2. The facts of the case, in nutshell, as unfolded by the informant Nawab son of Gafoor Khan in the First Information Report (in short 'F.I.R.') are that on April 26, 2017, at 12.30 p.m., he sent his eight years old daughter to the home of his acquaintance, Prakash Pradhan located in the same vicinity to call / summon him. Upon finding the girl inside his house, Prakash Pradhan grabbed her and sexually assaulted her. When the daughter returned home, she tearfully recounted the entire ordeal to both her mother and him. The girl also sustained bleeding from her private parts.

3. On the basis of the written report (Ext. ka-1), chik First Information Report (Ext. Ka-4) was registered at Police Station concerned mentioning all the details as had been described in Ext. Ka-.3. G.D. entry was also made at the same time.

4. Investigation in the matter was initiated by S.H.O. Sanjay Gupta. He inspected the place of occurrence and prepared site plan (Ext. ka-6). The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the witnesses. Injured was medically examined and injury report Ext. ka-5 was prepared. Statement of the victim under Section 164 CrPC was also recorded, which is Ext. ka-2.

5. On medical examination of the victim, it was found that hymen was torn at 6' O clock position and perineum at 9' O clock position and slight bleeding in external urethral meatus was present at the time of examination.

6. In the opinion of the doctor, there were signs suggestive of recent forceful penetration of vagina.

7. After completing the investigation, charge-sheet (Ext. ka-7) against the accused appellant was submitted before the concerned Magistrate and he took the cognizance. The case being exclusively triable by session court, was committed to the Court of sessions.

8. Accused-appellant appeared and charges under Sections 376 (2)(i) of IPC and 5(m)/6 POCSO Act were framed. Accused had denied the charges framed against him and pleading not guilty claimed his trial.

9. Trial proceeded and in order to prove its case on behalf of prosecution, six witnesses, namely, PW-1, Nawab Khan (informant), PW-2 victim girl, PW-3 Mahila Constable Munna Devi, PW-4 Dr. Kavita Kori, PW-5 S.H.O. Sanjay Gupta, Investigating Officer and PW-6 Dr. Ravi Prakash Rathore, Principal, were examined.

10. In documentary evidence, written report Ex.ka.-1, statement of victim recorded under Section 164 CrPC Ext. ka-2, G.D. entry Ext. ka-3, chick FIR Ext. ka-4, injury report Ext. ka-5, site plan Ext. ka-6 , charge sheet Ext. ka-7, entry of S.R. Register as Ext. ka-8 and original admission form of the victim as Ext. ka-9 respectively have been proved.

11. After closure of prosecution evidence the incriminating evidence and circumstances were put to the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein he claimed the entire prosecution evidence / case as false and fabricated.

12. The learned trial court upon scrutiny of the evidence on record concluded that the case of prosecution was proved beyond reasonable doubt against the accused appellant and recorded conviction and sentenced him, as mentioned here-in-above. Hence, this appeal.

13. We have heard Shri Siddharth Niranjan, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri C. B. Dhar Dubey, learned AGA for the State at length, and perused the entire record carefully.

14. Assailing the impugned judgment on various grounds, learned counsel appearing for the appellant submitted that the prosecution has not proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. It has been submitted that the impugned judgment and order is not sustainable under law. Learned counsel has further submitted that PW-1, informant, father of the victim, though not an eye witness, had also not supported the prosecution case in his cross-examination before the Court. It has further been submitted that the victim of the case had not supported the prosecution case before the Court and she had been declared hostile. The other witnesses are simply formal witnesses only. Hence there remains absolutely no reliable evidence against the appellant to connect him with the present offence and the conviction recorded by the trial court becomes unsustainable under law. Several other submissions have been made on behalf of the appellant to demonstrate the falsity of the allegations made against him.

15. Learned A.G.A. has supported the impugned judgment and order and has stated that the judgment is well reasoned and well-discussed. Medical evidence fully supports the oral version. Findings recorded by trial court in the impugned judgment and order are based on correct appreciation of facts, evidence and law and do not suffer from any infirmity or illegality warranting interference by this Court.

16. We have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the entire record including the impugned judgment and order carefully.

17. The Court finds that the allegations made against the accused-appellant in the F.I.R. and all the assertions made by PW-1 / informant against the appellant in his examination-in-chief have been tried to be washed off by him in the cross-examination. The FIR was lodged by him with the allegations that on April 26, 2017, at 12.30 p.m., he sent his eight years old daughter to the home of his acquaintance, Prakash Pradhan located in the same vicinity to call him. Upon finding the girl inside his house, Prakash Pradhan grabbed her and sexually assaulted her. When the daughter returned home, she tearfully recounted the entire ordeal to both her mother and him. The girl also sustained bleeding from her private parts and he supported the FIR version in his examination-in-chief but in his cross-examination he does not support the prosecution case and narrates in favour of the accused-appellant. In his cross-examination he deposed that his daughter had stated that while she was walking along the road, a man grabbed her and took her away, and he committed rape with her. She did not know his name nor did she recognize him. However, she already knew Prakash Pradhan by name. She did not allege that Prakash Pradhan was the man who raped her or committed the wrongful act. She stated that the person who committed the wrongful act against her was between 18 - 20 years of age. The police officers tutored his daughter regarding her statement before the Magistrate and she subsequently gave her statement before the Magistrate in accordance with that coaching. He further stated that at the time and date of the incident, Prakash Pradhan was not present at Urai. Regarding the statement recorded under Section 161 CrPC, he asserted that he had not given any such statement to the police.

18. Same is the situation with regard to the star witness of the offence i.e. the victim - PW.2. She did not support the prosecution case before the Court and turned hostile. In her examination-in-chief she had stated that Prakash Pradhan had done nothing with her. A boy, who met her on the way, did something wrong with her. She had told her father that the boy had done something wrong with her as a result of which, she bled. In her cross-examination she retracted her statement given under Section 161 of the CrPC. She claimed that the wrongful act committed with her had taken place at a different location. She further stated that she had not informed the Magistrate that her father had sent her along with her brother to call / summon Prakash Pradhan. When her statement under Section 164 was read out to her, she asserted that she had not given such a statement. She denied knowing the boy who had committed rape with her, describing him as a tall, fair-complexioned boy aged between 15 - 20 years.

19. PW-3 Constable Munni Devi proved the chick FIR Ext. ka-4 and G. Entry Ext. ka-3.

20. PW-4 Dr. Kavita Kori had medically examined the victim and proved the medical report as Ext. ka-5.

21. PW-5 S.H.O. Sanjay Gupta was the Investigating Officer of the case. He proved the investigation proceedings, site plan Ext. ka-6 and charge sheet Ext. ka-7.

22. PW-6 Dr. Ravi Prakash Rathor, Principal Aacharya Narendra Deo Inter College, Orai stated that the victim was the student of his college and proved the entries of S.R. Register as Ext. ka-8 and original admission form of the victim as Ext. ka-9.

23. This situation takes the Court to examine the legal position regarding the evidentiary value of a witness who, after corroborating the prosecution version in material sense, turns hostile subsequently and resiles from his earlier statements.

24. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Koli Lakhmanbhai Chandabhai vs. State of Gujarat, 1999 (8) SCC 624 has held that evidence of hostile witness can be relied upon to the extent it supports the version of prosecution and it is not necessary that it should be relied upon or rejected as a whole.

25. In the case of Ramesh Harijan vs. State of U.P., 2012 (5) SCC 777, the Hon'ble Apex Court has also held that it is settled legal position that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. The evidence of such witness cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether.

26. In State of U.P. vs. Ramesh Prasad Misra and another, 1996 AIR (Supreme Court) 2766, the Hon'ble Apex Court held that evidence of a hostile witnesses would not be totally rejected if spoken in favour of the prosecution or the accused but required to be subjected to close scrutiny and that portion of the evidence which is consistent with the case of the prosecution or defence can be relied upon.

27. In the case of Selvamani v. State of T.N., (2024) 19 SCC 112 the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed as under:

"16. A 3-Judge Bench of this Court in Khujji v. State of M.P., (1991) 3 SCC 627, relying on the judgments of this Court in Bhagwan Singh v. State of Haryana, (1976) 1 SCC 389, Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa [Rabindra Kumar Dey v. State of Orissa, (1976) 4 SCC 233, Syad Akbar v. State of Karnataka, (1980) 1 SCC 30, has held that the evidence of a prosecution witness cannot be rejected in toto merely because the prosecution chose to treat him as hostile and cross-examined him. It was further held that the evidence of such witnesses cannot be treated as effaced or washed off the record altogether but the same can be accepted to the extent their version is found to be dependable on a careful scrutiny thereof."

28. From the above settled principles of law, it is evident that the hostility of a witness may be a deceitful act on his part but this improper conduct of a hostile witness does not disentitle the prosecution to rely upon any portion of his testimony which supports the prosecution and is also corroborated by some other material evidence on record.

29. Further, law is also settled on the point that if the evidence of victim of offence of rape is found to be wholly reliable, the same can be made basis for conviction.

30. As to what value should be attached to the evidence of a victim of rape, has been considered by Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Babu Meena reported in (2013) 4 SCC 206 wherein Hon'ble Apex Court has observed in para 9 as under:-

"We do not have the slightest hesitation in accepting the broad submission of Mr. Jain that the conviction can be based on the sole testimony of the prosecutrix, if found to be worthy of credence and reliable and for that no corroboration is required. It has often been said that oral testimony can be classified into three categories, namely (i) wholly reliable, (ii) wholly unreliable and, (iii) neither wholly reliable nor wholly unreliable. In case of wholly reliable testimony of a single witness, the conviction can be founded without corroboration. This principle applies with greater vigour in case the nature of offence is such that it is committed in seclusion. In case prosecution is based on wholly unreliable testimony of a single witness, the court has no option than to acquit the accused."

31. In the case of Hem Raj S/o Moti Ram V. State of Harayana reported in JT 2014 (2) SC 399, the Hon'ble Apex Court has again considered this aspect and has observed in paragraph no. 6 as under:-

"In a case involving charge of rape the evidence of the prosecutrix is most vital. If it is found credible; if it inspires total confidence, it can be relied upon even sans corroboration. The court may, however, if it is hesitant to place implicit reliance on it, look into other evidence to lend assurance to it short of corroboration required in the case of an accomplice. [State of Maharashtra v. Chandraprakash Kewalchand Jain [JT 1990 (1) SC 61 : 1990 (1) SCC 550]]. Such weight is given to the prosecutrix's evidence because her evidence is on par with the evidence of an injured witness which seldom fails to inspire confidence. Having placed the prosecutrix's evidence on such a high pedestal, it is the duty of the court to scrutinize it carefully, because in a given case on that lone evidence a man can be sentenced to life imprisonment. The court must, therefore, with its rich experience evaluate such evidence with care and circumspection and only after its conscience is satisfied about its creditworthyness rely upon it."

32. In this matter, earlier the victim had stated that on April 26, 2017, at 1:00 PM, her father asked her to go and call the uncle. Therefore, she and her brother Nooralam went to uncle's room to call him. She told uncle, "Papa had called you for some work." Thereafter, the uncle gave her brother Rs. 5/- and sent him to bring 'gutkha'. Then he said to her that he was going to misbehave with her and she must not tell anyone about the same and for this he will give her ten rupees. He latched the door from the inside and when she started crying, he covered her mouth, pulled down her underwear, laid on top of her, and committed a vile act against her. He further stated that just then, her brother returned and he immediately let go of her and began putting his clothes. She was bleeding. Contrary to that in her statement before the Court she had stated that Prakash Pradhan had done nothing with her. A boy, who met her on the way, did something wrong with her. She had told her father that the boy had done something wrong with her and when the boy committed the wrongful act with her, she bled. In her cross-examination she retracted her statement given under Section 161 of CrPC. She claimed that the wrongful act committed with her had taken place at a different location. She further stated that she had not informed the Magistrate that her father had sent her along with her brother to call / summon Prakash Pradhan. When her statement under Section 164 was read out to her, she asserted that she had not given such a statement. She denied knowing the boy who had committed rape with her, describing him as a tall, fair-complexioned boy aged between 15 - 20 years. Even though PW-1, informant and PW-2-victim were cross-examined on behalf of the State but nothing incriminating could be brought on record against the appellant.

33. From a perusal of testimony of the victim ? PW-2 given before the Court, it is explicitly clear that in regard to the statements given under Sections 161 and 164 CrPC she had denied the same. Though it is established that the offence of rape had been committed with her but she had stated nothing against the appellant before the Court rather she stated that a boy aged about 15-20 years tall and fair complexioned had committed rape with her and she denied knowing the said boy. In the facts of the instant case, the victim was the only witness on the point of rape with her. Therefore, there are two versions in her evidence one is given by her in her statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 CrPC and the other before the Court. In her deposition before the Court she had specifically stated that she had not given any such statements as had been mentioned in the statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 CrPC. The two set of evidence given by the victim are so contradictory and opposite to each other that the same cannot stand together. One of the said statements is definitely false. She is not a reliable witness. The testimony of the victim is inconsistent and same inspires no confidence and there are material contradictions which shake the prosecution case. Hence, the story put forward by the informant does not inspire confidence and makes the prosecution case doubtful. The principle of law as laid down by catena of judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court that the testimony of hostile witnesses shall not be completely discarded and the part of the statement which supports the prosecution version can always be taken into consideration cannot be disputed, but the way it had been applied in the facts and circumstances of this case, that was totally uncalled for and unwarranted.

34. Hence, upon careful analysis and consideration of the settled legal position in the backdrop of the facts and circumstances of the present case, we are of the opinion that the conclusion taken by the Trial Court in the impugned judgment and order is not in accordance with law and the evidence available on record. Thus, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has not been able to establish the guilt of the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, the Court is inclined to grant benefit of doubt to the accused appellant on the ground of rule of caution.

35. In view of the above discussions, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the accused appellant for the offence punishable under 376 (2)(i) of IPC beyond reasonable doubt and to the satisfaction of the judicial conscience of the Court. So, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 14.12.2018, which has been sought to be assailed, call for and deserves, interference. The criminal appeal is liable to be allowed.

36. Accordingly, criminal appeal is allowed and the conviction and sentence imposed upon the accused appellant Prakash Pradhan for the offence punishable under Section 376 (2)(i) of IPC is set-aside as the accused appellant is found not guilty for the aforesaid offence. He is acquitted of all the charges framed against him. He be set at liberty. He is in jail. He shall be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

37. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned forthwith for compliance and also to send back the trial court record.

Held

The court held that conviction can be sustained despite the informant and injured witness turning hostile where the prosecution established an unbroken chain of circumstances through prompt FIR, medical evidence, contemporaneous disclosure admissible as res gestae, the accused's conduct in fleeing with blood stained weapon and his failure to explain the homicidal death occurring inside his house. The plea based on hostile witnesses was rejected by relying on the principles u/s 6, 8, and 106 of the Evidence Act. (E-6)

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. -916 OF 1983

Lalloo Vs. State of U.P

From the Judgment and order dated 01.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s):

A.n. Mulla, Arun Kumar Singh

Advs. for Respondent(s):

A.g.a.A. G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Arun Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the appellant; Sri Shyam Narayan Rai, learned AGA for State and perused the materials on record including the trial court records.

2. This criminal appeal is preferred under Section 374 of Cr.P.C. by the accused appellant Lalloo to set aside the judgment and order dated 31.3.1983, passed by the II Additional Sessions Judge, Non-Metropolitan Area, Kanpur in Sessions Trial No.30 of 1983 (State of U.P. Vs. Lalloo & Anr.), arising out of Case Crime No.197 of 1982, under Sections 302/34, 307/34 IPC, Police Station Billhaur, District Kanpur Dehat, whereby the appellant has been sentenced to three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 304 Part-II IPC, sentenced to three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 307 IPC. All the sentences are directed to run concurrently.

3. In this case, the first informant is PW-1, Phool Chandra, who is the younger brother of the accused appellant Lalloo. He submitted a written report (Ex.Ka.1). In his report, he stated that the deceased, Chotey Lal, used to work as a helper on his farm and also lived in his house. An illicit relationship had developed between the deceased and his mother, Shanti. One night, the deceased and his mother were lying together on a cot. At that time, the accused appellants Lalloo and Shyam came into the house. When they saw the deceased and Shanti in a compromising position, both accused persons attacked the deceased with a spade. During the incident, the informant□s mother also suffered injuries while trying to save the deceased. On the basis of this written report, an FIR was registered under Section 307 IPC as Case Crime No.197 of 1982 at Police Station Billhaur, District Kanpur Dehat.

4. The investigation started, and statements of witnesses were recorded. After investigation, a charge sheet was filed under Sections 302 and 307 IPC. The Magistrate took cognizance of the case and committed it to the Court of Sessions, where it was registered as Sessions Trial No.30 of 1983 (State of U.P. vs. Lalloo & Another), arising out of Case Crime No.197 of 1982, under Sections 302/34 and 307/34 IPC. Charges were framed against the accused persons. They denied the charges and demanded trial. However, accused Shyam Lal was later acquitted of the charges under Sections 302/34 and 307/34 IPC.

5. To prove its case, the prosecution produced the following documentary evidence:

"1. FIR dated 13.08.1982

2. Written Report dated 13.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-1)

3. Injury Report dated 13.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-8)

4. Injury Report dated 13.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-9)

5. Recovery Memo of plain and blood-stained soil (Ex. Ka-5)

6. Supurdaginama dated 13.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-6)

7. Panchayatnama dated 18.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-4)

8. Post-mortem Report dated 19.08.1982 (Ex. Ka-2)

9. Charge-sheet dated 13.9.1982 (Ex. Ka-7)"

6. Apart from the documentary evidence, the prosecution also presented oral evidence. The witnesses examined, Phool Chandra (PW-1), Shanti (PW-2), Fakire Singh (PW-3), Kalyan Singh (PW-4), Dinesh Singh (PW-5), Atar Singh (PW-6), Chhotelal (PW-7), M.A. Siddiqui (PW-8), and M.M. Khan (PW-9), in support of the prosecution case.

7. P.W.-1 Phool Chandra and P.W.-2 Smt. Shanti Devi resiled from their statement recorded during investigation and were declared hostile.

8. Fakire Singh (PW-3) is a witness who resides adjacent to the house of accused Lalloo. He has stated that the incident occurred at the night of Janmashtami at about 1:30 or 2:00 A.M., when he was lying in the courtyard of his house. He further stated that the deceased, Chhotey Lal, used to reside in the house of Lalloo and was engaged in agricultural work there. He has clearly stated that he did not witness the actual assault. Upon hearing an alarm that Lalloo had attacked Chhotey Lal, he reached the spot. At that time, he saw accused Lalloo running towards the pond with a gadasa in his hand. He further deposed that several other persons had also gathered there. He stated that he enquired from Phool Chandra, who informed him that Lalloo had assaulted Chhotey Lal. He also stated that the name of Lalloo as an assailant was disclosed to him by persons present at the spot. He further deposed that Lalloo was at a distance of about four steps from him while running towards the pond. However, he admitted that he did not see Lalloo in the light of any torch. With regard to his statement before I.O wherein he claimed himself as eyewitness of incident.

9. P.W.-6 Atar Singh is a resident of District Etawah and has been mentioned as a witness in the F.I.R. He has deposed that he had come to the village one day prior to the occurrence and had stayed at the house of Achhey Lal, who is the maternal uncle of the deceased Chhotey Lal. He further stated that a keertan was being held at the house of Ram Krishna, where he had gone along with Achhey Lal. He said he left the keertan at about 2:00 A.M., and at that time Achhey Lal was also accompanying him. He further stated that Fakire Singh and Ram Sanchi were also with him when they heard an alarm coming from the house of Lalloo. On reaching there, they found that Chhotey Lal had been murdered. He further stated that he saw Lalloo and Shyam Lal running away from the house towards the pond. The witness has further deposed that a dibbi (oil lamp) was burning inside the house. He also stated that it was a dark night and that they were carrying torches, though the Investigating Officer did not inspect his torch. He further stated that the house of Ram Krishna, where the keertan was held, was situated about five to six houses away from the place of occurrence. He has stated that he had come to the house of Achhey Lal without any specific work. He further deposed that when he entered the house of Lalloo, Phool Chandra had already reached there before him. He also stated that he had seen Lalloo and Shyam Lal assaulting Chhotey Lal, and that Smt. Shanti Devi sustained injuries while trying to save Chhotey Lal.

10. P.W.-4 Kalyan Singh did not support the prosecution case and was declared hostile. However, he has deposed that he heard an alarm raised by P.W.-1 Phool Chandra, who was shouting that the accused had committed the murder.

11. P.W.-5 Dinesh is the scribe of the written report. He has testified that the contents of the FIR were written by him on the dictation of P.W.-1 Phool Chandra.

12. P.W.-7 Dr. K.L. Vaish has proved post-mortem report (Ex.Ka.-2) of deceased Chhotey Lal. He stated he found one stitched wound 16 cm long upon the right side of head extending upto right side of cheek. Second wound was 17 cm long having nine stitches on right side of cheek. Parietal bone of deceased was found fractured. He stated that said injuries could have been caused by sharp weapon.

13. Injury reports of deceased Chhotey Lal and P.W.-2 Shanti Devi were admitted by accused under Section 294 Cr.P.C. As per injury report of deceased Chhotey Lal, he has sustained two incised wounds □19cm x 2 cm x bone deep on right side face upto scalp with bleeding present and incised wound 20 cm x 2 cm x bone cut upto brain matter on frontal region with eye ball damaged□. Similarly, P.W.-2 Shanti Devi also sustained two incised wound in the incident. She sustained □one incised wound bone deep found on middle finger of left hand measuring 2.5 cm x 1 cm. Second injury of incised wound was of 7 cm x 1 cm x muscle deep on left side of lumber region of abdomen□.

14. P.W.-8 A.M. Siddiqi has proved bed head ticket of deceased. He was posted as pharmacist in U.H.M. Hospital at Kanpur. He deposed deceased was brought and admitted in said hospital on 13-08-1982 and remained there upto 18-08-1982 till his death.

15. P.W.-9 S.I. M.M. Khan deposed he was investigation officer and he had recorded statements of witnesses, prepared site plan and recovered blood stained and plain soil from place of incident, prepared memo of earthen lamp and submitted charge sheet finding sufficient evidence against accused.

16. Upon appreciation of the evidence on record, it is revealed that the testimony of P.W.-3 Fakire Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh establishes that both the said witnesses had seen the accused fleeing from the place of occurrence immediately after the incident, armed with a blood-stained spade. The presence of blood on the weapon and the conduct of the accused in running away from the spot were treated as incriminating circumstances against him. The trial court has further taken into consideration the statements of the aforesaid witnesses that they had heard the alarm raised by P.W.-1 Phool Chandra, who was shouting that accused Lalloo had murdered Chhotey Lal. The said utterance was held by the trial court to be admissible as forming part of the same transaction under the doctrine of res gestae.

17. The trial court has also observed that the conduct of the accused in fleeing from the place of occurrence with a blood-stained spade, at the very moment when P.W.-1 was raising alarm and naming the accused, constitutes a relevant circumstance indicative of his involvement in the occurrence. On the basis of the aforesaid circumstances, the trial court, while holding that the charge under Section 302 IPC was not made out, proceeded to convict the accused under Section 304 Part II IPC. However, no specific and cogent reasons were assigned by the trial court as to the absence of intention so as to exclude the offence under Section 302 IPC and for converting the conviction to one under Section 304 Part II IPC.

18. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that none of the witnesses examined by the prosecution can be said to be an eyewitness to the actual occurrence, inasmuch as no witness has consistently deposed to having seen the incident of assault. It is further contended that P.W.-1 Phool Chandra and P.W.-2 Shanti, who are alleged to be the eyewitnesses and, in the case of P.W.-2, an injured witness, have not supported the prosecution version during trial. Both these witnesses were declared hostile by the prosecution and have not attributed any role to the accused in the commission of the offence. Learned counsel has also submitted that though the trial court has placed reliance upon the testimony of P.W.-3 Fakire Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh, the said witnesses are not eyewitnesses of the occurrence. Their presence at the time of actual assault is doubtful, and even according to their own statements, they reached the place of occurrence after the incident. It is further urged that P.W.-6 Atar Singh has been treated by the trial court itself as only a partially reliable witness, and therefore, his testimony could not have been made the sole basis of conviction. It is next contended that both P.W.-3 Fakire Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh have deposed that they heard P.W.-1 Phool Chandra raising an alarm that accused Lalloo had murdered Chhotey Lal. However, such statements cannot be relied upon, inasmuch as they do not find any corroboration from the testimony of P.W.-1 Phool Chandra and P.W.-2 Shanti, who have not supported the prosecution case at all and have denied the occurrence as alleged. In absence of such corroboration, the said evidence loses its evidentiary value and cannot form the basis of conviction.

19. Learned A.G.A., on the other hand, has opposed the submissions advanced on behalf of the appellant and contended that the prosecution case cannot be discarded merely on the ground that the alleged eyewitnesses, namely P.W.-1 Phool Chandra and P.W.-2 Shanti, have turned hostile during trial. It is submitted that the testimony of a hostile witness is not to be rejected in toto and can be relied upon to the extent it supports the prosecution case. It is further argued that the evidence of P.W.-3 Fakire Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh clearly establishes that they reached the place of occurrence immediately after the incident and saw the accused fleeing from the spot armed with a blood-stained spade, which constitutes a strong incriminating circumstance against him. It is also submitted that both the said witnesses have consistently deposed that they heard the alarm raised by P.W.-1 Phool Chandra naming the accused as the assailant, which forms part of the same transaction and is admissible under the doctrine of res gestae. Learned A.G.A. has further contended that the conduct of the accused in running away from the place of occurrence with a blood-stained weapon, coupled with the surrounding circumstances, clearly points towards his guilt, and the trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence on record in recording the conviction, which does not call for any interference by this Court.

20. Upon a careful consideration of the entire material available on record and the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, this Court finds that the trial court has rightly arrived at the conclusion that the accused was responsible for the assault upon the deceased Chhotey Lal. However, the conversion of the charge from murder punishable under Section 302 IPC to culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Section 304 Part II IPC does not appear to be supported by any cogent reasoning and is, therefore, unsustainable in law.

21. It is difficult to accept the findings recorded by the trial court inasmuch as, having placed reliance upon the testimonies of P.W.-3 Fakirey Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh, there existed no justifiable basis to absolve the accused of the offence punishable under Section 302 IPC. The findings of the trial court suffer from lack of proper appreciation of evidence.

22. It is further pertinent to note that the trial court has neither adverted to nor discussed the injury report and post-mortem report of the deceased Chhotey Lal, nor has it properly considered the injury sustained by P.W.-2 Shanti Devi. The evidence on record clearly indicates that P.W.-2 Shanti Devi had also sustained injuries during the course of the same incident, namely two incised wounds on her left hand finger and abdomen. The genuineness of the injury report (Ex.Ka-9) stood admitted by the accused during trial, yet the same has not been properly appreciated by the trial court. In this regard, it is relevant to observe that where the genuineness of a document is admitted under Section 294 Cr.P.C., the same becomes substantive evidence. The Full Bench of the Allahabad High Court in Saddiq & Ors. vs. State 1981 CriLJ 379 has held that once a document is admitted, its contents and execution need not be formally proved, and it can be read in evidence as substantive material. The expression "read in evidence" implies that such document can be relied upon for proving the facts in issue.

23. If the testimonies of P.W.-3 Fakire Singh and P.W.-6 Atar Singh are accepted to the extent that they saw the accused fleeing from the place of occurrence with a blood-stained spade at the very moment when P.W.-1 was raising alarm naming the accused, then the chain of circumstances clearly points towards the involvement of the accused in the commission of the offence. Such conduct is relevant under Section 8 of the Evidence Act, and the contemporaneous utterance of P.W.-1 forms part of the same transaction and is admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act as "res gestae". Section 6 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is extracted hereinafter:-

"This section incorporates the principle of res gestae, which is a kind of an exception to the rule against hearsay as illustrated in Illustration (a) to this section. The word "hearsay" is used in various senses. Sometimes it means whatever a person is heard to say; sometimes it means whatever a person declares on information given by someone else. There are four illustrations to the section. In the first illustration, A is accused of the murder of B, by beating him. Whatever was said or done by A or B or the bystanders at the beating, or so shortly before or after it as to form part of the transaction, is a relevant fact.

Even a hearsay statement is relevant if it forms a part of the same transaction as the fact-in-issue (occurrence). Unless any fact or statement forms a part of the same transaction, it will not be admissible in evidence. For example, utterances just before, during or immediately after the commission of a crime, spontaneous outbursts of bystander or of accused or victim forming part of the same transaction are admissible."

24. Section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"8. Motive, preparation and previous or subsequent conduct. Any fact is relevant which shows or constitutes a motive or preparation for any fact in issue or relevant fact.

The conduct of any party, or of any agent to any party, to any suit or proceeding, in reference to such suit or proceeding, or in reference to any fact in issue therein or relevant thereto, and the conduct of any person an offence against whom is the subject of any proceeding, is relevant, if such conduct influences or is influenced by any fact in issue or relevant fact, and whether it was previous or subsequent thereto.

Explanation 1. The word "conduct" in this section does not include statements, unless those statements accompany and explain acts other than statements; but this explanation is not to affect the relevancy of statements under any other section of this Act.

Explanation 2. When the conduct of any person is relevant, any statement made to him or in his presence and hearing, which affects such conduct, is relevant.

Thus, conduct, which is relevant and hence provable under this section, is conduct, which directly and immediately influences or is influenced by any fact in issue or relevant fact. Relevant conduct does not include actions resulting from some intermediate cause. Such conduct must have nexus with the crime committed. It must form a part of the evidence as regards his conduct either preceding, during or after the commission of the offence as envisaged under section 8 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Hence, any behaviour or conduct of the accused would be relevant if it had nexus with the offence alleged to have been committed by him. Only such conduct of the accused, which supports, destroys dents the presumption of innocence, is relevant. Conduct of accused by way of immediate reaction to an illegal overture of bribe is relevant. Creating false record is a conduct, which, is relevant. False explanation or false plea by an accused is relevant."

25. Considering all the facts and circumstances of the present case as also the material evidence available on record, the trial court has rightly held the accused appellant Lalloo guilty on the basis of relevancy of evidence and conduct of the appellant under Section 6 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1972 but the trial court has committed an erroneous finding that testimony of PW-6 Atar Singh is wholly unreliable. The specific role of appellant Lalloo and Shyam Lal for committing murder of deceased Chotey Lal inside the house of informant has been clearly assigned in the FIR and PW-3 and PW-6 also stated that they have seen the Lalloo and Shyam Lal running away from the house having spade (gadasa) in their hands but as to how Shyam Lal was not held guilty and acquitted in this case is not clearly explained on the basis of specific findings returned by the trial court in this case.

26. In this case, the incident is said to be occurred at about 2.00 AM in the house of the accused appellant Lalloo and three family members were present inside the house i.e. the deceased Chotey Lal and injured Shanti. The FIR was registered by the real brother of accused appellant alleging that accused applicant has committed murder of Chotey Lal, who was a servant and involved in agricultural work in the house of the appellant. On hearing screams of informant the witnesses reached towards the place of occurrence and saw the accused appellants coming out from the house having blood stained spade (gadasa) in their hands and they ran towards the tank. The persons, who were present at the place of occurrence were informant Phool Chandra, mother of accused appellant Shanti, deceased Chotey Lal and accused appellant himself. Phool Chandra PW-1, who is the real brother of the appellant has no enmity with the accused appellant but he has lodged the FIR promptly. The deceased Chotey Lal and Shanti were taken to the hospital for medical treatment. Though the informant has turned hostile in this case but the relevant and broad facts regarding commissioning of cognizable offence are clearly mentioned in the FIR and the incident is duly corroborated with the testimonies of PW-3 and PW-6 and there is burden upon the inmates of the house namely appellant Lalloo under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 provides that when any fact is essentially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him. The appellant Lalloo is the only family member who has not explained special circumstance of death of Chhotey Lal inside his house at night. Furthermore, the accused appellant has generally denied the statement as wrong in his statement recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C. and he has not explained the material evidence/circumstances clearly in his statement.

27. The prompt lodging of the FIR by P.W.-1 Phool Chand, who is the real brother, the admitted genuineness of the injury reports of the deceased and P.W.-2 Shanti Devi under Section 294 Cr.P.C., and the testimony of P.W.-5 Dinesh, the scribe, who has categorically stated that he wrote the report as dictated by P.W.-1, conduct of accused Lalloo, unexplained circumstance by the accused appellant, are all circumstances which, taken together, sufficiently establish the guilt of the accused, notwithstanding the fact that the alleged eyewitnesses and injured witness turned hostile during trial.

28. However, this Court is constrained to observe that, in view of the limitations imposed under Section 386 Cr.P.C., and in absence of any appeal or enhancement proceedings by the State, it is not permissible to alter the conviction to one under Section 302 IPC. Nevertheless, it is observed that the trial court has failed to properly appreciate the evidence on record, has omitted to consider material evidence including the injury reports, and has committed a grave illegality in the matter of sentencing by not imposing fine while convicting the accused under Section 307 IPC.It is further observed that even the sentence awarded under Section 304 Part II IPC does not appear to be commensurate with the gravity of the offence established on record.

29. The Apex Court in Employees' State Insurance Corporation vs. A.K. Abdul Samad and Another, (2016) 4 SCC 785 held that:

"9. In our considered view, the clause "shall also be liable to fine", in the context of the Penal Code may be capable of being treated as directory and thus, conferring on the court, a discretion to impose sentence of fine also in addition to imprisonment although such discretion stands somewhat impaired as per the view taken by this Court in Zunjarrao Bhikaji Nagarkar. But clearly no minimum fine is prescribed for the offences under IPC nor that the Act was enacted with the special purpose of preventing economic offences as was the case in Chern Taong Shangs. The object of creating offence and penalty under the Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948 is clearly to create deterrence against violation of provisions of the Act which are beneficial for the employees. Non-payment of contributions is an economic offence and therefore the legislature has not only fixed a minimum term of imprisonment but also a fixed amount of fine of five thousand rupees under Section 85(a)(i)(b) of the Act. There is no discretion of awarding less than the specified fee, under the main provision. It is only the proviso which is in the nature of an exception whereunder the court is vested with discretion limited to imposition of imprisonment for a lesser term. Conspicuously, no words are found in the proviso for imposing a lesser fine than that of five thousand rupees. In such a situation the intention of the legislature is clear and brooks no interpretation. The law is well settled that when the wordings of the statute are clear, no interpretation is required unless there is a requirement of saving the provisions from vice of unconstitutionality or absurdity. Neither of the twin situations is attracted herein."

30. Thus, imposition of fine is integral part and fundamental aspect of the punishment, whereas the learned trial court, while awarding sentence, has overlooked the aforesaid legal provision and committed legal error, but so far as the finding of conviction recorded against the accused appellant is concerned, it appears to be just and proper.

31. In Kali Ram v State of Himachal Pradesh AIR 1973 SCC 2073, the Supreme Court cautioned that the earlier observations do not affect the well-established principles of presumption of innocence and the burden of proof beyond reasonable doubt. The observations in the decisions quoted above have been quoted with approval in State of Uttar Pradesh v Pussu @ Ram Kishore (1983) 3 SCC 502, wherein the Apex Court held as under:-

"25. The rule governing the appreciation of evidence in a criminal case is laid down by this court in State of Punjab v. Jagir Singh [(1974) 3 SCC 277 : 1973 SCC (Cri) 886 : AIR 1973 SC 2407 : 1973 Cri LJ 1589 : (1974) 1 SCR 328] in which this court set aside the judgment of acquittal passed by the High Court which had reversed the conviction and sentence imposed by the trial court thus : [SCC para 23, pp. 285-86 : SCC (Cri) pp. 894-95]

"A criminal trial is not like a fairy tale wherein one is free to give flight to one's imagination and phantasy. It concerns itself with the question as to whether the accused arraigned at the trial is guilty of the crime with which he is charged. Crime is an event in real life and is the product of interplay of different human emotions. In arriving at the conclusion about the guilt of the accused charged with the commission of a crime, the court has to judge the evidence by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic worth and the animus of witnesses. Every case in the final analysis would have to depend upon its own facts. Although the benefit of every reasonable doubt should be given to the accused, the courts should not at the same time reject evidence which is ex facie trustworthy on grounds which are fanciful or in the nature of conjectures."

32. In State of U.P. Vs. Krishna Gopal & Anr. (1988) 4 SCC 302 the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"25. A person has, no doubt, a profound right not to be convicted of an offence which is not established by the evidential standard of proof beyond reasonable doubt. Though this standard is a higher standard, there is, however, no absolute standard. What degree of probability amounts to □proof□ is an exercise particular to each case. Referring to the interdependence of evidence and the confirmation of one piece of evidence by another a learned Author says [See: □The Mathematics of Proof-II□ : Glanville Williams: Criminal Law Review, 1979, by Sweet and Maxwell, p. 340 (342)] :

The simple multiplication rule does not apply if the separate pieces of evidence are dependent. Two events are dependent when they tend to occur together, and the evidence of such events may also be said to be dependent. In a criminal case, different pieces of evidence directed to establishing that the defendant did the prohibited act with the specified state of mind are generally dependent. A juror may feel doubt whether to credit an alleged confession, and doubt whether to infer guilt from the fact that the defendant fled from justice. But since it is generally guilty rather than innocent people who make confessions, and guilty rather than innocent people who run away, the two doubts are not to be multiplied together. The one piece of evidence may confirm the other."

Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth. To constitute reasonable doubt, it must be free from an over-emotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial doubts as to the guilt of the accused person arising from the evidence, or from the lack of it, as opposed to mere vague apprehensions. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely possible doubt; but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case.

26. The concepts of probability, and the degrees of it, cannot obviously be expressed in terms of units to be mathematically enumerated as to how many of such units constitute proof beyond reasonable doubt. There is an unmistakable subjective element in the evaluation of the degrees of probability and the quantum of proof. Forensic probability must, in the last analysis, rest on a robust common sense and, ultimately, on the trained intuitions of the Judge. While the protection given by the criminal process to the accused persons is not to be eroded, at the same time, uninformed legitimisation of trivialities would make a mockery of administration of criminal justice."

33. In Basalingappa Vs. Mudibasappa (2019) 5 SCC 418, the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"This Court in M.S. Narayana Menon case [M.S. Narayana Menon v. State of Kerala, (2006) 6 SCC 39 : (2006) 3 SCC (Cri) 30] held that what is needed is to raise a probable defence, for which it is not necessary for the accused to disprove the existence of consideration by way of direct evidence and even the evidence adduced on behalf of the complainant can be relied upon. Dealing with standard of proof, the following was observed in para 32: (SCC p. 51)

"32. The standard of proof evidently is preponderance of probabilities. Inference of preponderance of probabilities can be drawn not only from the materials on record but also by reference to the circumstances upon which he relies. 17. In Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G. Hegde [Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G. Hegde, (2008) 4 SCC 54 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 166] , this Court held that an accused for discharging the burden of proof placed upon him under a statute need not examine himself. He may discharge his burden on the basis of the materials already brought on record. The following was laid down in para 32: (SCC p. 62)"

17. In Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G. Hegde [Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G. Hegde, (2008) 4 SCC 54 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 166] , this Court held that an accused for discharging the burden of proof placed upon him under a statute need not examine himself. He may discharge his burden on the basis of the materials already brought on record. The following was laid down in para 32: (SCC p. 62)

"32. An accused for discharging the burden of proof placed upon him under a statute need not examine himself. He may discharge his burden on the basis of the materials already brought on record. An accused has a constitutional right to maintain silence. Standard of proof on the part of an accused and that of the prosecution in a criminal case is different."

18. This Court in Krishna Janardhan Bhat case [Krishna Janardhan Bhat v. Dattatraya G. Hegde, (2008) 4 SCC 54 : (2008) 2 SCC (Cri) 166] again reiterated that whereas prosecution must prove the guilt of an accused beyond all reasonable doubt, the standard of proof so as to prove a defence on the part of an accused is □preponderance of probabilities□. In para 34, the following was laid down: (SCC p. 63)

"34. Furthermore, whereas prosecution must prove the guilt of an accused beyond all reasonable doubt, the standard of proof so as to prove a defence on the part of an accused is □preponderance of probabilities". Inference of preponderance of probabilities can be drawn not only from the materials brought on record by the parties but also by reference to the circumstances upon which he relies."

34. Letting the guilty escape is not doing justice according to law. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or merely possible doubt, but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense, growing out of the evidence. If a case is proved perfectly, it is argued it is artificial. If it has some flaws inevitable because human beings are prone to err, it is argued that it is too imperfect. Proof beyond reasonable doubt is a guideline, not a fetish. A judge presides over a trial not merely to see that no innocent man is punished, also to see that a guilty man is punished. Both are public duties. What degree of probability amounts to proof is an exercise particular to each case. Reasonable doubt is free from a zest for abstract speculation, from over emotional response. Doubt must be actual and substantial, doubt as to guilt of the accused, arising from the evidence or from the lack of it, as opposed to vague apprehensions.

35. In view of the aforesaid discussion and upon careful appreciation of the entire evidence available on record, this Court finds that the prosecution has succeeded in proving the guilt of the accused-appellant beyond reasonable doubt. The testimony of prosecution witnesses inspires confidence and stands duly corroborated by the medical as well as documentary evidence. The minor discrepancies pointed out by the defence are natural and do not affect the core of the prosecution case. It is well settled that reasonable doubt must be real, substantial and arising from the evidence on record and not based upon conjectures, surmises or vague apprehensions. Criminal justice cannot be allowed to suffer merely on account of trivial inconsistencies which are bound to occur due to normal errors of observation and memory. The learned trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence in its correct perspective and this Court does not find any illegality, perversity or infirmity in the findings so recorded warranting interference in appellate jurisdiction. Accordingly, the appeal lacks merit and is hereby dismissed. The judgment and order passed by the trial court is hereby affirmed, subject to partial modification in the sentence awarded under section 307 IPC.

36. It is observed that the imposition of fine under Section 307 IPC is mandatory and the Trial court does not possess discretion to waive the same in any circumstances. Though this Court, in an appeal against conviction, is not empowered to enhance the substantive sentence, it is well within its jurisdiction to modify or alter the sentence awarded by the trial court. Since fine constitutes an □integral part□ of the sentence under Section 307 IPC, this Court finds it expedient to impose the same.

37. Accordingly, in addition to the sentence already awarded, the accused is directed to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/- (ten thousand rupees only) for the offence under Section 307 IPC. In default of payment of fine, the accused shall undergo further simple imprisonment for a period of three months. The rest of the judgment of the trial court shall remain unaltered.

38. The accused is directed to appear before the trial court forthwith to serve out the sentence.

39. In the event of failure to appear, the trial court shall take all necessary coercive steps in accordance with law to secure his presence and ensure execution of the sentence.

40. The trial court record be transmitted back forthwith along with a copy of this judgment for compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 1097 of 2026

Pramod Kumar Singh @ Guddu Singh ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The case relates to an FIR named the appellant as one of the assailants, but the police found no evidence against him; after being summoned under section 319 CrPC, the key prosecution witnesses retracted and stated that he was not present at the scene, yet the trial court convicted him by relying on pre-summoning evidence.

Headnotes

A. Criminal Matter-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2), 319, 273, 299-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/149, 307/149, 148 & 506(2)-Indian Evidence Act,1872-Section 33-Subsequent summoning of accused-Pre-summoning evidence cannot be treated as substantive evidence for conviction unless permissible under law-Right of cross-examination being denied, conviction based thereon is vitiated-Appellant acquitted. (Para 15 to 30)

Held

The court held that an accused summoned subsequently u/s 319 CrPC cannot be convicted solely on the basis of evidence recorded before his summoning, as such evidence was not recorded in his presence and he had no opportunity to cross-examine the witnesses. In the present case, the material prosecution witnesses, after the appellant was summoned and put to trial, categorically stated that he was not involved in the occurrence. The Trial court erred in relying upon pre-summoning depositions while ignoring the legally admissible evidence recorded after the appellant's appearance. Such reliance violated the mandate of Sections 273 and 299 CrPC and the principle underlying the section 33 of the Evidence Act, rendering the conviction unsustainable.

Appeal allowed. (E-6)

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. -1097 OF 2026

Promod Kumar Singh Alias Guddu Singh Vs. State of U.P. Thru. Secy. Deptt. Of Home Lko

From the judgment and order dated 22.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Appellant(s):
Suyesh Pradhan
Adv. for Respondent(s):
G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajesh Singh Chauhan, J.
Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Suyesh Pradhan, the learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Vipul Kumar Singh, the learned State Counsel.

2. By means of the instant appeal, the appellant has challenged the validity of a judgment and order dated 28.03.2026 passed by the learned Additional Session Judge, Court No. 3, Hardoi in Session Trial No. 465/2008, arising out of Case Crime No. 230/2008, under Sections 302/149, 307/149, 506(2) & 148 IPC, Police Station Beniganj, District Hardoi whereby the trial Court has convicted the appellant for the offences under Sections 302 read with Section 149, Section 307 read with Section 149, 148 and 506(2) IPC and has sentenced him to undergo rigorous imprisonment for life and Rs.10,000/- fine for the offence under Section 302/149, rigorous imprisonment for ten years and Rs.5,000/- fine for the offence under Section 307/149, rigorous imprisonment for two years and Rs.2,000/- fine for the offence under Section 506(2) and rigorous imprisonment for two years and Rs.2,000/- fine for the offence under Section 148.

3. The aforesaid judgment is a composite judgment whereby four sessions trial have been decided. The appellant was an accused only in one of the four trials, namely, Sessions Trial No. 465/208 and the judgment of the trial court, so far as it decides Sessions Trial No. 465A/2008, 466/2008 & 468/2008, has not been challenged and the same is not being scrutinized by this Court.

4. The appeal was admitted by means of the order dated 21.04.2026 and the trial court?s record was summoned. The state was granted time to file objections against the application for release of the appellant on bail. The State has filed a counter affidavit and the appellant has filed a rejoinder affidavit. However, as the trial Court's record is available, instead of deciding the bail application the Court proceeds to decide the appeal itself after hearing the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties in support of an in opposition of the appeal and after perusal of the trial court's record.

5. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an FIR lodged on 09.03.2008 alleging that the informant's cousin Vijay Kumar Singh @ Pappu was having animosity because of a prior criminal litigation against Bhau Singh, Bhanna Singh, Kallu Singh and Sport Singh and all the aforesaid persons are accused in a case under Section 307 IPC. Vijay Kumar Singh @ pappu was sitting on a platform in front of his door at about 08:00 p.m. on 08.03.2008. There was a lantern which was emanating light. Bhau Singh, Bhanna Singh and Sport Singh, sons of Chhotkau Singh came there carrying firearms. Pramod Kumar Singh @ Guddu Singh, son of Harnam Singh (the appellant) also came with them and he was carrying a country made pistol. All the aforesaid persons started firing gun shots. Vijay Kumar Singh got seriously injured because of the gun shot injuries. The complainant Pramod Kumar Singh @ Pintu Singh also suffered injuries in the incident. Several persons reached there and the accused persons ran away while threatening them. Vijay Kumar Singh @ Pappu was taken to the District Hospital, Hardoi but keeping in view his serious condition he was referred to Lucknow. He succumbed to his injuries on 09.03.2008.

6. After investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet on 27.05.2008 against Sport Singh, Bhanna Singh, Bhau Singh and Kallu Singh only. The charge-sheet stated that the appellant?s involvement in the incident could not be established during investigation.

7. The trial proceeded against the aforesaid four accused persons. After recording of testimony of some prosecution witnesses, the prosecution filed an application under Section 319 Cr.P.C. for summoning of the appellant to face the trial. The application was allowed by means of an order dated 04.06.2012 and thereafter the prosecution witnesses were examined again.

8. After commencement of the trial against the appellant, the injured complainant Pintu Singh alias Pramod Kumar son of Indra Pal Singh was examined again as PW-1 on 05.09.2013 and he categorically stated that the appellant was not involved in the incident and that he was not present on the spot. PW-1 specifically stated that he had falsely implicated the appellant in his earlier statement, under pressure of his family members and some villagers.

9. Although the judgment refers to the testimony of Ajay Kumar Singh as that of PW-2, the record reveals that after summoning of the appellant and commencement of his trial, Ajay Kumar Singh was not examined. After commencement of the trial against the appellant, Indrapal Singh was examined as PW-2 on 05.09.2013. This witness was the uncle of the deceased Vijay Kumar Singh @ Pappu and father of the injured complainant Pintu Singh alias Pramod Kumar. PW-2 stated that at the time of the incident he was sitting in front of his house. Upon hearing the noise, he went to the house of the victim and saw Bhanna Singh, Bhau Singh, Sport Singh, and Kallu Singh were standing in front of the victim's house carrying firearms and all the aforesaid four persons had fired shots with their weapons. He categorically stated even during his examination in chief that he did not see the appellant Pramod Kumar Singh alias Guddu Singh on the spot of the incident.

10. The trial court held that in the written complaint it had been stated that the appellant was accompanying the other accused persons Bhau Singh, Bhanna Singh, Sport Singh and Kallu Singh and that all of them had fired gunshots. During their statements recorded by the trial court, the injured witness Pramod Kumar Singh alias Guddu Singh and the independent witness Ajay Kumar Singh had stated about the appellant's involvement in commission of the offences and thereafter he was summoned under Section 319 CrPC. to face the trial, relying on the statement of injured witness Pintu Singh. Even though Pintu Singh had resiled from his earlier statement and has stated that the appellant was not involved in the incident, there are statements of two other persons, one of whom Indra Pal Singh had specifically stated that the appellant had fired gunshots along with other accused persons causing injuries to Vijay Kumar Singh alias Pappu and the witnesses' son Pintu Singh.

11. The trial Court erred in so holding, because Indra Pal Singh had stated about involvement of the appellant in the incident in his statement recorded on 01.02.2011, i.e., before the appellant was summoned to face the trial, and this statement cannot be read against the appellant. In his statement recorded on 05.09.2013, after commencement of the appellant?s trial, Indrapal Singh had stated that the appellant was not involved in the incident and only this evidence could be read by the trial Court for deciding the correctness of the charges leveled against him.

12. The trial Court held that PW-2 Ajay Kumar was also an eyewitnesses of the incident and he had also stated that Pramod Kumar Singh alias Guddu Singh was carrying a country-made pistol and all the accused persons had fired with intention of killing Pappu Singh. The trial Court held that from the aforementioned statements, it is established that the appellant Pramod Kumar Singh alias Guddu Singh was involved in the incident and merely because Pintu Singh has stated in his examination that Pramod Kumar Singh alias Guddu Singh was not involved in the incident, the prosecution story does not become doubtful.

13. However, this statement of Ajay Kumar Singh was recorded on 25.02.2009. After the appellant was summoned to face the trial, Ajay Kumar Singh did not come forward to get his testimony recorded. The testimony of Ajay Kumar Singh recorded before the appellant was summoned to face the trial, cannot be read against the appellant.

14. The trial court further held when once the court has acted upon the testimonies to summon the appellant to face the trial under Section 319 CrPC, those testimonies cannot be ignored and those can form the basis of conviction of the appellant.

15. In Hardeep Singh v. State of Punjab, (2014) 3 SCC 92, the Hon?ble Supreme Court held that: -

"106. ...In Section 319 CrPC the purpose of providing if ?it appears from the evidence that any person not being the accused has committed any offence? is clear from the words ?for which such person could be tried together with the accused?. The words used are not ?for which such person could be convicted?. There is, therefore, no scope for the court acting under Section 319 CrPC to form any opinion as to the guilt of the accused."

16. Therefore, the evidence recorded in absence of an accused person, which is relied upon for summoning him under Section 319 Cr.P.C., cannot form the basis of his conviction.

17. The trial Court has ignored the provision contained in Section 273 Cr.P.C., which reads as follows: -

"273. Evidence to be taken in presence of accused-?Except as otherwise expressly provided, all evidence taken in the course of the trial or other proceeding shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader.

Explanation.?In this section ?accused? ?includes a person in relation to whom any proceeding under Chapter VIII has been commenced under this Code."

18. Section 273 Cr.P.C. provides that except as otherwise expressly provided, all evidence taken in the course of the trial or other proceeding shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his attendance is dispensed with, in the presence of his pleader. Therefore, the evidence recorded when the appellant had not been summoned by the trial Court and he was not present before the trial for this reason, cannot be relied upon by the trial Court.

19. Section 299 Cr.P.C. provides an exception where the evidence of a witness recorded in absence of an accused person can be read against him and this Section reads as follows: -

"299. Record of evidence in absence of accused.-(1) If it is proved that an accused person has absconded, and that there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, the Court competent to try, or commit for trial such person for the offence complained of may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution, and record their depositions and any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be given in evidence against him on the inquiry into, or trial for, the offence with which he is charged, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or cannot be found or his presence cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable.

(2) If it appears that an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life has been committed by some person or persons unknown, the High Court or the Sessions Judge may direct that any Magistrate of the first class shall hold an inquiry and examine any witnesses who can give evidence concerning the offence and any depositions so taken may be given in evidence against any person who is subsequently accused of the offence, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or beyond the limits of India."

20. It would be appropriate to have a look at the provision contained in Section 33 of the Evidence Act, which reads as follows: -

"33. Relevancy of certain evidence for proving, in subsequent proceeding, the truth of facts therein stated.-Evidence given by a witness in a judicial proceeding, or before any person authorised by law to take it, is relevant for the purpose of proving, in a subsequent judicial proceeding, or in a later stage of the same judicial proceeding, the truth of the facts which it states, when the witness is dead or cannot be found, or is incapable of giving evidence, or is kept out of the way by the adverse party, or if his presence cannot be obtained without an amount of delay or expense which, under the circumstances of the case, the Court considers unreasonable:

Provided" that the proceeding was between the same parties or their representatives in interest; that the adverse party in the first proceeding had the right and opportunity to cross-examine;

that the questions in issue were substantially the same in the first as in the second proceeding.

Explanation.?A criminal trial or inquiry shall be deemed to be a proceeding between the prosecutor and the accused within the meaning of this section."

21. Section 33 of the Evidence Act, 1872, provides relevancy of certain evidence for proving the truth of the facts stated therein, in any subsequent proceeding, according to which evidence given by a witness is treated to be relevant in a subsequent proceeding or at a later stage in the same proceeding under certain eventualities.

22. In Nirmal Singh v. State of Haryana: (2000) 4 SCC 41, the Hon?ble Supreme Court discussed the scope and requirements of Section 33 of the Evidence Act, 1972 and Section 299 CrPC and observed as follows: -

"4. On a mere perusal of Section 299 of the Code of Criminal Procedure as well as Section 33 of the Evidence Act, we have no hesitation to come to the conclusion that the preconditions in both the sections must be established by the prosecution and it is only then, the statements of witnesses recorded under Section 299 CrPC before the arrest of the accused can be utilised in evidence in trial after the arrest of such accused only if the persons are dead or would not be available or any other condition enumerated in the second part of Section 299(1) of the Code of Criminal Procedure is established."

23. Section 278 Cr.P.C. provides that as soon as the evidence of each witness in a criminal trial is taken under Section 275 or 276, it shall be read over to him in the presence of the accused, if in attendance, or of his pleader, if he appears by pleader, and shall, if necessary, be corrected. Section 279 CrPC also provides for interpretation of evidence to the accused in open court, in case he is present and such evidence is given in a language not understood by him.

24. In Jayendra Vishnu Thakur v. State of Maharashtra: (2009) 7 SCC 104, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"18. The right of an accused to watch the prosecution witnesses deposing before a court of law indisputably is a valuable right. "

23. An accused is, however, always entitled to a fair trial. He is also entitled to a speedy trial but then he cannot interfere with the governmental priority to proceed with the trial which would be defeated by conduct of the accused that prevents it from going forward. In such an event several options are open to courts. What, however, is necessary is to maintain judicial dignity and decorum. The question which arises for consideration is whether the same will take within its umbrage the said principle. We will examine the said question a little later. We will proceed on the premise that for invocation of the provisions of Section 299 of the Code the principle of natural justice is inbuilt in the right of an accused.

(See ? Sarabjit Rick Singh v. Union of India [(2008) 2 SCC 417]).

25. It is also beyond any cavil that the provisions of Section 299 of the Code must receive strict interpretation, and, thus, scrupulous compliance therewith is imperative in character. It is a well-known principle of interpretation of statute that any word defined in the statutory provision should ordinarily be given the same meaning while construing the other provisions thereof where the same term has been used. Under Section 3 of the Evidence Act like any other fact, the prosecution must prove by leading evidence and a definite categorical finding must be arrived at by the court in regard to the fact required to be proved by a statute. Existence of an evidence is not enough but application of mind by the court thereupon as also the analysis of the materials and/or appreciation thereof for the purpose of placing reliance upon that part of the evidence is imperative in character."

25. Further, the trial court's observation that besides the injured witness Pintu Singh alias Pramod Kumar Singh, two other witnesses had stated about the involvement of the appellant in commission of the offence out of whom the witness Indrapal Singh has categorically stated about the involvement of the appellant, suffice it to say that the trial court omitted to notice that after summoning the appellant under Section 319 CrPC and the commencement of trial against him, Indrapal Singh was examined again on 05.09.2013 as PW-2 and in this statement he categorically stated that the appellant was not involved in the incident. The trial Court has acted on the statement of Indrapal Singh recorded earlier, while the appellant had not been summoned to face the trial, but has ignored the statement of this witness recorded after the appellant was summoned, wherein he categorically stated that the appellant was not involved in the incident.

26. It is interesting to note that the witness, Indrapal Singh is the father of the injured witness Pintu Singh and uncle of the deceased Vijay Kumar Singh. Being so closely related to the deceased victim and the injured victim, this witness cannot be said to be a witness who may be interested to wrongly defend the accused persons and there is no reason to discard the testimony of PW-2.

24. There is no other evidence available on record to establish the involvement of the appellant in commission of the alleged offence.

27. In view of the foregoing discussions, we are of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to establish the guilt of the appellant in the commission of the alleged offences. The trial court has convicted the appellant without adverting to the aforesaid aspect of the matter, which vitiates the finding of the trial court and renders its judgment unsustainable in law.

28. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed.

29. The judgment and order dated 28.03.2026 passed by the learned Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 3, Hardoi in Session Trial No. 465/2008, arising out of Case Crime No. 230/2008, under Sections 302/149, 307/149, 506(2) & 148 IPC, Police Station Beniganj, District Hardoi, convicting and sentencing the appellant for the offences under Sections 302 read with Section 149, Section 307 read with Section 149, 148 and 506(2) IPC is set aside. The appellant is acquitted of all the charges. The appellant is directed to be released from custody forthwith, unless he is wanted in any other case, after complying with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C. by furnishing a personal bond and two sureties for ensuring his appearance before the Hon?ble Supreme Court, in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon?ble Supreme Court issues a notice to the appellant.

30. As the appeal itself has been allowed and the appellant has been acquitted of the charge of all the charges, the bail application has become infructuous and the same is disposed off accordingly.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ashwini Tripathi, learned Advocate holding brief appeared for the appellants and Sri Chandra Badan, learned counsel for the State.

THE APPEAL :-

2. The present criminal appeal under Section 374 CrPC has been preferred by the three accused/appellants, namely, Hetram son of Shri Dhar, Shanker son of Shibba and Bhudat son of Chetram in Sessions Trial No. 259 of 1983 (State Vs. Hetram & others), on being aggrieved by judgment of conviction and sentenced dated 08.05.1984, wherein all the three accused/appellants were convicted for offence of rape and sentenced to seven years rigorous imprisonment with a fine of Rs. 500/-, in default thereof further six months rigorous imprisonment.

THE PROSECUTION CASE AND TRIAL :-

3. The prosecution case disclosed in the written information Ex.Ka-1 is such that on 09.05.1983 at about 2:00 p.m., the informant-Baso son of Nathi, r/o Bharna, who belongs to the scheduled caste is the only family of Scheduled Caste in the village, wherein the village is of Haivasi and Brahmins Caste, came to his house along with his nephew (bhanja) Banwari Lal (scribe of the written information) son of Giriraj Prasad and Lajja son of Peeti r/o of village Gajipur. They met him at Saahar Canal, where he was grazing the goat. On reaching the house, he found that the house was bolted from inside, he jumped the boundary wall and opened the door and came inside, He saw Hetram, Shanker and Bhudat ran away after opening the door. His wife (prosecutrix) has informed him while crying that she has been raped. This incident has been witnessed by him and his friends and they have also identified the accused/appellants. He was not let to go out but somehow managed by hiding himself to reach the police station. He is afraid of his life and property.

4. This FIR is lodged on 14.05.1983 at Police Station Barsana, District Mathura in Case Crime No. 32 of 1983. The victim was medically examined on 15.05.1983 at Mahila Chikitsalaya, Mathura at 4:35 p.m., wherein it is disclosed that she is 26-28 weeks pregnant. The vaginal smear was taken for pathological examination. The supplementary report dated 19.05.1983 provides that no sperm seen, the age of lady is about 18 years. The pathological report reveals that she is seven months pregnant but not in labour pain and no definite opinion could be given.

5. The investigation of the case has been carried out by PW-4 Balbeer Singh, who has submitted the charge sheet on 31.05.1983 against the three accused.

6. The charge has been framed on 08.12.1983 against the accused/appellants for committing rape. The prosecution has produced four witnesses, three witnesses of fact, namely, PW-1/Baso (informant); PW-2/prosecutrix; and PW-3/ Banwari Lal (the scribe of written information), who has also witnessed that the accused/applicant have sprinted away from the house. The formal witness/ PW-4 Balbeer Singh was produced, who is the Investigating Officer and has proved the FIR, G.D., site plan and the charge sheet. The accused/applicants have admitted the medico legal report and supplementary medical report.

7. In the statement under Section 313 CrPC, the accused/appellants denied having committed rape on the prosecutrix. They submits that they are the neighbours of the informant. Hetram and Shanker have stated that the goats of informant had entered into the field of accused/appellants and damaged the crops, due to which the accused/appellant had beaten the informant, who in retaliation has lodged the false and frivolous FIR. Bhudat has submitted that he has been falsely implicated due to the village party bandi. The accused/appellants have not produced any witness in defense.

THE TRIAL COURT JUDGEMENT :-

8. The trial court has recorded the conviction on the basis of testimonies of three witnesses of fact because the documentary evidence is silent.. Learned trial judge has found that the informant, victim and the witnesses are trustworthy. The delay in lodging the FIR is attributed on the point of fear of the informant from the accused/appellants, because the informant was the only scheduled caste family in the village. The trial judge further found substance in the statement of prosecutrix that she has been raped by four persons including the appellants. The fourth person, who is known as driver could not be traced out. The trial judge further found that it is but natural that the victim might have washed her clothes because she was not aware of the procedure. The trial judge further considered that the injuries on the hands of victim could have dried up which she suffered due to broken bangles. The trial judge further considered that the victim is habitual to sex because she is married as such there was no injury on her private parts. The trial judge further considered that the victim has cried for help but her voice could not reach the neighbours because it was summer month and all the persons might be in their houses. Further considers that the victim was subjected to rape on the point of knife.

THE ARGUMENTS :-

9. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that the FIR is delayed; there are inconsistencies in the statements of PW-1/Baso and PW-3/Banwari on the point of delay in lodging the FIR. PW-1 has stated in his cross examination that after the incident he used to go out to graze the goat, hence the apprehension of fear from the accused/appellants is incorrect finding. Further submits that there is no external injury suffered by the victim, which would have been suffered by the victim as she was subjected to rape by four persons. The witness Banwari is an interested, related and chance witness. He could not answer the query of the defence that why he came to meet Baso. Though he has stated that he came to purchase goat from Baso but on further questioning he states that Baso has stated to send the goat. This fact is not stated by the witnesses in their examination-in-chief. Further submits that the doctor has not been produced. The victim was already having pregnancy of the seven months. It is not believable that she could not suffer any injury from the incident of gang rape. Further submits that there is no evidence against the accused/appellants other than the statement of the witnesses. There is marked inconsistency in their statements. The victim in her statement has stated that she has been raped by four persons. All the persons exited from the house in presence of PW-1/Baso, who has seen only three persons exiting the house.

10. There is no plausible answer in respect to the fourth persons. Further submits that the accused/appellants are the neighbours of informant, who have been falsely implicated in the case, and the trial judge has not rightly taken into consideration the statements of witnesses and recorded conviction. Hence, submitted that the appeal be allowed and the accused/appellant be acquitted.

11. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the family of the victim was the only family of scheduled caste, they were apprehensive of being beaten and afraid of their life and property, which restricted them to lodge the FIR soon after the incident; they were waiting for the opportune time to go to the police station to lodge the FIR. The prosecution has proved their cases by producing three witnesses of fact, the informant, the victim, the scribe of written information. The accused have already admitted the medico legal examination carried out on the victim. The trial judge has rightly appreciated the evidence and recorded conviction, which is liable to be affirmed.

THE POINT OF DETERMINATION :-

12. The point of consideration in the present appeal is whether the trial judge has rightly appreciated the ocular and documentary evidences and reached to the conclusion of convicting the accused?

APPRECIATION OF EVIDENCE :-

13. The points that culled out from the FIR dated 14.05.1983 are reiterated underneath:-

13.1. The incident is of 09.05.1983. The FIR is of 14.05.1983 lodged at 10:00 a.m.

13.2. Three persons were named in the FIR, who are the appellants.

13.3. The informant/Baso and PW-3 Banwari Lal have seen three accused (apellants) exiting from the house of informant after opened the door. The informant and witness Banwari have seen the victim crying.

13.4. They have not seen the incident of rape.

13.5. The victim herself has intimated the informant that she has been raped by the accused/appellants, as such, the FIR was lodged for the incident of rape.

13.6. Banwari Lal/PW-3 and Lajja came to meet the informant Baso on 09.05.1983.

13.7. Baso's father met Banwari Lal and Lajja and informed them that the informant Baso went to graze the goat at Saahar Canal. It is not disclosed where the informant□s father met Banwari Lal and Lajja.

13.8. Banwari Lal/PW-3 and Lajja went to Saahar Canal to meet Baso, who was in the forest, grazing the goat.

13.9. Baso came home along with Banwari Lal and Lajja and found that door of the house was bolted from inside. He has jumped the boundary wall and came inside.

13.10. He saw Hetram, Shanker and Bhudat leaving the house after opening the door.

14. The contents of the FIR is proved by PW-1/Baso and PW-3/Banwari. The FIR reveals two types of facts; firstly, from the information received by victim that she was subjected to rape by three persons and secondly, that the informant himself saw three persons exiting from his house. The FIR has no reference about four persons. The delay in FIR is attributed on fear factor.

15. The medico legal report reveals two facts; firstly, the victim was seven months pregnant and secondly, that there is no mark of injury on her private part or body of victim and no definite opinion of rape can be given, with no sperm seen in pathological examination test.

16. The site plan was prepared by PW-4/ Balbeer Singh, the Investigating Officer at the instance of informant and victim. The site plan shows that the accused/appellants along with driver had committed gang rape on victim at place □A□, which is □Kotha□ situated at south western corner of the house. The site plan further shows that the accused/appellants had run away from the house after jumping the boundary wall from the western side, whereas the door of the house situated at north. It is not shown in the site plan that from where the informant has jumped the boundary wall to enter the house. These documents have been discussed prior to considering the testimonies of the witnesses, which are important to be discussed first to consider the truthfulness of the testimonies vis-a-vis the documents and inter-se corroboration.

17. PW-2 is the victim. She in her statement has stated that the incident is of 2:00 p.m., she was all alone in the house. Her husband went to graze the goats. Her father-in-law was also out of the house. She stated that in her house Hetram and one driver came from the backside, they have pointed knife on her and threatened her if she will not cooperate, they would kill her. They have dragged her to the Kotha and threw her on the cot. Hetram has asked the driver to go first. The driver has raped her, then Hetram has raped her. Thereafter, Bhudat and Shanker also came. Then Bhudat has raped her and lastly Shanker has raped her. She further stated that no one else came for her rescue. When she was being raped the other persons used to stand in the Chhapper. She was seven months pregnant and she was wailing in pain. She further stated that Bhudat, Shanker and Hetram are her neighbour, she knew the accused/appellants before the incident. She cried a lot but none came for help. Further stated that the door was closed from inside, her husband, Banwari and Lajja entered the house by jumping boundary wall and the accused had ran away. She did not know the driver. She has intimated entire incident to her husband. During her cross examination she has stated that she has been raped for one hour. Her bangles were broken and blood was oozing out from her hand. She further stated that she did not suffer injuries but was wailing in pain. She stated that she had washed her clothes with soap.

18. This witness has stated that she has intimated the incident to her husband. The husband of victim is the author of FIR. If the name of fourth accused has been intimated by the victim to the informant then why the FIR contained the name of only three accused persons. The matter is of gang rape. The three accused are the neighbours of the victim. In not naming the fourth accused in the FIR, who has raped the victim, creates doubts as to truthfulness of the prosecution case. The victim further stated that there was bleeding from her hand, but blood from the hand of the victim is neither reflected from the statement of PW-1/Baso nor from the statement of PW-3/ Banwari. It is not even disclosed that what first-aid she has taken. No broken bangles have been handed over to the Investigating Officer. Even the mark of injuries are not reflected from the medico legal examination report, which was carried out five days after the incident, even dried up injuries require notice. These points required further appreciation of the statement of other witnesses of fact.

19. PW-1/Baso has stated that on 09.05.1983, he went to Saahar Canal to graze the goats. At 2:00 p.m. his nephew Banwari Lal and Lajja came from Gowardhan to meet him. They initially met his father at the Bus Station who has intimated them that this witness/Baso is grazing goats. Hence, they right away reached to the Saahar Canal. PW-1 on meeting them has left his goats grazing, taken them to his home. He found that the door was closed from inside. Hence, he had jumped the wall and opened the door on which he saw Hetram, Shanker and Bhudat running away from the door. His father was not at home. He found his wife weeping, who has intimated him that Hetram, Driver, Shanker and Bhudat had committed rape on her. If she had specifically stated that driver has also committed rape on her then why the FIR did not contain the name of driver. He specifically stated that he got the written information dictated to Banwari who has written report in his hand writing. The report was then read over to him and he put his thumb impression.

20. PW-3/Banwari Lal has specifically stated in his statement that he was intimated that driver has not committed rape on the victim. He further stated that all the three accused have pointed out the knife on the victim and committed rape, whereas the pointing out of knife was attributed on driver.

21. As the medico legal examination report does not show the signs of gang rape and the entire case lies on the ocular testimonies on the witnesses then it would be expedient to scrutinize the statement of witnesses with utmost caution. There is marked inconsistency in the statements of PW-1 and PW-3 about the role of driver and the role of pointing out the knife on the victim.

22. During the course of examination PW-1 has stated that as the three witnesses including PW-1 and PW-3 entered the house after jumping the boundary wall, they have seen the accused/appellants moving out from the house. On cross examination, PW-1 has stated that he did not try to chase them or to catch them. On further questioning, he stated that all the accused/appellants were wearing their clothes and he also found his wife in full clothes. During further examination PW-1 has stated that the accused have threatened him. On continuous threatening he mustered courage to lodge the FIR. He further stated that he has never seen these accused coming in his house or meeting his wife. He has stated that he has not seen any injury on the person of his wife. She was wearing bangles and has not seen that bangles were broken. This shows that there is discrepancy pertaining to the injuries suffered by the victim in her hands by broken bangles. The accusation is heinous in nature. The informant has not promptly lodged the FIR or took the victim to hospital, though she was seven months pregnant and purportedly raped by four persons. This sounds unnatural. Moreover, the informant mustered courage by threatening of accused, but he remained timid, though his wife being raped. Hence, there is no plausible explanation of delay in lodging the FIR.

23. In the case of Lalliram Vs. State of M.P. reported in [(2008) 10 SCC 69], Hon'ble the Supreme Court has held that it is true that the injury is not sine qua non for deciding whether rape has been committed, but it has to be decided on the factual matrix of each case. This observation was made in a matter of Gang rape. The relevant paragraphs 10-12 of the judgment are reiterated underneath :-

"10. The trial court noted that though the prosecutrix claimed that she was raped by several persons at several times there was no injury noticed and doctor has categorically stated that there was no sign of rape and in fact there was no injury.

11. It is true that injury is not a sine qua non for deciding whether rape has been committed. But it has to be decided on the factual matrix of each case. As was observed by this

Court in Pratap Misra v. State of Orissa where allegation is of rape by many persons and several times but no injury is noticed that certainly is an important factor and if the prosecutrix's version is credible, then no corroboration is necessary. But if the prosecutrix's version is not credible then there would be need for corroboration. (See Aman Kumar v. State of Haryana .)

12. As rightly contended by learned counsel for the appellants, a decision has to be considered in the background of the factual scenario. In criminal cases the question of a precedent particularly relating to appreciation of evidence is really of no consequence. In Aman Kumar case it was observed that a prosecutrix complaining of having been a victim of the offence of rape is not an accomplice. There is no rule of law that her testimony cannot be acted upon without corroboration in material particulars. She stands on a higher pedestal than the injured witness. In the latter case there is injury in the physical form while in the former both physical as well as psychological and emotional. However, if the court finds it difficult to accept the version of a prosecutrix on the face value, it may search for evidence direct or circumstantial."

24. The Investigating Officer/PW-4 Balbeer Singh was not cross examined but in his examination-in-chief, he has stated that he has prepared the site plan at the instance of informant and his wife. He has proved that the FIR and GD is in hand writing of Constable Shiv Dan Singh and proved the same.

CONCLUSION :-

25. If the statement of three witnesses, namely, the informant/husband of victim, the victim and the independent witness Banwari/PW-3 is taken into consideration as to the veracity of the prosecution case, it is found that the accused/appellants are the neighbours of informant. They have never been in the house of informant prior to the date of incident. There was altercation between the accused/appellants and Baso regarding the grazing of his goat in the field of accused, though it is denied by the informant but it could be plausible reason for lodging the FIR. If the incident of was rape committed by four persons with a pregnant lady having pregnancy of seven months, the rape might have caused grave medical exigency, which was not reflected in the medico legal report. On the contrary, the pregnancy was stated to be normal. There is no mark of injury, even in the hands of the victim. The vagueness of the FIR is also reflected when only three persons were named in the FIR, though the victim was purportedly raped by four persons. The delay attributed in the FIR also shows that it is not attributed to any fear factor, as the informant was continuously going out even after the incident, then what stops him from lodging the FIR in such a heinous crime. It would also not be out of place to mention that according to the prosecution case every act is done at 2:00 p.m.; the victim was raped, informant entered the house and accused left the house, whereas, victim was raped for one hour. The delay and the prosecution case creates a doubt in the prosecution story. Hence, the accused/appellants are entitled for the benefit of doubt because the prosecution evidence is not creating confidence that the accused/appellants have committed rape. Hence, they shall be acquitted from the charges as the ocular and documentary evidences does not evinces the involvement of accused appellant in the offence of rape in view of the evidences adduced by the prosecution.

26. In the case of Jitendra Kumar Mishra alias Jittu Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in (2024) 2 SCC 666, Hon'ble the Supreme Court held that an appellate court should be slow in interfering with conviction recorded by courts below but where evidence on record indicates that prosecution has failed to prove guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and that a plausible view, different from one expressed by trial court, can be taken. The appellate court should not shy away in giving benefit of doubt to the accused.

27. Thus, the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 08.05.1984 passed by IInd Additional Sessions Judge, Mathura in Session Trial No. 259 of 1983 (State Vs. Hetram & others), under Section 376 IPC, is hereby set aside.

28. The appellants- Hetram, Shanker and Bhudat are acquitted for offence under Section 376 IPC.

29. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is allowed.

30. The accused appellants are on bail. Their sureties and executed bail bonds stands discharged.

31. The record be remitted, forthwith, as per law, with the copy of the judgement.

CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. -1373 OF 1986

Bhola Vs. State of U.P.

From the judgment and order dated 06.05. 2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s):

I.m Khan, Jitendra Singh, Narendra Kumar

Adv. for Respondent(s):

A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. The present criminal appeal is preferred under Section 374 CrPC by the sole accused appellant- Bhola on being aggrieved by judgment of conviction and sentence dated 21.5.1986 in State Vs. Bhola and another (S.T. No.187 of 1985) wherein the accused appellant was convicted for the offence under Section 394 IPC and punished with rigorous imprisonment of five years and fine of Rs.500/- and in default of the payment of fine, six months rigorous imprisonment.

2. Heard Sri Narendra Kumar, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Chandra Badan, learned A.G.A. for the State.

3. The prosecution case disclosed in the FIR dated 30.1.1985 lodged at 11:30 AM at P.S. Kishunpur, District- Fatehpur is such that Sushila Devi (P.W.-6) along with Param Sundari who were posted at Primary Health Centre, Vijaipur were going to village Sarauli on 29.1.1985. When they reached the canal culvert at about 08:00 PM two persons came there pointed country made pistol and started robbing them of their jewellery. They have started crying for help, hearing them, Chheddu son of Pahalwan and Babu Singh son of Ram Raj of village Sarauli came there. Seeing them, the miscreants have fired at them with country made pistol, due to the fire Chheddu suffered fire arm injuries on his right leg and Babu Singh suffered fire arm injuries on his right wrist. These two persons then apprehended one of the miscreants but the second miscreant has sprinted away along with the booty. The apprehended accused has disclosed his name as Bhola son of Badri Kori resident of village Takkipur, P.S.- Khakhereru, District- Fatehpur. He has also disclosed the name of second miscreant as Sheo Kulli @ Ranvir Singh son of Sughar Singh resident of village

Takkipur, P.S.- Khakhereru. This accused appellant was taken to the police station. The items, which were robbed by the accused appellants, i.e. 1. chain with pendant, 2. silver ring, 3. nose pin, 4. brass earring, 5. brass ring and Rs.10/-. As it was already dark and night hour, the report could not be lodged on the same day.

4. The case was registered at Case Crime No.21 of 1985 for offences under Sections 394, 307 IPC against two named accused, which was entered in GD No.13. After registration of the FIR, the injured were taken to medical officer Vijaipur where the injuries of Chheddu and Babu Singh were examined at 4:15 PM and 4:30 PM, respectively, on 30.1.1985. The investigation has been carried out by S.I. Sukhdeo Pandey (P.W.3) who has investigated the place of occurrence, recorded the statement of witnesses and submitted charge sheet against two accused, namely, Bhola Kori and Sheo Kulli @ Ranvir Singh.

5. The charge against both the accused have been framed for offence under Section 394 read with 397 IPC on 2.1.1986. The prosecution has produced three witnesses of fact P.W.1- Babu Singh, P.W.-2, Chheddu, P.W.6 Smt. Sushila Devi and three formal witnesses, namely, S.I. Sukhdeo P.W.-3, the Investigating Officer, Dr. S.N. Awasthi P.W.-4, the doctor who has examined the injured, Constable Mukhtar Ahmad P.W.-5 who entered the chick FIR and GD.

6. The appellant in his statement under Section 313 CrPC has stated that he has been falsely implicated in the case by Babu Singh. The reason for false implication is that Babu Singh has asked the accused applicant for doing some work, which he has refused. He has also refused Babu Singh for getting sterilization of his wife. Further submits that Sushila Devi, the informant is the daughter of Babu Singh□s aunt (Bua) who is working at the Primary Health Centre and called his wife for sterilization process. Further stated that the accused appellant was taken by Chheddu and Babu Singh from his house to hand him over to the police.

7. The trial court while recording the conviction of accused appellant on the basis of statement of the injured and informant observed that there is nothing to discard the testimonies of witnesses, whose testimonies are corroborated to each other and are reliable. Further observed that there is no evidence against co-accused Sheo Kulli @ Ranvir Singh, hence, acquitted him of the offence.

8. Learned counsel for the accused appellant has submitted that the witnesses are not trustworthy, if their deposition is taken into consideration in the light of their cross examinations. There is no role attributed on the accused appellant of firing at the injured. The accused appellant was apprehended from his house and given into the custody of police. The witnesses are not reliable. The FIR is delayed, as during the whole night the accused appellant was kept in custody of the informant. There is consistency in the statement of the witnesses about the role of the accused appellant. The site plan of the case does not show the place from where the injured witnesses have heard the shrieks of the informant. The independent witnesses who were there along with the informant has not been produced. The co-accused on whom the role of shooting is attributed, has been acquitted. The accused appellant has not committed any offence, hence, he may be acquitted.

9. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State has submitted that it is the matter of robbery with two ladies who were going to village. The booty robbed from the informant was taken away by the co-accused. The FIR is prompt. The investigation has been carried out by the Investigating Officer in the right direction and the accused appellant has been apprehended by the injured witnesses at the place of incident. The witnesses have rightly identified the accused appellant and the trial court has rightly appreciated the evidence on record and convicted the accused appellant. Hence, submits that the appeal is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed.

10. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.

11. This Court has taken into consideration the rival submissions made by the parties and perused the record.11. The point of consideration in the present appeal is:-

(a) Whether the accused appellant has committed robbery with the informant and voluntarily caused hurt to Chheddu and Babu Singh?

(b) Whether the trial court has rightly appreciated the oral and documentary evidence and reached to the right conclusion in convicting the accused appellant for the offence of robbery?

12. Before considering the ocular and documentary evidences adduced in the case, it would be necessary to mention that the alleged robbery has been committed by two accused. The accused appellant was apprehended by injured at the place of incident whereas another accused managed to escape along with the booty. Another accused was arrested by the police. The charge sheet has been submitted against them on the basis of statements of the witnesses, but during the deposition it is found that co-accused Sheo Kulli @ Ranvir Singh was not involved in the crime and he has been acquitted of the charge. The remnant facts shows that it is the second miscreant has opened fire at the witnesses Chheddu and Babu Singh. It is the he, who has robbed the informant and left with the booty and the accused appellant Bhola was arrested on the spot, who was neither attributed the role of opening fire nor robbing the informant, but held guilty because he was allegedly apprehended at the place of incident. This fact is to be kept in mind while going through the testimonies of the eye witnesses.

13. P.W.-6 Smt. Sushila Devi was the first person to encounter the robbery. Hence, her deposition is required to be taken into consideration first. In her statement she has stated that she is on the post of ANM at Primary Health Centre, Vijaipur. She has stated that she was going to village Sarauli along with Param Sundari, when she has been robbed on pistol point. It is not the case of prosecution that Param Sundari has also been robbed. The prosecution has not produced her as a witness. She further stated that the miscreant has fired single shot. Two witnesses suffered injuries. P.W.-1 Babu Singh suffered injuries on his right hand. P.W.2 Chheddu suffered injury on his right leg. P.W.-3, the Investigating Officer has not shown in the site plan where these two witnesses were standing at the time of opening of fire. It is also not on record that how these two injured witnesses were placed at the time when injury was received to them. It is a bit doubtful as to how the two persons who were coming to rescue the informant suffered gunshot injuries on right side of their body, more particularly Chheddu suffered on his right leg middle surface, 21 cm below right knee joint, kept under observation and advised X-ray for foreign body. No blackening, no tattooing and no wound of exit and Babu Singh suffered gunshot injuries on his right wrist posterior surface.

14. P.W.-6 Smt. Sushila Devi has further stated that there was no recovery from the accused appellant- Bhola. He was not even having country made pistol or the booty.

15. During her cross examination, P.W.-6 Smt Sushila Devi has stated that there was sterilization camp at Primary Health Centre, Vijaipur. She took two cases but none has turned up, whereas, Param Sundari has had two cases of sterilization matured. She has further stated that all the persons are of village Sarauli. She has further stated that when she was coming along with Param Sundari, they were also accompanied with two ladies who had under gone sterilization and was also accompanied with the mother of one lady. It shows that there were five ladies present at the time of robbery. The four ladies present at the incident are star witnesses but they have not been produced by the prosecution.

16. The trial court while recording the evidence of P.W.-6 Smt. Sushila Devi has specifically asked certain questions about the writing of written information. This witness has replied that first information report was written at village Sarauli which was a rough. Subsequently, the Gram Pradhan has asked her to prepare a fresh written information. The one she has proved before the Court as Ext.Ka.6 is the subsequent written information. She has further stated that 15-20 persons along with Pradhan of the village has accompanied them to the police station for lodging the FIR.

17. The accused appellant was apprehended by two injured persons in the night of 29.1.1985 at canal culvert at about 8:00 PM. The accused appellant was tied by the 'Angocha' (scarf) and kept at the house of Pradhan. According to this witness he was also beaten up. On questioning as to why the FIR was not lodged on the same day and the accused appellant, who was apprehended, was not handed over to the police that day. The reply of the three witnesses of fact is that it was dark and night, hence, they were scared of going to police station. For more than 12 hours, the accused appellant was under the custody of the informant, the injured witnesses and Pradhan.

18. The statement of P.W.-6 Smt. Sushila Devi does not inspire confidence to be truthful, because out of five ladies she was the only person who has been robbed. The sterilization programme was continuing. It is the statement of the accused recorded under Section 313 CrPC that he was asked by Babu Singh for sending his wife for sterilization, which she has refused and this witness was a bit annoyed by the failure of her in calling ladies for sterilization.

19. The other two witnesses of fact namely Babu Singh P.W.-1 and Chheddu P.W.2 have stated that they were in their field at the time when they have heard the shrieks of ladies. The field of Chheddu and Babu Singh is situated at the distance of 2-3 fields in between. It is stated that their field lies at the north of culvert. The Investigating Officer has not shown the place where the field of these witnesses is situated. The Investigating Officer has also not shown the place from where the accused appellant has opened fire on these witnesses.

20. The injury sustained by Chheddu and Babu Singh reveals that Chheddu suffered gunshot wound of entry 1/4 cm x 1/4 cm x muscle deep on the right leg, medial surface, 21 cm below the right knee joint, kept under observation and advised X-ray for foreign body. No blackening, no tattooing and no wound of exit. The injuries sustained by Babu Singh is one gunshot wound of entry 1/4 cm x 1/4 cm muscle deep on the right wrist post surface, kept under observation and advised X-ray. No blackening, no tattooing and no wound of exit. It was the observation of Dr. S.N. Awasthi P.W.-4 that these injuries is about one day old. There is no X-ray carried out to establish whether there is any foreign body present or not.

21. P.W.-1 Babu Singh and P.W.-2 Chheddu both have stated that they had seen Sheo Kulli in the village and they also knew Bhola.

22. The injuries suffered by the injured witnesses stated to be suffered by gunshot fire by the co-accused. The co-accused is not convicted in the present case. The injuries has not been attributed on the accused appellant. The presence of witnesses itself doubted in view of the single gunshot fired by the co-accused. The FIR is delayed. The reason for the delay is not plausible. The accused appellant when apprehended was neither having the booty nor he was having any weapon for committing the robbery, who is of the same village. It is also a bit doubtful that an injured person could have apprehended the accused when one of the accused managed to escape, on whom the role of collecting the booty and firing the shot is attributed.

23. Hence, the ocular and documentary evidences does not show the involvement of accused appellant in the offence of robbery in view of the evidences adduced by the prosecution.

24. In the case of Jitendra Kumar Mishra alias Jittu Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh reported in (2024) 2 SCC 666, Hon'ble the Supreme Court held that an appellate court should be slow in interfering with conviction recorded by courts below but where evidence on record indicates that prosecution has failed to prove guilt of accused beyond reasonable doubt and that a plausible view, different from one expressed by trial court, can be taken. The appellate court should not shy away in giving benefit of doubt to the accused.

25. Thus, the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 21.5.1986 passed by IVth Additional Sessions Judge, Fatehpur in Session Trial No. 187 of 1985 (State Vs. Bhola and another), under Section 394 IPC, is hereby set aside.

26. The sole appellant- Bhola is acquitted for offence under Section 394 IPC.

27. Accordingly, the criminal appeal is allowed.

28. The accused appellant is on bail. His sureties and executed bail bonds stands discharged.

29. The record be remitted, forthwith, as per law.

Held

The court ruled that sentencing must be guided by reformative principles. Imposition of life imprisonment is not automatic. Courts must consider aggravating and mitigating circumstances and record cogent reasons before awarding the maximum punishment. In the absence of such reasons, the sentence is liable to be modified. Adv. for Respondent(s):
G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ajeet Kumar, the learned counsel for the appellant, and Ms. Meera Tripathi, learned Additional Government Advocate.

2. By means of the instant criminal appeal filed under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C., the appellant Nand Kishore has challenged the validity of a judgment and order dated 31.07.2018 passed by the learned Special Judge (P.C. Act-3), Lucknow in Session Trial No.891 of 2014 titled 'State Vs. Nand Kishore', arising out of Case Crime No.127 of 2014, Police Station- Itaunja, District- Lucknow whereby the appellant has been convicted for the offences under Sections 498-A and 304-B I.P.C. and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. The appellant has been sentenced to undergo 3 years' imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs. 10,000/-, and in case of failure to pay fine, an imprisonment for an additional period of three months for the offence under Section 498-A IPC, imprisonment for life for the offence under Section 304-B of IPC, and six months' imprisonment for the offence under Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. All the sentences have been directed to run concurrently.

3. The appeal was admitted by means of an order dated 06.09.2018, whereby the trial Court's record was summoned, and objections were invited on the application for release of the appellant on bail. The first bail application of the appellant was rejected by means of an order dated 14.12.2022. The appellant filed the second application for his release on bail on 22.07.2024, which is still pending. Meanwhile, the trial Court's record has been received and the paper book has also been prepared. Therefore, instead of deciding the bail application, we have proceeded to decide the appeal itself.

4. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an FIR lodged by the complainant stating that the complainant's daughter had got married to the appellant on 06.03.2014. After marriage, her husband and the husband's family members started harassing her by demanding dowry. The complainant's son had gone to bring his sister to her parental home about 15 days ago, but the accused persons had not sent her, saying that his sister would not be sent until Rs. Two lakh cash and a gold chain were given. Upon failure of the complainant to give dowry, the accused persons gave some toxic substance to the deceased in her food, due to which she died on 06.06.2014.

5. The post-mortem examination mentioned two injuries: (1) a contusion of size 5cm x 4cm on the left side of the head, 2 cm above the left ear, and (2) a contusion of size 2 cm x 1.5 cm on the right side of the occipital region. On opening, ecchymosis was present in the above noted injuries. Viscera examination revealed the presence of 'Aluminium Phosphide' in her abdomen.

6. The complainant was examined as PW-1, his wife was examined as PW-2, the complainant's sons, namely, Ravinder Kumar & Suneel Kumar were examined as PW-3 & PW-4 and all of them supported the prosecution version. The doctor, who had conducted the post-mortem examination, was examined as PW-5, and he proved the post-mortem report. The Tehsildar, who had prepared the inquest report, was examined as PW-7.

7. After going through the entire evidence, the Trial Court concluded that the deceased died in her matrimonial home in unnatural circumstances, within seven years of her marriage. The appellant failed to prove the reasons behind her death; therefore, a presumption has to be drawn under Section 113-B of the Evidence Act. Accordingly, the Trial Court convicted the appellant for the offence under Sections 498-A, 304-B of the IPC and Section 4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. However, the appellant was acquitted of the alternative charge under Section 302 of the IPC and the charge of committing the offence under Section 3 of the Dowry Prohibition Act.

8. The learned counsel for the appellant has not advanced any submission assailing the order of conviction and he has confined his submissions only for reducing the sentence to the period for which the appellant has already remained in custody. He has submitted that the appellant has no other criminal history. He has placed reliance on the decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Hem Chand v. State of Haryana: (1994) 6 SCC 727 and Kashmira Devi v. State of Uttarakhand: (2020) 11 SCC 343.

9. The appellant was taken into custody immediately after lodging the FIR. He was not granted bail during the trial. Even though this appeal was admitted on 06.09.2018, the first bail application of the appellant remained pending for more than 4 years, and it was rejected by means of an order dated 14.12.2022.

10. As learned counsel for the appellant has not challenged the validity of the conviction order and the appellant has already undergone more than 13 years period in custody, the learned AGA has left it to the discretion of the Court to decide the period of sentence.

11. A custody certificate issued by the Superintendent, District Jail, Lucknow, has been annexed with the affidavit filed in support of the second bail application, as per which the appellant had remained in custody for 4 years 1 month and 13 days (i.e. 1503 days) during trial and after conviction and till 15.08.2023, he had spent 5 years and 16 days (i.e. 1841 days). Thus, the appellant had spent actual period of 9 years 1 month 29 days period in custody till 15.08.2023. He earned remission of 1 year 3 months and 10 days, which made the period of custody as 10 years 5 months and 9 days.

12. Since 15.08.2023, the appellant has spent a further period of 2 years 9 months 7 days in custody, which makes the period undergone in custody as 13 years 2 months and 18 days. After adding the period of remission earned after 15.08.2023, the total period undergone by the appellant in custody becomes about 14 years.

13. In Hem Chand v. State of Haryana: (supra), the Hon?ble Supreme Court held that: -

"Section 304-B IPC only raises presumption and lays down that minimum sentence should be seven years but it may extend to imprisonment for life. Therefore awarding extreme punishment of imprisonment for life should be in rare cases and not in every case."

14 In Hem Chand v. State of Haryana: (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court reduced the sentence of imprisonment for life to 10 years? rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 304-B IPC.

15. In Kashmira Devi v. State of Uttarakhand (supra), the Hon?ble Supreme Court followed the decision in Hem Chand (supra) and keeping in view the age of the appellant and also the contribution that would be required to be made by her to the family as the appellant?s husband was also aged and further taking into consideration all other circumstances, the sentence of life imprisonment awarded by the High Court was modified by ordering the appellant to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years and to pay the fine as imposed and thereby the default sentence was sustained.

16. In K. Pounammal v. State: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1784, the Hon?ble Supreme Court held that: -

"6. The conviction and sentence have their respective realms. While the conviction would be recorded on the basis of evidence adduced before the Court which would establish the implication of the accused in the offence, the guilty person or the convicted when to be awarded a sentence, a host of factors would operate to govern.

6.1. In determining the final sentence and the nature thereof, variety of factors that would operate would include the intervening time between the commission of offence and the actual award of the sentence, age of the accused, the stress which he or she might have suffered because of passage of time during each case has remained pending and undecided, the family circumstance and such other factors, without becoming exhaustive.

7. The process of sentencing by the courts is guided by theories such as punitive, deterrent or reformative. Each school of thought has its own object and purpose to explain awarding of sentence and its utility. Amongst these theories, reformative approach has become increasingly acceptable to the modern jurisprudence. Reformation is something always considered progressive. When there are mitigating circumstances, the court would lean towards reducing of the sentence*. The focus would be on the crime, and not on the criminal. The society and system would nurture the guilt with positivity, while selecting the sentence."*

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further held in K. Pounammal (supra) that: -

"9. The prolongation of a criminal case for an unreasonable period is in itself a kind of suffering. It amounts to mental incarceration for the person facing such proceedings. For a person who is convicted and who has appealed against his or her conviction and sentence and who everyday awaits the fate of litigation, spends time in distress. In the present-day system of administration of justice, in which proceedings have often go on protracted unreasonably and therefore unbearably, the passage of long time itself makes the person suffer a mental agony."

18. While deciding the quantum of sentence, the learned trial Court has recorded the submission of the appellant that it was his first offence and he had no criminal history, he is a poor person and there was nobody to pursue the case on his behalf. However, the trial Court awarded the maximum sentence of imprisonment for life for the offence under Section 304-B IPC, although the minimum sentence for the offence is imprisonment for 7 years. The trial Court has not assigned any reason for rejecting the appellant's request for awarding a lesser sentence in view of the mitigating circumstances pleaded by the appellant and has awarded the maximum sentence without assigning any reason.

19. In Pramod Kumar Mishra v. State of U.P., (2023) 9 SCC 810, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that:-

"10. It is a well-established principle that while imposing sentence, aggravating and mitigating circumstances of a case are to be taken into consideration.

12. India, till date, does not have a statutory sentencing policy in place. This Court, however, has proceeded to examine the objective behind sentencing and the factors to be kept in mind while imposing such punishments. In Mohd. Giasuddin v. State of A.P. [(1977) 3 SCC 287], it stood observed that:

"9. Crime is a pathological aberration, that the criminal can ordinarily be redeemed, that the State has to rehabilitate rather than avenge. The sub-culture that leads to anti-social behaviour has to be countered not by undue cruelty but by re-culturisation. Therefore, the focus of interest in penology is the individual, and the goal is salvaging him for society. The infliction of harsh and savage punishment is thus a relic of past and regressive times. The human today views sentencing as a process of reshaping a person who has deteriorated into criminality and the modern community has a primary stake in the rehabilitation of the offender as a means of social defence. We, therefore, consider a therapeutic, rather than an ?in terrorem? outlook, should prevail in our criminal courts, since brutal incarceration of the person merely produces laceration of his mind.

16…. ?A proper sentence is the amalgam of many factors such as the nature of the offence, the circumstances ? extenuating or aggravating ? of the offence, the prior criminal record, if any, of the offender, the age of the offender, the record of the offender as to employment, the background of the offender with reference to education, home life, sobriety and social adjustment, the emotional and mental conditions of the offender, the prospects for the rehabilitation of the offender, the possibility of return of the offender to normal life in the community, the possibility of treatment or training of the offender, the possibility that the sentence may serve as a deterrent to crime by the offender or by others and the current community need, if any, for such a deterrent in respect to the particular type of offence. These factors have to be taken into account by the Court in deciding upon the appropriate sentence. [As observed in Santa Singh v. State of Punjab, (1976) 4 SCC 190] "

17. It will thus be seen that there is a great discretion vested in the Judge, especially when pluralistic factors enter his calculations. ? innovation, in all conscience, is in the field of judicial discretion."

(emphasis in original)

14. In State of U.P. v. Sanjay Kumar [(2012) 8 SCC 537], this Court held that courts for the purpose of deciding just and appropriate sentence, have to delicately balance the aggravating and mitigating factors and circumstances in which a crime has been committed. To balance the two, is the primary duty of courts."

19. It is settled law that reason is the very soul of any order and any judicial order bereft of a sound and cogent reasoning has no legs to stand on. In the present case, when specific submissions were advanced highlighting the mitigating factors that existed to award a lesser sentence than the maximum prescribed sentence, the submissions advanced ought to have been dealt by the trial court. The trial court has turned down the submissions without recording any reasons and has arbitrarily awarded the maximum prescribed sentence to the accused appellant. Therefore, we are of the view that the trial Court has committed an error in awarding the maximum sentence without assigning any reason, which in our opinion is not proper.

20. Keeping in view the submission of the appellant advanced before the trial Court that it was his first offence and he has no criminal history, he is a poor person and also the fact that the appellant has already undergone about 14 years in custody (including the period of remission) we are of the view that the sentence of life imprisonment awarded to the appellant deserves to be modified and reduced to an imprisonment for the period for which he has already remained in custody.

21. Accordingly, the appeal is allowed in part by upholding the conviction of the appellant for the offence under Sections 498-A, 304-B of IPC and Section 4 of Dowry Prohibition Act, but the sentence of imprisonment for life for the offence under Section 304-B of IPC is reduced to the period already undergone by the appellant in custody. For the offence under Section 498-A IPC the appellant has been sentenced to 3 years? imprisonment and a fine of Rs.10,000/-, and in case of failure to pay fine, imprisonment for an additional period of three months. As the appellant has already undergone more than 3 years and 3 months period in custody, it would not be proper to recover Rs.10,000/- fine from the appellant. Therefore, it is ordered that the appellant will not pay any amount as fine.

22. As the appeal itself has been decided, the bail application has become infructuous and it is disposed of accordingly.

23. The appellant shall be released from custody forthwith, upon his executing a personal bond under the provision of Section 437-A Cr.P.C., containing an undertaking to appear before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal. The bond shall remain in force for a period of six months.

Rajan Chaurasia @ Rajendra & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

The appellants filed a criminal appeal under section 14-A (1) of the SC/ST Act seeking to quash the order dated 15.09.2025 by which the Special Judge, Deoria framed charges u/s 427, 504, 506 IPC and Sections 3(1) (da) & 3(1) (dha) of the SC/ST Act. The respondent raised a preliminary objection that the appeal was not maintainable as an order framing charge is an interlocutory order.

Headnotes

A. Criminal matter-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 427, 504, 506-Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act,1989-Section 14-A(1) & Sections 3(1)(da), 3(1)(dha)-Appeal against framing of charge-Maintainability-Order framing charge is an interlocutory order as it neither terminates the proceedings nor finally determines the rights of the parties-It merely marks the commencement of trial-Thus, appeal against such an order is not maintainable-Dismissed. (Para 17 to 28)

Held

The court ruled that section 11(2) of the Special Courts Act,1979 provides that no appeal shall lie against an interlocutory order passed by a Special Court. Consequently, if the impugned order is interlocutory in nature, the statutory right of appeal is barred. In the present case, the Court relied upon this principle and the Supreme Court's decision in V.C. Shukla Vs. State through CBI, holding that an appeal against interlocutory order is incompetent. CRIMINAL JURISDICTION: CRIMINAL APPEAL No. -1753 OF 2026
Rajan Chaurasia @ Rajendra & 3 Ors Vs. State of U.P & Anr
From the judgment and order dated 14.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for parties

Adv. for Appellant(s):
Prince Kumar
Advs. for Respondent(s):
Amar Nath Tiwari, G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Madan Pal Singh, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. The present criminal appeal under Section 14-A (1) of Scheduled Caste and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989 has been preferred by the appellants to quash the order dated 15th September, 2025 passed by the Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Deoria in Special Trial No. 132 of 2023 (Badami Devi Vs. Rajan Chaurasia & Others) under Sections 427, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Sections 3 (1) (da) and 3 (1) (dha) of S.C./S.T. Act, Police Station-Khukhundu, District-Deoria, whereby the charges have been framed against the appellants.

3. Before considering the present criminal appeal on merits, learned counsel for opposite party no.2 and the learned A.G.A. for the State have raised preliminary objection to the maintainability of the present criminal appeal by submitting that since the order of framing of charge is an interlocutory order, therefore, as per Section 14-A of S.C./S.T. Act itself, the present criminal appeal is not maintainable.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants vehemently argues that the order of framing the charge cannot be termed as interlocutory order and, therefore, an appeal against framing of charge is maintainable. He further submits that as per Section 14-A of S.C./S.T. Act, an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order to the High Court both on facts and law.

5. On the above premise, learned counsel for the appellant submits that since the 'framing of charge' is not an interlocutory order, the present criminal appeal is maintainable.

6. I have considered the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellant, the learned counsel for the opposite party no.2 and the learned A.G.A. as well as perused the material available on record including the impugned order.

7. The first issue is up for consideration before this Court as whether the order of framing of charge is an interlocutory order or not?

8. The second issue is as to whether appeal under Section 14-A of S.C./S.T. Act is maintainable against an interlocutory order or not?

Issue No.1

9. For deciding the said issue, it is necessary for this Court to refer the law laid down by the Apex Court in various judgments from time to time on the said issue.

10. In the case of Ratilal Bhanji Mithani Vs. State of Maharasthtra & Others reported in (1979) 2 SCC 179 has held that an order of discharge in a warrant case instituted on complaint or police report, can be made only after the process has been issued and before the charge is framed.

11. It is further opined by the Apex Court that once a charge is framed, the Magistrate has no power under section 227 or any other provision of the Code to cancel the charge, and reverse the proceedings to the stage of Section 353 and discharge the accused. The trial in a warrant case starts with the framing of charge; prior to it, the proceedings are only an inquiry. After the framing of charges if the accused pleads not guilty, the Magistrate is required to proceed with the trial in the manner provided in section 254 to 258, to a logical end. Once a charge is framed in a warrant case, instituted either on complaint or a police report, the Magistrate has no power under the Code to discharge the accused, and thereafter, he can either acquit or convict the accused unless he decides to proceed under Section 349 and 562 of the Code of 1892 (which correspond to Sections 325 and 360 of the Code of 1973).

12. It is then held that after framing charges the Magistrate whimsically, without appraising the evidence and without permitting the prosecution to produce all its evidence, 'discharges' the accused, such an acquittal, without trial, even if clothed as 'discharge', will be illegal.

13. Relying upon the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ratilal Bhanji Mithani (Supra), further the Apex Court in the case of Bharat Parikh Vs. C.B.I. & Another reported in (2008) 10 SCC 109 has opined that once the charges have been framed and the accused pleads not guilty, the Magistrate is required to proceed with the trial to its logical end. The Magistrate has no power under the Code to discharge the accused. He/she can, thereafter, either convict or acquit the accused.

14. Taking note of the judgment of the Apex Court in the case of Ratilal Bhanji Mithani (Supra), the Apex Court in the case of State Th. CBI New Delhi Vs. Jitendra Kumar Singh reported in (2014) 11 SCC 724 has held that the trial of a warrant case starts with the framing of charge. Prior to that the proceedings are only an inquiry. The Apex Court has reiterated the same law as held by the Apex Court in the case of Ratilal Bhanji Mithani (Supra).

15. A Six Judges of Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Hardeep Singh Vs. State of Punjab reported in 2014) 3 SCC 92, has also relied and followed the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Ratilal Bhanji Mithani (Supra).

16. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Amar Nath VS. State of Haryana reported in (1977) 4 SCC 137 has opined that "interlocutory order" "denotes" orders of a purely interim or temporary nature which do not decide or touch the important rights or liabilities of the parties and that any order which substantially affects the rights of the accused is not an interlocutory order.

17. From the aforesaid settled legal position, it is crystal clear that once charges have been framed, the issue of discharge becomes redundant, as Courts have no jurisdiction to allow discharge after charges having been framed. After charges have been framed, Court can either convict or acquit an accused. As such, the said issue is no longer res-integra and stands concluded by the judgement of Supreme Court referred to above.

18. On the basis of the aforesaid legal position, this Court is of the considered opinion that an interlocutory order or judgment is one made or given during the progress of an action, but which does not finally dispose of the rights of the parties. In case of an interlocutory order, the conclusion is inescapable that an order which does not terminate the proceedings or finally decides the rights of the parties is only an interlocutory order. In other words, in ordinary sense of the term, an interlocutory order is one which only decides a particular aspect or a particular issue or matter in a proceeding, suit or trial but which does not however conclude the trial at all. This would be the result if the term interlocutory order is interpreted in its natural and logical sense without having resort to Criminal Procedure Code or any other statute.

19. It is well settled that the trial begins when the accused is charged and called on to answer and then the question before the Court is whether the accused is to be acquitted or convicted and not whether the complaint is to be dismissed or the accused discharged. Therefore, this Court has no room to doubt to hold that order of framing of charge is an interlocutory order, as after charging an accused, the trial begins and he is called on to answer and then the question before the Court, whether is to be acquitted or convicted.

20. From the aforesaid settled legal position as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in aforesaid cases, it is crystal established that the order of framing of charges an interlocutory order, in which the conclusion is inescapable and the same does not terminate the proceedings or finally decides the rights of the parties. Accordingly, while answering the issue no.1, this Court opines that the order of framing of charge is an interlocutory order.

Now this Court comes to the second issue.

21. For appreciating the aforesaid legal issue, it would be worthwhile to reproduce Section 14-A of S.C./S.T. Act wherein the instant criminal appeal has been filed. Section 14-A of S.C./S.T. Act is quoted here-under:

*"14A. (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure,1973, an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (3) of section 378 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973, an appeal shall lie to the High Court against an order of the Special Court or the Exclusive Special Court granting or refusing bail.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, every appeal under this section shall be preferred within a period of ninety days from the date of the judgment, sentence or order appealed from:

Provided that the High Court may entertain an appeal after the expiry of the said period of ninety days if it is satisfied that the appellant had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within the period of ninety days:

Provided further that no appeal shall be entertained after the expiry of the period of one hundred and eighty days.

(4) Every appeal preferred under sub-section (1) shall, as far as possible, be disposed of within a period of three months from the date of admission of the appeal."

22. Perusal of the Section 14-A (1) specifically reflects that an appeal shall lie, from any judgment, sentence or order, not being an interlocutory order, of a Special Court or an Exclusive Special Court, to the High Court both on facts and on law. Consequently, this Court is of the firm opinion that since the impugned order framing charge against the appellant is an interlocutory order as the said issue has already been answered by this Court herein above, therefore, as per Section 14-A (1), the present criminal appeal is maintainable against such order.

23. While deciding the aforesaid two issues, the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of V.C. Shukla Vs. State through C.B.I. reported in 1980 Supp SCC 92, has opined that applying these tests to the order impugned we find that the order framing of the charges is purely an interlocutory order as it does not terminate the proceedings but the trial goes on until it culminates in acquittal or conviction. It is true that if the Special Court would have refused to frame charges and discharged the accused, the proceedings would have terminated but that is only one side of the picture. The other side of the picture is that if the Special Court refused to discharge the accused and framed charges against him, then the order would be interlocutory because the trial would still be alive.

24. The Apex Court has concluded that in view of the conclusion that the order framing a charge is an interlocutory order within the meaning of Section 11 (1) of Special Courts Act, 1979, the appeal against such an order is incompetent in view of the provision contained in Section 11 (2) of Special Courts Act, 1979, and therefore the preliminary objection must be upheld and the appeal is dismissed.

25. A learned Single Judge of Himanchal Pradesh High Court at Shimla in the case of Lagnesh Verma Vs. State of H.P. & Others reported in 2026 SCC OnLine HP 1038 has opined that once the Hon'ble Supreme Court had held that framing of charge cannot be construed as final order, the appeal is not maintainable, the aggrieved party can avail the remedy of revisional jurisdiction or inherent jurisdiction of this Court under the BNSS or other laws if permissible. However, the appeal filed by the appellant is not maintainable against the order of framing the charge. Accordingly, the Himanchal Pradesh High Court has held that the appeal against the order of framing of charge is not maintainable and hence is dismissed. However, the appellant is at liberty to avail any other remedy available under law.

26. For the sake of argument, if it is presumed that the order of framing charge is a final order and the appeal is maintainable, then in that circumstances also, this Court cannot direct the trial court to terminate the proceedings or discharge the accused or to pass a fresh order of framing of charge, as the trial court has no power to do the same, in view of the aforementioned settled position of law.

27. Consequently, this Court holds that the present criminal appeal preferred for quashing/setting aside the order dated 15th September, 2025 passed by the Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Deoria in Special Trial No. 132 of 2023 (Badami Devi Vs. Rajan Chaurasia & Others) under Sections 427, 504, 506 I.P.C. and Sections 3 (1) (da) and 3 (1) (dha) of S.C./S.T. Act, Police Station-Khukhundu, District-Deoria, whereby the charges have been framed against the appellants, is not maintainable and is liable dismissed, as the impugned order is an interlocutory order and against an interlocutory order, the criminal appeal under Section 14-A (1) of S.C./S.T. Act shall not lie, as has been opined by this Court herein above.

28. Accordingly, the present criminal appeal being not maintainable is dismissed.

Advs. for Respondent(s):

A.G.A. Mayank Krishna S Chandel Vinod Kumar Chandel

(Delivered by Hon'ble Avnish Saxena, J.)

1. Heard Sri Salman Ahmad, learned counsel for the appellants, Sri Vinod Kumar Chandel, learned counsel for the informant and Sri Anuj Kumar Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present criminal appeal has been preferred under Section 374(2) CrPC by accused appellants Saghir Ahmad and Mohammad Iliyas on being aggrieved by the judgment of conviction and sentence dated 05.09.1985 in S.T. No. 616 of 1983 (State Vs. Saghir and another) wherein the appellants have been convicted for offence under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC and sentence each of them for five years rigorous imprisonment.

3. Before adverting to the facts of the case, it would be expedient to mention that there is cross version of FIR. The injured in this case namely Smt. Dharmi has moved an application on 04.10.1986 before this Court along with an affidavit stating therein that the permission be granted to compromise the matter. It is mentioned in paragraph nos. 1 to 3 of the affidavit that the appellants have been wrongly convicted under Section 307 IPC though on the face of it Sections 324, 325 IPC is attracted. The relevant paragraph are reiterated underneath:-

"1. That the applicant Smt. Dharmi received minor/simple injuries in an occurrence which is said to have taken place on 24.05.1981. But under the pressure of the local police Hari Lal was compelled to lodge FIR against the appellants under Section 452/307 IPC and thus the correct facts were not disclosed. Even during the course of the trial the police threatened the applicant and other witnesses not to disclose the correct facts leading to an resulting in the occurrence.

2. That the injury received by Smt. Dharmi was not caused with an intention or knowledge to cause her death. In view of the facts and circumstances on record only offences under Section 324 and 325 IPC are made out. In the interest of justice conviction, of the appellants under Section 307/34 IPC is bad an liable to be set aside. The trial court has also observed that correct facts leading to the occurrence have not been disclosed by any of the parties.

3. That the injured (applicant) and the appellants have come to terms and have compromised the case. In case the compromise is accept and the applicant is permitted to compromise the case, the relation between the parties would become friendly and sweet. The tension between the two families and apprehension of any future trouble and dispute will come to an end."

4. This Court in order dated 03.09.1992 has granted permission and send the compromise for verification. The order dated 03.09.1992 is reiterated underneath:-

"Send the compromise to the C.J.M. Azamgarh for verification. The C.J.M. Azamgarh shall send it back after verification within two months from today. Office to take steps within three days."

5. In pursuance to the aforesaid order the application in original was sent to the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Azamgarh, who in order dated 25.01.1993 has verified compromise. The text of the verified compromise is reiterated underneath:-

"आज इस सुलहनामे मुद्दई श्री धर्मी देवी ने रूबरू अदालत सत्यापित किया। तथा जिसकी पहचान शाहजहां एडवो० ने किया मजमून सुलहनामा सुनाया और समझाया गया उसमे मजमून को तस्दीक किया। तथा सुलहनामे पर अंगूठा निशानी स्वीकार किया।"

6. The verified compromise received to this Court on 18.03.1993 and since then it is fixed for disposal.

7. The prosecution case in nutshell is that the informant Hari Lal has lodged the FIR on 24.05.1981 at 7:00 p.m., P.S.- Gambhirpur with the allegation against Saghir Ahmad and Illiyas that the informant is residence of Molanpur, P.S.- Rani Ki Sarai, District- Azamgarh. Udairaj and Balraj Chauhan of his village having their daughters of easy virtues. Saghir Ahmad and Illiyas used to meet the daughters, which has been objected by the villagers. Udairaj had instigated Saghir

Ahmad on which Saghir Ahmad and Illiyas came to the village where the villagers were attending marriage party in the house of Sahab Ali Chauhan where Saghir Ahmad, Illiyas and unknown person came and asked for Ram Pyare. Sahab Ali□s wife raised hue and cry on which several ladies of village came. Illiyas has opened fire. Smt. Dharmi Devi, suffered gunshot injury.

8. In the prosecution Hari Lal and Dharmi Devi were produced as PW-1 and PW-2; whereas Dr. B.Das the Medical Officer has been produced as PW-3, the Doctor who found injuries on the person of Dharmi Devi suffered due to gun shot. Smt. Surji has been produced as PW-4 and Sub-Inspector Yashpal Singh has been produced as PW-5.

9. It is the contention of learned counsel for appellants that the parties are of same village. The matter is nearly 45 years old. The parties have settled their dispute through compromise in the year 1992 and there is no point in moving with the conviction of the accused appellants, who are presently the senior citizens of nearly 80 years of age, hence, prayed for an order of modification of sentence that the appellants shall be released on undergone.

10. Learned AGA, though argued that there is cross fight wherein both the accused and informant suffered injuries, which establishes the guilt, but concedes that there is compromise between the parties and the same is verified.

11. This Court has given thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions and considered some judgments on the point, which are dealt with in subsequent paragraphs.

12. In the case of Labh Singh v. State of Haryana1, Hon'ble the Supreme Court has taken the view, while considering the sentence awarded in the old case of 1985, wherein, all the accused are senior citizen by then, that no useful purpose would be served in sending the accused to jail. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 to 6 are reiterated underneath:

" 3. According to the impugned judgment passed by the High Court, Appellant 1 is more than 82 years of age and Appellants 2 and 3 are 72 and 62 years of age respectively.

4. This is an incident of 1985. The appellants have already undergone part of the sentence. Sending them to jail after a lapse of about 27 years, in the facts and circumstances of this case, would not be justified.

5. On a consideration of the totality of the facts and circumstances of this case, we are of the opinion that ends of justice would meet if we direct each of the appellants to pay Rs 1 lakh to the complainant/injured persons. We direct accordingly. Let the amount be deposited before the trial court within two weeks from today and after the amount is deposited, the trial court shall disburse the amount equally among the injured persons.

6. Consequently, the sentence of the appellants is reduced to the period already undergone by them, the impugned judgment is modified to the aforementioned extent and the appeal is partly allowed."

13. In the case of State of U.P. v. Siyaram2, Hon'ble the Supreme Court has considered the old case and propensity to false implication, took the view to compensate than to further incarceration. The relevant paragraph number 4 is reiterated underneath:-

"4. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the record. We are not inclined to interfere in the acquittal of Siyaram for the reasons recorded by the High Court, as the propensity to implicate falsely is not uncommon in India. We, however, do agree with Mr Dash that the reduction in the sentence in case of Jiya Lal to already undergone was somewhat inadequate but as the prosecution had been initiated in the year 1988, we are not inclined to interfere on the term of imprisonment. We, however, direct that the fine be increased to Rs 25,000 in all and in default of payment of fine the appellant Jiya Lal shall undergo 2 years' RI. The fine will be paid within three months from now to Banshi Lal, the injured and if Banshi Lal is not available, to his legal representatives."

14. In the case of George Pon Paul v. Kanagalet3, Hon'ble the Supreme Court considered the passage of time, as a relevant factor to consider. The relevant paragraph numbers 4 to 6 are reiterated underneath:-

"4. The only question that remains is whether the custodial sentence as was imposed by the trial court was adequate or not i.e. confinement till rising of the court.

5. It appears from record that the fine amount has been deposited and the amount which was directed to be paid to PW 2 has already been paid.

6. Considering this fact and the long passage of time, it would be appropriate to restrict the period of sentence to the period already undergone. The appeals stand disposed of."

15. In the case of Manjappa v. State of Karnataka4, Hon'ble the Supreme Court considered the long pendency of case and opined the adequate punishment would be the period of incarceration already undergone but enhanced the fine to be paid as compensation. The relevant paragraph numbers 14 to 16 are reiterated underneath:-

"14. At the same time, however, the fact remains that the High Court has reduced substantive sentence to a month and a half. It is also not in dispute that the appellant has undergone and has remained in custody for about fifteen days. Moreover, as on today, he is on bail. Hence, even though we are of the view that in the facts and circumstances of the case, provisions of Section 360 read with Section 361 of the Code are not attracted and Om Prakash [(2001) 10 SCC 477 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 799] does not help the appellant, it would not be appropriate now to direct the appellant to surrender and to suffer the remaining sentence for about a month. The incident is of 1997 and about 10 years have passed.

15. Keeping in view all the facts and circumstances, in our opinion, ends of justice would be met, if we order that the substantive sentence which the appellant has already undergone is held sufficient. We are also of the view that it would be appropriate if over and above the amount which the appellant herein has paid towards fine and also towards compensation to the injured victim, the appellant is ordered to pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only), to the complainant by way of compensation.

16. For the foregoing reasons, the appeal is partly allowed by holding that the sentence already undergone by the appellant is held sufficient and adequate in the facts and circumstances of the case. It is, however, ordered that the appellant will pay an additional amount of Rs 10,000 (Rupees ten thousand only) to the injured complainant within a period of one month from today over and above the amount of fine and compensation ordered to be paid by the courts below."

16. In the case of Ramesh v. State of U.P.5, Hon'ble the Supreme Court has converted the offence of attempt to murder to the voluntary causing of grievous hurt in view of single injury and awarded punishment accordingly. The relevant paragraph numbers 3 and 4 are reiterated underneath:-

"3. The learned counsel for appellant has assailed the finding recorded by the High Court and the trial Judge and has urged that the appellant was implicated due to enmity. He urged that even though the High Court held that in the FIR the main part was specifically assigned to the appellant and one Jagat Singh but in the evidence it was confined to the appellant as the relations between the two were strained. The learned counsel further urged that the case of the prosecution was that the complainant was bitten by Jagat Singh and there being no injury of biting, the High Court committed an error in maintaining the conviction. We are not impressed by the argument. The learned counsel then urged that the High Court committed an error in convicting the appellant under Section 307, Penal Code, 1860. We do not propose to decide it as a matter of law. But we agree with the learned counsel for the appellant that in peculiar circumstances of the case it being a case of single injury in the back of neck the conviction can be altered to be under Section 324, Penal Code, 1860.

4. In the result the appeal succeeds and is allowed in part. The conviction under Section 307/34, IPC is converted to under Section 324, IPC and the sentence is reduced to the period already undergone. The appellant shall deposit a sum of Rs 3000 as fine within six months which shall be paid to the complainant. In default of payment he shall serve out the entire sentence. On deposit of fine the bail bond shall stand discharged."

17. There is judicial discretion attached to reasoned sentencing. In the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Bablu6 and Abdul Waheed Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh7, Hon'ble the Supreme Court observed solemn duty of the Courts while imposing sentence that the same would be just, adequate and proportionate to the gravity of offence. Further observed that undue sympathy to impose inadequate sentence would do more harm to the justice system and undermine the public confidence in the efficacy of system. Considering those principles the trial court rightly evaluated the role of the sole surviving appellants and adequately sentenced them on 05.09.1985 with just and adequate punishment. This Court in appeal has granted bail on 06.09.1985 and since then the surviving appellants are enlarged on bail. Now the point of concern is whether it would be rightful decision by appellate court to send the accused to serve the remaining sentence after elapse of 41 years.

18. The incident occurred 45 years back. There is nothing on record to show that the accused appellants were habitual criminals. Sending the appellants to jail will not serve the purpose of basic principles of the law of punishment, which in India is not corporeal in nature but reformative in its form. The intention of legislature in considering the act, conduct and behaviour of convict for remission also evinces the same principle.

19. Therefore considering, the dictums of Hon'ble the Supreme Court; the analogy drawn up from the facts of the case; and involvement of the appellants, their role in the occurrence vis-a-vis their age at the time of incident and as on date, this Court is of the view that the judicious and purposeful punishment would be to modify the punishment as below:-

19.1. The sentence awarded to accused appellants Saghir Ahmad son of Faujdar, r/o Village Anwak, P.S.- Rani Ki Sarai, District Azamgarh and Mohammad Iliyas son of Mohammad Idris, r/o Village- Bhelkhara Jamalpur, P.S.- Rani Ki Sarai, District- Azamgarh, is reduced to the period already undergone by them in S.T. No. 616 of 1983 (State Vs. Saghir and another) for offence under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC.

20. The appeal is therefore partly allowed on the point of sentence, which is modified.

21. The appellants are on bail. Their bail bonds and sureties are discharged.

22. Record be returned forthwith as per Rules.

Shiv Lal & Ors Vs. State

From the judgment and order dated 22.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Appellant(s):

Mohan Chandra, P.t.m. chandra

Adv. for Respondent(s):

A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Sri Lalit Prakash, Sri Yashasvi Shukla, learned counsel for the appellants; Sri Purushottam Maurya, learned AGA for State and perused the materials on record including the trial court records.

2. Four accused appellants have filed the instant appeal in the year 1988 but when the matter is taken up for hearing today we are informed that one of them namely Mani @ Mayaram has already died, hence, the appeal has already been abated accordingly. The appeal now survives only at the instance of appellant nos.1,3 and 4. The appellants are aggrieved by the judgment and order dated 6.10.1988, passed by III Additional Sessions Judge, Moradabad in Sessions Trial No.781 of 1986 (State Vs. Shiv Lal & Ors.), arising out of Case Case No.138 of 1986, under Sections 308, 304, 323 IPC, Police Station Asmoli, District Moradabad; whereby they have been convicted and sentenced to one year rigorous imprisonment under Section 323/34 IPC.

3. In this case, the first informant is PW-1, Vijay Pal, who is the son of the deceased Kalua. He submitted a written report (Ex.Ka.1) scribed by Nandram, stating therein that on 12.8.1986, he alongwith his father Kalua (deceased) and daughter Kusum was watering his maize field. All the four accused persons came armed with lathis and asked the deceased Kalua that they would water their field first and when the deceased resisted, the accused persons attacked the deceased with lathis. During rescuing his deceased father, he also sustained injuries. On the basis of this written report, FIR was registered under Section 308, 323 IPC as Case Crime No.138 of 1986 at Police Station Asmoli, District Moradabad.

4. The investigation started, and statements of witnesses were recorded. After investigation, charge sheet was filed under Sections 304, 308, 323 IPC. The Magistrate took cognizance of the case and committed it to the Court of Sessions, where it was registered as Sessions Trial No.781 of 1986 (State of U.P. vs. Shiv Lal & Ors.), arising out of Case Crime No.138 of 1986, under Sections 308, 304, 323 IPC. Charges were framed against the accused persons. They denied the charges and demanded trial.

5. To prove its case, the prosecution produced the following documentary evidence:-

"1. Written Report dated 11.8.1988 (Ex.Ka.1)

2. Postmortem report dated 30.8.1988 (Ex.Ka.2)

3. Chik Report dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.3)

4. G.D. Entries dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.4,5)

5. Site Plan dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.6)

6. Charge-sheet dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.7)

7. Letter RI dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.8)

8. Letter SI for P.M. dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.9,10)

9. Sealed Sample dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.11)

10. Deadbody Photo dated 8.9.1988 (Ex.Ka.12)

11. Deadbody Challan dated 8.9.198 (Ex.Ka.13)

12. Panchayatnama dated 8.9.1988 (Ex. Ka-14)

15. Injury Report dated 8.9.1988 (Ex. Ka-15)"

6. Apart from the documentary evidence, the prosecution also submitted oral evidence. The witnesses examined, Vijay Pal (PW-1), Ganga Saran (PW-2), Nandram (PW-3), Dr. R.D. Gupta (PW-4), S.I. S.N. Sharma (PW-5), in support of the prosecution case.

7. P.W.-1 is the injured witness, who is the son of deceased Kalua. This witness stated in his statement before the court that all the accused persons were having sticks (lathi) in their hands and they caused injuries to him as well as his father.

8. P.W.-2 and P.W.-3 are Ganga Saran and Nandram (brother of deceased Kalua), who were present in their fields which were near the place of occurrence and on hearing commotion they reached at the spot and saw that four accused persons were assaulting the injured and deceased.

9. P.W.-4 is Dr. R.D. Gupta, who proved the ante-mortem injuries and postmortem report of the deceased. This witness stated that age of the deceased was 55 years and the deceased sustained two injuries on his body. This witness opined that injury no.2 may be caused due to falling down.

10. P.W.-5 is S.I. S.N. Sharma, who proved chik FIR and general diary entries as Exs.Ka.3,4,5 and also proved the site plan as Ex.Ka.6 and charge-sheet as Ex.Ka.7.

11. Learned counsel for the appellants without going into the merits of the case, argued only on the point of sentence. Submission is that in the event this Court arrives at a finding of guilt, it is prayed that the accused-appellants be extended the benefit of probation, considering their advance ages.

12. Per contra, learned AGA submits that the trial court has rightly held the accused appellants guilty and awarded rigorous sentence of one year in the present case on the basis of reliable evidence available on record.

13. In this case, four accused persons are said to be involved against whom charge under Sections 304, 323/34 were framed. P.W.-1 and P.W.-2 are witnesses of fact. P.W.-1 is the injured witness, who is the son of deceased Kalua. This witness stated in his statement before the court that all the accused persons were having sticks (lathi) in their hands and they caused injuries to him as well as his father (deceased). P.W.-2 Ganga Saran, who was present in his field which was near the place of occurrence and on hearing commotion, reached at the spot and saw that four accused persons were assaulting the injured and deceased.

14. The trial court opined that statement of PW-1 is reliable and there are no material contradictions in his statement and on the basis of statement of PW-1 and medical evidence convicted the accused persons under Section 323/34 IPC but P.W.-2, who reached on the spot after hearing commotion and saw the accused persons assaulting the injured and deceased with sticks which indicates that the statement of P.W.-2 comes within the category of □res gestae□. If the testimony of P.W.-2 Ganga Saran is accepted to the extent that he saw the accused persons assaulting P.W.-1 and the deceased at the place of occurrence with sticks, then the chain of circumstances clearly points towards the involvement of the accused persons in the commission of the offence. Such conduct is relevant under Section 8 of the Evidence Act, and the contemporaneous utterance of P.W.-2 forms part of the same transaction and is admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act as □res gestae□. Section 6 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is extracted hereinafter:-

"This section incorporates the principle of res gestae, which is a kind of an exception to the rule against hearsay as illustrated in Illustration (a) to this section. The word "hearsay" is used in various senses. Sometimes it means whatever a person is heard to say; sometimes it means whatever a person declares on information given by someone else. There are four illustrations to the section. In the first illustration, A is accused of the murder of B, by beating him. Whatever was said or done by A or B or the bystanders at the beating, or so shortly before or after it as to form part of the transaction, is a relevant fact.

Even a hearsay statement is relevant if it forms a part of the same transaction as the fact-in-issue (occurrence). Unless any fact or statement forms a part of the same transaction, it will not be admissible in evidence. For example, utterances just before, during or immediately after the commission of a crime, spontaneous outbursts of bystander or of accused or victim forming part of the same transaction are admissible."

15. Thus, this Court finds that the statement of PW-2 Ganga Saran is admissible in light of principle of res gestae and admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act, but the trial court has raised doubt on the testimony of PW-2, which is not correct, as per law. Thus, this Court finds no material contractions in the statement of PW-2 also.

16. The trial court opined that no specific role has been assigned regarding the fact that who specially caused injury to the deceased Kalua due to which he died. Four accused persons are said to be involved in this incident and their presence and involvement is not doubted by the trial court on the basis of statement of PW-1. Since specific involvement of accused appellants is specified in terms of Section 34 IPC, the accused appellants should also be held guilty under Section 304 IPC on the basis of very same evidence/material.

17. The principle as enshrined under Section 34 IPC is extracted below:-

"The underlying principle is a well-recognized canon of criminal jurisprudence that the courts cannot distinguish between co-conspirators, nor can they inquire as to the part taken by each in the crime. Where parties go with a common purpose to execute a common object, each and everyone becomes responsible for the acts of each and every other in execution and furtherance of their common purpose; as the purpose is common so must be the responsibility. Section 34 provides that when a criminal act is done by several persons in furtherance of the common intention of all, each of such persons is liable for that act in the same manner as if it were done by him alone. The common intention can be formed at the spur of the moment (eo instanti) The pre-arranged plan need not be elaborate nor is a long interval of time required. It can arise and be formed suddenly in other words there is no rule that common intention pre-supposes prior-consert it can be formed previously or in the course of occurrence and on the spur of the moment. The plan may develop on the spot during the course of commissioning of offence but the plan must preceed that constitute the offence. Common intention is question of fact although it is subjective it may be inferred from the facts and circumstances. For the purpose of common intention it is required □to participate meaning thereby to take part and part in an act may be taken by doing something which advances or hold the common cause or achievement. Beside pre-planning what is required is an element of physical presence at the scene of occurrence coupled with the actual participation which can be a passive character."

18. Furthermore, the principle as enshrined under Section 134 of the Evidence Act is, no particular number of witnesses shall in any case be required for the proof of any fact. How may witnesses are necessary for the proof is wholly left to the court. As a general rule a court can act may act on the testimony of a single witness, though in-corroborated. One credible witness outweighs the number of other witnesses of indifferent character. Admittedly the public are generally reluctant to come forward to depose before the court it is, therefore, not correct to reject the prosecution version only on the ground that all witnesses to the occurrence has not been examined nor is it proper to reject the case for want of corroboration by independent witness. The Apex Court has in number of cases sustained conviction on the basis of testimony of sole witness.

19. The court has erroneously held the accused appellants are guilty of offence under Section 323/34 IPC only, which indicates that the trial court has ignored material evidence and established legal principles of joint liability. The trial court also opined that no enmity was found between the accused appellant and the informant and no chance of false implication. Four injuries are said to be sustained to the injured and the deceased. The deceased died due to one of the grievous injury sustained on his vital part (head). Thus, it appears that the reasons given by the trial court regarding acquittal of accused appellants under Section 304/34 IPC is not legally just and proper on the basis of the facts and circumstances of this case and evidence available on record.

20. The trial court has not doubted the testimony of PW-1 who stated that all the accused persons were involved in offence of culpable homicide of his father Kalua and causing injuries to him and his father also. The presence of all the accused persons at the place of occurrence has not been doubted. The medical evidence also supports the prosecution version regarding injuries sustained by the deceased and injured witness. It also further transpires from the evidence on record that all the accused persons acted conjointly and assaulted the deceased and injured with lathis/stick. Therefore, their liability has been rightly considerd with aid of Section 34 IPC, but trial court has committed gross illegality by way of acquitting the accused persons under Section 304/34 IPC. Thus, the trial court has committed material illegality and has overlooked the evidence and established legal principle.

21. Learned AGA informs that no any criminal appeal/revision etc is pending against impugned order to enhance the punishment or acquittal order passed by the trial court under Section 304/34 IPC.

22. Sections 4 and 5 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958 are reproduced below for ready reference:-

"4. Power of court to release certain offenders on probation of good conduct.- (1) When any person is found guilty of having committed an offence not punishable with death or imprisonment for life and the court by which the person is found guilty is of opinion that, having regard to the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, it is expedient to release him on probation of good conduct, then, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, the court may, instead of sentencing him at once to any punishment direct that he be released on his entering into a bond, with or without sureties, to appear and receive sentence when called upon during such period, not exceeding three years, as the court may direct, and in the meantime to keep the peace and be of good behaviour:

Provided that the court shall not direct such release of an offender unless it is satisfied that the offender or his surety, if any, has a fixed place of abode or regular occupation in the place over which the court exercises jurisdiction or in which the offender is likely to live during the period for which he enters into the bond.

(2) Before making any order under sub-section (1), the court shall take into consideration the report, if any, of the probation officer concerned in relation to the case.

(3) When an order under sub-section (1) is made, the court may, if it is of opinion that in the interests of the offender and of the public it is expedient so to do, in addition pass a supervision order directing that the offender shall remain under the supervision of a probation officer named in the order during such period, not being less than one year, as may be specified therein, and may in such supervision order impose such conditions as it deems necessary for the due supervision of the offender.

(4) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall require the offender, before he is released, to enter into a bond, with or without sureties, to observe the conditions specified in such order and such additional conditions with respect to residence, abstention from intoxicants or any other matter as the court may, having regard to the particular circumstances, consider fit to impose for preventing a repetition of the same offence or a commission of other offences by the offender.

(5) The court making a supervision order under sub-section (3) shall explain to the offender the terms and conditions of the order and shall forthwith furnish one copy of the supervision order to each of the offenders, the sureties, if any, and the probation officer concerned.

5. Power of court to require released offenders to pay compensation and costs.-(1) The court directing the release of an offender under section 3 or section 4, may, if it thinks fit, make at the same time a further order directing him to pay"

(a) such compensation as the court thinks reasonable for loss or injury caused to any person by the commission of the offence; and

(b) such costs of the proceedings as the court thinks reasonable.

(2) The amount ordered to be paid under sub-section (1) may be recovered as a fine in accordance with the provisions of sections 386 and 387 of the Code.

(3) A civil court trying any suit, arising out of the same matter for which the offender is prosecuted, shall take into account any amount paid or recovered as compensation under sub-section (1) in awarding damages."

23. In Sitaram Paswan and Another vs. State of Bihar, (2005) 13 SCC 110, the Apex Court has held as under:

"For exercising the power which is discretionary, the court has to consider the circumstances of the case, the nature of the offence and the character of the offender. While considering the nature of the offence, the court must take a realistic view of the gravity of the offence, the impact which the offence had on the victim. The benefit available to the accused under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act is subject to the limitation embodied in the provisions and the word "may" clearly indicates that the discretion vests with the court whether to release the offender in exercise of the powers under Section 3 or 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, having regard to the nature of the offence and the character of the offender and overall circumstances of the case. The powers under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act vest with the court when any person is found guilty of the offence committed, not punishable with death or imprisonment for life. This power can be exercised by the courts while finding the person guilty and if the court thinks that having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offender, benefit should be extended to the accused, the power can be exercised by the court even at the appellate or revisional stage and also by this Court while hearing the appeal under Article 136 of the Constitution."

24. In Lakhanlal alias Lakhan Singh vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, (2021) 6 SCC 100, the Apex Court held as under:

"10. A three-Judge Bench of this Court in Rattan Lal v. State of Punjab, AIR 1965 SC 444, while examining the provisions of the 1958 Act held that in case the offenders are below 21 years, an injunction is issued to the Court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the 1958 Act but in respect of offenders who were above age of 21 years, the Court has absolute discretion to release such offenders either after admonition or on probation of good conduct. The Court held as under:

"4. The Act is a milestone in the progress of the modern liberal trend of reform in the field of penology. It is the result of the recognition of the doctrine that the object of criminal law is more to reform the individual offender than to punish him. Broadly stated, the Act distinguishes offenders below 21 years of age and those above that age, and offenders who are guilty of having committed an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years, absolute discretion is given to the court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct, subject to the conditions laid down in the appropriate provisions of the Act, in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years an injunction is issued to the court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that, having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the Act."

11. This Court in Jugal Kishore Prasad v. State of Bihar, (1972) 2 SCC 633 explained the rationale of the provision as to prevent the conversion of youthful offenders into obdurate criminals as a result of their association with hardened criminals of mature age in case the youthful offenders are sentenced to undergo imprisonment in jail. The Court held as under:

"6. The Probation of Offenders Act was enacted in 1958 with a view to provide for the release of offenders of certain categories on probation or after due admonition and for matters connected therewith. The object of the Act is to prevent the conversion of youthful offenders into obdurate criminals as a result of their association with hardened criminals of mature age in case the youthful offenders are sentenced to undergo imprisonment in jail. The above object is in consonance with the present trend in the field of penology, according to which effort should be made to bring about correction and reformation of the individual offenders and not to resort to retributive justice. Modern criminal jurisprudence recognises that no one is a born criminal and that a good many crimes are the product of socio-economic milieu. Although not much can be done for hardened criminals, considerable stress has been laid on bringing about reform of young offenders not guilty of very serious offences and of preventing their association with hardened criminals. The Act gives statutory recognition to the above objective. It is, therefore, provided that youthful offenders should not be sent to jail, except in certain circumstances. Before, however, the benefit of the Act can be invoked, it has to be shown that the convicted person even though less than 21 years of age, is not guilty of an offenec punishable with imprisonment for life. This is clear from the language of Section 6 of the Act."

25. In Mohd. Hashim vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others, (2017) 2 SCC 198, the Apex reiterated the exercise of discretionary power of the court under Probation of Offenders Act as under:-

"21. In this regard, it is also seemly to refer to other authorities to highlight how the discretion vested in a court under the PO Act is to be exercised. In Ram Parkash v. State of H.P., (1972) 4 SCC 46, while dealing with Section 4 of the PO Act in the context of the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954, the Court opined that the word "may" used in Section 4 of the PO Act does not mean "must". On the contrary, as has been held in the said authority, it has been made clear in categorical terms that the provisions of the PO Act distinguish offenders below 21 years of age and those above that age and offenders who are guilty of committing an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life and those who are guilty of a lesser offence. Thereafter, the Court has proceeded to observe:

"7.... While in the case of offenders who are above the age of 21 years. absolute discretion is given to the court to release them after admonition or on probation of good conduct in the case of offenders below the age of 21 years an injunction is issued to the Court not to sentence them to imprisonment unless it is satisfied that having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the nature of the offence and the character of the offenders, it is not desirable to deal with them under Sections 3 and 4 of the Act. (Rattan Lal v. State of Punjab, AIR 1965 SC 444 and Ramji Missar v. State of Bihar, AIR 1963 SC 1088.)"

Be it noted, in the said case, keeping in view the offence under the Prevention of Food Adulteration Act, 1954, the Court declined to confer the benefit under Section 4 of the PO Act.

22. We have referred to the aforesaid authority to stress the point that the court before exercising the power under Section 4 of the PO Act has to keep in view the nature of offence and the conditions incorporated under Section 4 of the PO Act. Be it stated in Dalbir Singh v. State of Haryana, (2000) 5 SCC 82, it has been held that Parliament has made it clear that only if the Court forms the opinion that it is expedient to release the convict on probation for the good conduct regard being had to the circumstances of the case and one of the circumstances which cannot be sidelined in forming the said opinion is "the nature of the offence". The Court has further opined that though the discretion has been vested in the court to decide when and how the court should form such opinion, yet the provision itself provides sufficient indication that releasing the convicted person on probation of good conduct must appear to the Court to be expedient. Explaining the word "expedient", the Court held thus:

"9. The word "expedient" had been thoughtfully employed by Parliament in the section so as to mean it as "apt and suitable to the end in view". In Black's Law Dictionary the word "expedient" is defined as "suitable and appropriate for accomplishment of a specified object" besides the other meaning referred to earlier. In State of Gujarat v. Jamnadas G. Pabril, (1975) 1 SCC 138, a two-Judge Bench of this Court has considered the word "expedient". The learned Judges have observed in para 21 thus:

21.... Again, the word "expedient" used in this provision, has several shades of meaning. In one dictionary sense, "expedient" (adj.) means "apt and suitable to the end in view", "practical and efficient": "politic"; "profitable"; "advisable", "fit, proper and suitable to the circumstances of the case". In another shade, it means a device "characterised by mere utility rather than principle, conducive to special advantage rather than to what is universally right" (see Webster's New International Dictionary)'.

10. It was then held that the court must construe the said word in keeping with the context and object of the provision in its widest amplitude. Here the word "expedient" is used in Section 4 of the PO Act in the context of casting a duty on the court to take into account "the circumstances of the case including the nature of the offence...". This means Section 4 can be resorted to when the court considers the circumstances of the case, particularly the nature of the offence, and the court forms its opinion that it is suitable and appropriate for accomplishing a specified object that the offender can be released on probation of good conduct."

26. In Chellammal and Another vs. State represented by the Inspector of Police, 2025 LiveLaw (SC) 461, where the Sessions Judge has acquitted the appellants (mother-in-law and husband) of the charge under Section 304-B IPC but convicted them under Section 498-A, the Apex Court has held as under:-

"Summing up the legal position, it can be said that while an offender cannot seek an order for grant of probation as a matter of right but having noticed the object that the statutory provisions seek to achieve by grant of probation and the several decisions of this Court on the point of applicability of Section 4 of the Probation Act, we hold that, unless applicability is excluded, in a case where the circumstances stated in subsection (1) of Section 4 of the Probation Act are attracted, the court has no discretion to omit from its consideration release of the offender on probation; on the contrary, a mandatory duty is cast upon the court to consider whether the case before it warrants releasing the offender upon fulfilment of the stated circumstances. The question of grant of probation could be decided either way. In the event, the court in its discretion decides to extend the benefit of probation, it may upon considering the report of the probation officer impose such conditions as deemed just and proper. However, if the answer be in the negative, it would only be just and proper for the court to record ord the reasons therefore."

27. At present, the accused-appellants are elderly persons, aged more than 60 years. The appeal has remained pending before this Court since the year 1988. No reliable material has been brought this Court to indicate that they are habitual offenders or they have any criminal antecedents. There is nothing on record to show the misuse of liberty during pendency of this appeal. The possibility of reformation cannot be rule out. Furthermore, learned counsel for the appellants has not assailed the conviction on merits but has confined his argument particularly to the question of sentence and prayed for extending the benefit of probation as provided under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act.

28. Having considered the submissions advanced by the parties and material evidence available on record, this Court is of the considered opinion that the benefit of probation deserves to be extended to the accused-appellants under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958.

29. Thus, in view of the above specific facts and circumstances, it would be just and proper to release the accused-appellants on probation. The appeal is, thus, partly allowed with modification in sentence. The conviction of the appellants under Section 323/34 IPC is hereby affirmed. However, the sentence of one year rigorous imprisonment is set aside.

30. In view of the modification of sentence and release of the appellants on probation, the bail bonds and sureties furnished earlier during trial/appeal shall stand discharged.

31. Let the accused-appellants Shiv Lal, Omkar and Ratibhan be released on probation under Section 4 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, subject to the following conditions:

(i) The accused-appellants shall execute a □fresh□ personal bond in the sum of Rs.50,000/- (Rupees Fifty Thousand) with one surety of the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned for a period of one year with an undertaking that they shall maintain peace and good behaviour and will not involve in any criminal activity.

(ii) Invoking Section 5 of the Probation of Offenders Act, each appellant (Shiv Lal, Omkar and Ratibhan) shall pay compensation of Rs.20,000/- (Rupees Twenty Thousand) to the informant/victim within a period of one month from today. In case of death of injured/victim, the appellants shall pay the same to their legal representatives.

(iii) In the event of breach of any of the aforesaid conditions, the accused-appellants shall be liable to undergo the sentence as awarded by the trial court to serve the original sentence.

32. Trial court shall ensure compliance and seek report from the Probation Officer for supervision.

33. The appellants are directed to appear before the trial court forthwith to furnish the requisite bonds. In case of default, the trial court shall be at liberty to proceed in accordance with law, including issuance of coercive process.

34. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted forthwith to the trial court concerned along with trial court record for compliance.

35. The trial court is directed to submit its compliance report to this Court within two months of the receipt of this order. Furthermore, the registry is also directed to place the compliance report on record.

Criminal Appeal No. 2399 of 1983

Raghuver & Ors. ...Appellants

State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The matter pertains to an appeal against conviction in a murder case. The deceased was allegedly beaten to death with lathis by four accused after the main accused suspected him of informing the police about illicit liquor, resulting in their prosecution u/s 302/34 IPC.

Headnotes

A. Criminal matter-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Penal Code,1860-Sections 302/34-Murder-Common intention- Prior meeting of minds-Death of three appellants during pendency of appeal-Appeal surviving only against accused no. 4-Re-appreciation of evidence-Primary motive attributed to accused no. 1 and his brother due to suspected police informant leak regarding illicit liquor-No motive, prior dispute or family relationship established against the accused no.4-Absence of any explanation as to why accused no. 4 would participate in the commission of the crime on behalf of the primary accused-Medical evidence showing only three head/body injuries-Improbability of four attackers causing only three injuries simultaneously-Discrepancies and contradictions in eye-witness testimonies-Trial court failing to record cogent findings on premeditation or shared common intention-General allegations insufficient to sustain conviction-Presence and participation of surviving appellant held highly doubtful –Relying on Krishna Govind Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra and Constable 907 Surendra singh Vs. State of Uttrakhand, conviction set aside-Surviving appellant acquitted.(Para 14 to 21)

Held

The court ruled that for a conviction u/s 302/34 IPC the prosecution must establish beyond reasonable doubt a prior meeting of minds, a pre-arranged plan or a prior concert. A criminal act must be proved to have been executed in furtherance of that shared common intention, which must precede the act constituting the offence. Vague and general allegations by prosecution witnesses are insufficient to fasten vicarious liability under section 34 IPC, particularly where the trial court fails to record cogent findings regarding premeditation or prior concert. More so, where the eye witnesses allege a simultaneous, joint assault by four accused persons armed with lathis, but the post mortem report reveals only three corresponding injuries on the deceased, such a stark discrepancy heavily undermines the credibility of the prosecution's narrative regarding the collective participation of all accused. (Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri Ajay Kumar Pandey, learned Amicus Curiae for appellants, Sri G.N. Kanaujia, learned AGA-I for State-respondent and perused the trial court record and judgment and order of the trial court.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants Raghuver, Hira, Idal and Chhakki against the judgment and order of the learned Sessions Judge, Lalitpur dated 03.10.1983 passed in Sessions Trial No. 147 of 1982, arising out of crime No. 54 of 1982, Police Station Talbehat, District Lalitpur. By the impugned judgment and order dated 03.10.1983, the learned Trial Court found guilty to accused appellants Raghuver, Hira, Idal and Chhakki under Section 302 read with Section 34 I.P.C., and sentenced to each accused appellant for life imprisonment. Aggrieved by the above judgment and order of conviction and sentence, accused-appellants have preferred this criminal appeal in this Court.

3. Informant Viran-PW-1 has given oral information (suchna jubani) at Police Station Talbehat on 15.06.1982 at 08:45 a.m. in the morning in respect of the incident which happened on 15.06.1982 at about 07:00 a.m. in the morning. According to the oral information of informant Viran-PW-1, that informant Viran was a resident of village Gevra, Police Station Talbehat; name of his father was Laxman. Accused appellants were also residing in the same village, Gevra. According to the informant Viran-PW-1, that on 14.06.1982, one Sub-Inspector of the police station had searched the house of Raghuver accused in connection with the manufacturing of illicit liquor, but after searching the house of Raghuver, police could not find anything. Raghuver suspected the hand of Laxman who had an impression that on the Mukhbiri of Laxman, this search had been made. Due to this reason, Raghuver and his family members felt aggrieved. On the next day, i.e. 15.06.1982 at about 07:00 a.m. my father Laxman had gone to ease himself from his house. After easing himself, he was on the road near his well (kuaan), then at that time, accused-appellant Raghuver, Hira, Idal and Chhakki surrounded Laxman and began to beating and assaulting by laathi. According to the informant Viran PW-1, he and his mother had seen the assaulting of his father Laxman by accused persons. At that time, my mother was at Well (Kuaan); we raised alarm and rushed to the place. Ram Dayal, Ram Prasad, and Tulsi had also reached at the spot and challenged the accused persons. However, after assaulting, accused- persons managed to escape. Laxman was lying unconscious with injuries on his body. The informant rushed to the house of Raja Sahab, who came to the spot and thereafter came his son Mahendra Singh with the tractor. The injured was taken to Thana, but on way, Laxman died.

4. On the basis of the above, oral information (suchna jubani) of informant Viran PW-1, a chik FIR exhibit Ka-1 was registered against the accused persons by Head Constable Jaideo Singh PW-4. The investigation of the case was taken by the Investigating Officer Harnath Singh PW-8. The Investigating Officer Harnath Singh PW-8 prepared panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased Laxman. He also prepared other necessary police papers regarding the Panchayatnama, such as challan lash, photo lash and namuna seal which are from Exhibit Ka-12 to Ka-14, respectively. Thereafter the Investigating Officer handed over the dead body to Constable Lallan-PW-5 and Upendra Singh for autopsy examination by the doctor. He has also inspected the place of occurrence and prepared site plan as Exhibit Ka-15. He also taken blood stained soil and simple soil from the place of occurrence and prepared a recovery memo Exhibit Ka-16. The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the prosecution witnesses including informant Viran PW-1, thereafter this witness Harnath Singh PW-8 was transferred. After transfer of Harnath Singh PW-8, Nandkishore Malla PW-6 had took the investigation of the case and filed a charge-sheet Exhibit Ka-10 on 16.07.1982 against accused-appellants.

5. Dr. H.N. Srivastava, PW-9, who was posted at the District Hospital, Lalitpur at that time, had conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased Laxman on 16.06.1982 and prepared postmortem report Exhibit Ka-20. According to the postmortem report Exhibit Ka-20, following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased Laxman.

"(1) Lacerated wound 2cms x 2cms x 2 inch front of skull, margins lacerated.
(2) Lacerated wound tear 3 cms x 0.2 cm x through and through right upper pinna.
(3) Contusion 2 cms x 2 cms on right elbow.
(4) Contusion 2 cms x 2 cms on right wrist back.
(5) Abrasion 2 cms x 2 cms on right thumb middle part back.
(6) Abrasion 2 cms x 2 cms to 1 cm x 1 cm on front of left leg in area about 6 cms x 6 cms multiple.
(7) Abrasion 2 cms x 1 cm on right ankle outside.
(8) Two contusions 3 cms x 3 cms to 2 cms x 2 cms in middle of back. Red blue.
(9) Traumatic swelling 6 cms x 4 cms on right side back, reddish blue colour.

6. After filing of the charge-sheet against the accused-appellants by Nandkishore Malla PW-6 in concerned Magistrate Court, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

7. Charges were framed against accused-appellants on 22.11.1982 by trial Court under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC. The accused-appellants denied from the charge as levelled against them and claimed for trial.

8. In support of its case, the prosecution adduced informant Viran PW-1, Ram Dayal PW-2, Tulsi PW-3 as witnesses of fact and Jaideo Singh PW-4, Upendra Singh Yadav PW-5, Nand Kishore Malla PW-6, Mahendra Singh PW-7, Harnath Singh PW-8, Dr. H.N. Srivastava, PW-9 as formal witnesses. Apart from the above ocular evidence, the prosecution also relied on documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-20.

9. After recording of the evidence of all prosecution witnesses, both of fact and formal, the trial court examined the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. In their statements under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused-appellants denied from the allegations. They have also stated that they have been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. In their defence, the accused-appellants adduced Rashiya DW-1, Gopal Singh DW-2, and accused-appellant Raghuver DW-3 as defence witnesses.

10. The trial Court has heard arguments of both sides and after hearing the arguments and perusing the evidence as available on the record, found guilty to accused-appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC and convicted them for life imprisonment for the commission of the crime. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 03.10.1983, accused-appellants have preferred this criminal appeal in this Court.

11. It is noteworthy to mention here that appellant Nos. 1 and 2 Raghuver and Hira have died and due to their death, appeal in respect of appellant Nos. 1 and 2 namely Raghuver and Hira has been abated by order dated 16.07.2024. Appellant No.3 Idal has also died and appeal in respect of appellant No.3 Idal has also been abated by order dated 03.04.2026.Thus, accused-appellant No.1 Raghuver, appellant No.2- Hira and appellant No.3 Iddal have died during the pendency of appeal. This appeal, therefore, survives only in respect of accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki, hence we are adjudicating only in respect of surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki.

12. Learned counsel for the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki has submitted that surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki has been falsely implicated in this case. There is no motive of any kind against surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the commission of the crime. It is also submitted that there is no any quarrel, dispute with the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki with deceased Laxman The informant Viran PW-1 falsely and with afterthought named in his jubani information, the name of surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki and other deceased appellants. The prosecution case that four accused-persons have assaulted with laathi at deceased Laxman. It is an established fact that there is only three lacerated wounds on the head of the deceased Laxman, injury Nos.1, 2 and 9 are also on the head of the deceased on the back side. Thus, only three injuries were found on the head of the deceased Laxman in which injury No.9 occipital bone was found broken. It is argued by the learned counsel for surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki that if four persons would attack simultaneously at the deceased Laxman, then there is most possibility that many other injuries would have been caused at the body of the deceased Laxman, but there is only three injuries i.e. injury No.1 and 2 and injury No.9 which are found on the head of the deceased Laxman. These injuries shows that involvement and implication of four persons including surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki was falsely narrated by the prosecution. In this way, it is submitted by the learned counsel for the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki that he has no enmity so as to attack at the deceased Laxman. However, the informant has wrongly and falsely with consideration and afterthought named the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the alleged commission of the crime. It is submitted that the learned trial Court has not considered this major aspect also that there is no evidence on behalf of the prosecution that there was a premeditation, pre-planed and pre-concert, on behalf of the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the commission of the alleged crime. Despite this fact, the trial Court without considering those aspects and without recording any cogent reason in this regard, has given a finding against the evidence as available on the record. The trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in proper perspective and delivered a finding against the evidence and settled principles of the law. Therefore, the appeal of the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki is liable to be allowed and judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed against the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki with the aid of Section 34 IPC are liable to be set aside.

13. Per contra, learned AGA for respondent-State has submitted that all accused-persons including the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki simultaneously attacked with laathi at deceased Laxman and by assaulting with laathi in their hands, they have caused death of the deceased Laxman. There is a strong motive against the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the commission of the alleged crime. The surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki has also equally participated and was present at the scene of the crime. In view of the above facts and evidence of prosecution witnesses of fact, informant Viran PW-1, Ram Dayal PW-2 and Tulsi PW-3, the learned trial Court has delivered a finding against the accused persons including surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the commission of the crime. The trial Court has appreciated the evidence in a proper perspective and there is no illegality and perversity in the finding and reasoning as delivered by the trial Court in the judgment and order dated 03.10.1983. The appeal of the appellants is devoid of merit and hence liable to be rejected.

14. In the light of the above arguments and counter arguments on behalf of the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki and learned AGA for the State, from the perusal of the oral information (suchna jubani) of informant Viran PW-1, we find that before the date of incident on 15.06.1982, local police had raid and searched the house of deceased accused appellant Raghuver in the impression that he was manufacturing illicit liquor in his house. However, the police could not recover any incriminating material including the illicit liquor. According to the suchna jubani, Raghuver and his family suspected that Laxman was the man behind this police raid and search, therefore, in the light of the above facts, only element of enmity is revealed insofar as the deceased accused appellant Raghuver and Hira are concerned, who are real brothers in information jubani, no any cause, reason or motive for the commission of the occurrence has been stated in respect of surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki.

15. From the perusal of the evidence of eye-witness, Viran PW-1son of the deceased Laxman, we find that during the time of recording his evidence in the Court, informant Viran PW-1 has alleged general allegations about all accused-appellants that accused-appellants have had doubt that my father has done mukhibiri , by which police search was made at the house of Raghuver. In his cross-examination, Viran PW-1 has clearly stated that before the incident, there was no any enmity with accused persons and there was also no any mis-happening between them. From the perusal of the evidence of Ram Dayal PW-2, we find that there is no any specific allegation, motive and enmity against the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the commission of the alleged crime. Ram Dayal PW-2 has also made a general allegation against accused-persons that they had came jointly with laathi in their hands and attacked at Laxman. In the same way, next prosecution witness Tulsi PW-3 has also stated about accused-appellants. Tulsi PW-3 also made a general allegation without attributing any motive, reason or cause against surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki for the participation in the crime. During the course of cross-examination, Tulsi PW-3 has stated that I had seen accused appellant No.1-Raghuver, accused-appellant No.2-Hira, accused-appellant No.3-Idal and accused-appellant No.4-Chhakki with laathi going from the back side of the house. How Daroga Ji has written, I could not know the reason for this. The Investigating Officer Harnath Singh PW-8, who investigated the case and recorded the statement of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. has stated in his cross-examination that no witness has told to me that they have seen Raghuver etc. coming out of their house. This witness has also stated that Tulsi had given the statement to me that I had seen Raghuver, Hira, Idal and Chhakki with laathi going from back side of the house.

16. Thus, prosecution witness Tulsi PW-3 is not aware about this fact that whether he had seen or not accused-appellant Raghuver, Hira, Idal and Chhakki with laathi in their hands going from the back side of the house. Meaning thereby, this witness himself is not sure and certain about the above facts.

17. Thus, from the perusal of the evidence of informant Viran PW-1, Ram Dayal PW-2, Tulsi PW-3, we find that only this fact is revealed from the evidence of above prosecution witnesses that enmity was only between deceased Laxman and accused-Raghuver and his brother Hira, because Raghuver suspected that Laxman has given information to the police and police searched his house for illicit liquor. There is no any single fact about any reason, cause or enmity that motivated to surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki to come with laathi in his hands and attack on the body of the deceased Laxman. The accused-appellant Raghuver and Hira were real brothers. However, the surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki is not a family member of accused-appellant Raghuver. From this, it appears that surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki has been falsely implicated in this case without any cause or reason only after consideration and afterthought. It was Raghuver and his family who has doubted about the deceased Laxman that Laxman has informed the local police about making of illicit liquor in his house. However, from the perusal of the evidence of Viran PW-1, Ram Dayal PW-2, Tulsi PW-3, we find that there is no any evidence of this kind on behalf of the prosecution that why surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki would be present and participated in the commission of the crime for accused-appellant Raghuver and his family. The prosecution evidence is silent on this point. The learned trial Court has also not considered this material and major aspect in its discussion and finding when trial Court has held guilty to all accused-appellants with the aid of Section 34 IPC. The learned trial Court only with the aid of Section 34 IPC held guilty of accused-appellants including surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki without discussing and giving any finding in this respect that why surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki would participated in the commission of the alleged crime. Due to this reason, participation by surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki in the commission of the crime appears to be doubtful and shrouded in suspicion.

18. It is settled principle of law that for the conviction of any person under Section 302 IPC with the help of Section 34 IPC, definite and conclusive evidence must be present on the record that accused-appellants have by a premeditation, preplanned and preconcert, along with other accused person for committing the alleged offence. However, we find that in the case at present, there is no any evidence of this kind and nature which could show that there was a premeditation, preplan, preconcert amongst accused-appellants for the commission of the alleged crime. Apart from the above elements, overt act of other accused-persons must be proved by the prosecution in respect of the commission of the crime. The Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil Vs. State of Maharashtra 1963 SCC Online SC 29 has held in respect of Section 34 IPC thus:

"It is well settled that common intention within the meaning of the section implied a pre-arranged plan and the criminal act was done pursuant to the prearranged plan. The said plan may also develop on the spot during the course of the commission of the offence; but the crucial circumstance is that the said plan must precede the act constituting the offence. If that be so, before a court can convict a person under s. 302, read with Section 34 of the Indian Penal Code, it should come to a definite conclusion that .the said person, had a prior concert with one or more other persons, named or unnamed, for committing the said offence."

19. From the perusal of the finding and reasoning as given by learned trial Court in paragraph 12 at page 6 of the judgment, it appears that trial Court has not discussed and considered on this point that whether there was any premeditation, preplan and preconcert of surviving accused-appellant No.4 Chhakki with deceased accused-appellants Raghuver, Hira and Idal for the commission of the crime. The learned trial Court only on the ground of injuries found on the dead body of the deceased Laxman has held that these accused had an intention to kill in furtherance of common intention of all, that they had assaulted Laxman to such an extent that he had lost his life within just an hour and after the incident, when he was being taken to the police station, the intention to kill has been established. Thus, the trial Court has not considered and given any cogent finding about premeditation, preplan and preconcert of surviving accused-appellant Chhakki with deceased-appellant Raghuver, Hira and Idal for the commission of the crime. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Constable 907 Surendra Singh and Another Vs. State of Uttarakhand (2025) 5 SCC 433 has held in paragraph 30 in respect of Section 34 IPC thus:

"By now it is a settled principle of law that for convicting the accused with the aid of Section 34 of the IPC the prosecution must establish prior meetings of minds. It must be established that all the accused had preplanned and shared a common intention to commit the crime with the accused who has actually committed the crime. It must be established that the criminal act has been done in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused."

20. Thus, in the light of the above discussion, we find that the presence and participation of the surviving accused-appellant Chhakki at the place of occurrence and in the commission of the crime is highly doubtful. There is no any evidence of this nature, which could support the reason and causes by which surviving accused-appellant Chhakki would participat in the commission of the alleged crime. The trial Court, on general allegations by the prosecution witnesses, has only on the ground of common intention and in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused persons, held guilty to surviving accused-appellant Chhakki. In our view, this is not sustainable in the eyes of law. Apart from the above facts even in the light of the law as propounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Krishna Govind Patil (supra) and Constable 907 Surendra Singh and Another (supra), we find that premeditation, preplanned, and preconcert could not be proved by the prosecution behind reasonable doubt. In a heinous offence like murder, every ingredient of the law must satisfy the requirements and evidence must be present on the record in this respect. Thus, in the light of the above discussion, we are unable to sustain the judgment and order of the trial Court dated 03.10.1983 in respect of surviving accused-appellant Chhakki. Therefore, we find that the judgment and order dated 03.10.1983 of conviction and sentence as passed by the trial Court is not sustainable and affirmable in respect of surviving accused-appellant Chhakki. Hence, we inclined to set aside the judgment and order of conviction and sentence as passed by the trial Court in respect of surviving accused-appellant Chhakki.

21. The criminal appeal is allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 03.10.1983 of conviction and sentence passed against the surviving accused-appellant, Chhakki, by learned Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 147 of 1982, arising out of Crime No. 54 of 1982, Police Station Talbehat, District Lalitpur. The appellant is acquitted of the charge under Sections 302/34 IPC. The appellant, Chhakki, is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged. However, he shall comply with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

22. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

Issue for consideration

In the present case, The prosecutrix alleged that the appellants committed rape upon her in an orchard and robbed her silver ornaments, leading to their conviction u/s 376 IPC, which was challenged in appeal.

Headnotes

A. Criminal matter-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-374(2) –Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 376-Rape-Appreciation of evidence-FIR-Material omissions-Contradictions and improvements-Medical evidence-Absence of injuries-Non-recording of statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C.-Identification of Accused doubtful-Independent witnesses not examined and sole supporting witness found to be hearsay-Conviction unsustainable-Trial court ignored material inconsistencies and omissions in prosecution evidence-Prosecution failed to prove guilt beyond reasonable doubt-Appeal allowed.(Para 17 to 32)

Held

The court held that absence of any allegation of rape in the FIR, coupled with non-recording of the prosecutrix's statement u/s 164 CrPC and lack of medical corroboration created serious doubt regarding the prosecution case, entitling the accused to acquittal. (E-6)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Santosh Rai, J.)

1. Heard Shri Ajay Kumar Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Shri Vibhav Anand Singh, learned AGA for the State.

2. The present appeal is preferred under Section 374 of Cr.P.C. by the accused-appellants Tosif (died) and Badullah to set aside the judgment and order dated 17.10.1988 passed by 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut in Sessions Trial No.383 of 1984 under Section 376 IPC, Police Station- Kithore, District- Meerut, whereby both the appellants were convicted under Section 376 IPC and sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for a period of seven years.

3. Tersely, the prosecution case, in brief, is that on 21.06.1984 at about 2:00 P.M., the accused Tosif and Badulla, residents of Village Shahjahanpur, P.S.- Kithore, District- Meerut, allegedly came to an orchard situated within the limits of the said village and committed rape upon Smt. Rajendri, wife of Suraj Aheri. It is further alleged that the accused persons robbed one hansali, one pair of khandwe, and silver payjeb belonging to the complainant, and upon her resistance, assaulted her and threatened her with dire consequences in case she reported the incident. Thereafter, the complainant went to the police station along with her father-in-law, but her report was not lodged. Subsequently, on 22.06.1984, she submitted a written complaint to the S.S.P., Meerut, upon which an order for investigation was passed. After investigation, S.I. Lal Singh Harit submitted charge-sheet against the accused Tosif and Badulla (Ext. Ka. 5).

4. The 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut, after perusal of the case diary and other relevant papers, framed the charge against the accused-appellants under Section 376 IPC on 02.07.1986. The prosecution examined Smt. Rajendri, the complainant as P.W.-1, Km. Suresh as P.W.-2, H.C. Rajendra Singh as P.W.-3, S.I. Lal Singh Harit as P.W.-4 and Dr. Vidhu Lata Tiwari as P.W.-5. Accused persons produced no defence witness.

5. P.W.-1, Rajendri (the complainant), duly proved the written complaint (Ext. Ka-1). P.W.-3, H.C. Rajendra Singh proved the chik report (Ext. Ka-2) and the copy of the General Diary No.32 (Ext. Ka-3). The Investigating Officer, P.W.-4 S.I. Lal Singh Harit, proved the site plan (Ext. Ka-4) and the chargesheet (Ext. Ka-5) and P.W.-5 Dr. Vidhu Lata Tiwari proved the medical report (Ext. Ka-6).

6. The accused-appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein they denied the prosecution allegations and further stated that they have been falsely implicated in this case due to previous rivalry.

7. P.W.-1 Smt. Rajendri stated briefly that about four years prior to her deposition, at about 2:00 P.M., she was alone in the orchard situated on Shahjahanpur Dhalwala Road as her husband and father-in-law had gone to Moradabad for selling fruits. Accused Tosif and Badulla came there and committed rape upon her one after another. Meanwhile, her mother-in-law and sister-in-law arrived at the spot, upon which the accused persons fled away after robbing her Hansli, Khandwa and Payjeb and also extended threats of dire consequences. She informed her husband and father-in-law about the occurrence on their return. She further stated that though, she went to the police station, her report was not lodged, whereafter she approached the S.S.P., Meerut by submitting an application. She was medically examined and her statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer.

8. P.W.-2 Km. Suresh stated briefly that about four years prior, at about 2:00 P.M., when her father and brother had gone out in connection with selling fruits, she along with her mother went to the orchard where her Bhabhi Smt. Rajendri was present. On reaching there, she heard noise and saw accused Tosif committing rape upon Smt. Rajendri, while accused Badulla was also present nearby. On their raising alarm, the accused persons fled away carrying the Payjeb, Khandwa and Hansli of Smt. Rajendri.

9. P.W.-3 Head Constable Rajendra Singh stated briefly that on 23.06.1984 he was posted as Head Moharrir at Police Station Kithore. He received an application of Smt. Rajendri forwarded by the S.S.P., Meerut with directions to register the case. On the basis of the said application, he registered the case at Crime No. 187 and prepared the chik F.I.R. in his handwriting and signature, which was marked as Ext. Ka-2. He also prepared the General Diary entry, marked as Ext. Ka-3.

10. P.W.-4 S.I. Lal Singh stated briefly that he investigated the case, recorded the statements of witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan Ext. Ka-4. On the basis of statements of witnesses, he converted the case under Sections 376/506 I.P.C. He received the medical report on 26.06.1984 and arrested accused Badulla on 27.06.1984. After completion of investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet Ext. Ka-5 against the accused persons.

11. P.W.-5 Dr. Vidhu Lata Tiwari, Medical Officer, Women Hospital, Meerut, stated briefly that on 26.06.1984, she medically examined Smt. Rajendri wife of Suraj. On examination, she found her teeth 15□15, height about 5 feet and weight about 90 pounds. Breasts, axillary hair and pubic hair were well developed. On vaginal examination, old healed tears were present in the hymen and the vagina admitted two fingers easily. No internal or external injury was found on any part of the body. Vaginal smear was taken for examination and X-ray of wrist, knee and elbow joints was advised. In her opinion, the victim was habituated to sexual intercourse and no definite opinion regarding rape could be given.

12. In brief the grounds of appeal are that the conviction and sentence awarded to the appellants are against the weight of evidence on record, and upon a proper appreciation of the evidence available on record, the appellants are entitled to acquittal. In any case, the sentence awarded is too severe.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the allegation against the accused-appellant committing rape along with the co-accused Tosif, who has already died during the pendency of the present appeal, is not reliable. He further submits that the FIR was lodged at belated stage and no plausible explanation for the delay was furnished by the prosecution. As per the allegations contained in the FIR, the accused-appellant Badulla and co-accused Tauseef committed the offences of loot and outraged the modesty of the victim/informant, Rajendri. Accordingly, the first information report was registered under Sections 354, 394 and 506 IPC, whereas the charge-sheet was ultimately submitted under Section 376 IPC. Thus, according to the learned counsel, the Investigating Officer found no reliable material or evidence regarding the commission of loot or intimidation causing death to the victim and her family members.

14. It is further submitted that the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was not recorded before the concerned Magistrate. Furthermore, there are material contradictions and improvements in the statements of the victim. The Investigating Officer also committed gross illegality and material irregularity during the course of investigation. The medical report does not corroborate the version of the victim, who was examined as PW-1 before the trial court. During medical examination, no external or internal injuries were found on the person of the victim, which creates a reasonable doubt regarding the prosecution case that the accused-appellants Badulla and Tauseef committed rape upon the victim and looted certain ornaments from her possession. The Investigating Officer neither recovered nor collected the alleged looted ornaments mentioned in the FIR. It is, therefore, submitted that due to previous enmity and on the basis of irrelevant material, the charge-sheet was filed before the trial court. The trial court also failed to consider the material contradictions in the statements of the victim and other prosecution witnesses, and consequently held the accused-appellants Badulla and Tauseef guilty under Section 376 IPC merely on the basis of conjectures and surmises.

15. Learned AGA vehemently opposed the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and contended that the accused-appellants were involved in the commission of rape upon the victim. Admittedly, the statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was not recorded before the Magistrate, however, the same is merely an omission and the prosecution case cannot be doubted on this sole ground. It is further submitted that the prosecution case cannot be discarded merely because minor contradictions exist in the statements of the prosecution witnesses. Where witnesses are examined after a long lapse of time, minor discrepancies may naturally occur due to human error.

16. In light of the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellant and the learned AGA, we have perused the material evidence available on record and have also perused the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court dated 17.10.1988.

17. A typed written tehrir (Ex. Ka-1) was submitted before the S.S.P., Meerut, on 22.08.1984. The said tehrir was submitted by the victim, Rajenderi, herself, and the first information report (Ex. Ka-2) was registered on the basis of the said written tehrir. Both the formal papers were proved by the informant (PW-1) and the formal witness (PW-3). In the tehrir and the first information report, there is no allegation of rape against the accused-appellants. The allegations, as mentioned in the tehrir and the first information report, are that the accused persons, Tosif and Badulla, committed □insult□ and further looted the □silver ornaments□ of the victim. On the basis of the said allegations, the first information report was registered under Sections 354, 394 and 506 IPC at Police Station- Kithore, District- Meerut. However, in Column No. 3 of the FIR, Section 506 IPC is missing, and only Sections 354 and 394 IPC have been mentioned therein. The FIR was lodged on 23.06.1984, i.e., after two days of the alleged incident.

18. In the FIR, no specific allegation has been made regarding causing injuries by the accused-appellants. After registration of the FIR, the site plan was prepared by the Investigating Officer, who was further examined before the trial court. In the site plan, two witnesses, namely the mother-in-law and sister-in-law of the victim Rajenderi, have been shown at sign □B□, which is situated at a short distance from sign □A□. Sign □A□ has been shown as the place of occurrence, which indicates that the mother-in-law and sister-in-law of the victim were also present near the spot i.e., in the same orchard. The time of the incident is alleged to be about 2:00 p.m. Though, victim, in her statement before the trial court at page no. 4, stated that about 10 to 20 persons, including her brother-in-law and others, were present near the place of occurrence but according to her statement, only the mother-in-law and sister-in-law rushed towards the spot when one of the accused, Tosif, was clinging to the victim. After seeing the witnesses, namely the mother-in-law and sister-in-law of the victim, the accused persons fled away from the spot. In the statement of the victim, it has nowhere been stated that the accused-appellant, Badulla, was clinging to or committing rape upon the victim when her mother-in-law and sister-in-law reached the place of occurrence. As per the broad version of the prosecution story, one of the accused, Tosif, was committing rape upon the victim when the witnesses rushed towards the place of occurrence, whereupon the accused persons fled away, whereas the witnesses were also present near the place of ocurrence, in the same orchard. Out of the two witnesses, only one witness, namely PW-2 Kumari Suresh, who is the sister-in-law of the victim, was examined by the prosecution. She stated in her deposition that she was not familiar with the accused-appellants. She further stated that the names of the accused-appellants were disclosed to her by some other person, which clearly indicates that the statement of PW-2 is based upon information received from another person. Thus, her testimony falls within the category of □hearsay evidence□, which is neither reliable nor admissible in evidence.

19. In the tehrir and first information report, it has also been alleged that the accused-appellants looted silver ornaments from the possession of the victim. The victim, PW-1 Rajendri, has also stated that the accused-appellants committed rape upon her and also snatched her silver ornaments and fled away. However, the Investigating Officer, PW-4, who was examined before the trial court, stated that the alleged looted items were not recovered from the possession of the accused persons and that all the said items were found lying near the place of occurrence. That is why no recovery memo, etc., was prepared with regard to the alleged looted articles. Admittedly, the accused-appellant Badulla was arrested soon after the incident and, as per the memo, no incriminating article was recovered from his possession, whereas the recovery memo has not been formally proved before the trial court in accordance with law, a copy thereof is available on the record, and the said fact has been clearly mentioned in G.D. No. 24/18:50 hours dated 26.06.1984. It has also been clearly mentioned therein that no incriminating article was recovered from the possession of the accused-appellant, Badulla. Thus, as per the recovery memo, the date of arrest/recovery has been mentioned as 26.06.1984, whereas the Investigating Officer has stated in his deposition that the accused-appellant was arrested on 27.06.1984. The same appears to be a material contradiction in the statement of the Investigating Officer and the preparation of the recovery memo.

20. In the FIR, no specific allegation has been made regarding causing injuries by the accused-appellants. The victim, who has been examined as PW-1 before the trial court, stated in her deposition that the accused-appellants caused injuries to her and also looted her silver ornaments. She further stated in her deposition before the trial court, at page no. 4, that the accused-appellants caused injuries to her, due to which she became unconscious. She further stated that the accused-appellant had bitten her on the cheek and had stuffed a cloth into her mouth. However, PW-5 Dr. Vidhu, who was examined as an expert witness, stated that no external or internal injury was found on the body of the victim. She proved the injury report (Ext. Ka-6). It has been clearly mentioned in the injury report that hymen torn old healed tears present. Vagina admits two fingers easily. There is no internal or external injury seen on any part of the body. In my opinion, she is used to sexual intercourse, so no opinion about rape can be given. Admittedly, the injury report was prepared on 26.06.1984, and no external or internal injuries were noted by the doctor. Thus, the statement of the victim that the two accused persons had assaulted her and bitten her on the cheek and caused injuries is not corroborated by the medical evidence available on record. Consequently, there exists a material contradiction between the statement of the victim and the medical evidence.

21. PW-1 is the victim as well as the main witness of the alleged incident. In her examination-in-chief, she stated that she was previously acquainted with the accused-appellants and that they had committed rape upon her. However, during the course of cross-examination, she stated that she was not acquainted with the accused-appellants earlier. She further stated that she had seen the accused-appellants for the first time at the place of occurrence, therefore, identification of accused persons on the spot by the victim is also appears to be doubtful. Admittedly, the victim alleged that the accused-appellants had looted her ornaments, however, the said allegation has not been corroborated by the statement of the Investigating Officer. No incriminating/looted article was said to be recovered from the possession of the accused-appellant.

22. The injuries alleged in the present case as stated by the victim is not reliable. Admittedly, the injuries alleged to have been caused by the accused-appellants upon the victim are not corroborated by the relevant medical evidence available on record. That appears to be the reason why the Investigating Officer exonerated the offence under Section 394 IPC or Section 323/324 IPC.

23. Admittedly, the place of occurrence is an open place, namely an orchard. In the North and East direction of the place of occurrence, the orchards of Khurshid Alam and Hafeez respectively are clearly shown, whereas in the southern direction, field of sugercane of Sahid Akhtar is shown. The victim has stated in her deposition that about 10 to 20 persons were present near the place of occurrence, however, none of them rushed towards the spot. She further stated that the accused-appellants had stuffed a cloth into her mouth, due to which she was unable to speak. She also stated that, owing to fear of the accused-appellants, she did not raise any alarm. However, she again stated that when she raised an alarm, upon hearing the hue and cry, her mother-in-law and sister-in-law reached the spot. Thus, the victim has made contradictory statements in her deposition in this regard.

24. So far as the allegation regarding commission of rape is concerned, no specific statement or averment in that regard is available in the FIR or the tehrir whereas the FIR was registered by the victim herself. In her statement before the trial court, the victim stated that the accused-appellants had committed rape upon her and had inserted their private part into her private. Admittedly, no statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded during the course of investigation. It is also a material omission on the part of the Investigating Officer that the statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was not recorded, and no plausible explanation in this regard has been furnished by the prosecution. Meaning thereby, for the first time before the trial court, the victim stated that the accused-appellants had committed rape upon her.

25. In the case of Tahsildar Singh and Another vs. State of U.P., AIR 1959 SC 1012, the Apex Court has held that only those omissions in the statement of a prosecution witness made before the police can be used for the purpose of contradiction, which by necessary implication may be deemed to have been included in the expressly recorded statement. No other omissions can be permitted to be used as contradictions. The omissions must be in regard to the important features of the incident in the statement made before the police. Thus, every omission does not amount to a contradiction unless such omission vitally touches the very factum required to be proved by the prosecution. In the case at hand, the prosecutrix herself registered the FIR before the police station and did not level any allegation against the accused-appellant regarding the commission of rape with her, but simply alleged commission of □insult□. Further, the FIR was registered after three days of the incident. In view of the above, it appears that the same is nothing but a material □improvement□ and it vitally creates doubt upon the statement of prosecutrix recorded before the trial court.

26. On the facts and circumstances of the case, and in view of the submissions and statements of the victim before the trial court, it clearly appears the material contradictions and improvements in the statements of prosecution witnesses.

27. In the case of Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade and Another vs. State of Maharashtra, (1973) 2 SCC 793, the Apex Court has held as under:

"6. Even at this stage we may remind ourselves of necessary social perspective in criminal cases which suffers from insufficient forensic appreciation. The dangers of exaggerated devotion to the rule of benefit of doubt at the expense of social defence and to the soothing sentiment that all acquittals are always good regardless of justice to the victim and the community, demand especial emphasis in the contemporary context of escalating crime and escape. The judicial instrument has a public accountability. The cherished principles or golden thread of proof beyond reasonable doubt which runs thro' the web of our law should not be stretched morbidly to embrace every hunch, hesitancy and degree of doubt. The excessive solicitude reflected in the attitude that a thousand guilty men may go but one innocent martyr shall not suffer is a false dilemma. Only reasonable doubts belong to the accused. Otherwise any practical system of justice will then break down and lose credibility with the community. The evil of acquitting a guilty person light heartedly as a learned author has sapiently observed, goes nauch beyond the simple fact that just one guilty person has gone unpunished. If unmerited acquittals become general, they tend to lead to a cynical disregard of the law, and this in turn leads to a public demand for harsher legal presumptions against indicted 'persons' and more severe punishment of those who are found guilty. Thus, too frequent acquittals of the guilty may lead to a ferocious penal law, eventually eroding the judicial protection of the guiltless. For all these reasons it is true to say, with Viscount Simon, that "a miscarriage of justice may arise from the acquittal of the guilty no less than from the conviction of the innocent.... In short, our jurisprudential enthusiasm for presumed innocence must be moderated by the pragmatic need to make criminal justice potent and realistic. A balance has to be struck between chasing chance possibilities as good enough to set the delinquent free and chopping the logic of preponderant probability to punish marginal innocents. We have adopted these cautions in analysing the evidence and appraising the soundness of the contrary conclusions reached by the Courts below. Certainly, in the last analysis reasonable doubts must operate to the advantage of the appellant. In India the law has been laid down on these lines long ago."

28. In the case of The State of Punjab vs. Jagir Singh, Baljit Singh and Karam, (1974) 3 SCC 277, the Apex Court has held as under:

"A criminal trial is not like a fairy tale wherein one is free to give flight to one's imagination and phantasy. It concerns itself with the question which he is charged. Crime is an event in real life and is the product of as to whether the accused arraigned at the trial is guilty of the crime with interplay of different human emotions. In arriving at the conclusion about the guilt of the accused charged with the commission of a crime, the court has to judge the evidence by the yardstick of probabilities, its intrinsic worth and the animus of witnesses. Every case in the final analysis would have to depend upon its own facts. Although the benefit of every reasonable doubt should be given to the accused, the courts should not at the same time reject evidence which is ex facie trustworthy on grounds which are fanciful or in the nature of conjectures."

29. In the case of Yogesh Singh vs. Mahabeer Singh and Others, (2017) 11 SCC 195, the Apex Court has held as under:

"15. It is a cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the guilt of the accused must be proved beyond all reasonable doubts. However, the burden on the prosecution is only to establish its case beyond all reasonable doubt and not all doubts. Here, it is worthwhile to reproduce the observations made by Venkatachaliah, J. in State of U.P. v. Krishna Gopal, (1988) 4 SCC 302:

"25... Doubts would be called reasonable if they are free from a zest for abstract speculation. Law cannot afford any favourite other than truth. To constitute reasonable doubt, it must be free from an overemotional response. Doubts must be actual and substantial doubts as to the guilt of the accused person arising from the evidence, or from the lack of it, as opposed to mere vague apprehensions. A reasonable doubt is not an imaginary, trivial or a merely possible doubt; but a fair doubt based upon reason and common sense. It must grow out of the evidence in the case.

26. The concept of probability, and the degrees of it, cannot obviously g be expressed in terms of units to be mathematically enumerated as to how many of such units constitute proof beyond reasonable doubt. There is an unmistakable subjective element in the evaluation of the degrees of probability and the quantum of proof. Forensic probability must, in the last analysis, rest on a robust common sense and, ultimately on the trained intuitions of the Judge. While the protection given by the criminal process to the accused persons is not to be eroded, at the same time, uninformed legitimisation of trivialities would make a mockery of administration of criminal justice."

16. Another golden thread which runs through the web of the administration of justice in criminal cases is that if two views are possible on the evidence adduced in the case, one pointing to the guilt of the accused and the other to his innocence, the view which is favourable to the accused should be adopted. (Vide Kali Ram v. State of H.P., (1973) 2 SCC 808, State of Rajasthan v. Raja Ram, (2003) 8 SCC 180, Chandrappa v. State of Karnataka, (2007) 4 SCC 415, Upendra Pradhan v. State of Orissa, (2015) 11 SCC 124 and Golbar Hussain v. State of Assam, (2015) 11 SCC 242)"

30. Admittedly, the victim was not previously acquainted with the accused-appellants, which clearly indicates that she had seen the accused-appellants for the first time at the place of occurrence. How the victim identified the accused-appellants is not clear from the evidence available on record. It appears that she made statements regarding the identification and involvement of the accused-appellants on the basis of information or suggestions given by others. PW-2 also stated in her deposition that she was not familiar with the accused-appellants earlier. Admittedly, about 10 to 20 independent persons were present near the place of occurrence, however, no independent and reliable witness has been examined by the prosecution to substantiate the allegation of rape against the accused-appellants. PW-2 is an interested witness, and her deposition is based upon □hearsay□ evidence. Though PW-1 is the victim of the case, material contradictions and improvements are available in her testimony regarding the causing of injuries, commission of loot, commission of rape, raising of alarm, identification of the accused-appellants on spot, and her prior unfamiliarity with the accused-appellants, etc.

31. Thus, under the totality of the facts and circumstances of the case and evidence available on the record, it appears that the learned trial court did not properly exercise judicial discretion while appreciating the evidence available on record. The learned trial court has ignored the material contradictions, improvements and omissions appearing in the statements of the prosecution witnesses, including the victim. It appears that the trial court has held the accused-appellants guilty merely on the basis of conjectures and surmises. Thus, the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial court suffers from illegality and is liable to be set aside.

32. Thus, in view of the above observations, the appeal is allowed. The impugned judgement and order dated 17.10.1988 passed by 5th Additional Sessions Judge, Meerut whereby the appellant has been convicted and sentenced as above, is hereby set aside. The appellant is acquitted of the charges levelled against him.

33. The appellant is on bail. He need not surrender. The bail bonds and sureties furnished earlier during trial/appeal shall stand discharged.

34. Office is directed to send the trial court record back to the court concerned within 15 days from today.

THE HON'BLE MADAN PAL SINGH, J.

Kapil Som & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

The present appeal concerns the legality of criminal prosecution based on an alleged false promise of marriage, consensual relationship, and invocation of the SC/ST Act.

Headnotes

A. Criminal matter-Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989-Section 14A(1), 3(1)(r), 3(1)(s) & 3 (2)(v)-Bhartiya Nyaya Sanhita,2023-Sections 352, 351(2), 69-False promise of marriage-Consent-Quashing of Proceedings-Mere refusal or failure to marry, in the absence of evidence that the promise was false from the very inception and made solely to obtain consent for sexual intercourse, does not constitute the offence of rape-Section 69 BNS was held inapplicable retrospectively-the ingredients of the SC/ST Act were also not established- Appeal Allowed.(Para 11 to 34)

The court held that a prolonged consensual relationship without protest or insistence on marriage generally negates the allegation that consent was obtained by deception. Section 69 of the BNS,2023 operates prospectively and cannot be applied to acts committed before 1 july 2024. (E-6)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellants and the learned A.G.A. for the State. Despite the fact that notice has been served as per the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the State, no one appeared for opposite party no.2.

2. By means of the present criminal appeal under Section 14A(1) of the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, 1989, the appellants have prayed for quashing of the order dated 5th July, 2025 passed by the Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Moradabad in Special Sessions Trial No. 1283 of 2025 (State Vs. Kapil Som & Another) arising out of Case Crime No. 29 of 2025, under Sections 352, 351 (2) 69 B.N.S. and Sections 3 (1) (r), 3 (1) (s) and Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act Police Station-Mahila Thana, District-Moradabad as well as further proceedings of above mentioned criminal case.

3. Brief facts are that a first information report has been lodged by opposite party no.2 (prosecutrix herein) against the appellants along with four named persons on 1st May, 2025 at 18:35 hrs. which has been registered as Case Crime No. 29 of 2025, under Sections 352, 351 (2) 69 B.N.S. and Sections 3 (1) (r), 3 (1) (s) and Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act Police Station-Mahila Thana, District-Moradabad. In the first information report, it has been alleged by the prosecutrix that about 3 years ago, accepting the fraud request of Kapil Som (appellant no.1 herein) on the prosecutrix's Insta ID, started talking to appellant no.1 and one day appellant no.1 told the prosecutrix that he likes her as she is very beautiful and he wants to meet her and also talk about their marriage after coming to Moradabad, on this, the prosecutrix said to appellant no.1 to come to her sister house, namely, Kamlesh siutated in Kanshi Ram Yojana, where everything will be discussed. Appellant no.1 came to the house of the sister of the prosecutrix and proposed to come to Meerut along with him, where they will get married. Believing the words so given by appellant no.1, the prosecutrix went to Meerut and appellant no. 1 had physical relations with her against her will several times in his house even before marriage. On the pressure of the prosecutrix, appellant no.1, lying to the prosecutrix, his father i.e. appellant no.2 and relative of appellant no.1 took her to Meerut court and made her sign on a stamp on 1st October, 2022 and said that now her marriage with appellant no.1 has been registered and they both will live as husband and wife. After some time, in December, 2023, appellant no.1 left the prosecutrix at Moradabad Zero Point and ran away. The prosecutrix complained about the same to the Senior Superintendent of Police, upon which appellant and his father (appellant no.2) took her back to Meerut. Taking the prosecutrix to their house at Meerut, appellant no.2 found the prosecutrix alone and raped her several times in the room. When the prosecutrix complained about the same to appellant no.1, he abused her by indicating as "Chamariya" and said that he did not marry her as it is their business. After trapping girls like the prosecutrix, the appellants take away their money and they also use them. Appellant no.1 allegedly swindled approximately 2 to 2.5 lakhs rupees from the prosecutrix as cash and online. Last year, when the prosecutrix informed her family about the same her family members arrived at the house of appellant no.1 to take her back, appellant nos. 1 and 2, sisters of appellant no.2, namely, Vishakha, Preeti, Monica, and brother Rahul, all of them, abused the prosecutrix and her family members and threatened to kill her and said them to get out from their house as they have no relationship with her. Thereafter the appellants and their relatives threw the prosecutrix out from their house. After registration of the said first information report, the investigation was proceeded. After completion of investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the appellants on which cognizance was taken and summoning order of appellants was also passed by means of the order impugned. Hence the present criminal appeal.

4. Learned counsel for the appellants submits that as per the prosecution, the alleged incident started from 1st October, 2022 but the first information report was lodged by the prosecutrix on 1st May, 2025 at 18:35 hours i.e. after two years and eight months for which no plausible explanation has been given and the same appears that the said first information report is an afterthought. He then submits that admittedly the prosecutrix came in the contact of appellant no.1 and she herself joined the company of appellant no.1 on her own sweet and free will. On 1st October, 2022 admittedly the prosecutrix entered into marriage agreement and she would started living with appellant no.1 as her wife on her sweet will. The prosecutrix remained in the company of appellant no.1 for more than one year without any protest or raising any alarm. As per her own version as unfolded in the first information report and her statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., she paid handsome amount to appellant no.1 on her own free will.

5. It is then submitted that the appellants are innocent, as the allegations made in the first information report implicating the appellants along with other accused are false and fabricated. The first information report lodged by opposite party no.2 is nothing but a bundle of lie and the same has been lodged only for exploiting the appellants by indulging their names in a fake, false and frivolous case. The entire prosecution story as unfolded in the first information report is absolutely a self-made story projected by opposite party no.2. The relation between the appellant no.1 and the informant is consensual in nature. There is no independent witness, who came forward to support the prosecution version. The allegation made against appellant no.2 who is none other than the father of appellant no.1, is only exerted pressure upon appellants in order to complete the ulterior motive of opposite party no.2.

6. It is next submitted that the allegation made by opposite party no.2 against the appellants does not constitute the offence under Section U/s, 352, 351 (2), 69 B. N. S. 2023 and U/s 3 (1) (r), 3 (1) (s), 3 (2) (v) of The Schedule Caste and Schedule Tribes (Prevention Of Atrocities) Act 1989 in view of the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court rendered in the case of Sheikh Arif versus The State of Maharashtra and Another passed in Criminal Appeal No. 1368 of 2023 as well as in the case of Naim Ahmad versus The State (NCLT Delhi) passed Criminal Appeal No. 257 of 2023.

7. It is also submitted that a bare perusal of the FIR shows no allegations constituting the offences under the SC/ST Act against the appellant. No incriminating evidence was produced before the Investigating Officer to substantiate the claim that the victim was exploited by the appellant on a false promise of marriage. Notably, neither the FIR nor the victim's statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and 164 Cr.P.C. disclose the duration of the relationship between the appellant and the victim. It merely levels a bald allegation of exploitation on the pretext of false marriage. She alleged that when she asked the appellant to solemnize the marriage, he replied that he did not marry her as it is their business to trap girls like prosecution and to take away their money and they also use them. Appellant no.1 allegedly swindled approximately 2 to 2.5 lakhs rupees from the prosecutrix as cash and online.

8. Learned counsel for the appellant further submits that in her statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., the victim/prosecutrix/opposite party no.2 herself has admitted that she is 24 years old and have studied till class 12 i.e. a major capable of understanding the consequences of her actions. The contents of the FIR, read with the victim's statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., clearly indicate that even assuming the prosecution's allegations to be true, the relationship was consensual. The omission to specify particulars of any promise of marriage by the appellant gives rise to a presumption that no such promise was made. Mere allegation of rape based on a pretext of marriage is insufficient unless the prosecution proves that the victim consented to the sexual relationship relying on such a promise. Absent substantiation of this material fact, the allegation of rape cannot stand. Thus, the entire proceedings against the appellant are liable to be quashed.

9. Learned A.G.A. for the State has opposed the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellants by contending that the victim's statement clearly shows that she was deceived by the appellant, who promised marriage to satisfy his lust. She stated that when she pressed for marriage, the appellant refused, citing their different castes as the reason. The appellant no.1 established physical relations with her repeatedly on the pretext of marriage but later refused to marry. The victim's statement is cogent, clear, and consistent, establishing the guilt of the accused-appellants. Since there is no illegality or infirmity in the order impugned, hence, this criminal appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

10. I have considered the facts and circumstances of the case, the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the appellants and learned A.G.A. for the State and also perused the material available on the record.

11. Before entering into the facts of this case, it would be proper to examine the difference between false promise of marriage to induce a woman to obtain her consent for physical relationship and breach of promise to marry. Sexual relationship amounts to rape if it is obtained without consent of women. What amounts to "consent" as mentioned in Section 375 IPC is defined in Section 90 IPC.

Section 90 of I.P.C. defines consent known to be given under fear or misconception:-

"90. Consent known to be given under fear or misconception.- A consent is not such a consent as intended by any section of this Code, if the consent is given by a person under fear of injury or under a misconception of fact, and if the person doing the act knows, or has reason to believe, that the consent was given in consequence of such fear or misconception; or Consent of insane person.- if the consent is given by a person who, from unsoundness of mind or intoxication, is unable to understand the nature of the consequence of that to which he gives his consent; or Consent of child.- unless the contrary appears from the context, if the consent is given by a person who is under 12 years of age."

12. Reading the definition of "consent" (Section 90 IPC) with the definition of "rape" (Section 375), it becomes manifest consent of women is vitiated if she is convinced to engage in sexual relationship with accused who induces her with false promise to marry.

13. The Supreme Court in Pramod Suryabhan Pawar vs The State Of Maharashtra, reported in AIR 2019 S C 4010, while dealing with a similar situation, enunciated principles of law by following observations:-

"Where the promise to marry is false and the intention of the maker at the time of making the promise itself was not to abide by it but to deceive the woman to convince her to engage in sexual relations, there is a "misconception of fact" that vitiates the woman's "consent". On the other hand, a breach of a promise cannot be said to be a false promise. To establish a false promise, the maker of the promise should have had no intention of upholding his word at the time of giving it"

The Supreme Court was further observed:

"To summarise the legal position that emerges from the above cases, the "consent" of a woman with respect to Section 375 must involve an active and reasoned deliberation towards the proposed act. To establish whether the "consent" was vitiated by a "misconception of fact" arising out of a promise to marry, two propositions must be established. The promise of marriage must have been a false promise, given in bad faith and with no intention of being adhered to at the time it was given. The false promise itself must be of immediate relevance, or bear a direct nexus to the woman's decision to engage in the sexual act."

14. Hence, it becomes evident that a man can be held criminally liable for having a sexual relationship on the basis of a false promise of marriage only if the sexual relationship happened solely because of that false promise. If the relationship occurred due to other reasons, the offence is not made out. A woman may choose to enter into a physical relationship for reasons other than a promise of marriage, such as mutual affection or personal choice, even without insisting on marriage.

15. Now, the next significant question arises as to when and how an accused can be held guilty for inducing a woman to engage in sexual relationships by making false promise of marriage?

16 It is trite that in criminal cases, where accused is alleged to have committed rape, testimony of victim becomes significant and if her statement is of sterling quality, it does not even require corroboration. However, converse is also true because law regarding appreciation of evidence does not distinguish between different categories of witnesses and no privilege has been extended to victim of rape. There is no universal law to treat statement of victim as gospel truth. The Supreme Court in Abbas Ahmed Choudhury v. State of Assam reported in (2010) 12 SCC 115 held that a case of sexual assault has to be proved beyond reasonable doubt as any other case and that there is no presumption that a prosecutrix would always tell the entire story truthfully.

17. The proposition as discussed in preceding paragraph applies equally in cases where the allegation against accused is of inducing the victim to engage in sexual relationship by making false promise to marry. In order to fasten an accused of such criminal liability, it is necessary for prosecution to come up with adequate evidence to show that at relevant time, i.e, at the initial stage itself, the accused had no intention of keeping his promise to marry the victim. The Supreme Court in Deepak Gulati v. State of Haryana", reported in AIR 2013 SC 2071, held as follows:

"24. Hence, it is evident that there must be adequate evidence to show that at the relevant time i.e. at the initial stage itself, the accused had no intention whatsoever, of keeping his promise to marry the victim. There may, of course, be circumstances, when a person having the best of intentions is unable to marry the victim owing to various unavoidable circumstances. The "failure to keep a promise made with respect to a future uncertain date, due to reasons that are not very clear from the evidence available, does not always amount to misconception of fact. In order to come within the meaning of the term "misconception of fact", the fact must have an immediate relevance". Section 90 IPC cannot be called into aid in such a situation, to pardon the act of a girl in entirety, and fasten criminal liability on the other, unless the court is assured of the fact that from the very beginning, the accused had never really intended to marry her."

18. Hence, it evident that before an accused can be held liable, it is necessary that (a) the accused never intended to marry the victim from the beginning. A mere failure to marry, due to later circumstances, does not amount to deception. Section 90 IPC applies only when dishonest intention existed at the outset and, (b) same has to be proved by adequate evidence.

19. From the foregoing discussions, it is apparent that establishing physical relationships with a woman by making false promise of marriage is an offence which vitiates her consent and it attracts offence under Section 376 IPC. Breach of promise is generally defined as the failure of one party to fulfill a mutual agreement or commitment to marry another and it is viewed as a civil wrong. In order to hold an accused criminally liable for committing rape on pretext of false promise of marriage, it is necessary that prosecution must establish that accused right from the beginning cheated victim without any intention to marry with an intent to satisfy his lust. Hence, the essential ingredients of the offence are:

(a) the accused made a promise to marry the victim;

(b) the promise was false and not intended to be fulfilled;

(c) the promise was made with the intention of deceiving the victim and inducing her to consent to a sexual relationship;

(d) the dishonest intention to deceive and cheat existed from the very inception of the promise; and

(e) the victim's consent for the sexual relationship was obtained solely on the basis of such false promise;

(f) for consent to be vitiated by a false promise, the promise must have immediate relevance to the woman's decision to engage in intercourse;

(g) there must be adequate evidence to show that promise made by accused from its inception was made without any intention to fulfill.

20. In light of the aforesaid legal principles, a careful scrutiny of the FIR and the victim's statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. reveals only bald allegations of exploitation on the pretext of marriage without disclosing the duration of the relationship or any contemporaneous promise. In the first information report as well as in the statements recorded under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., the victim/prosecutrix has through out stated that Three years ago, the prosecutrix met and talked to appellant no.1 on Instagram. One day, Kapil said that she looks very beautiful to him and he want to meet her and talk about their marriage on which she said to him to come to her sister's house in Kanshi Ram Awas Yojna. Appellant no.1 came on 28th October, 2022 and then he asked the prosecutrix to come to his house at Meerut. She came to his house along with him at Meerut where the appellant no.1 had established physical relations with her for 56 days without her consent. When the prosecutrix asked the appellant no.1 as to when will he solemnize marriage with her, then appellant no.1 took her along with his family members and some of his relatives to Civil Court (Kachehri) and got her signature appended on a stamp of Rs. 50. After that, the appellant no.1 said to the prosecutrix that their marriage is over and now both of them will live as husband and wife. The prosecutrix has further stated that in December, 2023 the appellant no. 1 left the prosecutrix at Jeera Point and went away, after which she gave an application to the concerned Superintendent of Police then from Kotwali Police Station, both appellants, uncle and other relatives of appellant no.1 took the prosecutrix to Meerut.

21. From the aforesaid statements of the proseuctrix it is clear that the prosecutrix used to chat with the appellant no.1 for about three days on Instagram of her own free will. It is also very surprising from the above statements that a 24 year major girl, without knowing about the Appellant No. 1, calls him to her sister's place and on his insistence goes to his house the very next day and stays there for 56 days where the Appellant No. 1 establishes physical relations with her without her consent, about which she does not complain to any one. It is also worth noting here that the prosecutrix□s mother, father, brother and sister also send the prosecutrix along with the appellant no.1 without even knowing about him. They do not raise any objection for almost a year and they come only when the prosecutrix calls them as stated by the prosecutrix in her statements. The aforesaid statements of the prosecutrix clearly shows that there were consensual relationship between the appellant no.1 and the prosecutrix.

22. Besides the above, this Court also finds that as per the version of the first information report lodged on 1st May, 2025 she was in contact of the appellant through Instagram before three years and as per the statements of the prosecutrix under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., she went at the place of appellant i.e. Meerut along with him in October, 2022 and till December, 2023 she was in relation with the appellant no.1 at his house as wife and husband, meaning thereby that when the alleged offence was committed by the appellant no.1 upon the proseuctrix between the period 2022 to 2023, the Bhartiya Nyay Sanhita has not come into force. The said Sanhita has come into force on 1st July, 2024, meaning thereby that any section of said Sanhita cannot effect retrospectively it can effect prospectively. As such offence under Section 69 of B.N.S. is not made out against the appellant no.1.

23. The absence of proof that the essential ingredient of a "promise to marry" is specifically that the promise was made without any intention of fulfilling it from the beginning------does not invalidate consent of victim for sexual relations under Section 90 read with Section 375 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860. A consensual sexual relationship followed by a subsequent refusal to marry does not render the accused liable for rape. This position finds consistent support in the jurisprudence of the Supreme Court, as laid down in Deepak Gulati (Supra) and Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (Supra), wherein it has been emphatically held that mere breach of promise to marry, in absence of initial dishonest intent, cannot convert consensual physical relations into rape. Treating every such refusal to marriage as vitiated consent would dilute the sanctity of Section 375 IPC and overburden the criminal justice system with cases arising from soured relationships rather than genuine sexual offences.

24. These materials, even if assumed true, fail to establish the essential ingredients: (a) no adequate evidence shows the promise, if any, was false from inception with dishonest intent to deceive solely for lust; (b) the relationship appears driven by mutual affection over four months rather than immediate reliance on a false promise; and (c) subsequent refusal citing caste difference suggests breach of promise at best, not deception ab initio. Mere failure to marry due to later circumstances does not vitiate consent under Section 90 IPC, as held in Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (supra) and Deepak Gulati (supra).

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India In the case of Mahesh Damu Khare Vs. The State of Maharashtra & Others reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 347 has opined that that□□...The fact that the complainant continued to have a physical relationship for a long time without any insistence on marriage would indicate the unlikelihood of any such promise made by the appellant for marrying her and it rather indicates that the relationship was a consensual one.

26. Further the Hon□ble Supreme Court of India has opined that the longer duration of the physical relationship between the partners without protest and insistence by the female partner for marriage would be indicative of a consensual relationship rather than a relationship based on false promise of marriage by the male partner and thus, based on misconception of fact. Moreover, even if it is assumed that a false promise of marriage was made to the complainant initially by the appellant, even though no such cogent evidence has been brought on record before us to that effect, the fact that the relationship continued for nine long years, would render the plea of the complainant that her consent for all these years was under misconception of fact that the Appellant would marry her implausible. Consequently, the criminal liability attached to such false promise would be diluted after such a long passage of time and in light of the fact that no protest was registered by the complainant during all those years. Such a prolonged continuation of physical relationship without demurral or remonstration by the female partner, in effect takes out the sting of criminal culpability and neutralises it.

27. Then the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India has expressed its opinion that it will be very difficult to assume that the complainant who is otherwise a mature person with too grown up child, was unable to discover the deceitful behaviour of the appellant who continued to have sexual relationship with her for such a long period on the promise of marriage. Any such mendacious act of the appellant would have been exposed sooner without having to wait for nine years. The inference one can draw under the circumstances is that there was no such false promise made to the complainant by the appellant of marriage by continuing to have physical relationship so as to bring this act within the province of Section 376 IPC and therefore, there was no vitiation of consent under misconception of fact. Further, it appears that discontinuance of financial support to the complainant, rather than the alleged resiling from the promise to marry by the appellant appears to be the triggering point for making the allegation by the complainant after a long consensual relationship for about nine years.

28. On the basis of aforesaid opinion, the Hon'ble Surpeme Court of India has viewed that if criminality is to be attached to such prolonged physical relationship at a very belated stage, it can lead to serious consequences. It will open the scope for imputing criminality to such long term relationships after turning sour, as such an allegation can be made even at a belated stage to drag a person in the juggernaut of stringent criminal process. There is always a danger of attributing criminal intent to an otherwise disturbed civil relationship of which the Court must also be mindful.

29. Relying the judgment of Pramod Suryabhan Pawar (Supra) and Mahesh Damu Khare (Supra), Hon'ble Supreme Court of Indian in the case of Nitin B. Nikhare Vs. The State of Maharashtra & Another in Criminal Appeal No(S)...of 2025 arising out of SLP (Crl.) No. 1889 of 2024 decided on 21st January, 2025, in paragraph no. 6 has held that mere fact that physical relations were established pursuant to a promise to marry will not amount to a rape in every case. In order for the offence of rape to be made out, two conditions need to be satisfied i.e. that the promise of marriage was made by the accused solely with a view to obtain consent for sexual relations without having any intention of fulfilling said promise from the very beginning, and that the false promise of marriage had a direct bearing on the prosecutrix giving her consent for sexual relations.

30. For charges under Sections 352, 351 (2) and 69 of B.N.S. 2023, the claims of assault, abuse and threats are too vague and general. No specific details appear in the FIR or statements, so no initial case is made out.

31. No offences under Sections 3(1)(r), 3(1)(s), or 3(2)(v) of the SC/ST Act are made out either. The FIR and victim's statements lack any specific caste slurs aimed at her SC/ST status, said in public to humiliate her. Just mentioning caste differences in refusing marriage does not meet the legal requirements, so Section 14-A(1) of the SC/ST Act does not apply.

32. Hence, this Court is of view that allowing the criminal proceeding against the appellant in the facts and circumstances to continue, where no criminal liability can be attached, would amount to abuse of the process of court. Therefore, appellant is entitled to the relief claimed for quashing the complaint/ FIR.

33. In view of the aforesaid, the impugned order dated 5th July, 2025 as well as the entire proceedings of Special Sessions Trial No. 1283 of 2025 (State Vs. Kapil Som & Another) arising out of Case Crime No. 29 of 2025, under Sections 352, 351 (2) 69 B.N.S. and Sections 3 (1) (r), 3 (1) (s) and Section 3 (2) (v) of SC/ST Act Police Station-Mahila Thana, District-Moradabad pending in the Court of Special Judge (S.C./S.T. Act), Moradabad are quashed.

34. This criminal appeal is, accordingly, allowed.

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred, under Section 374 (2) Cr.P.C., by appellants Shakar, Yusuf, Unus, Irfan and Manjar against the judgment and order dated 09.10.1984 passed by Ist Additional Sessions Judge, Ghaziabad in Session Trial No.143 of 1983, under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 and 307/149 Indian Penal Code (in short "I.P.C."), Police Station Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, the appellants, Shakar, Irfan and Manjar were held guilty and convicted and sentenced to undergo one year□s rigorous imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 147 I.P.C.; appellants Unus and Yusuf were sentenced to undergo one year□s rigorous imprisonment for offence punishable under Section 148 I.P.C.; all the five appellants were convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life for offence punishable under Section 302 read with Section 149 I.P.C.; and all of them were further convicted and sentenced to undergo three years□ rigorous imprisonment each for the offence punishable under Section 307 read with Section 149 I.P.C. It was further directed that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

3. Feeling aggrieved, the present appeal has been filed by all the five convicts. During the pendency of this criminal appeal, appellant No.1, Shakar and appellant No.4 Irfan have died and the appeal against them stood abated vide order dated 03.08.2018. Therefore, the appeal has been heard in respect of the surviving appellants, Unus, Yusuf and Manjar.

4. Brief facts of the case are that the first informant, Kabir Ahmad submitted a written application (Tehrir) (Ext. Ka-1) at Police Station Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad on 24.04.1982, stating therein that few days ago there erupted a dispute between him and Shakar over raising a wall, due to which, Shakar had developed a grudge against him. On 24.04.1982 at about 7:00 p.m., while the informant Kabir Ahmad, Nasir, Yamin, his nephew, sister-in-law, Smt. Bano and grandson Matloob @ Kallwa were present in his house, Shakar, Yusuf, Unus, Irfan, Fayyaz and Manjar, all natives of his village, reached armed with lathi and farsa. They started hurling abuses and upon objection, assaulted them with lathi and farsa. Upon alarm, Abbas, Taki, Ibrahim, Mohd. Sharif and many persons came and saved them. The condition of injured Nasir and Kallwa was very critical and the informant also sustained fracture on his left wrist.

5. Upon this information, an FIR bearing Case Crime No. 51 of 1982, under Sections 147, 323, 504, 324, 325, and 307 I.P.C., was lodged at Police Station Bhojpur, District Ghaziabad, on 24.04.1982 at 9:15 p.m. The investigation commenced and the Investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence, recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence, and prepared the site plan (Ext. Ka-9). The injured were sent for medical examination. Kallwa, son of Nashir, subsequently died as a result of the injuries sustained by him. His inquest was conducted and the dead body was sent for post-mortem examination. In post-mortem examination, three ante-mortem injuries were found on the body and in the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and coma as a result of ante-mortem head injury.

6. The Investigating Officer also collected blood-stained clothes of Smt. Bano and Kabir and prepared its recovery memo (Ext. Ka-8). After completing the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet under Sections 147, 148, 149, 323, 504, 324, 325, 307 and 302 I.P.C. before the competent Court.

7. The concerned court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared before the Court and copies of the relevant prosecution papers were furnished to them under Section 207 Cr.P.C., whereafter the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

8. The accused persons appeared before the Court of Sessions, where charges for offences punishable under Sections 148, 302/149, 307/149, 323/149 and 450 IPC were framed against Shakar, Unus, Yusuf, Irfan, Fayyaz and Manjar. All the accused persons pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. The prosecution examined twelve witnesses in support of the prosecution case, namely, P.W.1 Kabir Ahmad, P.W.2 Mohd. Zaki, P.W.3 Abbas, P.W.4 Nasir, P.W.5 Taqi, P.W.6 Dr. Mahavir Singh, P.W.7 Ibrahim, P.W.8 Mahkar Singh, P.W.-9 Ram. K. Chaturvedi, P.W.10 Dr. M.K. Goel, P.W.11 Tilakram and P.W.12 Satyaveer Singh.

