense."

78. The Supreme Court recently in State of Odisha v. Banabihari Mohapatra And Another; (2021) 15 SCC 268 has held:

"It is well settled by a plethora of judicial pronouncement of this Court that suspicion, however strong cannot take place of proof. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt."

79. Thus, in light of the above discussions and analysis, we find that the impugned judgment and order dated 13.01.2020 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 15, Agra, is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside.

80. Accordingly, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 13.01.2020, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 15, Agra, in Sessions Trial No. 1144 of 2007, State v. Beni Ram and Others (arising out of Case Crime No. 178 of 1998), under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Kagarol, District Agra, is hereby set aside. Consequently, both the criminal appeals are allowed.

81. The appellants, namely, Bhanwar Singh, Beniram, Kaptan Singh and Om Prakash, are on bail. Their bail bonds stand cancelled and sureties discharged.

82. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the learned Trial Court along with the lower Court records forthwith for necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 671 of 2016

Karuwa @ Kali Charan ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to conviction for the offence punishable under S. 302 IPC on the basis of circumstantial evidence and an alleged last-seen circumstance, where the first informant's evidence was based on suspicion, the alleged last-seen witness turned hostile and the trial court chiefly relied upon a confessional statement made before the police. (Paras 14-18)

Headnotes

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 302 - Murder - Circumstantial evidence - Last-seen evidence - Suspicion - First informant making contradictory statements and naming persons on suspicion - Alleged last-seen witness turning hostile and denying having seen the accused with the deceased - Other prosecution witnesses being formal in nature - Conviction cannot be sustained merely on suspicion or unsupported circumstantial evidence - Suspicion cannot take the place of proof - Conviction set aside. (Paras 14-18)

Evidence law - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 25 - Confessional statement - Confessional statement made before police - Trial court chiefly relying upon such confessional statement for conviction - Confessional statements could not be taken into account under S. 25 of the Evidence Act - Conviction based upon such statement unsustainable. (Para 17)

Criminal procedure - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 313 - Statement of accused - Denial of commission of crime - Consideration of prosecution evidence - Where prosecution evidence failed to establish guilt and alleged incriminating circumstance was denied by the material witness, conviction liable to be set aside. (Paras 12, 17-19)

Held: Suspicion cannot take the place of proof - the First Information Report mentioned three accused persons only on the basis of suspicion and the first informant subsequently mentioned another person and gave various contradictory statements regarding the search for the deceased and the circumstances in which the dead body was found - the evidence of the first informant was on the basis of his personal knowledge and on the basis of suspicion and all that he had stated on the basis of suspicion could not be taken into account for the purposes of the decision of the case - the witness who, as per the police, had stated that the appellant was last seen with the deceased had turned hostile and in his cross-examination continued to state that he had never ever seen the accused along with the deceased - the other prosecution witnesses were all formal in nature and their statements were of no consequence - the trial court had chiefly convicted the appellant on the basis of some confessional statement of the appellant, little realizing that confessional statements could not be taken into account under S. 25 of the Evidence Act - there being no tangible or intangible evidence sufficient to establish the guilt of the appellant, the appeal deserved to be allowed and the judgment and order of the trial court dated 14.01.2016 was liable to be set aside - accordingly, the appeal was allowed, the judgment and order of the trial court was set aside and the appellant was directed to be released forthwith if he was not required in any other case. (Delivered By Hon'ble Siddhartha Varma, J.
Delivered by Hon'ble Achal Sachdev, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shad Khan, learned Counsel, who had been appointed by the High Court Legal Services Authority to assist the Court, Shri Dharmendra Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ashish Pandey, learned counsel who had also been appointed to argue the case on behalf of the High Court Legal Services Authority and Shri Amit Sinha, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. This Criminal Appeal has been filed by the accused appellant namely Karuwa Alias Kali Charan against the judgment and order dated 14.01.2016 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Hathras in Session Trial No.247 of 2012 arising out of Case Crime No.182 of 2012 (State vs. Karuwa Alias Kali Charan), under Section 302 of I.P.C., Police Station - Sasni, District - Hathras.

3. Upon the disappearance of the son of the first informant on 25.05.2012, an FIR was lodged by the P.W.-1 i.e. father of the deceased namely Bankelal. He had stated in the FIR that Deepu his 22 years old son had gone for some work in the sabzi mandi of the district of Mahamaya Nagar (Hathras) and when he did not come back in the evening his other son Raju was sent to search him out and at 05:30 hrs. in the closed factory of one Chandra Mohan Agarwal, the son found a crowd and upon an enquiry, it was found that the son of the informant was lying dead with a piece of cloth (angocha) around his neck. In the FIR, the first informant had suspected Bhola S/o

Doomar Singh, Adal Singh S/o Harnam Singh and Ajab Singh S/o Biri Singh to have caused the murder.

4. Upon lodging of the FIR, the investigation commenced and the police recovered a piece of cloth (angocha) and its recovery memo was exhibited as Ext. Ka-4. The plain soil and the soil having bloodstains was also recovered and recovery memo was prepared as Ext. Ka-5. The panchayatnama was conducted on 25.05.2012 itself and thereafter the body of the deceased was sent for post-mortem on 26.05.2012 and the cause of death was given out as asphyxia as a result of strangulation.

5. Upon the completion of the investigation, on the statement given by one Rajveer, the appellant was made an accused. The three named accused persons were exonerated by the police. On 06.11.2012 the appellant was charged by the court under Section 302 I.P.C. During the trial as many as six prosecution witnesses appeared in the witness-box.

6. P.W.-1, Bankelal, who is the father of the deceased and the first informant of the case, has stated that on 25.05.2012, he had gone out for his job in the mandi samiti at around 04:00 a.m. and he had come to know that his son had left for the work in sabzi mandi on the same day at around 09:00 a.m., however, when news reached him that the son had not returned then he alongwith his elder son had gone searching for him and had found the dead-body of his younger son Deepu in the closed factory of one Chandra Mohan Agarwal. He had also found that he had been strangulated to death by a piece of cloth (angocha). He had in his examination-in-chief stated that he had suspected four persons Bhola, Adal, Ajab Singh and Raju as having involvement in the case and they had murdered his son. In the cross-examination, he stated somewhat the same facts as were stated in the examination-in-chief.

7. P.W.-2 Rajveer had been made to appear, as the police had stated that on his statement the appellant was made an accused. He had turned hostile. In the cross-examination, he continued to state what he had stated in his examination-in-chief.

8. P.W.-3 Head Constable, Amar Singh had prepared the chik of the case.

9. P.W.-4 was Dr. R.P. Singh, who had conducted post-mortem of the body of the deceased. He had categorically stated that it was strangulation which had resulted in the death of the deceased.

10. P.W.-5 Sub-Inspector Ramdas was the person, who had got the panchayatnama conducted and he had also made the recovery memo of the recovered article and had got the plain soil and the soil having bloodstains and had prepared recovery memo as Ext. Ka-5.

11. P.W.-6 Sub-Inspector Jitendra Kumar Singh was the Investigating Officer and he had stated the manner in which he conducted the investigation and had stated the manner in which he had prepared the site plan, etc.

12. Upon the completion of the evidence of the six prosecution witnesses, the statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. He denied having committed the crime.

13. Upon the completion of the trial, when the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.3, Hathras on 14.01.2016 had convicted the appellant for the offence he was charged for, the instant appeal has been filed.

14. Learned counsel for the appellant states that the P.W.-1 had been inconsistent in his statement which he had given in the court vis-a-vis the FIR which he had got reported on 25.05.2012. In the court he had stated that he alongwith his son had gone to search out for the deceased Deepu, but in the FIR it was stated that only his elder son Raju had gone out to search for the deceased Deepu. In the FIR, there was no mention of Rajeev but in the court, he had stated that he had always doubted that Rajeev was involved in the case as the deceased alongwith Bhola, Adal and Ajab Singh used to collect at the shop of Rajeev and therefore, he had stated that he had got the FIR lodged on the basis of suspicion. Learned counsel for the appellant states that suspicion cannot take the place of proof and therefore, when the entire case was based on suspicion and no evidence whatsoever, tangible or intangible was produced vis-a vis the appellant Karuwa Alias Kali Charan then the conviction was wrongly done and the same be set aside.

15. He further states that during investigation, the police i.e. investigating agency had somehow recorded that Rajveer had stated that accused-appellant Karuwa Alias Kali Charan had been last seen with the deceased but in the court Rajveer had categorically stated that he had never seen on 25.05.2012 the accused-appellant with the deceased. Learned counsel for the appellant states that even though P.W.-2 was declared hostile, his evidence which is there on record, substantially would go to show that the appellant was wrongly implicated in the case. Learned counsel for the appellant states that for the court, which had convicted the accused only on the basis of a confessional statement made before the police had committed a grave error and, therefore, the appellant be acquitted.

16. Shri Amit Sinha, the learned AGA for the State opposed the appeal and supported the judgment of the trial court. He submitted that the conviction made by the court was just and proper and therefore, no interference be made. He submitted that the circumstantial evidence was such, which definitely would lead to only one conclusion and that was that the appellant and the appellant alone had committed the crime.

17. Having heard Shri Shad Khan, Shri Dharmendra Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Ashish Pandey, learned counsel, who had been appointed by the High Court Legal Services Authority and Shri Amit Sinha, learned A.G.A. for the State, we are of the view that when the First Information Report was lodged, it only had mentioned about three accused persons namely; Bhola, Adal and Ajab Singh and that was also on the basis of only suspicion. The P.W.-1, who had lodged the First Information Report, had subsequently in his statement before the court mentioned the name of one Rajeev (Raju) at whose shop the deceased and the three accused persons used to quite often collect. We also find that the P.W.-1 had given various contradictory statements inasmuch as in the First Information Report, he had stated that he had only sent his son to search out for the deceased Deepu but in the court, he had stated that he himself had also gone. The first informant also was in a confused state of mind, as he had in the court to begin stated that the deceased had disappeared on 25.05.2012 but his dead body was found on next day i.e. on 26.05.2012 but subsequently he corrected himself and, therefore, we find that all that has been stated by the P.W.-1 was on the basis of his personal knowledge and on the basis of suspicion. Definitely suspicion cannot take the place of proof and therefore, all that the P.W.-1 had stated on the basis of suspicion could not be taken into account at all for the purposes of the decision of the case. We also find that the P.W.-2, who as per the police had stated that he had testified before the police that the appellant was last seen with the deceased in his shop had turned hostile. Not only had he turned hostile but in his cross examination he continued to stick to his guns and had stated that he had never ever seen the accused along with the deceased. The other prosecution witnesses, who had testified before the court, were all formal in nature and their statements were of no consequence. So far as the conviction part of the case was concerned, we are pained to note that the trial court had chiefly convicted the appellant on the basis of some confessional statement of the appellant, little realizing that confessional statements could not be taken into account under Section 25 of the Evidence Act.

18. For all the reasons which have been stated above, we are thus of the view that the appeal deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order of the trial court dated 14.01.2016 is liable to be set aside.

19. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed and the judgment and order of the trial court dated 14.01.2016 is set aside.

20. The appellant be released forthwith, if he is not required in any other case.

21. We would like to add a word of appreciation for Shri Dharmendra Kumar Chaubey, learned counsel for the appellant, Shri Ashish Pandey, and Shri Shad Khan, for their assistance to the Court.

This criminal appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 28.04.1988 passed by learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur Dehat in Session Trial No. 24 of 1985, arising out of Case Crime No. 183 of 1982, under Sections 120B, 147, 302/149 IPC, Police Station Mangalpur, District Kanpur Dehat. By the impugned order, learned Additional Sessions Judge has convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants Udai Kumar, Dharmraj and Basant Singh to undergo one year□s rigorous imprisonment under Section 147 IPC and to undergo life imprisonment under Sections 302 read with Section 149 IPC. The accused Raja Ram also has been convicted to undergo eighteen months□'rigorous imprisonment under Section 148 IPC and to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 read with Section 149 IPC. All the sentences awarded to the accused-appellants to run concurrently.

2. In nutshell, the prosecution case is that on 15.10.1982, the informant got a first information report lodged against the unknown assailants alleging inter alia that his tube-well and flour mill were situated in the north-west direction of village Mangalpur and his son Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote aged about 25 years used to manage affairs of the aforesaid tube-well and flour mill. Last night too, as usual, after having dinner at around 09:30 PM, his son Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote went to sleep on the tube-well. Today he did not return home till around 08:00 A.M. and he did not pay much attention to this because sometimes he used to return home later due to being busy with agricultural work. Today at around 08:15 A.M., Shri Ramautar Pandey of his village came and informed him that the body of his son Krishna Aadhar @ Chhhote was lying on the tube-well. Someone had killed him. He went to the tubewell and saw his son lying dead on a cot in a pool of blood.

3. On 15.10.1982, informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) lodged the first information report, Ext. K-1. After a lapse of four months, on 15.02.1983, the informant again submitted a written report, Ext. K-2, at Police Station Mangalpur, District Kanpur Dehat. In the second written report, Ext.K-2 dated 15.02.1983, informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) has stated that today he had gone at the police station at 11 AM and gave information to the Office Incharge, Head Constable and one Inspector Mishra Ji, to this effect that murderer, Udai Krishna Chaubey, of my son is immediately coming to caste his vote. Please you arrest him. They assured that they will catch the murderer. Thereafter, the murderer came at about 02:00 P.M. for casting vote. Then he caught hold of him and raised an alarm. At the same time, Udai Pratap Singh and Vir Pratap Singh and one person named Bhadauria, who is accomplice of those persons and also working as servant at Etawah, get the murderer freed from his grip. This happened before 50 persons. On the day of murder, at his instance, Udai Shankar was arrested and kept in custody. Today, again in broad daylight, due to the carelessness of the police and without any assistance to me, he escaped. He think it proper that this information be written.

4. On written report, Ext.K-1, as given by Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) at police station Mangalpur, a case was registered under Section 302 IPC against unknown person at Case Crime No. 183 of 1982.

5. Investigating Officer started investigation of the case. He came to village Mangalpur and inspected the place of occurrence. Investigating Officer prepared site plan and has also taken bloodstained soil and plain soil from the ground below the cot, upon which the deceased was sleeping at the time of occurrence and prepared recovery memo as Ext.K-9. Apart from this, Investigating Officer also collected bloodstained soil and plain soil from the east direction of the cot, upon which dead-body of the deceased was lying and prepared fard baramadgi/recovery memo, Ext.K-10. Apart from this, Investigating Officer has also taken and collected part of the bloodstained kathri (mattress) of blue colour, half part of the quilt that covered with bloodstains, bloodstained rope of the cot, bloodstained maroon-coloured checked loincloth (tahmad), yellow colour pillow of khadi having flower of yellow and red colour with bloodstains, bloodstained red colour of bellbottom paint, light blue full-sleeve shirt with a printed (chhitdar) pattern and bloodstained shoes plastic delite 7 number. Investigating Officer prepared fard baramadgi/recovery memo as Ext.K-12. He also prepared Ext.K-3, which is fard supurdaginama of watch, torch and transistor taken from the place of occurrence and the same were handed over to the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6), who is father of the deceased in presence of the witnesses.

6. A panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote was prepared and his dead body was sent for conducting post mortem. The post mortem of the dead body of the deceased, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote, was conducted. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer investigated the case, recorded the statement of the prosecution witnesses. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, he submitted charge-sheet against the accused Dharam Raj Singh, Bhanu Pratap Singh, Basant Singh and Raja Ram Kanjar under Sections 302, 147, 149 IPC. The Investigating Officer also submitted charge-sheet against Udai Kumar Chaubey @ Udai Chaubey under Section 302 IPC. He also submitted charge-sheet against the accused Govardhan Singh under Sections 302, 120B IPC.

7. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, hence learned concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial.

8. By the Trial Court, charge was framed against accused Govardhan Singh under Section 302 read with Section 120B IPC, against the accused Dharmraj Singh, Basant Singh, Rajaram and Udai Kumar under Sections 147, 148 and 302 read with Section 149 IPC. Charge was read over to the accused persons and they denied of the charge and claimed trial.

9. For substantiating the charge levelled against the accused persons, prosecution produced Shyam Bihari (PW-1), Bafati (PW-2), Atar Singh (PW-3), Yaqoob Khan (PW-4), Rajendra Prasad (PW-5), informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6), Rampal Rawat (PW-7), Dr. Hari Das Verma (PW-8) and Ram Singh (PW-9). Prosecution also relied on documentary evidence, such as, written report, Ext.K-1, second written report, Ext.K-2, first information report, Ext.K-18, recovery memo of bloodstained and plain soil, Ext.K-9, recovery memo of bloodstained soil and plain soil Ext.K-10, recovery memo of bloodstained cloth red color, Ext.K-12, post mortem report, Ext.K-17, panchayatnama, Ext.K-4 and charge-sheets, Ext.K-13, 14 and 15.

10. After adducing all oral evidences and examination of prosecution witnesses, accused persons were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., they denied the allegations and stated that they were falsely implicated in this case due to enmity and village rivalry. Defence also adduced Jagat Prakash (DW-1) as defence witness in their support.

11. Learned Trial Court, after perusing and appreciating all the evidence as available on record, has passed judgment and order of conviction, in which the Trial Court held the accused-appellants guilty under Section 302, 149 and 148 IPC. The Trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused persons, namely, Udai Kumar Chaubey, Dharam Raj Singh, Basant Singh and Rajaram. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction dated 28.04.1988, accused persons preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

12. Vide order dated 06.01.2026, the instant criminal appeal is declared to have abated so far as the accused-appellant nos. 1, 2 and 4, namely, Udai Kumar, Dharamraj and Raja Ram are concerned. The appeal survives for adjudication only so far as the accused-appellant no. 3 Basant Kumar is concerned.

13. We have heard the arguments of Mr. Prashant Kumar Singh, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State. We have also gone through the documentary as well as oral evidence as available on the record and also gone through the judgment and order of conviction dated 28.04.1988.

14. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, Basant Singh has argued that the first information report was registered at police station Mangalpur against unknown persons. No accused-appellant was named in this case. Place of occurrence was at the tube-well having flour mill with it, which is situated towards north-west direction at a distance of three furlongs from Mangalpur. Occurrence happened at midnight. No person has seen the commission of crime with his or her own eyes. No evidence of last seen together was adduced by the prosecution. Apart from this, no circumstantial evidence was adduced by the prosecution from which a chain of circumstantial evidence could be completed and accused persons could be implicated for commission of the crime.

15. It was further submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that from the place of occurrence, no material, objects or things, such as, murder weapon or any other object of this nature were recovered by the Investigating Officer, from which accused-appellant could be connected with the commission of crime. It was also argued by learned Counsel for the accused-appellant that after a long delay of 3-4 months, second Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the prosecution witnesses, and the prosecution tried to plant and project prosecution witnesses in this case to support their case. It is next argued that the Trial Court only on the ground of enmity, doubt, suspicion and village rivalry held the accused-appellant guilty and convicted him on the basis of conjectures and surmises.

16. Learned Counsel for the accused-appellant also submitted that all the prosecution witnesses, who were adduced by the prosecution have not seen any happening of occurrence or coming of the accused persons at the night of 14/15.10.1982 from the tube-well of the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6), but the learned Trial Court wrongly and against the law relied upon the unbelievable evidence and testimony of prosecution witnesses in this case without discussing and appreciating the cross-examination of these prosecution witnesses, and thereby the Trial Court, by misappreciating, mis-evaluating and wrongly applying the law, held the accused-appellant guilty and convicted him for commission of the crime. Thus, it was submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that the judgment and order of conviction passed by the learned Trial Court is totally against the evidence as available on record and also against the settled principles of law of evidence. Therefore, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 28.04.1988 is liable to be set aside and the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellant deserves to be allowed.

17. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate representing the State submitted that the Trial Court in this case rightly and in legal prospective appreciated the evidence. The Trial Court perusing the evidence as available on record and believing the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and enmity and rivalry found the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the crime. It was also submitted that long driven enmity and rivalry between the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) and the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote on one side and accused persons on other side were prevailing and continuing among them. The accused-appellants regarded the deceased, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote, as a hurdle in their way, because he had started objecting to and opposing every illegal and arbitrary act of the accused persons. Consequently, for this reason, the accused persons hatched a conspiracy and planned to eliminate the said hurdle, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote, forever.

18. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that the Trial Court in proper and legal manner appreciated and evaluated the prosecution evidence and when the Trial Court found that the prosecution was able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt then the Trial Court held guilty to accused-appellant for commission of the alleged crime and convicted him for commission of the alleged crime. He lastly submitted that there is no legal force in this criminal appeal and the same is liable to be rejected, being devoid of merits.

19. In view of the above arguments of learned Counsel for the parties, it is clear that in written report, Ext.K-1, no accused-appellant or any other person has been named for commission of the crime. After four months of the incident dated 14/15.10.1982, a second written report, Ext.K-2, dated 15.02.1983 was filed at the police station. In the second written report, Ext.K-2, informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) expresses doubt about the accused-appellant Udai Krishna Chaubey that he committed murder of his son Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote. The prosecution adduced total seven prosecution witnesses of facts.

20. Shyam Bihari, Pradhan (PW-1) was adduced as prosecution witness. In his examination-in-chief, this witness submitted that the accused Udai Chaubey, Basant Singh, Dharam Raj Singh, Bhanu Pratap Singh and Raja Ram committed murder of Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote at his tube-well.□ On the point of enmity, this witness stated that before the election, accused Govardhan Singh was the village Pradhan. Govardhan Singh had contested elections against me and he lost. Ramadhar Tyagi, father of the deceased, helped me in the election and opposed accused Govardhan Singh. Regarding another enmity, this witness stated that in village Mangalpur, there was a pond and a market was also organised. These were properties of Gaon Samaj. Accused Govardhan Singh, after taking some money from Udai Chaubey, auctioned the pond and market in his favour. Udai Chaubey made Basant and Dharmraj Singh partners in this pond and market. Thereafter, Ramadhar Tyagi filed an application before Sub Divisional Magistrate and the auction was cancelled. Later, Naib Tehsildar auctioned it again and Krishna Aadhar Tyagi persuaded the Naib Tehsildar and the contract of the pond and market was given to Hari Krishna Kahar. Due to this, when the pond and market slipped away from the hands of the accused persons, they united and regarded enmity with Krishna Aadhar and Ramadhar Tyagi. It is stated in the evidence of this witness that there was a building, in which a hospital was running. Accused Govardhan Singh began to receive rent from the State Government on the ground that he is the owner of this building. When this fact came to the knowledge of Tyagi Ji and deceased Krishna Aadhar, they began to pursue and on their persuasion, the Government stopped paying rent of the building to accused Govardhan Singh. This was also a reason for enmity between accused Govardhan Singh and deceased Krishna Aadhar and informant Ramadhar Tyagi. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it appears that this witness has stated that □at evening, before the murder of the deceased, I came to know that at the flour mill of Jageshwar, accused Basant, Dharmraj and Udai were talking, and they were saying the name of Pradhan and they were saying that this hurdle must be removed. I had told this fact to Islam Sheikh and Ramadhar Tyagi. Upon this, Islam Sheikh cautioned me that I need not to go here and there because Govardhan Singh was enraged due to his defeat in the election. Thereafter, today in the morning, it came to be known from the public that Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote was murdered. About two months prior to the murder, the accused Udai Kumar, Basant, Bhanu Pratap Singh, and Dharamraj were demanding money from Sitaram Chikwa for consuming liquor. At that time, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote reached there and said that this poor person shall not give them money. On this point, an altercation took place between Udai Kumar Chaubey and Krishna Aadhar. Udai Kumar Chaubey has taken a vow that if he is truly of his father□s blood, he will kill Krishna Aadhar. This witness also stated that Govardhan Singh was involved in this murder."

21. In his cross-examination, Shyam Bihari (PW-1) has stated that □he spoke with daroga in connection with this case four months before this murder. He was returning from village then daroga called him in the police station and he inquired from him for about one hour.□ He, in his cross-examination, stated the fact that accused were preparing and planning to kill him. This fact was informed to me by Atar Singh in the evening at 4-5 P.M. At the same night, Krishna Aadhar was murdered. He had told this fact to his friends. He had also told this fact to Ramadhar Tyagi on the same day at 6-7 PM. He had also told this fact on the same evening at 5 P.M. to Islam at his workshop and to Ramadhar at his home. He had not told the name of Atar Singh to daroga because he has not asked him.

22. From the evidence of this witness, it appears that the prosecution tried to adduce this witness as a prosecution witness in this case. However, from the evidence of this witness, as referred to above, it is amply clear that this witness is a planted and projected witness. From the evidence of this witness, it appears that this witness came to know this fact that a planning of murder was being hatched by the accused persons. According to this witness, he told this fact to Ramadhar Tyagi, father of the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote, on the same evening. On the same night, when the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote was murdered, if we believe the statement of this witness that this witness is truly stating the fact before the Court then a question arises that if this witness really told the hatching of the planning of murder by the accused persons and this witness told this facts to the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) and Islam, then in this situation, name of the accused persons surely and certainly must have been written by the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) in his written report, Ext.K-1 but we find that in written report, Ext.K-1, he has not named any person as an accused. From this fact, it is clear that this witness is concealing the real facts about the case and falsely and in artificial way, concocting and developing the prosecution story. From the evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness is not an eye-witness of the incident. The prosecution tried to project this witness as a prosecution witness to give force and to strengthen the prosecution story but from any point of view, we cannot believe the testimony of this witness as there is no truth in the statement of this witness that could inspire confidence that the evidence of this witness could be believed as reliable and trustworthy.

23. Prosecution produced Bafati as PW-2. This witness in his examination-in-chief has stated that "I came to know about the murder after 15-20 days. Eight days before the murder, Udai Kumar Chaubey and Basant Singh, both present in Court, came to me at 08:00 P.M. Udai Kumar said to me that Govardhan Singh is calling. Govardhan Singh is also present in the Court. I had gone to Govardhan Singh. He was sitting in a room. He said to me that Chhote was very harassing. Market and pond had gone. Pradhani had also gone. Building of Rs. 50,000/- was also about to go. He also said that he had helped me. Now how much I will help him. I had asked him what is the work. Then Govardhan told that Chhote was very much harassing. Udai Chaubey is ready. You also be ready. Whatever money is required, he will spend. He also said that after leaving this place by us, you kill Chhote. I said that I have never done such work nor shall do. Then Udai Kumar Chaubey stated that he would carry out such an act, and once the hurdle in their way was removed, they would be exonerated from the matter. After that I went from there then again when I began to move, he said that I do not tell this fact to any person and keep this fact to myself. Upon this, I assured him that I would keep this fact to myself alone. At the time of this talk, accused Dharmraj, Basant, and Udai Kumar were also present in the room. This conversation took place before them."

24. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that "this conversation had taken place in the room of Govardhan Singh before eight days of the murder of the son of Tyagi ji. He had not told Krishna Aadhar Tyagi that he be alert and cautious because there is danger to his life. He had not told this conversation to any other person. He had not informed the police. The Investigating Officer had taken his statement after 5-6 months of the murder. When he was returning from the market, in front of the police station, Daroga had called him. Daroga said that Udai Chaubey had told all the facts. You also tell the correct facts, otherwise he will keep him in prison. Due to fear and pressure, he started telling the Daroga. Daroga had not told him what facts were told by Udai Chaubey. At the time of occurrence, he was not in the village. Before seven days, he went away and returned after eight days.' This witness also stated in his cross-examination that he had not told this fact to the father of Krishna Aadhar.

25. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness was also projected and planted by the prosecution to support the prosecution story. Surprisingly, this witness was called upon by Govardhan Singh in his room and asked to commit murder of Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote. All other accused persons were also present in the same room. According to this witness, he refused to commit murder, but before this witness, in the same room, Udai Kumar Chaubey said that he would do such work, but in spite of this fact, this witness had not told this fact to Ramadhar Tyagi, father of the deceased. This witness also did not tell this fact to the police or any other persons. This witness clearly stated that before seven days of the happening of the incident, he had gone for trading of animals and returned after eight days of the incident. How can, in this situation, the evidence of this witness be believed and relied upon? Thus, from perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness is narrating a concocted, fabricated and false story in the Court, and tried unsuccessfully to falsely implicate the accused-appellant for commission of the crime. Thus, we find that the testimony and veracity of this witness is highly doubtful and suspicious. In this circumstance, the evidence of this witness cannot be relied upon and believed, according to settled principles of law of evidence.

26. Atar Singh was produced as PW-3 by the prosecution. This witness has stated that "on the date of murder, I was returning at about 4 o'clock from Dilbal. Then, on the way, at Mangalpur, I stopped at the flour mill of Jageshwar. At this flour mill, wheat is being ground and oil is also extracted. This flour mill has three doors on three sides, with one door opening towards the east, where the road is situated. I stood at the north wall inside the flour mill. Outside the flour mill, a cot was attached on the same wall. On this cot, Udai, Dharmraj, Basant Singh, Bhanu Pratap @ Dullan, present in Court, were sitting. Rajaram Kanjar, the accused present in Court, was also sitting on the floor. There were many holes in this wall, so that sound can be heard from the other side, and visibility was also clear. I heard the conversation of these persons. They were talking by saying pradhan-pradhan. They were saying that Pradhani had gone. The pond of fish and market had also gone. The building of the hospital was also became disputed. Due to this, we felt embarrassed, so finish this hurdle. After that accused Udai Chaubey present in the Court had given money to Raja Ram Kanjar to bring liquor. Raja Ram brought liquor. Then all those people began to eat and drink. I had went away. I told this fact on the same day to Shyama Pradhan. On the next date, I came to know that murder of Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote took place."

27. From perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, Atar Singh (PW-3), we find that this witness has stated that he told the plan of hatching conspiracy of murder to Shyama Pradhan on the same day. According to this witness, Pradhan at that time, said him to go to mill and he also went to report. Before this, he had told this fact to daroga upon inquiry by him. Daroga had called him after four months of the incident. He was going to the market from front of the police station when Daroga called him. At that time, there was no person with him. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of this witness, it emerged that this witness is stating in the Court that in the room of Jageshwar's flour mill, accused persons were talking among themselves and hatching a plan for murder of Shyama Pradhan but this witness also surprisingly told this fact on the same day to Shyama Pradhan, who did not inform the police. This witness also did not inform the police. According to the statement of this witness, Daroga took his statement after four months of the incident. It is unbelievable that this witness heard a so-called conspiracy and plan prepared by the accused persons at Jageshwar's flour mill, situated on the roadside, where many people used to come for grinding wheat and extracting mustard oil. It is totally unbelievable that any accused would not hatch a plan and conspiracy to murder at such a public place. Culprits usually prepares and hatches plans in secrecy at a hidden place where ingress and egress are restricted. If this witness really heard the conversation about hatching a plan for murder of Shyama Pradhan, he was duty-bound to inform the police and other responsible persons maintaining law and order but he did not state this fact to the police. He told this fact to the Daroga after four months of the murder. Thus, from appreciation of the statement of this witness, it is clear that this witness is also adduced by the prosecution as a projected and planted witness to support the prosecution case with concoction and fabrication. The evidence of this witness cannot be believed for the conviction of the accused-appellant. The testimony of this witness is totally hypothetical, who tried to narrate an artificial story. Due to this reason, evidence of this witness is wholly unreliable.

28. Next witness produced by the prosecution is Yaqoob Khan (PW-4). This witness has stated in his examination-in-chief that murder of Chhote, son of Ramadhar Tyagi, of my village occurred in the night. At that night, I was suffering from loose motion and had gone to ease myself little away from the market at around 12:30 o clock. I after easing myself returned towards home then I saw five persons going from the side of market towards the direction of tubewell of Tyagi ji, which was on the north side. I, by turning on my torch, saw that Udai Shankar had a lathi in his hand, Rajaram had a khanta. Apart from them, Dharamraj Singh, Basant Singh, and Bhanu Pratap Singh were also present there, but I had not seen anything in their hands. When I asked them where they were going, accused Udai Chaubey replied that they were going to irrigate their field. At that time, the tubewell was running, and the rice crop was being irrigated. I himself was suffering from loose motion for the last 2-4 days. My health was not well and I returned home. In the morning, it was known that Chhote, son of Tyagi Ji, had been murdered at the tubewell. Subsequently, I fell ill for a month, and during this period, I informed the visitors who came to see me about this incident. Chhote, son of Tyagi ji, was a gentleman and had no enmity with anyone, but the accused persons had enmity with Tyagi ji and his son over the pond and tehbazari of market.

29. From perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, it is evident that he had stated that after four months of the incident, he was called to the police station by daroga and his statement was recorded. During these four months, he had not met any policeman, nor had he gone to the police station due to fear. He met Tyagi ji, the father of the deceased, after 3-4 months of the incident. Thus, from the perusal of the evidence of prosecution witness Yaqoob Khan, it appears that this witness was also produced by the prosecution as a projected and planted witness, as this witness stated in his evidence that he had seen the accused persons going towards the tubewell of the deceased, armed with lathi and khanta and on the same night, Krishnadhar @ Chhote was murdered, but despite this fact, this witness had not told this fact to anyone. He had not told this fact to Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6), the father of the deceased. He had also not told this fact to the police. Surprisingly, after 3-4 months, he was called at the police station by daroga, and his statement was recorded. Then this witness stated all the facts after four months to the Investigating Officer. This factual position and conduct of this witness make the evidence of this witness highly doubtful and suspicious. It is clear that this witness was projected and planted later, after four months of the incident, to implicate the accused-appellant, when no clue about the real culprits of the crime came to the police. In other words, when the police and Investigating Officer could not trace the real culprits, then this witness and other prosecution witnesses purposely and thoughtfully were planted and projected as prosecution witnesses to work out the case. We find no truthfulness or any element in the statement of this witness which could be believed as an evidence to hold the accused guilty for commission of crime, therefore, evidence of this witness is also wholly unreliable."

30. In the same way and style, prosecution witness Rajendra Prasad (PW-5) has also stated in his evidence that about four years ago, at night, Chhote, son of Tyagi ji, was murdered at tubewell. At that night, I was at my home. My mother was suffering from stomach pain. That day, Harnarayan Gupta was also present with me. When pain of my mother increased, then at about 01:30 AM, I and Harnarayan Gupta were going to bring a doctor then after passing through the market, when they reached between the tamarind tree, then few people were coming from the side of the tubewell of Tyagi ji. When I turned on my torch then I saw that people of the village, Udai Shankar with a lathi, Rajaram with a khanta, Dharmraj Singh, Basant Singh and Dullan Singh are coming. I had seen these people in the light of the torch then Harnarayan asked that from where they were coming and Udai Chaubey said they were coming from the tubewell. The doctor was not available at the hospital, so my mother was treated by a compounder of the neighbourhood. This witness further stated that I went to Derapur in the morning and received the information about the murder of Chhote. Chhote had no enmity with anyone, except the people of the village. I also stated that ex-pradhan Govardhan Singh had enmity in respect of tehbazari and auction of the market, pond and rent of the hospital building."

31. In his cross-examination, this witness stated that the Investigating Officer took his statement after four months of the incident, at the police station at around 08:00 AM. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that he had received the information about the murder the next day at 12 noon in Derapur and he did not go to the place of incident as he was 10 miles away. He met Ramadhar Tyagi at the police station on the next day at sunset. He did not disclose this fact to anyone. At that time, dead body of the deceased was kept out of police station. He had not talked with Ramadhar Tyagi at that time. He had not told the fact of night at that day to any person. He had not disclosed the fact of incident at his home and outside after 2-4 days. Thereafter, Ramadhar Tyagi also got to know this fact. After two months of the incident, Ramadhar Tyagi had asked him then he told him all the facts. Udai Kumar had not given intimidation to kill the deceased Chhote before him. He had only heard this."

32. From perusal of the evidence of the prosecution witness Rajendra Prasad (PW-5), it becomes clear that this witness has also seen the accused persons coming from the direction of the tubewell of Tyagi Ji. The next morning, Krishnadhar @ Chhote was found murdered at the tubewell, but this witness has not told this fact to any person. Even this witness has not told this fact that in the night of murder, he had seen accused persons coming from the tubewell of Tyagi Ji. If this witness had really seen the accused persons in the night of incident coming from the side of tubewell of the informant, then this witness surely would have told this fact to informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) but this witness has also not told this fact which he saw at the night of the murder of the deceased. This witness has also not told or intimated this fact at the police station. After four months of the incident, the statement of this witness was recorded by the Investigating Officer at the police station then only at police station after four months from the date of incident this witness narrated the above story to the Investigating Officer. From the above facts, it is clear that this witness is telling wrong facts and presenting in the Court a fabricated, artificial, and concocted prosecution story, so that accused-appellant could be implicated for commission of the crime. Upon perusal of the whole evidence of this witness, we find that the evidence of this witness is wholly unreliable since evidence of this witness is not found according to the settled principles of law of evidence.

33. The prosecution produced informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6). From perusal of the statement of this witness, it is clear that at the time of recording the evidence, Shyam Bihari was the pradhan of village Mangalpur, and before him, accused Govardhan Singh was the pradhan from 1952 till the last elections. Regarding enmity with the accused-appellant, this witness stated the same facts as was stated by the prosecution witness Shyam Bihari, Pradhan (PW-1). He stated in his examination-in-chief that his son Chhote had no enmity with anyone, except the accused-appellants. He also stated that after 4-6 days of the incident, he began to know that how his son was murdered and within few days, it was known that in this murder, Dharmraj, Basant, Dullan, Rajaram and Udai Chaubey had their hands. Root cause of this incident was Govardhan Singh.

34. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that on the date of reporting the incident, Investigating Officer has interrogated him and has taken his statement. Statement had taken in night at about 10:00 PM. Many a times, police inquired from him. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of this witness, it emerged that at the time of incident, this witness was not present at the scene of occurrence. This witness was present at his home in the village. Information about the murder of his son Krishnadhar @ Chote was given to him by Ramauatar Pandey next morning at about 08:00 AM. Receiving this information about murder of his son, he deputed his wife to supervise the dead body of the deceased son and he went to the police station and has written himself about the fact of murder and filed written report, Ext.K-1, at police station Mangalpur without naming any person as accused for commission of the crime. In other words, this witness filed written report, Ext.K-1, against unknown person, in which no accused nor any other person was named as accused either as suspect or responsible for commission of the crime.

35. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it also emerges that after upon hearing hearsay evidence and rumour from people, this witness after four months from the date of murder of his son dated 14/15.10.1982 has written and filed a second written report, Ext.K-2, at police station Mangalpur. In the second written report, Ext.K-2, this witness stated that murder of his son was committed by Udai Chaubey. From the evidence of this witness, it is clear that for four months, this witness was not knowing the name of any culprit, who was responsible for commission of the crime. This witness had only given information about the incident at police station Mangalpur. Whatever has been stated by this witness in his evidence was based on only hearsay evidence and rumor as prevalent in the village. In his evidence, this witness stated those facts which were not stated by this witness to the Investigating Officer in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is also clear from the evidence of this witness that this witness in the Court at the time of recording his evidence totally improved and has given a new fact and story which was based upon only doubt and suspicion. If really this witness and his son Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote had enmity with the accused persons and had also suspicion that the accused persons murdered Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote, then in this condition, this witness has clearly and naturally has written this fact in his written report Ext.K-1, which was filed at police station Mangalpur on 15.10.1982. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of this witness, we find that there is no truthfulness in the evidence of this witness which could be believed as fully reliable. The evidence of this witness is found fully unreliable and not believable from any point of view of law of evidence.

36. From perusal of the evidence of PW-7 Rampal Rawat, who was the first Investigating Officer of the case, it is clear that from the statement of this witness as given in his cross-examination that second Investigating Officer Jaid Naqvi had recorded the statement of informant on 12.01.1983. He also recorded the statements of witness Shyam Bihari and Sitaram on 12.01.1983. On 27.01.1983, again statements of informant Ramadhar Tyagi and Mohd. Islam were recorded by the second Investigating Officer on 11.02.1983. Statements of witness Rajendra Prasad, Harnarayan Gupta, Yaqoob Khan and Dr. Rama Shankar Srivastava were recorded. From the evidence of this witness, it is clear that after this, on 17.02.1983, copy of second written report, Ext.K-2, has been given to the informant and thereafter he was inquired. On the same day, statement of Atar Singh, Chhote Lal, Ram Sewak and Shri Ram had been taken. From the statement of this witness, it is clear that the statement of Bafati was taken on 02.04.1983. Thereafter, new Investigating Officer Om Prakash Ojha has taken the statement of Bafati on 02.08.1983. In his cross-examination by the defence, this witness has admitted that witness Shyam Bihari had made major improvement in his evidence in the Court. This witness has also confirmed that witness Yaqoob had not told to Naqvi about the fact of easing himself near the tamarind tree was not told by PW-4, Yaqoob Khan.

37. From perusal of cross-examination of this witness Rampal Rawat (PW-7), it is clear that statement of prosecution witnesses had been taken by calling them at the police station. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of prosecution witness Investigating Officer Rampal Rawat (PW-7), it is clear that all witnesses of the prosecution had given information about the fact of murder of the deceased at police station after four months of the incident. All the prosecution witnesses called by the Investigating Officer at police station and statement of all of them were recorded at police station Mangalpur. From the evidence of this witness, this fact also emerged that prosecution witnesses have improved their evidence in the Court. They have changed their statement during recording of their statement in the Court from what they had stated at the time of recording their evidence by Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. From the evidence of Investigating Officer Rampal Rawat (PW-7), it is also amply clear that evidence of the prosecution witness and their story as narrated by them are highly suspicious and doubtful.

38. Thus, from perusal and appreciation of the evidence, documentary and oral, as adduced by the prosecution, it is clear that in the written report, Ext.K-1, dated 15.10.1982 and second written report, Ext.K-2, dated 15.02.1983 which was filed after four months of the incident dated 15.10.1982, it is apparent on the face of record that in the first written report, informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) has not named any accused-appellant for commission of the crime. Informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) has not named any other persons upon whom he could express his doubt and suspicion for the alleged commission of the crime. Written report, Ext.K-1, was lodged by Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) against unknown person for murder of his son. Apart from this, informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) has not stated any enmity and has also not expressed any doubt and suspicion about the charge-sheeted accused-appellants in this case. In the second written report, Ext.K-2, dated 15.02.1983, he only expressed his doubt and suspicion about accused-appellant Udai Chaubey for commission of the crime. Therefore, we find that in written report, Ext.K-1, dated 15.10.1982 and second written report, Ext.K-2, dated 15.02.1983, no enmity or cause of the village rivalry has been stated by the informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6).

39. From perusal of the recovery memo, such as, bloodstained cloths, rope, Ext.K-12, and recovery memo of torch and transistor from the place of occurrence by the Investigating Officer Rampal Rawat (PW-7), it is amply clear that those materials, things and objects, whichever recovered from the place of occurrence, were belongings of the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote. In other words, all recovered materials, objects and articles belonged to the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote. Meaning thereby that, Investigating Officers in this case could not collect from the place of occurrence any such type of material, object, thing and article that could be related with the accused-appellant in this case. It is also noteworthy that Investigating Officer in this case could not recover weapon of murder neither from the place of occurrence nor from the custody or possession of the accused-appellant.

40. From perusal and appreciation of the oral evidence of prosecution witnesses, such as, Shyam Bihari (PW-1), Bafati (PW-2), Atar Singh (PW-3), Yaqoob Khan (PW-4), Rajendra Prasad (PW-5) and Ramadhar (PW-6), we find that all these prosecution witnesses have not seen the happening of the incident with their own eyes. These prosecution witnesses were also not the witnesses of last seen together. When Investigating Officer of the case was unable to trace out the real culprits, who committed this heinous crime, then to work out this murder case, Investigating Officers after three-four months from the date of occurrence called the prosecution witnesses at the police station and began to record their concocted and artificial statements. None of the prosecution witnesses are the eye-witnesses of the incident. All those in their examination-in-chief tried to support the prosecution story but in their cross-examination, they miserably failed in their attempt. From perusal of the cross-examination of these prosecution witnesses, it is clear that these prosecution witnesses have not stated whatever they saw or observed before the happening of the occurrence to any other person or to informant of the case Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) or even they have not given information or stated to the police about their observations and those suspicious facts. Thus, from perusal of the statement of these prosecution witnesses, it is amply clear that prosecution later on, with full consideration and afterthought, planted and projected these prosecution witnesses with a view to support the prosecution case. However, these prosecution witnesses could not stand in their cross-examination by the defence and they accepted in a clear-cut way that they have not stated whatever they observed or seen before the happening of this incident on 14-15.10.1982 to any other person including informant Ramadhar Tyagi (PW-6) or to any other persons or policemen.

41. However, when we had gone through the judgment and order of conviction of learned Trial Court dated 28.04.1988, we find that at page nos. 8, 9 and 10, Trial Court relied on the evidence of prosecution witness Yaqoob Khan (PW-4) and Rajendra Prasad (PW-5) and only on the ground of enmity based its observation on the evidence of Yaqoob Khan (PW-4) and Rajendra Prasad (PW-5) and held the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the crime. When we have gone through the finding and observations of learned Trial Court, we find that learned Trial Court only perused the examination-in-chief of the prosecution witnesses and the Trial Court has not considered the cross-examination of the prosecution witnesses and neglected the same. It is settled principle of law of evidence that evidence of any witness must be read in totality. It is also settled principle of law that no accused shall be held guilty for commission of any crime only on the ground of enmity. However, in the case in hand, we find that Trial Court against the settled principles of law only on the ground of enmity and village rivalry held the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the crime. There is no evidence of this kind either direct or circumstantial on the basis of which accused-appellant could be held guilty for commission of the crime but learned Trial Court only on the ground of enmity and village rivalry against the settled principles of law of evidence wrongly relying on the evidence of prosecution witnesses held the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the said crime.

42. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sushil and others v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1995 SSC (Cri.) 388 and in the case of State of Punjab v. Sucha Singh, (2003) 3 SCC 153, has held that;

"enmity is a double aged weapon which cut both ways. It may constitute motive for the commission of the crime and at the same time it may also provide a motive for false implication."

Therefore, only on the basis of enmity, the accused-appellant cannot be connected with the crime and held guilty for commission of the crime. For holding guilty any person for commission of any crime, full proof evidence either circumstantial or direct or last seen together must be present so cogently that accused persons could be connected with the crime on the basis of that evidence. Thus, it is evident from the evidence that prosecution only on the ground of enmities and village rivalry falsely implicated the accused-appellant in this case for commission of the crime.

43. From perusal of the evidence of prosecution, observation and finding of the Trial Court, it is clear that prosecution witnesses only on the ground of village rivalry, implicated the accused-appellant for commission of the crime on the ground of suspicion and doubt and learned Trial Court also relying on the prosecution witnesses on the ground of doubt and suspicion as expressed by the witnesses, held the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the crime against the settled principles of law of evidence. It is settled principle of law that doubt and suspicion, however, so strong cannot take the place of evidence. Heinous the crime, stricter the proof of evidence. In other words, where an allegation of commission of a heinous offence has been levelled against the accused-appellant, then in this situation, greater would be burden of proof upon the prosecution to prove its case with strict and by wholly reliable evidence whether it may be direct or indirect. However, in the present case in hand, learned Trial Court also based its finding and reasoning against the accused-appellant on the ground of doubt and suspicion.

44. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam, (2013) 12 SCC 406 has also held in para 13 that;

"13. Suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot take the place of proof, and there is a large difference between something that □may be□ proved, and something that □will be proved□. In a criminal trial, suspicion no matter how strong, cannot and must not be permitted to take place of proof. This is for the reason that the mental distance between □may be□ and □must be□ is quite large, and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. In a criminal case, the court has a duty to ensure that mere conjectures or suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The large distance between □may be□ true and □must be□ true, must be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence produced by the prosecution, before an accused is condemned as a convict, and the basic and golden rule must be applied. In such cases, while keeping in mind the distance between □may be□ true and □must be□ true, the court must maintain the vital distance between mere conjectures and sure conclusions to be arrived at, on the touchstone of dispassionate judicial scrutiny, based upon a complete and comprehensive appreciation of all features of the case, as well as the quality and credibility of the evidence brought on record. The court must ensure, that miscarriage of justice is avoided, and if the facts and circumstances of a case so demand, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused, keeping in mind that a reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely probable doubt, but a fair doubt that is based upon reason and common sense."

45. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Babu v. State of Kerala, (2010) 9 SCC 189 has held in para 27 that;

"27. Every accused is presumed to be innocent unless the guilt is proved. The presumption of innocence is a human right. However, subject to the statutory exceptions, the said principle forms the basis of criminal jurisprudence. For this purpose, the nature of the offence, its seriousness and gravity thereof has to be taken into consideration. The courts must be on guard to see that merely on the application of the presumption, the same may not lead to any injustice or mistaken conviction."

46. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Odisha v. Banabihari Mohapatra and another, Special Leave Petition (Criminal) No. 1156 of 2021; decided on 12.02.2021, has held that;

"it is well settled by a plethora of judicial pronouncement of this Court that suspicion, however, strong cannot take place of proof. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt."

47. From perusal of the postmortem report, Ext.K-17, of deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote in the evidence of Dr. Hari Das Verma, who prepared the postmortem report, Ext.K-17, we find that eight ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased, which are as follows:

1. Lacerated wounds 3-1/2 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on the upper of the right ear.

2. Lacerated wounds 4 cm x 2 cm x bone deep on the face about 2 cm away from right eye.

3. Lacerated wounds 8 cm x 2 cm x bone deep on the frontal bone on head about 1-1/2 cm away from right eyebrow.

4. Lacerated wound 2-1/2 cm x 1 cm x bone deep on the frontal bone about 3-1/2 cm away from right eye.

5. Lacerated wound 1 cm x □ cm x bone deep on the face 8 cm away from right eye.

6. Multiple contusions with abrasion 10 cm x 7 cm on the face on right side.

7. Contusion 6-1/2 cm x □ cm right shoulder joint.

8. Contusion 4-1/2 cm x 1-1/2 cm on the bicep muscular region left upper of about 9 cm away from left elbow joint.

48. Thus, from perusal of the injury report, Ext.K-17, it is clear that ante mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote and his murder was committed by assaulting on his vital part of the body as on head. Due to this fatal injuries, Krishna Aadhar @ Chhote has died at the spot but the prosecution is totally unsuccessful to prove this fact that these injuries were caused by the accused-appellant.

49. Prosecution was unsuccessful to adduce and produce any incriminating material, objects, things or articles from the place of occurrence or from the possession of the accused-appellant by which accused persons could be connected with the commission of the crime on this ground. Prosecution was fully unsuccessful to produce any reliable oral or circumstantial evidence against the accused-appellant, so that by which accused-appellant could be connected for commission of the alleged crime. When we have gone through the record of the case and also from perusal of the judgment and order of conviction of learned Trial Court, we find that the Trial Court only on the ground of enmity and so-called village rivalry and on the ground of doubt and suspicion without being evidence in this respect only on the ground of conjectures and surmises wrongly appreciated the evidence and against the settled principles of law held the accused-appellant guilty for commission of the crime.

50. From perusal of the whole evidence, judgment and order of conviction of the learned Trial Court, we are of the view that it is a case of no evidence, therefore, in view of the above discussions and observations, we find that finding and reasoning as given by the Trial Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law. We, therefore, inclined to set aside the finding and reasoning given by the learned Trial Court. Thus, the criminal appeal of the accused-appellant deserves to be allowed.

51. The criminal appeal is allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 28.04.1988 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellant by learned Trial Court in Session Trial No. 24 of 1985 arising out of Case Crime No. 183 of 1982, under Sections 120B, 147, 302/149 IPC, police station Mangalpur, district Kanpur Dehat. The appellant is acquitted of the charge under Sections 147 and 302/149 IPC. The appellant Basant Singh is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged. However, he shall comply with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

52. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

1. Both these Criminal Appeals bearing Nos. 1048 of 1989 (Balistor Vs. State of U.P.) and 1377 of 1989 (Mahesh and another Vs. State of U.P.) have been filed by accused-appellants, Balistor, Mahesh and Naresh, respectively, against the judgment and order of conviction dated 02.05.1989 passed by learned Vth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Moradabad in Session Trial No. 67 of 1988 (State Vs. Mahesh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 287 of 1987, under Sections 302, 324/34 and 201 IPC, Police Station Kundarki, District Moradabad.

2. From the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, prosecution story in nutshell is that informant, Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1), has filed this written report at police station Kundarki, District Moradabad against Mahesh, Naresh @ Chhotey, Virpal and Balistor stating therein that Ramayana was being recited in the temple of our village, where lanterns were illuminated. I along with my brother Ram Kunwar and father Ramphal Singh and other people of the village were present there. At around 09:45 P.M., after reciting Ramayana, I along with my brother Ram Kunwar and father were going home. My brother was ahead of us and my father and I were behind. As soon as my brother reached near the outer wall of Khairati's house, Mahesh, Naresh @ Chhotey, Virpal and Balistor from our village were already standing there. Mahesh, Virpal and Naresh had guns and Ballistor had a country-made pistol. They surrounded my brother. On seeing this, my father and I made a noise and on listening the noise, Prem Pal, Khandey Singh and Kishan Pal Singh came at the spot. Mahesh, Virpal, Naresh @ Chhotey fired the gun upon my brother Ram Kunwar before us, whereupon he fell down sustaining injury. Balistor threatened us with a country-made pistol and told the others to make the dead body disappear. Due to fear, we were unable to take any action. All four persons fled from the spot, carrying away the dead body while firing in the air. In the said firing, Km. Veerum, daughter of Jaswant, who was also coming from the Ramayana, sustained pellets injury. My father, other witnesses and I saw the whole incident in the light of the torch. Mahesh had already registered a case against my brother Ram Kunwar in respect of eloping his sister Suman, in which he was on bail. Due to this enmity, all the four accused committed murder of my brother and carried away his dead body."

3. After submission of written report, Exhibit Ka-1, by informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) at Police Station Kundarki, District Moradabad, an F.I.R., Exhibit Ka-4, was registered on 28.09.1987 by Head Constable Rajendra Singh (PW-5) at Case Crime No. 287 of 1987, under Sections 302/201 IPC against the accused-appellants Mahesh, Naresh @ Chhotey, Virpal and Balistor.

4. Station House Officer/Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8) has started investigation of this case. He visited the place of occurrence, took the torch from the witnesses into custody, and subsequently returned it to them with instructions to produce it whenever required. He also prepared Exhibit Ka-2 of taking over into possession and handing over the torch to the witnesses. The Investigating Officer also taken simple soil and bloodstained soil from the place of occurrence on 28.09.1987 before the prosecution witnesses and prepared a fard as Exhibit Ka-6. On 28.09.1987, the Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8), also collected plain soil and bloodstained soil from the millet crop field of Sumeri, son of Jeevan, located at the southern-western corner, and prepared a recovery memo, marked as Exhibit Ka-7. On 28.09.1987, the Investigating Officer had also taken into possession one piece of plastic shoe of brown colour of deceased Ram Kunwar, on which two leather tiklis (buttons) are attached, which was recovered from the southern-western corner of the millet crop field of Sumeri, son of Jeevan, and prepared a recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-7/A. The Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8), recovered the dead body of the deceased Ram Kunwar without head on 04.10.1987 from the sugar-cane field of Nazruddin, resident of Majholi, which was identified by witnesses as dead body of Ram Kunwar, son of Ramphal Singh. The Investigating Officer prepared a fard identification of dead body of the deceased as Exhibit Ka-3. On 04.10.1987 itself, the Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8), had also recovered from the right leg of the deceased Ram Kunwar one piece of plastic shoes of brown colour, on which Sansar was written. Number of the shoes is seven. In this shoes, three leather tiklis (buttons) are attached. The shoe is old used. The same was taken into possession. From the dead body of the deceased, one piece of white cotton waist-cloth which was bloodstained and one piece of shun rope which was tied on the waist of the dead body was recovered and taken into possession and fard recovery of the above articles was prepared before the witnesses of the fard by the the Investigating Officer as Exhibit Ka-11.

5. The Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8), inspected the place of occurrence, recorded the statement of the informant and other witnesses and inquired from the villagers, prepared the site plan as Exhibit Ka-8. The Investigating Officer also prepared site plan from the place where plastic shoe of the deceased was recovered from the field of Sumeri as Exhibit Ka-9. The Investigating Officer also inspected the place from where dead body of the deceased was found and prepared site plan of that place as Exhibit Ka-10. The Investigating Officer also tried to arrest accused-appellants but he was unsuccessful because they surrendered before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate on 08.10.1987. The Investigating Officer took the two accused-appellants on remand and interrogated them, during which they stated that they could lead to the recovery of the head of the deceased. The Investigating Officer accompanied the accused-appellants to the place where they claimed the head of the deceased could be recovered. However, the head of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, could not be recovered from the place shown by the accused-appellants. Thereafter, completing and preparing all the formalities of the investigation and preparing other police papers, such as, panchayatnama, etc., the Investigating Officer sent the dead body of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, for conducting post mortem examination. Thereafter, after completing all the formalities of the investigation, recording the statements of the witnesses, the Investigating Officer filed charge-sheet under Sections 302/201/307 and 120B IPC against the accused-appellants in the court of Magistrate concerned. According to the post mortem report of the deceased Ram Kunwar, Exhibit Ka-19, following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased :

"1. Gunshot wound of entry in an area of 3 cm x 2 cm cavity deep sterni on the wound inverted. Sterni whole of the skin colour has changed to black blueish. Nothing can be said regarding charring and blackening of the skin on the wound. The colour has changed on the wound of putrefaction. The wound is over the left side of front of chest 6 cm below the left clavicle.

2. Gunshot wound of entry in an area of 1.5 cm x 1.5 cm x cavity deep on the left side of chest 6 cm below. The injury no. 1 with skin round the wound with inverted margins. Nothing can be said regarding blackening and charring of the wound because of putrefaction changes leading to black coloured of skin.

3. Gunshot wound of entry 7 cm x 3 cm on the right side chest 8 cm below the axilla. The margins of the wound is inverted and cavity deep. No opinion can be given regarding blackening and charring of the wound skin.

4. Gunshot wound of exit of 8.5 cm x 6.5 cm on the right side back of chest in the middle with everted margins of the wound. No opinion can be given regarding charring and blackening of the wound.

5. Neck and face absent from the body just above the 4th cervical vertebra with cut margin wound which has separated the neck from the body round the whole neck circumference (30 cm x 8 cm).

6. Whole of the toes of the left leg (all five) absent from the leg appear to be eaten by the insects and wild animals.

7. Left hand below the left elbow found burned has appearing charred.

8. Whole of the organ inside the chest cavity are eaten away by the wild animals."

6. Injured Km. Veerum was also examined by Dr. S.N. Verma on 28.09.1987 and following injury was found on her body :

"Gunshot wound on left hand palm Ant. 4 fingers. Index, middle, IIIrd and little fingers. Ant. Multiple injury."

7. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, hence learned concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial.

8. Learned Trial Court framed charges against the accused-appellants Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal on 15.03.1988 under Sections 302, 201 and 324 IPC. Learned Trial Court also framed charges against the accused-appellant Balistor on 15.03.1988 under Section 302/34, 201 and 324/34 IPC. The accused-appellants denied the charges levelled against them and claimed trial.

9. In support of its case, prosecution adduced informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1), Khandey Singh (PW-2), Prem Pal (PW-3), Sansar Singh (PW-4), Rajendra Singh (PW-5), Anwar (PW-6), Ashfaq (PW-7) and Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8). Apart from the ocular evidence, prosecution also relied on documentary evidence, such as, from Exhibit Ka-1 to Ka-22.

10. Prosecution witnesses were examined before the trial Court and their statements were recorded. After recording the prosecution evidence, Trial Court examined the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellants in their examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. have denied from the questions put before them. They expressed ignorance about the questions that were read before them. They have also stated that they were unaware of the questions put up to them. In addition to the above, accused-appellant, Mahesh, has stated that due to enmity, witnesses have given evidence against him. He also stated that he had no enmity with Ram Kunwar but had enmity with Vinod. Accused-appellant, Virpal, had also stated that due to enmity, witnesses have given evidence against him and due to enmity, case was filed against him. The accused-appellants, Naresh and Balistor, have stated that due to enmity, case was registered against them and due to enmity, witnesses had given evidence against them. In this way, all accused-appellants have expressed ignorance about the questions and facts which were put up to them under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in their statements.

11. The accused-appellants have examined Onkar Gupta, Head Copyist as DW-1 in their defence.

12. Learned Trial Court after recording the evidence of the prosecution and defence and after hearing the arguments of both sides, delivered judgment and order dated 02.05.1989 against the accused-appellants. Learned Trial Court held the accused-appellants, Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal, guilty under Section 302 IPC and accused-appellant, Balistor, under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced them for life imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 2000/- each. In default of payment of the fine, they all were directed to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year. The accused-appellants were also held guilty under Section 201 IPC and sentenced them for two years rigorous imprisonment. The accused-appellants were also held guilty under Section 324/34 IPC and they were also sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for one year.

13. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 02.05.1989 of the learned Trial Court, the accused-appellants have preferred these criminal appeals before this Court.

14. We have heard the arguments of learned Counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the respondent/State. We have gone through all oral and documentary evidences and also perused the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 02.05.1989 passed by learned Trial Court.

15. Learned Counsel appearing for the accused-appellants submitted that incident occurred on 27.09.1987 at 09:45 P.M. and the F.I.R. was lodged on 28.09.1987 at 02:00 A.M. after a delay of about four hours. From the place of occurrence, Village Basera, distance of police station was only six kms., however, the informant lodged the written report after deliberation and with due afterthought, falsely implicating all the accused-appellants in the present case. It is also submitted that the accused-appellants had no enmity with the deceased, Ram Kunwar. All the prosecution□s eyewitnesses are family members of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, making them related witnesses. The other prosecution witnesses, Anwar (PW-6) and Ashfaq (PW-7), are helpers of the prosecution in supporting its case. They have falsely given evidence against the accused-appellants under pressure of the prosecution. It is also submitted on behalf of the accused-appellants that there are major and material contradictions in the evidence of the eye-witnesses of the prosecution, which shake the veracity of the prosecution story. However, learned Trial Court has not considered and kept in mind these major and material contradictions in giving the finding and reasoning against the accused-appellants. There was no motive on the part of the accused-appellants to commit the murder of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, but they have been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. Learned Trial Court has not considered this major aspect in delivering the judgment and order of conviction and sentence against the accused-appellants. The finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court are based on surmises and conjectures and not supported by any reliable evidence and are against the settled principle of law. By the above arguments, learned Counsel for the accused-appellants have submitted that the accused-appellants are innocent but the learned Trial Court wrongly appreciating the evidence has convicted them in the alleged commission of the crime. In this way, it is submitted that the judgment and order dated 02.05.1989 passed by the learned Trial Court is liable to be set aside. Hence, criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants are liable to be allowed.

16. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State submitted that there is no delay in lodging the written report and registration of the F.I.R. against the accused-appellants. The eye-witnesses of the prosecution have seen the commission of the crime by the accused persons with their own eyes in the light of petromax lamps and by their torches. All the accused-appellants have been named in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. After commission of the alleged crime, all accused had absconded from their home. The Investigating Officer tried to arrest them but he was unsuccessful in doing so. Ultimately, the accused-appellants surrendered before the Court of Chief Judicial Magistrate. The informant and other prosecution witnesses of the facts have seen occurrence of the incident with their own eyes. All the eye-witnesses of the prosecution have fully supported the prosecution story by their reliable and credible evidence in the Court. Learned Trial Court found ocular and documentary evidence of the prosecution as reliable and trustworthy and held the accused-appellants guilty for the commission of the crime. Learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in proper and judicious perspective and rightly convicted the accused-appellants. There is no perversity and illegality in the finding and reasoning given by the learned Trial Court. Hence, criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellants are devoid of merits and are liable to be dismissed.

17. In the light of the rival submissions advanced by learned Counsel for the parties, we have perused the written report. From a perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is revealed that all accused-appellants have been named specifically with their role played by them and also the murder weapon, which they have held in their hands. According to the written report, the incident had occurred in the night of 27.09.1987 at 09:45 P.M. Informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) has lodged written report at the concerned police station and on the basis of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, F.I.R., Exhibit Ka-4, was registered on 28.09.1987 at 02:00 A.M. in the night itself. The distance between the place of incident and the police station Kundarki is six kms. When we see the horrifying and cruel manner in which accused-appellants had committed the alleged crime in the night in the light of petromax lamps and torches, we find that there is no delay or connection in lodging the written report by informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1). We also find that there is no afterthought in lodging the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. In view of the above fact and situation, it is clear that there is no delay in lodging the written report and registering the F.I.R. at the concerned police station against the accused-appellants, hence we find no force in the arguments of learned Counsel for the parties on this point.

18. We have gone through the evidence of informant Rohtash @ Chhotey (PW-1), who is real brother of deceased Ram Kunwar, and found that he is an eye-witness of the incident and he stated the same things in his evidence as was stated by him in his written report, Exhibit Ka-1. In his examination-in-chief, this witness has stated that "it was 09:45 P.M. at night. The deceased after listening Akhand Ramayan Path in the temple was going to home. I, along with my father Ramphal Singh, were also going with him. The deceased was my real brother. The deceased was 3-4 steps ahead. When we reached near southern wall of Khairati's house, then there accused Mahesh, Naresh @ Chhote, Virpal and Balistor met us. Virpal is uncle of Mahesh and Naresh; and Naresh is cousin of Mahesh. Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal had guns and Balistor had country-made pistol. They surrounded my brother Ram Kunwar. I, my father and my brother Ram Kunwar made a hue and cry. Prem Pal Singh, Khandey Singh and Kishan Pal Singh came. I and other witnesses had torch. My father was also carrying a torch, and all the torches were lit, providing sufficient light. Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal had collectively fired upon Ram Kunwar. Due to which, he sustained injury and died there. Balistor holding country-made pistol in his hand continuously intimidating us. Again Balistor said that make the dead body disappear. After this, accused fired in the air and dragged the dead body of my brother and carried away. By the fire in the air, Km. Veerum, daughter of Jaswant Singh, had also received pellets injury. We all saw the whole incident in the light of torch. I had carried my torch today which I had at the time of incident.

19. About motive of the incident, informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey has stated in his examination-in-chief that "accused Mahesh before 2-2" years of this incident had registered a case against my brother in respect of eloping his sister Suman with my brother. It was enmity of accused with my brother. All the four accused are present in Court. My brother was wearing a light checked shirt with red lines, a white waist-cloth (tahmad), underwear with green lining, and plastic shoes without laces. The dead body of my brother was found after six days in the sugar-cane field of Nazruddin in the jungle of Majholi. The head of the dead body was severed. We identified from clothes, shoes and by his body that this dead body is of my brother."

20. In his cross-examination by defence, informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) has stated that "name of father of accused Mahesh is Rajpal. I do not know whether Rajpal had lodged a case against Vinod in respect of Suman for the case under Section 498 IPC on 30.11.1986 or not. Mahesh had lodged a report against four persons in respect of eloping his sister. This report was written against the deceased Ram Kunwar, Rashid, Santosh and Vinod. Except Ram Kunwar, rest three persons are alive.

21. In the same way, eye-witnesses Khandey Singh (PW-2) has also stated in his evidence that it was 09:45 P.M. at night. I was at temple. In our village, Akhand Ramayan Path was being recited. I heard a noise near the temple coming from the southern wall of Khairati s house. On hearing it, Kishan Pal, Prem Pal Singh and other villagers ran towards that. Km. Veerum, daughter of Jaswant Singh, too ran towards that. This witness has also stated in his evidence that all the prosecution witnesses had torches and all of them were lit. This witness further stated that I saw, in the light of my torch and the torches of others, that the accused Mahesh, Naresh, Virpal, and Balistor were surrounding Ram Kunwar. Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal had guns and Balistor had country-made pistol. Three persons, holding guns, fired at Ram Kunwar together. He fell down there and died. Balistor with country-made pistol was threatening us there. Balistor said that make the dead body disappear and they dragged the dead body in western direction. Before this, they had fired in the air. Due to which, Km. Veerum sustained injuries. The accused persons are of my village. I know them before.

22. In cross-examination, Khandey Singh stated that I secured bail for Ram Kunwar in case of Section 366/376 IPC. His father Ramphal had called me for his bail. Name of my father is Man Singh and my grandfather name is Niranjan Singh. Niranjan Singh had two sons, Pan Singh and Buddhi Singh. Ramphal is son of Buddhi Singh and Ram Kunwar is son of Ramphal. At the time of incident, I was attending the Ramayan Path. I arrived at the spot, upon hearing Ram Kunwar s commotion, before any firing occurred. In Ramayan program, three gas petromax lamps were lit."

23. Prem Pal is PW-3 but he has not supported the prosecution case and he was declared hostile on the request of the prosecution. However, from the perusal of the evidence of this witness, this fact is revealed and established that on the day of incident, there was reciting of Akhand Ramayan at the temple. This witness was also present there; he had also heard noise from the southern wall of Khairati s house. On hearing it, this witness along with other witnesses including Km. Veerum, daughter of Jaswant, came to the spot. There were people standing there. From the statement of this witness, happening of the incident and fact of reciting of Akhand Ramayan at the temple and coming of the noise of hue and cry are proved and testified.

24. Prosecution produced Anwar as PW-6. He has also supported the prosecution story. This witness has stated in his evidence the same statement as were stated by the informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2). He is a witness of recovery of plain soil and bloodstained soil, Exhibits Ka-6 and Ka-7. The fact with regard to aforesaid recovery has been proved by this witness in his cross-examination. He has also stated that "I had not told to Rohtash that I had also seen dragging of the dead body because Rohtash was himself present there and he had saw me. First of all, I had told these things to daroga that I had seen the accused dragging and carrying away the dead body. Balistor was walking 1-2 steps behind them. Balistor had fired 3-4 shots in the air when they were carrying away the dead body. Thus, from the evidence of Anwar (PW-6), prosecution story has also found support and corroboration. The role of accused-appellants have also been stated by this witness. In the same way as was stated by the informant Rohtash

Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2). Thus, we find the evidence of this witness as relevant and trustworthy in respect of the prosecution story.

25. Prosecution produced Ashfaq as PW-7. From the perusal of the evidence of this witness, it appears that he had stated and verified the fact that the accused-appellants, Virpal, Mahesh, and Naresh, were carrying away the dead body of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, while Balistor was 2□3 steps behind them, firing shots into the air. All of them were going towards west. During the course of cross-examination by the defence, this witness had also stated that "I had not told to Rohtash that I had also seen dragging and carrying away the dead body of the deceased because Rohtash was also present there. First of all, I had told about this to daroga. I had stated that all four accused were holding and dragging the dead body while carrying it away. From the perusal of the evidence of this witness Ashfaq (PW-7), we find that prosecution story has also found support from the statement of this witness as given by him in the Court.

26. Thus, from the perusal and discussions of the evidence of the informant, Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1), and Khandey Singh (PW-2), we find that these witnesses are although related to the deceased, Ram Kunwar, but they are eye-witnesses of the occurrence, who have seen the happening of the whole occurrence with their own eyes.

27. From the perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, we find that informant, Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) himself scribed the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, in which he described the incident, naming all the accused and specifying the roles played by each, in very simple and natural words. There is no embellishment, exaggeration, concoction in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. Apart from this, although informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2), who is related with his brother Ram Kunwar, have also stated and narrated the happening of the incident and roles played by each of the accused in very simple and natural language without any exaggeration, embellishment and concoction. At the time of happening of the incident, it was 09:45 P.M. and deceased with his brother informant Rohtash Singh and father Ramphal were returning from listening the reciting of Akhand Ramayan at the temple, in the way, accused-appellants appeared near the outer southern wall of Khairati□s house and surrounded the deceased, Ram Kunwar. Accused-appellants Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal had guns in their hands and accused Balistor had country-made pistol in his hand. The accused-appellants, Mahesh, Naresh and Virpal together fired shot from their guns at deceased Ram Kunwar, who died at the spot and accused Balistor holding country-made pistol in his hand was threatening to the people so that no person could come forward and save the life of deceased, Ram Kunwar. After committing the murder of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, the accused-appellants were not satisfied with their criminal act; they also dragged his dead body by tightening a shun rope around his waist and carried it away. In the jungle of Majholi, they severed the head of the deceased from his body and thrown the same away at a place from where despite pointing out of the accused-appellants, Investigating Officer could not recover the head of the dead body of the deceased, Ram Kunwar. However, except head, dead body of the deceased was recovered on 04.10.1987 from the sugar-cane field of Nazruddin, resident of Majholi. The dead body of the deceased was identified by informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2) as dead body of Ram Kunwar from the clothes, shoes and from other articles. The commission of the crime and carrying away the dead body of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, by dragging and severing the head from rest of his body shows that the accused-appellants have committed the crime with full preparation and with intention to kill him in a very horrifying, cruel and brutal manner.

28. Although the informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) is real brother of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, and Khandey Singh (PW-2) is family member of the deceased and they are the eye-witnesses of the incident, who have seen the whole occurrence with their own eyes, thus, testimony of the above eye-witnesses is fully credible that inspire full confidence. We find that evidence of Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2) are wholly reliable. There is no major and material contradictions by which evidence of these witnesses could be rejected and doubted. Prosecution witnesses Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2) supported and corroborated the evidence of the Anwar (PW-6) and Ashfaq (PW-7). Likewise, Anwar (PW-6) and Ashfaq (PW-7) also corroborated the evidence of prosecution witnesses Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2).

29. No person or family member of the victim could falsely implicate an innocent individual in a crime as serious as murder while excluding the real culprit who committed the offence. In other words, family members of the victim always desire that name of the real culprit must be written in the F.I.R. and real culprit must be punished according to provisions of the law. In this case, there is no ground or circumstance of this nature by which this fact could be revealed that prosecution and eye-witnesses of the case have falsely implicated the accused-appellants for commission of the crime.

30. It is a settled principle of law that the evidence of a related witness cannot be rejected or doubted merely on the ground of their relationship.

31. The Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki And Another; (1981) 2 SCC 752, has held in paragraph no.7 that:

"7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W.1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W.1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents."

32. The Supreme Court in G. Laxmanna And Others v. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2002) 8 SCC 333, has held in paragraph no.10 on the point of related witness that:

"10. The mere fact that the prosecution witnesses are related to each other does not impress us, having regard to their natural presence and the consistency in their evidence. After all the deceased were also related to the witnesses as they belonged to the same family."

33. Although at the time of the incident, the informant, Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey, brother of the deceased Ram Kunwar, his father Ramphal, and several other people, including other prosecution witnesses, were present, the accused-appellants were armed with deadly weapons, like guns and country-made pistols, and their conduct was extremely horrifying and cruel. For this reason, no person, including Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and the other prosecution witnesses, dared to intervene or save the life of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, from the brutal acts of the accused. On this ground only, it could not be said that informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1), Khandey Singh (PW-2), Anwar (PW-6) and Ashfaq (PW-7) are not the eye-witnesses of the incident.

34. The Supreme Court in Sucha Singh And Another v. State of Punjab; (2003) 7 SCC 643, has held in paragraph no. 23 on the point of related witness that:

"23. So far as inaction of PWs 9 and 10 in not coming to rescue of deceased is concerned, it has been noted by the trial Court and the High Court that both of them were unarmed and bare handed and the accused persons were armed with deadly weapons. How a person would react in a situation like this cannot be encompassed by any rigid formula. It would depend on many factors, like in the present case where witnesses are unarmed, but the assailants are armed with deadly weapons. In a given case instinct of self-preservation can be the dominant instinct. That being the position, their inaction in not coming to rescue of the deceased cannot be a ground for discarding their evidence."

35. Motive assigned for the commission of the crime by the prosecution is that the deceased Ram Kunwar, participated in eloping of Suman, sister of the accused Mahesh. For this incident, a report was lodged against the deceased, Ram Kunwar, Rashid, Santosh and Vinod. Khandey Singh (PW-2) has also accepted in his cross-examination that □I had taken bail as a surety of Ram Kunwar in the case under Section 366/376 IPC.□

36. The Investigating Officer, Chandra Bhan Shukla (PW-8), has stated in his cross-examination that □I had not collected any evidence in respect of motive, however, I had seen that a case was registered against the deceased under Sections 366/376 IPC and he was on bail. I had not read over the F.I.R. registered under Sections 366/376 IPC but that case was registered at register no. 4 in which in the column of the accused, name of the deceased Ram Kunwar was written.□

37. Thus, from the above facts, circumstances, and evidence discussed in this respect, it is revealed that the accused-appellants had a strong motive for the commission of the offence. Since the deceased, Ram Kunwar, was allegedly involved in the elopement of Suman, sister of the accused Mahesh, with another person, it is amply established that the accused-appellants harboured a strong motive against the deceased, Ram Kunwar, which impelled them to commit the crime. Due to this motive, the accused-appellants with full preparation and intention had committed the crime in a brutal, horrifying and in a very cruel manner and tried to disappear the dead body of the deceased with intention to screen the evidence. Thus, the prosecution story is further corroborated by the established motive of the accused-appellants for the commission of the offence.

38. From the perusal of the post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19, it appears that genuineness of the post mortem report has been admitted by the defence on 05.12.1988. After admitting the genuineness of the post mortem report of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, it was exhibited as Exhibit Ka-19. Although in the trial Court, the doctor, who conducted the post mortem examination of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, has not been examined by the trial Court since defence has admitted the genuineness of the post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19. Due to this reason, post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19, shall be legally read as evidence. From the perusal of the post mortem report of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, we find that the deceased, Ram Kunwar, has sustained as many as eight injuries. Injury nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 are the gunshot injuries, which are located on his vital part of the body and injury nos. 5, 6, 7 and 8 are also on the vital part of his body. The injuries which are eight in numbers of the dead body of the deceased corroborate the evidence of the eye-witness of the prosecution, informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2). The written report, Exhibit Ka-1, and evidence of informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhotey (PW-1) and Khandey Singh (PW-2) find support and corroboration from the injuries as found in the post mortem report of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, Exhibit Ka-19. In other words, evidence of the informant Rohtash Singh @ Chhote and Khandey Singh (PW-2) found corroboration from the medical evidence as written in post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19, of the deceased, Ram Kunwar. Thus injuries as found according to the post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19, on the dead body of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, found full support from the ocular evidence of the prosecution witnesses. In this way, the ocular evidence of the prosecution witnesses and the post-mortem report, Exhibit Ka-19, of the deceased, Ram Kunwar, corroborate and support each other, thereby proving and establishing the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. Although injured Km. Veerum, daughter of Jaswant, who has also sustained gunshot injury and according to her injury report, Exhibit Ka-22, it appears that due to fear of the accused-appellants, she avoided to appear in the Court as a witness to give her evidence but the gunshot injuries which were found on her body also corroborate and support the prosecution story and horrifying criminal act of the accused-appellants.

39. From perusal of the judgment and order of the learned trial Court dated 02.05.1989, we find that trial Court has well discussed the prosecution evidence including the oral and documentary and based its finding and reasoning on cogent and reliable evidence. The finding and reasoning as recorded by the learned trial Court is based on cogent and reliable evidence. The finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court is based on settled principle of law of evidence. The finding and reasoning of the trial Court are fully supported by the settled principles of law in this respect. The trial Court minutely perused and discussed all the relevant evidence, appreciated it in the right and proper perspective, and based its finding on cogent and reliable evidence. Thus, we find that there is no perversity or illegality in the finding and reasoning as recorded in the judgment and order of learned Trial Court. Thus, from the above discussions, we find no force in the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the accused-appellants in this respect.

40. In the light of above discussions, we find no merit in the criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants. Hence, we find criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants devoid of merits and are liable to be dismissed.

41. In the result, the criminal appeals are dismissed. The impugned judgment passed by the learned Vth Additional District and Sessions Judge, Moradabad is affirmed. The appellants, Balistor, Mahesh and Naresh are on bail. Their personal bonds stand cancelled and their sureties are discharged. They are directed to surrender before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad within a period of fifteen days. In the event of default, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad shall issue a non-bailable warrant to secure their arrest to undergo the sentence.

42. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad is directed to intimate this Court regarding compliance of this order.

43. Let a copy of this judgment along with the Trial Court record be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith for compliance.

THE HON'BLE SANJIV KUMAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1089 of 1985

Veer Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to conviction for offence punishable under S. 376 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860, whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, effect of delay in lodging the FIR, discrepancies in the statements of the first informant and the victim, evidentiary value of the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, effect of hostile testimony of an eye-witness, absence of corroboration by medical evidence, non-explanation of injuries sustained by the accused, defective investigation, proof of age of the victim, appreciation of evidence on record. (Paras 26-48).

Headnotes

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Rape - Delay in lodging FIR - Minor inconsistencies in statements of witnesses - Effect - For an offence like this, the prestige and honour of an unmarried girl of a family is at stake and therefore they hesitate in lodging the FIR - If there is some delay, then it may not be a ground to raise doubt over the prosecution case - Minor inconsistencies in the statements of the first informant and the victim with regard to when the FIR was lodged have no adverse effect over the prosecution case. (Paras 28-32).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Rape - Evidence of prosecutrix - Corroboration - Conviction can be sustained on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it inspires confidence - There is no rule of law that the evidence of the prosecutrix cannot be relied upon without corroboration - Corroboration is not a sine qua non for conviction in a rape case - Where the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity and the probabilities factor does not render it unworthy of credence, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except on medical evidence where, having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming - Testimony of the victim in such cases is vital and where her testimony inspires confidence and is found to be reliable, the Court may act on such testimony alone. (Paras 34-36).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Rape - Resistance by victim - Absence of injuries - Effect - A rustic village girl of tender age, overpowered by the accused, and out of fear and helplessness, if she did not offer any resistance or cause any injury to the accused, then merely this by itself would not render her testimony unreliable - Estimation of time and duration by a minor and illiterate victim may not be precise and accurate - Even slight penetration is sufficient to prove offence of rape - Consistent, trustworthy and reliable testimony of the victim of sterling quality with no major contradictions with regard to the incident establishes the prosecution case. (Paras 37-38).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Rape - Medical evidence - Absence of injury - Intact hymen - No spermatozoa - Effect - Rape is a crime and not a medical condition - Rape is a legal term and not a diagnosis to be made by the medical officer - Whether rape has occurred or not is a legal conclusion, not a medical one - Neither the non-rupture of hymen nor absence of injury to the private parts belies the testimony of the prosecutrix - Opinion of the doctor that no rape appeared to have been committed, based only on absence of rupture of the hymen and absence of injuries on the private parts, cannot throw out otherwise cogent and trustworthy evidence of the prosecutrix - Medical opinion having no material significance where the statement of the victim is otherwise found reliable, trustworthy and of sterling quality. (Paras 39-40).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Age of victim - Medical and oral evidence - Evidence of the victim, father and medical evidence - Epiphysis of elbow fused whereas epiphysis of radius and ulna at wrist had not fused - Medical opinion placing age between 12-14 years - No contrary evidence or suggestion regarding age - Victim established to be minor and aged about 14 years at the time of incident. (Para 41).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Defective investigation - Recovery of salwar - Non-sending for chemical examination - Effect - Failure to send the salwar for chemical examination amounts to defective investigation - If the prosecution case is proved otherwise, defective investigation would not be a ground to disbelieve the prosecution case. (Para 42).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Hostile witness - Evidentiary value - Statement of a hostile witness shall not outrightly be rejected in totality - That portion of the statement can be relied upon which is in support of prosecution and finds corroboration from other evidence - Testimony of the hostile witness corroborating the place of occurrence and the victim coming out of the field weeping relied upon. (Paras 43-44).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Circumstantial corroboration - Broken bangles - Place of occurrence - Recovery of broken pieces of bangles from the place of occurrence further corroborates the prosecution case that the victim's bangles may have been broken in her struggle at the time of incident - Place of occurrence fully established. (Para 45).

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Injuries on accused - Non-explanation - Defence version - Though fourteen injuries to the accused were established by medical report, there was no evidence that these injuries were caused during the incident - Defence did not adduce evidence in support of its version - Non-explanation of injuries of the accused had no adverse effect over the prosecution case. (Para 33).

Held: The burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt - delay in lodging the FIR and minor inconsistencies in the statements of the first informant and the victim have no adverse effect on the prosecution case - the testimony of the prosecutrix, if it inspires confidence, is sufficient for conviction and corroboration is not a sine qua non - the testimony of the victim is consistent, trustworthy, reliable and of sterling quality - absence of resistance or injuries to the accused does not render her testimony unreliable - even slight penetration is sufficient to prove offence of rape - the statement of the victim cannot be disbelieved merely because of absence of conclusive medical evidence, non-rupture of hymen or absence of injury to private parts - the statement of a hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports and finds corroboration with the prosecution case - broken bangles corroborate the prosecution case and establish the place of occurrence - defective investigation is not a ground to disbelieve an otherwise proved prosecution case - injuries sustained by the accused need not be explained in the absence of evidence connecting them with the incident - the victim was established to be a minor aged about 14 years - the prosecution proved the charge under S. 376 IPC beyond reasonable doubt - the Trial Court correctly appreciated the evidence and reached the conclusion of guilt - the appeal was dismissed and the conviction and sentence were affirmed. (Paras 26-48). (E-7)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This Criminal Appeal, under Section 374 (2) of Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short 'Cr.P.C.'), has been filed by the appellant Veer Singh against the impugned judgment and order dated 22.04.1985, passed by Sri Y. S. Raizada, the then III Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad, in Sessions Trial No. 55 of 1984, arising out of Case Crime No. 36 of 1983, under Section 376 Indian Penal Code,1860 (in short IPC), Police Station Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned Trial Court convicted the appellant for offence punishable under Section 376 IPC and sentenced him to undergo seven years' rigorous imprisonment .

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the first informant Hardwari, son of Naubat Kumhaar, resident of Bakhrawa, Police Station Modi Nagar, Ghaziabad, gave a written application, dated 16.01.1983 (Ext. Ka-1), before In-charge Police Station, Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, stating therein that on 15.01.1983, as usual his daughter (hereinafter referred to as 'victim'), aged about 14 years, had gone to the forest of Vidhyapur to cut green fodder. It was alleged that at about 11:00 a.m., Veer Singh, son of Lakhan Singh, forcibly caught hold of his daughter and took her into Ranjit Singh's sugarcane field, and committed rape upon her. Upon hearing his daughter's cries, Prakash son of Thawaria and Battu son of Aedli, his co-villagers, reached at the spot and witnessed the incident. Upon seeing them, the appellant fled from the spot. It was further stated that on previous day, he had gone to take a bath in river Ganges and upon returning the following day, he came to know about the incident. It was further stated that he had brought his daughter and Veer Singh alongwith co-villagers Aedli, Prakash and Datey Ram to the Police Station to lodge the report.

4. Upon this information, FIR under Section 376 IPC, was lodged at Police Station Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad and the investigation of the case was entrusted to S.I. Hukum Chand (P.W.6). The Investigating Officer commenced investigation and recorded the statement of the first informant and other witnesses. He recovered pieces of broken bangles from the place of occurrence and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-7). He also took into possession the trousers (salwar) of the victim, having some white spot, which appeared like semen and was encircled by a red pencil. He prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-5). The victim was medically examined and in her internal examination, injury on private part was found. Hymen was found intact with bruise at 3 o'clock position red and tender. The appellant was also medically examined and there were 14 injuries found over his body. In vaginal smear of the victim, no spermatozoa was found.

5. The Investigating Officer, after collecting evidence, filed charge-sheet under Section 376/511 IPC before the Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad, who took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. The accused was furnished copy of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Session for trial. The concerned Court of Session framed charge under Section 376 IPC against the appellant to which he pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

6. The prosecution has examined seven witnesses to prove its case, to wit, Hardwari, the first informant and father of the victim (P.W.1); the victim (P.W.2); Prakash (P.W.3); Dr. Gyandndra Kumar (P.W4.); Head Constable Than Singh, who scribed the chik FIR (P.W.5); S.I. Hukum Chand (P.W.6) and Dr. Kanak Lata Joshi (P.W.7).

7. P.W.1 Hardwari is the father of the victim, who in his examination-in-chief has deposed that on the date of incident, his daughter, the victim, as usual had gone to bring green fodder, then the appellant Veer Singh took her in Ranjeet Singh's sugarcane field and committed rape upon her. He further deposed that Prakash and Battu witnessed the incident, whereupon Veer Singh fled from the spot. He further said that he had gone to river Ganges to take bath and returned in the evening and then came to know about the incident. The victim had told this incident to her mother, who subsequently told it to him. The next day, he, along with Prakash and Datey as well as the appellant, went to the Police Station to lodge the report. The witness has proved the written application as Ext. Ka-1.

8. In cross-examination, P.W.1 has said that before going to the Police Station, he had held conversation with Prakash and Battu. The next day, he went to the Police Station. The Constables had reached the village to take Veer Singh along with the Inspector. Veer Singh was caught and he himself accompanied him. The Policemen reached the village after 12 noon. He denied the suggestion that he, Prakash and others had beaten Veer Singh. At about 11:00 p.m., he returned from the hospital.

9. P.W.2 is the victim herself, who has supported the prosecution case and has said that about two years ago at about 12 noon, as usual she had gone to jungle to bring grass, when the appellant Veer Singh took her forcibly in a sugarcane field of Ranjeet and committed rape upon her. She further deposed that she cried a lot, then Prakash and Battu reached there. Thereafter, Veer Singh left her and fled from the spot. She further deposed that at the time of incident, she was aged about 14 years and it was Prakash and Battu, who took her to her house, where she narrated the entire incident to her mother. Her father had gone to take a bath in river Ganges and had returned at about 01:00 p.m.

10. In cross-examination, P.W.2 has said that she had gone alone to bring grass and the place of occurrence is about one kos (approximately 3.2 kilometers) from her village. She further testified that the appellant dragged her to Ranjeet's field. She did not hit the appellant or committed assault upon him. She also did not sustain any injury. She remained in Ranjeet's field for about half an hour. Thereafter, she came out from the field carrying her bundle (gathri). Prakash had entered in sugarcane field and saw the appellant, but Battu had not seen him. She testified that the appellant had committed rape upon her for about half an hour. The blood would have dropped on the ground, but she did not know about it. She deposed that she felt pain. Her father took her to the Police Station in the evening. She told the incident to her mother soon after she reached at her house and thereafter told her father about the incident in the evening. The Police came from Police Station and took Veer Singh. The Police or his father or any villager had not assaulted Veer Singh. She denied the suggestion that she had cut mustard crop and, upon complaint by Munnu and Veer Singh at her house, Veer Singh was beaten and was falsely implicated in this case.

11. P.W.3 Prakash is the eye-witness of the incident. He has turned hostile and said that he did not see any incident. He said that he saw the victim coming out of the field weeping and did not see any other person, except the victim. In cross-examination he has said that he along with Battu entered in the sugarcane field, but did not find Veer Singh there.

12. P.W.4, Dr. Gyanendra Kumar, Radiologist, is a formal witness, who has conducted x-ray of the victim, which he proved as Ext. Ka-2. P.W.4 said that the epiphysis of elbow had fused, however, the epiphysis of the radius and ulna at the wrist had not fused. In cross-examination, P.W.4 deposed that epiphysis of elbow normally fuses at the age of 16 years and fusion of epiphysis of wrists takes place at the age of 19 years.

13. P.W.5 Head Constable Than Singh is also a formal witness, who scribed chik FIR and entered its gist in G.D. No. 36 at 13:30, the same day, which he proved as Exts. Ka-3 and Ka-4 respectively. In cross-examination, he has said that the appellant was given first-aid by a compounder, as the doctor was not available. In G.D., the injuries sustained by the appellant were not entered.

14. P.W.6, S.I. Hukum Chand, is the Investigating Officer of the case. He has deposed about the investigation carried out by him and said that he recorded statements of the witnesses, the victim, and collected three pieces of broken bangles from the place of occurrence and also collected a salwar from the victim and prepared its recovery memo and thereafter, he submitted the chargesheet in the Court. He has denied the suggestion that, he had not recorded the statement of the victim.

15. P.W.7 Dr. Kanak Lata Joshi, is also a formal witness, who has medically examined the victim on 16.01.1983 at 08:30 p.m. She deposed that she did not find any mark of injury over her private parts. Hymen was found intact and there was one bruise at 3 o'clock position red and tender. There was no blood. She could not give any opinion that the rape was committed upon the victim. She opined the age of the victim between 12 to 14 years. She further testified that in further test, no spermatozoa was found in the specimen. In cross-examination, she has said that if a person of 20 or 22 years would have committed rape upon the victim, then it is possible that hymen may not remain intact, but sometimes it may remains intact. She admitted that she had added the word □with bruise at 3 o□clock position red and tender□ in view of x-ray report, lateron.

16. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of appellant Veer Singh was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which, he denied the prosecution case and has said that the witnesses have given evidence against him under the pressure of police and they are of the same house. He further said that the recovery regarding the three pieces of broken bangles and salwar of the victim were fake. He further said that on 16.01.1983, Munnu and he himself had gone to Hardwari's house to raise a complaint regarding cutting of mustard crop from his field, thereupon, they assaulted him and called police and got him arrested.

17. In defence, the appellant has examined D.W.1 Dr. Murari Pandey, Medical Officer, State District Hospital, who stated that on 17.01.1983 at about 10:00 a.m., he medically examined Veer Singh and found following injuries over his body:

(ii) Lacerated wound 2.6 cm x 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm to the back of left ear.

(iii) Contusion 5 cm x 3 cm at the right of forehead above the temple.

(iv) Six contusions of brownish and reddish colour 1.5 cm x 3.5 cm over the back of both sides.

(v) Three abraded contusion 2 cm x 1 cm to 2 cm x 6 cm to the left of back and one in the middle and one to the right of back.

(vi) Contusion reddish and brownish in colour 5.5 cm x 3 cm over right shoulder.

(vii) Abrasion 1.7 cm x 1.5 cm over left shoulder.

(x) Abraded contusion 4.5 cm x 2 cm in the front of upper part of the right arm.

(xi) Abrasion 2 x 1 cm to the inner part and near elbow of the right forearm.

(xii) Contusion reddish and brownish in colour 8 cm x 2 cm to the outer and upper part of right thigh.

(xiii) Abrasion 1.7 cm x 1.2 cm to the front and middle part of the left thigh.

(xiv) Two abrasion .2 cm x .15 cm and 2 cm x 1 cm to the front and middle part of the left leg.

18. D.W.1 said that injury no.1 to 6, 9, 10 and 12 were caused by any blunt object and injury nos. 7 to 9, 11, 13, 14 were caused by friction. All the injuries were simple in nature and about one day old. The injured was brought by Constable Balvir Singh of the Police Station Modi Nagar. The witness has proved injury report as Ext. Kha-1. In cross-examination, he has said that he has not written about the general condition of the injured in his injury report.

19. The Trial Court after hearing arguments of both the parties and upon a perusal of evidence on record, came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and it is proved that the appellant had committed rape upon the victim and accordingly, the appellant was convicted and sentenced for the offence punishable under Section 376 IPC for the term as indicted above.

20. Heard Mr. Prayogendra Pal Singh, learned counsel for the appellant, Mr. Rajiv Pandey, learned AGA for the State and perused the trial court record.

21. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that there is inordinate delay in lodging the FIR and no sufficient explanation has been given by the prosecution, which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case and false implication of the appellant in this case cannot be ruled out. It is further submitted that there are major contradictions in the statement of P.W.1 Hardwari, the father of the prosecutrix and P.W.2, the victim herself.

22. Learned counsel for the appellant next submits that as per the prosecution case, there were two eye-witnesses of the alleged incident and the prosecution has only examined Prakash as P.W.3, even he has not supported the prosecution case. The other eye-witness has not been examined, therefore, an adverse inference ought to be drawn against the prosecution case. It is also submitted that the oral testimony of the prosecutrix is not supported by medical evidence, which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case.

23. Learned counsel for the appellant next submitted that the appellant sustained fourteen injuries and no explanation has been given regarding these injuries, which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case. It is also contended that the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case for the reason that on 16.01.1983, he had gone along with Munnu at first informant's house to raise a complaint of harvesting the mustard crop and there they were beaten and after calling the Police, they were lodged in the lock up. Therefore, it is argued that the Trial Court has failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly and reached at the wrong conclusion of guilt of the appellant, on the basis of surmises and conjectures and as such, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside.

24. Per contra, learned AGA on behalf of the State has submitted that the prosecution case is fully established. The first informant is not the eye-witness of the alleged incident, as he had gone to take bath in river Ganges, and after his return, he came to know about the incident, thereafter he lodged the FIR. It is further submitted that the witnesses are illiterate, rustic village people belonging to lower strata of society, therefore, if there is any discrepancy in their testimony with regard to the date, when the FIR was lodged, then it is minor and has no bearing over the prosecution case. It is also submitted that the prosecutrix has supported the prosecution case. It is also contended that there are no major contradictions in the testimony of the victim, with regard to the alleged incident and for an offence of rape, the solitary evidence of the prosecutrix is sufficient, provided the same inspires confidence and appears to be trustworthy, unblemished and of sterling quality. The testimony of prosecutrix in the present case passes such test, therefore, only on the basis of the testimony of P.W.2, the victim, the prosecution case is proved.

25. Learned AGA has next submitted that rape is a crime and not a medical condition. Rape is a legal term and not a diagnosis to be made by the medical officer treating the victim for an offence of rape. It is also argued that in the present case, some mark of injury is found over private part of the prosecutrix, which corroborates the prosecution case and even if, it is assumed that the medical evidence does not clearly say about the rape, then merely the statement of the prosecutrix is sufficient to prove the prosecution case. It is also submitted that the appellant did not sustain any such injuries during the incident and there is no such case of the appellant that during the above incident, he sustained injuries, therefore, the prosecution was not required to explain about the injuries found upon the person of the appellant. Therefore, the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt and this appeal has no force, which is liable to be dismissed.

26. In view of submissions of learned counsel for both the parties and the material on record, it is to be examined whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, because it is settled law that the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. According to the prosecution, the incident occurred on 15.01.1983 at 11:00 a.m. under village Bakhrawa, Police Station Modi Nagar, District Ghaziabad, when the victim had gone to a jungle to bring green fodder, then in the sugarcane field of Ranjeet, the appellant forcibly took the victim and committed rape upon her.

27. It is the case of the prosecution, upon hearing the cries of the victim, Prakash and Battu reached at the spot and witnessed the incident and thereafter, the appellant fled from the spot upon seeing them.

28. The FIR in the instant case has been lodged the next day of the incident at 10:30 a.m. i.e. after more than 24 hours from the time of incident and in this regard, learned counsel for the appellant has argued that the prosecution has failed to explain the delay in lodging the FIR.

29. The above submission has no force. It is generally experienced that for an offence like this, the prestige and honour of an unmarried girl of a family is at stake and therefore, they hesitate in lodging the FIR. So, if there is some delay, then it may not be a ground to raise doubt over the prosecution case. P.W.1 Hardwari is the father of the victim and he has is the potter belonging to lower strata of the society. It has come in evidence that on the date of incident, he had gone to take bath in river Ganges and upon his return, the same day, he came to know about the incident from his wife and it was the victim, who after returning from the field, narrated the entire incident to her mother. Though there are some discrepancies as to when P.W.1 Hardwari returned after taking bath in river Ganges. In the FIR, it is stated that he returned the next day, then came to know about the incident, whereas in his statement before Court, he said that he had returned in the evening of the incident. P.W.2, the victim, an illiterate young girl of the age of 14 years, has stated that her father came in the afternoon of the incident. The first informant is an illiterate person and the Tehrir has not been written by him.

30. Learned counsel for the appellant has also submitted that, according to P.W.1 Hardwari, he went to the Police Station along with the victim and the appellant to lodge the FIR and P.W.2, the victim, has stated that they went to the Police Station in the evening of the incident, therefore, it raises doubt over the prosecution case.

31. The above submission also has no force. Though there are some discrepancies in the statement of P.W.2, about when they went to the Police Station, whether the same day alongwith the appellant or the next day with him, but in this regard the statement of appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C., is relevant in which he says that on 16.01.1983, he alongwith Munnu went at the house of informant Hardwari to raise a compliant over cultivating his mustard crop, then they were beaten and after calling the Police, they were lodged in the lock up. So, as per above statement of the appellant, he was taken to the Police Station the next day of the incident i.e., 16.01.1983, and not the same day. Therefore, in this regard, if the victim has stated that they went to the Police Station the same evening of the incident, then it is not a very material contradiction to raise any suspicion over the prosecution case.

32. In view of the above, there is no inordinate delay in lodging the FIR and some minor inconsistencies in the statement of P.W.1 and P.W2, in this regard, have no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

33. Here, it is relevant to mention that the defence has not adduced any evidence in support of its version and there is no evidence to show that the appellant along with Munnu had gone to the house of the first informant where they were beaten up. There is also no evidence that any part of his mustard crop was cultivated. There is also no evidence that the appellant was assaulted at the house of the first informant. Though 14 injuries to the appellant are established, in view of his medical report, but there is no evidence that these injuries were caused during the incident. So the prosecution was not required to explain these injuries and as such, non-explanation of injuries of the appellant has no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

34. So far as the alleged incident is concerned, P.W.2, the victim, is the crucial witness of this case. In the case of Vishnu Vs. State of Maharashtra (2006) 1 SCC 283, the Hon'ble

Supreme Court has held that for such kind of offence, conviction can be sustained on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it inspires confidence. In State of Rajasthan Vs. N.K., (2000) 5 SCC 30, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has again held that it is well settled by a catena of decisions of this Court that there is no rule of law that the evidence of the prosecutrix cannot be relied upon without corroboration and as such, it has been laid down that corroboration is not a sine qua non for conviction in a rape case. If the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity and the 'probabilities factor' does not render it unworthy of credence by a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except on medical evidence, whether, having regard to the circumstances of the case medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming. It is well settled law that while evaluating evidence for such kind of crime, the Court must remain alive to the fact that in a case of rape, no self-respecting woman would come forward in a Court just to make a humiliating statement against her honour such as involved in the commission of rape on her. In cases involving sexual molestation, supposed considerations, which have no material effect on the veracity of the prosecution case or even discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix should not, unless the discrepancies are such which are of fatal nature, be allowed to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. The testimony of a victim in such cases are vital and unless there are compelling reasons, which necessitate looking for corroboration of her statement, the courts should find no difficulty to act on the testimony of a victim of sexual assault alone to convict an accused where her testimony inspires confidence and is found to be reliable. Seeking corroboration of her statement before relying upon the same, as a rule, in such cases amounts to adding insult to injury, as held by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ranjit Hazarika Vs. State of Assam (1998) 8 SCC 635.

35. In view of the above legal position, if we look into the testimony of P.W.2, the victim, then it appears that her statement is consistent throughout and there are no major contradictions in her statement to render her testimony unreliable and untrustworthy. She has stated on oath that on the date of incident, she had gone to the jungle to collect fodder, as usual, then the appellant took her forcibly in Ranjeet's sugarcane field, where he removed her salwar and committed rape upon her. She further testified that she cried loudly, whereupon Prakash and Battu reached at the spot, and then appellant fled away. Thereafter, Prakash and Battu took her to her house, where she narrated the entire incident to her mother. She has stated that she was about 14 years of age at the time of the incident.

36. The witness has been thoroughly cross-examined, but her testimony could not be shaken and there are no major contradictions in her statement. She has said that the place of occurrence is about one kos (approximately 3.2 kilometers) from her village and she had gone alone to collect fodder. She cried loudly, but had not assaulted the appellant nor struck him with a hoe (khurpa). Upon this, it is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that in the ordinary course of event, the victim would have resisted by assaulting or hitting the appellant. Since the victim, admittedly, did not do so, therefore, it is contended that the prosecution version is doubtful.

37. The above submission has no force. A rustic village girl of such a tender age, overpowered by the appellant, and out of fear and helplessness, if she did not offer any resistance or cause any injury to the appellant, then merely this, by itself, would not render her testimony unreliable. P.W.2 has testified that she was raped for about half an hour, resulting in pain and the blood might have fallen on the ground, although she was not aware of it. Relying upon this statement, learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the above statement is not reliable, as in the ordinary course of such an incident, the victim could have sustained injuries over her person as well as upon her private parts, however, in view of her medical examination, she did not suffer any such injury, which raises doubt over the prosecution case.

38. The above submission of learned counsel for the appellant is also not acceptable. As observed earlier, the victim is a minor girl of tender age and is illiterate, therefore, her estimation of time and duration with regard to the offence committed upon her, may not be precise and accurate, but the fact of the matter is that the witness has clearly stated that the appellant committed rape upon her. As per law, even slight penetration is sufficient to prove offence of rape. In this case, the evidence adduced by the prosecutrix proves that accused had inserted his penis in her vagina. So the testimony of P.W.2, the victim, with regard to the alleged incident is consistent, trustworthy and reliable and it is of sterling quality, having no major contradictions with regard to the incident, to raise any doubt about it. Further, P.W.3 Prakash, who turned hostile, has corroborated the prosecution case, where he has said that he had seen the victim at the place of occurrence coming out of Ranjit□s sugarcane field weeping, and he and Bittu tried to find someone there after entering inside the field of sugarcane crop, which discloses that something wrong had happened to the victim there and thus, upto this extent he corroborates the prosecution case.

39. It is also submitted by learned counsel for appellant that the ocular evidence is not supported with medical evidence which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case. The above submission has no force. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Tamil Nadu vs. Ravi @ Nehru (2006) 10 SCC 534, ruled that "Rape is a crime and not a medical condition. Rape is a legal term and not a diagnosis to be made by the medical officer treating the victim. The only statement that can be made by the medical officer is that there is evidence of recent sexual activity. Whether rape has occurred or not is a legal conclusion, not a medical one.□ That is the reason why, even the opinion of the doctor, that there was no evidence of sexual intercourse or rape, is at times held to be not sufficient to disbelieve the accusation of the rape by a victim. In another case of Ranjit Hazarika vs. State of Assam (1998) 8 SCC 635, the prosecutrix was also a young girl, who was 14 years of age and subjected to rape by the accused, while she was on her way to home along with him. In her evidence before the court she clearly narrated the manner in which the accused forcibly performed sexual intercourse with her without her consent on the road side. Her statement remained virtually unchallenged in the cross examination and was amply supported by her mother and two witnesses, to whom she made immediate disclosure. The argument of the learned counsel for the accused was that medical evidence belies the testimony of prosecutrix as no injury was found on her private parts and her hymen was found to be intact. The Apex court, however, held that neither the non-rupture of hymen nor absence of injury to the private parts belies the testimony of prosecutrix. It was held that the opinion of the doctor, that no rape appeared to have been committed, which was based only on the absence of rupture of the hymen and absence of injuries on the private parts of the prosecutrix, cannot throw out an otherwise cogent and trustworthy evidence of the prosecutrix.

40. In view of the above legal position, if we look into the present case, then in the present case, the victim has been medically examined on 16.01.1983 at 08:30 p.m. by P.W.7 Dr. Kanak Lata Joshi. She found no mark of injury over her private part except that there was a bruise at 3 o□clock position red and tender over hymen, but no bleeding was present. The doctor has opined that no clear opinion could be given with regard to the rape upon the victim. In vaginal examination, no spermatozoa was found. Upon being questioned, the doctor has said that if a boy of 20-22 years of age commits rape upon a girl of such age, then, most probably, hymen would not remain intact, but sometimes it remains intact. The doctor has denied the suggestion that she has added the bruise injury under undue influence and had not found any such injury over hymen. She has said that the above sentence was added after examining the x-ray report. There is no evidence that the Investigating Officer or any other Police Officer or the doctor was on inimical terms to the appellant, or had colluded with the first informant, which could have prompted them to fabricate false evidence against the appellant. Therefore, the doctor is not certain with regard to rape, but it has no material significance in the present case as otherwise the statement of the victim is found reliable, trustworthy and of sterling quality.

41. So far as the age of the victim is concerned, as per prosecution, she was aged about 14 years at the time of incident. She herself, in her statement, has testified that she was 14 years of age at the relevant time. P.W.4 Dr. Gyanendra, who was a radiologist of District Hospital, Ghaziabad, has also, on the basis of x-ray (Ext. Ka.2) stated that he conducted x-ray of the victim and found that the epiphysis of elbow had fused, whereas the epiphysis of the radius and ulna at the wrist had not fused. In cross-examination, P.W.4 deposed that epiphysis of elbow normally fuses at the age of 16 years and fusion of epiphysis of wrist takes place at the age of 19 years. In the opinion of the P.W. 7, victim was aged between 12-14 years. The victim□s father Hardwari has stated that she was about 14 years of age. There is no other contrary evidence on record with regard to the age of the victim. The defence has also not suggested any other age of the victim. Therefore, it is established that the victim was minor and aged about 14 years at the time of incident.

42. The Investigating Officer has also prepared a recovery memo (Ext.Ka-5) of salwar of the victim and found that there were some white spots like semen between left thigh and nearby places. Though the Investigating Officer has not sent the salwar for chemical examination, which amounts to a defective investigation, but it is settled law that if the prosecution case is proved otherwise, defective investigation would not be a ground to disbelieve the prosecution case.

43. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, the Investigating Officer has prepared its site-plan (Ext. Ka-6), in which he has shown the sugarcane field of Ranjeet Singh, as the place of occurrence, and has marked it as place □A□. The prosecutrix in her statement as P.W.2, has said that at the same place, rape was committed upon her by the appellant. The prosecution has examined Prakash as P.W.3, who is stated to be the person, who reached at the spot upon hearing the cries of the prosecutrix. P.W.3 has turned hostile and has said that except the prosecutrix, he did not see any other person at the spot, though from his statement, it is established that he admits that at the alleged place, date and time, he heard some faint sound (khatka) in Ranjeet□s sugarcane field. There he saw nothing, but saw the first informant□s daughter coming out weeping. He also stated that the other witness Battu came later on and both of them entered in the sugarcane field, but did not find appellant Veer Singh. It is established law that the statement of a hostile witness shall not outrightly be rejected in totality and that portion of the statement can be relied upon, which is in support of prosecution and finds corroboration from other evidence.

44. In view of the above legal position, the testimony of P.W.3, Prakash, corroborates the place of occurrence, as at this place he found the prosecutrix coming out of field weeping.

45. The Investigating Officer has prepared a recovery memo of the pieces of bangles (Ext. Ka-7), which he recovered from the place of occurrence and proved them before the court. The broken pieces of bangles further corroborates the prosecution case that the victim's bangles may have been broken in her struggle at the time of incident. In view of the above discussion, the place of occurrence is fully established.

46. Here, it is also relevant to note that, according to the appellant, the appellant and Munnu were beaten by Hardwari, when they had gone to raise a complaint to his house, but in this regard the appellant or Munnu have not lodged any FIR at the Police Station. There is also no evidence that Munnu sustained any injuries. There is no reason why the first informant would falsely implicate the appellant alone. There is also no evidence that there was any previous enmity between both the parties giving any reason for false implication of the appellant in this case.

47. In view of the above discussion, this Court comes to conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove, beyond reasonable doubt, that on the date of incident the appellant has committed rape upon the victim and, as such, charge against him under Section 376 IPC stands proved. Thus, the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly and has rightly reached at the conclusion of guilt of the appellant and thus, this appeal has no force.

48. Therefore, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The conviction and sentence of the appellant by impugned judgment and order dated 22.04.1985 is affirmed. The appellant, Veer Singh, is on bail. His personal bonds and bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. He is directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court, within three weeks from today to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing his presence.

49. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 1090 of 1987

Gayasi & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The appellants, Gayasi and Ram Charan, were convicted under sections 302/34 IPC for murdering Ramola by assaulting him with a farsa and bhala arising from prior enmity over agricultural land and Mahua trees, which conviction was challenged in appeal.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/34-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder-Related witnesses-Reliability-Mere relationship of the prosecution witnesses with the deceased is no ground to discard their testimony when they are natural witnesses, their presence at the place of occurrence is established, and their evidence is cogent, consistent and free from material contradictions-Non-intervention by unarmed witnesses in an occurrence where the assailants were armed with deadly weapons cannot be made a ground for rejecting otherwise trustworthy ocular evidence-Recovery of the weapons, though not strictly in compliance with Section 27 of the Evidence Act and without forensic examination, may lend assurance to the prosecution version when considered along with reliable ocular and medical evidence-Conviction under section 302/34 IPC sustained-Appeal dismissed.(Para 19 to 45) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that the testimony of related eye-witnesses cannot be discarded merely on the ground of relationship, particularly when their presence is natural and their evidence is cogent, consistent and trustworthy. Minor discrepancies do not impair the credibility of otherwise reliable ocular evidence. Ocular evidence, duly corroborated by medical evidence, established the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt.

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the convicts, to wit, Gayasi and Ram Charan, against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.04.1987 passed by the learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur in Sessions Trial No. 48 of 1986, State v. Gayasi and Another (arising out of Case Crime No. 52 of 1984), under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Kulpahar, District Hamirpur.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur, has convicted the appellants for an offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced them to suffer imprisonment for life. Aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 10.04.1987, the appellants have preferred this appeal.

3. The prosecution case, in brief, is that on the basis of a written report dated 11.07.1984 (Exhibit Ka-1) submitted by the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), a First Information Report dated 11.07.1984 (Exhibit Ka-4) was registered as Case Crime No. 52 of 1984, under Section 302 IPC at Police Station Kulpahar, District Hamirpur, against the named accused persons (appellants herein).

4. According to the prosecution case, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1) got scribed a written report (Exhibit Ka-1) from Ashok Kumar and filed the same at Police Station Kulpahar, District Hamirpur, stating therein that on 11.07.1984, her son Ramola was sowing groundnut crop in his field situated in the village Jaitpur Har. She had gone there in the afternoon to bring him food. Her son finished his work, took a bath, and ate his meal under the shade of a Banyan tree. She was sitting right there while her son was sleeping on his safi. Parsadi S/o Daruva Kachhi and Chhadami S/o Diviya Kachhi, were also sitting there under the shade of Banyan tree. At about 2:00 p.m. in the noon, from her own family/lineage, Gayasi S/o Pyare Kachhi, carrying a farsa and Ram Charan S/o Hallu, who is my stepson, carrying a bhala, arrived under the Banyan tree. Without saying a word, Gayasi attacked my son Ramola with the farsa and Ram Charan attacked him with the bhala and killed him. There has been an ongoing enmity between my son, Gayasi in respect of agricultural field and with Ram Charan regarding Mahua trees. The witnesses and I have seen this killing.

5. After registration of the First Information Report against the accused-appellants, Station Officer, Sauki Ram Chaudhary took the investigation of the case into his hands. However, when S.O. Sauki Ram Chaudhary went on training, the investigation of this case was handed over to Sub-Inspector, Jagvir Singh (PW-6). On 11.07.1984, the alleged murder weapons i.e. farsa and bhala, were recovered on the pointing out of accused-appellants, and a recovery memo was prepared as Exhibit Ka-3. From the place of occurrence, on 11.07.1984, plain soil, bloodstained soil, and the bloodstained safi of the deceased Ramola, were also recovered and taken into custody, and recovery memo was prepared as Exhibit Ka-8.

6. The Investigating Officer prepared the site plan and other necessary police papers. The panchayatnama of the deceased Ramola was also prepared as Exhibit Ka-9. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer sent the dead body for postmortem examination. After completing all necessary formalities of the investigation, Investigating Officer Jagvir Singh (PW-6) submitted a charge-sheet against the accused-appellants under Section 302 IPC in the concerned Magistrate□s Court.

7. Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2) conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased Ramola and prepared the postmortem report. According to Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2), the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage resulting from ante-mortem injuries. He opined that the injuries were sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature.

8. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Sessions Court for trial. The learned Trial Court framed charges against the accused-appellants on 04.08.1986 under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC, to which the accused-appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

9. In order to substantiate its case against the appellants, the prosecution examined the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1); Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2); Parsadi (PW-3); Ram Charan (PW-4); Jainarayan (PW-5); and the Investigating Officer, S.I. Jagvir Singh (PW-6). Besides the oral testimony, the prosecution relied upon documentary evidence from Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-13, to establish its case.

10. The learned Trial Court, after recording the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, examined the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the accused-appellants denied the allegations leveled against them. They also stated that they had been falsely implicated in this case. They stated that, on the instigation of Parsadi (PW-3), the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), had registered a false case against them and all the prosecution witnesses have given false evidence against them. Although the accused-appellants stated in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that they would adduce defence evidence, they did not produce any evidence in their defence.

11. After recording the evidence, the learned Trial Court heard the arguments of the prosecution and the defence. The Trial Court found the accused-appellants guilty of the alleged offence, as such, convicted and sentenced them to imprisonment for life under Sections 302/34 IPC. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order dated 10.04.1987, the accused-appellants have preferred the present criminal appeal before this Court.

12. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, appellant no. 2, Ram Charan, S/o Hallu, died. Accordingly, the criminal appeal insofar as it relates to appellant no. 2 has been abated vide order dated 06.01.2026. Therefore, the present criminal appeal survives for adjudication only in respect of appellant no. 1, Gayasi.

13. We have heard the arguments of Mr. Keshari Nandan Singh, learned Counsel for the surviving appellant, Gayasi, and Mr. Deepakh Kapoor, learned Additional Government Advocate, appearing on behalf of the State. We have also perused the evidence on record as well as the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.04.1987, passed by the learned IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Hamirpur.

14. Learned counsel for the surviving appellant, Gayasi, has submitted that the Trial Court wrongly relied upon the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), who is the mother of the deceased Ramola, and the stepmother of appellant no. 2, Ram Charan (now deceased). Since Bari Bahu (PW-1) is the stepmother of appellant no. 2, Ram Charan, and the biological mother of the deceased Ramola, she has allegedly, falsely and deliberately implicated the accused-appellants in this case, making herself to be a related witness. It is further submitted that Parsadi (PW-3) is the real uncle of the deceased and appellant No. 2, Ram Charan S/o Hallu. Another prosecution witness, Ram Charan (PW-4), S/o Ram Dayal, testified regarding the recovery of the alleged murder weapons i.e. farsa and bhala. All these prosecution witnesses are thus closely related by blood to the deceased Ramola and appellant No. 2, Ram Charan (now deceased). Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently submitted that there is no independent witness to substantiate the prosecution story.

15. It is next argued that the prosecution witnesses in this case are highly related witnesses, being family members of the deceased, and according to settled principles of law, the testimony of interested or close relatives cannot be relied upon without independent corroboration. However, the Trial Court failed to consider this aspect in its findings. The Trial Court also wrongly relied on the evidence of the recovery witness, Ram Charan (PW-4), S/o Ram Dayal. It is next submitted that the findings and reasoning given by the Trial Court are contrary to the settled principles of law and are liable to be set aside. The Trial Court convicted the accused-appellants primarily on surmises and conjectures, without any cogent or reliable evidence.

16. Learned counsel for the surviving appellant, on the basis of above submissions, has contended that the prosecution failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Accordingly, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.04.1987 is liable to be set aside, and the present criminal appeal filed by the appellant is liable to be allowed.

17. Per contra, learned Additional Government Advocate has submitted that the findings and reasoning recorded by the learned Trial Court are based on the testimony of prosecution witnesses, who have witnessed the occurrence with their own eyes. The prosecution witnesses were present at the place of occurrence and saw the commission of the alleged crime by the accused-appellants. It is further submitted that the oral evidence of the prosecution witnesses, namely, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), and Parsadi (PW-3), finds support and corroboration from the medical evidence, including the postmortem report of the deceased, Ramola, prepared by Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2).

18. Learned A.G.A. further contended that the oral evidence of the prosecution is fully corroborated by the medical evidence. Accordingly, the learned Trial Court, after a proper appreciation of all the prosecution evidence in accordance with law, recorded the conviction of the accused-appellants. It is next submitted that the findings and reasoning of the Trial Court are based on both ocular and medical evidence, which support and corroborate each other. There is no perversity or illegality in the findings or reasoning given by the Trial Court. Therefore, the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellants is devoid of merit and is liable to be rejected.

19. In view of the above arguments and counter-arguments advanced by both sides, and from a perusal of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), we find that the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), submitted a written report at the Police Station Kulpahar, on the basis of which a first information report was registered on 11.07.1984 at about 15:30 hours, in which the time of the alleged occurrence is mentioned as about 14:00 hours. It is thus amply clear that without any delay after the alleged incident on 11.07.1984 at about 14:00 hours, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), lodged the first information report promptly at the concerned police station at 15:30 hours on the same day. This fact shows that without any concoction, consideration, or afterthought, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), lodged the first information report immediately after the incident against the named accused-appellants. Thus, we find that in a simple and straightforward manner, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), lodged the first information report naturally and without any delay.

20. From a perusal of the evidence of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), who is the widow of Hallu, it is clear that the deceased, Ramola, was the son of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), born from her wedlock with Hallu. It is also revealed that appellant No. 2, Ram Charan (now deceased), was also a son of Hallu, born from Hallu□s previous wife. After the death of his previous wife, Hallu married Bari Bahu (PW-1), and the deceased, Ramola, was born from this subsequent marriage.

21. From a perusal of the examination-in-chief of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), it is apparent that she has stated the same facts as written in her written report (Exhibit Ka-1). In a clear and straightforward manner, the informant (PW-1) stated in her evidence that appellant No. 1, Gayasi, had a farsa in his hand and appellant No. 2, Ram Charan, had a bhala in his hand and that due to enmity regarding agricultural land and Mahua trees, the appellants killed her son.

22. From a perusal of cross-examination of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1), it is revealed that the PW-1 was previously married to one Munni, and after Munni’s death, Hallu took PW-1 as his wife, and deceased Ramola was born from this marriage. The prosecution witness, Parsadi (PW-3), is also brother-in-law of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1). During cross-examination by the defence, the informant (PW-1) reiterated the occurrence of the alleged incident in the same manner as stated by her in examination-in-chief.

23. From the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), we find that she is an illiterate lady, who has affixed her thumb impression on her written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and evidence. Despite her illiteracy, she has narrated the occurrence of the alleged incident in a simple and straightforward manner, without any exaggeration or embellishment. What she witnessed is exactly that she has stated before the Court.

24. We find that the testimony of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), contains no material or major contradiction that would render her evidence unbelievable or unreliable. In other words, she has presented the facts in simple and natural language, without any artificiality or concoction. There are no contradictions in her evidence sufficient to raise any doubt about its credibility. Merely because the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), is the mother of the deceased Ramola, the Court cannot reject the reliability and trustworthiness of the testimony of this witness. Accordingly, we are of the view that the testimony of this witness is wholly reliable.

25. Next to PW-1, the other eye-witness of the prosecution is Parsadi (PW-3). The prosecution has examined Parsadi (PW-3) as an eye-witness of the alleged incident, and his name also finds place in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) as an eye-witness. From a perusal of the evidence of PW-3, we find that he has deposed in the same manner as the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1). It is further evident from his testimony that he was present at the place of occurrence on 11.07.1984 when accused-appellant Gayasi, armed with a farsa and accused-appellant Ram Charan (now deceased), armed with a bhala, arrived at the place of occurrence. According to this witness, Gayasi assaulted Ramola with the farsa and Ram Charan assaulted Ramola with the bhala. As a result of the said assault by the appellants, the victim Ramola, died on the spot. This witness has also stated about the enmity with Gayasi regarding agricultural field and with Ram Charan regarding the Mahua trees.

26. From a perusal of the cross-examination of the eye-witness, Parsadi (PW-3), we find that although this witness has stated that the Investigating Officer recorded his statement after one month of the alleged incident, he has also stated that he could not assign any reason as to why the Investigating Officer did not record his statement earlier. This witness has further stated in his cross-examination that the field in which Ramola was sowing groundnut was in his name, and that no case was pending with any person in respect of that field. He has also stated that he had informed the Investigating Officer that he had gone to the spot for sowing groundnut, and if the Investigating Officer did not record the said fact in his statement, he could not assign any reason for the same.

27. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, as available on the original record of the Trial Court, we find that he has affixed his thumb impression on his deposition. From this, it appears that he is an illiterate rural person who earns his livelihood through labour and agricultural work. After considering the entire evidence of PW-3, we find that he has deposed in a natural and straightforward manner, without any embellishment, concoction, or deliberation. Whatever he witnessed at the place of occurrence has been stated by him before the Court. From a perusal of cross-examination of Parsadi (PW-3), we further find that there is no material or major contradiction of such a nature as would render his testimony doubtful.

28. The testimony of Parsadi (PW-3) corroborates the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), and the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), in turn, corroborates the testimony of Parsadi (PW-3). In other words, the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3) mutually corroborate each other. Thus, we find that the prosecution story, as narrated in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), finds full support and corroboration from the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3).

29. From a perusal of the evidence of the informant (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3), it is amply clear that both the informant (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3) are eye-witnesses of the alleged incident dated 11.07.1984 occurred at about 14:00 hours, when the accused-appellants attacked and assaulted the deceased, Ramola, with a farsa and a bhala. These two prosecution witnesses were present at the place of occurrence, however, due to fear for their lives, as the appellants were armed with highly deadly weapons such as a farsa and a bhala, they could not intervene to save the life of the deceased, Ramola. The prosecution witnesses, namely, the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), and Parsadi (PW-3), are thus eye-witnesses of the alleged incident. From a perusal of their evidence, it is evident that they were present at the spot, witnessed the occurrence, and have narrated before the Court what they saw with their own eyes in a simple and natural manner. Accordingly, we find that the prosecution case stands fully established and proved beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of the evidence of the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), and Parsadi (PW-3).

30. The Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki And Another; (1981) 2 Supreme Court Cases 752, has held in paragraph nos. 7 and 8 that:

"7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W.1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W.1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents.

8. In the depositions of witnesses there are always normal discrepancies however honest and truthful they may be. These discrepancies are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of the occurrence, and the like. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. As indicated above we have not found any material discrepancies in the evidence of the P. W. 1."

31. The Supreme Court in G. Laxmanna And Others v. State of Andhra Pradesh; (2002) 8 Supreme Court Cases 333, has held in paragraph no.10 on the point of related witness that:

"10. The mere fact that the prosecution witnesses are related to each other does not impress us, having regard to their natural presence and the consistency in their evidence. After all the deceased were also related to the witnesses as they belonged to the same family."

32. The Supreme Court in Sucha Singh And Another v. State of Punjab; (2003) 7 Supreme Court Cases 643, has held in paragraph nos. 13 & 23 on the point of related witness that:

"13. Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

23. So far as inaction of PWs 9 and 10 in not coming to rescue of deceased is concerned, it has been noted by the trial Court and the High Court that both of them were unarmed and bare handed and the accused persons were armed with deadly weapons. How a person would react in a situation like this cannot be encompassed by any rigid formula. It would depend on many factors, like in the present case where witnesses are unarmed, but the assailants are armed with deadly weapons. In a given case instinct of self-preservation can be the dominant instinct. That being the position, their inaction in not coming to rescue of the deceased cannot be a ground for discarding their evidence."

33. The Supreme Court again in Masalti v. State of U.P.*; AIR 1965 SC 202, has held in paragraph no. 14 that:

"14. But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses. The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice. No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it is partisan cannot be accepted as correct."

34. The Supreme Court in Harbans Kaur And Another v. State of Haryana;* (2005) 9 SCC 195, has held in paragraph no. 7 that:

"7. There is no proposition in law that relatives are to be treated as untruthful witnesses. On the contrary, reason has to be shown when a plea of partiality is raised to show that the witnesses had reason to shield the actual culprit and falsely implicate the accused. No evidence has been led in this regard."

35. In light of the legal principles laid down by the Supreme Court in the aforementioned cases, it is clear that although the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), is the mother of the deceased, Ramola, and Parsadi (PW-3) is the uncle of the deceased as well as the uncle of appellant no. 2, Ram Charan (now deceased), both being sons of Hallu, the said witnesses are related family members. However, merely on the ground that the eye-witnesses, namely, the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3), are related to the deceased, their evidence cannot be doubted, in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the aforesaid decisions. It is also a natural human conduct that a family member of the victim would not falsely implicate an innocent person, particularly a member of his own family, in a heinous offence like murder.

36. The informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), and Parsadi (PW-3) are natural witnesses of the incident, who witnessed the occurrence with their own eyes. The inconsistencies pointed out by the appellants during their cross-examination are minor and superficial in nature. The informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3) have fully supported the prosecution case through their testimonies. Their evidence is wholly reliable, and their testimonies are found to be credible and trustworthy.

37. It is also a notable fact that on the fateful day, i.e. 11.07.1984, when the alleged incident occurred, the prosecution eye-witnesses, namely, the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), and Parsadi (PW-3), were sitting under the shade of a banyan tree and were unarmed. In contrast, accused-appellant Gayasi was armed with a farsa and accused-appellant Ram Charan (now deceased) was armed with a bhala. Both the appellants were thus armed with deadly weapons. In such circumstances, an unarmed person could not be expected to intervene to save the life of the deceased in the face of assailants armed with deadly weapons like a farsa and a bhala. Merely on this ground, the reliable testimonies of the eye-witnesses, PW-1 and PW-3, cannot be doubted or discarded. In the light of the above discussions, we find no force in the submissions advanced by the learned Counsel for the surviving appellant.

38. From a perusal of the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-2), which was prepared by Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2), following injuries were found on the body of deceased Ramola:-

(i) Two incised wounds were superimposed on each other and were in the same direction. These were present horizontally on the lower part of the front of the neck. The combined measurement of the wounds was 14cm x 12cm. Everything, including the major blood vessels of the neck and the food pipe (esophagus), was severed. A significant amount of clotted blood was present, and some semi-digested food was also found adhering to the area.

(ii) A punctured wound measuring 1□cm x 1□cm was present on the left side of the abdomen. Inside the abdomen, the loop of the large intestine was ruptured. A large amount of clotted blood was present inside the abdomen. Upon examination of internal part of the cadaver, I found that the heart was empty of blood. Inside the abdomen, there was some fecal matter along with clotted blood. By 'inside the abdomen,' I mean the peritoneal cavity. Other matters were normal. The deceased had been dead for approximately one day.

As per the opinion of Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2), the death of the deceased was caused by shock and hemorrhage resulting from injuries sustained prior to death. These injuries were sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. Injury no. 1 must have been caused by a sharp-edged weapon, such as a farsa, and Injury no. 2 by a pointed weapon, such as a bhala. It is possible that the said injuries were inflicted around 2:00 p.m. on the date 11.07.1984.

39. From the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the evidence of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1) and the evidence of Parsadi (PW-3), it is evident that accused-appellant Gayasi was armed with a farsa and accused-appellant Ram Charan S/o Hallu was armed with a bhala. Both the eye-witnesses, namely, the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3), have in a very clear cut manner stated in their evidence that accused-appellant Gayasi assaulted the deceased Ramola with a farsa and accused-appellant Ram Charan S/o Hallu assaulted the deceased Ramola with a bhala. Due to the said attack by the appellants with deadly weapons like a farsa and a bhala, the deceased Ramola died on the spot. Thus, we find that the ocular evidence, namely, the evidence of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3), is supported by the medical evidence of Dr. Ghanshyam Pandey (PW-2). In other words, the medical evidence finds support and corroboration from the ocular evidence of the informant Bari Bahu (PW-1) and Parsadi (PW-3). In this way, the prosecution story finds support from both medical and ocular evidence. The medical evidence corroborates the ocular evidence of the prosecution witnesses, and the ocular evidence supports the medical evidence. Each of them finds support and corroboration from the other.

40. From a perusal of the record, it is evident that on the date of the incident, i.e. 11.07.1984, the police recovered the alleged murder weapons at the instance of the accused-appellants. On the pointing out of accused-appellant Gayasi, a bloodstained farsa was recovered, and on the pointing out of accused-appellant Ram Charan (now deceased), a bloodstained bhala was recovered from a thick ambush. A recovery memo in respect thereof was duly prepared and exhibited as Exhibit Ka-3. During the course of trial, the said weapons farsa and bhala were produced before the learned Trial Court at the time of recording the evidence of the Investigating Officer, Jagvir Singh (PW-6), who duly identified and proved the same.

41. Admittedly, the recovery of the aforesaid weapons was not effected in strict compliance with the provisions of Section 27 of the Evidence Act, nor were the said articles sent for forensic examination. However, upon a perusal of the recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-3) in conjunction with the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses, namely, PW-1 and PW-3, and considering the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case, the said recovery lends assurance to and corroborates the prosecution version as set forth by the informant, Bari Bahu (PW-1), in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), as well as in her deposition and that of Parsadi (PW-3). In other words, when viewed in the overall factual matrix of the case, the prosecution story finds substantial support from the aforesaid recovery and attendant circumstances.

42. Apart from the above discussions, we have also examined the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 10.04.1987 passed by the learned Trial Court and have perused the findings and reasoning recorded by the Trial Court. Upon such perusal, we find that the Trial Court has duly considered and discussed all relevant facts and evidence available on record. The findings have been recorded in the light of the evidence and are supported by well-settled principles of the law of evidence.

43. In our considered opinion, there is no perversity or illegality in the findings and reasoning of the Trial Court. The conclusions have been arrived at in their proper perspective, in accordance with law, and on the basis of the evidence on record. We, therefore, find no ground to interfere with the impugned judgment and order dated 10.04.1987.

44. In view of the above, we find no merit in the arguments advanced by the learned Counsel for the surviving appellant, Gayasi. Consequently, the present criminal appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

45. Accordingly, the present criminal appeal is dismissed.

46. The surviving appellant, Gayasi, is presently on bail. His personal bond stands cancelled, and his sureties are discharged from their liabilities. He is directed to surrender before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, within a period of fifteen days to undergo the remaining sentence awarded by the Trial Court vide order dated 10.04.1987.

47. In the event the surviving appellant, Gayasi, fails to surrender before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, within the stipulated period of fifteen days, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, shall issue a non-bailable warrant to secure his arrest. Upon arrest, he shall be sent to jail to serve the remaining sentence in accordance with the Trial Court's order dated 10.04.1987.

48. The Chief Judicial Magistrate, Hamirpur, is directed to intimate this Court regarding compliance of this order.

49. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court along with the Trial Court record forthwith.

Criminal Appeal No. 1140 of 1990

Shaheed & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The prosecution case arose from a fatal gunshot incident occurring on September 21, 1987, at Allahabad , following a dispute over an illicit relationship, primary accused Shaheed shot and kill Nanhey, while co-accused Laddan was alleged to have fired in the air during the escape. Appellants preferred appeal against the conviction and sentence under section 302/34 IPC.

Headnotes

Criminal law –Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302 r/w 34-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder with Common Intention-Evidence corroboration-Ocular testimony of eye-witnesses regarding an accused firing in the air not corroborated by recovery of physical/ballistic evidence (bullets, pellets, empty cartridges) from the place of occurrence-Implication based solely on relationship or suspicion held doubtful-Liability under section 34 IPC requires definite conclusion of prearranged plan or prior concert among accused-Mere presence or suspected involvement insufficient for conviction-Appeal allowed.(Para 16 to 27) (E-6)

Held

The court found the lower court's reasoning unsustainable in law for mechanically applying section 34 IPC without establishing prior concert or a prearranged plan. Due to the absence of direct hostility, lack of relationship with the primary shooter, and uncorroborated ocular evidence, the surviving co-accused was given the benefit of doubt.

This criminal appeal No. 1140 of 1990 has been preferred by the accused-appellants against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence of the learned IXth Additional District & Sessions Judge, Allahabad dated 28.05.1990 in S.T. No. 72 of 1988 State Vs. Shaheed and others arising out of Case Crime No. 166 of 1987 under Section 302/34 I.P.C., Police Station Cantt, District Allahabad. By the impugned judgment, the learned Trial Court has found guilty to accused-appellants and convicted and sentenced them for offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C., for life imprisonment. Aggrieved by the above order of conviction and sentence dated 28.05.1990, the accused-appellant has preferred this criminal appeal.

2. Fact of the case as is revealed by written report Exhibit Ka-1 is that informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1 had got ascribed written report dated 21.09.1987 Exhibit Ka-1 and lodged the same at police station Cantt on 21.09.1987. Informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1 has stated in written report Exhibit Ka-1 that my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman son of Safiur Rehman, resident of 112 A, Rajapur, Allahabad, before some years ago, had some illicit relations with Safina, sister of Shaheed, resident of Rajapur, Allahabad. Due to this reason, Shaheed Son of Naseeruddin, resident of Rajapur, Allahabad and Laddan son of Nanhu, resident of Rajapur, Rehmat resident of Dariyabad, who were relatives of Smt. Nazma, resident of Rajapur, Chunnu son of Ramjan Khan, resident of Rajapur has regarded enmity. Today, my brother and Sri Chiku @ Nandlal son of Ram Aadhar, resident of Rajapur had gone to drink tea at Rajapur tri-junction (Tiraha). After some delay happened, then I and my mother Smt. Kuresha went to call upon my brother. At that time it was about 8:30 pm in night. When reached near this iron door of Rehman Ali then, from this direction my brother was returning with Nandlal; that on reaching near his door, near the wall of the house of Sri Majnu, the above four persons were standing. Out of them, Shaheed had shot a fire at my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman, which hit my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman, due to which he injured. On making hue and cry of weep, Rehmat and Laddan have also fired and run away. We have seen this incident in the light of the tube-light and identified the accused with the help of Chiku @ Nandlal, I took my brother to Beli Hospital, Allahabad, there he died.

3. On the basis of the above written report Exhibit Ka-1, as lodged by the informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1, an FIR Exhibit Ka-3 was registered against accused-appellant under Section 302 I.P.C., at Police Station Cantt., at Crime No. 166 of 1987 on 21.09.1987 at 21:45 pm by Head Constable 264 Ram Bachan Yadav, PW-4. Investigation of the case was taken by S.O. Karan Singh PW-6. The Investigating Officer Karan Singh PW-6 after registration of the FIR, reached at the place of occurrence, inspected the place of occurrence in the light of the street tube-light and prepared the map of site-plan. The Investigating Officer also prepared Panchayatnama of deceased

Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman. The Investigating Officer also recovered a bullet from the place of occurrence where incident happened after three days of the incident on 21.09.1987 and prepared recovery memo Exhibit Ka-9. The Investigating Officer also prepared other necessary police papers and got sealed the dead body of the deceased and sent the dead body of the deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman for postmortem examination. The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of prosecution witnesses of facts and other formal witnesses. After completing all the formalities and necessities of the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet Exhibit Ka-18 against accused-appellant.

4. After happening of the incident, deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman was taken to T.B. Sapru Hospital by Chiku son of Ram Aadhar and Dr. Swatantra Singh, PW-2 has examined the injured Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman and prepared an injury report Exhibit Ka-2. Dr. Swatantra Singh, Medical Officer, T.B. Sapru Hospital, Allahabad PW-2 has found the following injuries on the body of the then injured Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman were found :

"(1) Firearm wound of entry left side chest ½' x ¼' x depth, kept under observation margin inverted no blackening & tattooing, bleeding present.

2' above costal margin, & 6□ from mid line.

(2) Firearm wound of exit-right side abdomen ¼' x ¼' x depth kept under observation margin everted, no blackening and tattooing, bleeding present. 1□ below right costal margin 6□ lateral to umblicus."

5. Dr. U.S. Sinha, PW-9, who examined and conducted the postmortem of the dead body of deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman and prepared the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-20, according to postmortem report Exhibit Ka-20, following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman:

"(1) Gun Shot wound of entrance measuring in area 1.5 c.m. x 1.5 c.m. x abdominal cavity deep, it is situated on the level of 12th rib 15 c.m. lateral on the left side from mid line in front of abdomen. It is directed obliquely downward from left to right. Side of lumber region, the margins are inverted and blackening and tattooing present all around the wound. Cause of death: shock and hemorrhage due to gun shot. Cause of death, according to Dr. U.S. Sinha, PW-9, was hemorrhage and shock due to ante-mortem injuries."

6. After charge-sheet was filed against accused-appellant by the Investigating Officer in the concerned Magistrate Court, case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial, since the case exclusively triable by Court of Session.

7. Charge were framed against the names accused-appellant Laddan , Rehmat and Chunnu by the trial Court on 04.05.1988 under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. Charge was also framed against the accuse-appellant Shaheed under Section 302 IPC on 04.05.1988 but the accused persons have denied from the charge and claimed trial.

8. In support of the prosecution case, the prosecution adduced informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1, Dr. Swatantra Singh PW-2, Nand Lal PW-3, Ram Bachan Yadav PW-4, Devmani Tripathi, PW-5, Karan Singh PW-6, Kailash Nath Katiyar PW-7, Santosh Kumar Shukla, PW-8 and Dr. U.S. Sinha, PW-9 as prosecution witnesses. Apart from the ocular evidence, prosecution has also relied on documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-22.

9. After recording of the evidence of prosecution witnesses, accused persons were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., by the trial Court. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused persons have denied from all allegations of the prosecution. They have also stated that due to enmity, prosecution witnesses have given evidence against them. They are innocent. Accused appellant Laddan has stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., that he has no relation with Shaheed or his family members. There were many enemies of the deceased, any one has killed him. I was implicated due to confusion in this case. The accused-appellant has stated that they will adduce their evidence in defence. On behalf of the accused-appellant, G.P. Srivastava, DW-1, R.C. Shrivastava DW-2, J.N. Pandey DW-3 and Chhote Lal DW-4 were adduced as defence witnesses in the Court. Apart from the defence witnesses, on behalf of defence, documentary evidence have also been filed on the record as Exhibit Kha-1, Kha-2 and Kha-3.