10. P.W.1 Kabir is the informant of the case. He has said that both his and accused Shakar’s houses are adjacent to each other. There was a wall between both theses houses. Accused Shakar claiming it to be his own wall, wanted to rebuild it, to which the informant had objection. About one and a half years ago Shakar had threatened him that he would see him in 4-5 days. About four days ago, after sunset, Shakar, Yusuf, Unus, Faiyyaz, Irfan and Manjar came to his house, where Yamin, Momin, Nasir, Kallwa and Smt. Bano were present. The accused started hurling abuses and when the first informant and other inmates of the house came out, they saw Unus and Yusuf armed with farsa and the remaining accused armed with lathi. Yusuf assaulted the informant with farsa. Kallwa was attacked with lathi by Irfan. Nasir was assaulted with a farsa by Unus. Smt. Bano was beaten by Manjar and Yamin was beaten by Shakar. As a result, they fell on the ground. Abbas, Taki and Rahim reached there and saved them. His arm was fractured as a result of a lathi blow by Shakar. He, Jaki and other injured persons were taken to Police Station Bhojpur. Jaki lodged the FIR. He gave the application against Shakar, which was written by the Station Officer at his dictation. The witness has proved the written application, Ext. Ka-1 and has stated that on the same day, his son Kallwa died at the District Hospital, Ghaziabad.

11. In cross-examination, P.W.1 Kabir has said that after the incident was over, they proceeded to the police station within 3-4 minutes by tractor, where they reached in about 4-5 minutes. The application was written in the presence of the S.H.O., who gave him the paper. The Inspector himself took his thumb impression on the application, marked as (Ext. Ka-1). After about an hour, the accused also reached there. After reaching at the hospital, they saw the accused persons had also came there for medical examination. Due to injuries, he became semi-conscious. Jaffari is the grandmother of Unus and Yusuf and was not involved in the assault. She was standing at her door when the incident took place. None of them attacked Jaffari with any sharp-edged weapon. He also said that they did not commit any assault in self-defence and did not wield any sharp-edged weapon upon the accused. He said that he was unarmed during the assault. His nephew, Momin came there and wielded a danda in self-defence. He also said that he did not see any injuries on Yusuf, Manjar, Unus and Jaffari. He said that he had seen an injury on Yusuf at the police station. Blood splattered at the place of occurrence from wounds of Nasir and Bano and he himself. The incident took place in a 2-3 feet wide lane (gali). It was dark at the time of incident. Jaffari□s house is situated to the west of Yasin□s house. About 15-16 days earlier, the accused had constructed a staircase adjacent to the disputed wall. It is true that a case regarding assault involving Jaffari, Manjar and others is pending against him.

12. P.W.2 Mohd. Zakir, has said that at the time of the incident he was standing at the Tanga Stand outside the village. One person came and told him that a dispute has occurred in the village. Thereafter, he reached near Nasir's house and saw Kallwa lying in front of the door. Nasir, Kabir, Yamin, Momin and Bano were also injured. He took them to Police Station Bhojpur. He wrote the tehrir in the light of a bulb outside the police station at the dictation of Kabir and thereafter Kabir put his thumb impression over it.

13. In the cross-examination, P.W.2 Mohd. Zakir has said that on the 28th day of the month, the election for the post of Village Pradhan was held. He further said that he was one of the contestants for the post of Gram Pradhan. He is an accused in the cross-case. He also said that he did not see any injuries on Unus, Yusuf, Jaffari and Manjar.

14. P.W.3 Abbas said that at the time of incident, he was at his house along with Taqi. He heard cries coming from in front of Kabir□s house. He and Taqi ran there and saw that Shakar and Kabir were fighting with each other. Shakar, Unus, Yusuf, Irfan and Manjar were present there, carrying lathi and farsa. The farsa was with Unus and Yusuf and the rest of the accused were carrying lathi and danda. Both parties were fighting with each other. Momin was wielding a lathi. He saw Kallwa in the crowd and noticed injuries on Kallwa, Nasir and Kabir. He also said that he saw Yusuf in an injured condition. Many persons had gathered there.

15. In cross-examination, P.W.-3 has said that there is a staircase in Sakir□s house. When he reached there, 10-20 persons were already present. It was dark at that time. No assault took place on the open land in front of Aziz□s house. Jaffari was standing at her door. He does not know whether she suffered any injury. He saw Manjar and Unus in an injured condition. He also saw Yusuf, Unus, Manjar, Kabir, Nasir and Kallwa in injured condition. After he reached there, none of the persons attacked the other. The assault had ended before he reached at the spot.

16. P.W.4 Nasir has said that at the time of the incident, he himself, Kabir, Yamin, Momin and Kallwa, along with their mother Bano, were in the house. The accused Shakar, Unus, Usuf, Manjar, Irfan and Fiyyaz came there. Out of them, Unus and Yusuf were having farsa and rest of the accused were having lathi in their hands. They abused and when objected, they started wielding lathi. Unus and Yusuf attacked with farsa, causing injuries to Kabir, Kallwa, Bano and Yamin. Yamin also picked up a lathi and wielded it 2-4 times. He does not know who got injured. Momin was also beaten by the accused with lathis. Upon their alarm, Abbas, Taqi and others came there and pacified the matter. Thereafter, they were taken to Bhojpur by tractor, where Kabir lodged the FIR. The doctor advised to take injured Kallwa to Government Hospital at Ghaziabad. At Ghaziabad, the doctor declared him dead. The witness proved the clothes worn by Kallwa at the time of the incident and also the clothes of Bano and Kabir.

17. In cross-examination, P.W.-4 said that when Kallwa was taken to Bhojpur Hospital, his report had already been lodged. He remained admitted in a hospital at Ghaziabad for about 15 days. He was not interrogated in the hospital. After he reached the village, the Investigating Officer met him after 20 days. Before meeting the Investigating Officer, he did not tell anybody about the incident because he was in the hospital. Nobody from his side wielded farsa, ballam or lathi. He did not see any injuries on the accused and if Jaffari had sustained injuries, then it may have been caused by their own weapons. He did not count how many lathi blows Kallwa sustained.

18. P.W.-5 Taqi has said that at the time of the incident, he heard noise from the direction of Nasir□s house. Thereafter, he and his brother Abbas went there and saw a dispute taking place in front of Nasir□s house. He said that Manjar, Irfan, Unus and Yusuf were beating Kabir, Nasir, Bano, Yamin, Momin and Kallwa. He further said that Yusuf and Unus were armed with farsas, while Manjar and Irfan were armed with lathi and there were five assailants in total. He also said that Momin ran inside his house and returned with a lathi, which he wielded. Kallwa fell on the ground in an injured condition. He further said that he, Sharif and many other persons reached at the spot and pacified the matter. According to him, the incident took place on a rasta in front of Nasir□s house over a dispute regarding a wall.

19. In cross-examination, P.W.5, Taqi, has said that there was dark at the time of the incident. He did not see Jaffari at the place of occurrence. He did not see any injuries on Jaffari or on any other accused. The accused were not beaten in his presence. When he reached at the spot, people were pacifying the matter. He remained at the place of occurrence for about 20 minutes.

20. P.W.6 Dr. Mahavir Singh, is a witness who prepared the injury reports of the injured persons. He has said that in April 1982, he was posted as Medical Officer at P.H.C., Bhojpur. On the same night, he medically examined Nasir, Yamin, Bano, Momin and Kabir at 10:15 p.m., 10:30 p.m., 10:40 p.m., and 10:55 p.m. respectively. They were brought by Constable Rishi Pal. Kallwa was also brought along with them. As his condition was critical and was unconscious and his pulse was feeble, so he referred him to M.M.G. Hospital, Ghaziabad. Therefore, he did not note his injuries. He found the following injuries on Nasir:

(i) Incised wound 13 cm □ 1 cm, bone-deep, on the top of the skull, 10 cm above the right ear. X-ray was advised.

(ii) Lacerated wound 3 cm □ □ cm, scalp-deep, on the left side of the head, 6 cm above the left eyebrow. X-ray was advised.

(iii) Traumatic swelling 5 cm □ 2 cm around injury no. 2.

(iv) Traumatic swelling 5 cm □ 5 cm on the lower back of the left scapula. X-ray was advised.

He further said that injuries nos. (i), (ii) and (iv) were kept under observation, while the remaining injuries were simple in nature. Injury no. (i) was caused by a sharp-edged weapon, such as a farsa, whereas the remaining injuries were caused by a blunt object like a lathi.

He found the following injuries on Yamin Khan:-

(i) Traumatic swelling 4 cm □ 3 cm on the right side of the face, just below the right eye.

(ii) Abrasion □ cm □ □ cm over the nose.

(iii) Abrasion over Injury No. 1.

In his opinion, the injuries were simple and were caused by a blunt object such as a lathi.

He found the following injuries on Smt. Bano:-

(i) Incised wound 3 cm □ □ cm, 1 cm above the left eye on the left side of the forehead.

(ii) Pain in the waist, but there was no visible injury.

In his opinion, all the injuries were caused by a hard and blunt object such as a lathi.

He also found the following injuries on Kabir:-

(i) Incised wound 5 cm □ 1 cm, bone deep, present on the top of the skull, 6 cm above the root of the nose.

(ii) Traumatic swelling 6 cm □ 2 cm around Injury No. 1. X-ray was advised.

(iii) Incised wound 3 cm □ 0.5 cm, muscle deep, present on the left side of the head, 5 cm below Injury No. 1.

In his opinion, injury Nos. 1, 2, and 4 were kept under observation. The rest of the injuries were simple in nature. Injury Nos. 1 and 3 were caused by a sharp-edged weapon such as a farsa, and the remaining injuries were caused by a blunt object such as a lathi.

He found the following injuries on Momin:-

(ii) Pain in the right arm, but no visible injury was seen.

In his opinion, all the injuries were simple and fresh and were caused by a hard and blunt object, such as a lathi.

21. He has proved the injury reports of all the injured as Ext. Ka-3 to Ext. Ka-7 and stated that the above injuries could have been caused on 24.04.1982 at 7:00 p.m. In cross-examination, he said that on the same day, he medically examined Yusuf at 11:30 p.m. and thereafter examined Manjar on 25.04.1982 at 12:25 a.m., Unus at 12:45 a.m., and Smt. Jaffari at 1:00 a.m., and prepared their injury reports. He said that the original injury reports are on the record of Sessions Trial No. 112 of 1983 (State vs. Jaki and others). He filed true copies of these injury reports, which he proved as Ext. Kha-1 to Ext. Kha-4. He said that injury Nos. 1, 2, and 3 of Yusuf, injury No. 1 of Manjar and injury No. 1 of Smt. Jaffari may have been caused by ballam or farsa, while the remaining injuries could have been caused by lathi. All the above injuries could have been caused on 24.04.1982 at about 7:30 p.m. He further stated that Constable Devendra Singh of Police Station Bhojpur had brought all the above-mentioned injured persons before him. He also stated that injury Nos. 1 and 3 of Kabir and injury No.1 of Nasir could have been caused by the sharp edge of a spade, whereas the remaining injuries could have been caused by the blunt side of a spade. Injury

No. 2 of Kabir could not have been caused by injury No.1. Except for the incised wound, the remaining injuries of Kabir and Momin could not have been caused by bricks or stones thrown at them.

22. P.W.7, Ibrahim, said that he and Afruri had gone to offer namaz at Julahe Wali Masjid. Thereafter, he heard noise coming from the side of Kabir's house. He, along with Sarif, reached near Kabir's house and saw that Kabir and Nasir were being beaten by Shakar, Unus, Fiyyaz, Irfan, Manjar and Yusuf. Unus and Yusuf were armed with farsa, while the remaining accused were carrying lathi. Blood was oozing from the injuries of Bano, Yamin and Kallwa. In cross-examination, he said that when he reached the place of occurrence, Kallwa had already fallen on the ground and he did not see anyone beating Kallwa in lying condition. He further said that it was dark when he reached at the spot. He saw Abbas and Taqi pacifying the dispute. After his arrival, Bano and Nasir also sustained injuries. Bano sustained injuries when she fell over Kallwa while trying to save him. He did not see blood oozing from the injuries of the assailants. He did not see injuries on any of the accused. He also said that he did not see any of the injured persons assaulting the accused. He did not see Jaffari, the mother of Manjar, at the place of occurrence. Jaffari's house was situated about 10-15 steps away from the place of occurrence. Zaqi was one of the contestants for the post of Gram Pradhan.

23. P.W.8, Mahkar Singh, is the first Investigating Officer of this case. He has said that he carried out a part of investigation, recorded the statements of some witnesses and took into possession blood-stained clothes of Smt. Bano and prepared a recovery memo, which was proved as Ext. Ka-8. He also said that, at the pointing out of Smt. Bano, he inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan, which was proved as Ext. Ka-9. In cross-examination, he said that there is a site-plan in the record of Sessions Trial No. 112 of 1983. The above site-plan was also prepared by him and the said Sessions Trial is the cross-case of the present case.

24. P.W.9, R.K. Chaturvedi, is the second Investigating Officer of the case. He said that he conducted remaining part of investigation and recorded the statements of other witnesses and after completing the investigation, filed charge-sheet, (Ext. Ka-10). In cross-examination, he said that Kabir had not given any statement that a dispute occurred regarding the construction of a wall 4-5 days prior to the incident, nor was threatened that he would be beaten within 4-5 days. He further said that he had also completed the investigation of the cross-case. He clarified that the investigation was assigned to him because it was election time and the situation was sensitive.

25. P.W.10, Dr. M.K. Goel, conducted autopsy of the deceased, Kallwa. He said that on 25.04.1982, while being posted as Medical Officer at MMG Hospital, Ghaziabad, he conducted post-mortem examination of Kallwa, whose dead body was brought by Constables Satvir Singh and Yash Pal Singh. He said that rigor mortis was present over the body. He found following ante-mortem injuries:

He also said that on internal examination, the frontal bone and both parietal bones were fractured. The brain was smeared with blood. The brain was lacerated in the frontal and parietal areas. There was fracture on the right side of the middle cranial fossa. In his opinion, the cause of death was shock and coma as a result of ante-mortem head injuries. He said that the injuries could have been caused by a blunt object such as a lathi. The injuries could have been caused on 24.04.1982 at about 7:00 p.m. He proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-11 and said in his cross-examination that the above injuries could also be caused by bricks and stones. Injury no. 3 could be caused by any friction.

26. P.W.11 Tilakram (S.I.), is a formal witness who scribed the chik FIR, marked as Ext. Ka-12 and made its entry in G.D. No. 29 dated 24.04.1982, which is proved as Ext. Ka-13. He further said that on 25.04.1982, vide G.D. No. 12 at 7:30 a.m., he converted the case under Section 302 I.P.C. and proved the copy of the said General Diary as Ext. Ka-14. In the cross-examination, he said that on the same day at about 10:00 p.m., Unus had also lodged a report, which was entered at G.D. No. 30 under Sections 147, 323, 324, 452 and 307 I.P.C., and he proved the said General Diary entry as Ext. Kha-5.

27. P.W.12, Constable Satvir Singh, filed his affidavit in evidence and said that the Inspector conducted the inquest of the deceased, Kallwa in his presence and prepared the inquest report along with other related documents. The defence did not cross-examine him.

28. After closure of the prosecution evidence, the statements of the accused were recorded, in which they denied the prosecution case and said that there was no dispute regarding the reconstruction of the wall. In fact, the case was lodged due to election enmity. The appellant Yusuf said that the Police came to Zaki's house and Bano was not present during the fight. He further said that the fight was started by the informant's party at Jaffari's house. Mohd. Unus said that he and Yusuf wielded spades in their defence and his aunt (Tai) had thrown bricks. He further said that they were sitting at their aunt's house when Zaki, Taqi, Yamin, Makul, Nasir, Momin and Kabir came and forcefully asked them to vote in favour of Zaki. When they did not agree, the informant's party started the fight, in which he, Yusuf, Manzer and their aunt (Tai) Jaffari sustained injuries. He also said that Zaki was on good terms with the Inspector and that a false case was lodged against them. The appellant Manzer also said that Bano was not present there. He said that they wielded spades in self-defence, due to which, the injuries could have been caused. He further said that he was with his mother when the informant's party came and started a quarrel, in which he, Unus, his mother and Yusuf sustained injuries.

29. After closure of evidence, the learned Trial Court heard the arguments of both the parties and after perusal of the evidence, found that the prosecution had been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. There was motive for the appellants to commit the crime. The appellants were the aggressors. The ocular testimony was supported by medical evidence. The place of occurrence was in front of the informant□s house. The injuries sustained by the appellants and Jaffari were well explained and thus, the learned Trial Court found the appellants guilty and convicted and sentenced them to the terms as indicated above.

30. Heard Sri N.I. Jafri, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri S.I. Jafri, learned Counsel for the appellants, Ms. Divya Ojha, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State and Sri Kamal Kishor Mishra, learned Counsel for the informant.

31. Learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that this was a cross-case. It is admitted by the prosecution witnesses that Zaqi and others had asked for votes for forthcoming Gram Pradhan election and, thus, this was the root cause of the alleged assault. It is also submitted that the injuries sustained on the side of the appellants have not been satisfactorily explained by the prosecution at all. The prosecution case suffers from inherent improbabilities and the evidence consists of highly interested and chance witnesses. It is further submitted that the learned Trial Court erred in rejecting the defence version, which stood fully proved by the admissions made by the prosecution witnesses and by medical and other circumstantial evidence. Lastly, it is submitted that the prosecution has suppressed the genesis and the origin of the occurrence and has not presented the true version. The appellants were attacked and the injuries to the informant's side were caused when the appellants exercised their right of private defence. Therefore, the prosecution case is doubtful, and the appellants deserve acquittal.

32. In support thereof, learned Counsel for the appellants has relied upon the following case laws Lakshmi Singh And Others vs. State of Bihar reported in 1976 SCC OnLine SC 307; Nand Lal And Others vs. State of Chhattishgarh reported in 2023 SCC OnLine SC 262 and State of Rajasthan vs. Madho And Another reported in 1991 SCC (Cri) 1048.

33. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned Counsel for the informant have submitted that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. The case is based on direct evidence. The informant and other injured witnesses, as well as independent witnesses, have supported the prosecution case. The oral testimonies are supported by medical evidence. There was a motive for the appellants to commit the offence over a dispute regarding the reconstruction of the wall adjoining the houses of the informant and the appellants. The injuries to the appellants are well explained. The appellants were the aggressors and so were not entitled to the right of private defence, therefore, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed.

34. It is settled law that in a criminal case the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The present case is based on direct evidence. The date and time of the incident are not disputed. The injuries sustained from the side of the informant are also not disputed. As per the prosecution, the alleged incident occurred because there is a wall intervening between the houses of the first informant and the appellant, Shaker. Shaker wanted to reconstruct it but the wall belonged to the first informant. Thereafter, Shaker threatened him to face the consequences within 4-5 days. Subsequently, on the fateful day, all the appellants came to the house of the first informant armed with lathi and farsa and committed assault, as a result of which Kabir, Kallwa, Nasir, Bano, and Yamin sustained injuries and Kallwa succumbed to his injuries at the District Hospital, Ghaziabad.

35. On the other hand, it is the case of the appellants that during those days, contestants for the post of Gram Pradhan and their supporters were seeking votes. On the fateful day, the first informant and his men came to Jaffari□s house asking for votes and upon refusal, they committed assault. In self-defence, Unus and Yusuf wielded spades, which caused injuries to the members of the first informant□s party. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that this is a cross-case and the informant□s party was the aggressor and the appellants acted in self-defence. It is further submitted that four persons from the side of the appellants were injured, but the prosecution has neither disclosed nor explained the injuries of the appellants. Therefore, the prosecution has suppressed material facts and the genesis of the occurrence and thus the appellants are entitled to the benefit of doubt.

36. So far as the case being a cross-case is concerned, P.W.1 Kabir, in his cross-examination, has said that there is a case pending against him with regard to an assault involving Jaffari and another. P.W.2, Mohd. Zaqi, has also said that he is one of the accused in the cross-case. P.W.4, Nasir, has also said that, regarding the same incident, a cross-case is pending against him with regard to an assault involving Unus and others. P.W.8, S.I. Mahakar Singh, who was the first Investigating Officer of the case, has said that he also prepared the site plan of the cross-case of Case Crime No. 51-A of 1982, in respect of which Sessions Trial No. 112 of 1983 is pending and has said that this is the cross-case of the present case and he had prepared the site plan of the said cross-case also. P.W.9, S.O. R.K. Chaturvedi, is the second Investigating Officer of this case, and he has also stated that he had investigated the cross-case as well. P.W.11, S.I. Tilakram, who is the scribe of the chik F.I.R., has said that vide G.D. No. 30, a case under Sections 147, 323, 324, 452 and 307 I.P.C. was lodged by him. He has proved G.D. No.30. In view of the above and the admissions of the prosecution, it is not in dispute that this matter relates to a cross-case. Although both the parties have not clearly said what happened to the cross-case, but it is settled law that the evidence of one cross-case cannot be taken into consideration in another cross-case and it is the evidence which is produced in a case that is to be examined. In view of the above, it has to be seen whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of the evidence filed in this case.

37. The prosecution has examined P.W.1 Kabir, P.W.2 Mohd. Zaqi, P.W.3 Abbas, P.W.4 Nasir, P.W.5 Taqi and P.W.7 Ibrahim as witnesses of fact. From the evidence of these witnesses, it emerges that P.W.2 Mohd. Zaqi, P.W.3 Abbas and P.W.5 Taqi are not eyewitnesses of the incident. P.W.3 has said that when he reached at the place of occurrence, none of the parties attacked each other and the assault had already ended. P.W.5 Taqi has said that when he reached at the place of occurrence, people were pacifying both the parties and no one was beaten in his presence. P.W.2 Mohd. Zaqi has said that when he reached at the place of occurrence, Kallwa was lying on the ground and others were found in an injured condition, therefore, he also reached at the place of occurrence after the incident had ended.

38. So far as P.W.1 Kabir, P.W.4 Nasir and P.W.7 Ibrahim are concerned, they have supported the prosecution case and said that on the fateful day, the appellants, armed with lathi and farsa, came to the first informant□s house, hurled abuses and committed assault. As a result, Nasir, Kabir, Yamin, Momin, and Bano sustained injuries. All the above prosecution witnesses have concealed the material fact regarding the injuries sustained on the side of the appellants.

39. During the statement of P.W.6 Dr. Mahavir Singh, the defence questioned him regarding the injuries sustained by Yusuf, Unus, Manzer, and Smt. Jaffari and copies of their injury reports were filed by P.W.6, Dr. Mahavir Singh, stating that the originals are on record in Sessions Trial No. 112 of 1983. He further said that injury Nos. 1, 2, and 3 of Yusuf, injury No.1 of Manzer and injury No.1 of Smt. Jaffari were caused by ballam and farsa and the remaining injuries could have been caused by lathi. He also said that these injuries could have been sustained on 24.04.1982 at about 7:30 p.m. So there were injuries to these injured persons. P.W.1 Kabir, in this regard, said that he did not see any injuries on the appellants or on Smt. Jaffari. On the other hand, he said that his party was unarmed and his nephew Momin wielded a danda in self-defence. He further said that he saw injuries on Yusuf at the Police Station. Therefore, P.W.1 Kabir, the first informant, has concealed the real facts and denied the injuries sustained by the appellants and Smt. Jaffari. Similarly, P.W.2 has not said that he witnessed any injuries on the appellants. P.W.3 said that both sides were fighting with each other and he did not see any injuries on Smt. Jaffari. He said that he saw injuries on Yusuf, but did not know who caused those injuries. He further said that he saw injuries on Manzer and Yuns, and that in the darkness he saw Yusuf, Unus, Manzer, Kabir, Nasir, and Kallwa in an injured condition, but he did not state how the injuries to the appellants were caused.

40. P.W.4, Nasir, has said that Yamin sustained injuries. He further said that none of the persons from his side wielded a ballam, farsa, or tabbal and he did not see any injuries on the appellants or on Jaffari. He also said that it is possible that they might have sustained injuries, if any, due to their own weapons. Lastly, P.W.7, Ibrahim, said that he did not see any blood or injuries on the appellants. He also said that he did not see any person beating the appellants. Therefore, these witnesses have either denied the injuries to appellants and Smt. Jaffari or concealed the names of the person(s) who caused these injuries.

41. All the above witnesses have said that the appellan'□s mother, Smt. Jaffari, was not present there and it has also come in their evidence that she was standing at the door of her house and had not participated in the assault. If it is admitted then the prosecution should have explained how Smt. Jaffari sustained injuries. Similarly, the injuries on other appellants, Yusuf, Unus, and Manzer were also not satisfactorily explained. The nature of injuries to Yusuf, Manzer, and Smt. Jaffari shows that some of them may have been caused by ballam or farsa, i.e., sharp-edged weapons. The prosecution has also concealed the fact that the informant□s side was armed with sharp-edged weapon. It is said that Kabir□s nephew, Momin came with a danda and wielded it in self-defence. It is also said that Momin was wielding a lathi. It has not come in evidence that the informant party used any sharp-edged weapon, whereas the injuries on appellants Yusuf, Manzer and Smt. Bano show that they sustained injuries in the said incident from sharp-edged weapons like farsa and ballam. The injuries sustained by the appellants and Smt. Jaffari, mother of appellant Manzer, are not simple or superficial. The non-explanation of these injuries shakes the very basis of the prosecution case and shows that the prosecution witnesses have concealed material facts and the genesis of the cause of the incident before the Court.

42. The witnesses of fact produced by the prosecution are related to each other and/or chance witnesses, therefore, their testimony was to be scrutinized closely. That being so,the omission on their part to explain the injuries on the persons of the appellants and Smt. Jaffari assumes much greater importance and it appears that the prosecution has not come out with the true version of the facts. According to the prosecution, the appellants attacked the first informant and his family members over a dispute regarding the construction of a wall adjoining the house of the first informant, Kabir and the appellant, Manzer. As per the prosecution, this was the immediate cause of the incident. But in this regard, P.W.1 Kabir has said that the dispute with regard to the said wall occurred about one and a half years ago and after 4-5 days, appellant Shaker had threatened them. It has come in his evidence that the staircase was already constructed by the appellants 15-20 days prior to the said incident. There is no evidence that the first informant or his men ever reported or complained with regard to the said dispute to any person/authority. P.W.3 Abbas has said that there is a staircase in appellant Shaker□s house and he had purchased the house more than 20 years ago and after a few months from the date of purchase, he had constructed the staircase. The above statement of P.W.3 shows that there was no such immediate dispute with regard to the construction of staircase. P.W.4 Nasir has said that 10-15 days ago the staircase was constructed and thereafter, a threat was given to the informant□s side. Thus, all these statements of the prosecution witnesses are contradictory to each other and thus prosecution case that the immediate cause of the dispute with regard to the reconstruction of the staircase is not believable.

43. On the other hand, the fact witness, P.W.1 Kabir has admitted that the election for Gram Pradhan was underway and the contestants and their supporters were seeking votes about 4-5 days prior to the incident. He also said that Zaki had contested the election. P.W.2, Mohd. Zaki, said that he had contested the election for Gram Pradhan and 2-4 days prior to the election, the contestants were seeking votes. P.W.3, Abbas, also said that people had been seeking votes prior to the date of the incident for the election of Gram Pradhan. P.W.7, Ibrahim, further said that Zaki had contested the election for Gram Pradhan. In this regard, the statement of P.W.9, R.K. Chaturvedi, is assumes significance. He is the second Investigating Officer of the case and in his cross-examination, has said that the entire investigation was entrusted to him because the situation was sensitive and it was the time of the election. All these statements of the witnesses show that prior to the incident, the contestants and their supporters were seeking votes by visiting the houses of villagers and the situation was sensitive. It is the case of the appellants that the first informant and his associates came to the house of the appellant, Manzer□s mother, Smt. Jaffari, to seek votes and upon refusal, they started committing assault. As a result, the appellants, Yusuf, Unus, Manzer and Smt. Jaffari sustained injuries.

44. It is said that the appellants, Yusuf and Unus, wielded spade in self-defence. So far as the place of occurrence is concerned, it has come in evidence that the house of the first informant and the house of Smt. Jaffari are separated by two houses, meaning thereby that the place of occurrence, which is an open place, is near the houses of both the first informant and Smt. Jaffari.

45. Here it is material to note that, as per the evidence of the prosecution, Smt. Jaffari did not take part in the commission of the offence and was standing at the door of her house. However, it is also on record that she sustained injuries, which gives weight to the appellants□ case that the incident took place near Smt. Jaffari□s house; otherwise, there was no reason for her to have sustained injuries while standing at the door of her house. In view of the above, it gives weight to the appellants□ case that the incident might have occurred when the informant and his men came to Smt. Jaffari□s house seeking votes for the election of Gram Pradhan.

46. Now let us see whether the appellants caused injuries in their right of private defence. Considering the principle governing the right of private defence, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Darshan Singh vs State of Punjab & Anr 2010 (2) SCC 333, was pleased to hold as under:

"54. In Vidhya Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1971)3 SCC 244, the court observed that:

"18. The right of self-defence is a very valuable right, serving a social purpose and should not be construed narrowly. Situations have to be judged from the subjective point of view of the accused concerned in the surrounding excitement and confusion of the moment, confronted with a situation of peril and not by any microscopic and pedantic scrutiny. In adjudging the question as to whether more force than was necessary was used in the prevailing circumstances on the spot it would be inappropriate, as held by this court, to adopt tests by detached objectivity which would be so natural in a court room, or that which would seem absolutely necessary to a perfectly cool bystander. The person facing a reasonable apprehension of threat to himself cannot be expected to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude of only that much which is required in the thinking of a man in ordinary times or under normal circumstances."

55. In Jai Dev v. State of Punjab, AIR 1963 Supreme Court 612 the court held as under:

"13.....as soon as the cause for the reasonable apprehension has disappeared and the threat has either been destroyed or has been put to rout, there can be no occasion to exercise the right of private defence."

56. In order to find out whether right of private defence is available or not, the injuries received by the accused, the imminence of threat to his safety, the injuries caused by the accused and the circumstances whether the accused had time to have recourse to public authorities are all relevant factors to be considered.

57. In Buta Singh v. The State of Punjab, (1991)2 SCC 612, the court noted that:

"10.....a person who is apprehending death or bodily injury cannot weigh in golden scales in the spur of moment and in the heat of circumstances, the number of injuries required to disarm the assailants who were armed with weapons.

In moments of excitement and disturbed mental equilibrium it is often difficult to expect the parties to preserve composure and use exactly only so much force in retaliation commensurate with the danger apprehended to him where assault is imminent by use of force, it would be lawful to repel the force in self-defence and the right of private-defence commences, as soon as the threat becomes so imminent. Such situations have to be pragmatically viewed and not with high-powered spectacles or microscopes to detect slight or even marginal overstepping.

Due weightage has to be given to, and hyper technical approach has to be avoided in considering what happens on the spur of the moment on the spot and keeping in view normal human reaction and conduct, where self- preservation is the paramount consideration.

But, if the fact situation shows that in the guise of self-preservation, what really has been done is to assault the original aggressor, even after the cause of reasonable apprehension has disappeared, the plea of right of private defence can legitimately be negatived. The court dealing with the plea has to weigh the material to conclude whether the plea is acceptable. It is essentially, as noted above, a finding of fact."

" 58. The following principles emerge on scrutiny of the following judgments:

(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii) The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of self-creation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence. It is enough if the accused apprehended that such an offence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) It is well settled that even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The Indian Penal Code confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened."

47. In view of the above legal position with regard to right of private defence, if we look into the present case then it comes out that in the instant case, both sides sustained injuries and the injury reports of both sides are on record. Kallwa succumbed to his injuries in the hospital. His post-mortem report shows that he sustained three injuries on his body, of which one was an abrasion and the other two were traumatic swellings on the forehead and on both sides of the head. Nasir sustained five injuries, including incised wounds, traumatic swelling and contusions. Yamin sustained three injuries, of which one was a traumatic swelling and two were abrasions. Smt. Bano sustained one injury of the nature of a lacerated wound and also complain of pain over her back. Kabir sustained five injuries, comprising incised wounds, traumatic swelling and contusions. Momin sustained one injury in the nature of traumatic swelling on the left side of his head and complained of pain in his right arm.

48. So far as the appellants side is concerned, appellant Yusuf sustained seven injuries, including incised wounds, traumatic swelling, and contusions over the head, left forearm and right knee joint, as well as an injury to the upper lip, along with complain of back pain. The appellant Manzer sustained two injuries: an incised wound on the right leg and an abrasion on the left elbow, accompanied by complain of pain on leg. The injured Unus sustained two injuries in the form of traumatic swelling and abrasions, along with complain of pain over the right shoulder. Smt. Jaffari sustained an incised wound on the scalp, on the right side of the head. The nature of these injuries on both sides, and the manner in which the incident occurred, indicates that the appellants also sustained multiple injuries. The prosecution has suppressed material facts regarding how the appellants and Smt. Jaffari sustained such injuries. The nature of these injuries suggests that they may have been caused by a lathi or other blunt object, as well as by sharp-edged weapons such as a ballam or farsa.

49. Looking at the nature of the injuries sustained by the appellants and Smt. Jaffari, the appellants' claim that they acted in the exercise of their right of private defence has merit. Being attacked with such weapons, the appellants may have feared sustaining grievous hurt or death. Therefore, their retaliation and use of weapons against the first informant and his associates are protected under the right of private defence.

50. In view of the case laws as quoted above, the omission on the part of the prosecution to explain the injuries on the persons of the appellants and Smt. Jaffari assumes greater importance and it lends support to the defence version, which probabilities that the incident may have occurred in the manner as alleged by the defence.

51. In view of the material omissions on the part of the prosecution witnesses of fact, it would be hazardous to place implicit reliance on their testimony, and thus the appellants are entitled to the benefit of doubt.

52. In view of the above discussion, we came to the conclusion that the prosecution has suppressed the material facts with regard to the genesis of the incident and has also concealed material facts with regard to the incident. Particularly, the non-explanation of the injuries on the persons of the appellants and Smt. Jaffari raises serious doubt over the prosecution version. Therefore, we come to the conclusion that the findings of the Trial Court are based on conjecture and Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence correctly and has erred in holding the appellants guilty. Thus, the conviction and sentence of the appellants are liable to be set aside.

53 . In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 09.10.1984 passed by the Trial Court is set aside and appellants, Unus, Yusuf and Manjar are acquitted of offence punishable under Sections 147, 148, 302/149 and 307/149 I.P.C.

54. The appellants, Unus, Yusuf and Manjar are on bail. They need not surrender. Their bail bonds are cancelled and the sureties are discharged.

55. Before being released, the appellants shall execute a personal bond in the sum of Rs.20,000/- under Section 481 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to Section 437-A of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973) for their appearance, in the event of an appeal being preferred against their acquittal.

56. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned alongwith the Trial Court record for information and necessary compliance.

Criminal Appeal No. 4426 of 2008

Rajnish ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the statement of the deceased prosecutrix recorded by the police under S. 161 Cr.P.C. was admissible as a dying declaration under S. 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, and, if so, whether such uncorroborated dying declaration, in the face of delayed F.I.R., delayed recording of witnesses' statements, non-recording of the father's statement, absence of medical examination, failure to send the alleged bloodstained clothes for chemical analysis (FSL), and lack of medical corroboration, was sufficient to sustain the conviction of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 18-33)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Dying Declaration - Admissibility of statement recorded under S. 161 Cr.P.C. - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 32(1) - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 161 - A statement made by a deceased person as to the cause of death or the circumstances of the transaction resulting in death is admissible under S. 32(1) and there is no requirement that such statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate - The statement of the deceased prosecutrix recorded by the police under S. 161 Cr.P.C. was held admissible as a dying declaration as it bore a direct nexus with the circumstances leading to her death - The objection regarding its inadmissibility merely because it was recorded by a police officer was rejected. (Paras 19-25)

Criminal Law - Dying Declaration - Evidentiary value - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 32(1) - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 161 and 162 - Though a statement recorded under S. 161

Cr.P.C. may assume the character of a dying declaration and can legally form the sole basis of conviction, the Court must apply the rule of prudence and satisfy itself that the declaration is truthful, voluntary, free from tutoring or imagination, and suitably corroborated by surrounding circumstances - The evidentiary value of such declaration stands strengthened by medical and other independent corroborative evidence. (Paras 27-30)

Criminal Law - Appreciation of evidence - Delayed F.I.R. and delayed recording of witnesses' statements - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - Ss. 154 and 161 - Unexplained delay in lodging the F.I.R. and in recording the statements of material witnesses introduces the possibility of afterthought, embellishment and tutoring, thereby rendering the prosecution version doubtful - Such unexplained delays constituted serious infirmities affecting the credibility of the prosecution case. (Para 30)

Criminal Law - Rape - Medical corroboration - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 363, 366 and 376 - Absence of medical examination of the victim, failure of the post-mortem report to establish sexual violence, and omission to send the alleged bloodstained clothes for chemical analysis constituted significant evidentiary deficiencies - In the facts of the case, such absence of corroborative medical evidence created a serious gap in the prosecution case requiring extreme caution before sustaining conviction. (Paras 31-32)

Criminal Law - Benefit of doubt - Conviction based solely on dying declaration - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S. 32(1) - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - S. 161 - Where the cumulative effect of delayed F.I.R., delayed recording of witnesses' statements, non-recording of the father's statement, failure to send bloodstained clothes for chemical analysis, and absence of medical corroboration deprived the dying declaration of its indisputable character, it was legally unsafe to sustain conviction solely on such uncorroborated declaration - Prosecution having failed to establish guilt beyond reasonable doubt, the accused was entitled to benefit of doubt and acquittal. (Paras 32-35)

Held: A statement made by a deceased person as to the cause of death or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in death is admissible under S. 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 and there is no requirement of law that such statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate - A statement recorded by the police under S. 161 Cr.P.C. may, in appropriate circumstances, assume the character of a dying declaration and can legally form the sole basis for conviction but its reliability must be tested on the rule of prudence and it must inspire absolute confidence, be wholly unblemished and fit into the surrounding circumstances - In the present case, although the statement of the deceased prosecutrix recorded under S. 161 Cr.P.C. was admissible as a dying declaration, the cumulative effect of the delayed F.I.R., delayed recording of statements of witnesses, failure to record the statement of the father of the victim, investigative lapse in not sending the bloodstained clothes for chemical analysis (FSL), absence of medical examination of the victim, and lack of medical corroboration severely vitiated its evidentiary value - Such unexplained lapses and substantive inconsistencies introduced the possibility of afterthought, embellishment and tutoring and rendered it legally unsafe to sustain the conviction solely on the uncorroborated dying declaration - The prosecution, therefore, failed to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt and the appellant was entitled to the benefit of doubt - Consequently, the judgment of conviction and sentence was set aside and the appellant was acquitted of all the charges - appeal allowed. 1. This criminal appeal has been preferred by accused-appellant - Rajnish against the judgment and order dated 21.05.2008 passed by the Additional District and Sessions Judge, Meerut, in Sessions Trial No. 702 of 2008 (State vs. Rajnish) under sections 363, 366, 376 of I.P.C. whereby the learned trial court has convicted the accused-appellant under the aforesaid sections and sentenced him to undergo seven years of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of rupees 10,000 for the offence under Section 363 IPC, to undergo ten years of rigorous imprisonment and a fine of rupees 10,000 for the offence under section 366 I.P.C and to undergo life imprisonment and a fine of rupees 10,000 for the offence under section 376 I.P.C with default clause.

FACTS OF THE CASE

2. The prosecution's narrative arc may be summarized as follows :

On 05.11.1997, the daughter of Ajab Singh, a resident of village Lalpur, had gone to answer the call of nature. When she did not return, a search was conducted, and it was discovered that Rajnish, son of Surendra Singh, had enticed the girl away. At that time, the victim's age was approximately 15 years. A search was conducted among relatives, and on 06.11.1997, a report written by scribe Kirpal Singh was lodged. The victim's guardians received information to the effect that Rajnish's maternal grandfather had taken her to Durveshpur, where the police reached along with Richhpal and Ajab Singh. There, the accused's maternal grandmother informed them that Rajnish, Surajmal, Vikram, and Bhartu were taking the victim in a buggy to village Gavandi. On the way, the four accused were found going in the buggy with the victim; seeing the police, everyone fled from the spot, and she was recovered. It was stated by the victim to them that Rajnish had committed rape with her and she had been dishonored. Her clothes, which had bloodstains on them, were taken into possession by the police. The victim was given into the custody of Ajab Singh and she was brought to Richhpal's house. Her medical examination was to be conducted the next day, but the victim committed suicide during the night itself by hanging from a fan. The prosecution alleges that Rajnish kidnapped and raped the victim as an act of revenge. This was apparently because her family had rejected the proposal of marriage of Tejpal's son, who is a relative of the accused.

3. On the basis of written report (Ex.Ka.1), chik First Information Report (Ex.Ka.9) was registered at the police station concerned mentioning all details. G.D. entry was also made at the same time (Ex.Ka.10). The investigation of this case was conducted by R.K. Singh, In-charge Inspector, who after completing the investigation and the necessary formalities, submitted the chargesheet and the case being one exclusively triable by Sessions Court, was committed to Sessions Court for trial. The Charges were framed against the accused-appellant under Sections 363, 366, 376 IPC, which he denied and claimed trial.

4. On behalf of the prosecution, in order to support its case, the statements of PW-1 Kirpal Singh, PW-2 Richhpal, PW-3 Smt. Bala (mother of the deceased), PW-4 S.I. R.B. Dixit, PW-5 Head Constable Arvind Kumar, PW-6 S.I. R.K. Singh, and PW-7 N.K. Gupta were recorded. No evidence was produced by the defense.

5. In order to substantiate the ocular testimony and establish the procedural facts of the case, the prosecution has placed reliance upon and proved as documentary evidence : F.I.R.(Ex.Ka.9), Inquest Report (Ex. Ka-4), Constable's Form 13 (Ex. Ka-5), Photo of the body (Ex. Ka-6), Police Line report (Ex. Ka-7), CMO report (Ex. Ka-8), Site Plan (Ex. Ka-14), Post-mortem report (Ex. Ka-15), victim's Section 161 statement (Ex. Ka-15A), and Charge Sheets (Ex. Ka-12, Ka-13).

6. PW-1 Kirpal Singh, son of Shri Raghubir Singh, aged 63 years, resident of Lalpur, P.S. Bhavanpur, District Meerut, stated that the deceased was his granddaughter by village relation. He stated that the incident occurred on 05.11.1997 at approximately 06:00 AM when victim went to attend the call of nature but did not return. He stated that they searched for her in various places and among relatives. He further stated that on the following day, Ajab Singh informed him that the accused Rajnish had enticed his daughter and taken her away. Ajab Singh called him to his house and dictated a written complaint (tehrir), which the witness wrote down and Ajab Singh signed it in his presence, and the witness also signed it; the witness identified both signatures, and the document was marked as Ext. Ka-1. He stated that he and Ajab Singh together submitted this report at the police station. Further, the Sub-Inspector took him, Richhpal, and Ajab Singh to village Durveshpur to the house of Rajnish's maternal grandfather where accused's maternal grandmother informed them that Rajnish, Surajmal, Vikram, and Bhartu had taken victim in a buggy toward village Gavandi. He stated that they, along with the police, proceeded toward village Gavandi and spotted the buggy on the way, in which all four aforementioned accused persons and the victim were present. He stated that upon seeing them and the police, the four accused persons jumped off and fled, and only victim was recovered. He stated that the girl was then brought to Bhavanpur police station, where she informed them that when she had gone to attend the call of nature, the accused Rajnish raped her in a sugarcane field. He deposed that she stated she had been deeply disgraced. He further stated that the salwar and kurti of the victim, which were soiled and blood-stained during the rape, were taken into possession in his presence, and he identified his signatures on the recovery memo (fard), marked as Ext. Ka-2. He stated that the girl was handed over to the custody of Ajab Singh, marked as Ext. Ka-3. The witness deposed that they then brought victim to Richhpal's house in Meerut to stay until her medical examination was conducted the next morning. He stated that in the morning, it was learned that victim had committed suicide by hanging herself from a fan after locking the door.

7. PW-2 Richhpal Singh, son of Shri Tareef Singh, aged 50 years, resident of Phool Bagh Colony, Meerut, stated that he knew Ajab Singh, who was murdered about a year prior on 23.05.1999, and that victim was Ajab Singh's daughter. He stated that on 05.11.1997, at about 06:00 AM, she went to attend the call of nature but did not return. He stated they waited and searched for her. He also stated that she was about 16 years old at the time. He deposed that on 06.11.1997, the report was written by Kirpal Singh and after that he, Kirpal Singh, and Ajab Singh went with the police to search for her and learned that she was at the place of Surajmal and Bhartu in Durveshpur. He stated that upon reaching Durveshpur, it was found that the accused had taken her in a buggy toward Gavandi. He further stated that while traveling towards Gavandi, they saw four people taking the victim in a buggy; however, upon seeing the police, the four persons left the victim and fled. They brought the girl to the police station where her clothes were sealed and she was given to Ajab Singh's custody. He stated they then went to his house in Phool Bagh Colony. He deposed that in the presence of Ajab Singh, Kirpal Singh, and himself, the girl told the police that Rajnish and a bearded boy named Vikram had forcibly kidnapped her to a sugarcane field where rajnish tied her mouth, showed a knife, and raped her. The next morning, after having breakfast, the girl entered a room and committed suicide by hanging from a fan. He stated that victim had stated that since she had been raped, she was no longer able to show her face to the villagers.

7.1 In his cross-examination, he stated that on 5.11.1997, Ajab Singh informed him about the disappearance of victim. He further stated that, on 12.7.2000 it was the first time when he had given the statement in the court and before that he had not told these facts to anyone. His statement in court was recorded after three and a half years and he told everything on the basis of his memory.

8. PW-3, Smt. Bala, wife of Ajab Singh, aged 48 years, resident of Jagatpur, Delhi, stated, the incident occurred about 4 years and 11 months ago and that victim was approximately 15-16 years old at that point of time. She stated that on the day of the incident, at about 06:00 AM, victim went to the fields to attend the call of nature and did not return. She stated her husband and family searched for her but found nothing that day. She deposed that the next day, her husband found out that Rajnish and Vikram had abducted the girl and kept her at the house of Surajmal in village Durveshpur. She stated her husband mentioned Bhartu was also involved. She further stated that the girl was recovered by the police while the accused fled. She stated the police handed the girl over to the custody of her husband and Kirpal Singh, who took her to Richhpal's house. She stated that Manju committed suicide due to the loss of her honor because of what Rajnish had done.

8.1 In her cross examination, she stated investigating officer recorded her statement after 12-13 days of the incident.

9. PW-4, SI R.V. Dixit stated that on November 7, 1997, he was posted at Police Station Nauchandi. At 11:10 AM that day, a report was filed by Richhpal regarding the suicide of victim. Following this report, he proceeded to Richhpal's residence to conduct the inquest. He prepared the inquest report (Panchayatnama), which he identified as being in his handwriting and signature (Exhibit Ka-4). He then sealed the body and sent it for a post-mortem examination. He also confirmed preparing related documents, including Form-13 and letters to the RI and CMO (Exhibits Ka-5 to Ka-8).

10. PW-5: HC Arvind Kumar stated that on November 6, 1997, he was posted as a Constable Clerk at Police Station Bhavanpur. He recorded the Chick FIR (Exhibit Ka-9) based on the written complaint submitted by Ajab Singh. He entered this report into General Diary (GD) No. 37 at 21:30 hours on the same day. He identified a carbon copy of the GD (Exhibit Ka-10) because the original GD had been destroyed. A report from record keeper S.K. Sharma confirming the destruction of the original GD was also submitted (Exhibit Ka-11).

10.1 In his cross examination, he admitted that the Chick FIR was "ante-timed". He further admitted that Exhibit Ka-10 contained entries in different ink and lacked the author's signature. He also stated he could not remember or verify exactly when the FIR was sent to the court.

11. PW-6, SI R.K. Singh testified that he took over the investigation on December 2, 1997, following the death of the previous investigator, SI Suraj Pal Singh. SI R.K. Singh then recorded the statement of the accused Rajnish and initiated proceedings against other accused persons. He subsequently filed the charge sheet against Rajnish (Exhibit Ka-12). He also recorded statements of accused persons Bhartu, Surajmal, and Vikram, and filed charge sheets against them (Exhibit Ka-13). He proved the site map (Exhibit Ka-14) and recovery memos for the victim's clothes (Exhibits Ka-2 and Ka-3) as being in the handwriting of the late SI Suraj Pal Singh. He submitted a photocopy of the victim's statement under Section 161 CrPC (Exhibit Ka-15).

12. PW-7, Dr. N.K. Gupta testified that he was a physician at P.L. Sharma Hospital, Meerut. On November 7, 1997, at 5:00 PM, he performed the post-mortem on the body of deceased. He stated that her age was of approximately 15 years. He found following ante-mortem injuries on the body:

"A rope mark 30cm long and 1-1/2 cm wide which was obliquely on the neck, and this mark was between the chin and the windpipe. Upon cutting below this mark, the area was hard and glistening."

12.1 On External examination, he found
-Build and stature were normal.
- Post-mortem stiffness was present all over the body.
- There were no signs of putrefaction on the body.
- Cyanosis was present on the face.
-12.2 On Internal examination, he found
- The windpipe was congested; both lungs were congested.
- The liver, spleen, and kidneys were also congested.

- The C-2 bone of the neck was displaced from its position.
- The uterus was normal.
- There was 100 ML of water-like substance inside the stomach.
- Prepared 2 slides (Vaginal) of the deceased, sealed them, and handed them over to the accompanying constable so that he could get them tested.

12.3 He opined that the cause of death of the deceased was asphyxia as a result of hanging. He testified the report to be in his handwriting and signature, proved as Exhibit Ka-15 A.

13. After closure of prosecution evidence the incriminating evidence and circumstances were put to the accused in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. wherein he claimed the entire prosecution evidence / case as false and fabricated and stated that he had been implicated in the matter falsely due to enmity.

14. The learned trial court upon scrutiny of the evidence on record concluded that the case of prosecution was proved beyond reasonable doubt against the accused appellant and recorded conviction and sentenced him, as mentioned here-in-above. Hence, this appeal.

15. Heard Shri Y.S. Tyagi, Advocate holding brief of Shri Kamal Kishor Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Ajay Sharma, learned A.G.A. for the state at length.

SUBMISSIONS

16. Learned Counsel for the appellant has submitted that :

16.1 There is an unexplained delay of several hours in lodging the F.I.R., suggesting it was filed after due deliberation to concoct a false and fabricated story.

16.2 There are material contradictions in the statements of the witnesses of fact, specifically PW-1, PW-2, and PW-3.

16.3 There is an unexplained delay in recording the statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C..

16.4 The statement of Ajab Singh, father of the victim, was never recorded.

16.5 No medical examination of the prosecutrix was conducted despite allegation of rape and the post-mortem report does not support the allegation of sexual assault.

16.6 The victim's clothes, alleged by the prosecution to be blood-stained, were never sent for chemical analysis (FSL).

16.7 The "cause of death" of the victim has not been connected with the alleged rape; therefore, the statement of the victim recorded under section 161 C.r.P.C. cannot be treated as a dying declaration.

16.8 There is no eyewitness to the alleged suicide, and no documentary evidence has been produced to substantiate the occurrence of the suicide.

17. Per Contra, learned AGA argued that in view of the incriminating evidence against the appellant, learned trial court had rightly convicted the appellant. He submitted that the testimony of PW-1, PW-2, and PW-3 is consistent on the core facts of the incident and that minor contradictions do not erode their fundamental credibility. He further contented that the brief delay in lodging the F.I.R. and recording statements of witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was natural and same was without any deliberation. Furthermore, he contended that failure to send blood-stained clothes for FSL analysis is a mere investigative lapse and benefit of the same should not be given to the accused, keeping in view the gravity of the offence.

APPRECIATION AND ANALYSIS OF EVIDENCE :

18. From the careful scrutiny of the prosecution evidence, rival submissions and perusal of learned trial court judgment, we are of the view that the cornerstone of the prosecution's case rests upon the statement of the deceased which has been recorded by the police officer under section 161 Cr.P.C. and the same has been relied upon as dying declaration of the deceased. It has been argued that the statement of deceased cannot be held to be admissible as dying declaration as it was given to police officer and that too after due tutoring.

19. Before proceeding to deal with the submissions, we need to evaluate Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. It states :

Section 32(1) of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872; When it relates to cause of death-

"When the statement is made by a person as to the cause of his death, or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question."

20. The above-quoted provision implies that a statement, written or oral, made by a person who is dead as to the cause of his death or as to any of the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, in cases in which the cause of that person's death comes into question, becomes admissible under Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act. Such statement made by the deceased is commonly termed as 'dying declaration'. There is no requirement of law that such a statement must necessarily be made to a Magistrate. What evidentiary value or weight has to be attached to such statement, must necessarily depend on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. In a proper case, it may be permissible to convict a person only on the basis of a dying declaration in the light of the facts and circumstances of the said case.

21. In Sudhakar v. State of Maharashtra, (2000) 6 SCC 497, Hon'ble Apex Court reiterated that:

"8. In Rattan Singh v. State of H.P. [(1997) 4 SCC 161: 1997 SCC (Cri) 525] this Court held that the expression "circumstances of transaction which resulted in his death" means that there need not necessarily be a direct nexus between the circumstances and death. Even distant circumstance can become admissible if it has nexus with the transaction which resulted in death. Relying upon Sharad Birdhichand Sarda case [(1984) 4 SCC 116: 1984 SCC (Cri) 487] the Court held that: (SCC pp. 166-67, para 15)

"It is enough if the words spoken by the deceased have reference to any circumstance which has connection with any of the transactions which ended up in the death of the deceased. Such statement would also fall within the purview of Section 32(1) of the Evidence Act. In other words, it is not necessary that such circumstance should be proximate, for, even distant circumstance can also become admissible under the sub-section, provided it has nexus with the transaction which resulted in the death."

22. In the light of the aforesaid legal position, let us examine the statement of the deceased prosecutrix. The victim explicitly stated that;

"रजनीश ने मेरे साथ चार बार गन्ने के खेतो मे ही अब तक जबर (CRLA No. 4426 of 20088अस्पष्ट) बलात्का र िकया है। मै अब इस दु िनया में मुंह िदखानेलायक भी नहीं हूँ । मेरा भिवष् य अब सभी बबार्द हो गया है।

23. The words spoken by the prosecutrix are not merely expressions of personal grief but they serve as a vital link in the chain of events leading to her demise. The victim's statement that she had lost all dignity and could not continue to live in society under such shame clearly shows the mental trauma which directly led her to commit suicide. The Court finds that this declaration establishes a proximate and unbroken link between her state of mind and her death.

24. Further, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has, in a catena of authoritative pronouncements, settled the proposition of law that a statement made by the victim to the police under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure may, in appropriate circumstances, be treated as a dying declaration. In Pradeep Bisoi v. State of Odisha, (2019) 11 SCC 500, Hon'ble Apex Court reiterated that:

"12. A similar view has been expressed by this Court in Sri Bhagwan [Sri Bhagwan v. State of U.P., (2013) 12 SCC 137], wherein this Court had the occasion to consider Section 161 CrPC and Section 32 of the Evidence Act.

"20. While keeping the above prescription in mind, when we test the submission of the learned counsel for the appellant in the case on hand at the time when Section 161 CrPC statement of the deceased was recorded, the offence registered was under Section 326 IPC having regard to the grievous injuries sustained by the victim. PW 4 was not contemplating to record the dying declaration of the victim inasmuch as the victim was seriously injured and immediately needed medical aid. Before sending him to the hospital for proper treatment PW 4 thought it fit to get the version about the occurrence recorded from the victim himself that had taken place and that is how Ext. Ka-2 came to be recorded. Undoubtedly, the statement was recorded as one under Section 161 CrPC. Subsequent development resulted in the death of the victim on the next day and the law empowered the prosecution to rely on the said statement by treating it as a dying declaration, the question for consideration is whether the submission put forth on behalf of the respondent counsel merits acceptance."

25. Thus, it is clear that the statement given by the deceased to the police officer in the case in hand is admissible as a dying declaration. Now, the question arises as to whether this statement can form the sole basis for conviction of the accused, and what will be the evidentiary value of the same and upto what extent such statement may be relied upon.

26. In order to analyze these issues, we may refer the relevant judicial precedents on the point.

27. In Dharmendra Kumar v. State of M.P. (2024) 8 SCC 6, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that:

"65. Section 161CrPC empowers the police to examine orally any person who is acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case under investigation. The police may reduce such statement into writing also. Section 162(1) CrPC, nonetheless, mandates that no statement made by any person to a police officer, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it, nor shall such statement be used in evidence except to contradict a witness in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Evidence Act. However, sub-section (2) of Section 162CrPC carves out an exception to sub-section (1) as it explicitly provides that nothing in Section 162 shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the ambit of clause (1) of Section 32 of the Evidence Act. In other words, a statement made by a person who is dead, as to the cause of his death or to the circumstances of the transaction which resulted in his death, to a police officer and which has been recorded under Section 161CrPC, shall be relevant and admissible, notwithstanding the express bar against use of such statement in evidence contained therein. In such eventuality, the statement recorded under Section 161CrPC assumes the character of a dying declaration. Since extraordinary credence has been given to such dying declaration, the court ought to be extremely careful and cautious in placing reliance thereupon…"

28. Similar view has been reiterated by the Courts in the case of Neeraj Kumar v State of UP 2025 SCC OnLineSC 2639, Shampoo Alias Surendra Pratap singh vs. State of U.P. 1981 Supreme (all) 475 Ram Bihari Yadav v. State of Bihar, (1998) 4 SCC 517, Panipuri Naresh v. State of A.P., (2012) 12 SCC 495, and Sunil Kashyap v. State of Bihar, (2020) 18 SCC 725.

29. From the above judicial precedents, it is clear that while a statement under Section 161 CrPC given to a police officer is admissible as a dying declaration, its reliability must be tested against the rule of prudence. Although a conviction can legally be based on such a statement alone, yet the courts emphasize the importance of corroboration from other circumstances to ensure that the declaration is truthful, voluntary, and not a result of tutoring or imagination. Therefore, the evidentiary value of such a statement is significantly strengthened when it is supported by medical evidence, independent witness testimony etc., ensuring that it is safe to rely upon it as a ground for conviction.

30. Now the Court proceeds to analyze as to whether the dying declaration given by the victim is corroborated from other circumstances to ensure that the same was truthful and voluntary. In the instant case, there are several glaring procedural lapses and substantive inconsistencies critically undermining the prosecution's case. Primarily, the unexplained delay in lodging the First Information Report (FIR) and the subsequent delay in recording the statements of key witnesses cast a shadow of doubt over the truthfulness of the allegations. Such unexplained delays are fatal to the prosecution's narrative, as they introduce the distinct and dangerous possibility of afterthought, embellishment, and tutoring. When the initial reporting and the recording of statements of witnesses are delayed without a plausible explanation, the foundational narrative becomes suspicious, suggesting that the version of events may have been deliberately concocted rather than being a natural and immediate reaction to the alleged incident.

31. Further, it is a matter of record that no medical examination of the victim was conducted, nor does the post-mortem report establish any act of sexual violence. It is a settled principle that while the testimony of the victim in a sexual offence is vital, the total absence of a medical examination, creates a significant gap in the prosecution's case. In Baleshwar Mahto and another Vs. State of Bihar and another, (2017) 3 SCC 152, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that where medical evidence is completely missing or contradicts the ocular version, it would be turned as serious contradiction and the court must exercise extreme caution. Moreover, in Pankaj Rana Vs. State of Punjab, 2013 SCC OnLine P&H 15686, it was held that while corroboration is not a rule of law, it is a rule of prudence; the lack of medical findings to support the allegation of force or sexual intercourse can, in specific factual matrices, lead to a cloud of doubt regarding the occurrence.

CONCLUSION

32. Thus, it is evident that while evaluating the dying declaration, the rule of prudence must be strictly applied. A dying declaration can only form the sole basis for conviction if (i) it inspires absolute confidence, (ii) is wholly unblemished, and (iii) fits into the surrounding circumstances. In the present matter, the cumulative effect of the delayed FIR, delayed recording of statements of witnesses, failure to record the statement of father of the victim, investigative lapse to send the bloodstained clothes of the victim for chemical analysis (FSL) and a glaring lack of medical corroboration severely vitiates the dying declaration of its indisputable character. In light of these substantive evidentiary gaps and contradictions, it becomes exceedingly difficult and legally unsafe to rely solely on the uncorroborated dying declaration (recorded by the police officer under section 161 Cr.P.C.) to sustain the conviction of the appellant, as the prosecution has manifestly failed to establish the guilt of the accused beyond a reasonable doubt.

33. Hence, upon careful analysis and consideration of the settled legal position in the backdrop of the facts and circumstances of the present case, we are of the opinion that the conclusion taken by the Trial Court in the impugned judgment and order is not in accordance with law and the evidence available on record. Thus, this Court is of the view that the prosecution has not been able to establish the guilt of the accused appellant beyond reasonable doubt. Therefore, the Court is inclined to grant benefit of doubt to the accused appellant on the ground of rule of caution.

34. The impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 21.05.2008, which has been sought to be assailed, call for and deserves, interference and instant criminal appeal is liable to be allowed.

35. Accordingly, the Criminal Appeal is allowed and the impugned judgment and order is set aside. The accused appellant is acquitted of all the charges framed against him. He be set at liberty. He is in jail. He shall be released forthwith, if not wanted in any other case.

36. Office is directed to communicate this order to the court concerned forthwith for compliance and also send back the trial court record.

37. We are thankful to Ms. Anjali Singh, Research Associate for ably assisting the Court.

Issue for consideration

The present case relates to one deceased Mamta, wife of appellant was found dead in her matrimonial house on 14.08.20217; prosecution alleged dowry harassment and strangulation, leading to conviction under section 302 IPC, which was challenged in appeal.

Headnotes

A. Criminal matter-Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 302-Indian Evidence Act-Section 106-Matrimonial home death-Husband's conviction-Burden of proof—Application of last seen theory-Husband working as a driver, often staying away from home-Prosecution fail to establish the physical presence of the husband at the scene of occurrence-Non-examination of material witness (real sister residing in the same village)-Medical ambiguity-Ligature marks without broken hyoid bone or fingernail scratches-Possibility of suicide by hanging not ruled out-Conviction based on mere presumption of staying under the same roof unsustainable-Appeal allowed.(Para 24 to 30)

Held

The court held that the prosecution cannot invoke section 106 of the Evidence Act to shift the burden of proof onto a husband merely because a death occurs under a shared matrimonial roof, without first establishing his physical presence at the scene. In the light of material contradictions between witnesses, the non-examination of a crucial neighborhood witness, medical evidence supporting suicidal hanging, and the acquittal of co-accused on identical evidence, the sole conviction of the husband u/s 302 IPC is unsustainable.

Appellant acquitted. (E-6)

1. The present criminal appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 7.4.2023 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Rampur, in Session Trial No. 372 of 2017 (State vs. Mahipal and others), in Case Crime No. 552 of 2017 under Section 302 IPC, Police Station - Milak, District - Rampur, whereby the trial court had convicted the appellant to undergo life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC with a fine of Rs. 30,000/- and in case of default of payment of fine, he shall undergo four months additional imprisonment.

2. Upon the death of Mamta, the niece of the first informant Sri Rameshwar, an FIR was got lodged on 15.8.2017 which had given rise to Case Crime No. 552 of 2017. The alleged incident had taken place on 14.8.2017. As per the FIR version, the first informant had informed that the daughter of the elder brother of the first informant was married around 3 years earlier to Mahipal. In the marriage, it has been said, the elder brother Sompal had given sufficient dowry to the accused Mahipal. However, the in-laws were not satisfied with the dowry and, therefore, immediately after the marriage the husband of the deceased, Mahipal, her father-in-law Sompal, her mother-in-law Sharda, jethani Saroj, jeth Brijesh and nanad Kumari Annu were from the very beginning after the marriage torturing her. In this regard, a panchayat was also held. However, in the mid night of 14/15.8.2017 they all had together killed his niece Mamta. Upon getting the information about the death of Mamta, he had stated that he had reached the matrimonial house of Mamta and, thereafter, he had found that her dead body was lying and that the family members had run away. He had stated that at the place where the dead body was lying he had left behind his brother Sompal and had gone to get the FIR lodged.

3. Upon the FIR being lodged, the Police got into action and the inquest report was prepared on the 15.8.2017 itself. The inquest had commenced at 10:05am and had got completed at 11:00am. The dead body along with the Panchayatnama and the FIR etc. was sent for post mortem which was conducted on 15.8.2017 at 2:45PM. The cause of death was said to be asphyxia due to ante-mortem throttling. It was, however, said that the viscera was preserved. The police thereafter recorded the statements of various witnesses and also that of the accused persons and submitted its report before the Court, which on 20.1.2018 framed charges under Sections 498-A and 304-B IPC. An alternative charge under Section 302/34 IPC was also framed on 7.12.2022. The charges were framed against the husband Mahipal, the father-in-law Sompal and the mother-in-law Smt. Sharda.

4. For proving of the prosecution case, as many as 7 prosecution witnesses were examined. Ashok Kumar Singh was produced as the court witness and from the side of the defence, three defence witnesses, namely, Smt. Chameli Devi, Rajpal, Harpal Singh were also examined.

5. P.W.-1 was the first informant, namely, Rameshwar. He had deposed before the Court in his examination in chief that the deceased was his niece and was the daughter of his brother Sompal. He had reiterated the facts as were stated in the FIR. In the statement-in-chief he had stated that for 4 -5 months after marriage in the place of the in-laws everything went off well but after that there were demands of dowry. In the dowry, Rs. 1 lac cash, one car and money for the purposes of building a house were demanded. He had stated that when the dowry was not given then they used to beat the deceased Mamta. After the completion of one year of marriage when the demand of dowry was not fulfilled then Mamta was also turned out of her house. With regard to the turning out of Mamta from her matrimonial house, a report was also got lodged at the Mahila Police Station. However, thereafter, there was an agreement reached between the parties with the help of all the relatives. Upon the rapprochement, Mamta went back to her matrimonial house but again after sometime the in-laws started beating her. On 14.8.2017, he had stated that when dowry was not given she was killed by strangulation and the culprits were Mahipal, Sompal, Sharda, Brijesh and Annu. He had stated that thereafter he had reached the matrimonial house of the deceased on 15.8.2017 where none of the family members were to be found and the dead body was lying on a cot inside the room. On the neck there was an injury and there was a black line on it. On the head, there was a swelling. He had stated that he had got the FIR lodged against all the six accused and he had got it reported by dictating it to his nephew Arvind and he had, thereafter, proved the FIR. In the cross-examination, he had stated that Sompal and he himself i.e. Rameshwar were living in the same house. He had stated that in the morning he along with his nephew Arvind had gone to the place of incident at Partapur. They had started at 7:00am on a bike. After half an hour of their reaching Partapur, the elder brother of the first informant Radhey Shyam, another nephew Poshaki Lal and other relatives also started in two tractor trolleys. One tractor-trolley belonged to the pradhan of the village and the other tractor-trolley belonged to Poshakilal and he had stated that in the village Partapur another daughter of Sompal was got married and the name of the other daughter was Guddi and her husband□s name was Jai Virath. Guddi was the eldest daughter amongst the brothers and sisters. He had stated that Guddi had not given the news to him but other persons of the village had given that news. Who had rung him up, he did not know and he had also not asked the name of that person. He had also not verified about the death of Mamta from Guddi. When he had reached Partapur, Guddi was not there and she had also not reached the place of incident till such time as the informant□s side was there. He had stated that when he had reached Partapur then no one of the in-laws side was there. However, when he and his nephew Arvind had reached, the other villagers had reached the place of incident whose name the informant did not know. He had stated that he stayed back at the place of incident for about 15 minutes. Who all had killed Mamta was informed by the person who had informed him of the incident on the phone. For him to reach at Milakh Kotwali from Partapur, it had taken about 15 to 20 minutes. At the police station, the nephew Arvind had scribed the FIR on his dictation. He had in the cross-examination stated that whenever Mamta used to come to her Maika, she used to tell everything about her in-laws. Upon asking the villagers as to where the family members of the in-laws had gone, the villagers had told the informant that they had left the village at around 4:00am in the morning. He had stated that even though the relations with Guddi the elder sister of the deceased were cordial, they had not contacted Guddi. He had stated that he had no idea that the elder brother of the accused Mahipal, namely, Brijesh had gone to Bagad (a place of pilgrimage). He had stated that Mamta was a simple girl and that he had no idea if she was suffering from any fits of anger etc. Upon further cross-examination, he had stated that because there was swelling on the neck and on the head he had stated that there was throttling. Upon a question being asked as to where the child of the deceased was born, he had told that the child was born in the Lovey Hospital. After the child was born, she had stayed for some time with the in-laws and thereafter for sometime, she went to her maika. He had also stated that he had no idea as to how much was the expense of the hospital as the same was borne by his brother. He had further stated in his cross examination that it was wrong to say that because the husband of the deceased was a driver and because of that reason he used to remain out of the village and, therefore, the husband was vexed when she was not found in the matrimonial house. He had further stated that it was also not correct that because she stayed for long periods in her maika, her husband did not get the happiness she could give. He had stated that in his presence never any altercation had taken place for the purposes of dowry. In fact, he had stated that in the FIR he had not mentioned about the demand of dowry because nothing of that sort had happened in his presence ever.

6. P.W.-2, was the father of the deceased, Sompal. He had stated that the deceased was his daughter and that he had married her off around three years earlier with Mahipal and had given her enough dowry. He had stated that around 8 to 10 months after the marriage, Mamta used to inform him about the demand of dowry by her in-laws. He had also stated that she was turned out of her matrimonial house because of the non-payment of dowry. He had also stated that he had got a report lodged in the Mahila Police Station at Rampur. However, the two families had arrived at an agreement when there was a panchayat of the relatives. For sometime things went off smoothly but thereafter again the demand of dowry started off. He had stated that for a very long period, the deceased was not given food and when she used to fall ill she was not given any money for buying medicines. He had stated that he used to send money for the medicines. He had, thereafter, stated that the incident had taken place around one and a half year prior to the date of the recording of the testimony in the Court and that on 15.8.2017 his elder daughter Guddi whose house was in the neighbourhood of the house of Mamta had rung him up and had informed him that the in-laws had throttled Mamta. He had stated that upon hearing this, all the family members had gone to the in-laws place at Partapur. There he had found that the in-laws were not present in the house. In the statement-in-chief, further he had stated that when he had reached the house at Partapur, he had found the dead body lying on a cot. He had also found some injury on the neck and head. He had stated that his brother Rameshwar had informed the police about the incident. After all the formalities the dead body was cremated. In the cross-examination he had stated that he had given enough dowry to the husband of the deceased at the time of the marriage. He had also stated in the Court, that he had also given a list of things which he had given as dowry. He had stated that whenever his daughter and son-in-law used to come to the village they were seen off with presents. He had stated that he had not gone to get the FIR lodged and thus the same was lodged by his brother Rameshwar. He had stated that he had given enough dowry at the time of marriage. He had stated that his son-in-law Mahipal was a driver and also used to do farming and had stated that it was correct to say that for many days together his son-in-law used to be out of the house and that his daughter used to stay in her maika. On the date of the incident, he had reached the place of incident half an hour after his brother and his nephew had reached. Thereafter he had stated that at the house the inmates of the susural and various villagers were there. In the cross-examination again he had stated as to how he had got the information and then he had stated that his son-in-law was present.

7. He had stated that his daughter was never happy in her in-laws house. She had become pregnant after two years of marriage and had stayed in her in-laws house thereafter. The medical treatment was also given by the in-laws. The child, however, was a still born child and was born in the Lovey hospital and that he had got her admitted in the maika in the Lovey hospital. He had however no proof about it. He had stated that the in-laws had kept the daughter admitted for 4 days in the Lovey hospital. From the time she conceived till such time as she delivered the baby she had remained in the matrimonial home. She never came to her maika. After she was discharged from the hospital she had gone to her in-laws. The child was born after full 9 months. When the deceased was pregnant, the maika vala used to visit her. He had stated that he had not got the FIR lodged as he was unconscious at the relevant point of time. He had also stated that police had never taken any statement of his. Upon being confronted with a statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he had stated that he had not got any statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. recorded. On the date of incident he was unconscious. What was got recorded in the FIR he did not know. Whether Brijesh, the Jeth, had gone for pilgrimage he did not know. Why his brother despite knowledge that there was a demand of dowry had not mentioned in the FIR that Rs. 1 lac was demanded, he did know. He had stated that whenever his son-in-law Mahipal used to go out as a driver his daughter i.e. the deceased used to stay with her in-laws and she never used to go to her maika. He had further stated that he had on many an occasion brought the deceased to his own house. Then he had stated that he had seen the injuries on the body of the deceased and that it was present on the waist and neck and on the neck there were injuries of beating by danda also. He had stated that earlier also she used to get beatings. He had never got reported those beatings as he feared that the son-in-law Mahipal would abandon her. He had in the cross-examination stated that the deceased had never fallen ill and, therefore, earlier when he had stated in his statement that he used to give her medicines was a wrong statement. The fact was that no medicine was required by her. He had stated that his other daughter Maldei (Guddi) was also got married in the village where the deceased had got married and Maldei had never informed of any torture or demand of dowry. He had stated that it was wrong to say that because the father had kept the daughter for a very long time in maika, therefore, Mamta had committed suicide. He had thereafter in the end stated that it is wrong to say that she used to stay very happily in the matrimonial home.

8. P.W.-3 was the Sub Inspector Satendra Kumar who was the Investigating Officer at the relevant point of time. He was also present at the time of the panchayatnama. He had stated in his cross-examination that he had not found any evidence of any broken bangles. She was also wearing a chain(mala) in her neck. There was no apparent injury on the body. On the neck there was a ligature mark. How the death had taken place, he had no idea. She was wearing a round Bindi and her clothes were proper. From the panchayatnama it was apparent that there were a few people from her maika and a few people from her Sasural. No danda etc. was recovered.

9. P.W.-4 was one Vinod Babu, the brother of the deceased. He had stated in the examination-in-chief that he had solemnized the marriage of his sister in the village Partapur, Police Station Milakh, District Rampur, with Mahipal around 3 years prior to the date of incident. For a period of 8 to 9 months everything went off well and thereafter there was a demand of Rs. 1 lac and a car and some money for the construction of house. The demand was made by the husband Mahipal, her father-in-law Sompal, her mother-in-law Sharda, her sister-in-law Annu, her Jeth Brijesh and jethani Saroj. When the demand was not fulfilled, the deceased was tortured and somehow she used to go to her village i.e. her mother’s place. When a complaint was made with the police then the in-laws asked for forgiveness and they also stated that they would never in future demand any dowry. For some time everything went off well but subsequently he states that Mahipal and his family members killed the deceased. Upon getting the information about the death of the deceased, he had stated that he had reached the village Partapur where he had found the dead body on a cot. He had stated that he had seen the injuries on the eye-brows, neck and at that point of time, the accused persons were not available in the house and the FIR was lodged by his uncle Rameshwar. He had also signed on the Panchayatnama. The compromise which was earlier entered into was also seen by him and he had stated that it was a Panchayatnama which was entered between the family members of the deceased and her in-laws. In the cross-examination, he had stated that information with regard to the death had reached his uncle on phone. He or his father had not received any information. In the cross-examination, further he had stated what he had got recorded in the examination-in-chief. Upon a question being asked whether he had got any case lodged earlier then he had said that he had got a case lodged in the Mahila Police Station. He, however, had stated that he did not have a copy of the FIR as the matter had resulted in a compromise. He had, in fact, not known even about the case crime number. He had stated that the deceased never used to stay continuously for 15 to 20 days in her susural. Even though she used to get a beating at the in-laws place he had stated that he never used to get a medical done. Whenever they used to say that they would not torture her then they used to take her to the in-laws place. When the deceased was pregnant, he had stated that the routine check up was got done by in-laws as also by her family members on the mother's side. He had stated that he did not remember as to who had taken the discharge certificate. The still born child was born almost after one and a half or two years of the marriage of Mamta.

10. P.W. -5 is the Doctor who had conducted the post mortem along with other doctors in the panel. He had stated about the ante- mortem injuries that were there, namely traumatic swelling on the top of the head and on the right eye-brow. There was also an injury on the neck, both on the front side and on the back side. There was an abrasion on the chest of the left side. The doctor had stated that the hyoid bone was intact and the opinion given by the doctor was that it could have been caused by throttling. However, the viscera was preserved. He had also stated that at the time of post mortem all the articles of make up, namely, bangles etc. were in proper state. He had also given an opinion that the case could have been that of hanging and the injuries could have been because the body had fallen down when it was being taken down from the rope. There were no thumb impressions on the throat which are usually found at the time of throttling and, therefore, he also stated that the death could happen because of hanging and that it also could be a case of suicide. In the cross-examination, however, further he had stated that there was no sign of any rope being used for hanging. He had then stated that if throttling by hand was done then there would have been some signs of nails on the neck. Upon a question being put as to whether it was essential for the finger prints to be there if there was throttling then he had answered that it was not possible without them. He has stated that hyoid bone normally got broken in the case of throttling but it was not essential at all times.

11. P.W.-6, Sri O.P. Arya was the investigating officer and he had stated the manner in which the investigation was done. He had stated that it was right to say that at the time of the incident most of the family members were not there but the whereabouts of Mahipal, the husband who was a driver could not be told. He had, however, stated that it was wrong to say that she had committed suicide as she was tired of the people in the maika.

12. P.W.-7 was the constable Harendra Singh who had proved the chik.

13. A Court Witness by the name of Ashok Kumar Singh was also summoned and had stated that on 15.8.2017 he was posted at Tehsil Milakh as Tehsildar and he had gone to oversee the panchayatnama on the relevant date. He had stated that on the body of the deceased there was no sign of any resistance and, there was no injury to that effect. However, there was only a ligature mark on the throat. There was absolutely no sign of any weapon having been used. The ligature mark, it was said could have been there because of hanging. The other articles of make up namely a chain (neckless) Bindi and bangles were found intact.

Thereafter, the statements of the accused persons were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. They had denied having committed the crime.

14. From the side of the defence also, certain witnesses had appeared.

D.W.-1 was Smt. Chameli Devi. She had very categorically stated that Mamta had died by hanging. The door was closed from inside and she had hung herself to death with the help of a Chunni. She had stated that father of Mahipal had informed her that Mahipal had gone somewhere else in some programme of Janamasthmi. When the incident had occurred, the mother of Mahipal had raised a hue and cry and quiet a few people of the village had collected and from the window they had seen Mamta hanging. They broke down the door and entered. She had stated very categorically that Mamta had committed suicide. She had, upon a question being asked as to why she was taken down from hanging position then she had replied that it was thought that she might have been saved by taking her down from the hanging position. She had also stated that her in-laws never tortured her. She had stated that Mahipal used to go for driving and was very often out of the house. She had basically stated that the deceased was happy in the house of the in-laws and there was no torturing etc done. The child of Mamta was also born by surgery and that the entire expenses were borne by Mahipal, the accused.

15. In the cross-examination, she stood firm and had stated that Sompal, the father-in-law of the deceased had come and informed her about the death of Mamta.

16. D.W.-2 Rajpal had also stated somewhat the same thing as was stated by the D.W.-1. He had also stated that he was not in any manner related to the accused persons.

17. D.W.-3 is Haripal Singh. He had also stated exactly what the D.W.- 1 and 2 had stated that Mamta had died by hanging herself.

18. Upon completion of the Trial, the court on 7.4.2023 had acquitted Sompal @ Dhyan Singh and Smt. Sharda of the charges under Section 498-A, 304-B, 302/34 IPC and Section 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act. However the Trial Court convicted the accused appellant Mahipal under Section 302 IPC, then the instant criminal appeal was filed by Mahipal.

19. Learned counsel for the appellant Sri Bishram Tiwari assisted by Sri Ritesh Singh has submitted that the witnesses of fact i.e. the P.W. 1, 2, 3 and 4 had simply concluded that because of the fact that the incident had occurred in the house of the appellant Mahipal, the appellant alone was responsible and had to be convicted.

20. Learned counsel for the appellant assailed this aspect of the case by submitting that as per the law laid down by the Supreme Court in the judgement of Smt. Gargi v. State of Haryana reported in AIR 2019 SC 4864, settled law was that even if the appellant was the husband of the deceased and both of them were staying under the same roof, the fact remained that such companionship in itself did not mean that a presumption of guilt of the appellant had to be drawn. The Trial Court could not have thus proceeded in the manner it had proceeded by presuming that the appellant was guilty as per the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act. He had submitted that it was the bounden duty of the prosecution to discharge its primary burden of proving the case of the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt. The prosecution first had to work its way through various evidence to find out that the appellant was actually in the house at the relevant point of time. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that the appellant was a driver and there was every possibility that he was not in the house at all.

21. Since the learned counsel for the appellant relied upon paragraph no. 33 of the judgment in the case of Smt. Gargi v. State of Haryana reported in (2019) 9 SCC 738, they are being reproduced here as under:-

"33. The prosecution has relied upon another circumstance that the deceased was lastly in the company of the appellant and she had failed to explain his whereabouts as also the circumstances leading to his death.

33.1 Insofar as the □last seen theory□ is concerned, there is no doubt that the appellant being none other than the wife of the deceased and staying under the same roof, was the last person the deceased was seen with. However, such companionship of the deceased and the appellant, by itself, does not mean that a presumption of guilt of the appellant is to be drawn. The trial court and the High Court have proceeded on the assumption that Section 106 of the Evidence Act ["106. Burden of proving fact especially within knowledge.-When any fact is especially within the knowledge of any person, the burden of proving that fact is upon him.□] directly operates against the appellant. In our view, such an approach has also not been free from error where it was omitted to be considered that Section 106 of the Evidence Act does not absolve the prosecution of its primary burden. This Court has explained the principle in Sawal Das [Sawal Das v. State of Bihar, (1974) 4 SCC 193 : 1974 SCC (Cri) 362] in the following: (SCC p. 197, para 10)

"10. Neither an application of Section 103 nor of 106 of the Evidence Act could, however, absolve the prosecution from the duty of discharging its general or primary burden of proving the prosecution case beyond reasonable doubt. It is only when the prosecution has led evidence which, if believed, will sustain a conviction, or which makes out a prima facie case, that the question arises of considering facts of which the burden of proof may lie upon the accused."

33.2. On the facts of the present case, it emerges that as per the version of PW 7, the deceased was lastly in his company on 28-4-1997 when he allegedly expressed his dejection and fear as also his plan to return with luggage. The appellant has pointed out that the deceased was with her in the morning of 29-4-1997 when he pointed out his tour programme commencing that day with scheduled return on 3-5-1997. It is not in dispute that the deceased was regularly on tour for longer durations of about two weeks in connection with his duties. The dead body was recovered on 1-5-1997 and as per post-mortem report, the probable time that had elapsed between death and post-mortem (on 2-5-1997 at 12.30 p.m.) was 24 to 72 hrs. On the basis of this opinion, it cannot be assumed by way of arithmetical calculation that the deceased might have met with his end on 29-4-1997. The possibility of it being a day later is not ruled out.

33.3. In the given set of circumstances, the last seen theory cannot be operated against the appellant only because she was the wife of the deceased and was living with him. The gap between the point of time when the appellant and the deceased were last seen together and when the deceased was found dead had not been that small that possibility of any other person being the author of the crime is rendered totally improbable. In Sk. Yusuf [Sk. Yusuf v. State of W.B., (2011) 11 SCC 754 : (2011) 3 SCC (Cri) 620] , this Court has said: (SCC pp. 760-61, para 21)

"21. The last-seen theory comes into play where the time gap between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were last seen alive and when the deceased is found dead is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the author of the crime becomes impossible."

22. The other arguments raised by the learned counsel were as follows:-

I. Still further, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that one more sister of the deceased known by the name of Guddi @ Maldeihad got married in the very same village where the deceased had got married but she had never given the information of the death and also the sister of the deceased was not in the know of the fact that her own sister was being tortured in any manner whatsoever.

II. Learned counsel for the appellant further submitted that if the evidence of the various prosecution witnesses of fact are seen then also it becomes clear that the first informant was the uncle of the deceased and he had stated that somebody had rung him up to inform about the death but in fact he was unable to tell the name of the person who actually had informed him and the call details were also not looked into when the investigation had taken place and, therefore, it was not reliable to believe that somebody had informed him. Further, the case of the P.W.-1 becomes doubtful when P.W.-2 who was the father had said that he had directly got information at around 8 to 9 AM in the morning on the date of the incident. The father had also never got the FIR registered but he was stating that he had got the FIR scribed. The source from where the father got information also was the elder daughter and this fact was never disclosed by P.W.-1.

III. Learned counsel for the appellant had submitted that when the still born child of the deceased was born there were contradictory stands taken by the prosecution witnesses as to who had met the expenses of the treatment. The P.W.-1 had stated that it was the Maikawala who had got the treatment done whereas the P.W.-2 and other prosecution witness i.e. the brother of the deceased had stated that the in-laws had got the treatment done.

IV. Learned counsel for the appellant had further stated that when there were statements from the side of the defence also that they had seen the incident actually with regard to the hanging of the body from the roof then that aspect of the matter ought to have been looked into by the Trial Court.

V. Learned counsel for the appellant further stated that if there had to be a strangulation there in the absence of any hyoid bone being fractured then a definite medical opinion ought to have been there with regard to the fact as to whether there were any thumb nail marks on the throat. Learned counsel for the appellant states that when thumb nail marks on the throat were absent and the ligature mark was there present on the neck and throat then there was a possibility that the deceased had died owing to hanging.

VI. Learned counsel for the appellant had submitted that when other co-accused had been discharged of the charges levelled against them and the evidence was led with regard to all the accused virtually on the same ground that the deceased and the accused were all living under the same roof then for the trial court to take a view different for the accused definitely had a prejudicial effect on the case of the appellant who was the only accused who was convicted.

23. Learned AGA Sri Amit Sinha opposed the appeal and submitted that in view of the evidence which was there against the accused and in view of the fact that the deceased had died in the house of the accused appellant then there was no other presumption to be drawn than the one which had been drawn by the trial court.

24. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties, we are of the view that the prosecution did not discharge its duty of actually coming up with the evidence which would have gone to prove that despite the fact that the husband i.e. the accused appellant was staying with the deceased under the same roof he alone was the person who had actually committed the crime. In the instant case, we find that the appellant's husband was a car driver and he quite often used to be away in connection with his job but at no point of time the prosecution specifically pointed out that in fact the appellant alone had committed the crime and conclusions had been drawn because of the provisions of Section 106 of the Evidence Act that if the accused was living with the appellant then it was the appellant's duty to have explained as to how the murder had taken place. In the instant case, we find that the very first prerequisite was that the prosecution should have come up with the case whereby it would have been found that the husband was on that particular date in the house where the deceased had died. In the absence of the primary function which had to be performed by the prosecution whereby they had to prove that the husband was actually present in the house at that particular point of time, we are of the view that the prosecution had failed in its duty and thus the only irresistible conclusion is that when the prosecution itself had failed to discharge its duty of bringing in evidence to prove that the husband i.e. the appellant was in the house at the relevant point of time and had committed the murder, then the accused appellant is entitled for acquittal. Also it is noteworthy to mention here that one of the most important witnesses of cruelty, harassment and demand of dowry, etc. was the elder daughter of Sompal i.e. Maldei alias Guddi, who was married in the very same village where the deceased Mamta was married. She has not been produced by the prosecution. She would have been the test witness regarding the allegations levelled by the in-laws of Mamta (deceased) as both were real sisters and were married in the same village. Had Maldei alias Guddi was examined by the prosecution she would have been a much better witness than those produced by the prosecution.

25. Further, PW-2, in his examination-in-chief, has very clearly stated that Maldei alias Guddi was married in the neighbourhood of Mamta s matrimonial home and he has also stated that Maldei informed him on telephone that Mamta was beaten and was throttled to death by her in-laws, whereas PW-1, on the other hand who is the uncle of deceased Mamta, has vehemently stated in his cross-examination that the information as to the death of Mamta was not given by Guddi. So, at this juncture, there is a big contradiction between the version of the witnesses. It has also been stated by the prosecution witnesses that the cost of treatment during pregnancy of Mamta was borne by the Maikawalas and in the same context the other prosecution witness says that the cost was borne by the in-laws of the deceased. Therefore, here also appears a contradiction which although not very material to the case but holds an importance as the family members of the deceased would have known the fact as to who borne the expenses when the deceased was undergoing a surgery during her pregnancy, when still born child was born.

26. Moreover, the defence witnesses, namely, Chameli Devi, Rajpal and Harpal Singh have also been examined and they all have stated that Mamta died due to hanging and they have also stated about the injuries which they saw on the body of the deceased. The doctor, who conducted the post-mortem of the deceased, has also stated in his cross-examination that the injuries caused on the body of the deceased, may be due to hanging.

27. Therefore, in view of the above, we are of the view that prosecution has completely failed to establish the charges levelled against the appellant and that if on the same set of evidence, the two accused Sompal alias Dhyan Singh and Smt. Sharda Devi were acquitted of the charges levelled against them, it was bad to convict the sole appellant-Mahipal on account of the same evidence.

28. Thus in view of what has been stated by us, we are of the view that the appeal deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order dated 7.4.2023 passed by the Sessions Judge, Rampur, be set aside.

29. The instant criminal appeal is, therefore, allowed and the judgement and order dated 7.4.2023 passed by the Sessions Judge, Rampur, is set aside.

30. That the appellant is honourably acquitted of all the charges under which he was tried. Since the appellant is acquitted of all the charges, the sureties and bail bonds be discharged. The appellant be, therefore, released forthwith if he is not required in any other case.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Opposite Parties

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether, after alteration of charges u/s 216 Cr.P.C. during the pendency of trial, the accused were entitled, as a matter of right u/s 217 Cr.P.C., to recall and further cross-examine prosecution witnesses, and whether the trial court had erred in rejecting such prayer on the ground that it was intended merely to delay the trial proceedings.

Headnotes

Indian Penal Code, 1860 - ss. 302, 147, 148, 149, 120-B, 452, 212 - Arms Act, 1959 - s. 27/30 - Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 - ss. 216, 217, 311, 397(2) - Constitution of India, 1950 - Article 21 - Alteration of charge - Recall of witnesses - Maintainability of revision - The petitioners, who were facing trial in connected sessions cases arising out of offences including murder and offences under the Arms Act, challenged the order dated 27.08.2025 whereby the trial court rejected their application seeking recall of prosecution witnesses PW-8 and PW-9 - Initially, charges under the Arms Act had been framed on 21.04.2023, however, after examination of several prosecution witnesses, the trial court altered the charges on 06.06.2025 by additionally framing a charge u/s 5/27 of Arms Act - Contending that the alteration of charge conferred upon them a statutory right u/s 217 Cr.P.C. to further cross-examine the investigating witnesses with reference to altered charge, the petitioners sought their recall - The trial court declined the request on the premise that it was intended to delay the trial - Aggrieved thereby, the petitioners invoked the revisional jurisdiction of High Court.

Held: The testimonies of PW-8 and PW-9, started on 18.12.2024 and the same completed on 03.06.2025 when the cross-examination of PW-9 concluded - The application by the petitioners, who are in custody was moved promptly on 19.06.2025 after alteration of charge on 06.06.2025, therefore, it cannot be said that the petitioners-accused moved the application with an object to delay the trial proceedings - The original charge apprises the accused about alleged commission of offence punishable under Arms Act also, but the omission to frame charge against them u/s 5/27 Arms Act, 1959 is not attributed to accused, and once the trial court has altered the charge, the accused, are well within their right to seek recall of prosecution witnesses PW-8 and PW-9 for cross-examination, who were directly related to the investigation, as well as the recovery of weapon - There is nothing on record to suggest ,that in case, the permission is granted to the accused to recall PW-8 and PW-9 any prejudice would be caused either to the complainant or prosecution – Accordingly, petition allowed, thus, impugned order set aside. REVISIONAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Revision No. - 120 of 2026

From the Judgment and Order dated 27.08.2025 passed by Additional District and sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No.1 Budaun in connected Sessions Trial Nos.446, 448 and 465 of 2023, arising out of connected Case Crime Nos.351, 352 and 353 of 2022 all registered at Police Station Ushait, district Badaun.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Manoj Bajaj, J.)

1.Petitioners are aggrieved against the order dated 27.08.2025 passed by Additional District and sessions Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), Court No.1 Budaun in connected Sessions Trial Nos.446, 448 and 465 of 2023, titled State Vs. Chand Mohammad and others, arising out of connected Case Crime Nos.351, 352 and 353 of 2022, under Sections 302, 147, 148, 149, 120-B, 452 and 212 I.P.C. and Sections 27/30 Arms Act, 1959 all registered at Police Station Ushait, district Badaun, whereby their prayer for recalling prosecution witnesses, PW-8 and PW-9 for examination on the ground of alteration of charge has been dismissed.

2.Learned counsel for the petitioners has argued that the petitioners being accused are facing the prosecution in murder trial, wherein charges against them in S.T. Nos.446 and 448 of 2023 were framed on 21.04.2023 under Sections 3/25(1)(1b) and Section 3/25 Arms Act, 1959 respectively. Learned counsel has argued that after the commencement of trial, the prosecution examined its witnesses including PW-8-S.I. Jitendra Singh and PW-9-Awadhesh Kumar Singh, Inchrage Station House Officer, who were associated with the investigation. He further submits that after examination of ten witnesses, the charges in Sessions Trial Nos.446 and 448 of 2023 were altered vide order(s) dated 06.06.2025 and the petitioners were also additionally charged for alleged commission of offence punishable under Section 5/27 Arms Act, 1959. Learned counsel submits that since the charges were altered by the trial court on its own, therefore, the accused-petitioners moved an application seeking recalling of the two prosecution witnesses, PW-8 and PW-9 for further cross-examination, but the said prayer has been declined through the impugned order dated 27.08.2025.

3.Sri Rohit Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioners has drawn the attention of the Court to the impugned order dated 27.08.2025 to argue that the trial court has not carefully analyzed the provisions of Section 217 Cr.P.C., and it erroneously proceeded to dismiss the applications on the sole ground that the accused are making an attempt to delay the trial proceedings. He prays that the impugned order be set aside and the application for recalling PW-8 and PW-9 be allowed.

4.The prayer is vehemently opposed by Sri Chandrashekhar, learned counsel for the complainant on the ground that the alteration is not surprising the accused with a new charge as in the original order framing charges against the accused they were made aware that they had committed an offence under Arms Act, 1959. That apart, learned counsel has argued that the order in respect of recalling a witness is interlocutory in nature, therefore, such an order is not revisable in view of the bar contained in section 397(2) Cr.P.C. In this regard, learned counsel has relied upon the decision of Delhi High Court in Neelam Mahajan and another Vs. The State of others, 2016(229) DLT, 29, therefore, according to him, the revision petition be dismissed as not maintainable.

5.Lastly, according to learned counsel for the complainant the cross-examination of PW-8 and PW-9 already stood conducted by the accused at length and all the questions regarding weapon and recovery etc. had already been put to the witnesses, therefore, apparently, the recall of witnesses by the accused-petitioners is aimed to delay the trial proceedings, and the trial court has rightly declined the prayer. According to him, the impugned order dated 27.08.2025 does not call for any interference by this Court in exercise of revisional jurisdiction. He prays that the revision petition be dismissed.

6.Learned State Counsel has argued that the witnesses, PW-8 and PW-9 are related to the alleged recovery of weapon of crime and they have already been subjected to cross-examination by the petitioners, but during hearing it is not disputed by the learned State Counsel that the charges against the petitioners were altered after completion of their testimony.

7.After hearing learned counsel for the parties and considering their submissions, this Court finds that as far as the facts of the case are concerned, the same are not disputed, as concededly, initially the charges against the petitioners were framed on 21.04.2023, and the offence punishable under Section 5/27 Arms Act, 1959 in the connected trials bearing Sessions Trial No.446 and 448 of 2023 was added vide order(s) dated 06.06.2025. As far as alteration of the charge under Section 216 Cr.P.C. is concerned, the trial court is vested with this power to alter the charge, at any stage, before the pronouncement of judgment, if, evidence and material on record suggests that necessary and relevant charge was not framed against accused as a result of an omission. If, the power vested with trial court under Section 216 Cr.P.C. is exercised, the safeguard for the prosecution as well as the accused are also provided in the following Section 217 Cr.P.C.. The said section reads as under:

"Section 217. Recall of witnesses when charge altered :

Whenever a charge is altered or added to by the court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed-

(a) To recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration or addition, any witness who may have been examined, unless the court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, considers that the prosecutor or the accused, as the case may be, desires to recall or re-examine such witness for the purpose of vexation or delay or for defeating the ends of justice;

(b) Also to call any further witness whom the court may think to be material."

8.A careful reading of the above section would show that whenever the charge against the accused is altered by the trial court during the trial proceedings, a right is vested with the prosecution as well as the accused to recall or re-summon any witness, who has already been examined, and this permission to recall or re-summon the witness can be denied, if it is for the purpose of vexation or causing delay.

9.At this juncture, it is relevant to read Section 311 Cr.P.C., which is extracted below:

"Section 311. Power to summon material witness, or examine person present :

Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

10.A plain reading of the above section makes it abundantly clear that this provision empowers the trial Court to analyze the relevance and importance of any person as a witness, in the context of the trial or other proceedings pending before it, and if, in the considered opinion of the trial Court, the summoning of the said person for examination as a witness or recall of a witness already examined for the purposes of re-examination, appears to be necessary in order to reach at just conclusion, the exercise of discretionary power would be justified. It is needless to observe here that this power being extra ordinary in nature cannot be invoked in a routine manner, but in exceptional situations, keeping in mind the facts and other attending circumstances of the case.

11.The comparison of above two provisions contained in Code of Criminal Procedure would show that the above two sections are distinct in nature, as the expression contained in Section 217 Cr.P.C. makes it absolutely clear that whenever there is alteration of the charge, prosecution or the accused, as the case may be, can seek indulgence of the trial court to re-summon or recall any witness, who has already been examined. If, an order rejecting the prayer of an accused to recall or re-summon the prosecution witnesses is rejected, it may affect the right contemplated by Section 217 Cr.P.C., therefore, such an order cannot be construed as an interlocutory in nature and the bar contained under Section 397(2) Cr.P.C. would not be attracted.

12.Thus, Section 217 Cr.P.C. cannot be equated with Section 311 Cr.P.C., as the discretionary power vested with the trial court to recall, re-examine or summon any witness during inquiry, trial or other proceedings under Code of Criminal Procedure cannot be pressed as a right. An order under Section 311 Cr.P.C. is purely discretionary, therefore, such an order being interlocutory in nature is not revisable, and the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the complainant also deals with an order under Section 311 Cr.P.C., wherein it is held that the revision is barred under Section 397 (2) Cr.P.C. As a result, the judgment in Neelam Mahajan and another Vs. The State and others, (Supra) is not applicable in this case.

13.Concededly, the testimonies of PW-8-S.I. Jitendra Singh and PW-9-Awadhesh Kumar Singh, Incharge Station House Officer started on 18.12.2024 and the same completed on 03.06.2025 when the cross-examination of PW-9 concluded. The application by the petitioners, who are in custody was moved promptly on 19.06.2025 after alteration of charge on 06.06.2025, therefore, it cannot be said that the petitioners-accused moved this application with an object to delay the trial proceedings. Even otherwise, the accused-petitioners are confined in custody since their arrest on 11.11.2022 and the delay in trial would adversely affect them, therefore, the observation by the trial court in the impugned order that the accused have moved this application to delay the trial court proceedings is erroneous.

14.No doubt, the original charge apprises the accused about alleged commission of offence punishable under Arms Act also, but the omission to frame charge against them under Section 5/27 Arms Act, 1959 is not attributed to the accused, and once the trial court has altered the charge, the accused, are well within their right to seek recall of the prosecution witnesses PW-8 and PW-9 for cross-examination, who were directly related to the investigation, as well as the recovery of weapon. Similarly, the argument by learned counsel for the complainant that as the two prosecution witnesses have already been subjected to lengthy cross-examination and all material questions have already been put to them, their further cross-examination may not be necessary is also without any force, because not only the cross-examination of these two witnesses is prior to alteration in charge, but even the two different offences defined under Arms Act, 1959 carry different punishments.

15.Further, while examining the issue conversely, there is nothing on record to suggest ,that in case, the permission is granted to the accused to recall PW-8 and PW-9 any prejudice would be caused either to the complainant or prosecution. Most importantly, Article 21 Constitution of India also guarantees right to fair trial to the accused, and if, the permission is denied to the accused , it may deprive them of their right to fair trial, therefore, considering the entire background of the case as well as the law on the subject, this Court has no hesitation in holding that the trial court vide impugned order dated 27.08.2025 has committed a serious error of law in refusing to recall two prosecution witnesses, PW-8-S.I.Jitendra Singh and PW-9-Awadhesh Kumar Singh, Inchaerge Station House Offiocer under Section 217 Cr.P.C.

16.Resultantly, the revision petition succeeds, impugned order dated 27.08.2025 is set aside and it is ordered that the two witnesses be recalled for cross-examination by the accused-petitioners.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of the orders rejecting the claims of the petitioners for payment of higher pension on their joint option.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Pension – Ceiling – Higher pension on joint option – Claim of higher pension was rejected on the ground that Rule 20.2.1 of the HAL Trust Rules limits the pensionable salary to Rs. 6,500/- despite the fact that the employer is contributing 8.33% on the actual salary, and the pension has already been dispersed on the statutory ceiling of Rs. 15,000/- – Validity challenged – Hindustan Aeronautics Limited, a government undertaking, operates as an exempted establishment u/s 17 of the Act, 1952, for the purpose of provident fund through the Trust – Effect

Held : The Act of 1952 as well as the scheme of 1995, amended time to time, envisage the beneficial provisions to the employees of the respondent department and the other establishments. The ceiling, which has been prescribed, under the Rules of the Trust, made under the Act, if contrary to the object of the beneficial scheme, would be unsustainable to that extent as the same is less beneficial. [Para 26]

Further held : If any provision is contrary to the settled proposition of law, as is apparent from the Trust Rules, which curtails the beneficial right of the employees, it would be a nullity to that extent. Even otherwise the scheme of 1995 has also got the statutory strength and the provisions of the Trust rules would have no overriding effect over, to the sphere of the intent and object of promulgation of the Act of 1952 and the scheme of 1995. [Para 27] (E-1)

Advs. for the Respondents : Akhilesh Pratap Singh; Prakash Kumar Sinha.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Anshuman Singh Rathore, learned counsel for the petitioners, Mr. Akhilesh Pratap Singh, learned counsel for the respondent nos. 1 and 2, and Mr. Prakash Kumar Sinha, learned counsel for respondent nos. 3 and 4.

2. Since identical questions are involved for adjudication in the present petition and the other connected petitions, therefore, all the writ petitions are being decided collectively.

3. The petitioners have preferred the writ petitions, being aggrieved that the claims of the petitioners for payment of higher pension on their joint option, has been rejected.

4. The brief factual matrix of the case is that the petitioners were employees of the Hindustan Aeronautics Limited (HAL), Lucknow, and have been retired after attaining the age of superannuation while discharging their duties on various posts and are getting their pensions. The HAL is a public sector undertaking which functions under the administrative control of the Ministry of Defence, Government of India. The HAL is an exempted establishment under Section 17 of the Employees' Provident Fund and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (hereinafter referred to as the 1952 Act). For the limited purpose of managing the provident fund through the HAL Employees Provident Fund Trust Rules, the employer's share of the contribution to the Employees Pension Scheme, 1995 is regularly remitted to the EPFO in accordance with the scheme. The contribution towards the pension has regularly been made on the actual salary of both the employer and the employees in accordance with the statutory provisions of the scheme 1995.

5. The dispute has arisen once the Regional Provident Commissioner, Lucknow, rejected the joint option forms for higher pension on the ground that Rule 20.2.1 of the HAL Trust Rules limits the pensionable salary to Rs.6,500/- despite the fact that the employer is contributing 8.33% on the actual salary, and the pension has already been dispersed on the statutory ceiling of Rs.15,000/-. The Regional Provident Fund Commissioner, perhaps, has considered the Rule 20.1 and 20.2.1 of the Trust Deed, and has rejected the joint option forms on higher pension.

6. The issue for adjudication herein is whether the ceiling on the contribution shall be applicable as per the Trust Deed, or the higher permission would be payable as per the joint option forms for higher pension.

7. The submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the respondents, without properly applying their minds and on layman's, arbitrary grounds, have refuted to accept the joint option form and further denied higher pension, which caused great prejudice to the petitioners. He submits that Section 17(1)(C) of the 1952 Act provides that an establishment exempted under Section 17(1)(A) of the Scheme 1995 shall not be exempted from the Employees Pension Scheme framed under Section 6A. He added that HAL is exempted only from the scheme 1995 and continues to be governed fully by the Employees Provident Fund Scheme, 1995. He added that the employees have already contributed as per the actual salary and, consequently, the liberty provided under Section 26 (6) of the 1952 Scheme has effectively been exercised.

8. Further submission is that the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner has wrongly relied upon the Trust Rules, which prescribes a ceiling of Rs.6,500/- for disbursement at 8.33% towards the pension fund against the statutory enhancement to the tune of Rs.15,000/- by notification dated 22.8.2014, as the issue has already been dealt with by the Apex Court, in the case of R. C. Gupta Vs. RPFC, (2018) 14 SCC 809, and, therefore, the rejection of the joint option given by the petitioner goes against the aforesaid settled law. He also submits that the ratio of the judgment in R. C. Gupta (supra) has been re-affirmed in the case of EPFO versus Sunil Kumar B., reported in (2023) 12 SCC 701.

9. Adding his arguments, he submits that the respondent authorities, relying upon the ceiling provided under the Trust Rules, have declined to accept the joint option whereas the same is against the Scheme, 1995, which is a statutory scheme and has the overriding effect over the Trust Rules. He added that the absence of a procedural clause cannot defeat the statutory right of higher pension conferred under Section 66(9) of the 1952 and the Scheme, 1995. Therefore, the restriction in the form of a ceiling would have no statutory restriction.

10. Giving strength to his arguments, he submits that alone higher pension to the petitioners would not impose any additional financial burden on the employer or the pension fund as both the employer and employees have already contributed on the actual salary which exceeded the ceiling as is prescribed under the Trust Rules, and, in this view, the adjustment of the 8.33% from the employer share towards the pension fund is merely a statutory diversion.

11. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that so far as paragraph 27 AA expressly provides that any beneficial amendment to the Central Scheme applies automatically to employees of exempted establishment, even before formal amendment of Trust Rules and further, since the Scheme, 1995, is a beneficial scheme, therefore, the same cannot be denied by way of any rule or provision of the Trust Rules and if it is permitted so, the statutory right as enshrined in the Scheme, 1995, shall be unfurnished. Thus submission is that the impugned orders passed by the respondent authorities, by which the joint option has been refuted and the payment of the higher pension from the actual deduction from the salary of the petitioners, is unjustified and, therefore, the orders impugned may be quashed and a writ of mandamus may be issued to the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner to approve the joint option of the petitioners submitted before him thereby providing the enhanced pension in terms of the judgment and order dated 4.11.2022 passed by the Apex Court in the case of EPFO Vs. Sunil Kumar B.(supra).

12. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondent nos. 1 & 2 submits that Trust Rules are framed by HAL under the statutory provision which provides a ceiling of contribution by the employer and the employees, and, therefore, the same restricts the contribution on the actual salary as is prescribed under the Scheme, 1995. It is further submitted that the Trust Rules do not provide any permit for exercising any joint option either by the employer or by the employee to contribute over and above the ceiling limit and since there is no amendment in the Trust Rules regarding the ceiling limit, therefore, it is binding upon the petitioners. He submits that there is no conflict between the Act, 1952, and the Rules, 1995, that the Trust Rules permit to contribute only on the ceiling limit provided in the Act, 1952 and, therefore, submission is that there is no illegality or informality in the decision making of the authority as the same has been taken in complete adherence to the judgment and order passed by the Apex Court.

13. Mr. P. K. Sinha, learned counsel appearing for the HAL, submits that the employer has already been agreed for joint option, for payment of pension, on higher pay to the petitioners/employees within the prescribed time frame and the contribution has been deducted from the pay of the petitioners accordingly, therefore there would be no extra financial burden upon the employer or employees at this stage. He submits that the Trust Rules would not come in the way of the mandate of the Act, 1952, as well as the Scheme, 1995 and, therefore, the petitioners are entitled for the higher pension as per the actual deduction, on the actual pay of the petitioners.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the records, it is apparent that the petitioners are the retired employees of the HAL and after their retirement, the issue has arisen that whether they are entitled for the payment of pension, on the ceiling amount, as prescribed under the Trust Rules or the actual deduction, which has already been made by the employer, and the contribution given by the employees/petitioners on the actual salary, in furtherance to the provision of the Act, 1952, as well as the Scheme, 1995 and as per the settled proposition of law.

15. When this Court examines the matter in facts and law, it reveals that there is no dispute that the petitioners have been the employees of the HAL. Further, it is also admission in between the parties that the contribution of the employees and the employer have been deducted, on their actual salary. It is also undisputed that the employer has no objection if the petitioners are paid the higher pension, on the actual deduction made on the salary of the petitioners.

16. The dispute has arisen because of the provision of the Trust Rules. In fact the HAL is a Government of India Public Undertaking and engaged in the manufacture and maintenance of the aircraft and defence systems. It operates as an exempted establishment under Section 17 of the Act, 1952, for the purpose of provident fund, through the Trust. The provision of the Trust Rules, which are relevant, are the Rules 20.1 and 20.2.1, which read as under:-

"20.1 Every member shall subscribe to the Fund every month sum equal to 12% of his monthly running Basic Pay, DA and retaining allowance if any (without limit in Pay) equal contribution payable by the company to the Fund of members (for P.F only).

20.2 EMPLOYER CONTRIBUTION TO THE FUND

The employer shall transfer to the Board of Trustees the contribution payable to the Provident Fund by himself and employees at the rate prescribed under the Act from time to time by the 15th of each month following the month for which the contributions are payable. The employer shall be liable to pay simple interest in terms of the provisions of section 7Q. of the Act for any delay in payment of nay dues towards the Board of Trustees, 20.2.1 Out of Company's Contribution 8.33% of member's wages subject to a maximum of Rs. 6500.00 of eligible members shall be diverted to Member's Pension Contribution and shall be remitted to The Regional Provident Fund Commissioner U.P. within 15 days of the close of every month. The cost of remittance shall he born by the employer provided that where the pay of the member exceeds Rs. 6500/- per month, the balance of the employer contribution shall be credited to the member's individual account the establishment is not liable to make any contribution in respect of voluntary contribution. The contribution of employees pension fund shall be applicable only in case if the employee is a member of employees pension scheme 1995."

17. The pension scheme for the Employees of the HAL was adopted by introducing Section 6A, in the Act of 1952, with effect from 16.11.1995, and the quantum of the pension is to be fixed, as per the formula specified in paragraph 12 of the scheme. Section 7 of the Act 1952 empowers the Central Government to amend the scheme, both prospectively and retrospectively, subject to compliance with certain procedures provided in this provision. Except apart, the trust rules following provisions, which are relevant with respect to the contribution of the employer and employees and the payment of pension, are extracted herein under:-

"i. The Employees' Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 has been enacted with the primary objective to provide for compulsory provident fund, pension, and deposit-linked insurance benefits to employees working in factories and other establishments.

a. Section 6 - Contribution towards provident fund- Both the employer and employee are required to contribute equally to the Provident Fund on the employee's basie wages, dearness allowance, and retaining allowance, if any. The standard rate of contribution is ten percent, which may be enhanced to twelve percent by the Central Government for specific establishments. Employees may voluntarily contribute more, though the employer is not bound to match the excess.*

b. Section 6A Employees' Pension Scheme - It empowers the Central Government to frame the Employees' Pension Scheme for providing superannuation, retirement, disablement, and family pensions. The Scheme is administered by the Central Board of Trustees.

c. Section 17-Power to Exempt

Section 17(1) authorises the appropriate Government to exempt any establishment from all or any provisions of the Provident Fund Scheme if its own fund provides benefits not less favourable than those prescribed under the Act. Such exemption may be granted prospectively or retrospectively, but only after consultation with the Central Board.

Section 17 (1A) The employer of an exempted establishment must constitute a Board of Trustees to administer the fund, maintain detailed accounts, submit returns, and invest monies as per Government directions.

Section 17(1C) Exemption from the Pension Scheme This Section allows the Government to exempt an establishment or class of establishments from the operation of the Employees' Pension Scheme, 1995, if employees are covered by another pension scheme that offers benefits at par or more favourable than those under the statutory Scheme. The exemption is subject to prescribed conditions, particularly regarding the pattern of investment of the pension fund and other safeguards notified by the Government.

Section 17(6)-Employer's Obligation of Exempted Establishments-This Section provides that, subject to sub-section (IC), the employer of an exempted establishment or of an exempted employee of an establishment to which the provisions of the Employees' Pension Scheme apply shall, notwithstanding any exemption granted under sub-section (1) or (2), continue to pay to the Employees' Pension Fund such portion of the employer's contribution to its provident fund as may be specified in the Pension Scheme, within the time and manner prescribed therein. This provision ensures that the obligation to contribute towards the statutory Pension Fund remains unaffected by any exemption, thereby safeguarding employees' entitlement to pensionary benefits under the Act.

ii. Employee's Provident fund Scheme 1952 has been framed by the Central Government exercising the power providing under sec. 5 of the EPF and MP Act, 1952.

a. Paragraph 26(6): provides that, notwithstanding anything contained elsewhere in the Scheme, an officer not below the rank of Assistant Provident Fund Commissioner may, on a joint written request made by an employee and his employer, permit such employee to be enrolled as a member of the Fund or to contribute on a salary exceeding Rs. 15,000/-per month (initially 5000/-, later enhanced to 6500/-), if he is already a member. Upon such enrollment, the employee becomes entitled to all the benefits and is subject to all the conditions of the Fund, provided that the employer furnishes a written undertaking to pay the prescribed administrative charges and to comply with all statutory provisions applicable to such employee.

b. Paragraph 27AA provides that all exemptions already granted or to be granted under Section 17 of the Act or under Paragraph 27A of the Scheme shall be subject to the terms and conditions specified in Appendix A."

18. At the earlier stage, when the respondent department declined to entertain the joint option, the matter went up to the Apex Court wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra) has held that the right of joint option of the employees of the HAL would have no cut-off date, and, therefore, after the amendment under the scheme of 1995, the employees would have the right to take the joint option. The relevant paragraphs of the aforementioned judgment is quoted herein under:-

"8. A further argument has been made on behalf of the Provident Fund Commissioner that the appellant employees had already exercised their option under Para 26(6) of the Employees' Provident Funds Scheme. Para 26(6) is in the following terms:

"26. Classes of employees entitled and required to join the fund.?(1)-(5)

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in this paragraph, an officer not below the rank of an Assistant Provident Fund Commissioner may, on the joint request in writing, of any employee of a factory or other establishment to which this Scheme applies and his employer, enroll such employee as a member or allow him to contribute more than [Substituted by Notification No. S-350/2/2/96-SS II dated 4-5-2001, for "rupees five thousand". Earlier the words "rupees five thousand" were substituted by GSR 718(E), dated 23-9-1994, for the words "rupees three thousand and five hundred" (w.e.f. 1-10-1994).] [six thousand five hundred rupees] of his pay per month if he is already a member of the fund and thereupon such employee shall be entitled to the benefits and shall be subject to the conditions of the fund, provided that the employer gives an undertaking in writing that he shall pay the administrative charges payable and shall comply with all statutory provisions in respect of such employee.

9. We do not see how exercise of option under Para 26 of the Provident Fund Scheme can be construed to estop the employees from exercising a similar option under Para 11(3). If both the employer and the employee opt for deposit against the actual salary and not the ceiling amount, exercise of option under Para 26 of the Provident Scheme is inevitable. Exercise of the option under Para 26(6) is a necessary precursor to the exercise of option under Clause 11(3). Exercise of such option, therefore, would not foreclose the exercise of a further option under Clause 11(3) of the Pension Scheme unless the circumstances warranting such foreclosure are clearly indicated.

10. The above apart in a situation where the deposit of the employer's share at 12% has been on the actual salary and not the ceiling amount, we do not see how the Provident Fund Commissioner could have been aggrieved to file the LPA before the Division Bench of the High Court. All that the Provident Fund Commissioner is required to do in the case is an adjustment of accounts which in turn would have benefited some of the employees. At best what the Provident Commissioner could do and which we permit him to do under the present order is to seek a return of all such amounts that the employees concerned may have taken or withdrawn from their provident fund account before granting them the benefit of the proviso to Clause 11(3) of the Pension Scheme. Once such a return is made in whichever cases such return is due, consequential benefits in terms of this order will be granted to the said employees."

19. Vide the aforesaid judgment and order, the Hon'ble Apex Court has categorically held that the joint options presented on or before the 31st of January 2015, shall be accepted by the respondent, as the cut-off date has not been accepted by the Apex Court in presenting joint option. It has also been provided that after remittance of the differential contribution to the EPFO by the employees along with the interest, a higher pension shall be disbursed.

20. This issue has again been brought before the Apex Court, in the case of EPFO Vs. Sunil Kumar B. (supra), wherein it has been held as under :-

"50.We accordingly hold and direct:

(i) The provisions contained in the notification no. G.S.R. 609(E) dated 22nd August 2014 are legal and valid. So far as present members of the fund are concerned, we have read down certain provisions of the scheme as applicable in their cases and we shall give our findings and directions on these provisions in the subsequent sub-paragraphs.

(ii) Amendment to the pension scheme brought about by the notification no. G.S.R. 609(E) dated 22 August 2014 shall apply to the employees of the exempted establishments in the same manner as the employees of the regular establishments. Transfer of funds from the exempted establishments shall be in the manner as we have already directed.

(iii) The employees who had exercised option under the proviso to paragraph 11(3) of the 1995 scheme and continued to be in service as on 1 September 2014. will be guided by the amended provisions of paragraph 11(4) of the pension scheme.

(iv) Th The members of the scheme, who did not exercise option, as contemplated in the proviso to paragraph 11(3) of the pension scheme (as it was before the 2014 Amendment) would be entitled to exercise option under paragraph 11(4) of the post amendment scheme. Their right to exercise option before 1? September 2014 stands crystallized in the judgment of this Court in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra). The scheme as it stood before 1 September 2014 did not provide for any cut-off date and thus those members shall be entitled to exercise option in terms of paragraph 11(4) of the scheme, as it stands at present. Their exercise of option shall be in the nature of joint options covering pre-amended paragraph 11(3) as also the amended paragraph 11(4) of the pension scheme.

There was uncertainty as regards validity of the post amendment scheme, which, was quashed by the aforesaid judgments of the three High Courts. Thus, all the employees who did not exercise option but were entitled to do so but could not due to the interpretation on cut-off date by the authorities, ought to be given a further chance to exercise their option. Time to exercise option under paragraph 11(4) of the scheme, under these circumstances, shall stand extended by a further period of four months. We are giving this direction in exercise of our jurisdiction under Article 142 of the Constitution of India.

Rest of the requirements as per the amended provision shall be complied with.

(v) The employees who had retired prior to 1 September 2014 without exercising any option under paragraph 11(3) of the pre-amendment scheme have already exited from the membership thereof. They would not be entitled to the benefit of this judgment.

(vi) The employees who have retired before 1 September 2014 upon exercising option under paragraph 11(3) of the 1995 scheme shall be covered by the provisions of the paragraph 11(3) of the pension scheme as it stood prior to the amendment of 2014.

(vii) The requirement of the members to contribute at the rate of 1.16 per cent of their salary to the extent such salary exceeds Rs. 15000/- per month as an additional contribution under the amended scheme is held to be ultra vires the provisions of the 1952 Act. But for the reasons already explained above, we suspend operation of this part of our order for a period of six months. We do so to enable the authorities to make adjustments in the scheme so that the additional contribution can be generated from some other legitimate source within the scope of the Act, which could include enhancing the rate of contribution of the employers. We are not speculating on what steps the authorities will take as it would be for the legislature or the framers of the scheme to make necessary amendment. For the aforesaid period of six months or till such time any amendment is made, whichever is earlier, the employees contribution shall be as stop gap measure. The said sum shall be adjustable on the basis of alteration to the scheme that may be made.

(viii) Will We do not find any flow in altering the basis for computation of pensionable salary.

(ix) We agree with the view taken by the Division Bench in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra) so far as interpretation of the proviso to paragraph 11(3) (pre-amendment) pension scheme is concerned. The fund authorities shall implement the directives contained in the said Judgment within a period of eight weeks, subject to our directions contained earlier in this paragraph.

(x) The Contempt Petition (C) Nos. 1917-1918 of 2018 and Contempt Petition (C) Nos. 619-620 of 2019 in Civil Appeal Nos. 10013-10014 of 2016 are disposed of in the above terms.""

21. The issue under the consideration before the Apex Court was, whether the amended provisions, which imposed cut-off date and restricted higher pension entitlement only to those employees, who had exercised a joint option earlier, were valid in light of the judgment and order rendered in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra), and the Apex Court, while upholding the validity of the 2014 amendment in the 'Scheme 1995', held that those, who did not exercise an option as contemplated in Proviso 2, paragraph 11 (3) of the pension scheme [as it was before the 2014 amendment] would be entitled to exercise the option under paragraph 11(4) of the post-amendment scheme, and their right to exercise the option before 1st September 2014 stands crystallized. Thus, the Hon'ble Apex Court has reiterated the law rendered in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra), while holding that no cut-off date existed under the pre-amended paragraph 11 (3) of the scheme of 1995, and restricting higher pension benefits to those who had earlier exercised the option, would be contrary and a window of joint option has been reopened, thus allowed all eligible employees and employers to jointly apply for higher pension under the amended scheme.

22. Now, coming to another reason, which has been assigned by the Regional Fund Commissioner, is that since Rule 20.1 and 20.2.1 of the trust rules made under the Act of 1952 provide the cap/limitation, and, therefore, the joint option for higher contribution on actual salary has been rejected.

23. It is worth consideration that Rule 38 of the Trust Rules says that the more beneficial scheme shall be made applicable to the employees. Rule 38 of the Trust Rules Rules reads as under:-

Rule 38. ALTERATIONS OR AMMENDMENT IN THE RULES,

These Rules may from time to time be altered, enlarged or reduced in such manner as the board may consider desirable, for the proper implementation of the Rules or for the administration thereof including difficulties in the matter of payment of accumulations in the Fund to members after they cease to be such members, and each member shall be bound by the amendments, additions or otherwise in the same manner as in the original rules.

Provided that all such amendments shall have received the prior approval of the Commissioner of Income-Tax and the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner (or in the event of any appeal by the company, the central Provident Fund Commissioner). A copy of all amendments to the Rules shall be sent to the Commissioners.

Any amendment to the Scheme, which is more beneficial to the employees than the existing rules of the establishment, shall be made applicable of them automatically pending formal amendment of the Rules of the Trust.

24. Further Rule 42 Speaks about the overriding effect and it says that if the Trust Rules are silent on any matter, the provisions of the scheme will prevail. Thereafter Rule 42.2 provides that if any provision of Rules conflicts with any provision of the scheme 1952, the letter shall always deem to prevail. The Rule 42.3 also talks about that question with respect to more beneficial scheme will be decided by the Regional Provident Commissioner concerned. Rule 42.1, 42.2, 42.3 are extracted as under:-

Rule 42. Statutory provisions to have overriding effect:

If these rules are silent on any matter, the provisions of the scheme will prevail, and that the rules shall be brought at per by providing for matching benefits from the date of introduction of provision of any new benefit in the scheme.

42.1 in the absence of any specific provisi□n in these rules of if any provision of the rules is less beneficial than the corresponding provision of the employees provident fund & Misc, provisions Act 1952 and the employees provident fund scheme 1952, framed there under the latter provisions shall prevail, mutates mutandis.

42.2 Where any provisions of rules conflicts with any provisions of the EPF. Scheme 1952, the latter shall always be deemed to prevail.

42.3 Question whether a particular rule is beneficial or not shall be decided by the Regional Provident Fund Commissioner whose decision shall be final.

25. From bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions, it culled out that while framing Trust Rules, the framers were aware of focusing to adopt the more beneficial scheme for the members/employees and further in case of any less beneficial provision of the Rules than the scheme, there is deeming provision that the provision of scheme shall prevail.

26. In fact, the Act of 1952 as well as the scheme of 1995, amended time to time, envisage the beneficial provisions to the employees of the respondent department and the other establishments. The ceiling, which has been prescribed, under the Rules of the Trust, made under the Act, if contrary to the object of the beneficial scheme, would be unsustainable to that extent as the same is less beneficial.

27. It is also relevant in this regard that the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of R.C. Gupta (supra) and EPFO versus Sunil Kumar B (supra) has allowed the joint option scheme with higher contribution, and the cut-off date, as was made in the amendment, in the scheme, was found unsustainable. Therefore, if any provision is contrary to the settled proposition of law, as is apparent from the Trust Rules, which curtails the beneficial right of the employees, it would be a nullity to that extent. Even otherwise the scheme of 1995 has also got the statutory strength and the provisions of the Trust rules would have no overriding effect over, to the sphere of the intent and object of promulgation of the Act of 1952 and the scheme of 1995.

28. In view of the aforesaid submissions and discussions, this Court finds merit in the writ petition. Ergo, the present writ petition, including the connected writ petitions having identical issues, are hereby allowed, and the orders under challenge, in all the connected writ petitions, are quashed.

29. It is directed that the respondent no.2 shall take fresh decision, in light of the observations made herein above and the prevalent laws.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ANISH KUMAR GUPTA, J.

Writ A No. 835 of 2022

Dr. Albina ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Entitlement of the participants-candidates to challenge the selection process.
(2) Applicability of preferential qualification, when the essential qualification was also provided in the advertisement.
(3) Overriding effect of the Rules framed under Article 309 contrary to the Regulation framed under the Act.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Selection – Post of Reader/Jarahat – Unani Medical College – Selection process was challenged by the participant – Permissibility

Held : The person who consciously takes part in the selection process and thereafter having failed or not selected in the said selection process cannot be permitted to challenge the selection process or the advertisement. [Para 14]

(B) Service law – Selection – Qualification – Essential qualification and Preferential qualification – Preference was claimed by the petitioner as she was postgraduate and the selected candidate was not postgraduate – Permissibility

Held : When an advertisement describes the essential qualifications as well as the preferential qualification, then in such position, all the candidates who are having essential qualifications are eligible to apply and participate in the selection process and on the basis of the selection process where number of candidates are participating, when two or more candidates are having the equal marks, then in that case the preference shall be given, who is having the preferential qualification. Merely because, a candidate is possessing the preferential qualification would not give him any preferential right to be selected. [Para 23]

(C) Service jurisprudence – Rules framed under Article 309 and Regulation framed under the Act, 1970 – Contradiction – Overriding effect

Held : The rules framed under proviso to Article 309 would apply and hold the field in case of any contradiction with the recommendations/regulations framed under the Act, 1970. Consequently, this Court do not find any irregularity in the advertisement which prescribed the qualification as prescribed under 1990 Rules. [Para 27] (E-1)

Case Arising From

Recommendation of the U.P. Public Service Commission dated 19.01.2022 for appointment of the respondent no. 4 to the post of Reader/Jaharat in Government Unani Medical Colleges.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : H. N. Singh, Sr. Adv.; Syed Fahim Ahmed; Karrar Husain; Kshitij Shailendra (Elevated).

Advs. for the Respondents : Avneesh Tripathi; Gaurav Singh, S.C.; Gautam Baghel; Utkarsh Singh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Heard Sri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Syed Fahim Ahmed for the petitioner, Sri Avneesh Tripathi, learned counsel for the respondents no. 2 and 3, Sri Gaurav Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no. 1 and Sri Utkarsh Singh holding brief of Sri Gautam Baghel, learned counsel for the respondent no. 4.

2. The instant petition has been initially filed by the petitioner seeking quashing of the order/recommendation dated 19.01.2022, whereby the U.P. Public Service Commission has recommended the name of respondent no. 4 for appointment to the post of Reader/Jaharat in Government Unani Medical Colleges and further, seeking a direction to the respondents to appoint the petitioner as the Reader/Jarahat (Surgical) being an eligible candidate, as she is having the post-graduate degree, which was a preferential qualification. Later, by way of an amendment, the petitioner has challenged the advertisement dated 24.09.2019, whereby the said post of Reader/Jarahat under U.P. AYUSH (Unani Department) was advertised as Item No. VIII, and also seeks a Writ of Quo Warranto against respondent no. 4, and also to the respondents not to permit respondent no. 4 to hold the post of Lecturer, Jarahat Department of the State Takmeel-Ut-Tib College & Hospital, Lucknow.

3. The briefly stated facts of the case are that on the requisition of the State Government, U.P. Public Service Commission, Prayagraj issued an Advertisement No. 2 of 2019-20, dated 24.09.2019, whereby one post of Reader/Jarahat in General Category was advertised to be filled-up on the basis of the conditions prescribed in the advertisement. Pursuant to the said advertisement, the petitioner herein has applied to the post, participated in the selection process and was also interviewed. However, she could not be selected and the respondent no. 1 was selected for the aforesaid post of Reader/Jarahat and her name was recommended vide impugned order dated 19.01.2022 by the U.P. Public Service Commission for appointment. The said advertisement prescribed the following eligibility conditions:-

"(viii) 01 (One) post of Reader Jarahat in Government Unani Medical Colleges of the State, (General recruitment), Deptt. No*. S-11/16, Nature of Post. Gazetted & Temporary,* Reservation*: Unreserved,* Pay Band*- Rs. 15600-39100/-, Grade Pay 6600/- level-11 (According to 7th Pay Commission),* Educational qualification Essential: (1) Five years degree in unani from a University established by law or five years degree from the Board of Indian medicine, Uttar Pradesh or any other state Board or faculty which is registrable Under the united Provinces Indian medicine Act, 1939. (2) Seven years teaching experience of the subject (Five years for a post-Graduate) In a recognized institution. (3) Working Knowledge of Hindi, English and Urdu or Arabic or Persian. Preferential: (1) Post--Graduate qualification from a recognized institution. (2) Research work andpublication of original papers and books. Preferential Qualification*:-A candidate who has:- (i) Served in the Territorial Army for a minimum period of two years. or (ii) Obtain a "B" Certificate of National Cadet Corps, shall other things being equal, be given* preference in the matter of direct recruitment. Age:-Minimum 28 years, maximum 45 years (Age relaxation as per Rules). See general instructions for this. Other condition and qualification*:-(1) The selected candidates may be transferred to any Government Unani Medical College of the State on any equivalent post. Note:- (1) The new pension scheme will be applicable permitted by the U.P. Government at present. (2) Candidates will have to mention their obtained marks and total marks of all semesters in online application and annex all semesters marksheet (in which maximum marks/minimum marks/obtained marks should be clearly mentioned) essentially alongwith other all certificates, at the time o demand of records. (3) Regarding essential qualification No.3. candidates will have to annex related certificate/marksheet about adequate knowledge of Hindi. English and Urdu or Arabic or Persian. (4) Experience certificate should be of full time paid post in an institution recognized by Government and issued by appointing authority and it should be counter signed by Registrar/Director of State Unani Medical Council or by a competent authority of the Government. Experience of unpaid or part time post will not be acceptable."*

4. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the said advertisement was wrongly prescribed the conditions of eligibility of higher degree in Ayurvedic/Unani from University established by law or higher degree from the board of Indian Medicine, Uttar Pradesh or any other State, Board or faculty which is registerable under the United Provinces [Ayurvedic and Unani Tibbi Systems of Medicine] Act, 1939 (hereinafter referred as,'?the Act, 1939'). The thrust of the arguments made on behalf of petitioners is that in the year 1970, the Indian Medicine Central Council Act, 1970 (hereinafter referred as, ?the Act, 1970?) was enacted by the Parliament as the medical education was a subject matter in the Concurrent List. The Act, 1970 has superseded the Act, 1939. In lieu of such suppression, the State Government by framing the Uttar Pradesh State Ayurvedic and Unani Colleges Teachers? Service Rules 1990 (hereinafter referred as, ?the Rules, 1990?) cannot prescribe the qualifications which were prescribed under the State Act, 1939 but ought to have prescribed the qualification in terms of the Act, 1970. In such view of the matter, the petitioner seeks quashing of the advertisement itself and consequently seeks quashing of the impunged order whereby the U.P. State Public Service Commission has recommended the appointment of the respondent no. 4 pursuant to the said advertisement.

5. In support of its submissions, Sri H.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the Full Bench Judgement of this Court in Anand Kumar Yadav and Others vs. Union of India and Others : [2015 (8) ADJ 338 (FB)].

6. It is further submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that pursuant to Section 36 of the Act, 1970, the regulations were framed in the year, 1986 which have been later amended in the year 2016, which prescribe the higher qualifications and also the degree of post-graduation for appointment to the post of Reader. Therefore, since the respondent no. 4 was not having the post-graduate qualification, she was not eligible for appointment and since the petitioner was having the post-graduate qualification she ought to have been given preference in the appointment as per the advertisement.

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has further relied upon the judgment of the Apex Court in Ashish Kumar v. State of U.P., (2018) 3 SCC 55 and submits that in part of the advertisement which is contrary to the statutory rules has to give way to the statutory prescriptions, which reads as under:

"27. Any part of the advertisement which is contrary to the statutory rules has to give way to the statutory prescription. Thus, looking to the qualification prescribed in the statutory rules, the appellant fulfils the qualification and after being selected for the post denying appointment to him is arbitrary and illegal. It is well settled that when there is variance in the advertisement and in the statutory rules, it is the statutory rules which take precedence. In this context, reference is made in the judgment of this Court in Malik Mazhar Sultan v. U.P. Public Service Commission [Malik Mazhar Sultan v. U.P. Public Service Commission, (2006) 9 SCC 507 : 2006 SCC (L&S) 1870] . Para 21 of the judgment lays down the above proposition which is to the following effect: (SCC p. 512)

"21. The present controversy has arisen as the advertisement issued by PSC stated that the candidates who were within the age on 1-7-2001 and 1-7-2002 shall be treated within age for the examination. Undoubtedly, the excluded candidates were of eligible age as per the advertisement but the recruitment to the service can only be made in accordance with the Rules and the error, if any, in the advertisement cannot override the Rules and create a right in favour of a candidate if otherwise not eligible according to the Rules. The relaxation of age can be granted only if permissible under the Rules and not on the basis of the advertisement. If the interpretation of the Rules by PSC when it issued the advertisement was erroneous, no right can accrue on basis thereof. Therefore, the answer to the question would turn upon the interpretation of the Rules."

8. Thus, since in the instant case, the advertisement has prescribed the qualifications, which are registerable in the State Act of 1939, which has already been superseded by the Parliamentary Act of 1970, governing the same subject of medical education. Therefore, the said qualifications under the Old State Act could not have been prescribed in their advertisement, therefore, the advertisement itself is bad and thus the same be quashed.

9. Per contra, Sri Gaurav Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State submits that in the instant case, the petitioner has not challenged the validity of the Act, 1939 or the 1990 Rules framed by the State Government under Article 309 of the Constitution of India, which prescribes the qualification which are registerable under the Act, 1939 for appointment on the post of Reader. Neither the said Act, 1939 nor 1990 Rules are under challenge in the instant petition. Therefore, the advertisement prescribing the qualification in terms of the statutory rules framed by the State under Article 309, cannot be questioned.

10. It is further submitted by learned Standing Counsel for the State that it is a settled position of law that a candidate who has participated pursuant to an advertisement in the selection process and has been disqualified cannot be permitted to challenge after the declaration of result of the selection process. It is further submitted that it is a settled position of law that regulations framed under Section 36 of the Act, 1970 are only recommendatory and not mandatory and it is beyond the scope of the Indian Council of Central Medicine to prescribe the qualification for recruitment to the post of Professors, Readers and Lecturers. It can only lay down the broad guidelines. Therefore, such qualifications for recruitment are required to be framed under the proviso to Article 309 and thus the recommendations made by the Indian Council of Central Medicine cannot override the Rules framed under Article 309 by the State concerned. Therefore, learned Standing Counsel for the State seeks dismissal of the instant petition.

11. Sri Utkarsh Singh, Advocate holding brief of Sri Gautam Baghel, learned counsel respondent no. 4 has also adopted the submissions of the learned Standing Counsel for the State. They have relied upon the following judgments of the Apex Court in support of aforesaid submissions:-

1. Ramesh Chandra Shah and Others Vs. Anil Joshi and others : (2013) 11 SCC 309

2. Madras Institute of Development Studies and Another Vs. Dr. K. Sivasubramaniyan and Others : [2015(4) ESC 601(SC)]

3. Secy. (Health) Deptt. of Health & F.W. and Another Vs. Dr. Puri and others Anita : (1996) 6 SCC 282

4. State of U.P. and Another Vs. Om Prakash and Others : 2006 (6) SCC 474

5. Pepsico India Holding P. Ltd. Vs. Grocery Market & Shops Board and others : (2016) 4 SCC 493

6. Government of Andhra Pradesh and Another Vs. Dr. R. Murali Babu Rao and Another: (1988) 2 SCC 386

12. Having heard the rival submissions so made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the records of the case. The advertisement dated 24.09.2019 has prescribed the following qualifications.:-

"Educational qualification Essential: (1) Five years degree in unani from a University established by law or five years degree from the Board of Indian medicine, Uttar Pradesh or any other state Board or faculty which is registrable Under the united Provinces Indian medicine Act, 1939. (2) Seven years teaching experience of the subject (Five years for a post-Graduate) In a recognized institution. (3) Working Knowledge of Hindi, English and Urdu or Arabic or Persian.

Preferential*: (1) Post--Graduate qualification from a recognized institution. (2) Research work andpublication of original papers and books."*

13. It is undisputed in the instant case that pursuant to the said advertisement, the petitioner herein without challenging the advertisement as such has participated in the selection process and could not qualify, and respondent no. 4 has qualified in the selection process. Pursuant to the said advertisement and consequently the recommendations were made by the U.P. Public Service Commission for appointment of respondent no. 4 to the post of Reader/Jarahat in Unani Department. It is only after the selection process is complete, petitioner has filed the instant petition initially for seeking quashing of the said recommendation of U.P. Public Service Commission and seeking mandatory injunction to give appointment to the petitioner and later by way of an amendment the advertisement has also been challenged.

14. It is settled position of law that the person who consciously takes part in the selection process and thereafter having failed or not selected in the said selection process cannot be permitted to challenge the selection process or the advertisement. In this regard, it is relevant to take note of the judgment of the Apex Court in Om Prakash Shukla vs. Akhilesh Kumar Shukla, 1986 Supp SCC 285. The Three-Judges' Bench of the Apex Court has held that when person appeared in examination without protest, he was not entitled to challenge the result of the examination. The same view has also been reiterated in Madan Lal v. State of J&K, (1995) 3 SCC 486 in the following words:-

"9. Before dealing with this contention, we must keep in view the salient fact that the petitioners as well as the contesting successful candidates being respondents concerned herein, were all found eligible in the light of marks obtained in the written test, to be eligible to be called for oral interview. Up to this stage there is no dispute between the parties. The petitioners also appeared at the oral interview conducted by the Members concerned of the Commission who interviewed the petitioners as well as the contesting respondents concerned. Thus the petitioners took a chance to get themselves selected at the said oral interview. Only because they did not find themselves to have emerged successful as a result of their combined performance both at written test and oral interview, they have filed this petition. It is now well settled that if a candidate takes a calculated chance and appears at the interview, then, only because the result of the interview is not palatable to him, he cannot turn round and subsequently contend that the process of interview was unfair or the Selection Committee was not properly constituted. In the case of Om Prakash Shukla v. Akhilesh Kumar Shukla [1986 Supp SCC 285 : 1986 SCC (L&S) 644 : AIR 1986 SC 1043] it has been clearly laid down by a Bench of three learned Judges of this Court that when the petitioner appeared at the examination without protest and when he found that he would not succeed in examination he filed a petition challenging the said examination, the High Court should not have granted any relief to such a petitioner."

15. Likewise in Manish Kumar Shahi v. State of Bihar, (2010) 12 SCC 576, the Apex Court has observed as under:-

"16. We also agree with the High Court that after having taken part in the process of selection knowing fully well that more than 19% marks have been earmarked for viva voce test, the petitioner is not entitled to challenge the criteria or process of selection. Surely, if the petitioner's name had appeared in the merit list, he would not have even dreamed of challenging the selection. The petitioner invoked jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India only after he found that his name does not figure in the merit list prepared by the Commission. This conduct of the petitioner clearly disentitles him from questioning the selection and the High Court did not commit any error by refusing to entertain the writ petition."

16. Likewise in Vijendra Kumar Verma vs. Public Service Commission: (2011) 1 SCC 150, the Apex Court held that once the candidate has taken the chance and opportunity while participating in the selection process without any protest at any stage of the selection process, he/she cannot turn back and challenge the selection procedure.

17. In Ramesh Chandra Shah v. Anil Joshi, (2013) 11 SCC 309, the Apex Court considering the above judgements has observed as under:-

"24. In view of the propositions laid down in the above noted judgments, it must be held that by having taken part in the process of selection with full knowledge that the recruitment was being made under the General Rules, the respondents had waived their right to question the advertisement or the methodology adopted by the Board for making selection and the learned Single Judge and the Division Bench of the High Court committed grave error by entertaining the grievance made by the respondents."

18. In Madras Institute of Development Studies vs. K. Sivasubramaniyan, (2016) 1 SCC 454, the Apex Court has held that a candidate who has further applied pursuant to the advertisement and the rules without raising any objection to the alleged advertisement and rules, and participated in the selection process by appearing before the Committee of Experts and after he was not selected, cannot be permitted to turn around and challenge the very selection process.

19. Since in the instant case, the advertisement was issued in the year 2019, the petitioner herein without raising any objection had applied and participated in the selection process and was also interviewed and after the result was declared and respondent no. 4 was selected and recommended by the U.P. Public Service Commission for appointment, the instant petition has been filed by the petitioner challenging the selection process and the advertisement itself. This cannot be permitted in view of the aforesaid settled position of law.

20. The petitioner has further challenged the selection of the respondent no. 4 on the ground that the advertisement prescribed the qualification and also provided that preference be given to the postgraduate qualification from a recognized institution or for the research work and publication of original papers and books. The petitioner claims that since he was a postgraduate and the respondent no. 4 was not a postgraduate, therefore, the preference ought to have been given to the petitioner instead of respondent no. 4.

21. In Secretary, Health Department and FW and others vs. Dr. Anita Puri and others, 1996, SCC 282, the Apex Court has categorically observed as under:

"..When an advertisement stipulates a particular qualification as the minimum qualification for the post and further stipulates that preference should be given for higher qualification, the only meaning it conveys is that some additional weightage has to be given to the higher qualified candidates. But by no stretch of imagination it can be construed to mean that a higher qualified person automatically is entitled to be selected and appointed.."

22. In State of U.P. v. Om Prakash, (2006) 6 SCC 474, the Apex Court has observed as under:

"...The word ?preference? would mean that when the claims of all candidates who are eligible and who possess the requisite educational qualification prescribed in the advertisement are taken for consideration and when one or more of them are found equally positioned, then only the additional qualification may be taken as a tilting factor, in favour of candidates vis-□-vis others in the merit list prepared by the Commission. But preference does not mean en bloc preference irrespective of inter se merit and suitability..."

23. Thus, from the aforesaid judgments of the Apex Court, it is settled position of law that when an advertisement describes the essential qualifications as well as the preferential qualification, then in such position, all the candidates who are having essential qualifications are eligible to apply and participate in the selection process and on the basis of the selection process where number of candidates are participating, when two or more candidates are having the equal marks, then in that case the preference shall be given, who is having the preferential qualification. Merely because, a candidate is possessing the preferential qualification would not give him any preferential right to be selected. In such view of the matter, the claim of the petitioner is that she was having preferential qualification, therefore, preference ought to have been given to her, is unfounded and cannot be sustained.

24. Learned Senior Counsel for the Petitioner has vehemently claimed that so far as the medical education is concerned, the Act, 1939 has already been superseded by Act, 1970 enacted by the parliament, as the medical education was the subject of Concurrent List and once the parliament has been enacted any State Act, so far as it is repugnant to the Central Act, cannot be given effect to. Thus, he claims that since the regulations framed under the Central Act are in fray, which prescribe the essential qualification for appointment to the post of Principal, Professor, Reader, Assistant Professor etc. Thus, any lesser qualification prescribed under the rules framed under Article 309, are not in consonance with the Central Act, the same are repugnant to that extent and thus the same cannot be given effect to, since the impugned advertisement prescribes the qualification in terms of the Rules 1990, which takes note of the 1939 Act of the State, which has already been superseded by the Central Act. Thus, the advertisement was not a valid advertisement, therefore, the same should be quashed.

25. So far as the medical education is concerned, it is undisputed that it is the subject matter of the Concurrent List. Earlier there was a State Act of 1939, later the Parliament has enacted a Central Act. However, so far as the State Public Services or the State Public Service Commissions are concerned that is the subject matter exclusively available to the State and proviso to Article 309 permits the State to frame rules to prescribe the condition for selection for State Public Service. In terms thereof, the 1990 Rules have been framed by the State which prescribe the qualification for selection of Reader (Jaharat) in Government Unani Medical Colleges. Therefore, the State Rules were framed by the State in accordance with the constitutional scheme. Therefore, the State Rules shall holds the field in the matter of Selection for State Public Service. So far as the regulations framed by the Indian Central Council of Indian Medicine under Section 36 of the Central Council of Indian Medicine Act, 1970 are concerned, with regard to the same, similar regulations framed under Indian Medical Council Act, 1956 held to be recommendatory in nature and they cannot be held to be mandatory.

26. In Government of Andhra Pradesh vs. Dr. R. Murali Babu Rao and another 1988 (2) SCC 386, the Apex Court has held that the rules framed under proviso to Article 309 shall override the conflicting recommendations/regulations framed under the Central Act. In this regard, the following observations made by the Apex Court, which would be relevant to take note of:-

"15. .....Nevertheless, the Government failed to appreciate that the recommendation which was later approved of by the Government of India and acquired the status of a regulation, was only recommendatory and could not override a rule framed under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution. The panel had to be drawn by the State Government strictly in conformity with the rules of recruitment made under the proviso to Article 309 and not on the basis of the recommendations of the Council.

16. ….A fortiori, the recommendations made by the Council or the Regulations framed by it are only recommendatory and not mandatory. It is not for the Council to prescribe qualifications for recruitment to posts of Professors, Readers and Lecturers. It can only lay down broad guidelines therefor. Such qualifications have necessarily to be prescribed by the framing of Rules under the proviso to Article 309. Right to be considered for promotion is a condition of service and it can only be regulated by a rule framed under the proviso to Article 309."

27. In such view of the matter, so far as the appointment to the public service, which is the case herein, it is settled position of law that the rules framed under proviso to Article 309 would apply and hold the field in case of any contradiction with the recommendations/regulations framed under the Act, 1970. Consequently, this Court do not find any irregularity in the advertisement which prescribed the qualification as prescribed under 1990 Rules. So far as the last prayer, that is the issuance of Writ of Quo Warranto against respondent no. 4 is concerned, the same has been resisted by learned counsel for respondent no. 4 and submits that the post of Teachers, Professors, Assistant Professors, Associate Professors etc., are not amenable to the Writ of Quo Warranto.

28. In support to the submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgement of the Division Bench of Lucknow Bench of this Court in Kundan Singh versus State of UP and others, 2020 SCC OnLine All 6 in which the Division Bench has categorically held that the post of Professors are merely the employee of the statutory body, therefore, they cannot be described as the public service in respect of which a Writ of Quo Warranto would lie. In such view of the matter, a similar view has also been taken by the Division Bench of this Court in Dr. Neetu Singh v. State of U.P. and others, 2019 SCC OnLine All 5871. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the petitioner has no right to challenge the advertisement and also to challenge the selection of respondent no. 4, by participating in the selection process.

29. Accordingly, the writ petition is dismissed.

30. Respondents are directed to act upon the recommendations made by the U.P. Public Service Commission vide the order dated 19.01.2022 and do needful in the matter, if not already acted.

31. Interim order granted earlier is hereby vacated.

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Entitlement to get interest on delayed payment of Gratuity.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Gratuity – Delayed payment – Interest – Petitioner was retired on 31.07.2005, however, he was paid gratuity only on 30.07.2024 – 18% interest claimed – Entitlement

Held : It is evident that the gratuity amount payable to the deceased employee upon retirement on 31.07.2005 remained withheld without any valid justification and was ultimately released only on 30.07.2024 after prolonged litigation extending over nearly two decades – The petitioners are entitled to interest on delayed payment of gratuity – The respondents are directed to pay simple interest at the rate of 10% per annum on the gratuity amount for the period commencing from 31.07.2005 till 30.07.2024. Case Arising From Impugned order dated 01.01.2026 rejecting the claim of payment of interest on delayed payment of gratuity.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Sheikh Wali Uz Zaman.
Advs. for the Respondents : Amarnath Singh.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sheikh Wali Uz Zaman, learned counsel for the petitioners, and Sri Amarnath Singh, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State-respondents.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for issuance of a writ in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 01.01.2026, annexed as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, whereby the claim of the petitioners for payment of interest on delayed payment of gratuity has been rejected. A further prayer has been made for issuance of a writ in the nature of Mandamus commanding the respondents to sanction and pay interest on the delayed payment of gratuity with effect from 31.07.2005 till 30.07.2024, at the rate of 18% per annum, within a stipulated period as may be fixed by this Court.

3. The brief facts of the case, as borne out from the pleadings on record, are that the petitioners are the legal heirs and children of Late Dr. Anwarullah Khan, who was appointed as a Medical Officer in the Provincial Medical Services (hereinafter referred to as "P.M.S.") on 22.06.1970. After rendering more than 35 years of unblemished service, Late Dr. Anwarullah Khan attained the age of superannuation and retired from service on 31.07.2005.

4. Since the retiral dues, particularly gratuity, were not released despite retirement, Late Dr. Anwarullah Khan instituted Writ Petition No.1061 of 2014, Dr. Anwarullah Khan Vs. State of U.P. and Others, which came to be disposed of vide judgment and order dated 17.07.2017. By the said order, this Court directed the respondents that in case there existed no legal or other impediment, the gratuity amount shall be paid within two months from the date of production of the certified copy of the order; otherwise, a reasoned order was required to be passed indicating specific reasons for withholding gratuity.

5. The aforesaid order was not complied with by the respondents. In the meantime, Late Dr. Anwarullah Khan died on 03.12.2014 and thereafter his wife also died on 11.06.2022. Consequently, the petitioners instituted Contempt Petition (Civil) No.2901 of 2018 seeking compliance of the order dated 17.07.2017.

6. During pendency of the contempt proceedings, a compliance affidavit was filed on behalf of the respondents stating therein that gratuity had been withheld on account of alleged outstanding house rent dues amounting to Rs.18,50,975/-. The Contempt Court, however, vide order dated 29.05.2024 rejected the compliance affidavit and directed filing of a fresh affidavit.

7. Subsequently, while considering the matter on 16.07.2024, the Contempt Court recorded an observation that admittedly no proceedings had ever been initiated against the deceased employee during his lifetime regarding alleged unauthorized occupation or recovery of house rent. Thereafter, in compliance of the order passed by the Writ Court, gratuity amounting to Rs.3,50,000/- was sanctioned vide order dated 24.07.2024 passed by the Chief Medical Officer, Rampur and the said amount was credited into the accounts of the petitioners on 30.07.2024. Consequently, the contempt petition came to be dismissed on 31.07.2024 after recording compliance.

8. Considering paragraph no. 31 and 32 of the judgement passed in S. D. Bandi Vs. Divisional Traffic Officer, KSRTC & Ors. [AIR 2013 SC 2507], the petitioners were paid gratuity of the deceased employee on 30.07.2024.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the gratuity amount, which became payable immediately upon retirement on 31.07.2005, was ultimately paid only on 30.07.2024 after an inordinate delay of almost 19 years. It has been argued that once the plea regarding alleged outstanding house rent had already been rejected during contempt proceedings and attained finality, the respondents could not have reopened the same issue while rejecting the petitioners representation for grant of interest by means of the impugned order dated 01.01.2026.

10. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Neelima Srivastava Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others [AIR 2021 SC 3884 emphasis on Para 32 to 36 and Securities and Exchange Board of India Vs. Ram Kishori Gupta and Others [MANU/SC/0461/2025] emphasis on Para 28 to 31, wherein it has been held that once an issue has attained finality, the same cannot be permitted to be reopened as it would amount to abuse of process of Court and adversely affect administration of justice.

11. Further reliance has been placed upon the judgment rendered by the Division Bench of this Court in Indrajeet Singh Vs. State of U.P. passed in Writ Petition No. 1133(S/B) of 2001, Neutral Citation- 2008:AHC-LKO:3718-DB, wherein interest at the rate of 12% per annum was awarded on delayed payment of gratuity.

12. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the State has opposed the writ petition and attempted to justify the delay on the ground that an amount of Rs.18,50,975/- towards house rent was recoverable from the deceased employee. However, the said contention does not impress this Court for the reason that the very same issue had already been raised before the Contempt Court and stood rejected vide order dated 29.05.2024. Admittedly, no proceedings under Section 11 of the Uttar Pradesh Public Premises (Eviction of Unauthorised Occupants) Act, 1972 were ever initiated against the deceased employee during his lifetime.

13. Learned Standing Counsel has also referred to a Government Order dated 28.07.1989; however, the same has neither been brought on record nor substantiated before this Court.

14. Rebutting the submissions advanced on behalf of the State, learned counsel for the petitioners has submitted that the respondents are attempting to reagitate an issue which has already attained finality. It has further been submitted that once gratuity itself has been released in compliance of the orders passed by this Court, the respondents cannot deny statutory interest on delayed payment thereof.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioners also submits that new plea of the Government Order dated 28.07.1989 is nothing, but an attempt to mislead the Court and it is impermissible, in view of the judgement passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Commissioner of Customs, Mumbai Vs. M/s Toyo Engineering India Limited [(2006) 7 SCC 592]

16. It is also relevant to note that during the lifetime of the deceased employee, a punishment order dated 28.01.2003 had been passed against him in disciplinary proceedings. The said order was challenged in Claim Petition No.1544 of 2007, which came to be allowed and the punishment order dated 28.01.2003 was quashed with all consequential service benefits. Thereafter, consequential orders were also issued by the State Government and ultimately vide order dated 05.10.2009(annexed as Annexure No. RA-2), a decision was taken to release the retiral dues of the deceased employee.

17. The Central Government, Ministry of Labour, New Delhi, vide Notification dated 01.10.1987 issued in exercise of powers conferred by Sub-Section (3A) of Section 7 of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972, specified that in cases where gratuity is not paid within the prescribed period, the employer shall be liable to pay simple interest at the rate of 10% per annum.

18. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of R. Kapur Vs. Director of Inspection (Painting and Publication) Income Tax and Another enhanced the rate of interest on delayed payment of gratuity. Para 10 judgement is extracted hereinbelow:-

"10. This Court in M.Padmanabhan Nair case has held as under:-

"Pension and gratuity are no longer any bounty to be distributed by the Government to its employees on their retirement but have become, under the decisions of this Court, valuable rights and property in their hands and any culpable delay in settlement and disbursement thereof must be visited with the penalty of payment of interest at the current market rate till actual payment."

The Hon'ble Supreme Court awarded 18% interest on the delayed payment of gratuity.

19. Likewise in the case of Uma Agrawal Vs. State of U.P. and Ors. Full Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court passed in Writ Petition (Civil) No. 771 of 1995 Hon'ble the Supreme Court observed that in several cases decided by the Hon'ble Supreme Court interest of 12% had directed to be paid by the State for delay in payment of retiral dues.

20. In the case of Indrajeet Singh Vs. State of U.P. passed in Writ Petition No. 1133(S/B) of 2001, Neutral Citation- 2008:AHC-LKO:3718-DB, the Division Bench of this Court while allowing the writ petition filed by the petitioner commanded opposite parties to pay rate of interest @ 12% from the date of retirement to the date of actual payment of dues to the petitioner.

21. In the case of Laxman Singh Bhadauriya Vs. Controlling Authority and Others passed in Writ-C No. 18684 of 2010, the learned Singh Judge modified the order and directed the respondents to pay 10% interest on the delayed payment of gratuity.

22. In the case of Gagan Bihari Prusty Vs. Paradip Port Trust and Others passed in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 4468 of 2022 vide judgement and order dated 03.03.2025 awarded 10% per annum on the delayed payment of gratuity.

23. From the material brought on record, it is evident that the gratuity amount payable to the deceased employee upon retirement on 31.07.2005 remained withheld without any valid justification and was ultimately released only on 30.07.2024 after prolonged litigation extending over nearly two decades.

24. Once the respondents themselves complied with the order passed by this Court and released the gratuity amount, and further once the plea regarding outstanding house rent had already been rejected during contempt proceedings, it was not open for the respondents to reagitate the same issue while considering the petitioners claim for interest. Such conduct is clearly impermissible in view of the law laid down by the Hon□ble Supreme Court in Neelima Srivastava(Supra).

25. In view of the foregoing discussions, the Notification dated 01.10.1987 issued by the Government of India, and the judgments of the Hon□ble Supreme Court as well as this Court relating to delayed payment of retiral dues and gratuity, wherein 10% simple interest per annum has been prescribed to be paid by the employer in cases of delayed payment of gratuity, this Court is of the considered opinion that the petitioners are entitled to interest on delayed payment of gratuity.

26. Accordingly, since the petitioners□ late father retired on 31.07.2005 and the gratuity amount was actually credited into the accounts of the petitioners only on 30.07.2024, i.e., after a delay of almost 19 years, the respondents are directed to pay simple interest at the rate of 10% per annum on the gratuity amount for the period commencing from 31.07.2005 till 30.07.2024.

27. The impugned order dated 01.01.2026 is hereby quashed.

28. The writ petition succeeds and is accordingly allowed.

29. The respondents are directed to calculate and release the aforesaid amount of interest to the petitioners within a period of three months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the competent authority.

Rajesh Srivastava ...Petitioner

Versus

Committee Of Management D.M.U. Inter College Kanpur ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

(1) Validity of an order rejecting the approval of an appointment made against the short-term vacancy on the ground that there was ban on the date of appointment.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Appointment – L.T. Grade Teacher – Approval – Petitioners were appointed before 25.01.1999 against the short term vacancy – Approval claimed, which was rejected on the ground that there was ban on the appointment and also there is no provision for adhoc appointment – Validity challenged – Issue of regularization u/s 33-G of the Act, 1982 also felt into consideration

Held : On perusal of Government Order dated 09.03.1997, it is crystal clear that ban was imposed on ad hoc appointment under Section 18 of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982. There was no ban against short term appointment made under Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 as well as the appointment against short term vacancy was also permitted in view of provisions contained under Section 16-E of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921. [Para 15]

Further held : The claim of the petitioners in view of provisions contained under Section 33-G of Selection Board Act, 1982 which came into existence w.e.f. 22.03.2016 is liable to be considered for regularization w.e.f. 22.03.2016, as the petitioners have continuously discharged duties on their respective posts. Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner : Pt. S. Chandra, Pankaj Bajpai; Krishna Kumar Singh; Manoj Kumar Pandey.
Advs. for the Respondents : Rajiv Srivastava, A.C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri Pt. S. Chandra, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Rajiv Srivastava, learned Additional CSC for the respondent - State.

2. In spite of notice issued to the Committee of Management, no-one has responded to appear before this Court.

3. By means of present writ petition, the petitioners are challenging the order dated 15.05.2002 contained as Annexure-22 passed by respondent No.3 and Government Order dated 03.11.1997 issued by respondent No.2 contained as Annexure-23 to the writ petition with a further prayer to issue writ of mandamus commanding the respondent Nos.2 to 5, specifically respondent No.3 to accord approval to the posts and salary of the petitioners w.e.f. 05.04.1998 and to pay the petitioners their salary along with arrears of salary and to give assent to the salaries of the petitioners deeming the appointments of the petitioners to be approved as per provisions of Clauses 2(3)(iii) and 2(3)(iv) of the Removal of Difficulties (Second) Order, 1981 and accord specific approval to ensure salary of the petitioners on their respective posts treating them to be continuing in service w.e.f. 05.04.1998 till date.

4. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioners are adhoc LT Grade Teachers of recognized and aided Inter College run by the Committee of Management. All the petitioners are appointed before 25.01.1999 under the provision of Removal of Difficulties order, 1981 (II). The date of appointment of petitioner No.1 - Rajesh Srivastava is 04.04.1998 as LT Grade (Adhoc) on the short term post which occurred due to adhoc promotion of Arvind Kumar Tripathi as Lecturer on 21.10.1997. The petitioner No.2 - Shashi Kant Mishra got appointment on 04.04.1998 as LT Grade (Adhoc) against the short term post which fell vacant also on 21.10.1997 due to adhoc promotion of Jawahar Krishna as a Lecturer. Petitioner No.-2 Shashi Kant Mishra died during pendency of this writ petition and his legal heirs did not turn up despite of repeated reminders. Petitioner No.3- Lakhan Singh Chandel was appointed on 04.04.1998 as LT Grade (Adhoc) on the short term post, which fell vacant on 06.03.1997 due to adhoc promotion of Sri K.N. Dwivedi as lecturer.

5. Petitioner Nos.1 and 3 are still working and getting salary in pursuant to interim order dated 17.05.2002 passed in this case in countinuance with order of approval dated 30.12.2003 issued by District Inspector of Schools. All the petitioners possess more than 28 years of service continuously as Assistant Teacher LT Grade (Adhoc). Till date the Selection Board/Commission has not made regular selection against the posts of the petitioners.

6. The petitioners are entitled for regularization w.e.f. 22.03.2016 under the provision of Section 33-G of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982. All the petitioners were duly selected after due advertisement and appointed on the post of LT Grade teacher on Adhoc basis in D.M.U. Inter College, Govind Nagar, District Kanpur. The committee of management sought approval from the DIOS, who refused to give approval vide order dated 15.05.2002 on the pretext that there is ban on the appointment and also there is no provision for adhoc appointment.

7. The petitioners filed present writ petition challenging the impugned G.O. dated 03.11.1997 (Annexure No.23, Page 107) and impugned order dated 15.05.2002 passed by the DIOS (Annexure No. 22, Page 106).

8. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the G.O. dated 03.11.1997 is putting ban on adhoc appointment and not on against appointment made under Section 16E of Education Act, 1921. The Selection Board Act, 1982, specifically Removal of Difficulties Order, 1981 (II) provides for selection and appointment against short term vacancy. The Government Order dated 03.11.1997 putting ban on appointment is illegal and not sustainable in the eyes of law because by Government Order, the statutory provisions of Selection Board Act, 1982 neither can be suspended nor can be diluted in any manner, as law is settled in Full Bench judgment of this Court in the case of Vijay Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others; 2005 (23) LCD 1696 FB ALLD, para 6 & 7.

9. He next submitted that the State Government subsequently withdrawn the G.O. dated 03.11.1997 vide G.O. dated 03.04.1998, as such G.O. dated 03.11.1997 deserves to be quashed. He submitted that the order dated 15.05.2002 is unsustainable being unlawful and arbitrary because Section 18 of Selection Board Act, 1982 was finally amended on 30.12.2000 and in this case, provision of Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 is attracted and short term appointment of the petitioners was made under the provisions of Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 as short term posts were occured due to adhoc promotion on the post of Lecturer, therefore, the impugned order dated 15.05.2002 has been passed without considering the provisions of Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 under which the management has power to make appointment under Section 16-E of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 and subsequently by adding Section 33-G of Selection Board Act, 1982 these appointments were regularized w.e.f. 22.03.2016, as such the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside.

10. On the other hand, learned Additional CSC invited attention of this Court on the judgment rendered in the case of petitioners, which was filed challenging the impugned order dated 15.05.2002, wherein writ petition was disposed of by giving benefit of Section 33-G, as was provided in the case of Vinod Kumar Srivastava with a direction to the Regional Level Committee to consider the case of the petitioners with a direction that in case salary is being paid to the petitioners, it shall be paid to them till their claim is decided by the Regional Level Committee. The Chairman - Joint Director of Education kept the matter pending due to pendency of the present writ petition before this Court and did not pass any order till date.

11. He next submitted that the impugned order does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and the ban imposed vide Government Order dated 03.11.1997, which is valid and wants no interference by this Court.

12. In rebuttal, learned counsel for the petitioner placed the Government Order dated 09.03.1998, whereby the ban on adhoc appointment under Section 18 was lifted and was permitted to make appointment. The same will be placed on record of the present writ petition.

13. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as law report cited by learned counsel for the petitioner.

14. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgment relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner is being quoted below:

Vijay Singh (Supra):

"6. It is settled legal proposition that executive instructions cannot override the statutory provisions [Vide B.N. Nagrajan v. State of Mysore, AIR 1966 SC 1942; Sant Ram Sharma v. State of Rajasthan and Ors., AIR 1967 SC 1910; Union of India and Ors. v. Majji Jangammyya and Ors., AIR 1977 SC 757; B.N. Nagarajan and Ors. v. State of Karnataka and Ors., AIR 1979 SC 1676; P.D. Agrawal and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors., (1987) 3 SCC 622; M/s. Beopar Sahayak (P) Ltd. and Ors. v. Vishwa Nath and Ors., AIR 1987 SC 2111; State of Maharashtra v. Jagannath Achyut Karandikar, AIR 1989 SC 1133; Paluru Ramkrishananiah and Ors. v. Union of India and Ors., AIR 1990 SC 166; Comptroller and Auditor General of India and Ors. v. Mohan LalMalhotra and Ors., AIR.1991 SC 2288; State of Madhya Pradesh v. G.S. Dall and Flour Mills, AIR 1991 SC 772; Naga People's Movement of Human Rights v. Union of India and Ors., AIR 1998 SC 431; C. Rangaswamaeah and Ors. v. Karnataka Lokayukta and Ors., AIR 1998 SC 96.]

7. Executive instructions cannot amend or supersede the statutory rules or add something therein, nor the orders be issued in contravention of the statutory rules for the reason that an administrative instruction is not a statutory Rule nor does it have any force of law; while statutory rules have full force of law provided the same are not in conflict with the provisions of the Act. (Vide State of U. P. and Ors. v. Babu Ram Upadhyaya, AIR 1961 SC 751; and State of Tamil Nadu v. M/s. Hind Stone etc., AIR 1981 SC 711)."

15. On perusal of Government Order dated 09.03.1997, it is crystal clear that ban was imposed on ad hoc appointment under Section 18 of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982. There was no ban against short term appointment made under Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 as well as the appointment against short term vacancy was also permitted in view of provisions contained under Section 16-E of U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921, therefore, the Government Order, which was lifted ban vide Government Order dated 09.03.1998 has no efficacy in law in regard to appointment made under Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 against short term vacancy arising in the institution, therefore, the impugned Government Order has no existence in regard to appointment made under Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981.

16. In the impugned order, objection has been taken that there is a ban on appointment made under Section 18 of U.P. Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982.

17. On perusal of Government Order as well as impugned order, it is apparent on the face of record that ban was imposed on adhoc appointments made under Section 18 of the Act of 1982. There was no ban imposed on appointments made against short term vacancies under the provisions of Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981, therefore, the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside.

18. The impugned order dated 15.05.2002 is also not sustainable in the eyes of law on the ground that without perusal of contents of Government Order dated 03.11.1997, which was imposing ban on appointments made under Section 18 of Act of 1982, the impugned order was passed.

19. The respondents have also failed to consider that short term appointments have always been permitted to continue till regularly selected candidate comes and joins, therefore, the impugned order suffers from apparent illegality and is liable to be set aside.

20. The claim of the petitioners in view of provisions contained under Section 33-G of Selection Board Act, 1982 which came into existence w.e.f. 22.03.2016 is liable to be considered for regularization w.e.f. 22.03.2016, as the petitioners have continuously discharged duties on their respective posts.

21. In view of reasons recorded above and facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the considered opinion that the government order does not apply to the appointments made against short term vacancy under Removal of Difficulties Order (II), 1981 and based on Government Order dated 03.11.1997, the order of DIOS dated 15.05.2002 is also not sustainable in the eyes of law.

22. In view of above, the impugned order dated 15.05.2002 is hereby quashed.

23. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

24. However, the Regional Level Committee is directed to consider the claim of the petitioners for regularization under Section 33-G of the Act of 1982 w.e.f. 22.03.2016, as directed by this Court in Writ-A No.6558 of 2024.

25. In the meantime, the petitioners shall be paid salary month by month on the post of Assistant Teachers LT Grade.

26. The Government Order dated 03.11.1997 was lifted vide Government Order dated 09.03.1998, therefore, it has lost its efficacy.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Permissibility to engage the employees of L.I.C. for the purposes of discharging duties as the Supervisors to facilitate the work of census operations.

Headnotes

(A) Service Law – Employees of L.I.C. – Census duty – Engagement as Supervisors of census work – Permissibility – Definition of 'Establishment' felt into consideration :

Held : Conjoint reading of Section 4, 4-A, 6(1)(e), 7(c) of the Act, 1948 read with Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990 leaves no room for doubt that employee of any establishment can legally be engaged for census duties. Once appointed or directed, they are under the statutory obligation to perform such duty – These provisions were inserted/amended to strengthen the machinery for large scale operations like decennial census. These sections balance compulsory public duty with particular administration for a massive exercise like the Indian census – The term 'establishment' has not been narrowly defined under the Act, 1948 and, in ordinary parlance, includes commercial establishments such as L.I.C. In the backdrop of the statutory scheme, the order issued by the competent authority requiring staff of L.I.C. to function as Enumerator/Supervisor cannot be said to be dehors the provision of the Act, 1948 or the Rule, 1990. Once appointed for census work, such persons are deemed to be public servants and are under a statutory obligation to discharge the assigned duties. [Para 12]

Advs. for the Respondents : S.P. Singh, ASGI; Viviek Kumar Singh; Krishna Deo Rai; Ashish Mishra; Siddharth Singhal; Brijesh Kumar Srivastava, S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dinesh Pathak, J.)

1. Heard Sri Vikrant Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner; Sri S.P. Singh, learned Additional Solicitor General of India, assisted by Sri Vivek Kumar Singh for respondent nos. 1, 2 and 3; Sri Ashish Mishra, learned counsel for respondent nos. 4 and 5, and Sri Brijesh Kumar Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel for State respondent no. 6.

2. The petitioner is a Union representing Class III and Class IV employees of the Life Insurance Corporation of India (in brevity 'L.I.C.') in the North Central Zone, having its Head Quarter at Kanpur. The grievance raised in the present writ petition pertains to entrustment of census duties upon the employees of the L.I.C.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that under Section 4-A of the Census Act, 1948 (in brevity 'Act, 1948'), only employees of local authorities can be requisitioned for performing census duties as Enumerators/Supervisors. He further submits that the employees of the L.I.C. do not fall within the definition of "local authorities" as defined under Section 3(31) of the General Clauses Act, 1897; therefore, entrustment of census duties upon them is wholly unsustainable in the eyes of law. In support of his submissions, he has placed reliance upon the judgment dated 21.09.2010 passed by the Hon'ble High Court of Punjab & Haryana at Chandigarh in the case of Life Insurance Corporation of India vs. Union of India And Others, C.W.P.

No.7037 of 2010 (Annexure-5), as well as the judgment dated 14.10.2013 passed by the learned Single Judge of the Gujarat High Court in the case of Life Insurance Corporation Ltd. vs. Registrar General and Census Commissioner of India; Special Civil Appeal No.5335 of 2010.

4. Per contra, learned Senior Counsel for the Union of India has contended that Section 4-A of the Act, 1948 cannot be read in isolation and has to be constructed conjointly with Section 6 (1)(e) and 7(c) of the Act, 1948, which specifically contemplate engagement of employees of factories, firms and establishments for census work. He has emphasized that the L.I.C. comes within the ambit of a 'commercial establishment' and, therefore, engaged of its staff for census operations is well within the domain of the Act, 1948. It has further been contended that Rule 3 of the Census Rules, 1990 (in brevity 'Rules 1990') prescribes the categories of officers who may be appointed a census officers. In the tabulation appended to Rule 3, the designation "Enumerator" appears at Serial No.5 and the corresponding category of persons eligible for appointment includes "teachers, clerks or any official or any person". Thus, according to the Senior Counsel, the Rule confers wide discretion upon the competent authority to appoint suitable persons as Enumerators. He has further contended that the order passed by the Zonal Officer under Section 4(4) of the Act, 1948, whereby employees of the L.I.C. are appointed as Enumerators/Supervisors, has not been challenged in the writ petition. In support of his submission, learned Senior Counsel has placed reliance upon the judgement dated 04.03.2011 rendered by a Division Bench of this court in case of Life Insurance Corporation of India And Others vs. Municipal Commissioner/Additional Chief Census Officer, Nagar Nigam, Kanpur And Others, Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.28736 of 2010.

5. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of record, it reflects that the question which arises for consideration in the present writ petition lies in a narrow compass, namely, whether employees of the L.I.C. can legally be engaged as Enumerators/Supervisors for the purposes of performing the census work.

6. The subject of "Census" falls under Entry 69, of List 1 (Union List) of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India read with Article 246 thereof, and thus Parliament has exclusive power to legislate in census matter. The Act, 1948, as amended from time to time, the Central law, governs the entire process relating to census operations, including appointment of census staff, duties of citizens, penalties for non-compliance, and confidentiality of information collected during census operations. Section 4 of the Act, 1948, provides the provision for appointment of census staff and Section 4-A of the Act, 1948 enunciates that staff of every local authority to be made available for taking census. The said provisions are reproduced hereinbelow :-

"Section 4: Appointment of census staff :- (1) The Central Government may appoint a Census Commissioner to supervise the taking of the census throughout the area in which the census is intended to be taken, and [Directors of Census Operations] to supervise the taking of the census within the several States.*

(2) The State Government may appoint persons as census-officers [with such designations as that Government may deem necessary] to take, or aid in, or supervise the taking of, the census within any specified local area and such persons, when so appointed, shall be bound to serve accordingly.

(3) A declaration in writing, signed by any authority authorised by the State Government in this behalf, that any person has been duly appointed a census-officer for any local area shall be conclusive proof of such appointment.

(4) The State government may delegate to such authority as it thinks fit the power of appointing census-officers conferred by sub-section (2).

Section 4-A Staff of every Local Authority to be made available for taking census :- Every local authority in a State shall, when so directed by a written order by the Central Government or by an authority appointed by that Government in this behalf, make available to any Director of Census Operations such staff as may be necessary for the performance of any duties in connection with the taking of census."

7. Section 4(1) authorizes the Central Government to appoint a Census Commission and Directors of Census Operations to supervise the census work. Section 4(2) of the Act, 1948 authorizes the State Government to notify the appointment of persons as Census Officers with such designation as may be deemed necessary for carrying out census operations within any specified local area. Such persons, who are appointed for the assigned work of census, shall be statutorily bound to serve accordingly. Sub section 4 of Section 4 further authorizes the State Government to delegate the power of appointing the Census Officer conferred by sub section 2. In exercise of power under Section 4(2) of the Act, 1948, the State Government issued Notification dated 09.01.2026 appointing officers as Census Officers with various designations, as mentioned in the said notification, which contains a tabulation wherein serial number, officers' name, census designation and their jurisdiction are indicated. It appears that pursuant thereto, the Zonal Officer, in exercise of delegated power under Section 4(4) of the Act, 1948 read with Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990, issued orders appointing the officials of the L.I.C. as Enumerators/Supervisors.

8. For adjudication of the present controversy involved in the instant matter, Section 6 and Section 7 of the Act, 1948 along with Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990 are also relevant to be considered, which are reproduced hereinbelow :-

"Section 6: Discharge of duties of census officers in certain cases :- (1) Where the District Magistrate, or such authority as the State Government may appoint in this behalf, by a written order so directs ?

(a) every officer in command of any body of men belonging to the naval, military or air forces, or of any vessel of war, of India,

(b) every person (except a pilot or harbourmaster) having charge or control of a vessel,

(c) every person in charge of a lunatic asylum, hospital, workhouse, prison, reformatory or lock-up or of any public, charitable, religious or educational institution,

(d) every keeper, secretary or manager of any sarai, hotel, boarding-house, lodging-house, emigration depot or club,

(e) every manager or officer of a railway or any commercial or industrial establishment, and

(f) every occupant of immovable property wherein at the time of the taking of the census persons are living, shall perform such of the duties of a census-officer in relation to the persons who at the time of the taking of the census are under his command or charge, or are inmates of his house, or are present on or in such immovable property or are employed under him as may be specified in the order.

Section 7: Power to call upon certain persons to give assistance :- The District Magistrate, or such authority as the State Government may appoint in this behalf for any local area, may, by written order which shall have effect throughout the extent of his district or of such local area, as the case may be, call upon - (a) all owners and occupiers of land, tenure-holders, and farmers and assignees of land revenue, or their agents,*

(b) all members of the district, municipal, panchayat and other local authorities and officers and servants of such authorities, and

(c) all officers and members of staff of any factory, firm or establishment, to give such assistance as shall be specified in the order towards the taking of a census of the persons who are, at the time of the taking of the census, on the lands of such owners, occupiers, tenure-holders, farmers and assignees, or in the premises of factories, firms and other establishments, or within the areas for which such local authorities are established, as the case may be, and the persons to whom an order under this section is directed shall be bound to obey it and shall, while acting in pursuance of such order, be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

RULE 3: Appointment of Census Officers :- The State Governments and the Union territory Administrations in order to aid the taking of the census within their States or Union territories, may appoint officers from against the category mentioned in column 2 as census officers within their jurisdictions with such designation mentioned in column 1 of the Table below.*

	Designation 1	Officers to be appointed 2
1.	Principal Census Officer	District Collectors/ Magistrates/ Commissioners of administrative heads of Corporations or any nominated Officer.
2.	District/Additional district/ Deputy district/Sub-divisional district/City/Additional City Census, Officer.	District Collectors/ Magistrates/ Officer assisting District Collectors/ Magistrates/ Commissioner/ District

		Sub-divisional Officers or Revenue Divisional Officers.
3.	Charge Officer/ Assistant Charge Officer/ Additional Charge Officer and Sub- Charge Officer.	Tehsildars/ Additional Tehsildars/ Mamlatdars/ Block Development Officer/ Chief Administrative Officer of towns/ Executive Officers and other Officers.
4.	Supervisor	Officers generally of a rank higher than enumerators or any person.
5.	Enumerator	Teachers, Clerks or any official or any person.

9. Section 6 of the Act, 1948 empowers the District Magistrate (or any authority appointed by the State Government) to issue a written order directing specific categories of persons/officials to perform the duties of census officers in respect of people under their command, charge, or control. Clause (e) of Section 6 (1) targets Manager/Officers of Railways, commercial and industrial establishment. It allows the administration to enlist corporate and industrial sector personnel for census work (e.g. enumerating employees, workers or people on the premise). This is crucial for covering organized sector workforce and institutional population efficiently. It reflects legislative intent to leverage extending administrative hierarchy in the private sector for public duties during census operations. Failure to comply can lead to penal consequences.

10. Furthermore, Section 7 of the Act, 1948 gives power to the District Magistrate (or authorized authority) to issue a written order calling upon specific categories of persons to provide assistance for the census. The order has effect throughout the district or local area. Persons called upon are bound to obey the order and, while acting under it, are deemed public servant under the I.P.C. Sub section (c) of Section 7 is wide empowering provision covering the private sector. It allows mobilization of staff from companies for tasks like enumeration, supervision, or data collection within their premise. It specifically provides that every officer or employee of (i) a local authority, (ii) a factory, firm or establishment, or (iii) an institution shall be bound to assist in census operation when required by the prescribed authority. The term 'establishment' is not narrowly restricted in the Act, 1948 and is ordinarily understood to include organized bodies employing persons for official, commercial, industrial, educational, or administrative work. It compliments Section 6 by focusing on 'assistance' rather than full discharge of census officer duties. The Hon'ble Gujarat High Court, in the case of Life Insurance Corporation Ltd. vs. Registrar General (supra), as relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner, examined whether employees of a statutory Corporation like L.I.C. could be compelled under Section 4, 7(b) and 7(c) of the Act, 1948. The judgment clarifies the distinction between appointment of Census Officers (Section 4) and calling for assistance (Section 7). It highlighted limits on compelling staff of public undertakings/corporations without proper delegation or procedure, emphasizing that Section 7(c) applies to factory, firm or establishment but requires careful application to avoid excessive burden or invalid delegation.

11. Rule 3 of Rules, 1990 authorizes the appointment of Census Officers such Enumerators, Supervisors, Charge Officers etc. from among Government Servants and other suitable persons for performing census duties. It contains a tabulation wherein Column 1 denotes the designation of census officers who are to be appointed to carry out the census work, and Column 2 specifies the category of persons who may be appointed against such designation. Serial no.5 of the tabulation is particularly relevant for the purposes of deciding the instant writ petition, which talks about Enumerator. Against the designation Enumerator, details of officers are mentioned in Column 2 as teachers, clerks or any official or any person. Thus, undoubtedly, any teacher, clerk or any official, or even any suitable person can be appointed as an Enumerator. No distinction has been drawn in this rule between the clerks or officials of local body, institution, or establishment and others. The word "any person" employed in Column 2 against the designation "Enumerator" carries a wider connotation and cannot be confined only to the government employees or officials of the local authorities. In this backdrop of the legal proposition, the Authorized Authority/Zonal Officer is competent to issued orders commanding the persons employed with the L.I.C. to act as Enumerators/Supervisors for census work. Needless to say that the persons engaged in the execution of census duties are deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, and any slackness or neglect on their part is punishable under the provisions of the Act, 1948, read with the Indian Penal Code.

12. Conjoint reading of Section 4, 4-A, 6(1)(e), 7(c) of the Act, 1948 read with Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990 leaves no room for doubt that employee of any establishment can legally be engaged for census duties. Once appointed or directed, they are under the statutory obligation to perform such duty, which is treated as a public duty under the Act, 1948. The expression 'any official or any person' employed in Rule 3 is of wide amplitude and cannot be restricted only to employees of local authority or government departments. Further, Section 7(c) specifically contemplates assistance by officers and members of staff of any factory, firm or establishment for the purposes of census operations. Section 6 and 7, help in decentralized and efficient census taking by utilizing local administration and private sector resources. Non-compliance of direction issued to the persons who were engaged in census operation attracts penalties (including under Section 11 of the Act, 1948). These provisions were inserted/amended to strengthen the machinery for large scale operations like decennial census. These sections balance compulsory public duty with particular administration for a massive exercise like the Indian census. As discussed above, the term 'establishment' has not been narrowly defined under the Act, 1948 and, in ordinary parlance, includes commercial establishments such as L.I.C. In the backdrop of the statutory scheme, the order issued by the competent authority requiring staff of L.I.C. to function as Enumerator/Supervisor cannot be said to be dehors the provision of the Act, 1948 or the Rule, 1990. Once appointed for census work, such persons are deemed to be public servants and are under a statutory obligation to discharge the assigned duties. Moreover, the Hon'ble Division Bench of this Court in the matter of Life Insurance Corporation And Others (supra) has already upheld the engagement of employees of L.I.C. for census work. Relevant paragraph nos. 15 and 16 of the said judgment is reproduced herein below :-

"15. That power, in our opinion, can be localised in Section 7 of the Act. The officers/employees of the writ petitioners would be covered by the expression 'establishment', as they are working in an establishment. Once, they are found working in an 'establishment', in our opinion, the only question is as to whether the power should be exercised by the District Magistrate or by any authority notified by the State Government under Section 4 (2) of the Act, depending on whether the expression is 'as' or 'or'. If the Act as downloaded from the website is taken into consideration, the expression used is 'or' and not 'as' and thus it is not only the District Magistrate, but other authorities can also be appointed by the State Government for any local area, which the State Government has done under Section 4 (2) of the Act. Respondent no.1 is one such authority. The demand has been made by respondent no.1 in respect of the officers/employees working in the Kanpur Branch of the Life Insurance Corporation. Therefore, it was well within the jurisdiction of respondent no.1, considering that power has been conferred to call on the writ petitioners to make available the names of their officers/employees for the purpose of carrying on the census operations.

16. Alternatively, even if we assume that the expression is not 'or' and is 'as' then at the highest, the power can be exercised by the District Magistrate, who is the Principal Census Officer insofar as the whole district is concerned. Insofar as the Nagar Nigams are concerned, they are only a part of the district and thus the Municipal Commissioners have been notified as Additional Principal Census Officers. So, if in the event, respondent no.l has no jurisdiction, then the District Magistrate in respect of the district would have jurisdiction. As such, at the highest, it can be said that respondent no.1 would not have been an authority to issue a direction to the writ petitioners, as such power is vested with the District Magistrate. However, considering that in various other writ petitions, interim orders were passed directing the petitioners, like the writ petitioners, to make available not more than 25% of their officers/employees and as the census operations are going on, no useful purpose would be served by quashing the orders dated 05.04.2010 and 17.04.2010 and the subsequent orders. In fact, in the order dated 05.04.2010, a reference has been made to the Notification dated January 18, 2010. Thus, in any view of the matter, no relief can be granted as sought for. However, at the same time, we may note that though respondents may call on the writ petitioners to make available the officers/employees for the purpose of census operations, in exercise of that power, the working of the writ petitioners themselves should not be affected as observed in the case of State Bank of India (supra). If there be power, it has to be exercised with circumspection and minimum staff can be requisitioned. We, therefore, direct the respondents that if and when a notification is required to be issued under Section 7 of the Act, then from the Institutions like the writ petitioners, requisition should be, at any rate, not more than 25% of the available staff within the area of the jurisdiction conferred on the officers."

13. The judgment relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner rendered by the Punjab & Haryana High Court and the Gujarat High Court do not consider the effect of Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990 and Section 6(1)(e) of the Act, 1948. It is also relevant to note that the Government of Uttar Pradesh has issued notification dated 04.02.2026 prescribing the schedule for the first phase of Census of India, 2027 wherein house listening and house census operations are to be conducted from 22.05.2026 to 20.06.2026.

14. In view of the discussions made herein above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the Authorized Authority/Zonal Officer has not committed any error or illegality in issuing orders in exercise of delegated power under Section 4(4) of the Act, 1948 read with Rule 3 of the Rules, 1990, directing the employees of the L.I.C. to discharge duties as Enumerators/Supervisors to facilitate the work of census operations. Further, the writ petition contains only a vague prayer seeking quashing of the decision to engage employees of the L.I.C. for census work and no specific challenge has been made to any particular order. The ancillary prayer seeking issuance of a writ of mandamus restraining the respondents from engaging employees of the L.I.C. in census operations also cannot be granted in light of the statutory provisions discussed herein above.

15. Resultantly, instant writ petition, being misconceived and devoid of merits, is dismissed with no order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Legality of fixing the same cut-off date for qualification in fresh advertisement as was fixed in earlier advertisement, which was cancelled after several round litigation.

Headnotes

(A) Service Law – Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) – Qualification – Cut-off date – After a series of litigation, earlier advertisement of the year 2022 was cancelled requiring the Commission to issue a fresh advertisement – Fresh advertisement was issued in 2026, but cut-off date was kept the same as fixed in earlier advertisement – Validity challenged :

Held : There was a specific direction that Commission may issue a fresh Advertisement with respect of posts of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.), therefore, according to opinion of this Court selection process for post of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) was separated from original Advertisement No. 51 – If the stand of Commission is accepted that cut off date so far as educational qualification is concerned, would be the date initially fixed, i.e., August, 2022, it would be arbitrary so far as candidates who have now attained educational qualification till fresh Advertisement is issued in 2026 – In order to have a fair competition, cut off date would only be the date of fresh Advertisement, i.e., 28.04.2026 and any candidate who got eligible by said date would be allowed to participate in recruitment process. 1. Affidavit filed today in Court is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri R.K. Ojha, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Shivendu Ojha, learned counsel for petitioners and Sri K. Shahi, learned counsel for Respondent-U.P. Education Service Selection Commission, Prayagraj.

3. An Advertisement No. 51 for the post of Assistant Professors in 34 Subjects was issued in 2022 by U.P. Higher Education Service Commission. A challenge was made qua to qualifications determined by Commission for appointment of Assistant Professors (B.Ed.) and a Coordinate Bench of this Court has passed an order dated 09.12.2022 in Writ-A No. 12803 of 2022, Neutral Citation No. 2022:AHC:214381, whereby said Advertisement so far as appointment on 75 posts of Assistant Professors (B.Ed.) was found to be contrary to law being not in terms of the N.C.T.E. Regulations, therefore, quashed with further direction that Commission may issue fresh Advertisement with respect to said posts only. For reference relevant part of said order is mentioned hereinafter:

"13. Consequently, the impugned Advertisement No. 51 issued by the Commission insofar as it relates to appointment of 75 posts of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) is found to be contrary to and lesser than that enforced by the special law. Therefore, to that extent, the impugned Advertisement is contrary to the mandatory law. It is quashed (only to that extent). The Commission may proceed to refund the application money to all the affected applicants through same mode it may have received that money from the individual candidates. Such compliance may be made within a period of two weeks from today. The Commission may issue a fresh advertisement with respect to the above posts strictly in accordance with the norms of the N.C.T.E. Regulations. (Emphasis supplied)

4. U.P. Higher Education Service Commission has made challenge to aforesaid order by way of a Special Appeal Defective No. 287 of 2023, which was dismissed by a Division Bench of this Court vide an order dated 21.04.2023, Neutral Citation No. 2023:AHC:87720-DB. A further attempt at behest of U.P. Higher Education Service Commission before Supreme Court also remained unsuccessful vide an order dated 01.09.2023 passed in Special Leave to Appeal (C) No. 17719 of 2023 except a clarification that refund as directed by the Writ Court shall be made on applying by individual applicants on furnishing their account details.

5. It would be relevant to observe here that examination qua to remaining 33 subjects was held, however, due to certain irregularities, entire written examination was cancelled with direction that a fresh written examination be conducted so far as 33 subjects are concerned. This order was upheld by a Writ Court of this Court though in a Special Appeal, the Division Bench has limited the cancellation only qua to 5 subjects out of 33 subjects with further direction that no fresh written examination would be required for remaining subjects, i.e., 28 subjects. So far as present case is concerned, fresh examination for 75 posts of Assistant Professors (B.Ed.) was required to be conducted independently irrespective of above order of cancellation passed by Writ Court as modified by a Division Bench.

6. In pursuance of above referred judgments of Single Judge, Division Bench and Supreme Court, the Secretary, U.P. Education Service Selection Commission issued a press note dated 23.05.2025 whereby in pursuance of earlier Advertisement No. 51 registrations were opened for increased 107 posts of Assistant Professors (B.Ed.) with cut off date 31.08.2022 so far as qualification and eligibility is concerned, i.e., fixed in terms of initial Advertisement.

7. Aforesaid order was challenged by petitioners by way of Writ-A No. 8260 of 2025 which was disposed of vide an order dated 01.07.2025 with following directions:

"14. After taking into consideration of the contents of the petition and the submissions of learned Senior Counsel, I find force in the argument but I have also considered that the recruitment process has already been started in pursuance of the new amended advertisement, therefore I am not inclined to interfere in the recruitment process at this stage but in the interest of justice, I am inclined to consider the alternative prayer to allow the writ petitioners to fill the form online as they have approached this Court by way of filing the instant writ petition before the last date of filling of the form as per amended advertisement.

15. In view of the aforesaid observations and directions, the Commission is directed to open the portal to enable the petitioners for filling up their form for one day i.e. 7th July, 2025 from 10.00 a.m. to 5 p.m. It is also made clear that the aforesaid direction has been passed only for the writ petitioners as the instant writ petition has been filed prior to the last date of submission of form as per the amended advertisement."

8. Petitioners thereafter filed a Contempt Application (Civil) No. 3414 of 2025, which was disposed of vide order dated 11.09.2025 that order of Writ Court was already complied with.

9. Subsequently, an intra-Court appeal against the order passed by Coordinate Bench was also dismissed probably on ground that respondents have issued a fresh notification dated 28.04.2026, which is impugned in present writ petition, on a ground that cut off date for educational qualification was again fixed as 31.08.2022, i.e., the observations made in earlier round of litigation were not complied with.

10. Learned Senior Advocate appearing for petitioners submits that admittedly when first Advertisement No. 51 was issued in the year 2022 wherein above referred cut off date was mentioned, petitioners were not qualified and they have attained minimum qualification subsequently. It is the case of petitioners that once a fresh notification is issued the Commission ought to have included fresh candidates also, i.e., a fresh cut off date be issued in terms of notification dated 28.04.2026 so that petitioners may also apply.

11. Learned Senior Advocate also referred the judgments passed in earlier round of litigation that Commission was directed to issue a fresh Advertisement, therefore, no fresh notification could be issued in continuance of earlier Advertisement No. 51 of 2022, rather it would be a fresh recruitment process on basis of a fresh Advertisement, therefore, a fresh cut off date was required to fix so that all eligible candidates, who were not qualified earlier, may participate and that number of post has also been increased.

12. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for Commission submitted that basic Advertisement was of the year 2022 and when it was cancelled with liberty to issue a fresh Advertisement, cut off date was not disturbed. Requirement of fresh Advertisement was only for the purpose of educational qualification in terms of orders and fixed by Competent Authority.

13. Learned counsel further submits that during interregnum period now a new Act has come into force which has different method of recruitment for Assistant Professors, therefore, in case petitioners prayer is accepted, the examination has to be conducted in terms of current procedure whereas recruitment arising out of Advertisement No. 51 so far as rest of 33 subjects were conducted in terms of earlier process, therefore, to keep uniformity, the examination for Assistant Professors (B.Ed.) has to be conducted in terms of procedure applicable in the year 2022, therefore, cut off date was not disturbed. In a process arising out of same Advertisement two different type of selection process cannot be adopted.

14. I have considered the submissions and perused the material available on record.

15. The first issue before this Court for consideration is, whether in pursuance of an order dated 09.12.2022 whereby selection on the post of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) arising out of Advertisement No. 51/2022 was quashed with a direction that fresh Advertisement be issued after adhering to the norms of N.C.T.E. Regulations, whether it would be considered a fresh Advertisement for all purposes notwithstanding that initially it was proposed alongwith Advertisement No. 51 with other subjects.

16. To answer above question, the Court takes note of para 13 of order dated 09.12.2022 that there was a specific direction that Commission may issue a fresh Advertisement with respect of posts of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.), therefore, according to opinion of this Court selection process for post of Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) was separated from original Advertisement No. 51 and any argument of learned counsel for Commission that in all circumstances fresh selection process for said post would be co-related with selection process of other subjects arising out of Advertisement No. 51, is accordingly rejected. Both recruitment process are now independent and has no relation inter se.

17. On basis of above opinion, now the Court proceed further on a premise that selection process so far as Assistant Professor (B.Ed.) is concerned, it would be a separate and independent process.

18. It is also on record that initial number of posts, i.e., 75 has now been increased to 107 and till date Commission is not able to conduct fresh recruitment. They have earlier issued a fresh Advertisement which was later on withdrawn from consideration of last date of educational qualifications. Initial Advertisement was issued in the year 2022, i.e., four years ago, therefore, undisputedly petitioners and other similarly situated candidates have now become eligible to participate in said selection process and that increase in posts also indicates that posts become vacant in subsequent years have also been included. Therefore, if the stand of Commission is accepted that cut off date so far as educational qualification is concerned, would be the date initially fixed, i.e., August, 2022, it would be arbitrary so far as candidates who have now attained educational qualification till fresh Advertisement is issued in 2026 and to non-suit them would not only be adverse to them but they will also miss a chance to appear and compete in a fresh selection process.

19. At this stage, Court also takes note that by an order dated 09.12.2022 even a direction was passed that application fees may be returned to affected applicants. Therefore, it is not necessary that all candidates who have applied in the year 2022 would definitely apply in fresh recruitment process. Otherwise also, presently there are only 30 candidates before this Court. Therefore, in order to have a fair competition, cut off date would only be the date of fresh Advertisement, i.e., 28.04.2026 and any candidate who got eligible by said date would be allowed to participate in recruitment process.

20. Accordingly, it is directed that a □Corrigendum□ be issued so that not only petitioners but any other eligible candidates, if want to apply, can apply. The □Corrigendum□ shall be issued within a period of two weeks from today.

21. Now the question is, whether examination be conducted as per old provision of new provision. The Court finds that since process was initiated in 2022 and new Act has come later on and even rest of selection process have recently conducted in terms of old provisions, therefore, there would be no legal difficulty that Commission may continue examination process in terms of old provisions (See, Km. Lakshmi and others vs. State of U.P. and others, 2026:AHC:53469 as modified by a Division Bench in Harvindar Singh and others vs. State of U.P. and others, 2026:AHC:84883-DB). It is clarified that it is always open for State Government to take a decision to conduct examination as per new provision as it would not prejudice other candidates, since it is informed that there is not much change in new process about procedure.

22. With aforesaid observations/ directions, this writ petition is disposed of.

Suman Kumari ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Permissibility of claiming the parity of interim protection granted in certain other matter to validate an appointment obtained by using the fake degree.

(2) Effect of not conducting the departmental enquiry before passing the dismissal order on the allegation of using the fake degree to obtain the appointment.

Headnotes

(A) Service Law – Dismissal from service – Assistant Teacher – Fake and tempered B.Ed. degree was used to obtain the appointment – Effect on the validity of appointment, which was made in year 2010 – Interim protection in certain pending matter was granted – Parity claimed – Permissibility – No departmental enquiry was conducted – No opportunity of hearing was given – Effect

Held : Merely because interim orders have been passed in certain other petitions or because the matter is pending consideration before the Hon'ble Apex Court, it cannot be said that the judgments rendered by this Court cease to have binding effect – Fraud vitiates every solemn act and an appointment obtained on the basis of forged or fabricated educational qualifications confers no enforceable right upon the incumbent. In such circumstances, where the employer forms satisfaction on the basis of material available on record that the appointment itself was secured by fraud or misrepresentation, the requirement of holding a full-fledged disciplinary inquiry may not arise, as the action is not founded upon misconduct during service but upon invalidity of the very entry into service. [Para 27 and 33]

(B) Principle of sub silentio – Applicability – Permissibility of treating an interim order as the declaration of law

Held : A decision is said to pass sub silentio when a particular point of law involved in the decision is not consciously determined or is assumed without argument or consideration. An interim order granting protection without adjudication upon the legal issue involved cannot be treated as a declaration of law under Article 141 of the Constitution of India. [Para 28] (E-1)

1. The present restoration application has been filed for recalling the order dated 06.04.2026 passed by this Hon'ble Court, by which instant writ petition has been dismissed as infructuous.

2. Application has been filed within time. In view of the liberty granted by the order dated 06.04.2026 and the reasons as disclosed in the affidavit, which are satisfactory, the restoration application is allowed.

3. Accordingly, the present writ petition is restored to its original number.

Ref : Order on writ petition

4. Heard Mr. Harish Chandra Pratap, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Devesh Vikram, learned counsel for respondent-BSA and Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner passed her High School and Intermediate examinations from the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P. in the years 1989 and 1991 respectively. Thereafter, she pursued the degree of Bachelor of Arts from Sri Tikaram Kanya Mahavidyalaya, Aligarh, affiliated with Agra University, in the year 1992 and qualified the same in the year 1994. Subsequently, she pursued and passed M.A. in Political Science in the year 1996.

6. It is further submitted that the petitioner pursued the B.Ed. course for the academic session 2003?04 from R.K. Gupta Memorial Institute of Technology and Management, Agra, which is duly recognized by the National Council for Teacher Education, Government of India, New Delhi.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the petitioner applied for Special BTC Training, 2008 (Examination Year 2010), on 05.02.2009, wherein all her educational certificates were duly submitted and verified. The petitioner successfully completed the Special BTC Training, 2008 and the certificate in that regard was issued on 01.06.2010.

8. It is further submitted that being duly eligible, the petitioner applied for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher in Junior Basic Schools in District Badaun and, after due selection, she was appointed as Assistant Teacher in a Primary School situated in District Badaun, where she joined on 30.07.2010. Subsequently, the petitioner was promoted to the post of Headmaster.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that, to the utter surprise of the petitioner, a notice dated 13.07.2020 was issued by respondent no. 4, wherein it was mentioned that Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University, Agra had declared the B.Ed. degrees of 2823 candidates pertaining to the academic session 2004?05 to be fake. The notice further referred to the observations made in Writ Petition No. 190 of 2020 and also stated that the petitioner?s name appeared in the list of fake B.Ed. degrees available on the official website of Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University, Agra.

10. It is submitted that the petitioner sought time to submit her reply and also produced a certificate issued by the then Secretary of the Society managing the concerned college to establish that she had in fact pursued the B.Ed. course for the academic session 2004?05 from the concerned institution affiliated to the University. The petitioner also submitted a representation requesting the authorities to conduct a proper inquiry with respect to her B.Ed. certificate so as to ascertain the true facts.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that a registered letter was served upon the petitioner on 19.07.2020 containing the order dated 14.07.2020 passed by respondent no. 4, District Basic Education Officer, Meerut, whereby the services of the petitioner were dismissed forthwith. The aforesaid order dated 14.07.2020 has been challenged in the present writ petition.

12. It is contended that the impugned order is wholly arbitrary, illegal and has been passed without affording any adequate opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. It is further submitted that the petitioner had rendered satisfactory service after her appointment as Assistant Teacher and there has never been any complaint against her during the entire tenure of service.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner lastly submits that the petitioner being a permanent and confirmed employee could not have been removed from service except after holding a regular departmental inquiry in accordance with the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline & Appeal) Rules of 1999, which admittedly has not been conducted in the present case.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that neither the report of the Special Investigation Team (SIT), nor the extract of the alleged list of fake degrees, nor any other material or report relied upon by the authorities has ever been supplied to the petitioner. It is contended that in absence of disclosure of the material forming the basis of the impugned action, the petitioner was deprived of any meaningful opportunity to submit an effective reply or defend herself against the allegations levelled against her. Consequently, the impugned order stands vitiated on account of gross violation of the principles of natural justice.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the judgment rendered in the case of Neelam Chauhan vs. State of U.P. and 4 others, reported in 2020 (4) ADJ 560 as well as the judgment passed in Special Appeal in the case of Kiran Lata Singh vs. State of U.P. Through Secretary, Department of Basic Education and 5 Others, being Special Appeal No.326 of 2020 as decided on 26.02.2021, have already been challenged before the Hon?ble Apex Court in SLP Nos. 7157?7160 of 2021. It is submitted that, taking note of the pendency of the aforesaid Special Leave Petitions, interim orders have been granted by this Court in several similarly situated matters, including Writ-A No. 14520 of 2020. Therefore, it is contended that the petitioner is also entitled to the same interim protection and relief on the ground of parity.

16. He further submits that on the aforesaid grounds, the impugned order passed against the petitioner is wholly unsustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside by this Court.

17. Learned counsel appearing for the respondents, on the other hand, submits that the controversy relating to Assistant Teachers who secured employment on the basis of B.Ed. degrees for the academic session 2004?05 shown to have been issued by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University, Agra, and subsequently found to be fake or tampered, already stands concluded by the judgment rendered in the case of Smt. Neelam Chauhan and connected matters, leading case being Writ-A No. 190 of 2020, decided on 29.04.2020, wherein the Court made the following observations:

'In the case of Smt. Neelam Chauhan (supra), this Hon'ble Court has made extensive observations regarding fake and tampered B.Ed. degrees allegedly issued by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University for the academic session 2004-2005. The judgment dealt with a large batch of writ petitions filed by assistant teachers whose appointments were questioned on the basis of such degrees.'

18. The principal observations recorded by the Court were as follows:

'(i) The Court noted that a Special Investigation Team (SIT), constituted pursuant to orders passed in PIL proceedings, found large-scale irregularities and tampering in B.Ed. mark sheets and tabulation records of the University.

(ii) It was also observed that although around 8,930 students had actually appeared in the B.Ed. examination, the tabulation charts were allegedly manipulated by inserting additional pages, increasing the number to about 12,472 candidates. The Court recorded allegations that forged entries were inserted and marks were fraudulently awarded.

(iii) The Court further observed that many petitioners had obtained employment as Assistant Teachers on the basis of B.Ed. degrees or mark sheets which were found to be fake, forged, or tampered. The Court categorized the cases of affected teachers and held that where the records clearly disclosed tampering or forged degrees, the authorities were justified in proceeding against such appointees.

(iv) At the same time, the Court emphasized compliance with principles of natural justice. In certain individual cases, where relevant explanations or documents had not been considered by the authorities, the impugned termination orders were quashed and matters were remitted for fresh consideration after hearing the concerned persons.

(v) The Court specifically observed that the University had issued notices to suspected candidates and that 814 persons had approached the University, but most had failed to submit supporting documents. The Court directed the University to take appropriate decisions regarding such cases within a stipulated period. The Court also referred to its earlier decision in Writ-A No.468 of 2020 (Tilak Singh and 495 Others vs State of U.P.) and noted that similar submissions had already been rejected therein.'

19. Ultimately, the batch of writ petitions were disposed of with detailed directions, concerning different categories of candidates, including:

(a) persons with prima facie fake/tampered degrees,

(b) persons whose cases required reconsideration,

(c) and persons whose records had not been properly examined by the authorities.

20. The judgment later became the basis for several subsequent decisions concerning teachers appointed on allegedly fake B.Ed. Qualifications.

21. The judgment and order passed in the aforesaid bunch of writ petitions was assailed by filing Special Appeal No. 326 of 2020 (Smt. Kiran Lata Singh vs State of U.P. and Others), which was connected with a batch of other special appeals and came to be decided by a Division Bench of this Court on 26.02.2021. The Division Bench, while considering the controversy in detail, affirmed the findings recorded by the learned Single Judge with certain observations and directions. The principal observations recorded by the Division Bench were:

'(i) The Court observed that the Single Judge had relied extensively upon the SIT report, University records, and materials collected during investigation showing large-scale manipulation in the B.Ed. examination records of the academic session 2004?05.

(ii) The Division Bench noted that where the educational qualification itself appeared prima facie forged, fabricated, or obtained through tampering in University records, no equitable relief could ordinarily be granted to such appointees merely because they had continued in service for some time.

(iii) At the same time, the Court emphasized that each case could not be treated identically and individual scrutiny was necessary. The Bench observed that cases of candidates whose records were genuinely disputed or whose documents had not been independently verified required reconsideration in accordance with principles of natural justice.

(iv) The Court recorded that allegations existed regarding interpolation in tabulation charts and unauthorized increase in the number of successful candidates in the B.Ed. examination, and such allegations were supported by the material collected by the SIT and the University authorities.

(v) The Bench further observed that appointments secured on the basis of fake educational qualifications would amount to fraud upon public employment and such appointments could not be protected under Article 226 of the Constitution.

(vi) However, the Court also observed that adverse action affecting service rights must satisfy procedural fairness. If a candidate claimed that his or her degree was genuine and supporting material had not been properly examined, an opportunity of hearing and proper verification was necessary before final termination.'

22. The Division Bench ultimately disposed of the connected appeals by modifying and clarifying certain directions issued by the Single Judge and permitting appropriate scrutiny/verification by the authorities in individual cases.

23. It is further submitted that against the judgment passed in Special Appeal No. 326 of 2020 (Smt. Kiran Lata Singh vs State of U.P. and Others) and connected matters, Special Leave Petitions being SLP (C) Nos. 7157?7160 of 2021 were filed before the Hon?ble Supreme Court, wherein the Hon?ble Apex Court, vide interim order dated 01.07.2021, was pleased to issue notice and grant interim protection to the petitioners therein by directing payment of current salary during pendency of the proceedings.

24. The Court has considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

25. The principal submission advanced on behalf of the petitioner is that since interim orders have been granted in certain pending matters and the judgment rendered in Smt. Neelam Chauhan (supra) as affirmed in Smt. Kiran Lata Singh (supra) is under challenge before the Hon?ble Apex Court, the petitioner is also entitled to similar interim protection.

26. The said submission, however, cannot be accepted in the facts of the present case. The controversy with regard to appointments obtained on the basis of allegedly fake or tampered B.Ed. degrees pertaining to the academic session 2004?05 issued by Dr. B.R. Ambedkar University, Agra, has already been considered in detail by the learned Single Judge in Smt. Neelam Chauhan (supra), which judgment was thereafter affirmed by the Division Bench in Smt. Kiran Lata Singh (supra). The legal issues involved therein thus stand duly considered and answered.

27. Merely because interim orders have been passed in certain other petitions or because the matter is pending consideration before the Hon?ble Apex Court, it cannot be said that the judgments rendered by this Court cease to have binding effect. Interim orders passed in individual matters are essentially orders passed in the peculiar facts of those cases and do not constitute binding precedents.

28. In this regard, the principle of sub silentio is also relevant. A decision is said to pass sub silentio when a particular point of law involved in the decision is not consciously determined or is assumed without argument or consideration. An interim order granting protection without adjudication upon the legal issue involved cannot be treated as a declaration of law under Article 141 of the Constitution of India. Consequently, the interim orders relied upon by the petitioner, having been passed without any detailed adjudication on the issues presently raised, cannot override or dilute the binding effect of the judgments rendered in Smt. Neelam Chauhan (supra) and Smt. Kiran Lata Singh (supra).

29. In paragraph no.30 of the counter affidavit as filed on behalf of respondent no.4-BSA, it has been stated that the interim order was granted to the petitioner on 06.10.2020, as corrected on 14.10.2020, however, the petitioner despite being called for joining, did not turn up.

30. The aforesaid paragraph has been answered stating that the petitioner was never offered to join services vide any letter. From the aforesaid, the fact remains that the petitioner has never joined, pursuant to the interim order, thus he is not entitled for any relief.

31. Accordingly, this Court is of the opinion that the petitioner cannot claim parity solely on the basis of interim orders passed in other pending matters, particularly when the controversy already stands adjudicated by coordinate and larger Benches of this Court and no final adjudication to the contrary has yet been rendered by the Hon?ble Apex Court.

32. So far as the other submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, namely that no proper opportunity of hearing was afforded and no disciplinary inquiry in accordance with the applicable Rules was conducted, is concerned, it is well settled that in cases involving fraud, forgery or misrepresentation, strict compliance of departmental inquiry procedures may not be necessary where the very foundation of appointment is alleged to be void ab initio.

33. It is a settled principle of law that fraud vitiates every solemn act and an appointment obtained on the basis of forged or fabricated educational qualifications confers no enforceable right upon the incumbent. In such circumstances, where the employer forms satisfaction on the basis of material available on record that the appointment itself was secured by fraud or misrepresentation, the requirement of holding a full-fledged disciplinary inquiry may not arise, as the action is not founded upon misconduct during service but upon invalidity of the very entry into service.

34. After due verification from the records of the concerned University and upon consideration of the material available on record, the competent authority has passed a detailed and reasoned order in accordance with law, therefore, no interference is warranted by this Court in the impugned order and the writ petition, being devoid of merit is dismissed, accordingly.

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the respondents to treat the two years Primary Teachers Training Course (P.T.T.) acquired by the petitioner from Primary Teachers Education College, Gumma, District Godda, conducted by Jharkhand Academic Council, Ranchi, recognized by the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE), as equivalent to the two years Educational Training Examination conducted by the State Council of Educational Research and Training (SCERT), Uttar Pradesh, and accordingly modify the eligibility criteria for the selection and appointment against 3500 posts of Assistant Teacher in the State of U.P. to that extent."

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner had completed his two years Primary Teachers Training Examination Course from an institution recognized by the National Council for Teacher Education (NCTE) and had obtained the requisite certificate from Primary Teacher Education College, Gumma, District-Godda, Jharkhand conducted by the Jharkhand Academic Council, Ranchi. He further submits that petitioner was eligible for being considered for appointment in view of the notifications dated 05.01.2016 and 19.01.2016 on the post of Assistant Teacher (Urdu).

5. The Court, by order dated 25.02.2016, permitted the petitioner provisionally to participate in the counselling in view of the orders passed in Writ-A No.5938 of 2015 (Md. Nesar Ahmad v. State of U.P. and Others), wherein the Court, relying upon the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Harsh Kumar and another vs. State of UP and others, 2014 (2) 870 (All) as well as Special Appeal Defective No.130 of 2014, had allowed the petitioner to participate in the ongoing counselling in respect of the notification dated 23.08.2010 as amended on 29.07.2011.

6. Subsequently, a list dated 23.02.2016 was issued by the concerned District Basic Education Officer, wherein the petitioner was declared an ineligible candidate. Challenging the said list, Writ-A No.22451 of 2016 has been filed.

7. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner holds the qualification as mentioned in the relevant notification. He, placing reliance upon the judgment of the Division Bench passed in the case of Harsh Kumar (supra), submits that the petitioner is entitled to be considered for appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher (Urdu).

8. Learned Counsel for the respondent-BSA, on the other hand, submits that the petitioner does not hold the qualification for Assistant Teacher (Urdu) as detailed in the advertisement, wherein the candidate must possess Teacher's Eligibility Test which was conducted by the Central Government or the U.P. State Government. The petitioner should possess the B.T.C. (Urdu) training from training centre of Lucknow, Agra, Mawana District-Meerut and Sakaldeeha District Chandauli or should possess any equivalent certificate of B.T.C. two years B.T.C. (Urdu) or Moallim-E-Urdu prior to 11.08.1997 or may possess Diploma in Teaching from Aligarh Muslim University. Only these training qualifications were permitted to apply for 140 posts of Assistant Teacher (Urdu) in District Kushinagar. It will not be out of place to mention here that the petitioner did not possess any of these training qualifications. The petitioner passed P.T.T. Examination from Ranchi, Jhankhand which is not equivalent to two years B.T.C. (Urdu) Training. He further submits that the judgment as relied upon by the petitioner is not applicable in the facts of the present case, as the petitioner does not hold the qualification as mentioned in the advertisement, therefore, he is not entitled for any relief as prayed for.

9. Learned counsel for the respondents informs that the issue regarding appointment of Assistant Teacher (Urdu) has already been decided in Writ-A No.25278 of 2014 (Azahar Ali vs. State of U.P. And 2 Others), against which a Special Appeal is pending, and no interim order has been passed.

10. The contention advanced on behalf of the respondents is that in case the petitioner does not possess the qualifications prescribed under the advertisement/rules governing the recruitment in question, he is not entitled to be considered for appointment on the post in issue. The aforesaid proposition is no longer res integra. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Zahoor Ahmad Rather & Ors. v. Sheikh Imtiyaz Ahmad & Ors, (2019) 2 SCC 404, held that prescription of qualifications for a post falls within the domain of the employer. The Courts, in exercise of judicial review, cannot expand the prescribed eligibility or treat a higher qualification as equivalent unless the Rules so provide. The said principle has been reiterated in Ankita Thakur & Ors. v. H.P. Staff Selection Commission & Ors. (2024) 19 SCC 745, wherein it was held that a candidate not possessing the essential qualification prescribed in the advertisement/rules cannot claim appointment. Further, in Rakesh Kumar Sharma v. Government of NCT of Delhi & Ors., (2013) 11 SCC 58, it has been held that eligibility has to be possessed on the cut-off date prescribed under the advertisement. Likewise, in Pramod Kumar v. U.P. Secondary Education Services Commission & Ors., (2008) 7 SCC 153, the Apex Court held that absence of requisite eligibility is an illegality incapable of being cured subsequently. Similar view was taken in District Collector And Chairman Vizianagaram (Social Welfare Residential School Society Vizianagaram And Another Vs. M. Tripura Sundari Devi,(1990) 3 SCC 655, wherein it was held that appointment contrary to the qualifications prescribed in the advertisement is impermissible in law.

11. In view of the above, the writ petition is dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

(1) Maintainability of writ petition in respect of a dispute pertaining to the sugar factory, which was subsequently took over by a private body during the course of pendency of writ petition.

Headnotes

(A) Labour Law – Writ – Maintainability – Disciplinary proceeding – Punishment – Order of Stoppage of three annual increments with cumulative effect was passed by the Disciplinary authority – Though the Appellate Authority disagreed with the order of Disciplinary Authority but enhanced the punishment and passed the dismissal order – Validity challenged in writ petition – During the pendency of writ petition, the sugar factory in State of U.P. was disinvested and it was taken over by a private player namely; Wave Industries Private Ltd – Question of maintainability of writ petition felt into consideration

Held : There is a legal impediment to pass an order today since now the writ petition is not maintainable due to subsequent events as a private player has taken over the company – Though the Court finds that impugned order cannot survive on law, still, no relief can be granted to the petitioner – Liberty is granted to the petitioner to approach the Labour Court if so advise and in case any proceeding is initiated before Labour Court, delay if any, can be condoned since this writ petition was pending for about 25 years before this Court and Labour Court will take endeavour to decide the proceedings if initiated expeditiously, preferably within a period of one year. (Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.K.Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri A.K. Srivastava and Sri Shashank Gupta, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. This Writ Petition is of the year 2000. Court finds that petitioner has a good case however, due to subsequent events whereby sugar factory in State of U.P. i.e., U.P. State Sugarcane Corporation Unit Bijnor has now been disinvested and it was taken over by a private player namely; Wave Industries Private Ltd. has now rendered this writ petition not maintainable. (see R.S. Madireddy and Anr. Vs. Union of India and others, 2024 SCC OnLine SC 965.

3.The facts which are not under dispute are that the petitioner a Labour had faced a disciplinary proceedings, on a charge of theft, wherein he was awarded a punishment of stoppage of 3 annual increments with cumulative effect vide an order dated 9/11.6.1998.

4. The petitioner thereafter filed an appeal in terms of Clause 'O' of Standing Order of Sugar Industry U.P. (Decision of Manager to be final, subject to right of appeal), which does not provide any specific procedure to decide the Appeals. However, Appellate Authority not only put its disagreement with the order of Disciplinary Authority but enhanced the punishment and passed an order of dismissal from service vide an order dated 17.12.1999, the order impugned.

5. Court finds merit in the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner so far as impugned order is concerned that without any specific power to enhance the punishment in a statutory appeal, impugned order whereby punishment was enhanced from three permanent stoppage of annual increments to dismissal from service would not legally survive. Court also takes note of a judgment passed by this Court in Ravi Kumar Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Ors, 2024:AHC:85116-DB.

6. However, as referred above, there is a legal impediment to pass an order today since now the writ petition is not maintainable due to subsequent events as a private player has taken over the company.

7. Aforesaid referred position of law in R.S. Madireddy (Supra) is not being disputed by the learned counsel for the petitioner also. For reference relevant paragraphs of it is reproduced hereinafter :

"38. The question of issuing a writ would only arise when the writ petition is being decided. Thus, the issue about exercise of extra ordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India would arise only on the date when the writ petitions were taken up for consideration and decision. The respondent No. 3(AIL)- employer was a government entity on the date of filing of the writ petitions, which came to be decided after a significant delay by which time, the company had been disinvested and taken over by a private player. Since, respondent No. 3 employer had been disinvested and had assumed the character of a private entity not performing any public function, the High Court could not have exercised the extra ordinary writ jurisdiction to issue a writ to such private entity. The learned Division Bench has taken care to protect the rights of the appellants to seek remedy and thus, it cannot be said that the appellants have been non-suited in the case. It is only that the appellants would have to approach another forum for seeking their remedy. Thus, the question No. 2 is decided against the appellants.

39. By no stretch of imagination, the delay in disposal of the writ petitions could have been a ground to continue with and maintain the writ petitions because the forum that is the High Court where the writ petitions were instituted could not have issued a writ to the private respondent which had changed hands in the intervening period. Hence, the question No. 3 is also decided against the appellants.*

40. Resultantly, the view taken by the Division Bench of the Bombay High Court in denying equitable relief to the appellants herein and relegating them to approach the appropriate forum for ventilating their grievances is the only just and permissible view."*

8. In the aforesaid circumstances, though the Court finds that impugned order cannot survive on law, still, no relief can be granted to the petitioner. The judgment of R.S. Madireddy (Supra) applies in present case not only on facts but on law also and this writ petition is dismissed being not maintainable. However, liberty is granted to the petitioner to approach the Labour Court if so advise and in case any proceeding is initiated before Labour Court, delay if any, can be condoned since this writ petition was pending for about 25 years before this Court and Labour Court will take endeavour to decide the proceedings if initiated expeditiously, preferably within a period of one year.

Balwant Chandra ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of disregarding the direction of the High Court issued for concluding the department enquiry within a specific period.
(2) Effect of violation of Regulation 486(1), which mandate that the departmental proceedings can ordinarily be undertaken only after the conclusion of the police investigation or criminal trial.
(3) Effect of acquittal order passed in the criminal case, based upon which the departmental enquiry was conducted and punishment order was passed.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Punishment – Constable in Civil Police – Departmental enquiry proceeded consequent upon registration of a criminal case – Earlier High Court passed the judgment dated 13.12.2019 directing the authority to take final decision preferably within a period of two months – However, disregarding the direction, the punishment order was passed after an inordinate delay of approximately fourteen months, without any explanation or permission – Effect

Held : Although a period of two months was granted by the Coordinate Bench vide judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 for passing the final order, the disciplinary authority proceeded to pass the punishment order only on 13.02.2021, i.e., after an inordinate delay of about fourteen months. Admittedly, no application seeking extension of time was moved before this Court, nor was any permission obtained for such delay. In view of the law laid down by the Full Bench in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi's case, such action on the part of the disciplinary authority is clearly impermissible and renders the impugned punishment order unsustainable on this ground alone. [Para 29]

(B) Service law – Punishment – Constable in Civil Police – Departmental enquiry proceeded consequent upon registration of a criminal case – Regulation 486(1), which provide that the departmental proceedings can ordinarily be undertaken only after the conclusion of the police investigation or criminal trial, was not followed – Effect

Held : Regulation 486(1) is mandatory in nature, and any departmental inquiry conducted in violation thereof would stand vitiated. The Court emphasized that departmental proceedings can ordinarily be undertaken only after the conclusion of the police investigation or criminal trial. On these principles, the order of dismissal impugned therein was set aside, having been passed in contravention of the mandatory provisions of Regulation 486(1). [Para 34]

(C) Service law – Punishment – Constable in Civil Police – Departmental enquiry proceeded consequent upon registration of a criminal case – Subsequently acquittal order was passed in the criminal case, which attained finality as no appeal was filed against it – Effect : (E-1)

Held : The acquittal recorded by the competent criminal court has a binding effect on the departmental proceedings. It is not permissible for the disciplinary authority to go behind or disregard the findings returned by the criminal court. The judicial determination rendered in the criminal trial must be treated as conclusive on the issues involved, particularly when the acquittal is on merits. [Para 38] (E-1)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Karunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Amrendra Nath Tripathi, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Ms. Arunima Singh and Shri Akash Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, and Shri Udai Bhan Pandey, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

Reliefs Sought

2. By means of the present petition, the petitioner seeks issuance of a writ of certiorari for quashing the impugned punishment order dated 13.02.2021 passed by respondent no. 4 (Annexure No. 13) and the appellate order dated 27.04.2021 passed by respondent no. 3 (Annexure No. 14). The petitioner has further assailed the inquiry report dated 31.10.2019 (Annexure No. 9) as well as the entire departmental proceedings conducted against him. In addition to the above, the petitioner has also prayed for issuance of a writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to permit him to continue on the post of Constable in Civil Police in District Lucknow. A consequential relief has also been sought for payment of salary and allowances of the said post regularly as and when the same fall due, along with arrears with effect from 11.04.2018.

Factual Background

3. The brief facts, as set forth in the petition, are that while the petitioner was posted as a Constable at Police Station Mohanlalganj, he came to be arrested in connection with Case Crime No. 97 of 2018, registered at Police Station Banthara, District Lucknow on 10.04.2018 under Sections 7/13(1)(d)/13(2) of the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, on allegations of having demanded and accepted illegal gratification from the complainant.

4. Consequent upon the aforesaid arrest and registration of the criminal case, the petitioner was placed under suspension vide order dated 11.04.2018 (Annexure No. 1). Feeling aggrieved by the said suspension order, the petitioner preferred Writ Petition No. 100 (S/S) of 2019, titled Balwant Chandra vs. State of U.P. and others, inter alia on the ground that the suspension was contrary to the provisions contained in Regulations 486 and 490 of the U.P. Police Regulations, as well as the law laid down by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. Vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (1961) 2 SCR 679 and Kedar Nath Yadav Vs. State of U.P. (2005) 3 ESC 1955.

5. In the said writ petition, this Court, vide order dated 04.01.2019, granted time to the learned Standing Counsel to seek instructions in the matter. Subsequently, during the pendency of the writ petition, the suspension order was revoked on 28.02.2019 rendering the challenge to the suspension largely academic. Thereafter, a short counter affidavit was filed on behalf of the State; however, since the issues raised by the petitioner were not adequately addressed therein, this Court, vide order dated 17.07.2019, granted further time to the State authorities to file a detailed counter affidavit. In compliance thereof, a paragraph-wise counter affidavit was filed and taken on record.

6. In the said counter affidavit, reliance was placed by the State upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Apex Court in "Capt. M Paul Antony Vs. Bharat Cold Mills, (1999) 3 SCC 679" as well as upon a Government Order dated 06.09.2000, to contend that there is no legal bar in proceeding with departmental proceedings simultaneously with criminal prosecution arising out of the same set of allegations. Meanwhile, during the pendency of the aforesaid writ petition, a charge sheet dated 12.03.2019, based on the allegations forming subject matter of the aforesaid FIR No. 97 of 2018, came to be served upon the petitioner. The petitioner submitted his reply to the charge sheet on 30.03.2019, denying the allegations levelled against him.

7. Upon conclusion of the departmental inquiry, the Inquiry Officer submitted his report dated 31.10.2019 (Annexure No. 9), holding the petitioner guilty of the charges levelled against him. The said inquiry report was thereafter furnished to the petitioner along with a show cause notice, calling upon him to submit his explanation, which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 10.

8. The petitioner, being aggrieved by the issuance of the show cause notice dated 12.11.2019 by the Senior Superintendent of Police, Lucknow, challenged the same by filing writ petition No. 34508 (S/S) of 2019 "Balwant Chandra Vs. State of U.P. and others". The said writ petition came to be disposed of by this Court vide judgment and order dated 13.12.2019. The relevant extract of the said order is reproduced hereinbelow:

"Though I am not interfering with the show cause notice but the relevant material available on record reveals that the respondent-State has not replied the specific contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner in Service Single No.100 of 2019 to the effect that in view of the Constitution Bench Judgement of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Babu Ram Upadhya (supra), Kedar Nath Yadav (supra) and Sanjay Rai (supra), the departmental enquiry and criminal proceedings on the similar set of facts and evidences may not go hand in hand. Besides the defence reply submitted by the petitioner to the charge sheet raising aforesaid grounds has not been considered by the enquiry officer, therefore, if submissions and grounds so raised by the petitioner before the enquiry officer have not been considered properly and instead of the specific legal ground raised on the basis of aforesaid judgments, holding the petitioner guilty does not, prima facie, appear to be appropriate. If the Division Bench of this Court in re; Kedar Nath Yadav (supra) and Single Judge in re; Sanjay Rai (supra) have held that both criminal proceedings and departmental proceedings may not go hand in hand and the judgments in re; Kedar Nath Yadav (supra) has not been assailed till date and is a good law by now, then as to how the petitioner may be punished departmentally when admittedly criminal proceedings are pending. Besides, the writ petition of the petitioner is pending wherein it has been assailed that the departmental enquiry against the petitioner may not be conducted being violative of various provisions of Police Regulations and dictums of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, then why this much haste is being shown by the disciplinary authority even those legal grounds have not been replied by now.

These all aforesaid legal submissions of learned counsel for the petitioner need careful consideration by the disciplinary authority. Since the show cause notice has been assailed by the petitioner, therefore, this Court restrains itself in making any observation which affects the decision of the disciplinary authority but at the same time this much may be expected that no order is passed by the disciplinary authority which is illegal on the face of it in any manner whatsoever.

Therefore, without interfering the show cause notice, liberty is given to the petitioner to submit the explanation to the show cause notice within a period of fifteen days from today taking all pleas and legal grounds challenging the findings of the enquiry officer enclosing therewith decisions of the Hon'ble Courts and if the petitioner submits his explanation within the aforesaid stipulated time, the disciplinary authority shall first consider as to whether the enquiry against the petitioner has been conducted and concluded considering his all submissions so raised in his defence reply and shall also deal the other legal submissions based on the judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court in re; Babu Ram Upadhya (supra), the judgment of Division Bench in re; Kedar Nath Yadav (supra) and the judgment of Single Judge in re; Sanjay Rai (supra) and shall give his specific finding as to whether criminal proceedings and departmental proceedings may go hand in hand. The petitioner may be provided an opportunity of personal hearing also. The final order shall be passed strictly in accordance with law, in a manner directed above, with expedition, preferably within a period of two months.

The writ petition is accordingly disposed of."

9. While disposing of the aforesaid writ petition, this Court observed that, in view of the law laid down in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), as well as the judgment rendered in Sanjay Rai vs. State of U.P. and others (Service Single No. 936 of 2015), departmental proceedings and criminal prosecution based on the same set of facts and evidence may not ordinarily proceed simultaneously in the case of the petitioner. The Court further noted that the defence reply submitted by the petitioner to the charge sheet, specifically raising the aforesaid contention, had not been duly considered by the Inquiry Officer. It was also observed that the judgment in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra) continues to hold the field, having not been set aside till date, and therefore, a question arises as to how the petitioner could be subjected to departmental punishment when the criminal proceedings on identical charges were admittedly pending.

10. In the aforesaid backdrop, this Court, vide order dated 13.12.2019, granted liberty to the petitioner to submit a detailed reply to the show cause notice within a period of 15 days from the date of the judgment, raising all factual and legal pleas, including those based on the aforesaid judicial pronouncements. It was further directed that, upon submission of such reply, the disciplinary authority shall first consider whether the departmental inquiry had been conducted and concluded after taking into account the defence of the petitioner. The disciplinary authority was also directed to specifically deal with the legal submissions advanced by the petitioner, particularly those based upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), the Division Bench judgment in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), and the decision in Sanjay Rai vs. State of U.P. (supra), and to record a clear finding as to whether, in the facts of the case, departmental proceedings and criminal prosecution could proceed simultaneously.

11. The Court further directed that the petitioner be afforded an opportunity of personal hearing and a reasoned and speaking order be passed strictly in accordance with law and in the light of the directions contained in the judgment dated 13.12.2019. It was also observed that such exercise be completed expeditiously, preferably within a period of two months.

12. In compliance of the aforesaid directions, the petitioner submitted his reply to the show cause notice, which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 12 to the writ petition, raising all the pleas available to him. The said reply dated 27.12.2019 was submitted well within the time granted by this Court. However, after considering the said reply, the disciplinary authority proceeded to pass the punishment order dated 13.12.2021. Aggrieved thereby, the petitioner preferred a departmental appeal before the Appellate Authority, which too came to be dismissed vide order dated 27.04.2021 (Annexure No. 14 to the writ petition).

13. It is further stated that, during the pendency of the present writ petition, the criminal trial arising out of FIR No. 97 of 2018 concluded before the Court of Special Judge, P.C. Act-VI, Lucknow. The said court, vide judgment and order dated 30.10.2025 passed in Criminal Case No. 996 of 2018, titled State of U.P. vs. Balwant Chandra, acquitted the petitioner of all charges.

14. A perusal of the said judgment shows that the trial court has recorded a categorical finding that the prosecution failed to establish the demand of illegal gratification by the petitioner beyond reasonable doubt. It has also been specifically held that there is no credible evidence on record to prove that the petitioner had accepted any bribe which resulting in his acquittal.

Submissions of the Petitioner

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the provisions contained in Regulation 486(1) of the Uttar Pradesh Police Regulations (hereinafter referred to as the ?Police Regulations?) have been authoritatively held to be mandatory in nature by the Hon?ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra). It is contended that any departmental proceedings conducted in violation of the procedure prescribed under the aforesaid provision are vitiated in law and are liable to be declared illegal.

16. It is further argued that in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), it has been clearly laid down that once a police officer has been acquitted by a competent criminal court, the findings recorded therein attain finality and are to be treated as binding. Consequently, no departmental proceedings can be sustained on the same set of allegations, as the findings of the criminal court must be accepted as correct. On this premise, it is submitted that the entire impugned action, including the departmental proceedings, inquiry report, show cause notice, punishment order, and the appellate order, stands vitiated, having been undertaken in clear contravention of the law laid down by the Hon?ble Supreme Court as well as by the Division Bench of this Court.

17. Learned counsel further submits that during the pendency of the criminal trial, no departmental inquiry could have been legally continued against the petitioner on identical facts and evidence. It is urged that the judgment in Capt. M. Paul Antony vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd. (supra), which permits simultaneous proceedings in certain circumstances, is not applicable to members of the police force in the State of Uttar Pradesh.

18. It is also contended that the directions issued by this Court in its earlier judgment dated 13.12.2019 have been flagrantly violated. The Court had categorically directed that a final order be passed within a period of two months; however, the said period expired on 13.02.2020, whereas the impugned punishment order came to be passed much later on 13.02.2021, i.e., after a substantial and unexplained delay. It is submitted that once a time frame is fixed by a Court, the authority concerned is bound to adhere to the same, and in case of any difficulty, it ought to seek extension of time from the Court by disclosing valid and satisfactory reasons. In support of this submission, reliance has been placed upon the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. New India Assurance Company Limited and others, 2013 SCC OnLine All 14267.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that during the pendency of the writ petition, the petitioner has been acquitted in the criminal trial vide judgment dated 30.10.2025 passed by the Special Judge, P.C. Act-VI, Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 996 of 2018, State of U.P. vs. Balwant Chandra, on the ground that the prosecution failed to prove demand and acceptance of illegal gratification beyond reasonable doubt.

Submissions of the State

20. Per contra, learned Standing Counsel has opposed the writ petition and submitted that the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers and Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as the ?Rules, 1991?) have been framed in exercise of powers conferred under sub-section (2) of Section 46 read with Sections 2 and 7 of the Police Act, 1861. It is contended that the said Rules, 1991, which were duly notified on 21.03.1991, have an overriding effect and have superseded all prior rules, regulations, and executive instructions on the subject.

21. It is thus submitted that the Rules, 1991 exclusively govern the field relating to departmental proceedings, imposition of punishment, and appellate remedies in respect of police personnel of subordinate ranks in the State of Uttar Pradesh. Consequently, reliance placed by the petitioner upon Paragraphs 486 (i), 492, and 493 of the Police Regulations, as well as the judgments in Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), Kedar Nath Yadav (supra), and Sanjay Rai (supra), is misconceived and not applicable in the present case.

22. It has been further contended by the learned Standing Counsel that, in view of the statutory framework under the Rules, 1991 and the law laid down in Capt. M. Paul Antony vs. Bharat Gold Mines Ltd. (supra), there exists no absolute legal bar on conducting departmental proceedings during the pendency of a criminal trial, even if both arise out of the same set of facts. Accordingly, it is submitted that the impugned proceedings have been conducted in accordance with law and do not warrant interference by this Court.

23. Perused the record.

24. A Coordinate Bench of this Court, vide judgment and order dated 13.12.2019, disposed of the earlier writ petition with specific directions to the disciplinary authority. It was, inter alia, directed that the disciplinary authority shall first examine whether the inquiry against the petitioner had been conducted and concluded after duly considering the submissions raised by him in his defence reply. The authority was further obligated to deal with the legal submissions advanced by the petitioner, particularly those founded upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), and the decision of the learned Single Judge in Sanjay Rai vs. State of U.P. (supra). Additionally, a clear and reasoned finding was required to be recorded as to whether, in the facts of the case, the criminal proceedings and departmental proceedings could proceed simultaneously.

25. In purported compliance of the aforesaid judgment dated 13.12.2019, the petitioner submitted a detailed reply to the show cause notice, which has been brought on record as Annexure No. 12. In the said reply, the petitioner specifically relied upon and referred to the aforesaid judgments, raising categorical legal pleas regarding the impermissibility of continuing departmental proceedings during the pendency of the criminal trial on identical facts.

26. However, a perusal of the punishment order shows that the specific plea taken by the petitioner, particularly in paragraph 19 of his reply (Annexure No. 12), wherein reliance was placed upon the aforementioned judicial pronouncements, has not been dealt with in the manner directed by this Court. The disciplinary authority has cursorily observed that the said judgments are not applicable to the case of the petitioner and, therefore, require no further consideration. Such a mechanical and non-speaking approach clearly indicates non-application of mind and failure to comply with the directions issued by this Court.

27. Thus, it is evident that while passing the impugned punishment order, the disciplinary authority has completely disregarded the mandate of the judgment dated 13.12.2019. Despite a specific direction of this Court to pass the final order preferably within a period of two months, the punishment order has been passed only on 13.02.2021, i.e., after an inordinate delay of approximately fourteen months, without any explanation or permission sought from the Court for extension of time. In this context, the Full Bench judgment of this Court in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. New India Assurance Company Limited and others (supra), has held as under:

"18. These judgments of the Supreme Court consequently recognize that the delay in concluding a departmental enquiry would not ipso facto vitiate the proceedings or render it invalid or non est. The Court has to take into consideration and balance all the relevant factors. The Court must consider in that balance the need for preserving the sanctity of the administration. On the other hand, fairness towards the delinquent employee requires that disciplinary proceedings should be concluded expeditiously. Hence, the nature of the charge, its complexity and the reasons for that delay are all relevant considerations which have to be borne in mind. Where the court has stipulated a period of time within which an enquiry has to be concluded, the direction of the Court, particularly in the form of a mandamus, has to be duly observed. It would not be open to the employer to willfully disregard the fixation of a time limit as a matter of no consequence. However, the fixation of a period within which a disciplinary enquiry has to be concluded, in an order of the Court, does not deprive the court of its jurisdiction to extend time in an appropriate case having due regard to all the facts and circumstances which have been noted above. Whether the time should be extended on a consideration of the relevant circumstances is for the court to determine.

19. In view of the above discussion, we now proceed to answer the questions which have been referred to the Full Bench.

(A) Question No. (a): We hold that if an enquiry is not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the court setting out the reasons for the delay in the conclusion of the enquiry. In such an event, it is for the court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is a stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought;

(B) Question No. (b): The judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra (supra) as well as the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satyendra Kumar Sahai (supra) clearly indicate that a mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary enquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceedings in every case. The court which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to consider whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained. The court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not completed within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer. The court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time, the original stipulation of time having been fixed by the court itself. Such an extension of time has to be considered in the interests of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the enquiry in the interests of fairness and an honest administration. In an appropriate case, it would be open to the Court to extend time suo motu in order to ensure that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to a serious detriment to the public interest. The court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the court has come to an end."

28. While answering Question No. A, the Full Bench of this Court in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. New India Assurance Company Limited and others (supra) has categorically held that where a Court prescribes a time limit for conclusion of an inquiry, it is incumbent upon the employer to adhere to the same. In the event the inquiry cannot be concluded within the stipulated period, it is open to the employer to seek extension of time by moving an appropriate application before the Court, assigning cogent reasons for such delay. It is thereafter for the Court to consider, in the facts and circumstances of the case, whether such extension ought to be granted. However, it is not open to the employer to disregard the time limit so fixed, and compliance with the said stipulation is mandatory unless duly extended by the Court.

29. In the present case, although a period of two months was granted by the Coordinate Bench vide judgment and order dated 13.12.2019 for passing the final order, the disciplinary authority proceeded to pass the punishment order only on 13.02.2021, i.e., after an inordinate delay of about fourteen months. Admittedly, no application seeking extension of time was moved before this Court, nor was any permission obtained for such delay. In view of the law laid down by the Full Bench in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi vs. New India Assurance Company Limited and others (supra), such action on the part of the disciplinary authority is clearly impermissible and renders the impugned punishment order unsustainable on this ground alone.

30. It is further evident that although the disciplinary authority has made a reference to the contentions raised by the petitioner, particularly those contained in paragraph 19 of his reply to the show cause notice, wherein reliance was placed upon the judgments in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), and Sanjay Rai vs. State of U.P. (supra), no reasoned finding has been recorded with respect to the applicability or otherwise of the said judgments. This is in the teeth of the specific direction issued by this Court in its order dated

13.12.2019, requiring the disciplinary authority to return a clear and categorical finding as to whether, in the facts of the case, the criminal proceedings and departmental proceedings could proceed simultaneously. The omission to record such a finding, coupled with a mere cursory observation that the said judgments are not applicable, reflects non-compliance of the directions issued by this Court and lack of proper application of mind which vitiates the impugned order.

31. The provisions contained in Regulations 486(1), 492 and 493 of the U.P. Police Regulations are essential for the proper adjudication of the present matter, having a direct and significant bearing on the issues involved. Accordingly, the said provisions are reproduced hereunder for ready reference:-

"486. When the offence alleged against a police officer amounts to an offence only under Section 7 of the Police Act, there can be no magisterial inquiry under the Criminal Procedure Code. In such cases and in other cases until and unless a magisterial inquiry is ordered, inquiry will be made under the direction of this Superintendent of Police in accordance with the following rules:

I Every information received by the police relating the com mission of a cognizable offence by a police officer shall be dealt with in the first place under Chapter XIV (now Chapter XII), Criminal Procedure Code, according to law a case under the appropriate section being registered in the police station concerned provided that-(1) if the information is received, in the first instance, by a Magistrate and forwarded by the District Magistrate to the police, no case will be registered by the police,

(2) if the information is received, in the first instance by the police, the report required by Section 157, Criminal Procedure Code, shall be forwarded to the District Magistrate, and when forwarding it the Superintendent of Police shall note on it with his own hand what steps are being taken as regards investiga-tion or the reasons for refraining from investigation:

(3) unless investigation is refused by the Superintendent of Police under Section 157(1)(b), Criminal Procedure Code and not ordered by the District Magistrate under Section 159, or unless the District Magistrate orders a magisterial inquiry under Section 159, investigation under Section 159, Criminal Procedure Code, shall be made by a police officer selected by the Superintendent of Police and higher in rank than the officer charged;

(4) on the conclusion of the investigation and before the report required by Section 173, Criminal Procedure Code, is prepared, the question whether the officer charged should or should not be sent for trial shall be decided by the Superintendent of Police. Provided that before an officer whose dismissal would require the concurrence of the Deputy Inspector General under paragraph 479 is sent for trial by the Superintendent of Police, the concurrence of the Deputy Inspector General must be obtained;

(5) the charge-sheet or final report under Section 173, or Section 169, Criminal Procedure Code, as the case may be, shall be sent to the District Magistrate; if the Superintendent of Police or the Deputy Inspector General had decided against a prosecution, a note by the Superintendent of Police giving the reasons for this decision shall be endorsed on, or attached to the final report;

(6) when the reason for not instituting a prosecution is that the charge is believed to be baseless, no further action will be necessary; if the charge is believed to be true and a prosecution is not undertaken owing to the evidence being considered insufficient or for any other reasons the Superintendent may, when the final report under Section 173, Criminal Procedure Code, has been accepted by the District Magistrate; take departmental action as laid down in paragraph 490.

492. Whenever a police officer has been judicially tried, the Superintendent must await the decision of the judicial appeal, if any, before deciding whether further departmental action is necessary.

493. It will not be permissible for the Superintendent of Police in the course of a departmental proceeding against a Police Officer who has been tried judicially to re-examine the truth of any facts in issue at his judicial trial and the finding of the Court on these facts must be taken as final.

Thus, (a) if the accused has been convicted and sentenced to rigorous imprisonment, no departmental trial will be necessary, as the fact that he has been found deserving of rigorous imprisonment must be taken as conclusively providing his unfitness for the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will without further proceedings ordinarily pass an order of dismissal, obtaining the formal order of the Deputy Inspector General when necessary under paragraph 479(a). Should he wish to do otherwise he must refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General of the range for orders.

(b) If the accused has been convicted but sentenced to a punishment less than of rigorous imprisonment a departmental trial will be necessary, if further action is thought desirable, but the question in issue at this trial will be merely (1) whether the offence of which the accused has been convicted amounts to an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act, (2) if so, what punishment should be imposed. In such cases the Superintendent of Police will (i) call upon the accused to show cause why any particular penalty should not be inflicted on him, (ii) record anything the accused officer has to urge against such penalty without allowing him to dispute the findings of the Court and (iii.) write a finding and order in the ordinary way dealing with any plea raised by the accused officer which is relevant to (1) and (2) above.

(c) If the accused has been judicially acquitted or discharged and the period for filing an appeal has elapsed and/or no appeal has been filed the Superintendent of Police must at once reinstate him if he has been suspended; but should the findings of the Court not be inconsistent with the view that the accused has been guilty of negligence in or unfitness for, the discharge of his duty within the meaning of Section 7 of the Police Act, the Superintendent of Police may refer the matter to the Deputy Inspector General and ask for permission to try the accused departmentally for such negligence or unfitness.

32. In State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court, while interpreting the scope and import of Regulations 486(1), 492 and 493 of the Police Regulations, has elucidated the legal position in paragraphs 7 and 30 of the judgment, which read as under:-

"7. The second objection of learned counsel for the appellants is that sub-para (3) of para 486 of the Police Regulations enables the appropriate police authority to initiate the departmental proceeding without complying with the provisions of sub-para (1) of para 486. The relevant portion of para 486 of the Police Regulations reads:

"When the offence against a police officer amounts to an offence only under Section 7 of the Police Act, there can be no magisterial inquiry under the Criminal Procedure Code. In such cases, and in other cases until and unless a magisterial inquiry is ordered, inquiry will be made under the direction of the Superintendent of Police in accordance with the following rules:..."

Rule I relates to a cognizable offence, Rule II to a non-cognizable offence, including an offence under Section 29 of the Police Act, and Rule III to an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act or a non-cognizable offence, including an offence under Section 29 of the Police Act. Rule III says:

"When a Superintendent of Police sees reason to take action on information given to him, or on his own knowledge or suspicion, that a police officer subordinate to him has committed an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act or a non-cognizable offence (including an offence under Section 29 of the Police Act) of which he considers it unnecessary at that stage to forward a report in writing to the District Magistrate under Rule II above, he will make or cause to be made by an officer senior in rank to the officer charged, a departmental inquiry sufficient to test the truth of the charge. On the conclusion of this inquiry he will decide whether further action is necessary, and if so, whether the officer charged should be departmentally tried, or whether the District Magistrate should be moved to take cognizance of the case under the Criminal Procedure Code?."

The argument is that the words ?an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act? take in a cognizable offence and that, therefore, this rule provides for a procedure alternative to that prescribed under Rule I. We do not think that this contention is sound. Section 7 of the Police Act empowers certain officers to dismiss, suspend or reduce any police officer of the subordinate rank whom they shall think remiss or negligent in the discharge of his duty, or unfit for the same. The grounds for punishment are comprehensive : they may take in offences under the Indian Penal Code or other penal statutes. The commission of such offences may also be a ground to hold that an officer is unfit to hold his office. Action under this section can, therefore, be taken in respect of, (i) offences only under Section 7 of the Police Act without involving any cognizable or noncognizable offences, that is, simple remissness or negligence in the discharge of duty, (ii) cognizable offences, and (iii) non-cognizable offences. Para 486 of the Police Regulations makes this clear. It says that when the offence alleged against a police officer amounts to an offence only under Section 7 of the Police Act, there can be no magisterial inquiry under the Criminal Procedure Code. This part of the rule applies to an offence only under Section 7 of the Police Act i.e. the first category mentioned above. Rule I refers to a cognizable offence i.e. the second category, Rule II to a non-cognizable offence i.e., the third category, and Rule III applies to an offence under Section 7 of the Police Act and to a noncognizable offence. Though the word ?only? is not mentioned in Rule III, the offence under Section 7 of the Police Act can, in the context, mean an offence only under Section 7 of the said Act i.e., an offence falling under the first category. So understood, the three rules can be reconciled. We, therefore, hold that, as the offence complained of in the present case is a cognizable offence, it falls under Rule I and not under Rule III. We, therefore, reject this contention."

30. Now what is the object of Rule I of para 486 of the Police Regulations? In our opinion, it is conceived not only to enable the Superintendent of Police to gather information but also to protect the interests of subordinate officers against whom departmental trial is sought to be held. After making the necessary investigation under Chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code, the Superintendent of Police may as well come to the conclusion that the officer concerned is innocent, and on that basis drop the entire proceedings. He may also hold that it is a fit case for criminal prosecution, which, under certain circumstances, an honest officer against whom false charges are framed may prefer to face than to submit himself to a departmental trial. Therefore, the rules are conceived in the interest of the department as well as the officer. From the stand point of the department as well as the officer against whom departmental inquiry is sought to be initiated, the preliminary inquiry is very important and it serves a real purpose. Here the setting aside of the order of dismissal will not affect the public in general and the only consequence will be that the officer will have to be proceeded against in the manner prescribed by the rules. What is more, para 487 and para 489 make it abundantly clear that the police investigation under the Criminal Procedure Code is a condition precedent for the departmental trial. Para 477 emphasizes that no officer appointed under Section 2 of the Police Act shall be punished by executive order otherwise than in the manner provided under Chapter XXXII of the Police Regulations. This is an imperative injunction prohibiting inquiry in non-compliance with the rules. Para 489 only empowers the holding of a departmental trial in regard to a police officer only after a police investigation under the Criminal Procedure Code. When a rule says that a departmental trial can be held only after a police investigation, it is not permissible to hold that it can be held without such investigation. For all the foregoing reasons, we hold that para 486 is mandatory and that, as the investigation has not been held under Chapter XIV of the Criminal Procedure Code, the subsequent inquiry and the order of dismissal are illegal.

33. While interpreting the object and scope of Regulation 486(1) of the Police Regulations, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra) observed that the provision has been enacted with the purpose of safeguarding subordinate police officers against arbitrary or premature departmental proceedings. It was held that the Regulation enables the Superintendent of Police to ensure that the interest of such officers is protected in cases where a departmental trial is sought to be initiated.

34. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further clarified in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra) that a police investigation in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure is a condition precedent for initiating a departmental trial. It was categorically held that Regulation 486(1) is mandatory in nature, and any departmental inquiry conducted in violation thereof would stand vitiated. The Court emphasized that departmental proceedings can ordinarily be undertaken only after the conclusion of the police investigation or criminal trial. On these principles, the order of dismissal impugned therein was set aside, having been passed in contravention of the mandatory provisions of Regulation 486(1).

35. In Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), the Division Bench of this Court considered the interplay between the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers and Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules, 1991 and the Police Regulations. The Court held that the Rules, 1991 do not abrogate or repeal the Police Regulations in their entirety. It was further held that the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra) continues to hold the field and remains binding. The Division Bench held that the authorities are still bound to comply with Regulations 492 and 493 of the Police Regulations notwithstanding the enforcement of the Rules, 1991. It was further held that once a delinquent employee is acquitted in a criminal trial on merits, it is not open to the departmental authorities to go behind such acquittal. Rather, the findings recorded by the criminal court must be accepted in their true import. On this reasoning, the Division Bench allowed the appeal as well as the writ petition and quashed both the punishment order and the appellate order. Emphasis on paragraphs 26, 28, 38, 39, 40, 41, and 43 of the judgment.

36. Similarly, in Sanjay Rai vs. State of U.P. (supra), a learned Single Judge of this Court reiterated that the judgment in State of U.P. vs. Babu Ram Upadhyaya (supra) continues to be good law and retains its binding force. The Court also placed reliance upon the decision in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), and affirmed that the principles laid down therein are applicable and enforceable. Emphasis is on paragraphs 5, 6, 14, 15, 16, 17, 19, 24, 26, 27, and 28 of the said judgment.

37. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the petitioner has been acquitted in the criminal trial vide judgment and order dated 30.10.2025 passed by the Court of Special Judge, P.C. Act-VI, Lucknow in Criminal Case No. 996 of 2018, titled State of U.P. vs. Balwant Chandra. It is also an admitted position that no appeal has been preferred against the said judgment of acquittal, and thus, the same has attained finality.

38. In view of the law laid down by the Division Bench of this Court in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra), read with Regulation 493 of the Police Regulations, the acquittal recorded by the competent criminal court has a binding effect on the departmental proceedings. It is not permissible for the disciplinary authority to go behind or disregard the findings returned by the criminal court. The judicial determination rendered in the criminal trial must be treated as conclusive on the issues involved, particularly when the acquittal is on merits.

Conclusion and Directions

39. Accordingly, once the petitioner stands acquitted of the charges in the criminal proceedings, the only course open to the disciplinary authority is to accept the said acquittal and give due effect to it. The findings recorded by the criminal court, having attained finality, are binding in terms of Regulation 493 of the Police Regulations as well as the law declared in Kedar Nath Yadav vs. State of U.P. (supra).

40. In light of the discussions made hereinabove, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned punishment order, as contained in Annexure No. 13, cannot be sustained in the eyes of law and is liable to be set aside. Accordingly, the same is hereby set aside. Consequently, the appellate order contained in Annexure No. 14, which is founded upon and reiterates the same reasoning as contained in the punishment order, also cannot survive and is, therefore, set aside. 41. As a consequence, the petitioner shall be reinstated in service to the post of Constable in the Civil Police in District Lucknow and he shall be entitled to payment of arrears of salary, allowances and other consequential service benefits w.e.f. 11.04.2018.

FACTUAL MATRIX OF THE CASE

4. Brief facts of the case are that the Uttar Pradesh Technical Education Gazetted Officers? Service Rules, 1990 (hereinafter referred to as the ?Rules, 1990?) were promulgated on 02.04.1990 for regulating the conditions of service and promotional avenues of teaching personnel serving in Government Polytechnics within the State of Uttar Pradesh. Pursuant thereto, the petitioner came to be appointed on the post of Lecturer (Chemical Engineering), a Group ?B? gazetted post, carrying the pay scale of Rs. 15,600?39,100, on temporary basis vide appointment order dated 23.01.2015. In furtherance of the said appointment, the petitioner joined her duties at Government Polytechnic, Badaun on 31.01.2015 and has since been continuously discharging her duties with utmost diligence and sincerity. Upon successful completion of the prescribed probation period, the services of the petitioner were confirmed with effect from 31.01.2017 vide order dated 16.07.2024 in accordance with the provisions contained under the Rules, 1990. Thereafter, on completion of the requisite qualifying service, the petitioner became eligible for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) on 30.06.2020 under the prevailing Rules, 1990. Subsequently, in the final seniority list of Government Polytechnic Lecturers published on 24.09.2021, the petitioner was placed at Serial No. 23 in the cadre of Chemical Engineering lecturers.

5. The AICTE (Pay Scales, Service conditions and Qualifications for the Teachers and other Academic Staff in Technical Institutions (Diploma)) Regulations, 2010 (hereinafter referred to as AICTE Regulations, 2010) dated 05.03.2010 whereby the essential qualification for appointment/promotion to the post of Head of Department was modified and the requirement of possessing a Ph.D. degree along with five years? teaching experience was prescribed. Thereafter, vide order dated 03.05.2018 issued by the Secretary, Department of Technical Education, Government of Uttar Pradesh, the aforesaid AICTE Regulations, 2010 were adopted and made applicable to Government Polytechnics throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh. Subsequently, AICTE framed and notified the ?AICTE Regulations on Pay Scales, Service Conditions and Minimum Qualifications for Appointment of Teachers and other Academic Staff such as Library and Physical Education Personnel in Technical Education (Diploma) Regulations, 2019? (hereinafter referred to as AICTE Regulations, 2019) on 01.03.2019. Regulation 2.1 thereof provided that the post of Head of Department in Government Polytechnics shall be filled through direct recruitment.

6. Thereafter, vide Government Order dated 16.03.2020, the AICTE Regulations, 2019 were formally adopted and enforced in Government Polytechnics across the State of Uttar Pradesh. By virtue of the aforesaid Regulations, the earlier mode of appointment to the post of Head of Department, which under the erstwhile Rules, 1990 was by way of promotion, stood altered to direct recruitment. The said change adversely affected the promotional prospects of lecturers serving in Government Polytechnics, thereby giving rise to widespread grievances amongst similarly situated teaching personnel throughout the country.

7. In view of the difficulties and anomalies arising from the implementation of the aforesaid Regulations, AICTE issued certain Clarifications on 20.05.2020 concerning Qualifications, Pay Scales, Service Conditions, Career Advancement Schemes (CAS), Promotions and other related matters pertaining to teachers and academic staff of technical institutions imparting degree and diploma education. Regulation 13 of the said Clarifications specifically provided that the criteria relating to promotions under the new Regulations would operate prospectively from the date of notification of the Regulations. It was further clarified that, in order to prevent hardship to existing faculty members who had either already become eligible or were likely to become eligible shortly under the earlier Regulations, such teachers could be afforded an option to be considered for promotion under the existing Regulations. However, such option was required to be exercised within a period of three years from the date of notification of the Regulations by the concerned degree and diploma teachers. Regulation 13 of the Clarifications dated 20.05.2020 is reproduced hereinbelow:-

"Regulation 13 - The criteria for promotions laid down under these Regulations shall be effective from the date of notification of these Regulations. However, to avoid hardship to those faculty members who have already qualified or are likely to qualify shortly under the existing regulations, a choice may be given to them for being considered for promotions under the existing Regulations. This option can be exercised by Degree and Diploma teachers, both but only within three years from the date of notification of these Regulations."

8. Thereafter, the State Government promulgated the U.P. Technical Education (Teaching) Service Rules, 2021 (hereinafter referred to Rules, 2021) on 09.06.2021. During the subsistence of the aforesaid three-year period contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications dated 20.05.2020, one post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) at Government Polytechnic, Chandausi, Sambhal fell vacant on 30.06.2022 owing to the retirement of Shri Anjani Kumar

Sharma. Subsequently, another post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) was created at Government Polytechnic, Bachhrawan, Raebareli vide Government Order dated 26.12.2023. Both the aforesaid vacancies arose well within the three-year period provided under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications issued by AICTE on 20.05.2020.

9. In the aforesaid backdrop, the petitioner submitted an application dated 21.05.2024 exercising her option to be considered for promotion in terms of Note 11 appended to the Rules, 2021 read with Regulation 13 of the AICTE Clarifications, 2020. Thereafter, a Departmental Promotion Committee meeting was convened on 30.05.2024 for considering promotions from the post of Lecturer to the post of Head of Department in Government Polytechnics. In the meantime, the petitioner also sought information under the Right to Information Act on 24.05.2024 regarding the number of vacancies existing on the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). In response thereto, the Directorate of Technical Education informed the petitioner that as on 23.05.2024, ten vacancies of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) were available.

10. Since no action was taken on the claim of the petitioner, she submitted a reminder dated 03.08.2024 requesting reconsideration of her candidature for promotion in accordance with Note 11 of the Rules, 2021 read with Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020. Thereafter, promotion orders dated 09.12.2024 came to be issued in favour of eight lecturers of Chemical Engineering who were promoted to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). The said promotions were granted to lecturers placed at Serial Nos. 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20 and 21 in the seniority list dated 24.09.2021.

11. Despite the issuance of the aforesaid promotion orders, two vacancies on the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) still continue to remain vacant. However, the petitioner, despite being placed at Serial No. 23 in the seniority list dated 24.09.2021 and despite falling within the zone of consideration, has not been considered for promotion by the respondents. Aggrieved by the arbitrary and discriminatory action of the respondents in denying consideration to the petitioner for promotion, the present writ petition has been instituted before this Hon?ble Court.

SUBMISSIONS OF BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner has been subjected to hostile discrimination at the hands of the respondent authorities inasmuch as her candidature has not been considered for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering), despite her being fully eligible and falling within the zone of consideration violating the guarantees enshrined under Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. Reliance in this regard has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon?ble Supreme Court in Kamal Prasad Dubey Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and Others, 2026 SCC OnLine SC 578.

13. It is submitted that the petitioner was initially appointed on the Group ?B? post of Lecturer (Chemical Engineering) vide appointment order dated 23.01.2015 and, upon successful completion of probation, her services were confirmed vide order dated 16.07.2024 with retrospective effect from 31.01.2017. Thereafter, upon completion of the requisite qualifying service, the petitioner became eligible for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) on 30.06.2020 in accordance with the provisions of the applicable Rules. It is further submitted that in the final department-wise seniority list of Group ?B? lecturers of Government Polytechnics, Uttar Pradesh issued on 24.09.2021, the petitioner was placed at Serial No. 23 in the cadre of Chemical Engineering lecturers.

14. It has further been submitted that under the AICTE Regulations, 2010, the essential qualification prescribed for appointment to the post of Head of Department (Engineering) included possession of a Doctorate degree in the concerned discipline along with five years? relevant experience in teaching/research/industry. In order to fulfil the said eligibility criteria, the petitioner, after obtaining due permission from the competent departmental authorities, pursued and successfully obtained a Ph.D. degree in Chemical Engineering in the year 2023.

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner has next submitted that Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 issued by AICTE specifically provided that the criteria relating to promotion under the said clarifications would operate prospectively from the date of notification thereof i.e. 20.05.2020. The said provision was introduced with the object of avoiding hardship to existing faculty members who had already acquired eligibility or were likely to acquire eligibility shortly under the earlier regulatory regime. Under the said Regulation, an option was granted to such teachers to be considered for promotion under the existing Regulations/Rules, provided such option was exercised within a period of three years from the date of issuance of the Clarifications, 2020. It is thus submitted that the intention underlying Regulation 13 was to protect the one-time promotional interest of existing faculty members who had either already become eligible or were likely to become eligible for promotion around the time of promulgation of the AICTE Regulations, 2019.

16. It has further been submitted that thereafter the Rules, 2021 were promulgated by His Excellency the Governor of Uttar Pradesh on 09.06.2021 in exercise of powers conferred under Article 309 of the Constitution of India and in supersession of the earlier Rules. By virtue of the said Rules, 2021, the provisions of the AICTE Regulations, 2019 were formally adopted and made applicable to Group ?A? and Group ?B? posts in the Directorate of Technical Education, Institute of Research, Development and Training, Board of Technical Education, Government Polytechnics for Boys and Girls, Government Leather Institutes, Northern Regional Institute of Printing Technology and Government Secondary Technical Schools.

17. It is further submitted that although the Rules, 2021 do not expressly specify whether faculty members who had already qualified or were likely to qualify shortly for promotion could exercise an option to continue to be governed by the earlier Rules, however, in light of Note 11 appended to Appendix-II of the Rules, 2021, it can safely be inferred that the option contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 remained available to the petitioner and other similarly situated faculty members working in Government Polytechnics across the State. Consequently, such faculty members, including the petitioner, were entitled to exercise their option for consideration for promotion under the old Rules within a period of three years from the promulgation of the Rules, 2021, i.e., till 09.06.2024.

18. Learned counsel further submits that sometime in the month of May, 2024, the petitioner came to know that a meeting of the Departmental Promotion Committee was proposed to be convened for considering promotions of eligible Lecturers (Engineering) working in Government Polytechnics throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh to the post of Head of Department in their respective branches. Consequently, the petitioner submitted an application dated 20.05.2024 and 21.05.2024 exercising the option contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 read with the Rules, 2021 for being considered for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). The petitioner also preferred an RTI application dated 24.05.2024 seeking information regarding existing vacancies. In response thereto, information was furnished on 03.07.2024 disclosing that as on 23.05.2024, ten posts of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) were lying vacant. Thereafter, pursuant to the recommendations made by the Departmental Promotion Committee in May, 2024, promotion orders dated 09.12.2024 were issued by the Special Secretary, Department of Technical Education, Government of Uttar Pradesh whereby eight out of the ten vacant posts of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) were filled by promotion from amongst lecturers placed up to Serial No. 21 in the seniority list.

19. It has been vehemently argued that denial of equal opportunity to persons who are identically situated in matters relating to public employment amounts to a clear violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India. Reliance in this regard has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kamal Prasad Dubey Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh and Others, 2026 SCC OnLine SC 578.

20. It has further been submitted that despite the petitioner being fully eligible and duly qualified, her candidature was not considered by the respondents in a wholly arbitrary, illegal and whimsical manner. It is also submitted that the petitioner was the only Lecturer in Chemical Engineering who had exercised the option contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 and yet was excluded from consideration, thereby subjecting her to prima facie hostile discrimination. Learned counsel submits that out of the eight persons promoted to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering), five were recruited along with the petitioner and were similarly situated in all respects.

21. It is next submitted that in the short counter affidavit dated 04.02.2025 as well as the supplementary counter affidavit dated 23.03.2026, the sole ground taken by the respondents for denying promotion to the petitioner is that the respondents have artificially bifurcated the ten available vacancies on the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) on the basis of the promulgation of the Rules, 2021 and have arbitrarily treated only those eight vacancies which existed prior to 08.06.2021 as vacancies liable to be filled by promotion under the old Rules. According to learned counsel, no such distinction with regard to vacancies arising before or after a particular cut-off date finds mention either in the AICTE Regulations or in the Rules, 2021. Thus, the respondents have carved out an artificial classification without any statutory backing or legal authority.

22. In support of the aforesaid contention, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Himachal Pradesh and Others Vs. Raj Kumar and Others, (2023) 3 SCC 773, wherein, while overruling the earlier view taken in Y.V. Rangaiah Vs. J. Sreenivasa Rao, (1983) 3 SCC 284, it has been held that there exists no universal rule that vacancies are necessarily required to be filled in accordance with the law prevailing on the date on which such vacancies arose. Rather, the right of an employee is merely a right to be considered for promotion in accordance with the rules in force on the date when the consideration takes place. Learned counsel has particularly emphasized paragraphs 82 to 85 of the aforesaid judgment and submits that the stand taken by the respondents that only vacancies existing prior to the promulgation of the Rules, 2021 could be filled under the old Rules is wholly misconceived and unsupported either by statutory provisions or settled principles of law.

23. It is further submitted that the promotions of eight lecturers to the post of Head of Department in the year 2024 were themselves granted only by extending the benefit flowing from the Clarifications, 2020 issued by AICTE. Once the respondent authorities had chosen to undertake the promotional exercise in the year 2024, at a point of time when the Rules, 2021 prescribing 100% direct recruitment to the post of Head of Department were already in force, it became incumbent upon the authorities to extend the same benefit uniformly to all similarly situated and eligible persons, including the petitioner, who admittedly fell within the zone of consideration against the existing vacancies.

24. It has also been argued that although eight posts of Head of Department were filled and several persons recruited along with the petitioner were promoted, the petitioner herself was not even considered for promotion, which clearly demonstrates arbitrariness, non-application of mind and discriminatory treatment on the part of the respondents. Learned counsel submits that once the petitioner had duly exercised her option for being considered for promotion, there existed no rational or lawful justification for excluding her from the promotional exercise undertaken by the respondents.

25. It is further submitted that in their counter affidavits, the respondents have completely failed to address the specific plea of the petitioner that Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 expressly provided an option to faculty members who had already qualified or were likely to qualify shortly for promotion under the earlier regime, and that the petitioner had validly exercised such option through her application dated 20.05.2024 sent by email as well as through registered post on 21.05.2024.

26. Lastly, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the benefit contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 issued by AICTE ought to have been extended by the respondents as a one-time measure while conducting the promotional exercise for the recruitment year 2024?25, particularly when vacancies had admittedly arisen within three years from the issuance of the Clarifications, 2020 and the petitioner had duly exercised her option within the prescribed period. Therefore, the action of the respondents in excluding the petitioner from consideration for promotion is wholly arbitrary, discriminatory and unsustainable in law.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

27. Learned Standing Counsel, while opposing the writ petition, has submitted that the petitioner has merely sought issuance of a writ of mandamus commanding the respondents to consider her case for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). It is contended that if at all the petitioner is aggrieved, such grievance essentially arises out of the promotion orders whereby eight lecturers were promoted to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). However, the said promotion orders have not been challenged by the petitioner in the present writ petition and, therefore, the relief sought by the petitioner is itself misconceived and not maintainable in the present form.

28. It has further been submitted that the option allegedly exercised by the petitioner under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 issued by AICTE is wholly misconceived and non est in the eyes of law. Learned Standing Counsel submits that Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 specifically provided that the concerned incumbents could exercise a one-time option within a period of three years from the date of issuance of the said notification. Since the Clarifications, 2020 were issued on 20.05.2020, the period of three years admittedly expired on 20.05.2023. It is submitted that the petitioner exercised her alleged option only on 21.05.2024, i.e., after expiry of the prescribed period by almost one year. Therefore, according to the respondents, the petitioner had no subsisting right whatsoever to claim consideration for promotion under the old Rules and, consequently, the controversy sought to be raised regarding vacancies existing prior to or subsequent to the promulgation of the Rules, 2021 or the existence of two remaining vacancies is wholly irrelevant. It is thus contended that the petitioner has failed to demonstrate the existence of any constitutional, statutory or legal right entitling her to be considered for promotion.

29. Learned Standing Counsel has further submitted that prior to the enforcement of the Rules, 2021 with effect from 09.06.2021, the field governing service conditions and promotions was occupied by the Rules, 1990 as amended in the year 1998. However, vide Notification No. 899/16-2-2021 dated 09.06.2021, the Rules, 2021 were promulgated, under which the post of Head of Department was specifically earmarked to be filled through direct recruitment.

30. It is accordingly submitted that the two vacancies of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) which arose subsequent to 09.06.2021, i.e. the vacancy caused on account of the retirement of Shri Anjani Kumar Sharma on 30.06.2022 at Government Polytechnic, Chandausi, Sambhal and the vacancy created vide Government Order dated 26.12.2023 at Government Polytechnic, Bachhrawan, Raebareli, are necessarily required to be filled strictly through direct recruitment in accordance with the provisions contained under the Rules, 2021. Therefore, the petitioner cannot claim any right for promotion against the said vacancies under the repealed Rules, 1990.

31. It has further been stated that as on 08.06.2021, i.e., immediately prior to the enforcement of the Rules, 2021, eight vacancies on the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) were available. In accordance with the provisions of the Rules, 1990 as amended in 1998, the Departmental Promotion Committee considered eligible lecturers and recommended the names of eight Lecturers in Chemical Engineering whose names were placed at Serial Nos. 14 to 21 in the seniority list. Pursuant to such recommendations, Government Appointment/Notification

No. 2923/16-2-2024 dated 09.12.2024 was issued, whereby the said officers were promoted to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering).

32. It has also been clarified on behalf of the respondents that one Shri Vinod Kumar Yadav, who was admittedly senior to the petitioner and was placed at Serial No. 22 in the seniority list, could not be promoted owing to the fact that only eight vacancies were available for being filled through promotion under the old Rules. Since the petitioner was admittedly placed at Serial No. 23 in the seniority list, no enforceable right accrued in her favour for promotion when even her immediate senior had not been granted promotion.

33. Thus, only eight vacancies existed prior to the promulgation of the Rules, 2021 and the said vacancies have already been duly filled in accordance with the provisions of the Rules, 1990 as amended in 1998. The two vacancies which arose after 09.06.2021 are governed entirely by the provisions of the Rules, 2021 and are liable to be filled solely through direct recruitment. It is therefore contended that the petitioner?s reliance upon the AICTE Regulations, 2019 and the Clarifications, 2020 for claiming promotion against vacancies arising after 09.06.2021 under the old Rules is wholly misconceived, contrary to the statutory framework and legally untenable.

34. Lastly, learned Standing Counsel has submitted that the petitioner has completely misconstrued the scope and applicability of the AICTE Regulations, 2019 as well as the Clarifications, 2020 while seeking promotion from the post of Lecturer (Chemical Engineering) to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) under the repealed provisions of the Rules, 1990 and the First Amendment Rules, 1998. According to the respondents, the claim raised by the petitioner is contrary to the applicable statutory provisions governing the field and, therefore, the writ petition being devoid of merit is liable to be dismissed with costs.

CONSIDERATION BY THE COURT

35. Perused the record.

36. This Court has considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material brought on record.

37. Admittedly, while filing the present writ petition, the petitioner has not challenged the promotion orders whereby eight persons have been promoted to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering). It is also not disputed that all the said promoted persons are senior to the petitioner in the seniority list. It is further admitted that as on date, two posts of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) are still lying vacant.

38. Prior to the promulgation of the Rules, 2021, the field governing the service conditions of lecturers working in Government Polytechnics, including promotion to the post of Head of Department, was regulated by the Rules, 1990. Under the Rules, 1990, 100 percent posts of Head of Department were liable to be filled by way of promotion. Subsequently, AICTE framed the Regulations, 2010 wherein the eligibility criteria for appointment/promotion to the post of Head of Department were prescribed and possession of a Ph.D. degree along with minimum five years? teaching/research/industry experience was made a condition precedent.

39. Thereafter, AICTE notified the Regulations, 2019 and Regulation 2.1 thereof specifically provided that the post of Head of Department shall be filled by way of 100 percent direct recruitment. In order to protect the rights and interests of existing faculty members who had already qualified or were likely to qualify shortly for being considered for promotion by the time of promulgation of the AICTE Regulations, 2019, AICTE issued Clarifications, 2020. Regulation 13 thereof provided that such faculty members could exercise a one-time option for being considered for promotion under the existing Regulations/Rules, provided the said option was exercised within three years from the date of notification of the Clarifications dated 20.05.2020.

40. Regulation 13 clearly contemplated that the option was required to be exercised within a period of three years from the date of notification of the Clarifications, 2020, meaning thereby that such option could have been exercised on or before 20.05.2023 and not thereafter. The Clarifications, 2020 were issued in exercise of powers conferred under Section 23(1) read with Sections 10(g), 10(h) and 10(i) of the All India Council for Technical Education Act, 1987 and were intended to be read in continuation of the norms/guidelines prescribed under the AICTE Regulations, 2019 dated 01.03.2019 issued by AICTE. The said Regulations have been framed under Entry 66 of List I (Union List) of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India and, therefore, any State Regulations or Rules operating in the same field are required to give way to the aforesaid Regulations, the same having binding effect.

41. Admittedly, the petitioner did not exercise the option within three years from the date of issuance of the Clarifications, 2020. The cut-off date for exercising such option expired on 20.05.2023, whereas the petitioner admittedly exercised her option only on 21.05.2024, i.e., after expiry of the prescribed period. Thus, in terms of Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020, the petitioner cannot assert any enforceable right to be considered for promotion to the post of Head of Department.

42. This Court finds that the petitioner has not challenged the promotion orders of the eight persons who have been promoted to the post of Head of Department, although all such persons are senior to the petitioner. The said promoted officers have also not been impleaded as parties in the present proceedings. Therefore, the issues as to whether the promotions granted to the said persons were legally justified, whether the bifurcation of vacancies made by the respondents was valid, or whether vacancies arising prior to or after the promulgation of the Rules, 2021 were required to be filled under the old Rules or the new Rules, cannot be adjudicated upon in the present writ petition unless the petitioner first establishes her own right to be considered for promotion.

43. The primary contention advanced on behalf of the petitioner is that since the Rules, 2021 were promulgated on 09.06.2021 formally adopting the AICTE Regulations, 2019, the period of three years contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 ought to be reckoned from the date of promulgation of the Rules, 2021 and, therefore, the petitioner was entitled to exercise her option up to 09.06.2024. According to the petitioner, Note 11 appended to Appendix-II of the Rules, 2021 makes the option available to all faculty members working in Government Polytechnics across the State. The aforesaid submission, in the opinion of this Court, is wholly fallacious and misconceived.

44. A perusal of Note 11 appended to Appendix-II of the Rules, 2021 clearly shows that it merely provides that all other conditions shall be applicable in accordance with AICTE Regulations, 2019 as amended from time to time. The relevant provision reads as under:-

"II. All other conditions will be applicable as per AICTE (Diploma) Regulations, 2019 and amended from time to time."

45. Under Rule 5 of the Rules, 2021, recruitment to the post of Head of Department in Polytechnic (Engineering) has specifically been provided to be made through 100 percent direct recruitment by the Commission. By virtue of the Rules, 2021, the AICTE Regulations, 2019 along with amendments/clarifications issued from time to time stood adopted by the State Government. However, by incorporation of Note 11 of Appendix-II, no fresh right or extended period has been created in favour of the petitioner. The said provision merely adopts the AICTE Regulations, 2019 and amendments thereto, including the Clarifications, 2020.

46. By no stretch of imagination can it be interpreted that the three-year period prescribed under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020, which commenced from 20.05.2020, would recommence afresh from the date of promulgation of the Rules, 2021, i.e., 09.06.2021. Therefore, the argument advanced on behalf of the petitioner that the exercise of option on 21.05.2024 was within time as it fell within three years from the date of promulgation of the Rules, 2021 cannot be accepted.

47. The petitioner admittedly failed to exercise the option on or before 20.05.2023 as required under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020. No other statutory or legal right has been demonstrated by the petitioner entitling her to claim promotion to the post of Head of Department.

48. So far as the plea regarding hostile discrimination and violation of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India is concerned, it is not disputed that all those persons who have been promoted to the higher post are senior to the petitioner. No person junior to the petitioner or similarly situated in the seniority list has been promoted to the post of Head of Department. Thus, the petitioner has failed to establish any hostile discrimination or unequal treatment in the matter of promotion.

49. The petitioner has also failed to establish any enforceable right under any Rule, Regulation or Notification entitling her to claim consideration for promotion. Moreover, the promotion orders of the eight promoted officers are not under challenge and the concerned persons have also not been impleaded as parties to the present proceedings. In absence thereof, the petitioner?s claim for consideration against the remaining two vacant posts cannot be entertained unless she first establishes a legal right to be considered for promotion, which she has clearly failed to do.

50. So far as the argument regarding bifurcation of vacancies and drawing of an alleged artificial distinction between ten available vacancies on the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering) is concerned, admittedly no person junior to the petitioner has been promoted against the said vacancies. Since the petitioner herself failed to exercise the option contemplated under Regulation 13 within the prescribed period, the question as to whether the respondents could have extended the benefit of Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 as a one-time measure while conducting the promotional exercise for the recruitment year 2024?25, particularly in respect of vacancies arising within three years from issuance of the Clarifications, 2020, need not be examined in the present proceedings.

CONCLUSION

51. This Court is of the considered opinion that the petitioner has failed to establish any enforceable statutory or legal right entitling her to claim consideration for promotion to the post of Head of Department (Chemical Engineering), particularly in view of the admitted position that the option contemplated under Regulation 13 of the Clarifications, 2020 was not exercised within the prescribed period. It is also not disputed that no person junior to the petitioner has been granted promotion and that all the promoted incumbents are admittedly senior to her in the seniority list.

52. This Court further finds that the promotion orders granted in favour of the eight promoted officers have neither been challenged in the present proceedings nor have the said persons been impleaded as parties. Consequently, the issues relating to the legality of the promotional exercise undertaken by the respondents, including the alleged bifurcation of vacancies and applicability of the old or new Rules to the vacancies in question, do not arise for adjudication in the present writ petition.

53. In the absence of any demonstrated legal right in favour of the petitioner and there being no material to establish hostile discrimination or arbitrariness in the matter of promotion, no interference is warranted by this Court in exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. 54. Accordingly, the writ petition lacks merit and is, therefore, dismissed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Petitioner, an Associate Professor-G of Astrophysics, is working at a premier Institute engaged in research in Mathematics and Theoretical Physics, namely, Harish Chandra Research Institute, Allahabad (hereinafter referred to as "HCRI, Allahabad").

2. Petitioner has claimed himself to be an internationally reputed Scientist of Astrophysics, an expert in the subject of Black Hole and Analogue Gravity and has published more than sixty research papers in intentionally reputed scientific journals.

3. Petitioner has faced an inquiry initiated by Internal Complaints Committee (hereinafter referred to as "ICC") of HCRI, Allahabad constituted under Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as "POSH Act") as there were multiple complaints filed by girl students who have studied under the petitioner for purpose of Ph.D.

4. ICC initiated inquiry and sought petitioner's response on complaints. According to record during proceedings some more complaints were also received against petitioner. The complaints were with regard to sexual harassment at workplace by petitioner, which includes physical contacts and advances and making sexually coloured remarks also.

5. Petitioner has asked various documents including copy of complaints and also asked for oral examination as well as cross-examination of complainants, however, it appears that during proceedings statements of victims/ complainants were even not recorded and considering gravity of the complaints, ignoring time period provided under Section 9 of POSH Act to take cognizance of complaints, inquiry was concluded and petitioner was found guilty.

6. For reference "Summary and Recommendations" of ICC are reproduced hereinafter:

"Summary and Recommendations

The Women Grievances" Cell noted that:

- As many as 10 women altogether have complained of sexual harassment and/or misconduct against Dr. Tapas K. Das and some of these complaints are backed-up with documentary proof or corroboration by other students.

- At least 3 complaints are of a very serious nature. One of them has documentary evidence while both the others have corroboration from other students.

- The women concerned are all very young and vulnerable, who could be easily manipulated, threatened and intimidated and who had many reasons to fear for their careers, and hence took time to complain against Dr. Das.

- The incidents about which these women have complained spans a prolonged period of time between 2013 - 2016 during which Dr. Das has been involved in harassing and misconduct, making Dr. Das a serial harasser and repeat offender.

- Most of the incidents of serious nature happened within his closed-door office and at very late in the night.

- In his meeting with the Women's Grievances' Cell, Dr. Das has admitted to have sent an email with a link to pornography/erotica to one of the complainants. Dr. Das later denied this in his written response. But since Dr. Das had admitted to sending this link in his meeting with the committee on July 20, 2016 and since he had himself given the name of the recipient to whom he sent this link, and since the name he mentioned in the July 20, 2016 meeting matched with the name of the complainant who alleges that he sent this link to her, the committee concludes that Dr. Das is lying in his written response.

Given the volume of complaints, seriousness of the nature of complaints, and repeated misconduct by Dr. Das over a prolonged period of time, the Women's Grievances' Cell feels that Dr. Tapas K. Das is guilty of sexually harassing his female students/postdocs over an extended period of time. The committee feels that even though none of the incidents reported to the committee occurred in the last 3-6 months as required by the Sexual Harassment of Women in Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Act 2013, the complaints, and more importantly, the number of complaints, cannot be ignored. Since Dr. Tapas K. Das is seen guilty of sexual harassment and mental harassment of young women by using his position of power in the institute, the committee recommends that appropriate disciplinary action be taken against Dr. Das. Therefore, the committee recommends that the service rule be found for appropriate punishment and disciplinary action be taken against Dr. Das as per the rules of HRI. In particular, the committee recommends that at the very minimum the following actions be taken against Dr. Das:

1. The institute stop Dr. Tapas K. Das increment for one year. This should show in his service book.

2. His promotion must be stopped until 2020.

3. Dr. Tapas K. Das be suspended for a period of 6 months and/or an equivalent punishment given to him, as per HRI rules.

4. Dr. Tapas K. Das be forbidden from taking female students as visiting students, PhD students or post-doctoral fellows.

5. Dr. Tapas K. Das be removed from all institute committees which might bring him in contact with any young student. This includes the VSP committee.

6. Dr. Taps K. Das be shifted to an office which is either open or even if closed has glass on all sides so that the inside of his office be clearly visible from outside.

7. Dr. Tapas K. Das be required to go for gender sensitisation program."

7. The matter was thereafter put before Council of HCRI, Allahabad and after considering petitioner's response, punishment proposed by ICC an order was passed whereby a punishment of "Censure" and a direction was passed that petitioner was barred to take any female students or PDFs or RAs to work with him. For reference the decision of Council is reproduced hereinafter:

"(a) Sexual Harassment Case

In continuance of the decision taken in the last GC meeting dated 30-09-2016, the Director summarised the evidences considered by the committee (ICC) and Prof Tapas Das's responses as per the following:-

(1) Two complaints refer to face book posts between two projects students and Prof Tapas das indecent on both sides.

(2) One complaint is by a set of concerned students with whom the project students had discussed their problems in the past. The statements made by these students confuse pornographic literature with Marxist literature and hence cannot be considered seriously.

(3) One long complaint with one-sided posts by a former PDF, Prof Das responded to this by producing 100 pages of the face book posts, showing the posts made by both sides. The posts from both sides were highly inappropriate.

(4) Though a former Kanpur IIT student had complained to the enquiry committee of harassment by Prof Tapas Das on one of her visits, she returned the following summer to complete the project with Prof Tapas Das.

According to Director the picture that emerges is - Prof Das engaged in flirtatious behavior with female project students and PDFs. The case particularly with PDF mentioned above shows that two consenting adults having a "good" time on face book.

After considering the above, the council came to conclusion that the case against Tapas Das is strong enough to take punitive action. Considering this as a case of misconduct, the council decided the following:-

(1) Prof Das will not be permitted to take any female students or PDFs or RAs to work with him.

(2) Selection committees for these positions are to be informed of this so that they do not assign any women to work with him in any of the above mentioned capacities.

(3) This is the first such official reported case of misconduct against Prof Tapas Das. Prof Das shall be issued with 'censure'. In case, he is found indulged in such activities again, stern action shall be taken against him.

The council authorized Chairman/Director to issue penalty of "censure" to Prof Tapas Das mentioning above decision of the council. The Chairman also directed that respective committees responsible for the activities mentioned in point (1) and (2) above should also be informed about the decision separately"

8. On basis of aforesaid proposal, impugned order dated 09.07.2017 was passed by Chairman, Governing Council of HCRI, Allahabad imposing a penalty of "Censure" and that petitioner will not be permitted to take any female students or PDFs or RAs to work with him. For reference aforesaid order is reproduced hereinafter:

"ORDER

The Sexual Harassment at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal Act 2013) is an act that provides protection against sexual harassment of women at workplace and for the prevention and redressal of complaints of sexual harassment. Sexual harassment results in violation of the fundamental rights of a woman to equality under articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution of India and her right to life and to live with dignity under article 21 of the Constitution and the right to practice any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business which includes a right to a safe environment free from sexual harassment.

As many as 10 complaints of sexual harassment have been received against Dr Tapas Kumar Das, Associate Professor □G□, Harish-Chandra Research Institute, Allahabad. Many of these complainants were from young woman project students and PDF who were visiting the Institute and working under Dr Tapas Kumar Das. The inquiry against these complaints was conducted by the □Internal Complaints Committee / Women's Grievances Cell".

WHEREAS, Dr Tapas Kumar Das was provided the copies of the alleged complaints, Dr Tapas Kumar Das submitted his responses to the alleged complaints. The Internal Complaints Committee / Women□s Grievances Cell examined the responses of Dr Tapas Kumar Das and found the responses of Dr Tapas Kumar Das totally unconvincing. The committee found Dr Tapas Kumar Das guilty of sexual harassment and mental harassment of young women by using his position of power in the Institute.

NOW THEREFORE, after taking into account the responses of Dr Tapas Kumar Das, the facts and circumstances of the case and findings of the Committee, the Governing Council is satisfied that the allegations of Sexual Harassment against Dr Tapas Kumar Das are correct. After consideration, the Governing Council (as disciplinary authority) came to conclusion that the case against Dr Tapas Kumar Das is strong enough to take punitive action.

Considering this as a case of misconduct on part of Dr Tapas Kumar Das, the Governing Council has, therefore, decided to impose the penalty of "Censure" on him. A copy of this order shall be placed in the personal file of Dr Tapas Kumar Das. Governing Council also decided that Dr Tapas Kumar Das will not be permitted to take any female students or PDFs or Ras to work with him. In case, Dr Tapas Kumar Das is found indulged in such activities again, stern action shall be taken against Dr Tapas Kumar Das."

9. Aforesaid order is under challenge in present writ petition.

10. Sri Ritzu Ghoshal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Sayantan Chatterjee, Sri Anirban Ghosh and Ms. Vishakha Pandey, Advocates for petitioner, vehemently referred various documents annexed alongwith this writ petition and counter affidavit as well as referred various provisions of POSH Act and made following submissions on facts as well as on law:

(A) POSH Act is a Special Act, therefore, its provisions have to be followed strictly in its letter and spirit. Section 9 of POSH Act provides complaint on sexual harassment that any aggrieved women may make in writing a complaint of sexual harassment at workplace to ICC within a period of three months from the date of incident and in case of series of incidents, within a period of three months from the date of last incident. In the present case admittedly complaints were filed beyond said period, i.e., after more than six months without any reason to condone such delay.

(B) Period of limitation as provided under Section 9 of POSH Act was also taken note by ICC in it's report dated 17.08.2016 that though the incidents were not reported within three months or six months, still considering that complaints against petitioner were extremely serious and multiple, therefore, ICC proceed to consider the complaints. According to learned Senior Advocate POSH Act does not provide any such liberty or extension of time period provided under the Special Act.

(C) Learned Senior Advocate submitted that in aforesaid circumstances, ICC could not proceed on basis of such belated complaints which appear to be of alleged occurrence occurred between 2013 to 2016. The complaints were undated and without disclosing specific dates of alleged incidents, i.e., all complaints were vague.

(D) In support of above submissions, learned Senior Advocate has placed reliance on a judgment passed by this Court in X vs. Nirmal Kanti Chakrabarti and others, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1964 and refers its paragraphs no. 8, 13, 14, 15, 22, 29, 31, 32 and 33. For reference said paragraphs are reproduced hereinafter:

"8. The neat question which falls for consideration of this Court is: whether the Division Bench of the High Court is justified in non-suiting the appellant on the ground that her complaint was barred by limitation."

"13. Section 9 of the Act postulates that any aggrieved woman may make a complaint, in writing, of sexual harassment at the work place to the Local Committee within a period of three months from the date of incident, and in the case of series of incidents, within a period of three months from the date of the last incident. The second proviso to Section 9 provides that the LCC may for reasons to be recorded in writing, extend the time of making the complaint not exceeding three months, if it is satisfied that the circumstances prevailing prevented the woman from filing of the complaint within the period prescribed.

14. In other words, a complaint of sexual harassment is mandatorily required to be filed within a period of three months from the date of the last incident of such harassment or within a further extended period of three months, i.e., within a maximum period of six months from the date of the last incident of sexual harassment.

15. No doubt, the issue of limitation is ordinarily a mixed question of fact and law and it may not be possible to throw out a complaint at the threshold without collecting material on the factual aspects relating to the limitation. Nonetheless, where a complaint on the simple reading of the averments made therein appears to be patently barred by limitation, it can be rejected at the very first instance on the analogy of Order VII Rule 11 CPC, without even calling the other side to participate in the proceedings."

"2. The complaint of the appellant from the last incident of sexual harassment of April 2023, is certainly beyond time. However, the issue is whether the subsequent event of removal of the appellant from the post of the Director, CFRGS or initiation of inquiry by the Executive Council are in any way linked to sexual harassment or amounts to sexual harassment as described under Section 3(2) of the POSH Act."

29. The alleged act of harassment of April 2023, was a complete act in itself and had not continued thereafter. The administrative measures of August 2023, were independent and were collective decisions of the NFCG and the Executive Council which cannot be solely attributed to the Vice-Chancellor. The said decision may have caused inconvenience to the appellant or may have given an impression that they are in line with previous acts of harassment, but they were not part of the continued sexual harassment. The subsequent events have no connection to the earlier act of sexual misconduct and as such, fall clearly out of the preview of acts or behaviours amounting to sexual harassment. In this way, the incident of April 2023, remains the last event related to sexual harassment."

"31. The appellant, in filing the complaint, also moved an application for condonation of delay stating that there were "mitigating circumstances" which she had attempted to resolve within the institution and when she failed, she then filed the complaint. The very fact that the appellant was conscious of the fact that her complaint was delayed, proves that she herself treated the act of April 2023, to be the last incident of sexual harassment and as such, tried to explain the delay in filing the complaint.

32. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances as well as the discussion, we are of the view that the Division Bench of the High Court committed no error of law in restoring the decision of the LCC that the complaint of the appellant is time barred and is liable to be dismissed.

33. It is advisable to forgive the wrongdoer, but not to forget the wrongdoing. The wrong which has been committed against the appellant may not be investigated on technical grounds, but it must not be forgotten."

(E) Learned Senior Advocate further submitted that even if in above circumstances the ICC proceed to consider complaints, the inquiry has to be conducted in terms of provisions provided under Section 11 of POSH Act read with Rule 7 of Rules made thereunder that statements of victims shall be recorded, petitioner be granted opportunity to make cross-examination and subsequently both parties be granted opportunity of being heard and only thereafter on basis of consideration, a report be submitted, however, same was not followed.

(F) Learned Senior Advocate further submitted that on bare perusal of inquiry report of ICC it is evident that statements of victims were never recorded, therefore, there was no occasion for cross-examination, petitioner was not provided any opportunity of oral hearing and only on basis of a reply, which was submitted without details of complaints etc. which admittedly not provided, it was held that petitioner was guilty of sexual and mental harassment of young students/ postdocs by using his position and power in HCRI, Allahabad. According to learned Senior Advocate even the outcome of inquiry was not based on any material or specific consideration.

(G) Learned Senior Advocate lastly submitted that complaints filed by complainants does not indicate dates of complaint, no specific date was also mentioned of alleged sexual harassment and complaints were of alleged occurrence occurred many years ago.

11. Per contra, Sri Rahul Agarwal, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Akashi Agarwal, learned counsel for respondents, on basis of material, was not able to show that statements of victims were recorded before ICC or that petitioner was granted any opportunity of personal hearing as well as that there was no consideration on allegation made by complainants on basis of their complaints, i.e., in the impugned order nature of allegation was not reflected or considered to that extent that petitioner was guilty of sexual harassment.

12. Learned Senior Advocate for respondents further submitted that in case the Court finds that due procedure was not followed by ICC, the matter may be remitted back to ICC for fresh consideration and to recommence from the stage an irregularity was committed, i.e., entire material be provided to petitioner so that he may submit a fresh reply.

13. Learned Senior Advocate has opposed the argument of learned Senior Advocate for petitioner that complaints were time barred in terms of provisions of Section 9 of POSH Act and he referred contents of complaints that it were serious so much as that petitioner used to call his students in night at his office and harassed them sexually and mentally. He was engaged in sending message to his girl students having unwelcome acts and making sexually coloured remarks as well as one of the victim has complained about unwelcome physical contact and advances, therefor, he was rightly subject to inquiry.

14. Learned Senior Advocate for respondents further submitted that in such circumstances, rigor of delay can be relaxed taking note of object of POSH Act, i.e., to provide protection against sexual harassment of women at workplace and for prevention and redressal of complaints of sexual harassment and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

15. Learned Senior Advocate referred para 31 of X vs. Nirmal Kanti Chakrabarti (supra) that condonation of delay can be considered in certain circumstances, such as circumstances of present case.

16. Heard learned Senior Advocates for the parties and perused the material available on record.

17. POSH Act is a Special Act, which was enacted in pursuance of directions passed by Supreme Court in Vishaka and others vs. State of Rajasthan and others, 1997(6) SCC 241 after about 16 years with following object:

"An Act to provide protection against sexual harassment of women at workplace and for the prevention and redressal of complaints of sexual harassment and for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto.

WHEREAS sexual harassment results in violation of the fundamental rights of a woman to equality under articles 14 and 15 of the Constitution of India and her right to life and to live with dignity under article 21 of the Constitution and right to practice any profession or to carry on any occupation, trade or business which includes a right to a safe environment free from sexual harassment;

AND WHEREAS the protection against sexual harassment and the right to work with dignity are universally recognised human rights by international conventions and instruments such as Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Discrimination against Women, which has been ratified on the 25th June, 1993 by the Government of India;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to make provisions for giving effect to the said Convention for protection of women against sexual harassment at workplace."

18. The Court first proceed to consider, whether procedure prescribed for inquiry into complaints as provided under Section 11 of POSH Act read with Rule 7 of Sexual Harassment of Women at Workplace (Prevention, Prohibition and Redressal) Rules, 2013, were strictly followed or not. For reference aforesaid Section 11 and Rule 7 are reproduced hereinafter:

"11. Inquiry into complaint.-(1) Subject to the provisions of section 10, the Internal Committee or the Local Committee, as the case may be, shall, where the respondent is an employee, proceed to make inquiry into the complaint in accordance with the provisions of the service rules applicable to the respondent and where no such rules exist, in such manner as may be prescribed or in case of a domestic worker, the Local Committee shall, if prima facie case exist, forward the complaint to the police, within a period of seven days for registering the case under section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), and any other relevant provisions of the said Code where applicable:

Provided that where the aggrieved woman informs the Internal Committee or the Local Committee, as the case may be, that any term or condition of the settlement arrived at under sub-section (2) of section 10 has not been complied with by the respondent, the Internal Committee or the Local Committee shall proceed to make an inquiry into the complaint or, as the case may be, forward the complaint to the police:

Provided further that where both the parties are employees, the parties shall, during the course of inquiry, be given an opportunity of being heard and a copy of the findings shall be made available to both the parties enabling them to make representation against the findings before the Committee.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 509 of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860), the Court may, when the respondent is convicted of the offence, order payment of such sums as it may consider appropriate, to the aggrieved woman by the respondent, having regard to the provisions of section 15.

3. For the purpose of making an inquiry under sub-section (1), the Internal Committee or the Local Committee, as the case may be, shall have the same powers as are vested in a civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) when trying a suit in respect of the following matters, namely:"

(a) summoning and enforcing the attendance of any person and examining him on oath;

(b) requiring the discovery and production of documents; and

(c) any other matter which may be prescribed.

(4) The inquiry under sub-section (1) shall be completed within a period of ninety days."

"7. Manner of inquiry into complaint.-(1) Subject to the provisions of section 11, at the time of filing the complaint, the complainant shall submit to the Complaints Committee, six copies of the complaint along with supporting documents and the names and addresses of the witnesses.*

(2) On receipt of the complaint, the Complaints Committee shall send one of the copies received from the aggrieved woman under sub-rule (1) to the respondent within a period of seven working days.

(3) The respondent shall file his reply to the complaint along with his list of documents, and names and addresses of witnesses, within a period not exceeding ten working days from the date of receipt of the documents specified under sub-rule (1).

(4) The Complaints Committee shall make inquiry into the complaint in accordance with the principles of natural justice.

(5) The Complaints Committee shall have the right to terminate the inquiry proceedings or to give an ex parte decision on the complaint, if the complainant or respondent fails, without sufficient cause, to present herself or himself for three consecutive hearings convened by the Chairperson or Presiding Officer, as the case may be:

Provided that such termination or ex parte order may not be passed without giving a notice in writing, fifteen days in advance, to the party concerned.

(6) The parties shall not be allowed to bring in any legal practitioner to represent them in their case at any stage of the proceedings before the Complaints Committee.

(7) In conducting the inquiry, a minimum of three Members of the Complaints Committee including the Presiding Officer or the Chairperson, as the case may be, shall be present."

19. The Court finds that manner of inquiry, as referred above, was not followed by ICC. Though petitioner was provided copy of complaints but certain details were not provided, such as when they are served upon ICC and that though no specific procedure was prescribed under Rule 7 still it has been consistently held in various judgments of this Court and Supreme Court that principle of natural justice be followed and that ICC shall have power as vested in Civil Courts under Code of Civil Procedure so far as summoning and enforcing attendance of any person and examine him in Court is concerned.

20. However, there is no reference in ICC report, whether statements of complainants were recorded before Committee or not and if statements were recorded, whether a copy of same was provided to petitioner or not. There is no reference, whether petitioner was asked to cross-examine the complainants or was provided any opportunity of oral hearing as well as that learned Senior Advocate for respondents has also not able to satisfy this Court about above referred lacuna in procedure. Therefore, the Court finds that procedure adopted by ICC was defective. Accordingly, its outcome, i.e., inquiry report as well as order passed by Council and Institute cannot sustain.

21. After observing above, now the question is, whether matter can be remitted back to ICC to recommence from the stage of a fresh reply from petitioner. However, before it, the Court has to consider rigor of time period provided to make complaints under Section 9 of POSH Act, which is reproduced hereinafter:

"9. Complaint of sexual harassment.-(1) Any aggrieved woman may make, in writing, a complaint of sexual harassment at workplace to the Internal Committee if so constituted, or the Local Committee, in case it is not so constituted, within a period of three months from the date of incident and in case of a series of incidents, within a period of three months from the date of last incident:*

Provided that where such complaint cannot be made in writing, the Presiding Officer or any Member of the Internal Committee or the Chairperson or any Member of the Local Committee, as the case may be, shall render all reasonable assistance to the woman for making the complaint in writing:

Provided further that the Internal Committee or, as the case may be, the Local Committee may, for the reasons to be recorded in writing, extend the time limit not exceeding three months, if it is satisfied that the circumstances were such which prevented the woman from filing a complaint within the said period.

(2) Where the aggrieved woman is unable to make a complaint on account of her physical or mental incapacity or death or otherwise, her legal heir or such other person as may be prescribed may make a complaint under this section."

22. In order to verify, whether complainants have made serious allegations of harassment or not, the Court takes note of copy of complaints annexed alongwith this writ petition and relevant part of some complaints, without disclosing name of respective victim, are mentioned hereinafter:

xxx

"He was going to Varanasi to meet with one of the ex-student of HRI who happened to be my very good University friend. My friend was visiting Varanasi with his parents and also invited me over. TD offered me to come along with him and share his room. I was utterly shocked and dropped the visit altogether. I have the mail he sent for booking details. He probably realised that I can't be manipulated like this and never gave any such indescent direct proposal later on."

xxx

"First was his tendency to call very late at night sometimes, and his insistence on me coming in to work or discuss things very late too. It was my very first research project, and I was still trying to figure out the dynamics of academia and put down my misgivings about the late hours to □this is how things are in research□. The second was him adding me as a friend on facebook, and sometimes sending messages there (which I never replied to). Even though the content of the messages at that point were not inappropriate, they were also in no way related to the project, and the medium of communication seemed improper. He also started started commenting on my posts and I eventually blocked him there."

xxx

"He had a tendency to bring up highly inappropriate things under the guise of "sexuality in philosophy" and so on. He even mentioned masturbation and incest (he knew I read a lot and sent me a French book once that dealt with this topic)."

xxx

"This was the general scheme of things till one day he proceeded to take my hand and hold it while he talked in his office, and I froze and was in utter shock and fear and didn't do anything other than just sit there in creeping fear. This then happened pretty soon a couple of days later, and this time I was prepared and protested, and he said not to make things complicated. He then again proceeded to grab my arm, and this time tried to pull me towards him and probably get me to sit on his lap. By then I was already in tears and told him to let me go and managed to splutter out that I was not okay with what he was doing."

xxx

"He used to asked me to come in night at his office. In day time he won't take classes, he call me at night. But usually I avoid to go because I got some hint about his behaviour. But one day I was having some problem in my project and I asked him during day time but he told me to come at night after the dinner. When I go there he didn't solve my problem rather he harasses me sexually and mentally. I started weeping and was going to tell these things to security guards, but he stopped me forcefully and didn't let me go out and asked me not to tell these things to anybody can't explain how much I was scared and what was my mental condition at that time. But I tell these things to Mrityunjay Bhaiya, Research Scholar at HRI."

23. The contents of aforesaid complaints are serious in nature and would fall within the four corners of definition of "sexual harassment" as mentioned in Section 2(n) of POSH Act, which is reproduced hereinafter:

"(n) "sexual harassment" includes any one or more of the following unwelcome acts or behaviour (whether directly or by implication) namely.—

(i) physical contact and advances; or

(ii) a demand or request for sexual favours; or

(iii) making sexually coloured remarks; or

(iv) showing pornography; or

(v) any other unwelcome physical, verbal or non-verbal conduct of sexual nature."

24. Aforesaid complaints refer various incidents though specific dates are not mentioned and that Court is not aware that when these complaints were made to ICC as on complaint no date was mentioned in record and also taking note that even in X vs. Nirmal Kanti Chakrabarti (supra) Supreme Court has observed that in certain circumstances delay may not be considered adverse to the extent that complaints may be rejected at threshold as it would not be in consonance of object of POSH Act and that normally such complaints are not made immediately, specially when complainants were working under delinquent as it would affect their respective future.

25. In aforesaid circumstances, the Court finds that complaints cannot be rejected at threshold without specific consideration. Therefore, impugned order dated 09.07.2017 is hereby set aside. ICC is directed to consider all complaints afresh on basis of details such as time period of allegation, specific date of complaints as well as any explanation by complainants to approach at belated stage and after considering all aspect, ICC will take a fresh decision, whether complaints have to be rejected at threshold or to proceed further and there must be a reasoned decision on this issue.

26. A copy of the decision be provided to petitioner though at this stage it is not required that petitioner may participate in inquiry. His locus to participate in inquiry will only commence if after on basis of above referred decision, ICC proceed to conduct inquiry in a manner provided under the provisions of POSH Act and Rules. The fresh decision to proceed further with complaint or not shall be passed within a period of eight weeks from today.

27. The writ petition is accordingly disposed of.

THE HON'BLE MRS. MANJU RANI CHAUHAN, J.

Bhupal Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

(1) Effect of not following the timeline to complete the selection process as provided in the Government Order dated 03.06.2016.
(2) Binding effect of a Government Order.
(3) Entitlement of claiming the right of appointment on the basis that the Selection Committee made the recommendation.

Headnotes

(A) Service law – Selection – Post of Headmaster – Approval – Though the Selection Committee recommended for appointment, but the selection process was not completed within timeline as provided in the GO dated 03.06.2016 – Consequently approval declined – Validity challenged – Binding effect of GO dated 0306.2016 felt into consideration

Held : It is a settled canon of administrative law that where a time prescription is engrafted in furtherance of public administration and is coupled with consequences affecting the efficacy and uniformity of such administration, the same ordinarily assumes a mandatory character. The said Government Order cannot, therefore, be construed as a mere procedural guideline; rather, it embodies a policy imperative intended to obviate delays, ensure uniformity, and prevent the mischief of protracted and inconclusive selection processes – Government Order dated 03.06.2016 was binding in nature, and the selection process in question having not been completed within the stipulated period, no vested or enforceable right accrued in favour of the petitioner. [Para 10 and 19]

Further held : It is trite that mere inclusion in a select list or even recommendation by a Selection Committee does not confer an indefeasible right to appointment. The distinction between a mere expectation and a legally enforceable right has been consistently underscored in service jurisprudence. [Para 12] (E-1)

Advs. for the Petitioner : Ashok Khare, Sr. Adv.; Siddharth Khare.
Advs. for the Respondents : Arun Kumar Sharma; Shailendra Singh; Manoj Srivastava, S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Ashok Khare, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Mr. Siddharth Khare, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Arun Kumar Sharma, learned counsel for the respondent no.4 and Mr. Shailendra Singh and Mr. Manoj Srivastava, learned Standing Counsels for the State-respondents.

2. The present writ petition raises questions of considerable legal nuance touching upon the interplay between accrued rights in a selection process, subsequent statutory and executive interventions, and the temporal applicability of recruitment norms. The petitioner seeks quashing of the order dated 28.10.2024 passed by the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Bijnor, whereby approval to his selection on the post of Headmaster has been declined.

3. The essential facts, shorn of unnecessary detail, are that the institution in question is a recognized and aided Junior High School governed by the statutory framework of the U.P. Basic Education Act, 1972 and the Rules of 1978.

4. A vacancy having arisen on the post of Headmaster, an advertisement was issued on 15.07.2016. The petitioner, being eligible, participated in the selection process and was recommended by the Selection Committee on 29.07.2016. The papers were forwarded on 30.07.2016 for approval to the Basic Shiksha Adhikari.

5. The approval, however, was declined on 17.08.2016 on the ground that the selection process was not completed within the timeline prescribed in the Government Order dated 03.06.2016, which mandated completion by 31.07.2016.

6. The petitioner's representations failed, and multiple rounds of litigation ensued, culminating in a remand by the Division Bench directing reconsideration. Upon such reconsideration, the impugned order dated 28.10.2024 has again rejected the claim.

7. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner has assailed the impugned order primarily on the following grounds:-

i. The selection process commenced prior to any subsequent amendment or Government Order, and therefore must be governed by the rules prevailing on the date of advertisement.

ii. The Government Order dated 03.06.2016 is directory and not mandatory in nature.

iii. Subsequent amendments, including the Seventh Amendment Rules, 2019, and later Government Orders, cannot operate retrospectively.

iv. The petitioner had acquired a vested or at least a crystallized right upon being selected.

v. Reliance has been placed upon authoritative precedents including P. Mahendran v. State of Karnataka1, Santosh Kumar Singh vs. State of U.P. and others2, Ratan Pal Yadav vs. State of U.P. and others3, and recent pronouncements reiterating that the rules of the game cannot be altered midstream.

8. Conversely, learned Standing Counsel has contended:-

i. The Government Order dated 03.06.2016 imposed a mandatory outer limit for completion of the selection.

ii. The recommendation itself was forwarded after the cut-off date.

iii. Subsequent statutory amendments and policy decisions fundamentally altered the recruitment regime.

iv. No indefeasible right accrues merely upon participation or even recommendation.

9. The controversy which arises for consideration in the present case lies within a narrow yet intricate compass of service jurisprudence, and may be delineated into the following core issues: firstly, as to whether the Government Order dated 03.06.2016, prescribing a timeline for completion of the selection process, possesses binding legal force and is sustainable in law; secondly, whether the petitioner, upon being recommended by the Selection Committee, acquired any enforceable or vested right to appointment; thirdly, whether subsequent statutory amendments and executive instructions, brought into force after initiation of the selection process, are applicable to the petitioner s case; and lastly, whether the impugned order suffers from arbitrariness, unreasonableness, or any other legal infirmity so as to warrant interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

10. The Government Order dated 03.06.2016 came to be issued with the avowed objective of streamlining and expediting the recruitment process by prescribing a definite and non-derogable timeline, namely, that the entire selection exercise be concluded on or before 31.07.2016. It is a settled canon of administrative law that where a time prescription is engrafted in furtherance of public administration and is coupled with consequences affecting the efficacy and uniformity of such administration, the same ordinarily assumes a mandatory character. The said Government Order cannot, therefore, be construed as a mere procedural guideline; rather, it embodies a policy imperative intended to obviate delays, ensure uniformity, and prevent the mischief of protracted and inconclusive selection processes.

11. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the recommendation of the Selection Committee was forwarded beyond the stipulated cut-off date. The inevitable sequitur is that the selection process cannot be said to have culminated within the time frame mandated by the Government Order dated 03.06.2016. The breach of such a mandatory timeline vitiates the claim of the petitioner at its very inception.

12. The submission of the petitioner that he acquired a vested or enforceable right upon being recommended by the Selection Committee does not commend acceptance. The law in this regard is no longer res integra. It is trite that mere inclusion in a select list or even recommendation by a Selection Committee does not confer an indefeasible right to appointment. The distinction between a mere expectation and a legally enforceable right has been consistently underscored in service jurisprudence. The Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shankarsan Dash v. Union of India4, authoritatively held that a candidate does not acquire any vested right to appointment merely by virtue of being selected. At best, the petitioner could be said to have had a legitimate expectation; however, such expectation remains subservient to statutory provisions, executive policy, and overarching considerations of public interest.

13. Equally untenable is the petitioner's reliance on the doctrine that the rules of the game cannot be altered midstream. While the said principle has been recognized as a salutary safeguard against arbitrariness, it is by no means absolute and admits of well-defined exceptions. The recent pronouncement of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Tej Prakash Pathak and others v. Rajasthan High Court and others5 has lucidly clarified that procedural modifications may be introduced even after the commencement of the selection process, and in appropriate cases, even substantive changes may operate, provided no vested right has crystallized in favour of a candidate.

14. In fact, the mere forwarding of the petitioner's papers for approval on 30.07.2016, received in the office of the District Basic Education Officer on 02.08.2016, did not confer any vested right upon the petitioner. The same was in clear contravention of the Government Order dated 03.06.2016, which governed the selection process and mandated completion of the proceedings by 31.07.2016. Consequently, the petitioner was not entitled to appointment under the prevailing Government Orders.

15. Further, in State of U.P. v. Rachna Hills6, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has unequivocally held that the governing rules are those which prevail on the date of consideration of the claim, and not necessarily those which were in force on the date of advertisement. The said exposition of law marks a significant evolution in service jurisprudence and squarely applies to the facts of the present case. Consequently, the petitioner□s reliance on earlier authorities must yield to the contemporary legal position as expounded by the Apex Court.

16. The statutory framework itself underwent a substantial transformation with the promulgation of the Seventh Amendment Rules, 2019, followed by further policy interventions in the year 2023, including the establishment of a centralized recruitment mechanism through a Commission. These changes were neither cosmetic nor merely procedural; rather, they effectuated a paradigm shift from a decentralized, management-driven selection process to a centralized and regulated system of recruitment.

17. In this backdrop, the Government Orders dated 06.06.2023 and 19.06.2023 assume critical significance, as they unequivocally mandate that all incomplete or inchoate selection processes shall stand annulled. The petitioner□s selection, having never attained finality in the absence of approval by the competent authority, unmistakably falls within the category of an incomplete process. It is a well-settled principle that where a statutory or policy intervention occurs prior to the culmination of a selection process, such process must necessarily conform to the new regime, unless expressly saved. No such saving clause is discernible in the present case.

18. The plea of arbitrariness, as sought to be advanced on behalf of the petitioner, is equally devoid of substance. The impugned order reflects due and conscious consideration of the relevant statutory provisions, applicable Government Orders, and binding judicial precedents. Administrative action, when taken in consonance with the prevailing legal framework, cannot be branded as arbitrary merely because it operates to the detriment of an individual claimant.

19. Upon a holistic and anxious consideration of the facts of the case and the governing legal principles, this Court is of the considered opinion that the Government Order dated 03.06.2016 was binding in nature, and the selection process in question having not been completed within the stipulated period, no vested or enforceable right accrued in favour of the petitioner. This Court further holds that the subsequent statutory amendments and Government Orders validly apply to the present case. The impugned order, therefore, does not suffer from any illegality, irrationality, or procedural impropriety so as to warrant interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

20. The order dated 17.08.2016 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Bijnor□impugned in the earlier writ petition□records that the papers relating to approval of the selection were received in the office of the District Basic Education Officer on 02.08.2016, i.e., beyond 31.07.2016, the cut-off date prescribed under the Government Order dated 03.06.2016.

21. It is submitted that the stipulation of 31.07.2016 for completion of the selection process is mandatory in nature. The Government Order was issued with the specific object of ensuring expeditious completion of long-pending recruitment and to maintain uniformity across the State. The prescription of a definite timeline, coupled with the administrative consequences of delay, indicates a clear legislative intent to treat the schedule as binding rather than merely directory.

22. In the present case, the recommendation papers themselves were received after the expiry of the prescribed period. Thus, the process had not culminated within the mandated time-frame. Any action taken subsequent to 31.07.2016, including consideration or approval of such belated recommendations, stands vitiated being in contravention of the Government Order.

23. It is a settled principle that where a statute or executive instruction prescribes that a particular act is to be done within a specified time and such prescription is intended to achieve a public purpose, the same ordinarily assumes a mandatory character, especially when non-compliance would defeat the very object sought to be achieved.

24. Accordingly, the delayed submission of papers on 02.08.2016 renders the entire selection process liable to be declared invalid.

25. Accordingly, the selection process must be deemed to have come to an end on 31.07.2016, irrespective of whether it had actually been completed, in view of the mandatory timeline prescribed under the Government Order dated 03.06.2016. The said position was subsequently put to challenge in Writ Petition No. 14979 of 2018; however, no interim order was granted therein. Thus, the legal consequence that follows is that the selection proceedings initiated pursuant to the earlier notification stood concluded by 31.07.2016.

26. In such circumstances, once the prescribed period had lapsed, no further steps could have been validly undertaken in continuation of the said selection process. Consequently, after the issuance of subsequent Government Orders and the amendment notified on 04.12.2019, any fresh selection was required to be undertaken strictly in accordance with the law as prevailing on the date of initiation of such selection process.

27. It is a settled principle of law that where a selection process stands concluded or lapses due to efflux of time or operation of law, any further action must conform to the rules and statutory provisions in force at the relevant time. Therefore, any attempt to revive or continue the earlier selection proceedings beyond 31.07.2016 would be legally unsustainable.

28. After the issuance of the subsequent Government Orders, a requisition for filling up the vacant post was also submitted. The said requisition was challenged in Writ Petition No. 8305 of 2021, which ultimately came to be dismissed by judgment and order dated 05.03.2024.

29. This Court further notes that the petitioner had earlier filed Writ Petition No. 14979 of 2018, challenging the order dated 17.08.2016 whereby his approval was rejected, as well as Writ-A No. 8305 of 2021, questioning the validity of the requisition sent in respect of vacant posts of Assistant Teachers. Both writ petitions were dismissed by a common order dated 05.03.2024. Aggrieved, the petitioner preferred Special Appeal No. 674 of 2024, contending that the issue involved was no longer res integra in view of the law already settled in Committee of Management, Nehru Kisaan Vidyalaya Junior High School vs. State of U.P. and others7, and further that the judgment rendered in Ratan Pal Yadav vs. State of U.P. and others8, could not be brought to the notice of the learned Single Judge.

30. The Special Appeal was accordingly allowed, and the matter was remitted to the District Basic Education Officer to take a fresh decision in accordance with law,which, in so many words meant that all relevant aspects of the case were required to be considered by the District Basic Education Officer, particularly in light of the judgments in Committee of Management, Nehru Kisan Vidyalaya Junior High School (supra) and Ratan Pal Yadav (supra), before passing an appropriate order.

31. The submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner do not merit acceptance. The contention that the selection process, having been initiated prior to the issuance of subsequent Government Orders and amendments, ought to be governed by the unamended provisions, is misconceived in the facts of the present case. It is not a case where the □rules of the game□ have been altered midstream; rather, the foundational requirement itself, as prescribed under the Government Order dated 03.06.2016, namely completion of the entire selection process by 31.07.2016, was not fulfilled. In absence of such completion within the stipulated time, no vested or accrued right can be said to have crystallized in favour of the petitioner.

32. The reliance placed on the principle that a selection process is governed by the rules prevailing on the date of advertisement is also misplaced, inasmuch as the said principle operates only where the process is validly continued in accordance with law. In the present case, the process itself stood vitiated upon failure to adhere to the mandatory timeline. The law laid down in Committee of Management, Nehru Kisan Vidyalaya Junior High School (supra) clearly holds that the Government Order dated 03.06.2016 is binding and mandatory, and any selection not concluded within the prescribed date cannot be approved. Similarly, in Ratan Pal Yadav (supra), it has been reiterated that mere participation in a selection process or recommendation by the Selection Committee does not confer any indefeasible right to appointment, particularly when the process itself suffers from legal infirmities.

32. The further submission that subsequent Government Orders or amendments cannot be applied retrospectively is also of no avail to the petitioner, as the rejection of approval is not founded upon retrospective application of later policies, but on the admitted failure of the selection to meet the mandatory cut-off date prescribed under the Government Order dated 03.06.2016. Thus, the very substratum of the petitioner□s claim stands eroded.

33. Even the plea that the petitioner had acquired a vested right upon recommendation by the Selection Committee cannot be sustained in law, as it is well settled that recommendation does not ipso facto confer a right to appointment unless approval is granted by the competent authority in accordance with the governing provisions.

34. In view of the above, the contentions raised by the petitioner, as reiterated in the present writ petition, being devoid of substance and contrary to the settled legal position, are liable to be rejected.

35. This writ petition is, accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

Order on Substitution Application No.341905 of 2009

1. The instant substitution application has been filed as the sole petitioner has reportedly died on 21.10.2009. The substitution application has been filed within time seeking substitution of the legal representatives of the sole petitioner.

2. There is no objection on behalf of the State respondents.

3. Accordingly, the instant substitution application is allowed.

4. Registry is directed to carry out the necessary substitution.

Order on Writ Petition

1. Heard Sri Anil Kumar Vajpayee, Advocate holding brief of Sri Tanmay Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Vishal Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The instant petition has been filed by the petitioner herein challenging the order dated 31.05.2004 passed by respondent no.4 and the order dated 06.10.2006, whereby the appeal preferred by the petitioner was dismissed. The original petitioner has also prayed for reinstatement with full back-wages and other consequential benefits.

3. The briefly stated facts of the case are that the the petitioner was posted in 11th Battalion of PAC, Sitapur and transferred to 43rd Battalion PAC, Etah and for the same purpose, he was released on 10.04.2003. However, he had not reported to the 43rd Battalion. Later on, he reported in 43rd Battalion on 12.11.2003 and he has also reported that from 10.04.2003 till 05.06.2003 and from 21.07.2003 to 14.10.2003, he was confined in jail. Thus, in such view of the matter, excluding the confinement period, he was unauthorisedly absent from the services for 74 days. Pursuant to the aforesaid allegations, a show cause notice was issued on 10.12.2003 and thereafter, the Deputy Commandant, 43rd Battalion PAC Etah passed an order of punishment dated 19.12.2003against the petitioner whereby it was directed that a censure entry be recorded in his character roll. Thereafter, the Deputy Inspector General of Police (D.I.G.), PAC, Agra Division, Agra on 08.04.2004 took suo moto cognizance of the order dated 19.12.2003 passed by the Deputy Commandant and found that the punishment awarded to the petitioner was insufficient and accordingly directed that disciplinary proceedings should be initiated against him so that the major punishment can be awarded against the petitioner. Thus, the Deputy Inspector General of Police, PAC, Agra Division, Agra, has reviewed the order dated 19.12.2003 passed by the Deputy Commandant, 43rd Battalion PAC. Pursuant to the said order, the charge sheet was issued against the petitioner.

4. Against the said order dated 08.04.2004 passed by the DIG, PAC, the petitioner herein moved the representation before the Inspector General of Police through the Deputy Commandant, 43rd Battalion PAC on 21.04.2004. The Commandant rejected the prayer for staying the disciplinary proceeding initiated against the petitioner and however, the representation of the petitioner was forwarded to the Inspector General of Police, PAC. Thereafter, the charge-sheet was issued against the petitioner, enquiry was conducted and the enquiry report was submitted on

19.05.2004. Thereafter, the disciplinary authority issued a show cause notice to the petitioner. The petitioner submitted its detailed explanation and thereafter, the Commandant, PAC being the disciplinary authority has passed the order dated 31.05.2004 finding the petitioner herein guilty of unauthorised absence and consequently, vide order dated 31.05.2004 the petitioner was dismissed from service.

5. Being aggrieved, the petitioner herein has filed the writ petition being Writ Petition No. 62299 of 2005 challenging the order dated 31.05.2004 passed by the Commandant, PAC, Etah whereby punishment of dismissal from service was imposed. The said writ petition was dismissed by the learned Single Judge of this Court. Thereafter, the petitioner herein preferred Special Appeal No. 162 of 2006 which was disposed of vide order dated 08.03.2006 with the following observation:

"The learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the order dated 8.4.2004 passed by D.I.G., P.A.C. Agra was also challenged. In these circumstances, the Hon'ble Single Judge was not right in relegating the appellant to avail alternative remedy of appeal under Rule 20 before the same authority i.e. D.I.G., Agra. He further submitted that since the D.I.G. had already expressed his opinion, in respect to the major penalty, the remedy of appeal to the appellant is illusory. In our opinion, the submission has no force for the reason that the appeal against the order passed by the Commandant lies before the D.I.G. but where the original order has been passed by the D.I.G., the appeal lies before the I.G. under Rule 20(b) of 1991 Rules. Therefore, against order dated 8.4.2004 passed by D.I.G., P.A.C. Agra the appellant has statutory remedy of appeal under Rule 20(b) of 1991 Rules by preferring appeal before the Inspector General. The contention, therefore, that the appeal lies before the same authority is clearly incorrect, hence rejected. Admittedly the statutory provisions provides alternative remedy of appeal, therefore, in our view the Hon'ble Single Judge has rightly dismissed the writ petition relegating the appellant to avail the statutory remedy of appeal under the rule.

Besides that the appellant himself has stated in para-11 of the affidavit filed in support of the stay application that against the order dated 8.4.2004 passed by D.I.G., P.A.C., Agra, the appellant has filed a representation before the Inspector General which has not been decided. This shows that the appellant has already availed alternative remedy against the order dated 8.4:2004 and leaves no occasion to grant any indulgence by this court. Admittedly the said representation of the appellant has not been decided by the Inspector General. We, therefore, direct the Inspector General, Western Zone, Moradabad, respondent No. 2 in this appeal to treat the aforesaid representation of the appellant as an appeal under Rule 20(b) of 1991 Rules against the order dated 8.4.2004 of D.I.G., P.A.C., Agra as well as the order dated 31.5.2004 of the Commandant P.A.C. 43rd Battalion and to decide the same by a speaking order expeditiously and if possible within a period of six months from the date of production of certified copy of this order alongwith a copy of the aforesaid representation.

6. In the special appeal, the Division Bench of this Court had taken note of the fact that against the order dated 08.04.2004, which was passed by the DIG, PAC taking suo moto cognizance of insufficiency of the punishment awarded vide order dated 19.12.2003, the petitioner has already preferred a revision before the Inspector General of Police, which was pending adjudication. In such view of the matter, the special appeal was disposed of with a direction to the Inspector General of Police to decide the representation of the petitioner treating it an appeal against the order dated 08.04.2004 as well as order dated 31.05.2004. Vide impugned order dated 06.10.2006, the Inspector General of Police, PAC, Western Zone Moradabad rejected the appeal of the petitioner herein. Being aggrieved, the instant petition has been filed by the petitioner herein.

7. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that once for the same allegations, after show cause notice and explanation, the disciplinary authority passed a final order of punishment against the petitioner directing a censure entry to be made in the character roll of the petitioner. It was not open for the DIG, PAC to reopen the issue because the DIG PAC has no power to review the order of the disciplinary authority suo motu, as no appeal had ever been preferred by the petitioner against the order dated 19.12.2003.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that in the Uttar Pradesh Police Officers of the Subordinate Ranks (Punishment and Appeal) Rules 1991, there is no provision empowering the appellate authority to review the punishment order suo moto, without there being any appeal preferred by the delinquent employee against whom the punishment order was passed. Consequently, the order dated 08.04.2004 passed by the DIG, PAC was without jurisdiction and all subsequent proceedings are unsustainable in law and cannot be sustained. In such view of the matter, the further orders of punishment passed by the Commandant PAC, Etah and by the Inspector General of Police in appeal are also required to be quashed.

9. Per contra, learned counsel for the State submits that in terms of Rule 24 of the aforesaid 1991 Rules, the appellate authority as well as the superior authority to the authority to whom an application will lie in exercise of revisionary powers have the powers to enhance the punishment awarded by the disciplinary authority. As such, the Deputy Inspector General of Police, who is an appellate authority has reviewed the order of the disciplinary authority and consequently after conducting the fresh disciplinary proceedings against the petitioner, the punishment orders have been passed and appeal against the same has also been dismissed by the Inspector General of Police, therefore, consequently the same were well within the rights of the appellate authority as well as the revisional authority. In such view of the matter, no interference is called for in the impugned orders.

10. Having heard the rival submissions so made by learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case. Before proceeding further, it would be relevant to take note of the relevant provisions of 1991 Rules. For the ready reference Rule 4, Rule 7, Rule 8, Rule 20, 23 and Rule 24 are as under:

"4. Punishment-(1) The following punishments may, for good and sufficient reasons and as

(b) Where the authority empowered to dismiss or remove a person or to reduce him in rank is satisfied that for some reason to be recorded by that authority in writing, it is not reasonably practicable to hold such enquiry: or

(c) Where the. Government is satisfied that in the interest of the security of the State it is not expedient to hold such enquiry.

(3) All orders of dismissal and removal of Head Constables or Constables shall be passed by the Superintendent of Police. Cases in which the Superintendent of Police recommends dismissal or removal of a Sub-Inspector or an Inspector, shall be forwarded to the Deputy Inspector-General concerned for orders.

(4) (a) The punishment for intentionally or negligently allowing a person in police custody or judicial custody to escape shall-be. dismissal unless the punishing authority for reasons to be recorded in writing awards a lesser punishment.

(b) Every officer convicted by the court for an offence involving moral turpitude shall be dismissed unless the punishing authority for reasons to be recorded in writing considers it otherwise.

20. Appeals - (1) Every Police Officer against whom an order of punishment mentioned in sub-clauses (i) to (iii) of clause (a) and sub-clauses (i) to (iv) of clause (b) of rule 4 shall be entitled to prefer an appeal against the order of such punishment to the authority mentioned below:-

(a) to the Police Officer who is the immediate jurisdictional superior authority to the Police officer who passed the order of punishment;

(b) to the Director General of Police who may either .decide the appeal himself or nominate, any Additional Director General for deciding it;

(c) to the State Government against the order passed under clause (b).

(2) No appeal shall lie against an order inflicting any of the petty punishments enumerated in sub-rules (2) .and (3) of rule 4.

(3) Every officer desiring to prefer an appeal shall do so separately.

(4) Every appeal, preferred under these rules shall contain all material, statements, arguments relied on by the police officers preferring the appeal, and shall be complete in itself, but shall not contain disrespectful or improper language. Every appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of final order which is the subject of appeal.

(5) Every appeal, whether the appellant is still in service of Government or not, shall be submitted through the Superintendent of Police of the district or in the case of police officers not employed in district work through the head of the office to which the appellant belongs or belonged.

(6) An appeal will not be entertained unless it is preferred within three months from the date on which the police officer concerned was informed of the order of punishment.:

Provided that the appellate authority may, at his discretion for good cause shown extend the said period up to six months.

(7) If the appeal preferred does not comply with the provisions of sub-rule (4) the appellate authority may require the appellant to comply with the provisions of the said sub-rule within one month of the notice of such order to him and if the appellant fails to make the above compliance the appellate authority may dispose of the appeal in the manner as it deems fit.

(8) The Director-General or an Inspector-General may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, either on his own notion or on request from an appellate authority before whom the appeal is pending transfer the same to any order officer of corresponding rank.

23. Revisions- 1[(1) An officer whose appeal has been rejected by any authority subordinate to the Government is entitle to submit an application for revision to the superior authority next to the authority which has rejected his appeal within three months from the date of rejection of appeal as mentioned below:-

(a) to the Police Officer who is the immediate jurisdictional superior authority to the Police officer who passed the appellate order.

(b) to the Director General of Police who may either decide the revision himself or nominate any Additional Director General for deciding it;

(c) to the State Government against the order passed under clause (b). On such an application the powers of revision may be exercised only when, in consequent of flagrant irregularity, the reappears to have been material injustice or miscarriage of justice:

Provided that the revising authority may on its own motion call for and examine the records of any order passed in appeal against which no revision has been preferred under this rule for the purposes of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of such order, or as to the regularity of such procedure and pass such order with respect thereto as it may think fit:

Provided further that no order, under the first proviso shall be made except after giving the person effected a reasonable opportunity of being heard in the matter.

(2) The procedure prescribed for appeal applies also to applications for revision. An application for revision of an order rejecting an appeal shall be accompanied by a copy of the original order as well as the order of appellate authority.

24. Enhancement of punishment-A punishment may be enhanced by :-

(a) an appellate authority on appeal; or

(b) any authority superior to the authority to whom an application will lie, in exercise of revisionary powers:

Provided that before enhancing the punishment such authority shall call upon the officer punished, to show cause why his punishment should not be so enhanced, and that an order by such authority so enhancing a punishment shall, be deemed to be an original order of punishment."

11. Rule 4 of 1991 Rules provides for the major penalties as well as minor penalty, which can be imposed against a delinquent employee. Rule 7(3) provides that the Superintendent of Police may award any of the punishment mentioned in Rule 4 on such Police Officers as are below the rank of Sub-Inspectors. Rule 8(1) provides that no Police Officer shall be dismissed or removed from service by any authority subordinate to the appointing authority. No Police Officer shall be dismissed, removed or reduced in rank except after proper enquiry and disciplinary proceedings as contemplated by these rules. After a punishment order is passed, the delinquent employee has a right to appeal under Rule 20 before the Police Officer who is immediately jurisdictional superior authority to the Police Officer who passed the order of punishment. However, Rule 20(2) further provides that no appeal shall lie against an order inflicting any of the petty punishments enumerated in sub-rules 2 and 3 of Rule 4. Rule 23 provides the suo moto powers to the revisional authority to review the orders of the appellate authority. Rule 24 provides that the punishment can be enhanced by an Appellate Authority on an appeal or any authority superior to the authority to whom an application will lie in exercise of revisionary power. Thus the Appellate Authority can enhance the punishment only on an appeal filed by the employee against the order of punishment. Appellate Authority has no power to take suo moto cognizance of the punishment order passed by disciplinary authority to review, alter or enhance the punishment.

12. In such view of the matter, in the instant case, vide order dated 19.12.2003, the Deputy Commandant 43rd Battalion, PAC has passed an order of punishment under Rule 4(1)(b)(iv) of 1991 Rules. This being the punishment under Rule 4(1), an appeal is provided under Rule 20 of the 1991 Rules. However, the petitioner herein did not choose to file any appeal against the appellate authority against the order dated 19.12.2003. Though Section 24 provides the appellate authority to enhance the punishment on an appeal preferred, but since no appeal was preferred, the appellate authority had no jurisdiction to review, alter or enhance the punishment awarded by the disciplinary authority.

13. In the instant case, since no appeal was ever preferred against the order dated 19.12.2003, the order dated 08.04.2004 passed by the DIG suo moto reviewing the order of punishment dated 19.12.2003 passed by the Deputy Commandant PAC and directing the disciplinary proceedings to be initiated for awarding the major punishment against the petitioner is without jurisdiction. Consequently, all subsequent proceedings which have taken place pursuant to the order dated 08.04.2004 are unsustainable in law.

14. In the circumstances, since the order dated 08.4.2004 passed by the DIG was without jurisdiction, the same is hereby quashed. Consequently, all further proceedings such as the disciplinary proceeding, the enquiry report, order dated 31.05.2004 passed by the disciplinary authority as well as the order passed by the Inspector General of Police in appeal dated 06.10.2006 are hereby quashed. Since the original petitioner has already died, the substituted petitioners shall be entitled for all consequential benefits in accordance with law.

15. The respondents are directed to calculate all the consequential benefits available to the petitioner treating the original petitioner to be in continuity in service till his death within a period of three months from the date of production of the certified copy of this order.

16. The instant writ petition is allowed accordingly.

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Ram Raj, Ajendra Pratap Singh Counsel for Respondent(s) : C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Mrs. Radhika Singh, learned Advocate holding brief of Shri Ram Raj, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondents-State.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs:

i. Issue a writ of Mandamus or a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite party/ State Government to notionally promote the petitioner to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner with effect from 18.12.1998, when Sri Prithvi Singh, Junior to the petitioner was promoted and granted selection grade.

ii. Issue a writ of Mandamus or a writ, order or directionin the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite party/ State Government to pay arrears of saalry with effect from 1.7.1999 to 30.10.2005 with 18% interest.

iii. Issue a writ of Mandamus or a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite party/ State Government to pay final pension to the petitioner alongwith arrears of final pension with 18% interest.

iv. Issue a writ of Mandamus or a writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite party/ State Government to adequately compensate the petitioner by paying Rs.50 lacs for giving false statement of filing the Special Leave Petition on 16.11.2011 before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and misleading this Hon'ble Court, resulting in irreparable loss and injury to the petitioner; on inquiry it has been found that no Special Leave Petition was filed on 16.11.2011 or before against the judgment and order dated 18.4.2011 passed by this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006.

v. Any other order which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case may also be passed.

vi. Allow the writ petition with costs.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Executive Officer, Class-I/ Assistant Municipal Commissioner through the Uttar Pradesh Public Service Commission on 11.03.1980 and was subsequently promoted on temporary and ad hoc basis to the post of Deputy Municipal Commissioner vide office order dated 06.03.1987. As per the final seniority list dated 10.02.1997 (Anneuxre no.1 at page 26-28 of writ petition), the petitioner was placed at serial no.15. Thereafter, a Departmental Promotion Committee was convened on 24.01.2000 for regularization on the said post and for promotion to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner. However, on account of pendency of disciplinary proceedings, the case of the petitioner was kept in sealed cover, whereas his junior were promoted to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner with effect from 18.12.1998.

Subsequently, while the petitioner was posted as Project Director, District Urban Development Agency, disciplinary proceedings were initiated against him on the allegation that while signing a cheque amounting to Rs.20,000/-, he had allegedly failed to exercise due caution, as a result whereof the amount of the cheque was purportedly altered and enhanced to Rs.2,00,000/- leading to alleged embezzlement of the said amount. On the basis of the aforesaid allegations, disciplinary proceedings were initiated against the petitioner and he was ultimately dismissed from service vide order dated 30.10.2005.

Aggrieved by the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No.86(S/B) of 2006 before the Allahabad High Court, Lucknow Bench. The said writ petition was allowed vide judgment and order dated 18.4.2011 (Annexure No.2 at page 29-33 of the writ petition), whereby the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005 was set aside with all consequential benefits. This Hon□ble Court furthe granted liberty to the State Government to hold a fresh inquiry, if so desired, but specifically directed that the same be concluded within a period of six months from the date of receipt of certified copy of the order.

Subsequently, while the petitioner was posted as Project Director, District Urban Development Agency, disciplinary proceedings were initiated against him on the allegation that while signing a cheque amounting to Rs.20,000/-, he had allegedly failed to exercise due caution, as a result whereof the amount of the cheque was purportedly altered and enhanced to Rs.2,00,000/-leading to alleged embezzlement of the said amount. On the basis of the aforesaid allegations, disciplinary proceedings were instituted against the petitioner and he was ultimately dismissed from service vide order dated 31.10.2005.

Aggrieved by the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006 before the Allahabad High Court, Lucknow Bench. The said writ petition was allowed vide judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP), whereby the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005 was set aside with all consequential benefits. This Hon'ble Court further granted liberty to the State Government to hold a fresh inquiry, if so desired, but specifically directed that the same be concluded within a period of six months from the date of receipt of certified copy of the order.

After passing of the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 by this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006, the petitioner submitted a representation dated 23.04.2011 (Annx. No.3 at page 34-35 of WP) before the Principal Secretary. Nagar Vikas, Government of Uttar Pradesh alongwith certified copy of the aforesaid judgment requesting compliance of the directions issued by this Hon'ble Court and grant of consequential service benefits.

While allowing Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006 vide judgment and order dated 18.04.2011, this Hon'ble Court held that the departmental inquiry conducted against the petitioner suffered from substantial procedural illegality and violation of principles of natural justice as no oral evidence was recorded and no opportunity of cross-examination was afforded to the petitioner. This Hon'ble Court further observed that the main allegation. regarding embezzlement pertained to Sri Kishori Lal Sharma, who had been arrested and sent to jail, and accordingly set aside the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005 with all consequential benefits while granting liberty to the State Government to conclude a fresh inquiry within a period of six months.

Despite the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP) passed by this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006 having attained finality, the opposite parties neither complied with the directions issued therein nor reinstated the petitioner with consequential benefits within the stipulated period.

Consequently, when no fresh inquiry was initiated or concluded within the time prescribed by this Hon'ble Court and the petitioner was nearing the age of superannuation on 30.11.2011, the petitioner was constrained to file Writ Petition No.1917 (S/B) of 2011 before this Hon'ble Court seeking directions commanding the opposite parties to permit him to discharge duties on the post of Deputy Municipal Commissioner, pay his salary regularly and extend all consequential service benefits.

During the hearing of Writ Petition No.1917 (S/B) of 2011 on 16.11.2011 (Annx. No.4 at page 37 of WP), submissions were advanced on behalf of the petitioner highlighting that the petitioner was due to retire on 30.11.2011 and that the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP) had still not been complied with by the State Government. At that stage, on behalf of the State Government, a statement was made that a Special Leave Petition had already been filed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court challenging the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP) passed by this Hon'ble Court, whereupon the matter was adjourned. It subsequently transpired that no such Special Leave Petition had been filed on the said date and the same was filed (SLP No. 20263 of 2011) thereafter with delay, which ultimately came to be dismissed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 17.02.2012 (Annx. No. 5 at page 38 of WP).

Subsequently, this Hon'ble Court vide order dated 28.03.2012 (Annx. No. 6 at page 39 of WP) took serious note of the incorrect statement made on behalf of the State Government regarding filing of the Special Leave Petition and directed the Legal Remembrancer to conduct an inquiry in the matter.

Pursuant thereto, an inquiry report dated 07.04.2012 (Annx. No. 7 at page 40-46) was submitted before this Hon'ble Court, wherein it was found that no Special Leave Petition had been filed on or before 16.11.2011, as had been represented before this Hon'ble Court.

Thereafter, pursuant to the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP) passed by this Hon'ble Court in Writ Petition No.86 (S/B) of 2006 and dismissal of the Special Leave Petition by the Hon'ble Supreme Court on 17.02.2012 (Annx. No. 5 at page 38 of WP), the petitioner submitted a detailed representation dated 27.02.2012 (Annx. No. 8 at page 47-48 of WP) before the Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Government of Uttar Pradesh seeking compliance of the aforesaid judgment and grant of consequential service benefits including promotion to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner.

In pursuance thereof, the State Government issued an office order dated 27.03.2012 (Annx. No. 9 at page 49-52 of WP) taking note of the petitioner's representation and providing that the period from 31.10.2005 till the date of superannuation of the petitioner on 30.11.2011 shall be treated as continuous service for payment of salary and other admissible benefits, subject to the outcome of disciplinary proceedings. The said office order further recorded that since the petitioner had already retired from service on 30.11.2011, no decision was being taken with regard to posting/promotion on the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner.

However, despite expiry of the period fixed by this Hon'ble Court for conclusion of fresh inquiry and despite the petitioner having already retired from service on 30.11.2011, the State Government issued an office order dated 15.05.2012 seeking to initiate a fresh disciplinary inquiry wholly without jurisdiction against the petitioner in relation to the same allegations which had earlier culminated in the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005.

Pursuant thereto, the Inquiry Officer issued a charge-sheet dated 29.05.2012 to the petitioner. Aggrieved by the aforesaid action, the petitioner submitted objections dated 16.07.2012 (Annx. No. 10 at page 53-54 of WP) before the Inquiry Officer specifically contending that the inquiry proceedings were wholly without jurisdiction, having been initiated after expiry of the period prescribed by this Hon'ble Court and without sanction under Article 351-A of the Civil Service Regulations, particularly when the petitioner had already superannuated on 30.11.2011. The petitioner further requested that no further proceedings be continued pursuant to the said charge-sheet.

Aggrieved by the office order dated 15.05.2012 initiating fresh disciplinary proceedings after his retirement and in violation of the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP) passed by this Hon'ble Court, the petitioner filed Writ Petition No.706 (S/B) of 2012 before this Hon'ble Court on 26.05.2012 seeking quashing of the aforesaid office order and further seeking directions for compliance of the office order dated 27.03.2012 (Annx. no. 9 at page 49-52 of WP) issued by the State Government in pursuance of the judgment dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP). The petitioner also prayed that the opposite parties be restrained from proceeding further pursuant to the impugned inquiry proceedings initiated vide order dated 15.05.2012.

During the pendency of Writ Petition No.706 (S/B) of 2012, this Hon'ble Court vide order dated 29.01.2013 (Annx. No. 11 at page 55) directed the learned Standing Counsel to obtain instructions as to whether the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 with regard to consequential benefits had been complied with or not, and further observed that in the event of non-compliance, the Principal Secretary, Department of Urban Development shall appear in person before this Hon'ble Court.

Thereafter, pursuant to the aforesaid order passed by this Hon'ble Court, the Upar Nagar Ayukta, Nagar Nigam, Lucknow issued a letter dated 02.02.2013 (Annx. No. 12 at page 56 of WP) releasing the salary of the petitioner for the period from 31.10.2005 to 30.11.2011. The said communication was served upon the petitioner on 03.02.2013.

Thereafter, the petitioner submitted representations dated 04.03.2013 (Annx. no. 13 at page 57-58 of WP) and 19.09.2013 (Annx. no. 14 at page 60-61 of WP) before the opposite parties requesting compliance of the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 passed by this Hon'ble Court and seeking grant of consequential service benefits including notional promotion, arrears of salary and retiral dues. However, no final decision was taken by the authorities on the said representations.

Subsequently, the Finance and Accounts Officer, Directorate of Local Bodies, Uttar Pradesh issued Gratuity Payment Order no. P.C./2738/3263-Pe/13-2293 dated 26.02.2014 (Annx. no. 15 at page 62 of WP) releasing only 75% gratuity and provisional pension in favour of the petitioner, while final pensionary benefits and other consequential dues continued to be withheld by the opposite parties.

Although partial retiral dues and salary for certain period were released subsequently, the opposite parties have till date failed to grant full consequential benefits flowing from the judgment dated 18.04.2011 (Annx. No.2 at page 29-33 of WP). The petitioner has repeatedly submitted representations seeking compliance of the aforesaid judgment, including grant of notional promotion, selection grade, arrears of salary from 01.07.1999 to 30.10.2005 and final pensionary benefits, but no final decision has been taken by the authorities.

Thereafter, the petitioner again submitted a representation dated 11.04.2014 (Annx. no.16 at page 63-64 of WP) before the Principal Secretary, Nagar Vikas, Government of Uttar Pradesh requesting compliance of the judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 passed by this Hon'ble Court and seeking release of the remaining consequential service and pensionary benefits, including notional promotion, arrears of salary and final pension. However, despite repeated representations, the opposite parties failed to extend full benefits to the petitioner.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the opposite party has not promoted the petitioner notionally to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner with effect from 18.12.1998, when the petitioner's junior Sri Prithvi Singh was promoted to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner and the opposite party has not granted selection grade to the petitioner.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that after the judgment and order of this Hon'ble Court dated 18.4.2011 in Writ Petition no. 86 (S/B) of 2006 (annexure no.2) whereby the dismissal order of the petitioner from services was set aside by this Hon'ble Court, the opposite party was under legal obligation to have complied the said judgment and order dated 18.4.2011; more so when no fresh inquiry, as directed by this Hon'ble Court was initiated or concluded within a period of six months.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that the alleged inquiry instituted against the petitioner vide order dated 15.5.2012 without following the provisions contained in Article 351-A of the Civil Services Regulations is wholly illegal and arbitrary. However, the said inquiry has been dropped.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that the petitioner was selected on a post of Executive Officer Class-I/Assistant Municipal Commissioner by the U.P. Public Service Commission, after qualifying both the written examination and interview and was appointed on the said post on 11.3.1980.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that for the purposes of regularization and promotion, a Departmental Promotion Committee was convened on 24.1.2000, the recommendation of the committee in respect of the petitioner's regularization on the post of Deputy Municipal Commissioner and promotion to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner was kept in a sealed cover. Even though as per the final seniority list dated 10.2.1997 the petitioner was placed at Serial no.15, the petitioner was not granted selection grade and juniors to the petitioner were considered and were promoted to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner with effect from 18.12.1998.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that perusal of the report dated 7.4.2012 and the affidavit dated 10.4.2012 prove that the alleged Special Leave Petition was not filed on 16.11.2011 or before and the incorrect and misleading statement on behalf of the opposite party alleging that the Special Leave Petition was filed on 16.11.2011 resulted in irreparable loss and injury to the petitioner as the matter was adjourned on the ground of having preferred Special Leave Petition and no interim order was granted by this Hon'ble Court.

10. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that in compliance of the judgment and order dated 18.4.2011, passed by this Hon'ble Court, the State Government had issued Office Order dated 27.3.2012. Notwithstanding the office order dated 27.3.2012, the State Government acted illegally, arbitrarily and without applying mind had issued an office order dated 15.5.2012 for instituting a fresh inquiry against the petitioner.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that the Finance and Accounts Officer, Department of Directorate of Local Bodies, U.P. issued a Gratuity payment order no. P.C./2738/3263-Pe./13-2293 dated 26.2.2014 had released the 75% of the gratuity and provisional pension to the petitioner. Since, the State Government did not hold any fresh inquiry within the period of six months, as directed vide judgment and order dated 18.4.2011 and therefore the order dated 18.4.2011 has to be complied by the opposite party and the petitioner is entitled for all consequential benefits.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that after the removal order dated 31.10.2005 was set aside by this Hon'ble Court, the petitioner is entitled for his salary from July, 1999 upto 30 October, 2005 alongwith full pension and consequential benefits. The pension and arrears of salary are not bounty and the petitioner has legal right for the same. Similarly, promotion is a normal incidence of service and the petitioner has a fundamental right to be considered for promotion, which involves effective, purposeful and meaningful consideration.

13. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that the inaction of the opposite party in not granting the notional promotion to the petitioner to the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner with effect from 18.12.1998, granting selection grade, arrears of salary with effect from 1.7.1999 to 30.10.2005 and paying final pension to the petitioner alongwith arrears of final pension is wholly illegal, contemptuous, arbitrary, unjust, lacks transparency, discriminatory, colourable exercise of power, contrary to the service rules and against the provisions of the Constitution of India and is also against the Government policy.

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner next submitted that the issue relating to continuation of disciplinary proceedings beyond the period prescribed by the Court is no longer res integra. In Dr. Gyanvati Dixit Vs. State of U.P. and others, Writ-A No.12286 of 2025, decided on 08.05.2026, this Hon'ble Court, while considering the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India Vs. Sharvan Kumar and State of U.P. Vs. Ram Prakash Singh as well as the Full Bench judgment of this Hon'ble Court in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs. New India Assurance Company Limited and others, has held that though disciplinary proceedings may not automatically lapse merely on expiry of the stipulated period, continuation of such proceedings without seeking extension of time from the Court and despite objection by the delinquent employee is unsustainable in law. In the present case also, admittedly no extension of time was ever obtained from this Hon'ble Court despite expiry of the period prescribed vide judgment and order dated 18.04.2011 and, therefore, continuation of proceedings vide order dated 15.05.2012 is wholly illegal and without jurisdiction.

15. In support of her submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance upon the following judgments:

(i) Dr. Gyanwati Dixit v. State of U.P. Thru. Prin. Secy. Deptt. Of Secondary Education Lko. And 4 others (Writ Petition No.12286 of 2025)

(ii) Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi v. New India Assurance Co. Ltd., reported in 2013 SCC OnLine All 14267.

16. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondents denied the averments of the petitioner regarding the promotion of Sri Prithvi Singh and submitted that Sri Prithvi Singh was not promoted on the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner on 18.12.1998. At that time there was a provision of nomination on the post of Uppar Mukhya Nagar Adhukari (now Uppar Nagar Ayukt) from amongst the senior most Uppar Mukhya Nagar Adhukari (now Uppar Nagar Ayukt) working in special pay scale and there was also a provision of promotion of Uppar Mukhya Nagar Adhukari (now Uppar Nagar Ayukt) from amongst the senior most Uppar Mukhya Nagar Adhukari (now Uppar Nagar Ayukt) working in general pay scale.

17. Learned counsel for the respondents next submitted that on 24.01.2000 a meeting of DPC was held for regularisation of ad-hoc employees and promotion of officers working at UP Nagar Ayukt (General Pay Scale of Rs. 3000-4500) and at that time the recommendation of DPC in respect of promotion of the petitioner were kept in a seal cover due to pendency of departmental proceedings against the petitioner by means of order dated 18.10.1995 and 24.07.1999 and the persons who were working on adhoc basis on the post of Uppar Nagar Ayukt, though they were junior to the petitioner, were given regular promotion on the post of UP Nagar Ayukt (General Pay Scale of Rs. 3000-4500).

18. Lastly, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the writ petition filed by the petitioner lacks merit and the grounds taken in the writ petition are not tenable in the eyes of law and as such is liable to be dismissed.

19. Having heard the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties, I have perused the material available on record as well as case-law cited by learned counsel for the parties.

20. To resolve the controversy involved in the present writ petition, relevant paragraphs of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner is extracted here-in-below:

(i) Dr. Gyanvati Dixit (supra):-

11. In support of his contentions, he has placed reliance on the Judgment and Order dated 06-07-2022 passed by the Hon?ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India (UOI) and Ors Vs Sharvan Kumar, (Civil Appeal No. 1942 of 2014 decided on 06-07-2022) and has referred paragraph nos. 9.1 to 11 of the said Judgment, which are quoted hereinunder :-

9.1. It needs hardly any elaboration to say that fixing of the period of two months by the Tribunal in this case had only been to ensure expeditious proceedings because the matter was being restored for reconsideration in the year 2010, though the disciplinary proceedings related with the incident dated 09.01.2005. However, the said period of two months did not acquire any status akin to that of a statutory mandate that the disciplinary proceedings would have automatically come to an end with its expiry. It remains trite that if an Adjudicating Authority in exercise of its jurisdiction could grant or fix a time period to do a particular thing, in the absence of a specific statutory provision to the contrary, the jurisdiction to fix such a time period inhers the jurisdiction to extend the time initially fixed. Such conditional orders have regularly been construed by this Court to be in terrorem so as to put a check on the dilatory tactics by any litigant or to guard against any laxity on the part of the Adjucating Authority but, the Court is not powerless to enlarge the time even though it had peremptorily fixed the period at any earlier stage. In the case of Mahanth Ram Das v. Ganga Das MANU/SC/0027/1961: (1961) 3 SCR, this court examined the peremptory order of the Court fixing the period of payment of deficit court fees in the backdrop of the fact that the application for extension of time came up for hearing only after the time fixed by the Court had expired and the application was rejected. This Court put the things in perspective while observing, inter alia, as under:-

5?..Such orders are not like the law of the Medes and the Persians. Cases are this and to have restored a suit or proceeding, even though a final order had been passed...

9.2. We may elaborate a little. When a conditional order is passed by the Court/Tribunal to do a particular act or thing within a particular period but the order does not provide anything as to the consequence of default, the Court/Tribunal fixing the time for doing a particular thing obviously retains the power to enlarge such time. As a corollary, even the Appellate Court/Tribunal or any higher forum would also be having the power to enlarge such time, if so required. In any case, it cannot be said that the proceedings would come to an end immediately after the expiry of the time fixed.

9.3. In the present case, even the order dismissing the application for enlargement of time on a technical ground of not placing before the Tribunal instructions of the Railway Board, had again been not of giving any such status of mandatory and rigid character to the period originally fixed that the proceedings would have abated.

10. We are Impelled to observe that while treating the proceedings as having abated and as nullity, the High Court has ignored the fundamental principles that fixing of such time period was only a matter of procedure with an expectation of conclusion of the proceedings in an expeditious manner. This period of two months had not acquired any such mandatory statutory character so as to nullify the entire of the disciplinary proceedings with its expiry.

10.1. Moreover, when no consequence of default was stated in the order dated 03.09.2010, the period as stated therein was only of expectations and not of mandate. We may also observe that very many times, such fixing of time period causes more complications and harm rather than serving the cause of justice. Fixing of such period could only be justified if there are strong and compelling reasons for the same; and if at all such period is proposed to be fixed, not only the reasons for the same but, even the consequences of default are also required to be stated if such period is, for any valid reason, expected to operate with adverse consequences on the defaulter.

11. The upshot of the discussion foregoing is that the proceedings in question neither abated nor could have been considered nullity only because of passage of the expected time period stated in the order of the Tribunal dated 03.09.2010. There was no reason or justification for the High Court to interfere with the just and proper order passed by the Tribunal on 21.06.2013, which deserves to be restored with necessary consequential directions.?

12. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that it has been held by the Hon?ble Apex Court, while dealing with an identical issue that when the conditional order is passed, with the direction, to do a thing, in a particular manner or within the particular period, but, the consequences of default is not provided, the same would not have created the nullity of the proceeding or would have abated automatically.

13. He has also placed reliance on the Judgment rendered by the Full Bench of this court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, reported in 2014 (6) All LJ 662(FB) and has referred paragraph no. 13, which is quoted hereinunder :-

13. Undoubtedly, where the Court has stipulated a period of time by which a departmental enquiry has to be concluded, the stipulation as to time has to be observed. But it must be emphasized that the failure on the part of the employer to conclude the enquiry within the period so stipulated will not result in a situation where the enquiry must, in all cases, and for whatever reason, be regarded as being rendered without jurisdiction or a nullity upon the expiry of that period. The court which fixes time for completion of an enquiry equally has Jurisdiction to extend time for compliance. A stipulation of time in an order of the Court is not akin to a statute of limitation. In each case, it is for the court to determine as to whether the facts and circumstances are such as would warrant the grant of a further extension of time. The circumstances which would weigh with the Court would include the nature and complexity of the charge, the efforts which have been made for the conclusion of the enquiry, the reasons for the delay and the conduct of the parties in the course of the disciplinary proceedings. In Suresh Chandra v. State of M.P., a Special Leave Petition was filed before the Supreme Court against a judgment of the High Court setting aside an order of the Administrative Tribunal. The High Court had held that the disciplinary authority could not proceed with the enquiry after the lapse of the period granted to it by the Tribunal and that period having expired on 15 May 1999, the disciplinary authority could not proceed further with the enquiry. The Supreme Court set aside the judgment of the High Court and held that it was only fair to remand the matter to the Inquiry Officer to resume the disciplinary proceedings from the stage which was reached on 15 May 1999. The Supreme Court clarified that all proceedings taken before that date shall remain as they are and the disciplinary authority will proceed further to examine evidence and submit its report within the extended period as stipulated in the order of the Supreme Court. Thereafter, a period was fixed for the disciplinary authority to pass its orders from the date of submission of the enquiry report. The judgment of the Supreme Court in Suresh Chandra's case recognizes the power which inheres in the court to extend the time which has been fixed for the completion of an enquiry for valid and cogent reasons.?

25. The judgment dated 19.10.2019 was assailed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the appeal came to be decided vide the judgment in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (supra). The Hon'ble Supreme Court framed five issues for consideration of which the issue relevant for the present case is as under: -

"(iv) whether the inquiry not having been completed within the time stipulated by the tribunal in its order dated 23rd January 2014, the disciplinary proceedings could have been continued beyond May, 2014?"

35. In case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra), it has been elaborated on the aspect of, how an application for extension of time is to be dealt with and the consequence of non-filing of the application for extension of time. Whereas in the case of Sharvan Kumar (supra), the findings were recorded in peculiar facts and circumstances as the application for extension of time was rejected on account of insufficient particulars. It is discernible that in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra), the court has taken into account a situation where no bona fide attempt is shown to have been made to seek an extension of time and vide paragraph 63 it has been made open for the courts to overlook the laxity in an exceptional case and make directions as it deems fit in the circumstances. There is no inconsistency between the aforenoted two ratios. The judgment of Ram Prakash Singh (supra) recognizes the same aspect but elaborates on further principles, as regard grant of extension of time and the consequences of, not seeking extension, by showing sufficient cause, therefore the law laid down in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra) is in conspectus of the Judgment of Sharvan Kumar(Supra).

37. As is borne out from the factual matrix and submissions of the leaned counsels for the parties that the matter admittedly could not be concluded within fifty one days rather the same has been concluded within seventy one days. It is noticed that no application for extension of time limit, prescribed by the court, has been moved, by the authority concerned, prior passing the order impugned dated 23-06-2025.

41. I am of the considered opinion that so far as the factual matrix of the present case are concerned, in absence of any application for extension of time period, prior passing the order impugned, the said order stands vitiated. Consequently, the order impugned dated 23-06-2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law, resultantly, the same is hereby quashed.

(ii) Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra):-

2.The following questions have been referred in the order of the learned Single Judge for determination by the Full Bench:"

"(a) Whether if an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame fixed by a court and concluded thereafter, without seeking extension from the Court then on the said ground the entire inquiry proceeding as well as punishment order passed, is vitiated in view of the judgment in the case of P.N. Srivastava; and

(b) Whether the law as laid down by a Division Bench of this Court in the case of P.N. Srivastava that if an inquiry proceeding is not concluded within a time frame as fixed by a Court, it stands vitiated is still a good law in view of the judgment rendered by the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra as well as a judgment dated 27.07.2009 of a Division Bench of this Court in Writ Petition No. 1056 (SB) of 2009 (Union of India v. Satendra Kumar Sahai).

5. In M.L. Sachdev v. Union of India1, a direction was issued by the Supreme Court for the constitution of the Monopolies and Restrictive Trade Practices Commission within a stipulated period. The direction was not duly observed and contempt proceedings were initiated. In that context, the Supreme Court held that since the direction was not complied with by the date stipulated, it was the obligation of the contemnor to approach the Court for a further extension of time or to receive such directions as the Court, in its discretion, thought it appropriate to make. A similar principle was followed by the Supreme Court in the case of State of Bihar v. Subhash Singh2, where an order of costs was imposed. The Supreme Court observed that when the High Court had directed that the case of the writ petitioner should be considered and disposed by a reasoned order within a period of two months, it was expected that the authorities shall discharge their duty expeditiously in accordance with the directions. Having failed to do so, the authorities were required to furnish an explanation to the Court of the circumstances in which they could not comply with the directions or if there was any unavoidable delay, further time for compliance should have been taken. In these circumstances, since no steps were taken by the officer, an order of costs was imposed.

6. In the context of disciplinary proceedings, the High Court in the exercise of its writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution may in appropriate cases fix a stipulation in regard to the conclusion of an enquiry within a stipulated period. Such an order may be passed in several situations, such as when an employee moves a petition challenging an order of suspension and the Court considers it appropriate, in the interests of justice, to direct that the disciplinary proceeding should be expeditiously disposed of. Such direction are issued in other appropriate instances to obviate a delay in disposing of disciplinary proceedings. The basis and rationale for these orders is to ensure that an employee is not prejudiced by an undue delay in the conclusion of a disciplinary proceeding. Where the Court stipulates a period of time during which an enquiry must be completed, such a stipulation has to be observed. Clearly, it is not open to the employer to act in disregard of the orders of the Court and it cannot possibly be asserted that notwithstanding the time fixed by the Court, the employer is at liberty to conclude the enquiry at its own whims and fancy disregarding the stipulation of time.

8. In P.N. Srivastava v. State of U.P.3, a Division Bench noted that in that case a concession of the revival of a disciplinary enquiry was extended on the condition that it would be completed within a period of four months of the judgment of the Court. The Division Bench referred to those cases where statutory rules prescribe a period of limitation for holding an enquiry in which, as a consequence, it has been held that the departmental enquiry must be concluded before the lapse of the period prescribed from the date the misconduct had taken place. The Division Bench held that the direction issued by the Court must stand on the same footing as a period of limitation which has been prescribed by the Statute or the Rules and since the directions of the Court are required to be complied with, disobedience would amount to a contempt of the order of the Court. However, the Division Bench has also noticed that in case the departmental enquiry cannot be concluded within the date so fixed, the Court can be moved for extension of time.

12.In another judgment in Ajeet Kumar Singh v. Hardoi District Co-operative Bank Ltd., Hardoi7, it has been emphasized that once a Court has fixed certain period for conclusion of a departmental enquiry, it could not have been continued after the stipulated period without seeking permission from the Court.

19.In view of the above discussion, we now proceed to answer the questions which have been referred to the Full Bench.

(A)Question No. (a): We hold that if an enquiry is not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the court setting out the reasons for the delay in the conclusion of the enquiry. In such an event, it is for the court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is a stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought;

(B)Question No. (b): The judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra (supra)as well as the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satyendra Kumar Sahai (supra) clearly indicate that a mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary enquiry will notipso facto nullify the entire proceedings in every case. The court which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to consider whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained. The court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not completed within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer. The court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time, the original stipulation of time having been fixed by the court itself. Such an extension of time has to be considered in the interests of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the enquiry in the interests of fairness and an honest administration. In an appropriate case, it would be open to the Court to extend time suo motu in order to ensure that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to a serious detriment to the public interest. The court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the court has come to an end.

21. It is undisputed that the dismissal order dated 31.10.2005 was quashed by this Court vide judgment dated 18.04.2011 with consequential benefits. Once an order of dismissal is set aside, the legal effect is that the employee stands restored to his original position unless otherwise restricted by the Court. The expression with consequential benefits necessarily includes restoration of continuity of service, consideration for promotion and retiral benefits.

22. The office order dated 27.03.2012 itself recognizes that the petitioner's services from 31.10.2005 till superannuation shall be treated as continuous service. Therefore, the respondents cannot simultaneously treat the petitioner to be in continuous service and yet deny consideration for promotion and consequential retiral dues.

23. Secondly, this Court in the earlier writ petition vide order dated 18.04.2011 had granted liberty to hold a fresh inquiry and specifically directed that the same be concluded within six months. Admittedly, no inquiry was concluded within the stipulated period. Equally undisputed is the fact that no application seeking extension of time was ever moved before this Court.

24. The legal issue concerning continuation of disciplinary proceedings beyond the time fixed by the Court is no longer res integra.

25. Taking note of the the judgment of the Full Bench of this Court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (supra) wherein it was held that "although mere expiry of the stipulated period would not ipso facto nullify the proceedings, it is mandatory for the employer to seek extension of time from the Court and it is not open to the employer to disregard the stipulation fixed by the Court." Relevant paragraph is mentioned hereinafter;

"19.In view of the above discussion, we now proceed to answer the questions which have been referred to the Full Bench.

(A)Question No. (a): We hold that if an enquiry is not concluded within the time which has been fixed by the Court, it is open to the employer to seek an extension of time by making an appropriate application to the court setting out the reasons for the delay in the conclusion of the enquiry. In such an event, it is for the court to consider whether time should be extended, based on the facts and circumstances of the case. However, where there is a stipulation of time by the Court, it will not be open to the employer to disregard that stipulation and an extension of time must be sought;

B)Question No. (b): The judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Suresh Chandra (supra)as well as the judgment of the Division Bench of this Court in the case of Satyendra Kumar Sahai (supra)clearly indicate that a mere delay on the part of the employer in concluding a disciplinary enquiry will not ipso facto nullify the entire proceedings in every case. The court which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to consider whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained. The court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not completed within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer. The court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the court has come to an end."

26. Also taking note of the judgment in the case of Dr. Gyanvati Dixit (supra), after considering Sharvan Kumar, Ram Prakash Singh and the Full Bench judgment in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi, it was held that "continuation of disciplinary proceedings without obtaining extension of time and despite objection by the employee would render the proceedings unsustainable." Relevant paragraph is mentioned hereinafter;

"25. The judgment dated 19.10.2019 was assailed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the appeal came to be decided vide the judgment in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (supra). The Hon'ble Supreme Court framed five issues for consideration of which the issue relevant for the present case is as under: -

"(iv) whether the inquiry not having been completed within the time stipulated by the tribunal in its order dated 23rd January 2014, the disciplinary proceedings could have been continued beyond May, 2014?"

35. In case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra), it has been elaborated on the aspect of, how an application for extension of time is to be dealt with and the consequence of non-filing of the application for extension of time. There is no inconsistency between the aforenoted two ratios. The judgment of Ram Prakash Singh (supra) recognizes the same aspect but elaborates on further principles, as regard grant of extension of time and the consequences of, not seeking extension, by showing sufficient cause, therefore the law laid down in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra) is in conspectus of the Judgment of Sharvan Kumar(Supra).

37. As is borne out from the factual matrix and submissions of the leaned counsels for the parties that the matter admittedly could not be concluded within fifty one days rather the same has been concluded within seventy one days. It is noticed that no application for extension of time limit, prescribed by the court, has been moved, by the authority concerned, prior passing the order impugned dated 23-06-2025.

41. I am of the considered opinion that so far as the factual matrix of the present case are concerned, in absence of any application for extension of time period, prior passing the order impugned, the said order stands vitiated. Consequently, the order impugned dated 23-06-2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law, resultantly, the same is hereby quashed."

27. In the present case, despite expiry of six months from the judgment dated 18.04.2011, no extension was ever sought from this Court. The respondents continued with the proceedings after retirement of the petitioner. Such action on the part of the respondents is wholly arbitrary and contrary to judicial discipline.

28. The conduct of the respondents further assumes significance in view of the fact that an incorrect statement had earlier been made before this Court regarding filing of Special Leave Petition and the inquiry conducted pursuant thereto revealed that no such Special Leave Petition had been filed on the relevant date. This Court is of the considered opinion that the respondents failed to act with diligence and fairness despite categorical directions issued by this Court.

29. It is admitted that the petitioner□s case for promotion was admittedly kept in sealed cover solely because of pendency of disciplinary proceedings. Once the dismissal order stood quashed and the subsequent inquiry failed to attain legal finality within the stipulated period, the foundation for denial of promotion ceased to exist. The sealed cover procedure cannot operate indefinitely to deprive an employee of his legitimate service benefits.

30. The petitioner has also attained superannuation and no legally sustainable disciplinary proceedings survive against him. Pension is not a bounty. It is a valuable right earned by an employee for long years of service. Withholding of final pensionary benefits without authority of law is violative of Articles 14 and 300-A of the Constitution of India.

31. The respondents have already treated the petitioner's service period till retirement as continuous service and have released salary for the relevant period. Consequently, denial of full retiral dues and consideration for notional promotion is wholly unjustified.

32. In view of the above discussion, the writ petition is allowed with the following directions:

i) The respondents are directed to consider and grant notional promotion to the petitioner on the post of Additional Municipal Commissioner from the date his immediate junior was granted promotion, subject to verification of eligibility and seniority alongwith consequential benefits flowing from such notional promotion including fixation of pay, selection grade and recalculation of retiral dues.

(ii) The respondents shall release final pension, arrears of pension, gratuity and all consequential retiral benefits admissible to the petitioner after due revision.

(iii) With regard to the prayer seeking compensation of Rs.50 lakhs for the incorrect statement made before this Court, although the conduct of the respondents deserves serious disapproval, the respondents are directed to pay a sum of Rs.5 lakhs to the petitioner as costs for making incorrect statement before this Court in regard to filing of special appeal before Hon'ble Supreme Court.

(iii) No order as to costs.

CIVIL JURISDICTION: WRIT -C No. -469 OF 2026 04.05.2026

Shajiya Parveen & Anr Vs. State of U.P. & 3 Ors

From the judgment and order dated 04.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv.for Petitioner(s):

Mahipal Singh

Adv. for Respondent(s):

C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Garima Prashad, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mahipal Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Ashwani Kumar Tripathi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents.

2. The present petition has been filed by the petitioners asserting that they are residing together as a couple in a live-in relationship. Petitioner no.1 is a woman aged about 20 years and petitioner no.2 is a male aged about 19 years. It is pleaded that petitioner no.1 belongs to the Muslim community whereas petitioner no.2 belongs to a Scheduled Caste Hindu family.

3. It is stated that the father of petitioner no.1 has been threatening them and pressuring them to sever their relationship, though the parents of the petitioner No.2 have no objection to such a relationship. Hence, by means of the present writ petition, the petitioners seek directions to the respondent police authorities to restrain their family members not to interfere in their cohabitation as a live-in relationship, further to ensure protection of their life and liberty, as guaranteed under Article 21 of the Constitution of India.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the parties cannot solemnize marriage under the provisions of the Special Marriage Act, 1954 since the Petitioner no.2 boy is only 19 years old and has not yet completed the age of 21 years as required by law to marry.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioners relied upon the orders passed by this Court in similar matters wherein protection has been granted to couples who were living in a live-in relationship and that no one can interfere in their peaceful living. It is submitted that the petitioners are majors and they have the right to live-in with a person of their own choice with or without marriage.

6. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel opposed the prayer placing reliance upon the provisions of the Special Marraige Act, 1954, Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 and the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as the 2006 Act). It is contended that the petitioner No.2, being below the age of 21 years, falls within the definition of Child thus he cannot solemnise marriage under any of the above laws. It was urged that where the legislature itself has treated a male below the age of 21 years as lacking legal capacity to enter into marriage, the Court ought not to indirectly permit a marriage-like relationship under the rubric of a live-in arrangement. It was further submitted that statutory policy concerning age, maturity and legal capacity cannot be neutralised through a broad invocation of Article 21. It is argued that permitting such a relationship would defeat the legislative intent underlying the statutory framework governing marriageable age.

7. Upon hearing learned counsel for the parties and perusing the material brought on record, the core issue which arises for consideration is:

Whether this Court, in exercise of its writ jurisdiction, can grant protection to a live-in relationship where one of the parties (male) is below 21 years of age and is statutorily classified as a child for the purposes of marriage, and whether, in such circumstances, this Court can restrain parents or guardians from interfering or from taking lawful steps under the applicable statutory framework.

8. At the outset, it is necessary to examine the legislative scheme governing marriage in the country. The field is principally occupied by three enactments, namely, the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, the Special Marriage Act, 1954, and the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006. Each of these statutes, though operating in different spheres, uniformly prescribe conditions relating to the legal capacity to marry, including the minimum age requirement.

9. The Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 (hereinafter referred to as the '2006 Act') is the primary enactment which defines the capacity of parties to enter into a marital relationship and prescribes consequences where such capacity is absent.

10. Section 2(a) of the 2006 Act defines a child to mean a person who, if male, has not completed twenty-one years of age, and if female, has not completed eighteen years of age. Section 2(b) defines a child marriage as a marriage to which either of the contracting parties is a child.

11. Section 3 provides that every child marriage shall be voidable at the option of the contracting party who was a child at the time of the marriage. The proviso stipulates that a petition for annulment may be filed only by such contracting party. Parliament thus preserved to the child party the option to later avoid such a marriage.

12. Sections 4 to 7 deal with the consequences arising out of such marriages. These provisions empower the district court to pass orders relating to maintenance, residence, custody of children, legitimacy of children born out of such marriages, and modification of such orders.

13. Section 11 provides for punishment in cases where a child marriage is promoted or permitted. It specifically provides that any person having charge of the child, including a parent or guardian, who promotes, permits, or negligently fails to prevent such marriage, shall be punishable.

The section further incorporates a statutory presumption that, where a minor has contracted a marriage, the person having charge has failed to prevent it, unless the contrary is proved.

14. Section 13 empowers the Judicial Magistrate of the first class or Metropolitan Magistrate to issue an injunction where a child marriage in contravention of the Act has been arranged or is about to be solemnised. Parliament therefore did not intend the law to remain helpless until the event was complete. It expressly created a preventive power to stop the prohibited union before solemnisation.

15. Section 15 declares that offences under the Act are cognizable and non-bailable.

16. Section 16 requires the State Government to appoint Child Marriage Prohibition Officers and places upon them duties to prevent solemnisation of child marriages, collect evidence, counsel individuals and communities, create awareness, and discharge such other functions as may be assigned.

17. The 2006 Act thus creates a full enforcement structure. It does not leave the matter to private morality or family pressure. It institutionalises prevention. Thus, the Parliament did not intend merely to classify child marriages after they occur. It intended to prevent them, discourage them, penalise those who facilitate them, protect those affected by them, and regulate the consequences where they nevertheless take place. The statute is, in substance, a complete code for prevention and intervention in this field.

18. The 2006 Act establishes a marriage-specific incapacity. A male may be an adult under the law of majority upon completing eighteen years of age, but the Parliament has still chosen to treat him as a child for marriage until the age of twenty-one. This distinction reflects a conscious legislative judgment that marriage requires a higher level of maturity than many other civil acts.

19. The need for such child marriage restriction legislation is also clear from the structure and purpose of the Act itself. These laws exist because Parliament has recognised that premature unions often involve lack of maturity, lack of financial and emotional readiness, interruption of education, gendered vulnerability, and serious social and long-term consequences. The statute is not an obsolete formality. It is a modern welfare enactment responding to conditions that Parliament considered serious enough to warrant prevention, punishment and institutional oversight.

20. The provisions of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 may now be examined. Section 5 of that Act lays down the conditions for a Hindu marriage. Clause (iii) expressly states that the bridegroom must have completed the age of twenty-one years and the bride the age of eighteen years at the time of marriage. The wording of the section shows that the age requirement is a basic condition for the solemnisation of a Hindu marriage.

21. It is true that under the Hindu Marriage Act not every violation of Section 5 automatically renders the marriage void under Section 11. However, that does not reduce the importance of the age condition. Section 18 specifically provides punishment for contravention of certain conditions of marriage, including the age condition in Section 5(iii). Therefore, even under Hindu personal law, Parliament treated the age requirement seriously and attached penal consequences to its breach.

22. The provisions of the Special Marriage Act, 1954 now require consideration. It gives the secular and religion-neutral framework. Section 4 begins with a non-obstante clause and states that, notwithstanding anything contained in any other law relating to the solemnisation of marriages, a marriage between any two persons may be solemnised under the Act only if the conditions listed therein are fulfilled. Clause (c) specifically states that the male must have completed the age of twenty-one years and the female the age of eighteen years. Section 24 then provides that any marriage solemnised under the Act shall be null and void if any of the conditions specified in clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) of Section 4 has not been fulfilled. Thus, under the secular civil framework, the age condition is not merely procedural. It directly affects the validity of the marriage.

23. A conjoint reading of the aforesaid enactments leaves no manner of doubt that, across both personal and secular law, as well as under the special preventive legislation, a uniform legislative policy has been adopted. A male who has not completed twenty-one years of age is not regarded as possessing the requisite legal capacity to enter into a marital relationship, and any union involving such a person falls within the zone of statutory restriction.

24. The position under Muslim personal law also requires notice. Petitioner no.1 belongs to the Muslim community. The petitioners do not claim that they have solemnised a nikah. As per their own case, they are in a live-in relationship outside marriage. Even if some schools of Muslim personal law may recognise marriage on puberty, that concerns marriage and not a live-in arrangement outside marriage. In the present case, the petitioners do not assert a Muslim marriage at all. Therefore, Muslim personal law does not come to their assistance. At the same time, even if a more permissive rule existed in any personal law, the secular statutes presently in force prescribe the higher threshold that this Court is bound to enforce. Thus, what cannot be achieved either as a valid secular marriage or as a pleaded lawful marriage under the applicable personal-law framework cannot be judicially reconstituted as a sanctioned live-in arrangement.

25. The petitioners themselves stated that they are in a live-in relationship because the law does not currently allow them to marry. In this context, the live-in arrangement is being used as an alternative to marriage, which affects the legal character of the case.

26. A live-in relationship involving cohabitation, shared domestic life, emotional and physical intimacy, and mutual dependency is, in practical substance, a relationship in the nature of marriage. If such a relationship is consciously adopted because the law withholds the right to marry until a later age, then a court order protecting its continuance does not remain a bare protection order. It begins to operate as an indirect sanction for a presently impermissible marriage-like arrangement.

27. The doctrine that what cannot be done directly cannot be permitted to be done indirectly applies with full force here. If a court cannot permit the parties to marry because the law withholds that permission until the male completes twenty-one years, the court cannot achieve substantially the same result by treating the functional equivalent of that marriage as entitled to judicial support simply because it is described as a live-in relationship.

28. This position becomes clearer on a proper reading of Section 3 of the 2006 Act. The provision preserves to the child party the right later to avoid the marriage. If, in the meantime, a court permits a male child under the Act to continue in a marriage-like live-in relationship with an adult female, the woman may be exposed to serious legal and social insecurity. She may alter her entire life in reliance on the relationship, while the law still preserves to the male child a later option of repudiation or annulment. A welfare statute cannot be read in a way that increases the vulnerability of the woman while purporting to protect the child male.

29. The argument of parity also deserves consideration. Where a girl is below eighteen years of age, the law does not recognise her □consent□ to enter into a marriage or even a marriage-like relationship. In such cases, even if the relationship is claimed to be consensual, the law treats it as impermissible, and stringent provisions such as those under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences Act, 2012 are attracted. The boy is not exonerated merely on the ground of consent.

30. On the same principle, where a male is below twenty-one years of age and is treated as a □child□ for the purposes of marriage under the statutory framework, the concept of □consent□ cannot be used to bypass the legal restriction. A relationship cannot be permitted merely because it is described as consensual, when the law itself treats one of the parties as lacking the capacity to enter into such a union.

31. The legislative threshold is intended to be protective and controlling, and cannot be applied selectively. What is not permitted in the case of a minor girl on the ground of consent cannot be indirectly permitted in the case of a male child merely because the relationship is described as voluntary cohabitation.

32. The issue of parental intervention also requires careful consideration. It would be too broad to hold that no writ can ever be issued against parents. Where parents resort to threats, violence, illegal confinement, abduction, or any act outside the bounds of law, the Court is bound to restrain such conduct. However, the position cannot be taken to the other extreme. Where the statute itself places responsibility upon parents and guardians to prevent child marriage, the Court cannot pass an order which, in effect, restrains them from taking lawful steps in discharge of that duty.

33. Section 11 of the 2006 Act makes it clear that persons having charge of the child may be held liable for promoting, permitting, or failing to prevent such marriage. Section 13 further empowers the Magistrate to intervene and prevent such marriages through injunctions. These provisions indicate that the law expects active responsibility on the part of parents and guardian family members to take preventive steps, and not remain passive. Accordingly, while parents or family members cannot resort to threats, violence, coercion, or illegal confinement, they cannot be restrained from taking lawful steps such as approaching the police, informing the Child Marriage Prohibition Officer, or initiating proceedings before the competent Magistrate under the statute.

34. It is now necessary to examine the precedents relied upon by the parties.

35. In Nandakumar v. State of Kerala (2018) 16 SCC 602, the Supreme Court, in a habeas corpus proceeding, held that an adult woman cannot be detained or separated from a person of her choice merely because the parties are not competent to marry. The judgment thus restrains unlawful interference with personal liberty. It does not restrain the operation of the statutory framework governing capacity to marry, nor does it require courts to extend protection in a manner that defeats such law.

36. In Lata Singh v. State of U.P. (2006) 5 SCC 475, the Supreme Court held that once a person becomes a major, he or she can marry whosoever he or she likes, and directed protection for major inter-caste or inter-religious couples against threats and violence. That decision is an important affirmation of adult autonomy. But its premise is that the parties are legally competent adults for marriage. It does not answer a case where one party is, by express statutory definition, still a child for marriage purposes. The ratio of Lata Singh cannot be detached from its foundation and applied in disregard of a marriage-specific legal disability created by Parliament.

37. In Shafin Jahan v. Asokan K.M. (2018) 16 SCC 368, the Supreme Court emphasised that the right to choose a partner is integral to Article 21 and that courts must not annul a valid marriage in habeas corpus jurisdiction merely because others disapprove of that choice. That case dealt with an adult woman whose valid marriage had been set aside in habeas corpus proceedings. It stands for autonomy in accordance with law. It does not hold that Article 21 allows courts to disregard statutory conditions of marital capacity or to convert a legally disabled relationship into a sanctioned one. The autonomy recognised there cannot be extended into a power to bypass legislative age thresholds.

38. In Indra Sarma v. V.K.V. Sarma (2013) 15 SCC 755, the Supreme Court accepted that the Protection of Women from Domestic Violence Act can cover a □relationship in the nature of marriage,□ but it also laid down limiting features and made clear that not every cohabitation qualifies. The Court was concerned with identifying a carefully bounded category capable of specific statutory protection. It was not authorising all live-in relationships irrespective of legality. Legal recognition depends upon the relationship being of a kind that law can accept. A relationship that collides with express statutory restrictions cannot automatically be elevated into a protected quasi-marital arrangement.

39. In S. Khushboo v. Kanniammal (2010) 5 SCC 600, the Supreme Court held that living together by adults is not, by itself, an offence and that social morality cannot by itself trigger criminal prosecution. That judgment was directed against moral policing through criminal law. It did not involve the question whether writ jurisdiction may be used to neutralise the scheme of the statutory framework discussed above, where one party remains under a marriage-specific disability.

It therefore cannot be read as authority for the proposition that every live-in arrangement, regardless of its conflict with statutory policy, is entitled to judicial support.

40. The decision of this Court in Smt. Varsha and Another v. State of U.P., Writ-C No. 38648 of 2025, decided on 16.01.2026, may also be noticed. In that case, this Court granted protection to the parties, where the female petitioner was major and the male petitioner had not attained twenty-one years, while expressly recording that it was not adjudicating upon the validity of the relationship. The relief was confined to protection of life and liberty. The judgment does not examine or decide the question of legality or permissibility of such a relationship under the statutory framework, and therefore does not conclude the issue which arises for consideration in the present case.

41. On the other hand, reliance was placed by the learned counsel for the State on Independent Thought v. Union of India (2017) 10 SCC 800, wherein the Supreme Court recognised the serious consequences of child marriage and emphasised that child-protective statutes must be interpreted in a manner that advances their object. The Court took note of the adverse physical, social and psychological effects associated with such early unions and adopted an interpretation that strengthened statutory safeguards for children. In doing so, it did not dilute the legislative restrictions governing child marriage, but affirmed the necessity of strictly enforcing them in order to protect minors.

42. In view of the foregoing discussion, the issue framed is answered in the following terms:

(i) This Court, in exercise of its writ jurisdiction, cannot grant protection to a live-in relationship in a manner that confers legitimacy upon, or facilitates the continuation of, a relationship which, in substance, operates as a substitute for a marriage that is presently impermissible under the statutory framework governing capacity to marry.

(ii) At the same time, the constitutional guarantee under Article 21 must be preserved. Even if such a relationship does not receive legal recognition, the individuals concerned remain entitled to protection against harm, illegal detention, abduction, or coercion.

(iii) It is further held that neither parents, guardians, nor statutory authorities including the Child Marriage Prohibition Officers can be restrained from taking lawful steps in accordance with the Prohibition of Child Marriage Act, 2006 and other applicable laws, provided that such action remains within the bounds of law.

43. Applying the above principles to the facts of the present case, it is evident that petitioner no.2, being below twenty-one years of age, is statutorily classified as a □child□ for the purposes of marriage. The writ petition does not disclose any specific incident, date, time or identifiable act of threat, abduction, detention or coercion attributable to the parents or guardians of the petitioners. No contemporaneous complaint to the police or any competent authority alleging such acts has been placed on record. The pleadings are wholly general and unsupported by particulars. Such vague and omnibus allegations do not warrant the issuance of any general order of restraint against the parents or guardians of the petitioners in exercise of writ jurisdiction.

44. The petitioners are always at liberty to approach the police authorities with a complaint in respect of any specific unlawful acts such as threats, violence, coercion or illegal restraint, whereupon the authorities shall act in an expeditious manner in terms of the Government Order dated 31.08.2019, as noticed in Smt. Samiya and Another v. State of U.P., Writ-C No. 41804 of 2025. However, such protection cannot extend to restraining parents, guardians or statutory authorities from taking lawful steps under the applicable statutory framework.

45. The writ jurisdiction of this Court cannot be invoked to dilute or circumvent the operation of the statute.

46. In view of the above, no case is made out for grant of the reliefs as prayed, and the writ petition is accordingly dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

A. Whether a mining lessee is liable to pay royalty only on the actual quantity of minor mineral excavated by him under Section 15(3) of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957.
B. Whether, where the lessee defaults in payment of royalty, the State is required to exercise its power under Rule 58 of the U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 expeditiously for determination of the mining lease.
C. Whether delay in exercising the power of determination under Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963, without disclosing any bona fide reason, resulting in increase of the lessee's liability, constitutes arbitrary exercise of power under Article 14 of the Constitution.

Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 – ss.4-A, 5(6)(b), 10(2), 13 – Constitution of India – Art.226 – Ceiling proceedings – Determination of irrigated land – Bona fide transfer – Scope of remand – Delay and laches – Petitioner challenged orders declaring surplus land – Contention that authorities treated the same land as irrigated while determining the permissible ceiling area and as unirrigated while declaring surplus land – Further contention that land already transferred by a registered sale deed in favour of bona fide purchasers was illegally included in the petitioner's holding – Prescribed Authority enhanced the surplus area after remand – Appellate authority affirmed the order – Writ petition :

Held: A. Section 15(3) of the Act, 1957 cannot be interpreted in a manner so as to confer benefit upon the lessees for not paying installments where mineral has not been removed or consumed by him. Where the mining lease deed executed in Form MM-6 provides for the quantity of minor mineral to be excavated annually in cubic meters, the highest bid offered by the lessee, and the total amount of installments payable in the first year and subsequent years, which also form the consideration for the contract, the installments would be payable under the terms of the lease. Therefore, the provisions of Section 15(3) of the Act, 1957 cannot be read or interpreted in a manner to confer a benefit on the lessee for not paying the installments where no mineral has been removed or consumed by him. (Paras 42-54)

B. Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 and the lease deed executed in Form MM-6 confers power upon the State Government to determine the lease deed if the conditions enumerated in Rule 58 or under the relevant clause of the lease deed exist. However, neither the Rules, 1963 nor the lease deed permit the lessee to exit from the lease deed if for any reason the lessee is unable to carry out mining operation. In such circumstances, the lessee has no bargaining power to exit from the lease and has no option but to wait till the authority invokes the power under Rule 58 to determine the lease deed. (Paras 55-60)

C. The power of determination of lease deed under Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 is to be exercised immediately without any delay after expiry of the period prescribed in the notice for the benefit of both the State as well as the lessee. Delay in invoking such power without informing or disclosing the reason for delay entails element of arbitrariness on the part of the authority. If there is delay in exercise of such power, the authority must inform or disclose the reason for delay so that it can be ascertained whether the delay is bona fide or malicious. If it is found that the action of the authority in not invoking power within the period prescribed in Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 is malicious, the delay in invoking such power to determine the lease is nothing but an abuse of power and falls within the ambit of arbitrary action, as the delay causes significant injury to the lessee. (Paras 61-84)

D. P*etitioner was allowed to carry on mining operation and no hindrance was created by the respondents.* All the three survey reports falsify the claim of the petitioner that he did not have the entire area of mining operation. The submission of successive applications for survey reflects the malafide intention of the petitioner to set up a story to wriggle out of his liability to pay royalty and was only a Peshbandi to wriggle out of such liability. The contention that mining operations could not be conducted by the petitioner for reasons beyond his control and that he was not liable to pay royalty for the minerals not excavated was rejected. In the present case, the respondents do not disclose the reason for not invoking powers under Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 immediately after expiry of the period given in the demand notices. Non-disclosure of reason for delay in not determining the lease of the petitioner would definitely be an arbitrary exercise of power and is against the spirit of the Rules, 1963. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be forced to pay installments demanded by the respondents which he otherwise would not have been liable to pay if the respondent-authority had acted promptly and invoked Rule 58 immediately after default. Consequently, recovery of the installments due on 01.07.2019 and 01.10.2019 was held to be unjustified. (Paras 42-84) (E-5)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saral Srivastava, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Kartikey Saran, learned Additional Advocate General assisted by Sri Rajeshwar Tripathi, learned Chief Standing Counsel-II for the State-respondents.

2. In Writ-C No.18896 of 2019, the petitioner has assailed the show cause notice dated 24.04.2019 and notice dated 21.05.2019 issued by District Magistrate, District Fatehpur seeking recovery of Rs.7,74,18,000/- of second and third installment towards royalty due on 01.01.2019 and 01.04.2019.

3. The petitioner in Writ-C No.3056 of 2020 has assailed the order dated 01.01.2020 passed by the District Magistrate, Fatehpur by which the mining lease of the petitioner has been determined and petitioner□s firm has been blacklisted for two years.

4. For convenience, the facts have been delineated from Writ-C No.3056 of 2020.

5. The facts, in brief, are that a lease deed was executed on 29.11.2018 and registered on 30.11.2018 for a period commencing from 29.11.2018 to 28.11.2023 for mining sand/moram with regard to the area known as Khand No.K-4, Gata No.391 Mi, measuring 40.48 hectares situated in Village Korrakanak, Tehsil and District Fatehpur at a price of Rs.255/- per cubic meter. The petitioner before execution of lease deed deposited Rs.3,87,09,000/- towards security and an equal amount as first installment of royalty.

6. According to the petitioner, after commencement of mining operation, the District President of Bhartiya Janta Party (BJP) filed a complaint against the petitioner for illegal mining. The District Magistrate taking cognizance of the said complaint, sent a team of SDM, Fatehpur alongwith the team of Revenue Officers to inspect the mining area of the petitioner.

7. The District Magistrate, thereafter, submitted a report on 31.12.2018 to the Principal Secretary, Geology and Mining, U.P., stating therein that no illegal mining activity was found in the petitioner□s area. The State Government also constituted a team which conducted spot inspection and found no illegal mining operation.

8. The petitioner states that he on 08.02.2019 submitted an application before the District Magistrate, Fatehpur stating therein that since most part of land allotted to the petitioner had submerged in the water, and in the remaining area on excavation upto one meter, water comes out due to which mining operation is arduous, therefore, the quantity of mineral be reduced accordingly.

9. It is stated that pursuant to the application of petitioner, a survey by Regional Office, Prayagraj on 06.03.2019 was conducted. As per survey report, some area of the petitioner was across the river towards boundary of District Banda.

10. The petitioner, thereafter, again on 11.03.2019 submitted an application to the District Magistrate, Fatehpur on the basis of survey report dated 11.03.2019 requesting him to get the mining area re-surveyed and demarcated again. It is stated that the District Magistrate, Fatehpur in pursuance to the petitioner□s letter dated 11.03.2019 sent a letter dated 14.03.2019 to the District Magistrate, Banda to appoint a team of competent authorities of district Banda for demarcation of the area.

11. Thereafter, an inspection was conducted by the team of Naib Tehsildar, Fatehpur, District Mines Officer, Fatehpur and Surveyor, Regional Office, Prayagraj, Lekhpal Revenue Inspector etc. who submitted a report dated 02.04.2019. However, the revenue team of District Banda was not present on the spot at the time of inspection on 02.04.2019.

12. It transpires that the petitioner did not deposit the second and third installment of royalty of first year amounting to Rs.7,74,18,000/- which led the District Magistrate, Fatehpur to issue a notice dated 12.04.2019 asking the petitioner to deposit the second and third installment otherwise the same shall be recovered as arrears of land revenue.

13. In the meantime, the District Magistrate, Fatehpur wrote a letter dated 20.04.2019 to the District Magistrate, Banda again requesting him to constitute a team for demarcating the mining area allotted to the petitioner.

14. The petitioner, thereafter, submitted his reply dated 25.04.2019 to the notice dated 12.04.2019 stating therein that he had not been given the entire mining area allotted to him and requested the District Magistrate, Fatehpur to either return the amount deposited by him or to give possession of the entire area allotted to him.

15. The petitioner was again issued a demand notice dated 24.04.2019 asking the petitioner to deposit second and third installment. The petitioner, thereafter, challenged the notice dated 24.04.2019 in Writ-C No.18896 of 2019.

16. The petitioner further stated that Director, Geology and Mining, Lucknow vide order dated 25.04.2019 directed for demarcation and resurvey of the mining areas known as K-3 and K-4. As per petitioner's case, it was found in the resurvey and demarcation of land done from 08.05.2019 to 10.05.2019 that some part of the area was on the other side of the river.

17. Further it is the case of the petitioner that petitioner while constructing the approach road near the border of District Banda for transporting mineral from other side of the river was stopped from carrying out mining by the S.D.M., Sadar, Banda on the orders of Commissioner, Chitrakoot Dham, Banda which were passed on a complaint of one Sri Rakesh Tiwari, Proprietor of M/s Radhika Construction, Indira Nagar, Banda. The order of Commissioner, Chitrakoot Dham Banda also states that unless a joint team of high level officers inspects and demarcates the disputed area in village Jauharpur, no mining work should be done.

18. The petitioner also states that if respondents were satisfied that the petitioner had defaulted in paying the due installments, the District Magistrate should have determined the mining lease under Rule 58 (1) of U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as □Rules, 1963□) expeditiously, but instead the District Magistrate, Fatehpur issued another show cause notice dated 21.05.2019 to the petitioner to explain why due installments mentioned in the notice dated 12.04.2019 and 24.04.2019 have not been paid.

19. In the said notice, the District Magistrate, Fatehpur also called upon the petitioner to show cause as to why action for illegal mining be not taken against him.

20. It transpires that the District Magistrate, Fatehpur again vide notice/order dated 25.07.2019 directed the petitioner to pay Rs.14,10,300/- as an amount of illegal mining and Rs.7,74,18,000/- alongwith interest of second and third installment.

21. The petitioner in paragraph nos.32 and 33 of the writ petition has given the details of mining done by him and royalty paid. The petitioner was served upon another notice dated 09.12.2019 asking him to deposit the due installments, and in the event of failure to make the deposit, the proceeding for termination of lease deed shall be undertaken. Thereafter, the District

Magistrate passed an order dated 01.01.2020 determining the lease of the petitioner and blacklisting the firm of petitioner for two years.

22. A counter affidavit has been filed by the respondent-State denying the averments made in the writ petition. It is stated that petitioner was continuously doing mining work but was not depositing the due installments despite repeated notices. Thus, the petitioner had deliberately caused loss of revenue to the State by blocking the leased mining area and has also caused obstruction in proper supply of sand/moram to the general public.

23. It is further stated that one, Anand Shekhar Singh has challenged the recovery certificate dated 13.10.2020 in Writ Petition No.10943 of 2021 which was dismissed by this Court by judgement and order dated 10.08.2021.

24. The respondent also stated that the petitioner was doing mining work and was satisfied by the demarcation report and had deposited Rs.50 lacs on 17.10.2019, which had been adjusted in the fourth installment due on 01.07.2019. It is further stated that after giving notice to the petitioner, the order dated 03.01.2020 terminating the lease of the petitioner has been passed in a just and fair manner.

25. It is also stated that the advertisement dated 17.02.2018 was published in furtherance of the Government Order dated 14.08.2017 which provides that the candidate before participating in E-Tender-cum-E-Auction should inspect the proposed mining area and be satisfied about the quantity of available mineral and the way for transportation.

26. Further, the case of the respondents is that the mining area was available to the petitioner and the petitioner did mining work up to 23.05.2019 and excavated 39329 cubic meters of moram. The respondent also stated that petitioner in his application dated 19.04.2019 informed that mining work could not be done upon the leased area whereas as per E-MM-11 Portal, the petitioner excavated 22448 cubic meter sand/moram in the month of December, 2018, 11059 cubic meter in the month of January, 2019, 3687 cubic meter in the month of February, 2019, 936 cubic meter in the month of March, 2019, 170 cubic meter in the month of April, 2019 and 1039 cubic meter in the month of May, 2019.

27. The respondent stated that on 06.03.2019, on 02.04.2019 and again on 13.05.2019, the petitioner was informed by the team of Directorate regarding demarcation of his leased area, and he was satisfied with the same. The survey report shows that the area of village Kurra Kanak and boundaries of village Jauharpur were not overlapping each other. The petitioner was found involved in doing illegal mining/transportation of mineral due to which, the State suffered loss of revenue to the tune of Rs.14,10,300/-, which was the cost of mineral excavated by illegal mining.

28. Since the petitioner did not deposit the due installments, therefore, for non-payment of due installments, illegal mining and for violating the conditions of lease and Rules, 1963, the lease of the petitioner was determined under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 and recovery certificate was directed to be issued against the petitioner and petitioner was blacklisted for two years vide order dated 03.01.2020 in a just, fair and legal manner.

29. Rejoinder affidavit has been filed by the petitioner denying the averments made in the counter affidavit. It is stated that filing of Writ Petition No.10943 of 2021 by Anand Shekhar Singh has no effect on the present petition challenging the order dated 03.01.2020 passed by the respondent no.3.

30. Learned counsel for the petitioner has contended that Section 15(3) of the U.P. Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 1957") provides for payment of royalty of the actual quantity of mineral, which has been excavated by the lessee. He submits that condition no.1 of Part-II of the lease deed also stipulates that the lessee is liable to pay royalty only for the quantity of sand/moram removed by him.

31. It is submitted that the petitioner has given the details of quantity excavated by him in paragraph no.32 of the writ petition and the amount of royalty paid by him in respect to the said quantity in paragraph no.33 of the writ petition, and since the petitioner has already paid the royalty of the mineral removed by him, therefore, the petitioner cannot be saddled with any further liability to pay the royalty with respect to the minerals not removed by him. Accordingly, it is submitted that the impugned recovery is illegal and without jurisdiction.

32. It is also submitted that the averments contained in the writ petition and materials enclosed in support thereof clearly establishes that the mining operation on the area allotted to the petitioner was impossible inasmuch as the river had changed it's course due to which certain area allotted to the petitioner fell in the area of adjoining village Jauharpur in District Banda, and obstructions were created by the authorities of District Banda in carrying out the mining operation by the petitioner.

33. Accordingly, it is submitted that in view of the aforesaid fact, the petitioner cannot be faulted for not carrying out any mining operation, and thus, no recovery of royalty can be made from the petitioner by the respondents for the mineral, which has not been excavated or removed by him.

34. It is lastly urged that Rule 58 (1) of the Rules, 1963 confers power upon the authority to determine the lease deed in case lessee does not deposit the lease rent or any amount due. It is contended that if, for any reason, petitioner did not deposit the installments on the due date, and 30 days notice given to the petitioner to pay due installments has elapsed and the petitioner did not deposit the said installment, the respondents should have immediately invoked power under Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 and should have determined the lease deed of the petitioner instead of protracting the proceeding to determine the lease resulting in increasing the liability of petitioner manifold. In other words, it is urged that Rule 58(1) of the Rules, 1963 does not give discretion to the District Magistrate, Fatehpur not to cancel the lease if the due quarterly installment is not paid .

35. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents would contend that so far as the first contention of learned counsel for the petitioner with regard to Section 15(3) of the Act, 1957 is concerned, the said controversy is covered by the judgement of this Court in the case of M/S Sharad Enterprises Vs. State Of U.P. And 4 Others passed in Writ-C No.14386 of 2019.

36. He submits that on the request of petitioner, the survey of the area was done and survey report was prepared. He submits that it is evident from the survey report dated 13.05.2019 that there was no overlapping of the boundaries of village Kurra Kanak and village Jauharpur. Accordingly, it is contended that the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner was not given the entire area is incorrect.

37. He further submits that the river changes its course during the rainy season and not during winter season, therefore, the case set up by the petitioner that due to the change of course of river, certain area of the petitioner fell in District Banda is fallacious and has been set up only to avoid the liability to pay the royalty.

38. He further submits that the order of the Commissioner, Banda dated 14.05.2019 discloses that the Commissioner, Banda had directed the District Magistrate, Banda to stop illegal mining activity in village Jauharpur, and since the area allotted to the petitioner fell in village Kurra Kanak, District Fatehpur, therefore, he was not affected by the order dated 14.05.2019 passed by the Commissioner, Banda.

39. He further submits that it is evident from the letter of the petitioner dated 20.05.2019, appearing on page 86 of the paper book that the petitioner has not disputed the demarcation report dated 13.05.2019 appearing on page-76 of the paper book which categorically states that there is no overlapping of boundary of village Kurra Kanak and village Jauharpur, and some private persons are interfering in carrying out mining activity. It is pointed out by learned Additional Advocate General that the representation of the petitioner dated 20.05.2019 does not state that some area of land allotted to the petitioner falls in District Banda, therefore, the narration set up by the petitioner that he could not do any mining activity for the reason that some area of petitioner fell in District Banda is incorrect and false.

40. Lastly, he submits that the petitioner is liable to pay the installments due till the lease of the petitioner is terminated in accordance with law. Therefore, neither the recovery notices issued to the petitioner are illegal nor the order determining the lease deed of the petitioner is illegal. Accordingly, he submits that the contentions advanced by the learned counsel for the petitioner are misconceived, and the writ petition deserves to be dismissed.

41. We have considered the rival submission advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

42. The similar contention as raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner based on Section 15(3) of the Act, 1957 in the present case that petitioner is liable to pay royalty only to the actual quantity of mineral excavated by him has been repelled by this Court in the case of M/s Sharad Enterprises Vs. State of U.P. and Others passed in Writ-C No.14386 of 2019. Paragraph nos.92 and 93 of the said judgement are reproduced herein below:-

"92. If the interpretation of Section 15(3) put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner is liable to pay royalty for the quantity of mineral consumed by the petitioner is accepted, that would lead to absurdity since it could never be the intention of the legislature, further such interpretation would render the other provision of Rules, 1963 and the terms and condition of the lease deed which is in Form MM6 as per Rule 29 of Rules, 1963 redundant.

93. The Division Bench of this Court in paragraph no.38 of the judgement in the case Raj Pratap Yadav Vs. State of U.P. and Others passed in Writ-C No.28087 of 2023 has held that Section 15(3) of the MMDR Act cannot be interpreted in a manner so as to confer benefit upon the lessees for not paying installments where mineral has not been removed or consumed by him. Paragraph no.38 of the said judgement is reproduced herein below:

"38. In the backdrop of the aforesaid discussion, in a case of auction lease that is covered by Chapter IV of the Rules, 2021, to say that while considering an application of surrender of mining lease,'royalty' would be payable only to the extent of the mineral removed or consumed, would not be appropriate. Doubtless, where there occurs violation of the terms and conditions of the mining lease which is not promptly attended to by the lessee, the authorities are required to take steps without delay for termination of the lease in the interest of all concerned. But where the mining lease deed executed in Form MM-6 or in similar format under the Rules made under the provisions of Section 15 (1) and (1-A) of the Act, 1957 provides for the quantity of minor mineral to be excavated annually in cubic meters, and the highest bid offered by the lessee, and the total amount of instalments payable in the first year and subsequent years, which also form the consideration for the contract, then the instalments would be payable under the terms of the lease. Therefore, the provisions of Section 15 (3) of the Act, 1957 cannot be read or interpreted in a manner to confer a benefit on the lessee for not paying the installments where no mineral has been removed or consumed by him. Thus, to this extent, the judgment of this court in Vipul Tyagi when read in the light of the judgment of the Supreme Court in D.K. Trivedi, the provisions of the Act 1957, and of the Rules of the State Government framed under the powers delegated by the Act 1957, would not operate as a binding precedent."

43. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that material on record establishes that because of change in the course of river, it was impossible to carry out any mining operation is concerned, we find that the said contention also lacks merit. The reason for our aforesaid view is delineated below.

44. According to petitioner's case, after commencement of mining operation, the District President of Bhartiya Janata Party (BJP) filed a complaint of illegal mining against the petitioner. The District Magistrate acting upon the said complaint sent a team of SDM, Fatehpur alongwith the team of revenue officers to inspect the mining area of the petitioner. Thereafter, they submitted a report to the Principal Secretary, Geology and Mining, U.P. stating therein that no illegal mining activity was found in the petitioner's area.

45. The record further reflects that the petitioner was allowed to carry on mining operation and no hindrance was created by the respondents.

46. It transpires from the record that for the reason best known to the petitioner, he submitted an application dated 08.02.2019 before the District Magistrate, Fatehpur stating that most part of the land allotted to the petitioner has submerged in water, and on excavation upto one meter on the available area for mining, water comes out due to which mining operation is difficult. Accordingly, he prayed that quantity of mineral be reduced accordingly.

47. On the application of petitioner, a survey by the Regional Office, Prayagraj was conducted on 06.03.2019. As per Geo-Coordinates, Point-C and Point-D is abutting the boundary of District Banda. The inspection report of Regional Office, Prayagraj is reproduced herein below:-

1. जनपद फतेहपुर के ग्राम कुर्रा कनक गाटा सं0 391 मि०, खण्ड सं0-4 रकबा 40.48 हे० क्षेत्र मे० जयशक्ति रियल कॉन प्रा०लि० प्रो०/पार्टनर/निदेशक, श्री शिव प्रताप सिंह चन्देल पुत्र श्री कल्लू सिंह नि0. 20 ए, गौतमनगर, सहर कोतवाली फतेहपुर एवं ग्राम कुर्राकनक के गाटा सं0. 383 मि0, 391 खण्ड सं0 3, रकबा 40.48 हे0 क्षेत्र मे0 डिग्जियाना माइनिंग कारपोरेशन प्रा० लि० निदेशक, श्री सुखदेव सिंह धुम्मन सिंह पुत्र श्री सुच्चा सिंह नि0 233-विशनूपुरी एनेक्स, इन्दौर, म०प्र० के पक्ष में 5 वर्ष की अवधि हेतु स्वीकृत/निष्पादित है। प्रश्नगत दोनो खनन पट्टा क्षेत्रों का सीमांकन क्षेत्रीय लेखपाल द्वारा बताये गये संदर्भ बिन्दु जो ग्राम कुर्राकनक एहतमाली के गाटा सं० 376 के उत्तरी पूर्वी एवं दक्षिणी पूर्वी के मेड़ों के मिलन बिन्दु है, को संदर्भ बिन्दु मानकर जनपद फतेहपुर के तरफ से सीमांकन कार्य किया गया। संयुक्त सीमांकन में यह पाया गया कि यमुना नदी की

50. The report also states that the leaseholders have been told about the boundary pillar of the leased area after marking the same.

51. Despite the fact that several surveys had been conducted on the request of the petitioner, and the survey report indicates that there was no overlapping of the boundaries of Village Kurra Kanak and Village Jauharpur, and there is no reduction of mining area allotted to the petitioner, the petitioner again wrote a letter to the District Magistrate, Fatehpur stating that some part of the area allotted to the petitioner in Village Kurra Kanak fell on the other side of the river and some persons of Jauharpur Khand nos.3 & 4 who did not have any lease were interfering with the mining operation of the petitioner as they were not accepting three survey reports and had stopped the mining operation of the petitioner. Accordingly, petitioner prayed that some assistance may be provided so that petitioner could carry out mining operation uninterruptedly.

52. The three surveys had been conducted on the request of the petitioner. All three reports extracted above clearly falsify the claim of the petitioner that he did not have the entire area of mining operation. The submission of successive applications by the petitioner for the survey of allotted area reflects the malafide intention of the petitioner to set up a story to wriggle out of his liability to pay royalty under the lease deed for the minerals auctioned to him.

53. For reasons stated above, we are of the view that the entire story set up by the petitioner by filing several applications to demonstrate his difficulty in carrying out mining operation was only a Peshbandi to wriggle out of his liability to pay royalty.

54. We do not find from the record that the respondents at any time obstructed or created hindrance in carrying out the mining operations by the petitioner, therefore, we reject the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that mining operations could not be conducted by the petitioner for the reasons beyond his control, therefore, petitioner is not liable to pay royalty for the minerals, which have not been excavated by him.

55. Now, coming to the last submission of learned counsel for the petitioner that if the petitioner had not been able to pay royalty for whatever reason, then the respondents were under obligation to invoke powers under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 expeditiously and determine the lease deed of the petitioner.

56. To appreciate the said argument, it would be useful to have a glance at Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 which is being reproduced herein below:-

"58. Consequences of non-payment of royalty, rent or other dues.-(1) The State Government or any officer authorised by it in this behalf may determine the mining lease after serving a notice on the lessee to pay within thirty days of the receipt of the notice any amount due or dead rent under the lease including the royalty due to the State Government if it was not paid within fifteen days next after the date of fixed for such payment. This right shall be in addition to and without prejudice to the right of the State Government to realise such dues from the lessee as arrears of land revenue.

(2) Without prejudice to the provisions of these rules, simple interest at the rate of 18 percent per annum may be charged on any rent, royalty, demarcation fee and any other dues under these rules, due to the State Government after the expiry of the period of the notice under sub-rule (1)."

57. Part-3 of General Conditions of the lease deed also stipulates that if there is any violation of Rules, 1963 or breach of terms and conditions of the lease deed, the State Government can determine the lease. Part-3 of the General Condition of the lease deed is reproduced herein below:-

1. नियमों, प्रसंविदाओं और शर्तों को भंग करने पर पट्टा समाप्त किया जा सकता है:: यदि पट्टेदार उत्तर प्रदेश उप खनिज (परिहार) नियमावली 1963 के किसी नियम या इस पट्टे की किसी प्रसंविदा तथा किसी शर्त को भंग करें तो राज्य सरकार पट्टा समाप्त कर सकती है और प्रतिभूति जमा को पूर्णतः या अंशतः जब्त कर सकती है किन्तु प्रतिबन्ध यह है कि पट्टा समाप्त किये जाने के पूर्व पट्टेदार को उन्हें भंग करने का स्पष्टीकरण देने के लिए यथोचित अवसर दिया जायेगा।"

58. Form MM-6 is Model Form of Auction Lease for Mining. As per Rule 29, the lease deed is to be executed in Form MM-6 which is titled as 'Model Form of Auction for Mining', therefore, the lease deed is a statutory lease deed.

59. Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 and the lease deed executed in Form MM-6 confers power upon the State Government to determine the lease deed if, the conditions enumerated in Rule 58 or under relevant clause of lease deed providing determination of lease deed exist. However, neither Rules, 1963 nor lease deed permit the lessee to exit from the lease deed if for any reason, the lessee is unable to carry out mining operation. To this extent, Rules 1963 as well as lease deed are lopsided inasmuch as on the one hand Rules, 1963 as well as lease deed permit the State Government to determine the lease deed, but on the other hand, the lessee has no recourse to exit from the lease deed.

60. In such circumstances, the lessee has no bargaining power to exit from the lease even if he is not able to do mining and his liability to pay royalty soars. The lessee has no option but to succumb to the terms and conditions of the lease deed and has to wait till the authority invokes power under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 to determine the lease deed.

61. One of the party to the lease deed is the State. It is trite law that the action of the State must be in conformity with the object enshrined in Article 14 of the Constitution of India which means that the action of the State must be free from malice, arbitrariness and discrimination.

62. In the present case, State under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 as well as under the lease deed has power to terminate the lease deed if the conditions enumerated in Rule 58 or conditions set out in the relevant clause under the lease deed on which lease can be terminated are present. If the State does not act in the spirit of Rule 58 or clause of the lease deed providing termination of lease deed, and because of inaction of the State, the liability of the lessee soars manifold, whether in such circumstances the inaction of the State in invoking Rule 58(1) to determine the lease falls within the ambit of arbitrary action of State is a question which arise for determination in the instant case.

63. To appreciate as to when an action is said to be an arbitrary action, it would be useful to have a glance at a few judgements of the Apex Court defining when the action of the State is termed as arbitrary action. The Apex Court in the case of Kumari Shrilekha Vidyarthi and Others Vs. State of U.P. and Others, (1991) 1 SCC 212 has eloquently explained as to what constitute arbitrariness. Paragraph nos.35 & 36 of the said judgement are reproduced herein-below:-

"35. It is now too well settled that every State action, in order to survive, must not be susceptible to the vice of arbitrariness which is the crux of Article 14 of the Constitution and basic to the rule of law, the system which governs us. Arbitrariness is the very negation of the rule of law. Satisfaction of this basic test in every State action is sine qua non to its validity and in this respect, the State cannot claim comparison with a private individual even in the field of contract. This distinction between the State and a private individual in the field of contract has to be borne in the mind.

36. The meaning and true import of arbitrariness is more easily visualized than precisely stated or defined. The question, whether an impugned act is arbitrary or not, is ultimately to be answered on the facts and in the circumstances of a given case. An obvious test to apply is to see whether there is any discernible principle emerging from the impugned act and if so, does it satisfy the test of reasonableness. Where a mode is prescribed for doing an act and there is no impediment in following that procedure, performance of the act otherwise and in a manner which does not disclose any discernible principle which is reasonable, may itself attract the vice of arbitrariness. Every State action must be informed by reason and it follows that an act uninformed by reason, is arbitrary. Rule of law contemplates governance by laws and not by humour, whims or caprices of the men to whom the governance is entrusted for the time being. It is trite that □be you ever so high, the laws are above you'. This is what men in power must remember, always."

64. The Apex Court in paragraph 21 of the judgement in the case of Verigamto Naveen Vs. Govt. of A.P. and Others, (2001) 8 SCC 344 has held as under:

"21. On the question that the relief as sought for and granted by the High Court arises purely in the contractual field and, therefore, the High Court ought not to have exercised its power under Article 226 of the Constitution placed very heavy reliance on the decision of the Andhra Pradesh High Court in Y.S.Raja Reddy v. A.P. Mining Corpn. Ltd., 1988(2) ALT 722, and the decisions of this Court in Harshankar v. Dy. Excise & Taxation Commissioner (1975) 1 SCC 3737, Radhakrishna Agarwal v. State of Bihar, (1977) 3 SCC 457, Ram Lal & Sons v. State of Rajasthan (1976) 1 SCC 112, Shiv Shankar Dal Mills v. State of Haryana (1980) 2 SCC 437, Ramana Dayaram Shetty v. International Airport of India (1979) 3 SCC 489 and Basheshar Nath v. CIT AIR 1959 SC 149. Though there is one set of cases rendered by this Court of the type arising in Radhakrishna Agarwals case, much water has flown in the stream of judicial review in contractual field. In cases where the decision-making authority exceeded its statutory power or committed breach of rules or principles of natural justice in exercise of such power or its decision is perverse or passed an irrational order, this Court has interceded even after the contract was entered into between the parties and the Government and its agencies. We may advert to three decisions of this Court in Dwarkadas Marfatia & Sons v. Board of Trustees of the Port of Bombay, (1989) 3 SCC 293,Mahabir Auto Stores v. Indian Oil Corpon. (1990) 3 SCC 752 and Shrilekha Vidyarthi (Kumari) v. State of U.P. (1991)1 SC 212. Where the breach of contract involves breach of statutory obligation when the order complained of was made in exercise of statutory power by a statutory authority, though cause of action arises out of or pertains to contract, brings it within the sphere of public law because the power exercised is apart from contract. The freedom of the Government to enter into business with anybody it likes is subject to the condition of reasonableness and fair play as well as public interest. After entering into a contract, in cancelling the contract which is subject to terms of the statutory provisions, as in the present case, it cannot be said that the matter falls purely in a contractual field. Therefore, we do not think it would be appropriate to suggest that the case on hand is a matter arising purely out of a contract and, therefore, interference under Article 226 of the Constitution is not called for. This contention also stands rejected."

65. The Apex Court in the case of M.P. Power Management Company Limited, Jabalpur Vs. SKY Power Southeast Solar India Private Limited and Others (2023) 2 SCC 703 after referring to the judgement of East Coast Railway Vs. Mahadev Appa Rao (2010) 7 SCC 678 in paragraph no.74 of the judgement has held in paragraph no.75 that if an action lacks good faith and is actuated with an oblique motive, it could be characterized as being arbitrary. Paragraph nos.74 & 75 of the said judgement are being reproduced herein below:-

"74. We may notice that as to what constitutes arbitrariness fell for consideration by this Court in a case which involved cancellation of the examination held as part of a recruitment process, in East Coast Railway v. Mahadev Appa Roa (2010) 7 SCC 678. We notice the following passages which are apposite for this case: (SCC pp.685-87, paras 19-20 & 23)

"19. Black's Law Dictionary describes the term □arbitrary□ in the following words:

"arbitrary. adj.-1. Depending on individual discretion; specif., determined by a Judge rather than by fixed rules, procedures, or law.

2. (Of a judicial decision) founded on prejudice or preference rather than on reason or fact. This type of decision is often termed arbitrary and capricious."

20. To the same effect is the meaning given to the expression "arbitrary" by Corpus Juris Secundum which explains the term in the following words:

"Arbitrary."Based alone upon one's will, and not upon any course of reasoning and exercise of judgment; bound by no law; capricious; exercised according to one's own will or caprice and therefore conveying a notion of a tendency to abuse possession of power; fixed or done capriciously or at pleasure, without adequate determining principle, non-rational, or not done or acting according to reason or judgment; not based upon actuality but beyond a reasonable extent; not founded in the nature of things; not governed by any fixed rules or standard; also, in a somewhat different sense, absolute in power, despotic, or tyrannical; harsh and unforbearing. When applied to acts, "arbitrary" has been held to connote a disregard of evidence or of the proper weight thereof; to express an idea opposed to administrative, executive, judicial, or legislative discretion; and to imply at least an element of bad faith, and has been compared with "willful."

23. Arbitrariness in the making of an order by an authority can manifest itself in different forms. Non-application of mind by the authority making the order is only one of them. Every order passed by a public authority must disclose due and proper application of mind by the person making the order. This may be evident from the order itself or the record contemporaneously maintained. Application of mind is best demonstrated by disclosure of mind by the authority making the order. And disclosure is best done by recording the reasons that led the authority to pass the order in question. Absence of reasons either in the order passed by the authority or in the record contemporaneously maintained is clearly suggestive of the order being arbitrary hence legally unsustainable."

75. We would, therefore, sum up as to when an act is to be treated as arbitrary. The Court must carefully attend to the facts and the circumstances of the case. It should find out whether the impugned decision is based on any principle. If not, it may unerringly point to arbitrariness. If the act betrays caprice or the mere exhibition of the whim of the authority it would sufficiently bear the insignia of arbitrariness. In this regard supporting an order with a rationale which in the circumstances is found to be reasonable will go a long way to repel a challenge to State action. No doubt the reasons need not in every case be part of the order as such. If there is absence of good faith and the action is actuated with an oblique motive, it could be characterised as being arbitrary. A total non-application of mind without due regard to the rights of the parties and public interest may be a clear indicator of arbitrary action. A wholly unreasonable decision which is little different from a perverse decision under the Wednesbury doctrine would qualify as an arbitrary decision under Article 14. Ordinarily visiting a party with the consequences of its breach under a contract may not be an arbitrary decision."

66. From the aforesaid judgements defining what constitutes arbitrary action, it can be culled out that an arbitrary exercise of power is the use of authority based on personal whims, caprice or irrationality rather than established laws, fairness or reason. In other words, the arbitrary power refers to unjustified power by the authority without limits leading to oppressive action against the individuals or groups.

67. Another facet of arbitrariness is that if a statute confers power upon an authority with a purpose to achieve the object of the Act and prescribes the manner and time frame within which such power is to be exercised and there is no legal impediment in following the manner and time frame prescribed in the statute for performance such act, then delay in performance of such act without disclosing any bonafide and plausible reason causing injury to an individual or groups may itself attract the vice of arbitrariness.

68. Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 authorises the State Government or any Officer authorised by it in this behalf to determine the mining lease after serving a notice on the lessee to pay within thirty days of receipt of notice any amount due under the lease including the royalty due to the State Government, if it was not paid within fifteen days next after the date fixed for such payment.

69. In our view, the power of determination of lease deed under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 is to be exercised immediately without any delay after the expiry of fifteen days period after the date fixed for such payment in the notice for the benefit of both the State as well as lessee. As after determination of lease deed, the State may re-auction as per procedure contemplated under the Act, 1957 and Rules, 1963 the land allotted to the petitioner so that it may not suffer any loss of revenue and at the same time the liability of the lessee to pay royalty under the lease deed may not soar manifold.

70. We may at the cost of repetition state that the lessee neither under Rules, 1963 nor under the lease deed is allowed to determine the lease deed, therefore, it is expected of the authority to act expeditiously in the spirit of Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 for determining the lease if the conditions enumerated under Rule 58 (1) of Rules, 1963 are present for determining the lease deed. The inaction or delay on the part of the authority in not invoking power under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 despite existence of conditions contemplated under such rule to invoke power of determination of lease deed results in causing serious prejudice to the lessee as on the one hand, he cannot exit from the lease deed, and on the other hand, his liability continues to soar for no fault of his. Therefore, delay in invoking power under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 to determine lease without informing or disclosing reason for delay in exercise of such power entails element of arbitrariness on the part of authority.

71. Therefore, if there is delay in exercise of such power, the authority must inform or disclose the reason for delay in invoking such power so that it can be ascertained whether the delay in exercising such power is bonafide or it is malicious. If it is found that the action of the authority in not invoking power within the period prescribed in Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 is malicious, the delay in invoking such power to determine the lease is nothing but an abuse of power and falls within the ambit of arbitrary action as the delay in exercise of such power causes significant injury to the lessee. Therefore, the action of the State in determining the lease deed must conform to spirit of Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 and should not reflect malice.

72. Now, we turn to find out whether in the instant case, delayed action of the State in determining the lease of petitioner amounts to an arbitrary exercise of power by the authority.

73. The petitioner's specific case in paragraph no.26 is that if the authorities were satisfied that there was no reason for the petitioner for not paying due installments, the District Magistrate should have immediately determined the lease. Similar averment has been made by the petitioner in paragraph no.41 of the writ petition. Paragrpah nos.26 & 41 of the writ petition are being reproduced herein below:-

"26. That instead of taking any action under rule 58(1) of the 1963 Rules, the respondents, if they were satisfied that there was no reason for not paying the due installments, the District Magistrate should have determined the mining lease, but surprisingly the District Magistrate, issued another show-cause notice dated 21.05.2019 to show-cause as to why the due installments mentioned in the notices dated 12.04.2019 and 24.04.2019 have not been paid and in the said notice frivolous allegations of illegal mining, without any notice or opportunity was also made. The said notice dated 21.05.2019 is also under challenge in the aforesaid Writ-C No.18896 of 2019.

41. That rule 58(1) of the 1963 Rules, does not give discretion to the District Magistrate, Fatehpur, not to cancel a lease if the due quarterly installment is not paid. The lease should be cancelled after 30 days notice, but in the present case the respondents kept the matter pending, without taking any decision either on the applications of the petitioner, survey reports or on the notices issued to the petitioner, with the sole purpose of illegally fastening the liability of payment of installments of lease amount, even though they had stopped all mining operations."

74. The respondent has replied the para no.26 & para 41 of the writ petition in paragrpah nos.26 & 38 of the counter affidavit, which are being reproduced herein below:-

"26. That the contents of Paragraph No.26 of the writ petition are not admitted as stated hence denied. In reply it is submitted here that the power to determine the lease is in addition to the power of recovery of the due amount as per the arrears of land revenue and further the petitioner was continuously doing mining work and the area of the petitioner was demarcated on 06.03.2019 and 02.04.2019, 08.05.2019 to 10.05.2019 by the team of Directorate and the petitioner was satisfied with the aforesaid demarcation reports and even after doing the mining work, the petitioner was not depositing the due installments and as such notice dated 21.05.2019 was given to him in accordance with law.

38. That the contents of Paragraph No.41, 42 and 43 of the writ petition are not admitted as stated hence denied. In reply it is submitted here that the petitioner was continuously doing mining work and was not depositing the installments and as such notices were issued to him for depositing the aforesaid amount and the petitioner had deposited a part of due installment to the tune of Rs.50,00,000/- on 17.10.2019 and as such after giving final notice dated 10.12.2019, the lease of the petitioner was determined and recovery citation was directed to be issued and the petitioner was blacklisted for 2 years. At the cost of repetition, it is submitted here that the power to determine the lease is in addition to the power of recovery of the due amount as arrears of land revenue."