10. After recording of the evidence of prosecution and defence, trial Court has heard arguments of both sides. In the light of arguments and after perusal of the evidence of prosecution and defence, learned Trial Court acquitted named accused Chunnu under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC. However, Trial Court found guilty to accused-appellant Shaheed for the alleged crime under Section 302 IPC and convicted and sentenced him for life imprisonment. The Trial Court convicted and sentenced accused-appellant Laddan and Rahmat under Section 302 IPC read with Section 34 IPC for life imprisonment. Thus, aggrieved by the above judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 28.05.1990, accused-appellants Shaheed, Laddan and Rahmat have approached this Court by preferring this Criminal Appeal.

11. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, accused-appellant Shaheed and Rahmat have died. Due to this reason, appeal was abated against these accused-appellants Shaheed and Rahmat by order of this Court dated 6th November, 2025.

12. Thus, in the present criminal appeal, we are only adjudicating in respect of surviving accused-appellant No.2 Laddan.

13. We have heard learned counsel for the surviving accused-appellant Laddan and learned AGA on behalf of the State-respondents. We have gone through the whole evidence as available on records and we have also perused the finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court in this regard.

14. Learned counsel for the surviving accused-appellant No.2 Laddan has submitted that accused-appellant Laddan has been falsely implicated in this case. Due to Mohalla enmity, he was implicated on the ground of suspicion. The only role against accused-appellant Laddan was assigned by the informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1 that accused-appellant Laddan and Rahmat have fired when they were making hue and cry at the time of the incident. However, the direct role of firing at deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rehman was assigned to deceased accused-appellant Shaheed, but only one bullet was found by the Investigating Officer from the place of occurrence. No pellets, ticklis were recovered from the place of occurrence by Investigating Officer. It is also submitted that Investigating Officer could not recover Tamancha/pistol from the possession of Laddan, thus there is no evidence against surviving accused-appellant Laddan and that he also fired a shot to threaten the informant and other prosecution witnesses. However, without considering and keeping in mind this fact, the learned Trial Court without any evidence against accused-appellant Laddan has convicted with the aid of Section 34 IPC for the commission of the crime. No person can be convicted with the aid of Section 34 IPC without pre-plan, pre-concert with other accused persons. There is no any pre-meditation, preplanning and pre-concert of the surviving accused-appellant Laddan with deceased accused-appellant Shaheed in the commission of the crime, but the Trial Court without any evidence has also convicted and sentenced the surviving accused-appellant Laddan with the aid of Section 34 IPC, which is against the settled principles of law. There is no cogent and reliable evidence against the surviving accused-appellant Laddan that he was present at the place of occurrence, therefore, the surviving accused-appellant Laddan is innocent and is falsely implicated in this case. Hence, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court in respect of the surviving accused-appellant Laddan is without any evidence and against the settled principles of law, therefore, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the trial Court dated 28.05.1990 is liable to be set aside in respect of accused-appellant Laddan. Hence, the criminal appeal is liable to be allowed and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 28.05.1990 in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan is liable to be set aside.

15. Per contra, learned AGA for the State-respondents has vehemently submitted that at the time of occurrence, the surviving accused-appellant Laddan was also present at the place of occurrence in support of accused-appellant Shaheed for the commission of the crime. Learned AGA has also submitted that informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1, Nand Lal PW-3, who were the eye-witness of the case, have fully supported the prosecution case. The above eye-witnesses of the case in their evidence have stated that at the time of commission of the crime, accused-appellant Laddan was also present and he fired shot from Tamancha intimidated the prosecution witness, in this way presence of surviving accused-appellant Laddan at the place of occurrence at the time of commission of the offence is proved by the prosecution witness Shakeel Ahmad PW-1, and Nand Lal PW-3. The learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in proper perspective and found that presence of surviving accused-appellant Laddan is proved by the prosecution evidence at the place of occurrence. Due to this reason, trial Court has also convicted and sentenced to accused-appellant Laddan with the aid of Section 34 IPC for the commission of the alleged crime. There is no perversity and illegality in the judgment and order of conviction and sentence of the trial Court dated 28.05.1990. The finding and reasoning of the trial Court is based on cogent evidence and according to the settled principles of law. Hence, the criminal appeal, as filed by the accused-appellant is devoid of merit and liable to be rejected.

16. In the light of the arguments of learned counsel for the surviving accused-appellant Laddan and learned AGA appearing for the State respondents, from the perusal of the written report Exhibit Ka-1, we find that in written report Exhibit Ka-1 informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-2 has stated that near the wall of the house of Majnu, the above four persons were standing in which, Shaheed had fired shot at my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman, which hit to Nanhey, due to which he injured. When we people made hue and cry, then Rahman and Laddan fired shot and fled away. We have seen this incident in the light of the tube-light and identified the accused persons. Motive for the offence was stated by informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1 in his examination-in-chief that before few years ago, Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman had illicit relations with Safina, sister of accused-Shaheed. The family members of Safina wanted that Safina be married with Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman. The family members of informant have not wanted to solemnized this marriage. My brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman also was not desirous for this marriage. Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman had stated to his family members that he shall not solemnize this marriage. From then, accused had regarded enmity. In written report Exhibit Ka-1, motive for the commission of the crime has also been stated on the same point and in the same manner by Shakeel Ahmad PW-1. In his examination-in-chief, the informant PW-1 has also stated that when my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman reached near Iron Gate of the house of Majnu, near his wall, accused- Shaheed, Laddan and Rahmat were standing. The accused Shaheed has shot from pistol at my brother Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman, that shot hit my brother Nanhey. We people make hue and cry then Laddan and Rahmat also fired shot in air. In his cross-examination, this witness has also stated that Laddan and Rahmat had no relationship with Shaheed. Laddan and Rahmat had no enmity with Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman. Chunnu Khan had many enmities with Nanhey. Total three fires of the gunshot were made at the place of occurrence. Shahkeel had fired one shot, Rahmat and Laddan had fired one-one shot, but the shot fired by Laddan and Rahmat has not hit to any one.

17. Next eye-witness of the prosecution is Nand Lal PW-3, who supported the prosecution story, has also stated in his examination-in-chief that there I have saw that behind the wall of Majnu, Shaheed, Laddan and Rahmat and Chunnu were standing. Shaheed had shot a gunshot at Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman; I have made a hue and cry then upon this Chunnu Khan exhorted to kill, so that could not escape and go. Upon this Laddan and Rahmat by firing, went towards triangle. That people were firing from pistol. During cross-examination, Nand Lal PW-3 has stated that there was no pellets, ticklis, empty cartridges at the place of occurrence. Blood has not fell on the place of occurrence. The place of occurrence was very highly populated area. There was prior enmity between Chunnu Khan and Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman, that with sister-in-law of Chunnu Khan, Nanhey Khan had illicit relations, due to this there was enmity. Chunnu Khan wanted to solemnize marriage between them. Nanhey has refused to marry. This thing, I have heard from the people of the locality and from Nanhey.

18. Thus, from the perusal of the written report Exhibit Ka-1 and oral evidence of informant Shakeel Ahmad PW-1 and other eye-witnesses Nand Lal PW-3, it is revealed that deceased accused appellant Shaheed has fired a shot at Nanhery @ Abdul Rahman due to which Nanhey died at the hospital during his treatment. The only role against the surviving accused-appellant Laddan has been assigned according to the written report Exhibit Ka-1 and as per evidence of PW-1 and PW-3 that after accused-appellant Shaheed has fired shot at deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman, informant PW-1 and PW-3 have made a hue and cry, upon this surviving accused-appellant Laddan and Rahmat have fired shot in air. These witnesses have also in their evidence stated that accused-appellant Laddan and Rahmat fired shot in air. The Investigating Officer Karan Singh PW-6, who reached at the place of occurrence on receiving information about the occurrence has recovered a bullet on 21.09.1987 and prepared recovery memo Exhibit Ka-9. The Investigating Officer PW-9 has not found any pellets, ticklis, empty cartridges from the place of occurrence. If the Investigating Officer PW-6 would have found any pellets, ticklis and empty cartridges from the place of occurrence, he would have also disclosed the same in the recovery memo. In his cross-examination, Investigating Officer, Karan Singh PW-6 has clearly stated that when I had reached at the place of occurrence then, I have not found blood stains there. There was also no empty cartridge, pellets and ticklis recovered from the place of occurrence.

19. In view of the above evidence of the Investigating Officer Karan Singh PW-6 it is clear that if in reality a fire has been made by the surviving accused-appellant Laddan at the prosecution witnesses such as PW-1 and PW-3, in this condition there were injuries on the body of the prosecution witnesses. However, on the body of the informant PW-1 and PW-3 Nand Lal, there is no firearm injury and also there is no any injury report in this respect. If the surviving accused-appellant Laddan has really fired a shot in the area, as is alleged by the prosecution, in this condition also bullets and pellets would have surely be found at the place of occurrence or nearby place of occurrence. However, only one bullet was found by the Investigating Officer Karan Singh PW-6 from the place of occurrence. This fact indicate that only one fire by deceased accused-appellant Shaheed was made at the deceased Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman, but no pellets, empty cartridges were found by the Investigating Officer or other prosecution witnesses from the place of occurrence. This fact also indicate that implication and involvement of the surviving accused-appellant Laddan appears to be doubtful. This fact revealed that it was an afterthought story and it is possible that on the ground of suspicion, surviving accused-appellant Laddan was purposely named in the written report Exhibit Ka-1 with other accused-appellant and a role of firing in the area was mechanically assigned against accused-appellant Laddan, so that he be also implicated in this case for the commission of the alleged crime. In view of the above facts and circumstances, we find that presence of surviving accused-appellant Laddan at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful.

20. Apart from the above facts, informant PW-1 has also stated in his cross-examination that Laddan and Rahmat had no relationship with Shaheed. Laddan and Rahmat had no enmity with Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman. In this way, in cross-examination, informant PW-1 clearly accepted this fact that Laddan had no enmity with Nanhey @ Abdul Rahman then in this condition, why surviving accused-appellant Laddan could be present at the place of occurrence and fired in the air. It appears that surviving accused-appellant Laddan has been implicated in this case on the ground of suspicion because accused-appellant Laddan often used to come at the house of Smt. Nazma in Mohalla Rajapur since the accused-appellant Laddan, a resident of Rajapur was relative of Smt. Nazma and due to this relation, he used to come at his relative Smt. Nazma□s house at Rajapur and due to this fact only, the surviving accused-appellant Laddan has been named on the ground of suspicion and doubt. It appears that due to doubt and suspicion, the surviving accused-appellant has been named in a mechanical way in this case for the commission of the crime, but from the perusal of the whole prosecution evidence, we find no any cause, reason or motive that why surviving accused-appellant Laddan would be present at the place of occurrence. The accuse-appellant Laddan had no any relationship with accused-appellant Shaheed. This fact is also very material fact. Thus, from the above facts and evidence, we find that surviving accused-appellant Laddan is named in the written report Exhibit Ka-1 only on the ground of suspicion because Smt. Nazma was his relative who resides at Rajapur and surviving accused-appellant Laddan used to come to his relatives house at Rajapur. Thus, we find that implication, involvement of the surviving accuse-appellant Laddan has not been corroborated by any oral or documentary evidence and his involvement in this case for the commission of the crime are found to be suspicious and highly doubtful.

21. It is settled principles of law that suspicion, however, be grave and strong but a man cannot be held guilty for the commission of any crime only on the ground of suspicion and doubt. The Supreme Court in Sujit Biswas Vs. State of Assam; (2013) 12 SCC 406 has held in para-13 as under:

"13. Suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot take the place of proof, and there is a large difference between something that "may be" proved, and something that "will be proved". In a criminal trial, suspicion no matter how strong, cannot and must not be permitted to take place of proof. This is for the reason that the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is quite large, and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. In a criminal case, the court has a duty to ensure that mere conjectures or suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The large distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, must be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence produced by the prosecution, before an accused is condemned as a convict, and the basic and golden rule must be applied. In such cases, while keeping in mind the distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, the court must maintain the vital distance between mere conjectures and sure conclusions to be arrived at, on the touchstone of dispassionate judicial scrutiny, based upon a complete and comprehensive appreciation of all features of the case, as well as the quality and credibility of the evidence brought on record. The court must ensure, that miscarriage of justice is avoided, and if the facts and circumstances of a case so demand, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused, keeping in mind that a reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely probable doubt, but a fair doubt that is based upon reason and common sense."

22. The Supreme Court recently in State of Odisha v. Banabihari Mohapatra And Another; (2021) 15 SCC 268 has held:

"It is well settled by a plethora of judicial pronouncement of this Court that suspicion, however strong cannot take place of proof. An accused is presumed to be innocent unless proved guilty beyond reasonable doubt."

23. Thus, no person can be held guilty on the ground of suspicion for commission of any crime. From the perusal of the prosecution evidence it is clear that surviving accused-appellant Laddan has been named in this case only on the ground of suspicion and doubt. Hence, finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court is not sustainable against surviving accused-appellant Laddan. From a perusal of the finding and reasoning as recorded by the learned Trial Court, we find that Trial Court has held guilty to surviving accused-appellant Laddan with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C., but the Trial Court has not considered on this legal point that without being cogent evidence adduced by the prosecution that there was a prearranged plan and criminal act pursuant to the prearranged plan, no person can be held liable for guilty with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C. Apart from this for holding guilty to any person with the aid of Section 34 I.P.C., a definite conclusion by the Court should be given of this nature that the said person, who is accused for the commission of crime had a prior concert with one or more other persons named or unnamed for commission of the said offence. When we perused the finding and reasoning of the Trial Court on this point, we find that Trial Court has not given any cogent reason and finding on this legal aspect and also against settled principles of law and also against the provisions of Section 34 I.P.C., has held guilty to surviving accused-appellant Laddan. We find that finding and reasoning as delivered by the Trial Court is without any cogent evidence and also against settled principles of law.

24. The Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra AIR 1963 SC 1413 has also held on Section 34 IPC., in paragraph 6 thus:

".. it is well settled that common intention within the meaning of the section implied a prearranged plan and the criminal act was done pursuant to the prearranged plan. The said plan may also develop on the spot during the course of the commission of the offence; but the crucial circumstance is that the said plan must precede the act constituting the offence. If that be so, before a court can convict a person under Section 302, read with section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, it should come to a definite conclusion that the said person, had a prior concert with one or more other persons, named or unnamed, for committing the said offence."

25. Thus, in the light of the legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil (supra), finding and reasoning of Trial Court is also found to be without any evidence and against the settled principles of law. The Trial Court has not kept this major legal aspect in mind that for the conviction of any person, with the help of Section 34 I.P.C., there must be a prearranged plan and a prior concert with one or more other persons named or unnamed for the commission of the crime and also some criminal act must be done by the alleged person pursuant to the prearranged plan. However, we find that there is no any prearranged plan and any prior concert of surviving accused-appellant Laddan with other accused-appellant for the commission of the alleged crime. Therefore, we find that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by trial Court in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan is without any evidence on the record and is against the settled principles of law in this respect. Finding and reasoning of the Trial Court in respect of the surviving accused-appellant Laddan is also against the legal principles of law as laid by the Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil (supra).

26. Therefore, from the above discussion and analysis, we find that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan is without evidence and against the settled principles of law, have not sustainable in the eyes of law. Due to above reasons, we are inclined to set aside the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan. Hence, the criminal appeal deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order dated 28.05.1990 of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan is liable to be set aside.

27. The Criminal Appeal is allowed. We set aside the judgment and order of conviction and sentence in respect of surviving accused-appellant Laddan dated 28.05.1990 as passed by the Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 72 of 1988 State Vs. Shaheed and others arising out of Case Crime No. 166 of 1987 under Section 302 I.P.C., read with Section 34 IPC, Police Station Cantt., District Allahabad. Criminal Appeal No. 1362 of 1984

Mahipal Singh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to criminal appeal under S. 374(2) Cr.P.C. against conviction under Ss. 147, 452, 365/149 and 324/149 IPC, concerning whether the prosecution established the ingredients of abduction and the requisite intent for an offence under S. 366 IPC, whether conviction under S. 365 IPC, in substitution of S. 366 IPC, was sustainable in the absence of evidence of intent to secretly and wrongfully confine the victim, whether conviction under Ss. 147, 452 and 324/149 IPC was supported by consistent ocular and medical evidence, and whether, having regard to the age of the appeal, the role attributed to the appellant and absence of previous conviction, the benefit of S. 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 could be extended. (Paras 20-25)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 147, 148, 149, 324, 365, 366 and 452 - Unlawful assembly - Abduction - Intent - Conviction - Evidence - Mere abduction not an offence unless combined with specific criminal intent - Victim alleged to have been taken away from the house of the informant by her former husband, mother and other accused - Marriage of victim with informant not established and divorce from former husband not established - No evidence that victim was abducted to compel her for marriage or seduce her to illicit intercourse - No evidence that victim was taken away with intent to secretly and wrongfully confine her - Conviction under S. 365 IPC unsustainable and set aside. (Paras 22-23)

Criminal Law - Evidence - Ocular evidence - Medical evidence - Ss. 147, 452 and 324/149 IPC - Prosecution witnesses consistent and reliable - Minor contradictions not material - Ocular evidence supported by medical evidence showing firearm injury and contusion - Participation in unlawful assembly and commission of offences proved - Conviction under Ss. 147, 452 and 324/149 IPC upheld. (Para 21, 24)

Criminal Law - Criminal procedure - Investigation - Missing victim and mother not traced - Investigating Officer did not make extensive search and filed charge-sheet hurriedly - Poor investigation - Statement of victim and her mother material - Defective investigation considered while assessing prosecution case relating to abduction and confinement. (Para 23)

Probation Of Offenders Act, 1958 - S. 4 - Benefit of probation - Appeal pending for more than forty-two years - Appellant old and infirm - No evidence of previous conviction - No specific role except presence along with other co-appellants - Ends of justice met by release on probation for six months to keep peace and maintain good behaviour - Conviction maintained but sentence modified. (Para 25-26)

Held: Mere abduction is not an offence unless combined with a specific criminal intent - where the victim was a major and was taken away by her husband along with her own mother and others, and the evidence did not establish that she was abducted to compel her for marriage or seduce her to illicit intercourse, the charge under S. 366 IPC was not proved - where the evidence did not establish the intent to secretly and wrongfully confine the victim, conviction under S. 365 IPC could not be sustained - the relationship of the informant with the victim was highly suspicious and the alleged marriage was not proved from the evidence - the victim and her mother were not properly traced and the investigation was not properly conducted - the ocular evidence of the witnesses of fact was consistent and reliable and was supported by medical evidence in respect of the occurrence involving unlawful assembly, house trespass and causing hurt by firearm - conviction under Ss. 147, 452 and 324/149 IPC was therefore rightly recorded - having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case, the role of the appellant, pendency of the appeal for more than forty-two years, absence of evidence of previous conviction, old age and infirmity of the appellant and absence of any specific role except presence along with other co-appellants, the ends of justice would be met by extending the benefit of S. 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 - appeal partly allowed - conviction under S. 365 IPC set aside - conviction under Ss. 147, 452 and 324/149 IPC upheld - sentence modified and appellant released on probation for six months to keep peace and maintain good behaviour upon furnishing personal bond of Rs. 50,000/- with two sureties of the like amount. APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal No. 1362 of 1984 against the impugned judgment and order dated 26.04.1984 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge-VIII, Bareilly in Sessions Trial No. 570 of 1982, Police Station-Bahedi, District-Bareilly, whereby the appellants were convicted and sentenced for offences punishable under Ss. 147, 452, 365/149 and 324/149 IPC and one appellant was additionally convicted under S. 148 IPC.

Advs. for the Appellant:

Shri Hasan Parvej, learned Counsel for the appellants

Advs. for the Respondents:

Shri Akhilesh Kumar Mishra, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This appeal has been filed under Section 374(2) Code of Criminal Procedure 1973 (in short Cr.P.C.), by appellants Mahipal Singh, Ram Pal Singh, Ram Singh, Subeydar Singh, Kunwar Singh and Angan Singh, against the impugned judgment and order dated 26.04.1984 passed by Sri Mahesh Chandra, Additional Sessions Judge-VIII, Bareilly in Sessions Trial No.570 of 1982, Police Station- Bahedi, District- Bareilly.

2. By the impugned judgment and order dated 26.04.1984, the learned trial court has convicted the appellants and for offence punishable under Section 147 Indian Penal Code,1860 (in short IPC) sentenced them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year; for offence punishable under Section 452 IPC sentenced them to undergo rigorous imprisonment of three years; for offence punishable under Section 365 read with 149 IPC sentenced them to undergo rigorous imprisonment of three years; for offence punishable under Section 324 read with 149 IPC sentenced them to undergo rigorous imprisonment of two years. Accused Angan Singh is convicted for offence punishable under Section 148 IPC and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for two years; for offence punishable under Section 452 IPC sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment of three years; for offence punishable under Section 365 read with 149 IPC sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment of three years; for offence punishable under Section 324 read with 149 IPC sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment of two years. It was further directed that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. During the pendency of this appeal, the appellants Mahipal Singh, Ram Pal Singh, Subeydar Singh, Kunwar Singh and Angan Singh have died and, therefore, this appeal stands abated against Mahipal Singh, Ram Pal Singh, Subeydar Singh, Kunwar Singh and Angan Singh, passed earlier. Now this appeal survives against Ram Singh, only.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that Chandra Pal Singh son of Hem Singh, resident of Mitidandi, Police Station- Baheri, District- Bareilly, filed a written application dated 24.07.1980 (Ext.Ka.1), before Incharge Police Station- Baheri, stating that he had solemnized court marriage with Maya Devi, the daughter of Tara Singh, resident of Gurbara Gautihya, Police Station- Baheri about six months ago. She was living with her mother at his house. A day before yesterday i.e. on 22.07.1980 some altercation took place, as a result, her mother left the house. His wife was earlier married with Mahipal Singh son of unknown resident of Jham, Police Station- Baheri. Today, in the night he was sleeping with his wife then at about 12:30 a.m. Mahipal Singh, Ram Pal Singh, Ram Singh, Subeydar Singh, Kunwar Singh, Angan Singh and his wife□s mother after climbing the wall, entered in his house. He was sleeping with his wife in the courtyard, the lantern was lit. From the noise he got awaken and all of them forcefully pulled Maya Devi aged about 19-20 years. Thereupon, he and his wife raised alarm then Balka Ram, Ghan Shyam Singh, Nathu Singh and Kunwar Pal and other villagers came running flashing their torches. In the meantime, the accused pulled his wife outside the house and when he was trying to separate them, Angan Singh shot at him with a gun. Two other persons were armed with lathis and due to the fear of the gun, none could dare to stop them and the accused kidnapped his wife with the purpose to solemnize her marriage. He sustained firearm injury over his leg and had identified the accused in the light of lantern and flash of torches.

5. On this information FIR under Case Crime No.366 of 1980, Sections- 147, 148, 149, 452, 324 and 366 IPC was lodged at Police Station- Baheri on 24.07.1980 at 02:30 a.m. and the investigation was entrusted to S.I. P.N. Mishra. He recorded the statements of witnesses and inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan (Ext.Ka.4). The injured was medically examined and after investigation the I.O. has filed charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.5) against all the appellants under Sections- 147, 148, 149, 324, 352 and 366 IPC before the concerned Magistrate.

6. The court concerned took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused, they appeared and copies of relevant prosecution papers were furnished to them under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

7. Before the Sessions Court, the accused appeared and charge under Sections- 147, 366 read with 149 IPC, 452, 324 read with 149 IPC was framed against appellants Mahipal Singh, Ram Pal Singh, Ram Singh, Subeydar Singh and Kunwar Singh and charge under Section 148, 366 read with 149, 452, 324 read with 149 IPC was framed against appellant Angan Singh. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution has examined five witnesses, to wit, P.W.1 Chandra Pal Singh; P.W. 2 Kunwar Pal Singh; P.W.3 Dariyab Singh; P.W.4 Dr. K.U. Ahmed; P.W. 5 S.I. Prem Nath Mishra, to prove its case.

9. P.W. 1 Chandra Pal Singh is the first informant of the case and has stated that he has solemnized marriage with Maya Devi about six months prior to the incident. It was a court marriage and his wife was living with him. Due to some altercation his mother-in-law left him sometime prior to the incident. Earlier his wife was married to accused Mahipal Singh. On the date of incident at about 12:30 a.m. he was sleeping in the courtyard of his house, the lantern was lit, then the accused along with Maya Devi□s mother climbed the wall and entered in the house. He got awaken and his brother Dariyab Singh and Maya Devi also woke up then, they kidnapped his wife Maya Devi. He chased them then Angan Singh shot at him with his gun. The witness Kunwar Pal Singh, Nathu Singh and others came there having torches. He went to the police station at about 02:30 a.m. in the night and lodged the FIR. The witness has proved the tehrir (Ext.Ka.1) and has said then he was sent for medical examination.

10. P.W.2 Kunwar Pal Singh, is the neighbour of the first informant and is an eye-witness of the incident. He has said that he reached at the house of the first informant upon hearing the noise. There he saw the incident and the accused along with a woman kidnapped the first informant□s wife. Angan Singh fired with a gun causing injuries to the first informant over his leg.

11. P.W.3. Dariyab Singh, is the brother of the first informant and he is also one of the inmates of the house in which the incident occurred. He has also supported the prosecution case and has said that Maya Devi was married to the first informant and it was a court marriage. The marriage took place about six months prior to the incident. He was sleeping inside the house and Chandra Pal and his wife are sleeping in the courtyard. Maya Devi□s mother had left house two days prior to the incident. Then the accused and Maya Devi□s mother came having gun and lathis. They pulled and took Maya Devi with them. Chandra Pal chased them, then Anagan Singh fired at him. It was a moon lit night and lantern was lit, and the accused had torches in their hands. Maya Devi is not traced out till today. He scribed the tehrir at the dictation of the first informant.

12. P.W. 4 Dr. K.U. Ahmad, is the Medical Officer, P.H.C. Baheri, who has medically examined Chandra Pal Singh, while he was posted as Incharge Medical Officer, there. He has found following injuries over his body:-

(i) Gunshot wound on dorsal aspect of the left lower leg and foot on the sole of the foot, measuring about 1/10 cm x 1/10 cm x skin and muscle deep and circular in nature. Some shots were skin deep and some were muscle deep and some of the nature of abrasion over lower part of left leg. Swelling was present. The movement of leg was painful. X.-Ray was advised.

(ii) Contusion 2 cm x 0.5 cm to the right of forehead.

In the opinion of the doctor injury no.1 was kept under observation till the X- Ray report. Injury no.1 was caused by firearm and injury no.2 was caused by any blunt object. Injuries were simple in nature. The witness have proved injury report as Ext.Ka.2 and said that all the injuries could have been caused on 23/24.07.1980 at 12 or 12:30 a.m. Injury no.2 could be caused due to a fall.

13. P.W.5 S.I. Prem Nath Mishra, is the investigating officer of the case, he has proved chik FIR as Ext.Ka.3 and copy of G.D. No.2 dated 24.08.1980, time 02:30 a.m. scribed by Head Moharrir Omkar Misra as Ext.Ka.6, is the secondary witness. He has stated that he has investigated the case and recorded statement of first informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan which he proved as Ext.Ka.4. He searched out the missing girl Maya Devi, but she was not found. Thereafter, he filed charge-sheet which he proved as Ext.Ka.5.

14. After the closure of prosecution evidence, the statements of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellant Ram Singh in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. has admitted that co-accused appellant Mahipal Singh was married to Maya Devi since before the incident. Rest of the prosecution case was denied and it was stated that false case has been lodged against him.

15. The accused have not adduced any evidence in their defence.

16. After perusal of evidence, the learned trial court came to the conclusion that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt, but the court observed that the accused are guilty of offence punishable under Section 365 I.P.C. instead of Section 366 I.P.C. beside their conviction in other sections under which they were charged and accordingly, convicted and sentenced the appellants to the term as indicated above.

17. Heard Shri Hasan Parvej, learned Counsel for the appellants and Shri Akhilesh Kumar Mishra, learned A.G.A on behalf of the State and perused the material on record.

18. It is submitted by learned counsel for the appellant that the prosecution case is not established. The abduction in itself is not an offence unless it is combined with a specific criminal intent as mentioned in the IPC. It is also submitted that there is no specific role assigned to the appellant. The marriage of the victim with the informant is also not proved and there are material contradictions in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case.

19. Per contra, learned counsel on behalf of the State has submitted that the charge against the appellant is fully established. The testimony of PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 is consistent, reliable and trustworthy. It is proved that the appellant along with other co-accused reached at the house of the first informant and thereafter committed maarpeet and in furtherance of their common object, as member of unlawful assembly, shot at the first informant causing him injuries, and had abducted the victim. Therefore the appellant has rightly been convicted, and therefore, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

20. In view of the submissions of learned counsel for the both the parties and upon perusal of record, it is clear that the incident occurred on 23/24.07.1980 at about 12:30 AM and the FIR has been lodged the same night at 2:30 AM. Therefore, within two hours the FIR was lodged. The appellant is named in the FIR along with other co-accused. According to the first informant, at the time of incident Maya Devi was aged about 19-20 years, therefore, she was major and as per prosecution.

21. The prosecution has examined PW-1 Chandrapal, the first informant, PW-2 Kunwarpal Singh, the neighbour and PW-3 Dariyab Singh, the first informant's brother, as witness of fact. All the above three witnesses have supported the prosecution case. Apart from bearing minor contradictions, their deposition is consistent throughout. It is stated by these witnesses that on the fateful night, the appellant along with other co-accused arrived at the house of the first informant, where he was sleeping with victim Maya Devi. Then they kidnapped Maya Devi and upon being chased, co-accused Angan Singh shot at the first informant with his gun, causing injuries to his leg. According to PW-2, the neighbour, he reached there upon hearing noise and saw that the appellant along with other co-accused had kidnapped the first informant's wife. PW-3 Dariyab Singh is the brother of the first informant and also one of the inmates of the house, in which the incident occurred. He has also stated the same version. There are no material contradictions in their depositions. The first informant was medically examined by PW-4 Dr. K.U. Ahmed, who has proved the injury report and has said that the injury sustained was a gunshot wound over his left lower leg and contusion on the right side of forehead and was simple in nature. Therefore, the ocular evidence is supported by medical evidence and the testimony of all the witnesses of fact is consistent and reliable in this regard.

22. Here, according to the first informant, the victim Maya Devi was his wife whom he had married six months prior to the incident. It was a court marriage. He has stated that he has a marriage certificate with him but it was not produced in the court. It is an admitted fact to the prosecution that the victim was earlier married to co-appellant Mahipal Singh and the first informant himself has admitted that there is no evidence that the divorce has taken place between Maya Devi and Mahipal Singh. In view of the above fact that the divorce of the victim with co-appellant Mahipal Singh is not established, and he was the husband of the victim, and also there is no evidence that the first informant has married the victim, therefore, it is not established that Maya Devi was the first informant’s wife. Importantly, from the evidence it is proved that at the time of incident, co-appellant Mahipal Singh, the victim’s husband, and the victim’s mother had come along with other co-accused and had taken her away from the first informant’s house. So even if, it is presumed that it was a case of abduction as defined in Section 362 IPC, but mere abduction is not an offence as held by the Hon’ble Supreme Court in a catena of judgments, such as Joseph Shine Vs. Union of India AIR 2018 SC 2019. The prosecution has to prove the intent with which the victim was abducted. In the present case, the appellant has been charged for offence under Section 366 IPC, but there is no evidence that she was abducted to compel her for marriage or seduce her to illicit intercourse, therefore, the charge under Section 366 IPC is not proved against the appellant.

23. The Learned Trial Court has convicted the appellant under Section 365 IPC instead of Section 366 IPC, which provides that "kidnapping with intent to secretly and wrongfully confine a person shall be an offence punishable under this section." The intent to secretly and wrongfully confine the victim, cannot be gathered from the evidence adduced by the prosecution. The victim herself was not properly traced. The mother of the victim was also not found, though according to the prosecution she was one of the accused, named in the FIR, who arrived at the place of occurrence alongwith other accused and had taken away her daughter. The I.O. did not bother to interrogate her or to capture her for the reasons best known to him. The statement of Investigating Officer shows that he has not investigated the case properly and did not make any extensive search of the victim as well as her mother. In this regard, the statement of victim and her mother was very material, but due to poor investigation both of them were not traced and the I.O. has filed charge-sheet hurriedly without any proper investigation.The relationship of the first informant with the victim is highly suspicious, under the circumstances that he claims himself as the husband of the victim, but this is not proved from the evidence. He has admitted that he is a home guard and was convicted in a murder case. Under what circumstances the victim was living with the first informant is not well explained by the prosecution. The victim was taken away by her husband along with her own mother and others. So it does not show that she was taken away with any intent to secretly and wrongfully confine her. Therefore, the offence under Section 365 IPC is also not made out. In this regard, the Learned Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence on record correctly and has reached at a wrong conclusion of the guilt of the accused, the appellant. So the offence under Section 366 or 365 IPC, under which the Learned Trial Court has convicted the appellant, is not proved. Therefore, the appellant deserves to be acquitted of the offence under Section 365 IPC.

24. So far as the other offence under Sections 147, 452, 324 read with 149 IPC are concerned, it is proved that the appellant along with other co-appellants formed an unlawful assembly and armed with weapons committed the above offence. Therefore, the appellant was rightly convicted of the offence punishable under Sections 147, 452, 324 read with 149 IPC.

25. So far as the sentence awarded to the appellant for the offence punishable under Sections 147, 452, 324 read with 149 IPC is concerned, looking into the facts and circumstances of the case, the role of the appellant, and the pendency of this appeal which is more than forty-two years old, it would serve no purpose to sentence the appellant and put him behind the bars. There is no evidence that the appellant was previously convicted in any case. The appellant is now an old and infirm person. He has been appearing in this appeal since last more than forty-two years and there was no specific role of the appellant in the said crime except that he was present along with other co-appellants. Therefore, the ends of justice would be met if, instead of passing any sentence, the appellant is given the benefit of Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958.

26. In view of the above this appeal is allowed partly and the conviction of the appellant under Section 365 IPC is set aside and the conviction of the appellant under Section 147, 452, 324/149 IPC, is upheld. But the sentence awarded to the appellant is modified and instead of sentencing him at once, he is released on probation for a period of six months to keep peace and maintain good behaviour for the aforesaid period, upon his furnishing a personal bond of Rs. 50,000/- with two sureties of the like amount to the satisfaction of the concerned probation officer, with an undertaking that in case of breach of the condition he shall appear and be heard on sentence. The bonds and sureties aforesaid be filed by the convict within fifteen days from the date of the Judgment as per law and Rules.

27. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the concerned Trial Court and concerned Probation Officer for intimation and necessary compliance.

Issue for consideration

The case pertains to the prosecution of the accused –husband and father-in-law for setting the deceased wife on fire by pouring kerosene oil, resulting in her death, with the conviction of the husband under section 302 and 498-A IPC & ¾ D.P. Act.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 304B, 302, 498-A & ¾ D.P. Act-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2), Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 32-Dying declaration-Sole basis of conviction-Evidentiary value-Declaration recorded by Magistrate supported by medical fitness certificate-Non-examination or hostility of eye-witnesses immaterial when dying declaration is found to be voluntary, truthful and free from tutoring-Accused-husband pouring kerosene and setting wife on fire over childlessness-Subsequent conduct of accused in fleeing scene and failing to render medical assistance belies defense of accidental fire from cooking stove-Conviction under section 302 IPC upheld-Appeal dismissed-Cruelty by In-Laws- Separate residence-Co-accused father-in-law residing separately in a different hut without evidence of participation or harassment-Acquittal granted due to lack of specific role or evidence-Appeal allowed.(Para 23 to 42) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that absence of a formal endorsement by a medical officer certifying the "fit state of mind" of the declarant does not render the dying declaration invalid or inadmissible. The requirement of medical certification is rule of prudence rather than a mandatory rule of law. The court further held that the defense of an accidental fire originating from a kerosene lamp during cooking is unsustainable where the conduct of the accused husband immediately after the incident demonstrates guilty mind. The failure of the husband to render medical assistance, take his severely burnt wife to the hospital, or report the matter to the police, coupled with his immediate flight from the scene, belies the plea of accident and strongly corroborates the homicidal nature of death by burning.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

These criminal appeals have been filed by accused-appellants, Suhail and Tufail, against the judgment and order of conviction dated 14.01.2020 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-II, Fatehpur in Session Trial No.119 of 2018 (State Vs. Suhail and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 235 of 2017, under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Sultanpur Ghosh, District Fatehpur.

2. Brief facts of the case, according to written report, Exhibit Ka-1, which was lodged by Anarunnisha (PW-1), are inter alia that on 16.11.2017 at about 9:00 PM, the in-laws of my daughter, namely her husband Suhail, Imran, Afsar, Tufail, Jeena, Arbeena, and Rabiya, poured kerosene oil on the body of Sanno while she was sleeping and set her on fire. As a result, Sanno sustained severe burn injuries and her skin was badly damaged. She is currently fighting for her life, and there is little hope of her survival. Due to her not having children and the demand for a four-wheeler not being fulfilled, all of them together want to kill Sanno.

3. On the basis of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, which was filed by informant Anarunnisha (PW-1), a case was registered at Case Crime No. 235 of 2017, under Sections 498A, 307 IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act at Police Station Sultanpur Ghosh, District Fatehpur against the named accused persons, Suhail, Imran, Afsar, Tufail, Jeena, Arbeena and Rabiya by Head Moharrir Kanhaiya Singh (PW-6).

4. After registration of the F.I.R., Inspector Radheyshyam Dwivedi (PW-8) took the investigation of the case. He inspected the place of occurrence and also recorded the statement of informant Anarunnisha (PW-1). The Investigating Officer prepared the site plan of the place of occurrence on the pointing out of the informant, Anarunnisha (PW-1). He also collected and made a recovery memo of burned clothes and ashes of the hut as Exhibit Ka-6. The victim Sanno was firstly taken to the District Hospital, Fatehpur. Prosecution witness, Dr. Santraj Singh, Naib Tehsildar (PW-11) on 17.11.2017 on the direction of S.D.M., Sadar, Fatehpur visited District Hospital, Fatehpur and recorded the dying declaration of the victim Sanno. Thereafter victim Sanno was referred to Hallett Hospital, Kanpur for her treatment. At Hallett Hospital, Kanpur, the victim Sanno died on 30.11.2017 at 11:00 PM. After the death of deceased Sanno at Hallett Hospital Kanpur, Section 304B IPC was added and investigation of the case was handed over to Circle Officer, Surendra Kar. After suspension of Surendra Kar, the investigation was handed over to Circle Officer, Shripal Yadav (PW-7). Prosecution witness Arsala Naas, Naib Tehsildar, Sadar, Kanpur (PW-10) conducted the panchayatnama proceeding of the dead body of the deceased Sanno and prepared the panchayatnama, Exhibit Ka-8.

5. Investigating Officer Shripal Yadav (PW-7) recorded the statement of prosecution witnesses as well as of other formal witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and after completing all the formalities of the investigation, he submitted charge-sheet only against the accused-appellants, Suhail and Tufail, under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. The Investigating Officer also found the allegations against the other accused persons named in the written report, namely, Imran, Afsar, Jeena, Arbeena and Rabiya to be false, hence they all were exonerated.

6. Prosecution witness Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9) conducted the postmortem examination of the dead body of the deceased Sanno and prepared the postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-7. According to Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9), following ante mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased Sanno :

"Superficial to deep thermal burn injuries all over the body except skull, face and both soles. Pus present all over the burn area. Pubic hairs burnt and singed. About 95% thermal burn injury seen"

7. According to Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9), about 95% body of the deceased Sanno was burnt. The deceased died by septicemia due to ante mortem burn injuries.

8. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session.

9. The charge was framed against the accused-appellants, Suhail and Tufail, under Sections 498A, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. Apart from these charges, learned trial Court also framed alternative charge against the accused-appellants, Suhail and Tufail, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. The accused-appellants denied from the charge and claimed trial.

10. To substantiate the charge against the accused-appellants, prosecution adduced Anarunnisha (PW-1), Babu @ Bablu (PW-2), Suman @ Suggan (PW-3), Pannabano (PW-4), Mohd. Husain (PW-5), Kanhaiya Singh (PW-6), Shripal Yadav (PW-7), Radhey Shyam Dwivedi (PW-8), Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9), Arsala Naas (PW-10), Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12). Apart from the above ocular evidence, prosecution also relied on documentary evidence from Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-13.

11. In trial Court, the evidence of prosecution witnesses was recorded. After recording the evidence of prosecution witnesses, learned trial Court examined the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellants denied all the allegations and have stated that all allegations are false. The prosecution has given false evidence against them. The accused-appellants have also stated that the deceased Sanno was cooking food on the date of incident at 09:00 PM. Under hut, a lamp of kerosene oil was lit above the clay stove (chulha) at some distance. Due to pressure from some insects, the lamp of kerosene oil fell on the ground and by falling the same, spark spread and fire caught in the hut as well as in the clothes of deceased, Sanno. The accused-appellant, Suhail, has also stated that he tried to extinguish the fire. In this attempt, he also got burnt. He has not demanded any four wheeler vehicle from his wife or from his father-in-law and mother-in-law. He also stated that he has never taunted his wife for not having child. Both the accused-appellants have stated that they are innocent. They have also stated that the deceased has received burn injuries of 95% and she was not in a condition to speak. The victim has not given any statement to Naib Tehsildar and he in collusion with the informant has written false statement. In this way, the accused-appellants denied from all the charges and allegations. They have also stated that they will adduce defence evidence in their support. In their defence, accused-appellants have adduced Kallu as DW-1.

12. After recording the evidence of both sides, the trial Court heard the arguments of the prosecution and defence and found the accused-appellant, Suhail, guilty under Section 302, 498A IPC and accused-appellant, Tufail, was also found guilty under Section 498A IPC. However, the accused-appellant, Suhail, was acquitted under Section 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. The accused-appellant, Tufail, was also acquitted under Section 302, 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. The trial Court convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant, Suhail, for life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was directed to undergo six months additional imprisonment. The accused-appellant, Suhail, was further sentenced under Section 498A IPC to undergo three years imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 3000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was directed to undergo three months additional imprisonment. The accused-appellant, Tufail, was convicted and sentenced under Section 498A IPC for two years imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2000/- and in default of payment of fine, he was directed to undergo two months additional imprisonment. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

13. Aggrieved by the above judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 14.01.2020, accused-appellants preferred these criminal appeals.

14. We have heard the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the respondent-State. We have also gone through the evidence available on record and the judgment and order of the learned trial Court dated 14.01.2020.

15. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has argued that at the time of passing of the impugned judgment and order, learned trial Court has not applied its judicial mind. The appellant, Suhail, is husband of the deceased, Sanno, and he has been falsely implicated in the present case without any evidence. The appellant, Tufail, is father-in-law of the deceased Sanno. He was also falsely implicated by the prosecution. Learned trial Court has illegally convicted the accused-appellants without considering real facts and circumstances of the case. It is also submitted by learned counsel for the accused-appellants that the deceased Sanno was cooking food at the time of the incident in her hut. A lamp of kerosene oil was lit above the clay stove (chulha) which fell down on the ground. Due to this, spark spread from the clay stove and caught fire in the hut. The fire was also caught the clothes of the deceased Sanno, who was cooking food at that time. Suhail, who is husband of the deceased Sanno, tried to save her life. In this attempt, he also got burnt and sustained injury. Prosecution witnesses of the facts turned hostile. They have not supported the prosecution story. Due to this, learned trial Court, although acquitted the accused-appellants under Section 304B IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, but convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant, Suhail, husband of the deceased Sanno, against the settled principles of law under Section 302 IPC. There is no evidence on the record from which it could be conclusively proved that accused-appellant, Suhail, has committed murder of his wife, deceased Sanno, by pouring kerosene oil upon her and setting her on fire. However, learned trial Court without any evidence available on record or from any prosecution witnesses wrongly held accused-appellant, Suhail, guilty under Section 302 IPC for murder of the deceased Sanno and convicted and sentenced him. The finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court are against the settled principles of law and without any evidence on the record. The accused-appellant, Tufail, who is father-in-law of the deceased is totally innocent and was living separately from his son, Suhail, in a separate hut and earning his livelihood by doing labour work, but the trial Court has wrongly convicted and sentenced Tufail for Section 498A IPC. It is also submitted on behalf of the accused-appellants that so called dying declaration of deceased Sanno is falsely recorded by the prosecution witness Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) in collusion with the informant Anarunnisha (PW-1). There are many defects and drawbacks in the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, of the deceased Sanno, which was recorded by Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11). The trial Court has not considered legal perspective in the light of the settled principles of law in this regard by the Supreme Court and in total disregard of the settled principles of law and against the evidence, held the accused-appellants guilty for commission of the alleged offence. On the above point of arguments, it is submitted by learned counsel for the accused-appellants that the accused-appellants are innocent and deserve to be acquitted by the Trial Court. Hence the judgment and order dated 14.01.2020 of the Trial Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside and the criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants deserve to be allowed.

16. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the respondent-State has submitted that although witnesses of the facts have turned hostile but on the basis of dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, and evidence of the prosecution witnesses, Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11), who recorded the dying declaration of the deceased Sanno, and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), who has testified and given certificate that the deceased at that time was in conscious condition and she was able to give her statement. On the basis of the above evidence, trial Court has held the accused-appellants guilty for commission of the crime and sentenced them accordingly. There is no misappreciation and misreading of the evidence by the trial Court. The trial Court has appreciated all the evidence in proper perspective and according to the settled principles of law. There is no perversity or illegality in the judgment and order of trial Court. The finding and reasoning given by trial Court are based on cogent evidence, such as, dying declaration and evidence of prosecution witnesses, Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12). The evidence of the above prosecution witnesses and dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, were found fully reliable and creditworthy by the trial Court. Due to this reason, the trial Court delivered the above judgment and order of conviction and sentence. In this way, learned A.G.A. for the respondent-State has submitted that criminal appeals filed by the accused-appellants have no merit and are liable to be rejected and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the trial Court dated 14.01.2020 is liable to be affirmed.

17. In the light of above arguments and from perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is revealed that informant Anarunnisha (PW-1) filed written report, Exhibit Ka-1, alleging that "on 16.11.2017 at about 09:00 PM, the in-laws of my daughter, namely, Suhail (husband), Imran, Afsar, Tufail, Jeena, Arbeena, and Rabiya, poured kerosene oil on the body of Sanno while she was sleeping and set her on fire. As a result, Sanno sustained severe burn injuries and her skin was badly damaged. She is currently fighting for her life, and there is little hope of her survival." In the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, the informant, Anarunnisha (PW-1), stated that the cause of the incident was that her daughter was unable to give birth to child. In other words, childlessness and the demand for a four-wheeler vehicle were cited as the reasons and motive for the incident. Thus, it is apparent that aforesaid two causes or motives for the incident are stated in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1.

18. When informant Anarunnisha (PW-1) was examined in the trial Court, she, in her examination-in-chief, fully supported the prosecution story. She stated in her examination-in-chief that "I am illiterate. The incident is about one year old. I had married my daughter with Suhail, who is resident of the same village. Marriage was solemnized in the year 2014 about four years ago. In November last year, at about 9:00 PM, when my daughter was sleeping, her husband and in-laws, namely, Suhail, Imran, Afsar, Tufail, Jeena, Arbeena and Rabiya, set her on fire. After catching fire, my daughter rushed out of the house to save herself. Upon hearing the hue and cry in the village, I also reached at the spot. My daughter was badly burnt. In-laws of my daughter were demanding a four-wheeler vehicle in dowry. My husband and my elder brother-in-law had taken my daughter to the Government Hospital. From there, she was taken to Sadar Hospital, Fatehpur. Since the condition of my daughter was very serious, doctor referred her to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur. I had also went at Hallet Hospital. My daughter had died later at Hallet Hospital. The statement of my daughter was recorded by magistrate during her treatment at District Hospital, Fatehpur. After setting her on fire, in-laws of my daughter fled away from the house. Due to not fulfilling the demand of a four-wheeler vehicle in dowry, my daughter was burnt by her in-laws." However, in her cross-examination, she resiled from her statement in examination-in-chief and has not supported the prosecution story. In spite of becoming hostile in her cross-examination, written report, Exhibit Ka-1, has found fully corroborated by her statement given in the examination-in-chief. Thus, we find that the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, found corroboration by the evidence of informant (PW-1) as given in her examination-in-chief.

19. Other prosecution witnesses of the facts, Babu @ Bablu (PW-2), Suman @ Suggan (PW-3), Pannabano (PW-4) and Mohd. Hussain (PW-5) have not supported the prosecution story and all turned hostile.

20. Now only dying declaration of the deceased Sanno, Exhibit Ka-13, become relevant in this case. From the perusal of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, it is revealed that on 17.11.2017 at 12:20 AM, her statement was recorded at District Hospital, Fatehpur. Before recording her dying declaration, Medical Officer, District Hospital, Fatehpur has given a certificate at the first page of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, that □patient is conscious and able to speak at 12:15 AM on 17.11.2017.□ After recording the dying declaration of the victim Sanno on the backside below the ending of dying declaration in middle of the page again a certificate is endorsed by the same Medical Officer, District Hospital, Fatehpur dated 17.11.2017 that □patient is conscious and able to speak and well oriented and mentally sound during her statement. Patient is mentally sound now at 12:52 AM.□ On backside of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, thumb impression of the right hand of the victim Sanno was endorsed. Signature of Naib Tehsildar are also endorsed with date □17.11.2017□.

21. From the perusal of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, of the deceased Sanno, it is revealed that incident happened on 16.11.2017 at 08:00 PM and dying declaration of the deceased Sanno was recorded on the same night on 17.11.2017 at 12:20 AM. Thus, there is no delay in recording the dying declaration of the deceased Sanno. In her dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, Sanno stated that □she is aged about 22 years and wife of Mohd. Suhail.□ She also stated that □on 16.11.2017 at about 08:00 PM, her husband suddenly started beating and abusing her and he poured kerosene oil on her body and set her on fire.□ She has also stated that □I made hue and cry and began to rush here and there. I rushed outside and fell on the road. Then my uncle-in-law, Afsar, reached me and extinguish the fire caught on my body and I become unconscious.□ According to the dying declaration, she also stated that □my matrimonial home and paternal home are in the same village. I was married before three years of the incident with Mohd. Suhail, who is son of my maternal uncle.□ According to her statement in dying declaration, she has also stated that □after three years of marriage, I could not conceive and was unable to give birth to the child. Due to this reason, my in-laws were aggrieved and taunting me for not giving birth to the children.□ Apart from the above statement, deceased Sanno has also stated in her dying declaration that □her husband had illicit relation with his sister-in-law, Rabiya. This relationship is known to me for the last two years. I had seen them on bed in a compromising situation. Due to this reason, they began to harass me and often committed cruelty.□ In this way, in her dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, deceased Sanno has stated above two causes and reasons, due to which her husband, Suhail, poured kerosene oil on her body and set her on fire.

22. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has made arguments that prosecution witnesses, including informant Anarunnisha (PW-1), has not made any allegation against the appellants. There is no evidence of any independent witness that the appellant Suhail used to torture his wife Sanno for being issue-less. Hence, in the absence of any evidence to this effect, prosecution story appears to be concocted and is liable to be rejected. It is also submitted that in the present case, in absence of any other evidence, the appellant was convicted by the trial Court only on the basis of dying declaration of the deceased without corroborating the contents of the dying declaration of the deceased. The dying declaration of the deceased is not free from tutoring and prompting since PW-1 was present at the time of recording the dying declaration. It is further submitted that from perusal of the post mortem report of the deceased, it is clear that at the time of making dying declaration, the deceased was burnt upto 95%. The deceased suffered ante mortem superficial to deep burnt injuries all over the body except skull, face and both soles. Brain and its internal matter were congested, lungs were congested, spleen and lever were also congested and both kidneys were also congested. Under such circumstances, it is highly improbable that the deceased has to make her statement which makes the dying declaration doubtful and the conviction based on it, is unsustainable. He also submitted that PW-1, who is mother of the deceased, has also admitted in her cross-examination that when the dying declaration of the victim Sanno was recorded, she was not fit to make any statement and her condition was very serious. Hence, the dying declaration appears to be doubtful and unreliable.

23. In the light of the above submissions of learned counsel for the accused-appellants, we have perused the evidence of Dr. Santraj Singh, Naib Tehsildar, Sadar, Fatehpur (PW-11), who has recorded dying declaration of the deceased Sanno on 17.11.2017 and evidence of Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), who has given certificate of fitness and mental condition of the victim Sanno before and after recording of her dying declaration.

24. From the perusal of the evidence of Dr. Santraj Singh, Naib Tehsildar (PW-11), it is revealed that, on the direction of the S.D.M., Fatehpur, he reached the District Hospital, Fatehpur for recording the dying declaration of the victim, Sanno. According to this witness, on 17.11.2017, he went to the emergency ward of Sadar Hospital, Fatehpur, where the doctor, under whose supervision the deceased, Sanno, was undergoing treatment, was present. He requested Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) for giving certificate about fitness and mental condition of the victim Sanno. Thereafter, Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) has given certificate that "patient is conscious and able to speak at 12:15 AM on 17.11.2017." Apart from this, Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) also himself questioned the victim Sanno to know her condition and according to this witness, Sanno has given correct answer and he found that she is fully competent to give her statement. Thereafter, this witness has recorded the dying declaration of the victim/deceased Sanno with regard to whole incident. According to this witness, at the time of recording of the dying declaration, no patient except Sanno was present in the ward. According to this witness, after completion of the recording of the dying declaration of the victim Sanno, again Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) has given certificate about fitness and mental condition of the victim Sanno that "patient is conscious and able to speak and well oriented and mentally sound during her statement. Patient is mentally sound now at 12:52 AM." The victim/deceased Sanno heard the contents of her dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, and she verified the same to be true. During the course of cross-examination by defence, this witness has denied all suggestions put to him. There is no question of this nature in the cross-examination of this witness by which we could doubt the veracity and trustworthiness of this witness.

25. In the same way, from the perusal of the evidence of Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), it is revealed that before recording of dying declaration by Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11), this witness Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) has given fitness certificate about the mental condition and competency of the deceased Sanno. Even after recording of the dying declaration of deceased Sanno, this witness has also given certificate at the end of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, on the backside of the paper that "patient is conscious and able to speak and well oriented and mentally sound during her statement. Patient is mentally sound now at 12:52 AM." Both above prosecution witness Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) verified this fact and testified after perusing the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, in their handwriting. During cross-examination by defence, Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12) has stated in his cross-examination that there was no one present in the ward at the time of recording of dying declaration of deceased Sanno. Only he (PW-12) and Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) were present. Meaning thereby, no member of the deceased Sanno's paternal family members were present at the time of recording her dying declaration. Thus, from this fact, it is amply clear that there was no possibility or chance for tutoring and prompting to deceased Sanno about the statement. The dying declaration of deceased Sanno was found to be free from tutoring, prompting and false concoction.

26. We have perused the judgment of the Apex Court (Five-Judge Bench) in the case of Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710. The facts of the above case law and those of the present case, to some extent, are similar inasmuch as, in the said case, only a certificate was given by the doctor stating that the patient was conscious, and in the present case as well, Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava has given a certificate that the patient was conscious and able to speak. On this point, the Supreme Court held that there was certificate of the doctor indicating that patient was conscious. The accused-appellants contended that, since the doctor's certification did not state that the patient was in a fit state of mind to make the statement, the dying declaration could not form the sole basis of conviction. The Supreme Court in the light of above arguments held that;

"The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is very solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason that the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a Magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a Magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. Where it is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate that the declarant was fit to make the statement even without examination by the doctor the declaration can be acted upon provided the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and it is indeed a hypertechnical view that the certification of the doctor was to the effect that the patient is conscious and there was no certification that the patient was in a fit state of mind especially when the Magistrate categorically stated in his evidence indicating the questions he had put to the patient and from the answers elicited was satisfied that the patient was in a fit state of mind whereafter he had recorded the dying declaration."

27. The Supreme Court overruled the case law of Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of Andhra Pradesh, (1999) 7 SCC 695 as not a good law and affirmed the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Koli Chunilal Savji and another V. State of Gujarat, (1999) 9 SCC 562. The three Judges Bench of the Supreme Court in the case of Koli Chunilal Savji (supra) held in para 7 that;

"In Ravi Chander v. State of Punjab, (1998) 9 SCC 303, this Court has held that for not examining the doctor, the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate and the dying declaration orally made need not be doubted. The Court further observed that the Executive Magistrate is a disinterested witness and is a responsible officer and there is no circumstance or material on record to suspect that the Executive Magistrate had any animus against the accused or was in any way interested in fabricating the dying declaration and, therefore, the question of genuineness of the dying declaration recorded by the Executive Magistrate to be doubted does not arise."

28. The Supreme Court in the case of Krishna Kumar @ Pamma v. State of Haryana, (1998) 8 SCC 586 has held in para 10 that;

"On perusal of the impugned judgment, we find that both the learned courts below went into the question as to whether the deceased met with homicidal death as alleged by the prosecution or a suicidal death as contended by the appellant and on detailed discussion of the evidence found the story made out by the appellant wholly unacceptable. The most important circumstance which persuades us to disbelieve the version of the appellant is the fact that immediately after the incident, he ran away from the spot. If his version was true, it was expected of him to take the deceased immediately to the hospital for the purpose of treatment. Indeed, he did not even get himself examined for his own burns. While on this point it will be pertinent to mention that Dr (Mrs) Sinha opined that the injuries found on the appellant were possible while putting somebody on fire by pouring kerosene as in such a situation, flames emerge abruptly. We do not however for a moment suggest that his such conduct by itself points to his guilt but it certainly belies his version of the incident. It is, of course, true that the sister of the deceased has supported the appellant but we cannot lose sight of the fact that she was a witness for the prosecution and was summoned to testify on its behalf. She was however not examined by the prosecution as she was found to have been won over; and then she examined herself as a defence witness. She admitted in her cross-examination that for the purposes of testifying on behalf of the defence, she was not summoned by the Court but was brought by Raj Kumar, the brother of the appellant. Then again we find that she admitted in her deposition that she had been attracted to the spot on hearing the cries of the deceased. Obviously, the cries were raised by the deceased after she was put on fire and, therefore, she could not have been in a position to say how she had been set on fire."

29. Thus, in light of the legal principles laid down by the Supreme Court in the cases of Laxman (supra), Koli Chunilal Savji (supra) and Krishna Kumar @ Pamma (supra), it is clear that the requirement of a doctor's endorsement regarding the mental fitness of the deceased to make his/her declaration is not a rule of law or a mandatory provision, but merely a rule of prudence; the ultimate test is whether the dying declaration is truthful, voluntary, and free from any tutoring, prompting, or other suspicious circumstances.

30. From the appreciation and perusal of the evidence of Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), we find that the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, of deceased Sanno is free from any tutoring and prompting. It is found to be truthful and voluntary, which inspire confidence as being trustworthy and creditworthy and is wholly reliable.

31. Thus, in the light of the above legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in the cases of Laxman (supra), Koli Chunilal Savji (supra) and Krishna Kumar @ Pamma (supra) and in the light of the evidence of Dr. Santraj Singh (PW-11) and also Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), we find no force in any arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants in this respect.

32. We have also perused the case law as referred and relied on by learned counsel for the accused-appellants, such as, Khushal Rao v. State of Bombay, 1957 LawSuit (SC) 93; Rasheed Beg v. State of M.P., 1973 LawSuit (SC) 355; K. Ramachandra Reddy v. Public Prosecutor, 1976 LawSuit (SC) 214; Darshan Singh v. State of Punjab, 1983 LawSuit (SC) 104; Paniben v. State of Gujarat, 1992 LawSuit (SC) 228; Jugal v. State of U.P., 2023 LawSuit (All) 1227; Phulel Singh v. State of Haryana, 2023 LawSuit (SC) 951; and Sunil Kumar, Bal Krishna and another v. State, 2024 LawSuit (All) 2327, and find that the facts and circumstances of the aforesaid cases as relied upon and referred to by the accused-appellants are different from the facts and circumstances of the present case at hand. Apart from the above, we also find that in the light of the legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in the case of Laxman (supra), Koli Chunilal Savji (supra) and Krishna Kumar @ Pamma (supra), the accused-appellants are not found entitled for any benefit on the ground of case laws as referred above by them.

33. From the perusal of the evidence, documentary and oral, it is revealed that after happening of the incident, accused-appellants Suhail fled away from the place of occurrence. The house of parents of the deceased Sanno was in the same village. On hearing the hue and cry of the people, they reached at the spot and got admitted her daughter Sanno at Sadar Hospital, Fatehpur. Although all witnesses of facts, such as, mother and other prosecution witnesses turned hostile and have not supported the prosecution story but it is clear that the accused-appellant, Suhail, after the incident disappeared from the place of occurrence. If the accused-appellant Suhail was innocent, he would have been duty-bound to take his burnt wife Sanno to the hospital for treatment and also to inform the police by giving information at the concerned police station having jurisdiction about the incident. It is the defence of the accused-appellants that a kerosene oil lamp was lit above the clay stove where the deceased Sanno was cooking food and it accidentally fell on the ground, and due to the spark, fire caught the clothes of the deceased. In these circumstances, why did the accused-appellant Suhail, who is the husband of the deceased Sanno, flee from the place of the incident and not cared to admit her to the hospital for treatment? Why accused-appellant, Suhail, husband of the deceased Sanno, has not given information of so-called accidental occurrence at the police station? Thus, from the conduct of the accused-appellant, Suhail, it is amply clear that it is not an accidental death but a homicidal death. Thus, the defence of the accused-appellant, Suhail, is belied by his own conduct. Meaning thereby, incident dated 16.11.2017 is not an accidental incident but it is a homicidal one because after pouring kerosene oil upon his wife Sanno, accused-appellant, Suhail, fled away from the place of occurrence. He even not cared to take the victim to the hospital for her treatment and also he had not given any information at the concerned police station having jurisdiction in this respect. Thus, the conduct of the accused-appellant, Suhail, also corroborates the prosecution case of homicidal death and the statement of the deceased Sanno in her dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13.

34. As far as the argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellants in respect of lodging the first information report after four day delay is concerned, we also find no force in this argument because the incident happened on 16.11.2017. The victim Sanno was admitted by her parents to District Hospital, Fatehpur on the same night on 16.11.2017 and her dying declaration was recorded on the same night at 12:20 on 17.11.2017. Since the condition of the victim was serious, she was referred to Hallett Hospital, Kanpur for her treatment where she died on 30.11.2017. It is revealed from the record of the case that after the incident, the accused-appellant, Suhail, whose wife deceased Sanno was burnt seriously has fled away from the place of occurrence with his family members. The paternal family members of the deceased Sanno were busy in her treatment to save her life. For this reason, the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, could be lodged by Anarunnisha (PW-1) only on 20.11.2017. Since the parents, brother, and sister of the deceased Sanno were busy in her treatment and in efforts to save her life, therefore, there was a delay of four days in lodging the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, at the concerned police station. Thus, we find that there is no delay in lodging the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, at the concerned police station, therefore, we find no force in the argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellants in this respect.

35. As far as arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants that no witnesses of fact has supported the prosecution story and in this light, the prosecution story become suspicious is concerned, we are of the opinion that all witnesses of facts have been won over by the defence. Due to this reason, witnesses of facts have not supported the prosecution story. However, only on that ground, accused-appellant, Suhail, is not found entitled to gain any benefit because in the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, it was found fully trustworthy and free from tutoring and prompting. The deceased herself narrated the incident in a very simple words. Learned trial Court based its finding and reasoning on the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, and found the accused-appellant, Suhail, guilty for the commission of the murder of his wife, deceased Sanno, by pouring kerosene oil on her body and set her on fire. Thus, even after all prosecution witnesses of facts turned hostile, there is ample evidence, which is based on dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, of deceased Sanno against the accused-appellant, Suhail. Thus, we also do not find any force in the arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants in this respect.

36. As far as the arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants which are based on the postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-7, and the testimony of Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9), who prepared Exhibit Ka-7, are concerned, it is clear from the postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-7, and the statement of Dr. Sarvajeet Singh (PW-9) that the features of the dead body regarding the external and internal organs, as recorded in the postmortem report, were noted after the death of the deceased Sanno. Meaning thereby, on 17.11.2017 at 12:20 AM, she was fully conscious and able to give her statement. This shows that on 17.11.2017, there was no failure of internal and external organs of the deceased Sanno, when her dying declaration was being recorded by Dr. Santraj Singh, Naib Tehsildar (PW-11) in presence of Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12). In view of the above, we find no force in the argument of learned counsel for the accused-appellants in this respect also.

37. Thus, from the above discussions and perusal of the dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13, of the deceased, which is corroborated by Dr. Santraj Singh, Naib Tehsildar (PW-11) and Dr. Atul Kumar Srivastava (PW-12), it is clearly revealed that when Sanno was sleeping, accused-appellant, Suhail, with intention to kill her, poured kerosene oil upon her and set her on fire and thereby killed his wife only for the reasons that she was not conceiving and giving birth to child and she had seen her husband, Suhail, with her sister-in-law (Jethani), Rabiya, in a compromising situation.

38. We have also gone through the finding and reasoning given by learned trial Court and found that the finding and reasoning given by learned trial Court in respect of the role and direct involvement of accused-appellant, Suhail, are based on cogent and reliable evidence as stated by deceased Sanno in her dying declaration, Exhibit Ka-13. However, we find that after registering the case under Sections 498A, 307 IPC and Section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, the then Investigating Officer Inspector Radheshyam Dwivedi investigated the case and at that time, the victim Sanno was alive. The then Investigating Officer Inspector Radheshyam Dwivedi (PW-8) stated in his cross-examination that "I have shown both houses of accused persons in the site plan in which one house is of accused Tufail and second house is of Suhail and were shown by me in the site plan."

39. From the perusal of the site plan, Exhibit Ka-5, we find that the house of Tufail is shown on the right side, in the eastern direction of the road, and the house/hut of accused Suhail, where the incident took place, is shown at the corner in the western - southern direction of the site plan, in the jungle and bushes. The accused-appellant, Suhail, was living with his wife, the deceased Sanno, separately from his father, accused Tufail, and other family members, in a separate hut. This fact indicates that all other family members of the accused-appellant, Suhail, were living with accused-appellant, Tufail, in a separate house. Thus, this fact also found corroboration from the dying declaration of the deceased that accused-appellant, Tufail, has no role in torturing or committing cruelty to deceased Sanno. It was the act of only Suhail, who tortured, harassed and killed his wife Sanno by pouring kerosene oil and setting her on fire.

40. In view of the above fact and situation, we find that implication and involvement of the accused-appellant, Tufail, was found to be doubtful. Due to this reason, the finding and reasoning in this respect of learned trial Court by which accused Tufail was held guilty under Section 498A IPC and his conviction for two years' imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 2000/- is not found sustainable in the eyes of law. Thus, we find that conviction and sentence of accused Tufail under Section 498A IPC is not sustainable and is liable to be set aside, but the judgment and order of conviction of the accused Suhail is found to be based on cogent finding and reasoning. Hence, we are only inclined to sustain the conviction and sentence of accused Suhail under Sections 302, 498A IPC.

41. In view of the above, Criminal Appeal No. 1007 of 2020 is allowed. We set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 14.01.2020 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellant, Tufail, by learned Trial Court in Session Trial No.119 of 2018 (State Vs. Suhail and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 235 of 2017, under Section 498A IPC, Police Station Sultanpur Ghosh, District Fatehpur. The appellant, Tufail, is acquitted of the charge under Section 498A IPC. He is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged.

42. Criminal Appeal No. 1401 of 2020 filed by accused Suhail is dismissed. The impugned judgment dated 14.01.2020 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/F.T.C.-II, Fatehpur in Session Trial No.119 of 2018 (State Vs. Suhail and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 235 of 2017, under Sections 498A, 302 IPC, Police Station Sultanpur Ghosh, District Fatehpur is affirmed. The appellant, Suhail, is in jail. He shall remain in jail to serve out the sentence awarded to him by the learned Trial Court.

43. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the learned trial Court along with the trial Court records forthwith for necessary compliance.

THE HON'BLE SANTOSH RAI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 1470 of 1987

Kanahi & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to criminal appeal against conviction under S. 392 IPC, where the accused were unknown to the complainant and the prosecution case hinges upon their identification, whether the unexplained delay of about 42 days in holding the test identification parade, failure of independent witnesses to identify the appellants at the parade, non-observance of prescribed safeguards, absence of independent eye-witness and absence of recovery render the identification unreliable and whether conviction based upon the solitary identification of the appellants by the complainant for the first time in court can be sustained, and whether the appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt. (Paras 8-20)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 392 - Test Identification Parade - U.P. Police Regulations and Jail Manual - Para 116 of the U.P. Police Regulations and Para 416, renumbered as Para 443 in the 2022 U.P. Jail Manual 1955 - Identification of accused unknown to witness - Unexplained and inordinate delay - Evidentiary value - Where accused are not previously known to the witness, unexplained and inordinate delay in holding test identification parade affords a reasonable opportunity of the accused being shown to the witnesses and seriously dilutes the evidentiary value of the identification proceedings - In absence of any explanation for delay, identification parade cannot be said to inspire confidence. Held: Test identification parade is not substantive evidence and is, by its very nature, only corroborative evidence meant to lend assurance to identification of the accused made in court - where the accused were not previously known to the complainant and the entire prosecution case hinges upon identification, unexplained and inordinate delay in holding the test identification parade affords the accused a reasonable opportunity of being shown to the witnesses and seriously dilutes the evidentiary value of the identification proceedings - the identification parade in the present case, conducted about 42 days and more from the date of admission of the appellants to jail and over two and a half months from the date of the incident, without any satisfactory explanation for the delay, cannot be said to inspire confidence - the two independent witnesses associated with the proceedings failed to identify the appellants at the parade and the identification of the appellants rested exclusively upon the solitary testimony of the complainant given for the first time in the witness box, without any corroboration from the identification parade - non-observance of the safeguards prescribed under the U.P. Police Regulations and the Jail Manual, coupled with the delay, further diminished the reliability of the identification proceedings - no reliable independent public witness to the actual occurrence was examined and there was no recovery of the looted articles or weapon from the possession of the appellants - while the sole testimony of an injured or robbed witness can, in appropriate cases, sustain a conviction, such testimony must be of unimpeachable quality, particularly where the accused were strangers to the witness and the case rests entirely on identification - having regard to the delayed and doubtful identification parade, the failure of the independent witnesses associated with that parade to identify the appellants, the absence of any independent eye-witness and the absence of recovery, the prosecution failed to prove the identity of the appellants as the perpetrators of the offence beyond reasonable doubt - the benefit of the resultant doubt must go to the appellants - conviction under S. 392 IPC set aside and appellants acquitted - appeal allowed. Case Arising From APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Appeal against the judgment and order dated 15.5.1987 passed by the learned Special Judge, Budaun in Special Sessions Trial No. 98 of 1985, whereby the appellants were convicted under S. 392 IPC and each was sentenced to undergo five years' Rigorous Imprisonment.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Sri Ravi Shankar Tripathi
Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri Hari Prakash Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ravi Shankar Tripathi, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Hari Prakash Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 15.5.1987 passed by the learned Special Judge, Budaun in Special Sessions Trial No. 98 of 1985, whereby the accused Kanhai, Harpal, Dal Chand and Kalloo were convicted under Section 392 I.P.C. and each of them was sentenced to undergo five years' Rigorous Imprisonment. During the pendency of the present appeal, accused-appellants Harpal and Dalchand have since died. Their deaths have been brought on record and the appeal, insofar as it relates to the deceased appellants Harpal and Dalchand, stands abated vide order dated 26.11.2025. The appeal survives and is being disposed of qua the remaining two appellants, namely, Kanhai and Kalloo.

3. Briefly stated, the prosecution case was that on 21.2.1985 at about 6.30 P.M., the complainant Radhey Shayam Sharma, while going from Bisauli to his village Palia on a cycle, was way-laid on the side of the road between village Kot and Bisauli by four miscreants who surrounded him, held a knife to his chest and, after conducting a personal search, looted two containers of desi ghee weighing 4 kgs. each, a sum of Rs.126.50 and certain grocery articles. The written report was lodged at Police Station Bisauli against unknown persons, on the basis of which a case was registered as Crime No. 69 of 1985 under Section 392 I.P.C. The accused were subsequently arrested, put up for test identification and, after investigation, charge-sheeted. The learned Trial Court, on the basis of the evidence led, convicted all four accused and sentenced them as aforesaid. Aggrieved thereby, the present appeal has been preferred.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants has assailed the impugned judgment on the following grounds: The First Information Report was lodged against unknown persons. The occurrence is stated to have taken place on 21.2.1985, whereas the test identification parade of the accused was conducted only on 6.5.1985, i.e., after a gap of about 42 days from the date of their admission to jail (accused Dalchand and Harpal having been admitted to jail on 9.3.1985 and accused Kanhai and Kallu on 21.3.1985 and 20.3.1985 respectively). No explanation whatsoever has been furnished by the prosecution for this inordinate and unexplained delay in holding the identification parade. The report of the identification parade itself demonstrates that the two independent witnesses associated therewith, namely Ram Dass (P.W.1) and Ganga Sahai (P.W.3), could not correctly identify all four accused persons. It is well settled that a test identification parade is, at best, a weak type of evidence and is only corroborative in nature; it does not constitute substantive evidence. No independent public witness of the incident itself has been examined by the prosecution. There is no recovery whatsoever, either of the looted articles, cash, or any weapon, from the possession of the appellants, which would have lent independent assurance to the prosecution case. The First Information Report was lodged against unknown persons, and the names of the appellants did not figure therein at all.

5. On the strength of the above submissions, it has been contended that the entire prosecution case rests on a delayed and doubtful identification parade, uncorroborated by any independent witness, recovery, or other circumstance, and that the Trial Court has erred in placing reliance on the sole testimony of the complainant to record conviction.

6. Learned Additional Government Advocate, per contra, has supported the impugned judgment and has submitted that the delay in holding the identification parade stands sufficiently explained inasmuch as it was held within a reasonable time of the arrest of the accused, and that the sole testimony of the victim, if found trustworthy, is sufficient to sustain conviction, as held by the Trial Court.

7. I have given our anxious consideration to the rival submissions and have examined the evidence on record.

8. It is not in dispute that the First Information Report of the incident, dated 21.2.1985, was lodged against unknown miscreants. The appellants were, admittedly, not known to the complainant prior to the occurrence and the entire prosecution case therefore hinges upon identification of the appellants as the culprits.

9. So far as the test identification parade is concerned, it is an admitted position that accused Kanhai and Kallu were admitted to jail on 21.3.1985 and 20.3.1985 respectively, whereas the identification parade was conducted only on 6.5.1985, a gap of about 42 days and more from the date of their admission to jail, and over two and a half months from the date of the incident itself. No explanation, much less a satisfactory one, has been offered by the prosecution for this delay. It is well settled that where there is unexplained and inordinate delay in holding a test identification parade, and the accused are not previously known to the witness, such delay affords the accused a reasonable opportunity of being shown to the witnesses, whether by design or otherwise, and seriously dilutes the evidentiary value of the identification proceedings. In the absence of any explanation for the delay, the identification parade in the present case cannot be said to inspire confidence.

10. What is of greater significance is that the identification parade, even on its own terms, does not support the prosecution case qua the appellants. The report of the identification parade shows that the two independent witnesses associated with the proceedings, namely Ram Dass (P.W.1) and Ganga Sahai (P.W.3), were unable to identify all four accused. P.W.1 Ram Dass identified only the deceased appellants Dalchand and Harpal, and P.W.3 Ganga Sahai identified only the deceased appellant Dalchand. Neither of them identified the present appellants Kanhai and Kallu at the parade. Thus, the very safeguard of independent corroboration, which a test identification parade is intended to furnish, is conspicuously absent qua the appellants before us. This is not a case of partial success in identification of some culprits out of a gang, where the witness who deposed in court had also identified all the accused at the parade and his court testimony stood corroborated by the parade. In the present case, on the contrary, neither independent witness identified appellants Kanhai and Kallu at the identification parade at all, and their identification rests exclusively upon the solitary testimony of the complainant given for the first time in the witness box, without any corroboration from the identification parade.

11. It is a well-settled principle that evidence of test identification is not 'substantive evidence" it is, by its very nature, only "corroborative evidence" meant to lend assurance to the identification of the accused made in court. Where the identification parade itself is vitiated by unexplained delay and, further, fails to connect the appellants with the offence through any independent witness, it ceases to furnish any corroboration at all. In such a situation, the Court is left with nothing but the bare, uncorroborated word of the complainant, given more than two years after the occurrence, identifying persons who were total strangers to him at the time of the incident.

12. It has also been brought to our notice that the Investigating Officer did not conduct the identification proceedings in strict conformity with the safeguards prescribed under the U.P. Police Regulations and the Jail Manual for holding such parades, which are designed precisely to guard against the possibility of the accused being shown to the witnesses before the parade and to ensure a fair and reliable identification. Non-observance of these safeguards, coupled with the delay noticed above, further diminishes the reliability of the identification proceedings.

13. In Uttar Pradesh, the procedure for a Test Identification Parade (TIP) conducted in jail is governed principally by: Paragraph 116 of the U.P. Police Regulations, and Paragraph 416 (renumbered as Paragraph 443 in the 2022 U.P. Jail Manual 1955) dealing with undertrial prisoners who are to be identified by witnesses. The object of a TIP is not to constitute substantive evidence, but to test the memory and veracity of a witness who claims to have seen an unknown offender. The substantive evidence is the witness's identification of the accused during trial before the Court.

14. Step-by-step procedure regarding identification parade are;

(a)When the accused is sent to judicial custody, the Investigating Officer moves an application before the Magistrate requesting a Test Identification Parade.

(b) Normally, the parade should be held inside the jail, not at the police station.

(c) The Superintendent of Police or an officer not below the rank of Inspector informs the Jail Superintendent in writing that the prisoner is to be put up for identification. This information should be given at the time of admission or as soon thereafter as possible.

(d) After receiving such intimation, the Jail Superintendent must ensure that: the accused does not shave or grow a beard contrary to his appearance at arrest; hair style and moustache remain unchanged; no disguise is permitted; the accused wears the same or similar type of clothing as at the time of arrest.

(e) The Investigating Officer must ensure from the beginning of the investigation that: witnesses do not see the accused before the parade; police avoid showing the accused to witnesses; unnecessary production before witnesses is avoided. This is one of the most important safeguards because prior exposure substantially weakens the evidentiary value of the TIP.

(f) The TIP should ordinarily be conducted by a Judicial Magistrate. Police officers should not participate in the actual proceedings. A jail officer remains present only to comply with directions of the Magistrate.

(g) The accused is mixed with several persons of similar: age, height, complexion, build, dress, general appearance. The object is to ensure fairness and eliminate suggestive identification. Prisoners who themselves have to be identified in other cases should not be used as dummies.

(h) Each witness is brought individually. Witnesses are kept separate. They are not permitted to communicate with each other. Each witness identifies independently.

(i) Normally, after each witness: the accused is allowed to change his position in the line; the Magistrate records whether such change was requested or made. This prevents identification merely by remembering the position.

(j)The Magistrate records: names of persons mixed with the accused; objections raised by the accused; whether position was changed; exact words and conduct of each witness. whether identification was immediate, hesitant or mistaken. The proceedings are signed by the Magistrate.

(k) The U.P. Jail Manual provides that before the proceedings begin, the prosecuting inspector and the defence counsel (if present) may satisfy themselves that the prescribed safeguards have been observed. However, they do not participate in the actual identification process, which remains under the exclusive control of the Magistrate. In this case at hand, the test identification parade has not been conducted properly as per existing rule and procedure, thus the accused persons are liable to provide the benefit of the material omissions and procedural lapses committed by the prosecution in this regard.

15. The settled law of the Supreme Court In Budhsen v. State of U.P., (1970) 2 SCC 128 , Malkhansingh v. State of M.P., (2003) 5 SCC 746 and in State of H.P. v. Lekh Raj, (2000) 1 SCC 247 that The TIP is only corroborative evidence under Section 9 of the Evidence Act. Failure to hold TIP is not invariably fatal, especially where the accused was previously known to the witness. Where the accused was unknown and is identified for the first time in court without an earlier TIP, such dock identification is generally considered weak unless supported by other evidence.

16. In Malkhansingh (supra) Hon'ble Supreme Court held in paras 7 and 16 :-

"7. It is trite to say that the substantive evidence is the evidence of identification in court. Apart from the clear provisions of Section 9 of the Evidence Act, the position in law is well settled by a catena of decisions of this Court. The facts, which establish the identity of the accused persons, are relevant under Section 9 of the Evidence Act. As a general rule, the substantive evidence of a witness is the statement made in court. The evidence of mere identification of the accused person at the trial for the first time is from its very nature inherently of a weak character. The purpose of a prior test identification, therefore, is to test and strengthen the trustworthiness of that evidence. It is accordingly considered a safe rule of prudence to generally look for corroboration of the sworn testimony of witnesses in court as to the identity of the accused who are strangers to them, in the form of earlier identification proceedings. This rule of prudence, however, is subject to exceptions, when, for example, the court is impressed by a particular witness on whose testimony it can safely rely, without such or other corroboration. The identification parades belong to the stage of investigation, and there is no provision in the Code of Criminal Procedure which obliges the investigating agency to hold, or confers a right upon the accused to claim a test identification parade. They do not constitute substantive evidence and these parades are essentially governed by Section 162 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. Failure to hold a test identification parade would not make inadmissible the evidence of identification in court. The weight to be attached to such identification should be a matter for the courts of fact. In appropriate cases it may accept the evidence of identification even without insisting on corroboration.

16. It is well settled that the substantive evidence is the evidence of identification in court and the test identification parade provides corroboration to the identification of the witness in court, if required. However, what weight must be attached to the evidence of identification in court, which is not preceded by a test identification parade, is a matter for the courts of fact to examine……"

17. Further in Lekh Raj (supra) The Hon□ble Supreme Court held in para 3:

"3....During the investigation of a crime the police agency is required to hold identification parade for the purposes of enabling the witness to identify the person alleged to have committed the offence particularly when such person was not previously known to the witness or the informant. The absence of test identification may not be fatal if the accused is known or sufficiently described in the complaint leaving no doubt in the mind of the court regarding his involvement. Identification parade may also not be necessary in a case where the accused persons are arrested at the spot. The evidence of identifying the accused person at the trial for the first time is, from its very nature, inherently of a weak character. This Court in Budhsen v. State of U.P. [(1970) 2 SCC 128 : 1970 SCC (Cri) 343] held that the evidence in order to carry conviction should ordinarily clarify as to how and under what circumstances the complainant or the witness came to pick out the particular accused person and the details of the part which he allegedly played in the crime in question with reasonable particularity. In such cases test identification is considered a safe rule of prudence to generally look for corroboration of the sworn testimony of witnesses in court as to the identity of the accused who are strangers to them."

18. I further find that no reliable independent □public witness□ to the actual occurrence has been examined by the prosecution. P.W.1 Ram Dass and P.W.3 Ganga Sahai, whose names do not figure in the First Information Report at all, were introduced for the first time before the Trial Court; even otherwise, as noted above, they have failed to identify the appellants at the identification parade. There is also □no recovery□ of the looted ghee, cash or any other article, nor of any weapon, from the possession of the appellants, which could have furnished independent corroboration to the prosecution story.

19. In these circumstances, what remains is the sole testimony of the complainant, P.W.2 Radhey Shayam Sharma, identifying the appellants for the first time in court, unsupported by any reliable identification parade and unaided by recovery or any other independent corroborative circumstance. While the sole testimony of an injured or robbed witness can, in appropriate cases, sustain a conviction, such testimony must be of unimpeachable quality, particularly where the accused were strangers to the witness and the case rests entirely on identification. Having regard to the delayed and doubtful identification parade, the failure of the independent witnesses associated with that parade to identify the appellants, the absence of any independent eye-witness, and the absence of recovery, we are of the considered opinion that the prosecution has failed to prove the identity of the appellants Kanhai and Kallu as the perpetrators of the offence beyond reasonable doubt.

20. The learned Trial Court, in my view, fell into error in placing implicit reliance on the sole testimony of the complainant without adequately appreciating the cumulative effect of the delayed identification parade, the failure of the independent witnesses to identify the appellants thereat, and the total absence of any other corroborative material. The benefit of the resultant doubt must, therefore, go to the appellants.

21. For the reasons recorded above, the appeal is allowed.

22. The judgment and order dated 15.5.1987 passed by the learned Special Judge, Budaun in Special Sessions Trial No. 98 of 1985, convicting the appellant Kanhai and the appellant Kallu under Section 392 I.P.C. and sentencing each of them to five years' Rigorous Imprisonment, is hereby set aside qua the said two appellants.

23. The appellants Kanhai and Kallu are acquitted of the charges under Section 392 IPC and are on bail, their bail bonds and sureties stand discharged. They need not surrender, and if in custody, they be released forthwith unless wanted in any other case.

24. The trial court record be sent back □forthwith□ to the trial court, along with a copy of this judgment, for information and necessary compliance.

25. Register (compliance) is directed to communicate this order to the concerned trial court through district and Sessions Judge within three days.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the learned Special Judge, SC/ST (P.A.) Act, was justified in allowing the application for discharge filed by the accused in a case alleging offences under Ss. 121, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 132, 221 BNS and Ss. 3(2)(va), 3(1)(r),(s) SC/ST Act, on the ground that the allegations did not disclose that the accused knew the complainant or his caste since before and that the provisions of the SC/ST Act were therefore not attracted, coupled with the finding that the medico-legal examination was vitiated and that the prosecution version was not believable. The issue further concerns whether, where no prima facie case is made out or the complaint is found to be prima facie false or mala fide, the trial Court can discharge the accused. (Paras 2, 10, 18, 24-30)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - S. 3(2)(va) - S. 3(1)(r),(s) - Intention to humiliate a member of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe - Knowledge of caste - Offence under the Act is not established merely on the fact that the informant is a member of Scheduled Caste unless there is an intention to humiliate a member of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe for the reason that the victim belongs to such caste - Where there was absolutely no material to show that the accused knew that the complainant belongs to a Scheduled Caste, it could not be said that the offence was committed because the complainant belongs to a Scheduled Caste - Offences under the SC/ST Act not made out. (Paras 21-24)

Criminal Law - Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Abuse of process of law - Prima facie case - False or mala fide complaint - No absolute bar against grant of anticipatory bail where no prima facie case is made out or where on judicial scrutiny the complaint is found to be prima facie mala fide - Protection of innocent against abuse of law is part of inherent jurisdiction of the Court - Trial Courts also can discharge the accused in cases of an apparently false implication. (Paras 14-18)

Criminal Law - Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Discharge - Prima facie case - Courts required to scrutinise allegations - Where allegations are vague, omnibus and general in nature and lacking any material backing or evidence, such allegations should be shunned at the threshold - Subjecting a person to criminal trial on general and sweeping allegations without specific instances of criminal conduct would tantamount to an abuse of the process of law and Court. (Para 28)

Criminal Law - Medico-legal examination - Principles of natural justice - Where the doctor who was said to be the victim of the incident himself conducted the medico-legal examination of the complainant, the medico-legal examination was in violation of the principles of natural justice - Medico-legal examination report vitiated and could not be believed for making the accused face the trial. (Para 25)

Criminal Law - Prosecution case - Cause of altercation - Absence of disclosure of cause of altercation in the F.I.R. or statements recorded during investigation - Version of complainant held not believable where no person would enter a CHC and misbehave with a public servant/medical officer without any reason - Version of accused appearing natural and inspiring confidence. (Para 26)

Criminal Law - Investigation - Influence of apprehended breach of peace - Case diary recording agitation of other doctors and Doctors' Unions and apprehension of breach of peace - Investigation held to have been conducted under influence of the apprehended breach of peace by the Doctors' unions. (Para 27)

Criminal Law - Special laws - Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 - Abuse of criminal justice system - Need of special laws to protect vulnerable sections recognised - Rampant abuse of the criminal justice system for settling civil, matrimonial, commercial or other disputes or to simply wreak vengeance on opponents noticed - Provisions of special laws enacted to protect vulnerable sections, including the SC/ST Act, also abused by a few unscrupulous persons acting with mala fide intentions. (Para 29)

Held: The trial court rightly held that even as per the F.I.R. version, the altercation started between the accused and the Doctor and the Doctor who is said to be the victim of the incident had himself conducted the medico-legal examination of the complainant which was in violation of the principles of natural justice and the medico-legal examination report was vitiated and could not be believed for making the accused face the trial - there was absolutely no material to show that the accused knew that the complainant belongs to a Scheduled Caste and therefore it could not be said that he committed any offence because the complainant belongs to a Scheduled Caste - the offence under the Act is not established merely on the fact that the informant is a member of Scheduled Caste unless there is an intention to humiliate a member of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe for the reason that the victim belongs to such caste - the version of the complainant was not believable as no person would enter a CHC and misbehave with a public servant/medical officer without any reason whereas the version of the accused appeared to be natural and inspired confidence - the investigating officer has recorded in the case diary that the other doctors of the CHC and the Doctors' Unions were agitated because of the incident and there was a possibility of protest by them and apprehension of breach of peace which showed that the investigating officer had conducted the investigation under influence of the apprehended breach of peace by the Doctors' unions - although there is a need of the special laws to protect the interests of vulnerable sections of the society and those laws are serving the purpose with which the same have been enacted, the Court is experiencing day in and day out rampant abuse of the criminal justice system for settling the civil, matrimonial, commercial or other disputes or to simply wreak vengeance on the opponents and in this process, the provisions of some special laws enacted to protect the interests of vulnerable sections of the societies, including the SC/ST Act, are also abused by a few unscrupulous persons acting with mala fide intentions - the trial court has not committed any error or illegality in passing the impugned order discharging the accused and the criminal appeal lacks merit and the same is dismissed. Case Arising From APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal under S. 14-A(1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 challenging the validity of the order dated 09.06.2026 passed by the learned Special Judge, SC/ST (P.A.) Act, Hardoi in Sessions Case No. 1416 of 2024 in Case Crime No. 368 of 2024, whereby the application filed under S. 250 of the Bhartiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita seeking discharge was allowed.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Sri Mahendra Kumar Rawat
Advs. for the Respondents:
Sri G.D. Bhatt, learned A.G.A.-I for the State
Sri Arunendra Nath Mishra, Advocate for the opposite party no. 2.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mahendra Kumar Rawat, the learned counsel for the appellants, Sri G.D. Bhatt, the learned A.G.A.-I for the State and Sri Arunendra Nath Mishra, Advocate who has filed vakalatnama on behalf of the opposite party no.2, which is taken on record.

2. By means of the instant appeal filed under Section 14-A (1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'the SC/ST Act') the appellants have challenged the validity of an order dated 09.06.2026 passed by the learned Special Judge, SC/ST (P.A.) Act, Hardoi in Sessions Case No. 1416 of 2024 in Case Crime No. 368 of 2024 under Sections 121, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 132, 221 Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'BNS') & Sections 3(2)(va), 3(1)(dha) SC/ST Act, allowing an application filed by the Opposite Party no. 2 under Section 250 of Bhartiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (which will hereinafter be referred to as 'BNSS') seeking his discharge.

3. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an F.I.R. No.368 of 2024, lodged by the appellant no.1 Dr. Ravi Kant Sharma, in Police Station Bilgram, Hardoi on 22.07.2024 under Sections 121, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 132, 221 against the Opposite Party No. 2 stating that when the complainant, who was working as a Medical Officer in Community Health Center, Bilgram, Hardoi, was roaming around in the CHC campus at about 09:30 p.m., he heard some altercation in emergency ward. Upon reaching there, he found that the appellant no. 2 Dr. Liyaqat Ali, was treating the patients. A middle-aged man, claiming himself to be a retired army personnel (the opposite party no. 2), was quarreling with the appellant no. 2. Pharmacist Satyendra, ward boy Manish Pal and sweeper Akash were also present there. The young man (whom the complainant has earlier referred to as a middle-aged man) ran to assault the appellant no. 2. The appellant no.1/complainant intervened whereupon the opposite party no.2 hurled casteist abuses, threatened him and thereafter started beating him with fists and kicks, causing two-three scratch marks on his face and some internal injuries. Somehow the appellant no. 2 and the other persons performing the night duty saved him. Strangely, the complainant stated in the F.I.R. that after beating him, the young man (previously referred to as the middle-aged man), himself disclosed his name as Umesh Chand Trivedi (the opposite party no. 2).

4. In the statement recorded under Section 180 BNSS, the appellant no.1 Dr. Ravi Kant Sharma disclosed that he belongs to Chamar caste and he reiterated the F.I.R. version. He stated that while assaulting, the opposite party no. 2 had addressed him as 'sale chamatte'. Dr. Sharma also stated that besides telling his name as Umesh Chand Dwivedi, the opposite party no. 2 had also told that he was a resident of village Bargawan.

5. The other employees of the CHC gave statements supporting the version given by the complainant Dr. Sharma. They stated that the opposite party no. 2 had come to the CHC in an inebriated condition. He asked to administer a vaccine of tetanus. The persons present asked him to come in the morning whereupon the opposite party no.2 started quarreling.

6. The medico-legal examination of the complainant/appellant no.1 was conducted by the appellant no.2 CHC Bilgram and the injury report mentions an abrasion of 2 cm x 0.8 cm present on the right side of face, an abrasion of 0.8 cm x 0.2 cm present at the left eyebrow, swelling and pain in the upper region of the face below the left eye, complaint of pain and swelling 6 cm x 4 cm on the left side of chest and complaint of pain in the whole body.

7. After investigation, the investigating officer submitted a charge-sheet dated 08.08.2024 against the opposite party no. 2 for the offences under Sections 121, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 132, 221 Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS) and 3(2)(va), 3(1)(r),(s) SC/ST Act. The trial court took cognizance of the offences on 09.12.2024 and summoned the opposite party no.2 to face the trial.

8. The opposite party no.2 filed an application seeking his discharge, stating that on 22.07.2024 he had suffered an injury in his thumb. He had gone to the CHC for getting a Tetanus vaccine administered. The appellant no.2 and the other staff members were present on duty in an inebriated condition and in spite of repeated requests, they did not administer the injection and they implicated him falsely. The opposite party no.2 stated that he did not know the staff members personally and he did not know the caste of any person and there was no occasion for him to hurl any casteist abuse. The opposite party no.2 further stated that even as per the allegations, the entire staff of CHC was present on the spot whereas the opposite party no. 2 was alone there and, therefore, the incident is inherently improbable. The opposite party no.2 stated that he is a disciplined person and has retired from the post of Junior Warrant Officer after serving the Indian Air Force for 26 years, he has no criminal history and he has been falsely implicated.

9. The appellants did not file any objection against the said application.

10. The trial court has allowed the discharge application by the impugned order dated 09.06.2026, holding that the allegations levelled in the F.I.R. do not disclose that the opposite party no. 2 knew the appellant no.1 or his caste since before and in these circumstances, the provisions of

SC/ST Act are not attracted. The altercation is said to have started between the accused and the appellant no. 2 Dr. Liyaqat Ali. Dr. Liyaqat Ali, who is said to be the victim of the incident, has himself conducted the medico-legal examination of the complainant/ appellant no.1, which is in violation of the principles of natural justice and the medico-legal examination report is vitiated for this reason.

11. The trial court further noted that the F.I.R. or the statements recorded during investigation do not disclose the cause of altercation, whereas the accused has stated that he had gone to the CHC to get a Tetvac injection administered, the appellant no. 2 Dr. Liyaqat Ali and other staff members were present on duty in an inebriated condition and in spite of repetitive requests, they did not administer the injection to the accused. Non-disclosure of motive of the incident in the F.I.R. and in the statements of the complainant and other persons present in CHC indicates that the version of the complainant is not believable as no person would enter a CHC and misbehave with a public servant/medical officer without any reason.

12. The SC/ST Act was enacted to remove the disparity of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes who remain vulnerable and are denied their civil rights. The Preamble to the SC/ ST Act states as under: -

"An Act to prevent the commission of offences of atrocities against the members of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, to provide for Special Courts for the trial of such offences and for the relief and rehabilitation of the victims of such offences and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto."

13. The Statement of Objects and Reasons of the 1989 Act, for which it had been enacted is as under: -

"Despite various measures to improve the socio-economic conditions of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, they remain vulnerable. They are denied number of civil rights. They are subjected to various offences, indignities, humiliations, and harassment. They have, in several brutal incidents, been deprived of their life and property. Serious crimes are committed against them for various historical, social, and economic reasons.

2. ? When they assert their rights and resist practices of untouchability against them or demand statutory minimum wages or refuse to do any bonded and forced labour, the vested interests try to cow them down and terrorise them. When the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes try to preserve their self-respect or honour of their women, they become irritants for the dominant and the mighty. Occupation and cultivation of even the government allotted land by the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is resented and more often these people become victims of attacks by the vested interests. Of late, there has been an increase in the disturbing trend of the commission of certain atrocities like making the Scheduled Castes persons eat inedible substances, like human excreta and attacks on and mass killings of helpless Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes and rape of women belonging to the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes. Under the circumstances, the existing laws like the Protection of Civil Rights Act, 1955 and the normal provisions of the Indian Penal Code have been found to be inadequate to check these crimes. A special legislation to check and deter crimes against them committed by non-Scheduled Castes and non-Scheduled Tribes has, therefore, become necessary."

14. In Subhash Kashinath Mahajan v. State of Maharashtra: (2018) 6 SCC 454, the Hon'ble Supreme Court was dealing with the question whether Section 18 of the SC/ST Act creates an absolute bar to the grant of anticipatory bail. Section 18 of the SC/ST Act is as follows: -

"18. Section 438 of the Code not to apply to persons committing an offence under the Act-?Nothing in Section 438 of the Code shall apply in relation to any case involving the arrest of any person on an accusation of having committed an offence under this Act."

The Hon'ble Supreme Court expressed its concern about the rampant misuse of the provisions of the SC / ST Act by observing that: -

"63. We have already noted the working of the Act in the last three decades. It has been judicially acknowledged that there are instances of abuse of the Act by vested interests against political opponents in panchayat, municipal or other elections, to settle private civil disputes arising out of property, monetary disputes, employment disputes and seniority disputes. [Dhiren Prafulbhai Shah v. State of Gujarat, 2016 SCC OnLine Guj 2076] It may be noticed that by way of rampant misuse complaints are "largely being filed particularly against public servants/quasi-judicial/judicial officers with oblique motive for satisfaction of vested interests". [Sharad v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 Bom CR (Cri) 545]

64. Innocent citizens are termed as accused, which is not intended by the legislature. The legislature never intended to use the Atrocities Act as an instrument to blackmail or to wreak personal vengeance. ...

15. In view of the rampant abuse of the provisions of the SC / ST Act by filing false cases to wreak vengeance upon the opponents, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"65. Accordingly, we have no hesitation in holding that exclusion of provision for anticipatory bail will not apply when no prima facie case is made out or the case is patently false or mala fide. This may have to be determined by the Court concerned in facts and circumstances of each case in exercise of its judicial discretion. In doing so, we are reiterating a well-established principle of law that protection of innocent against abuse of law is part of inherent jurisdiction of the court being part of access to justice and protection of liberty against any oppressive action such as mala fide arrest. In doing so, we are not diluting the efficacy of Section 18 in deserving cases where court finds a case to be prima facie genuine warranting custodial interrogation and pre-trial arrest and detention.

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court had drawn the following conclusions in Subhash Kashinath Mahajan v. State of Maharashtra (supra): -

"79.1. Proceedings in the present case are clear abuse of process of court and are quashed.

79.2. There is no absolute bar against grant of anticipatory bail in cases under the Atrocities Act if no prima facie case is made out or where on judicial scrutiny the complaint is found to be prima facie mala fide. We approve the view taken and approach of the Gujarat High Court in Pankaj D. Suthar [Pankaj D. Suthar v. State of Gujarat, (1992) 1 Guj LR 405] and N.T. Desai [N.T. Desai v. State of Gujarat, (1997) 2 Guj LR 942] and clarify the judgments of this Court in Balothia [State of M.P. v. Ram Kishna Balothia, (1995) 3 SCC 221] and Manju Devi [Manju Devi v. Onkarjit Singh Ahluwalia, (2017) 13 SCC 439];

79.3. In view of acknowledged abuse of law of arrest in cases under the Atrocities Act, arrest of a public servant can only be after approval of the appointing authority and of a non-public servant after approval by the SSP which may be granted in appropriate cases if considered necessary for reasons recorded. Such reasons must be scrutinised by the Magistrate for permitting further detention.

79.4. To avoid false implication of an innocent, a preliminary enquiry may be conducted by the DSP concerned to find out whether the allegations make out a case under the Atrocities Act and that the allegations are not frivolous or motivated.

79.5. Any violation of Directions 79.3 and 79.4 will be actionable by way of disciplinary action as well as contempt.

79.6. The above directions are prospective."

17. The Union of India sought a review of the aforesaid judgment in the case of Subhash Kashinath Mahajan (supra) on the ground that when the Court does not accept the legislative and specific provisions of law passed by the legislature and only the legislature has the power to amend those provisions if the Court finds provisions are not acceptable to it, it has to strike them down being violative of fundamental rights or in case of deficiency to point out to the legislature to correct the same. The review application was partly allowed by the judgment in Union of India v. State of Maharashtra, (2018) 6 SCC 450, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that: -

"52. There is no presumption that the members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes may misuse the provisions of law as a class and it is not resorted to by the members of the upper castes or the members of the elite class. For lodging a false report, it cannot be said that the caste of a person is the cause. It is due to the human failing and not due to the caste factor. Caste is not attributable to such an act. On the other hand, members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes due to backwardness hardly muster the courage to lodge even a first information report, much less, a false one. In case it is found to be false/unsubstantiated, it may be due to the faulty investigation or for other various reasons including human failings irrespective of caste factor. There may be certain cases which may be false that can be a ground for interference by the Court, but the law cannot be changed due to such misuse. In such a situation, it can be taken care of in proceeding under Section 482 CrPC.

56. To treat such incumbents with a rider that a report lodged by an SCs/STs category person, would be registered only after a preliminary investigation by DSP, whereas under CrPC a complaint lodged relating to cognizable offence has to be registered forthwith. It would mean a report by upper caste has to be registered immediately and arrest can be made forthwith, whereas, in case of an offence under the 1989 Act, it would be conditioned one. It would be opposed to the protective discrimination meted out to the members of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes as envisaged under the Constitution in Articles 15, 17 and 21 and would tantamount to treating them as unequal, somewhat supportive action as per the mandate of the Constitution is required to make them equals. It does not prima facie appear permissible to look them down in any manner. It would also be contrary to the procedure prescribed under CrPC and contrary to the law laid down by this Court in Lalita Kumari [Lalita Kumari v. State of U.P., (2014) 2 SCC 1].

70. We do not doubt that directions encroach upon the field reserved for the legislature and against the concept of protective discrimination in favour of downtrodden classes under Article 15(4) of the Constitution and also impermissible within the parameters laid down by this Court for exercise of powers under Article 142 of the Constitution of India. Resultantly, we are of the considered opinion that Directions 79.3 and 79.4 issued by this Court deserve to be and are hereby recalled and consequently we hold that Direction 79.5, also vanishes. The review petitions are allowed to the extent mentioned above."

18. Thus even after reviewing the judgment, although the Hon'ble Supreme Court set aside certain other directions, it affirmed the law laid down in Subhash Kashinath Mahajan (supra), that there is no absolute bar against grant of anticipatory bail in cases under the SC/ST Act if no prima facie case is made out or where on judicial scrutiny the complaint is found to be prima facie mala fide, as there may be certain cases which may be false and in such a situation, they can be taken care of in proceeding under Section 482 CrPC. Therefore, the trial Courts also can discharge the accused in cases of an apparently false implication.

19. In Prathvi Raj Chauhan v. Union of India: (2020) 4 SCC 727, the Hon'ble Supreme Court clarified that: -

"12. The Court can, in exceptional cases, exercise power under Section 482 CrPC for quashing the cases to prevent misuse of provisions on settled parameters, as already observed while deciding the review petitions. The legal position is clear, and no argument to the contrary has been raised."

20. The complainant in the present case is Dr. Ravi Kant Sharma, a Doctor in Government Service. He has lodged the First Information Report against a retired Junior Warrant Officer who has served the Indian Air Force for 26 years, alleging that the accused was quarreling with another Doctor working in the CHC in presence of the Pharmacist, the ward boy and the sweeper and then the accused suddenly ran to assault the Doctor. When the appellant no.1/complainant intervened, the accused hurled casteist abuses and beat him with fists and kicks, causing two-three scratch marks on his face and some internal injuries.

21. The appellant no. 1 writes his surname as 'Sharma', which is normally used by persons belonging to Brahmin upper caste or Badhai (carpenter) or Nai (barber) backward castes. The trial Court has rightly observed that it is an exceptional situation where a person of a Scheduled Caste is using the surname 'Sharma'. There is no allegation that the opposite party no. 2 knew the complainant or his caste since before and, therefore, it cannot be said that the accused intended to humiliate the complainant because of his caste.

22. In Hitesh Verma v. State of Uttarakhand: (2020) 10 SCC 710, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that the offence under the Act is not established merely on the fact that the informant is a member of Scheduled Caste unless there is an intention to humiliate a member of Scheduled Caste or Scheduled Tribe for the reason that the victim belongs to such caste.

23. In Masumsha Hasanasha Musalman v. State of Maharashtra: (2000) 3 SCC 557, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"9. ... To attract the provisions of Section 3(2)(v) of the Act, the sine qua non is that the victim should be a person who belongs to a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe and that the offence under the Penal Code, 1860 is committed against him on the basis that such a person belongs to a Scheduled Caste or a Scheduled Tribe. In the absence of such ingredients, no offence under Section 3(2)(v) of the Act arises..."

24. When there is absolutely no material to show that the accused knew that Dr. Ravi Kant Sharma belongs to a Scheduled Caste, it cannot be said that he committed any offence because the complainant belongs to a Scheduled Caste. In this condition, the offences under the SC / ST Act are not made out.

25. The trial court rightly held that even as per the F.I.R. version, the altercation started between the opposite party no. 2 and the appellant no. 2 Dr. Liyaqat Ali. Dr. Liyaqat Ali, who is said to be the victim of the incident, has himself conducted the medico-legal examination of the complainant/ appellant no.1, which is in violation of the principles of natural justice. In case no other doctor was available in the CHC, the appellant no. 1 ought to have got his medico-legal examination conducted in any other Hospital. The medico-legal examination report is vitiated and cannot be believed for making the opposite party no. 2 face the trial.

26. The trial court further noted that the F.I.R. or the statements recorded during investigation do not disclose the cause of altercation. However, the accused - opposite party no. 2 has stated that he had suffered an injury in his thumb, he had gone to the CHC to get a Tetvac injection administered, the appellant no. 2 Dr. Liyaqat Ali and other staff members were present on duty in an inebriated condition and in spite of repetitive requests, they did not administer the injection to the opposite party no. 2. This indicates that the version of the complainant/opposite party no.1 is not believable as no person would enter a CHC and misbehave with a public servant/medical officer without any reason, whereas the version of the accused ? opposite party no. 1 appears to be natural and it inspires confidence.

27. The investigating officer has recorded in the case diary that the other doctors of the CHC and the Doctors' Unions were agitated because of the incident and there was a possibility of protest by them and apprehension of breach of peace, which shows that the investigating officer has conducted the investigation under influence of the apprehended breach of peace by the Doctors' unions.

28. In Ishwar Chand Sharma v. State of U.P.: 2026 SCC OnLine SC 1004, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has expressed its concern against the rising trend in vexatious litigation, particularly in the context of matrimonial disputes, but the observations would apply to abuse of criminal justice system in general also. The relevant passage of the judgment is being reproduced below: -

"9.6 While we are conscious of the fact that there are instances and a plethora of cases that are true and deserve the utmost attention and deft handling on the side of authorities and Courts and which should be pursued vigorously to reach a logical conclusion, on the other side of the spectrum, are cases invoking such serious and heinous allegations which are prima facie vague, omnibus and general in nature and thereby lacking any material backing or evidence which should be shunned at the very threshold. We say so for the reason that if a person is made an accused and forced to face a criminal trial on general and sweeping allegations without bringing on record any specific instances of criminal conduct, it would tantamount to an abuse of the process of law and court. Hence, legal practitioners who tender advice in such cases must restrain parties from filing such false/frivolous complaints when requested to do so. Further, lawyers/advocates must also not advise filing of criminal complaints which are false/concocted so as to keep the opposite parties under a tight leash so that they could come forward for a settlement on the terms dictated by their parties or else, to face a criminal prosecution which can prolong for years. When such is the trend, on the other side, efforts are made to seek anticipatory bail by persons apprehending arrest owing to a false/frivolous complaint being lodged which sometimes reach the portals of this Court after being unsuccessful at the level of the trial court and High Court. Also, steps are taken for seeking quashing of such false/frivolous complaints before the High Court which has its own saga of uncertainties causing undue pressure, harassment, stress and tension on the so-called accused. The consequence of all this is docket explosion and burden on Courts resulting in genuine complaints and cases not being given due time and attention that they need.

9.7 Courts then owe a duty to subject the allegations levelled in the complaint to a thorough scrutiny to ascertain if a prima facie case is made out or not, and whether there is any kernel of truth in the allegations or whether the said allegations have been made only with the sole intent of spite so as to harass the opposite party with a prolonged process of criminal litigation, arrest and sometimes a conviction which later on may result in an acquittal by a higher Court or in a worse case, no relief at all being given to an innocent party. This stands more true when prosecution arises from a matrimonial dispute."

29. It is true that there is a need of the special laws to protect the interests of vulnerable sections of the society and those laws are serving the purpose with which the same have been enacted. However, the Court is experiencing day in and day out rampant abuse of the criminal justice system for settling the civil, matrimonial, commercial or other disputes or to simply wreak vengeance on the opponents and in this process, the provisions of some special laws enacted to protect the interests of vulnerable sections of the societies, including the SC/ST Act, are also abused by a few unscrupulous persons acting with mala fide intentions.

30. I find myself in complete agreement with the reasons recorded in the impugned order passed by the trial Court for discharging the accused ? opposite party no. 2. The trial court has not committed any error or illegality in passing the impugned order discharging the opposite party no. 2 in the case which was instituted by the appellant no. 2 Government Doctor as a gross abuse of the law which is meant to protect the interests of persons belonging to a downtrodden and vulnerable section of the society. It prima facie shows commission of an offence under Section 182 IPC/217 BNS by the complainant himself.

31. The criminal appeal lack merit and the same is dismissed.

38. A copy of this order be communicated to the Director General Medical Health as well as to the Additional Chief Secretary, Medical Health, State of UP.

Criminal Appeal No. 1978 of 1990

Ram Kishore & Ors. ...Appellant
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging a conviction for abduction, cheating, and forgery (sections 364, 420 and 468 of the IPC) arising out of the alleged abduction of a man and the fraudulent execution of a sale deed for his land.

Headnotes

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

This criminal appeal has been filed by accused-appellants, Ram Kishore, Ram Bharosey, Bhudeo and Dinesh Singh against the judgment and order of conviction dated 09.10.1990 passed by learned Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Etah in Session Trial No.393 of 1987 (State Vs. Ram Kishore and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 98 of 1986, under Sections 364, 420, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Jaithra, District Etah.

2. Brief facts of the case, according to Exhibit Ka-1, which was lodged by Phoolshri (PW-2), are inter alia that informant, Phoolshri, daughter of Lakhan Singh, is a resident of Village Halaiya. Ram Kishore, Dinesh Singh, Ram Bharose, and Bhudeo allegedly lured her brother, Ram Dulare, and took him away on 08.03.1986. This incident was witnessed by Kirpal Singh, Virendra Singh, and Mahaveer Singh of the village. By impersonating another person in place of her brother, the accused got a sale deed of Ram Dulare s land executed on 12.03.1986 at Tehsil Aliganj. Thereafter, they caused the disappearance of Ram Dulare. When the accused returned, Phoolshri asked them about her brother. They replied that they had left him at Dumri and did not know his present whereabouts. Becoming suspicious, she went to the tehsil and discovered that the accused had fraudulently got executed the sale deed in the name of Dinesh and other persons were witnesses, and had subsequently made her brother disappear. She further stated that her mother is helpless and blind by both eyes, with no one to look after her. The written report (Exhibit Ka-1) was scribed by Ranveer Singh and lodged at Police Station Jaithra."

3. On the basis of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, chik F.I.R., paper no. 4A was registered against the accused-appellants at Case Crime No. 98 of 1986, under Sections 364, 420, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Jaithra, District Etah.

4. Investigating Officer investigated the case and inquired about the incident. The Investigating Officer also recorded the statement of the prosecution witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After completing all the formalities, the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet, Exhibit Ka-2, against the accused-appellants in the court of concerned Magistrate under Sections 364, 420, 468, 471 IPC.

5. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session.

6. Learned Trial Court has framed charges against the accused-appellants on 06.09.1989 under Sections 364, 420, 468 IPC. The accused-appellants denied from the charges and claimed trial.

7. Prosecution in support of its case adduced Kirpal Singh (PW-1), Phoolshri (PW-2), Mahaveer (PW-3) and D.K. Sisodiya (PW-4). The prosecution also relied on Exhibits Ka-1 and Ka-2 in support of its case.

8. After completing the proceedings of the evidence, Trial Court examined the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellants denied from the alleged charges against them. They were also stated that they did not know about Ram Dulare. They had been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. They refused to give any evidence in their defence.

9. After hearing the arguments of the prosecution and defence, learned Trial Court found the accused-appellants guilty and they were convicted and sentenced under Section 364 IPC to life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 2000 each and in case of default in payment of fine, they were directed to undergo three months' additional imprisonment. All accused-appellants were also convicted and sentenced under Section 420 IPC for five years' imprisonment. They all were also convicted and sentenced under Section 468 IPC for seven years' rigorous imprisonment. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

10. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 09.10.1990, the accused-appellants have preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

11. We have heard the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the respondent-State. We have also gone through the evidence available on record and the judgment and order of the learned trial Court dated 09.10.1990.

12. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, was lodged by Phoolshri (PW-2) at Police Station Jaithra after a delay of about one month. This fact indicates that, after due consideration, deliberation, and concoction and with a view to falsely implicate the accused-appellants, Phoolshri (PW-2) lodged the said report solely on the basis of suspicion. It is also submitted that only on the ground of evidence of so called last seen witnesses of the prosecution, no accused can be convicted without any other corroborating evidence. The prosecution has no corroborative evidence from which so called last seen evidence of the prosecution witnesses can be corroborated and find any support. However, learned Trial Court, without considering this legal aspect in the matter, has wrongly appreciated and misread the evidence against the accused-appellants and has delivered a judgment and order against the accused-appellants without any evidence available on the record and also against the settled principles of law. Thus, learned counsel has submitted that judgment and order of the learned Trial Court dated 09.10.1990 has been passed without any evidence against the accused-appellants and is based on conjectures and surmises and also not supported by any legal principles of law. Hence, judgment and order of learned Trial Court dated 09.10.1990 is perverse and illegal according to the rules of evidence and law, therefore, is liable to be set aside. In view of the above, criminal appeal of the accused-appellants is liable to be allowed.

13. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that prosecution witnesses had seen Ram Dulare being taken away from his house on 08.03.1986. After 08.03.1986, the whereabouts of Ram Dulare were not known to anyone. The accused-appellants impersonated another person in place of Ram Dulare and got a forged sale deed of all his land executed in the name of Dinesh. These facts were found to be verified from the sale deed as the same was executed in the name of Dinesh at Tehsil Aliganj. The so-called forged sale deed executed by Ram Dulare has proved this fact that after taking away Ram Dulare at Tehsil Aliganj, the accused-appellants have got executed a sale deed of all land of Ram Dulare impersonating other person in the name of Dinesh. Thereafter the accused-appellants made Ram Dulare, brother of the informant Phoolshri (PW-2), disappear. A lot of search was made by Phoolshri (PW-2) and other relatives of Ram Dulare but whereabouts of Ram Dulare were not known at any place. Neither Ram Dulare was found nor his dead body was recovered. Thereafter learned Trial Court keeping in mind and considering this fact and evidence in this respect found the accused-appellants guilty and rightly convicted them for the alleged crime. The finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court are based on evidence which found support from the settled principles of law. There is no illegality or perversity in the judgment and order of the learned Trial Court. For this reason, the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellants has no merit, hence is liable to be rejected.

14. In the light of rival submissions of both the parties, we have perused the whole evidence as available on the record.

15. From the perusal of the examination-in-chief of Kirpal Singh (PW-1), we find that this witness has stated that informant Phoolshri is daughter of his elder uncle. Abductee Ram Dulare was brother of Phoolshri. Ram Dulare was issueless. The wife of Ram Dulare had died about twenty-three and a half years ago. The father of Ram Dulare, Lakhan, had died about eleven and a half years ago. The mother of Ram Dulare, Naiksi, is alive. She often stays at her maternal house in Village Mochi, which falls under Police Station Raja Ka Rampur. Ram Dulare had six bigha of land in his share. It is about three and half years when Ram Dulare and Phoolshri were at their house. It was 04:00 PM in the evening. I, my brother Virendra Singh and Mahaveer Singh of the village were sitting on their platform (chabutra). This platform is out of our Bakhri near exit. My house is also located in this Bakhri. Houses of Ram Dulare and Mahaveer are also situated in this Bakhri. The accused-appellants Ram Kishore, Ram Bharosey, Bhudeo and Dinesh Singh called Ram Dulare from his home and took him away towards Nagla Vijayi. We know all the four accused persons beforehand. These people often used to come and go to Ram Dulare□s house. With their company, Ram Dulare also became addicted to drinking alcohol and gambling. Since the time the accused took away Ram Dulare, he has neither been seen nor returned. I have seen that the sale deed was got executed in the name of accused Dinesh, in which Jaisar had been written by Ram Dulare and Ram Kishore and Ram Bharosey were the witnesses. The accused persons caused the disappearance of Ram Dulare.

16. From the perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, we found that when Ram Dulare was going with accused persons then this witness has not interacted and questioned him. This witness has also not seen accused persons and Ram Dulare in Tehsil executing the sale deed. According to this witness, accused persons had not taken away Ram Dulare by catching hold. They had went together. After that day, I have not seen accused and Ram Dulare together. This witness has also submitted in his cross-examination that □I have not told these things to anyone till today that I had asked Ram Dulare that in which panchayat and where he is going but he has not replied. Before this incident, I have not seen accused persons threatening or alluring Ram Dulare. Ram Dulare had also not told me that accused have threatened or gave any kind of allurement. When accused returned on 17.03.1986 then I had asked accused about Ram Dulare. Before this, I have not lodged any missing report with this respect.

17. Thus, from the perusal of the whole evidence of Kirpal Singh (PW-1), it is clear that this witness has not seen threatening or alluring Ram Dulare by the accused-appellants. According to this witness, Ram Dulare has not forcibly been taken away by the accused persons with them. According to this witness, he has only seen going of Ram Dulare with accused-appellants on 08.03.1986. However, this witness only inquired on 17.03.1986 from the accused-appellants about whereabouts of Ram Dulare. However, despite this, this witness has not lodged any missing report about Ram Dulare. Thus, from the evidence of this witness, this fact emerged that this witness has been projected and produced by the prosecution with a view to support its case but from the evidence of this witness, it is clearly revealed that this witness has not lodged any missing report even after one month of the disappearing of Ram Dulare. Due to this reason, we found no truthfulness, credence and reliability in the evidence of this witness. Therefore, evidence of this witness is doubtful and unbelievable. Due to this reason, the evidence of this witness is not reliable and believable against the accused-appellants.

18. From the perusal of evidence of informant, Phoolshri (PW-2), it is revealed that this witness is sister of missing person Ram Dulare. This witness has also submitted in her evidence in the same way as has been submitted by Kirpal Singh (PW-1) in his evidence. According to this witness, when Ram Dulare was being taken away from his house by the accused, Kirpal, Mahaveer, and Virendra had also seen the incident. According to this witness, she has also asked from the accused that where have you sent and kept my brother. Then these persons replied that he halted at ghumri, and we did not know about him. After that, this witness along with her relatives have made a search at every place at her relatives. Thereafter, according to this witness, family members and relatives went at Tehsil Aliganj and then it was came to know that by impersonating any other person in place of her brother Ram Dulare, Dinesh got executed sale deed of six bigha of land in his favour. Then this witness becomes suspicious that land worth rupees fifty thousand has been executed only for a sale consideration of rupees fourteen thousand only. This witness also stated that either they have killed my brother or made him disappeared. From the perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, it appears that this witness permanently resides at her matrimonial home and 2-4 times used to come to her paternal home. From the evidence of this witness, it also appears that this witness had seen going of Ram Dulare with accused then this witness had not asked anything from her brother because these people often used to come and go at the house of Ram Dulare and also used to sit with him. According to this witness, it is revealed that brother of this witness was drinking alcohol but was not gambling. Whenever the brother of this witness sat with the accused, they drank alcohol. Thus, from the perusal of the evidence of this witness, Phoolshri (PW-2), it is clear that this witness became suspicious when a piece of land worth fifty thousand rupees was sold for only fourteen thousand rupees. From the evidence of this witness, it also emerged that this witness is sister of missing person Ram Dulare. This witness lived at her matrimonial home with her family away from her paternal home, therefore, on the date of incident, i.e., 08.03.1986, she was present at her matrimonial home. In other words, presence of this witness at the house of missing brother Ram Dulare appears to be doubtful and suspicious. It is also revealed that this witness Phoolshri (PW-2) came to know about the so called missing of his brother from other so called prosecution witnesses and only on the basis of known fact and information received, this witness after one month of delay from the date of incident has lodged the written report naming the accused-appellants for making her brother Ram Dulare disappear. Thus, presence of this witness on 08.03.1986 at the house of Ram Dulare is doubtful and suspicious. Meaning thereby, this witness has not seen Ram Dulare was being taken away by the accused-appellants, therefore, prosecution has not found any support from the evidence of this witness.

19. From the perusal of evidence of Mahaveer (PW-3), we find that this witness has stated that on the date of incident, this witness has seen taking away of Ram Dulare from his home by the accused-appellants. According to this witness, at that time, Phoolshri was also present at her home. She came out of the room. Thereafter, Ram Dulare has not returned till today. This witness expressed that either accused or any other person had killed Ram Dulare. We found that this witness has also stated that accused persons have not taken Ram Dulare by force, but Ram Dulare has gone with them on his own will. Accused persons usually come and go at the house of Ram Dulare. Ram Dulare had no prior enmity with the accused persons. The witness stated that, at that time, he had not seen any interaction between Ram Dulare and the accused persons. He also stated that Virendra and Kirpal, who were also sitting with him, had also not interacted with Ram Dulare or the accused persons. Thus, from the perusal of the evidence of this witness, we find that this witness in clear-cut words has stated that this witness and other prosecution witnesses, Virendra and Kirpal, had also not interacted or made any conversation with Ram Dulare or accused persons. However, Kirpal Singh (PW-1) has stated in his cross-examination that "I had asked Ram Dulare that in which panchayat and where he is going, then he has not given any answer." Thus, on the same point, prosecution witness Kirpal Singh (PW-1) is stating one thing, whereas prosecution witness Mahaveer (PW-3) has stated other things. In view of the contradictory statements of these two prosecution witnesses, Kirpal Singh (PW-1) and Mahaveer (PW-3), it clearly emerges that they are stating different facts on the same point.

20. In view of the above fact and situation, it is revealed that evidence of this witness is suspicious and doubtful since Kirpal Singh (PW-1) has clearly stated in his cross-examination that "I had not told these things to anyone till today that I had asked Ram Dulare that in which panchayat and where he is going.' From this fact, it is revealed that these prosecution witnesses have been projected and produced by the prosecution with consideration and afterthought for projecting and concocting the prosecution story which could find support from the evidence of these witnesses. However, from the above perusal and discussion of the evidence of these three prosecution witnesses of so called last seen theory, we find that evidence of the above prosecution witnesses does not inspire any confidence. The evidence of so called last seen prosecution witnesses appears to be highly doubtful, suspicious, concocted and afterthought.

21. In this way, the prosecution unsuccessfully attempted to support its case on the last seen together theory on the basis of the evidence of the above-mentioned prosecution witnesses. However, the prosecution miserably failed in its attempt to prove the case against the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt. It is also a settled principle of law that only on the ground of last seen together, no accused can be convicted without any other corroborating evidence.

22. The Supreme Court in the case of Kanhaiya Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 4 SCC 715 has held in para 12 that;

"12. The circumstance of last seen together does not by itself and necessarily lead to the inference that it was the accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. Mere non-explanation on the part of the appellant, in our considered opinion, by itself cannot lead to proof of guilt against the appellant."

23. The Supreme Court in the case of Ashok v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 SCC 393 in para 12 held that;

"Initial burden of proof is on the prosecution to bring sufficient evidence pointing towards guilt of the accused. However, in case of last seen together, the prosecution is exempted to prove exact happening of the incident as the accused himself would have special knowledge of the incident and thus, would have burden of proof as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, last seen together itself is not a conclusive proof but along with other circumstances surrounding the incident, like relations between the accused and the deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of weapon from the accused, etc. non-explanation of death of the deceased, may lead to a presumption of guilt."

24. Thus, in light of the legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in the aforementioned case laws, we find that, in the present case, the prosecution has been wholly unable to discharge its initial burden of proof that the missing person, Ram Dulare, was called, or that on the date of the incident, i.e., 08.03.1986, the accused-appellants came to his house and took him away with them. When the prosecution has failed to discharge its initial burden, the onus of proof cannot be shifted on the accused-appellants under Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

25. The prosecution has no evidence and has not adduced any material evidence from which the accused-appellants could be connected with the disappearance of Ram Dulare after the execution of the sale deed dated 12.03.1986.

26. We have also gone through the findings and reasoning given by the trial Court. We have found that the trial Court has not considered this legal aspect in its judgment and order of conviction. Trial Court has completely neglected this legal point and has not given any finding and reasoning on this aspect.

27. From the perusal of the judgment and order of the trial court, it is evident that the trial court, relying on the so-called executed sale deed by Ram Dulare in favour of Dinesh, held that the sale deed dated 12.03.1986 was a forged document.

28. We have also gone through all the documentary evidence available on record and find that there is no document showing that any Civil Court of competent jurisdiction has given a finding, based on evidence, that the so-called execution of the sale deed by Ram Dulare in favour of Dinesh was forged or fabricated sale deed. Thus, without any conclusive proof from a Civil Court of competent jurisdiction, the learned trial Court itself held the so-called executed sale deed dated 12.03.1986 to be a forged document, which is wholly contrary to settled principles of law. In this way, the trial Court has travelled beyond jurisdiction in respect of civil matters and wrongly held that so called sale deed which was executed on 12.03.1986 by Ram Dulare in favour of Dinesh was a forged sale deed. Not only this, learned Trial Court also on the ground of sale deed dated 12.03.1986 held the accused-appellants guilty for the offence of cheating and dishonestly inducing delivery of property and committing forgery for the purpose of cheating. In this way, the trial Court without any evidence only on the ground of sale deed executed on 12.03.1986 has given a totally wrong finding and conclusion against the accused-appellants. A criminal court cannot, in this manner, hold any accused person guilty of cheating and forgery under Sections 420 and 468 of the IPC without conclusive findings and order from a Civil Court. Thus, from the finding and reasoning given by learned Trial Court, we find that the trial Court only on the ground of so called last seen theory and document of sale deed which was executed by missing person Ram Dulare in favour of Dinesh held the accused-appellants guilty and convicted them for the commission of the alleged crime. It is a settled principle of law that in cases where allegations are made that a sale deed was executed by cheating or forgery, only a Civil Court of competent jurisdiction, after recording evidence and examining the documentary evidence of both parties, is empowered to determine whether the deed, a sale deed or a gift deed, is genuine or executed by means of cheating or forgery.

29. However, we find that there is no documentary evidence on the record of the case from which it could be verified that any Civil Court of competent jurisdiction had given a finding and judgment that the so-called sale deed dated 12.03.1986 was forged or it was executed by Ram Dulare under cheating and forgery by the accused-appellants. Thus, we find that the finding and reasoning given by the learned trial Court in this respect is without any evidence and against the legal principles of law. Hence, due to this reason, the finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court in this respect is not sustainable in the eyes of the law.

30. It is also notable that so called date of incident is 08.03.1986 at unknown time. The written report has been lodged by Phoolshri (PW-2) on 06.04.1986 after about one month from the date of incident. No plausible explanation for one month delay in lodging the written report has been stated by the prosecution. This one month delay in lodging the written report also makes the prosecution story doubtful and suspicious. This fact also goes against the prosecution and casts doubt on the prosecution□s version itself.

31. Thus, from the above discussions, we find that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by learned Trial Court dated 09.10.1990 is not sustainable in the eyes of law because the finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court is against the settled principles of law and without any cogent and reliable evidence, therefore, we find that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 09.10.1990 of the learned Trial Court is liable to be set aside. In this way, we find that the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellants has merit and is liable to be allowed.

32. The criminal appeal is allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 09.10.1990 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellants by learned Trial Court in Session Trial No. 393 of 1987 (State Vs. Ram Kishore and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 98 of 1986, under Sections 364, 420, 468, 471 IPC, Police Station Jaithra, District Etah. The appellants are acquitted of the charge under Sections 364, 420, 468 IPC. The appellants, Ram Kishore, Ram Bharosey, Bhudeo and Dinesh Singh, are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged. However, they shall comply with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

33. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging a conviction and sentence under sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and section 6 of POCSO Act arising out of alleged kidnapping, unlawful confinement, and aggravated penetrative sexual assault of a 14 year old minor victim.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 363,366 and 376(2(i)-Protection of children from Sexual Offences Act,2012-Section 6 & 42-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Sections 164, 374(2)-Rape and Kidnapping of Minor-Age of prosecutrix established as 14 years by radiological examination-Consent of minor legally immaterial-Sole testimony of victim credible and corroborated by section 164 CrPC statement-Conviction upheld-First time offender aged 24 years without criminal antecedents and having family dependencies-Absence of extreme depravity or brutality-Life imprisonment sentence modified to 14 years rigorous imprisonment-Section 42 –Bar against double jeopardy-Trial court erred in awarding separate substantive sentences under section 376 IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act-Separate sentences set aside-Partly Allowed.(Para 57 to 74) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that a girl child below 16 years of age is legally incapable of giving informed consent, rendering any plea of consensual relationship legally immaterial. The conviction for sexual assault can be sustained on the uncorroborated sole testimony of the minor prosecutrix if it inspires confidence, as the victim of a sexual offence stands on a higher pedestal akin to an injured witness. Statement 164 CrPC serves as valid corroborative material under Section 157 of the Evidence Act to reinforce court testimony. Implication of co-accused based on hearsay or named solely to prevent them from pursuing legal defense for the primary accused-as explicitly admitted in cross-examination by prosecution witnesses (PW-1 and PW-2)-creates fatal doubt in the prosecution case. In the absence of an overt act, shared common intention, or proof of meeting of minds beyond reasonable doubt, co-accused are entitled to total acquittal.

Advs. for Respondent(s):-

Ravish Mishra A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajeev Bharti, J.)

1. Heard Shri Sanjay Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.1989 of 2016; Shri Rohit Upadhyay, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.1763 of 2016; Shri Jay Narayan Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.1905 of 2016, Shri Ravish Mishra, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. These appeals under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C. have been preferred by appellants- Anku @ Parshuram bearing Criminal Appeal No.1989/2016; Santosh Kumar Gautam bearing Criminal Appeal No.1763/2016 and Pintu alias Dinesh bearing Criminal Appeal No.1905/2016, challenging the judgment and order dated 04.11.2016, passed by learned Special Judge (POCSO Act) /Additional Sessions Judge, Barabanki in S.T. No. 03/2015 and S.T. No. 22/2015, arising out of Crime No.387 of 2014, Police Station- Deva, District- Barabanki, convicting and sentencing the appellant- Anku @ Parshuram to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 376 I.P.C. with a fine of ₹10,000/-, and in default of payment of fine to further undergo on year rigorous imprisonment. The appellant- Anku @ Parshuram was further convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life under Section 6 of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 (hereinafter referred to □POCSO Act□) with a fine of ₹10,000/-, and in default of payment of fine, to further undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment. Further, the appellants, namely, Anku @ Parshuram, Santosh Kumar Gautam, and Pintu @ Dinesh were convicted under Section 363 IPC and sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of ₹10,000/- each, and in default of payment of fine, to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment. They were also convicted under Section 366 IPC and sentenced to five years' rigorous imprisonment with a fine of ₹10,000/- each, and in default of payment of fine, to undergo one year's rigorous imprisonment. All the substantive sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. Considering the circumstances of the case, the name of the victim is not being mentioned in this judgment.

4. The informant Santram submitted a written complaint at Police Station- Deva on 22.10.2014 stating that his daughter, aged about 14 years, had been enticed away on 13.10.2014 at about 01:00 PM by the accused Anku @ Parshuram s/o Dularey, resident of Madhavpur, Police Station Deva, Barabanki. He alleged that Anku @ Parshuram fled with her in a Maruti car bearing registration No. UP32-AB-7365.

5. It was further alleged that Anku @ Parshuram's friends were also involved in the incident. Despite an extensive search, the victim could not be traced. On the basis of a written complaint, FIR bearing Crime No.387/2014, under Sections 363, 366 I.P.C, and Section 6 of the POCSO Act was registered at Police Station- Deva, District- Barabanki, and the investigation commenced. After investigation, the police found sufficient evidence and submitted the charge sheet against the accused Anku @ Parshuram, under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act; against the accused Harishchandra @ Harvindar under Section 368 IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act; and against the accused Pintu alias Dinesh and Santosh Kumar Gautam, under Sections 363, 366 IPC. The Court took cognizance of the offenses and summoned the accused persons. After hearing both sides, the charges were framed against the accused persons under the above-mentioned sections.

6. On 05.10.2016, after hearing both the parties, the trial court passed a detailed order consolidating the Criminal Case No.3/2015 against Anku @ Parshuram and Harinandan @ Harishchandra @ Harvindar with Criminal Case No.22/2015 against Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu. Criminal Case No. 03/2015 was treated as the leading file. Therefore, both the matters, are being decided together through this common judgment.

7. The prosecution examined the witnesses Santram- informant as PW-1, Ramu as PW-2, Dr. Sangeeta as PW-3, HCP Ramraj as PW-4, victim/prosecutrix as PW-5, Inspector Amarnath Yadav as PW-6, Sub-Inspector Omkar Nath Yadav as PW-7 and Dr. Rajiv Kumar Singh as PW-8. Further, the prosecution proved written complaint as Ex-Ka-1, recovery memo as Ex-Ka-2, medical report as Ex-Ka-3, supplementary medical report as Ex-Ka-4, FIR as Ex-Ka-5, GD entry as Ex-Ka-6, statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as Ex-Ka-7, site plan as Ex-Ka-8, application for recording statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. as Ex-Ka-9, application for inspection of statement as Ex-Ka-10, charge sheet as Ex-Ka-11, X-ray report as Ex-Ka-12 and age certificate as Ex-Ka-13 and after concluding all the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused were recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they denied the allegations and claimed false implication due to malice and mal-intention.

8. Before the Trial Court, Santram (PW1), who is the informant and father of the victim, in his deposition stated that about 8-9 months earlier, the accused Anku @ Parshuram, with the help of Santosh, Pintu and Harishchandra @ Harvindar enticed away his 14-year-old daughter in a Maruti car. Despite searching for several days, he could not find her daughter and later lodged the FIR. He further stated that after about one and a half months, the girl was recovered from Anku @ Parshuram's custody near Bhayara road crossing.

9. Ramu (PW-2), brother of the victim, deposed that his sister, aged about 15 years, was enticed away by Anku @ Parshuram with the help of Santosh, Pintu, Harishchandra @ Harvindar, and her sister was later recovered from Anku @ Parshuram's custody after about one month.

10. The victim was medically examined by Dr. Sangeeta (PW-3) on 24.11.2014. The findings in the medical examination stated that the condition of the victim was normal. Hymen was old, torn, and healed. No spermatozoa or gonococci were found. No definite opinion regarding sexual assault could be given. She further stated that the age of the victim was assessed as about 14 years.

11. The victim/prosecutrix, examined as PW-5, stated that about one year and nine months ago, while she was going to the field, the accused Anku, along with the co-accused Santosh and Pintu, approached her and asked her to run away and marry him. When she refused, they forcibly pushed her into a Maruti van, gagged her mouth, and threatened to kill her if she screamed. She further stated that the accused Santosh and Pintu got off the way. Anku @ Parshuram kept her first at his brother-in-law Harinandan @ Harishchandra @ Harvindar's house at Kodari. Then took her to Piprauli, where he kept her for one month. During this period, Anku @ Parshuram used to do bad things with her. He filled vermillion in her hair parting. Despite her request to be sent back home, the accused refused. Eventually, the police recovered her while she was standing with Anku @ Parshuram near Bhayara road.

12. Inspector Amarnath Yadav (PW-6) described the investigation process, preparation of the site plan, recording of statements, medical examination of the victim and filing of the charge sheet. Dr. Rajiv Kumar Singh (PW-8) produced the X-ray report and the age certificate of the victim.

13. On the basis of the aforesaid discussion of facts, the entire evidence on record, and the applicable legal principles, the learned Trial Court concluded that the prosecution had successfully proved, beyond reasonable doubt, the charges levelled against accused Anku @ Parshuram under Sections 363, 366 and 376 of I.P.C. and Section 6 of POCSO Act. The Trial Court further held that the prosecution had succeeded in establishing, beyond reasonable doubt, the charges under Sections 363 and 366 of I.P.C. against accused Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu @ Dinesh.

14. However, the learned Trial Court found that the prosecution had failed to prove, beyond reasonable doubt, the charges under Section 368 of the Indian Penal Code and Section 6 of POCSO Act against co-accused Harishchandra @ Harvinder @ Harinandan.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANT ANKU @ PARSURAM

15. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the FIR was lodged after an unexplained delay, which creates serious doubts regarding the genuineness of the prosecution's case. There was no independent public witness either at the stage of recovery or investigation. The medical evidence does not conclusively establish the commission of rape, and no external injury was found on the body of the prosecutrix. It is also submitted that the prosecution failed to conclusively prove the age of the prosecutrix. The possibility of a consensual relationship could not be ruled out, and there were material contradictions in the statements of the victim recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and the deposition before the trial court. It is also submitted that the learned trial court failed to appreciate the settled principles. Learned counsel for the appellant further argued that the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is not substantive evidence and can only be used for limited purpose of corroborations or contradictions.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE APPELLANTS PINTU @ DINESH AND SANTOSH

16. Leaned counsel for the appellants further argued that Pintu @ Dinesh and Santosh were residing along with the main accused in the same village and the appellants have been falsely implicated due to village politics. There was no motive for the appellants to kidnap the prosecutrix. The learned Trial Court erred in law by failing to correctly appreciate and apply the legal principles governing the facts and circumstances of the present case. The findings recorded by the learned Trial Court are not only contrary to law but are also manifestly erroneous, perverse, and against the weight of the evidence on record.

17. The learned Trial Judge failed to properly appreciate the material contradictions and inconsistencies in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses and, instead of extending the benefit of reasonable doubt to the appellants, erroneously accepted the prosecution case.

SUBMISSION ON BEHALF OF THE STATE

18. Per contra, learned A.G.A. supported the impugned judgment and submitted that the testimony of the prosecutrix is wholly reliable and inspires confidence. The minor contradictions are natural and inconsequential and the prosecutrix consistently supported the prosecution's case at every stage. The age of the prosecutrix stood fully established through medical examination.

19. It is submitted that the consent of a minor under the POCSO Act is legally immaterial. It is further argued that the absence of injuries or semen does not negate sexual assault. The statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. substantially corroborates depositions before the trial court, and the findings recorded by the trial court are based upon proper appreciation of evidence and warrant no interference.

POINTS OF DETERMINATION

(i) Whether the charges under sections 363, 366, 376 IPC, and section 6 of the POCSO Act against Anku @ Parshuram have been proved beyond reasonable doubt?

(ii) Whether the conviction of Pintu alias Dinesh and Santosh Kumar Gautam is sustainable in law on the basis of facts and evidence on record?

(iii) Whether the impugned judgment suffers from perversity or legal infirmity warranting interference under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C.?

ANALYSIS

20. While exercising power under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., the Appellate Court is entitled to re-appreciate the evidence. However, interference with conviction is warranted only when findings are perverse, manifestly illegal, or wholly unsupported by evidence.

21. In so far as the delay in lodging the FIR is concerned, the same stands satisfactorily explained. The normal rule that prosecution has to explain delay and lack of prejudice does not apply per se to rape cases, as the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in the case of State of U.P. Vs. Manoj Kumar Pandey, AIR 2009 SC 711 (Three-Judge Bench) and Santosh Moolya Vs. State of Karnataka, (2010) 5 SCC 445. In offenses involving minor girls' family members ordinarily search for the victim before approaching authorities due to social stigma and emotional trauma. Thus, the delay in lodging the FIR is not fatal in the present case.

22. It is pertinent to mention here that prosecution witness no.1 was, in fact, subjected to cross-examination by the counsel appearing for the co-accused Pintu and Santosh. Although the counsel representing appellant Anku @ Parshuram could not independently cross-examine the informant- P.W.-1 due to his death.

23. Furthermore, P.W.1 was the informant, and whatever he deposed regarding the incident was also narrated by P.W.5/victim and when the said witness had already been cross-examined on behalf of the co-accused, the appellant has failed to demonstrate any specific prejudice caused to his defence.

24. Significantly, neither before the Trial Court nor in the present appeals had the appellants specifically contended that the inability of their counsel to cross-examine prosecution witness no.1 resulted in a failure of justice or caused irreparable prejudice to their defence.

25. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that every procedural irregularity does not vitiate a trial unless actual prejudice is shown to have been caused to the accused.

26. Moreover, the conviction of the appellants are not founded solely upon the testimony of prosecution witness no.1. The prosecution case is substantially supported by testimony of the victim, the recovery of the victim from the company of the appellants, and other attending circumstances appearing on record. Therefore, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the absence of a separate cross-examination of prosecution witness no.1 by the appellants counsel does not constitute a ground to discard the prosecution case or to extend the benefit of doubt to the appellants.

27. However, while appreciating the evidence of prosecution witness no.1, the Court has remained conscious of the fact that the appellants did not have the opportunity of independent cross-examination. Consequently, any improvement or assertion made by the witness beyond the contents of the First Information Report is required to be scrutinized with due caution.

28. The legislative objective behind the POCSO Act is the protection of children from sexual exploitation. A child in law is incapable of giving valid consent for sexual intercourse within the meaning of the POCSO Act. Once the prosecutrix is found to be below 18 years of age, the plea of consent becomes legally insignificant.

29. In this regard, reliance may be placed on the decision of the Apex Court in Satish Kumar Jayanti Lal Dabgar Vs. State of Gujarat, reported in (2021) 3 SCC 12. The relevant para is being reproduced below :-

"16. The Legislature has introduced the aforesaid provision with sound rationale and there is an important objective behind such a provision. It is considered that a minor is incapable of thinking rationally and giving any consent. For this reason, whether it is civil law or criminal law, the consent of a minor is not treated as valid consent. Here the provision is concerning a girl child who is not only minor but less than 16 years of age. A minor girl can be easily lured into giving consent for such an act without understanding the implications thereof. Such a consent, therefore, is treated as not an informed consent given after understanding the pros and cons as well as consequences of the intended action. Therefore, as a necessary corollary, duty is cast on the other person in not taking advantage of the so-called consent given by a girl who is less than 16 years of age. Even when there is a consent of a girl below 16 years, the other partner in the sexual act is treated as criminal who has committed the offence of rape. The law leaves no choice to him and he cannot plead that the act was consensual. A fortiori, the so-called consent of the prosecutrix below 16 years of age cannot be treated as a mitigating circumstance."

(Emphasis has been laid upon underline parts)

30. In the present case, no convincing material could be elicited by the defence to demolish the prosecution's evidence regarding age. In this case, though the prosecution did not produce any educational certificate of the prosecutrix, but the radiological examination substantially supports the prosecution's case. Accordingly, this Court holds that the prosecutrix was a minor (around 14 years) on the date of occurrence.

31. Much emphasis has been laid by learned counsel for the appellants upon the alleged inconsistencies between the statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. and testimony before the court. At this stage, it becomes necessary to examine the legal character and evidentiary value of a statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C.. A statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. is recorded by a Judicial Magistrate during investigation in order to preserve the version of a witness at the earliest possible stage, free from police influence. Such a statement is not substantive evidence by itself. However, it can be utilized for the purpose of corroboration under Section 157 of the Evidence Act or contradictions under Section 145 of the Evidence Act.

32. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ram Kishan Singh vs. Harmit Kaur, (1972) 3 SCC 280 observed that the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. cannot be treated as substantive evidence but can be used to corroborate or contradict thereof. Similarly, in the case of George vs. State of Kerala, (1998) 4 SCC 605, it has been held that a statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. assumes significance where a witness supports the prosecution's case during trial.

33. In the present matter, the prosecutrix in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. specifically stated that she had been taken away by the appellant and was subjected to sexual intercourse. During deposition before the trial court, the prosecutrix substantially reiterated the same allegations. Minor omissions or variations relating to peripheral details do not affect the prosecution's version.

34. Human memory is not expected to possess photographic precision, particularly in a case involving traumatic sexual offenses. The broad consistency between the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. and testimony before the trial court lends substantial assurance to the prosecution's case. No material contradictions going to the root of the prosecution's story could be demonstrated by the learned counsel for the appellant. Thus, the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. in the present case materially corroborates the testimony of the prosecutrix and strengthens the prosecution's version.

35. It is important to note that Section 361 provides for kidnapping from lawful guardianship.-Whoever takes or entices any minor under sixteen years of age if a male, or under eighteen years of age if a female, or any person of unsound mind, out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, without the consent of such guardian, is said to kidnap such minor or person from lawful guardianship.

Explanation.- The words "lawful guardian" in this section include any person lawfully entrusted with the care or custody of such minor or other person.

(Exception)- This section does not extend to the act of any person who in good faith believes himself to be the father of an illegitimate child, or who in good faith believes himself to be entitled to lawful custody of such child, unless such act is committed for an immoral or unlawful purpose.

36. Furthermore, Section 363 IPC contemplates regarding punishment for kidnapping.- Whoever kidnaps any person from India or from lawful guardianship, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

37. Section 366 I.P.C. contemplates kidnapping or abduction with the intent that a woman may be compelled to marry or forced/seduced to illicit intercourse. The evidence on record clearly establishes the removal of the prosecutrix from lawful guardianship, followed by repeated sexual exploitation. Essential ingredients of Section 366 IPC, therefore, stand fully established.

38. From a perusal of Section 361 of IPC, it appears that there must be an act of enticing or taking, in addition to establishing the child□s minority (being sixteen for boys and eighteen for girls) and care/keep of a lawful guardian. Such □enticement□ need not be direct or immediate in time and can also be through subtle actions like winning over the affection of a minor girl, which is being clearly established from the evidence on record.

39. Section 376(2)(i) of I.P.C. contemplates committing rape on a woman when she is under sixteen years of age.

40. So far as the conviction of the appellants under Section 376 (2)(i) I.P.C. and Section 6 of POCSO Act is concerned, it is a settled law that conviction can be founded upon the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if it inspires confidence. The prosecutrix has consistently supported the prosecution's case during the investigation as well as the trial. Nothing substantial could be elicited during cross-examination to discredit her testimony on material particulars. Minor inconsistencies regarding peripheral effects are natural and inconsequential. In addition thereto, Human memory is not expected to possess photographic precision, particularly in a case involving traumatic sexual offenses.

41. In her deposition before the Court, the prosecutrix stated that at the time of the incident ,she was about 14 years of age. At about 12:00□1:00 P.M., while she was proceeding from her house to the fields, Anku alias Parshuram, accompanied by Santosh and Pintu, came to her and asked whether she would marry him. She refused. Anku insisted that he would marry her. Thereafter, all three persons forcibly lifted her into a Maruti van and gagged her mouth with a cloth, preventing her from raising an alarm. They also threatened to kill her if she shouted.

42. The witness further stated that Pintu and Santosh got down from the vehicle on the way. Thereafter, Anku took her to Kodri and kept her at the house of his brother-in-law, Harinandan, for one day. Subsequently, he took her to the house of another of his sisters at Piprauli, where she was kept for about one month. The witness stated that during this period, "वहां अंकू उसके साथ बुरा काम करते थे." She further stated that she understood the meaning of the expression "बुरा काम".

43. The witness further deposed that at Piprauli, Anku applied sindoor in the parting of her hair and his sister residing there applied colour to her feet. Although she objected, they did not heed her objections and told her to let them do as they wished. She further stated that the name of Anku's brother-in-law at Piprauli was Ashok. Harinandan had also come there, and she requested him to take her back to her parents, but no one paid heed to her request.

44. The witness also deposed regarding the arrival of the police while she and Anku were standing on the road towards Bhayara, their apprehension by the police, the preparation of the recovery memo and other related documents, her medical examination, and the recording of her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. before the Magistrate.

45. In Court, the witness identified her signatures on the Recovery Memo (Exhibit Ka-2) and proved the statement recorded before the Magistrate as Exhibit Ka-7.

46. Maxim "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" is not applicable in India. It is merely a rule of caution. Thus, even if a major portion of evidence is found to be deficient, in case residue is sufficient to prove the guilt of an accused, notwithstanding the acquittal of a number of other co-accused persons, his conviction can be maintained. The Court has to separate grain from chaff and appraise in each case as to what extent the evidence is acceptable. If separation cannot be done, the evidence has to be rejected in toto. A witness may be speaking untruth in some respect and it has to be appraised in each case as to what extent the evidence is worthy of acceptance; merely because in some respects the Court considers the same to be insufficient for placing reliance on the testimony of a witness, it does not necessarily follow as a matter of law that it must be disregarded in all respects as well. Falsity of a particular material witness on a material particular would not ruin it from the beginning to the end. The aforesaid Maxim, while it does not apply in India, is not a sound rule for the reason that one hardly comes across a witness whose evidence does not contain a grain of untruth or at any rate exaggeration, embroidery, or embellishment. Similar view has been taken by the Apex Court in the case(s) of Edakkandi Vs. State of Kerala, (2025) 3 SCC 273 (Para 22) and Ilangovan Vs State of TN, (2020) 10 SCC 533 (Three-Judges Bench).

47. In a case of rape, the testimony of the prosecutrix stands at par with that of an injured witness. It is not necessary to insist on corroboration if the evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and appears credible. An accused can be convicted on the basis of the sole testimony of the prosecutrix without any further corroboration, provided the evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence and appears to be natural and truthful. A woman or girl raped is not an accomplice, and to insist on corroboration of the testimony amounts to an insult to womanhood. In principle, the evidence of a victim of sexual assault stands at par with evidence of an injured witness, just as a witness who has sustained an injury (which is not shown or believed to be self-inflicted) is the best witness in the sense that he is least likely to exculpate the real offender. The evidence of a victim of a sex offence is entitled to great weight, absence of corroboration notwithstanding. Corroboration in the form of an eye-witness account of an independent witness may often be forthcoming in physical assault cases, but such evidence cannot be expected in sex offences, having regard to the very nature of the offence. It would therefore be adding insult to injury to insist on corroboration, drawing inspiration from rules devised by the courts in the Western world. If the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity and the "probabilities factor" does not render it unworthy of credence as a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except from the medical evidence where having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming subject to this qualification that corroboration can be insisted upon when a woman having attained majority is found in a compromising position and there is a likelihood of her having leveled such an accusation on account of the instinct of self-preservation or when the probability factor is found to be out of tune. In the case(s) of Lok Mal Vs. State of UP, (2025) 4 SCC 470 (Para 13) and Santosh Prasad Vs. State of Bihar, (2020) 3 SCC 443, the Hon'ble Apex Court has repeatedly held that the testimony of a victim of sexual assault stands on a higher pedestal akin to injured witness.

48. Learned counsel for the appellant (Anku) has emphasized the absence of injuries and the lack of detection of semen. However, the absence of injuries by itself cannot negate the offense of rape, particularly where examination is delayed. The medical evidence is corroborative in nature and trustworthy.

49. As regards the role attributed to Anku @ Parshuram in the commission of the offence, the prosecution has successfully proved, beyond reasonable doubt, that the prosecutrix was a minor at the time of occurrence. The prosecution has further proved the charges of kidnapping and penetrative sexual assault against the prosecutrix; statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. materially corroborates her statement before the Court. Upon a careful appraisal of the evidence on record, the prosecutrix is found to be reliable, trustworthy and worthy of credence. Ocular testimony cannot be discarded solely on medical grounds. The finding regarding the old, torn hymen and attending circumstances lends assurance to the prosecution's case.

50. The findings recorded by the learned Trial Court are well founded and supported by the evidence available on record and, therefore, warrant no interference by this Court. Consequently, in the case of Anku @ Parshuram, no perversity or miscarriage of justice could be demonstrated by learned counsel for the appellant.

51. So far as the complicity of the co-appellants Pintu and Santosh are concerned, this Court has carefully scrutinized the evidence on record. The prosecution's case against the said co-accused-appellants rests primarily upon their names being disclosed by the prosecutrix and subsequently mentioned in the FIR. However, a closer scrutiny of the evidence reveals that their implication is not beyond reasonable doubt. It is neither supported by reliable ocular testimony nor by any independent corroborative material. PW-1, informant (father of the prosecutrix) categorically admitted during cross-examination that he had not witnessed the occurrence with his own eyes and that the report was lodged solely on the basis of information allegedly received from his daughter over the telephone. He specifically stated that "maine apne ankho se nahi dekha tha, maine apni ladki ke batana ke adhar par report likhwayi". He also admitted that the name of Santosh was mentioned in the FIR on the basis of what was told to him by his son, i.e. P.W.2. More importantly, P.W.2 during cross-examination made material admissions striking at the root of the prosecution's case against Pintu and Santosh. He stated that he had deposed before the court on the basis of information heard from others and further admitted that the persons related to the appellant Anku and his friends were also implicated in this case. P.W.2 specifically stated that 'Anku ke rishtedaro ko bhi phasaya gaya aur Anku ke mitro ko bhi is case me phasaya gaya'. He further admitted that 'Anku ke rishtedaro wa mitro ko isliye likha diya ki we pairvi na kar sake'. The aforesaid admission is of great significance. It demonstrates that the relatives and friends of the main accused were named in the case, not on account of their actual involvement, but with the object of preventing them from pursuing or supporting the defence of the main accused. The statement of the prosecutrix was recorded thereafter under Section 164 Cr.P.C. wherein she mentioned about presence of these co-accused Santosh and Pintu along with main accused Anku @ Parshuram on the road. In her testimony before the Court also she reiterated the same and also stated that Santosh and Pintu got off the vehicle on way. She had not stated about their presence with others, thereafter nor has she attributed any role to them in examination-in-chief and in her statement recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C. after they had got off from the vehicle, but surprisingly in her cross-examination by Pintu's counsel she mentioned about presence of Pintu and Santosh at the house of Harinandan in Village- Kodri and also that they left the house after sometime which is inconsistent. Read conjointly with the testimony of P.W.1 and P.W.2, as discussed earlier, implication of co-accused Santosh and Pintu appears to be on saying of others and is not corroborated by any other evidence. The admission of P.W.2, referred above, creates a serious doubt in the prosecution's story and renders the implication of the co-accused persons highly doubtful.

52. No overt act constituting rape, wrongful confinement, or any other subsequent offence has been attributed to the co-appellant Pintu or Santosh in the FIR, in statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., or in deposition before the trial court. The prosecution has also failed to establish any prior meeting of minds, common intention or common object so as to attract constructive criminal liability. No independent witness has supported the prosecution's version regarding the participation of co-accused/appellants Pintu and Santosh. The Investigating Officer also failed to collect any material demonstrating their continued involvement after the initial stage of the occurrence.

53. It is the settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that suspicion, however, strong, cannot substitute legal proof. In Sharad Virdhi Chand Sarda vs. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that guilt must be established beyond reasonable doubt and cannot rest upon conjectures or suspicion.

54. In the present case, the admissions of PW-1 and PW-2 themselves create substantial doubt regarding the involvement of co-accused/appellants Pintu and Santosh. The evidence on record does not satisfy the standard of proof required in a criminal trial. The trial court failed to appreciate these material admissions and proceeded to convict the co-accused/appellants without there being cogent and reliable evidence establishing their participation beyond a reasonable doubt.

55. Accordingly, this Court is of the considered opinion that the prosecution has failed to prove the guilt of co-accused/appellants Pintu and Santosh beyond reasonable doubt. They are, therefore, entitled to the benefit of the doubt and deserve to be acquitted of all charges levelled against them.

56. It is pertinent to mention here that the learned Sessions Judge acquitted one other accused, Harishchandra @ Harvinder @ Harinandan, on the ground that the prosecution failed to adduce any specific, cogent, and reliable evidence establishing his active participation in the commission of the alleged offences. The prosecutrix did not level any direct allegation of rape or sexual assault against him and merely stated that she had been kept at his house for one day by the accused Anku @ Parshuram. The trial Court further noted that the prosecutrix had not made any complaint against Harishchandra while staying at his house. In the absence of evidence demonstrating his knowledge of the offence, common intention, or any overt act facilitating the crime, the learned Sessions Judge held that the prosecution had failed to prove the charges against him beyond a reasonable doubt and consequently extended to him the benefit of doubt, resulting in his acquittal.

57. In the present case, the appellant Anku @ Parshuram has been convicted under section 376 IPC as well as section 6 of the POCSO Act on account of the same act of sexual assault committed upon the victim. The occurrence pertains to 13.10.2014, and therefore, the punishment provisions as existing on the date of occurrence are required to be taken into consideration. Before proceeding to determine the appropriate quantum of sentence, it is necessary to advert to section 42 of POCSO Act. This provision stipulates that any act or omission constitutes an offense punishable under the POCSO Act as well as under certain provisions of the Indian Penal Code, including Section 376 IPC. The offender shall be liable to punishment under the provision that provides for punishment greater in degree.

58. A perusal of the record demonstrates that the prosecutrix was approximately 14 years of age on the date of occurrence. Consequently, the offence, proved, was not punishable under Section 376 IPC simpliciter but was squarely covered by Section 376(2)(i) IPC, as applicable at the relevant time, which specifically dealt with rape upon a girl under sixteen years of age and prescribed rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than ten years, extendable to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life and shall also be liable to fine. The learned Trial Court, however, framed a charge and recorded a conviction under Section 376 IPC simpliciter without adverting to the aggravated provision attracted by its own findings regarding the age of the victim.

59. Further, the learned Trial Court awarded separate substantive sentences under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 of POCSO Act. Such an approach is contrary to Section 42 of the POCSO Act, which mandates that where the same act constitutes an offence punishable under the POCSO Act as well as under Section 376 IPC and its aggravated forms, the offender shall be liable to punishment only under the enactment providing punishment greater in degree. The object of Section 42 of POCSO Act is to prevent duplication of punishment for the same act.

60. At the relevant time, Section 6 of POCSO Act prescribed a minimum sentence of ten years' rigorous imprisonment extending to imprisonment for life and fine, while section 376(2)(i) I.P.C. prescribed rigorous imprisonment for a term not less than ten years, extendable to imprisonment for life, which shall mean imprisonment for the remainder of that person's natural life and shall also be liable to fine.

61. Therefore, once the conviction arose out of the same act of penetrative sexual assault upon a child, separate punishments under both provisions could not legally be imposed. The learned Trial Court thus committed an error in law in sentencing the appellant-Anku @ Parshuram separately under Section 376 IPC and Section 6 POCSO Act, instead of applying Section 42 of the POCSO Act and imposing punishment only under the appropriate aggravated provision, namely Section 376(2)(i) IPC.

62. The object of section 42 of the POCSO Act is to avoid duplication of punishment where the same act constitutes offenses under both enactments and to ensure that the offender is not subjected to double punishment for the same criminal act. The provision does not mandate the imposition of maximum punishment in every case, nor does it curtail the judicial discretion of the Court to determine an appropriate sentence within the statutory limits prescribed by law.

63. Therefore, while mentioning the conviction of the appellant- Anku @ Parshuram under both Sections 376(2) (i) IPC and Section 6 of the POCSO Act, this Court is required to impose a sentence that satisfies the mandate of Section 42 of the POCSO Act and remains proportionate to the facts and circumstances of the case. This Court is of the opinion that the convict shall remain in prison for the remainder of his natural life, amounts to a punishment qualitatively more severe than ordinary life imprisonment, as it extinguishes the possibility of release through remission or commutation under the statutory regime.

64. Accordingly, this Court proceeds to examine whether the sentence imposed by the trial court requires interference on the touchstone of proportionality, mitigating circumstances, and settled principles governing sentencing discretion, also keeping in view the legal provision permitting conviction under a more serious penal sections 376(2)(i) I.P.C. than the one 376 I.P.C. under which the charge has been framed.

65. Considering the totality of the facts and circumstances, this Court is of the opinion that while the conviction of the appellant (Anku) warrants no interference, the sentence imposed by the learned Trial Court calls for reconsideration.

66. As argued by learned counsel for the appellant, the age of the appellant, Anku @ Parshuram, was about 24 years at the time of conviction, which is also mentioned in the statement of the accused persons recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., and further stated that he is a first-time offender. There is no material available on record indicating that he has a criminal history or has previously been involved in any criminal activity. From a perusal of statement of the victim recorded under Section 164 Cr.P.C., it would further reveal that the appellant-Anku @ Parashuram was a family man having a child dependent upon him. Though such factors cannot absolve the appellant of criminal liability, they nevertheless constitute relevant mitigating circumstances for the purpose of determining the appropriate quantum of sentence.

67. The Court further finds that the record does not disclose the existence of any exceptional aggravating circumstances such as extreme brutality, repeated acts of violence, use of deadly weapons, or conduct showing exceptional depravity so as to justify the imposition of the maximum punishment of imprisonment for life. While the age of the prosecutrix and the nature of the offence remained serious aggravating circumstances, the principle of proportionality and individualized sentencing require the Court to balance the aggravating and mitigating factors in a fair and judicious manner.

68. Accordingly, having regard to the age of the appellant- Anku @ Parshuram, his status to be a first-time offender, the absence of criminal antecedents, his family responsibilities and the overall facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the considered opinion that the ends of justice would be adequately served by modifying the sentence of imprisonment for life to rigorous imprisonment of 14 years along the fine imposed by the learned Trial Court.

69. From a perusal of custody certificate dated 01.07.2026, received by learned A.G.A. from Senior Superintendent, Central Jail, Varanasi, it appears that the appellant- Anku @ Parshuram has already spent a period of 14 years, 2 months and 28 days in jail including remission period.

70. In view of the above, Criminal Appeal No.1989 of 2016 is partly allowed so far as the appellant Anku @ Parshuram is concerned. The conviction of the appellant-Anku @ Parshuram under the relevant provisions of law, as recorded by the learned Trial Court, is hereby affirmed. However, the order of sentence is modified to the extent that the appellant shall undergo:

(i) Rigorous imprisonment for fourteen (14) years with a fine of ₹10,000/- for the offence under Section 376(2)(i) IPC. In default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo one year of rigorous imprisonment.

(ii) Rigorous imprisonment for five (5) years with a fine of ₹10,000/- for the offence under Section 363 IPC. In default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo one year of rigorous imprisonment.

(iii) Rigorous imprisonment for five (5) years with a fine of ₹10,000/- for the offence under Section 366 IPC. In default of payment of fine, he shall further undergo one year of rigorous imprisonment.

71. All the substantive sentences of imprisonment shall run concurrently. The appellant-Anku @ Parshuram shall be entitled to the benefit of Section 428 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (corresponding to Section 468 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, as applicable) for the period already undergone during investigation, inquiry and trial.

72. The appellant-Anku @ Parshuram shall deposit the entire amount of fine of ₹30,000/-, if not already deposited, before the learned Trial Court, failing which the default sentences shall follow in accordance with law.

73. In so far as the remaining appellants, namely Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu @ Dinesh, are concerned, since the prosecution has failed to adduce cogent and reliable evidence to establish their guilt beyond reasonable doubt, they are entitled to the benefit of doubt. Consequently, their convictions and sentences are set aside, and they are acquitted of all the charges.

74. Accordingly, Criminal Appeal Nos.1763 of 2016 and 1905 of 2016, filed by appellants, namely, Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu @ Dinesh, are allowed. The accused-appellants, namely, Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu @ Dinesh shall be released forthwith, if they are in jail, unless they are wanted in any other case, subject to compliance of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. The amount of fine, if deposited by the appellants, namely, Santosh Kumar Gautam and Pintu @ Dinesh shall be refunded.

75. Trial court record along with copy of this judgment and order be transmitted to the court concerned forthwith.

76. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the Jail Authorities concerned and the court concerned for compliance.

THE HON'BLE SANTOSH RAI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2174 of 1987

Ganga Ram ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to conviction under Ss. 366 and 376 IPC where the appellant challenged the conviction on the grounds of the age of the prosecutrix, alleged consent, absence of definite medical evidence of rape, delay in lodging the first information report, conduct of the prosecutrix, discrepancy regarding the salwar and the legality of the sentence, and the question whether the conviction and sentence awarded by the trial court called for interference in appeal. (Paras 8, 11-18, 20-23)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 366, 376 - Kidnapping and rape - Minor prosecutrix - Consent - Legal effect - Consent of a minor prosecutrix is wholly immaterial and affords no defence to a charge under Ss. 366 and 376 IPC - Where the prosecutrix was below eighteen years of age, her accompanying the accused willingly does not constitute consent known to law - Conviction upheld. (Paras 11, 15, 21-23).

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 366, 376 - Evidence - Testimony of prosecutrix - Corroboration - Evidence of a prosecutrix in a case of rape or kidnapping, if truthful, natural and inspiring confidence, does not require corroboration as a matter of rule - Testimony found reliable and corroborated in material particulars by medical, radiological and recovery evidence - Conviction sustainable. (Paras 12-14, 21).

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Medical evidence - Negative vaginal-sperm report - Absence of definite medical opinion regarding rape - Such circumstance, in the facts of the case, not sufficient to discredit otherwise credible and corroborated testimony of the prosecutrix. (Paras 8, 13-16).

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 366, 376 - Delay in lodging first information report - Six days' delay - Delay satisfactorily explained by search for the prosecutrix following her disappearance and subsequent report upon her recovery - Trivial and natural discrepancies not going to the root of the prosecution case - Conviction not vitiated. (Para 16).

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - S. 376 - Sentencing - Fine - Penal provision contemplating imprisonment coupled with fine - Failure of trial court to impose fine constitutes a material legal error - However, where appeal is preferred only by convicted accused, imposition of fine in appellate proceedings would amount to enhancement of sentence and accused cannot be placed in a more disadvantageous position - Omission cannot be rectified in appeal preferred by accused alone. (Paras 18, 20).

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 366, 376 - Appellate jurisdiction - Acquittal of co-accused and conviction of appellant - Specific and individuated assessment of role - Direct, specific and consistent evidence against appellant distinguished from absence of overt act against co-accused - Conviction affirmed. (Para 17).

Held: The consent of a minor prosecutrix is wholly immaterial and affords no defence to a charge under Ss. 366 and 376 IPC - the prosecutrix, being of tender age and belonging to an unlettered, backward background, could neither be expected to raise an alarm at every stage nor could her silence, born out of fear and threat at the point of a knife, be equated with consent - the evidence of a prosecutrix in a case of rape or kidnapping stands on a footing different from that of an ordinary witness and, if found to be truthful, natural and inspiring confidence, does not require corroboration as a matter of rule - the testimony of the prosecutrix, if found reliable, is by itself sufficient to found a conviction - courts must be wary of insisting on corroboration as a condition for judicial reliance on such testimony - the trial court has recorded a clear finding that the statement of the prosecutrix, read as a whole and tested in cross-examination, inspires confidence and stands corroborated in material particulars by the medical, radiological and recovery evidence - the age of consent under the extant criminal law is eighteen years, and sexual intercourse with, or the taking away of, a girl below that age cannot be validated by any purported consent on her part - the trial court's approach in giving the appellant the benefit of the marginally lower end of the radiological estimate and yet convicting him discloses a careful and appellant-favourable, rather than a perverse, appreciation of the ossification evidence - the delay of six days stands satisfactorily explained by the fact that it was the maternal uncle of the prosecutrix who, upon her disappearance, first engaged in a search for her rather than rushing to lodge a report, and by the fact that a further report was made by the father upon her recovery - trivial and natural discrepancies of the kind pointed out do not, without more, warrant rejection of an otherwise credible and corroborated prosecution case - the trial court's judgment demonstrates a specific and individuated assessment of the role of each accused - no evidence was found to connect the co-accused with any overt act of kidnapping or confinement whereas the role attributed to the appellant was direct, specific and consistently spoken to by the prosecutrix at every stage - failure to impose fine, though legally erroneous, cannot be rectified in the present appellate proceedings as imposition of fine would undoubtedly amount to enhancement of the sentence already awarded and the present appeal has been preferred only by the convicted accused - no infirmity, illegality or perversity having been found in the findings recorded by the trial court, the prosecution having proved beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant kidnapped the prosecutrix and thereafter committed rape upon her, the conviction under Ss. 366 and 376 IPC and sentence of seven years' rigorous imprisonment on each count, to run concurrently, call for no interference and the appeal is dismissed. (Paras 11-18, 20-23). (E-7)

Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Appeal under S. 374(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure against the judgment and order dated 20.08.1987 passed by the 4th Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura, in S.T. No. 393 of 1986, whereby the appellant was convicted under Ss. 366 and 376 IPC and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment on each count, the sentences to run concurrently.

Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri Purshottam Maurya, learned AGA for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Shri Nityanand Srivastava, Advocate holding brief of Shri Suhel Ahmad Azmi, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Purshottam Maurya, learned AGA for the State.

2. This criminal appeal under Section 374(2) of the Code of Criminal Procedure has been preferred by the appellant Ganga Ram against the judgment and order dated 20.08.1987 passed by the 4th Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura, in S.T. No. 393 of 1986 (State Vs. Devi Singh and others), by which the appellant was convicted for the offence punishable under Section 366 IPC and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment, and further convicted for the offence punishable under Section 376 IPC and sentenced to seven years' rigorous imprisonment, both the sentences directed to run concurrently. By the very same judgment, the co-accused Devi Singh and Tilak Raj alias Gopal, who had been charged respectively under Sections 363/366 IPC and 368 IPC, were acquitted and given the benefit of doubt.

3. The prosecution case, briefly stated, is that the complainant Mawasi lodged a first information report on 18.05.1986 at Police Station Vrindaban alleging that his niece Kela, who was residing with him, had gone to fetch water from a hand-pump on 12.05.1986 at about 6.00 p.m. and was kidnapped by the appellant Ganga Ram. It transpired during investigation and trial that the appellant took the prosecutrix from Vrindaban to Chatikara, thence to Kosi, Faridabad and Jagadri, and thereafter confined her at his house in Palwal, where she was ultimately recovered by the police on 17/18.05.1986.

4. The prosecution examined Mawasi (complainant) as PW-1, witness Ram Chand as PW-2, witness Kalua as PW-3, Dr. Nirupma Srivastava as PW-4, the prosecutrix Kela as PW-5, father of the prosecutrix Girdhar as PW-6, SI Pradeep Kumar Gautam as PW-7, SI Veer Pal Singh as PW-8 and Head Constable Girraj Singh as PW-9.

5. The prosecutrix, examined as PW-5, deposed on oath that the appellant committed rape upon her at Jagadri at the house of his brother's wife, at the point of a knife, and thereafter kept her confined at Palwal.

6. The accused-appellant stated in his statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he has been falsely implicated in this case and the prosecution allegations against him are wrong. He further stated that he has never kidnapped and victim and has not committed rape upon her.

7. The grounds of the appeal in brief are that the conviction of the appellant is against the weight of evidence on record and is bad in law. Furthermore, the sentence awarded to the appellant is too severe.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant assailed the conviction on the following grounds: (i) that the radiological opinion placed the age of the prosecutrix at about sixteen years, with a variation of a year on either side, and there was no other reliable material, such as a birth certificate or school record, to conclusively establish that she was below eighteen years of age; (ii) that the vaginal-sperm report was negative and no definite medical opinion regarding rape could be given; (iii) that the first information report was lodged six days after the alleged occurrence, casting doubt on the prosecution version; (iv) that the conduct of the prosecutrix, in not raising an alarm and not disclosing the incident to anyone despite several opportunities, was consistent only with her being a consenting party; and (v) that there was a discrepancy between the description of the colour/print of the salwar in the fard and the salwar produced in court.

9. Learned AGA, per contra, supported the impugned judgment and submitted that the trial court, after a threadbare and balanced appraisal of the evidence, has clearly and specifically attributed a distinct role to the appellant alone, namely, that of having induced, kidnapped and confined the prosecutrix and having committed rape upon her, as distinguished from the co-accused Devi Singh and Tilak Raj, against whom no specific act or role was attributed either by the prosecutrix or by any other witness, and who were consequently, and rightly, extended the benefit of doubt. It was submitted that the conviction of the appellant rests on the cogent, consistent and creditworthy testimony of the prosecutrix (PW-5), duly corroborated by the statement of her father (PW-6, Girdhar), the recovery of the prosecutrix from the appellant's own house at Palwal, the site plan, the seizure of her salwar bearing human blood, and the radiological opinion, and that the minor discrepancies pointed out by the defence do not go to the root of the prosecution case.

10. This Court has given its anxious consideration to the rival submissions and to the evidence on record.

11. So far as the plea of consent is concerned, it is well settled that the consent of a minor prosecutrix is wholly immaterial and affords no defence to a charge under Sections 366 and 376 IPC. In Anversinh @ Kiransinh Fatesinh Zala Vs. State of Gujarat, (2021) 3 SCC 12, the Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that even where the prosecutrix may have accompanied the accused willingly, such consent, being the consent of a minor, is not a consent known to law and does not absolve the accused of the offence of kidnapping from lawful guardianship or the consequences flowing therefrom. Para 12 and 13 of the judgement in Anverish @ Kiransinh Fatesinh Zala (supra) are as under:

"12. Having given our thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions, it appears to us that although worded succinctly, the impugned judgment does not err in appreciating the law on kidnapping. It would be beneficial to extract the relevant parts of Sections 361 and 366 IPC which define "kidnapping from lawful guardianship" and consequential punishment. These provisions read as follows:

"361. Kidnapping from lawful guardianship. Whoever takes or entices any minor under sixteen years of age if a male, or under eighteen years of age if a female, or any person of unsound mind, out of the keeping of the lawful guardian of such minor or person of unsound mind, without the consent of such guardian, is said to kidnap such minor or person from lawful guardianship.

366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc. Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall also be punishable as aforesaid."

13. A perusal of Section 361 IPC shows that it is necessary that there be an act of enticing or taking, in addition to establishing the child's minority (being sixteen for boys and eighteen for girls) and care/keep of a lawful guardian. Such "enticement" need not be direct or immediate in time and can also be through subtle actions like winning over the affection of a minor girl. However, mere recovery of a missing minor from the custody of a stranger would not ipso facto establish the offence of kidnapping. Thus, where the prosecution fails to prove that the incident of removal was committed by or at the instigation of the accused, it would be nearly impossible to bring the guilt home as happened in King Emperor v. Gokaran and Emperor v. Abdur Rahmans, 1916 SCC OnLine All 63.

The trial court has, on facts, correctly found that the prosecutrix, being of tender age and belonging to an unlettered, backward background, could neither be expected to raise an alarm at every stage nor could her silence, born out of fear and threat at the point of a knife, be equated with consent and furthermore, she was enticed and removed from legal guardianship on the basis of false information given by the accused-appellant that her mother is not well.

12. As regards the sufficiency of the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, it is equally well settled that the evidence of a prosecutrix in a case of rape or kidnapping stands on a footing different from that of an ordinary witness and, if found to be truthful, natural and inspiring confidence, does not require corroboration as a matter of rule.

13. In Bharwada Bhoginbhal Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat, (1983) 3 SCC 217, Honble Supreme Court held in para 11 as under:-

"11..... We are therefore of the opinion that if the evidence of the victim does not suffer from any basic infirmity, and the "probabilities factor" does not render it unworthy of credence, as a general rule, there is no reason to insist on corroboration except from the medical evidence, where, having regard to the circumstances of the case, medical evidence can be expected to be forthcoming, subject to the following qualification: Corroboration may be insisted upon when a woman having attained majority is found in a compromising position and there is a likelihood of her having levelled such an accusation on account of the instinct of self-preservation. Or when the "probabilities factor" is found to be out of tune."

14. In State of Punjab v. Gurmit Singh, (1996) 2 SCC 384, Honble Apex Court held in para 21 as under:-

"21. Of late, crime against women in general and rape in particular is on the increase. It is an irony that while we are celebrating woman's rights in all spheres, we show little or no concern for her honour. It is a sad reflection on the attitude of indifference of the society towards the violation of human dignity of the victims of sex crimes. We must remember that a rapist not only violates the victim's privacy and personal integrity, but inevitably causes serious psychological as well as physical harm in the process. Rape is not merely a physical assault - it is often destructive of the whole personality of the victim. A murderer destroys the physical body of his victim, a rapist degrades the very soul of the helpless female. The courts, therefore, shoulder a great responsibility while trying an accused on charges of rape. They must deal with such cases with utmost sensitivity. The courts should examine the broader probabilities of a case and not get swayed by minor contradictions or insignificant discrepancies in the statement of the prosecutrix, which are not of a fatal nature, to throw out an otherwise reliable prosecution case. If evidence of the prosecutrix inspires confidence, it must be relied upon without seeking corroboration of her statement in material particulars. If for some reason the court finds it difficult to place implicit reliance on her testimony, it may look for evidence which may lend assurance to her testimony, short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. The testimony of the prosecutrix must be appreciated in the background of the entire case and the trial court must be alive to its responsibility and be sensitive while dealing with cases involving sexual molestations."

Thus, the Supreme Court held that the testimony of the prosecutrix, if found reliable, is by itself sufficient to found a conviction, and courts must be wary of insisting on corroboration as a condition for judicial reliance on such testimony. The trial court, applying this very standard, has recorded a clear finding that the statement of the prosecutrix (PW-5), read as a whole and tested in cross-examination, inspires confidence and stands corroborated in material particulars by the medical, radiological and recovery evidence.

15. On the question of age, this Court is further fortified by the consistent line of authority including Independent Thought Vs. Union of India, (2017) 10 SCC 800, recognizing that the age of consent under the extant criminal law is eighteen years, and that sexual intercourse with, or the taking away of, a girl below that age cannot be validated by any purported consent on her part. The trial court's approach in giving the appellant the benefit of the marginally lower end of the radiological estimate (holding the age to be 'not more than seventeen years' rather than exactly sixteen) and yet convicting him, discloses a careful and appellant-favourable, rather than a perverse, appreciation of the ossification evidence.

16. The contentions regarding delay in lodging the first information report, the discrepancy in the description of the salwar, and the negative vaginal-sperm report have all been specifically dealt with by the trial court. The delay of six days stands satisfactorily explained by the fact that it was the maternal uncle of the prosecutrix who, upon her disappearance, first engaged in a search for her rather than rushing to lodge a report, and by the fact that a further report was made by the father (PW-6) upon her recovery. Trivial and natural discrepancies of the kind pointed out do not, without more, warrant rejection of an otherwise credible and corroborated prosecution case.

17. What weighs with this Court, in particular, is that the trial court's judgment demonstrates a specific and individuated assessment of the role of each accused. Whereas no evidence was found to connect either Devi Singh or Tilak Raj alias Gopal with any overt act of kidnapping or confinement, the sole allegation against Devi Singh being that he was casually met at Kosi, and against Tilak Raj that his house was, without more, named as a place of brief stay, the role attributed to the appellant Ganga Ram is direct, specific and consistently spoken to by the prosecutrix at every stage, from the inducement at the water-pump to his confining and committing rape upon her at Jagadri and Palwal. This distinction, resulting in the acquittal of the co-accused and the conviction of the appellant alone, itself demonstrates that the trial court did not proceed on generalised or assumed culpability but on a specific finding of individual role and responsibility qua the appellant.

18. Prior to substitution by Act 13 of 2013, Section 376(1) IPC provides that "whoever, except in the cases provided for by sub section (2), commits rape shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than seven years but which may be for life or for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine…". Furthermore the same provision regarding mandatory part of imposition fine is provided under section 363 and 366 of IPC. Thus, where the IPC provision prescribes punishment in the form*: "…shall be punished with imprisonment and shall also be liable to fine",, or "..with imprisonment and fine",* the trial court is expected to impose fine also. Failure to impose fine amounts to a material legal error in sentencing. It is true that the learned trial court has committed an error in not imposing the fine though the penal provision contemplates punishment of imprisonment coupled with fine. Nevertheless, the present appeal has been preferred only by the convicted accused. Neither the State nor the victim has preferred any appeal seeking enhancement of sentence, nor has any revisional jurisdiction for enhancement been invoked after due notice. Since imposition of fine would undoubtedly amount to enhancement of the sentence already awarded, this Court, while deciding the appeal preferred by the accused alone, cannot place him in a more disadvantageous position. The omission of the trial court, though legally erroneous, cannot therefore be rectified in the present appellate proceedings.

19. Para 21 of the judgement of Apex Court in Anversinh @ Kiransinh Fatesinh Zala (supra) is extracted below:

"21. Having held so, we feel that there are many factors which may not be relevant to determine the guilt but must be seen with a humane approach at the stage of sentencing. The opinion of this Court in State of M.P. v. Surendra Singh, (2015) 1 SCC 222 on the need for proportionality during sentencing must be re-emphasised. This Court viewed that: (SCC p. 227, para 13)

"13. We again reiterate in this case that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system to undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of law. It is the duty of every court to award proper sentence having regard to the nature of the offence and the manner in which it was executed or committed. The sentencing courts are expected to consider ull relevant facts and circumstances bearing on the question of sentence and proceed to impose a sentence commensurate with the gravity of the offence. The court must not only keep in view the rights of the victim of the crime but also the society at large while considering the imposition of appropriate punishment. Meagre sentence imposed solely on account of lapse of time without considering the degree of the offence will be counterproductive in the long run and against the interest of the society." (emphasis supplied)

20. It is true that the learned trial court has committed an error in not imposing the fine though the penal provision contemplates punishment of imprisonment coupled with fine. Nevertheless, the present appeal has been preferred only by the convicted accused. Neither the State nor the victim has preferred any appeal seeking enhancement of sentence, nor has any revisional jurisdiction for enhancement been invoked after due notice. Since imposition of fine would undoubtedly amount to enhancement of the sentence already awarded, this Court, while deciding the appeal preferred by the accused alone, cannot place him in a more disadvantageous position. The omission of the trial court, though legally erroneous, cannot therefore be rectified in the present appellate proceedings.

21. For the reasons aforesaid, this Court finds no infirmity, illegality or perversity in the findings recorded by the 4th Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura. The prosecution has proved beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant kidnapped the prosecutrix and thereafter committed rape upon her, and the conviction of the appellant under Sections 366 and 376 IPC, and the sentence of seven years' rigorous imprisonment on each count (to run concurrently), call for no interference.

22. The judgment and order dated 20.08.1987 passed by the 4th Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura, in S.T. No. 393 of 1986, convicting the appellant Ganga Ram under Sections 366 and 376 IPC and sentencing him to rigorous imprisonment for seven years on each count, to run concurrently, is hereby affirmed.

23. The appeal is dismissed.

24. The appellant, if on bail, shall surrender within a period of two weeks from today to serve out the remainder of the sentence. The bail bonds are cancelled and sureties, if any, are discharged from their liabilities.

25. If the appellant fails to surrender within stipulated period as above, learned trial court is directed to take immediate legal steps adopting coercive measures including issuance of non-bailable warrant to take the appellant into custody for execution of sentence in accordance with law.

26. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted forthwith to the trial court concerned along with trial court record for information and compliance.

27. The trial court is directed to submit its compliance report within two months from the date of receipt of this order. Further more, the registry is also directed to place the compliance report on record.

28. The Registrar (Compliance) is also directed to serve a copy of this order within 48 hours by FAX/e-mail to the concerned court through District & Sessions Judge, Mathura for compliance.

29. Before parting with this judgment, this Court records its appreciation for the sincere assistance rendered by the Research Associates, Mr. Shivansh Pandey and Mr. Sandeep Kumar Singh and law intern Ms. Ishika Rai in researching the legal issues involved and assisting in the preparation of this judgment. Their efforts are gratefully acknowledged.

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2283 of 2009

Prem Pal Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The appellant, a railway depot store keeper, was convicted under section 420 IPC and section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act on alleging of issuing unauthorized issue notes resulting in missing steel material worth over Rs. 20 lakhs, despite prosecution evidence establishing that no material could move out of the depot premises without a gate pass and no such gate pass was ever issued.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 420-Prevention of Corruption Act,1988-Section 13(1)d) r/w S. 13(2)-Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 106-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Offence of Cheating and Criminal misconduct-Alleged disappearance of steel stock-No gate pass proved to have been issued-Material in question comprising 64 tonnes of heavy steel, impossible to be removed clandestinely on person-In absence of evidence showing that material actually exited premises or was taken by accused for personal or third party benefit, ingredients of Section 420 IPC and Section 13(1)(d) PC Act not made out-Trial court erred in invoking section 106 against accused without foundational proof-Principle of Audi Alteram Partem-Ex-Party physical Inspection Report-Reliability-Physical stock inspection report prepared behind back of accused without involving him in verification process, held, non-admissible against accused to form sole basis of conviction, being in violation of natural justice prinicples-Appeal Allowed.(Para 32 to 44) (E-6)

Held

The court held that prosecution has failed to establish that the appellant had removed the material from store premises. When the prosecution has failed to discharge the initial burden of proof by establishing even a prima facie case, the burden of proof could not shifted upon the appellant under section 106 of the Evidence Act. There is no proof that the appellant had intentionally enriched himself illicitly through the alleged act.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s):-

Shreesh Chandra, Amrendra Nath Tripathi, Anurag Verma, Arvind Kumar Pandey, Suryansh Narula

Advs. for Respondent(s):-

Bireshwar Nath, Anurag Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Anurag Verma, Advocate, the learned counsel for the appellant, Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, Advocate assisted by Sri Akhilendra Singh, Advocate, the learned counsel for the opposite party-Central Bureau of Investigation and perused the material placed on record, including the lower court record.

2. By means of the instant appeal filed under Section 27 of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, read with Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., the appellant has challenged the validity of judgment and order dated 29.09.2009, passed by the learned Special Judge, Anti-Corruption, U.P. (Central), Lucknow in Criminal Case No.5 of 2002, arising out of RC No.15(A) of 2000, titled State Vs. Prem Pal Singh, whereby the appellant has been convicted for the offences under Section 420 I.P.C. and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 and he was sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for three years and to pay Rs.10,000/- as fine and in default of payment of fine to undergo simple imprisonment for an additional period of one year, for the offence under Section 420 I.P.C. and to undergo the same sentence for the offence under Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988. The sentences were directed to run concurrently.

3. The appeal was admitted by means of an order dated 08.10.2009 and the appellant was enlarged on bail but the payment of fine was not stayed.

4. Briefly stated, the facts of the case are that the CBI registered FIR No. RC-15A/2000 on 28.07.2000 against the appellant Prem Pal Singh and some unknown persons for committing offences under Sections 120-B, 409, 467, 468, 471 IPC, and 13(2) read with 13(1)(c) and 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act 1988, stating that a reliable information was received to the effect that while the appellant was posted as Depot Store Keeper (DSK-III Steel Ward), Alambagh Store, Lucknow during the period between January 1999 to March 1999, he entered into a criminal conspiracy with some unknown officials of the office of Deputy Controller of Stores and some unknown private persons under a common object of committing the offence of cheating, forgery and criminal misconduct and defrauding Northern Railways to the tune of approximately Rs.20,00,000/-. In furtherance of the conspiracy, the appellant misused his official position and thereby dishonestly and fraudulently made the following issue notes of MS sheets/MS plate/MS wire to different parties: -

Sl.No.	Issue No.	Dated	Quantity	MS Sheets/Angle	Shown have to issued
1.	13/1414	17/2/99	2,000 kg.	1.6 mmM	SB/SEB
2.	13/1415	17/2/99	5,000 kg.	8 mm	DRM/MB
3.	13/1416	17/2/99	3,000 kg.	8" x 4"	SE/W/HW
4.	13/1417	17/2/99	2,000 kg.	75 mm	"
5.	13/1449	12/03/99	15,000 kg.	1.6 mm	CWM/Loco/CB/LKO.
6.	13/1421	26/2/99	15,000 kg.	"	"
7.	13/1409	15/2/99	20,000 kg.	"	"
8.	13/1378	21/1/99	2,000 kg.	3.15 mm	SSE/C&W/MB

5. The F.I.R. stated that the materials mentioned at serial nos. 1 to 4 had been indented by the consignees, but the materials mentioned at serial nos.6 to 8 had not been indented and the issue notes no.6, 7 and 8 were forged. Although these materials were shown to have been issued to the consignees, the materials never reached the destination. In this manner, the appellant misappropriated the above-mentioned materials by forging the issue notes and thereby caused losses to the Northern Railway to the tune of Rs. 20 lakhs, approximately.

6. After investigation, a charge-sheet dated 23.05.2002 was submitted against the appellant for the commission of offences under Section 420 IPC and Section 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 stating that the investigation revealed that during January 1998 to March 1999, the appellant had functioned as DSK-III and he was in-charge of issuance of materials to different consignees after verifying the sanctioned strength of material from the stores department by converting the indent into issue notes in six copies, while retaining one copy in the store department and sending all the five copies of issue notes to GD Section. In this process the appellant issued the material vide seven issue notes mentioned above. The appellant had issued material worth Rs.22,74,860/- but it was not received by any of the consignees, which constitutes offences punishable under Section 420 read with Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

7. On 06.05.2002, the Deputy Controller Stores, Northern Railway, Alambagh granted sanction for prosecution of the appellant for the offences under Section 420 IPC and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. The trial court took cognizance of the offences on 30.05.2002 and thereupon Case No.5 of 2002 was instituted.

8. On 22.11.2003, the Special Judge, Anti-Corruption (Central, UP, Lucknow framed charges against the appellant for the commission of the aforesaid offences.

9. The prosecution examined as many as 24 witnesses.

10. The trial court framed the following points for discussion:-

"(1) Whether the disputed indents were duly forwarded to the Stores department, Lucknow?

(2) Whether any material was issued/dispatched as per disputed indents/issue notes?

(3) Whether accused being public servant, by corrupt and illegal means obtained for or any other person or any valuable thing of pecuniary advantage, which he is not legally entitled to?"

11. The learned trial court held that indent nos.1 to 4 had been duly forwarded by the concerned departments to the store department at Lucknow, but indent nos.5 to 7 had never been processed by the concerned sections/departments. Indent nos. 5, 6, and 7 do not bear the signatures of the competent authority. The issue notes no.1 to 7 had been prepared by PW-9 under the directions of the appellant and the same had been issued under the signatures of the appellant, who was in-charge of the store department.

12. The learned trial court further held that the material mentioned in the issue notes could not pass or be dispatched through the premises as no gate pass had been prepared by the concerned section. The material in furtherance of the issue notes could only be dispatched after an authorized gate pass was prepared. As per the testimony of prosecution witnesses no gate pass was ever prepared in respect of the material mentioned in the issue notes nos.1 to 7. Therefore, it can be presumed that the material could not be dispatched or passed from the premises of the stores department, Lucknow. The trial court concluded that the material as per the disputed issue notes never moved out of the premises and it had to be in the store department itself or it could have been displaced somewhere within the premises or outside the premises.

13. The trial court referred to the statement of PW-20, who had prepared a physical inspection report and who stated that in physical verification of the current balance of the store department the material was found to be correct, but the material as per issue notes was nowhere traceable in that section. The trial Court has recorded the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant that the physical inspection report was not admissible under Section 162 Cr.P.C. The learned trial court held that even if this objection is accepted, the oral testimony of PW-20 would still be admissible. The trial court held that although the material could not be moved out without a gate pass and a gate pass had not been issued, since the material was not found in the store premises and the appellant could not give any explanation regarding absence of the material, there was no alternative except to accept that the appellant is responsible for absence of the material and as no other person is said to be responsible for this, hence, the appellant was held guilty for the absence of the material.

14. Assailing validity of the impugned judgment, Sri. Anurag Verma, the learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that it is strange that although initially the FIR was lodged on 28.07.2000 against the appellant and some unknown persons for the offences under Sections 120-B, 409, 467, 468, 471 IPC, and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(c) and 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988 after conducting investigation for almost two years, a charge-sheet was submitted on 23.05.2002 against the appellant only for commission of the offences under Section 420 read with Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. He has submitted that no offence could be established during the investigation, but as some material had gone missing in the stores of railways and the appellant was the depot storekeeper, a charge-sheet was filed implicating him.

15. Sri. Verma has submitted that there is no allegation that the appellant has misappropriated any material or the value thereof or that the appellant has obtained any wrongful gain either for himself or for any other person and, therefore, the offence under Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act against him has not been established. He has submitted that the offence of cheating is also not made out from the aforesaid facts.

16. Sri Anurag Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent-CBI has submitted that the impugned judgment is well-reasoned and legally sound and hence it does not warrant any interference of this Court. He has placed reliance on a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Shri Krishan Kumar Vs. Union of India: AIR 1959 SC 2, in which following observations have been made: -

"9. It is not necessary or possible every case to prove in what precise manner the accused person has dealt with or appropriated the goods of his master. The question is one of intention and not a matter of direct proof but giving a false account of what he has done with the goods received by him may be treated a strong circumstance against the accused person. In the case of a servant charged with misappropriating the goods of his master the elements of criminal offence of misappropriation will be established if the prosecution proves that the servant received the goods, that he was under a duty to account to his master and had not done so. If the failure to account was due to an accidental loss then the facts being within the servant□s knowledge, it is for him to explain the loss. It is not the law of this country that the prosecution has to eliminate all possible defences or circumstances which may exonerate him. If these facts are within the knowledge of the accused then he has to prove them. Of course the prosecution has to establish a prima facie case in the first instance. It is not enough to establish facts which give rise to a suspicion and then by reason of Section 106 of the Evidence Act to throw the onus on him to prove his innocence."

17. Per contra, Sri. Anurag Verma the learned counsel for the appellant has placed reliance on the judgment in the case of Sujit Biswas Vs. State of Assam: (2013) 12 SCC 406, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"13. Suspicion, however grave it may be, cannot take the place of proof, and there is a large difference between something that "may be" proved, and something that "will be proved". In a criminal trial, suspicion no matter how strong, cannot and must not be permitted to take place of proof. This is for the reason that the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is quite large, and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions. In a criminal case, the court has a duty to ensure that mere conjectures or suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The large distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, must be covered by way of clear, cogent and unimpeachable evidence produced by the prosecution, before an accused is condemned as a convict, and the basic and golden rule must be applied. In such cases, while keeping in mind the distance between "may be" true and "must be" true, the court must maintain the vital distance between mere conjectures and sure conclusions to be arrived at, on the touchstone of dispassionate judicial scrutiny, based upon a complete and comprehensive appreciation of all features of the case, as well as the quality and credibility of the evidence brought on record. The court must ensure, that miscarriage of justice is avoided, and if the facts and circumstances of a case so demand, then the benefit of doubt must be given to the accused, keeping in mind that a reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely probable doubt, but a fair doubt that is based upon reason and common sense. (Vide Hanumant Govind Nargundkar v. State of M.P. [AIR 1952 SC 343], State v. Mahender Singh Dahiya [(2011) 3 SCC 109] and Ramesh Harijan v. State of U.P. [(2012) 5 SCC 777])

14. In Kali Ram v. State of H.P. [(1973) 2 SCC 808] this Court observed as under:

:25. Another golden thread which runs through the web of the administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. This principle has a special relevance in cases wherein the guilt of the accused is sought to be established by circumstantial evidence."

17. Similarly, in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda [Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116] this Court held as under:

"Graver the crime, greater should be the standard of proof. An accused may appear to be guilty on the basis of suspicion but that cannot amount to legal proof. When on the evidence two possibilities are available or open, one which goes in the favour of the prosecution and the other benefits an accused, the accused is undoubtedly entitled to the benefit of doubt. The principle has special relevance where the guilt or the accused is sought to be established by circumstantial evidence."

18. Thus, in view of the above, the court must consider a case of circumstantial evidence in the light of the aforesaid settled legal propositions. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the judgment remains essentially inferential. Inferences are drawn from established facts, as the circumstances lead to particular inferences. The court must draw an inference with respect to whether the chain of circumstances is complete, and when the circumstances therein are collectively considered, the same must lead only to the irresistible conclusion, that the accused alone is the perpetrator of the crime in question. All the circumstances so established must be of a conclusive nature, and consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused."

18. The judgment in the case of Sujit Biswas (supra) has been followed in the case of Nathiya Vs. State represented by Inspector of Police, Bagayam: (2016) 10 SCC 298.

19. In the case of B. Jayaraj Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh: (2014) 13 SCC 55, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

"9. Insofar as the presumption permissible to be drawn under Section 20 of the Act is concerned, such presumption can only be in respect of the offence under Section 7 and not the offences under Sections 13(1)(d)(i) and (ii) of the Act. In any event, it is only on proof of acceptance of illegal gratification that presumption can be drawn under Section 20 of the Act that such gratification was received for doing or forbearing to do any official act. Proof of acceptance of illegal gratification can follow only if there is proof of demand. As the same is lacking in the present case the primary facts on the basis of which the legal presumption under Section 20 can be drawn are wholly absent."

20. In Digamber Vaishnav and another Vs. State of Chhattisgarh: (2019) 4 SCC 522, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"14. One of the fundamental principles of criminal jurisprudence is undeniably that the burden of proof squarely rests on the prosecution and that the general burden never shifts. There can be no conviction on the basis of surmises and conjectures or suspicion howsoever grave it may be. Strong suspicion, strong coincidences and grave doubt cannot take the place of legal proof. The onus of the prosecution cannot be discharged by referring to very strong suspicion and existence of highly suspicious factors to inculpate the accused nor falsity of defence could take the place of proof which the prosecution has to establish in order to succeed, though a false plea by the defence at best, be considered as an additional circumstance, if other circumstances unfailingly point to the guilt.

15. This Court in Jaharlal Das v. State of Orissa [(1991) 3 SCC 27], has held that even if the offence is a shocking one, the gravity of offence cannot by itself overweigh as far as legal proof is concerned. In cases depending highly upon the circumstantial evidence, there is always a danger that the conjecture or suspicion may take the place of legal proof. The court has to be watchful and ensure that the conjecture and suspicion do not take the place of legal proof. The court must satisfy itself that various circumstances in the chain of evidence should be established clearly and that the completed chain must be such as to rule out a reasonable likelihood of the innocence of the accused.

16. In order to sustain the conviction on the basis of circumstantial evidence, the following three conditions must be satisfied:

(i) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(ii) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused; and

(iii) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else, and it should also be incapable of explanation on any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused.

17. In Varkey Joseph v. State of Kerala [1993 Supp (3) SCC 745], this Court has held that suspicion is not the substitute for proof. There is a long distance between "may be true' and "must be true" and the prosecution has to travel all the way to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt.

19. It is also well-settled principle that in criminal cases, if two views are possible on evidence adduced in the case, one binding to the guilt of the accused and the other is to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused, should be adopted. This principle has a special relevance in cases wherein the guilt of the accused is sought to be established by circumstantial evidence [see Kali Ram v. State of H.P. [(1973) 2 SCC 808]."

21. In the case of State of Odisha Vs. Banabihari Mohapatra and another: (2021) 15 SCC 268, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

"33. Before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established on circumstantial evidence, the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must fully be established and the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt of the accused. There has to be a chain of evidence so complete, as not to leave any reasonable doubt for any conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability, the act must have been done by the accused.

34. In Shanti Devi v. State of Rajasthan [(2012) 12 SCC 158], this Court held that the principles for conviction of the accused based on circumstantial evidence are:

"10.1. The circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be proved must be cogently or firmly established.

10.2. The circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards the guilt of the accused.

10.3. The circumstances taken cumulatively must form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability, the crime was committed by the accused and none else.

10.4. The circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused and such evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence"

22. Having examined the principles of law regarding the standards of proof required in a criminal case based on circumstantial evidence, I proceed to examine whether the prosecution evidence establishes the guilt of the appellant. PW-2 has proved the procedure for supply of goods from the store and he stated that an indent is received in the accounts section after being signed by the concerned Divisional Engineer and Assistant Engineer. After a dummy currency is issued, it reaches RR section in the stores department, where the indent is received in five copies. The indent is registered in RR section. After the indent is processed and five copies of the same are received in the issuing ward, the store keeper issues the material and then the indent is called the issue note. All the five copies of the issue note are sent to General Dispatch Section for preparation of a gate pass. Before preparation of the gate pass, the identity card, authority letter, railway pass, etc. of the representative who comes to receive the material, is examined in GD Section and after being satisfied, a gate pass is issued. The gate pass number and vehicle number is mentioned on the issue note and the vehicle used for transportation, the driver's name, the person who is taking the material, his authorization letter number and identity card number are also mentioned thereon. PW-2 stated that this procedure is in practice.

23. PW-9 Shiv Shankar Yadav was working as the Issue Note Writer and he stated that the issue notes had been prepared by him under instructions of the appellant and the appellant had put his signatures on the issue notes. During cross-examination, he stated that when the material is issued to the consignee, he mentions it on the issue note.

24. PW-18 Mohammed Sajid stated that during the year 1998-99, he was working as DSK-I and during cross-examination he stated that no material can pass through the gate without issuance of a gate pass.

25. PW-20 Madhav Singh proved the procedure of issuing material. During cross-examination, he also stated that any material can move out of the store only after issuance of a gate pass. The wagon number is mentioned on the pass regarding material which is moved out on a wagon. Gate passes are prepared in the dispatch section and are checked by the RPF on the gate. Only that material can move out of the gate regarding which a gate pass has been issued. He stated that he had only seen the ledger and the ground of the steel yard and he had not seen any other document. This witness was re-examined and during re-examination, he stated that he had inspected the material in the steel yard under orders of the Deputy Controller of Stores and had found that the material sent through the issue notes in question was not available in the store. Upon checking the record, he had found that there was an entry in the records regarding issuing the material, but the mode of dispatch, the date of dispatch, the gate pass number and other information regarding dispatch were not there. He had prepared a detailed report after checking the ground balance of the store. During cross-examination, he stated that the appellant had not been involved in this verification process.

26. PW-22, Shabbir Ahmad Khan stated that he was working as an Office Superintendent and it was his duty to verify the issue notes related to the store. The transfer certificate vouchers were verified by his section. The same were presented before the Assistant Electrical Engineer for verification of signatures through Head Clerk Poonam Sharma. PW-22 used to accept and verify the issue notes. This witness stated that issue note D-1 had not been presented before him for verification and it did not bear his signature or the signatures of Smt. Poonam Sharma. This issue note number 1414 had not been received in his office. During cross-examination, PW-22 stated that Smt. Poonam Sharma used to receive the issue notes and she was the custodian of the issue notes. Record of receiving the issue notes is maintained in the verification register and it was maintained by Smt. Poonam Sharma. Smt. Poonam Sharma was still in the employment of Railways.

27. From the aforesaid statements, it appears that numerous officials of different sections are involved in the process, but except for the appellant, no other person was implicated in the FIR by name and the charge-sheet was filed and trial was held only against the appellant.

28. Shri Mahendra Pratap Verma, Senior Store Keeper (PW-2) has proved the procedure for issuance of material, as per which numerous officials of different departments are involved in receiving an indent, its processing, issuance of the material conversion of the indent into an issue note, preparation of a gate pass and movement of material through the gate of the premises. The issue notes were prepared by PW-9 Shiv Shankar Yadav. PW-18 Mohammed Sajid, who worked as DSK-I, stated that no material can pass through the gate without issuance of a gate pass. PW-20 Madhav Singh Gate passes are prepared in the dispatch section and are checked by the RPF on the gate. Only that material can move out of the gate regarding which a gate pass has been issued. There is no allegation that any gate pass had been issued and that any material had actually moved out of the premises.

29. There is absolutely no evidence to establish that the material had actually moved out of the store. The material was not such material as could be taken out by the appellant carrying the same on his person in a clandestine manner, as it was 64 tonnes of steel. In the absence of proof of the fact that the appellant had taken out the material for his benefit or for the benefit of any other person, the appellant cannot be held guilty of the offence under 420 IPC or Section 13(2) read with Section 13(1)(d) of the Prevention of Corruption Act.

30. The learned trial court has rightly held that the material mentioned in the issue notes could not pass or be dispatched through the premises as no gate pass had been prepared by the concerned section. The material in furtherance of the issue notes could only be dispatched after an authorized gate pass was prepared. As per the testimony of the prosecution witnesses no gate pass was ever prepared in respect of the material mentioned in the issue notes nos.1 to 7. Therefore, it can be presumed that the material could not be dispatched or passed from the premises of the stores department, Lucknow. The trial court concluded that the material as per the disputed issue notes never moved out of the premises and it had to be in the store department itself or it could have been displaced somewhere within the premises or outside the premises.

31. The trial court referred to the statement of PW-20, who had prepared a physical inspection report and who stated that in physical verification of the current balance of the store department the material was found to be correct, but the material as per issue notes was nowhere traceable in that section. This verification report prepared behind the back of the appellant cannot be relied upon for convicting him, as it would violate the principle of natural justice of audi alteram partem which is that nobody can be condemned unheard.

32. The learned trial court has convicted the appellant only on the basis of the oral testimony of PW-20, that the material was not found in the inspection carried out by him. The trial court held that although the material could not move out without a gate pass and a gate pass had not been issued, since the material was not found in the store premises and the appellant could not give any explanation regarding absence of the material, there was no alternative except to accept that the appellant is responsible for absence of the material and as no other person is said to be responsible for this, hence, the appellant was held guilty for the absence of the material.

33. Although the trial Court has not referred to any statutory provision, apparently it has shifted the burden of proof on the accused-appellant relying upon the provision contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act, which reads thus: -

"106.Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge*.-When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.*

Illustrations

(a) When a person does an act with some intention other than that which the character and circumstances of the act suggest, the burden of proving that intention is upon him.

(b)□A□is charged with travelling on a railway without a ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him."

34. In the case of Nagendra Sah Vs. State of Bihar: (2021) 10 SCC 725, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under: -

"21. Under Section 101 of the Evidence Act, whoever desires any court to give a judgment as to a liability dependent on the existence of facts, he must prove that those facts exist. Therefore, the burden is always on the prosecution to bring home the guilt of the accused beyond a reasonable doubt. Thus, Section 106 constitutes an exception to Section 101. On the issue of applicability of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, there is a classic decision of this Court in Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer [AIR 1956 SC 404], which has stood the test of time. The relevant part of the said decision reads thus:

"10. Section 106 is an exception to Section 101. Section 101 lays down the general rule about the burden of proof.

"101. Burden of proof.—Whoever desires any court to give judgment as to any legal right or liability dependent on the existence of facts which he asserts, must prove that those facts exist"

Illustration (a) to Section 106 of the Evidence Act says"

"(a) A desires a court to give judgment that B shall be punished for a crime which A says B has committed.

A must prove that B has committed the crime"

11. This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult, for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience. The word "especially" stresses that it means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not. It is evident that that cannot be the intention and the Privy Council has twice refused to construe this section, as reproduced in certain other Acts outside India, to mean that the burden lies on an accused person to show that he did not commit the crime for which he is tried. These cases are Attygalle v. R. [1936 SCC OnLine PC 20] and Seneviratne v. R. [1936 SCC OnLine PC 57]

12. Illustration (b) to Section 106 has obvious reference to a very special type of case, namely, to offences under Sections 112 and 113 of the Indian Railways Act for travelling or attempting to travel without a pass or ticket or with an insufficient pass, etc. Now if a passenger is seen in a railway carriage, or at the ticket barrier, and is unable to produce a ticket or explain his presence, it would obviously be impossible in most cases for the railway to prove, or even with due diligence to find out, where he came from and where he is going and whether or not he purchased a ticket. On the other hand, it would be comparatively simple for the passenger either to produce his pass or ticket or, in the case of loss or of some other valid explanation, to set it out; and so far as proof is concerned, it would be easier for him to prove the substance of his explanation than for the State to establish its falsity.

13. We recognise that an illustration does not exhaust the full content of the section which it illustrates but equally it can neither curtail nor expand its ambit; and if knowledge of certain facts is as much available to the prosecution, should it choose to exercise due diligence, as to the accused, the facts cannot be said to be "especially" within the knowledge of the accused. This is a section which must be considered in a commonsense way; and the balance of convenience and the disproportion of the labour that would be involved in finding out and proving certain facts balanced against the triviality of the issue at stake and the ease with which the accused could prove them, are all matters that must be taken into consideration. The section cannot be used to undermine the well-established rule of law that, save in a very exceptional class of case, the burden is on the prosecution and never shifts."

(emphasis supplied by Hon'ble Supreme Court)

22. Thus, Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the court can always draw an appropriate inference."

23. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused."

35. Even in Shri Krishan Kumar Vs. Union of India: AIR 1959 SC 2, which has been relied upon by the learned Counsel for the respondent CBI, it has been held that the prosecution has to establish a prima facie case in the first instance. It is not enough to establish facts which give rise to a suspicion and then by reason of Section 106 of the Evidence Act to throw the onus on the accused to prove his innocence. I have to examine the facts of the case in light of the well settled law, to ascertain whether the prosecution has established the ingredients of the offence alleged.

36. In Sadashiv Dhondiram Patil v. State of Maharashtra: (2025) 4 SCC 275, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"50.The law in the aforesaid regard is well-settled. The prosecution has to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and that too on its own legs. The initial burden of proof is always on the prosecution. ... However, Section 106 of the Evidence Act is subject to one well-settled principle of law. The prosecution has to first lay the foundational facts before it seeks to invoke Section 106 of the Evidence Act. If the prosecution has not been able to lay the foundational facts for the purpose of invoking Section 106 of the Evidence Act, it cannot straightaway invoke the said section and throw the entire burden on the accused to establish his innocence."

37. The prosecution merely established that a single official could not find some material upon verification of the store. Although numerous other persons are involved in the procedure for removal of goods from the store, no other person has been made an accused which indicates that no other person is involved in commission of the alleged offence. The prosecution witnesses have themselves proved that the goods could not be removed without issuance of a gate pass and admittedly, no gate pass was issued. The prosecution has failed to establish that the appellant had removed the material from the store premises. When the prosecution has failed to discharge the initial burden of proof by establishing even a prima facie case, the burden of proof could not be shifted upon the appellant under Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

38. Moreover, in the statement of the appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., he had denied the allegations against him and he had stated that he did not know as to who had prepared indent number 225789, dated 31.07.1997 from Haridwar. He stated that there are two steps for supplying material - (i) DY. COS Alambagh, Lucknow passes an order for issuing the material and (ii) after the material is taken out from the store, a gate pass is issued and thereafter the material is taken out of the premises. No material can go out without a gate pass. In this case, no material has moved out as no gate pass has been issued. He stated that no material can move out merely by preparation of an issue note and without issuance of a gate pass.

39. Although after examining the prosecution evidence, the trial Court has held that no material has moved out as no gate pass has been issued, which was stated by the appellant also, but the trial Court has completely discarded the appellant's statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

40. In Reena Hazarika v. State of Assam: (2019) 13 SCC 289, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that: -

20.Unfortunately neither the trial court nor the High Court considered it necessary to take notice of, much less discuss or observe with regard to the aforesaid defence by the appellant under Section 313 CrPC to either accept or reject it. The defence taken cannot be said to be irrelevant, illogical or fanciful in the entirety of the facts and the nature of other evidence available as discussed hereinbefore. The complete non-consideration thereof has clearly caused prejudice to the appellant. Unlike the prosecution, the accused is not required to establish the defence beyond all reasonable doubt. The accused has only to raise doubts on a preponderance of probability as observed in Hate Singh Bhagat Singh v. State of Madhya Bharat [AIR 1953 SC 468] observing as follows:

"26. We have examined the evidence at length in this case, not because it is our desire to depart from our usual practice of declining to re-assess the evidence in an appeal here, but because there has been in this case a departure from the rule that when an accused person puts forward a reasonable defence which is likely to be true . then the burden on the other side becomes all the heavier because a reasonable and probable story likely to be true when pitted against a weak and vacillating case is bound to raise reasonable doubts of which the accused must get the benefit. "

21. A similar view is expressed in M. Abbas v. State of Kerala [(2001) 10 SCC 103] as follows:

"10. On the other hand, the explanation given by the appellant both during the cross-examination of prosecution witnesses and in his own statement recorded under Section 313 CrPC is quite plausible. Where an accused sets up a defence or offers an explanation, it is well settled that he is not required to prove his defence beyond a reasonable doubt but only by preponderance of probabilities. "

41. The learned trial Court has committed an error of both fact and law by discarding the appellant's statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein he has denied having committed any cheating and having abused his official position for any unlawful gain.

42. In the case of Jupally Lakshmikantha Reddy v. State of A.P.: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1950, the Hon'ble Supreme Court relied upon the precedent in the case of Hridaya Ranjan Prasad Verma v. State of Bihar: (2000) 4 SCC 168, wherein it was held that Section 415 IPC contemplates two distinct situations; the first where a person is dishonestly induced to deliver property, and the second where a person is induced to do or omit an act which, but for the deception, he would not have done or omitted. In the former, the inducement must be fraudulent or dishonest, whereas in the latter it need only be intentional. Therefore, intention is the gist of the offence.

43. The only allegation against the appellant is that he was the store keeper and, in a verification, conducted by another single official without involving the appellant, 64 tonnes steel was found missing in the premises. The prosecution witnesses have stated that no material could move out without issuance of a gate pass and admittedly no gate pass has been issued. There is no proof that the appellant had obtained any valuable thing or pecuniary advantage to himself or that he had intentionally enriched himself illicitly through the alleged act. Further, the appellant has not been found to be in possession of pecuniary resources or property disproportionate to his known sources of income at any time during the period of his office which may cast a doubt about him having abused his official position during his term of office for pecuniary gain. In light of the said facts, charges under Section 13(1)(d) of Prevention of Corruption Act cannot be said to be proved against the appellant and the prosecution has rather miserably failed to establish the charges against the appellant. The trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellant without adverting to the aforesaid aspects of the matter, due to which the findings of the Trial Court are vitiated.

44. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 29.09.2009, passed by the learned Special Judge, Anti-Corruption, U.P. (Central), Lucknow in Criminal Case No.5 of 2002, arising out of RC No.15(A) of 2000, titled State Vs. Prem Pal Singh, whereby the appellant has been convicted and sentenced for the offences under Section 420 I.P.C. and Section 13(2) read with 13(1)(d) of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all the charges.

45. The amount of fine shall be refunded to the appellant.

46. The appellant is directed to comply with the provision of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. and submit a personal bond and two sureties before the Chief Judicial magistrate, Lucknow, within a period of two weeks, for his appearance before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal and such bail bonds shall be in force for six months.

Criminal Appeal No. 2343 of 1989

Ram Autar & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The appellants challenged their conviction and sentence under section 302, 498-A, 323 IPC for the alleged murder of the deceased-wife by administering poison. She was subjected to continuous dowry harassment and torture by her in-laws demanding business funds.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302., 498-A, 323-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder by Poisoning-Inconsistencies in Prosecution evidence-Physical impossibility of forced poisoning without resistance injuries-Failure of the trial court to confront the accused persons with the viscera report during their Section 313 examination renders the said report completely inadmissible and excluded from consideration against them-Prosecution fails to establish a continuous and untampered chain of custody of preserved viscera, failing to produce entry registers, safe –custody logs from the CMO office, or witness testimony from the forensic laboratory-the viscera report loses all evidentiary value and cannot form the basis of conviction-Appeal Allowed.(Para 21 to 35) (E-6)

Held

The court allowed the appeal and acquitted the surviving appellants due to major witness contradictions, lack of defensive injuries on the deceased or accused during alleged forced poisoning, unreliability of PW-3's injuries, and severe chain of custody defects in handling the viscera report which was also never put to the accused under section 313 CrPC. Conviction set aside.

1. Heard Sri Vikas Sharma and Sri Kunwar Bhaskar, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Amit Sinha, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The instant Criminal Appeal has been filed against the judgement and order dated 07.12.1989 passed by the Ist Additional District & Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar, convicting the appellants Ram Autar, Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor, Laddan Misra @ Mahesh and Smt. Rajdei under Sections 498A, 302, 323 of the Indian Penal Code (hereinafter referred to as "I.P.C."), Police Station Maharajpur, District - Kanpur Nagar.

3. On the 13th of January, 1986 at 10:00 AM, a first information report (hereinafter referred to as "F.I.R.") was lodged under Section 498A and 328 of I.P.C. alleging that the brother of the first informant (Ganga Ram Sevak Pandey) had alleged that his sister Vijay Laxmi, who was married to one Rakesh Mishra @ Doctor in the summer of 1984, was all the time being tortured by the in-laws. After her marriage she had gone to her maternal home (maika) two or three times only. Everytime she had visited her maika, she used to complain about being tortured and beaten at her in-laws house (sasural). She, deceased, had told him that the in-laws were saying that her brothers may give money to the husband of Vijay Laxmi to do business or her brothers may make the husband of Vijay Laxmi a partner in their business. On 12.01.1986, he had stated that his brother Ganga Charan and the son of his other sister had gone to the house of Vijay Laxmi to bring her to her maternal home (mayka). The son of the other sister was named Vijay Kishor @ Munna. When they asked the mother-in-law to send Vijay Laxmi to her mayka, she outrightly refused and again insisted on the demands which she had earlier made. Upon this Ganga Charan, the brother of the first informant, returned home. However, the bhanja i.e. Vijay Kishor @ Munna was left behind. On the next day i.e. on 13.01.1986 at around 10:00 AM, the bhanja went to the house of the first informant and informed the first informant and his brothers that his mausi i.e. Vijay Laxmi was not being permitted to go to her maika and that she was also being beaten by the in-laws. He also indicated that they were giving Vijay Laxmi something to eat and were saying that if she did not eat what was being given to her then they would beat her even more. The bhanja had stated that when he tried to intervene then he was also given a beating by the in-laws of Vijay Laxmi. Upon this, the first informant reached the matrimonial house of Vijay Laxmi at Bausar, where he was informed that Vijay Laxmi was suffering from cholera. However, when the first informant inquired about the well being of Vijay Laxmi, then she informed that the in-laws had given her something to eat and because of which her tongue was faltering and she was not feeling very well.

4. To make the case look stronger, the first informant stated that the demands which were made by the in-laws were made in the presence of Dinesh Kumar, Shravan Kumar Shukla and Shriprakash Mishra. He had stated that upon the information reaching the mayka, the other two brothers i.e. Ganga Prasad Pandey and Ganga Sharan Pandey also reached Bausar, the matrimonial home of the sister. Upon seeing that the sister was not very well, Ganga Prasad Pandey and Ganga Sharan Pandey, the two brothers who had reached Bausar, made arrangements for transportation and took their sister to Kanpur. He himself i.e. Ganga Ram Sevak had come to the police station to get the F.I.R. lodged. The sister of the first informant, upon reaching Kanpur, however died on 13.01.1986 at 07:00 PM. The case was thereafter being investigated under Section 498A and 302 of the I.P.C. The inquest of the deceased was done in the presence of five witnesses namely Ganga Prasad, Shyam Shankar, Shyam Sundar, Arvind Kumar and Smt. Rekha Devi. Ganga Prasad was one of the brothers of the deceased. In the opinion of the panches, it was stated that the death had occurred on account of administration of poison. The inquest, which had commenced at 11:30 AM on 14.01.1986, got concluded on the very same day by 12:30 PM. Thereafter, the body was sent for postmortem. The postmortem report was dated 15.01.1986 and was finally prepared at 03:45 PM. The two injuries which were on the body of the deceased were

"(i) Abrasion 2□ cm x 2 cm on (Rt) Paraspinal region 2 cm lateral to midline at the level of 10th & 11th Dorsal Spine.

(ii) Abrasion 3 cm x 2 cm on the left Paraspinal region 3 cm lateral to midline at the level of 11th & 12th Dorsal Spine.

5. Also, since the bhanja i.e. Vijay Kishor @ Munna had alleged that he was also injured while the in-laws were beating the deceased, his injuries were also examined and an injury report was prepared on 13.01.1986 itself. The three injuries, which were found on Vijay Kishor, are being reproduced here as under:

"(i) Bruise on left side of moxbridge 1 cm medial to medial angle of left eye. Size 2.1 cm x 1.8 cm.

(ii) Bruise in the ant. aspect of Rt. Thigh & above Rt. knee joint size 4.6 cm x 2.1 cm some bluish in colour

(iii) e/o pain in back

Opinion:- Injuries No. i & ii are simple caused by some hard & blunt object and duration is about one day

6. The viscera report, which was sent after the conclusion of the post-mortem, was received on 27.10.1986 and in the stomach, portion of intestine, kidneys and spleen, the poison "zinc phosphide" was found.

7. After the police had submitted its report and the case was taken cognizance of by the Sessions Court, charges were framed under Section 302 and 498A of I.P.C. for the killing and torturing of the deceased vis-a-vis Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor, Laddan Misra @ Mahesh (Jeth), Ram Autar (Father-in-law) and Smt. Rajdei (Mother-in-law). For the injuries caused to Vijay Kishor @ Munna, charges were framed under Section 323 of I.P.C. Upon the commencement of the trial from the side of the prosecution as many as ten witnesses were examined. The PW-4, Dr. A.K. Tiwari, was brought as a court witness also.

8. PW-1, Ganga Sewak, was the brother of the deceased and had got the F.I.R. lodged and he deposed about the incident in question resulting in death of his sister. He had proved the written report Exhibit Ka-1 and he had also proved the F.I.R. Exhibit Ka-12. He had testified as to how, to begin with, on the 12.01.1986, his younger brother Ganga Charan and bhanja, Vijay Kishor @ Munna, had gone to fetch his sister. When the in-laws had refused to send the sister, then Ganga Charan had gone back to his house while the nephew had stayed back. The PW-1 had again told as to how the nephew came running to him on 13.01.186 and told about the entire incident. He also told about the injuries he had sustained. Upon getting the news, he alongwith his younger brothers Ganga Prasad and Ganga Charan reached the matrimonial home of the deceased where he found Kamta Mishra and Rakesh Kumar were present who, upon being asked, had told him that she was suffering from cholera. When he reached his sister she also told him that she was suffering from cholera and then he had testified that he went to a doctor called Dr. Ramesh Kumar Sharma who had refused to treat her as he could not understand the illness. When the doctor scolded Vijay Laxmi, the deceased, and had asked her as to what exactly had happened then she had stated that her husband and her mother-in-law had given her some medicine because of which her condition had deteriorated. Thereupon, the other brother of the deceased and the first informant i.e. Ganga Prasad took the sister on a tempo to Kanpur and on the way she died. He had stated that to the scribe he had told that Vijay Laxmi was administered some medicine by her mother-in-law and her husband, but why the specific allegation had not been mentioned in the F.I.R., he did not know. He had, however, stated that when he had reached the matrimonial home of his sister, she was very much speaking. Vijay Kishor @ Munna, bhanja, quite often used to go to the sister□s matrimonial home, but he had never informed him i.e. PW-1 about the maltreatment which was being meted out to his mausi. He had stated that Rakesh Kumar Mishra @ Doctor and Vijay Laxmi used to stay in a separate unit of the house. He had also stated that there was no froth coming out of the mouth of the deceased while she was alive or even after she had died.

9. PW-2, Shri Kant Shukla, was the Executive Magistrate, Kanpur. He had deposed about the panchayatnama being prepared by him relating to the dead-body of Vijay Laxmi. He was also the person who had sent the body for postmortem.

10. PW-3, Vijai Kishore, was the bhanja, who was related to the deceased and the PW-1, and had deposed about the fact relating to his presence at the time of the beating of Vijay Laxmi by the family members of Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor. He had also detailed about the fact that Vijay Laxmi was forced to eat something and it had later on resulted in her death. Even though the PW-1 had stated that the bhanja had stayed back on 12.01.1986, he had stated that after his mama had left the matrimonial home of the deceased, he had also returned home and on his return journey he had visited some farmer to get wheat etc. which he intended to sell for weiging and thereafter he had gone back to his mausi□s house where he witnessed that the mausi was being beaten and when he intervened, he was also beaten by them with danda (stick). His nose was therefore bleeding. However when the in-laws of the mausi, the next morning, went for answering the call of nature, he ran away from the house of his mausi and went straight to the house of PW-1. He informed that in the night Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor, husband of the deceased, had dissolved some medicine in water and had given it to Vijay Laxmi. Despite the fact that mausi was unable to drink that medicine, Rakesh Kumar Misra had still administered it to her. He had stated that when he had come back in the evening on 12.01.1986 then no one by the name of Kamta Mishra was there at the house of his mausi. About the medicine which was administered, questions were put to him and he had stated that he had no knowledge as to what kind of medicine it was, but the husband of his mausi had spread her mouth and had forcefully poured it into the mouth. Whether her mausi had resisted, he did not know. He had not seen the colour of the medicine. After the medicine was administered, water was also given to his mausi.

11. PW-4, Dr. A.K. Tiwari, was the doctor who had proven the post-mortem report, Exhibit Ka-7, which was prepared by him. He had stated that the injuries which were there on the body of the deceased were not serious in nature and could have been caused because of the fact that she was taken on a tempo to the hospital. He had stated that the viscera which was preserved, was sealed in his presence and the viscera was sent to the C.M.O. Office. What number was there on the preserved bottle, he did not know. When the bottle was taken to the Office of the C.M.O., he did not know and where from the Office of the C.M.O. the bottle had gone that also he did not know.

12. PW-5 was Dr. D.R. Verma who had examined the injuries of the bhanja, Vijay Kishor @ Munna.

13. PW-6, Dr. Ramesh Chandra, was the doctor to whom the PW-1 had taken his sister in the evening on 12.01.1986. This doctor was taken to the house of the sister i.e. Vijay Laxmi and he had advised her to be taken to Kanpur for proper treatment.

14. PW-7 was Constable Raj Narayan Singh who had proved the G.D. entry about the arrest of Ram Autar, father-in-law of the deceased.

15. PW-8, Chitrangad Singh, was the Investigating Officer. He had clearly stated that the PW-3 Vijay Kishor @ Munna had stated in his statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. that Kamta Mishra was present at the time when the beating etc. of the deceased was being done. He had stated that he had not taken any statement of the chemical examiner who was to conduct the test on the viscera. The viscera was sent to the C.M.O. Office by Constable Rajpal, PW-10.

16. PW-9 was Constable Upendra Kumar Dubey who had proven the chick, prepared by him.

17. PW-10 was Constable Rajpal who had stated that he had taken the sealed bottle from the Office of the C.M.O. on 21.03.1986 to the Forensic Science Laboratory.

18. Dr. A.K. Tiwari, PW-4, who had conducted the post-mortem was called again as a court witness and had told about the fact that zinc phosphide was responsible for the death of the deceased. Thereafter, the statement of the four accused persons namely Ram Autar, Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor, Laddan Misra @ Mahesh and Smt. Rajdei were recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. Upon the conclusion of trial when the judgment of conviction was passed by the learned Ist Additional District and Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar on 07.01.1989, the instant Appeal was filed.

19. The appellant no. 4, Smt. Rajdei, died during the pendency of the appeal and the appeal, therefore, was dismissed as abated vis-a-vis the appellant no. 4

20. Sri Vikas Sharma and Sri Kunwar Bhaskar, learned counsel appearing for the appellants have made the following submissions:

(i) Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that even though the conviction was on the basis of the fact that some poison had been administered to the deceased, there was absolutely no eye-witness to the fact that any poison was administered. He submitted that there was a possibility of the fact that because the matrimonial life of the deceased was not a happy one, she had herself taken the poison. He had stated that at the time of the lodging of the F.I.R., the PW-1 had stated that the deceased had told him that something had been given to Vijay Laxmi to eat. To corroborate this evidence, the PW-3 gave his statement but he had clearly stated that something was mixed in water and was administered to her and she was made to drink the same and thereafter water was also given to her. Learned counsel for the appellants further submitted that there was every possibility that the deceased herself had taken the poison earlier and thereafter the in-laws were trying to give her medicines without understanding the reason for her illness. Even the PW-1, had though stated in the examination-in-chief that his sister had told him that the in-laws had given something to eat but, in the cross-examination he had stated that she had categorically stated that she was suffering from cholera. He had stated that Dr. Ramesh Chandra, the PW-6, had stated that the condition of the patient was not good and, therefore, the version of the PW-1 who had stated that her husband and her mother-in-law had given to her poison mixed in the medicine, could not believed as she was not in a condition to speak.

(ii) Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the PW-3 had wrongly been shown as an eye-witness of the alleged incident. His age was only 12 years at the time he was testifying in the court. He was shown as a shopkeeper. He had given a contradictory statement that the husband had not given the medicine but it was in fact given by Laddan Misra i.e. jeth of the deceased and also nothing was given to her to eat but something was mixed in water and was given to her. This witness had denied the presence of Kamta Misra but the I.O. had stated that in fact Kamta Misra was throughout there and in his statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. the PW-3 had also stated that Kamta Misra was present at the spot. Learned counsel stated therefore that the PW-3 was an unreliable witness.

(iii) Further, learned counsel for the appellants stated that “zinc phosphide” was a pesticide which could not be given on the sly. It had a bitter taste and had a bad/foul smell and if it had to be given forcefully then the person who was being administered and was in a good health would resist the taking of it tooth and nail. However, if she had taken it herself then it was a different matter altogether. He had stated that the injuries as had been opined by the doctor who had conducted the post-mortem were also not the injuries which were a result of beating etc. but were a result of the fact that she had got injured by the tempo on which she was being carried to the hospital.

(iv) Even the injuries of the PW-3, he submitted, had appeared to be self inflicted. He had stated that the PW-3 had himself stated that he had after getting the beating, gone to deal with some shopkeepers and had also weighed wheat etc. This could not have happened if he had already received a beating and he was bleeding.

(v) The three brothers namely Ganga Prasad, Ganga Charan and Ganga Sharan were very much witnesses of what had happened and in fact Ganga Prasad and Ganga Sharan had also accompanied her to the hospital at Kanpur but they were never produced in the witness box.

(vi) Learned counsel for the appellants stated that the viscera report itself was shrouded in mystery. After the doctor who had conducted the post-mortem had sealed the viscera, it was nowhere entered in any register. Who received it and took it to the Office of the C.M.O. and who thereafter kept guard over it, was not clear from the case of the prosecution. Which viscera and whose viscera, the PW-10, Constable Rajpal, had taken from the Office of the C.M.O. to the Forensic Science Laboratory, was not clear. Even the expert at the forensic science laboratory was not produced. The accused persons were neither confronted by the viscera report nor were they confronted with the viscera while the statements of their were being recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C.

21. With regard to the above argument, learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Chandan Pasi & Ors. versus The State of Bihar reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2599. He relied upon the paragraphs no. 6 to 9 of this judgment and the same are being reproduced here as under:

"6. One of the non-negotiable requirements of a fair trial is that the accused persons should have ample opportunity to dispel the case and claims of the prosecution against them. This ample opportunity can take many forms, whether it is adequate representation through counsel or the opportunity to call witnesses to present their side of the case or to have the occasion to answer each and every allegation against them, on their own, in their own words. The last one happens under Section 313 CrPC.

7. This Court, in many judgments, delineated the scope and object of"Section 313"CrPC. The position is no longer up for debate. Even so, we may refer to certain pronouncements for the sake of completeness.

7.1. In Sanatan Naskar v. State of W.B4, this Court as follows, regarding the scope of the examination under Section 313 CrPC:

"21. The answers by an accused under Section 313 CrPC are of relevance for finding out the truth and examining the veracity of the case of the prosecution. The scope of Section 313 CrPC is wide and is not a mere formality. ...

22. As already noticed, the object of recording the statement of the accused under Section 313 CrPC is to put all incriminating evidence to the accused so as to provide him an opportunity to explain such incriminating circumstances appearing against him in the evidence of the prosecution. At the same time, also permit him to put forward his own version or reasons, if he so chooses, in relation to his involvement or otherwise in the crime. The court has been empowered to examine the accused but only after the prosecution evidence has been concluded. It is a mandatory obligation upon the court and, besides ensuring the compliance therewith, the court has to keep in mind that the accused gets a fair chance to explain his conduct. The option lies with the accused to maintain silence coupled with simpliciter denial or, in the alternative, to explain his version and reasons for his alleged involvement in the commission of crime. This is the statement which the accused makes without fear or right of the other party to cross-examine him. However, if the statements made are false, the court is entitled to draw adverse inferences and pass consequential orders as may be called for in accordance with law. The primary purpose is to establish a direct dialogue between the court and the accused and to put every important incriminating piece of evidence to the accused and grant him an opportunity to answer and explain. ..."

7.2.In Indrakunwar v. State of Chhattisgarh5, this Court, through one of us (Sanjay Karol, J.), after consideration of various judgments formulated the following principles vis-□- vis this Section:

"35. A perusal of various judgments15 rendered by this Court reveals the following principles, as evolved over time when considering such statements.

35.1 The object, evident from the Section itself, is to enable the accused to themselves explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against them.

35.2 The intent is to establish a dialogue between the Court and the accused. This process benefits the accused and aids the Court in arriving at the final verdict.

35.3 The process enshrined is not a matter of procedural formality but is based on the cardinal principle of natural justice, i.e., audi alterum partem.

35.4 The ultimate test when concerned with the compliance of the Section is to enquire and ensure whether the accused got the opportunity to say his piece.

35.5 In such a statement, the accused may or may not admit involvement or any incriminating circumstance or may even offer an alternative version of events or interpretation. The accused may not be put to prejudice by any omission or inadequate questioning. 35.6 The right to remain silent or any answer to a question which may be false shall not be used to his detriment, being the sole reason.

35.7 This statement cannot form the sole basis of conviction and is neither a substantive nor a substitute piece of evidence. It does not discharge but reduces the prosecution's burden of leading evidence to prove its case. They are to be used to examine the veracity of the prosecution's case.

35.8 This statement is to be read as a whole. One part cannot be read in isolation.

35.9 Such a statement, as not on oath, does not qualify as a piece of evidence under"Section 3"of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872; however, the inculpatory aspect as may be borne from the statement may be used to lend credence to the case of the prosecution.

35.10 The circumstances not put to the accused while rendering his statement under the Section are to be excluded from consideration as no opportunity has been afforded to him to explain them.

35.11 The Court is obligated to put, in the form of questions, all incriminating circumstances to the accused so as to give him an opportunity to articulate his defence. The defence so articulated must be carefully scrutinized and considered.

35.12 Non-compliance with the Section may cause prejudice to the accused and may impede the process of arriving at a fair decision."

7.3. In Raj Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi)6 as subsequently approved by a bench of three-Judges in Aejaz Ahmad Sheikh v. State of U.P. and Another7*, the Court laid down the following factors:*

"22. The law consistently laid down by this Court can be summarised as under:

22.1. It is the duty of the trial court to put each material circumstance appearing in the evidence against the accused specifically, distinctively and separately. The material circumstance means the circumstance or the material on the basis of which the prosecution is seeking his conviction.

22.2. The object of examination of the accused under Section 313 is to enable the accused to explain any circumstance appearing against him in the evidence.

22.3. The Court must ordinarily eschew material circumstances not put to the accused from consideration while dealing with the case of the particular accused.

22.4. The failure to put material circumstances to the accused amounts to a serious irregularity. It will vitiate the trial if it is shown to have prejudiced the accused.

22.5. If any irregularity in putting the material circumstance to the accused does not result in failure of justice, it becomes a curable defect. However, while deciding whether the defect can be cured, one of the considerations will be the passage of time from the date of the incident.

22.6. In case such irregularity is curable, even the appellate court can question the accused on the material circumstance which is not put to him.

22.7. In a given case, the case can be remanded to the trial court from the stage of recording the supplementary statement of the accused concerned under Section 313CrPC.

22.8. While deciding the question whether prejudice has been caused to the accused because of the omission, the delay in raising the contention is only one of the several factors to be considered."

8. Having duly considered the position of law and principles as above, we now examine the statements of the appellant(s) recorded under this Section. For ready reference, the statements are reproduced below:

Appellant No.1 (Chandan Pasi) statement:

"My name is Chandan Pasi, My Father's name is Birendra Pasi "

1. Question: - Did you listen to the Deposition of the Witnesses?

Answer: - Yes

(2) Question: - The witnesses have alleged and stated that on March 31, 2016, at 8:05 AM, with common intention along with other accused persons killed the Informant's father Ghughali Pasi by assaulting with katta, daba. What do you have to say about this?

Answer: False statement.

(3) Question- It is also alleged and evidenced against you that you entered the Informant's house and verbally abused and physically assaulted the Informant's niece Poonam Kumari and Kajal Kumari, along with his nephew, Raju Kumar. What do you have to say about this?

Answer: False allegations.

(4) Question: - Whether you want to Say anything in your defence?

Answer: I am innocent."

Appellant No.2 (Pappu Pasi) statement:

"My name is Pappu Pasi @ Hindustan Pasi "

1. Question: - Did you listen to the Deposition of the Witnesses?

Answer: - Yes

(2) Question: - The witnesses have alleged and stated that on March 31, 2016, at 8:05 AM with common intention along with other accused persons killed the Informant's father Ghughali Pasi by assaulting with katta, daba. What do you have to say about this?

Answer: False Allegation.

(3) Question- It is also alleged and evidenced against you that you entered the Informant's house and verbally abused and physically assaulted the Informant's niece Poonam Kumari and Kajal Kumari, along with his nephew, Raju Kumar. What do you have to say about this?

Answer: False allegation.

(4) Question: - Whether you want to Say anything in your defence?

Answer: I am innocent."

Appellant No.3 (Gidik Pasi) statement:

"My name is Gidik Pasi "

1. Question: - Did you listen to the Deposition of the Witnesses?

Answer: - Yes

(2) Question: - The witnesses have alleged and stated that on March 31, 2016, at 8:05 AM with common intention along with other accused persons killed the Informant's father Ghughali Pasi by assaulting with katta, daba. What do you have to say about this?

(3) Question- It is also alleged and evidenced against you that you entered the Informant's house and verbally abused and physically assaulted the Informant's niece Poonam Kumari and Kajal Kumari, along with his nephew, Raju Kumar. What do you have to say about this?

Answer: False allegations.

(4) Question: - Whether you want to Say anything in your defence?

Answer: I am innocent."

*9. The statements extracted above reveal a sorry state of affairs- an abject failure on the part of the Court in complying with the basic tenets of law. The statements given by all three persons are carbon copies of each other. How such statements can pass muster at the hands of the learned Trial Judge is something which we fail to understand. Out of the four questions asked, directly related to the sequence of events, were only two. The second question was as general as can be, with reference to only the bare allegations, to which an omnibus denial was issued. The third was also of similar nature, saying that it has been alleged and evidenced, and nothing further. This cannot be said to be the putting of every material circumstance. It is equally disturbing for us to see that in the desire to secure a conviction for the accused persons, the prosecutor also let their duty of assisting the Court in conducting the examination of the accused under this section fall by the wayside. The prosecutor is an officer of the Court and holds a solemn duty to act in the interest of justice. They cannot act as a defence lawyer, but for the State, with the sole aim of making the gauntlet of punishment fall on the accused. [See: Sovaran Singh Prajapati v. State of U.P.10]

22. He further relied upon a judgment in Kalicharan & Ors. versus State of Uttar Pradesh reported in (2023) 2 SCC 583. Since the learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the paragraphs no. 16, 17, 20, 21 and 22 and they are being reproduced here as under:

"16. There are provisions made in CrPC in Chapter XVII regarding the framing of charge. The object of the said provisions is obviously to make the accused aware of the accusations against him on the basis of which the prosecution is seeking to convict him. The object of the provisions regarding the framing of charge is that accused should be in a position to effectively defend himself. An accused can properly defend himself provided he is clearly informed about the nature of the allegations against him before the actual trial starts. That is why there are elaborate provisions in CrPC in that behalf. Sub- section (1) of Section 212 is material for our consideration which reads thus:

"212. Particulars as to time, place and person.-(1) The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

What is more important for this case is Section 213 which reads thus:

"213. When manner of committing offence must be stated.-When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 211 and 212 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose."*

17. The emphasis is on giving details of the manner of committing offence. Unless the particulars such as specific Sections of the penal statute as well as the time and place of the commission of the alleged offence are incorporated in the charge, the accused will not be in a position to properly defend himself. Even these particulars may not be enough in many cases to enable the accused to properly defend himself. That is why there is a specific requirement incorporated in Section 213 that if the particulars mentioned in Sections 211 and 212 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose. Illustration (e) to Section 213 provides that when the charge contains an allegation that □A□ is accused of the murder of 'B' at a given time and place, the charge need not state the manner in which 'A' murdered 'B'. Going by the charge framed in this case, it is alleged therein that it was accused no.2 who murdered deceased Harpal Singh by firing bullets from his pistol. Though the case of the prosecution as can be seen from the evidence is that accused nos.1, 3 and 4 committed the murder of Harpal Singh by using sharp weapons in their hand, there is no charge framed against accused nos.1, 3 and 4 alleging that they murdered Harpal Singh. As there is no charge framed against accused nos.1,3 and 4 of committing the murder of Harpal Singh, Illustration (e) will not apply. Therefore, it was necessary to frame a charge in terms of Section 213 by stating the manner of committing the offence of murder by accused nos. 1,3 and 4.

20. When the Court of appeal is called upon to decide whether any failure of justice has been occasioned due to omission to frame a charge or error in the charge, the Court is duty bound to examine the entire record of the trial including all exhibited documents, depositions and the statements of the accused recorded under Section 313.

21. At this stage, we must refer to the requirement of the examination of the accused under Section 313 of CrPC. Section 313 of CrPC reads thus:-

"313. Power to examine the accused.-(1) In every inquiry or trial, for the purpose of enabling the accused personally to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him, the Court"

(a) may at any stage, without previously warning the accused put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary;

(b) shall, after the witnesses for the prosecution have been examined and before he is called on for his defence, question him generally on the case:

Provided that in a summons-case, where the Court has dispensed with the personal attendance of the accused, it may also dispense with his examination under clause (b).

(2) No oath shall be administered to the accused when he is examined under sub-section (1).

(3) The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment by refusing to answer such questions, or by giving false answers to them.

(4) The answers given by the accused may be taken into consideration in such inquiry or trial, and put in evidence for or against him in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answers may tend to show he has committed.

[(5) The Court may take help of Prosecutor and Defence Counsel in preparing relevant questions which are to be put to the accused and the Court may permit filing of written statement by the accused as sufficient compliance of this section.]"

The questions in separate statements of the accused nos. 1 to 4 recorded by the Trial Court are almost identical. Question no.5 is the only question put to them about the evidence adduced against them on the charge of murder of Harpal Singh. Question no.5 put to accused no.3 reads thus:-

"Ques 5 - That it has come up in prosecution evidence that on being exhorted by accused Kalicharan, accused Yaad Prakash fired 4-5 shots at complainant Atar Singh and his family members with his country made pistol with intention to kill, that hit complainant's cousin Harpal Singh and he died on the spot.

What do you have to say in this regard?"

22. Such a case was not at all made out by the prosecution in the evidence before the Court. The material brought on record by the prosecution witnesses (PW-1 and PW-2) is to the effect that Harpal Singh died due to injuries sustained as a result of an attack made by accused nos.1,3 and 4 on him by sharp weapons. These material circumstances brought on record against the accused on which their conviction is based were never put to the accused. What was put to the accused was not the case made out by the prosecution in the evidence. No questions are asked in the Section 313 statement about the post-mortem of the body of Harpal Singh. It is not put to the witness that the cause of death of Harpal Singh was due to haemorrhage and shock as a result of injuries caused by sharp weapons. Questioning an accused under Section 313 CrPC is not an empty formality. The requirement of Section 313 CrPC is that the accused must be explained the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him so that accused can offer an explanation. After an accused is questioned under Section 313 CrPC, he is entitled to take a call on the question of examining defence witnesses and leading other evidence. If the accused is not explained the important circumstances appearing against him in the evidence on which his conviction is sought to be based, the accused will not be in a position to explain the said circumstances brought on record against him. He will not be able to properly defend himself. In paragraph 21 of the decision of this Court in the case of Jai Dev v. State of Punjab1*, it was held thus:-*

"21. In support of his contention that the failure to put the relevant point against the appellant Hari Singh would affect the final conclusion of the High Court, Mr Anthony has relied on a decision of this Court in Hate Singh Bhagat Singh v. State of Madhya Bharat [1951 SCC 1060 : AIR 1953 SC 468] . In that case, this Court has no doubt referred to the fact that it was important to put to the accused each material fact which is intended to be used against him and to afford him a chance of explaining it if he can. But these observations must be read in the light of the other conclusions 1 (1963) 3 SCR 489 reached by this Court in that case. It would, we think, be incorrect to suggest that these observations are intended to lay down a general and inexorable rule that wherever it is found that one of the points used against the accused person has not been put to him, either the trial is vitiated or his conviction is rendered bad. The examination of the accused person under Section 342 is undoubtedly intended to give him an opportunity to explain any circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. In exercising its powers under Section 342, the court must take care to put all relevant circumstances appearing in the evidence to the accused person. It would not be enough to put a few general and broad questions to the accused, for by adopting such a course the accused may not get opportunity of explaining all the relevant circumstances*. On the other hand, it would not be fair or right that the court should put to the accused person detailed questions which may amount to his cross-examination.* The ultimate test in determining whether or not the accused has been fairly examined under Section 342 would be to enquire whether, having regard to all the questions put to him, he did get an opportunity to say what he wanted to say in respect of prosecution case against him. If it appears that the examination of the accused person was defective and thereby a prejudice has been caused to him, that would no doubt be a serious infirmity*. It is obvious that no general rule can be laid down in regard to the manner in which the accused person should be examined under Section 342. Broadly stated, however, the true position appears to be that passion for brevity which may be content with asking a few omnibus general questions is as much inconsistent with the requirements of Section 342 as anxiety for thoroughness which may dictate an unduly detailed and large number of questions which may amount to the cross-examination of the accused person. Besides, in the present case, as we have already shown, failure to put the specific point of distance is really not very material."*

In paragraph 145 of the well known decision of this Court in the case of Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra*2, it was held thus:*

"145. It is not necessary for us to multiply authorities on this point as this question now stands concluded by several decisions of this Court. In this view of the matter, the circumstances which were not put to the appellant in his examination under Section 313 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 have to be completely excluded from consideration."

(emphasis added)

23. For the same argument learned counsel for the appellants also relied upon Samsul Haque versus The State of Assam reported in (2019) 18 SCC 161. Since he relied upon the paragraphs no. 13, 21 and 22 of this judgment and the same are being reproduced here as under:

"13.In the aforesaid context learned Senior Counsel has referred to the judgment of this Court in Sharad Birdichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra1 to contend that if the circumstances are not put to the accused in his statement under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C., they must be completely excluded from consideration because the accused did not have any chance to explain them. This is stated to be the consistent view of this Court starting from 1953 in the case of Hate Singh Bhagat Singh v. State of Madhya Bharat2 Learned Senior Counsel also referred to the judgment in Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam3 for the proposition that the very purpose of examining the accused persons under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. is to meet the requirement of the principles of natural justice, i.e., audi alteram partem. The accused, thus, must be given an opportunity to explain the incriminating material that has surfaced against him and the circumstances which are not put to the accused in his examination underSection 313 of the Cr.P.C. cannot be used against him and must be excluded from consideration.

21. The most vital aspect, in our view, and what drives the nail in the coffin in the case of the prosecution is the manner in which the court put the case to accused No.9, and the statement recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C. To say the least it is perfunctory.

22. It is trite to say that, in view of the judgments referred to by the learned Senior Counsel, aforesaid, the incriminating material is to be put to the accused so that the accused gets a fair chance to defend himself. This is in recognition of the principles of audi alteram partem. Apart from the judgments referred to aforesaid by the learned Senior Counsel, we may usefully refer to the judgment of this Court in Asraf Ali v. State of Assam7. The relevant observations are in the following paragraphs:

"21. Section 313 of the Code casts a duty on the Court to put in an enquiry or trial questions to the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. It follows as necessary corollary therefrom 7 (2008) 16 SCC 328 that each material circumstance appearing in the evidence against the accused is required to be put to him specifically, distinctly and separately and failure to do so amounts to a serious irregularity vitiating trial, if it is shown that the accused was prejudiced.

22. The object of Section 313 of the Code is to establish a direct dialogue between the Court and the accused. If a point in the evidence is important against the accused, and the conviction is intended to be based upon it, it is right and proper that the accused should be questioned about the matter and be given an opportunity of explaining it. Where no specific question has been put by the trial Court on an inculpatory material in the prosecution evidence, it would vitiate the trial. Of course, all these are subject to rider whether they have caused miscarriage of justice or prejudice. This Court also expressed similar view in S. Harnam Singh v. The State (AIR 1976 SC 2140), while dealing with Section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 (corresponding to Section 313 of the Code). Non- indication of inculpatory material in its relevant facets by the trial Court to the accused adds to vulnerability of the prosecution case. Recording of a statement of the accused under Section 313 is not a purposeless exercise.

24. Relying upon the abovementioned judgments, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that in the absence of the confrontation of the viscera and its report vis-a-vis the accused persons, the viscera and its report could not be relied upon by the prosecution for the purposes of the conviction of the accused. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants relied upon a judgment of Supreme Court in Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam reported in (2013) 12 SCC 406.

The relevant portion of this judgment is the paragraph no. 20 and the same is being reproduced here as under:

"20. It is a settled legal proposition that in a criminal trial, the purpose of examining the accused person under Section 313 CrPC, is to meet the requirement of the principles of natural justice i.e. audi alteram partem. This means that the accused may be asked to furnish some explanation as regards the incriminating circumstances associated with him, and the court must take note of such explanation. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the same is essential to decide whether or not the chain of circumstances is complete. No matter how weak the evidence of the prosecution may be, it is the duty of the court to examine the accused, and to seek his explanation as regards the incriminating material that has surfaced against him. The circumstances which are not put to the accused in his examination under Section 313 CrPC, cannot be used against him and must be excluded from consideration. The said statement cannot be treated as evidence within the meaning of Section 3 of the Evidence Act, as the accused cannot be cross-examined with reference to such statement."

25. Also, learned counsel for the appellants relied upon the judgment in Maheshwar Tigga versus State of Jharkhand reported in (2020) 10 SCC 108. Since he relied upon the paragraphs no. 7 to 9 of this judgment, they are being reproduced here as under:

"7. A bare perusal of the examination of the accused under Section 313 CrPC reveals it to be extremely casual and perfunctory in nature. Three capsuled questions only were asked to the appellant as follows which he denied:

"Question 1. There is a witness against you that when the informant V. Anshumala Tigga was going to school you were hiding near Tomra canal and after finding the informant in isolation you forced her to strip naked on knifepoint and raped her.

Question 2. After the rape when the informant ran to her home crying to inform her parents about the incident and when the parents of the informant came to you to inquire about the incident, you told them that □if I have committed rape then I will keep her as my wife"

Question 3. On your instruction, the informant's parents performed the "Lota Paani" ceremony of the informant, in which the informant as well as your parents were present, also in the said ceremony your parents had gifted the informant a saree and a blouse and the informant's parents had also gifted you some clothes."

8. It stands well settled that circumstances not put to an accused under Section 313 CrPC cannot be used against him, and must be excluded from consideration. In a criminal trial, the importance of the questions put to an accused are basic to the principles of natural justice as it provides him the opportunity not only to furnish his defence, but also to explain the incriminating circumstances against him. A probable defence raised by an accused is sufficient to rebut the accusation without the requirement of proof beyond reasonable doubt.

9. This Court, time and again, has emphasised the importance of putting all relevant questions to an accused under Section 313 CrPC. In Naval Kishore Singh v. State of Bihar [Naval Kishore Singh v. State of Bihar, (2004) 7 SCC 502 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 1967] , it was held to be an essential part of a fair trial observing as follows: (SCC p. 504, para 5)

"5. The questioning of the accused under Section 313 CrPC was done in the most unsatisfactory manner. Under Section 313 CrPC the accused should have been given opportunity to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. At least, the various items of evidence, which had been produced by the prosecution, should have been put to the accused in the form of questions and he should have been given opportunity to give his explanation. No such opportunity was given to the accused in the instant case. We deprecate the practice of putting the entire evidence against the accused put together in a single question and giving an opportunity to explain the same, as the accused may not be in a position to give a rational and intelligent explanation. The trial Judge should have kept in mind the importance of giving an opportunity to the accused to explain the adverse circumstances in the evidence and the Section 313 examination shall not be carried out as an empty formality. It is only after the entire evidence is unfurled the accused would be in a position to articulate his defence and to give explanation to the circumstances appearing in evidence against him. Such an opportunity being given to the accused is part of a fair trial and if it is done in a slipshod manner, it may result in imperfect appreciation of evidence."

26. Also reliance was placed upon the judgment of Asraf Ali v. State of Assam and since he relied upon paragraphs 21, 22 and 24 of this judgment and the same are being reproduced here as under:

"21. Section 313 of the Code casts a duty on the court to put in an enquiry or trial questions to the accused for the purpose of enabling him to explain any of the circumstances appearing in the evidence against him. It follows as a necessary corollary therefrom that each material circumstance appearing in the evidence against the accused is required to be put to him specifically, distinctly and separately and failure to do so amounts to a serious irregularity vitiating trial, if it is shown that the accused was prejudiced.

22. The object of Section 313 of the Code is to establish a direct dialogue between the court and the accused. If a point in the evidence is important against the accused, and the conviction is intended to be based upon it, it is right and proper that the accused should be questioned about the matter and be given an opportunity of explaining it. Where no specific question has been put by the trial court on an inculpatory material in the prosecution evidence, it would vitiate the trial. Of course, all these are subject to rider whether they have caused miscarriage of justice or prejudice. This Court also expressed a similar view in S. Harnam Singh v. State (Delhi Admn.) [(1976) 2 SCC 819 : 1976 SCC (Cri) 324 : AIR 1976 SC 2140] while dealing with Section 342 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898 (corresponding to Section 313 of the Code). Non-indication of inculpatory material in its relevant facts by the trial court to the accused adds to the vulnerability of the prosecution case. Recording of a statement of the accused under Section 313 is not a purposeless exercise.

24. In certain cases when there is perfunctory examination under Section 313 of the Code, the matter is remanded to the trial court, with a direction to retry from the stage at which the prosecution was closed."

27. Sri Amit Sinha, learned Additional Government Advocate, however, opposed the Appeal and submitted that no advantage could be taken by the appellants of the fact that the appellants were not confronted with viscera and its report. Definitely, the viscera was sealed and was sent to the C.M.O. Office and from there, in the sealed state, it was sent to the forensic science laboratory. He also submitted that the PW-1 and the PW-3 were reliable eye-witnesses and that the deceased had stated in the presence of the PW-1 and PW-3 that poison was administered to her then it could not be in any way doubted. Also, he submitted that the PW-3 was a young boy of 11 years at the time of occurrence and, therefore, he could while he was keeping guard of his mausi go outside and also deal with customers and this did not mean that he was in any manner not present at the spot and was only trying to make out a case. He further submitted that since the deceased was bodily weak even if the bitter taste and the bad smell of the poison were there she might have not resisted while it was being administered.

28. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, we find that the deceased had four brothers but only PW-1 was active and the other brothers though had appeared on the scene, but never appeared in the court. Also, we find that the PW-1 in his statement-in-chief had stated that something had been forcefully administered to the deceased but in his cross-examination he had stated that the deceased had told him that she was suffering from cholera. Also, he had stated in his cross-examination that when the doctor had scolded her then she had divulged that in fact she had been administered something forcefully. This fact as was placed before us was not believable because at the time when the doctor i.e. Dr. D.R. Verma was looking after the deceased, he had opined that she was in a very bad condition and that she had to be taken to Kanpur Nagar and there was thus every possibility that she might not have spoken at all. The PW-3, we find, had throughout been consistently stating that something was mixed in water and then the deceased was made to drink the same. This story becomes very different from the story that the PW-1 had come up with that the deceased had told him while she was alive that she had been made to eat something. In a case where the guilty has to be punished with a punishment as grave as life imprisonment, the prosecution case has to be dealt very cautiously and when there was a definite digression in the cases taken by the PW-1 and the PW-3 then the Court should deal with the matter very prudently and if there is inconsistency in the case taken by the prosecution witnesses then it should lean in favour of the accused.

29. Also, we find that the poison □zinc phosphide□ is not such a poison which can be administered on the sly. It tastes bitter and has a very bad smell. Thus if a person who is hale and hearty is administered that poison then he or she would resist to the administration of the same and would get injuries on her body and if he or she would resist powerfully then the person who was administrating would also get injured. In the instant case, the mother-in-law who was an elderly person definitely would have got some injuries, but we find that no injuries were there either on the mouth of the deceased or on the persons who were trying to administer the poison because of the resistance put up by the deceased.

30. What is more, we find that neither the viscera nor the report with regard to it had been ever placed before the accused persons when their statements were being recorded under Section 313 of Cr.P.C. Even though questions were put with regard to poison being administered, no question was put with regard to the viscera and its report. Definitely, as per all the judgments which have been cited by the learned counsel for appellants, the viscera report should therefore not be taken into account at all.

31. What is more, the Court here again would lean in favour of the appellants and would decide, not to look into the viscera report because we find that after the viscera was sealed as per Dr. A.K. Tiwari, PW-4, it was not certain as to where the viscera was kept. No entry with regard to its preservation in any register was produced before the Court. No one was produced before the court, who would have, with any responsibility, stated that he had taken the sealed viscera from the doctor who had sealed it to the Office of the C.M.O. Also, no one from the C.M.O. Office was produced to state that the viscera was kept in safe custody. Only the PW-10, Constable Rajpal, was produced who had stated that he had taken a sealed viscera to the forensic science laboratory. He did not state as to from whose custody he had taken the sealed viscera and he also did not state as to in whose hands he handed over the viscera. We also find from the entire evidence which has been placed before us that no one from the forensic science laboratory was produced to prove the fact that in fact the viscera had come in a sealed state or whether it was entered in some register and thereafter it was kept in the safe custody of some malkhana and thereafter it was taken by the PW-10, Constable Rajpal, to the laboratory. It was not shown that it was handed over by some responsible person and thereafter it was got received in the forensic science laboratory.

32. In view of what we have observed, we are definitely of the view that no reliance can be placed on the viscera report. The viscera report alone was a conclusive piece of evidence which would have gone to show that murder was done by the accused persons by administering poison and since the viscera report itself now becomes such an evidence which as per us cannot be read in evidence, we are definitely of the view that the appeal should be allowed and the accused be acquitted.

33. So far as the injury on the body of the PW-3 is concerned, we find that his case also is not very reliable as he himself had stated that on 12.01.1986, he had intermittently gone out of the house of his mausi and had also dealt with shopkeepers. Meaning thereby that if there were any injuries as were examined by the doctor, PW-6, then they could have been self inflicted only to make out a case.

34. We are thus of the view that the appellants namely Ram Autar, Rakesh Kumar Misra @ Doctor and Laddan Misra @ Mahesh be acquitted of all the charges for which they were tried.

35. The Appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 07.12.1989 passed by the Ist Additional District & Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar in Session Trial No. 180 of 1986 is hereby set-aside.

36. If the appellants are on bail, they need not surrender and their sureties and bail bonds be discharged. The trial court record be sent back to the concerned trial court.

THE HON'BLE SIDDHARTHA VARMA, J.
THE HON'BLE ACHAL SACHDEV, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2377 of 1989

Chhail Behari ...Appellant
Versus
State ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to - determination of the sustainability of conviction under Ss. 302 and 307 IPC - appreciation of the testimony of an injured eyewitness and a related eyewitness - evidentiary value of prompt lodging of the FIR and recovery of empty cartridges from the place of occurrence - effect of non-recovery of the weapon of offence, non-examination of certain witnesses and the treating doctor, hostility of an independent witness, and minor discrepancies between ocular and medical evidence - effect of previous enmity and alleged false implication - whether the prosecution evidence establishes guilt beyond reasonable doubt and whether the conviction and sentence call for interference in appellate jurisdiction. (Paras 16-35)

Headnotes

Criminal law - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 302, 307 - Conviction - Appreciation of evidence - Injured eyewitness - Reliability - A conviction can safely be based on the testimony of a single injured eyewitness, provided that the eyewitness is wholly reliable - evidence of the injured eyewitness being natural, consistent and inspiring confidence, corroborated by medical evidence, prompt lodging of FIR, recoveries made during investigation and surrounding circumstances - conviction upheld. (Paras 25, 27, 30, 32)

Criminal procedure - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - FIR - Alleged ante-dating - Prompt lodging - FIR lodged within a short time of the incident - FIR, inquest report and injury report reflecting a continuous and natural sequence of events - delay in recording statement under S. 161 Cr.P.C. explained by condition of injured witness - allegation of ante-timing unsupported by convincing evidence - FIR held not ante-timed. (Para 23)

Evidence - Ocular evidence - Medical evidence - Appreciation - Medical evidence is primarily corroborative in nature - substantive evidence remains the testimony of eyewitnesses - minor variances between medical and ocular evidence are not sufficient to discredit otherwise cogent and trustworthy testimony unless they go to the root of the matter. (Paras 27, 29, 32)

Evidence - Injured witness - Evidentiary value - An injured witness's testimony carries special evidentiary weight, since such a witness's presence at the scene is ordinarily beyond doubt and such a witness would not ordinarily let the real assailant escape to falsely implicate another - corroboration being a rule of prudence rather than law. (Para 25)

Evidence - Related witness - Independent witness - Non-examination - A relationship with the victim does not, by itself, render a witness interested or require independent corroboration - non-examination of other witnesses does not weaken the prosecution case where their evidence would at best be cumulative and a reliable injured eyewitness has deposed to the occurrence. (Paras 26, 29)

Evidence - Medical evidence - Non-examination of treating doctor - Non-examination of the treating doctor does not by itself destroy the prosecution's case where the injury report stands proved and is corroborated by reliable eyewitness testimony and no prejudice is shown to have been caused to the defence. (Para 32)

Evidence - Recovery - Weapon of offence - Non-recovery - Non-recovery of the firearm is not, by itself, fatal where the prosecution has otherwise placed cogent evidence on record connecting the appellant with the offence, including recovery of six empty cartridges from inside and outside the house consistent with the ocular account. (Para 29)

Evidence - Motive - Previous enmity - Where the occurrence is proved by reliable direct evidence, motive recedes in importance and matters more in cases of circumstantial evidence - plausible motive arising out of previous hostility nevertheless established. (Para 24)

Criminal trial - Defence plea - Dacoity - Suggestion that the occurrence was in fact a dacoity, unsupported by any evidence on record, could not displace the direct testimony of the injured eyewitness. (Para 29)

Appellate jurisdiction - Criminal appeal - Judgment of conviction and order of sentence do not suffer from any illegality, perversity, or infirmity warranting interference by the Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction - appeal devoid of merit and dismissed. (Paras 33, 34)

Held: The prosecution has established the appellant's guilt beyond reasonable doubt - the testimony of the injured eyewitness inspires confidence and is duly corroborated by the medical evidence, the prompt lodging of the First Information Report, the recoveries made during the course of the investigation, and the surrounding circumstances - the evidence of the informant also supports the prosecution case - the previous enmity between the parties furnishes a cogent motive for the commission of the offence, though the case itself rests on reliable direct evidence and not merely on motive - the contention regarding ante-dating of the First Information Report does not merit acceptance, the FIR, inquest report and injured witness's injury report reflecting a continuous and natural sequence of events immediately following the occurrence - the delay in recording the injured witness's statement was explained by her condition and cannot, by itself, suggest fabrication or an ante-timed report - a conviction can safely be based on the testimony of a single injured eyewitness, provided that the eyewitness is wholly reliable - the evidence of the injured eyewitness is natural, consistent and inspires confidence and there is no material contradiction or inherent improbability warranting its rejection - the absence of independent local witnesses and the fact that no villager arrived during the incident were satisfactorily explained by the location of the house outside the main habitation - non-recovery of the firearm is not, by itself, fatal where cogent evidence otherwise connects the appellant with the offence - non-examination of other witnesses does not weaken the prosecution case where their evidence would at best be cumulative - the alleged absence of blackening or tattooing around the gunshot wound does not so contradict the ocular account as to render it unreliable - minor variances between medical and ocular evidence are not sufficient to discredit otherwise cogent and trustworthy testimony unless they go to the root of the matter - medical evidence is primarily corroborative in nature and the substantive evidence remains the testimony of eyewitnesses - non-examination of the treating doctor does not by itself destroy the prosecution's case where the injury report stands proved and is corroborated by other reliable evidence and no prejudice is shown to have been caused to the defence - the judgment of conviction and the order of sentence do not suffer from any illegality, perversity, or infirmity warranting interference by the Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction - the appeal, being devoid of merit, is dismissed and the conviction under Ss. 302 and 307 of the Indian Penal Code, together with the sentences awarded thereunder, is affirmed. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Appeal filed against the judgment of conviction and order of sentence passed by the trial court convicting the appellant under Ss. 302 and 307 IPC for the murder of the deceased and for causing firearm injuries to the injured witness.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Shri Harish Chandra Tiwari
Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri Amit Sinha, learned AGA appearing for the State

(Delivered by Hon'ble Achal Sachdev, J.)

1. Heard Shri Harish Chandra Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellant, and Shri Amit Sinha, learned AGA appearing for the State, and perused the record.

2. The facts necessary for disposing of the present appeal are that the appellant, Chhail Bihari, was convicted by the trial court under Sections 302 and 307 of the Indian Penal Code for the murder of Rajesh alias Mantey and for causing firearm injuries to Rajesh's sister, Smt. Shyam Pyari, and was sentenced accordingly. The present appeal was preferred against that judgment of conviction and order of sentence. A First Information Report was lodged by the informant, Ayodhya Prasad - father of the deceased and of the injured - on the basis of a written report (Tahrir, Exhibit Ka-1) at 12:45 a.m. on 8.8.1985. It was registered under General Diary Report No. 4 at the same time at Police Station Bara, situated about two miles north-west of Village Chhiri, the place of occurrence. The investigation of the case commenced forthwith.

3. According to the prosecution, on the intervening night of 7/8.8.1985, at about 10:00 p.m., all family members had taken their evening meal before sunset. The informant, Ayodhya Prasad, was in the northern part of his house with his wife, Dukhiya; his son-in-law, Soni Lal; and a neighbour, Krishnanand. Inside the house, in the southern room, his son, Rajesh (alias Mantey), was asleep on a cot (charpai), while his daughter, Smt. Shyam Pyari, was sleeping on the floor of the same room. A lantern was lit in that room, providing sufficient light, and the main entrance of the house had been left open. At that time, the appellant, Chhail Bihari, armed with a single-barrel gun, accompanied by two associates carrying country-made pistols (katta) in their right hands and torches in their left, entered the house from the east, shouting a challenge to the effect: "Come out, Ayodhya Prasad - call whoever you wish to call; today we will not leave without beating/killing you." The appellant fired a shot from the doorway (deodhi) of the southern room, which struck Smt. Shyam Pyari on the right thigh, causing her to fall immediately. When she attempted to rise, the appellant also struck her with the butt of the gun. The appellant then entered the room and, upon Rajesh being awakened by the gunfire and attempting to rise from the cot, fired a second shot at him, striking him in the right side of the chest. Rajesh fell back onto the cot and died within about four to five minutes. Blood from the fatal wound fell onto the cot, the bedding (kathri) spread on it, and the ground beneath.

4. The appellant and his companions were, according to the prosecution, searching for the informant and threatening to eliminate him as well. Out of fear, the informant, his wife, his son-in-law, and Krishnanand concealed themselves - behind a heap of loose hay (bhusa) and dung-cakes at the north-west corner of the house - and did not come out until the assailants had fled the scene, abusing and threatening as they left that they would not rest until they had killed the family. The informant stated that he personally saw the appellant approaching the room from his place of concealment, though the detailed sequence of the assault inside the room was narrated to him afterwards by his injured daughter. Soon after the assailants withdrew, the informant came out, went to his daughter, and learnt from her that the appellant, Chhail Bihari, was one of the assailants; he then went to his son and found him dead. He left the deceased's body undisturbed in the position in which it had fallen, before proceeding to the police station to lodge the report.

5. The informant's house was situated outside the main habitation of Village Chhiri - variously described as about six to seven bighas, and by the Investigating Officer as about one furlong - to the south-west of the village population - with neighbouring houses not in close proximity, roughly ten to fifteen paces apart. The main door of the house opened to the east, with rooms built adjacent to it and to the south. The deceased and the injured witness were sleeping in the eastern room on the southern side of the house, while the informant and the others were in the northern part, about fifteen to twenty paces away; there was no separate wall running north-south between the rooms on the southern side. The southern room had a lantern hung from a bamboo pole or wall-bracket, was kept lit because of the rainy season and it hung high enough that the injured witness could not reach it herself; the northern room had a chimney lamp (dibri), which had been extinguished by the time the Investigating Officer reached the scene, and which the informant did not show to the Investigating Officer. Loose bhusa was confirmed to be present at the north-west corner of the house, though no heap of dung-cakes was found there by the Investigating Officer. The site plan (Exhibit Ka-19), prepared on the informant's pointing-out, showed the informant's position which was near the middle pillar south of the veranda and the deceased's position in the eastern room on the southern side, and it records the recovery of three empty cartridges each from inside and outside the house, at points marked X-1, X-2 and X-3.

6. The motive attributed to the occurrence is previous enmity. The prosecution attributed the occurrence to previous enmity. About three to four years prior to the present incident, the appellant had forcibly entered the informant's house ? according to the injured witness, the courtyard - armed with a country-made pistol and abusing the occupants. The informant, with the assistance of other villagers, had apprehended the appellant and had handed him over to the police, leading to a criminal case against the appellant under Section 25 of the Arms Act. The informant appeared as a prosecution witness, and the injured witness stated that her father had also given evidence along with other villagers. Although the appellant requested the informant not to depose against him, the informant nevertheless gave evidence, resulting in deep-seated animosity towards the appellant. Both the informant and the injured witness maintained this account under cross-examination; the informant admitted he did not know the outcome of that earlier case. This background was independently corroborated by the Investigating Officer (PW-8), who confirmed that the informant had appeared as a witness in the earlier Arms Act case against the appellant and furnished the motive relied upon by the prosecution for the present offence.

7. Both the informant and the injured witness stated that they had known the appellant, Chhail Bihari, before the occurrence, due to the earlier katta incident about three to four years earlier; the injured witness denied ever having visited the appellant's house or knowing his family members. She clarified that her marriage had taken place about three to four years before the incident in Chandauli district, that she had lived at her marital home for three to four years, during which a child was born to her, and that she had returned to live at her father's house about three to four months before the incident - a chronology she maintained despite the suggestion that she could not have been at her parental home at the relevant time. The informant stated that the appellant and his companions had not covered their faces or attempted to conceal their identities, and that he too had seen the appellant during the occurrence. Both witnesses categorically denied suggestions that the incident was in fact a dacoity in which no assailant could be identified, and that the appellant had been falsely named on account of prior enmity.

8. The injured witness remained at home for about one and a half hours before being placed on a cot - there being no ambulance facility ? and carried to the police station, accompanied by her father and four to five other villagers. From the police station, she was sent by jeep, in the custody of a constable, to the Primary Health Centre, Jasra, where she was medically examined by PW- 2, Dr. A. K. Saxena, on 8.8.1985. She was thereafter referred to Bailey (District) Hospital, Prayagraj/Allahabad, for further treatment, including an X- ray. She remained admitted for about one month, during which twenty- four pellets were removed from her body. Her statement under Section 161 Cr. P. C. was recorded only about five to six days after admission, once her condition permitted.

9. PW- 2, Dr. A. K. Saxena, examined the injured, Smt. Shyam Pyari, aged about 22 years, on 8.8.1985 at 4:20/4:30 a. m. at the Primary Health Centre, Jasra, and found: multiple oval gunshot wounds of entry, ranging from 0.3 cm x 0.2 cm to 0.6 cm x 0.5 cm, over an area of about 15 cm x 17 cm on the front and inner aspect of the right thigh; a contusion measuring 11 cm x 1. 1.2 cm across the upper half of the posterior right forearm; and traumatic swelling measuring 5 cm x 4 cm over the outer aspect of the left hand. The thigh injury was attributed to a firearm, and the other two to a blunt object - the forearm contusion being consistent with the butt of a gun and the hand swelling with either a fall or blunt impact ? with a duration of about one- fourth of a day, consistent with an occurrence at about 10:00 p. m. on 7/8.8.1985. The injury report was proved as Exhibit Ka-2; an X- ray plate and supplementary report were placed on record but they were not formally proved.In his cross- examination, the doctor stated that Injury No. 2 could have been caused by the butt of a gun, whereas Injury No. 3 could have resulted either from a fall on the ground or from the impact of a blunt object. He further opined that the injuries could have been caused at about 10: 00 p. m. on the intervening night of 7/8.8.1985.

10. PW-6, Dr. U.S. Sinha, conducted the post mortem examination of the deceased, Rajesh alias Mantey, on 9.8.1985 (Exhibit Ka-3), finding a single entry gunshot wound in the third intercostal space, about 1 cm above the left nipple, measuring roughly 14 cm x 14 cm and penetrating the thoracic cavity, with no exit wound. The thoracic cavity was full of blood, and the heart and left lung were lacerated. Sixty pellets and a piece of wadding were recovered from the thoracic cavity and sealed. Death was attributed to shock and hemorrhage from this firearm injury. The post mortem findings, which showed a single deep gunshot wound without any mention of blackening, tattooing or charring around the entry wound, were relied upon by the defence to question the ocular claim that the fatal shot had been fired from very close range.

11. The informant left for the police station about one hour after the occurrence. One Awadhesh Prasad Shukla reached the scene about half an hour after the incident, remained there until the informant left, and accompanied him to the police station, where he wrote out the report (Exhibit Ka-1) at the informant's request after the informant purchased paper for the purpose; the Investigating Officer thereupon asked for and received the written report, which was registered the same night as the FIR at Police Station Bara, a certified copy being furnished to the informant. The informant admitted that no police had come to his house during the hour he remained there after the occurrence, and that he stayed with the injured witness throughout her roughly two hours at the police station, though he did not accompany her to Jasra Hospital. The injured witness stated that she had told her father, at the time the FIR was being lodged, that the appellant had struck her with the gun butt in addition to shooting her, and that her father had seen this injury.

12. PW-8, Koram Kalicharan, the then Station House Officer, Police Station Bara, immediately took up the investigation on registration of the FIR, recording the informant's statement at 12:45 a.m. at the police station and sending the injured for medical examination in the custody of Constable Ram Prasad Singh. He proceeded to the scene that night with the police force in search of the appellant, who could not be found, and returned the following morning to prepare the inquest report (panchayatnama) of the deceased's body, along with the specimen seal, photo-nash, R.I. letter, and letter to the Chief Medical Officer (Exhibits Ka-7 to Ka-13), before sending the sealed body for post mortem in the custody of Constables Bishram Singh and Vishnu Tiwari.

13. During the investigation, three empty cartridges were recovered from inside the informant's house and three from outside - a total of six, consistent with the informant's cross-examination admission that he had heard about six to seven shots fired - and sealed under a recovery memo (Exhibit Ka-14); blood-stained and plain earth were collected from the scene (Exhibit Ka-15, produced in court as Material Exhibits 7 and 8); the blood-stained portion of the deceased's bedding was seized (Exhibit Ka-16, produced as Material Exhibit 9); and the burning lantern found at the scene was seized and then returned to the informant's custody for continued use under a supurdaginama (Exhibit Ka-17). The injured witness's blood-stained clothing -a sari and petticoat/stole - was seized on 08.08.1985 (Exhibit Ka-18). The appellant was arrested at Chilla Mod, after which the site plan was prepared (Exhibit Ka-19). The injured witness's statement was recorded on 14.08.1985 at Bailey Hospital, and Krishnanand's on 24.08.1985. The charge-sheet against the appellant was submitted on 05.10.1985 (Exhibit Ka-22). No firearm was recovered from the appellant during the investigation.

14. On 17.5.1986, the trial court framed charges against the appellant under Sections 302 and 307 IPC, which he denied, claiming trial. The prosecution examined eight witnesses: PW-1 Ayodhya Prasad, the informant and an eyewitness; PW-2 Dr. A.K. Saxena, who examined the injured; PW-3 Smt. Shyam Pyari, the injured eyewitness; PW-4 Constable Bishram Singh and PW-7 Constable Mahavir Singh, formal witnesses; PW-5 Krishnanand, a fact witness who did not support the prosecution case and was declared hostile; PW-6 Dr. U.S. Sinha, who conducted the post-mortem; and PW-8 Koram Kalicharan, the Investigating Officer.

15. After the prosecution's evidence, the appellant's statement was recorded under Section 313 of the Cr.P.C.; he denied the incriminating circumstances, claimed false implication, and led no defence evidence. On appreciation of the evidence, the trial court convicted the appellant under Sections 302 and 307 of the IPC and sentenced him accordingly, giving rise to the present appeal.

16. Learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued and has stated that:-

(a) First, that the appellant was falsely implicated on account of long-standing enmity, the informant having earlier, in collusion with the local police, falsely implicated him in a criminal case, and that the same enmity explained the present false accusation.

(b) Second, it was argued that the FIR was ante-dated and lodged only after deliberation and consultation, as shown by PW-3's evidence that she was taken to the police station about an hour after Awadhesh Kumar arrived ? the alleged scribe of the Tahrir, Exhibit Ka-1 - despite the occurrence having taken place after 10:00 p.m. on 7.8.1985 and the FIR being lodged at 00:45 hours on 8.8.1985. It was also pointed out that this Awadhesh Kumar was not called to the witness box and that PW-5, Krishnanand, did not support the prosecution.

(c) Third, it was submitted that the weapon of offence was never recovered during the investigation, a material lapse in the prosecution's case.

(d) Fourth, it was argued that PW-1, the informant, was not an eyewitness to the assault: he was admittedly seated in the northern part of the house with his wife, son-in-law, and Krishnanand, while the deceased and injured were in the southern room. The site plan shows trees, bushes, and a hut obstructing the line of sight between the two points, so his account of the manner of occurrence and the identity of the assailant is hearsay, derived from what his injured daughter told him, and not direct evidence.

(e) Fifth, it was contended that the prosecution examined only three witnesses of fact - PW-1, PW-3, and PW-5 (who turned hostile) ? while withholding the informant's wife, Dukhiya, and son-in-law, Soni Lal, both of whom were admittedly present at the time, without cogent explanation, thereby warranting an adverse inference and undermining the credibility of the prosecution case.Moreover , the prosecution did not examine the treating doctor at the Bailey Hospital who had treated the injured Smt.Shyam Pyari , thereby casting serious aspersions on prosecution story itself.

(f) Sixth, it was submitted that PW-3 deposed that the deceased had been shot from very close range, yet the post-mortem report records no blackening, tattooing, or charring around the wound, as would ordinarily be expected from a close-range firearm injury, rendering the ocular evidence inconsistent with the medical evidence.

(g) Seventh, it was argued that PW-3's very presence at the place of occurrence was doubtful, as she had already been married to one Ram Kishore, making her presence at her parental home at the relevant time improbable.

(h) Eighth, it was submitted that what had in fact occurred on the intervening night was a dacoity in the village, during which the deceased and the injured sustained their injuries, and that the informant, taking advantage of pre-existing hostility, falsely named the appellant as the assailant ? a hostility admittedly arising from the earlier incident in which the appellant had been apprehended by the informant and handed over to the police.

(i) Ninth, it was pointed out that despite the firing and the cries of the injured, no villager came to the family's rescue, rendering the prosecution's version doubtful; and finally, that since PW-5, the sole independent witness cited, did not support the case, the conviction rests only on the testimony of PW-1 and PW-3 ? both closely related to the deceased and hence interested witnesses whose evidence, absent independent corroboration, is not of sterling quality.

17. Learned counsel for appellant has filed written submissions and has placed reliance on the following case laws:-

(i) State of U.P. Vs Bhagwan & Ors. (1997) 11 SCC 19

(Non recording of statement under s.161 Cr.P.C of the eye witnesses on the first day)

(ii) Amar Singh Vs. State(NCTof Delhi) (2020) 19 SCC 165

(Sole Testimony of Eye witness-reliability)

(iii) State of Rajasthan Vs. Kishan Singh (2002) 10 SCC 160

(Deliberate improvements made to bring their testimony in the line to the medical evidence)

(iv) Mahendra Singh Vs State of UP 2004 LawSuit(All)635

(Rule of Appreciation of evidence of an injured witness)

18. The learned A.G.A. resisted these contentions, submitting that the incident, which occurred after 10:00 p.m. on 7.8.1985, was witnessed by PW-1 and PW-3 - the latter grievously injured - and that both positively identified the appellant. It was submitted that the injured, in the absence of any ambulance facility, was carried to the police station on a cot by her father and five to six villagers, and was thereafter sent to PHC Jasra for examination by PW-2 at about 4:30 a.m. The local police simultaneously reached the scene with the informant to conduct the inquest, the informant having left the deceased's body undisturbed on the cot where it had fallen - a sequence disclosing no unreasonable delay in lodging the FIR.