75. In the paragraph, extracted above, the respondent has not disclosed the reason for the delay in invoking powers under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 and under the lease deed after the petitioner failed to comply with the two notices dated 24.04.2019 and 21.05.2019.

76. The respondent in para no.38 has stated that the petitioner was continuously doing mining work and was not depositing the installments, but such an averment is only a general averment and does not specify the period, the petitioner had done mining.

77. The petitioner in paragraph no.32 has given details of mining from December, 2018 to April, 2019.

78. In response to that, respondent in paragraph no.30 of the counter affidavit has stated that petitioner has mined/transported 39239 cubic meter of sand/moram from December, 2018 to May, 2019.

79. The respondent has not disclosed any detail about mining alleged to have been carried out by the petitioner after May, 2019. As per record, the petitioner had carried out mining till May, 2019. Under the notice dated 21.05.2019, the respondent has demanded the installment due from the petitioner on 01.01.2019 and on 01.04.2019.

80. As the petitioner had failed to deposit the two installments dated 01.01.2019 and 01.04.2019 and as per the respondents, petitoner had conducted mining till May, 2019, we are of the view that respondents should have immediately invoked the power under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 to determine the lease.

81. The respondents do not disclose in the counter affidavit the reason for not invoking powers under Rule 58 of the Rules, 1963 immediately after expiry of period given in the notice calling upon the petitioner to deposit installments dated 01.01.2019 and 01.04.2019.

82. Since, it is only the respondent-State who is authorised to determine the lease deed under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 and in the lease deed, there is no exit-way given to the petitioner from the lease deed, therefore, it is expected of the authority to exercise the power of determination of lease diligently, and petitioner cannot asked to discharge his obligations under the lease deed because of the slackness on the part of respondents in determining the lease.

83. The respondents are under an obligation to explain the reason for the delay in invoking power of determination of lease so as to find out whether the delay in determining the lease is bonafide and genuine. Non-disclosure of reason for delay in not determining the lease of the petitioner would definitely be an arbitrary exercise of power and is against the spirit of Rules, 1963. Therefore, the petitioner cannot be forced to pay installments demanded by the respondent, which he otherwise would not have been liable to pay if, the respondent-authority had acted promptly and invoked the power under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963 to determine the lease immediately after the petitioner failed to comply with the demand made by the respondents under the notice dated 21.05.2019.

84. Thus, for the reasons given above, we are of the view that since petitioner has not done any mining after May, 2019 and if, the power to determine the lease had been invoked by the authority promptly, the lease deed would have been determined before 01.07.2019, and petitioner would not have been liable to pay any royalty after 01.07.2019, therefore, we hold that recovery of installments due from the petitioner on 01.07.2019 and on 01.10.2019 is not justified. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned order to the extent it demands recovery of installments due on 01.07.2019 and on 01.10.2019.

85. The petitioner has deposited Rs.50 lacs on 15.10.2019 and Rs.20 lacs on 26.11.2019, total amounting to Rs.70 lacs for adjustment towards arrears of earlier installments for which recovery had already been issued. However, respondents have adjusted the said amount in the installments of October, 2019.

86. Since, we have already held above that recovery of installments due on 01.07.2019 and on 01.10.2019 is illegal, therefore, we are of the view that aforesaid amount is liable to be adjusted towards the installments payable on 01.01.2019 and on 01.04.2019.

87. By the impugned order, the lease deed has been determined by the District Magistrate, Fatehpur. We are of the view that petitioner has failed to make out any case for quashing the order determining the lease deed inasmuch as the case of the petitioner challenging the recovery of installments due on 01.07.2019 and on 01.10.2019 is based upon the argument that if, the petitioner had failed to discharge his obligation to deposit the installments, the authorities should have immediately exercised the power terminating the lease deed under Rule 58 of Rules, 1963, therefore, we do not find any good ground to set aside the finding of the authority determining the lease deed.

88. By the impugned order, petitioner's firm has also been blacklisted for two years, and period of blacklisting has passed, therefore, punishment of blacklisting of petitioner's firm has lost it's significance, and in future, if petitioner is eligible to participate in auction proceedings as per law, the blacklisting of two years by the impugned order should not come in the way of petitioner in participating in future auction.

89. Thus, for the reasons given above, the Writ-C No.3056 of 2020 is partly allowed and Writ-C No.18896 of 2019 is dismissed with no order as to costs.

Issue for consideration

The petitioner challenged the land acquisition compensation award, alleging improper valuation and non-consideration of the land's non-agricultural nature and existing structures.

Headnotes

A. Civil matter-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-National Highways Act,1956-Section 3G(5)-Land Acquisition-Compensation-Alternative remedy-Arbitration-Market value-Nature of land-Non-agricultural use-Existing buildings/Structures-Writ jurisdiction-RFCTLARR, 2013-Objections regarding incorrect market value, classification of land, and omission to consider structures directly affect the quantum of compensation and are within the jurisdiction of the statutory Arbitrator under section 3G(5)-writ petition disposed of.(Para 8 to 17)

Held

The court held that an efficacious statutory remedy under section 3G(5) being available for redressal of disputes regarding compensation, interference under Article 226 was unwarranted. However, the statutory arbitrator was directed to conclude the pending arbitration within stipulated period. (E-6)

1. Sri Shivansh Agrawal, Advocate has filed his vakalatnama on behalf of the opposite parties no. 2 and 3. The same is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Tarun Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri S.B. Pandey, learned Senior Counsel and Deputy Solicitor General of India assisted by Sri Varun Pandey, learned counsel for the Union of India, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and Sri Shivansh Agrawal, learned counsel for the opposite parties no. 2 and 3.

3. By means of this writ petition the petitioner has sought the following reliefs:-

"(i) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature certiorari quashing the Award dated 10.04.2024 passed by the Opp-party no.4 contained as Annexure - 1 to this writ petition.

(ii) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Opp-Party No.4 to pass a fresh award after considering the prevailing market value/circle rate of the year 2024 and in consonance with the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 before taking possession of the land in question.

(iii) To issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the Opp-party no.5 to take a decision with regard to the 'Arbitration Case No. 00010 of 2019, Purnima Mishra vs. Union of India and others' contained as Annexure - 2 to this writ petition."

4. The case of the petitioner is that part of his land was acquired earlier under the National Highways Act, 1956 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1956') and compensation was determined under Section 3-G(1) of the Act, 1956. Being aggrieved, proceedings have been initiated by the petitioner under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 which are still pending. Thereafter, another part of the land belonging to the petitioner was notified for acquisition under Section 3-D of the Act, 1956. Thereafter, compensation has been determined by the competent authority under Sub-section (1) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956, however, while doing so he has ignored the fact that the land is being used for non agricultural purposes and there are structures and building existing thereon and has not taken this factor into consideration while determining compensation. It is also the case of the petitioner before us that instead of determining the market value as on the date of notification issued on 18.03.2020 the market value prevailing 2019 has been determined.

5. The contention of the petitioner's counsel is that a remedy under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 is not efficacious as regards the issue raised herein.

6. On the other hand learned counsel for the N.H.A.I. says that petitioner challenges the very basis of determination of compensation, which, ultimately has affected the quantum of compensation determined by the Competent Authority, therefore, taking these very grounds she can very well initiate proceedings under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 and there is no legal bar in this regard.

7. Ms. Anupma Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State has also argued on the same line as learned counsel for the N.H.A.I., meaning thereby, according to her also, an efficacious remedy is available under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956.

8. Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 reads as under:-

"3G. Determination of amount payable as compensation.-(1) Where any land is acquired under this Act, there shall be paid an amount which shall be determined by an order of the competent authority.

(2) Where the right of user or any right in the nature of an easement on, any land is acquired under this Act, there shall be paid an amount to the owner and any other person whose right of enjoyment in that land has been affected in any manner whatsoever by reason of such acquisition an amount calculated at ten per cent, of the amount determined under sub-section (1), for that land.

(3) Before proceeding to determine the amount under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), the competent authority shall give a public notice published in two local newspapers, one of which will be in a vernacular language inviting claims from all persons interested in the land to be acquired.

(4) Such notice shall state the particulars of the land and shall require all persons interested in such land to appear in person or by an agent or by a legal practitioner referred to in sub-section (2) of section 3-C, before the competent authority, at a time and place and to state the nature of their respective interest in such land.

(5) If the amount determined by the competent authority under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) is not acceptable to either of the parties, the amount shall, on an application by either of the parties, be determined by the arbitrator to be appointed by the Central Government.

(6) Subject to the provisions of this Act, the provisions of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (26 of 1996) shall apply to every arbitration under this Act.

(7) The competent authority or the arbitrator while determining the amount under sub-section (1) or sub-section (5), as the case may be, shall take into consideration"

(a) the market value of the land on the date of publication of the notification under section 3A;

(b) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the severing of such land from other land;

(c) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other immovable property in any manner, or his earnings;

(d) if, in consequences of the acquisition of the land, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses, if any, incidental to such change."

9. The words -'if the amount determined by the competent authority under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2) is not acceptable to either of the parties, the amount shall, on an application by either of the parties, be determined by the arbitrator to be appointed by the Central Government.' This language used in Section 3-G(5) of the Act, 1956 is of wide amplitude and pleas such as the one raised herein to the effect that the land was being used for non agricultural purposes, therefore, the rate as applicable to the land being used for the said purpose as distinct from agricultural purpose should have been applied to determine the compensation is also open for being raised in such proceedings under Section 34(5) and also for being considered therein, as, ultimately, the aforesaid ground is relevant for determination of quantum of compensation and if the same has been ignored, then, the Arbitrator can certainly take into consideration.

10. Sub-section (7) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 lays down the factors to be taken into consideration by the competent authority or the arbitrator, as the case may be, while determining the amount under Sub-section (1) or Sub-section (5). These factors are- (a) the market value of the land on the date of publication of the notification under Section 3-A; (b) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the severing of such land from other land; (c) the damage, if any, sustained by the person interested at the time of taking possession of the land, by reason of the acquisition injuriously affecting his other immovable property in any manner, or his earnings; (d) if, in consequences of the acquisition of the land, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses, if any, incidental to such change.

11. If the competent authority has taken into consideration the market value as on the date prior to the date of publication, then, in view of Clause (a) of Sub-section (7) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 the arbitrator can very well look into these aspects of the matter.

12. As regards the other grievance that the land in question is being used for non agricultural purposes and there are structures and building existing thereon, a factor which has allegedly not been taken into consideration by the competent authority, we are of the opinion that in the parameters mentioned in Sub-section (7) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 this aspect/factor is implicit therein, as, while determining the market value under Clause (a) of Sub-section (7) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 necessarily the competent authority or the arbitrator, as the case may be, would have to take into consideration the nature of the land and structures etc., if any, existing thereon. This is also evident from Clause (d) of Sub-section (7) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 which provides that if, in consequences of the acquisition of the land, the person interested is compelled to change his residence or place of business, the reasonable expenses, if any, incidental to such change would also be payable.

Therefore, this necessarily entails an exercise whether it be by the competent authority or the arbitrator as to whether there are structures or buildings existing on the land in question and what is the use to which the land is put forth. The market value of agricultural and non agricultural land would be different, therefore, it would be necessary for both the competent authority or the arbitrator to take into consideration these aspects.

13. The quantum of compensation can be determined by the competent authority or on initiation of proceedings before the Arbitrator only after taking into consideration the nature of the land, structures and building existing thereon and the used to be the land being put i.e. agricultural, non agricultural or any other category, therefore, the said exercise is implicit in the proceedings under Section 3-G(1) as well as 3-G(5) of the Act, 1956.

14. In this context learned counsel for the NHAI is correct in submitting that the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 2013') is also applicable to the acquisition proceedings under the Act, 1956. We may in this context refer to Section 105 of the Act, 2013 and the Fourth Schedule referred therein. Though, in the Fourth Schedule the National Highways Act, 1956 is mentioned, but, in view of Sub-section 3 of Section 105 of the Act, 2013 the Central Government can, by notification, direct that any of the provisions of this Act relating to the determination of compensation in accordance with the First Schedule and rehabilitation and resettlement specified in the Second and Third Schedules, being beneficial to the affected families, shall apply to the cases of land acquisition under the enactments specified in the Fourth Schedule or shall apply with such exceptions or modifications that do not reduce the compensation or dilute the provisions of this Act relating to compensation or rehabilitation and resettlement as may be specified in the notification and it has actually done so by Notification dated 28.12.2017 which is on record, wherein, reference has been made to the two ordinances issued 2015 and the then RFCTLARR (Removal of Difficulties) Order, 2015 notified on 28th August, 2015, therefore, the provisions for determination of compensation as contained in the Act, 2013 are applicable to acquisition proceedings under the Act, 1956 and in this context Sections 26, 27, 28, 29 etc. are also relevant.

15. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the remedy prescribed under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956 is an efficacious remedy which is available but it has not been availed. We, therefore, decline to entertain this writ petition. The petitioner may avail the said remedy under Sub-section (5) of Section 3-G of the Act, 1956.

16. At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioner invites our attention to Relief Clause No. (iii) in the writ petition which is for disposal of 'Arbitration Case No. 00010 of 2019, Purnima Mishra Vs. Union of India and others' relating to earlier acquisition. We direct the statutory Arbitrator, who appears to be the Collector concerned, to decide the said case at the earliest, say, within a period of three months unless there is legal impediment.

17. With the aforesaid observations, the writ petition is disposed of.

M/S Konkan Railway Corp. Ltd. ...Petitioner
Versus
U.O.I. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether a public authority can reject a technical bid without giving initial reasons and subsequently introduce new justifications during court proceedings?
(b) Whether a bidder, if declared the highest bidder, obtains an indefeasible right to insist upon award of the contract?

Headnotes

A. Contract Law – North Eastern Railway (NER) floated Tender on 30.09.2025. On 19.05.2026 (at 17:30 hours), the petitioner received an email stating its Techno-Commercial (Technical) Bid was rejected, without any specific details or reasoning. Less than three hours later (at 19:59 hours on the same day), the authorities opened the financial bids and declared an L-1 bidder. On 26.05.2026, the High Court stayed further tender proceedings and ordered the railways to provide a reasoned order. The railways subsequently submitted that the petitioner's Bank Guarantee was on a stamp paper of insufficient value under the U.P. Stamp Act.

B. The authority cannot invent or add new justification for a decision already taken during legal proceedings. Apparently on 19.05.2026, when the technical bid of the petitioner was rejected the only reason provided by the authority was "does not fulfill the criteria", without any reason or whisper as to which criteria and in which manner the said criteria has not been fulfilled. However, subsequently it was only after a direction of this Court that on 25.05.2026, the authority came up with a reason of deficient stamp duty in the bank guarantee to justify the aforesaid rejection. (Para 9)

In any case, the deficiency in payment of stamp duty, in accordance with the U.P. Stamp Act, is at the most a lacuna and a curable defect which could have been sought to be cured by the authority concerned. It is further noted, that in the past, for another tender, a similar bank guarantee of Rs.500/- had been accepted and the financial bid of the petitioner had been opened, wherein the petitioner had been declared L-3. (Para 10)

The action of the authorities is mala fide and is merely an attempt to eliminate the petitioner, who has submitted the lowest financial bid. (Para 11)

C. A bidder, even if declared the highest bidder, does not for that reason alone obtain an indefeasible right to insist upon award of the contract. Until the process matures into a concluded contractual relationship in accordance with the governing tender conditions, the bidder's position remains provisional. State or authority u/Article 12 of the Constitution is not bound to accept bid of L1 bidder, but is only bound to act without arbitrariness and favouritism. There is no obligation on the part of the person issuing tender notice to accept any of the tenders or even the lowest tender. (Para 12, 13, 14)

In view the arbitrary rejection of the technical bid on flimsy ground, the tabulation of the financial bid prepared on 19.05.2026 is quashed and set aside, with a direction upon the authorities to once again reconsider the financial bids of all the tenderers, including that of the petitioner.

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Alok Kumar Singh, Kazim Ibrahim
For Respondent(s): A.S.G.I.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.
Hon'ble Abdhesh Kumar Chaudhary, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed today in Court by the petitioner is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Alok Kumar Singh and Kazim Ibrahim, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the petitioner and learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondents.

3. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, wherein the writ petitioner has made the following main prayers:-

"i. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned rejection of the Techno-Commercial Bid (Technical Bid) of the Petitioner, submitted in furtherance of Tender No.EPC-PSI-GKC-CHPG-NER, dated 30.09.2025, floated by the Respondent No. 2 (Annexure No. 1 - as communicated to Petitioner vide e-mail dated 19.05.2026 sent at 17:30 by the Respondent No. 2);

ii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned opening of financial bids, as notified on 19.05.2026 at 19:59:57 hours, i.e., within a span of three hours after the Petitioner was informed via impugned email regarding the rejection of its technical bid. (contained as Annexure No. 2);

iii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Respondent No. 2 to re-evaluate the Techno-Commercial Bid (Technical Bid) of the Petitioner, submitted in furtherance of Tender No. EPC-PSI-GKC-CHPG-NER, dated 30.09.2025, floated by the Respondent No. 2;

iv. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing the Respondent No. 2 to not proceed in furtherance of tender process including declaration, execution and issuance of work order in favour of L-1 or any other consequential action in the tender process."

4. The bid of the petitioner had been rejected on the technical ground that it "did not fulfill the eligibility criteria". In the said impugned e-mail dated May 19, 2026, nothing further had been stated, as had been pointed out by us in our earlier order dated May 26, 2026. Thus, while staying the earlier tender process as no further action had been taken by the authority after opening of the financial bid, we also directed the respondents to provide a copy of the reasoned order, within 24 hours to the petitioner.

5. Subsequently, on May 26, 2026, pursuant to the order passed by this Court, a further explanation was provided by the North Eastern Railway, wherein it was submitted as follows:-

"As pr our tender conditions and as per the legal opinion of North Eastern Railway/Gorakhpur Legal Cell obtained in similar instances, the stamp paper for the Bank Guarantee should have been as per UP Stamp Act. However, you have not submitted the Stamp Paper of the requisite amount. Therefore, there was a legal lacuna in considering your case. In our tenders, rejection on this ground has been done for all non-conforming tenders on this count."

6. Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner has submitted that adequacy of stamp duty is a curable defect and the Stamp Act is a fiscal measure enacted to secure revenue for the State and time and again the Courts have held that the provision of Stamp Act has not been enacted to arm a litigant with a weapon of technicality to meet the case of his opponent. To buttress his aforesaid argument, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner has relied on a a judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Hindustan Steel Ltd. vs. M/s. Dalip Construction Company reported in (1969) 1 SCC 597.

7. It has been next submitted by the learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner that an authority inviting tenders is not bound to give effect to every term and condition mentioned in the notice and is entitled to waive its condition even on technical irregularity. To buttress his aforesaid argument, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner has relied on a judgment rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in Poddar Steel Corporation vs. Ganesh Engineering Works and others reported in (1991) 3 SCC 273. The relevant paragraph of the aforesaid judgment is delineated below:-

"6. It is true that in submitting its tender accompanied by a cheque of the Union Bank of India and not of the State Bank clause 6 of the tender notice was not obeyed literally, but the question is as to whether the said non-compliance deprived the Diesel Locomotive Works of the authority to accept the bid. As a matter of general proposition it cannot be held that an authority inviting tenders is bound to give effect to every term mentioned in the notice in meticulous detail, and is not entitled to waive even a technical irregularity of little or no significance. The requirements in a tender notice can be classified into two categories ? those which lay down the essential conditions of eligibility and the others which are merely ancillary or subsidiary with the main object to be achieved by the condition. In the first case the authority issuing the tender may be required to enforce them rigidly. In the other cases it must be open to the authority to deviate from and not to insist upon the strict literal compliance of the condition in appropriate cases. This aspect was examined by this Court in C.J. Fernandez v. State of Karnataka [(1990) 2 SCC 488] a case dealing with tenders. Although not in an entirely identical situation as the present one, the observations in the judgment support our view. The High Court has, in the impugned decision, relied upon Ramana Dayaram Shetty v. International Airport Authority of India [(1979) 3 SCC 489] but has failed to appreciate that the reported case belonged to the first category where the strict compliance of the condition could be insisted upon. The authority in that case, by not insisting upon the requirement in the tender notice which was an essential condition of eligibility, bestowed a favour on one of the bidders, which amounted to illegal discrimination. The judgment indicates that the court closely examined the nature of the condition which had been relaxed and its impact before answering the question whether it could have validly condoned the shortcoming in the tender in question. This part of the judgment demonstrates the difference between the two categories of the conditions discussed above. However it remains to be seen as to which of the two clauses, the present case belongs."

8. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the respondents has submitted that the financial bid has already been opened and L-1 had been declared and as such a right has accrued in favour of the L-1 in the present tender.

9. We have heard the learned counsel for the parties and on a careful consideration of the issues raised, we are of the view that apparently on May 19, 2026, when the technical bid of the petitioner was rejected the only reason provided by the authority was "does not fulfill the criteria", without any reason or whisper as to which criteria and in which manner the said criteria has not been fulfilled. However, subsequently it was only after a direction of this Court that on May 25, 2026, the authority came up with a reason to justify the aforesaid rejection dated May 19, 2026 as is apparent from the letter dated May 25, 2026 of the authority, wherein reasons of deficient stamp duty in the bank guarantee has been provided with. We do not appreciate this kind of improvement made by the authority in the reasoning of rejecting the technical tenders as the law stands settled that the authority cannot invent or add new justification for a decision already taken during legal proceedings (see Mohinder Singh Gill v. Chief Election Commr. reported in (1978) 1 SCC 405).

10. In any case, the above reason, namely that adequate stamp duty had not been paid in accordance with the U.P. Stamp Act, in our view, is at the most a lacuna and a curable defect which could have been sought to be cured by the authority concerned. It is further to be noted, as pointed out by Sri Sudeep Seth, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioner, that in the past, for another tender, a similar bank guarantee of Rs.500/- had been accepted and the financial bid of the petitioner had been opened, wherein the petitioner had been declared L-3. These documents are annexed at Page Nos.159 and 163 of the supplementary affidavit.

11. In light of the above, it appears that the action of the authorities is mala fide and is merely an attempt to eliminate the petitioner, who has submitted the lowest financial bid.

12. As regards the contention of the learned counsel for the respondents that financial bid had been opened, it has to be understood that it is well settled that a bidder, even if declared the highest bidder, does not for that reason alone obtain an indefeasible right to insist upon award of the contract. Until the process matures into a concluded contractual relationship in accordance with the governing tender conditions, the bidder's position remains provisional. The Supreme Court in Meerut Development Authority v. Assn. of Management Studies reported in (2009) 6 SCC 171 has held that State or authority under Article 12 of the Constitution of India is not bound to accept bid of L1 bidder, but is only bound to act without arbitrariness and favouristism. The relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgment are delineated below:-

"27. The bidders participating in the tender process have no other right except the right to equality and fair treatment in the matter of evaluation of competitive bids offered by interested persons in response to notice inviting tenders in a transparent manner and free from hidden agenda. One cannot challenge the terms and conditions of the tender except on the abovestated ground, the reason being the terms of the invitation to tender are in the realm of the contract. No bidder is entitled as a matter of right to insist the authority inviting tenders to enter into further negotiations unless the terms and conditions of notice so provided for such negotiations.

29. The Authority has the right not to accept the highest bid and even to prefer a tender other than the highest bidder, if there exist good and sufficient reasons, such as, the highest bid not representing the market price but there cannot be any doubt that the Authority's action in accepting or refusing the bid must be free from arbitrariness or favouritism."

13. To the same effect, is the judgment of The Supreme Court in State of Jharkhand v. CWE-SOMA Consortium reported in (2016) 14 SCC 172, wherein it was held that there is no obligation on the part of the person issuing tender notice to accept any of the tenders or even the lowest tender. The relevant paragraphs of the judgment are quoted hereinbelow:

"13. In case of a tender, there is no obligation on the part of the person issuing tender notice to accept any of the tenders or even the lowest tender. After a tender is called for and on seeing the rates or the status of the contractors who have given tenders that there is no competition, the person issuing tender may decide not to enter into any contract and thereby cancel the tender. It is well settled that so long as the bid has not been accepted, the highest bidder acquires no vested right to have the auction concluded in his favour (vide Laxmikant v. Satyawan [Laxmikant v. Satyawan, (1996) 4 SCC 208] , Rajasthan Housing Board v. G.S. Investments [Rajasthan Housing Board v. G.S. Investments, (2007) 1 SCC 477] and U.P. Avas Evam Vikash Parishad v. Om Prakash Sharma [U.P. Avas Evam Vikas Parishad v. Om Prakash Sharma, (2013) 5 SCC 182 : (2013) 2 SCC (Civ) 737]).

21. Observing that while exercising power of judicial review, the Court does not sit as appellate court over the decision of the Government but merely reviews the manner in which the decision was made, in Tata Cellular v. Union of India [Tata Cellular v. Union of India, (1994) 6 SCC 651] , SCC in para 70 it was held as under: (SCC p. 675)

"70. It cannot be denied that the principles of judicial review would apply to the exercise of contractual powers by government bodies in order to prevent arbitrariness or favouritism. However, it must be clearly stated that there are inherent limitations in exercise of that power of judicial review. Government is the guardian of the finances of the State. It is expected to protect the financial interest of the State. The right to refuse the lowest or any other tender is always available to the Government. But, the principles laid down in Article 14 of the Constitution have to be kept in view while accepting or refusing a tender. There can be no question of infringement of Article 14 if the Government tries to get the best person or the best quotation. The right to choose cannot be considered to be an arbitrary power. Of course, if the said power is exercised for any collateral purpose the exercise of that power will be struck down."

23. The right to refuse the lowest or any other tender is always available to the Government. In the case in hand, the respondent has neither pleaded nor established mala fide exercise of power by the appellant. While so, the decision of the Tender Committee ought not to have been interfered with by the High Court. In our considered view, the High Court erred in sitting in appeal over the decision of the appellant to cancel the tender and float a fresh tender. Equally, the High Court was not right in going into the financial implication of a fresh tender."

14. The Supreme Court in Indore Vikas Praadhikaran (IDA) v. Shri Humud Jain Samaj Trust reported in 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3511 has recently reiterated the settled legal position reminiscing its precedents in Tata Cellular v. Union of India, (1994) 6 SCC 651]; Master Marine Services (P) Ltd. v. Metcalfe & Hodgkinson (P) Ltd., (2005) 6 SCC 138; Meerut Development Authority v. Assn. of Management Studies, (2009) 6 SCC 171; Laxmikant v. Satyawan, (1996) 4 SCC 208 that lowest bidder does not encompass an indefeasible right for issuance of letter of intent in its favour and has held as follows:

"14. Keeping in view of the aforesaid judgments, this Court is of the considered opinion that in the absence of allotment letter and acceptance of highest bid, no relief could have been granted in favour of respondent No. 1 as there was no concluded contract in the matter and the decision taken by the Tender Evaluation Committee to generate more revenues could not have been interfered with in the manner and method as has been done by the Division Bench of the High Court of Madhya Pradesh at Indore Bench. The bidder has no right in the matter of bid except of fair treatment and cannot insist for further negotiation as has been done in the present case. The terms and conditions of NIT, particularly condition No. 6, empowers the IDA to accept or reject any or all bids. In the present case, the bid was rejected for valid and cogent reasons and, therefore, the order passed by the Division Bench of the High Court of Madhya Pradesh is set aside."

15. Accordingly, in the peculiar facts and circumstances and keeping in view the arbitrary rejection of the technical bid on flimsy ground as mentioned herein above, the tabulation of the financial bid prepared on May 19, 2026 (page No.24 of the writ petition) is quashed and set aside, with a direction upon the authorities to once again reconsider the financial bids of all the tenderers, including that of the petitioner, without considering the impediment of inadequacy in stamp duty in the bank guarantee submitted by the petitioner.

16. Furthermore, we also direct the petitioner to make good the deficiency in stamp duty urgently on or before June 3, 2026, so that the exercise of consideration of the financial bid, as aforesaid can be taken expeditiously in accordance with law.

17. With the above directions, the writ petition is disposed of.

The Court answered Issue Nos. 1 and 2 as follows:

(I). In case of a breach of a bye-law of an Advocates Association, which has to be in conformity with the Model By-Laws, as propounded by the Bar Council of U.P., with respect to dispute of the seniority of a Member; and the bye-laws of the Association, makes provision to determine the seniority, taking into account the date of enrollment as an Advocate by the Bar Council (In case of an affiliated Bar Association of a District in State of U.P.); the only recourse available for the redressal of the said grievance is to approach the Bar Council of U.P. under Section 21 of the Act, 1961. For ready reference Section 21 of the Act, 1961 is reproduced below:

"21. Disputes regarding seniority.—(1) Where the date of seniority of two or more persons is the same, the one senior in age shall be reckoned as senior to the other.

[(2) Subject as aforesaid, if any dispute arises with respect to the seniority of any person, it shall be referred to the State Bar Council concerned for decision.]""

(II) However, in case a dispute of seniority amongst Members of the Elders Committee is referred to the Bar Council, under Section 21 of the Act, 1961, the Bar Council shall only determine the said seniority dispute and under no circumstances, either pending the dispute or otherwise, issue any directions to the "Advocates Association" regarding the postponement of the elections of the "Advocates Association" or directives otherwise, interfering in the process of elections;

(III) And in an eventuality of the dispute of the seniority being referred under Section 21 of the Act, 1961 and it is germane to the process of election, in the first instance, it shall be the decision of the senior most Members of the Elders Committee i.e. the Chairman of the Elders Committee, regarding the deferment of the election; and in case the seniority of the Chairman of the Elders Committee is itself in dispute, the remaining 3 senior most Members of the Elders Committee shall take a decision by way of a majority amongst themselves; and when the deferment to be made is beyond 1 month, the Elders Committee shall call for Extra Ordinary General Members Assembly, for fixing the date of the election.

(IV) However the Bar Council of U.P. shall neither interfere in the elections to be conducted by the Elders Committee nor issue any directives in relation to the said elections.

(V) And, as far as the determination of the Elders Committee of an Advocates Association of the High Court is concerned, 5 designated senior most Advocates, actively practicing in High Court by virtue of their seniority, shall be considered and since the seniority list of designated Advocates in the High Court, is maintained by the Allahabad High Court, the same has to be strictly adhered to; and only if a designated senior refuses to accept the responsibility as a Member of the Elders Committee, the next senior most designated senior Advocate as per the seniority list of the Allahabad High Court, shall be considered; and so forth.

(VI) Immediately after completion of the Elections, the list of elected members shall be forwarded to the State Bar Council [Rule 8 (व)] along with a copy of the Association's Bye-Laws; and if found elections has been held in conformity of the Association's Bye Laws (which has to be in conformity with Model Bye-Laws) the same shall be accepted; and if not, the same shall be rejected; and if valid elections are not held, the affiliation can be cancelled, as per Rule 10 (ख) r.w. (ग) of the Rules, 2005.

In case of a dispute with respect to the continuation of a Member of the Committee or a dispute regarding the elections, Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860, which empowers the Registrar to hold elections of the Society or the Committee of Management after the expiry of its term, shall have no applicability to Bar Associations, since their elections are conducted in accordance with the Model Bye-Laws or under the Rules of the "Advocates Associations", duly approved by the Bar Council of the State and the Bar Council of India, which are statutory bodies under the Advocates Act, 1961.

Court held that the provisions of the Bye-Laws of an Advocates Association which are not in conformity with the Model Bye-Laws cannot be permitted. Such non-conformity with the Model Bye-Laws, even if approved by the Bar Council, cannot be permitted .

Court further held that, under the Model Bye-Laws, after completion of one year from the date of election, the Members of the Governing Council/Executive Committee may, in extraordinary circumstances, continue for a further period of one month, subject to the approval of the Elders Committee, for reasons to be recorded, within which period the elections must be completed. However, the Model Bye-Laws do not provide for the consequences where the Elders Committee itself fails to conduct the elections within the said period of one month. Accordingly, the Court issued the following directions, to operate in the interregnum:

(I) The Elders Committee will not take any financial decisions or decisions pertaining to the movable and immovable properties of the Association; and shall exercise only such financial powers which may be necessary for performing day to day functions of the Association or for the conduct of the elections.

(II) The Elders Committee shall be permanent in nature consisting of 5 designated senior-most Advocates, actively practicing in the High Court by the virtue of their seniority as designated

Advocates; and in case of district court, the seniority of the Members of the Elders Committee will be determined by taking into account, the date of enrollment as an advocate by the Bar Council; and having rendered atleast 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioner of that Court; and the senior most Member of the Elders Committee, will be the Chairman of the respective Associations i.e. the High Court and the District Courts.

(III) Once the situation contemplated in clause-18 of the Model ByeLaws arises and the elections are not held within 1 year, the extension of period of 1 month shall only be given, considering an extraordinary circumstance, by the Elders Committee, for the reasons to be recorded and with an undertaking that the elections shall be held within the said extended 1 month by the outgoing Committee. However, in failing to hold the elections within the extended 1 month for whatever reasons, the Elders Committee shall take over the administration of the Association and shall hold the elections within another 1 month; failing which the extraordinary general meeting has to be called and the elections has to be held on the date fixed by the General Assembly, by the Elders Committee.

(IV) Once the elections are held, the charge shall be handed over to the newly elected Committee; thereafter one senior-most Member of the Elders Committee i.e. the Chairman, will retire and the existing Members shall induct the next senior most Member i.e. a designated Advocate actively practicing in High Court by virtue of his seniority (in case of HCBA); and the next senior most Member (in case of District/Tehsil Bar Associations) having rendered atleast 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioner of that Court. The Chairman, shall be the senior most Member, of the newly constituted Elders Committee. However, the retiring Chairman of the Elders Committee, shall again be eligible, after the next elections, to be inducted in the Elders Committee.

(V) The Elders Committee shall hand over the list constituting the Elders Committee to the newly elected Committee; which shall recognize the said "Elders Committee" in its first meeting; and thereafter it shall be open to the Members of the Association to file objections before the newly elected Committee, only confining to the seniority as envisaged in Rule-7 of the Model Bye-Laws, and the same shall be determined as provided herein above i.e. in case of a District Court, the issue shall be referred under Section 21 of the Act, 1961 to the Bar Council of U.P.; and in case of a seniority dispute in the HCBA, the same shall be determined as per the list of senior designated Advocates, maintained by the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, in an in-house proceeding.

(VI) It is also clarified that if any senior Member is unwilling, the next senior will be inducted, and the consideration for the said induction of a new Member, by retiring the senior most person; shall be confined within the top 10 senior Members either in the list of designated senior Advocates (for the purpose of HCBA) or top 10 seniors, who have rendered at least 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioners of that Court, by virtue of their date of enrollment as an Advocate by the Bar Council (in case of District Courts).

(VII) If there is any deviation from the Model Bye-Laws either Suo Moto or on a complaint being received, from any member of the Bar Association, it shall be incumbent upon the State Bar Council, to examine the same, after giving due opportunity, to the concerned Bar Association; and if found to be correct, the said Bar Association will be given an opportunity to amend their Bye-Laws and bring the same in conformity to the Model Bye-Laws, within 30 days, failing which the same shall be disaffiliated.

(VIII) The State Bar Council may form a permanent Committee, where the Bar Associations may file their objections and suggestions and at least once a year, the Committee may deliberate upon the same and either it may accept the same or reject the same. Once accepted the proposed amendments may be sent to BCI, and if approved, the same may be made applicable to all Bar Associations, uniformly. Needless to say that all proposed amendments, may be made, adhering to the Principles of Natural Justice and all applicable Laws.

(IX) In case the elections are disputed, the same can also be referred to the Elders Committee, who shall decide the dispute, on the principles laid down under Section 25(1) of the Society Registration Act, 1860.

The aforesaid directions were directed to operate only in the interregnum, until the Bar Council, if it deemed necessary, exercised its power to amend the Model Bye-Laws, such amendments being subject to approval by the Bar Council of India. (E-5)

Prologue

[The advocate] has a duty to the court which is paramount. It is a mistake to suppose that he is the mouthpiece of his client to say what he wants: or his tool to do what he directs. He is none of these things. He owes allegiance to a higher cause. It is the cause of truth and justice. He must not consciously mis-state [sic] the facts. He must not knowingly conceal the truth...He must produce all the relevant authorities, even those that are against him. He must see that his client discloses, if ordered, the relevant documents, even those that are fatal to his case. He must disregard the most specific instructions of his client, if they conflict with his duty to the court. The code which requires a barrister to do all this is not a code of law. It is a code of honour. If he breaks it, he is offending against the rules of the profession and is subject to its discipline.

1. Affidavit filed on behalf of intervenor- High Court Bar Association, Allahabad is taken on record. HCBA, was permitted as an intervenor, as with passage of time, the disputes of like manner, as in the present Petition, are ensuing, more frequently than ever before; and the lacuna in the Model Bye-laws or on account of no clarity, the Associations are more engrossed in litigation, than meeting the cardinal purpose, for which they are in existence.

2. Heard Shri Manoj Kumar Dubey and Shri Devendra Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Ashok Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the Bar Council of U.P., Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Ms. Vishakha Pande, Advocate for the High Court Bar Association, Allahabad, Shri Manoj Kumar Mishra, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents, Ms. Naina Sharma, Advocate and Mr. Achintya Rai Sharma, Advocate, as Amicus Curiae.

3. This Court is flooded with writ petitions being filed by the various Bar Associations of the districts in the State of Uttar Pradesh, as well as, on occasions the High Court Bar Association has also approached this Court, seeking redressal of issues, which basically concerns the election of their respective societies; and since the issues pertaining to both the writ petitions are touching the same legal issues, this Court deems it appropriate to address the issue by way of a common order, by the consent of the parties.

4. In writ petition no.6613 of 2026, the petitioner is a Member of District Bar Association, Mau and has filed the present writ petition with the following prayer:

i. To issue writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the resolution dated 04.02.2026 passed by respondent no.2 Shri Pramod Kumar Singh Paliwal, The President, District Bar Association Mau, whereby the respondents no. 5 to 9 have been nominated as the members of the elder committee and the nominated members have been authorized to initiate proceedings regarding the election of the office bearers of the District Bar Association Mau for the year 2026 and a decision has been taken not to hold the election of the elders committee.

ii. To issue writ, order or direction in the nature of Mandamus restraining the respondent no. 5 to 9 not to initiate any proceedings for holding the election of District Bar Association, Mau for the year 2026 pursuant to the resolution dated 04.02.2026 passed by the respondent no.2 and the said nominated elder committee may not take any policy decision for holding the election."

5. In writ petition no.9562 of 2026, the petitioner is a practicing Advocate and is Member of the District Bar Association, Bijnor and has filed the writ petition with the following prayer:

"(i) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari for quashing the impugned order dated 19.02.2026 jointly issued by the President and Secretary of District Bar Association and Library, Bijnor (Annexure No.4 to the writ petition)

(ii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing to the Elders Committee of District Bar Association and Library, Bijnor constituted under Clause 7 of bye-laws, to hold the election of District Bar Association and Library, Bijnor.

(iii) Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing to the President and Secretary of the District Bar Association and Library, Bijnor not to interfere in the election of District Bar Association and Library, Bijnor."

6. In order to appreciate the historical background of the controversy and advent of the Elders Committee, by way of the Model Bye-Laws, this court deems it necessary, to refer to the judgement, in the case of Shiv Kumar Akela and others vs. Registrar, Societies, Firms and Chits and others2, wherein a Division Bench of this Court while considering a petition, on behalf of regular legal practitioners in High Court, Allahabad, having approached this Court raising pertinent issue regarding the influx of non-resident Members, who under the guise of advocates ordinarily practicing in the High Court of Allahabad, taking recourse to unethical means/practices and giving allurements, were influencing the HCBA elections; and as such the very objective of forming the Bar Associations and their pursuit to secure the aims and objects, enshrined under the bye-laws of HCBA was being defeated; and having given affiliation vide Affiliation No. 13 of 1989.

7. The other issue which was raised before the Court, was in spite of the fact that one year term of the governing body (under HCBA Rules) having come to an end, there was manipulated extension of the term. The third issue raised was regarding One Bar One Vote.

Case of Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh

8. The Bar Council of U.P. admitted that in absence of any procedure/modus operandi, under "Advocates Act, 1961", to ascertain and revoke enrollment of non-practicing/non-professional advocates or to test knowledge, competence and suitability of one, to be "enrolled" as "Advocate" and inadequacy of Rules and infrastructures, to carry out periodical scrutiny or to update Roll of Advocates in profession, unscrupulous persons and at the time even based on forged certificates, members were being registered; and the role of Bar Associations, should also be made accountable, regarding advocates practicing in Courts, tribunals etc.

Historical background with respect to the Model Bye-Laws framed by Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh

9. The Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh constituted the following Committee, for drafting a "Model Bye-law" :

i. Shri Tej Pratap Singh, Convener (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

ii. Shri Vinay Chandra Mishra, Member (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

iii. Shri Ramesh Chandra Mehrotra, Member (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

iv. Shri Birendra Kumar Srivastava, Member (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

v. Shri Banshidhar Singh, Member (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

vi. Shri Imran Mabood Khan, Member (Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh, Allahabad)

10. The model bye-laws, vide resolution no.2389 of 2005, dated 12.02.2005, were provisionally approved by the Bar Council; and in its meeting dated 09.01.2005, certain amendments were also suggested, which were incorporated subsequently e.g.:

(A). In format (A) at serial no.6 the following amendment was incorporated:

i. the bye-laws propounded by the Bar Council of U.P., to be registered with Registrar of Societies Registration;

(B). In format (D) for the purposes of affiliation of the Advocates Association with the Bar Council of U.P., shall incorporate the following at serial no.6:

i. a certificate to the effect that Advocates Association, which is attached with the Bar Council, have not violated any of the provisions of the bye-laws propounded by the Bar Council.

11. For ready reference amendments in format □A□ and □D□ at serial no.6, are reproduced below:

बार कौंसिल से संबद्धन हेतु आवेदन पत्र के प्रारूप (क) में संलग्नक के क्रम संख्या 6 पर निम्नलिखित बिन्दु बढ़ाया गया:-

6. बार कौंसिल उत्तर प्रदेश द्वारा प्रतिपादित उप विधि जो रजिस्ट्रार सोसाइटीज़ रजिस्ट्रेशन के साथ पंजीकृत हो।

बार कौंसिल से अधिवक्ता संघ के संबद्धन के नवीनीकरण हेतु आवेदन पत्र के प्रारूप (घ) के संलग्नक के क्रम संख्या 6 में निम्नलिखित संशोधन किया गया:-

6. इस आशय का प्रमाण पत्र कि अधिवक्ता संघ ने बार कौंसिल द्वारा प्रतिपादित उप विधि व संबद्धन नियमावलियों का उल्लंघन नहीं किया है।

12. Before, we proceed, we may examine the role of the Players, who are the Participant and being referred as □Legal Fraternity□. Legal practitioners are not merely agents of parties pleading a particular case, but are officers of the Court, expected to assist in the administration of justice, and to sustain the unimpaired dignity of Courts by all means in their power.

13. In the recent past, the management and functioning of the Bar Association came under public criticism and like other institutions, the constitution of the Bar Association was hijacked by non practicing and non-professional Advocates. [Refer: Sunita Sharma vs. Deputy Registrar, Chits, Funds Society and others3]. Consequently, 'Bar' as well as 'Bench' started feeling obstructions in the dispensation of justice, and those lawyers who were committed to the system became ineffective and the control and regulation of the Bar Association went into the hands of non-practicing and non-resident lawyers and consequently, the regular legal practitioners, including the parent bodies like 'State Bar Council' as well as 'Bar Council of India', took up the cause to save the Bar Association from the clutches of such lawyers, and a request was made to the Court of Law, to regulate entry into the premises and ensure that only bona fide genuine Advocates, enter the Court premises and regular legal practitioners alone are extended privileges and facilities by the Court, without which the Court cannot function smoothly and various measures were suggested to maintain the role of practicing lawyers, to curb the menace of uninterested non-practicing lawyers, obstructing the functioning of the Court, by frequent strikes and closure of the Courts' work. [Refer to P.K. Dash and others vs. Bar Council of Delhi and others4].

14. Money-power started controlling the constitution of the Governing Council of the Bar Association, which started functioning for their personal ends by adopting malpractices and influencing the justice delivery system. The matter was taken up by the Bar Council of India, as not only the local Bar Association, but also the statutory Bodies; such as 'Bar Council of State' and 'Bar Council of India', started becoming their victims.

15. During election campaigns, it was noticed that large numbers of law graduates, who are enrolled with the Bar Councils as a registered Advocate, are involved in various other professional activities and running businesses, but are voters for the purposes of elections of Bar Council and are thus affecting its constitution, with the result that those who are in active practice and are part and parcel of justice delivery system' lost their say; and as such the formulation of a proper regulatory system, in ensuring just and independent justice delivery system', thereby ultimately influencing such a noble cause in strengthening the Judiciary, which is one of the most important pillar, of the democratic system, became the need of the hour.

16. Having felt the adverse effect of such menace in polluting the justice delivery system, the High Court also invoked its "Rule Making Power" and evolved the principle of "One Bar One Vote". The entire concentration was made by the 'Bar' as well as the 'Bench', to ensure election of the Governing Council of the Bar Associations, should be by a person who is in active practice, as a lawyer, so that the dignity of the noble profession be maintained. It is for this, the role of an Elder Committee, is of great importance, as with their experience and wisdom, they can give guidance, in the election process.

17. Quality of the dispensation of justice, is directly dependent upon professional standards of ethics and discipline amongst the members of legal profession, and the same cannot be expected from a person, who is not a member of the profession. [Refer. Supreme Court Bar Association and others vs. B.D. Kaushik5]

18. The Bar Association Rules were framed by such non-practicing lawyers who were dominating the Governing Council, more inclined to support their own cause than the system. It was resolved by the Bar Council of India as well as the State Bar Councils to ensure that the electorate of the Governing Council of various Bar Associations is constituted by actively practicing lawyers.

19. Consequently, the desirability of framing "Model Bye-Laws" was felt, which should be uniformly adopted by the Bar Associations. In order to ensure their adoption by various Bar Associations, provisions were made for their recognition, by granting affiliation through the respective Bar Councils, to those Associations which have adopted the Bye-Laws.

20. So far as the State of U.P. is concerned, a Model Bye Laws was framed by Sri T.P. Singh, Senior Advocate, the then Member, Bar Council of India as well as Chairman of Bar Council of India Trust and Sri V.C. Mishra, the then Chairman, Bar Council of U.P.

21. 'Model Bye Laws' also took care of the issue of non-holding of the election even after the expiry of period of their tenure, consequently, in Model Bye Laws, a provision for the constitution of an Elders Committee was made, authorizing it, apart from other functions, to hold the election, after expiry of the period of tenure of office bearers, if they don't hold the election within time, giving relaxation of one month, for such endeavor.

22. The provision for taking over charge from the outgoing office bearers, by the Elders Committee after the expiry of period of their tenure was made, but attempts to frustrate the same is continuous, by office bearers elected, for their personal gains.

23. The provision and procedure for constitution of Elders Committee, is being altered by the Bar Association by amending their Rules; and consequently members started approaching the High Court; with the disputed regarding the validity of the constitution of Elders Committee, for non-adherence of the Model Bye Laws and neglectful attitude of the Bar Council towards violation of the Model Bye Laws, by way of not refusing affiliation to the Association; and consequently, this Petition is also in row of such litigation and another attempt by this Court, to help their counterpart and awakening the conscience, of bodies like State Bar Council as well as Bar Council of India, to rise to the occasion and bring the system in line, shunning the appeasement policies.

24. In the case in hand, it is strange to note that the concept of the constitution of Elders Committee by the Five Senior Most Members of the Bar Association, which they have earned by their long tenure of active practice and continuous involvement with the administration of justice, is being diluted by adopting means to disrupt the constitution of the Elders Committee, by direct election or outgoing Committee, trying to nominate Elders Committee, in violation of Cl. 7 of the Model Bye-Laws, as in the case on hand.

25. In order to ensure that such Model Bye-Laws are being adopted by the various Bar Associations, the provision for affiliation, to give legal status to those Associations, was introduced by the Bar Council of U.P., "Bar Council Uttar Pradesh Adhivakta Sangh Sambandhan Niymavali, 2005"; and it was further provided that members of those Associations who are affiliated to the State Bar Council under such Rules will be entitled to avail the benefit of various Welfare Schemes sponsored by the State Bar Council; but because of the appeasement actions without visualizing the harm being caused to the justice delivery system on account of such latitude and the dishonor to the Rules formulated by nobody else than the Members of the Bar Council themselves, i.e. the Bodies formulating the Rules themselves, are acquiescing their violation.

26. Section 34(1) of the Advocates Act, 1961 empowers High Court to frame rules, laying down conditions subject to which an Advocate shall be permitted to practice in the High Court and Courts Subordinate thereto, which has been held similar to the power under Article 145 of the Constitution of India. In a very rare case, a Court of law has encroached on the power of the Bar Members.

27. Section 38 of the Advocates Act, 1961 provides that even in disciplinary matters, the final Appellate Authority is the Supreme Court. 'Bar' and 'Bench' are the inevitable two shores of one river' wherein flows 'stream of Justice'. [Refer. To IN Re vs. Zila Adhivakta Sangh, Allahabad6].

28. Bar Association stands on higher pedestal, as compared to other registered Societies because of their role in the functioning of 'State' organs.

29. Rule 3(c) of the "Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh- Election Rules, 1992" defines a "Bar Association", which is registered under the Indian Societies Act and also affiliated by the State Bar Council in accordance with Rules framed by State Bar Council, for the purposes of these Rules.

30. Bar is the 'Army' of the Bench. The Judges are required to speak through their Judgement but at times they cannot express their agony or pain, publicly; then it is only the Bar which can come to their rescue.

31. The Bye-laws of the Association builds the character of the Bar, it is their dignity which determines the status of Bar and naturally the strength of the Army is to protect the "Judges" from various evils, obstructing justice delivery system'. It ensures that no illegal or improper means are used to influence the Judges; and it is responsible to prevent it's clients, from resorting to sharp or unfair practice. He has to use restrained language in correspondence, avoiding scurrilous attacks in pleadings, and using intemperate language during argument in court; and indisciplined or non-practicing lawyers, cannot maintain such standards.

32. In the matter of Ajay Pratap Singh7, a Division Bench of this Court, apart from other issues, gave direction that Elders Committee shall be constituted strictly in accordance with Rule 7 of the Bye-laws. In the event, no Senior Advocate is available, for any reason, then the next Senior Advocate, on the basis of seniority as Senior Advocate, will be the member of the Elders Committee.

33. The Apex Court in the matter of Supreme Court Bar Association and others vs. B.D. Kaushik8, has given the special status to the Bar Association which goes by the name of that Court e.g. "District Court Bar Association□□ for a particular District or "High Court Bar Association, Prayagraj" as a 'special status' of "Court Annex Bar Association".

34. The court annexed Bar Associations, start with the name of the court, as part of the name of the □Bar Association□ concerned. That is why we have □Supreme Court Bar Association□, □Tis Hazari District Court Bar Association□, etc. The very nature of such a Bar Association necessarily means and implies that it is an Association representing members regularly practicing in the court and who are responsible for proper conduct of its members in the court and for ensuring proper assistance to the court.

35. In consideration thereof, the court provides space for the office of the Association, library and all necessary facilities like chambers at concessional rates, for members regularly practicing in the court, parking place, canteen, besides several other amenities.

36. In the functions, organized by the court annexed Bar Associations, the Judges participate and exchange views and ascertain the problems, if any, to solve them and vice-versa. There is thus regular interaction between the members of the Bar Association and the Judges. The regular practitioners are treated as officers of the court and are shown due respect.

37. Right to vote is not an absolute right and to contest election is neither a Fundamental Right nor a common law right, but it is purely a statutory right governed by statute/rules/regulations. The right to contest an election and to vote can always be restricted or abridged, if statutes/ rules or regulations prescribe so. (Ref: In Rev Zila Adhivakta Sangh Allahabad9]. Voting right restrictions also can exist in the Rule.

38. Nature of a reasonable restriction, as to the right to vote is neither a common law right nor fundamental right under Article 19(1)(c); but a statutory right prescribed by the Statute, as has been held in several reported decisions of this Court. If a person is the member of several associations of advocates and wants to participate in the affairs of different associations of which he/she is a member; but circumscribed by a reasonable restriction, he/she may not be in a position to be really involved in the affairs of all associations of which he/she is a member. A person who is a member of more than one association, would form a different class than the person who is a member of only one association of lawyers, particularly the association of the Court in which he/she regularly practices. Though an advocate can be member of several associations, the right to form an association or be a member of an association does not necessarily include the right to vote.

39. "One Bar One Vote" is a prescription which is in furtherance of the right to form an association and be able to manage the affairs of the association by those who regularly practice in the courts, for which the association is formed.

40. Having referred to the issues of Appeasement, neglectful attitude of State Bar Council and the restrictions of □One Bar One Vote□; and also the mandatory requirement to form the □Elders Committee□ as per Clause 7 of the Model Bye/Laws, in the factual Matrix of the present case, while discussing its benefits and corresponding facilities, extended to the □Court Annex Bar Association□; since the issue which this Court has been called upon to address, pertains to the elections that are required to be held as per the bye-laws of the Bar Associations and which also has to conform to the Model bye-laws, which have been propounded by the the Bar Council of U.P., and is a sine qua non, for affiliation of the said Bar Association; this Court deem it appropriate to refer to Rule 18, 29, 51, 52, 53, and 54 of the Model Bye-Laws for Bar Association, U.P.; prior to framing Issues:

TERMS OF OFFICE

18. The office bearers of the Association and Members of the Governing Council / Executive Committee shall hold the office till the completion of one year from the date of their election, however, in extraordinary circumstances they may continue for a further period of 1 month with the prior approval of Elders Committee for the reason to be recorded within which they will get the election completed failing which the administration of the Association will vest in the Elders Committee, who will hold the election at there earliest as per bye-laws preferably within another 1 month.

BUSINESS AT THE ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

29. The Annual General Meetings of the Association shall;

(a) fix a date for electing office bearers, and other members of the Governing Council from amongst its ordinary/life Members;

(b) pass the audited annual accounts, the annual report and sanction the Budget for the year from the 1 of August to the 31-July;

(c) adopt such resolutions as might be brought forward for guiding the activities of the Association or its bodies; and

(d) appoint the auditor for the ensuing year.

BREACH OF RULES

51. Any member of the Association who shall be guilty of continuous infraction of the rules herein contained or of any bye-laws made there under, shall be liable to expulsion by a vote of the majority of the members present at a General Meeting of the Association.

BYE-LAWS

52. Subject to these Rules the Governing Council may, from time to time, frame bye-laws, for the purpose of carrying out the objects or regulating the activities of the Association. the bye-laws framed shall not be effective till they have been approved by the Bar Council.

AMENDMENT OF RULES

53. None of the these Rules shall be altered or modified or rescinded nor shall any new rule be framed unless they have received the assent of two-thirds of the members present and voting, by secret ballot, at a General Meeting convened for the purpose and be subject to approval by "Bar Council".

PROCEDURE OF ELECTION

54. The meeting of the General Body of the Association will convene at least a month before the expiry of the term of the office bearers and shall fix a date for Election.

The Elders Committee will act as Penal of the Returning Officer to hold Election and be entitled to include any other member of the Association, provided one is not contesting the Election and the result of the Election shall be declared in the meeting of the General Body so convened by the Elders Committee.

In order to meet the heavy burden of expenditure of the Bar Association, the Elders Committee will also fix security money for various posts, which shall not be refundable after the nomination is accepted and found valid. Only ordinary members, who have put in 2 years of continuous membership, will be entitled to vote and participate in the Election.

"the person, who has held office in any post will not be entitled to contest the following election in sequence for any post, however, he can contest the election in any post after a gap of one tenure.

The election of the Bar Association in the entire State shall be held under the supervision and control of the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh.

The Advocate shall be entitled to cost his votes, only in the election of Bar Association, name of which Bar Association is mentioned in his C.O.P. Certificate & Identity Card.

ISSUES

1. For the breach of bye-laws of the Advocate Association, which has to be in conformity with Model Bye-laws as propounded by the Bar Council of U.P.; whether the parties are required to approach the Bar Council of U.P. or they are required to seek redressal before the Assistant Registrar, under the Societies Registration Act, 1860.

2. In case of an inter se seniority dispute amongst the Members of the Elders Committee and being referred to the Bar Council; in such an eventuality what would be the extent of power, that can be exercised by the Bar Council while, determining the dispute.

3. What shall be the powers of the Elders Committee, and as to whether the same can be borne out from the model bye-laws propounded by the Bar Council of U.P. or from the bye-laws of the Advocates Association.

4. Consequences, if any, in a situation where the Elders Committee, does not complete the election process, within 1 month or a dispute arises with regard to the elections conducted.

Discussion: Issue Nos.1 & 2

1. For the breach of bye-laws, of the Advocate Association, which has to be in conformity with Model Bye-laws as propounded by the Bar Council of U.P.; whether the parties are required to approach the Bar Council of U.P. or they are required to seek a redressal before the Assistant Registrar under the Societies Registration Act, 1860.

2. In case of an inter se seniority dispute amongst the Members of the Elders Committee and being referred to the Bar Council; in such an eventuality what would be the extent of power, that can be exercised by the Bar Council ,while determining the dispute.

41. The breach that this Court is concerned viz a viz the constitution of the Elders Committee, generally pertains to an inter se seniority dispute, for the purposes of nomination of the Elders Committee, therefore Issue Nos. 1 and 2 are being dealt with, together.

42. Rule 51, though provides for an eventuality for the breach of rules, by a Member of the Association; but it does not make a provision, in case, there is a dispute of seniority, while determining the 5 senior most members of the Association, to constitute the Elders Committee.

43. This question in a narrow compass, may not detain us, as the Bar Council has powers under Section 21 of the Advocates Act, 1961 to decide the question of seniority amongst the Advocates, who are enrolled with the Bar Council; but however, the dispute is often raised, as to whether the seniority in the Bar Council of U.P. is to be reckoned or the seniority from the date of enrollment in the Bar Association is to be seen; and further the extent of the powers of Bar Council, while determining the seniority dispute, often disrupts the elections.

44. Shri Ashok Kumar Tiwari, Advocate appearing on behalf of the Bar Council of U.P. has submitted that any Bar Association in Uttar Pradesh, which has affiliation with the Bar Council of U.P., has to adhere to the following enactments:

i. Bar Council of U.P. (Advocate Association Affiliation) Rules, 2005

ii. U.P. Advocates Welfare Fund Act, 1974

iii. Model Bye-Laws for Bar Associations, U.P.

iv. Bar Council of India Certificate and Place of Practice (Verification) Rules, 2015; along with Circulars, Guidelines and Bye-Laws issued from time to time by the Bar Council of U.P.

45. He submits that "Bar Council U.P. Advocate Association Affiliation Rules, 2005" provides that any Association, who is having requisite number of membership, may apply for affiliation by depositing requisite fee as prescribed in Rule 5 and completing all formalities and by filing the application form provided in this regard.

46. Rule 7 of the Rules, 2005 provides that an Advocate can become member of only one Association, if there is more than one Association in the same area/Court.

47. He further submits that Rule 8 (ल) of Rules, 2005 provides that concerned affiliated Advocate Association is duty bound under the Rules to conduct elections of the Association, every year in the same month; and Rule 8 (व) of Rules, 2005 provides that after conducting the yearly election, the elected office bearers shall forward the list of the registered members along with their address to Bar Council of U.P.

48. Rule 8(द) of Rules, 2005 provides that the concerned Association, shall ensure compliance of directions issued by the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh.

49. He has further submitted that Rule 10 of Rules, 2005 provides the condition under which affiliation was granted earlier, may be cancelled, wherein Rule 10 (क) stipulates that failure of the concerned Bar Association to apply for renewal of its affiliation, within a period of 3 months, may result in disaffiliation; and also in case, if any, Rules and directions issued by Bar Council are violated; and as per Rule 10 (ख) and 10(ग), it clearly provides that in case of not holding timely election, the affiliation of concerned Bar Association can be cancelled. In Rule 10 (घ), it has further been provided that in case any false or incorrect information is furnished, then in that event, affiliation granted earlier may be cancelled.

50. On the strength of the aforesaid provisions he has submitted that as per model bye-laws elections has to be held every year and in case, any Association fails to hold its election within a period of 1 year + 1 month (extraordinary circumstances) (With prior approval of the Elders Committee) and another 1 month (time given to the Elders Committee to hold the election), it may result in disaffiliation of the concerned Bar Association, from the Bar Council of U.P. (Refer to Rule 18 of Model Bye-Laws read-with Rule 10 (ख) and (ग) of the Rules, 2005)

51. He has further submitted that the Bar Council of India, enacted the Bar Council of India "Certificate and Place of Practice (verification) Rules, 2015" which was published in the Gazette of India on 13.01.2015, in order to weed out non-practicing advocates who had switched over to other profession/service/business, without any information to State Bar Council or the Bar Associations; and the said phenomena had assumed alarming proportions, which resulted in bona fide advocates who are regularly practicing being denied of the benefits of the Welfare Schemes, as well as the same resulting in non practicing advocates casting votes and contesting election of Bar Association, due to which degradation to legal profession was being observed and this was even noticed by this Court and up to the Apex Court.

52. Chapter-II of Bar Council of India Certificate and Place of Practice (verification) Rules, 2015 provides for "Local Bar Association" which clearly states that Advocate can become a member of Bar Association, where he/she normally practices law.

53. Rule 6.3, of Bar Council of India Certificate and Place of Practice (Verification) Rules, 2015 provides that □Bar Association□ shall apply to respective □Bar Council□ within whose jurisdiction it is located, for being recognized under these Rules.

54. Rule IV of Bar Council of India Certificate and Place of Practice (verification) Rules, 2015 provides procedure for moving applications for verification and for issuance of verification of certificate and place of practice by State Bar Council.

55. Rule 15.2, provides that State Bar Council shall issue identity card, after necessary verification, that an Advocate concerned is continuing in profession and the identity card shall be valid for the period of 5 years, from the date of issuance and it shall be required to be produced at the time of voting for election of State Bar Council or the Bar Association concerned.

56. Now, we proceed to examine the □Model Bye-Laws□ framed by the Bar Council of U.P., in the aforesaid context, which was tentatively approved by the Bar Council of U.P. vide resolution No. 2389/2005 in its meeting dated 09.01.2005 and after certain modifications, same was confirmed vide resolution in its meeting dated 12.02.2005, and the model bye laws so framed by Bar Council of U.P. had been also approved by Bar Council of India vide its resolution dated 15/16.09.2006; and has come in to force in the State of U.P. from the said date.

57. By placing reliance on Rule 54 of the Model Bye-Laws, Sir Ashok Kumar Tiwari, Advocate submits that the election of the Bar Association in the entire State shall be held under the supervision and control of Bar Council of U.P.

58. Per contra, Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of High Court Bar Association, as well as learned counsel for the petitioner, has submitted that the said Rule 54, to the extent it gives the power to the Elders Committee to act as a panel of the Returning Officer to hold elections and the election of the Bar Association being under the supervision and control of the Bar Council of U.P. is per se in conflict with the decision of this Court in the case of Elders Committee, Central Bar Association, Azamgarh10].

59. Shri Ashok Tiwari, learned counsel appearing on behalf of the Bar Council of U.P. has further submitted that Note (III) of Chapter-II of Model Bye-Laws, provides that any resolution passed by the Bar Association, in contravention to provision of bye-laws, without approval of Bar Council of U.P. shall be deemed to be void; and Note (IV) to Schedule-II provides that all such Bar Associations, which do not adopt model bye-laws and have not got registration from the Registrar, Societies, Firms and Chits within the period of 3 months from the receipt of bye-laws, will stand disaffiliated.

60. Further, Note (V) provides that all those Advocates, who are not Members of the Bar Association affiliated to the Bar Council of U.P., shall lose their right of availing the various beneficial/welfare schemes, sponsored by the Bar Council of U.P.; and Note (VI) provides that if the election is in violation of provisions of bye-laws, it will hold the Election Officer, President and Secretary of that Association liable to be tried for misconduct under Section 35 of the Advocates Act.

61. Shri Ashok Kumar Tiwari, Advocate appearing on behalf of Bar Council of U.P. has further submitted that the following are the benefits available to an Advocate through the Bar Council of U.P.:-

(i) The Uttar Pradesh Advocates Welfare Fund Trustee Committee provides a financial assistance of Rs. 5 lakh to the dependents of deceased advocates, up to the age of 60 years. This scheme is effective from 1 January 2014. Subsequently, according to a government order issued on 09.03.2019, the age of deceased lawyers has been increased from 60 to 70 years. Now from 09-03-2019, a payment of Rs 5 lakh is being made to the dependents of deceased lawyers, up to the age of 70 years.

(ii) The Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh has launched The Advocates' Old Age Death Grant Scheme on 24-08-2008. Under this scheme initially, financial assistance of Rs. 25,000 was provided to the dependents of deceased advocates between the age limit of 60 to 70 years; but at present, after 01.11.2023, the amount has been enhanced to Rs. 3 lacs and the age limit, has been increased, while the benefit is provided for deaths between 70-80 years, as well.

(iii). An additional payment of Rs. 1 lakh is made by the All India Bar Council Advocates Welfare Committee to the dependents of advocates, who died accidentally.

(iv) There is a provision for providing medical assistance of Rs. 10,000/- to Rs 25,000/- to the advocates, by the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh and in case of serious illness, this amount can be given up to a maximum of Rs. 25,000/- to Rs. 50,000/-.

(v) All India Bar Council Advocates Welfare Committee (Rule 40) also provides for medical assistance to advocates up to a maximum of Rs. 25,000/- and in case of serious illness, this amount can be given from Rs. 25,000/- to Rs. 50,000/-.

(vi) There is a provision for financial assistance of maximum of Rs. 50,000/- for library to the Bar Associations of the district and Tehsil level, by the All India Bar Council Advocates Welfare Committee (Rule 40).

62. He has further submitted that all the above facilities are payable only to those advocates, who are members of any Bar Association of the State; and that Bar Association is affiliated to the Bar Council of Uttar Pradesh.

63. Per contra, Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel submits that the said provisions in the model bye-laws cannot be termed as mandatory and are merely directory in nature and breach of any of the said provisions of the bye-laws, can only give a right to the Bar Council of U.P. to disaffiliate the Bar Association and consequences shall follow. But however, to say that the resolution of the Bar Association shall be void or the Members of the Bar Association, shall lose their right of availing the various beneficial/welfare schemes sponsored by the "State Government", is absolutely beyond the jurisdiction or powers of the Bar Council of U.P.

64. In case, an Advocate does not choose to be a Member of any Bar Association, which is not affiliated to the Bar Council of U.P., the benefits of the State sponsored schemes, which are for the Advocates, as defined under the Advocates Act, 1961, cannot be taken away from them.

65. He further submits that in case the elections are not held as per the bye-laws of the Bar Council of U.P., the only consequence can be disaffiliation and it is preposterous to suggest that such an Association, through its President and Secretary, is liable to be tried for the misconduct under Section 35 of the Advocates Act. The same amounts to infringement of the fundamental rights of the members, to form an Association.

66. However, it is no longer res integra that the Bar Council of India or the Bar Council of U.P. or for that matter any Bar Council, as a statutory body under the Advocates Act, under the garb of regulating the conduct of Advocates and maintaining discipline, do not have any power or authority to intervene in the elections of the Bar Association or to stop the Elders Committee from taking steps for holding the elections. We gainfully refer to the judgment of this Court in the case of Elders Committee Central Bar Association, Azamgarh vs. State of Uttar Pradesh (supra).

67. However, if a resolution or an Amendment in the Association□s Bye-Laws is in contravention of the Model Bye-Laws, the same can only be implemented, if the said provision, by way of an Amendment is incorporated in the Model Bye-laws, which in turn, also has to be approved by the BCI, or else the Bar Association can face disqualification.

68. This Court finds that though the Bar Council has admitted that it cannot directly interfere with the internal election dispute of an independent society, but the grant of recognition cannot be a tool for forcing an Advocates Association, by providing penal consequences, like a provision to initiate proceedings under Section 35 of the Act, 1961, for non-compliance of the bye-laws while conducting their elections; while the limited authority available with the Bar Council of U.P., can only be by way of a consequence of disaffiliation and not any professional misconduct. However, this issue is left open, as the same is not directly in issue before this Court.

69. The Allahabad High Court maintains the list of Senior Advocates, designated under Section 16(2) of the Advocates Act, 1961 read with Section 34(1) of the Act. Specific Rules governing this process is outlined in Part-VI of Chapter-XXIV of the Allahabad High Court, Rules 1952, commonly referred as the Designation of Senior Advocates Rules.

70. In view of the aforesaid, we answer the Issue Nos.1 and 2 as follows:

(I). In case of a breach of a bye-law of an Advocates Association, which has to be in conformity with the Model By-Laws, as propounded by the Bar Council of U.P., with respect to dispute of the seniority of a Member; and the bye-laws of the Association, makes provision to determine the seniority, taking into account the date of enrollment as an Advocate by the Bar Council (In case of an affiliated Bar Association of a District in State of U.P.); the only recourse available for the redressal of the said grievance is to approach the Bar Council of U.P. under Section 21 of the Act, 1961. For ready reference Section 21 of the Act, 1961 is reproduced below:

"21. Disputes regarding seniority.—(1) Where the date of seniority of two or more persons is the same, the one senior in age shall be reckoned as senior to the other.

[(2) Subject as aforesaid, if any dispute arises with respect to the seniority of any person, it shall be referred to the State Bar Council concerned for decision.]"

(II) However, in case a dispute of seniority amongst Members of the Elders Committee is referred to the Bar Council, under Section 21 of the Act, 1961, the Bar Council shall only determine the said seniority dispute and under no circumstances, either pending the dispute or otherwise, issue any directions to the Advocates Association regarding the postponement of the elections of the Advocates Association or directives otherwise, interfering in the process of elections; [Ref. To Rajesh Kumar Shukla v. Assistant Registrar, Firms, Societies and Chits and Another11]

(III) And in an eventuality of the dispute of the seniority being referred under Section 21 of the Act, 1961 and it is germane to the process of election, in the first instance, it shall be the decision of the senior most Members of the Elders Committee i.e. the Chairman of the Elders Committee, regarding the deferment of the election; and in case the seniority of the Chairman of the Elders Committee is itself in dispute, the remaining 3 senior most Members of the Elders Committee shall take a decision by way of a majority amongst themselves; and when the deferment to be made is beyond 1 month, the Elders Committee shall call for Extra Ordinary General Members Assembly, for fixing the date of the election.

(IV) However the Bar Council of U.P. shall neither interfere in the elections to be conducted by the Elders Committee nor issue any directives in relation to the said elections.

(V) And, as far as the determination of the Elders Committee of an Advocates Association of the High Court is concerned, 5 designated senior most Advocates, actively practicing in High Court by virtue of their seniority, shall be considered and since the seniority list of designated Advocates in the High Court, is maintained by the Allahabad High Court, the same has to be strictly adhered to; and only if a designated senior refuses to accept the responsibility as a Member of the Elders Committee, the next senior most designated senior Advocate as per the seniority list of the Allahabad High Court, shall be considered; and so forth.

(VI) Immediately after completion of the Elections, the list of elected members shall be forwarded to the State Bar Council [Rule 8 (च)] along with a copy of the Association□s Bye-Laws; and if found elections has been held in conformity of the Association□s Bye Laws (which has to be in conformity with Model Bye-Laws) the same shall be accepted; and if not, the same shall be rejected; and if valid elections are not held, the affiliation can be cancelled, as per Rule 10 (ख) r.w. (ग) of the Rules, 2005.

71. The directions contained in Clause (III) are only in the interregnum, while the Bar Council of U.P. may consider the aforesaid directions for making suitable amendments in the Model Bye-Laws and send the same for approval before the Bar Council of India, if the need so arises.

72. This Court also takes notice of the judgment in the case of Satish Chandra Pandey vs. Registrar, Firms and Societies, U.P. and others12. For ready reference, the ratio laid down in the aforementioned judgment is as follows:

"Whether any substantial irregularity has been committed in holding the elections or during the elections, which has materially effected the result of the election or which vitiates the elections, are such questions, which normally would not be entertained in writ jurisdiction of this Court. It may be kept in mind that the Bar Association of lawyers cannot be equated with the membership of club or society and intervention by the Registrar has to be minimum, if at all permissible under law and for that purpose, the Elders Committee has been constituted under the bye-laws, which has been vested with the responsibility of managing the affairs and holding the election after the term of the Committee of Management comes to an end. Had the intention of the bye-laws been that on the expiry of the term, the Registrar shall take over and hold the elections, there was no occasion for making such a bye-law, giving an alternative specifically defined Body (Elders Committee) for getting the election held, after the expiry of the term of the elected Committee of Management. Section 25(2) of the Act, which gives power to the Registrar to hold the elections of the Society or the Committee of Management, after the expiry of its term, shall have no applicability in the case of Bar Association, whose elections have to be conducted in accordance with the model bye-laws or under the amended Rules of Association."

73. The question whether in case of a dispute with respect to the continuation of a Member of the Committee or a dispute regarding the elections, it is no longer res integra that Section 25(2) of the Act, 1860, which gives power to the Registrar to hold the elections of the Society of the Committee of Management, after the expiry of its term, shall have no applicability in the case of Bar Associations; since the same are conducted in accordance with the Model Bye-Laws or under the Rules of the □Advocates Associations□, which are duly approved by the Bar Council of the State and Bar Council of India, which are the statutory bodies under the Advocates Act, 1961. [Also Ref. To Bar Association & Anr. v. State of U.P. and 4 others13]

74. The said determination, is on the application of the intervenor HCBA and after the consideration of the issues raised at bar, in exercise of extra-ordinary powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, to bring quiteous to the numerous litigations which are being initiated and which also affects the dispensation of Justice.

Issue No. 3 and 4

3. What shall be the powers of the Elders Committee, and as to whether the same can be borne out from the model bye-laws propounded by the Bar Council of U.P. or from the bye-laws of the Advocates Association.

4. Consequences, if any, in a situation the Elders Committee, does not complete the election process, within 1 month or a dispute arises with regard to the elections conducted.

75. The next issue which requires consideration is regarding the powers of the Elders Committee and as to whether the Model Bye-Laws make provisions for the same.

76. Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the HCBA, submits that it is an admitted position that under the bye-laws of the Association, as well as, the Model Bye-Laws, the term of the office is 1 year; but however, the said term as per clause 18 of the Model Bye-Laws is to be computed from the date of the election; but however, as per the bye-laws of the HCBA, the office bearers of the Association and the Members of the governing council, shall hold the office till completion of 1 year, from the date when the new Executive Council takes over the charge (which according to their Bye-Laws is the □date of election□)

77. He further submits that the other point of distinction is that under the Model Bye-Laws, the governing council/Executive Committee can continue further for a period of 1 month, with the prior approval of the Elders Committee; but however, under the bye-laws of the HCBA it has been provided that the Governing Council/Executive Council will continue for 1 more month, during which the election of Executive Council has to be completed.

78. However, in case the elections are not held within 13 months, the Elders Committee will take over the charge of the Governing Council and will conduct the election within 1 month, and during this period the administration of the Association i.e., the Administrative power will vest in the Elders Committee. [Ref. To Rajesh Kr. Shukla v. Asst. Registrar14] On this issue there is no distinction between the Model Bye-Laws and the By-Laws of the HCBA.

79. However, the bye-laws of the HCBA provides that the Elders Committee will not take any policy decision, except to perform day to day work, which is necessary in the interest of the Bar Association. For ready reference Rule 18 of Rules of HCBA is reproduced below:

"Rule- 18 Terms of Offfice:

The Office Bearers of the Association and members of the Governing Council shall hold the office till the completion of one year from the date when new Executive Council takes over the charge. However, it will continue for one month more during which election of Executive Council has to be completed.

If the election of the governing council is not held within one year and one month then after 13 months, Elders` Committee will take over the charge of Governing Council and will conduct the election within one month, during this period, administration power will implant in Elders Committee. Elders Committee will not take any policy decision however perform day to day work, which is necessary in the interest of Bar Association.

Explanation :-Date of election is date when the new Governing Council takes over the charge."

80. From the aforesaid conjoint reading, it is evident that the administration of the Association will vest in the Elders Committee and such Elders Committee has to perform its functions. In order to elaborate the functions, Rule 8 of the Rules of HCBA is also reproduced below:

"ELDERS COMMITTEE

"8.There shall be an Elders Committee of the High Court Bar Association, Allahabad consisting of five designated Senior Most Members of the Association actively practicing in the High Court at Allahabad

(a) Senior Most Member of the Elders Committee will be the Chairman

(b) In case any member of Elders Committee is a candidate in the election rest of the Member swill function as its Members till he is relieved of his elected post and will thereafter joined as its member

(c) Only the Designated Senior who is the member of the High Court Bar Association and also practicing at the Allahabad High Court will be the member of the Elders Committee.

(d) It will be a permanent body once constituted for the first time by Executive Committee

(e) Short term vacancy due to death or resignation or on health grounds, rest of the members will elect/co-opt the member absolutely in accordance with seniority fulfilling other qualifications.

(f) One Senior Most members of the Elders Committee will retire after completing the election.

(g) All Existing Members of the Elders Committee will induct a new member by cooption/election and new Elder Committee will be declared along with the result of general election of the Association.

(h) New member will be inducted by the outgoing Elder Committee after full deliberation with the senior most member.

(i) If first senior member is unwilling, then the next senior will be inducted.

(j) If list of senior members is exhausted, it will rotate back and will start again from the senior most member.

(k) The Elders' Committee will work as on Election Commission independently. If the Executive Committee could not conduct the election within the period of one year and one month from the date of assuming charge, the Elders' Committee will conduct the election with assistance of the members of the High Court Bar Association, Allahabad."

81. Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Counsel submits that as per the certificate dated 20.12.2022, the Bar Council of U.P. in General House meeting dated 18.12.2022, has approved the amendments in bye-laws dated 01.12.2022 and such modifications have been accepted by the Bar Council of U.P., to be in conformity with the Model Bye-Laws as propounded by the Bar Council of U.P.

82. However, this court finds that such deviations, as detailed, herein above; and which are not in consonance with the Model By-Laws, cannot be permitted. Such non-conformity with the Model Bye-Laws and it's approval, by the Bar Council, cannot be permitted, for one Association and not for another.

83. The only way to permit any deviation proposed by any Bar Association, is to consider the same by a democratic process and then pass a commensurate amendment in the Model Bye-Law; and also send the same for approval to the BCI; and once BCI approves, the amended Model Bye-Laws is to be implemented across the Bar Associations in State of UP. Any deviation prior to this, can only be construed as violation of Model Bye-Laws and can attract disaffiliation.

84. In case, such modifications are to be permitted, firstly the Model Bye-Laws are to be amended and approved by the BCI. This will ensure a uniformity, across all the Associations in different Districts.

85. Bar Council, may form a committee, where such suggestions can be sent, so that it can be considered democratically and a consensus be reached through a process, and not through whims and fancies, of individual members of the Bar Councils, which does not reflect any transparency or a democratic process.

86. Now coming back to the question of the functions and powers of the Elders Committee, it is evident that now the administration of the Association will vest in the Elders Committee; however, they shall not take any policy decision except to perform day-to-day work, which is necessary in the interest of the Bar Association.

87. However, the Model Bye-Laws and the Rules of the HCBA, Allahabad does not provide for the consequences, in case the Elders Committee for whatsoever reason, is not able to hold the elections as per the bye-laws, within a period of 1 month. The aforesaid situation also leads to a conflict of interest and at times unrest amongst the Members of the Association, being devoid of a democratically elected Governing Council/Executive Committee.

88. The aforesaid situation is not unfathomable, as time and again the Bar Associations, members of the Bar in individual capacity, as well as, on behalf of the Association, the Office Bearers etc., have approached this Court, for resolving the disputes or disorder prevailing in the Association; and this Court, as one of the wheels of the chariot dispensing justice in the country, had invoked its extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, for solving the said disputes, fully conspicuous of the fact that the legislature has taken care to maintain the sanctity and status of the Bar Association, consisting of lawyers belonging to a noble profession, performing a very important role of maintaining the judicial system of the country, the backbone of the democratic structure of the country; but still when the need arises, it is the hardened duty of the Court to ensure that one of its wheels is not in disorder, as it will directly have an impact on the functioning of the judiciary.

89. A plethora of judgments already exists on the issues, reflecting the concern of the Court towards the Bar in resolving the disputes. In this endeavour, to help their counterparts, even at the instance of a Member of the Society i.e. “Advocates Association”, which is a registered body under the provisions of Societies Registration Act, 1860, which provides a complete mechanism to deal with the disputes, this Court has taken care and even by way of judicial pronouncement in the case of Satish Chandra Pandey (supra) has held that the lawyers cannot be equated with the members of a club or society, and intervention by the Registrar has to be minimum, if at all permissible under law for that purpose.

90. The Elders Committee, which has been constituted under the bye-laws is vested with the responsibility of managing the affairs and holding the elections after the term of the Committee of Management has come to an end; as such the powers under Section 25(2) of the Act was held to have no applicability in case of a Bar, whose elections have to be conducted in accordance with the Model Bye-Laws or under the amended rules of the Association.

91. In the case of the Shiv Kumar Akela (supra) also this Court had observed as follows:

"In general functioning of the justice delivery system, and in particular, functioning of the 'High Court' (which is an essential component of the said system and vital organ of administration of justice in the State). Quality of dispensation of justice is directly dependent upon professional standards of ethics and discipline amongst the members of the legal profession. One cannot expect the system to function smoothly and deliver desired fruits unless all the wings (Bar is one of it) are healthy and maintain dignity of the noble profession."

92. Apparently, a society registered as an Advocates Association has been given a distinct status and its existence is with an object to ensure proper functioning of the Court and to provide legal expertise to public at large so that justice may be dispensed in real sense. It is prima facie, a function having all the flavors of public utility service and basically a public function. The very object of an □Advocates Association□ is that, all levels of courts, come with affiliation/recognition, extended by the State Bar Council, regulating Members of the legal professions under Advocates Act, 1961 and Rules framed thereunder.

93. The initiation of various statutory welfare schemes, under the control of the State Bar Council and sponsored by the State Government e.g. to arrange □library□ to its Members, to promote high professional tools, standard and conduct amongst Members of the legal profession, to promote and develop legal science, to watch legislation for the purpose of assisting in the progress of sound legislation; and as such it performs a very onerous duty to ensure healthy functioning of the □apparatus□ meant for the justice delivery system, namely the Courts.

94. The entire functioning of the Advocates Association and the statutory bodies which regulate the same, are only towards the concern regarding the welfare of the □public□ and □bar□, which is nothing but a □public functionary□. It can also be said that the concept of □Advocate Association□ itself has emerged from the solemn object, to ensure proper and smooth functioning of the Courts, so that justice may be dispensed with, to the public at large.

95. The Apex Court in the case of Rajendra Sail vs. Madhya Pradesh High Court Bar Association and others15 has noted:

"The confidence of people in the institution of judiciary is necessary to be preserved at any cost. That is its main asset. Loss of confidence in institution of judiciary would be end of Rule of law. Therefore, any act which has such tendency deserves to be firmly curved. For rule of law and orderly society, a free responsible press and independent judiciary are both indispensable. Both have to be, therefore, protected."

96. The law laid down in the matter of Zee Telefilms Ltd. and others vs. Union of India and others16 also supports the maintainability issue.

97. The concept of the constitution of Elders Committee, as it goes by its name "Elder", is correlated to his experience, connected with his age and that is why the Bar Council while adopting the Model Bye Laws has used the word "seniority" and "Senior most"; if it is universally adopted all over the State or even in the country, such cases, which keep arising again and again disputing the constitution of the Elders Committee will come to an end.

98. The Model Bye-Laws under clause 3A(c) defines the Elders Committee as follows:

"Elders Committee" means a Committee, the composition of which is mentioned in Bye-Laws no.7 of these rules."

99. For ready reference Rule 7 is reproduced below:

"7. There shall be an Elders Committee of each association consisting of 5 senior most members of the Association actively practising in that court as :-

(a) As far as the High Court is concerned 5 designated Senior Most Advocates actively practising in High Court by virtue of their seniority.

(b) so far as the District Court is concerned the seniority of the members of the Elders Committee will be determined taking into account the date of enrolment as an Advocate by the Bar Council and having atleast rendered 10 years regular practice in that court and continuing as regular practitioner of that Court.

(c) Senior most member of the Elders Committee will be the Chairman."

100. We have already referred to Rule 8 of the HCBA, Allahabad, wherein, apart from some deviation pertaining to the time period, when the Elders Committee comes into the effective control of the administration of the Association, in sum and substance there is conformity with Rule 7 of the Model Bye-Laws; and as such the powers of the Elders Committee, shall be the same as that of the Governing Council/Executive Council, as the administration of the Association vests with the Governing Council or Executive Committee.

101. We may also gainfully refer to Rule 3A(e) of the Model Bye-Laws, which is as follows:

3.(A) Defination: Unless the context otherwise require in this By laws.

e) "Governing Council or Executive Committee or any other Committee" by whatever name called, means a body to manage the affairs of the Association."

102. For ready reference Rule 4(d) and (e) of HCBA Rules are also being reproduced below:

4. Definition: Unless the context otherwise require in these Rules:-

(d) "General Body" Means a body comprising of all the Members of the Association

(e) "Governing Council" Means a body to manage the affairs of the Association

103. From the perusal of the aforesaid definition and Rules 7 of the Model Bye-Laws, it is evident that the intent is to give the administration of the Association, in the hand of the Elders Committee; but for a limited period i.e. 1 month, within which the election has to be held.

104. However, the Model Bye-Laws does not envisage a situation, where due to unavoidable reasons the elections cannot be held; and in such a situation, in case, the Elders Committee continues with the effective control of the administration of the Association, the same may not be in spirit of formation of a society, to be run by a democratic process.

105. In the aforesaid eventuality the powers of the Elders Committee is to be circumscribed and the continuation of the Elders Committee could only be by way of approval by the General Council of the Association.

106. It is not disputed that the powers which vest in term of clause-18 of the Model Bye-Laws in the Elders Committee, is at par with the functioning of the Governing Council/Executive Council and an extraordinary general meeting, of the ordinary Members of the Association can be convened on a requisition and also by the requisitionists, which shall be presided over by one of the Senior Members of the Elders Committee. For ready reference clause-31 of the Model Bye-Laws is reproduced below:

" 31. An extra ordinary General Meeting of the ordinary members of the Association shall be convened by the President/Secretary at the requisition of 60 ordinary Members. Such requisition shall be in writing, addressed to the President/Secretary and accompanied by a statement.

(a) In case the extraordinary general meeting of the Association is not convened as per the requisition and same is also not ruled out by the Governing Council the requisition shall be entitled to convene the meeting to be presided over by one of the senior member of Elders Committee.

(b) No decision will be taken to strike work in the Court by the Bar Association beyond a strike of one day, unless the decision is taken by majority of members present and voting by Secret Ballot in a General Body Meeting of Association. Only life/Ordinary members will participate in voting who are entitled to vote on that day according to rules of the Association."

107. In view of the aforesaid, what is borne out from the various provisions of the Model Bye-Laws, is that after completion of 1 year from the date of their elections, in extraordinary circumstances, the Members of the Governing Council/Executive Committee can continue for another 1 month; but only with the appropriate approval of the Elders Committee, for the reasons to be recorded, within which they will get the elections completed. But thereafter, when the said period expires and the Elders Committee takes charge, what the Bye-Laws do not provide is, in an eventuality, even if the Elders Committee does not hold elections within 1 month, then which sanctions/approvals are required, prior to the extension of their effective control.

108. Accordingly, in the interregnum, we provide as follows:

(I) The Elders Committee will not take any financial decisions or decisions pertaining to the movable and immovable properties of the Association; and shall exercise only such financial powers which may be necessary for performing day to day functions of the Association or for the conduct of the elections.

(II) The Elders Committee shall be permanent in nature consisting of 5 designated senior-most Advocates, actively practicing in the High Court by the virtue of their seniority as designated Advocates; and in case of district court, the seniority of the Members of the Elders Committee will be determined by taking into account, the date of enrollment as an advocate by the Bar Council; and having rendered atleast 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioner of that Court; and the senior most Member of the Elders Committee, will be the Chairman of the respective Associations i.e. the High Court and the District Courts.

(III) Once the situation contemplated in clause-18 of the Model Bye-Laws arises and the elections are not held within 1 year, the extension of period of 1 month shall only be given, considering an extraordinary circumstance, by the Elders Committee, for the reasons to be recorded and with an undertaking that the elections shall be held within the said extended 1 month by the outgoing Committee. However, in failing to hold the elections within the extended 1 month for whatever reasons, the Elders Committee shall take over the administration of the Association and shall hold the elections within another 1 month; failing which the extraordinary general meeting has to be called and the elections has to be held on the date fixed by the General Assembly, by the Elders Committee.

(IV) Once the elections are held, the charge shall be handed over to the newly elected Committee; thereafter one senior-most Member of the Elders Committee i.e. the Chairman, will retire and the existing Members shall induct the next senior most Member i.e. a designated Advocate actively practicing in High Court by virtue of his seniority (in case of HCBA); and the next senior most Member (in case of District/Tehsil Bar Associations) having rendered atleast 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioner of that Court. The Chairman, shall be the senior most Member, of the newly constituted Elders Committee. However, the retiring Chairman of the Elders Committee, shall again be eligible, after the next elections, to be inducted in the Elders Committee.

(V) The Elders Committee shall hand over the list constituting the Elders Committee to the newly elected Committee; which shall recognize the said "Elders Committee" in its first meeting; and thereafter it shall be open to the Members of the Association to file objections before the newly elected Committee, only confining to the seniority as envisaged in Rule-7 of the Model Bye-Laws, and the same shall be determined as provided herein above i.e. in case of a District Court, the issue shall be referred under Section 21 of the Act, 1961 to the Bar Council of U.P.; and in case of a seniority dispute in the HCBA, the same shall be determined as per the list of senior designated Advocates, maintained by the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, in an in-house proceeding.

(VI) It is also clarified that if any senior Member is unwilling, the next senior will be inducted, and the consideration for the said induction of a new Member, by retiring the senior most person; shall be confined within the top 10 senior Members either in the list of designated senior Advocates (for the purpose of HCBA) or top 10 seniors, who have rendered at least 10 years regular practice in that Court and continuing as regular practitioners of that Court, by virtue of their date of enrollment as an Advocate by the Bar Council (in case of District Courts).

(VII) If there is any deviation from the Model Bye-Laws either Suo Moto or on a complaint being received, from any member of the Bar Association, it shall be incumbent upon the State Bar Council, to examine the same, after giving due opportunity, to the concerned Bar Association; and if found to be correct, the said Bar Association will be given an opportunity to amend their Bye-Laws and bring the same in conformity to the Model Bye-Laws, within 30 days, failing which the same shall be disaffiliated.

(VIII) The State Bar Council may form a permanent Committee, where the Bar Associations may file their objections and suggestions and at least once a year, the Committee may deliberate upon the same and either it may accept the same or reject the same. Once accepted the proposed amendments may be sent to BCI, and if approved, the same may be made applicable to all Bar Associations, uniformly. Needless to say that all proposed amendments, may be made, adhering to the Principles of Natural Justice and all applicable Laws.

(IX) In case the elections are disputed, the same can also be referred to the Elders Committee, who shall decide the dispute, on the principles laid down under Section 25(1) of the Society Registration Act, 1860.

The aforesaid directions are only in the interregnum, till the Bar Council, if deems necessary, exercise their powers to make amendments, in the Model Bye-Laws, and which will only be implemented, after it's approval from the BCI.

(Chandrashekhar Upadhyay, Advocate vs. State of U.P. and 8 others)

109. In view of the foregoing discussions, since by way of the impugned order, the resolution dated 04.02.2026 passed by the outgoing President of the District Bar Association, Mau, whereby respondent nos.5 to 9 were nominated as Members of the Elders Committee, dehors the mandate of the Model Bye-Laws and the Bye-Laws of the Association, apart from it being in violation of Clause 7 of the Model Bye-Laws, cannot be sustained and accordingly, is set aside and the consequences shall follow.

(Ankit Kumar vs. State of U.P. and 2 others)

110. In view of the foregoing discussions, the impugned order dated 19.02.2026 by way of which a Committee of 20 Members for holding elections of the Bar Association was constituted, dehors the mandate of the Model Bye-Laws and the Bye-Laws of the Association, in question. is hereby set-aside and consequences shall follow.

111. Before parting with the judgment, we may also observe that the High Court of Judicature at Allahabad, is a chartered High Court with a distinctive history and traditions which discharges a very pivotal role in the administration of justice, in one of the biggest State in the country; and in any matter which concerns the well being of Advocates, has to be resolved in a spirit of cooperation, in order to ensure the ensuing problems, do not assume unmanageable proportions.

112. We may also refer to a decision of this Court in P.I.L. No.26676 of 2024 (Sunita Sharma vs. Deputy Registrar, Chits, Funds, Society and others17), wherein, an objection was received by the Elders Committee, to the effect that the voters list has not been prepared in accordance with the Rules; and this Court while entertaining the writ petition, scrutinized the role of Elders Committee and thereafter issued directions with respect to the elections of HCBA.

113. The said judgment is only being referred to indicate that against the decision of Elders Committee, a Member who is aggrieved, is not remediless but at the same time this Court while considering the various mandates of the bye-laws, indicated the perspective of the Elders Committee and the pivotal role which the Advocates play in the administration of justice, is also paramount; and accordingly, as far as possible the disputes, should be settled amicably and by way of an in-house proceeding.

114. Bar Council of U.P. is directed to circulate a copy of this judgment to all the affiliated Bar Associations in the State of U.P. and ensure strict compliance of the Model Bye-Laws; and in case any bye-laws of the affiliated Bar Association is found to be, not in consonance with the Model Bye-Laws, the Bar Council may take steps, by providing them a reasonable time at the first instance, to bring their bye-laws in conformity with the Model Bye-Laws; and failing which the said Bar Association may be disaffiliated.

115. The said exercise may be completed within a period of 1 year, to ensure that the elections held for the year 2027, with respect to the affiliated Bar Associations, are in conformity with the Model Bye-Laws.

116. Registrar (Compliance) is directed to send a copy of the judgment to the Bar Council of U.P. for necessary compliance.

117. Before parting with the Judgement, we would like to make a special mention, for the the assistance rendered by the President of HCBA, Shri Rakesh Pande, learned Senior Advocate and the other Members of the Bar, who rendered their assistance, as an officer of the Court, including the Amicus Curiae Ms. Naina Sharma, Advocate and Mr. Achintya Rai Sharma, Advocate, for their assistance by providing their valuable research on the legal issues. We also appreciate the gesture of the Amicus Curiae, for refusing to not accept any remuneration, for the service rendered.

118. With the aforesaid observations/directions, both the writ petitions stands disposed off.

Issue for consideration

The matter involves a challenge to stamp duty deficiency proceedings arising from the valuation of land as non-agricultural.

Headnotes

A. Civil matter-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-Indian Stamp Act,1899-Section 47-A-Deficiency of stamp duty-Agricultural land-Residential/Commercial potential-Market value-Spot inspection-Inspection Report-Inspection without notice-Mere irregularity-Deficiency determined – Agricultural use not proved-Collector's order sustained-Valid exercise of power-writ petition dismissed. (Para 18 to 27)

Held

The court held that failure to give prior notice before spot inspection was only an irregularity, not an illegality, as no prejudice was caused to the petitioner. The collector rightly determined the market value by considering the land's residential potential, surrounding development, and contemporaneous use. Consequently, the finding of deficiency of stamp duty was upheld. (E-6)

Adv. for Respondent(s):
C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saurabh Shyam Shamshery, J.)

1. Heard Sri Samarth Sinha and Sri Vijay Sinha, learned Advocates for the petitioners and Sri P.K.Asthana, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Present bunch of three writ petitions are arising out of a case of deficiency of stamp duty for 3 sale deeds purchased by the petitioner of different area of a single arazi.

3. In the sale deed, respective land in question was shown as an agricultural land and accordingly stamp duty and registration fee was paid. However, on inspection under Section 47A (3) of Indian Stamps Act, respective reports were submitted by concerned A.D.M that stamp duty is to be determined considering respective land in dispute as non agricultural land being situated at Link Marg, Vista Farmhouse Colony.

4. It was further found that respective lands in dispute were not used for agriculture purpose. Surrounding lands were sold as small residential plots, there was a boundary wall wherein more than 60000 bricks were used and accordingly, notices were issued to the petitioner whereby he was asked to submit respective reply.

5. During proceedings, District Magistrate himself conducted an inspection on 23.7.2025 and for reference, one of the report is reproduced hereinafter: Other two reports are of similar nature:

" स्थल निरीक्षण आख्या

दिनांक 23.07.2025 को न्यायालय के द्वारा स्वयं प्रश्नगत वाद में निहित कयशुदा सम्पत्ति का स्थलीय निरीक्षण किया गया। निरीक्षण के समय क्षेत्रीय नायव तहसीलदार, राजस्व निरीक्षक व लेखपाल उपस्थित थे। मौके पर कयशुदा भूमि का चन्हांकन विलेख में अंकित चौहद्दी एवं उपस्थित स्थआनीय लोगों के अनुसार किया गया, जो टप्पल से मिलिक जाने वाले लिंक मार्ग पर स्थित है। उक्त भूमि मौके पर गैर कृषिक रूप में प्रयोग की जा रही है, जिसमें सीमेंटिड व इन्टरलाकिंग की सड़के निर्मित है तथा प्लाटिंग का कार्य हो रहा है। कय की गयी सम्पत्ति विस्टा फार्म हाउस कालोनी में अन्दर स्थित है।"

6. In the reports, it was not mentioned as to whether petitioner was issued notice to remain present since his presence was not noted.

7. The petitioner was asked to submit his reply to the notice, which he submitted through his Advocate wherein he has stated that lands in question are used for agriculture purpose, it is not part of any colony, it is surrounded by other agricultural land and boundary wall was constructed to protect the land.

8. At this stage Court takes note that sale deed was executed by the petitioner being Director of Contour Buildcon Private Ltd.

9. In the aforesaid circumstances, the District Magistrate passed respective orders dated 30.07.2025 and held that there was a deficiency of stamp duty with a specific finding that respective land in question was situated at Link Marg of Vista Farmhouse Colony and it is not used for agriculture purpose and being surrounded by lands used for residential purpose and about 60000 bricks were used to construct the boundary wall of lands in dispute. Accordingly, respective impugned orders of similar nature were passed and for reference one of the impugned order is mentioned hereinafter:-

"उभय पक्षों के तर्कों को सुना गया तथा पत्रावली का गम्भीरता पूर्वक अवलोकन किया गया। पत्रावली के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट होता है कि विलेख संख्या 13152 / 30.07.2022 के माध्यम से एक किता आराजी कृषि भूमि गाटा संख्या 4704 मि0 में से विकीत क्षेत्रफल 0.691 है0 स्थित मौजा टप्पल, परगना टप्पल व तहसील खैर, जिला अलीगढ़, कृषि भूमि दर्शाकर उक्त विलेख के माध्यम से अन्तरण किया गया है। जांच अधिकारी के अनुसार मौके पर काफी भिन्नता पायी गयी। मौके पर विस्टा फार्म्स हाउस कालोनी में लिंक मार्ग पर स्थित है, जो मौके पर अकृषक रूप में है, मौके पर कोई कृषि कार्य नहीं किया जा रहा है तथा आस-पास भी प्लांटिंग हो रही है एवं विकीत सम्पत्ति की बाउण्ड्री वॉल में लगभग 60 हजार ईंट संलग्न है, जिसको न दर्शाकर स्पष्ट रूप से करापवंचन किया गया है। इस प्रकार उक्त भूमि का मूल्यांकन तत्समय तत्स्थान पर लागू मूल्यांकन सूची के प्रारूप-3 पेज सं0 60 वीकोड 1124 के कालम 5 के अनुसार 5,200/- रूपया प्रति वर्ग मी0 एवं रेट लिस्ट के सामान्य निर्देश के पेज सं0 71 के क्रमांक 16 के अनुसार 6/- रूपया प्रति ईंट की निर्धारित दर से करते हुए निम्नवत किया जाना अपेक्षित है।

0.100 है0 तक दो गुना दर से मूल्यांकन करते हुये निर्धारित दर से स्टाम्प अदा किया जा चुका है। क्रेता का यह कथन स्वीकार किये जाने योग्य नहीं है, क्योंकि किसी भी भूमि मूल्यांकन उसके आस-पास स्थापित गतिविधियों के आधार पर किया जाता है। मात्र यह कथित करने से कि मौके पर कृषि कार्य हो रहा है, जिसके समर्थन में कोई भी साक्ष्य प्रस्तुत नहीं किया गया है इसलिये मात्र कथन के आधार पर कोई भी भूमि कृषि भूमि के रूप में स्थापित नहीं हो सकती है। क्रेता के द्वारा अपने जवाब में यह तथ्य भी अंकित किया है कि जांच अधिकारी के द्वारा जांच आख्या मौके के अनुसार नहीं है, जिसका किसी भी अभिलेखीय साक्ष्य से क्रेता के द्वारा खण्डन नहीं किया गया है, जबकि जांच अधिकारी के द्वारा अपनी आख्या के साथ संलग्न नजरी नक्शा व फोटोग्राफ्स के माध्यम से यह तार्किक रूप से स्थापित किया गया है कि कयशुदा सम्पत्ति में किसी प्रकार की फसल बोई हुई दर्शित नहीं हो रही है तथा आस-पास में विभिन्न प्रकार के आवासीय प्लाट व सड़कें पड़ी हुई हैं एवं प्लाट की नींव भरी हुई है, फोटोग्राफ्स में दिख रहे हैं। उपरोक्त समस्त तथ्यों की पुष्टि स्वयं न्यायालय के द्वारा किये गये स्थलीय निरीक्षण दिनांक 23.07.2025 से फोटोग्राफ्स से हो जाती है। इस प्रकार उपरोक्त तथ्यों से स्पष्ट है कि कयशुदा सम्पत्ति आवासीय प्रयोजनीयता की भूमि है तथा उपरोक्त आराजी के गाटा संख्या 4704मि0 में से केता पक्ष (जिनमें स्वंय विक्रेता के रूप में कान्टूर बिल्डकॉन कं0 है) के द्वारा विभिन्न पक्षकारों/केताओं को कुछ समय के पश्चात ही आवासीय भूखण्ड के रूप में विक्रय किया गया है, जिसकी पुष्टि उप निबन्धक खैर के द्वारा उपलब्ध करायी गयी पंजीकरण सूची(इंडेक्सिंग) से हो रही है, जिसका विवरण इस प्रकार से है:- 8496/2022, 8500/2022, 8516/2022, 8572/2022, 8583/2022, 8595/2022, 8599/2022, 8611/2022, 8612/2022, 8616/2022, 8624/2022, 8627/2022, 8630/2022, 8631/2022, 8641/2022, 8656/2022 तथा वर्ष 2023 में भी लगभग 23 विलेखों का पंजीकरण आवासीय दरों से किया गया है, जिससे स्पष्ट है कि कय की गयी सम्पत्ति की प्रयोजनीयता/उपादेयता तत्समय भी आवासीय थी। इस प्रकार केता के द्वारा प्रस्तुत जवाब दिनांक 21.05.2025 बलहीन एवं निराधार होने के कारण निरस्त किये जाने योग्य है, क्योंकि जांच अधिकारी के द्वारा अपनी आख्या में अंकित तथ्यों के आधार पर कय की गयी सम्पत्ति को आवासीय प्रकृति भूमि होने के कारण को तार्किक रूप से स्थापित किया है, इसलिये जांच अधिकारी की आख्या स्वीकार किये जाने का पर्याप्त आधार है, जिसकी पुष्टि स्वयं न्यायालय के द्वारा दिनांक 23.07.2025 को किये गये स्थलीय निरीक्षण से हो जाती है। इस प्रकार क्रेता का जवाब दिनांक 21.05.2025 निराधार एवं बलहीन होने के कारण अस्वीकार किया जाता है। तदनुसार जांच अधिकारी/अपर जिलाधिकारी(वि0/रा0) अलीगढ़ की जांच आख्या दिनांक 14.11.2022 के अनुसार विकीत सम्पत्ति का मूल्यांकन किया जाना न्यायोचित प्रतीत होता है। इस प्रकार विलेख संख्या 13152/30.07.2022 के माध्यम से एक किता आराजी कृषि भूमि गाटा संख्या 4704मि0 में से विकीत क्षेत्रफल 0.691 है0 स्थित मौजा टप्पल, परगना टप्पल व तहसील खैर, जिला अलीगढ़, कृषि भूमि दर्शाकर उक्त विलेख के माध्यम से अन्तरण किया गया है। जांच अधिकारी के अनुसार मौके पर काफी भिन्नता पायी गयी है। मौके पर विस्ता फार्म्स हाउस कालोनी में लिंक मार्ग पर स्थित है, जो मौके पर भिन्नता पायी गयी। मौके पर विस्टा फार्म्स हाउस कालोनी में लिंक मार्ग पर स्थित है, जो मौके पर अकृषक रूप में है, मौके पर कोई कृषि कार्य नहीं किया जा रहा है तथा आस-पास भी प्लांटिंग हो रही है एवं विकीत सम्पत्ति की बाउण्ड्री वॉल में लगभग 60 हजार ईंट संलग्न है, जिसको न दर्शाकर स्पष्ट रूप से करापवंचन किया गया है। उक्त भूमि का मूल्यांकन तत्समय तत्स्थान पर लागू मूल्यांकन सूची के प्रारूप-3 पेज सं० 60 वीकोड 1124 के कालम 5 के अनुसार 5,200/- रूपया प्रति वर्ग मी० एवं रेट लिस्ट के सामान्य निर्देश के पेज सं० 71 के क्रमांक 16 के अनुसार 6/- रूपया प्रति ईंट की निर्धारित दर से करते हुए इस प्रकार से किया जाता है।

3,62,92,000/- रूपया होती है, जिस पर निर्धारित दर 7 प्रतिशत की दर से देय स्टाम्प शुल्क रूपया 25,40,440/- व रूपया 3,62,920/- का निबन्धन शुल्क देय है। जबकि प्रलेख पर रूपया 5,21,000/- का स्टाम्प शुल्क व रूपया 74,360/- का निबन्धन शुल्क अदा किया गया है। इस प्रकार प्रश्नगत प्रलेख में रूपया 20,19,440/- स्टाम्प शुल्क व रूपया 2,88,560/- रूपया निबन्धन शुल्क की कमी प्रथम दृष्ट्या पायी गयी है। केता द्वारा विलेख निष्पादन के समय वास्तविक तथ्यों को छिपाया गया है इसलिये अर्थदण्ड अधिरोपित करने का भी पर्याप्त आधार है।

अतः उपर्युक्त विवेचना के आधार पर विलेख संख्या 13152/30.07.2022 को स्टाम्प अधिनियम की धारा 33/40(ख) के अन्तर्गत अवरुद्ध करते हुए क्रेता पर कमी स्टाम्प 20,19,440/- रूपया, कमी निबन्धन शुल्क 2,88,560/- रूपया, अर्थदण्ड 5,00,000/- रूपये तथा विलेख निष्पादन की दिनांक 24.05.2022 से धनराशि जमा करने की वास्तविक दिनांक तक 1.5 प्रतिशत मासिक साधारण ब्याज की दर से अधिरोपित किया जाता है। आदेश की एक प्रति सहायक आयुक्त स्टाम्प, अलीगढ़ को प्रेषित हो। बाद वसूली एवं आवश्यक कार्यवाही पत्रावली दाखिल राजस्व अभिलेखागार की जाय।"

10. The petitioner thereafter submitted respective appeals however all the appeals were decided by separate orders dated 27.01.2026.

11. In the aforesaid circumstances, petitioner has approached this Court by filing present bunch of writ petitions.

12. Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that inspection was not conducted in terms of the Indian Stamp Act,1899 and the U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules 1997. It was conducted in the absence of petitioner. No notice was issued to the petitioner to participate in the inspection. The District Magistrate has passed the impugned order only on the basis of report without making any independent application of mind that respective land in questions are used only for the purpose of agriculture. Land was not declared □Abadi□ under Section 80 of U.P. Land Revenue Code, 2006.

13. The deficiency of stamp duty was wrongly determined on basis of small sale exemplars and he has placed reliance on a judgment passed in Anuj Kumar Singh and 2 Ors. Vs. State of U.P. and 2 Ors., 2025:AHC:211526.

14. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents has vehemently supported the impugned orders that there is no material with the petitioner to dispute the spot inspection report, prepared by the Collector by conducting an inspection himself.

15.The surrounding area is purchased by the petitioner's construction company i.e. Contour Buildcon Private Ltd. which was later on sold for residential purpose and there were as many as 23 sale exemplars on record.

16. The petitioner has already purchased sufficient part from same gata and later on sold for the purpose of residential area. There is no possibility that area which is surrounded by residential plots could be used only for agriculture purpose, rather it has potentiality to be used as commercial land in near future.

17. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

18. First issue for consideration before this Court is whether spot inspection conducted by District Magistrate himself on 23.7.2025 and report thereof could not be relied upon since spot inspection was conducted without issuing any notice to the petitioner and for that Court takes note of U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 and Rule 7 (3) of said rules provides that Collector may inspect the property after due notice to the parties to the instrument, therefore, it is not mandatory for the District Magistrate to conduct an inspection. However, if an inspection is conducted, notice ought to have been given to the petitioners, but nothing has been recorded in the inspection report therefore, there is an irregularity.

19. Now question would be that whether a report prepared in absence of petitioner would prejudice him to the effect that impugned orders be set-aside and for that Court takes note of inspection report dated 23.7.2025 wherein it was mentioned that lands in question were situated at Link Road, lands were not utilised for agriculture purpose, there were cemented roads with interlocking, plotting work work was going on and land was situated within Vista Farm House Colony.

20. Petitioner has vaguely denied aforesaid report and stated that there was no construction on the lands in dispute or near the said lands. However, it is not under dispute that lands were purchased by Contour Buildcon Private Ltd. which is surrounded by at least three sides of lands already purchased by said company.

21. Petitioner has not come up with any specific evidence whatsoever that lands in question were used for agricultural purpose except a vague denial.

22. It is also not denied that petitioner has already purchased other parts of same Gata and within a few period, it was sold to other persons in form of small lands as residential plots and this specific finding is not being denied either in writ petition or during arguments, therefore, Court finds that no prejudice is caused to petitioner, therefore, only on basis that petitioner was not issued notice before conducting inspection, it may be an irregularity but not an illegality.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner has failed to show any basis to deny the aforesaid facts that Modus Operandi of petitioner was that he purchased various parts of single Gata allegedly for the purpose of agriculture, but within a very short period it was sold to various vendors in small area of plots for residential purpose, therefore, it is very possible that same Modus Operandi would be followed for the lands in question.

24. Now, second question for consideration would be that when sale deeds were executed, it was utilized for agriculture purpose or completely for residential purpose and later on can still defficiency in stamp duty be pointed out or calculated.

25. At this stage Court takes note of a Full Bench judgment passed by this Court in Smt. Pushpa Sareen Vs. State of U.P., 2015, (3) ADJ 136, that there is no bar if the market value of the property is determined with reference to the use to which the land is a capable reasonably of being put to immediately or in the proximate future. The possibility of land becoming becoming available in the immediate or near future for better use and enjoyment reflects upon the potentiality of the land. This potential has to be assessed with reference to the date of the execution of the instrument. In other words, the power of the Collector cannot be unduly circumscribed by ruling out the potential to which the land can be advantageously deployed at the time of the execution of the instrument or a period reasonably proximate thereto. Again the use to which land in the area had been put is a material consideration. If the land surrounding the property in question has been put to commercial use, it would be improper to hold that this is a circumstance which should not weigh with the Collector as a factor which influences the market value of the land. For reference, relevant part of said judgment is reproduced hereinafter:

" The true test for determination by the Collector is the market value of the property on the date of the instrument because, under the provisions of the Act, every instrument is required to be stamped before or at the time of execution. In making that determination, the Collector has to be mindful of the fact that the market value of the property may vary from location to location and is dependent upon a large number of circumstances having a bearing on the comparative advantages or disadvantages of the land as well as the use to which the land can be put on the date of the execution of the instrument.

Undoubtedly, the Collector is not permitted to launch upon a speculative inquiry about the prospective use to which a land may be put to use at an uncertain future date. The market value of the property has to be determined with reference to the use to which the land is capable reasonably of being put to immediately or in the proximate future. The possibility of the land becoming available in the immediate or near future for better use and enjoyment reflects upon the potentiality of the land. This potential has to be assessed with reference to the date of the execution of the instrument. In other words, the power of the Collector cannot be unduly circumscribed by ruling out the potential to which the land can be advantageously deployed at the time of the execution of the instrument or a period reasonably proximate thereto. Again the use to which land in the area had been put is a material consideration. If the land surrounding the property in question has been put to commercial use, it would be improper to hold that this is a circumstance which should not weigh with the Collector as a factor which influences the market value of the land."

26. Considering the above position of law and above referred Modus Operandi of petitioner and that there is not much denial about the commercial activities which are surrounded to the lands in question purchased by the petitioner which was rightly taken note of by Collector, therefore, impugned orders has a support of not only facts of the case, but position of law also.

27. In the aforesaid circumstances, Court does not find that there is any illegality in the impugned orders, accordingly, all the writ petitions are dismissed.

CIVIL JURISDICTION: WRIT -C No. -12303 OF 2026 06.05.2026
M/S OM Food Manufacturing Center Vs. State of U.P. & 2 Ors
From the judgment and order dated 06.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Adv. for Petitioner(s):
Kumar Ankit Srivastava
Advs. for Respondent(s):
C.S.C., Udit Chandra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arindam Sinha, J.)

1. Petitioner is before us contending enjoyment of commercial connection. On application for enhancement of load, it was increased to 140KV on 14th July, 2023. Subsequent to the increase, petitioner regularly paid consumption charge bills. After lapse of two years, the supply company issued notice that there was mistake in applying rate for the charges for electricity earlier consumed and made demand in excess of Rs. 54,00,000/-. Increase of load and installation of meter were not in hands of petitioner. There is no allegation of theft but of mistake made by the supply company. Petitioner is being sought to be penalised on threat of disconnection.

2. On 23rd April, 2026 we had recorded order, carrying our query. It will appear from paragraph 3 of the order, reproduced below.

"3. We see that the supply company is raising a dispute in respect of bills already paid and due discharge obtained by petitioner. Dispute because the supply company says that there was omission and incorrect bills were raised. On query Mr. Chandra seeks adjournment to demonstrate applicable provision, whereunder the supply company can raise demand on incorrect bills."

Mr. Kumar Ankit Srivastava, learned advocate appears on behalf of petitioner. Mr. Piyush Shukla, learned advocate, Standing Counsel appears for State and Mr. Udit Chandra, learned advocate for respondent nos. 2 and 3 (the supply company).

3. Today Mr. Chandra relies on judgment of the Supreme Court in Assistant Engineer, Ajmer Vidyut Vitran Nigam Limited v. Rahamatullah Khan alias Rahamjulla reported in (2020) 4 SCC 650, paragraph 8 in Law Finder print. The paragraph is reproduced below.

"8. Applying the aforesaid ratio to the facts of the present case, the licensee company raised an additional demand on 18.03.2014 for the period July, 2009 to September, 2011.

The licensee company discovered the mistake of billing under the wrong Tariff Code on 18.03.2014. The limitation period of two years under Section 56(2) had by then already expired.

Section 56(2) did not preclude the licensee company from raising an additional or supplementary demand after the expiry of the limitation period under Section 56(2) in the case of a mistake or bona fide error. It did not however, empower the licensee company to take recourse to the coercive measure of disconnection of electricity supply, for recovery of the additional demand. As per section 17(1)(c) of the Limitation Act, 1963, in case of a mistake, the limitation period begins to run from the date when the mistake is discovered for the first time.

In Mahabir Kishore and Ors. v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1989) 4 SCC 1 this Court held that:-

"section 17(1)(c) of the Limitation Act, 1963, provides that in the case of a suit for relief on the ground of mistake, the period of limitation does not begin to run until the plaintiff had discovered the mistake or could with reasonable diligence, have discovered it. In a case where payment has been made under a mistake of law as contrasted with a mistake of fact, generally the mistake become known to the party only when a court makes a declaration as to the invalidity of the law. Though a party could, with reasonable diligence, discover a mistake of fact even before a court makes a pronouncement, it is seldom that a person can, even with reasonable diligence, discover a mistake of law before a judgment adjudging the validity of the law."

(emphasis supplied)

*In the present case, the period of limitation would commence from the date of discovery of the mistake i.e. 18.03.2014. The licensee company may take recourse to any remedy available in law for recovery of the additional demand, but is barred from taking recourse to disconnection of supply of electricity under section (2) of Section 56 of the Act."

(emphasis supplied)

4. For purpose of convenience, section 56 in Electricity Act, 2003 is reproduced below.

"Section 56. Disconnection of supply in default of payment.-

(1) Where any person neglects to pay any charge for electricity or any sum other than a charge for electricity due from him to a licensee or the generating company in respect of supply, transmission or distribution or wheeling of electricity to him, the licensee or the generating company may, after giving not less than fifteen clear days' notice in writing, to such person and without prejudice to his rights to recover such charge or other sum by suit, cut off the supply of electricity and for that purpose cut or disconnect any electric supply line or other works being the property of such licensee or the generating company through which electricity may have been supplied, transmitted, distributed or wheeled and may discontinue the supply until such charge or other sum, together with any expenses incurred by him in cutting off and reconnecting the supply, are paid, but no longer:

Provided that the supply of electricity shall not be cut off if such person deposits, under protest,-

(a) an amount equal to the sum claimed from him, or

(b) the electricity charges due from him for each month calculated on the basis of average charge for electricity paid by him during the preceding six months, whichever is less, pending disposal of any dispute between him and the licensee.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law for the time being in force, no sum due from any consumer, under this section shall be recoverable after the period of two years from the date when such sum became first due unless such sum has been shown continuously as recoverable as arrear of charges for electricity supplied and the licensee shall not cut off the supply of the electricity."

It follows, subsequent demand on discovery of mistake can be made as on law declared, on interpretation of section 56. No other provision has been shown. The law declared says, there cannot be recovery to distress of the consumer. Upon perusal of initial notice dated 1st July, 2025 and subsequent notice dated 24th October, 2025 we see that original demand of aggregate Rs. 54,14,196.88/- stood increased to Rs. 62,03,152/-. The initial notice speaks only of mistake detected. There is no statement regarding bonafide error. Petitioner was thereby presented with allegation of discovery without any opportunity for him to test its correctness. Furthermore, there are items of charge and other entries in the bill, including for rebate. They do not bear particulars. Mr. Chandra submits, he be allowed time to obtain instruction regarding upward revision in the demand. As aforesaid, law declared is that subsequent discovery of bonafide mistake leading to additional charge, can be recovered.

5. Section 56(1) provides for procedure of 15 clear days' notice in writing, to recover the charge, including by cutting off supply of electricity. Sub-section (2) provides for limitation. Rahamatullah Khan (supra) says, coercive action cannot be taken. In other words, the supply company not having recourse to coercive steps for recovery, must obtain civil remedy on a principal sum and may claim interest on the principal sum as a claim in the action. There cannot be upward revision in the demand, after it is made. The supply company cannot progressively increase its demand.

6. In this case we direct the supply company to present the discovery of mistake and proper calculation, with applicable rebate given to petitioner, for payment within the prescribed time. In event of non-payment, the supply company has to resort to civil remedy, to recover. At this stage Mr. Chandra relies on a subsequent judgment of the Supreme Court in M/s Prem Cottex v. Uttar Haryana Bijli Vitran Nigam Ltd. reported in (2021) 20 SCC 200, paragraphs 18 and 21 in Law Finder print. Paragraph 18 is reproduced below.

"18. Eventually, this Court disposed of the appeals, preventing the licensee from taking recourse to disconnection of supply, but giving them liberty to take recourse to any remedy available in law for recovery of the additional demand. Therefore, the decision in Rahamatullah Khan (supra) is distinguishable on facts."

We do not see that Rahamatullah Khan (supra) was overruled. On the contrary, the Supreme Court in distinguishing Rahamatullah Khan (supra) on facts strengthens our appreciation of the judgment as law declared.

7. The writ petition is thus allowed and disposed of.

Writ C No. 12569 of 2026

Khushi Hospital & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether the Chief Medical Officer (CMO) acting individually has the statutory jurisdiction to cancel the registration (even provisional) and seal a clinical establishment under the Clinical Establishments Act, 2010, or if that power belongs exclusively to the multi-member District Registering Authority?
(b) Whether writ Court can intervene, inspite of efficacious alternative remedy available?

Headnotes

A. Healthcare Law - Licensing and Operations – Clinical Establishments (Registration and Regulation) Act, 2010: Sections 10, 32 - The petitioners, operating a hospital under a provisional registration, challenged two administrative orders issued by Respondent No. 3 (the Chief Medical Officer/CMO): An order dated 10.03.2026, sealing the hospital and an order dated 18.03.2026, cancelling their provisional registration.

The petitioners argued that u/s 32 of the Clinical Establishments (Registration and Regulation) Act, 2010, only the designated District Registering Authority (chaired by the District Collector u/s 10) has the statutory power to cancel a registration. They asserted that the CMO individually lacks jurisdiction to issue such an order. The State argued that u/s 10(2) of the Act and Rule 13/21 of the Uttar Pradesh Clinical Establishments Rules, 2016, the CMO acts as the authority for provisional registrations. The State also relied on a prior Division Bench precedent (Medaxis Hospital Vs. State of U.P., 2019) holding that the CMO is the competent authority to cancel registrations, while urging the Court to dismiss the petition due to available alternative statutory remedies/appeals.

B. The writ Court can intervene inspite of efficacious alternative remedy available. There has been declaration of law to this effect. (Para 7)

C. Nowhere in section 32 or elsewhere in the Act is there mention, except as provided in section 10(2), is the authority equated to or said to be the CMO. Section 32 refers to the 'authority', which means the 'Chief Medical Officer' (only u/s 10(2)), who is the competent authority to cancel the registration of the clinical establishment. In case of petitioners, their provisional certificate has been cancelled by respondent no. 3 (the CMO). The authority has acted without jurisdiction. (Para 7)

D. Section 32 provides for three months' notice in the matter of cancellation of registration certificate. It is only thereafter, on due cancellation, there can be reasons recorded in writing for immediately restraining the clinical establishment from carrying on, if there is imminent danger to the health and safety of patients. There is no notice issued by the authority for cancellation. It follows, the sealing and cancellation orders are required to be and, are hereby set aside and quashed. (Para 8)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Amresh Tripathi, Pankaj Kumar Gupta
For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Arindam Sinha, J.)

1. Petitioners engaged in running a hospital have provisional registration. They have challenged orders dated 10th March, 2026 of sealing and 18th March, 2026 of cancellation made by respondent no. 3 (the Chief Medical Officer/CMO). Reliance is on section 32 in Clinical Establishments (Registration and Regulation) Act, 2010 for contention that cancellation of registration can only be done by the authority. Definition of authority is provided by clause (a) in section 2. Reliance has also been on section 10, which provides for the authority to have the District Collector as Chairperson, the District Health Officer as convenor and three members possessing prescribed qualifications, to be appointed on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed. In the circumstances, the CMO cannot be said to be the authority to exercise power of cancellation of registration certificate. Mr. Pankaj Kumar Gupta, learned advocate appears on behalf of petitioners.

2. The writ petition is up for final hearing upon opportunity granted to State for obtaining instructions. Dr. D.K. Tiwari, learned advocate, Additional Chief Standing Counsel appears on behalf of State and to begin with relies on sub-section (2) in section 10. The sub-section is reproduced below.

*"(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), for the purposes of provisional registration of clinical establishments under section 14, the District Health Officer or the Chief Medical Officer (by whatever name called) shall exercise the powers of the authority as per procedure that may be prescribed."

He then relies upon sections 14 and 32 (2).

3. Dr. Tiwari hands up Uttar Pradesh Clinical Establishments (Registration and Regulation) Rules, 2016. He relies on rule 13, reproduced below.

"Rule - 13. The District Registering Authority. The State Government shall, by notification, under section-10, of the Act and in accordance with the rules farmed by central Government in this behalf set up an authority to be called the District Registering Authority for each district for registration of clinical establishments."

Without prejudice he submits further, there was notification dated 14th December, 2017 issued. He points out from it, timelines have been provided on efficacious alternative remedy petitioners can avail by filing application, first and second appeals.

4. Dr. Tiwari proceeds to rely on view taken by a Division Bench of this Court in Medaxis Hospital v. State of U.P. reported in 2019 (9) ADJ 77, paragraphs 13 and 14 (Lawsuit print). The paragraphs are reproduced below.

"[13] From the conjoint reading of the sections referred to above what: emerges is that the "authority" is the Committee constituted under section 10 of the Act, 2010 in which the District Collector is the Chairperson and the District Health Officer or the Chief Medical Officer (by whatever name called), shall exercise the powers of the authority as per procedure that may be prescribed. This means that for the purpose of provisional registration of clinical establishment this is the Committee which will consider whether registration has to be granted or not. Thereafter the registration itself will be granted by the "authority" i.e. the Chief Medical Officer.

[14] Section 32 of the Act, 2010 also refers to the "authority" which means the Chief Medical Officer, who is the competent authority to cancel the registration of the clinical establishment."

He submits, the cancellation was duly made. No interference is warranted. Nevertheless, he reiterates, petitioners if aggrieved have efficacious alternative remedy.

5. Mr. Gupta reiterates his submission that cancellation under section 32 can only be by the 'authority'. Definition of 'authority' is given in clause (a) under section 2 and section 10 prescribes constitution of the authority. He seeks interference on reference to impugned cancellation order as having been passed by the CMO. According to him, respondent no. 3 did not have the power to pass the order.

6. Sub-section (2) in section 10 provides for purpose of the provisional registration under section 14. The District Health Officer or the CMO (by whatever name called) will exercise powers of the authority. That means, application for registration to be made to the authority under section 14, by operation of section 10(2), empowers the CMO to receive it. In this regard rule 21 is reproduced below.

"Rule 21. Acknowledgement of Application.

The Authority, or any person in his office authorized in this behalf, shall, acknowledge receipt of the application for registration, in the acknowledgment slip provided as per SGAA Annexe immediately, if delivered at the office of the authority, or not later than the next working* day if received by post and by online acknowledgement to be generated automatically by the system."

(emphasis supplied)

Going by definitions clause (a) under section 2, prescription for constitution of the authority under section 10 and functions of the authority under rule 14, by clause (a), providing that one of the functions will be to cancel registration of any clinical establishment, we have no doubt in our mind that cancellation of, even provisional certificate, must be by the authority. Rule 14(a) is reproduced below.

"Rule - 14. Functions of the Authority.

The Authority shall perform the following functions:-

(a) To grant, renew, suspend or cancel registration of any clinical establishment."

(emphasis supplied)

7. We respectfully agree with view taken by paragraph 13 (Lawsuit print) in Medaxis Hospital (supra). In case of petitioners, their provisional certificate has been cancelled by respondent no. 3 (the CMO). The authority has acted without jurisdiction. The writ Court can intervene inspite of efficacious alternative remedy available. There has been declaration of law to this effect. Reference can be made to often relied upon judgment of the Supreme Court in Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trademarks, reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1. However, by paragraph 14 the Division Bench said, section 32 refers to the 'authority', which means the 'Chief Medical Officer', who is the competent authority to cancel the registration of the clinical establishment. In this context section 2 (a) and section 10(1) are reproduced below.

"Section 2 (a)

(a) "authority" means the district registering authority set-up under section 10."
xxxxx xxxxxx xxxxx

"10. Authority for registration-?(1) The State Government shall, by notification, set-up an authority to be called the district registering authority for each district for registration of clinical establishments, with the following members, namely:? (a) District Collector? Chairperson; (b) District Health Officer?Convenor; (c) three members with such qualifications and on such terms and conditions as may be prescribed by the Central Government."

Nowhere in section 32 or elsewhere in the Act is there mention, except as provided in section 10 (2), is the authority equated to or said to be the CMO. Section 10(2) has already been reproduced above.

8. On query we have ascertained that there is no notice issued by the authority for cancellation. Section 32 provides for three months' notice in the matter of cancellation of registration certificate. It is only thereafter, on due cancellation, there can be reasons recorded in writing for immediately restraining the clinical establishment from carrying on, if there is imminent danger to the health and safety of patients. It follows, the sealing and cancellation orders are required to be and, are hereby set aside and quashed. As such, we are compelled to direct that the authority must issue notice for cancellation, giving three months time to petitioners for response, as provided under section 32 (2), only after which there can be cancellation and restraint placed on operation of the hospital.

9. Impugned orders of sealing and cancellation are set aside and quashed. The writ petition is accordingly allowed and disposed of.

Writ C No. 13812 of 2026

Naval Kishore Srivastava ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the Registrar (Birth-Death) could be directed by a writ of mandamus to issue a death certificate of a person who died more than one year earlier, without the petitioner first obtaining an order of the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate, as required for registration of a death after one year under Section 13 of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969 read with Rule 9(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Registration of Birth and Death Rules, 2002.

Headnotes

Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969, s.13 – Uttar Pradesh Registration of Birth and Death Rules, 2002, r.9(3) – Constitution of India – Art. 226 – Writ petition filed in the year 2026 seeking issuance of a writ of mandamus directing the Registrar (Birth-Death), Nagar Nigam, Varanasi, to issue the death certificate of the petitioner's first wife, who allegedly died on 25.01.2001 – Respondents contended that under Section 13 of the Registration of Births and Deaths Act, 1969 and Rule 9(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Registration of Birth and Death Rules, 2002, the petitioner was required to first obtain an order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for registration of the death after one year – Justification:

Held: Under Rule 9(3) of the Rules, it is mandatory for a person to obtain an order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for issuance of a death certificate if the registration of death has not been done within one year – Although the petitioner stated to have approached the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, he did not disclose the outcome of the application and, therefore, the only presumption was that there was no order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for issuance of the death certificate – Consequently, the petitioner did not fulfil the statutory requirement for issuance of the death certificate – The certificate issued by the Parshad and the petitioner's self-declaration were of no consequence, as under the Act, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate alone is empowered to pass an order for issuance of a death certificate – Any direction straightaway to the Registrar for issuance of the death certificate would amount to circumventing the statutory requirement and would defeat the purpose of the Act – Any inability or inconvenience of the petitioner could not be a ground for bypassing the statutory remedy – In the absence of any evidence of death, any direction to the Registrar straightaway would amount to extinguishing the existence of a person Writ petition dismissed.(E-5)

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: Rajesh Kumar Srivastava
Advs. for the Respondents: Abhishek Kumar Yadav, C.S.C., Vineet Sankalp

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vivek Saran, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajesh Kumar Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Abhishek Kumar Yadav, learned counsel for the respondent nos.2, 3 and 4 and learned Standing Counsel for the State

2. The instant petition has been filed with the following relief(s):

"I. Issue a Writ, Order or direction in the nature of writ of mandamus commanding The Registrar (Birth-Death), Nagar Nigam, Varanasi to issue Death Certificate of late Madhuri Srivastava wife of Naval Kishore Srivastava who died on 25.01.2001 in House No.4/767 Old Ram Nagar, Varanasi.

II. Issue a Writ, Order or direction in the nature of writ of mandamus commanding Respondents Authorities to conduct an enquiry within a stipulated period by inviting objections from the Family Members Shri Shayam Narain Srivastava s/o Late Professor Gauri Shanker Srivastava aged about 80 years, Sri Gyan Prakash Srivastava who are real brothers of Late Madhuri Srivastava and Mr. Kamal Kishore Srivastava s/o Late Madhuri Srivastava through News Paper Publication or any other Mode if any deem fit and proper the the cost of petitioner.

III. Issue a Writ, Order or direction as this Hon□ble Court may deem fit & proper in the facts & circumstances of this case.

IV. Award the cost of this case from the contesting Respondents."

3. The brief facts of the case as narrated in the writ petition are that the petitioner was married to one Madhuri Srivastava in the year 1962, who according to the petitioner left him in the year 1962 itself, to her maternal house in Bareilly, never to return and where she had a male child. The petitioner filed a divorce suit in the year 1970 which was rejected and the appeal so preferred was dismissed in the year 1974. However, the petitioner was never in touch with his wife, Madhuri Srivastava. However as per the order of Court, the petitioner gave his half salary to Madhuri Srivastava w.e.f. 1975 to 1985. He took voluntary retirement on 05.05.1985 from the post of Squadron Leader, Indian Air Force. However, subsequently Madhuri Srivastava was never provided any contribution from the petitioner's pension. The petitioner states that Madhuri Srivastava died on 25.01.2001 while residing at her parent's house at Ram Nagar, Varanasi. The petitioner married one Meera Srivastava in year 2001 itself. However, name of Meera Srivastava (the second wife), could not be entered into the service records and in the same name of Madhuri Srivastava (first wife) continued. In the year 2011 the petitioners applied for deletion of name of Madhuri Srivastava and for substitution of Smt. Meera Srivastava as his legally wedded wife. Thereafter the petitioner while filling up fourm on attaining 80 years of age on 05.03.2016 disclosed the name of his spouse as Meena Srivastava and upon which a letter dated 30.03.2016 was issued by the Directorate of Air Veterans, Air HQ (SP), New Delhi requiring the petitioner to furnish the details of the family which included copy of marriage certificate and death certificate or decision of the Court granting divorce.

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that as his first wife Late Madhuri Srivastava has left him in the year 1962, he is having no contact with her or with his son, Sri Kamal Krishna Srivastava, born out of wedlock. Recently he did tried to get in touch with his son Sri Kamal Krishna Srivastava but after few interaction he stopped responding. Thus the petitioner is not having any document regarding death of Madhuri Srivastava. He further submits that the petitioner had tried to procure documents of treatment of Late Madhuri Srivastava from the Chief Medical Superintendent Lal Bahadur Shastri Hospital, Varanasi vide his letter dated 18.03.2025 but to no avail. He further submits that similar other efforts also failed. The petitioner thereafter was able to procure a death certificate dated 17.03.2025 from the local Parshad (Councilor) of Ward No.65, Purana Ram Nagar, Nagar Nigam Varanasi, ascertaining date of death of Late Madhuri Srivastava as 25.01.2001. He submits that as the local Councilor/Sabhasad has certified the date of death of late Madhuri Srivastava thus a direction to the Registrar be issued for issuance of death certificate.

5. Per contra, learned counsel representing the Nagar Nigam and the State Authorities have submitted a death certificate is issued under the provisions of the Registration of Birth and Death Act, 1969 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") and under which the State of U.P. have framed Rules being The Uttar Pradesh Registration of Birth and Death Rules, 2002 (hereinafter referred to as "the Rules") and under the said Rules the petitioner has to seek an order from the Sub-Divisional Magistrate concerned. They also pointed out that the petitioner had approached the Sub-Divisional Magistrate concerned but the outcome has not been stated in the petition, therefore the presumption of pendency of proceedings can be safely drawn. They also stated that on the letter dated 17.03.2025 of the petitioner the Zonal Officer had issued a letter requiring the petitioner to profile certain documents which as per pleadings petitioner has not provided. So it is the petitioner who is at fault. Since the petitioner has failed to get the statutory requirement fulfilled, no direction has prayed for in the instant writ petition can be granted.

6. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

7. It is not in dispute that a death certificate is issued under the provisions of the Section 13 of Act and in case of delayed registration of births and deaths, Section 13 of the Act which reads as under:

"13. Delayed registration of births and deaths.-(1) Any birth or death of which information is given to the Registrar after the expiry of the period specified therefor, but within thirty days of its occurrence, shall be registered on payment of such late fee as may be prescribed.

(2) Any birth or death of which delayed information is given to the Registrar after thirty days but within one year of its occurrence shall be registered only with the written permission of the prescribed authority and on payment of the prescribed fee and the production of an affidavit made before a notary public or any other officer authorised in this behalf by the State Government.

(3) Any birth or death which has not been registered within one year of its occurrence, shall be registered only on an order made by a magistrate of the first class or a Presidency Magistrate after varifying the correctness of the birth or death and on payment of the prescribed fee.

(4) The provisions of this section shall be without prejudice to any action that may be taken against aperson for failure on his part to register any birth or death within the time specified therefor and any such birth or death may be registered during the pendency of any such action."

8. The State Government in exercise of power under Section 13 of the Act have framed the Rules and Rule 9 (3) of the Rules provides that in case of any registration of death beyond the period of one year, the same shall be carried out on the order of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and payment of late fee of Rs.10/-. Rule 9 of the aforesaid Rules provides as under:

"9. Authority for delayed registration under Sec. 13 and fee payable therefor.-(1) Any birth or death of which information is given to the Registrar after the expiry of the period specified in Rule 5, but within thirty days of its occurrence, shall be registered on payment of a late fee of rupees two.

(2) Any birth or death of which information is given to the registrar after thirty days but within one year of its occurrence, shall be registered only with the written permission of the Additional District Registrar (Deputy Chief Medical Officer for Urban Areas and District Panchayat Raj Officer for Rural Areas) and on payment of a late fee of rupees five.

(3) Any birth or death which has not been registered within one year of its occurrence, shall be registered only on an order of Sub-Divisional Magistrate and on payment of late fee of rupees ten."

9. Thus under 9(3) of the Rules it is mandatory for a person to obtain an order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for issuance of death certificate, if the registration of death has not been done within a year and thereafter on completion of other requisite formalities.

10. As the petitioner states to have approached Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar, Varanasi n 17.03.2025 for issuance of death certificate, copy of the said application is enclosed as Annexure-4 to the petition, but as the petitioner has not disclosed its outcome, thus the only presumption is that there is no order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for issuance of a death certificate of Late Madhuri Srivastava.

11. Under such circumstances this Court is of the considered opinion that the petitioner as on date do not fulfil the statutory requirement for issuance of death certificate of late Madhuri Srivastava.

12. The petitioner has also moved an application before the Nagar Nigam, Varanasi on 17.03.2025 for issuance of death certificate and has also paid certain amount. In response thereof the Zonal Officer, Ram Nagar Zone, Nagar Nigam, Varanasi vide its communication dated nil, filed as Annexure-13 to the writ petition has required the petitioner to furnish certain documents. It is also unclear as to whether the petitioner ever provided the same or as to what was its outcome.

13. With regards to the death certificate dated 17.03.2025 issued by Raj Kumar Yadav, Parshad, Ward No.65, Purana Ram Nagar, Nagar Nigam, Varanasi certifying death of Madhuri Srivastava on 25.01.2001 or a self declaration of the petitioner dated 17.03.2025 both are of no consequence. Under the Act it is the Sub Divisional Magistrate alone who is empowered to pass an order and admittedly, the petitioner does not have an order from the concerned Sub-Divisional Magistrate for issuance of a death certificate of Late Madhuri Srivastava.

14. Even in the order dated 22.09.2025 passed by the Hon□ble Supreme Court in Writ Petition (Civil) No.807 of 2025 while dismissing the writ petition liberty was given to the petitioner to approach the appropriate forum.

15. As the petitioner had approached the Sub-Divisional Magistrate concerned under Section 13 of the Act, any direction straight away to the Registrar for issuance of death certificate of late Madhuri Srivastava would be amounting to circumventing the statutory requirement which would be defeating the purpose of the Act in procuring relevant documents of death of late Madhuri Srivastava. Any inability or inconvenience of the petitioner as submitted by learned counsel for the petitioner can also not be any ground for bypassing the statutory remedy.

16. It is also to be kept in mind that in absence of any evidence of death of Madhuri Srivastava any direction to the Registrar straight away would be amounting to extinguishing the existence of a person.

17. As noted above, the petitioner has taken recourse to the statutory provision by moving application before the concerned Authority/Sub-Divisional Magistrate, which he may continue to pursue.

18. In view of the aforesaid discussion this Court finds that the petition is misconceived and is accordingly, dismissed.

19. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the validity of the land acquisition proceedings initiated for development of an Integrated Township Project under the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013; and the correctness of the notifications issued under ss.11(1) and 21(1) and (2) of the Act, 2013, particularly on the grounds of non-compliance with the mandatory 80% purchase/consent requirement under the Integrated Township Policy, 2005/2023 of the State Government ; mechanical rejection of the petitioners' objections; non-compliance with the requirements of Social Impact Assessment and Rehabilitation and Resettlement; lapse of the earlier acquisition proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894; alleged misuse of compulsory acquisition powers to benefit private developers; and violation of the petitioners' right to property under Art. 300-A of the Constitution.

Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 – ss.4, 5, 7, 8, 11, 15, 19, 21, 23, 24, 26 to 31, 40, 64 – Integrated Township Policy, 2005/2023 – Land acquisition proceedings for development of an Integrated

Township Project – Petitioners challenged notifications dated 07.03.2025 issued u/s.11(1) and 17.04.2026 issued u/ss.21(1) and (2) – Challenge: Non-compliance with mandatory requirement of prior purchase of, or consent for, 80% of the project land; mechanical rejection of objections; non-compliance with Social Impact Assessment and Rehabilitation and Resettlement requirements; lapse of earlier acquisition proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894; colourable exercise of power and violation of Art.300-A of the Constitution

Held:

A. Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 – Land acquisition for Integrated Township – Section 24 of the Act, 2013 deals with the specific consequences of lapsed proceedings under the Act of 1894 – Where proceedings under the Act of 1894 have lapsed, the appropriate Government is expressly empowered by Section 24(2) of the Act, 2013 to initiate fresh acquisition proceedings under the Act, 2013 afresh, if it so chooses – The initiation of fresh proceedings under the Act, 2013 after lapse of earlier proceedings under the Act of 1894 is not only permissible but is expressly contemplated by the legislature – The petitioners cannot derive any vested right from the lapse of prior proceedings so as to permanently immunise their land from acquisition for a public purpose – Fresh acquisition proceedings are independent proceedings and have to be judged on their own merits under the Act, 2013. [Para 6.2]

B. SIA process – Public hearing u/s.5 is intended to ascertain the views of the affected families for being recorded and included in the SIA Report and the Act does not contemplate adjudication of individual objections at the SIA stage – Non-production of the Expert Group's report as a separate document does not, by itself, invalidate the acquisition proceedings where the SIA Report was approved by the appropriate Government under Section 8, as such approval necessarily presupposes consideration of the SIA Report along with the Expert Group's evaluation; the SIA Report on record contains the findings and recommendations contemplated by Section 7(5); and the petitioners have neither pleaded nor alleged that the Expert Group was not constituted, that its evaluation was not undertaken, or that it made any recommendation adverse to the acquisition – In exercise of jurisdiction under Article 226, the Court cannot presume non-compliance with Section 7 merely because the Expert Group's report has not been separately produced, particularly in the absence of any specific challenge or material establishing such non-compliance – Section 7 compliance substantially demonstrated on the record. [Paras 6.4.4 to 6.4.7]

C. Hearing of objections u/s.15 – Scope of objections confined to the area and suitability of the land proposed to be acquired, the justification offered for public purpose and the findings of the SIA Report – Absence of date on the order rejecting objections can be an irregularity, but not an illegality which may travel upto the root of the matter – Where the petitioners had been heard under Section 15(2), their objections had been duly considered and a decision had been taken, absence of a date on the order had not caused prejudice to them or prevented them from challenging the acquisition – The challenge to the Section 15 rejection order merely on the ground that it does not bear a date was rejected. [Paras 6.5.1 to 6.5.8]

D. Section 19 declaration issued within twelve months from the preliminary notification and hence no violation of Section 19. [Para 6.6]

E. Section 21 notice – Persons interested afforded full and reasonable opportunity to appear and submit their claims before the Collector – Grievances relating to compensation, measurement or rehabilitation benefits could be addressed by the Collector under ss.21, 22 and 23 and thereafter before the Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority u/s.64. [Paras 6.7 and 6.8]

F. 80% purchase/consent requirement under Integrated Township Policy, 2023 – The Policy, 2023 treats the Integrated Township as one single project – An Integrated Township may cover more than one village, and the land purchase process under Clause 3.4 is meant for the entire project, not village-wise – Therefore, if the developer has purchased and obtained consent for more than 80% of the total project land, the remaining land up to 20% can be acquired under the Act, 2013 – The Policy does not require separate 80% compliance for each village – Developer had purchased 33.9013 hectares (approximately 73%) from land owners through willing agreements, and consent of more than 7% of the affected families had also been obtained – acquisition under Section 11 was accordingly limited to 2.86844 hectares, which represents less than 20% of the total project area of 46.5212 hectares, well within the permissible limit under the Policy, 2023 – the requirement of prior purchase/consent for 80% of the project land stood substantially met – Subsequent to issuance of the preliminary notification, the developer further purchased 0.838419 hectares directly from tenure holders through mutual agreement, thereby reducing the area for compulsory acquisition under Section 19 to only 2.030021 hectares – this itself demonstrates that the process of private purchase was ongoing and that the authorities were seeking to minimise compulsory acquisition as far as possible, which is precisely the spirit of the Policy, 2023 [Paras 6.9.1 to 6.9.7]

G. Rehabilitation and Resettlement – Section 16 requires preparation of the draft R&R Scheme after publication of the preliminary notification, Section 18 requires approval thereof and Section 19 requires publication of its summary with the declaration – In the present case, the SIA Report recorded that the R&R Scheme would be prepared and an Administrator for Rehabilitation and Resettlement had already been designated – Court held that proceedings under Sections 21, 22 and 23 of the Act, 2013, including the R&R Award under Section 31, were yet to be completed; therefore, the argument that no R&R Scheme exists cannot be used to interdict proceedings at that stage. – Grievances relating to rehabilitation and resettlement could be addressed during the award proceedings. [Para 6.10]

H. Right to property u/A.300-A – Though no longer a fundamental right, right to property remains a constitutional right and includes the rights to notice, hearing, reasoned decision, acquisition only for a public purpose, restitution or fair compensation, efficient and expeditious process and conclusion – Where the acquisition proceedings complied with the Act, 2013 and the aforesaid safeguards were afforded, the constitutional challenge under Art.300-A failed. [Para 6.11]

I. Non-invocation of urgency clause u/s.40 – Acquisition processed through the normal, full and complete procedure prescribed under the Act, 2013 and the absence of invocation of the urgency clause was a further factor supporting the validity of the acquisition. [Para 6.12]

J. Judicial review in matters of acquisition for public purpose – Government's declaration of public purpose is ordinarily not justiciable; judicial review is confined to cases of fraud or colourable exercise of power – In the present case, the public purpose, namely planned urban development through an integrated township, was apparent and the petitioners had neither specifically alleged nor proved any fraud or misuse of power – Courts, while exercising jurisdiction u/A.226, must balance private interest against larger public interest and quashing of acquisition is not the only mode of redress for non-compliance with a legal requirement – The private interest of the petitioners must give way to the larger public interest of planned urban development after payment of fair compensation as required under the Act, 2013. [Para 6.13]

K. Availability of efficacious remedy u/s.64 of the Act, 2013 for disputes relating to measurement, compensation, person entitled to compensation, R&R rights and apportionment is a relevant consideration in declining interference u/A.226. [Para 6.15]

L. Judgment in Vijay Pal Singh and 12 others v. State of U.P. and 6 others, 2026 (5) ADJ 320 (DB), dealing with a similar challenge to acquisition proceedings under the Act, 2013, found directly applicable and binding – All the legal challenges raised by the petitioners were examined and rejected – SIA process duly conducted in compliance with ss.4, 5, 7 and 8; SIA Report approved by the appropriate Government and its summary incorporated in the preliminary notification as required u/s.11(3) – Preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 issued in compliance with s.11(1); objections invited u/s.15 and considered and rejected; declaration u/s.19(1) issued on 05.03.2026 within twelve months – Requirement of prior purchase/consent for 80% of the project land under the Policy, 2023 substantially met as the project was computed as a whole and acquisition confined to less than 20% of the total project area of 46.5212 hectares – Notice dated 17.04.2026 u/ss.21(1) and 21(2) afforded full opportunity to the petitioners to submit their claims and objections – Acquisition was for a recognised public purpose and did not constitute a colourable exercise of power; no fraud or mala fides were alleged or established – Constitutional challenge under Art.300-A failed in view of compliance with the safeguards recognised in Kolkata Municipal Corporation v. Bimal Kumar

Shah and the Act, 2013 – Impugned notifications dated 07.03.2025 and 17.04.2026 and the order rejecting the petitioners' objections u/s.15 did not call for interference – Collector/Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad directed to conduct enquiry u/ss.22 and 23 and pass the award strictly in accordance with ss.26 to 31, ensuring full and fair opportunity to all interested persons including the petitioners – Collector also directed to pass the R&R Award u/s.31 read with the Second Schedule for each affected family – Possession of acquired land not to be taken in violation of s.38 and only after full payment of compensation and monetary components of the R&R Award – Persons aggrieved by quantum of compensation or R&R Award at liberty to avail remedy of reference u/s.64 before the Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority – Writ petitions dismissed. [Paras 6.14, 7 and 8 to 8.2] (E-5)

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner: Shiv Sagar Singh
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C., Tejasvi Misra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mahesh Chandra Tripathi, J.)

A. APPEARANCE OF COUNSEL:-

1. Heard Shri Shiv Sagar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned Standing Counsel for the State -respondents, and Shri Anil Bhushan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Tejasvi Misra, learned counsel for the respondent - Ghaziabad Development Authority1 (hereinafter referred to as "GDA").

1.1. All the aforesaid writ petitions, being WRIT-C No. 20436 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20011 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20024 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20026 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20032 of 2026 and WRIT-C No. 20035 of 2026, raise a common challenge to the notification dated 07.03.2025 issued under Section 11(1) of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 20132 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 2013") and the subsequent notification dated 17.04.2026 issued under Section 21(1) and 21(2) of the Act, 2013, pertaining to the proposed acquisition of land in connection with an Integrated Township Project in Village Mahrauli, Pargana Dasna, District Ghaziabad, initiated by the respondent-GDA under the Integrated Township Policy introduced by the State Government in the year 2005. The facts and the questions of law arising in all the writ petitions are substantially similar and interlinked. With the consent of the learned counsel appearing for the parties, all the writ petitions were heard together analogously and are being disposed of by this common judgment. For the purpose of brevity, facts are drawn mainly from WRIT-C No. 20436 of 2026, since the narration of facts therein sufficiently represents the factual matrix common to all the petitions.

B. PRAYER:-

2. The instant writ petitions have been filed challenging the land acquisition proceedings initiated under the Act, 2013. The petitioners have specifically challenged the notification issued under Section 11(1) of the Act, 2013 dated 07.03.2025 in respect of land situated at Village Mahrauli, Pargana Dasna, District Ghaziabad. They have also challenged the subsequent notification issued under Section 21(1) and 21(2) of the Act, 2013 dated 17.04.2026. According to the petitioners, after issuance of the preliminary notification, they submitted their objections on 05/09.05.2025 within the prescribed period of 60 days. However, those objections were rejected by respondent No. 3 (Collector, Ghaziabad) and respondent No. 4 [Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), District Ghaziabad] through an undated order, without proper consideration of the issues raised. The petitioners allege that the entire acquisition proceedings are illegal, arbitrary and contrary to the provisions of the Act, 2013 as well as the Integrated Township Policy, 2023 of the State Government.

C. FACTS OF THE CASE:-

3. Before adverting to the submissions advanced by the parties, it is necessary to set out the factual background of the present matter as emerging from the record.

3.1. The acquisition proceedings in question have been initiated in connection with an Integrated Township Project proposed by the respondent-GDA under the Integrated Township Policy, 2005 of the State Government, framed for development of integrated townships through participation of private developers. The said policy was later amended in the years 2014 and 2023. The amended policy, i.e., the Uttar Pradesh Township Policy, 20233 (hereinafter referred to as "the Policy, 2023"), came into force in the month of July, 2023. The Policy, 2023 prescribes specific qualifications and conditions for developers, including the mandatory requirement that the developer must first purchase or obtain consent for at least 80% of the land from tenure holders before acquisition proceedings can be initiated for the remaining 20% of land through the State authorities.

3.2. Clause 3.4 of the Policy, 2023 deals with the procedure of Land Assembly. Under this process, the developer or consortium is required to purchase and assemble the land for the proposed township on its own. The developer must also acquire and develop the land required for approach roads at its own expense. Only in extreme or unavoidable circumstances, a maximum of 20% of the total project land may be acquired under the Act, 2013 through compulsory government acquisition proceedings, in case tenure holders do not agree to transfer their land in favour of the developer.

3.3. The record further reveals that earlier acquisition proceedings had been initiated for the same integrated township project under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 through a notification under Section 4 dated 19.12.2013, followed by a declaration under Section 6 dated 20.10.2014. However, those proceedings lapsed because the concerned developers failed to deposit the acquisition cost and no award could be declared within the prescribed period. The petitioners had also filed Writ-C No. 55473 of 2015, in which they claimed that the earlier proceedings had lapsed.

3.4. In the aforesaid backdrop, the notification dated 07.03.2025 was issued under Section 11(1) of the Act, 2013 in relation to land in question situated at Village Mahrauli, Pargana Dasna, Tehsil Ghaziabad, District Ghaziabad. Through the said notification, the State Government expressed its intention to acquire private land measuring 2.86844 hectares comprising 23 khasra numbers for the development of an Integrated Township Scheme under the supervision of the respondent - GDA, for a public purpose connected with planned urban development.

3.5. The notification records that before its issuance, a Social Impact Assessment4 (hereinafter referred to as "SIA") study was conducted through the authorised agency and the report was approved by the State Government on 23.03.2024. The summary of the SIA Report as incorporated in the preliminary notification is as follows:

(i) compensation for the acquired land shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 2013;

(ii) private land measuring 2.86844 hectares comprising 23 khasra numbers is proposed to be acquired;

(iii) in case trees standing over the acquired land are required to be cut, three times the number of trees shall be planted by the acquiring body;

(iv) appropriate action regarding the structures affected by the acquisition proceedings shall be taken after assessment by the competent technical department;

(v) approximately 280 land owners are likely to be affected by the proposed acquisition proceedings;

(vi) no public property or community resource is affected by the proposed acquisition;

(vii) proceedings shall be undertaken after preparing the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Scheme5 in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 2013.

3.6. After consideration of the SIA Report and the recommendations made therein, the Government formed an opinion that the land was required for public purpose and accordingly acquisition proceedings were set in motion under the Act, 2013.

3.7. The preliminary notification further provides that persons interested in the land or affected by the proposed acquisition were entitled to file objections under Section 15 of the Act, 2013 within 60 days from the date of its publication. Under Section 11(4) of the Act, 2013, no person shall, without prior approval of the Collector, transfer or create any encumbrance over the notified land from the date of publication of the preliminary notification till completion of the acquisition proceedings.

3.8. In response to the notification dated 07.03.2025, the petitioners filed objections on 05/09.05.2025. The said objections were considered and rejected by the competent authority. Thereafter, by notification dated 05.03.2026 issued under Section 19(1) of the Act, 2013, a declaration was made in respect of 2.030021 hectares of land at Village Mahrauli for the Integrated Township Scheme. It may be noted that out of the originally notified 2.86844 hectares, the developer had in the meanwhile directly purchased 0.838419 hectares from tenure holders through mutual agreement, and accordingly the Section 19 declaration was confined to the remaining 2.030021 hectares. Subsequently, a general notice under Section 21(1) and 21(2) of the Act, 2013 was issued on 17.04.2026, fixing 18.05.2026 as the last date for submission of claims and objections before the Collector/ADM (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad, with hearing scheduled on 21.05.2026.

3.9. According to the report of the Tehsildar/Sub-Divisional Officer placed on record, out of the total project area of 46.5212 hectares, the developer had already purchased 33.9013 hectares (approximately 73%) from land owners through willing agreements, and consent of more than 7% of the affected families had also been separately obtained. The acquisition under Section 11 was accordingly limited to 2.86844 hectares, which is less than 20% of the total project area, fully consistent with the mandate of the Policy, 2023.

3.10. Aggrieved by the notifications dated 07.03.2025 and 17.04.2026, the aforenoted writ petitions have been filed.

D. SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF PETITIONERS:-

4. Shri Shiv Sagar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioners, argued that the entire acquisition proceedings are illegal, arbitrary and contrary to the Integrated Township Policy, 2005 as well as the provisions of the Act, 2013. He submitted that the developers had not fulfilled the mandatory pre-condition of prior purchase of, or consent for, 80% of the land before initiating compulsory acquisition proceedings.

4.1. He states that the present dispute relates to an integrated township project known as "Park Town" situated in Village Mahrauli. The petitioners are owners and tenure holders of plots in question situated in the said village. The total area of the proposed project in Village Mahrauli was only about 3.2827 hectares, whereas acquisition proceedings have been initiated for about 2.86844 hectares. This itself clearly shows that 80% land had never been purchased by the developers in respect of Village Mahrauli. He contended that the respondents wrongly clubbed lands purchased by different developers in different villages in order to falsely show compliance of the 80% requirement, whereas the project in Village Mahrauli was separate and independent and could not be merged with acquisitions relating to other villages.

4.2. Learned counsel further argued that the objections filed by the petitioners were rejected mechanically without proper consideration and without recording any findings on the issues raised. He pointed out that the rejection order does not even bear any date, which reflects total non-application of mind. He submitted that the petitioners had specifically objected that no valid 80% consent existed, that the market value had not been properly revised, and that the petitioners were residing upon and using the land for their livelihood.

4.3. It was also argued that many consent deeds and sale transactions were executed only after issuance of the notification and therefore such documents could not be considered for satisfying the mandatory 80% requirement under the policy. Learned counsel further submitted that the earlier acquisition proceedings had already lapsed due to non-deposit of acquisition cost, and the present proceedings are merely an attempt to benefit private developers by misusing the powers of compulsory acquisition. He contended that no R&R scheme was prepared as required under the Act, 2013.

4.4. In the backdrop of these grounds, learned counsel submitted that the entire acquisition proceedings smacks a colourable exercise of power, violating the constitutional right of the petitioners guaranteed under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India, and prayed for quashing of the impugned notifications dated 07.03.2025 and 17.04.2026.

E. SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE STATE-RESPONDENTS:-

5. Shri Fuzail Ahmad Ansari, learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondents, vehemently opposed the writ petitions and submitted that the acquisition proceedings have been initiated strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 2013 and there is no illegality in the process adopted by the authorities. He submitted that the State Government, through the respondent-GDA, initiated acquisition proceedings for development of an Integrated Township Scheme in Village Mahrauli, Pargana Dasna, which is a project undertaken for planned urban development and a genuine public purpose.

5.1. He submitted that a preliminary notification under Section 11(1) was first issued on 07.03.2025, followed by a declaration under Section 19 on 05.03.2026, and thereafter a general notice under Section 21(1) and 21(2) was issued on 17.04.2026, granting all interested persons an opportunity to submit their claims and objections before the Collector. The notice fixed 18.05.2026 as the deadline and 21.05.2026 as the hearing date.

5.2. Learned counsel submitted that the Social Impact Assessment study was duly conducted in accordance with the Act, 2013, and the report was approved by the appropriate Government on 23.03.2024 before the preliminary notification was issued. All statutory requirements including publication of notifications, invitation of objections, grant of hearing, and appointment of Administrator for Rehabilitation and Resettlement have been complied with by the State authorities.

5.3. He submitted that the petitioners have an adequate remedy for claiming compensation and raising their grievances before the competent authority under the provisions of the Act, 2013 and urged that no interference is called for in exercise of the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

EE. SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENT GDA:-

5.4. Shri Anil Bhushan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Tejasvi Misra, learned counsel for the respondent -GDA, while opposing the writ petitions precisely submitted that the very purpose of issuing a notice under Section 21 of the Act, 2013 is to give a fair and reasonable opportunity to all interested persons to submit their claims with respect to compensation for the acquired land, and such claims are required to be considered on the basis of all relevant factors pertaining to the acquisition proceedings.

5.5. Learned counsel submitted that pursuant to the notice under Section 21, interested persons are also entitled to make submissions before the Collector under Section 22 of the Act, 2013, whereupon the Collector is required to conduct an enquiry and pass an award with regard to: (a) the true area of the land; (b) compensation determined under Section 27 along with the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Award under Section 31; and (c) apportionment of compensation amongst all persons interested. He also drew the Court's attention to Sections 26, 27, 28 and 29 of the Act, 2013 governing determination of market value and compensation.

5.6. He submitted that under the Integrated Township Policy, the project is to be treated as one unit. The developers had already purchased more than 80% of the land under the entire project of 46.5212 hectares through mutual negotiations with tenure holders, and acquisition proceedings under the Act, 2013 were initiated only for the remaining 2.86844 hectares, which constituted less than 20% of the total project area, which is fully in consonance with the Policy, 2023.

5.7. In support of his submissions, learned counsel placed reliance upon the judgment and order dated 28.04.2026 passed by this Court in WRIT-C No. 41339 of 2025 (Vijay Pal Singh and 12 others v. State of U.P. and 6 others)6 reported in 2026 (5) ADJ 320 (DB), wherein this Court, after exhaustively examining an identical range of issues including SIA compliance, consent satisfaction, Section 15 objection procedure, R&R scheme adequacy, and the right to property under Article 300-A, dismissed similar challenges to land acquisition proceedings under the Act, 2013.

F. DISCUSSION AND FINDINGS:-

6. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties at length and having carefully perused the record, the pleadings, the documents placed on record, and the judgment cited at bar, this Court proceeds to consider and examine the respective contentions.

I. Nature and Purpose of the Project:-

6.1. The acquisition in question has been undertaken for the development of an Integrated Township Scheme in Village Mahrauli, Pargana Dasna, District Ghaziabad, through the respondent-GDA under the Integrated Township Policy, 2005/2023 of the State Government. The record clearly shows that the land was acquired for public purposes such as planned urban development, housing, and urban infrastructure to meet the growing needs of the National Capital Region, and this Court finds no valid ground to dispute it. The Act, 2013 itself recognises, in Section 2(1)(e), that project for planned development or the improvement of village sites or any site in the urban areas or provision of land for residential purposes for the weaker sections in rural and urban areas constitutes a public purpose. As held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ramniklal N. Bhutta and Another v. State of Maharashtra and Others7, the courts, while balancing competing interests in matters of land acquisition, must also bear in mind that the public, which is the greater beneficiary, is a silent party in all such proceedings, and extraordinary reasons must exist for quashing an acquisition for public benefit.

II. Effect of Earlier Lapsed Proceedings Under the Land Acquisition Act of 1894:-

6.2. The petitioners have sought to bank upon the lapse of the earlier acquisition proceedings under the Land Acquisition Act, 1894 as a ground to impugn the present proceedings. This contention is wholly untenable in law. Section 24 of the Act, 2013 deals with the specific consequences of lapsed proceedings under the Act of 1894. Where proceedings under the Act of 1894 have lapsed, the appropriate Government is expressly empowered by Section 24(2) of the Act, 2013 to initiate fresh acquisition proceedings under the Act, 2013 afresh, if it so chooses. The initiation of fresh proceedings under the Act, 2013 after lapse of earlier proceedings under the Act of 1894 is therefore not only permissible but is expressly contemplated by the legislature. The petitioners cannot derive any vested right from the lapse of prior proceedings so as to permanently immunise their land from acquisition for a public purpose. The fresh proceedings are independent proceedings initiated under the Act, 2013, and must be judged entirely on their own merits under that Act, 2013.

III. Section 11 □ Preliminary Notification and its Legal Effect:-

6.3. Section 11 of the Act, 2013 governs the publication of the preliminary notification and its effects thereafter. Sub-section (1) requires the appropriate Government, when it appears that any land is required or is likely to be required for a public purpose, to publish a preliminary notification along with details of the land to be acquired, in the Official Gazette, in two daily newspapers (one regional language), in the local language in the offices of the District Collector, SDM and Tehsil, on the website, and in the affected areas. Section 11 provides as under:

"11. Publication of preliminary notification and power of officers-(1) Whenever, it appears to the appropriate Government that land in any area is required or likely to be required for any public purpose, a notification (hereinafter referred to as preliminary notification) to that effect along with details of the land to be acquired in rural and urban areas shall be published in the following manner, namely:"

(a) in the Official Gazette;

(b) in two daily newspapers circulating in the locality of such area of which one shall be in the regional language;

(c) in the local language in the Panchayat, Municipality or Municipal Corporation, as the case may be and in the offices of the District Collector, the Sub-divisional Magistrate and the Tehsil;

(d) uploaded on the website of the appropriate Government;

(e) in the affected areas, in such manner as may be prescribed.

(2) Immediately after issuance of the notification under sub-section (1), the concerned Gram Sabha or Sabhas at the village level, municipalities in case of municipal areas and the Autonomous Councils in case of the areas referred to in the Sixth Schedule to the Constitution, shall be informed of the contents of the notification issued under the said sub-section in all cases of land acquisition at a meeting called especially for this purpose.

(3) The notification issued under sub-section (1) shall also contain a statement on the nature of the public purpose involved, reasons necessitating the displacement of affected persons, summary of the Social Impact Assessment Report and particulars of the Administrator appointed for the purposes of rehabilitation and resettlement under section 43.

(4) No person shall make any transaction or cause any transaction of land specified in the preliminary notification or create any encumbrances on such land from the date of publication of such notification till such time as the proceedings under this Chapter are completed:

Provided that the Collector may, on the application made by the owner of the land so notified, exempt in special circumstances to be recorded in writing, such owner from the operation of this sub-section:

Provided further that any loss or injury suffered by any person due to his wilful violation of this provision shall not be made up by the Collector.

(5) After issuance of notice under sub-section (1), the Collector shall, before the issue of a declaration under section 19, undertake and complete the exercise of updating of land records as prescribed within a period of two months."

6.3.1. In the present case, the preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 was issued under Section 11(1) of the Act, 2013 in respect of land measuring 2.86844 hectares at Village Mahrauli. The notification was published in newspapers including Dainik Jagran and Amar Ujala on 12.03.2025. It contains the summary of the SIA Report as required under Section 11(3). The restriction on transactions under Section 11(4) started from the date of publication, and this Court finds that all the requirements of Section 11 were fully complied with.

IV. The SIA Process Statutory Framework and Compliance:-

6.4. The Social Impact Assessment process is the first and foundational requirement of the Act, 2013 before any land acquisition can be initiated. It serves the vital purpose of ensuring that the impact of acquisition on affected communities is properly assessed, minimised and mitigated. Section 4 of the Act, 2013 sets out the mandatory framework for conduct of the SIA study. It provides as under:

"4. Preparation of Social Impact Assessment study.-(1) Whenever the appropriate Government intends to acquire land for a public purpose, it shall consult the concerned Panchayat, Municipality or Municipal Corporation, as the case may be, at village level or ward level, in the affected area and carry out a Social Impact Assessment study in consultation with them, in such manner and from such date as may be specified by such Government by notification.*

(2) The notification issued by the appropriate Government for commencement of consultation and of the Social Impact Assessment study under sub-section (1) shall be made available in the local language to the Panchayat, Municipality or Municipal Corporation, as the case may be, and in the offices of the District Collector, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate and the Tehsil, and shall be published in the affected areas, in such manner as may be prescribed, and uploaded on the website of the appropriate Government:

Provided that the appropriate Government shall ensure that adequate representation has been given to the representatives of Panchayat, Gram Sabha, Municipality or Municipal Corporation, as the case may be, at the stage of carrying out the Social Impact Assessment study:

Provided further that the appropriate Government shall ensure the completion of the Social Impact Assessment study within a period of six months from the date of its commencement.

(3) The Social Impact Assessment study report referred to in sub-section (1) shall be made available to the public in the manner prescribed under section 6.

(4) The Social Impact Assessment study referred to in sub-section (1) shall, amongst other matters, include all the following, namely:"

(a) assessment as to whether the proposed acquisition serves public purpose;

(b) estimation of affected families and the number of families among them likely to be displaced;

(c) extent of lands, public and private, houses, settlements and other common properties likely to be affected by the proposed acquisition;

(d) whether the extent of land proposed for acquisition is the absolute bare- minimum extent needed for the project;

(e) whether land acquisition at an alternate place has been considered and found not feasible;

(f) study of social impacts of the project, and the nature and cost of addressing them and the impact of these costs on the overall costs of the project vis-a-vis the benefits of the project:

Provided that Environmental Impact Assessment study, if any, shall be carried out simultaneously and shall not be contingent upon the completion of the Social Impact Assessment study.

(5) While undertaking a Social Impact Assessment study under sub-section (1), the appropriate Government shall, amongst other things, take into consideration the impact that the project is likely to have on various components such as livelihood of affected families, public and community properties, assets and infrastructure particularly roads, public transport, drainage, sanitation, sources of drinking water, sources of water for cattle, community ponds, grazing land, plantations, public utilities such as post offices, fair price shops, food storage godowns, electricity supply, health care facilities, schools and educational or training facilities, anganwadis, children parks, places of worship, land for traditional tribal institutions and burial and cremation grounds.

(6) The appropriate Government shall require the authority conducting the Social Impact Assessment study to prepare a Social Impact Management Plan, listing the ameliorative measures required to be undertaken for addressing the impact for a specific component referred to in sub-section (5), and such measures shall not be less than what is provided under a scheme or programme, in operation in that area, of the Central Government or, as the case may be, the State Government, in operation in the affected area."

6.4.1. Section 5 of the Act, 2013 mandates a public hearing at the stage of Social Impact Assessment. It provides as under:

"5. Public hearing for Social Impact Assessment.-Whenever a Social Impact Assessment is required to be prepared under section 4, the appropriate Government shall ensure that a public hearing is held at the affected area, after giving adequate publicity about the date, time and venue for the public hearing, to ascertain the views of the affected families to be recorded and included in the Social Impact Assessment Report."

6.4.2. Section 7 of the Act, 2013 requires the appropriate Government to get the SIA Report evaluated by an independent multi-disciplinary Expert Group. The composition of the Expert Group under Section 7(2) includes two non-official social scientists, two representatives of Panchayat/Gram Sabha, two experts on rehabilitation and a technical expert. Section 7(5) provides that if the Expert Group is of the opinion that the project will serve a public purpose and the potential benefits outweigh the social costs, it shall make specific recommendations, within two months, as to whether the extent of land proposed to be acquired is the absolute bare minimum needed for the project and whether there are no less displacing options available. Section 8 of the Act, 2013 then requires the appropriate Government to examine the SIA Report along with the Expert Group's report and satisfy itself that there is a legitimate and bona fide public purpose, and that only the minimum area required for the project is proposed to be acquired.

6.4.3. In the present case, the SIA study was conducted through the authorised State Social Impact Assessment Agency and the report was submitted to the State Government. A public hearing was held as required under Section 5 of the Act, 2013. The SIA Report was then considered and approved by the appropriate Government on 23.03.2024 as mandated under Section 8 of the Act, 2013. The summary of the SIA Report was duly incorporated in the preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 as required under Section 11(3). The SIA Report found that: (i) the proposed acquisition serves the public purpose; (ii) 2.86844 hectares comprising 23 khasra numbers is the minimum land required; (iii) no public property or community resource is affected; (iv) approximately 280 land owners are affected; (v) no family is likely to be displaced; and (vi) R&R Scheme shall be prepared as required under the Act, 2013. This Court finds that the SIA process was conducted in full compliance with Sections 4, 5, 7 and 8 of the Act, 2013 and the corresponding provisions of the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement (Uttar Pradesh) Rules, 20168 (hereinafter referred to as “the Rules, 2016”). No specific infirmity in the conduct of the SIA process has been pointed out.

6.4.4. This Court is fortified in this conclusion by the judgment of this Court in Vijay Pal Singh (supra), wherein, while examining the SIA process in a similar land acquisition matter, it was observed that Section 5 of the Act, 2013 limits the purpose of public hearing only to ascertain the views of the affected families for inclusion in the SIA Report, and that the Act, 2013 does not contemplate adjudication of individual objections at the SIA stage. It was further held in paragraph 6.3.4 of the judgment that:

"6.3.4. A perusal of the record reflects that the Section 4 Notification was duly issued on 30.06.2023, nominating Gautam Buddha University as the SIA Agency, and was published in three newspapers on 06.07.2023. Public hearings were conducted on 19.12.2023 at Village Khwajpur and on 21.12.2023 at Village Neemka Shahjahanpur. Under Section 5, the purpose of the public hearing is limited to ascertaining the views of the affected families to be recorded in the SIA Report; the Act does not contemplate adjudication of individual objections at the SIA stage. Insofar as the Expert Group's recommendation for a re-survey is concerned, the record reveals that PwC, the technical consultant, was specifically asked to examine whether displacement could be avoided. PwC confirmed by letter dated 22.02.2024 that Villages Thora and Neemka Shahjahanpur fall within the proposed runway alignment and that no alternative alignment exists. Village Khawajpur was confirmed to lie between the taxiways of two runways and the proposed aircraft parking area, making its retention a threat to aviation safety. The Expert Group's suggestion was thus duly acted upon. The State Government, in compliance with Section 8(3) of the Act, 2013, read with Rule 11(3) of the Rules, 2016, granted approval to the SIA Report on 08.01.2025. The challenge to the SIA process is accordingly rejected."

6.4.5. The above principle applies with full force to the present case. The challenge to the SIA process is accordingly rejected.

Expert Group's Report (Section 7) and Section 8 Compliance:-

6.4.6. This Court has also considered the question whether the mandatory requirement of appraisal of the SIA Report by an independent Expert Group under Section 7 of the Act, 2013 has been complied with in the present case. Section 7(1) requires the appropriate Government to ensure that the SIA Report is evaluated by an independent multi-disciplinary Expert Group constituted by it. Section 7(2) prescribes the composition of such Expert Group, which must include two non-official social scientists, two representatives of the Panchayat or Gram Sabha, two experts on rehabilitation, and a technical expert in the subject relating to the project. Section 7(4) and 7(5) require the Expert Group to make its recommendations within two months from the date of its constitution, specifying whether the project serves a public purpose, whether the potential benefits outweigh the social costs, whether the extent of land proposed to be acquired is the absolute bare minimum needed, and whether there are no less displacing options available.

6.4.7. In the present case, the Expert Group's report has not been separately produced on record as a distinct document. However, this Court is of the considered view that the absence of the Expert Group's report as a separate document before this Court does not by itself invalidate the acquisition proceedings, for the following reasons. Firstly, the preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 records that the SIA Report was approved by the appropriate Government on 23.03.2024 under Section 8 of the Act, 2013. The approval of the SIA Report by the appropriate Government under Section 8 necessarily presupposes and implies that the Expert Group's evaluation under Section 7 was completed before such approval was granted, since Section 8 itself requires the appropriate Government to examine the SIA Report along with the Expert Group's report before taking a decision to proceed with acquisition. Secondly, the SIA Report on record contains all the findings and recommendations that are required to be made under Section 7(5), namely: that the project serves a public purpose; that the potential benefits outweigh the social costs and adverse social impacts; that the extent of land proposed to be acquired is the absolute bare minimum needed; and that no less displacing alternative is available. Thirdly, and most importantly, the petitioners have not specifically pleaded or alleged before this Court that no Expert Group was constituted, or that the Expert Group's evaluation was not carried out, or that the Expert Group made any recommendation adverse to the acquisition under Section 7(4). In the absence of any such specific challenge supported by any material, it is not open to this Court, at this stage of judicial review under Article 226, to presume non-compliance with Section 7 merely from the non-production of the Expert Group's report as a separate document. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Brijendra Singh9, has held that in writ jurisdiction the Court does not sit as a Court of appeal over the decision of the acquiring authority and must proceed on a presumption of regularity of official acts unless the contrary is specifically pleaded and established. This Court accordingly holds that Section 7 compliance has been substantially demonstrated on the record and the challenge, if any, on this ground is not available to the petitioners at this stage.

V. Section 15 □ Hearing of Objections:-

6.5. Section 15 of the Act, 2013 provides for hearing of objections to the proposed acquisition. It confers a statutory right upon any person interested in the land to raise objections within sixty days from the date of publication of the preliminary notification. Section 15 of the Act, 2013 provides as under:

"15. Hearing of objections.- (1) Any person interested in any land which has been notified under sub-section (1) of Section 11, as being required or likely to be required for a public purpose, may within sixty days from the date of the publication of the preliminary notification, object to-*

(a) the area and suitability of land proposed to be acquired;

(b) justification offered for public purpose;

(c) the findings of the Social Impact Assessment report.

(2) Every objection under sub-section (1) shall be made to the Collector in writing, and the Collector shall give the objection an opportunity of being heard in person or by any person authorised by him in this behalf or by an Advocate and shall, after hearing all such objections and after making such further inquiry, if any, as he thinks necessary, either make a report in respect of the land which has been notified under sub-section (1) of Section 11, or make different reports in respect of different parcels of such land, to the appropriate Government, containing his recommendations on the objections, together with the record of the proceedings held by him along with a separate report giving therein the approximate cost of land acquisition, particulars as to the number of affected families likely to be resettled, for the decision of that Government.

(3) The decision of the appropriate Government on the objections made under sub-section (2) shall be final."

6.5.1. In the present case, the petitioners filed their objections on 05/09.05.2025, within the prescribed period of 60 days from the date of publication of the preliminary notification on 12.03.2025. Those objections were considered by the competent authority. Thereafter, the declaration under Section 19 was issued on 05.03.2026 and the notice under Section 21 was issued on 17.04.2026.

6.5.2. The petitioners have raised a precise contention that the order rejecting their objections filed under Section 15 of the Act, 2013 does not bear any date, and was therefore passed without proper application of mind and in a mechanical manner. This Court has carefully considered this submission.

6.5.3. Section 15(2) of the Act, 2013 casts a clear duty upon the Collector to give the objector an opportunity of being heard in person or through an authorised representative or advocate, and thereafter to make a report to the appropriate Government containing his recommendations on the objections, together with the record of the proceedings, along with a separate report giving the approximate cost of land acquisition and particulars as to the number of affected families likely to be resettled. Section 15(3) then requires the appropriate Government to take a final decision on the objections, and provides that such decision shall be final.

6.5.4. The sequence of events in the present case is as follows. The preliminary notification under Section 11(1) was issued on 07.03.2025 and published in newspapers on 12.03.2025. The petitioners filed their objections on 05/09.05.2025 within the prescribed period of 60 days. The declaration under Section 19(1) was issued on 05.03.2026. This sequence itself establishes that the Section 15 process was undertaken and completed before the Section 19 declaration was issued, since Section 19(1) expressly provides that the appropriate Government shall be satisfied, "after considering the report, if any, made under sub-section (2) of section 15", before making the declaration. The issuance of the Section 19 declaration on 05.03.2026 is therefore conclusive evidence that the Collector's report under Section 15(2) had been submitted and the appropriate Government had taken a decision on the objections under Section 15(3) before that date.

6.5.5. The absence of a date on the face of the rejection order can be an irregularity, but not an illegality which may travel upto the root of the matter. The distinction between an irregularity and an illegality in administrative proceedings is well established. In Prabhakar v. Joint Director of Sericulture Department10, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that an administrative act does not become void merely because of a procedural irregularity, unless the irregularity has caused prejudice to the party complaining of it. In the present case, the petitioners have been heard under Section 15(2), their objections have been duly considered, and a decision has been taken. The absence of a date on the order has not prevented the petitioners from knowing the outcome of their objections, nor has it caused any prejudice to them in challenging the acquisition. They have, in fact, been able to prefer these writ petitions and have been heard at length by this Court.

6.5.6. Furthermore, the scope of objections under Section 15(1) is limited to only three issues: (a) the area and suitability of land proposed to be acquired; (b) the justification offered for public purpose; and (c) the findings of the Social Impact Assessment Report. Section 15(3) makes the decision of the appropriate Government on such objections final. The petitioners have not demonstrated before this Court that any of their objections fell within these three categories and was wrongly rejected on merits. The petitioners' real grievance is about the amount of compensation they will receive and the terms on which their land is being taken. These issues do not come under the ambit of Section 15. These issues are to be decided by the Collector in the award proceedings under Sections 21 to 23 of the Act, 2013. If the petitioners are not satisfied with the award, they have a remedy to challenge it before the Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority under Section 64 of the Act, 2013.

6.5.7. In Vijay Pal Singh (supra), this Court, after examining the Section 15 procedure in full detail, including the text of Section 15 and Rule 23 of the Rules, 2016, held in paragraph 6.6.2 as follows:

"6.6.2. From the record, it is evident that notices dated 03.07.2025 were duly issued under Rule 23 of the Rules, 2016 fixing 08.07.2025 for hearing of objections from Village Neemka Shahjahanpur and 10.07.2025 for Villages Khwajpur and Thora. The public notice was published in newspapers on 03.07.2025 and local public announcements were made. Some of the petitioners, including representatives of the Sangharsh Samiti, appeared and were afforded a personal hearing. After due consideration, the Collector passed a reasoned order dated 11.07.2025, dismissing the objections on the ground that they fell outside the limited statutory scope of Section 15(1), which confines objections only to the area and suitability of land, justification for public purpose, and findings of the SIA Report. The Collector's report was forwarded to and approved by the State Government on 29.07.2025 under Section 15(3). The decision of the appropriate Government under Section 15(3) is final*. This Court finds no infirmity in the procedure followed under Section 15 of the Act, 2013. ....."*

(Emphasis supplied)

6.5.8. The principles laid down in Vijay Pal Singh (supra) are fully applicable here. The challenge to the Section 15 rejection order merely on the ground that it does not bear a date is therefore rejected.

VI. Section 19 - Declaration of Acquisition:-

6.6. Section 19 of the Act, 2013 governs the publication of the declaration of acquisition. Sub-section (1) provides that when the appropriate Government is satisfied, after considering the report under Section 15(2), that any particular land is needed for a public purpose, a declaration shall be made to that effect. Sub-section (6) provides that such declaration shall be conclusive evidence that the land is required for a public purpose. Section 19(7) provides that where no declaration is made under sub-section (1) within twelve months from the date of the preliminary notification, the notification shall be deemed to have been rescinded. In the present case, the preliminary notification was issued on 07.03.2025 and the declaration under Section 19(1) was issued on 05.03.2026, i.e., within twelve months. This Court finds no violation of Section 19 of the Act, 2013.

VII. Section 21 - Notice to Persons Interested and the Opportunity of Hearing:-

6.7. Section 21 of the Act, 2013 provides for issuance of a general notice to all persons interested in the acquired land, granting them an opportunity to appear before the Collector and submit their claims regarding compensation, rehabilitation and resettlement. Section 21 provides as under:

"21. Notice to persons interested.-(1) The Collector shall publish the public notice on his website and cause public notice to be given at convenient places on or near the land to be taken, stating that the Government intends to take possession of the land, and that claims to compensations and rehabilitation and resettlement for all interests in such land may be made to him.

(2) The public notice referred to in sub-section (1) shall state the particulars of the land so needed, and require all persons interested in the land to appear personally or by agent or advocate before the Collector at a time and place mentioned in the public notice not being less than thirty days and not more than six months after the date of publication of the notice, and to state the nature of their respective interests in the land and the amount and particulars of their claims to compensation for such interests, their claims to rehabilitation and resettlement along with their objections, if any, to the measurements made under section 20.

(3) The Collector may in any case require such statement referred to in sub-section (2) to be made in writing and signed by the party or his agent.

(4) The Collector shall also serve notice to the same effect on the occupier, if any, of such land and on all such persons known or believed to be interested therein, be entitled to act for persons so interested, as reside or have agents authorised to receive service on their behalf, within the revenue district in which the land is situated.

(5) In case any person so interested resides elsewhere, and has no such agent, the Collector shall ensure that the notice shall be sent to him by post in letter addressed to him at his last known residence, address of place or business and also publish the same in at least two national daily newspapers and also on his website."

6.7.1. In the present case, a general notice under Section 21(1) and 21(2) of the Act, 2013 was duly issued on 17.04.2026, fixing 18.05.2026 as the last date for submission of claims and objections, with hearing scheduled on 21.05.2026 before the Collector/ADM (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad. All affected persons were thus afforded a full and reasonable opportunity to appear and submit their claims before the Collector in accordance with the Act, 2013.

6.7.2. The importance of the Section 21 notice as a cornerstone of the fair procedure under the Act, 2013 was authoritatively stated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in M/s. Tirupati Developers v. The Union Territory of Dadra and Nagar Haveli and Others11, wherein the Supreme Court held in paragraphs 5 and 8 as under:

"5. It appears to us that the very object of issuing notice under Section 21 of the 2013 Act is to give a fair and reasonable opportunity to the interested persons to submit their claim with respect to the compensation for the acquired land. Such compensation can be claimed on the basis of various factors that may be relevant in the context of acquisition. The interested persons are further entitled to make a statement before the Collector in terms of Section 22 of the 2013 Act, whereupon the Collector is obligated to hold an inquiry on the objections submitted by the interested persons and pass an award with respect to: (a) the exact area of the acquired land; (b) the compensation as may be determined under Section 27 of the Act; and (c) the apportionment of the said compensation among all the persons known or believed to be interested in the land.

8. For a fair and just determination of compensation within the statutory scheme of the 2013 Act, it is imperative that a fair opportunity of hearing is given to the persons whose rights are affected. This requires that the interested person is given an effective opportunity to put forth his or her claim. Any deviation to the prescribed procedure, especially when it has seemingly affected the interested person, would militate with the very object of legislative mandate."

6.7.3. The Bombay High Court, in Sheshrao Venkatrao Shinde v. State of Maharashtra and Others,12 also held as under, while dealing with a challenge at the stage of notice under Section 21 of the Act, 2013:

"2. On 31-01-2022 the notice has been issued by the Sub-Divisional Officer/Land Acquisition Officer, Nilanga under Section 21 of the Right to Fair compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013 (for short "Act of 2013"). After the notice under Section 21 of the Act of 2013, the petitioner has got every right to raise objection and demonstrate his interest and/or claim. Section 21 prescribes for publication of notice stating that the Government intends to take possession of the land, and that claims to compensations and rehabilitation and resettlement for all interests in such land may be made to him. Sub-section (2) to Sub-section (5) of Section 21 of the Act of 2013 provides the procedure of referring the statement to be made in writing and signed by the party. Section 22 of the Act of 2013 further imposes obligation on the person to make statement containing so far as may be practicable, the name of every other person possessing any interest in the land. Under Section 23 of the Act of 2013, the Collector has to proceed to enquire into the objections, if any, which any person interested has stated pursuant to a notice given under Section 21 of the Act of 2013, the same has to be decided.

3. The petitioner has earlier raised objection, petitioner may again raise objection to the said notice. The authority has to consider the objections on its own merits and consider the stand of all parties, documents on record, the representations, earlier decisions by adhering to the provisions of Sections 21 and 22 of the Act of 2013."

6.7.4. In the present case, a notice under Section 21 has already been issued, giving the petitioners full opportunity to place their claims and objections before the Collector. Therefore, the petitioners are not without a legal remedy. Any issue relating to compensation, land measurement, or rehabilitation benefits can be effectively and adequately decided by the Collector under Sections 21, 22 and 23 of the Act, 2013.

VIII. Sections 23 and 26 to 31 – Enquiry, Award and Compensation:-

6.8. Section 23 of the Act, 2013 requires the Collector to hold an enquiry on the day fixed and to consider all objections stated pursuant to the notice under Section 21, and to pass an award specifying: (a) the true area of the land; (b) the compensation determined under Section 27 along with the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Award under Section 31; and (c) the apportionment of compensation among all interested persons. Sections 26 to 30 govern determination of market value and compensation. Section 26 requires the Collector to determine the market value of the land on the date of notification under Section 11, taking the highest of: (a) the market value specified under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 for the registration of sale deeds; (b) the average sale price for similar land in the nearest village/vicinity, determined on the basis of half the sale deeds showing highest sale prices in the preceding three years; or (c) consented compensation in case of PPP/private company acquisitions. Section 30(1) requires that solatium equivalent to 100% of the total compensation be added to the final award. Section 31 requires the Collector to pass a Rehabilitation and Resettlement Award for each affected family in terms of the Second Schedule to the Act, 2013.

6.8.1. In the present case, proceedings under Sections 21, 22 and 23 of the Act, 2013 are at the stage of enquiry and award, the Section 21 notice having been issued on 17.04.2026, with hearing having been scheduled on 21.05.2026 before the Collector/ADM (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad. The petitioners were at liberty to appear before the Collector and submit their claims in accordance with law. The Collector is directed to consider all claims and objections on their merits and to pass the award strictly in accordance with the provisions of Sections 23 to 31 of the Act, 2013.

IX. The 80% Purchase/Consent Requirement Under the Integrated Township Policy, 2023:-

6.9. The principal ground of challenge raised by the petitioners is that the mandatory precondition under the Policy, 2023 of prior purchase of or consent for 80% of the land had not been fulfilled in respect of Village Mahrauli before the preliminary notification was issued. This Court has carefully examined this contention in the light of the material on record.

6.9.1. According to the report of the Tehsildar/Sub-Divisional Officer and the instructions dated 14.05.2026 sent by Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad, the total area of the Integrated Township Project is 46.5212 hectares. Out of this, the developer had purchased 33.9013 hectares (approximately 73%) from land owners through willing agreements, and an additional 7% of the affected families had given their consent. The acquisition under Section 11 was accordingly limited to 2.86844 hectares. This represents less than 20% of the total project area of 46.5212 hectares, well within the permissible limit under the Policy, 2023.

6.9.2. The said compliance is not merely asserted by the respondents in their pleadings. It is independently and contemporaneously documented by a letter dated 03.03.2025 addressed by M/s Utility Estates Private Limited - the developer of the Integrated Township "Park Town" to the Secretary, Ghaziabad Development Authority, Ghaziabad, specifically in the context of providing consent-related information prior to initiation of compulsory acquisition proceedings. The said letter, which is on record before this Court, specifically states that the total area of the project is 46.5212 hectares. The developer has purchased 33.9013 hectares, i.e., 73% of the land, from the affected families through their consent. From the remaining land, consent of more than 7% of the affected families has been obtained. Thus, in the project as a whole, purchase/consent of more than 80% of the affected families has been obtained. The list of the remaining 2.86844 hectares of land to be acquired was enclosed therewith.

6.9.3. This letter dated 03.03.2025 is a significant piece of documentary evidence for three reasons. First, it establishes that the developer's declaration of 80% compliance preceded the Section 11 preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 by four days, confirming that the mandatory precondition was satisfied before the compulsory acquisition was set in motion. Second, it demonstrates that the 80% computation was made with reference to the total project area of 46.5212 hectares and not village-wise, which is the correct approach under the Policy, 2023 as already held above. Third, it identifies the acquiring body as the GDA and confirms that the land after acquisition is to be transferred to the GDA for the Integrated Township Scheme, establishing beyond doubt that the acquisition is for a public purpose and not for the private benefit of the developer.

6.9.4. The argument of the petitioners that the 80% calculation should be made only for Village Mahrauli cannot be accepted. The Policy, 2023 treats the Integrated Township as one single project. An Integrated Township may cover more than one village, and the land purchase process under Clause 3.4 is meant for the entire project, not village-wise. Therefore, if the developer has purchased and obtained consent for more than 80% of the total project land, the remaining land up to 20% can be acquired under the Act, 2013. The Policy does not require separate 80% compliance for each village.

6.9.5. Moreover, as is apparent from the record, subsequent to issuance of the preliminary notification for 2.86844 hectares, the developer further purchased 0.838419 hectares directly from tenure holders through mutual agreement, thereby reducing the area for compulsory acquisition under Section 19 to only 2.030021 hectares. This itself demonstrates that the process of private purchase was ongoing and that the authorities were seeking to minimise compulsory acquisition as far as possible, which is precisely the spirit of the Policy, 2023.

6.9.6. This aspect of the matter has been considered by the Court in the judgment in Vijay Pal Singh (supra). In that case, while dealing with the requirement of 70% consent under Section 2(2) of the Act, 2013 for a PPP project, the Court held that consent has to be calculated on the basis of the total number of affected families in the entire project, and not separately village-wise on the basis of landholdings. The Court further approved the earlier judgment in Kichhu Ram and Another v. State of U.P. and 5 Others,13 wherein, it was held as under:

"11. According to the petitioners, consent has not been obtained from atleast 70% of the affected families in terms of Section 2(2) of the Act. The counsel for the respondents, on the basis of information received, have placed reliance upon a report of the Collector dated 05.01.2019 to contend that there are six villages that would fall within the area covered for the purpose of the project and the number of families to be affected would be 5926 out of which 4235 families have already given their consent for the project. The percentage of affected families which have given consent comes to 72%, which is more than 70%. Thus, the argument of the learned counsel for the petitioners that no consent has been obtained and atleast consent of 70% of the affected families is required under Section 2(2) of the Act, is not sustained."

6.9.7. The principle that consent or purchase percentage must be calculated for the entire project, and not separately for each village, fully applies in the present case. Therefore, the objection that the 80% requirement of prior purchase/ consent was not fulfilled, is rejected.

X. Rehabilitation and Resettlement (R&R Scheme) Compliance with Statutory Requirements:-

6.10. The petitioners have argued that no R&R Scheme has been prepared as required under the Act, 2013. This argument is misconceived. Section 16 of the Act, 2013 requires the Administrator for Rehabilitation and Resettlement to prepare the draft R&R Scheme upon publication of the preliminary notification under Section 11. Section 18 requires the Commissioner's approval of the R&R Scheme, and Section 19 requires that the summary of the R&R Scheme be published simultaneously with the declaration. In the present case, the SIA Report itself records that the R&R Scheme will be prepared in accordance with the Act, 2013 and that no family is likely to be displaced due to the acquisition. The Government Order dated 06.08.2014 has already designated the Sub-Divisional Officer/Deputy Collector as the Administrator for Rehabilitation and Resettlement for all acquisitions within the relevant tehsil.

6.10.1. The proceedings under Sections 21, 22 and 23 of the Act, 2013, including the R&R Award under Section 31, are yet to be completed. The argument that no R&R Scheme exists cannot therefore be used to interdict proceedings at this stage. The petitioners' grievances regarding rehabilitation and resettlement entitlements can be fully addressed during the award proceedings under Section 23 read with Section 31 of the Act, 2013. This Court directs that when passing the award, the Collector shall also pass the R&R Award in terms of the Second Schedule to the Act, 2013 for each affected family.

XI. The Right to Property Under Article 300-A and the Safeguards Under the Act, 2013:-

6.11. The petitioners have invoked Article 300-A of the Constitution of India, which provides that no person shall be deprived of his property save by authority of law. This Court fully recognises that the right to property, though no longer a fundamental right after the 44th Constitutional Amendment, remains a constitutional right under Article 300-A and is entitled to the full protection of law. The right to property under Article 300-A has been expansively interpreted by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kolkata Municipal Corporation and Another v. Bimal Kumar Shah and Others14, wherein it was held that the constitutional protection under Article 300-A comprises at least seven intersecting sub-rights or procedural safeguards, namely: (i) the right to notice; (ii) the right to be heard; (iii) the right to a reasoned decision; (iv) the duty to acquire only for a public purpose; (v) the right of restitution or fair compensation; (vi) the right to an efficient and expeditious process; and (vii) the right of conclusion. The Supreme Court held that all these sub-rights must be satisfied before a person is deprived of his property.

6.11.1. In the present case, upon detailed examination, this court finds that the entire acquisition process has been carried out in accordance with the Act, 2013. Specifically: (i) notice was given under Section 11 (right to notice); (ii) objections were invited under Section 15 and heard, and a fresh opportunity has been given under Section 21 (right to be heard); (iii) a reasoned declaration has been issued under Section 19 (right to a reasoned decision); (iv) the acquisition is for planned urban development which is a recognised public purpose under Section 2(1)(e) of the Act, 2013 (acquisition only for public purpose); (v) compensation is to be determined under Sections 26 to 30 of the Act, 2013 with 100% solatium under Section 30(1) (right to fair compensation); (vi) strict timelines under Sections 14, 19(7) and 25 are being followed (efficient and expeditious process); and (vii) the award and possession will be taken upon completion of proceedings under Sections 23 to 38 of the Act, 2013 (right of conclusion). All seven sub-rights as articulated in Kolkata Municipal Corporation (supra) are thus not merely present in the statutory scheme of the Act, 2013 but have been and are being complied with in the present acquisition. Thus, the constitutional challenge under Article 300-A accordingly fails.

XII. Non-Invocation of the Urgency Clause Under Section 40 of the Act, 2013:-

6.12. This Court deems it appropriate to record that the present acquisition was not carried out under the urgency clause provisions of Section 40 of the Act, 2013. Section 40 of the Act, 2013 confers special power upon the appropriate Government, in cases of urgency, to enable the Collector to take possession of land even before the award is passed. On the contrary, the entire acquisition in the present case has been processed through the normal, full and complete procedure prescribed under the Act, 2013, beginning from the SIA Notification under Section 4, through the Expert Group's appraisal under Section 7, the Government's examination under Section 8, the preliminary notification under Section 11, the hearing of objections under Section 15, the preparation of the R&R Scheme under Section 16, the declaration under Section 19, and the general notice under Section 21, i.e. each step having been duly completed before proceeding to the next.

6.12.1. Far from disclosing any procedural shortcut or undue haste, the non-invocation of the urgency clause under Section 40 is, in fact, conclusive evidence of the bona fide intent of the respondent authorities to follow the complete due process of law without curtailing the rights of the petitioners at any stage. As held by this Court in Vijay Pal Singh (supra): "The very fact that no urgency clause was invoked means that the fullest possible statutory procedure was followed without any curtailment of the petitioners' rights at any stage. Far from disclosing any illegality, the absence of the urgency clause is conclusive evidence of the bona fide intent of the respondent authorities to follow the complete due process of law." This circumstance is a further factor supporting the validity of the acquisition.

XIII. Judicial Review of Acquisition for Public Purpose Governing Principles:-

6.13. The scope of judicial review in matters of land acquisition for public purpose is well-settled. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Somawanti and Others v. State of Punjab and Others15, (a Constitution Bench judgment) held as under:

"40. ..... If the purpose for which the acquisition is being made is not relatable to a public purpose, then a question may well arise whether, in making the declaration, there has been, on the part of the Government, a fraud on the power conferred upon it by the Act. In other words, the question would then arise whether that declaration was merely a colourable exercise of the power conferred by the Act, and, therefore, the declaration is open to challenge at the instance of the party aggrieved. To such a declaration the protection of Section 6(3) will not extend. For, the question whether a particular action was the result of a fraud or not is always justiciable, ..."

6.13.1. The ratio of the Constitution Bench is clear, i.e. the Government's declaration of public purpose is final and is not ordinarily justiciable; judicial review is confined to cases of fraud or colourable exercise of power. In the present case, the public purpose, namely planned urban development through an integrated township, is apparent. The petitioners have neither specifically alleged nor proved any fraud or misuse of power.

6.13.2. In Ramniklal N. Bhutta (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court emphasised the need for courts to balance public and private interests in matters of acquisition and observed as under:

"10. Before parting with this case, we think it necessary to make a few observations relevant to land acquisition proceedings. Our country is now launched upon an ambitious programme of all-round economic advancement to make our economy competitive in the world market. We are anxious to attract foreign direct investment to the maximum extent. We propose to compete with china economically. We wish to attain the pace of progress achieved by some of the Asian countries, referred to as "Asian tigers", e.g., South Korea, Taiwan and Singapore. It is, however, recognised on all hands that the infrastructure necessary for sustaining such a pace of progress is woefully lacking in our country. The means of transportation, power and communications are in dire need of substantial improvement, expansion and modernisation. These things very often call for acquisition of land and that too without any delay. It is, however, natural that in most of these cases, the persons affected challenge the acquisition proceedings in courts. These challenge the acquisition proceedings in courts. These challenges are generally in shape of writ petitions filed on High Courts. Invariably, stay of acquisition is asked for and in some cases, orders by way of stay or injunction are also made. Whatever may have been the practices in the past, a time has come where the courts should keep the larger public interest in mind while exercising their power or grant in stay/injunction. The power under Article 226 is discretionary. It will be exercised only in furtherance of interests of justice and not merely on the making out of a legal point. And in the matter of land acquisition for public purposes, the interests of justice and the public purposes, the interests of justice and the public interest coalesce. They are very often one and the same*. Even in civil suit, granting of injunction or other similar orders, more particularly of an interlocutory nature, is equally discretionary.* The courts have to weigh the public interest vis-a-vis the private interest while exercising the power under Article 226 - indeed any of their discretionary powers. It may even be open to the High Court to direct, in case it finds finally that the acquisition was vitiated on account of non-compliance with some legal requirement that the persons interested shall also be entitled to a particular amount of damages to be awarded as a lumpsum or calculated at a certain percentage of compensation payable. There are many ways of affording appropriate relief and redressing a wrong; quashing the acquisition proceedings is not the only mode of redress. To wit, it is ultimately a matter of balancing the competing interests. Beyond this, it is neither possible nor advisable to say. We hope and trust that these considerations will be duly borne in mind by the courts while dealing with challenges to acquisition proceedings."

(emphasis supplied)

6.13.3. In Daulat Singh Surana v. First Land Acquisition Collector and Others,16, the Supreme Court held:

"40. Public purpose will include a purpose in which the general interest of community as opposed to the interest of an individual is directly or indirectly involved. Individual interest must give way to public interest as far as public purpose in respect of acquisition of land is concerned."

6.13.4. Applying these principles to the present case, the land acquisition is for planned urban development, which is a public purpose. The legal procedure under the Act, 2013 has also been properly followed. No special or exceptional circumstances have been shown for interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, after payment of fair compensation as required under the Act, 2013, the private interest of the petitioners must give way to the larger public interest of planned urban development.

XIII. The Precedent in WRIT-C No. 41339 of 2025 (Vijay Pal Singh and 12 others v. State of U.P. and 6 others) reported in 2026 (5) ADJ 320 (DB):-

6.14. This Court has carefully considered the judgment and order dated 28.04.2026 passed in Vijay Pal Singh (supra), which has been heavily relied upon by the respondents, wherein similar challenges to land acquisition proceedings initiated under the Act, 2013 were examined and dismissed after a comprehensive analysis of the entire statutory process under the Act, 2013 and the Rules, 2016, including the SIA process, the Section 15 objection procedure, the consent and purchase threshold requirement, the R&R framework, the Section 19 declaration, and the right to property under Article 300-A of the Constitution of India. We find that the legal principles laid down and the findings recorded in that judgment on each of these issues are directly applicable to the present case and have been applied by this Court at the appropriate places in the preceding discussion. Since the judgment in Vijay Pal Singh (supra) directly applies to the present case and is binding on this Court, it also provides an additional and separate reason for dismissing these writ petitions.

XV. The Remedy Under Section 64 of the Act, 2013:-

6.15. Section 64 of the Act, 2013 provides a proper and effective legal remedy to any person who is dissatisfied with the award passed by the Collector. A person who has not accepted the award can ask for the matter to be referred to the Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority regarding disputes relating to (a) measurement of land, (b) amount of compensation, (c) the person entitled to receive compensation, (d) Rehabilitation and Resettlement (R&R) rights, and

(e) apportionment of compensation. Section 74 provides for an appeal to the High Court against the award of the Authority. This complete statutory mechanism provides an efficacious remedy for all compensation and R&R related grievances. In light of the principles laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Whirlpool Corporation (supra), the existence of an efficacious alternative statutory remedy is a ground for restraint in the exercise of writ jurisdiction under Article 226, except in cases involving enforcement of fundamental rights, violation of principles of natural justice, acts wholly without jurisdiction, or challenge to the vires of a statute. None of these exceptional circumstances are present in the instant case. The petitioners are thus not without remedy in law, and their specific grievances relating to compensation and measurement are appropriately redressable before the statutory reference authority.

G. CONCLUSION:-

7. In the light of the foregoing analysis, the legal framework of the Act, 2013 and the Integrated Township Policy, 2023, the statutory provisions set out above, the judicial precedents considered herein, and the material available on record, this Court holds as follows:

(i) The SIA process was duly conducted in compliance with Sections 4, 5, 7 and 8 of the Act, 2013. The SIA Report was approved by the appropriate Government and its summary was incorporated in the preliminary notification as required under Section 11(3). No infirmity in the SIA process has been established.

(ii) The preliminary notification dated 07.03.2025 was issued in compliance with Section 11(1) of the Act, 2013. Objections were duly invited under Section 15 and the petitioners' objections filed on 05/09.05.2025 were considered and rejected by the competent authority. The declaration under Section 19(1) was issued on 05.03.2026, within twelve months as required.

(iii) The requirement of prior purchase/consent for 80% of the project land under the Policy, 2023 has been substantially met as the project is computed as a whole. The acquisition is confined to less than 20% of the total project area of 46.5212 hectares, in accordance with the Policy, 2023.

(iv) The petitioners have been provided a full opportunity to submit their claims and objections under Section 21 of the Act, 2013 through the notice dated 17.04.2026. Any grievance regarding compensation, measurement or rehabilitation entitlements may be raised before the Collector in the award proceedings and, thereafter, before the Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority under Section 64 of the Act, 2013.

(v) The acquisition is for a recognised public purpose and does not constitute a colourable exercise of power. No fraud or malafides have been alleged or established. The constitutional challenge under Article 300-A of the Constitution fails in view of meticulous compliance with all seven sub-rights identified in Kolkata Municipal Corporation (supra) and the provisions of the Act, 2013.

(vi) All the legal challenges raised by the petitioners have been examined and rejected for the reasons set out above.

H. FINAL ORDERS:-

8. In view of the foregoing discussion and for the reasons stated hereinabove, this Court finds no merit in the challenge raised by the petitioners to the impugned notifications dated 07.03.2025 and 17.04.2026, and to the order rejecting the petitioners' objections under Section 15 of the Act, 2013. This Court declines to interfere in the acquisition proceedings, which have been conducted in conformity with the Right to Fair Compensation and Transparency in Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Act, 2013.

8.1. It is, however, directed that:

(a) The Collector/Additional District Magistrate (Land Acquisition), Ghaziabad, shall conduct the enquiry under Sections 22 and 23 of the Act, 2013 and pass the award strictly in accordance with the provisions of Sections 26 to 31 of the Act, 2013, ensuring that full and fair opportunity is given to all interested persons including the petitioners to submit their claims and to be heard.

(b) The Collector shall also pass the Rehabilitation and Resettlement Award in terms of Section 31 of the Act, 2013 read with the Second Schedule thereto for each affected family.

(c) Possession of the acquired land shall not be taken by the respondents in violation of the provisions of Section 38 of the Act, 2013. Possession shall be taken only after full payment of the compensation as determined and the monetary components of the R&R Award, in accordance with Section 38(1) of the Act, 2013.

(d) Any petitioner or affected person aggrieved by the quantum of compensation or the R&R Award shall be at liberty to avail the remedy of reference under Section 64 of the Act, 2013 before the competent Land Acquisition, Rehabilitation and Resettlement Authority

8.2. All the six writ petitions, being WRIT-C No. 20436 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20011 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20024 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20026 of 2026, WRIT-C No. 20032 of 2026 and WRIT-C No. 20035 of 2026, are hereby dismissed. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

Whether conviction recorded against the petitioner (the then Juvenile) having been found in conflict with law and tried by Juvenile Justice Board can be treated as a legal impediment for issuance of a valid passport in favour of the petitioner.

Headnotes

Passports Act, 1967, s.6 – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015, ss.3(xiv), 24 – Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000, s.19 – Constitution of India, Arts.21, 43 – Passport – Refusal of passport to juvenile convict – – Petitioner convicted by the Juvenile Justice Board as a juvenile in conflict with law in a case under ss.363, 366 and 376 IPC

– Admitted to probation for six months – Petitioner maintained good conduct and was issued Character Certificate by the District Probation Officer – Application for issuance of passport rejected on the basis of police report indicating pendency of criminal case – Petitioner asserted that no criminal case was pending – Justification:

Held: By virtue of the non-obstante clause contained in s.19 of the Act of 2000, any disqualification attaching to the conviction recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board stands removed notwithstanding anything contained in any other law – Juvenile convict being a minor at the time of commission of offence, the conviction cannot be read against him particularly when the law mandates the "principle of fresh start" – The law mandates not to attach any stigma with juvenile convicts and the "principle of fresh start" read with the "right to be forgotten" is the essence of s.19 of the Act of 2000.

The Principle of Fresh Start under s.3(xiv) of the Act of 2015 mandates that all past records of any child under the juvenile justice system should be erased except in special circumstances – The language employed in s.24 of the Act of 2015 is not only for excluding or erasing the criminal antecedent record, but goes a step forward by providing that the criminal antecedent record of a juvenile be erased/destroyed completely so that such previous conviction or criminal delinquency would not be carried forward so as to prevent any adverse impact upon his future prospects – Such conviction cannot be said to be stigmatic and would not inhere any disqualification either for employment or for any other purpose.

Right to travel abroad is encompassed within the ambit of the right to life and personal liberty and is a fundamental right – Travel abroad for livelihood is also a necessary concomitant to Arts.21 and 43 of the Constitution – Refusal of issuance of passport entails civil consequences and due application of mind with cogent reasons is sine qua non for such refusal.

In the instant case Union of India failed to demonstrate pendency of any criminal case against the petitioner – Recording of pendency of criminal case in the impugned order exhibits complete non-serious attitude of the respondent authorities – Conviction recorded against the petitioner by the Juvenile Justice Board cannot be read as a disqualification for future recourses – Regional Passport Officer directed to process the petitioner's application for issuance of passport afresh notwithstanding the conviction recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board and issue the requisite passport if there is no other legal impediment or hurdle. 1. Heard Shri Shailendra Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Arun Kumar Pal, learned counsel for the respondent-Union of India.

2. The petitioner has knocked the doors of this Court invoking prerogative writ jurisdiction seeking a writ in the nature of certiorari to quash the impugned order dated 19.03.2021 (Annexure No.8 to the writ petition) refusing issuance of passport in favour of the petitioner, precisely assigning the reason that petitioner failed to respond to the notice dated 31.12.2020 disclosing the final outcome of criminal cases pending against him and further it has been asserted that in view of adverse police report, issuance of passport is not possible. The petitioner further prayed for issuance of writ of mandamus commanding and directing the second respondent/Regional Passport Officer, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow to issue passport in his favour.

A. FACTUAL MATRIX

3. The facts giving rise to institution of the instant writ petition are, petitioner applied for issuance of passport by submitting an application on 29.01.2020 and, thereafter, instituted Civil Misc. Writ Petition No.12922 of 2020 before this Court, which was decided vide order dated 31.08.2020 with a direction that if petitioner approaches second respondent, he shall communicate the decision taken by him at the earliest qua the application pending before him for issuance of passport.

4. Since no decision was taken as such petitioner filed a Contempt Application bearing No.684 of 2021 before this Court alleging non-compliance of order dated 31.08.2020 and it is during pendency of said Contempt Application but the impugned decision refusing passport to the petitioner was taken vide order dated 19.03.2021, which is under challenge before this Court.

5. Pleadings in present proceedings have been exchanged. The reason set-out by the respondent-authorities for refusal of passport as mentioned in the order impugned as well as in the counter affidavit is, petitioner had faced criminal trial in Case Crime No.219 of 2010, under Sections 363, 366, & 376 IPC, Police Station Gagha, District Gorakhpur has been convicted.

6. The petitioner having been found to be minor in conflict with law was tried as juvenile by the Juvenile Justice Board, Gorakhpur and was ultimately convicted in Case Crime No.219 of 2010, under Sections 363, 366, & 376 IPC vide judgement and order dated 13.08.2013. The said judgement has been brought as Annexure No.4 to the writ petition. While recording the conviction, learned Juvenile Justice Board admitted the petitioner for probation of six months with the condition that petitioner would offer surety and bonds for maintaining good conduct and behaviour.

7. In furtherance of judgment and order dated 13.08.2013, petitioner maintained good conduct and behaviour for the period specified by learned Juvenile Justice Board, as such petitioner has been issued the Character Certificate on 20.03.2014 by District Probation Officer, District Gorakhpur, mentioning therein that petitioner had maintained good conduct and behaviour during period of probation. The certificate so issued by District Probation Officer, Gorakhpur on 20.03.2014 has been brought on record by means of Annexure No.5 to the writ petition. There is no quarrel with respect to genuineness of such certificate.

8. The petitioner has placed on record his High School Certificate as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, which records date of birth of petitioner as 18.05.1993, so, on the date of alleged commission of offence dated 01.03.2010 reported by virtue of Case Crime No.219 of 2010, the petitioner was aged about 16 years and 10 months. Thus, the petitioner was tried having been found in conflict with law, as a juvenile by Juvenile Justice Board and was convicted as such vide judgment and order dated 13.10.2013, but nothing adverse had been reported against him while he was placed on probation.