19. It was further submitted that the site plan corroborates the prosecution case, showing the recovery of three empty cartridges from the doorstep of the room where the assault occurred (marked X-1 to X-3). The informant's candid admission of having concealed himself in fear near a store of hay and of having heard six to seven shots is consistent with the total recovery of six empty cartridges from in and around the house - a circumstance lending support to the ocular account. As to the absence of villagers at the scene, it was submitted that the informant's house lay outside the village at a distance of six to seven bighas, or about one furlong, without close neighbours, as independently confirmed by the Investigating Officer.

20. It has further been submitted that the injured, Smt. Shyam Pyari, accompanied her father to the police station along with five to six other villagers and, in the absence of any ambulance facility, had to be carried to the police station on a cot. From the police station, she was sent for medical examination to the Primary Health Centre, Jasra, a fact duly deposed to by her before the trial court. The injured was medically examined by PW-2, Dr. A.K. Saxena, at PHC Jasra on 8.8.1985 at 4:30 a.m. In the meantime, the local police reached the place of occurrence along with the informant, and inquest proceedings over the body of the deceased were conducted. The informant has, in his statement, deposed that he had left the body of the deceased on the cot upon which the deceased had fallen after being shot by the appellant. It is submitted that there has been no unreasonable delay in lodging the First Information Report.

21. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that the site plan prepared during the investigation itself corroborates the prosecution case. It shows that three empty cartridges were recovered from the doorstep of the room where the deceased, Rajesh alias Mantey, was shot dead, and that the injured, Smt. Shyam Pyari, sustained firearm injuries. The said places of recovery are marked as X-1, X-2, and X-3 in the site plan. It was further pointed out that, in cross-examination, the informant candidly admitted that, out of fear for his life, he had concealed himself in a room used for storing hay (bhusa) during the occurrence, and that he heard about six to seven gunshots fired by the assailants. Learned A.G.A. submitted that the recovery of a total of six empty cartridges-three from within the house premises and three from outside the house-is consistent with and lends assurance to the prosecution version regarding the manner in which the incident unfolded, and constitutes a significant circumstance corroborating the ocular account of the prosecution witnesses.

22. As regards the submission that no villager came to the rescue of the informant or his family, the informant stated in his cross-examination that his house is situated outside the village, at a distance of about 6-7 bighas, and that the neighbouring houses are not in close proximity thereto-a fact independently corroborated by PW-8, the Investigating Officer, who deposed that the village population was situated about one furlong to the south of the place of occurrence.

23. The contention of learned counsel for the appellant that the First Information Report is ante-timed does not merit acceptance. The Court held that the FIR, inquest report, and the injured witness's injury report reflect a continuous and natural sequence of events immediately following the occurrence, with the injured witness taken straight for medical treatment and later referred for further management. Accordingly, her Section 161 statement was necessarily recorded only after her condition improved - a delay that, by itself, cannot suggest fabrication or an ante-timed report. The FIR was lodged within a short time of the incident, at 12:45 a.m., after the informant learnt from his injured daughter that the appellant was an assailant and ensured she was taken for treatment. PW-8's admission that he met the informant only after the FIR was lodged and that he had sent no constable to the scene beforehand was found wholly inconsistent with the suggestion of prior deliberation or consultation with the investigating agency. Reliance was placed on Thulia

Kali v. State of Tamil Nadu, Pala Singh v. State of Punjab, Ranbir v. State of Punjab, State of Uttar Pradesh v. Satish, and Marudanal Augusti v. State of Kerala, for the propositions that prompt lodging of an FIR lends assurance to the prosecution case, that delay becomes material only when unexplained or suggestive of embellishment, that delay in recording witness statements is not fatal absent shown prejudice or fabrication, and that an ante-timing allegation must rest on convincing evidence rather than conjecture or minor discrepancy.

24. The prosecution has also established the motive for the commission of the offence. The Court found the motive well established through PW-1's evidence of the appellant's earlier trespass with a country-made pistol, his apprehension and handover to the police, and the informant's evidence against him in the subsequent Arms Act case, despite the appellant's request that he not depose-? corroborated by PW-8's confirmation of that earlier case-? which gave the appellant deep-seated animosity towards the informant and a strong motive for the present offence. Where the occurrence is proved by reliable direct evidence, motive recedes in importance and matters more in cases of circumstantial evidence, citing Bikau Pandey v. State of Bihar, State of Uttar Pradesh v. Kishanpal, Sunil Clifford Daniel v. State of Punjab, Hari Shankar v. State of Uttar Pradesh, and Babu v. State of Kerala. It held that the present case rests on credible direct evidence and not on motive alone, though a plausible motive had, in any event, been established. In the present case, the prosecution has not only adduced reliable ocular evidence but has also established a plausible motive arising out of the previous hostility between the informant and the appellant.

25. On the submission that PW-1 was not an eyewitness and that his account was hearsay, PW-1's own testimony candidly distinguished between what he saw directly- the appellant approaching the room from his place of concealment - and what he learnt afterwards from PW-3 about the detailed manner of the assault inside the room; this was not a case of a witness falsely claiming a vantage point he did not have. Even treating PW-1's account of the precise assault as derivative, the prosecution case rested independently on the direct, first-hand testimony of PW-3, the injured eyewitness actually present in the room. The Court reiterated that a conviction may safely rest on a solitary witness found wholly reliable, with corroboration being a rule of prudence rather than law, and that an injured witness's testimony carries special evidentiary weight, since such a witness's presence at the scene is ordinarily beyond doubt and such a witness would not ordinarily let the real assailant escape to falsely implicate another- citing Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras (1957) 1 SCC 700, Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra (2007) 14 SCC 150, Jarnail Singh v. State of Punjab 1993 Supp (1) SCC 588, and Abdul Sayeed v. State of Madhya Pradesh (2010) 10 SCC 259. PW-3's account was found natural, consistent, and corroborated by the medical evidence, the recovered cartridges, and the promptly lodged FIR naming the appellant, with no material contradiction or inherent improbability warranting rejection.

26. The absence of independent local witnesses and the fact that no villager arrived during the incident were satisfactorily explained by the house's location outside the main habitation - six to seven bighas, or about one furlong, from the village, without close neighbours - as confirmed by both PW-1 and PW-8. A relationship with the victim does not, by itself, render a witness interested or require independent corroboration, particularly where, as here, the injured witness's testimony is found natural, consistent, and trustworthy, citing Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab (1997) 11 SCC 573 and Namdeo v. State of Maharashtra (2007) 14 SCC 150.

27. In the present case, the evidence of PW-3 is natural, consistent, and inspires confidence. She has consistently identified the appellant, Chhail Bihari, as the person who entered the house and fired the fatal shot at her brother, Rajesh alias Mantey, and also inflicted firearm injuries on her during the intervening night of 7/8 August 1985. Her account is corroborated by the medical evidence, which records gunshot injuries on her person and a fatal gunshot injury on the deceased, consistent with the manner of assault described by her; by the recovery of empty cartridges from the place of occurrence; and by the prompt lodging of the First Information Report naming the appellant. There is no material contradiction or inherent improbability in her testimony warranting its rejection.

28. The remaining submissions advanced on behalf of the appellant-namely, the non-recovery of the weapon of offence, the suggestion that the incident was in fact a dacoity, the non-examination of Dukhiya and Soni Lal, the alleged doubt over PW-3's presence at her parental home, and the alleged absence of blackening or tattooing around the gunshot wound on the deceased-do not create any reasonable doubt in the prosecution case in the absence of any defence evidence showing that the prosecution's evidence is biased and untrustworthy.

29. The non-recovery of the firearm is not, by itself, fatal where the prosecution has otherwise placed cogent evidence on record connecting the appellant with the offence, including the recovery of six empty cartridges-three from inside the house and three from outside-at the very places indicated by the site plan and consistent with the ocular account. The suggestion that a dacoity, rather than a targeted assault, had taken place remains a bare suggestion put to the witnesses in cross-examination, unsupported by any evidence on record. It cannot be permitted to displace the direct testimony of the injured eyewitness. The non-examination of Dukhni and Soni Lal does not weaken the prosecution case, since their evidence, even if led, would at best have been cumulative to that of PW-1 and PW-3, and the prosecution is not obliged to multiply witnesses on the same point once a reliable injured eyewitness has deposed to the occurrence. The suggestion that PW-3 could not have been present at her parental home on account of her marriage remains an unsubstantiated assertion, not established by any evidence brought on record by the defence, and does not detract from her direct and consistent testimony regarding her presence at the time of the incident. Similarly, the alleged absence of blackening or tattooing on the deceased's gunshot wound, without more, does not so contradict the ocular account as to render it unreliable. Minor variances of this nature between the medical and ocular evidence are not sufficient to discredit otherwise cogent and trustworthy testimony unless they go to the root of the matter. Likewise, the circumstance that PW-8, the Investigating Officer, recorded PW-3 as having told him that the appellant fired at her after entering the room, whereas the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, states that the first shot was fired from the doorway, is a minor variation as to the precise point from which the appellant fired the first shot. It does not affect the substratum of the prosecution case, namely, that the appellant entered the house and shot both the injured and the deceased, a fact consistently and reliably established by the direct testimony of PW-3.

30. In light of the foregoing discussion, this Court finds that the prosecution has established the appellant's guilt beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of PW-3, Smt. Shyam Pyari, the injured eyewitness, inspires confidence and is duly corroborated by the medical evidence, the prompt lodging of the First Information Report, the recoveries made during the course of the investigation, and the surrounding circumstances. The evidence of PW-1, Ayodhya Prasad, also supports the prosecution case. The previous enmity between the parties, arising out of the earlier criminal case in which the informant had apprehended the appellant and deposed against him, furnishes a cogent motive for the commission of the offence, though the case itself rests on reliable direct evidence and not merely on motive.

31. The submissions advanced on behalf of the appellant regarding the alleged ante-dating of the First Information Report, the non-recovery of the weapon of offence, the non-examination of certain witnesses, and the hostility of PW-5 do not create any reasonable doubt in the prosecution case. These circumstances neither demolish the otherwise cogent and trustworthy ocular evidence nor outweigh the consistent medical and documentary evidence on record.

32. It is well settled that a conviction can safely be based on the testimony of a single injured eyewitness, provided that the eyewitness is wholly reliable. In the present case, the evidence of PW-3 is natural, consistent, and inspires confidence. There is no material contradiction or inherent improbability that warrants its rejection. Consequently, this Court finds no reason to take a view different from that of the learned trial court.The contention raised by learned counsel for the appellant that the treating doctor at Baily hospital . Where the injured Smt Shyam Pyari had been admitted has not been examined would affect the credibility of prosecution case carries no weight.It is well-settled that medical evidence is primarily corroborative in nature. The substantive evidence remains the testimony of eyewitnesses. in criminal cases involving hurt/grievous hurt under the IPC and in MACT/workmen's compensation claims), courts have consistently held that non-examination of the treating doctor does not by itself destroy the prosecution's or claimant's case, provided the injury report (MLC/wound certificate) has been duly proved - either by the EMO who first examined the victim, or by another doctor familiar with the author's handwriting/signature who can authenticate the document. In State of M.P. v. Dayal Sahu, AIR 2005 SC 3570 - Supreme Court held that non-examination of the doctor and non-production of the medical report is not fatal to the prosecution if the testimony of the injured/victim and other witnesses inspires confidence. Corroboration by medical evidence is a rule of prudence, not a rule of law. Furthermore,non-examination of the doctor is not fatal if the injury report is proved and corroborated by other reliable evidence. In the present case, the injury report stands proved, by PW-2 Dr. A.K.Saxena, EMO, PHC ,Jasra and is corroborated by eyewitness testimony. No prejudice is shown to have been caused to the defence. Accordingly, the ground urged by the appellant is devoid of merit.

33. The judgment of conviction and the order of sentence passed by the learned trial court do not suffer from any illegality, perversity, or infirmity warranting interference by this Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction.

34. The appeal, being devoid of merit, is accordingly dismissed. The conviction of the appellant, Chhail Bihari, under Sections 302 and 307 of the Indian Penal Code, together with the sentences awarded thereunder, is hereby affirmed.

35. The appellant is on bail. His bail bonds are cancelled, and the sureties are discharged. He is directed to surrender before the court concerned within four weeks of today to serve the remaining sentence awarded to him. If the appellant fails to surrender within the aforesaid period, the court concerned shall take immediate and effective steps to secure his arrest and commit him to prison to serve the sentence in accordance with law. Let the lower court record be transmitted forthwith to the court concerned for compliance.

THE HON'BLE SANJIV KUMAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2541 of 1987

Deshraj & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a quarrel over cutting moonj in the field, during which Desh Raj allegedly fired a country-made pistol, while Bahadur inflicted a knife injury on Kaushal, resulting in their conviction under sections 307 read with 34 IPC.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 307/34 –Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)- Probation of Offenders Act,1958-Section 4-Attempt to murder-Intention to kill-Absence of premeditation, single injury, no fracture and no repeated attack showing absence of intention to kill-Conviction u/s 307/34 IPC modified to u/s 324/34 IPC; Evidence-Hostile witness-supporting portion of testimony, when corroborated by other evidence, can be relied upon-Probation of Offenders Act,1958-Section 4-Incident 42 years old, appeal pending for about 39 years and no criminal antecedents-appellants released on probation-Allowed partly.(Para 36 to 40) (E-6)

Held

The prosecution proved the appellants' participation in causing the injury, but the evidence did not establish the requisite intention to kill, having regard to the single simple injury, absence of fracture, lack of premeditation and absence of repeated assault, conviction under section 307/34 was modified to Section 324/34. In view of the incident being more than 42 years old, prolonged pendency of the appeal and absence of criminal antecedents, the appellants were extended the benefit of Section 4, Probation of Offenders Act,1958 and released on probation.

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. – 2541 of 1987
Deshraj & Ors Vs. State of U.P.
From the Judgment and order dated 03.07.2026 of the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for the parties

Advs. for Appellant(s):
Akhilesh Singh, Brij Raj Singh, Shivam Yadav
Adv. for Respondent(s):-

1. This appeal has been filed under Section 374 (2) Code of Criminal Procedure 1973, (in short Cr.P.C.), by appellants Desh Raj and Bahadur, against the judgment and order dated 26.10.1987, passed by Mr. Swaroop Lal, V Additional Sessions Judge, Mainpuri, in Sessions Trial No.76 of 1986 (State Vs. Desh Raj and Another), arising out of Case Crime No.172 of 1984, under Section 307 read with 34 Indian Penal Code,1860, (in short I.P.C.), Police Station- Allau, District- Mainpuri.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, dated 26.10.1987, the learned trial court has acquitted co-accused Kali Charan and convicted both the appellants for offence punishable under Section 307 read with 34 IPC and sentenced them to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of 4 years and a fine of Rs. 500/- each in default of payment of fine they were further directed to undergo three months rigorous imprisonment.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that Raghuveer son of Subedar, resident of Village- Summerpur, Police Station- Allau, District- Mainpuri, submitted a written application dated 25.11.1984 (Ext. Ka.1), before Police Station- Kotwali, District- Mainpuri, stating therein that his field is adjacent to Kali Charan□s field and there is moonj (wild grass) growing over the intervening boundary of both the fields. Today i.e. on 25.11.1984 at about 01:30 p.m. accused Bahadur and Desh Raj both sons of Kali Charan and Kali Charan son of unknown, resident of Nagla Hariram, Mauja- Veerpur Kala, Police Station- Allau, District- Mainpuri started cutting moonj. The first informant□s nephew Kaushal @ Rajesh was in his field where gram was sown and he alongwith Daya Ram and Ram Naresh were weeding the chickpeas crop. Kaushal @ Rajesh objected for cutting moonj thereupon, the accused Desh Raj fired at him with country-made pistol, with the intention to kill, his nephew bent and lied down as a result he escaped unhurt. In the meantime, accused Bahadur struck knife over his back causing him injuries. The first informant was in his field and he himself, Daya Ram and Ram Naresh challenged the accused, whereupon they ran towards the village. He alongwith other villagers has brought his nephew on cot to District Hospital- Mainpuri, where he was admitted in serious condition. Due to the fear from accused he is afraid of going to Police Station- Allau. Upon this information, FIR under Case Crime No. Nil, Section 307 IPC, was lodged at Police Station- Kotwali, District- Mainpuri and the FIR was forwarded to Police Station- Allau, where it was written down under Case Crime No. 172 of 1984, Section 307 IPC. The investigation was carried out by S.I. Manik Chand, who recorded the statements of the first informant, the injured and other witnesses. The injured was medically examined on 25.11.1984 at about 04:50 p.m. in District Hospital- Mainpuri. One incised wound over right side back of chest was found with margins clear cut, everted and fresh bleeding was present. In the opinion of the doctor the injury was caused by a sharp cutting weapon and the duration was fresh. X-Ray was advised and in X- Ray no fracture was found and the injury was opined as simple in nature.

4. The investigation officer inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan (Ext. Ka-8), and after concluding the investigation he filed charge-sheet against all the three accused, under Section 307 IPC, before the concerned court.

5. The court concerned took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared before the court and copies of relevant prosecution papers were furnished to them under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

6. Before the Sessions court, the accused appeared and charge under Section 307 read with 34 IPC was framed against Desh Raj, Bahadur and Kali Charan. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution examined nine prosecution witnesses, to wit, P.W.1 Dr. B.P. Bansal; P.W. 2 Raghuveer Chandra; P.W.3 Ram Naresh; P.W.4 Daya Ram; P.W. 5 Lakshmi Chandra; P.W. 6 Narain Singh; P.W.7 Constable Jagdish Chandra Mishra; P.W.8 S.I. Vishwanath and P.W.9 S.I. Manik Chandra, to prove its case.

8. P.W. 1 Dr. B.P. Bansal, is the formal witness who has medically examined injured Rajesh Kumar at District Hospital, Mainpuri on 25.11.1984 at 04:50 p.m. and found following injuries over his body:-

(i) An incised wound measuring 3cm x 1 cm x 3cm deep over back side of chest to the right of backbone, 2 cm outer side and 11.5 cm x below right of acromion process vertically placed. The margins were clear cut and everted, fresh bleeding was present. Advised X-Ray.

In his opinion the injury was caused by any sharp edged weapon and it was fresh. P.W.1 has proved injury report as Ext. Ka.1 and has said that this injury could have been caused by knife on 25.11.1984 at about 01:00 p.m.

9. In his cross-examination, he has said that this injury is not possible by any nail and if a piece of glass having a shape of knife is struck then this injury is possible.

10. P.W. 2 Raghuveer Chandra, is the first informant, who has supported the prosecution case and has said that injured Kausal @ Rajesh is his nephew. On the date of incident at 04:10 p.m. he himself was working in field and Kaushal was weeding sweet peas alongwith Ram Naresh and Daya Ram in his field. There was moonj growing over the boundary of their fields to which the accused started cutting. When he and Kaushal objected to it, Desh Raj fired at his nephew with a country-made pistol. He lied on the ground, as a result he escaped unhurt. Accused Bahadur struck knife over back of Kaushal. The first informant, Ram Naresh and Daya Ram challenged the accused, thereupon they ran away towards village. They took Kaushal to District Hospital on a cot and he got the application written from Lakshmi Chandra, thereafter he put signature over it. The witness has proved application as Ext. Ka.2 and has said that he lodged the FIR.

11. P.W. 3 Ram Naresh, is the eye-witness of the alleged incident. He has supported the prosecution case and has said that the injured is now not alive. About two years ago at about 01:00 p.m. the injured was weeding his field with him and Daya Ram. Raghuveer Chandra was working in his field. There was moonj growing over the boundary of their fields which the accused started cutting. Kaushal had also reached there, but he did not see any person hitting him. The witness has been declared hostile and has been cross-examined by the prosecution.

12. P.W. 4 Daya Ram, is also one of the public witness of the alleged incident and has also not supported the prosecution case and has said that now the injured is not alive. On the date of incident at about 11 a.m.-12:00 p.m., some quarrel took place but he did not see any person hitting the injured.

13. P.W. 5 Lakshmi Chandra, has said that on the date of incident at about 01:00 p.m. Kaushal was lying in injured condition in Kali Charan□s field, there was wound over his back caused by knife. He was taken to District Hospital, Mainpuri by Raghuveer and 6-7 persons and was admitted there. Raghuveer Singh got the application written from him. He wrote down the application upon his dictation, thereafter, the first informant put his signature over it. In the Hospital, Kaushal was conscious and has said that Bahadur has struck him with knife.

14. P.W. 6 Constable Narain Singh, is the formal witness who has scribed chik FIR, upon application of the first informant and entered its gist in G.D. No.54, time 02:30 p.m. The witness has proved chik FIR (Ext. Ka.2) and copy of G.D. (Ext. Ka.3).

15. P.W.7 Constable Jagdish Chandra Mishra, is also a formal witness who has stated that on 01.02.1985 he was posted as Head Moharir at Police Station- Allau and on that day, blood-stained clothes and Baniyan (vest) of injured Kaushal @ Rajesh were deposited by Lakshmi Chandra. He took them in possession and prepared its fard baramadagi. The witness has proved clothes as Material Exts. 2 and 3, in court.

16. P.W.8 S.I. Vishwanath, is the second Investigating Officer of the case and has said that prior to him, the S.O. Manik Chandra has investigated the case and after his transfer he took over the investigation. He has stated about the investigation carried out by him and has said that the statement of injured was recorded on 15.02.1985 and he collected his injury report. The witness has proved statement of injured recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as Ext. Ka.4. He collected report from the concerned doctor under whom the injured was under treatment and has proved the report as Ext. Ka.5. After investigation, he submitted charge-sheet which he proved as Ext. Ka.6. Till submission of charge-sheet the injured has not died, but he was admitted in hospital. It is not mentioned in the case diary when the injured has died.

17. P.W. 9 S.I. Manik Chandra, is the first Investigating Officer of the case. He has said about the investigation carried out by him and as a secondary witness of the Head Moharir, who has scribed G.D., proved G.D. as Ext. Ka.7. He has proved the site-plan (Ext. Ka.8) and thereafter he was transferred.

18. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they admitted that accused Kali Charan is the father of the accused Bahadur and Desh Raj and Kali Charan□s field is adjacent to the informant- Raghuveer's field. It is also admitted that on 25.11.1984, moonj was growing over intervening boundary of their respective fields.

They have said that the Kaushal has not died due to the injuries and after reaching home from the hospital, he died due to illness after about 13-14 months of the incident.

19. The accused have not produced any evidence in defence.

20. After hearing argument on behalf of learned Counsel for the parties and perusal of evidence on record, the learned trial court came to the conclusion that prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, so far as appellants Bahadur and Desh Raj are concerned. It is proved that they attempted to kill injured Kaushal @ Rajesh in furtherance of their common intention. The co-accused Kali Charan was given benefit of doubt and was acquitted and accordingly, both the appellants were found guilty and hence, convicted and sentenced for offence punishable under Section 307 read with 34 IPC, for the term as indicated above.

21. Heard Shri Brij Raj Singh, learned Counsel for the surviving appellants and Shri Akhilesh Kumar Mishra, learned A.G.A on behalf of the State and perused the material on record.

22. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellants that the public witnesses have turned hostile and have not supported the prosecution case. The first informant is the relative and interested witness of the injured. The injured has not been examined, as he has died. There is no motive for the appellants to commit this crime. It is also submitted that the clothes were not sent for forensic examination, therefore, in absence of any forensic report the prosecution case is weak and not reliable. In view of the above, the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the learned trial court failed to appreciate the evidence on record correctly, therefore, the impugned judgment and order is liable to be set aside and the appellants deserve to be acquitted.

23. Per contra, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State has submitted that prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It is a day light incident based on direct evidence. The first informant is the eye-witness and has supported the prosecution case. P.W. 5 Lakshmi Chandra reached at the place of occurrence soon after the incident and he found the injured lying in the injured condition at the place of occurrence. The FIR was lodged promptly. The oral testimony is supported with medical evidence. The lapse on the part of the Investigation Officer for not sending the blood-stained clothes, of the injured, for forensic examination is not fatal to the prosecution case, as it is settled law that if the case is proved otherwise, then defective investigation would have no bearing over the prosecution case.

24. It is settled law that in a criminal case the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, the alleged incident took place on 25.11.1984 at 01:00 p.m. in the field under Village- Summerpur, Police Station- Alau, District- Mainpuri and the FIR was lodged by P.W.2 Raghuveer Chandra, the same day at about 10:30 p.m. at Police Station- Kotwali. The distance from the place of occurrence to police station is sixteen kilometers, as per the chik FIR. Thus, within nine and a half hour the FIR was lodged by the first informant and it is stated by him that after the incident he with the help of villagers brought his nephew, the injured Kaushal @ Rajesh, on cot to the District Hospital-Mainpuri, where he was admitted in serious condition. He has also stated that due to the fear from the accused he was afraid of going to Police Station- Allau to lodge the FIR. He has said that he got the application written from P.W. 5 Lakshmi Chandra who supported the version of the first informant that he wrote it down at the dictation of first informant Rahugveer in Hospital. P.W.6, Constable Narain Singh, is the scribe of the chik FIR and the gist which he wrote down in concerned G.D.. Therefore, all the above evidence goes to show that the FIR was lodged promptly, without any undue delay and the appellants have also not raised any such issue in this regard.

25. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, it is the field in Village- Summerpur, Police Station- Alau, District- Mainpuri. P.W.2 Raghuveer Chandra, P.W.5 Lakshmi Chandra, have supported the prosecution case that the incident occurred at the place as alleged by the prosecution. The Investigation Officer has also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan which shows the same place of occurrence. Even P.W.3 Ram Naresh, who is the hostile witness has also stated that altercation took place between the injured and accused with regard to cutting moonj over the intervening boundary of their respective fields. It is submitted on behalf of learned Counsel for the appellant that the place of occurrence is not established because no blood was found at the spot. I do not agree with this submission because there is no case and also there is no evidence that the blood had fallen on the ground at the time of incident. Therefore, in absence of any blood at the spot, it cannot be doubted that the incident has not occurred at the place as alleged by the prosecution. The Investigation Officer has stated that when he investigated the place of occurrence, he found shara moola (roots of moonj) at the place of occurrence. The defence has also not suggested any other alternative place of occurrence. In view of the above, the place of occurrence is fully established.

26. So far as the ocular evidence is concerned, the prosecution has examined four witnesses to prove the fact. In this regard, P.W.2 Raghuveer Chandra is the uncle of the injured Kaushal @ Rajesh and he has fully supported the prosecution case. There are no material contradictions in his statement. His testimony is consistent and thus reliable and trustworthy. He has said that when accused Bahadur, Desh Raj and Kali Charan started cutting the moonj, his nephew Kaushal objected to it. Then Desh Raj fired at him with country-made pistol to which he escaped unhurt, thereafter, appellant Bahadur struck knife over the back of his chest and when he challenged the accused they fled away from the spot. This witness has been cross-examined at length, but nothing material has come in his evidence which would discreet his evidence. He has said that he was ploughing his field, at the time of incident. He admitted the injured in hospital, thereafter, he lodged the FIR. All the three accused were cutting moonj with hasiya (sickle). The altercation took place and then Bahadur dropped hasiya and pulled out a knife from the pocket. He went to the Police Station alone. Therefore, P.W.2 Raghuveer Chandra has fully supported the prosecution case.

27. P.W. 3 Ram Naresh, is the hostile witness, but he has supported the prosecution case to the extent that at the time of incident the injured and other witnesses were present in the filed and there was moonj growing over the intervening boundary of the first informant and accused Kali Charan. The accused came there to cut moonj, to which Kaushal objected. The witness has not supported the other part of the prosecution case and has said that he has not seen who caused injuries. It is settled law that the evidence of a hostile witness would not be rejected outrightly and that part of his testimony, which supports the prosecution case and finds corroboration from other evidence can be relied upon. Therefore, P.W. 3 Ram Naresh, has supported the prosecution case to the extent that at the time of incident the accused were cutting the moonj and the injured had objected to it.

28. P.W. 4 Daya Ram is the hostile witness, he has not supported the prosecution case and has said that the quarrel had taken place but he did not see any person causing injuries.

29. P.W. 5 Lakshmi Chandra is the witness who has said that he reached at the place of occurrence soon after the incident. He saw the injured lying in Kali Charan's field, having wound over his back, caused by a knife. He has said that thereafter, the injured was taken to the hospital and was admitted there. He wrote down the application at the dictation of first informant Raghuveer Singh. He has also said that the Kaushal was conscious at the hospital and said that the Bahadur had struck him with knife. This witness has also been cross-examined at length but nothing material has come in his testimony to discredit him. His testimony is fully consistent and reliable.

30. In view of the above discussion, the prosecution has been able to prove its case that appellants started cutting moonj, then the injured Kaushal @ Rajesh objected to it then the appellant Bahadur struck a knife over his back causing him injuries.

31. In the present case, the injured Kaushal @ Rajesh has not been examined as before his examination in court, he died. The prosecution has proved his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and prosecution has tried to prove it for the purpose that it be admitted in evidence as his dying declaration under Section 32 of Evidence Act. This statement, which is recorded under Section 161 Cr.p.C. and is proved by the I.O., does not fall in the category of dying declaration because the prosecution has not been able to prove that the deceased has died due to the above injuries. The prosecution has not filed any evidence, when the injured has died or what was the cause of his death. On the other hand, the defence has said that the injured has died after about 13-14 months from the date of incident due to illness and not due to the injuries caused to him in this incident. Therefore, the statement of injured recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. does not fall within the category of Section 32 Evidence Act as dying declaration and thus, not reliable.

32. As the injured has died, so he could not be examined by the prosecution and as discussed above from the statement of witnesses of fact the prosecution has been able to prove its case against the appellants, therefore, non-examination of injured Kaushal @ Rajesh have no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

33. So far as the oral and medical evidence is concerned, as per the statement of Dr B.P. Bansal, he medically examined injured Kaushal @ Rajesh and found one incised wound over the back of chest which is caused by any sharp cutting edge. It has come in oral evidence that appellant Bahadur had struck knife over the back of chest of the injured causing him injuries and it is well known that the knife is a sharp cutting instrument. Therefore, oral testimony is fully supported by medical evidence.

34. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellants that there was no motive for the appellants to commit the crime and in absence of any such motive, prosecution case is not reliable. I do not agree with this submission, because in a case based on direct evidence, the motive looses its significance. Beside this, the motive is a state of mind of a person which cannot be judged from outside. As from the direct evidence prosecution has proved its case, therefore, absence of any motive does not have any adverse effect over the prosecution case.

35. In view of the above discussion, I come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case, that on 25.11.1984 at about 01:00 p.m. in village Summerpur, Police Station- Allau, District-Mainpuri, the appellants Bahadur and Desh Raj, in furtherance of their common intention, struck knife over the back of chest of Kaushal @ Rajesh causing him injuries. The I.O. has not found trace of any fire shot from pistol at the place of occurrence. Only evidence is that appellant Bahadur struck knife over the back of chest of Kaushal @ Rajesh and the altercation took place due to cutting of moonj. There is no evidence that the appellants had any previous enmity against the first informant or the injured. There is also no evidence that the appellants have any criminal history. There is no evidence that the attack was premeditated. The injury report of the injured shows that he sustained only one injury of the nature of incised wound over the back of his chest. X-Ray was performed and no fracture was found. In the opinion of the doctor, the injury was simple in nature. There is also no evidence that the appellants tried to attack the injured again. On the other hand, they ran away from the spot upon alarm raised by the witnesses. It goes to show that the appellants had no intention to kill the injured Kaushal @ Rajesh.

36. In view of the above, the learned trial court has reached at the right conclusion of the guilt of the appellants, but, so far as conviction and sentence under Section 307 read with 34 IPC is concerned, it deserves to be modified, because, the act of the appellants was not of such a nature that they have had any intention to kill the injured and the nature of injury also does not support the prosecution case that the act committed would fall under the category of attempt to murder. In my view, the offence falls under Section 324 IPC and not under Section 307 read with 34 IPC.

37. In view of the above discussion, the appellants Bahadur and Desh Raj are held guilty of offence punishable under Section 324 read with 34 IPC and the conviction of the appellants, by the learned trial court, under Section 307 read with 34 IPC, is modified and the appellants are convicted under Section 324 read with 34 IPC.

38. So far as the sentence part of the appellants is concerned, it is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellants that they have no criminal history and the appeal is pending since last about 39 years. At present, they are very old persons having no money an are suffering with age related ailments, therefore it is pleaded that the appellants be given the benefit of Section 4 of first offender under Probation of Offenders Act,1958.

39. Looking into the facts and circumstances of the case, it is noteworthy to note that the incident had taken place way back in the year 1984, which is more than 42 years ago and this appeal is pending since last about 39 years. There is no criminal antecedents of the appellants. It appears that the incident took place without any pre-mediation of the mind and had started at the spur of moment, therefore, looking into the entire facts and circumstances of the case, the appellants deserve to be given the benefit of Section 4 of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 and Section 360 Cr.P.C.

40. In view of the above discussion, this appeal is allowed in part and the impugned judgment and order is modified to the extent that the appellants Bahadur and Desh Raj are held guilty of Section 324 read with 34 IPC, and instead of sentencing them to imprisonment, they are given the benefit of Section 4 of Probation of Offenders Act, 1958. Therefore, the appellants, to wit, Desh Raj and Bahadur are released on probation and it is directed that they would file a personal bond each of Rs.20,000/- and two sureties of the like amount before District Probation Officer, concerned, and also an undertaking to the effect that they will maintain good behavior during the period of one year from the date of release. The said bonds shall be filed by the appellants within two weeks from the date of this judgment. In case of breach of any of the above conditions, the appellants shall be called and heard on quantum of sentence.

41. Let a copy of this judgment alongwith record of the trial court be returned to court concerned for information and necessary compliance.

Dharmendra Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether conviction under Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 IPC and S. 25 of the Arms Act,1959 can be sustained where the witnesses of fact have turned hostile, the recovery of the looted property is proved through police witnesses in the absence of independent public witnesses, and the prosecution relies upon the recovery, evidentiary value of the First Information Report and other corroborative evidence, and whether the conviction under S. 25 of the Arms Act,1959 is sustainable when the recovered firearm and cartridges were neither sent for expert examination nor tested for their workable condition. (Paras 18-58)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 - Arms Act,1959 - S. 25 - Evidence - Hostile witnesses - First Information Report - Evidentiary value - Informant turning hostile - Held, merely because the informant turned hostile, it cannot be said or presumed that the First Information Report has lost its relevancy and cannot be looked into for any purpose - Where registration of the First Information Report was duly and legally verified and testified to and other admissible, cogent and reliable evidence supported the prosecution case, the written report remained relevant, trustworthy and firmly supported the prosecution story. (Paras 25-38)

Criminal Law - Evidence - Recovery - Police witnesses - Independent witnesses - Absence of independent or public witness - Held, there is no rule of law which stipulates that testimony of police personnel as recovery witnesses cannot be relied upon without corroboration from independent public witnesses - Police personnel are also responsible citizens of the country and merely because recovery witnesses happen to be police personnel, their reliable, trustworthy and creditworthy testimonies cannot be disbelieved or discredited - Where their evidence inspires confidence and is found trustworthy and reliable, conviction can be safely recorded on the sole testimony of police witnesses. (Paras 39-51)

Criminal Law - Evidence - Recovery of looted property - Rs. 1,25,000/- and personal articles - Immediate recovery from possession of accused - Motive - Premeditation and prior concert - Held, arrest immediately after the incident near the place of occurrence and recovery of the looted amount of Rs. 1,25,000/- clearly proved and established the motive behind the commission of the alleged crime - Recovery of the looted amount and other articles, coupled with the evidence of prosecution witnesses, established active role with premeditation, a pre-arranged plan and prior concert. (Paras 40-48, 53-55)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 - Appreciation of evidence - Benefit of doubt - Accused not arrested from place of occurrence and no incriminating material recovered - Presence at place of occurrence highly doubtful - Conviction unsustainable - Benefit of doubt extended and accused acquitted. (Paras 57-61)

Criminal Law - Arms Act,1959 - S. 25 - Recovery of 12-bore tamancha and three cartridges - Firearm not sent for expert examination - Firearm not personally tested for workable condition - Prosecution failed to establish whether recovered firearm and cartridges were used in commission of alleged crime - Conviction under S. 25 of the Arms Act bad in the eyes of law and contrary to settled legal principles - Conviction set aside and accused acquitted of said charge. (Para 56)

Criminal Law - Indian Penal Code,1860 - Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 - Evidence properly appreciated against accused - Conviction well-founded - Conviction and sentence affirmed. (Paras 58, 62-64)

Held: The informant having turned hostile does not by itself render the First Information Report irrelevant and the written report remains relevant, trustworthy and firmly supports the prosecution story where its registration is duly and legally verified and other evidence is available - the evidence of police witnesses cannot be doubted or discarded merely on the ground that they belong to the police force and where their evidence inspires confidence and their testimony is found to be trustworthy and reliable, there is no justification to disbelieve them and conviction can be safely recorded based on the sole testimony of police witnesses - the arrest immediately after the incident near the place of occurrence and recovery of the looted amount of Rs. 1,25,000/- and other personal articles belonging to the deceased clearly proved and established the recovery and established the motive behind the commission of the alleged crime - the evidence established that the accused persons were well-acquainted with the fact that the deceased regularly visited Moradabad to collect payments and the substantial sum of Rs. 1,25,000/- provided the motive to loot the deceased - the evidence further established premeditation, a pre-arranged plan and prior concert and the active role of the accused in the commission of the alleged crime - there was no material fact elicited by the defence to cast doubt on the presence and testimony of the recovery witnesses and their testimonies fully corroborated and supported each other - the defence evidence failed to establish the alleged false arrest and there was no substance or relevance in the evidence of the defence witness - however, where an accused could not be arrested from the place of occurrence and no incriminating materials were recovered from his possession, his presence at the place of occurrence was highly doubtful and the benefit of doubt was required to be extended to him - in respect of the firearm charge, although one 12-bore tamancha and three 12-bore cartridges were recovered, the recovered tamancha and cartridges were not sent for expert examination and the investigating officer did not personally test whether the recovered tamancha was in a workable condition and consequently the recovered tamancha and cartridges could not be connected with the alleged crime and the prosecution failed to establish whether the recovered 12-bore tamancha along with three 12-bore cartridges was used in the commission of the alleged crime or not and therefore the conviction under S. 25 of the Arms Act was bad in the eyes of law and contrary to settled legal principles and was unsustainable in the eyes of law - the conviction under Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 of the IPC was well-founded and liable to be affirmed whereas the conviction under S. 25 of the Arms Act was liable to be set aside and the benefit of doubt was extended in respect thereof. Case Arising From

APPELLATE JURISDICTION: Criminal Appeal against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 9, Moradabad in Sessions Trial No. 1037 of 1996, arising out of Case Crime No. 612 of 1995, under Ss. 302/34, 394 and 411 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District Moradabad, and in Sessions Trial No. 1038 of 1996, arising out of Case Crime No. 613 of 1995, under S. 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Moradabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:
Shri Ashok Kumar Mishra and Shri Krishna Kant Tiwari
Advs. for the Respondents:
Shri G.N. Kanaujia, learned A.G.A.-Ist for the respondent-State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ashok Kumar Mishra and Shri Krishna Kant Tiwari, learned counsel for the appellants, and Shri G.N. Kanaujia, learned A.G.A.-Ist for the respondent-State and perused the record.

2. Both these criminal appeals, bearing Criminal Appeal No. 2718 of 2008 and Criminal Appeal No. 2075 of 2008, have been filed by appellants Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh, respectively, against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 9, Moradabad in Sessions Trial No. 1037 of 1996 (State vs. Dharmendra Singh and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 612 of 1995 (Case Crime No. 911 of 1995) under Sections 302/34, 394 & 411 IPC, P.S. Kotwali, District- Moradabad. Further, Criminal Appeal No. 2718 of 2008 (Dharmendra Singh vs. State of U.P.) has also been filed against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 9, Moradabad in Sessions Trial No.1038 of 1996 (State vs. Dharmendra) arising out of Case Crime No. 613 of 1996, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Kotwali, District Moradabad.

3. Brief facts of the case as revealed in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), which has been lodged by informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2) are that Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad, a resident of Mohalla Chhata Bazar, Police Station Town, Muzaffarpur (Bihar), sells raw materials, to collect payment for which he frequently visits Moradabad, and had currently come to Moradabad for the same purpose. On dated 22.12.1995, after collecting approximately Rs.1,25,000/- from the traders of Moradabad, such as, Sachin, Mohd. Nasir, Rajesh Metal, Ishwar and Ibrahim, Pappu was heading back to his home. Due to huge amount and sympathy, informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), Surendra Kumar S/o Harkishan, a resident of Jigar Colony near Damdama Kothi, P.S. Civil Lines, District Moradabad, were going to drop Pappu at the Moradabad Railway Station on a rickshaw. They left the rickshaw on the main road near the eastern gate of the Moradabad Railway Station. Right there on the road, at around 3:45 P.M., Dharmendra Singh, Sher Singh and Charan Singh started snatching the suitcase (attache) from Pappu's hands. While scuffling over the suitcase (attache), they moved near the railway boundary wall. When they raised an alarm and resisted, Sher

Singh shot Pappu in the chest. Dharmendra Singh immediately snatched the suitcase (attache) from the hands of Pappu and fled with the snatched suitcase. Upon hearing the commotion, Rajesh Kumar and several other people arrived, and with their help, Dharmendra Singh was caught red handed along with the looted suitcase, while Sher Singh and Charan Singh escaped through the railway tracks. Pappu fell down in front of the ticket counter passenger hall and died. Dharmendra Singh is in police custody along with the looted suitcase, and the police are conducting the necessary legal paperwork.

4. On the basis of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), a First Information Report (Exhibit Ka-23) was registered against Dharmendra Singh, Sher Singh and Charan Singh as Case Crime No. 612 of 1995, under Sections 302, 394 and 411 I.P.C. at Police Station G.R.P. Moradabad, District Moradabad, on 22.12.1995, at about 16:30 hours, by Yashpal Singh (PW-14). S.H.O. Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), P.S. G.R.P., District Moradabad, who was on duty in a routine checking, on hearing hue and cry, rushed towards the direction from where the noise of people was coming and caught appellant Dharmendra Singh red-handed with a suitcase (attache), before he could climb and cross the railway bridge going towards Ramtalaiya at about 4:00 P.M. S.H.O. Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), recovered a 12-bore desi tamancha from the left pocket of the pant of appellant Dharmendra Singh, and from the pocket of the kurta, three live cartridges of 12-bore were also recovered.

5. The case was handed over to S.I. Laxmichandra Upadhyay (PW-7), for investigation. Investigating Officer Laxmichandra Upadhyay (PW-7), prepared panchayatnama of the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad as (Exhibit Ka-22). He also prepared other necessary police papers relating to panchayatnama such as letter to R.I. (Exhibit Ka-6), letter to C.M.O. (Exhibit Ka-7), the report to Medical Officer (Exhibit Ka-8), photolash (Exhibit Ka-9), sample of seal (Exhibit Ka-10), the report to R.I. (Exhibit Ka-11), and challanlash (Exhibit Ka-12). After preparing the above necessary police papers, the dead body of the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad, was sent for postmortem examination. The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of Yashpal Singh (PW-14) and informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2). In the presence of witnesses Om Prakash and Shyam Mohan, Investigating Officer collected simple soil and blood-stained soil from the place of occurrence and prepared recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-13. He also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared site plan as Exhibit Ka-14. He inspected the place of occurrence on the pointing out of informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), and recorded statements of witnesses relating to the arrest of appellant Dharmendra Singh. After that, the case was handed over to Inspector D.K. Jain for investigation. However, after the transfer of Inspector D.K. Jain, the case was handed over to S.I. Suresh Chandra Sharma (PW-8). Suresh Chandra Sharma (PW-8), completed the investigation of the case and submitted a charge sheet, Exhibit Ka-15, against accused appellants Dharmendra Singh, Charan Singh, and Sher Singh under Sections 302, 394, and 411 I.P.C. in the Court of the concerned Magistrate having jurisdiction.

6. On the basis of recovery of an illegal tamancha along with three cartridges of 12-bore by S.I. Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) from the possession of appellant Dharmendra Singh, another case was registered as Case Crime No. 613 of 1995, under Section 25 of the Arms Act against the appellant Dharmendra Singh by Yashpal Singh (PW-14), as chik First Information Report (Exhibit Ka-16). After registration of the First Information Report under Section 25 of the Arms Act against appellant Dharmendra Singh, investigation of that case was handed over to S.I. Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9).

7. S.I. Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9), identified and proved the chik First Information Report as Exhibit Ka-16 and carbon copy of the G.D. as Exhibit Ka-17 in the handwriting and signatures of Head Moharrir Yashpal Singh, (PW-14). S.I. Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9), also obtained permission from the District Magistrate, Moradabad for the prosecution under Section 25 of the Arms Act against appellant Dharmendra Singh as Exhibit Ka-20. S.I. Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9), also prepared site plan as Exhibit Ka-18 and, after completing all the necessary formalities of the investigation, filed a charge sheet (Exhibit Ka-19) against appellant Dharmendra Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

8. S.I. Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), prepared recovery memo of the suitcase (attache) along with the other articles/objects, which were found inside the suitcase, recovered from the possession of the appellant Dharmendra Singh as Material Exhibit-4 to Material Exhibit-58. PW-1 also prepared recovery memo of tamancha along with three cartridges of 12-bore, recovered from the possession of the appellant Dharmendra Singh before recovery witnesses on 22.12.1995.

9. The body of the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad, was sent for post-mortem examination. Dr. Vijay Kumar Gopal (PW-3), who conducted the examination on 23.12.1995, prepared the post-mortem report, marked as Exhibit Ka-2. As per the said report, the following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:-

"(i) Gunshot wound of entry 1x1 cm size chest cavity deep, on front of right sided chest 2x1/2 cm below to the medial end of right clavicle, margins of wound are inverted with abraded collar, wound directing inwards and backwards, underneath pleura and lungs are perforated through and through, one and half litre free & clotted blood present in the chest cavity, one big metallic pellet (looking like bullet) recovered from the tissue side chest cavity.

(ii) Abrasion 1x1/2 cm on right knee front side.

Dr. Vijay Kumar Gopal (PW-3) opined that the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem gunshot (firearm) injuries.

10. After completing all the necessary formalities and recording the statements of witnesses, investigating officer Suresh Chandra Sharma (PW-8) submitted a charge sheet (Exhibit Ka-15) against accused Sher Singh and appellants Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh under Sections 302, 394 and 411 IPC in the Magistrate Court having jurisdiction. In respect of the Arms Act case, investigating officer Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9) also filed a charge sheet (Exhibit Ka-19) against appellant Dharmendra Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

11. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, the learned Magistrate Court committed the case to the Court of Session for trial.

12. Charges were framed against appellants, Dharmendra Singh, Charan Singh and accused Sher Singh on 14.10.1996 by the Trial Court under section 302/34 and 394 IPC. Charges were also framed against appellant Dharmendra Singh under section 411 IPC and under section 25 of the Arms Act on 14.10.1996. However, on 14.03.2008, an amended charge was framed by the Trial Court against appellant Dharmendra Singh under section 411 IPC. Against appellant Dharmendra Singh, an amended charge was also framed on 14.03.2008 under section 25 of the Arms Act by the Trial Court. The charges were read over to the accused persons, the accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed trial.

13. In support of its case, the prosecution adduced Hemant Kumar Mishra as PW-1, informant Suresh Kumar Khanna as PW-2, Dr. Vijay Kumar Gopal as PW-3, Suresh as PW-4, Ashok Kumar as PW-5, T.R. Kothari as PW-6, Laxmichandra Upadhyay as PW-7, Suresh Chandra Sharma as PW-8, Kailash Chandra Verma as PW-9, Mahendra Singh Tyagi as PW-10, Rajesh Kumar as PW-11, Surendra Kumar as PW-12, Om Prakash as PW-13, and Yashpal Singh as PW-14. Apart from the above oral evidence, the prosecution also relied upon documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-21. The prosecution further relied upon material exhibits from Exhibit-4 to Exhibit-58 in support of its case.

14. After the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses was completed before the Trial Court, accused-appellants Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh were examined under section 313 Cr.P.C. Appellants Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh answered all the questions put to them under section 313 CrPC in the negative. They denied all allegations and expressed their ignorance about the questions put to them. They also stated that they were falsely implicated in this case by the police. They further stated that they would adduce defence evidence, and in their defence, appellants Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh adduced Gajju Singh as DW-1.

15. It is worthwhile to mention here that during the pendency of the trial, accused Sher Singh had died. Due to the death of accused Sher Singh, the case was abated against him by the learned Trial Court, as revealed from the last paragraph at page six of the impugned judgment and order dated 27.03.2008.

16. After recording the evidence of the prosecution and defence, the Trial Court heard the arguments of both sides. After hearing the arguments, the Trial Court found the appellants, Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh, guilty of the alleged crime. The Trial Court convicted and sentenced Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh to rigorous life imprisonment under section 302/34 IPC, along with a fine of Rs. 2,000/- each. Both the appellants, Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh, were also convicted and sentenced under section 394 IPC for 10 years of rigorous imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs. 2,000/- each. In default of payment of the fine, both appellants, Charan Singh and Dharmendra Singh, were ordered to serve two years of rigorous imprisonment. Appellant Dharmendra Singh was also convicted and sentenced for three years of rigorous imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs. 2,000/- under section 411 IPC. In default of payment of the fine, appellant Dharmendra Singh was also sentenced to four months of additional rigorous imprisonment. Appellant Dharmendra Singh was also convicted and sentenced to one year of rigorous imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs. 500/- under section 25 of the Arms Act, and in case of default of payment of the fine, two months of rigorous imprisonment. All the sentences of the appellants were directed to run concurrently.

17. Aggrieved by the above impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court Number 9, Moradabad, appellant Dharmendra Singh filed Criminal Appeal No. 2718 of 2008, and appellant Charan Singh filed Criminal Appeal No. 2075 of 2008, before this Court.

18. Learned counsel for the appellants submitted that there is no reliable and trustworthy evidence against the appellants. The witnesses of fact, who are said to be the eyewitnesses of the case, such as, informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), Suresh (PW-4), Ashok Kumar (PW-5), Rajesh Kumar (PW-11), and Surendra Kumar (PW-12), have not supported the prosecution story before the Trial Court and they all turned hostile. Since informant Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2) turned hostile and has not supported the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the whole prosecution story fell on the ground. Due to this reason, there is no eyewitness evidence by which the prosecution could prove the case against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt. It is also submitted that the so-called suitcase (attache) of the deceased, which was recovered by the police from the possession of the appellant Dharmendra Singh, could not find support from the evidence of any independent recovery witness. All independent recovery witnesses turned hostile and have not supported the recovery of the suitcase (attache) and any articles/objects found inside of it, relating to the deceased from the possession of the appellant Dharmendra Singh. Since there is no independent evidence of recovery witnesses because they have turned hostile, the prosecution case could not be proved against the accused-appellants for the commission of the alleged crime solely on the basis of police personnel as witnesses of the recovery and on the strength of their evidence.

19. It is further submitted that the recovery and the crime alleged against the appellants could not be proved and established by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt only on the basis of police witnesses. Police personnel have an interest and motive to prove their case, so they are interested witnesses to prove their recovery memos at any cost against the appellants. Therefore, in view of the above, the prosecution is totally unsuccessful in proving its case against the appellants beyond reasonable doubt. It is further argued on behalf of the appellants that the Trial Court failed to consider this vital aspect while appreciating the evidence on record. Owing to misappreciation and improper evaluation of the evidence, the Trial Court erroneously held the appellants guilty and convicted them for the commission of the alleged offence. The findings recorded by the Trial Court are contrary to the material evidence available on record and, therefore, unsustainable in the eyes of law.

20. Further, the appellants have duly established their defence through the testimony of defence witness Gajju Singh (DW-1), however, the Trial Court failed to properly consider and appreciate the reliable testimony of the said defence witness. The Trial Court misread the evidence on record and relied upon evidence which could not legally be relied upon against the appellants. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 is perverse in law, without support of any cogent evidence, and also against the settled principles of law. Hence, the impugned judgment and order dated 27.03.2008 is liable to be set aside and both these criminal appeals of the appellants deserve to be allowed.

21. Per contra, learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State-respondent, has vehemently opposed the arguments of the learned counsel for the appellants and submitted that although all witnesses of fact have turned hostile, yet the prosecution case finds support from their hostile statements, and the occurrence of the alleged incident as well as the participation of the appellants in the commission of the alleged crime stand fully proved and established beyond reasonable doubt. It is a settled principle of law that the evidence of hostile witnesses cannot be rejected in toto. The evidence supporting the prosecution case has rightly been considered against the appellants. Therefore, the learned Trial Court, after properly appreciating and relying upon the prosecution evidence, rightly held the appellants guilty of the alleged offence. It is also submitted that there is no such law that the evidence of police witnesses shall be rejected solely on the ground of their being police personnel. The police witnesses had no enmity or personal interest against the appellants to falsely implicate them in the case.

22. The recovery of the looted suitcase (attache) and all articles/objects which were found inside of it, along with cash of more than Rs.1,25,000/- belonging to the deceased, were recovered from the possession of the appellant Dharmendra Singh. Appellant Dharmendra Singh was caught red-handed at the railway station near the place of occurrence by the police personnel along with the prosecution witnesses. In such a situation, the recovery of the looted suitcase (attache) of the deceased, Pappu alias Raj Kishore Prasad, from the appellant Dharmendra Singh cannot be doubted or suspected merely on the ground that only police witnesses have supported the recovery of the looted suitcase (attache) and the articles/objects found therein.

23. Further, the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in its proper perspective and recorded a reasonable finding which is based on cogent evidence available on record against the appellants. It is also submitted that the appellants committed the alleged offence with common intention, prior planning, premeditation and prior concert, and each of them actively played his respective role in the commission of the alleged offence. In view of the aforesaid arguments, the learned A.G.A. has submitted that there is no perversity or illegality in the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court Number 9, Moradabad. Consequently, both the criminal appeals filed by the appellants, being devoid of merit, are liable to be dismissed, and the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed by the learned Trial Court deserve to be affirmed.

24. In light of the submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties, we have perused the written report (Exhibit Ka-1). It reveals that the accused Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial), along with the present appellants, were named as accused persons in the written report by the informant, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2). A perusal of the written report further reveals that appellant, Dharmendra Singh was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) and other articles belonging to the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad. The accused Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) and appellant Charan Singh managed to escape from the scene of occurrence. Thus, it is clear that the accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) and the present appellants, Dharmendra Singh and Charan Singh, were named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and a case was registered against them as Case Crime No. 612 of 1995, under Sections 394, 302 and 411 of the IPC.

25. The informant, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), who lodged the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) at the police station, was produced before the Court as PW-2. From a perusal of the evidence of informant, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), we find that the informant has turned hostile and has not supported the prosecution story, although he himself had lodged the written report against the named accused persons. Furthermore, from a perusal of the entire evidence of the informant (PW-2), we find that this witness refused to identify the accused persons in Court and stated that he does not know the accused Dharmendra Singh, Charan Singh and Sher Singh. However, he accepted the fact that the incident occurred on 22.12.1995, at about 3:45 P.M. From the statement of this hostile witness, it is also revealed and established that deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, was a resident of Chhata Bazar, Police Station Town, District Muzaffarpur, Bihar. He used to sell raw materials to this witness and other traders, and usually visited Moradabad to collect payments.

26. A perusal of the evidence of this hostile witness discloses and establishes the fact that on the date of the incident, i.e. 22.12.1995, Pappu @ Raj Kishore had come to Moradabad to collect payments. He had collected a total sum of Rs.1,25,000/- in cash from traders, namely, Sachin, Mohammad Nasir, Rajesh Metal, Ishwar and Ibrahim. After collecting the payments, which was kept in a suitcase (attache) in his hand, he was returning to the railway station to catch a train. Out of courtesy, this witness and one Surendra Kumar accompanied Raj Kishore to see him off at the railway station. It is further established from the statement of this hostile witness that when they reached near the eastern gate on the main road of the railway station, left the rickshaw, and began to walk on foot, three persons came there and started snatching the suitcase (attache) from the hands of Raj Kishore. According to this witness, by the time he reached the exact spot, Pappu @ Raj Kishore had already sustained a gunshot injury, and the shooter had fled. The witness claimed he did not see the shooter.

27. Thus, despite the hostile statement of the informant (PW-2), the fact remains clear that the deceased, Pappu had come to Moradabad on 22.12.1995, to collect payments, and had indeed collected it from the traders of Moradabad. The incident occurred on 22.12.1995 at about 3:45 P.M. The suitcase (attache) containing Rs.1,25,000/- which was in the hands of Pappu @ Raj Kishore, was snatched. In the process of snatching the suitcase (attache), Pappu @ Raj Kishore was shot dead by the accused persons. Although the witness clearly mentioned in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) that accused Sher Singh had fired a gunshot at Pappu @ Raj Kishore's chest, causing his death on the spot, he turned hostile during his cross-examination and failed to reiterate those facts.

28. In his cross-examination, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2) stated that he had written the report of this incident and what Daroga Ji told him, he wrote. This implies that upon turning hostile, the witness resiled from his statement previously recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 of the CrPC. He sought to shift liability by alleging that the written report was prepared solely under the dictation of Daroga Ji and that he merely recorded what was dictated to him. It appears from the hostile deposition of this witness that, due to fear and intimidation by the accused persons, he chose not to support the prosecution□s case. Furthermore, the deceased Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad was a resident of Chhata Bazar, P.S. Town, District Muzaffarpur, Bihar, and had died on the spot during the incident. The material change in circumstances following the death of Pappu @ Raj Kishore Prasad also appears to be a reason why the informant (PW-2) turned hostile.

29. Another witness of fact, Suresh (PW-4), has also turned hostile and has not supported the prosecution story. However, from a perusal of the hostile statement of PW-4, we find that the date and time of the incident have been fully established. From the statement of this witness, it is also established that three persons were snatching the suitcase (attache). This witness stated that he knew the accused persons, Charan Singh, Sher Singh and Dharmendra Singh. However, with the intent to protect the accused persons and weaken the prosecution case, this witness initially stated that Charan Singh had snatched the suitcase from the businessman and it was recovered from the possession of Charan Singh. This witness also accepted the fact that one of the three persons had fired at the businessman.

30. In his cross-examination by the prosecution, Suresh (PW-4) acknowledged that the accused, Dharmendra, who snatched the suitcase (attache), was not present in the Court on that day. This witness further admitted that it was by mistake he had stated that Charan Singh snatched the suitcase (attache). From the evidence of this witness, it is established that the suitcase was actually recovered from the possession of accused, Dharmendra Singh and that the accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial), had shot at the deceased. However, during his cross-examination by the defence, this witness also stated that he agreed to be an eyewitness under the influence of the police. Thus, from the hostile statement of this witness (PW-4) as well, the factum of the incident dated 22.12.1995, along with the time and place of the occurrence, has been clearly established. This fact has also been established that the accused Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) had shot at the deceased Pappu @ Raj Kishore, and the accused Dharmendra Singh had snatched the suitcase (attache) from the hands of the deceased Pappu @ Raj Kishore.

31. Another witness of fact, Ashok Kumar (PW-5), has also supported the prosecution story. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is apparent that the incident, as narrated in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), occurred in his presence. This witness saw the occurrence of the alleged incident with his own eyes. This witness has clearly stated that the accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) and who was present in the Court, had shot at Pappu @ Raj Kishore. He stated that the accused who snatched the suitcase (attache) was not present in the Court on that day. The person who snatched the suitcase (attache) ran away and was caught red-handed on the bridge, while the other two accused fled from the spot. A suitcase (attache) was recovered from his possession. Thus, the prosecution story finds strong support from the evidence of prosecution witness Ashok Kumar (PW-5). From the evidence of this witness, the respective roles of the accused Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) and the present appellant, Dharmendra Singh, have clearly emerged and been established exactly as narrated in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) by the informant (PW-2).

32. From a perusal of the evidence of another prosecution witness, Rajesh Kumar (PW-11), we find that this witness has turned hostile and has not supported the prosecution story. He stated that he does not know any of the accused persons and was also unacquainted with the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore.

33. Prosecution witness Surendra Kumar (PW-12) has also turned hostile and failed to support the prosecution story, stating that he does not know the accused persons. However, this witness established the fact that he was familiar with the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, who was engaged in the business of supplying raw materials for utensils and was a native of District Muzaffarpur, Bihar. Thus, from the evidence of Surendra Kumar (PW-12), it is established that deceased,Pappu @ Raj Kishore, was a resident of Chhata Bazar, District Muzaffarpur, Bihar, and worked as a supplier of raw materials for manufacturing utensils in Moradabad.

34. The next prosecution witness, Om Prakash (PW-13), has verified and testified to the Panchayatnama (Ex. Ka-22) of the deceased, Pappu alias Rajkishore Prasad.

35. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of the informant, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), we find that the informant has accepted and verified the fact that he had written and lodged the written report (Ex. Ka-1) at the concerned police station. Following the lodging of the written report, a case was registered by the police. Although the informant (PW-2) stated that he had written the report under the dictation of the Daroga Ji, and that whatever was narrated by the Daroga Ji, had been recorded by him in the written report (Ex. Ka-1), yet, by the aforesaid statement of the informant (PW-2), the sanctity and legality of the First Information Report does not lose its importance, and thereby, the prosecution story cannot fall to the ground. The reason for this is that prosecution witness S.I. Yashpal Singh (PW-14), who was posted as Head Moharrir at GRP, Moradabad on 22.12.1995, had registered the First Information Report (Ex. Ka-23) as Crime No. 612 of 1995, under Sections 302, 394 and 411 of the IPC against the named accused persons. This witness, Yashpal Singh (PW-14), on the same date and on the basis of the recovery memo prepared by the In-charge Inspector Hemant Kumar Mishra, had also registered a case under Section 25 of the Arms Act as Crime No. 613 of 1995 against the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, which is Exhibit Ka-16. On the basis of the above recovery, the First Information Report under Section 302 of the IPC, and the case under Section 25 of the Arms Act, the Investigating officers undertook the task of investigation and investigation of the cases commenced.

36. Therefore, merely on the ground of the statement of the informant (PW-2) that he had written the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) under the dictation of the Daroga Ji and recorded only what was told by the Daroga Ji, the prosecution story and the sanctity of the First Information Report, cannot be doubted on this count. Hence, the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), in which the names of the accused persons have been clearly mentioned by the informant (PW-2), remains relevant, trustworthy and firmly supports the prosecution story.

37. Recently, on the point of hostility of the informant and regarding negative statements made by the informant about the First Information Report, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Goverdhan and Another v. State of Chhattisgarh; (2025) 3 SCC 378, has held in paragraph no-32 as under:-

"In this regard, we may profitably refer to the decision of this Court in Bable @ Gurdeep Singh v. State of Chhattisgarh, (2012) 11 SCC 181, wherein it was observed as follows:

"14. Once registration of the FIR is proved by the police and the same is accepted on record by the court, and the prosecution establishes its case beyond reasonable doubt by other admissible, cogent, and reliable evidence, it will be impermissible for the court to ignore the evidentiary value of the FIR. The FIR, Ex. P-1, has been duly proved by the statement of PW 1, Sub-Inspector Suresh Bhagat. According to him, he had registered the FIR upon the statement of PW 1, and it was duly signed by him. Thus, the FIR was registered and duly formed part of the record of the police station, which were maintained in the normal course of its business and investigation. Thus, in any case, it is a settled proposition of law that the FIR by itself is not a substantive piece of evidence, but it certainly is a relevant circumstance of the evidence produced by the investigating agency. Merely because PW 1 has turned hostile, it cannot be said that the FIR would lose all its relevancy and cannot be looked into for any purpose."'

38. In view of the legal principles as settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Goverdhan (supra), it is clear that merely because the informant (PW-2) has turned hostile, it cannot be said or presumed that the First Information Report has lost its relevancy and cannot be looked into for any purpose. In the present case, Yashpal Singh (PW-14) has duly and legally verified and testified to the registration of the First Information Report on the basis of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) submitted by the informant (PW-2) at the concerned police station. Apart from Yashpal Singh (PW-14), the registration of the First Information Report under Section 302 of the IPC and Section 25 of the Arms Act has already been proved by the evidence of other police witnesses, who were produced as prosecution witnesses.

39. At the time of the incident, SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) of Police Station GRP, Moradabad, along with his police team, and SHO Majhola, Brij Kishore Dwivedi, were also present near the place of occurrence. Upon hearing the gunshot and hue and cry of the people, SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) and the police team of SHO Brij Kishore Dwivedi, of which, S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6) was also a member, rushed towards the source of the noise. The police team of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) and other police officials caught the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) of the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, near the pathway leading to Ramtalaiya from the stairs of the railway station bridge at 4:00 P.M. The recovery was effected, and the recovery memo was prepared on 22.12.1995, in the presence of the recovery witnesses for the prosecution, who were police personnel.

40. SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), S.I T.R. Kothari (PW-6), and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10), who were recovery witnesses, were present at the time when the present accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache). Upon opening the suitcase (attache), one old used white-coloured kurta and trousers, one khaki-colored pants, one Coca-Cola-coloured shirt, one yellow bedsheet, one tahmat (lungi), one Casio calculator, one towel, and shaving cream were recovered. Apart from the above recoveries, a sum of Rs. 1,25,000/- was also recovered, which included 10 bundles of Rs. 100/- notes and 5 bundles of Rs. 50/- notes. Among these, three bundles of Rs. 100/- notes, totaling Rs. 30,000/-, bore the seal of Mohammed Nasir; three bundles of Rs. 100/- notes bore the seal of Rajesh Metal; two bundles totaling Rs. 20,000/- bore the signature of Ibrahim in Urdu; the remaining two bundles of Rs. 500/- and Rs. 100/- notes bore the signature of Sachin in Hindi; and 5 bundles of Rs. 50/- notes bore the signature of Ishwar. Along with the money and articles, one 12-bore tamancha (country-made pistol) along with three 12-bore cartridges were also recovered from the possession of the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh. SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), under whose leadership the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) near the place of occurrence, duly testified to all the facts regarding the recovery memo before the Court.

41. From a perusal of the evidence of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), it is evident that this witness, in his examination-in-chief, has stated the facts regarding the arrest of the accused-appellant, Dharmendra, and the recovery of the looted suitcase (attache) along with other articles and Rs.1,25,000/- as found inside the suitcase, which belonged to the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore. In the Trial Court, all the articles found in the suitcase (attache) and recovered from the possession of the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, were produced, and each and every article was endorsed as Material Exhibit-4 to Material Exhibit-58.

42. A lengthy and grueling cross-examination was conducted by the defence. However, from a perusal of the cross-examination done on behalf of the accused persons, we find that it centered only around the location of the place of occurrence and the different platforms, roads, and places where the present accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) and articles belonging to the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore. In this manner, the entire cross-examination by the accused-appellants mainly focused on the place of occurrence and the spot from where the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache). Thus, from a perusal of the cross-examination, we find that no material fact could be elicited by the defence to cast doubt on the presence and testimony of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) on any ground. The testimony of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) as a recovery witness, finds ample corroboration and support from the other recovery witnesses of the prosecution, namely, S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6) and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10).

43. From a perusal of the entire evidence of S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6) and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10), we find that PW-6 and PW-10 have testified to and corroborated the fact of the arrest of the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, who was caught red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) and the articles found therein in the same manner and words as stated in the evidence of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1).

44. A lengthy and grueling cross-examination was also conducted by the defence of these recovery witnesses, S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6) and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10). However, even after the lengthy cross-examination, no such fact emerged in the evidence of these witnesses by which their testimony could be regarded as suspicious or doubtful.

45. Thus, from a perusal of the evidence of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), it is amply clear that at the time of the incident, these witnesses (PW-6 and PW-10) were present near the place of occurrence. Following the incident, these witnesses, along with the police team, caught the present accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, red-handed with the looted suitcase (attache) belonging to the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, and recovered Rs.1,25,000/- found inside the suitcase (attache), along with other personal articles of daily use belonging to the deceased. The evidence and testimony of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1) find full support and corroboration from the evidence of the other recovery witnesses, S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6) and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10), who were also members of the police force. In this manner, the testimonies of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6), and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10) fully corroborate and support each other.

46. Therefore, the factum of the arrest of the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, immediately after the incident near the place of occurrence, and the recovery of the looted amount of Rs. 1,25,000/-, has been clearly proved and established by the evidence of prosecution witnesses Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), T.R. Kothari (PW-6), and Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10). Thus, this recovery of the amount of Rs. 1,25,000/- establishes the motive behind the commission of the alleged crime by the accused persons. The accused persons were well aware of the fact that Pappu @ Raj Kishore was a businessman and a resident of Chhata Bazar, P.S. Town, District Muzaffarpur, Bihar, who used to deal in raw materials used for the manufacturing of utensils. The deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, regularly supplied raw materials to traders in Moradabad and frequently visited the area to collect payments from them. This fact was well within the knowledge of the accused persons. The substantial sum of Rs.1,25,000/- induced and motivated the accused persons to commit the alleged crime. In this manner, a strong motive is established against the accused persons for the commission of the offence, namely, the acquisition of Rs. 1,25,000/-, which was a highly significant and valuable amount in the year 1995. Hence, the motive for the commission of the crime stands clearly established and proved beyond reasonable doubt from the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and other materials available on record.

47. Although there is no independent or public witness to the recovery, and the recovery witnesses are exclusively police personnel, there is no rule of law which stipulates that the testimony of police personnel as recovery witnesses cannot be relied upon without corroboration from independent public witnesses. Police personnel are also responsible citizens of the country, they hold public offices and discharge their official duties with the utmost responsibility. Therefore, merely on the ground that SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6), and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10) happen to be police personnel, this Court finds no ground or material to disbelieve or discredit their reliable, trustworthy, and creditworthy testimonies.

48. From a perusal of the evidence of SHO Hemant Kumar Mishra (PW-1), S.I. T.R. Kothari (PW-6), and S.I. Mahendra Singh Tyagi (PW-10), it is evident that the testimonies rendered by them before the Court inspire absolute confidence. Their evidence fully establishes and proves the prosecution case as set forth in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1).

49. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Girja Prasad (Dead) by LRS. v. State of M.P., (2007) 7 SCC 625, has held in paragraph-25 as follows:-

"25. In our judgment, the above proposition does not lay down correct law on the point. It is well settled that credibility of witness has to be tested on the touchstone of truthfulness and trustworthiness. It is quite possible that in a given case, a court of law may not base conviction solely on the evidence of the complainant or a police official but it is not the law that police witnesses should not be relied upon and their evidence cannot be accepted unless it is corroborated in material particulars by other independent evidence. The presumption that every person acts honestly applies as much in favour of a police official as any other person. No infirmity attaches to the testimony of police officials merely because they belong to police force. There is no rule of law which lays down that no conviction can be recorded on the testimony of police officials even if such evidence is otherwise reliable and trustworthy. The rule of prudence may require more careful scrutiny of their evidence. But, if the court is convinced that what was stated by a witness has a ring of truth, conviction can be based on such evidence."

50. In the same way, Hon'ble Supreme Court in Madhu @ Madhuranatha v. State of Karnataka, (2014) 12 SCC 419, has held on the same points in paragraph nos. 17, 18 and 19 as follows:-

"17. The learned counsel for the appellant has vehemently argued that in some of the recoveries, though a large number of people were available, but only police personnel were made recovery witnesses. Thus, the whole prosecution case becomes doubtful.

18. The term □witness□ means a person who is capable of providing information by way of deposing as regards relevant facts, by via an oral statement, or a statement in writing, made or given in court, or otherwise. In Pradeep Narayan Madgaonkar v. State of Maharashtra, (1995) 4 SCC 255, this Court dealt with the issue of the requirement of the examination of an independent witness, and whether the evidence of a police witness requires corroboration. The Court held that though the same must be subject to strict scrutiny, however, the evidence of police official cannot be discarded merely on the ground that they belong to the police force and are either interested in the investigation or in the prosecution. However, as far as possible the corroboration of their evidence on material particular should be sought.

19. Thus, a witness is normally considered to be an independent unless he springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and this usually means that the said witness has cause to bear such enmity against the accused so as to implicate him falsely. In view of the above, there can be no prohibition to the effect that a policeman cannot be a witness or that his deposition cannot be relied upon if it inspires confidence."

51. Thus, in the light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforementioned cases, it is a well-settled principle that the evidence of police witnesses cannot be doubted or discarded merely on the ground that they belong to the police force. If the evidence of a police witness inspires confidence and their testimony is found to be trustworthy and reliable, there is no justification to disbelieve them. Under such circumstances, the conviction of an accused can be safely recorded based on the sole testimony of police witnesses. In the present case, the defence has neither adduced nor filed any evidence to show that the police harbored any enmity or grudge against the accused-appellants. There is absolutely no reason why the police personnel would falsely implicate innocent persons like the accused-appellants in a heinous offence involving murder and the robbery of Rs. 1,25,000/-, along with other personal articles belonging to deceased, Pappul @ Raj Kishore.

52. Although the defence produced a defence witness, Gajju Singh (DW-1), a perusal of his evidence reveals that the defence merely attempted to establish that the accused-appellant, Dharmendra, was falsely arrested by the police while returning from his sister Bina's house. However, from a perusal of the testimony of Gajju Singh (DW-1), we find no statement explaining why or under what circumstances the police would falsely arrest the accused-appellant, Dharmendra, and implicate him in the commission of the alleged crime. Therefore, it is evident that while defence witness Gajju Singh (DW-1) attempted to shield the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, he was miserably unsuccessful in his endeavor. Consequently, we find no substance or relevance in the evidence of defence witness Gajju Singh (DW-1), and accordingly, we disbelieve and reject his testimony.

53. From the evidence of the prosecution's witnesses of fact, namely, Suresh Kumar Khanna (PW-2), Suresh (PW-4), Ashok Kumar (PW-5), and Surendra Kumar (PW-12), it is established and substantiated by the record that the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore, was a resident of Chhata Bazar, P.S. Town, District Muzaffarpur, Bihar. He was a trader who supplied raw materials for manufacturing utensils to various traders in Moradabad and regularly visited Moradabad to collect payments for the materials supplied. On the date of the incident, i.e., 22.12.1995, he was in Moradabad for this purpose. The fact that he had collected payments totaling Rs. 1,25,000/- from traders such as Sachin, Mohammad Nasir, Rajesh Metal, Ishwar, and Ibrahim is firmly established by the testimonies of the aforementioned fact witnesses, the recovery witnesses as well as the recovery memo itself.

54. The accused persons were well-acquainted with these facts. This substantial sum of Rs. 1,25,000/- provided the motive for the accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial), and the present appellant, Dharmendra Singh, to loot the deceased, Pappu @ Raj Kishore. With a premeditated plan and prior concert, accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) and appellant, Dharmendra Singh, lay in wait and monitored the movements of the deceased. As soon as the deceased arrived at the railway station and deboarded the rickshaw, the accused persons, driven by the aforesaid motive, attempted to snatch the suitcase (attache) from his hands. Upon facing resistance from the deceased, accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial) fired at the chest of Pappu @ Raj Kishore, while the present appellant, Dharmendra Singh, forcibly snatched the suitcase (attache) from the victim's hands and attempted to flee with the looted property. However, the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, was caught red-handed on the railway station overbridge immediately after the incident by the police party, along with the looted suitcase (attache) containing Rs. 1,25,000/- and other personal articles belonging to the deceased.

55. The looted amount of Rs. 1,25,000/- was recovered from the suitcase (attache) found in the possession of the present appellant, Dharmendra. Thus, it is clear that the present appellant, Dharmendra, played an active role with premeditation, a pre-arranged plan, and prior concert along with co-accused, Sher Singh (who died during the course of trial), in the commission of the alleged crime.

56. Although one 12-bore tamancha and three 12-bore cartridges were also recovered from the possession of the appellant, Dharmendra Singh but the prosecution witness, S.I. Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9), who investigated Case Crime No. 613 of 1995, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, did not send the recovered tamancha and cartridges for expert examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory. Furthermore, he did not personally test whether the recovered tamancha was in a workable condition or not. This fact was explicitly admitted in his evidence by the Investigating Officer, Kailash Chandra Verma (PW-9), who conducted the investigation in the Arms Act matter. Due to which, the recovered tamancha and cartridges could not be connected with the alleged crime. Consequently, it is evident that the prosecution has failed to establish whether the recovered 12-bore tamancha, along with three 12-bore cartridges, was used in the commission of the alleged crime or not. On this ground, we find that the conviction of the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, under Section 25 of the Arms Act is bad in the eyes of law and contrary to settled legal principles. Hence, his conviction under Section 25 of the Arms Act is unsustainable in the eyes of law, and the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, is liable to be acquitted of the said charge.

57. From a perusal of the prosecution evidence available on record, it is evident that the appellant, Charan Singh, could not be arrested from the place of occurrence, and no incriminating materials were recovered from his possession. Therefore, we find the presence of the appellant, Charan Singh, at the place of occurrence to be highly doubtful. In light of the evidence available on record, we find no role or involvement of the appellant, Charan Singh, in the commission of the alleged crime. Consequently, we are of the considered view that the benefit of doubt must be extended to the appellant, Charan Singh, in this case.

58. We have also perused and duly considered the findings and reasoning given by the learned Trial Court. We find that the Trial Court, by misappreciating the evidence, has erroneously held the appellant, Charan Singh, guilty of the commission of the alleged crime. Furthermore, from a perusal of the findings and reasoning, it appears that the Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence against the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, for the charge levelled under Section 25 of the Arms Act in its proper perspective, and wrongly, without any cogent evidence, held him guilty under the said Section. However, from a perusal of the findings and reasoning of the Trial Court, we find that it has appreciated and evaluated the evidence against the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, for the charges under Section 302/34, 394 and 411 of the IPC in a proper perspective and in accordance with well-settled principles of law. In this regard, the learned Trial Court has duly evaluated the evidence against the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, based on the material available on record and in accordance with the established tenets of law.

59. In view of the aforesaid, the judgment and order passed by the learned Trial Court dated 27.03.2008 is liable to be modified. Accordingly, we modify the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court dated 27.03.2008.

60. Thus, in light of the aforesaid discussion, we find that the conviction of the appellant, Charan Singh, under Sections 302/34 and 394 of the IPC as well as the conviction of the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, are unsustainable and liable to be set aside.

61. In view of the above, we allow the Criminal Appeal No. 2075 of 2008 filed by the appellant, Charan Singh, by extending the benefit of doubt to him, he is being acquitted of all the charges levelled against him. Consequently, we set aside the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed against the accused-appellant, Charan Singh, by learned Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 1037 of 1996 (State Vs. Dharmendra Singh and Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 612 of 1995 (Case Crime No. 911 of 1995) under Sections 302/34, 394 IPC, Police Station- Kotwali, District- Moradabad. He is on bail, his bail bonds stand canceled, and his sureties are discharged from their liabilities.

62. In light of the discussions held above, we find that the conviction of the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, under Sections 302/34, 394 and 411 of the IPC is well-founded and is liable to be affirmed. Consequently, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed against the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, by learned Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 1037 of 1996 (State Vs. Dharmendra Singh and Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 612 of 1995 (Case Crime No. 911 of 1995) under Sections 302/34, 394, 411 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District-Moradabad, is hereby affirmed and the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 27.03.2008 passed against the accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, by learned Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 1038 of 1996 (State Vs. Dharmendra Singh), arising out of Case Crime No. 613 of 1995, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Kotwali, District- Moradabad, is hereby set-aside.

63. Accordingly, Criminal Appeal No. 2718 of 2008, filed by the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, is partly allowed only in respect of the offence registered under Section 25 of the Arms Act. By extending the benefit of doubt, the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, is hereby acquitted of the charge under Section 25 of the Arms Act.

64. The accused-appellant, Dharmendra Singh, is on bail. He is directed to surrender before the court of the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate (CJM), Moradabad, within a period of one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order, to serve out the remaining sentence as passed by the learned Trial Court vide its order dated 27.03.2008 in Sessions Trial No. 1037 of 1996 (State Vs. Dharmendra Singh and Others), arising out of Case Crime No. 612 of 1995 (Case Crime No. 911 of 1995) under Sections 302/34, 394, 411 IPC, Police Station Kotwali, District-Moradabad.

65. In the event that the appellant, Dharmendra Singh, fails to surrender before the court concerned within the stipulated period of one month, CJM, Moradabad, shall take immediate steps by issuing non-bailable warrants against him to secure his arrest. Upon his arrest, the appellant shall be sent to jail to serve out the remaining sentence as awarded by the learned Trial Court vide order dated 27.03.2008.

66. Let a copy of this judgment and order, along with the Lower Court Record (LCR), be transmitted to the learned Trial Court forthwith for necessary information and compliance.

THE HON'BLE SANJIV KUMAR, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 2870 of 1985

Mahesh Chand ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

A criminal appeal against conviction for accepting illegal gratification by a Lekhpal under section 161 IPC and Section 5(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, arising from a vigilance trap.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Prevention of Corruption Act,1947-Section 5(2)-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2), Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 161-Illegal gratification-Vigilance trap-Recovery of tainted currency from accused-Lekhpal-Consistent testimony of trap party and public witness-Non-examination of complainant not fatal where demand and acceptance independently proved-Absence of further independent witnesses not material-Defence of false implication unsupported by evidence-Prosecution establishing demand and acceptance of bribe beyond reasonable doubt-Conviction under section 161 IPC and section 5(2), Prevention of Corruption Act, upheld-Appeal dismissed.(Para 36 to 38) (E-6)

Held

The court held that the prosecution had established beyond reasonable doubt that the appellant, while posted as Lekhpal in the Consolidation Department, demanded and accepted illegal gratification of Rs. 300 from Virendra Singh for extending an undue favour in the consolidation proceedings. The evidence of the vigilance officials and public witnesses was found consistent, reliable and trustworthy, and the recovery of the tainted currency notes from the appellant, coupled with the positive phenolphthalein test, corroborated the prosecution case. The plea of false implication was unsupported by any convincing evidence. Accordingly, the appeal dismissed.

1. This appeal has been filed, under Section 374(2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, (in short Cr.P.C.), by appellant Mahesh Chand son of Phoola Ram, resident of village- Bavali, Police Station- Kuthau, District- Jalaun, against the judgment and order dated 09.10.1985 passed by Shri K.N. Ojha, Vth Additional Sessions Judge, Kanpur, in Special Trial No.10 of 1981, under Section 161 Indian Penal Code, 1860, (in short IPC) and Section 5(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act,1947.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, dated 09.10.1985, the learned trial court has convicted the appellant for offence punishable under Section 161 IPC and Section 5(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, and sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of one year on both counts. It was also directed that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that Virendra Singh, resident of Bisoha, Tehsil- Derapur, District- Kanpur had a litigation pending against Smt. Asha Devi of the same village. He was allotted Chak No.193 and Smt. Asha Devi was allotted Chak No.7 by the Consolidation Officer during consolidation proceedings. Its appeal was pending in the court of Settlement Officer (Consolidation) (in short SOC), Mr. Sirohi. The date for hearing was fixed as 31.03.1977. On that day, no work was done and the next date fixed was 05.04.1977. It was told to Virendra Singh that judgment will be pronounced on 05.04.1977. To know about the case, Virendra Singh started for Kanpur by the morning bus, on 01.4.1977, which was also boarded by Lekhpal Mahesh Chand and Kanoongo Chandra Sen. Both of them demanded Rs.400/-, as illegal gratification, and promised that the appeal preferred by Smt. Asha Devi for the change of chak from that of chak No.193, allotted to Virendra Singh, would be got dismissed. Both these accused and Virendra Singh stepped down from the bus at Chunniganj Bus Stand. Virendra Singh gave Rs.100/- to Chandra Sen, in the form of one currency note of Rs.50 and five notes of Rs.10 each. Thereafter, he came to his son Jai Vijai Singh□s office at Maal Road, Kanpur and demanded Rs.300/- from him and told that it was to be given to Mr. Sirohi, through the accused. He also told that the money was to be given in the court and the accused would meet in the court of Mr. Sirohi Saheb. Upon this Jai Vijay Singh asked him to get such persons arrested by the Vigilance Department. He wrote down a letter (Ext.Ka.1) and alongwith his father met Mr. D.K. Panda, Superintendent of Police, Vigilance, Kanpur, in his office situated at Laxman Bagh. Mr. Panda made some queries from Jai Vijay Singh and noted down their answers. Three currency notes of Rs.100/- each were given by Jai Vijay Singh, thereafter, S.P. Vigilance passed an order on his application dated 01.07.1977 directing R.B. Tiwari, the Inspector Vigilance to take two officers, along with him and lay down a trap the same day. The questions and answers were also noted down at the back of application given by Jai Vijay Singh.

4. Thereafter, Virendra Singh and his son Jai Vijay Singh along with trap party, led by Inspector R.B. Tiwari, along with S.I. Surya Bhan Singh, two constables, one Sub-Inspector and S.I. M.R. Singh reached near Kaushik Park in Civil Courts, Kanpur. Public witness, Shyamlal and Onkar Singh were arranged. S.I. Kirat Singh put phenolphthalein powder on three currency notes of Rs.100/- each, (Exhibits 2,

3 and 4), respectively, given to him by Virendra Singh and then S.I. R.B. Tiwari, signed in the corner of these notes and circled it with red ink. After making other formalities and giving necessary precautions, these currency notes were given to Virendra Singh. Thereafter, constable Gaya Prasad and Virendra Singh, went to the court of Mr. Sirohi, SOC, to meet Lekhpal Mahesh Chand and Kanoongo Chandra Sen, the accused of the case. Witnesses Onkar Singh and Shyam Singh were present inside the court room, after a short while they came out of the court and went to the Chaurasiya Hotel.

5. According to the prosecution, when the money was offered by Virendra Singh to Chandra Sen, he did not take the money and asked Virendra Singh to give it to Mahesh Chand. The witnesses, the informant and others reached Chaurasiya Hotel and there they had a cup of tea. One Police Sub-Inspector was already sitting inside the Chaurasiya Hotel. When Virendra Singh asked the owner to provide tea, then Mahesh Chand asked Virendra Singh whether he had money with him and told that he was sent by Chandra Sen, Kanoongo. Virendra Singh handed over those three currency notes to Mahesh Chand who kept them in pocket of his pant and told that his chak would not be disturbed.

6. Inspector Suraj Bhan Singh came there, public witnesses Ram Chandra Mewalal was already sitting there having tea and upon gesture made by constable Gaya Prasad, S.I. R.B. Tiwari and others came inside the Chaurasiya Hotel and took personal search of Mahesh Chand and recovered three currency notes from his possession and a wrist watch was also recovered from his another pocket. Mahesh Chand was asked about the money to which he admitted that it was given by Virendra Singh. Chandra Sen was also called and from his personal search five currency notes of Rs. 10 each (total Rs. 50/-) were recovered from his pocket. Kanoongo Chandra Sen□s pant was also taken in custody. The recovery memo was prepared, upon recovery of notes, Mahesh Chand□s hands was washed which turned into pink colour. The pant of Mahesh Chand which was taken into custody, was also sealed. The sample of water in which Mahesh Chand□s hands were washed, was kept in bottles (Ext.5 and 6) and recovery memo (Ext. Ka.3), was prepared.

7. The investigation was conducted by S.I. R.B. Singh, under the orders of S.P. Vigilance, Kanpur. He recorded statements of witnesses reached at the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan (Ext. Ka.8).

8. After his transfer, further investigation was carried out by S.I. Basdeo Sahai. Since accused Mahesh Chand was temporary in service so, he was removed from his service immediately, therefore, no sanction for his prosecution was taken from the District Magistrate. Kanoongo Chandra Sen was placed under suspension. Superintendent of Police, U.P. Vigilance Department, Kanpur, sent letter to the District Magistrate, on 16.06.1979, seeking sanction to prosecute Chandra Sen. Sanction (Ext. Ka-4) for prosecuting Chandra Sen was granted by the District Magistrate on 19.06.1979, under Section 6(1)(c) of the Prevention of Corruption Act. S.I. Basdev Sahai conducted further investigation and filed charge-sheet (Ext.Ka.6) against both the accused before the competent court.

9. The concerned court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. The copies of relevant prosecution papers were furnished to them under Section 207 Cr.P.C., and thereafter, the case was committed to the court of Sessions for trial. The trial court summoned the accused and framed charge under Section 161 IPC and Section 5 (2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, against both the accused. They pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

10. The prosecution examined six witnesses, to wit, P.W.1 Ram Bahadur Tiwari, (Inspector Vigilance Department); P.W. 2 Constable Gaya Prasad, (Vigilance Department); P.W.3 Mewa Lal; P.W.4 Jai Vijai Singh, P.W. 5 Retired Inspector Basdeo Sahai, (Vigilance Department); and P.W. 6 Sub-Inspector Rabjeer Singh, Investigating Officer, to prove its case.

11. P.W.1 Inspector Ram Bahadur Tiwari, of Vigilance Department, Kanpur is the first informant of this case. He has led the police party, under the orders of Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Department, to lay a trap to capture the accused taking/ demanding illegal gratification. He has stated that he arranged three currency notes of Rs.100/- each and thereafter, making all necessary formalities and arranging public witnesses, apprehended accused, Mahesh Chand at the spot while he took three currency notes of Rs.100/- each, as illegal gratification from Virendra Singh. The accused Kunwar Sen was also caught and from his personal search Rs.50/- (five notes of Rs.10/- each) were recovered.

12. P.W.2 Gaya Prasad is the constable and was one of the members of the police team which trapped the accused taking illegal gratification. He has supported the prosecution case.

13. P.W.3 Mewalal is one of the public witness of the recovery of the alleged currency notes from accused which were taken by them for illegal gratification. He has also supported the prosecution case.

14. P.W.4 Jai Vijai singh, is son of Virendra Singh, for whose chak illegal gratification was taken by the accused and who was present at the time when the accused were trapped, while taking currency notes in the form of illegal gratification.

15. P.W.5, Retired Inspector Basdeo Singh, is the first Investigating Officer of the case. He had stated about the investigation carried out by him and has said that an application for grant of prosecution sanctionwas moved before the District Magistrate, who granted the prosecution sanction against Kanoongo Chandra Sen. As Lekhpal Mahesh Chand was dismissed from service, therefore, no sanction was required to prosecute him.

16. P.W. 6 Inspector Rajbeer Singh, is the second Investigation Officer of the case, he has carried further investigation from the stage left by the first I.O. and after completing the investigation, he filed charge-sheet against the accused.

17. The statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellant, Mahesh Chand, denied the prosecution case and stated that under the drive of the Vigilance Department, he has been falsely implicated in this case. He has further stated that, Jai Vijai Singh lodged a false case so that his chak land remains at the same place and after consolidation proceedings his chak remained at the same place. He has said that no such case was pending before S.O.C. Kanpur, regarding which there is allegation that the accused demanded illegal gratification so that the case be decided in Virendra Singh's favour. In his written statement, Mahesh Chand has admitted that he was posted as a Lekhpal in the Consolidation Department at Tehsil- Derapur, District- Kanpur on 01.04.1977. He has also admitted that he went with Virendra Singh to have a cup of tea in Chaurasiya Hotel. He has denied that on 01.04.1977, he and co-accused Chandra Sen did go by bus and had conversation regarding payment of bribe, which took place between them and Virendra Singh. He has stated that in fact they had come by train to Kanpur and performed their respective work, in the office of Settlement Officer Consolidation (S.O.C.). He further stated that Virendra Singh came in his office and took him to Chaurasiya Hotel. He has stated that Ram Chandra and Mewalal, were not present there and that Sub-Inspector Tiwari has falsely implicated him in this case, at the instance of Jai Vijai Singh. He has also said that in fact Chandra Sen was called by Sub-Inspector Tiwari and upon his direction Chandra Sen handed over Rs.100/- and 90 paise. He has further stated that no proceeding with regard to the alleged recovery took place in Chaurasiya Hotel. They remained there for about a year and Tiwari took them outside and after calling the witnesses got their signature over the fard baramadagi in court. He has stated that Chak No.7 under Village- Bisoha, District- Derapur was carved in the name of Smt. Asha Devi and Chak No.193 in the name of Virendra Singh. There was some dispute in this regard and Asha Devi has filed a case against Virendra Singh before S.O.C., that her Chak No.7 should be carved at the place of Chak No.193 of Virendra Singh. Virendra Singh has opposed it and after hearing appeal Mr. Siroha (SOC), passed verbal judgment against Virendra Singh on 31.03.1977. Virendra Singh came to his son Jai Vijai Singh, who was employed in Flex Company Maal Road, Kanpur and told him the entire facts, thereupon Jai Vijai Singh, hatched a plan to rope in the Lekhpal and the Consolidation Officer in a bribery case so that the concerned record of appeal would be confiscated and the decision could not be reduced in writing. For this purpose Jai Vijai Singh, gave a false application before S.P. Vigilance Department and the applicant has been falsely implicated in this case. The concerned record was also confiscated as a result the judgment could not be dictated or implemented. Later on in revision of Chak No.193 remained at the place with Virendra Singh, thus, Jai Vijai Singh succeeded in his plan.

18. The accused have not adduced any evidence in their defence.

19. The learned trial court after perusing the evidence on record, came to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt against appellant Mahesh Chand. So far as co-accused Chandra Sen, the learned trial court observed that the prosecution failed to prove charge against him, accordingly, co-accused Chandra Sen was acquitted and the appellant Mahesh Chand was held guilty and convicted for offence punishable under Section 161 IPC and Section 5(2) of Prevention of Corruption Act, and was sentenced to the term as indicated above.

20. I have heard Shri Aushim Luthra, learned Counsel for the appellant and Shri Om Prakash Mishra, learned A.G.A on behalf of the State and perused the evidence on record.

21. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that there are major contradictions in the statement of prosecution witnesses which raise doubt over the prosecution case. It is also submitted that Virendra Singh, the owner of the land, regarding whom case was pending before S.O.C., Kanpur and from whom bribe was allegedly demanded, has not been examined by the prosecution which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case.

22. It is further submitted that the alleged place of recovery, namely Chaurasiya Hotel, is a public place. It is difficult to believe that the accused would choose such a public place, for the purpose of accepting an illegal gratification. It is also submitted that no independent public witness has been examined by the prosecution to corroborate the alleged trap proceedings. In the absence of any such independent evidence, the trap proceedings and the entire prosecution case appears highly doubtful. Consequently, the prosecution has failed to establish its case beyond reasonable doubt, and the appellant is entitled to the benefit of doubt and deserves to be acquitted.

23. Learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State has submitted that prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of the prosecution witnesses is consistent, reliable and trustworthy. There is no reason why the prosecution witnesses would depose falsely against the appellant, when some of them are public servant. It is further submitted that appellant demanded bribe regarding which S.P. Vigilance Department, Kanpur was informed, who after query ordered to lay trap and formed a police team, which carried out further proceedings and the appellant was caught red handed taking illegal gratification. There are public witnesses of the recovery, who have been examined by the prosecution. Therefore, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

24. In a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution case to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, the allegation against the applicant is that he, while being posted as Lekhpal in Consolidation Department, alongwith Kanoongo Chandra Sen Saxena, had taken illegal gratification from Virendra Singh to save his Chak No.193 from being disturbed in consolidation proceedings and remains with him and in this regard, he was caught red handed taking bribe of Rs.300/- from Virendra Singh after a complaint was made by Virendra Singh□s son Jai Vijai Singh with the Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Department, Kanpur, who ordered to lay a trap and the concerned police party laid trap and caught him red handed taking bribe.

25. As per prosecution, the appellant was caught red handed at Chaurasiya Hotel in Civil Lines, Kanpur. In this regard, prosecution has examined P.W.1 Retired Inspector Ram Bahadur Tiwari, who led the police party to trap the appellant. He has stated that upon application of Jai Vijai Singh against Chandra Sen, Kanoongo and Mahesh Chand, Lekhpal of Consolidation Department, S.P. Vigilance, Mr. Panda, passed an order to lay the trap to apprehend them. He has proved concerned orders and documents and has said that he alongwith other police men gathered in the park alongwith public witness Shyam Singh and Onkar Singh. Jai Vijai Singh handed him over three currency notes of Rs.100/- each, which were to be give as bribe to the accused. Inspector Ram Kirat Singh sprinkled phenolphthalein powder over them and made his initials, not easily visible, and thereafter, these notes were handed over to Virendra Singh and Jai Vijai Singh after giving them necessary directions. Constable Gaya Prasad was directed to accompany them to hear the conversation with regard to illegal gratification. As per plan they collected around court premises and after a while Virendra Singh and accused Mahesh Chand, Lekhapal and Gaya Prasad came out and proceeded to Chaurasiya Hotel.

26. The witness has said that he himself sat at a nearby table having a cup of tea. Virendra Singh and Mahesh Chand kept on their conversation and thereafter, Virendra Singh handed over the three currency notes to Mahesh Chand, which he kept in his left pocket of trouser. Thereafter, they reached near them and upon search three notes of Rs.100/- each were recovered from the possession of Mahesh Chand. The serial numbers of the recovered notes were matched with the fard baramadagi, which was also got down having small initials. Mahesh Chand□s hands were washed from sodium carbonate solution, as a result the solution turned red in colour. The pocket was also dipped in solution which also turned red, thereafter, necessary formalities were made and fard baramadagi was prepared. The witness has been cross-examined at length, but nothing material has come in his statement which can raise any doubt over his testimony. His statement is consistent, reliable and trustworthy. There is no reason and also no evidence why he would depose falsely against the appellant. He has said that the trap party was present till the money was handed over to Mahesh Chand.

27. P.W. 2 Gaya Prasad, a Constable of the Vigilance Department, was one of the members of the trap party. He has also supported the prosecution case and stated that he accompanied Virendra Singh. He deposed that at the time money was handed over, the appellant Mahesh Chand said that give me the money and your chak would remain where it is presently located. He further stated that he had accompanied Virendra Singh to the SOC office. This witness has also been cross-examined at length but no material contradiction has come in his statement to raise any suspicion over his testimony. He has stated that they did not try to have any public witness from SOC office and he does not know that SOC was informed that any accused was arrested. He further stated that he was standing very close to Virendra Singh and that the conversation with regard to the bribe took place in SOC office and not in the court room. There were many persons present when appellant Mahesh Chand was arrested.

28. P.W.3, Mewa Lal, is one of the public witness, before whom the appellant, Mahesh Chand, was allegedly caught red-handed while accepting a bribe. He has supported the prosecution case and stated that on the date of incident at about 02:30 p.m. he and some other persons were having tea at Chaurasiya Hotel, near court premises. Mahesh Chand was also present there and he was having conversation with Virendra Singh, sitting on a bench. Mahesh Chand said that your chak would remain at the same place and for that, you have to pay Rs.300/-. Thereupon, Virendra Singh handed over him over three notes of Rs.100/- each, which Mahesh Chand kept in his trouser□s pocket, then the Inspector took personal search of Mahesh Chand and recovered those three notes, given by Virendra Singh. They matched the numbers from the documents and then other formalities took place. The appellant□s hands were washed in solution which turned red. His pant was also washed, which had also turned red and the Inspector collected sample in bottle and sealed them at the spot. Thereafter, other formalities took place and fard baramadagi was reduced into writing. He has also been cross-examined at length, but nothing material has come in his statement to raise any suspicion over his testimony. He has said that, he reached at the Chaurasiya Hotel. Virendra Singh and others came there. It took about 5-10 minutes for the conversation to be over, between Virendra Singh and Mahesh Chand and then Virendra Singh handed over money to Mahesh Chand and at once he was arrested. Therefore, his testimony is reliable and trustworthy and there is no reason and also no evidence why he would depose falsely against the appellant.

29. P.W. 4, Jai Vijai Singh, is the son of Virendra Singh from whom the accused allegedly demanded a bribe. He has also supported the prosecution case and stated that his father, Virendra Singh, came to him and asked for Rs.300/- and when he asked the reason then his father told that the accused had demanded a bribe. Thereupon, P.w. 4, Jai Vijai Singh, moved an application before S.P. Vigilance, Kanpur, to trap them and as per order of Mr. Panda, S.P. Vigilance, the police team was constituted and laid trap and apprehended Mahesh Chand red-handed. P.W. 4 further stated that he was present when the money was handed over by his father to the appellant, Mahesh Chand, and the entire proceeding took place before him. There are no material contradictions in his statement to reject his testimony or raise any doubt over his evidence. He has said that his father handed over three notes to Mahesh Chand, who kept in his pocket at about 02:45 p.m. Mahesh Chand asked his father give money. The witness has proved his application given to S.P. Vigilance, for taking action against the appellant and co-accused.

30. Therefore, all the above witnesses have supported and proved the prosecution case. There is no evidence that there was any enmity between these witnesses and the appellant and there is no reason why they would depose falsely against him. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that Virendra Singh had not been examined, who is the person from whom the alleged demand of bribe was raised by the appellant, therefore, the prosecution case is not reliable. I do not agree with this submission, because it has come in the statement of P.W.4 Jai Vijai Singh, the son of Virendra Singh, that his father's mental condition is not stable and his treatment is going on as such, he is not in a position to depose before the court. P.W.4 has produced photo copy of the prescriptions of the treating doctor. In this regard, the witness has been cross-examined in which he has stated that he has not produced the cash memo of the medicine purchased and has stated that his father's treatment was going on in District- Gwalior from doctor Mrs. Mehrotra, the Superintendent of Mental Hospital, there. It has come in evidence that Jai Vijai Singh and his father are villagers and if under these circumstances, the further treatment of Virendra Singh has not taken place then it has no adverse effect over the case. Even, if for the sake of argument, it is accepted that Virendra Singh was deliberately withheld by the prosecution to depose before the court then it has no adverse effect over the prosecution case because the alleged taking of illegal gratification has taken place not only before Jai Vijai Singh, son of Virendra Singh, but also before the Inspector of Vigilance Department under whose leadership the raid party was formed by the Vigilance and also before the public witness who has been examined before the court. Therefore, the argument advanced on behalf of the appellant has no force.

31. It is submitted on behalf of appellant that there is no evidence that there was any litigation pending between the Virendra Singh and Smt. Asha Devi with regard to chak under Consolidation proceedings, therefore, the prosecution has no legs to stand. I do not agree with this submission because the appellant Virendra Singh in his written statement before the court, at the time of recording of his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., has admitted that the dispute between Virendra Singh and Smt. Asha Devi was pending before SOC with regard to chak No.193 and Chak No.7 and in this regard, the appeal was fixed for hearing at the stage of argument before Mr. Sirohi, the S.O.C.

32. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that no public witness has been examined by the prosecution which has adverse effect over the prosecution case. I do not agree with this submission also because the appellant was trapped after the team of police officers was formed and public witnesses were collected. There are two public witness of the alleged recovery, beside Jai Vijai Singh and his father Virendra Singh, so if no other person, present at Chaurasiya Hotel was made a witness, then it would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case.

33. It is submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that it was highly improbable that within a public view of such kind, the appellant would ask for and accept illegal gratification at Chaurasiya Hotel, so the prosecution story is highly doubtful. I do not agree with this submission also, because such kind of trap are laid in secrecy and the information is kept secret between the members of raiding party and the place is arranged in such a manner that the accused would not have any apprehension of his being caught red handed. Here it is relevant to mention that the appellant in his written statement, alongwith statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., has admitted that he went to Chaurasiya hotel with Virendra Singh and he put his signature over fard baramadgi, though as per him, the signatures were taken in court. There is also no evidence on his behalf to prove it.

34. It is also submitted by learned Counsel for the appellant that he has been falsely implicated in this case as there was a drive against bribery going on in Vigilance Department, so under the pressure of Jai Vijai Singh, the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case. I do not agree with this submission, as there is no evidence that any such drive was going on in Vigilance Department and there is also no reason why the Superintendent of Police, Vigilance Department, the Inspector and other police personnel of the raiding party as well as public witness would all be pressurized by Jai Vijay Singh and they would collude with him to falsely implicate the appellant in this case.

35. The appellant has admitted that Virendra Singh came in the office and took him to Chaurasiya Hotel to have a cup of tea, so he admits that he was present at the place of occurrence alongwith Virendra Singh. He also admits that the leader of raiding party, Inspector Mr. Tiwari, was also there but says that after keeping him there for about an hour, Inspector Tiwari took him outside and got signatures upon the fard baramadagi, in the court campus, and thus the appellant admits that fard baramadagi was prepared inside the court campus. The appellant also admits that Virendra Singh came to his son Jai Vijai Singh and told him the entire things on 01.04.1977. It is the statement of the appellant that Jai Vijai Singh hatched conspiracy to falsely rope him in a bribery case so that the concerned file would be confiscated and the judgment would not be dictated. The above stand of the appellant is not very convincing. There is no evidence that the concerned file was confiscated or Mr. Sirohi, the SOC had dictated oral judgment on 31.03.1977 and the judgment could not be reduced into writing. Therefore, the entire reason and motive assigned by the appellant against Jai Vijai Singh, regarding his false implication has no force.

36. In view of the above discussion, I come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and it is proved that appellant Mahesh Chand, while being posted as Lekhpal in the Consolidation Department, demanded bribe from Virendra Singh to do undue favour to him in Consolidation proceedings and in this regard, Virendra Singh's son Jai Vijay Singh moved an application before S.P. Vigilance raising complaint, and thereupon S.P. Vigilance ordered to lay a trap forming a trap party lead by Inspector Tiwari, who as per plan reached at the Chaurasiya Hotel, where, the appellant Mahesh Chand was caught red handed taking bribe of Rs.300/- from Virendra Singh. Therefore, the appellant Mahesh Chand is guilty of offence punishable under Section 161 I.P.C. and Section 5(2) Prevention of Corruption Act.

37. In view of the above, the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. So the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly and reached at the right conclusion of guilt of the appellant. The appellant is rightly held guilty and covicted and sentenced under Section 161 I.P.C. and Section 5(2) Prevention of Corruption Act, by the learned trial court. Accordingly, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

38. Thus, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The impugned judgment and order is upheld and the conviction and sentence of the Appellant Mahesh Chand is affirmed. Appellant Mahesh Chand is on bail. His personal bonds and bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. He is directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court within four weeks to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing his presence.

39. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the learned Trial Court concerned, alongwith trial court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 3418 of 2020
Alongwith
Criminal Appeal No. 12 of 2021

Kabir Khan ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to the conviction of the accused under section 302/34 and 201 IPC, primarily based on the prosecution's uncorroborated "last seen together" theory and unreliable circumstantial evidence.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/34 and 201-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Circumstantial evidence-Last seen theory-Mere "last seen together" circumstance, by itself, cannot sustain conviction unless supported by a complete and unbroken chain of circumstances pointing unerringly towards the guilt of the accused-Prosecution must first discharge its initial burden of proving that the deceased was last seen in the company of the accused; only thereafter can the burden under section 106 of the Evidence Act arise-Where prosecution witnesses regarding last seen together materially contradicted one another, their conduct was found unnatural and unreliable, no motive was established, and no incriminating article or material connecting the accused with the crime was recovered, conviction under section 302/34 and 201 IPC held unsustainable-Allowed.(Para 38 to 52) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that where the prosecution case rested entirely on circumstantial evidence and the "last seen together" theory, but the testimonies of key witnesses (PW-1 to PW-4) were contradictory, lacked motive and demonstrated highly unnatural conduct, the initial burden of proof remained undischarged. Conviction set aside, and the appellants were acquitted.

Both these Criminal Appeal bearing Nos. 3418 of 2020 (Kabir Khan Vs. State of U.P.) and 12 of 2021 (Irshad Vs. State of U.P.) have been filed by accused-appellants Kabir Khan and Irshad, respectively, against the judgment and order of conviction dated 03.11.2020 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court No. 1, Agra in Session Trial No. 29 of 2014 (State Vs. Irshad and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 638 of 2013, under Sections 302/34 and 201 IPC, Police Station Shahganj, District Agra.

2. By the impugned judgment and order dated 03.11.2020, the learned Trial Court held the accused-appellants guilty and convicted them under Section 302 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code. They were sentenced to imprisonment for life and a fine of Rs. 50,000/- each. In default of payment of the fine, they were directed to undergo additional simple imprisonment for a period of six months. Both the accused-appellants were also held guilty under Section 201 IPC and each of them was sentenced to undergo seven years imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/- each. In default of payment of the fine, each accused-appellant was directed to undergo additional simple imprisonment for a period of two months.

3. From the written report, Exhibit K-1, prosecution story in nutshell is that informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1) has filed this written report at police station Shahganj, District Agra stating therein that he is resident of 61/122/2, Rasoolpur, Sarai Khwaja, Police Station Shahganj, District Agra. He is engaged in electrical work and earns his livelihood to maintain his family. On 05.11.2013 at about 7:00 p.m., his younger son, Prince, aged about 12 years, was called by one Irshad, who worked at Shalimar Tent, and was taken away by him. After a considerable lapse of time, when his son Prince did not return home, he searched for him till late at night. However, his whereabouts could not be ascertained. On 06.11.2013, in front of his house near the Railway Ground, where garbage was lying, a large number of people had gathered. At about 7:00 a.m., when he reached there, he saw that his son Prince was lying on a heap of garbage. Fire was burning from all sides. His legs were tied. The body of his son below the chest and the legs had been burnt. Upon seeing this, he identified the body as of his son, Prince. He believed that Irshad had murdered his son Prince and thereafter, attempted to burn his dead body in the heap of garbage. It is, therefore, requested that his report be duly registered and appropriate action be taken.

4. On the basis of the above written report, Exhibit K-1, a first information report, Exhibit K-6, was registered by Constable Clerk Munesh Singh (PW-6) at police station Shahganj, District

Agra at Case Crime No. 638 of 2013, under Sections 302, 201 IPC on 06.11.2013 at 07:50 a.m. against Irshad. On receiving the information about the incident, police came to the place of occurrence and Station House Officer, Sunil Kumar (PW-8) took simple ashes and bloodstained ashes from the place of occurrence before the witnesses of fard and prepared the fard recovery, Exhibit K-3.

5. Inspector Sitaram Saroj (PW-7) prepared panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased Prince, Exhibit K-2/4, under the direction of the Station House Officer, Sunil Kumar (PW-8), and he also prepared other police papers, such as, letter to R.I., challan nash, naksha nash and letter to C.M.O., etc. After that, the dead body of the deceased Prince was sent for conducting post mortem.

6. Dr. R.V. Singh (PW-5) conducted the post mortem examination of the dead body of the deceased Prince and prepared the post mortem report, Exhibit K-5. In post mortem report, Exhibit K-5, medical witness Dr. R.V. Singh (PW-5) found following ante mortem injuries :

(i) Multiple abrasion 5 x 3 cm. front of neck,

(ii) Bleeding from nose.

(iii) Superficial to deep burn as coal like. Both upper limbs, part of the chest, abdomen and lower limbs were found like coal.

According to Dr. R.V. Singh (PW-5), cause of death of the deceased was asphyxia as a result of throttling. In internal medical examination, it was described that the membranes of the brain were congested. The pylorus was congested. The hyoid bone was broken. The lungs were congested. The right chamber of the heart was full, and the left chamber was empty. The stomach contained pasty food. The small intestine contained digested food and gas. The large intestine contained feces and gas. The liver was congested. The gall bladder was half filled. The kidneys and spleen were congested. The genitals were burned.

7. Investigating Officer, Sunil Kumar (PW-8), took the charge of the investigation, recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C., prepared site plan, Exhibit K-12. After completing all the formalities, he filed charge-sheet, Exhibit K-13, against the accused-appellants Irshad and Kabir Khan, under Sections 302, 201 IPC in the Court of learned Magistrate having jurisdiction.

8. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, hence learned concerned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial.

9. Learned Sessions Judge, Agra framed charges against the accused-appellants Irshad and Kabir Khan under Sections 302/34 and 201 IPC on 04.04.2014. The accused-appellants denied from the charges levelled against them and claimed trial.

10. During the course of trial, prosecution adduced and relied on the oral evidence of the informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3), Ravi Kumar (PW-4), Dr. R.V. Singh (PW-5), Munesh Singh (PW-6), Sitaram Saroj (PW-7) and Sunil Kumar (PW-8). Apart from oral evidence, prosecution also relied and supported their case on documentary evidence from Exhibit K-1 to Exhibit K-14.

11. After recording the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The accused-appellants, in their statements recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., denied the charges levelled against them. They have stated that the allegations and the evidence put to them were false and incorrect. In addition to the above, accused-appellants have also stated in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that they were wrongly prosecuted and charge-sheet was filed against them on false grounds. They further stated that the police had taken them from their homes for inquiry and had falsely and illegally implicated them in the present case and challaned them. The accused-appellants also stated that they have not committed any crime and they were innocent.

12. Learned trial Court after hearing the arguments of the prosecution and defence and perusing the evidence as available on record held the accused-appellants guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and sentenced them for life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 50,000/- each. In default of payment of fine, additional simple imprisonment for six months was awarded to them. The Trial Court also sentenced the accused-appellants under Section 201 IPC for seven years imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, two months additional simple imprisonment.

13. Aggrieved by the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 03.11.2020, accused-appellants preferred these criminal appeals in this Court.

14. We have heard the arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants and also the arguments of learned A.G.A. for the State. We have gone through the evidence available on record and also perused the judgment and order of conviction passed by learned Trial Court.

15. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submits that learned trial Court passed the impugned judgment and order of conviction without considering the evidence available on record. The trial Court has also not considered the facts and circumstances of the case. In the present case, there is no direct and circumstantial evidence against the accused-appellants. Only so-called last seen together theory, concoctedly and afterthought, was produced by the prosecution to give a force to the prosecution story.

16. The prosecution was unable to collect any incriminating materials, objects, things, articles either from the place of occurrence or from the accused-appellants by which they could be legally connected with the commission of the alleged crime. It is also submitted on behalf of the accused-appellants that there is no evidence, direct or indirect, against them. However, despite this, the learned trial Court wrongly interpreted the evidence, which could not be relied upon or believed in any circumstances against the accused-appellants. The prosecution was totally unable to state and prove any motive for commission of the alleged crime by the accused-appellants. In other words, on behalf of the accused-appellants, it is submitted that in the present case, there is no motive or direct or circumstantial evidence only so-called last seen together theory was projected by the prosecution with a view to falsely implicate the accused-appellants, who are totally innocent in this case. The learned trial Court did not consider this legal point that a person cannot be convicted of a crime solely on the basis of the last seen together theory.

17. Thus, learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by learned trial Court dated 03.11.2020 is wholly illegal and without any oral or documentary evidence. Hence, criminal appeals of the accused-appellants are liable to be allowed and judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by learned trial Court dated 03.11.2020 is liable to be set aside.

18. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that accused-appellant Irshad was seen in the evening of 05.11.2013 with deceased Prince. Thereafter, the dead body of the deceased, Prince, was found in front of the informant□s house, lying in the heap of garbage at the Railway Ground on 06.11.2013 in the morning at 7:00 a.m. Informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), who is father of the deceased Prince, has testified this fact by deposing his evidence in the Court. Other prosecution witnesses Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3) and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) have also supported the last seen together theory of the prosecution. In other words on 05.11.2013 at 07:00 p.m., the deceased Prince was seen with accused-appellant Irshad. Thereafter, in the morning of 06.11.2013, dead body was found. All the prosecution witnesses have fully supported the prosecution story.

19. During investigation, complicity of the accused-appellant Kabir Khan also came into light for commission of the alleged crime. Learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in right perspective and in a legal manner and thereby given the finding with regard to conviction of the accused-appellants. The finding and reasoning given by learned trial Court is based on right appreciation of evidence and the law of the evidence as applicable in this regard, hence the criminal appeals preferred by the accused-appellants are totally devoid of merits, therefore, are liable to be rejected.

20. In the light of rival submissions of both the parties and from perusal of the written report filed by informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), it is revealed that the informant (PW-1) has stated that on 05.11.2013 at 07:00 p.m., his younger son Prince aged about 12 years has been called upon by a man named Irshad, who took him away. After lapse of time, when his son Prince did not return home, he searched whole night but he was unable to know the whereabouts of his son. On 06.11.2013, the dead body of Prince was found lying in the heap of garbage in front of the informant□s (PW-1) house at the railway ground. The dead body of Prince was found burning in the heap of garbage. In his evidence in the Court, this witness has deposed that □the date of incident is 05.11.2013 at 07:00 p.m., I was at my home, then Irshad had come to my home, who was working at Shalimar Tent House and is a resident of Shiv Nagar. Irshad had called my son from home. When my son did not return home after lapse of much time, then I and my family members searched Prince. However, Prince was not found. I have gone to see Irshad at his home at Shiv Nagar but he was not found at his home. Due to late night, I returned my home. On 06.11.2013 at 07:00 a.m., there was crowd gathered in front of railway ground. Then I went there and saw that the dead body of my son Prince was lying. His legs were tied. Fire was burning and due to this, lower part of his body below chest was burnt. I identified the dead body as of my son. At that time, at the place of occurrence, Atul, Devendra and many other people were present there and they told me that Irshad and Kabir Khan were seen assaulting Prince.

21. Informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1) stated in his cross-examination that Irshad used to come to my house. Irshad had taken my son Prince at 07:00 p.m. When Irshad called and took my son, no one else was present at that time. From perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, it is revealed that this witness had searched his son till 10:00 p.m. at many places but he was unable to find his son. According to the statement of this witness, it appears that he returned his home at about 01:00-1:30 a.m. at night. This witness has also stated that at 01:30 a.m., he went to the house of Irshad. This witness has stated that he knows the house of Irshad. He went there with his brother Ravi and Irshad was not at his home. One girl came out of the house of Irshad and said that Irshad is not at the home. Thereafter, he returned his home after one hour. Then he slept at his home. When he woke up in the morning then at railway ground, which is situated in front of my house, there was garbage lying. He went there and saw the dead body of his son, Prince, lying there. During his cross-examination, this witness further stated that the police had come on their own and he had not gone to report. He informed the police that Irshad had taken Prince with him. Later on, he went to the police station and got the report scribed by Ashok Mishra at the police station. In his cross-examination, this witness also stated that he woke up at 6:30 a.m., and after taking a cup of tea, he was sitting outside the house. Until 7:00 a.m., he had not received any information about the dead body of his son. He saw a crowd of people in front of his house. He went there and saw that his son s legs were tied and tongue was out of his mouth. Fire was burning from all sides, and all parts below the chest had been burnt. When he reached the place of occurrence, the police arrived at the spot. He searched for his son along with Ravi and his sister Baby. He searched collectively. He searched for his son for two hours. He had not given any information to the police station or police post (chowki) before finding the dead body of his son. It is true that he did not see the accused beating his son, nor did he see them committing murder or hiding the dead body.

22. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of the informant (PW-1) as deposed by this witness in the Court, it is clear that, according to this witness, when his younger son Prince had not returned home late at night, he began searching for him. This witness, along with his family members, searched for two hours. He searched for his son but could not find his deceased son, Prince. According to this witness, he also went to the house of the accused, Irshad. When he called upon the accused-appellant Irshad, a girl came out of the house and informed him that Irshad was not at home. After searching for his deceased son Prince, this witness returned home and slept at night. It is also clear that this witness, with a calm mind, slept whole night, woke up early at 6:30 a.m., had tea, and then sat outside of his house.

23. The above conduct and behavior, as stated by this witness himself, indicate that he was sitting outside the house with a very calm and peaceful mind after having tea. The conduct and behaviour of this witness shows that this witness is not stating true facts in the Court. It is totally unnatural and against human behavior for a father, whose son has not returned home at night, and he sleep entire night in a peaceful and calm state, woke up in a routine manner, have tea at 6:30 a.m., and, regardless of the fact that his son had not come home, sit outside the house after tea. This conduct and behavior, as stated by this witness, clearly indicate that he is presenting a totally false and unbelievable story during recording of his evidence in Court. It is also noteworthy that this witness until 06:30 a.m. on 06.11.2013 had not went to police station or police post and also had not given any information about the missing of his son and also had not lodged the F.I.R. When this witness was sitting outside his house after having tea, he saw a crowd gathered in front of his house at the railway ground. The police were also present there. Many other people were also present there. Seeing the crowd, this witness went there and saw the dead body of a child was lying in the heap of garbage and burning. At this juncture, this witness identified the dead body of the child as his son Prince. Thereafter with full deliberation, concoction and afterthought, this witness went to the police station and got scribed the written report, Exhibit K-1, by Ashok Mishra (PW-3), in which he named the accused-appellant Irshad.

24. Apart from the above facts, as indicated by the conduct and behavior of the informant (PW-1), it is also revealed from the perusal of the written report, Exhibit K-1, and the evidence of this witness, as deposed by him in Court, that no motive of any kind was mentioned either in the written report, Exhibit K-1, or in his evidence in Court explaining the reasons or causes for which the accused-appellant Irshad had taken away his child and murdered him. It is also surprising that the accused-appellant Irshad, after killing the child, threw the deceased□s body into the heap of garbage at the railway ground, which is situated in front of the house of the informant (PW-1). The informant (PW-1), Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, has also not given any evidence in this respect that what was the relationship between him and the accused Irshad, or why the accused Irshad came to his house and took his child Prince with him.

25. No enmity has been mentioned in the written report, Exhibit K-1, or in the evidence given by the informant (PW-1). The nature of the relationship between this witness and the accused-appellant Irshad was also not stated by him in his evidence. It is also not stated what was the motive or why the accused Irshad took Prince, younger son of this witness and murdered him. Thus from the evidence of this witness, it is clearly revealed that after many people were gathered at railway ground in front of his house police was also present there. Curiously this witness also reached at the place where the dead body of the child was lying then this witness identified the dead body of the child as his son Prince and concocting a false narrative and story got scribed a written report by Ashok Mishra (PW-3) at police station and falsely implicated the accused-appellant Irshad and lodged a written report in this respect. From overall perusal and analysis of the statement of this witness, we find that this witness is not a witness of last seen together. It is also clear that this witness had not seen accused-appellant Irshad taking his son from his home. The conduct and manner in which this witness allegedly searched for his missing son, deceased Prince, and lodged the written report only after finding the dead body at the railway ground, is wholly unbelievable and unreliable.

26. From the evidence of this witness as deposed by him in his examination-in-chief and cross-examination, conduct and behaviour of this witness indicate that this witness is not a natural and reliable witness of the last seen together theory as adduced by the prosecution, hence in the light of observation, we find the evidence of this witness is wholly unreliable and liable to be rejected.

27. Atul Kumar (PW-2) stated in his evidence that he is a friend of the deceased, Prince. From the evidence of this witness, it also emerged that on 05.11.2013, between 7:15 and 7:30 p.m., while he was walking in the Railway Colony, Agra, he saw Irshad taking Prince with him from the colony toward the Cantt. railway station. According to this witness, he informed the father of the deceased about this fact.

28. In his cross-examination, he stated that "I could not tell that what was the day of the incident. Investigating Officer had recorded his statement on 06.11.2013. I could not tell the day. I had not seen accused beating and burning Prince. During the cross-examination by the trial Court, this witness stated that age of Prince was 10-12 years. My age at that time was 18 years." In his cross-examination, he has further stated that "I had met father of Prince in the morning of 06.11.2013. I met with father of Prince at the place of occurrence. Father of Prince was already present at the place of occurrence."

29. Thus, from the above statement as given by this witness in his cross-examination, question arises that when this witness had seen that accused-appellants Irshad and Kabir Khan were taking Prince with them, then why this witness had not told this fact to the informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), father of the deceased Prince. According to the evidence of this witness itself, this witness met with father of the deceased at the place of occurrence where dead body of the deceased was lying in the morning of 06.11.2013. Thus, from the conduct and behaviour as indicated by this witness in his evidence, it is clearly emerged that this witness has not seen accused-appellants Irshad and Kabir Khan beating and taking the deceased Prince with themselves. It is clearly emerged from the evidence of this witness that prosecution projected this witness as a witness of last seen together to strengthen the prosecution story and also to give force to the prosecution case. In view of the above facts and circumstances, evidence of this witness is also totally unreliable and unbelievable.

30. Ashok Mishra (PW-3) was produced by the prosecution in support of the prosecution story. This witness has also stated in his examination-in-chief that "on the evening of 05.11.2013, I saw Irshad taking Prince with him, and Kabir Khan was also following them from behind." According to this witness also, he searched Prince with informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma and their family but whereabouts of Prince was unknown. According to this witness, accused Irshad was also not found at his home. Thereafter it is came to the knowledge that dead body of Prince son of Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, was lying half burnt in the heap of the garbage at railway ground. This witness also stated that "as told by Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, I had written tehrir in respect of the murder of Prince."

31. During the cross-examination, this witness stated that "I had received information about the death of Prince on 06.11.2013 at 06:00 a.m. and I went to see. No information was received. I was taking tea at my house. There was crowd in front of railway ground. I had went from my house to see the place where crowd was gathered. There were many people gathered at the place of occurrence. The police were already present there when I reached at the spot. It is true that in my tehrir, this fact was not written that in the evening of 05.11.2013, I had seen Prince going with Irshad. My house is adjacent to the house of Sarvesh Kumar Sharma. I had met with Sarvesh Kumar Sharma at the place of occurrence. I met with Sarvesh Kumar Sharma on 05.11.2013 at 11:00 p.m. I told the time of going of Prince with Irshad to the Investigating Officer in my statement under section 161 Cr.P.C. If Investigating Officer has not written time, then I could not tell reason for this.

32. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of prosecution witness Ashok Mishra (PW-3), who has written tehrir on the dictation of the informant (PW-1) Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, it is revealed that this witness has also narrated a false and fabricated story that he had also seen accused persons taking with them Prince son of informant on 05.11.2013 at evening. However, despite stating that the accused persons were carrying the deceased with them, this witness did not inform the informant, Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), or any other responsible person about this fact. From the evidence of this witness, it emerged that this witness was also taking tea at his home in the morning of 06.11.2013 at 06:00 a.m. This witness also went at the place of occurrence at railway ground. Crowd of people was also gathered there. Curiously, this witness also went at the place of occurrence then this witness had seen the dead body of the deceased Prince.

33. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is clear that conduct and behaviour of this witness is totally abnormal and against the human nature. This witness is also neighbour of the informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1) and their houses are adjacent to each other. This witness was also projected and produced by the prosecution after due deliberation and afterthought and to inject force to the prosecution story and also to give a force to the evidence of informant (PW-1) and (PW-2). However, in this attempt, we find that evidence of this witness Ashok Mishra (PW-3) is not reliable from any point of view of law of evidence. Testimony of this witness is unbelievable and does not inspire any confidence. Hence, in the light of observation, we find that evidence of this witness is also wholly unreliable, unnatural and thereby liable to be rejected.

34. Ravi Kumar (PW-4) has also stated in his examination-in-chief that on 05.11.2013, in the evening at 7:00 p.m., Irshad came to my house, called my nephew Prince, and took him away. We searched for our nephew, but he was not traceable. The next morning, at 7:00 a.m., a crowd of people had gathered near the heap of garbage at the railway ground. I also reached there. I went with my brother and saw that my nephew was lying dead near the heap of garbage, which was burning.

35. In his cross-examination, Ravi Kumar (PW-4) has stated that I received information about missing of Prince in the next morning. We reached the place of occurrence at 6:00 a.m. Ashok Mishra, my neighbour, came to my home and gave information. Both my brother and I were at home when Ashok Mishra arrived. Upon receiving the information, I, my brother Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, and Ashok Mishra all went to the spot. When we reached the place of occurrence, a crowd of people had gathered. I did not see Irshad or Kabir beating or burning Prince. I informed the Investigating Officer that Irshad was carrying Prince with him. If this fact was not recorded, I cannot give any reason for it.

36. Therefore, from perusal of the evidence of prosecution witness Ravi Kumar (PW-4), it becomes clear that prosecution tried to project and produce this witness as a witness of last seen together but the prosecution has miserably failed in its attempt. From perusal of evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness had received information about missing of Prince in the morning of next day. In other words, this witness has received information of missing of deceased Prince in the morning of 06.11.2013.

37. In view of the above statement, how can this witness be regarded as a witness of last seen together. It is evident from the above statement of this witness that this witness had received information about missing of Prince in the morning of next day. It is clear that deceased Prince was missing from 05.11.2013 and this witness had received information in respect of missing of Prince on the next day morning, i.e., 06.11.2013. From the above facts, it becomes clear that this witness is contradicting himself that Irshad had come at home and carried away his nephew on 05.11.2013 at 07:00 p.m. In the light of appreciation of evidence of this witness, it is also clear that this witness is not a witness of last seen together or taking away Prince with accused-appellant Irshad. Thus, we find that testimony and evidence of this witness also does not inspire any confidence and the same is not believable and reliable according to the facts and circumstances of the present case at hand, therefore, we also reject the testimony of this witness.

38. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gambhir v. State of Maharashtra, (1982) 2 SCC 351 has held in para 9 that;

"The law regarding circumstantial evidence is well settled. When a case rests upon the circumstantial evidence, such evidence must satisfy three tests:

(1) the circumstances from which an inference of guilt is sought to be drawn, must be cogently and firmly established;

(2) those circumstances should be of a definite tendency unerringly pointing towards guilt of the accused;

(3) the circumstances, taken cumulatively, should form a chain so complete that there is no escape from the conclusion that within all human probability the crime was committed by the accused and none else. The circumstantial evidence in order to sustain conviction must be complete and incapable of explanation of any other hypothesis than that of the guilt of the accused. The circumstantial evidence should not only be consistent with the guilt of the accused but should be inconsistent with his innocence."

39. In the light of the principles laid down by the Hon□ble Supreme Court, when we have perused and appreciated the evidence in the present case at hand, we find that Prince aged about 12 years was missing from the evening of 05.11.2013 but informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), father of the deceased Prince, has not given any information about the missing of his son to the police station or at the police post (chowki) that his son Prince aged about 12 years was missing. As per the evidence of PW-1/informant, as given in the Court, he along with other family members made a search for missing child Prince till late night but they were unsuccessful in their attempt to know the whereabouts of the missing child Prince. After searching till late night, informant PW-1 came to his home at late night and slept there, woke up in the morning of next day on 06.11.2013 at 06:30 a.m. and took tea. He was sitting outside the house in the open area. When PW-1 saw in front of his house that crowd of people had gathered nearby the heap of garbage at the railway ground, then this witness also due to curiosity reached at the place of occurrence and identified the dead body of a child as his son Prince. Before this witness has reached at the place of occurrence, police were already present there. How can a father of a missing child sleep in the night, wake up early in the next morning, have tea, peacefully and with cool mind sit outside the house in an open area without giving any information or lodging the first information report. When he reached at the place of occurrence which was located in front of his house, saw the dead body of his son and thereafter, he went to the police station, got scribed written report from Ashok Mishra (PW-3) naming accused-appellant Irshad and lodged the F.I.R. Thus, from the conduct and behaviour of this witness, we find that this witness is not a witness of last seen together. The statement given by this witness in the Court is totally a thoughtful narration and fictitious story. It is amply clear that with full consideration and afterthought, this witness falsely implicated the accused-appellant Irshad in this case for the alleged crime.

40. Informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1) had only stated that Irshad had come to his home, called Prince and carried him away. On the same point, Ashok Mishra (PW-3) narrated a different fact that this witness had seen on 05.11.2013 at evening that Prince was going with Irshad and accused-appellant Kabir Khan was following them from behind. On the same point, informant (PW-1) Sarvesh Kumar Sharma and Ashok Mishra (PW-3) are stating two different statements.

41. It is admitted fact by both sides that there is no direct evidence in the case. Prosecution only based its story on the theory of last seen together. In support of its theory of last seen together, prosecution adduced as many as four prosecution witnesses; informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3) and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) but from the above discussions, it is amply clear that above prosecution witnesses are contradicting each other□s statements. All the four prosecution witnesses mentioned above were adduced by the prosecution with the view to support and establish the theory of last seen together and to corroborate each other□s evidence but the prosecution has miserably failed in its attempt. Since, in spite of corroborating each other's evidence, the prosecution witnesses Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3), and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) have contradicted and falsified each other's statements..

42. In written report, Exhibit K-1, no motive was stated. From the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, it is also clear that the witnesses of the so-called last seen together theory have not stated in their evidence what was the motive and why the accused-appellant Irshad came to the home of PW-1, Sarvesh Kumar Sharma, and in the presence of this witness, called the deceased Prince and took him away. What were the reasons and causes for which the accused-appellant Irshad took the deceased, Prince, with him and committed his murder. Written report, Exhibit K-1, is totally silent on this point. Prosecution witnesses of facts, such as, Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3) and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) have not stated any words in their evidence that what was the enmity and cause which compelled Irshad to kill the deceased Prince. Thus, we find that in this case, prosecution was liable to prove motive against the accused-appellants by their evidence but prosecution is totally silent on this point, which makes the prosecution story highly suspicious and doubtful.

43. It is also a notable fact that according to the prosecution witnesses, accused-appellant Irshad carried the child Prince with him and murdered him. It is also evident from the prosecution evidence that accused-appellant Irshad was resident of other locality. It is totally unbelievable that the accused-appellant Irshad carried the child in presence of the informant PW-1/Sarvesh Kumar Sharma from their home, and after committing the murder of the child, why did the accused-appellant Irshad come again in front of the house of the informant PW-1 at the railway ground, throw the dead body of the deceased, and set it on fire. It is highly risky for any accused person to come in front of the informant PW-1 and hide the dead body of the deceased. Thus, prosecution story as narrated by the prosecution witnesses were found wholly unbelievable and unreliable. It is also a fact that the Investigating Officer could not collect any material or object from the place of occurrence that would legally connect the accused-appellants with the alleged crime. It is also noteworthy that Investigating Officer was unable to recover any material objects, things or articles from possession of the accused-appellants, by which accused-appellants could be connected with the commission of the crime in spite of arrest of the accused-appellant Irshad on 06.11.2013.

44. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Gambhir (supra) has held that theory of last seen together by itself is not a conclusive proof of killing by the accused. Initial burden lies on the prosecution to prove its case that victim/deceased was lastly seen in the company of the accused-appellants but in the present case at hand, prosecution was miserably unsuccessful to prove this fact that the deceased Prince was in the company of the accused-appellant Irshad before his death.

45. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kanhaiya Lal v. State of Rajasthan, (2014) 4 SCC 715 has held in para 12 that;

"12. The circumstance of last seen together does not by itself and necessarily lead to the inference that it was the accused who committed the crime. There must be something more establishing connectivity between the accused and the crime. Mere non-explanation on the part of the appellant, in our considered opinion, by itself cannot lead to proof of guilt against the appellant."

46. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ashok v. State of Maharashtra, (2015) 4 SCC 393 in para 12 held that;

"Initial burden of proof is on the prosecution to bring sufficient evidence pointing towards guilt of the accused. However, in case of last seen together, the prosecution is exempted to prove exact happening of the incident as the accused himself would have special knowledge of the incident and thus, would have burden of proof as per Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Therefore, last seen together itself is not a conclusive proof but along with other circumstances surrounding the incident, like relations between the accused and the deceased, enmity between them, previous history of hostility, recovery of weapon from the accused, etc. non-explanation of death of the deceased, may lead to a presumption of guilt."

47. Thus, in the light of the legal principles as laid down in the case laws by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, we find that in the present case at hand, prosecution was wholly unable to discharge its initial burden of proof that Prince was called upon and carried away by accused-appellant Irshad. When prosecution was unable to discharge its initial burden, then onus of proof has not shifted on the accused-appellants under Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

48. We have also gone through the findings and reasoning given by the learned Trial Court. We find that the trial Court did not consider this legal aspect in its judgment and order of conviction. The trial Court has completely neglected this legal point and has not given any finding or reasoning on this aspect. Trial Court has also not considered this fact that evidence of prosecution witnesses, such as, informant Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3) and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) are not the witnesses of last seen together.

49. The Trial Court, without properly appreciating and evaluating the evidence and in a casual and routine manner, totally believed the evidence of Sarvesh Kumar Sharma (PW-1), Atul Kumar (PW-2), Ashok Mishra (PW-3) and Ravi Kumar (PW-4) as reliable, which, in our opinion, is wholly unreliable. From perusal of the finding and reasoning given by the trial Court, we find that trial Court only by mentioning the evidence of prosecution witnesses held that chain of evidence against the accused-appellants is complete. The finding and reasoning of the Trial Court is totally against the evidence available on the record and it is also against the settled principles of law in this respect as enunciated by the Hon□ble Supreme Court in the above referred case laws. Therefore, we find that the finding and reasoning given by learned Trial Court is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

50. In view of the above, we find and held that finding and reasoning given by learned Trial Court by which accused-appellants are held guilty for the alleged offence are liable to be set aside.

51. In view of the above, we find that judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 03.11.2020 passed by learned Trial Court is liable to be set aside and the criminal appeal of the accused-appellants are liable to be allowed.

52. The criminal appeals are allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 03.11.2020 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellants by learned Trial Court in Session Trial No. 29 of 2014 (State Vs. Irshad and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 638 of 2013, under Sections 302/34 and 201 IPC, Police Station Shahganj, District Agra. The appellants are acquitted of the charge under Sections 302/34 and 201 IPC. The appellants, Kabir Khan and Irshad, are in jail and shall be released from prison forthwith unless wanted in connection with any other case and subject to fulfilling the requirements under Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

53. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 4008 of 2021

Deshraj & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal against conviction in a dowry death case involving Sections 498-A and 304-B and the Dowry Prohibition Act.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860- Sections 498-A and 304-B and the ¾ Dowry Prohibition Act,1961-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Dowry death & Cruelty-Re-appreciation of evidence-Vague and general allegations-Father-in-law, a daily wage rickshaw puller, falsely implicated without specific role or overt act-Order of conviction against father-in-law set aside-Husband's conviction upheld-Mitigation of sentence-Balancing of aggravating and mitigating factors-Both parties belonging to weaker socio-economic strata-Sentence of life imprisonment reduced to ten years rigorous imprisonment.-Allowed partly.(Para 16 to 35) (E-6)

Held

The court held that general allegations of dowry demand against extended family members without any specific overt act cannot from the basis of a conviction under section 304B IPC. Where the father-in-law is an elderly daily-wage earner and absent during the day, roping him on omnibus allegations reflects false implication. Further, while upholding the conviction of the husband under section 304B IPC, imposing the extreme sentence of life imprisonment is unwarranted unless the offence falls within the rarest of rare categories. Considering the equal and low socio-economic status of both parties, the absence of direct evidence connecting the accused to the actual act of strangulation, and the fact that the accused immediately took the victim to the hospital, the ends of justice are met by modifying the sentence from life imprisonment to ten years of rigorous imprisonment.

1. This Criminal Appeal has been filed by the accused-appellants Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court Room No. 26, Kanpur Nagar in S.T. No. 514 of 2016 State Vs. Desh Raj and Others and Sessions Trial No. 655 of 2016 State Vs. Ram Sajeevan, both arising out of same Crime No. 314 of 2016 under Sections 498A, 304B, 302 I.P.C., and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station Naubasta, District Kanpur Nagar. By the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence, learned Trial Court held guilty and convicted to accused-appellant Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan under Section 304B I.P.C., for life imprisonment. The accused-appellant Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan were also held guilty under Section 498A I.P.C and convicted for two years simple imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5,000/-. In default of payment of fine, they were ordered to serve an additional imprisonment for one month. The accused-appellants Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan were also held guilty under Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and convicted for two years simple imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, they were ordered to serve one month of additional simple imprisonment.

2. Brief fact as is revealed from the written report-exhibit Ka-1 is that, informant Sitapati (P.W.-1), who is resident of Village Chauhanpur, P.S. Udaipur, District Pratapgrah, has lodged a written report-exhibit Ka-1, at Police Station Naubasta, stating therein that, applicant had married her daughter with Deshraj son of Ram Sajeevan, resident of Kidwai Nagar, P.S. Naubasta, District Kanpur Nagar on 11.06.2014, after giving full gift and dowry according to custom and traditions, but the in-laws of my daughter were not satisfied with the dowry and they had been demanding Rs. 5,00,000/- in dowry. The economic condition of my family was not so sound so that above demand could be fulfilled. On this thing, husband of Savita, father-in-law Ram Sajeevan, Pappu son-in-law of Ram Sajeevan, Lalita daughter of Ram Sajeevan were beating her due to this demand of dowry and for many days, they had not give her food and many times they attempted to kill her by pouring kerosene oil. This thing was told by my daughter Savita to us, when she came to my home. Applicant and her husband tried to persuade the in-laws of Savita, but they were not agreed. On the occasion of festival of Holy, my daughter had came to my house. When she had returned with her husband Deshraj, then, at the time of departure, Deshraj had given this intimidation that if you cannot give Rs.5,00,000/-, then your daughter will not return at home. On 28.04.2016, at 1:00 hours in day, Pappu (Nandoi) of my daughter Savita has informed that your daughter has died. When we went at the home of my daughter then saw that my daughter was not at home; after receiving information from neighbours, we all went at postmortem house and saw my daughter in dead condition. All the above peoples by a common intention, had murdered my daughter by strangulating her neck for not fullfiling further demand of dowry.

3. After lodging the written report-exhibit Ka-1, by informant Sitapati P.W.-1, First Information Report -Exhibit Ka-9 was registered as Crime No. 314 of 2016 at P.S. Naubasta, District Kanpur Nagar, under Section 498A, 304B, I.P.C., and 3/4 D.P. Act, on 01.05.2016 at 13:13 hours by then Constable Clerk Ashok Tiwari, PW-6. After registration of the F.I.R. exhibit-Ka-9, investigation of the case was taken up by Vishal Pandey P.W-8, the Investigating Officer reached at the spot and inspected the place of occurrence on the pointing out of the informant Sitapati and prepared site plan. He got prepared panchayatnama of dead body of Savita. He prepared other necessary police papers. The dead body of deceased Savita was sent for postmortem examination.

4. After transfer of first I.O. Vishal Pandey PW-8, investigation of the case was taken by second I.O. Gyanendra Kumar Singh, PW-7. Second I.O. Gyanendra Kumar Singh, PW-7 completed the investigation, he recorded the statement of the prosecution witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After completion of all the formalities of investigation, the second I.O. Gyanendra Kumar Singh, PW-7 has filed charge-sheet exhibit Ka-11 against accused Deshraj, Pappu and Lalita. Thereafter second I.O. Gyanendra Kumar Singh, PW-7 also filed a charge-sheet exhibit Ka-12 against accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan.

5. Dr. Sumit Kumar Mishra, PW-5, examined the dead body of the deceased Savita and prepared postmortem report exhibit Ka-8. According to postmortem report exhibit Ka-8 of deceased Savita, which was prepared by Dr. Sumit Kumar Mishra PW-5, following ante mortem injuries were found on her dead body:

1. Abraded contusion measuring 7 cm □ 2 cm on the front side of the neck, starting between the lower jaw and extending 5 cm downward, up to the thyroid cartilage.

On cutting the above injury, clotted blood was found underneath it.

2. Abraded contusion measuring 1 cm □ 1 cm located below the left side of the lower lip.

3. Contusion measuring 5 cm □ 3 cm on the left eye.

4. Contusion measuring 4 cm □ 3 cm present on the occipital area (back portion) of the head. Cause of death was asphyxia due to ante mortem throttling.

6. After submission of the charge-sheet by Second I.O. Gyanendra Kumar PW-7 in the concerned Magistrate's Court having jurisdiction, the case was committed to the Court of Session for trial because case was totally triable by Court of Session.

7. On 30.09.2016, charges were framed by the trial Court against accused persons Lalita, Deshraj, Pappu under Sections 498A, 304B I.P.C. and Section 3/4 D.P. Act. The learned trial Court also framed alternative charge against above accused persons under Section 302 I.P.C. Learned trial Court also framed charge against accused appellant Ram Sajeevan under Section 498A, 304B

I.P.C. and also an alternative charge under Section 302 I.P.C. was framed by the trial Court against Ram Sajeevan on 20.12.2016. The accused persons denied from the charge and claim for the trial.

8. In support of their case, prosecution examined and adduced prosecution witnesses informant Sitapati Devi PW-1, Dinesh Kumar PW-2, Anil Kumar PW-3, Gyanendra Kumar Dwivedi, PW-4 , Dr. Sumit Kumar Mishra PW-5, Ashok Tiwari, PW-6 Gyanendra Kumar Singh (C.O) PW-7 and Vishal Pandey (C.O.) PW-8. Harilal father of the deceased Savita was also adduced and examined as CW-1. Apart from the above ocular evidence, prosecution also relied on documentary evidence as Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-13 in support of their case.

9. After recording of the evidence of all the prosecution witnesses, trial Court examined all the accused persons under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., all the accused persons denied from the charge and all of theme have stated that they were falsely and wrongly implicated in the case. They have not committed the alleged crime. Accused appellant Deshraj have also sated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., that he is innocent. The family members of the in-laws of my wife had come before four to five days of the incident in the Mundan Ceremony of my daughter.. At the time of the incident, all the family members of the in-laws of my wife were present at my home. We all the people, my father and sisters were out of home. I had went at my work place at 06:00 p.m. After returning home, then I know about the incident. In his written statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused-appellant Deshraj also stated that he is a very poor person. Applicant lived in a kachcha hut (Madhai). By the applicant never demand of dowry has been made nor he committed cruelty of any kind before four days of the incident. The family members of my wife, such as mother, father, brothers, sisters, had come in the Mundan Ceremony of my daughter. Between my wife Savita and my father-in-law Harilal, Savita a quarrel occurred among them on the point of not giving money for wine. On the day of incident on 28.04.2016, the applicant was in Ordinance Factory Kalpi Road, Kanpur for training of BTR from the morning at 07.45 am to evening 16:45 pm. He remained present in the Ordinance Factory. When he returned home, then he came to know about the incident. My father has demanded an information under the Right to Information Act from G.C. Rawat, Additional G.M. Ordinance Factory/Central Information Officer. My father-in-law had give information on 28.04.2016 by a written application at Police Station Naubasta, Kanpur. That was registered in the GD No. 47 at night (10:00 pm). However, after that my mother-in-law (Saas) had given second false application, implicated to me and my family members, registered a false case against me and my family members. My sister was married twenty years back and they were living in District Pratapgarh and my father is too old and ill person and by pulling rickshaw trolley nearby for earning their livelihood. The accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan has also stated in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., that mother and father of my daughter-in-law Savita were present at the time of incident; I was out of house; I am innocent; I had never demanded a single penny in the form of dowry.

10. In their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C, accused-appellants submitted that they adduced their defence evidence. The accused-appellant examined Ram Kishore DW-1, Matadeen DW-2, Raj Vishwakarma as DW-3, Shyam Kumar Bajpayee as DW-4, Anjani Kumar Tiwari as DW-5 and Lalit Mohan Shukla as DW-6 in their statements.

11. The learned trial Court after recording evidence of both the sides, heard arguments of the accused person and found guilty to them. The trial Court does not find any evidence against accused-Lalita and Pappu for the alleged crime under Section 304B, 498A IPC., and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, hence acquitted accused Lalita and Pappu. The trial Court found accused-appellant Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan, guilty under Section 498A, 304B IPC and Section 4 of D.P. Act and convicted accused-appellant Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan for the alleged incident. The trial Court also acquitted the accused-appellant Deshraj under Section 302 IPC and 3 of D.P. Act. Aggrieved by the above judgment and order of conviction and sentence, accused-appellant Deshraj and Ram Sajeevan have preferred this criminal appeal in this Court.

12. We have heard learned counsel for the accused-appellants and learned AGA for the State-respondent. We have also perused all the evidence and have also gone through the impugned judgment and order of conviction as delivered by the trial Court dated 25.08.2021.

13. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant have submitted that the sentence awarded to the appellants is too severe and not in accordance with law and further the Court below has awarded punishment against the material evidence available on record.

14. Appellant No.1 is the husband and the appellant No.2 is father-in-law of the deceased Savita against whom and other family members a general allegation of demand of additional dowry of Rs. 5,00,000/- has been levelled and further the appellants have not caused murder of deceased as alleged in the First Information Report. It is also submitted that the incident is said to have occurred on 28.04.2016 and it is an admitted case of the informant that on the information she has reached at the spot on the same day and the F.I.R. has been lodged by her on 01.05.2016, we do not find that why between 28.04.2016 to 01.05.2016 at about 13:40 pm, no FIR has been lodged by her. It is also argued by the learned counsel for the accused-appellants that at the time of alleged incident, the father of the deceased was already present in the house of the deceased, but he never lodged any F.I.R., in pursuance of the alleged incident. The informant Smt. Sitapati Devi, who was wife of Harilal was examined as PW-1 before the trial Court, but she could not give explanation for lodging the delayed F.I.R. It is also submitted on behalf of the accused-appellant that father of the deceased, who was present at the time of the incident, had already submitted an application before the police, in which he had stated that his daughter Smt. Savita had died on account of committing suicide by hanging. There is no evidence before the trial Court which may say the involvement of the applicants in commission of alleged offence has come, even though the trial Court has convicted and sentenced the appellants for maximum period of life imprisonment and total fine of Rs.10,000/- which is not sustainable in the eyes of the law. It is also submitted that trial Court awarded maximum punishment of life imprisonment to accused-appellant without considering and keeping in mind the socio-economic condition and family background of the prosecution and defence side. From the evidence of prosecution, it is revealed that accused-appellant persons are very poor and father of the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is a very old and poor man. He earns his livelihood for his family by pulling rickshaw trolley. However, in respect of these facts and circumstances of the case, the trial Court without keeping this fact in mind awarded maximum punishment of life imprisonment to accused-appellant, which is against the settled principles of law. When in the law, under Section 304B IPC, minimum punishment of seven years imprisonment has been provided, then in this condition without assigning any reason and not considering the socio-economic condition of the accused-appellants, a conviction for life imprisonment for accused-appellant is too harsh and severe, which is not sustainable in the eye of the law. In this way, learned counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that judgment and order of conviction and sentence as awarded by the learned trial Court is too severe and excessive as alleged against the accused-appellant persons. Thus, learned counsel for the appellants submitted that the judgment and order of conviction as passed by the trial Court is not sustainable in the eye of law, hence liable to be set aside.

15. Against the above argument of the learned counsel for the accused-appellants, learned AGA for the State-respondents has submitted that trial Court after perusing and examining all the documentary and oral evidence, as available on the record, has passed a perfect and judicious order in the light of the evidence in the case. The trial Court found that it is a dowry death case, which happened in the matrimonial home of the deceased Savita. Postmortem report indicated death by strangulation. In view of the above facts, the trial Court sentenced and convicted the accused-appellants for life imprisonment so that after giving reasonable finding found that a message can be given to the society that no other person could dare to commit this kind of heinous offence, like dowry death. It is also submitted by learned AGA for the State-respondent that the reasoning of the trial Court is supported by the evidence oral and documentary, there is no any perversity and illegality in the findings and reasoning of the trial Court in the judgment and order of conviction dated 25.08.2021. The Criminal Appeal as preferred by the accused-appellants is devoid of merit, hence liable to be dismissed.

16. In the light of the above arguments and counter arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants and learned AGA on behalf of the State-respondents, we have gone through all prosecution evidence as available on the records. The informant Smt. Sitapati Devi PW-1 has stated in her examination-in-chief that the deceased Savita was my daughter; I have married her on 11th June, 2014 with Deshraj. Accused Ram Sajeevan is the father-in-law, Pappu is (Nandoi) and Lalita is (Nanad). These all peoples live together at Daskuan, Naubasta in own house. After marriage, my daughter had gone to Naubasta at Kanpur. About five days after marriage, my daughter returned to my home (Maika) then she told that my in-laws are not happy with dowry which you have given to them at the time of marriage; I have given in dowry one passion pro-motorcycle, gold ring, almirah, bed, utensils charpai and Rs. 20,000/- cash; My son had told me that these all peoples are not satisfied with the above dowry and demanding Rs.5,00,000/- as additional dowry; I have expressed my inability in giving Rs.5,00,000/- because I have no worth of that kind; I have persuaded my daughter Savita and send her with her husband at matrimonial home. After marriage, before her death she came five times at her maika and she had told that all the accused persons had been demanding Rs.5,00,000/- and in case of refusal, they are beating and committing cruelty; the informant Smt. Sitapati Devi PW-1 further stated in her examination-in-chief that they had not give food to her and pouring kerosene oil upon her and tried to kill her. Before one month of the current festival of Holi Savita had told that above four accused persons are demanding Rs.5,00,000/- and they are beating and committing cruelty. On 28.04.2016, at about 01:00 p.m. in noon accused Pappu (Nandoi) had made a telephonic call that your daughter has died; after this, all of us reached at the house of my daughter Savita; my daughter was not there. This came to knowledge from neighbours that my daughter had been taken to Hallet Hospital, Kanpur; after that we all reached at Hallet Hospital, there we saw the dead body; there was injury in the neck of the dead body; sign of injury was also on her face, eyes and back side of the head; dead body of my daughter was packed in the hospital; postmortem was conducted on the same day; after postmortem, the dead body of my daughter was handed over to us at 4:10 pm; after postmortem, Deshraj had performed rituals of cremation; we all of us had participated in these rituals; after that on 30.04.2016, I got typed an application in Kutchery.

17. The informant Sitapati Devi PW-1 has stated in her cross-examination that my daughter had one daughter, her name was Kritika; when my daughter had died then Kritika was of eight months. At that time, daughter of my deceased daughter is with his father in jail; at that time the girl had came from jail; her father is nourishing her; her Mundan ceremony was performed one day before the incident; my husband had participated in the Mundan ceremony; we all of us were in Delhi at that time; we live at Delhi in a rented house; address is not correctly remembered; my husband do daily labour work; I live at my house; in Mundan ceremony, my sons had came before two days; after Mundan ceremony my husband halted and sons had returned back; at the day of incident, my husband was in Kanpur; I after marriage had only one time had gone to matrimonial home of my daughter then I had seen her house; in the main house of the door there is a wooden tattar, one room of Zhuggi; all of these peoples had been living in the above Zhuggi. Ram Sajeevan father of Deshraj was a rickshaw puller. His son Deshraj does not do anything.

18. In her cross-examination, she further stated that at 09:00 am in the morning, we reached at Kanpur; we reached at the home of my daughter. There was no person except the neighbours meet; they told that dead body of the girl is in Hallet Hospital. The neighbours told only that dead body of my daughter is in the hospital; we have straight forward gone to Hallet Hospital. In hospital, my daughter was found dead. Police had taken to my husband for three days; he was locked behind the bar in the Police Station; I had stayed at the home of my Nanad. Next day morning I came to Kutchery; I had got typed an application by typewriter. At that time, my brother had came with me in Kutchery; I had not written my application; she further stated that when my husband was locked in police station then none had gone to meet him; my son and brother had not gone at police station; my husband earned 200 to 300 Rs. daily; we both people had same socio-economic status.

19. Apart from informant Smt. Sitapati Devi PW-1, other prosecution witnesses of the fact such as Dinesh Kumar PW-2, Anil Kumar PW-3, have stated and narrated the same thing and facts in their evidence in the Court as was stated by their mother informant Sitapati Devi PW-1 in her evidence.

20. From a perusal of the evidence of the above witnesses of fact, such as informant Sitapati Devi PW-1, Dinesh Kumar PW-2 and Anil Kumar PW-3, we find that general allegations regarding demand of additional dowry and cruelty are levelled by the above prosecution witnesses against accused-appellants. No specific statement or any other evidence has been adduced by the prosecution from which it could be revealed that in what way and manner father-in-law (Sasur) appellant Ram Sajeevan had committed cruelty to her deceased daughter-in-law Savita and demanded Rs.5,00,000/- From the perusal of the evidence of the above prosecution witness, it is also revealed that general allegations against accused-appellant persons including accused appellant Ram Sajeevan are levelled by the said prosecution witness. The deceased Savita was married to accused-appellant Deshraj. This fact is clearly emerged from the prosecution evidence that, accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan father of the accused-appellant Deshraj is a very poor person. He earn his livelihood and nourishing the family by pulling rickshaw trolley. A person who earns his livelihood by pulling rickshaw trolley, naturally leave home in the morning and will return at his home in the late evening. Since the above prosecution witnesses clearly accepted in their evidence that Ram Sajeevan father of accused-appellant Deshraj was a rickshaw puller and is maintaining his family by pulling rickshaw trolley, then in this condition we find that involvement of the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is falsely concocted by the prosecution side to harass the whole family of the defence side. From the perusal of the evidence of the above prosecution witness, we find that involvement of the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan in the alleged crime is doubtful and suspicious. However, when we perused the finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court in this respect, we find that trial Court has not considered this material aspect in its judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 25.08.2021.

21. The trial Court only on the basis of the general allegations against all the family members of the deceased Savita□s matrimonial home held guilty and convicted Ram Sajeevan for the alleged crime, which we find not supported by any cogent evidence on the record. It is settled principles of law that no accused person can be held guilty for heinous crime only on general allegations without supported by any cogent and reliable evidence. Thus, from the above discussions, we are of the considered view that the judgment and order of conviction passed by the trial Court in respect of the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is not judicious and proper, hence nor sustainable in the eye of the law.

22. As far as accused-appellant Deshraj is concerned, from the perusal of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, such as informant Smt. Sitapati Devi PW-1, Dinesh Kumar PW-2, Anil Kumar PW-3, this fact emerges that accused-appellant Deshraj live in a hut of Zhuggi made up of mud having a gate of tatter. It is also clear from the prosecution evidence that socio-economic condition of the prosecution side and accused-appellants are same, meaning thereby that socio-economic condition of both the sides are same. Both sides are daily wage earner peoples. They did daily labour work and earn their livelihood for their family members. It is thus clear that both sides are people of low strata, they go daily for work on daily basis and earn by doing labour work for their livelihood for maintaining their family members. This is also clear from the prosecution evidence as stated by informant Smt. Sitapati Devi PW-1, Dinesh Kumar PW-2 and Anil Kumar PW-3 that when these prosecution witnesses have reached at the house of the deceased Savita, they did not found her at her home.

23. She was taken to the Hallet Hospital by the accused persons. This fact indicate that after so called incident it was the accused-appellant persons who carried deceased Savita to the hospital for her treatment but unfortunately life of Savita could no be saved by the treatment. This fact also emerges that after death of the deceased Savita in Hallet Hospital, last cremation rituals were performed by her husband accused-appellant Deshraj. From the prosecution evidence this fact also emerges that Kritika-daughter of the deceased Savita, who was eight months old, was living with her father Deshraj accused-appellant in jail. The accused-appellant Deshraj nourishing and maintaining her daughter Kritika in jail after the death of deceased Savita. It is also a fact that husband of informant Sitapati Devi PW-1, do the labour work and earn daily 200 to 300 rupees per day.

24. Thus, from above facts, it is clearly emerges that socio-economic condition of both sides are the same. Both sides are very poor people of low strata earning their livelihood by doing daily labour work for maintaining their family members. However, when we have gone through the findings and reasoning recorded by the learned trial Court, we find that learned trial Court has not considered this major aspect in the judgment and order of conviction and sentence in this respect. Without keeping in view the socio-economic condition of the accused-appellant persons and prosecution side, trial Court sentenced accused-appellant persons to the maximum sentence of life imprisonment under Section 304B IPC. Under Section 304B of IPC, minimum sentence of seven years imprisonment is provided. The trial Court without considering this major and material aspect and totality of the fact and circumstances of the case, awarded a very severe and disproportionate punishment of life imprisonment to accused-appellant persons.

25. From the records of the file, it appears that families of the informant and accused-appellant belongs to the weaker section of the society, earning their livelihood by doing labour work on daily basis. It is settled principle of law that punishment should be of the nature and extent that it must not be too lenient and also must not be too severe and harsh. Both sides belong to weaker sections of the society and are daily wage earner. In view of the above social condition and economic capacity of the accused-appellants as well as also of the prosecution sides, we find that life imprisonment under Section 304B IPC as awarded by learned Trial Court is too harsh and severe.

26. The Three Judges Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hem Chand v. State of Haryana, (1994) 6 SCC 727, which was also a case under Section 304B IPC (dowry death), held in para 7 that;

"A reading of Section 304-B IPC would show that when a question arises whether a person has committed the offence of dowry death of a woman what all that is necessary is it should be shown that soon before her unnatural death, which took place within seven years of the marriage, the deceased had been subjected, by such person, to cruelty or harassment for or in connection with demand for dowry. If that is shown then the court shall presume that such a person has caused the dowry death. Likewise there is a presumption under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act as to the dowry death. Practically this is the presumption that has been incorporated in Section 304-B IPC also. It can, therefore, be seen that irrespective of the fact whether the accused has any direct connection with the death or not, he shall be presumed to have committed the dowry death provided the other requirements mentioned in the section are satisfied. In the instant case the prosecution has proved that the deceased died an unnatural death, but there is no direct evidence connecting the accused with the death. The accused has not been charged under Section 302 IPC. Therefore at the most it can be said that the prosecution proved that it was an unnatural death in which case also Section 304-B IPC would be attracted.

But this aspect i.e., absence of direct connection of the accused with death has certainly to be taken into consideration in balancing the sentence to be awarded to the accused.

Section 304-B IPC only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case."

27. Thus, from the above case law of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is clear that under Section 304B IPC for dowry death, life imprisonment should be awarded in rarest of the rare cases, where it is alleged that bride was killed in a brutal and ruthless manner and also where there is no mitigating circumstances, then in this condition, life imprisonment should be awarded as a rarest of the rare cases. However, the trial Court also held the accused-appellants guilty under Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act and convicted them for two years imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- to each accused and in default of payment of fine, both the accused-appellants were directed to undergo further imprisonment for three months. The accused-appellants were also convicted under Section 498A IPC for two years simple imprisonment and a fine of Rs.5,000/- each and in default of payment of fine, they were ordered to serve one month of additional imprisonment.

28. At this stage, it is also noteworthy to mention here that Harilal CW-1, who is the father of deceased Savita has also given an information to the concerned police station of this incident that his daughter Savita had committed suicide in her matrimonial home. The prosecution witness Ashok Tiwari PW-6 who was Head Moharrir at police station Naubasta on 01.05.2016 have stated in his cross-examination that one fauti information about committing of suicide by his daughter Savita was given at police station Naubasta. This information was recorded in the G.D No.48 dated 28.04.2016 at 22:00 pm., meaning thereby that after the incident Harilal CW-1 father of the deceased Savita has given fauti information about her daughter stating that her daughter Savita has committed suicide. After this Sitapati Devi PW-1, mother of deceased Savita came to surface and got typed a written report in Kutchery on 30.04.2016 and on the basis of a typed application dated 30.04.2016, the first information report exhibit Ka-9 was registered against accused appellant persons on 01.05.2016.

29. Only on this ground that accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan father of the accused-appellant Deshraj against which only general allegation has been levelled by the prosecution regarding demand of additional dowry and committing of cruelty, we cannot hold guilty to accused-Ram Sajeevan for the alleged commission of the crime. Only on this ground that accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is father-in-law of the deceased and he is father of the accused-appellant Deshraj, Ram Sajeevan could not be held guilty for the alleged crime. For recording a finding of guilty, cogent and consistent reasons and also evidence must be adduced by the prosecution. We find that no any cogent and consistent evidence is present in this case against the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan for the alleged commission of the crime except general allegations.

30. In view of the above discussions, facts and circumstances of the case, conviction and sentence awarded by the trial Court against accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is not sustainable in the eyes of the law and, therefore, liable to be set aside.

31. We are of the considered view that quantum of punishment should be proportionate to the crime. It should neither be too lenient nor too excessive and harsh. While awarding sentence, the Court must take an overall view of the facts and circumstances of the case, including the socio-economic conditions of both the parties, so as to meet the ends of justice and convey a clear message to society that no person could dare to commit any heinous crime. In view of the above facts and circumstances of the case, as revealed from the records, we are inclined to sustain the order of conviction only against accused-appellant Deshraj and maintaining the finding and reasoning in this respect. However, we are inclined to reduce the sentence from life imprisonment to the period already undergone by the accused-appellants Deshraj, without altering the finding of the trial Court in respect of accused-appellant Deshraj. The finding as given by the learned trial Court in respect of conviction and sentence against accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is not sustainable in the eye of the law, hence we are inclined to set aside the finding and reasoning of conviction and sentence against the accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan by the trial Court.

32. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the considered view that the ends of justice would meet by reducing the sentence of life imprisonment, as awarded by the trial Court against accused-appellant Deshraj, to imprisonment for a period of ten years. Thus, we reduce the life imprisonment against accused-appellant Deshraj awarded by the trial Court to the imprisonment for ten years only.

33. In the light of the above discussion, we set aside the judgment and order of conviction and sentence against accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan.

34. The accused-appellant Deshraj is in jail since 2016 and serving the sentence, meaning thereby that accused-appellant Deshraj had already served more than 9 years in jail, hence we reduced the sentence of accused-appellant Deshraj for ten years imprisonment. Thus, the criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellant is liable to be partly allowed.

35. Accordingly, the appeal is partly allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence awarded by the trial Court against accused-appellant Ram Sajeevan is, accordingly, set aside. It is directed that the appellant be released forthwith, if not warranted in any other case and also subject to the compliance of Section 437A Cr.P.C.

36. The sentence of life imprisonment under Section 304B IPC as awarded by the learned trial Court to accused-appellant Deshraj is reduced to the period of ten years imprisonment. After completing of the sentence of ten years of imprisonment, the accused-appellant Deshraj shall be released from jail.

37. Let the trial Court record be returned by the office along with the copy of this judgment for necessary information and compliance forthwith. This order shall also be sent to the jail authorities concerned for necessary compliance forthwith.

Ranjeet Patel ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to criminal appeal challenging the conviction and life sentence under section 302 IPC. The appellant assaulted the deceased on the head with an iron rod during a monetary dispute.

Headnotes

A. Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302, 504-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder-Conviction-Related and natural witnesses-Relatives residing together in a common sehan(courtyard) testifying as eye witnesses-Relationship per se no ground to discard testimony if intrinsically reliable-Non-examination of independent public witnesses not fatal-Prompt FIR naming sole accused cousin-Absence of over-implication of family members lends assurance-Ocular Vs. Medical evidence-Minor discrepancy between "iron rod" and "sabbar/rambha" non-fatal as both are heavy iron implements matching the fatal temporal bone fracture-Identification at summer dawn in open area-Close relatives capable of identifying a known person by voice, gait and physiognomy even in dim light-Intention to cause death-Targeted blow with heavy iron weapon to vital part (head) establishing murderous intent-Motive loses significance in presence of direct eyewitness testimony-Conviction and sentence affirmed.(Para 29 to 45)

Held

The court ruled that Co-residents sleeping in a shared sehan are natural witnesses to an early morning crime; close kinship goes to the caution required in scrutinizing their testimony, not its automatic rejection. Direct assault on the head with a deadly weapon proves the intent to cause death beyond reasonable doubt, overriding the need to prove motive. Appeal dismissed. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the convict Ranjeet Patel against a judgment and order passed by Mr. Om Prakash Tripathi, the then Sessions Judge, Jaunpur dated 28.03.2019 in S.T. No. 268 of 2015 (arising out of Case Crime No. 557 of 2015), under Sections 302, 504 I.P.C., Police Station Jalalpur, District Jaunpur, convicting the appellant of the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC and sentencing him to suffer imprisonment for life. A fine of Rs. 10,000/- was also imposed. In case of default in payment of fine, the appellant was directed to serve additional rigorous imprisonment for a further period of six months.

2. Aggrieved by this judgment and order of conviction and sentence, the appellant Ranjeet Patel has preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

3. The facts of this case in a nutshell are that the informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, son of Ram Dhani, a resident of Village Lakhamipur, Police Station Jalalpur, District Jaunpur lodged a written report stating therein that, today on 26.05.2015 his cousin Ranjeet Patel son of Sewak Patel, had come over to his place at 03:30 a.m. and on account of a dispute relating to money, abused his brother Ram Asrey in filthy language. When his brother woke up, Ranjeet Patel who carried an iron rod on him, assaulted the informant's brother on the head with an intention to kill him, and as a result, caused him to be seriously injured. The other family members present there tried to intervene and save his brother, but Ranjeet Patel after injuries escaped along with the iron rod. Due to seriousness of the injury, the injured was conveyed to the BHU Hospital straightaway, where doctors declared him dead. He had come to the police station with his brother (a reference to his dead body). The dead body was kept in Jeep No. UP62 C/1613. This written report is Exhibit Ka-1. The informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 got the written report scribed by one Ramshiromani Patel and lodged it with Police Station Jalalpur, District Jaunpur.

4. On the basis of the report, Exhibit Ka-1, a case was registered against named appellant Ranjeet Patel under Section 302, 504 IPC. Prosecution witness, Constable 755 Rajnath Yadav, PW-6 registered a chik First Information Report as Crime No. 557 of 2015, under Sections 302 and 504

IPC. Station Officer, Anil Kumar Singh, PW-7 reached the place of occurrence. He took up investigation of the case. He took samples of the bloodstained soil and unstained soil and also the mesh of the cot, where the deceased was sleeping at the place of occurrence, as Exhibit Ka-8. After holding inquest relating to Ram Asrey's body and preparing other police papers at the place of occurrence, the dead body was sent for postmortem examination to district headquarters.

5. On 26.05.2015, after receiving information from a police informer, the appellant was arrested. On the pointing out of the appellant, the weapon of murder a Sabbar (rambha) made of iron was recovered from the sunflower field of one Surender, a resident of Lohmaza. Fardbaramadgi was prepared as Exhibit Ka-6. The Investigating Officer inspected the place of occurrence and on the pointing out of the informant, prepared the site plan. He took down the statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. After completing all formalities of the investigation, a charge-sheet was filed before the Magistrate against the appellant Ranjeet Patel.

6. Medical witness Dr. V.K. Sonkar, PW-5, conducted postmortem examination of deceased Ram Asrey's body on 26.05.2015 and prepared a postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-2. According to Dr. V.K. Sonkar, PW-5, the following ante-mortem injuries were present on the dead body of the deceased:

(1) Contusion present on both eyelid.

(4) In the opinion of Dr. V.K. Sonkar, PW-5, who prepared the postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-2, the cause of death is due to hemorrhage, shock and coma, as a result of ante-mortem head and brain injury.

7. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session for trial. On 08.09.2015, charge was framed against appellant Ranjeet Patel by the learned Sessions Judge, Jaunpur under Sections 302 and 504 I.P.C. The appellant denied the charge and claimed trial.

8. To substantiate their case, the prosecution produced witnesses, informant Lal Sahab Patel, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3, Sangeeta, PW-4, Dr. V.K Sonkar, PW-5, Constable Raj Nath Yadav, PW-6, and S.O. Anil Kumar Singh, PW-7. Apart from the oral evidence, prosecution also relied on the documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-16.

9. In the Trial Court, prosecution witnesses were produced and their evidence recorded. After hearing all the prosecution evidence, appellant Ranjeet Patel was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 22.01.2019. During his examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the appellant denied all the allegations. The appellant has stated that a false recovery of the murder weapon was made and he was falsely implicated due to enmity. He also stated that all prosecution witnesses have testified wrongly under pressure. The appellant has also stated that he is innocent. The informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, in collusion with the S.O. Jalalpur, wrongly implicated him in the First Information Report. Deceased Ram Asrey was not a man of good character. Some unknown assailant at some time (not known) has committed the crime during the night that was not seen by anyone. The informant has implicated him due to enmity with regard to monetary transaction. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the appellant although said that he would adduce defence evidence but no defence evidence was adduced by the appellant during trial.

10. After hearing the prosecution witnesses and perusing all the prosecution evidence, oral and documentary, the learned Trial Judge acquitted the appellant of the offence under Section 504 IPC but convicted him under Section 302 IPC and sentenced him to imprisonment for life. A fine of Rs. 10,000/- was also imposed.

11. Aggrieved by the above judgment and order of the Trial Court, the appellant has preferred this criminal appeal.

12. We have heard Mr. Ashutosh Yadav, learned Amicus Curiae along with Ms. Suman Sonkar, Advocate for the appellant and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate along with Mr. K.K. Nishad, learned State Law Officer on behalf of the State and perused the record. We have also perused all the documentary and oral evidence. We have also considered the findings and reasoning of the Trial Court.

13. The learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant has submitted that the findings of the Trial Court are perverse, as admittedly the incident took place in front of the complainant's house and all the witnesses are interested witnesses because they are family members of the informant, but the Trial Court has not considered this important aspect at all. All witnesses of fact, who were examined before the Trial Court, their statements are slightly contrary with regard to nature of the murder weapon and, therefore, the conviction and sentence is totally bad in the eyes of law. It is also submitted by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that the Trial Court has failed to appreciate that there is a clear contradiction in the statement of the witnesses, and, therefore, the conviction of the appellant is bad in the eyes of law. There is contradiction between the testimonies of Lal Sahab Patel, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4. Therefore, the conviction of appellant is against the settled principles of law. Hence, the appeal is liable to be allowed and the conviction set aside.

14. It is also submitted by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant that the evidence of the complainant is self-contradictory, as he has said on the one hand that they went to the police station before they went to the BHU Hospital, and, on the other, said that they went to the BHU Hospital before the police station concerned. It is also submitted that the testimony of witnesses of fact, Lal Sahab Patel, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4, and the testimony of medical witness, Dr. V.K. Sonkar, PW-5, are also contradictory with regard to the injury sustained by the deceased. The nature of the murder weapon and the shape of injury were not corroborated, but the Trial Court failed to consider this fact. On the basis of the above submission, the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant vehemently submitted that the Trial Court has not considered the above legal point and against the evidence and law, delivered a judgment of conviction. Hence, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court dated 28.03.2019 is liable to be set aside and the appeal of the convict-appellant is liable to be allowed.

15. The submissions advanced by the learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant, have been repelled by Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned AGA for the State. He has submitted that the appellant has been named in the written report. Except appellant Ranjeet Patel, no other family member of the appellant has been named as the accused. From this fact, it is clear that the informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, has not falsely implicated the appellant Ranjeet Patel. The incident happened in front of the houses of both sides and in the presence of eye-witnesses. The date of incident is 26.05.2015 at 03:30 a.m., which is a summer morning. When the appellant assaulted deceased Ram Asrey, all the witnesses of fact for the prosecution were sleeping nearby Ram Asrey□s cot in the open, in front of the house. They woke up and saw that appellant Ranjeet Patel was assaulting deceased Ram Asrey, employing the weapon of crime. No material contradictions are present in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses. If there are any contradictions, these are of a very trivial nature, which cannot affect the prosecution story. In front of the victim□s house in the open area in the early morning on 26.05.2015, the appellant brutally assaulted the deceased with an iron rod (Sabbal/Rambha) on the head, due to which Ram Asrey died. All the witnesses have seen the occurrence with their own eyes, which was committed by appellant Ranjeet Patel.

16. It is also submitted by the learned AGA for the State that the findings and reasoning recorded by the Trial Court are according to the evidence on record and the settled principles of law. The Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in right perspective and according to the legal principles applicable. No perversity and illegality are there in the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the Trial Court. Hence, the criminal appeal preferred by appellant Ranjeet Patel is devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed.

17. Considering the submissions advanced by both sides and upon a perusal of the written report, it appears that appellant Ranjeet Patel alone has been named as the accused involved in the commission of the crime. Upon a perusal of the F.I.R, it is evident that the incident occurred on 26.05.2015 at 03:30 a.m. and a report at the police station concerned has been lodged on 26.05.2015 at 09:30 a.m. by informant, Lal Sahab, PW-1.

18. Upon a perusal of the report, it is also clear that in the said report, Exhibit Ka-1, informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 has said that on 26.05.2015 his cousin Ranjeet Patel had come over to his door and at 03:30 a.m, begun to abuse his brother Ram Asrey. When his brother Ram Asrey woke up, appellant Ranjeet Patel assaulted him with an iron rod on the head, due to which he was seriously injured. Thereafter, Ranjeet Patel ran away. In the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is stated that due to seriousness of the injury, the deceased was carried to the BHU Hospital, where doctors declared him dead.

19. In his examination-in-chief, Lal Sahab, PW-1, has stated the same facts as stated by him in his written report, Exhibit Ka-1. From the cross-examination of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, it is evident that Ram Dhani Patel, Ram Chander and Ram Sewak were brothers of full blood. Ram Dhani Patel, Ram Chander and Ram Sewak would reside in the same house at the time of the incident. Ram Dhani Patel had two sons, the deceased Ram Asrey and informant Lal Sahab, PW-1. Ram Sewak had two sons, appellant Ranjeet Patel and Sarwajeet Patel. Ram Chander had two sons, Shiv Kumar Patel and Hemant. At the time of incident, only Hemant was living out of station, whereas all others stayed home. From the cross-examination of this witness, it appears that all the families of the three brothers, including that of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 had been living in one house. Each had got two rooms in partition. The sehan of the house was not partitioned. All used the sehan of the house jointly. Informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, has said in his cross-examination that when appellant Ranjeet Patel was abusing Ram Asrey, they all woke up and heard the abuses. The family members of Ram Chander and Ram Dular, who were also awake did not come forward. When the Investigating Officer came over to the spot for investigation, PW-1 was present at the place of occurrence. He told all details to the Investigating Officer. The Investigating Officer had inquired from him. The witness has denied the suggestion that at the time of the incident that night, he and his wife were not present and sleeping at the place of occurrence. The witness also denied the suggestion that he and his wife were not present at home on the night of the incident and came back at 08:00 a.m. after hearing about it all.

20. During his cross-examination, this witness has stated that he did not convey the deceased to the Jalalpur Government Hospital directly, but had gone to the police station. At the police station, the Daroga told him to take the victim to the BHU Hospital, but before reaching BHU Hospital, Ram Asrey died. Nevertheless, they reached there. On reaching BHU Hospital, the doctor said that death had occurred ten to fifteen minutes earlier. This witness also stated that deceased Ram Asrey had received a total of three injuries. He was assaulted by the appellant three times. One injury in the frontal area of the head, the second injury on the left and right side of the head, both sides bleeding. There was no bleeding from any other injury. This witness denied this suggestion that at the time of the incident, there was darkness. This witness further said that at the time of the incident, there was no light illuminating on his door. On hearing the abusive words by the appellant, at the time of incident, PW-1 and Ram Asrey, Sangeeta, Suman and Sukhwanti, all had woken up. Three blows that were delivered to Ram Asrey, caused grievous injuries. Ram Asrey was assaulted with a rambha, which was not just an iron rod. It was flat, not rounded on the mouth side; it was pointed.

21. Thus, upon a perusal of the evidence of informant, Lal Sahab, PW-1, it is revealed that at the time of the incident, this witness and all other prosecution witnesses, such as Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4 were sleeping in front of their house in the sehan. It was early in the morning at 03:30 hours. The appellant Ranjeet Patel on account of a dispute related to a monetary transaction, abused deceased Ram Asrey. On hearing abuses hurled by appellant Ranjeet Patel, all witnesses i.e. informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4 woke up. During abusive diatribe, appellant Ranjeet Patel assaulted Ram Asrey with the iron rod (sabbal/rambha) striking him on the head. There is a minor contradiction in the evidence of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 about this fact that at one place, informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 has stated that after the incident, he carried injured Ram Asrey straight to the BHU Hospital, but elsewhere in his evidence, he has said that for a first, he took Ram Asrey to the police station, where the Daroga asked the informant to convey the victim to the BHU Hospital.

22. In our view, the above contradictions are not major and material ones at all. The contradictions which figure in the evidence of this witness, are very minor ones, which in our view, do not affect the prosecution story or worth of the evidence of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1. Upon a perusal of the evidence of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, we find that this witness in a very natural way, has stated those facts, which he has seen at the time of occurrence. After the happening of the incident, he carried Ram Asrey to the BHU Hospital and lodged the FIR. We find no material and major contradiction in the evidence of this witness. We also do not find any contradiction, embellishment, concoction and false narration of facts by this witness. Therefore, in the light of the above discussion, we do not find any force in the arguments of the learned Amicus Curiae.

23. The prosecution witness Suman Devi, PW-2 is the wife of deceased Ram Asrey. Upon a perusal of the evidence of Suman Devi, PW-2, it appears that this witness has also corroborated the date, time and place of occurrence as also the manner and mode of commission of the offence by appellant Ranjeet Patel. This witness has testified that she had seen appellant Ranjeet Patel assaulting her husband, striking him on his head. This witness has also stated that the Police had inquired of her about the incident. Upon a perusal of the evidence of this eye-witness, it is evident that this witness also confirmed the fact that all family members of Ram Sewak, Ram Chander and Ram Dhani were living jointly in one common house and they all had a common sehan in front of their house. From the evidence of this witness, it is clear that this witness had come from Surat with her husband Ram Asrey to her village Lakhamipur. It is also evident from the evidence of this witness that this witness stated that after Ram Asrey was injured, his brother-in-law Lal Sahab, PW-1, wife and sister-in-law carried Ram Asrey in the night to the hospital for treatment. Upon a perusal of the evidence of this witness, it appears that she expressed her ignorance about the monetary transaction. However, she also said that Lal Sahab, PW-1, had knowledge about the monetary transaction. Upon an overall assessment of this witness, we do not find any kind of major or material contradiction in her evidence giving rise to a cause, on the ground of which, we may disbelieve the testimony of this natural eyewitness of the incident. In other words, the prosecution witness Suman Devi, PW-2, has testified in a natural manner that inspires confidence without any embellishment, concoction and exaggeration. Whatever be the discrepancy or contradiction in her evidence, it is of very minor nature, and, therefore, we find the evidence of this witness, wholly reliable. From the evidence of this witness, the evidence of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, finds support and corroboration.

24. Prosecution witness Sukhwanti, PW-3, is the mother of deceased Ram Asrey. This witness has also supported the prosecution story as narrated and testified to by the prosecution witness informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 and Suman Devi, PW-2.

25. From a perusal of the evidence of this witness, we find that this witness has also stated the fact that the Sehan was in the common use of all the family members. This relevant fact emerges that there was a marriage of Gulab□s son and there was also a marriage in the house of Ram Chander. Both the marriages were scheduled after the date of incident. It is another account that on the date of incident, brothers and sisters and other relatives had come. From this fact, it is established that on the date of incident, Suman Devi, PW-2, was present at her matrimonial home and she had seen the incident with her own eyes.

26. This witness has denied the suggestions of the defence that it is wrong to say that Ram Asrey has had illicit relations with Gudiya, daughter of Ranjeet Patel, due to which, she had become pregnant and committed suicide. Although, PW-2 denied this suggestion, however, this suggestion by the defence reveals a serious fact relevant to the present case.

27. The prosecution produced Sangeeta as PW-4. This witness is the wife of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1. Upon a perusal of the evidence of this witness Sangeeta, PW-4, it is clear that, this witness also supports the prosecution story. By the evidence of this witness, the evidence of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2 and Sukhwanti, PW-3, find support and corroboration. This witness has testified that there was a dispute about a monetary transaction between Ram Asrey and Ranjeet Patel.

28. All four witnesses in this case are close relatives of deceased Ram Asrey, informant Lal Sahab, PW-1 being the real brother of the deceased, Suman Devi, PW-2 is deceased Ram Asrey's wife, Sukhwanti, PW-3, deceased Ram Asrey's mother and Sangeeta, PW-4, the deceased's sister-in-law. It is also noteworthy that appellant Ranjeet Patel is a cousin of deceased Ram Asrey and informant Lal Sahab, PW-1. Thus, both sides are family members amongst themselves. Appellant Ranjeet Patel has been named in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, as the sole accused. If informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, intended to implicate Ranjeet Patel falsely, he could easily implicate all the family members of Ranjeet Patel. However, the fact that the appellant alone has been nominated in the FIR, lends assurance that the appellant has not been falsely implicated in this case. All the above prosecution witnesses- Lal Sahab, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4 had witnessed the incident with their own eyes and they have stated true facts in a natural manner without any embellishment, exaggeration or concoction. Therefore, on the ground alone that all the prosecution witnesses of fact are family members of deceased Ram Asrey, evidence of these eye-witnesses cannot be rejected.

29. As per law, it is well settled that the Court is required to scrutinise and analyse the evidence of family members with great care and caution. It is also noteworthy that a family member of a victim would not falsely implicate an innocent man in the commission of the crime or exculpate the real culprit of the crime.

30. The Supreme Court in the case of Ashok Kumar Chaudhary and Others Vs. State of Bihar, 2008 (61) ACC 972 has held in paragraph 7:

"7. We are not impressed with the argument. Though it is true that the incident having taken place near the market around 6 p.m. on 17th July, 1988, the prosecution should have attempted to secure public witnesses who had witnessed the incident, but at the same time one cannot lose sight of the ground realities that the members of the public are generally insensitive and reluctant to come forward to report and depose about the crime even though it is committed in their presence. In our opinion, even otherwise it will be erroneous to lay down as a rule of universal application that non-examination of a public witness by itself gives rise to an adverse inference against the prosecution or that the testimony of a relative of the victim, which is otherwise credit-worthy, cannot be relied upon unless corroborated by public witnesses. Insofar as the question of credit-worthiness of the evidence of relatives of the victim is concerned, it is well settled that though the Court has to scrutinize such evidence with greater care and caution but such evidence cannot be discarded on the sole ground of their interest in the prosecution. The relationship per se does not affect the credibility of a witness. Merely because a witness happens to be a relative of the victim of the crime, he/she cannot be characterized as an "interested" witness. It is trite that the term "interested" postulates that the person concerned has some direct or indirect interest in seeing that the accused is somehow or the other convicted either because he had some animus with the accused or for some other oblique motive."

31. In Namdeo Vs. State of Maharashtra, 2007 AIR SCW 1835, the Supreme Court has held that "a close relative cannot be characterized as an "interested" witness. He is a natural witness. His evidence, however, must be scrutinised carefully. If on such scrutiny, his evidence is found to be intrinsically reliable, inherently probable and wholly trustworthy, conviction can be based on the 'sole' testimony of such witness. Close relationship of witness with the deceased or victim is no ground to reject his evidence. On the contrary, close relative of the deceased would normally be most reluctant to spare the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent one".

32. Upon a perusal of the prosecution evidence, it appears that in the FIR, the weapon of murder is described as an Iron rod. Recovery from appellant Ranjeet Patel was that of Sabbar/rambha made of iron. On this point, the prosecution witness/informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, in his evidence, described the weapon of murder as an iron rod. In his cross-examination, Lal Sahab, PW-1, described the murder weapon, employed in the assault as a rambha made of iron. Suman Devi, PW-2, described the murder weapon as an iron rod. Sukhwanti, PW-3, described the weapon of murder as rambha, which is used for digging earth. PW-4, Sangeeta has also described the weapon of murder as rambha. However, it is a clear fact that between a rambha and an iron rod, there is no major difference. In dimension, an iron rod is little thinner than a rambha. A rambha is fabricated out of a very thick iron rod for boring earth or digging up a hole. In other words, both are iron rods. An iron rod is comparatively thin while a sabbar is slightly thicker in diameter than an iron rod. But, both are made of hard iron. Thus, on this ground, we cannot disbelieve the evidence of eye-witnesses for the prosecution. We also cannot doubt and reject the prosecution story on that ground.

33. Upon a perusal of the findings and reasoning given by the learned Trial Judge on this point, we find that the Trial Court has discussed and appreciated the evidence on this point in right perspective and has given a cogent finding. From a perusal of the evidence of medical witness Dr. V.K. Sonkar, PW-5, who did the autopsy and prepared the postmortem report of deceased Ram Asrey, Exhibit Ka-2, it is evident that injury No.3 is 1.5 x 1.5 cm, a lacerated wound present on left temporal region x deep bone fracture of left temporal bone. Thus, from a perusal of injury no.3, it is clear that this type of injury could only be caused by an object made of iron, such as iron rod (rambha). Due to the use of an iron rod (rambha), a deep bone fracture was found on left temporal bone of deceased Ram Asrey. Thus, from the above discussion, we find no force in the arguments of the learned Amicus Curiae assisting us on behalf of the appellant.

34. Further, upon a perusal of the report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is apparent that the incident occurred on 26.05.2015 at 03:30 a.m. It is also evident that the month of May is a summer month, but no fact about the source of light has been mentioned in the FIR. In the month of May, which is a very hot month of the summer season, at 03:30 hours in the early morning, it is quite possible to identify a person in the open sky, particularly, in front of one□s house, say the sehan. It is also noteworthy that the appellant and the victim are very close family members. Appellant Ranjeet Patel was a cousin of Lal Sahab, PW-1. It is well known that residents of a village can identify locals in dim light or where it is slightly dark. To add to it, in the case in hand, the appellant is a cousin of informant Lal Sahab, PW-1. In this condition, prosecution witnesses, informant Lal Sahab, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4, who are all family members, could easily have identified appellant Ranjeet Patel by his speech, language, gait, even in very poor light or when it was slightly dark.

35. In Nathuni Yadav Vs. State of Bihar, 1998 (9) SCC 238, the Supreme Court held:

"Even assuming that there was no moonlight then, we have to gauge the situation carefully. The proximity at which the assailants would have confronted with the injured, the possibility of some light reaching there from the glow of stars, and the fact that the murder was committed on a roofless terrace are germane factors to be borne in mind while judging whether the victims could have had enough visibility to correctly identify the assailants. Over and above those factors, we must bear in mind the further fact that the assailants were no strangers to the inmates of the tragedy-bound house, the eyewitnesses being well acquainted with the physiognomy of each one of the killers. We are, therefore, not persuaded to assume that it would not have been possible for the victims to see the assailants or that there was possibility for making a wrong identification of them. We are keeping in mind the fact that even the assailants had enough light to identify the victims whom they targeted without any mistake from among those who were sleeping on the terrace. If the light then available, though meagre, was enough for the assailants why should we think that the same light was not enough for the injured who would certainly have pointedly focussed their eyes on the faces of the intruders standing in front of them. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

36. Therefore, in view of the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the above authority, it is also clear that the prosecution witnesses in the present case would have easily and clearly identified appellant Ranjeet Patel at 03:30 hours early in the morning, in the occurrence that happened on 26.05.2015 i.e. during the summers. Thus, in view of the above guidance of the Supreme Court and the facts and circumstances of the case in hand, the argument of the learned Amicus Curiae has no force in this respect.

37. It is a settled principle of law that where the prosecution story finds support from eyewitnesses of the case, the motive loses its significance. In other words, if in any case where a crime is committed by a person and other persons have witnessed the incident with their own eyes, and such witnesses testify to it in Court, motive loses its significance. In the present case, eyewitnesses produced by the prosecution have clearly seen the occurrence which was committed by appellant Ranjeet Patel. All the four prosecution witnesses of fact have supported the prosecution story and they have specifically said in their evidence that they have seen appellant Ranjeet Patel assaulting deceased Ram Asrey on the head, employing a sabbar/rambha, with their own eyes.

38. It is also a well-known fact that the head of a human body is a very sensitive and vital part. Without doubt, appellant Ranjeet Patel assaulted deceased with an iron rod (rambha) on his head, fracturing the temporal bone, with the intention to kill Ram Asrey.

39. The kind of the weapon employed and the site of the injury also clearly indicate the intention of appellant Ranjeet Patel, which was clearly one to kill. The assault on the deceased's head by Ranjeet Patel with an iron rod (rambha) is self-speaking.

40. Although, all the four prosecution witnesses, to wit, informant Lal Sahab Patel, PW-1, Suman Devi, PW-2, Sukhwanti, PW-3 and Sangeeta, PW-4 are family members and interested witnesses, but on this ground alone, reliable and trustworthy testimony of theirs cannot be rejected. Upon a perusal of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, it is amply clear that all the prosecution witnesses of fact have clearly testified to the manner and mode in which appellant Ranjeet Patel had assaulted deceased Ram Asrey on his head and committed the crime. Therefore, only on the ground that all prosecution witnesses of fact are family members and interested witnesses, we cannot reject the testimony of the eyewitnesses in this case.

41. From a perusal of the findings and reasoning of the Trial Court, we find that the Trial Court has discussed and given findings on other arguable points raised by the defence. The findings and reasoning given by the Trial Court are supported by evidence of the prosecution, and are based on a sound appreciation of the evidence on record. Hence, we find no illegality, infirmity or perversity in the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court.

42. Therefore, in view of the above discussion, we find no force in the arguments of the learned Amicus Curiae.

43. Resultantly, this criminal appeal filed by the appellant is devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the Trial Court affirmed.

44. In view of the above discussion, we affirm the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the Trial Court in S.T. No. 268 of 2015, State Vs. Ranjeet Patel (arising out of Crime No.557 of 2015), under Section 302 IPC against appellant Ranjeet Patel.

45. The appeal is, accordingly, dismissed.

46. Let this order be communicated to the Trial Court concerned and the lower Court records be transmitted.

Criminal Appeal No. 4617 of 2022

Jugendra Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal before the Allahabad High Court challenging the trial court's conviction of three accused under sections 302/34 IPC and Section 25 of the Arms Act.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/34 & Section 25 of the Arms Act,1959-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder-Conflict between Eyewitness Testimony and Medical Findings-PW-1 and PW-2 claiming two gunshots were fired at the deceased, whereas postmortem report and doctor's testimony establishing only a single firearm injury showing blackening and tattooing-Proof of motive-Hearsay evidence-Alleged motive rooted in village rumors and hearsay regarding illicit relationship rather that direct personal knowledge-Unverified rumor cannot be treated as reliable proof of motive-Motive attributed by prosecution highly doubtful and concocted-FSL revealing disputed bullet/cartridge did not match weapon recovered from accused-Weapons allegedly recovered at instance of co-accused from open fields accessible to general public after ten days of incident-No evidence showing recovered tamanchas were ever sent for forensic examination or linked to crime scene-Mere recovery without proving direct connection to commission of crime insufficient to establish guilt-Conviction set aside-Allowed.(Para 22 to 51) (E-6)

Held

The court ruled that unproven motive rooted in unverified hearsay regarding an illicit relationship coupled with a negative FSL report showing firearm mismatch and uncorroborated recoveries from open, accessible places, breaks the chain of guilt. Prosecution failed to prove charge beyond reasonable doubt-Appellants acquitted.

1. Both the criminal appeals, being Criminal Appeal No. 4588 of 2022 and Criminal Appeal No. 4617 of 2022, have been preferred by the convicts, to wit, Jugendra Singh, Deputy Singh and Ramveer, against the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 02.06.2022, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Aligarh, in Sessions Trial No. 1009 of 2004 (State vs. Jugendra Singh and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 249 of 2004, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh; Sessions Trial No. 1010 of 2004 (State vs. Jugendra Singh), arising out of Case Crime No. 250 of 2004, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh; Sessions Trial No. 1011 of 2004 (State vs. Deputy Singh), arising out of Case Crime No. 276 of 2004, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh; and Sessions Trial No. 829 of 2005 (State vs. Ramveer), arising out of Case Crime No. 275 of 2004, under Section 25 of the Arms Act, Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh.

2. The prosecution story, as per the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), is that the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), submitted a report written in his own handwriting, stating therein that in the intervening night of 9/10.08.2004, at about 2:15 A.M, his brother, Bhagwan Singh, was sleeping on a cot in front of their gher, which was illuminated by electric light. The informant himself was lying on the same cot, and his mother, Smt. Kalawati, was lying on another cot nearby. At that time, Naihna @ Mannu, son of Ramswaroop Baghel, resident of Village Hiranpura, Police Station Akrabad; Jugendra, son of Jangveer Baghel; Ramveer, son of Siyaram Baghel; and Deputy, son of Siyaram Baghel, residents of Village Bahadurpur, Police Station Akrabad, entered the premises, all armed with country-made pistols (tamancha). Ramveer and Deputy caught hold the informant and his mother, while Naihna and Jugendra, armed with tamanchas, shot at his brother, Bhagwan Singh. After killing his brother, the four accused fled towards the fields. Upon hearing the commotion and gunshots, family members and neighbours rushed to the spot and also saw the assailants in the light. They attempted to chase and apprehend the accused, but the accused managed to escape. The informant further stated that the motive was longstanding enmity, as Naihna had illicit relations with Jugendra's sister, Shashi. Two or three days prior to the incident, Bhagwan Singh had confronted Naihna in this regard, which led to an altercation, and Naihna extended a threat that I will see you. Naihna was also stated to be a frequent visitor to the house of Ramveer.

3. The written report (Exhibit Ka-1) was submitted by the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), at Police Station Akrabad on 10.08.2004 at about 5:15 A.M. On the basis of the said report, a case was registered against the named accused persons (appellants herein) at Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh, as Case Crime No. 249 of 2004, under Section 302 IPC by Head Moharrir (H.M.), Rakshpal Singh (PW-3) on 10.08.2004.

4. After the registration of the first information report at Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh, Sub-Inspector Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7) took up the investigation of the case. The Investigating Officer, Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), reached the place of occurrence along with a police team. He inspected the place of occurrence and recovered a 315 bore bullet from near the cot of the deceased and prepared a recovery memo, which has been marked as Exhibit Ka-14. He also prepared the site plan in his own handwriting, which has been marked as Exhibit Ka-13.

5. Under the direction and supervision of the Investigating Officer, Sub-Inspector Shiv Kumar Singh (PW-5), the inquest report (panchayatnama) of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh, was conducted and marked as Exhibit Ka-8. He also collected samples of bloodstained soil and plain soil from the place of occurrence. Sub-Inspector Shiv Kumar Singh (PW-5) further prepared other necessary police papers, which have been marked as Exhibits Ka-7, Ka-9, Ka-10 and Ka-11. Thereafter, following the inquest proceedings of deceased Bhagwan Singh, the dead body was sent for autopsy.

6. The Investigating Officer, Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), arrested appellant Jugendra Singh and recovered a tamancha with an empty cartridge in its barrel, along with one live cartridge of 315 bore, from his possession. He prepared a recovery memo, which has been marked as Exhibit Ka-15. The other appellants, Ramveer and Deputy Singh, had surrendered before the Court. The Investigating Officer, with the permission of the competent Court having jurisdiction, interrogated Ramveer and Deputy Singh. During interrogation, Ramveer and Deputy Singh disclosed the place where the murder weapons had been concealed. He visited the place indicated by the appellants and searched for the tamanchas, however, they could not be recovered at that time. Thereafter, by order of the concerned Court, the Investigating Officer took appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh into police custody remand for 24 hours. They were taken to the police station and subsequently to the place indicated by them. On the pointing out of appellant Ramveer Singh, a 12 bore tamancha in working condition was recovered. On the pointing out of appellant Deputy Singh, a 303 bore tamancha, also in working condition, was recovered. A recovery memo of these recoveries was prepared, which has been marked as Exhibit Ka-16, dated 11.09.2004.

7. On the basis of the above recovery of an illegal tamancha and cartridge from the possession of appellant Jugendra Singh, a case was registered as Case Crime No. 250 of 2004 under Section 25 of the Arms Act at Police Station Akrabad against appellant Jugendra Singh. On the basis of the recovery of the aforesaid illegal tamanchas and cartridge from appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh, cases were registered against them as Case Crime No. 275 of 2004 and Case

Crime No. 276 of 2004 under Section 25 of the Arms Act at Police Station Akrabad, District Aligarh, against appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh, respectively.

8. After recording the statements of the prosecution witnesses and preparing the site plan of the places from where illegal tamanchas had been recovered from the possession of the appellants, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge sheet, marked as Exhibit Ka-18, against appellants Jugendra Singh, Ramveer Singh and Deputy Singh under Section 302 IPC. Head Constable Ramesh Chandra investigated the case registered as Case Crime No. 250 of 2004 against Jugendra Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act and submitted the charge sheet, marked as Exhibit Ka-22. Head Constable Suresh Chandra Pandey investigated the case registered as Case Crime No. 275 of 2004 against Ramveer under Section 25 of the Arms Act and submitted the charge sheet, marked as Exhibit Ka-26.Head Constable Suresh Chandra Pandey also investigated the case registered as Case Crime No. 276 of 2004 against Deputy Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act and submitted the charge sheet, marked as Exhibit Ka-24.

9. Although the accused, Naihna @ Mannu, was named in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the Investigating Officer made repeated efforts to arrest him. The Investigating Officer also initiated proceedings under Sections 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. pursuant to the orders of the Court. However, despite the issuance of process under Sections 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. against the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu could not be arrested. Consequently, the Investigating Officer submitted the charge-sheet (Exhibit Ka-24) only against the present appellants. The present appellants were, therefore, put to trial and were ultimately found guilty and convicted by the Trial Court.

10. Doctor Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6), who conducted the postmortem examination of the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh, and prepared the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-12), found the following ante-mortem injuries on the dead body of the deceased:

"Injury No. 1: An abraded wound measuring 3 cm □ 5 cm on the left side of the forehead.

Injury No. 3: A firearm wound of entry measuring 3 cm □ 1.5 cm located on the right side of the face, directly in front of the right ear. This wound was deep enough to reach the jaw, causing fracture of the jawbone. Upon dissection, it was found that the pharynx was ruptured. In addition to this, the right temporal bone was also found fractured."*

During the postmortem examination, Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6) recovered a bullet from near the left jaw of the deceased and handed over the same to the concerned constable in sealed cover. According to the opinion of PW-6, the cause of death was haemorrhage and shock as a result of ante-mortem firearm injuries.

11. After submission of the charge-sheets before the concerned Magistrate Court, since the main case under Section 302 IPC was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, the learned Magistrate committed all the cases to the Sessions Court for trial.

12. Charges were framed against appellants Jugendra Singh, Ramveer and Deputy Singh under Section 302 IPC by the Trial Court on 25.01.2005. Separate charges were also framed against the appellants as follows; against appellant Jugendra Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act on 25.01.2005; against appellant Ramveer Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act on 24.02.2006; and against appellant Deputy Singh under Section 25 of the Arms Act on 25.01.2005. Appellants denied all the charges levelled against them and claimed trial.

13. To substantiate its case, the prosecution produced a total of nine prosecution witnesses, namely Pappu Singh (PW-1), Kalawati (PW-2), Rakshpal Singh (PW-3), Narayan Singh (PW-4), Shiv Kumar Singh (PW-5), Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6), Sub-Inspector Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), Virendra Kumar (PW-8), and Umashankar (PW-9). Apart from the above ocular evidence, the prosecution also relied upon documentary evidence, from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-30.

14. The Trial Court recorded the evidence of the prosecution witnesses. Thereafter, the appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C.. In their statements, the appellants denied all the allegations levelled against them and asserted that they had been falsely implicated in the case due to prior enmity and village rivalry.

15. The Trial Court, after completing the proceedings of recording of evidence and examination of the appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C., heard arguments of both sides and found the appellants guilty under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced them to rigorous imprisonment for life along with a fine of Rs. 5,000/- each. In default of payment of fine, the appellants were directed to serve an additional two months of rigorous imprisonment. The appellants were also found guilty by the Trial Court under Section 25 of the Arms Act, and each of them was convicted and sentenced to two years of rigorous imprisonment along with a fine of Rs. 2,000/-. In default of payment of fine, the appellants were directed to serve an additional one month of imprisonment. The Trial Court ordered that all the sentences awarded to the appellants shall run concurrently.

16. We have heard the arguments of learned Counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. on behalf of the State-respondent, perused the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 02.06.2022 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 8, Aligarh, and also gone through the entire evidence available on record.

17. Learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2) are said to be the eyewitnesses of the incident by the prosecution. Both these eyewitnesses are highly interested and partisan witnesses and they are also family members of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. The way in which PW-1 and PW-2 have stated about the alleged occurrence, is wholly unnatural and unbelievable. Although, according to PW-1, he was sleeping on the same cot upon which his brother, the deceased Bhagwan Singh, was sleeping, Pappu Singh (PW-1) has not received any injury on his body. He did not even try to catch the culprits. No bloodstains were found on the clothes of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1).

18. The incident is said to have occurred at about 2:15 A.M. in the night. The time of 2:15 A.M. is a time when people sleep in a very deep and sound sleep. When a person sleeps in such a deep and sound condition, how can he suddenly identify the accused. It is also submitted that although PW-1 and PW-2 stated that they had seen the occurrence of the incident and identified the accused in the presence of electric light, however, PW-1 and PW-2 have admitted in their evidence that they had no electricity connection at their home or at their gher. PW-1 and PW-2 have stated that electricity was available at the temple and that they had taken illegal electric supply from the temple through a wire. This fact also makes the availability of electric light at the time of the incident doubtful. There are many major and material contradictions in the evidence of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2). However, without considering and giving any cogent and reasonable findings, the Trial Court has wrongly held the appellants guilty of the commission of the alleged crime.

19. Learned Counsel for the appellants has also submitted that the recovery of the so-called illegal tamancha from appellant Jugendra Singh by the Investigating Officer, is highly doubtful and suspicious. The recovery of illegal tamanchas, on the pointing out of appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh, after taking them on police custody remand, is also highly doubtful. The illegal tamanchas said to have been recovered from appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh, are recovered from an open field, which is accessible to everyone, but despite this fact, the Trial Court has also held the appellants, namely, Jugendra Singh, Ramveer and Deputy Singh, guilty under Section 25 of the Arms Act and convicted them. The Trial Court, without any legal and reliable evidence, has held the appellants guilty under Section 25 of the Arms Act. The findings and reasoning of the Trial Court are based on improper appreciation of evidence and are against the settled principles of law. The Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in the proper perspective and only on the basis of conjectures and surmises, without there being any cogent and reliable evidence against the appellants, convicted them. The evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 is highly doubtful and thereby untrustworthy. The testimonies of these prosecution witnesses are doubtful and, due to this, are highly suspicious and unreliable.

20. In view of the above, learned Counsel for the appellants has submitted that the impugned judgment and order dated 02.06.2022 passed by the Trial Court, is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside. Hence, the present criminal appeal is liable to be allowed.

21. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that prosecution witnesses, informant Pappu Singh (PW-1) and his mother Kalawati (PW-2), have seen the alleged occurrence with their own eyes. They were sleeping at the place of occurrence along with the deceased Bhagwan Singh. Appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh caught hold of informant Pappu Singh (PW-1) and his mother Kalawati (PW-2), and absconding accused Naihna @ Mannu and appellant Jugendra Singh killed the deceased Bhagwan Singh by firing gunshots from their tamanchas. PW-1 and PW-2 witnessed the incident in the light of electric bulb. Both these prosecution witnesses are natural witnesses who have seen the incident with their own eyes. There is no chance of false implication of the appellants. The tahreer was lodged promptly. There are no such contradictions, omissions, or embellishments by reason of which the evidence of these prosecution witnesses can be doubted. The Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in a proper perspective based on the material available on record and has recorded findings and reasoning fully based on the evidence and facts of the case. There is no illegality or perversity in the judgment and order of the learned Trial Court. There is no force in these criminal appeals preferred by the appellants. Hence, both these criminal appeals are devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed.

22. In the light of the above arguments and counter arguments of the learned Counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State, from a perusal of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) as well as first information report (Exhibit Ka-2), it is apparent that alleged incident occurred on 09/10.08.2004 at about 2:15 A.M. in the night, meaning thereby it was night of 09.08.2004 and morning of 10.08.2004 at about 2:15 A.M. Informant Pappu Singh (PW-1) has lodged written report against absconding accused Naihna @ Mannu, who could not be arrested and against appellants, namely, Jugendra Singh, Ramveer and Deputy Singh. First information report was registered against appellants on 10.08.2004 at about 5:15 A.M. Thus, it appears that first information report was lodged against the appellants promptly without any delay within three hours of the alleged incident.

23. Prosecution has produced the informant Pappu Singh as PW-1. PW-1 in his examination-in-chief has stated that deceased Bhagwan Singh was my brother. The incident occurred about five years ago at around 2:15 A.M. I, my mother Kalawati and my brother deceased Bhagwan Singh, were sleeping in front of the gher. My brother Bhagwan Singh and I were on the same cot (charpai), my mother was on a second cot and my father was sleeping on a cart (baggi) at a short distance. Naihna, Jugendra and Ramveer came there. Naihna and Jugendra had tamanchas in their hands. Ramveer pinned me down on the cot. Deputy pinned my mother down. Naihna and Jugendra shot Bhagwan Singh. As soon as they grabbed us, my eyes opened. There was electric light. In the electric light, I clearly saw them shooting and identified them. After shooting, they fled while waving their pistols. The villagers chased them, but they could not be caught and escaped. Naihna had illicit relationship with Jugendra's sister, Shashi. Bhagwan Singh had seen Naihna and Shashi in an objectionable position. He had complained about this to Naihna, Deputy, Jugendra and Ramveer. Because of this, Naihna and Jugendra said, you are defaming us, therefore, we will not leave you. On this very matter, they killed my brother by shooting him."

24. The informant, Pappu Singh (PW1), has stated in his cross-examination that "it is true that I and all accused are of the same family clan. On the date of the incident, it was summer season, not cold or rainy season. I have read up to seventh or eighth standard. It was a dark night. I have no knowledge about the date. I have no knowledge whether there was an electric connection in my locality or not on the date of the incident. I have no electric connection in my home. On the date of the incident, I and my deceased brother, Bhagwan Singh, were sleeping on the same cot. On the second cot, my mother, Kalavati, was sleeping. There was a distance of one step from my cot to my mother's cot. We were sleeping in damra, in front of my gher. On the western side of the gher, there were open fields. These fields are mine. On the north side of the gher, the houses of Rajpal, Dharampal and school are located and the temple is in the south direction. Between my gher and the temple, there is no one else's house. After the temple, the house of Charandevi is situated. Jugendra had not said anything to my mother when he came. At that time, I was in sound sleep. I do not know from which direction the miscreants came. My eyes opened upon hearing the sound of gunfire and noise. Only two shots were fired; there was no continuous firing. At the time of the incident, my deceased brother and I were sleeping on the same cot. After firing the shots, the miscreants fled towards the western direction. I was sleeping on the eastern side. As soon as I woke up, I immediately started shouting. Hearing my cries, the villagers gathered at the spot without delay."

25. PW-1 further stated that "my deceased brother had told me about the illicit relations of Naihna with Shashi, sister of Jugendra. I have not seen Shashi and Naihna in an objectionable condition. About this illicit relation, there were rumors from three to four years. Naihna was living at the house of Ramveer and Deputy. None was a criminal. Naihna had threatened my brother Bhagwan Singh by saying that I will see you. I had not made any complaint about this at the police station. At that time, I was not Pradhan. I was afraid, so I did not make any complaint. From my house, the gher is located three to four houses away, and a school was also located between my house and the gher. There is whole village between my house and gher. Between my house and gher, there are houses of Netrapal, Mahipal, Bhikamchandra, Om Prakash and Mahendra. My father was not at the house. My wife was sleeping at the house, and there was no other. The length of my cot was six feet and the breadth was two feet. The cot of my mother was also of the same length and breadth. The whole cot was not soaked in blood. The side I was sleeping on, that side's rope (jebari) was soaked in blood. I was wearing a vest and underwear. There was no blood on my clothes. The police had taken the rope of the cot and the bloodstained soil from the spot. I had got arrested Jugendra from his house. I had got the accused caught from in front of his house. My mother was sleeping on another cot at a distance of one step from me. My father was sleeping at a distance of three-four steps from us."

26. In his cross-examination, informant Pappu Singh (PW-1), has further stated that "my brother had an injury on the ear. Except the ear, there was no other injury. The bullet did not pass through the ear. My wife is Pradhan. Both things are true that I and my wife are Pradhan. Deputy and Ramveer are real brothers. I have told Darogaji that Shashi, sister of Deputy and Ramveer, had illicit relations with Naihna. If Darogaji has not written this fact in my statement, I could not give reason for this. It is wrong to say that on the date of the incident, there was no electricity in the village. The house of Ramveer and Deputy are 50 meters away from my house."

27. Prosecution produced Kalawati, mother of deceased Bhagwan Singh as PW-2. In her examination-in-chief, she has stated that "It was about five years ago, after midnight; I, along with my sons Bhagwan Singh and Pappu, were sleeping on the same cot, which was next to my own cot in gher. The cot was made of sun and the electric light was on. At night, Ramveer, Deputy, Naihna and Jugendra arrived and all four were armed with tamanchas. Ramveer caught hold Pappu and Deputy caught hold me down. Naihna and Jugendra shot Bhagwan Singh. Bhagwan Singh died on the spot. I identified them in the electric light. After committing the crime, all four fled towards the forest. There was no prior enmity between the accused and my son. There had been an altercation with my son Bhagwan Singh. The altercation had occurred over Jugendra's sister, Shashi." Thus, it is evident that Kalawati (PW-2), in her examination-in-chief, has deposed about the occurrence of the incident in the same manner as stated by Pappu Singh (PW-1) in his examination-in-chief.

28. On a perusal of the cross-examination of Kalawati (PW-2), it transpires that she has stated that Ramveer and Deputy had no illicit relations with Shashi. At the time of the incident, Ramveer was the Pradhan of the village. She further deposed that the incident occurred on a dark night, however, electric light was available. She stated that there is no electricity connection in her house. Electricity was taken from the temple. She further stated that she was sleeping on a cot, while her husband was sleeping on a buggy, at a distance of about four to five steps from her. In the said incident, neither she nor her son, Pappu Singh, sustained any injuries. She also stated that I had become unconscious. She admitted that it is correct that neither she nor her son sustained any injury in the incident. She further deposed that in front of her gher, there are houses of Rajpal, Dharampal and the wall of Netrapal. Among them one of the houses was vacant. At the time of the alleged incident, these persons, along with other villagers, arrived at the spot. She also stated that the incident took place during the summer season and it was very hot. Her two sons were sleeping on a cot without any bed-sheet or covering. She further stated that she woke up when her son was caught hold of and killed. She also stated that I have no knowledge whether anyone other than me has an electricity connection. Lastly, she stated that the temple is situated at a distance of about 10-15 steps from her gher, from where her son had arranged electricity. She further stated that she had not become unconscious when she was caught hold of. She deposed that the faces of all four accused persons were uncovered. All the accused persons fled from the spot, and none of them was apprehended at the scene. She further stated that she disclosed the names of all four accused persons to the police officer who recorded her statement. My son was shot. Both of them fired. The bullet struck him in the ear.

29. From a perusal of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), the evidence of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), and the evidence of his mother, Kalawati (PW-2), it emerges that the main motive alleged for the crime committed by the appellants is that the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu, had illicit relations with Shashi, sister of Jugendra Singh. The deceased, Bhagwan Singh, is said to have witnessed Naihna @ Mannu and Shashi in a compromising situation. Bhagwan Singh is further alleged to have informed Jugendra Singh, Deputy Singh, and the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu, about this objectionable fact, stating that it was improper. According to the prosecution, the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu, along with the appellants, had warned and threatened Bhagwan Singh, stating that they would "see" him. Owing to this enmity, the prosecution alleges that Naihna @ Mannu along with the appellants murdered Bhagwan Singh by firing gunshots at him. However, the prosecution evidence further reveals that, except the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu, all the appellants and the family members of the deceased Bhagwan Singh, were residents of the same village and were neighbours. It is also revealed that the appellants and the family members of the deceased were kith & kins to each other. Furthermore, the prosecution evidence indicates that none of the witnesses had actually seen Naihna @ Mannu in a compromising situation with Shashi, sister of Jugendra Singh.

30. From the prosecution evidence, it is evident that the witnesses PW-1 and PW-2 had heard about the illicit relations from villagers, and that such a rumor was prevalent in the village. Pappu Singh (PW-1) stated in his evidence that my brother, the deceased Bhagwan Singh, told me that he had seen the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu with Shashi in a compromising situation. There was no prior enmity between the parties. Even according to the prosecution evidence, no civil or criminal litigation was pending between the parties. In view of these facts, the motive attributed by the prosecution to the appellants for the commission of the alleged crime appears to be suspicious and doubtful, because a rumor or hearsay about any person cannot be regarded as a verified, reliable or truthful fact. Therefore, the motive as narrated in the prosecution evidence as well as in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), appears to be doubtful, concocted and an afterthought.

31. According to the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and the evidence of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), and his mother, Kalawati (PW-2), on the date of the incident, i.e., the night of 09/10.08.2004 at about 2:15 A.M., the accused persons named in the written report arrived at the spot armed with tamanchas. It is alleged that appellant Ramveer caught hold of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), while Kalawati (PW-2) was caught hold by Deputy Singh, and the absconding accused, Naihna @ Mannu, along with Jugendra, fired gunshots at Bhagwan Singh.

32. It is a matter of common knowledge that around 2:15 A.M. in the night, is a time when people are generally in deep sleep. During this period of the night, particularly after midnight, individuals are usually in a sound and relaxed state of rest. It is also a matter of common human experience, known to most adults, that assailants often choose night time for committing crimes, as darkness reduces the likelihood of identification or disclosure of their identity. Assailants generally consider the period after midnight to be a suitable and safe time for committing the offence. It is, therefore, a natural inference that assailants and criminals tend to operate silently under the cover of darkness, without creating noise at the place of occurrence, and thereafter quietly flee from the scene.

33. However, in the present case, appellant Ramveer is alleged to have caught hold of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), while appellant Deputy Singh caught hold of Kalawati (PW-2). Upon being restrained, both PW-1 and PW-2 woke up. This version of the prosecution, as well as the testimony of PW-1 and PW-2 in this regard, appears to be untruthful and highly suspicious. According to the prosecution case itself, PW-1 and PW-2 were sleeping on their respective cots when they were apprehended by the aforesaid appellants. Pappu Singh (PW-1) was sleeping on the same cot with deceased Bhagwan Singh, while Kalawati (PW-2) was sleeping on another cot at some distance.

34. In these circumstances, a pertinent question arises as to why the appellants would come to the place of occurrence and catch hold of PW-1 and PW-2, who were in deep sleep, thereby causing them to wake up, and identify the assailants, and subsequently depose against them in the Court. This version of the prosecution witnesses, PW-1 and PW-2, therefore, does not inspire confidence. It is a matter of common practice that when persons are in deep sleep at night, assailants or culprits, if they intend to commit a crime, would ordinarily enter the place of their target silently without making any noise and, after committing the offence, would also leave quietly so as to avoid disclosure or identification of them. However, in the present case, appellant Ramveer is alleged to have caught hold of PW-1, and appellant Deputy Singh is alleged to have caught hold of PW-2. This version appears to be unreliable and unconvincing. It is also natural that, in such a situation, the appellants, if they had come to commit the offence, would act silently and after causing the death of Bhagwan Singh, would fled from the place of occurrence silently without attracting attention of any person. The appellants would not ordinarily risk first catching hold of PW-1 and PW-2, thereby waking them up, enabling them to identify the assailants, and subsequently disclose their identity. Since, at the time of the commission of the crime, according to the prosecution version itself, Bhagwan Singh, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and their mother, Kalawati (PW-2), were in deep sleep, there was no necessity for appellant Ramveer to have caught hold of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), or for appellant Deputy Singh to have caught hold of Kalawati (PW-2) for the commission of the alleged offence.

35. Thus, from the above discussions, the prosecution story as set out in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and as narrated by the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), and Kalawati (PW-2) in their testimony, appears to be highly doubtful and unbelievable. Consequently, the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, i.e., PW-1 and PW-2, in this regard appears to be untrustworthy, concocted and an afterthought story.

36. According to the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and the evidence of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2), there was an electric light at the place of occurrence. However, PW-1 and PW-2, in their evidence, have clearly admitted that there was no electricity connection at their house or at their gher, where the incident is alleged to have occurred. Though PW-1 and PW-2 have stated that there was an electric bulb at the place of occurrence, in front of the gher, which was illuminating, they have further stated that electricity was illegally drawn by means of a wire from a nearby temple situated at some distance from their gher. PW-2 has further stated, in her evidence, that the accused persons had not covered their faces and that their faces were visible. This version of the prosecution also appears to be doubtful. It is a matter of common knowledge that accused persons, at the time of commission of any offence, ordinarily attempt to conceal their identity so as to avoid recognition.

37. In the present case, according to the prosecution version, there was an electric bulb illuminating at the place of occurrence, and the accused persons are stated to be closely related to informant (PW-1). In such circumstances, it is difficult to believe that the accused persons would have come to the place of occurrence without covering their faces in the light of the electric bulb, thereby enabling PW-1 and PW-2 to easily identify them and name them in the written report as the perpetrators of the crime. These facts and circumstances also render the prosecution story doubtful.

38. The informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1) has stated in his evidence that on the date of the incident, he and his deceased brother, Bhagwan Singh, were sleeping on the same cot, while his mother, Kalawati (PW-2), was sleeping on another cot at some distance. Kalawati (PW-2) has also stated that her sons, i.e., the deceased Bhagwan Singh and the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), were sleeping on the same cot. Pappu Singh (PW-1), has further stated in his evidence that the length of the cot was 6 feet and its breadth was 2 feet. According to PW-1, both he and the deceased Bhagwan Singh were sleeping on a cot measuring 6 feet in length and 2 feet in width when the alleged incident occurred. However, despite allegedly sleeping on the same cot with his deceased brother, Bhagwan Singh, no blood was found on the clothes or body of Pappu Singh (PW-1). This circumstance appears to be quite surprising. It is also difficult to believe that two adult persons could comfortably sleep on a cot made of jute rope and measuring only 2 feet in width. From these circumstances, it appears that the prosecution has projected this version of the incident in order to establish PW-1 and PW-2 as the eyewitness and the story appears to have been developed deliberately and as an afterthought.

39. The above facts and circumstances of the case, also create a reasonable doubt about the veracity of the prosecution story. We find that, according to the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), two shots were fired and PW-1 accepted that the police recovered an empty cartridge of 315 bore in his presence. There was an injury on his brother's ear. Apart from the ear, there were no other injuries. According to Kalawati (PW-2), Naihna and Jugendra shot at Bhagwan Singh, meaning that two gunshots were fired at the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. Two accused persons fired gunshots which hit the ear of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. Thus, from the eyewitnesses of the prosecution, namely, the informant Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2), it emerges that, according to the prosecution witnesses, two gunshots were fired at Bhagwan Singh. However, according to Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6), who conducted the autopsy of the deceased Bhagwan Singh, has found in the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-12), only one gunshot injury, i.e., Injury No. 3; "A firearm wound of entry measuring 3 cm * 1.5 cm located on the right side of the face, directly in front of the right ear. This wound was deep enough to reach the jaw, causing fracture of the jawbone. Upon dissection, it was found that the pharynx was ruptured. In addition to this, the right temporal bone was also found fractured."Dr. Gupta (PW-6) stated that injury no. 3 was caused by a firearm, while no definite opinion could be given regarding the weapon that caused injury nos. 1 & 2.

40. There was blackening and tattooing in injury no. 3. Thus, according to the medical witness, Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6), there was only one gunshot injury on the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh, and that injury showed blackening and tattooing. From this fact, it is clear that the ocular testimony of the prosecution witnesses and the medical evidence of Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6) differ on these points. The prosecution witnesses, i.e., PW-1 and PW-2, stated that two gunshots were fired at the deceased, Bhagwan Singh, but the medical witness, Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6) found only one gunshot injury, which is injury no. 3, which was caused by a firearm. In this way, there is a difference between the ocular evidence and the medical evidence regarding the injuries found on the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. Thus, it is evident that the ocular evidence is not corroborated by the medical evidence. It is further evident that the medical witness and the ocular witnesses are stating different facts on the same points. It also follows that the prosecution version, particularly the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2, has not found any support or corroboration from the medical evidence of Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6). This fact also creates a reasonable doubt about the truthfulness of the prosecution story.

41. The Supreme Court in Khambham Raja Reddy and another v. Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh; (2006) 11 SCC 239, has held in paragraph 19 that:

"The present case is an example of contradiction between the ocular evidence and the medical evidence, where the medical evidence is not borne out by the ocular evidence. In such a situation it was suggested on behalf of the appellants on the authority of a decision of this Court in State of M.P v. Dharkole; (2004) 13 SCC 308 where the medical evidence was at variance with the ocular evidence, the testimony of the eyewitness should be decided independently and if found trustworthy, the same could not be discarded merely because it is at variance with medical opinion. While there can be no difference of opinion with the principle explained in the aforesaid decision, the application thereof will depend on whether the story as made out by the prosecution is trustworthy and can be related to the injuries suffered by the victim in the manner as sought to be projected. If the ocular testimony is such that it is not possible to relate the injuries with the circumstances in which they were said to have been inflicted, the court has the discretion not to accept the ocular evidence. The principle enunciated in Dharkole case may be applied in an appropriate case, but each case has to be determined having regard to its own set of facts."

42. Thus, in the light of the legal principle as enunciated by the Supreme Court in Khambham Raja Reddy (Supra), we find that there is a variation between the ocular evidence and the medical evidence regarding the gunshot injuries found on the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. The prosecution witnesses, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2), have stated that two gunshots were fired at the deceased, Bhagwan Singh. However, from the postmortem report (Exhibit Ka-12), prepared by Dr. Vimal Kumar Gupta (PW-6), it is evident that only one gunshot injury was found on the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh and that injury showed blackening and tattooing. The presence of blackening and tattooing indicates that the gunshot was fired at Bhagwan Singh from a very close range. The difference between the ocular evidence and the medical evidence regarding the injuries, particularly the number of gunshot injuries, makes the prosecution story suspicious and unworthy of credit.

43. From a perusal of evidence of the informant, Pappu Singh (PW-1), it is apparent that this witness has stated in his evidence that he got arrested accused Jugendra by the police from the front of the house of the accused itself. However, Investigating Officer, Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), has arrested appellant, Jugendra Singh near 100 steps away from the G.T. road at a different place and recovered a tamancha, in its barrel an empty cartridge was stuck, and also recovered a live cartridge of 315 bore. Tamancha, empty cartridge and live cartridge were recovered from the appellant, Jugendra and the bullet, which was recovered from the dead body of the deceased Bhagwan Singh, were sent for forensic examination. However, according to report of the Vidhi Vigyan Prayogshala, Agra, paper number 45kha/2 to 45kha/3, disputed cartridge marked as EC-1 was not found to be fired from the country-made pistol (tamancha), marked as 1/2005. Disputed bullets, EB-1 and EB-2, could not be matched from the country-made pistol (tamancha) marked as 1/2005, because there was no characteristic for comparison. Hence, no opinion could be given. Thus, it is clear that from the so-called tamancha, empty cartridge, live cartridge of 315 bore and bullets recovered from the dead body of the deceased, Bhagwan Singh, could not be matched and not found fired by the recovered country-made pistol (tamancha), from the possession of Appellant, Jugendra Singh.

44. From the evidence of Investigating Officer, Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), we find that the appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh have surrendered in the Court. The I.O. submitted an application before the concerned Court seeking police custody remand of appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh, and after obtaining their police custody remand, on 11.09.2004, i.e., ten days after the alleged incident, recovered a tamancha on the pointing out of Ramveer Singh from an open and empty field of maize (corn), and also recovered a tamanacha on the pointing out of Deputy Singh from below a Jamun tree in an open field. However, the illegal country-made pistols (tamanchas) recovered at the instance of the appellants Ramveer Singh and Deputy Singh were not sent for forensic examination by the Investigating Officer.

45. A perusal of the site plan (Exhibit Ka-25) reveals that a tamancha was allegedly recovered at the pointing out of appellant Ramveer from the place marked as □A□, which is an open area accessible to everyone. The said place is neither concealed nor of such a nature as to be within the exclusive knowledge or possession of appellant Ramveer. Similarly, a perusal of Exhibit Ka-17 shows that another tamancha was recovered from the place marked as □B□ at the pointing out of appellant Deputy Singh. The said place □B□ is also an open field accessible to all and is neither a concealed location nor a place within the exclusive knowledge or control of appellant Deputy Singh. It is further noteworthy that the appellants, Ramveer and Deputy Singh, were taken into police custody remand approximately ten days after the alleged incident, and only thereafter were the alleged country-made pistols (tamanchas) shown to have been recovered at their instance.

46. The Investigating Officer, Subhash Chandra Tyagi (PW-7), admitted during his cross-examination that no shot had been fired from the tamancha allegedly recovered from appellant Ramveer. He further admitted that, as recorded in the forensic examination report, the disputed cartridge marked EC-1 had not been fired from the country-made pistol (tamancha) marked as 1/2005. There is no evidence on record to show that the tamanchas allegedly recovered from appellants Ramveer and Deputy Singh were sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory for examination. Moreover, no report of the Forensic Science Laboratory has been produced in respect of the said tamanchas. From the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case, it is evident that the country-made pistols (tamanchas) allegedly recovered from appellants Jugendra Singh, Ramveer and Deputy Singh cannot be connected with the commission of the alleged offence.

47. It is a settled principle of law that mere recovery of an incriminating article at the instance of an accused is not sufficient to establish guilt unless it is further proved that such recovered article is directly connected with the commission of the crime. In the present case, there is no evidence whatsoever to establish that the alleged incriminating articles, namely, the country-made pistols (tamanchas), were used by the appellants in the commission of the offence. In other words, the prosecution has wholly failed to prove that the said tamanchas were used in the alleged crime. This circumstance raises a serious doubt regarding the genuineness of the alleged recoveries and suggests that the said weapons may have been planted by the police to lend support to the prosecution case, particularly in relation to the offence under Section 302 IPC.

48. Despite these material deficiencies and inconsistencies in the prosecution case, the learned Trial Court failed to properly appreciate the evidence on record. The Trial Court, without adequately scrutinizing the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, namely, Pappu Singh (PW-1) and Kalawati (PW-2), whose evidence appears unreliable and doubtful, proceeded to convict the appellants Jugendra Singh, Ramveer and Deputy Singh under Sections 302/34 IPC. The Trial Court further convicted them under Section 25 of the Arms Act in a cursory manner, without recording any cogent finding as to the use of the alleged recovered tamanchas in the commission of the offence.

49. In our considered view, the Trial Court failed to appreciate the prosecution evidence in its proper perspective and in accordance with settled legal principles, and, in the absence of cogent evidence, erroneously held the appellants guilty of the alleged offence. The prosecution has thus been wholly unsuccessful in proving its case beyond reasonable doubt. The Trial Court, without due consideration of the evidence on record and without recording findings consistent with established principles of law, proceeded to convict the appellants for the alleged offence.

50. Thus, in light of the foregoing discussion, we are of the considered opinion that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 02.06.2022, passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Aligarh, is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside. Accordingly, both the criminal appeals deserve to be allowed.

51. Consequently, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 02.06.2022 are hereby set-aside, and both the criminal appeals are allowed.

52. The appellants- Jugendra Singh, Deputy Singh and Ramveer, are stated to be in jail. They shall be released forthwith, if not required in any other case.

53. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the Trial Court forthwith, along with the lower court record, for necessary compliance.

Gauri Shankar & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging the conviction and life sentence of the husband and in-laws under section 302/34 IPC for the homicidal death of a woman in her matrimonial home.

Headnotes

Criminal law-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/34 & ¾ of the Dowry Prohibition Act,1961-Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 106-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Circumstantial evidence-Burden of proof-Hostility of prosecution witnesses of fact including close relatives-Effect-Murder within four corners of matrimonial house-Cause of death established as asphyxia due to ante-mortem strangulation with fractured hyoid bone and multiple contusions indicating struggle-Medical evidence ruling out suicidal hanging-Superficially narrated plea of unknown miscreants entering house found unconvincing and false-Accused-inmates failing to offer any cogent explanation regarding the circumstances leading to the victim's violent death-Complete chain of circumstantial evidence established-Section 106 invoked to draw adverse inference against husband and in-laws-Order of conviction and life imprisonment upheld.(Para 19 to 36) (E-6)

Held

The court held that in a case of custodial death within a matrimonial home, the hostility of factual witnesses does not shatter the prosecution's case if the chain of circumstantial evidence is otherwise complete. The court emphasized that when a wife suffers an unnatural death by ante-mortem strangulation within the four walls of her matrimonial house, a heavy evidential burden shifts to the inmate-accused under section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act,1872, to offer a plausible explanation regarding the facts within their special knowledge. The total failure of the husband and parents-in-law to explain the fatal neck injuries and extensive bodily contusions, combined with their false defense of unknown intruders, serves as the decisive link completing the chain of circumstances, thereby fully justifying their conviction and life sentence under section 302 read with section 34 of the Indian Penal Code.

1. By this judgment, we propose to decide Criminal Appeal No.4605 of 2017 and Criminal Appeal No.4606 of 2017.

2. Whereas Sudhakar, the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.4606 of 2017, and Gauri Shankar, appellant No.1 in Criminal Appeal No.4605 of 2017, stood their trial vide Sessions Trial No.194 of 2015 for the offences punishable under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302, 323 read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short, 'IPC') and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 (for short, 'DP Act'), appellant No.2 in Criminal Appeal No.4605 of 2017, Smt. Munni Devi stood her trial on the selfsame charges vide Sessions Trial No.291 of 2015. Both the sessions trials arose out of Case Crime No.191 of 2015, under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302, 323 IPC and Section 3/4 DP Act, Police Station Bakewar, District Etawah, and, were, therefore, consolidated and tried together by Mr. Umesh Chandra Pandey, the then Additional District and Sessions Judge, Fast Track Court No.1, Etawah. The learned Additional Sessions Judge, by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 22.07.2017, has convicted all the three appellants, who have preferred the two appeals aforesaid of the offence punishable under Section 302/34 IPC and sentenced each of them to suffer imprisonment for life, besides imposing a fine of Rs.20,000/- upon each of them.

3. The first informant, Kishan Babu, lodged a written report with the Station House Officer, P.S. Bakewar, District Etawah dated 10.05.2015, saying that he had married his daughter on 28.06.2012 to Sudhakar son of Gauri Shankar, a resident of Village Tadwa Kachhiyan, P.S. Bakewar, District Etawah. In the marriage, he had given away to the newly weds a sum of Rs. 3 lacs in cash, besides movables worth Rs.1.50 lacs. In addition, he had also given his daughter a ring besides earrings and a chain. Shortly after marriage, her daughter's husband Sudhakar, mother-in-law Munni Devi, father-in-law Gauri Shankar, brother-in-law (jeth) Pratap Singh and sister-in-law (nanad) Neeti and others without rhyme or reason, commenced indulging in physical violence. They would beat up his daughter and demand rupees one lac in cash, besides a Pulsar motorcycle.

The informant said that his daughter complained to him in the matter a number of times over and also said that her husband Sudhakar would come back home in the evening drunk. She also said that in that inebriated state, he would beat her up and demand money besides the motorcycle. The informant goes on to say that in this connection, he spoke to the appellant Gauri Shankar on a number of occasions and also convened a panchayat. Next, Gauri Shankar, in retaliation to the panachayat, threatened his daughter a number of times. The informant goes on to say that he brought in the mediator, who had settled the marriage, one Virendra Singh, informing him of the matter, but Sudhakar, his parents, brother and sister, would not relent as they had become slaves to their habit. On the 8th of May, 2015 at about 11 o'clock, he received a call on his mobile No. 9897924296 from mobile No. 7409697499, where his daughter Preeti called him to say that he should rush to her place and take her away because her in-laws were beating her up and were going to lock her up in a room in order to do her to death. The informant says that he told her daughter not to loose her nerve and that he would soon be there. While this conversation was going on, the phone was disconnected. The informant, thereupon, along with his brother Lakhan Singh and another Satya Prakash, a total of three men, rode a motorcycle to his daughter's place, reaching there by 2 o'clock. There, he saw that the inmates of the house, upon seeing him, avoided him. The informant entered the house and saw that his daughter was lying dead. She had injuries to her neck and arms and her face had yellowish marks. Upon seeing the informant, all the inmates of the house deserted the place. In the meantime, Nanak @ Sahbeer, Suresh Chandra and Abhay Ram, natives of his village, reached there and it was in their company that he proceeded to Aheripur Police Chowki. The Police there told him to go to Bakewar or Etawah. He called the Police on Number 100 Facility and then made a call to the Superintendent of Police on mobile No. 9454401043. He got a reply from the S.P. that he should proceed to the place of occurrence and the Police would reach there. The Police arrived by 7 o'clock in the evening and took away the dead body. The report requests the registration of a case and necessary proceedings.

4. On the basis of the aforesaid report, a case was registered by the Police, being Crime No.191 of 2015, under Sections 498-A, 323, 304-B IPC and Section 3/4 DP Act, Police Station Bakewar, District Etawah. The check FIR, that was drawn up, shows that the crime was registered on 10.05.2015 at 11.30 a.m. The distance of the police station is shown to be nine kilometers from the place of occurrence.

5. A Tehsildar, on the instructions of the Sub-Divisional Officer, held inquest with the assistance of a Sub-Inspector of Police on 09.05.2015 at the mortuary, where the dead body was retained.

6. The dead body of the deceased was subjected to autopsy on 09.05.2015 at 2.00 p.m. The autopsy report is on record as Ex. Ka-13. The doctor, on external examination, found the following antemortem injuries:

(1) Ligature mark present continuously horizontal about 29.0 x 1.0 in neck below the thyroid. The base of the groove soft & reddish. Subcutaneous tissue under the mark ecchymosed.

(2) Contusion 6.0 x 0.5 cm Lt. are just below shoulder joint laterally.

(3) Contusion 6.0 x 4.0 cm on Rt. side of abdomen just lateral to umbilicus.

(4) Multiple contusions Rt. lower limb.

(5) Contusion 5.0 x 4.0 cm Rt. hip.

(6) Contusion 7.0 x 4.0 cm Lt. hip laterally.

The cause of death opined by the autopsy doctor in the postmortem report is asphyxia due to strangulation. The hyoid bone was found fractured on the right side.

7. The Investigating Officer investigated the case and submitted two charge-charges, viz: one dated 24.06.2015 against Sudhakar and Gauri Shankar and the other dated 20.10.2015 against Pratap Singh, Smt. Munni Devi and Smt. Neeti. The appellants were produced before the learned Magistrate, who took the cognizance and furnished them copies of the relevant prosecution papers as provided under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case against the appellants Sudhakar and Gauri Shankar was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial on 22.07.2015 and on 10.11.2015 against the appellant Munni Devi, besides the two co-accused Pratap Singh and Neeti.

8. Mr. Gajendra Singh, the then Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Etawah, proceeded to frame charges against the appellants Sudhakar and Gauri Shankar together vide order dated 14.09.2015, numbering four, to wit, firstly, under Section 498-A IPC; secondly, under Section 304-B IPC and alternatively under Section 302 IPC; thirdly, under Section 323 read with Section 34 IPC; and, fourthly, under Section 3/4 DP Act. Charges against the appellant, Munni Devi, were also framed by Mr. Gajendra Singh, the then Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.4, Etawah on 02.01.2016 along with the co-accused Pratap Singh and Neeti jointly on like counts as the appellants Sudhakar and Gauri Shankar.

9. The prosecution examined the following witnesses in support of their case:

1. PW-1 □ Kishan Babu, father of the deceased and the informant of the case,
2. PW-2 □ Manoj Kumar, brother of the deceased,

3. PW-3 □ Vineet Devi, sister-in-law (bhabhi) of the deceased,

4. PW-4 □ Lakhan Singh, uncle of the deceased,

5. PW-5 □ Satya Prakash, a native of the informant's village,

6. PW-6 □ Virendra Kumar, mediator of the marriage,

7. PW-7 □ Suresh Chandra, a native of the informant's village,

8. PW-8 □ Abhay Ram, a native of the informant's village,

9. PW-9 □ Jitendra Kumar, another brother of the deceased,

10. PW-10 □ Lady Constable 526 Kalpana Devi, who scribed of the check FIR and made other relevant entries,

11. PW-11 □ Dr. Sanjiv Kumar, who conducted postmortem of the deceased,

12. PW-12 □ Shiv Narain Pandey, the then Naib Tehsildar, Bharthana, District Etawa, who got prepared the inquest.

10. The prosecution produced the following documentary evidence:

11. After the prosecution evidence was over, the statements of the three appellants were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 21.07.2016 and their supplementary statements were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. on 06.07.2017.

12. The learned Trial Judge vide the judgment and order impugned proceeded to acquit the co-accused Pratap Singh and Smt. Neeti of the offences under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 302, 323/34 IPC and Section 3/4 DP Act, extending to them the benefit of doubt. However, the appellants, Sudhakar, Gauri Shankar and Smt. Munni Devi, were convicted of the offence under Section 302/ 34 IPC on the basis of circumstantial evidence. They were, however, acquitted of the charges under Sections 498-A, 304-B, 323/34 IPC and Section 3/4 DP Act. All the three appellants, as already said, were sentenced to suffer imprisonment for life, besides being imposed with a fine of Rs.20,000/- each.

13. Aggrieved, these appeals have been preferred.

14. Heard Mr. Rakesh Pati Tiwari, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State and perused the record.

15. Now, this is a case which was reported to the Police by the deceased's father through a written information that was lodged with the Police on 10.05.2015 at 11.30 a.m. Admittedly, the incident had happened on 08.05.2015 at 11.00 a.m. The Police had got information of the crime before the formal registration of the FIR with the deceased's father, PW-1, calling the Dial 100 facility and then reaching the Superintendent of Police over telephone, who detailed the Police to immediately reach the place of occurrence. The inquest in this case was held on 09.05.2015, as would appear from Ex. Ka-8, and the autopsy too was done on 09.05.2015, a fact which Ex. Ka-3 demonstrates in ample measure. The FIR was lodged after the Police were already in know of the crime and had taken substantial steps by holding the inquest and causing the autopsy to be done. The FIR came to be registered, as already said, on 10.05.2015 at 11.30 a.m., a fact evident from a perusal of Ex. Ka-3.

16. During investigation, the statements of a number of witnesses for the prosecution were recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. They supported the prosecution case of a dowry demand by the deceased's in-laws and then the case of the in-laws doing her to death by throttling her. It must be remarked that none of the witnesses in this case are eye-witnesses. Some of them, like the first informant, PW-1, or the deceased's brother, PW-2, Manoj Kumar, may be witnesses of some relevant facts, particularly res gestae, but none of them have seen the occurrence. Therefore, we do not have an eye-witness account. It is a case that ultimately turns upon circumstantial evidence. The unfortunate part of the case is that nine witnesses of fact have been examined, where a number of them are blood relatives of the deceased, but they have turned hostile in the dock evidence. Therefore, some of the relevant facts, that could have come in evidence of these witnesses, have been lost to hostility.

17. The first informant, who is the deceased's father and testified during trial as PW-1, has disowned the FIR by the most unconvincing explanation about his act in lodging the FIR with all its contents, accusing the appellants, as also his conduct in frantically contacting the Police by reaching the Dial 100 facility as well as the Superintendent of Police, all of which ultimately led to the arrival of the Police at the scene of crime. It is rather odd that the Police, upon reaching the scene of crime and finding the dead body of a young daughter-in-law in the matrimonial home, did not take down an oral information or ask for a written report from PW-1 or whoever was willing to report and promptly register an FIR in the gruesome crime before embarking upon their investigation. They commenced investigation by causing the dead body to be removed to the morgue, where they held the inquest and then caused the autopsy to be done, much before the FIR, giving rising to the crime, was registered. Ideally, these steps should have been taken after the registration of a prompt FIR, on the basis of an oral or written information from the relatives of the deceased, who were present or whoever was willing to report. We say this for the reason that this was not a case where a dead body was found in an unknown place with no clue about the cause of the unnatural death. It is invariably in such cases that an inquest has to be done promptly without awaiting the registration of a crime.

18. The other lapse, which is apparent on the part of the Police, is that they did not hold the inquest at the place where the body was found, that is to say, the deceased's in-laws' house. An inquest should be held wherever the body is found and not in the manner done here, that is to say, by first dispatching the body to the morgue and then holding the inquest there, away from the place of occurrence, where the deceased's body was found lying, that is to say, her matrimonial home. The prosecution witnesses of fact, who are mostly blood relatives of the deceased, as already remarked, and have testified in the dock as PW-1 to PW-9, have not at all supported the prosecution case. Quite apart, the prosecution witnesses of fact, if they had faithfully testified, could have proved some relevant facts, that would add to the chain of circumstances, cited by the prosecution to bring home the charge. There is no manner of doubt that given the state of things in this case, it is a case that primarily rests on circumstantial evidence. The testimony of the prosecution witnesses 1 to 9 could only have added to proof, may be of a few of the circumstances, on which the prosecution wish to rely. Therefore, with the witnesses turning hostile, all that has happened is the failure of proof of some relevant facts or circumstances; nothing more.

19. This being a case of circumstantial evidence, the standard, by which evidence has to be evaluated, is well-known. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the law requires the prosecution to establish circumstances that form so complete a chain that there is no other inference possible, but one consistent with the guilt of the accused. Anything lesser is not acceptable and would entitle the accused to the benefit of doubt. The five principles, by which a case of circumstantial evidence can alone be established, have been summarized by the Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, where it has been held:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033 : 1973 Crl LJ 1783] where the observations were made: [SCC para 19, p. 807: SCC (Cri) p. 1047]

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between □may be□ and □must be□ is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

20. There is one feature to this case, which is commonplace in homicides suffered by women in their matrimonial homes. That oft-occurring feature in such cases is that there are hardly eye-witnesses of the occurrence because in the nature of things, the terminal violence takes place in the four-corners of the husband's place, where more often than not the unfortunate victim has neither a relative nor a friend nor a person of such high moral fiber that he or she would speak out the truth, though related to the accused by blood or unconnected to both of them, say a trusted servant of the victim's in-laws. Therefore, in cases that are not dowry deaths, as defined under Section 304-B IPC, the prosecution is not relieved of their burden by any kind of a reversal thereof upon the establishment of certain facts. If it is a case where the charge to be considered is one of murder, punishable under Section 302 IPC, pure and simple, the prosecution would have to establish the case by circumstances beyond reasonable doubt. Section 106 of the Evidence Act also does not come to the rescue of the prosecution in the matter of discharging their overall burden proving the accused's guilt. All that Section 106 comes in handy in such a situation is that after the prosecution have sufficiently established facts and there are blind spots, that are known to the accused alone, and facts regarding these have to be within their special knowledge, a limited burden to explain those facts, consistent with their innocence in the sense of an evidential burden, would shift to the accused. If the accused can offer a good explanation supported by reasonable evidence, explaining facts especially within their knowledge, consistent with their innocence, that is all that the accused may have to do about it. If, however, the accused fail to offer a cogent explanation for a fact that is inculpatory and especially within their knowledge, it would be added to the chain of circumstances appearing against him. The aforesaid principle is elucidated by the Supreme Court in Balvir Singh v. State of Uttarakhand, (2023) 16 SCC 575, where it has been held:

"35. Section 106 of the Evidence Act referred to above provides that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. The word □especially□ means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within the knowledge of the accused. The ordinary rule that applies to the criminal trials that the onus lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused is not in any way modified by the rule of facts embodied in Section 106 of the Evidence Act. Section 106 of the Evidence Act is an exception to Section 101 of the Evidence Act. Section 101 with its Illustration (a) lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible or at any rate disproportionately difficult for the prosecution to establish the facts which are, □especially within the knowledge of the accused and which, he can prove without difficulty or inconvenience".

36. In Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer [Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, 1956 SCC OnLine SC 27 : AIR 1956 SC 404] , this Court while considering the word "especially" employed in Section 106 of the Evidence Act speaking through Vivian Bose, J., observed as under : (SCC OnLine SC para 9)

"9. … The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge. If the section were to be interpreted otherwise, it would lead to the very startling conclusion that in a murder case the burden lies on the accused to prove that he did not commit the murder because who could know better than he whether he did or did not. It is evident that that cannot be the intention and the Privy Council has twice refused to construe this section, as reproduced in certain other Acts outside India, to mean that the burden lies on an accused person to show that he did not commit the crime for which he is tried. These cases are Attygalle v. R. [Attygalle v. R., 1936 SCC OnLine PC 20 : AIR 1936 PC 169 (AIR V 23)] and Stephen Seneviratne v. R. [Stephen Seneviratne v. R., 1936 SCC OnLine PC 57 : (1936) 3 All ER 36 at 49] "

37. The aforesaid decision of Shambu Nath [Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, 1956 SCC OnLine SC 27 : AIR 1956 SC 404] has been referred to and relied upon in Nagendra Sah v. State of Bihar [Nagendra Sah v. State of Bihar, (2021) 10 SCC 725 : (2022) 1 SCC (Cri) 127] , wherein this Court observed as under : (SCC pp. 734-35, paras 22-23)

"22. Thus, Section 106 of the Evidence Act will apply to those cases where the prosecution has succeeded in establishing the facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts which are within the special knowledge of the accused. When the accused fails to offer proper explanation about the existence of said other facts, the court can always draw an appropriate inference.

23. When a case is resting on circumstantial evidence, if the accused fails to offer a reasonable explanation in discharge of burden placed on him by virtue of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, such a failure may provide an additional link to the chain of circumstances. In a case governed by circumstantial evidence, if the chain of circumstances which is required to be established by the prosecution is not established, the failure of the accused to discharge the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act is not relevant at all. When the chain is not complete, falsity of the defence is no ground to convict the accused."

38. In Tulshiram Sahadu Suryawanshi v. State of Maharashtra [Tulshiram Sahadu Suryawanshi v. State of Maharashtra, (2012) 10 SCC 373 : (2013) 1 SCC (Cri) 193] , this Court observed as under : (SCC pp. 381-82, para 23)

"23 [Ed. : Para 23 corrected vide Official Corrigendum No. F.3/Ed.B.J./58/2012 dated 9-10-2012.]. It is settled law that presumption of fact is a rule in law of evidence that a fact otherwise doubtful may be inferred from certain other proved facts. When inferring the existence of a fact from other set of proved facts, the court exercises a process of reasoning and reaches a logical conclusion as the most probable position. The above position is strengthened in view of Section 114 of the Evidence Act, 1872. It empowers the court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened. In that process, the courts shall have regard to the common course of natural events, human conduct, etc. in addition to the facts of the case. In these circumstances, the principles embodied in Section 106 of the Evidence Act can also be utilised. We make it clear that this section is not intended to relieve the prosecution of its burden to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt, but it would apply to cases where the prosecution has succeeded in proving facts from which a reasonable inference can be drawn regarding the existence of certain other facts, unless the accused by virtue of his special knowledge regarding such facts, failed to offer any explanation which might drive the court to draw a different inference. It is useful to quote the following observation in State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar [State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1516] : (SCC p. 393, para 38)

"38. Vivian Bose, J., had observed [Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, 1956 SCC OnLine SC 27 : AIR 1956 SC 404] that Section 106 of the Evidence Act is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible for the prosecution to establish certain facts which are particularly within the knowledge of the accused. In Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer [Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, 1956 SCC OnLine SC 27 : AIR 1956 SC 404] the learned Judge has stated the legal principle thus : (SCC OnLine SC para 9)

"9. This lays down the general rule that in a criminal case the burden of proof is on the prosecution and Section 106 is certainly not intended to relieve it of that duty. On the contrary, it is designed to meet certain exceptional cases in which it would be impossible, or at any rate disproportionately difficult for the prosecution to establish facts which are "especially" within the knowledge of the accused and which he could prove without difficulty or inconvenience.

The word "especially" stresses that. It means facts that are pre-eminently or exceptionally within his knowledge." ' "

39. In Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra [Trimukh Maroti Kirkan v. State of Maharashtra, (2006) 10 SCC 681 : (2007) 1 SCC (Cri) 80] , this Court was considering a similar case of homicidal death in the confines of the house. The following observations are considered relevant in the facts of the present case : (SCC pp. 690-91 & 694, paras 14-15 & 22)

"14. If an offence takes place inside the privacy of a house and in such circumstances where the assailants have all the opportunity to plan and commit the offence at the time and in circumstances of their choice, it will be extremely difficult for the prosecution to lead evidence to establish the guilt of the accused if the strict principle of circumstantial evidence, as noticed above, is insisted upon by the courts. A Judge does not preside over a criminal trial merely to see that no innocent man is punished. A Judge also presides to see that a guilty man does not escape. Both are public duties. (See Stirland v. Director of Public Prosecutions [Stirland v. Director of Public Prosecutions, 1944 AC 315 (HL)] quoted with approval by Arijit Pasayat, J. in State of Punjab v. Karnail Singh [State of Punjab v. Karnail Singh, (2003) 11 SCC 271 : 2004 SCC (Cri) 135] .) The law does not enjoin a duty on the prosecution to lead evidence of such character which is almost impossible to be led or at any rate extremely difficult to be led. The duty on the prosecution is to lead such evidence which it is capable of leading, having regard to the facts and circumstances of the case. Here it is necessary to keep in mind Section 106 of the Evidence Act which says that when any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. Illustration (b) appended to this section throws some light on the content and scope of this provision and it reads:

"(b) A is charged with travelling on a railway without ticket. The burden of proving that he had a ticket is on him."

15. Where an offence like murder is committed in secrecy inside a house, the initial burden to establish the case would undoubtedly be upon the prosecution, but the nature and amount of evidence to be led by it to establish the charge cannot be of the same degree as is required in other cases of circumstantial evidence. The burden would be of a comparatively lighter character. In view of Section 106 of the Evidence Act there will be a corresponding burden on the inmates of the house to give a cogent explanation as to how the crime was committed. The inmates of the house cannot get away by simply keeping quiet and offering no explanation on the supposed premise that the burden to establish its case lies entirely upon the prosecution and there is no duty at all on an accused to offer any explanation.

22. Where an accused is alleged to have committed the murder of his wife and the prosecution succeeds in leading evidence to show that shortly before the commission of crime they were seen together or the offence takes place in the dwelling home where the husband also normally resided, it has been consistently held that if the accused does not offer any explanation how the wife received injuries or offers an explanation which is found to be false, it is a strong circumstance which indicates that he is responsible for commission of the crime."

40. The question of burden of proof, where some facts are within the personal knowledge of the accused, was examined by this Court in State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar [State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1516] . In this case, the assailants forcibly dragged the deceased from the house where he was taking shelter on account of the fear of the accused, and took him away at about 2.30 in the night. The next day in the morning, his mangled body was found lying in the hospital. The trial court convicted the accused under Section 364 read with Section 34IPC, and sentenced them to ten years' rigorous imprisonment. The accused preferred an appeal against their conviction before the High Court and the State also filed an appeal challenging the acquittal of the accused for the charge of murder. The accused had not given any explanation as to what happened to the deceased after he was abducted by them. The Sessions Judge, after referring to the law on circumstantial evidence, had observed that there was a missing link in the chain of evidence after the deceased was last seen together with the accused persons, and the discovery of the dead body in the hospital, and concluded that the prosecution had failed to establish the charge of murder against the accused persons beyond any reasonable doubt. This Court took note of the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act, and laid down the following principles in paras 31 to 34 of the report : (Mir Mohammad Omar case [State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1516] , SCC p. 392)

"31. The pristine rule that the burden of proof is on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused should not be taken as a fossilised doctrine as though it admits no process of intelligent reasoning. The doctrine of presumption is not alien to the above rule, nor would it impair the temper of the rule. On the other hand, if the traditional rule relating to burden of proof of the prosecution is allowed to be wrapped in pedantic coverage, the offenders in serious offences would be the major beneficiaries and the society would be the casualty.

32. In this case, when the prosecution succeeded in establishing the afore-narrated circumstances, the court has to presume the existence of certain facts. Presumption is a course recognised by the law for the court to rely on in conditions such as this.

33. Presumption of fact is an inference as to the existence of one fact from the existence of some other facts, unless the truth of such inference is disproved. Presumption of fact is a rule in law of evidence that a fact otherwise doubtful may be inferred from certain other proved facts. When inferring the existence of a fact from other set of proved facts, the court exercises a process of reasoning and reaches a logical conclusion as the most probable position. The above principle has gained legislative recognition in India when Section 114 is incorporated in the Evidence Act. It empowers the court to presume the existence of any fact which it thinks likely to have happened. In that process the court shall have regard to the common course of natural events, human conduct, etc. in relation to the facts of the case.

34. When it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court that Mahesh was abducted by the accused and they took him out of that area, the accused alone knew what happened to him until he was with them. If he was found murdered within a short time after the abduction the permitted reasoning process would enable the Court to draw the presumption that the accused have murdered him. Such inference can be disrupted if the accused would tell the Court what else happened to Mahesh at least until he was in their custody."

41. Applying the aforesaid principles, this Court in Mir Mohammad Omar case [State of W.B. v. Mir Mohammad Omar, (2000) 8 SCC 382 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1516] while maintaining the conviction under Section 364 read with Section 34IPC, reversed the order of acquittal under Section 302 read with Section 34IPC, and convicted the accused under the said provision and sentenced them to imprisonment for life.

42. Thus, from the aforesaid decisions of this Court, it is evident that the court should apply Section 106 of the Evidence Act in criminal cases with care and caution. It cannot be said that it has no application to criminal cases. The ordinary rule which applies to criminal trials in this country that the onus lies on the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused is not in any way modified by the provisions contained in Section 106 of the Evidence Act.

43. Section 106 cannot be invoked to make up the inability of the prosecution to produce evidence of circumstances pointing to the guilt of the accused. This section cannot be used to support a conviction unless the prosecution has discharged the onus by proving all the elements necessary to establish the offence. It does not absolve the prosecution from the duty of proving that a crime was committed even though it is a matter specifically within the knowledge of the accused and it does not throw the burden of the accused to show that no crime was committed. To infer the guilt of the accused from absence of reasonable explanation in a case where the other circumstances are not by themselves enough to call for his explanation is to relieve the prosecution of its legitimate burden. So, until a prima facie case is established by such evidence, the onus does not shift to the accused.

44. Section 106 obviously refers to cases where the guilt of the accused is established on the evidence produced by the prosecution unless the accused is able to prove some other facts especially within his knowledge which would render the evidence of the prosecution nugatory. If in such a situation, the accused gives an explanation which may be reasonably true in the proved circumstances, the accused gets the benefit of reasonable doubt though he may not be able to prove beyond reasonable doubt the truth of the explanation. But if the accused in such a case does not give any explanation at all or gives a false or unacceptable explanation, this by itself is a circumstance which may well turn the scale against him. In the language of Prof. Glanville Williams:

"All that the shifting of the evidential burden does at the final stage of the case is to allow the jury (Court) to take into account the silence of the accused or the absence of satisfactory explanation appearing from his evidence. □"

21. The foremost circumstance that appears in this case is the disowned FIR. Though PW-1 has said that he did sign the written information, on the basis of which the FIR was registered, he has disowned its contents by saying that some men from his village got an application typed out, whereon they had his signatures affixed. They did not read out its contents to him. The FIR was lodged two days after the occurrence on 10.05.2015. It is not a case where at the contact point with tragedy when the first informant, PW-1, was out of his senses, somebody wrote out a script and made him sign it. In the space of 48 hours, it is difficult to believe that the contents of the FIR were ones where the informant's mind did not accompany his signatures. Apparently, the FIR was lodged after the inquest and autopsy were all over. Therefore, the FIR, though one which can be castigated as the product of afterthought and premeditation, is certainly not a document that may be disowned for its contents by the first informant on the pretext that he signed it without reading or understanding the contents in a moment of great distress. The FIR, though not a substantive piece of evidence, is certainly the earliest account of the occurrence, which has its own evidentiary value. The circumstance, that PW-1 within two days of the occurrence nominated the appellants, besides the two other co-accused, as perpetrators of the crime, is certainly very relevant notwithstanding his hostility in the dock evidence.

22. The second most important circumstance appearing against the appellants is that the victim died an unnatural death within the four-walls of her matrimonial home, suffering as many as seven injuries with a continuous horizontal ligature mark, the cause of death being medically opined to be ‘asphyxia due to strangulation’. The learned Counsel for the appellants about this circumstance has argued that the autopsy doctor in his cross-examination has said that in case of hanging a ligature mark is there, and in cases involving hanging, death occurs as a result of oxygen supply being cutoff. In Hindi, the relevant evidence reads: Hanging vale cases me dam ghutne se maut hoti hai. The learned Counsel for the appellants has urged that it is, therefore, not conclusively proved that the deceased was strangulated to death by someone else. She could have well died as a result of hanging. Unfortunately, for the appellants, the doctor in the autopsy report has clearly opined the case to be one of death, as a result of asphyxia due to ante-mortem strangulation. Moreover, the ligature mark is continuously horizontal about 29.0 x 1.0 cm in the neck below the thyroid. In the base of the groove, soft and reddish subcutaneous tissue under the mark is ecchymosed. The hyoid bone is fractured on the right side. The general appearance of the dead body showed at the time of autopsy a protruded tongue and the eyes bulged out. In addition to the injury to the neck, there are six other injuries, already noted, all of which are contusions on the right lower limb, right hip, left hip and the left thigh, besides one on the abdomen and still another on the shoulder joint.

23. In the celebrated treatise on Medical Jurisprudence - A Textbook of Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology by Modi, 24th Edition, published by Lexis Nexis, Butterworths Wadhwa, a comparative study of the postmortem presentation of injuries and other medical features in cases of hanging and strangulation is to be found at Page 456 (Chapter 19). The comparative study is important and reproduced here:

	Hanging		Strangulation
1	Mostly suicidal.	1	Mostly homicidal
2	Face-Usually pale and petechiae rare.	2	Face-Congested, livid and marked with petechiae.
3	Saliva-Dribbling out of the mouth down on the chin and chest.	3	Saliva-No such dribbling.

4	Neck-Stretched and elongated in fresh bodies.	4	Neck-Not so.
5	External signs of asphyxia, usually not well marked	5	External signs of asphyxia, very well marked (minimal if death due to vasovagal and carotid sinus effect).
6	Ligature mark-Oblique, non-continuous placed high up in the neck between the chin and the larynx, the base of the groove or furrow being hard, yellow and parchment-like.	6	Ligature mark-Horizontal or transverse continuous, round the neck, low down in the neck below the thyroid, the base of the groove or furrow being soft and reddish.
7	Abrasions and ecchymoses round about the edges of the ligature mark, rare.	7	Abrasions and ecchymoses round about the edges of the ligature mark, common.
8	Subcutaneous tissues under the mark-White, hard and glistening.	8	Subcutaneous tissues under the mark-Ecchymosed.
9	Injury to the muscles of the neck-Rare.	9	Injury to the muscles of the neck-Common.
10	Carotid arteries, internal coats ruptured in violent cases of a long drop.	10	Carotid arteries, internal coats ordinarily ruptured.
11	Fracture of the larynx and trachea-Very rare and may be found that too in judicial hanging.	11	Fracture of the larynx trachea and hyoid bone
12	Fracture-dislocation of the cervical vertebrae-Common in judicial hanging.	12	Fracture-dislocation of the cervical vertebrae-Rare.
13	Scratches, abrasions and bruises on the face, neck and other parts of the body-Usually not present.	13	Scratches, abrasions fingernail marks and bruises on the face, neck and other parts of the body-Usually present.
14	No evidence of sexual assault.	14	Sometimes evidence of sexual assault.
15	Emphysematous bullae on the surface	15	Emphysematous of the lungs-Not present	bullae on the surface of the lungs-May be present.

24. In addition about the inference about strangulation from a hyoid bone fracture, the following opinion is expressed by Modi at Page 462 of the treatise:

"The hyoid is the U-shaped bone of the neck that is fractured in one-third of all homicides by strangulation. On this basis, postmortem detection of hyoid fracture is relevant to the diagnosis of strangulation."

25. A look at the postmortem report in this case would show, as already noticed, that the ligature mark is 'continuously horizontal'. In cases of hanging, the ligature mark is oblique, non-continuous and placed high up in the neck between the chin and the larynx, as the comparative study with cases of strangulation would show (supra). Similarly, in cases of strangulation, the ligature mark is horizontal or transverse continuous, round the neck, low down the neck below the thyroid and in the base of the groove or furrow, the tissue is soft and reddish. Here, the ligature mark is below the thyroid and the base of the groove shows soft and reddish subcutaneous tissue, which is ecchymosed. This is also typical of strangulation, where, according to Modi, subcutaneous tissue under the mark is ecchymosed, as distinguished from hanging, where it would be white, hard and glistening. Fracture of larynx, trachea and hyoid bone is also typical of a case of strangulation. Here, admittedly, the hyoid bone is fractured on the right side. The doctor's opinion, therefore, in the autopsy, which is clear about a case of strangulation and has not been materially impeached during cross-examination, is to be accepted. It is a case of death on account of ante-mortem asphyxia as a result of strangulation.

26. Above all, considering the wholesome cause of death, it is evident that the deceased was subjected to much violence before her death. Apart from the ligature mark to the neck, that accounts for the fatal injury, there are six other injuries already noticed, all of which are contusions over various parts of the body, particularly the limbs. This would show, in our opinion, ante-mortem struggle and an act of overpowering the deceased before she was done to death.

27. Therefore, the next circumstance that is firmly established is that the deceased was violently murdered by an act of throttling her to death. On the evidence established, the deceased and the three appellants were the inmates in the house, where she suffered a fatal assault and died. It has figured in the evidence of PW-1, by way of a very casual remark, much in contradiction to the first information version, that he came to know later on that his daughter had been murdered by miscreants. PW-9, Jitendra Kumar, who is a brother of the deceased, has also spoken in the same vein in his examination-in-chief, casually saying that he came to know later on that his sister was done to death by miscreants.

28. Now, assuming for a moment that there were some intruder in the deceased's matrimonial home, who had entered the premises and murdered the victim. There is no earthly reason why miscreants would enter the deceased's matrimonial home, unless they had an intention to commit some offence, like theft, robbery or dacoity. There is no such case of robbery or dacoity.

Assuming further that miscreants entered the deceased's home with whatever intention, assaulted and killed her, there is no earthly reason why the assault would be limited to the deceased alone and all other inmates would remain unscathed. There could be an explanation for it in a case of robbery, if the appellants were to say in their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that the robbers entered the matrimonial home and were resisted by the deceased alone, leading to violence and her death. In a situation of the last mentioned kind, one could think of the other inmates remaining uninjured. These are hypotheses to analyze and understand the casual remark in the testimony of PW-1 and PW-9 that they came to know later on that some unknown miscreants murdered the victim.

29. The next inculpatory circumstance, therefore, is that in her matrimonial household comprised of the three appellants and the deceased, it was the deceased alone, who received violent injuries, including the one that resulted in her death, with all others remaining unscathed. Still further is the circumstance that assuming that on account of an intrusion from outside, say intruding robbers, the deceased was done to death, it would be the natural sequence of things that out of the three appellants, her husband or her father-in-law, would have promptly called the Police and reported the matter. The Police were after all called by the deceased's father, PW-1, the first informant. No one from the deceased's family ever intimated the Police either at the station or the Dial 100 Facility or by reaching the Superintendent of Police. This is a circumstance, which is again inculpatory and one link in the chain of the different circumstances that point a finger to the guilt of the appellants.

30. Now, that there are an overbearing chain of circumstances, almost complete, pointing to the guilt of the appellants, where the deceased passed away in her matrimonial home, in the company of the appellants, throttled to death with no injury sustained by any other inmate, say as a result of any intruder's assault, the stage would have arrived where the appellants would be obliged to reveal facts especially within their knowledge attending the deceased's homicidal death.

31. Assuming that the information about the victim's death was given to PW-1 by her father-in-law, the appellant Gauri Shankar, there is not a word in his testimony or that of any other witness or the appellants' explanation under Section 313 Cr.P.C. as to how the victim met a violent death with a fatal injury of throttling her to death being established by medical evidence. There were a number of other injuries too, indicative of violence suffered by the victim before she passed away. Now, the fact, how the victim met an unnatural death within the four-walls of her matrimonial home, is something especially within the knowledge of the appellants. The appellants having not come up with any explanation either about the injuries sustained by the deceased, that were apparently non-fatal or the fatal injury of a continuous ligature mark around her neck that led to her death on account of asphyxia as a result of throttling.

32. Given all these circumstances, burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act would lie upon the appellants to explain how the deceased came to be done to death in a most violent manner within the four corners of her matrimonial home. Absent that explanation by the appellants, by as much as a hint even in the statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C., this is a clinching link of circumstances pointing to the appellants' guilt.

33. The following circumstances appear against the appellants:

(1) The deceased was the daughter-in-law of the appellants Gauri Shankar and Smt. Munni Devi and the wife of Sudhakar, the appellant in Criminal Appeal No. 4606 of 2017 and was staying together with the appellants as part of their household when she died an unnatural and violent death;

(2) The fact that within two days of the occurrence, the first informant, PW-1, lodged an FIR, nominating the three appellants as the perpetrators of the crime and notwithstanding the appellants disowning its contents, though admitting his signatures, we have found the FIR to be a dependable and the earliest account of the occurrence;

(3) The fact that the victim was murdered within the four corners of her matrimonial home with the cause of death established being asphyxia due to strangulation, besides there being as many as six other injuries on her body clearly showing ante-mortem violence;

(4) The fact that the superficially narrated story of some miscreants entering the deceased's home and murdering her, that has figured in the evidence of PW-1 and PW-9, the deceased's father and brother, both hostile witnesses, is utterly unbelievable because neither is there any evidence of a robbery being committed in the deceased's matrimonial home nor have the other inmates received any injuries, which all or some of them would certainly have received, if some miscreants had intruded in the house to commit any offence or depredation; and,

(5) the fact that assuming that the victim suffered at the hands of some intruders in her matrimonial home a violent death, the appellants who are her close relatives would have reported the matter to the Police and called them, but after all it was PW-1, who called the Police and lodged the FIR.

34. Now, all these circumstances put together, which point a very definitive finger towards the appellants committing the crime, the clincher or the last link in the chain of evidence comes from the fact that what actually happened in the four corners of the appellants home, where the deceased was murdered, is a fact especially within the appellants knowledge. The appellants having not come forward with an explanation about the circumstances in which the victim met an unnatural death or was violently murdered in her matrimonial home, leads to the inescapable conclusion taken together with the other circumstances in their entirety that it was the appellants, who did her to death.

35. In the totality of circumstances, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned judgment and order of conviction or the sentences passed upon the appellants by the learned Additional Sessions Judge.

36. In the result, these appeals fail and are hereby dismissed. The appellants in Criminal Appeal No. 4605 of 2017, Gauri Shankar and Smt. Munni Devi are bail. They will surrender before the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Etawah in order to serve out the sentences awarded to them. In case they do not surrender, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Etawah will take coercive steps to secure their presence and commit them to prison. The appellant in Criminal Appeal No.4606 of 2017, Sudhakar is in jail. This order will be communicated to him through the Jail Superintendent concerned, wherever he is serving, by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Etawah.

37. This judgment and order shall be communicated to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Etawah by the Registrar (Compliance).

38. Let the lower court records be returned.

Criminal Appeal No. 6307 of 2022

Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to a criminal appeal challenging the conviction and life imprisonment under section 302 IPC for the murder of a two-year-old stepson by strangulation in their rented room out of resentment over the child being from his wife's previous marriage.

Headnotes

Criminal law- Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Murder of two-year-old child by step-father-Sole eye witness testimony-Reliability-Mother of deceased child testifying as sole eye-witness to the murder committed by her second husband-Minor discrepancies and contradictions in her cross-examination held not fatal to the prosecution case-Natural demeanor and emotional state of mother noted by Trial court-Corroboration by post-mortem report establishing cause of death as asphyxia due to ante-mortem neck injury and fractured hyoid bone-Turning hostile of other prosecution witnesses including landlord, co-tenants, and scribe of FIR held to be a deliberate attempt to aid the accused-Sole testimony of a natural witness (mother) found fully trustworthy, inspiring confidence, and sufficient to sustain conviction despite family/landlord witnesses defecting-Prompt FIR excluding possibility of deliberation or false implication-Conviction affirmed.(Para 22 to 36) (E-6)

Held

The court held that a conviction under section 302 IPC can be legitimately sustained on the sole, credible testimony of the victim's mother, as a mother would not falsely screen the real offender to falsely implicate her spouse. Further, hostility of independent witnesses and the scribe of the FIR-acting to favor the accused cannot erode the evidentiary value of a natural eye-witness whose account is fully corroborated by medical evidence of homicidal strangulation. Appeal dismissed.

This criminal appeal has been preferred by accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, against the judgment and order of the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, (FTC-II), under 14th Finance Commission, Gorakhpur, delivered in Sessions Trial No. 40 of 2016 State Vs. Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya in Crime No. 431 of 2015, under Section 302 IPC., Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur. The learned trial Court has held guilty to accused-appellant under Section 302 IPC for rigorous life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 20,000/-. In default of payment of fine, six months additional simple imprisonment was imposed.

2. Brief fact of the case is that informant Munni Devi PW-1 has got ascribed a written report Exhibit Ka-1 from Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 and lodged the written report at Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur. The informant Munni Devi PW-1 has stated that applicant Munni Devi wife of Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya is a resident of Nakha No.1 as tenant in the house of Gheesey Yadav, near Scholars School. She is original resident of Village Laxmipur Ekdanga, P.S. Kothibhar, district Maharajganj; my husband name is Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya; often my husband had beaten my elder son Abhimanyu; Abhimanyu was born from my ex-husband, due to this reason, he regarded enmity with him; Today on 28.10.2015 about 11:00 am., he was beating Abhimanyu in the room; On hearing the voice of weeping of Abhimanyu, I reached and saw that my husband is beating him; Blood was oosing from the mouth of my son and he was lying on the bed; On seeing me, my husband ran away. I have seen that Abhimanyu has died; I began to weeping and crying then people of the house, people of the nearby place have come and seen him to ran away. Dead body of my son is lying on spot.

3. After lodging of the written report Exhibit Ka-1, by informant Munni Devi PW-1, and on the basis of it, the First Information Report Exhibit Ka-3 was registered against the accused-appellant by Head Muharir Dinesh Kumar Mishra, PW-6 on 28.10.2015 at 12:15 PM under Section 302 IPC at Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur against accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. Inspector Ram Pal Yadav, PW-8, who was posted at Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur at the time of the incident, took the investigation of the case into his hands. He visited the place of occurrence. He got prepared Panchayatnama from his companion Govind Ji Singh PW-8, of deceased Abhimanyu. The Investigating Officer also prepared other necessary police papers and prepared site plan of the place of occurrence. The Investigating Officer taken the statement of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C.; The Investigating Officer sent the dead body of the deceased Abhimanyu for postmortem examination. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet Exhibit Ka-7, against accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya in the concerned Magistrate Court having jurisdiction.

4. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Sessions Court, the learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial. The learned trial Court has framed charge on 15.07.2016 against accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya under Section 302 IPC. The accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya denied from the charge and claimed for trial.

5. To substantiate its case, prosecution adduced in total nine witnesses in the Court, such as, informant Munni Devi PW-1, Anita PW-2, Dharmendra Yadav PW-3, Gulecha PW-4, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, Dinesh Kumar Mishra PW-6, Dr. Ghanshyam Raman PW-7, Ram Pal Yadav PW-8, and Govind Ji Singh PW-9.

6. Apart from oral evidence, prosecution has also relied as documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-11 in support of its case.

7. After recording of the prosecution evidence, the accused-appellant was examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya has stated that wrong case has been registered against him. He is innocent. The police has not investigated the case on true facts. Wrong charge-sheet has been filed in the wrong way and investigation has been done in a cavalier manner. He also stated that due to enmity the case was registered against him and he is totally innocent. He submitted that he has to adduce defence evidence. In his defence accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya has adduced Ram Awadh Pandey as DW-1 in his defence.

8. After recording the evidence of the prosecution and defence, the trial Court heard arguments of both sides. The trial Court found guilty to accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya under Section 302 IPC and convicted and sentenced to accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya under Section 302 IPC for rigorous life imprisonment and a fine of Rs.20,000/-. In case of default of payment of fine, six months additional simple imprisonment was also imposed upon the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of the trial Court dated 27.05.2022, the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya has preferred this criminal appeal in this Court challenging the judgment and order of the learned trial Court passed in S.T. No.40 of 2016 State Vs. Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya in Crime No. 431 of 2015 under Section 302 IPC, Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur.

9. We have heard arguments of learned counsel for accused-appellant and the learned AGA on behalf of the State-respondents.

10. It is submitted on behalf of the learned counsel for accused-appellant that the judgment and order of the trial Court dated 27.05.2022 is against the facts and circumstances of the case. The first information report of the alleged incident was got lodged after inordinate delay without giving any satisfactory explanation of delay occurred in lodging the same, which itself goes to show that the same was got lodged afterthought on the basis of the concocted and false story. From the evidence, it is very much clear that the F.I.R. was written on the dictation of the police personnel which also goes to prove that the appellant has been falsely implicated in the present case. It is also submitted that during investigation, prosecution got examined nine witnesses out of which five witnesses of the facts during deposition of the aforesaid witnesses, four have turned hostile, but while passing the impugned judgment and order, the learned trial Court has failed to consider and appreciate their evidence in its true perspective. It is also submitted that informant Munni Devi PW-1, who claims herself to be the wife of appellant, no other witness has supported the prosecution story. There are material contradiction in the statements of the witnesses which also goes to prove that appellant has been falsely implicated in this present case, but while passing the impugned judgment the learned trial Court has failed to consider the same.

11. It is also submitted on behalf of the accused-appellant that even the medical evidence is not in consonance with the alleged allegations made in the FIR, and the statements of the witnesses. From the evidence of the Investigating Officer, who has been examined as PW-8, it is very much clear that he had not prepared any site plan. This fact has also create doubt with regard to the place of occurrence. From the entire evidence recorded during trial, it is very much clear that appellant had no motive for committing such a heinous crime. However, while passing the impugned judgment convicted the appellant, the learned trial Judge only on conjectures and surmises scrutinized the evidence, which is against the law. Conviction of the appellant is against the evidence on record, as the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. Thus, it is submitted on behalf of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant that there is no cogent and reliable evidence against the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. Prosecution is totally unsuccessful to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In view of the above, the present criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellant deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order of the learned trial Judge dated 27.05.2022 deserves to be set-aside.

12. Against the above arguments of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant, learned AGA on behalf of the State-respondents has submitted that there is no delay in lodging the FIR at police station. The first information report has been lodged promptly and without any afterthought or concoction by informant Munni Devi PW-1. The informant Munni Devi PW-1, who is helpless lady, whose son deceased Abhimanyu was itself killed by her husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. None was ready to ascribe a written report Exhibit Ka-1, due to this reason, got ascribed written report Exhibit Ka-1 from Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5. The informant Munni Devi PW-1, who is the mother of the deceased Abhimanyu and she is also the wife of the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, has fully supported the prosecution story by her evidence in the Court. Only on the ground of turning hostile of other prosecution witnesses of the fact, the evidence of the sole reliable eye-witness informant Munni Devi PW-1 could not be rejected and doubted on any other ground. The informant Munni Devi PW-1 was living in her room with her husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya in the house of Gheesey Yadav as a tenant. At the time of happening of the incident, informant Munni Devi PW-1, was present, she has seen with her own eyes the commission of the crime by accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. The learned Trial Court has appreciated the prosecution evidence in a very right perspective without any perversity and illegality and found guilty to accused-appellant and convicted him accordingly. The trial Court convicted and held guilty to accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya on the basis of cogent and reliable evidence. There is no conjecture and surmises in the impugned judgment of the learned trial Court. In this way, the learned AGA for the State respondents has submitted that there is no illegality, perversity in the impugned judgment as delivered by trial Court. Prosecution has successfully proved its case by its evidence beyond reasonable doubt. Hence, there is no merit in the criminal appeal as filed by the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, therefore, the same is liable to be rejected.

13. In view of the above arguments and counter arguments advanced on behalf of the accused-appellant and the learned AGA for the State, we have gone through the whole evidence as available on records and we have also perused the finding and reasoning of the learned trial Court in this regard.

14. According to the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-4, which was prepared by Dr. Ghan Shyam Raman PW-7, following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased Abhimanyu:

1. The body was in a moderate condition; rigor mortis was present; eyes and mouth were closed. A ligature mark/swelling measuring about 12 cm * 4 cm was present on the front of the neck.

2. On internal examination, hematoma was found beneath the skin of the neck; the trachea was congested; and the hyoid bone was fractured.

3. The brain weighed about 300 grams. The lungs were congested (right 120g, left 100g). The heart weighed about 90g and contained blood in the right chamber. The stomach contained partially digested food; the small intestine was empty; the large intestine contained fecal matter and gases. The liver, spleen, and kidneys were congested. The urinary bladder was not opened.

4. The time since death was approximately one day prior to the post-mortem.

5. The cause of death was asphyxia due to ante-mortem neck injury. No other external injuries were found on the body. No injuries were found on the feet or head, and no external bleeding was present. No marks of fingernail pressure were found on the hands. The neck injury indicated pressure by a blunt object causing obstruction of breathing.

6. The injury could have been caused on 28.10.2015 at about 11:00 AM.

Thus, from the perusal of the postmortem report of the deceased Abhimanyu, Exhibit Ka-4, it reveals that Abhimanyu was of two years and his death was caused by asphyxia due to ante-mortem neck injury. Thus, from the perusal of the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-4, it is clear that death of the deceased Abhimanyu was homicidal and it was not a natural death.

15. From the perusal of the FIR, Exhibit Ka-3, it is clear that the incident happened on 28.10.2015 at 11:00 am and informant Munni Devi PW-1 has given information by written report

Exhibit Ka-1 immediately to the police station and a case was registered itself on 28.10.2015 at 12:15 PM. Thus, it is amply clear that within one hour and fifteen minutes, informant Munni Devi PW-1, who is the mother of deceased Abhimanyu has lodged the written report promptly at the police station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur. From the prompt lodging of the FIR, it is evident that informant Munni Devi PW-1, without any deliberation, consideration and afterthought, has lodged written report against accused-appellant. Thus, we find that there is no deliberation, afterthought, concoction and consideration in lodging the FIR by informant Munni Devi PW-1. In view of this, we find no force in the arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellant in this respect.