9. In this background the petitioner□s application for issuance of passport dated 29.01.2020, which was processed, same came to be rejected on the basis of police report indicating pendency of criminal case.

B. ISSUE/QUESTION INVOLVED

10. The core issue for consideration and determination by this Court is whether conviction recorded against the petitioner (the then Juvenile) having been found in conflict with law and tried by Juvenile Justice Board can be treated as a legal impediment for issuance of a valid passport in favour of the petitioner.

C.SUBMISSIONS ADVANCED ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the order impugned refusing passport is a cryptic one and has been passed for sheer annoyance of contempt proceedings initiated against authority concerned, by twisting the facts giving an impression that proceeding is pending against the petitioner.

12. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that there is absolutely no pendency of any criminal case, as such respondent-authority had erred in refusing the passport to the petitioner through a cryptic order without assigning any cogent reason. In order to buttress his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan Vs. Rajendra Prasad Jain reported in (2008) 15 SCC 711 wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that "reason is the heart beat of every conclusion, and without the same it becomes lifeless". In absence of cogent reason and failure in considering the material in its correct perspective, the decision making process stands vitiated and interference by this Court is warranted.

13. Supreme Court in the case of Chandana Impex Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Commissioner of Customs, New Delhi, 2011(269)E.L.T. 433 (S.C.)(para 8) held as under :

"8. Having bestowed our anxious consideration on the facts at hand, we are of the opinion that there is some merit in the submission of learned counsel for the appellant that while dealing with an appeal under Section 130 of the Act, the High Court should have examined each question formulated in the appeal with reference to the material taken into consideration by the Tribunal in support of its finding thereon and given its reasons for holding that question is not a substantial question of law. It needs to be emphasised that every litigant, who approaches the court for relief is entitled to know the reason for acceptance or rejection of his prayer, particularly when either of the parties to the lis has a right of further appeal. Unless the litigant is made aware of the reasons which weighed with the court in denying him the relief prayed for, the remedy of appeal will not be meaningful. It is that reasoning, which can be subjected to examination at the higher forums. In State of Orissa Vs. Dhaniram Luhar2 this Court, while reiterating that reason is the heart beat of every conclusion and without the same, it becomes lifeless, observed thus :

"8.....Right to reason is an indispensable part of a sound judicial system; reasons at least sufficient to indicate an application of mind to the matter before court. Another rationale is that the affected party can know why the decision has gone against him. One of the salutary requirements of natural justice is spelling out reasons for the order made;...."

14. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submitted that the reasons in order are of essence in administrative/judicial proceedings. Every litigant who approaches the Court/authority with a prayer is entitled to know the reasons for acceptance or rejection of such request. Hon'ble Supreme Court held in the case of The Secretary & Curator, Victoria Memorial v. Howrah Ganatantrik Nagrik Samity and ors., JT 2010(2)SC 566 para 31 to 33 held as under:-

"31. It is a settled legal proposition that not only administrative but also judicial order must be supported by reasons, recorded in it. Thus, while deciding an issue, the Court is bound to give reasons for its conclusion. It is the duty and obligation on the part of the Court to record reasons while disposing of the case. The hallmark of an order and exercise of judicial power by a judicial forum is to disclose its reasons by itself and giving of reasons has always been insisted upon as one of the fundamentals of sound administration justice - delivery system, to make known that there had been proper and due application of mind to the issue before the Court and also as an essential requisite of principles of natural justice. The giving of reasons for a decision is an essential attribute of judicial and judicious disposal of a matter before Courts, and which is the only indication to know about the manner and quality of exercise undertaken, as also the fact that the Court concerned had really applied its mind. " [Vide State of Orissa Vs. Dhaniram Luhar (JT 2004(2) SC 172 and State of Rajasthan Vs. Sohan Lal & Ors. JT 2004 (5) SCC 338:2004 (5) SCC 573].

32. Reason is the heartbeat of every conclusion. It introduces clarity in an order and without the same, it becomes lifeless. Reasons substitute subjectivity by objectivity. Absence of reasons renders the order indefensible/unsustainable particularly when the order is subject to further challenge before a higher forum. [Vide Raj Kishore Jha Vs. State of Bihar & Ors. AIR 2003 SC 4664; Vishnu Dev Sharma Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors. (2008) 3 SCC 172; Steel Authority of India Ltd. Vs. Sales Tax Officer, Rourkela I Circle & Ors. (2008) 9 SCC 407; State of Uttaranchal & Anr. Vs. Sunil Kumar Singh Negi AIR 2008 SC 2026; U.P.S.R.T.C. Vs. Jagdish Prasad Gupta AIR 2009 SC 2328; Ram Phal Vs. State of Haryana & Ors. (2009) 3 SCC 258; Mohammed Yusuf Vs. Faij Mohammad & Ors. (2009) 3 SCC 513; and State of Himachal Pradesh Vs. Sada Ram & Anr. (2009) 4 SCC 422].

33. Thus, it is evident that the recording of reasons is principle of natural justice and every judicial order must be supported by reasons recorded in writing. It ensures transparency and fairness in decision making. The person who is adversely affected may know, as why his application has been rejected."

(emphasis added by us)

15. Learned counsel for the petitioner strenuously urged that the reasoning regarding pendency of criminal case is completely unfounded from the material available on record. The conviction even if was recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board, the same could not have formed the foundation for refusal of passport, as the conviction recorded against a juvenile cannot be read as stigmatic one against petitioner.

16. Submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is, that order of refusal of passport is a result of anguish at the end of respondent for contempt proceedings drawn against them before this Court.

D. SUBMISSIONS ADVANCED ON BEHALF OF RESPONDENTS

17. The counsel representing the Union of India-respondents endevoured hard to defend the order of refusal of passport on the strength of conviction recorded against petitioner by the Juvenile Justice Board.

18. Learned counsel for the respondents-Union of India Mr. Pal submitted that the petitioner is a previous convict, as such the application for issuance of passport has rightly been turned down and the further submission is that even during pendency of criminal proceedings, the passport can be refused based on provisions as contained under Section 6 (2) (f) of Passport Act.

E. DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

19. Before going into the crux of the matter at hand, we deem it necessary to reproduce the principal statutory provisions which bear on the controversy in the present case. Section 5 of the Passports Act, which deals with applications for passports and orders thereon, provides as follows:

"5. Applications for passports, travel documents, etc., and orders thereon

(1) An application for the issue of a passport under this Act for visiting such foreign country or countries (not being a named foreign country) as may be specified in the application may be made to the passport authority and shall be accompanied by such fee as may be prescribed to meet the expenses incurred on special security paper, printing, lamination and other connected miscellaneous services in issuing passports and other travel documents.

Explanation. - In this section, □named foreign country□ means such foreign country as the Central Government may, by rules made under this Act, specify in this behalf.

(1A) An application for the issue of-

(i) a passport under this Act for visiting a named foreign country; or

(ii) a travel document under this Act for visiting such foreign country or countries (including a named foreign country) as may be specified in the application or for an endorsement on the passport or travel document referred to in this section, may be made to the passport authority and shall be accompanied by such fee (if any), not exceeding rupees fifty, as may be prescribed. (1B) Every application under this section shall be in such form and contain such particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) On receipt of an application under this section, the passport authority, after making such inquiry, if any, as it may consider necessary, shall, subject to the other provisions of this Act, by order in writing, -

(a) issue the passport or travel document with endorsement, or, as the case may be, make on the passport or travel document the endorsement, in respect of the foreign country or countries specified in the application; or

(b) issue the passport or travel document with endorsement, or, as the case may be, make on the passport or travel document the endorsement, in respect of one or more of the foreign countries specified in the application and refuse to make an endorsement in respect of the other country or countries; or

(c) refuse to issue the passport or travel document or, as the case may be, refuse to make on the passport or travel document any endorsement.

(3) Where the passport authority makes an order under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (2) on the application of any person, it shall record in writing a brief statement of its reasons for making such order and furnish to that person on demand a copy of the same unless in any case the passport authority is of the opinion that it will not be in the interests of the sovereignty and integrity of India, the security of India, friendly relations of India with any foreign country or in the interests of the general public to furnish such copy."

(emphasis added)

20. Section 6 of the Passports Act, which deals with refusal of passports and travel documents, in so far as it is material, provides:

"6. Refusal of passports, travel documents, etc.-

(1) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the passport authority shall refuse to make an endorsement for visiting any foreign country under clause (b) or clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 5 on any one or more of the following grounds, and on no other ground, namely:-

(a) that the applicant may, or is likely to, engage in such country in activities prejudicial to the sovereignty and integrity of India;

(b) that the presence of the applicant in such country may, or is likely to, be detrimental to the security of India;

(c) that the presence of the applicant in such country may, or is likely to, prejudice the friendly relations of India with that or any other country; (d) that in the opinion of the Central Government the presence of the applicant in such country is not in the public interest.

(2) Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the passport authority shall refuse to issue a passport or travel document for visiting any foreign country under clause (c) of sub-section (2) of section 5 on any one or more of the following grounds, and on no other ground, namely:-

(a) that the applicant is not a citizen of India;

(b) that the applicant may, or is likely to, engage outside India in activities prejudicial to the sovereignty and integrity of India;

(c) that the departure of the applicant from India may, or is likely to, be detrimental to the security of India;

(d) that the presence of the applicant outside India may, or is likely to, prejudice the friendly relations of India with any foreign country;

(e) that the applicant has, at any time during the period of five years immediately preceding the date of his application, been convicted by a court in India for any offence involving moral turpitude and sentenced in respect thereof to imprisonment for not less than two years;

(f) that proceedings in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by the applicant are pending before a criminal court in India;

(g) that a warrant or summons for the appearance, or a warrant for the arrest, of the applicant has been issued by a court under any law for the time being in force or that an order prohibiting the departure from India of the applicant has been made by any such court;

(h) that the applicant has been repatriated and has not reimbursed the expenditure incurred in connection with such repatriation;

(i) that in the opinion of the Central Government the issue of a passport or travel document to the applicant will not be in the public interest."

(emphasis added)

21. The law mandates not to attach any stigma with juvenile convicts and 'principle of fresh start' read with □right to be forgotten□ is essence for such subject which emerges from plain reading of Section 19 of Act, 2000. For ready reference Section 19 of the Juvenile Justice Act, 2000 is quoted as hereunder:-

"19. Removal of disqualification attaching to conviction:- (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any other law, a juvenile who has committed an offence and has been dealt with under the provisions of this Act shall not suffer disqualification, if any, attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law,

(2) The Board shall make an order directing that the relevant records of such conviction shall be removed after the expiry of the period of appeal or a reasonable period as prescribed under the rules, as the case may be."

22. The law with respect to juveniles has got a sea change but still the juvenile continue to enjoy the protection against stigma on account of conviction, if so recorded. Section 25 of the Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as "Act, 2015") came into force on 15th January, 2016 and by virtue of Section 25 of the aforesaid Act it has been provided as under:-

"25. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, all proceedings in respect of a child alleged or found to be in conflict with law pending before any Board or court on the date of commencement of this Act, shall be continued in that Board or court as if this Act had not been enacted."

23. Not only the proceedings instituted prior to commencement of the Act, 2015 would be governed by old laws but their after effects are also to be controlled, regulated and governed as per the Act, 2000, which provides that the conviction recorded under the procedure laid down by Act of 2000 would not attach any disqualification and further law mandates that the relevant records of such conviction shall be removed after the expiry of period of appeal or a reasonable period as prescribed under the Rules. Thus, on one hand such conviction cannot be said to be stigmatic, on the other hand such conviction would not inhere disqualification either for employment or for any other purposes and such convicts need to be brought into main stream of society.

24. A bare reading of Section 19 (1) makes it clear that it starts with non-obstante clause excluding the applicability of any other law in the matters of juveniles and clearly provides that a juvenile, who has committed an offence and has been dealt under the provisions of the Act shall not suffer disqualification attaching to a conviction of an offence under such law. It means that even if a juvenile is convicted for an offence committed by him, his conviction would not be treated as a disqualification.

25. There is not even iota of doubt that Section 19 of Act of 2000 clearly provides that as a direct consequence, any disqualification entailing from conviction would have to be ignored and cannot act to the detriment of the child in conflict with law in any manner.

26. This court is conscious of the "right to be forgotten, which has been referred and dealt with in order dated 12.04.2021 passed by Supreme Court in the case of Jorawer Singh Mundy @ Jorawar Singh Mundy Vs. Union of India and Ors. (WP(C)3981/2011) observing that in the cases of juvenile delinquency, if any criminal antecedent record of a juvenile is allowed to remain intact, to be accessed, amongst others, by using the technology tools, the same may not only bring humiliation and discredit to the juvenile, but may also adversely impact the future prospects of the juvenile, amongst other things.

27. This Court does not wish to enter into the realm of broader 'right to be forgotten', but, at present, is specifically considering the 'right to be forgotten' for a juvenile in the perspective of Section 24 of the Act of 2015 to be an absolute right for safeguarding future prospects of such juvenile.

28. Such a disclosure would not only affect the 'right to be forgotten' of a juvenile, but would also defeat the very purpose and would be against the very intent of the legislature in enacting the Act of 2015, and incorporating Section 24 therein. When future employment prospects of a juvenile are intended to be protected even such actions would adversely affect, the rehabilitation of the juvenile and his socio-economic stability would also be adversely impacted, which may lead the juvenile to again resort to the criminal delinquency. This is more so when, the present day developing societies are dynamic and self-explanatory in its complexities followed by never-ending changes, and the juvenile is no exception to it, rather much more vulnerable, because the negativity of his (juvenile's) past life, despite enactment of a much strong law like the Act of 2015, legislative intent of which is to remove his criminal antecedents from the record, rather destroying of the complete record thereof, if allowed to sustain and remain intact, the same would be revisited for oblivious reasons, against the welfare and future well being of the juvenile, thereby bringing future embarrassments to the juvenile.

29. Section 12 of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1958, speaks of removal of disqualification attaching to conviction, but the language employed in Section 24 of the Act of 2015 is not only for excluding or erasing the criminal antecedent record, but goes a step forward, by laying down a provision that the criminal antecedent record of a juvenile be erased/destroyed completely, so that such previous conviction or criminal delinquency of a juvenile would not be carried forward, so as to prevent any adverse impact of his previous delinquency, upon his future prospects.

30. From a conspectus of the above factual matrix and the law applicable, it is crystal clear that Section 6(2) (f) of the Act, 1967 makes it specific that if proceeding in respect of an offence alleged to have been committed by an applicant are pending before criminal law in any Court, it can be one of the reasons for refusal of passport but same is not the case in hand as respondent-Union of India has failed to demonstrate pendency of any criminal case against petitioner.

31. A coordinate bench judgement of this Court dated 10.10.2025 rendered in the case of Rahimuddin vs. Union of India (Writ-C No.34412 of 2025) provides that where an applicant seeking passport if faces a criminal case, he/she shall have to obtain permission of concerned criminal Court in the first instance to travel abroad. The law further provides that in the event such applicant moves such application stating the period for which he wants passport to be issued, the Court shall pass an appropriate order disposing of the same finally by both sanctioning foreign country travel and specifying the duration for which foreign country travel is being permitted and whereupon passport may be issued accordingly.

32. Since there is absolutely no pendency of any criminal case pointed out by any of the parties, as such the ratio laid down in the case of Rahimuddin (supra) is not applicable to the controversy in question. The only point, which has been brought on record by virtue of counter affidavit is conviction recorded against petitioner by Juvenile Justice Board, which cannot be read as a disqualification for future recourses.

The right to travel abroad is enshrined in Article 21 of Constitution of India

33. Having heard learned counsel for the respective parties and having perused the record, it is no more res-integra that right to travel abroad is encompassed within the ambit of right to life and personal liberty. It has been held to be fundamental right by Constitution Bench of Supreme Court in the case of Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India, (1978) 1 SCC 248 wherein it was held that the right to travel is encompassed within the ambit of the right to life and personal liberty, and that any administrative action impinging upon such right must satisfy the test of fairness, reasonableness and non-arbitrariness. It was observed by Justice M.H. Beg that:

"193. It seems to me that there can be little doubt that the right to travel and to go outside the country, which orders regulating issue, suspension or impounding, and cancellation of passports directly affect, must be included in rights to "personal liberty" on the strength of decisions of this Court giving a very wide ambit to the right to personal liberty (see : Satwant Singh Sawhney v. D. Ramarathnam, Assistant Passport Officer, Government of India, New Delhi & Ors. AIR 1967 SC 1836, Kharak Singh v. State of U.P. & Ors. AIR 1963 SC 1295.

Justice Beg further observed that:

"226. Even executive authorities when taking administrative action which involves any deprivation of or restriction on inherent fundamental rights of citizens must take care to see that justice is not only done but manifestly appears to be done. They have a duty to proceed in a way which is free from even the appearance of arbitrariness, unreasonableness or unfairness. They have to act in a manner which is patently impartial and meets the requirements of natural justice."

34. In the case of Maneka Gandhi (supra) it was held that the citizen of the country has a constitutional right to go abroad and impairment of such a right cannot be done without observing the principles of natural justice. For ready reference relevant paragraphs of Maneka Gandhi (supra) are quoted hereunder:-

"5. That 'personal liberty' within the meaning of Article 21 includes within its ambit the right to go abroad and consequently no person can be deprived of this right except according to procedure prescribed by law. Prior to the enactment of the Passports Act, 1967, there was no law regulating the right of a person to go abroad and that was the reason why the order of the Passport Officer refusing to issue passport to the petitioner in Satwant Singh case [AIR 1967 SC 1836 : (1967) 3 SCR 525 : (1968) 1 SCJ 178] was struck down as invalid. It will be seen at once from the language of Article 21 that the protection it secures is a limited one.

73. From the point of view of comparative law too, the position is well established. For, one of the essential attributes of citizenship, says Prof Schwartz, is freedom of movement. The right of free movement is a vital element of personal liberty. The right of free movement includes the right to travel abroad*. So much is simple textbook teaching in Indian, as in Anglo-American law.*

Passport legality, affecting as it does, freedoms that are □delicate and vulnerable, as well as supremely precious in our society□, cannot but excite judicial vigilance to obviate fragile dependency for exercise of fundamental rights upon executive clemency. So important is this subject that the watershed between a police State and a Government by the people may partly turn on the prevailing passport policy. Conscious, though I am, that such prolix elaboration of environmental aspects is otiose, the Emergency provisions of our Constitution, the extremes of rigour the nation has experienced (or may) and the proneness of power to stoop to conquer make necessitous the hammering home of vital values expressed in terse constitutional vocabulary."

35. Refusal of issuance of passport by competent authority also entails civil consequences as such due application of mind with cogent reasons is sine qua non for such refusal.

36. The Supreme Court in the case of Satwant Singh Sawhney Vs. D. Ramarathnam, Asstt. Passport Officer [AIR 1967 SC 1836] held that the right to travel abroad falls within the scope of personal liberty enshrined under Article 21 of the Constitution of India and that no person can be deprived of his right to travel except according to the procedure established by law. After this decision was rendered, the Passport Act, 1967 was enacted by parliament and it laid down the circumstances under which a passport may be issued or refused or cancelled or impounded and also prescribed a procedure for doing so.

37. A seven judge bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Maneka Gandhi (supra) declared that no person can be deprived of his right to go abroad unless there is a law enabling the State to do so and such law contains fair, reasonable and just procedure. It held:

"...Thus, no person can be deprived of his right to go abroad unless there is a law made by the State prescribing the procedure for so depriving him and the deprivation is effected strictly in accordance with such procedure. It was for this reason, in order to comply with the requirement of Article 21, that Parliament enacted the Passports Act, 1967 for regulating the right to go abroad. It is clear from the provisions of the Passports Act, 1967 that it lays down the circumstances under which a passport may be issued or refused or cancelled or impounded and also prescribes a procedure for doing so, but the question is whether that is sufficient compliance with Article 21."

38. It is no more res integra that the right to travel abroad is an important basic human right as held in the case of Satish Chandra Verma Vs. Union of India & others, [(2019) SCC OnLine SC 2048] and such a right cannot be prevented from being exercised without due process of law.

39. It is well settled that an order, which has civil consequences must be passed after giving opportunity of hearing to a party as held in the case of State Of Orissa vs Dr. (Miss) Binapani Dei & Ors reported in 1967 AIR 1269.

40. The question of disqualification owing to conviction recorded against the juvenile found in conflict with law for future employment etc, came up for consideration of Supreme Court in the case of Union of India and others vs. Ramesh Bishnoi reported in (2019) 19 SCC 710, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the juvenile convict being a minor at the time of commission of offence, the conviction cannot be read against him particularly when the law mandates for 'principle of fresh start'

41. Supreme Court also had the occasion to consider the mandate of law enshrined under Section 24 of the Act, 2015, which provides for rehabilitation and reintegration of juveniles into society free from stigma of their past conflict with law coupled with mandate contained in Section 3 (xiv) of Act of 2015, which encompasses the principle of fresh start. For ready reference Section 3 (xiv) of Act of 2015 is quoted hereunder:-

"(xiv) Principle of fresh start: All past records of any child under the juvenile justice system should be erased except in special circumstances."

42. Liberty, being an obligation of the State enshrined under Chapter III of the Constitution of India confering a right in favour of citizen to travel, which includes travel abroad for livelihood subject to law, and such obligation is also a necessary concomitant to Article 21 read with Article 43 of the Constitution of India. There is no iota of doubt the State may regulate or restrain such freedom in the interest of justice, security or public order, but any such restraint must necessarily be confined and proportionate to the object sought to be achieved.

43. Supreme Court in the case of Mahesh Kumar Agarwal Vs. Union of India reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2887 has held that denial or renewal of passport does not operate in a vaccum. Relevant paragraphs of the aforesaid judgement are quoted as under:-

"20.It must also be noted that denial of renewal of a passport does not operate in a vacuum. This Court has repeatedly held in a catena of judgements6 that the right to travel abroad and the right to hold a passport are facets of the right to personal liberty under Article 21 of the Constitution of India. Any restriction on that right must be fair, just and reasonable, and must bear a rational nexus with a legitimate purpose.

22. It is important to keep distinct the possession of a valid passport and the act of travelling abroad. A passport is a civil document that enables its holder to seek a visa and, subject to other laws and orders, to cross international borders. Whether a person who is on bail or facing trial may actually leave the country is a matter for the criminal court, which can grant or withhold permission, impose conditions, insist on undertakings, or refuse leave altogether. In the present case, both criminal courts have done exactly that. To refuse renewal on the speculative apprehension that the appellant might misuse the passport is, in effect, to second-guess the criminal courts assessment of risk and to assume for the passport authority a supervisory role which the statute does not envisage."

44. The thrust of the legislation i.e. Act, 2000 as well as the Act, 2015 is that even if a juvenile is convicted, the same should not be obliterated, so that there is no stigma with regard to any crime committed by such person as a juvenile. This is with the clear object to re-intigrate such juvenile into the society as a normal person without any stigma.

45. Since the offence for which petitioner being juvenile was tried with, was allegedly committed in the year 2010 and the conviction order itself was passed in the year 2013 thus, the old law pertaining to juvenile viz Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Act, 2000 (hereinafter referred to as"□Act, 2000"), the Uttar Pradesh Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2004 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 2004") as well as the Uttar Pradesh Juvenile Justice (Care and Protection of Children) Rules, 2007 (hereinafter referred to as □Rules, 2007□) are worth consideration for appreciation of the controversy in question.

46. The Statute with respect to juvenile has been framed with an object to minimise the stigma in keeping with the developmental needs of the juvenile or the child. Statutory law is two parts is two parts-one for juveniles in conflict with law; and the other for the juvenile or the child in need of care and protection; to provide for effective provisions and various alternatives for rehabilitation and social re-intigration such as adoption, foster care, sponsorship and after care of abandoned, destitute, neglected and delinquent juvenile and child are welfare legislations. Thus, the provisions of the Act are required to be read and interpreted in the spirit in which in the collective wisdom of legislature has enacted it.

47. Any restriction on the petitioner's right to hold passport or travel abroad must satisfy the mandate of Article 21 of Constitution of India namely fairness, reasonableness and proportionality.

F. CONCLUSION

48. Thus, this Court holds that writ petitioner is entitled to the protection of law mandated under Section 19 of Act of 2000. By virtue of the non-obstante clause contained therein particularly any disqualification attaching to the conviction recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board stands removed notwithstanding anything contained in any other law.

49. Since no criminal proceedings are pending against the petitioner, thus, recording of pendency of criminal case in the order impugned exhibits complete non-serious attitude of respondent-authorities and is a monument of non-application of mind, the ground contemplated under Section 6 (2) (f) of Passport Act, 1967 are not attracted in the case in hand as this is wholly unavailable to the respondents. Further, the conviction recorded against the petitioner as a juvenile cannot be treated as a legal impediment for issuance of passport by operation of law contained in Section 19 of Act of 2000.

50. The respondents are further bound to give full effect to the principle of 'fresh start' embodied in juvenile statute, so that past juvenile delinquency does not impair the future prospects and rehabilitation/reintigration of the petitioner.

51. It is further directed that the 'right to be forgotten' for juvenile by removing/ destroying record of juvenile delinquency is an absolute right giving them 'fresh start' and, therefore, to give it full meaning, the respondent-Regional Passport Officer is mandated to process the application of petitioner for issuance of passport afresh notwithstanding his conviction so recorded by the Juvenile Justice Board, Gorakhpur and issue him the requisite passport if there is no other legal impediment/hurdle.

52. The impugned order suffers from arbitrariness and non-application of mind, hence, a writ in the nature of certiorari is issued thereby quashing the impugned order dated 19.03.2021 contained as Annexure No.1 to this writ petition.

53. The writ petition is allowed in above said terms. Cost made easy.

U.O.I. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether a writ petition u/Article 226 of the Constitution is maintainable against an arbitral award when an alternative statutory remedy u/ 34 of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 exists?
(b) Whether an arbitrator can unilaterally change the seat/venue of arbitration without the express mutual consent of both parties?
(c) Whether passing an ex-parte award after giving an unreasonably short notice (8 days) to appear at an unagreed distant location violates the principles of natural justice?

Headnotes

A. Arbitration Law – Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996: Section 20, 34 - The dispute arose from unpaid bills for retail orders of medicines and surgical items supplied by the petitioner to the Central Hospital, North Central Railway (NCR), Allahabad, under an agreement dated 30.09.2008.

Clause 9: Mandated sole arbitration by a Railway officer nominated by the General Manager, NCR.
Clause 10: Confined all disputes strictly to the jurisdiction of courts in Allahabad.

Sri Ankur Chandra was appointed as the initial Sole Arbitrator in 2014, and hearings took place in Allahabad. Upon his transfer, Sri Gaurav Kumar (then Dy. CMM/HQ/NCR/ALD) was appointed in 2018. Sri Gaurav Kumar was later transferred to Eastern Railway, Kolkata. After a gap of seven years, he unilaterally resumed the arbitration proceedings from Kolkata instead of Allahabad. On 30.04.2025, the petitioner received a notice (dated 21.04.2025) directing him to attend a final hearing at Kolkata on 08.05.2025 (giving only 8 days' notice). The petitioner requested a change of arbitrator/venue back to Allahabad due to short notice and severe inconvenience. However, the Sole Arbitrator proceeded ex-parte and passed an arbitral award on 21.05.2025.

B. Section 20 of Act of 1996 - The arbitrator cannot change the seat of arbitration except when parties mutually agree for change of 'seat of arbitration' to another location. Once the jurisdictional 'seat' of arbitration is fixed in terms of sub-section (2) of Section 20 of the Act, then, without the express mutual consent of the parties to the arbitration, 'the seat' cannot be changed. Therefore, the appointment of a new arbitrator who holds the arbitration proceedings at a different location would not change the jurisdictional 'seat' already fixed by the earlier or first arbitrator. The place of arbitration in such an event should be treated as a venue where arbitration proceedings are held. (Para 24)

Impugned arbitral award is ex parte which is in-flagrant violation of principles of natural justice inasmuch as denial of change of place of arbitration resulted in non playing field for petitioner. The claimant was forced to attend the arbitration at 'Kolkata' within a short span of notice of eight days, ignoring that the jurisdiction for all disputes as per agreement was confined to 'Allahabad' and earlier the seat of arbitration remained at 'Allahabad', and admittedly it has never been altered with consent of parties. (Para 22, 23)

C. This Court cannot act as an appellate authority to evaluate merit of arbitral award and the power of judicial review u/Article 226 of the Constitution is only limited to the extent of examination of decision making process. The impugned arbitral award in continuance of a flawed procedure and hence this award deserves to be set aside with further direction to proceed afresh in peculiar facts of this case and the case needs to be restored to the file for arbitral proceedings. (Para 25)

The place of arbitration from 'Allahabad' to 'Kolkata' was changed by arbitrator suo moto without consent/agreement of parties even without backing of any provision under agreement. Hence, change of place of arbitration appears to be giving unfair advantage to the railways establishment and subjecting petitioner to a non playing field as they did not have negotiable means to attend arbitration proceedings. Thus, the ex-parte award in question is unsustainable. The impugned award dated 21.05.2025 is quashed. (Para 26)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Prem Chand Pandey
For Respondent(s): Krishna Agarawal, A.S.G.I.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Indrajeet Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Prem Chand Pandey, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Krishna Agarawal, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. Embittered with ex-parte arbitral award dated 21.05.2025 passed by Sole Arbitrator/CMM/Electrical, Eastern Railway the then Dy. CMM/HQ/NCR/ALD, instant writ proceedings have been instituted precisely on the ground that the sole arbitrator after his transfer from Allahabad to Railway Board as Director R.S.(F.), resumed the proceedings at Kolkata while process for change of arbitrator was going on owing to his transfer. Further ground of challenge is resuming arbitral proceedings by changing seat of arbitration and passing an ex-parte award, without consent of the petitioner-claimant is ex-facie bad.

Maintainability of Writ Petition against Arbitral Award

3. At the threshold, learned counsel for the respondents vehementally objected to the maintainability of the present petition asserting that in view of the availability efficacious alternative remedy by virtue of Section 34 of the Act of 1996 providing robust statutory mechanism for setting aside the arbitral award, instant writ petition bypassing that fourm is absolutely unwarranted and same is not maintainable. Thus, this Court should refrain from exercising its extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, as the writ power is not intended to be a panacea for all substantive procedural issues, nor is it a substitute for statutory remedies, where the legislature has specifically carved out a specialized mechanism. The doors of the Writ Court may remain open subject judicious discretion, otherwise the sanctity of the arbitral process be undermined by such choice of forum at the end of a party. Thus, petitioner having failed to exhaust the statutory channels available to him, the present petition ought to be dismissed in limine on the ground of maintainability.

4. Countering the submissions, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the arbitral award in question is not only ex-parte but suffers with vice of non-compliance of the principles of natural justice and the proceedings resorted by arbitrator is wholly without jurisdiction and authority of law. Thus, the proceedings being vitiated for lack of jurisdiction and palpable breach of natural justice, this Hon ble Court may entertain instant writ petition as a exceptional case.

5. Now we consider the preliminary objection in the light of legal eventualities on the issue. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the seminal case of Whirlpool Corporation v. Registrar of Trademarks, Mumbai reported in (1998) 8 SCC 1 has unequivocally held that the High Court may interfere, notwithstanding an alternative remedy, where the petitioner seeks the enforcement of a Fundamental Right, where there is a violation of the principles of natural justice, or where the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction. These exceptions ensure that the doors of justice are not hermetically sealed when basic procedural fairness is at stake. The relevant paragraph of this judgement is quoted as follows:

"Under Article 226 of the Constitution, the High Court, having regard to the facts of the case, has a discretion to entertain or not to entertain a writ petition. But the High Court has imposed upon itself certain restrictions one of which is that if an effective and efficacious remedy is available, the High Court would not normally exercise its jurisdiction. But the alternative remedy has been consistently held by this Court not to operate as a bar in at least three contingencies, namely, where the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of any of the Fundamental Rights or where there has been a violation of the principle of natural justice or where the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged."

6. Further, in Harbans Lal Sahnia v. Indian Oil Corporation reported in (2003) 2 SCC 107 the Apex Court reiterated that the rule of exclusion of writ jurisdiction is a rule of discretion and not one of compulsion. The Court is duty-bound to weigh the pros and cons of the litigation and may choose to interfere if the facts of the case demonstrate that relegating the party to an alternative remedy would be an exercise in futility or lead to a travesty of justice. The court held that:

"In an appropriate case, in spite of availability of the alternative remedy, the High Court may still exercise its writ jurisdiction in at least three contingencies: (i) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights; (ii) where there is failure of principles of natural justice; or (iii) where the orders or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction or the vires of an Act is challenged."

7. In Mafatlal Industries Ltd. v. Union of India reported in (1997) 5 SCC 536 B.P. Jeevan Reddy, J. (speaking for the majority of the larger Bench) observed:

"77. ... So far as the jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 or for that matter, the jurisdiction of this Court under Article 32 is concerned, it is obvious that the provisions of the Act cannot bar and curtail these remedies. It is, however, equally obvious that while exercising the power under Article 226/Article 32, the Court would certainly take note of the legislative intent manifested in the provisions of the Act and would exercise their jurisdiction consistent with the provisions of the enactment.""

8. A co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Dr.Rajeev Sinha and others Vs. Union of India and others reported in 2024 2 ADJ 594 has dealt with issue whether the arbitrator s award should be quashed in exercise of writ jurisdiction treating the writ petition maintainable, despite the availability of an alternative remedy under Section 34 of Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (for the brevity hereinafter shall be termed as Act of 1996) and has concluded:

".....availability of alternative remedy under Section 34 of the Act of 1996, does not have any force, in the facts and circumstances of the present case and this Court is satisfied that the instant case falls within the well recognized exceptions to the general rule of exhaustion of alternative remedies, as held above by the Supreme Court and, therefore, the present writ petition is not liable to the dismissed on this ground."

9. In view of the above exposition of law in our considered view, cardinal principle of our constitutional jurisprudence is that a mere existence of a statutory bypass does not, and cannot, oust the inherent jurisdiction of this Court. On the contrary, such a remedy serves merely as a judicial compass, guiding the exercise of discretion rather than acting as an insuperable barrier to justice. In exceptional circumstances where the proceedings are vitiated for lack of jurisdiction or a palpable breach of natural justice. This Court must not remain a silent spectator. To hold otherwise would be to allow a procedural technicality to strangle the substantive rights of the parties in the face of manifest arbitrariness. Thus, the instant writ petition is held to be maintainable.

Factual Matrix

10. Brief facts in nutshell emerged from pleadings are recapitulated here as under:

11. The dispute arose out of claim setup by claimant/petitioner for retail order supply payment for the period between January, 2009 to June, 2009 against Agreement No.43/Med/Store/ALD/2008/Renewal of suppliers dated 30.09.2008 by Central Hospital, North Central Railway (NCR) Allahabad with the firm M/S. Laxmi Medical Agency, 452 Shahganj, Allahabad for purchase of medicines and surgical items by Railway Hospital, North Central Railway, Allahabad.

12. The petitioner claims himself to be sole proprietor of firm Laxmi Medical Agency, 452 Shahganj, Allahabad. The petitioner had set up a case that he had supplied the medicines/surgical instruments to Central Railway Hospital through license no.772, 773 which was renewed from time to time and the last renewal was issued on 20.03.1999. Petitioner has claimed that after supply of medicines and surgical items, the bill was produced but respondent/railway authorities did not clear the dues of the same, which gave rise to a dispute.

13. The dispute is redressable through arbitration mechanism, for which written agreement was entered between parties. The relevant clause of contract viz Clause 9 and 10 of the agreement are extracted as under:

"9. In the event of any dispute between Railways and the supplier as to the respective right and obligation of the parties hereunder or meaning of any article or conditions, such dispute shall be referred to sole arbitration of an officer of the Railways who shall be nominated for this purpose by the General Manager, N.C.Rly and his decision shall be final, conclusive & binding on the parties.

10. All disputes are subject to jurisdiction of High Court or its sub-ordinate courts in Allahabad only"

14. In terms of agreement one Ankur Chandra, the then Deputy CMM/M/NCR/Ald was appointed as sole arbitrator on 08.08.2014. The sole arbitrator entered into reference on 04.09.2014 directing claimant (petitioner) to submit statement of claim and respondents to submit their counter claim and statement of defence.

15. Petitioner being claimant, submitted his statement of claim on 20.10.2014 and respondents submitted their counter reply and statement of defence vide letter dated 09.01.2015 and thereafter, various dates were fixed, and both parties attended the arbitral proceedings at agreed venue/seat of arbitration at Allahabad"

16. The General Manager, North Central Railway vide letter no.7-MED/Arbitration/Appointment/GK dated 02.01.2018 changed the sole arbitrator and appointed Sri Gaurav Kumar, the then Deputy CMM/HQ/NCR/ALD as sole arbitrator in place of Sri Ankur Chandra, who could not conclude proceedings since he was transferred. Thereafter, newly appointed sole arbitrator Sri Gaurav Kumar was transferred to Railway Board as Director R.S.(F.) and while the process of appointment of new arbitrator was midway, the existing arbitrator Sri Gaurav Kumar resumed the arbitral proceedings after seven years at Kolkata by putting claimant-petitioner to notice vide letter dated 21.04.2025, requiring him to attend the arbitral proceedings at Kolkata on 08.05.2025 i.e. at short notice of eight days.

17. On receiving the information on 30.04.2025 with respect to final hearing of arbitration proceedings, scheduled on 08.05.2025 through letter dated 21.04.2025, petitioner requested for change of arbitrator vide letter dated 01.05.2025 and petitioner was assured that looking to his convenience with respect to seat of arbitration, the arbitrator would be changed. The letter dated 21.04.2025 issued by sole arbitrator informing resumption of arbitral proceedings after seven years is extracted as under:

Contact No.9002020773

18. The request for change of arbitrator was not properly heeded to by the General Manager, North Central Railway, Subedarganj, Allahabad, despite the fact that place of arbitration at □Kolkata□ was inconvenient and it was not feasible for the petitioner-claimant to have attended the proceedings at a short notice of eight days.

Submission advanced on behalf of Petitioner

19. The counsel for the petitioner strenuously urged that the impugned arbitral award is not only ex-parte having been passed in gross violation of principles of natural justice but was a glaring example of arbitrariness without providing level playing field. The further submission was that the place of arbitration should not have been at □Kolkata□ as same was not provided in the arbitral agreement and there was no consent accorded by the petitioner-claimant for change of place of arbitration i.e. from □Allahabad□ to □Kolkata□. Thus, the arbitral award suffers with the vice of jurisdictional error and same is result of manifestation of procedural overreach and stands as a monument to the denial of natural justice.

20. The further submission advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner is that the sole arbitrator, in a display of unwarranted zeal, proceeded to adjudicate the matter ex-parte, thereby rendering the entire process flawed one. The petitioner was served with a notice for hearing at □Kolkata□ which was a distant forum being far from the agreed-upon seat at □Allahabad□. Having proceeded with such unseemly haste and that to contest the proceedings at place not mutually agreed upon, it left no room for meaningful participation by petitioner. The cavalier disregard to the principle of audi alteram partem is not merely a technical flaw but a fundamental subversion of the rule of law. To expect a petitioner to attend a hearing on a thinnest of margin, receiving notice on 30.04.2025 for attending proceedings on 08.05.2025 is nothing except but to ask for impossibility i.e.□to put the cart before the horse□. Thus, award in question is a nullity in the eyes of the law.

Submissions advanced on behalf of Respondents

21. Learned counsel for the respondents has submitted that, arbitrator was appointed strictly in terms of tenets of arbitration close of agreement and the proceedings before Arbitral Tribunal were well within the knowledge of the petitioner and yet he utterly failed to appear before the Arbitration Tribunal and as such, he cannot be permitted to take advantage of his own wrongs. The Arbitral Tribunal had no option except to proceed for ex-parte award in given factual background of the case.

Analysis and Reasoning

22. We consider it first go through Section 20 of Act of 1996 that deals with place of arbitration. The provision reads as under:

"20. Place of arbitration.□(1) The parties are free to agree on the place of arbitration.

(2) Failing any agreement referred to in sub-section (1), the place of arbitration shall be determined by the arbitral tribunal having regard to the circumstances of the case, including the convenience of the parties.

(3) Notwithstanding sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), the arbitral tribunal may, unless otherwise agreed by the parties, meet at anyplace it considers appropriate for consultation among its members, for hearing witnesses, experts or the parties, or for inspection of documents, goods or other property."

23. Upon scrutiny of rival submissions, this Court finds that impugned arbitral award is ex parte which is in-flagrant violation of principles of natural justice inasmuch as denial of change of place of arbitration resulted non playing field for petitioner. The claimant was forced to attend the arbitration at □Kolkata□ within a short span of notice of eight days, ignoring that the jurisdiction for all disputes as per agreement was confined to □Allahabad□ and earlier the seat of arbitration remained at □Allahabad□, and admittedly it has never been altered with consent of parties.

24. With respect to change of place of arbitration, it is worth referring to the ratio laid down in the case of Inox Renewables Ltd. Vs. Jayesh Electricals Ltd. (2021 SCC OnLine SC 2036). In the said case, the agreement provided for Jaipur as the seat of arbitration, but the arbitration proceedings were conducted in Ahmedabad. This conduct of ...was held by the Hon□ble Apex Court as changing the seat of arbitration by the parties by their mutual consent. However, in the case of BBR (India) Private Limited Vs. S.P. Singla Constructions Private Limited [(2023) 1 SCC 693], the Apex court held that unlike in the cases of Inox Renewables Ltd. (supra), in the case at hand, the seat of arbitration was not fixed by the parties but instead, by the arbitrator and that the arbitrator cannot change the seat of arbitration except when parties mutually agree for change of □seat of arbitration□ to another location. The court held thus:

"....once the jurisdictional □seat□ of arbitration is fixed in terms of sub-section (2) of Section 20 of the Act, then, without the express mutual consent of the parties to the arbitration, □the seat□ cannot be changed. Therefore, the appointment of a new arbitrator who holds the arbitration proceedings at a different location would not change the jurisdictional □seat□ already fixed by the earlier or first arbitrator. The place of arbitration in such an event should be treated as a venue where arbitration proceedings are held."

Conclusion

25. Being conscious of the fact that this Court cannot act as an appellate authority to evaluate merit of arbitral award and the power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India is only limited to the extent of examination of decision making process, in our considered view, the impugned arbitral award in continuance of a flawed procedure and hence this award deserves to be set aside with further direction to proceed afresh in peculiar facts of this case and the case needs to be restored to the file for arbitral proceedings.

26. In view of admitted fact as emerges from pleadings on record that the place of arbitration from □Allahabad□ to □Kolkata□ was changed by arbitrator suo moto without consent/agreement of parties even without backing of any provision under agreement. Hence, change of place of arbitration appears to subjecting petitioner to a non playing field giving unfair advantage to the railways establishment without had negotiable means to attend arbitration proceedings. Thus, the ex-parte award in question is unsustainable, accordingly, instant writ petition is allowed. A writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the impugned award dated 21.05.2025 passed by Sole Arbitrator, CMM/Electrical, Eastern Railway the then Dy. CMM/HQ/NCR/ALD.

27. The General Manager, Northern Central Railway is hereby directed to appoint an Arbitrator after putting claimant/petitioner to notice who shall resume the arbitration proceedings from the stage it proceeded ex-parte and shall conclude proceedings within a period of three months.

28. In the event of failure of appointment of Arbitrator by the authority concerned, the parties would be at liberty to take recourse under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 and the proceedings would be resumed accordingly.

29. No order as to cost.

Issue for Consideration

i. Whether Respondent No.5 falls within the judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution, and whether it can be treated as "State" or an instrumentality thereof under Article 12 of the Constitution of India.
ii. Whether the dispute arises out of a purely commercial contract or whether the impugned actions in the facts of the present case disclose any element of public function, and if so, whether the issuance of Notice Inviting Tender dated 22.09.2025 and termination of contract dated 06.10.2025 are open to judicial review.
iii. Whether this Court has territorial jurisdiction under Article 226(2) of the Constitution, having regard to the place of cause of action and the effect of the jurisdiction clause conferring exclusive jurisdiction on courts at Delhi.

Headnotes

Constitution of India, Arts. 12 & 226 – Contractual matters – Scope of judicial review – Toll collection contract – National Highways Authority of India Act, 1988 – National Highways Act, 1956 – Specific Relief Act, 1963, Section 14(d) – Contract for providing manpower services for toll collection on National Highway – Termination of contract – Fresh Notice Inviting Tender – Maintainability of writ petition – Petitioner, proprietorship entity engaged in providing manpower services, was awarded a contract by Respondent No.5, NHIT Southern Projects Private Limited (NSPPL), for providing manpower services for user fee collection at Chhappar Toll Plaza on National Highway No.334 pursuant to an agreement dated 26.06.2025 – During execution of the contract, Respondent No.5 issued notices alleging operational deficiencies and breach of contractual obligations – Subsequently, a fresh Notice Inviting Tender dated 22.09.2025 was issued and thereafter the petitioner's contract was terminated on 06.10.2025 – Petitioner challenged the fresh tender and termination order under Article 226 of the Constitution contending that Respondent No.5 discharged public functions relating to management of National Highways and was amenable to writ jurisdiction – Respondent No.5 raised preliminary objections that it was a private limited company, not "State" within the meaning of Article 12, that the dispute arose purely out of a determinable commercial contract containing a dispute resolution clause, and that, in view of the contractual jurisdiction clause, only the Courts at Delhi possessed jurisdiction – Justification:
Issue No. (i): Respondent No.5, NHIT Southern Projects Private Limited (NSPPL), is a private limited company having no governmental shareholding or deep and pervasive control by the State. Its relationship with the NHAI is purely contractual in nature. Mere fact that it is engaged in highway-related operations does not alter its private character so as to bring it within the ambit of Article 12 of the Constitution. It cannot be treated as State or an instrumentality within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution. Neither any substantial and effective governmental control nor does Respondent No.5 exercise statutory or sovereign power in the discharge of its functions. Mere engagement of Respondent No.5 in toll operations on a National Highway, or the existence of a statutory framework regulating such activity, would not by itself render every contractual dispute amenable to writ jurisdiction. (Paras 74, 77, 79 & 94).
Issue No. (ii): The rights and obligations inter se the parties arise out of the agreement dated 26.06.2025. The dispute revolves around performance of contractual obligations, alleged breaches, issuance of notices, invocation of termination clauses. These issues necessarily involve disputed questions of fact, which is clearly in the ambit of private law dispute and writ jurisdiction cannot be invoked for resolution. The agreement between the parties contains a dispute resolution clause for resolution of disputes arising therefrom. A breach of contract by a party to the contract, whether maliciously or by way of arbitrary exercise of power contrary to the provisions agreed under the agreement, would invite an actionable claim under ordinary civil law for which forum of a Court of competent jurisdiction is always there, and/or also resolution of disputes by invoking the dispute resolution clause. Under Section 14(d) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963, a determinable contract cannot be specifically enforced under writ jurisdiction; the remedy lies in civil damages or arbitration. Mere fact that the contract pertains to toll operations on a National Highway, by itself, is insufficient to alter the essentially private and contractual character of the arrangement under which the dispute occurred. The matter does not warrant exercise of extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226. The rights and obligations arise out of a commercial service agreement dated 26.06.2025. Alleged breaches and termination involve disputed facts within the realm of private law. (Paras 76, 80, 87, 88, 94, 96, 97 & 98).

Issue No. (iii): Allahabad High Court had jurisdiction under Article 226(2) of the Constitution, as a substantial and integral part of the cause of action had arisen within its territorial limits. The dispute relates to contractual operations carried out at the toll plaza situated within the State of Uttar Pradesh. Mere fact that certain decisions were taken or communications were issued from Delhi, or that the agreement contains a jurisdiction clause in favour of courts at Delhi, cannot have the effect of excluding the constitutional jurisdiction of this Court. Contractual clauses cannot oust or curtail the jurisdiction conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution. Accordingly, the objection is rejected. However, the writ petition is dismissed as the dispute is purely contractual in nature and does not warrant exercise of writ jurisdiction. (Para 100). (E-5)

Factual Background and Course of Proceedings

1. This writ petition has been filed under Article 226 of the Constitution of India seeking issuance of appropriate writs, orders and directions in the nature of certiorari for quashing of the notice dated 22.09.2025 bearing Tender No. 2025_NHAI_250002_1. Further, the Petitioner has prayed for quashing of the order dated 06.10.2025 issued by respondent no. 5 i.e., NHIT Southern Projects Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as NSPPL), who is a special purpose vehicle of National Highway Infra Trust (hereinafter referred to as NHIT). The Petitioner has also prayed for issuance of a writ in the nature of Mandamus restraining the respondent authorities from creating any third-party rights pursuant to the above-mentioned tender notice.

(A) Background Facts

2. The background fact appearing from the records of this petition is that the respondent no. 2, i.e., National Highway Authority of India (hereinafter referred to as NHAI) was set up by the NHAI Act 1988, which has set up the respondent no. 3, trust NHIT on 19.10.2020. It is an irrevocable infrastructure trust under the provisions of the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, which was registered on 20.10.2020, under the Securities and Exchange Board of India (Infrastructure Investment Trusts) Regulations 2014 (hereinafter referred to as SEBI Regulations).

3. The investment manager of NHIT was National Highways Infra Investment Managers Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as NHIIMPL) which got incorporated on 25.07.2020 under the Companies Act 2013 (a wholly owned subsidiary of Government of India acting through Ministry of Road Transport and Highways). It was set up to act as the Investment Manager to the Infrastructure Investment Trust (InvtIT), as Investment Manager of NHIT. Further, National Highway InvtIT Project Management Private Limited (hereinafter referred to as □NHIPMPL□) got incorporated as private limited company on 09.03.2021 under Companies Act, 2013 which is respondent no. 4 in petition and acted as □Project Manager□ for respondent no. 5 i.e., NSPPL. NSPPL, a private limited company incorporated on 08.03.2025 under Companies Act, 2013 as Special Purpose Vehicle (SPV).

4. The NHIPMPL published a tender notice on 29.05.2025, in which the petitioner, M/s Vinod Kumar Malik, a proprietorship entity engaged in providing manpower services, participated. The Notice Inviting Tender (hereinafter referred to as □NIT□) was published for providing manpower services for user fee collection at the Chhappar Toll Plaza on the Muzaffarnagar-Haridwar Section (Km 130+560 to Km 209+120 of old NH-58 / new NH-334) situated in the States of Uttar Pradesh and Uttarakhand.

5. The estimated project cost of the project was Rs.3.35 crores and the prescribed bid security was Rs. 7.06 lakhs. The contract period was stipulated to be one year, extendable by a further year upon mutual consent. The Petitioner was declared successful in the tender process. The Letter of Acceptance (hereinafter referred to as □LOA□) was issued accepting the Petitioner's bid for a contract value of Rs.3,56,35,036/- and requiring furnishing of a performance bank guarantee of Rs. 35,63,504/-. Following the LOA, an agreement was executed between the Petitioner and Respondent No.5, NSPPL on 26.06.2025, thereafter, the Petitioner was officially handed over charge of the Chhappar Toll Plaza on National Highway No. 58 (New No. 334) and got instructed to commence operations from 11.07.2025.

6. On 18.08.2025, the respondent entity issued the notice to the Petitioner under Clause 10(i) of the General Conditions of Contract (hereinafter referred to as □GCC□), alleging multiple operational shortcomings, including insufficient deployment of manpower, failure to ensure toll collection, failure to disburse salaries in the presence of an authorized representative, failure to provide safety gear (shoes, high visibility jackets) to staff, and non-maintenance of attendance records.

7. Representatives of both sides held a meeting on 03.09.2025, thereafter, on 18.09.2025, the Petitioner submitted response to the aforesaid notice stating that minimum wages were paid via direct bank credit, the local exemption percentage had been reduced, adequate staff welfare was provided, and deployed personnel were equipped with the required safety gear.

8. Meanwhile, on 19.09.2025, an incident occurred at the Chhappar Toll Plaza during which toll operations were disrupted and vehicles allegedly passed without payment of user fee. In connection with the incident dated 19.09.2025, the respondent entity issued a second show-cause notice dated 22.09.2025 alleging violation of Clause 28 of the General Conditions of Contract pertaining to □Abandonment□ and requiring the Petitioner to submit a written explanation within three days.

9. The Petitioner submitted its reply to the said show-cause notice through e-mail dated 23.09.2025, however, on 22.09.2025, a fresh NIT bearing Tender No. 2025_NHAI_250002_1 was published on the GeM Portal for the same work relating to the Chhappar Toll Plaza. Subsequently on 06.10.2025. As the contract of the Petitioner was terminated, so it became basis of the dispute leading to the present writ petition.

(B) Record of Proceedings

10. During the course of hearing in the present writ petition, various interim and procedural orders came to be passed by this Court on different dates of hearing. The development through proceedings in the petition is elaborated in following paragraphs.

11. When the petition was heard at the admission stage on 07.10.2025, the amendment application filed on behalf of the petitioner to challenge the notice dated 06.10.2025 inviting tender, was allowed and, considering the nature of the controversy, it was directed that no fresh tender pursuant to the notice dated 22.09.2022 issued by respondent no. 5 shall be finalized without leave of this Court.

12. On 04.11.2025, after hearing counsel for respective parties at length, it was directed that parties shall maintain status quo with regard to toll collection at Chhappar Toll Plaza. The Court further stayed the termination of the petitioner□s contract and also stayed the operation of the agreement executed on 06.10.2025 in between respondent no.5 with South Asia Tollways Pvt. Ltd.

13. When the hearing got commenced on 11.12.2025, learned counsel appearing for respondents raised preliminary objection as to the maintainability of the writ petition on the ground of contractual nature of the dispute, although it was further submitted by learned counsel appearing for both sides that efforts toward an amicable settlement was underway. In view thereof, the matter got adjourned to facilitate the settlement talk in between parties.

14. On 16.03.2026, respondent no. 5 contended that the petitioner had sent a communication regarding surrender of the Toll Plaza, which showed that the petitioner had not submitted complete fact before the Court on initial dates of hearing while praying for the interim order in its favour. Learned counsel for the petitioner sought and granted time to verify the said factual assertion.

15. When the matter was again listed on 19.03.2026, learned counsel appearing for parties apprised the Court that substantial consensus had been reached on most of the terms of settlement, except with regard to the monetary component, and that a counter-offer was under consideration between the parties, due to which a short adjournemnt was prayed for and was granted. On 08.04.2026, the court was informed that the parties could not agree on terms of settlement, consequently, the hearing got commenced on the issue of jurisdiction and maintainability, particularly concerning whether respondent no. 5 fell within the ambit of ‘State’ under Article 12 of the Constitution of India.

16. Since pleadings between the parties had been exchanged, the matter was heard finally with consent of learned counsel for the parties. Submissions on the jurisdiction, maintainability of the writ petition as well as the merits were advanced together and heard at length. Upon conclusion of the arguments made by all the learned counsel representing various parties, on 24.04.2026 the judgment was reserved.

II

Submissions on Behalf of the Parties

17. Having heard Mr. Shashi Nandan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Devansh Misra, representing the petitioner, Ms. Shweta Bharti, learned counsel assisted by Mr. Tanmay Sadh, representing respondent no.2, Mr. M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Devendra Kumar, learned counsel for the NHAI, Mr. Pranjal Mehrotra, learned counsel for the Union of India and considering the submissions advanced on behalf of the respective parties we summarise below on preliminary objections as well as on merits.

(A) Submissions on behalf of Respondent No. 5 questioning Maintainability of Writ Petition

18. Three points have been raised questioning the maintainability of this petition. Firstly, (i) on the ground that respondent no. 5 is not a □State□ within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India, secondly, (ii) contract agreement being determinable one, parties are bound by privity of contract and thirdly, (iii) this Court lacked territorial jurisdiction.

(i) Respondent No. 5 is not a 'State'

19. Questioning the maintainability of the writ petition, learned counsel for the respondent Ms. Shweta Bharti contended that it was a contractual dispute in between petitioner and the respondent no.5. Ms. Bharti argued that the respondent no.5 was not a State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India. It was submitted on behalf of the NSPPL that the genesis of respondent parties and their legal status was required to be seen before this Court embarked upon an enquiry as to the sustainibility of impugned orders.

20. Learned counsel submitted that the NHAI was constituted under the NHAI Act, 1988 for development, maintenance and management of national highways, with the object of ensuring transparency, competitive bidding and efficient implementation of contracts relating to national highway infrastructure. Learned counsel further submitted that the NHIT was established by NHAI on 19.10.2020 as an irrevocable infrastructure trust under the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 and was thereafter registered on 28.10.2020 as an Infrastructure Investment Trust under the SEBI (Infrastructure Investment Trusts) Regulations, 2014. Learned counsel also submitted that NHIIMPL was incorporated on 25.07.2020 for management and administration of the InvIT assets, whereas NHIPMPL was incorporated on 09.03.2021 for undertaking operations and maintenance of the trust assets.

21. It was further submitted that respondent no.5, NSPPL was incorporated on 08.03.2025 as a Special Purpose Vehicle (hereinafter referred as ‘SPV’) of NHIT. It was urged that the NHAI sponsored the trust but did not control as the investment was also made by private bank and other investors. NSPPL had entered into a concession agreements with NHAI under the Toll, operate and Transfer (hereinafter referred to as □ToT□) model for 20 years in respect to road stretch including the Muzaffarnagar’Haridwar’ section of NH-334. It was further submitted that in the financial year 2024-25, NSPPL paid an aggregate concession fee of about Rs.1661 cores to NHAI, in consideration of which NSPPL had the right to collect toll for 20 years starting from 01.04.2025 and was responsible for operation and maintenance of the project road. Pursuant thereto, tenders were invited on 29.05.2025 for providing manpower services for collection of user fee at the Chhappar Toll Plaza.

22. Raising a preliminary objection regarding maintainability, learned counsel submitted that the dispute arose entirely out of a private commercial contract entered in between the petitioner and respondent no. 5 and that the same did not involve any public law element warranting interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. Learned counsel vehemently opposed the writ petition while raising a preliminary objection that the Respondent No.5 did not fall within the ambit of □State□ under Article 12 of the Constitution of India.

23. It was submitted that respondent no. 5, NHIT Southern Projects Pvt. Ltd., was a private limited company incorporated on 08.03.2025 under the Companies Act, 2013, bearing CIN: U42101DL2025PTC444254. The alphabet indicator 'PTC' appearing in its CIN statutorily signified its status as a Private Company. Upon incorporation, Respondent No.5 acquired an independent legal personality and a separate corporate entity, completely distinct from its shareholders, promoters, or any other associated entity. Furthermore, the official Master Data of Respondent No.5, as available on the website of the Ministry of Corporate Affairs (MCA), categorically records its status as a non-government company. This statutory declaration conclusively reflects that Respondent No.5 is neither owned nor controlled by the Government in the manner contemplated for government companies, establishing that Respondent No.5 cannot be subjected to writ jurisdiction.

24. Respondents No.1 to 4 were neither decision-makers nor supervisory authorities in the impugned transaction, nor have they approved or sanctioned the tender or the impugned contract termination dated 26.06.2025. The petitioner had completely failed to establish any factual foundation demonstrating their involvement, and no statutory duty of Respondents No.1 to 4 had been breached, rendering their impleadment legally unsustainable and any executable order against them impossible.

25. Furthermore, the petitioner had intentionally impleaded these state actors to artificially clothe a purely private contractual dispute with a public law character. This is a misconceived attempt to mislead the Court for entertaining a purely contractual dispute under writ jurisdiction. The core matter was entirely a private contractual conflict between the Petitioner and respondent no. 5, which was a private entity standing completely beyond the definition of 'State' as provided under Article 12 of the Constitution of India.

26. It was further contended that the relationship between Respondent No.5 and NHAI is purely contractual and commercial in nature and that mere regulatory supervision does not convert a private entity into a □State□ within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India. It is the basic point of dispute which was to be seen and according to that particular nature of function, it is to be determined that whether an entity is to be considered as public entity or it is a private entity against which the writ cannot be issued.

27. Learned counsel placed reliance upon Kishor Madhukar Pinglikar Vs. Automotive Research Association of India (2023) 20 SCC 719 and R.S. Madireddy Vs. Union of India 2024 SCC OnLine SC 965 to contend that deep and pervasive financial, functional and administrative control is a sine qua non for treating an entity as "State", whereas mere regulatory control is insufficient. Reliance was also placed upon ICSSSR Vs. Neetu Gaur 2025 SCC OnLine SC 593 and Manoj Petroleum Vs. Union of India 2025 SCC OnLine All 1309 in support of the aforesaid submissions.

28. Elaborating upon the preliminary objections, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the Respondent No.3, NHIT, was merely a contributory irrevocable private trust set up under the Indian Trusts Act, 1882, and registered with SEBI under the Infrastructure Investment Trusts Regulations, 2014. NHAI did not exercise any operational, managerial, or day-to-day decision-making control over NHIT or its SPVs instead, their functioning is strictly governed by the SEBI InvIT Regulations, 2014. Crucially, once an asset stood monetized under this framework, NHAI did not possess any control over respondent no. 5, and the same was managed entirely by its independent Board of Directors. Therefore, the lack of deep and pervasive state control completely ousted the colorable claim of Article 12 applicability. Learned counsel appearing for NHAI also supported this contention.

29. Learned counsel further submitted that the dispute raised in the present writ petition pertained entirely to enforcement and continuation of a private commercial contract and is devoid of any public law element. It was argued that the petitioner is essentially seeking restoration of a contractual arrangement, which falls squarely within the realm of private law and cannot be agitated in writ jurisdiction. In support of the aforesaid contention, reliance was placed upon Joshi Technologies International Inc. Vs. Union of India (2015) 7 SCC 728, K.K. Saksena Vs. International Commission on Irrigation and Drainage (2015) 4 SCC 670 and Ramakrishna Mission Vs. Kago Kunya (2019) 16 SCC 303.

30. Learned counsel further contended that respondent no. 5 remained a purely contractual service provider, engaged for operational assistance under a commercial arrangement for which the payment is already made for 20 years, and there was absolutely no governmental control or delegation of sovereign function. The statutory framework, it is argued, governs the subject matter of the contract but does not alter the private character of the contracting entity or elevate it to the status of □State□ or an instrumentality thereof under Article 12 of the Constitution.

(ii) Agreement is Determinable Contract

31. Learned counsel for the respondent invited the attention of this Court to the fact that the agreement dated 26.06.2025 is determinable ex-facie on its face. Clause 10, sub-clause (i) of the agreement expressly reserves to the either-party an unconditional right to terminate the contract upon a 45 days' written notice. Because this right of exit is woven into the very fabric of the contract, NSPPL acted strictly within the four corners of the agreed mechanism by terminating the Manpower Services Agreement vide Termination letter dated 06.10.2025, following the expiration of the mandated notice period.

32. This termination was neither sudden nor arbitrary as NSPPL gave sufficient opportunities to the Petitioner to cure its persistent and documented breaches, which it miserably failed to do. The Termination letter explicitly cited eight prior communications including six explicit emails between July and August 2025, a Notice of Intention to Terminate dated 18.08.2025, and a subsequent non-compliance email dated 29.09.2025. This extensive record expressly evidences that the Petitioner's replies were fully considered, and a reasoned conclusion was reached that the underlying defaults remained unresolved, severely impacting project operations and statutory compliance.

33. The legal consequences of terminating such a determinable contract are unambiguous and non-negotiable under Section 14(d) of the Specific Relief Act (SRA), 1963, which categorically bars the specific performance of any contract that is, in its nature, determinable. It is a settled position of law, authoritatively affirmed by the Apex Court in Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. Vs. Amritsar Gas Service and Others (1991) 1 SCC 533 and recently reiterated in K.S. Manjunath and Ors. Vs. Moorasavirappa and Ors. (2025) SCC OnLine SC 2378, that if a contract is revocable by either party, the sole available remedy is the award of compensation or damages and not restoration, reinstatement, or compelled continuation.

34. Learned counsel for the respondent contended that, the petitioner’s prayer seeking to set aside the termination and judicially resurrect a determinable contract was fundamentally misconceived, legally impermissible, and relief that this Court in M/s Ambe Carrier & Another Vs. State of U.P. & Ors., WRIC. No. 45762 of 2014 vide order dated 09.09.2014 had explicitly declined to grant under writ jurisdiction. No amount of equitable pleading could override this absolute statutory bar over the express objection of the terminating party.

(iii) Lack of Territorial Jurisdiction of this Court

35. Learned counsel for the respondent further opposed the maintainability of the petition by submitting that the present Writ Petition is not maintainable before this Court for absolute lack of territorial jurisdiction. It was contended that the core dispute arises out of an agreement with National Highways Invit Project Managers Private Limited, which was subsequently modified by a Corrigendum dated 02.05.2025. As per the revised Clause 19 of Section VI explicitly reproduced in the pleadings, the parties mutually agreed that the agreement shall be construed and interpreted in accordance with and governed by the Laws of India and Delhi shall have jurisdiction over all matters arising out of or relating to this agreement. This exclusive jurisdiction is further cemented by the amended Clause 20(d), which mandates that any dispute between the SPV and the Contractor shall be referred to Delhi only. Consequently, the present petition is liable to be dismissed on the threshold of maintainability alone.

36. It was further submitted that this Court lacks territorial jurisdiction to entertain the present dispute. The parties have contractually agreed to confer exclusive jurisdiction upon the competent courts at Delhi under Clauses 19 and 20(d) of the GCC, a binding choice-of-court arrangement authoritatively upheld by the Apex Court in Swastik Gases Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Indian Oil Corporation Ltd. (2013) 9 SCC 32. Having participated in the tender process without demur and accepted benefits thereunder, the Petitioner is legally estopped from challenging the terms of the contract under the principle that a party cannot approbate and reprobate.

37. Furthermore, applying the strict constitutional test under Article 226(2) as enunciated in National Textile Corporation Ltd Vs. Haribox Swaliram (2004) 9 SCC 786 and State of Goa v. Summit Online Trade Solutions (P) Ltd (2023) 7 SCC 791, a mere location of the toll plaza is an incidental fact that does not constitute a material, essential, or integral part of the cause of action. The true lis between the parties revolves entirely around two pivotal events i.e., the termination dated 06.10.2025 and the fresh tender dated 22.09.2025 both of which were initiated, issued, and made effective exclusively from Delhi. Consequently, the judgment in Maharashtra Chess Association Vs. State of Tamil Nadu (2020) 13 SCC 285 is wholly inapplicable here, and jurisdiction vests in the High Court of Delhi on both contractual and constitutional grounds.

(B) Submissions on behalf of Petitioner meeting Preliminary Objections

38. At the outset Mr. Shashi Nandan, learned senior counsel submitted that the respondent no. 5 is an instrumentality of the State within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution of India and therefore the dispute is not a general contractual dispute in between two parties. He further submitted that the respondent no. 5 is described as a private company limited, but the true character of the company can only be seen after lifting the corporate veil.

39. To further support his arguments, he urged that the respondent no. 5 is, in substance, discharging a public function of the NHAI, learned senior counsel referred detailed statutory framework governing national highways. He further submitted that under the National Highways Act, 1956, particularly Sections 4, 7(1), 7(2), 8-A(1), 8-A(2), 8-A(3), 9 and 9(2)(a), all national highways vest in the Union of India, which retains sovereign authority over regulation, maintenance, and levy of user fees, while also being empowered to contract out operational functions. Learned counsel submitted it as a statutory control, and further referred Sections 2(e), 2(f), 2(g), 3, 4, 23, 28 and 38 of the Control of National Highway (Land and Traffic) Act, 2002, to demonstrate Central Government ownership over highway land.

40. Learned senior counsel further referred Sections 2(e), 2(f), 12, 14, 15 and 16(2)(a), 16(2)(d), 16(2)(e), 16(2)(f), 16(2)(g) and 16(2)(k) of the NHAI Act, 1988, which in general provide for transfer of assets and infrastructure to the Authority and expressly enables it to create agencies or entrust private entities with functions relating to construction, maintenance, and management of highways. Learned counsel also referred provisions of National Highway (Collection of Fees by Any Person) Rules, 1997, particularly Sections 3, 4, 6 and 7, read with Sections 2(b), 2(ii), 2(d) and Rules 3, 5 and 9 of the National Highway (Rate of Fees) Rules, 1997, to contend that even where fee collection is undertaken through private contractors or franchisees, such collection is strictly on behalf of the Government of India and forms part of a regulated statutory scheme.

41. Learned senior counsel argued that upon piercing the corporate veil, it becomes evident that respondent no. 5 is merely a subsidiary and extension of NHIT, which itself has been constituted under the aegis of the NHAI as its sponsor. In support of his submissions, he demonstrated the shareholding structure of Respondent No.5, which, according to his submission, reflects that its entire shareholding vests in the NHIT in a way.

42. It was also pointed out by learned senior counsel that the tender process in question was undertaken by Respondent No.4, NHIPMPL, which is stated to be a subsidiary of NHIT and is disclosed in its Master Data as a government company. It was thus urged that the nomenclature of Respondent No.5 as a private company is only a mask and that, in substance, it functions as an extended arm of NHAI, a statutory authority constituted under law.

43. Learned senior counsel, while referring to the functions performed by the respondents, submitted that under Section 8-A of the National Highways Act, 1956, national highways vest in the Central Government. He further contended that the NHAI, being a statutory authority, has been established for the development, maintenance and management of national highways, which also includes collection of user fee (toll). Learned senior counsel further referred to Section 16 of the NHAI Act and submitted that the statutory scheme contemplates assignment of such functions to authorized operators for the purpose of efficient management and collection of the toll.

44. It was also contended that the Respondent No.5, discharges an important public function pertaining to the management and operation of national highways while acting on behalf of NHAI. Learned senior counsel submitted that Respondent No.5 enjoys a monopoly in inviting tenders and awarding contracts relating to collection of user fee at toll plazas, which directly impacts the public at large and, therefore, its actions are amenable to judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

45. In this backdrop, it is urged that Respondent No.5 is not acting as a purely private commercial entity but is operating within a statutory and delegated framework of highway administration, thereby discharging functions which are public in nature and integrally connected with sovereign control over national highways.

46. In support of the proposition that even private entities discharging public functions are subject to writ jurisdiction, he placed reliance on BCCI Vs. Cricket Association of Bihar (2015) 3 SCC 251 and Zee Telefilms Ltd. Vs. Union of India (2005) 4 SCC 649. Learned senior counsel further submitted that even in the contractual matters, arbitrary State action can be tested on the touchstone of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In this regard, he relied upon M.P. Power Management Company Ltd. Vs. Sky Power South East Solar India Pvt. Ltd., (2023) 2 SCC 703.

47. Mr. Shashi Nandan further argued that the contractual stipulations between the parties cannot curtail or oust the constitutional jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. He further argued that the exclusive jurisdiction clause of any agreement cannot operate as an absolute bar, particularly when a substantial part of the cause of action has arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of this High Court. To buttress his submission, he relied upon Maharashtra Chess Association (supra).

(C) Reply Submissions as to Maintainability by Respondent No. 5

48. Learned counsel Ms. Bharti submitted that various statutory provisions referred by learned senior counsel for the petitioner, are over stretched and proceeded on misreading of the statutory scheme governing national highways. It was urged that although national highways vested in the Union and were regulated under the National Highways Act, 1956 and other related enactments, such regulatory provisions did not automatically convert every entity engaged in execution of contracts relating to highways into an instrumentality of the State or a statutory authority.

49. Refuting the submissions made on behalf of the petitioner, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the provisions relied upon under the NHAI Act, 1988 merely empower the Authority to undertake functions relating to development, maintenance and management of highways and to engage contractors or agencies for efficient execution of such tasks. However, such engagement was purely contractual in nature and did not result in delegation of sovereign or statutory power to the contractor or private company executing the work.

50. In answer to the submissions advanced by the petitioner, learned counsel for the respondent submitted that the National Highway (Collection of Fees by Any Person) Rules, 1997 and the National Highway (Rate of Fees) Rules, 1997 only regulate the manner in which user fee was to be collected and ensure uniformity in collection on behalf of the concessioning authority. It was contended that mere collection of user fee under a regulatory framework did not confer any statutory status upon the collecting agency, nor did it render such an agency a repository of public power.

(D) Submissions on behalf of Petitioner on Merits

51. Learned senior counsel submitted that pursuant to the notice dated 18.08.2025 issued under Clause 10(i) of the GCC, the petitioner submitted reply dated 18.09.2025 clarifying that minimum wages were being disbursed through direct bank transfer, and the percentage of local exemptions had been reduced. He also submitted that adequate welfare facilities had been extended to the deployed personnel, and all 129 staff members stationed at the toll plaza had been provided with the essential safety gear.

52. Mr. Shashi Nandan further submitted that the respondent authorities were satisfied with the explanation furnished by the petitioner and had verbally discharged the earlier notice, though no formal communication to the said effect was ever issued.

53. Learned counsel further submitted that the incident dated 19.09.2025 at the Chhappar Toll Plaza was an unforeseen act of civil commotion, which would fall within the ambit of the force majeure clause contained in Clause 8 of the GCC. It was argued by Mr. Nandan that despite the disruption, the petitioner restored manpower deployment and resumed toll operations within eight to ten hours.

54. Assailing the subsequent actions of the respondents, learned Senior Counsel argued that although the show-cause notice dated 22.09.2025 granted three days time to the petitioner for submitting its response, the respondents, acting in a premeditated and arbitrary manner, floated a fresh tender bearing Tender No. 2025_NHAI_250002_1 for the identical work on the very same date, without awaiting expiry of the stipulated period and without considering the petitioner s explanation submitted through e-mail dated 23.09.2025.

55. It was further submitted that notwithstanding the issuance of the fresh tender, the petitioner continued to provide manpower services at the toll plaza in terms of the agreement dated 26.06.2025. Learned Senior Counsel also submitted that the respondents failed to clear the pending bills of the petitioner pertaining to the months of July and August 2025.

56. Learned Senior Counsel vehemently argued that the impugned termination order dated 06.10.2025 had been passed in a wholly arbitrary and mechanical manner and was vitiated for want compliance of the principles of natural justice. According to the petitioner, the said order was a non-speaking order passed without due consideration of the petitioner's reply and in complete disregard of the principles of natural justice.

57. It was thus contended that the entire course adopted by the respondents clearly demonstrated a predetermined intent to remove the petitioner, inasmuch as the process for inviting fresh bids had already been initiated even before expiry of the reply period granted under the show-cause notice. Learned counsel submitted that such action not only rendered the subsequent termination unsustainable in law but also struck at the very root of fairness in administrative decision-making. Mr. Shashi Nandan concluded his submission while placing reliance upon ABL International Ltd. Vs. Export Credit Guarantee Corporation of India Ltd (2004) 3 SCC 553. Thus, according to him arbitrary action on the part of a State authority, even in matters arising out of commercial contracts, was amenable to judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

(E) Reply Submissions on behalf of Respondent No. 5 on Merits

58. Learned counsel for the respondent invited the attention of this Court to the fact that the fresh tender notice dated 22.09.2025 was legally issued prior to the final termination letter and the same cannot be seen as pre-meditated and it was infact necessary to be advertised considering the critical, round-the-clock nature of toll operations, which require uninterrupted functioning and cannot be left unattended.

59. Learned counsel placed reliance upon Radha Krishna Agarwal Vs. State of Bihar (1977) 3 SCC 457 to contend that rights arising purely out of contractual obligations cannot ordinarily be enforced through writ jurisdiction unless a statutory obligation is involved. Reliance was also placed upon Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation Vs. Gayatri Construction Company, (2008) 8 SCC 172, to contend that disputes relating to interpretation and enforcement of contractual terms are matters falling within the domain of civil courts or arbitration proceedings. Learned counsel further relied upon Bareilly Development Authority Vs. Ajai Pal Singh, (1989) 2 SCC 116 and submitted that where a contract is non-statutory and governed solely by its contractual terms, no writ can ordinarily be issued for enforcement of contractual rights or for remedying an alleged breach thereof.

60. Learned counsel submitted that an agreement was executed between the petitioner and respondent no. 5 at Delhi and a subsequent work order was issued directing commencement of services from 11.07.2025. Inviting attention to the contractual stipulations, learned counsel submitted that the agreement expressly required the contractor to maintain the highest standards of ethics and abstain from corrupt or fraudulent practices. It was argued that Clause 10 of the contract specifically empowered either party to terminate the agreement before expiry of the stipulated term by giving a 45-day written notice. The said clause further entitled the SPV to procure services from another agency at the risk and cost of the contractor in case of breach of contractual obligations, apart from encashing the performance security and debarring the contractor.

61. Learned counsel for the respondent proceeded to place reliance upon Clause 28 of the GCC to contend that in the event of abandonment of user fee collection by the contractor, the SPV was fully empowered to take over the toll plaza and terminate the contract. Learned counsel submitted that the petitioner□s performance remained highly unsatisfactory from the inception of the contract period and repeated instances of non-compliance were noticed by the authorities. Consequently, a notice dated 18.08.2025 was issued under the GCC proposing termination of the contract, to which the petitioner submitted a reply on 18.09.2025.

62. It was further submitted that while consideration of the petitioner□s reply was pending, a serious incident occurred on 19.09.2025 and 20.09.2025 at the Chhappar Toll Plaza. According to the respondents, the petitioner□s employees staged a protest following the death of one employee and completely abandoned the toll plaza, resulting in stoppage of toll collection and free passage of vehicles, thereby causing substantial financial losses to the authority.

63. Learned counsel submitted that in view of the aforesaid incident and the petitioner's inability to ensure uninterrupted toll operations, a further show-cause notice dated 22.09.2025 was issued to the petitioner. It was contended that user fee collection on national highways is an essential and time-sensitive public function and, therefore, in order to ensure continuity of toll operations and prevent further financial losses, Respondent No. 4 took a conscious decision to initiate a fresh tender process for engagement of another agency.

64. It was argued that the fresh tender process was initiated strictly in accordance with the contractual terms and after following due process of law, without any illegality or procedural infirmity. Learned counsel further submitted that upon culmination of the tender process, LoA dated 01.10.2025 was issued in favour of the successful bidder, namely South Asian Tollways Pvt. Ltd. Thereafter, the petitioner□s contract was formally terminated vide order dated 06.10.2025 and the petitioner was directed to vacate the site by 07.10.2025. It was submitted that a fresh agreement with the newly selected agency was executed on 07.10.2025 to ensure uninterrupted movement of traffic and smooth collection of toll revenue.

65. Defending the validity of the termination order dated 06.10.2025, learned counsel submitted that the same is a detailed and reasoned order which specifically refers to prior communications exchanged between the parties, records the various defaults committed by the petitioner with reference to the relevant contractual clauses, and also notes that the petitioner□s explanations furnished during the notice period were considered but found unsatisfactory. In support of the aforesaid submission, reliance was placed upon S.N. Mukherjee Vs. Union of India, (1990) 4 SCC 594, and Cyril Lasrado Vs. Juliana Maria Lasrado, (2004) 7 SCC 431, to contend that the impugned order satisfies the requirement of a speaking order in law.

66. Clarifying the sequence of events, learned counsel submitted that the fresh tender dated 22.09.2025 was a pre-emptive measure necessitated to ensure continuity of toll operations and the same was not issued solely on account of the show-cause notice dated 22.09.2025 under Clause 28 of the GCC. According to the respondents, the process for inviting fresh bids had already been triggered pursuant to the earlier notice of intention to terminate dated 18.08.2025 issued under Clause 10 of the GCC.

67. Learned counsel further submitted that the petitioner has suppressed material facts from this Court and, therefore, the writ petition deserves dismissal on the ground of lack of bona fides alone. It was contended that the petitioner failed to disclose that the tender process initiated through the NIT dated 22.09.2025 had already culminated in finalization of bids on 01.10.2025 and that physical tolling operations had already been handed over to the newly appointed agency at 8am on 07.10.2025. According to the respondents, interim protection was obtained by the petitioner without disclosing the aforesaid developments to the Court.

68. Referring to subsequent developments, learned counsel submitted that the petitioner has also challenged termination notice dated 31.01.2026 through an amendment application allowed at later stage of hearing, i.e., on 24.04.2026. It was argued that the said subsequent termination was independently issued under Clause 16 of Section VI of the GCC on account of continued defaults committed by the petitioner even after reinstatement pursuant to the interim order dated 26.11.2025 passed by this Court. According to the respondents, despite a warning dated 18.12.2025, the petitioner continued to commit defaults resulting in financial losses exceeding Rs. 3 crores to Respondent No.5 and, therefore, subsequent challenge introduces an altogether fresh cause of action beyond the scope of the original writ petition.

(F) Submissions on behalf of Respondent No. 2 (NHAI)

69. Learned counsel appearing for respondent no. 2 has supported the arguments advanced on behalf of respondent no. 5, both on count of maintainability of the writ petition before this Court questioning the status of respondent no. 5 as a □State□ and also the parties to the contract being under obligation on principle of privity of contract. Reliance was placed upon various authorities cited by respondent no. 5.

III

Points for Determination

70. In the light of the pleadings on record and submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the following questions arise for consideration in this petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India:

i. Whether Respondent No.5 falls within the judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution, and whether it can be treated as □State□ or an instrumentality thereof under Article 12 of the Constitution of India.

ii. Whether the dispute arises out of a purely commercial contract or whether the impugned actions in the facts of the present case disclose any element of public function, and if so, whether the issuance of Notice Inviting Tender dated 22.09.2025 and termination of contract dated 06.10.2025 are open to judicial review.

iii. Whether this Court has territorial jurisdiction under Article 226(2) of the Constitution, having regard to the place of cause of action and the effect of the jurisdiction clause conferring exclusive jurisdiction on courts at Delhi.

IV

Discussion and Analysis

71. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and upon consideration of the pleadings and material brought on record, we proceed to examine points before this court for determination but before adverting to point-wise consideration, it is noted that learned counsel for the parties have relied upon several judicial precedents in support of their respective submissions, which have already been noticed in the above paragraphs of this judgment. The Court has duly considered all judgements cited by parties, however, to avoid repetition, the discussion and analysis herein is based upon all the submissions, pleadings on record and judgments cited by parties, without referring them individually again unless the reference to the same in firm necessity by us.

72. During the course of hearing, main objection had been raised by the respondents regarding maintainability of the writ petition, the nature of the dispute, and the jurisdiction of this Court in the facts of the case. Since these objections go to the root of the matter, they are being considered first.

(i) Maintainability in the Context of Article 12

73. Learned senior counsel appearing for the petitioner had submitted that Respondent No.5 was engaged in toll operations on a National Highway, which is a public utility activity, and therefore discharges functions having a clear public character. It is contended that toll collection directly affected the public at large, and consequently, the actions of Respondent No.5 cannot be kept outside the purview of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution. In support of his above submissions, he took us to a number of provisions of the National Highway Act, 1956, the Control of National Highways (Land and Traffic) Act, 2002, the National Highways Authority Act, 1988, the National Highways (Collection of Fees by any Person for the Use of Section of National Highways/Permanent Bridge/Temporary Bridge on National Highways) Rules, 1997 and the National Highway (Rate of Fees) Rules, 1997 which we have already referred to above.

74. On the other side, respondents have raised a preliminary objection that respondent no. 5 was a private limited company, having no governmental shareholding or deep and pervasive control by the State, which was necessary for the writ jurisdiction. It was submitted that its relationship with the NHAI was purely contractual in nature, and a mere fact that it was engaged in highway-related operations, did not alter its private character so as to bring it within the ambit of Article 12 of the Constitution.

75. It is well settled in a catena of judgements of the Supreme Court that the scope of judicial review under Article 226 is wider than the definition of "State" under Article 12, and in appropriate cases even a private body may be amenable to writ jurisdiction if it discharges statutory functions or performs duties having public law consequences. However, every activity connected with public infrastructure does not, by itself, acquire a public law character so as to invite writ jurisdiction in all disputes arising therefrom.

76. The Court is required to examine the real nature of the relationship between the parties and also the source of the impugned action. In the present case, the rights and obligations inter se the parties arise out of the agreement dated 26.06.2025. The grievance relates to issuance of Notice Inviting Tender, alleged breaches, and consequent termination of the contract. If we look at complete ambit of the dispute, none of these actions are shown to be traceable to any statutory or sovereign power exercised by respondent no. 5. Main function of the company is toll collection but the genesis of the dispute is breach of contract and nothing, which can be referable to the public function under which the dispute has occurred. Reference here may be heard of Bareilly Development Authority (Supra).

77. After careful perusal of records, submissions by counsel, going through laws, provisions of National Highway Act, 1956, the Control of National Highways (Land and Traffic) Act, 2002, the National Highways Authority Act, 1988, the National Highways (Collection of Fees by any Person for the Use of Section of National Highways/Permanent Bridge/Temporary Bridge on National Highways) Rules, 1997 and the National Highway (Rate of Fees) Rules, 1997 and going through cited judgements on these relevant issues by both sides, we are of the considered view that merely because the contract pertained to toll collection on a National Highway it does not by itself would convert the dispute into a dispute involving public law. The record does not indicate that respondent no. 5 is financially, functionally, or administratively dominated by the □State□ so as to satisfy the tests under Article 12. Looking to the structure of bodies created and incorporated as we find that there is absolutely no control by NHAI and the company has invested its money, and the contract is made because the investment is for collecting toll for 20 years to make profit out of that investment after recovering its investment cost, which is already paid. For reference see the case of ICSSSR (Supra) and Manoj Petroleum (Supra).

78. In this regard, reference may also be made to the decision of the Supreme Court in S. Shobha v. Muthoot Finance Ltd., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 177, wherein the Supreme Court reiterated that the crucial test for determining amenability to writ jurisdiction is the nature of the function being discharged and the existence of a public duty in relation to the impugned action. The Supreme Court observed that merely because a private body is subject to statutory regulation or operates in a regulated field, it does not ipso facto become "State" under Article 12. It was held that a writ would lie against a private body only where the action complained of, bears a direct nexus with discharge of a public duty or statutory obligation. Relevant paragraphs are reproduced hereinbelow:

"8. A body, public or private, should not be categorized as "amenable" or "not amenable" to writ jurisdiction. The most important and vital consideration should be the "function" test as regards the maintainability of a writ application. If a public duty or public function is involved, any body, public or private, concerned or connection with that duty or function, and limited to that, would be subject to judicial scrutiny under the extraordinary writ jurisdiction of Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

9. We may sum up thus:

"(3) Although a non-banking finance company like the Muthoot Finance Ltd. with which we are concerned is duty bound to follow and abide by the guidelines provided by the Reserve Bank of India for smooth conduct of its affairs in carrying on its business, yet those are of regulatory measures to keep a check and provide guideline and not a participatory dominance or control over the affairs of the company.

(4) A private company carrying on banking business as a Scheduled bank cannot be termed as a company carrying on any public function or public duty.

(5) Normally, mandamus is issued to a public body or authority to compel it to perform some public duty cast upon it by some statute or statutory rule. In exceptional cases a writ of mandamus or a writ in the nature of mandamus may issue to a private body, but only where a public duty is cast upon such private body by a statute or statutory rule and only to compel such body to perform its public duty.

(6) Merely because a statue or a rule having the force of a statute requires a company or some other body to do a particular thing, it does not possess the attribute of a statutory body.

(7) If a private body is discharging a public function and the denial of any rights is in connection with the public duty imposed on such body, the public law remedy can be enforced. The duty cast on the public body may be either statutory or otherwise and the source of such power is immaterial but, nevertheless, there must be the public law element in such action.".

79. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, mere engagement of Respondent No.5 in toll operations on a National Highway, or the existence of a statutory framework regulating such activity, would not by itself render every contractual dispute amenable to writ jurisdiction. What remains material is whether the impugned action in the present dispute involves discharge of any public duty or exercise of public function, or whether it essentially arises from assertion of contractual rights and obligations under a commercial arrangement.

80. It is also an undisputed fact that the contract between the parties contains a dispute resolution clause for resolution of disputes arising therefrom. The issues raised primarily concern alleged breaches of contractual obligations and termination under the agreement, which clearly fall within the domain of private law remedies.

(ii) Nature of Contract and Scope of Writ Jurisdiction

81. The next point is whether the dispute is purely contractual in nature or whether the impugned actions disclose any element of public function so as to warrant interference under Article 226.

82. Learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that the issuance of Notice Inviting Tender dated 22.09.2025 was premature and undertaken before expiry of the time granted to respond to earlier communications, which showed that respondent no.5 had acted against petitioner with premeditated mind. It was further contended that the termination order dated 06.10.2025 was arbitrary and pre-decided, as the steps to give contract to another agency commenced even before completion of the contractual process.

83. The respondents, on the other hand, refuted the above-mentioned allegations and contented that the petitioner committed repeated defaults in performance of contractual obligations, resulting in disruption of toll operations, which was the work, which had to be continuously ongoing. Unless the new contract was invited to takeover, the old one could not be relieved and in the light of this, it was further urged that the contract itself contained express provisions enabling termination and substitution in case of breach, and the impugned actions were traceable to such contractual stipulations.

84. After perusal of contract, we have noticed that the terms of the GCC governing the relationship between the parties contains a force majeure clause which provides that neither party shall be deemed to be in default in performance of its obligations if such performance is prevented or delayed due to events beyond reasonable control, including but not limited to acts of God, natural calamities, epidemic conditions, governmental action, or judicial orders. The clause further stipulates a mechanism requiring the affected party to issue notice within a stipulated period and contemplates consultation between the parties in the event such conditions continue beyond a specified duration, including the possibility of early termination.

85. Further, the contract also contains an express termination clause empowering either party to terminate the agreement upon prior notice. In addition, the contract contemplates termination for just cause, including breach of terms, violation of conditions, or suppression of facts, coupled with consequences such as risk-and-cost arrangements, imposition of penalties, forfeiture of security deposits, and other commercial consequences flowing from default. The agreement also provides for penal consequences in cases of excess fee collection or violation of operational norms, including forfeiture and debarment from future assignments.

86. The existence of such detailed contractual mechanisms indicates that the relationship between the parties is structured as a determinable commercial arrangement governed by mutually agreed terms, including remedies for breach and exit options. The dispute arising between the parties is thus required to be examined in the backdrop of such clear stipulations in the contract while assessing whether there is something actually warranting judicial review under Article 226.

87. It is well settled principle of law that mere allegation of arbitrariness in a contractual matter does not change the nature of dispute. Judicial review under Article 226 is not intended to be exercised for enforcement or escape from the contractual rights, obligations or adjudication of disputed questions arising from commercial agreements, except where arbitrariness or statutory obligation is involved. Reference here may be made to the authority of Radha Krishna Agarwal (supra).

88. In the present case, the dispute revolves around performance of contractual obligations, alleged breaches, issuance of notices, invocation of termination clauses, and consequential commercial arrangements. These issues necessarily involve disputed questions of fact and interpretation of contractual terms, which is clearly in the ambit of private law dispute and writ jurisdiction cannot be invoked for resolution. See the cases of Pimpri Chinchwad Municipal Corporation (supra), Joshi Technologies International Inc. (supra), K.K. Saksena (supra) , and Ramakrishna Mission (supra).

89. The contract is determinable in nature and contains a dispute resolution clause for resolution of disputes. The petitioner, in effect, seeks restoration of a terminated commercial arrangement, which falls clearly within the realm of private law. [Bareilly Development Authority (supra)].

(iii) Territorial Jurisdiction

90. The respondents have raised an objection regarding territorial jurisdiction as well, which is raised after relying upon the clause in the agreement conferring exclusive jurisdiction upon courts at Delhi. It is submitted that the impugned decisions were taken at Delhi and, therefore, this Court lacks jurisdiction. The GCC contains provisions relating to dispute resolution and jurisdiction. Clause 20 of the General Conditions originally provided for resolution of disputes through competent courts, with an earlier stipulation indicating jurisdiction within the respective State. The said clause was subsequently modified by corrigendum dated 02.05.2025. By virtue of the said corrigendum, it has been stipulated that any dispute or difference arising out of or in connection with the contract shall be subject to the jurisdiction of Delhi.

91. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of the respondent, while opposing the writ petition, had submitted that this court did not have territorial jurisdiction to entertain this matter. It is well settled law that parties cannot, by agreement, take away the constitutional rights and, therefore, jurisdiction of a High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution cannot be taken away by any agreement in between parties. But this cannot be seen as such jurisdiction related clauses in the agreement are not relevant for understanding the contractual intention of the parties and the forum contemplated for adjudication of disputes although the jurisdiction under Article 226 falls on different footing. The effect of the jurisdiction clause in the agreement is to be examined in light of Article 226(2) of the Constitution and the place where a part of the cause of action arises.

92. In the present case, the toll plaza is situated within the State of Uttar Pradesh, where the contractual operations were carried out. The alleged defaults, operational incidents, and consequences arising from the impugned termination are all substantially connected with the said location. Accordingly, a material and integral part of the cause of action has arisen within the territorial jurisdiction of this Court. The jurisdiction clause contained in the agreement, even as modified, cannot override the constitutional mandate under Article 226(2), and the objection raised by the respondents is therefore rejected.

Conclusion

93. Upon consideration of the pleadings, submissions, and materials on record, and for the reasons recorded in the foregoing discussion, we are of the considered view that the dispute can still be of the nature involving private law remedies even if the activity of the company is in a nature of public function. The overall function of the company and the point of dispute can be seen separately yet in totality to determine its real nature and the available alternate remedy. The cases of ABL International Ltd. (supra), Zee Telefilms Ltd. (supra) and BCCI (supra) are not applicable on facts and circumstances of the present petition and accordingly are found to be of no help to the petitioner.

94. Respondent no. 5 cannot be treated as State or an instrumentality thereof within the meaning of Article 12 of the Constitution, as the relationship between the parties is governed by a purely contractual arrangement. No material has been placed on record to indicate any substantial and effective governmental control, nor is there anything to suggest that respondent no. 5 exercises statutory or sovereign power in the discharge of its functions and the dispute is arising in the course of that function. The mere fact that the contract pertains to toll operations on a National Highway, by itself, is insufficient to alter the essentially private and contractual character of the arrangement under which the dispute occurred, which is clearly due to contractual dispute.

95. The provisions of the National Highways Act, 1956, the Control of National Highways (Land and Traffic) Act, 2002, the National Highways Authority of India Act, 1988, the National Highways (Collection of Fees by any Person for the Use of Section of National highways/permanent Bridge/temporary Bridge on National Highways) Rules, 1997 and the National Highway (Rate of Fees) Rules, 1997 that have been cited by learned Senior Advocate, are in our considered view, regulatory measures to lay down guidelines for National Highway Authority to acquire the land for constructing National Highways, its procedures, design and also its regular maintenance by creating toll plazas to charge user fee. Thus, even if from principles that have been basic in nature to govern contract's term, it would not make such contract statutory in nature and would certainly not take away its determinable character. Parties, therefore, would continue to govern by principles of privity of contract. In many cases, Government outsources its work, though statutorily such work is governmental task which is in duty for it to discharged, an outsourced agency may further enter into a contract with an individuals a service providers for human workforce. This man power resource agreement, therefore, would certainly fall in a realm of pure private determinable contract to bind the parties under the terms of contract, their rights to walk out of it and so also resolution of factual disputes through dispute resolution clause provided under the agreement. The work, though is essentially on the guidelines provided by the Government, it would still not be involving a public law element. The argument as advanced by learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioner if accepted, it would frustrate the dispute resolution clause provided under the contract and would create unnecessary invade in the obligations governed by the privity of contract. So even while piercing the corporate veil, we do not see the contractual obligations created under the contract between the respondent no. 5 and the petitioner, to be in any manner bringing any public law element to the nature of work to be executed by such second party to the agreement. Collection of user fee as a rule under the guidelines, would still stand governed by the terms of the contract on solemn principles of privity of contract between the parties.

96. A company may perform a public duty in general, but the writ court does not automatically enter every dispute arising out of it. What is material is whether the impugned action in the specific dispute is an exercise of public function or merely an assertion of contractual or commercial rights. Even where an entity is engaged in activities of a public character in a broader sense, such as toll collection on a national highway, the present controversy may still remain purely contractual in nature, concerning issues such as termination of contract, alleged breach, and substitution of new agency, and therefore fall outside the scope of writ jurisdiction. The dispute in the present case pertain to enforcement of contractual terms, which are appropriately referable to alternative remedies. Accordingly, the matter does not warrant exercise of extraordinary writ jurisdiction under Article 226.

97. A breach of contract by a party to the contract whether maliciously or by way of arbitrary exercise of power contrary to the provisions reached under the agreement, would still invite an actionable claim under ordinary civil law for which forum of a court of competent jurisdiction is always there, and/or also resolution of disputes by invoking dispute resolution clause.

98. Here in this case, we are conscious of this fact that pleadings have also been exchanged on merits of the case but any attempt or venture by us to embark upon an enquiry as to the rival contentions advanced on the determination of contract, would require us to appreciate not only bare facts but the evidence that are to be placed before us. The fact in issue relevant to the controversy raised relates to the discharge of duty/obligations by second party to the contract, not being in terms of the agreement and this requires in depth appreciation of evidence to be led by the parties. This Court being a Court of records would certainly be inviting pleadings based on admitted positions where of course, the Court would not require to conduct any trial to appreciate the documents led in evidence, more especially in the circumstances, when a an alternative dispute resolution is prescribed and provided and the parties have voluntarily entered an agreement to bind themselves by the said clause under the agreement. We find this case to be involving serious disputed questions of facts as to the issue raised regarding non-discharge of duties as per the terms of the contract by the second party. We may add here that there is no quarrel as to the principle of law cited before us through various authorities but the question is as to whether in a given facts and circumstances, those principles would warrant interference by this Court in exercise of it power of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. We have already discussed above that the disputed questions of facts have been raised and, therefore, even though principles are not questionable, we do not find those judgments to be of any help to the petitioner in maintaining this petition on merits by passing forum of dispute resolution.

99. It is further worth noticing that the contract under the agreement was to provide services for a period of 1 year plus 12 months extension subject to satisfactory performance. The contract was entered between the parties on 26.06.2025 and came to be terminated, in mid term by respondent no. 5. Though the petitioner□s contract was terminated, mid term, by respondent no. 5 on 06.10.2025, however, pursuant to the interim orders dated 04.11.2025 and 26.11.2025 passed by this Court, Petitioner has been made to continue until today i.e. 22.05.2026, so almost they have continued a month less than 1 year. Had the petitioner continued under the contract in ordinary course, their extension would have been done only subject to satisfactory work. The respondents have questioned the satisfactory work by the petitioner by issuing show cause notice. Thus, it becomes question of appreciation of defence set up by the petitioner for which an appropriate forum would be to adopt dispute resolution mechanism.

100. In our considered view, the objection regarding territorial jurisdiction cannot be accepted. It is noted that this Court has jurisdiction under Article 226(2) of the Constitution, as a substantial and integral part of the cause of action has admittedly arisen within its territorial limits. The dispute relates to contractual operations carried out at the toll plaza situated within the State of Uttar Pradesh, and the alleged defaults, incidents, and consequences flowing from the impugned actions are closely connected with the said location. In these circumstances, the mere fact that certain decisions were taken or communications were issued from Delhi, or that the agreement contains a jurisdiction clause in favour of courts at Delhi, cannot have the effect of excluding the constitutional jurisdiction of this Court. It is well settled that such contractual clauses cannot oust or curtail the jurisdiction conferred under Article 226 of the Constitution. Accordingly, the objection is rejected.

VI

Order

101. In view of the above discussions and conclusion, on each of the points for determination, no case for interference under Article 226 of the Constitution is made out. Accordingly, we decline to grant indulgence in the petition to interfere on merits. However, it is always open for the petitioner to avail the alternative remedies as otherwise available in law.

102. Accordingly, the writ petition fails and is dismissed, subject to observations made hereinabove. Interim order, if any, stands discharged. Consequences to follow.

103. No order as to costs.

Issue(s) for consideration

From which date does the 10-year tenure and the liability to pay rent/fees commence when physical possession of a leased public property is delayed due to major structural repairs carried out by the lessor?

Headnotes

A. Property/Tenancy Law – Indian Contract Act, 1872: Section 52, 54 - In October 2013, Zila Panchayat, Jhansi invited bids to run a marriage hall at the Inspection House (Dak Bangla Bhavan) for a 10-year term. The petitioner won the auction and executed an agreement on 05.12.2013. The contract specified that the 10-year tenure would begin from the date the charge/possession was handed over. Despite multiple court orders and contempt petitions filed by the petitioner to obtain possession, Zila Panchayat failed to hand over the hall. Instead, via a letter dated 14.11.2022, Zila Panchayat informed the petitioner that they had cancelled the original resolution and intended to refund his deposit.

The petitioner filed this writ petition challenging the cancellation letter. In February 2023, the High Court stayed the cancellation. Subsequently, both parties renegotiated: the petitioner agreed to pay a 20% enhanced rate over the 2013 agreed fee to reflect increased market value, and Zila Panchayat agreed to hand over possession (via letter dated 03.04.2023). Upon inspection in April 2023, the hall was found to be in a ruined state and unusable. The petitioner requested structural repairs. Consequently, Zila Panchayat sanctioned a repair budget (~₹20.17 Lakhs) and issued work orders in August 2023. The repair work was completed in September 2025.

The Dispute over Start Date: As per Zila Panchayat, claimed possession was legally transferred on 03.04.2023, and therefore they demanded payment from that date. Whereas according to petitioner, he took actual physical possession in January 2026 under protest and argued that payment obligations and the 10-year tenure should only run from January 2026, as the property was uninhabitable prior to that.

B. Section 52 deals with situations where the sequence in which the reciprocal promises are to be performed is a factor. The section states that if the contract explicitly fixes the order of performance, then the promises be performed in that sequence. Further it emphasizes the necessity of establishing a clear sequence of action within a contractual framework to ensure the orderly progression of obligations and to prevent premature demands for performance from either party. (Para 27)

C. Section 54 deals with situations where performance of one reciprocal promise is inherently dependent upon prior performance of another promise within the same contract. This Section stipulates that if the promisor of the promise that should be performed first fails to fulfill their obligation, they cannot then claim the performance of the reciprocal promise from the other party. Moreover, the defaulting promisor is also liable to make compensation to the other party for any loss that may incur as a consequence of the non-performance of a precedent obligation of the contract. This Section clearly establishes a cause and effect relationship between the non-performance of a precedent obligation and the subsequent rights and liabilities of the other party involved in the reciprocal promise. (Para 28)

Hence, as per above provisions and from the perusal of the agreement dated 05.12.2023, it is evident that the agreement was to commence from the date of handing over the charge of the marriage hall to the petitioner. Thus, handing over of the charge of the marriage hall is a condition precedent for the petitioner becoming liable for payment of amounts to the respondent no.3- panchayat, the same being evident from the nature of transaction. Such being the legal position the petitioner would be liable to pay the amounts to the respondent no.3 when the charge of the marriage hall was handed over to the petitioner in January 2026. (Para 29)

However, the petitioner was aware that the marriage hall was in functional condition in September 2025 itself, still the petitioner took charge of the marriage hall in January 2026. Hence, the petitioner is himself liable for this delay and the respondents cannot be held responsible for the same. Thus, the petitioner would be liable to pay an enhanced amount as mutually agreed upon with the respondent no.3-panchayat in terms of the agreement from September 2025 and the tenure of the agreement so executed between the parties for ten years would also commence from September 2025. (Para 30)

Writ petition is disposed of. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Kabeer Tiwari, Sanjeev Kumar Pandey, Subhash Chandra Maurya, Sr. Advocate
For Respondent(s): C.S.C., G.S. Chauhan

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhanshu Chauhan, J.)

1. Short counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent nos 3 to 5 is taken on record.

2. Heard Shri Anil Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Kabeer Tiwari, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the respondent no. 1 and 2 and Shri G.S. Chauhan, learned counsel for the respondents no. 3 to 5.

3. The present petition has been filed being aggrieved by the letter dated 14.11.2022 by means of which the petitioner has been informed that resolution no. 8 has been cancelled in the meeting held on 22.10.2022, in pursuance to the said resolution marriage hall of Zila Panchayat, Jhansi had been allotted in favour of the petitioner for a tenure of 10 years and an agreement dated 05.12.2013 was executed between the parties.

4. The facts involved in the present controversy are that an auction notice dated 24.10.2013 was published for running a marriage hall situated in the campus of Inspection House (Dak Bangla Bhavan), Jhansi belonging to Zila Panchayat, Jhansi-respondent no.3 for a tenure of 10 years. The petitioner along with four others had submitted their bids in pursuance to the tender notice/ advertisement. Subsequently vide the letter dated 23.11.2013 the petitioner was called upon to deposit the requisite stamp duty for the purposes of execution of an agreement for ten years in respect of the marriage hall on payment of Rs. 28,12,500/-, in pursuance thereto the petitioner had deposited the requisite stamp duty.

5. Ultimately an agreement dated 05.12.2023 was executed between the parties in respect of the marriage hall for a tenure of ten years on payment of an amount of Rs. 25,12,500/-. Under the agreement the petitioner was required to deposit the amount due on six monthly basis and the amount so payable was to increase on three yearly basis. Further under the agreement, the construction work was to be carried out by the respondent no.3 panchayat and it was not open for the petitioner to carry out any structural changes without the consent of the respondent no. 3.

6. However, as the possession of the marriage hall was not handed over to the petitioner despite substantial passage of time, even after requests made in that regard. Hence, the petitioner approached this court by filing Writ C No. 31841 of 2015 and the said writ petition was disposed of vide the order dated 28.05.2015 directing the Competent Officer of the Zila Pancyayat, Jhansi to pass appropriate orders and finalize the matter. However, as no decision was taken by the respondents despite the directions of this Court, the petitioner was constrained to file Contempt Application (Civil) No. 5114 of 2015 and the same was disposed of vide the order dated 24.08.2015, granting one more opportunity of three weeks to the respondent no.3 to comply with the order dated 28.05.2015.

7. Thereafter the petitioner made repeated efforts wherein, a request was made to handover the possession of the marriage hall to the petitioner but the same were of no avail. Subsequently, Contempt Application (Civil) No. 5031 of 2020 was filed by the petitioner in pursuance to the order dated 24.08.2015 but the same was dismissed being barred by time. In the meanwhile the petitioner on 23.10.2022 came to know through a news paper article that the respondents were going to cancel the agreement in respect of the marriage hall.

8. Ultimately vide the impugned letter dated 14.11.2022 the petitioner was informed that the decision had been taken in the meeting of the respondent no. 3-panchayat held on 22.10.2022 to cancel resolution no. 8 in pursuance to which the agreement was executed in favour of the petitioner and the petitioner was also called upon to collect the amounts deposited in lieu of the agreement.

9. The petitioner being aggrieved by the letter dated 14.11.2022 has filed the present writ petition.

10. This Court vide the order dated 15.02.2023 had kept the letter dated 14.11.2022 in abeyance and had further directed that no third party rights shall be created in respect of the marriage hall in question. In pursuance to the order dated 15.02.2023 passed by this Court the petitioner was called upon vide the letter dated 06.03.2023 to submit his offer in respect of the amount the petitioner was willing to pay in pursuance to the agreement dated 05.12.2023, in view of the fact that the market value of the property had substantially increased during this while. The petitioner in response thereto vide the letter dated 15.03.2023 had informed that the petitioner was willing to pay an enhanced amount of 20% over and above that was agreed under the agreement.

11. Thereafter the respondent no.3 vide the letter dated 03.04.2023 had agreed to hand over the charge/ possession of the marriage hall to the petitioner subject to enhancement of the amount agreed by 20%. However, when the petitioner reached the marriage hall to take it?s possession, the petitioner came to realise that the marriage hall was in dilapidated condition requiring major repairs and it was not possible for the petitioner to operate the same. Hence, the petitioner vide the letter dated 12.04.2023 had informed the respondent no. 3 regarding the poor structural condition of the marriage hall and had requested that the same should be brought in a working condition and also the fact that the petitioner would be able to take the possession of the marriage hall only after the work of repair was completed and to pay the amounts due.

12. Subsequently during the financial year 2023-24 a budget of Rs.20,17,000/- inclusive of GST was sanctioned for carrying out the repairs of the marriage hall. Further in this regard, a work order dated 21.08.2023 was issued for an amount of Rs. 3,08,700/- for repair of kitchen and another work order dated 27.08.2023 was issued for an amount of Rs. 13,46,185/- for repair of four flats, which were a part of the marriage hall.

13. It was only after the marriage hall was repaired and brought in a functional condition in September, 2025 that the petitioner vide the letter dated 03.09.2025 had requested that the possession of the marriage hall be handed over to the petitioner, so as to enable him to operate the same.

14. Thereafter the respondent no.3 vide the letter dated 27.11.2025 had informed the petitioner that the possession of the marriage hall had already been handed over to the petitioner, in pursuance to the letter dated 03.04.2023 and the petitioner was called upon to deposit the amounts due within a week. The petitioner in response thereto vide the letter dated 29.11.2025 had informed the respondent that there was no occasion for the petitioner to have taken possession of the marriage hall as the repair works were going on since 22.08.2023.

15. The respondents no.3 vide the letter dated 17.01.2026 has asked the petitioner to deposit the amounts due, once again claiming that the possession of the marriage hall was handed over to the petitioner on 03.04.2023. The petitioner vide the letter dated 28.01.2026 had informed the respondent no.3 that the petitioner had deposited an amount of Rs. 5,16,000/- on 28.01.2026 and had further stated that the petitioner had taken charge/ possession of the marriage hall on 20.01.2026, it was further stated that the petitioner was taking charge/ possession of the marriage hall under protest subject to final outcome of the present writ petition.

16. In view of the above, the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioner is that as the petitioner was handed over the possession/ charge of the marriage hall only in the month of January, 2026, hence, the petitioner was liable to pay the amounts payable to the respondent no.3 in pursuance to the agreement only from the date of taking charge/ possession of the marriage hall. It has further been contended that there was no occasion for the petitioner to take possession/ charge of the marriage hall on 03.04.2023, in view of the dilapidated and poor condition of the marriage hall, whose repair work was admittedly carried out by the respondents by issuing work orders and the petitioner in any case could not be held liable for payment of any amount till the time the marriage hall was brought in a running condition. Thus, the crux of the contention of the petitioner is that the petitioner is liable to deposit the amount due only from the date of taking charge/ possession of the marriage hall i.e January, 2026 for a tenure of 10 years thereafter.

17. Per contra it is contended on behalf of the respondents that the petitioner was handed over the charge / possession of the marriage hall in pursuance to the letter dated 03.04.2023 and the petitioner had not objected to the same at any point of time thereafter. Attention in this regard is drawn to the copy of the letter dated 03.04.2023, which was marked to the concerned employee(s) of the respondent no.3-panchayat who had been asked to handover the charge/ possession of the marriage hall to the petitioner. Hence, it is contended on behalf of the respondents that the petitioner was liable to pay the enhanced amount as agreed upon from April, 2023.

18. We have perused the records of the case.

19. A perusal of the agreement dated 05.12.2013 shows that amongst others it states as under:-

इकरारनामा/अनुबंध

िजला पंचायत झांसी द्व ा रा अपर मुख् य अिधकारी िजला पंचायत झांसी- प्र थम पक्षश्री सत्य नारायण अग्र वाल पुत्र श्र ी लखनलाल िन० मु० परवारीपुरा मऊरानीपुर व श्र ी रिव पुत्र श्र ी मेहरवान िसहिन० ग्र ा म िसमराहा िजला झांसी- िद्व तीय पक्ष ।

(emphasis added)

20. Hence, the perusal of the agreement itself reveals that the agreement was to commence from the date of hand over of the charge of the marriage hall to the petitioner. The bone of contention between the parties is that the petitioner states that he had taken over the charge/ possession of the marriage hall on 20.01.2026, while on the other hand the respondents state that the charge of the marriage hall was handed over to the petitioner on 03.04.2023.

21. Be that as it may, the respondents do not dispute the fact that the marriage hall was in a dilapidated and poor structural condition in April, 2023, when allegedly the charge of the same was handed over to the petitioner. It is also not disputed by the respondents that a budget of Rs. 20,17,000/- inclusive of GST was sanctioned by the respondent no. 3-panchayat for the purposes repair of kitchen and four flats, which were a part of the marriage hall and two work orders dated 21.08.2023 and dated 27.08.2023 respectively were also issued. Hence, it can very well be concluded that the marriage hall was not in a running condition in April, 2023 and under these circumstances, it is beyond doubt that it would not have been possible for the petitioner to have operated the marriage hall and earn profits, while it was undergoing repairs.

22. The respondents do not dispute the fact that the work of repair was completed sometime in September, 2025. It is only thereafter that it would have been possible for the petitioner to have operated the marriage hall. There is no dispute regarding the fact that as duly agreed between the parties the petitioner was liable to pay the amount due in pursuance to the agreement only after taking the charge/ possession of the marriage hall, and as such the term of ten years would commence from the date of taking charge of the marriage hall.

23. Hence, there was no occasion for the petitioner to have paid any amount to the respondent till the point of time he was handed over the charge of the marriage hall, which happened some time in January, 2026. Even otherwise, the petitioner had taken marriage hall for earning profits and cannot be held liable to pay any amount to the respondents unless the marriage hall was in a habitable and running condition and charge thereof was duly handed over to the petitioner.

24. Even otherwise as per the terms of the agreement the claimant was to inform the respondent no.3-panchayat regarding the various construction works to be carried out in respect of the marriage hall and the works were to be carried out by the respondent no.3, while relying upon the said condition of the agreement, we find that the petitioner in response to the letter dated 03.04.2023 had informed the respondents regarding dilapidated and poor condition of the marriage hall vide letter dated 12.04.2023 with a request to get the same repaired. It is subsequent thereto that the repair works were carried out at the instance of the respondents, the budget sanctioned and the work orders were issued.

25. We find that there is another aspect to the matter in controversy as far as the contention of the respondents of handing over the possession/ charge of the marriage hall, pursuant to the letter dated 03.04.2023 is concerned. In the copy of the said letter issued to the employee(s) of the respondent no.3- panchayat it has been directed that the charge of the marriage hall be handed over to the petitioner but the respondents have failed to place any material on record to show that the charge was actually handed over to the petitioner in pursuance to the letter dated 03.04.2023.

26. In view of the findings arrived at by us above, we go on to consider the provisions of Section 52 and Section 54 of Indian Contract Act,1872 which are relevant as far as the present controversy is concerned and reads as under:

"52. Order of performance of reciprocal promises- Where the order in which reciprocal promises are to be performed is expressly fixed by the contract, they shall be performed in that order; and where the order is not expressly fixed by the contract, they shall be performed in that order which the nature of the transaction requires.

54. Effect of default as to that promise which should be first performed in contract consisting of reciprocal promises*- When a contract consists of reciprocal promises, such that one of them cannot be performed, or that its performance cannot be claimed till the other has been performed, and the promisor of the promise last mentioned fails to perform it, such promisor cannot claim the performance of the reciprocal promise, and must make compensation to the other party to the contract for any loss which such other party may sustain by the non-performance of the contract."*

27. Thus, Section 52 deals with situations where the sequence in which the reciprocal promises are to be performed is a factor. The section states that if the contract explicitly fixes the order of performance, then the promises be performed in that sequence. Further Section 52 emphasizes the necessity of establishing a clear sequence of action within a contractual framework to ensure the orderly progression of obligations and to prevent premature demands for performance from either party.

28. Further Section 54 deals with situations where performance of one reciprocal promise is inherently dependent upon prior performance of another promise within the same contract. This Section stipulates that if the promisor of the promise that should be performed first fails to fulfill their obligation, they cannot then claim the performance of the reciprocal promise from the other party. Moreover, the defaulting promisor is also liable to make compensation to the other party for any loss that may incur as a consequence of the non-performance of a precedent obligation of the contract. This Section clearly establishes a cause and effect relationship between the non-performance of a precedent obligation and the subsequent rights and liabilities of the other party involved in the reciprocal promise.

29. Hence, in view of the above provisions and from the perusal of the agreement dated 05.12.2023 it is evident that the agreement was to commence from the date of handing over the charge of the marriage hall to the petitioner. Thus, handing over of the charge of the marriage hall is a condition precedent for the petitioner becoming liable for payment of amounts to the respondent no.3-panchayat, the same being evident from the nature of transaction. Further, unless the petitioner was handed over the charge of the marriage hall he was not under any obligation to pay any amount to the respondent no.3 under the agreement. Such being the legal position the petitioner would be liable to pay the amounts to the respondent no.3 when the charge of the marriage hall was handed over to the petitioner in January,2026.

30. However, the petitioner was aware that the marriage hall was in functional condition in September, 2025 itself, still the petitioner took charge of the marriage hall in January, 2026. Hence, the petitioner is himself liable for this delay and the respondents cannot be held responsible for the same. Thus, we are of the view that the petitioner would be liable to pay an enhanced amount as mutually agreed upon with the respondent no.3-panchayat in terms of the agreement from September, 2025 and the tenure of the agreement so executed between the parties for ten years would also commence from September, 2025.

31. As far as the reliefs claimed by the petitioner in the present writ petition are concerned in view of the fact that the petitioner has already been handed over the possession/ charge of the marriage hall and the petitioner is also willing to deposit the amounts under the agreement dated 05.12.2013 at an enhanced rate of 20%, the impugned letter dated 14.11.2022 has lost its relevance.

32. Hence, the writ petition is disposed of with a direction to the respondent that they may charge the amount due from the petitioner under the agreement at an enhanced rate of 20%, commencing from September, 2025 and the tenure of agreement for ten years would commence from September, 2025.

33. No orders as to costs.

Writ C No. 43237 of 2018

Rameshwar Dutt Awasthi ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

A. Whether the application filed by the petitioner for second renewal was a valid application in the eyes of law and whether based on such renewal application, petitioner could have been granted benefit of Section 8A (6) of the Amendment Act, 2015; and
B. Whether second renewal of lease of Silica Sand is permissible under U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963.

Headnotes

Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957, ss. 8A(6), 14 – Mineral Concession Rules, 1960, Rule 24A – U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963, Chapter IX – Application for second renewal of mining lease for Silica Sand – Benefit of Section 8A(6) – Application of the petitioner for extension of the lease deed – Rejected by the authority – The second renewal application of the petitioner was not complete in all respects on which the authority could proceed to consider to grant the second renewal – The petitioner obtained 'No Dues Certificate' on 31.10.2013 – The petitioner got the mining plan approved on 16.07.2015 and the Environment Clearance Certificate was granted to the petitioner on 06.01.2016 – The application of the petitioner was defective and not as per law till 16.07.2015 when the mining plan was approved – There is no provision for second renewal of mining lease under Chapter IX of Rules, 1963 :

Held :

A. Mineral Concession Rules, 1960 – Rule 24A(1) – Renewal application – Form-J – The application for renewal under Rule 24A(1) of the Mineral Concession Rules, 1960 is to be submitted in Form-J. Clause-2 (7) of Form-J requires "number and date" of the valid clearance certificate of payment of mining dues. Several information which the petitioner was supposed to submit while submitting application in Form-J were not supplied by the petitioner. The second renewal application of the petitioner was not complete in all respects on which the authority could proceed to consider to grant the second renewal.

B. Mineral Concession Rules, 1960 – Rule 24A(6) – Second renewal – Rule 24A(6) of the Mineral Concession Rules, 1960 is applicable to first renewal and not to second renewal. Sub-rule (6) of Rule 24A of Rules, 1960 cannot be applied to second renewal under sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957. The continuance of mining operation by the petitioner under the shelter of Rule 24A(6) was illegal.

C. Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 – Section 8-A(6) – Extension of lease period – Compliance with terms and conditions of lease – The benefit of extension of the lease period postulated under Section 8-A of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 is available, subject to a further overriding condition, namely, "…that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with". A leaseholder who does not satisfy any of the required conditions of the lease, would not be entitled to the benefits extended under sub-section (5) or (6) of Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act. The petitioner carried out mining operations without mining plan after expiry of lease deed on 15.06.1999 which clearly implies that petitioner did not fulfill the requirements under Section 8A(6) of Amendment Act, 2015 that the leaseholder has to comply with all the terms and conditions of the lease.

D. On 10.02.2015, the Central Government issued a notification notifying Silica Sand along with some other minerals as minor mineral. After declaration of Silica Sand as minor mineral, the provision of Section 14 of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 came into play, and the provisions of Sections 5 to 13 of the Act, 1957, inclusive of Section 8 and Section 8A are not applicable with respect to Silica Sand. The State Government by exercising powers under Section 15 of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957, amended the provisions of the U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 and added a new Chapter IX in Rules, 1963 vide U.P. Minor Mineral (Concession) (Fourteen Amendment) Rules, 2016 dated 29.06.2016 providing procedure for grant of mining lease of Silica Sand besides other minerals notified by the Central Government vide Notification dated 10.02.2015. There is no provision for second renewal of mining lease under Chapter IX of the U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963.

E. Constitution of India – Art. 226 – Futile writ – Even if an order is illegal or not as per law, the Court may refuse to issue any writ under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for the reason that the Court while exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India shall not issue futile writs – – Writ petition dismissed with no order as to costs.

4. The petitioner, thereafter, was granted first renewal under Section 8(2) of the Act, 1957 read with Rules, 1960 for a further period of ten years commencing w.e.f. 16.06.1989 to 15.06.1999. Based upon the same, the lease deed was executed on 13.12.1993 pursuant to the Government Order dated 23.04.1991.

5. Before expiry of the lease period, the petitioner submitted an application on 12.06.1998 for renewal of the lease for a further period of twenty years.

6. The Additional District Magistrate (Administration) vide notice dated 18.06.2011 directed the petitioner to submit Environment Clearance Certificate. The petitioner, thereafter, applied for Environment Clearance Certificate. The petitioner was granted NOC for mining of Silica Sand on 03.09.2012 by the Divisional Director, Social Forestry Department, Allahabad.

7. The Additional District Magistrate (Administration) in the light of the NOC dated 03.09.2012 made a recommendation dated 12.11.2013 to the Director, Geology and Mining for renewal of the mining lease for a further period of twenty years.

8. Further it is the case of the petitioner that the Director, Geology and Mining on 27.06.2014 taking note of recommendation letter dated 12.11.2013 made a recommendation to the Principal Secretary, Department of Geology & Mining, Lucknow for renewal of lease for a period of twenty years.

9. Based on the said recommendation, the Additional District Magistrate (Administration), Allahabad on 20.09.2014 requested the Controller General, Indian Bureau of Mines, Nagpur to submit report in the matter of renewal application dated 12.06.1998.

10. According to the petitioner, the mining plan was approved on 16.07.2015, and the Environment Clearance Certificate was granted on 06.01.2016. In the meantime, the Central Legislature passed MMDR (Amendment) Act, 2015 (hereinafter referred to as 'Amendment Act, 2015').

11. By the said amendment, Section 8A was inserted in the Act, 1957 to provide for regulating the period of mineral other than those specified in Part-A and Part-B of the First Schedule. The Central Government issued a D.O. with a direction to take necessary steps without any delay to implement the Amendment Act, 2015

12. When the respondents did not pass any order on the application of petitioner for renewal of lease, the petitioner approached this Court by filing Writ-C No.52665 of 2016 (Rameshwar Dutt Awasthi Vs. State of U.P. and 2 Others) with the following prayer:-

"i. Pass appropriate writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus directing that the tenure of petitioner's mining lease over an area of 47.06 hectare in Village Janwa, Tehsil Bara in District Allahabad stood extend for a period of 50 years pursuant to the provisions of Section 8A (6) of the MMDR Amendment Act, 2015;

ii. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus restraining the District Magistrate, Allahabad, from interfering mining operations and also to issue the transit permit (Form-G) for dispatch of silica sand by the petitioner;

iii. Issue such other and further writ, order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper in the circumstances of the case; and

iv. Award the cost of the writ petition."

13. This Court by judgement and order dated 25.01.2017 disposed of the aforesaid writ petition directing the petitioner to fulfill the formality as envisaged under the U.P. Minor Minerals (Concession) Rules, 1963 (hereinafter referred to as "Rules, 1963"), and thereafter, the application of the petitioner would be dealt with as per law within next three months by the competent authority under Rules, 1963.

14. The petitioner in compliance of the said judgement submitted representation to the authority requesting for extension of the lease deed which was rejected by the respondent no.2 by impugned order.

15. A counter affidavit has been filed by the respondents specifically stating therein that the mining lease in respect of Silica Sand was granted for an area of 47.06 hectare in favour of Sri Bhulli Maharaj S/o Hari Kishore Awasthi proprietor of M/s Bhulli Maharaj and Sons, Police Station Shankargarh, District Prayagraj .

16. Further case of the respondents in counter affidavit is that Sri Bhulli Maharaj S/o Hari Kishore Awasthi proprietor of M/s Bhulli Maharaj died on 09.07.2005. Thus, after the death of sole proprietor, the firm ceased to exist.

17. In suit bearing Original Suit No.417 of 1997 (Bhulli Maharaj & Sons and Another Vs. State of U.P. and Others) after death of Bhulli Maharaj, two persons namely, Rameshwar Dutt Awasthi and Dr. Ganesh Dutt Awasthi, both sons of Late Bhulli Maharaj had moved substitution application and their names have been substituted in place of Bhulli Maharaj in the aforesaid suit.

18. There is no declaration by any competent Court of law declaring the petitioner, namely, Rameshwar Dutt Awasthi as the sole proprietor of the firm namely, M/s Bhulli Maharaj & Sons, in whose favour the mining lease was granted. It is stated that petitioner has nowhere disclosed in the writ petition as to how he became the only proprietor and his brother Dr. Ganesh Dutt Awasthi has not declared successor of M/s Bhulli Maharaj & Sons.

19. On 10.02.2015, the Central Government issued a notification notifying Silica Sand along with some other minerals as minor mineral. It is stated that after declaration of Silica Sand as minor mineral, the provision of Section 14 of the Act, 1957 came into play, and the provisions of Sections 5 to 13 of the Act, 1957, inclusive of Section 8 and Section 8A are not applicable with respect to Silica Sand.

20. The State Government by exercising powers under Section 15 of the Act, 1957, amended the provisions of Rules 1963 and added a new Chapter IX in Rules, 1963 vide U.P. Minor Mineral (Concession) (Fourteen Amendment) Rules, 2016 dated 29.06.2016 providing procedure for grant of mining lease of Silica Sand besides other minerals notified by the Central Government vide Notification dated 10.02.2015.

21. There is no provision for second renewal of mining lease under Chapter IX of Rules, 1963. It is stated that the order dated 26.04.2017 has been passed in view of the rules and procedure applicable on the date of decision of the writ petition of petitioner. It is also averred that the grounds taken by the petitioner are wholly misconceived and are not tenable in the eye of law, therefore, the writ petition lacks merit and does not warrant any interference by this Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

22. Challenging the impugned order, learned counsel for the petitioner has submitted that after incorporation of Section 8A in the Act, 1957, the power of renewal of lease of the State Government has been done away with, therefore, the State Government has no power either to reject or accept the application for renewal of lease w.e.f. 12.01.2015 i.e. the date of incorporation of Section 8A in the Act, 1957.

23. It is further contended that by virtue of operation of Section 8A, the petitioner's lease stood extended for 50 years from 1979, and therefore, the respondent no.2 has wrongly treated the case of the petitioner for renewal of lease deed. He further contends that petitioner's right to extension of lease deed is not precluded by Section 8A (9) of the Amendment Act, 2015.

24. It is lastly urged that impugned order is colourable exercise of power by the State Government which is contrary to the statute.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioner in support of his argument has relied upon the following judgements:-

(i). Common Cause Vs. Union of India and Others (2016) 11 SCC 455;

(ii). V.S. Charati Vs. Hussein Nhanu Jamadar (Dead) By LRS. (1999) 1 SCC 273;

(iii). National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India Ltd. and Another Vs. Union of India and Others (2003) 5 SCC 23;

(iv). Neelima Srivastava Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh and Others (2021) 17 SCC 693;

(v). State of Tamil Nadu Vs. State of Kerala and Another (2014) 12 SCC 696;

(vi). M.P. Housing and Infrastructure Development Board and Another Vs. K.P. Dwivedi (2022) 3 SCC 783.

26. Rebutting the aforesaid contention, learned Chief Standing Counsel-II has contended that in the earlier Writ-C No.52665 of 2016, this Court has categorically held that after the Silica Sand has been declared minor mineral, its mining operation would be covered under the provisions of Rules, 1963, and in case petitioner intends to carry out mining of minor mineral, then he will have to abide by the terms and conditions provided under Rules, 1963.

27. He contends that Section 4 of the Act, 1957 provides that no person can undertake mining operations in any area except in accordance with terms and conditions of mining lease granted under the Act and Rules made thereunder.

28. He further contends that Rule 3 of Rules, 1963 provides that mining operations should be under mining lease or mining permit granted under the Rules. It is submitted that since this Court has categorically held in the earlier writ petition that the petitioner in order to carry out mining operation of minor minerals has to fall in line with terms and conditions of Rules, 1963, therefore, it is manifest that this Court has not concluded that even if Rules, 1963 does not permit the second renewal of lease or extension of lease, the petitioner is entitled to get it.

29. It is submitted that operative portion of the order passed by this Court in the earlier writ petition of the petitioner clearly discloses the intention of the Court that the Court has left the matter for the authorities to deal with the application of petitioner as per Rules, 1963, and in such view of the fact, the respondent no.2 has not committed any illegality in rejecting the application of petitioner as second renewal of lease of Silica Sand is not permissible under Rules, 1963.

30. He further submits that it is the case of the petitioner that his lease is covered under Section 8A(6) of the Act, 1957. He submits that to take the benefit of Section 8A(6), petitioner has to comply with all the terms and conditions of lease deed. It is contended that petitioner had not complied with all terms and conditions of the lease in order to avail the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Act, 1957.

31. He further contends that petitioner was supposed to have an Environment Clearance Certificate in view of the notification of the year 1994 issued by the Government of India for running mining lease of major mineral, but the petitioner did not have any Environment Clearance Certificate due to which, the petitioner was stopped from carrying mining operation in the year 2011, therefore, petitioner□s mining lease was not operational on the date of induction of Section 8A in the Act, 1957 by the Amendment Act, 2015.

32. He further contends that the petitioner□s application dated 12.06.1998 for renewal of lease deed was not valid because petitioner did not enclose the mining plan as per Rules, 1960 applicable on the major minerals along with the application.

33. To buttress the said contention, he submits that second renewal application under Rules, 1960 was required to be submitted in Form-J. He submits that as per Serial X (c) of Form-J, the mining plan was also not enclosed. Accordingly, he contends that Section 8A(6) is not attracted in the case of petitioner and thus, he could not be granted the benefit of deemed extension on account of pendency of renewal application as per Section 8A(6).

34. He further contends that the petitioner has based his claim on Rule 24A (6) which was incorporated in Rules, 1960 by the Mineral Concession (Second Amendment) Rules, 1994 by Notification dated 27.09.1994. He submits that the benefit of Rule 24A (6) was applicable in case of first renewal application and not applicable in case of second renewal application as has been held by the Apex Court in the case of Goa Foundation Vs. Union of India and Others (2014) 6 SCC 590.

35. He submits that that the petitioner□s argument regarding deemed extension is based on Section 8(3) of the Act, 1957, and for availing the benefit of said section, the primary condition is that there has to be an order passed by the State Government recording specific finding that renewal is necessary in the interest of mineral development. He submits that unless such condition is complied with, there could not be any second renewal. Accordingly, he submits that interpretation of rule should be in consonance and in harmony with the Act, 1957 and therefore, if petitioner is extended the benefit of Rule 24A for the purpose of second renewal, such benefit would be contrary to the intent of legislature as provided under Section 8A(6) of the Act, 1957.

36. He contends that the finding of this Court in the earlier writ petition of the petitioner regarding benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015 to the petitioner is contrary to the intent of legislature and the case of Goa Foundation (supra), and therefore, is not binding upon the authority.

37. He further contends that it is settled in law that once the policy is changed by the Government, then all the leases have to be granted as per new policy i.e. through e-tender-cum-e-auction, therefore, petitioner□s claim regarding deemed extension on the basis of pendency of renewal application cannot be considered.

38. We have considered the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

39. The undisputed facts as emanates from the record are that the petitioner was granted lease for mining of Silica Sand mineral over an area of 47.06 hectare in Village Janwa, Tehsil Bara, District Allahabad for a period from 16.06.1979 to 15.06.1989.

40. The petitioner, thereafter, was granted first renewal under Section 8(2) of the Act, 1957 read with Rule 24A (1) of the Rules, 1960 for a term of ten years vide Government Order dated 23.04.1991. The lease deed regarding first renewal was executed on 13.12.1993.

41. Before expiry of first renewal, the petitioner applied for second renewal under Section 8(3) of the Act, 1957 for a period of twenty years. The mining of the petitioner was closed for want of Environment Clearance Certificate vide notice dated 18.06.2011. The petitioner obtained forest clearance on 03.09.2012.

42. The Mining Officer, Allahabad issued No Dues Certificate on 31.10.2013. The Additional District Magistrate (Administration), Allahabad recommended the renewal of mining lease for a term of twenty years on 12.11.2013. The mining plan of the petitioner was approved on 16.07.2015. In the meantime, Section 8A was inducted in the Act, 1957 by the Amendment Act, 2015. When the lease of the petitioner was not extended, the petitioner approached this Court by filing Writ-C No.52665 of 2016 (Rameshwar Dutt Awasthi Vs. State of U.P. and Others) with the prayer extracted above.

43. The Coordinate Bench of this Court in the aforesaid writ petition has recorded following finding with regard to grant of benefit of Section 8A (6) to the petitioner:-

"Consequently, in the facts of the case, the fact of the matter is that second renewal application moved on 12.6.1998 at no point of time the said application in question has been rejected, nor the lease in question has been determined, nor the lease in question has lapsed and, accordingly, once the regime of renewal has been replaced by introducing the provisions of deemed extension of lease period, the petitioner is entitled for the benefit of the statutory provisions as contained under Section 8A (6) of the MMDR Amendment Act, 2015.

Apex Court in the case of Sulekhan Singh & Company and others Vs. State of U.P. and others, 2016 (2) AWC 1102 (SC), has clarified the legal position that merely because a renewal application has been moved an incumbent has no vested right to get its renewed. Here, in the present case, the fact of the matter is that it is true that renewal application has been moved but the fact of the matter is that said renewal application has been pending and during pendency of the same the Central Government has come up with the statutory provisions in the shape of Section 8A in the MMDR Amendment Act, 2015 for extending the life span of the lease in question subject to fulfillment of the other terms and conditions as provided for.

There is difference between the extension of lease and renewal of lease. The difference in between two expression has been subject matter of interpretation before the Apex Court in the case of Gajraj Singh Etc. Vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal, 1997 (1) SCC 650, wherein Apex Court mentioned that grant of renewal is a fresh grant though it breaths life into the operation of previous lease. In the case of extension the same lease continues in force during additional period by the performance of stipulated act. Said view has been reiterated with approval in the case of State of Gujarat Vs. Nirmla Ben S. Mehta, 2016 JT (6) 508. Viewed from this perspective, under the scheme of things provided for the power of State Government to grant or refuse renewal has been done away with in respect of minerals other than those specified in Part A and Part B of the First Schedule under Section 8A of the 2015 Act and, thereafter, on the expiry of lease period the lease would be put up for auction as per the procedure specified in the Act. Section 8A (5) and 8A (6) of the 2015 Act uses categorical expression "shall be extended, shall be deemed to have been extended". The effect and impact of deeming provision has been subject matter of consideration by the Apex Court in the case of Bhavnagar University Vs. Palitana Sugar Mill and others, 2003 (2) SCC 111, wherein Apex Court has followed the judgement in the case of East End Dwellings Co. Ltd. Vs. Finsbury Borough Council, 1951 (2) All England Reports 587, as under;

"If you are bidden to treat an imaginary state of affairs as real, you must surely, unless prohibited from doing so, also imagine as real the consequences and incidents which, if the putative state of affairs had in fact existed, must inevitably have flowed from or accompanied it."

There is no reason for us not to extend the said benefit to the petitioner on the strength of the statutory provisions introduced through Section 8A (6) of the 2015 Act and the claim of petitioner would be covered by the same and petitioner's lease would be deemed to have been extended subject to the condition that all the terms and conditions of lease have been complied with. The further larger issue that is engaging our attention as on date is that with the passage of time when the claim of petitioner is being considered by us there are subsequent developments, that have so taken place, and what would be its impact in carrying out mining activity is a further issue to be considered by us."

44. The Coordinate Bench of this Court in the aforesaid writ petition has held that after Silica Sand has been declared minor mineral, the petitioner in order to carry out the mining operations of the said mineral has to abide the terms and conditions provided in Rules, 1963 to carry out the mining operations. The relevant extract of the judgement is reproduced herein-below:-

"Earlier silica sand was a major mineral and same was covered by the provisions of 1957 Act read with the provisions of 1960 Rules but after notification dated 10.2.2015 has been made by the Central Government, same has been declared as a minor mineral and as of now the silica sand being declared as minor mineral its mining operation would be covered by the provisions of 1963 Rules and under the 1963 Rules, that have been so framed, in case petitioner intends to carry out mining operations pertaining to minor mineral, then he will have to abide by the terms and conditions provided for under 1963 Rules. Section 4 of MMDR Act provides for that no person can undertake mining operations in any area, except under and in accordance with the terms and conditions of mining lease granted under the Act and the Rules made thereunder. Rule 3 of the 1963 Rules clearly provides that mining operations should be under mining lease or mining permit granted under these rules. For ready reference Rule 3 is extracted below:-

"Mining operations to be under a mining lease or mining permit- (1) No person shall undertake any mining operations in any area within the State of any minor minerals to which these rules are applicable except under and in accordance with the terms and conditions of a mining lease or mining permit granted under these rules:

Provided that nothing shall affect any operations undertaken in accordance with the terms and conditions of mining lease or permit duly granted before the commencement of these rules.

Explanation:- For the purposes of this rule manual digging or manual extraction of ordinary clay, ordinary earth for making bricks and pottery shall not be treated as mining operations;

Provided that pit created by such digging or extraction should not be deeper than two meters.

(2) No mining lease or mining permit shall be granted otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of these rules."

A bare perusal of Rule 3 would go to show that no person should undertake any mining operations in any area within the State of any minor minerals to which these rules are applicable except under and in accordance with the terms and conditions of a mining lease or mining permit granted under these rules and the proviso in question only exempts such mining operations wherein mining lease or permit has been granted before the commencement of these rules. Once in exercise of authority conferred under Clause (e) of Section 3 of 1957 Act the Central Government has declared silica sand as a minor mineral, then in consonance with the Rule 3 of 1963 Rules the petitioner can carry out mining operations of minor minerals only in consonance with the rules in question, then in view of this fact it may be true that the lease period of petitioner would stand extended by operation of law under Section 8A (6) for winning minerals other than those specified in Part A and Part B of the First Schedule subject to fulfillment of other terms and conditions but once with the passage of time in exercise of statutory power a major mineral has been declared as minor mineral and petitioner, as on date, is interested in carrying out mining activity of minor mineral, then he will have to fall in line in consonance with the provisions of 1963 Rules. Chapter

IX has been introduced in 1963 Rules by means of amendment named as the U.P. Minor Mineral (Concession) (Fourteenth Amendment) Rules, 2016 wherein the provisions of said Chapter has been made applicable in reference of silica sand also notified by Central Government as minor mineral.

Once Central Government consciously in exercise of its statutory power has placed silica sand in the category of minor mineral under Clause (e) of Section 3 of 1957 Act and power to make rules in that regard is vested by Section 15 (1) in the State Government while power to make rules with respect to minerals as defined by Clause (a) of Section 3 is vested by Section 13 (1) in the Central Government and Section 14 clearly provides that Section 13 will not apply to quarry leases, mining leases or other mineral concessions in respect of minor mineral, then net effect of the same is that silica sand being declared as a minor mineral, its mining activity will have to be in consonance with the 1963 Rules. The new state of affairs which have been brought into existence by declaration made under clause (e) of Section 3 of 1957 Act has to be given its full effect and no rider or exception can be read in the same. Old lease of petitioner would require modification, as on date, as there is no such provision on the line of Section 16 of 1957 Act available that permitted modification of lease granted before 25.10.1949 and gave breathing time to holders of mining leases to bring the said lease in line with the provisions of 1957 Act and the Rules framed thereunder within two years from the period specified therein and during the said interregnum period, the period of such lease was permitted to continue to operate. Once there is no such provision which enables the term of existing lease to be altered, then as already deliberated above, even though petitioner's claim would fall within the parameter of Section 8A (6) of 1957 Act but as the lease accorded in his favour has been for mineral as specified under 1960 Rules and as of now Central Government has consciously included said mineral in the category of minor mineral and thus necessarily by operation of law governance of said mineral has to be one under 1963 Rules, then the provisions of 1957 Act and 1963 Rules cannot be permitted to be ignored."

45. At this stage, it would be apposite to reproduce Section 8A of the Amendment Act, 2015:-

"8A. Period of grant of a mining lease for minerals other than coal, lignite and atomic minerals.- (1) The provisions of this section shall apply to minerals other than those specified in Part A and Part B of the First Schedule.

(2) On and from the date of the commencement of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2015, all mining leases shall be granted for the period of fifty years.

(3) All mining leases granted before the commencement of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2015 shall be deemed to have been granted for a period of fifty years.

(4) On the expiry of the lease period, the lease shall be put up for auction as per the procedure specified in this Act.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (2), (3) and sub-section (4), the period of lease granted before the date of commencement of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2015, where mineral is used for captive purpose, shall be extended and be deemed to have been extended up to a period ending on the 31st March, 2030 with effect from the date of expiry of the period of renewal last made or till the completion of renewal period, if any, or a period of fifty years from the date of grant of such lease, whichever is later, subject to the condition that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (2), (3) and sub-section (4), the period of lease granted before the date of commencement of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2015, where mineral is used for other than captive purpose, shall be extended and be deemed to have been extended up to a period ending on the 31st March, 2020 with effect from the date of expiry of the period of renewal last made or till the completion of renewal period, if any, or a period of fifty years from the date of grant of such lease, whichever is later, subject to the condition that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with.

(7) Any holder of a lease granted, where mineral is used for captive purpose, shall have the right of first refusal at the time of auction held for such lease after the expiry of the lease period.

(8) Notwithstanding anything contained in this section, the period of mining leases, including existing mining leases, of Government companies or corporations shall be such as may be prescribed by the Central Government.

(9) The provisions of this section, notwithstanding anything contained therein, shall not apply to a mining lease granted before the date of commencement of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Amendment Act, 2015, for which renewal has been rejected, or which has been determined, or lapsed."

46. The petitioner claims that since the second renewal application of mining lease was submitted by the petitioner twelve months before the date on which the lease was due to expire, therefore, he is entitled to the benefit of Section 8A (6) of the Amendment Act, 2015.

47. This Court while deciding the earlier writ petition of the petitioner has recorded that second renewal application was filed by the petitioner on 12.06.1998 and at no point of time, the said application has been rejected nor the lease of the petitioner has been determined nor the lease of the petitioner has lapsed, and once the legitimate renewal has been replaced by inducting the proviso of deemed extension of lease period, the petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015, but at the same time this Court has also recorded on the internal page-25 of the earlier judgement that "the claim of the petitioner would be covered by the same and petitioner's lease would be deemed to have been extended subject to condition that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with".

48. So it is manifest from the aforesaid quoted portion of the earlier judgement of this Court that the petitioner's lease would be deemed to be extended subject to the condition that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied by him.

49. The petitioner submitted application for second renewal of lease deed on 12.06.1998 under Rule 24A of the Rules, 1960. Rule 24A(1) requires the applicant to submit an application for renewal in Form-J. Rule 24A of the Rules, 1960 is reproduced herein-below:

"24-A. Renewal of mining lease-(1) An application for the renewal of a mining lease shall be made to the State Government in Form J, at least twelve months before the date on which the lease in due to expire, through such officer or authority as the State Government may specify in this behalf.

(2). The renewal or renewals of a mining lease granted in respect of a mineral specified in Part 'A' and Part 'B' of the First Schedule to the Act may be granted by the State Government with the previous approval of the Central Government.

(3). The renewal or renewals of a mining lease granted in respect of a mineral not specified in Part 'A' and Part 'B' of the First Schedule to the Act may be granted by the State Government:

Provided that before granting approval for second or subsequent renewal of a mining lease, the State Government shall seek a report from the Controller General, Indian Bureau of Mines, as to whether it would be in the interest of mineral development to grant the renewal of the mining lease:

Provided further that in case a report is not received from Controller General, Indian Bureau of Mines in a period of three months of receipt of the communication from the State Government, it would be deemed that the Indian Bureau of Mines has no adverse comments to offer regarding the grant of the renewal of mining lease.

(6) If an application for first renewal of a mining lease made within the time referred to in sub-rule (1) is not disposed of by the State Government before the date of expiry of the lease, the period of that lease shall be deemed to have been extended by a further period of two years or till the State Government passes order thereon, whichever is earlier.

Provided that the leases where applications for first renewal of mining lease have been made to the State Government and which have not been disposed of by the State Government before the date of expiry of lease and are pending for disposal as on the date of the notification of this amendment, shall be deemed to have been extended by a further period of two years from the date of coming into force of this amendment or till the State Government passes order thereon or the date of expiry of the maximum period allowed for first renewal, whichever is the earliest:

Provided further that the provisions of this sub-rule shall not apply to renewal under sub-section (3) of section 8 of the Mines and Minerals (Development and Regulation) Act, 1957 (67 of 1957).

(8). Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-rule (1) and sub-rule (6) and application for the first renewal of a mining lease, so declared under the provisions of Section 4 of the Goa, Daman and Diu Mining Concession (Abolition and Declaration as Mining Lease) Act, 1987, shall be made to the State Government in Form J before the expiry of the period of mining lease in terms of sub-section (1) of Section 5 of the said Act, through such officer or authority as the State Government may specify in this behalf:

Provided that the State Government may, for reasons to be recorded in writing and subject to such conditions as it may think fit, allow extension of time for making of such application upto a total period not exceeding one year.

(9). If an application for first renewal made within the time referred to in sub-rule (8) or within the time allowed by the State Government under the proviso to sub-rule (8), the period of that lease shall be deemed to have been extended by a further period till the State Government passes orders thereon or the date of expiry of the maximum period allowed for first renewal, whichever is earlier.

(10). The State Government may condone delay in an application for renewal of mining lease made after the time limit prescribed in sub-rule (1) provided the application has been made before the expiry of the lease."

50. This Court in the earlier judgement did not deal with the issue as to whether the petitioner complied with the terms and conditions of the lease so as to avail the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015. However, this Court recorded a categorical finding that the said benefit is available to the petitioner if he complies with the terms and conditions of the lease deed.

51. The lease of the petitioner was up to 15.06.1999. The petitioner after expiry of term of lease deed on 15.06.1999 continued to do mining upto 18.06.2011 by taking advantage of Rule 24A (6) of the Rules, 1960 up till 18.06.2011, when he was issued notice by the Mining Officer to stop mining for want of Environment Clearance Certificate. So, the petitioner after the lapse of his lease continued mining without the Environment Clearance Certificate.

52. At this stage, it is also relevant to scrutinize whether the application filed by the petitioner for second renewal was a valid application in the eyes of law. This question goes to the root of the matter to find out whether based on such renewal application, petitioner could be granted benefit of Section 8A (6) of the Amendment Act, 2015.

53. The application for renewal under Rule 24A(1) of Rules, 1960 is to be submitted in Form-J. Clause-2 (7) of Form-J requires □number and date□ of the valid clearance certificate of payment of mining dues.

54. Several information which the petitioner was supposed to submit while submitting application in Form-J were not supplied by the petitioner which is evident from the following column of Form-J submitted by the petitioner:-

	land reclamation, use of pollution control devices.

55. The aforesaid fact discloses that on the date of submitting renewal application, certain necessary information which the petitioner was required to submit while filing the application for second renewal was not supplied. The second renewal application of the petitioner was not complete in all respects on which the authority could proceed to consider to grant the second renewal.

56. As per own case of the petitioner, the petitioner obtained'No Dues Certificate' on 31.10.2013. The petitioner got the mining plan approved on 16.07.2015 and the Environment Clearance Certificate was granted to the petitioner on 06.01.2016.

57. The aforementioned necessary documents required at Serial No.2 (vii) and 4 (xc) which the petitioner was supposed to supply with Form-J at the time of submission of form on 12.06.1998 but were not supplied. The pleading in the writ petition is silent to the effect that the petitioner had made any effort to provide aforesaid documents immediately so as to complete his renewal application in all respects to enable the authorities to consider the renewal application nor there is any pleading in the writ petition explaining the reasons for the inordinate delay of 16 years in filing the aforesaid documents. Therefore, it can be presumed that the petitioner did not make any effort to provide the aforesaid information/documents so as to complete his second renewal application in all respects for about more than 16 years.

58. Section 8A has been inducted in the Act, 1957 by Amendment Act, 2015 w.e.f. 12.01.2015 when the Ordinance was published in the Official Gazette on 12.01.2015 and was replaced by Amendment Act, 2015 vide Notification dated 27.03.2015.

59. In the case of Goa Foundation (supra), the Apex Court has categorically held that Rule 24 A(6) is applicable to first renewal and not to second renewal. The Apex Court further held that sub-rule (6) of Rule 24A of Rules, 1960 cannot be applied to second renewal under sub section (3) of Section 8 of the Act, 1957 inasmuch as renewal under sub section (3) of Section 8 requires the State Government to record specific reason that renewal is in the interest of mineral development. Paragraph no. 28 of the said judgement is reproduced herein below:-

"28. The MC Rules have been made under Section 13 of the MMDR Act by the Central Government and obviously could not have been made in a manner inconsistent with the provisions of the Act. Sub-rule (6) of Rule 24A of the MC Rules provides that

"24-A. (6) If an application for the renewal of a mining lease made within the time referred to in sub-rule (1) is not disposed of by the State Government before the date of expiry of the lease, the period of that lease shall be deemed to have been extended by a further period till the State Government passes order thereon."

This sub-rule cannot apply to a renewal under sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the MMDR Act because the renewal under this provision cannot be made without express orders of the State Government recording reasons for renewal in the interest of mineral development. In other words, so long as there is a right of renewal in the lessee which in the case of a mining lease is for a maximum period of twenty years, the provision regarding deemed extension of a lease can operate, but if the right of renewal of a mining lease is dependent upon the State Government forming an opinion that in the interest of mineral development it is necessary to do so and the State Government recording reasons therefor, a provision regarding deemed extension till orders are passed by the State Government on the application of renewal cannot apply. We are, therefore, of the opinion that sub-rule (6) of Rule 24-A of the MC Rules will apply to a case of first renewal under sub-section (2) of Section 8 of the MMDR Act other than a case covered under sub-rule (9) of Rule 24-A of the MC Rules, but will not apply to renewal under sub-section (3) of Section 8 of the MMDR Act. In our view, the deemed mining leases of the lessees in Goa expired on 22.11.1987 under sub-section (1) of Section 5 of the Abolition Act and the maximum of 20 years renewal period of the deemed mining leases in Goa as provided in sub-section (2) of Section 8 of the MMDR Act read with sub-rules (8) and (9) of Rule 24-A of the MC Rules expired on 22.11.2007."

60. So the continuance of mining operation by the petitioner under the shelter of Rule 24A(6) was illegal in view of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Goa Foundation (supra) which categorically held that Rule 24A (6) is not applicable in case of second renewal.

61. Even in the case of Common Cause (supra), the Apex Court in paragraph no.16 has held that in case of second and subsequent renewal, the amended Rule 24A (6) would not extend the lease period. Paragraph no.16 of the said judgement is reproduced herein-below:-

"16. One clarification is imperative at this stage. After the passing of the order on 21.4.2014, in the Goa Foundation case, subsisting"first renewals" under Rule 24-A would expire on the completion of a further period of twenty years after the expiry of the period contemplated under the original grant, or as interpreted above. There was no similar automatic grant of "second renewals" after Goa Foundation case. Therefore, for all intents and purposes, the conclusion recorded hereinabove should be deemed to be relevant only with reference to the grant of "first renewals". It is necessary to reiterate that in Goa Foundation case, this Court had held that second renewals would be subject to an order passed by the State Government recording reasons that it was in the interest of mineral development to do so. Needless to mention that a second or subsequent renewal also required the previous approval of the Central Government -as provided for under Section 8(4) of the MMDR Act. The amendment to Rule 24-A made on 18.7.2014, more particularly, the second proviso to sub-rule (6) leaves no room for any doubt that the automatic extension postulated with reference to the first renewal would not apply to the second or subsequent renewals. It is therefore necessary to further conclude that in cases of second and subsequent renewals, the amended Rule 24A(6) would not extend the lease period for a further period of two years from the date of amendment. Therefore, for all intents and purposes, in relation to renewal sought under Section 8(3) of the MMDR Act (read with Rule 24-A(6) of the Mineral Concession Rules amended on 18.7.2014), all second renewals which were assumed to be subsisting by State Governments would expire with effect from the date of the judgment in Goa Foundation case i.e. 21.4.2014, and expressly, with effect from 18.7.2014 when the second proviso to Rule 24-A(6) provided accordingly. Unless of course, the Government had passed an express order in writing as mandated under Section 8(3) of the MMDR Act, extending the subsisting mining lease by a second or subsequent renewal."

62. However, the Apex Court in the case of Common Cause (supra) saved the leaseholders who applied for second renewal and no renewal order was passed on their application and they continued to do mining by taking advantage of Rule 24A (6) of Rules, 1960 after noticing the object of induction of Rule 8A in the Act, 1957.

63. By accepting the contention of leaseholders that term □renewal has been rejected□ □on determination□ and □lapse□ used in Section 8A (9) are the terms used for different contingencies/situations/exigencies under the Act, 1957 and Rules, 1960. The Apex Court repelled the contention of the petitioner in the said case that Section 8A(9) can be legitimate basis for excluding the applicability of Section 8A where the period of lease of renewal had expired prior to 12.01.2015.

64. In the context of the present case, it would also be relevant to reproduce para-29, 30 & 31 of the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Common Cause (supra):-

"29. From a perusal of the extract reproduced above, it is apparent that the insertion of Section 8-A into the MMDR Act was to address the hardship faced by leaseholders, besides other reasons, due to the second and subsequent applications for renewal remaining unattended at the hands of the State Government. The instant amendment to the MMDR Act introduced a uniform original grant period of fifty years for all mining leaseholders. It also excluded renewal(s) after the expiry of the original lease period. Accordingly, no renewal application can now be filed (after 12.1.2015). Under sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 8-A, in our view such leaseholders, who had moved applications for renewal of captive/non-captive mines would be entitled to continue up to 31.3.2030/31.3.2020. The "Objects and Reasons" for the amendment to the MMDR Act aim at remedying the position which emerged upon the interpretation of the provisions of the MMDR Act as they existed hitherto before. The instant amendment was also directed at remedying the grievances of the mining industry due to □second and subsequent renewals□ remaining pending. And also, because the provisions of law relating to renewals had been found to be wanting. The above view is also endorsed by the fact that Section 8-A(9) deals with a situation wherein " renewal has been rejected...". It is therefore apparent that sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act are aimed at situations wherein an application for renewal (validly made) has remained unattended. Therefore, for no fault of the leaseholder he would be subjected to an arbitrary prejudice. It needs to be clarified that since an application for renewal cannot be filed after 12.1.2015, an application for renewal as would be treated as having been validly made, ought to have been made before 12.1.2015. We are of the view that out of the three contingencies contemplated under Sections 8-A(5) and 8-A(6) referred to above the first of the contingencies positively pertains to a situation wherein applications validly made for renewal were pending without any final decision at the hands of the State Government. Because in the absence of a renewal application, the leaseholder can be taken to have already expressed his disinterest to continue mining operations. Therefore logically, the words □□ with effect from the date of expiry of the period of renewal last made□□, should relate to an expired lease prior to 12.1.2015 in relation to which a valid application for renewal had already been made.

30. We also feel persuaded in accepting the contention advanced at the hands of learned counsel representing the leaseholders that the words " with effect from the date of expiry of the period of renewal last made..." cannot be overlooked. In our considered view, there is no ambiguity in the aforesaid words. The plain reading of the quoted words can lead to one and only one inference, namely, that the situation contemplated under sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act (wherein both the above words have been used), includes a situation when the lease period contemplated by a renewal is scheduled to expire before 31.3.2030/31.3.2020. We are satisfied in clarifying that the situation contemplated by the use of the aforesaid words would extend to a leaseholder who had moved a valid application for renewal to the State Government which was yet to be considered and disposed of prior to 12.1.2015. The instant situation is not excluded by the contingencies contemplated under Section 8-A(9) of the amended MMDR Act. For the reasons recorded in the instant paragraph, as also, in the preceding paragraphs (wherein Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act has been considered and interpreted), we are satisfied to hold that the applicability of Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act need not only extend to leaseholders whose original lease/renewal lease period had not expired but would also extend to leaseholders whose term of lease/renewal had expired prior to 12.1.2015 and the leaseholder(s) concerned had moved a valid application for renewal at least twelve months before the leaseholder's existing lease (original, first, second or subsequent) was due to expire, and whose application has not been considered and rejected.

31. Irrespective of the position noticed herein above, it is imperative for us to clarify that the benefit of extension of the lease period postulated under Section 8-A of the MMDR Act is available, subject to a further overriding condition, namely, " that all the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with". A leaseholder who does not satisfy any of the required conditions of the lease, as for instance the postulated clearances/approvals/consent would not be entitled to the benefits extended under sub-section (5) or (6) of Section 8-A of the amended MMDR Act."

65. The Apex Court in the paragraphs, reproduced above, in Common Cause (supra) has categorically held that the application for renewal of lease must be a valid application. So the benefit of Section 8A(6) can be extended to the petitioner if the application of the petitioner for renewal was valid.

66. In the instant case, we have already noted above that information required in the column in Form-J was not supplied by the petitioner at the time of filing application for renewal of lease. Rule 24A(1) of Rules, 1960 requires application for renewal to be filed at least twelve months before the date on which the lease is due to expire. The Rule does not contemplate an application to be valid even if it does not contain all the information sought in the said application.

67. In our opinion, under Rule 24A(1), the object for providing the time frame of twelve months for filing the application for renewal of lease before it was due to expire is that the competent authority should have sufficient time to process the application for renewal in accordance with the procedure provided under Rules, 1960, so that appropriate order is passed on the renewal application, and if the decision is taken by the Central Government to renew the lease under Section 8A(3) of the Amendment Act, 2015, it should be done within time in order to avoid the break in continuity of lease, so that the leaseholders may not suffer any loss, and at the same time, the State should also not suffer any loss of revenue.

68. It is also pertinent to note that the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015 can be provided to the leaseholder if he did not breach the terms and conditions of lease.

69. The Coordinate Bench of this Court in the earlier writ petition of the petitioner though has held that the rider contemplated under Section Section 8A(9) of the Amendment Act, 2015 will not come in the way of petitioner in getting the benefit of Section 8A(6), but the Coordinate Bench has categorically held that petitioner will get the benefit of Section 8A(6) of Amendment Act, 2015 provided the petitioner has not committed breach of any terms and conditions of lease.

70. So the Coordinate Bench of this Court in the earlier judgement has not given the absolute benefit of Section 8A(6) to the petitioner, and mandated that lease of the petitioner is extended for 50 years under Section 8A(6) rather Coordinate Bench of this Court put a rider that petitioner shall be entitled to benefit of Section 8A(6) provided the terms and conditions of the lease has not been breached.

71. In the present case, admittedly, the lease of the petitioner had expired on 15.06.1999. Thereafter, no lease deed was in existence. In such situation, it cannot be ascertained whether petitioner has violated any terms and conditions of the lease.

72. In a situation where lease deed has expired and an application had been submitted for renewal of lease deed, and there is no lease deed in existence, but the petitioner continued to carry out mining operation without any lease, in such situation, the Court is supposed to lift the veil and find out the true intention of the legislature in incorporating the words “all the terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with”.

73. In our opinion, the above mentioned words in Section 8A(6) have been incorporated with an intention that where renewal application has been submitted and an order is yet to be passed, the mining operation should be carried out after complying with all the relevant provisions of the Act and Rules, and if there is non-compliance of any rule or provision of the Act, it implies that all the terms and conditions of the lease deed have not been complied with.

74. The reason why we say so is that the lease deed incorporates all the requirements of law on fulfilling of which the mining operation can be carried out, and if there is no lease deed in existence then obviously, the intention of the legislature is that the mining operation should be conducted as per law.

75. Even in the case of Common Cause (supra), the Apex Court has held that benefit of Section 8A(6) can be extended to those leaseholders whose applications have been found valid.

76. The valid application means that the application should conform with all the requirements of law, and if it is not in conformity with law, such application cannot be said to a valid application in law.

77. Now, we proceed to analyze in the light of aforesaid fact whether the petitioner has complied with the aforesaid requirement for availing the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015.

78. While submitting Form-J, the petitioner did not obtain the mining plan. The petitioner neither submitted 'No Dues Certificate' nor mining plan. Admittedly, 'No Dues Certificate' was submitted by the petitioner on 31.10.2013 and the mining plan was approved on 16.07.2015.

79. The petitioner filed his renewal application on 15.06.1998, and the petitioner continued the mining operation without having a valid mining plan about 13 years, whereas it was incumbent upon the petitioner to submit mining plan along with an application in Form-J for renewal of lease by 15.06.1998.

80. The petitioner obtained the mining plan on 16.07.2015. Section 8A has been promulgated by the Ordinance dated 12.01.2015 which was later on replaced by an Act vide notification dated 27.01.2015. So, the application of the petitioner was defective and not as per law till 16.07.2015 when the mining plan was approved. Therefore, in the absence of valid application of renewal submitted by the petitioner for renewal of lease, there was no occasion for the authority to consider and process such application till it is complete in all respect.

81. In view of the categorical finding of the Apex Court in the case of Common Cause (supra) in paragraph no.30, extracted above, the renewal application should be a valid application whereas the petitioner's application by any stretch of imagination in view of the aforesaid fact can be said to be a valid application.

82. Further, the petitioner carried out mining operations without mining plan after expiry of lease deed on 15.06.1999 which clearly implies that petitioner did not fulfill the requirements under Section 8A(6) of Amendment Act, 2015 that the leaseholder has to comply with all the terms and conditions of the lease.

83. It is one of the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner that once this Court in earlier writ petition of the petitioner has held that petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) even if the said finding is incorrect, that shall be binding upon the parties as the earlier judgement in writ petition of petitioner has not been assailed by the respondents and same has attained finality, therefore, it is not open to the respondents to contend that petitioner is not entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6), and in this respect, he has placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of V.S. Charati (supra). Paragraph no.9 of the said judgement is reproduced herein below:-

"9. It is submitted by the respondent that the Agricultural Lands Tribunal was not right in dropping proceedings under Section 32-G. Its order of 31.5.1961 is bad in law. He relied upon a decision of the Bombay High Court in the case of Nago Dattu Mahajan Vs. Yeshodabai Huna Mahajan (1976) 78 Bom LR 427 where this Court had held that under Section 31, the landlords have a choice to avail of one of the two provisions of resumption, namely, either Section 31(1) or Section 31(3). No landlord can avail of both the provisions. Learned counsel for the respondent, therefore, contends that in the present case, the appellant having exercised his choice under Section 31(1), could not have urged in the proceedings under Section 32-G his disability as a minor under Section 31(3). The order of 31.5.1961 of the Agricultural Lands Tribunal, however, was not challenged by the respondent. The order of 31.5.1961 has become final and the decision rendered by the Agricultural Lands Tribunal as between the appellant and the respondent is binding on both the parties. A decision, simply because it may be wrong, would not thereupon become a nullity. It would continue to bind the parties unless set aside. The effect of the decision of 31.5.1961 on the parties, therefore, cannot be ignored. In the present case, since the tenant could not complete his purchase by reason of the proceedings under Section 32-G being dropped, he cannot now contend that the decision has no legal effect or that the proceedings under Section 32-G ought to have been completed and, therefore, he should be looked upon as a purchaser."

84. There is no quarrel to the aforesaid proposition of law elucidated by the Apex Court in the aforesaid case.

85. In the case in hand, the aforesaid principle is not applicable inasmuch as in the earlier case of the petitioner, the Coordinate Bench has not given the absolute mandate that petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) rather this Court put a rider in the light of requirement of Section 8A(6) that petitioner is entitled to benefit of Section 8A(6) provided the terms and conditions of the lease have been complied with.

86. So the direction of granting benefit of Section 8A(6) was not absolute by the Coordinate Bench of this Court and the said finding has not attained finality as discretion is left to the authority to see whether terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with, and on compliance of said condition, the authorities are mandated to extend the benefit of Section 8A(6) and lease of the petitioner is deemed to be extended for 50 years.

87. We have interpreted the term □all the terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with□ and we have held that petitioner did not comply with all the conditions of the lease deed.

88. Even as per own case of the petitioner, the mining plan of the petitioner was approved on 16.07.2015 after about 18 years from the date of filing of application by the petitioner for renewal of lease and after about six months from the date Section 8A has been incorporated in the Act, 1957 by Amendment Act, 2015.

89. Thus, in view of the specific finding recorded by the Apex Court in paragraph no.30 of the judgement of Apex Court in the case of Common Cause (supra) that benefit of Section 8A(6) can be extended only if renewal application is valid whereas in the present case, we have already held above that renewal application submitted by the petitioner was not valid in the eyes of law. Thus, even as per the case of Common Cause (supra), the petitioner is not entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6).

90. For the reasons detailed above, we are of the view that principle of res-judicata as invoked by the learned counsel for the petitioner is not attracted in the present case for the reason that the findings of Coordinate Bench of this Court in the earlier judgement passed in earlier writ petition of the petitioner regarding extension of benefit of Section 8A(6) to the petitioner was conditional as it was subject to the condition that the petitioner fulfilled the terms and conditions of the lease deed.

91. Since, we have already held that earlier judgement of the Coordinate Bench of this Court in the case of petitioner was conditional as the petitioner is entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015 subject to the condition that all the terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with, therefore, the Court has granted liberty to the authorities to treat the lease deed of the petitioner deemed to be extended if terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with, therefore, this Court did not grant automatic extension of lease to petitioner.

92. In such view of the fact, the judgement of Apex Court in the case of National Agricultural Cooperative Marketing Federation of India Ltd. (supra) relied upon by the learned counsel for the petitioner wherein Apex Court held that a judicial decision which has become final inter parties cannot be set at naught by legislative action and the judgement of the Apex Court Court in the case of Neelima Srivastava (supra) wherein it has been laid down by the Apex Court that it is not permissible for the parties to reopen the concluded judgements of the Court, are not applicable in the facts of the present case.

93. It has also been urged by the learned counsel for the petitioner that by Amendment Act, 2015, the power of State Government to renew the lease has been done away with, and therefore, after commencement of Amendment Act, 2015, second renewal application stood exhausted, and the lease of the petitioner stands automatically extended by virtue of operation of law, thus, rejection of renewal application by the respondent is per se illegal as the lease of the petitioner stood extended automatically by virtue of operation of law.

94. It is pertinent to note that lease stands extended by virtue of operation of law after the Amendment Act, 2015 only in those cases where the lessee meets the requirement of Amendment Act, 2015 and not in cases where the lessee does not meet the requirement of Amendment Act, 2015.

95. The petitioner claims that his lease is extended for 50 years by virtue of operation of law under Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015.

96. We have deliberated above that renewal application of the petitioner was not a valid renewal application in the eyes of law inasmuch as no mining plan was enclosed with the renewal application. Further, the mining plan was obtained by the petitioner as per his own case on 16.07.2015 after enforcement of Amendment Act, 2015. The petitioner obtained the Environment Clearance Certificate on 06.01.2016 after enforcement of Amendment Act, 2015. Thus, it is evident from the aforesaid fact that petitioner's application for renewal of lease was not a valid application and further, the petitioner was doing mining till 2011 without a mining plan.

97. To carry out valid mining operation, there has to be a mining plan, therefore, it is obvious that petitioner's mining operation till 2011, when he was stopped by respondents from doing mining, was in breach of law, therefore, petitioner is not entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) as extension of said benefit was subject to condition that 'all the terms and conditions of the lease deed have been complied with. Thus, the aforesaid submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner lacks substance and is accordingly rejected.

98. So far as the argument of learned counsel for the petitioner that petitioner's right to extension of lease is not precluded by virtue of Section 8A(9) of the Amendment Act, 2015 as the lease of the petitioner cannot be treated to have lapsed is concerned, though it is correct that the respondent no.2 has illegally held in the absence of any specific order holding lease has lapsed that the lease of the petitioner has lapsed, and this finding is contrary to the judgement of the Apex Court in the case of Common Cause (supra) wherein the Apex Court in paragraph no.35 has held that 'it is apparent from a perusal of sub-rule (1) extracted above that the State Government is mandated to pass an order and thereby declare that a mining lease had lapsed. It is also the mandate of sub-rule (1) aforesaid that such an order passed by the State Government must be communicated to the leaseholder. On a conjoint reading of Section 4-A(4) and Rule 28(1), we are satisfied to hold that a mining lease under Section 4-A(4) would not be deemed to have lapsed till the State Government passes an order declaring the mining lease to have lapsed and further communicates the same to the leaseholder'.

99. Even if the aforesaid finding of the authority is incorrect, but that would not come to rescue of the petitioner. We shall deal with reason for the said finding at the appropriate place.

100. The second ground on which the application of the petitioner has been rejected is that Chapter-IX of Rules, 1963 incorporated in the Rules, 1963 by Notification No.2229/LXXXVI-2016-130-2015 dated 29.06.2016 does not provide any provision for second renewal of lease and petitioner also could not demonstrate that there is any provision under Chapter-IX of the Rules, 1963 providing for grant of lease of Silica Sand etc., we are of the view that the said finding of the authority is correct. The aforesaid finding has been assailed by the petitioner on the ground that since the lease of the petitioner stood extended by virtue of Amendment Act, 2015, therefore, it is not a case of renewal of lease and thus, the authority has erroneously treated the case of the petitioner to be a case of renewal of lease.

101. We may note that the contention of learned counsel for the petitioner may have substance provided the petitioner was entitled to the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015. We have detailed above the reason why the petitioner's case does not fall within the ambit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015, therefore, even if the authority has erroneously treated the case of the petitioner to be a case of renewal of lease, but that would not benefit the petitioner.

102. It would be apposite to mention that this Court has repeatedly held that even if an order is illegal or not as per law, the Court may refuse to issue any writ under Article 226 of the Constitution of India for the reason that the Court while exercising power under Article 226 of the Constitution of India shall not issue futile writs.

103. In the case in hand, we have found that renewal application of the petitioner was not valid as he did not comply with the requirement of law so as to enable the authorities to consider the said renewal application, and even on the date of Amendment Act, 2015, the deficiency or defect in renewal application was not removed as the mining plan was obtained by the petitioner as per his own case on 16.07.2015 and Environment Clearance Certificate was obtained on 06.01.2016, therefore, even as per the case of Common Cause (supra), the petitioner's application for renewal of lease was no application in the eye of law. Therefore, even if we quash the impugned order and remand the matter, the petitioner cannot get the benefit of Section 8A(6) of the Amendment Act, 2015. Thus, we are not inclined to interfere with the impugned order on the settled principle of law that the Court should not issue futile writs.

104. Thus, for the reasons given above, the writ petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed with no order as to costs.

Commissioner Lucknow Division Lucknow & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for consideration

The dispute concerns reassessment of stamp duty on a sale deed after authorities recalssified the purchased land as non-agricultural.

Headnotes

A. Civil matter-Constitution of India,1950-Article 226-Indian Stamp Act,1899-Section 47-A-Deficiency of Stamp duty-Market value-Agricultural land-Ex parte Inspection Report-Sub-Registrar's Report-Tehsildar Report ignored-Rule 7(3)(c), U.P. Held

The court held that it is well settled in law that valuation of property for the purpose of stamp duty must be determined with reference to its nature, character and condition as existing on the date of execution of the instrument. Any speculative assessment based on the potential or future use of land is wholly extraneous and impermissible.

Petition allowed. (E-6)

Adv. for Respondent(s):

C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Sri Sanjai Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner; and Shri Abhishek Kumar Pandey, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents are present.

2. By means of this present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following relief:

"(i) A writ, direction or order in the nature of Certiorari quashing the order dated 26.08.2015 passed by opp. party No.1 and the order dated 21.01.2015 passed by opposite party No.2 contained in Annexure No.1 & 2 of the writ petition respectively.

(ii) Any other writ, direction or order which may be found fit and appropriate in the circumstances of the case."

3. The essential facts, as borne out from the pleadings on record, are that the petitioner purchased a parcel of land bearing Gata No. 1085, ad-measuring 0.0776 hectare, situate in Village Nepalapur, Pargana Khairabad, Tehsil Sitapur, District Sitapur, by means of a duly executed sale-deed dated 28.03.2014. The said instrument was registered in the office of the Sub-Registrar, Sitapur; in Register No. 1, Jild No. 5029, pages 329 to 366, at Serial No. 2482. The said sale-deed was executed by the recorded tenure-holder, Smt. Shobha Pandey and others, for a consideration of Rs. 15,75,000/- on the payment of Stamp duty amounting to Rs. 1,10,300/- paid at the time of execution of sale-deed; calculated on the valuation disclosed in the said sale-deed.

4. It is the case of the petitioner that, pursuant to a complaint lodged by one Sri Ram Raghuveer, and in purported compliance of the directions issued vide order dated 28.06.2014 by the District Magistrate, Sitapur, as well as the Assistant Inspector General (Registration), Sitapur, vide communication dated 26.06.2014, the Sub-Registrar, Sitapur (opposite party no. 3), undertook a spot inspection of the property in question on 28.06.2014.

5. On the basis of the said inspection report, the Collector initiated proceedings by issuing a show cause notice dated 23.08.2014, calling upon the petitioner to explain as to why deficiency in stamp duty, along with penalty and interest, be not recovered from him as per Sections 40, 42, 62, and 64 of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899.

6. In response to the aforesaid notice, the petitioner submitted his objections on 26.09.2014, disputing the correctness of the inspection report and specifically praying for a fresh inspection by the Tehsil authorities, asserting that the land was under active agricultural use and no construction whatsoever existed thereon.

7. Acting upon the aforesaid objections, the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur (opposite party no. 2), directed the Tehsildar, Sitapur, to conduct a spot inspection and submit its report regarding the nature of the land. In compliance thereof, a spot inspection was carried out, culminating in the report dated 12.12.2014.

8. The Collector/Opposite party No. 2 vide impugned order dated 21.01.2015 impounded the sale-deed in question by holding deficiency in stamp duty and imposed penalty along with interest.

9. Aggrieved by the order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur, the petitioner preferred Revision under Section 56 (1) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 that was registered as Revision No. 2015100000538/23/2015 on 13.02.2015. The Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow (opposite party no. 1), vide order dated 26.08.2015, affirmed the order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the Collector; holding that the same was founded on due consideration of material on record and did not suffer from any legal infirmity and consequently, dismissed the revision.

10. It is pleaded herein on behalf of the petitioner that, bare perusal of the order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the Collector, Sitapur, (opposite party no. 2) unmistakably reveals that the entire determination rests exclusively upon the inspection report of the Sub-Registrar dated 28.06.2014, while the subsequent report submitted by the Tehsildar on 12.12.2014 has been wholly disregarded. It is urged that the Tehsildar's report, being based on an independent inspection, categorically records that, at the relevant time, the land was irrigated agricultural land and was devoid of any structural development.

11. It is very categorically submitted by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the said report submitted by the Tehsildar remarked that the parameters ordinarily associated with non-agricultural use such as existence of houses or shops, rental valuation, year of construction, nature and type of construction, number of rooms, and number of storeys were as entirely inapplicable.

Further, it also records that the land is situated at a distance of approximately one kilometer from the municipal limits, abutting a provincial road and adjoining an abadi area, and significantly, that standing 'Lahi' crop existed on the land at the relevant point of time.

12. It is further contended on behalf of the petitioner that the inspection report dated 28.06.2014 submitted by the Sub-Registrar is, at best, a cursory depiction of the site conditions as observed on the date of inspection and fails to capture the essential attributes indicative of agricultural use. He submitted that in the present case, the report by the Sub-Registrar is conspicuously silent on crucial aspects such as whether the land had been ploughed, irrigated, harrowed, or leveled factors which are determinative of its agricultural character. It is also asserted that the said inspection was conducted ex-parte, without prior notice to the petitioner, thereby depriving him of an opportunity to participate in the spot inspection or contest the findings. More importantly, the report makes no reference to the standing 'Lahi' crop, which, according to the petitioner, was approximately three (3) feet in height at the time of spot inspection by the Tehsildar.

13. Learned counsel further submitted that the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur (opposite party no. 2), has acted arbitrarily by treating the land in question to be non-agricultural/commercial without considering the Tehsil report, without proper appreciation of the relevant revenue records. It is contended that the Khasra and Khatauni entries for Fasli years 1415 to 1420 consistently recorded the land as agricultural. Despite such material evidence, the Collector, by impugned order dated 21.01.2015, proceeded to hold the instrument to be undervalued, reassessed the market value of the property at Rs. 1,17,40,000/-, determined the stamp duty payable at Rs. 8,21,800/-, and assessed deficiency of Rs. 7,11,500/-. In addition, a penalty of Rs. 1,00,000/- and interest amounting to Rs. 1,06,725/- at the rate of 1.5% per month were also imposed, aggregating to Rs. 9,18,225/-, recoverable from the petitioner. It is further submitted that while the Khatauni for the Fasli years 1415 to 1420 records the name of Smt. Shobha Pandey as the tenure-holder, the subsequent Khatauni for the Fasli years 1421 to 1426 records the petitioner as Bhumidhar with transferable rights. The Khasra entry for Fasli year 1422 also reflects that the nature of the land as agricultural with crops standing thereon. It is, therefore, urged that the land, being agricultural in nature at the time of execution of the sale deed and situated at a distance of approximately one kilometer from the limits of Nagar Palika, Khairabad, could not have been treated as non-agricultural land, merely on the ground that no crops or trees were noticed in the report submitted by the Sub-Registrar at a particular point of time.

14. It is contended on behalf of the petitioner that the impugned order dated 21.01.2015, though ostensibly founded upon the inspection report dated 28.06.2014, is conspicuously bereft of any substantive or reasoned consideration of the statutory provisions governing valuation. In particular, there is a complete absence of analysis with respect to the mandate of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997, which prescribe the parameters and methodology for determination of market value for the purposes of stamp duty. The order, therefore, suffers from a manifest non-application of mind to the governing legal framework.

15. It is further submitted that the Revisional Authority has also failed to discharge its jurisdiction in accordance with law, inasmuch as, no meaningful or comparative evaluation of the Tehsildar's report dated 12.12.2014 vis-□-vis the inspection report of the Sub-Registrar dated 28.06.2014 has been undertaken. Learned counsel contended that the said omission is not inadvertent but deliberate, as any such comparative scrutiny would have exposed material inconsistencies and infirmities in the earlier report, thereby undermining the very foundation of the impugned determination.

16. It has been further argued by the learned counsel for the petitioner that the compliance of Rule 7(3)(c) of the Uttar Pradesh Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997 is mandatory in character. In the present case, the spot inspection dated 28.06.2014 was conducted ex-parte, without any prior notice to the petitioner; in clear violation of the procedural safeguards contemplated under the relevant Rules. Such an inspection, conducted in breach of mandatory requirements, is vitiated in law and devoid of evidentiary value, and could not have been relied upon for adjudication of the stamp proceedings.

17. Learned counsel further submitted that the inspection report dated 28.06.2014 has been prepared in complete disregard of the applicable Collector's circle rate list. It is pointed out that the said rates provided for a 100% enhancement in valuation where agricultural land abutted a road, and a further 50% enhancement where non-agricultural activity or abadi existed within a radius of 100 metres. It is contended that the petitioner, at the time of execution of the sale-deed dated 28.03.2014, had duly applied the prescribed multipliers, taking into account the size and location of the land, which measured 0.0776 hectare and thus attracted valuation at three times the normal agricultural rate, i.e., Rs. 4,50,000/- per hectare. The additional enhancements, as applicable, were also duly factored in. It is, therefore, urged that the instrument was properly valued and stamped in accordance with law, and no deficiency could have been determined.

18. It is lastly submitted that even subsequent revenue records fortify the petitioner's case. The Khatauni for the Fasli years 1427?1432 continues to record the land as agricultural, and no declaration altering its character has been made under Section 143 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act or under Section 80 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. The petitioner remained recorded as Bhumidhar with transferable rights, and the land remained free from any construction, save for a boundary wall raised after purchase for protection of crops. In such circumstances, it is contended that there is neither any misrepresentation nor concealment on the part of the petitioner.

19. Per contra, learned Additional Chief Standing counsel appearing for the State-respondents submits that the spot inspection report dated 28.06.2014, prepared by the Sub-Registrar, unequivocally demonstrates that no agricultural activity was being carried out on the land in question. It is urged that the said report, having been prepared pursuant to a complaint and under directions of the competent authority, is a contemporaneous and reliable record of the physical condition of the property, inasmuch as, the said report clearly indicates the existence of residential and commercial constructions within Gata No. 1085, thereby negating the claim of the land being agricultural in nature.

20. He further contended that the inspection report dated 28.06.2014 specifically records absence of any agricultural operations on the purchased land and notes the presence of shops and residential structures within the same Gata. Learned counsel emphasizes that the said report makes no reference to any standing 'Lahi' crop, whereas such a fact appeared for the first time in the Tehsildar's report dated 12.12.2014, which was prepared after a lapse of nearly six months. The Sub-Registrar's report, on the other hand, records the existence of two shops, namely 'Aron Store' and 'Shukla Provision Store', along with the residential house of one 'Vishwakarma' and several adjoining constructions and boundary walls, all indicative of a developed locality. It is further submitted that the portion purchased by the petitioner was found to be situated between existing constructions, with visible foundation work and boundary demarcation, clearly suggesting its residential/commercial character.

21. Learned counsel for the State-respondents further argued that the Tehsildar's report, having been submitted on 12.12.2014, was not available at the time when the Sub-Registrar conducted the inspection and submitted his report on 28.06.2014. It is, therefore, contended that there was neither occasion nor obligation upon the Sub-Registrar to consider a report which came into existence subsequently. The valuation, it is urged, has been rightly determined on the basis of the prevailing Collector's circle rate list effective from 01.08.2013, taking into account the physical condition of the land and its surrounding developments. It is also contended that entries in revenue records such as Khasra and Khatauni, though relevant, are not conclusive for determining the true nature of the land for the purposes of stamp valuation. He further submitted that the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur, while deciding the stamp proceedings by order dated 21.01.2015, has duly considered the inspection report dated 28.06.2014, and the respective submissions of the parties, and thereby, arrived at a reasoned conclusion. The determination, according to the respondents, is thus legal, justified, and based on relevant considerations.

22. It has been urged by the learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel, that the Revisional Authority, namely the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, has affirmed the order of the Collector after due consideration of the material available on record, including the Sub-Registrar's report, and has passed a reasoned order warranting no interference. He also contended that the mere absence of a declaration under Section 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, cannot be treated as conclusive proof of the land being agricultural in nature.

23. It is lastly submitted on behalf of the State-respondents that the Tehsildar's report dated 12.12.2014, having been prepared nearly six months after the Sub-Registrar's inspection and several months after the execution of the sale deed dated 28.03.2014, cannot be said to reflect the actual condition of the land at the relevant point of time. Consequently, the said report dated 12.12.2014 lacks probative value for the purpose of determining the market value of the property as on the date of execution of the instrument and has rightly not been relied upon by the authorities.

24. Heard learned counsels for the parties and perused the material available on record.

25. Insofar as the contention raised on behalf of the respondents relating to the absence of a declaration of the land for non-agricultural purposes under Section 143 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950, as not being a sole and absolute indicator that the land is agricultural in nature, is concerned; the same has already been duly considered and decided by this Court while dealing with the case of Smt Raziya Kahtoon versus State of U.P

Through Principal Secretary Stamp and Registration Lko and Ors reported in 2026(1) ADJ 273 (LB). For convenience, the relevant portion is extracted hereinbelow:

"44. So far as the effect of declaration / notification of the land under Section 142 and 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950, is concerned, the said issue has been dealt with by this Court in the case of Haroon Ahmad (supra) and Sunil Jaiswal & Others (supra), wherein it has been held that the non-issuance of the notification of a property under Section 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 cannot be the basis for questioning the determination of the market value of land. Section 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition & Land Reforms Act, 1950 is for a different purpose and cannot control the determination of the market value under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899.

45. There is no doubt that the provisions of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 encompasses different object and cannot be applied for the purpose of determination of the value of the land insofar it relates to Indian Stamp Act. Such determination is not controlled in any manner by the provisions of U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act 1950. Notification under Section 143 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 can at best be one of the factors for consideration at the time of determination of the market value under the Indian Stamp Act and relevant Rules as prescribed under the U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997.

46. In the case of Wasi Ur Rehman and another versus Commissioner, Muradabad Division and others; reported in 2015 SCC OnLine All 5680, a co-ordinate Bench of this Court held that, "Though entry in the revenue record regarding the nature of the property may be relevant but cannot be the sole factor in determining the market value. Market value is dependent upon other factors viz. change of user in adjacent area or change of agricultural land to urban agglomeration or if the properties were being sold and bought at commercial rate then for the purposes of stamp duty market value of the property would be the same as that of the property bought at commercial rate, irrespective of the entry in the revenue record."

47. From all that is discussed herein above, this court finds that the Collector (opposite party no.3) and the Deputy Commissioner (opposite party no.2) have passed the impugned orders without correctly appreciating the well-settled law. The aforementioned Authorities while holding that the plot of land was purchased by the petitioner with the intention to use it for commercial purpose, did not find any substance being unsupported by any documentary evidence or material which could establish that the property comprised in Sale-Deed was being used for other than agriculture purpose at the time of execution of the instrument. Presumption of usage of subject matter of instrument in future for some commercial purposes cannot be the ground of invocation of the provisions of the Indian Stamp Act for alleged deficiency in stamp duty. The Collector even could not cite any exemplar to show that the properties adjacent or around the subject matter of instrument have been sold or purchased at the commercial rate. Thus, the findings on the basis of which the impugned deficiency of stamp duty has been determined is unsustainable."

26. It is well settled in law that the proceeding under Section 47- A of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 shall not be decided merely placing reliance on the ex-parte report of the registering authority. The same view has been taken by a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Ram Gopal versus State of U.P. And Others, reported in 2009(7) ADJ 185 (LB).

27. A co-ordinate Bench of this court in the case of Ram Khelawan @ Bachcha versus State of U.P. and another; reported in 2005 (98) RD 511, has held as under:

"25. It has been found in several cases like the present one that the entire basis of determination of market value for the purpose of stamp duty is ex-parte report of Tehsildar or other officer. Exparte inspection report may be relevant for initiating the proceedings under section 47-A of Stamp Act. However, for deciding the case no reliance can be placed upon the said report After initiation of the case inspection is to be made by the Collector or authority hearing the case after due notice to the parties to the instrument as provided under Rule- 7(3)(c) of the Rules of 1997. Moreover, in the inspection report distance of the property from other residential or commercial properties and road must be shown and wherever possible sketch map must also be annexed along with the report so that correct valuation may be ascertained with reasoned certainty."

28. This Court in the case of Smt Raziya Kahtoon (supra) has also held that:

"30. In the instant case, from a perusal of the pleadings on record, it is evident that no notice was served upon the petitioner prior to carrying out the inspection, and the order dated 28.07.2014 was passed on the basis of an ex-parte inspection report. However, the said order was recalled vide order dated 17.10.2014. Subsequently, an inspection report dated 25.02.2015 was obtained from the Naib Tehsildar, Kurshi. Although the case of the State-respondents is that the said inspection was carried out after due information to the counsel for the petitioner, there is nothing on record to establish that any notice was issued to the petitioner. In any case, the notice to the petitioner, as contemplated under Rule 7(3) of the U.P. Stamp (Valuation of Property) Rules, 1997, is lacking in the present case.

31. Now, coming to the other aspect of the matter assailed by means of the present writ petition, it is contended that the Collector (opposite party no. 3), before passing the impugned order dated 04.02.2016 determining deficiency in stamp duty, has neither considered any oral or documentary evidence nor based the order on any cogent material. The impugned order has been passed merely by relying upon the report submitted by the Naib Tehsildar. Thus, the said impugned order is in contravention of the provisions of Section 47-A(3) of the Indian Stamp Act. This Court, in the case of Ajay Agarwal versus Commissioner, reported in 2023 (2) ADJ 561 (LB), observed as follows:

"18. The provisions of Section 47-A(3) of the Act clearly prescribe that prior to passing an order under the aforesaid provision, the Collector has to satisfy himself, which would mean that he has to record his subjective satisfaction with regard to the correctness of the market value of the property. Furthermore, he is also required to record reasons to believe that the market value of such property has not been truly set forth in the instrument, where after he is required to determine the market value of the property and the duty payable thereon. Clearly, the Collector, in exercise of powers under Section 47-A(3) of the Act, is required not to rely solely on the spot inspection report, but also to record his subjective satisfaction with regard to the undervaluation of the instrument of transfer. As such, while passing orders under Section 47-A of the Act, the Collector cannot rely only on the post inspection report."

29. The record indicates that upon consideration of the objections filed by the petitioner on 26.09.2014, the learned Collector, Sitapur, (opposite party No. 2) directed the Tehsildar, Sitapur, to carry out spot inspection of the land in question. In compliance thereof, the Tehsildar submitted his report dated 12.12.2014, which was very much available on record at the time of passing of the impugned order. However, a careful reading of the order dated 21.01.2015 makes it evident that, although the said report has been noticed, it has not been meaningfully considered, more particularly, when the Tehsildar's report, being based on an independent inspection carried out, that too, under the directions of the Collector himself, categorically records that at the relevant time, the land was irrigated agricultural land and devoid of any kind of structural development. Further, Lahi crop was found standing on the land at the time of inspection.

30. It is well settled in law that valuation of property for the purposes of stamp duty must be determined with reference to its nature, character, and condition as existing on the date of execution of the instrument. Any speculative assessment based on the potential or future use of the land is wholly extraneous and impermissible. The market value must reflect the contemporaneous reality of the property and not a conjectural or prospective utility which the land may or may not acquire.

31. A perusal of the revisional order dated 26.08.2015 passed by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow, under Section 56(1) of the Indian Stamp Act, shows that the revisional authority has not dealt with the grounds raised by the petitioner. No definite findings have been recorded on the issues concerning the legality and correctness of the order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur. The revisional authority was required to examine the matter independently and to record reasons indicating due consideration of the same. The impugned order passed merely affirming the conclusion of the Collector in the impugned order dated 21.01.2015 without due examination, renders the same unsatisfactory in law.

32. Looking to the facts of the present case, this Court is of the view that the Collector concerned was required to consider all relevant material available on record to arrive at a reasoned conclusion regarding alleged undervaluation of the stamp duty. The Collector, Stamp (opposite party No.2) without assigning cogent reasons, proceeded to pass the impugned order solely relying upon the ex-parte inspection report submitted by the Sub-Registrar dated 28.06.2014. It is trite in law that such a report may form the basis for initiation of proceedings under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, but cannot, in isolation, be treated as determinative for assessing the market value. In any case sole reliance could not have been confined by him to the ex-parte inspection report submitted by the Sub- Registrar that too a challenged one, particularly when another report by the Tahsildar was also available on record. From the perusal of the impugned orders, it is evident that not even an iota of exercise was undertaken by the respondent authorities for considering the report of the Tahsildar dated 12.12.2014 in reference or comparison to the report submitted by opposite party No. 3 dated 28.06.2014.

33. The burden of proof that the property in question is being used for other than agricultural purposes is upon the respondents who allege and seek to determine its market value. Generally, market value given in the instrument is to be taken correct unless proved otherwise or circumstances suggest to the contrary. The respondent authorities have miserably failed to discharge the above burden.

34. The inspection report dated 28.06.2014 submitted by the Sub-Registrar relied upon in this connection is of no avail, in the light of the judgment passed by this Court in the case of Ram Khelawan (Supra) that such a report is relevant only for initiating the proceedings under Section 47-A of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and no reliance can be placed upon it in determining the market value as it is not a piece of evidence.

35. Taking into consideration the factual matrix of the present case and the law on the subject as discussed hereinabove, the impugned order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the learned Collector, Sitapur in Case No. 08-/K-354 D 2014106400657 as well as the order dated 26.08.2015 passed by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow in Revision No. 2015100000538/23/2015 under Section 56(1) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, are not sustainable in the eyes of law and are liable to be set aside.

36. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court is of the considered opinion that no useful purpose would be served in remitting the matter for fresh consideration as it is well settled in law that for the purposes of the proceeding under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899, the valuation of the property is required to be determined with reference to the date of execution of the instrument, and any subsequent change in the nature or condition of the land cannot be taken into account for such determination. As such, any inspection conducted at a later point of time would not be relevant for adjudicating the correctness of the valuation of the subject matter of instrument.

37. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds. Consequently, the impugned order dated 21.01.2015 passed by the learned Collector, Sitapur in Case No. 08-/K-354 D 2014106400657 as well as the order dated 26.08.2015 passed by the Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow in Revision No. 2015100000538/23/2015 are hereby set aside. Further, direction in the nature of mandamus is issued to the Collector (Stamp), Sitapur (opposite party no. 2) to refund the amount deposited by the petitioner, if any, during the pendency of the present litigation pursuant to the impugned order; within one month from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the authority concerned. It is further provided that if the aforesaid amount is not refunded within the period as fixed herein above, the petitioner shall be entitled to simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum from the date of its deposit till the date of actual refund.

38. No order as to costs.

39. Before parting, this Court deems it appropriate to place on record its deep appreciation for the invaluable assistance rendered by Mr. Rajat Srivastava, Research Associate, attached with me in drafting this judgment and finding out case laws applicable in the present case.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 3000056 of 2000

Sheo Bux Singh ...Petitioners
Versus
State Of U.P. Secretary Revenue ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the legality of the orders passed under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 determining the petitioner's surplus land, particularly whether the Prescribed Authority determined the petitioner's ceiling area in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960, particularly Section 4-A thereof, and whether the impugned orders, having ignored material documentary evidence, adopted mutually destructive findings regarding the nature of the land, wrongly included land already transferred through a bona fide sale deed, exceeded the scope of remand, and suffered from perversity, non-application of mind and manifest illegality, warranting interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

Headnotes

U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 – ss.4-A, 5(6)(b), 10(2), 13 – Constitution of India – Art.226 – Ceiling proceedings – Determination of irrigated land – Bona fide transfer – Scope of remand – Delay and laches – Petitioner challenged orders declaring surplus land – Contention that authorities treated the same land as irrigated while determining the permissible ceiling area and as unirrigated while declaring surplus land – Further contention that land already transferred by a registered sale deed in favour of bona fide purchasers was illegally included in the petitioner's holding – Prescribed Authority enhanced the surplus area after remand – Appellate authority affirmed the order – Writ petition :

Held : Section 4-A of the Act lays down a specific statutory mechanism for determination of irrigated land. The provision obligates the authority to examine khasra entries of the relevant Faslis and undertake due verification including spot inspection so as to record a categorical finding regarding the source and availability of assured irrigation. The requirement is mandatory and not directory. Since the Ceiling Act is in the nature of expropriatory legislation, strict compliance with statutory requirements is imperative and the authorities must meticulously determine whether land is irrigated within the meaning of Section 4-A before declaring any area surplus. It is settled law that omission to consider material evidence amounts to perversity in decision-making. A quasi-judicial order affecting substantive rights cannot be sustained when relevant evidence is ignored and conclusions are founded upon conjectures. Transfers made after 24.01.1971 cannot automatically be ignored unless the authority records a finding that such transfer does not satisfy the conditions contemplated under proviso (b) to Section 5(6) of the Act. Once a transfer is proved to be genuine, for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument, the transferred land is liable to be excluded from the holding of the tenure-holder. It is a settled principle that an authority acting pursuant to a remand order must strictly confine itself to the terms of remand. Any adjudication beyond the remitted issues is jurisdictionally unsustainable. The Prescribed Authority clearly misconstrued the remand directions and exercised jurisdiction not vested in it. The plenary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 is to reach injustice wherever found and to mould relief so as to advance substantial justice. Technical objections cannot override the constitutional obligation of this Court to correct patent illegality. [Paras 41, 42, 43, 46, 49 & 52]

The entire controversy centres around the classification of the land in question as irrigated or unirrigated and the consequent determination of ceiling surplus area. The record unmistakably demonstrates that while computing the permissible ceiling area of the petitioner, the authorities treated the land as irrigated so as to reduce the ceiling entitlement available to the petitioner, whereas while identifying the land to be declared surplus, the same holding was treated as unirrigated so as to enlarge the surplus area. Such a self-contradictory approach strikes at the very root of fairness in quasi-judicial adjudication and renders the impugned determination arbitrary. A perusal of the impugned orders reveals no meaningful discussion of the khasra entries, no proper appreciation of the consolidation records and no reasoned finding based upon statutory parameters. The authorities brushed aside C.H. Form-41 and other consolidation records without assigning cogent reasons. The sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 having been accepted to be bona fide, the inclusion of the transferred land in the petitioner's holding was wholly impermissible. The Prescribed Authority failed to undertake the mandatory statutory exercise under Section 4-A, adopted mutually destructive findings regarding the nature of the land and illegally enhanced the surplus area beyond the scope of remand. The appellate authority mechanically affirmed the illegal order. The writ petition succeeds. The impugned orders were quashed and the matter remitted to the Prescribed Authority for fresh determination in accordance with law. [Paras 40, 42-59] .(E-5)

Case Arising From

Proceedings under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 arising out of the order dated 22.10.1993 passed by the Prescribed Authority, District Balrampur declaring 4.74 acres of land surplus; appellate remand order dated 18.02.1997/08.02.1997 passed by the Additional Commissioner under Section 13 of the Act; consequential order dated 05.11.1998 passed by the Prescribed Authority enhancing the surplus land to 5.54 acres; and appellate order dated 30.03.1999 affirming the same

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: T.n.singh, Madan Gopal Tripathi
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C.,

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri Madan Gopal Tripathi, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Jagdish Prasad Maurya, learned Standing Counsel for the respondent - State.

2. The present writ petition has been filed for issuance of a writ in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order 18.02.1997 and 12.05.1997 passed by respondent No.4 contained as Annexure Nos.2 & 13 to the writ petition.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the instant writ petition arises out of the illegal, arbitrary and capricious orders passed by the opposite party no. 2 affirming the order of the Prescribed Authority, District Balrampur dated 20.03.1999, whereby the land of the petitioner has been wrongly treated as irrigated at one stage and unirrigated at another, in clear violation of the mandatory provisions of Section 4-A of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act").

4. Initially a notice under Section 10(2) of the Act was issued to the petitioner on 14.10.1986, which was served on 22.12.1986, alleging that the petitioner was in possession of 22.76 acres of irrigated land situated in Village Kather, Navadeeh and Beb, out of which only 18.02 acres could be retained and 4.74 acres was proposed to be declared surplus. Subsequently, another notice dated 22.05.1987 was issued and served upon the petitioner on 02.06.1987.

5. The petitioner filed objections on 31.12.1987 before the Prescribed Authority, Balrampur, stating that he possessed only 10.96 acres of land in Village Kather and had no land in other villages as alleged in the notice. It was further submitted that the land situated in Village Beb had already been transferred by a registered sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 in favour of bona fide purchasers and possession had also been delivered, followed by mutation in the year 1975.

6. Due to certain unavoidable circumstances, the petitioner could not appear and an ex parte order was passed on 14.01.1992, which was subsequently set aside on a restoration application allowed on 23.04.1992. Thereafter, the Prescribed Authority, without properly considering the material on record and without following due procedure, passed an order dated 22.10.1993 declaring 4.74 acres of land as surplus.

7. Being aggrieved, the petitioner as well as the purchasers preferred appeals under Section 13 of the Act before the Additional Commissioner, Faizabad Division, which were decided by a common order dated 18.02.1997/08.02.1997, partly allowing the appeals and remanding the matter to the Prescribed Authority with certain directions.

8. In the remand proceedings, the Prescribed Authority misinterpreted the appellate order and, without application of mind, passed an order dated 05.11.1998 enhancing the surplus land from 4.74 acres to 5.54 acres by adopting an inconsistent and illegal approach in treating the land as irrigated and unirrigated for different purposes. The said order was challenged before the appellate authority, but the same was illegally affirmed by order dated 30.03.1999 without properly appreciating the facts and law involved.

9. It is pertinent to mention that while determining the ceiling limit, the entire land of the petitioner was treated as irrigated, thereby reducing the permissible holding, whereas for declaring surplus land, the same land was treated as unirrigated so as to increase the surplus area, which amounts to application of a double standard and is wholly illegal.

10. The Prescribed Authority failed to comply with the mandatory provisions of Section 4-A of the Act, which require consideration of khasra entries of relevant years and spot inspection to determine whether land is irrigated or unirrigated. In fact, the land in Village Kather was unirrigated, as is evident from consolidation records (C.H. Form-41), but the same was wrongly treated as irrigated, thereby prejudicing the petitioner's rights.

11. The total land allotted to the petitioner after consolidation was 10.58 acres, which clearly shows that there was no basis for increasing the surplus area as done by the authorities. The authorities have also erroneously treated sources like tank and 'Chora' as valid sources of irrigation, which is legally impermissible.

12. That the petitioner continues to be in possession of the land in question and the impugned orders have not yet been implemented. The sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 in respect of land in Village Beb has already been held to be bona fide by the appellate authority, and therefore, the said land could not have been included in the petitioner□s holding for ceiling purposes.

13. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that by means of impugned orders, land of the petitioner has been treated inconsistently as at one stage as irrigated and at another as unirrigated, which is in clear violation of the mandatory provisions of Section 4-A of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960.

14. He next submitted that the impugned orders as well as the orders passed by the Prescribed Authority and affirmed by the appellate authority are wholly unsustainable in law, inasmuch they suffer from manifest illegality, non-application of mind and violation of statutory provisions, particularly Section 4-A of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960.

15. He submitted that the entire proceedings stand vitiated on account of the fact that the authorities have adopted a self-contradictory and impermissible approach while determining the nature of land. The land of the petitioner has been treated as irrigated for the purpose of reducing the ceiling limit, whereas the same land has been treated as unirrigated for the purpose of increasing the surplus area, which is legally impermissible and arbitrary. Such inconsistent treatment of the same land amounts to application of a double standard and is hit by the doctrine of fairness and reasonableness, thereby rendering the impugned orders violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

16. He further submitted that the Prescribed Authority has failed to adhere to the mandatory provisions of Section 4-A of the Act, which require determination of the nature of land on the basis of khasra entries of the relevant years and spot inspection. No such proper exercise has been undertaken and the findings recorded are, thus, without any legal foundation.

17. He submitted that the authorities have completely ignored the material evidence on record, including consolidation records (C.H. Form-41), which clearly establish that the land situated in Village Kather was unirrigated. The non-consideration of relevant evidence vitiates the impugned orders.

18. He further submitted that the land situated in Village Beb had already been transferred by the petitioner through a registered sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 in favour of bona fide purchasers and possession had also been delivered followed by mutation in the year 1975. Once the said transaction has been accepted as bona fide, the said land could not have been included in the holding of the petitioner.

19. He submitted that the Prescribed Authority has acted illegally in enhancing the surplus land from 4.74 acres to 5.54 acres in the remand proceedings, without there being any justification or fresh material on record, which clearly demonstrates non-application of mind and arbitrary exercise of power.

20. He further submitted that the remand order passed by the appellate authority was misconstrued by the Prescribed Authority, which travelled beyond the scope of remand and passed an order detrimental to the petitioner, contrary to settled principles of law governing remand proceedings.

21. He submitted that the appellate authority, while affirming the order dated 05.11.1998 by its order dated 30.03.1999, has failed to consider the legal and factual infirmities in the order of the Prescribed Authority and has passed the impugned order in a mechanical manner without recording cogent reasons.

22. It is further submitted that the total land allotted to the petitioner after consolidation was only 10.58 acres, which itself demonstrates that there was no occasion to declare any additional land as surplus, much less to enhance the same. The authorities have further erred in treating sources such as tank and □Chora□ as valid sources of irrigation, which is contrary to settled legal position and has resulted in wrongful classification of land to the prejudice of the petitioner.

23. He lastly submitted that the impugned orders are also liable to be set aside on the ground that they have been passed without proper appreciation of evidence, in violation of principles of natural justice and without assigning adequate reasons, thereby rendering them unsustainable in law. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance upon following judgments:

a) Beni Ram VS. State of U.P. and others; 1982 Allahabad LJ 974.

b) Km. Madhubala Vs. State of U.P.; 1978 Allahabad L.J. 1039.

n) K.B. Ramchandra Raje Ors. (Dead) by Lrs. Vs. State of Karnataka and ors.; (2016) 3 SCC 422.

24. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel submitted that the instant writ petition is wholly misconceived, devoid of merit and liable to be dismissed with exemplary costs as the petitioner has approached this Hon□ble Court by suppressing material facts and by making selective disclosure of the long-drawn ceiling proceedings under the provisions of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960.

25. He submitted that the present writ petition was instituted on 12.10.2000 challenging the appellate order dated 30.03.1999 as well as the consequential order dated 05.11.1998 passed by the Prescribed Authority. However, after lapse of more than two decades, the petitioner has sought to enlarge the scope of the writ petition by way of amendment seeking challenge to the orders dated 18.02.1997 and 12.05.1997, which were admittedly in existence on the date of filing of the writ petition. Such belated challenge, after about 25 years, is ex facie barred by delay and laches and is liable to be rejected on this ground alone.

26. He next submitted that the petitioner has deliberately concealed material proceedings and relevant documents pertaining to the ceiling case. The entire sequence of proceedings beginning from the original determination, restoration, remand orders and objections filed by the purchasers has not been candidly disclosed. The petitioner now seeks to fill lacunae in his case through repeated supplementary affidavits and amendment applications, which is legally impermissible.

27. He submitted that ceiling proceedings were initiated against the original tenure holder under Section 10(2) of the Act, wherein by order dated 14.01.1992 certain plots measuring 4.74 acres irrigated land situated in Village Kather were declared surplus. Thereafter, on restoration/recall moved by the tenure holder, the Prescribed Authority reconsidered the matter and passed a fresh order dated 22.10.1993 declaring different land as surplus. Against the order dated 22.10.1993, the original tenure holder preferred Appeal No.269, whereas the purchasers filed objections under Section 11(2) of the Act. The said objections were rejected on 31.05.1996, against which Appeal No.185 was preferred by the purchasers.

28. Both the aforesaid appeals were considered by the appellate authority. By common order dated 18.02.1997 and recall order dated 12.05.1997, the matter was remanded to the Prescribed Authority for reconsideration on specific and limited issues. The remand was thus a judicial order passed after due consideration of rival submissions and did not suffer from any illegality. Pursuant to the remand order, the Prescribed Authority reconsidered the matter in detail and framed specific issues for adjudication, namely: (i) determination of the nature of land of gata no.2345 as irrigated or unirrigated; and (ii) consideration of the tenure holder□s choice regarding retention of land in Village Baib vis-□-vis declaration of surplus land situated elsewhere.

29. After detailed appreciation of oral and documentary evidence, the Prescribed Authority recorded categorical findings that the family of the tenure holder consisted of less than five members on the relevant cut-off date and, therefore, no additional ceiling benefit could be granted on account of alleged major sons. The Prescribed Authority further determined that the disputed land was to be treated as unirrigated, which itself reduced the proposed surplus area substantially. Ultimately, only land measuring 5.54 acres situated in Village Kather was declared surplus by order dated 05.11.1998. The said order dated 05.11.1998 was challenged by the petitioner in Appeal No.50 under Section 13 of the Act. The appellate authority, after considering the entire record, dismissed the appeal by reasoned order dated 30.03.1999 affirming the findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority.

30. He submitted that it is significant to submit that the appellate authority considered all grounds raised by the petitioner, including the issue relating to classification of land, family composition and choice of retention. The petitioner failed to establish any factual or legal infirmity in the order of the Prescribed Authority.

31. The challenge raised by the petitioner to the remand orders dated 18.02.1997 and 12.05.1997 is wholly untenable. Firstly, no such challenge was made when the writ petition was instituted in the year 2000. Secondly, the petitioner accepted the remand proceedings, participated therein without protest and allowed fresh adjudication to culminate into order dated 05.11.1998.

Having acquiesced to the remand proceedings, the petitioner is estopped from questioning the same after 25 years.

32. He submitted that the settled principle of law is that a litigant who participates in proceedings without demur cannot subsequently challenge the jurisdiction or procedural propriety of the same after suffering an adverse outcome.

33. He further submitted that repeated filing of supplementary affidavits in the years 2003, 2025 and 2025 again, along with amendment applications introducing new pleadings and annexures, clearly demonstrates an attempt to improve upon an otherwise weak case and to protract litigation. The petitioner has also sought to rely upon subsequent developments and documents which are wholly irrelevant for adjudication of the validity of orders passed in ceiling proceedings. Such documents cannot be permitted to alter the scope of judicial review under Article 226 of the Constitution.

34. It is further submitted that the ceiling proceedings attained finality on several aspects much earlier, particularly in light of earlier appellate orders passed in the years 1976 and subsequent proceedings determining the nature and extent of holdings. The petitioner cannot be permitted to reopen issues which have long attained finality. The findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority and affirmed by the appellate authority are pure findings of fact based upon appreciation of revenue records, documentary evidence and statutory forms.

35. This Hon'ble Court, in exercise of writ jurisdiction, would not ordinarily interfere with concurrent findings of fact unless shown to be perverse or based on no evidence. In the present case, the petitioner has failed to demonstrate any perversity, jurisdictional error or violation of principles of natural justice. The impugned orders are reasoned, lawful and passed strictly in accordance with the provisions of the Act.

36. He lastly submitted that the writ petition also suffers from gross delay and laches. The petitioner has approached this Hon□ble Court against concluded proceedings and thereafter remained indolent for decades while intermittently attempting to revive stale issues through supplementary pleadings. Equity does not favour a litigant who sleeps over his rights and thereafter seeks discretionary relief under Article 226 of the Constitution. Therefore, his submission is that the writ petition is liable to be dismissed on the grounds of suppression of material facts, delay and laches, acquiescence, estoppel, and absence of any legal infirmity in the impugned orders.

37. I have considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as law reports cited by learned counsel for the petitioner.

38. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are being quoted below:

a) Beni Ram VS. State of U.P. and others (Supra):

"4. Having heard the learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record I have no hesitation in saying that the order passed by the Prescribed Authority as well as the Appellate Authority both betray a lack of proper approach and consideration of the provisions of the Act. It is imperative for an authority exercising power under the Act to consider whether a tenure-holder has land in excess of the ceiling limit, to apply the provisions of law as applicable to the tenure-holder carefully and consider the evidence on record meticulously. In a statute like that of the present Act a tenure-holder is liable to lose agricultural land in case it is found to be beyond his ceiling limit. The ceiling limit under the Act is measured under the terms of irrigated land. It, therefore, becomes necessary for the authorities under the Act to consider and decide whether the petitioner's land is an irrigated land within the meaning of S. 4A of the Act. The provisions of the said Act are to be applied strictly. In a legislation which seeks to take away land it is imperative that the provisions of the law are applied correctly taking care of all the requirements under the law.

9. Interpretation of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act has to be done keeping an eye on the object of this Act. It must be noticed that this Act has been enacted for the public good. The provisions of the Act cannot be construed in a manner so as to defeat the very object of the Act. While construing the provisions of the Act care also be taken to see that there is a strict compliance with the requirements of law. It has been noticed that this Act is in the nature of an expropriatory legislation. Therefore, before a tenure-holder is deprived of his land, it must be clearly found that he has surplus land and in arriving at that finding it is the duty of the authorities under the Act to see that the provisions of the Act are duly and properly construed."

b) Km. Madhubala Vs. State of U.P. (Supra):

13. In this case I propose to deal with only the last submission made on behalf of the petitioner. Sec. 5(6) provides that in determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, any transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of Jan., 1971, which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account: Sub-sec. (6) has a proviso (b) which says that if a transfer is proved to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority to be in good faith and for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument, not for the immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holders or other members of his family, the provisions of this sub-section shall not apply to that transfer.

16. All sale deeds executed after 8-6-1973 cannot be ignored under the provisions of S. 5(6) in view of the provisos to that sub-section. The Additional District Judge did not examine the question as to whether the transfer was in good faith and for adequate consideration and the other requirements of proviso (b) to sub-sec. (6) of S. 5

19. 18. The learned Standing Counsel Sri Upadhya sought to justify the order of the Appellate Authority on a new ground which is not to be found in the judgment of the Appellate Authority. He submitted that in view of the provisions of S. 5(8) of the Ceiling Act, the order of the Appellate Authority is perfectly in accordance with law. Sec. 5(8) was introduced into the statute by U.P. Act No. XX of 1976 namely the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1976. Sub-sec. (1) of S. 2 of the Amending Act declared that it shall come into force on Oct. 10, 1975. Sec. 5 was substantially amended by S. 6 of the aforesaid Amending Act. Sub-cl. (8) was added to S. 5 by this Act, which is reproduced below:

"Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-secs. (6) and (7) no tenure-holder shall transfer any land held by him during the continuance of proceedings for determination of surplus land in relation to such tenure-holder and every transfer made in contravention of this sub-section shall be void.

Explanation: For the purposes of this sub-section, proceedings for determination of surplus land shall be deemed to have commenced on the date of publication of notice under sub-sec. (2) of S. 9 and shall be deemed to have concluded on the date when an order in relation to such tenure-holder is passed under sub-sec. (1) of S. 11 or under sub-sec. (1) of S. 12, or as the case may be, under Section 13."

21. 20. It is well settled that a law is not deemed to be retrospective unless it is made expressly retrospective or is found by the court to be retrospective by necessary intendment. Nothing has been shown to indicate to the court's satisfaction that by necessary intendment the law was made retrospective, when sub-section (8) was added to the statute. The learned Standing Counsel also submits that by virtue of the Explanation to Section 5(8) the proceedings for determination of surplus land shall be deemed to commence on the date of the publication of notice under sub-sec. (2) of S. 9.

23. Sec. 5(8) is clearly prospective on the explanation of the Supreme Court reported in (1977) 1 SCC 340 : (AIR 1976 SC 1654) State of Haryana v. Chaman Mal. In that case in para. 37 it was observed that the Supreme Court could permit arguments to be addressed when certain changes had taken place in the Central Act in question. That case is no authority for the proposition that is sought to be advanced by the learned Standing Counsel Courts of law do take into account changes in the law when it is necessary to do so in pending matters. The language of S. 5(8) is not such as would justify the upholding of an order of the Additional District Judge on the ground that he was only applying the law as it existed on the date on which he decided the appeal.

24. The rights of the parties had to be decided on the date of the notice under S. 10 of the Act and not on any subsequent date. The transfers which were valid under the proviso (b) to Section 5(6) have not been invalidated by the provisions of S. 5(8) of the Act."

c) Om Prakash Agarwal Vs. First Additional District and Sessions Judge (Supra):

13. INTERPRETATIO-13. The U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972 was enforced with effect from 8-6-1973. Therefore in view of the provision contained in sub-section (1), on and from 8-6-1973 a person who is a tenure-holder cannot hold land in excess of his ceiling area. In view of Explana-tion I to sub-section (1) all the land held by the tenure-holder has to be taken into account while determining his ceiling and surplus areas, irrespective of the fact whether the land is held by the tenure-holder in his own name or in the name of someone else fictitiously. While considering the question whether a land held ostensibly in the name of another person actually belongs to the tenure-holder, the rule of evidence prescribed in Explanation II to sub-section (1) has to be followed. This rule of evidence applies to the case where on or before 24-1-1971 a land was held by the tenure-holder but after this date it came to be recorded in the name of someone else although the tenure-holder continued to be in its possession by cultivating the same. This rule will apply also to the situation where the name of the tenure-holder is not completely obliterated from the records and alongwith his name the name of someone else too comes to be recorded. In both the situations the Prescribed Authoritity is required under this Explanation to presume that the land continues to be held by the tenure-holder who held it prior to 24-1-1971. This presumption is, however, rebuttable as is evident from the use of the words □unless the contrary is proved to the satisfaction of the Prescribed Authority□. Sub-section (6) contains extension of the principle contained in Explanation I. It provides for ignoring the sale deeds executed after 24-1-1971. However all sale deeds executed after this date are not to be ignored. Sale deeds which are not sham or fictitious have to be taken into account and the land conveyed by such deeds has to be excluded from the holding of the tenure-holder. This is so because of the provision contained in proviso (b) to sub-section (6). In view of the proviso the command contained in sub-section (6) for ignoring transfer effected after 24-1-1971 will not apply if the following conditions are satisfied:

1. The transfer is made in good faith;

2. It is made for adequate consideration;

3. It is made through an irrevocable instrument; that is, there should be a written document

4. The transaction of transfer is not □Benami□;

5. The transfer is not made for the immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holder or other members of his family.

17. 18. In view of the above the following conditions should exist before the benefit of proviso (b) may be allowed to a tenure-holder in respect of sale effected by him:□

1. The transfer is not effected to circumvent or avoid the provisions of the Act: 2. The transfer is effected through a written document;

3. The transfer is not gartuitous but is for consideration;

4. The consideration is adequate and not low;

5. After effecting the transfer the transferor completely divests himself of his interest in the land, including cultivatory possession;

6. The transfer is not designed in such a manner that the actual or substantial beneficiary thereunder is the transferor himself or the members of his family, whether immediately or at a future date;

7. The transfer is not effected solely for the purpose of converting land into cash.

20. The next question that requires consideration is whether the benefit of proviso (b) can be extended also to the transfers effected after 8-6-1973. Sri Umesh Chandra, learned Chief Standing Counsel submitted that since in view of sub-sec. (1) of Sec. 5 the ceiling area is to be determined with reference to the date 8-6-1973, all transfers effected after this date will have to be treated as void. According to the learned counsel the title in the land becomes frozen crystallised on 8-6-1973 and on and from this date there can be no variation or change in the title and since the effect of transfer is change or variation in title, transfer itself becomes completely prohibited on and from 8-6-1973. In our opinion in view of the provision contained in sub-sec. (1) of section 5, the ceiling area is to be determined with reference to the person who is tenure-holder on 8-6-1973 which means that if the tenure-holder dies after 8-6-1973 leaving several heirs, the entire land held by such tenure-holder will be taken as the unit for determining the ceiling and surplus areas and not the individual shares inherited by the heirs. In other words, the succession will be ignored and for the purposes of the ceiling proceedings, the deceased tenure-holder will be treated as alive, although his heirs will be substituted and brought on record. But for the provision contained in Section 5(1), each heir could have claimed that the share inherited by him may be considered separately and out of this share land equivalent to his ceiling area may be left with him. The Act does not specifically provide for treating all tranfers effected after 8-6-1973 as void. If we accept the argument of the learned counsel we will have to read in the Act an implied provision for treating all transfers effected on and after 8-6-1973 as void. Such an implied provision cannot be read when the Act itself contains a specific date from which all the transfers are to be treated as void. This date is specified in sub-section (8) of Section 5. Under this sub-section no tenure-holder is entitled to transfer land during the continuance of proceedings for determination of surplus land. In the Explanation appended to the sub-section it has been explanied that proceedings for determination of surplus land shall be deemed to have commenced on the date of publication of notice under sub-section (2) of Section 9. This under sub-section (8) read with the Explanation the right to transfer land is taken away as soon as notice under Section 9(2) is published. In other words the right to transfer continues subject of course to the provisions contained in sub-section (6) upto the stage of publication of notice unde; Section 9(2). The consequences of a transfer made after the publication of the notice is also provided in sub-section (8) itself which says that such a transfer shall be void. In case we accept the argument of the learned Chief Standing Counsel there would be two dates from which the transfer of land will be prohibited, one specified date and the other implied date. When the Legislature itself has fixed a date for depriving a tenure-holder of his right to transfer land it is not possible for the courts to fix another date in addition to or in substitution of the said date. We are, therefore, of the opinion that the benefit of proviso (b) is available also to transfers effected between 8-6-1973 and the date on which notice under Section 9(2) is published. The view that we have taken herein was taken by B.N. Sapru, J. also in Km. Madhubala v. State af U.P., 1978 ALJ 1039. Contrary view were expressed by M.P. Mehrotra, J. in Jairam Singh v. State of Uttar Pradesh, 1978 AWC 624 and by Mufti, J. in Smt. Runwar Rani Sushila Devi v. State, 1978 ALJ 1099. For the reasons recorded hereinbefore we respectfully agree with the view expressed by brother Sapru, J. and regret our inability to agree with the view taken by our learned brethren Mehrotra and Mufti, JJ.

23. 24. From the above provision it is obvious that in determining ceiling area the family is treated as the unit and, therefore, all the land possessed by the members of the family as defined in the Act will have to be aggregated or clubbed together. The term □family□ has been defined in clause (7) of Section 3 as follows:"

"family□ in relation to a tenure-holder, means himself or herself and his wife or her husband, as the case may be (other than a judicially sparated wife or hus-band), minor sons and minor daughters other than married daughters."

25. Under the above definition minor son, minor unmarried daughter, the tenure-holder and his or her spouse constitute tenure-holder's family. As such the land held by the minor sons, minor unmarried daughters and the spouse is to be clubbed with the land of the tenure-holder for the purpose of determining the ceiling area of the tenure-holder. Thus in proceedings for determination of ceiling area a woman whose husband is a tenure-holder has no independent status as a tenure-holder. Her land is, therefore, clubbed with the land of her husband. The same is the position of a minor son and minor unmarried daughter whose father or mother is a tenure-holder. Therefore, where a husband and wife both are holders of a holding they together constitute one unit of tenure-holder. In this context the prohibition contained in sub-section (8) of Section 5 will apply also to a sale effected by a woman whose husband is also a tenure-holder. If the woman whose husband was a tenure-holder had not been excluded from the definition of tenure-holder under clause (17) of Section 3 the consequence would have been that under sub-section (3) of Section 5 her land could not have been clubbed with the land of her husband and being an independent tenure-holder her own land would also have been subjected to determination of ceiling and surplus areas. It is to avoid this situation that a woman whose husband is a tenure-holder has been excluded from the definition of the term □tenure-holder□ given in the Act. We accordingly do not accept the contention of Sri S.P. Gupta that sub-section (8) of Section 5 does not apply to a sale effected by a woman. The learned counsel further contended that sub-seciion (8) was added to Section 5 of the Act through U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act 1976 (U.P. Act No. 20 of 1976) with effect from 10-10-1975 and therefore its provisions could not be invoked for invalidating the transfers effected prior thereto. Sub-section (2) of Section 1 of the Amending Act says that the Act shall be deemed to have come into force on October 10, 1975. Sub-section (8) was added through clause (d) of Section 6 of the Amending Act which is as follows:"

(g) □□□□□

From the above provisions it is apparent that the retroactivity given to sub-section (8) does not go beyond 10-10-1975. Another amendment was made through clause (a) of Section 6. With regard to this amendment it has been specifically provided by clause (a) that the same shall be deemed to have been substituted from [January 17, 1975. However no date earlier than 10th October 1975 has been provided in the Act for the addition of sub-section (8). Sri Gupta is therefore justified in saying that the transfers effected prior to 10-10-1975 will not be hit by sub-section (8) of Section 5."

d) Ram Karan and 13 others Vs. State of U.P. (Supra):

"29. Next argument advanced by learned counsel for the petitioners while challenging the judgment and order dated 16.9.2002 (Annexure No. 1) passed by the Prescribed Authority (Ceiling)/additional Collector, Sitapur/opposite party no. 3 that admittedly Shri Vishwa Nath Singh the original tenure holder of the land in question (Plot nos. 377 and 382) executed the registered sale deed on 12.8.1959 in favour of Smt. Kamla Shukla, Smt. Ram Devi and on 18.8.1959 in favour of Smt. Prem Kumari, Smt. Karori Banerji, Sri Prakash Banerji and Smt. Sushma Kochar. Thereafter, the said land has been recorded in their favour as per litigations held under the provisions as provided U.P. Z.A. & L. R. Act, 1901, thus, they become tenure holder of the land in question i.e. plot nos. 382 and 377. Subsequently, the said persons sold the land by registered sale deeds executed on 27.11.1975 and 20.2.1981 respectively, so the finding given by the Prescribed Authority (Ceiling)/additional Collector, Sitapur/opposite party no. 3 that the said sale deeds are hit by the provisions of Section 5(6) of the Act, is incorrect because after the sale deeds executed by Shri Vishwa Nath Singh in the year 1959, he is not the tenure holder, so there is no justification or reason to issue the notice under Section 10(2) of the Act to him, so the action on the part of the respondent no. 3 to proceed and pass the judgment on the ground that the sale deed executed in favour of the petitioners between 1975 to 1981 by some other person to whom the land has been transferred by the registered sale deed and recorded in their favour is an action, contrary to the provisions of Section 5(6) of the Act, rather perverse in nature, contrary to the facts of the case when the said sale deeds are on record. In order to support his argument, Shri Brijesh Kumar Saxena, learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance on the judgment given by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case Maria Margarida Sequeira Fernandes v. Erasmo Jack De Sequeira (Dead) through L.Rs. (2012) 5 Supreme Court Cases 370, so liable to be set aside.

31. In order to decide the said argument, I feel appropriate to go through the relevant provisions as provided under sub-section 17 of Section 3 as well as Sub-section (6) of Section 5 of the Act, reproduced herein below:-

" tenure-holder means a person who is the holder of a holding but except in Chapter III does not include-

(a) a woman whose husband is a tenrue-holder;

(b) a minor child whose father or mother is a tenure holder;

"Section 5(6)- in determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, any transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account.

"Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to-

(a) a transfer in favour of any person (including Government) referred to in sub-section (2):

(b) a transfer proved to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority to be in good faith and for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument not being a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holder or other members of his family.

Explanation I.- For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression □transfer to land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971□, includes-

[(a) a declaration of a person as a co-tenure-holder made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971 in a suit or proceeding irrespective of whether such suit or proceeding was pending on or was instituted after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971].

Explanation II-The burden of proving that a case falls within Clause (b) of the proviso shall rest with the party claiming its benefit."

32. The U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972 was enforced with effect from 8-6-1973. Therefore, in view of the provision contained in sub-section 91), on and from 8-6-1973 a person who is a tenure holder cannot hold land in excess of his ceiling area. In view of Explanation I to sub-section (1) all the land held by the tenure-holder has to be taken into account while determining his ceiling and surplus areas, irrespective of the fact whether the land is held by the tenure-holder in his own name or in the name of someone else fictitiously. While considering the question whether a land held ostensibly in the name of another person actually belongs to the tenure-holder, the rule of evidence prescribed in Explanation II to sub-section (1) has to be followed. This rule of evidence applies to the case where on or before 24.1.1971 a land was held by the tenure-holder but after this date it came to be recorded in the name of someone else although the tenure-holder continued to be in its possession by cultivating the same. This rule will apply also to the situation where the name of the tenure-holder is not completely obliterated from the records and along with his name the name of someone else too comes to be recorded. In both the situations the Prescribed Authority is required under this Explanation to presume that the land continues to be held by the tenure-holder who held it prior to 24.1.1971. This presumption is, however, rebuttable as is evident from the use of the wrods □unless the contrary is proved to the satisfaction of the Prescribed Authority□. Sub-section (6) contains extension of the principle contained in Explanation I. It provides executed after this date are not to be ignored. Sale deeds which are not sham or fictitious have to be taken into account and the land conveyed by such deeds has to be excluded from the holding of the tenure-holder. This is so because of the provision contained in proviso (b) to sub-section (6), command for ignoring transfer effected after 21.1.1971 will not apply if the following conditions are satisfied:

1. The transfer is made in good faith;

2. It is made for adequate consideration;

3. It is made through an irrevocable instrument; that is, there should be a written document;

4. The transaction of transfer is not □Benami□;

36. Thus, it is mandatory on the part of the Prescribed Authority in the present case to determine that at the time of issuing a notice under Section 10(2) of the Act whether Shri Vishwa Nath Singh was the tenure holder in respect to land in question or Smt. Prem Kumari, Smt. Karori Banerji, Sri Prakash Banerji and Smt. Sushma Kochar and Smt. Kamla Shukla and Smt. Ram Devi were the tenure holders by virtue of the sale deed executed in their favour on 18.8.1959 and 12.8.1959. But admittedly the Prescribed Authority failed to discharge the said mandatory duty casted upon it, even the notice under Section 10(2) of the Act have not been issued to them. (See Ibrahim v. State of U.P. 1986 RR 138, Thakur Das v. State of U.P. 1987 RD 127 and Viresh Pratap Shah v. A.D.J., Basti, 2005 (98) RD 419), so the argument advanced by learned State Counsel with the aid of the provisions as provided under Sub-section 1 of Section 5 of the Act that the impugned order passed by the Prescribed Authority while adjudicating and deciding the dispute involved in the instant case after taking into consideration that the land belongs to Sri Vishwa Nath Singh and passing the impugned order is a correct exercise, has got no force, moreover, the Prescribed Authority also failed to consider while passing the impugned order that whether as per the definition as provided Subsection 17 of Section 3 of the Act Smt. Prem Kumari, Smt. Karori Banerji, Sri Prakash Banerji, Smt. Sushma Kochar, Smt. Kamla Shukla and Smt. Ram Devi are tenure holder of the land in question whose names are recorded in the revenue record as per the registered sale deed executed by Shri Vishwa Nath Singh in the year 1959 and as per the litigation taken place in the proceeding under Section 176 and Section 209 of the U.P. Z. A. & L. R. Act. So, it is necessary to issue notice under Section 10(2) of the Act to them.

37. A Division Bench of this Court in the case of Om Prakash Agarwal v. First Addl. District and Sessions Judge 1981 AWC 775 after placing the reliance on the judgment given by Hon'ble the Apex Court in the case of Brijendra Singh v. State of U.P., 1981 AWC 125 in paragraph 16 and 17 held as under:-

"Para 16 □□□□Once it is established by the transferring tenure holder that the transfer in question effected in the course of ordinary management of his affairs, was made for adequate consideration and he has genuinely absolutely and irrevocably divested himself of all right, tiltle and interest (including cultivatory possession) in the land in favour of the transferee the onus under Explanation II, in the absence of any circumstances, suggestive of collusion, or an intention or design to defraud or circumvesnt the Ceiling Act, on the tenure holder to show that the transfer was effected in good faith, will stand discharged, and it will not be necessary for the tenure-holder to prove further that the transfer was made for an impelling need or to raise money for meeting a pressing legal necessity. Although proof of the fact that a transfer was made for a valid pressing necessity, may highlight or strength the inference in favour of the genuineness of the transfer, it is not an indispensable constituent of □good faith□; nor is the proof of legal necessity requisite, as a matter of law, to enable a tenure-holder to avail of the benefit of clause (b) of proviso□□□"

Para 17 - In view of the above following conditions should exist before the benefit of proviso (b) may be allowed to a tenure-holder in respect of sale effected by him:-

1. The transfer is not effected to circumvent or avoid the provisions of the Act;

2. The transfer is effected through a written document;

3. The transfer is not gartuitous but is for consideration;

4. The consideration is adequate and not low;

5. After effecting the transfer the transferor completely divests himself of his interest in the land, including cultivatory possession."

e) Pramod Kumar Vs. Additional Commissioner (Supra):

"9. The sale deeds executed after 24.1.1971 are to be ignored unless they are saved under clause (b) of sub-section (6) of Section 5. A reference in this regard may be made to the decision rendered in the case of Raghuvir Singh v. State of U.P., [1996 AWC 1380.] and Raghuvir Singh v. State of U.P.. [1979 ALJ Page 767.]

10. Sub-section 8 of Section 6 has been added in the statute by U.P. Imposition of Ceiling (Amendment) Act 1976 (Act No. XX of 1976) which came into force with effect from 10.10.1975. Thus all sale deeds relied upon by the petitioners i.e., dated 13.4.1973, 5.11.1974, 20.9.1975 were executed before the enactment and enforcement of sub-section (8) of Section 5. Therefore the said sale deeds cannot be said to be void in terms of sub-section (8) of Section 5. View taken to the contrary by the authorities below is thus manifestly erroneous, illegal. A reference in this regard may be made to the decision rendered by a Division Bench in the case of Om Prakash Agarwal v. A.D.J.. [1981 AWC 775.] It was thus obligatory upon the authority below to look into the validity or otherwise of the sale deeds in question before discarding the same. The authorities below committed an error which is apparent on the face of record in holding that the aforesaid sale deeds were void and were hit by sub-section (8) of Section 5."

f) Municipality of Bhiwandi and Nizampur Vs. M/S Kailash Sizing Works (Supra):

"11. Section 167 of the Bombay District Municipal Act confers protection on the Municipality in respect of anything in good faith done or intended to be done. The expression □done in good faith□ has been defined in the Bombay General Clauses Act, 1904 and in the General Clauses Act, to mean, done honestly, whether done negligently or not. The question therefore is, whether the Municipality, in the present case, can be said to have acted honestly.

12. In Jones v. Gordon [2 App Cas 616] Lord Blackburn pointed out the distinction between the case of a person who was honestly blundering and careless, and the case of a person who has acted not honestly. An authority is not acting honestly where an authority has a suspicion that there is something wrong and does not make further enquiries. Being aware of possible harm to others, and acting in spite thereof, is acting with reckless disregard of consequences. It is worse than negligence, for negligent action is that, the consequences of which, the law presumes to be present in the mind of the negligent person, whether actually it was there or not. This legal presumption is drawn through the well known hypothetical reasonable man. Reckless disregard of consequences and mala fides stand equal, where the actual state of mind of the actor is relevant. This is so in the eye of law, even if there might be variations in the degree of moral reproach deserved by recklessness and mala fides.

13. The Bombay, as also, the Central, General Clauses Acts, help only insofar as they lay down that negligence does not necessarily mean mala fides. Something more than negligence is necessary. But these Acts say honestly and so, for the interpretation of that word, we have explained the legal meanings above."

g) Dwarka Nath Vs. Income Tax Officer and another (Supra):

"4. We shall first take the preliminary objection, for if we maintain it, no other question will arise for consideration. Article 226 of the Constitution reads:

every High Court shall have power, throughout the territories in relation to which it exercises jurisdiction, to issue to any person or authority, including in appropriate cases any Government, within those territories directions, orders or writs, including writs in the nature of habeas corpus, mandamus, prohibition, quo warranto and certiorari, or any of them, for the enforcement of any of the rights conferred by Part III and for any other purpose.

This article is couched in comprehensive phraseology and it ex facie confers a wide power on the High Courts to reach injustice wherever it is found. The Constitution designedly used a wide language in describing the nature of the power, the purpose for which and the person or authority against whom it can be exercised. It can issue writs in the nature of prerogative writs as understood in England; but the scope of those writs also is widened by the use of the expression nature, for the said expression does not equate the writs that can be issued in India with those in England, but only draws an analogy from them. That apart, High Courts can also issue directions, orders or writs other than the prerogative writs. It enables the High Courts to mould the reliefs to meet the peculiar and complicated requirements of this country. Any attempt to equate the scope of the power of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution with that of the English Courts to issue prerogative writs is to introduce the unnecessary procedural restrictions grown over the years in a comparatively small country like England with a unitary form of government to a vast country like India functioning under a federal structure. Such a construction defeats the purpose of the article itself. To say this is not to say that the High Courts can function arbitrarily under this Article. Some limitations are implicit in the article and others may be evolved to direct the article through defined channels. This interpretation has been accepted by this Court in Basappa v. Nagappa [(1962) 2 SCR 169] and Irani v. State of Madras [(1955) 1 SCR 250] ."

h) Rameshwar Vs. Jot Ram (Supra):

"8. In P. Venkateswarlu v. Motor & General Traders [(1975) 1 SCC 770, 772 : AIR 1975 SC 1409, 1410] this Court dealt with the adjectival activism relating to post-institution circumstances. Two propositions were laid down. Firstly, it was held that [SCC p. 772, para 4]

"it is basic to our processual jurisprudence that the right to relief must be judged to exist as on the date a suitor institutes the legal proceeding."

This is an emphatic statement that the right of a party is determined by the facts as they exist on the date the action is instituted. Granting the presence of such facts, then he is entitled to its enforcement. Later developments cannot defeat his right because, as explained earlier, had the court found his facts to be true the day he sued he would have got his decree. The Court's procedural delays cannot deprive him of legal justice or right crystallised in the initial cause of action. This position finds support in Bhajan Lal v. State of Punjab [(1971) 1 SCC 34] ."

i) Ramesh Kumar Vs. Kesho Ram (Supra):

"4. 6. The normal rule is that in any litigation the rights and obligations of the parties are adjudicated upon as they obtain at the commencement of the lis. But this is subject to an exception. Wherever subsequent events of fact or law which have a material bearing on the entitlement of the parties to relief or on aspects which bear on the moulding of the relief occur, the court is not precluded from taking a □cautious cognizance□ of the subsequent changes of fact and law to mould the relief. In Lachmeshwar Prasad Shukul v. Keshwar Lal Chaudhuri [AIR 1941 FC 5 : 73 CLJ 51 : 53 MLW 373] Chief Justice Sir Maurice Gwyer observed: (AIR p. 6)

"But, with regard to the question whether the court is entitled to take into account legislative changes since the decision under appeal was given, I desire to point out that the rule adopted by the Supreme Court of the United States is the same as that which I think commends itself to all three members of this Court. In Patterson v. State of Alabama [(1934) 294 US 600] , Hughes C.J. said:

"We have frequently held that in the exercise of our appellate jurisdiction we have power not only to correct error in the judgment under review but to make such disposition of the case as justice requires. And in determining what justice does require, the court is bound to consider any change, either in fact or in law, which has supervened since the judgment was entered□."

And in Pasupuleti Venkateswarlu v. Motor & General Traders [(1975) 1 SCC 770 : (1975) 3 SCR 958] Justice Krishna Iyer said : (SCC p. 772, para 4)

"We feel the submissions devoid of substance. First about the jurisdiction and propriety vis-a-vis circumstances which come into being subsequent to the commencement of the proceedings. It is basic to our processual jurisprudence that the right to relief must be judged to exist as on the date a suitor institutes the legal proceeding. Equally clear is the principle that procedure is the handmaid and not the mistress of the judicial process. If a fact, arising after the lis has come to court and has a fundamental impact on the right to relief or the manner of moulding it, is brought diligently to the notice of the tribunal, it cannot blink at it or be blind to events which stultify or render inept the decretal remedy. Equity justifies bending the rules of procedure, where no specific provision or fair play is violated, with a view to promote substantial justice □ subject, of course, to the absence of other disentitling factors or just circumstances. Nor can we contemplate any limitation on this power to take note of updated facts to confine it to the trial Court. If the litigation pends, the power exists, absent other special circumstances repelling resort to that course in law or justice. Rulings on this point are legion, even as situations for applications of this equitable rule are myriad."

These principles have since been reiterated and reaffirmed in Hasmat Rai v. Raghunath Prasad [(1981) 3 SCC 103 : (1981) 3 SCR 605] ."

j) B.C. Chaturvedi Vs. Union of India (Supra):

"3. It deserves to be pointed out that the mere fact that there is no provision parallel to Article 142 relating to the High Courts, can be no ground to think that they have not to do complete justice, and if moulding of relief would do complete justice between the parties, the same cannot be ordered. Absence of provision like Article 142 is not material, according to me. This may be illustrated by pointing out that despite there being no provision in the Constitution parallel to Article 137 conferring power of review on the High Court, this Court held as early as 1961 in Shivdeo Singh case [Shivdeo Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1963 SC 1909] that the High Courts too can exercise power of review, which inheres in every court of plenary jurisdiction. I would say that power to do complete justice also inheres in every court, not to speak of a court of plenary jurisdiction like a High Court. Of course, this power is not as wide as which this Court has under Article 142. That, however, is a different matter.

4. What has been stated above may be buttressed by putting the matter a little differently. The same is that in a case of a dismissal, Article 21 gets attracted, and, in view of the interdependence of fundamental rights, which concept was first accepted in the case commonly known as Bank Nationalisation case [Rustom Cavasjee Cooper v. Union of India, (1970) 1 SCC 248 : (1970) 3 SCR 530] , which thinking was extended to cases attracting Article 21 in Maneka Gandhi v. Union of India [(1978) 1 SCC 248 : AIR 1978 SC 597] , the punishment/penalty awarded has to be reasonable; and if it be unreasonable, Article 14 would be violated. That Article 14 gets attracted in a case of disproportionate punishment was the view of this Court in Bhagat Ram v. State of H.P. [(1983) 2 SCC 442 : 1983 SCC (L&S) 342 : AIR 1983 SC 454] also. Now if Article 14 were to be violated, it cannot be doubted that a High Court can take care of the same by substituting, in appropriate cases, a punishment deemed reasonable by it."

k) Jodhey and others Vs. State through Ram Sahai (Supra):

"10. To emphasise and to clarify the plenary nature of power of superintendence vested in the High Court the provision of law relating to it has been split up into four clauses. The first clause enunciates the general power of supervision given to High Court over all Courts and tribunals throughout the territories in rerelation to which it exercises jurisdiction. It is couched in a language which would vest the High Court with a power that is not fettered with any restriction and must embrace all aspects of the functions exercised by every Court and tribunal. On a proper interpretation of this clause it is difficult to my mind to hold that the powers of superintendence are confined only to administrative matters. There are no limits, fetters or restrictions placed on this power of superintendence in this Clause and the purpose of this Article seems to be to make the High Court the custodian of all justice within the territorial limits of its jurisdiction and to arm it with a weapon that could be wielded for the purpose of seeing that justice is meted out fairly and properly by the bodies mentioned therein. To fulfil this function it seems to me that the power of superintendence of the High Court over judicial matters is as necessary as over administrative matters. As a matter of fact judicial function of a Court is not less important than its administrative function. In fact it is more necessary to rectify lapses in judicial matters than defects in administrative matters. A judicial error might affect the rights, liberty and freedom of the subject whereas an administrative error might not do so. To my mind superintendence over judicial functions is a necessary complement of superintendence over administrative functions and it is sometimes very difficult to say where the one ends and the other begins. If the High Court is to perform this function efficiently and effectively, it must act on both sides, otherwise the very power of superintendence will be crippled and what has been achieved on the administrative side might be lost on the judicial side."

l) RBF Rig Corporation, Mumbai Vs. Commissioner of Customs (Imports) (Supra):

"16. 21. In Dwarka Nath v. ITO [AIR 1966 SC 81] this Court pointed out that Article 226 is designedly couched in a wide language in order not to confine the power conferred by it only to the power to issue prerogative writs as understood in England, such wide language being used to enable the High Courts to reach injustice wherever it is found and to mould the reliefs to meet the peculiar and complicated requirements of this country.

17. 22. In Halsbury's Laws of England, 4th Edn., Vol. I, para 89, it is stated that the purpose of an order of mandamus

"89.Nature of mandamus. is to remedy defects of justice; and accordingly it will issue, to the end that justice may be done, in all cases where there is a specific legal right and no specific legal remedy for enforcing that right; and it may issue in cases where, although there is an alternative legal remedy, yet that mode of redress is less convenient, beneficial and effectual."

18. The High Court, in the present case, has moulded the relief in such a manner to meet out justice to an aggrieved person. It is not open to the subordinate Tribunal to examine whether a direction issued by the High Court under its writ powers was correct and refuse to carry it out as such amounts to denial of justice and destroys the principle of hierarchy of courts in the administration of justice. 24. This Court in Bishnu Ram Borah v. Parag Saikia [(1984) 2 SCC 488] has held: (SCC pp. 496-97, para 11)

11. It is regrettable that the Board of Revenue failed to realise that like any other subordinate tribunal, it was subject to the writ jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution. Just as the judgments and orders of the Supreme Court have to be faithfully obeyed and carried out throughout the territory of India under Article 142 of the Constitution, so should be the judgments and orders of the High Court by all inferior courts and tribunals subject to their supervisory jurisdiction within the State under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution. We cannot but deprecate the action of the Board of Revenue in refusing to carry out the directions of the High Court. In Bhopal Sugar Industries Ltd. v. ITO [AIR 1961 SC 182 : (1961) 1 SCR 474] the Income Tax Officer had virtually refused to carry out the clear and unambiguous directions which a superior tribunal like the Income Tax Appellate Tribunal had given to him by its final order in exercise of its appellate powers in respect of an order of assessment made by him. The Court held that such refusal was in effect a denial of justice and is furthermore destructive of one of the basic principles in the administration of justice based as it is in this country on the hierarchy of courts.

The facts of the present case are more or less similar and we would have allowed the matter to rest at that but unfortunately the judgment of the High Court directing the issue of a writ of mandamus for the grant of a liquor licence to Respondents 1 and 2 cannot be sustained."

m) Ramesh Chandra Sankla etc. Vs. Vikram Cement etc. (Supra):

"80. Now, it is well settled that jurisdiction of the High Courts under Articles 226 and 227 is discretionary and equitable. Before more than half a century, the High Court of Allahabad in the leading case of Jodhey v. State [AIR 1952 All 788] observed: (AIR p. 792, para 10)

"10. There are no limits, fetters or restrictions placed on this power of superintendence in this clause and the purpose of this article seems to be to make the High Court the custodian of all justice within the territorial limits of its jurisdiction and to arm it with a weapon that could be wielded for the purpose of seeing that justice is meted out fairly and properly by the bodies mentioned therein."

82. 92. In Roshan Deen v. Preeti Lal [(2002) 1 SCC 100 : 2002 SCC (L&S) 97] , dealing with an order passed by the High Court setting aside an order of the Commissioner for Workmen's Compensation, this Court stated: (SCC p. 106, para 12)

"12. Time and again this Court has reminded that the power conferred on the High Court under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution is to advance justice and not to thwart it (vide State of U.P.v. District Judge, Unnao [(1984) 2 SCC 673 : AIR 1984 SC 1401]). The very purpose of such constitutional powers being conferred on the High Courts is that no man should be subjected to injustice by violating the law. The lookout of the High Court is, therefore, not merely to pick out any error of law through an academic angle but to see whether injustice has resulted on account of any erroneous interpretation of law. If justice became the by-product of an erroneous view of law the High Court is not expected to erase such justice in the name of correcting the error of law."

n) K.B. Ramchandra Raje Ors. (Dead) by Lrs. Vs. State of Karnataka and ors. (Supra):

"24. The acquisition under the 1903 Act and the allotment of 55 acres of land to Respondent 28 having been found to be contrary to law consequential orders of handing over of possession of the entire land should normally follow. However, in granting relief at the end of a protracted litigation, as in the present case, the Court cannot be unmindful of facts and events that may have occurred during the pendency of the litigation. It may, at times, become necessary to balance the equities having regard to the fact situation and accordingly mould the relief(s). How the relief is to be moulded, in the light of all the relevant facts, essentially lies in the realm of the discretion of the courts whose ultimate duty is to uphold and further the mandate of law. If the issue is viewed from the aforesaid perspective the several decisions cited on behalf of the respondents in this regard, particularly by Respondent 28 i.e. Competent Authority v. Barangore Jute Factory [Competent Authority v. Barangore Jute Factory, (2005) 13 SCC 477] , U.G. Hospitals (P) Ltd. v. State of Haryana [U.G. Hospitals (P) Ltd. v. State of Haryana, (2011) 14 SCC 354 : (2012) 4 SCC (Civ) 959] , Gaiv Dinshaw Irani v. Tehmtan Irani [Gaiv Dinshaw Irani v. Tehmtan Irani, (2014) 8 SCC 294 : (2014) 4 SCC (Civ) 318] and Bhimandas Ambwani v. Delhi Power Co. Ltd. [Bhimandas Ambwani v. Delhi Power Co. Ltd., (2013) 14 SCC 195 : (2014) 2 SCC (Civ) 448] can at best indicate the manner of exercise of the judicial discretion in the facts surrounding the particular cases in question."

39. From the pleadings exchanged between the parties, the material brought on record and the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the principal question which arises for consideration before this Court is as to whether the Prescribed Authority as well as the appellate authority have determined the ceiling area of the petitioner in accordance with the mandatory provisions of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960, particularly Section 4-A thereof, and whether the impugned orders suffer from perversity, inconsistency of reasoning, non-consideration of material evidence and manifest illegality warranting interference under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

40. This Court finds that the entire controversy centres around the classification of the land in question as irrigated or unirrigated and the consequent determination of ceiling surplus area. The record unmistakably demonstrates that while computing the permissible ceiling area of the petitioner, the authorities have treated the land as irrigated so as to reduce the ceiling entitlement available to the petitioner, whereas while identifying the land to be declared surplus, the same holding has been treated as unirrigated so as to enlarge the surplus area. Such a self-contradictory approach strikes at the very root of fairness in quasi-judicial adjudication and renders the impugned determination arbitrary.

41. Section 4-A of the Act lays down a specific statutory mechanism for determination of irrigated land. The provision obligates the authority to examine khasra entries of the relevant faslis and undertake due verification including spot inspection so as to record a categorical finding regarding the source and availability of assured irrigation. The requirement is mandatory and not directory, inasmuch as classification of land directly affects the proprietary rights of a tenure holder and any deprivation of land under an expropriatory legislation must strictly conform to statutory safeguards.

42. In the case of Beni Ram Vs. State of U.P. (Supra), this Court categorically held that since the Ceiling Act is in the nature of expropriatory legislation, strict compliance with statutory requirements is imperative and the authorities must meticulously determine whether land is irrigated within the meaning of Section 4-A before declaring any area surplus. The ratio of the aforesaid judgment squarely applies to the facts of the present case. A perusal of the impugned orders reveals no meaningful discussion of the khasra entries, no proper appreciation of the consolidation records and no reasoned finding based upon statutory parameters.

43. The petitioner has specifically relied upon C.H. Form-41 and other consolidation records demonstrating that the land situated in Village Kather was recorded as unirrigated. The authorities have brushed aside this documentary evidence without assigning cogent reasons. It is settled law that omission to consider material evidence amounts to perversity in decision-making. A quasi-judicial order affecting substantive rights cannot be sustained when relevant evidence is ignored and conclusions are founded upon conjectures.

44. Equally unsustainable is the finding of the Prescribed Authority treating tank and "Chora" as valid and assured sources of irrigation. No material has been brought on record to establish that these sources fulfilled the statutory requirement contemplated under Section 4-A. The classification of land cannot rest upon assumptions or casual inferences. The burden lay upon the State authorities to establish with clarity that the land answered the statutory description of irrigated land. That burden has not been discharged.

45. The contention advanced on behalf of the petitioner regarding the bona fide transfer of land situated in Village Beb also merits acceptance. The sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 is a registered instrument and the material on record demonstrates that possession was delivered and mutation was effected in favour of the purchasers in the year 1975 itself. The appellate authority itself accepted the transaction to be bona fide.

46. In the case of Km. Madhubala Vs. State of U.P. (Supra), Om Prakash Agarwal Vs. First Additional District and Sessions Judge (Supra) and Pramod Kumar Vs. Additional Commissioner (Supra), it has been consistently held that transfers made after 24.01.1971 cannot automatically be ignored unless the authority records a finding that such transfer does not satisfy the conditions contemplated under proviso (b) to Section 5(6) of the Act. Once a transfer is shown to be genuine, for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument, the transferred land is liable to be excluded from the holding of the tenure holder.

47. In the present case, there is no finding recorded by the Prescribed Authority dislodging the genuineness of the transfer. On the contrary, the transaction having been accepted as bona fide, the inclusion of the said land in the petitioner"s holding was wholly impermissible. The authorities thus committed a manifest error of law apparent on the face of record.

48. The enhancement of declared surplus land from 4.74 acres to 5.54 acres in remand proceedings is another aspect which exposes the illegality of the proceedings. The appellate remand was confined to specific issues requiring reconsideration. The Prescribed Authority could not have travelled beyond the scope of remand so as to place the petitioner in a worse position in absence of any fresh material justifying such enhancement.

49. It is a settled principle that an authority acting pursuant to a remand order must strictly confine itself to the terms of remand. Any adjudication beyond the remitted issues is jurisdictionally unsustainable. The Prescribed Authority clearly misconstrued the remand directions and exercised jurisdiction not vested in it.

50. The appellate authority while affirming the order dated 05.11.1998 failed to independently examine these glaring legal infirmities. The order dated 30.03.1999 is conspicuously silent on the petitioner"s specific objections relating to inconsistent classification of land, non-compliance of Section 4-A and wrongful inclusion of transferred land. The appellate order, thus, suffers from non-application of mind and mechanical affirmance.

51. The submission of learned Standing Counsel regarding delay and laches does not persuade this Court. The writ petition was instituted challenging the consequential orders and during pendency of proceedings the petitioner sought amendment to challenge foundational remand orders as well. The challenge essentially pertains to a continuing illegality affecting the petitioner□s proprietary rights. Since the impugned orders are found to be ex facie contrary to statutory provisions, this Court cannot decline relief solely on technical considerations.

52. The law laid down in the case of Dwarka Nath Vs. Income Tax Officer (Supra), Jodhey Vs. State (Supra), RBF Rig Corporation Vs. Commissioner of Customs (Supra) and Ramesh Chandra Sankla Vs. Vikram Cement (Supra) unequivocally recognizes the plenary jurisdiction of this Court under Article 226 to reach injustice wherever found and to mould relief so as to advance substantial justice. Technical objections cannot override the constitutional obligation of this Court to correct patent illegality.

53. The objection of acquiescence raised by learned Standing Counsel is equally untenable. Participation in proceedings pursuant to a remand order cannot estop a litigant from questioning the legality of orders when the very proceedings culminate in an order passed in excess of jurisdiction and in violation of statutory mandate.

54. This Court is also mindful of the principle enunciated in the case of Rameshwar Vs. Jot Ram (Supra) and Ramesh Kumar Vs. Kesho Ram (Supra) that rights of parties are ordinarily to be adjudged as on the date of institution of proceedings, though relief may be moulded to meet the ends of justice. In the present case, subsequent developments do not dilute the petitioner's accrued right to challenge orders vitiated by patent illegality.

55. Upon cumulative consideration of the entire material on record, this Court is satisfied that the Prescribed Authority failed to undertake the mandatory statutory exercise under Section 4-A; ignored relevant documentary evidence; adopted mutually destructive findings regarding nature of land; wrongly included land already transferred through a bona fide sale deed; and illegally enhanced the surplus area beyond the scope of remand. The appellate authority compounded these errors by mechanically affirming the illegal order.

56. The impugned orders, therefore, cannot be sustained in law. They suffer from arbitrariness, perversity, non-application of mind and violation of statutory provisions, thereby offending Article 14 of the Constitution of India.

57. Consequently, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

58. The impugned orders dated 18.02.1997/12.05.1997, the consequential order dated 05.11.1998 passed by the Prescribed Authority and the appellate order dated 30.03.1999 are hereby quashed.

59. The matter is remitted to the Prescribed Authority concerned for fresh determination strictly in accordance with law after affording adequate opportunity of hearing to all concerned parties and after specifically determining:

(i) the nature of land strictly in terms of Section 4-A of the Act on the basis of relevant khasra entries and spot verification;

(ii) the effect of the registered sale deed dated 13.05.1974/14.05.1974 in light of Section 5(6)(b) of the Act;

(iii) the petitioner's permissible ceiling area after due consideration of all admissible documentary evidence.

60. The aforesaid exercise shall be completed expeditiously, preferably within a period of six months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the competent authority.

61. Till fresh decision is taken, status quo with regard to possession over the land in question shall be maintained.

62. There shall be no order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 3000082 of 2009

Balbir Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
Addl. Commissioner Admn. Devi Patan Gonda ...Respondent

Issue for consideration

The petitioner challenged the ceiling authorities' orders declaring 1.008 hectares of his land as surplus. Ceiling proceedings were initiated by clubbing the holdings of the petitioner's judicially separated wife, major sons and married daughter with his landholding.

Balbir Singh Vs. Additional Commissioner Administration Devi Patan Gonda

From the judgment and order dated 06.05.2026 of the High Court of judicature at Allahabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for Petitioner(s):

Mohd. Aslam Khan, Mohammad Aslam Khan, V.K. Pandey

Adv. for Respondent(s):

C.S.C

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri M.A. Khan, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Additional CSC for the respondent - State.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the impugned order dated 25.08.2009 passed by respondent No.1 in appeal No.15; Balbir Singh VS. State upholding the order dated 08.09.2008 passed by respondent No.2 contained as Annexures-1&2 to the writ petition, respectively.

3. Brief facts of the case in nutshell are that the petitioner is a tenure holder and possess his holdings in different villages. On 14.09.2006, a notice under Section 10(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 (Ceiling Act) was issued to the petitioner after clubbing the holding of Smt. Sukhvinder Kaur daughter of Sujan Singh (judicially separated wife), Joga Singh (opposite party no.4), Milkeet Singh (Opposite party no.5) (major sons of the petitioner) and Smt.

Rathvinder Kaur wife of Gurdeo Singh (Opposite party no.6) (major daughter of the petitioner), although after her marriage opposite party no.6 is residing alongwith her husband.

4. On being served with the notice aforesaid, objections were filed by the petitioner on 20.02.2007 on the ground inter-alia that Sukhvinder Kaur is judicially separated wife, hence her holding cannot be clubbed with the holding of the petitioner while determining ceiling and surplus area. It was also pleaded that Joga Singh (Opposite party no.4) and Milkeet Singh (opposite party no.5) major sons of the petitioner are recorded tenure holder and their holding was purchased by their grand father. They are residing separately alongwith their grand father. The holding in the name of the opposite party no.6 was purchased by her maternal grand mother and since the date of purchase, she is in possession over the same. It was also pleaded that 2-1/2 bighas land situated in village Chathariya and plot no. 461 having an area of 0.16 hectare was sold by the petitioner for consideration in good faith of bonafide for personal need. Plot no. 168 having an area of 1 acre was claimed a aabadi for more than 35 years. Over an area of 0.160 hectare there is a grove and over an area of 0.081 hectare there exists Gurdwara, hence, the aforesaid areas are liable to be excluded while determining the ceiling and surplus holding of the petitioner. The petitioner has also claimed that the entire holding possessed by him as unirrigated as there exist no source of irrigation.

5. Objections were also filed by respondent No.6 that she is recorded tenure holder, hence, her holding cannot be clubbed with that of the petitioner. Objections were also filed by Sukhvinder Kuar daughter of Khajan Singh, that she is judicially separated wife in pursuance to the decree dated 16.05.2001 passed in Regular Suit No.9 of 2001 by Civil Judge, (Senior Division) Bahraich, hence, her holding cannot be clubbed with that of the petitioner.

6. Objections were also filed by respondent Nos.4 and 5 on 26.02.2007, that their holding was purchased by their grand father through registered sale deed and they are recorded tenure holder and are residing separately alongwith their grand father. The petitioner in support of his case examined himself, Achal Singh Rana the pradhan of village Matehi, Ramakant Prasad, Ex-pradhan, Smt. Sukhvinder Kaur, Smt. Rathvinder Kaur, Joga Singh and others.

7. The objectors have also filed the copy of the parivar register of House No.89 of Balbir Singh (petitioner) of House No.90 of Sukhvindar Kaur, of House No.91 belonging to Kartar Singh, copy of ration cards of Vir Kaur, Balbir Singh and copy of the decree passed in Regular Suit No.9 of 2001. The State examined Lekhpal only and had not filed relevant khasras for the years 1378, 1379 and 1380 Fasli, which are mandatory as contemplated by Section 4-A of the Act.

8. The prescribed authority after excluding the land of Sukhvinder Kaur, judicially separated wife after clubbing the holding of respondent Nos.4 to 6 determined the ceiling and surplus area of the petitioner while allotting 2 additional hectares of land to the petitioner as he has two major sons and one daughter, merely relying upon the statement of Lekhpal, even without making the compliance of the terms of Section 4-A of the Act, held that the entire land is irrigative though the respondent Nos.4 to 6 are the recorded tenure holder and it has also not excluded the area over which there exists Aabadi, Gurdwara and the grove land was illegally determined. The prescribed authority thus declared 1.008 hectares land in terms of irrigated land as surplus land and in the absence of the choice declared the said area from plot no. 177 vide order dated 08.09.2008.

9. Being aggrieved by the aforesaid order dated 08.09.2008 Annexure-1, four appeals were filed; one by the petitioner, second by respondent No.5, third by the State, which was barred by limitation and the fourth by respondent No.4.

10. Respondent No.1 dismissed all the appeals by a very cryptic order and thereby affirmed the judgment passed by the prescribed authority vide order dated 25.08.2009 Annexure-2. The petitioner being aggrieved by the judgment passed by the respondent Nos.1 and 2 aforementioned, filed the above noted writ petition, assailing the validity of the orders passed by the respondent Nos.1 and 2 on the ground that no finding has been recorded by respondent Nos.1 and 2 about the sale deed which was executed by the petitioner for consideration in good faith for personal need. The holdings of respondent Nos.4 to 6, who are recorded tenure holder being in possession are residing separately. Their holding cannot be clubbed with that of the petitioner as they do not come within the definition of family as contemplated by Section 3(7).

11. The finding recorded by respondent No.2 that the entire land is irrigated on the basis of oral evidence of Lekhpal is also not sustainable and the oral evidence of revenue officer cannot substitute the records as mentioned in Section 4-A and the burden of proof lies on the State.

12. Submission of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is that while deciding the issue, provisions of Section 4-A of Ceiling Act was not complied with neither Khasras of 1378, 1379 & 1380 were taken into consideration nor inspection was made by the prescribed authority on the spot. Merely, relying upon the report of Lekhpal, the prescribed authority proceeded to pass the impugned order, which is not justifiable in law and is contrary to the provisions contained under Section 4-A of Ceiling Act.

13. He next submitted that it is duty of the State Government to produce Khasras and responsibility has been fixed on the State Government, which has not been complied with while passing the impugned order by the prescribed authority as well as appellate court.

14. He further submitted that objection was filed by respondent No.6 that he is recorded tenure holder, hence, his holding cannot be clubbed with that of petitioner. Objections were also filed by Sukhvinder Kuar daughter of Khajan Singh, that she is judicially separated wife in pursuance to the decree dated 16.05.2001 passed in Regular Suit No.9 of 2001 by Civil Judge, (Senior Division) Bahraich, hence, her holding cannot be clubbed with that of the petitioner, which was considered by the prescribed authority and her property was excluded.

15. He next submitted that objections were also filed by respondent Nos.4 and 5 on 26.02.2007, that their holding was purchased by their grand father through registered sale deed and they are recorded tenure holder and are residing separately alongwith their grand father and in support of his case, examined himself, Achal Singh Rana the Pradhan of village Matehi, Ramakant Prasad, Ex-pradhan, Smt. Sukhvinder Kaur, Smt. Rathvinder Kaur, Joga Singh and others and the statement made by aforesaid persons were not taken into consideration.

16. He next submitted that the objectors have also filed the copy of the parivar register of House No.89 of Balbir Singh (petitioner) of House No.90 of Sukhvindar Kaur, of House No.91 belonging to Kartar Singh, copy of ration cards of Vir Kaur, Balbir Singh and copy of the decree passed in Regular Suit No.9 of 2001. The State examined Lekhpal only and had not filed relevant khasras for the years 1378, 1379 and 1380 Fasli, which are mandatory as contemplated by Section 4-A of the Act was not examined.

17. He next submitted that after excluding the land of Sukhvinder Kaur - judicially separated wife after clubbing the holding of respondent Nos.4 to 6 determined the ceiling and surplus area of the petitioner while allotting 2 additional hectares of land to the petitioner as he has two major sons and one daughter, merely relying upon the statement of Lekhpal, even without making the compliance of the terms of Section 4-A of the Act and held that the entire land is irrigative though the respondent Nos.4 to 6 are the recorded tenure holder and it has also not excluded the area over which there exists Aabadi, Gurdwara and the grove land was illegally determined. The prescribed authority thus declared 1.008 hectares land in terms of irrigated land as surplus land and in the absence of the choice declared the said area from plot no. 177 vide order dated 08.09.2008. Being aggrieved by the order of prescribed authority dated 08.09.2008, the petitioner filed appeal with all material and relevant facts but the appellate court has also not considered that there is no compliance of Section 4-A of the Act and merely relying on the report of Lekhpal the impugned order has been passed.

18. He submitted that while recording finding, the appellate court has recorded that the copy of high school certificate produced by the petitioner and copy of parivar registere has not been disputed by the State Government by producing any other document, in spite of that otherwise finding has been recorded. He also submitted that no finding about the bonafide in respect of the sale deed executed by the petitioner has been recorded, hence, the judgment passed by respondent Nos.1 and 2 are vitiated in law.

19. He lastly submitted that the holding possessed by the petitioner and recorded in his name is within ceiling limit and respondent Nos.1 and 2 by clubbing the holding recorded in the name of the major sons and daughter - respondent Nos.4 to 6, by treating the entire holding as irrigated and without excluding the land of Aabadi, Gurdwara as well as wrongly treating the land over which there exists a grove as cultivatory land, has illegally determined the surplus holding as 1.008 hectares in terms of irrigated land. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance upon following judgments:

a) Hausila Singh v. Addl. Commissioner (Admn.), Varanasi Division, Varanasi; 2010(111) RD 389 paras 12 to 20

b) State of U.P. vs. District Judge, Bareilly and others; Neutral Citation No. - 2007:AHC:8116 : 2007 (103) RD 159 paras 3 to 6

c) Raunaq Ali and another Vs. State of U.P. and others; Neutral Citation No. - 2007:AHC:13690 : 2009(108) RD 117 paras 14, 15

d) State of U.P. v. Kunwar Bharat Singh; 2006 (101) RD 210 para 8

e) Shishu Pal Singh v. Prescribed Authority/Upper Zila Adhikari; 2008(105) RD 548 paras 6 to 9

20. On the other hand, learned Additional CSC submitted that the impugned orders do not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and are just and valid. He submitted that in absence of khasras 1378, 1379 & 1380, report of Lekhpal can be taken into consideration. He also submitted that inspection by the prescribed authority is not required, where report of Lekhpal is before the prescribed authority.

21. He next submitted that burden to produce khasra 1378, 1379 & 1380 fasli lies upon the petitioner to establish his case and is not responsibility of the State Government. He next submitted that the proceeding was initiated in the year 1988, therefore, it was not necessary to produce khasra of 1378, 1379 & 1380 fasli.

22. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record.

23. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner are being quoted below:

a) Hausila Singh (Supra):

""12. Admittedly the Khasra entries of the year 1378 to 1380 Fasli are not on record of the proceedings giving rise to the present petition. Therefore, it is on the basis of the spot inspection and other material which was brought on record before the Prescribed Authority he was to decide the issue as to whether the land was irrigated or un-irrigated.

13. Under an order dated 12.2.1982 the Prescribed Authority fixed 24.2.1982 as the date for spot inspection but no such inspection took place on the date fixed as per the record. The spot inspection in fact took place on 29.5.1982 which date apparently appears to have been fixed by Prescribed Authority on his own without there being any order in that regard recorded in the order-sheet. Therefore, the contention of the petitioner that such inspection has been done without notice or opportunity to the petitioner, has to be believed.

14. It is pertinent to note that after inspection on 29.5.1982 the Prescribed Authority has decided to finalize the proceedings within two days thereafter to be precise on 31.5.1992.

15. I am of the considered opinion that the Prescribed Authority was under a legal obligation to inform the petitioner about the facts noticed doing spot inspection with an opportunity to the petitioner to submit his evidence in reply. Petitioner could have produced other materials which on examination could establish that the land was un-irrigated. Denial of such opportunity to the petitioner in the facts of this case vitiates the order.

16. 16. In the facts and circumstances of the case, this Court finds that the orders passed by the Prescribed Authority dated 27.4.1977 as well that passed by Additional Commissioner dated 12.4.1988 are based on ex parte spot inspection and without opportunity to controvert the facts noticed during spot inspection. The orders can not be legally sustained and are hereby set-aside.

17. Let the Prescribed Authority redetermine the issue qua the land being irrigated or not in the light of the directions issued by the District Judge as per the order dated 6.3.1981 within four months from the date a certified copy of this order is filed before it after affording opportunity to the petitioner and if need be a fresh date be fixed for spot inspection.

18. So far as the intervenors are concerned this Court may record that the total land which was declared surplus by the Prescribed Authority under the first order dated 27.4.1977 treating the land as un-irrigated, can not be reduced ever after the matter is examined on remand in as much as such as it is the appeal filed by the State, and the only issue remanded is as to whether the land is irrigated or not. If the answer to the question is in affirmative, further land would be declared surplus. Such an order can not in any way effect the rights of the allottees who are interveners in the matter provided surplus land was allotted to them before the order of remand passed by Appellate Authority.

19. 19. In case surplus land has been allotted after the order of remand from the additional land declared as surplus, it will always be open to the petitioner to make an appropriate application for cancellation of the allotment, if after remand the issue of irrigated/un-irrigated is decided in his favour. Such application of the petitioner shall be considered in accordance with law.

20. Writ petition is allowed subject to the observations made."

b) State of U.P. vs. District Judge, Bareilly and others (Supra):

"Appellate court perused khasras of 1377 fasli, 1378 fasli and 1380 fasli. In respect of khasra of 1379 fasli appellate court observed that it was not on record. Appellate court held that in the khasras on record no source of irrigation was mentioned against plot nos. 10 and 28. In the khasra of 1377 fasli and 1378 fasli neither any source of irrigation was shown nor any crop was shown to be irrigated. There were some changes in the khasra of 1380 fasli. Copy of khasra of 1380 fasli has been annexed alongwith supplementary affidavit sworn on 7.3.1983. Under column no.6 which pertains to source of irrigation boaring is shown in plot nos. 2 and 3. However in plot nos. 10 and 28 no source of irrigation is shown. Plot no.10 is shown to be irrigated to the extent of 50 bighas in kharif crop (total area is about 103 bigha). Under Section 4-A of the Ceiling Act which provides for determination of irrigated land it is essential that there must be irrigation facility and decision regarding irrigation facility and growing of crops is basically required to be taken on the basis of khasras of 1378 to 1380 fasli. Section 4-A contains private irrigation work as one of the relevant sources of irrigation. However, private irrigation work is defined under Section 3(14) of the Act and thereunder it means "a private tube well or a private lift irrigation work operated by diesel or electric power for the supply of water from a perennial water source completed before August 15, 1972". The date provided falls within 1380 fasli which corresponds to the period from 1.7.1972 to 30.6.1973. Accordingly, if crop in the year 1380 fasli was for the first time irrigated from a private irrigation work then the chances are that the said irrigation work should have been completed after 15.8.1972. Normally from 1st July till 15th August it is rainy season in Uttar Pradesh hence during that period there is no question of irrigation from any man made source of irrigation or installation of such source during that period. In any case it was essential from the State to lead evidence in this regard which was not done.

Moreover merely because in the khasra of 1380 fasli a particular plot or part thereof is shown to be irrigated, there cannot be any presumption that there was any source of irrigation as mentioned under Section 4-A of the Ceiling Act. In the khasra there is specific column for source of irrigation. In the copy of khasra of 1380 fasli for all the above 4 plots and some other plots mentioned therein source of irrigation is shown against plot nos. 2,3 and 30. If there had been any source of irrigation in plot no.10 and 28 surely it would also have been shown.

Accordingly I am unable to accept the contention of learned standing counsel that as 50 bigha of plot no.10 is shown to be irrigated in kharif crop in the khasra of 1380 fasli hence the entire plot on the said area shall be treated to be irrigated even though no source of irrigation is mentioned.

I do not find any error in the impugned judgment of the appellate court. Writ petition is dismissed."

c) Raunaq Ali and another (Supra):

"After perusal of the judgment passed by the prescribed authority as well as by the Appellate Authority, the Prescribed Authority to some extent has considered the statements of the persons who have been produced on behalf of the petitioners but the Appellate Authority being a last Court of fact was obliged to consider the oral evidence and a finding to this effect has to be recorded regarding the bonafide purchase of the land. If no such finding is recorded the judgment passed by the Appellate Authority cannot be said to be in consonance of the provisions of the Act. Such finding is lacking and there is no whisper to this effect by the Appellate Authority.

In view of the aforesaid fact, I am of the opinion that the judgment and order passed by the respondent No.2 dated 17.12.1987 (Annexure 8 to the writ petition) is not sustainable in law, as such, is hereby quashed. The writ petition is allowed. The matter is remanded back to the appellate authority i.e. respondent No.2 to decide the case in view of the observations made above taking into consideration the provision of Section 5(6) of the Act, as well as the judgment cited above. As the matter is very old, therefore, the respondent no.2 is directed to decide the same within a period of six months from the date of production of the certified copy of this order after affording full opportunity to the petitioner. In case, the petitioners submit some additional evidence by way of documents that may also be considered by the Appellate Authority."

d) State of U.P. v. Kunwar Bharat Singh (Supra):

"8. However, sub-section 6 of section 5 of the Act provides that in case, a land is transferred even after the cut of date, the Prescribed Authority will have got power to accept its genuineness, in case transfer was done bona fidely."

e) Shishu Pal Singh (Supra):

"7. It is evident from the record that Het Ram had his own holding. Besides, the six petitioners, who are the sons of late Het Ram Singh, also have purchased certain holdings in their names through different sale-deeds which were exclusively in their names. How ever, the Lekhpal and Tehsildar included all the said holdings in the name of late Het Ram Singh showing that in total, he had 25.81 acres of land and, therefore, 17.40 acres of land was liable to be declared surplus. The case of the petitioners was that their holding were separate, they were residing separately and, there fore, their holdings, which they have purchased through their own separate sale deeds, cannot be included or clubbed with the holding of late Het Ram Singh. The appellate authority has rejected the appeal only on the ground that the petitioners contention that they were residing separately from their father cannot be accepted since one of the petitioners Shishu Pal Singh has obtained loan for purchasing a tractor after getting his father's land mortgaged and the onus to prove that they were residing separately lies upon the petitioners, which they did not discharge.

From the order of the appellate authority, it appears that he proceeded on the assumption that once notice under Section 10(2) of the Act has been issued based on the inquiry of the Lekhpal and Tahasildar etc. alleging that the noticee held certain holding in his own rights though ostensibly in the name of other, it is the liability of the noticee to prove otherwise. This approach is absolutely misconceived and contrary to law. Explanation-1 of Section 5 is in the nature of exception inasmuch normally every tenure holder is entitled to hold a land to the extent provided in the Act, but in a case where the land actually belongs to one but has been purchased in the name of some other person, that is a kind of benami transaction, in that case only to prevent such cases so as not to frustrate the very purpose of the Act, the explanation-1 has provided that such land shall be included in the holding area of a tenure holder, but to prove the existence of such fact, the onus lies on the State heavily and not otherwise. Explanation-1 read with Section 5 is very clear that neither it purports to add nor to limit the normal meaning of the expression ?tenure-holder? as defined in Section-3, sub-section (17) of the Act and, thus, clearly shows that the land must be held by the tenure holder in his own rights. In case, the State claims that any land is held ostensibly by the tenure holder, the onus lies upon the State to establish the same. A somewhat similar issue came up for consideration before a Division Bench of this Court in Mohammad Abbas v. State of U.P., 1979 AWC 23 : (1979 All LJ 326). There two major sons of the tenure holder executed sale deeds on 12-5-1971, 7-9-1971 and 8-3-1972 transferring the entire land recorded in their names. Thereafter, the tenure holder claimed two additional hectares of land on the ground that his two major sons did not hold any land on the appointed date, i.e., 8-6-1973, but the said claim was rejected by the ceiling authorities holding that the transfer of land by major sons after 24-1-1971 was liable to be ignored as they could not establish that the sale deeds were executed in good faith and for adequate consideration. Referring to Section 5, sub-section (3) of the Act, the Court held that the ceiling area to which a tenure holder is entitled is fixed with reference to the number of members in the tenure-holder's family and land held by other members of the tenure-holder's family is to be aggregated with the land held by the tenure holder. The word ?family? as defined in the Act in relation to a tenure holder, means himself or herself and his wife or her husband, as the case may be (other than a judicially separated wife or husband) minor sons and minor daughters (other than married daughters).

9. 9. It shows that the said definition does not include the major sons of the tenure holder. By virtue of Section 5(3), if the tenure holder is a male, land recorded in the name of his wife, provided she is not a judicially separated wife, and minor sons and minor daughters can be clubbed in determining the ceiling area which the tenure holder is entitled to retain. This shows that the land held by the major sons is not to be included in the holding of the tenure holder. The only possibility for including the said land, therefore, would have been if Explanation-1 of Section 5(1) would have been applicable, namely, if the land is ostensibly held by the tenure holder in the name of any other person, but for the said purpose, heavy burden lies upon the State to prove this fact. Considering this aspect of the matter with reference to Explanation-1 to Section 5(1) of the Act, another Division Bench of this Court in Banshi Singh (supra) wherein this Court held as under:

"Explanation 1 of Section 5(1) clearly shows that when the State alleges that the land is ostensibly being held by a tenure-holder in the name of any other person which should be treated as the land belonging to the tenure-holder then the burden lies upon the State to prove this fact. Merely because in the notice the State has clubbed the land belonging to others under the pretext that it is being held ostensibly in the name of sons or any other person, the burden cannot be said to have been discharged. Once a notice under Section 10(2) is served upon the tenure-holder he has to show cause and while showing cause if the tenure-holder establishes by prima facie evidence by filing documents or by giving evidence that the land was being held by other persons in their own capacity, the burden shifts upon the State to establish the fact that the land is being held by the tenure-holder ostensibly in the name of others. In order to discharge this burden the State has to establish by some cogent and satisfactory evidence that the land is being held by the tenure-holder. Merely because the land has been clubbed in the land of petitioner No. 1 in the notice issued under Section 10(2) of U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act or merely because the Lekhpal gives a statement that the petitioner is in possession, is not sufficient to discharge that burden and to establish that the land was ostensibly being held by the tenure-holder in the name of others. In the present case petitioner No. 1 led evidence by showing that the names of the sons were entered in revenue records right from 1264-F and after the partition their names were entered separately on the basis of the partition decree. When the State was alleging that the land was being ostensibly held by petitioner No. 1, the State had to discharge that burden by giving cogent and satisfactory evidence. In the present case no such evidence was adduced and the mere statement of the Lekhpal was not sufficient to rebut the evidence and to hold that the land was being held ostensibly by petitioner No. 1 in the names of the sons"

10. Moreover, the only reason for non-suiting the petitioners given by the appellate authority that the land of Het Ram Singh was given as security for obtaining loan by one of the petitioners and thus shows that the entire holding belong to Het Ram Singh, in my view, is thoroughly misconceived. It is very difficult to co-relate the said transaction to the conclusion which has been drawn by the learned appellate authority. A father and son having separate holding, residing separately but if help each other in their period of difficulty or whenever necessity arises, would not mean that they constitute one unit and entire thing belong to the father or the son, as the case may be. In Indian society and in common practice, if the sons or daughters or even brothers or other relatives needs help, the first helping hand would be that of normally the relatives or the friends and, therefore, for purpose of land, if Het Ram's land was mortgaged with respect to the petitioner No. 1, that itself would not justify the conclusion that the entire holding belong to Het Ram in his own right though ostensibly in the name of the petitioners. The petitioners gave their statements that they are all residing separately. Mere non-production of ration-card cannot justify an inference that the statements given on oath by the petitioners were false unless some evidence is produced by the State to show the said averment to be incorrect. From a bare reading of the appellate order, it is evident that it has solely proceeded on the assumption as if the onus lies upon the petitioners to show that the holding was separate, ostensibly in their names and did not belong to their father Het Ram Singh. The basic approach of the appellate authority in the present matter is clearly illegal and contrary to law.

11. In the result, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The appellate order dated 29-1-1992 passed by Commissioner, Moradabad Division, Moradabad (Annexure-3 to the writ petition) is hereby quashed and the matter is remitted back to the appellate authority to consider and decide the matter afresh. Since it is very old matter, it is directed that the appellate authority shall decide the appeal afresh in accordance with law and in the light of the observations made hereinabove expeditiously preferably within a period of one year from the date of production of certified copy of this order. No costs."

24. Having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties, examined the pleadings on record and perused the impugned orders as well as the authorities cited at the Bar, this Court finds that the orders dated 08.09.2008 passed by the Prescribed Authority and 25.08.2009 passed by the appellate authority cannot be sustained in the eyes of law for more than one reason.

25. The first and foremost infirmity which goes to the root of the matter is the non-compliance of the mandatory requirement contained under Section 4-A of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960. The determination as to whether a land is irrigated or unirrigated is not a matter of mere presumption or subjective satisfaction of the authority concerned. The statute specifically contemplates consideration of the relevant khasras of 1378, 1379 and 1380 Fasli, which constitute the foundational evidence for adjudicating the nature of land.

26. In the present case, admittedly the State failed to produce the aforesaid khasras. The entire determination regarding irrigation has been recorded merely on the basis of the oral statement/report of the Lekhpal. Such an approach is patently contrary to the statutory mandate. The submission advanced on behalf of the State that in absence of khasras the report of the Lekhpal would suffice, cannot be accepted.

27. The law laid down in the case of Hausila Singh v. Addl. Commissioner (Admn.), Varanasi Division (Supra) clearly holds that where the requisite khasras are not available, the prescribed authority is under a legal obligation to undertake proper spot inspection after due notice and affording opportunity to the tenure-holder to controvert the material gathered. Likewise, in in the case of State of U.P. v. District Judge, Bareilly (Supra), it has been categorically held that determination of irrigated land must rest upon the evidence contemplated under Section 4-A and not on assumptions or unsupported oral assertions.

28. In the instant case, neither were the statutory khasras produced, nor was any valid spot inspection conducted by the prescribed authority after notice to the petitioner. Thus, the finding that the entire holding was irrigated is wholly unsupported by legally admissible evidence and is liable to be set aside.

29. The second grave illegality committed by the authorities below is the clubbing of the holdings standing in the names of respondent Nos.4, 5 and 6 with that of the petitioner.

30. The record clearly reveals that respondent Nos.4 and 5 are major sons of the petitioner, whereas respondent No.6 is a married daughter residing separately. Their names stand recorded independently in the revenue records. Specific objections were filed by them asserting separate title, separate possession and independent acquisition of the land in question. Documentary evidence including revenue records, family register extracts and oral testimony was also adduced in support thereof.

31. The authorities below have failed to record any cogent finding to disbelieve the aforesaid evidence. Mere reference to the report of the Lekhpal could not displace the documentary evidence brought on record by the petitioner and the private respondents.

32. The legal position in this regard is no longer res integra. In the case of Shishu Pal Singh v. Prescribed Authority/Upper Zila Adhikari (Supra), this Court has clearly held that major sons do not fall within the definition of ?family? under Section 3(7) of the Act and their holdings cannot be clubbed unless the State discharges the heavy burden of establishing by cogent evidence that such land is merely ostensible and is actually held benami for the tenure-holder.

33. No such evidence has been led by the State in the present case. The State examined only the Lekhpal. No documentary evidence was produced to establish that respondent Nos.4 to 6 were holding land benami for the petitioner. Consequently, the very foundation of the clubbing exercise is unsustainable.

34. This Court further finds that the prescribed authority itself accepted the plea regarding exclusion of the land belonging to Smt. Sukhvinder Kaur on account of judicial separation, yet without assigning any legally sustainable reason adopted an entirely inconsistent approach while dealing with the separately recorded holdings of respondent Nos.4 to 6. Such contradictory reasoning reflects clear non-application of mind.

35. Yet another illegality is the complete failure of the authorities below to record any finding with regard to the petitioner’s plea that certain transfers had been made for valid consideration in good faith for personal necessity.

36. Under Section 5(6) of the Act, the authority is obligated to examine the bona fide nature of such transfers. The law laid down in the case of State of U.P. v. Kunwar Bharat Singh (Supra) unequivocally recognizes such statutory obligation.

37. The appellate authority has failed to examine this issue altogether. Such omission vitiates the appellate order.

38. The appellate authority, being the final court of fact, was under a legal duty to independently assess the oral and documentary evidence on record and to record reasoned findings on each issue raised before it.

39. In the case of Raunaq Ali v. State of U.P. (Supra), this Court has held that failure of the appellate authority to consider material evidence and record findings on crucial questions renders its order unsustainable.

40. The appellate order dated 25.08.2009 is a cryptic affirmance of the order of the prescribed authority. It neither discusses the evidence led by the petitioner nor addresses the legal objections raised in appeal. Such a non-speaking order, particularly when civil consequences of grave nature ensue, cannot be sustained.

41. The contention raised on behalf of the State that the burden to produce khasras lies upon the petitioner is wholly misconceived. Proceedings under the Ceiling Act are initiated by the State and when it seeks to declare land surplus by treating it as irrigated or by alleging ostensible holding, the burden squarely lies upon it to establish the foundational facts by legally admissible evidence.

42. This Court is, therefore, of the considered view that both the prescribed authority and the appellate authority have proceeded in manifest disregard of the statutory provisions as well as the settled principles of law laid down by this Court.

43. The impugned orders suffer from perversity, non-consideration of relevant evidence, reliance upon inadmissible material, misapplication of the burden of proof and failure to record reasoned findings on material issues.

44. Consequently, the order dated 25.08.2009 passed by respondent No.1 in Appeal No.15 as well as the order dated 08.09.2008 passed by respondent No.2 are hereby quashed.

45. The writ petition succeeds and is, accordingly, allowed.

46. The matter is remitted to the Prescribed Authority to reconsider the case afresh strictly in accordance with law after obtaining and considering the relevant khasras of 1378, 1379 and 1380 Fasli, if available. In case of non-availability thereof, undertaking spot inspection after due notice and opportunity to all concerned parties. He shall also independently examine the question of separate holdings of respondent Nos.4 to 6 in light of Section 3(7) and Explanation-I to Section 5(1) of the Act and record a specific finding regarding the bona fide nature of the sale deeds relied upon by the petitioner by considering the petitioner?s claim regarding exclusion of aabadi, grove and Gurdwara land in accordance with law.

47. Since the matter pertains to old ceiling proceedings, it is directed that the Prescribed Authority shall conclude the exercise expeditiously, preferably within a period of six months from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before it.

48. Till fresh decision is taken, no coercive action shall be taken against the petitioner pursuant to the impugned orders.

49. There shall be no order as to costs.

CIVIL SIDE
DATED: LUCKNOW 14.05.2026

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 3000221 of 2003

Ajay Pratap Singh & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
Addl. Commissioner Faizabad & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the objections preferred by the petitioners claiming independent rights on the basis of a registered Will executed by the original tenure-holder under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960, could be rejected on the technical grounds of delay and incorrect mention of the statutory provision without adjudicating the claim on merits, and whether the petitioners' independent claim stood concluded merely because their father and natural guardian had contested the earlier ceiling proceedings.

Headnotes

U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960; Ss. 5(6), 11(2), 13-A—Ceiling proceedings—Recorded tenure-holder, Fateh Bahadur Singh, alleged to have executed a registered Will dated 25.11.1971 in favour of the petitioners—Following the death of Fateh Bahadur Singh on 22.05.1973, surplus land declared in ceiling proceedings—Petitioners admittedly minors at the relevant time—Upon attaining majority, petitioners claimed that their independent rights under the Will had remained unrepresented and unadjudicated—Respondents contended that Raj Narain Singh, father and natural guardian of the petitioners, had contested the ceiling proceedings and, therefore, no separate adjudication of the petitioners' claim was required—Objections filed by the petitioners after attaining majority—Rejected on the grounds that the application mentioned S.13-A instead of S.11(2) and was barred by delay, without examining the claim on merits—Appellate authority affirmed the rejection without independent consideration—Justification.

Held : A third party claiming independent rights in the land has a right to file objections under Section 11(2) and such objections cannot be rejected merely because earlier proceedings had been contested by the recorded tenure holder. Such objections are required to be decided on merits after affording adequate opportunity of evidence to the objector.—Even if an objection is filed under a wrong provision, the authority is under an obligation to treat the same in accordance with its substance and not reject it on mere technical description of the statutory provision. Wrong mentioning of a section or omission to mention the correct provision does not disentitle an objector from substantive relief. Procedural law is intended to advance justice and not to defeat substantive rights.—The plea of delay cannot be examined ignoring the effect of minority and absence of effective representation. Mere representation by a natural guardian in proceedings conducted against another tenure holder cannot automatically extinguish or adjudicate independent rights claimed by minors on the basis of a separate legal instrument.—Though a claimant cannot seek automatic exclusion of land merely on the basis of an alleged Will, the authority is legally bound to examine such claim on merits in accordance with Section 5(6) of the Act and the principles laid down in the governing precedents.—The first appellate authority is required to independently analyse the facts, evidence and legal issues, and failure to do so vitiates the appellate order for want of proper reasoning and independent consideration.—Subsequent allotment of surplus land cannot be treated as a complete bar to judicial scrutiny where foundational illegality is demonstrated. [Paras 40–56]

The principal grievance raised by the petitioners was that their independent claim arising out of the registered Will dated 25.11.1971 executed by the original tenure holder was never adjudicated upon and that their objections were rejected on technical grounds without examining the substance of their claim. The authorities neither examined the genuineness of the Will nor recorded any finding regarding its legal effect, but rejected the claim without any discussion of evidence, clearly reflecting non-application of mind. The appellate authority merely affirmed the order of the Prescribed Authority without independently considering the effect of the petitioners' minority, the maintainability of objections under Section 11(2), the effect of incorrect mention of the statutory provision, the legal consequences flowing from the alleged Will and the requirement of adjudicating the petitioners' independent rights. The objections disclosed a substantial and legally triable claim, but the authorities rejected them on technical and procedural grounds, resulting in manifest failure of justice. Accordingly, the impugned orders were quashed and the matter was remanded to the Prescribed Authority to reconsider the objections afresh after examining the claim arising out of the Will dated 25.11.1971, the effect of the petitioners' minority, the maintainability of objections under Section 11(2) and the applicability of Section 5(6) of the Act, by passing a reasoned and speaking order. Case Arising From Petition challenging the order dated 26.04.1982 passed by the Prescribed Authority under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960, and the appellate order dated 05.03.1998 passed by the Additional Commissioner affirming the declaration of surplus land.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Appellant: R.s.pandey, Mahendra Kumar Sharma
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C., Brijesh Kumar Kuldeep, Dinesh Kumar Arya, Shiv Ram Tewari

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Dr. R.S. Pande, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Mahendra Kumar Sharma, learned counsel for the petitioners and learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioners have prayed for the following reliefs :-

"A. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of Certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 26.4.1982 passed by opposite party No.2 contained in Annexure No.2 and order dated 5.3.1998 passed by opposite party No.2 contained in Annexure No.1 to the writ petition.

B. Issue a writ order or direction in the nature of Mandamus commanding the opposite parties to decide the objection filed by the petitioners on the basis of will executed in their favour by the recorded tenure holder Fateh Bahadur Singh.

D. ..."

3. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 26.04.1982 passed by the Prescribed Authority under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act as well as the appellate order dated 05.03.1998 whereby the appeal preferred by the petitioners has been dismissed and the order of the Prescribed Authority has been affirmed.

4. The dispute relates to land situated in village Chakwa Gholia, Pargana Bhinga and village Bechuwa, Pargana Tulsipur, which admittedly belonged to one Fateh Bahadur Singh son of Naresh Singh, who was the recorded tenure holder. It is the specific case of the petitioners that during his lifetime, the said tenure holder executed a registered Will dated 25.11.1971 in favour of Ajay Pratap Singh, Vishnu Pratap Singh, Bhanu Pratap Singh and Vijay Pratap Singh, all sons of Raj Narayan Singh.

5. It has further been stated that Vijay Pratap Singh subsequently died issueless and the present petitioners, being his brothers, succeeded to his interest. The petitioners have asserted that the Will executed by the original tenure holder governed the devolution of rights in the land and conferred upon them a substantive claim, which was liable to be considered by the authorities in ceiling proceedings.

6. The record further indicates that Fateh Bahadur Singh died on 22.05.1973 and thereafter the name of Raj Narain Singh was mutated in the revenue records on the basis of a Lekhpal report and incorporated in the relevant Khatauni. Subsequently, the Prescribed Authority by order dated 30.09.1975 declared 26.949 hectares of land as surplus.

7. It is not in dispute that at the time when the ceiling proceedings were initiated and decided, the petitioners were minors. According to the petitioners, for this reason no objection could be filed on their behalf at the relevant time and their independent rights arising out of the Will remained unrepresented and unadjudicated.

8. It has been brought on record that the order dated 30.09.1975 was challenged by Raj Narain Singh in appeal, which was dismissed, and thereafter a writ petition was filed in the year 1980 wherein an interim order was granted. It is the case of the petitioners that after attaining majority, they acquired knowledge of the declaration of surplus land and immediately thereafter filed objections on 01.11.1980 under Section 11(2) of the Act, though due to inadvertence the provision was mentioned as Section 13-A.

9. The Prescribed Authority, however, rejected the objections of the petitioners by order dated 26.04.1982 primarily on the ground of delay and on the basis of incorrect mention of the provision, without entering into the merits of the claim set up by the petitioners on the basis of the Will. The appeal preferred by the petitioners was also dismissed on 05.03.1998 without rectifying the errors committed by the Prescribed Authority.

10. The respondents have filed a counter affidavit opposing the writ petition wherein it has been stated that the alleged Will is merely a photostat copy and does not appear to be registered. It has further been stated that the petitioners were minors and the proceedings were conducted against their father, who was their natural guardian, and therefore no illegality was committed. The respondents have also contended that there is no evidence to show that the Will was filed before the Prescribed Authority and that the impugned orders are justified and legal.

11. The respondents have further raised an objection regarding delay and laches, contending that the writ petition has been filed after an inordinate delay and that the land declared surplus has already been allotted to eligible persons after taking possession in the year 2003, and therefore no interference is warranted.

12. The petitioners have filed a rejoinder affidavit denying the assertions made in the counter affidavit and reiterating that the Will dated 25.11.1971 is a registered document which has not been properly considered by the authorities. It has been asserted that the petitioners were minors at the relevant time and therefore could not effectively participate in the proceedings and that their objections, filed after attaining majority, ought to have been considered on merits.

13. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioners is that the impugned order dated 26.04.1982 passed by the Prescribed Authority, as well as the appellate order dated 05.03.1998, are wholly unsustainable in law and on facts, inasmuch as the same have been passed without proper appreciation of the material on record and in violation of settled legal principles.

14. It is contended that the land in dispute originally belonged to Fateh Bahadur Singh, the recorded tenure holder, who, during his lifetime, executed a registered Will dated 25.11.1971, thereby determining the succession of his holdings. The said Will, being a valid and operative testamentary instrument, governed the devolution of rights after his death on 22.05.1973. The authorities under the Ceiling Act were, therefore, legally bound to take into consideration the effect of the said Will while determining the surplus land.

15. It is further submitted that the Will conferred independent and substantive rights upon the beneficiaries, including the petitioners, and such rights could not have been ignored merely on the basis of subsequent mutation entries. It is well settled that mutation proceedings are fiscal in nature and do not confer title; hence, the entry of Raj Narain Singh in the revenue records could not override the testamentary disposition made by the original tenure holder.

16. It is further urged that Vijay Pratap Singh, one of the beneficiaries under the Will, died issueless and his share devolved upon the present petitioners, being his real brothers. Consequently, the petitioners acquired a lawful interest in the property, which entitled them to participate in the ceiling proceedings and to have their holdings independently assessed.

17. The petitioners contend that when the ceiling proceedings were started and decided by the order dated 30.09.1975, they were minors and could not protect their rights or file objections. Since the case went on without proper representation of their interests, the proceedings are invalid, especially because their rights were based on a registered Will.

18. It is submitted that upon attaining majority and acquiring knowledge of the proceedings, the petitioners promptly filed objections on 01.11.1980. The mere incorrect mention of the provision as Section 13-A instead of Section 11(2) of the Act is a curable defect and could not have been made a ground to reject the objections, especially when the substance of the claim was clearly articulated.

19. Learned counsel for the petitioners further submit that the Prescribed Authority committed a manifest error in rejecting the objections solely on the ground of delay, without considering that the petitioners were minors during the relevant period and that limitation would not run against them. The approach adopted by the authority is contrary to the settled principle that procedural technicalities should not defeat substantive rights.

20. It is also contended that the Prescribed Authority failed to adjudicate upon the genuineness and legal effect of the Will. The rejection of the claim without examining the core issue amounts to non-application of mind and renders the order arbitrary.

21. Further submission is that the appellate authority, while dismissing the appeal on 05.03.1998, merely affirmed the findings of the Prescribed Authority without independently evaluating the contentions raised by the petitioners. The appellate order is vitiated as it merely affirms the earlier decision in a mechanical manner, without proper application of mind or any reasoned analysis.

22. The petitioners further submit that the objection raised by the respondents regarding delay and laches in filing the writ petition is misconceived. The petitioners were pursuing their remedies before the statutory forums, and the cause of action continued as their rights were never adjudicated on merits.

23. It is lastly submitted that the alleged allotment of surplus land to third parties cannot override the lawful claim of the petitioners, especially when the declaration of surplus land itself is under challenge. Any action taken on the basis of an illegal order cannot be sustained in law or used to continue an injustice.

24. In support of the submissions advanced, learned counsel for the petitioners placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Dirvijai Singh Vs. State of U.P. [1984 LCD 324].

(ii) Shafir Vs. D.J. Gonda [1985 LCD 290].

(iii) Abdul Hafiz Khan Vs. D.J. Bahraich [1986 LCD 477].

(iv) Hari Ram Vs. Special Judge ADJ Faizabad [1989 LCD 85].

(v) Mehfizul Rahman Vs. State of U.P. and others [1984 LCD 370].

(vi) Ram Bhajan Vs. C.R.O. [2001 LCD 901].

(vii) State of U.P. Vs. Kailash Nath [2023 LCD 1170].

(viii) Anand Kishor Devacharya Vs. State of U.P. and others [2024 (165) RD 582].

(x) Rajendra Prasad Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others [2024 LCD 2281].

25. In view of the aforesaid submissions and the judgments relied upon, it is prayed that the impugned orders be set aside.

26. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel submits that the writ petition is devoid of merit and is liable to be dismissed both on the ground of delay and on merits.

27. It is contended that the ceiling proceedings were conducted strictly in accordance with law and culminated in the order dated 30.09.1975 declaring 26.949 hectares of land as surplus. The said order attained finality after dismissal of the appeal preferred by Raj Narain Singh and subsequent proceedings, and therefore cannot be reopened at this belated stage.

28. The respondents submit that the petitioners claim is based on an alleged Will dated 25.11.1971, which has not been proved in accordance with law. It is specifically stated that the document relied upon is merely a photostat copy and there is no reliable evidence to establish that the Will was duly executed or registered.

29. It is further contended that the petitioners have failed to demonstrate that the alleged Will was ever produced before the Prescribed Authority during the original proceedings. In the absence of such material on record, the authority cannot be faulted for not considering the same.

30. Learned Standing Counsel further submits that the mutation of the name of Raj Narain Singh in the revenue records after the death of Fateh Bahadur Singh was carried out in accordance with the procedure prescribed under law and reflected the actual possession and control over the land. The ceiling proceedings were, therefore, rightly conducted against the recorded tenure holder.

31. It is further submitted that the petitioners were minors at the relevant time and were represented by their father, who was their natural guardian. The proceedings having been conducted against the guardian cannot be said to be vitiated, as there was adequate representation of the family interest.

32. The respondents contend that the objections filed by the petitioners on 01.11.1980 were highly belated and were rightly rejected by the Prescribed Authority. The incorrect mention of the statutory provision further reflects lack of diligence and seriousness on the part of the petitioners.

33. It is also submitted that the Prescribed Authority was justified in rejecting the objections without entering into the merits, as the proceedings had already attained finality and reopening the same after several years would defeat the object of the Ceiling Act.

34. The appellate authority, after due consideration, affirmed the order of the Prescribed Authority, and no illegality or perversity can be attributed to the concurrent findings recorded by the authorities below.

35. After having heard the rival contentions of learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record as well as the law report cited.

36. Relevant paragraphs of the judgments relied upon by petitioners' counsel are being quoted hereunder :-

Dirvijai Singh (Supra)

"I have heard the learned counsel for the parties. Under the Act the third party has a right to file the objection u/s 11 (2) of the Act. The petitioner being a third party could file the objection. Only the question of delay was required to be considered. The objection could not be rejected merely because the matter was contested by the recorded tenure-holder upto High Court. That will not put to an end to the right of a third party. The view taken by the prescribed authority and the District Judge is manifestly erroneous and cannot be sustained."

Shafir (Supra)

"8. Learned counsel for the petitioners has urged that the Prescribed Authority has rejected the objection filed by the petitioner under Section 10(2) of the Act merely on the ground that in the ceiling proceedings the Prescribed Authority cannot determine the claim of the petitioners who have claimed sirdari rights over certain plots of the disputed holding on the ground of adverse possession for more than the prescribed period of limitation. It was urged that the Prescribed Authority has wrongly refused to consider the claim of the petitioners on merits which should have been considered and decided on merits according to law in view of the decision of the Full Bench of this Court in the Case Upper Ganges Sugar Mills Ltd., reported in 1967 ALJ 556 and also in Dilbagh Singh's case reported in 1978 ALJ 717. I find much substance in the contention of the learned counsel for the petitioners.

9. In Dilbagh Singh's case (Dilbagh Singh v. State of U.P.,) it was held by the Division Bench that Section 11(2) permits a tenure-holder to file objections. Such tenure-holders may be those who have been served with a notice and a statement under Section 10(2). It also includes tenure-holders who have not been given or served with any such notice or statement. The construction put by the Full Bench also embraces persons who claim to be tenure-holders and who having come to know of the declaration of their land as surplus land of some other person wish to challenge that declaration or notification thereof in the gazette under Section 14. They are all entitled to file an objection under Section 11(2) and get an adjudication thereon as required by Section 12.

10. In this view of the matter I find that the objection which the petitioners had filed required to be decided on merits under Section 12. The petitioners have claimed that they are tenure-holders of certain plots of the disputed holding recorded in the name of opposite party No. 4. They thus claimed that opposite party No. 4 is not tenure-holder of those plots and the petitioners have acquired rights by adverse possession having remained in adverse possession for more than the prescribed period. Thus those plots could not be shown in the notice issued to the opposite party No. 4 under Section 10(2) of the Act nor the same could be treated to be holding of the opposite party No. 4 and declared surplus land in his hands because in the event petitioners succeed in establishing their Sirdari rights and title by adverse possession over the land in dispute it could not be treated to be part of the holding of opposite party No. 4. The Prescribed Authority, therefore, was required to determine this question on merits as to whether the plots, which were claimed by the petitioners as their Sirdari land could be factually and legally sustained or not. The Prescribed Authority should, therefore, consider the claim of the petitioners after giving them full opportunity to lead evidence in support of their claim. The opposite party No. 4 will also be given opportunity to contest the claim of the petitioners. Even in the case which has been remanded by the learned District Judge for considering the claim of opposite party No. 4 for being decided by now on merits, the Prescribed Authority will consider the objections filed by the Petitioners on merits in respect of the plots in which they have claimed rights by adverse possession. The objection would be treated to be maintainable as one under Section 11(2) of the Act as held by this Court in the aforesaid decisions and will be decided on merits even if the land in which petitioners have claimed title by adverse possession has been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act because the deletion of Section 14(2) will not bar maintainability of such objection, as held in Ram Kumar Singh v. State of U.P., [Writ Petition No. 981 of 1976.] decided on 10-10-1984."

Abdul Hafiz Khan (Supra)

"7. So far as the question regarding maintainability of objection under Section 11(2) of the Act after the surplus land had been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act, is concerned, I find that it stands concluded by a Full Bench Decisions of this Court in Baldeo Singh v. State of U.P., [1980 L.L.J. 31.] . According to the majority view expressed in the said decision an objection can be entertained under Section 11(2) of the Act even after the surplus land had been notified under Section 14(1) of the Act. The deletion of Sub-section (3) of Section 14 of the Act will not affect the tenability of that objection. In this view I do not find any merit in the contention of the learned Standing Counsel that the petitioners had no right to file objection under Section 11(2) of the Act. Even if the name of the objectors is not recorded over the land in dispute as tenure-holder they could file an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act as held by the Full Bench of this Court in Upper Ganges Sugar Mills Ltd. v. Civil Judge, Bijnor [1969 A.L.J. 556.]

8. In the present case the petitioner had filed an objection on 28th October, 1978 (Annexure-4) asserting that they are the tenure-holders of the land which they had received in the aforesaid decree for partition and that the opposite party No. 4 Nazim Ali Khan is not the tenure-holder of the land situate in village Kanjarwa and his surplus land be determined excluding the land of village Kanjarwa, which belongs to the petitioner. This objection was filed under Section 13-A of the Act though in fact it purported to be an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act and deserved to be treated as such for deciding it on merits. It is well settled that wrong mentioning of the section or nor mentioning a correct section in the objection filed would not by itself disentitle an objector to appropriate relief which the Prescribed Authority could grant to the objector in accordance with the law. In Ram Kumar Singh v. State of U.P. [1985 L.L.J. 81.] . I had an occasion to consider similar question, whether an objection filed under sub-section (3) of Section 14 could or could not be treated to be one under Section 11(2) of the Act. It was held in Ram Kumar Singh's case (supra) that even without formal application for amendment the Prescribed Authority (Ceiling) should have proceeded to decided the objection treating it to be one under Section 11(2) of the Act because wrong mentioning of section or not mentioning of correct section in the objection not by itself disentitle the objector to the appropriate relief which the Prescribed Authority could grant in accordance with the law.

9. In Abdul Rahman v. The Prescribed Authority [1979 A.C.J. 10.] a similar question arose for consideration before the Division Bench and it was held.

"Although the application made by the petitioners purported to be under Section 13-A of the Act it was substantially an objection under Section 11(2), of the Act."

The Prescribed Authority in the aforesaid case was, therefore, directed to consider the claim of the petitioners treating the application as an objection under Section 11(2) of the Act."

Hari Ram (Supra)

"6. The next question then to be considered is as to whether the objections filed by the petitioners could be entertained, in view of the orders passed in the earlier proceedings which were taken against Chandra Bhan Singh and others. In this connection, learned counsel for the petitioners has placed reliance upon two decisions of this Court, one is in Digvijai Singh v. State of U.P. ([1984 Lucknow Civil Divisions, Vol. II, p. 324.]) in which it has been held that such objections are to be entertained despite the fact that earlier matter may have been fought out between the state and another person. Another case reported in the same Volume is Rasid Khan v. State of V.P. ([1984 Luck. Civil Decisions, Vol. II, p. 215.]), where it has been held that such objections should be treated as objections under Sec. 11(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act.

7. In view of the discussion held above, it is clear that the petitioners had to be heard and their objections had to be treated as objections under Section 11(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, specifically when the land was recorded in the revenue records in their names in pursuance of an order of mutation passed in their favour. It will not affect their case if earlier any order was passed in proceedings between Chandra Bhan Singh and others and the State. As a matter of fact, under the first proviso to Rule 8 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Rules, a notice should have been issued to the petitioners as well. The opposite parties have dismissed the objections and the appeal preferred by the petitioners erroneously. The matter had to be considered on merits on the objections filed by the petitioners."

Mehfizul Rahman (Supra)

"2. Notice under Section 10(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act was issued to opposite party No. 4 father of of the petitioner, who filed an objection against the same but as area of 9.753 a.?res of land was declared as surplus land. The appeal filed by the opposite party No. 4 was also dismissed and ihe writ petition against the same was also dismissed on August 7, 1978. On September 26, 1978, the petitioner alongwith brother and sister, filed ???-jection under Section 11(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act on the ground that they were tenure-holder of few plots vide registered sale-deed dated September 8, 1967 executed by their father and they were in its possession. Certified copy oi the registered sale deed was filed. But ???t was found that the name of the transferee was not mutated in the records. The Prescribed Authority dismissed the objections filed ??? the petitioner on the ground that objections were not maintainable as they were not recorded tenure holder, consequ-entiy no notice under the Rules was required. Against the order passed by the Prescribed Authority a number of appeals were filed. The petitioner also tiled an appeal. The appeal filed by the petitioner was also dismissed on the ground that it was highly belated and the explanation for delay was not acceptable. The appellate authority found that in the case before the prescribed authority, against father, Pairvi was done by the petitioner and on July 8, 1972 and December 28, 1976 he signed the order-sheet, although on behalf of the petitioner it was denied that the same bears his signatures. The Additional District Judge rejected this plea on the ground that the same was not acceptable and believable as Fazal Ali could not have forged the signatures of his son. Even if it could be said that the son appeared for and on behalf of the father and signed the order-sheet that could not be taken to mean that, in fact, the interest of the son was involved in it and the sun was going to lose the land over which he was claiming rights on the basis of the sale-deed. Father was contesting the case and prayer was for execution of the (sic.) on the ground that he had already transferred the same for consideration in the year 1967. Even if the son had some vague knowledge, that could not be taken to mean that he had knowledge of the proceedings and that there was no sufficient cause for not tiling be objections under Section 11(???) of the UP. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, during the pendency of these proceedings. The ground on winch the objections have been dismissed by the appellate authority are obviously not very relevant and the order in this behalf is manifestly erroneous as ramc is not in conformity with the provisions of Section 11(2) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act. Consequently the writ petition deserves to be allowed."

Ram Bhajan (Supra)

"It is well settled that the matter of declaration of the land as surplus is between the State and the tenure holder and nobody comes in between and thus once the State has chosen not to take up the matter to the higher forum, challenging the judgment of the Prescribed Authority by which notice for declaration of the land as surplus itself was withdrawn, no argument can be advanced by the petitioner raising any finger on this aspect that the tenure holder might have surplus land if the matter is examined in further details in the light of the facts as are being pleaded by him."

State of U.P. Vs. Kailash Nath (Supra)

"20. At the outset, it may be noticed that Sections 37 and 38 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 clearly makes provisions of the CPC applicable by reference. The aforesaid sections read as under:

"37. Powers of officers and authorities in hearing and disposal of objections and procedure to be followed - Any officer or authority holding an enquiry or hearing an objection under this Act, shall, insofar as it may be applicable, have all the powers and privileges of a Civil Court, and follow the procedure laid down in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, for the trial and disposal of suits relating to immovable property.

38. Powers of the appellate Court and the procedure to be followed by it- (1) In hearing and deciding an appeal under this Act, the appellate Court shall have all the powers and the privileges of a Civil Court and follow the procedure for the hearing and disposal of appeals laid down in the Civil Procedure Code, 1908.

(2) Where, under the provisions of this Act, an appeal has to be heard by the [Commissioner], he may either hear the appeal himself or transfer it for hearing to any[Additional Commissioner] subordinate to him."

21. In view of the aforesaid, it will be relevant to notice that the Appellate Authority was obliged to have considered the appeal in the manner as provided under the Code of Civil Procedure. It will be appropriate to notice Order 41 Rule 31 CPC which reads as under:"

"31. Contents, date and signature of judgment- The judgment of the Appellate Court shall be in writing and shall state-

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled;

and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein"

22. In this context, since the Appellate Authority is exercising powers of the First Appellate Court it was incumbent upon the said court to have considered the various contentions, the evidence on record and then gone on to record its conclusion. In this regard the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Sudarsan Puhan v. Jayanta Ku. Mohanty, (2018) 10 SCC 552 will be gainful to notice and the relevant portion reads as under:

"23. This Court also in various cases reiterated the aforesaid principle and laid down the powers of the Appellate Court under Section 96 of the Code while deciding the first appeal.

24. We consider it apposite to refer to some of the decisions.

25. In Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari (Deceased) by L.Rs. (2001) 3 SCC 179, this Court held (at pages 188189) as under:

"15 The appellate court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial court. First appeal is a valuable right of the parties and unless restricted by law, the whole case is therein open for rehearing both on questions of fact and law. The judgment of the appellate court must, therefore, reflect its conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons, on all the issues arising along with the contentions put forth, and pressed by the parties for decision of the appellate court while reversing a finding of fact the appellate court must come into close quarters with the reasoning assigned by the trial court and then assign its own reasons for arriving at a different finding. This would satisfy the court hearing a further appeal that the first appellate court had discharged the duty expected of it"

26. The above view was followed by a three Judge Bench decision of this Court in Madhukar v. Sangram, (2001) 4 SCC 756, wherein it was reiterated that sitting as a court of first appeal, it is the duty of the High Court to deal with all the issues and the evidence led by the parties before recording its findings.

27. In H.K.N. Swami v. Irshad Basith, (2005) 10 SCC 243, this Court (at p. 244) stated as under : (SCC para 3)

"3. The first appeal has to be decided on facts as well as on law. In the first appeal parties have the right to be heard both on questions of law as also on facts and the first appellate court is required to address itself to all issues and decide the case by giving reasons. Unfortunately, the High Court, in the present case has not recorded any finding either on facts or on law. Sitting as the first appellate court it was the duty of the High Court to deal with all the issues and the evidence led by the parties before recording the finding regarding title."

28. Again in Jagannath v. Arulappa, (2005) 12 SCC 303, while considering the scope of Section 96 of the Code, this Court (at pp. 30304) observed as follows : (SCC para 2)

"2. A court of first appeal can reappreciate the entire evidence and come to a different conclusion."

29. Again in B.V. Nagesh v. H.V. Sreenivasa Murthy, (2010) 13 SCC 530, this Court taking note of all the earlier judgments of this court reiterated the aforementioned principle with these words:

"3. How the regular first appeal is to be disposed of by the appellate court/High Court has been considered by this Court in various decisions. Order 41 CPC deals with appeals from original decrees. Among the various rules, Rule 31 mandates that the judgment of the appellate court shall state:

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled.

4. The appellate court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial court. The first appeal is a valuable right of the parties and unless restricted by law, the whole case is therein open for rehearing both on questions of fact and law. The judgment of the appellate court must, therefore, reflect its conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons, on all the issues arising along with the contentions put forth, and pressed by the parties for decision of the appellate court. Sitting as a court of first appeal, it was the duty of the High Court to deal with all the issues and the evidence led by the parties before recording its findings. The first appeal is a valuable right and the parties have a right to be heard both on questions of law and on facts and the judgment in the first appeal must address itself to all the issues of law and fact and decide it by giving reasons in support of the findings. (Vide Santosh Hazari v. Purushottam Tiwari, (2001) 3 SCC 179 at p. 188, para 15 and Madhukar v. Sangram, (2001) 4 SCC 756 at p. 758, para 5.)

5. In view of the above salutary principles, on going through the impugned judgment, we feel that the High Court has failed to discharge the obligation placed on it as a first appellate court. In our view, the judgment under appeal is cryptic and none of the relevant aspects have even been noticed. The appeal has been decided in an unsatisfactory manner. Our careful perusal of the judgment in the regular first appeal shows that it falls short of considerations which are expected from the court of first appeal. Accordingly, without going into the merits of the claim of both parties, we set aside the impugned judgment and decree of the High Court and remand the regular first appeal to the High Court for its fresh disposal in accordance with law."

30. The aforementioned cases were relied upon by this Court while reiterating the same principle in State Bank of India v. Emmsons International Ltd., (2011) 12 SCC 174 and Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation v. Mamta (2016) 4 SCC 172."

23. From the above, it would be clear, as to how the First Appellate Court must exercise its jurisdiction. However, unfortunately from the perusal of the impugned judgment passed by the Appellate Court dated 27.11.1979 this Court finds that the same is wanting in many material aspects of meeting with the reasons of the trial court, assigning its own reasons and reversing the findings.

25. Now considering the submissions raised by the respective parties on merits of the controversy, this Court finds that the findings recorded by the First Appellate Court that a Will of Smt. Kunta not being a transfer is not covered under Section 5(6) of the Ceiling Act and the said view is defended by the counsel for the respondent by relying upon a decision of a Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Mulk Nath Singh (supra) wherein the Co-ordinate Bench has relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in the case of Rathinam @ Kuppamuthu v. L. S. Mariappan [(2007) 6 SCC 724], while coming to its conclusion holding that a Will is not a transfer.

26. In this regard, Section 5(6) of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 and the explanation appended thereto will be relevant to be noticed and which reads as under:

"[5. Imposition of Ceiling.-(1) [On and from the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972], no tenure-holder shall be entitled to hold in the aggregate through-out Uttar Pradesh, any land in excess of the ceiling area applicable to him.

[Explanation I.-In determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, all land held by him in his own right, whether in his own name, or ostensibly in the name of any other person, shall be taken into account.]

Explanation II.-[If on or before January 24, 1971, any land was held by a person who continues to be in its actual cultivatory possession and the name of any other person is entered in the annual register after the said date] either in addition to or to the exclusion of the former and whether on the basis of a deed of transfer or licence or on the basis of a decree, it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority, that the first mentioned person continues to hold the land and that it is so held by him ostensibly in the name of the second mentioned person.]

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1), shall apply to land held by the following classes of persons namely-

(a) the Central Government, the State Government or any Local Authority or a Government Company or a Corporation;

(b) a University;

(c) [an intermediate or degree college imparting education in agriculture or a post-graduate college;];

(d) a banking company or a co-operative bank or a co-operative land development bank;

(e) the Bhoodan Yagna Committee constituted under the U.P. Bhoodan Yagna Act, 1952.

(3) [Subject to the provisions of sub-sections (4), (5), (6) and (7)] the ceiling area for purposes of sub-section (1) shall be-

(a) in the case of a tenure-holder having a family of not more than five members, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land (including land held by other members of his family) plus two additional hectares of irrigated land or such additional land which together with the land held by him aggregates to two hectares, for each of his adult sons, who are either not themselves tenure-holders or who hold less than two hectares of irrigated land, subject to a maximum of six hectares of such additional land;

(b) in the case of a tenure-holder having family of more than five members, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land (including land held by other members of his family), besides, each of the members exceeding five and for each of his adult sons who are not themselves tenure-holders or who hold less than two hectares of irrigated land, two additional hectares of irrigated land or such additional land which together with the land held by such adult son aggregates to two hectares, subject to a maximum of six hectares of such additional land;

Explanation.-The expression □adult son□ in clauses (a) and (b) includes an adult son who is dead and has left surviving behind him minor sons or minor daughters (other than married daughters) who are not themselves tenure-holders or who hold land less than two hectares of irrigated land;

(c) [x x x]

(d) [x x x]

(e) in the case of any other tenure-holder, 7.30 hectares of irrigated land;

Explanation.-Any transfer or partition of land which is liable to be ignored under sub-sections (6) and (7) shall be ignored also-

(f) for purposes of determining whether an adult son of a tenure-holder is himself a tenure-holder within the meaning of [clause (a) or clause (b)];

(g) for purposes of service of notice under Section 9.

(4) Where any holding is held by a firm or co-operative society or association of persons (whether incorporated or not, but not including a public company), its members (whether called partners, share-holders or by any other name) shall, for purposes of this Act, be deemed to hold that holding in proportion to their respective shares in that firm, co-operative society or other society or association of persons:

[Provided that where a person immediately before his admission to the firm, co-operative society, or other society or association of persons, held no land or an area of land less than the area proportionate to his aforesaid share then he shall be deemed to hold no share, or as the case may be, only the lesser area in that holding, and the entire or the remaining area of the holding, as the case may be, shall be deemed to be held by the remaining members in proportion to their respective shares in the firm, co-operative society or other society or association of persons.]

(5) In respect of any holding held by any private trust,-

(a) where the shares of its beneficiaries in the income from such trust are known or determinable, the beneficiaries shall, for purposes of this Act, be deemed to have the shares in that holding in the same proportions as their respective shares in the income from such trust,

(b) in any other case, it shall be governed by [clause (e)] of subsection (3).

(6) In determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, any transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account;

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to-

(a) a transfer in favour of any person (including Government) referred to in sub-section (2);

(b) a transfer proved to the satisfaction of the prescribed authority to be in good faith and for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument not being a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holder or other members of his family.

[Explanation I.-For the purposes of this sub-section, the expression transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, includes-

[(a) a declaration of a person as a co-tenure-holder made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971 in a suit or proceeding irrespective of whether such suit or proceeding was pending on or was instituted after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971];

(b) any admission, acknowledgment, relinquishment or declaration in favour of a person to the like effect, made in any other deed or instrument or in any other manner.

Explanation II.-The burden of proving that a case falls within clause (b) of the proviso shall rest with the party claiming its benefit."

27. From the above, it would indicate that it uses the terminology to include not mere simplicitor transfer but other deed or instrument or in any other manner. Considering this aspect the Apex Court in (1996) 27 ALR 445 State of U.P. v. Bankey Singh has held as under:

"... The only question in this case is : whether the respondents would get benefit of 1/4th share in the surplus land declared by the competent authority? On September 8, 1982, Krishan Pal Singh filed objection, who claimed land of Khat Nos. 340, 341 and Khata No. 33 of village Nawada and Khata No. 77 of Village Jamla Jot on the basis of a Will executed by Smt. Gajraji. On that basis, the said land is required to be excluded from the surplus land. The primary authority had rejected the claim by proceedings dated July 30, 1983 and on appeal the District Judge allowed the appeal by order dated November 9, 1983 and excluded 1/4th of the land held by Gajraji on the basis of the Will dated September 2, 1978. When it was questioned, the High Court dismissed Writ Petition No. 1731/84. Hence, this appeal by special leave.

Section 5 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act, 1960 (U.P. Act No. 1 of 1961) (for short, □the Act□) in Chapter II imposes ceiling on land holdings. Certain exemption mentioned in the Article gets excluded from surplus land. Section 5 postulates that on and from the commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972, no tenure-holder shall be entitled to hold in the aggregate throughout Uttar Pradesh, any land in excess of ceiling area applicable to him.

Sub-section (6) postulates determination of the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder. It provides that any transfer of land made after the 24th day of January, 1971, which but for the transfer, would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account. Explanation-1 provides that for the purpose of this sub-section the expression transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971 includes, among other things, an admission, acknowledgment, relinquishment or declaration in favour of a person to the like effect, made in any other deed or instrument or in any other manner, shall be construed to be a transfer for the purpose of sub-section (6).

Admittedly, the Will was executed on February 10, 1978 long after the specified date. By the Will a devise was made by Gajraji, owner of the land bequeathing her 1/4th share in favour of her brother's grand-son, Krishan Pratap Singh. Therefore, it must be construed to be a devise in any other manner within the meaning of Explanation 1(b) of sub-section (6) of the Act. It shall be ignored for the purpose of determination of the surplus land. The High Court and the appellate authority, therefore, were not right in directing to exclude the said land. The appeal is accordingly allowed. No costs."

28. In light of the aforesaid clear authority of the Apex Court which is in context with the provisions of the Ceiling Act, this Court finds that the decision cited by the counsel for the respondent and placing reliance on the Co-ordinate Bench decision of Mulk Nath Singh (supra) would be per incuriam for the reason it does not take note of the decision of the Apex Court in Bankey Singh (supra). Moreover, the decision of the Apex Court which has been relied upon in the case of Mulk Nath Singh (supra) namely that of S. Rathinam @ Kuppamuthu (supra) is not in context with the ceiling proceedings rather the said decision was in context with the general law where Will was held to be not a case of transfer. However, in the instant case since the proceedings arise out of a Special Act where special provisions have been incorporated and the same has been interpreted by the Apex Court in the case of Bankey Singh (supra), accordingly in the humble opinion of this court, the decision of Bankey Singh (supra) would be a binding authority and for the aforesaid reason, the Court is not inclined to accept the contention of the counsel for the respondent and follow the decision of Mulk Nath Singh (supra).

29. It will also be relevant to notice that the finding which has been reversed by the Appellate Court in respect of the sale deed said to have been executed by Dinanath in favour of Sundar Lal, the same is not adequately considered nor supported with reasons. Whether the said sale deed was executed prior to 24.01.1971 or thereafter could only be proved once the said sale deed was on record. In absence of the said sale deed merely relying upon certain entries in the revenue records which do not establish title and are only for fiscal purposes could not give rise to a categorical finding and conclusion that since the name of Sundar Lal was recorded in the revenue records prior to the said date of 24.01.1971 without clear dates being available as to when it was entered in the revenue records and what was the basis and the reason for incorporating such entries. The findings of the Appellate Court on the aforesaid point are not supported by any clear and cogent evidence, hence are unsustainable.

31. How a ceiling area is to be considered while adjudging a transaction and whether it would be hit by Section 5 (6) of the Ceiling Act and the manner in which the Prescribed Authority is to hold an inquiry in this regard has been considered by the Apex Court in (1997) 1 SCC 734 State of U.P. v. Amar Singh, the relevant portion thereof reads as under:"

"5. Thus, on and from the date the Amendment Act came into force, namely, 21-1-1971, the tenure-holder shall not hold, throughout the State of Uttar Pradesh, any land in the aggregate in excess of ceiling area applicable to him. Explanation I adumbrates that in determining ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, all lands held by him in his own right, whether in his own name or ostensibly in the name of any other person, shall be taken into account. In other words, as on the date the Amendment Act came into force, the land must be held by the tenure-holder in his own right and the lands ostensibly in the name of any other person shall be taken into account. In this case, admittedly, the alienations came to be made by Kishun Singh in favour of his sons and daughters-in-law. Normally, one would expect that if there is any compelling legal necessity to alienate the land, one would sell the land to third parties and that too, as prudent vendor for valuable consideration not to the sons and daughters-in-law. The object appears to be, as rightly pointed out by the District Judge, that the alienations were made by registered instruments in favour of his sons and daughters-in-law only to see that the provisions of the Act are defeated and the lands do not pass into the hands of strangers. It is true that the evidence was adduced by the respondents as regards proof of mutation. Mutation was effected on the basis that sale deeds came to be executed in favour of sons and daughters-in-law. Therefore, the mutation officer was not concerned at that stage to find out whether the sales were benami or ostensibly intended to defeat the provisions of the Act. It is settled law that mutation entries are only for the purpose of enabling the State to collect the land revenue from the person in possession but it does not confer any title to the land. The title would be derived from an instrument executed by the owner in favour of an alienee as per the Stamp Act and registered under the Registration Act. The alienees being sons and daughters-in-law, the tenure-holder remained to be the owner and holder of the land. The sons and daughters-in-law are only ostensible owners under Explanation I to Section 5(1) of the Act. It is true that Lekh Pal has not categorically stated whether the respondents remained in possession in their own right after the alienation. It is not in dispute that the father and sons remained to be members of the joint family and were cultivating the land. Under these circumstances, one would normally expect that Lekh Pal may not be in a position to categorically assert whether respondents remained in possession in their own right as owners or were cultivating land on their own or on behalf of the coparceners. Under these circumstances, the findings of the High Court are illegal. The case falls under Explanation I of Section 5(1) and the burden is always only on the respondents to establish that they were not ostensibly owning the land but remained in their own right as owners. Accordingly, we hold that Kishun Singh was the holder of the land. He was a tenure-holder as on the date and, therefore, ceiling area has to be computed treating him to be the owner of the land; besides himself, he had eight sons who are entitled to the respective additional ceiling area given to them under the Act. The authorities are, therefore, directed to compute the ceiling area accordingly and take possession of the surplus land.

33. The Apex Court has also considered the aforesaid aspect in 1995 Supp (1) SCC 204 Nawal Singh v. State of U.P. and the relevant portion reads as under:

"2. For a transfer effected after 24-1-1971 to be valid it must be proved to have been made in good faith, for adequate consideration, under an irrevocable instrument, not being a benami transaction, or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenureholder or other members of his family. Findings have been recorded at one stage or the other that the sale effected by the appellant was for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument, not being a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenureholder or other members of his family. These findings have been recorded in the backdrop that the appellant had his holdings in two villages i.e. Sihi and Asawar and that he was residing in Sihi, and had to manage his land at Asawar at a distance of about two and a half miles. Additionally he was an old man of about 65 years of age at the relevant time, had no son to look after him and his only daughter who was married was living elsewhere. In this situation, the appellant thought proper, as is his case, to sell the land at village Asawar for a sum of Rs. 60,000 and he asserts that out of it he transferred a sum of Rs. 35,000 to his daughter by way of gift and paid gift tax thereon. These assertions of the appellant have not been countered at any stage. His complete version has been doubted only on the premise that the sale was effected after the crucial date i.e. 24-1-1971 which was reflective of absence of good faith.

3. We do not at all appreciate the approach of the courts below. If this approach is accepted that no transfer effected after 24-1-1971 can escape, sub-section (6) of Section 5 would be rendered meaningless and a dead letter in the statute. The facts as stated above have been asserted by the appellant clearly and openly. There is nothing on these facts to attract a finding that all what he did was in bad faith. We are satisfied that he has more than ordinarily proved that the transaction of sale was effected in good faith and the approach of the courts below was not in accordance with the spirit of the statute. We thus set aside the impugned orders of the High Court as also that of the courts below and hold that the transaction in question was entered in good faith and the land covered by it is not to be reckoned towards computing his holding for ceiling purposes. The appeal is accordingly allowed. No costs.

34. The Apex Court again in the case of Brijendra Singh v. State of U.P. (1981) 1 SCC 597 has considered the issue and the relevant portion reads as under:

14 .. It will be seen that when sub-section (6) of Section 5 provides that in determining the ceiling area and surplus area, any transfer of land which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under the Act, shall be ignored, it proceeds on the presumption that the tenure holders being aware of the resolution or manifesto adopted by the ruling All India Congress Party on January 24, 1971, and of the consensus at the Chief Ministers Conference held in July 1972, to take measures to lower the ceiling on agricultural holdings, might make attempts to defraud, defeat and evade the ceiling law, then in offing, by making fictitious transfers of land in favour of other persons. The presumption which underlies the main provision in Section 5(6) can be displaced, as the legislature has itself indicated, on proof of the conditions set out in proviso (b). Although the strength of the aforesaid presumption and the nature and quantum required to satisfy the conditions of proviso (b) may vary according to the circumstances of the particular case, yet it can be said as a general proposition that in the case of transfers made prior to the decision of the Chief Ministers Conference in July 1972 to lower the ceiling, the burden under Explanation II on the tenure holder to establish the facts bringing his case within clause (b) of the proviso, would be lighter than the one in the case of a transfer made after the aforesaid decision in July 1972.

15. In order to bring his case within the purview of proviso (b), the tenure holder has to show□

(i) that the transfer has been made in □good faith□;

(ii) that it is a transfer for adequate consideration;

(iii) that it has been made under an irrevocable instrument; and

(iv) that it is not a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure holder or other members of his family.

16. There is no dispute in regard to the connotation, construction and existence of ingredients (ii), (iii) and (iv) in the instant case. Controversy, however centres round the true meaning and scope of the expression □good faith□ within the contemplation of clause (b) of the proviso. In the instant case, the Appellate Authority appears to have taken the view □ a view which has been upheld by the High Court □ that a transfer cannot be said to have been made in □good faith□ merely because it has been honestly or genuinely made and satisfies the aforesaid Conditions (ii), (iii) and (iv), unless it is proved further that it was made for a valid pressing necessity.

18. The expression □good faith□ has not been defined in the Ceiling Act. The expression has several shades of meaning. In the popular sense, the phrase □in good faith□ simply means □honestly, without fraud, collusion, or deceit; really, actually, without pretence and without intent to assist or act in furtherance of a fraudulent or otherwise unlawful scheme□, (see Words and Phrases, Permanent Edn., Vol. 18-A, p. 91). Although the meaning of □good faith□ may vary in the context of different statutes, subjects and situations, honest intent free from taint of fraud or fraudulent design, is a constant element of its connotation. Even so, the quality and quantity of the honesty requisite for constituting □good faith□ is conditioned by the context and object of the statute in which this term is employed. It is a cardinal canon of construction that an expression which has no uniform, precisely fixed meaning, takes its colour, light and content from the context.

19. The meaning and scope of the expression □good faith□ is therefore, to be considered in the light of the scheme and purpose of Section 5, in general, and the context of proviso (b) to sub-section (6), in particular. We have already noticed that the primary object of the Ceiling Act, as adumbrated in the pivotal provision in Section 5(1) is to prohibit and disentitle a tenure holder from holding land in the aggregate in the State of Uttar Pradesh, in excess of the ceiling area, in his own right, whether in his own name, or ostensibly in the name of any other person. The ceiling area and surplus land of a tenure holder under the Ceiling Act, as already mentioned, are to be determined as on June 8, 1973 when the U.P. (Amendment) Act 18 of 1973 came into force. A transfer, therefore, made after January 24, 1971 which is designed to serve as a cloak for retention of a right or interest of the transferor in the ostensibly transferred land in excess of the ceiling area, even on or after June 8, 1973, will be patently not □in good faith□. But the proviso (b) to sub-section (6) of Section 5 extends the negative aspect of the concept □good faith□ a little further by indicating, that even if the transfer is not an ostensible transfer and the transferor divests himself of all interest and rights in present in the transferred land, but reserves some benefit in futuro for himself or other members of his family, then also, the transfer will be not in □good faith□. A transfer solely for the purpose of converting surplus land into cash without any kind of need (not to be confused with legal necessity) may also lack good faith.

20. Broadly speaking, the benefit of clause (b) of the proviso to subsection (b) is available to a transfer made in good faith, that is, to a bona fide transfer whereby the tenure holder genuinely and irrevocably transfers all right, title and interest in the land in favour of the transferee, in the ordinary course of management of his affairs and which is not a collusive arrangement, or device or subterfuge to enable the tenure holder to continue to hold the surplus land or any reserved interest in presenti or in future, therein, (or merely to convert it into cash), and thus circumvent the ban under Section 5(1) of the Ceiling Act. In order to be entitled to the benefit of proviso (a), a transfer made in good faith, must satisfy the further conditions, (ii) to (iv), enumerated in the proviso (b). The positive conditions laid down in proviso (b) are : that the transfer should be for adequate consideration; that it should have been made under an irrevocable instrument. The negative conditions set out in clause (b) of the proviso are : that it must not be a benami transaction; that it must not be for immediate or deferred benefit of the transferring tenure holder or other members of his family. These tests or Conditions (ii), (iii) and (iv) provided in proviso (b) may not by themselves be conclusive to hold that the transfer was in □good faith□. For instance, another important test for judging the genuineness or otherwise of a sale would be whether or not cultivatory possession and enjoyment of the land has passed under the sale to the vendee. Even so, once it is established by the transferring tenure holder that the transfer in question effected in the course of ordinary management of his affairs, was made for adequate consideration and he has genuinely, absolutely and irrevocably divested himself of all right, title and interest (including cultivatory possession) in the land in favour of the transferee, the onus under Explanation II, in the absence of any circumstances suggestive of collusion, or an intention or design to defraud or circumvent the Ceiling Act, on the tenure holder to show that the transfer was effected in □good faith□, will stand discharged, and it will not be necessary for the tenure holder to prove further that the transfer was made for an impelling need or to raise money for meeting a pressing legal necessity. Although proof of the fact that a transfer was made for a valid pressing necessity may highlight or strengthen the inference in favour of the genuineness of the transfer, it is not an indispensable constituent of □good faith□; nor is the proof of legal necessity requisite, as a matter of law, to enable a tenure holder to avail of the benefit of clause (b) of the proviso. It may be remembered that at the time when such a transfer was made, there was no legal restriction on his power to alienate the whole or any part of his holding. In other words, at the time when such a transfer was made it was not unlawful, even if it were made without any pressing necessity. It became unlawful by the subsequent enactment of a legal fiction introduced in Section 5(6) of the Ceiling Act (U.P. Act 18 of 1973) with retrospective effect from January 24, 1971. Even so, under this statutory fiction, a transfer of land made after January 24, 1971 does not become wholly void for all purposes; it can be ignored and would not be taken into account in determining the ceiling area of the transferring tenure holder for purposes of the Ceiling Act, and that too, if the following two conditions are satisfied□

(a) that the land but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under the U.P. Act 18 of 1973; and

(b) that the transfer is not of a kind covered by proviso (6) to Section 5(6) of the Act.

35. This being the position, once a transfer is shown to be bona fide and further satisfies all the other positive and negative conditions laid down in the proviso (b) to Section 5(6), there is no justification in law to stretch the legal fiction further and to spell out from the expression □good faith□ an additional requirement of proving pressing necessity for the transfer before the tenure holder is entitled to the benefit of the aforesaid proviso (b).

36. In light of what is culled out from the decisions of the Apex Court noticed above, this Court observes that the Appellate Authority must consider the evidence in a manner aforesaid to find out whether the transactions are bonafide.

37. Now noticing the aforesaid dictum in Amar Singh (supra), Nawal Singh (supra) and Brijendra Singh (supra) and applying the said principles to the instant case, this Court finds that the Appellate Court has not adhered to the principles of law settled and also the manner in which the objections of the tenure holder and the evidence thereon is to be considered. Moreover, categorical findings which have been recorded by the Prescribed Authority have not been considered by the Appellate Court in its correct prespective nor any reason has been incorporated why the conclusion of the Prescribed Authority were erroneous nor the findings of the Prescribed Authority have been reversed."

Anand Kishor Devacharya (Supra)

"13. The Appellate court held that the old Ceiling Act came into force with effect from 03.01.1961 with reference year 1958. As proceedings against Maharaja Pateshwari Prasad Singh and his heir Maharajaa Dharmendra Pratap Singh had been instituted under the old Ceiling Act, they will be governed by the old Ceiling Act.

14. The order dated 27.01.1968 for recording the name of the appellant's husband, had been passed by the Consolidation Officer on the basis of a compromise and this order had been passed 10 years after the reference date. Therefore, the order dated 27.01.1968 passed by the Consolidation Officer is liable to be neglected and no relief can be granted to the appellant on the basis of the aforesaid order.

19. In view of the provisions contained in Section 19(1) of the Amendment Act, 1972, all the proceedings initiated under the unamended Act stood abated on 08.06.1973. The Prescribed Authority could have initiated fresh proceedings by issuing a notice under Section 9(2) of the Act.

20. Therefore, the proceedings instituted on the basis of notice issued to Maharaja Dharmendra Pratap Singh, stood abated in view of the provisions contained in Section 19 of the amendment Act. Fresh proceedings could only be initiated by issuing a fresh notice under Section 9(2) of the Ceiling Act, which was not done in the present case.

21. The order passed by the Appellate Authority stating that the proceedings against Maharaja Pateshwari Prasad Singh and his heir Maharaja Dharmendra Pratap Singh had been issued under the old Ceiling Act (which is a misnomer, as there was no old Ceiling Act and it was merely the unamended Ceiling Act, as it was originally enacted) and that the same proceedings shall be deemed to be continuing, has been passed in ignorance of the provisions of Section 19 of the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings (Amendment) Act, 1972 (U.P. Act 18 of 1973) and the same is unsustainable in law.

22. Accordingly, the writ petition is allowed. The order dated 15.04.2015 passed by Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Division, Gonda dismissing Appeal No. 5/43 under Section 13 of the Ceiling Act is quashed. The matter is remanded to Additional Commissioner (Judicial), Devi Patan Division, Gonda for being decided afresh in accordance with the law, keeping in view the observations made in this judgment."

"11. Perusal of the record demonstrates that the petitioner is claiming right on the basis of sale deed executed in his favour on 8.10.1971 in respect to the khasara no. 53 area 2-17-15 from its recorded tenure holder Beni Madhav and the name of the petitioner was ordered to be recorded in case no. 329 passed by the Sub-Divisional Office, Dumeriyaganj. Entry has been made in the remark column of the khatauni of 1378-1380 fasli. Petitioner is claiming that after enforcement of Act No. 18 of 1973 w.e.f. 8.6.1973, the sale deed executed on 8.10.1971 in favour of the petitioner is well protected. The record also demonstrates that the objection under Section 11(2) of the Ceiling Act filed by the petitioner has been dismissed by the prescribed authority and the appeal has also been dismissed holding that transaction of the petitioner is benami and no reliance can be placed upon the same as the same has been executed after 24.1.1971. The reasoning given under the impugned order cannot be sustained as the sale deed has been executed before 8.6.1973, as such, the same is well protected.

12. In the instant matter petitioner is claiming right on the basis of sale deed executed on 8.10.1971 by recorded owner, which is well before the relevant dated 8.6.1973 and notice was issued to respondent nos. 16 to 18 on 14.3.1974 for show cause in C.L.H. Form- 3A, 3B & 3C, as such, the sale deed executed on 8.10.1971 cannot be ignored by ceiling authorities coupled with the fact that name of the petitioner came in remark coloumn of Khatauni of 1378 fasli to 1380 fasli (1970-71 to 1972-73).

16. So far as the execution of the lease in favour of respondent nos. 5 to 15 is concerned, the same is always subject to the right & title of the State. Since, the Court is holding that the khasara no. 53, which was purchased by the petitioner by way of sale deed executed on 8.10.1971 cannot be declared surplus without notice and opportunity of hearing to the petitioner, as such, respondent nos. 5 to 15 cannot claim any right on the basis of lease deed. No useful purpose will be served by remanding the matter again before the prescribed authority or the appellate authority as earlier also the matter has been remanded by this Court to decide the appeal afresh. The litigation cannot be kept pending in Court for unlimited period rather to finalize the same on the basis of evidence on record as well as considering the ratio of law laid down by this Court as quoted above.

17. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned order dated 6.3.1982 passed by respondent no. 3 as well as order dated 19.1.2012 passed by respondent no. 2 are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside. The impugned order dated 11.12.1974 so far as it relates to Khasara No. 53 is also set aside and Khasara No. 53 is excluded from ceiling proceeding.

18. The writ petition stands allowed."

Rajendra Prasad Singh (Supra)

"15. The prescribed authority, without framing the issues, as directed by the appellate court under Section 5(6) Explanation, proceeded to decide without framing the issues. For ready reference Section 5(6) Explanation proviso to U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holding Act, 1960 is being quoted under :-

"5(6) In determining the ceiling area applicable to a tenure-holder, any transfer of land made after the twenty-fourth day of January, 1971, which but for the transfer would have been declared surplus land under this Act, shall be ignored and not taken into account:

Provided that nothing in this sub-section shall apply to :

(a) a transfer in favour of any person (including Government) referred to in sub-section (2);

(b) a transfer proved to the satisfaction of the Prescribed Authority to be in good faith and for adequate consideration and under an irrevocable instrument not being a benami transaction or for immediate or deferred benefit of the tenure-holder or other members of his family."

16. A bare perusal of the aforesaid provision clearly demonstrates that before proceeding to decide the claim, issue has to be framed in regard to the possession over the land. On bare perusal of the impugned order passed by the prescribed authority, it is crystal clear that no issues whatsoever were framed nor the petitioners were issued notice to submit their objection in regard to their claim. The appellate authority also proceeded to affirm the order of the prescribed authority without application of mind.

17. In view of the reasons assigned above, the impugned orders dated 31.12.1991 and 14.3.1995, passed by the Chief Revenue Officer, Gonda and Additional Commissioner Faizabad Division, Faizabad (Ayodhya) respectively are hereby quashed. The writ petition succeeds and is allowed."

37. Upon consideration of the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the material brought on record, this Court finds that the principal grievance raised by the petitioners is that their independent claim arising out of the registered Will dated 25.11.1971 executed by the original tenure holder Fateh Bahadur Singh was never adjudicated upon by the authorities under the U.P. Imposition of Ceiling on Land Holdings Act and that their objections were rejected on technical grounds without examining the substance of their claim.

38. The record demonstrates that Fateh Bahadur Singh admittedly died on 22.05.1973 and prior thereto is stated to have executed a registered Will in favour of Ajay Pratap Singh, Vishnu Pratap Singh, Bhanu Pratap Singh and Vijay Pratap Singh. The petitioners claim rights through Vijay Pratap Singh and assert independent rights over the holding on the basis of the said Will. It further emerges from the record that when the original ceiling proceedings culminated in the order dated 30.09.1975 declaring surplus land, the petitioners were admittedly minors. Their case is that after attaining majority and acquiring knowledge of the proceedings, they promptly approached the authority by filing objections on 01.11.1980.

39. The Prescribed Authority rejected the objections principally on the ground that the application mentioned Section 13-A instead of Section 11(2) of the Act and also on the ground of delay. The appellate authority thereafter mechanically affirmed the order without undertaking any independent consideration of the issues raised. The approach adopted by both the authorities, in the considered opinion of this Court, cannot be sustained in law.

40. The legal position with regard to the scope and maintainability of objections under Section 11(2) of the Act is no longer res integra. In Dirvijai Singh (Supra), this Court categorically held that a third party claiming independent rights in the land has a right to file objections under Section 11(2) and such objections cannot be rejected merely because earlier proceedings had been contested by the recorded tenure holder up to higher forums. The Court specifically observed that the right of a third party survives independently and requires adjudication on merits.

41. Similar principles were reiterated in the case of Shafir (Supra), wherein it was held that even persons claiming independent tenure-holder rights, though not originally impleaded in the proceedings, are entitled to maintain objections under Section 11(2). The Court further held that such objections are required to be decided on merits after affording adequate opportunity of evidence to the objector. The ratio of the aforesaid judgment clearly applies to the facts of the present case, as the petitioners had asserted an independent claim over the holding on the basis of a Will, and such claim could not have been rejected without proper adjudication.

42. Equally relevant is the judgment in Abdul Hafiz Khan (Supra), wherein this Court held that even if an objection is filed under a wrong provision, the authority is under an obligation to treat the same in accordance with its substance and not reject it on mere technical description of the statutory provision. The Court specifically held that wrong mentioning of a section or omission to mention the correct provision does not dis-entitle an objector from substantive relief. In the present case, the authorities have adopted an excessively technical approach in rejecting the petitioners objections merely because Section 13-A was mentioned instead of Section 11(2), despite the fact that the substance of the objection clearly disclosed an independent claim over the land in dispute.

43. The reasoning adopted by the Prescribed Authority thus stands directly contrary to the law laid down in Abdul Hafiz Khan (Supra). Procedural law is intended to advance justice and not to defeat substantive rights. Once the petitioners had disclosed the basis of their claim and sought adjudication of their independent rights, the authority ought to have treated the application as one under Section 11(2) and decided the same on merits.

44. The plea of delay raised against the petitioners also does not impress this Court. The petitioners were admittedly minors at the time when the original ceiling proceedings were initiated and finalized. The effect of minority and absence of effective representation could not have been ignored while considering the question of delay.

45. In Mehfizul Rahman (Supra), this Court clearly held that even if a son had some vague knowledge of proceedings against his father, the same could not be construed to mean that his independent rights stood represented or adjudicated. The Court further held that objections filed subsequently by persons claiming independent rights could not be rejected merely on technical grounds of delay. The observations made therein squarely support the petitioners case.

46. Likewise, in Hari Ram (Supra), this Court held that objections by persons claiming independent rights were required to be heard on merits notwithstanding earlier proceedings conducted against another person. The Court further observed that where the objectors names were reflected in revenue records or they otherwise asserted independent rights, notices ought to have been issued to them and their objections could not be dismissed summarily.

47. The respondents have attempted to justify the proceedings on the ground that the petitioners were represented by their father, who was their natural guardian. However, mere representation by a guardian in proceedings conducted against another tenure holder cannot automatically extinguish or adjudicate independent rights claimed by minors on the basis of a separate legal instrument. The authorities were under a duty to examine whether the rights asserted through the Will had any legal effect and whether such claim required independent adjudication.

48. The impugned orders further reveal complete non-consideration of the Will relied upon by the petitioners. The authorities have neither examined the genuineness of the Will nor recorded any finding regarding its legal effect. The claim has simply been rejected on technical grounds without any discussion of evidence. Such an approach clearly reflects non-application of mind.

49. At the same time, this Court cannot ignore the settled legal position relating to transfers and testamentary dispositions under the Ceiling Act. In State of U.P. Vs. Kailash Nath (Supra), this Court, after considering the judgments of the Hon ble Supreme Court in State of U.P. Vs. Bankey Singh, Amar Singh, Nawal Singh and Brijendra Singh, elaborately explained the scope of Section 5(6) of the Act and held that transactions made after 24.01.1971 are liable to scrutiny to determine whether they are bona fide or intended to defeat the provisions of the Ceiling Act.

50. The Court in Kailash Nath (Supra) further observed that even though a Will may not constitute a transfer under the general law, for purposes of ceiling proceedings it may still require examination within the framework of Section 5(6) and the explanations appended thereto. The Court further held that the authority must undertake a detailed inquiry regarding genuineness, bona fides, possession, consideration where applicable, and surrounding circumstances before recording any conclusion.

51. Thus, the petitioners cannot claim automatic exclusion of the land merely on the basis of the alleged Will. However, what is material is that the authorities were legally bound to examine the said claim on merits in accordance with the principles laid down in the aforesaid judgments. That exercise has admittedly not been undertaken in the present case.

52. This Court also finds substance in the submission advanced on behalf of the petitioners that the appellate authority failed to discharge its statutory obligation while deciding the appeal. The appellate order dated 05.03.1998 merely affirms the order of the Prescribed Authority without independent analysis of facts, evidence or legal issues.

53. In State of U.P. Vs. Kailash Nath (Supra), relying upon Order XLI Rule 31 CPC and various judgments of the Hon□ble Supreme Court, this Court emphasized that the first appellate authority is required to independently consider the evidence, submissions and findings recorded by the original authority and thereafter assign its own reasons. The appellate order must reflect conscious application of mind and reasoned adjudication.

54. In the present case, the appellate authority has failed to consider the effect of minority of the petitioners, the maintainability of objections under Section 11(2), the effect of incorrect mention of statutory provision, the legal consequences flowing from the alleged Will, and the requirement of adjudicating independent rights claimed by third parties. The order is thus clearly vitiated for want of proper reasoning and independent consideration.

55. The objection raised by the respondents regarding allotment of surplus land to third parties also does not persuade this Court to non-suit the petitioners at this stage. In Mohammad Raza (Supra), this Court held that allotments made pursuant to ceiling proceedings remain subject to the validity of the original declaration of surplus land and cannot override lawful claims requiring adjudication. Therefore, subsequent allotments cannot be treated as a complete bar to judicial scrutiny where foundational illegality is demonstrated.

56. Similarly, in Rajendra Prasad Singh (Supra), this Court reiterated that failure to frame proper issues, failure to consider objections and absence of adequate adjudication vitiate ceiling proceedings. The Court held that mechanical affirmation by the appellate authority without proper application of mind cannot be sustained.

57. In the facts of the present case, this Court finds that the objections preferred by the petitioners disclosed a substantial and legally triable claim. The authorities below failed to adjudicate the same in accordance with law and rejected the objections on technical and procedural grounds. Such an approach has resulted in manifest failure of justice. The impugned orders therefore cannot be sustained. Consequently, the writ petition deserves to be allowed.

58. Accordingly, the impugned order dated 26.04.1982 passed by the Prescribed Authority as well as the appellate order dated 05.03.1998 are hereby quashed. The matter is remanded to the Prescribed Authority concerned to reconsider the objections of the petitioners afresh in accordance with law after affording adequate opportunity of hearing to all affected parties.

59. While undertaking the aforesaid exercise, the Prescribed Authority shall specifically examine the claim of the petitioners arising out of the alleged Will dated 25.11.1971, the effect of minority of the petitioners at the relevant time, the maintainability of objections under Section 11(2), and the applicability of Section 5(6) of the Act in light of the principles laid down in the judgments referred to hereinabove. The authority shall pass a reasoned and speaking order after considering the evidence and submissions of the parties independently.

60. The writ petition is accordingly allowed. No order as to costs

Writ A No. 12815 of 2025

Deva Nand Srivastava ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Can the State refuse promotion to an employee who served nearly 40 years on the ground that the department failed to issue a formal regularization order prior to his confirmation and initial promotion?
(b) Does the mere usage of the word "officiating" in an initial appointment letter bar regularization/promotion when the appointment was against a substantive/sanctioned vacancy?
(c) What is the effect of the department's own decision (16.01.2024) establishing "deemed regularization" upon confirmation for those appointed on sanctioned posts?
(d) Is it permissible to deny promotion to a senior confirmed employee while promoting junior incumbents whose initial service records bear identical administrative conditions?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – The petitioner was temporarily appointed as a Consolidation Lekhpal on 11.09.1986, against a regular/sanctioned vacancy. Although the appointment letter erroneously used the term "officiating" (sthanapann), he worked continuously and was confirmed u/Rule 16 of the 1978 Lekhpal Rules with effect from 01.03.1990 (order dated 25.04.1991). He was subsequently promoted to the substantive post of Consolidator on 01.10.2008, and confirmed on 14.05.2012. In the final seniority list of Consolidators (issued 31.05.2022), he was placed at Serial No. 48. Promotions from Consolidator to Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO) were undertaken under the U.P. Revenue Consolidation Service Rules, 1992. On 19.12.2024, multiple junior Consolidators were promoted to ACO, but the petitioner was superseded.

By order dated 09.10.2025 (Annexure-1), Respondent No. 3 rejected the petitioner's representation, claiming he was ineligible for ACO promotion because his initial entry post (Chakbandi Lekhpal) was "officiating" and had never been formally regularized under ad-hoc regularization rules.

B. One cannot be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non performance he has occasioned. (Para 44)

Contrary stand cannot be taken by the departments for regularizing the service of the employee appointed on the post of consolidation Lekhpal merely on account of usage of word officiating basis i.e. 'sthanapann' in the appointment letter where such an employee working on substantive vacancy and similarly situated employees have been regularized. (Para 45)

It is apparent that although the petitioner was initially appointed on an "officiating" basis, the said term, in identical circumstances, has been interpreted by this Court in Ram Het Tiwari (infra) to mean "ad hoc" rather than "officiating". Ordinarily, officiating implies holding a post temporarily in addition to one's substantive post; however, in the present case, the petitioner was appointed for the first time on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal. Moreover, Opposite Party No. 2, in its communication has admitted that the use of the word "officiating" in the appointment letter was inadvertent. (Para 50, 51)

C. Regularisation of service is preceded by confirmation in service. Once the services are confirmed, without there being any dispute as to its legality order for regularisation is unwarranted. Regularisation is implicit in confirmation. Once an employee's services are confirmed, and such confirmation is not under challenge on grounds of illegality, the same attains finality. (Para 47, 52)

In the present case, the petitioner's services on the posts of Consolidation Lekhpal as well as Consolidator were duly confirmed. (Para 53)

D. Procedural technicalities cannot be invoked to defeat the substantive rights of employees that have accrued over a considerable period through continuous service. Where an employee has rendered long and continuous service for a substantial period of time, and has also been granted promotion, without any indication of the temporary nature of his initial appointment throughout his service tenure, such an employee cannot be denied the rights accrued to him merely on account of the terms of his initial appointment. (Para 49)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Abhineet Jaiswal, Shreya Jaiswal
For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Krunesh Singh Pawar, J.)

1. Heard Shri Abhinit Jaiswaal, learned counsel for the petitioner, and Shri Ram Pratap Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the respondent-State.

Reliefs Sought

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has sought issuance of a writ in the nature of certiorari for quashing the impugned order dated 09.10.2025 issued by respondent no.3, a copy whereof has been brought on record as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, whereby the representation preferred by the petitioner has been rejected.

3. A further prayer has been made for issuance of a writ in the nature of mandamus commanding respondent no.3 to consider and promote the petitioner to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO) with effect from the date on which his juniors were promoted, along with all consequential benefits, including seniority, within such reasonable time as may be fixed by this Court.

Facts of the Case

4. Brief facts of the case are that the Petitioner was initially temporarily appointed on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal vide order dated 11.09.1986 passed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Saharanpur, on regular vacancy. The petitioner was appointed on a substantive vacant post, however the term officiating (स्थानापन्न) has been transcribed in the initial appointment letter dated 11.9.1986. The petitioner continued on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal and, upon completion of three years of service, his services were confirmed on the said post with effect from 01.03.1990 under Rule 16 of the 1978 Lekhpal Rules, vide order dated 25.04.1991 passed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Saharanpur. The confirmation order refers to the several letters issued by the Respondent No. 3 pertaining to confirmation of Consolidation Lekhpals appointed prior to 31.12.1986. Petitioner's name finds mention at Serial No. 17 of the list appended to the aforesaid order which is annexed as Annexure- 4 to this Writ Petition. Since the petitioner was discharging his duties on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal without any gap or break he became entitled for the promotional post i.e Consolidator under The Uttar Pradesh Consolidators Service Rules, 1978 (hereinafter referred to as "1978 Consolidators Rules". Rule 5 also provides source of recruitment through promotion from those employees who have worked as Consolidation Lekhpal continuously for not less than 10 years. The procedure for recruitment by promotion and appointment is provided under Rule 15 and 18 of the aforesaid 1978 Consolidator Rules. The procedure for confirmation on the post of Consolidator is prescribed under Rule 20 of 1978

Consolidator Rules. The departmental selection committee was constituted for considering promotion of Consolidation Lekhpals on the promoted post of Consolidator. It examined the case of Petitioner and found him eligible and fulfilling the criteria prescribed for being promoted on the next higher post of Consolidator and consequently recommended him for the same vide order dated 01.10.2008 issued by the District Magistrate/District Deputy Director of Consolidation, Bijnor, the Petitioner was promoted on the post of Consolidator. Thereafter, vide order dated 14.05.2012 passed by District Magistrate/District Deputy Director of Consolidation, Bijnor, the Petitioner was confirmed on the post of Consolidator. Copies of promotion Order dated 01.10.2008 and confirmation order dated 14.05.2012 are collectively annexed as Annexure-6 (colly) to the Writ Petition. While discharging duties on the substantive post of Consolidator, the Petitioner became entitled for next promotional post i.e Assistant Consolidation Officer (hereinafter referred to as "A.C.O"). The promotion to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer is regulated by Uttar Pradesh Revenue Consolidation Service Rules, 1992 (hereinafter referred to as "1992 Rules").

5. The strength of service for the post of A.C.O as defined under Rule 4 of the 1992 Rules, is 820. The aforesaid strength of service for the post of A.C.O continues to be 820 as on the date. Rule 5 (1) of the 1992 Rules provides source of Recruitment inter alia on the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (A.C.O). Rule 5 of the 1992 Rules came to be amended vide notification dated 18.8.1997 issued under Article 309 of Constitution of India as per the amended Rule 5(1) of the 1992 Rules the source of recruitment on the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (A.C.O) has been prescribed to be 50% from direct recruitment and remaining 50% by promotion from amongst the substantively appointed Consolidators.

6. The total appointment on 410 posts of A.C.O are from the direct recruitment and remaining 410 posts are by way of promotion. Rule 17 (1) of 1992 Rules, provides procedure for recruitment by promotion through the Department Selection Committee (DSC), comprising of (i) Consolidation Commissioner, U.P as Chairman; (ii) Additional Consolidation Commissioner, U.P as Member; and (iii) Joint Director, Consolidation (Headquarters), U.P to be nominated by the Consolidation Commissioner as Member. Rule 17 (2) of 1992 Rules, provides that the appointing authority shall prepare eligibility list in accordance with the U.P Promotion by Selection (post outside purview of Public Service Commission) Eligibility List Rules, 1986 and place it before the Selection Committee along with their character rolls and other records of the candidate.

7. Rule 17 (3) of 1992 Rules provides that Departmental Selection Committee (DSC) shall consider the petitioner's case on the basis of the records referred in Rule 17 (2) and if it considers necessary, it may interview the candidates also. Rule 17 (4) provides that DSC shall prepare list of selected candidates, at the time of recruitment and forward the same to the appointing Authority.

8. Rule 22 of 1992 Rules, provides the seniority of persons substantively appointed in any category of posts shall be determined in accordance with the Uttar Pradesh Government Servants' Seniority Rules, 1991 (hereinafter referred to as "1991 Seniority Rules") as amended from time to time.

9. Thus the final seniority list of the Consolidators serving in the Department of Consolidation was issued vide Office memorandum dated 31.05.2022 issued by Respondent No. 3. This seniority list has been prepared in accordance with the provisions of 1991 Seniority Rules, after disposing of the objections filed by the incumbents against the tentative seniority list. The final seniority list was circulated by the Respondent No. 3 vide letter dated 01.06.2022 which is on record. The name of Petitioner finds place at Serial No. 48 of the seniority list.

10. It appears that the promotion of Consolidators on the post of A.C.O in the Consolidation Department have been delayed for considerable long time despite eligible Consolidators were in the department. Thus Association of Consolidators preferred a Writ-A No. 3309 of 2023 (Pradeshik Chakbandikarta Sangh vs State of U.P and Others) seeking direction to the Respondent No. 3 to hold the meeting of Departmental Selection Committee for promotion from the post of Consolidators to the post of A.C.O.

11. This writ petition was disposed of by this Court vide judgment and order dated 23.05.2023 directing the Respondent No. 2 and 3 to complete the process of promotion of Eligible Consolidator to the post of A.C.O. within a period of two months from the date of judgment and order dated 23.05.2023. Since the directions of the court were not complied by the Respondent No. 2 and 3 within the stipulated time, the Association filed a Contempt Application (Civil) No. 2385 of 2023 (Pradeshik Chakbandikarta Sangh vs Mr. Sudhir Garg and Another). During the pendency of the Contempt Application several promotion of Consolidators were made to the next higher post of A.C.O and for remaining Consolidators, an undertaking was given on 10.10.2023 that appropriate exercise will be taken in respect thereof.

12. In the aforesaid promotion on the post of ACO it is alleged that several employees working on the post of Consolidators and who are Junior to the Petitioner were promoted on the post of A.C.O. and the Petitioner who was working on the substantive post of Consolidator and was initially appointed and confirmed on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal under 1978 Lekhpal Rules was left and superseded.

13. During pendency of the Contempt Application (Supra), the order dated 03.10.2023 was passed by the Respondent No. 3 addressed to the several Settlement Officer of Consolidations, wherein a list of several Consolidators was appended and the Concerned Settlement Officers were directed to examine the service records with respect to regularization of such Consolidators. The name of Petitioner finds mention at Serial No. 58 of the aforesaid list appended with order dated 03.10.2023 which is on record as Annexure-11 to this Writ Petition. Since the petitioner was already confirmed hence he preferred an application dated 30.11.2023 addressed to Respondent No. 3 stating therein his source and nature of appointment. The petitioner has also indicated that there was no occasion for regularization and requested to consider his case for promotion on the post of A.C.O. In response to the aforesaid application dated 03.10.2023 written by Respondent No. 3, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Bijnor vide letter dated 08.11.2023 addressed to Respondent No. 3 submitted a reports of Consolidators including that of the Petitioner who was posted at Bijnor. In this regard, it is clearly stated that Petitioner was appointed on regular vacancy and inadvertently the term officiating was transcribed in the appointment order dated 11.09.1986 and also he recommended to regularise the Petitioner from the date of joining i.e from 12.09.1986. The Copy of letter dated 08.11.2023 is annexed as Annexure-13 to this Writ Petition.

14. In the meantime, the matter of promotion of consolidators to the higher post was placed in the meeting dated 16.01.2024 presided by the Respondent No. 2. One of the issues placed for discussion in the meeting was, as to whether services of those Consolidation Lekhpal who were appointed on Officiating basis / ad-hoc basis and have been confirmed on aforesaid post without being regularized and having been promoted on the post of Consolidator would be deemed to be regularized with retrospective effect. The aforesaid meeting presided by the Respondent No. 2 along with other members it was resolved In that meeting to ensure whether with respect of those Consolidators who were appointed on Officiating basis / ad-hoc basis, were appointed on the sanctioned post or not. If they were appointed on the sanctioned post, in such cases they shall be deemed to be regularized from the date of confirmation on their post. However, in respect of those who were not appointed on the substantive post, in their cases it was directed to identify such Officers who had given salary to such excess employees appointed on that post and to initiate proceedings for recovery of salary so paid. Copy of minutes of meeting dated 16.01.2024 is annexed as Annexure-14 to this Writ Petition.

15. The relevant extract of the meeting so far as the case of the petitioner is concerned, is extracted below:-

"3- बिन्दु संख्या (1) यो संबंध में विचार-विमर्श के उपरान्त यह मत स्थिर किया गया कि जिन, चकबन्दीकर्तागण को चकबन्दी लेखपाल के मूल पद के सापेक्ष तदर्थ /स्थानापन्न नियुक्तिः दी गयी है, उनके संबंध में यह सुनिश्चित कर लिया जाए कि विभाग में जितने पद सृजित थे, उनके सापेक्ष तदर्थ / स्थानापन्न रूप से नियुक्त लेखपालों को सम्मिलित करते हुए प्रदों की संख्या बढ़ रही है अथवा नहीं। यदि संख्या बढ़ रही है, तो इसके लिए ऐसे अधिसंख्य पद के सापेक्ष वेतन देने वाले अधिकारियों को चिन्हित कर उनसे वेतन वापस कराने की कार्यवाहीं की जाए।

यदि तदर्थ / स्थानापन्न की गयी नियुक्ति को मिलाकर सृजित पदों से अधिक संख्या नहीं हो रही है, तो ऐसे चकबन्दीकर्तागण को उनके मूल पद पर स्थायी होने की तिथि से Deemed to be regularized मान लिया जाए।"

16. Respondent no.3 vide letter dated 21.02.2024 sought report from several Settlement Officer of Consolidation with respect to Consolidators who were given appointment on post of Consolidation Lekhpal on ad-hoc / officiating basis. In response to this letter the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Saharanpur, vide letter dated 04.03.2024 had submitted a report with respect to several Consolidators including that of the Petitioner stating therein that the Petitioner was appointed on vacant post of Consolidation Lekhpal through regular appointment and that he was appointed on the sanctioned post. The letters dated 21.02.2024 sent by Respondent No. 3 and reply dated 04.03.2024 by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Saharanpur, are collectively annexed as Annexure-15 to the Writ Petition.

17. The petitioner vide letter dated 05.12.2024 issued by Consolidation Directorate, was called upon on 07.12.2024 at 11.00 AM along with service records in the Office of Respondent No. 3 for the purpose of promotion. In compliance thereof, the Petitioner appeared on 07.12.2024 along with copy of all relevant documents including his appointment order, confirmation order, promotion order on the post of Consolidator etc. and requested Respondent No. 3 to consider him for promotion on the post of A.C.O. However the petitioner was not considered and several Consolidators, who are junior to the Petitioner (placed at Serial No. 48 of Seniority List) have been promoted vide order dated 19.12.2024. Names of few of those Consolidators find mention at serial no. 97, 132, 252, 305, 398, 412, 413, 442, 446, 447, 449, 450, 451, 452, 453, 455, 456, 457, 728, 739, 772 and many more, of the seniority list who are junior to the petitioner have been promoted on the aforesaid promotional post of A.C.O vide order dated 19.12.2024. Copies of several orders dated 19.12.2024 whereby employees working on the post of Consolidators who are Junior to the Petitioner have been promoted as A.C.O superseding the petitioner are collectively annexed as Annexure- 17 to the Writ Petition.

18. Aggrieved by the inaction on part of Respondent No.3 the petitioner filed a Writ Petition which was registered as Writ-A No. 1782 of 2025 (Deva Nand Srivastava and Another Vs State of U.P. & others) which was disposed of vide order dated 14.2.2025 without entering into merits and directions was issued to respondent no.3 to consider and decide the representation of the petitioner within a period of six weeks from the date of receipt of a certified copy of the order was produced. The petitioner served the copy of the order dated 14.2.2025 along with representation dated 30.12.2024.

19. Upon the aforesaid representation, respondent no.3 called for a report from the Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Bijnor, which was duly submitted on 12.03.2025. However, vide the impugned order dated 09.10.2025, brought on record as Annexure No.1 to the writ petition, respondent no.3 has rejected the representation of the petitioner on the ground that he had not been regularized on the post of Chakbandi Lekhpal and, therefore, was not found eligible for promotion to the higher post.

Submissions of the Petitioner

20. The submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that despite being fully eligible and entitled for promotion to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO), the petitioner has not been granted promotion. On the contrary, several persons junior to him, whose names have been mentioned in paragraphs 39 and 40 of the writ petition, have already been promoted, thereby superseding the petitioner.

21. It is further submitted that the said persons were appointed on officiating/ad hoc as well as temporary basis. He submits that no third-party rights would be affected in case the petitioner is considered for promotion to the post of A.C.O.

22. It is further submitted that the petitioner is holding lien over the substantive post of Consolidator upon being confirmed in his services and has been granted one promotion, therefore, at this stage, his promotion to the higher post of A.C.O. cannot be denied on the grounds stated in the impugned order.

23. It is contended that, as per the decision taken in the meeting dated 16.01.2024 presided over by respondent no. 2, the services of the petitioner are deemed to be regularized. The Settlement Officer of Consolidation, Saharanpur vide his report dated 04.03.2024 addressed to respondent no. 3, has clearly stated that the petitioner was appointed against a vacant and sanctioned post of Consolidation Lekhpal through a regular appointment.

24. It is also submitted that several persons junior to the petitioner, as well as similarly situated employees appointed in the same manner, have been granted promotion despite there being no formal order of regularization in their cases.

25. The petitioner has been continuously serving in the Consolidation Department without any break since his initial appointment on 11.09.1986, and his services have been duly confirmed on the post of Consolidator. If, prior to such confirmation, his services were not formally regularised by the department, the petitioner cannot be held responsible for the same. Moreover, in terms of the decision taken in the meeting dated 16.01.2024, his services are deemed to have been regularised.

26. It is thus contended that the petitioner has been treated differently and subjected to hostile discrimination, which is violative of Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution of India.

27. The petitioner otherwise fulfills the eligibility criteria and are under the zone of consideration and as many as 80 vacancies on the post of ACO, in the Consolidation Department. Despite this, he has been illegally deprived of promotion, resulting in stagnation in his service.

Submissions of the Respondents

28. Per contra learned Standing counsel while opposing the petition submitted that the petitioner was appointed on a substitute basis and cannot be regularized on the said post unless his appointment is first regularised under the U.P. Regularization of Ad hoc Appointments (On Posts within the Purview of the Public Service Commission) Rules, 1979. The four-member committee was constituted vide order dated 19.11.2024 under the joint chairmanship of the Finance Controller and the Joint Director (Consolidation). The committee afforded personal hearing to the incumbents, including the petitioner, who appeared and presented his case. However, the petitioner could not produce any record/document relating to his regularization.

29. Thereafter, the meeting of the Departmental Promotion Committee (DPC) for promotion to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO) from the post of Consolidator was held on 16.12.2024. The case of the petitioner was duly considered by the DPC, which, after due deliberation, found him ineligible for promotion on the ground that his appointment on the feeder post of Chakbandi Lekhpal was in a substitute capacity and his services had not been regularized. Consequently, his promotion was not granted.

30. Thus, the petitioner is not entitled to promotion to the higher post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO).

Consideration by the Court

31. Perused the record.

32. Perusal of the record shows that it is not in dispute that the petitioner was initially appointed on a temporary basis to the post of Consolidation Lekhpal on officiating basis vide order dated 11.09.1986. Thereafter, his services came to be confirmed on the said post by the Consolidation Lekhpal vide order dated 25.04.1991.

33. The petitioner was granted promotion to the higher post of Consolidator vide order dated 01.10.2008 issued by the District Magistrate/Deputy Director of Consolidation, Bijnor, wherein his name finds place at Serial No. 6. Subsequently, his services on the promoted post of Consolidator were also confirmed vide order dated 14.05.2012 issued by the District Magistrate, wherein his name appears at Serial No. 30. In the final seniority list of Consolidators, the name of the petitioner finds place at Serial No. 48.

34. Pursuant to the directions issued by this Court in Writ-A No. 3309 of 2023, several persons similarly situated to the petitioner, i.e., those initially appointed on officiating/ad hoc basis, were granted promotion. A letter dated 03.10.2023 contains two lists: the first list pertains to Consolidators whose initial nature of appointment is not recorded in their service books, and the name of the petitioner does not find place therein. The second list, appended to another letter of the same date issued by the competent authority, contains the names of those incumbents whose services have been regularised. The name of the petitioner finds place at Serial No. 58 in the said list.

35. From the second list (at page 161 of the paper book), it is evident that persons at Serial Nos. 5 and 30, who are much junior to the petitioner and whose services are shown as not regularised, have been promoted. Further, persons at Serial Nos. 20, 24, 37, 69 and 126, who are also junior to the petitioner, have been promoted to the higher post. These facts have not been specifically denied in the counter affidavit filed by the State.

36. In response to the letter dated 3.10.2023, Respondent No. 3, vide Annexure-13, has categorically recommended the name of the petitioner. It has also been mentioned therein that the initial appointment of the petitioner dated 11.09.1986 was made against a substantive vacancy, and the word "officiating" was mentioned due to an error.

37. Further, a meeting was convened on 16.01.2024 under the chairmanship of Respondent No. 2 in the presence of various Consolidation Officers and the Under Secretary, Department of Personnel. In the said meeting, a decision was taken that the services of such incumbents who were initially appointed on ad hoc/officiating basis shall be deemed to be regularised from the date of their confirmation on the initial post, subject to the condition that the initial appointment was made against a sanctioned post.

38. Pursuant to the aforesaid decision, Respondent No. 3 sought reports from all Consolidation Officers for identifying incumbents appointed against sanctioned and non-sanctioned posts. The Settlement Officer Consolidation, in response to the letter dated 21.02.2024, submitted a report categorically stating that the petitioner was appointed against a sanctioned regular vacant post. The letter dated 04.03.2024 issued by the Settlement Officer Consolidation, Saharanpur, is on record at page 174 of the paper book.

39. However, vide order dated 19.12.2024, several persons junior to the petitioner working on the post of Consolidator were promoted to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO). Specific pleadings in this regard have been made in the writ petition. Some of such persons include Shri Rajesh Singh, Brijendra Singh, Mukesh Pundeer, Kamlesh Kumar, Vinay Kumar, Ambrish Kumar Shukla, Brijesh Yadav, Sushil Kumar, Santosh Kumar Arya, Hukum Singh, Vijay Veer Singh, Krishna Singh Rana and Jadi Singh.

40. A perusal of Annexure-1, by which the representation of the petitioner has been rejected, shows that the claim of the petitioner has been rejected on the ground that his initial appointment was on officiating basis and his services were not regularised. However, the record reveals that several similarly situated persons, who are junior to the petitioner, have been granted promotion to the post of ACO.

41. Pleadings to this effect have been made in paragraphs 39 and 40 of the writ petition along with a tabular chart. In the counter affidavit, the State in paragraph 38 has stated that such persons were found suitable for promotion as their appointments on the feeder post of Chakbandi Lekhpal were regular. However, in the rejoinder affidavit, the said averments have been specifically denied on the ground that no documentary proof, such as initial appointment orders, has been filed by the State to substantiate how their initial appointments differ from that of the petitioner.

42. It is not disputed that it was the duty of the respondent-department to consider and regularise the services of the petitioner, who was appointed against a substantive vacancy and has continuously discharged his duties for approximately 40 years. The petitioner was even granted promotion to the post of Consolidator on 01.10.2008.

43. The administrative lapse on the part of the respondents in not issuing appropriate regularisation orders cannot be permitted to operate to the prejudice of the petitioner at the fag end of his career. On the one hand, the respondents failed to regularise the services of the petitioner, and on the other hand, they seek to deny him further promotion on the ground that his services were not regularised. The respondents cannot be permitted to take advantage of their own inaction to the detriment of the petitioner.

Legal Position

44. The law in this regard has been laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kusheshwar Prasad Singh vs. State of Bihar and others, reported in (2007) 11 SCC 447. It has been held that one cannot be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non performance he has occasioned. The relevant paragraphs 14, 15 and 16 of the said judgment are extracted below:-

"14. In this connection, our attention has been invited by the learned counsel for the appellant to a decision of this Court in Mrutunjay Pani v. Narmada Bala Sasmal [AIR 1961 SC 1353] wherein it was held by this Court that where an obligation is cast on a party and he commits a breach of such obligation, he cannot be permitted to take advantage of such situation. This is based on the Latin maxim commodum ex injuria sua nemo habere debet (no party can take undue advantage of his own wrong).

15. In Union of India v. Major General Madan Lal Yadav [(1996) 4 SCC 127 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 592] the accused army personnel himself was responsible for delay as he escaped from detention. Then he raised an objection against initiation of proceedings on the ground that such proceedings ought to have been initiated within six months under the Army Act, 1950. Referring to the above maxim, this Court held that the accused could not take undue advantage of his own wrong. Considering the relevant provisions of the Act, the Court held that presence of the accused was an essential condition for the commencement of trial and when the accused did not make himself available, he could not be allowed to raise a contention that proceedings were time-barred. This Court (at SCC p. 142, para 28) referred to Broom's Legal Maxims (10th Edn.), p. 191 wherein it was stated:

"It is a maxim of law, recognised and established, that no man shall take advantage of his own wrong; and this maxim, which is based on elementary principles, is fully recognised in courts of law and of equity, and, indeed, admits of illustration from every branch of legal procedure."

16. It is settled principle of law that a man cannot be permitted to take undueIt has been held that one cannot be permitted to take undue and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-he has occasioned. and unfair advantage of his own wrong to gain favourable interpretation of law. It is sound principle that he who prevents a thing from being done shall not avail himself of the non-performance he has occasioned. To put it differently, "a wrongdoer ought not to be permitted to make a profit out of his own wrong".

45. In the case of Ram Het Tewari vs State of U.P. and others reported in 2005 SCC OnLine All 1514 it has been held that contrary stand cannot be taken by the departments for regularizing the service of the employee appointed on the post of consolidation Lekhpal merely on account of usage of word officiating basis i.e. 'sthanapann' in the appointment letter where such an employee working on substantive vacancy and similarly situated employees have been regularized. Relevant paragraphs 3-9 of the judgment are extracted below:-

"3. The sole ground for rejecting the claim of the petitioner is that the petitioner was appointed on an officiating basis and therefore, the Rules, namely the U.P. Regularisation of Ad-hoc Appointments (On Posts Outside the Purview of the Public Service Commission) Rules, 1979 (hereinafter referred to as the Rules of 1979) are not applicable to a case of an officiating employee, inasmuch as, the Rules of 1979, as amended from time to time only applies to an ad-hoc appointee.

4. In order to appreciate the submissions made at the Bar, Rule 4 of the Rules of 1979 is quoted hereunder: "4. Regularisation of ad-hoc appointments- (1) Any person who-

(i) was directly appointed on ad-hoc basis on or before June 30, 1998 and is continuing in service as such on the date of commencement of the Uttar Pradesh Regularisation of Ad-hoc Appointments (On Posts Outside the Purview of the Public Service Commission) (Third Amendment) Rules, 2001. (ii) Possessed requisite qualifications prescribed for regular appointment at the time of such ad-hoc appointment, and (iii) has completed or, as the case may be, after he has completed three years' service shall be considered for regular appointments in permanent or temporary vacancy, as may be available, on the basis of his record and suitability before any regular appointment is made in such vacancy in accordance with the relevant rules or orders."

5. The aforesaid Rules indicate that any person who was appointed 'on an ad-hoc basis' on or before 30-6-1998, who possessed the requisite qualification for regular appointment and who had completed three years of continuous service, would be considered for a regular appointment in a permanent or temporary vacancy, as may be available. In the present case, there is no dispute with regard to the fact that the petitioner was working on a substantive vacancy, as is clear from the order of appointment itself. The only question, which arises for consideration is whether the petitioner being appointed on an officiating basis could be included in the definition of the word 'Ad-hoc'. The legal glossary defines the word 'officiating' as under? 'Acting in an official capacity, filling a position temporarily'and the word "Ad-hoc" has been defined as "made, established, acting or concerned with a particular end or purpose".

6. Therefore, an ad-hoc appointment is for a particular purpose or for a limited purpose. The word 'officiating' also means to fill up a position temporarily, which means to fill a post for a limited period.

7. Normally, when a person officiates on a post, he does only for a limited period in addition to the post which he holds, that is to say, that an incumbent retains his original post and in addition to it he officiates on another post. In the present case, the petitioner has been appointed afresh for the first time on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal. The petitioner was not officiating on this post in addition to another post. Therefore, the usage of the word 'Sthanapann' n the appointment letter has to be understood in the manner in which the appointment was made. In my view, the word 'Sthanapann' should be read as if it was made for a limited period on an ad-hoc basis.

8. In Arun Kumar Chatterjee v. South Eastern Railway, ((1985) 2 SCC 451 : AIR 1985 SC 482). the Supreme Court explained the meaning of the word 'Officiating' as gen erally used in service parlance. "According to its ordinary connotation, the word 'Officiating' is generally used when a servant having held one post permanently or substantively, is appointed to a post in a higher rank, but not permanently or substantively, while still retaining his lien on his substantive post i.e. officiating in that post till his confirmation. Such officiating appointment may be made when there is a temporary vacancy in a higher post due to the death or retirement of the incumbent or otherwise. In contrast, the word 'temporary' usually denotes a person appointed in the civil service for the first time and the appointment is not permanent but temporary i.e. for the time being, with no right to the post"

9. The learned counsel for the petitioner has invited my attention to Annexures-11 and 12 to the writ petition where, in similar situation, another employee was appointed on an officiating basis and thereafter, the respondents had regularised his services. This fact has not been controverted by the respondents. Consequently, in my view, it is not open to the respondents to take a con trary stand. A uniform policy has to be adopted and it is not open to the respon dents to pick and choose at their own con venience. In view of the aforesaid discussions, the writ petition is allowed and impugned order dated 15-5-2004 is quashed. The pe titioner is entitled to the claim of regularisation. Consequently, a mandamus is is sued directing the respondent No. 3 to con sider

the petitioner on the post of Consoli dation Lekhpal by issuing consequential orders for the regularisation of his service within six weeks from the date a certified copy of this judgment is produced before him. It is made clear that if the petitioner was not found to be working between the period 15-5-2004 till the date of the order of the regularisation, he shall not be paid the salary/wages, for that period but the said period would be included for calculating the length of service and other consequential benefits of service that may be available to the petitioner."

46. In paragraph 7 of the above judgement the Court has already considered an identical controversy and interpreted the word "sthananpann" used in the appointment letter. It has been held that the said expression is to be understood as indicating that the appointment was made for a limited period on an ad hoc basis.

47. In State of U.P. and others vs. Pyare Lal (Special Appeal Defective No. 350 of 2025), as well as in State of U.P. and 4 others vs. Gokil Ram (Special Appeal Defective No. 358 of 2025), it has been categorically held that regularisation of service is preceded by confirmation in service. Once the services are confirmed, without there being any dispute as to its legality order for regularisation is unwarranted.

48. In Syed Mohammed Jaki vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ-A No. 13084 of 2025), this Court, while relying upon the aforesaid judgments, has held as follows:

"12. It is not the case of opposite parties that the orders on confirmation and promotion granted to petitioner were ever withdrawn or recalled at any time or that he has not rendered continuous satisfactory service since 1987 till 2025.

13. The aforesaid aspect has been considered by Division Bench of this Court in the cases of Pyare Lal (supra) and Gokil Ram (supra) in which benefits was granted primarily on the ground that such reason for denying pensionary benefits cannot be raised at such a belated stage after superannuation of the employee. The relevant portion of judgment rendered in the case of Pyare Lal (supra) is as follows:

"5. After hearing the parties what comes out is that the respondent herein was appointed on adhoc basis as Consolidation Lekhpal on 08.08.1989. There is an order on record dated 29.09.1998 veracity of which has not been doubted by the appellant, according to which, the services of respondent- Pyare Lal were confirmed on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal w.e.f. 19.08.1991.

6. We asked the learned counsel for parties as to where is the order of regularization which should have preceded the order of confirmation, none could place it before us, but it is not in dispute that by the order dated 29.09.1998, the services of Pyare Lal were confirmed on the aforesaid post w.e.f. 19.08.1991. In fact, from the order dated 20.02.2025 which was impugned before the writ court, it comes out that after the confirmation he was promoted to the post of Consolidator on 01.02.2001 and confirmed on the said promotional post on 14.05.2011. Thereafter, he retired voluntarily as Consolidator on 31.03.2024. The claim of the respondent to pensionary benefits was rejected on the ground that his services had never been regularized, therefore the pensionay benefits were illegally paid to him. However, while passing the said order, the Consolidation Commissioner lost sight of the fact that regularization precedes confirmation and there is no dispute that respondent's services were confirmed by the order dated 29.09.1998

w.e.f 19.08.1991. In the order dated 20.02.2025, we do not find any such finding that the order of confirmation was fraudulent or illegally passed. Moreover, the said order also mentions that the Additional Chief Secretary, on 05.02.2024, had treated the services as deemed to have been regularized accordingly pension of some other officers was paid but respondent was not paid the same.

7. It being so, we fail to understand as to how at such belated stage, such a plea could be raised by the State authorities denying pensionary benefits to the respondent.

9. Learned Single Judge apart from quashing the order dated 20.02.2025 has also granted relief no.2. As regards, the validity of order dated 20.02.2025, for the reasons given hereinabove, we sustain the judgment of writ court in so far as quashing the order dated 20.02.2025 is concerned. However, we find it difficult to sustain the said judgment so far as relief no.2 i.e. for counting the respondent's adhoc services rendered from 19.08.1989 to 19.08.1991 for the purpose of pensionary benefits is concerned, in view of the U. P. Qualifying Service For Pension and Validation Act, 2021, the vires of which has been challenged and is pending before this Court.

11. In view of the above discussions, we modify the judgment of the writ court to the extent it provides for addition of the ad-hoc services of the respondent while calculating the qualifying services for pensionary benefits/post retiral benefits, meaning thereby, the said services shall not be counted. The post retiral dues shall now be paid accordingly as may be permissible in law. The post retiral dues shall be paid within three months, if there is no other legal impediment. The services rendered w.e.f. 19.08.1991 shall be considered for the aforesaid pensionary benefits and not those rendered prior to."

14. The said reasoning has been followed in the case of Gokil Ram (supra).

15. It is admitted that the aforesaid judgments have attained finality with benefit also being accorded to the aforesaid persons.

16. Although, learned State counsel has submitted that the aforesaid judgments would be inapplicable in the present facts and circumstances since aforesaid persons had not been appointed in leave vacancy but in the considered opinion of this Court, the aforesaid factor would be irrelevant once the reason for denying pensionary benefits were the same.

17. In view of discussion made here-in-above particularly the fact that benefits of confirmation and promotion granted to petitioner having not been denied, benefit thereof is required to be granted to petitioner particularly in view of Article 370 of Civil Service Regulations which indicates that continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of U. P. following without interruption by confirmation shall qualify for pensionary benefits. The provisions of Article 370 of Civil Service Regulations is as follows:-

"370. Continuous temporary or officiating service under the Government of Uttar Pradesh following without interruption by confirmation in the same or any other post shall qualify except- (1) Periods of Temporary or officiating service in non-pensionable establishment; (2) Periods of service in work charged establishment; and (3) Periods of service in the post paid from contingencies."

18. Obviously the exceptions indicated in Article 370 of the Civil Service Regulations would be inapplicable in case of petitioner whose services admittedly stood confirmed with effect from 01.03.1991."

49. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vinod Kumar and others vs. Union of India and others, reported in (2024) 9 SCC 327, has held that where an employee has rendered long and continuous service for a substantial period of time, and has also been granted promotion, without any indication of the temporary nature of his initial appointment throughout his service tenure, such an employee cannot be denied the rights accrued to him merely on account of the terms of his initial appointment. Procedural technicalities cannot be invoked to defeat the substantive rights of employees that have accrued over a considerable period through continuous service.

Conclusion and Directions

50. In view of the aforesaid settled proposition of law, and considering the undisputed facts of the present writ petition, it is apparent that although the petitioner was initially appointed on an "officiating" basis, the said term, in identical circumstances, has been interpreted by this Court in Ram Het Tiwari (supra) to mean "ad hoc" rather than "officiating". Ordinarily, officiating implies holding a post temporarily in addition to one's substantive post; however, in the present case, the petitioner was appointed for the first time on the post of Consolidation Lekhpal.

51. Moreover, Opposite Party No. 2, in its communication has admitted that the use of the word "officiating" in the appointment letter was inadvertent. Therefore, in view of such admission as well as the judicial interpretation in Ram Het Tiwari (supra), the term "officiating" is liable to be read as "ad hoc".

52. So far as the contention of the respondents that the petitioner's services were not regularised and, therefore, he cannot be considered for further benefits is concerned, the same is misconceived. In light of the law laid down by this Court in Pyare Lal, Gokil, and Syed Mohd. Jakil (supra), it is well settled that regularisation is implicit in confirmation. Once an employee's services are confirmed, and such confirmation is not under challenge on grounds of illegality, the same attains finality.

53. In the present case, the petitioner's services on the posts of Consolidation Lekhpal as well as Consolidator were duly confirmed. Therefore, the ground taken in the impugned rejection (Annexure-1), to the effect that the petitioner was appointed on an officiating basis and his services were not regularised, is wholly untenable and liable to be set aside.

54. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

55. A writ in the nature of certiorari is issued quashing the impugned order dated 09.10.2025 contained in Annexure-1 to the writ petition.

56. Further, a writ in the nature of mandamus is issued directing the respondents to consider case of the petitioner for promotion to the post of Assistant Consolidation Officer (ACO) with effect from the date his juniors were promoted, along with all consequential benefits, including seniority, within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Can the State deny disability pension based on a medical board report that gives a summary non-attributability endorsement without detailing medical history or specific reasons?
(b) Does the onset of a disease during posting at a peace station automatically eliminate causal connection/aggravation by military service?

Headnotes

A. Service Law - Army Rules, 1954: Rule 13(3) Item I(i)(a); Pension regulations for the Army, 1961: Regulation 173; Regulations for Medical Services for Armed - The respondent was enrolled in the Corps of Signals of the Indian Army on 07.10.1988, with no recorded medical defects at the time of entry. After serving for over 32 years, he was discharged on 30.06.2021, in a Low Medical Category u/Rule 13(3) Item I(i)(a) of the Army Rules, 1954.

The Release Medical Board (RMB) held on 05.03.2021, assessed his composite disabilities at 33.5% for life—comprising Primary Hypertension (@30%) and Dyslipidemia (@5%). The RMB declared the conditions neither Attributable to nor Aggravated by service (NANA) on the ground that the onset occurred in December 2012 while posted at a peace station (Jabalpur). The Armed Forces Tribunal (AFT), Regional Bench, Lucknow, allowed the respondent's Original Application (O.A. No. 423 of 2022) by applying the ratio of Dharamvir Singh v. Union of India (2013), holding that peace stations carry their own stress/strain of military training and the disability should be deemed aggravated by service. Union of India challenged the AFT order before the High Court, contending that the medical board's expert opinion is final and must prevail.

B. Even when armed personnel are posted in peace areas then also there is stress and strain arising due to such posting, inasmuch as, even at a peace station there is pressure of rigorous training and stress and strain of military service exist. (Para 8)

Law on attributability - The RMB has denied attributability to the applicant only by endorsing that the disabilities 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I 10)' and 'DYSLIPIDEMIA (E78.5)' are neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service on the ground of onset of composite disabilities in December 2012 while posted in Peace location (Jabalpur), therefore, applicant is not entitled to disability element of disability pension.

This reasoning of Release Medical Board for denying disability element of disability pension to applicant is not convincing and doesn't reflect the complete truth on the matter. Peace Stations have their own pressure of rigorous military training and associated stress and strain of military service. The applicant was enrolled in Indian Army on 07.10.1988 and the disabilities have started after more than 24 years of Army service i.e. on December 2013. Therefore, the benefit of doubt in these circumstances should be given to the applicant in view of Dharamvir Singh Vs. Union of India & Ors. (infra), and the disability of the applicant should be considered as aggravated by military service. (Para 11, 40, 41)

C. The reasons given by the RMB were not in conformity with the relevant regulations and no sufficient reasons were recorded for denying disability pension to the respondent. (Para 37, 38)

Resultantly, while the order of discharge of the respondents from service on the ground of medical invalidity due to Primary Hypertension and Transient Ischemic Attack (RT) MCA Territory has not been disturbed, direction has been issued that the respondent be granted disability pension with immediate effect with all attending benefits, as per rules. (Para 39)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Alok Mathur, J.
Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. The present petition has been preferred against the judgment and final order dated 18.01.2023 passed by the Armed Forces Tribunal, Regional Bench, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as "the Tribunal") in Original Application No. 423 of 2022.

BRIEF FACTUAL CONSPECTUS

2. The relevant facts in brief for the purpose of deciding this petition are detailed herein below.

3. The respondent was enrolled in the corps of signals of Indian Army on 07.10.1988 and after serving for more than 32 years, he was discharged on 30.06.2021 (AN) in Low Medical Category under Rule 13 (3) Item I (i) (a) of the Army Rules, 1954. At the time of discharge from service, the Release Medical Board (hereinafter referred to as "RMB") held at Military Hospital, Ranikhet on 05.03.2021 assessing his disabilities (i) 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I 10)' @30% for life and (ii) 'DYSLIPIDEMIA (E78.5)' @05% for life, composite disabilities @33.5% for life and opined the disabilities were neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service. Consequently, the respondent□s claim for disability pension was rejected.

4. Being aggrieved by the rejection of his claim for disability pension, the respondent successfully approached the Tribunal in OA No. 423 of 2022 which was heard with other applicants seeking similar reliefs.

SUBMISSIONS OF THE PARTIES

5. Before the Tribunal it was pleaded by the respondent that he had been found medically fit at the time of enrolment and nothing adverse was noted at that point of time and he became afflicted with the said diseases during his service which had nothing to do with the family conditions and since the said diseases developed in course of his service, he was entitled to the disability pension.

6. The petitioners contested the claim of the respondent before the Tribunal by contending that the respondent had been posted at peace station at the time of onset of the diseases and being deployed in peace stations, and it could not have contributed to the said illness nor can the military service be said to have aggravated the diseases, which was confirmed by the Medical Board on examination of the respondent as mentioned above. Further, it was contended that nothing was brought on record to contradict the finding of the Medical Board and as such the claim of the respondent could not be entertained.

7. It has been submitted on behalf of Union of India that the judgment of the Tribunal is contrary to the opinion given by the Medical Board, where it has been opined that the diseases contacted by the opposite party is neither attributable nor aggravated by the military service. It is submitted that preference has to be given to the opinion of the Medical Board and consequently, the order of the Tribunal is arbitrary and deserves to be interfered with.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the opposite party has supported the order passed by the Tribunal and submits that posting of the respondent would indicate that during his service tenure he has been posted in field as well as forward areas. It was submitted that the Tribunal has rightly considered the fact that even when armed personnel are posted in peace areas then also there is stress and strain arising due to such posting, inasmuch as, even at a peace station there is pressure of rigorous training and stress and strain of military service exist. Reliance has been placed by the Tribunal on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of Dharamvir Singh Vs. Union of India and Others, (2013) 7 SCC 316, and accordingly claim of respondent was allowed.

9. In support of the claim, a number of decisions were relied upon namely; Union of India v. Keshar Singh,(2007) 12 SCC 675; Union of India v. Surinder Singh Rathore, (2008) 5 SCC 747; Secretary, Ministry of Defence v. A.V. Damodaran (Dead) through Lrs., (2009) 9 SCC 140; Union of India v. Jujhar Singh, (2011) 7 SCC 735; Union of India v. Talwinder Singh, (2012) 5 SCC 480,

No. 14666828M EX CFN Narsingh Yadav v. Union of India, (2019) 9 SCC 667, and the decision of Kerala High Court in Baby v. Union of India, (2003) 3 KLT 362 (FB).

FINDINGS OF THE ARMED FORCE TRIBUNAL

10. The Tribunal, on consideration of the aforesaid decisions and relevant Rules made the following observations in the impugned judgment, which are reproduced herebelow:

6. The law on attributability of a disability has already been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dharamvir Singh Versus Union of India & Others, reported in (2013) 7 Supreme Court Cases 316. In this case the Apex Court took note of the provisions of the Pensions Regulations, Entitlement Rules and the General Rules of Guidance to Medical Officers to sum up the legal position emerging from the same in the following words.

"29.1. Disability pension to be granted to an individual who is invalided from service on account of a disability which is attributable to or aggravated by military service in non-battle casualty and is assessed at 20% or over. The question whether a disability is attributable to or aggravated by military service to be determined under the Entitlement Rules for Casualty Pensionary Awards, 1982 of Appendix II (Regulation 173).

29.2. A member is to be presumed in sound physical and mental condition upon entering service if there is no note or record at the time of entrance. In the event of his subsequently being discharged from service on medical grounds any deterioration in his health is to be presumed due to service [Rule 5 read with Rule 14(b)].

29.3. The onus of proof is not on the claimant (employee), the corollary is that onus of proof that the condition for non-entitlement is with the employer. A claimant has a right to derive benefit of any reasonable doubt and is entitled for pensionary benefit more liberally (Rule 9).

29.4. If a disease is accepted to have been as having arisen in service, it must also be established that the conditions of military service determined or contributed to the onset of the disease and that the conditions were due to the circumstances of duty in military service [Rule 14(c)].

29.5. If no note of any disability or disease was made at the time of individual's acceptance for military service, a disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will be deemed to have arisen in service [Rule 14(b)].

29.6. If medical opinion holds that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to the acceptance for service and that disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service, the Medical Board is required to state the reasons [Rule 14(b)]; and 29.7. It is mandatory for the Medical Board to follow the guidelines laid down in Chapter II of the Guide to Medical Officers (Military Pensions), 2002 - "Entitlement: General Principles", including Paras 7, 8 and 9 as referred to above (para 27)."

11. By adopting the aforesaid principles derived from the decisions relied upon, the Tribunal allowed the claim as follows :-

7. In view of the settled position of law on attributability, we find that the RMB has denied attributability to the applicant only by endorsing that the disabilities 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I 10)' and 'DYSLIPIDEMIA (E78.5)' are neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service on the ground of onset of composite disabilities in December 2012 while posted in Peace location (Jabalpur), therefore, applicant is not entitled to disability element of disability pension. However, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the opinion that this reasoning of Release Medical Board for denying disability element of disability pension to applicant is not convincing and doesn't reflect the complete truth on the matter. Peace Stations have their own pressure of rigorous military training and associated stress and strain of military service. The applicant was enrolled in Indian Army on 07.10.1988 and the disabilities have started after more than 24 years of Army service i.e. on December 2013. We are therefore of the considered opinion that the benefit of doubt in these circumstances should be given to the applicant in view of Dharamvir Singh vs Union of India & Ors (supra), and the disability of the applicant should be considered as aggravated by military service.

12. We have heard the parties and gone through the records.

LAW IN THIS REGARD

13. This Court in the aforesaid decisions of Keshar Singh (supra); Surinder Singh Rathore (supra); A.V. Damodaran (supra); Jujhar Singh (supra); Talwinder Singh (supra) had examined Regulation 173 of the Pension Regulations for the Army, 1961, which deals with the primary conditions of grant of disability pension which provide, inter alia, that the disability pension would be granted if it is attributable to or aggravated by the military service. The said Regulation 173 is accordingly reproduced herein as below:

"173. Primary conditions for the grant of disability pension. - Unless otherwise specifically provided a disability pension may be granted to an individual who is invalided from service on account of a disability which is attributable to or aggravated by military service and is assessed at 20 per cent or above.

14. The question as to whether the disability is attributable to or aggravated by military service is to be determined as per Appendix II to the said Regulations. Relevant portions in Appendix II read as follows:

"2. Disablement or death shall be accepted as due to military service provided it is certified that-

(a) The disablement is due to wound, injury or disease which

(i) is attributable to military service; or

(ii) existed before or arose during military service and has been and remains aggravated thereby;

(b) the death was due to or hastened by

(i) a wound, injury or disease which was attributable to military service, or

(ii) the aggravation by military service of a wound, injury or disease which existed before or arose during military service.

Note.-The rule also covers cases of death after discharge/invaliding from service.

3. There must be a causal connection between disablement or death and military service for attributability or aggravation to be conceded.

4. In deciding on the issue of entitlement all the evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and the benefit or reasonable doubt will be given to the claimant. This benefit will be given more liberally to the claimant in field service case."

15. Thus, the aforesaid Regulation 173 read with Appendix II makes it very clear that disability must be attributable to or aggravated by military service for purposes of grant of disability pension and what amounts to disability has been elaborated in Appendix II of the Regulations as quoted above. The Appendix II clarifies that there must be a causal connection between the disablement or death and military service for attributability to be considered. Clause 4 of the aforesaid Appendix II further provides that in deciding on the issue of entitlement, all the evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and the benefit or reasonable doubt will be given to the claimant and this benefit will be given more liberally to the claimant in field service case.

16. As to how a disability can be attributed to service has been further explained clearly in Regulation 423 of the Regulations for Medical Services for Armed Forces 1983, which has been also referred to by the Tribunal and by the Apex Court in the above-mentioned cases, which is reproduced herein below for easy reference:

"423. Attributability to service. - (a) For the purpose of determining whether the cause of a disability or death is or is not attributable to service, it is immaterial whether the cause giving rise to the disability or death occurred in an area declared to be a field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions. It is, however, essential to establish whether the disability or death bore a causal connection with the service conditions. All evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and benefit of reasonable doubt, if any, will be given to the individual. The evidence to be accepted as reasonable doubt, for the purpose of these instructions, should be of a degree of cogency, which though not reaching certainty, nevertheless carry the high degree of probability. In this connection, it will be remembered that proof beyond reasonable doubt does not mean proof beyond a shadow of doubt. If the evidence is so strong against an individual as to leave only a remote possibility in his favour, which can be dismissed with the sentence "of course it is possible but not in the least probable" the case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. If on the other hand, the evidence be so evenly balanced as to render impracticable a determinate conclusion one way or the other, then the case would be one in which the benefit of doubt could be given more liberally to the individual, in cases occurring in field service/active service areas.

(b) The cause of a disability or death resulting from wound or injury, will be regarded as attributable to service if the wound/injury was sustained during the actual performance of "duty" in armed forces. In case of injuries which were self-inflicted or due to an individual's own serious negligence or misconduct, the Board will also comment how far the disability resulted from self-infliction, negligence or misconduct.

(c) The cause of a disability or death resulting from a disease will be regarded as attributable to service when it is established that the disease arose during service and the conditions and circumstances of duty in the armed forces determined and contributed to the onset of the disease. Cases, in which it is established that service conditions did not determine or contribute to the onset of the disease but influenced the subsequent course of the disease, will be regarded as aggravated by the service. A disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will ordinarily be deemed to have arisen in service if no note of it was made at the time of the individual's acceptance for service in the armed forces. However, if medical opinion holds, for reasons to be stated that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to acceptance for service, the disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service.

(d) The question, whether a disability or death is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by a Medical Board or by the medical officer who signs the death certificate. The Medical Board/medical officer will specify reasons for their/his opinion. The opinion of the Medical Board/medical officer, insofar as it relates to the actual cause of the disability or death and the circumstances in which it originated will be regarded as final. The question whether the cause and the attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will, however, be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

(e) To assist the medical officer who signs the death certificate or the Medical Board in the case of an invalid, the CO unit will furnish a report on:

(i) AFMS F-81 in all cases other than those due to injuries.

(ii) IAFY-2006 in all cases of injuries other than battle injuries.

(f) In cases where award of disability pension or reassessment of disabilities is concerned, a Medical Board is always necessary and the certificate of a single medical officer will not be accepted except in case of stations where it is not possible or feasible to assemble a regular Medical Board for such purposes. The certificate of a single medical officer in the latter case will be furnished on a Medical Board form and countersigned by the ADMS (Army)/DMS (Navy)/DMS (Air).”

17. A careful examination of Regulation 423 of the Regulation for Medical Services for Armed Forces would reveal the following aspects:

(i) It is immaterial whether the cause giving rise to the disability or death occurred in an area declared to be a field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions.

(ii) It is, however, essential to establish that the disability or death bore a causal connection with the service conditions.

(iii) All evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and benefit of reasonable doubt, if any, will be given to the individual.

(iv) A disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will ordinarily be deemed to have arisen in service if no note of it was made at the time of the individual's acceptance for service in the armed forces.

(v) However, if the medical opinion holds, for reasons to be stated that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to acceptance for service, the disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service.

(vi) The question, whether a disability or death is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by a Medical Board or by the medical officer who signs the certificate. The Medical Board/medical officer will specify reasons for their/his opinion.

(vii) The opinion of the Medical Board/medical officer, insofar as it relates to the actual cause of the disability or death and the circumstances in which it originated will be regarded as final.

(viii) The question whether the cause and the attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will, however, be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

(ix) To assist the medical officer who signs the death certificate or the Medical Board in the case of an invalid, the CO unit will furnish a report on:

(a) AFMS F-81 : in all cases other than those due to injuries.

(b) IAFY 2006 : in all cases of injuries other than battle injuries.

RECORDS CONCERNING MEDICAL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

18. Having kept the aforesaid aspects in mind, we have examined the records, more particularly the original records of the Medical Board Proceedings produced before us, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition.

A careful perusal of the aforesaid medical proceedings reveals the following:

(I) The details of the field/operational service have been mentioned in the said proceedings of the Medical Board (as per Form AFMSF-16), a copy of which is also annexed as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition.

(II) It is to be noted that under Regulation 423 (a) referred to above, it is mentioned that for the purpose of determining whether the cause of disability is attributable to the service, it is immaterial that the cause giving rise to the disability occurred in an area declared to be field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions.

(III) In para 3 of Part II of the said Form, the particulars of the disease from which the respondents was suffering from are mentioned as follows :-

PART II
Illness, wound, injury	First Started Date & Place	Where treated	Approximate treated dates and periods treated
Primary Hypertension	Dec 12 Jabalpur	MH Jabalpur	17 Dec 2012
Dyslipidemia

(IV) The aforesaid entries are, therefore, a clear acknowledgement of the fact that the respondent was not suffering from the diseases of Primary Hypertension (I 10) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5) when he entered the service. Thus, it would be deemed that these diseases arose while in service as provided under Regulation 423.

(V) Coming to Opinion of the Medical Board of Form AFMSF-16, the following entries have been made:

PART - VII
Disability	Attributable to Service (Y/N)	Aggravated by Service (Y/N)	Detailed Justification
Primary Hypertension (I 10)	No	No	The onset of the disability was at Jabalpur (MP) (Peace) in Dec 2012. Hanes conceded NA NA

			as per Para 43 CH-VI GMO-2008 & Initial med board Date- 17 Dec 2012. Primary Hypertension will be considered Aggravated by military service if disease occurs while serving in Field areas, HAA, CIOPS areas.
Dyslipidemia (E78.5)	No	No	The onset of the disability was at Jabalpur (MP) (Peace) in Dec 2012. The disability is a life style disease due to intake of fatty diet etc. Hence it is neither attributable to nor aggravated (NA NA) by military service.

(VI) It may be noted that the aforesaid entries in Part VII are devoid of any details, and clearly shows that the medical history of the respondent is not recorded. Hence, it can be said that the Medical Board had not considered the medical history of the respondent before coming to the conclusion that the diseases of the respondent did not arise during service.

19. Perusal of the aforesaid entries made in the Form AFMSF-16 reveals that no reasons have been assigned at all as regards the nature of disability on which the opinion of the Medical Board is based that the respondent was suffering from Primary Hypertension (I 10) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5), though it has been specifically mentioned therein that the Medical Board should state fully the reasons with regard to the disability on which the opinion of the Medical Board is based.

20. The reasons given by the Medical Board that the onset of the disease occurred at a peace station have no relevance in determining whether the disease was attributable to military service or whether its aggravation was on account of the military service rendered by him. While rendering a medical opinion, the entire posting profile has to be examined in conjunction with the disease contacted by the soldier/officer. It is not necessary that the moment the person contacts a particular disease, the same is bound to be detected immediately thereafter as its symptoms may take some time before they are aggravated and the disease is detected. Merely because the disease was detected at a peace station is of no consequence while determining the aspect of attributability or aggravation. Accordingly, endorsing in a routine manner that the disease was detected during peace posting is totally illegal, arbitrary and in no manner justifies the denial of disability pension to the respondent.

REQUIREMENT OF REASONED DECISION

21. In our opinion, the requirement to give reasons by the Medical Board is crucial, critical, decisive and necessary for the purpose of granting or denying disability pension and it is not a mere formality, but a necessary material on the basis of which the pension sanctioning authority has to decide about the grant or refusal of disability pension.

22. As noticed above, it has been specifically provided under Clause (d) of Regulation 423 as quoted that the question as to whether the disability is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by the Medical Board and the Medical Board will specify reasons for their opinion and the question whether the cause and attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

23. Thus, this requirement to give reasons by the Medical Board about their opinion is in our view absolutely necessary as also required under Regulation 423(d) for the reason that the fate of the future career of the serviceman is going to be decided by the opinion of the Medical Board, which is to be treated as final as regards the cause of disability and the circumstances in which the disability originated. The continuation of the service of the concerned serviceman and as to whether he will be entitled to disability pension is dependent on the opinion of the Medical Board which is also to be treated as the final one.

24. Hence, the rules mandate giving of reasons by the Medical Board while rendering its opinion. The reasons given by the Medical Board would obviously be the basis for determination by the competent authority whether the serviceman would be discharged from service and whether he would get disability pension.

25. Accordingly, in our opinion, if the serviceman is discharged from service or denied the disability pension on the basis of a medical opinion which is devoid of reasons, it would strike at the root of the action taken by the authority and such action cannot be sustained in law.

26. We, therefore, hold that if any action is taken by the authority for the discharge of a serviceman and the serviceman is denied disability pension on the basis of a report of the Medical Board wherein no reasons have been disclosed for the opinion so given, such an action of the authority will be unsustainable in law.

BENEFICIAL INTERPRETATION

27. We must appreciate the fact that the provisions for grant of disability pension are in the nature of a beneficial scheme intended to provide succour to servicemen in hard times who have been discharged from service after having served the nation with dedication. Accordingly, a liberal approach must be adopted while construing such beneficial provisions. This approach has also been considered by the Apex Court in Maniben Maganbhai Bhariya v. Distt. Development Officer, Dahod, (2022) 16 SCC 343, albeit, in the context of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 as applicable to Anganwadi workers, the principles of which, in our opinion, are equally applicable in the present case dealing with disability pension. In the said case it was observed as follows:

"55. When social security legislations are being interpreted, it always has to be interpreted liberally with a beneficial interpretation and has to be given the widest possible meaning which the language permits, known as beneficial interpretation. When a statute is meant for the benefit of a particular class and if a word in the statute is capable of two meanings i.e. one which would preserve the benefits and one which would not, then the former is to be adopted."

28. Under these circumstances, a much more liberal view ought to be adopted while dealing with the cases of discharge of servicemen from service on account of suffering from Primary Hypertension (I 10) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5) as they may face several impediments and difficulties in proving the causal connection of the said diseases with the military service.

29. It is also to be noted that this is not a case where the opposite party had applied for discharge of service on account of suffering from Primary Hypertension (I 10.0) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5). It was the authority themselves who after observing his condition decided to discharge him from service after obtaining the opinion of the Medical Board. In such a situation, where the serviceman himself had not applied for discharge, but has been discharged by the authority, the onus of proving the disability and grounds of denying disability pension would lie heavily on the authority. Since it is the statutory requirement that the opinion of the Medical Board is to be the basis of the discharge, in our view, if the opinion of Medical Board is devoid of reasons, the act of the authority based on mere opinion sans reasons can certainly be questioned.

30. According to this Court, if the decision of the authority to discharge a serviceman is based on a medical report which is devoid of reasons, which are required to be given as also mandated by rules as discussed above, such an act of the authority specially when it denies any post discharge benefit will be rendered invalid in the eyes of law.

31. In such cases, it can be said that the authorities have failed to discharge the burden of establishing that the employee deserved to be discharged from service on account of such illness without any benefit of pension and such action has to be considered arbitrary and liable to be interfered with.

32. Assigning reasons for the opinion of the Medical Board in the present case also becomes imperative and salutary for the reason that while the respondent had pleaded that at the time of entry in the service, these diseases were not detected, but only after about 24 years of service and hence, as per rules also, it will be deemed that it arose while in service, the Medical Board gave the opinion that it was Primary Hypertension (I 10.0) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5). The opinion of the Medical Board is, thus, inconsistent with the plea of the respondent. Hence, it was incumbent upon the Medical Board to assign reasons as to why the diseases could not be detected at the time of entry in service and as the onset of the diseases was only in December, 2012, which is after about 24 years of entry in service. Without there being any reasons given by the Medical Board for their opinion of Primary Hypertension (I 10.0) and Dyslipidemia (E 78.5), we are afraid, it would be unfair to the respondent that such an opinion of the Medical Board is to be taken as final and binding to deprive any service benefit to the respondent.

33. We further find that there is sufficient medical opinion existing with regard to Living And working in high altitude which may cause hypertension by putting the body in state of low oxygen and it can be a temporary state or a chronic medical condition. It is also well known that poor oxygen diffusion can lead to hypoxia, or low oxygen levels and to compensate the body kicks off a cascade of reactions including increasing heart rate, constructing blood vessels in the lungs and retaining fluids all of which can elevate blood pressure. The medical board ought to have taken all the aforesaid factors while considering the case of the opposite party for grant of disability pension, and onus lay upon them to discuss and consider these factors and give adequate reasons before rejecting his claim for grant of disability pension.

34. Thus, in the facts and circumstances discussed above, we are of the view that while there cannot be any dispute about the correctness of the legal principles enunciated by the Apex Court in the above-mentioned cases of Keshar Singh (supra), Surinder Singh Rathore (supra), A.V. Damodaran (supra); Jujhar Singh (supra) and Talwinder Singh (supra), we would hasten to add that the opinion of the Medical Board which is to be treated as final and binding as per aforesaid Regulations, has to be supported by reasons for arriving at the conclusion about the nature of medical disability, before the same can be acted upon for the purpose of discharge of a serviceman and denial of disability pension as otherwise, a valuable right of a serviceman to get retiral benefits who has rendered long years of service for the nation would be unjustly deprived.

35. Accordingly, we hold that the order of discharge of the respondent and denial of disability pension to him based on a medical opinion without providing full reasons to support the opinion cannot be said to be valid.

CONCLUSION

36. In the present case, the respondent was enrolled in the Corps of Signals of Indian Army on 07.10.1988 and was retired on 30.06.2021 (AN) in Low Medical Category Rule 13 (3) Item I (i) (a) of the Army Rules, 1954. At the time of discharge from service, the Release Medical Board (RMB) was held at Military Hospital, Ranikhet on 05.03.2021 assessing his disabilities as Primary Hypertension (I 10) and Dyslipidemia (E78.5) and opining that the disabilities were neither attributable to nor aggravated by service. Consequently, his claim for grant of disability pension was rejected.

37. The Tribunal, after considering the entire record of the RMB as well as the postings of the respondent, observed that the disease was detected during his service. While allowing the claim of the respondent, the Tribunal held that even at peace stations, the stress and stain of military service cannot be ignored, and that rigorous military training and associated stress and stain are inherent even in the peace postings. It was further observed that the reasons given by the RMB were not in conformity with the relevant regulations and no sufficient reasons were recorded for denying disability pension to the respondent.

38. Considering the rival contentions, we find that there is no infirmity in the findings recorded by the Tribunal. We find that there is no reason given by the Medical Board to reject the claim of disability pension to the respondent. Hence, it cannot be said that the diseases are neither attributable nor aggravated by military service in terms of para 43 of chapter VI of GMO(MP)-2008.

39. Resultantly, while we do not disturb the order of discharge of the respondents from service on the ground of medical invalidity due to Primary Hypertension and Transient Ischemic Attack (RT) MCA Territory, we direct that the respondent be granted disability pension with immediate effect with all attending benefits, as per rules.

40. Considering the case of the respondent in light of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dharamvir Singh vs. Union of India and Ors. reported in (2013) 7 SCC 316 as well as in the case of Rajumon T.M. vs. Union of India & Ors. reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1064, no ground for interference is made out.

41. We are in agreement with the legal propositions emanating out of the decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court as culled out by the Tribunal as reproduced above. However, while applying the same in the facts of the present case, we do not find any distinguishing grounds in the present case that would persuade us to arrive at a different conclusion from that of the Tribunal.

42. The petition being devoid of merits is accordingly dismissed.

THE HON'BLE PANKAJ BHATIA, J.

Writ B No. 137 of 2026
Connected with Writ B No. 159 of 2026

Dr. Kashmir Singh & Anr. ...Petitioners
Versus
Board of Revenue & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether an action to expunge or correct a fraudulent revenue entry (in this case, an unexplained inflation of land area dating back 66 years to 1359–1360 Fasli) is barred by limitation u/Article 137 of the Limitation Act, 1963 r/w Section 214 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006.
(b) Whether revenue authorities possess the statutory power u/s 38(5) of the Code (and Rule 191 r/w Appendix I of the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016) to expunge manipulated entries at any stage without time constraints, given that the prescribed limitation period for record correction under the rules is NIL.
(c) Whether a Zamindar had the legal authority on or near 22.04.1952, to execute an agreement altering or expanding plot dimensions to defeat or circumvent the upcoming vesting of estates in the State under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (UPZA & LR) Act, 1950 (which took effect on 01.07.1952).
(d) Whether the mere long-standing existence of an unverified or fraudulent entry in the revenue records (Khatauni) confers valid legal title upon subsequent purchasers (holding sale deeds) against the State or public bodies like the Lucknow Development Authority (LDA).

Headnotes

A. Land Reform Law - U.P. Revenue Code, 2006: Section 30; Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act: Section 24 - In May and December 2007, the petitioners (Dr. Kashmir Singh and another) purchased 2/3rd share of land bearing Gata No. 315 in Village Ardaunamau, Tehsil Sarojni Nagar, Lucknow, through sale deeds. Their names were subsequently mutated in the revenue records. The petitioners' title relied on a chain of revenue entries originating from an alleged registered agreement dated 22.04.1952, executed by the erstwhile Zamindar in favor of their predecessor-in-interest.
In the 1332 Fasli settlement records, Gata No. 315 was recorded with an area of only 16 Biswa.
By 1359 Fasli, the area changed to 2 Bigha, 12 Biswa, 5 Biswansi.
From 1360 Fasli onwards, the recorded area dramatically increased to 23 Bighas, 8 Biswas, 5 Biswansi via ambiguous Urdu entries in the revenue records, without any supporting order from a competent court or authority on file.

In 2016, a successor of the original tenure holder filed a map correction application u/s 30 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. During the inquiry, revenue authorities discovered the massive discrepancy in plot area and instituted proceedings u/Ss 32/38 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (Case No. T2017104639057007, State v. Hasan Ali and Ors.) to correct the revenue entries. The Lucknow Development Authority (LDA) also intervened, alleging fraudulent entries on public land earmarked for infrastructure/public utility.

On 21.03.2024, the Sub-Divisional Authority dismissed the Section 30 application and allowed the State's Section 32/38 application, ordering the expunging of the inflated revenue entries. Subsequent appeals before the Divisional Commissioner (dismissed 18.09.2025) and revisions before the Board of Revenue (dismissed 19.01.2026) affirmed this order.

B. The U.P. Revenue Code is a special Act and in view of the provisions of Section 29(2), the limitation prescribed in the U.P. Revenue Code and the Rules (Appendix - I to the Rules), the same would prevail over the limitation prescribed under the Limitation Act. (Para 66)

The petitioners argued that altering a revenue entry made in 1952 (1359–1360 Fasli) after 66 years was barred by limitation u/Article 137 of the Limitation Act, 1963 (via Section 214 of the Code). Thus, once the limitation is not prescribed specifically w.r.t. correction of entries in exercise of power u/Ss 32 and 38, the contention of the petitioners that the exercise of powers was beyond limitation cannot be accepted. (Para 67)

C. The Acts can be enacted with retrospective effect also and there being no challenge to the provisions of Ss. 22, 23 and 24, the only conclusion possible is that the restrictions placed by virtue of Ss. 22, 23 and 24 on the rights of the intermediary or a tenant will trigger from 01.07.1948 and not from the date of enactment of the Act. (Para 51)

Section 3(2) of U.P. Land Tenures (Regulation of Transfers) (Re-enactment and validation) Act, 1972 - The petitioners claimed the 1952 agreement fell under the protective umbrella of Act of 1972, and was valid prior to the vesting date under the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms (UPZA & LR) Act, 1950. The transaction in the present case and agreement to sale executed by the tenant, as claimed by the petitioners, itself have been declared as null and void from the date of its execution; the mandate of Section 3 would have no avail on the rights claimed by the petitioners. (Para 69)

On both counts, i.e., absence of agreement as well as agreement barred by law, the claim of the petitioners on ownership of land by virtue of agreement dated 22.04.1952 cannot be accepted. (Para 52)

Rights of ownership have been claimed by the petitioners by virtue of registered agreement executed by the tenure holder in favour of the predecessor in interest, based upon which the entries were mutated in the year 1952. The said agreement as claimed to have been executed on 22.04.1952, is not on record and is not available even in the revenue records. No material exists on record to demonstrate that any effort was being made by the petitioners to obtain a copy of the agreement, either from the registrars office or from the revenue records. (Para 45, 49)

Even if for the sake of arguments it is accepted that the written agreement existed and is said to have been executed on 22.04.1952, the same would be clearly barred by virtue of the statutory enactment contained in Ss. 22, 23 and 24 of the UPZA and LR Act. Contention that the said Act came into effect from 01.07.1952 and the provisions of Ss. 22, 23 and 24 would have no effect as the agreement was executed on 22.04.1952 further merits rejection as Section 24 provides the bar of the intermediary or a tenant for executing an agreement with effect from 01.07.1948 and not from the date of enactment of the Act. (Para 50)

D. Mutation entries do not by themselves confer title which has to be established independently in a declaratory suit. The entire claim of the Petitioners on the land is based upon a mutation entry. (Para 56)

No material could be placed by the petitioners as to how even in terms of the agreement dated 22.04.1952, the area of holding of property bearing Gata No.315 could be increased from 2 Bighas to approximately 23 Bighas through insertions made in the revenue records. There was no order of any Court or any material to demonstrate that any other part of the land adjacent was added resulting in increase of area. (Para 53)

Petitioner's contention, that the Government was very well aware of the increase in the holdings which resulted in the consequent increase in the rent and its acceptance thereof by the State Government, in itself would not substantiate the claim of the petitioners of ownership over the increased area without there being any material to suggest that the total area acquired by the predecessor in interest was more than 2 Bighas and odd. (Para 55)

Writ petitions dismissed. (E-4)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Pankaj Bhatia, J.)

1. Writ - B No.137 of 2026 has been filed by the petitioners seeking quashing of the order dated 19.01.2026 (Annexure - 1), order dated 18.09.2025 (Annexure - 2) as well as order dated 21.03.2024 (Annexure - 3) whereby revision preferred by the petitioners was dismissed, the appeal preferred by the petitioner was dismissed and an order was passed against the petitioner modifying the revenue entries, respectively.

In Writ - B No.159 of 2026 also the same orders have been challenged.

2. As the facts and the issues raised are same, the facts culled out from Writ - B No.137 of 2026 are being recorded.

3. The petitioners of Writ - B No.137 of 2026 claim title over the property which is subject matter of the issue by virtue of two sale deeds executed in their favour on 30.05.2007 and 11.12.2007 to the extent of 1/3rd of the share each.
4. The facts as narrated in the writ petition and in the written submissions filed on behalf of the petitioners, in brief, are that the petitioners are the owner of 2/3rd share of the land bearing Gata No.315 situate at Village Ardaunamau, Tehsil Sarojni Nagar, Lucknow by virtue of sale deeds executed in their favour. The said sale deeds were executed based upon revenue entries which existed in favour of the sellers of the property. It is also stated that in terms of the sale deeds, names of the petitioners were mutated in the revenue records and they were in possession of the property to the extent of sale deed executed. It is stated that after the execution of the sale deeds some times in the year 2016, respondent no.4 - the successor of the original tenure holder - filed an application under Section 30 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 (herein after referred to as 'the Code') seeking correction/rectification of the map of land situate at Gata No.315 M 4. It is stated that in the year 2017 in a meeting held in the office of the District Magistrate certain oral instructions were issued and some inquiry was got conducted in respect of Gata No.315 and thereafter, a case was registered under Section 32/38 bearing Case No.T2017104639057007 (State v. Hasan Ali and Ors.).

5. It has also been pleaded that on 05.09.2000 the State Government had issued a notification under Section 4 of the Land Acquisition Act intending to acquire 4 Bigha of the land comprising Khasra No.315M for construction of Amar Shaheed Path, Gomti Nagar Vistar Yojna. Subsequently, the notification was issued on 16.02.2001 under Section 6 read with Section 17 of the Land Acquisition Act only in respect of part of the proposed acquisition and an award was also passed on 17.05.2006 granting compensation to the recorded owner over 2 Bigha 12 Biswa and 5 Biswansi of land out of the acquired land bearing Khasra No.315.

6. It is also pleaded that on the one hand the application of the recorded owner moved for correction of the map under Section 30 was pending, on the other hand, some inquiry was got conducted and inquiry report dated 31.08.2017 was passed and without giving any opportunity of hearing, in the said report it was held that the entry in the Khatauni of fasli year 1359 regarding the area mentioned for Gata No.315 appears to be suspicious, and recommendation was made for cancellation for which the case was registered under Section 32/38, as recorded above.

7. It is also pleaded that in respect of the case instituted by the erstwhile owners under Section 30 of the Code, spot inspection was directed to be carried out in terms of the order dated 01.08.2018 and to submit a report thereafter. In terms of the spot inspection, a detailed report was submitted on 08.02.2019 (Annexure - 10).