16. The informant Munni Devi PW-1 has deposed in her examination-in-chief that she is the wife of Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. She is a resident of Village Laxmipur Ekdanga, Police Station Kothibhar, District Maharajganj and she and Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya had been living as husband and wife before one year from the incident. This incident happened on 28.10.2015 at 11:00 am in the day. At the time of incident, we had been living in Nakah No.1, near Scholars School, in a rented house; she was washing the utensils at the home that then my son Abhimanyu who was two years old from the room loud voice of weeping has come, then I ran to the room and saw that my husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was beating my child. Blood was oosing from the mouth and head of my son Abhimanyu; on seeing blood, I began to weep then my husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya had ran away from there; After that I weep, cried and seeing the condition of the child, became unconscious; after that on hearing cry, an unknown person of the locality has telephoned and call the police; the above examination-in-chief of the informant Munni Devi PW-1 was recorded on 29.06.2017, her examination-in-chief could not be completed because it has been written that witness become emotional and weeping, due to this, examination-in-chief was deferred for other day. Thus, the learned trial Court has noticed the demeanor of the informant Munni Devi PW-1.

17. Further in her examination-in-chief, informant Munni Devi PW-1 has stated that my son Abhimanyu was about two years of age. He was born from my first husband Mantu, due to this reason, Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, who is my second husband, had got enmity with my son and always he was beaten and assaulted by him. Even before me, he was assaulted and beating him; I requested him by falling down on his feet and prayed not to beat him, even upon this, he annoyed and beating him; I had got written application with police, who had written the application; I do not remember his name, who has written the application; then I have signed on the application.

18. In her cross-examination informant Munni Devi PW-1 has stated that my first marriage was solemnized with Mantu. I could not tell the name of his father. He was resident of Mahadeva Chhapra Hata, district Kushinagar. This marriage was solemnized eight years back from today. Mantu was working as a carpenter. This work he was doing in Surat (Gujarat); I had stayed with Mantu for eight years, again said that I stayed for five years; after one year of marriage, my son Abhimanyu was born. Name of this child was Abhimanyu. At the time of his death, he was two years old; I had two child, name of the second child is Krishna. Krishna was one year younger from Abhimanyu; my paternal home (Maika) is in Village Laxmipur Ekdanga, P.S. Kothibhar, district Maharajganj; my marriage with Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was solemnized in a temple. It was not according to the tradition and customs; at the time of marriage, mother and father of Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya were present.

19. In her cross-examination, informant Munni Devi PW-1, has also stated that I had given tahreer of this case at police station. This thing, written in tahreer, is true that on 28.10.2015 at 11:00 am in day, Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was beating my son in the room; I told this thing to Daroga Ji; I told this thing of beating my son at 11:00 am in day in Court also. Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya had assaulted on the leg of my child on 28.10.2015 at 8:00 am in the morning, due to this reason, he was not able to stand up; after that I went to wash the utensils and came back then Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was again beating Abhimanyu at 11:00 am. Further, during the course of cross-examination, she also stated that I have taken utensils at 9:00 am morning and went to wash them. When I was washing utensils, voice of weeping came, I rush to the room and saw that Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was beating my elder child; he dashed him to the floor, raised above and thrown my child, due to which back side of head of my child was injured. Blood was fallen on the floor and spread. Pradeep tried to press the neck of the child and while seeing all this, I became unconscious by weeping. At the time when I came with Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, the age of Abhimanyu was two years. Pradeep had taken me from the house of my ex-husband; after one year, Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya has killed Abhimanyu; Abhimanyu lived with us for one year. Pradeep had not given food and cloths to him; I provide cloth for his own child; he was doing all things; I had complained to mother and father of Pradeep.

20. Thus, from the perusal of the evidence of informant Munni Devi PW-1, as deposed by her in Court, this fact emerged that firstly she was married with Mantu, who was a resident of Mahadeva Chhapra Hata, district Kushinagar. First marriage of the informant Munni Devi PW-1 was solemnized about eight years before; her ex-husband Mantu was doing carpenter work at Surat (Gujarat); thereafter, after about five years of her first marriage with Mantu, informant Munni Devi PW-1 left her husband Mantu; deceased Abhimanyu was born from wedlock of informant Munni Devi PW-1 with Mantu, by any means and circumstances, she became familiar with accused-appellant. After leaving house of her first husband Mantu, she came with appellant to the house of accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya along with her deceased son Abhimanyu, who was born from her first husband. After leaving her first husband Mantu, informant Munni Devi began to live with accused-appellant. The accused-appellant had taken a rented room in the house of Gheesey Yadav at Nakha No.1, near Scholar School. Informant Munni Devi PW-1, got a second child from her second husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya. According to this witness, since deceased Abhimanyu was born from her first husband Mantu, due to this reason, accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya had kept jealousy and enmity with deceased Abhimanyu. According to informant Munni Devi PW-1, accused-appellant often beated and assaulted deceased Abhimanyu. He likes and loved his own second child, who was born from him with the informant Munni Devi PW-1. On the day of incident on 28.10.2015, at 11:00 am in day, informant Munni Devi PW-1, was living in her rented room with Abhimanyu, her first child and with her husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya and also with her second child Krishna. At the time of incident, informant Munni Devi PW-1, was washing utensils out of room; when she heard voice of her son Abhimanyu, who was loudly weeping then, on hearing the loud weeping voice of her son, she came in the room and she saw that accused-appellant, Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was beating the deceased Abhimanyu. Before informant Munni Devi PW-1, accused-appellant pressed the neck of the deceased Abhimanyu, by which he died on the spot. Although, there is contradictions in respect of the time, manner of the incident committed by accused-appellant. However, in view of the above, the contradictions and discrepancies that crept into the cross-examination of the informant Munni Devi PW-1 and that was pointed out by the learned counsel for the accused-appellant, are not found to be major and material contradictions, by reason of which, evidence of this witness could be recorded as false and doubtful. This is a fact that informant Munni Devi PW-1 is mother of the deceased Abhimanyu and the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, was husband of the informant Munni Devi PW-1. For accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, informant Munni Devi PW-1 has deserted and left her first husband Mantu and began to live as wife after marrying with him at temple. A woman like informant Munni Devi PW-1, who deserted and left her first husband and came to live with the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, how and why she falsely implicate her second husband for the murder of her elder child Abhimanyu, aged about two years. In Indian social framework and cultural, traditions of society, a mother would not exonerate and exculpate real culprit and falsely implicate her second husband for whom she had deserted and left her first husband Mantu. We also find that demeanor of informant Munni Devi PW-1 has been noted by the learned trial Court on 29.06.2017, when her examination-in-chief was being recorded in the Court, since by becoming very emotional, she was weeping due to this reason, trial Court adjourned the examination-in-chief of informant Munni Devi PW-1 for next date i.e. 25.01.2018.

21. It is very natural that when a witness states the same thing to different persons on different dates and occasions, a contradiction and inconsistency in the statement of the witness is likely to and naturally would crept into the statements. It is also a natural fact that a mother, like informant Munni Devi PW-1 in this case, whose two years old son Abhimanyu was killed by her own husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, why she falsely implicate her beloved second husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya for whom she deserted and left her first husband Mantu.

22. Thus, from the perusal of the whole evidence of this witness, including cross-examination, we find no contradiction, inconsistency, exaggeration or embellishment in the evidence of informant Munni Devi PW-1 of this nature by reason of which, we could doubt the truthful and creditworthy evidence of this witness. Only on the ground of minor contradictions, inconsistencies, exaggeration and embellishment, reliable and trustworthy evidence of the informant Munni Devi PW-1, could not be doubted and rejected. We find that the evidence and testimony of the informant Munni Devi PW-1 as wholly reliable and creditworthy in respect of the prosecution story.

23. The Supreme Court in the case of Shyam Sunder Vs. State of Chhattisgarh reported in (2002) 8 SCC 39 has held on the points of contradictions, inconsistencies, exaggerations or embellishments, that:

"when an incident is narrated by the same person to different persons, on different occasions, some difference in the mode of narrating the incident is bound to arise. However, such difference do not militate against the trustworthiness of the narration unless the variations can be held to be so abnormal or unnatural as would not occur if the witness would have really witnessed what he was narrating"

24. In the light of the legal principles, as laid down by the Supreme Court in Shyam Sunder (supra), from the perusal of the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-4, which was prepared by Dr. Ghanshyam Raman PW-7, we find that postmortem report of deceased Abhimanyu Exhibit Ka-4, hyoid bone of deceased Abhimanyu was found fractured, meaning thereby that due to heavy pressure by accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya□s hands as informant Munni Devi PW-1, mother of deceased Abhimanyu has also clearly stated in her evidence that accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya had pressed the neck of the deceased Abhimanyu, this fact was also corroborated by Dr. Ghanshyam Raman PW-7, who prepared the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-4 that deceased Abhimanyu□s hyoid bone was fractured, the cause of death was asphyxia due to ante-mortem neck injury. It was found that heavy pressure was applied on the neck, and due to this pressure, breathing had stopped. In this way, we find that in relation to the main incident that accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya has assaulted and beated the deceased-Abhimanyu, a child of two years of age and forcibly pressed the neck of the deceased, due to which his hyoid bone was fractured and breath was stopped and he died on the spot itself. Thus, we find no force in the arguments of the learned counsel for the accused-appellant in this regard.

25. Prosecution witness Smt. Anita PW-2, although becomes hostile and has not supported the prosecution story, however, from the evidence of this witness, this fact become clearly established that in the house of this witness in the year 2015, an incident happened, the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya son of Bechu Chaurasaiya was living with his wife Munni Devi and his children as tenant. Munni Devi had a child of two and half years, his name was Abhimanyu. Anita is wife of Dharmendra Yadav, daughter-in-law of Gheese Yadav in whose house accused-appellant was residing with informant Munni Devi PW-1 and his children at the time of the incident. The prosecution witness Dharmendra Yadav son of Gheese Yadav had also proved this fact that in the year 2015, accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya son of Bechu Chaurasaiya was residing with his wife Munni Devi PW-1 and his children in his house and Munni Devi was wife of accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya of whom, had a child of two and half years, whose name was Abhimanyu, suddenly one day he died. How he died, this witness do not know. Thus, from the evidence of hostile witness Dharmendra Yadav PW-3, this fact again being proved and established that in the year 2015 when this incident happened, accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was living as a tenant with his wife informant Munni Devi PW-1 and his children in a rented room in the house of this witness. From the evidence of hostile witness Gulecha PW-4, the fact of living of Munni Devi PW-1 wife of accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya with her child in the rented room of the house of this witness, also proved.

26. From a perusal of the evidence of Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, who ascribed written report Exhibit Ka-1, we find that this witness has also became hostile in the Court and has not supported the prosecution story, but from the evidence of this hostile witness, we find that this witness was also living in a room in the house of same landlord Gheese Yadav and in the same house informant Munni Devi PW-1 wife of accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was also living with her child Abhimanyu. According to this witness, the incident happened on 28.10.2015 in the morning at 11:00 hours that Munni Devi suddenly began to weep and she began to knock the door thereafter we all people went there in the room and saw that Abhimanyu son of Munni Devi PW-1 was lying dead and Munni Devi was weeping. This witness has accepted in his examination-in-chief that tehreer/written report Exhibit Ka-1 was written by him and name of this witness was written as writer of the tehreer. Although, this witness has accepted in his cross-examination that tehreer was written by him and writing of tehreer is in his writing and name of this witness is written as a writer of the tehreer. However, this witness become hostile and has not supported the prosecution story. During the cross-examination by the defence, this witness has stated that Daroga Ji has as dictated and as told me, I have so and so written the application. On seeing tehreer/written report, Exhibit Ka-1, this witness has stated that I had written the tehreer on the dictation of Daroga Ji.

27. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant during his arguments in Court, heavily hammered on the statement of Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 and draw the attention of this Court towards the statement of Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant has submitted, on the above evidence as given by this hostile witness PW-5 Subhash Dhar Dubey in his cross-examination, that written report Exhibit Ka-1 was written on the dictation of Daroga Ji in the police station, hence whole prosecution story and truthfulness become highly doubtful and suspicious. However, when we see the whole facts and circumstances of the case, in totality and also in view of the fact that informant Munni Devi PW-1 was a helpless lady when her second husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya killed his son Abhimanyu, who is aged about two years and after killing, ran away from the place of incident then family members of the landlord and other tenants living in the same house, came to help and to give consolation to informant Munni Devi PW-1. On the dictation of informant Munni Devi PW-1, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, who was a Purohit by profession performing pooja and other religious rituals at the houses of the peoples, Munni Devi PW-1 dictated and narrated the story to Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 and Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 had written the written report Exhibit Ka-1, thereafter Munni Devi PW-1, went to police station Chiluwatal and lodged the written report/FIR to the police station with Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5. At the time of lodging of the FIR, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 was also present at the police station with the informant Munni Devi PW-1. This fact finds corroboration from the prosecution witness Head Muharir Dinesh Kumar Mishra, PW-6 and who registered the FIR on the basis of the written report Exhibit Ka-1. During the cross-examination, Head Muharir Dinesh Kumar Mishra, PW-6 has stated that the complainant alone had not came at police station while with one person Subhash Dhar Dubey had also came, meaning thereby, that informant Munni Devi PW-1 was helpless lady, none came forward to help in this unfortunate incident. Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, who was also a tenant in the same house of Gheese Yadav came forward and has written the written report on the dictation of the informant Munni Devi PW-1 and both Munni Devi and Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 had went at police station to lodge the FIR.

28. However, when the trial began and evidence was recorded of the prosecution witnesses, all the witnesses of prosecution such as, Anita PW-2, Dharmendra Yadav PW-3, Gulecha PW-4, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 became hostiles. Since informant Munni Devi PW-1 was a helpless lady, who was residing with her husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya along with her children in a rented room in the house of Gheese Yadav. Anita PW-2, Dharmendra Yadav PW-3, Gulecha PW-4, were members of the landlord□s family. Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 was also a tenant in the same house of Gheese Yadav. All these above prosecution witnesses have not supported the prosecution story and became hostile. Reason for this was that when Munni Devi PW-1 was betrayed by her husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, then seeing this situation and circumstances, prosecution witnesses including the writer of the tehreer Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, all have become hostile. Munni Devi PW-1 was a resident of other district then none prosecution witness was desirous and willing to support her and all prosecution witnesses with a view to make a ground for the acquittal of accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasiya, have become hostile and not supported the prosecution case. Prosecution witness, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, writer of the tehree/written report Exhibit Ka-1 also becomes hostile with a view to help the accused-appellant, purposely and intentionally stated in his cross-examination that in the police station on the dictation of Daroga Ji, he had written the tehreer. What was dictated and told by Daroga Ji, so and so was written by me. Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 has stated the above facts in his cross-examination falsely and with an intention to make acquittal of the accused-appellant sure and certain. Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 with an intention and planning to help accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, has stated this false statement in his cross-examination. Thus, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 has stated the above statement in his evidence with a view that by his above statement, all prosecution story would become suspicious and doubtful and shall fall to the ground, but from a perusal of the above statement of hostile prosecution witness Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, we find that accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya is not entitled and eligible for any benefit from the statement of Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 about the manner in which the tehreer Exhibit Ka-1 was written at police station. Thus, from the above discussions, we are of the considered opinion that only on the statement of Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 in respect of the written report Exhibit-Ka-

1 and few minor contradictions and inconsistencies in evidence of informant Munni Devi PW-1, it is not legal to reject the prosecution story and reliable, creditworthy evidence of informant Munni Devi PW-1.

29. In view of the above discussion, we find that accused-appellant would not get any benefit on this ground that Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 has stated that he has written tehreer Exhibit Ka-1 on the dictation of Daroga Ji because Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5 has stated the above statement after becoming hostile and he has not supported the prosecution case. Thus, we find that when informant Munni Devi PW-1 was betrayed by her second husband accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, then the prosecution witnesses, such as Anita PW-2, Dharmendra Yadav PW-3, Gulecha PW-4, Subhash Dhar Dubey PW-5, all have also betrayed to Munni Devi and tried to ensure acquittal of the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya by becoming hostile. Thus, therefore, in the light of the above discussion, we find no force in the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the accused-appellant in this respect.

30. Although, no other prosecution witnesses have supported the prosecution story except informant Munni Devi PW-1. However, at the time of incident, Munni Devi was present with accused-appellant and her deceased child Abhimanyu in the room where incident happened, meaning thereby that Munni Devi is a helpless and sole witness, who testified and proved the prosecution story in respect of her deceased child Abhimanyu. A mother of deceased child, such as Munni Devi PW-1 would not spare real culprit of the crime and would not falsely implicate his second husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, for whom she has deserted and left her first husband Mantu and his family. We find that from the evidence of sole witness, informant Munni Devi PW-1, there is an ample reliable evidence against accused-appellant in respect of his alleged commission of the crime. The evidence of informant Munni Devi PW-1 is trustworthy, reliable that inspires confidence as credible and truthfulness.

31. In the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Smt. Kalki and Another reported in (1981) 2 SCC 752, the Supreme Court has held on the point of interested witness in paragraphs 7 and 8, which are as under:

"7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W.1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W.1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents.

8….. In the depositions of witnesses there are always some normal discrepancies however honest and truthful they may be. These discrepancies are due to normal errors of observation, normal errors of memory due to lapse of time, due to mental disposition such as shock and horror at the time of the occurrence, and the like. Material discrepancies are those which are not normal, and not expected of a normal person. As indicated above we have not found any material discrepancies in the evidence of the P. W. 1."

32. In the case of Sucha Singh and Another Vs. State of Punjab (2003) 7 SCC 643, the Supreme Court has held in paragraph-13 of the judgment that:

"Relation is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible"

33. Thus, in the light of the legal principles as laid down by the Supreme Court in the above cases, we find that although informant Munni Devi PW-1 is the sole and related witness in this case because she was mother of the deceased Abhimanyu, but this is also a fact that she is the wife of the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, the evidence and testimony of informant are wholly reliable and trustworthy. She has fully supported and has given evidence against her husband Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya, who killed her son Abhimanyu aged about two years, no woman of the Indian culture would falsely implicate her husband. Prosecution story has also find support and corroboration from the statements of Investigating Officer Ram Pal Yadav PW-8 in his cross-examination, he stated that evidence was found that in the room of incident, informant Munni Devi PW-1 and accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya was residing. In the light of the above discussion, we find no force in the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the accused-appellant in this respect.

34. We have also gone through the finding and reasoning as given by the learned trial Court in its judgment and order dated 27.05.2022. The learned trial Court has given cogent and reliable findings and reasoning based on the prosecution evidence such as informant Munni Devi PW-1. We find no infirmity, illegality or perversity in the judgment and order of conviction and sentence of the trial Court dated 27.05.2022. In view of this, we find that the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the trial Court requires no interference by this Court. We also find that the judgment and order dated 27.05.2022 of conviction and sentence of trial Court is liable to be affirmed.

35. In the light of the above discussion, we are of the view that criminal appeal as filed by the accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya is devoid of merit and hence liable to be rejected. We, therefore, affirmed the judgment and order of the trial Court dated 27.05.2022 as passed in Sessions Trial No. 40 of 2016 State Vs. Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya in Crime No. 431 of 2015, under Section 302 IPC., Police Station Chiluwatal, District Gorakhpur.

36. The criminal appeal filed by accused-appellant Pradeep @ Aman Chaurasaiya is dismissed, as being devoid of merit. The accused-appellant is in jail since 31.10.2015.

37. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the learned Trial Court along with the lower Court records forthwith for necessary compliance.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to an appeal against acquittal and the extent of power and jurisdiction of the High Court while considering an appeal against an order of acquittal, particularly where the trial Court has taken a possible view on appreciation of the entire evidence on record and whether such view can be substituted by another view merely because a different view is possible. (Paras 15-21).

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 378 - Appeal against acquittal - Power and jurisdiction of High Court - Possible view taken by trial Court - Interference - Held, the power of scrutiny exercisable by the High Court under S. 378, CrPC should not be routinely invoked where the view formed by the trial Court was a possible view - Judgment of trial Court cannot be set aside merely because High Court finds its own view more probable, save where judgment suffers from perversity or conclusions drawn were impossible if there was a correct reading and analysis of evidence on record - Unless there is complete misreading of material evidence leading to miscarriage of justice, the view taken by trial Court which can also possibly be a correct view, need not be interfered with - Self-restraint doctrine does not denude High Court of its powers to re-appreciate evidence and arrive at a different firm finding of fact. (Paras 15-19).

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 378 - Appeal against acquittal - Presumption of innocence - Double presumption - If two reasonable conclusions are possible on basis of evidence on record, appellate Court should not disturb finding of acquittal recorded by trial Court - Trial Court's acquittal bolsters presumption of innocence - Interference permissible in exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances and judgment under appeal is found to be perverse - Routine interference where other view is possible should be avoided unless there are good reasons for interference. (Paras 18-19).

Criminal Law - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 378 - Appeal against acquittal - Appreciation of evidence - Material discrepancy in testimony - Absence of injury - Absence of independent witness - Trial Court having taken possible view on appreciation of entire evidence - High Court declining to substitute its own view - Leave to appeal rejected and government appeal dismissed. (Paras 20-21).

Held: The power of scrutiny exercisable by the High Court under S. 378, CrPC should not be routinely invoked where the view formed by the trial Court was a possible view - the judgment of the trial Court cannot be set aside merely because the High Court finds its own view more probable, save where the judgment of the trial Court suffers from perversity or the conclusions drawn by it were impossible if there was a correct reading and analysis of the evidence on record - unless the High Court finds that there is complete misreading of the material evidence which has led to miscarriage of justice, the view taken by the trial Court which can also possibly be a correct view, need not be interfered with - the appellate court should not ordinarily set aside a judgment of acquittal in a case where two views are possible - while dealing with a judgment of acquittal, the appellate court has to consider the entire evidence on record so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial Court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable - in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused - if two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court - in exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances and the judgment under appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal - the appellate court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused and further that the trial Court's acquittal bolsters the presumption of his innocence - on perusal of record, the trial Court had thoroughly analysed the testimony and specifically discussed the evidence, the absence of external or internal injury on the private part, the absence of independent witness and the material discrepancy in the statement regarding commission of rape - the trial Court had taken a possible view of the matter on appreciation of entire evidence on record, which could not be substituted by the High Court taking a different view - accordingly, it was not a case worth granting leave to appeal and the application for granting leave to appeal was rejected - consequently, the present government appeal was also dismissed. (Paras 15-21). (E-7)

Re: Criminal Misc. Application (Leave to Appeal)

1. Heard Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA appearing for the appellant-State of UP and perused the record.

2. The present government appeal has been preferred by the State against the judgment and order dated 23.07.2019 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court, Court No.1, Gonda in Sessions Trial No. 443 of 2016, arising out of Case Crime No. 87 of 2014, under Sections 376, 323/34, 452 of Indian Penal Code (herein after referred to as 'IPC' Police Station Umri Begumganj, District Gonda.

3. By the impugned judgment dated 23.07.2019 passed in Sessions Trial No. 443 of 2016, the accused Babloo @ Ashok Singh and Maksoodan were convicted for the offence under Section 323 of I.P.C. while the accused Babloo @ Ashok Singh was acquitted of the charge of Sections 376 and 452 of IPC and accused Maksoodan was also acquitted of the charge of Section 452 of IPC.

4. Being aggrieved and dissatisfied by the order of acquittal, the State has filed this appeal along with application under Section 378(3) of Cr.P.C. for grant of leave to appeal against the said judgment.

5. Prosecution story, in brief, is that on 12.04.2014 at about 7.00 p.m. in the evening accused/opposite party No.1-Babloo @ Ashok Singh entered into the house of the informant/victim and caught her hand, pulled her in the "kothri", where victim was undressed and accused molested her. Upon hue and cry, victim's husband and father-in-law rushed to save her, then accused/opposite party No.2-Maksoodan started to beat them. Victim□s husband and her father-in-law ran towards the room, then accused entered there and inflicted blows to them.

6. On the basis of written information given by the informant, First Information Report (herein after referred to as 'FIR') against accused persons Babloo @ Ashok Singh and Maksoodan had been lodged under Sections 376, 323 and 452 of IPC.

7. During the course of investigation, statement of victim and witnesses were recorded. The victim was medically examined and after concluding the investigation, the Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheet against the accused persons for the aforesaid offences.

8. After compliance of mandatory provision of Section 207 of Code of Criminal Procedure (herein after referred to as 'CrPC'), the said case was committed to the Court of Session Judge from where it is made over to the Additional Sessions Judge/Fast Track Court, Court No.1, Gonda for trial, who framed the charges against the accused Babloo @ Ashok Singh under Section 376, 323 and 452 IPC and against accused Maksoodan charge was framed under Sections 452, 323 of the IPC only for which the accused persons denied and claimed to be tried.

9. In order to prove its case, the prosecution has adduced ocular evidence of victim/informant PW-1, Radhe PW-2, Dr. Karuna Gupta PW-3, Investigating Officer Awadesh Singh PW-4, Dr. V.K.Gupta PW-5, Lady Constable Neha Singh PW-6 and Head Constable Sachhidanand Mishra PW-7.

10. After hearing the learned counsel for the parties and perusing the material available on record, the learned trial court found that the charges against the accused, Babloo @ Ashok Singh and Maksoodan for the offence under Section 323 of I.P.C. were proved. Therefore, they were held guilty of the offence under Section 323 of the IPC. Conversely, the charge under Section 376/452 against the accused Babloo @ Ashok Singh, and the charge under Section 452 against Maksoodan, were not proved. Consequently, the court acquitted Babloo @ Ashok Singh for the offences under Sections 376 and 452 of the IPC, and acquitted Maksoodan for the offence, under Section 452 of the IPC.

11. The judgment of acquittal was passed on the ground that prosecution version is not innocent since the alleged incident is stated to be happened in the evening at 7.00 p.m. while all family members of the victim were present there, therefore, it was not possible for accused to drag the victim and commit rape on her. Learned trial Court also observed that victim is a married lady having five children. She has stated that accused thrown her and thereafter dragged and then committed rape on her, but Dr. Karuna Gupta PW-3 did not find any external or internal injury on the person of the victim and no abrasion or marks of injury on the back of the victim was found. Learned trial Court also observed that there are major inconsistencies and discrepancies in the testimony of the witnesses, which is not corroborated by any cogent and reliable evidence. Learned trial Court also observed that a scuffle between the accused and informant/victim took place on some issue and accused persons inflicted blows with a piece of brick on her head and one injury was found on the head of the victim.

12. Learned trial Court also indicated that in the statement given by Dr. Karuna Gupta PW-3, no external or internal injury on the private parts of the victim was found and at the time to alleged incident in the evening all the family members were present on the spot, then it was un-believeable and impossible to commit rape on the victim. Learned trial court further found that there was material contradiction and shifting of stand in the statement of victim, her statement was not wroth belief. Under such circumstances, the trial Court found that the prosecution could not prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the accused persons were given benefit of doubt and judgment of acquittal was passed.

13. Challenging to this impugned judgment, Sri Anurag Verma, learned AGA submits that the trial Court has erred in appreciating the evidence on record. He further submits that it is very ridiculous that learned trial Court accepts partial evidence of the victim while disbelieved the remaining portion of the testimony of the victim. He also submitted that evidence of the victim must be read in totality and victim has categorically stated that accused Babloo has committed rape on her and both the accused persons after entering into the room made assault also. The victim has supported the prosecution version in her statement recorded under Section 164 of CrPC and testimony given before the trial Court. He further submits that the learned trial Court has given undue weightage to the evidence of defence evidence and has wrongly ignored the prosecution evidence. He further submits that the witnesses are intact and have corroborated the prosecution case and the findings recorded by the learned trial Court is not one of the possible view. Submission, therefore, is that the judgment and order of acquittal passed by the trial Court requires serious consideration and reversal and the accused persons herein are liable to be convicted.

14. We have considered the submissions and have perused the record.

15. Before proceeding further, it would be appropriate to take note of law on the appeal against acquittal.

16. In the case of Bannareddy and others vs. State of Karnataka and others, (2018) 5 SCC 790, in paragraph 10, the Hon'ble Apex Court has considered the power and jurisdiction of the High Court while interfering in an appeal against acquittal and in paragraph 26 it has been held that "the High Court should not have reappreciated the evidence in its entirety, especially when there existed no grave infirmity in the findings of the trial Court. There exists no justification behind setting aside the order of acquittal passed by the trial Court, especially when the prosecution case suffers from several contradictions and infirmities"

17. In Jayamma vs. State of Karnataka, 2021 (6) SCC 213, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has been pleased to explain the limitations of exercise of power of scrutiny by the High Court in an appeal against against an order of acquittal passed by a Trial Court in the following words:

"The power of scrutiny exercisable by the High Court under Section 378, CrPC should not be routinely invoked where the view formed by the trial court was a "possible view'. The judgment of the trial court cannot be set aside merely because the High Court finds its own view more probable, save where the judgment of the trial court suffers from perversity or the conclusions drawn by it were impossible if there was a correct reading and analysis of the evidence on record. To say it differently, unless the High Court finds that there is complete misreading of the material evidence which has led to miscarriage of justice, the view taken by the trial court which can also possibly be a correct view, need not be interfered with. This self-restraint doctrine, of course, does not denude the High Court of its powers to re-appreciate the evidence, including in an appeal against acquittal and arrive at a different firm finding of fact."

18. In a judgment of this Court in Virendra Singh vs. State of UP and others, 2022 (3) ADJ 354 DB, the law on the issue involved has been considered. For ready reference, paragraphs 10, 11 and 12 are quoted as under:

"10. In the case of Babu vs. State of Kerala (2010) 9 SCC 189 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 1179, the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that while dealing with a judgment of acquittal, the appellate court has to consider the entire evidence on record, so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial Court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable. The appellate court is entitled to consider whether in arriving at a finding of fact, the trial Court had failed to take into consideration admissible evidence and/or had taken into consideration the evidence brought on record contrary to law. Paragraphs 12 to 19 of the aforesaid judgment are quoted as under:-

"12. This court time and again has laid down the guidelines for the High Court to interfere with the judgment and order of acquittal passed by the Trial Court. The appellate court should not ordinarily set aside a judgment of acquittal in a case where two views are possible, though the view of the appellate court may be more, the probable one. While dealing with a judgment of acquittal, the appellate court has to consider the entire evidence on record, so as to arrive at a finding as to whether the views of the trial Court were perverse or otherwise unsustainable. The appellate court is entitled to consider whether in arriving at a finding of fact, the trial Court had failed to take into consideration admissible evidence and/or had taken into consideration the evidence brought on record contrary to law. Similarly, wrong placing of burden of proof may also be a subject matter of scrutiny by the appellate court. (Vide Balak Ram v. State of U.P. AIR 1974 SC 2165; Shambhoo Missir & Anr. v. State of Bihar AIR 1991 SC 315; Shailendra Pratap & Anr. v. State of U.P. AIR 2003 SC 1104; Narendra Singh v. State of M.P. (2004) 10 SCC 699; Budh Singh & Ors. v. State of U.P. AIR 2006 SC 2500; State of U.P. v. Ramveer Singh AIR 2007 SC 3075; S. Rama Krishna v. S. Rami Reddy (D) by his LRs. & Ors. AIR 2008 SC 2066; Arulvelu & Anr. Vs. State (2009) 10 SCC 206; Perla Somasekhara Reddy & Ors. v. State of A.P. (2009) 16 SCC 98; and Ram Singh alias Chhaju v. State of Himachal Pradesh (2010) 2 SCC 445).

13. In Sheo Swarup and Ors. King Emperor AIR 1934 PC 227, the Privy Council observed as under:

"...the High Court should and will always give proper weight and consideration to such matters as (1) the views of the trial Judge as to the credibility of the witnesses, (2) the presumption of innocence in favour of the accused, a presumption certainly not weakened by the fact that he has been acquitted at his trial, (3) the right of the accused to the benefit of any doubt, and (4) the slowness of an appellate court in disturbing a finding of fact arrived at by a Judge who had the advantage of seeing the witnesses…."

14. The aforesaid principle of law has consistently been followed by this Court. (See: Tulsiram Kanu v. The State AIR 1954 SC 1; Balbir Singh v. State of Punjab AIR 1957 SC 216; M.G. Agarwal v. State of Maharashtra AIR 1963 SC 200; Khedu Mohton & Ors. v. State of Bihar AIR 1970 SC 66; Sambasivan and Ors. State of Kerala (1998) 5 SCC 412; Bhagwan Singh and Ors. v. State of M.P. (2002) 4 SCC 85; and State of Goa v. Sanjay Thakran and Anr. (2007) 3 SCC 755).

15. In Chandrappa and Ors. v. State of Karnataka (2007) 4 SCC 415, this Court reiterated the legal position as under:

"(1) An appellate court has full power to review, re-appreciate and reconsider the evidence upon which the order of acquittal is founded.

(2) The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 puts no limitation, restriction or condition on exercise of such power and an appellate court on the evidence before it may reach its own conclusion, both on questions of fact and of law.

(3) Various expressions, such as, "substantial and compelling reasons", "good and sufficient grounds", "very strong circumstances", "distorted conclusions", "glaring mistakes", etc. are not intended to curtail extensive powers of an appellate court in an appeal against acquittal. Such phraseologies are more in the nature of "flourishes of language" to emphasise the reluctance of an appellate court to interfere with acquittal than to curtail the power of the court to review the evidence and to come to its own conclusion.

(4) An appellate court, however, must bear in mind that in case of acquittal, there is double presumption in favour of the accused. Firstly, the presumption of innocence is available to him under the fundamental principle of criminal jurisprudence that every person shall be presumed to be innocent unless he is proved guilty by a competent court of law. Secondly, the accused having secured his acquittal, the presumption of his innocence is further reinforced, reaffirmed and strengthened by the trial court.

(5) If two reasonable conclusions are possible on the basis of the evidence on record, the appellate court should not disturb the finding of acquittal recorded by the trial court."

16. In Ghurey Lal v. State of Uttar Pradesh (2008) 10 SCC 450, this Court re-iterated the said view, observing that the appellate court in dealing with the cases in which the trial courts have acquitted the accused, should bear in mind that the trial court's acquittal bolsters the presumption that he is innocent. The appellate court must give due weight and consideration to the decision of the trial court as the trial court had the distinct advantage of watching the demeanour of the witnesses, and was in a better position to evaluate the credibility of the witnesses.

17. In State of Rajasthan v. Naresh @ Ram Naresh (2009) 9 SCC 368, the Court again examined the earlier judgments of this Court and laid down that an "order of acquittal should not be lightly interfered with even if the court believes that there is some evidence pointing out the finger towards the accused."

18. In State of Uttar Pradesh v. Banne alias Baijnath & Ors. (2009) 4 SCC 271, this Court gave certain illustrative circumstances in which the Court would be justified in interfering with a judgment of acquittal by the High Court. The circumstances includes:

i) The High Court's decision is based on totally erroneous view of law by ignoring the settled legal position;

ii) The High Court's conclusions are contrary to evidence and documents on record;

iii) The entire approach of the High Court in dealing with the evidence was patently illegal leading to grave miscarriage of justice;

iv) The High Court's judgment is manifestly unjust and unreasonable based on erroneous law and facts on the record of the case;

v) This Court must always give proper weight and consideration to the findings of the High Court;

vi) This Court would be extremely reluctant in interfering with a case when both the Sessions Court and the High Court have recorded an order of acquittal.

A similar view has been reiterated by this Court in Dhanapal v. State by Public Prosecutor, Madras (2009) 10 SCC 401.

19. Thus, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that in exceptional cases where there are compelling circumstances, and the judgment under appeal is found to be perverse, the appellate court can interfere with the order of acquittal. The appellate court should bear in mind the presumption of innocence of the accused and further that the trial Court's acquittal bolsters the presumption of his innocence. Interference in a routine manner where the other view is possible should be avoided, unless there are good reasons for interference."

11. Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ramesh Babulal Doshi vs. State of Gujarat (1996) 9 SCC 225 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 972 has observed that while deciding appeal against acquittal, the High Court has to first record its conclusion on the question whether the approach of the trial court dealing with the evidence was patently illegal or conclusion arrived by it is wholly untenable which alone will justify interference in an order of acquittal.

12. The aforesaid judgments were taken note of with approval by Supreme Court in the case of Anwar Ali and another vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (2020) 10 SCC 166, Nagabhushan vs. State of Karnataka (2021) 5 SCC 222, and Babu (supra) in Achhar Singh vs. State of Himachal Pradesh (2021) 5 SCC 543."

19. Similar view has been reiterated by Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajesh Prasad vs. State of Bihar and another, (2022) 3 SCC 471.

20. On perusal of record we find that the learned trial Court has thoroughly analyze the testimony of the victim and specifically discussed that the victim was married woman having five children and at the time of alleged incident kids of the victim and her other family member were present in the house, therefore, it was not possible in any manner to pull and drag the victim and thereafter commission of rape. We further find that it is not the statement of the victim that she raised any alarm to attract the attention of the family members and other neighbours. PW-3 Dr. Karuna Gupta has stated that no external or internal injury was found on the private part of the victim. It is noticiable that no independent witness has been examined in support of the prosecution case while defence witness Praveen Singh DW-1 and Ram Bahadur DW-2 has stated that due to village rivalry and election enmity accused persons were implicated in this false case while no such type of incident had taken place. On close scrutiny, we also find that there is material discrepancy in the statement of the victim with regard to commission of rape and she is not a sterling witness on this point. In such view of the matter, we, therefore, find that the trail Court has taken possible view of the matter on appreciation of entire evidence on record, which cannot be substituted by this Court taking a different view as per the law discussed above.

21. Accordingly, it is not a case worth granting leave to appeal. The application for granting leave to appeal is rejected.

Re: Government Appeal

1. Consequently, since the Criminal Misc. Application (Leave to Appeal) has been rejected by order of date, the present government appeal is also dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether a Medical Representative would be considered a workman under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 read with the Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Services) Act, 1976. The Court was required to consider the correctness of the view taken by a coordinate Bench that a Medical Representative would be deemed to be a workman and to determine the effect of the authoritative decisions on the issue. (Paras 2, 6-13).

Headnotes

Industrial Disputes - U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - S. 2(s) - Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976 - S. 6(2) - Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Officer - Workman - Definition - Medical Representatives engaged in promotion of sales do not perform work falling within the categories of manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory work - Work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the definition - Held, Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Officer does not fall within the definition of workman. (Paras 2, 11-13).

Industrial Disputes - U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - S. 2(s) - Test for determining workman - Nature of industry - Type of work - Organisational set up - Medical Representative - Primary duty of visiting doctors, chemists and stockists and promoting sale of products - Work cannot be said to be manual or clerical - Medical Representative cannot be treated to be a workman. (Para 14).

Industrial Disputes - Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976 - S. 6(2) - Applicability of Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 - Medical Representative - Deeming provision - Provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act apply to sales promotion employees as they apply to workmen within the meaning of that Act - Such provision does not enlarge the definition of workman under S. 2(s) - Medical Representative must independently satisfy the statutory categories of workman. (Paras 11-13).

Industrial Disputes - Medical Representative - Skilled or technical work - Ejusdem generis - Work of promotion of sales - Distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the definition - Medical Representatives do not perform duties of skilled or technical nature - Contention that Medical Representatives are workmen rejected. (Paras 10, 13).

Industrial Disputes - Precedent - Article 142 of the Constitution - Medical Representative - Direction to treat complaint as industrial dispute - Exercise of powers under Article 142 - Direction does not constitute a precedent for holding Medical Representatives to be workmen. (Para 7).

Industrial Disputes - Judicial precedent - Coordinate Bench - Conflicting decisions - Correct reading of Supreme Court judgment - Authoritative decisions of Division Benches having more persuasive value - Coordinate Bench decision not followed where findings were not based on correct reading of the Supreme Court judgment. (Paras 6, 8, 9, 13).

Held: Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Officer do not fall within the definition of a Workman - the position in law is that a person to be a workman under the Industrial Disputes Act must be employed to do the work of any of the categories, viz., manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory and it is not enough that he is not covered by either of the four exceptions to the definition - the work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition - the contention that the medical representatives were employed to do skilled work within the meaning of the said definition has to be rejected - as regards the technical nature of their work, it has been expressly rejected - the finding returned by the coordinate Bench that medical representative would be deemed to be a workman was not based on correct reading of the authoritative judgment - the Supreme Court had held that medical representatives are not workmen within the meaning of the Maharashtra Act and the direction issued in exercise of Article 142 of the Constitution to treat the complaint as an industrial dispute does not hold that it would be treated as a precedence - directly authoritative decisions by Division Benches having more persuasive value supported the view that a Medical Representative is not a workman - the Court had no reason to take any other view or to follow the view taken by the coordinate Bench - accordingly, all writ petitions are devoid of merit, hence, dismissed. (Paras 2, 6-14). (E-7)

ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Writ petitions challenging the award of the Tribunal treating the Medical Representative as a workman.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant:

Sri Harshit Pathak along with Sri Abhijeet Chatterjee and Ms. Stuti Rai, learned advocates for petitioners in Writ-C No. 50467 of 2016; Petitioner-in-Person; Sri Akshat Sinha, learned advocate for petitioner in Writ C No. 27546/2025 and Writ C No. 42207/2019 respectively.

Advs. for the Respondents:

Sri Shyam Singh learned Standing Counsel for State; Sri Bidhan Chandra Rai, learned counsel for respondents in both writ petitions.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Sri Harshit Pathak along with Sri Abhijeet Chatterjee and Ms. Stuti Rai, learned advocates for petitioner in Writ- C No. - 50467 of 2016, Petitioner-in-Person and Sri Akshat Sinha, learned advocate for petitioner in Writ C No. 27546/2025 and Writ C No. 42207/2019 respectively, Sri Shyam Singh, learned Standing Counsel for State and Sri Bidhan Chandra Rai, learned counsel for respondents in both writ petitions.

2. The issue for consideration in present matter is 'whether a medical representative would be considered a 'workman' under the provisions of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (hereinafter referred as 'Act of 1947') r/w provisions of Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Services) Act, 1976 (hereinafter referred as 'Act of 1976').

3. Learned advocates for parties have placed reliance upon various judgments passed by the Supreme Court, this Court as well as other High Courts on above issue.

4. Learned advocates for petitioners have placed reliance upon judgment passed by a Co-ordinate Bench in M/s Nicholas Piramal India Ltd. And others vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Lko and others, (Writ C No. 1004529/2007 decided on 23.11.2023) a judgment passed by Supereme Court in H.R. Adyanthaya and others vs. Sandoz (India) Ltd. and others, (1994) 5 SCC 737 and a judgment passed by a Co-ordinate Bench in M/S Pfizer Ltd. Vs. State of U.P. and Others (Writ C No. 68844 of 2009, decided on 26.03.2010) relevant parts of above judgments are quoted below :-

Nicholas Piramal India Ltd. (supra) :-

"31. We are in agreement with the view taken by the Bombay High Court in the case of S.G. Pharmaceuticals (supra) and it is thus clear that as per section 6(2) of Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976, the medical representatives are 'workman' under the Industrial disputes Act, 1947. Further in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya v. Sandoz (India) Ltd, 1994 SCC (5) 737 it was further made clear that the 1976 Act after its amendment in the year 1986 by the Amending Act No. 48 of 1986 which came into effect w.e.f. 06.05.1987 expanded the definition of sales promotion employee to include all sales promotion employees without any ceiling on their wages, except those employed in supervisory capacity drawing wages exceeding Rs 1600 per men sem and those employed or engaged mainly in managerial or administrative capacity.

32. Thus, after 06.05.1987 all the medical representatives were declared to be workmen without limitation on their wages thereafter and upon the capacity in which they were employed or engaged.

33. In light of the aforesaid discussion this Court is of the considered view that after coming into force of Sales Promotion Employees (conditions of service) Act, 1976 the medical representatives would be deemed to be workmen as per the provisions of Industrial Disputes act and accordingly the argument of the petitioners is rejected in this regard."

H.R. Adhyanthaya (supra) :-

"31. It also appears that Parliament has amended the definition of 'industry' by the Amending Act 46 of 1982 to include, in the definition of industry in Section 2(j) of the ID Act, among others, any activity relating to the promotion of sales or business, or both carried on by any establishment. However, that amendment has not yet come into force. But the amendment made by the very same Amending Act of 1982 to the definition of 'workman' in Section 2(s) to include those employed to do 'operational work', and to the definition of 'wages' in Section 2(rr) to include "any commission payable on the promotion of sales or business or both" has come into force w.e.f. 21-8-1984.

39. We are, therefore, of the view that the contention raised on behalf of the management in this appeal, viz., since the medical representatives are not workmen within the meaning of the Maharashtra Act the complaint made to the Industrial Court under that Act was not maintainable, has to be accepted. Hence the complaint filed by the appellant-workmen under the Maharashtra Act in the present case was not maintainable and hence it was rightly dismissed by the Industrial Court.

40. Although we hold that the complaint filed by the workmen is not maintainable under the Maharashtra Act, we are of the view that taking into consideration the fact that a long time has lapsed since the filing of the complaint, it is necessary that we exercise our powers under Article 142 of the Constitution, which we do hereby and direct the State Government to treat the employee's said complaint as an industrial dispute under the ID Act and refer the same under Section 10(1)(d) of the said Act to the Industrial Tribunal, Bombay within four weeks from today. The Industrial Tribunal shall dispose of the reference within six months of the date of reference.

M/S Pfizer Ltd.(Supra)

The question is whether the said approach of the Tribunal, on the facts of the present case, is justified or is legally tenable and can be allowed to stand.

Admittedly, the respondent no. 3 was appointed as Area Sales Manager through the appointment letter dated 12-2-1997. The said appointment letter recites that he is being promoted to the post of 'Area Sales Manager in the Management Cadre of the Company'. It further recites that he is placed in 'Management Grade M-5'. Its clause 9(A) entitles him to join Parke-Davis (India)

Ltd. Management (Staff) Superannuation Scheme, the Gratuity Scheme for the Employees in Management Cadre and Group Hospitalization and Surgical Insurance Policy, applicable to the Management Staff in accordance with the Rules of these Schemes. The appointment letter itself, in the absence of anything to the contrary, shows that the respondent no. 3 was appointed in managerial capacity. The said appointment letter has been accepted by the respondent no. 3 with his wide open eyes. Even if it is accepted that he had no right to grant leave to the Medical Service Representatives or to initiate disciplinary action against them, the fact remains that the disciplinary action, promotion etc. of them were dependant and subject to the recommendations made by him. The said capacity cannot be disputed and is fully established from various documents, referred to above, which are on the record. The explanation that these letters were written under pressure is only a defence for the sake of defence. The Tribunal has misdirected itself and has not taken into consideration the appointment letter of the respondent no. 3 coupled with the other documents written by him (Ex. 22 to 25), referred to above, in right earnest .

At this stage, the contention of the learned counsel for the respondent no. 3 is that the definition of 'workman' as given under the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act is not at all relevant and if the respondent no. 3 is treated as 'Sales Promotion Employee' within the meaning of 1976 Act read with Section 6(2) thereof, the award of the Tribunal, impugned in the present writ petition, treating him as a 'workman' is perfectly justified.

The question whether the Medical Representatives are 'workman' within the meaning of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act , 1947 has been subject matter of consideration before the Apex Court from time to time. The earliest one is May & Baker (India) Ltd. Vs. Their Workmen, AIR 1967 SC 678. The said case arose under un-amended definition of 'workman' as contained under Industrial Disputes Act. The Apex Court found on the basis of undisputed nature of duty of such employees that the main work was that of "canvassing sales". Any clerical or manual work that he had to do was incidental to the said main work and could not take more than a small fraction of time for which he had to work. It may be noted that in the above case the dispute had arisen prior to 6-1-1956. The definition of 'workman' at the relevant point of time included only those persons who were employed to do any skilled or unskilled manual or clerical work, as a result thereof, the persons engaged in sales promotion do not come within the purview of definition of 'workman' under the Industrial Disputes Act and as such, they had no protection regarding security of their employment and other benefits under that Act. A demand was raised by such Medical Representatives to make necessary amendment in the Industrial Disputes Act. The Central Government considered it fit and proper to enact another 'Act' namely Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act 1976, instead. The aforesaid Act has been enacted with a view and object to protect the interest of the Medical Representatives engaged in sales promotion.

The amended provision came up for consideration before the Supreme Court and it has been held in H.R. Adyanthaya etc. etc. Vs. Sandoz (India) Ltd. etc. etc. AIR 1994 Supreme Court 2608 that by the said amendment, among the other, the definition of 'sales promotion employees' was extended so as to include 'sales promotion employees' without a ceiling on their wages except those employed or engaged in a supervisory capacity drawing wages exceeding Rs.1,600/- per mensem and those employed or engaged mainly in managerial or administrative capacity. After taking into consideration Section 6(2) of 1976 Act, it observed that on and from 6-3-1976, the provisions of Industrial Disputes Act became applicable to the Medical Representatives depending upon their wages upto 6-5-1987 and without limitation of their wages thereafter and upon the capacity in which they were employed or engaged. In the said case, after making an analysis of various amendments made in the definition of 'workman' as contained in Industrial Disputes Act as also taking into consideration the provisions of 1976 Act, it has been held that Medical Representatives do not fall within the definition of 'workman' under the Industrial Disputes Act."

5. Per contra, learned counsel for respondents have placed reliance upon S.G. Pharmaceuticals Division of Ambala Sarabhai Enterprises Ltd. vs. U.P. Pademwar and others, 1992 Mh.L.J. 1333, Novartis India Ltd. vs. Vipin Srivastava and others, 2018 SCC Online MP 1931, Sh. Samrendra Das vs. M/s Win Medicare Pvt. Ltd., 2025:DHC:8918 and Jyoti Kumar vs. M/s Zydus Healthcare Ltd and others, 2026:MPHC-IND:1897 and relevant part thereof are quoted below :-

"S.G. Pharmaceuticals (supra) (By a Divison Bench) :-

12. There was another category which the Supreme Court was conside ring viz., that of District Sales Representatives and it was observed (p. 610) 1970 (II) LLJ 590:

"His main work is to do canvassing and obtain orders. In that connection, of course, he has to carry on some correspondence, but that correspondence is incidental to the main work of pushing sales of the Company. In connection with promotion of sales, he has to make recommendations for selection of agents and dealers, extension or curtailment of credit facilities to agents, dealers and customers, investments on capital and revenue in the shape of facilities at Agents' premises or retail outlets; and selection of suitable sites for retail outlets to maximise sales and negotiations for terms of new site".

After enumerating the other duties, it was pointed out:

"The case of District Sales Representative is clearly that of a person who cannot fall within any of the four classes, because his work cannot be held to be either manual, clerical, technical or supervisory. The work of canvassing and promoting sales cannot be included in any of these four classifications. He is, therefore, not a workman at all within the principal part of the definition".

13. We may refer to several other cases where the medical representative was held not to be a workman. They are D. S. Nagaraj vs. The Labour Officer, Kurnool, 1972 (II) Andhra Weekly Reporter 126; J. and J. Dechane Distributors vs. State of Kerala and others (supra); John Wyeth and Brother Ltd. vs. Industrial Tribunal, Alleppey, 177 L.I.C. 1997 and N. J. Josheph vs. Labour Court, 1987 (60) FLR 134. These are all cases in which it was found that the work of the Medical Representative was to do canvassing for promoting sales and therefore would not fall into any of the categories enumerated in the text of the definition 'workman' under section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. The same was the view taken in several other cases regarding salesman. In Premier Irrigation Equipment (Pvt.) Ltd. vs. Labour Court, Delhi, 1973 (Vol. I) L.L.N. 333 a sales representative giving technical demonstration and attending to after-sale service, was held not to be a workman within the meaning of section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act. In Shalimar Paints Ltd. vs. Third Industrial Tribunal, 1974 L.I.C. 213 it was held that though a salesman is required to have some technical knowledge his principal duties will remain the promotion of sale; in absence of any supervisory or manual work, he must held not to be a 'workman' under the Act. M/s. Kirloskar Brothers Ltd. vs. The Presiding Officer, Labour Court, 1976 L.J.C. 918 and Jugal Kishore Mittal vs. The Management of Sasta Sahitya Mandal, 1987 (1) LLJ 231 are also the cases on the point."

(m) "wages" means all remuneration capable of being expressed in terms of money, which would, if the terms of employment, expressed or implied, were fulfilled, be payable to a workman in respect of his employment, or of work done in such employment, and includes-

(i) such allowances (including dearness allowance) as the workman is for the time being entitled to;

(ii) the value of any house accommodation, or of supply of light, water, medical attendance or other amenity or of any service or of any concessional supply of food grains or other articles;

(iii) any travelling concession;

(iv) any commission payable on the promotion of sales or business or both;

but does not include-

(a) any bonus;

(b) any contribution paid or payable by the employer to any pension fund or provident fund or for the benefit of the workman under any law for the time being in force;

(c) any gratuity payable on the termination of his service;

(s) "workman" means any person (including an apprentice) employed in any industry to do any manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory work for hire or reward, whether the terms of employment be express or implied, and for the purposes of any proceeding under this Act in relation to an industrial dispute, includes any such person who has been dismissed, discharged or retrenched in connection with, or as a consequence of, that dispute, or whose dismissal, discharge or retrenchment has led to that dispute, but does not include any such person :

(i) who is subject to the Air Force Act, 1950 (45 of 1950), or the Army Act, 1950 (46 of 1950), or the Navy Act, 1957 (62 of 1957); or

(d) "sales promotion employees" means any person by whatever name called (including an apprentice) employed or engaged in any establishment for hire or reward to do any work relating to promotion of sales or business, or both, but does not include any such person-

(i) who, being employed or engaged in a supervisory capacity, draws wages exceeding sixteen hundred rupees per mensem; or

(ii) who is employed or engaged mainly in a managerial or administrative capacity.

Explanation. For the purpose of this clause, the wages per mensem of a person shall be deemed to be the amount equal to thirty times his total wages (whether or not including, or comprising only of, commission) in respect of the continuous period of this service falling within the period of twelve months immediately preceding the date with reference to which the calculation is to be made, divided by the number of days comprising that period of service;"

12. The test to decide who is a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, was explained by the Labour Appellate Tribunal of India in the case of Ford Motor Company of India Ltd. v. Ford Motors Staff Union, (1953) 2 LLJ 344 (LATI.-Bom.). The Court observed as under: -

"4.... Essentially the question whether a person is a workman or not will depend upon the nature of the work which he does; whether it is manual or clerical work skilled or unskilled; and the true question is Is his work in the main clerical or manual so that he falls within the definition of a "workman"; the question whether he is a supervisor or exercises directional or controlling power poses merely a negative test of a "workman" which cannot be conclusive. This is ultimately a question of fact, at best one of mixed fact and law, though what the true legal inference should be from the facts found or admitted will be a question of law. How far the circumstance that the employee has supervisory powers should be regarded as affecting the question will really depend upon the nature of the industry, the type of work in which he is engaged, the organisational set up of the particular unit of industry and like factors."

13. The Supreme Court in its judgment in All India Reserve Bank Employees' Association v. Reserve Bank of India, AIR 1966 SC 305 has taken note of the aforesaid decision in Ford Motor Company (supra) and held as under:-

"(25) It may be mentioned here that Mr. Chari attempted to save the employees in Class II from the operation of the exceptions in CI. (iv) by referring to their duties which he said were in no sense 'supervisory' but. only clerical or of checkers. He also cited a number of cases, illustrative of this point of view. Those are cases dealing with foremen, technologists, engineers, chemists, shift engineers, Asstt. Superintendents, Depot Superintendents, godown-keepers etc. We have looked into all of them but do not find it necessary to refer to any except one. In Ford Motor Co. of India Ltd. v. Ford Motors Staff Union, (1953) 2 LLJ 444 (LATI-Bom), the Labour Appellate Tribunal correctly pointed out that the question whether a particular workman is a supervisor within or without the definition of 'workman' is "ultimately a question of fact, at best one of mixed fact and law" and "will really depend upon the nature of the industry, the type of work in which he is engaged, the organisational set up of the particular unit of industry and like factor". The Labour Appellate Tribunal pertinently gave the example that "the nature of the work in the banking industry is in many respects obviously different from the nature and type of work in a workshop department of an engineering or automobile concern." We agree that we cannot use analogies to find out whether Class II workers here were supervisors or doing mere clerical work. No doubt, as Mr. Chari stated the work in a Bank involves layer upon layer of checkers and checking is hardly supervision but where there is a power of assigning duties and distribution of work there is supervision. In Lloyds Bank Ltd. v. Pannalal Gupta, (1961) 1 LLJ 18 (SC), the finding of the Labour Appellate Tribunal was reversed because the legal inference from proved facts was wrongly drawn. It is pointed out there that before a clerk can claim a special allowance under para 164(b) of the Sastry Award open to Supervisors, he must prove that he supervises the work of some others who are in a sense below him. It is pointed out that mere checking of the work of others is not enough because this checking is a part of accounting and not of supervision and the work done in the audit department of a bank is not supervision."

14. In view of the aforesaid judgment, the question as to whether a person is a workman within the meaning of S. 2(s) of the I.D. Act mainly depends upon the nature of the industry, type of work in which he is engaged, organizational set up of particular unit of industry and other factors. In the present case, the respondent was engaged as Sales Representative in a Pharmaceutical Company. His primary duty was to visit doctors, chemists as well as stockists. Meeting different professionals to promote sale of product of the appellant cannot be said to be manual or clerical work as it requires knowledge of product, its uses and also persuasive skills. The respondent may not be controlling any subordinate but he was master of the work assigned to him. The manner of performing the job was solely in the discretion of the respondent. The interest of the management was that the Medical Representative should achieve the sales target. The supervisory capacity necessarily has to be examined keeping in view the manual, unskilled, skilled, clerical work and the person performing such work is a workman. May be, he does not supervise any person but he is the master of his own affairs reporting to management only in respect of quantification of sales, therefore, a Medical Representative cannot be treated to be a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the I.D. Act.

15. The judgment in H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) has come up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Samat Kumar v. Parke Davis India Ltd., (1997) 2 JLJ 353 wherein the reference to Labour Court was subject matter of challenge on the part of the management. Though the workman was said to be working as Area Sales Manager in managerial capacity drawing salary of more than Rs. 1,600/-, therefore, he was not a workman but while examining the scope of Adhyanthaya's case (supra), the Court has held that the work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition under Section 2(s) of the I.D. Act. The relevant extract of the Division Bench judgment reads as under

"10. As against it, learned counsel for the respondent No. 1 has placed reliance on a case as reported in 1988 (II) MPWN 116, (1988) 4 SCC 42: AIR 1988 SC 1700 (Miss A. Sundarambal v. Govt. of Goa, Daman & Diu) whereby it was held that teacher employed in a school is not a workman. But, now dispute stands resolved with respect to the cases of Medical Representative as reported in (1994) 2 CLR 552 (S.C.) [H.R. Adyanthaya etc. etc. v. Sandoz (India) Ltd. etc. etc.) whereby it has been held that 'Workman' does not include all employees except those covered by four exceptions in said definition of section 2(s) of Industrial Disputes Act. Medical Representatives do not perform duties of 'skilled' or 'technical nature and therefore, they are not 'workmen'. The connotation of word 'skilled' in the context in which it is used, will not include work of a Sales Promotion Employees such as Medical Representative. That word has to be construed ejusdem generis and thus construed, would mean skilled work whether manual or non-manual, which is of a genre of the other types of work mentioned in the definition. The work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition."

After returning such finding it was held that the reference was not maintainable as Medical Representative would not fall within the definition of workman. We are not only bound by the aforesaid judgment but we find the same to be a correct enunciation of law.

16. Learned Single Bench of this Court in German Remedies Limited's case (supra) relying upon H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) held that the Medical Representative is a workman. The relevant extracts of the said decision in German Remedies Limited's case read as under:-

"14. With regard to meet out, the objections-the petitioners about the status of respondent No. 2, whether he would be a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes. Act, 1947, has to be dealt with. The Apex Court had an occasion to consider a similar question in a judgment H.R. Adyanthaya v. Sandoz (India) Ltd., (1994) 2 CLR 552 (S.C.): [(1994) 5 SCC 737]. The Apex Court in the said case was considering the status of Medical Representatives and the Apex Court came to the conclusion that since there had been an amendment in the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and also by virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of the Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976 makes application to the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as in force for the time being, therefore, the Apex Court held that a Medical Representative shall be a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

15. The aforesaid judgment passed by the Apex Court had also been considered by the Rajasthan High Court in Dolphin LaboratoriesLtd. v. Judge, Labour Court, Udaipur, (2001) 2 LLJ 559 (Raj.) and also by Punjab & Haryana High Court in Ripu Daman Bhanot v. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Ludhiana, (1997) 1 LLJ 557 (P & H). The aforesaid two High Courts have also dealt with the similar questions and relying upon the ratio of Sandoz's case (supra) held that Medical Representative is a workman for the purpose of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.
16. In view of the aforesaid law laid down; by the two High Courts based upon the earlier judgment passed by the Apex Court in Sandoz's case (supra), this objection of the petitioners also cannot be accepted."

The Single Bench in German Remedies Limited's case (supra) has misread the judgment in H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) to hold that Medical Representatives are workmen within the meaning of Section 2 (s) of the I.D. Act. In fact, three categories were created by the Supreme Court. In respect of the Medical Representatives engaged prior to. enactment of SPE Act w.e.f. 6.3.1976, they were held not governed either by I.D. Act or SPE Act. In respect of employees whose services were terminated after 6.3.1976, the appeals were dismissed for the reason that it is not the case of the employees that their wages were less than Rs. 750/- per month excluding commission, therefore, the SPE Act did not apply to them. The only dispute which was referred to Industrial Court under the Maharashtra Recognition of Trade Unions and Prevention of Unfair Labour Practice Act, 1971 was in respect of transfer of the employees affected on 16.2.1988. The Supreme Court found that the definition of workman under I.D. Act will not cover the sales promotion employees within the meaning of SPE Act. The argument raised that the sales promotion employees are skilled or. operational employees was not accepted. Therefore, the order of the learned Single Bench is not the correct reading of H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) and is, thus, overruled."

Sh. Samarendra Das (supra) (By a Single Bench):

"12. The issue of whether or not sales personnel are workman is no longer res integra. The Supreme Court in H.R. Adyanthaya case has held that the sales representatives who are involved in pharmaceuticals are not workmen and that to treat such persons as workmen would be contrary to the law, as a person to be qualified as a workman, must be doing the work which falls in a category, manual, clerical, supervisory or technical. It is apposite to set out the relevant extract below:

"33. It was contended by Shri Sharma, appearing for the workmen that the definition of workman under the ID Act includes all employees except those covered by the four exceptions to the said definition. His second contention was that in any case, the medical representatives perform duties of skilled and technical nature and, therefore, they are workmen within the meaning of the said definition. We are afraid that both these contentions are untenable in the light of the position of law discussed above. The first contention was expressly negatived by two three-Judge Benches in May & Baker [(1961) 2 LLJ 94 : AIR 1967 SC 678 : (1961) 2 FLR 594] and Burmah Shell [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590] cases as has been pointed out in detail above. As regards the second contention, it really consists of two sub-contentions, viz., that the medical representatives are engaged in "skilled" and "technical" work. As regards the word "skilled", we are of the view that the connotation of the said word in the context in which it is used, will not include the work of a sales promotion employee such as the medical representative in the present case. That word has to be construed ejusdem generis and thus construed, would mean skilled work whether manual or non-manual, which is of a genre of the other types of work mentioned in the definition. The work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition. Hence the contention that the medical representatives were employed to do skilled work within the meaning of the said definition, has to be rejected. As regards the technical nature of their work, it has been expressly rejected by this Court in Burmah Shell case [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590]. Hence that contention has also to be rejected.

37. We are afraid that these contentions are not well placed. We have already pointed out as to why the word skilled would not include the kind of work done by the sales promotion employees. For the very same reason, the word operational would also not include the said work. To hold that everyone who is connected with any operation of manufacturing or sales is a workman would render the categorisation of the different types of work mentioned in the main part of the definition meaningless and redundant. The interpretation suggested would in effect mean that all employees of the establishment other than those expressly excepted in the definition are workmen within the meaning of the said definition. The interpretation was specifically rejected by this Court in May & Baker [(1961) 2 LLJ 94 : AIR 1967 SC 678 : (1961) 2 FLR 594] , WIMCO [(1964) 3 SCR 560 : AIR 1964 SC 472 : (1963) 2 LLJ 459] , Burmah Shell [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590] and A. Sundarambal [(1988) 4 SCC 42 : 1988 SCC (L&S) 892] cases. Although such an interpretation was given in S.K. Verma [(1983) 4 SCC 214 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 510 : (1983) 3 SCR 799] , Delton Cable [(1984) 2 SCC 569 : 1984 SCC (L&S) 281 : (1984) 3 SCR 169] and Ciba Geigy [(1985) 3 SCC 371 : 1985 SCC (L&S) 808 : 1985 Supp (1) SCR 282] cases the legislature impliedly did not accept the said interpretation as is evident from the fact that instead of amending the definition of workman on the lines interpreted in the said latter cases, the legislature added three specific categories, viz., unskilled, skilled and operational. The unskilled and skilled were divorced from manual and were made independent categories. If the interpretation suggested was accepted by the legislature, nothing would have been easier than to amend the definition of workman by stating that any person employed in connection with any operation of the establishment other than those specifically excepted is a workman. It must further be remembered that the independent categories of unskilled , skilled and operational were added to the main part of the definition after the SPE Act was placed on the statute book.

12.1 In addition, the Supreme Court in Bharat Bhawan Trust v. Bharat Bhawan Artists Association & Anr.3, while relying on the T.P. Srivastava v. M/s National Tobacco Co. of India Limited4, has held that sales persons employed in canvassing for promotion of sales could not be held in the category of a workman. It is apposite to set out the relevant extract of the Bharat Bhawan Trust case below:

"4. Dr L.M. Singhvi, learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellant, submitted that the appellant is a unique institute of its kind in the country set up by the Government of Madhya Pradesh where all forms of arts such as performing arts, fine arts, music, drama, poetry and tribal arts are preserved, promoted and developed. He submitted that although this Court in Bangalore Water Supply & Sewerage Board v. A. Rajappa [(1978) 2 SCC 213 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 215] has given a very wide meaning to both the expressions of industry and workman , by no stretch of imagination the appellant could be characterised as an industry, which is engaged in an aesthetic activity. He also drew our attention to the decisions in Advertising Corpn. of India v. Barendra Chandra Nag [(1958) 2 LLJ 448 (LAT)] ; A. Sundarambal v. Govt. of Goa, Daman & Diu [(1988) 4 SCC 42 : 1988 SCC (L&S) 892] (in which teachers were held not to be workmen although the educational institutions where they served may be industry) and T.P. Srivastava v. National Tobacco Co. of India Ltd. [(1992) 1 SCC 281 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 263] wherein this Court held that duties of a salesman employed for canvassing and promoting sales of company's product in an area involves suggesting of ways and means to improve sales, study of type or status of the public to whom the product has to reach, study of market condition and supervising work of other local salesmen, cannot be termed to be either manual, skilled, unskilled or clerical in nature but requires an imaginative and creative mind and such a person cannot be termed as "workman". He also submitted that the incidental activity entrusted to the respondent artists are all connected with the production of drama and theatre management and, therefore, cannot be taken to be a separate activity to class them as workmen. He submitted that the view taken by the Labour Court needs to be corrected at our hands.

11. The work that the respondents perform is in the nature of a creative art and their work is neither subject to an order required from the Art Director nor from any of the artists. In performing their work, they have to bring to their work, their artistic ability, talent and a sense of perception for the purpose of production of drama involving in the course of such work, the application of the correct technique and the selection of the cast, the play, the manner of presentation, the light-and-shade effects and so on. In effect, the work they do is creative art which only a person with an artistic talent and requisite technique can manage. To call such a person, a skilled or a manual worker is altogether inappropriate. An artist must be distinguished from a skilled, manual worker by the inherent qualities, which are necessary in an artist, allied to training and technique. We derive support for this proposition from T.P. Srivastava v. National Tobacco Co. of India Ltd. case [(1992) 1 SCC 281 : 1992 SCC (L&S) 263] wherein section salesman employed for canvassing and promoting sales of company's products in an area could not be put under the category of a workman . There is no question of any work being given to them because the work of an artist is essentially creative, and freedom of expression is an integral part of it. In Hussainbhai v. Alath Factory Thezhilali Union [(1978) 4 SCC 257 : 1978 SCC (L&S) 506 : 1978 Lab IC 1264] this Court held as under: (SCC p. 259, para 5)

Where a worker or group of workers labours to produce goods or services and these goods or services are for the business of another, that other is, in fact, the employer.

In this case, firstly, no goods and services are being produced, secondly, the acting that is done is not for the business of another. There is a mere expression of creative talent, which is part of freedom of expression.

Jyoti Kumar (supra) (By a Divison Bench):

12. The question for consideration is whether a Medical Representative falls within the definition of "workman" in terms of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

13. A three-Judge Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of May and Baker (India) Limited vs. Workmen', reported in AIR 1967 SC 678 had an occasion to directly deal with the question as to whether the Medical Representatives of the company, who are discharged from service, are the workman under the Industrial Disputes Act and the order of reinstatement passed by the Industrial Tribunal was, therefore, valid. The Hon′ble Supreme Court referred to the undisputed nature of the duties of the employees and found that his main work was of canvassing sales. Any clerical or manual work that he had to do was incidental to the said main work, and could not make more than a small fraction of time for which he had to work. In the circumstances, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that the Tribunal′s conclusion that the employee was a workman under the Industrial Disputes Act was incorrect.

14. A similar issue was considered by a three-Judge Bench judgment of the Hon′ble Supreme Court in the case of Western India Match Company Limited vs. Workman reported in AIR 1964 SC 472. The question before the Court was whether the sales office was entirely independent of the factory or was a department of the one and the same unit of production, and whether Inspectors, Salesman and Retail Salesman of the sales office were workmen within the meaning of U.P. Industrial Disputes Act. The matter was referred by the State Government for adjudication to the Industrial Tribunal on 18.08.1961. After a detailed analysis of the matter, the Bench following the earlier decision in the case of May and Baker′s case (supra) has arrived at a similar finding that they cannot be termed as a workman in terms of the definition under the Act of 1947.

15. A similar issue was considered in the case of Burmah (Supra) and again the judgment passed in May and Baker′s case (supra) was taken into consideration and the Court has given the verdict in the light of May and Baker′s case. The three-Judge Bench in the case of May and Baker (supra) has taken a view that a person to be qualified to be a workman must be doing the work which falls in any of the four categories viz. manual, supervisory, technical or clerical. If a person does not fall within the four exceptions to the aforesaid definition, he is a workman within the definition as provided under Section 2(s) of the Act of 1947. Therefore, the position is clarified by the Hon′ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid cases.

16. The Constitutional Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya and Ors Vs. Sandos (India) Ltd and Ors reported in (1994) 5 SCC 737 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held as under:

"24. We thus have three three-Judge Bench decisions which have taken the view that a person to be qualified to be a workman must be doing the work which falls in any of the four categories, viz., manual, clerical, supervisory or technical and two twoJudge Bench decisions which have by referring to one or the other of the said three decisions have reiterated the said law. As against this, we have three threeJudge Bench decisions which have without referring to the decisions in May & Baker [(1961) 2 LLJ 94 : AIR 1967 SC 678 : (1961) 2 FLR 594] , WIMCO [(1964) 3 SCR 560 : AIR 1964 SC 472 : (1963) 2 LLJ 459] and Burmah Shell [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590] cases have taken the other view which was expressly negatived, viz., if a person does not fall within the four exceptions to the said definition he is a workman within the meaning of the ID Act. These decisions are also based on the facts found in those cases. They have, therefore, to be confined to those facts. Hence the position in law as it obtains today is that a person to be a workman under the ID Act must be employed to do the work of any of the categories, viz., manual, unskilled, skilled, technical, operational, clerical or supervisory. It is not enough that he is not covered by either of the four exceptions to the definition. We reiterate the said interpretation. 33. It was contended by Shri Sharma, appearing for the workmen that the definition of workman under the ID Act includes all employees except those covered by the four exceptions to the said definition. His second contention was that in any case, the medical representatives perform duties of skilled and technical nature and, therefore, they are workmen within the 3 meaning of the said definition. We are afraid that both these contentions are untenable in the light of the position of law discussed above. The first contention was expressly negatived by two three-Judge Benches in May & Baker [(1961) 2 LLJ 94 : AIR 1967 SC 678 : (1961) 2 FLR 594] and Burmah Shell [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590] cases as has been pointed out in detail above. As regards the second contention, it really consists of two subcontentions, viz., that the medical representatives are engaged in 'skilled' and 'technical' work. As regards the word 'skilled', we are of the view that the connotation of the said word in the context in which it is used, will not include the work of a sales promotion employee such as the medical representative in the present case. That word has to be construed ejusdem generis and thus construed, would mean skilled work whether manual or non-manual, which is of a genre of the other types of work mentioned in the definition. The work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition. Hence the contention that the medical representatives were employed to do skilled work within the meaning of the said definition, has to be rejected. As regards the 'technical' nature of their work, it has been expressly rejected by this Court in Burmah Shell case [(1970) 3 SCC 378 : (1971) 2 SCR 758 : AIR 1971 SC 922 : (1970) 2 LLJ 590]. Hence that contention has also to be rejected. 39. We are, therefore, of the view that the contention raised on behalf of the management in this appeal, viz., since the medical representatives are not workmen within the meaning, of the Maharashtra Act the complaint made to the Industrial Court under that Act was not maintainable, has to be accepted. Hence the complaint filed by the appellantworkmen under the Maharashtra Act in the present case was not maintainable and hence it was rightly dismissed by the Industrial Court."

17. The judgment in H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) has come up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Samat Kumar (supra), wherein the reference to the Labour Court was subject matter of challenge on the part of the management. Though the workman was said to be working as 'Area Sales Manager' in managerial capacity drawing salary of more than Rs.1,600/-, therefore, he was not a workman but while examining the scope of Adhyanthaya's case (supra), the Court held that the work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition under Section 2(s) of the ID Act. The relevant extract of the Division Bench judgment reads as under:-

"10. As against it, learned counsel for the respondent No.1 has placed reliance on a case as reported in 1988 (II) MPWN 116 = AIR 1988 SC 1700 (Miss A. Sundarambal v. Govt. of Goa, Deman & Diu and others) whereby it was held that teacher employed in a school is not a workman. But, now the dispute stands resolved with respect to the cases of Medical Representative as reported in AIR 1994 SC 2608 [H.R. Adyanthya etc. v. Sandoz (India) Ltd. etc. etc.) whereby it has been held that 'Workman' does not include all employees except those covered by four exceptions in said definition of section 2(s) of Industrial Disputes Act. Medical Representatives do not perform duties of 'skilled' or 'technical' nature and therefore, they are not 'workmen'. The connotation of word 'skilled' in the context in which it is used, will not include work of a Sales Promotion Employees such as Medical Representative. That word has to be construed ejusdem generis and thus construed, would mean skilled work whether manual or non-manual, which is of a genre of the other types of work mentioned in the definition. The work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition."

After returning such finding, it was held that the reference was not maintainable as Medical Representative would not fall within the definition of workman.

18. In German Remedies Limited's case (supra) relying upon H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) held that the Medical Representative is a workman. The relevant extracts of the said decision in German Remedies Limited's case read as under:-

"14. With regard to meet out, the objections - the petitioner about the status of respondent No. 2, whether he would be a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, has to be dealt with. The Apex Court had an occasion to consider a similar question in a judgment H.R. Adyanthaya v. Sandoz (India) Ltd. and others [(1994) 5 SCC 737]. The Apex Court in the said case was considering the status of Medical Representatives and the Apex Court came to the conclusion that since there had been an amendment in the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 and also by virtue of the provisions of Section 6 of the Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976 makes application to the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as in force for the time being, therefore, the Apex Court held that a Medical Representative shall be a workman within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. 15. The aforesaid judgment passed by the Apex Court had also been considered by the Rajasthan High Court in Dolphin Laboratories Ltd. v. Judge, Labour Court, Udaipur and Another 2001-II-LLJ-559 (Raj.) and also by Punjab & Haryana High Court in Ripu Daman Bhanot v. Presiding Officer, Labour Court, Ludhiana and Ors. 1997-I-LLJ-557 (P&H). The aforesaid two High Courts have also dealt with the similar questions and relying upon the ratio of Sandoz's case (supra) held that Medical Representative is a workman for the purpose of Section 2(s) of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. 16. In view of the aforesaid law laid down by the two High Courts based upon the earlier judgment passed by the Apex Court in Sandoz's case (supra), this objection of the petitioner also cannot be accepted."

19. In the case of Novertis India Ltd Vs Vipin Shrivastava 2018 SCC Online MP 1931, a Division Bench held that in the German Remedies Limited's case (supra), has misread the judgment in H.R. Adyanthaya's case (supra) to hold that Medical Representatives are workmen within the meaning of Section 2(s) of the ID Act. In fact, three categories were created by the Supreme Court. In respect of the Medical Representatives engaged prior to enactment of SPE Act w.e.f. 06.03.1976, they were held not governed either by ID Act or SPE Act. In respect of employees whose services were terminated after 06.03.1976, the appeals were dismissed for the reason that it is not the case of the employees that their wages were less than Rs.750/- per month excluding commission, therefore, the SPE Act did not apply to them. The only dispute which was referred to Industrial Court under the Maharashtra Recognition of Trade Unions and Prevention of Unfair Labour Practice Act, 1971 was in respect of transfer of the employees affected on 16.02.1988. The Supreme Court found that the definition of workman under ID Act will not cover the sales promotion employees within the meaning of SPE Act. The Division Bench found that the judgment in the caes of German Remedies (supra) was not correct.

20. A Division Bench of Patna High Court in Deepak Kumar v. State of Bihar (2016) 149 FLR 528, held as under:-

"9. The Sales Promotion Employee as defined under the SPE Act as reproduced above includes any person by whatever name called (including an apprentice) employed or engaged in any establishment for hire or reward to do any work relating to promotion of sales or business, or both. The main provision is wide enough to include all categories of employees engaged for hire or reward to do any work relating to promotion of sale of business. The petitioner falls within such category. As admittedly, he was appointed as a person to promote sale of the pharmaceutical products, as is evident from Charge Sheet dated 13th December, 2002, which is to the effect that the appellant has failed to achieve the targets of sale of group of medicines. The notice (Annexure2 to the writ petition) itself recites the appellant as a Medical Representative. Therefore, he is a Sales Promotion Employee. But there is exclusion clause of Sales Promotion Employees and not all Sales Promotion Employees are the employees within the meaning of Section 2(d) of the SPE Act."

21. In the case of Petcare Division of Tetragon Chemie Pvt. Ltd. vs. M.P. Medical and Sales Representatives Association and another (W.A.No.922 of 2006) decided on 21.12.2022, the Division Bench categorically held that 'Medical Representative' does not fall under the definition of "workman" as defined under Section 2(s) of the 4 Industrial Disputes Act, 1947. The relevant extract is as under:-

"18. The Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in H.R. Adyanthaya's (supra) has categorically held that the Medical Representatives are not the workman; therefore, the complaint made to the Industrial Court is not maintainable itself. The arguments raised by the appellant that even in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya's (supra), the benefits were extended and they were treated to be the complainant in the matter and the State Government was given directions but the fact remains that the powers were exercised under Article 142 of the Constitution of India by the Hon'ble Supreme Court. But the law which has been settled in the aforesaid case by the Constitution Bench is clear that the Medical Representatives or the Sales Promotion Of icer do not fall under the definition of workman. The learned Single Judge has followed the aforesaid judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court and has rightly set aside the order passed by the Labour Court. Under these circumstances, we do not have any hesitation to observe that no illegality is committed by the writ court in allowing the writ petition. In absence of any cogent material or a judgment to override the observations made by the writ court and the law settled by the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in H.R. Adyanthaya's (supra), no relief can be extended to the appellant."

22. Thus, it was held that the Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Office is not a workman in view of the decision of the Division Bench of this Court passed in Writ Appeal No.75/2017 parties being [Novartis India Limited Vs. Vipin Shrivastava & others], therefore, any dispute relating to a 'Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Officer' cannot be entertained by the Labour Court as they do not come within the definition of 'workman' under Section-2(s) of the Act.

23. In (2015) 7 SCC 263 parties being [Chauharya Tripathi & others Vs. Life Insurance Corporation of India & others] in which, the Apex Court had held that the Development Officer of the Life Insurance Corporation does not fall within the definition of workman. He further submits that the Apex Court has placed reliance on a case reported in 1994 (5) SCC 737 parties being [H.R. Adyanthaya Vs. Sandoz (India) Ltd.] and therefore, the order passed by the Division Bench in the case of Novartis India Limited (supra) also placing reliance in the case of Adyanthaya (supra) has held that the Medical Representative does not fall within the definition of workman.

24. Against the view taken by the co-ordinate bench in the case of Petcare (supra) that the Medical Representative or the Sales Promotion Employee do not fall under the definition of Workman under section 2(S) of ID Act, an SLP No.15250/2023 was preferred. The said SLP was dismissed by order dated 10.07.2023.

25. In view of the aforesaid discussion and law, it is held that the Medical Representative/Sales Promotion Officer do not fall within the definition of a Workman."

6. Court has to first deal with a judgment passed by coordinate Bench at Lucknow in Nicholas Piramal India (supra), however, Court finds that finding returned in paragraphs 31-33 of it that medical representative would be deemed to be a workman is not based on correct reading of H.R. Adhyanthaya (supra).

7. The Supreme Court has held that medical representatives are not workmen within the meaning of Maharashtra Act, however, in exercise of Article 142 of Constitution, a direction was passed that complaint of concerned employee be treated as industrial dispute, therefore, it does not hold that it would be treated as a precedence.

8. In aforesaid circumstances, Court finds that there are authoritative decisions by a Single Bench of Delhi High Court in Sh. Samarendra Das (Supra) and Division Bench of other High Courts in S.G. Pharmaceuticals (Supra) and Jyoti Kumar (Supra), which have more persuasive value and as referred above, issue concerned was considered in detail and a categorical finding was returned that 'Medical Representative' would not be workmen under the Act of 1947 r/w Act of 1952.

9. In Novartis India Ltd. (supra), Division Bench of Madhya Pradesh High Court has also taken note of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra) and incorrect reading of said judgment by a Single Bench of said High Court was overruled.

10. Another Division Bench of High Court of Patna in Nalin Sinha Vs. The State of Bihar (L.P.A. No. 1430/2009, decided on 19.01.2011) has also followed the same ratio, Relevant part thereof is mentioned hereinafter:-

"17. From the reading of the aforementioned extract of judgment, it would be clear that while most of the cases of the medical representatives before the Apex Court were of the period prior to the Act coming-into-force or on the basis of the limits of salary as it existed prior to the amendment in the Act in the Year 1986, but then the Apex Court while dismissing all those cases either on the ground of non-applicability of the Act or on the basis of salary, had also dismissed one case, C.A. No. 818 of 1992, wherein the dispute had arisen out of the transfer of the employee, a medical representative effected on 16.2.1988 i.e., well after the Act was amended w.e.f. 6.5.1987, without limitation and ceiling of the wages of the sales promotion personnel. Thus the following factual analysis made by Division Bench of the Rajasthan High Court in the case of Dolphin Laboratories (supra) in the following terms:"

"8. It may be noticed that the dispute which was before Hon'ble the Supreme Court in H.R. Adyanthaya's case ((1994) 5 SCC 737 : AIR 1994 SC 2608) (supra) related to the period of termination that has been affected on 26.4.1976 and 9.12.1977 respectively and the employees case was not that they were drawing salary less than the fixed in the Act as prevailing then. It is after explaining the law stood at the relevant time governing the matters relating to medical representatives under the Industrial Disputes Act that the Court found in those cases the appellants before them were not workmen as a medical representative not falling in that category."

does not seem to be correct, inasmuch as, from a simultaneous reading of para graph-8 of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra) it is manifest that the Division Bench of Rajasthan High Court in the case of Dolphin Laboratories Ltd. (supra) had failed to take into consideration paragraph-8 of the judgment of the Apex Court and went on to hold just contrary to the reasonings and findings of Apex Court. As a matter of fact, the Apex Court in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra) did not lay down the law of medical representative being not a 'workman' only on the basis of limits of salary, rather had gone by the definition of the workman under the I.D. Act as also had closely examined the provisions of the Act before recording the following reasons for holding that the medical representative doing the work of pro motion of sales of the product or services of the establishment were not employee doing any skilled work or the technical nature of the work as would be apparent from the following portion of the same judgment of the Apex Court in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra) :

"6. It was contended by Shri Sharma appearing for the workmen that the definition of workman under the I.D/Act includes all employees except those covered by the four exceptions to the said definition. His second contention was that in any case, the medical representatives perform duties of skilled and technical nature and, therefore, they are workmen within the meaning of the said definition. We are afraid that both these contentions are untenable in the light of the position of law discussed above. The first contention was expressly negatived by two three-Judge Benches in May & Baker (AIR 1967 SC 678) and Burmah Shell ((1970) 3 SCC 378 : AIR 1971 SC 922) cases (supra) as has been pointed out in detail above. As regards the second contention, it really consists of two sub-contentions, viz. that the medical representatives are engaged in 'skilled' and 'technical' work. As regard the word 'skilled', we are of the view that the connotation of the said word in the context in which it is used will not include the work of a sales promotion employee such as the medical representative in the present case. That word has to be construed ejusdem generis and thus construed, would mean skilled work whether, manual or non manual, which is of a genre of the other types of work mentioned in the definition. The work of promotion of sales of the product or services of the establishment is distinct from and independent of the types of work covered by the said definition. Hence the contention that the medical representatives were employed to do skilled work within the meaning of the said definition, has to be rejected. As regards the 'technical' nature of their work, it has been expressly rejected by this Court in Burmah Shell case (supra). Hence that contention has also to be rejected."

18. It has also to be taken into ac count, that the aforesaid view recorded in the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra) once again fell for consideration before the Apex Court in the case of Rhone-Poulenc (India) Ltd. v. The State of U.P. reported in (2000) 7 SCC 675 : AIR 2000 SC 3182, wherein it was held that:-

"5. The contention of the learned counsel is that assuming the aforesaid provision is applicable, it still does not extend to deeming fiction to any State enactment including the U.P. Industrial Disputes Act as it is apparent on reading of the section that Sales Promotion Employees, within the meaning of Central enactment of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (14 of 1947) have been treated as 'workman'. Reliance has been placed by the learned counsel on a Constitution Bench decision of this Court in H.R. Adyanthaya v. Sandoz India Ltd., (1994) 5 SCC 737 : (1994 AIR SCW 3678 : AIR 1994 SC 2608). The Bench has held that since the Medical representatives are not workmen within the meaning of the Maharashtra Act, the complaint made to the Industrial Court under the Maharashtra Recognition of Trade Unions and Prevention of Unfair Labour Practices Act, 1971 was not maintainable."

11. The Section 6(2) of Act of 1976 provides that Provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 as in force time being shall apply to sales promotion employees as they apply to or in relation to workmen with its meaning of that Act, for reference Section 6(1)&(2) of Act of 1976 is reproduced hereinafter :-

"6(1) The provisions of the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, as in force for the time being, shall apply to, or in relation to sales promotion employees as they apply to, or in relation to, workmen within the meaning of that Act.

6(2) The provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (14 of 1947), as in force for the time being, shall apply to, or in relation to, sales promotion employees as they apply to, or in relation to, workmen, within the meaning of that Act and for the purpose of any proceeding under that Act in relation to an industrial dispute, a sale promotion employee shall be deemed to include a sale promotion employee who has been dismissed, discharged or retrenched in connection with, or as a consequence of, that dispute or whose dismissal, discharge, or retrenchment had led to that dispute."

12. Subsequently the Industrial Disputes (Amendment) Act, 1982 (Act No. 46 of 1982) come into force but with a declaration that different provision of said Act will come into force on different dates as may be appointed. Section 2(j), Section 2(j)(rr) (iv) as amended are still not came into force, since no notification is issued till date. Similarly Section 24 also do not come into force till date. Said provisions are mentioned hereinafter:-

"2(C)(j) "Industry" means any systematic activity carried on by co-operation between an employer and his workmen (whether such workmen are employed by such employer directly or by or through any agency, including a contractor) for the production, supply or distribution of goods or services with a view to satisfy human wants or wishes (not being wants or wishes which are merely spiritual or religious in nature), whether or not

2(j) in clause (rr), after sub-clause (iii), the following sub-clause shall be inserted, namely:-

"(iv)any commission payable on the promotion of sales or business or both.

24. In Section 6 of the Sales Promotion Employees (Conditions of Service) Act, 1976, sub-section (2) shall be omitted."

13. In aforesaid circumstances, Court finds that since there are directly authoritative decision on the issue concerned by three Division Benches of two other High Courts, which has more persuasive value, therefore, this Court has no reason to take any other view from a view that a 'Medical Representative is not a workman' or to follow a view taken by coordinate Bench of this Court in case of Nicholas Piramal India (supra) since findings therein were not based on correct reading of H.R. Adyanthaya (supra).

14. Accordingly, all writ petitions are devoid of merit, hence, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

(i) Whether, the Authorities are liable to give an opportunity to an individual, who has applied for issuance of caste certificate prior to taking any decision; and even when an administrative authority takes a decision affecting rights of parties, is it obligatory to give reasons in support of their decision?

(ii) Whether, in absence of any detailed 'speaking order', rejecting the application for issuance of caste certificate, the decision regarding the same being displayed on the official website of the Department, can be sustained in law?

Headnotes

Constitution of India – Caste Certificate – Issuance of caste certificate – Rejection of application – Non-speaking order – Principles of natural justice – Petitioners claimed to belong to the Scheduled Caste category 'Dhangar' – Petitioners moved an application for issuance of a caste certificate – Petitioners claimed the benefit of the G.O. dated 24.01.2019, issued by way of a clarification for issuance of caste certificate to individuals belonging to Scheduled Caste category 'Dhangar' – Application rejected vide rejection letter displayed on the official website – Rejection letter merely stated 'साक्ष्य अभाव', without assigning any reasons or making available any report on the basis of which the application was sought to be rejected – No opportunity given to the petitioners by way of personal hearing and the alleged report was also not provided to them so as to enable them to remove the deficiencies or file an objection – Justification:

Held : State cannot seek exemption from the requirement of giving reasons in administrative orders also. The display of the rejection letter on the official website cannot be said to be a 'speaking order'; the only reason reflected, namely, 'साक्ष्य अभाव', is as vague as it can be and does not meet the test for a 'speaking order'. No opportunity was given to the petitioners by way of personal hearing and the alleged report was not provided to them so as to enable them to remove the deficiencies or file an objection. Court further held: An order not communicated is the dead letter and cannot become effective unless communicated to the person concerned. The rejection order dated 23.02.2026, which merely stated insufficiency of evidence without specifying the deficit evidence, could not be sustained and was liable to be set aside.

Court issued following directions to the State Authorities – On an application being made by an individual for the issuance of caste certificate, the concerned authorities shall ensure that the report sought prior to consideration for the issuance of such certificate, should be submitted only after giving due opportunity to such an applicant, and strictly adhering to the principles of natural justice – The applicant must be given a reasonable opportunity to file his objection to the aforesaid report and be also permitted to remove the deficiency pointed out, if any, in the aforementioned report – It shall be incumbent upon the Authority to pass a 'speaking order' either accepting or rejecting the said application; and a copy of the said order shall be made available to the applicant within a period of seven days of passing of such an order – The Authorities may consider, to give a link on the official website, of the 'rejection order' and the 'report' forming the basis of the rejection and upon being accessed one may be displayed with detailed reason and report to be downloaded. Case Arising From Petition under Article 226 of the Constitution challenging the order dated 23.02.2026 passed by the Tahsildar rejecting the petitioners' application for issuance of a caste certificate.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioners : Vivek Kumar Pal
Advs. for the Respondent : C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Siddharth Nandan, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vivek Kumar Pal, learned counsel for the petitioners and Shri P.K. Shahi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. By means of this petition filed under Article 226 of the Constitution, the petitioners have assailed the rejection order dated 23.02.2026, passed by the Tahsildar, rejecting the application of the petitioners for issuance of a caste certificate.

3. By the consent of the parties, the petition is being decided at admission stage itself, since purely a legal question is involved and there are no factual dispute.

Facts

4. The undisputed facts are that petitioners, who are brother and sister, are permanent resident of District Mathura, since their birth; and claims to belong to the Scheduled Caste category 'Dhangar'. The petitioners had moved an application for issuance of a caste certificate before the respondent no.3 under Rule 3, 4 and 10 of the Janhit Guarantee Adhiniyam, 2011; which includes the issuance of a caste certificate, income certificate and domicile certificate, as a part of its guaranteed public services, to the people of the State of U.P., within stipulated time limit; and along with the application they had submitted all the relevant documents including the Aadhaar card, family register, letter of the village Pradhan, school leaving certificate etc.

5. The petitioners also claim the benefit of the G.O. dated 24.01.2019, which has been issued by way of a clarification for the issuance of caste certificate to individuals who belongs to Scheduled Caste category 'Dhangar'.

Arguments of the Petitioners

6. The learned counsel for the petitioner, in the aforesaid background submits that without assigning any reasons or making available any report, based on which the application of the petitioners is sought to be rejected; by merely making available a rejection letter on the official website, which only states 'साक्ष्य अभाव'; the impugned order has been passed; and as such the same cannot be sustained in the eyes of law. It has further been submitted on behalf of the petitioners that no rejection order has been communicated to the petitioners and accordingly, there is no reasoned detailed order of rejection, in the eyes of law.

Contention of the Respondents

7. The learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that in the impugned order, though no specific reason has been given; but from perusal of rejection letter dated 23.02.2026, it is evident that the evidence in support of the claim, that the petitioners belong to caste 'Dhangar', has not been provided. He further submits that the petitioners has an efficacious remedy to approach the district level committee, constituted in pursuance of the decision in the case of Madhuri Patil Vs. Additional Commissioner Tribal Development (decided on 02.09.1994) and the G.O. dated 28.02.2011.

8. He has further contended that though there is no requirement for making available reasons for the rejection but however the decision is based on a report, which is sought by the revenue department prior to taking decision on the application for issuance of a caste certificate.

Issues

(i) Whether, the Authorities are liable to give an opportunity to an individual, who has applied for issuance of caste certificate prior to taking any decision; and even when an administrative authority takes a decision affecting rights of parties, is it obligatory to give reasons in support of their decision?

(ii) Whether, in absence of any detailed 'speaking order', rejecting the application for issuance of caste certificate, the decision regarding the same being displayed on the official website of the Department, can be sustained in law?

Discussion- Issue No.1

9. The undisputed facts of the present case are that the petitioners had made an application for issuance of a caste certificate, claiming benefit of the G.O. dated 24.01.2019 and had provided the documents which according to the petitioners were relevant and establishes their claim pertaining to them belonging to caste 'Dhangar', being residents of State of Uttar Pradesh.

10. It has not been disputed by the respondents that except for the reasons 'साक्ष्य अभाव' i.e. for lack of evidence, no other order has been made available to the petitioners nor the inspection report, which the petitioners claim to be the basis of the rejection.

11. In view of the aforesaid, this court has to examine as to whether State authorities in performance of an administrative duty, are also required to give reasons for the decision taken, which affects the parties and can be said to be prejudicial to their interest and State authorities are required also to adhere to the principles of natural justice?

12. It is no longer res integra that in absence of any reasoning, an order cannot be sustained. The Apex Court in the case of CCT Vs Shukla and Brothers made an observation that the litigant has a legitimate expectation of knowing reasons for rejection of his/her claim. The relevant paragraphs are reproduced herein below: -

"4. We are of the opinion that in the absence of any reasoning in the impugned judgment, the same cannot be sustained. In this regard, we are benefitted by the following observations made by this Court in CCT Vs. Shukla & Bros. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are extracted hereinbelow: (SCC pp. 800-801, paras 23-27)

"23. We are not venturing to comment upon the correctness or otherwise of the contentions of law raised before the High Court in the present petition, but it was certainly expected of the High Court to record some kind of reasons for rejecting the revision petition filed by the Department at the very threshold. A litigant has a legitimate expectation of knowing reasons for rejection of his claim/prayer. It is then alone, that a party would be in a position to challenge the order on appropriate grounds. Besides, this would be for the benefit of the higher or the appellate court. As arguments bring things hidden and obscure to the light of reasons, reasoned judgment where the law and factual matrix of the case is discussed, provides lucidity and foundation for conclusions of exercise of judicial discretion by the courts.

24. Reason is the very life of law. When the reason of a law once ceases, the law itself generally ceases (Wharton's Law Lexicon). Such is the significance of reasoning in any rule of law Giving reasons furthers the cause of justice as well as avoids uncertainty. As a matter of fact it helps in the observance of law of precedent. Absence of reasons on the contrary essentially essentially introduces an element of uncertainty, dissatisfaction and give entirely different dimensions to the questions of law raised before the higher/appellate courts. In our view, the court should provide its own grounds and reasons for rejecting claims/prayer of a party whether at the very threshold i.e. at admission stage or after regular hearing, howsoever concise they may be.

25. We would reiterate the principle that when reasons are announced and can be weighed, the public can have assurance that process of correction is in place and working. It is the requirement of law that correction process of judgments should not only appear to be implemented but also seem to have been properly implemented. Reasons for an order would ensure and enhance public confidence and would provide due satisfaction to the consumer of justice under our justice dispensation system. It may not be very correct in law to say, that there is a qualified duty imposed upon the courts to record reasons.

26. Our procedural law and the established practice, in fact, imposes unqualified obligation upon the courts to record reasons. There is hardly any statutory provision under the Income Tax Act or under the Constitution itself requiring recording of reasons in the judgments but it is no more res integra and stands unequivocally settled by different judgments of this Court holding that the courts and tribunals are required to pass reasoned judgments/orders. In fact, Order 14 Rule 2 read with Order 20 Rule 1 of the Code of Civil Procedure requires that, the court should record findings on each issue and such findings which obviously should be reasoned would form part of the judgment, which in turn would be the basis for writing a decree of the court.

27. By practice adopted in all courts and by virtue of Judge-made law, the concept of reasoned judgment has become an indispensable part of basic rule of law and, in fact, is a mandatory requirement of the procedural law. Clarity of thoughts leads to clarity of vision and proper reasoning is the foundation of a just and fair decision. In Alexander Machinery (Dudley) Ltd. there are apt observations in this regard to say "failure to give reasons amounts to denial of justice". Reasons are the real live links to the administration of justice. With respect we will contribute to this view. There is a rationale, logic and purpose behind a reasoned judgment. A reasoned judgment is primarily written to clarify own thoughts; communicate the reasons for the decision to the concerned and to provide and ensure that such reasons can be appropriately considered by the appellate/higher court. Absence of reasons thus would lead to frustrate the very object stated hereinabove.

13. The aforesaid ratio has also been noted with approval recently in the case of State Project Director U.P. Education for All Project Board and Others Vs Saroj Maurya and Others.

14. The requirement for giving reasons by way of a 'speaking order' was subject matter of consideration on many occasions before this court as well as the Apex Court.

15. The expression 'speaking order' was first coined by Lord Chancellor, Earl Cairns; and while explaining the ambit of writ of certiorari, referred to orders with errors on the face of the record and pointed out that in order with errors on its face, is a 'speaking order'. The Courts had held that the face of an order passed by a quasi-judicial Authority and even an administrative authority affecting the rights of parties, must be a 'speaking order'.

16. In the case of Mahabir Prasad, Santosh Kumar Vs. State of UP and Others, the Apex Court also held that merely giving an opportunity of hearing is not enough, as whenever an order is liable to be subjected to appeal before higher forum, the necessity to record reason is even greater, as it ensures that the decision is not a result of caprice, whim or fancy but was arrived at after considering the relevant law and that the decision was just.

17. In the case of Travancore Rayon Ltd. Vs Union of India, the Apex Court also while examining the exercise of judicial powers of the State, held that the requirement for giving reasons are of paramount importance for two reasons:-

i. The person aggrieved gets an opportunity to demonstrate that the reasons are erroneous; and

ii. The obligation to record reasons operate as a deterrent against possible arbitrary action by the Executive Authority invested with the judicial powers.

18. If we look at the aforesaid proposition from another angle, as to whether it being a judicial or the administrative Authority, both at different stages are Authorities, to which a citizen approaches for the redressal of his/her grievance or for the working of the mechanism, which may be required for furtherance of their interest or to seek enforcement of their rights as envisaged under various statutes and the Constitution of India, it becomes more imperative from the said point of view that the reasons must always be subscribed to demonstrate the fairness in the process and to show that there was no arbitrariness in arriving at a decision.

19. It is a cardinal principal of Rule of Law that justice should not only be done but it should always appear to be done as well. (Ref: Woolcombers of India Ltd. Vs Workers Union)

20. In the case of Union of India Vs. Mohan Lal Capoor, it was held that the reasons should not reflect that they are mere 'rubber-stamp reason', but it must disclose the application of mind on the subject matter, prior to the decision making and the fact whether the decision is purely administrative or quasi-judicial, is immaterial. There should clearly be a link between the material which was considered and the conclusion which was reached; for the 'reasons are the link between the material on which certain conclusions are based and the actual conclusions'. (Ref: Gurdial Singh Fijji Vs. State of Punjab)

21. The Constitution Bench in the case of H. H. Shri Swamiji of Shri Amar Mutt Vs. Commissioner Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Department, considered a latin maxim "Cessante ratione legis, cessat ipsa lex", which means that 'reason is the soul of the law, and when the reason of any particular law ceases, so does the law itself'.

22. The State cannot seek exemption from the aforesaid requirement of giving reasons in the administrative orders also. In Raj Kishore Jha Vs. State of Bihar and Others, it was held that the reasons are the heartbeat of every conclusion and without the same, it becomes lifeless.

23. The Supreme Court in the case of State of Orissa Vs. Dhaniram Luhar held as follows:

"8. Even in respect of administrative orders Lord Denning, M.R. In Breen v. Amalgamated Engg. Union, (1971)2 QB 175, observed:(QB p.191 C) "The giving of reasons is one of the fundamentals of good administration." In Alexander Machinery (Dudley) Ltd. v. Crabtree it was observed: "Failure to give reasons amounts to denial of justice." "Reasons are live links between the mind of the decision-taker to the controversy in question and the decision or conclusion arrived at." Reasons substitute subjectivity by objectivity. The emphasis on recording reasons is that if the decision reveals the "inscrutable face of the sphinx", it can, by its silence, render it virtually impossible for the Courts to perform their appellate function or exercise the power of judicial review in adjudging the validity of the decision. Right to reason is an indispensable part of a sound judicial system; reasons at least sufficient to indicate an application of mind to the matter before Court. Another rationale is that the affected party can know why the decision has gone against him. One of the salutary requirements of natural justice is spelling out reasons for the order made; in other words, a speaking-out. The "inscrutable face of the sphinx" is ordinarily incongruous with a judicial or quasi-judicial performance."

24. We may further not dwell into the said question, as on the aforesaid issue, the Supreme Court in the case of Kranti Associates Private Limited and Another Vs. Masood Ahmed Khan & Ors. has summarized legal position in paragraph 47 as follows: -

"47. Summarising the above discussion, this Court holds:

(a) In India the judicial trend has always been to record reasons, even in administrative decisions, if such decisions affect anyone prejudicially.

(b) A quasi-judicial authority must record reasons in support of its conclusions.

(c) Insistence on recording of reasons is meant to serve the wider principle of justice that justice must not only be done it must also appear to be done as well.

(d) Recording of reasons also operates as a valid restraint on any possible arbitrary exercise of judicial and quasi-judicial or even administrative power.

(e) Reasons reassure that discretion has been exercised by the decision-maker on relevant grounds and by disregarding extraneous considerations.

(f) Reasons have virtually become as indispensable a component of a decision-making process as observing principles of natural justice by judicial, quasi-judicial and even by administrative bodies.

(g) Reasons facilitate the process of judicial review by superior courts.

(h) The ongoing judicial trend in all countries committed to rule of law and constitutional governance is in favour of reasoned decisions based on relevant facts. This is virtually the lifeblood of judicial decision-making justifying the principle that reason is the soul of justice.

(i) Judicial or even quasi-judicial opinions these days can be as different as the judges and authorities who deliver them. All these decisions serve one common purpose which is to demonstrate by reason that the relevant factors have been objectively considered. This is important for sustaining the litigants' faith in the justice delivery system.

(j) Insistence on reason is a requirement for both judicial accountability and transparency.

(k) If a judge or a quasi-judicial authority is not candid enough about his/her decision-making process then it is impossible to know whether the person deciding is faithful to the doctrine of precedent or to principles of incrementalism.

(l) Reasons in support of decisions must be cogent, clear and succinct. A pretence of reasons or "rubber-stamp reasons" is not to be equated with a valid decision-making process.

(m) It cannot be doubted that transparency is the sine qua non of restraint on abuse of judicial powers. Transparency in decision-making not only makes the judges and decision-makers less prone to errors but also makes them subject to broader scrutiny. (See David Shapiro in Defence of Judicial Candor).

(n) Since the requirement to record reasons emanates from the broad doctrine of fairness in decision-making, the said requirement is now virtually a component of human rights and was considered part of Strasbourg Jurisprudence. See Ruiz Torija v. Spain, EHRR, at 562 para 29 and Anya v. University of Oxford, wherein the Court referred to Article 6 of the European Convention of Human Rights which requires, "adequate and intelligent reasons must be given for judicial decisions".

(0) In all common law jurisdictions judgments play a vital role in setting up precedents for the future. Therefore, for development of law, requirement of giving reasons for the decision is of the essence and is virtually a part of "due process".

25. However, we must hasten to clarify that Government does not have a carte blanche to take any decision it chooses; it cannot take a capricious, arbitrary or prejudiced decision. Its decision must be informed and impregnated with reasons, which has already been discussed threadbare in several decisions of the Apex Court, including in Sterling Computers Ltd. v. M & N Publications Ltd.13, Tata Cellular v. Union of India, Air India Ltd. v. Cochin International Airport Ltd., B.S.N. Joshi & Sons Ltd. v. Nair Coal Services Ltd. and Jagdish Mandal v. State of Orissa.

26. In the case of State of Punjab Vs. Bandeep Singh and Others, while considering the celebrated decision in the case of Mohinder Singh Gill Vs. Chief Election Commissioner, the Apex Court held that every decision of an administrative or executive nature must be a composite and self-sustaining one, in that it should contain all the reasons which prevailed on the official, taking the decision to arrive at his conclusion. It is beyond cavil that any authority cannot be permitted to travel beyond the stand adopted and expressed by it in the impugned action.

Conclusion- Issue No.1

27. In view of the aforesaid, we have no hesitation in holding that the display of the rejection letter on the official website of the Government, cannot be said to be a 'speaking order' and as such the only so called ‘reason’ which is reflected from the rejection order dated 23.02.2026 i.e. 'साक्ष्य अभाव' is as vague as it can be; and as such does not meet the test for ‘speaking order’, which is a prerequisite, even in case of an administrative order or a quasi-judicial order. The aforesaid order also fails on the principles of legitimate expectation, by applicant who is required to be given reasons for his rejection, to not only enable him to move an appeal to higher forum but also to indicate that the order has been passed with complete fairness and without any arbitrariness. It is writ large that no opportunity was also given to the petitioners by way of a personal hearing or the documents in the form of an alleged report was also not provided to them, so that they could have either removed the deficiencies or filed an objection.

Discussion- Issue No.2

28. It is an admitted fact that apart from the display of the rejection letter on the official website of the Government, no other order or report was made available to the petitioners; and as per the contention of the learned Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, there is no other requirement for communicating a separate reasoned order for rejection of the application for the issuance of caste certificate. However, he submits that prior to rejection or acceptance of the application for the issuance of caste certificate, an internal report is sought; but however, neither the said report is in the public domain or made available to the applicant and as such the issue whether the rejection order can be construed as a decision in absence of the same being communicated to the person concerned, is now being considered.

29. It is a general practice in the departments that the Officers makes a note in the files, expressing their view point on the subject; but at times they are also containing reasons for acceptance or refusal of the file concerned; but even if the noting or the expression of opinion are contained in the file but not being communicated to the person concerned, it is again not res integra that such noting or expression of opinion on the subject cannot be considered as an executable right, affecting the rights of the parties. In the case of Sethi Auto Service Station Vs. Delhi Development Authority and Others, the Apex Court held that the order only when communicated to the concerned person, becomes a final order and prior to the same, it is only an expression of opinion of the concerned official, on the subject.

30. In the case of Bachhittar Singh Vs. State of Punjab, it was held that opinion becomes a decision of the Government only, when it is communicated to the persons concerned; and a right created under an order of a statutory Authority must be communicated to the person concerned, so as to confer an enforceable right. (Ref: Lakshminarayan R Bhattad Vs. State of Maharashtra)

31. In the case of Greater Mohali Area Development Authority Vs. Manju Jain, it was held that an order does not become effective unless it is communicated to a person concerned. For ready reference paragraph No. 22 to 24 of the said judgment is produced below.

"22. The Constitution Benches of this Court in Bachhittar Singh v. State of Punjab [AIR 1963 SC 395] and State of Punjab v. Amar Singh Harika [AIR 1966 SC 1313], have held that an order does not become effective unless it is published and communicated to the person concerned. Before the communication, the order cannot be regarded as anything more than provisional in character. A similar view has been reiterated in Union of India v. Dinanath Shantaram Karekar [(1998) 7 SCC 569: 1998 SCC (L&S) 1837: AIR 1998 SC 2722] and State of W.B. v. M.R. Mondal [(2001) 8 SCC 443].

23. In Laxminarayan R. Bhattad v. State of Maharashtra [(2003) 5 SCC 413] this Court held that the order of the authority must be communicated for conferring an enforceable right and in case the order has been passed and not communicated, it does not create any legal right in favour of the party.

24. Thus, in view of the above, it can be held that if an order is passed but not communicated to the party concerned, it does not create any legal right which can be enforced through the court of law, as it does not become effective till it is communicated."

Conclusion- Issue No.2

32. In view of the settled law that an order not communicated is the dead letter and the same cannot become effective unless it is communicated to the person concerned, we find that the impugned rejection order dated 23.02.2026, which only states that the application of the petitioners are being rejected, for the issuance of caste certificates, on the ground that there was insufficiency of the evidence without specifying the deficit evidence; cannot be sustained and is liable to be set aside, and accordingly, the rejection letter/order dated 23.02.2026 is here by set aside.

33. This Court also finds that the roster is flooded with similar writ petitions on daily basis, and no reasons of whatsoever nature is reflected from the rejection letters/orders, which are only made available on the official website of the Department; and apart from the same, neither any 'speaking order' or any report is made available to the petitioners; and as such the petitioners are handicapped while filing an appeal, as they are neither having reasons for the rejection nor been given the grounds, based on which they could prefer the appeal; and as such the remedy of filing an appeal cannot be said to be an efficacious remedy in the given facts and circumstances.

34. In view of the aforesaid, we deem it appropriate to issue following directions to the State Authorities, to also curb the nature of litigation and to maintain fairness and unarbitrariness in the decision making process:-

(I) On an application being made by an individual for the issuance of caste certificate, the concerned authorities shall ensure that the report sought prior to consideration for the issuance of such certificate, should be submitted only after giving due opportunity to such an applicant, and strictly adhering to the principles of natural justice.

(II) The applicant must be given a reasonable opportunity to file his objection to the aforesaid report and be also permitted to remove the deficiency pointed out, if any, in the aforementioned report.

(III) It shall be incumbent upon the Authority to pass a 'speaking order' either accepting or rejecting the said application; and a copy of the said order shall be made available to the applicant within a period of seven days of passing of such an order.

(IV) The Authorities may consider, to give a link on the official website, of the ‘rejection order’ and the ‘report’ forming the basis of the rejection and upon being accessed one may be displayed with detailed reason and report to be downloaded.

(V) The aforesaid exercise shall be required to be completed within a period of two months from the date of filing of application.

35. The Chief Secretary, Government of UP is directed to circulate a copy of this order to all the Authorities in the Districts of Uttar Pradesh, including at the Tehsil level; and may also consider framing of an SOP, in the light of the observations and directions given by this court, within a period of three months from today.

36. The Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate the order for compliance, to the Chief Secretary, Government of UP, forthwith.

37. The writ petition stands allowed.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the validity of the auction notice issued by the respondent-Bank in the year 2026 for recovery of Rs.3,24,550/- against a loan of Rs.80,000/- disbursed in the year 2015; and whether the auction notice could have been issued without first crystallizing the amount recoverable from the petitioner, without issuing notice to him or affording him an opportunity to exercise his right of redemption of the mortgaged property.

Headnotes

U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank – Loan – Auction notice – Loan of Rs.80,000/- at the rate of 14.25% per annum disbursed in the year 2015 for purchasing of buffaloes – Petitioner made no payments towards the installments due to immediate death of the buffaloes and her belief that the loan amount had been paid by the Insurance Company – Bank also not diligent in pursuing the payment of installment – Interest allowed to accrue to Rs.3,24,550/- – Bank thereafter published impugned auction notice in the year 2026, without issuing of notice or affording any opportunity to the petitioner a right of redemption of the mortgage property – Justification:

Held: Publishing of the impugned auction notice dated 19.03.2026 by the respondent-Bank without any crystallization of the recovery amount is arbitrary and against the principles established in law – Petitioner being ready to settle and make payments in installments to the Bank, the behavior of the respondent-Bank is contrary to the very object for which it was incorporated – Bank was formed for providing financial assistance to the farmers, villagers and the rural population so as to overcome the difficulties being faced from traditional money lenders in the rural area – Impugned auction notice dated 19.03.2026 stayed till disposal of the writ petition – It was provided pendency of the writ petition shall not be an impediment for offering of payments by the petitioner to the Bank for settlement of its loan. Case Arising From Writ petition challenging the auction notice dated 19.03.2026 published by the Land Sale Officer, Uttar Pradesh Sahkari Gramya Vikas Bank Limited, Branch Safipur, District Unnao.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Ram Krishna Dubey
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C., Vinod Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.

Hon'ble Abdhesh Kumar Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.

2. The petitioner has prayed for the following substantial reliefs:-

"(i) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of the Certiorari quashing the serial no. 14 of publication dated 19.3.2026 published in daily news paper 'Dainik Jagran' by the respondent no.4 i.e. Land Sale Officer Uttar Pradesh Sahkari Gramya Vikas Bank Limited, Branch Safipur District-Unnao, as relates to the petitioner(as contained in the Annexure No. 1 to the affidavit in support of the instant writ petition).

(ii) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding and restraining the opposite parties from any interference in peaceful use and possession of the petitioner over the land situated at the Gata No. 66/89, Area-1.0050 Hectare, situated at Village Laukiyavadepur, Rajepur, District-Unnao;

(iii) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding to respondents especially the respondent no.3 to accept the loan amount in the easy installments after providing detailed statement of the account to the petitioner."

3. Apparently, a loan for an amount of Rs.80,000/- at the rate of 14.25% per annum had been disbursed in the year 2015 by the U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Limited to the petitioner for purchasing of buffaloes. The tenure of the said loan was fixed for five years.

4. Admittedly, although the petitioner made no payments towards the installments because of reasons attributable due to immediate death of the said buffaloes and her belief that the loan amount has been paid by the Insurance Company. However, surprisingly we find that even the Bank has also not been diligent in pursuing the payment of installment and has technically sat over the matter unnecessarily for a very long period. Resultantly, the Bank has allowed the interest to accrue unsurmountedly for an amount of Rs.3,24,550/- as on date to the detrimental of the petitioner and suddenly the Bank has resurrected from its deep slumber to publish the impugned auction notice in the year 2026, even without issuing of notice or affording any opportunity to the petitioner a right of redemption of the mortgage property.

5. Prima facie, we are of the view that the publishing of the impugned auction notice dated 19.03.2026 by the respondent-Bank without any crystallization of the recovery amount is arbitrary and against the principles established in law.

6. It has been further submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner that the family is basically into agriculture activity and the land which is sought to be auctioned is the only land, which is the basis of their livelihood. It is submitted that the activity of the auction of the land would force the farmer to vagrancy.

7. From a perusal of the petition, it appears that the petitioner is being forced to face auction of his agriculture land, although the petitioner is ready to settle and make payments in installments to the Bank, even though there is substantial fault on the part of the Bank. The behavior of the respondent-Bank is contrary to the very object for which it was incorporated. Effectively, the Bank was formed for providing financial assistance to the farmers, villagers and the rural population so as to overcome the difficulties being faced from traditional money lenders (Sahukar) in the rural area. However, it seems the Bank has traversed from its objective and wandered into the realms of usury, which was neither anticipated nor envisaged by any stretch of imagination by the U.P. Sahkari Gram Vikas Bank Act.

8. This matter requires consideration.

9. Let counter affidavit be filed within a period of six weeks. Rejoinder affidavit, if any, may be filed within a period of two weeks thereafter.

10. Keeping in view the totality of the facts and circumstances of this case, the impugned auction notice dated 19.03.2026 is stayed till the disposal of the present writ petition. However, the pendency of this writ petition shall not be an impediment for offering of payments by the petitioner to the Bank for settlement of its loan.

11. List this matter on 1st September, 2026.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Mr. B.S. Pandey, learned Counsel assisted by Mr. Kartikey Pandey, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Hanuman Deen Verma, learned Counsel for respondent nos. 5/1, 6, 7/1, 7/2, 8 and Mr. Anjani Kumar Chaurasia, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Brief facts of the case are that one Jhinkoo was co-tenure holder of sirdari khata no.87 situated in Village Kaligarh, Tehsil Harraiya, District Basti. Jhinkoo deposited 20 times of land revenue and applied for bhumidhari sanad which was rejected by tahsildar vide order dated 21.11.1973 on the ground that tenure holder has died after deposit of 20 times of land revenue. The aforementioned Jhinkoo had died accordingly during consolidation operation an objection under section 9A(2) of U.P. Consolidation of Holding Act, 1953 hereinafter referred to as U.P.C.H. Act was filed by Raghunandan (petitioner's father) alleging that deceased was the brother of applicant/ Raghunandan, as such, he is entitled to inherit the property of Jhinkoo who had died issueless. Respondent no.4, Gyanmati filed an objection alleging that she is the daughter of deceased- Jhinkoo and a gift deed dated 8.5.1973 was executed by Jhinkoo in her favour, as such, she is entitled to be recorded in place of Jhinkoo. Gaon Sabha had also filed an objection alleging that Jhinkoo had died issuelss as such property should be vested in gaon sabha. Consolidation Officer vide order dated 6.6.1979 allowed the objection filed by respondent no.4, Gyanmati and rejected the objection of petitioner's father as well as Gaon Sabha. Appeal under Section 11 (1) of U.P.C.H. Act was filed by petitioner which was dismissed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation vide order dated 23.10.1980. Revision under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act filed by petitioner before Deputy Director of Consolidation was heard and dismissed vide order dated 9.7.1981. Hence this writ petition on behalf of petitioner for the following relief:-

"A writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the orders dated 6.6.1979 passed by respondent no.3, 23.10.1980 passed by respondent no.2 and dated 9.7.1981 passed by respondent no.1."

3. This Court admitted the writ petition on 11.11.1981 and stayed the order dated 9.7.1981 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation provided the petitioner has not already been dispossessed in pursuance of the impugned order.

4. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 11.11.1981, the parties have exchanged their pleading.

5. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the claim of the petitioner's father under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act being brother of deceased cannot be refused by consolidation authorities in any manner. He further submitted that on the deposit being made by Jhinkoo in obtaining the bhumidhari sanad under Section 134 of U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 hereinafter referred to as U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, notice had been issued and petitioner's father had filed an objection therein but before passing any order for issuance of bhumidhari sanad, Jhinkoo had died, as such, application for issuance of bhumidhari sanad was rejected. He further submitted that Deputy Director of Consolidation had misinterpreted the provisions contained under Sections 134, 135, 137 of U.P.Z.A. and L.R. Act, as such, the impugned orders cannot be sustained in the eye of law. He further submitted that bhumidhari sanad shall be deemed to have been granted from the date of deposit in case the order for grant of bhumidhari sanad has been passed in the lifetime of sirdar consern but in the instant case, the order for grant of bhumidhari sanad was not passed in the life time of sirdar, as such, the order impugned cannot be sustained in the eye of law. He further submitted that there was no permission of Settlement Officer of Consolidation to execute the gift deed during consolidation operation in respect to chak no. 87 as required under Section 5 of the U.P.C.H. Act, as such, gift deed alleged to be executed in favour of respondent no.4 cannot be relied upon rather the gift deed should be treated as void in view of the provisions contained under Section 45-A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act. He submitted that Deputy Director of Consolidation has failed to take into consideration the admission made by respondent no.4/ Gyanmati that gift deed was executed after 4 or 5 months from the date of death of Jhinkoo. He further submitted that there was no admissible evidence on record that Smt. Gyanmati was the daughter of the deceased- Jhinkoo. He submitted that impugned orders should be set aside and the objection filed by petitioner under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act in respect to the plot in question should be allowed. He placed reliance upon the following judgement of this Court as well as Apex Court in support of his arguments:-

(i) 2019 (0) Supreme (SC) 267 Rakesh and Others Vs. Board of Revenue U.P. and Others

(ii) AIR 1971 Allahabad 526 Banshidhar Vs. Dhirjadhari and Others

(iii) 2013 (10) ADJ 370 (DB) Satendra Singh and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Another

(iv) Civil Misc. Writ No. 619 of 1963 dated 10.1.1968 Meghu alias Mandu Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh

6. On the other hand, learned Counsel for private respondent submitted that respondent no.4/ Gyanmati was daughter of Jhinkoo and Jhinkoo had executed registered gift deed dated 8.5.1973 in favour of his daughter/ Gyanmati in respect to the disputed property. He submitted that objection filed by petitioner's father/ Raghunandan was rejected by the consolidation authorities and the claim of respondent no.4/ Gyanmati was accepted, as such, no interference is required against the concurrent judgement passed by all the three consolidation authorities. He further submitted that objection of Gaon Sabha that Jhinkoo had died issueless therefore property should be vested in Gaon Sabha was rejected by consolidation authorities which requires no interference. He further submitted that one Ganga Deen (marginal witness of the gift deed) had appeared before the Consolidation Officer and prove the gift deed, as such, there is no illegality in the impugned orders passed by the consolidation authorities. He further submitted that marginal witness had also stated that Gyanmati is daughter of Jhinkoo. He further submitted that the evidence of the witness shall be read in whole rather in piece. He further submitted that respondent no.4 came in possession of the plot in dispute since execution of gift deed in her favour. He further submitted that petitioner is not in possession of the plot in dispute. He further submitted that Jhinkoo had deposited 20 times of the land revenue as such the bhumidhari sanad shall be deemed to be issued from the date of deposit, as such, there is no illegality in the exercise of jurisdiction by the consolidation authorities. He submitted that no interference is required and writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

7. I have considered the arguments advanced by learned Counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that objection under Section 9A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act filed by petitioner was rejected by the Consolidation Officer and objection filed by respondent no.4/ Gyanmati was allowed by Consolidation Officer vide order dated 6.6.1979 directing to record the name of respondent no.4/ Smt. Gyanmati over the plot in question. There is also no dispute about the fact that appeal under Section 11 (1) of U.P.C.H. Act filed by petitioner was dismissed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation vide order dated 23.10.1980. There is also no dispute about the fact that revision under Section 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act filed by petitioner has been dismissed by Deputy Director of Consolidation vide order dated 9.7.1981.

9. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, the perusal of the four issues framed before the Consolidation Officer will be relevant which are as under:-

"वाद बिन्दु"

1- "क्या झिनकू निः संतान मर गये तथा उनका अंश ग्राम सभा में निहित होना चाहिये ?

2- क्या श्रीमती ज्ञानमती पत्नी हंसराज तथा झिनकू को पुत्री तथा खाते के हिब्बेदार है तथा उनका नाम बतौर हिब्बेदार दर्ज होना चाहिये।

3- क्या हिब्बा नाम दिनांक 8-5-73 फरजी लिखे तथा फरजी आदमी को खड़ा करके लिखाया गया है?

4- क्या रघुनन्दन मृतक खातेदार झिनकू के एक मात्र वारिस तथा सगा भाई है?"

10. Consolidation Officer considering the evidence on record, recorded finding of fact that gift deed dated 8.5.1973 was executed in proper manner and the marginal witness of the gift deed namely Gangadeen had proved the gift deed, as such, respondent no.4/ Gyanmati is entitled to be recorded over the plot in question on the basis of will deed in place of deceased- Jhinkoo.

11. Settlement Officer of Consolidation has also recorded finding of fact that gift deed is registered deed and one of the marginal witness namely Gangadeen has proved the gift deed in question as well as no suit for cancellation of gift deed has been filed in the Civil Court, as such, gift deed in question executed in favour of Smt. Gyanmati cannot be ignored in any manner.

12. Deputy Director of Consolidation again examined the issues in detail and has recorded finding that Jhinkoo had died on 16.5.1973 and gift deed was executed on 8.5.1973. The finding of fact has also been recorded by the Deputy Director of Consolidation that permission was granted by Settlement Officer of Consolidation on 8.5.1973 under Section 5 of U.P.C.H. Act and the technical objection raised by the other side that no permission was granted for execution of gift deed was rejected. The finding of fact has also been recorded by Deputy Director of Consolidation that 20 times of the rent was deposited by Jhinkoo in his lifetime for granting bhumidhari sanad, as such, mere non-issuance of bhumidhari sanad will not make any difference rather Jhinkoo will be treated as bhumidhar on the date of deposit of 20 times of the land revenue. The finding of fact has also been recorded by Deputy Director of Consolidation that Gyanmati is daughter of Jhinkoo and the gift deed dated 8.5.1973 has been proved by the marginal witness of the gift deed in question, as such, claim of respondent no.4, Gyanmati on the basis of gift deed dated 8.5.1973 cannot be refused in any manner.

13. So for as grant of bhumidhari sanad is consern, it is well settled principle of law that date of deposit of land revenue by the sirdar will be relevant and subsequent death of sirdar will not make any diference as held by Apex Court in the case reported in (2000) 3 SCC 440 Deo Nandan & another versus Ram Saran & others. Paragraph No. 7&9 of the judgment rendered in Deo Nandan(Supra) will be relevant for perusal which are as under:-

"7. Section 134, from its plain language, indicates and shows that on the application being made and 10 times the land revenue being paid, the sirdar becomes entitled "with effect from the date on which the amount had been deposited" to a declaration that he has acquired the rights mentioned in Section 137 of the Act. The section clearly specifies the date with effect from which the rights would stand acquired: the date is the one on which the amount contemplated by Section 134 is deposited. This clearly obviates the uncertainty of the point of time when the title is transferred by fixing the date as being the one when the amount is deposited. It would be immaterial as to when the declaration under Section 137 is made because that declaration must necessarily take effect from the date when the amount is deposited.

9. It is no doubt true that in the Full Bench decision in Banshidhar v. Dhirajadhari-, in the Single Judge decision in Mobin Khan v. Chunnu Khan? and in the decision in Raghunandan Singh v. Vashwant Singh? a different view has been expressed by the Allahabad High Court. In the Full Bench decision, the view taken is that it is from the date when the order is passed under Section 137 that the sirdar becomes a bhumidhar. In the latter two cases, it has been held that if after filing of the application and making payment of the land revenue the applicant dies, then certificate in his name cannot be granted. In our opinion, the said decisions run counter to the plain language and meaning of Sections 134 and 137 as they stood at the relevant point of time. When a certificate is issued under Section 137, it in fact recognises the position as on the date when the application was made and the payment contemplated under Section 134(1) was deposited. The certificate, in other words, will have a retrospective effect and would relate back to the date of the application. There was nothing to prevent the Revenue Authorities from allowing the application filed under Section 134(1) on the day when it was presented. The underlying intention of the legislature, therefore, clearly is that as and when the said application is accepted and order is passed under Section 137, it must relate back to the date when the application was filed. Such a situation is not unknown to law. Mr Prem Prasad Juneja, learned counsel for the appellants, as an analogy, has drawn our attention to Order 22 Rule 6 CPC which provides that if any of the parties to a suit dies after the hearing has been completed and before the judgment is pronounced, the suit would not abate. The doctrine of relation back has been incorporated in Sections 134 and 137 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act."

14. Apex Court in another case reported in (2008) 2 SCC 537= 2008 (104) RD 70 Bindha Prasad and others versus Bhan Datt(dead) by Lrs. has held that the death of the tenure holder could not bar the issuance of the bhumidhari sanad in his favour from the date of the deposit. Paragraph no. 8 of the judgment rendered in Bindha Prasad(Supra) will be relevant for perusal which is as under:-

"8. On the application being made and the stipulated times of land revenue being paid, the sirdari becomes entitled "with effect from the date on which the amount had been deposited" to a declaration that he has acquired rights mentioned in Section 137 of the Act. The Section clearly specifies the date with effect from which the rights would stand acquired i.e. the date on which the amount contemplated by Section 134 is deposited. This clearly alleviates the uncertainty of the point of time when the title is transferred by fixing the date as being the date on which the amount is deposited. It would be immaterial as to when the declaration under Section 137 is made because that declaration must necessarily take effect from the date when the amount is deposited. Prior to the amendment of Sub section (2) of Section 137 of the Act the position was that it is only the grant of certificate under Sub section (1) of Section 137 that the Sirdar from the date thereof became or is to be deemed to be a Bhumidhar of the holding or the share in respect of which the certificate has been granted. The amendment of Sub section (2) of Section 137 by Amendment Act 21 of 1962 with effect from 13.12.1962 brought Section 137 (2) in line with Section 134. The two provisions read together clearly provide that as and when the certificate under Section 137 is granted, it must relate back and be effective from the date on which the amount referred to in Sub section (1) of Section 134 was deposited. In this context the observation of this Court in para 9 of Deo Nandan and Anr. v. Ram Saran and Ors. MANU/SC/0177/2000MANU/SC/0177/2000 : [2000]2SCR209 is worth being quoted. So far relevant, it was observed as follows:

In our opinion, the said decisions run counter to the plain language and meaning of Sections 134 and 137 as they stood at the relevant point of time. When a certificate is issued under Section 137 it in fact recognises the position as on the date when the application was made and the payment contemplated under Section 134(1) was deposited. The certificate, In other words, will have a retrospective effect and would relate back to the date of the application. There was nothing to prevent the revenue authorities from allowing the application filed under Section 134(1) on the day when it was presented. The underlying intention of the legislature, therefore, clearly is that as and when the said application Is accepted and order is passed under Section 137 it must relate back to the date when the application was filed. Such a situation is not unknown to law. Mr. Prem Prasad Juneja, learned Counsel for the appellants, as an analogy, has drawn our attention to Order 22 Rule 6, C.P.C. which provides that if any of the parties to a suit dies after the hearing has been completed and before the judgment is pronounced, the suit would not abate. The doctrine of relation back has been incorporated in Sections 134 and 137 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act."

15. Apex Court in the case of Rakesh(Supra) decided on 8.3.2019 has followed the principle of law laid down in Deo Nandan(Supra) and held as under in paragraph no. 12 of the Judgment:-

"12. In view of law as laid down above, the judgment of Allahabad High Court in Ram Sabodh(Supra) cannot help the Appellant. The judgment of this Court in Deo Nandan and Anr. (supra) fully covers the claim of the Plaintiff-Respondent with regard to Suit No. 31 of 1978 relating to Plot No. 521, with regard to which Sanad was granted after death of Pursottam. We are of the view that Additional Commissioner, Board of Revenue and High Court committed no error in decreeing Suit No. 31 of 1978."

16. Considering the ratio of law laid down in respect to grant of bhumidhari sanad, provision relating to transfer made during consolidation operation and other evidence on record, there is no illegality in the exercise of jurisdiction under Section -9A(2), 11(1) & 48(1) of U.P.C.H.Act by consolidation authorities as such no interference is required against the impugned judgments/ orders passed by consolidation authorities.

17. The writ petition is dismissed.

18. No order as to costs.

Writ A No. 3498 of 2011

Chhotey Lal Jaiswal ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of the order holding that appointment was made beyond sanctioned posts as there were only five posts, though admittedly there were eight sanctioned posts in the institution.
(2) Permissibility of supplementing or improving the impugned order by asserting different averments in the counter affidavit.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Arrears of salary – Entitlement – Grant-in-aid – Eight posts were sanctioned – The petitioner was appointed against one of these post – However, the impugned order was passed holding that the petitioner was appointed beyond sanctioned posts as there were only 5 posts in the institution – Validity challenged .

Held : On perusal of impugned order, it is evident that it has been recorded in paragraph 3 that there were 8 duly sanctioned posts by the Regional Assistant Director of Education Basic, 7th Region, Lucknow, therefore, finding recorded in the impugned order that appointment of the petitioner is beyond sanctioned posts as there were only 5 posts in the institution, is erroneous in nature and against the order of sanctioned posts – Finding recorded is perverse in nature and without any rational basis, therefore, the impugned order being illegal is liable to be set aside. [Para 14 and 16]

(B) Practice and procedure – Averment made in counter affidavit tending to supplement or improve the impugned order – Permissibility .

Held : The assertion made in the counter-affidavit that the petitioner does not have qualification cannot be supplement the impugned order holding that B.Ed is not a good qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher. The averments made in counter-affidavit is not acceptable in the eyes of law as well as nothing can be supplemented in the impugned order by giving averments in the counter affidavit as has been held in the case of M.S. Gill's case – No reason can be supplemented to the impugned order by asserting averments in the counter affidavit. [8 and 13] (E-1)

Advs. for the Petitioner : A. K. Pandey, A. K. Mishra, Gangeshwar Pandey, Mrs. Suniti Sachan, Sanjay Kumar Singh, Sidhant Rathour

Advs. for the Respondents : Gauri Shanker Maurya, Prashant Arora, Shailendra Singh Rajawat

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjai Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri S.S. Rajawat, learned counsel for respondent No.4 and learned Standing Counsel for respondent Nos.1 to 3.

2. By means of present writ petition, the petitioner is challenging the order dated 29.03.2011 passed by respondent No.4 contained as Annexure-1 to the writ petition with a further prayer to issue writ of mandamus commanding and directing the respondents to make payment of arrears of salary to petitioner from the date from which the other employees of School are getting salary from 01.12.2006.

3. Factual matrix of the case in a nutshell is that the committee of management of the institution known as Asht Bhuja Vidyalaya, Shahmau, Chhatrapati Sahuji Maharaj Nagar (now Amethi), which is recognized under U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972. The provisions of U.P. Recruitment and Service Conditions of Teachers Rules, 1978 as well as Payment of Salaries to Teachers Act, 1978 are also applicable to the said institution.

4. A vacancy came into existence on sanctioned strength of 8 posts. Against the sanctioned post, the petitioner was granted appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher on 10.7.1977 before promulgation of 1978 Rules. District Basic Education Officer (DBEO) accorded approval on 12.7.1985.

5. At the time of granting appointment to the petitioner, the petitioner's institution was not receiving grant in aid from the State Government. The State Government issued a Government Order on 02.12.2006 taking the institution on the grant in aid list. Respondent No.3 sanctioned 13 posts in the school; one Head Master, 8 Assistant Teachers, 1 Clerk, and 3 Class-IV employees vide order dated 27.10.1986.

6. The petitioner filed Writ Petition No.6522 (S/S) of 2010 before this Court, wherein this Court was pleased to pass an order on 15.09.2010 directing the respondents to decide the representation of the petitioner by passing speaking and reasoned order. The order of this Court was not complied with, the petitioner filed Contempt petition before this Court, wherein notice was issued to respondent No.4. Thereafter, an order was passed on 29.03.2001 holding that the appointment of the petitioner has not been made against sanctioned post. Assailing the impugned order dated 29.03.2001, the present writ petition has been filed.

7. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that there were 8 sanctioned posts of Assistant Teachers excluding one post of Head Master in the institution on bare perusal of first page of the impugned order, therefore, the impugned order passed ignoring this fact is wholly misconceived and erroneous in nature, therefore is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

8. His submission is that the impugned order has been passed ignoring the material on record in a very cursory manner and without application of mind. The assertion made in the counter-affidavit that the petitioner does not have qualification cannot be supplement the impugned order holding that B.Ed is not a good qualification for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher. The averments made in counter-affidavit is not acceptable in the eyes of law as well as nothing can be supplemented in the impugned order by giving averments in the counter affidavit as has been held in the case of M.S. Gill and another v. Chief Election Commissioner, New Delhi and others reported in AIR 1978 Supreme Court 1978.

9. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the impugned order passed on 29.03.2011 does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and is just and valid. They submitted that there are 5 posts sanctioned of Assistant Teachers and 5 persons appointed on the post of Assistant Teachers and working therefore, appointment of the petitioner is beyond sanctioned post.

11. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record and the law reports cited by learned counsel for the petitioner.

12. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are being quoted below:

a) Ms. Gill and another (Supra):

"8. 8. The second equally relevant matter is that when a statutory functionary makes an order based on certain grounds, its validity must be judged by the reasons so mentioned and cannot be supplemented by fresh reasons in the shape of affidavit or otherwise. Otherwise, an order bad in the beginning may, by the time it comes to court on account of a challenge, get validated by additional grounds later brought out. We may here draw attention to the observations of Bose, J. in Gordhandas Bhanji [Commr. of Police, Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, 1951 SCC 1088 : AIR 1952 SC 16]:

Public orders, publicly made, in exercise of a statutory authority cannot be construed in the light of explanations subsequently given by the officer making the order of what he meant, or of what was in his mind, or what he intended to do. Public orders made by public authorities are meant to have public effect and are intended to affect the actings and conduct of those to whom they are addressed and must be construed objectively with reference to the language used in the order itself.?

Orders are not like old wine becoming better as they grow older.

17. 17. We now enter the constitutional zone relating to the controversy in this case. Although both sides have formulated the plural problems with some divergence, we may compress them into three cardinal questions:

(1) Is Article 329(b) a blanket ban on all manner of questions which may have impact on the ultimate result of the election, arising between two temporal termini viz. the notification by the President calling for the election and the declaration of the result by the returning officer? Is Article 226 also covered by this embargo and, if so, is Section 100 broad enough to accommodate every kind of objection, constitutional, legal or factual, which may have the result of invalidation of an election and the declaration of the petitioner as the returned candidate and direct the organisation of any steps necessary to give full relief?

(2) Can the Election Commission, clothed with the comprehensive functions under Article 324 of the Constitution, cancel the whole poll of a constituency after it has been held, but before the formal declaration of the result has been made, and direct a fresh poll without reference to the guidelines under Sections 58 and 64(A) of the Act, or other legal prescription or legislative backing? If such plenary power exists, is it exercisable on the basis of his inscrutable ?subjective satisfaction? or only on a reviewable objective assessment reached on the basis of circumstances vitiating a free and fair election and warranting the stoppage of declaration of the result and directions of a fresh poll not merely of particular polling stations but of the total constituency?

(3) Assuming a constitutionally vested capacity under Article 324 to direct re-poll, is it exercisable only in conformity with natural justice and geared to the sole goal of a free, popular verdict if frustrated on the first occasion? Or, is the Election Commission immune to the observance of the doctrine of natural justice on account of any recognised exceptions to the application of the said principle and unaccountable for his action even before the Election Court??"

13. On perusal of the relevant extract of the judgment, it is evident that no reason can be supplemented to the impugned order by asserting averments in the counter affidavit, therefore, the impugned order being un-reasoned is liable to be set aside.

14. On perusal of impugned order, it is evident that it has been recorded in paragraph 3 that there were 8 duly sanctioned posts by the Regional Assistant Director of Education Basic, 7th Region, Lucknow, therefore, finding recorded in the impugned order that appointment of the petitioner is beyond sanctioned posts as there were only 5 posts in the institution, is erroneous in nature and against the order of sanctioned posts, as has been noticed in the impugned order.

15. There is no order abolishing the sanctioned posts strength from 8 to 5, therefore, in absence of any order of abolition of post, the impugned order suffers from apparent illegality holding that there are 5 sanctioned posts only, therefore, the order impugned is per se illegal and devoid of merit.

16. The other grounds taken in the impugned order are not sustainable in the eyes of law and the finding recorded is perverse in nature and without any rational basis, therefore, the impugned order being illegal is liable to be set aside.

17. The objection raised by learned counsel for the respondents that there are only 5 sanctioned posts is not sustainable in the eyes of law as para 3 of the impugned order itself takes notice of the fact that there were 8 sanctioned posts in the institution. Both counsels failed to produce any order of abolition of posts from 8 to 5, therefore, the arguments advanced by them have no merit and are hereby rejected.

18. In view of reasons recorded above and facts and circumstances of the case, I am satisfied that the impugned order is illegal and without any rational basis. The order impugned is against factual aspect of the matter, therefore, it is liable to be quashed.

19. In view of reasons given above, the impugned order dated 29.03.2011 passed by respondent No.4 contained as Annexure-1 to the writ petition is hereby quashed.

20. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

21. However, the respondents are directed to pay arrears of salary with effect from the date when institution was taken under grant-in-aid list upto 30.6.2011 when the petitioner superannuates within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

Impugned order dated 08.06.2011 passed by the District Inspector of Schools Pratapgarh.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Harsha Yadav, Sanjay Misra, Km. Shilpi, Vinod Mishra.
Advs. for the Respondents : Rajiv Srivastava, ACSC; H.G.S.Parihar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Harsha Yadav, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Rajiv Srivastava, learned Additional CSC for the respondent Nos.1 to 4 - State.

2. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was appointed on Class-IV post on compassionate basis due to sudden death of his father Sri Ram Sunder Patel. Since the date of appointment, the petitioner was working in the college and in the month of July 2005, he was directed to perform his duties at the residence of the Manger of the College at 'Vijaypur Kothi, Mutthiganj, Allahabad. On 30.09.2010, all of sudden, when the petitioner was directed to leave the Vijaypur Kothi, then the petitioner approached to the Principal of the College to allow him to work in the college but the Principal of the college did not allow him to work in the college under the pressure of the Manager.

3. The petitioner ultimately written a letter to the Principal of the College and on 22.09.2010 to the District Inspector of Schools requesting them to join in the college and pay him salary but no one take any action nor allowed him to work. When no action was taken by the authorities concerned, then the petitioner moved an application to the District Magistrate on 23.09.2010 requesting him to interfere in the matter and on the basis of his application, the District Magistrate directed to District Inspector of Schools to take necessary action after verifying the facts.

4. When the District Inspector of Schools did not take any action, then the petitioner appeared before the Joint Director of Education on 04.10.2010 by stating his grievance and he assured that he will take necessary action. On 29.10.2010, the District Inspector of Schools sent a letter to the Principal of the College with a direction to allow the petitioner to work and put his signature on the attendance register and informed him accordingly, so that he may inform to the higher authorities.

5. On 01.11.2010, the Principal of the college sent a letter to the District Inspector of Schools by stating therein that the petitioner did not appear before the inquiry committee as information was sent to him and a notice was also published in the daily newspaper "Jan Morcha" and further stated that the decision is required to be taken by him himself.

6. On 02.11.2010, the District Inspector of Schools sent a letter to the Principal of the college by stating therein that why the petitioner is not being allowed to work and photocopy of the attendance register is not being provided to him. On 16.11.2010, the Principal of the college passed the impugned order of dismissal of services of the petitioner on 16.11.2010 by stating therein that the petitioner did not cooperate in the inquiry as he is absent since 01.05.2010.

7. On 06.12.2010, the petitioner filed an appeal before the Committee of Management. On 23.03.2011, the petitioner sent a letter to the Joint Director of Education by stating therein to interfere in the matter. On 18.04.2011, the District Inspector of Schools issued a notice to the Principal and to the petitioner on 18.04.2011 to appear before him on 30.04.2011 for hearing, so that decision may be taken.

8. On 13.05.2011, the petitioner appeared before the District Magistrate at the time of "JANTA DARSHAN" on 02.05.2011 and made a complaint that the copy of the attendance register is not being provided to him and requested to direct the authorities to provide the same and in pursuance thereof, the District Inspector of Schools sent a letter to the Principal of the College on 13.05.2011 to provide the copy of the attendance register.

9. On 18.05.2011, the petitioner vide his letter dated 18.05.2011 requested to the District Inspector of Schools (DIOS) to summon the attendance register and it can be verified that the signatures have been done on one day with one pen. On 08.06.2011, the District Inspector of Schools Pratapgarh in a very illegal and arbitrary manner and under the pressure of the Principal and Manager of P.B. Inter College, Pratapgarh City, Pratapgarh passed the impugned order, whereby the services of the petitioner has been dismissed. Hence, the present writ petition has been preferred before this Court.

10. The DIOS has passed the order in appeal for which he has no jurisdiction. That no appeal lies before the DIOS under Regulation 31 Chapter III of the Regulations framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, wherein there is specific provision that Principal of the institution is authorized to pass the order of dismissal, termination or removal against a Class-IV employee and against the order passed by the Principal of the Institution appeal lies to the Committee of Management, which is to be decided within a period of six months. In case, no decision has been taken by the Committee of Management within six months, the employee has authority to move a representation to the DIOS ventilating his grievances and the DIOS is then empowered to pass an order.

11. In the present case, the DIOS has entertained the appeal and has passed the impugned order, which is wholly without jurisdiction, therefore, there is no hesitation to hold that the order is without wholly jurisdiction and not tenable in law.

12. The Principal of the institution has also passed an order on 28.03.2023, whereby decision has been taken not to terminate the services of the petitioner and he was reinstated in service on the basis of enquiry report dated 31.10.2010, by rejecting his order dated 16.11.2010 by leveling rider that with the order of DIOS, payment of salary shall be made.

13. Once, there was an order of the Principal of the institution, which is the appointing authority and decision taking authority in regard to disciplinary proceeding initiated against Class-IV employee of the institution, there was no justification on the part of DIOS to entertain the appeal and to pass the order.

14. The order passed by the DIOS is wholly without jurisdiction in view of provisions contained under Regulation 31 Chapter III of the Regulations framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and is liable to be set aside.

15. In view of reasons assigned above and totality of facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the considered opinion that the order passed by the DIOS dated 08.06.2011 is wholly without jurisdiction, therefore, it is hereby quashed.

16. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

17. Respondents are directed to permit the petitioner to discharge his duties on Class - IV post and to pay him regular monthly salary month by month in as much as arrears of salary due to be paid to him within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

18. No order as to costs.

Writ A No. 6103 of 2021

Smt. Dharmwati Devi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Competence of authority to reopen the issue, which was settled by the Division Bench of High Court in Special Appeal.
(2) Validity of the impugned order of making an observation that petitioner should suffer because of alleged procedural lapses attributable either to the Committee of Management or to the educational authorities.
(3) Scope of Article 21 of the Constitution of India including in it the fundamental right to get salary after grant of approval to the compassionate appointment.
(4) Application of the principle of natural justice and effect of not supplying the copy of the report, relied upon in the impugned order.
(5) Application of purposive construction of interpretation to the beneficial legislation.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 and 21 – Fundamental right to get salary – Compassionate appointment – Withholding of salary – Petitioner was appointed on the demise of her husband followed by grant of approval – Earlier, Special Appeal was allowed by the Division Bench with observation in favour of availability of vacant Class IV post at the time of appointment and further non-revocation of the approval granted to the petitioner's appointment – Binding effect – Ignoring the observation of DB, the authority passed the impugned order of denying payment of salary – Authority, while passing the impugned order, observed that petitioner should suffer because of alleged procedural lapses attributable either to the Committee of Management or to the educational authorities – Permissibility .

Held : Judicial discipline demanded faithful compliance with the directions issued by the appellate Court. Instead, the authority has reopened issues that stood concluded and has virtually sat in appeal over the judgment of the Division Bench. Such an exercise is wholly impermissible and strikes at the very foundation of the rule of law. Equally unacceptable is the procedure adopted while passing the impugned orders. [Para 27]

Further held : The respondents have also proceeded on the erroneous premise that the petitioner should suffer because of alleged procedural lapses attributable either to the Committee of Management or to the educational authorities. Such reasoning overlooks a settled principle of public law that a citizen cannot be penalised for the negligence or inaction of the State or its instrumentalities. Once the petitioner had submitted all requisite documents and the competent authority itself granted approval, any subsequent administrative lapse cannot extinguish her accrued rights – The respondents have acted in complete disregard of binding judicial directions, have violated the principles of natural justice, have proceeded upon an erroneous understanding of the applicable Government Orders and have arbitrarily deprived the petitioner of salary despite a subsisting order approving her appointment. Such action is plainly violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India.[Para 29 and 34]

(B) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 14 – Principle of natural justice – Application – No copy of report, relied upon in the impugned order, was supplied – No opportunity to rebut the report was given – Effect .

Held : Respondent no. 2 relied upon reports and communications submitted by respondent nos. 3 and 4 after the matter had already been heard, without furnishing copies thereof to the petitioner and without affording any opportunity to rebut the same. The impugned decision has thus been founded upon materials collected behind the back of the petitioner. Such a course of action is in the teeth of the cardinal principles of natural justice. Fairness in administrative action is not an empty formality but an indispensable facet of Article 14 of the Constitution. [Para 27]

(C) Service law – Compassionate appointment – Objects – Authorities failed to take the object into consideration – Effect .

Held : The respondents have completely failed to appreciate the true object of compassionate appointment. Such appointments are conceived not as a source of largesse but as a measure of immediate social welfare intended to rescue the bereaved family of a deceased employee from financial destitution. [Para 31]

(D) Interpretation of statute – Beneficial statute – Purposive construction – Application :

Held : The beneficial object underlying the Government Orders governing compassionate appointment deserves a purposive and liberal construction rather than a hyper-technical interpretation which defeats the very object sought to be achieved. [Para 31] (E-1)

Case Arising From

Impugned orders dated 23.02.2021 and 08.03.2021 passed by the respondent no. 2.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Bajrang Bahadur Singh, Satya Prakash Singh.

Advs. for the Respondents : Shailendra Singh, S.C.; Ajay Kumar Sharma, Arun Kumar, Sanjay Yadav, Shashi Prakash Rai.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State and perused the record.

2. The writ petition has been filed to quash the impugned orders dated 23.02.2021 and 08.03.2021 passed by respondent no.2, whereby the claim for payment of salary to the petitioner on a Class-IV post has been rejected.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner's husband was working as an Assistant Teacher in Kisan Vaidik Junior High School, Latifpur, District- Gautam Buddh Nagar, died in harness on 15.06.2001, therefore, the petitioner was given compassionate appointment on a Class-IV post in the institution on 01.08.2006 which was rendered vacant on account of termination of service of one Gajendra Singh, Class-IV employee working in the institution, by order dated 03.07.1999. The appointment of the petitioner was duly approved by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Gautam Buddha Nagar, vide letter dated 06.09.2006.

4. The institution in question was brought within the purview of the U.P. Junior High School (Payment of Salaries of Teachers and Other Employees) Act, 1978. However, an objection was raised by the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Meerut/Saharanpur Division, vide his letter dated 16.03.2007, with regard to the appointment of Teachers and Ministerial staff and the specific objection was raised against the petitioner's appointment on the ground that although her appointment was approved as a Class-IV employee but the same was made without following the procedure prescribed under law.

5. On the basis of the aforesaid communication issued by the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), an opinion was sought from the Director of Education regarding the petitioner's appointment. However, no opinion or decision has been communicated by the Director of Education (Basic). Nevertheless, solely on the basis of the aforesaid objection, the salary of the petitioner has been withheld. Thereafter, the petitioner filed Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.58845 of 2008 before this Court, which was dismissed by order dated 22.04.2011. The said order was passed by a learned Single Judge and was challenged by means of Special Appeal No. 898 of 2011 and the Division Bench of this Court, by order dated 18.01.2020, observed that there was no material on record to show that at the time of appointment of the petitioner in the institution in question no vacant Class-IV post was available. It was further observed that no records were provided indicating that the approval granted to the petitioner for the Class-IV post by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari was revoked at any point of time. Hence, a direction was issued to the competent authority to look into the matter and pass appropriate orders after examining the entire material on record.

6. The impugned order rejecting the petitioner's representation for payment of salary proceeds on three principal grounds.

(a) Firstly, it records a categorical finding that the appointment of the petitioner, Smt. Dharmavati Devi, to the Class-IV post in the institution was not made in accordance with the statutory provisions governing such appointments. Consequently, payment of salary to the petitioner from the State Exchequer could not be sanctioned in accordance with law.

(b) Secondly, it holds that the provisions of the Government Order dated 31.01.1997 governing engagement on an honorarium basis ceased to have any application with effect from 02.12.2006, the date on which the institution was brought on the grant-in-aid list.

(c) Thirdly, it records that no sanctioned Class-IV post was available in the institution after its inclusion in the grant-in-aid list and, therefore, the petitioner's appointment could not confer any legal right to claim salary from the State Exchequer.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order passed by respondent no.2 is founded upon a report and certain statements submitted by respondent nos. 3 and 4 subsequent to the date on which the matter was heard, without affording any opportunity to the petitioner to controvert the same. It is, therefore, contended that the impugned order is vitiated in law and is liable to be set aside.

8. It is further submitted that the impugned order has been passed in gross violation of the principles of natural justice, as no opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioner by respondent no. 2 before passing the said order. It is also urged that the order suffers from complete non-application of mind.

9. Learned counsel further contends that respondent no.2 has erroneously recorded that the provisions of the Government Orders dated 01.01.1991 and 31.01.1997 governing appointments on compassionate grounds were not complied with while considering the petitioner's claim. According to the petitioner, all requisite papers relating to the appointment were duly forwarded by the Committee of Management, and thereafter it was incumbent upon the concerned authorities to process the proposal and pass appropriate orders in accordance with the prescribed procedure. Consequently, the petitioner cannot be made to suffer for any lapse or omission attributable to the respondent authorities.

10. It is further submitted that respondent no. 4 had already granted approval to the proposal for the petitioner's appointment, and, therefore, no further obligation remained to be discharged either by the petitioner or by the institution. This material aspect has been completely overlooked while passing the impugned order.

11. Lastly, learned counsel submits that it is an admitted position that the proposal for appointment was forwarded by the competent authority well within the prescribed period of five years. Merely because the respondents delayed the process of granting approval beyond the said period, the petitioner's claim cannot be defeated. The delay, if any, is wholly attributable to the respondent authorities, and the petitioner cannot be penalized for their administrative inaction or negligence.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Ministerial Staff and Group 'D' Employees) Rules, 1984 (hereinafter referred as 'Rule of 1984') are inapplicable to appointments made on compassionate grounds, as such appointments are exclusively governed by the Government Order dated 31.01.1997.

13. It is contended that respondent no. 2 has erroneously held that the Government Order dated 31.01.1997 is inapplicable to unaided recognised institutions. According to the learned counsel, the said finding is contrary to the settled position of law, inasmuch as this Court, in a catena of decisions, has consistently held that the aforesaid Government Order is equally applicable to unaided recognised institutions. It is, therefore, submitted that the impugned order proceeds on a fundamentally erroneous interpretation of the applicable legal provisions and is liable to be set aside. Consequently, the petitioner is entitled to the reliefs claimed in the present writ petition.

14. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel submits that the impugned order suffers from no illegality and has been passed strictly in accordance with law. It is contended that the petitioner was never appointed to the Class-IV post in the institution in accordance with the statutory provisions governing such appointments. Consequently, no salary can legally be sanctioned from the State Exchequer in respect of such an appointment.

15. It is further submitted that the Government Order dated 31.01.1997, governing compassionate appointments on the death of an employee, became applicable to the institution only with effect from 02.12.2006, when the institution was brought on the grant-in-aid list. Since the petitioner's appointment is stated to have been made prior to the said date, the same cannot derive any legal sanction under the aforesaid Government Order.

16. Learned Standing Counsel further submits that the mandatory selection procedure prescribed under the Rules of 1984 was admittedly not followed while appointing the petitioner. Consequently, the approval purportedly granted by the then District Basic Education Officer, Gautam Buddh Nagar, vide letter dated 06.09.2006, did not confer any legal validity upon an otherwise illegal appointment. It is submitted that, after examining the entire matter, the Director of Basic Education, Uttar Pradesh, rightly rejected the petitioner's representation dated 10.06.2020 by order dated 08.03.2021, holding the claim to be devoid of merit.

17. It is further submitted that the institution in question is a recognised Junior High School governed by the provisions of the Uttar Pradesh Recognized Basic Schools (Junior High Schools) (Recruitment and Conditions of Service of Teachers) Rules, 1978 as well as Rules of 1984. The institution was included in the grant-in-aid list by Government Order dated 02.12.2006. Thereafter, the Divisional Recognition Committee convened its meeting on 21.02.2007 for considering approval of appointments and release of salary to duly selected teaching and non-teaching staff in accordance with the applicable statutory provisions. In the said meeting, the petitioner's appointment to the Class-IV post was not approved, as the appointment had been made under the compassionate appointment quota without following the prescribed statutory procedure applicable to Class-IV appointments. Consequently, no pay sanction could be issued in favour of the petitioner.

18. It is also submitted that, aggrieved by the refusal to grant pay sanction, the petitioner had earlier approached this Court by filing Writ Petition No.58845 of 2008, which came to be dismissed by judgment and order dated 22.04.2011. The petitioner thereafter preferred Special Appeal No.898 of 2011, which was finally disposed of by the Division Bench vide judgment dated 18.01.2020.

19. Elaborating the factual background, learned Standing Counsel submits that late Shri Vijay Pal Singh was working as an Assistant Teacher in the institution and died in harness on 03.06.2001. On the date of his death, the institution was an unaided recognised Junior High School. Thereafter, the Manager of the institution issued an appointment letter dated 18.08.2001 appointing the petitioner, Smt. Dharmavati Devi, to a Class-IV post on compassionate grounds as the dependent of the deceased employee. However, the petitioner did not assume charge pursuant to the said appointment.

20. It is further submitted that, shortly before the institution was brought on the grant-in-aid list, the Manager, by letter dated 15.06.2006, directed the petitioner to join her duties. In pursuance thereof, the petitioner joined the institution on 01.08.2006, nearly five years after the issuance of the original appointment letter dated 18.08.2001. Thereafter, on the basis of the Manager's recommendation and with reference to the appointment letter dated 18.08.2001, the then District Basic Education Officer, Gautam Buddh Nagar, issued a communication dated 06.09.2006 purporting to accord approval to the petitioner's appointment on the Class-IV post under the compassionate appointment quota.

21. Learned Standing Counsel further submits that the scheme governing compassionate appointments in recognized non-government aided Junior High Schools was introduced by Government Order dated 27.09.1991, made effective from 01.01.1992, whereby, in the event of the death of a teacher or a non-teaching employee during service, one eligible dependent family member possessing the requisite qualifications could be considered for appointment to a non-teaching post. It is further submitted that Clause 7 of the Government Order dated 31.01.1997 also regulates appointments on compassionate grounds.

22. According to the respondents, on the date when the petitioner was purportedly appointed, i.e., 18.08.2001, the institution in question was an unaided recognised Junior High School. Consequently, the Government Orders dated 27.09.1991 and 31.01.1997 were not applicable to the institution at the relevant point of time. Despite the aforesaid legal position, the Committee of Management forwarded a proposal for the petitioner's appointment to the Class-IV post before the District Basic Education Officer and, during the pendency of the matter, proceeded to issue the appointment letters dated 18.08.2001 and 15.06.2006. It is, therefore, contended that the said appointments were made in clear contravention of the applicable Government Orders and are wholly without legal sanction.

23. Learned Standing Counsel further submits that the mandatory selection procedure prescribed under the Rules of 1984 was also not followed while making the petitioner's appointment on compassionate grounds. Since the petitioner was not appointed to the Class-IV post in accordance with the statutory provisions, no salary can legally be released from the State Exchequer in her favour.

24. It is further contended that the provisions of the Government Order dated 31.01.1997 concerning compassionate appointments became applicable to the institution only with effect from 02.12.2006, the date on which the institution was brought on the grant-in-aid list. As the petitioner's appointment admittedly preceded the said date, the same cannot be sustained in law. On these premises, learned Standing Counsel submits that the impugned order is perfectly legal and calls for no interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Accordingly, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

25. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

26. The foundational premise on which the respondents have rejected the petitioner's claim is itself legally unsustainable. It is an admitted position that the petitioner was appointed on compassionate grounds after the demise of her husband, who died in harness while serving the institution. The proposal for appointment was duly processed by the competent authorities and culminated in an order dated 06.09.2006 whereby the District Basic Education Officer granted approval to the petitioner's appointment. Significantly, the said approval has never been withdrawn, recalled or annulled by any competent authority in accordance with law. An administrative order which continues to operate in the eyes of law cannot be rendered otiose by the simple expedient of refusing its consequential benefits. So long as the approval subsists, the respondents are estopped from questioning its efficacy indirectly while simultaneously declining the salary flowing therefrom.

27. The Division Bench, while deciding Special Appeal No. 898 of 2011, had already noticed that there existed no material to demonstrate either the absence of a vacant Class-IV post or the cancellation of the approval accorded to the petitioner. Those findings constituted the binding framework within which the competent authority was required to reconsider the matter. Judicial discipline demanded faithful compliance with the directions issued by the appellate Court. Instead, the authority has reopened issues that stood concluded and has virtually sat in appeal over the judgment of the Division Bench. Such an exercise is wholly impermissible and strikes at the very foundation of the rule of law. Equally unacceptable is the procedure adopted while passing the impugned orders. The record unmistakably reveals that respondent no.2 relied upon reports and communications submitted by respondent nos.3 and 4 after the matter had already been heard, without furnishing copies thereof to the petitioner and without affording any opportunity to rebut the same. The impugned decision has thus been founded upon materials collected behind the back of the petitioner. Such a course of action is in the teeth of the cardinal principles of natural justice. Fairness in administrative action is not an empty formality but an indispensable facet of Article 14 of the Constitution.

28. The Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Mohinder Singh Gill v. Chief Election Commissioner, (1978) 1 SCC 405, authoritatively declared that an administrative order must stand or fall on the reasons recorded therein and cannot subsequently be supplemented by fresh reasons through affidavits or otherwise. Likewise, in Commissioner of Police Bombay v. Gordhandas Bhanji, AIR 1952 SC 16, it was held that public orders publicly made cannot be construed in the light of subsequent explanations. The impugned orders, therefore, cannot be sustained on reasons subsequently sought to be introduced during the course of litigation.

29. The respondents have also proceeded on the erroneous premise that the petitioner should suffer because of alleged procedural lapses attributable either to the Committee of Management or to the educational authorities. Such reasoning overlooks a settled principle of public law that a citizen cannot be penalised for the negligence or inaction of the State or its instrumentalities. Once the petitioner had submitted all requisite documents and the competent authority itself granted approval, any subsequent administrative lapse cannot extinguish her accrued rights.

30. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Asha Kaul (MRS) & Anr. v. State of Jammu & Kashmir & Ors., (1993) 2 SCC 573, observed that where delay or procedural default is attributable to the authorities, an otherwise eligible candidate cannot be deprived of the benefits flowing from law. The same equitable principle has consistently been reiterated by the Supreme Court that an individual cannot be made to suffer because of administrative inaction or official negligence.

31. This Court further finds that the respondents have completely failed to appreciate the true object of compassionate appointment. Such appointments are conceived not as a source of largesse but as a measure of immediate social welfare intended to rescue the bereaved family of a deceased employee from financial destitution. The beneficial object underlying the Government Orders governing compassionate appointment deserves a purposive and liberal construction rather than a hyper-technical interpretation which defeats the very object sought to be achieved.

32. The impugned orders further disclose complete non-application of mind to the material observations recorded by the Division Bench and proceed on assumptions unsupported by the record. The findings regarding non-applicability of the Government Orders and absence of entitlement have been recorded without considering the subsisting approval order, the factual matrix already noticed by the appellate Court and the legal consequences flowing therefrom. The decision-making process is, therefore, vitiated by arbitrariness, procedural impropriety and manifest perversity.

33. The Supreme Court in Kranti Associates (P) Ltd. v. Masood Ahmed Khan, (2010) 9 SCC 496, has held that recording of cogent reasons is an indispensable component of fairness in administrative and quasi-judicial decision-making and constitutes an integral part of the principles of natural justice. The reasons assigned in the impugned orders neither disclose proper application of mind nor demonstrate consideration of the binding directions issued by the Division Bench. Consequently, the impugned orders fail to satisfy the constitutional requirement of reasoned decision-making.

34. This Court is, therefore, satisfied that the respondents have acted in complete disregard of binding judicial directions, have violated the principles of natural justice, have proceeded upon an erroneous understanding of the applicable Government Orders and have arbitrarily deprived the petitioner of salary despite a subsisting order approving her appointment. Such action is plainly violative of Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution of India and cannot receive the imprimatur of this Court in exercise of its writ jurisdiction.

35. The impugned orders dated 23.02.2021 and 08.03.2021 are hereby quashed.

36. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

(2) Application of the provision of Reg. 351, 351-A, 351-AA and 919-A of the Civil Services Regulation.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Civil Services Regulation – Regulations 351, 351-A, 351-AA and 919-A – Post retirement benefits – Gratuity and leave encashment – Entitlement – Punishment order of reverting the petitioner on minimum pay scale for a period of one year was passed – Criminal proceeding was pending, on the basis of which the authorities denied payment of gratuity and leave encashment – Validity challenged – Seriousness of the offence – Relevancy – Application of the provision of Reg. 351, 351-A, 351-AA and 919-A felt into consideration :

Held : Admittedly the criminal proceedings are still pending against the petitioner with regard to the act of the petitioner i.e. due to negligence on the part of the petitioner, an accused of Gangster Act has absconded from the custody of the petitioner. The said offence may be of deliberate in nature on the part of the petitioner or an act of negligence on the part of the petitioner but the same is a very as it impacts the efficient administration of justice as a whole and such negligence may paralise the entire judicial as well as police administration. [Para 23]

Further held : In the instant case, therefore, Regulations-351 and 351-A would not apply. Regulation 351-AA and Regulation 919-A would apply in the instant case which categorically provide that once criminal proceedings or judicial proceedings are pending against a government servant, during the pendency of such proceedings, only provisional pension shall be accorded to such government servant and gratuity and death-cum-retirement benefits cannot be released to such government servant against whom judicial proceedings are pending – In view of the categorical prohibition made in Clause-(3) of the Regulation 919-A, the petitioner is not entitled for the release of the gratuity and final retirement dues and seriousness of the offence is an irrelevant fact with regard to the applicability of Regulation 919-A as well as Regulation 351-AA. [Para 24 and 25] (E-1)

Case Arising From

Impugned order dated 08.06.2016 passed by the respondent denying the gratuity and leave encashment due to pendency of the criminal case.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Bramh Narayan Singh.
Advs. for the Respondents : Dilip Kesarwani, ACSC.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri Bramh Narayan Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Dilip Kesarwani, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. Briefly stated facts of the case are that the petitioner was working on the post of Constable in U.P. Police department and has attained the age of superannuation on 31.3.2016. After his retirement, he was granted only the provisional pension but gratuity and leave encashment etc. was not granted to the petitioner due to the pendency of the Criminal Case being Case Crime No. 446 of 2008 under Sections 223/224 IPC, Police Station Wazeerganj, District Lucknow. It is stated by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the proceedings pursuant to the said criminal case are still pending before the criminal court for trial. The instant petition has been filed by the petitioner challenging the order dated 8.6.2016 whereby the gratuity and leave encashment has been denied to the petitioner due to pendency of the aforesaid criminal case.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon various judgments of Coordinate Benches of this Court as well as of Division Bench of this Court and has argued that unless there is a serious crime involved, the regular pension, gratuity and other retiral dues cannot be withheld by the respondents. In support of his case, petitioner has relied upon the following judgments:-

(i) Writ-A No. 15093 of 2020 (Devendra Kumar Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and others).
(ii) Writ-A No. 10536 of 2021 (Arun Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others).
(iii) Writ-A No. 8039 of 2018 (Udai Veer Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others).
(iv) Writ-A No. 17141 of 2012 (Ap Deo Narain Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others).
(v) Writ-A No. 26972 of 2013 (Santosh Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others).
(vi) Special Appeal Defective No. 440 of 2014 (State of U.P. and others Vs. Bal Kishan Tiwari).

(vii) Special Appeal Defective No. 687 of 2014 (State of U.P. and others Vs. Santosh Kumar Singh).

(viii) Writ-A No. 30100 of 2015 (Sukh Sagar Shukla Vs. State of U.P. and others).

4. Per contra, learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State has relied upon Regulations 351-AA and 919-A of the Civil Services Regulation as applicable in the State of U.P. and has submitted that Regulation 919-A (3) which categorically prohibits in categorical terms that no death-cum-retirement gratuity shall be paid to the Government servant until the conclusion of the departmental or judicial proceedings or the enquiry by the Administrative Tribunal and issue of final orders thereon.

5. Learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel for the State has relied upon the judgment of this Court in Writ-A No. 24624 of 2017 (Krishna Chandra Pandey Vs. State of U.P.), 2018 Law Suit (All.) 3834 and submits that relying upon the aforesaid regulation, this Court has held that the gratuity and regular pension cannot be accorded to the government servant till the pendency of the criminal proceedings. He has further relied upon the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Shivagopal and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2019 (5) ADJ 441 (FB) and submits that the Full Bench of this Court has categorically gone through the provisions of the aforesaid regulation and has concluded that the government servant/ pensioner would have to wait until final order is passed in judicial proceedings before claiming full pension and gratuity. In other words the cause to the government servant of taking remedy would arise after order of the competent authority is passed upon conclusion of the proceedings/ enquiry.

6. Having heard the rival submissions of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the relevant materials available on record. The relevant issue involved in this case is whether the government servant can claim release of gratuity and other retiral dues and the regular pension during the pendency of the criminal proceedings against him.

7. In Writ-A No. 15093 of 2020 (Devendra Kumar Sharma Vs. State of U.P. and others), considering the Full Bench of this Court in Shivagopal and others (supra), the Coordinate Bench of this Court has relied upon the observation made in para-39 of the Full Bench that only at the cost of serious crime, Regulation 919-A would apply and issued the directions to grant the gratuity etc. to the petitioner.

8. In Writ-A No. 10536 of 2021 (Arun Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others), another Coordinate Bench of this Court has relied upon the judgment in Writ-A No. 67791 of 2014 (Shiv Sewak Prasad Vs. State of U.P. and others) and has held that since no percuniary loss has been alleged in the criminal case, in such circumstances, the directions were issued to release the gratuity and other pensionary benefits to the petitioner, therein.

9. Writ-A No. 8039 of 2018 (Udai Veer Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others), Coordinate Bench of this Court has taken a view that due to long pendency of the criminal proceedings before the criminal court and since the petitioner was suffering from cancer and it was concluded that due to non conclusion of the criminal proceedings, petitioner cannot be made to suffer. Thus, the directions were issued to extent all retiral dues to the petitioner therein. However, it was further provided that in case of conviction in criminal case, authorities may recover the amount so paid to the petitioner. Against which Special Appeal Defective No. 859 of 2020 was filed which was dismissed vide order dated 24.11.2020. Against which Special Leave Petition was also filed which was dismissing inlimine.The judgment in Udai Veer Singh (supra) was passed in peculiar facts of the case and do not lay down any law.

10. Likewise, in Writ-A No. 17141 of 2012 (Deo Narain Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others), Coordinate Bench of this Court has held that since the petitioner was not an accused in the pending criminal proceedings, he was allowed to grant him pensionary benefits. Against the aforesaid judgment in Deo Narain Singh (supra), Special Appeal Defective No. 84 of 2013 was filed which was also dismissed vide order dated 24.1.2013.

11. Likewise, in Special Appeal Defective No. 440 of 2014 (State of U.P. and others Vs. Bal Kishan Tiwari), the Division Bench of this Court, having noted that since the criminal proceedings for the same allegations were also pending and the departmental proceedings were concluded and minor punishment was awarded to the petitioner and once for the same allegation, two proceedings are pending and the department ought to have waited for the final outcome of the proceedings, the decision thereafter to await the judgment of the trial on the same allegations, which may at best result into punishment to be awarded to the petitioner cannot be a ground on which pension and death-cum-retirement gratuity may be withheld.

12. Likewise, in Writ-A No. 26972 of 2013 (Santosh Kumar Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others), Coordinate Bench of this Court has allowed the writ petition despite the pendency of the criminal case and has directed that the gratuity amount to be released in favour of the petitioner alongwith interest. However, it is noteworthy that in the said judgment, the Coordinate Bench has not dealt with the provisions of Regulation 919-A of the Civil Services Regulation and the Special Appeal filed against the said judgment was also dismissed vide order dated 24.5.2016, without noticing the provisions of Regulation-919-A.

13. Likewise, in Writ-A No. 30100 of 2015 (Sukh Sagar Shukla Vs. State of U.P. and others), the Coordinate Bench of this Court has held that mere pendency of the criminal case before the trial court, does not entitled the authority to withhold the gratuity and leave encashment of the employee. In this case also the Division Bench has not noticed the provisions of Regulation 919-A.

14. In Shivagopal (supra), the Full Bench of this Court has observed as under:-

"31. On plain reading, Article 351 confers power upon the State Government of withholding or withdrawing pension or any part of it, if the pensioner be convicted of 'serious crime' or be guilty of grave misconduct. In other words the State Government can withhold or withdraw pension on two grounds: (i) convicted of serious crime; (ii) guilty of grave misconduct; but not otherwise. In other words mere pendency of criminal case or disciplinary proceedings is not sufficient to withhold/or withdraw pension under Article 351.

36. Expression 'serious crime' would include offences having dangerous possible consequences. Black Law Dictionary defines serious offence as violation of law that is significant in effect and carries more than a six months punishment.

37. Section 2 (54) of Juvenile Justice Act, 2015, defines 'serious offence':

"serious offences" includes the offences for which the punishment under the India Penal Code or any other law for the time being in force, is imprisonment between three to seven years."

38. The expression 'judicial proceedings' includes civil cases, plausible civil cases where pension can be withheld/withdrawn would include matrimonial disputes, succession cases, right and entitlement of spouses and their children, domestic violence, civil death etc. involving the government servant.

39. The expression 'serious crime' has to be understood in the context of service jurisprudence involving the government servant. It may be any act or omission which in the opinion of the competent authority is serious enough and calls for punitive action in terms of Article 351. It has no bearing with the quantum of sentence but with the nature of the offence and the degree of involvement of the government servant in the commission/omission of the crime.

40. Article 351-A empowers the Governor to withhold or withdraw pension or a part of it permanently or for specified period and order recovery from pension for pecuniary loss caused to the Government if the pensioner in departmental proceedings or in judicial proceedings, has been found: (i) guilty of grave misconduct or (ii) to have caused pecuniary loss to Government by misconduct or negligence during his service. The proviso to the Article spells out the circumstances/ conditions in which the departmental proceedings/judicial proceedings is required to be instituted for the purpose of withholding/withdrawing pension. Article 351-A reads thus:-

"351-A [substituted vide notification dated 6 September 1961]. The Governor reserves to himself the right of withholding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, whether permanently or for a specified period and the right of ordering the recovery from a pension of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to Government, if the pensioner is found in departmental or judicial proceedings to have been guilty of grave misconduct, or to have caused pecuniary loss to Government by misconduct or negligence, during his service, including service rendered on re-employment after retirement:

Provided that-

(a) such departmental proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during reemployment-

(i) shall not be instituted save with the sanction of the Governor. (ii) shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of such proceeding; and

(iii) shall be conducted by such authority and in such place or places as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made.

(c) the Public Service Commission, U.P. shall be consulted before final orders are passed.

[Provided further that of the order passed by the Governor relates to a cash dealt with under the Uttar Pradesh Disciplinary Proceedings,(Administrative Tribunal) Rules, 1947, it shall not be necessary to consult Public Service Commission].

Explanation-For the purposes of this article-

(a) Departmental proceeding shall be deemed to have been instituted when the charges framed against the pensioner are issued to him or, if the officer has been placed under suspension from an earlier date, on such date ; and

(b) judicial proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted:

(i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on the date on which complaint is made, or a charge-sheet is submitted, to a criminal Court ; and

(ii) in the case of civil proceedings, on the date on which the plaint is presented or, as the case may be, an application is made to Civil Court.

Note- As soon as proceedings of the nature referred to in this article are instituted the authority which institutes such proceedings shall without delay intimate the fact to the Audit Officer concerned."

"66. The question that arises is whether the government servant/pensioner can seek intervention at a stage before the competent authority has had the occasion to pass appropriate order upon conclusion of the disciplinary/ judicial proceedings/or enquiry by Administrative Tribunal. We are of the opinion that such a course is not available to the pensioner and if allowed would entail serious consequences, otherwise not mandated by the Regulations. It is not open to the government servant/pensioner, in view of the conjoint reading of the Articles to preempt the pending proceedings/enquiry by walking away with pension/gratuity without awaiting the outcome/conclusion of the disciplinary/judicial proceedings/enquiry. The competent authority upon conclusion of the proceedings would be in a position to apply its mind on the outcome of the proceedings/enquiry and pass order thereon either withholding/withdrawing/ reduction of pension or directing recovery of pecuniary loss from pension under Articles 351/ 351-A of the Civil Service Regulations.

67. Article 351-AA/919-A came to be incorporated later (1980), the rule making authority was fully aware of the existing provisions, in particular, Article 351/351-A, but the rule making authority, in view of the plain and unambiguous language used therein (Article 351-A), while incorporating Article 351-AA/919-A, did not consider it appropriate to mandate the release of full pension/gratuity to the government servant until conclusion of the proceedings. The entitlement to provisional pension and deferment of gratuity during pendency of the proceedings was not made subject to any further conditions at that stage. The stage was deferred until orders thereon was required to be passed by the competent authority recording satisfaction or otherwise upon conclusion of proceedings/enquiry.

69. It, therefore, follows that the stage of passing appropriate order under Article 351/351-A by the competent authority is mandated at the conclusion of the proceedings and certainly not at the stage during pendency of the disciplinary/judicial proceedings.The cause to the pensioner would arise after the order is passed by the competent authority upon conclusion of the proceedings and findings returned thereon. In the opinion of the competent authority if the pensioner is guilty of grave misconduct, or convicted of serious crime, or caused pecuniary loss, the consequence under Article 351/351-A would follow. The government servant/ pensioner would have to wait until such an order is passed before claiming full pension and gratuity. In other words the cause to the government servant of taking remedy would arise after order of the competent authority is passed upon conclusion of the proceedings/enquiry and not during pendency of the proceedings/enquiry."

15. The Full Bench of this Court has categorically dealt with the Regulations 351-A, 351-AA as well as Regulation -919 A and has finally concluded that the cause of action for passing the appropriate orders under Regulations-351 and 351-A would arise only after the conclusion of the proceedings before the criminal court or the judicial proceedings or the disciplinary proceedings and if the aforesaid proceedings are pending, the Government Servant would have to wait unless such an order is passed before claiming pension and gratuity in view of Regulations351-AA and 919-A .

16. In Krishna Chandra Pandey (supra) the Coordinate Bench of this Court has also dealt with the provisions of Regulations 351-AA and 919-A and has observed as under:-

[17] Firstly, the mere reference of a decision to a larger Bench for considering a perceived conflict does not detract from the dictum laid down therein. The principle, in law, as enunciated in the said decision continues to operate and bind this Court so long as it is not overruled. This was also the position propounded by the Supreme Court in Manager. National Insurance Company Ltd. Vs. Saju P. Paul 2013 2 SCC 41. Secondly, this Court notes that Bangali Babu Misra, Bal Krishna Tewari and Dr. Chandra Prakash perhaps, inadvertently, failed to notice the provisions of Regulations 351AA and 919A, which existed on the statute book at the time when these decisions were rendered. Thirdly and with respect to the view expressed in Kalika Prasad Yadav, this Court finds no conflict as such between Jai Prakash and Faini Singh. While Jai Prakash noticed the existence of the power vesting in the State to detain the release of gratuity and authorise payment of a provisional pension by virtue of the Regulations, noted above, Faini Singh only expanded upon the scope and the exercise of power thereunder. Faini Singh is not an authority for the proposition that gratuity cannot be withheld. It only elucidates the legal position that the power conferred by Regulations 351AA and 919A cannot be invoked mechanically or irrationally without adverting to circumstances, such as, the seriousness of the crime or charge levelled against the employee. It, principally, underlines the need for the power to be exercised bona fide, with due circumspection and application of mind. This is evident when the Division Bench observes, "The discretion given should not consume the power for which such discretion is to be exercised."

[18] It would also be relevant to note that the decisions in Jai Prakash and Faini Singh have also been followed by two learned Judges of the Court in two separate decisions, namely, Narendra Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. 2015 11 ADJ 237 and Surendra Pal Vs. State of U.P., 2016 1 ADJ 370 [LB].

[19] Having recognized the basic principles, which would govern the invocation of Regulation 919-A, this Court reverts to the facts of the present case. As noted above, the petitioner is charged of commission of serious offenses under the IPC. The provisions of the Prevention of Corruption Act have also been invoked against him. The petitioner has failed to establish from the material on record that the commission of these crimes is unrelated to the discharge of his duties as a government servant. Tested of the anvil of the principles enunciated in Jai Prakash and Faini Singh, this Court finds no ground to hold that the view taken by the respondents, to deny disbursal of complete benefits, merits interference. Bearing in mind the seriousness of the allegations and the nature of the criminal charges which the petitioner is facing, this Court finds that the action of the respondents, duly authorized by Regulations 351AA and 919-A, is justified and valid.

17. From the cumulative reading of the aforesaid judgments, it is apparent that the most of the judgments relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner do not deal with Regulations 351-

AA and 919-A of Civil Services Regulation and those orders were passed on the peculiar facts and circumstances of the case, though there is a reference of Regulation 919-A in the judgment of Arun Kumar Singh but the impact thereof has not been categorically dealt with in the said judgment. Thus, it is relevant to take note of the Regulations-351, 351-A and 351-AA and Regulation -919, which reads as under:-

"Regulation 351. Future good conduct is an implied condition of every grant of a pension. The State Government reserve to themselves the right of with holding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, if the pensioner be convicted of serious crime or be guilty of grave mis-conduct.

The decision of the State Government on any question of witholding or withdrawing the whole or any part of pension under this regulation shall be final and conclusive.

NOTE-This rule is applicable to all the officers enumerated in Article 349 except Army Veterinary officers of the Civil Veterinary Department.

Regulation 351-A The Governor reserves to himself the right of witholding or withdrawing a pension or any part of it, whether permanently or for a specified period and the right of ordering the recovery from a pension of the whole or part of any pecuniary loss caused to Government, if the pensioner is found in departmental or judicial proceedings to have been guilty of grave mis-conduct, or to have caused. Recuniary loss to government by misconduct or Negligence, during his service, including service rendered on re-employment after retirement;*

Provided that-

(a) such departmental proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment-

(i) shall not be instituted save with the sanction of the Governor,

(ii) shall be in respect of an event which took place not more than four years before the institution of such proceedings, and

(iii) shall be conducted by such authority and in such place or places as the Governor may direct and in accordance with the procedure applicable to proceedings on which an order of dismissal from service may be made.

(b) judicial proceedings, if not instituted while the officer was on duty either before retirement or during re-employment, shall have been instituted in accordance with sub-clause (ii) of clause (a), and

(c) the Public Service Commission, U.P., shall be consulted before final orders are passed.

Explanation-For the purposes of this article-

(a) departmental proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted when the charges framed against the pensioner are issued to him, or, if the officer has been placed under suspension from an earlier date, on such date; and

(b) judicial proceedings shall be deemed to have been instituted :

(i) in the case of criminal proceedings, on the date on which a complaint is made, or a charge-sheet is submitted, to a criminal court; and

(ii) in the case of civil proceedings, on the date on which the plaint is presented or, as the case may be, an application is made, to a civil court.

NOTE-As soon as proceedings of the nature referred to in this article are instituted the authority which institutes such proceedings shall without delay intimate the fact to the Audit Officer concerned.

Regulation 351-AA. In the case of a Government Servant who retires on attaining the age of superannuation or otherwise and against whom any departmental or Judicial proceedings or any enquiry by Administrative Tribunal is pending on the date of retirement or is to be instituted after retirement a provisional pension as provided in Regulation 919-A may be sanctioned.*

Regulation 919-A. (1) In case referred to in Regulation 351-AA the Head of Department may authorise the provisional pension equal to the maximum pension which would have been admissible on the basis of qualifying service upto the date of retirement of the Government servant or if he was under suspension on the date of retirement upto the date immediately preceding the date on which he was placed under suspension.*

(2) The provisional pension shall be authorised for the period commencing from the date of retirement upto and including the date on which after conclusion of departmental or judicial proceeding or the enquiry by the administrative Tribunal; as the case may be, final orders are passed by the competent authority.

(3) No death-cum-retirement gratuity shall be paid to the Government servant until the conclusion of the departmental or judicial proceedings or the enquiry by the Administrative Tribunal and issue of final orders thereon. (4) Payment of provisional pension made under clause (1) above shall be adjusted against final retirement benefits sanctioned to such Government servant upon conclusion of the proceedings or enquiry referred to in clause (3) but no recovery shall be made where the pension finally sanctioned is less than the provisional pension or withheld either permanently or for special period."

18. On plain reading of Regulation 351, it appears that Regulation-351 confers power on State Government for withholding or withdrawing the pension or any part of it, if the petitioner has committed serious crime or guilty of grave misconduct but not otherwise. Regulation 351 deals with the circumstances where the government servant has already been convicted or held guilty of grave misconduct.

19. Regulation 351-A empowers the Governor to withhold or withdraw pension or a part of it permanently or for specified period and order recovery from pension for pecuniary loss caused to the Government if the pensioner in departmental proceedings or in judicial proceedings, has been found: (i) guilty of grave misconduct or (ii) to have caused pecuniary loss to Government by misconduct or negligence during his service. The proviso to Regulation 351-A spells out the circumstances/ conditions in which the departmental proceedings/judicial proceedings is required to be instituted for the purpose of withholding/withdrawing pension.

20. Regulation 351-AA provides whether any departmental or Judicial proceedings or any enquiry by Administrative Tribunal is pending on the date of retirement or is to be instituted after retirement a provisional pension as provided in Regulation 919-A may be sanctioned. Regulation 919-A sub clause (1) enables the head of the department to provide the provisional pension to be released. Sub clause (2) provides that the provisional pension shall be authorised from the date of retirement till conclusion of the departmental or judicial proceedings as the case may be. Clause (3) of the Regulation 919-A provides that no Death-cum- retirement gratuity shall be paid to the government servant until the conclusion of the departmental or judicial proceedings or the inquiry by the administrative tribunal. Clause-(4) provides that an amount of the provisional pension shall be adjusted against the final retirement benefits on conclusion of the proceedings or inquiry. Thus, from the aforesaid reading of the provisions of Regulations 919-A and 351-AA, it is apparent that the provision for grant of provisional pension has already been made pending the judicial proceedings, departmental proceedings or the proceedings before the Tribunal, if any.

21. The facts of the instant case is that in the year 2008, petitioner was assigned the duty to escort the accused of the Gangster Court at Lucknow and the said accused had escaped from the custody of the petitioner and for the said action of the petitioner, a first information report being Case Crime No. 446 of 2008 under Sections 223/224 IPC, Police Station Wazeerganj, District Lucknow was lodged against the petitioner. Proceedings with regard to said criminal case is stated to be pending. However, for the said act of the petitioner, departmental proceedings were also initiated against the petitioner under Rule 14 (i) of 1991 Rules and finally the punishment order was passed on 5.10.2010, dismissing the petitioner from service.

22. Being aggrieved by the same, petitioner has approached the High Court and the writ petition filed by the petitioner was allowed vide judgment and order dated 10.4.2013 with liberty to the respondents to pass a fresh order after giving show cause notice to the petitioner with regard to the proposed punishment awarded to the petitioner. Pursuant to the aforesaid order, a show cause notice was issued to the petitioner and thereafter punishment order was passed on 26.9.2013 against the petitioner reverting him on minimum pay scale for a period of one year and thereafter vide Government Order dated 25.11.2013, petitioner was communicated that he is not entitled for the salary for the period between 5.10.2010 till 14.7.2013, during which period he has not performed any duty. Regulation 351-AA of the Civil Services Regulation provides that if any departmental or judicial proceedings are pending after the retirement of a government servant, only provisional pension as provided in Regulation 919-A may be sanctioned to such a government servant. Regulation 919-A categorically provides that no death-cum-retirement gratuity shall be paid to the Government servant until the conclusion of the departmental or judicial proceedings or the enquiry by the Administrative Tribunal and issue of final orders thereon.

23. In the instant case, though for the same allegations, the disciplinary proceedings as well as the criminal proceedings both were initiated against the petitioner and since the criminal proceedings could not be concluded for a long period, the disciplinary proceedings were concluded by the department and punishment order was passed which was initially set aside by the learned Single Judge on the ground that no show cause notice was issued to the petitioner after completion of inquiry and before passing the punishment order and the learned Single Judge has already given the liberty to issue show cause notice to the petitioner and pass a fresh order of punishment consequently, after giving show cause notice to the petitioner, therefore, the order of punishment has been passed whereby the punishment of reversion of minimum pay scale for a period of one year was awarded to the petitioner. However, undisputedly and admittedly the criminal proceedings are still pending against the petitioner with regard to the act of the petitioner i.e. due to negligence on the part of the petitioner, an accused of Gangster Act has absconded from the custody of the petitioner. The said offence may be of deliberate in nature on the part of the petitioner or an act of negligence on the part of the petitioner but the same is a very as it impacts the efficient administration of justice as a whole and such negligence may paralise the entire judicial as well as police administration. Thus the allegation against the petitioner is of very serious in nature and cannot be curtailed only to the negligence on the part of the petitioner and with regard to which criminal proceedings are still pending against the petitioner.

24. In the instant case, therefore, Regulations-351 and 351-A would not apply. Regulation 351-AA and Regulation 919-A would apply in the instant case which categorically provide that once criminal proceedings or judicial proceedings are pending against a government servant, during the pendency of such proceedings, only provisional pension shall be accorded to such government servant and gratuity and death-cum-retirement benefits cannot be released to such government servant against whom judicial proceedings are pending.

25. In the instant case, petitioner has already been released provisional pension and other benefits, however, the final retirement dues and gratuity etc. has not been paid to the petitioner for which the instant petition has been filed. In view of the categorical prohibition made in Clause-(3) of the Regulation 919-A, the petitioner, in the considered opinion of this Court, is not entitled for the release of the gratuity and final retirement dues and seriousness of the offence is an irrelevant fact with regard to the applicability of Regulation 919-A as well as Regulation 351-AA. Hence, the petitioner is not entitled for any relief, at this stage, till the conclusion of the proceedings in the pending criminal case against hence.

26. Accordingly, the instant writ petition fails and is hereby dismissed. However, the petitioner is at liberty to approach the respondents for release of the gratuity, subject to his acquittal in the said criminal case. In case of his acquittal, petitioner would be entitled for all retiral dues including gratuity etc.

THE HON'BLE CHANDRA KUMAR RAI, J.

Writ B No. 9029 of 1981

Ram Gopal ...Petitioner
Versus
A.D.C. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Scope of interference in the finding of facts recorded by the consolidation authorities in respect of determination of share of parties.
(2) Effect of dismissal of earlier suit against the petitioner.

Headnotes

(A) Consolidation law – UP Consolidation of Holding Act, 1953 – Ss. 9A(2), 11(1), 48 – Determination of share of parties – Finding of facts was recorded by the consolidation authorities – Scope of interference – Earlier the suit was dismissed against the petitioner vide order dated 20.12.1971, which has attained finality – Effect.

Held : The case of the petitioners-Ram Gopal Singh and others was considered by Deputy Director of Consolidation, recording finding of fact that order dated 20.12.1971 passed against the petitioners has attained finality against the petitioners, as such the claim of the petitioners cannot be allowed. The Consolidation Officer as well as Settlement Officer of Consolidation have also examined the case of petitioners while deciding the dispute relating to share between the parties – Considering the findings of fact recorded by consolidation authorities, there is no scope for interference by this Court against the impugned orders passed by consolidation authorities in the proceeding under Section 9-A(2) of U.P.C.H. Act. [Para 15 and 16] (E-1)

List of Acts

Case Arising From

Impugned orders dated 20.04.1981 passed by the Deputy Director of Consolidation, Impugned order dated 02.09.1974 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation and 13.12.1973 passed by the Consolidation Officer.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Shashi Kant Shukla, Sr. Adv.; Rajeev Trivedi, R.K. Pandey.
Advs. for the Respondents : Ram Raj Prajapati, Harihar Prasad Tripathi, N. B. Nigam, R. Dwivedi, SC, V. S. Dwivedi.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Shashi Kant Shukla, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Rajeev Trivedi, learned Counsel for the petitioners, Sri Ram Raj Prajapati, learned Counsel for private respondents and learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents.

2. Brief facts of the case are that dispute relates to share of the parties in respect to plots of khata nos. 20, 24, 39, 40, situated in village Kumhaupur, Pergana- Sumerpur, District Hamirpur. The particulars of plots in respect to aforementioned khata nos. 20, 24, 39, 40, basic year entry and objection/claim filed by the parties under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953 (hereinafter referred to as the "U.P. C.H. Act") for their share, are mentioned in paragraph nos. 2 to 8 of the writ petition. On the basis of the objection/claim filed by the parties, Consolidation Officer registered four cases which are as under:-

"(a) Case No.500 (Girand Singh vs. Balbir Singh)
(b) Case No.559 (Girand Singh vs. Balram Singh)
(c) Case No.503 (Ram Narain Singh vs. Ram Pyari)
(d) Case No.504 (Chandrabhan Singh vs. Sukhdeo)"

Consolidation Officer framed issues in the aforementioned cases and parties have adduced evidences in support of their cases. Consolidation Officer vide order dated 13.12.1973 decided the objection/case, deciding share of the parties. Against the order of the Consolidation Officer dated 13.12.1973 five appeals under Section 11(1) of the U.P. C.H. Act were filed before the Settlement Officer of Consolidation which were registered as under:-

"(a) Appeal No.330 filed by Ram Pyari
(b) Appeal No.332 filed by Girand Singh
(c) Appeal No.360 filed by Sheo Prasad
(d) Appeal No.361 filed by Sheo Prasad
(e) Appeal No.363 filed by Sheo Prasad"

Assistant Settlement Officer of Consolidation heard the aforementioned appeals and vide order dated 2.9.1974, allowed the appeals of Sheo Prasad and Ram Pyari and dismissed the appeal filed by Girand Singh and Others. Against the appellate order dated 2.9.1974, 9 revisions under Section 48 of the U.P. C.H. Act were filed before the Director of Consolidation which are as under:-

"(i) Revision No.1369/23 (Ram Gopal Singh and Others vs. Sukhdeo Singh and Others)
(ii) Revision No.1379/26 (Subedar Singh and Others vs. Mst. Ram Pyari and Others)
(iii) Revision No.1380/27 (Subedar Singh and Others vs. Mst. Ram Pyari and Others)
(iv) Revision No.1381/28 (Subedar Singh and Others vs. Mst. Ram Pyari and Others)
(v) Revision No.1382/29 (Mst Ram Pyari vs. Balbir Singh and Others)

(vi) Revision No.1545/37 (Balbir Singh and Others vs. Mst. Ram Pyari and Others)
(vii) Revision No.1633/42 (Mst Ram Pyari vs. Subedar Singh and Others)
(viii) Revision No.2322/121 (Maharaj Singh vs. Mst Ram Pyari Devi and Others
(ix) Revision No.2323/122 (Smt. Ghassi Kunwar vs. Shiv Prasad and Others)″

The aforementioned revisions were clubbed and heard together. The Assistant Director of Consolidation vide order dated 20.4.1981 dismissed the Revision Nos. 1369/23, 1382/29, 1633/42, 1545/37 and allowed the Revision Nos.1379/26, 1980/27, 1381/28, 2322/121 and 2323/122.

Hence, Writ B No.10204 of 1981 has been filed for the following relief:-

"(a) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari, quashing the judgments and orders passed by respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3 (Annexure Nos. 3, 2 & 1 respectively.

(b) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of mandamus, directing the respondent nos. 1, 2 & 3 to allot the petitioner, 1/3rd share or such other share which this Hon′ble Court deems fit and proper.″

Writ B No.9029 of 1981 has been filed for following relief:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari, quashing the orders dated 2.9.1974 (Annexure 5) and 20.4.1981 (Annexure 6) passed by respondent nos. 2 and 1 respectively and the order dated 13.12.1973 (Annexure 4), passed by the respondent no.3 so far as it relates to khata Nos. 39 & 40.″

Writ B No.9020 of 1981 has been filed for following relief:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari, quashing the orders dated 2.9.1974 (Annexure 5) and 20.4.1981 (Annexure 6) passed by respondent nos. 1 and 2 respectively and the order dated 13.12.1973 (Annexure 3), passed by the respondent no.3 so far as it relates to khata Nos. 20.″

Writ B No.9019 of 1981 has been filed for following relief:-

"Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of writ of certiorari, quashing the impugned orders dated 2.9.1974 (Annexure 2, passed by respondent no.2) and 20.4.1981 (Annexure 3, passed by respondent no.1).″

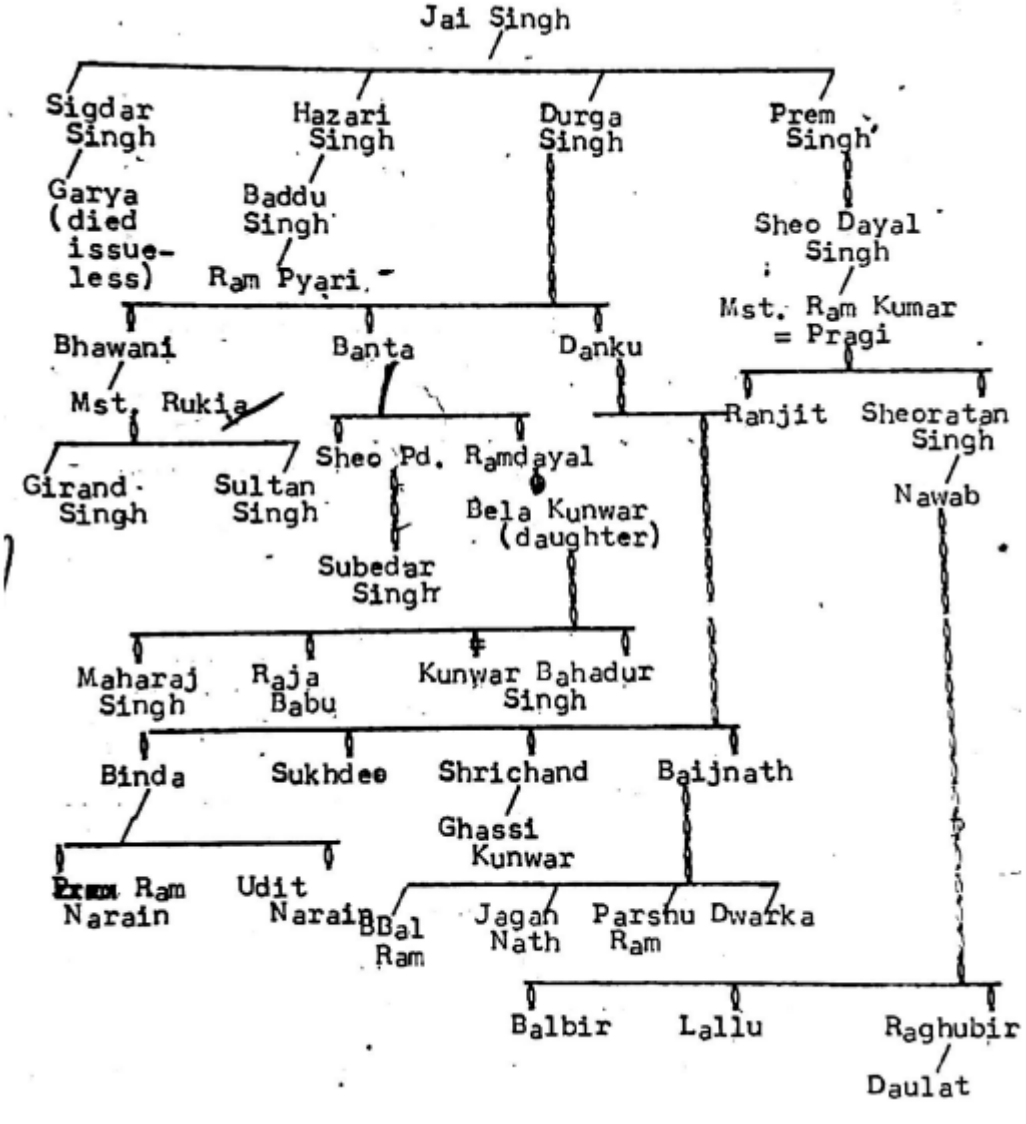
3. This Court admitted all the abovementioned four writ petitions and granted interim orders.

4. The parties have exchanged their pleading.

5. Writ-B No. 10204 of 1981 was heard on merit and same was dismissed by judgment dated 30.01.2026.

6. The instant petition was dismissed for non-prosecution on 30.01.2026 but on the restoration application, the instant petition has been restored to its original number and heard afresh.

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners submitted that Rukiya inherited the land belonging to Shri Bhawani Deen Singh in her lifetime as limited owner, as such she could surrender her interest in favour of her sons namely, Sultan Singh and Girand Singh, her nearest reversions under the personal law applicable on the relevant point of time. He further submitted that contesting respondents have admitted the share and possession of Sultan Singh and Girand Singh, but Assistant Director of Consolidation has failed to consider the admission of contesting respondents, which was neither withdrawn nor explained. He further submitted that the case of will was neither raised nor argued before the Assistant Director of Consolidation or any other Consolidation authority as such, the impugned order cannot be sustained in the eye of law. He further submitted that oral and documentary evidence on record fully demonstrate that Sultan Singh and Girand Singh were sons of Bhawani Deen Singh, as such they were entitled to inherit the land belonging to them but the Revisional Court has failed to consider the oral and documentary evidence in accordance with law. He submitted that the name of Sultan Singh and Girand Singh were ordered to be recorded in place of Bhawani Deen Singh vide order dated 15.05.1947 passed by Sub Divisional Officer, as such the same cannot be ignored by the consolidation authorities while deciding the title dispute under the U.P.C.H. Act. He further submitted that petitioner's claim under Section 9-A(2) of U.P.C.H. Act cannot be refused on the ground that earlier suits were dismissed vide order dated 20.12.1971, as the suits were not dismissed on merit. He further submitted that in the objection filed before Consolidation Officer against the basic year entry, all plots were mentioned in proper manner, but impugned orders have been passed by Revisional Court as well as Appellate Court in an illegal and arbitrary manner. He submitted that all the impugned orders should be set aside and claim of petitioner under Section 9-A(2) of U.P.C.H. Act should be allowed.



8. On the other hand, Learned Counsel for private respondents submitted that there is no illegality in the exercise of jurisdiction by the consolidation authorities so far as the claim of the petitioner is concerned. He submitted that finding of fact has been recorded by the Deputy Director of Consolidation while passing the impugned orders, as such no interference is required in the matter.

9. Learned Standing Counsel for the State respondents submitted that in view of the findings recorded by consolidation authorities, no interference is required and the instant writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

10. I have considered the arguments advanced by Learned Counsel for the parties and perused the record.

11. There is no dispute about the fact that title objections under Section 9-A(2) of the U.P. C.H. Act, title appeals under Section 11(1) of the U.P.C.H. Act and title revisions under Section 48 of the U.P. C.H. Act have been decided under the impugned orders, determining the share of the parties in respect to khata in dispute.

12. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, the pedigree of the parties as mentioned in the order of Consolidation Officer will be relevant which is as under:-

13. The perusal of relevant portion of order of Deputy Director of Consolidation will be necessary, which is as under:

" निगरानी संख्या 1369 / 23, राम गोपाल सिंह आदि बनाम सुखदेव सिंह आदि जो कि स०च०अ०च० अपील संख्या 332 के विरुद्ध खाता संख्या 20, 24 और 40 के विषय में दायर की गई है। जिसमें इनका मुख्यतम कथन है कि स०च०अ०च० ने कोई संकेत अपने आदेश में वसीयतनामा का नहीं

किया और न ही उसका विवेचन किया है, यद्यपि पूर्व निर्णित वादों में पक्षकारों द्वारा वसीयतनामे को स्वीकार भी किया गया था। वसीयतनामे के अनुसार निगरानीकर्तागण वारिस हुए हैं। यह भी कहा गया कि बंटवारे से संबंधित आदेश अंतिम नहीं है तथा सह-खातेदारों के अधिकार समाप्त नहीं हुए हैं। उनका आराजी निजाई 1/3 भाग है तथा वे सह-खातेदार हैं। पत्रावली का अवलोकन करने के पश्चात यह स्पष्ट है कि ना तो च०अ० के समक्ष और न तो स०च०अ०च० के ही समक्ष वसीयतनामा पर कोई बहस या सबूत अदालत में दी गयी। कोई ऐसा सबूत अदालत में नहीं है जिससे यह सिद्ध हो सके कि भवानीदीन सिंह को लड़की के लड़के तथा भवानीदीन की लड़की श्रीमती रूकिया भवानीदीन की मृत्यु के बाद जीवित थी। यह भी पता चलता है कि भवानीदीन सिंह की मृत्यु के बाद श्रीमती रूकिया ने हिस्सा लेने से इंकार कर दिया जबकि यह एक मात्र वारिस थी। यह सिद्ध है कि फरीकैन के बीच वसीयतनामा हुआ जो कि दिनांक 25.02.1927 का है। इससे यह सिद्ध है कि श्रीमती रूकिया ने हिस्सा लेने से इंकार किया है। वसीयतनामे के अवलोकन से यह सिद्ध है कि संबंधित ग्राम कुम्भपुर में कोई जमीन नहीं दी गयी और ना ही उसका कोई उल्लेख है। यहाँ तक कि क्षण भर को भी यह मान के चला जाए कि इस ग्राम में जमीन लड़कों को देने के लिए लिखी भी गयी, उल्लेखनीय है कि इसका इंद्राज कभी भी अभिलेखों में नहीं हुआ। यही कारण है कि रजिस्टर मलकाना में इसका उल्लेख नहीं है यहाँ यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि संबंधित ग्राम कुम्भपुर कई मोहाल है। इसी मुहाल जवाहर में जिससे संबंधित विवादित खाता संख्या 20 भी है। वही अन्य खाते भी हैं जिसमें भगवानदीन सिंह का नाम दर्ज है जिसकी पुष्टि खाता खेवट 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 में होता है। हर दशा में यह सिद्ध है कि इसका कोई इंदराज अभिलेखों में नहीं है। पत्रावली से यह भी स्पष्ट है कि सबूत का अभाव इस बिंदु पर रहा है, क्योंकि दिनांक 20.12.1971 को खारिज होने के बाद सक्षम अधिकारी के समक्ष कोई चाराजोही नहीं की गयी। अतएव कोई सबूत बाकी नहीं रहते है। हर दृष्टिकोण से पुनः परीक्षा करने के पश्चात निगरानी खारिज होने योग्य है।"

14. Perusal of revisional order as quoted above fully demonstrates that the case of the petitioners-Ram Gopal Singh and others was considered by Deputy Director of Consolidation, recording finding of fact that order dated 20.12.1971 passed against the petitioners has attained finality against the petitioners, as such the claim of the petitioners cannot be allowed. The Consolidation Officer as well as Settlement Officer of Consolidation have also examined the case of petitioners while deciding the dispute relating to share between the parties.

15 Considering the findings of fact recorded by consolidation authorities, there is no scope for interference by this Court against the impugned orders passed by consolidation authorities in the proceeding under Section 9-A(2) of U.P.C.H. Act.

16 No interference is required in the matter.

17. The instant writ petition is dismissed.

18. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of imposing surcharge after three years from the date of demitting the office of Pradhan.
(2) Overriding effect of the provision of Act to the provision of the Rules, if there is a conflict between the both.

Headnotes

(A) Recovery law – U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947 – S. 27, proviso – U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules, 1947 – Rules 256 and 257 – Pradhan – Surcharge – Imposition – Surcharge was challenged on the ground that it was not permissible after 3 years from the date of demitting the office – Applicability of IIIrd proviso to Rule 257(2) in the light of fact that it is in conflict with the proviso to Section 27 of the Act, felt in question .

Held : Of course, the provision in the 3rd proviso to Rule 257(2) is different and, according to it, no Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant, shall be liable for any loss, waste or misuse after the expiry of four years from the occurrence of such loss, waste or misuse or after expiry of three years from the date of his ceasing to be Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or Servant of the Gram Panchayat, whichever is later – Apparently, the 3rd proviso to Rule 257 or the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules 1947 is in conflict with the proviso to Section 27, which is the substantive provision governing the subject. [Para 5]

(B) Interpretation of law – Provision of Rules in conflict with the provision of Act – Overriding effect : (E-1)

Held : A Rule cannot supplant, supersede or be in conflict with the Act under which it has been framed. [Para 5]

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajan Roy, J.

1. This Special Appeal under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules 1952 has been filed challenging an interim order dated 17.06.2026 passed in Writ-C No. 6350/2026, by which while granting interim relief till the next date of listing and staying recovery of Rs. 4,38,104.00 in pursuance to the impugned order dated 16.01.2026, it has been further provided that the petitioner will deposit Rs. 2 lacs, within a period of 15 days.

2. Heard Sri Chanchal Kumar Pandey, Advocate, assisted by Sri Parijat Mishra Belaura, for the appellant, and Sri Badrish Tripathi, learned Addl. C.S.C. for the State.

3. The contention of the learned counsel for the appellant is that the appellant-Gram Pradhan demitted office in March 2026, therefore, in view of Rule 256, Read with Rule 257 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules 1947 such surcharge cannot be imposed after a period of 3 years from demitting office. In this regard reliance has been placed upon a Single Judge Bench decision dated 12.09.2024 passed in Writ-C No. 1000219 of 2006, Ram Lakhan Harshit v. D.M. Lucknow and ors., however, we find that the provision of surcharge is contained in Section 27 of the U.P. Panchayat Raj Act, 1947, which is the substantive provision and it reads as under:

"27. Surcharge. –

(1)Every Pradhan or [* ] [Omitted by U.P. Act No. 44 of 2007 (w.e.f. 20.08.2007).] of a [Gram Panchayat] [Substituted by ibid.], every member of a [Gram Panchayat] [Substituted by U.P Act No. 9 of 1994.] or of a Joint Committee or any other committee constituted under this Act [shall be liable to surcharge for the loss, waste or misapplication of money or property belonging to the Gram Panchayat, if such loss, waste or misapplication is direct consequence of his neglect or misconduct while he was such Pradhan or Member] [Substituted 'and every Sarpanch, Sahayak Sarpanch or Panch of a Nyaya Panchayat shall be liable to surcharge for the loss, waste or misapplication of money or property belonging to the Gram Panchayat or Nyaya Panchayat as the case may be, if such loss, waste or misapplication is direct consequence of his neglect or misconduct while he was such Pradhan, Member, Sarpanch, Sahayak Sarpanch or Panch:' by U.P. Act No. 6 of 2017.]Provided that such liability shall cease to exist after the expiration of ten years from the occurrence of such loss, waste or misapplication, or five years from the date on which the person liable ceases to hold his office, whichever is later*.(2)The prescribed authority shall fix the amount of the surcharge according to the procedure that may be prescribed and shall certify the amount to the collector who shall, on being satisfied that the amount is due, realise it as if it were an arrear of land revenue.(3)Any person aggrieved by the order of the prescribed authority fixing the amount of surcharge may, within thirty days of such order, appeal against the order of the State Government or such other appellate authority as may be prescribed.(4)Where no proceeding for fixation and realisation of surcharge as specified in sub-section (2) is taken the State Government may institute suit for compensation for such loss, waste or misapplication, against the person liable for the same."*

4. Under the proviso to Section 27, such liability to surcharge for loss, waste or misapplication of money or property belonging to the Gram Panchayat, as is referred in sub-Section (1) of Section 27, shall cease to exist after the expiration of a period of ten years from the occurrence of such loss, waste or misapplication, or five years from the date on which the person liable ceases to hold his office, whichever is later.

5. Of course, the provision in the 3rd proviso to Rule 257(2) is different and, according to it, no Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or servant, shall be liable for any loss, waste or misuse after the expiry of four years from the occurrence of such loss, waste or misuse or after expiry of three years from the date of his ceasing to be Pradhan, Up-Pradhan, Member, Officer or Servant of the Gram Panchayat, whichever is later, however, the law is settled that a Rule cannot supplant, supersede or be in conflict with the Act under which it has been framed. Apparently, the 3rd proviso to Rule 257 or the U.P. Panchayat Raj Rules 1947 is in conflict with the proviso to Section 27, which is the substantive provision governing the subject.

6. We have gone through the judgment of learned Single Judge passed in Writ-C No. 1000219 of 2006, Ram Lakhan Harshit v. D.M. Lucknow & ors., dated 12.09.2024, but find that the issue with which we are concerned, was not involved in the said case. In fact, the learned Single Judge while passing the impugned order did not notice the proviso to Section 27 of the U.P. Panchayati Raj Rules 1947. The State Government should look into the matter and remove this discrepancy as this may lead to unnecessary litigation.

7. In view of the aforesaid, we do not find merit in the submission of the appellant. The appeal is dismissed.

8. Sri Badrish Tripathi shall communicate our judgment to the A.C.S./Principal Secretary, Panchayat Raj, as the Rules cannot be in conflict with the substantive provision contained in the Act.

Special Appeal No. 301 of 2014

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Ranveer Singh ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of an appointment obtained by using a forged caste certificate to get the benefit of reservation.
(2) Effect of causing delay of about 15 years in holding the verification of genuineness of caste certificate.
(3) Jurisdiction of Single Judge Bench of 'Service matter' to decide the issue of classification of Caste.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Constitution of India – Article 311 – Dismissal from service – Charge of using the forged Caste Certificate – On verification, the employee was found belonging to 'Lodhi' by caste, however Caste Certificate of 'Lodh' was used to obtain appointment of the 'Bandi Rakshak' under Scheduled Tribe category – Result of the verification of caste certificate had attained finality as not being challenged before any forum – Effect – Writ Bench held that it was not a misconduct during his service and the action of the State was contrary to law as it failed to follow proper procedure like issuance of chargesheet and disciplinary proceedings – Validity challenged – Effect of causing delay of 15 years in getting verification also felt into consideration.

Held : Fraud vitiates all solemn acts and therefore, the appointment so sought by the petitioner on the basis of fraud becomes void ab initio and non-est. Any order which is de-hors the constitutional provision is an illegal order – Once a post is held by playing fraud then the incumbent would not be said to be holding a post within the meaning of Article 311 of the Constitution of India – Limitation in the event of fraud do not run and moreover when the fraud itself is surfaced, only then the action can be initiated against the incumbent. [Para 15, 17 and 22]

(B) Practice and procedure – Single Bench having been allotted the matter relating to the 'Service matter' – How far have jurisdiction to decide the issue of classification of caste and issuance of caste certificate : (E-1)

Held : The learned Single Judge who was having jurisdiction of 'service matters' has exceeded his jurisdiction by entering into the classification of caste vis-a-vis 'Lodhi' and 'Lodh' and thereafter holding both as synonyms and entitling the petitioner to seek benefit of reservation. [Para 26] (E-1)

Advs. for the Respondents : V.K. Singh, Sr. Adv.; Narendra Kumar Maurya; P.K. Chauhan, R.A. Verma, Yogendra Kumar.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Saran, J.)

1. Heard Sri Abhishek Kumar Srivastava, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the appellant and Sri V.K. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Narendra Kumar Maurya, Advocate for the respondent.

2. The instant intra-court special appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 01.07.2008 passed in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.585 of 2008 (Ranveer Singh v. State of U.P. and others) by which the learned Single Judge has quashed the termination order dated 28.11.2007 of the petitioner and has directed the respondent/appellant to give him continuity in service alongwith all other benefits including the seniority and arrears of salary.

3. Brief facts of the case are that the petitioner was appointed as Bandi Rakshak on 08.08.1992 under the reserved category of 'Scheduled Tribe' and thereafter he worked till the year 2007 when certain incumbents on strength of forged orders sought change of their Division. The then Director General, Jail Administration and Services, U.P. vide his letter dated 02.07.2007 directed physical verification of all the documents which had been submitted by the incumbents in Bandi Rakshak category at the time of entering into services to be verified. Thereafter the documents including the caste certificate of the petitioner by which reservation to the post was claimed were verified. The District Magistrate, Lucknow vide his communication dated 11.07.2007 informed that no such caste certificate was issued by the concerned officer to the petitioner but inadvertently in the said letter it was mentioned as 'Scheduled Caste' instead of 'Scheduled Tribe' which was corrected vide corrigendum letter dated 19.07.2007. Thereafter, the caste of petitioner as belonging to 'Lodh' caste was also verified from the office of District Magistrate, Mainpuri, where the petitioner was a permanent resident of and vide his letter dated 19.07.2007 the then District Magistrate informed on the basis of the report of the Tehsildar, Bhogaon dated 13.08.2007 that in the aforesaid village no person belonging to 'Lodh' caste resided and the petitioner was 'Lodhi' by caste. Once it was ascertained that the caste certificate was a forged and fabricated document then the respondent no.3 vide notice dated 01.08.2007 called upon the petitioner explaining his conduct of entering in services by playing fraud. The petitioner, however vide reply dated 12.08.2007 sought further time but thereafter did not appeared in the proceeding inspite of opportunity of personal hearing being afforded vide letter dated 28.11.2007 and publication of notice in the daily newspaper 'Dainik

Jagran' finally by order dated 28.11.007 passed by Senior Superintendent, Mandal Karagar, Moradabad, the petitioner was dismissed from service. And the appellant/respondent also lodged an FIR dated 25.07.2007 being Case Crime No.1289 of 2007 under Sections 420, 468, 467, 471 IPC at Police Station Civil Lines Sadar, District Moradabad. The petitioner/respondent approached this Court by filing a writ petition with following relief(s):

"a) issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the order dated 28.11.2007 passed by the Senior Superintendent, Mandal Karagar, Moradabad/Appointing Authority/Respondent No.3.

b)issue any other writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem to be fit and proper in the facts and circumstances of the case.

c) award costs of the petition in favour of the petitioner."

4. The learned Single Judge in his judgment has proceeded to hold that as the petitioner was appointed as 'Bandi Rakshak' vide order dated 08.08.1992 and therefore, proceeding being taken up after 15-16 years were unwarranted. The learned Single Judge further held that the alleged misconduct of the petitioner was while entering into the service, therefore, it was not a misconduct during his service and the action of the State without following proper procedure like issuance of chargesheet and disciplinary proceedings was contrary to law and no action against him could have been taken only on a show cause notice dated 01.08.2007. Learned Single Judge has further proceeded to hold that the petitioner belong to 'Lodhi' caste and 'Lodh' and 'Lodhi' are synonyms to each other as there was nothing on record to demonstrate otherwise, therefore the petitioner belonged to 'Scheduled Tribe' thereby was entitled of benefit of reservation.

5. Submission of the learned counsel for the appellant before this Court in appeal is that the petitioner was appointed as Bandi Rakshak vide order dated 08.08.1992 by a special drive taken up for the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes. He submits that for claiming the benefit of reservation in employment, the petitioner had submitted a caste certificate issued by the Tehsildar Sadar, Kaisar Bagh, Lucknow, certifying as belonging to 'Lodh' caste and was member of 'Scheduled Tribe', it was this certificate which on verification was found to be forged and fabricated, as not been issued by any Authority. He further submitted that once the caste certificate of the petitioner was found to be forged then the petitioner had no right to hold the post of Bandi Rakshak as he has sought appointment by playing fraud and it is settled law that fraud vitiates all solemn acts. He further submitted that the petitioner has not challenged the order/report by which caste certificate of the petitioner/respondent was found to be forged and fabricated before any court and is had attained finality and under such circumstances the dismissal order, impugned by the petitioner was absolutely justified. He further submits that neither the delay in getting the verification of records will not ipso facto extinguish the right of the respondents to verify the records submitted by the petitioners/respondents for procuring the appointment nor would operate as an estopple. He further submitted even otherwise, limitation would run from the time fraud played by the petitioners came to be known. He further submitted that the learned Single Judge had traveled beyond its jurisdiction by adjudicating the issue of caste and holding that 'Lodhi' and 'Lodh' caste are synonyms and were a scheduled tribe, as the learned Single Judge while hearing the matter was having a jurisdiction in 'service matters' alone and not other misc. matters.

6. Per contra, the learned Senior Court representing the petitioner/respondent had with vehemence submitted that the finding returned by the learned Single Judge are based on cogent reasons and do not require any inference in appeal. He further submits that the petitioner had already worked for a substantial length and any action would be determined in his interest.

7. Heard the rival contentions of the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

8. The sole issue before this Court in the appeal is as to whether a detailed disciplinary enquiry was required to be conducted prior to passing of the order of dismissal of the petitioner from service?

9. It is not in dispute that the petitioner was appointed on 08.08.1992 under the 'Scheduled Tribe' category by the respondents. The petitioner thus in order to seek benefit of reservation must establish that he belonged to scheduled tribe or otherwise would be ineligible for the post.

10. It is also not in dispute that the outcome of verification of the caste certificate of the petitioner as communicated vide letter dated 11.07.2007 of the District Magistrate, Lucknow and the corrigendum letter dated 19.07.2007 and also the outcome of enquiry conducted by the Tehsildar Bhogaon, District Mainpuri, as communicated vide letter dated 19.09.2007 of the SDM, Mainpuri was never challenged by the petitioner and thus their correctness have became final. In the writ petition the only relief prayed was for quashing of the order dated 28.11.2007 by which the petitioner was dismissed from service.

11. Before this Court in the writ petition, the petitioner/respondent had denied submission of the caste certificate. This stand before this Court may have been taken by the writ petition in order to nullify the effect of the verification of his caste certificate. From the record this Court finds that the petitioner/respondent by letter dated 22.06.2007 to the Senior Superintendent, District Jail, Moradabad had stated that he belonged to 'Lodh' caste, also called as 'Lodhi' and which is scheduled tribe and requested the Authority to consider it and to ignore the caste certificate issued by Tehsildar, Lucknow. The relevant extract of letter of petitioner/respondent is reproduced below:

"अतः श्रीमान जी से निवेदन है कि प्रार्थी के द्वारा भेजे गये तहसील भोगॉव जिला मैनपुरी द्वारा जारी प्रमाण पत्र को ही मान्यता दी जाये और पूर्व मे जारी नगर लखनऊ तहसील द्वारा प्रमाण पत्र को मान्यता न दी जाये तथा यदि प्रार्थी के विरूद्ध कोई कार्यवाही की जाये तो उसे प्रार्थी को पूर्व में लिखित रूप में सूचित करने की कृपा करें।"

12. And even in reply dated 12.08.2007 of the petitioner there is no categorical denial of the submission of the caste certificate by the petitioner.

13. We find force in the submission of the learned Standing Counsel for the State/Appellant that unless a caste certificate was furnished by the petition, no benefit of reservation could have been claimed or given in public employment. Learned counsel for the petitioner/respondent has not been able to show any such rule or authority to the effect that the petitioner/respondent could have claimed the benefit of reservation in public employment without submitting a caste certificate. Thus, the denial by the petitioner before this Court of not having submitted the caste certificate cannot be accepted.

14. The inevitable consequence on finding the caste certificate as forged and fabricated document (as not being issued by the authority) would be that the petitioner had played fraud in securing the appointment under the reserved category and he would be ineligible to the post and the appointment order dated 08.08.1992 would be an illegal order.

15. It is settled law that fraud vitiates all solemn acts and therefore, the appointment so sought by the petitioner on the basis of fraud becomes void ab initio and non-est. Any order which is de-hors the constitutional provision is an illegal order.

16. Hon'ble Supreme Court inre: United India Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Rajendra Singh reiterated that fraud unravels everything and has observed as follows:-

"3. Fraud and justice never dwell together (Fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant) is a pristine maxim which has never lost its temper over all these centuries. Lord Denning observed in a language without equivocation that "no judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud, for, fraud unravels everything……"

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court inre: Union of India and others v. Prohlad Guha has held that fraud is established by the conduct of the person committing it, which may be evidenced through words. It has been further held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India (Supra) that once a post is held by playing fraud then the incumbent would not be said to be holding a post within the meaning of Article 311 of the Constitution of India. Relevant paragraph of the judgment is as follows:

"20. Fraud and collusion vitiate even the most solemn proceedings in any civilised system of jurisprudence. It is a concept descriptive of human conduct. Michael Levi likens a fraudster to Milton's sorcerer, Comus, who exulted in his ability to, 'wing me into the easy-hearted man and trap him into snares'. It has been defined as an act of trickery or deceit. In Webster's Third New International Dictionary fraud in equity has been defined as an act or omission to act or concealment by which one person obtains an advantage against conscience over another or which equity or public policy forbids as being prejudicial to another. In Black's Legal Dictionary, fraud is defined as an intentional perversion of truth for the purpose of inducing another in reliance upon it to part with some valuable thing belonging to him or surrender a legal right; a false representation of a matter of fact whether by words or by conduct, by false or misleading allegations, or by concealment of that which should have been disclosed, which deceives and is intended to deceive another so that he shall act upon it to his legal injury. In Concise Oxford Dictionary, it has been defined as criminal deception, use of false representation to gain unjust advantage; dishonest artifice or trick. According to Halsbury's Laws of England, a representation is deemed to have been false, and therefore a misrepresentation, if it was at the material date false in substance and in fact. .....From dictionary meaning or even otherwise fraud arises out of deliberate active role of representator about a fact which he knows to be untrue yet he succeeds in misleading the representee by making him believe it to be true. The representation to become fraudulent must be of a fact with knowledge that it was false.

"....The colour of fraud in public law or administrative law, as it is developing, is assuming different shades. It arises from a deception committed by disclosure of incorrect facts knowingly and deliberately to invoke exercise of power and procure an order from an authority or tribunal. It must result in exercise of jurisdiction which otherwise would not have been exercised. That is misrepresentation must be in relation to the conditions provided in a section on existence or non-existence of which power can be exercised."

13.1 The words of Denning L.J. in Lazarus Estates Ltd. v. Beasley are of importance qua the impact of fraud. He wrote – "....I cannot accede to this argument for a moment. No Court in this land will allow a person to keep an advantage he has obtained by fraud. No judgment of a Court, no order of a Minister, can be allowed to stand if it has been obtained by fraud. Fraud unravels everything. The Court is careful not to find fraud unless it is distinctly pleaded and proved; but once it is proved, it vitiates judgment, contract and all transactions whatsoever…."

13.2 'Fraud' is conduct expressed by letter or by word, inducing the other party to take a definite stand as a response to the conduct of the doer of such fraud. [See; Derry v. Peek; Ram Preeti Yadav v. U.P. Board of High School of Intermediate Education]

13.3 In R. Vishwanatha Pillai v. State of Kerala & Ors., a Bench of three learned Judges observed that a person who held a post which he had obtained by fraud, could not be said to be holding a post within the meaning of Article 311 of the Constitution of India. In this case, a person who was not a member of Scheduled Castes, obtained a false certificate of belonging to such category and, as a result thereof, was appointed to a position in the Indian Police Service reserved for applicants from such category.

14. The above discussion reiterates that fraud vitiates all proceedings. Compassionate appointment is granted to those persons whose families are left deeply troubled or destitute by the primary breadwinner either having been incapacitated or having passed away. So when persons seeking appointment on such ground attempt to falsely establish their eligibility, as has been done in this case, such positions cannot be allowed to be retained. So far as the submission of non-compliance of the Rules is concerned, the judgment in Vishwanatha Pillai (supra) answers the question. The respondent-employees in the present case, having obtained their position by fraud, would not be considered to be holding a post for the purpose of the protections under the Constitution. We are supported in this conclusion by the observations made in Devendra Kumar v. State of Uttaranchal18. In paragraph 25 thereof it was observed-

"25. More so, if the initial action is not in consonance with law, the subsequent conduct of a party cannot sanctify the same. Sublato fundamento cadit opus - a foundation being removed, the superstructure falls. A person having done wrong cannot take advantage of his own wrong and plead bar of any law to frustrate the lawful trial by a competent court. In such a case the legal maxim nullus commodum capere potest de injuria sua propria applies. The persons violating the law cannot be permitted to urge that their offence cannot be subjected to inquiry, trial or investigation. (Vide Union of India v. Major General Madan Lal Yadav [(1996) 4 SCC 127 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 592 : AIR 1996 SC 1340] and Lily Thomas v. Union of India [(2000) 6 SCC 224 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 1056] .) Nor can a person claim any right arising out of his own wrongdoing (jus ex injuria non oritur).

(Emphasis supplied)

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court inre:Vishwanatha Pillai v. State of Kerala & Ors. (2004) 2 SCC 105 has held that once a post is held by playing fraud then the incumbent would not be said to be holding a post within the meaning of Article 311 of the Constitution of India. Relevant paragraph no.15 of the judgment is quoted hereunder:

"This apart, the appellant obtained the appointment in the service on the basis that he belonged to a Scheduled Caste community. When it was found by the Scrutiny Committee that he did not belong to the Scheduled Caste community, then the very basis of his appointment was taken away. His appointment was no appointment in the eyes of law. He cannot claim a right to the post as he had usurped the post meant for a reserved candidate by playing a fraud and producing a false caste certificate. Unless the appellant can lay a claim to the post on the basis of his appointment he cannot claim the constitutional guarantee given under the Article 311 of the Constitution. As he had obtained the appointment on the basis of a false caste certificate he cannot be considered to be a person who holds a post within the meaning of Article 311 of the Constitution of India……

19. A similar view was also taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court inre: State of Chhattisgarh and others vs. Dhirjo Kumar Sengar. The relevant observations are in paragraph 19 of the judgment which is as follows:

"19. The respondent keeping in view the constitutional scheme has not only committed a fraud on the Department but also committed a fraud on the Constitution. As commission of fraud by him has categorically been proved, in our opinion, the principles of natural justice were not required to be complied with."

20. In the case in hand the petitioner has not obtained a valid certificate by furnishing incorrect information but he has altogether furnished a forged and fabricated certificate which was never issued.

21. The respondents issued notice dated 01.08.2007 to the petitioner to submit his explanation. The petitioner/respondent in response to the same submitted his reply dated 12.08.2007 wherein he stated to belong to 'Lodhi' caste which in Mainpuri is a scheduled tribe and requested to drop the proceedings and also stated that a full fledged inquiry be conducted and he be given all documents but did not categorically replied to the show cause notice. Thereafter again by notice dated 19.10.2007 another notice was issued attending personal hearing to the petitioner fixing 06.11.2007, this letter was issued on 24.10.2007 but he did not come. Thus given a last opportunity to the petitioner/respondent a notice was got published in the local daily Dainik Jagran, in its Moradabad and Agra Editions on 17.11.2007 and 18.11.2007 respectively indicating the date fixed as 23.11.2007 at 11 AM. However, the petitioner did not respond and consequently on 23.11.2007 the order impugned was passed. There was no requirement to initiate any departmental disciplinary proceedings prior to passing of the order as the appointment order dated 08.08.1992 being an illegal order.

22. Further the question regarding delay in getting the verification itself cannot be detrimental or have not an impact on the issue of fraud as it is settled day that limitation in the event of fraud do not run and moreover when the fraud itself is surfaced, only then the action can be initiated against the incumbent. In the instant case although no verification of records of the petitioner were not conducted in the year 1992 that is while entering into service but subsequently in the year 2007 when other forged documents regarding transfer were furnished, the Director General directed verification of the records and such a verification of records belatedly cannot validate a fraud committed by the petitioner.

23. Hon'ble Supreme Court inre: State of Bihar v. Devendra Sharma while dealing with issue of entitlement of salary and other benefits to an incumbent whose appointment is found to be obtained by fraud approving the Full Bench decision of Patna High Court vide its paragraph no.37 has held that:

"37) Such judgment of the Full Bench was approved by three Judge Bench of this Court in a Judgment reported R. Vishwanatha Pillai v. State of Kerala & Ors.((2004) 2 SCC 105: 2004 SCC (L & S) 350. This Court held as under:

"17. The point was again examined by a Full Bench of the Patna High Court in Rita Mishra v. Director, Primary Education (1987 SCC OnLine Pat 159). The question posed before the Full Bench was whether a public servant was entitled to payment of salary to him for the work done despite the fact that his letter of appointment was forged, fraudulent or illegal. The Full Bench held:

"13. It is manifest from the above that the rights to salary, pension and other service benefits are entirely statutory in nature in public service. Therefore, these rights, including the right to salary, spring from a valid and legal appointment to the post. Once it is found that the very appointment is illegal and is non est in the eye of the law, no statutory entitlement for salary or consequential rights of pension and other monetary benefits can arise. In particular, if the very appointment is rested on forgery, no statutory right can flow from it."

24. In view of the aforesaid discussion this Court is of the considerate opinion that as the petitioner had practiced fraud in seeking his appointment under the reserved category and as the result of the verification of his caste certificate had attained finality as not being challenged before any forum. The order of appointment dated 08.08.1992 is illegal and non-nest and the respondent/appellant have rightly adopted the procedure of issuing notice to the petitioner/respondent to show cause, prior to passing the order impugned. The issue is thus decided accordingly.

25. We find force in the submission of the learned Standing Counsel that the learned Single Judge who was having jurisdiction of 'service matters' has exceeded his jurisdiction by entering into the classification of caste vis-a-vis 'Lodhi' and 'Lodh' and thereafter holding both as synonyms and entitling the petitioner to seek benefit of reservation.

26. With due regards we find that the judgments relied up by the learned Single Judge are not applicable in the facts of case of the petitioner/respondent, as his appointment was obtained by practicing fraud.

27. Thus in view of the aforesaid discussions, appeal succeeds and is allowed. The judgment and order 01.07.2008 passed by the learned Single Judge in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.585 of 2008 (Ranveer Singh v. State of U.P. and others) is hereby set aside and the writ petition is accordingly, dismissed. The order impugned dated 28.11.2007 is affirmed.

28. Since the petitioner has worked during the pendency of the appeal before this Court without there being any interim order therefore the salary and other emoluments already paid to the petitioner, pursuant to his working, shall not be recovered.

Special Appeal No. 400 of 2026

Sanjay Agrawal ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Maintainability of Special Appeal against the non-speaking Judgment of the Single Bench, passed in violation of principle of natural justice.

Headnotes

(A) Practice and Procedure – Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 – Ch. VIII, R. 5 – Special Appeal – Maintainability – Bar under the Rules, when not applies – Judgment of the Single Bench was a non-speaking judgment – Principle of natural justice – Facet and application.

Held : The bar created by Rule 5 must yield to the foundational principles of 'natural justice', namely the right to be heard and right to a fair hearing and that Rule 5 has to be read and understood in a manner that advances the cause of 'access to justice' and not thwart it – Passing of a speaking order or the necessity to record reasons has been held to be a facet of natural justice – The order passed by learned Single Judge is ex facie non-speaking, inasmuch as there is absolutely no discussion worth the name either on the facts or orders impugned or the judgement relied upon or as to how the impugned orders were contrary to the judgement cited and even the aspect as to whether the writ petition has been allowed or disposed of, has not been indicated. Judgment and order dated 24.02.2026 passed by Single Judge Bench in Writ C No. 140 of 2026.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant : Aklank Kumar Jain
Advs. for the Respondents : J.P. Singh, Ratnesh Pratap Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arun Bhansali, C.J.)

1. This appeal is directed against order dated 24.02.2026 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 140 of 2026, whereby the learned Single Judge, on finding that the appellate authority did not consider the position of law correctly, set aside the orders dated 18.09.2025 and 09.10.2025 passed by Commissioner, Agra Division, Agra and remitted the matter back to the appellate authority to decide afresh.

2. The writ petition was filed by the respondent-Committee of Management through its President Shri Niwas questioning the validity of the order dated 12.03.2019 passed by Deputy Registrar, Agra and orders dated 18.09.2025 and 09.10.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Agra Division, Agra. By order dated 12.03.2019, the Deputy Registrar has passed the order cancelling the registration of the Society under Section 12-D(1)(c) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860, the appellate authority, by order dated 18.09.2025, dismissed the appeal and by order dated 09.10.2025, it dismissed the review application.

3. When the matter came up before the learned Single Judge, after hearing the counsel for the respondent-Committee of Management through its President as well as the appellant herein, the learned Single Judge came to the conclusion that position of law as laid down in Laljimal Dharamshala Society and another Vs. The Commissioner Agra Division Agra and others: 2020:AHC:12586 was not considered correctly by the appellate authority and consequently, passed the order impugned setting aside the order passed on appeal as well as review petition and remitted the matter back to the appellate authority to decide afresh. Feeling aggrieved, the present appeal has been filed.

4. At the outset, counsel for the respondent raised preliminary objection that the appeal is not maintainable under Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 ('Rules, 1952') inasmuch as the writ petition was filed against the order passed by the appellate authority and provisions of Rule 5 clearly bar special appeal against orders passed by learned Single Judge in such matters and therefore, the appeal deserves to be dismissed. Reliance was placed on judgement in Vajara Yojna Seed Farm, Kalyanpur (M/s.) and others Vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court II, U.P., Kanpur and another : (2003) 1 UPLBEC 496, Committee of Management and another Vs. State of U.P. and others : 2025 (10) ADJ 218 (DB) and Subhanti Rai and 5 others Vs. Committee of Management of Van Awadh Gram Shiksha Mandal District Mau and 19 others : 2025:AHC:29061-DB.

5. Counsel for the appellant made vehement submissions that a bare look at the order impugned would reveal that learned Single Judge has failed to record any reasons for setting aside the orders impugned in the writ petition and even the fact as to whether the petition has been allowed or disposed of, has not been indicated and therefore, to contend that against order of present nature, special appeal would not be maintainable, is wholly unjustified. Attempts were made to make submissions with reference to the facts of the case by contending that the orders passed by the appellate authority on appeal as well as review petition were justified and that the judgement in the case of Laljimal (supra) relied on by learned Single Judge had no application to the facts of the case. Strong reliance was placed on Supreme Court judgement in Abhishek Gupta Vs. Dinesh Kumar and others : 2025 INSC 1406.

6. The parties were heard on the maintainability of the appeal. It would be appropriate to quote the order passed by learned Single Judge, which reads as under:-

"1. Heard Sri J.P. Singh, learned counsel for petitioners and Sri V. Singh, Advocate for Respondent-4.

2. At this stage, I find that Appellate Authority has not considered the position of law correctly while deciding appeal of petitioners (See, Laljimal Dharamshala Society and another vs. The Commissioner Agra Division Agra and others, 2020:AHC:12586).

3. Therefore, orders dated 18.09.2025 and 09.10.2025 passed by Commissioner, Agra Division, Agra are hereby set aside and the matter is remitted back to Appellate Authority to decide afresh. Petitioners are granted liberty to raise supplementary grounds on fact as well as on law so that Appellate Authority may decide appeal afresh expeditiously."

7. A perusal of the order passed by learned Single Judge reveals that not a word has been indicated regarding the facts of the case, the orders impugned before the learned Single Judge and as to what law had been laid down in the case of Laljimal (supra) and how the orders passed by the appellate authority on appeal and review petition were contrary to the said judgement. Further, as to whether the petition has been allowed or disposed of, has not even been indicated. The only indication made is that the orders dated 18.09.2025 and 09.10.2025 passed by the Commissioner, Agra Division, Agra are set aside and the matter is remitted back to the appellate authority to decide afresh.

8. Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the Rules, 1952 reads as under:-

"5. Special appeal :- An appeal shall lie to the Court from a judgment (not being a judgment passed in the exercise of appellate jurisdiction) in respect of a decree or order made by a Court subject to the superintendence of the Court and not being an order made in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction or in the exercise of its power of superintendence or in the exercise of criminal jurisdiction or in the exercise of the jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or Article 227 of the Constitution in respect of any judgment, order or award (a) of a tribunal, Court or statutory arbitrator made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction under any Uttar Pradesh Act or under any Central Act, with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, or (b) of the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any such Act of one Judge."

9. On a first blush and settled legal position as reflected in judgements in the case of Vajara Yojna Seed Farm (supra) and Sheet Gupta Vs. State of U.P. and others : AIR 2010 All. 46

(FB) and plain reading of the provisions, the appeal having been filed against the order passed by learned Single Judge in the exercise of jurisdiction conferred by Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India in respect of judgement of the authority made in exercise of appellate jurisdiction under any State Act, the same would be barred.

10. However, Supreme Court in the case of Abhishek Gupta (Supra), after taking into consideration the provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 and Full Bench judgement in the case of Sheet Gupta (supra), inter alia, came to the following conclusion:-

"15. Although Rule 5, inter alia, ordains that no Special Appeal shall lie from an order passed by a Single Judge of the High Court in writ proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution where an appellate/revisional order of the Government or any officer or authority under any of the specified enactments is under challenge, in our considered opinion, Rule 5 has to be read and understood in a manner that advances the cause of "access to justice" and not thwart it. The object and purpose behind enactment of Rule 5 have to be borne in mind while embarking on its interpretation. The object seems to be that when two tiers of adjudication - quasi-judicial and judicial - are available, i.e., (i) a determination by the appellate/ revisional forum under a specified Central/State legislation on a particular lis raised by a party and defended by the adversary at the first instance, is (ii) followed by an adjudication by a Single Judge on a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution as to whether such appellate/revisional order is legal, valid or proper, a third tier for ruling on the same lis in the shape of a special appeal before the Division Bench ought not to be made available to the aggrieved party. The purpose is clear: to achieve a sort of finality at the level of the High Court and not to add to the agony of the concerned litigant. The unwritten rule is that any party aggrieved by the adjudication made by the Single Judge will have to seek remedy under Article 136 of the Constitution before this Court or seek a review under the High Court's inherent jurisdiction.

16. In the circumstances before us, the bar created by Rule 5 must yield to the foundational principles of natural justice, namely, the right to be heard and the right to a fair hearing. It is trite law that the principle of non-joinder, though originating from the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, applies with equal force to writ proceedings. An order passed in writ jurisdiction without impleading an affected or necessary party is liable to be invalidated on that ground alone. Since the courts exist to administer justice, the rigours of Rule 5 would not apply and stand relaxed in a case of the present nature where the order under challenge is one, passed by a Single Judge on a petition under Article 226 of the Constitution, adversely affecting the rights of a party who was not a party-respondent before the Single Judge."

11. Supreme Court observed that the bar created by Rule 5 must yield to the foundational principles of "natural justice", namely the right to be heard and right to a fair hearing and that Rule 5 has to be read and understood in a manner that advances the cause of "access to justice" and not thwart it.

12. As noticed herein before, the order passed by learned Single Judge is ex facie non-speaking, inasmuch as there is absolutely no discussion worth the name either on the facts or orders impugned or the judgement relied upon or as to how the impugned orders were contrary to the judgement cited and even the aspect as to whether the writ petition has been allowed or disposed of, has not been indicated.

13. Passing of a speaking order or the necessity to record reasons has been held to be a facet of natural justice. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kranti Associates Private Limited and another Vs. Masood Ahmed Khan and others : (2010) 9 SCC 496 has laid down the parameters with regard to the requirement of a reasoned or speaking judicial, quasi judicial or even administrative order, which read as under:-

"47. Summarizing the above discussion, this Court holds:

(a) In India the judicial trend has always been to record reasons, even in administrative decisions, if such decisions affect anyone prejudicially.

(b) A quasi-judicial authority must record reasons in support of its conclusions.

(c) Insistence on recording of reasons is meant to serve the wider principle of justice that justice must not only be done it must also appear to be done as well.

(d) Recording of reasons also operates as a valid restraint on any possible arbitrary exercise of judicial and quasi-judicial or even administrative power.

(e) Reasons reassure that discretion has been exercised by the decision maker on relevant grounds and by disregarding extraneous considerations.

(f) Reasons have virtually become as indispensable a component of a decision making process as observing principles of natural justice by judicial, quasi-judicial and even by administrative bodies.

(g) Reasons facilitate the process of judicial review by superior Courts.

(h) The ongoing judicial trend in all countries committed to rule of law and constitutional governance is in favour of reasoned decisions based on relevant facts. This is virtually the life blood of judicial decision making justifying the principle that reason is the soul of justice.

(i) Judicial or even quasi-judicial opinions these days can be as different as the judges and authorities who deliver them. All these decisions serve one common purpose which is to demonstrate by reason that the relevant factors have been objectively considered. This is important for sustaining the litigants' faith in the justice delivery system.

(j) Insistence on reason is a requirement for both judicial accountability and transparency.

(k) If a judge or a quasi-judicial authority is not candid enough about his/her decision making process then it is impossible to know whether the person deciding is faithful to the doctrine of precedent or to principles of incrementalism.

(l) Reasons in support of decisions must be cogent, clear and succinct. A pretence of reasons or `rubber-stamp reasons' is not to be equated with a valid decision-making process.

(m) It cannot be doubted that transparency is the sine qua non of restraint on abuse of judicial powers. Transparency in decision-making not only makes the judges and decision-makers less prone to errors but also makes them subject to broader scrutiny. (See David Shapiro in Defence of Judicial Candor (1987) 100 Harward Law Review 731-737).

(n) Since the requirement to record reasons emanates from the broad doctrine of fairness in decision-making, the said requirement is now virtually a component of human rights and was considered part of Strasbourg Jurisprudence. See Ruiz Torija Vs. Spain (1994) 19 EHRR 553, at 562 para 29 and Anya vs. University of Oxford, 2001 EWCA Civ 405, wherein the Court referred to Article 6 of European Convention of Human Rights which requires, "adequate and intelligent reasons must be given for judicial decisions".

(o) In all common law jurisdictions judgments play a vital role in setting up precedents for the future. Therefore, for development of law, requirement of giving reasons for the decision is of the essence and is virtually a part of "Due Process".”

14. As noticed herein before, Supreme Court in the case of Abhishek Gupta (supra) has laid down that the bar created by ‘Rule 5 of the Rules, 1952 must yield to the foundational principles of natural justice’, the very fact that the order impugned is non-speaking and does not contain any reasons, in the light of the observations made by Supreme Court, the present appeal against such an order would be maintainable and the preliminary objection raised in this regard cannot be sustained.

15. So far as the judgements in the case of Vajara Yojna Seed Farm (supra), Committee of Management (supra) and Subhanti Rai (supra) cited by counsel for the respondent are concerned, the said judgements did not deal with the aspect of a non-speaking order passed by learned Single Judge and as Supreme Court in the case of Abhishek Gupta (supra) has taken into consideration the Full Bench judgement in the case of Sheet Gupta (supra), and has categorically carved out an exception despite plain reading of the provisions of Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the Rules, 1952, the said judgements would have no application to the facts of the present case.

16. Once it is found that the order is non-speaking and the necessity for a speaking order by learned Single Judge cannot be over emphasised in terms of what has been laid down by Supreme Court in the case of Kranti Associates (supra), the order passed by learned Single Judge cannot be sustained.

17. Consequently, the appeal is allowed. The order dated 24.02.2026 passed by learned Single Judge in Writ-C No. 140 of 2026 is set aside. The writ petition is restored to its original file and number, the same shall now be heard and decided by learned Single Judge in accordance with law.

18. Accordingly, Writ-C No.140 of 2026 shall be listed before the appropriate Bench on 14.07.2026 as a fresh case.

Special Appeal No. 524 of 2014

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Raj Narain Yadav Constable ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Relevancy of sufficient cause in deciding the issue relating to laches occurred in instituting the writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.
(2) Validity of dismissal order passed by the disciplinary authority merely on the basis of conviction on criminal charge without considering the conduct of the employee.

Headnotes

(A) Constitution of India – Article 226 – Writ – Delay in instituting the writ petition – Condonation – Sufficiency of cause – Petitioner was incarcerated throughout the period while serving his sentence in a criminal case, leading him to prevent from approaching the Court – Relevance .

Held : It is no more res integra that irrespective of the length of delay, the sufficiency of the cause of delay is to be tested – Delay of a few days cannot be condoned if sufficient cause is not disclosed explaining it, but even a massive delay may be condoned if reasons pass the muster of sufficiency of cause – If a litigant was prevented from approaching the Court of law for reasons beyond his control, such reasons and explanations are definitely sufficient cause for condoning delay and laches – We find no infirmity in the view taken by the learned Single Judge in condoning the delay and laches and entertaining the writ petition on the merits. [Para 7, 10, 13 and 14]

(B) Service law – U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 – Rule 8(2)(a) – Dismissal from service – Delinquent employee was convicted u/s 304B, 201, 498-A IPC and 3/4 DP Act – Disciplinary authority failed to consider the conduct before passing the dismissal order – Effect .

Held : The disciplinary authority, while dismissing the respondent from service, was obliged to first consider the conduct that had led to his conviction in the Sessions trial. Such consideration was a condition precedent to the competent authority acquiring jurisdiction to impose the punishment of dismissal – As this exercise was admittedly never undertaken, we concur with the learned Single Judge that the impugned order dated 25.07.2006 deserves to be set aside and cannot be sustained. [Para 19]

(C) Constitution of India – Article 226 – Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 – Ch. VIII, R. 5 – Special Appeal – Scope of interference .

Held : The powers of the learned Single Judge and those available to the Bench on appeal are co-extensive, and errors on principles alone can be examined by the appellate court in our corrective jurisdiction – The Single Bench and Division Bench of High Court exercise same jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Thus, in the intra-Court appellate jurisdiction interference is only warranted where the judgment or order under challenge is demonstrably erroneous or suffers from perversity. Such jurisdiction ought not be invoked merely because another view is possible on the same set of facts, particularly, when the view adopted by the Single Judge is a plausible and reasonable one. (Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.
Hon'ble Indrajeet Shukla, J.)

1. This Special Appeal is directed against the judgment and order dated 03.10.2013 passed by Hon'ble Mr. Justice Sudhir Agarwal, whereby the writ petition filed by the respondent was allowed, the order dated 25.07.2006 impugned therein set aside, and the respondent directed to be reinstated in service with consequential benefits; liberty was granted to the appellants to pass a fresh order in accordance with law.

2. The crux of the matter is that the respondent was dismissed from service by the disciplinary authority in exercise of power under Rule 8(2)(a) of the U.P. Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 ('the Rules of 1991'), on the ground that he stood convicted in Sessions Trial No. 202/1999 under Sections 304-B,201,498-A of the Indian Penal Code and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, where the maximum term awarded was ten years rigorous imprisonment. The learned Single Judge, while allowing the writ petition, proceeded on the principle that where a disciplinary authority passes an order of dismissal, removal or termination from service on the ground of the conduct which has led to conviction of the employee on a criminal charge, without itself having considered that conduct, such an order cannot be sustained.

3. The learned Single Judge placed particular reliance on the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Union of India v. Tulsiram Patel, AIR 1985 SC 1416, and, more pointedly, on the Division Bench decision of this Court in Shyam Narayan Shukla v. State of U.P., (1988) 6 LCD 530.

4. In Shyam Narayan Shukla (supra), it was held that a government servant convicted of an offence cannot be dismissed from service ipso facto merely on the ground of such conviction. The disciplinary authority is under obligation to consider the conduct of the employee which led to the conviction. It was further held that, in considering such conduct and the quantum of punishment, the employee need not be heard, but the decision has to be arrived at by the disciplinary authority independently, without participation of the employee, as laid down by the Supreme Court. The learned Single Judge also placed reliance upon the Division Bench decision of this Court in Sadanand Mishra v. State of U.P., 1993 LCD 70.

5. Learned counsel for the appellants urged, firstly, that Criminal Appeal No. 1954 of 2005, preferred against the respondent's conviction, is still pending and, therefore, the conviction recorded by the trial court subsists; and, secondly, that the writ petition came to be filed after a delay of about seven years from the date of the order of dismissal dated 25.07.2006, and was, therefore, barred by laches.

6. The learned Single Judge allowed the writ petition after condoning the delay, on the ground that the respondent had been prevented from approaching this Court earlier, as he remained continuously incarcerated, suffering the sentence of ten years rigorous imprisonment, and that he instituted the writ petition immediately upon his release.

7. The issue of delay and laches in instituting the writ petition are being examined in the peculiar facts of this case that the respondent-writ petitioner was prevented from challenging the order impugned therein within a reasonable time. It is no more res integra that irrespective of the length of delay, the sufficiency of the cause of delay is to be tested.

8. In the case of HD Bora vs. the State of Maharashtra, (1984) 2 SCC 337, the Supreme Court condoned a massive delay of 30 years by ruling that technical pleas, like laches, cannot be utilized to defeat substantive rights. There is no such assertion on behalf of the State that the respondent-writ petitioner is right. The cardinal principle of condonation of delay is that the cause of delay is to be examined and not the duration of delay. Said differently, the delay can be condoned regardless of duration if the cause of delay inspires confidence.

9. In the case of Mool Chandra vs Union of India and another, 2024 INSC 577, the Supreme Court emphasised the cause rather than the period of delay for deciding the question of delay. The relevant excerpt is extracted as under:

"No litigant stands to benefit in approaching the courts belatedly. It is not the length of delay that would be required to be considered while examining the plea for condonation of delay, it is the cause for delay which has been propounded will have to be examined. If the cause for delay would fall within the four corners of "sufficient cause", irrespective of the length of delay same deserves to be condoned. However, if the cause shown is insufficient, irrespective of the period of delay, same would not be condoned."

10. Delay of a few days cannot be condoned if sufficient cause is not disclosed explaining it, but even a massive delay may be condoned if reasons pass the muster of sufficiency of cause.

11. A Bench of this Court in the case of Ganga Singh vs. State of UP. (Neutral Citation - 2018:AHC143164-DB) has succinctly summarised the principles of law qua laches and delay in institution of writ proceedings, where the relevant remarks of their Lordships read:

"30. The principle of law laid down in the aforesaid judgements of Hon'ble Supreme Court can be summarized as follows :-

(a) There is no period of limitation prescribed by any law for filing a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

(b) No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to when the High Court should refuse to exercise its jurisdiction in favour of a party who moves it after considerable delay and is otherwise guilty of laches. In any case, the test is not to physical running of time.

(c) The discretion of the Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India must be exercised fairly and justly so as to promote justice and not to defeat it.

(d) The validity of the party's defence must be tried upon principles substantially equitable and if the claim made by the applicant is legally sustainable and the illegality is manifest the petitioner cannot be denied relief on the sole ground of laches as power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is exercised to effectuate the rule of law and not to abrogate it.

(e) Delay in filing the writ petition would be relevant where the delay can be treated as equivalent to a waiver of the right by the petitioner or by his conduct, the petitioner has done that which might fairly be regarded as equivalent to a waiver of it.

(f) Delay would be important and relevant in refusing a remedy to the petitioner if because of delay the opposite parties in the case had altered their possession to their detriment so as to make any interference to the grant in favour of the petitioner inequitable or unreasonable. The Courts would also refuse to interfere under Article 226 of the Constitution of India in favour of the petitioner where parallel third party rights are created due to delay in filing the writ petition.

(g) If the matter in issue before the Courts shocks the judicial conscience, the Court should exercise the discretion more so, when no third party interest is involved.

(h) The petitioner cannot be denied relief under Article 226 of the Constitution of India on the sole ground of delay in filing the writ petition if, for the relief prayed by them, they are relying on a previous judgement of the Court given in similar circumstances which is a judgement in-rem obliging the State Authorities to act in a particular manner in a particular given situation and the grievance of the petitioners in the writ petition, in effect is, that the State Authorities are not acting in the manner stated in the aforesaid judgement. The aforesaid is not a complete exposition of law relating to laches and the circumstances in which a relief may be granted or refused by the Courts under Article 226 of the Constitution of India when a defence of delay in fling a writ petition is raised but a summary of law only to the extent it is relevant for a decision of the present cases."

12. It is the duty of Constitutional Courts to remove injustice and overlook delay and laches where they are not attributable to a lack of bona fides or gross negligence on the part of the litigant.

13. Since the respondent-writ petitioner remained incarcerated throughout the period while serving his sentence in a criminal case, he was definitely prevented from approaching this Court during that period. If a litigant was prevented from approaching the Court of law for reasons beyond his control, such reasons and explanations are definitely sufficient cause for condoning delay and laches.

14. We find no infirmity in the view taken by the learned Single Judge in condoning the delay and laches and entertaining the writ petition on the merits; no error of principle is shown to have crept into the exercise of discretion. Thus, we would refrain from taking a different view insofar as condonation of delay and laches by the learned Single Judge is concerned.

15. The order impugned in the writ petition, dismissing the respondent from the post of Constable, was passed in exercise of the power conferred by Rule 8(2)(a) of the Rules of 1991. Rule 8 of the Rules of 1991 is reproduced below:

"8. Dismissal and removal.-(1) No Police Officer shall be dismissed or removed from service by an authority subordinate to the appointing authority.

(2) No Police Officer shall be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank except after proper inquiry and disciplinary proceedings as contemplated by these rules:

Provided that this rule shall not apply-

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that, for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such enquiry; or

(c) where the Government is satisfied that, in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold such enquiry.

(3) All orders of dismissal and removal of Head Constables or Constables shall be passed by the Superintendent of Police. Cases in which the Superintendent of Police recommends dismissal or removal of a Sub-Inspector or an Inspector shall be forwarded to the Deputy Inspector General concerned for orders.

(4)(a) The punishment for intentionally or negligently allowing a person in police custody or judicial custody to escape shall be dismissal, unless the punishing authority, for reasons to be recorded in writing, awards a lesser punishment.

(b) Every officer convicted by a Court for an offence involving moral turpitude shall be dismissed, unless the punishing authority, for reasons to be recorded in writing, considers it otherwise."

16. The provision contained in Rule 8(2)(a) of the Rules of 1991 is pari-materia with the second proviso appended to Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India, which is reproduced below:

"311. (1) No person who is a member of a civil service of the Union or an all-India service or a civil service of a State or holds a civil post under the Union or a State shall be dismissed or removed by an authority subordinate to that by which he was appointed.

(2) No such person as aforesaid shall be dismissed or removed or reduced in rank except after an inquiry in which he has been informed of the charges against him and given a reasonable opportunity of being heard in respect of those charges: Provided that where it is proposed, after such inquiry, to impose upon him any such penalty, such penalty may be imposed on the basis of the evidence adduced during such inquiry, and it shall not be necessary to give such person any opportunity of making representation on the penalty proposed:

Provided further that this clause shall not apply-

(a) where a person is dismissed or removed or reduced in rank on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge; or

(b) where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that, for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry; or

(c) where the President or the Governor, as the case may be, is satisfied that, in the interest of the security of the State, it is not expedient to hold such inquiry.

(3) If, in respect of any such person as aforesaid, a question arises whether it is reasonably practicable to hold such inquiry as is referred to in clause (2), the decision thereon of the authority empowered to dismiss or remove such person or to reduce him in rank shall be final."

16. The expression "on the ground of conduct which has led to his conviction on a criminal charge" fell for interpretation before the Supreme Court in Tulsiram Patel (supra), where it was held as follows:

".....The paramount thing, however, to bear in mind is that the second proviso will apply only where the conduct of a government servant is such as he deserves the punishment of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. If the conduct is such as to deserve a punishment different from those mentioned above, the second proviso cannot come into play at all, because Article 311(2) is itself confined only to these three penalties. Therefore, before denying a government servant his constitutional right to an inquiry, the first consideration would be whether the conduct of the concerned government servant is such as justifies the penalty of dismissal, removal or reduction in rank. Once that conclusion is reached and the condition specified in the relevant clause of the second proviso is satisfied, that proviso becomes applicable, and the government servant is not entitled to an enquiry…"

17. The issue as to whether conviction in a criminal case would automatically lead to dismissal of the employee from service has been examined in the case of Tulsiram Patel (supra) while interpreting clause (a) to the second proviso of Article 311 (2) of the Constitution of India in following words:-

"127. Not much remains to be said about clause (a) of the second proviso to Article 311(2). To recapitulate briefly, where a disciplinary authority comes to know that a government servant has been convicted on a criminal charge, it must consider whether his conduct which has led to his conviction was such as warrants the imposition of a penalty and, if so, what that penalty should be. For that purpose it will have to peruse the judgment of the criminal court and consider all the facts and circumstances of the case and the various factors set out in Challappan case. This, however, has to be done by it ex parte and by itself. Once the disciplinary authority reaches the conclusion that the government servant's conduct was such as to require his dismissal or removal from service or reduction in rank he must decide which of these three penalties should be imposed on him. This too it has to do by itself and without hearing the concerned government servant by reason of the exclusionary effect of the second proviso. The disciplinary authority must, however, bear in mind that a conviction on a criminal charge does not automatically entail dismissal, removal or reduction in rank of the concerned government servant. Having decided which of these three penalties is required to be imposed, he has to pass the requisite order. A government servant who is aggrieved by the penalty imposed can agitate in appeal, revision or review, as the case may be, that the penalty was too severe or excessive and not warranted by the facts and circumstances of the case. If it is his case that he is not the government servant who has been in fact convicted, he can also agitate this question in appeal, revision or review. If he fails in the departmental remedies and still wants to pursue the matter, he can invoke the court's power of judicial review subject to the court permitting it. If the court finds that he was not in fact the person convicted, it will strike down the impugned order and order him to be reinstated in service. Where the court finds that the penalty imposed by the impugned order is arbitrary or grossly excessive or out of all proportion to the offence committed or not warranted by the facts and circumstances of the case or the requirements of that particular government service the court will also strike down the impugned order."

18. In Shankar Dass v. Union of India, 1985 (2) SCR 358, the Supreme Court, while considering the scope of the power conferred under clause (a) of the second proviso to Article 311(2) of the Constitution of India, observed as follows:

"Be that as it may, that power, like every other power, has to be exercised fairly, justly and reasonably."

19. Having regard to the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Tulsiram Patel (supra), T.R. Chellappan (supra) and Shankar Dass (supra), the disciplinary authority, while dismissing the respondent from service, was obliged to first consider the conduct that had led to his conviction in the Sessions trial. Such consideration was a condition precedent to the competent authority acquiring jurisdiction to impose the punishment of dismissal. The order impugned in the writ petition, however, is conspicuously silent on this aspect and nowhere reflects any application of mind to the respondent's conduct underlying his conviction. Before passing the order of dismissal, the disciplinary authority was required to weigh such conduct and only thereafter settle upon the appropriate punishment. As this exercise was admittedly never undertaken, we concur with the learned Single Judge that the impugned order dated 25.07.2006 deserves to be set aside and cannot be sustained.

20. It may be noted that the major penalties which may be imposed under the Rules of 1991 are: (i) removal from service, (ii) dismissal from service, and (iii) reduction in rank, including reduction to a lower scale. Where more than one major penalty is available, conduct that has led to conviction on a criminal charge, even where terminal in character, requires scrutiny by the disciplinary authority in order to reasonably and fairly choose between the penalties available, having regard to considerations of proportionality. The liberty already granted by the learned Single Judge to the appellants to pass a fresh order in accordance with law shall accordingly remain available to them.

21. The powers of the learned Single Judge and those available to the Bench on appeal are co-extensive, and errors on principles alone can be examined by the appellate court in our corrective jurisdiction. In Baddula Lakshmaiah and others vs. Sri Anjaneya Swami Temple and others, (1996) 3 SCC 52, the Supreme Court held that "it is the internal working of the High Court which splits it into different 'Benches' and yet the court remains one. A letters patent appeal, as permitted under the letters patent, is normally an intra-court appeal whereunder the Letters Patent Bench, sitting as a Court of Correction, corrects its own orders in exercise of the same jurisdiction as was vested in the Single Bench."

22. It is now well settled law, that the Single Bench and Division Bench of High Court exercise same jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Thus, in the intra-Court appellate jurisdiction interference is only warranted where the judgment or order under challenge is demonstrably erroneous or suffers from perversity. Such jurisdiction ought not be invoked merely because another view is possible on the same set of facts, particularly, when the view adopted by the Single Judge is a plausible and reasonable one. In other words, an intra-court appellate bench ought not substitute its own view merely because the Bench considers its view to be better than the one taken by the Single Judge. So long as the view taken by the Single Judge is a plausible one, interference should be eschewed.

23. For the reasons recorded above, we find no merit in this Special Appeal. It is, accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

24. Needless to say that consequential benefits payable to the respondent shall abide by the fresh decision to be taken by the disciplinary authority upon due consideration of the conduct of the respondent which led to his convi ction.

25. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to communicate this order to the parties.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of adverse remark made for a particular period to the entitlement to get promotional pay scale and selection grade on the basis of remaining period of unblemished services.
(2) Scope of Special Appeal to grant relief.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Promotional Pay Scale and Selection grade – Entitlement – Adverse remark made for the period from 1977 to 1994-95 – Effect – After unblemished service of 10 years (from 1 July 1995 to 30 June 2005) the petitioner was retired on 30.06.2005 – Selection grade was claimed on the basis of the period of unblemished service – Single Bench dismissed the writ petition approving the order of authority denying the selection grade – Validity challenged .

Held : Petitioner had rendered unblemished service of 10 years (from 01 July 1995 to 30 June 2005) and his increment/selection grade having been due on 01.07.2005 would be admissible to petitioner despite his superannuation on 30.06.2005 – The completion of 10 years unblemished service from 01.07.1995 till 30.06.2005 went unnoticed by Hon'ble Writ Court and resultantly, error crept in the order impugned. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 8.02.2012 passed by Writ Court is hereby set aside. The molded relief for consideration of selection grade/financial upgradation on account of computation of 10 years of service w.e.f. 01.07.1995 in the light of relevant government orders is hereby extended to the appellant-writ petitioner. [Para 24 and 25]

(B) Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 – Ch. VIII, R. 5 – Special Appeal – Scope – Coextensive with the writ power – Molding the relief, extent of .

Held : Intra court appeal as well as Writ Court exercises one and same jurisdiction as such we are vested with the power to modify the relief if it may not be granted in the manner it has been prayed for – While deciding an intra court appeal under Rules 1952, the power of the Division Bench are coextensive with the powers of Hon'ble Single Judge while deciding the writ petition. (Delivered by Hon'ble Indrajeet Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri N.K. Chaturvedi, learned Counsel along with Shri Manoj Kumar Tiwari, learned Counsel appearing for the petitioner and Shri Pradeep Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

Facts

2. Present intra-court appeal has been filed by writ petitioner/appellant, inter-alia challenging the order dated 08.02.2012 passed by Writ Court in Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.6984 of 2012 titled as Vidyadhar Shukla Vs. State of U.P. and others dismissing the writ petition with following observation:

"Heard learned counsel for the parties.

Vidyadhar Shukla, the petitioner, can Assistant Clerk Working in the U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate, Allahabad has again approached this Court by filing this writ petition in the same series of litigation claiming certain service benefits admissible to him. Criminal as well as Departmental enquiries were initiated against the petitioner. In the criminal trial the petitioner was acquitted giving benefit of doubt by the competent Court vide judgment dated 1.6.1994. During Certain period, that is from 27.12.1977 to 28.7.1981, the petitioner has remained absent from duty. Further, on submitting representations and approaching this Court, this issues was dealt with by the aforementioned Board and the petitioner was granted extraordinary leave without pay vide order dated 4.12.2004. As far as departmental enquiry is concerned, the petitioner was given a serious warning and an adverse entry was also recorded in his Character Role after assessment of his work, conduct and performance from the period 1977 to 1994-95, However, the period of absence from duty (later on regularised by granting leave without pay) was ordered to be counted for the purposes of allowing pension to the petitioner. It was also indicated in the order dated 4.12.2004 that "Sewa Sambandhi Anumanya Sabhi Labh Ukt Nirnay ke Ashin Niyamausar Dai Honge". The order dated 4.12.2004 has been passed in furtherence of a judgment rendered by this Court on 16.7.2004 while disposing of the Writ Selection Grade as claimed by the petitioner from the year 1982 to 1992 and take an appropriate decision in accordance with law by passing a reasoned and speaking order within three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order after taking into consideration judgement and order passed by the Court as well as the order dated 4.12.2004 passed by the Board.

Pursuant to the said order in question, claim of the petitioner has been considered and it has been found that as his work and conduct has not been found to be satisfactory, as such he is not entitled for Selection Grade and Promotional pay scale. Opinion formed cannot be said to be incorrect opinion for the simple reason that at point of time when the punishment order has been passed, petitioner has given warning not to repeat such activity and further precise mention was that his work and conduct was not at all befitting conduct of government servant and same forms part of the Character Roll of the petitioner. One such was the factual situation in respect of the petitioner wherein petitioner's record has not at all been found to be satisfactory, then in view of this, refusal to accord selection grade and promotional pay scale suffers from to infirmity whatsoever as pre requisite terms and conditions for getting said benefit is satisfactory service, which admittedly is lacking and missing in the fact of the case.

(Emphasis supplied)

Consequently, present writ petition is dismissed.″

3. Facts in brief relevant for adjudication of instant appeal are recapitulated as under:

Undoubtedly, the writ petitioner/appellant was appointed as a Routine Grade Clerk in the office of second respondent/Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad, on 14.06.1969. The Petitioner was charged with offences punishable under Section 420, 467, 468, 471 of IPC with the imputation that petitioner manipulated/forged certain mark sheets. The two trials conducted by virtue of Criminal Case No.4/1981 and 635/1987 ended in acquittal vide judgments dated 18.05.1984 and 01.06.1994. The judgments of acquittal have been brought on record along with the writ petition. It is an admitted position between the parties that the said judgments of acquittal have attained finality. The appellant/writ petitioner remained absent from duty for the period of 27.12.1977 till 28.07.1981. The case set up by appellant as writ petitioner is that the mental trauma faced by him compelled his absence. On the basis of medical certificate, appellant was permitted to resume his duties with effect from 1981. Appellant/writ petitioner thereafter claimed salary for the period of his absence i.e., from 27.12.1977 to 28.07.1981 as well as promotion to the next higher post but the claim for promotion and salary set up by writ petitioner was rejected. Thereafter, he filed successive writ petitions and ultimately, this Court, vide order dated 16.07.2004 passed in Writ Petition No.18773/2000 directed second respondent to pass a fresh order pertaining to grant of selection grade and promotional pay scale.

4. Pursuant to the aforesaid directions, the Respondent-Board considered the merits of claim set up by appellant-writ petitioner, in detail and refused the same vide order dated 04.12.2004. The conclusions drawn by Additional Secretary (Administration) Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad refusing claim of Selection Grade and promotional pay scale are extracted as under:

"(4) यह क़ि स्पष्ट किया जाता है कि उनका आचारण वर्ष 1977 से 1994-95 तक सरकारी सेवक के अनुकूल नहीं पायी गयी है। अतः: यह प्रविष्टि उनकी गोपनीय आख्या में रखी जाय।

(5) उक्त सम्पूर्ण अवधि दिनांक 27/12/77 से 28/07/81 तक को पेंशन हेतु सेवा से जोडने के लिए नियमों के अनुसार माना जायेगा

(6) सेवा सम्बन्धी अनुमन्य सभी लाभउक्त निर्णय के अधीन निमानुसार देय होंगें

उच्च न्यायालय के आदेश दिनांक 16-7-2004 के समादर में श्री शुक्ल के प्रत्यावेदन दिनांक 31/7/2004 को निस्तारित किया गया।"

5. It is strange enough that despite the rejection of claim of petitioner to accord promotional pay scale and selection grade by virtue of order dated 4.12.2004, the same was not challenged by appellant-writ petitioner, in any manner.

6. The appellant/writ petitioner was admittedly issued warning and his conduct was not found to be befitting the Government servant for the period from 1977 to 1994-95. The said entry was directed to be kept in confidential record of petitioner.

7. In absence of any challenge to the order dated 04.12.2004, the issue of warning, the entry qua period from 1977 to 1994-95 holding petitioner not at all befitting the conduct of Government servant attained finality and as such petitioner is precluded to claim any benefit for aforesaid period so long the order dated 04.12.2004 passed by third respondent/Additional Secretary (Administration) Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad remains intact. Without challenging the order dated 04.12.2004 passed by Additional Secretary (Administration) Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad, petitioner instituted another writ petition bearing number 76756 of 2005, which was disposed of by this Court with following observations:

"The petitioner has filed this writ petition seeking relief for allowing him promotional grade from the year 1982 and the Selection Grade from the year 2000. The main thrust of the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner during the course of the argument is that criminal trial and departmental enquiry both have came to an end. Criminal trial has resulted in acquittal and the departmental enquiry has also concluded by awarding an adverse entry and issuance of a warning to the petitioner. The Board has overlooked these reliefs which were sought by the petitioner, that is, Promotional Grade and the Selection Grade with effect from the aforementioned years. Since in Clause (6) the Secretary of the U.P. Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Allahabad has already indicated that the other benefits may be admissible to the petitioner in the light of the decision taken on 4.12.2004, it would be appropriate that the matter may be reconsidered as far as grant of promotional grade and Selection Grade to the petitioner is concerned.

Accordingly, the writ petition is disposed of finally with a direction to the Secretary, U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate, Allahabad to reconsider the matter of the petitioner in respect of grant of Promotional Grade and Selection, Grade as claimed by the petitioner from the year (illegible) and 1997 and take an appropriate decision in accordance with law by passing a reasoned and speaking order within three months from the date of presentation of a certified copy of this order after taking into consideration judgment and order passed by the Court as well as the order dated 4.12.2004 passed by the Board."

8. In compliance of order dated 18.05.2009 passed in Writ Petition No.76756 of 2005, respondent authority decided the claim of petitioner afresh vide order dated 30.11.2009. The relevant excerpt of order dated 30.11.2009 passed by Secretary Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad is being reproduced as under:

"इस विषय में उल्लेखनीय है कि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय, इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित निर्णय दिनांक 15-05-2009 में याची के सेलेक्शन ग्रेड एवं प्रमोशनल ग्रेड पर विचार किया गया। इस सम्बन्ध में यह अनुपालन पाया गया है कि माननीय उच्च न्यायालय इलाहाबाद द्वारा पारित निर्णय दिनांक 16-07-2004 के अनुपालन में पुष्ठांकन संख्याः मा०शि०प०/ नियक्ति / अ०स० (प्र०) / 3765-4 दिनांक 04-12-2004 द्वारा याची के प्रकरण में विचारोपरान्त लिये गये निर्णय के अनुसार इनकी सेवायें सेलेक्शन ग्रेड एवं पदोन्नति ग्रेड सम्बन्धी निर्गत शासनादेशों में निहित प्राविधानों के अन्तर्गत संतोषजनक नही बन रही है. जिस कारण समयमान वेतनमान एवं पदोन्नति वेतनमान की देयता पर विचार किया जाना सम्भव नही हो पा रहा है। याची श्री विद्याधर शुक्ल जिस रूप में कार्य किये है, उस सेवा अवधि के लिये उन्हें देय वेतन आदि का भुगतान किया जा चुका है।"

9. The appellant/writ petitioner challenged the order dated 30.11.2009 before the Writ Court and, inter alia, claimed the benefit of the promotional pay scale and selection grade. The reliefs claimed by the appellant/writ petitioner are extracted hereunder:

"(i) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 30.11.2009 passed by the respondent no.2.

(ii) Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no.2 to ensure the payment of promotional grade to the petitioner since 1982 and the selection grade since 1992 till the date of his retirement and the pension may be paid accordingly. "

10. The Learned Single Judge dismissed the writ petition, affirming the twin-fold reasoning set out in the order challenged in the writ petition i.e. adverse order dated 16.07.2004 passed under the mandate of this Court. The said order specifically records that "सेवा सम्बंधित अनुमन्य सभी लाभ उक्त निर्णय के अधीन नियमानुसार देय होंगे".

11. There being order dated 4.12.2004 intact, writ court refused to exercise discretion vested in it. Consequently, the writ petition was dismissed vide judgment and order dated 08.02.2012.

12. Being embittered with the order dated 08.02.2012 passed by Writ Court, the petitioner invoked the intra court appellate jurisdiction of this Court.

Submission Advanced on behalf of Appellant

13. Learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that though he failed to challenge the order dated 04.12.2004 passed by the respondent authority, concluding that the period of absence is to be treated as leave without pay for the purpose of pension and the serious warning with an adverse entry recorded in his character roll after assessment of his work, conduct and performance for the period from 1977 to 1994-95 would not be an impediment for grant of promotional pay scale and selection grade since with effect from 1982 and 1992, respectively as despite the order dated 04.12.2004 subsisting this Court directed for consideration of the claim afresh as such the order dated 04.12.2004 was not found to be impediment in the grant of service benefit claimed by appellant/writ petitioner.

14. The aforesaid submission is completely misplaced as this Court while passing the order dated 18.05.2009 in writ petition no.76756 of 2005 has not mandated the authorities to ignore the order dated 04.12.2004, rather same remained intact for want of interference by Writ Court in earlier round of litigation.

15. Further, contention raised by learned counsel for the appellant that the adverse entries recorded vide order dated 04.12.2004, were never communicated to the appellant-writ petitioner appears to be prima facie, falicious on the face of the record as while instituting fresh writ petition by virtue of Writ A No.76756 of 2005 it was always open to the Appellant to lay challenge against order dated 4.12.2004, which itself records about adverse entry but counsel for appellant had fairly conceded that the order dated 4.12.2004 was not challenged, as such we failed to understand that the relief claimed by petitioner for grant of promotional pay scale and selection grade with effect from 1982 and 1992 respectively can be accorded in absence of any challenge to the order dated 04.12.2004, but at this stage appellant/writ petitioner submits that relief as prayed for, before Writ Court, may be modified by this Court for substantial justice and Respondent State may be directed to grant Selection grade by calculating 10 years satisfactory service after 1995, as the adverse entry in terms of order dated 4.12.2004 was limited only for the period of 1977 to 1994-95 (which ended on 30th June, 1995).

16. If service rendered by the appellant from 1 July 1995 to 30th June 2005 is calculated for purposes of grant of selection grade it would be 10 years satisfactory service since petitioner demitted office on 30th June 2005 and by that time has completed 10 years satisfactory service.

17. We cannot lose sight of the admitted position of law that intra court appeal as well as Writ Court exercises one and same jurisdiction as such we are vested with the power to modify the relief if it may not be granted in the manner it has been prayed for.

18. While deciding an intra court appeal under Rules 1952, the power of the Division Bench are coextensive with the powers of Hon'ble Single Judge while deciding the writ petition. In Baddula Lakshmaiah and others vs. Sri Anjaneya Swami Temple and others, (1996) 3 SCC 52, the Supreme Court held that "it is the internal working of the High Court which splits it into different 'Benches' and yet the court remains one. A letters patent appeal, as permitted under the letters patent, is normally an intra-court appeal whereunder the Letters Patent Bench, sitting as a Court of Correction, corrects its own orders in exercise of the same jurisdiction as was vested in the Single Bench."

19. Now the only question survives for consideration in the shape of moulded relief is, whether the benefit of the selection grade to the appellant-writ petitioner is permissible on conjoint reading of Government orders dated 09.05.1984, 08.03.1995 & 02.12.2000 or not by computing unblemished services rendered from 01 july 1995 to 30 june 2005, which would amount to 10 years satisfactory service.

20. The Government Order dated 09.05.1984 and its translated version reads as under:

'"मुझे यह कहने का निर्देश हुआ है कि उपरोक्त विषयक शासनादेश सं०-वे०आ०-2-210/दस- सं०व्य० (सा०)-82, दिनांक 4 फरवरी, 1983 का आंशिक संशोधन करते हुए राज्यपाल महोदय ने आदेश प्रदान किया है कि उसके संलग्नक-1 के क्र०सं० 1, 2(1), 2(3), 3, 4(1), 4(3), 5(1), 6(1), 6(3), 7(1), 8, 9(1 से 4) तथा 10 तक उल्लिखित पदों पर मौलिक नियुक्त की दशा में 10 वर्ष की नियमित सेवा के बाद सेलेक्शन ग्रेड अनुमन्य होगा। यदि कोई पद पदोन्नति से भरा जाता है तो उस पर यह आदेश लागू नहीं होगा और उस पर शासनादेश दिनांक 4 फरवरी, 1983 की व्यवस्था के अनुसार ही सेलेक्शन ग्रेड अनुमन्य होगा। यह संशोधन दिनांक 1 मई, 1984 से प्रभावी होगा और उक्त शासनादेश में उल्लिखित अन्य शर्तें पूर्ववत् लागू रहेंगी।

I am directed to say that, in partial amendment to the Government Order No. वे०आ०-2-210/दस-सं०व्य० (सा०)-82, dated February 4, 1983, on the subject cited above, the Governor has been pleased to order that in the case of substantive appointment to the posts mentioned under Sl. Nos. 1, 2(1), 2(3), 3, 4(1), 4(3), 5(1), 6(1), 6(3), 7(1), 8, 9(1 to 4), and up to 10 of Annexure-I thereof, the selection grade shall be admissible after completing 10 years of regular service. If any post is filled by promotion, this order shall not apply to it, and the selection grade shall remain admissible on such post strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Government Order dated February 4, 1983. This amendment shall come into force with effect from May 1, 1984, and all other terms and conditions specified in the aforementioned Government Order shall remain applicable as heretofore."