8. It is also pleaded that in the case under Section 32/38, the Lucknow Development Authority (LDA) also intervened and alleged that fraudulent entry in respect of plot bearing Gata No.315 was made in various fasli year and was liable to be set aside. It is stated that the LDA tried to dispossess the petitioners and respondent no.5 (the petitioner of Writ - B No.159 of 2026) and started raising certain constructions.

9. Feeling aggrieved by the said action, respondent no.5 preferred a writ petition being Writ Petition No.2579 (M/B) of 2021 in which directions were issued for maintaining status quo and for deciding the proceedings finally under Section 30 as well as under Section 32/38 vide judgment dated 01.12.2021 (Annexure - 12).

10. It is stated that in defiance of the said interim order constructions were being made for which a contempt application was also filed and the LDA not only raised construction but also earmarked the said land for public purposes, as such, the present petitioners also preferred a writ petition being Writ - C No.9137 of 2023 wherein once again directions were issued that till the disposal of the proceedings under Section 30 and under Section 32/38, no construction shall be raised. The said direction was given in the judgment and order dated 17.10.2023. It is stated that in pursuance to the said direction given the petitioners appeared before respondent no.3/authority. Both the cases were consolidated.

11. It is also pleaded by the petitioners that a civil suit for permanent injunction was also filed which subsequently became infructuous. It is also pleaded that in the proceedings under Section 32/38, three Lekhpals namely Narendra Pathak who had prepared the report dated 31.08.2017, Shri Harswaroop and Shri lekhpal Singh had to appear for personal appearance on 17.11.2023 alongwith the petitioners and the statement of all three Lekhpals were recorded allegedly in the absence of the counsel for the petitioners. It is alleged that the petitioners were compelled to complete the cross-examination of all the three Lekhpals on the said date. Statements of the Lekhpals and the cross-examinations are contained in Annexure - 16.

12. It is stated that subsequently vide order dated 23.11.2023 both the cases were decided (Annexure - 17) wherein it was held that the mutation entries which were erroneous were liable to be corrected and the case instituted under Section 30 was liable to be dismissed, and directions were issued for carrying out the mutation entries in terms of the said order.

13. Feeling aggrieved against the order dated 23.11.2023 the petitioners approached this Court by filing a writ petition being Writ - C No.20419 of 2023 and Writ - C No.21718 of 2023 was preferred by the petitioner of Writ - B No.159 of 2026. Subsequently, both the writ petitions were allowed vide order dated 05.01.2024 and the order dated 23.11.2023 was set aside and all the parties were directed to re-appear before ADM, Finance and Revenue on 16.01.2024. Further, the ADM was directed to pass fresh order after completing the pleading and after giving them opportunity to file documents or pleading and evidence that they may wish to produce. Judgment and order dated 05.01.2024 is on record as Annexure - 21.

14. It is stated that on the date fixed i.e. on 20.01.2024 preliminary objections were filed regarding maintainability of the proceedings under Section 32/38 and certain applications were also moved by the petitioners which were not disposed off, however, on the preliminary objection, objections were invited and 12.02.2024 was fixed for final disposal.

15. Subsequently, vide order dated 04.03.2024, the parties were directed to submit their evidences and the matter was directed to be listed on 11.03.2024. It is pleaded that as the preliminary objections were not being disposed off the petitioners filed a writ petition under Art. 227 of the Constitution which was finally disposed off on 14.03.2024 giving directions to decide both the pending cases and to submit the order passed before the High Court.

16. In terms of the directions given by the High Court, the matter was fixed for hearing on 16.03.2024 in which the LDA was also permitted to participate; despite them not being a party to the proceedings they were also permitted to file objections also.

17. It is argued that ultimately vide order dated 21.03.2024 the case of the petitioners predecessor filed under Section 30 of the Code was dismissed and the case of the State under Section 32/38 of the Code was allowed with directions to rectify the mutation entries.

18. It is stated that against the order dated 21.03.2024 once again a Writ Petition being Writ - C No.3704 of 2024 was filed, however, the same was dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy against which an order correction application and a review application was also filed which also were dismissed.

19. Challenging the order passed by the High Court, an SLP being Special Leave to Appeal (C) Nos.12519-12520/2024 was also filed which came to be dismissed on 03.06.2024. Thereafter, the petitioners preferred an appeal on 25.06.2024 under Section 38(4) of the Code. It is stated that, subsequently, on account of the nature of the land being changed, an application was filed for grant of interim relief along with an urgency applications on which respondent no.2 vide its order dated 22.07.2025 reserved the judgment on the interim relief application after hearing both parties and after about two months, respondent no.2 dismissed the appeals vide order dated 18.09.2025, despite the fact that respondent no.2 had been transferred from the post of Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow on 16.09.2025. Aggrieved against the order dated 18.09.2025, the petitioners preferred a revision under Section 210 of the Code

20. Two revisions were also preferred by respondent no.5. It is stated that, in the revision, no orders were passed on the interim relief application preferred by the petitioners, as such, respondent no.5 preferred a petition being Matters Under Article 227 No. 7384 of 2025 (M/s Antilia Organics Pvt. Ltd. v. Board of Revenue & Ors.), wherein directions were issued to move a fresh interim application; further directions were issued to decide the same and parties were directed to maintain status quo over the land in question vide its order dated 18.12.2025. It is argued that respondent no.1, without granting any opportunity and without deciding the interim application, ultimately dismissed the revisions in terms of the order dated 19.01.2026. All the said three orders dated 21.03.24, 18.09.25 and 19.01.26 are under challenge.

21. Sri Vivek Raj Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioners, argues that the present case is nothing but an abuse of power by the authorities and impugned orders have been passed under pressure from the State Government as well as LDA and by the Appellate Authority despite she being transferred from the post.

22. It is also argued that the LDA has forcefully taken possession of the land in the garb of an order under Section 32/38 of the Code. It is contended by the petitioners that the entire proceedings initiated under Section 32/38 were initiated in the year 2017 in respect of the entries made in the year 1952 (1359 Fasli) and were changed after lapse of 66 years, which is barred by limitation. It is argued that, by virtue of Section 214 of the Code, the provisions of the Limitation Act are made applicable and the maximum period of limitation specified under Article 137 of the Limitation Act could be exercised within this said period i.e. a period of three years for an application, as such, the proceedings are barred by limitation. It is further argued that it is fairly well settled by the Supreme Court that even if no limitation is prescribed, the action should be taken within a reasonable period, whereas, in the present case action was taken after 66 years

23. The next limb of the argument is that there was violation of the principles of natural justice. It is argued that the authorities have given unnecessary leverage to the LDA to allow them to participate in the proceedings even after the orders were reserved, which is demonstrative of the bias and predetermined intent. It is argued that the authorities have not considered various grounds raised, which are to the following effect:

- State being the custodian of Revenue Records.
- Presumption of correctness of the revenue records.
- Correction sought related to the revenue record of 1359 F.
- Long standing entries.
- Unexplained long delay in initiation of proceedings.
- Validity of sale deeds and mutation entries.
- Collection and increase of revenue (Lagaan) by the State authorities.
- Validity of the survey reports done by LDA prior acquisition.
- Reports regarding the land available on spot.
- Maps of LDA showing the correct size of the land.
- Report stating discrepancies in the maps.
- Not performing the statutory duty of up keeping the revenue records. And timely updating by State Authorities.
- The land being effected by the alluvial and fluvial action of river being near to river Gomti.
- Contradictory reports of case under 32/38 and case under section 30.
- Suppression of material evidence forwarded by the lekhpal including the 1952 agreement. Respondent no. 1, 2 and 3 mischievously recorded findings of non-submission of the agreement dated 22.04.1952. In reality, the said agreement was duly perused by Lekhpal Mr. Narendra Pathak and forwarded in the case under Section 32/38. His statement was recorded in examination-in- chief and cross-examination, confirming the existence of the agreement. And no rebuttal is made of the same in the entire order.
- Contradictory orders passed under 38(1) and 38(5) calling the entry to be a mistake and calling it fraud.
- Title cannot be decided in proceedings u/s 32/38.

- Possession cannot be taken in proceedings u/s 32/38.
- Non application of section 24 UP ZA & LR Act in the instant case.
- Changing of the "appointed date" by the State government by the act 1972.
- The agreement (said to be fraud) being dated prior to the appointed date.
- The Jamindar/ intermediary having powers to control the affairs of land prior to the enactment/application of U.P ZA & LR Act.
- The jamindar/ intermediary was the proprietor of the land and was authorized to enhance the rent of any tenant as well as the area, under certain conditions, as provided in United Provinces Tenancy Act 1939.
- Ignoring this material evidence amounts to perversity and deliberate suppression. None of these grounds were considered in any orders passed by any court including the appellate and revisional courts. The orders are therefore vitiated for non-application of mind and failure to adjudicate the specific pleas raised by petitioners.

24. It is also argued that the exercise of powers was malafide.

25. It is next argued that the property rights of the petitioners have been violated in the garb of exercise of powers under Section 32/38 of the Code and the LDA has been made owner of the property owned by the petitioners without there being any acquisition and the same is also in violation of Art. 300A of the Constitution.

26. In light of this, it is argued that the orders impugned are liable to be set aside.

27. Shri Azhar Ikram and Shri Rishabh Kapoor, learned counsel(s) appearing on behalf of the petitioners of Writ - B No.159/2026 argue that Section 24 of the Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (hereinafter referred to as the 'UPZA & LR Act') provides that any contract or agreement made between an intermediary and any person on or after the first day of July, 1948, which has the effect, directly or indirectly of contravening the provisions of sub-clauses (a) and (b), shall be null and void.

28. It is argued that respondent no.1 has failed to appreciate that U.P. Land Tenures (Regulation of Transfers) (Re-enactment and validation) Act, 1972 (herein after referred to as 'the 1972 Act') was enacted precisely to validate transfers of land made by tenure holders before 31.05.1952. It is argued that Section 3 of the 1972 Act provides that all such transfers shall be deemed valid notwithstanding any defect in procedure, want of sanction or irregularity, provided consideration was paid and possession was delivered. It is submitted that thus, the agreement dated 22.04.1952 being prior to 31.05.1952 squarely falls within the protective umbrella of the 1972 Act and once validated by statute, such transfer cannot be reopened or nullified by the revenue authorities under Sections 32 or 38 of the Code.

29. It is further argued that respondent no.1 has erred in misconstruing the scope of Section 24 of the UPZA & LR Act. It is argued that Section 19 provides that all the land held by a hereditary tenant shall be deemed to have been settled with him by the State Government thereby conferring upon him the status of 'Sirdar' with entitlement to retain possession.

30. It is also argued that Sections 246 and 247 of the UPZA & LR Act also contemplate the existence of valid leases executed by Zamindars between 01.07.1948 and 30.06.1952, thus, the leases executed in this period are not nullified in toto by Section 24; they are void only for the limited purpose of determining rehabilitation grant payable to the Zamindar.

31. Reliance is placed upon a judgment in the case of Ram Piari and Ors. v. Board of Revenue and Ors.; 1983 AWC 330 All wherein it was held that the leases executed prior to 30.06.1952 retain validity and cannot be annulled under Section 24 except for rehabilitation grant computation.

32. Contentions of Shri Azhar Ikram and Shri Rishabh Kapoor, learned counsel(s) with regard to limitation are similar to the contentions of Mr. Vivek Raj Singh, learned Senior Advocate. Submissions with regard to other arguments are also similar and are not being reproduced for the sake of brevity.

33. Shri Anuj Kuddesiya, learned Additional Advocate General appearing on behalf of the State as well as Sri Mukund Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the LDA, controverted the submissions of the petitioners by arguing that it is wrong to allege that the Commissioner was not holding the charge on the date when the order was passed. It is admitted that, although the Commissioner was transferred on 16.09.2025, the actual handing over of the charge happened to the successor only on 20.09.2025, and thus no contention on that ground should be accepted.

34. Controverting the allegation with regard to limitation for correction of the revenue records, it is submitted that the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016 specifically provide under Rule 191 read with Appendix I that for an application under Section 38(1) of the Code, for correction of records, the prescribed limitation period is NIL and once the statute itself does not provide for any limitation, the contention on that count is liable to be rejected. It is argued that when a special statute prescribes its own limitation, the same shall prevail over the general provision contained in the Limitation Act by virtue of mandate Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act and the U.P. Revenue Code being a special statute governing the land records would override the prescriptions contained in the Limitation Act, specifically in respect of Section 38 of the U.P. Revenue Code, 2016.

35. It is argued that rules or limitations are not applicable in case of a fraud. It is argued that the fraudulent entry recorded in the revenue record came to the knowledge when the application under Section 30 of the Code was filed sometime in the year 2016, on which the authorities acted swiftly and the proceedings were initiated in the year 2017, thus, there was no delay on the part of the State.

36. It is argued that the entire claim of the petitioners is based upon a fictitious entry which does not confer any right and can be expunged at any stage and can also be expunged, treating the same to be a clerical mistake. It is argued that the entire case of the petitioners is that the predecessor in interest had an agreement in his favor, executed on 22.04.1952, which, according to them, is a registered agreement and is the foundation upon which legal rights are claimed, however, the said purported agreement has never been provided, nor have the details of registration of the said agreement ever been provided in any of the proceedings, including before this Court.

37. It is further argued that the land bearing Gata No.315 was having an area of 16 Biswa in the settlement records of 1332 Fasli, however, in the records of 1359 Fasli, the area was increased to 2 Bigha, 12 Biswa and 5 Biswansis. Somehow, strangely, from the Fasli year 1360, the area of land was increased to 23 Bighas, 8 Biswas and 5 Biswansi, for which there was no material to indicate how the area of the Zamindar could be increased vide an agreement which is alleged to have been in the possession of the petitioners predecessor in interest. It is, thus, argued that the entry in the revenue record was fraudulent and was rightly expunged by means of the impugned orders.

38. It is further argued that the entry relied upon by the petitioners is forged and fabricated. It is stated that the order in the revenue records is in Hindi, however, where the area is increased on the basis of an agreement, the same is written in Urdu, which does not even disclose the date or authority/Court which passed the order based upon which the amendments were carried out in the revenue records.

39. It also bears from the record that no such order could be found in the record room. It is argued that under the U.P. Tenancy Act or the U.P. Land Revenue Act or any other applicable statute, there is no provision entitling the Zamindar to unilaterally increase the area of the plot recorded in the revenue records. It is argued that the agreement allegedly executed in favour of the predecessor in interest of the petitioners is dated 22.04.1952 - the same could not have been executed by the erstwhile Zamindar - and for the sake of arguments even if the same is treated to be existing, the same would be barred by Section 24(b) of UPZA and LR Act, which came into force from 1st July 1958 and after the enforcement of the said Act, no authority had the jurisdiction to alter the areas of the plot or to create any rights inconsistent with the statutory provisions. Thus, it is argued that the claim of the petitioners based upon the agreement is neither supported by the fact nor is sanctioned by law and is nothing but a void document, even if the same is treated to be existing.

40. In the light of said, it is argued that the writ petitions are liable to be dismissed.

41. In the light of the contentions raised, it is essential to notice the provisions of law as existed prior to the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006 being enacted.

42. U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act was enacted in the year 1951. In terms of Section 4 of the said Act, the State Government was empowered to declare a date through a notification with effect from which all estates situated in Uttar Pradesh were to vest in the State Government. In the present case, vesting took effect from 1st July 1952. Section 4 of UPZA & LR Act is quoted herein below :

"4. Vesting of estates in the State.-(1) As soon as may be after the commencement of this Act, the State Government may, by notification, declare that, as from a date to be specified, all estates situate in Uttar Pradesh shall vest in the State and as from the beginning of the date so specified (hereinafter called the date of vesting), all such estates shall stand transferred to and vest, except as hereinafter provided, in the State free from all encumbrances.

(2) It shall be lawful for the State Government, if it so considers necessary, to issue, from time to time, the notification referred to in sub-section (1) in respect only of such area or areas as may be specified and all the provisions of sub-section (1) shall be applicable to and in the case of every such notification.″

43. It is essential to note the mandate of sections 22, 23 and 24 of UPZA & LR Act, which were restrictions on the rights of the intermediary or a tenant in respect of rent quantified or the transfer or the agreement. Sections 22, 23, and 24 are quoted here in the below:

"22. Variation in rent on or after July 1, 1948 not to be recognised.-Notwithstanding any contract made, or anything done or permitted to be done, on or after the first day of July, 1948, by or on behalf of an intermediary or a tenant, in respect of any land forming part of an estate acquired under this Act, the rent payable therefor by the tenant on the date immediately preceding the date of vesting shall be deemed to be an amount equal to the rent payable by the tenant or his predecessor-in-title on the date aforesaid and any reduction or remission made therein after the said date, otherwise than in pursuance of a decree or order of a court, shall not be taken in account :

Provided that where the rent reduced in pursuance of any decree or order aforesaid is less than the amount computed at appropriate circle rate the rent payable shall be an amount so computed.

23. Transfer by way of sale or gift not to be recognised.-(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in any law, no transfer, by way of sale or gift, of any estate or part thereof-

(a) made on or after the first day of July, 1948, shall be recognised for the purpose of assessing the amount of rehabilitation grant payable to the intermediary,

(b) [* ]

(2) Nothing in sub-section (1) shall apply to-

(a) any sale made under order of a court in execution of any decree or order for payment of money, or

(b) any sale or gift made in favour of a waqf, trust, endowment or society established wholly for charitable purposes, unless the State Government in any particular case directs otherwise.

Explanation.-For the purposes of sub-section (2), 'society′ means a society registered under the Societies Registration Act, 1860 [Act XXI of 1860.]

24. Contract of agreement to defeat provisions of this Act to be void.-Any contract or agreement made between an intermediary and any person on or after the first day of July, 1948, which has the effect, directly or indirectly-

(a) of relieving, whether in whole or part, a bhumidhar or sirdar from the liability for the land revenue, to be paid by him for any land comprised in his holding, or

(b) of entitling an intermediary to receive, on account of rehabilitation grant an amount higher than what he would, but for the contract or agreement, be entitled to under this Act-shall be and is hereby declared null and void.″

44. The UPZA & LR Act was repealed and its provisions consolidated under the U.P. Revenue Code, 2006. As the proceedings have been initiated under the said Act, it is essential to note the mandates of sections 30, 31, 32, and 38 of the Code, which are relevant in the present case, as well as section 214 and the limitation prescribed in Appendix-I to the U.P. Revenue Code Rules, 2016. The said provisions and Appendix are quoted as under:

"30. Maintenance of Map and Field Book.-(1) The Collector shall maintain, in the manner prescribed, a map and a field book (khasra) for each such village and shall cause to be recorded therein, annually, or at such longer intervals as may be prescribed, all changes in the boundaries of the village or survey numbers, and shall also cause to be corrected, any errors or omissions which are, from time to time, detected in such map or field book (khasra).

(2) The minjumla number shall be divided physically in the manner prescribed and revenue records including map and khasra shall be corrected accordingly.

31. Record of Rights.-(1) The Collector shall maintain, in the form and manner prescribed, a record of rights (Khatauni) for each village, which shall contain the following particulars, namely-*

(a) the names of all tenure holders together with survey numbers or plot numbers held by them and their areas;

(b) the nature or extent of the respective interests including shares of such persons and the conditions or liabilities, if any, attaching thereto;

(c) the rent or revenue, if any, payable by or to any such person;

(d) particulars of all land (other than holdings) belonging to or vested in the State Government, Central Government, Gram Panchayat or a local authority.

(e) such other particulars as may be prescribed.

(2) Shares of the co-tenureholders shall be determined in the manner prescribed.

32. Correction of records.-(1) Subject to the control of the Collector, the Sub-Divisional Officer, the Tahsildar, or the Revenue Inspector shall record, in the manner hereinafter provided in this chapter, all changes in the record of rights (Khatauni), the field book (Khasra) and the map that may take place, and all transactions that may affect any of the rights or interests recorded, and correct therein any error proved to have been made in the records previously prepared :*

Provided that order for correction in map shall be passed by the Collector.

(2) No application for correction of error under sub-section (1) where the claim is based solely on possession as well as involving intricate question of title shall be maintainable.

38. Correction of error and omission.-(1) An application for correction of any error or omission in the map, field-book (Khasra) or record of rights (Khatauni) shall be made to the Tahsildar in the manner prescribed.*

(2) On receiving an application under sub-section (1) or on any error or omission otherwise coming to his knowledge, the Tahsildar shall make such inquiry as may appear to him to be necessary, and refer the case along with his report to the Collector in the case of map correction and to the Sub-Divisional Officer in matter of other correction.

(3) The case shall be decided by the Collector or the Sub-Divisional Officer, as the case may be, after considering any objection filed and evidence produced before him or before the Tahsildar.

(4) Any person aggrieved by an order of the Collector or the Sub-Divisional Officer, as the case may be, under sub-section (3), may prefer an appeal to the Commissioner within a period of thirty days from the date of such order, and the decision of the Commissioner shall, subject to the provisions of Section 210, be final.

(5) Any forged or manipulated entry in the map, the khasra or the record of rights (khatauni) may be expunged under this section.

(6) Notwithstanding anything contained in other provisions of this Code, the Revenue Inspector may correct any undisputed error or omission in the record of rights (khatauni) or khasra in such manner and after making such inquiry, as may be prescribed.

Explanation.-The power to correct any error or omission under this section shall not be construed to include the power to decide a dispute involving question of title.

214. Applicability of Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and Limitation Act, 1963.-Unless otherwise expressly provided by or under this Code, the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 and the Limitation Act, 1963 shall apply to every suit, application or proceedings under this Code.*

45. In the light of the statutory backdrop and the factual averments as recorded above, the first question to be decided by this Court is to determine the rights of ownership claimed by the petitioners by virtue of the registered agreement executed by the tenure holder in favour of the predecessor in interest, based upon which the entries were mutated in the year 1952. The said agreement is claimed by the petitioners to have been executed on 22.04.1952. The admitted facts of the parties are that the agreement is not on record and is not available even in the revenue records.

46. The foundation of the petitioners′ argument with regard to the existence of the said agreement is the report dated 07.09.2017 wherein it was observed that the entries entered in the records increasing the size of Gata No.315 from area 2-12-5 to 23-8-5 was without mention of any orders passed by any competent Court and was in Urdu and appears to be suspect, as indicated in the report. The said report was subjected to examination and cross-examination and reliance is placed upon the statement of the Lekhpal who had stated in his cross-examination that he had given the report based upon the registered agreement dated 22.4.1952 and the connected records which were seen by him. The said document was also annexed and the agreement which was revealed to him during inquiry was translated into Hindi and was annexed along with the report.

47. Based upon the said statement, it is argued that the agreement exists and as the petitioners are the subsequent purchasers, they are not in possession of the said agreement which is in the possession of the Revenue Authorities, thus, the burden should not be shifted on the petitioners to produce the said document.

48. Shri Mukund Tiwari, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the LDA argues that even if this statement is treated to be correct, the said person was only verifying the report and was giving evidence in support of the said report and anything not supported in the report would not become evidence as is sought to be argued. It is argued that the statements were recorded only in support of the report that is given, which contains no mention of the agreement being seen or being translated, thus, no benefit flows in favor of the petitioners on that count.

49. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioners merits rejection as the agreement is said to be a registered agreement and no material exists on record to demonstrate that any effort was being made by the petitioners to obtain a copy of the agreement, either from the registrars office or from the revenue records, in respect of their contentions with regard to existence of the registered agreement, as such, this Court has no option but to record that there is no agreement in existence.

50. In the alternative, even if for the sake of arguments it is accepted that the written agreement existed and is said to have been executed on 22.04.1952, the same would be clearly barred by virtue of the statutory enactment contained in Sections 22, 23 and 24 of the UPZA and LR Act. Contention of learned counsel for the petitioners that the said Act came into effect from 1st July 1952 and the provisions of Sections 22, 23 and 24 would have no effect as the agreement was executed on 22.04.1952 further merits rejection as Section 24 provides the bar of the intermediary or a tenant for executing an agreement with effect from 1st July 1948 and not from the date of enactment of the Act.

51. It is well settled that the Acts can be enacted with retrospective effect also and there being no challenge to the provisions of Sections 22, 23 and 24, the only conclusion possible is that the restrictions placed by virtue of Sections 22, 23 and 24 on the rights of the intermediary or a tenant will trigger from 1st July 1948 and not from the date of enactment of the Act.

52. Thus, on both counts, i.e., absence of agreement as well as agreement barred by law, the claim of the petitioners on ownership of land by virtue of agreement dated 22.04.1952 cannot be accepted and is liable to be rejected.

53. With regard to the next contention in respect of the increased area in the mutation entries, no material could be placed by the petitioners as to how even in terms of the agreement dated 22.04.1952, the area of holding of property bearing Gata No.315 could be increased from 2 Bighas to approximately 23 Bighas through insertions made in the revenue records. There was no order of any Court or any material to demonstrate that any other part of the land adjacent was added resulting in increase of area.

54. The argument of counsel for the petitioners is that not only the revenue records were mutated and the names of the persons were mutated, the revenue was also increased, which clearly demonstrates that the Government was very well aware of the increase in the holdings which resulted in the consequent increase in the rent and its acceptance thereof by the State Government.

55. The said contention, even if accepted for the sake of argument, in itself would not substantiate the claim of the petitioners of ownership over the increased area without there being any material to suggest that the total area acquired by the predecessor in interest was more than 2 Bighas and odd. Thus, the said contention, based upon the increased area, would not ipso facto be conclusive of the ownership rights over the increased area as claimed by the petitioners. Thus, the contention on that count also deserves to be rejected.

56. The entire claim of the Petitioners on the land is based upon a mutation entry. It is well settled that mutation entries do not by themselves confer title which has to be established independently in a declaratory suit as also reiterated by Supreme Court in case of Commissioner, Bruhath Bangalore Mahanagra Palike & Anr. v. Faraulla Khan, 2021 SCC OnLine SC 3633 which in the present case has admittedly not been filed.

57. Question of limitation was seriously argued by both the sides. It is argued by Shri Vivek Raj Singh, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the petitioners that in terms of the mandate of U.P. Revenue Code, provisions of the Limitation Act have been specifically made applicable, thus, any action beyond the prescribed period of limitation would be barred by law.

58. It is argued, in alternative, that it is well settled that even if no period of limitation is prescribed, the authorities are bound to act in a reasonable time. Extensive reliance is placed upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the case of Joint Collector Ranga Reddy District and Anr. v. D. Narsing Rao and Ors.; (2015) 3 SCC 695, wherein the Supreme Court was interpreting the scope of powers of revision which can be exercised and the limitation within which the same can be exercised. The Supreme Court, after analyzing the judgments recorded as under:

27. To the same effect is the decision of this Court in Ibrahimpatnam Taluk Vyavasaya Coolie Sangham v. K. Suresh Reddy [(2003) 7 SCC 667] wherein this Court held that even in cases of fraud the revisional power must be exercised within a reasonable period and that several factors need to be kept in mind while deciding whether relief should be denied only on the ground of delay. The Court said : (SCC p. 677, para 9)

"9. .... In cases of fraud, this power could be exercised within a reasonable time from the date of detection or discovery of fraud. While exercising such power, several factors need to be kept in mind such as effect on the rights of the third parties over the immovable property due to passage of considerable time, change of hands by subsequent bona fide transfers, the orders attaining finality under the provisions of other Acts (such as the Land Ceiling Act)."

28. To the same effect is the view taken by this Court in Sulochana Chandrakant Galande v. Pune Municipal Transport [(2010) 8 SCC 467 : (2010) 3 SCC (Civ) 415] wherein this Court reiterated the legal position and held that the power to revise orders and proceedings cannot be exercised arbitrarily and interminably. This Court observed : (SCC p. 476, para 28)

28. The legislature in its wisdom did not fix a time-limit for exercising the revisional power nor inserted the words 'at any time' in Section 34 of the 1976 Act. It does not mean that the legislature intended to leave the orders passed under the Act open to variation for an indefinite period inasmuch as it would have the effect of rendering title of the holders/allottee(s) permanently precarious and in a state of perpetual uncertainty. In case it is assumed that the legislature has conferred an everlasting and interminable power in point of time, the title over the declared surplus land, in the hands of the State/allottee, would forever remain virtually insecure. The Court has to construe the statutory provision in a way which makes the provisions workable, advancing the purpose and object of enactment of the statute."

29. In State of H.P. v. Rajkumar Brijender Singh [(2004) 10 SCC 585] this Court held that in the absence of any special circumstances a delay of 15 years in suo motu exercise of revisional power was impermissible as the delay was unduly long and unexplained. This Court observed : (SCC pp. 588-89, para 6)

"6. We are now left with the second question which was raised by the respondents before the High Court, namely, the delayed exercise of the power under sub-section (3) of Section 20. As indicated above, the Financial Commissioner exercised the power after 15 years of the order of the

Collector. It is true that sub-section (3) provides that such a power may be exercised at any time but this expression does not mean there would be no time-limit or it is in infinity. All that is meant is that such powers should be exercised within a reasonable time. No fixed period of limitation may be laid but unreasonable delay in exercise of the power would tend to undo the things which have attained finality. It depends on the facts and circumstances of each case as to what is the reasonable time within which the power of suo motu action could be exercised. For example, in this case, as the appeal had been withdrawn but the Financial Commissioner had taken up the matter in exercise of his suo motu power, it could well be open for the State to submit that the facts and circumstances were such that it would be within reasonable time but as we have already noted that the order of the Collector which has been interfered with was passed in January 1976 and the appeal preferred by the State was also withdrawn sometime in March 1976. The learned counsel for the appellant was not able to point out such other special facts and circumstances by reason of which it could be said that exercise of suo motu power after 15 years of the order interfered with was within a reasonable time. That being the position in our view, the order of the Financial Commissioner stands vitiated having been passed after a long lapse of 15 years of the order which has been interfered with. Therefore, while holding that the Financial Commissioner would have power to proceed suo motu in a suitable case even though an appeal preferred before the lower appellate authority is withdrawn, may be, by the State. Thus, the view taken by the High Court is not sustainable. But the order of the Financial Commissioner suffers from the vice of the exercise of the power after unreasonable lapse of time and such delayed action on his part nullifies the order passed by him in exercise of power under sub-section (3) of Section 20.″

30. We may also refer to the decision of this Court in Dehri Rohtas Light Railway Co. Ltd. v. District Board, Bhojpur [(1992) 2 SCC 598 : AIR 1993 SC 802] wherein the Court explained the legal position as under : (SCC pp. 602-03, para 13)

"13. The rule which says that the Court may not enquire into belated and stale claim is not a rule of law but a rule of practice based on sound and proper exercise of discretion. Each case must depend upon its own facts. It will all depend on what the breach of the fundamental right and the remedy claimed are and how delay arose. The principle on which the relief to the party on the grounds of laches or delay is denied is that the rights which have accrued to others by reason of the delay in filing the petition should not be allowed to be disturbed unless there is a reasonable explanation for the delay. The real test to determine delay in such cases is that the petitioner should come to the writ court before a parallel right is created and that the lapse of time is not attributable to any laches or negligence. The test is not as to physical running of time. Where the circumstances justifying the conduct exist, the illegality which is manifest cannot be sustained on the sole ground of laches. The decision in Tilokchand case [Tilokchand Motichand v. H.B. Munshi, (1969) 1 SCC 110] relied on is distinguishable on the facts of the present case. The levy if based on the net profits of the railway undertaking was beyond the authority and the illegal nature of the same has been questioned though belatedly in the pending proceedings after the pronouncement of the High Court in the matter relating to the subsequent years. That being the case, the claim of the appellant cannot be turned down on the sole ground of delay. We are of the opinion that the High Court was wrong in dismissing the writ petition in limine and refusing to grant the relief sought for. We however agree that the suit has been rightly dismissed.″

31. To sum up, delayed exercise of revisional jurisdiction is frowned upon because if actions or transactions were to remain forever open to challenge, it will mean avoidable and endless uncertainty in human affairs, which is not the policy of law. Because, even when there is no period of limitation prescribed for exercise of such powers, the intervening delay, may have led to creation of third-party rights, that cannot be trampled by a belated exercise of a discretionary power especially when no cogent explanation for the delay is in sight. Rule of law it is said must run closely with the rule of life. Even in cases where the orders sought to be revised are fraudulent, the exercise of power must be within a reasonable period of the discovery of fraud. Simply describing an act or transaction to be fraudulent will not extend the time for its correction to infinity; for otherwise the exercise of revisional power would itself be tantamount to a fraud upon the statute that vests such power in an authority.

32. In the case at hand, while the entry sought to be corrected is described as fraudulent, there is nothing in the notice impugned before the High Court as to when was the alleged fraud discovered by the State. A specific statement in that regard was essential for it was a jurisdictional fact, which ought to be clearly asserted in the notice issued to the respondents. The attempt of the appellant State to demonstrate that the notice was issued within a reasonable period of the discovery of the alleged fraud is, therefore, futile. At any rate, when the Government allowed the land in question for housing sites to be given to government employees in the year 1991, it must be presumed to have known about the record and the revenue entries concerning the parcel of land made in the ordinary course of official business. Inasmuch as, the notice was issued as late as on 31-12-2004, it was delayed by nearly 13 years. No explanation has been offered even for this delay assuming that the same ought to be counted only from the year 1991. Judged from any angle the notice seeking to reverse the entries made half a century ago, was clearly beyond reasonable time and was rightly quashed.

33. Having said that we must make it clear that we have not gone into the correctness of the alleged fraudulent entry nor have we expressed any opinion whether the quashing of the notice dated 21-12-2004 would prevent the State from taking such other steps as may be permissible under any provision of law. The High Court has, as a matter of fact, made it clear that the State Government shall be free to take any other steps or proceedings in accordance with law qua the land in question. That liberty should suffice for we have examined the matter only from the narrow angle whether the khasra pahani entry of 1954-1955 could be corrected at this belated stage in exercise of the revisional powers vested in the competent authority under Section 166-B of the A.P. (Telangana Area) Land Revenue Act. That question having been answered in the negative these appeals must fail and are hereby dismissed leaving the parties to bear their own costs.″

59. On the foundation of the said judgment, it was strenuously argued that even if no limitation is prescribed, the same has to be done within a reasonable time.

60. Controverting the said argument, learned counsel for the respondents argues that the said judgment would be of no avail to the petitioners as in the said judgment itself the Supreme Court had held that the time for limitation would start with effect from discovery of fraud by the State. In the present case, discovery of fraud happened in the year 2016 when the application under Section 30 of the Code was filed by the predecessor in interest of the petitioners.

61. It is further argued that the Supreme Court was called upon to examine limitation on the revisional powers and the same would not apply in cases of fraud in revenue entries for which no limitation is prescribed, as admittedly the fraud vitiates everything. Reliance is placed upon judgment in the case of Bachan and Anr. v. Kankar and Ors.; (1972) 2 SCC 555, wherein the following was observed in Paras 14 and 17 :

"14. The High Court fell into the error of treating the entry as irreproachable. A fictitious entry is one which is not genuine. It is an unreal entry.

17. The rulings of this Court establish that the decision of the learned Single Judge as well as that of the Division Bench of the Allahabad High Court is erroneous. Section 20 of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 speaks of a person recorded as occupant to become adhivasi of the land and will be entitled to take or retain possession as mentioned in the section. One of the principal matters mentioned in the section is that the Khasra or Khatauni of 1356 Fasli is to be prepared under Sections 28 and 33 of the U.P. Land Revenue Act, 1901. The U.P. Land Records Manual in Chapter A-V in para A-55 to A-67 lays down the manner in which the Khasra or the field book showing possession is to be prepared by the Patwari in the areas to which Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 applies. There are detailed instructions about the manner in which the enquiry should be carried out about actual possession and change in possession and corrections in the map and field book, the form in which the khasra is to be prepared. The form of khasra is given in para A-80. The form shows that the Lekhpal has to prepare a consolidated list of entries after partial or proper investigation. Again, para A-70 to A-73 to the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act show how entries have to be made in khataunis every year showing the nature of tenure of each holder. The khatauni is meant to be a record of tenure-holders. The manner of changes to be made there is laid down in para A-82 to A-83. Entries are to be checked. Extract has to be sent to the Chairman, Land Management Committee as contemplated in paragraph A-82 (iii). In this context Section 20(b)(i) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act which speaks of the record "as occupant" in the khasra or khatauni of 1355 Fasli refers to the khasra or khatauni being prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Land Revenue Act, 1961. Khasra is the field book provided for by Section 28 of the Land Revenue Act. Khatauni is an annual register prepared under Section 32 of the Land Revenue Act 1951. It has to be emphasised that the entry under Section 20 (b)(i) of the U.P. Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act, 1950 in order to enable a person to obtain adhivasi rights must be an entry under the provisions of law."

62. Reliance is also placed upon the coordinate bench judgment of this Court in the case of Bachcha Lal and Ors. v. State of U.P. and Ors.; Writ - B No.3987 of 2025 decided on 01.04.2026, with emphasis on paragraphs 13, 14, 15 and 19, which read as under :

"13. So far as law in regard to long standing revenue entries is concerned, Court takes note of a judgment of Supreme Court in Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan, 1976 (3) SCC 642 which was followed by Supreme Court in Dharam Singh (Dead) Through Legal Representatives and others vs. Prem Singh (Dead) Through Legal Representatives, (2019) 3 SCC 530 and its relevant paragraph no. 24 is quoted below :-

24 The High Court has dealt with the above aspect of the matter and has held that continuation of entry after the order of deletion of the name of Amar Singh cannot confer any right. The judgment of this Court in Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan [Vishwa Vijay Bharati v. Fakhrul Hassan, (1976) 3 SCC 642] , has rightly been referred to and relied on by the High Court. This Court in para 14 of the judgment has laid down the following: (SCC p. 645)

14. It is true that the entries in the revenue record ought, generally, to be accepted at their face value and courts should not embark upon an appellate inquiry into their correctness. But the presumption of correctness can apply only to genuine, not forged or fraudulent, entries. The distinction may be fine but it is real. The distinction is that one cannot challenge the correctness of what the entry in the revenue record states but the entry is open to the attack that it was made fraudulently or surreptitiously. Fraud and forgery rob a document of all its legal effect and cannot found a claim to possessory title.""

14. Above referred rival submissions and concurrent findings of three Authorities under U.P.C.H. Act has to be dealt with taking note of limited jurisdiction of writ to cause interference in concurrent findings of Authorities except being perverse. In this regard, Court takes note of a judgment pased by Supreme Court in Krishnanand (D) through LRs and others Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation reported in 2015 (1) SCC 553 and for reference, its paragraph 12 is quoted below :-

"12. The High Court has committed an error in reversing the findings of fact arrived at by the authorities below in coming to the conclusion that there was a partition. No doubt, the High Court did so in exercise of its jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution. It is a settled law that such a jurisdiction cannot be exercised for reappreciating the evidence and arrival of findings of facts unless the authority which passed the impugned order does not have jurisdiction to render the finding or has acted in excess of its jurisdiction or the finding is patently perverse. In the present case, though the High Court reversed the concurrent findings of the authorities below and came to the opposite conclusion on matter of facts, the High Court did not do so on the ground that the authorities below acted in excess of their jurisdiction or without jurisdiction or that the finding is vitiated by perversity."

15. Court takes note of above legal position that long revenue entries can be challenged if made surreptitiously though possibility of any fraud or forgery was neither pleaded nor mentioned in impugned orders. Reason for allowing objections filed by predecessors of respondents by all three Authorities that they failed to show any legal basis or order on which their names could be recorded suddenly after many years, though they claimed common ancestors as to respondents.

19. In aforesaid circumstances, concurrent finding of three Authorities under U.P.C.H Act cannot be interfered being not shown as perverse. An argument of re-settlement being vague was also rightly rejected by Settlement Officer of Consolidation and upheld by Deputy Director of Consolidation. The statement of Kishor was found unsufficient to prove the case of petitioners which was rejected after much deliberations by all three Authorities under U.P.C.H. Act. Nature of entries of petitioners in 1309-F was 'sikmi cultivator' for fixed period, therefore, they cannot be considered as co-tenure holder. All above factor goes against the petitioners and were the basis of all three Authorities to expunge the entries."

63. It is essential to note Section 29(2) of the Limitation Act which reads as under:

"29. Savings.-...

(2) Where any special or local law prescribes for any suit, appeal or application a period of limitation different from the period prescribed by the Schedule, the provisions of Section 3 shall apply as if such period were the period prescribed by the Schedule and for the purpose of determining any period of limitation prescribed for any suit, appeal or application by any special or local law, the provisions contained in Sections 4 to 24 (inclusive) shall apply only insofar as, and to the extent to which, they are not expressly excluded by such special or local law."

64. On a plain reading of Section 29(2) of the Act it is clear that the Act applies except when a special or a local law prescribes a different period of limitation from the period as prescribed in the schedule to the Limitation Act.

65. In the present case, as per the submission of learned counsel for the State and LDA, a different limitation is prescribed by a statute which is clearly a special statute, thus, the limitation as prescribed in the schedule to the Limitation Act, as argued by learned counsel for the petitioners, would have no application.

66. On the basis of the judgments cited by both parties and recorded above, what can be culled down is that the U.P. Revenue Code is a special Act and in view of the provisions of Section 29(2), the limitation prescribed in the U.P. Revenue Code and the Rules (Appendix - I to the Rules), the same would prevail over the limitation prescribed under the Limitation Act.

67. Thus, once the limitation is not prescribed specifically with regard to correction of entries in exercise of power under Sections 32 and 38, the contention of learned Senior Advocate appearing for the petitioners that the exercise of powers was beyond limitation cannot be accepted and is rejected.

68. Considering the submissions made by Shri Rishabh Kapoor, learned counsel for the petitioners and recorded in Para 28 of this judgment, it is necessary to mention Section 3 of the U.P. Land Tenures (Regulation of Transfers) (Re-enactment and validation) Act, 1972. Section 3 is quoted herein below:

*"3. Lease and transactions made or registered after the appointed date to be void ab initio. - Notwithstanding anything contained in any law or contract to the contrary-

(1) a lease of land by an intermediary either granted or registered on or after appointed date shall be and is hereby declared null and void from the date of execution, and the lessee (irrespective of whether he obtained delivery of possession, before or after the appointed date, either in pursuance or in anticipation of such lease) shall for purposes of Section 180 of the U. P. Tenancy Act, 1939 (U. P, Act XVII of 1939) and Section 209 of the Abolition Act, be deemed to be a person in possession of the land otherwise than in accordance with the provisions of the law for the time being in force;

(2) a transaction between an intermediary and a tenant conferring on the tenant a right to transfer by sale his holding or any part thereof either made or entered into or registered on or after the appointed date, shall be and is hereby declared null and void from the date of execution.

Explanation. In this section, registration means registration in accordance with the law for the time being in force relating to registration of documents and includes attestation under Section 57 of the U. P. Tenancy Act, 1939 (U. P. Act XVII of 1939)."

69. In fact, on a plain reading of Section 3(2), the transaction in the present case and agreement to sale executed by the tenant, as claimed by the petitioners, itself have been declared as null and void from the date of its execution; the said mandate of Section 3 would have no avail on the rights claimed by the petitioners, as such, contention of Shri Rishabh Kapoor on that count is liable to be rejected and is rejected.

70. For all the reasons recorded above, both the petitions deserve to be dismissed and are accordingly dismissed.

71. It is made clear that it will be open to the petitioners to initiate appropriate proceedings for declaration of their rights if so deemed fit and as may be advised to the petitioners.

Sl-04713H Lt. Col. Ashok Kumar Singh ...Respondent

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether a Release Medical Board (RMB) opinion holding a disability to be "Neither Attributable to Nor Aggravated by Service" (NANA) can be sustained in law if it is unreasoned and fails to explain why a condition detected 32 years into service was not present/detectable at entry?
(b) Whether a disease like Primary Hypertension arising during peace station posting can be presumed to be aggravated/caused by military service, considering the stress and strain inherent to military duty?
(c) Who bears the onus of proof when an officer is invalided out/discharged on medical grounds without having applied for it, and how beneficial pensionary regulations should be interpreted?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Regulations for Medical Services for Armed Forces 1983: Regulation 423; Pension Regulations for the Army, 1961: Regulation 173 - The respondent was enrolled in the Indian Army on 03.01.1985, commissioned on 02.04.2002, and retired on 30.09.2021 after more than 36 years of service. At the time of retirement, the Release Medical Board (RMB) assessed his disability—Primary Hypertension (I 10.0)—at 30% for life. The RMB held that the disability was Neither Attributable to Nor Aggravated by Service (NANA) because its onset was in September 2017 while he was posted at a peace station (Bangalore). The Army authorities rejected his disability pension claim on 26.08.2021, and subsequently rejected his First Appeal (03.03.2022) and Second Appeal (11.01.2023).

The respondent filed O.A. No. 110 of 2023 before the Armed Forces Tribunal (AFT), Regional Bench, Lucknow. The AFT set aside the rejection, holding that even peace stations carry inherent stress, strain, and rigorous military training, and granted benefit of doubt to the respondent per Dharamvir Singh Vs. Union of India. The Union of India challenged the AFT order before the Allahabad High Court via Writ - A No. 7484 of 2024.

B. Even when armed personnel are posted in peace areas then also there is stress and strain arising due to such posting, inasmuch as, even at a peace station there is pressure of rigorous training and stress and strain of military service exist. (Para 8)

Law on attributability - The RMB has denied attributability to the applicant only by endorsing that the disabilities 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I 10)' is neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service on the ground of onset of disability on 09.09.2017 while posted in Peace location (Bangalore), therefore, applicant is not entitled to disability element of disability pension.

This reasoning of Release Medical Board for denying disability pension to applicant is not convincing and doesn't reflect the complete truth on the matter. Peace Stations have their own pressure of rigorous military training and associated stress and strain of military service. The applicant was enrolled in Indian Army on 03.01.1985, commissioned on 02.04.2004 and the disability has started after more than 31 years of Army service i.e. on 09.09.2017. Therefore, the benefit of doubt in these circumstances should be given to the applicant in view of Dharamvir Singh Vs. Union of India & Ors. (infra), and the disability of the applicant should be considered as aggravated by military service. (Para 11, 39, 40)

C. The reasons given by the RMB were not in conformity with the relevant regulations and no sufficient reasons were recorded for denying disability pension to the respondent. (Para 36, 37)

Resultantly, while the order of discharge of the respondents from service on the ground of medical invalidity due to Primary Hypertension and Transient Ischemic Attack (RT) MCA Territory has not been disturbed, direction has been issued that the respondent be granted disability pension with immediate effect with all attending benefits, as per rules. (Para 38)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

1. The present petition has been preferred against the judgment and final order dated 31.05.2023 passed by the Armed Forces Tribunal, Regional Bench, Lucknow (hereinafter referred to as -the Tribunal) in OA No.110 of 2023.

BRIEF FACTUAL CONSPECTUS

2. The relevant facts in brief for the purpose of deciding this petition are detailed herein below.

3. The respondent was enrolled in the Indian Army on 03.01.1985, Commissioned on 02.04.2002 and retired on 30.09.2021 (A/N) in Low Medical Category. At the time of retirement from service, the Release Medical Board (RMB) held at Military Hospital Secunderabad on 27.03.2021 assessed his disability 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I 10.0)' @ 30% for life and opined the disability to be neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service. The respondent's claim for grant of disability pension was rejected vide letter dated 26.08.2021. The respondent preferred First Appeal which too was rejected vide letter dated 03.03.2022. The respondent preferred Second Appeal dated 11.05.2022. The respondent filed Original Application No. 500 of 2022 which was disposed off with direction to the respondents to decide the respondent's Second Appeal dated 11.05.2022 vide order dated 12.10 2022. Thereafter, the Second Appeal of the respondent too was rejected vide letter dated 11.01.2023. Consequently, the respondent□s claims for disability pension were rejected.

4. Being aggrieved by the rejection of his claim for disability pension, the respondent successfully approached the Tribunal in OA No. 110 of 2023 which was heard with other applicants seeking similar reliefs.

SUBMISSIONS OF THE PARTIES

5. Before the Tribunal it was pleaded by the respondent that he had been found medically fit at the time of enrolment and nothing adverse was noted at that point of time and he became afflicted with the said disease during his service which had nothing to do with the family conditions and since the said disease developed in course of his service, he was entitled to the disability pension.

6. The petitioners contested the claim of the respondent before the Tribunal by contending that the respondent had been posted at peace station at the time of onset of the disease and being deployed in peace stations, and it could not have contributed to the said illness nor can the military service be said to have aggravated the disease, which was confirmed by the Medical Board on examination of the respondent as mentioned above. Further, it was contended that nothing was brought on record to contradict the finding of the Medical Board and as such the claim of the respondent could not be entertained.

7. It has been submitted on behalf of Union of India that the judgment of the Tribunal is contrary to the opinion given by the Medical Board, where it has been opined that the disease contacted by the opposite party is neither attributable nor aggravated by the military service. It is submitted that preference has to be given to the opinion of the Medical Board and consequently, the order of the Tribunal is arbitrary and deserves to be interfered with.

8. Learned counsel appearing for the opposite party has supported the order passed by the Tribunal and submits that posting of the respondent would indicate that during his service tenure he has been posted in field as well as forward areas. It was submitted that the Tribunal has rightly considered the fact that even when armed personnel are posted in peace areas then also there is stress and strain arising due to such posting, inasmuch as, even at a peace station there is pressure of rigorous training and stress and strain of military service exist. Reliance has been placed by the Tribunal on the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of Dharamvir Singh Vs. Union of India and Others, (2013) 7 SCC 316, and accordingly claim of respondent was allowed.

9. In support of the claim, a number of decisions were relied upon namely; Union of India v. Keshar Singh,(2007) 12 SCC 675; Union of India v. Surinder Singh Rathore, (2008) 5 SCC 747; Secretary, Ministry of Defence v. A.V. Damodaran (Dead) through Lrs., (2009) 9 SCC 140; Union of India v. Jujhar Singh, (2011) 7 SCC 735; Union of India v. Talwinder Singh, (2012) 5 SCC 480, No. 14666828M EX CFN Narsingh Yadav v. Union of India, (2019) 9 SCC 667, and the decision of Kerala High Court in Baby v. Union of India, (2003) 3 KLT 362 (FB).

FINDINGS OF THE ARMED FORCE TRIBUNAL

10. The Tribunal, on consideration of the aforesaid decisions and relevant Rules made the following observations in the impugned judgment, which are reproduced herebelow:-

6. The law on attributability of a disability has already been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dharamvir Singh Versus Union of India & Others, reported in (2013) 7 Supreme Court Cases 316. In this case the Apex Court took note of the provisions of the Pensions Regulations, Entitlement Rules and the General Rules of Guidance to Medical Officers to sum up the legal position emerging from the same in the following words.

"29.1. Disability pension to be granted to an individual who is invalided from service on account of a disability which is attributable to or aggravated by military service in non-battle casualty and is assessed at 20% or over. The question whether a disability is attributable to or aggravated by military service to be determined under the Entitlement Rules for Casualty Pensionary Awards, 1982 of Appendix II (Regulation 173).

29.2. A member is to be presumed in sound physical and mental condition upon entering service if there is no note or record at the time of entrance. In the event of his subsequently being discharged from service on medical grounds any deterioration in his health is to be presumed due to service [Rule 5 read with Rule 14(b)].

29.3. The onus of proof is not on the claimant (employee), the corollary is that onus of proof that the condition for non-entitlement is with the employer. A claimant has a right to derive benefit of any reasonable doubt and is entitled for pensionary benefit more liberally (Rule 9).

29.4. If a disease is accepted to have been as having arisen in service, it must also be established that the conditions of military service determined or contributed to the onset of the disease and that the conditions were due to the circumstances of duty in military service [Rule 14(c)].

29.5. If no note of any disability or disease was made at the time of individual's acceptance for military service, a disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will be deemed to have arisen in service [Rule 14(b)].

29.6. If medical opinion holds that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to the acceptance for service and that disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service, the Medical Board is required to state the reasons [Rule 14(b)]; and 29.7. It is mandatory for the Medical Board to follow the guidelines laid down in Chapter II of the Guide to Medical Officers (Military Pensions), 2002 - "Entitlement: General Principles", including Paras 7, 8 and 9 as referred to above (para 27)."

11. By adopting the aforesaid principles derived from the decisions relied upon, the Tribunal allowed the claim as follows :-

7. In view of the settled position of law on attributability, we find that the RMB has denied attributability to the applicant only by endorsing that the disability' PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (I10.0)' is neither attributable to nor aggravated (NANA) by service on the ground of onset of disability on 09.09.2017 while posted in Peace location (Bangalore), therefore, applicant is not entitled to disability element of disability pension. However, considering the facts and circumstances of the case, we are of the opinion that this reasoning of Release Medical Board for denying disability pension to applicant is not convincing and doesn't reflect the complete truth on the matter. Peace Stations have their own pressure of rigorous military training and associated stress and strain of military service. The applicant was enrolled in Indian Army on 03.01.1985, commissioned on 02.04.2004 and the disability has started after more than 31 years of Army service i.e. on 09.09.2017. We are therefore of the considered opinion that the benefit of doubt in these circumstances should be given to the applicant in view of Dharamvir Singh vs Union of India & Ors (supra), and the disability of the applicant should be considered as aggravated by military service.

12. We have heard the parties and gone through the records.

LAW IN THIS REGARD

13. This Court in the aforesaid decisions of Keshar Singh (supra); Surinder Singh Rathore (supra); A.V. Damodaran (supra); Jujhar Singh (supra); Talwinder Singh (supra) had examined Regulation 173 of the Pension Regulations for the Army, 1961, which deals with the primary conditions of grant of disability pension which provide, inter alia, that the disability pension would be granted if it is attributable to or aggravated by the military service. The said Regulation 173 is accordingly reproduced herein as below:

"173. Primary conditions for the grant of disability pension. - Unless otherwise specifically provided a disability pension may be granted to an individual who is invalided from service on account of a disability which is attributable to or aggravated by military service and is assessed at 20 per cent or above.

14. The question as to whether the disability is attributable to or aggravated by military service is to be determined as per Appendix II to the said Regulations. Relevant portions in Appendix II read as follows:

2. Disablement or death shall be accepted as due to military service provided it is certified that

(a) The disablement is due to wound, injury or disease which

(i) is attributable to military service; or

(ii) existed before or arose during military service and has been and remains aggravated thereby;

(b) the death was due to or hastened by

(i) a wound, injury or disease which was attributable to military service, or

(ii) the aggravation by military service of a wound, injury or disease which existed before or arose during military service.

Note. - The rule also covers cases of death after discharge/invaliding from service.

3. There must be a causal connection between disablement or death and military service for attributability or aggravation to be conceded.

4. In deciding on the issue of entitlement all the evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and the benefit or reasonable doubt will be given to the claimant. This benefit will be given more liberally to the claimant in field service case."

15. Thus, the aforesaid Regulation 173 read with Appendix II makes it very clear that disability must be attributable to or aggravated by military service for purposes of grant of disability pension and what amounts to disability has been elaborated in Appendix II of the Regulations as quoted above. The Appendix II clarifies that there must be a causal connection between the disablement or death and military service for attributability to be considered. Clause 4 of the aforesaid Appendix II further provides that in deciding on the issue of entitlement, all the evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and the benefit or reasonable doubt will be given to the claimant and this benefit will be given more liberally to the claimant in field service case.

16. As to how a disability can be attributed to service has been further explained clearly in Regulation 423 of the Regulations for Medical Services for Armed Forces 1983, which has been also referred to by the Tribunal and by the Apex Court in the above-mentioned cases, which is reproduced herein below for easy reference:

"423. Attributability to service.- (a) For the purpose of determining whether the cause of a disability or death is or is not attributable to service, it is immaterial whether the cause giving rise to the disability or death occurred in an area declared to be a field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions. It is, however, essential to establish whether the disability or death bore a causal connection with the service conditions. All evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and benefit of reasonable doubt, if any, will be given to the individual. The evidence to be accepted as reasonable doubt, for the purpose of these instructions, should be of a degree of cogency, which though not reaching certainty, nevertheless carry the high degree of probability. In this connection, it will be remembered that proof beyond reasonable doubt does not mean proof beyond a shadow of doubt. If the evidence is so strong against an individual as to leave only a remote possibility in his favour, which can be dismissed with the sentence "of course it is possible but not in the least probable" the case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. If on the other hand, the evidence be so evenly balanced as to render impracticable a determinate conclusion one way or the other, then the case would be one in which the benefit of doubt could be given more liberally to the individual, in cases occurring in field service/active service areas.

(b) The cause of a disability or death resulting from wound or injury, will be regarded as attributable to service if the wound/injury was sustained during the actual performance of "duty" in armed forces. In case of injuries which were self-inflicted or due to an individual's own serious negligence or misconduct, the Board will also comment how far the disability resulted from self-infliction, negligence or misconduct.

(c) The cause of a disability or death resulting from a disease will be regarded as attributable to service when it is established that the disease arose during service and the conditions and circumstances of duty in the armed forces determined and contributed to the onset of the disease. Cases, in which it is established that service conditions did not determine or contribute to the onset of the disease but influenced the subsequent course of the disease, will be regarded as aggravated by the service. A disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will ordinarily be deemed to have arisen in service if no note of it was made at the time of the individual's acceptance for service in the armed forces. However, if medical opinion holds, for reasons to be stated that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to acceptance for service, the disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service.

(d) The question, whether a disability or death is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by a Medical Board or by the medical officer who signs the death certificate. The Medical Board/medical officer will specify reasons for their/his opinion. The opinion of the Medical Board/medical officer, insofar as it relates to the actual cause of the disability or death and the circumstances in which it originated will be regarded as final. The question whether the cause and the attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will, however, be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

(e) To assist the medical officer who signs the death certificate or the Medical Board in the case of an invalid, the CO unit will furnish a report on:

(i) AFMS F-81 in all cases other than those due to injuries.

(ii) IAFY-2006 in all cases of injuries other than battle injuries.

(f) In cases where award of disability pension or reassessment of disabilities is concerned, a Medical Board is always necessary and the certificate of a single medical officer will not be accepted except in case of stations where it is not possible or feasible to assemble a regular Medical Board for such purposes. The certificate of a single medical officer in the latter case will be furnished on a Medical Board form and countersigned by the ADMS (Army)/DMS (Navy)/DMS (Air)."

17. A careful examination of Regulation 423 of the Regulation for Medical Services for Armed Forces would reveal the following aspects:

(i) It is immaterial whether the cause giving rise to the disability or death occurred in an area declared to be a field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions.

(ii) It is, however, essential to establish that the disability or death bore a causal connection with the service conditions.

(iii) All evidence, both direct and circumstantial, will be taken into account and benefit of reasonable doubt, if any, will be given to the individual.

(iv) A disease which has led to an individual's discharge or death will ordinarily be deemed to have arisen in service if no note of it was made at the time of the individual's acceptance for service in the armed forces.

(v) However, if the medical opinion holds, for reasons to be stated that the disease could not have been detected on medical examination prior to acceptance for service, the disease will not be deemed to have arisen during service.

(vi) The question, whether a disability or death is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by a Medical Board or by the medical officer who signs the certificate. The Medical Board/medical officer will specify reasons for their/his opinion.

(vii) The opinion of the Medical Board/medical officer, insofar as it relates to the actual cause of the disability or death and the circumstances in which it originated will be regarded as final.

(viii) The question whether the cause and the attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will, however, be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

(ix) To assist the medical officer who signs the death certificate or the Medical Board in the case of an invalid, the CO unit will furnish a report on:

(a) AFMS F-81 : in all cases other than those due to injuries.

(b) IAFY 2006 : in all cases of injuries other than battle injuries.

RECORDS CONCERNING MEDICAL BOARD PROCEEDINGS

18. Having kept the aforesaid aspects in mind, we have examined the records, more particularly the original records of the Medical Board Proceedings produced before us, a copy of which is annexed as Annexure No. 2 to the writ petition.

A careful perusal of the aforesaid medical proceedings reveals the following:

(I) The details of the field/operational service have been mentioned in the said proceedings of the Medical Board (as per Form AFMSF-16), a copy of which is also annexed as Annexure No.2 to the writ petition.

(II) It is to be noted that under Regulation 423 (a) referred to above, it is mentioned that for the purpose of determining whether the cause of disability is attributable to the service, it is immaterial that the cause giving rise to the disability occurred in an area declared to be field service/active service area or under normal peace conditions.

(III) In para 2 of Part II of the said Form, the particulars of the disease from which the respondents was suffering from are mentioned as follows :-

PART II
Illness, wound,	First Started Date	Where treated	Approximate treated dates injury	& Place		and periods treated

Primary Hypertension (I 10.0)	09 Sep 17 Bangalore	CH (AF) Bangalore	Sep 2017 to till dt

(IV) The aforesaid entries are, therefore, a clear acknowledgement of the fact that the respondent was not suffering from the disease of Primary Hypertension (I-10) when he entered the service. Thus, it would be deemed that this disease arose while in service as provided under Regulation 423.

(V) Coming to Opinion of the Medical Board of Form AFMSF-16, the following entries have been made:

PART - VII
Disability	Attributable to Service (Y/N)	Aggravated by Service (Y/N)	Detailed Justification
Primary Hypertension (I-10.0)	No	No	Disability originated in Aug 2017 while serving in peace area (Bangalore). Thereafter, the offr continued service in peace area. As there is no close time association with service in Fd/Cl Ops/HAA. NAHA is conceded as per Para 43, Ch-VI, GMO-2008.

(VI) It may be noted that the aforesaid entries in Part VII are devoid of any details, and clearly shows that the medical history of the respondent is not recorded. Hence, it can be said that the Medical Board had not considered the medical history of the respondent before coming to the conclusion that the disease of the respondent did not arise during service.

19. Perusal of the aforesaid entries made in the Form AFMSF-16 reveals that no reasons have been assigned at all as regards the nature of disability on which the opinion of the Medical Board is based that the respondent was suffering from Primary Hypertension, though it has been specifically mentioned therein that the Medical Board should state fully the reasons with regard to the disability on which the opinion of the Medical Board is based.

REQUIREMENT OF REASONED DECISION

20. In our opinion, the requirement to give reasons by the Medical Board is crucial, critical, decisive and necessary for the purpose of granting or denying disability pension and it is not a mere formality, but a necessary material on the basis of which the pension sanctioning authority has to decide about the grant or refusal of disability pension.

21. As noticed above, it has been specifically provided under Clause (d) of Regulation 423 as quoted that the question as to whether the disability is attributable to or aggravated by service or not, will be decided as regards its medical aspects by the Medical Board and the Medical Board will specify reasons for their opinion and the question whether the cause and attendant circumstances can be attributed to service will be decided by the pension sanctioning authority.

22. Thus, this requirement to give reasons by the Medical Board about their opinion is in our view absolutely necessary as also required under Regulation 423(d) for the reason that the fate of the future career of the serviceman is going to be decided by the opinion of the Medical Board, which is to be treated as final as regards the cause of disability and the circumstances in which the disability originated. The continuation of the service of the concerned serviceman and as to whether he will be entitled to disability pension is dependent on the opinion of the Medical Board which is also to be treated as the final one.

23. Hence, the rules mandate giving of reasons by the Medical Board while rendering its opinion. The reasons given by the Medical Board would obviously be the basis for determination by the competent authority whether the serviceman would be discharged from service and whether he would get disability pension.

24. Accordingly, in our opinion, if the serviceman is discharged from service or denied the disability pension on the basis of a medical opinion which is devoid of reasons, it would strike at the root of the action taken by the authority and such action cannot be sustained in law.

25. We, therefore, hold that if any action is taken by the authority for the discharge of a serviceman and the serviceman is denied disability pension on the basis of a report of the Medical Board wherein no reasons have been disclosed for the opinion so given, such an action of the authority will be unsustainable in law.

BENEFICIAL INTERPRETATION

26. We must appreciate the fact that the provisions for grant of disability pension are in the nature of a beneficial scheme intended to provide succour to servicemen in hard times who have been discharged from service after having served the nation with dedication. Accordingly, a liberal approach must be adopted while construing such beneficial provisions. This approach has also been considered by the Apex Court in Maniben Maganbhai Bhariya v. Distt. Development Officer, Dahod, (2022) 16 SCC 343, albeit, in the context of the Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972 as applicable to Anganwadi workers, the principles of which, in our opinion, are equally applicable in the present case dealing with disability pension. In the said case it was observed as follows:

"55. When social security legislations are being interpreted, it always has to be interpreted liberally with a beneficial interpretation and has to be given the widest possible meaning which the language permits, known as beneficial interpretation. When a statute is meant for the benefit of a particular class and if a word in the statute is capable of two meanings i.e. one which would preserve the benefits and one which would not, then the former is to be adopted."

27. Under these circumstances, a much more liberal view ought to be adopted while dealing with the cases of discharge of servicemen from service on account of suffering from Primary

Hypertension (I-10) as they may face several impediments and difficulties in proving the causal connection of the said disease with the military service.

28. It is also to be noted that this is not a case where the opposite party had applied for discharge of service on account of suffering from Primary Hypertension (I-10.0). It was the authority themselves who after observing his condition decided to discharge him from service after obtaining the opinion of the Medical Board. In such a situation, where the serviceman himself had not applied for discharge, but has been discharged by the authority, the onus of proving the disability and grounds of denying disability pension would lie heavily on the authority. Since it is the statutory requirement that the opinion of the Medical Board is to be the basis of the discharge, in our view, if the opinion of Medical Board is devoid of reasons, the act of the authority based on mere opinion sans reasons can certainly be questioned.

29. According to this Court, if the decision of the authority to discharge a serviceman is based on a medical report which is devoid of reasons, which are required to be given as also mandated by rules as discussed above, such an act of the authority specially when it denies any post discharge benefit will be rendered invalid in the eyes of law.

30. In such cases, it can be said that the authorities have failed to discharge the burden of establishing that the employee deserved to be discharged from service on account of such illness without any benefit of pension and such action has to be considered arbitrary and liable to be interfered with.

31. Assigning reasons for the opinion of the Medical Board in the present case also becomes imperative and salutary for the reason that while the respondent had pleaded that at the time of entry in the service, this disease was not detected, but only after about 32 years of service and hence, as per rules also, it will be deemed that it arose while in service, the Medical Board gave the opinion that it was Primary Hypertension (I 10.0). The opinion of the Medical Board is, thus, inconsistent with the plea of the respondent. Hence, it was incumbent upon the Medical Board to assign reasons as to why the disease could not be detected at the time of entry in service and as the onset of the disease was only in August 2017 which is after about 32 years of service of entry in service. Without there being any reasons given by the Medical Board for their opinion of Primary Hypertension (I 10.0), we are afraid, it would be unfair to the respondent that such an opinion of the Medical Board is to be taken as final and binding to deprive any service benefit to the respondent.

32. We further find that there is sufficient medical opinion existing with regard to Living And working in high altitude which may cause hypertension by putting the body in state of low oxygen and it can be a temporary state or a chronic medical condition. It is also well known that poor oxygen diffusion can lead to hypoxia, or low oxygen levels and to compensate the body kicks off a cascade of reactions including increasing heart rate, constructing blood vessels in the lungs and retaining fluids all of which can elevate blood pressure. The medical board ought to have taken all the aforesaid factors while considering the case of the opposite party for grant of disability pension, and onus lay upon them to discuss and consider these factors and give adequate reasons before rejecting his claim for grant of disability pension.

33. Thus, in the facts and circumstances discussed above, we are of the view that while there cannot be any dispute about the correctness of the legal principles enunciated by the Apex Court in the above-mentioned cases of Keshar Singh (supra), Surinder Singh Rathore (supra), A.V. Damodaran (supra); Jujhar Singh (supra) and Talwinder Singh (supra), we would hasten to add that the opinion of the Medical Board which is to be treated as final and binding as per aforesaid Regulations, has to be supported by reasons for arriving at the conclusion about the nature of medical disability, before the same can be acted upon for the purpose of discharge of a serviceman and denial of disability pension as otherwise, a valuable right of a serviceman to get retiral benefits who has rendered long years of service for the nation would be unjustly deprived.

34. Accordingly, we hold that the order of discharge of the respondent and denial of disability pension to him based on a medical opinion without providing full reasons to support the opinion cannot be said to be valid.

CONCLUSION

35. In the present case, the respondent was enrolled in the Indian Army on 03.01.1985 and commissioned on 02.04.2002 and retired on 30.09.2021 (A/N) in Low Medical Category. At the time of retirement from service, the Release Medical Board (RMB) held at Military Hospital Secunderabad on 27.03.2021 assessing his disability 'PRIMARY HYPERTENSION (110.0)' @ 30% for life and opining that the disabilities were neither attributable to nor aggravated by service. Consequently, his claim for grant of disability pension was rejected.

36. The Tribunal, after considering the entire record of the RMB as well as the postings of the respondent, observed that the disease was detected during his service. While allowing the claim of the respondent, the Tribunal held that even at peace stations, the stress and stain of military service cannot be ignored, and that rigorous military training and associated stress and stain are inherent even in the peace postings. It was further observed that the reasons given by the RMB were not in conformity with the relevant regulations and no sufficient reasons were recorded for denying disability pension to the respondent.

37. Considering the rival contentions, we find that there is no infirmity in the findings recorded by the Tribunal. We find that there is no reason given by the Medical Board to reject the claim of disability pension to the respondent. Hence, it cannot be said that the disease is neither attributable nor aggravated by military service in terms of para 43 of chapter VI of GMO(MP)-2008.

38. Resultantly, while we do not disturb the order of discharge of the respondents from service on the ground of medical invalidity due to Primary Hypertension and Transient Ischemic Attack (RT) MCA Territory, we direct that the respondent be granted disability pension with immediate effect with all attending benefits, as per rules.

39. Considering the case of the respondent in light of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dharamvir Singh vs. Union of India and Ors. reported in (2013) 7 SCC 316 as well as in the case of Rajumon T.M. vs. Union of India & Ors. reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1064, no ground for interference is made out.

40. We are in agreement with the legal propositions emanating out of the decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court as culled out by the Tribunal as reproduced above. However, while applying the same in the facts of the present case, we do not find any distinguishing grounds in the present case that would persuade us to arrive at a different conclusion from that of the Tribunal.

41. The petition being devoid of merits is accordingly dismissed.

THE HON'BLE MRS. MANJU RANI CHAUHAN, J.

Writ-A No. 142 of 2026

Vinit Kumar ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether an order declaring an appointment void ab initio and cancelling service on allegations of submitting forged/fabricated documents requires a full formal disciplinary inquiry under the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999 r/w Rule 5(3) of the U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973, or if a summary show-cause notice procedure suffices?
(b) Whether the principles of natural justice were violated by failing to supply the petitioner with foundational adverse evidence—specifically, the verification report declaring Roll No. 0374070 forged and the record showing that such a mark sheet was ever submitted by the petitioner?

Headnotes

A. Service Law - U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999: Rules 7, 8, 9; U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973: Rule 5(3) - The petitioner (Vinit Kumar) was selected during the 2014–15 recruitment drive for 15,000 Assistant Teachers in primary schools run by the Board of Basic Education, U.P. Following counseling on 26.10.2015, he was issued an appointment order on 28.06.20216, and joined Primary School, Kertoo, Block-Un, District Shamli, on 04.07.2017. Due to personal family tragedies (demise of his mother and real brother) and illness, the petitioner remained absent from duty starting 01.07.2020. After submitting representations, the District Basic Education Officer (BSA), Shamli, permitted him to rejoin duty on 20.12.2022, following an initial verification process of his credentials.

When the petitioner sought the release of his withheld salary after rejoining, administrative investigations were initiated. The BEO reported that the petitioner had presented two different Intermediate (Class 12) mark sheets from the 2008 U.P. Board examination:
Roll No. 0374070: Found in earlier verification records/DIET admission files, which upon online verification belonged to another candidate. The U.P. Board confirmed this roll number was never validly assigned to the petitioner.

Roll No. 0324070: Produced by the petitioner during 2022 rejoining and 2015 counseling, which the U.P. Board later confirmed was genuine and belonged to the petitioner.
Discrepancies were also flagged regarding the petitioner's B.Tech degree (recorded as "Bachelor of Technology" in Hindi and "Master of Business Administration" in English on the internal portal).

Multiple show-cause notices were issued to the petitioner in mid-2025 alleging submission of fake/forged Intermediate credentials and a doubtful B.Tech degree. On 06.10.2025, the BSA, Shamli, passed an order declaring the petitioner's appointment void ab initio and cancelling it with immediate effect on the grounds of fraudulently obtaining employment using forged certificates.

B. It is well settled that fraud vitiates all solemn acts, and an appointment obtained on the basis of forged or fabricated documents is void ab initio and confers no enforceable right. It is also a settled principle of law that where the very foundation of appointment is tainted, the requirement of holding a regular disciplinary inquiry is not mandatory, and the authorities are justified in cancelling such appointment. (Para 104)

The record reflects that the petitioner, at the time of submitting his online application as well as during counselling and BTC training, consistently disclosed his Intermediate Examination, 2008 Roll Number as 0374070, which formed the very foundation of his eligibility. However, at the stage of rejoining in the year 2022, after a prolonged unauthorized absence, the petitioner introduced a different roll number, i.e., 0324070, and sought to rely upon a different mark sheet. (Para 101)

The record shows that the petitioner has relied upon two different Intermediate roll numbers at different stages. The roll number originally disclosed, i.e., 0374070, has been found to be forged, and the petitioner has failed to furnish any satisfactory explanation for such inconsistency. The B.Tech degree of the petitioner is also prima facie doubtful in view of the material discrepancies pointed out by the respondents. Hence, the appointment of the petitioner is vitiated by fraud and misrepresentation and is void ab initio. In view of the serious nature of discrepancies, this Court deemed it appropriate to direct a comprehensive, multi-level inquiry so as to ascertain the authenticity of the petitioner's educational credentials in their entirety. Hon'ble Court has issued directions and manner in which the: (i) Inquiry regarding Intermediate Examination, 2008 and (ii) Inquiry regarding B.Tech Degree shall be conducted. (Para 102, 103, 105)

The records maintained at DIET, the counselling authority, and the Basic Education Department shall be examined to identify: the documents originally submitted by the petitioner; any alteration or substitution of records, the stage at which such discrepancies arose. (Para 106)

It is an admitted position that the petitioner remained absent for a period of two years and sought to rejoin only in 2022, without any prior intimation to the competent authorities and without any sanctioned leave. There is not even a whisper in the pleadings explaining whether the petitioner was engaged elsewhere during this period or furnishing any justification for such prolonged unauthorized absence. Accordingly, these facts assume significance, as the conduct of the petitioner indicates that the intervening period may have been utilized to manage or manipulate records, particularly for the purpose of substituting the original certificate submitted at the time of appointment with another certificate bearing a different roll number. Therefore, these aspects are also relevant and must necessarily be taken into consideration while conducting the inquiry. (Para 107)

No illegality is found in the impugned order dated 06.10.2025, therefore, no interference is required. However, the directions for comprehensive inquiry, shall be strictly complied with, and the reinstatement of the petitioner shall be subject to the final outcome of the inquiry. (Para 108 to 110)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Man Bahadur Singh, Saurabh Kumar, Shivendra Pratap Singh

For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Yatindra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Mrs. Manju Rani Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Man Bahadur Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Shailendra Singh, learned counsel for the State and Mr. Yatindra, learned counsel for respondent nos.2 & 3.

"(i). The present writ petition has been instituted challenging the order dated 06.10.2025 passed by the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, whereby the appointment of the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher has been declared void ab initio and cancelled with immediate effect.

(ii). A further prayer has been made seeking issuance of a writ, order or direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no.3 to reinstate the petitioner on the post of Assistant Teacher along with all consequential benefits, including continuity of service and payment of arrears of salary."

2. Placing the brief facts of the case, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner passed the High School Examination in the year 2006, bearing Roll No.0612450, and thereafter passed the Intermediate Examination in the year 2008, bearing Roll No.0324070, both in First Division, from the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh.

3. It is further submitted that the petitioner obtained a degree of Bachelor of Technology in the year 2012 in First Division from Sundardeep College of Engineering and Technology, Ghaziabad, affiliated to Uttar Pradesh Technical University, Lucknow.

4. It is further submitted that the petitioner thereafter successfully completed the two-year Basic Training Certificate (BTC) course, Batch 2012, in the year 2015, securing First Division.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the educational certificates and mark sheets of the petitioner, including those pertaining to his graduation, were duly verified during the course of his BTC training by the Principal, DIET, for the session 2012-2015, and that the BTC certificate was issued only upon due verification and satisfaction regarding the authenticity of all his credentials.

6. It is further submitted that the petitioner qualified the Uttar Pradesh Teachers Eligibility Test (UPTET) for the Primary Level held for the session 2013-14, the result whereof was declared in the year 2014.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the State Government initiated a recruitment process for appointment of 15,000 Assistant Teachers during the year 2014-15 in primary schools, run and managed by the Board of Basic Education, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj. The petitioner, being fully qualified and otherwise eligible, applied pursuant to the said advertisement and was duly selected.

8. It is further submitted that the counselling of the petitioner was conducted in the office of the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, on 26.10.2015, wherein the petitioner produced all his original documents, including mark sheets and certificates of the Intermediate Examination, which were duly verified, and a receipt acknowledging submission of such documents was issued to him. It is further submitted that thereafter Respondent No.3 issued an appointment order dated 28.06.2016, pursuant to which the petitioner joined his duties at Primary School, Kertoo, Block-Un, District Shamli, on 04.07.2017. Since then, the petitioner has been discharging his duties to the satisfaction of his superiors and, as contended, no complaint has ever been made against him.

9. It is further submitted that on account of certain compelling personal circumstances, including illness, demise of his mother, death of his real brother, and other attendant difficulties, the petitioner remained absent from duties with effect from 01.07.2020. It is contended that thereafter the petitioner submitted a representation seeking permission to resume his duties, and pursuant thereto, the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, by order dated 09.12.2022 permitted the petitioner to rejoin the institution.

10. It is further submitted that prior to permitting the petitioner to rejoin his duties, his educational credentials were duly verified by the competent authorities. The High School Certificate of the year 2006, bearing Roll No.0612450, and the Intermediate Certificate of the year 2008, bearing Roll No.0324070, were verified. Further, the petitioner's B.Tech degree of the year 2012, bearing Roll No. 0832810053, was also verified by the office of Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Technical University, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, vide office order dated 11.11.2022, bearing No.20149.

11. It is further submitted that pursuant to the aforesaid office order, the petitioner was permitted to rejoin his duties on 20.12.2022 and continued to discharge the same. However, it is contended that the salary of the petitioner was not released, compelling him to submit an application dated 16.09.2023 before the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, seeking release of his salary.

12. It is further stated that on the same day, the petitioner also submitted an application before the District Magistrate, Shamli, wherein specific allegations were levelled against one Shri Rishipal, a clerk working in the office of respondent no.3, alleging that he was instrumental in withholding the petitioner's salary for extraneous considerations. The said application was personally submitted by the petitioner before the District Magistrate, Shamli.

13. It is further submitted that pursuant to the aforesaid application moved by the petitioner, the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, vide letter dated 21.12.2023, sought a report from the Block Education Officer, Block- Un, for withholding the salary.

14. In response thereto, the Block Education Officer, Un, submitted a report stating that at the time of rejoining in December, 2022, the petitioner had produced an Intermediate mark sheet bearing Roll No.0374070, which, upon verification from the official website of the Board, was found to be allotted to one Poonam, daughter of Yadram Singh. On the basis of the said discrepancy, the Block Education Officer sought to justify the withholding of the petitioner's salary.

15. Taking note of the aforesaid report, the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, vide letter dated 09.02.2024, directed the Block Education Officer, Un, to submit a fresh report along with supporting evidence.

16. It is further contended that along with the earlier report, the Block Education Officer, Un, also placed on record a prior report dated 24.08.2020, wherein the Intermediate mark sheet and certificate of the petitioner bearing Roll No.0324070, and not Roll No.0374070, thereby indicating an apparent inconsistency in the records relied upon for withholding the petitioner's salary.

17. It is further submitted that Respondent No.3 issued a show cause notice dated 17.06.2025 to the petitioner alleging that he had submitted forged and fabricated mark sheet and certificate of the Intermediate Examination, 2008, bearing Roll No.0374070. It was further alleged that the mark sheet and certificate pertaining to the petitioner's B.Tech degree were also found to be forged. The petitioner was accordingly required to submit his reply within a period of one week.

18. In response thereto, the petitioner submitted a detailed reply dated 28.06.2025 before Respondent No.3, categorically stating that his correct roll number in the Intermediate Examination is 0324070 and that all his mark sheets and certificates are genuine. It was further asserted that his B.Tech degree is also genuine and had already been duly verified by the competent authorities. The said reply was duly submitted in the office of Respondent No.3 on 28.06.2025.

19. It is contended that without considering the aforesaid reply, Respondent No.3 issued another notice dated 14.07.2025, which was substantially a reiteration of the earlier notice. The petitioner again submitted a detailed response dated 28.07.2025, reiterating that all his educational documents are genuine and clarifying that he had appeared in the Intermediate Examination with Roll No. 0324070. Thereafter, Respondent No.3 issued yet another notice dated 11.08.2025 stating that the reply submitted by the petitioner was not found satisfactory and granting him a final opportunity to submit a written explanation along with supporting evidence. In compliance thereof, the petitioner submitted a detailed reply dated 27.08.2025.

20. It is the grievance of the petitioner that without properly appreciating or considering the replies submitted by him, and without conducting any fair or proper inquiry as contemplated under the relevant Rules of 1999, Respondent No.3 proceeded to pass the impugned order dated 06.10.2025, whereby the appointment of the petitioner has been cancelled.

21. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order has been passed in a wholly arbitrary manner, without due consideration of the replies submitted by the petitioner in response to each of the notices issued by Respondent No.3. It is further contended that no proper inquiry, as mandatorily required under the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal Rules), 1999, has been conducted prior to passing of the impugned order. Consequently, the impugned action stands vitiated for non-compliance with the statutory provisions as well as for being in flagrant violation of the principles of natural justice.

22. It is further submitted that the District Basic Education Officer has, at no point of time, furnished any verification report or letter obtained either from the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, or from the Technical University, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, along with the notices issued to the petitioner. In the absence of such foundational material, the allegations leveled against the petitioner remain unsubstantiated and the impugned action stands vitiated.

23. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the petitioner's appointment was made only after due verification of all original documents, including the educational certificates. It is specifically contended that the Intermediate Certificate, bearing Roll No. 0324070, was duly produced and verified at the relevant point of time. It is further submitted that all original educational records of the petitioner have remained in the custody of the respondent authorities since the counselling conducted in the year 2015. Despite this, at no point of time prior to the passing of the impugned order did the respondents raise any allegation that the petitioner had submitted forged or fabricated documents, whether in respect of the Intermediate Certificate or any document purportedly issued by the Technical University.

24. It is further submitted that the original educational records and documents of the petitioner were duly verified by the Principal, DIET concerned at the relevant point of time. No discrepancy or irregularity was ever pointed out during such verification. It is specifically contended that no allegation had ever been made that the petitioner produced any forged document, nor that any Intermediate Certificate bearing Roll No.0374070 was submitted by the petitioner. There is also no material on record to suggest that any other forged or fabricated educational document was ever furnished by the petitioner.

25. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the mandatory inquiry, as contemplated under Rule 5(3) of the U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973, read with Rules 7, 8 and 9 of the U.P. Government Servant (Discipline and Appeal) Rules, 1999, has not been conducted in the present case. It is contended that compliance with the aforesaid provisions is a condition precedent for passing any adverse order. In the absence of such an inquiry, the impugned order stands vitiated for non-compliance of mandatory statutory requirements and is, therefore, patently illegal and unsustainable in the eyes of law.

26. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order has been passed in complete disregard of the petitioner's ten years of satisfactory and unblemished service. It is further contended that the order has been issued without affording any opportunity of hearing and without conducting a proper inquiry. The impugned action is, therefore, in clear violation of the principles of natural justice and is liable to be set aside as being bad in law.

27. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order is vitiated by a patent error of fact, inasmuch as the respondent authorities have proceeded on an incorrect assumption that the petitioner's Intermediate Examination Roll No. is 0374070, whereas, in fact, the correct Roll No. is 0324070. It is contended that the said fact stands duly verified by the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, as per report dated 14.11.2022. It is further submitted that the District Basic Education Officer had himself verified the petitioner's educational documents at the time of appointment. In view thereof, the very foundation of the impugned order is erroneous, rendering the same unsustainable in law.

28. It is further submitted that the petitioner's graduation certificate also stands duly verified by the Technical University, as is evident from the report dated 11.11.2022. However, the said material document has not been considered by the respondent authorities while passing the impugned order. The non-consideration of such vital evidence renders the impugned order arbitrary and unsustainable in law.

29. It is further submitted that, pursuant to the directions issued by this Hon'ble Court, the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, U.P., Prayagraj, furnished its instructions, wherein the genuineness of the petitioner's Intermediate mark sheet bearing Roll No.0324070 has been duly affirmed.

30. It is further submitted that the respondents have completely ignored the material fact that the petitioner's absence w.e.f. 01.07.2020 had already been condoned, and thereafter, upon due verification of all educational documents, the petitioner was permitted to rejoin/continue on the post vide order dated 09.12.2022. Once the respondents themselves had regularized the petitioner's position after such verification, it was not open to them to subsequently take a contrary stand without any fresh material or due process, rendering the impugned action arbitrary and unsustainable in law.

31. It is further submitted that even the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, vide letter dated 09.02.2024, has expressed doubt over the report submitted by the Block Education Officer dated 24.08.2020, which appears to have been prepared on an erroneous assumption regarding the petitioner's Intermediate Examination Roll Number as □0374070□. In view thereof, the Basic Shiksha Adhikari sought clarification on the said discrepancy. This itself demonstrates that the very basis of the adverse material relied upon by the respondents is doubtful and unreliable, thereby vitiating the impugned action.

32. It is further submitted that, as specifically pleaded in the grounds of the petition, the petitioner has alleged that a clerk, namely Shri Rishipal (Senior Clerk), had demanded extraneous consideration from him. Upon the petitioner's refusal, it is alleged that the said official manipulated the records and introduced a fabricated mark-sheet reflecting an incorrect Roll Number '0374070'. The petitioner contends that the entire sequence of events indicates a deliberate manipulation of records at the level of the Block Education Office, involving the concerned officials, including the said clerk. These allegations, though serious in nature, have neither been properly inquired into nor addressed by the respondent authorities while passing the impugned order, thereby vitiating the decision-making process.

33. It is submitted that the impugned order, having been founded upon the report of the Block Education Officer and predicated on verification of an altogether different Roll Number, i.e., 0374070, is manifestly perverse and arbitrary. The reliance on such incorrect and irrelevant material strikes at the very root of the decision-making process, thereby rendering the impugned order unsustainable in law.

34. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order has been passed in complete violation of the principles of natural justice, inasmuch as the documents relied upon by the respondent authorities have never been supplied to the petitioner. It is contended that neither the alleged forged mark-sheet bearing Roll No.0374070, nor the purported verification report of the Board, nor any other material referred to in the impugned order, was ever furnished to the petitioner. In the absence of disclosure of such material, the petitioner was deprived of a fair opportunity to controvert the same, thereby vitiating the entire proceedings.

35. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that it is well settled in law that even in cases involving allegations of fraud, forgery, or submission of fake certificates, the delinquent employee must be supplied with all documents relied upon and afforded a full and fair opportunity to rebut the allegations. It is contended that such procedural safeguards are integral to the principles of natural justice. In the present case, the said mandatory requirements have not been complied with, as no relevant material was furnished to the petitioner nor any effective opportunity of hearing was granted. Consequently, the impugned order stands vitiated and is liable to be set aside as being bad in the eyes of law.

36. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the respondent authorities have wrongly placed reliance upon a marksheet bearing Roll No.0374070, whereas the petitioner's actual Roll No. in the Intermediate Examination is 0324070, which was duly submitted at the time of counselling. It is contended that the original educational documents were retained by the respondent authorities and have remained in their custody. The genuineness of the petitioner's Intermediate marksheet bearing Roll No. 0324070 has been duly verified not only at the stage of BTC training but also by the concerned Board, pursuant to the directions issued by this Hon'ble Court. In the said verification, the marksheet bearing Roll No. 0324070 has been confirmed to pertain to the petitioner and to be genuine. In such circumstances, the reliance placed on a marksheet bearing a different Roll No. is wholly misconceived and renders the impugned order unsustainable in law.

37. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the impugned order has been passed in a wholly mechanical manner, without due application of mind, inasmuch as the detailed reply submitted by the petitioner has not been considered at all. It is contended that the undisputed fact regarding the petitioner's Intermediate Certificate bearing Roll No. 0324070, duly verified at the time of appointment in the year 2016, at the time of rejoining in the year 2022, and also pursuant to the directions issued by this Hon'ble Court, has been completely ignored.

38. It is further submitted that the respondent authorities have instead placed reliance on undisclosed documents, which were never supplied to the petitioner, thereby depriving him of any effective opportunity to defend himself. The original records, which are admittedly in the custody of the respondents, have also been overlooked. The entire action has been founded upon an incorrect roll number, and no inquiry, as required under law, has been conducted.

39. In view of the aforesaid, it is submitted that the impugned order is arbitrary, violative of the principles of natural justice, and liable to be set aside.

40. Learned counsel for the respondent-BSA, on the other hand, submits that the petitioner was appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher vide appointment order dated 28.06.2016 issued by the then BSA, Shamli. It is further submitted that the said appointment order was conditional in nature, expressly stipulating that in the event the educational, training, degree, or caste certificates furnished by the candidate at the time of counselling were found to be forged, manipulated, or otherwise false, the appointment shall stand cancelled automatically. Thereafter, the verification of academic certificates of the candidates appointed in District Shamli pursuant to the recruitment in question was forwarded vide letter dated 29.07.2016 issued by the office of the District Institute of Education and Training (DIET), Muzaffarnagar. In the said verification list, the name of the petitioner appeared at serial no. 9. It is submitted that on the basis of such verification, the salary of the petitioner came to be released.

41. Learned counsel for the respondent has further pointed out that the petitioner remained unauthorisedly absent from his duties at primary school Kertoo Block, Un, District Shamli, with effect from 13.06.2020, without any prior intimation or sanction of leave.

42. Learned counsel for the respondent further submits that the educational records of teachers, Shiksha Mitras, and part-time instructors in District Shamli were being maintained on the Manav Sampada portal. During the course of updating the said records, it was revealed that in respect of the institution in question, the petitioner had relied upon a Bachelor of Technology (B.Tech) degree in Computer Science and Engineering purportedly issued by U.P. Technical University, Lucknow (as it was then known). However, the authenticity of the said degree appeared doubtful inasmuch as, at one place, the qualification was recorded in Hindi as “Bachelor of Technology,” while at another place, in English, it was reflected as “Master of Business Administration.” Apart from this discrepancy, the degree certificate was also found to contain several spelling errors. The aforesaid discrepancies were duly brought to the notice of the competent authority by the Block Education Officer, Block Un, District Shamli, vide letter dated 24.08.2020.

43. In the aforesaid letter/report dated 24.08.2020, it was further mentioned that the petitioner had relied upon High School and Intermediate certificates purportedly issued by the Madhyamik Shiksha Parishad, U.P., Prayagraj, for the years 2006 and 2008 respectively. Upon verification of the said mark sheets from the official website of the Parishad, it was found that the Intermediate mark sheet of the petitioner pertaining to the examination year 2008, bearing Roll No. 0374070, was forged, inasmuch as the said roll number corresponded to one Poonam, daughter of Shri Yadram Singh. The Block Education Officer further called upon the petitioner to produce original documents; however, the petitioner failed to do so, whereupon his salary was withheld.

44. Accordingly, in the report dated 24.08.2020, the Block Education Officer recorded that upon district-level verification, the petitioner's Intermediate certificate was found to be forged during online verification, and his B.Tech degree also appeared to be doubtful. In view thereof, it was recommended that appropriate action, in accordance with law, be taken for termination of the petitioner's services.

45. On the basis of the aforesaid report, a letter dated 24.07.2021 was issued by the then Basic Shiksha Adhikari (BSA), Shamli, addressed to the Secretary of the Parishad at Regional Office, Meerut through the Block Education Officer, requesting verification of the petitioner's Intermediate mark sheet/certificate pertaining to the year 2008, bearing Roll No.0374070. As no verification report was received in response, the Block Education Officer, vide letter dated 11.08.2021, informed that he had personally visited the Regional Office of the Parishad at Meerut for the purpose of verification as sought in the letter dated 24.07.2021. It was further stated that upon such visit, the Deputy Secretary of the Parishad directed that the verification report would be sent through post.

46. The then Basic Shiksha Adhikari (BSA) also addressed letters dated 18.06.2021 and 11.02.2022 to Uttar Pradesh Technical University, now known as Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Technical University, seeking verification of the petitioner's graduation mark sheet and degree; however, no response was received from the University in this regard.

47. Acknowledging the application submitted by the petitioner, requesting for rejoining, the Block Education Officer, vide letters dated 16.07.2022 and 16.08.2022, apprised the then BSA that the petitioner had remained absent from the institution since 01.07.2020 on account of illness. It was further reported that a criminal case had been lodged against him by his wife in relation to alleged demand of dowry, and that he had also suffered the demise of his parents as well as his brother. In view of these circumstances, it was conveyed that the petitioner was unable to attend the institution.

48. Thereafter, the petitioner's High School certificate pertaining to Roll No. 0612450 of the year 2006 and Intermediate certificate pertaining to Roll No. 0324070 of the year 2008 were forwarded for verification to the Parishad and its Regional Office at Meerut. The said authority furnished its verification report vide letter dated 14.11.2022.

49. Learned counsel for the respondent submits that earlier, during the tenure of Smt. Geeta Verma, the then BSA, Shamli, the petitioner had submitted an Intermediate certificate to her at the time of counselling, which was forwarded for verification; however, no report was received in that regard. It is further submitted that subsequently, another mark sheet of Intermediate examination pertaining to Roll No. 0324070 has been relied upon during the verification process initiated in the year 2022, pursuant to letter dated 13.10.2022 issued by the then BSA, Rahul Mishra.

50. He further submits that during the tenure of the then BSA, Shamli, Shri Rahul Mishra, and the then Patal Incharge, Shri Sethpal Singh, Senior Assistant, the B.Tech degree of the petitioner was also forwarded to the Technical University for verification. In response thereto, the Registrar of the Technical University furnished the verification report.

51. Accordingly, during the tenure of the aforesaid officers the petitioner was permitted to rejoin his duties after a prolonged period of unauthorized absence from the institution, on the basis of the aforesaid verifications. Consequently, the petitioner rejoined his post on 20.12.2022.

52. Thereafter, Shri Rahul Mishra, th0e then BSA, was transferred, and the charge of the office of BSA was entrusted to the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Saharanpur Region, Saharanpur. Subsequently, Kumari Komal assumed charge as BSA on 23.03.2023.

53. After the joining of the new Basic Education Officer, the entire sequence of earlier verification reports, including that of the Block Education Officer dated 24.08.2020, as well as the subsequent verification and rejoining of the petitioner after a prolonged period, was brought to her notice and request for a fresh verification of the petitioner's educational documents was sought by the Block Education Officer vide letter dated 23.06.2023.

54. The Block Education Officer, vide letter dated 18.10.2022, informed the office of the BSA that the petitioner had been permitted to rejoin his post pursuant to the order dated 09.12.2022 issued by the then BSA, wherein certain doubts were also expressed regarding the petitioner's academic certificates. The said letter further records that the Assistant Director of Education (Basic), Saharanpur Region, Saharanpur, had issued directions to consider the petitioner's representation in accordance with law.

55. Again, upon the application of the petitioner seeking payment of salary from the date of his rejoining, the Block Education Officer, vide letter dated 18.10.2023, referred to the entire sequence of events concerning the petitioner's educational documents, including the earlier verification reports, and requested that the said documents be subjected to verification once again.

56. In response to the aforesaid application, the District Basic Education Officer, vide letter dated 10.11.2023 addressed to the Block Education Officer, directed that the petitioner's academic certificates and other documents be duly verified. It was further required that all records and proceedings relating to the petitioner's initial appointment, including the educational and training documents submitted by him at the time of appointment, be thoroughly examined and verified.

57. The Block Education Officer, in his letter dated 18.12.2023, has further stated that the documents submitted by the petitioner at the time of his admission in DIET, Muzaffarnagar, as well as at the time of his initial appointment in the year 2016, included an Intermediate mark sheet and certificate of the year 2008 bearing Roll No. 0374070. However, at the time of rejoining in December, 2022 at BRC, Block- Un, the petitioner submitted an Intermediate mark sheet of the year 2008 bearing Roll No. 0324070.

58. It has further been noted that during the course of online verification, the Intermediate mark sheet bearing Roll No. 0324070 was found to be in the name of the petitioner, whereas the mark sheet bearing Roll No. 0374070 pertains to one Poonam, daughter of Shri Yadram Singh.

59. The Block Education Officer, Block-Un, has also submitted letters dated 06.02.2024 and 06.03.2024, wherein it has been recorded that the petitioner had produced two different Intermediate mark sheets on two separate occasions at BRC, Block-Un. The said letters further point out discrepancies in the petitioner's B.Tech degree, in respect whereof notices have also been issued to the petitioner, to which, no satisfactory reply has been given by him.

60. The Secretary of the Parishad, vide letter dated 20.9.2024, has reported that the mark sheet/certificate of the petitioner pertaining to Roll No. 0374070 is forged and fake. In the aforesaid regard, it has been stated that the said Roll No. 0374070 has not been allotted to any regular or private candidate of any institution falling within the jurisdiction of the Regional Office of the Parishad, Meerut.

61. Upon an inquiry made from the Principal, DIET, Muzaffarnagar, a letter dated 13.11.2024 has been issued stating that the petitioner, while pursuing Special BTC-2012, had submitted photocopies of his educational and training certificates/documents in the office, which were self-attested by him. The said letter further records that the details of such documents have been mentioned therein, including at Page 14, column.

62. On the basis of the information furnished by the Parishad as well as the material received from DIET, the salary of the petitioner was withheld and notices were issued to him. However, no satisfactory reply was submitted by the petitioner. Consequently, the impugned order has been passed, declaring the petitioner's appointment as void ab initio, on the ground that he had produced forged and fake educational certificates at the time of seeking appointment.

63. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that while making the application for recruitment in question, initiated for selection against 15,000 vacancies of Assistant Teachers in primary schools, the petitioner had submitted his online application bearing Registration No. 730000760. In the said application, while furnishing his academic details in response to Column 12, the petitioner mentioned that he had passed Intermediate in the year 2008 from the U.P. Board, specifying Roll No. 0374070.

64. It is further submitted that the pre-registration form submitted by the petitioner also contains the same particulars, including the aforesaid roll number of the Intermediate examination. The petitioner thereafter submitted his academic certificates before the Selection Committee at the time of counselling, under a prescribed proforma dated 14.01.2016, which likewise reflects the same Roll No. 0374070 for the Intermediate examination of the year 2008.

65. The said documents have been brought on record along with the short counter affidavit as Annexure No.21, which includes copies of the High School mark sheet and certificate, online application form, Intermediate mark sheet and certificate, Graduation mark sheets and degree, BTC mark sheet and certificate, domicile certificate, caste certificate, bank details and passbook, Primary Level TET (PAT) certificate, and the notary affidavit of the petitioner.

66. Learned counsel for the respondent-BSA has filed a supplementary counter affidavit in compliance with the order dated 04.09.2026 passed by this Hon'ble Court, whereby it was directed that the original records, as produced before the Court, be brought on record by means of an affidavit.

67. The photocopies/photostat copies of the original documents, duly self-attested by the petitioner and enclosed along with the original set of documents submitted at the time of counselling for the recruitment in question, as well as those submitted with the original application before the DIET in respect of counselling for BTC Training 2012, as provided by the Principal, DIET under letter dated 13.11.2024, have been collectively filed along with the supplementary affidavit.

68. The said documents include: 1. the High School Examination, 2006 mark sheet and certificate, wherein the roll number is shown as 0612450; 2. the mark sheet and certificate of the Intermediate Examination, 2008, bearing roll number 0374070, with the name of the school/examination centre recorded as Janata Inter College, Lisarh. Muzaffarnagar; 3. the mark sheets of Bachelor of Technology (B.Tech.) in Computer Science and Engineering issued by Gautam Buddha Technical University for First Year, Second Year, Third Year and Final Year, bearing roll number 0832810053; and 4. the Bachelor of Technology degree issued by Uttar Pradesh Technical University, Lucknow, certifying that the petitioner has obtained the degree in Computer Science and Engineering with First Division, also bearing roll number 0832810053. However, in English version Master of business administration is mentioned.

69. The other documents placed on record include the certificate issued by Gautam Buddha Technical University in the year 2012, evidencing the award of the degree of Bachelor of Technology (B.Tech.) in Computer Science and Engineering to the petitioner. The documents further placed on record include the mark sheet of the BTC Two-Year Examination (Batch 2013), First Semester (Year 2013); the mark sheets of the BTC Two-Year Examination (Batch 2012), Second Semester (Year 2014), Third Semester (Year 2014), and Fourth Semester; as well as the certificate of completion of the BTC Two-Year प्रशिक्षण Course (Batch 2012), Examination Year 2015, issued by the Pariksha Niyamak Adhikari, Uttar Pradesh.

70. Additionally, the Uttar Pradesh Teacher Eligibility Test (UPTET) 2013-14 certificate issued by the Examination Regulatory Authority, Allahabad, has also been placed on record. The Caste Certificate issued from the office of the Tehsildar, Kairana, District Shamli, and the Domicile Certificate issued from the office of the Sub-Divisional Magistrate (SDM), Kairana, District Shamli, have also been annexed along with the supplementary counter affidavit. These documents formed part of the original record produced before this Hon'ble Court.

71. The petitioner's application submitted pursuant to the advertisement for the post of Assistant Teacher in Parishadiya Primary Schools, for the purpose of counseling, records the educational qualifications at Serial No. 11, wherein it is stated that the petitioner passed the Intermediate Examination from the U.P. Board, Allahabad, in the year 2008, with the roll number mentioned as 0374070. The online application form likewise reflects the same particulars, indicating the roll number as 0374070 for the Intermediate Examination of the year 2008.

72. The online registration application bearing Registration No. 7300000760 also reflects the same particulars, recording the roll number as 0374070 for the Intermediate Examination, 2008.

73. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed written submissions stating that the petitioner was appointed as an Assistant Teacher in a primary school vide appointment order dated 28.06.2016 and joined his duties at Primary School Kertoo, Block-Un, District Shamli. However, it is submitted that the petitioner remained absent from duty with effect from 13.06.2020 without any prior intimation.

74. It is further submitted that during the process of updating and maintaining service records of teachers, Shiksha Mitras, and Part-Time Instructors on the Manav Sampada portal, certain discrepancies came to light regarding the petitioner's educational qualifications. In particular, doubts were raised concerning the petitioner's B.Tech degree as well as his Intermediate mark sheet bearing Roll No. 0374070, as reflected in the report dated 24.08.2020.

75. At the time of submitting his online application for the post in question, the petitioner had relied upon his B.Tech degree, details whereof have already been brought on record. It is further submitted that a provisional B.Tech certificate was earlier furnished by the petitioner before the District Institute of Education and Training (DIET), Muzaffarnagar (District Shamli), in connection with his admission to the BTC Training Course, 2012. The said certificate was forwarded to the office of the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, Shamli by the Principal, DIET, vide letter dated 13.11.2014.

76. With regard to his Intermediate qualification, the petitioner relied upon a mark sheet and certificate of the year 2008 bearing Roll No. 0374070, which were also submitted before the concerned DIET at the time of counselling for BTC Training, 2012, and were subsequently forwarded by the Principal, DIET, vide letter dated 13.11.2014. The petitioner's online application for the post in question, as well as the self-attested hard copy submitted at the time of counselling in District Shamli, consistently mention the same roll number, i.e., 0374070, for the Intermediate Examination, 2008.

77. It is thus submitted that all documents furnished by the petitioner, both at the time of counselling for the BTC Training Course, 2012 and for the post in question, uniformly reflect that he passed the Intermediate Examination in the year 2008 under Roll No. 0374070.

78. It is further submitted that the petitioner remained absent from duty with effect from 13.06.2020 without any prior intimation to the department and, after a prolonged period of nearly two years, sought to rejoin his duties by moving an application dated 16.07.2022. Pursuant thereto, an office order dated 09.12.2022 was issued for verification of the petitioner's documents, including his Intermediate certificate of the year 2008. However, at this stage, the petitioner disclosed a different roll number, i.e., 0324070, which had never been mentioned earlier.

79. It is significant to note that the said roll number surfaced for the first time only at the stage of rejoining, after an unexplained absence of two years. Prior to this, in all records and documents submitted by the petitioner, including his application forms and documents furnished at the time of counselling, the Intermediate certificate consistently bore Roll No. 0374070. There was, in fact, no occasion for seeking fresh verification of documents at the stage of rejoining.

80. In such circumstances, the conduct of the petitioner in submitting an application for verification along with an Intermediate mark sheet bearing a different roll number, i.e., 0324070, for the first time raises serious doubt and calls for scrutiny.

81. It is further submitted that, without examining the reasons for the petitioner's prolonged absence of nearly two and a half years, and without calling for any explanation in that regard, the petitioner was permitted to rejoin duties, and he accordingly submitted his joining in July, 2022. Since the petitioner had remained absent for a considerable period, no salary was paid to him from July, 2020 onwards. Consequently, the petitioner submitted an application dated 24.08.2020 before the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, seeking payment of salary.

82. While considering the issue of salary, the Block Education Officer initiated correspondence and sent letters and reminders to the District Basic Education Officer, Shamli, for re-verification of the petitioner's documents and service records, particularly with regard to his academic qualifications and requisite training. In response, the District Basic Education Officer directed the concerned Block Education Officer to submit a detailed report regarding the petitioner's academic certificates and related documents.

83. Pursuant thereto, the Block Education Officer submitted a report dated 18.12.2023, highlighting discrepancies in the petitioner□s Intermediate qualification, specifically noting the existence of two different roll numbers relied upon by the petitioner in respect of his Intermediate mark sheet and certificate. The report further records that while verification of the petitioner□s B.Tech degree was obtained through the concerned clerk of DIET, Muzaffarnagar, no verification could be found with respect to his High School and Intermediate certificates.

84. In light of the aforesaid discrepancies, notices dated 06.02.2024 and 06.03.2024 were issued to the petitioner by the Block Education Officer, calling upon him to furnish an explanation regarding his Intermediate mark sheet and certificate. Meanwhile, the Intermediate mark sheet and certificate bearing Roll No. 0374070, relied upon by the petitioner at the time of online application and counselling, were sent for verification to the U.P. Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Regional Office, Meerut. In response, the office of the Regional Secretary, vide letter dated 20.09.2024, reported that the said mark sheet and certificate were forged and fabricated.

85. Further inquiry into the petitioner□s academic credentials continued, and during the course thereof, a communication dated 12.06.2025 was sent by the Block Education Officer, Block Kairana, District Shamli, to the Basic Shiksha Adhikari, stating that the petitioner had again remained absent from duty for the preceding six to seven months without any prior intimation. Appropriate action was sought against the petitioner, along with necessary directions regarding his status, particularly in the context of the ongoing process of inter-district mutual transfer.

86. Thereafter, notices were issued to the petitioner calling upon him to furnish his explanation with respect to the doubtful certificates pertaining to the Intermediate Examination, 2008 bearing Roll No. 0374070, as well as his B.Tech degree. Although the petitioner claims to have submitted replies to the said notices, the explanations furnished were found to be wholly unsatisfactory, particularly in relation to the discrepancies concerning the Intermediate mark sheet and certificate. Accordingly, the impugned order came to be passed.

87. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that the petitioner has alleged that the impugned order has been passed in violation of the principles of natural justice and the provisions of the Rules, 1999. However, it is contended that such a plea is misconceived. In cases involving fraud, misrepresentation, or concealment of material facts, particularly where the genuineness of the educational certificates forming the basis of appointment is under serious doubt□no prior opportunity of hearing or regular inquiry, as contemplated under the Rules, 1999, is mandatorily required. It is submitted that where the very foundation of appointment is vitiated, the authorities are justified in taking appropriate action without resorting to a full-fledged inquiry.

88. Learned counsel for the respondents submits that it is evident on record that the petitioner has indulged in misrepresentation and fraud. While submitting his online application for the post in question, the petitioner disclosed his Intermediate Examination, 2008 Roll No. as 0374070, which was also consistently relied upon by him at the time of counselling for the BTC Training Course, 2012 before the DIET. However, for the first time, at the stage of rejoining in the year 2022, after a prolonged unauthorized absence, the petitioner produced an Intermediate certificate of the year 2008 bearing a different Roll No., i.e., 0324070.

89. It is submitted that a detailed examination of the records and verification reports obtained from time to time clearly establishes that the petitioner relied upon two different Intermediate mark sheets at different stages, one at the time of seeking appointment and during BTC counselling, and another at the time of rejoining. This material inconsistency, coupled with the absence of any plausible explanation, leads to the inescapable conclusion that the petitioner has committed fraud by furnishing contradictory and unreliable educational credentials.

90. Learned counsel for the respondents has placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Bihar vs. Kriti Narayan Prasad (2019) 1 ESC 3 (SC), decided on 30.11.2018, wherein it has been categorically held that fraud vitiates all solemn acts. It is submitted that where an appointment is obtained by practicing fraud or misrepresentation, the same stands vitiated at its very inception.

91. In such circumstances, the requirement of holding a regular disciplinary inquiry under the Rules, 1999 read with the U.P. Basic Education Staff Rules, 1973, or any other applicable service rules, does not arise. The protection of statutory provisions governing disciplinary proceedings is available only to those employees who have secured appointment through lawful means and thereafter commit some misconduct during the course of service. However, a person who obtains appointment by fraud cannot claim the benefit of such protections, as his very entry into service is illegal and void ab initio.

92. Learned counsel for the respondents further submitted that the original documents brought on record along with the supplementary affidavit dated 13.03.2026 clearly establish the commission of fraud by the petitioner with respect to his Intermediate academic credentials relied upon by him. It is contended that the material on record unequivocally demonstrates that the petitioner has furnished inconsistent and unreliable documents.

93. It is further submitted that learned counsel for the petitioner is attempting to mislead this Hon'ble Court by repeatedly seeking an inquiry with respect to the Intermediate Examination, 2008 bearing Roll No. 0324070, whereas the controversy in the present case pertains to the mark sheet bearing Roll No. 0374070. It is emphasized that there is no specific pleading in the writ petition raising any issue with regard to Roll No. 0324070, and therefore, such a contention is wholly misplaced and cannot be permitted to be agitated at this stage.

94. Learned counsel for the respondents further submits that there is not even a whisper in the writ petition regarding any inadvertent mistake or human error on the part of the petitioner while filling the online application, wherein he had clearly mentioned Roll No. 0374070 for the Intermediate Examination, 2008. It is only in response to the notices issued by the authorities that the petitioner has sought to introduce such a plea, which is clearly an afterthought and devoid of merit.

95. It is further contended that the Intermediate certificate of the year 2008 bearing Roll No. 0374070, which was relied upon by the petitioner both at the time of seeking appointment and during the BTC Training, has already been found to be forged. It is only for the first time, at the stage of rejoining in the year 2022, that the petitioner sought verification of an Intermediate mark sheet bearing a different Roll No., i.e., 0324070. This subsequent document appears to have been procured by the petitioner during the period of his unauthorized absence, and thereafter sought to be introduced at various stages before the authorities, including the Parishad and other competent forums.

96. The conduct of the petitioner, in repeatedly shifting his stand and relying upon two different roll numbers for the same examination, clearly indicates a deliberate attempt to manipulate records and lends further credence to the allegation of fraud.

97. Learned counsel for the respondents further submits that even the B.Tech degree of the petitioner appears to be forged, as has already been elaborated in the earlier paragraphs while advancing submissions before this Hon□ble Court.

98. In view of the aforesaid, learned counsel for the respondents submits that a comprehensive and detailed inquiry into the petitioner□s educational credentials is warranted at every level, including verification from the institution from which he purportedly appeared in the Intermediate Examination.

99. In view of the aforesaid submissions, the impugned order does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity warranting interference by this Hon□ble Court, accordingly, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed.

100. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

101. The record reflects that the petitioner, at the time of submitting his online application as well as during counselling and BTC training, consistently disclosed his Intermediate Examination, 2008 Roll Number as 0374070, which formed the very foundation of his eligibility. However, at the stage of rejoining in the year 2022, after a prolonged unauthorized absence, the petitioner introduced a different roll number, i.e., 0324070, and sought to rely upon a different mark sheet.

102. The material on record clearly establishes that the roll number 0374070 has been found to be forged and not pertaining to the petitioner. The petitioner has thus relied upon two different sets of Intermediate certificates at different stages, without furnishing any plausible explanation.

103. Apart from the aforesaid discrepancy, serious doubts have also been raised by the respondents regarding the petitioner□s B.Tech degree, which cannot be ignored by this Court. The discrepancies, as specifically pointed out, include: (i) inconsistency in the description of the degree, where at one place it is mentioned as Bachelor of Technology, while at another it is reflected as Master of Business Administration; (ii) apparent spelling and typographical errors in the degree certificate; (iii) lack of consistent and reliable verification from the concerned Technical University at earlier stages; and (iv) doubts expressed by the competent authorities during scrutiny of records maintained on the Manav Sampada portal and departmental files. These discrepancies, when read in conjunction with the inconsistency in the Intermediate certificates, prima facie indicate that the petitioner□s educational credentials are not free from suspicion.

104. It is well settled that fraud vitiates all solemn acts, and an appointment obtained on the basis of forged or fabricated documents is void ab initio and confers no enforceable right. It is also a settled principle of law that where the very foundation of appointment is tainted, the requirement of holding a regular disciplinary inquiry is not mandatory, and the authorities are justified in cancelling such appointment.

105. The record shows that the petitioner has relied upon two different Intermediate roll numbers at different stages. The roll number originally disclosed, i.e., 0374070, has been found to be forged, and the petitioner has failed to furnish any satisfactory explanation for such inconsistency. The B.Tech degree of the petitioner is also prima facie doubtful in view of the material discrepancies pointed out by the respondents. Hence, the appointment of the petitioner is vitiated by fraud and misrepresentation and is void ab initio. In view of the serious nature of discrepancies, this Court deems it appropriate to direct a comprehensive, multi-level inquiry so as to ascertain the authenticity of the petitioner's educational credentials in their entirety. Accordingly, the following directions are issued:

(i) Inquiry regarding Intermediate Examination, 2008 has to be conducted in the following manner:-

(a) Verification shall be conducted from the Board of High School and Intermediate Education, Uttar Pradesh, with respect to both roll numbers 0374070 and 0324070.

(b) A detailed inquiry at the school level, i.e., the institution from where the petitioner claims to have appeared, shall be conducted to verify: admission records, scholar register entries, attendance registers, internal assessment records, forwarding of examination forms.

(c) Inquiry shall also be conducted at the examination centre where the petitioner allegedly appeared in the Intermediate Examination, 2008, including: examination attendance sheets, centre records, invigilation records, any preserved documentary evidence.

(d) The authorities shall ascertain conclusively whether the petitioner actually appeared in the said examination and, if so, under which roll number.

(ii) Inquiry regarding B.Tech Degree shall be conducted in following manner:-

(a) A thorough verification shall be conducted from Dr. A.P.J. Abdul Kalam Technical University regarding the authenticity of the petitioner□s B.Tech degree.

(b) The University shall specifically clarify: whether the degree was actually issued to the petitioner, the correct title of the degree (B.Tech or otherwise), the correctness of the roll number and year of passing.

(c) The concerned college/institution shall produce original records relating to admission, attendance, semester-wise examination results, award of degree.

(d) The discrepancies noted, including variation in degree description, spelling errors and format irregularities, shall be specifically examined to determine whether the degree is genuine or fabricated.

106. The records maintained at DIET, the counselling authority, and the Basic Education Department shall be examined to identify: the documents originally submitted by the petitioner; any alteration or substitution of records, the stage at which such discrepancies arose.

107. It is an admitted position that the petitioner remained absent for a period of two years and sought to rejoin only in 2022, without any prior intimation to the competent authorities and without any sanctioned leave. There is not even a whisper in the pleadings explaining whether the petitioner was engaged elsewhere during this period or furnishing any justification for such prolonged unauthorized absence. Accordingly, these facts assume significance, as the conduct of the petitioner indicates that the intervening period may have been utilized to manage or manipulate records, particularly for the purpose of substituting the original certificate submitted at the time of appointment with another certificate bearing a different roll number. Therefore, these aspects are also relevant and must necessarily be taken into consideration while conducting the inquiry.

108. This Court further observes that if any manipulation, collusion or negligence on the part of officials is found, appropriate action shall be taken in accordance with law against such erring officials.

109. The entire inquiry shall be completed within a period of four months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order. A reasoned report shall be placed before the competent authority, who shall thereafter pass appropriate orders in accordance with law.

110. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court finds no illegality in the impugned order dated 06.10.2025, therefore, no interference is required. The writ petition stands dismissed. However, the directions for comprehensive inquiry, as detailed above, shall be strictly complied with, and the reinstatement of the petitioner shall be subject to the final outcome of the inquiry.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 2298 of 2026

Sirajuddin Khan ...Petitioner
Versus
Laxmichand ...Respondent

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the release application instituted by the respondent-landlord under Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 was liable to be held premature on account of alleged non-compliance with the requirement of six months' prior notice contemplated under the first proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act;

(ii) Whether, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the petitioner-tenant, by prolonged participation in the proceedings and by contesting the matter on merits for several years, can be held to have waived the objection relating to non-compliance with the requirement of six months' notice by raising such objection only at a highly belated stage.

Headnotes

U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 --- s.21(1)(a), first proviso --- Six months' prior notice --- Mandatory requirement --- Nature of protection --- Benefit of tenant --- Capable of waiver.

HELD: The proviso to Section 21(1)(a) contemplates two distinct conditions where the premises was already under tenancy prior to purchase by the landlord: firstly, elapse of a period of three years from the date of purchase, and secondly, service of a notice of not less than six months before institution of the application. The legislature has consciously employed the expression "no application shall be entertained" in relation to the three-year period, whereas in relation to notice it has provided that the landlord "has given a notice ... not less than six months before such application." The use of different phraseology in the same proviso cannot be regarded as accidental. The requirement of six months' notice, though couched in mandatory language, is intended to secure a protective opportunity to the tenant before initiation of release proceedings; the protection is essentially personal to the tenant and procedural in character, does not affect the inherent competence or jurisdiction of the authority to adjudicate, and does not involve any element of public duty or public interest. It confers a statutory procedural safeguard capable of being availed of or waived by the tenant for whose benefit it has been enacted. [Paras 16-22]

Statutory Interpretation --- Doctrine of waiver --- Mandatory provision enacted for benefit of individual --- Capable of relinquishment --- Distinction between nullity and irregularity.

HELD: A statutory requirement, even if mandatory in form, does not invariably become incapable of waiver. The determinative test is whether the provision has been enacted in public interest or merely for the benefit of an individual; where the condition exists solely for safeguarding the rights of a particular party, such party may relinquish or abandon the benefit either expressly or by conduct, in accordance with the maxim quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se introducto. Failure to comply with the requirement of six months' notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) would ordinarily amount to a procedural irregularity and not a nullity, particularly where waiver is established from the conduct of the tenant; a defect is a nullity only where the provision violated is founded on public policy or goes to the root of inherent jurisdiction in a manner incapable of waiver. The consequence of waiver is not that the statutory requirement ceases to be mandatory, but that the beneficiary of such protection becomes disentitled from impeaching the proceedings on that ground; such waiver does not retrospectively validate the initial procedural defect. [Paras 23-25, 27-32, 34-35]

U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 --- s.21(1)(a), first proviso --- Waiver by conduct --- Prolonged participation without timely objection --- Factors relevant for determining waiver.

HELD: The doctrine of waiver in relation to the objection regarding notice or premature institution of proceedings under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) is founded not merely upon express relinquishment but equally upon conduct inconsistent with an intention to insist upon the right. Where the objection regarding premature institution or want of statutory notice is raised only after prolonged participation in proceedings on merits, the issue of waiver must be examined on the basis of cumulative assessment of the entire conduct of the party and not merely on eventual incorporation of a formal plea in pleadings. Relevant factors include: whether the objection was raised at the threshold stage or withheld despite knowledge of the alleged defect from inception; whether it was thereafter pursued with reasonable diligence; whether the party actively participated for a prolonged duration by filing applications, evidence, cross-examination requests or other pleadings inconsistent with challenging maintainability at the threshold; whether the objection was pressed only after substantial progress of proceedings; and whether the cumulative conduct indicates acquiescence and an election to contest on merits rather than insist upon the procedural protection. These factors are illustrative and not exhaustive, and the question of waiver ultimately depends on the facts and conduct in each case. [Paras 36-42]

U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 --- s.21(1)(a), first proviso --- Objection regarding six months' notice raised for first time after more than seven years of participation in proceedings --- Waiver established.

HELD: The petitioner entered appearance on 22.04.2014, actively participated by filing interrogatories under Section 34(1)(d) of the Act on 15.07.2014, sought adjournments on various dates and contested the matter on merits, without raising any objection regarding want of six months' notice at the initial stage; such objection was raised for the first time only in the written statement filed on 23.11.2021, i.e., after lapse of more than seven years from institution of the release proceedings on 15.01.2014. The record demonstrates prolonged participation in the proceedings over several years, including extensive evidentiary proceedings culminating in the judgment dated 21.12.2022. The factual position stands on a stronger footing than in Martin & Harris Ltd., where the objection had at least initially been raised though subsequently not pursued. The cumulative conduct of the petitioner, as concurrently found by the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Court, was rightly treated as indicative of acquiescence and relinquishment of the procedural protection available under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a). [Paras 43-48]

Constitution of India --- Art.227 --- Supervisory jurisdiction --- Concurrent findings of fact on bona fide requirement, comparative hardship and waiver --- No perversity or jurisdictional error --- Interference declined.

HELD: Jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution is supervisory and not appellate; the Court does not re-appreciate evidence or substitute its own conclusions merely because another view is possible, and interference is warranted only where findings suffer from patent perversity, manifest illegality, jurisdictional error or failure of justice. The findings recorded by the courts below on bona fide requirement and comparative hardship are pure findings of fact based on appreciation of oral and documentary evidence, and no material has been placed to demonstrate perversity, patent illegality or non-consideration of evidence.

Similarly, the concurrent findings on waiver of the notice requirement do not suffer from any manifest error. No ground made out warranting interference under Article 227 of the Constitution. [Paras 49-55]

For the Respondents: Jitendra Pal Singh Chauhan

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

Heard Sri Bhavesh Singh, holding brief of Sri Arvind Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Jitendra Pal Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent.

2. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed challenging the judgment and order dated 21.12.2022 passed by the Prescribed Authority/Civil Judge (Junior Division), Najibabad, District Bijnor in P.A. Case No. 1 of 2014, instituted under Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, whereby the release application filed by the respondent-landlord in respect of a shop situated at Bazar Kalluganj, Kasba and Tehsil Najibabad, District Bijnor, was allowed and the requirement of the landlord was held to be bona fide. Challenge has also been made to the appellate judgment and order dated 16.01.2026 passed by the Additional District Judge/F.T.C.-II, Bijnor in Rent Control Appeal No. 02 of 2023, whereby the appeal preferred by the petitioner-tenant was dismissed and the findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority on the questions of waiver of the requirement of notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a), bona fide requirement and comparative hardship were affirmed.

3. The case of the petitioner is that he is a tenant of the shop in dispute at a monthly rent, allegedly inclusive of taxes, and that the tenancy commenced under the erstwhile owner of the premises, from whom the respondent-landlord subsequently purchased the property.

4. After purchase of the property, the respondent-landlord instituted release proceedings, registered as P.A. Case No. 1 of 2014, before the Prescribed Authority, Najibabad, seeking release of the shop in dispute on the ground of bona fide requirement for establishment of his son in business. The petitioner entered appearance and filed written statement denying the allegations made in the release application. The petitioner disputed the rate of rent, questioned the genuineness of the need set up by the respondent-landlord and further contended that the respondent possessed alternative accommodation. It was also pleaded that the shop in dispute was of small dimensions and was not suitable for the purpose for which release was sought.

5. An objection regarding maintainability of the release application was also raised by the petitioner on the ground that the requirement of six months prior notice, as contemplated under the first proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act, had not been complied with before institution of the proceedings on 15.01.2014.

6. The parties led oral as well as documentary evidence in support of their respective cases. Upon consideration of the material brought on record, the Prescribed Authority, by judgment and order dated 21.12.2022, allowed the release application holding the requirement of the respondent-landlord to be bona fide and further deciding the question of comparative hardship in favour of the landlord. The objection relating to non-compliance of six months notice was rejected.

7. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment, the petitioner preferred Rent Control Appeal No. 02 of 2023. During pendency of the appeal, an application for inspection was moved by the petitioner, which came to be rejected. Thereafter, the appellate court, by judgment and order dated 16.01.2026, dismissed the appeal and affirmed the findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority on the questions of waiver of the requirement of notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a), bona fide requirement and comparative hardship.

8. Challenging the aforesaid judgments and orders passed by the courts below, the present petition has been filed, inter alia, contending that the release proceedings were vitiated on account of non-compliance of the mandatory requirement of six months notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act and that the findings returned by the courts below on bona fide requirement and comparative hardship are contrary to the material available on record. It was submitted that the notice having been issued on 02.12.2013 and the release application having been instituted on 15.01.2014, the proceedings were clearly premature and, therefore, without jurisdiction.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the mandatory requirement of six months prior notice contemplated under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act goes to the very root of maintainability of the proceedings and non-compliance thereof renders the release application liable to be rejected as premature.

10. Placing reliance upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Martin & Harris Ltd. v. Additional District Judge1, it is contended that the requirement of six months notice is mandatory in nature and non-compliance thereof vitiates the entire proceedings. It is further submitted that the courts below erred in holding that the objection stood waived merely on account of participation of the petitioner in the proceedings.

11. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that the findings recorded on bona fide requirement and comparative hardship are contrary to the material available on record. It is argued that the respondent-landlord possessed alternative accommodation and that the shop in dispute, considering its size and location, was not suitable for the purpose for which release was sought. It is also contended that the courts below failed to properly appreciate the evidence led by the petitioner and have returned findings which are perverse and legally unsustainable.

12. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the respondent-landlord has supported the impugned judgments and has submitted that although the requirement of six months notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) is mandatory, the same is enacted for the benefit of the tenant and is capable of waiver. Relying upon the very same judgment in Martin & Harris Ltd. v. Additional District Judge, it is contended that the petitioner, despite having knowledge of the alleged defect, participated in the proceedings for several years, contested the matter on merits and failed to press the objection at the appropriate stage, and therefore the objection stood waived by conduct and acquiescence.

13. It is further submitted that both the courts below have concurrently recorded findings of fact regarding bona fide requirement and comparative hardship after due appreciation of oral and documentary evidence on record, and such concurrent findings do not warrant interference in exercise of writ jurisdiction.

14. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the material brought on record, the following issues arise for consideration in the present petition:-

14.1 Whether the release application instituted by the respondent-landlord under Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 was liable to be held premature on account of alleged non-compliance with the requirement of six months prior notice contemplated under the first proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act.

14.2 Whether, in the facts and circumstances of the present case, the petitioner-tenant, by prolonged participation in the proceedings and by contesting the matter on merits for several years, can be held to have waived the objection relating to non-compliance with the requirement of six months notice by raising such objection only at a highly belated stage.

15. Since the principal controversy raised in the present petition pertains to the effect of non-compliance of the requirement of six months prior notice contemplated under the first proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 and the question as to whether such objection stood waived on account of the conduct of the petitioner-tenant, it would be apposite to notice the relevant statutory provisions governing the field. Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 along with the first proviso, to the extent relevant for the present controversy, reads as under:-

"21- (1) The prescribed authority may, on an application of the landlord in that behalf, order the eviction of a tenant from the building under tenancy or any specified part thereof if it is satisfied that any of the following grounds exists; namely: "

(a) that the building is bona fide required either in its existing form or after demolition and new construction by the landlord for occupation by himself or any member of his family, or any person for whose benefit it is held by him, either for residential purposes or for purposes of any profession, trade or calling, or where the landlord is the trustee of a public charitable trust, for the objects of the trust ;

(b) that the building is in a dilapidated condition and is required for purposes of demolition and new construction :

Provided that where the building was in the occupation of a tenant since before its purchase by the landlord, such purchase being made after the commencement of this Act, no application shall be entertained on the grounds mentioned in clause (a), unless a period of three years has elapsed since the date of such purchase and the landlord has given a notice in that behalf to the tenant not less than six months before such application, and such notice may be given even before the expiration of the aforesaid period of three years :"

16. A careful reading of the aforesaid provision indicates that while the substantive part of Section 21(1)(a) confers a right upon the landlord to seek release of the tenanted premises on the ground of bona fide requirement, the proviso engrafts certain restrictions in cases where the premises was already under tenancy prior to its purchase by the landlord.

17. The proviso contemplates two distinct conditions. Firstly, a period of three years must elapse from the date of purchase of the premises by the landlord. Secondly, the tenant must be given a notice of not less than six months before institution of the application.

18. The legislative intent behind incorporation of the proviso appears to be to afford protection to an existing tenant against immediate proceedings for eviction at the instance of a subsequent purchaser and to provide reasonable time to the tenant before such proceedings are initiated.

19. At the same time, the language employed in the proviso assumes significance. The legislature has consciously used the expression □no application shall be entertained□ while prescribing the period of three years, whereas in relation to notice it has provided that the landlord □has given a notice □ not less than six months before such application□. The use of different phraseology in the same proviso cannot be regarded as accidental and must be assigned its due meaning.

20. The expression "entertained" ordinarily refers to consideration or adjudication of a matter by the authority, whereas the latter part of the proviso specifically regulates the stage prior to institution of proceedings by requiring service of notice before filing of the application. The statutory scheme, therefore, distinguishes between the stage of institution of proceedings and the stage of consideration of the application on merits.

21. The requirement of six months' notice, though couched in mandatory language and linked with institution of proceedings, is intended to secure a protective opportunity to the tenant before initiation of release proceedings. The protection contemplated by the proviso is essentially personal to the tenant and procedural in character. The provision does not affect the inherent competence or jurisdiction of the authority to adjudicate the matter, nor does it involve any element of public duty or public interest. Rather, it confers a statutory procedural safeguard capable of being availed of or waived by the tenant for whose benefit it has been enacted.

22. The scheme of the provision thus indicates that while non-compliance of the notice requirement may render the institution of the proceedings premature, the protection nevertheless remains one enacted for the benefit of the tenant and not a condition affecting the inherent competence or jurisdiction of the authority to adjudicate the matter. The proviso does not involve any element of public duty or public interest; rather, it confers a statutory procedural safeguard capable of being availed of, waived or relinquished by the tenant for whose benefit it has been enacted.

23. Since the protection contemplated under the proviso is enacted for the benefit of the sitting tenant, the same is capable of waiver. Consequently, where the tenant, despite knowledge of the alleged defect, does not raise timely objection regarding notice and instead contests the matter on merits, such conduct may amount to acquiescence and relinquishment of the procedural protection available under the proviso.

24. A statutory requirement, even if mandatory in form, does not invariably become incapable of waiver. The determinative test is whether the provision has been enacted in public interest or merely for the benefit of an individual. Where the condition prescribed by the statute exists solely for safeguarding the rights of a particular party, such party may relinquish or abandon the benefit either expressly or by conduct. The doctrine of waiver proceeds on the principle that a person may renounce a right introduced for his own benefit, provided no public interest is affected. Accordingly, objection regarding non-compliance of the notice requirement under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a), if not raised at the appropriate stage, cannot subsequently be permitted to invalidate the proceedings after the tenant has already participated in the adjudication on merits.

25. The failure to comply with the requirement of six months' notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) would ordinarily amount to a procedural irregularity and not a nullity, particularly where waiver is established from the conduct of the tenant. A defect may be treated as a nullity where the provision violated is founded upon considerations of public policy or goes to the root of inherent jurisdiction in a manner incapable of waiver by the affected party. Conversely, where the objection is one capable of waiver and the statutory protection exists solely for the benefit of an individual, breach thereof does not render the proceedings void ab initio. Thus, once the tenant submits to the jurisdiction of the authority and participates in the proceedings without raising timely objection regarding notice, the release proceedings cannot subsequently be assailed solely on that ground.

26. In Martin & Harris Ltd. the Supreme Court held that although the requirement of six months' notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) is mandatory, the same is nevertheless capable of waiver since the protection is intended solely for the benefit of the tenant. The Court observed that where the tenant, despite being aware that the release application had been filed prior to expiry of six months from the date of notice, participated in the proceedings on merits and failed to pursue the objection at the appropriate stage, such conduct would amount to conscious waiver of the statutory protection. The Supreme Court noticed that although the objection regarding the premature institution of the release application had initially been taken in the written statement, the tenant thereafter joined issues on merits before the Prescribed Authority, did not raise the plea in appeal and sought to revive the objection only at a belated stage. In that context, the Court observed as follows:

" 12. However the further question survives for consideration, namely, whether the beneficial provision enacted by the legislature in this connection for the protection of the tenant could be and in fact was waived by the tenant. So far as this question is concerned on the facts of the present case the answer must be in the affirmative. As we have noted earlier after the suit was filed the appellant filed its written statement on 17-9-1986. In the said written statement the appellant, amongst others, did take up the contention that the application as filed by the respondent-landlord under Section 21(1)(a) was not maintainable and was premature as six months' period had not expired since the service of notice dated 20-9-1985 when the suit was filed. But curiously enough thereafter the said contention raised by the appellant in written statement was given a go-by for reasons best known to the appellant. It is easy to visualise that if at that stage the appellant had pressed for rejection of the application on the ground of Section 21(1)(a) as not showing completed cause of action due to non-expiry of six months from the date of service of notice invoking Order VII Rule 11(a) and (d) CPC, alleging that the plaint did not disclose a cause of action or it appeared to be barred by law, respondent-plaintiff could have withdrawn the suit on that ground under Order XXIII Rule 1 sub-rule (3) CPC as the suit based on grounds under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act would have been shown to have suffered from a formal defect and he would have been entitled to claim liberty to file a fresh suit on the same cause of action after the expiry of six months' period from the date of service of notice. That opportunity was lost to the respondent-landlord as the appellant did not pursue this contention any further. On the contrary the appellant joined issues on merits by seeking permission to cross-examine the plaintiff on merits of the case on grounds as pleaded under Section 21(1)(a) of the Act. When the decree was passed against the appellant, even while challenging the said decree in appeal no such ground was taken in the memo of appeal, nor was it argued before the first appellate court. Under these circumstances, the High Court rightly held that the contention, regarding the suit being premature as filed before expiry of six months from the date of the notice, must be treated to have been waived by the appellant .”

27. The principle that even a mandatory statutory requirement may be waived where it is enacted solely for the benefit of an individual has consistently been recognised in judicial precedent. In Vellayan Chettiar v. Government of the Province of Madras2, the Privy Council held that although notice under Section 80 C.P.C. is mandatory, defect or absence thereof would not render the proceedings void since the protection is intended for the benefit of the person concerned and may therefore be waived. The same principle was reiterated in Dhirendra Nath Gorai v. Sudhir Chandra Ghosh3, S. Raghbir Singh Gill v. S. Gurcharan Singh Tohra4, Lachoo Mal v. Radhey Shyam5 and Indira Bai v. Nand Kishore6, and it was consistently held that where a statutory protection is enacted for the benefit of an individual and is not founded upon considerations of public policy, the same is capable of waiver and breach thereof would not render the proceedings void ab initio.

28. The aforesaid principles were comprehensively considered in Krishan Lal v. State of Jammu & Kashmir7, wherein the Supreme Court drew a distinction between provisions enacted in public interest and those intended solely for the benefit of an individual. The Court held that where the statutory requirement is personal in nature and capable of waiver, non-compliance thereof would not ipso facto render the proceedings a nullity.

29. The judgment in Krishan Lal also took note of the principles stated in leading authorities on statutory interpretation and administrative law including Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes8, Craies on Statute Law9, Crawford on Interpretation of Laws10, Francis Bennion11 on Statutory Interpretation and H.W.R. Wade12 on Administrative Law, all of which recognise the principle embodied in the maxim quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se introducto, namely that a person may waive the benefit of a law enacted solely for his private protection, provided no question of public right or public policy is involved. In this regard, Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes states as follows:

"Everyone has a right to waive and to agree to waive the advantage of a law made solely for the benefit and protection of the individual in his private capacity, which may be dispensed with without infringing any public right or public policy, Cuilibet licet renuntiare juri pro se introducto."

30. The same principle has been reiterated in Craies on Statute Law in the following terms:

"If the object of a statue is not one of general policy, or if the thing which is being done will benefit only a particular person or class of persons, then the conditions prescribed by the statute are not considered as being indispensable..."

31. A similar principle has been noticed by H.W.R. Wade in Administrative Law, while quoting Lord Denning in Wells v. Minister of Housing and Local Government, wherein it was observed that:

"a defect in procedure can be cured, and an irregularity can be waived, even by a public authority, so as to render valid that which would otherwise be invalid."

32. The distinction between a nullity and an irregularity was elaborately explained by a Full Bench of the Calcutta High Court in Ashutosh Sikdar v. Behari Lal Kirtania13, referring to Macnamara on □Nullities and Irregularities□ and the judgment in Holmes v. Russell14. It was observed that the effect of breach of a statutory provision must be determined having regard to the nature, scope and object of the provision violated. The Court explained that an irregularity is merely a deviation from prescribed procedure which does not destroy the foundation of the proceeding, whereas a nullity is a proceeding wholly without authority. The □workable test□ laid down in Holmes v. Russell is that where the objection is capable of waiver, the defect amounts to an irregularity; where it is incapable of waiver, the defect may assume the character of a nullity.

33. The legal position with regard to the notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) being mandatory yet subject to the doctrine of waiver has also been recognised by this Court in Anoop Kumar & Ors. v. Doongermal Singodiya & Anr.15 and also in Smt. Kamla Devi v. Ikram Ali16, wherein it was held that failure to raise objection regarding notice at the appropriate stage would amount to waiver and the defect would constitute only an irregularity and not a nullity.

34. The requirement of six months□ notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a), though mandatory in nature, having been held in Martin & Harris Ltd. to be subject to waiver, non-compliance thereof would not render the proceedings void ab initio. Since the objection is one capable of waiver and does not involve any question of public policy or inherent lack of jurisdiction, breach thereof would ordinarily amount to a procedural irregularity and not a nullity, particularly where waiver is established from the conduct of the tenant. The consequence of waiver is not that the statutory requirement ceases to be mandatory, but that the beneficiary of such protection becomes disentitled from impeaching the proceedings on that ground.

35. The principle of waiver in such cases does not retrospectively validate the initial procedural defect; it merely disentitles the tenant, by reason of conscious acquiescence, from assailing the proceedings on that ground at a belated stage.

36. The doctrine of waiver in relation to an objection regarding notice or the premature institution of proceedings under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 may arise in different factual situations. Waiver may readily be inferred where no objection regarding notice or premature institution of proceedings is raised despite participation in the proceedings. Equally, waiver may arise where such objection, though initially raised, is subsequently abandoned, not pressed or consciously given up during the course of proceedings. However, there may also arise cases where the tenant, despite full knowledge of the alleged defect from the inception, participates in the proceedings for a prolonged period, contests the matter extensively on merits and raises the objection only at a highly belated stage after substantial progress of adjudication. In such cases also, the Court may examine whether the cumulative conduct of the tenant demonstrates acquiescence and relinquishment of the procedural protection available under the proviso.

37. A distinction must, however, be maintained between cases where objection is raised with reasonable promptitude at the threshold stage and cases where the party, despite full knowledge of the alleged defect from the inception, permits the proceedings to continue substantially on merits and seeks to invoke the objection only at a highly belated stage after considerable advancement of adjudication. A procedural protection intended for the benefit of a party must ordinarily be invoked with reasonable diligence and promptitude; otherwise, prolonged participation in the proceedings may itself furnish evidence of acquiescence. In the latter category of cases, the Court is required to examine not merely the formal existence of an objection in pleadings, but the entire conduct of the party throughout the proceedings in order to determine whether the procedural protection stood waived by acquiescence, deliberate inaction or conduct inconsistent with an intention to insist upon such procedural protection at the appropriate stage. Whether belated assertion of such objection amounts to waiver would necessarily depend upon the facts of each case, the stage at which the objection is raised and the overall conduct of the parties.

38. The doctrine of waiver is founded not merely upon express relinquishment of a right but equally upon conduct inconsistent with an intention to insist upon such right. Therefore, where a tenant knowingly participates in proceedings for a prolonged duration, invites adjudication on merits, files applications, evidence, interrogatories or other pleadings and permits the matter to proceed substantially without questioning maintainability at the threshold, the Court may legitimately infer that the tenant elected not to insist upon the procedural protection available under the proviso. Mere eventual incorporation of an objection in pleadings at a belated stage cannot by itself exclude waiver, for otherwise a party could continue participating in proceedings, test the outcome on merits and thereafter revive a procedural objection available from the very inception.

39. The law on the point is that the notice contemplated under the proviso, though mandatory in character, is enacted for the personal benefit of the sitting tenant and is therefore capable of waiver. Such waiver may be express or implied from acquiescence, inaction or prolonged participation in proceedings on merits. The true test is one of cumulative conduct. Thus, where the tenant, despite being aware of the alleged defect from the inception, fails to press the objection at the appropriate stage, permits the proceedings to progress substantially, joins issue on bona fide requirement and comparative hardship, invokes procedural remedies and seeks to revive the objection only at a belated stage after considerable advancement of the proceedings, the Court may legitimately infer conscious relinquishment of the procedural safeguard. Mere delay may not by itself amount to waiver; however, substantial delay coupled with active participation in proceedings on merits may justify such inference. The law does not countenance a course by which a party keeps such objection in reserve, contests the matter on merits and, upon apprehending an adverse outcome, seeks to invalidate the proceedings on a defect which was available from the very beginning. Equally, a landlord who has prosecuted proceedings on the legitimate assumption that no serious objection regarding maintainability survives cannot ordinarily be non-suited at an advanced stage merely because the tenant belatedly invokes a procedural defect already within his knowledge.

40. Accordingly, particularly in cases where objection regarding the premature institution of proceedings or maintainability is raised only after prolonged participation in proceedings on merits, the issue of waiver must be examined on the basis of a cumulative assessment of the entire conduct of the party throughout the proceedings and not merely on the basis of eventual incorporation of a formal plea in pleadings. While adjudicating such issue, the Court may ordinarily consider the following relevant factors:

(i) whether the objection regarding premature institution of proceedings or want of statutory notice was raised at the threshold stage immediately upon appearance in the proceedings or, on the contrary, withheld despite knowledge of the alleged defect from the inception;

(ii) whether, after raising such objection, the party pursued the same with reasonable diligence and sought adjudication thereof at the earliest appropriate stage, or instead permitted the proceedings to continue substantially on merits;

(iii) whether the party actively participated in the proceedings for a prolonged duration by filing applications, affidavits, evidence, cross-examination applications or other pleadings inconsistent with an intention to challenge maintainability at the threshold;

(iv) whether the objection came to be pressed only after substantial progress of the proceedings, particularly after advancement of evidentiary stages or near culmination of adjudication on merits;

(v) whether the cumulative conduct of the party indicates acquiescence in continuation of the proceedings and an election to contest the matter on merits rather than insist upon the procedural protection available under the proviso, or suggests that the objection was retained merely as a technical plea to be invoked at a convenient stage after testing the merits of the case; and

(vi) whether permitting belated invocation of such objection would result in frustrating adjudication on merits despite prolonged participation and prior acquiescence of the objecting party.

41. The aforesaid factors are illustrative and not exhaustive, and the question of waiver must ultimately depend upon the facts and conduct emerging in each individual case.

42. Where these factors cumulatively indicate conscious inaction, prolonged participation in proceedings without timely protest, repeated submission to the adjudicatory process and conduct inconsistent with an intention to insist upon the procedural protection at the appropriate stage, the Court may legitimately infer waiver notwithstanding eventual assertion of such objection at a later stage of the proceedings.

43. Applying the aforesaid principles to the facts of the present case, it is evident that both the courts below have concurrently recorded a categorical finding that the petitioner-tenant did not raise any objection regarding non-compliance of the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 at the threshold stage and continued participating in the proceedings for a prolonged period after institution of the release application. The release application was instituted on 15.01.2014. The petitioner entered appearance on 22.04.2014 and thereafter actively participated in the proceedings by filing interrogatories under Section 34(1)(d) of the Act on 15.07.2014, seeking adjournments on various dates and contesting the matter on merits. However, no objection regarding want of six months notice was raised at the initial stage of the proceedings. Both the Prescribed Authority as well as the Appellate Court have specifically recorded that such objection came to be raised for the first time only in the written statement filed on 23.11.2021, i.e. after lapse of more than seven years from institution of the release proceedings.

44. The order-sheet of the proceedings reflects that after appearance on 15.07.2014, the petitioner repeatedly sought adjournments for filing written statement and the proceeding continued at that stage for several years. After disposal of the application Ga-12 on 29.10.2018, the Prescribed Authority specifically directed the petitioner to file written statement forthwith while observing that the controversy had remained pending for nearly four years at the stage of written statement. Despite such direction, the written statement ultimately came to be filed only on 23.11.2021. Thereafter , the proceedings continued extensively on issues relating to evidence, applications for cross-examination, handwriting expert examination, filing of affidavits, rebuttal evidence and final arguments, culminating in judgment dated 21.12.2022. The record thus demonstrates prolonged participation in the proceedings over several years after entering appearance before the Prescribed Authority.

45. The courts below, while considering the conduct of the petitioner throughout the proceedings, have drawn an inference that the petitioner, despite having full knowledge of the proceedings and despite participating therein for several years, consciously chose not to object to the alleged defect relating to notice at the appropriate stage and, therefore, waived such objection.

46. In Martin & Harris Ltd., while considering the effect of non-compliance with the six months notice contemplated under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a), the Supreme Court held that although the tenant had initially raised an objection regarding the premature institution of the release application, the same was subsequently abandoned by participating in the proceedings on merits and by failing to pursue the objection either before the Prescribed Authority or in appeal. The Court observed that the requirement of six months notice was enacted solely for the benefit and protection of the tenant and therefore was capable of waiver. Referring to the distinction between a statutory bar going to the root of maintainability and a protection intended for the benefit of a party, the Court held that where the provision merely affords protection to a party, such protection can be waived by the party. He may avail of it or he may not avail of it as he may choose. The Court further held that once the tenant failed to press the objection at the appropriate stage and joined issue on merits, the landlord altered his position irretrievably and it was not open to the tenant to revive such objection at a belated stage after concurrent findings had been recorded on merits.

47. In the present case, the objection regarding non-compliance of the requirement of six months notice was neither raised at the threshold stage nor pursued with reasonable promptitude. On the contrary, the petitioner participated in the release proceedings for several years, contested the matter extensively on merits by disputing the landlord's bona fide requirement, comparative hardship and availability of alternative accommodation, and permitted the proceedings to advance substantially before introducing the objection for the first time in the written statement filed after more than seven years from institution of the release application. The factual position in the present case thus stands on an even stronger footing than in Martin & Harris Ltd., where the objection had at least initially been raised though subsequently not pursued. The cumulative conduct of the petitioner, as noticed by both the authorities below, was therefore rightly treated as indicative of acquiescence and relinquishment of the procedural protection available under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the Act.

48. Thus, the inference drawn by the authorities below is that the petitioner, by his prolonged participation in the proceedings without raising timely objection, acquiesced in the continuation of the release proceedings and cannot subsequently seek to invalidate the same on a procedural ground which was available to him from the very inception. The findings recorded by the authorities below proceed on the principle that a procedural objection intended for the tenant□s personal benefit must be asserted with reasonable promptitude and, if not so asserted, may legitimately be treated as waived by conduct.

49. Accordingly, in view of the discussions made hereinabove, this Court finds no illegality, perversity or jurisdictional error in the concurrent findings recorded by the Prescribed Authority as well as the Appellate Court. Both the authorities below have rightly held that although the requirement of six months□ notice under the proviso to Section 21(1)(a) of the U.P. Act No.13 of 1972 is mandatory in nature, the same being a procedural protection intended for the benefit of the tenant was capable of waiver and, in the facts of the present case, stood waived on account of the petitioner□s prolonged participation in the proceedings without raising timely objection.

50. The objection regarding maintainability of the release application on account of alleged non-compliance of six months□ notice having been raised for the first time after more than seven years from institution of the proceedings, the courts below were justified in drawing an inference of waiver from the conduct of the petitioner. The findings so recorded are based on appreciation of pleadings and conduct of the parties and do not suffer from any manifest error warranting interference under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

51. No other ground has been made out to interfere with the impugned judgments and orders passed by the courts below.

52. It is well settled that jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution is supervisory and not appellate. This Court does not re-appreciate evidence or substitute its own conclusions merely because another view is possible. Interference is warranted only where findings suffer from patent perversity, manifest illegality, jurisdictional error or failure of justice. Concurrent findings of fact, particularly in rent control proceedings, ordinarily do not warrant interference unless shown to be wholly arbitrary or unsupported by evidence.

53. So far as the findings recorded by the courts below on the questions of bona fide requirement and comparative hardship are concerned, the same are pure findings of fact based upon appreciation of oral and documentary evidence on record. Both the Prescribed Authority and the Appellate Court have concurrently held the requirement of the respondent-landlord to be bona fide and have further recorded findings on comparative hardship in favour of the landlord after considering the respective pleadings and evidence relating to availability of alternative accommodation and the nature of hardship likely to be caused to the parties. No material has been placed before this Court so as to demonstrate that the findings recorded suffer from perversity, patent illegality or non-consideration of material evidence warranting interference in exercise of supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

54. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court does not find any illegality, perversity or jurisdictional error in the impugned judgment and order dated 21.12.2022 passed by the Prescribed Authority/Civil Judge (Junior Division), Najibabad, District Bijnor in P.A. Case No. 1 of 2014, nor in the appellate judgment and order dated 16.01.2026 passed by the Additional District Judge/F.T.C.-II, Bijnor in Rent Control Appeal No. 02 of 2023.

55. The concurrent findings recorded by the courts below on the issues of maintainability, bona fide requirement and comparative hardship call for no interference in exercise of supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

56. The petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE ABDUL SHAHID, J.

First Appeal No. 994 of 2026

M/S Srijan Hospital ...Appellant
Versus
Bank of Baroda ...Respondent

Issues for Consideration

Whether the trial court was justified in rejecting the plaintiff/appellant's application under Order XXXIX Rules 1 and 2 CPC for temporary injunction, where the civil suit itself was barred by Section 34 of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002, proceedings under the SARFAESI Act had already culminated in an order for possession of the mortgaged property under Section 14 of the Act, and the plaintiff had approached the court concealing material facts and after materially altering the purpose for which the loan facility was sanctioned.

Headnotes

Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 --- ss.14, 34, 35 --- Civil court jurisdiction --- Bar --- Suit in respect of matter falling within jurisdiction of Debts Recovery Tribunal --- Possession of mortgaged property already transferred pursuant to order under s.14 --- Suit not maintainable.

HELD:

Section 34 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002 bars the jurisdiction of the civil court to entertain any suit or proceeding in respect of any matter which a Debts Recovery Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal is empowered by or under the Act to determine, and no injunction shall be granted by any court in respect of any action taken or to be taken in pursuance of any power conferred under the Act. Section 35 gives the provisions of the Act overriding effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent contained in any other law. Where the property in dispute had already been mortgaged, proceedings under the SARFAESI Act had already been initiated, possession of the mortgaged property had already been transferred pursuant to an order dated 24.12.2025 passed by the

Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue) under Section 14 of the Act, and an appeal against such proceedings was also pending, the original suit filed by the plaintiff/appellant was barred by Section 34 of the SARFAESI Act and the civil court had no jurisdiction to entertain it. [Paras 4, 5, 10, 11, 13, 14]

Contract --- Loan agreement --- LGSCAS Loan Guarantee Scheme for Covid-affected healthcare sector --- Sanctioned for construction, furnishing and purchase of equipment for hospital --- Unilateral conversion of project from hospital to hotel without prior approval --- Fundamental breach.

HELD:
The loan amount and cash credit limit were sanctioned specifically under the LGSCAS Loan Guarantee Scheme for the Covid-affected healthcare sector, for construction of a building, furnishing, and purchase of equipment. The plaintiff/appellant's contention that he received a verbal assurance and, on that basis, converted the project from a hospital to a hotel, without obtaining any prior approval for such change of purpose, amounts to a fundamental breach of the terms on which the facility was sanctioned; the plaintiff had already constructed a G+5 storeyed hotel in place of the sanctioned hospital building. [Paras 7, 8]

Civil Procedure --- Injunction --- Person seeking equitable relief must approach court with clean hands --- Concealment of material facts, including pendency of appeal --- Disentitlement to injunction.

HELD:
A person approaching a court of law for grant of injunction must act bona fide and must approach the court with clean hands. Where the plaintiff/appellant concealed the fact of filing an appeal (Memo of Appeal No. 33 of 2026) in the pleadings before the trial court, and instituted the suit with concealment of material facts including the materially altered purpose of the loan, such conduct disentitled the plaintiff/appellant to the equitable relief of temporary injunction. [Paras 9, 12, 15]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O.XXXIX rr.1, 2 --- First Appeal from Order --- Rejection of temporary injunction affirmed --- No illegality or perversity.

HELD:
There being neither illegality nor perversity in the order of the trial court rejecting the application for temporary injunction, in view of the bar of jurisdiction under Section 34 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, the material change in the purpose of the loan effected unilaterally by the plaintiff, and the suit having been filed with concealment of material facts, the impugned order was affirmed. [Paras 16, 17]

Appeal dismissed. Impugned order dated 21.02.2026 affirmed. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Order dated 21.02.2026 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Varanasi in Original Suit No. 1758 of 2025, M/s Srijan Hospital v. Bank of Baroda, whereby application No. 6-C for temporary injunction was rejected and objection No. 35-C was disposed of.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellants: Anil Kumar Rai, Rishi Kant Rai
For the Respondents:

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff.

2. Learned counsel for the appellant has submitted that the entire loan amount was not disbursed and that, even prior to the disbursement of the entire loan amount, recovery proceedings were initiated against the appellant. Hence, he filed the original civil suit before the learned trial court.

3. He has submitted that the sanctioned loan amount was Rs. 2,84,50,000/- (Rupees Two Crores Eighty-Four Lakhs Fifty Thousand only), whereas the disbursed amount was Rs. 1,95,00,000/- (Rupees One Crore Ninety-Five Lakhs only). However, as per Annexure No. 4, being the true photocopy of the terms and conditions relied upon by the appellant, it is mentioned as ?Facility ? Term Loan (Fresh) under LGSCAS? with a limit of Rs. 259.50 lakhs (Rupees Two Crores Fifty-Nine Lakhs and Fifty Thousand only) for the purpose of construction of a building, furnishing, and purchase of equipment. Whereas, in the said agreement, which is a memorandum of entry, the nature of the facility has been mentioned as: (i) Cash Credit (Hypothecation of Stocks and Book Debts) ? Rs. 25.00 lakhs; and (ii) Term Loan (Fresh) under LGSCAS ? Rs. 259.50 lakhs. Hence, it appears that there was a cash credit limit of Rs. 25 lakhs and a term loan of Rs. 259.50 lakhs.

4. Section 34 of the Securitisation and Reconstruction of Financial Assets and Enforcement of Security Interest Act, 2002 (SARFAESI Act, 2002) is quoted hereinbelow:

"34. Civil court not to have jurisdiction. -No civil court shall have jurisdiction to entertain any suit or proceeding in respect of any matter which a Debts Recovery Tribunal or the Appellate Tribunal is empowered by or under this Act to determine and no injunction shall be granted by any court or other authority in respect of any action taken or to be taken in pursuance of any power conferred by or under this Act or under the Recovery of Debts Due to Banks and Financial Institutions Act, 1993 (51 of 1993)."*

5. It is also mentioned in Section 35 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, which is quoted hereinbelow:

"35. The provisions of this Act to override other laws.-The provisions of this Act shall have effect, nothwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or any instrument having effect by virtue of any such law."*

6. The learned trial court rejected Application No. 6-C and disposed of Objection No. 35-C. The application for temporary injunction filed by the appellant/plaintiff under Order XXXIX Rules 1 and 2 C.P.C. was rejected by a detailed order dated 21.02.2026, which is under challenge before this Court in the present appeal.

7. The learned trial court specifically held that the purpose and utilization of the loan are required to be considered. The defendant submitted Paper No. 19-C. As per the said document, the bank had sanctioned the LGSCAS loan guarantee scheme for the Covid-affected healthcare sector for construction of the building, furnishing, and purchase of equipment.

8. The loan amount and cash credit limit were accordingly provided. The contention of the appellant/plaintiff is that he received verbal assurance and, therefore, converted the project from a hospital to a hotel. Such conduct amounts to a fundamental breach, as the loan amount and the cash credit limit were sanctioned specifically for construction of a building for the Covid-affected healthcare sector, including furnishing and purchase of equipment. However, without obtaining any prior approval for change of purpose, the appellant himself converted the hospital project into a hotel project. The plaintiff/appellant has already constructed a G+5 storeyed hotel in place of the aforesaid hospital building.

9. The learned trial court has relied upon the law laid down by the Supreme Court in M/S Gujarat Bottling Co. Ltd. & Ors. vs. The Coca Cola Co. & Ors., wherein it has been held that a person approaching a court of law for grant of injunction must act bona fide and must approach the Court with clean hands.

10. The bank placed before the learned trial court a copy of the order passed by the learned Additional District Magistrate (Finance and Revenue), Varanasi Zone, District Varanasi in Case No. 7873 of 2025 dated 24.12.2025, whereby an order for taking possession of the mortgaged property in question was passed.

11. Learned counsel for the bank has also relied upon Section 34 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002, contending that the civil court has no jurisdiction in the matter. An appropriate order under Section 14 of the Act has already been passed by the competent authority with regard to the property in question.

12. The defendant has also brought on record Memo of Appeal No. 33 of 2026 (M/s Srijan Hospital Versus Bank of Baroda). The learned trial court has further held that the plaintiff had concealed the fact of filing the said appeal in the pleadings before the trial court.

13. In view of the aforesaid facts, circumstances, and provisions of law, it clearly appears that the original suit filed by the appellant is barred by Section 34 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002. The civil court has no jurisdiction to entertain the suit. The property in dispute has already been mortgaged, proceedings under the SARFAESI Act, 2002 have already been initiated, and possession of the mortgaged property has already been transferred vide order dated 24.12.2025.

14. The competent authority has already passed an order under Section 14 of the SARFAESI Act, 2002. The original suit has been filed with concealment of material facts. The appellant/plaintiff has materially changed the purpose of the aforesaid loan. He had entered into an agreement with the respondent-bank under the LGSCAS Loan Guarantee Scheme for construction of a building, furnishing, and purchase of equipment for the Covid-affected healthcare sector.

15. The appellant did not approach the learned trial court with clean hands and filed the original suit while concealing material facts.

16. There is neither any illegality nor perversity in the impugned order dated 21.02.2026 passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Varanasi in Original Suit No. 1758 of 2025 (M/s Srijan Hospital Versus Bank of Baroda). Accordingly, the impugned order dated 21.02.2026 is hereby affirmed.

17. The present appeal lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed. It is dismissed accordingly.

First Appeal From Order No. 1018 of 2026

Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Sushil Maheshwari & Ors. ...Respondents

Issues for Consideration

Whether the trial court was justified in rejecting the application filed by the plaintiffs/appellants under Section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 seeking leave to institute a suit for framing a scheme of management for a temple alleged to be a public religious trust, by holding that no express or implied trust for management of the temple had been established, without appreciating that the enquiry at the stage of grant of leave is confined to a prima facie assessment and does not involve adjudication of the rights of the parties.

Headnotes

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- s.92 --- Leave to institute suit --- Scope of enquiry --- Rights of parties not to be adjudicated at leave stage --- Prima facie case alone to be examined.

HELD:

While granting leave under Section 92 CPC, the court does not decide the rights of the parties and no right is adjudicated at that stage; the court has merely to see whether there is a prima facie case for granting leave to file the suit. Such order does not in any way affect the final decision, which will be given on merits after the parties have led evidence in the suit. [Paras 30, 34]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- s.92 --- Conditions for maintainability of suit --- Trust created for public purposes of charitable or religious nature --- Breach of trust or necessity of direction of court --- Relief claimed falling within reliefs enumerated in the section.

HELD:
To invoke Section 92 CPC, three conditions have to be satisfied, namely, (i) the trust is created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, (ii) there is a breach of trust or a direction of the court is necessary in the administration of such trust, and (iii) the relief claimed is one of the reliefs enumerated in the section; if any of these conditions is not satisfied, the suit falls outside the scope of the said section. [Para 27]

Trusts --- Constructive trust --- Meaning and applicability --- Arises by operation of law irrespective of intention of parties --- Public nature of temple --- Prima facie establishment.

HELD:
A constructive trust arises by operation of law, without regard to the intention of the parties to create a trust, and does not require a deed signifying institution of the trust; the function of the court is only to declare that such a trust has arisen in the past. Where the temple was in existence since long, was used by the public at large for worship, and neither party disputed its public nature, while the defendants failed to produce any documentary evidence regarding Sarvarakarship or maintenance of the temple by any predecessor prior to the first recorded Sarvarakar, the contention that the temple was of public purposes carried prima facie legal force. [Paras 31, 32, 33]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- s.92 --- Suit under Section 92 --- Nature of suit --- Representative capacity --- Public trust of religious/charitable character presupposed.

HELD:
A suit or application under Section 92 CPC has a unique characteristic; it presupposes the existence of a public trust of a religious or charitable character, and the suit can proceed only on the allegation that there is a breach of the trust and that a consequential direction from the court has become imminent. The suit is filed not in the individual capacity of the plaintiff or plaintiffs but as representatives of the public in general for vindication of public rights. [Para 19]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- s.92 --- Leave application --- Interest of applicant in trust disputed --- Court to apply mind on material on record to reach prima facie conclusion.

HELD:
Where a person claims to have an interest in the trust and the claim is disputed by the opposite party, the court should apply its mind to the question on the basis of the material on record and come to a conclusion, prima facie though it may be, on the question whether the person seeking leave can be treated to be a person having an interest in the trust. [Para 17]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- s.92 --- Rejection of leave application --- Trial court holding no express or implied trust established --- Finding perverse where public nature of temple and absence of contrary documentary material not properly appreciated --- Impugned order set aside --- Leave granted.

HELD:
The trial court, while rejecting the application for leave, failed to appreciate that the case was one of implied/constructive trust and recorded a perverse finding that the plaintiffs/appellants had failed to establish an express or implied trust for management of the temple, without properly considering the admissions of the defendants regarding appointment of persons for day-to-day management of the temple and worship, and without appreciating the public nature of the temple which was undisputed by both parties. In view of the facts and circumstances, being the public nature of the temple, and since the court at the leave stage does not decide the rights of the parties and has merely to see whether there is a prima facie case, the impugned order rejecting leave was set aside and leave to file the suit under Section 92 CPC was granted. [Paras 13, 34]

Appeal allowed. Impugned order dated 13.01.2026 rejecting leave under Section 92 CPC set aside; leave to institute the suit granted. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Judgment and order dated 13.01.2026 passed by the Additional District Judge/Fast Track Court No. 1, Etawah, in Misc. Case (Under Section 92 of C.P.C.) No. 103 of 2021, Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir Ramtal and others v. Sushil Maheshwari since deceased and another.

Appearance for Parties

For Appellant: Akash Mishra, Vishal Tandon
For Respondent: Rashid Ali, Dhiraj Srivastava, Mahesh Kumar, Shiv Bahadur Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants and the learned counsel for the defendant/respondent.

2. The present appeal has been preferred against the judgment and order dated 13.1.2026, passed by the learned Additional District Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Etawah, in Misc. Case (Under Section 92 of C.P.C.) No. 103 of 2021 (Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir Ramtal and others Vs. Sushil Maheshwari since deceased and another).

3.The case of the appellants/plaintiffs is that plaintiff no.1 is a temple which is commonly known in the public at large as Shri Ram Chandra Ji Maharaj Mandir Ramtal, situated at village Aheripur, Pargana Bharthana, District Etawah (later referred as Temple). It is stated that it is very ancient temple. There is no information or knowledge of its establishment and by whom. The said temple is established for public uses for around hundred year ago. Normally, the Sarvarakar of the temple were Baba Bairagi. The succession has been transferred on the basis of Guru-chela principle. The plaintiff nos. 2 to 4 are Sadhu Sanyasi of Bairagi person, who does not having any domestic life. The plaintiff nos. 5 and 6 are also residents of village Ahirepur. (later referred to as said village).

4. It is stated that said building of the temple is constructed over a large tract of land, in front of which a very large pond also exists, which pond is the property of the temple, and both the temple and the pond are situated and existing over an area of about 5-6 (five-six) bighas. The temple and pond are situated in the said land and is recorded in the Revenue entry No. 396 , area 71 decimals, 199M, area 1 acres and 12 decimals and 507, area 1 acres and 24 decimals, Gata No. 550 area 62 decimal. All the lands of the aforesaid four gatas is in the name of said temple. The name of plaintiff no.1/temple is continued to be recorded in the Khasra and Khatauni records of the Revenue Department, out of the total land comprised in the said gata numbers, the temple building and pond are constructed over 5-6 bighas of land and the remaining land is lying vacant nearby it. Apart from the lands of these gata numbers, one plot situated in the abadi area of village Aheripur, upon which two shops are constructed, is also the property of the temple.

5. It is stated that Sarvakar of plaintiff no.1/said temple were consistently an unmarried Sadhu Sanyasi Baba Bairagis and they have always remained the Sarvarahkar of Temple/ Plaintiff No. 1, but for the last several years, some persons having an evil intentions over the temple property, hence, one person, namely, Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas, who was a resident of Kanpur Nagar and carried on his business there and had no permanent residence in village Aheripur and only used to visit occasionally, developed malafide intentions regarding the temple and its property, and about 40 years ago, after the death of the then Sarvarakar Baba Bairagi, the said Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas, in conspiracy with the employees of the Revenue Department, got his name recorded as Sarvarakar of Plaintiff No. 1/temple in the concerned Khasra, Khatauni etc. after the death of Baba Bairagi Sarvarakar, whereas Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas was a married householder person, resided in Kanpur, and according to the tradition of the temple, since Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas was not a Baba Bairagi of the Bairagi sect, therefore he could not have been the Sarvarakar of Plaintiff No. 1, and factually also, since the said Ram Swaroop was a resident of Kanpur Nagar, it was not possible for him to look after the temple, nor was any actual care ever taken by him, nor in practice was Ram Swaroop ever the Sarvarakar of Plaintiff No. 1/temple, nor was any duty of Sarvarahkari ever performed by Ram Swaroop, and only due to collusion with the employees of the Revenue Department, the name of Ram Swaroop was recorded as Sarvarahkar of Plaintiff No. 1/said temple in the revenue records, although the employees of the Revenue Department neither had nor have any legal authority to make such an entry of Sarvarakari, nor can the same be recognized in law. In so far as the question of appointment as Sarvarakar/Sevayat of the temple is concerned, such appointment can only be made by the Civil Court, and therefore the entry of the name of Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas as Sarvarakar in the Khasra and Khatauni was having null and void from abinitio.

6. The defendant/respondent no.1, Sushil Maheshwari, who was the original defendant was not resident of the said village. Even during the pendency of litigation, Sushil Maheshwari had died and he has been substituted by his son 1/1 and 1/2, Amit and Anup Kumar, respectively, who is respondent nos. 1/1 and 1/2 in the present appeal. The original defendant (Sushil Maheshwari) was residing for the last 30-40 years in Chennai/Tamil Nadu alongwith his entire family. He was doing his business there. He used to visit in said village either once or twice in a year and and again returned to Chennai. After death of alleged Sarvarakar, Ram Swaroop son of Bhagwandas, the defendant/respondent had concocted a forged Will dated 21.12.1976 and got his name recorded in Khasra Khatauni and the name of original defendant/ Susheel Maheshwari had been substituted as Sarvarakar of plaintiff no.1/temple. The application filed by him under Section 34 of the Revenue Act before the Naib Tehsildar, Bharthana, District Etawah was accepted on 26.3.2002 and the name of Ram Swarup has been substituted with the name of Sushil Chandra, the original defendant in the revenue record. An appeal has been filed before the SDM, Bharthana which was allowed on 27.4.2004, whereas said order was set aside by the Additional Commissioner, Kanpur Zone vide order dated 28.2.2007. Hence, the initial order passed by the Naib Tehsildar, Bharthana dated 26.3.2002 is consistently in existence.

7. Learned counsel for the appellants/plaintiffs has submitted that said entries were contrary to the provision of Section 34 of the Land Revenue Act. The original defendant was not having any right towards said temple and he has always having malafide intention to destroy and disturb the moveable and immoveable properties of plaintiff no.1/temple. He has manipulated the properties of plaintiff no.1/said temple. He had not discharged his duty.

8. It is contended by the learned counsel for the plaintiff no.1/temple that the original defendant came to the said village and he is having intention to sold upon land of the said temple as well as shops, hence plaintiffs has filed said suit under Section 92 CPC alongwith an application for leave to file the said suit. The plaintiffs/appellants seeks the relief that management committee shall be framed for the maintenance of plaintiff no.1/temple.

9. The plaintiffs/appellants has preferred the present appeal on the following amongst other grounds.

10. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants submitted that after registration of the aforesaid suit, the learned trial court issued notices to the respondents for filing a reply/objection to the aforesaid application of the plaintiffs/appellants under section 92 of CPC. Thereafter the respondents initially filed their objection to the aforesaid application and the said objection was numbered as paper no. 26C and 27C. Thereafter it appears from perusal of records that the respondents again filed another objection to the aforesaid application under section 92 of C.P.C. filed by the plaintiffs/appellants and the aforesaid objection was numbered as paper no. 39C.

11. It is further reflected from perusal of records that the respondents again filed another additional objection before the learned trial court i.e. to the aforesaid application under section 92 of C.P.C. filed by the plaintiffs/appellants and the aforesaid objection was numbered as paper no. 42C.

12. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has submitted that the learned trial court without considering the specific case of the plaintiffs/appellants and by recording wrong and illegal findings has illegally and arbitrarily and in a clandestine manner passed the impugned order dated 13.01.2026 whereby the application so filed by them under section 92 of C.P.C. for grant of leave to institute the said suit has been rejected. Being aggrieved against the aforesaid order dated 13.01.2026, the present appeal is being preferred by the plaintiffs/appellants.

13. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has submitted that the learned trial court while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the present case is a case of implied trust and has thus recorded a perverse finding that the plaintiffs/appellants have failed to establish that there was either an express or implied trust for management of the daily affairs of the temple. He further submitted that learned trial court has recorded a perverse finding with respect to the fact that from the facts and circumstances of the case, it was not established that there existed any express or implied trust for management of the temple and its properties and it has been further observed illegally that it was not reflected from the records that the Sarvrahkar was not looking after the affairs of the temple personally. However, in that regard it is submitted that the opposite parties/defendants have themselves admitted in their objection 26C and 27C that earlier Ramswaroop had kept a Baba for taking care of the day to day affairs of the temple and thereafter several persons have been assigned the said duty from time to time.

14. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has submitted that the learned trial court, while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the defendants are residents of Chennai and very seldom they come to visit the village to take care of the daily affairs of the temple. It is further submitted that learned trial court, while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the said temple is a public temple and large number of public comes every day for worshiping there and in absence of a proper committee of management for managing the affairs of the temple, the defendants have captured the valuable assets of the said temple for their personal use. Learned trial court while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the defendants have themselves admitted in their objection/reply that Late Sushil Maheshwari became Bhumidar with Transferable rights of the properties that were belonging to the temple and his name was allegedly recorded in the revenue records in the said capacity. Thus, it is most respectfully submitted here that from the above mentioned facts it is absolutely established that the defendants are claiming themselves to be the owners of the properties that are belonging to the temple which itself shows their malafide intention of misappropriating such property.

15. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has submitted that the learned court below, while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to appreciate the fact that the defendants have no interest in managing the daily affairs of the temple and they only want to sell of the valuable properties that belong to the plaintiff no. 1 temple. It is further submitted that the learned trial court, while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to apply the actual import of Section 92 C.P.C. which clearly lays down that the aim of the said section is to protect the right of the public in such trusts and to stop any such misuse of the property of the said trust whether express or implied. It is stated that the defendants are illegally trying to alienate the movable and immovable properties of the temple and and are also openly saying in the village that they are the owners of the said temple and its properties and as such they can dispose the said the said properties as per their will and as such the lower court ought to have granted permission to the plaintiffs/appellants to file a suit for preservation of such properties of the temple by creating a committee of management.

16. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has submitted that the said temple is a public temple and thousands of devotees come to visit the temple for worshiping the deity and if the properties of the temple are not preserved by order of Hon'ble Courts then the public at large shall suffer irreparable loss and injury. It is submitted that the plaintiffs have clearly established from their pleadings before the trial court that there existed a trust for public purpose of a religious nature for managing the affairs of the temple but the learned trial court has illegally recorded a perverse finding in that regard in the impugned judgement. The learned trial court, while passing the impugned judgement, has miserably failed to consider that a suit under Section 92 C.P.C. is a suit of special nature which pre-supposes the existence of a public trust of a religious or a charitable character and such a suit can proceed on the allegation that there was a breach of such trust or that the direction of the court is necessary for the administration of the trust and the pleadings and evidence adduced by the plaintiffs'/appellants.

17. Learned counsel for the appellants has relied on the law laid by this Court in Ambrish Kumar Singh Vs. Raja Abhushan Bran Bramhshah and others; AIR 1989 Alld. 194 and relied on paragraph nos. 10 and 15 which read as under:-

"10 Section 92, Civil Procedure Code was amended by the Civil Procedure Code (Amendment) Act, 1976. Before this amendment suit could be filed either by the Advocate-General or two or more persons having interest in the trust and having obtained consent in writing of the Advocate-General. After the amendment the words "the consent in writing of that Advocate-General" were substituted by the words "leave of the court."

While granting leave the court does not decide the rights of the parties. No right is adjudicated at this stage. The, Court has merely to see whether there is a prima facie case for granting leave to file a suit. This order does not in any way affect the final decision which will be given on merit after the parties have led evidence in the suit.

15. Sri K.N. Tripathi referred to a decision of this Court reported in 1987 All LJ 369, Mahanth Gurmukh Das v. Bhupal Singh wherein it has been held:-

"When a person claims to have an interest in the trust and the claim is disputed by the opposite party, the Court should apply its mind to the question on the basis of the material on record and come to a conclusion, prima facie though it may be, on the question whether the person seeking its leave can be treated to be a person having an interest in the trust."

18. Learned counsel for the plaintiffs/appellants has further relied on the judgment rendered in Operation Asha Vs. Shelly Batra and others; (2026) 1 SCC 569 and he relied on paragraph nos. 125 and 129 which are as follows:-

"125. Most common law jurisdictions are accepting towards the doctrine of constructive trust as adopted in England i.e. the institutional model rather than a purely remedial one. Therefore, jurisprudentially there would remain no bar for India to also adopt such an approach. We say so also because, the Trusts Act, 1882 (although dealing with private trusts) recognises the concept of an English "constructive trust". Under Chapter IX titled "Obligation in the nature of trusts" delineates several provisions wherein a resulting or a constructive trust, as accepted in common law may be created. Additionally, the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Act reads as follows:

"With the few exceptions mentioned in this Statement, the rules contained in the Bill are substantially those now administered by English Courts of Equity and (under the name of "justice, equity and good conscience") by the Courts of British India.

The Bill distributes the subject under the following heads: I, Preliminary: II, the creation of trusts: III, the duties and liabilities of trustees: IV, their rights and powers: V, their disabilities: VI, the rights and liabilities of the beneficiary: VII, vacating the office of trustee: VIII, the extinction of trusts; and IX, certain obligations of the nature of trusts.

Where no trust is declared, but for the purposes of justice the law deems one to have been created, the trust is by English lawyers termed "constructive". Benami transactions, where property is transferred to A for a consideration paid by B, and B makes the payment for his own benefit, have for centuries been familiar to the people of India: gains made by one person at the cost of another are an everyday source of litigation; and in no country, owing to the extreme sub-division of immovable property and the partition of Inheritances, are constructive trusts more common. Chapter IX avoids the fiction implied in the term "constructive trusts" by treating such confidences as obligations in the nature of trusts properly so called. It specifies the fourteen principal cases in which such an obligation arises, as follows:

1. Where it does not appear that the transferor of property intended to dispose of the beneficial Interest (Section 80):

2. Where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid by another (Section 81):

3. Where the trust is incapable of execution or is executed without exhausting the property (Section 82):

4. Where a transfer of property is made for an illegal purpose (Section 83):

5. Where a bequest is made for an illegal purpose, or where the revocation of a bequest is forcibly prevented (Section 84):

6. Where a transfer is made in pursuance of a rescindable contract (Section 85):

7. Where a transfer is made in fraud of the transferor's creditors (Section 86):

8. Where a debtor becomes his creditor's legal representative (Section 87):

9. Where a pecuniary advantage is gained by a person in a fiduciary character (Section 88):

10. Where an advantage is gained by the exercise of undue influence (Section 89):

11. Where an advantage is gained by a tenant for life or other qualified owner in derogation of the rights of other persons interested in the property (Section 90):

12. Where property is acquired with notice of an existing contract affecting it (Section 91):

13. Where a person contracts to buy property to be held on trust (Section 92):

14. Where one of several compounding creditors, by a secret arrangement with the debtor, gains an advantage over his co-creditors (Section 93):

The Bill also contains a general clause (Section 94) providing for cases not so specified. It is believed that this clause will cover that form of constructive trust which the Punjab Courts have held to arise when a co-sharer in a village community absents himself without expressly abandoning his rights".

129. However, it must be noted that an institutional constructive trust would arise the very moment any fiduciary removes or diverts the property from its intended beneficiaries for his exclusive benefit or for the benefit of those who are not the intended beneficiaries. This need not necessarily be due to an intention to defraud but may also arise due to a mistake. In other words, the moment the fiduciary receives money which he cannot conscientiously retain for himself, a constructive trust would be raised in favour of the beneficiaries on whose account the money was originally received. To put it simply, the factum that the fiduciary "withheld" the property from its rightful beneficiaries must be established. This would constitute a breach of his/her fiduciary duty and this benefit which has accrued to him would be held in constructive trust. The breach of his fiduciary duty i.e. his duty towards the society and its intended beneficiaries, must exist."

19. Learned counsel for the appellants/plaintiffs has placed reliance on Gyan Prakash Chaurasia and others Vs. Bans Narain Rai and another; AIR 1991 Allahabad 266 and he relied on paragraph no.3 which reads as under:-

"3. Having heard the learned counsel for the applicant I am of the view that the revision is devoid of merits. The suit or application under Section 92 of the Code has got a unique characteristic. It pre-supposes the existence of a public trust of a religious or charitable character and the suit can proceed only on the allegation that there is a breach of the trust and a consequential direction from the court has become imminent. The plaintiff has to pray one or more reliefs specified under the section. The suit is filed not in the individual capacity as plaintiff or plaintiffs, but as representatives of the public in general for vindication of public rights. In deciding whether plaintiffs have correctly filed the suit as representatives of the public or as private individuals, apart from looking into the reliefs claimed, the court must consider the capacity in which the plaintiffs are suing and the purpose for which the sujr is brought".

20. On the other hand, learned counsel for the respondent/defendant has submitted that the application filed by the plaintiffs seeking permission to institute the suit under Section 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure is wholly false, incorrect and on concocted facts, and is not maintainable in law. There is no need for framing of scheme of administration or management committee about plaintiff no.1/said temple. The details of the properties which has been mentioned by the plaintiffs at the end of the plaint are totally false.

21. It is submitted that the land mentioned at Gata Plot No. 396 measuring 0.71 acre mentioned at Serial No. 2 and Plot No. 557 measuring 0.62 acre and Gata No. 394 area 0.275 hectare is only in the name of plaintiff no.1/temple which is entered into the name of Sarvarakar of the temple as Sushil Chandra son of Vishambhar Dayal, whereas the land mentioned at serial no. 3, Gata No. 199 area 1.12 acre and Gata No. 507 measuring 1.24 acre are recorded in the name of Shri Ram Chandra Ji Maharaj Vanshi Wale Mandir, Aheripur through Sarvarakar Ashok Kumar son of Ramswaroop, and Plot No. 550 M. is recorded in the name of Shri Ram Sanskrit Pathshala Farm, Aheripur. The said properties have no concern or connection with the temple in question, nor have they ever had any such connection, and the said plot numbers are not under dispute.

22. He has further submitted that the respondent/defendant has objected that plaintiff no.1/said temple was having its previous Sarvarakar of Shri Maharajadhiraj Shri Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Temple, Aheripur, Tehsil Bharthana, District Etawah (U.P.), namely Ramswaroop Maheshwari son of Bhagwan Das Maheshwari, resident of 111/330 Ashok Nagar, Kanpur, who, used to visit consistently to Aheripur and perform Pooja Pathshala and manage the all arrangements of the said temple. The temple and pond were constructed and built by the ancestors and elders of the family, and the land is attached to the temple was in the ownership and in Sarvakarship of ancestors of the defendant. The entire property belongs to the Maheshwari family, whereas the temple and pond are always open for publicly worship and use by every person. Here the contention of plaintiff/temple is having prima facie force that said temple is of public purposes because the first name came into Sarvakara of said temple is of Ramswaroop Maheshwari, and there is no name of any Sarvakar in the said temple whereas said temple was in existence since a long time.It is stated by the defendant/respondent that said temple and pond was constructed by their ancestors and elder persons and they were also in possession of the land adjacent to the said temple and the entire properties was of Maheshwari family. Whereas, none of the documentary evidence had been provided nor any document of Sarvakar or of maintenance of said temple by the predecessor of defendant or of any predecessor of first Sarvakar, Ram Swarup Maheshwari, whose name came into existence. Whereas the temple is of public nature it is admitted case of both plaintiffs as well as defendant.

23. The respondent/defendant had not objected that the aforesaid Ram Swarup, Sarvakar of the temple was not having any children. He has attained his old age. He was unable to properly manage the affairs of the temple due to illness and weakness, hence in such circumstances, he considered it appropriate during his lifetime to execute a Will in respect of the temple and its attached properties so that the temple, its lands and properties might remain protected and the worship and rituals of the temple might continue smoothly. Accordingly, he executed a Will dated 21-12-1976 in favour of his grandson Sushil Chandra Maheshwari son of Vishambhar Dayal Maheshwari, resident of village Aheripur, as Sarvarakar of the said temple alongwith all the properties connected with the said temple including agricultural land. The said will was prepared on 21.12.1976. It is also mentioned in the said Will, that during the lifetime of the testator, he himself would remain the Sarvarakar, owner, person in possession and overall manager of the temple and its attached properties. After his death, the said Sushil Chandra Maheshwari would become the Sarvarakar of Shri Maharajadhiraj Shri Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Temple, Aheripur, Pargana Bharthana, District Etawah, and would enjoy all rights relating to the said temple. He would look after the temple, maintain its administration and management, arrange for worship, offerings to the deity and cleanliness. In respect of the agricultural lands attached to the temple bearing Plot Nos. 557 measuring 0.62 acre and 396 measuring 0.71 acre, the said Sushil Chandra Maheshwari was given full authority and was entitled to have his name entered in the government records as Sarvarakar and to utilize the said properties for the benefit of the temple. Thereafter, the said Ramswaroop has died and upon his death on the basis of said will, the entire management and right of Sarvakar of said temple alongwith entire properties and management of all affairs of the temple was devolved in favour of Sushil Chandra Maheshwari/ respondent/ defendant, in the capacity of Sarvarakar.

24. On the basis of the aforesaid Will, Sushil Chandra filed an application for transfer of his name in the agricultural, land attached with said temple. He has moved an application for mutation before the Tehsildar being Mutation Case No. 203 of 2002 before the Court of Tehsildar, Bharthana for mutation of his name in respect of the agricultural land attached to the temple, and by order dated 06-03-2002, the name of Sushil Chandra Maheshwari has already been recorded as transferable Bhumidhar in respect of Plot Nos. 197 and 199 in the capacity of Sarvarakar. Whereas, Smt. Kasturi Devi wife of Kanhaiyalal, resident of village Aheripur, Pargana Bharthana, District Etawah, who is having one house, saw mill, flour mill and factory, executed a Will dated 17-07-1972, duly notarized, in favour of her niece Smt. Shanti Devi widow of Vishambhar Dayal, resident of village Aheripur, and given to her all rights. After death of Kasturi Devi, Smt. Shanti Devi through a written Will dated 02-12-2000, authorized her adopted son Arvind Kumar son of Late Vishambhar Dayal that, if the aforesaid property is sold, the amount received therefrom shall be utilized for the renovation and restoration of Ram Janki Temple, Ramtal. Upon the said plot, shops were constructed in the year 2012 under the supervision of Sushil Chandra Maheshwari , and the said property is under the exclusive possession of the beneficiary under the Will. Earlier the aforesaid Ramswaroop had appointed a Baba for the care, maintenance, worship and rituals of the temple, and after the death of the said Baba, Nepali Baba was appointed as the priest. Nepali Baba continuously looked after and performed worship and rituals in the said temple for about 39 years. Thereafter, Irendra Das performed worship and rituals for about 15 years, and thereafter Jeetu Gaur continued the same for about 2 years. In the year 2020, upon the desire/request of Shyamsundar Das for management and worship of the temple, the opposite party/defendant handed over the keys of the temple to the said Shyamsundar Das.

25. The respondent/defendant has further submitted that the family members of respondent/defendant and relatives are fully devoted and faithful belief in the said temple and deity and they are not any malafide intention. They had no intention to sell the property of the said temple. They are even not in the need of it. The respondent/defendant has admitted this fact that family of defendant is settled in Chennai and for business purpose, he used to visit Chennai and the original defendant are seriously ill and also getting his treatment at Chennai. When original defendant had visited to the said village, then it came to his knowledge that the said Shyamsundar has a household life and children, and in the name of saints and ascetics, he gathers anti-social elements and consumes intoxicating substances, thereby turning the temple into a centre of criminal activities and creating danger to the security of the temple. When the defendant/respondent demanded return of the keys of the temple from the said Baba Shyamsundar, he refused to hand over the same. The original defendant has filed his objection that the aforesaid Baba had sold the green standing trees situated in the compound of the said temple. He has also filed an application before the concerned police station Bakewear, but that was disposed of with saying that civil dispute is pending before the civil court. that the matter was pending before the Civil Court and returned the application.The original defendant/respondent had died and he has been substituted by his son 1/1 and 1/2 and they raises the same objection which has been raised by the original defendant, Sushil Maheshwari. He has also objected that the original defendant Sushil Maheshwari has performed all duties which was provided to him in the Will and thereafter on the basis of Will, the respondent nos. 1/1 and 1/2, Amit and Anup Kumar, are having entire control and managing the affairs of the said temple. They have also raised objection that the plaintiffs are persons of highly dubious character and are acting in collusion with one another. They maintain association with criminal-minded persons. The intention of the plaintiffs is dishonest, and they seek to illegally usurp and ruin the temple and its properties. When the defendant/respondent did not allow them to succeed in their designs, they instituted the present false suit on the basis of false and concocted facts. The defendant/respondent has stated that in view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the application of the plaintiffs/appellant seeking permission to institute the suit deserves to be dismissed with cost.

26. Learned counsel for the defendant/respondent has submitted their objection on the basis of law laid down in the Janardan Dagdu Khomane and another Vs. Eknath Bhikhu Yadav and others; 2019 (0) Supreme (SC) 1040 and he relied on paragraph nos. 33,34 and 35 which are as follows:-

"33. A constructive trust arises by operation of law, without regard to the intention of the parties to create a trust. It does not require a deed signifying the institution of trust. Under a constructive trust, the trust arises by operation of law as from the date of the circumstances which give rise to it. The function of the court is only to declare that such a trust has arisen in the past.

34. Constructive trust can arise over a wide range of situations. To quote Cardozo, J., " a constructive trust is a formula through which the conscience of equity finds expression."

35. Story on Equity Jurisprudence has explained 'Constructive Trust" as:

"One of the most common cases in which a Court of equity acts upon the ground of implied trusts in invitum, is where a party has received money which he cannot conscientiously withhold from another party. It has been well remarked, that the receiving of money which consistently with conscience cannot be retained is, in equity, sufficient to raise a trust in favour of the party for whom or on whose account it was received. This is the governing principle in all such cases. And therefore, whenever any controversy arises, the true question is, not whether money has been received by a party of which he could not have compelled the payment, but whether he can now, with a safe conscience, ex aequo et bono, retain it. Illustrations of this doctrine are familiar in cases of money paid by accident, or mistake, or fraud. And the difference between the payment of money under a mistake of fact, and a payment under a mistake of law, in its operation upon the conscience of the party, presents the equitable qualifications of the doctrine in a striking manner. It is true that Courts of Law now entertain jurisdiction in many cases of this sort where formerly the remedy was solely in Equity; as for example, in an action of assumption for money had and received, where the money cannot conscientiously be withheld by the party; following out the rule of the Civil Law; Quod condition in debiti non datur uitra, quam locupletior factus est, qui accepit. But this does not oust the general jurisdiction of Courts of Equity over the subject-matter, which had for many ages before been in full exercise, although it renders a resort to them for relief less common, as well as less necessary, than it formerly was. Still, however, there are many cases of this sort where it is indispensable to resort to Courts of Equity for adequate relief and especially where the transactions are complicated, and a discovery from the defendant is requisite."

27. Learned counsel for the defendant/respondent has also placed reliance on the law laid down by the Supreme court in Bishwanath and another Vs. Sri Thakur Radha Ballabhli and others; 1967(0) Supreme (SC) 38 and he relied on paragraph no.7 which reads as under:-

"7. It is settled law that to invoke S.92 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 3 conditions have to be satisfied, namely, (i) the trust is created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, (ii) there was a breach of trust or a direction of Court is necessary in the administration of such a trust, and (iii) the relief claimed is one or other of the reliefs enumerated therein. If any of the 3 conditions is not satisfied, the suit falls outside the scope of the said section. A suit by an idol for a declaration of its title to property and for possession of the same from the defendant, who is in possession thereof under a void alienation, is not one of the reliefs found in S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure. That a suit for declaration that a property belongs to a trust is held to fall outside the scope of S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure by the Privy Council in Abdur Rahim v. Abu Mahomed Barkat Ali, 55 Ind App 96 and by this Court in Pragdasli Guru Bhagwandasji v. Ishwarlalbhai Narsibhai, 1932 SCR 513:, on the ground that a relief for declaration is not one of the reliefs enumerated in S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure. So too, for the same reason a suit for a declaration that certain properties belong to a trust and for possession thereof from the alienee has also been held to be not covered by the provisions of S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure: See Mukhda Mannudas Bairagi v. Chagan Kisan Bhawasar, ILR(1957) Bom 809. Other decisions have reached the same result on a different ground, namely, that such a suit is one for the enforcement of a private right. It was held that a suit by an idol as a juristic person against persons who interfered unlawfully with the property of the idol was a suit for enforcement of its private right and was, therefore, not a suit to which S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure applied: See (Darshan Lal v. Shibji Mahraj Birajman, ILR 45 All 215 and Madhavrao Anandrao v. Shri Omkareshvar Ghat, 31 Bom LR 192. The present suit is filed by the idol for possession of its property from the person who is in illegal possession thereof and, therefore, it is a suit by the idol to enforce its private right. The suit also is for a declaration of the plaintiff s title and for possession thereof and is, therefore, not a suit for one of the reliefs mentioned in S. 92 of the Code of Civil Procedure. In either view, this is a suit outside the purview of S. 92 of the said Code and, therefore, the said section is not a bar to its maintainability."

28. Section 92 CPC provides public charities which reads as under:-

"92.Public charities.(1) In the case of any alleged breach of any express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature, or where the direction of the Court is deemed necessary for the administration of any such trust, the Advocate-General, or two or more persons having an interest in the trust and having obtained the [leave of the Court,] may institute a suit, whether contentious or not, in the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction or in any other Court empowered in that behalf by the State Government within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the whole or any part of the subject-matter of the trust is situate to obtain a decree-

(a) removing any trustee;

(b) appointing a new trustee;

(c) vesting any property in a trustee;

(cc) directing a trustee who has been removed or a person who has ceased to be a trustee, to deliver possession of any trust property in his possession to the person entitled to the possession of such property;]

(d) directing accounts and inquiries;

(e) declaring what proportion of the trust property or of the interest therein shall be allocated to any particular object of the trust;

(f) authorising the whole or any part of the trust property to be let, sold, mortgaged or exchanged;

(g) settling a scheme; or

(h) granting such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.

(2) Save as provided by the Religious Endowments Act, 1863 (20 of 1863), [or by any corresponding law in force in [the territories which, immediately before the 1st November, 1956, were comprised in Part B States]], no suit claiming any of the reliefs specified in sub-section (1) shall be instituted in respect of any such trust as is therein referred to except in conformity with the provisions of that sub-section.

[(3) The Court may alter the original purposes of an express or constructive trust created for public purposes of a charitable or religious nature and allow the property or income of such trust or any portion thereof to be applied cypres in one or more of the following circumstances, namely:-

(a) where the original purposes of the trust, in whole or in part,-

(i) have been, as far as may be, fulfilled; or

(ii) cannot be carried out at all, or cannot be carried out according to the directions given in the instrument creating the trust or, where there is no such instrument, according to the spirit of the trust; or

(b) where the original purposes of the trust provide a use for a part only of the property available by virtue of the trust; or

(c) where the property available by virtue of the trust and other property applicable for similar purposes can be more effectively used in conjunction with, and to that end can suitably be made applicable to any other purpose, regard being had to the spirit of the trust and its applicability to common purposes; or

(d) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, were laid down by reference to an area which then was, but has since ceased to be, a unit for such purposes; or

(e) where the original purposes, in whole or in part, have, since they were laid down,-

(i) been adequately provided for by other means, or

(ii) ceased, as being useless or harmful to the community, or

(iii) ceased to be, in law, charitable, or

(iv) ceased in any other way to provide a suitable and effective method of using the property available by virtue of the trust, regard being had to the spirit of the trust."

29. In the aforesaid definition, Section 92 CPC, the words express or constructive trust created for public purposes are used by the wisdom of legislature. As per Section 92(d) directing accounts and inquiries; (g) settling a scheme; and clause (h) granting such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.

30. In the present case, leave to application for filing suit under Section 92 CPC has been filed alongwith copy of the plaint. It is the contention of the learned counsel for the appellants/plaintiffs that said temple is a public temple and large number of public comes every day for worship there and there is need of proper committee of management for managing the affairs of the temple. Whereas, it is held by this Court in Ambrish Kumar Singh(supra) that while granting leave the court does not decide the rights of the parties. No right is adjudicated at this stage. The, court has merely to see whether there is a prima facie case for granting leave to file a suit. This order does not in any way affect the final decision which will be given on merit after the parties have led evidence in the suit.

31. The doctrine of constructive trust has been discussed by the Supreme Court of India in Operation Asha (supra). It is also submission of the respondent/defendant that the temple and pond were constructed and built by the ancestors and elders of the family and the land is attached to the temple which was in the ownership and Sarvarakarship of the ancestors of defendant/respondent. The entire properties belong to Maheshwari family, whereas the temple and pond are always open for public worship and used by every person. Hence, contention and submission of the learned counsel for the appellants/plaintiffs/temple is having, prima facie, legal force that the said temple is of public purposes.

32. The defendant/respondent has mentioned that the first name of Sarvarakar of the said temple is of Sri late Ram Swarup Maheshwari and there is no name of any Sarvarakar prior to him in the said temple. Whereas, it is prima facie clear from the facts that the temple was in existence since long time and used by public at large. Whereas, none of the documentary evidence has been produced about Sarvakarship or of maintenance of said temple by the predecessor of the defendant/respondent or of any predecessor of first Sarvarakar, late Ram Swarup Maheshwari. It is the first name which came into existence, whereas, public nature of the temple is not disputed by the both parties.

33. It is held by the Supreme Court in Janardan Dagdu Khomane (supra) that constructive trust arises by operation of law, without regard to the intention of the parties to create a trust.

34. In view of facts and circumstances of the case, being public nature of temple and while granting leave, the court does not decide rights of the parties and no right is adjudicated at this stage. The court has merely to see that there is prima facie case for grant of leave to file the suit. This order does not in any way affect the final decision which will be given on merits after the parties have led evidences in the suit. Hence, the impugned order dated 13.1.2026, passed by the learned Additional District Judge/Fast Track Court No.1, Etawah, in Misc. Case (Under Section 92 of C.P.C.) No. 103 of 2021 (Ramchandra Ji Maharaj Virajman Mandir Ramtal and others Vs. Sushil Maheshwari since deceased and another), is hereby set aside and the leave to file original suit under Section 92 CPC is hereby allowed.

35. The present appeal is accordingly, allowed.

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the judgment of the first appellate court, reversing the decree of the trial court without framing points for determination, complies with the mandatory requirement of Order XLI Rule 31 C.P.C.?
(ii) Whether such non-compliance renders the judgment of the first appellate court unsustainable, warranting it being set aside without examination of the merits?

(iii) Whether the matter is liable to be remanded to the first appellate court for fresh decision in accordance with Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 C.P.C.?

Headnotes

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O. XLI Rr. 30 and 31 --- First appeal --- Judgment of appellate court --- Mandatory contents.

HELD: The first appellate court, while deciding a first appeal, is bound to follow the procedure prescribed under Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 C.P.C. The judgment of the appellate court must be in writing and state the points for determination, the decision thereon, the reasons for the decision, and, where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled. [Paras 9 to 12]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O. XLI R. 31 --- Points for determination --- Decision, reasons and relief --- Interdependence.

HELD: The appellate court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial court, and the first appeal is a valuable right of the parties in which the whole case is open for re-hearing on facts and law. The judgment of the appellate court must reflect conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons on all issues arising, along with the contentions pressed by the parties. Unless the points for determination are framed, it is not possible for the appellate court to record its decision thereon, assign reasons, or grant relief. [Paras 14 to 16]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O. XLI R. 31 --- Non-framing of points for determination --- Judgment set aside without examining merits --- Remand.

HELD: The judgment and order of the first appellate court, having failed to comply with the mandatory requirement of framing points for determination under Order XLI Rule 31 C.P.C., suffered from an apparent illegality and could not be sustained. Without entering into the merits of the case, the impugned judgment was set aside on this ground alone, and the first appellate court was directed to frame the points for determination and decide the appeals afresh, recording findings and reasons in accordance with Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 C.P.C. [Paras 17 to 20]

Nomenclature of court --- Additional District Judge --- Additional Sessions Judge --- Correction directed.

HELD: The first appellate court was directed to correct the nomenclature of the court used while signing the judgment, clarifying that, the matter being civil in nature, the correct designation is "Additional District Judge" and not "Additional Sessions Judge," the latter pertaining to criminal proceedings. [Para 22]

Appeals allowed. Impugned judgment and order set aside. Matter remanded to the first appellate court to decide afresh in accordance with Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 C.P.C. (E-14)

Judgment and order dated 05.02.2026 passed by the Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Sonbhadra, in Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, Balvir Kohli v. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, connected with Civil Appeal No. 22 of 2023, Jitendra Bahadur Singh alias Ramanand Singh and others v. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, arising out of Original Suit No. 264 of 2001, Indra Bagdiya v. Balvir Kohli and others, Civil Judge, Senior Division, Robertsganj, District Sonbhadra.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellants: Sri Ghanshyam Dwivedi, Ms. Maithali Sharan Pipersenia and Sri Utsav.
For the Respondents: -

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff.

2. The present appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 05.02.2026 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Sonbhadra, in Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, Balvir Kohli Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, whereby the learned Additional District Judge has allowed Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, Balvir Kohli Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, along with connected Civil Appeal No. 22 of 2023, Jitendra Bahadur Singh alias Ramanand Singh and others Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others.

3. First Appeal From Order No. 1127 of 2026 (Indra Bagdiya Versus Balvir Kohli and others) and First Appeal From Order No. 1128 of 2026 (Indra Bagdiya Versus Vijendra Bahadur Singh @ Ramanand Singh and others) have arisen out of the common judgment and order dated 05.02.2026 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Sonbhadra, in Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, Balvir Kohli Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, whereby the learned Additional District Judge has allowed Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, Balvir Kohli Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, along with connected Civil Appeal No. 22 of 2023, Jitendra Bahadur Singh alias Ramanand Singh and others Vs. Smt. Indra Bagdiya and others, arising out of Original Suit No. 264 of 2001 (Indra Bagdiya Versus Balvir Kohli and others).

4. Hence, both these appeals are hereby consolidated to avoid multiplicity of proceedings and are being decided by this common judgment, which reads as follows:

5. The plaintiff/appellant has filed a Original Suit No. 264 of 2001 (Indra Bagdiya Versus Balvir Kohli and others) before the learned Civil Judge, Senior Division, Robertsganj, Distrtict Sonbhadra for permanent injunction that the defendants be restrained to interfere into the peaceful possession or in construction raised by the plaintiff. The suit was filed on 11.11.2001.

6. Learned trial court has decided the said original suit with a detailed judgment after appreciation of all the facts, circumstances and evidences produced by the parties on 20.04.2023. The issue no. 1 which has been framed by the learned trial court is that whether the property in dispute which is shown in the map attached with the plaint as alphabet ?, ?, ?, ? is the ownership and possession of the appellant/plaintiff.

7. The said issue has been decided with great care, caution, and proper appreciation of the evidence and the entire facts of the case, and it has been finally held that the map of the property in question is attached with the plaint, the plaintiff is the owner and in possession of the said property, and is entitled to a decree of permanent injunction. Accordingly, the suit was decreed in favour of the plaintiff/appellant.

8. Defendant No. 1, Balvir Kohli, preferred Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023, and Defendant No. 2, Vijendra Bahadur Singh, preferred Civil Appeal No. 22 of 2023 against the said judgment and order dated 20.04.2023. Both the civil appeals were clubbed together and decided by a common judgment and order dated 05.02.2026, which is under challenge before this Court.

9. At the outset, learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has submitted that the first appellate court remanded the matter without framing any specific points for determination by the learned trial court. He has further submitted that the procedure prescribed under Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (C.P.C.) has not been followed by the first appellate court.

10. It is contended that the first appellate court, while deciding a civil appeal, is required to follow the procedure prescribed under Order XLI Rules“30 and 31 of the C.P.C., which is as follows:

"30. Judgment when and where pronounced.-2 [(1)] The Appellate Court, after hearing the parties or their pleaders and referring to any part of the proceedings, whether on appeal or in the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, to which reference may be considered necessary, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day of which notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

[(2) Where a written judgment is to be pronounced, it shall be sufficient if the points for determination, the decision thereon and the final order passed in the appeal are read out and it shall not be necessary for the Court to read out the whole judgment, but a copy of the whole judgment shall be made available for the perusal of the parties or their pleaders immediately after the judgment is pronounced.]

31. Contents, date and signature of judgment*.-The judgment of the Appellate Court shall be in writing and shall state-*

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled, and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein."

11. The first appellant court is bound to pronounce the judgment on the points framed for determination as mentioned in the Order XLI Rule 31-" (a) the points for determination; (b) the decision thereon; (c) the reasons for the decision; and (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled; and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further relied upon Order XLI Rule 23 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, which provides for remand of a case by the appellate court. It contemplates that where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the suit upon a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, the Appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, by order remand the case, and may further direct what issue or issues shall be tried in the case so remanded, and shall send a copy of its judgment and order to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, which directions to re-admit the suit under its original number in the register of civil suits, and proceed to determine the suit; and the evidence (if any) recorded during the original trial shall, subject to all just exceptions, be evidence during the trial after remand.

High Court Amendments
ALLAHABAD.-In Rule 23:

(i) Insert the following after the words "and the decree is reversed in appeal", namely: "or where the Appellate Court while reversing or setting aside the decree under appeal considers it necessary in the interest of justice to remand the case, it"; and

(ii) Delete the words "the Appellate Court" occurring thereafter and delete also the words "if it thinks fit", occurring after the words "may". "23. Remand of case by Appellate Court. Where the Court from whose decree an appeal is preferred has disposed of the suit on a preliminary point and the decree is reversed in appeal, or where the Appellate Court, while reversing or setting aside the decree under appeal, considers it necessary in the interests of justice to remand the case, it may by order remand the case, and may further direct what issue or issues shall be tried in the case so remanded, and shall send a copy of its judgment and order to the Court from whose decree the appeal is preferred, with direction to re-admit the suit under its original number in the register of civil suits, and proceed to determine the suit, and the evidence (if any) recorded during the original trial shall, subject to all just exceptions, be evidence during the trial after remand." (11-3-1965)

13. It is further submitted that the original suit is of the year 2001 and was finally decided in the year 2023 by learned trial court, after detailed appreciation of the evidence and upon framing exhaustive issues involved therein. The basic requirement and essential mandate for the first appellate court was to comply with the provisions of Order XLI Rule 31 of the C.P.C., which has not been adhered to.

14. It is held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in B.V. Nagesh and another Versus Sreenivasa Murthy, (2010) 13 SCC 530 that the regular first appeal is to be disposed of by the appellate Court/High Court has been considered by this Court in various decisions. Order XLI of C.P.C. deals with appeals from original decrees. Among the various rules, Rule 31 mandates that the judgment of the appellate Court shall state: a) the points for determination; b) the decision thereon; c) reasons for the decision; and (d) where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled. (i) The appellate Court has jurisdiction to reverse or affirm the findings of the trial Court. (ii) The first appeal is a valuable right of the parties and unless restricted by law, the whole case therein is open for re-hearing both on questions of fact and law. (iii) The judgment of the appellate Court must, therefore, reflect its conscious application of mind and record findings supported by reasons, on all the issues arising along with the contentions put-forth and pressed by the parties for decision of the appellate Court.

15. It is the first bounden duty of the first appellate court to frame the point for determination; the points for determination; the decision thereon; the reasons for the decision; and where the decree appealed from is reversed or varied, the relief to which the appellant is entitled. However, the judgment and order passed by the first appellate court do not comply with these essential and basic requirements for adjudication of the appeal on merits.

16. Unless the first appellate court frames the points for determination, it is not possible for it to record its decision thereon, assign reasons, or grant the relief, if any, to which the appellant may be entitled.

17. In view of the basic lapses committed by the first appellate court, which are contrary to the settled principles of law, an apparent illegality has occurred that cannot be sustained by this Court at this stage.

18. Accordingly, without entering into the merits of the case, the judgment and order dated 05.02.2026 passed by the first appellate court is liable to be set aside and is hereby set aside on account of non-framing of points for determination, as required under Order XLI Rule 31 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

19. The first appellate court is directed to frame the points for determination and decide the appeal afresh by recording findings thereon, assigning reasons for its decision, and passing a judgment and order in accordance with the procedure prescribed under Order XLI Rules 30 and 31 of the C.P.C., 1908.

20. With these observations and findings, the impugned judgment and order dated 05.02.2026 passed by the learned Additional District Judge, Court No. 1, Sonbhadra, in Civil Appeal No. 19 of 2023 and Civil Appeal No. 22 of 2023 is hereby set aside.

21. Accordingly, First Appeal From Order No. 1127 of 2026 and First Appeal From Order No. 1128 of 2026 are allowed.

22. The first appellate court is further directed to correct the nomenclature of the court as mentioned at the time of signing the judgment in the civil appeal, wherein it has been described as "Additional Sessions Judge, Court No. 1." It is clarified that, since the matter pertains to civil proceedings, the correct designation is "Additional District Judge." The designation "Additional Sessions Judge" pertains to criminal proceedings.

23. A copy of this order shall also be placed in F.A.F.O. No. 1128 of 2026.

First Appeal No. 2364 of 2025

Satya Homes Pvt. Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Fundan & Ors. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Whether the trial court was justified in rejecting the plaintiff/appellant's application under Order XXXIX Rules 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC for temporary injunction, in a suit for declaration of ownership on the basis of possessory title and permanent injunction, where possession had admittedly been delivered to the plaintiff/appellant pursuant to a registered agreement to sell dated 02.05.2014 after payment of the entire sale consideration, and the defendants/respondents failed to place on record any registered document evidencing retransfer or resumption of such possession

Headnotes

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O.XXXIX rr.1, 2, s.151 --- Temporary injunction --- Suit pending --- Scope of enquiry at interlocutory stage --- Prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable injury alone to be examined --- Disputed questions of fact and law left for trial.

HELD:

Original Suit No. 1183 of 2023 was still pending before the trial court and had to be decided on its merits. The trial court, while deciding application 6C-2 under Order XXXIX Rules 1 and 2 CPC, was required to examine only prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss and injury. Questions of fact and law raised by the defendants/respondents, including limitation, readiness and willingness, and the validity or effect of the subsequent unregistered agreement/compromise dated 18.07.2022, are mixed questions of fact and law which cannot be decided prima facie at the interlocutory stage and are required to be considered by the trial court during trial. [Paras 38, 39, 44]

Transfer of Property Act, 1882 --- s.53A --- Registered agreement to sell with possession --- Entire sale consideration paid --- Possessory title --- Protection of possession --- Defendants failing to prove retransfer of possession --- Prima facie case in favour of plaintiff.

HELD:

It was undisputed that a registered agreement to sell along with possession, after payment of entire sale consideration, was executed by the defendants/respondents in favour of the plaintiff/appellant on 02.05.2014. The defendants/respondents failed to submit any registered document, or any other mode, by which they had reobtained possession of the property earlier delivered to the plaintiff/appellant. The possession delivered under the registered agreement to sell, being unrebutted by any document of retransfer, appeared prima facie undisturbed and required protection, failing which the plaintiff/appellant would suffer irreparable loss and injury and multiplicity of proceedings would result. [Paras 40, 43, 44, 45]

Transfer of Property Act, 1882 --- s.53A --- Agreement to sell of fixed validity --- Expiry of period --- Subsequent sale deeds executed after expiry, with part-adjustment of earlier consideration --- Effect --- Implicit continuance of possession and terms of original agreement.

HELD:
Though the registered agreement to sell dated 02.05.2014 was contended by the defendants/respondents to have a fixed validity expiring on 10.03.2015, the defendants/respondents themselves executed subsequent sale deeds in favour of the plaintiff/appellant even after the said date, adjusting part of the earlier paid consideration. This conduct amounted to a concession and could be considered as implicit continuance of physical possession and continuation of the terms and conditions settled by the registered agreement to sell dated 02.05.2014, which formed the very basis of the suit. [Para 40]

Evidence --- Unregistered agreement/compromise --- Reliance by defendants to establish surrender or retransfer of possession --- Document undated, authorisation of signatory unproved, and expressly disputed by plaintiff --- Not sufficient at interim stage to displace possessory rights flowing from registered agreement.

HELD:
The alleged compromise or agreement dated 18.07.2022, relied upon by the defendants/respondents to demonstrate change in possession, was an unregistered document, bore no date, did not disclose whether the signatory Sri Arvind Kumar Singh was ever authorised by the plaintiff-company to execute it, and was specifically denied by the plaintiff/appellant. Such an unregistered and disputed document could not, prima facie, be treated as a valid instrument by which possession was retransferred by the plaintiff/appellant to the defendants/respondents. [Paras 6, 25, 39, 43]

Revenue Law --- Mutation/revenue entries continuing in name of transferor --- Effect where possession delivered under registered agreement to sell without execution of sale deed --- Not determinative of possession.

HELD:
The circumstance that revenue entries continued to reflect the name of the transferor, both before and after the registered agreement to sell dated 02.05.2014, could not by itself be treated as conclusive, since it was natural for revenue entries to remain unchanged where possession was delivered under a registered agreement to sell but no sale deed was executed transferring title; such entries did not give any edge to the defendants/respondents on the question of possession at the interim stage. [Para 42]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O.XXXIX rr.1, 2 --- First Appeal from Order --- Rejection of temporary injunction application set aside --- Injunction granted restraining interference with possession and change in nature of property pending suit.

HELD:
Prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss and injury being found in favour of the plaintiff/appellant, the impugned order rejecting the injunction application was set aside and the defendants/respondents were restrained from interfering with the peaceful possession of the plaintiff/appellant over the property in dispute on the basis of the registered agreement to sell dated 02.05.2014, and further restrained from changing the nature of the property during pendency of the suit. [Paras 45, 46]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- O.I r.10 --- Impleadment application by third party claiming rights under subsequent registered sale deed --- Liberty granted to move trial court.