21. The relevant portion of Government Order dated 08.03.1995 and its translated version reads as under:

"2. ऐसे कर्मचारी जिनके पुनरीक्षित वेतनमान का अधिकतम रु० 03500/-तक है और जो संबंधित पद पर नियमित हो चुके हैं, उनकी जब 6 वर्ष की संतोषजनक सेवा सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ की तिथि को संम्मिलित करते हुए कुल 14 वर्ष की पूर्ण हो जाती है, प्रोन्नति का अगला वेतनमान वैयक्तिक रूप से अनुमन्य किया जाये। वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नत वेतनमान देने के लिये सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ के अंतर्गत देय एक वेतनवृद्धि की 6 वर्ष का संतोषजनक सेवा अनिवार्य है। किन्तु सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ को सेवा गणना हेतु पूर्व में इसके अंतर्गत यदि एक वेतन वृद्धि मिल चुकी है तो उस वास्तविक दिनांक से गिनी जायेगी। उदाहरण के लिये यदि किसी पदधारक को 10 वर्ष की संतोषजनक सेवा के आधार पर एक वेतन वृद्धि का लाभ 1-4-89 को मिल चुका था और उसकी सेवा इसके बाद संतोषजनक अनवरत रही है और वह नियमति है। हो जाता है तो 1-4-95 को वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नत वेतनमान मिलेगा। ऐसे संवर्ग पद जिनके लिये प्रोन्नति का कोई पद नहीं है, उनको उस वेतनमान से अगला वेतनमान देय होगा। उदाहरण स्वरूप ऐसा पदधारक जो

पुनरीक्षित वेतनमान रु० 1200-2040 में है, उसे रु० 1350-2200 का पुनरीक्षित वेतनमान वैयक्तिक वेतमान के रूप में देय होगा।

3. ऐसे कर्मचारी, जिनके पुनरीक्षित वेतनमान का अधिकतम रु० 3500/- तक है जब वैयक्तिक रूप से अनुमन्य प्रोन्नत/अगले वेतनमान में 6 वर्ष की निरन्तर संतोषजनक सेवा तथा कुल 20 वर्ष की सेवा पूरी कर लेते हैं, को प्रोन्नति/अगले वेतनमान में वेतन उस तिथि को अगले प्रक्रम पर निर्धारित कर दिया जाये अर्थात उसे एक वेतन वृद्धि का लाभ उसी वेतनमान में अनुमन्य होगा। किन्तु यदि किसी नियमित पदधारक को पूर्व व्यवस्था के अंतर्गत 16 वर्ष की सेवा के आधार पर वैयक्तिक रूप से प्रोन्नत वेतनमान अगला वेतनमान पहले मिल चुका है तो 6 वर्ष की निरन्तर संतोषजनक सेवा की गणना में पूर्व में जिस दिनांक से यह लाभ मिला है उसे संज्ञान में लिया जायेगा। उदाहरण स्वरूप यदि पदधारक को वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नत वेतनमान / अगला वेतनमान 1-2-89 को मिल चुका था तो 1-3-95 कोउक्त व्यवस्था के अधीनं एक अतिरिक्त वेतन वृद्धि अनुमन्य होगी।"

"2. In respect of such employees whose maximum of the revised pay scale is up to Rs. 03500/- and who have been regularized on the concerned post, upon completion of a total of 14 years of satisfactory service, inclusive of 6 years of satisfactory service calculated from the date of grant of selection grade, the next personal promotional pay scale shall be admissible to them. For granting the personal promotional pay scale, a 6-year satisfactory service from the grant of one increment under the selection grade benefit is mandatory. However, for the purpose of service calculation, if an increment under the selection grade benefit has been granted earlier, it shall be counted from that actual date. For example: If an incumbent was granted the benefit of one increment on 01-04-89 on the basis of 10 years of satisfactory service, and his service thereafter has remained continuously satisfactory and he is regular/ gets regularized, then the personal promotional pay scale shall be admissible to him with effect from 01-04-95. For such cadres/posts where no promotional post is available, the pay scale next to the current pay scale shall be admissible. For example, an incumbent who is in the revised pay scale of Rs. 1200-2040 shall be granted the pay scale of Rs. 1350-2200 as a revised personal pay scale."

"3. In respect of such employees whose maximum of the revised pay scale is up to Rs. 3500/-, upon completing 6 years of continuous satisfactory service in the personally admissible promotional/next pay scale and a total of 20 years of service, their pay in the promotional/next pay scale shall be fixed at the next level with effect from that date; that is to say, the benefit of one increment shall be admissible to them in the same pay scale. Provided that if a regular incumbent has already been granted the personal promotional pay scale / next pay scale on the basis of 16 years of service under the earlier provision, the date from which such benefit was previously granted shall be taken into account for calculating the 6 years of continuous satisfactory service. For example, If an incumbent was granted the personal promotional pay scale / next pay scale on 01-02-89, then an additional increment under the said provision shall be admissible to him with effect from 01-03-95."

(translation by Court)

22. Similarly, Government Order dated 02.12.2000 and its translated version provides for extension of benefit of selection grade reads as under:

"2) प्रथम वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नतीय/अगला वेतनमान - उपर्युक्त श्रेणी के ऐसे अधिकारी/कर्मचारी जिन्होंने सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ की तिथि से 6 वर्ष की अनवरत संतोषजनक सेवा सहित कुल 14 वर्ष की अनवरत संतोषजनक सेवा पूर्ण कर ली हो और सम्बन्धित पद पर नियमित हो चुके हों, को प्रोन्नति का अगला वेतनमान वैयक्तिक रूप से अनुमन्य किया जाय। ऐसे संवर्ग पद जिनके लिए प्रोन्नति का कोई पद नहीं है, उनको उस वेतनमान से अगला वेतनमान वैयक्तिक रूप से देय होगा। उपर्युक्त वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नतीय अगला वेतनमान देने के लिये सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ के अन्तर्गत देय एक वेतनवृद्धि की तिथि से 6 वर्ष की संतोषजनक सेवा अनिवार्य हैं, किन्तु यदि किसी कर्मचारी को सेलेक्शन ग्रेड. का लाभ पूर्व में 10 वर्ष की सेवा के आधार पर मिला होतोउक्त प्रयोजनार्थ सेलेक्शन ग्रेड के लाभ की अवधि का प्रतिबन्ध 4 वर्ष रखा जायेगा। उपर्युक्त वैयक्तिक प्रोन्नतीय/अगले वेतनमान की अनुमन्यता हेतु अधिकारी/कर्मचारी का सम्बन्धित पद पर नियमित होना आवश्यक है। अन्य शर्तों की पूर्ति पर भी सम्बन्धित पद पर नियमित न होने की दशा में पदधारक को यह लाभ उस तिथि से ही अनुमन्य होगा, जिस तिथि से सम्बन्धित पद पर वह नियमित किया जायेगा।"

"2) First Personal Promotional / Next Pay Scale- Such officers/employees of the aforementioned category who have completed a total of 14 years of continuous satisfactory service, inclusive of 6 years of continuous satisfactory service calculated from the date of grant of selection grade benefit, and have been regularized on the post concerned, shall be granted the next personal promotional pay scale. For such cadres/posts where no promotional post is available, the pay scale next to that pay scale shall be admissible personally. For granting the aforesaid personal promotional/next pay scale, a 6-year satisfactory service calculated from the date of grant of one increment under the selection grade benefit is mandatory; provided that if an employee was granted the benefit of selection grade earlier on the basis of 10 years of service, the restriction on the period of selection grade benefit for the said purpose shall be kept at 4 years. For the admissibility of the aforesaid personal promotional/next pay scale, it is essential for the officer/employee to be regularized on the post concerned. Even upon fulfilling other conditions, in the event of not being regularized on the post concerned, this benefit shall be admissible to the incumbent only with effect from the date on which he/she is regularized on the post concerned."

(translation by Court)

23. Further Government Order dated 05.11.2014 provides that the period of unsatisfactory service is to be excluded for grant of financial upgradation. Since the petitioner attained the age of superannuation in the year 2005, thus, aforesaid Government Order is hardly of any assistance directly of any consequence but the practice consistently being followed by the State Government is, where an employee is granted a financial upgradation after a delay on account of not having rendered satisfactory service, such delay shall have a corresponding effect on all subsequent financial upgradations. In other words, for the purpose of determining eligibility for the next financial upgradation, the prescribed qualifying period shall stand extended by the period that was excluded while computing the employee's entitlement to the previous financial upgradation. The relevant extract of the said Government Order and its translated version is extracted as under:

"(4) सन्तोषजनक सेवा पूर्ण न होने के कारण यदि किसी कार्मिक को वित्तीय स्तरोन्नयन विलम्ब से प्राप्त होता है तो उसका प्रभाव आने वाले अगले सभी वित्तीय स्तरोन्नयन पर भी पडेगा। अर्थात अगले वित्तीय स्तरोन्नयन की अनुमन्यता हेतु निर्धारित अवधि की गणना में उतनी अवधि बढा दी जायेगी जितनी अवधि पूर्व वित्तीय स्तरोन्नयन प्राप्त होने की गणना में नहीं ली गयी है।"

"(4) If an employee receives a financial upgradation with delay on account of non-completion of satisfactory service, its effect shall also fall upon all subsequent financial upgradations. That is to say, for determining the admissibility of the next financial upgradation, the prescribed period of service shall be extended by such period as was not taken into account for the calculation of the grant of the preceding financial upgradation."

(translation by Court)

Analysis

24. Undisputed fact is the petitioner was enrolled in service on 14 June, 1977 and attained the age of superannuation on 30.06.2005. The adverse remark as per order dated 04.12.2004 was for the specific period from 1977 to 1994-95, meaning thereby since 01.07.1995 till 30.06.2005, petitioner had rendered unblemished service of 10 years(from 1 july 1995 to 30 june 2005) and his increment/selection grade having been due on 01.07.2005 would be admissible to petitioner despite his superannuation on 30.06.2005, in the light of judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of The Director (Admn. And Hr) Kptcl vs C.P. Mundinamani reported in (2023) 14 SCC 411. The Relevant excerpt are extracted as under:

6. The short question which is posed for the consideration of this Court is whether an employee who has earned the annual increment is entitled to the same despite the fact that he has retired on the very next day of earning the increment?

6.6 The Allahabad High Court in the case of Nand Vijay Singh (supra) while dealing with the same issue has observed and held in paragraph 24 as under: -

"24. Law is settled that where entitlement to receive a benefit crystallises in law its denial would be arbitrary unless it is for a valid reason. The only reason for denying benefit of increment, culled out from the scheme is that the central government servant is not holding the post on the day when the increment becomes payable. This cannot be a valid ground for denying increment since the day following the date on which increment is earned only serves the purpose of ensuring completion of a year's service with good conduct and no other purpose can be culled out for it. The concept of day following which the increment is earned has otherwise no purpose to achieve. In isolation of the purpose it serves the fixation of day succeeding the date of entitlement has no intelligible differentia nor any object is to be achieved by it. The central government servant retiring on 30th June has already completed a year of service and the increment has been earned provided his conduct was good. It would thus be wholly arbitrary if the increment earned by the central government employee on the basis of his good conduct for a year is denied only on the ground that he was not in employment on the succeeding day when increment became payable. In the case of a government servant retiring on 30th of June the next day on which increment falls due/becomes payable looses significance and must give way to the right of the government servant to receive increment due to satisfactory services of a year so that the scheme is not construed in a manner that if offends the spirit of reasonableness enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India. The scheme for payment of increment would have to be read as whole and one part of Article 151 of CSR cannot be read in isolation so as to frustrate the other part particularly when the other part creates right in the central government servant to receive increment. This would ensure that scheme of progressive appointment remains intact and the rights earned by a government servant remains protected and are not denied due to a fortuitous circumstance."

6.7 Similar view has also been expressed by different High Courts, namely, the Gujarat High Court, the Madhya Pradesh High Court, the Orissa High Court and the Madras High Court. As observed hereinabove, to interpret Regulation 40(1) of the Regulations in the manner in which the appellants have understood and/or interpretated would lead to arbitrariness and denying a government servant the benefit of annual increment which he has already earned while rendering specified period of service with good conduct and efficiently in the last preceding year. It would be punishing a person for no fault of him. As observed hereinabove, the increment can be withheld only by way of punishment or he has not performed the duty efficiently.

Conclusion

25. The completion of 10 years unblemished service from 01.07.1995 till 30.06.2005 went unnoticed by Hon'ble Writ Court and resultantly, error crept in the order impugned. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 8.02.2012 passed by Writ Court is hereby set aside. The molded relief for consideration of selection grade/financial upgradation on account of computation of 10 years of service w.e.f. 01.07.1995 in the light of relevant government orders is hereby extended to the appellant-writ petitioner.

26. This intra court appeal is being disposed of directing the state-respondent to accord selection grade/requisite financial upgradation treating 10 years service rendered by petitioner since 01.07.1995 till 30.06.2005 as and when it is due strictly in the light of relevant government orders. The necessary exercise shall be undertaken and appropriate orders shall be passed within four weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

27. The writ petition as well as instant intra court appeal is disposed of accordingly.

28. No order as to costs.

(Delivered by Hon'ble J.J. Munir, J.)

1. This is an appeal by the convict Babu, who has been tried and convicted by Mr. Anil Kumar Pandey, the then Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.01, Mathura vide judgment and order dated 25.01.2022 passed in Sessions Trial No. 817 of 2017 on a charge of murder punishable under Section 302 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (for short, 'IPC') and sentenced vide order dated 27.01.2022 to imprisonment for life together with a fine in the sum of Rs.30,000/-. In default, the convict has been ordered to suffer six months of additional imprisonment.

2. Proceedings leading to the appellant′s arraignment and trial commenced on the basis of a written report dated 03.09.2017 lodged with Police Station Sadar Bazar, District Mathura at 9.15 a.m. by Smt. Sarvesh wife of Radhey Shyam, an aunt of the appellant, saying that she was a resident of the place near Radha Kishan Dham, Mathura and that her nephew, Babu son of Dwarka Prasad was a resident of Ganeshpuram Colony, P.S. Sadar Bazar (the appellant). She had gone over to the appellant′s house on 03.09.2017 in the morning hours in connection with some personal work, when she saw that the appellant Babu′s wife Shashi and both his sons were lying dead in their house. The appellant was not there. It was also reported that all three had been done to death with some sharp edged weapon. The informant requested investigation and necessary action in the matter. A copy of the written report is on record and marked as Ex. Ka-1.

3. On the basis of the aforesaid written report, a check First Information Report (for short, 'FIR') was registered on 03.09.2017 at 9.15 a.m. vide G.D. Entry No. 21, giving rise to Crime No.403 of 2017, under Section 302 IPC, P.S. Sadar Bazar, District Mathura. The check FIR is on record and marked as Ex. Ka-2. A copy of the relevant G.D. Entry No.21 is also on record and marked as Ex. Ka-3.

4. Here, it must be noted that during trial, apart from the original written report, marked as Ex. Ka-1, two photostat copies of the written information dated 03.09.2017 were also placed on record and mistakenly marked as Exhibits Ka-19 and Ka-28. Likewise, two photostat copies of the check FIR, in addition to the one already marked as Ex. Ka-2, were also placed on record and marked as Ex. Ka-18 and Ka-27. In addition to the extract of the G.D. Entry, that was proved and marked as Ex. Ka-3, three photostat copies of the same were placed on record and marked as Ex. Ka-13, Ka-20 and Ka-29. These Exhibits Ka-19, Ka-28, Ka-18, Ka-27, Ka-13, Ka-20 and Ka-29 are duplication of documents, which the learned Sessions Judge too has noticed to be superfluous documents, that were mistakenly marked as Exhibits. These were, therefore, ignored by the learned Trial Judge. We have also looked into the record and find that indeed these documents, which are duplicates and superfluous, were marked as exhibits by mistake. We also, therefore, ignore them.

5. Consequent upon registration of the crime, the Police proceeded with the investigation and inquest for the deceased Smt. Shashi commenced on 03.07.2017 at 10 a.m. ending at 12.15 p.m. Likewise, inquest for the deceased Jay Kishan also commenced on the same day at 10 a.m. ending at 12.15 p.m. Inquest for the deceased Neeraj commenced on 03.09.2017 at 10 a.m. ending at 1.00 p.m. The inquest report relating to Smt. Shashi is on record as Ex. Ka-4, that relating to Jay Kishan as Ex. Ka-5 and the one relating to the deceased Neeraj as Ex. Ka-6.

6. Autopsy on the cadavers of the three deceaseds was held on 03.09.2017 at 6 p.m. Smt. Shashi sustained six incised wounds and an abrasion. The cause of death opined was shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The autopsy report is on record as Ex. Ka-7. The autopsy report relating to the deceased Jay Kishan shows that the deceased sustained as many as fourteen incised wounds and the cause of death indicated is shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. This autopsy report is also marked, surprisingly as Ex. Ka-7. The marking of exhibits before the learned Trial Judge for some reason, apparently attributable to lack of acumen of the ministerial staff assisting the learned Judge, has gone haywire at least in two instances. The third autopsy report relating to the deceased Neeraj, also dated 03.09.2017, shows that the deceased sustained seven incised wounds and the cause of death is shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem injuries. This deceased is noted to be aged 10 years. The autopsy report is on record and marked as Ex. Ka-21.

7. The appellant was arrested on 03.09.2017 from his brother′s home in Delhi by the Police and the arrest memo says that he was wearing a shirt, that had blood stains on it, and a Sando vest (baniyan), which too had blood stains. The appellant is said to have made a confession to the Police about the crime at the time of his arrest. The memo of his arrest-cum-recovery of blood-stained clothes from him, which also carries a reference to his confession, is on record and marked as Ex. Ka-33. The appellant was brought back to Mathura by the Investigating Officer, the S.H.O. of P.S. Sadar Bazar, Mathura and taken at 7.20 p.m. on 03.09.2017 to the appellant′s house, situate in Mohalla Ganeshpuram, and near the said house on a pucca road, the party alighted from the police jeep. The appellant, who was hand-cuffed, is reported to have moved ahead and crossed a culvert on a drain adjacent to his house and into a vacant plot. There, from the foliage of small babool trees and shrubs, with the aid of a torch, he recovered a banka (farsa) at 7.58 p.m. The recovery memo describes the banka in graphic detail and says that on its handle and the blade, there were blood stains and dried earth. The appellant is said to have told the Police that this was the banka that he had employed to kill all the three victims. He said that he had hid it here before leaving for Delhi. The murder weapon was secured and sealed. The Investigating Officer also took samples of plain earth and blood-stained earth, which were separately secured and sealed in two plastic containers, both placed in a white cloth before affixing the seal. The memo regarding these earth samples collected is on record as Ex. Ka-13.

8. After investigation, the Police submitted a charge-sheet dated 18.09.2017. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mathura took cognizance and furnished copies of the relevant prosecution papers to the appellant as provided under Section 207 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (for short, 'Cr.P.C.'). Thereafter, the learned Magistrate vide order dated 05.12.2017 committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial.

9. Before the Court of Sessions, the case was assigned to the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.01, Mathura for trial. It came up before Mr. Amar Nath Singh, the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Mathura on 06.01.2018 for the purpose of framing charges. The learned Judge framed a solitary charge, rather oddly, under Section 302/34 IPC. The appellant was read over and explained the charge, who denied it and claimed trial.

10. The prosecution examined the following witnesses in support of their case:

1. PW-1 - Smt. Sarvesh, the first informant,

2. PW-2 - Tejveer, a neighbour of the appellant,

3. PW-3 - CC 2439 Shekhar Chauhan, who got registered the check FIR,

4. PW-4 - Raj Kumar Nohwar, an inquest witness,

5. PW-5 - Dr. Harsh Vardhan, who conducted postmortem of the deceaseds,

6. PW-6 - HC 796 Naresh Sharma, who proved the signatures of IO/ SHO Subodh Kumar Singh on various documents and proved the charge-sheet,

7. PW-7 - Constable 372 Sonu Bhati, who proved the material exhibits.

12. After the prosecution evidence was over, the statement of the appellant was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

13. The appellant entered defence and produced Sanju @ Sanjay as DW-1 in support of his case.

14. The learned Trial Judge, after hearing learned Counsel for the parties, by means of the impugned judgment and order dated 25.01.2022 convicted the appellant of the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC, and sentenced him to imprisonment for life vide order dated 27.01.2022, besides imposing a fine of Rs.30,000/-, as already detailed.

15. Aggrieved, the appellant has preferred the present appeal.

16. Heard Mr. Abhishek Mayank, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State.

17. It must be remarked at the outset that this is a case, which rests entirely on circumstantial evidence. The two witnesses of fact, who have been examined by the prosecution, have not seen the occurrence, or so to speak, the fact in issue: Whether it was the appellant, who murdered the three victims? The witnesses of fact can at best be said to be witnesses of some relevant facts. The standard, by which the prosecution have to prove a case of circumstantial evidence, is well established. It is the duty of the prosecution, firstly to prove all the circumstances, on which they rely beyond doubt. It is then their burden to ensure that the circumstances brought on record put together form such a complete chain that it is consistent alone with the guilt of the accused beyond all reasonable doubt. There should be no other possibility or probability, of course realistic, on the foot of the circumstances established other than the one which leads to an inference of guilt for the accused. In this connection, reference may be made to Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, which is a locus classicus on the standards by which the prosecution have to establish their case, where it rests on circumstantial evidence entirely. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda (supra), it was observed by the Supreme Court:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra [(1973) 2 SCC 793 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 1033 : 1973 Crl LJ 1783] where the observations were made: [SCC para 19, p. 807: SCC (Cri) p. 1047]

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

18. There are two witnesses of fact, or so to speak of circumstances, that the prosecution have examined. The first is the first informant, Smt. Sarvesh wife of Radhey Shyam. In her examination-in-chief, which is as short as the written report that she lodged, she has stated that at the time of occurrence, she would reside near the Radha Kishan Dham, Mathura. On 03.09.2017 in the morning hours, she went to her nephew's place, that is to say, the appellant Babu's home, situate in Ganeshpuram Colony. She had gone there in connection with some personal work. Upon reaching, her nephew's home, she saw that his wife Shashi and two sons of Shashi were lying dead. The appellant was not present. All three had been done to death with a sharp edged weapon. She also said that she had dictated the written report before signing it and handed it over to the police station. She proved the written report, which was then exhibited as Ex. Ka-1.

19. This witness was cross-examined some weeks after her examination-in-chief on 17.08.2018. She has said in her cross-examination that the Police took down her statement on the 3rd between 10-10.30 of the clock. She said that she did not say in her examination-in-chief that she is not much educated. She has said further on in her cross-examination that she had gone for a stroll, when she was told of the fact by a neighbour. She does not remember the neighbour's name and address. She also stated that she had written the fact in her report as well and said so in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. that she was told of the fact by a neighbour. She did not know what the Police have written. She also said that she cannot say why it was not mentioned in her written report. It is also said that she does not know if the fact about her going for a stroll was mentioned in the written report or in her statement to the Police. It is then said that the witness did not know, who had scribed the written report, Ex. Ka-1. She did not know the scribe's address. It is also testified that the paper on which the written report was given was provided to her at the police station and she signed it also at the police station. It is next said that before the written report was lodged, she had spoken to the Police and while she was talking to the Police, the report was written. Of course, she adds as a redeeming feature that whatever is written in her report is based upon her information.

20. The next witness of fact is Tejveer son of Ramesh Chandra, who has been produced by the prosecution as PW-2. He has said in his examination-in-chief that he is a resident of Ganeshpuram Colony for the past three years. He carries on practice in medicine as his source of livelihood. On 03.09.2017 at about 7 o'clock in the morning hours, he heard a commotion, in response to which he went over to Babu's house located in the colony. He saw a big congregation of people there. The appellant Babu's house is located in the colony just behind this witness's. He has testified to the fact that in Babu's home, his wife Shashi and the two children were lying dead. All three of them had been brutally done to death. The appellant Babu was not present. A big crowd had gathered there. The door of the appellant's house was locked and the dead bodies could be seen from the window. Some persons from the crowd suggested of breaking open the main door, but this witness stopped them saying that the Police had to be informed. It is also said by this witness that upon the suggestion of others, who were there, it was he who gave information to the Police at the Chowki, which is located within the township. The Police arrived at the scene of crime upon his information. They broke open the door and were into the process of taking necessary steps when this witness came away. In his cross-examination, which is very brief, this witness has said that he had not seen the appellant Babu at his house over the past many days. The weapon of crime was lying by the side to the dead bodies. To a suggestion, he said that he was not deliberately hiding the fact that the deceaseds were done to death by unknown men.

21. Shekhar Chauhan, a Constable in the Police, then posted at P.S. Sadar Bazar, is PW-3. He has testified to the fact that on the fateful day, Head Constable Suresh Chand was on duty along with him at the police station, when Smt. Sarvesh, the informant, had handed over a written report to Suresh Chand Sharma. The Head Moharrir Suresh Chand Sharma had dictated the check FIR to the computer typist, which was registered against unknown offenders. Some part of it was typed by this witness as well. He has testified that he had typed out G.D. Entry No. 21, on the basis of which the case was registered at 9.10 a.m. at the police station. He had brought along the original G.D. from the police office. He had another typed written copy of the G.D. on him, which he proved. He proved the check FIR as well and the copy of the G.D. registering the crime. There is nothing remarkable in the testimony of this witness.

22. Raj Kumar Nohwar, PW-4, is a panch witness and has affirmed the fact that he signed the inquest reports relating to the deceaseds.

23. Dr. Harsh Vardhan, PW-5, is the autopsy doctor. He has said in his examination-in-chief that on 03.09.2017, he was posted at the Combined Hospital, Vrindavan. He affirmed the fact that he had carried out the autopsy on the cadavers of Smt. Shashi, Jay Kishan and Neeraj. He has affirmed the respective injuries on their dead bodies, all of which are multiple incised wounds. He has said in his cross-examination that the incised wounds on Smt. Shashi's dead body had varying width, which may lead to the possibility that more than one weapons were used. He also said that for the same reason, the assailants could be more than one. The same holds true for the deceased Jay Kishan and Neeraj as well. He has further on in his cross-examination commented upon the possible time of death with reference to the contents and condition of food found in the stomach or the alimentary canal, as also the presence and extent of the rigor mortis. The doctor has said that he was never shown any weapon.

24. Naresh Sharma is a Head Constable in the Police, who was produced as PW-6. He has said in his examination-in-chief that on 03.09.2017, he was posted at P.S. Sadar Bazar, Mathura as a pairokar. He has stated that investigation in the case was undertaken by S.H.O. Subodh Kumar Singh, whose writing he was acquainted with. He has proved the S.H.O.'s signatures on various documents, including recovery memos etc. and the G.D.s. He has testified towards the end of his examination-in-chief that S.H.O. Subodh Kumar Singh had been murdered. In his cross-examination, there is nothing remarkable.

25. The last witness examined on behalf of the prosecution is Sonu Bhati, a Constable, who was posted at P.S. Sadar Bazar on 03.09.2017. He had accompanied S.H.O. Subodh Kumar Singh and Senior Sub-Inspector Ravindra Yadav to the place of occurrence. He has proved the collection of blood-stained and plain earth and his signatures on the memorandum as also those on the material exhibits carrying the two kinds of earth. He had also accompanied the police party to Sonia Vihar, Delhi and to the residence of the appellant's brother Tulsi Prasad. He has testified to the recovery of the blood-stained shirt and vest that the appellant was wearing. This witness has also witnessed the recovery of the murder weapon, which the prosecution allege from the foliage in an open plot of land near the appellant's house. The statement that the appellant made at the time of recovery has also been testified to. The witness has also proved material exhibits of the recovery as also the recovery memorandum. In his cross-examination, he has testified to a few matters that are relevant, and in our opinion, must be quoted in his own words:

"जब अभियुक्त को देहली से पकड़ा तो दिल्ली किसी मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष पेश नहीं किया। कोई भी स्वतंत्र व्यक्ति किसी भी रिकवरी का गवाह नहीं बनाया गया था। और न ही कोई स्वतंत्र व्यक्ति मुलजिम का ब्यान लेने से पूर्व बुलाया गया। किसी स्वतंत्र साक्षी की मौजूदगी में मुलजिम का ब्यान नहीं लिया गया था। मुलजिम को कोई चेतावनी नहीं दी गयी कि वह अपने विरूद्ध कुछ भी कहने को बाध्य नहीं है। इस सम्बन्ध में मुलजिम से कोई सहमति (Acknowledge) नहीं ली गयी। मेरी जानकारी में नहीं है कि बरामद शुदा बंका किसी डाक्टर को दिखाकर पूछा गया कि इस हथियार से मृतकों को चोट आई या नहीं। मुलजिम का Discloser statement लेने से पहले किसी स्वतंत्र गवाह को बुलाया अथवा नहीं मुझे याद नहीं है। दिल्ली में मुलजिम का कोई ब्यान भी नहीं लिया था। जिस जगह से बांक बरामद हुआ वह स्थान खुला हुआ स्थान था वह सभी को दिखाई देता था। दिन में बांक को देखा जा सकता था। कपड़ों पर कितने स्थानों पर खून था यह फर्द में नहीं लिखा हुआ है। न उनके साइज लिखे हुए है। मुझे नहीं पता कि घटना स्थल से पाया

गया ब्लड व बांक व कपड़ों पर पाये गये ब्लड को टेली करने भेजा गया या नहीं। फर्द बरामदगी में गणेश पुरम के किसी व्यक्ति को गवाह नहीं बनाया गया। बरामदगी स्थल का कोई नक्शा नहीं बनाया गया। फर्द बरामदगी में बरामदगी के समय पर ओवर राइटिंग है। बरामदगी का पहले समय क्या लिखा गया था मैं नहीं बता सकता। जो बांक मैं बरामद होना बताता हूं इस तरह के बांक बाजार में मिल जाते हैं। बांक के फल पर किस क्षेत्र में कितनी लम्बाई मैं कितनी चौड़ाई मैं कितने धब्बे थे यह नहीं लिखा हुआ है। बांक की धार पर खून के धब्बे थे यह भी नहीं लिखा है। यह बात सही है कि हस्ताक्षरों से पहले फर्द मे यह लिखा हुआ है कि हमराहियान कर्मचारियों के हस्ताक्षर बनवाये गये। पहले फर्द लिखी गयी फिर सील किया गया।

26. In the last question, that was put to the appellant under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which is to the effect if he had anything else to say, the appellant has stated:

"मै घटना वाले दिन व समय घटनास्थल पर न होकर दिल्ली में रह रहा था। पुलिस ने मेरे विरुद्ध फर्जी व झूठी कार्यवाही की है तथा गलत समय व दिनांक पर घटना होना दर्शाया है। घटना से संबंधित आलाकतल मेरे निशानदेही पर बरामद नहीं हुआ है। फर्जी बरामदगी दिखाया है। मैं निर्दोष हूं। झूठा फंसाया गया है।"

27. The appellant produced in his defence, Sanju @ Sanjay son of Dwarka Prasad as DW-1. DW-1 in his examination-in-chief has said that he is a shop-keeper by profession and lives in Gali No.4, House No.166, Sonia Vihar, P.S. Sonia Vihar, District Kirawal Nagar, Delhi-94. He is apparently a brother of the appellant of full blood. He has testified that his brother Babu lives with him in Delhi and the two together sell their wares on the footpath. The appellant's wife and children live in Mathura. The appellant would visit his family once a month and provide them with money, whenever he would visit them. Fifteen days antedating the occurrence, the appellant had to come back to Delhi after providing for his wife and children, and on the fateful night, the appellant was with this witness in Delhi. After his wife and children died, on 03.09.2017, the Police from P.S. Sadar Bazar came over to his house at 12 noon. The other family members, upon inquiry by the Police, told them that the appellant would be present with the witness at his shop. On 03.09.2017, the two brothers were transacting business on the footpath of the 25 feet wide road, located at Sonia

Vihar, when the Sadar Bazar Police came over and took the appellant away. His brother was wearing clean and untainted clothes with no blood spots on them.

28. The witness also says that the appellant had cordial relations with his wife and children and there were no bickerings between them. The witness has also said that the Police on the following day, when the witness came over to Mathura, kept assuring him that they would release the appellant by evening, but they did not. Therefore, the witness on 05.09.2017 addressed an application to the S.S.P., Mathura in this regard, a copy whereof is on record. In his cross-examination by the prosecution, the witness (DW-1) says that he lives in Delhi with his wife and children. The appellant's children would study at Mathura and for the said reason, he would not bring them over to Delhi. The appellant would frequent his family at Mathura. The appellant and this witness were five brothers. The eldest of them Tulsi Das lived in Delhi; the second is the appellant; the third in order of age was the witness; the fourth was Vinod; and, the fifth Narendra. Vinod and Narendra stayed in the village and all the other three at Delhi.

29. The witness has further on said in his cross-examination that it was true that the incident happened in the night intervening 02/03.09.2017. The appellant had gone over to Mathura 7-8 days earlier. On 03.09.2017, the appellant was arrested from their shop. It was then that all of them came to know that the appellant's wife and children had been murdered at Mathura. He moved the S.S.P. in the matter, but did not know of the outcome. The witness also says that he sells ladies' wares on the footpath. There is a school across the footpath, called Hardang Public School. The first information was lodged by their aunt against unknown offenders.

30. The foremost circumstance that has been propounded by the prosecution to establish the case is the fact that the appellant and the three deceaseds were a family of husband, wife and two children, and the fact that three of the family were found dead at their residence with the appellant, the fourth family member absent, throws the burden upon him under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act to disclose facts specially within his knowledge relating to the circumstances in which three others of the family died. We must remark at the outset that the prosecution have to establish their case even in a case of circumstantial evidence and cannot rely upon the special knowledge of the accused alone to relieve them of the overall burden under Section 101 of the Evidence Act. It is after the prosecution have established the necessary incriminating circumstances, with only some facts remaining unexplained, which possibly the prosecution cannot know of, that the burden under Section 106 of the Evidence Act can be invoked. In that case too, the failure to discharge the burden would not ipso facto lead to a discharge of the prosecution′s burden of proof under Section 101 of the Evidence Act. The failure of the accused to explain a special fact within his knowledge may add one link to the chain of circumstances, which in any case has to be completed by the prosecution in order to discharge their burden under Section 101.

31. The mere fact that a family of four, that stayed together, out of whom three were found murdered, when the fourth was not around, is not a circumstance in itself to hold it as a circumstance in itself against him as one link in his complicity. There could be many possibilities compatible with the murder of the other family members and yet consistent with the surviving member's innocence. Therefore, the prosecution would have to show some conduct on the surviving family member's part to indicate his complicity in the crime that would serve as a circumstance in the chain to be completed before the charge against him can be brought home. Here, it is not that the prosecution have not produced any evidence to show that the appellant's complicity could be there, apart from his mere absence from the party's family home. The prosecution have allegedly recovered blood-stained clothes from the person of the appellant, which he wore at the time when they arrested him from his brother's house in Delhi, and then, also produced evidence of recovery of the weapon of offence at his pointing, which may be admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence. Act.

32. The fact, therefore, if the absence of the appellant from his home while his family were found murdered within the four-walls of their house, is an incriminating circumstance to form a link in the chain, would depend upon the fact if the recovery of blood-stained clothes from the appellant's person and recovery of the weapon of crime at his pointing out are established by the prosecution. So far as recovery of the blood-stained shirt and the vest that he wore at the time when the appellant was arrested from his brother's home or may be from their place of business, as the appellant's brother, DW-1, says, depends if this recovery can be said to be established by any cogent or reliable evidence. According to the prosecution, the Police went to the deceased's brother's home at Delhi and found him there wearing the blood-stained clothes, which were taken away from his person at the time of his arrest. There does not appear to be much cavil about the fact that the appellant was indeed arrested from Delhi, though there is an issue about the fact if he was arrested from his elder brother Tulsi Das's home or the footpath shop, where he would work along with his younger brother Sanju @ Sanjay, DW-1. That matter, for the time being, can be kept aside as the foremost to determine is the fact if the appellant was indeed arrested wearing blood-stained clothes at Delhi, wherever he was. A perusal of the recovery memo, Ex. Ka-33, shows that it is signed by the two inspectors and the two constables Sonu Bhati and Pramod, who were part of the police party, that had gone to Delhi to arrest the appellant. The recovery memo is not signed by the appellant. There are no signatures of any independent or public witness as well. It also appears from the testimony of PW-7, Constable Sonu Bhati, that no public witness was asked to witness the recovery. In this connection, reference may be made to the following part of the cross-examination of PW-7, Constable Sonu Bhati:

"कपड़ों की फर्द बनायी गयी उसके बाद सील मौहर किया गया। फर्द में उल्लेख नहीं है कि कपड़ो पर किस किस साइज के व कहां -कहां खून लगा है। इस फर्द पर किसी स्वतंत्र गवाह के हस्ताक्षर नहीं है न ही किसी गवाह को बुलाया गया। जहां फर्द समाप्त हुई है उससे काफी नीचे कर्मचारियों के हस्ताक्षर है। कपड़ों की फर्द पर अभियुक्त के हस्ताक्षर नहीं है।"

33. What we find is that the evidence of recovery of these blood-stained clothes from the person of the appellant is utterly unreliable for three reasons: firstly, the fact that the appellant himself did not sign the recovery memo and there is no endorsement on the recovery memo that he was asked to sign it but refused. The document is signed by the police party alone and in the absence of the appellant signing it, or their being an endorsement of his declination, the recovery memo becomes utterly suspect and looses almost all its fidelity; secondly, the fact that admittedly no effort was made to secure the presence of an independent witness for witnessing the recovery of blood-stained clothes found on the appellant's person when he was arrested, adds to the suspicion about the fact itself; and, thirdly, it belies the possible and plausible behaviour of any man, much less a murderer, who has escaped from home and gone to his brother that hours after the evil deed he would still wear blood-stained clothes, almost carrying damning evidence wrapped about his person. In the normal conduct of human affairs, after commission of a gruesome crime, like murder, it is not only the expected behaviour of an accused, but something borne by testimony of crime etched in judicial records that the first thing that a murderer does is to wash away the blood-stains; or at least attempt to do so.

34. This takes us to the question of the incriminating recovery of the murder weapon at the pointing out of the appellant. The recovery of the weapon of offence is recorded in a memo of recovery dated 03.09.2017, which is on record as Ex. Ka-34. The material part of the recovery memo reads:

"फर्द बरामदगी आलाकत्ल बांका (फरसा) सम्बन्धित मु०अ०सं० 403/17 धारा 302 IPC थाना सदर बाजार मथुरा।

This memo of recovery is also signed by the appellant.

35. What we notice about this memo of recovery is that there is no prior disclosure statement recorded by the Police, which would relate distinctly to the fact likely to be discovered so as to make the appellant's statement to that extent admissible in evidence. The Police apparently in some surreptitious manner recorded the fact that the appellant would lead them to the place where he had hidden the weapon of crime and set about the task of getting the weapon recovered. How this was precisely done and how much in breach of the law it was, is evident from the following part of examination-in-chief of PW-7 Constable Sonu Bhati:

"इसके उपरान्त हम सभी हमराहीजन अभियुक्त बाबू को दिल्ली से लेकर उसी दिन थाना सदर बाजार आये तथा थाना सदर बाजार से नये सरकारी जीप से चालक सुनील कुमार को मैं, कांस्टेबल प्रमोद कुमार, SSI रविन्द्र यादव व थानाध्यक्ष सुबोध कुमार सिंह, अभियुक्त बाबू द्वारा बतायी गयी आला - कतल की बरामदगी हेतु समय 19-20 बजे अभियुक्त के घर के पास पहुँचे, जहां से अभियुक्त के निशान देही पर मकान से सटे नाले की पुलिया से पार नाले की दूसरी तरफ खाली प्लाट पर पहुंचे। खाली प्लाट पर स्थित बबूल के छोटे पेड़ व झाड़ियों में से टार्च की रोशनी की सहायता से समय करीब 19:58 बजे छुपाकर रखा गया लोहे का बांक अभियुक्त ने निकाल कर अभियुक्त ने दिया। बांक का फल लोहे का, बेता लकड़ी का गोलाकार बना हुआ था। बेंते की ऊपर से फल का लम्बा भाग लकड़ी का बना हुआ है। बेंते में लोहे का छल्ला फंसा हुआ है। बांक की लम्बाई 1 बलिस्त 10 अंगुल है जिसमें फल की नुकीली हिस्से की लम्बाई करीब 4 अंगुल है। मुख्य फल की लम्बाई करीब 10 अंगुल, चौड़ाई 5 अंगुल है। लकड़ी के बेते की कुल लम्बाई 7 अंगुल है। बांक व बेते पर खून के धब्बे व मिट्टी लगी हुयी है। अभियुक्त बाबू ने बांक बरामद करते हुये बताया था कि यह वही बांक है, जिससे मैंने अपनी पत्नी व दोनों बच्चों की हत्या की है। इसको मैं दिल्ली जाने से पहले छुपा गया था। आज ये बांक मेरे सामने है। जिस पर वस्तु प्रदर्श-4 डाला गया। बरामद बांक को सूत की रूई में रखकर, कपड़े में रखकर सील कर सर्वे मोहर नमूना टार्च की रोशनी में तैयार किया गया था। फर्द थानाध्यक्ष महोदय द्वारा बोल बोलकर SSI रविन्द्र यादव से टार्च की रोशनी में लिखवायी गयी थी जिस पर मेरे अलावा कांस्टेबल प्रमोद, थानाध्यक्ष सुबोध कुमार सिंह और SSI रबिन्द्र यादव तथा अभियुक्त बाबू के मौके पर हस्ताक्षर कराये गये थे।"

36. In his cross-examination, this witness has testified:

"जब अभियुक्त को देहली से पकड़ा तो दिल्ली किसी मजिस्ट्रेट के समक्ष पेश नहीं किया। कोई भी स्वतंत्र व्यक्ति किसी भी रिकवरी का गवाह नहीं बनाया गया था। और न ही कोई स्वतंत्र व्यक्ति मुलजिम का ब्यान लेने से पूर्व बुलाया गया। किसी स्वतंत्र साक्षी की मौजूदगी में मुलजिम का ब्यान नहीं लिया गया था।..... मुलजिम का Discloser statement लेने से पहले किसी स्वतंत्र गवाह को बुलाया अथवा नहीं मुझे याद नहीं है। दिल्ली में मुलजिम का कोई ब्यान भी नहीं लिया था। जिस जगह से बांक बरामद हुआ वह स्थान खुला हुआ स्थान था वह सभी को दिखाई देता था। दिन में बांक को देखा जा सकता था।"

37. To our understanding, this kind of a recovery does not satisfy the requirements of Section 27 of the Evidence Act nor can the information, as distinctly relates to the fact discovered thereby, the fact being the discovery of the weapon of murder and the information obviously being that the appellant had hidden the weapon of murder at the place, wherefrom he got it recovered. These cannot be read in evidence. The reason why it cannot be read in evidence is that the first part of the memorandum or panchayatnama under Section 27 of the Evidence Act has not been drawn up, as the law requires it. It has not been drawn up at the police station after calling two independent witnesses to witness the disclosure made. The requirement is to record the disclosure in the presence of witnesses, and thereafter, follow the accused to the place about which he has made the disclosure, along with the two independent witnesses. It is only if the appellant had recovered the weapon of crime in the presence of such panch witnesses, before whom he had made the disclosure, would the evidence be admissible under Section 27. Else not. If no independent witness was available to witness the disclosure, the fact had to be recorded in the panchnama. In that event, the evidence of the Investigating Officer would have to be considered. Here, that is not the case. It is a case of utter breach where no independent witness was summoned at the time of recording the disclosure statement by the Investigating Officer at all. Otherwise as well, in this case, the Investigating Officer, who could have proved the recovery under Section 27, subject to fulfillment of conditions which have not been adhered to here, has not been produced to prove the fact because Subodh Kumar Singh, the Investigating Officer, died shortly afterwards. The only witness of the recovery made purportedly under Section 27 is PW-7, who has been produced. This witness by his own evidence renders the recovery suspect and surely one in breach of the salutary requirement. He has clearly said that no independent witness was called at the time when the disclosure statement was recorded. He has described the steps leading to the recovery, which is sought to be admitted in evidence by the prosecution, that clearly show that it was just a hurried act of hustling the appellant to the place wherefrom recovery was alleged and then attributing the recovery at his pointing from the bushes in an open piece of land. This kind of a recovery, which the prosecution want us to act upon by resort to Section 27 of the Evidence Act far from satisfies the requirements of the law. The law in this connection has been laid down by the Supreme Court in Ramanand v. State of U.P., (2023) 16 SCC 510. The facts and the issue involved, relevant to the question here, can best be recapitulated in the words of their Lordships in Ramanand (supra). In Ramanand, the relevant facts were:

"Discovery of weapon of offence and bloodstained clothes

54. It is the case of the prosecution that on 24-1-2010 the appellant-accused was picked up by the investigating officer from nearby a bus stand and was arrested in connection with the alleged crime. After the arrest of the appellant-accused and while he being in the custody at the police station, he is said to have on his own free will and volition made a statement that he would like to point out the place where he had hidden the weapon of offence (banka) and his bloodstained clothes after the commission of the alleged crime. According to him, after such statement was made by the appellant-accused, he along with his subordinates set forth for the place as led by the accused. There is something very unusual, that we have noticed in the oral evidence of the investigating officer. According to him while the police party along with the accused were on their way, all of a sudden, the investigating officer realised that he should have two independent witnesses with him for the purpose of drawing the panchnama of discovery. In such circumstances, while on the way the investigating officer picked up PW 2 Chhatarpal Raidas and Pratap to act as the panch witnesses. According to the investigating officer the accused led them to a coriander field and from a bush he took out the weapon of offence (banka) and the bloodstained clothes. The weapon of offence and the bloodstained clothes were collected in the presence of the two panch witnesses and the panchnama, Ext. 5 was accordingly drawn. The weapon of offence and the bloodstained clothes thereafter were sent for the serological test to the forensic science laboratory. We are of the view that the courts below committed a serious error in relying upon this piece of evidence of discovery of a fact i.e. the weapon and clothes at the instance of the accused as one of the incriminating circumstances in the chain of other circumstances. We shall explain here below why we are saying so."

38. Now, the manner in which a recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act is to be effected in order to make it admissible in evidence has been laid down by the Supreme Court in Ramanand, where it is observed:

"56. If, it is say of the investigating officer that the appellant-accused while in custody on his own free will and volition made a statement that he would lead to the place where he had hidden the weapon of offence along with his bloodstained clothes then the first thing that the investigating officer should have done was to call for two independent witnesses at the police station itself. Once the two independent witnesses arrive at the police station thereafter in their presence the accused should be asked to make an appropriate statement as he may desire in regard to pointing out the place where he is said to have hidden the weapon of offence. When the accused while in custody makes such statement before the two independent witnesses (panch witnesses) the exact statement or rather the exact words uttered by the accused should be incorporated in the first part of the panchnama that the investigating officer may draw in accordance with law. This first part of the panchnama for the purpose of Section 27 of the Evidence Act is always drawn at the police station in the presence of the independent witnesses so as to lend credence that a particular statement was made by the accused expressing his willingness on his own free will and volition to point out the place where the weapon of offence or any other article used in the commission of the offence had been hidden. Once the first part of the panchnama is completed thereafter the police party along with the accused and the two independent witnesses (panch witnesses) would proceed to the particular place as may be led by the accused. If from that particular place anything like the weapon of offence or bloodstained clothes or any other article is discovered then that part of the entire process would form the second part of the panchnama. This is how the law expects the investigating officer to draw the discovery panchnama as contemplated under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. If we read the entire oral evidence of the investigating officer then it is clear that the same is deficient in all the aforesaid relevant aspects of the matter.

57. The reason why we are not ready or rather reluctant to accept the evidence of discovery is that the investigating officer in his oral evidence has not said about the exact words uttered by the accused at the police station. The second reason to discard the evidence of discovery is that the investigating officer has failed to prove the contents of the discovery panchnama. The third reason to discard the evidence is that even if the entire oral evidence of the investigating officer is accepted as it is, what is lacking is the authorship of concealment. The fourth reason to discard the evidence of the discovery is that although one of the panch witnesses PW 2 Chhatarpal Raidas was examined by the prosecution in the course of the trial, yet has not said a word that he had also acted as a panch witness for the purpose of discovery of the weapon of offence and the bloodstained clothes. The second panch witness, namely, Pratap though available was not examined by the prosecution for some reason. Therefore, we are now left with the evidence of the investigating officer so far as the discovery of the weapon of offence and the bloodstained clothes as one of the incriminating pieces of circumstances is concerned. We are conscious of the position of law that even if the independent witnesses to the discovery panchnama are not examined or if no witness was present at the time of discovery or if no person had agreed to affix his signature on the document, it is difficult to lay down, as a proposition of law, that the document so prepared by the police officer must be treated as tainted and the discovery evidence unreliable. In such circumstances, the Court has to consider the evidence of the investigating officer who deposed to the fact of discovery based on the statement elicited from the accused on its own worth.

58. Applying the aforesaid principle of law, we find the evidence of the investigating officer not only unreliable but we can go to the extent to saying that the same does not constitute legal evidence."

39. We have already noticed the manner in which a surreptitious recovery, without recording a disclosure statement in the presence of two independent witnesses, was effected by the Police from an open piece of land. The manner in which the recovery of the murder weapon was done, for all the reasons that we have indicated hereinbefore and the principles laid down by the Supreme Court in Ramanand, does not render either the statement of the appellant or the fact discovered distinctly in consequence thereof, admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. In our considered opinion, therefore, this incriminating circumstance of recovery of the weapon of murder at the pointing out of the appellant has to be discarded.

40. There is another facet to the issue of recovery in this case. PW-7 in his cross-examination has very candidly acknowledged the fact that the place from where the banka was recovered is an open place, visible to all. During day time, the banka could be seen. The recovery of the weapon of crime from an open place, apparently accessible to the public and where it was visible too, does not inspire confidence with us, even otherwise to accept the evidence of recovery. To add to this is the testimony of PW-2, an independent witness and a neighbour of the appellant, who has said in his cross-examination that when he visited the appellant's house, he saw the weapon of murder lying close-by to the dead bodies. This witness was never cross-examined by the prosecution about this assertion of his. This renders the recovery at the pointing out of the appellant highly suspect.

41. There is yet another angle to the matter. In a case of circumstantial evidence, the assailant would have some reasonable motive to commit the crime, which it is always safe to consider and look into in such cases. Here, the testimony, that has been offered by the prosecution, does not attribute any motive to the appellant to commit such a gruesome crime. There is some mention of a motive in the statement of the appellant recorded by the Police under Section 161 Cr.P.C., bot no evidence thereof could be produced in Court by the prosecution. In the absence of some reasonable and potent motive in a case of circumstantial evidence, like the present one, it would be unsafe to convict the appellant. We are aware of the well settled principle that the absence of motive alone will not be a ground to throw out a prosecution based entirely on circumstantial evidence, where it establishes the guilt beyond reasonable doubt, but in a case where the circumstances otherwise do not establish the case, the absence of motive, as in the present case, would certainly weigh in favour of the appellant. In this connection, reference may be made to

Subhash Aggarwal v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2025) 8 SCC 440. In Subhash Aggarwal (supra), it was held:

"26. Nandu Singh v. State of M.P. [Nandu Singh v. State of M.P., (2022) 19 SCC 301] was a case in which the deceased was found missing and later his body recovered. One of the witnesses deposed that the deceased was seen going out with the accused from a hotel which was the sole circumstance connecting the accused with the deceased which according to the learned Judges could not even be brought under the theory of last seen together, since there was nothing to indicate that they were seen together proximate to the crime. The total absence of motive also weighed with the Court in acquitting the accused.

27. Reliance was placed on State of U.P. v. Kishanpal [State of U.P. v. Kishanpal, (2008) 16 SCC 73 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 182] wherein it was held that motive is something which is primarily known to the accused themselves and it is not possible for the prosecution to always explain what prompted or excited them to commit a particular crime. Motive is a very important link in the circumstances which could prove the guilt of the accused, and it loses its importance only when there is direct evidence of eyewitnesses, which is convincing and conclusive as to the guilt of the accused.

28. However, it was also noticed in Kishanpal [State of U.P. v. Kishanpal, (2008) 16 SCC 73 : (2010) 4 SCC (Cri) 182] that even if there may be a very strong motive for the accused to commit a particular crime, it does not lead to a conviction by itself, if the eyewitnesses are not convincing or the chain of circumstances is not complete.

29. The declaration in the cited decisions and the decisions relied on therein, is to the effect that if the case is built solely upon circumstantial evidence, absence of motive will be a factor that weighs in favour of the accused. Just as a strong motive does not by itself result in a conviction, the absence of motive on that sole ground cannot result in an acquittal. When the eyewitnesses are not convincing, a strong motive cannot by itself result in conviction, likewise when the circumstances are very convincing and provide an unbroken chain leading only to the conclusion of guilt of the accused and not to any other hypothesis; the total absence of a motive will be of no consequence.

30. We extract para 17 from a three-Judge Bench decision, Jan Mohammad v. State of Bihar [Jan Mohammad v. State of Bihar, (1953) 1 SCC 5] ; which also is of vintage flavour, succinctly putting forth the proposition: (SCC p. 12)

"17. Motive is a relevant fact under the Evidence Act (Section 8). It is an important element in a chain of presumptive proof where the evidence is purely circumstantial, but it may lose importance in a case where there is direct evidence by witnesses implicating the accused. In a case such as the present where the prosecution evidence itself shows that the relations between the deceased and the appellants were cordial, the absence of an apparent motive, though not necessarily fatal to the prosecution case, may reasonably be regarded as a fact in favour of the accused. We think, therefore, that the attempt to prove a motive against any of the appellants has failed. [sic]"

31. Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar [Suresh Chandra Bahri v. State of Bihar, 1995 Supp (1) SCC 80 : 1995 SCC (Cri) 60] held that in a case based on circumstantial evidence, proof of motive would "supply a link in the chain of circumstances" but all the same, absence of motive cannot be a ground to altogether reject the prosecution case. Para 21 reads as follows: (SCC p. 95)

"21. At the very outset we may mention that sometimes motive plays an important role and becomes a compelling force to commit a crime and therefore motive behind the crime is a relevant factor for which evidence may be adduced. A motive is something which prompts a person to form an opinion or intention to do certain illegal act or even a legal act but with illegal means with a view to achieve that intention. In a case where there is clear proof of motive for the commission of the crime it affords added support to the finding of the court that the accused was guilty of the offence charged with. But it has to be remembered that the absence of proof of motive does not render the evidence bearing on the guilt of the accused nonetheless untrustworthy or unreliable because most often it is only the perpetrator of the crime alone who knows as to what circumstances prompted him to a certain course of action leading to the commission of the crime."

32. Sukhpal Singh v. State of Punjab [Sukhpal Singh v. State of Punjab, (2019) 15 SCC 622 : (2020) 1 SCC (Cri) 460] found that if prosecution establishes motive, it will undoubtedly strengthen the prosecution case, but to say that absence of motive will be fatal to the prosecution, irrespective of other material before the court in the form of circumstantial evidence is far-fetched. Para 15 reads as follows: (SCC p. 627)

"15. The last submission which we are called upon to deal with is that there is no motive established against the appellant for committing murder. It is undoubtedly true that the question of motive may assume significance in a prosecution case based on circumstantial evidence. But the question is whether in a case of circumstantial evidence inability on the part of the prosecution to establish a motive is fatal to the prosecution case. We would think that while it is true that if the prosecution establishes a motive for the accused to commit a crime it will undoubtedly strengthen the prosecution version based on circumstantial evidence, but that is far cry from saying that the absence of a motive for the commission of the crime by the accused will irrespective of other material available before the court by way of circumstantial evidence be fatal to the prosecution. In such circumstances, on account of the circumstances which stand established by evidence as discussed above, we find no merit in the appeal and same shall stand dismissed."

(emphasis supplied)

33. Motive remains hidden in the inner recesses of the mind of the perpetrator, which cannot, oftener than ever, be ferreted out by the investigation agency. Though in a case of circumstantial evidence, the complete absence of motive would weigh in favour of the accused, it cannot be declared as a general proposition of universal application that, in the absence of motive, the entire inculpatory circumstances should be ignored and the accused acquitted."

42. In this case, we have relied on the absence of motive as weakening one link in the chain of circumstances, which otherwise is far from complete. It is not that on ground of absence of motive alone, we opine in favour of the appellant.

43. There is yet another aspect of the matter. There is evidence on behalf of the defence, that is to say, the testimony of DW-1, the appellant's brother, who has said that the appellant would stay at Delhi with him and work for a period of one month or 15 days and periodically visit his family to provide for them. The brothers would sell small time wares on the footpath of a particular road in order to earn their livelihood. This witness has said that on the fateful night, the appellant was with him and had come back from Mathura after his last visit more than a week ago. This testimony of DW-1 has to be read in conjunction with the evidence of PW-2, who is a neighbour of the appellant's at Mathura. He has said in his cross-examination that he had not seen the appellant at his home for the past many days. This testimony of PW-2, while it may not entirely support the stand of DW-1 that the two brothers worked at Delhi with the appellant, visiting his family periodically at Mathura because his children were studying there, appears to support the fact that the appellant was not at Mathura for the past few days and on the day of the crime. We emphasize that discarding defence evidence and treating it always as second grade or unreliable testimony, is neither a principle of law nor one of prudence. The quality, character, origin and truthfulness of defence evidence must be judged with an even scale, just as the case is with the prosecution evidence. Here, both the evidence strongly support the likelihood of the appellant, indeed staying with his brother at Delhi and in all likelihood not being the present during some days past at his home in Mathura before and at time of the crime. It is a matter, which certainly weakens the prosecution case about completing that infallible chain of circumstances, which alone can lead to conviction in a case based entirely on circumstantial evidence.

44. Upon consideration of all the circumstances, we find and hold that the chain of circumstances is far from complete so as to support a conviction for the appellant on the charge of murder of his wife and two sons.

45. In the result, we allow this appeal, set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 25/ 27.01.2022 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.01, Mathura in Sessions Trial No. 817 of 2017 and acquit the appellant. The appellant is in jail. He will be released forthwith unless wanted in connection with some other case.

46. The appellant shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.25,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for his appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against his acquittal.

47. Let the lower court records be returned.

1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been directed against the judgment and order dated 30.10.1987 passed by IIIrd Additional Sessions Judge, Etah in Sessions Trial No.497 of 1986 (State Vs. Virendra Singh) arising out of Case Crime No.12 of 1986, under Section 302 IPC, Police Station - Awagarh, District Etah convicting and sentencing the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. for life imprisonment.

2. Prosecution story, in nutshell, as unfolded in written report (Ex.Ka.-1), is as follows:

The informant of this case Narsingh Pal got solemnized the marriage of Baby, daughter of his brother-in-law with his cousin brother Virendra Singh about six months back. Virendra Singh used to torture and harass his wife. In the morning of 16.02.1986, Baby came to his wife (Reshma Devi) and told her about the harassment and torture extended by her husband Virendra Singh, on which the informant's wife tried to convince and subside the matter, but she did not agree to go to her husband's house. At about 2:00 P.M., her (Baby's) husband Virendra having wooden plank (flat piece of wood) in his hand came to the house of the informant, while hurling abuses and started beating the wife of the informant and his own wife Baby. At this moment, son of the informant namely, Ravikant objected and tried to save Baby. On being rescued, Virendra, in a state of anger, hurled abuses to Ravikant and made an assault with wooden plank upon the head of Ravikant, who fell down on the ground. Thereafter, Virendra leaving the wooden plank, fled away from the spot. Ravikant sustained injury on his head. When they (informant's side) rushed the injured on a bullock cart, Ravikant succumbed to his injuries just coming out of the village. The informant returned to his house and kept the dead body of the deceased at his platform (chabootra). The incident was witnessed by the wife of the informant and the villagers Tejpal s/o Jhunni, Raghunath s/o Man Singh, Hodal and Hattarpal, who belonged to the village of the informant.

3. On the basis of written report (Ex.Ka.-1), on 16.02.1986 at 04:10 P.M., Chik First Information Report (Ex.Ka-3) as Case Crime No.12 of 1986, under Section 304 IPC was registered against the accused at Police Station - Awagarh, District Etah.

4. On 17.02.1986 at 2:00 P.M., the autopsy of the deceased Ravikant was performed by Dr. B.V. Verma, who found following ante-mortem injuries on his person :

(i) Lacerated wound 3.5 cm. x .5 cm x bone deep on right side of skull 13.5 cm. above right ear and longitudinally placed.

On internal examination, the doctor found right parietal bone fractured, membranes were congested and haematoma was present above and below the membranes. Brain was deeply congested and haematoma was present. The duration of death was about one day old.

As per opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was coma as a result of ante-mortem injuries. The postmortem report is Ex. Ka.-2.

5. Sub Inspector Mahipal Singh P.W.6 started the investigation. He reached the village, where the dead body of the deceased was kept at the chabootra. He prepared the inquest report (Ex.Ka.5) before the witnesses and also prepared other relevant papers i.e. photo lash (Ex.Ka.-6), letter to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka.-7), letter to R.I. (Ex.Ka.-8), sample seal (Ex.Ka.-9), challan lash (Ex.Ka.-10), letter to C.M.O. for conducting autopsy (Ex.Ka.-11) and after sealing the dead body of the deceased sent it through constables Prahlad Singh and Ram Sewak for conducting autopsy at the District Hospital Mortuary, Etah. Thereafter he recovered blood stained and plain soil from the place of incident and prepared its memo (Ex.Ka.-12). He also recovered wooden plank used by the accused and prepared its memo (Ex.Ka.-13). After inspecting the spot, site plan of the place of occurrence was prepared by him as Ex.Ka.-14. This Investigating Officer also recorded the statement of witnesses and after completion of the investigation, he submitted charge-sheet (Ex.Ka.-15) under Section 304 IPC against the accused. Thereafter, cognizance was taken upon the said charge-sheet and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions.

6. Accused appeared before the Court and after hearing both the parties, charge was framed under Section 302 IPC against the accused. The accused pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. Trial started and in order to prove it′s case, the prosecution adduced informant Narsingh Pal, (father of the deceased) as P.W.1, Tej Pal Singh (neighbour of the informant) as P.W.2, Reshma Devi (wife of the informant) as P.W.3, Dr. B.V. Verma (who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased) as P.W.4, Head Constable Surendra Singh (Head Moharrir, P.S. Awagarh, who prepared the chik F.I.R. and made G.D. entry) as P.W.5 and S.I. Mahipal Singh (Investigating Officer, who inspected the spot, prepared site plan and recorded the statements of the witness and prepared other papers) as P.W.6.

8. In support of oral version, following documents were filed and proved on behalf of the prosecution:

Written report / tehrir dated 16.02.1986 (Ex.Ka.-1), postmortem report (Ex.Ka.-2), chik first information report (Ex.Ka.-3), copy of the G.D. Entry (Ex.Ka.-4), inquest report dated 16.02.1986 (Ex.Ka.-5), photo lash (Ex.Ka.-6), letter to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka.-7), letter to R.I. (Ex.Ka.-8), sample seal (Ex.Ka.-9), challan lash (Ex.Ka.-10), letter to C.M.O. for conducting autopsy (Ex.Ka.-11), memo in respect of blood stained and plain soil (Ex.Ka.-12), memo of recovered wooden plank (Ex.Ka.-13), Site Plan (Ex.Ka.-14) and charge sheet (Ex.Ka.-15).

9. After the prosecution evidence was over, all adverse/incriminating circumstances relied upon by the prosecution were disclosed to accused in question answer form for his version of occurrence as per mandate of Section 313 Cr.P.C. Accused denied all those adverse/incriminating facts put to him and said that the prosecution case is false, he is innocent and falsely implicated on account of animosity.

10. Trial Court, having heard learned counsel for parties and going through entire record, vide impugned judgment and order, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellant as above. Hence, feeling aggrieved with said judgment and order, present accused-appellant has filed this appeal.

11. Heard Sri Narendra Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant and Ms. Archana Singh, learned A.G.A. for the State.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant argued that that the prosecution case is totally baseless and from the evidence available on record, no case is made out as against the convict / appellant. It was further argued that the learned trial Court has misinterpreted the evidence available on record. P.W.1 and P.W.-2 were cross-examined by the State, therefore, both these witnesses are hostile witnesses and their depositions cannot be relied upon. P.W.-3 has not established the place of incident and therefore, her deposition also does not inspire confidence. No ingredient to bring home the guilt of the accused under Section 302 IPC was proved by the prosecution. On the basis of analysis of prosecution evidence, no guilt against the accused appellant is established and proved. Learned trial Court misread the evidence and convicted and sentenced the appellant. It was further argued that this appeal pertains to the year 1987. The sentence for life imprisonment awarded to the appellant by the trial court is very harsh and excessive.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that the incident took place suddenly and thus, there is no question of any pre-meditated plan by the appellant and thus the appellant can not be convicted under Section 302 IPC as there is nothing on record to show the intention to cause murder of deceased. It was further submitted that, even if the prosecution evidence is accepted as such, no case under Section 302 IPC is made out. The alleged incident took place all of a sudden without any premeditation in the heat of passion. Accused-appellant had given single blow of wooden plank at the deceased. It was further submitted that, even if the prosecution evidence is accepted as such, at the most only a case under Section 304 IPC is made out against the appellant. It was also submitted that the alleged incident took place on 16.02.1986 and a period of 39 years have already elapsed.

14. Learned A.G.A. for the State vehemently opposing the submissions made on behalf of the appellant and supporting the impugned judgment and order submitted that PW-1, the father of the deceased and P.W.-3, the mother of the deceased have fully supported the prosecution case in their testimony. There is clear and cogent evidence of PW-1 and PW-3, which unerringly point out the guilt of accused-appellant. As the alleged incident took place just outside their house thus, PW-1 and P.W.-3 are natural witnesses. Other witness of fact i.e. P.W.2 has also corroborated the prosecution version, who is a neighbour of the informant. Severe head injury was found on the person of the deceased in the form of lacerated wound. Hence, while going through the evidence on record, it cannot be said that the offence under Section 302 IPC is not made out against the appellant. The learned trial Court has not committed any error in convicting and sentencing the accused - appellant under Section 302 IPC. However, it was fairly admitted by the learned State counsel that the alleged incident took place suddenly at spur of moment. There is no merit in the appeal and the same is liable to be dismissed.

15. We have considered the rival submissions and gone through the entire record.

Analysis

16. In the light of above, following questions arise for consideration in present appeal :

(i) Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved it's case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?

(ii) Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellant - convict is liable to be converted / reduced under section 304 I.P.C. ?

Oral Evidence on Record.

17. Informant Narsingh Pal, who is the father of the deceased Ravikant, has been examined by the prosecution as P.W.1. In his examination-in-chief recorded on 01.07.1987, he has stated that his house is situated in Bada Bhodela. In front of the house, there is a chabootra and a flour mill and in between these, there is a passage. He got married Baby, who is daughter of his brother-in-law, with his cousin brother Virendra on 10.06.1985. Virendra used to torture his wife Baby, due to which, she used to complain to him and his wife Reshma Devi (P.W.3). On the day of incident, Baby came to his house in the morning and complained about the cruelty and torture made upon her, by her husband and refused to go to her husband's place, upon which they (informant and his wife) tried to convince and subside the matter, but she did not agree to go to her husband's house. On the very same day at about 2:00 P.M., Virendra having wooden plank in his hand came to his house and started hurling abuses to his wife and Baby and when his son Ravikant objected and tried to save them,Virendra struck a blow with wooden plank upon the head of Ravikant, who fell down on the ground. Thereafter, Virendra leaving the wooden plank over there, fled away from the spot. When he proceeded taking Ravikant in an injured condition to the police station, Ravikant took his last breath on the way at some distance from the village. Thereafter, he returned to the village and kept the dead body and wooden plank on the chabootra. He got scribed the wittten report (Ex.Ka.-1) of this incident by one Sugriv Prasad, went to police station Awagarh, lodged the report and registered the case. This witness has proved the written report (Ex.Ka.-1).

18. This witness (P.W.1) was cross-examined on next date i.e. 20.07.1987 wherein he has stated that when Virendra was hurling abuses, his wife was inside the house and from there he (Virendra) was not visible. When Ravikant came, he objected not to hurl abuses, on which he did not stop, then Ravikant weilded lathi upon his head but he saved himself. When Ravikant again tried to wield lathi upon him, then Virendra picked up the wooden plank and hit Ravikant, which struck on his head and he fell down and Virendra ran away. Wife of this witness reached there after 2 - 4 minutes of falling down of Ravikant. Witness Tejpal also came there after 5 - 6 minutes when Ravikant had fallen down. He was not asked by the Investigating Officer that Ravikant wielded lathi or not, therefore, he has not told the same to the Investigating Officer. This witness was also cross-examined by State and in his cross-examination on behalf of the State, this witness stated that the fact when Ravikant wielded lathi, then accused Virendra picked up the wooden plank and gave a blow on the head of Ravikant, was not written in his tehrir, because at that time, he did not consider it appropriate and he also did not inform this to the Investigating Officer. This witness admitted that accused is his cousin. He denied the suggestion that he is changing his statement to save the accused.

19. P.W.2 Tej Pal Singh, corroborating the facts of the prosecution case, has stated that while he was sitting in front of his baithak, accused Virendra Singh armed with wooden plank came at the house of Narsingh Pal and began assaulting Reshma Devi and Baby. Reshma Devi, wife of Narsingh Pal, asked accused, not to abuse, but he did not stop, upon which when Ravikant, son of Narsingh Pal, objected and prevented him, he stated to Ravikant that he is taking great favour and made an assault upon the head of Ravikant with wooden plank and leaving the plank, fled away to northern side. Later on, Ravikant died. This witness was cross-examined on 20.07.1987. In his cross-examination on behalf of the accused, this witness stated that he saw the dead body of the deceased when Ravikant was lying on the chabootra outside his house and accused Virendra was running towards northern direction. He denied the defence suggestion that he has not seen the incident. This witness was also cross-examined by learned A.D.G.C. and he, in his cross-examination on behalf of the State, stated that the statement given by this witness on the previous date was that accused Virendra Singh while carrying wooden plank in his hand, came at the house of Narsingh Pal and started assaulting the informant′s wife and his (accused) wife. Wife of Narsingh Pal asked him (accused) not to abuse, but he did not stop. Then Ravikant son of Narsingh Pal objected and prevented her, on this Virendra said you are taking great favour and made an assault on the head of Ravikant with a wooden plank. Ravikant fell down and Virendra fled away to northern side by leaving the plank on the spot. He has given this statement. He had seen the complete incident and when he went there, he saw the deceased fallen. After this, the defence again cross-examined this witness and in this cross-examination, he stated that he has given a statement that he saw the deceased lying on the ground. The defence also asked a particular question regarding the assault made by the accused on his wife and wife of Narsingh Pal. This witness in answer to this specific question clearly stated that the accused was assaulting both of them on the chabootra, which was situated outside their house. He was assaulting with hands and the assault continued for about two minutes. Ravikant came from outside. He denied the defence suggestion that he has not seen the incident.

20. Smt. Reshma Devi P.W.3 in her deposition has corroborated the facts of the prosecution case and has stated that on the day of incident, in the morning hours, Baby, wife of accused Virendra Singh came at her house as her husband has tortured her. Despite being advised, she refused to go to her husband's house. At about 2:00 P.M., Virendra having wooden plank in his hand, came at her house hurling abuses and started beating her and Baby. Her son asked Virendra not to use filthy language and tried to prevent Baby. At this, Virendra said to his son that as you are taking a great favour, therefore let a lesson be taught to you and struck a blow by wooden plank on his head, as a result of which his son (Ravikant) fell down on the ground and later on died. Virendra after leaving the wooden plank, fled away from the spot. The husband of this witness lodged the report about the incident at the police station concerned. This witness has proved the clothes of her son as Material Exbs.-2 to 5. In her cross-examination, this witness stated that her son Ramakant was also called as Ravikant. She further stated that her cousin, who was married to accused Virendra, was sitting with her inside their room. Accused Virendra came inside and Ravikant also came inside the room. Ravikant, after sustaining injuries, came out of the room and fell down.

21. P.W.4 Dr. B.V. Verma, who conducted autopsy on the dead body of the deceased, has stated that on 17.02.1986 at 2:00 P.M., he conducted autopsy on the dead body of the deceased

Ravikant, brought by constables Prahlad Singh and Ram Sewak of P.S. Awagarh in a sealed condition. Deceased was aged about 20 years. On external examination, he found rigor mortis in upper and lower extremities and no sign of decomposition was present on the body. This witness found following ante-mortem injuries on the person of the deceased :

(i) Lacerated wound 3.5 cm. x .5 cm x bone deep on right side of skull 13.5 cm. above right ear and longitudinally placed.

On internal examination, he found right parietal bone fractured, membranes were congested and haematoma was present above and below the membranes. The duration of death was about one day old. The cause of death of the deceased was coma as a result of ante-mortem injuries. Thus, the deceased is likely to have died due to injuries on 16.02.1986 at about 2 P.M. The injury could have been caused by a blunt object i.e. wooden plank. This witness (P.W.4) has proved postmortem report Ex. Ka.-2. This witness was not cross-examined by the defence. From the oral as well as documentary medical evidence, it is clear that the death of the deceased was homicidal in nature.

22. P.W.5 Head Moharrir Surendra Singh, who prepared chik F.I.R. and G.D. on 16.02.1986 on the basis of written report (Ex.Ka.-1), has proved chik F.I.R. (Ex.Ka.-3) and copy of G.D. at Serial No. 26 dtd. 16.02.1986 (Ex.Ka.-4). This witness was also not cross-examined by the defence.

23. The Investigating Officer Sub Inspector Mahipal Singh P.W.6 in his deposition has stated that the investigation of this case was handed over to him on the fateful day. He reached at the place of occurrence and prepared inquest report Ex.Ka.-5 of the dead body of the deceased. He also prepared other relevant papers i.e. photo lash (Ex.Ka.-6), letter to C.M.O. (Ex.Ka.-7), letter to R.I. (Ex.Ka.-8), sample seal (Ex.Ka.-9), challan lash (Ex.Ka.-10), letter to C.M.O. for conducting autopsy (Ex.Ka.-11) and after sealing the dead body of the deceased sent it to mortuary for post-mortem. He took blood stained and plain soil in two separate containers and prepared its recovery memo Ex.Ka.-12. He also proved the two separate containers of blood stained soil and plain soil as Material Exb. Ka-6 & Ka-7 respectively. He also recovered the wooden plank (Material Exb.-1) and prepared its recovery memo Ex.Ka.-13. He prepared site plan Ex.Ka.-4 of the crime scene and recorded the statement of the witnesses. After receipt of post-mortem report (Ex.Ka.-2), he submitted the charge sheet (Ex.Ka.-15) against the accused.

(i) Whether the prosecution could be said to have proved it′s case against the appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt ?

24. In the instant case, the prosecution charge in brief is that accused Virendra Singh, who is the cousin brother of informant Narsingh Pal, came at the house of the informant having wooden plank in his hand to take back his wife Baby from the house of the informant, who was there since morning, owing to torture and cruelty extended by his husband. While hurling abuses upon the wife of informant and his wife Baby, the appellant - convict has beaten them both. When Ravikant intervened and tried to save Baby, the accused gave a blow by wooden plank on his head, resulting into his death.

25. As per written report / tehrir (Ex.Ka.-1), the occurrence took place on 16.02.1986 at 2:00 P.M. The first information report (Ex.Ka.-3) was registered in Police Station Awagarh, Sub-District Jalesar, District Etah at 16:10 hours on 16.02.1986. The concerned police station was at a distance of about 5 Kms. from the place of incident. The informant Narsingh Pal P.W.1 in his oral deposition as well as in his written report / tehrir (Ex.Ka.-1), has clearly stated that after the incident, they tried to take injured Ravikant to hospital on a bullock-cart. Thus, an attempt was made to take the injured on a bullock-cart, however, just coming out of the village, the injured succumbed to his injuries. Thereafter, the dead body of deceased was taken back to the house of the informant and his dead body was placed on chabootra. The written report was scribed. It is only thereafter the informant approached concerned police station with his written report / tehrir. The aforesaid first information report has been lodged within 2 hours and 10 minutes of the incident and from the above facts, it is crystal clear that there is no unnecessary delay in registration of the first information report. Therefore, there is no delay in lodging of the F.I.R.

26. In our considered opinion, the first information report has been lodged promptly without any unnecessary delay with brief description of the incident as well as names of the eyewitnesses of the incident and, therefore, this promptly lodged first information report is a valuable piece of evidence for the prosecution, in the present case.

27. It was argued by the learned counsel for the appellant that both P.W.1 and P.W.2 were cross-examined by the prosecution, therefore, these two witnesses are hostile witnesses and their deposition cannot be relied upon. It is pertinent to mention here that examination-in-chief of P.W.1, P.W.2 and P.W.3 were recorded on 01.07.1987, however, none of these witnesses was cross-examined on 01.07.1987 and all these witnesses have been cross-examined on 20.07.1987. Therefore, some contradictions are bound to occur in their depositions.

28. The word 'hostile' or 'hostile witness' has not been used in the Evidence Act. The word 'hostile witness' carries a specific significance under the English Law, but the position in India is different and here it is left to the discretion of the Court to allow a party to cross-examine its own witness, regardless of a declaration of hostility. Hon'ble Apex Court in K.P. Tamilmaran Vs. The State Rep. by Deputy Superintendent, 2025 INSC 576 / 2025 SCC OnLine SC 958 in para 31 has observed that :

"The phrase 'hostile witness' is commonly used in criminal jurisprudence and court proceedings. We too cannot escape the blame of using the term 'hostile witness' in our judgment. We do it for pragmatic reasons. Some words like 'hostile witness' in this case are now a part of our legal vocabulary. There is no point in inventing or substituting new words or phrases, at least in the present case, and we leave that for the future. But what is necessary, however, is to explain the meaning of the term as it is now to be understood. The phrase 'hostile witness' has come to be used for a witness who gives a statement contrary to the story of the side for which he/she is a witness. All the same, because a witness has supported some, though not all, aspects of a case, it would not automatically mean that this witness has to be declared 'hostile'. A party can cross-examine its own witness under Section 154 Evidence Act, even without getting a declaration of 'hostility'. The only restriction to cross- examination under Section 154 Evidence Act is that the party, who seeks to cross-examine its own witness, must obtain the leave of the Court. Whether there is a declaration of 'hostility' or not, one thing is clear that evidence of witness, who has been cross-examined under Section 154 Evidence Act by the party who called such witness, cannot be washed off entirely and it is for the Court to see what can be retrieved from such evidence."

29. Hon'ble Apex Court in Sat Paul V. Delhi Administration (1976) 1 SCC 727 in para 52 has observed that :

"52. From the above conspectus, it emerges clear that even in a criminal prosecution when a witness is cross-examined and contradicted with the leave of the court, by the party calling him, his evidence cannot, as a matter of law, be treated as washed off the record altogether. It is for the Judge of fact to consider in each case whether as a result of such cross-examination and contradiction, the witness stands thoroughly discredited or can still be believed in regard to a part of his testimony. If the Judge finds that in the process, the credit of the witness has not been completely shaken, he may, after reading and considering the evidence of the witness, as a whole, with due caution and care, accept, in the light of the other evidence on the record, that part of his testimony which he finds to be creditworthy and act upon it. If in a given case, the whole of the testimony of the witness is impugned, and in the process, the witness stands squarely and totally discredited, the Judge should, as matter of prudence, discard his evidence in toto."

30. Thus, the law can be summarized to the effect that evidence of a hostile witness cannot be discarded as a whole, and relevant part thereof, which are admissible in law, can be used by prosecution or the defence. The maxim "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus" i.e. "false in one thing, false in everything", is not applicable to our criminal justice system. It is for the Court to distinguish the wheat from the chaff while dealing with the deposition of a hostile witness. A witness may be allowed to be cross-examined by the party who calls him under Section 154 (1) of the Evidence Act and sub-section 2 of this section makes it clear that nothing in this section shall disentitle the person so permitted under sub-section (1), to rely on any part of the evidence of such witness. Law is well settled that the evidence of a witness, who has been cross-examined by the side which produced him, cannot be totally discarded. It is also settled law that the evidence of hostile witness can also be relied upon by the prosecution to the extent to which it supports the prosecution version of the incident. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as washed off the records; it remains admissible in trial and there is no legal bar to even base the conviction of the accused upon such testimony, if corroborated with other reliable evidence. There can be several reasons for a witness to turn hostile and the Court must look into these factors while evaluating the evidence given by a hostile witness. Therefore, we will be evaluating the depositions of P.W.1 and P.W.2 in the light of above noted well settled position of law regarding admissibility and reliability of witnesses cross-examined by the prosecution.

31. A perusal of the written report / tehrir (Ex.Ka.-1) makes it clear that the informant is not an eyewitness of the incident. Informant Narsingh Pal P.W.1 although in his examination-in-chief has supported the prosecution story, however, in our opinion, he is not an eyewitness of the incident. Examination-in-chief of this witness was conducted on 01.07.1987, but he was not cross-examined on this date, but was cross-examined on 20.07.1987. In his cross-examination, he (informant P.W.1) narrated another version that the deceased wielded lathi on the accused and when he tried to wield another blow of lathi, then the accused struck a blow by wooden plank on the head of the deceased. Admittedly, the appellant - convict Virendra is his cousin brother. Therefore, in our considered opinion, this witness toed with the line of defence that the accused struck the deceased to save himself from the blow of lathi / stick. This witness was also cross-examined by A.D.G.C. and he, in his cross-examination, has stated that the aforesaid fact of wielding lathi was neither got written by him in written report / tehrir nor stated to the Investigating Officer, finding the same not necessary.

32. In our considered opinion, the aforesaid statement given by P.W.1 in his cross-examination is not helpful to the defence for the reason that he (P.W.1) is firstly not an eyewitness and secondly, this witness was not cross-examined with respect to specific statement given by him in his examination-in-chief regarding the manner of incident. The deposition of this witness is relevant and material firstly for proving the written report / tehrir as Ex.Ka.-1, secondly for proving the fact of torture of Baby by appellant - convict and her visit to P.W.1′s house on 16.02.1986 on account of her torture at the hands of accused and lastly regarding the fact that his son died on the fateful day as a result of assault made upon him from wooden plank. The deposition of this witness is also material as far as the fact of fleeing away of the accused from the place of incident is concerned.

33. The prosecution has examined Tejpal Singh and Reshma Devi as P.W.2 and P.W.3 respectively regarding the incident in question. Tejpal Singh P.W.2 is the neighbour of the informant, who as per site plan Ex.Ka.-14 was at place 'D′ from where he has seen the incident, which is shown by point 'A′. The deposition of Tejpal Singh P.W.2 is consistent so far as date, time, place and manner of incident is concerned, both in his examination-in-chief and in his several cross-examinations both by defence and State. However, P.W.2, in his cross-examination, stated that when he first saw the dead body, the same was lying on the chabootra outside the house of Ravikant. Thereafter, this witness was cross-examined on behalf of the State. However, he affirmed that whatsoever has been stated by him in his examination-in-chief is true. In his examination-in-chief as well as in his cross-examinations, he has clearly stated that the accused ran away towards northern direction after committing the incident. This witness has again confirmed the assault on both the ladies in the incident in his cross-examination by the defence. It is, thus, clear that this witness was present on spot and has seen the incident. The deposition of this witness as far as date, time, place and manner of incident is concerned, is consistent. Although this witness has been cross-examined by the defence, but nothing suspicious has come in his testimony, which either makes his presence doubtful on the spot at the time of incident or makes his deposition unworthy of credit. Therefore, the deposition of this witness, being consistent, is reliable.

34. Reshma Devi P.W.3, who is the mother of the deceased, in his deposition, has also clearly stated that when Ravikant intervened and tried to stop the accused from abusing and when he (her son) tried to save Baby, then the accused assaulted her son with wooden plank. Even in her cross-examination, nothing contrary has come in her statement as far as aforesaid manner of incident is concerned. However, she has stated in her cross-examination that the accused had entered inside their room and, therefore, learned counsel for the appellant vehemently argued that from the deposition of this witness, the place of incident is not established. However, one has to keep in mind that P.W.3 is a poor illiterate lady, who resides in a village and has lost his son, that too at the hands of her near relative and she was not cross-examined on the day when her examination-in-chief was recorded. Therefore, when her statement is evaluated keeping aside the aforesaid contradiction regarding the place of incident, then her remaining testimony is found to be trustworthy and reliable.

35. On behalf of the accused, though no defence is adduced, however, suggestion was made that first of all the deceased tried to wield lathi upon the accused and thereafter the accused struck a blow by wooden plank on the head of the deceased. In this regard, no defence is adduced and not a single question was asked to the occular witnesses P.W.2 and P.W.3. This suggestion appears to be an afterthought, which was asked to P.W.1 the informant, who is not an eyewitness and is the cousin brother of the accused Virendra. From the statement of ocular witnesses P.W.2 and P.W.3, which finds corroboration from medical evidence of P.W.4 Dr. B.V. Verma, who conducted post-mortem of the deceased, it is apparent that due to head injury caused by accused with a wooden plank, the death of the deceased occurred.

36. P.W.2 Tejpal Singh and P.W.3 Reshma Devi, wife of the informant have consistently deposed that the accused struck a blow with a wooden plank on the head of the deceased Ravikant, son of the informant. The accused Virendra is the cousin brother of the informant and his (accused′s) wife Baby is the daughter of brother-in-law of the informant. Accused Virendra used to torture his wife Baby on account of his quarrelsome nature. In the morning of the fateful day i.e. 16.02.1986, when Baby came at the house of her Aunt (bua) P.W.3 Reshma Devi, the wife of the informant, P.W.3 tried to pacify and subside the matter and advised Baby to go at her in-laws′ house but owing to his husband′s quarrelsome tendency she refused to go at his house. At about 2:00 P.M., accused Virendra came at the house of the informant having wooden plank in his hand, started abusing P.W.3 Reshma Devi and his wife Baby and made an assault upon them with his hands. When Ravikant, the son of the informant P.W.1 and P.W.3, intervened, objected and tried to save Baby, accused gave a blow on the head of Ravikant with a wooden plank, as a result of which, he succumbed to his injury on the way while taking him to the police station.

37. The ocular as well as documentary medical evidence is clear to the effect that the deceased Ravikant sustained a lacerated wound on his right side of skull and below this lacerated wound, his right parietal bone was found fractured, membranes were also found congested and haematoma was found above and below the membranes and in the opinion of autopsy surgeon, the ante-mortem injuries found on the head of the deceased could have been caused by blunt object and the duration of death was about one day old. Therefore, in the light of medical evidence available on record, the deceased is likely to have died on account of his ante-mortem injuries on 16.02.1986 at about 2:00 P.M. and his death was a homicidal death. P.W.2 and P.W.3 both have consistently stated that it was the accused Virendra, who had struck a blow by a wooden plank on the head of the deceased, therefore, the prosecution has been able to prove that the accused struck a blow by a wooden plank on the head of the deceased at the date, time and place of incident, resulting into ante-mortem head injuries to the deceased and the deceased had died because of coma, which was a result of his ante-mortem injuries. The weapon of offence i.e. wooden plank was recovered by the Investigating Officer from the spot, which has been proved in evidence as Material Exb.-1. The clothes of the deceased has been proved by P.W.3 in evidence as Material Exbs.-2 to 5. There is no delay in registration of the F.I.R. and lastly, the prosecution has been successfully able to prove its case against the accused / appellant - convict beyond reasonable doubt. Question No.1 is, therefore, answered in affirmative.

38. In the present case, the Investigating Officer had recovered wooden plank from the spot but the same was not sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for examination. However, this is merely a lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer and in the light of reliable evidence given by P.W.2 and P.W.3, which finds full corroboration from the oral as well as documentary medical evidence available on record, the present appellant - convict cannot claim any benefit of lapse on part of the Investigating Officer.

Question No.2 : Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellant - convict is liable to be converted / reduced under section 304 I.P.C. ?

39. The accused Virendra is the cousin brother of the informant and deceased Ravi Kant is the son of the informant. The incident occurred in a broad daylight. It is not disputed that the death of the deceased occurred on 16.02.1986 at the house of the informant at the hands of accused Virendra Singh.

40. The Supreme Court while analyzing difference between culpable homicide amounting to murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder in Anbazhagan V. State Represented by the Inspector of Police (2024) 20 SCC 500 in paras 39-44 has held that-

"39" This Court in Phulia Tudu (2007) 14 SCC 588 has observed that the academic distinction between 'murder' and 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the courts. The confusion is caused if courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences:-

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which death is caused is done- Intention
	(1)with the intention of causing death; or
(a)with the intention of causing death; or (b)with the intention of causing injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2)with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the offender knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused; or
	(3)with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death; or Knowledge
	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to

(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death	cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above

"40"Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC corresponds with clauses (2) and (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. The distinguishing feature of the mens rea requisite under clause (2) is the knowledge possessed by the of ender regarding the particular victim being in such a peculiar condition or state of health that the internal harm caused to him is likely to be fatal, notwithstanding the fact that such harm would not in the ordinary way of nature be sufficient to cause death of a person in normal health or condition. It is noteworthy that the 'intention to cause death' is not an essential requirement of clause (2). Only the intention of causing the bodily injury coupled with the of ender's knowledge of the likelihood of such injury causing the death of the particular victim, is sufficient to bring the killing within the ambit of this clause. This clause (2) is borne out by illustration (b) appended to Section 300 of the IPC.

"41" Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC does not postulate any such knowledge on the part of the offender. Instances of cases falling under clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC can be where the assailant causes death by a fist blow intentionally given knowing that the victim is suffering from an enlarged liver, or enlarged spleen or diseased heart and such blow is likely to cause death of that particular person as a result; of the rupture of the liver, or spleen or the failure of the heart, as the case may be. If the assailant had no such knowledge about the disease or special frailty of the victim, nor an intention to cause death or bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the offence will not be murder, even if the injury which caused the death, was intentionally given. In clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC, instead of the words "likely to cause death" occurring in the corresponding clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC, the words "sufficient in the ordinary course of nature" have been used. Obviously, the distinction lies between a bodily injury likely to cause death and a bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The distinction is fine but real and if overlooked, may result in miscarriage of justice. The difference between clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC and clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC is one of the degree of probability of death resulting from the intended bodily injury. To put it more broadly, it is the degree of probability of death which determines whether a culpable homicide is of the gravest, medium or the lowest degree. The word 'likely' in clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC conveys the sense of probable as distinguished from a mere possibility. The words "bodily injury....sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death" mean that death will be the "most probable" result of the injury, having regard to the ordinary course of nature.

"42" For cases to fall within clause (3), it is not necessary that the offender intended to cause death, so long as the death ensues from the intentional bodily injury or injuries sufficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. The decision in the case of Rajwant Singh v. State of Kerala, AIR 1966 SC 1874, is an apt illustration of this point.

"43" The scope of clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC has been the subject matter of various decisions of this Court. The decision in Virsa Singh (supra) has throughout been followed in a number of cases by this Court. In all these cases the approach has been to find out whether the ingredient namely the intention to cause the particular injury was present or not? If such an intention to cause that particular injury is made out and if the injury is found to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC is attracted.

"44"Analysing clause thirdly and as to what the prosecution must prove, it was held in Virsa Singh (supra) as under:-

"15. First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present;

16. Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.

17. Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended"

18. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,

19. Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is suficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the of ender."

It was further observed as under:-

"20. .... If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional."(Emphasis supplied)

The Apex court also observed in para 66 that

"66"Few important principles of law discernible from the aforesaid discussion may be summed up thus:-

"66.1"When the court is confronted with the question, what offence the accused could be said to have committed, the true test is to find out the intention or knowledge of the accused in doing the act. If the intention or knowledge was such as is described in Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act will be murder even though only a single injury was caused. To illustrate : 'A' is bound hand and foot 'B' comes and placing his revolver against the head of 'A', shoots 'A' in his head killing him instantaneously. Here, there will be no difficulty in holding that the intention of 'B' in shooting 'A' was to kill him, though only single injury was caused. The case would, therefore, be of murder falling within Clause (1) of Section 300 of the IPC. Taking another instance, 'B' sneaks into the bed room of his enemy 'A' while the latter is asleep on his bed. Taking aim at the left chest of 'A', 'B' forcibly plunges a sword in the left chest of 'A' and runs away. 'A' dies shortly thereafter. The injury to 'A' was found to be sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death. There may be no difficulty in holding that 'B' intentionally inflicted the particular injury found to be caused and that the said injury was objectively sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. This would bring the act of 'B' within Clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC and render him guilty of the offence of murder although only single injury was caused.

"66.2"Even when the intention or knowledge of the accused may fall within Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act of the accused which would otherwise be murder, will be taken out of the purview of murder, if the accused's case attracts any one of the five exceptions enumerated in that section. In the event of the case falling within any of those exceptions, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder, falling within Part 1 of Section 304 of the IPC, if the case of the accused is such as to fall within Clauses (1) to (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. It would be offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case is such as to fall within Clause

(4) of Section 300 of the IPC. Again, the intention or knowledge of the accused may be such that only 2nd or 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC, may be attracted but not any of the clauses of Section 300 of the IPC. In that situation also, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Section 304 of the IPC. It would be an offence under Part I of that section, if the case fall within 2nd part of Section 299, while it would be an offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case fall within 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC.

"66.3" To put it in other words, if the act of an accused person falls within the first two clauses of cases of culpable homicide as described in Section 299 of the IPC it is punishable under the first part of Section 304. If, however, it falls within the third clause, it is punishable under the second part of Section 304. In effect, therefore, the first part of this section would apply when there is 'guilty intention,' whereas the second part would apply when there is no such intention, but there is 'guilty knowledge'.

"66.4" Even if single injury is inflicted, if that particular injury was intended, and objectively that injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the requirements of Clause 3rdly to Section 300 of the IPC, are fulfilled and the offence would be murder.

"66.5" Section 304 of the IPC will apply to the following classes of cases:

(i) when the case falls under one or the other of the clauses of Section 300, but it is covered by one of the exceptions to that Section,

(ii) when the injury caused is not of the higher degree of likelihood which is covered by the expression 'sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death' but is of a lower degree of likelihood which is generally spoken of as an injury 'likely to cause death' and the case does not fall under Clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC,

(iii) when the act is done with the knowledge that death is likely to ensue but without intention to cause death or an injury likely to cause death.

"66.6" To put it more succinctly, the difference between the two parts of Section 304 of the IPC is that under the first part, the crime of murder is first established and the accused is then given the benefit of one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC, while under the second part, the crime of murder is never established at all. Therefore, for the purpose of holding an accused guilty of the offence punishable under the second part of Section 304 of the IPC, the accused need not bring his case within one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC.

"66.7" The word 'likely' means probably and it is distinguished from more 'possibly'. When chances of happening are even or greater than its not happening, we may say that the thing will 'probably happen'. In reaching the conclusion, the court has to place itself in the situation of the accused and then judge whether the accused had the knowledge that by the act he was likely to cause death.

"66.8" The distinction between culpable homicide (Section 299 of the IPC) and murder (Section 300 of the IPC) has always to be carefully borne in mind while dealing with a charge under Section 302 of the IPC. Under the category of unlawful homicides, both, the cases of culpable homicide amounting to murder and those not amounting to murder would fall. Culpable homicide is not murder when the case is brought within the five exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC. But, even though none of the said five exceptions are pleaded or prima facie established on the evidence on record, the prosecution must still be required under the law to bring the case under any of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC to sustain the charge of murder. If the prosecution fails to discharge this onus in establishing any one of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC, namely, 1stly to 4thly, the charge of murder would not be made out and the case may be one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder as described under Section 299 of the IPC

"66.9" The court must address itself to the question of mens rea. If Clause thirdly of Section 300 is to be applied, the assailant must intend the particular injury inflicted on the deceased. This ingredient could rarely be proved by direct evidence. Inevitably, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the proved circumstances of the case. The court must necessarily have regard to the nature of the weapon used, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used in causing the injury, the manner of attack, the circumstances preceding and attendant on the attack.

"66.10" Intention to kill is not the only intention that makes a culpable homicide a murder. The intention to cause injury or injuries sufficient in the ordinary cause of nature to cause death also makes a culpable homicide a murder if death has actually been caused and intention to cause such injury or injuries is to be inferred from the act or acts resulting in the injury or injuries.

"66.11" When single injury inflicted by the accused results in the death of the victim, no inference, as a general principle, can be drawn that the accused did not have the intention to cause the death or that particular injury which resulted in the death of the victim. Whether an accused had the required guilty intention or not, is a question of fact which has to be determined on the facts of each case.

"66.12" Where the prosecution proves that the accused had the intention to cause death of any person or to cause bodily injury to him and the intended injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then, even if he inflicts a single injury which results in the death of the victim, the of ence squarely falls under Clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC unless one of the exceptions applies.

"66.13" In determining the question, whether an accused had guilty intention or guilty knowledge in a case where only a single injury is inflicted by him and that injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the fact that the act is done without premeditation in a sudden fight or quarrel, or that the circumstances justify that the injury was accidental or unintentional, or that he only intended a simple injury, would lead to the inference of guilty knowledge, and the offence would be one under Section 304 Part II of the IPC.

41. In the present case, in the statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. in the year 1987, the accused has stated his age to be about 26 years. Therefore, at the time of commission of offence i.e. 16.02.1986, the appellant was about 25 years of age.

42. Now the question remains that whether homicidal death of the deceased would fall within the four corners of murder or culpable homicide not amounting to murder.

43. We have carefully gone through the entire evidence including the impugned judgment and order of the learned trial Court. It is an admitted position that the deceased was the nephew of appellant - convict. The wife of appellant - convict namely, Baby is the niece of mother of the deceased. P.W.3 Reshma Devi is the wife of informant and mother of the deceased, she is also the Bua of Baby. Baby is the daughter of brother of P.W.3. The appellant - convict is the cousin brother of the informant. Therefore, appellant - convict is a close relative not only of the deceased, but of father and mother of the deceased also. The germane of the incident was the alleged torture and harassment of Baby at the hands of his husband / appellant - convict Virendra Singh, because of which Baby came to the house of informant and complained about this harassment. It has come on evidence that the informant's wife tried to convince and subside the matter, however, her effort was futile and about 2:00 P.M., the appellant - convict came to the house of the informant while hurling abuses. When he allegedly started beating with his hands his bhabhi Reshma Devi and wife Baby, then this unfortunate incident had happened. The deceased Ravikant when objected and tried to save, then in a state of anger, the appellant - convict assaulted the deceased with wooden plank. Admittedly, there was no enmity of the accused with the deceased or vice versa. It is also an admitted fact that there is only a single blow inflicted on the person of the deceased and the accused immediately ran away from the spot by leaving the wooden plank on the spot itself. Meaning thereby that there was no intention to cause death of the deceased. As there was no intention of causing death or causing injury as is likely to cause death, therefore whether the appellant - convict can be said to have the knowledge that the act of assault upon the deceased by wooden plank was likely to cause death or not. The accused was carrying a wooden plank and he was in a fit of rage because of his strained relationship with his wife. No one can be permitted to take refuge that he was lacking knowledge of impact of his assault because of his particular state of mind (i.e. in a fit of anger in the present case). Therefore, we are of the opinion that although the accused was having the knowledge that the act of assaulting the deceased with a wooden plank is likely to cause death, but he was lacking the knowledge that his act was so immensely dangerous that it must in all probability could cause death or such bodily injury as was likely to cause death. As a result, we are of the opinion that that the incident had happened in a spur of moment, with no prior bad intention or planning. As the death caused by the appellant - convict was not a premeditated and there being no previous enmity, therefore, the present case falls under clause (c) of Section 299 I.P.C. We have carefully gone through the entire evidence and thus are of opinion that in the present case none of clause of Section 300 I.P.C. is attracted in the peculiar facts of the present case, therefore the offence committed by the appellant - convict falls under Part-II of Section 304 I.P.C. Resultantly, we are of the view that present appeal is liable to be partly allowed and the conviction of the appellant under Section 302 I.P.C. is liable to be converted into conviction under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. In Ankush Shivaji Gaikwad Vs. State of Maharashtra (2013) 6 SCC 770, it was held that victim compensation is an integral component of the criminal justice administration; Section 357 Cr.P.C. confers a power coupled with a duty on the Courts to apply its mind to the question of awarding compensation in every criminal case. Informant and his wife have lost their son and no amount of compensation can compensate their loss. However, the appellant was about 25 years of age at the time of incident and was agriculturist by profession. Therefore, for awarding compensation to the parents of the deceased, we are of the opinion that an amount of Rs.2,00,000/- as fine is liable to be imposed on the appellant under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C.

44. Accordingly, present Appeal is partly allowed and the appellant is convicted for the offence under Section 304 Part-II I.P.C. and is sentenced to undergo 7 years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs.2,00,000/-. In case of failure to deposit the aforesaid fine, the appellant shall further undergo 1 year simple imprisonment. Parents of the deceased - Ravikant namely, Narsingh Pal and Smt. Reshma Devi shall receive an amount of Rs.1,80,000/- as compensation, out of the total amount of fine so deposited by the appellant. The period for which the appellant was in jail shall be adjusted in the sentence imposed. In the event of death of any of the parents of the deceased, the other parent shall receive the full amount of compensation so awarded.

45. The appellant is on bail. His bail bonds and sureties shall stand cancelled and he is directed to be taken back to the custody forthwith to serve the remaining part of the sentence.

46. The record of the 'Trial Court' be sent back immediately with a copy of this judgment for necessary information and compliance.

Appearances of parties

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Vivek Kumar Rai, Ajai Kumar Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Vivek Kumar Rai, the learned counsel for the appellant and Smt. Shikha Sinha, the learned AGA for the State of U.P.

2. By means of the instant appeal, the appellant has challenged the validity of a judgment and order dated 21.09.2024 passed by Sri. Rohit Singh, the learned Special Judge, Ayurveda Scam/CBI, Lucknow in Session Trial No.747 of 2012 arising out of Case Crime No.386 of 2010 under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act 1961 registered at Police Station Alambagh, District Lucknow, whereby the appellant has been convicted for the offences under Sections 498-A and 306 IPC and Sections ¾ of the Dowry Prohibition Act while he has been acquitted for the offence under Section 304-B IPC. The appellant has been sentenced to undergo two years rigorous imprisonment and Rs.10,000/- fine for the offence under Section 498-A IPC, 7 years′ rigorous imprisonment and Rs.50,000/- fine for the offence under Section 306 IPC and 5 years′ rigorous imprisonment and Rs.15,000/- fine for the offence under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act along with stipulations for additional imprisonment in case of default in payment of fine.

3. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an FIR lodged on the basis of a written complaint given on 02.10.2010, stating that the complainant′s sister Monika had got married to the appellant on 14.12.2004. The appellant, his mother Shashi Tandon, younger brother Aman Tandon and younger brother′s wife Shweta Tandon used to harass the complainant′s sister for demanding Rs.10,00,000/- as dowry for purchasing a flat. Under compulsion, the complainant's father had sold away a plot of land of the complainant and her sister and had paid Rs.6,00,000/- in cash to the appellant. However, the accused persons kept on harassing the complainant′s sister for demanding the balance amount of Rs.4 lakh. They had turned the complainant′s sister out of her matrimonial home after beating her. Thereafter, the appellant filed a suit for divorce on false allegations. The FIR alleged that even while the complainant's sister was residing in her parents′ home, she was threatened and harassed by the accused persons and for this reason she committed suicide by hanging herself in the night of 02.10.2010.

4. The postmortem examination report mentions an oblique ligature mark of 27 cm X 2.5 cm present all around her neck going obliquely upwards and backwards and it was interrupted by 6 cm on the right side. Besides the ligature mark, there was no other mark of injury on the dead body. The cause of death has been opined to be asphyxia due to antemortem hanging.

5. Initially, a charge-sheet was submitted against the appellant only and thereafter, a supplementary charge-sheet was submitted against other family members of the appellant and they have been tried separately.

6. The deceased had left two suicide notes, which were marked as Exhibit A-3 and A-4. The first note is addressed to the mother of the deceased, wherein she expressed her agony due to ill treatment meted out to her by the appellant and stated that misbehaviour on part of the appellant had broken her heart and thereafter, her body was also not able to bear it. She had lost the desire to live. Every single day of her life passed with difficulty. The other suicide note was addressed to the appellant wherein the deceased blamed him for his misbehaviour and ill treatment and for having turned her out of her matrimonial home. She alleged that the appellant had had given her place to a prostitute, that he and his friend Abhijeet Trivedi had insulted her for that girl (whom the deceased referred to as a prostitute), he used her emotions for making complaints and preparing false records. She further wrote that the appellant felt that relations could be severed by merely signing some documents but she would not divorce him during her life time. The deceased wrote that the appellant ought to have been an Advocate, as he had prepared false record to such an extent as can normally not be thought of even by an Advocate. She wrote that the appellant was making preparations for obtaining divorce for the last several years and he might win the false case by paying bribe. But God will do justice with her, where cunningness, deceit and bribe will have no role to play. She also wrote that the appellant had compelled her to commit suicide, he, his family and friend Abhijeet Trivedi were responsible for her death and some day. a similar stage will come in the appellant′s life also and that she would wait for the appellant in the other world.

7. The complainant was examined as PW-1. She reiterated the FIR version. She stated that her sister came to her parents′ home on 02.10.2010 and she committed suicide by hanging because of cruelty and harassment meted out to her by the accused persons. She stated that the deceased had come to her maika from her marital home 2-3 months prior to the incident. During cross examination, PW-1 stated that the deceased lived with her husband till two months before her death. She further stated that the deceased had gone to the court in connection with another case between herself and the appellant. When she went from the court to her matrimonial home, the lock put by her in the apartment had been broken open and had been replaced by the appellant. When the deceased contacted the appellant telephonically, he reached there along with 2-3 other persons and assaulted her. The deceased had lodged an FIR against the appellant and his family members in this regard. She alleged that when her father could not pay Rs.4,00,000/-, the appellant had filed the suit for divorce.

8. During cross-examination, PW-1 stated that the deceased was four years older to her. The deceased and the appellant used to work together and both of them had developed an acquaintance. She stated that the appellant′s mother had brought his marriage proposal. PW-1 further stated that prior to her marriage with the appellant, the deceased did not disclose that she used to date the appellant. She admitted that their relationship got converted into marriage on 14.12.2004. PW-1 admitted that the deceased had not made any mention of demand of dowry in any of the two suicide notes (Exhibit A-3 and A-4) and she did not level this allegation in any of the pending litigations. PW-1 stated that the deceased had come back from her matrimonial home 3 months prior to her death. The notice of the suit for divorce had been received by her mother and thereafter the deceased had appeared in the family court. She stated that the deceased had said that she did not want to divorce the appellant. PW-1 also had stated that the deceased was living at her residence for the past 3 months and she committed suicide in her house.

9. The father of the deceased was examined as PW-2. He stated that he had got his daughter married to the appellant on 14.12.2004. He had spent Rs.9 to 10 lakhs in the marriage. After 2-3 months of the marriage, the appellant and his family started harassing his daughter for demanding dowry. His daughter used to tell about it to him but PW-2 used to say to her that as she had got married, she had to live in her matrimonial home only.

10. PW-2 further stated that his daughter was beaten up on 18.04.2010. Her medico-legal examination was conducted on 20.04.2010 and she had lodged a first information report against her husband, her mother-in-law, younger brother of the husband and wife of the younger brother. When his daughter had gone to her matrimonial home along with him on 22.04.2010, the lock of her room had been broken open and replaced by another lock and thereafter on 23.04.2010, wife of PW-2 had lodged an FIR. PW-2 stated that the appellant had sent a notice for divorce wherein he had assailed the character of the deceased. It caused so much mental agony to the deceased that she committed suicide by hanging on 02.10.2010.

11. Sunny Kapoor, the younger brother of the deceased, was examined as PW-3. He stated that his sister was ill-treated after her marriage for demanding dowry. On 20.04.2010, his sister had lodged a first information report in Mahila Thana and after that she had gone to her matrimonial home along with her mother in the night of 20.04.2010 but she was turned away after being ill-treated and the deceased had lodged a report of this incident in the police station. After that, the appellant had sent a notice for divorce. For this reason, the deceased committed suicide.

12. A neighbour of the complainant was examined as PW-9 and he also proved the demand of dowry and ill-treatment therefor and he stated that the deceased committed suicide because of ill-treatment meted out to her by her husband and his family members.

13. In the statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the appellant denied all the charges and he stated that he will file his written statement. The appellant filed a written statement of his defence wherein he stated that he and the deceased were in service. Both of them developed a liking towards each other and decided to get married. Their love marriage was converted into an arranged marriage with the consent of their family members. The marriage ceremony was performed without any dowry. Immediately after their marriage, they started living in a separate house no. C-457, Indira Nagar. His wife and sister-in-law (the complainant) had executed a sale deed in the year 2005 in the interest of their career and they themselves received the sale consideration amount and he had no knowledge about it at that time. This amount was not deposited in his bank account.

14. The appellant further stated that after sale of the plot and receipt of the sale consideration, the behaviour of the deceased started getting worse, she wanted to shift to National Capital Region to struggle for upliftment of her career and she also wanted the appellant to leave his stable job as a Manager in ICICI Prudential Life Insurance Co. Ltd. She started threatening the appellant by writing false suicide letters and she moved out of his house at Indira Nagar along with all her goods and shifted to her house at Alambagh. She did not return to his home thereafter.

15. The appellant stated that he filed a complaint against the deceased in the Court of C.J.M. (Custom) Lucknow. On 06.04.2010, the C.J.M. took cognizance of the offences under Sections 504 and 506 IPC on the basis of the complaint filed by him against his wife and a summon was issued to her for 05.05.2010. However, afterwards he filed a suit for restitution of conjugal rights for reviving his relation with his wife. His wife withdrew Rs.50,000/- and Rs.10,000/- on 21.07.2008 and 22.07.2008 from his salary account from a branch of the Bank at NOIDA. Thereafter, he came to know that his wife was working as an Executive - Business Support in Max New York Life Insurance at Delhi - NCR. He lost an opportunity to go on the company's business trip to South Africa even after getting a Visa clearance because of the mental cruelty inflicted by his wife.

16. The appellant further stated that on 13.11.2009, he had sent a letter to the police complaining against his wife. The appellant also stated that because of the continuous mental cruelty, he withdrew the suit for restitution of conjugal rights and on 21.11.2009 he filed a suit for divorce. Upon receipt of its summon, she appeared in the Family Court and filed a vakalatnama.

17. It was also stated in the written statement of the appellant that his office had issued him warning letters dated 10.12.2009 and 19.04.2010 as his wife had come to the office of his employer Kotak Life Insurance Co. Ltd. and had created nuisance there. Thereafter, he sent a complaint to the police through speed post on 19.04.2010 for lodging a first information report against his wife.

18. The appellant stated that his wife or her family members had not lodged any complaint alleging demand of dowry till that date and even in the suicide note, the deceased did not allege any demand of dowry. On 23.04.2010 the deceased lodged a FIR against the appellant and a security guard of his apartment wherein a charge-sheet was filed against the security guard only. He stated that the appellant and his wife were working and living in separate cities since August 2007.

19. The appellant filed a copy of the complaint filed in the Court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate Custom, a copy of the letter dated 16.12.2007 sent to the S.H.O. Ghazipur, a copy of the statement of the appellant recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C., a copy of the statements of witnesses recorded under Section 202 Cr.P.C., a copy of the order dated 01.03.2008 passed by the Principal Judge, Family Court, a copy of the plaint filed under Section 9 of the Hindu Marriage Act, a copy of the letter sent to the Manager ICICI Bank, Lucknow, copies of cheques for Rs.50,000/- and Rs.10,000/-, a copy of TDS, a copy of the letter dated 13.11.2009 sent to SHO Ghazipur, a copy of the plaint in Regular Suit No. 2253 of 2009 in the Family Court for divorce, a copy of the order dated 06.04.2010 passed by the C.J.M (Custom) in Complaint No. 9194 of 2007, a copy of the letter dated 19.04.2010 sent by the appellant to SHO Alambagh requesting for lodging a first information report, a copy of the police documents and charge-sheet relating to Case Crime No. 301 of 2010 under Section 323, 504 IPC, Police Station Ghazipur and a copy of the letter dated 27.04.2010 given by the residents of C-455 and C-457, Ganapati Apartments to SHO Ghazipur. The appellant requested the trial Court to obtain admission / denial of the documents by the prosecution.

20. The trial Court held that the documents filed by the appellant included her Form 26-AS containing entries for the period April 2009 to June 2009, which merely proved that the deceased was in a private service for the aforesaid three months. The other documents filed by the appellant proved that the deceased was at Delhi NCR on 21.07.2008 and 22.07.2008 and that she withdrew Rs.50,000/- and Rs.10,000/- from their joint account. The documents do not prove that the deceased lived at Delhi-NCR during the entire period of 2007 to 2010.

21. The trial Court further held that the statements of the prosecution witnesses proved that the appellant had started harassing the deceased for demanding Rs.10,00,000/- as dowry 1 - 1 ½ months after her marriage. Her father had paid him Rs.6,00,000/- after selling away a plot of the deceased and her sister but the appellant continued to harass the deceased for demanding the balance amount of Rs.4,00,000/-. The trial Court disbelieved the defence of the appellant that no amount from the sale consideration of the plot was deposited in his bank account stating that he is an educated person and his mother is a gazetted officer and it cannot be expected that they would deposit the amount in their bank account.

22. The trial Court disbelieved the appellant′s contention that the allegation of demand of dowry was not levelled till 19.04.2010 and this allegation was levelled for the first time in the FIR No. 34 of 2010 lodged on 20.04.2010.

23. The trial Court held that the charge under Section 304-B IPC was not proved as the deceased and her husband were not in contact with each other since 20.04.2010 when the FIR bearing Case Crime No. 34 of 2010 under Section 498A, 323, 406, 506 of IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act was registered in Mahila Thana and therefore, it was not possible to harass the deceased soon before her death. However, the trial Court held that the deceased had committed suicide because of the ill-treatment meted out to her by the appellant and his family members and held the appellant guilty of the offence under Section 306 IPC as also under Section 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

24. The learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that there was a matrimonial discord between the parties due to which the deceased was living separate from the appellant with her father and siblings.

25. The complainant PW-1 stated that the deceased was harassed for demanding dowry, an air conditioner was demanded and by demanding small amounts, Rs.1.5 Lakh had been taken away from her father. Thereafter, the accused persons demanded Rs.10 Lakhs for purchasing a flat. Her father gave Rs.6,00,000/- after selling a plot in the name of the complainant and the deceased but he could not give the balance amount of Rs.4,00,000/- for which she was harassed. PW-1 stated that the deceased committed suicide after coming to her father′s house on 02.10.2010.

26. During cross-examination, PW-1 stated (at page 7 of her cross examination) that the sale consideration of the plot sold by herself and the deceased, was received in cash and her father had purchased a property in the year 2011 by paying the entire sale consideration in cash. She also stated that she was a housewife whereas the deceased remained in service. She further stated (at page 15) that appellant wanted to get his marriage with the deceased dissolved by divorce but the deceased did not want it. She stated that the deceased stopped living with the appellant since the year 2008. PW-1 stated that it was not that the deceased was depressed because of her separation from the appellant or that she was mentally upset because of the divorce suit filed by the appellant.

27. Gulshan Kapoor, the father of the deceased, was examined as PW-2. He stated that he had spent Rs.9-10 lakh Rupees in his daughter's marriage with the appellant. 2-3 months after the marriage, she started telling him while crying that all the accused persons used to harass her for demanding dowry, but PW-2 used to tell her that as she had got married she had to live in her matrimonial home. Thereafter, the appellant and his family members started demanding Rs. 10 lakhs for purchasing a flat and she was threatened to be killed. He gave Rs.6,00,000/- after selling a plot and he had promised to give the balance Rs.4,00,000/-. The accused persons used to harass her and the appellant's friend Abhijeet used to ask them to kill the deceased and also used to state that he would get the appellant married to a rich and beautiful girl. He stated that the appellant had sent a notice for divorce in which he had levelled allegations assailing her character, this caused so much mental agony to his daughter that she committed suicide.

28. Sunny Kapoor, younger brother of the deceased was examined as PW-3 and he gave a statement similar to that of his father (PW-2).

29. The aforesaid statements reveal that the deceased and the appellant used to work together, a loving relationship developed between them due to which the appellant's mother went to the father of the deceased with a proposal of their marriage. Their marriage was solemnised on 04.12.2004. It is alleged that she was harassed for demanding dowry since 2-3 months after her marriage. The complainant PW-1 alleged in her testimony that small amounts and things like an air conditioner were demanded as dowry and her father gave Rs.1.5 Lakhs in pursuance of the demands but the deceased's father PW-2 did not say so.

30. It is alleged that a plot of land in the name of the deceased and the complainant was sold by their father. They did not disclose the particulars of the plot, the date of execution of its sale deed and the amount of sale consideration but they stated that the entire sale consideration was received in cash and out of that Rs.6,00,000/- were given in cash to the appellant without disclosing the date when this amount was given. It is also stated that the father of the deceased had purchased some property in the year 2011 and that transaction was also done in cash.

31. The first time the allegation of demand of dowry was levelled in writing in FIR bearing Case Crime No. 34 of 2010 in Mahila Thana, Lucknow on 20.04.2010 against the appellant, his mother, younger brother and wife of his younger brother, under Sections 498-A, 323, 406, 504, 506 IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act. Prior to it, the appellant had filed Complaint No. 9194 of 2007 in the Court of C.J.M (Custom) against his wife Monika Tandon, mother-in-law Shanta Rani Kapoor, sister-in-law Neha Kapoor (the complainant) and brother-in-law Sunny Kapoor stating that he had married Monika Tandon out of love on 14.12.2004; that soon after the marriage, she had started pressurizing him to live separate from his mother and brother and under her pressure he started living separate from his mother and brother under a written agreement dated 06.01.2007 but she went away along with all her documents and valuable articles on 27.07.2007. The appellant wrote in the complaint that his wife used to mentally harass him by showing him a suicide note and by threatening that she would commit suicide at his home and would get the appellant and his family members implicated in a dowry death case due to which he was afraid and these actions of her made out offences under Sections 384, 504, 506 IPC. On 06.04.2010, the C.J.M. (Custom) Lucknow passed an order on the appellant's complaint summoning the appellant's wife for facing trial for the offences under Sections 504 and 506 IPC.

32. The appellant had filed Regular Suit No. 2253 of 2009 in the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Lucknow under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, wherein he pleaded that he got married to the deceased on 14.12.2004 and they resided in his widow mother's apartment, along with his mother and brother, for one year. He pleaded that his wife used to oppose the appellant spending time with his mother and she even alleged that he had illicit relations with his mother. Thereafter, he moved out of his mother's house and on 01.04.2006, he and his wife had shifted to a rented apartment in Indira Nagar. On 27.08.2006, the appellant's wife went away to her father's home and she took with her all her documents and jewellery items. When the appellant went to her, she and her parents abused and humiliated him.

33. The appellant also pleaded in the suit for divorce that the deceased came to his office on 08.11.2009, abused him and demanded Rs.20,000/- and he gave her Rs.7,000/-. She also called him from Rohini, New Delhi through her mobile No. 9958952442, which was a Delhi number issued in her name, and demanded Rs.50,000/- and she threatened to get him incarcerated. The appellant's company was sending him abroad on 09.08.2009 but on 06.08.2009, the deceased took away the appellant's documents and threatened that in case he went abroad, he would be sent behind the bars. The appellant pleaded that the aforesaid facts constituted cruelty and sought divorce on this ground.

34. Although PW-2 had stated in his cross examination that the appellant had sent a notice for divorce wherein he had assailed the character of the deceased and it caused so much mental agony to the deceased that she committed suicide by hanging on 02.10.2010 but the appellant had not made any pleading in the suit for divorce assailing the character of the deceased. On the contrary, he had pleaded that the deceased had assailed the character of the appellant and his mother by falsely alleging that the appellant had illicit relations with his mother.

35. The deceased had lodged FIR bearing Case Crime No. 34 of 2010 in Mahila Thana, Lucknow on 20.04.2010 against the appellant, his mother, younger brother and the wife of his younger brother, under Sections 498-A, 323, 406, 504, 506 IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act wherein she alleged for the first time that the accused persons used to harass her for demanding dowry. She also alleged that the appellant had deceitfully given her some medicine which caused her miscarriage but there is no material to substantiate this allegation and although PW-1, PW-2 and PW-3 have alleged that the appellant used to harass his deceased wife, none of them have alleged that he had caused her miscarriage. The deceased had alleged in the FIR that her mother-in-law had asked her to bring her Rs.2,00,000/- to enable the appellant to do some business and her father had fulfilled the demand by borrowing the money but her father has not said so when he was examined as PW-2.

36. The deceased also alleged in the FIR that her father used to keep on paying dowry amounts in cash day in and day out and the appellant used to deposit the same in his bank account and the bank account of his mother and thus the appellant had extracted Rs.1.5 Lakhs from her father but her father PW-1 has not said so in his deposition.

37. The trial Court has rejected the appellant′s contention that although the prosecution case is that the father of the deceased had given Rs.6,00,000/- to him as dowry whereas no such amount has been deposited in his bank account or in the account of his mother, by stating that such amounts are not deposited in Bank accounts, whereas the deceased herself had alleged that the amount extracted from her father was deposited in the bank accounts of the appellant and his mother.

38. The deceased further alleged in the FIR that she had appeared before the Family Court in the suit for divorce filed by the appellant but thereafter she again went back to her matrimonial home. The appellant used to drop her at her parents′ home for demanding Rs.10,00,000/- for purchasing a flat which allegation appears to be highly unnatural and improbable. She alleged that the appellant badly assaulted her on 18.04.2010 and the police intervened in the matter. There is no material to establish that the deceased cohabited with the appellant as his wife after lodging of the FIR No. 34 of 2010 dated 20.04.2010.

39. The trial Court has not taken into consideration the defence set up by the appellant and the documentary evidence filed by him. The appellant had requested the trial Court to call upon the prosecution to admit or deny the documents filed by him. The prosecution did not deny the documents filed by the appellant.

40. In Anand Ramachandra Chougule v. Sidarai Laxman Chougala: (2019) 8 SCC 50, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that: -

"10. The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the allegations beyond all reasonable doubt. In contradistinction to the same, the accused has only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence. An accused is not required to establish or prove his defence beyond all reasonable doubt, unlike the prosecution. If the accused takes a defence, which is not improbable and appears likely, there is material in support of such defence, the accused is not required to prove anything further. The benefit of doubt must follow unless the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt.″

41. In Vaibhav v. State of Maharashtra: (2025) 8 SCC 315, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that: -

"31. In law, there is a significant difference in the evidentiary burden to be discharged by the prosecution and the accused. Whereas, the former is expected to discharge its burden beyond reasonable doubt, the latter is only required to prove a defence on the anvil of preponderance of probabilities. If the accused leads defence evidence in the course of a criminal trial, the same ought to be tested as probable or improbable in the facts and circumstances of the case.″

42. In the present case, there are serious discrepancies in the version of the deceased in the FIR lodged by her on 20.04.2010 and the statements of the prosecution witnesses, which raise a serious doubt against the prosecution case alleging demand of dowry and harassment for this reason. The complainant and her father have alleged having given Rs.6,00,000/- in cash to the appellant as dowry. Besides the fact that this Court has come to a conclusion that they have failed to prove this allegation beyond reasonable doubt, if found true, this allegation would amount to a confession regarding commission of under Section 3 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, which provides as follows: -

"3. Penalty for giving or taking dowry. - (1) If any person, after the commencement of this Act, gives or takes or abets the giving or taking of dowry, he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than five years, and with fine which shall not be less than fifteen thousand rupees or the amount of the value of such dowry, whichever is more:

Provided that the Court may, for adequate and special reasons to be recorded in the judgment, impose a sentence of imprisonment for a term of less than five years.

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply to, or in relation to,-

(a) presents which are given at the time of a marriage to the bride (without any demand having been made in that behalf):

Provided that such presents are entered in a list maintained in accordance with the rules made under this Act;

(b) presents which are given at the time of a marriage to the bridegroom (without any demand having been made in that behalf):

Provided that such presents are entered in a list maintained in accordance with the rules made under this Act:

Provided further that where such presents are made by or on behalf of the bride or any person related to the bride, such presents are of a customary nature and the value thereof is not excessive having regard to the financial status of the person by whom, or on whose behalf, such presents are given."

43. Thus, not only taking dowry, but also giving dowry is an offence under Section 3 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. However, as I have come to a conclusion that the allegation that the father of the deceased had given Rs.6,00,000/- to the appellant as dowry, has not been proved, neither the offence of taking dowry nor the offence of taking dowry is made out. The allegation of harassment for demand of dowry levelled for the first time in FIR No. 34 of 2010 lodged on 20.04.2010 and, as has been mentioned above, there are serious discrepancies in the statements of the witness regarding the demand of dowry and harassment therefor. The appellant has set up a reasonable defence that there were serious disputes between the appellant and his deceased wife since the year 2007 when he had filed a criminal complaint against her on which the trial Court had summoned the deceased. There are allegations and counter allegations. The prosecution was required to prove the allegations beyond reasonable doubt, which it failed to do, whereas the appellant was not required to prove the correctness of his allegations beyond reasonable doubt, he was merely required to raise a doubt against the prosecution case on the basis of mere preponderance of probabilities, which he has succeeded to do. Therefore, I am of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to establish the ingredients of Section 498-A IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

44. Now I proceed to examine the validity of the appellant's conviction for the offence under Section 306 IPC, which reads as under: -

"306. Abetment of suicide.-If any person commits suicide, whoever abets the commission of such suicide, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine."

45. "Abetment of a thing" has been defined under Section 107 of the Code in the following words: -

"107. Abetment of a thing.-A person abets the doing of a thing, who-

First.-Instigates any person to do that thing; or

Secondly.-Engages with one or more other person or persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing, if an act or illegal omission takes place in pursuance of that conspiracy, and in order to the doing of that thing; or

Thirdly.-Intentionally aids, by any act or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.'

Explanation 2 which has been inserted along with Section 107 reads as under:

Explanation 2.-Whoever, either prior to or at the time of the commission of an act, does anything in order to facilitate the commission of that act, and thereby facilitates the commission thereof, is said to aid the doing of that act."

46. In State of W.B. v. Orilal Jaiswal: (1994) 1 SCC 73, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has cautioned that: -

*"17.....the Court should be extremely careful in assessing the facts and circumstances of each case and the evidence adduced in the trial for the purpose of finding whether the cruelty meted out to the victim had in fact induced her to end the life by committing suicide. If it transpires to the Court that a victim committing suicide was hypersensitive to ordinary petulance, discord and differences in domestic life quite common to the society to which the victim belonged and such petulance, discord and differences were not expected to induce a similarly circumstanced individual in a given society to commit suicide, the conscience of the Court should not be satisfied for basing a finding that the accused charged of abetting the offence of suicide should be found guilty…"

(Emphasis added)

47. In Chitresh Kumar Chopra v. State (Govt. of NCT of Delhi): (2009) 16 SCC 605, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that there should be intention to provoke, incite or encourage the doing of an act by the latter. Each person's suicidability pattern is different from the others. Each person has his own idea of self-esteem and self-respect. Therefore, it is impossible to lay down any straitjacket formula in dealing with such cases. Each case has to be decided on the basis of its own facts and circumstances.

48. In Ude Singh v. State of Haryana: (2019) 17 SCC 301, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that: -

"15. Thus, "abetment" involves a mental process of instigating a person in doing something. A person abets the doing of a thing when:

(i) he instigates any person to do that thing; or

(ii) he engages with one or more persons in any conspiracy for the doing of that thing; or

(iii) he intentionally aids, by acts or illegal omission, the doing of that thing.

These are essential to complete the abetment as a crime. The word "instigate" literally means to provoke, incite, urge on or bring about by persuasion to do anything.

16. In cases of alleged abetment of suicide, there must be a proof of direct or indirect act(s) of incitement to the commission of suicide. It could hardly be disputed that the question of cause of a suicide, particularly in the context of an offence of abetment of suicide, remains a vexed one, involving multifaceted and complex attributes of human behaviour and responses/reactions. In the case of accusation for abetment of suicide, the court would be looking for cogent and convincing proof of the act(s) of incitement to the commission of suicide. In the case of suicide, mere allegation of harassment of the deceased by another person would not suffice unless there be such action on the part of the accused which compels the person to commit suicide; and such an offending action ought to be proximate to the time of occurrence. Whether a person has abetted in the commission of suicide by another or not, could only be gathered from the facts and circumstances of each case.

16.1. For the purpose of finding out if a person has abetted commission of suicide by another, the consideration would be if the accused is guilty of the act of instigation of the act of suicide. As explained and reiterated by this Court in the decisions above referred, instigation means to goad, urge forward, provoke, incite or encourage to do an act. If the persons who committed suicide had been hypersensitive and the action of the accused is otherwise not ordinarily expected to induce a similarly circumstanced person to commit suicide, it may not be safe to hold the accused guilty of abetment of suicide. But, on the other hand, if the accused by his acts and by his continuous course of conduct creates a situation which leads the deceased perceiving no other option except to commit suicide, the case may fall within the four corners of Section 306 IPC. If the accused plays an active role in tarnishing the self-esteem and self-respect of the victim, which eventually draws the victim to commit suicide, the accused may be held guilty of abetment of suicide. The question of mens rea on the part of the accused in such cases would be examined with reference to the actual acts and deeds of the accused and if the acts and deeds are only of such nature where the accused intended nothing more than harassment or snap show of anger, a particular case may fall short of the offence of abetment of suicide. However, if the accused kept on irritating or annoying the deceased by words or deeds until the deceased reacted* or was provoked, a particular case may be that of abetment of suicide. Such being the matter of delicate analysis of human behaviour, each case is required to be examined on its own facts, while taking note of all the surrounding factors having bearing on the actions and psyche of the accused and the deceased.

16.2. We may also observe that human mind could be affected and could react in myriad ways; and impact of one's action on the mind of another carries several imponderables. Similar actions are dealt with differently by different persons; and so far a particular person's reaction to any other human's action is concerned, there is no specific theorem or yardstick to estimate or assess the same. Even in regard to the factors related with the question of harassment of a girl, many factors are to be considered like age, personality, upbringing, rural or urban set-ups, education, etc. Even the response to the ill action of eve teasing and its impact on a young girl could also vary for a variety of factors, including those of background, self-confidence and upbringing. Hence, each case is required to be dealt with on its own facts and circumstances."

49. In Prakash v. State of Maharashtra: (2026) 6 SCC 251, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"18. Section 306 IPC has two basic ingredients-first, an act of suicide by one person and second, the abetment to the said act by another person(s). In order to sustain a charge under Section 306 IPC, it must necessarily be proved that the accused person has contributed to the suicide by the deceased by some direct or indirect act. To prove such contribution or involvement, one of the three conditions outlined in Section 107IPC has to be satisfied.

19. Section 306 read with Section 107 IPC, has been interpreted, time and again, and its principles are well established. To attract the offence of abetment to suicide, it is important to establish proof of direct or indirect acts of instigation or incitement of suicide by the accused, which must be in close proximity to the commission of suicide by the deceased. Such instigation or incitement should reveal a clear mens rea to abet the commission of suicide and should put the victim in such a position that he/she would have no other option but to commit suicide.

20. The law on abetment has been crystallised by a plethora of decisions of this Court. Abetment involves a mental process of instigating or intentionally aiding another person to do a particular thing. To bring a charge under Section 306 IPC, the act of abetment would require the positive act of instigating or intentionally aiding another person to commit suicide. Without such mens rea on the part of the accused person being apparent from the face of the record, a charge under the aforesaid section cannot be sustained. Abetment also requires an active act, direct or indirect, on the part of the accused person which left the deceased with no other option but to commit suicide.

33. This Court in Mohit Singhal [Mohit Singhal v. State of Uttarakhand, (2024) 1 SCC 417] reiterated that the act of instigation must be of such intensity and in such close proximity that it intends to push the deceased to such a position under which the person has no choice but to commit suicide. This Court held that the incident which had allegedly driven the deceased to commit suicide had occurred two weeks prior and even the suicide note had been written three days prior to the date on which the deceased committed suicide and further, there was no allegation that any act had been done by the accused-appellant therein in close proximity to the date of suicide. This Court observed as follows:

"11. In the present case, taking the complaint of the third respondent and the contents of the suicide note as correct, it is impossible to conclude that the appellants instigated the deceased to commit suicide by demanding the payment of the amount borrowed by the third respondent from her husband by using abusive language and by assaulting him by a belt for that purpose. The said incident allegedly happened more than two weeks before the date of suicide. There is no allegation that any act was done by the appellants in close proximity to the date of suicide. By no stretch of imagination, the alleged acts of the appellants can amount to instigation to commit suicide. The deceased has blamed the third respondent for landing in trouble due to her bad habits.

12. Therefore, in our considered view, the offence punishable under Section 306IPC was not made out against the appellants. Therefore, the continuation of their prosecution will be nothing but an abuse of the process of law."

(emphasis supplied by the Supreme Court)

34. This Court in Naresh Kumar v. State of Haryana [(2024) 3 SCC 573], observed as follows:

"20. This Court in Mariano Anto Bruno v. State [(2023) 15 SCC 560], after referring to the above referred decisions rendered in context of culpability under Section 306 IPC observed as under:

"45. It is also to be borne in mind that in cases of alleged abetment of suicide, there must be proof of direct or indirect acts of incitement to the commission of suicide. Merely on the allegation of harassment without there being any positive action proximate to the time of occurrence on the part of the accused which led or compelled the person to commit suicide, conviction in terms of Section 306IPC is not sustainable."

(emphasis supplied by the Supreme Court)

50. In Balaji Jaiswal v. State of Chattisgarh: 2026 SCC OnLine SC 602, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to some precedents on the point in issue and held that: -

"11. From the aforesaid decision, it becomes clear that for sustaining a charge under Section 306 of the Penal Code, it has to be shown that the accused persons had contributed to the suicide by the deceased through some direct or indirect act. Section 107 of the Penal Code has thereafter been referred to hold that there ought to be some instigation or incitement that would reveal a clear mens rea to abet the commission of suicide, thus, leading the victim to such a position that he/she would have no other option but to commit suicide. There ought to be some material to indicate a positive act of instigation, which is a crucial component of abetment. Instigation or incitement on the part of the accused person has been held to be the gravamen of the offence of abetment to suicide. The act of instigation also has to be in close proximity to the act of suicide so as to form the nexus or a chain to indicate that the act of suicide was the direct result of the act of instigation by the accused person...."

51. In the present case, the trial Court has acquitted the appellant as well as all the accused persons of the charge under Section 304-B IPC as the deceased and her husband were not in contact with each other since 20.04.2010, when the FIR bearing Case Crime No. 34 of 2010 under Section 498-A, 323, 406, 506 of IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act was registered in Mahila Thana and, therefore, it was not possible to harass the deceased soon before her death. The deceased committed suicide on 02.10.2010, i.e. 5 months and 12 days since she had lodged an FIR against the appellant and his family members. When the trial Court has held that the appellant had no contact with the deceased for the past 5 months and 12 days before the incident it cannot be said that the appellant abetted the deceased to commit suicide even without there having been any contact or communication between them.

52. The trial Court has relied upon the provision contained in Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, which provides as follows: -

"113-A. Presumption as to abetment of suicide by a married woman. -When the question is whether the commission of suicide by a woman had been abetted by her husband or any relative of her husband and it is shown that she had committed suicide within a period of seven years from the date of her marriage and that her husband or such relative of her husband had subjected her to cruelty, the court may presume, having regard to all the other circumstances of the case, that such suicide had been abetted by her husband or by such relative of her husband.

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, "cruelty" shall have the same meaning as in Section 498-A of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)."

53. Section 498-A of the Evidence Act provides that: -

"498-A. Husband or relative of husband of a woman subjecting her to cruelty. Whoever, being the husband or the relative of the husband of a woman, subjects such woman to cruelty shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years and shall also be liable to fine.*

Explanation.-For the purposes of this section, "cruelty" means-

(a) any wilful conduct which is of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health (whether mental or physical) of the woman; or

(b) harassment of the woman where such harassment is with a view to coercing her or any person related to her to meet any unlawful demand for any property or valuable security or is on account of failure by her or any person related to her to meet such demand."

54. In Ram Pyarey v. State of U.P.: (2025) 6 SCC 820, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"14. It is relevant to note that under Section 113-B, the court shall presume dowry death unlike Section 113-A where the provision says that court may presume abetment of suicide. This is the vital difference between the two provisions which raises presumption as regards abetment of suicide.

15. When the courts below want to apply Section 113-A of the Evidence Act, the condition precedent is that there has to be first some cogent evidence as regards cruelty and harassment. In the absence of any cogent evidence as regards harassment or abetment in any form like aiding or instigating, the court cannot straightway invoke Section 113-A and presume that the accused abetted the commission of suicide."

55. The aforesaid ratio laid down in Ram Pyarey v. State of U.P. (supra) has been followed in State of H.P. v. Madan Gopal: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 191.

56. This Court has already held that the prosecution has failed to prove the charge under Section 498-A I.P.C. that the appellant had harassed the deceased for demanding dowry. In the absence of any cogent evidence as regards harassment or abetment in any form like aiding or instigating, the appellant cannot be convicted for the offence under Section 306 I.P.C. by straightway invoking Section 113-A so as to presume that he has abetted the commission of suicide.

57. In Nipun Aneja v. State of U.P.: 2024 SCC OnLine SC 4091, the Hon'ble Supreme Court referred to numerous precedents on the point of what would constitute abetment to commit suicide and concluded that: -

"21. The ingredients to constitute an offence under Section 306 IPC (abetment of suicide) would stand fulfilled if the suicide is committed by the deceased due to direct and alarming encouragement/incitement by the accused leaving no option but to commit suicide….The problem is that the courts just look into the factum of suicide and nothing more. We believe that such understanding on the part of the courts is wrong. It all depends on the nature of the offence & accusation. …."

58. The aforesaid observation squarely applies to the facts of the present case, where the trial Court has convicted the appellant for the offence under Section 306 IPC merely because the relations between the appellant and his wife had turned sour, both of them had levelled allegations and counter allegations against each other and the deceased committed suicide after writing that she could not tolerate the ill-treatment meted out to her by the appellant and his family members. While holding the appellant guilty of abetment of suicide of his wife, the trial Court has merely looked into the factum of suicide and has ignored the fact that when the trial Court has itself found that there was no contact between the appellant and his wife for more than five months, the appellant did not commit any act during this period of more than five months which may amount to instigating the deceased to commit suicide. Therefore, it is not proved that the deceased committed suicide because of abetment caused by the appellant and the prosecution has failed to prove the charge of offence under Section 306 IPC.

59. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed. The judgment and order dated 21.09.2024 passed by Sri. Rohit Singh, the learned Special Judge, Ayurveda Scam/CBI, Lucknow in Session Trial No.747 of 2012 arising out of Case Crime No.386 of 2010 under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and Section 3/4 of Dowry Prohibition Act registered at Police Station Alambagh, District Lucknow, whereby the appellant has been convicted and sentenced for the offences under Sections 498-A and 306 IPC and Sections 3/4, Dowry Prohibition Act, is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all the charges.

60. Consequently, the appellant shall be released from custody in connection with the present case upon his furnishing a personal bond and two sureties for his appearance before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal to the appellant, as per the provision contained in Section 437-A Cr.P.C. The amount of fine deposited by the appellant will be refunded to him.

1. The instant appeals arise out of a common judgment dated 06.09.2021 rendered by the learned Sessions Court in Sessions Trial No.- 419 of 2019, State vs. Khalid and Ors.

2. The learned trial court by the impugned judgment has found the appellants guilty of the offences under Section 302/149 I.P.C. and has imposed a punishment of life imprisonment and fine of Rs. 10,000/-, and in default of payment of fine additional 3 months simple imprisonment has been imposed. The period spent in jail by the accused during the trial shall be merged against the sentence.

3. All four appeals are being heard and decided together. The following appellants in the respective appeals are before this Court:

(a). Mahnaz and Jayara @ Shayara Bano are appellants in Criminal Appeal No.- 4273 of 2022.

(b). Rashid is the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.- 10 of 2022.

(c). Khalid is the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.- 5089 of 2022.

(d). Shabnam is the appellant in Criminal Appeal No.- 637 of 2022.

F.I.R- Prosecution Case

4. Briefly put the prosecution case set out in the F.I.R. is that about four years ago the first informant's daughter had got married to Khalid as per Muslim rites. Sometime after the marriage, her husband and in-laws started demanding Rs. 1 lakh and a motor cycle. Since the first informant could not make good the dowry demands due to financial incapacity her daughter was constantly harassed by her in-laws. She continued to endure the torture. Zubia's husband and in-laws threatened to murder her in case the dowry demands were not fulfilled. Her husband would then solemnize another marriage.

5. On 19.02.2017 when she was assaulted by her in-laws she confessed the inability of her family to satisfy their demands. In the morning her brother-in-law Rashid flung her to the ground and her husband's sisters Mahnaz and Shehnaz bound down her hands. Her husband poured the kerosene oil on her and set her on fire.

6. The FIR further states that the accused persons locked the door from outside and left the victim to burn. After sometime, in the certain belief that the deceased would have died and in order to create an alibi for themselves they rushed her to the hospital and informed the first informant. The first informant on reaching the district hospital dialed the emergency police number. Police authorities reached the site in response to the call. The statement of the victim was taken down by the City Magistrate in the presence of the police personnel. After the recording of the statement the victim was referred to Bareilly. However due to paucity of funds proper medical aid could not be given to her and the condition of the victim deteriorated. The victim in that condition was again threatened by her husband that in case any action was taken, her whole family would be burnt to death. The first informant was informed by the victim about the aforesaid threat in presence of the police personnel.

7. Pursuant to the FIR police investigations were set on foot. A charge sheet was filed against the accused persons under Sections 498A and 304B I.P.C. and Sections 3 and 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961 on 23.07.2017. Cognizance of the offences was taken by the learned trial court on 22.10.2019.