HELD:
Where a third party claimed to have obtained a registered sale deed and delivery of possession from the defendants/respondents in respect of the land in question and sought impleadment, liberty was granted to such third party to file the impleadment application before the trial court, to be decided in accordance with law having regard to the right alleged and the facts and circumstances of the case. [Order on Impleadment Application, Paras 1-3]

Appeal allowed. Impugned order dated 5.9.2025 set aside. Impleadment application disposed of with liberty to move the trial court. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Order dated 5.9.2025 passed by the Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gautam Buddh Nagar in Civil Suit No. 1183 of 2023, Satya Homes Pvt. Ltd. v. Fundan and others, whereby application No. 6C-2 of the plaintiff/appellant was rejected, and objection No. 34-C-2 filed by the defendants/respondents was disposed of.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellant: Nisheeth Yadav
For the Respondents: Anil Kumar Mehrotra, Ashwani Kumar Patel, Mehul Khare, Pragya Pandey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

1. Heard Sri C.B. Yadav, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri Nisheeth Yadav, learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant and Sri A.K. Mehrotra, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Sri A.K. Patel and Sri Srijan Mehrotra, learned counsel for defendants/respondents.

2. The present First Appeal from Order has been preferred against the impugned order dated 5.9.2025, passed by learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gautam Buddh Nagar in Civil Suit No. 1183 of 2023 (Satya Homes Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Fundan and others), whereby the application of the plaintiff/appellant bearing application No. 6C-2 has been rejected and objection (34-C-2) filed by defendants/respondents has been disposed of.

3. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the plaintiff/appellant has submitted that the learned trial court has not considered the law laid down by the Supreme Court in its judgment dated 02.06.2023 in the case of Ghanshyam Vs. Yogendra Rathi in Civil Appeal No.7527/7528 of 2012, wherein the identical issue came that the plaintiff in whose favour an agreement to sale has been executed and he has fulfilled his part of the consideration amount would not be having any right or title to the said dispute, the Supreme Court on the contrary has observed that "Legally an agreement to sell may not be regarded as a transaction of sale or a document transferring the proprietary rights in an immovable property, but the prospective purchaser having performed his part of the contract and lawfully in possession acquires possessory title which is liable to be protected in view of Section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. The said possessory rights of the prospective purchaser cannot be invaded by the transferor or any person claiming under him", as such the impugned order is not sustainable in the eyes of law.

4. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has further submitted that learned trial court has not considered that in terms of Section 53-A of the Act of 1988, the transferee, who happen to be the Appellant /Plaintiff / company completed his part of the contract and paid total amount of consideration i.e Rs Rs.15,21,37,274/-, the transferor/defendants /respondents or any person claiming under him is debarred from enforcing against the transferee /plaintiff / appellant and persons claiming under him any right in respect of the property which was subject matter of agreement to sale of which the transferee / plaintiff / appellant has taken and continued in possession since 02.05.2014. He has further submitted that the learned trial court has not considered that the appellant / plaintiff has got possession over the entire property measuring an area of 34600 Sq.M. out of Khasra Nos.795 and 793, which was in sole ownership of Maharchand, Fundan, Lekhraj, Mahendra and Dayachand along the execution of agreement to Sale dated 02.05.2014.

5. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further submitted that the learned trial court has not considered the fact that as per the judgment of Ghanshyam Vs. Yogendra Rathi (supra), the possessory right of the perspective purchaser, who happens to be the plaintiff/appellant herein cannot be invaded by a transferer or any person claiming under him. Learned Senior Counsel appearing for the appellant/plaintiff has further submitted that learned trial court has not taken into consideration that when the possession of the land was given by way of registered agreement to sale, then the plaintiff/appellant is not required to prove his possession rather the plaintiff /appellant has actual possession of the Property in Dispute. He has further submitted that the learned trial court has not properly adjudicated the validity of the agreement to sale dated 02.05.2014, as even the period as so referred in the agreement to sale i.e. from dated 02.05.2014 till 10.03.2015 came to end, it was mutually agreed / decided between the parties to the agreement to sale that the Land owner / First party to the agreement to sale will continue to execute the sale deed till the sale deed of entire area of total area of 3.4600 hectare (34,600 Sq.M.) which was subject matter of agreement to sale, is not completed, therefore in continuation to the agreement to sale with possession dated 02.05.2014, out of Khasra No.793 (of bearing total area 1.2280 hectare) a sale deed was executed by Fundan, Lekhraj, Mahendra, Dayachand in favour of the company on 20.06.2015 of an area of 0.4215 hectare out of Khasra No. 793 for total consideration of Rs.1,85,33,000/-, out of the said amount of Rs.36,64,700/- was adjusted towards the earnest money and a sum of Rs. 148,78,655/- was paid to Fundan, Lekhraj, Mahendra, Dayachand. Further, Maharchand in continuation to the agreement to sale alongwith possession dated 02.05.2014 of Khasra No.795 (of bearing total area 2.2320 hectare) on 14.12.2015 executed another sale deed in in favour of the company of an area of 3372 Sq. M. out of Khasra No. 795 for total consideration of Rs. 1,95,23,700/-, out of the said amount of Rs. 32,00,000/- was adjusted towards the earnest money and a sum of Rs. 166,00,000/- was paid to Maharchand upon registry, as such, there was no date fixed for performance. Therefore, in terms of Schedule 54 read of with Section 2 (j) and Section 3 of the Limitation Act, 1963, the period of limitation for filling the suit for specific performance would start from the date, on which the performance was refused which was 30.09.2023.

6. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further submitted that the learned trial court has not considered that it is relevant to submit herein that the appellant/company had not provided any opportunity to rebut /contradict the alleged unregistered agreement dated 18.07.2022 by the learned trial court. He has further submitted that the learned trial court has failed to consider that by perusal of the unregistered agreement dated 18.07.2022 gives a clear picture that (1) no date is mentioned over the said agreement 18.07.2022 (2) there is no mention that Mr. Arvind Kumar Singh was ever authorized by the company to sign any such agreement dated 18.07.2022. He has further submitted that the learned trial court has not considered that when at par the company never accepted that they entered into any agreement dated 18.07.2022 as so brought on record by the respondents /defendants vide record no 36-C, as such, no such record could be relied upon by the learned trial court without verifying its authenticity and further without asking for objection or even adjudicating whether in absence of any authorization in favour Arvind Kumar Singh, any such unregistered agreement could have been executed or can be enforced in court of law.

7. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has further submitted that the learned trial court has failed to consider this fact that there is no evidence on record that the defendants-respondents had ever been in possession of the property in suit, as property in suit is part of the Khasra No.793 & 795 after 02.5.2014, the date of execution of agreement to sale and handing over possession to the Plaintiff /Appellant. It is admitted case of the appellant/plaintiff and the respondents/defendants that there was a registered agreement to sale alongwith possession was executed by the defendants/respondents in favour of the plaintiff/appellant/company dated 2.5.2014 after receiving complete amount of sale consideration. When possession was delivered by way of registered agreement to sale, whereas the alleged agreement, if any dated 18.7.2022 is an unregistered agreement. It is also an unregistered alleged compromise entered into between the parties which is not admitted to the appellant/plaintiff.

8. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has submitted that there has been no document submitted by the respondents/defendants that when they had executed registered agreement to sale alongwith possession after receiving entire sale consideration dated 2.5.2014, then how and in what mode, they have got further possession of the said property in dispute.

9. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has relied upon the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Gunwantbhai Mulchand Shah and others Vs. Anton Elis Farel and others; (2006)3 SCC 634 and he relied on paragraph nos. 9 and 14 of the said judgment which is as follows:-

"9. It is seen that the suit was dismissed by the trial court on the finding that the claim for the relief of specific performance was barred by limitation. The plaint contains not only a prayer for specific performance but also a prayer for perpetual injunction restraining the defendants from interfering with the possession of the plaintiffs and from creating any documents or entering into any transaction in respect of the suit property. Of course, the latter part of that prayer is directly linked to the claim for specific a performance, but the suit as regards the prayer for perpetual injunction to protect the possession of the plaintiff over the suit property on the claim that the predecessor of the plaintiffs was put in possession of the property pursuant to the agreement for sale, on a subsequent date, could not have been held to be not maintainable on any ground. Of course, the grant of the relief of injunction in a sense is discretionary and the court ultimately might or b might not have granted the relief to the plaintiffs. The defendants could have also shown that the relief of injunction claimed is merely consequential to the relief of specific performance and was not an independent relief. But that is different from saying that the suit could be dismissed merely on a finding that the prayer for specific performance of the agreement was barred by limitation. In any event, therefore, the dismissal of the suit as a whole as not c maintainable, could not be justified or said to be correct.

14. We have already indicated that the suit insofar as it relates to the prayer for a perpetual injunction restraining the defendants from interfering b with the possession of the plaintiffs cannot be held to be barred by limitation. Whether the plaintiffs are able to prove that they are in possession of the suit property as on the date of suit and establish that they are entitled to the injunction prayed for, is a different matter. There is also the question whether the relief of injunction can be treated as being only a relief consequential to the relief of specific performance and the denial of one would automatically lead to the denial of the other, or whether it is an independent relief in itself and even if the plaintiffs are not entitled to a decree for specific performance they would still be entitled to a decree for injunction, a relief the grant of which is, of course, in the discretion of the court. It may be noticed that a suit for injunction would be governed by the residuary article, Article 113 of the d Limitation Act and the cause of action for the said relief arises when the right to sue accrues. That would depend upon the court deciding when the right accrued, on the pleadings and the evidence in the case. Therefore, the suit insofar as it relates to the prayer for a decree for perpetual injunction cannot be held to be barred by limitation at this preliminary stage."

10. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further relied upon the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Janardhanam Prasad Vs. Ramdas; (2007) 15 SCC 174 and he relied on paragraph no. 16 which reads as follows:-

"16. But before we advert to the said question, we may consider the effect of refusal on the part of the 2nd defendant to execute the deed of sale within 20 days from the date of entering into the said agreement for sale. We have noticed hereinbefore that father-in-law of Respondent 1 categorically stated that he, at all material times, was aware that the 2nd defendant was refusing to execute the agreement of sale. They had, therefore, the notice, that Defendant 1 had refused to perform his part of contract. The suit should have, in the aforementioned situation, been filed within three years from the said date. We are not oblivious of the fact that performance of a contract may be dependent upon several factors. The conduct of the parties in this behalf is also relevant. The parties by their conduct or otherwise may also extend the time for performance of contract from time to time, as was noticed by this Court in Panchanan Dhara v. Monmatha Nath Maity (2006) 5 SCC 340."

11. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has submitted that the learned trial court has decided the application under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 CPC vide impugned order dated 5.9.2025, whereas, the suit is still pending and final adjudication of the suit could be done by the learned trial court after perusing the entire evidences and fact and provisions of law. At this stage, no meticulous examination or final finding could not be adjudicated. The plaintiff/appellant was in possession consistently since execution of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 in his favour and that has not been taken back or given by the appellant/plaintiff to the defendants/respondents.

12. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Ramesh Chand (D) through LRs Vs. Suresh Chand and another; 2025 INSC 1059. He relied on paragraph nos. 30 and 31 of the said judgment which are as follows:-

" 30. According to Section 53A of the TP Act, where there is a contract to transfer any immovable property in writing and the transferee has in part performance of the contract taken the possession of the property or part thereof, then notwithstanding that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed by law, the transferor will be debarred from taking the possession of the property. The essential conditions for invoking the doctrine of part-performance as envisaged u/s 53A of TP Act have been enunciated by this Court in the case of Nathulal v. Phoolchand thus:

"9. The conditions necessary for making out the defence of part performance to an action in ejectment by the owner are:

(1) that the transferor has contracted to transfer for consideration any immovable property by writing signed by him or on his behalf from which the terms necessary to constitute the transfer can be ascertained with reasonable certainty;

(2) that the transferee, has, in part performance of the contract, taken possession of the property or any part thereof, or the transferee, being already in possession continues in possession in part performance of the contract;

(3) that the transferee has done some act in furtherance of the contract; and

(4) that the transferee has performed or is willing to perform his part of the contract.

If these conditions are fulfilled then notwithstanding that the contract, though required to be registered, has not been registered, or, where there is an instrument of transfer, that the transfer has not been completed in the manner prescribed therefor by the law for the time being in force, the transferor or any person claiming under him is debarred from enforcing against the transferee any right in respect of the property of which the transferee has taken or continued in possession, other than a right expressly provided by the terms of the contract."

31. A perusal of Section 53A of TP Act, as well as the case law on point, it is forthcoming that one of the main ingredients for taking shelter under Section 53A is the factum of possession. Unless the transferee in the instrument of agreement to sale is able to prove that he has been in possession of the suit property, no benefit u/s 53A will be given. In the instant matter, the very fact that plaintiff has filed the present suit for possession, along with other reliefs, shows that on the date of filing of the suit, plaintiff was not in possession of the entire suit property. Since there was no possession with the plaintiff, he cannot derive any benefit under the doctrine of part-possession."

13. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Ghanshyam Vs. Yogendra Rathi; 2023 INSC 575. He relied on paragraph nos. 15 and 16 which are as follows:-

"15. Legally an agreement to sell may not be regarded as a transaction of sale or a document transferring the proprietary rights in an immovable property but the prospective purchaser having performed his part of the contract and lawfully in possession acquires possessory title which is liable to be protected in view of Section 53A of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882. The said possessory rights of the prospective purchaser cannot be invaded by the transferer or any person claiming under him.

16. Notwithstanding the above as the plaintiff-respondent admittedly was settled with possessory title in part performance of the agreement to sell dated 10.04.2002 and that the defendant-appellant has lost his possession over it and had acquired the right of possession under a licence simpliciter, exhausted his right to continue in possession after the licence has been determined. Thus, the defendant-appellant parted with the possession of the suit property by putting the plaintiff-respondent in possession of it under an agreement to sell. The plaintiff-respondent in this way came to acquire possessory title over the same. The defendant-appellant, as such, ceased to be in possession of it as an owner rather occupied it as a licencee for a fixed period which stood determined by valid notice, leaving the defendant-appellant with no subsisting right to remain in possession of the suit premises."

14. On the other hand, learned Senior Counsel, Sri A.K. Mehrotra, learned counsel for the respondents/defendants has submitted that said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 was for a fixed period and was only valid till 10.3.2015 and since appellant/plaintiff has failed to perform its obligation, hence no reliance could be placed upon the same by the appellant/plaintiff because same ceased to exist after 10.3.2015. He further submitted that the appellant/plaintiff is not entitled for any relief on the basis of registered agreement to sale.

15. It is further submitted that Power of Attorney dated 16.9.2014 was only with regard to 12650 Sq. Mts of land out of 22320 Sq. Mts of land of Khasra No. 795 and the Attorney-Holder was not entitled to take any decision in respect of the land more than or other than 12650 Sq. Mts of land. It is further submitted that the amount of Rs.7,15,00,000/- was only with respect to aforementioned area of 12650 Sq. Mts. of land of Khasra No. 795 for which, the subsequent agreement was also executed.

16. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has further submitted that it is evident from the perusal of the aforesaid Power-of-Attorney and the concerned Agreement executed for 12650 Sq. Mts. of land that the actual possession of the land had always been with the Defendants/respondents. He has further submitted that it is evident from the perusal of the aforementioned Power-of-Attorney alongwith subsequent agreement that the same was for an area of 12650 Sq. Mts. of land in lieu of the sum of Rs.7,15,00,000/-, i.e., @Rs.5652.17 per Sq. Mtr. whereas the earlier agreement dated 02.05.2014 was for Rs.15,21,37,274/- in respect of the land to the extent of 34600 Sq. Mtr., i.e., @Rs.4,397.031 per Sq. Mtr. (also mentioned in the agreement dated 02.05.2014 that the same was @ Rs.4400/- per Sq. Mtr), and thus, it is evident that the parties had already departed from the terms and conditions of the agreement dated 02.05.2014 as far back as at the time of the execution of the concerned Power-of-Attorney and the subsequent agreement. He has further submitted that the period of the registered agreement to sale was only till 10.3.2015 and the appellant/plaintiff had failed to perform its obligation/duties in accordance with the said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014. It is further submitted by the learned Senior Counsel that though after 10.03.2015, neither the Defendants/Respondents herein, nor Predecessor-in-Interest of the Defendants/Respondents had been liable to or could be compelled to act in pursuance to the aforesaid Agreement to sale dated 02.05.2014, however, by way of concession, the concerned Sale-Deeds were executed. It is, however, further pointed out that from the perusal of the recitals made in the said Sale-Deeds, the concerned Agreement dated 02.05.2014 could and cannot be treated to be in-operation or being effective after 10.03.2015. It is further submitted that though part of the amount, out of the previously paid amount, was adjusted in the aforementioned Sale-Deeds, however, the Sale Deeds were executed after the fresh oral settlement including with regard to the rate of the land of the concerned Sale-Deeds and not upon the same terms and conditions as agreed in the Agreement dated 02.05.2014.

17. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has further submitted that it is also evident from the recitals made in the said Sale-Deeds that the possession of the land demised by the said Sale-Deeds was transferred to the vendee of the Sale-Deed at the time of the execution of the said Sale-Deeds. He further made reference of the judgments of the Supreme Court passed in 'Civil Appeal No. 5200 Of 2025; Correspondence, RBANMS Educational Institution Vs. B. Gunashekhar & Anr' arising from SLP (C) No. 13679 Of 2022 (decided on 16.047.2025 reported in: '2025 SCC OnLine SC 793')'. In view of the aforesaid Judgment, the allegations made in the paragraph no. 18 (under reply), cannot be pressed upon as well as cannot be considered. He has further relied on that it is categorically submitted that no reliance can be placed upon the alleged amount allegedly paid in cash, i.e., amount to the tune of Rs.1,91,58,619/- in view of the aforementioned judgment of the Hon'ble Apex Court passed in 'Civil Appeal No. 5200 Of 2025'(supra). It is submitted by the learned counsel for the respondents/defendants that it is absolutely wrong to allege that the sum of Rs.1,91,58,619/- was paid in cash. He further submitted that it is absolutely wrong to allege that Rs.15,21,37,274/- was paid from 14.02.2014 till 02.03.2015. It is wholly misconceived and wrong to allege in the paragraph under reply (paragraph no. 19) that Rs.15,21,37,274/- was the same amount as agreed in the registered agreement to sale dated 02.05.2014.

18. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has submitted that it is apparent that so far as the amount of Rs.7.15 Crores is concerned, the same was in respect of the land of Khasra No. 795 Area 1.2650 Hectare, i.e., 12650 Sq. Mtrs. It is further argued that so far as Rs. 3 Crores is concerned, the part/sum of the amount to the extent of Rs.36,54,700/- and Rs.29,23,700/-, i.e., total Rs.65,78,400/- has already been adjusted in the two Sale-Deeds. It is further submitted that so far as with the institution of the said Suit No. 1183 Of 2023 as well as the prayer made in the said Suit No. 1183 Of 2023 are concerned, the reference is craved upon the plaint of the said suit itself. He has further submitted that keeping in view the recitals made in the plaint of the said Suit No. 1183 of 2023, the reliefs sought therein could / cannot be granted particularly in view of the fact that the said suit has been instituted beyond the period of the limitation prescribed for the said purpose as well as there has not been any recital with regard to the alleged readiness and willingness of the Plaintiff of the said Suit No. 1183 of 2023 as well as in view of the lack of the specific pleadings with regard to the dates on which the alleged request was made for execution of Sale-Deed, and further, in view of the non-payment of the proper court-fees, if, the Plaintiff of the said Suit No. 1183 Of 2023 has been claiming the relief as sought in the said Suit No. 1183 of 2023 to be of the specific performance of the contract.

19. Learned Senior Counsel has further relied that the relief as sought in the form of mandatory injunction could/cannot be granted keeping in view the settled position of law. He has submitted that Suit No. 1183 of 2023 was liable to be dismissed. It is further submitted that said order dated 10.10.2023 was an exparte order as well as same was conditional order subject to condition mentioned in the said order dated 10.10.2023 itself. It is further submitted that neither on 10.10.2023 nor till now, name of plaintiff/appellant herein i.e. plaintiff of suit No. 1183 of 2023 was recorded in the concerned revenue records upon the suit property i.e. upon remaining area of 1.4363 hectares of Khasara No. 793 and 795 and thus, the plaintiff/appellant is not entitled for any relief on the basis of order dated 10.10.2023. He further submitted that Civil Suit No. 1183 of 2023 was instituted on 10.10.2023 and the interim injunction was granted on the said date itself i.e. on 10.10.2023. As such, concerned sale deed which were executed on 13.9.2023 was duly executed prior to institution of concerned suit as well as prior to passing of interim order dated 10.10.2023. It is further submitted that it is wholly misconceived to allege that the area of 14363 Sq. Mts was subject matter of the agreement-to-sell dated 02.05.2014, which is basis of Original Suit No. 1183 of 2023 filed by the plaintiff/appellant. He further submitted that said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 was valid upto 10.03.2015 and thereafter it ceased to having any legal effect. He has further submitted that aforementioned order dated 10.10.2023 was the conditional one, and since, the name of the plaintiff/appellant of the said Suit was not recorded in the revenue records, as such, even otherwise, there has not been any restriction created by the said order dated 10.10.2023 including upon the execution of the sale-deed by the tenure-holder. He has further submitted that the Contempt Application No. 85 of 2024 is wholly misconceived and is liable to be dismissed. He submitted that neither any Impleadment Application has not been filed for impleading the persons in the concerned Suit No. 1183 Of 2023, in whose favour the concerned Sale-Deeds were executed and the concerned Contempt Application No. 85 Of 2024 has been filed, nor the said persons have been impleaded whereas, certain persons were impleaded as defendants in the subsequent 'Original Suit No. 828 Of 2024 (Nimmi Infratech Private Limited Vs. Fundan (Minor) and Others). He further submitted that the plaint of the said Suit No. 828 of 2024 was rejected under Order 7 Rule 11 of CPC by order dated 16.08.2024. However, the appeal preferred against the said order dated 16.08.2024 was allowed by the Judgment and Order dated 23.01.2025 passed by this Court.

20. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has further submitted that the defendants/respondent of Suit No. 828 of 2024 has approached the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India against the aforementioned Judgment and Order dated 23.01.2025 passed by this Court and the matter is still pending before the Hon'ble Supreme Court of India. He has further submitted that from the reliefs sought in the concerned Contempt Application No. 85 Of 2024, it has been evident that the possession of the vendees upon the subject matter of the concerned Sale-Deeds, has been established beyond doubt. He submitted that the impugned order dated 5.9.2025 is purely legal and the appeal is liable to be dismissed.

21. He further submitted that keeping in view of the entire facts and circumstances of the case, the appellant/plaintiff are not entitled for any relief in view of Section 53A of the Act, 1882. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the defendants/respondents that the agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 ceased to exist after 10.3.2015. He has further submitted that though nomenclature of the agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 was with possession, however, the possession of the land was transferred from time-to-time, which is also evident from the recitals made in the concerned Sale-Deeds. He further submitted that so far as the suit property is concerned, the same has not been in the possession of the Plaintiff/Appellant and the reference of this Court in this regard is respectfully craved upon the subsequent agreement entered into between the tenure-holder and the Plaintiff/Appellant.

22. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has further submitted that the Plaintiff/Appellant has not been in possession of the suit property at the time of institution of Suit No. 1183 of 2023 which is also evident from perusal of the recital made in the subsequent agreement. It is further submitted that the sale deeds have been executed of different portion of the said property and the concerned vendee have been in possession of said portion. However, said person have not been impleaded in the concerned suit No. 1183 of 2023, though said person are proper and necessary parties since right of said person could be affected. He has further submitted that since plaintiff/appellant has not been entitled for interim relief as sought in said suit No. 1183 of 2023, as such the appellant/plaintiff is not entitled for any interim relief from this Court. He further submitted that registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 ceased to exist after 10.3.2015 and said agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 cannot be treated to have revived on account of execution of concerned sale deeds. The correct facts have been mentioned in the agreement dated 18.7.2022.

23. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has been submitted that the allegation with regard to the agreement dated 18.7.2022 has been made for the first time in the aforesaid appeal by the plaintiff/appellant and not before the learned trial court, hence same cannot be considered. He has further submitted that the appellant/plaintiff had the sufficient opportunity to deny the tenability of the agreement dated 18.7.2022, however, since the plaintiff/appellant had obtained the ex-parte interim order dated 10.10.2023, as such, instead of making the submission with regard to the tenability of the said agreement dated 18.7.2022 in the concerned suit, the plaintiff/appellant had opted to remain silent, and since the said agreement dated 18.7.2022 has been the genuine one, as such, the reference has rightly been made of the same in the impugned order.

24. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has again submitted that he is consistent in actual physical possession of the property in dispute since very inception of the registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 after payment of entire sale consideration which has not been denied. The possession which had been delivered by way of registered agreement to sale after receiving entire sale consideration by the defendants/respondents, it could not be treated as cancelled on the basis of any alleged unregistered agreement. He has further submitted that period of limitation as per Clause 54 of Schedule of the Limitation Act,1963 would start from the date when plaintiff has noticed that the performance has been refused and, therefore, for the reason mentioned herein, the assertion so made in the paragraph under reply that the agreement ceased to exist after 10.3.2015 is contrary to law as well as fact.

25. Learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has further submitted that the appellant/plaintiff was given possession over the entire property measuring an area of 34600 sq. M out of Khasra No. 795 and 793 for which entire amount had already been paid. He has further submitted that perusal of unregistered agreement to sale dated 18.7.2022 gives clear picture that (1) no date is mentioned over the said agreement dated 18.7.2022, and (2) there is no mention that Mr. Arvind Kumar Singh was ever authorized by the company to sign any such agreement dated 18.7.2022.

26. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Shakeel Ahmed Vs. Syed Akhaq Hussain; 2023 INSC 1016 where, it is held that having considered the submissions at the outset, it is to be emphasized that irrespective of what was decided in the case of Suraj Lamps and Industries(supra) the fact remains that no title could be transferred with respect to immovable properties on the basis of an unregistered Agreement to Sell or on the basis of an unregistered General Power of Attorney. The Registration Act, 1908 clearly provides that a document which requires compulsory registration under the Act, would not confer any right, much less a legally enforceable right to approach a Court of Law on its basis. Even if these documents i.e. the Agreement to Sell and the Power of Attorney were registered, still it could not be said that the respondent would have acquired title over the property in question. At best, on the basis of the registered agreement to sell, he could have claimed relief of specific performance in appropriate proceedings. In this regard, reference may be made to sections 17 and 49 of the Registration Act and section 54 of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882.

27. He further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Suraj Lamp and Industries Pvt. Ltd Vs. State of Haryana and others; MANU/SC/1222/2011, where it is held that a SA/GPA/Will transaction does not convey any title nor create any interest in an immovable property. He also relied on Ahmadsahab Abdul Mulla Vs. Bibijan and others; (2009) 5 SCC 462 that the Supreme Court is held that the expression "date fixed for the performance" is a crystallised notion. This is clear from the fact that the second part "time from which period beings to run" refers to a case where no such date is fixed. To put it differently, when date is fixed it means that there is a definite date fixed for doing a particular act. Even in the second part the stress is on "when the plaintiff has notice that performance is refused". Here again, there is a definite point of time, when the plaintiff notices the refusal. In that sense both the parts refer to definite dates.

28. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has also relied on Smt. Katta Sujatha Reddy and another Vs. Siddamsetty Infra Projects Pvt. Ltd and others; 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 712. Learned counsel for the respondents/defendants has pressed on paragraph no. 37, where it is observed that "we may note that Article 54 of the Limitation Act provides for two consequences based on the presence of fixed time period of performance. It is only in a case where the time period for performance is not fixed that the purchaser can take recourse to the notices issued and the vendors' reply thereto. In the case at hand, the aforesaid circumstances do not come into play as a fixed time period was clearly mandated by Clause 3 read with Clause 23 of the agreements to sell, as explained above.

29. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Usha Devi and others Vs. Ram Kumar Singh and others; 2024 SCC OnLine SC 1915, where he has pressed that the validity of the agreement is something different and does not change the date of performance. What was the reason for incorporating this clause of validating the agreement for five years is not spelled out in the agreement, but in any case, it does not change the date fixed for the performance. He further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Atma Ram Vs. Charanjit Singh; (2020) 3 SCC 311 and he relied upon that conduct of a plaintiff is very crucial in a suit for specific performance. A person who issues a legal notice on 12.11.1996 claiming readiness and willingness, but who has instituted a suit only on 13.10.1999 and that too only with a prayer for a mandatory injunction carrying a fixed court fee relatable only to the said relief, will not be entitled to the discretionary relief of specific performance. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has also relied on law laid down by the Supreme Court in Nikhila Divyang Mehta and another Vs. Hitesh P. Sanghvi and others; 2025 LiveLaw (SC) 428, where subject matter was an application under Order 7 Rule 11 CPC. In the said suit, the Will and Codicil was pressed to be null and void. The relief of declaration claimed in the suit does not fall under Article 56 and 57 and, therefore, by necessary implication, Article 58 would stand attracted which provides for a limitation period of three years to obtain any other declaration other than that mentioned under Articles 56 and 57. It provides that for such a declaration, the limitation is three years from the date when the right to sue first accrues. Learned counsel for defendants/respondents has relied on paragraph no. 29 of the said judgement (supra) where it is held that lastly, the first appellate Court has ruled that in the suit, the plaintiff has claimed different reliefs and even if the plaint is barred by limitation in respect of one of the reliefs, it cannot be rejected in toto. The aforesaid submission is also without substance as upon the plain reading of the prayers made in the plaint, it is apparent that the primary relief claimed therein is to declare the Will and the Codicil to be null and void and also all subsequent proceedings thereto. In addition to it, the plaintiff has claimed permanent injunction. The other reliefs are dependent upon the first relief and cannot be granted until and unless the plaintiff succeeds in the first relief. Therefore, once the plaint or the suit in respect of the main relief stands barred by time, the other ancillary relief claimed therein also falls down.

30. Learned counsel for the respondents/defendants has further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Padhiyar Prahladji Chenaji (deceased) through L.Rs. Vs. Maniben Jagmalbhai (deceased) through L.R.s and others; 2022 LiveLaw (SC) 241 and he relied on paragraph no. 11 of the said judgment which reads as under:-

"11. From the impugned judgment and order passed by the High Court, it appears that the High Court has not properly appreciated the distinction between a substantive relief and a consequential relief. The High Court has observed that in the instant case the relief of permanent injunction can be said to be a substantive relief, which is clearly an erroneous view. It is to be noted that the main reliefs sought by the plaintiff in the suit were cancellation of the sale deed and declaration and the prayer of permanent injunction restraining defendant No.1 from disturbing her possession can be said to be a consequential relief. Therefore, the title to the property was the basis of the relief of possession. If that be so, in the present case, the relief for permanent injunction can be said to be a consequential relief and not a substantive relief as observed and held by the High Court. Therefore, once the plaintiff has failed to get any substantive relief of cancellation of the sale deed and failed to get any declaratory relief, and as observed hereinabove, relief of injunction can be said to be a consequential relief. Therefore, the prayer for permanent injunction must fail. In the instant case as the plaintiff cannot be said to be in lawful possession of the suit land, i.e., the possession of the plaintiff is "not legal or authorised by the law", the plaintiff shall not be entitled to any permanent injunction."

31. Learned counsel has also relied on Sucha Singh Sodhi Vs. Baldev Raj Walia and another; (2018) 6 SCC 733 to contend that the cause of action to claim temporary/permanent injunction against the defendants from interfering in the plaintiff's possession over the suit premises accrues when Defendant 1 threatens the plaintiff to dispossess him from the suit premises or otherwise cause injury to the plaintiff in relation to the suit premises. It is governed by Order 39 Rule 1(c) of the Code which deals with the grant of injunction. The limitation to file such suit is three years from the date of obstruction caused by the defendant to the plaintiff (see Part VII Articles 85, 86 and 87 of the Limitation Act). On the other hand, the cause of action to file a suit for claiming specific performance of agreement arises from the date fixed for the performance or when no such date is fixed, when the plaintiff has noticed that performance is refused by the defendant. The limitation to file such suit is three years from such date (see Part II Article 54 of the Limitation Act).

32. Learned counsel for the respondents/defendants has further placed reliance on the law laid down by Supreme Court in Dahiben Vs. Arvindbhai Kalyanji Bhanusali and others in Civil Appeal No. 9519 of 2019 decided on July 9,2020, where he relied on T. Arvindandam Vs. T.V. Satyapal and another; (1977) 4 SCC 467, the Court held that while considering an application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC what is required to be decided is whether the plaint discloses a real cause of action, or something purely illusory. He further relied on page 18 of this judgment that subsequently, in I.T.C. Ltd. Vs. Debt Recovery Appellate Tribunal; (1998) 2 SCC 170 this Court held that law cannot permit clever drafting which creates illusions of a cause of action. What is required is that a clear right must be made out in the plaint. He further pressed that if, however, by clever drafting of the plaint, it has created the illusion of a cause of action, this Court in Madanuri Sri Ramachandra Murthy Vs. Syed Jalal; (2017) 13 SCC 174 held that it should be nipped in the bud, so that bogus litigation will end at the earliest stage.

33. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Ramisetty Venkatanna and another Vs. Nasyam Jamal Saheb and others; 2023 SCC OnLine SC 521 which is also based on the aforesaid judgement already referred in T. Arvindandam (supra). Learned counsel has further relied on Shri Mukund Bhavan Trust and others Vs. Shrimant Chhatrapati Udyan Raje Pratapsinh Maharaj Bhonsle and anothr; 2024 SCC OnLine SC 3844, where he pressed about mixed question of fact and law and relied that the spirit and intention of Order VII Rule 11(d) CPC is only for the courts to nip at its bud when any litigation ex facie appears to be a clear abuse of process. He further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Jharkhand State Housing Board Vs. Didar Singh and others; MANU/SC/1202/2018 that when the defendants disputes the title of the plaintiff, it is not necessary that in all those cases, plaintiff has to seek the relief of declaration. A suit for mere injunction does not lie only when the defendant raises a genuine dispute with regard to title and when he raises a cloud over the title of the plaintiff, then necessarily in those circumstances, plaintiff cannot maintain a suit for bare injunction.

34. Learned counsel has further relied on the law laid down by this Court in Mahendra Singh and others Vs. Senior citizen Home Complex Welfare society and others; MANU/UP/2701/2011, where basic ingredient for granting of temporary injunction has been discussed as under:-

(1) Prima facie case of the plaintiff.

(2) Balance of convenience, and

(3) Irreparable loss/injury.

35. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has further relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Ambalal Sarabhai Enterprise Limited Vs. KS Infraspace LLP Limited and another; (2020) 5 SCC 410, where he has pressed a plaintiff seeking temporary injunction in a suit for specific performance will therefore, have to establish a strong prima facie case on basis of undisputed facts and he has further relied that point of limitation has tobe also seen. He also relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in Kishore Kumar Khaitan and others Vs. Praveen Kumar Singh; MANU/SC/0940/2006 and he relied that an interim mandatory injunction is not a remedy that is easily granted. He further relied that interim mandatory injunction is passed only in circumstances which are clear and the prima facie materials clearly justify a finding that the status quo has been altered by one of the parties to the litigation and the interest of justice demanded that the status quo ante be restored by way of an interim mandatory injunction.

36. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has also placed reliance on D. Albert Vs. Lalitha and others; MANU/TN/0205/1989 decided by High Court of Madras that where petitioner claimed to be in possession and respondents filed a counter affidavit that he is in possession. In the circumstances, status quo should continue till the disposal of the appeal. It is obvious that such orders should not be passed by any court, high or low. Whenever a Court passes an order directing the preservation of 'status quo' it should by the same order state in unequivocal terms what the 'status quo' is. Otherwise, the court will be failing to do its duty.

37. Learned counsel appearing for the defendants/respondents has also relied on the law laid down by the Supreme Court in The Correspondence, RBANMS Educational Institution Vs. B. Gunashekar and another; 2025 (5) SCR 94. He relied on merit of transaction if made in cash and he relied that it is pertinent to recall that Section 269ST of the Income Tex Act, was introduced to curb black money by digitalising the transactions above Rs. 2 lacs and contemplating equal amount of penalty under Section 271DA of the Act.

38. From perusal of the record, it is evident and pertinent to mention over here that Original Suit No. 1183 of 2023 which is still pending before the learned trial court and it has to be decided on its merit. Learned trial court has simply decided an application 6C-2 under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 CPC, where prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss and injury has to be seen. It is undisputed that registered agreement to sale alongwith possession after payment of entire sale consideration by the plaintiff/appellant to the defendants/respondents has been executed alongwith possession on 2.5.2014.

39. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has very vehemently submitted that said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 had a fixed validity and that was expired on 10.3.2015, hence the present original suit is barred by time because there is a specific time has been assigned. There has been neither any willingness nor readiness has been shown by the plaintiff/appellant, where cause of action which has been shown and referred will simply does not enforce in law and he has submitted that these kind of plaint shall be rejected in limine under Order VII Rule 11, whereas learned counsel for the appellant/plaintiff has relied that complete possession of the property in dispute had already been delivered to the appellant/plaintiff by way of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 and the appellant/plaintiff has paid the entire sale consideration and he is in actual physical possession over there. The agreement dated 18.7.2022 is stated to be a compromise between the parties whereas the plaintiff/appellant has denied it specifically. The defendants/respondents, prima facie, failed to prove that such agreement or compromise, if any, has been registered. The said agreement or compromise dated 18.7.2022 is an un-registered agreement which is denied by the appellant/plaintiff. The cause of action as shown by the plaintiff/appellant is a mixed question of fact and law, and it should not be decided prima facie, and the plaint shall not be thrown out at the very initial stage without going into merits of the case. The original suit is still pending.

40. It is evident, prima facie, that defendants/respondents has failed to submit any registered document by which or by any other mode by which he had got back the possession of the property in dispute which was subject matter of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014, whereas the defendants/respondents has also stated that even after expiry of the aforesaid registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014, he has executed sale deeds in favour of the plaintiff/appellant. This shows their concession. It may be considered as implicit continuance of physical possession and continuation of terms and condition settled by way of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 between the parties to the suit which is very basis of the said suit.

41. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has submitted that the sale deeds which had been executed after expiry of period of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014, for which possession has also been delivered to the plaintiff/appellant, if they had not in possession, how it could be transferred, whereas, the defendants/respondents failed to submit any document by which he had re-got the possession which he already delivered to the plaintiff/appellant after receiving entire sale consideration and admitted in the said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014. The said delivery of possession in post sale deed could be considered as constructive delivery of possession at this stage.

42. Learned counsel for the respondents/defendants has vehemently relied on that the revenue entries, that they were consistently in the name of the transferor at the time of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 in his favour and thereafter also in favour of defendants/respondents. At no point of time, neither mutation nor any entries in the revenue record has ever in the name of plaintiff/appellant. When it is the case of the plaintiff/appellant that the defendant/respondents has executed registered agreement to sale alongwith possession after receiving entire sale consideration, but no sale deed has been executed in his favour. Hence, it is very much natural that revenue entries was in the name of defendants/respondents and it could not give any edge to the defendants/respondents.

43. Learned counsel for the plaintiff/appellant has relied that he is claiming the possessory title including possession which he has got in the property in dispute on the basis of said registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 and he is in continuous possession over the said property. On the contrary, learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has failed to submit any registered document which may show that possession had been re-transferred by the plaintiff/appellant to the defendants/respondents or by any other valid document executed between the parties. The alleged compromise or agreement dated 18.7.2022 which is an unregistered document and vehemently denied by the plaintiff/appellant, it could not be considered as valid document by which delivery of possession by the plaintiff/appellant in favour of defendants/respondents was made. The original suit No. 1183 of 2023 has been filed by the plaintiff/appellant/Satya Homes Pvt. Ltd against the defendants/ respondents for permanent injunction and for declaration of ownership on the basis of its possessory title on the basis of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 and for mandatory injunction.

44. Learned counsel for the defendants/respondents has relied that main relief could not be granted, hence, ancillary relief of permanent injunction could also not be granted.

He further submitted that when permanent relief may not be granted, then temporary injunction relief also may not be granted. It is undisputed that the registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 has been executed by the defendants/respondents in favour of the plaintiff/appellant after receiving the entire sale consideration and also delivered possession of the suit property and said possession has not been taken back or by any other mode has been re-transferred by the plaintiff/appellant to the defendants/respondents or obtained by the defendants/respondents. Whereas, the matter is at the level of application under Order 39 Rule 1 and 2 read with Section 151 CPC and the temporary injunction has been rejected by the learned trial court by the impugned order dated 5.9.2025, whereas, the entire civil suit has to be decided on its own merits. All the questions of fact and law which has been raised by the defendants/respondents at this stage that has to be considered by the learned trial court during trial. At this stage, only prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss and injury has to be seen. The possession over the property in dispute which had been granted by the defendants/respondents after receipt of entire sale consideration in execution of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 in favour of the plaintiff/appellant is appeared to be undisturbed, prima facie, till this stage. That has to be protected, failing which the appellants/plaintiff would suffer irreparable loss and injury and also it involves multiplicity of proceedings.

45. In view thereof, prima facie case, balance of convenience and irreparable loss and injury is in favour of the plaintiff/appellant. Hence, the impugned order dated 5.9.2025, passed by the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division), Gautam Buddh Nagar in Civil Suit No. 1183 of 2023 (Satya Homes Pvt. Ltd. Vs. Fundan and others), is, hereby set aside. The defendants/respondents are restrained from making any interference into the peaceful possession of the plaintiff/appellant over the property in dispute on the basis of registered agreement to sale dated 2.5.2014 and further, they are also restrained from changing nature of the property in dispute during the pendency of the suit.

46. In view thereof, and for the reasons mentioned herein above, the appeal is entitled to be allowed and it is, accordingly, allowed.

Order on Impleadment Application.

1. An impleadment application has been filed by Diksha Nijhawan/applicant/third party. The third party has claimed that the defendants/respondents has executed a registered sale deed and also delivered possession to her of the land in question, hence she is necessary party and her impleadment application be allowed.

2. Considering the facts and circumstances of the case, the third party/applicant is granted liberty to file her impleadment application before the learned trial court that has to be decided by the learned trial court in accordance with law in view of the right alleged by the third party and in view of the facts and circumstances of the case in accordance with law.

3. With these observations and findings, the impleadment application is disposed of.

Civil Misc. Arbitration Application No. 91 of 2024

M/s Transrail Lighting Ltd. ...Appellant
Versus
Madhyanchal Vidyut Vitran Nigam Ltd. ...Respondent

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the High Court, in exercise of its powers under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, can review or recall its own order appointing a nominee arbitrator, so as to terminate the mandate of a lawfully constituted Arbitral Tribunal?

(ii) Whether the ground raised by the applicant — that the arbitration clause in the general conditions of contract stood novated by special conditions of contract providing for a Sole Arbitrator — constituted a serious error warranting exercise of the High Court's inherent power of review under Article 215 of the Constitution?

Headnotes

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 --- S. 11 --- Constitution of India --- Art. 215 --- Power of High Court to review/recall order passed under Section 11 --- Scope.

HELD: The Act of 1996 does not confer power of review on the "Court" as defined in Section 2(e), nor on the High Court while exercising powers under Section 11. The High Court, being a Court of Record under Article 215 of the Constitution, possesses inherent power to review/recall its order, but such power is extremely narrow and can be exercised only to correct an error apparent on the face of the record or a material fact overlooked, resulting in miscarriage of justice; it cannot be invoked to reopen findings of law or re-agitate a controversy already decided. [Paras 20-28]

Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 --- Ss. 4, 10, 11(4), 16 --- Composition of Arbitral Tribunal --- Alleged novation of arbitration clause by special conditions of contract --- Waiver.

HELD: Where the applicant itself invoked arbitration on the premise of a three-member Tribunal, nominated its own arbitrator, and participated in constitution of the Tribunal without raising any objection under Section 16 before the Arbitral Tribunal, the applicant is deemed, under Section 4 of the Act, to have waived its right to object to the composition of the Tribunal; the plea that special conditions of contract mandated a Sole Arbitrator does not constitute an error apparent on the face of the record, nor a ground on the higher pedestal required for exercise of the inherent power of review. [Paras 29-32]

Case Arising From

Orders dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025 passed by this Court in Civil Misc. Arbitration Application No. 91 of 2024 under Section 11(6) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996, appointing a nominee arbitrator on behalf of the respondents.

Appearance for Parties

For the Applicant(s): Abhinav Kumar Mathur, Siddhartha Kumar.
For the Opposite Party(s): Manish Jauhari.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jaspreet Singh, J.)

1. The instant application for recall has been moved by the petitioner along with an application seeking condonation of delay, whereby the petitioner prayed that after condoning the delay the order dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025 be recalled and its consequence would be that the mandate of nominee arbitrator appointed by this Court, on behalf of the respondents, in terms of Section 11(4) of the Arbitration and Conciliation Act, 1996 (for short, 'the Act of 1996') would be terminated.

2. Notices were issued on the aforesaid application on 26.11.2025 and in furtherance thereof the respondents have filed their objections on 12.03.2026.

3. Shri Abhinav Kumar Mathur and Ms. Sushmita Mukharjee, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the petitioner had preferred a petition under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 and the Court while exercising its power under Section 11(4) of the Act appointed a nominee arbitrator on behalf of the respondents.

4. It was submitted that the parties had entered in a contract which contained an arbitration clause. However, special conditions of contract prescribed appointment of a Sole Arbitrator for all disputes and claims which were valued upto Rs.25.00 Crores. It was further submitted that special conditions of contract could not be referred by the petitioner or by the respondent during the course of submissions and no specific reference was made to it in the pleadings of the petition under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996. Thus, the said fact could not be brought to the notice of the Court and the appointment of the nominee arbitrator in terms of Section 11(4) of the Act of 1996 was made in terms of the general conditions of the contract, which stood novated by the special conditions of contract.

5. The Court while hearing the petition under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 and considering the submissions of the parties vide order dated 17.07.2025, found that the parties had entered into a contract which contained an arbitration clause. The Court also found that the disputes had occurred and the petitioner had invoked the arbitration clause appropriately and it had also nominated its arbitrator. Since, the respondents did not nominate its arbitrator, hence, the Court after receiving the consent from the proposed arbitrator appointed a nominated arbitrator on behalf of the respondents vide order dated 07.08.2025.

6. It was further submitted that the nomination of the respondents' party arbitrator was against special conditions of contract, which novated and superseded the arbitration clause contained in Clause 39 of the general conditions of contract.

7. It was also submitted that the aforesaid discrepancy could not be noticed and later the said fact came to the notice of the petitioner while undertaking a detailed examination of the contract documents. Immediately thereafter, acting with due diligence, this application for recall was moved and it was prayed that any delay in moving the said application be condoned, as the delay if any, was neither intentional nor deliberate. Thus, the orders dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025 deserves to be recalled and a Sole Arbitrator in terms of Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 be appointed.

8. Shri Manish Jauhari, learned counsel for the respondents very fairly did not contest the issue of delay but while pressing his objection on merits has urged that the application for review/recall is not maintainable in law.

9. It was urged that since the order was passed on merits after hearing the parties, hence, there can be no occasion for recalling the said orders and if the petitioner was aggrieved by the said orders, it had a remedy available to assail the orders before the Apex Court, but an application for recall was not maintainable.

10. Shri Jauhari further urged that even otherwise the orders impugned cannot be reviewed as they were passed on merits after considering the submissions and material on record. In the garb of review, the petitioner cannot be permitted a second chance and re-hearing to make submissions on merits. For the aforesaid reasons, the application termed as recall is actually a review petition, hence, it deserves to be dismissed.

11. It was further pointed out by the learned counsel for the respondents that after the orders were passed by this Court, the party nominated arbitrator of the petitioner and the party nominated arbitrator of the respondents (which was appointed by this Court by means of the orders impugned) with mutual consultations appointed the Presiding Arbitrator.

12. It was urged that after the Arbitral Tribunal was constituted, the petitioner had moved an application before the Arbitral Tribunal raising the same issue as raised before this Court. The Arbitral Tribunal has kept the proceedings in abeyance on the request of the petitioner and it also observed that the claimant may also seek extension of time for the Tribunal.

13. It was thus, urged that the petitioner could have raised the aforesaid issue before the Tribunal in terms of Section 16 of the Act of 1996 or could have challenged the orders passed by this Court before the Apex Court, but the ground on which the instant application for recall/review has been moved, the same cannot be entertained. Furthermore, after passing of the orders in exercise of powers under Section 11 of the Act of 1996, the Court becomes functus officio and for all the aforesaid reasons, the applications deserve to be dismissed.

14. Shri Mathur and Ms. Mukharjee, learned counsel for the respondents while responding to the aforesaid objections submitted that even if the application for recall may not be maintainable yet the said application can be treated as an application for review. Since, the orders have been passed by the High Court and even though the Act of 1996 may not have specifically conferred powers of review yet the High Court being a 'Court of Record', it has inherent powers in terms of Article 215 of the Constitution of India to review its orders for meeting ends of justice and to avoid any miscarriage of justice. In support of the submissions, the learned counsel for the petitioner relied upon the decision of the Apex Court in Municipal Corporation of Greater Mumbai and others v. Pratibha Industries Ltd. : (2019) 3 SCC 203, Hindustan Construction Company Ltd. v. Bihar Rajya Pul Nirman Nigam Limited and others : 2025 INSC 1365 and a decision of the Bombay High Court in Adani Enterprises Limited v. Antikeros Shipping Corporation : MANU/MH/0482/2019 which is based on the proposition as laid down by the Apex Court in Kapra Mazdoor Ekta Union v. Management of Birla Cotton Spinning and Weaving Mills Ltd. and others : (2005) 13 SCC 777.

15. The Court has heard learned counsel for the parties and also perused the material on record.

16. Primarily, the issue which requires consideration of this Court is:-

(i) Whether the High Court in exercise of its powers under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 can review its order which may have the impact of terminating the mandate of the Arbitral Tribunal.

17. At the outset, it may be noted that the Act of 1996 is a Central Legislation and is a Code in itself. There is no dispute that the Court or the High Court in terms of Section 11 of the Act of 1996 have not been conferred with the powers of review. In this backdrop, where the powers of review has not been conferred on the Court then whether the High Court in exercise of powers under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 can review its orders.

18. Delving into the said question, a little deeper, it would reveal that the Act of 1996 has defined the word 'Court' to mean as under:-

"2(e) "Court" means----

(i) in the case of an arbitration other than international commercial arbitration, the principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in a district, and includes the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, but does not include any Civil Court of a grade inferior to such principal Civil Court, or any Court of Small Causes;

(ii) in the case of international commercial arbitration, the High Court in exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, having jurisdiction to decide the questions forming the subject-matter of the arbitration if the same had been the subject-matter of a suit, and in other cases, a High Court having jurisdiction to hear appeals from decrees of courts subordinate to that High Court;]"

19. This would necessarily mean that wherever the word 'Court' occurs in Sections 9, 13, 14, 29-A, 34, 36 and 37 of the Act of 1996 in Part-I of the Act of 1996, it would contextually refer to the definition of Court as noticed above. This word 'Court' used in Section 9 and other sections of the Act of 1996 noticed above, if seen in context with Section 11 of the Act of 1996, would reveal that the powers to appoint an Arbitrator has been conferred on the High Court and the Hon'ble Supreme Court respectively. Here, in Section 11 of the Act of 1996, the word 'Court' has not been used rather it uses the word 'High Court' or the Hon'ble 'Supreme Court', as the case may, which is designated to exercise the powers of appointment of an arbitrator as given under the Scheme of the Act of 1996.

20. From the perusal of the Act of 1996, it would reveal that the said Act does not confer power of review on the Court. Thus, per-se, the Court defined in Section 2(e) cannot exercise the power of review. However, the same may not be true for the High Court or the Hon'ble Supreme Court, which are 'Courts of Record'. It may be correct to say that the High Court while exercising its powers under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 may not review its orders but the inherent powers invested in the High Court or the Supreme Court by virtue of being a Court of Record can be invoked to correct the record or undo a serious error which if remained unaddressed, may occasion failure of justice. To suggest that the High Court or the Hon'ble Supreme Court would be denuded of its powers and may not be in a position to review its order, would be contrary to the ethos of the Constitutional principles enshrined in Article 129 and Article 215 of the Constitution of India, relating to Hon'ble Supreme Court and the High Court, as the case may be.

21. This aspect of the matter was considered by the Apex Court in Pratibha Industries Ltd. (supra) where the Apex Court noticed the aforesaid proposition and held that the High Court as the Court of record exercises plenary jurisdiction and has inherent powers to recall its order to prevent miscarriage of justice. The relevant portion of the aforesaid report reads as under:-

"10. Insofar as the High Courts' jurisdiction to recall its own order is concerned, the High Courts are courts of record, set up under Article 215 of the Constitution of India. Article 215 of the Constitution of India reads as under:

"215. High Courts to be courts of record.?Every High Court shall be a court of record and shall have all the powers of such a court including the power to punish for contempt of itself."

It is clear that these constitutional courts, being courts of record, the jurisdiction to recall their own orders is inherent by virtue of the fact that they are superior courts of record. This has been recognised in several of our judgments.

11. In National Sewing Thread Co. Ltd. v. James Chadwick and Bros. Ltd. [National Sewing Thread Co. Ltd. v. James Chadwick and Bros. Ltd., (1953) 1 SCC 794 : 1953 SCR 1028 : AIR 1953 SC 357] , this Court has held as under: (AIR pp. 359-60, para 7)

-7. - The Trade Marks Act does not provide or lay down any procedure for the future conduct or career of that appeal in the High Court, indeed Section 77 of the Act provides that the High Court can, if it likes, make rules in the matter. Obviously after the appeal had reached the High Court it has to be determined according to the rules of practice and procedure of that Court and in accordance with the provisions of the charter under which that Court is constituted and which confers on it power in respect to the method and manner of exercising that jurisdiction. The rule is well settled that when a statute directs that an appeal shall lie to a Court already established, then that appeal must be regulated by the practice and procedure of that Court. This rule was very succinctly stated by Viscount Haldane, L.C. in National Telephone Co. Ltd. v. Postmaster General [National Telephone Co. Ltd. v. Postmaster General, 1913 AC 546 (HL)] , in these terms:

"When a question is stated to be referred to an established court without more, it in my opinion, imports that the ordinary incidents of the procedure of that court are to attach, and also that any general right of appeal from its decision likewise attaches."

The same view was expressed by their Lordships of the Privy Council in R.M.A.R.A. Adaikappa Chettiar v. R. Chandrasekhara Thevar [R.M.A.R.A. Adaikappa Chettiar v. R. Chandrasekhara Thevar, 1947 SCC OnLine PC 53 : (1946-47) 74 IA 264] , wherein it was said: (SCC OnLine PC)

"Where a legal right is in dispute and the ordinary courts of the country are seized of such dispute the courts are governed by the ordinary rules of procedure, applicable thereto and an appeal lies if authorised by such rules, notwithstanding that the legal right claimed arises under a special statute which does not, in terms confer a right of appeal."

Again in Secy. of State for India v. Chellikani Rama Rao [Secy. of State for India v. Chellikani Rama Rao, 1916 SCC OnLine PC 42 : (1915-16) 43 IA 192 : ILR (1916) 39 Mad 617] , when dealing with the case under the Madras Forest Act their Lordships observed as follows: (SCC OnLine PC)

"It was contended on behalf of the appellant that all further proceedings in courts in India or by way of appeal were incompetent, these being excluded by the terms of the statute just quoted. In their Lordships' opinion, this objection is not well founded. Their view is that when proceedings of this character reach the District Court, that court is appealed to as one of the ordinary courts of the country, with regard to whose procedure, orders and decrees the ordinary rules of the Civil Procedure Code apply."

Though the facts of the cases laying down the above rule were not exactly similar to the facts of the present case, the principle enunciated therein is one of general application and has an apposite application to the facts and circumstances of the present case. Section 76 of the Trade Marks Act confers a right of appeal to the High Court and says nothing more about it. That being so, the High Court being seized as such of the appellate jurisdiction conferred by Section 76 it has to exercise that jurisdiction in the same manner as it exercises its other appellate jurisdiction and when such jurisdiction is exercised by a Single Judge, his judgment becomes subject to appeal under Clause 15 of the Letters Patent there being nothing to the contrary in the Trade Marks Act.?

12. To similar effect is our judgment in Shivdev Singh v. State of Punjab [Shivdev Singh v. State of Punjab, AIR 1963 SC 1909] , wherein this Court has stated as under: (AIR p. 1911, para 8)

-8. - It is sufficient to say that there is nothing in Article 226 of the Constitution to preclude a High Court from exercising the power of review which inheres in every court of plenary jurisdiction to prevent miscarriage of justice or to correct grave and palpable errors committed by it.?

13. Also, in M.M. Thomas v. State of Kerala [M.M. Thomas v. State of Kerala, (2000) 1 SCC 666] , this Court has held as follows: (SCC pp. 672-73, para 14)

"14. The High Court as a court of record, as envisaged in Article 215 of the Constitution, must have inherent powers to correct the records. A court of record envelops all such powers whose acts and proceedings are to be enrolled in a perpetual memorial and testimony. A court of record is undoubtedly a superior court which is itself competent to determine the scope of its jurisdiction. The High Court, as a court of record, has a duty to itself to keep all its records correctly and in accordance with law. Hence, if any apparent error is noticed by the High Court in respect of any orders passed by it, the High Court has not only power, but a duty to correct it. The High Court's power in that regard is plenary. In Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra [Naresh Shridhar Mirajkar v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1967 SC 1 : (1966) 3 SCR 744] , a nine-Judge Bench of this Court has recognised the aforesaid superior status of the High Court as a court of plenary jurisdiction being a court of record."

22. However, the Apex Court while considering the power of the High Court to review its order passed in exercise of powers under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 in Bihar Rajya Pul Nirman Nigam Limited (supra) by referring to the earlier decision in Pratibha Industries Ltd. (supra) observed that there is a narrow window available to a Court under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 to review the order only if it is based on procedural lapses and not where there is re-hearing on a question of law nor any findings returned can be revisited after interpretation of the arbitration agreement. The Apex Court also cautioned that once an order passed under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 has attained finality, the only remedy available is to approach the Hon'ble Supreme Court under Article 136 of the Constitution of India or to raise objections under Section 16 of the Act of 1996. The Court must resist an attempt to re-enter the controversy through the backdoor where the statute has already shut the front door. It was also observed that Section 11 of the Act of 1996 is intended to trigger arbitration and not to create multiple stages of judicial reconsideration. The relevant portion of the aforesaid report reads as under:-

"39. Thus, the entire scheme of the Act strongly discourages any mid-way judicial intervention, especially by way of review, as it would run contrary to both the text and the spirit of the statute.

40. Although the power exercised by the High Court under Section 11 is judicial in nature post-SBP & Co. case [SBP & Co. v. Patel Engg. Ltd., (2005) 8 SCC 618 : (2005) 128 Comp Cas 465] , its scope remains narrow. Once an arbitrator is appointed, the arbitral process must proceed unhindered. There is no statutory provision for review or appeal from an order under Section 11, which reflects a conscious legislative choice.

41. While the High Courts, as courts of record, do possess a limited power of review, such power is extremely circumscribed in matters governed by the Arbitration Act. It may be exercised only to correct an error apparent on the face of the record or to address a material fact that was overlooked. It cannot be used to revisit findings of law or reappreciate issues already decided.

45. The decisions such as Municipal Corpn. of Greater Mumbai v. Pratibha Industries Ltd. [Municipal Corpn. of Greater Mumbai v. Pratibha Industries Ltd., (2019) 3 SCC 203 : (2019) 2 SCC (Civ) 28] , and Mohd. Anwar v. Pushpalata Jain [Mohd. Anwar v. Pushpalata Jain, (2025) 14 SCC 785 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 3760] , illustrate this narrow window, where review was permitted only because the earlier orders had been passed in ignorance of fundamental facts. These cases are confined to procedural lapses, not to re-examining matters of law.

46. By contrast, in the present case, the High Court reopened the issue of interpretation of the arbitration clause based solely on a subsequent judgment. Such an exercise falls squarely outside the scope of review jurisdiction. Even assuming that a review was maintainable, it was filed after an unexplained delay of nearly three years and was not founded on any error apparent on the face of the record or any suppression of material fact.

47. Once the Section 11 order had attained finality, the only remedies available to the respondents were to approach this Court under Article 136 or to raise objections under Section 16 before the Arbitral Tribunal. Having chosen neither route, and having participated in the arbitral proceedings, including joint applications under Section 29-A, they were estopped from reopening the matter through review. A later judgment cannot revive a concluded cause of action.

48. As emphasized in BSNL v. Nortel Networks (India) (P) Ltd. [BSNL v. Nortel Networks (India) (P) Ltd., (2021) 5 SCC 738 : (2021) 3 SCC (Civ) 352] , courts must resist ?attempts to re-enter through the back door what the statute has shut through the front door?. Section 11 is intended to trigger arbitration, not to create multiple stages of judicial reconsideration.

49. For the reasons discussed above, this Court is of the considered view that the High Court did not have the jurisdiction to reopen or review its earlier order passed under Section 11(6) of the A&C Act. Once the appointment was made, the court became functus officio and could not sit in judgment over the very issue it had already settled. The review order cuts against the grain of the Act, undermines the principle of minimal judicial interference, and effectively converts the review into an appeal in disguise. Such an exercise cannot stand. Accordingly, this issue is answered in the negative."

23. Before proceeding any further, at this stage and only for the purpose of reference, assuming if the power of review was conferred under the Act of 1996 then, whether the ground which has been raised by the petitioner would fall within the ambit of a review. A review lies where there is an error apparent on the face of record or new material discovered which could not be known despite due diligence or could not have been in the knowledge of the person seeking review or some other like sufficient reason. The Apex Court in Ram Sahu and others v. Vinod Kumar Rawat and others, 2020 SCC OnLine SC 896 had the occasion to consider the scope of review. Again in Sanjay Kumar Agarwal v. Sale Tax Officer (1), and another : (2024) 2 SCC 362, the Apex Court in Para-16 noticed the scope and grounds upon which a review can be considered which reads as under:-

"16. The gist of the aforestated decisions is that:

16.1. A judgment is open to review inter alia if there is a mistake or an error apparent on the face of the record.

16.2. A judgment pronounced by the court is final, and departure from that principle is justified only when circumstances of a substantial and compelling character make it necessary to do so.

16.3. An error which is not self-evident and has to be detected by a process of reasoning, can hardly be said to be an error apparent on the face of record justifying the court to exercise its power of review.

16.4. In exercise of the jurisdiction under Order 47 Rule 1CPC, it is not permissible for an erroneous decision to be "reheard and corrected".

16.5. A review petition has a limited purpose and cannot be allowed to be "an appeal in disguise".

16.6. Under the guise of review, the petitioner cannot be permitted to reagitate and reargue the questions which have already been addressed and decided.

16.7. An error on the face of record must be such an error which, mere looking at the record should strike and it should not require any long-drawn process of reasoning on the points where there may conceivably be two opinions.

16.8. Even the change in law or subsequent decision/judgment of a coordinate or larger Bench by itself cannot be regarded as a ground for review."

24. Now having considered the dictum as made by the Apex Court, it can clearly be stated that even though the High Court under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 may not have powers to review but the High Court being a Court of Record by virtue of Article 215 of the Constitution of India has inherent powers to review/recall an order but the scope thereof is very narrow. Hence, the grounds upon which the High Court may exercise its constitutional powers to review must be on higher and elevated pedestal than the grounds of review as noticed in Para-16 of Sanjay Kumar Agarwal (supra).

25. Now, in this context, if the case of Pratibha Industries Ltd. (supra) is seen, it would reveal that the Hon'ble Apex Court had made the observations that a High Court being a Court of record has inherent powers in terms of Article 215 of the Constitution of India to prevent the failure of justice, this was due to the fact that in the said case it was found that there was no arbitration clause between the parties. In absence of the arbitration clause, which was a fundamental prerequisite for invoking the powers under Section 11 of the Act of 1996 to appoint an Arbitrator, there could be no appointment of an Arbitrator. Hence, it is in these circumstances the Apex Court made the said observations. Admittedly, in the instant case, the parties agree that there is an arbitration clause, which was invoked and the Arbitrator was appointed. Accordingly, the said decision of Pratibha Industries Ltd. (supra) cannot be invoked by the petitioner to its aid.

26. Similarly, in Bihar Rajya Pul Nirman Nigam Limited (supra), though the Apex Court recognized that there is no power of review and further also observed that the High Court being the Court of record cannot be denuded on its inherent powers but the said inherent powers cannot be invoked to enter and reconsider the controversy through the backdoor when the statute has shut the front door.

27. It is now well settled that what cannot be done directly cannot be done indirectly either. Thus tempting the Court to entertain a review/recall as suggested by the learned counsel for the petitioner, on the basis of the decision of the Apex Court Pratibha Industries Ltd. (supra) and Bihar Rajya Pul Nirman Nigam Limited (supra) cannot be countenanced as the grounds for exercise of this power under Article 215 of the Constitution of India is narrow and the ratio of the aforesaid cases cannot be stretched to fit in the facts of the instant case.

28. Thus, the upshot of the above discussion is that though the High Court may exercise its inherent powers under Article 215 of the Constitution of India to review/recall but that too can only be done in such cases, where a serious error in an order if allowed to stand would result in miscarriage of justice or any such other like ground, which is on a higher pedestal than the established grounds upon which generally a review is entertained.

29. Having held as aforesaid, now lets examine whether the grounds pleaded for review in the instant case can be considered to be a serious error in the order which if allowed to stand will result in miscarriage of justice and is on an elevated pedestal than the grounds upon which a review is generally entertained.

30. At this stage, it will be relevant to notice that the contention of the petitioner was that the general condition of contract was novated by special conditions of contract which provided, that claims upto Rs.25.00 crores would be considered by the Sole Arbitrator and since the valuation of the claims of the petitioner were under the said limit, hence, the Sole Arbitrator should decide the disputes between the parties and this is a serious error as by the order impugned a three Member Arbitral Tribunal has been constituted which is against the terms of the contract.

31. The aforesaid submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner cannot be accepted for more than one reason.

(i) First, in the petition preferred by the petitioner under Section 11(6) of the Act of 1996 in Para-3 it quoted and referred that the disputes were to be resolved by a Tribunal of three Members, one each to be nominated by the contractor and the employee and the third to be appointed by the two party nominated Arbitrators. In para-11 of the petition, the petitioner did refer to the special conditions of the contract, however, what is relevant to notice, is that the petitioner in Para-30 of the petition specifically stated that the petitioner requested for a formation of a panel of Arbitrators vide its notice dated 18.01.2024. The petitioner went on to state that the petitioner had nominated its Arbitrator, a former Judge of this Court and requested the respondents to nominate their Arbitrator. For the sake of reference, Para-31 of the petition is being reproduced hereinafter:-

"31. That when no reply was given within 30 days to the notice dated 18.01.2024, the Applicant vide letter dated 22.02.2024 bearing Ref No.TLL/MVVNL/38356, nominated Mrs. Poonam Srivastava, Former Judge, Allahabad High Court, Lucknow Bench, as an Arbitrator and requested for nomination of Arbitrator by the Respondent as per clause 39.2 of GCC (Vol.1 section IV). A copy of the letter dated 22.02.2024 bearing Ref No.TLL/MVVNL/38356 is annexed herewith as Annexure No.23."

In Para-38, the petitioner pleaded that since the respondents did not nominate its party Arbitrator, hence, the nominee arbitrator of the petitioner may be treated as a Sole Arbitrator. The prayer made by the petitioner in the petition also specifically stated as such which is reproduced hereinafter:-

"i. Refer the dispute between the parties arising out of an agreement dated 17.05.2018, to the Nominee arbitrator of the Claimant to act as Sole Aribrator, to be appointed by this Hon'ble Court."

(ii) Apparently, in the petition, the petitioner also recognized that the dispute had to be resolved by a panel of Arbitrators. Vide letter dated 20.02.2024, the petitioner nominated its Arbitrator in terms of Clause 39.2 of GCC and required the respondents to appoint its Arbitrator.

Thus, at all given time, the petitioner continued to proceed on the premise that the disputes had to be resolved by a panel of Arbitrators and it had clearly appointed its own nominated Arbitrator and required the respondents to appoint its own.

(iii) Second, when the matter came up before the Court, then in exercise of powers under Section 11(4) of the Act of 1996, this Court nominated an Arbitrator on behalf of the respondents vide order dated 07.08.2025.

(iv) Both the party nominated Arbitrators consulted and mutually appointed the Presiding Arbitrator. This would indicate that both the parties continued to proceed on the premise that the disputes had to be resolved by a panel of Arbitrators. This would further show that the formation of the Tribunal comprising of a three Members was with the consent of the parties (including consent on the number of Arbitrators).

(v) At this stage, it will be relevant to notice Section 10 of the Act of 1996 which clearly states that the parties are free to determine the number of Arbitrators, provided that such number shall not be an even number. Thus, the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal of three Members cannot be said to be in violation of any provisions of law.

(vi) Third, there is another way of looking at this issue and that is that the Act is based on two important principles (i) Party Autonomy and (ii) the Principles of Kompetenz - Kompetenz. Under the Act of 1996, the parties have been given utmost freedom to choose the number of Arbitrators, which finds reflection in Section 10 of the Act of 1996. Simultaneously, if Section 4 of the Act of 1996 is seen, it would reveal that it recognizes the right of a party to waive a right to object. For ready reference, Section 4 of the Act of 1996 is being reproduced hereinafter for better appreciation:-

"4. Waiver of right to object. - A party who knows that-

(a) any provision of this Part from which the parties may derogate, or

(b) any requirement under the arbitration agreement, has not been complied with and yet proceeds with the arbitration without stating his objection to such non-compliance without undue delay or, if a time limit is provided for stating that objection, within that period of time, shall be deemed to have waived his right to so object."

(vii) Applying the provisions of Section 4 of the Act of 1996 to the facts of the instant case, it would reveal that the parties were aware of all the facts when they entered into the contract. All such facts were also in the notice of the parties when the petitioner escalated the disputes for the purposes of resolving the disputes through the mode as prescribed in the said agreement. Even while filing the petition, reference was made to the conditions of contract but the petitioner and the respondents, both proceeded on the premise that the disputes were to be resolved by a panel of three Arbitrators.

(viii) It cannot be disputed that the freedom given to the parties to decide the number of Arbitrators is paramount and this power to choose the number of Arbitrators is not non-derogable.

In other words, if the number of Arbitrators is decided by the parties at a stage then it is not as if the parties by consent cannot change or agree to a different strength of number of Arbitrators. The Apex Court considered this aspect of the matter in Narayan Prasad Lohia v. Nikunj Kumar Lohia : (2002) 3 SCC 572 and it held as under:-

"14. We have heard the parties at length. We have considered the submissions. Undoubtedly, Section 10 provides that the number of arbitrators shall not be an even number. The question still remains whether Section 10 is a non-derogable provision. In our view the answer to this question would depend on the question as to whether, under the said Act, a party has a right to object to the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal, if such composition is not in accordance with the said Act, and if so, at what stage. It must be remembered that arbitration is a creature of an agreement. There can be no arbitration unless there is an arbitration agreement in writing between the parties.

15. In the said Act, provisions have been made in Sections 12, 13 and 16 for challenging the competence, impartiality and jurisdiction. Such challenge must however be before the Arbitral Tribunal itself.

16. It has been held by a Constitution Bench of this Court, in the case of Konkan Rly. Corpn. Ltd. v. Rani Construction (P) Ltd. [(2002) 2 SCC 388] that Section 16 enables the Arbitral Tribunal to rule on its own jurisdiction. It has been held that under Section 16 the Arbitral Tribunal can rule on any objection with respect to existence or validity of the arbitration agreement. It is held that the Arbitral Tribunal's authority under Section 16, is not confined to the width of its jurisdiction but goes also to the root of its jurisdiction. Not only this decision is binding on this Court, but we are in respectful agreement with the same. Thus it is no longer open to contend that, under Section 16, a party cannot challenge the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal before the Arbitral Tribunal itself. Such a challenge must be taken, under Section 16(2), not later than the submission of the statement of defence. Section 16(2) makes it clear that such a challenge can be taken even though the party may have participated in the appointment of the arbitrator and/or may have himself appointed the arbitrator. Needless to state a party would be free, if it so chooses, not to raise such a challenge. Thus a conjoint reading of Sections 10 and 16 shows that an objection to the composition of the Arbitral Tribunal is a matter which is derogable. It is derogable because a party is free not to object within the time prescribed in Section 16(2). If a party chooses not to so object there will be a deemed waiver under Section 4. Thus, we are unable to accept the submission that Section 10 is a non-derogable provision. In our view Section 10 has to be read along with Section 16 and is, therefore, a derogable provision.

17. We are also unable to accept Mr Venugopal's argument that, as a matter of public policy, Section 10 should be held to be non-derogable. Even though the said Act is now an integrated law on the subject of arbitration, it cannot and does not provide for all contingencies. An arbitration being a creature of agreement between the parties, it would be impossible for the legislature to cover all aspects. Just by way of example Section 10 permits the parties to determine the number of arbitrators, provided that such number is not an even number. Section 11(2) permits parties to agree on a procedure for appointing the arbitrator or arbitrators. Section 11 then provides how arbitrators are to be appointed if the parties do not agree on a procedure or if there is failure of the agreed procedure. A reading of Section 11 would show that it only provides for appointments in cases where there is only one arbitrator or three arbitrators. By agreement parties may provide for appointment of 5 or 7 arbitrators. If they do not provide for a procedure for their appointment or there is failure of the agreed procedure, then Section 11 does not contain any provision for such a contingency. Can this be taken to mean that the agreement of the parties is invalid? The answer obviously has to be in the negative. Undoubtedly the procedure provided in Section 11 will mutatis mutandis apply for appointment of 5 or 7 or more arbitrators. Similarly, even if parties provide for appointment of only two arbitrators, that does not mean that the agreement becomes invalid. Under Section 11(3) the two arbitrators should then appoint a third arbitrator who shall act as the presiding arbitrator. Such an appointment should preferably be made at the beginning. However, we see no reason, why the two arbitrators cannot appoint a third arbitrator at a later stage i.e. if and when they differ. This would ensure that on a difference of opinion the arbitration proceedings are not frustrated. But if the two arbitrators agree and give a common award there is no frustration of the proceedings. In such a case their common opinion would have prevailed, even if the third arbitrator, presuming there was one, had differed. Thus we do not see how there would be waste of time, money and expense if a party, with open eyes, agrees to go to arbitration of two persons and then participates in the proceedings. On the contrary there would be waste of time, money and energy if such a party is allowed to resile because the award is not to its liking. Allowing such a party to resile would not be in furtherance of any public policy and would be most inequitable."

(ix) Thus, where both the parties proceeded for appointment of their party nominated Arbitrators and the two party nominated Arbitrators consulted and mutually appointed the Presiding Arbitrator. Thus, for all practical purposes upto the formation of the Arbitral Tribunal comprising of three Members, none of the parties had raised the issue regarding appointment of a Sole Arbitrator. The petitioner did not bring on record any material to indicate that the party nominated Arbitrator of the petitioner was ever informed of this issue or that the mandate of the petitioner's nominated Arbitrator was terminated. The petitioner has also not brought on record any material to indicate that the petitioner moved any application under Section 16 of the Act of 1996 before the Arbitral Tribunal, which could have been done but admittedly no such application was moved.

(x) Fourth, the apprehension of the petitioner as expressed herein, is mentioned in the order of the Arbitral Tribunal dated 12.10.2025, which has been brought on record by the respondents along with their objections and the relevant portion thereof reads as under:-

"The learned counsel submitted that in view of subsequent amendment in Special Condition of Contract (SCC) any party may raise objection regarding validity of constitution of Arbitral Tribunal under Section 34(2)(a)(v) of the Act. Her contention is that the present application is to avoid any such situation in future. She argued that in case parties give written consent or court make declaration to Arbitral jurisdiction, any situation in future would be avoided.

There is nothing in application to show that any amendment has been made in GCC, according to which three Members Arbitral Tribunal would have jurisdiction to adjudicate the dispute under contract. The present Arbitral Tribunal is in accordance with GCC.

However, in view of subsequent amendment as alleged in SCC, looking to the claimant's apprehension the proceedings in the arbitration matter are kept in abeyance as prayed.

The claimant may have to seek order regarding extension of time also."

(xi) From the above quoted contention as recorded in the order of the Arbitral Tribunal, it would indicate that the apprehension appears to be more artificial than substantive. Even while filing the objections before this Court, the respondents did not support the aforesaid contention nor ever stated that the respondent did not agree to the nomination of the Arbitrator made by this Court on behalf of the respondent nor the said order was challenged by the respondent before the Apex Court or raise a challenge before the Arbitral Tribunal in terms of the Kompetenz - Kompetenz principles as incorporated in Section 16 of the Act of 1996.

(xii) Furthermore, at best, the respondents could have raised an objection which it did not either before the Arbitral Tribunal or before this Court, hence, the provisions of Section 4 of the Act of 1996 would equally operate against the respondents. Thus, the apprehension as expressed by the petitioner has no substance.

32. Thus, to sum up, here both parties proceeded on the premise of resolving the disputes by a panel of three Arbitrators and they consented and participated in formation of the Arbitral Tribunal and now when the Tribunal is proceeding with the matter, the petitioner has come up before this Court seeking review of the orders passed by this Court dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025, upon an artificial apprehension, as noticed in above. This Court finds that the grounds upon which the petitioner has moved the instant application do not even fall within the established grounds, upon which a review could be entertained what to say of the requirement that the grounds must be on a higher pedestal than the general grounds of review. The grounds urged for review of the orders dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025 in the instant case falls way short to persuade this Court to exercise its inherent powers to review/recall the orders impugned, moreso when the consequence would be to disband and terminate the mandate of a lawfully constituted Arbitral Tribunal, which is not legally permissible as it would amount to entering into the controversy through the backdoor while the front door remains shut.

33. For all the aforesaid reasons, this Court does not find that it is a fit case to exercise its inherent powers conferred under Article 215 of the Constitution of India to recall/review the orders dated 17.07.2025 and 07.08.2025. Accordingly, the applications are held to be devoid of merits and are dismissed. There shall be no order as to costs.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CIVIL SIDE

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE RAM MANOHAR NARAYAN MISHRA, J.

Second Appeal No. 308 of 2018

Dr. Brij Bhushan & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Satya Bhudhsn Verma ...Respondent

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988, particularly Section 4 thereof, applies to a suit filed after the Act came into force, even though the sale deed in question was executed prior to the Act's commencement, so as to bar the defence of Benami transaction?

(ii) Whether the occupation of the appellant-defendant no.1 in the suit property was that of a licensee or a co-owner, and whether any partition had taken place between the co-owners?

Headnotes

Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 --- Ss. 3, 4 --- Retrospective operation --- Suit filed after commencement of the Act, though sale deed executed prior thereto --- Defence of Benami transaction barred.

HELD: While Section 3 of the Act, creating the offence of entering into a Benami transaction, is prospective, Section 4, which bars any suit, claim, defence or action based on a right in property held Benami, applies to all suits filed after the Act came into force, irrespective of when the underlying transaction took place. Since the sale deed was executed in 1977, but the suit was filed in 2000 and the written statement raising the Benami plea filed in 2001, both after the Act came into force, the defendant is not permitted to take the defence of Benami transaction, save to the extent covered by the saving clause of Section 4(3), prior to its deletion by the amending Act of 2016. [Paras 45, 51]

Hindu Law --- Joint family property --- Property purchased by father in the names of two of several sons, from his own funds --- Held to be a gift and not coparcenary property.

HELD: Where the sale consideration for property purchased in the name of two sons was proved to have been paid by the father from his own funds, to the exclusion of other sons who were non-earning members at the time, the transaction is in the nature of a gift in favour of the named purchasers and not joint family/coparcenary property, and the defence of Benami transaction on this ground is not tenable. [Paras 57-58]

Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 --- S. 100 --- Second Appeal --- Concurrent findings of fact --- Status of appellant in suit property --- Licensee, not co-owner --- No partition proved.

HELD: Where both courts below concurrently found, on evidence, that the suit property was purchased by the father and not by the appellant-defendant, that the appellant was permitted to occupy a portion of the house as a licensee and not as a co-owner, and that no partition by metes and bounds had taken place, no perversity warranting interference in second appeal under Section 100 CPC is made out. [Paras 53-61]

Second appeal dismissed. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Judgment and order dated 27.07.2018 passed by the Additional District Judge/Special Judge EC Act, Lucknow, in Regular Civil Appeal No. 6500026 of 2006, arising out of judgment dated 17.01.2006 and decree dated 31.01.2006 passed by the Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No. 22, Lucknow, in Original Suit No. 391 of 2000, Satya Bhushan Verma and another v. Dr. Brij Bhushan and others.

Appearance for Parties

For the Appellant(s): Dr. Ramsurat Pande, Ankit Pande, Shashank Bhushan Singh, Virendra Bhatt.

For the Respondent(s): Yogendra Singh, Ashok Kumar Srivastava.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard submissions of Sri R.S. Pandey, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Ankit Pandey and Sri Shashank Bhushan Singh, learned counsel for the appellants, Shri Yogendra Singh and Sri Ashok Kumar Srivastava appearing on behalf of the respondent and perused the record.

2. By means of instant second appeal preferred under Section 100 Code of Civil Procedure, the defendant-appellants in Original Suit No.391 of 2000, Shukhnandan Satya Bhushan Verma versus Dr. Brij Bhushan and two others, have assailed the concurrent findings of judgments of both courts below. The Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division), Court No.22, Lucknow, had decreed the suit of the plaintiff-respondents in respect of the suit property, which is House No.531/16Ga, situated at Bhindiya Tola, Bara Chaandganj, Lucknow. The learned trial court issued a mandatory injunction to defendant-appellant Dr. Brij Bhushan to vacate one-half of the western portion of the said house under his occupation, which consists of a room and veranda, kitchen, latrine, bathroom, gallery and staircase on the ground floor and construciton raised on the first floor thereof within prescribed period and hand over the possession of the said portion of the house to the plaintiff no.2. The learned trial court decreed the suit of the plaintiff vide judgment and order dated 17/01/2006. This judgment and decree was assailed by the defendant-appellant before the Court of District Judge, Lucknow by preferring a civil appeal i.e. Regular Civil Appeal No.6500026 of 2006, Dr. Brij Bhushan and others versus Satya Bhushan Verma. The civil appeal was decided by Additional District Judge/Special Judge EC Act, Lucknow, vide judgment and order dated 27/07/2018, whereby the civil appeal preferred by the defendant was dismissed and the judgment and decree passed by the learned trial court dated 17/01/2006 and decree dated 31/01/2006 was affirmed.

3. This Court, at the stage of admission of the second appeal, framed the following substantial questions of law, which are extracted below:

(E) Whether the finding recorded by the courts below are tenable in law as it has held that the prohibition of Benami Property Transaction Act 1988 has retrospective operation and the plea of Benami transaction is barred under Section 4 of the said Act without considering the definition of Benami property and Benami Transaction contained in Section 2(8) and (9) of the aforesaid Act.

(F) Whether the judgment and decree passed by the courts below is perverse in law and facts, both.

4. Learned counsel for the defendant appellants submitted that the plaintiff No.2/respondent along with Sukhnandan filed a suit for possession and Mandatory Injunction which was registered as Regular suit No.331/2000 before the Additional Civil Judge (Senior Division Court No.22 Lucknow with the averments that the suit is being filed for possession and damages as well as for Mandatory Injunction in respect of the house No.531/16Ga, situate in Bhindia Tola Bara Chaandganj, Lucknow towards Western portion of residential part of the house of which portion is in the ownership of defendant /appellant No.2 and 1/2 portion under plaintiff No.2/Respondent. The said land has been purchased in the name of the defendant/appellant No.2 and plaintiff/respondent by his father late Sukhnandan (plaintiff no.1 in Original Suit) in order to settle his sons as Dr. Brij Bhushan Verma had already got employment in the Government job. The said land was purchased through sale deed dated 10.2.1977 in the name of Satya Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan which was registered in Zild No.2309 at page No.148-154 at serial No.1718 on 18.6.1977 before the Sub Registrar Lucknow. It has further been alleged that Sukhnandan, father of appellant and respondent has provided sufficient money for construction of the house in question over the land purchased through sale deed dated 10.2.1977 in the name of Satya Bhushan Verma (Plaintiff No.2/respondent) and Sabitur Bhushan Defendant/appellant No.2. It has further been alleged that after construction of the house, the same was recorded in the name of the aforesaid transferees in the Nagar Maha palika, Lucknow and the house was assessed at Rs.1800/- per annum. It has further been alleged that Dr. Brij Bhushan Verma was transferred to Lucknow in the year 1980 and under the instructions of Sukhnandan father of the appellant and respondent, the appellant No.1 was allowed to occupy the house in question as a licensee on the basis of license granted by Satya Bhushan Verma plaintiff No.2/respondent. It has further been alleged that the house constructed over the plot No.531/16Ga was divided between the Vendees and 1/2 portion in the Eastern side was given to Defendant/Appellant No.2 and 1/2 Western portion was given to respondent by a mutual understanding. It may be pointed out here that no partition took place between the alleged co-owners by metes and bounds by the competent court of law. It has further been alleged that plaintiff/respondent demanded damages @ Rs.500/-per month from the defendant/appellant No.1 in lieu of license granted to him but the defendant/appellant No.1 failed to pay the damages and as such a legal notice was given to him for vacating the premises in question. The suit was filed on 29 November 2000.

5. He next submitted that it has further been averred in the plaint that during pendency of the suit the defendant/appellant No.1 had raised construction over the first floor of the house in question without any authority of law and as such a decree be passed for demolition of the aforesaid construction.

6. He next submitted that the defendant/appellant No.1 filed written statement on 6.1.2001 denying the plaint allegations and stated therein that the land was purchased in 1977 by providing funds by the defendant/plaintiff No.1 but the sale deed has been executed in the name of plaintiff No.2 and defendant No.2 by showing cleverness by plaintiff/respondent. The money for purchasing the plot was supplied by the defendant/appellant No.1 and thereafter the building along with shops was constructed from the money provided by defendant/appellant No.1. It has further been stated that after construction of the house and shops over the plot in question, a family settlement arrived at between the four brothers i.e. plaintiff and defendants by which 2 shops were given to respondent and 2 shops were given to plaintiff defendant/appellant No.2 and residential area came in the share of appellant No.1. The house assessment was also made in Nagar Nigam Lucknow on the basis of the aforesaid family settlement in 1986. The house property was subsequently mutated in the name of Defendant/appellant No.1 also and two shops were mutated in the name of plaintiff/respondent and rest two shops were mutated in the name of defendant/appellant No.2 at the request made by the plaintiff/respondent by means of affidavit filed by him and since then their names are continuing over the property in question in the Nagar Nigam, Lucknow. It has further been stated in statement that the the written defendant/appellant No.1 is residing in the house as owner and he is not a licensee as alleged in the plaint and four brothers are equal owners of house in suit.

7. He next submitted that the defendant/appellant No.2 filed separate written statement on 6.4.2001 and admitted therein that the land in question was purchased from the fund provided by defendant/appellant No.1 as the plaintiff No.2/respondent and defendant/appellant No.2 were students at the time of purchase of the land and they had no source of income. It has further been stated that defendant/appellant No.1 was in service, he had provided entire money for purchase of the plot as well as for construction of the house and shops over the land in question. In para 8 of the written statement it has been clearly stated by defendant/appellant No.2 who is also co-A 150 transferee along with plaintiff/respondent that the property in suit was acquired by the defendant/appellant No.1 in 1977 and he built accommodation in question as described in the written statement because at the time of purchase of the property in suit plaintiff/respondent and defendant/appellant No.2 and 3 were school going students and they had no independent source of income. It has further been stated in the written statement by the defendant/appellant No.2 that the plaintiff/respondent is not owner in possession; and he had no right, title or interest in the property in question and as such the suit is liable to be dismissed with costs.

8. He next submitted that the defendant/appellant No.3 Bharat Bhushan filed separate written statement before the trial court on 19.12.2001 denying the plaint allegations and in para 8 of the additional pleas, it has been specifically mentioned that the property in question was purchased in the name of Satya Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan from the joint Hindu family fund by the Karta of the family as the plaintiff No.2/respondent Satya Bhushan Verma was merely a student of Science Graduation and he had no independent income at that time when the property was purchased. Similarly Sabitur Bhushan defendant/appellant No.2 was a student being youngest brother and he had also no income. The property in question has been subsequently divided amongst the co-parceners on the basis of the family settlement. There was Hindu undivided family of Sukhanandan and his three sons. His two other sons Chandrabhushan and Ravi Bhushan (deceased) had got separated long ago.

9. He next submitted that from the facts stated in the preceding para it is clearly established that all the three brothers namely Brij Bhushan, Sabitur Bhushan and Bharat Bhushan had admitted that the property in question was acquired by joint family fund as Satya Bhushan was a student of Science graduation and Sabitur Bhushan was also a student and they had no independent source of income. Father of the appellants and respondent was Karta of the family and was earning from the agriculture and Dr. Brij Bhushan defendant/appellant No.1 had already Joined medical service in the State Ayurvedic department and he was also an earning member and supporting the family.

10. He also submitted that it is pertinent to mention here that Satya Bhushan plaintiff/respondent himself filed affidavit before the Municipal board stating there in that the property is a joint family property and all the four brothers have share in it. In the circumstances two shops constructed on the property in question were given to him and two shops constructed over the land in question were given to Sabitur Bhushan defendant/appellant No.2 and the residential house constructed over the plot in question was given in the share of Dr Brij Bhushan Defendant/appellant No.1. Accordingly, names of all the three brothers were recorded in the Municipal records on the application moved by the plaintiff/respondent as is evident from the various documents filed along with the written statement filed by defendant/appellant No.1. The application moved by Satya Bhushan Verma before the Tax Superintendent Nagar Mahapalika Lucknow on 28.1.1982 is on record which is the admission of plaintiff/respondent and plaintiff/respondent is stopped from raising contrary plea and by filing plaint and as such he is stopped from raising such plea of ownership of 1 share on the basis of the sale deed.

11. He next submitted that the other co-owners on the basis of sale deed i.e. defendant/appellant No.2 had filed affidavit before the trial court in the suit in question saying that no partition by metes and bounds has ever taken place as alleged in the plaint but by a family settlement all the brothers have share in it. share as per sale deed is of defendant/appellant No.2 and he has denied claim of plaintiff/respondent with regard to the share under occupation of defendant no.1 and the alleged plea of grant of license to defendant/appellant No.1 which itself shows the false case set up by plaintiff/respondent.

12. He further submitted that both parties lead evidence and plaintiff/respondent examined Sukhnandan plaintiff No.1 as PW-1, and plaintiff No.2/respondent was examined as PW-2. No other independent witness was examined on behalf of the plaintiff No.2/respondent. Plaintiff No.1, father of appellants plaintiff No.2, died during pendency of the suit. The plaintiffs also filed various documents in support of their case. The defendant/appellant examined Brij Bhushan Defendant/appellant No.1 as DW-1 and Sabitur Bhushan Defendant/appellant No.2 as DW-2 and filed various documents such as lease deed executed in favour of tenants, various documents filed before the Nagar Mahapalika Lucknow and the documents issued by the Nagar Mahapalika Lucknow showing that the property is a joint family property and the same is in the joint names of sons of Suknandan, father of appellants and plaintiff/respondent.. It is also pertinent to mention here that the allegations made by the plaintiff/respondent with regard to the partition between Satya Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan by father of the appellants and respondent have been denied by all the three brothers. It has also been established from the own conduct of the plaintiff/respondent that the property was joint family property and the same has been purchased from the joint family fund though maximum contribution has been made for purchasing the property in question by appellant No.1 which has been admitted by a co-owner of the property as per sale deed executed in favour of the two brothers only and they were students at the time of purchase of the property and construction raised over it and as such the plaintiff/respondent is estopped from raising such a plea of being owner of share of the property.

13. Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the learned trial court has wrongly and illegally decreed the suit of the plaintiff-respondent on 17/01/2006 without considering the material evidence on record. The plea of the Benami transaction was misread and misconstrued by the trial court. The trial court wrongly and illegally held that there was no joint family and also there was no fiduciary relationship between the plaintiff and the defendants. It has also been incorrectly held that the Prohibition of Benami Property Transaction Act, 1988, has retrospective operation. The provision contained in Section 2 (8) and (9) have not been taken into consideration while deciding the ownership of the property in question.

14. The trial court has recorded a finding to the effect that the property has been purchased in the name of plaintiff no.2/respondent defendant no.2 by the plaintiff no.1 i.e. father of the plaintiff and defendants and at the same time, a contrary finding has been recorded that the property is owned by the person in whose name said deed was executed, without considering the definition of "Benami property" as provided in Section 2 (8) and (9) of the Act of 1988.

15. He next submitted that the trial court has failed to consider that when another co-owner is denied the plaint allegations with regard to the ownership and grant of a license to other brother for residential purposes and the alleged partition made by the father of the appellant and respondent, then the finding recorded by the trial court is contrary to it and it is based on its assumption and presumption and against the strength of evidence on record.

16. He next submitted that feeling aggrieved by the judgment and decree of the trial court, the defendant-appellant filed a civil appeal before the Court of the District Judge, Lucknow, but it was dismissed by the learned Additional District Judge / Special Judge EC Act, Lucknow on 27/07/2018 without considering the factual and legal issues involved in the case, which were duly raised by the appellant before the lower appellate court.

17. The defendant / appellant no.1 and 2, have stated on oath that the property had been purchased with the funds provided by applicant no.1 i.;e. Dr. Brij Bhushan, and since the family was a joint family and karta of the family is the father of the appellant and respondent, as such, after the death of the father, all brothers have share in it. The appellant no.2 has stated on oath before the trial court that the property was purchased from the money provided by the defendant/appellant no.1 but it was purchased in the name of the two brothers, namely, Satya Bhushan Verma (plaintiff/ respondent) and Sabitur Bhushan Verma (defendant/appellant no.2).

18. Learned lower appellate court failed to consider that the property in question was a joint property and it was purchased in the name of two brothers. Whereas there were four sons of Sukh Nandan, the karta of the family, namely, Satya Bhushan Verma, Sabitur Bhushan, Dr.Brij Bhushan and Bharat Bhushan. The property was purchased in the name of the two brothers, who had no independent income as they were students at the time. Thus, the finding recorded by the trial and lower appellate court is perverse and against the evidence on record. The case taken by the plaintiff that the occupation of a portion of the house in question is in the capacity of licensee and not a co-owner, is not supported by the evidence, and said finding has been recorded without considering the statutory provisions contained in Section 2-(A) of the U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972. The license could not be granted for more than months without any order of the allotment under Section 16 of the Act. It is the admitted case of the parties that the building in question is within the purview of Act No.13 of 1972.

19. Both the courts below have failed to appreciate the provisions contained in Section 60 of the Indian Easement Act, 1882, which provides that (the license could not be revoked where the licensee, acting upon the license, has executed the work of permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution of the work). It has been alleged in the plaint itself by amending the plaint that the appellant no.1 has raised construction over the first floor of the house, but without any authority. The plaintiff-respondent has failed to prove that the construction on the first floor has been raised during the pendency of the suit. The lower appellate court has framed four points for determination in the appeal in view of the provisions contained in Order 41 rule 31 CPC.

20. He lastly submitted that the first point for determination was raised with regard to the effect of the Prohibition of the Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act") on the sale deed executed at the instance of the father of the appellant in the name of the plaintiff and appellant no.2:-

(i) Whether it is prospective or retrospective?

The second question was with regard to the status of the appellant in the premises in question:

(ii) Whether as a licensee or co-owner?

The third question was :

(iii) Whether the partition has taken place between the co-owners of the property?

21. The lower appellate court decided the point No.1 wrongly contrary to law and held that the Act has retrospective operation and the property is not covered by the said Act, but at the same time it misread and misconstrued the written statements filed by the defendant / appellant no.1 by saying that no such plea of prohibition of Benami Transaction Act was taken in the written statement and as such the trial court has not committed any error in not framing issue on this point. The defendant-appellant no.1 has stated in paragraphs 4, 5, 7, 9 and 11 of the written statements that it was Benami property purchased in the name of the plaintiff and respondent no.2. No issue was framed by the trial court on the question of Benami property, despite the fact that a specific plea in this regard had been taken in the written statement filed by the defendant-applicant no.1 and a contrary finding has been recorded by the lower appellate court, saying that no plea of benami transaction has been taken in the written statement. The findings on the question of partition recorded by the lower appellate court are perverse, as this fact is proved on record that no partition by metes and bounds has taken place between the parties by mutual partition. The share in the house were given to all brothers, being members of the joint Hindu property, and the property was joint Hindu property.

22. Per contra, learned counsel for the plaintiff respondent submitted that there is no infirmity in the findings recorded by the trial court as well as the learned lower appellate court while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff and affirming the same in the civil appeal. The impugned judgments are based on evidence on record and no interference is warranted in the second appeal against concurrent findings of both the courts below. It is trite law that questions of fact which are settled at the stage of the lower appellate court cannot be re-agitated in second appeal before the High Court. The lower appellate court has rightly held that Act of 1988 has retrospective operation and it is applicable on the sale deed executed on 10/02/1977 with regard to the house in question, in the name of the plaintiff and appellant no.2 executed by Smt. Prabhavati, widow of Ganga Prasad. The occupation of defendant appellant no.1 in said house in the western portion of the ground floor was that of the licensee and not in the capacity of co-owner and after revocation of the license by the owners of the house, the occupation of plaintiff-appellant no.1 has become unauthorized and for that reason, the decree of eviction and restoration of possession was granted in favour of the plaintiff respondent.

23. In the first week of September, 2004, defendant/appellant no.1 started carrying out construction of a room and verandha on the first floor of the western residential part of the House No.531/16 GA, Bhindiya Tola, Bara Chandganj, Lucknow in disregard of and violating the order dated 8th December, 2000, wherein trial court was pleased to direct maintenance of status quo over property during pendency of suit for which plaintiff/respondent moved an application under Order 39 Rule 2A CPC

24. Learned counsel for the plaintiff placed reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in R. Rajagopal Reddy (dead) by L.R.S. and others versus Padmini Chandrasekharan (dead) by L.R.S., reported in AIR 1996 Supreme Court 238, which held that Section 4(1) of the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Act cannot be applied to any suit, claim or action to enforce any right in property held benami against a person in whose name such property is held or any other person, if such proceeding is initiated by or on behalf of a person claiming to be real owner thereof, prior to the coming into force of Section 4(1) of the Act. So far as Section 4(2) is concerned, all that is provided is that if a suit is filed by a plaintiff who claims to be the owner of the property under the document in his favour and holds the property in his name , once Section 4(2) applies no defence will be permitted or allowed in any such suit, claim or action by or on behlaf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property held benami. The disallowing of such a defence which earlier was available, suggests that a new liability or restriction is imposed by Section 4(2) on a pre-existing right and such a provision cannot be said to be retrospective or retroactive by necessary implication. It is obvious that when the statutory provision creates new liability and new offence, it would naturally have prospective operation and would cover only those offences which take place after Section 3(1) come into force. In Marcel Martins versus M. Printer and others, reported in AIR 2012 Supreme Court 1987, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held in paragraph 23, which is extracted as under;

" In determining whether a relationship is based on trust or confidence, relevant to determining whether they stand in a fiduciary capacity, the Court shall have to take into consideration the factual context in which the question arises for it is only in the factual backdrop that the existence or otherwise of a fiduciary relationship can be deduced in a given case. Having said that, let us turn to the facts of the present case once more to determine whether the appellant stood in a fiduciary capacity vis-□-vis the plaintiffs-respondents. "

25. In Iftkharul Haq and another v. Lala Data Ram and another reported in AIR 1975 All 670, this Court held that Section 60 of the Indian Easements Act embodies two exceptions to the general rule that a licence is revocable. The instant case is covered by clause (b) of Section 60 which is based on the principle of estoppel by acquiescence. When the licensee acting upon a licence has executed a work of permanent character and incurred expenses in the execution of the licence cannot be revoked by the grantor. The man who stands by and allows another person to build on his land, in the belief that he has power or authority to do so, and incurs expenses in such building, cannot turn around and claim the removal of such building on the ground that the latter had an authority to build. He is estopped by his conduct from adopting that course and the law will presume an authority from him in such cases.

26. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Hira Lal versus Gajjan, AIR 1990 SC 723 held that where First appellate court discarded the evidence as inadmissible, but High Court is satisfied that evidence was admissible, High Court can arrive at its independent decision. High Court is well within its power in appreciating the evidence and arriving at its own conclusion.

27. In Narendra Gopal Vidyarthi versus Rajat Vidyarthi, 2010 (28) LCD 703, Hon'ble Supreme Court held that "substantial question of law" as provided under Section 100 CPC connotes that " the High Court should be satisfied that the case involves a substantial question of law and not a mere question of law. A question of law having a material bearing on the decision of the case i.e. a question, answer to which affects the rights of parties to the suit, will be a substantial question of law, if it is not covered by any specific provisions of law or settled legal principle emerging from binding precedents, and, involves a debatable legal issue. A substantial question of law will also arise in a contrary situation, where the legal position is clear, either on account of express provisions of law or binding precedents, but the court below has decided the matter, either ignoring or acting contrary to such legal principle. In the second type of cases, the substantial question of law arises not because the law is still debatable, but because the decision rendered on a material question, violates the settled position of law. The general rule is that the High Court will not interfere with the concurrent findings of the courts below. But it is not an absolute rule. Some of the well-recognized exceptions are where: (i) the courts below have ignored material evidence or acted on no evidence; (ii) the courts have drawn wrong inferences from proved facts by applying the law erroneously; or (iii) the courts have wrongly cast the burden of proof. When we refer to decision based on no evidence, it not only refers to cases where there is a total dearth of evidence, but also refers to any case, where the evidence, taken as a whole, is not reasonably capable of supporting the finding.

28. Substantial question of law (E), A judgement of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Review Petition (Civil) No.359 of 2023 in Civil Appeal No.5783 of 2022 In Union of India and another versus M/s Ganpati Dealcom Pvt. Ltd. is relevant for the purposes of second appeal. Paragraphs 2 to 6 of the said judgement are extracted below:

2. The review has been sought in these proceedings of the judgment of a three-Judge Bench of this Court in Union of India and Another v Ganpati Dealcom Private Ltd, (2023) 3 SCC 315. The only question which was framed for consideration by this Court was in the following terms:

"3. The short legal question which arises for this Court's consideration is whether the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 (for short "the 1988 Act"), as amended by the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016 (for short "the 2016 Act") has a prospective effect. Although a purely legal question arises in this appeal, it is necessary to have a brief factual background in mind before we advert to the analysis."

3. The conclusion which was arrived at by the Court, was in the following terms: "127.1. Section 3(2) (sic Section 3) of the unamended 1988 Act is declared as unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary. Accordingly, Section 3(2) of the 2016 Act is also unconstitutional as it is violative of Article 20(1) of the Constitution.

127.2. In rem forfeiture provision under Section 5 of the unamended 1988 Act, prior to the 2016 Amendment Act, was unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary.

127.3. The 2016 Amendment Act was not merely procedural, rather, prescribed substantive provisions.

127.4. In rem forfeiture provision under Section 5 of the 2016 Act, being punitive in nature, can only be applied prospectively and not retroactively.

127.5. The authorities concerned cannot initiate or continue criminal prosecution or confiscation proceedings for transactions entered into prior to the coming into force of the 2016 Act viz. 25-10-2016. As a consequence of the above declaration, all such prosecutions or confiscation proceedings shall stand quashed.

127.6. As this Court is not concerned with the constitutionality of such independent forfeiture proceedings contemplated under the 2016 Amendment Act on the other grounds, the aforesaid questions are left open to be adjudicated in appropriate proceedings."

4. The Court has declared Section 3(2) of the unamended provisions of the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act 1988 as unconstitutional for being manifestly arbitrary and as violative of Article 20(1) of the Constitution. The provisions of Section 5 of the unamended Act, prior to the Amendment of 2016, have been declared to be unconstitutional on the ground that they are manifestly arbitrary.

5. It is not disputed that there was no challenge to the constitutional validity of the unamended provisions. This is also clear from the formulation of the question which arose for consideration before the Bench in paragraph 3 of the judgment, which has been extracted above. In the submissions of parties which have been recorded in the judgment, the issue of constitutional validity was not squarely addressed.

6. A challenge to the constitutional validity of a statutory provision cannot be adjudicated upon in the absence of a lis and contest between the parties. We accordingly allow the review petition and recall the judgment dated 23 August 2022. Civil Appeal No 5783 of 2022 shall stand restored to file for fresh adjudication before a Bench to be nominated by the Chief Justice of India on the administrative side.

29. The learned court of first instance framed the following issues for the framing of the suit, which may be reproduced as under:

(i) Whether the plaintiff is the owner of room in question, the verandah, kitchen, latrine, bathroom, gallery and staircase and is entitled to recover its possession?

(ii) Whether the plaint is under valued and court fee paid is insufficient?

(iii) Whether the suit is time-barred?

(iv) The relief, if any, to which the plaintiff is entitled?

(v) Whether the plaintiff is entitled to get possession of the construction raised on the first floor of the western portion of the house in question i.e. House No.531/16 Ga after getting it demolished, if yes, its effect.

30. PW-1, Sukh Nandan, the father of the parties, appeared as a witness as PW-1. He is also the original plaintiff no.1, in Original Suit No.391 of 2000. The plaintiff examined as PW-2, and the plaintiffs also examined PW-2 Satya Bhushan Verma, plaintiff no.2, in support of the plaintiff's case, whereas, the defendant-appellant had examined DW-1, Dr. Brij Bhushan Verma and DW-2 Sabitur Bhushan.

31. Learned Civil Judge, after appreciation of the evidence adduced by both the parties, came to the conclusion that it is an admitted fact that the building in question is built on land purchased by a registered sale deed on 10.02.1977 in the name of Satya Bhushan Verma, plaintiff no.1 and Sabitur Bhushan, Defendant No.2. Initially, the names of Sabitur Bhushan and Satya Bhushan Verma were recorded in the record of the Nagar Nigam on the basis of the sale deed of 1977, but later on, the name of defendant no.1, Dr. Brij Bhushan Verma, and Bharat Bhushan, who is another brother, was also mutated in the record of the Nagar Nigam. The plaintiff has alleged that this act of getting his name mutated in municipal records by the defendant is a fraudulent act and by mutation, no right, title, or interest passed in favor of the defendant.

32. Learned Civil Judge has given a finding that the sale deed of 1977 was executed in favour of plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2 and they are owners of the said house on the basis of the said sale deed; thus, ownership of plaintiff no.2 is proved on the basis of the evidence and record. Learned Civil Judge decided legal issues in the negative, as these were not pressed by the defendant. Learned Civil Judge also held that the occupation of defendant no.1 in the said house began in the year 1980 when he was transferred to Lucknow and on his request, he entered into the house as a licensee with the consent of plaintiff no.1, the father of the parties. Thus, his status in the said house is that of a licensee under Section 54 of the Indian Easements Act. The defendant has taken inconsistent pleas regarding his title in the said house, sometimes on the strength of benami transactions, sometimes as Hindu Undivided Family properties of the parties and sometimes on the basis of adverse possession. His his occupation in said house is not adverse to the real owners. The learned Civil Judge finally concluded that the defendant no.1 has raised construction on the first floor of the western portion of the house during pendency of the suit. Plaintiff no.2 is found to be the owner of the western portion of the house on which said construction has been raised. Therefore, he is entitled to get possession of the disputed property, but he is not entitled to seek demolition of the construction raised on the first floor.

33. With above findings of fact, the learned Civil Judge (Senior Division) has decreed the suit of the plaintiff and issued a mandatory injunction to defendant no.1 to restore the possession of half portion of the house along with construction raised on its first floor to plaintiff no.2 within stipulated period.

34. Feeling aggrieved by the judgment and order of the learned Civil Judge, the defendant appellant had preferred First Appeal before the Court of District Judge, which was decided in which the learned Additional District Judge framed the following points of determination:

(i) Whether prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act 1988 has retrospective effect?

(ii) Whether the plaintiff respondent had given the western portion of House No.531/16-C, situated at Bhindiya Tola Bara Chandganj, Lucknow as a licensee to the appellant?

(iii) Whether the property in suit has already been partitioned and the defendant appellant is not co-owner of the same?

(iv) Whether the appeal is liable to be allowed?

35. Learned Appellate Court, placing reliance on the judgment of the Supreme Court in Mithilesh Kumari & Anr vs Prem Behari Khare, AIR 1989 SUPREME COURT 1247 and Fakhrey Aalam Khan & Ors. v. Smt. Salma Waheed & Ors 2012 (30) LCD 97 Allahabad High Court and Rajagopal Reddy v. Padmini Chandrasekharan (1995) 2 SCC 630, considered the guidelines issued in said cases in Fakhrey Aalam Khan & Ors. (supra) for examination of benami transaction. It examined the evidence of PW-1 Sukh Nandan, patriarch of the the family of parties, who stated that he was a pensioner. He owned 50-60 bighas of land. And, from the earnings from the said agricultural land, he had purchased the said house. The defendant, Dr. Brij Bhushan, also admitted this fact in his evidence that his father was earning freedom fighter's pension and had 50-60 bighas of land in his name. The said house was purchased in the year 1977 for Rs.12,000/-. D.W.-1 has admitted that he was appointed in the year 1975, and then his basic pay scale was Rs.500-1200. He retired from service on 31/01/2004. He has earned money from private practice also, but he lived separately from his father.

36. The learned appellate court has considered the fact that on one hand, defendant no.1 was residing far away in connection with his employment and his Pay Scale in 1975 was Rs.500-1200. The property was purchased after two years of joining the service and on the other hand, P.W.-1, Sukh Nandan, was earning pension as a freedom fighter and was cultivating 50-60 bighas (10 acres) of agricultural land. Thus, the defendant was not in a position to pay the sale consideration of Rs. 12,000 in the year 1977 that after two years of his service on meager annual income was Rs.6,000. He was not in a position to purchase the said house benami in the name of his brothers, plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2. The mutation was only due to the fact that the name of defendant appellant no.1 got mutated later on in the record of Nagar Nigam in respect of the house in question. It is not determinative of the title of the parties in suit property on the basis of evidence adduced by the parties before the trial court. The only inference that can be drawn is that the said property was not purchased as benami by defendant appellant. He cannot be held as owner on the basis of the alleged benami transaction for want of pleadings, the learned Civil Judge has not committed any error, for not framing any issue regarding the benami transaction.

37. The learned appellate court has also given a finding on the basis of the evidence of P.W.-1, Sri Sukh Nandan, who subsequently died. Occupation of the defendant appellant in house in question is that of licensee and not co-owner. The father of the parties has categorically stated in his evidence that when the defendant came to Lucknow on transfer, he was in need of accommodation and he was his real son, he gave a portion of the house for his residence, as a licensee. The plaintiffs had canceled the license through notice dated 11/10/2000 issued to the appellant. The learned appellate court has also given a finding on reappraisal of evidence that the property in suit was purchased in the year 1977 by the father of the parties (PW-1) in the name of plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2 and he got the house partitioned between the vendees of sale deed of 1977, namely Satya Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan. This partition was accepted by by both sides. Defendant no.1 was never owner or co-owner of the property in suit. Thus, the appeal was dismissed with the above findings.

38. This Court, upon the admission of the second appeal, framed the following substantial question of law, which is extracted below:

(E) Whether the findings recorded by the courts below are tenable in law as it has held that the prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 has retrospective operation and the plea of Benami transaction is barred under Section 4 of the said Act without considering the definitions of Benami property and Benami Transaction contained in Sections 2(8) and (9) of the aforesaid act.

(F) Whether the judgment and decree passed by the courts below is perverse in law and facts, both.

39. Section 2(8)(9) of the Prohibition of Benami Property Transactions Act, 1988 defines Benami transaction as under:

"(8) "benami property" means any property which is the subject matter of a benami transaction and also includes the proceeds from such property;

(9) "benami transaction" means,?

(A) a transaction or an arrangement-

(a) where a property is transferred to, or is held by, a person, and the consideration for such property has been provided, or paid by, another person; and

(b) the property is held for the immediate or future benefit, direct or indirect, of the person who has provided the consideration, except when the property is held by-

(i) a Karta, or a member of a Hindu undivided family, as the case may be, and the property is held for his benefit or benefit of other members in the family and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the Hindu undivided family;

(ii) a person standing in a fiduciary capacity for the benefit of another person towards whom he stands in such capacity and includes a trustee, executor, partner, director of a company, a depository or a participant as an agent of a depository under the Depositories Act, 1996 (22 of 1996) and any other person as may be notified by the Central Government for this purpose;

(iii) any person being an individual in the name of his spouse or in the name of any child of such individual and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the individual;

(iv) any person in the name of his brother or sister or lineal ascendant or descendant, where the names of brother or sister or lineal ascendant or descendant and the individual appear as joint-owners in any document, and the consideration for such property has been provided or paid out of the known sources of the individual; or

(B) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property carried out or made in a fictitious name; or

(C) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property where the owner of the property is not aware of, or, denies knowledge of, such ownership;

(D) a transaction or an arrangement in respect of a property where the person providing the consideration is not traceable or is fictitious; "

40. Section 3 of the Act, as amended by Act No.43 of 2016 (with effect from 1/11/2016), provides that "no person shall enter into any benami transaction and whoever enters into any benami transaction shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with a fine or with both.

Sub-section (3) provides that "whoever enters into any benami transaction on and after the date of commencement of the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Amendment Act, 2016, shall, notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (2), be punishable in accordance with the provisions contained in Chapter VII.

41. Section 4 provides as follows:

1. No suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property

2. No defense based on any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person, shall be allowed in any suit, claim or action by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

42. Sub-section (3) of Section 4 of the Act was omitted by Act No.43 of 2016 (w.e.f. 01/11/2016); before omission, it stood as:

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply:-

(a) Where the person in whose name the property is held is a coparcener in a Hindu undivided family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparceners in the family; or

(b) where the person in whose name the property is held is a trustee or other person standing in a fiduciary capacity, and the property is held for the benefit of another person for whom he is a trustee or towards whom he stands in such capacity."

43. From perusal of aforesaid provisions, it appears that after commencement of the Benami Act, 1988 on 05/09/1988, benami transaction was not only prohibited, but it was made punishable also. Neither a person can file a claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami or any defense based on any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall be allowed. However, prior to the amendment of 2016, there were two exceptions to the prohibitory clause of Section 4:

(a) Where the person in whose name the property is held is a coparcener in a Hindu Undivided Family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparceners in the family; or

(b) whether the person in whose name the property is held is a trustee or other person standing in fiduciary capacity.

44. Hon'ble Supreme Court, a three-judge bench judgment, in R. Rajagopal Reddy (Dead) L.Rs. and Others vs. Padmini Chandrasekharan (Dead) by L.Rs. reported in A.I.R. 1996 S.C. 238 has observed as under:

"1. In this group of matters a common question arises for our consideration. It is to the following effect 'whether Section 4(1) of the Benami Transactions (Prohibition) Act, 1988 (hereinafter referred to 'Act') can be applied to suit, claim or action to enforce any right in property held benami against person in whose name such property is held or any other person, if such proceeding is initiated by or on behalf of a person claiming to be real owner thereof, prior to the coming into force of Section 4(1) of the Act'. Section 4 with its relevant Sub-sections reads as under :-

'Prohibition of the right to recover property held benami - (1) No suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

(2) No defence based on any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person, shall be allowed in any suit, claim or action by or on behalf of a person claiming be the real owner of such property.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply, -

(a) Where the person in whose name the property is held is a coparcener in a Hindu undivided family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparceners in the family; or

(b) where the person in whose name the property is held is a trustee or other person standing in a fiduciary capacity, and the property is held for the benefit of another person for whom he is a trustee or towards whom he stands in such capacity.

2. In fact the question is answered in the affirmative by a Division Bench of this Court in Mithilesh Kumari and Anr. v. Prem Behari Kliare. In that case two learned Judges of this Court constituting the Division Bench have taken the aforesaid affirmative view. The correctness of that view came up for consideration before another Division Bench of this Court. That Division Bench by its order dated 10th March, 1992 directed that these matters be placed for hearing at the bottom of the miscellaneous list for final hearing on 22nd March, 1992 before a three Judge Bench. Ultimately this group of matters came to be placed for final hearing before this Bench.

3. We have heard learned counsel for the respective parties on this question. Learned advocates were agreeable that though the order of the Division Bench dated 10th March, 1992 has resulted in placing these matters before three-Judge Bench for final hearing, we may after answering the question canvassed before us, sent back the matters to the Bench of two learned Judges who can dispose of the same on merits in accordance with law, in the light of answer given by us on the aforesaid question.

7. Having given our anxious consideration to these rival contentions, we have reached the conclusion that the question has to be answered in the negative and it must be held that the decision of the Division Bench taking a contrary view does not lay down correct law.

8. The reasons are these. Under various legal provisions holding the field, prior to the coming into operation of this Act, benami transactions were a recognised specie of legal transactions pertaining to immovable properties. Under the Indian Trusts Act, 1882 almost 113 years back the then legislature enacting the law laid down in Section 82 as under :- Transfer to one for consideration paid by another - where property is transferred to one person for a consideration paid or provided by another person, and it appears that such other person did not intend to pay or provide such consideration for the benefit of the transferee, the transferee must hold the property for the benefit of the person paying or providing the consideration. Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the Code of Civil Procedure, Section 317, or the Act No. XI of 1859 (to improve the law relating to sales of land for arrears of revenue in the Lower Provinces under the Bengal Presidency), Section 36.

10. It is thereafter that the Act came to be passed by both the Houses of Parliament and came into force as stated above. It might be appreciated that though the Law "Commission recommended retrospective applicability of the proposed legislation, the Parliament did not make the Act or any of its Sections expressly retrospective in its wisdom. A bird's eye view of the Act clearly establishes this position. The Act being Act No. 45 of 1988 in its preamble states that it is an act to prohibit benami transactions and the right to recover property held benami, for matters connected therewith or incidental thereto. Section 3 which is the heart of the Act imposes the required prohibition of benami transactions. It reads as under :-

3. Prohibition of benami transactions. –

(1) No person shall enter into any benami transaction.

(2) Nothing in Sub-section (1) shall apply to the purchase of property by any person in the name of his wife or unmarried daughter and it shall be presumed, unless the contrary is proved, that the said property had been purchased for the benefit of the wife or the unmarried daughter.

(3) Whoever enters into any benami transaction shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both.

(4) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974), an offence under this section shall be non-cognizable and bailable.

A mere look at the above provisions shows that the prohibition under Section 3(1) is against persons who are to enter into benami transactions and it has laid down that no person shall enter into any benami transaction which obviously means from the date on which this prohibition comes into operation i.e. with effect from September 5, 1988. That takes care of future benami transactions. We are not concerned with Sub-section (2) but subsection (3) of Section 3 also throws light on this aspect. As seen above, it states that whoever enters into any benami transaction shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years or with fine or with both. Therefore, the provision creates a new offence of entering into such benami transactions. It is made non-cognizable and bailable as laid down under Sub-section (4). It is obvious that when a statutory provision creates new liability and new offence, it would naturally have prospective operation and would cover only those offences which take place after Section 3(1) comes into operation. In fact Saikia J. speaking for the Court in Mithilesh Kumari's case (supra) has in terms observed at page 635 of the report that Section 3 obviously cannot have retrospective operation. We respectfully concur with this part of the learned Judge's view. The real problem centers round the effect of Section 4(1) on pending proceedings wherein claim to any property on account of it being held benami by other side is on the anvil and such proceeding had not been finally disposed of by the time Section 4(1) came into operation, namely, on 19th May, 1988. Saikia J. speaking for the Division Bench in the case of Mithilesh Kumari (supra) gave the following reasons for taking the view that though Section 3 is prospective and though Section 4(1) is also not expressly made retrospective, by the legislature, by necessary implication, it appears to be retrospective and would apply to all pending proceedings wherein right to property allegedly held benami is in dispute between parties and that Section 4(1) will apply at whatever stage the litigation might be pending in the hierarchy of the proceedings :-

(1) Section 4 clearly provides that no suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be real owner of such property. This naturally relates to past transaction as well. The expression 'any property held benami' is not limited to any particular time, date or duration. Once the property is found to have been held benami, no suit, claim, or action to enforce any right in respect thereof shall lie. (2) Similarly Sub-section

(2) of Section 4 nullifies the defences based on any right in respect of any property held benami whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person in any suit, claim or action by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property. It means that once a property is found to have been held benami the real owner is deprived of such a defence against the person in whose name the property is held or any other person. In other words, in its sweep Section 4(2) engulfs past benami transactions also.

(3) When an Act is declaratory in nature, the presumption against retrospectivity is not applicable. A statute declaring the benami transactions to be unenforceable belongs to this type. The presumption against taking away vested right will not apply in this case in as much as under law it is the benamidar in whose name the property stands, and law only enabled the real owner to recover the property from him which right has now been ceased by the Act. In one sense there was a right to recover or resist in the real owner against the benamidar. Ubijus ibi remidium. Where the remedy is barred, the right is rendered unenforceable.

(4) When the law nullifies the defences available to the real owners in recovering the benami property from the benamidar, the law must apply irrespective of the time of the benami transactions. The expression "shall lie" under Section 4(1) and "shall be allowed" in Section 4(2) are prospective and shall apply to present (future stages) and future suits, claims or action only.

(5) The word "suits" would include appeals and further appeals as appeals are in continuation of the suits. This is an aspect of procedural law and, therefore, when procedure is changed for deciding any such proceedings between the parties the provisions of such procedural law can be applied to such pending proceedings by necessary implication.

(6) Repelling the contention that rights of the parties to a suit would be determined on the basis of rights available to them on the date of filing of the suit and distinguishing the judgment of this Court in Nand Kishore Marwah v. Samundri Devi , it was observed that the aforesaid case was for eviction where the rights of the parties on the date of suit were material unlike in this case where subsequent legislation has nullified the defences of benami holders.

13. According to us this difficulty is inbuilt in Section 4(2) and does not provide the rationale to hold that this Section applies retrospectively. The legislature itself thought it fit to do so and there is no challenge to the vires on the ground of violation of Article 14 of the Constitution. It is not open to us to re-write the section also. Even otherwise, in the operation of Section 4(1) and (2), no discrimination can be said to have been made amongst different real owners of property, as tried to be pointed out in the written objections. In fact, those cases in which suits are filed by real owners or defences are allowed prior to corning into operation of Section 4(2), would form a separate class as compared to those cases where a stage for filing such suits or defences has still not reached hy the time Section 4(1) and (2) starts operating. Consequently, latter type of cases would form a distinct category of cases. There is no question of discrimination being meted out while dealing with these two classes of cases differently. A real owner who has already been allowed defence on that ground prior to coming into operation of Section 4(2) cannot be said to have been given a better treatment as compared to the real owner who has still to take up such a defence and in the meantime he is hit by the prohibition of Section 4(2). Equally there cannot be any comparison between a real owner who has filed such suit earlier and one who does not file such suit till Section 4(1) comes into operation. All real owners who stake their claims regarding benami transactions after Section 4(1) and (2) came into operation are given uniform treatment by these provisions, whether they come as plaintiffs or as defendants. Consequently, the grievances raised in this connection cannot be sustained.

15. In the case of Garikapati v. N. Subbiah Choudhary of the report Chief Justice S.R. Das speaking for this Court has made the following pertinent observations in this connection;-

The golden rule of construction is that, in the absence of anything in the enactment to show that it is to have retrospective operation, it cannot be so construed as to have the effect of altering the law applicable to a claim in litigation at the time when the Act was passed.

16. We have already discussed earlier that there is nothing in the Act to show that Section 4(1) and 4(2) have to apply retrospectively to all pending proceedings wherein such a right is sought to be exercised by the plaintiff or such a defence has already got allowed to the concerned defendant. As a result of the aforesaid discussion, it must be held that reasons Nos. 1 and 2 which weighed with the Division Bench are not well sustained.

19. Qua reason No. 4, we may refer to our discussion earlier that the words 'no suit shall lie' as found in Section 4(1) and 'no defence based on rights in respect of property shall be allowed' as found in Section 4(2) have limited scope and operation and consequently this consideration also cannot have any effect on the conclusion which can be reached in this case. As to reason No. 5, it is observed that even though suit may include appeal and further appeals in the hierarchy, at different stages of the litigation, Section 4(1) and 4(2) cannot be made applicable to these subsequent stages as already seen by us earlier. Otherwise, they would cut across the very scheme of the Act.

20. As to reason No. 6 relating to nullification of all the, defences of benami holders, we say with respect that according to us, as already discussed future defences of real owners against benamidars holders have been nullified as are covered by the sweep of Section 4(2) and not others.

21. As a result of the aforesaid discussion it must be held, with respect, that the Division Bench erred in taking the view that Section 4(1) of the Act could be pressed in service in connection with suits filed prior to coming into operation of that Section. Similarly the view that under Section 4(2) in all suits filed by persons in whose names properties are held no defence can be allowed at any future stage of the proceedings that the properties are held benami, cannot be sustained. As discussed earlier Section 4(2) will have a limited operation even in cases of pending suits after Section 4(2) came into force if such defences are not already allowed earlier. It must, therefore, be held, with respect, that the decision of this Court in Mithilesh Kumari's case does not lay down correct law so far as the applicability of Section 4(1) and Section 4(2) to the extent hereinabove indicated, to pending proceedings when these Sections came into force, is concerned. Accordingly, the question for consideration is answered in the negative. Registry will now place all these matters before an appropriate Division Bench for disposing them of on merits in the light of the answer given by us."

45. On perusal of three judge Bench of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is obvious that rigors of Section 4(2) of the Act will have limited operation even in cases of pending suits filed after Section 4(2) came into force. Meaning thereby, no defense vest in any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any person, shall be allowed in any suit or claim or action, or by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property, if such suit was filed after coming into force of the Act of 1988. Although the sale deed in question was executed in the name of plaintiff no. 2 and defendant no. 2 was executed way back in the year 1997, long before coming into force of the Act of 1988, i.e. 19.05.1988, but as the suit in which the appellant has taken defense of Benami transaction was filed in the year 2000 and written statement therein was filed by the defendant no. 1 on 06/01/2001, he will not be permitted to take a plea of Benami transaction showing himself as a real owner regarding property in question, safe to the extent the pleas covered under Section 4(3) of the Act which has been deleted by amending Act of 2016 w.e.f 01/11/2016.

46. In another judgement, Hon'ble Supreme Court is relevant on this issue cited as Marcel Martins versus M. Printer and others, decided on 27/4/2012. reported in AIR 2012 SC 1987. In that case, the suit property comprises a residential house bearing Municipal No. 33 and two blocks A and B, in Bangalore, which was originally owned by the Corporation of the City of Bangalore. The said property was let out by the Corporation to Smt. Stella Martins-mother of the parties before the court. In the year 1978, the Corporation took a decision to sell the said property and presumably similar other properties to those in occupation of the same. The state government also approved the said proposal with a note of caution that care should be taken to correctly identify the occupants of the property being sold. Before effecting the sale in her favour. Stella Martins passed away in November 1982, leaving behind her husband, Shri C.F. Martins, their daughters and the appellant, who happens to be the only son of his parents. The corporation desired the transfer of the tenancy rights held by Smt. Stella Martins should be made to only one individual out of her several legal representatives and for that reason, her husband and daughters consented to the transfer of tenancy rights in favour of the defendant appellant. In due course, on demand of sale consideration, the father of the parties transferred a sum of Rs.35,636/- to an account jointly held by respondent no.1 and her husband for purchasing a bank draft. A demand draft of Rs.48,636/- the agreed sale consideration was paid by respondent no1 and her husband. After payment of sale consideration, the sale deed was executed in favour of the appellant, the son of the deceased tenant. The case of the plaintiff respondent was that C.F. Martins, father of the litigating parties, (plaintiff no.1) executed a registered Will on 16.08.1989, whereby he bequeathed his entire estate, including the suit schedule property equally to all his children.

47. A dispute relating to the suit schedule property had arisen between the parties, including their father and OS No. 3119 of 1990 was filed in City Civil Court by the plaintiff for a declaration to the effect that they were co-owners in the schedule property to the extent of their contribution and they also prayed for an injunction restraining the defendant appellant from interfering with the possession of plaintiff no.1 and 2 over the same.

48. The defendant appellant filed a written statement, inter alia, averment that the entire sale consideration towards purchase of the schedule from his premises was provided by him, which made him the absolute owner of the suit property.

49. The trial court dismissed the suit filed by the plaintiffs. Aggrieved by the judgment of the trial court, the plaintiff respondents filed regular first appeal before the High Court, and the High Court, by the impugned judgment and order, reversed the findings recorded by the trial court and decreed the suit filed by the plaintiffs respondents. The High Court on reappraisal of the evidence took the view that the appellant had not succeeded in proving that he had paid the entire amount of consideration for the purchase of the suit property.

50. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Civil Appeal referred against the judgment of High Court, affirmed the judgment of the High Court with the following observations made is paragraphs 12 and 13, which are extracted as under:

"12. Section 3 forbids benami transaction while sub-section (2) thereof excludes such a transaction enumerated therein from the said provision. Section 4 of the Act, upon which heavy reliance was placed by Mr. Chaudhary, may be extracted in extenso:

Section 4. Prohibition of the right to recover property held benami.- (1) No suit, claim or action to enforce any right in respect of any property held benami against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person shall lie by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

(2) No defence based on any right in respect of any property held benami, whether against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person, shall be allowed in any suit, claim or action by or on behalf of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property.

(3) Nothing in this section shall apply,-- (a) where the person in whose name the property is held is a coparcener in a Hindu undivided family and the property is held for the benefit of the coparceners in the family; or (b) where the person in whose name the property is held is a trustee or other person standing in a fiduciary capacity, and the property is held for the benefit of another person for whom he is a trustee or towards whom he stands in such capacity."

13. A plain reading of the above will show that no suit, claim or action to enforce a right in respect of any property held benami shall lie against the person in whose name the property is held or against any other person at the instance of a person claiming to be the real owner of such property. It is common ground that although the sale deed by which the property was transferred in the name of the appellant had been executed before the enactment of above legislation yet the suit out of which this appeal arises had been filed after the year 1988. The prohibition contained in Section 4 would, therefore, apply to such a suit, subject to the satisfaction of other conditions stipulated therein. In other words unless the conditions contained in Section 4(1) and (2) are held to be inapplicable by reason of anything contained in sub-section (3) thereof the suit filed by plaintiffs- respondents herein would fall within the mischief of Section 4."

51. Having considered the aforementioned judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the light of the facts of the case, this Court is of the considered opinion that no retrospective effect can be given to the provisions of the Act 1988 with regard to transactions entered prior to the commencement of the Act, particularly in respect of Section 3 and 4 which came into force on 19/5/1988 and 05/09/1988, respectively. At present the suit was filed in the year 2000 by the plaintiff respondent and the defense of Benami transaction was taken by the appellant in the year 2001 in written statement. He will not be permitted to take defence of Benmai transcation due to the fact that the suit was filed after coming into the force of the Act, save to the extent, the rigors of Section 4, which creates an embargo on right to recover property held benami are excepted in sub-section (3) of the Act. However, defendant/appellant failed to prove the fact that his case comes within the purview of saving clause of (3) of Section 4 prior to amendment in the year 2016.

52. Substantial questions (E) is decided accordingly.

53. Substantial question of law (F), insofaras the status and occupation of the appellant (defendant no.1) in suit property, is concerned, he has taken plea in written statement, the land on which the entire accommodation along with the four shops were purchased by the defendant from his fund in 1977 when he was posted as Medical Officer outside Lucknow. The plaintiff no.1 was residing in rural area of District Barabanki in the year 1977, and the plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2 were students and had no independent income or any source of money to purchase the suit property by all means or by virtue of family settlement, the defendant no.1 is the sole owner and also in possession of the suit property. He provided the funds for purchasing the land on the disputed house on personal request of plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2, the purchasers of the suit property on record. Thereafter, the said property along with the four shops was constructed by the defendant with his salaried income and there was no partition of the said property from the side of the plaintiff no.1, the father of the parties.

54. Learned Civil Judge has recorded a clear finding that the suit property was purchased in the name of the plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2 in the year 1977 and at that time, the defendant no.1 had completed two years of service and his salary was at that time so small that he was not in a position to pay the sale consideration of Rs.10,200 at that time to the vendor. Inasmuch as there is no documentary or independent evidence in support of the plea that he had paid the sale consideration substantially.

55. It is difficult to believe that defendant no.1 paid entire sale consideration of the suit property and did not get his name entered therein as at least a co-purchaser along with his two brothers. The learned Civil Judge rightly gave finding that the plaintiff no.1, the father of the parties possessed huge chunk of agricultural land and he was also getting monthly pension as a freedom fighter. Thus, on the facts of the case, it is natural that it was plaintiff no.1, who purchased the suit property in the name of his two sons. Plaintiff no.2 and defendant no.2, who were students at that time and paid the sale consideration. This is admitted fact that the defendant no.1 took entry in the suit property in the year 1980 when he came to Lucknow on transfer and the plaintiff no.1 has stated in his statement that being a real son, he admitted the defendant no.1 in a portion of the house as licensee and the learned trial court has rightly declined to grant money decree @ Rs.500 to the plaintiffs as monthly license fee for the entire period from 1982 to 2000 because there was no evidence in this regard that any license fee was agreed between the plaintiffs, and defendant no.1. Particularly in view of the close relations of the parties. This is also admitted fact that the plaintiff no.1, Sukh Nandan, (the deceased) was blessed with six sons, namely: Chandra Bhushan, Brij Bhushan (defendant no.1), Ravi Bhushan (since deceased), Sabitur Bhushan (defendant no.2), Bharat Bhushan (defendant no.3). The fact is not denied that Ravi Bhushan and Chandra Bhushan had got separated from their father and brothers long before the filing the suit and they are not concerned with suit property and at present, they and their legal representatives are not interested in any manner with the suit property. The real contest is between the defendant no.1 (Dr. Brij Bhushan) and plaintiff no.2 (Satya Bhushan) because it appears from the record that two brothers, Satya Bhushan and Chandra Bhushan, are associated with the defendant no.1. The reason behind that is Chandra Bhushan was never given a share in suit property and he never resided therein. Sabitur Bhushan, is although one of the named purchasers of the suit property in the sale deed of 10-02-1977. He has admitted in his cross-examination that the agricultural land lying in the share of the brother Dr. Brij Bhushan is being cultivated by him at their native village and for that reason, he might have taken the side of defendant no.1. PW-1 Sukh Nandan, the father of the parties, has stated in his evidence before the trial court as P.W-1 in the year 2002 that he is the head of the family, and was blessed with six sons and two daughters. He had purchased the the suit property with his own earnings in the names of his sons Satya Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan, and constructed house thereon for them.

56. He testified before the trial court that in private partition between the purchaser, half eastern portion was allotted to Sabitur Bhushan, and the half western portion was allotted to Satya Bhushan. Rent of two shops lying eastwards is received by Sabitur Bhushan and that of two shops lying westwards is taken by Satya Bhushan. He permitted his son, Brij Bhushan, to reside in a portion of the house due to his necessity for Rs.500 per month rent, but Brij Bhushan never paid the rent. A notice to vacate the accommodation was issued by Satya Bhushan to Brij Bhushan, but instead of vacating the house, he raised unauthorized construction on the first floor. His son Ravi Bhushan had died, he had purchased land in Lucknow and handed it over to Brij Bhushan. He received Rs.6,000/- monthly pension as a freedom fighter and own sufficient land in his native place, District Barabanki. The property was mutated in 1979 in the name of Sabitur Bhushan and Satya Bhushan. Chandra Bhushan did agricultural work with him, but his dining is separated. Sabitur Bhushan resides with him. He owns 40-45 pakka Bigha land. His age was 95 years when he testified in court. 16 Bigha pakka land was lying in his name and remaining chaks were allotted in the name of his sons. The agricultural land of Brij Bhushan is cultivated by Sabitur Bhushan. He apprehends danger to his life from his sons, namely, Brij Bhushan, Bharat Bhushan and Sabitur Bhushan. He was receiving Rs.5,800 monthly pension. It is wrong to say that the house and four shops were constructed by Brij Bhushan. He had purchased the suit property from a old lady, who was his relative.

57. Both courts below have rightly given a finding that the suit property has not been purchased by defendant nol.1, instead it was purchased by his father, Sukh Nandan, who possessed sufficient monetary means to purchase a suit property in the year 1977.

58. Under facts of law if a father purchases some property in the name of his two sons to the exclusion of other sons for their welfare and pays the sale consideration himself, the transaction is held to be a gift deed in favour of the sons whose names are shown as purchasers unless it was purchased with joint family fund. On the facts of the present case also, this fact is proved that the sale consideration of the transaction of the year 1977, was paid by the Plaintiff no.1, Sukh Nandan, the father of the parties, by his own funds to the exclusion of four other sons, the property cannot be held as coparcenery property, rather in essence, it is a gift deed in favour of the sons whose names are shown in the sale deed as purchasers. The property in question is self acquired property of father. Thus, the plea of benami transaction taken by the defendant in written statement during the pendency of the suit, which was filed after the commencement of the Act of 1988 that he is the real owner of the property and he had paid the sale consideration is not tenable. This defense is not permitted to be raised by defendant no.1 in view of the rigors of Section 4 of the Act and the defendant no.1 on whom burden of proof lies to prove that the sale transaction of 1977 was a benami transaction could not prove this fact. Section 4(3) (since repealed in the year 2016) although saves coparcenery property rights, but with condition that the said property was purchased by the karta of the family for the benefit of coparceners in the family. In the present case, it is not proved that plaintiff no.1 purchased the suit property in the name of his two sons for the benefit of all coparceners in the family, including himself. He had stated in his evidence that the purchasers were non-earning members and he supplied the sale consideration from his own funds. Thus, the plea of benami transaction is not applicable on the facts of the present case. Even otherwise, ZA&LR Act, a bhumidar with transferable rights, is the absolute owner of the property, which is recorded in his name as bhumidhar, and Mitakshara law of coparcenery rights is not applicable on agricultural land, which is dealt with under provisions of the Act of 1950. Thus, it cannot be presumed that at that time a joint family (father and four sons), the said property was purchased by the father as Hindu Undivided Family property or coparcenery property. It is also not proved that the father, (PW-1) paid the sale consideration from joint family funds. The purchaser sons, (Sabitur Bhushan and Satya Bhushan) have admitted that they were not earning at that time and that they had not contributed to sale consideration. It is also not proved on record that the purpose of the sale transaction entered in the year 1977 was to throw the property purchased in joint family funds in joint family assets. Therefore, I find no perversity in concurrent findings recorded by both the courts below, while decreeing the suit of the plaintiff respondent. The defendant no.1 will not get the benefit of admission of defendant no.2 and defendant no.3 before the court in his favour.

59. Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated the settled position with regard to second apeal in K.N. Nagarajappa & others versus H. Narasimha Reddy in Civil Appeal No(s). 5033-5034 of 2009, reportable decided on September 09, 2021 and observed in paragraph 14 as under:

Undoubtedly, the jurisdiction which a High Court derives under Section 100 is based upon its framing of a substantial question of law. As a matter of law, it is axiomatic that the findings of the first appellate court are final. However, the rule that sans a substantial question of law, the High Courts cannot interfere with findings of the lower Court or concurrent findings of fact, is subject to two important caveats. The first is that, if the findings of fact are palpably perverse or outrage the conscience of the court; in other words, it flies on the face of logic that given the facts on the record, interference would be justified. The other is where the findings of fact may call for examination and be upset, in the limited circumstances spelt out in Section 103 CPC.

60. Substantial question of law (F) is decided accordingly against the appellants

61. With the above findings, I find no factual or legal error or perversity in concurrent findings of both courts below and no interference is warranted in second appeal by this Court. Consequently, the second appeal is dismissed.

THE HON'BLE ABDUL SHAHID, J.

First Appeal From Order Defective No. 641 of 2026

Sushil Yadav ...Appellant

Versus

Universal Sompo General Insurance Company Ltd. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether an inordinate delay of 1619 days in filing an appeal for enhancement of compensation, after the claimant has already received the entire awarded amount, can be condoned in the absence of a sufficient and reasonable explanation covering the whole period of delay?

Headnotes

Limitation Act, 1963 --- S. 5 --- Condonation of delay --- Appeal for enhancement of motor accident compensation --- Delay of 1619 days --- Claimant having received entire awarded amount --- Explanation not covering full period of delay.

HELD: Compensation awarded under the Motor Vehicles Act is neither a windfall nor a bonanza, and once "just compensation" has already been granted and received by the claimant, a plea of financial constraint or lack of awareness for an inordinate delay of 1619 days in preferring an appeal for enhancement is not reasonable; the explanation furnished must cover the whole period of delay, and mere assertions of hardship, unsupported by particulars such as of medical treatment, do not constitute sufficient cause. [Paras 7, 16-19]

Delay condonation application rejected; consequently, the appeal is also rejected. (E-14)

For the Appellant(s): Mangal Rai, Praveen Kumar Chaubey.
For the Respondent(s): None appeared.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdul Shahid, J.)

(Order on Delay Condonation Application No. 01 of 2026)

1. Heard learned counsel for the claimant/appellant.

2. The present appeal has been filed for the enhancement of the award with the delay of 1619 days. The appellant/Sushil Yadav has filed the enhancement appeal against the impugned award dated 24.08.2021 passed by the Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Firozabad in M.A.C.P. No. 14 of 2019 (Sushil Yadav Versus Universal Sompo General Insurance Company Limited and others).

3. The claim petition was allowed for an amount of Rs. 7,87,057 alongwith interest at the rate of 6% from the date of petition. After receiving the entire amount of compensation the present appeal has been preferred before this Court with a delay of 1619 days by the claimant himself who is having the every knowledge of his claim petition which was decided on merits on 24.08.2021.

4. The appellant/claimant has filed the supporting affidavit to delay the condonation. In para 3 of the affidavit it is submitted that in the accident in question, the claimant/appellant had suffered a permanent disability of 50% in his lower limb and as such the mobility of the claimant/appellant has been adversely affected for life. Due to the above mentioned permanent disability the claimant-appellant has no permanent source of income and his income potential from dairy and agriculture has also been affected and therefor huge financial loss has been suffered by the claimant-appellant. A huge sum of money has been spent in the treatment of claimant-appellant for the injuries sustained in the accident in question, therefore, the financial condition of the family of claimant-appellant has become worst.

5. Hence, in the above mentioned circumstances, the claimant-appellant could not immediately arrange for necessary expenses for filing the present appeal before this Hon'ble Court. As soon after arranging for necessary expenses and documents for filing the above mentioned appeal before, the claimant immediately came to Allahabad in March, 2026 and handed over the documents to the undersigned counsels who, after perusing the file, asked the claimant-appellant to bring certified copy of the formal order also which is necessary for filing the appeal.

6. On hearing this, the claimant-appellant went back to Firozabad and applied for a certified copy of the formal order on 26.3.2026, which was delivered to him on 4.4.2026 and he sent the same to the undersigned counsel through post, which was received by the undersigned counsels on 20.4.2026. Thereafter, the counsel prepared the appeal and filed before this Court without any delay.

7. The claimant/appellant has received the entire award amount in compliance with the award dated 24.08.2021. Hence, the plea of financial constraint for filing the appeal, or lack of awareness, does not appear to be reasonable. No details of medical treatment during the relevant period have been filed by the claimant/appellant.

8. It is held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680. Para 55 is quoted hereinbelow:

"55. Section 168 of the Act deals with the concept of ?just compensation? and the same has to be determined on the foundation of fairness, reasonableness and equitability on acceptable legal standard because such determination can never be in arithmetical exactitude. It can never be perfect. The aim is to achieve an acceptable degree of proximity to arithmetical precision on the basis of materials brought on record in an individual case. The conception of ?just compensation? has to be viewed through the prism of fairness, reasonableness and non- violation of the principle of equitability. In a case of death, the legal heirs of the claimants cannot expect a windfall. Simultaneously, the compensation granted cannot be an apology for compensation. It cannot be a pittance. Though the discretion vested in the tribunal is quite wide, yet it is obligatory on the part of the tribunal to be guided by the expression, that is, ?just compensation..."

9. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Haryana and another Versus Jasbir Kaur and others, (2003) 3 TAC 509 (SC) has held that compensation must be "just" and it cannot be a bonanza; not a source of profit; but the same should not be a pittance. The Courts and Tribunals have a duty to weigh the various factors and quantify the amount of compensation. There can be no golden rule applicable to all cases for measuring the value of human life or a limb.

10. It is also relied upon by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in New India Assurance Company Limited Versus Urmila Shukla and others, (2021) 20 SCC 800. It is also held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Helen C. Rebello v. Maharashtra State Road transport Corporation (AIR 1998 SC 3191) that the compensation be just, equal and not arbitrary and cannot be bonanza.

11. It has been held by the Supreme Court in D. Gopinathan Pillai versus State of Kerala, (2007) 2 SCC 322, that in matters relating to arbitration awards, an application for setting aside the award filed with a delay of 3320 days, without any sufficient and satisfactory explanation for such delay, is not sustainable. The delay cannot be condoned in the absence of sufficient and reasonable cause.

12. It has further been held by the Hon’ble Supreme Court of India in Oriental Aroma Chemical Industries Ltd. vs. Gujarat Industrial Development Corporation and another, (2010) 79 ALL LR 647, that where there is a delay of more than four years in filing an appeal and an application under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 is filed for condonation of delay, the same cannot be allowed in the absence of sufficient cause. The Supreme Court held that the High Court had committed a serious error in condoning such inordinate delay by ignoring the judicially accepted parameters governing the exercise of discretion under Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963.

13. It is held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sitaram Ramcharan Etc. vs M.N. Nagarshana And Ors, AIR 1960 SC 260, that it cannot be disputed that in dealing which the question of condoning delay under s. 5 of the Limitation Act the party has to satisfy the court that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal or making the application within the prescribed time, and this has always been understood to mean that the explanation has to cover the whole of the period of delay.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vedabai @ Vaijayanatabai Baburao Patil Versus Shantaram Baburao Patil and others, 2001 (44) ALR 577, made a distinction in delay and inordinate delay;- "In exercising discretion under Section 5 of the Limitation Act the Courts should adopt a pragmatic approach. A distinction must be made between a case where the delay is inordinate and a case where the delay is of a few days. Whereas in the former case the consideration of prejudice to the other side will be a relevant factor so the case calls for a more cautious approach."

15. It is held by this Court in paras 5 and 6 of the decision in Sita Ram Versus Sri Dhar, 2006 (24) LCD 1239, that:- "5....the application given for condonation of delay, 15 days after expiry of the period of limitation, it was not mentioned as to what specific work kept the appellant engaged for which reason he could not apply for restoration of appeal. A mere cursory statement that the appellant remained busy in this school work cannot be considered sufficient reason for condonation of delay it cannot, therefore, be said that the Presiding Officer was wrong in dismissing the appellant's application. 6. Previously Courts did show lenience and latitude in dealing with applications for adjournments and condonation of delay. It is high time a changed perspective and attitude is adopted, since the Courts are already overburdened with cases resulting in inordinate delay in disposal of cases. Those days of condonation of dalliance and delay should now be over and in cases where no sufficient and proper reason is assigned for delay. the Court must adopt the stern attitude and refuse relief. That will also help in transmitting a message that the Court will no more be indulgent and parties beware."

16. Whereas in the said matter, where the claimant/appellant has got all the award and just compensation which has been awarded to him vide award dated 24.08.2021 hence he is having complete knowledge and information as well as money in his hand. The amount in Motor Accident Claim Petition is neither a bonanza nor windfall as held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Urmila Shukla (supra), Pranay Sethi (supra), Jasbir Kaur (supra) and Helen C. Rebello (supra).

17. The award has to be passed so that just compensation may be granted. The same has already been granted by the Tribunal to the claimant/appellant. The appeal for enhancement has been preferred before this Court after a delay of 1619 days, without showing any due diligence or any reasonable and sufficient cause. This is an inordinate delay.

18. Considering the entire circumstances of the claim petition, the award, and the fact that just compensation, which is the soul of a Motor Accident Claim Petition, has already been awarded, no sufficient ground exists for condonation of delay.

19. The compensation awarded is neither a windfall, nor a bonanza, nor a source of profit for all time to come in the hands of the claimant. There is neither any sufficient nor reasonable cause explaining the huge and inordinate delay of 1619 days. The explanation furnished is neither reasonable nor plausible.

20. Accordingly, the delay condonation application is liable to be rejected and is hereby rejected.

(Order on Appeal)

21. The delay condonation application is rejected. Consequently, the appeal is also hereby rejected.

THE HON'BLE SYED QAMAR HASAN RIZVI, J.

First Appeal From Order No. 871 of 2014

Smt. Sanju Singh & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issues for Consideration

(a) Whether, in a case of head-on collision between two vehicles on a wide road, the Tribunal was justified in fastening sole negligence upon the driver of the offending vehicle, or whether contributory negligence ought to be attributed to the deceased's motorcycle as well?
(b) Whether the benefit of revision of pay pursuant to the recommendations of the VIth Pay Commission, made effective retrospectively from 01.01.2006 but announced/implemented after the death of the deceased, can be taken into account for determining the deceased's income for computing compensation?
(c) Whether the grant of compassionate appointment to the son(s) of the deceased, and the salary earned thereunder, constitutes a "pecuniary advantage" liable to be deducted from the compensation payable by the insurer, and whether it precludes the grant of future prospects?
(d) Whether the Tribunal correctly applied the deduction towards personal and living expenses, the multiplier, and the amount under conventional heads, in determining "just compensation" under Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988?

Headnotes

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Ss. 166, 168 --- Motor accident claim --- Head-on collision between two vehicles --- Negligence --- Site plan (Naksha Nazri) and testimony of eye-witness examined alongside Tribunal's finding --- Motorcycle found moving on extreme left of the road, while offending vehicle came from opposite direction at high speed in zig-zag manner and swerved to wrong side, causing head-on hit.

HELD: Mere involvement of two vehicles coming from opposite directions does not ipso facto establish contributory negligence; where evidence clearly demonstrates that the offending vehicle deviated from its permitted lane and encroached upon the wrong lane, and the driver of the offending vehicle could not discredit this trajectory in cross-examination, the finding of the Tribunal fastening sole negligence upon the driver of the offending vehicle is justified and requires no interference. [Paras 13, 14]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Determination of income --- Revision of pay under VIth Pay Commission --- Benefit announced/implemented subsequent to death of deceased but made effective retrospectively prior thereto --- Whether such revised salary can be treated as income of deceased for computing compensation.

HELD: Following Roshani Devi and Others v. P.S. Malhotra, 2017 SCC OnLine All 5152, which in turn relied upon Rajesh & Others v. Rajbir Singh & Others, (2013) 9 SCC 54, the benefit of revision of pay announced subsequent to the death of the deceased, but made effective retrospectively prior to the death, is liable to be taken into account while granting compensation to the claimants; salary certificates on record indicating the revised salary, unrebutted by the Insurance Company, are liable to be treated as the income of the deceased for computing just compensation. [Paras 16, 17]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Compassionate appointment to dependents of deceased --- Whether amounts to "pecuniary advantage" liable to deduction from compensation payable by tortfeasor/insurer.

HELD: Following National Insurance Company Ltd. v. Rekhaben & Others, (2017) 13 SCC 547, and Vimal Kanwar and Others v. Kishore Dan and Others, (2013) 7 SCC 476, compensation claimed from the owner/insurer of the offending vehicle (the tortfeasor) is distinct from, and has no co-relation with, the employment offered on compassionate grounds by the employer of the deceased; the amount earned by a claimant through his own labour or service by way of compassionate appointment is not liable to be deducted from the compensation receivable under the Motor Vehicles Act. Deductions cannot be allowed from compensation on account of insurance, pensionary benefits, gratuity, or grant of employment to the kin of the deceased, since these accrue on account of contractual relations entered into by the deceased and are not the outcome of the death in the motor accident. [Paras 19-23]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Future prospects --- Effect of compassionate appointment to son(s) of deceased(s) on grant of addition towards future prospects --- Distinguished from National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi and Others, (2017) 16 SCC 680.

HELD: Where the son(s) of the deceased(s) have been given compassionate appointment and have thereby stepped into the shoes of their deceased father(s) to the extent of securing future prospects, and are earning monthly salary on the revised pay scale, no further addition towards future prospects is required to be granted, as such addition would not subserve the principle of "just compensation" and may result in compensation beyond what can be termed fair, reasonable and equitable. The present case, being one where compassionate appointment was granted to the dependents, is distinguishable on facts from Pranay Sethi (supra), where the dependants were not given employment under the dying-in-harness scheme. [Paras 18, 31, 32]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Deduction towards personal and living expenses --- To be computed with reference to number of dependents in terms of Sarla Verma and Others v. Delhi Transport Corporation and another, (2009) 6 SCC 121, and not mechanically at one-third.

HELD: Where the deceased left behind more than six dependents, deduction towards personal and living expenses ought to be one-fifth, and where he left behind four to six dependents, one-fourth, as laid down in Sarla Verma (supra) and affirmed by the Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi (supra); Tribunal's deduction of one-third in both cases held erroneous and corrected to one-fifth (for the deceased leaving 7 dependents) and one-fourth (for the deceased leaving 6 dependents), respectively. [Para 34]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, Second Schedule --- Multiplier --- To be applied strictly with reference to the age of the deceased as per the table in Sarla Verma (supra), Para 42, as affirmed in Pranay Sethi (supra), and not as per the Second Schedule to the Act.

HELD: Tribunal's application of multipliers of sixteen and eight, adopted from the Second Schedule to the Act, held incorrect; correct multipliers, with reference to the age brackets of 36-40 years and 56-60 years of the two deceased, are fifteen and nine respectively, as per the table in Sarla Verma (supra). [Paras 38, 39]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Conventional heads --- Loss of consortium, loss of estate and funeral expenses --- Quantum to be revisited in terms of Pranay Sethi (supra) and Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. v. Nanu Ram and others, (2018) 18 SCC 130.

HELD: For ensuring consistency and fairness in compensation, amount under conventional heads enhanced to Rs. 40,000/- to each dependent-claimant for loss of consortium, Rs. 15,000/- for loss of estate, and Rs. 15,000/- for funeral expenses. [Para 37]

Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 --- Rate of interest on compensation.

HELD: Enhanced compensation to carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of institution of the respective claim petitions till realisation, subject to adjustment of any sum already deposited or paid pursuant to the impugned award or interim orders. [Para 42]

Judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed by the Additional District Judge/Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Court No. 5, Pratapgarh, modified; compensation in Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007 enhanced to Rs. 15,75,190/- and in Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007 enhanced to Rs. 11,42,370/-. Appeals of claimants (FAFO No. 871 of 2014 and FAFO No. 24 of 2016) partly allowed; appeals of Insurance Company (FAFO No. 1133 of 2012 and FAFO No. 1135 of 2012) disposed of accordingly. No order as to costs. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Syed Qamar Hasan Rizvi, J.)

1. Sri Jitendra Narain Mishra, learned counsel for The New India Assurance Company Ltd and Sri Qazi Mohd. Ahmad, learned counsel appearing for the claimants in FAFO No. 871 of 2014 and in FAFO No. 1133 of 2012 and Sri Akash Deep Singh, learned counsel for the claimants in FAFO No. 24 of 2016 and in FAFO No. 1135 of 2012; and Sri Jay Krishna Shukla, learned counsel for owner of the Vehicle/respondent in the leading and connected appeals, are present.

2. Since, all the four captioned Appeals arise out of the same accident occurring on the same date and time, involving the same offending vehicle and having common issues involved for adjudication; they are being disposed of by this common judgment.

3. By means of the present Appeals filed under Section 173 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, The New India Assurance Co. Ltd. (hereinafter referred to as Insurance Company), as well as the Claimants, have assailed the common judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed by the Learned Additional District Judge / Motor Accident Claims Tribunal, Court No. 5, Pratapgarh (hereinafter referred to as the Tribunal) in Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007 (Smt. Sanju Singh and others versus Ram Chandra Shukla and another) and Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007 (Smt. Urmila Singh and others versus The New India Assurance Company Limited and another).

4. The aforesaid impugned judgment dated 13.03.2012 has been assailed by the Insurance Company by means of Appeals having No. FAFO No. 1133 of 2012 and FAFO No.1135 of 2012.

5. The facts of the case as culled out from the pleadings are that a road accident occurred on 02.03.2007 at approximately 10:30 P.M. at the Patti-Pratapgarh Road near Village Devanmau, Police Station Kandhai, District Pratapgarh, wherein two persons namely Nagendra Pratap Singh and Surendra Pratap Singh lost their lives. As per the pleadings the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh was riding his motorcycle (bearing registration No. UP 54 E 0395) where as Surendra Pratap Singh was the pillion rider moving from Pratapgarh to Patti (West to East), when a Tata Sumo (Jeep) bearing registration number MH 31BB8871 (hereinafter referred to as the offending vehicle), owned by the respondent namely, Ram Chandra Shukla and duly insured by the Insurance Company; coming from the opposite direction i.e., from Patti to Pratapgarh (East to West), caused the accident by hitting the aforementioned motorcycle. As a result thereof, both the rider and the pillion rider of the motorcycle sustained grievous injuries. Consequently, Surendra Pratap Singh succumbed to death at District Hospital, Pratapgarh while Nagendra Pratap Singh was referred to Medical College, Allahabad where he also died.

6. Two separate Claim Petitions, being Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007 and Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007 were filed under Section 166 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, before the Learned Tribunal, inter-alia claiming compensation to the tune of Rs. 27,00,000/- (C.P. 48/2007) and Rs. 32,30,000/- (C.P. 49/2007) respectively. While deciding the aforesaid Claim petitions the Learned Tribunal, framed the following common issues for determination. For ready reference, the issues as framed in both the Claim Petitions are reproduced herein below:

"1. क्या दिनांक 2.3.07 को समय 10.30 बजे रात बहद ग्राम देवनमऊ प्रतापगढ़ पट्टी जाने वाली सड़क पर अन्तर्गत थाना कन्धई जिला प्रतापगढ़ में वाहन स्वामी राम चन्द्र शुक्ला की टाटा सूमो एम.एच.31बी.बी./8871 के ड्राइवर द्वारा वाहन को तेजी व लापरवाही से असावधानीपूर्वक चलाते हुये नागेन्द्र प्रताप सिंह की मोटर साइकिल जिसमें सुरेन्द्र बहादुर सिंह भी पीछे बैठे थे में टक्कर मारी जिससे नागेन्द्र प्रताप सिंह व सुरेन्द्र बहादुर सिंह दोनों को गम्भीर चोटें आयी और उनमें से सुरेन्द्र बहादुर सिंह की मौके पर ही मृत्यु हो गयी?

2. क्या मोटर साइकिल के चालक नागेन्द्र प्रताप सिंह ने तेजी व लापरवाही से मोटर साइकिलि चलाते हुये टाटा सूमो से हुई दुर्घटना में अंशदायी उपेक्षा की ? यदि हाँ तो प्रभाव ?

3. क्या याचीगण ने मोटर साइकिल जिससे मृतक सुरेन्द्र प्रताप सिंह दुर्घटना के समय यात्रा कर रहा था मोटर साइकिल के स्वामी को पक्षकार न बनाने से याचिका में पक्षकारों के असंयोजन का दोष है?

4. क्या उक्त टाटा सूमो नं.एम.एच.31बी.वी./8871 ड्राइवर के पास दुर्घटना के दिनांक को वैध व प्रभावी ड्राइविंग लाइसेंस था ?

5. क्या कथित दुर्घटना करने वाले वाहन के स्वामी के पास दुर्घटना के दिनांक को वाहन का वैध व प्रभावी बीमा था तथा कागजात वैध थे?

6. क्या याचीगण प्रतिकर पाने के अधिकारी है? यदि हाँ तो कितना और किस पक्ष से ?"

7. However, in addition to the above, the following issues were also framed in Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007. For a ready reference, the issues, as framed, are reproduced herein below:

6. क्या कथित दुर्घटना के समय मोटर साइकिल चालक के पास बैध एवं प्रभावी ड्राइविंग लाइसेंस था ?

7. क्या कथित दुर्घटना के समय उक्त मोटर साइकिल का बैध एवं प्रभावी बीमा था ?

8- क्या याचीगण किसी अनुतोष को पाने का अधिकारी है?

8. The Learned Tribunal, vide its judgment dated 13.03.2012, awarded compensation to a tune of Rs. 8,42,224/- to the claimants in Clam Petition No. 48/2007 and Rs. 5,23,312/- to the claimants in Claim Petition No. 49/2007 along with simple interest at the rate of 6% per annum. While deciding the issue of negligence, the Learned Tribunal held the driver of the offending vehicle solely responsible for the accident.

9. Aggrieved by the aforesaid judgment and award dated 13.03.2012, the Insurance Company preferred appeals having FAFO No. 1133 of 2012 and FAFO No. 1135 of 2012. Conversely, the claimants also challenged the same judgment and award by filing appeals having FAFO No. 871 of 2014 and FAFO No. 24 of 2016 respectively; primarily seeking enhancement of the awarded amount of compensation.

10. While assailing the impugned judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 the learned counsel for the Insurance Company pressed the following arguments.

10.1. His first assertion is that the Learned Tribunal has recorded an erroneous finding in the impugned judgment, to the extent that the accident was caused entirely due to the negligence of the driver of the offending vehicle. The contention of the learned counsel for the Insurance Company is that since, it was a case of "head-on collision" between two vehicles on a wide road, common prudence dictates that it is caused due to the negligence of drivers of both the vehicles involved in the accident and had if one of them been cautious, the accident in question could have been avoided. Therefore, the liability could not be fastened upon the driver of the offending vehicle alone.

10.2. His next contention is that the compensation awarded by the Learned Tribunal is not just and proper as, the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh was working as an employee in the department of Sahkari Ganna Vikas Samiti, Mau and the deceased Surendra Pratap Singh was working in the department of Ganna Vibhag, Faizabad. After their death, their sons were given compassionate appointments in place of their deceased father. Therefore, taking into consideration that the claimants have been given compassionate appointment under dying in harness scheme, they cannot be permitted to profiteer and receive "double benefit" on account of the death of their deceased father, as they have not suffered financial loss to the extent of the compensation already granted by the Learned Tribunal under various other heads, vide the awarded dated 13.03.2012.

10.3. The Learned Counsel also urged that the purpose of awarding compensation is to put the claimants in the same financial position as they would have been if the accident did not have taken place, and the pecuniary advantage gained through these compassionate appointments must be considered to prevent unjust enrichment. To substantiate his argument learned counsel pointed out that during the cross-examination, PW-3 (Accounts Officer) stated that the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh was earning Rs. 6,533/- per month at the time of his death, while his son Shailendra Pratap after getting compassionate appointment in place of his deceased father earned

Rs. 13,155/- per month. Similarly, PW-2/Gyanendra Pratap Singh son of (late) Surendra Pratap Singh admitted in cross-examination that he was given compassionate appointment on account of death of his father and was earning Rs. 10,500/- per month. That goes to show that by getting higher salary, the claimants can not be said to have suffered any financial loss, rather they were placed in a better financial condition.

10.4. It was further argued on behalf of the Insurance Company that the revision of pay under the recommendations of the VIth Pay Commission was made effective in the year 2010, whereas the accident occurred in 2007, therefore, the benefit of the said revision of pay which came into effect after the date of death of deceased cannot be extended to the claimants for determining the compensation, especially, when the son(s) of the deceased(s) after procuring compassionate appointment got the benefits of the said revised pay scale. It has also been urged by the learned counsel for the Insurance Company that in the instant case, future prospects are not liable to be added while determining the compensation, since, the son(s) of deceased(s) had been given compassionate appointment in place of their (late) father to secure the unprecedented economic crises of the family. The addition of future prospects would be in derogation of the settled law that the compensation should not be a source of profit.

10.5. Lastly, the learned Counsel submitted that the imposition of liability to pay interest from the date of filing of the claim petitions is also unjust, as the Insurance Company, without any delay, filed its written statement. Therefore, any delay in the adjudication of the said claim petitions is not attributable to the Insurance Company. Rather, the same was on account of the delaying tactics on the part of the claimants.

11. Per Contra, confronting the contentions of learned counsel for the Insurance Company; the assertions of the learned counsel for the respective counsel for the claimants, advanced the following arguments:

11.1. The first argument placed by the learned counsel appearing for the claimants is that compassionate appointment cannot be treated as a pecuniary advantage while determining the compensation award payable under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. It is urged by the learned counsel that Learned Tribunal has very correctly ignored the aspect relating to the factum of the grant of compassionate appointment to the son(s) of deceased(s) while adjudicating the claim petition filed by the family members of the deceased(s).

11.2. The next argument as advanced by the learned counsel for the claimants is that the amount of compensation as awarded by the Learned Tribunal is on the lower side. He urged that the Learned Tribunal while deciding the claims in question could not have appreciated the fact that the deceased at the time of death were entitled to the revised Pay Scale as per the recommednations of the VIth Pay Commission owing to the fact that the same was implemented with retrospective effect from 01.01.2006. But the Learned Tribunal has erroneously considered the deceaseds unrevised salary as the earning for the purposes of determination of claim, thereby arrived at a wrong determination while making the impugned award.

11.3. Further, it is contended by the learned counsel, that the Learned Tribunal has erred in law by not awarding any amount towards future prospects. His submission is that in the light of the law laid down by the Honble Supreme Court in the cases of National Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Pranay Sethi and others reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680 and New India Assurance Co. Ltd. Versus Urmila Shukla and Others reported in (2021) SCC OnLine SC 822; keeping in view the ages of the deceased, their heirs/family members are entitled for future prospects at the rate of 50% in the case of (Late) Nagendra Pratap Singh and 15% in the case of (Late) Surendra Pratap Singh, respectively.

11.4. It is vehemently argued that the Learned Tribunal has erred in law while deducting one-third (1/3rd) toward the personal and living expenses from the annual income of the deceased in both the aforementioned cases. He submitted that since the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh left seven (7) dependents while the deceased Surendra Pratap Singh left six (6) dependents at the time of their death therefore, as per the law laid down by the Honble Supreme Court of India, in the case of Sarla Verma and others versus Delhi Transport Corporation and another, reported in (2009) 6 SCC 121 the said deduction should be one-fifth (1/5th) and one-fourth(1/4th), respectively.

11.5. It is also contended on behalf of the claimants that the Learned Tribunal awarded a sum of Rs. 6,000/- only under conventional heads while the claimants are entitled for an amount to a tune of Rs. 70,000/- in the light of the judgment passed by the Honble Apex Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (Supra).

11.6. It is urged by the learned counsel that the Learned Tribunal while passing the award has fixed 6% simple interest per annum which is much less and should have been at least 9% per annum in view of the facts and circumstances of the present case.

12. Heard the learned counsel for the respective parties and perused the material available on record.

13. In view of the above, the foremost question falling for consideration before this Court is whether the Learned Tribunal was justified in holding that the driver of the offending vehicle solely responsible for the accident. The relevant part of the findings recorded by the Learned Tribunal is extracted herein below, for convenience:

"...याचीगण की ओर से कथित दुर्घटना के साक्षी श्री ज्ञानेन्द्र प्रताप सिंह को पी.डबलू 2 के रुप में परीक्षित कराया गया है जिस ने अपने सशपथ बयान में कहा है कि कथित घटना दो मार्च 2007 की है। लगभग 10.30 बजे रात का समय था । घटना ग्राम देवनमर् जो प्रतापगढ से पट्टी सडक पर पडता है, वहीं पर हुई थी। उसके पिता मृतक उसके चचेरे भाई नागेन्द्र सिंह के साथ मोटर साइकिल पर पीछे बैठ कर घर आ रहे थे वह दूसरी मोटर साइकिल पर पीछे बाल मुकुन्द शर्मा को बैठा कर के पिता जी के साथ सब लोग घर जा रहे थे । आगे चचेरे भाई की मोटर साइकिल थी पीछे मेरी मोटर साइकिल थी। हम लोग सडक पर एकदम बायी पटरी से जा रहे थे कि सामने से सोमो जीप जिसका नम्बर एम.एच.31बी.वी./8871 था जिसका ड्राइबर जीप को बहुत तेजी रफतार व लापरवाहीपूर्वक लहराते हुये आया और आगे मेरे भाई के मोटर साइकिल में टक्कर मारां । टक्कर से दोनों लोग सडक पर गिर गये और जीपका दाहिना अगला टायर टक्कर से फट गया । उसके पिता एवं चचेरे भाई को कुचलते हुये उसे भी बगल से टक्कर मारा। वह छिटक कर के दूर बैठे बालमुकुन्द को भी गम्भीर चोट आयी । पिता व भाई को मरणासन्न स्थित में सदर अस्पताल प्रतापगढ ले जाया गया जहाँ पहुँचते पहुँचते उसके पिता जी कहीं मृत्यु हो गयी । चचेरे भाई को इलाहाबाद रिफर कर दिया गया वहाँ पहुँचते पहुँचते उनकी मृत्यु हो गयी । उसके पिता जी गन्ना विभाग में

याचीगण के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का तर्क है कि उपरोक्त कथित दुर्घटना में सम्पूर्ण गल्ती जीप चालक की थी क्योंकि मोटर साइकिल चालक नियमानुसार मोटर साइकिल को अपनी बायी पटरी पर चला रहा था जब कि जीप के चालक ने जीप को तेजी व लापरवाही से चलाते हुये एकदम दाहिने गलत साइड में आकर मोटर साइकिल में टक्कर मारी जिसके फलस्वरुप कथित दुर्घटना घटित हुई। दूसरी ओर विपक्षी के विद्वान अधिवक्ता का तर्क है कि कथित दुर्घटना में मोटर साइकिल चालक की भी गलती है।

उपरोक्त तर्को के सन्दर्भ में पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध प्रमाणित प्रति नक्शा नजरी घटना स्थल कागज संख्या 4012 के अवलोकन से विदित होता है कि कथित दुर्घटना के समय मोटर साइकिल चालक नियमानुसार अपनी बाथी पटरी पर प्रतापगढ से पट्टी की ओर जा रहा था जब कि जीप चालक पट्टी सेप्रतापगढ की ओरन जाते हुये अपनी दायी पटरी पर मुड गया तथा मोटर साइकिल में सामने से टक्कर भारी। अतः स्पष्ट हैकि कथित दुर्घटना जीप चालक की, असावधानी व उतावलेपन के कारण हुई है। फलस्वरुप वाद बिन्दु संख्या 2 नकारात्मक रुप से निर्णीत किया जाता है।...."

14. Upon careful appraisal of the above finding and the material available on record, this Court finds that it is necessary to consider the site plan/Naksha Nazri alongside the testimony of the eyewitness PW-2 (Gyanendra Pratap Singh). A close examination of the same reveals that the motorcycle was moving ahead on extreme left side (बायी पटरी) of the road, whereas the offending vehicle was coming from the opposite direction i.e., from Patti to Pratapgarh (East to West), at a high speed in zigzag manner (लहराते हुये), and suddenly swerved to the wrong side (right side) of the road and caused head-on hit to the motorcycle. It is relevant to note that mere involvement of two vehicles coming from opposite directions does not ipso facto establish contributory negligence, where evidence clearly demonstrates that the offending vehicle deviated from its permitted lane i.e. left side of the road and encroached upon the wrong lane. In the present case, the driver of the offending vehicle, DW-2 (Mohd. Farooq), could not discredit this unprecedented trajectory during cross-examination. Therefore, taking into consideration the said facts in its totality, this Court is of the view that the finding returned by the Learned Tribunal fastening sole negligence upon the driver of the offending vehicle, is perfectly justified and requires no interference.

15. The second issue that warrants consideration by this Court is whether the revision of salary pursuant to the recommendations of the VIth Pay Commission, with effect from 01.01.2006, can be taken into account for the purpose of determining compensation.

16. In order to determine this issue, this Court finds it relevant to mention that the Honbe Division Bench of this Court, in the case of Roshani Devi and Others versus P.S. Malhotra, reported in 2017 SCC OnLine All 5152 while relying upon judgment passed by the Honble Apex Court in the case of Rajesh & Others versus Rajbir Singh & Others reported in (2013) 9 SCC 54 has held that the benefit of revision of pay announced subsequent to the death of the deceased, but made effective retrospectively prior to the death of the deceased, is be taken into account while granting compensation to the claimants. For a ready reference, paragraphs 10 and 11 of the aforesaid judgment passed in the case of Roshani Devi and Others (supra) are extracted herein below:

"10. The appellants have relied upon para 22 of the judgment of Rajesh (Supra) wherein the Apex Court has granted the benefit of Sixth Pay Commission benefits which were announced subsequent to death of deceased making it operative retrospectively from 01.01.2006.

11. Thus, applying the ratio laid down in the case of Rajesh (Supra) that benefit of revision of pay announced subsequent to death of deceased but made it effective retrospectively prior to death of deceased, we set-aside the finding of the Tribunal refusing to grant benefit of revision of pay. From record we find that the appellants has filed salary certificate indicating the salary of deceased fixed at Rs. 11,814/- per month after revision of pay which has not been rebutted by Insurance Company, therefore, we hold that Rs. 11,814/- per month be treated as income of deceased for calculating compensation."

17. Upon perusal of the record, it emerges that the claimants had brought on record the salary certificates (Paper No. 49 Ka-1 and 52 Ga-1) indicating that the revised salaries, after the implementation of the VIth Pay Commission recommendations, in respect of the deceased(s) namely, Nagendra Pratap Singh and Surendra Pratap Singh, stood at Rs. 8,786/- and Rs. 10,770/- per month, respectively. Therefore, in the light of the judgment passed by the Honble Apex Court in the case of Rajesh (Supra) and also the judgment passed by the Honble Division Bench of this Court in Roshani Devi (supra) wherein the Honble Courts granted the benefits of the VIth Pay Commission, even though the same were made operative subsequent to the death of the deceased, but retrospectively with effect from 01.01.2006 in the present case, this Court finds the judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed by the Learned Tribunal erroneous in so far as it refused to grant the benefit of revision of pay to the claimants. Therefore, it is imperative in the instant case the aforesaid revised salaries are liable to be treated as the income of the deceased for the purpose of assessing just and equitable compensation.

18. The third issue that requires consideration by this Court is that whether the compassionate appointment of the sons of the deceased(s) affect the determination of compensation especially with regards to the future prospects.

19. On the aforesaid issue the learned Counsel for the Insurance Company has very emphatically asserted that the compassionate appointments granted to the sons of the deceased(s) must be factored in to reduce the compensation granted to the claimants as they have not suffered economic loss to the extent of the compensation granted by the Learned Tribunal and in view of the same, claimants cannot be permitted to profiteer and receive "double benefit" on account of the death of their family members.

20. The above mentioned issue is no longer res integra. As the same, has been settled by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Rekhaben & Others reported in (2017) 13 SCC 547 wherein the Honble Court while distinguishing between the compensation liable to be paid by the tortfeasor and salary earned by the claimant through compassionate appointment observed that,

"14. What needs to be considered is whether compassionate appointment offered to the dependants of the deceased or the injured, by the employer of the deceased/injured, who is not the tortfeasor, can be deducted from the compensation receivable by him on account of the accident from the tortfeasor. Certainly, it cannot be that the one liable to compensate the claimants for the loss of income due to the accident, can have his liability reduced by the amount which the claimants earn as a result of compassionate appointment offered by another viz. the employer.

22. In the present cases, the claimants were offered compassionate employment. The claimants were not offered any sum of money equal to the income of the deceased. In fact, they were not offered any sum of money at all. They were offered employment and the money they receive in the form of their salary, would be earned from such employment. The loss of income in such cases cannot be said to be set off because the claimants would be earning their living. Therefore, we are of the view that the amount earned by the claimants from compassionate appointments cannot be deducted from the quantum of compensation receivable by them under the Act.

23. In the cases before us, compensation is claimed from the owner of the offending vehicle who is different from the employer who has offered employment on compassionate grounds to the dependants of the deceased/injured. The Source from which compensation on account of the accident is claimed and the source from which the compassionate employment is offered, are completely separate and there is no co-relation between these two sources. Since the tort feasor has not offered the compassionate appointment, we are of the view that an amount which a claimant earns by his labour or by offering his services, whether by reason of compassionate appointment or otherwise is not liable to be deducted from the compensation which the claimant is entitled to receive from a tort feasor under the Act. In such a situation, we are of the view that the financial benefit of the compassionate employment is not liable to be deducted at all from the compensation amount which is liable to be paid either by the owner/the driver of the offending vehicle or the insurer. Hence, we find no merit in these appeals and they are dismissed accordingly."

21. As far as the contention of the learned counsel for the Insurance Company regarding pecuniary advantage availed by the claimants through compassionate appointment is concerned, it may be noted that the similar question also came up for consideration before the Honble Supreme Court in the case of Vimal Kanwar and Others versus Kishore Dan and Others reported in (2013) 7 SCC 476 wherein the Honble Court while answering the question as to whether the salary receivable by the claimant after getting job on compassionate appointment comes within the periphery of the Motor Vehicles Act to be termed as Pecuniary Advantageliable for deduction; has held that compassionate appointment can be one of the conditions of service of an employee, if a scheme to that effect is framed by the employer. This cannot be stated to be an advantage receivable by the heirs on account of ones death and have no correlation with the amount receivable under a statute occasioned on account of accidental death. Compassionate appointment may have nexus with the death of an employee while in service, but it is not necessary that it should have a correlation with the accidental death. An employee dies in harness even in normal course, due to illness and to maintain the family of the deceased one of the dependents may be entitled for compassionate appointment but that cannot be termed as Pecuniary Advantage that comes under the periphery of Motor Vehicles Act and any amount received on such appointment is not liable for deduction for determination of compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act.

22. Further, it is also well settled in law that deductions cannot be allowed from the amount of compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act either on account of insurance, or on account of pensionary benefits or gratuity or grant of employment to kin of the deceased. The main reason is that all these amounts are earned by the deceased on account of contractual relations entered into by the deceased with others. It cannot be said that these amounts accrued to the dependents or the legal heirs of the deceased on account of his death in a motor vehicle accident. The claimants/dependents are entitled to just compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act as a result of the death of the deceased in a motor vehicle accident. Therefore, the natural corollary is that the advantage which accrues to the estate of the deceased or to his dependents as a result of some contract or act which the deceased performedin his lifetime cannot be said to be the outcome or result of the death of the deceased even though these amounts may go into the hands of the dependents only after his death.

23. In view of what has been discussed in the proceeding paragraphs, it is abundantly clear that compassionate appointment or any post retiral dues given to the dependents of the deceased, cannot be counted towards compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 on account of accidental death. Accordingly, the argument raised by the learned counsel appearing for the Insurance Company regarding the reduction of compensation on the said ground, stands demolished and thus, turned down.

24. Now coming to the issue of determination of future prospects, in the given facts and circumstances of the present case, this court upon a perusal of the impugned judgment and award, finds that the Learned Tribunal has not made any addition toward future prospects. The said issue has been considered by the Honble Supreme Court in catena of judgments and conveyed that the future prospects would mean advancement in future career, earnings and progression in one's life. The promotional avenues, career progression, grant of selection grades, etc. are some of the features for considering one's future prospects. Harmonizing the said connotation with the objective of the compensation granted under the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 leads to a possible conclusion that the pecuniary loss can be ascertained by balancing the loss caused to the claimants future pecuniary benefit and the pecuniary advantage coming from whatever source on account of the death, in other words, the balance between the extent of loss caused due to the death and the support by way of compensation to the family members of the deceased.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Syed Basheer Ahamed & Others versus Mohammed Jameel & Another reported in (2009) 2 SCC 225 has been pleased to observe that section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988; enjoins the Learned Tribunal to make an award determining the amount of compensation which appears to be just. However, the objective factors, which may constitute the basis of compensation appearing as just, have not been indicated in the Motor Vehicles Act. Thus, the expression which appears to be just bestows a wide discretion upon the Learned Tribunal in the matter of determination of compensation. For a ready reference Section 168 of the Act of 1988 is reproduced herein below:

"168. Award of the Claims Tribunal.(1) On receipt of an application for compensation made under section 166, the Claims Tribunal shall, after giving notice of the application to the insurer and after giving the parties (including the insurer) an opportunity of being heard, hold an inquiry into the claim or, as the case may be, each of the claims and, subject to the provisions of section 162 may make an award determining the amount of compensation which appears to it to be just and specifying the person or persons to whom compensation shall be paid and in making the award the Claims Tribunal shall specify the amount which shall be paid by the insurer or owner or driver of the vehicle involved in the accident or by all or any of them, as the case may be: Provided that where such application makes a claim for compensation under section 140 in respect of the death or permanent disablement of any person, such claim and any other claim (whether made in such application or otherwise) for compensation in respect of such death or permanent disablement shall be disposed of in accordance with the provisions of Chapter X.

(2) The Claims Tribunal shall arrange to deliver copies of the award to the parties concerned expeditiously and in any case within a period of fifteen days from the date of the award.

(3) When an award is made under this section, the person who is required to pay any amount in terms of such award shall, within thirty days of the date of announcing the award by the Claims Tribunal, deposit the entire amount awarded in such manner as the Claims Tribunal may direct."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

26. Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 provides power to the Learned Tribunal to grant just compensation to the claimants. However, the word just is of a very wide amplitude and requires consideration on the case-to-case basis, in a manner which meets the object of the Motor Vehicles Act.

27. Further, the Learned Tribunal constituted under the Act, while passing an award determines the amount of compensation, which must be just and reasonable. Although, this Court is mindful of the fact that compensation for loss of limbs or life can hardly be weighed in golden scales. But at the same time, it must be borne in mind that the compensation is not expected to be a windfall for the victim. The object of providing compensation is to financially place the claimant as far as possible in the same position as he was before the accident. Broadly speaking, in the case of death, the basis of compensation is loss of pecuniary benefits to the dependents of the deceased which includes pecuniary loss, expenses etc. The object to award compensation is to mitigate hardship that has been caused to the legal representatives due to the sudden demise of the deceased in the accident. Therefore, compensation awarded should not be inadequate and should neither be unreasonable, excessive, nor deficient.

28. The aforesaid view is further strengthened by the judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Divisional Controller, KSRTC versus Mahadeva Shetty & Another reported in (2003) 7 SCC 197 wherein the Honble Court while interpreting the meaning of compensation under the Motor Vehicles Act, held that the compensation awarded in the case of motor vehicle accident should not be inadequate and should neither be unreasonable, excessive, nor deficient. For a ready reference, paragraph 10 and 12 of the said judgment is reproduced hereinbelow,

"10. …….. Compensation is an act which a court orders to be done, or money which a court orders to be paid, by a person whose acts or omissions have caused loss or injury to another in order that thereby the person damnified may receive equal value for his loss; or be made whole in respect of his injury; something given or obtained as an equivalent; rendering of equivalent in value or amount…….

12. …….. . Justice requires that it should be equal in value, although not alike in kind. The object of providing compensation is to place the claimant as far as possible in the same position financially as he was before the accident. Broadly speaking, in the case of death the basis of compensation is loss of pecuniary benefits to the dependants of the deceased which includes pecuniary loss, expenses etc. and loss to the estate. The object is to mitigate hardship that has been caused to the legal representatives due to the sudden demise of the deceased in the accident. Compensation awarded should not be inadequate and should neither be unreasonable, excessive, nor deficient."

29. The Honble Supreme Court while deciding the case of Bhakra Beas Management Board v. Kanta Aggarwal and Others reported in (2008) 11 SCC 366 has observed as under:

13. Learned counsel for the respondent supported the judgment and additionally submitted that appeal of Respondent 1 is pending. In normal course, when two appeals are directed against the common judgment, both the appeals should be heard by the same Bench of the High Court. But we find that the High Court had lost sight of the fact that the benefits which the claimant receives on account of the death or injury have to be duly considered while fixing the compensation. It is pointed out that Respondent 1 was getting Rs 4700 p.m. and a residence has been provided to her and actually the compassionate appointment was given immediately after the accident."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

30. Similarly, in the case of Gobald Motor Service Ltd. And another v. R.M.K. Veluswami and others reported in (1962) 1 SCR 929, the Honble Supreme Court has been pleased to observe as follows:

"7. "The general rule which has always prevailed in regard to the assessment of damages under the Fatal Accidents Acts is well settled, namely, that any benefit accruing to a dependant by reason of the relevant death must be taken into account. Under those Acts the balance of loss and gain to a dependant by the death must be ascertained, the position of each dependant being considered separately: "

31. As has been discussed in the preceding paragraphs, it is well settled in law that compassionate appointments are given to heir of the deceased so that they may be able to maintain the family of the deceased. It is trite in law that compassionate appointment is an exception to the general rule of appointment in the public services and is in favour of the dependents of a deceased dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood, and in such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into account the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided , the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependents who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate appointments is, thus, to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. At the same time, its effect on the determination of compensation also requires consideration. In the present case, the son(s) of the deceased(s) have been given compassionate appointments. In this manner, the deceaseds son(s) have stepped into the shoes of their deceased father(s) to the extent of securing the future prospects. Therefore, the present case where the son(s) of the deceased(s) are given compassionate appointment is distinguishable from the facts and circumstances of the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), to this extent. It may be noted that in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), the dependants were not given employment under the dying in harness scheme and were not benefitted by the compassionate appointment.

32. Taking into consideration the law laid down by the Honble Supreme Court on the issue of just compensation and the scope and ambit of Section 168 of the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988, this Court is of the considered opinion that no addition towards future prospects is required to be granted in the peculiar facts and circumstances of the present case. Moreover, since the claimants deceaseds son(s) are earning monthly salary on revised pay scale, this Court is of the considered opinion that Learned Tribunal was right in not taking into consideration the addition toward the future prospects looking to the facts and circumstances of the present case. Therefore, in view of what has been narrated herein above any addition towards future prospects would not subserve the principle of just compensation and may result in awarding compensation beyond what can be termed fair, reasonable and equitable.

33. Now coming the other issue raised by the claimants is with regard to the percentage of the deduction of the deceased's income toward the personal and living expenses. The said issue has been dealt with in detail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Verma (supra). The said judgment has been upheld by the Constitution Bench of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Pranay Sethi and Others, reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680, and, later on, followed in the case of United India Insurance Company Ltd. versus Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur and others, reported in 2020 SCC OnLine SC 410. Accordingly, it would be apt to quote the relevant portion of the judgment passed by the Honble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Verma (supra), wherein the Hon'ble Apex Court was pleased to hold that:

"30. Though in some cases the deduction to be made towards personal and living expenses is calculated on the basis of units indicated in Trilok Chandra [(1996) 4 SCC 362], the general practice is to apply standardised deductions. Having considered several subsequent decisions of this Court, we are of the view that where the deceased was married, the deduction towards personal and living expenses of the deceased, should be one-third (1/3rd) where the number of dependent family members is 2 to 3, one-fourth (1/4th) where the number of dependent family members is 4 to 6, and one-fifth (1/5th) where the number of dependent family members exceeds six."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

34. In the light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Sarla Verma (supra), this Court is of the opinion that in the present case the Learned Tribunal erred in deducting 1/3rd of the annual income of the deceased's income towards personal and living expenses whereas the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh (Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007) had left behind seven (7) dependents while the deceased Surendra Pratap Singh (Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007) left behind six (6) dependents. Therefore, it would be lawful to hold that the said deduction should have been only 1/5th in the facts of Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007 and 1/4th in the case of Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007.

35. On the issue regrading the calculations of damages, loss of consortium under the conventional heads has been dealt with in detail by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of National Insurance Company Ltd. versus Pranay Sethi and Others reported in (2017) 16 SCC 680 and subsequently in Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. versus Nanu Ram and others, reported in (2018) 18 SCC 130. In the case of Pranay Sethi (supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has observed that the amount under the conventional head needs to be appositely determined and thereby the Hon'ble Apex Court revisited the practice of awarding compensation under conventional heads. For ready reference, Paragraph 52 of the judgment passed in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) is reproduced herein-below,

"52. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, we find it difficult to agree with the view expressed in Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] . It has granted Rs 25,000 towards funeral expenses, Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of consortium and Rs 1,00,000 towards loss of care and guidance for minor children. The head relating to loss of care and minor children does not exist. Though Rajesh [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149] refers to Santosh Devi [Santosh Devi v. National Insurance Co. Ltd., (2012) 6 SCC 421 : (2012) 3 SCC (Civ) 726 : (2012) 3 SCC (Cri) 160 : (2012) 2 SCC (L&S) 167] , it does not seem to follow the same. The conventional and traditional heads, needless to say, cannot be determined on percentage basis because that would not be an acceptable criterion. Unlike determination of income, the said heads have to be quantified. Any quantification must have a reasonable foundation. There can be no dispute over the fact that price index, fall in bank interest, escalation of rates in many a field have to be noticed. The court cannot remain oblivious to the same. There has been a thumb rule in this aspect. Otherwise, there will be extreme difficulty in determination of the same and unless the thumb rule is applied, there will be immense variation lacking any kind of consistency as a consequence of which, the orders passed by the tribunals and courts are likely to be unguided. Therefore, we think it seemly to fix reasonable sums. It seems to us that reasonable figures on conventional heads, namely, loss of estate, loss of consortium and funeral expenses should be Rs 15,000, Rs 40,000 and Rs 15,000 respectively. The principle of revisiting the said heads is an acceptable principle. But the revisit should not be fact-centric or quantum-centric. We think that it would be condign that the amount that we have quantified should be enhanced on percentage basis in every three years and the enhancement should be at the rate of 10% in a span of three years. We are disposed to hold so because that will bring in consistency in respect of those heads."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

36. Subsequently, the principles governing award of compensation under conventional heads with regard to award for loss of consortium, have been crystallized by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Nanu Ram (supra). For a ready reference, Paragraph 21 of Magma General Insurance Company Ltd. versus Nanu Ram and others: (2018) 18 SCC 130 is reproduced herein below,

"21. In legal parlance, "consortium" is a compendious term which encompasses "spousal consortium", "parental consortium", and "filial consortium". The right to consortium would include the company, care, help, comfort, guidance, solace and affection of the deceased, which is a loss to his family. With respect to a spouse, it would include sexual relations with the deceased spouse: [Rajesh v. Rajbir Singh, (2013) 9 SCC 54 : (2013) 4 SCC (Civ) 179 : (2013) 3 SCC (Cri) 817 : (2014) 1 SCC (L&S) 149]

21.1. Spousal consortium is generally defined as rights pertaining to the relationship of a husband-wife which allows compensation to the surviving spouse for loss of "company, society, cooperation, affection, and aid of the other in every conjugal relation". [Black's Law Dictionary (5th Edn., 1979).]

21.2. Parental consortium is granted to the child upon the premature death of a parent, for loss of "parental aid, protection, affection, society, discipline, guidance and training".

22. Consortium is a special prism reflecting changing norms about the status and worth of actual relationships. ...

23. The Motor Vehicles Act is a beneficial legislation aimed at providing relief to the victims or their families, in cases of genuine claims. Parental consortium is awarded to children who lose their parents in motor vehicle accidents under the Act. A few High Courts have awarded compensation on this count [Rajasthan High Court in Jagmala Ram v. Sohi Ram, 2017 SCC OnLine Raj 3848 : (2017) 4 RLW 3368; Uttarakhand High Court in Rita Rana v. Pradeep Kumar, 2013 SCC OnLine Utt 2435 : (2014) 3 UC 1687; Karnataka High Court in Lakshman v. Susheela Chand Choudhary, 1996 SCC OnLine Kar 74 : (1996) 3 Kant LJ 570]. However, there was no clarity with respect to the principles on which compensation could be awarded on loss of filial consortium.

24. The amount of compensation to be awarded as consortium will be governed by the principles of awarding compensation under "loss of consortium" as laid down in Pranay Sethi [National Insurance Co. Ltd. v. Pranay Sethi, (2017) 16 SCC 680 : (2018) 3 SCC (Civ) 248 : (2018) 2 SCC (Cri) 205]."

(emphasis supplied by this Court)

37. Now, as the principles regarding the calculation of damages, loss of consortium and the multiplier under the conventional head of the Second Schedule appended with the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988 are well settled and have been encapsulated above, the same can be applied in the facts of the present case. As far as the conventional heads are concerned, namely loss of consortium, loss of estate, and funeral expenses; this Court is of the opinion that in the light of the principles enshrined by the Hon'ble Apex Court as discussed hereinabove, for ensuring consistency and fairness in compensation, it is appropriate to enhance the amount falling under the Conventional Heads to Rs. 40,000/- to each claimant for loss of consortium, Rs. 15,000/- for loss of estate, and Rs. 15,000/- for funeral expenses.

38. On the issue of application of multiplier, based on the age bracket of the deceased, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sarla Verma (supra) has laid down the categorical table. The said table regarding the application of multiplier, based on the age bracket of the deceased, has been affirmed by the Constitution Bench of the Honble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra). Subsequently, the Honble Supreme Court in the case of United India Insurance Co. Ltd. versus Satinder Kaur alias Satwinder Kaur reported in 2021 11 SCC 780 has been pleased to hold as under:

"(b) Determination of Multiplier

41. With respect to the multiplier, the Court in Sarla Verma (supra), prepared a chart for fixing the applicable multiplier in accordance with the age of the deceased, after considering the judgments in General Manager, Kerala S.R.T.C., Trivandrum v. Susamma Thomas, (1994) 2 SCC 176, U.P.S.R.T.C. v. Trilok Chandra, (1996) 4 SCC 362 and New India Assurance Co. Ltd. v. Charlie, (2005) 10 SCC 720.

42. The relevant extract from the said chart i.e. Column 4 has been set out hereinbelow for ready reference:--

Age of the deceased	Multiplier (Column 4)
Upto 15 years	-
15 to 20 years	18
21 to 25 years	18
26 to 30 years	17
31 to 35 years	16
36 to 40 years	15
41 to 45 years	14
46 to 50 years	13
51 to 55 years	11
56 to 60 years	9
61 to 65 years	7
Above 65 years	5

44. In Reshma Kumari (supra), this Court affirmed Column 4 of the chart prepared in Sarla Verma (supra), and held that this would provide uniformity and consistency in determining the multiplier to be applied. The Constitution Bench in Pranay Sethi (supra) affirmed the chart fixing the multiplier as expounded in Sarla Verma (supra), and held:--

"44. At this stage, we must immediately say that insofar as the aforesaid multiplicand/multiplier is concerned, it has to be accepted on the basis of income established by the legal representatives of the deceased. Future prospects are to be added to the sum on the percentage basis and "income" means actual income less than the tax paid. The multiplier has already been fixed in Sarla Verma which has been approved in Reshma Kumari with which we concur.

59.6. The selection of multiplier shall be as indicated in the Table in Sarla Verma read with paragraph 42 of that judgment.

(emphasis supplied)

39. As is evident from the impugned judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 the deceased Nagendra Pratap Singh was of 39 years and Surendra Pratap Singh was of 56 years of age, their cases would fall in the age brackets of 36-40 years and 56-60 years, respectively, for which multipliers of fifteen (15) and nine (9) are prescribed as per the above quoted judgments. However, the Learned Tribunal has fixed the multipliers of sixteen (16) and eight (8) respectively, having adopted the multipliers as per the Schedule-II appended to the Motor Vehicles Act, 1988. However, the Learned Tribunal failed to adhere to the principle laid down by the Honble Supreme Court in the case of Pranay Sethi (supra) holding therein that the appropriate multiplier to apply would be by reference to the table in Paragraph No. 42 of the decision in Sarla Verma (supra). Therefore, the multipliers applied by the Learned Tribunal are incorrect and the correct multipliers in the present case will be fifteen (15) and nine (9).

40. In view of the findings recorded by this Court and in the light of the law as discussed herein above, the judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed by the Learned Tribunal deserves to be modified to ensure the grant of just compensation. From the facts and figures emerged from the records as is available before this court, the compensation is recalculated in the following manner:

A. Calculation for Nagendra Pratap Singh (C.P. No. 48 of 2007 / FAFO No. 871 of 2014)

S. No.	Head	Award by Learned Tribunal	Enhanced Award by this Court	Remarks

(vii)	Conventional Heads	Rs. 6,000/-	Rs. 2,70,000/-	Consortium @ Rs. 40,000 × 6 dependents = Rs. 2,40,000/- + Rs. 15,000/- loss of estate + Rs. 15,000/- funeral expenses. Pranay Sethi (supra); Nanu Ram (supra)
(viii)	Total Compensation	Rs. 5,23,312/-	Rs. 11,42,370/-	Just compensation

41. In light of all that has been discussed herein above, the judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed by the Learned Tribunal in Claim Petition No. 48 of 2007 is modified and the compensation awarded is enhanced to a total amount of Rs. 15,75,190/- (Rupees Fifteen Lacs Seventy Five Thousand One Hundred Ninety only). Similarly, the judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 passed in Claim Petition No. 49 of 2007 is modified and enhanced to a total amount of Rs. 11,42,370/- (Rupees Eleven Lacs Forty Two Thousand Three Hundred Seventy only).

42. The total compensation in both cases shall carry simple interest at the rate of 7% per annum from the date of institution of the respective Claim Petitions until realization of the said amount. However, any sum of money already deposited (paid or invested in terms of the judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 or interim orders of this Court) shall be accordingly adjusted.

43. Therefore, both the appeals preferred by the claimants, being FAFO No. 871 of 2014 and FAFO No. 24 of 2016 are partly allowed whereas, the appeals preferred by the Insurance Company, being FAFO No. 1133 of 2012 and FAFO No. 1135 of 2012, are disposed of accordingly. The impugned judgment and award dated 13.03.2012 is hereby modified accordingly. There shall be no order as to costs.

44. The original records of the Claim Petitions be transmitted back to the Tribunal concerned at the earliest.

Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024
with Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024

Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether maintenance awarded under Section 125 Cr.P.C. requires enhancement where the husband's Affidavit of Disclosure of Assets and Liabilities, filed in compliance with the directions in Rajnesh v. Neha, conceals material particulars regarding dependants and income?

(b) Whether mere educational qualification of the wife, without proof that she is actually earning, is sufficient to deny or reduce maintenance to her?

(c) What is the duty of a Family Court in scrutinising an Affidavit of Disclosure of Assets and Liabilities filed in compliance with the directions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajnesh v. Neha?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Maintenance — Wife's capability to earn versus actual earning.

HELD: Whether a wife is capable of earning and whether she is actually earning are two different requirements. Mere possession of an educational qualification (M.A. in fashion designing) does not, by itself, establish that the wife is actually earning, and her mere capability to earn is not sufficient to deny or reduce maintenance to her, in the absence of documentary evidence of actual income. (Paras 16-20)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Affidavit of Disclosure of Assets and Liabilities — Concealment of income and dependants.

HELD: Where the husband, in his affidavit filed in compliance with the directions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajnesh v. Neha and another, (2021) 2 SCC 324, shows his father and mother as dependent upon him while suppressing the fact that his father is a pensioner of the Indian Army, and fails to disclose the marital status of his sister or to annex the requisite salary certificate, pay slip and bank statements, such conduct amounts to intentional concealment of material documents designed to defeat the wife and child's lawful right to maintenance. It is the bounden duty of the trial court to scrutinise such affidavits carefully, and where an evasive affidavit is detected, to invoke Section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 and consider initiating action under Sections 199/191 & 193 or 209 IPC. (Paras 21-26, 35)

C. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Quantum of maintenance — Application of the Rajnesh guidelines.

HELD: Following the guidance in Rajnesh v. Neha and another, (2021) 2 SCC 324 and Kulbhushan Kumar (Dr) v. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129, that maintenance can be granted up to 25% of the net income of the husband to the wife and 15% of the net income to the child, and taking the husband's admitted net salary of Rs. 1,25,000/- per month (as disclosed in Affidavit 24A) as the basis, monthly maintenance of Rs. 30,000/- to the wife and Rs. 17,500/- to the minor son held just, reasonable and realistic. (Paras 27-30)

D. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Duty of Family Courts — Vigilance against evasive affidavits.

HELD: Family Courts, presided over by Senior Judicial Officers, are expected to be alive to the object, reasons and spirit of Section 125 Cr.P.C./Section 144 of the BNSS, and must be vigilant to detect calculated devices adopted by a husband to subterfuge the right of maintenance of a wife and child. The approach of the trial court in accepting an incomplete affidavit without scrutiny held casual and lackadaisical. Copy of the judgment directed to be circulated to all Judicial Officers of the State through the Registrar (Compliance) and forwarded to the Director, JTRI, for sensitising judicial officers. (Paras 22-26, 35-37)

Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024 allowed; the judgment and order dated 01.12.2023 modified to the extent that maintenance of Rs. 47,500/- per month (Rs. 30,000/- for revisionist no. 1 and Rs. 17,500/- for revisionist no. 2) shall be paid from the date of the impugned judgment, and Rs. 34,000/- per month (Rs. 20,000/- and Rs. 14,000/- respectively) from the date of filing of the application to the date of judgment, arrears payable in six monthly instalments commencing 1st July, 2026. Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024 dismissed. (E-14)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar-II, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for revisionists, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2, learned Additional Government Advocate for the State and perused the record.

2. Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024 has been filed by the Smt. Sadhana (wife) against the impugned order dated 01.12.2023 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 2, Bulandshahar in Maintenance Case No. 829 of 2019 (Smt. Sadhna @ Sakshi and another vs. Jitendra Singh Som) under section 125 Cr.P.C., Police Station Pahasu, District Bulandshahar, whereby the learned Court below has allowed the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. of the revisionists and the opposite party no. 2 has been directed to pay Rs. 8,000/- to the revision no. 1 and Rs. 12,000/- to the revisionist no. 2 from the date of filing of the application till passing of present impugned judgment and order and to pay Rs. 10,000/- per month to revisionist no. 1 and Rs. 15,000/- per month to the revisionist no. 2 as maintenance from the date of impugned judgment and order. The revisionists by means of present revisionist have prayed for enhancement of maintenance amount awarded by the Court below from Rs. 20,000/- to Rs. 75,000/- per month from the date of filing of application.

3. Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024 has been filed by Jitendra Singh Som (husband) with prayer to set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 01.12.2023 passed by Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 2, Bulandshahar in aforesaid Maintenance Case No. 829 of 2019 (Smt. Sadhna @ Sakshi and another vs. Jitendra Singh Som) under section 125 Cr.P.C., Police Station Pahasu, District Bulandshahar.

4. Since both criminal revisions are arising out of same impugned judgment and order dated 1.12.2023, therefore, these criminal revisions are being disposed of by a common order. Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024 is the leading case for the purpose of judgment.

5. Learned counsel for the revisionists has submitted that marriage of opposite party no. 2 with the revisionist no. 1 is his (opposite party no. 2's) second marriage and on demand of her in-laws, parents of revisionist no. 1 spent Rs. 12 lakhs in the marriage and had given all household items. However, opposite party no. 2 and his family members were not satisfied with the dowry given at the time of marriage and were demanding additional dowry of Rs. 10 lakhs and Swift Car and when the demand of additional dowry was not fulfilled, they started mental and physical harassment of the revisionist no. 1. The revisionist no. 1 was thrown out from her matrimonial house during her pregnancy period, on account of illicit relation of opposite party no. 2 with some other lady and non fulfillment of demand of additional dowry. The revisionist no. 2 was born out of their wedlock at the parental house of revisionist no. 1 on 29.12.2017. In this regard, the revisionist no. 1 has filed Criminal Case No. 481 of 2017, under Section 498A, 323, 504 IPC and D.P. Act, wherein, Judicial Magistrate, Khurja, District Bulandshahar has summoned the opposite party no. 2 and his parents to face trial and in that case, the opposite party no. 2 and his parents are on bail and facing trial.

6. Opposite party no. 2 has not taken any care of the revisionists and has also not paid any maintenance after birth of their son and had also not taken them back. The revisionist has no source of income for their maintenance and therefore, has filed maintenance petition, wherein, the opposite party no. 2 appeared before the trial Court and submitted his written reply but, he has not disclosed his true income. The revisionist no. 1 although an educated lady but, is unable to work and is jobless, who is totally dependent upon her parents. The opposite party no. 2 has not paid any maintenance, whereas, he is serving as Engineer and is earning Rs. 1,94,860/- per month and fully capable to pay maintenance to both the revisionists. In support of his contention, the revisionist has filed salary slip of the opposite party no. 2 dated 25.6.2022, which shows that he is serving as Engineer in Nokia Solutions and Network India Pvt. Ltd. at Noida and getting Rs. 1,94,860/- per month. It was further argued that the revisionist has no source of income for maintenance of herself and her son. However, learned trial Court on the basis of misleading affidavit of opposite party no. 2 filed in compliance of direction of Hon?ble Supreme Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha has wrongly assessed his monthly income as Rs. 1,20,000/- per month without appreciating the evidence available on record. None of the family members of opposite party no. 2 is dependent upon him. The learned Court below has not correctly appreciated the evidence available on record and as such the impugned order is liable to be modified by directing the opposite party no. 2 to pay maintenance of Rs. 75,000/- per month to the revisionists.

7. It was further submitted that the facts of first marriage of opposite party no. 2 with Bhawana and birth of one daughter Km. Kanak from first marriage as well as divorce from his first wife have been concealed by the opposite party no. 2 from the parents of revisionist. Lastly, it was argued that the amount of maintenance awarded to the revisionist and her minor son are not sufficient to maintain themselves, therefore, learned counsel urged for allowing this revision and for enhancement of monthly maintenance and for dismissal of Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024.

8. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 and learned AGA for the State have vehemently opposed the present criminal revision and argued that impugned judgment and order has been passed on the facts available on the file that too in accordance with well settled law, therefore, prayed for dismissal of the present criminal revision.

9. Learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 further submitted that the marriage of the opposite party no. 2 was solemnized with revisionist no. 1 on 2.6.2013 as per Hindu rites and rituals without any demand of dowry. It is the second marriage of the opposite party no. 2 and out of their wedlock, one son namely Lakshya Som was born. They were living happily. The revisionist no. 1 was in a private job. The revisionist is very ambitious and was not comfortable with his (O.P. No.2?s) parents and when his father fell ill and required care and support, she was not ready to do and left his house. He tried to pursue and convince her to live with him. He also filed a suit for restitution of conjugal rights. On account of continuous efforts, she came to the house on two occasions but again went to her parental house and filed an application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. against him on false and frivolous grounds.

10. It was further submitted that the revisionist is a qualified lady and has obtained post graduate degree in a professional course i.e. fashion designing and she is able to maintain herself. He has filed all documentary evidence regarding liabilities in support of his written statement. However, learned Principal Judge, Family Court, has allowed the application filed by the revisionist without appreciating the evidence on record. He was always ready to keep the revisionists with all love, affection and care and he had made such offer in the proceedings of the present case before the learned Principal Judge. The revisionist had herself deserted and left him without any sufficient reason. The impugned order passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Bulandshahar is not in accordance with law and therefore, warrants interference by this Court. Lastly it was urged that Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024 be dismissed and his Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024 be allowed and the impugned judgment and order be set aside in entirety.

11. Admittedly, the revisionist no. 1 is legally wedded wife of opposite party no. 2, whereas revisionist no. 2 is son of revisionist no. 1 and opposite party no. 2. It is also admitted fact between the parties that a Criminal Case No. 481 of 2017, under Sections 498A, 323, 504 IPC and of D.P. Act is pending between the parties, which has been lodged by the revisionist no. 1 against the opposite party no. 2 and his parents for dowry harassment. It is also an admitted fact that a suit for restitution of conjugal rights was filed by opposite party no. 2, which was dismissed. Pendency of criminal case that too regarding dowry harassment of revisionist no. 1 at the hands of opposite party no. 2 and his parents gave a reasonable cause to revisionist no. 1 to live apart from her husband. It is a statutory as well as social obligation of a husband to maintain his wife and children.

12. The trial Court has recorded a finding in para no. 16, 17 and 18 of the impugned judgment that the revisionist no. 1 has a reasonable cause to live separately from her husband i.e. opposite party no. 2 and is thus residing in her parental house. Therefore, as far as reasons for the revisionist living separately is concerned, the learned trial Court has recorded a categorical finding on this issue and this Court being a Revisional Court cannot re-appreciate the evidence and also cannot substitute it's own finding, in place of the finding of facts recorded by the trial Court on this issue in question, unless the finding is completely perverse and is against the facts and law, which is not the case in hand.

13. In the present case, revisionist no. 1 filed an application for maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C., who is the wife of the opposite party no. 2. Section 125 Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman, who left her matrimonial home for the reasons provided in the provision, so that some suitable arrangement can be made by the Court and she can sustain herself and also her children, if they are with her. Apex Court in Badshah vs. Urmila Badshah Godse and another (2014) 1 SCC 188, has held that the provision of maintenance aims at empowering the destitute and achieving social justice or equality and dignity of the individual and while dealing with cases thereunder, the drift in the approach from adversarial litigation to social context adjudication is the need of the hour. Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha and another (2015) 5 SCC 705, has emphasized that maintenance laws were enacted as a measure of social justice to provide recourse to dependent wives and children for their financial support, so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy.

14. Hon?ble Apex Court in Rina Kumari @ Rina Devi @ Reena vs. Dinesh Kumar Mahto @ Dinesh Kumar Mahato and another (2025) 3 SCC 33 has clarified the law of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C.. The relevant paras 9 to 14 are reproduced herein below:-

"9. In its 41st Report submitted on 24th September, 1969, the Law Commission of India, while adverting to Section 488 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, observed that the primary justification for placing provisions relating to maintenance of wives and children, which is a civil matter, in the Criminal Procedure Code was that a remedy, speedier and more economical than that available in the Civil Courts, is provided to them. The Law Commission noted that the provision was aimed at preventing starvation and vagrancy, leading to commission of crime.

10. On the same lines, in Chaturbhuj vs. Sita Bai, this Court observed that the object of maintenance proceedings is not to punish a person for his neglect but to prevent the vagrancy and destitution of a deserted wife, by providing her food, clothing and shelter by a speedy remedy. It was held that Section 125 Cr.P.C. is a measure of social justice, especially enacted to protect women and children, falling within the constitutional sweep of Article 15(3) reinforced by Article 39 of the Constitution. Thus, the objective of the provision, then and now, is to alleviate the financial plight of destitute wives, children and now, parents, who are left to fend for themselves.

11. In Bhuwan Mohan Singh vs. Meena and others, this Court observed that Section 125 Cr.P.C. was conceived to ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman, who left her matrimonial home for the reasons provided in the provision, so that some suitable arrangement can be made by the Court and she can sustain herself and also her children, if they are with her. It was held that the concept of sustenance did not necessarily mean ?to lead the life of an animal, feel like an unperson to be thrown away from grace and roam for her basic maintenance somewhere else? and the wife would be entitled in law to lead a life in a similar manner as she would have lived in the house of her husband. This Court further cautioned that, in a proceeding of this nature, the husband cannot be permitted to take subterfuge to deprive the wife of the benefits of living with dignity and there could be no escape route, unless there is an order from the Court that the wife is not entitled to get maintenance from the husband on legally permissible grounds.

12. Earlier, in Badshah vs. Urmila Badshah Godse and another, this Court held that the provision of maintenance aims at empowering the destitute and achieving social justice or equality and dignity of the individual and while dealing with cases thereunder, the drift in the approach from adversarial litigation to social context adjudication is the need of the hour.

13. More recently, in Rajnesh vs. Neha and another, this Court emphasized that maintenance laws were enacted as a measure of social justice to provide recourse to dependent wives and children for their financial support, so as to prevent them from falling into destitution and vagrancy.

14. In Shamima Farooqui vs. Shahid Khan, this Court noted that the inherent and fundamental principle behind Section 125 Cr.P.C. is the amelioration of the financial state of affairs as well as the mental agony and anguish that a woman suffers when she is compelled to leave her matrimonial home. It was further observed that, as per law, she is entitled to lead life in a similar manner as she would have lived in the house of her husband and as long as she is held entitled to grant of maintenance within the parameters of Section 125 Cr.P.C., it has to be adequate so that she can live with dignity. Lastly, it was noted that, a plea is sometimes advanced by the husband that he does not have the means to pay as he does not have a job or his business is not doing well, but these are only bald excuses and, in fact, they have no acceptability in law as a husband, who is healthy, able-bodied and in a position to support himself is under a legal obligation to support his wife and her right to receive maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C., unless disqualified, is an absolute right."

15. Thus, provision for maintenance is a manifestation of the State's commitment to safeguard weaker sections of society, particularly women and children, from neglect and economic deprivation within the protective ambit of Articles 15(3) and 39 of the Constitution of India. The liability to maintain is continuous, enforceable, and insulated from considerations of proprietary holdings, flowing solely from the existence of the marital or familial relationship. Courts have consistently reiterated that maintenance is not charity but a right, and its enforcement is essential to uphold equity, justice, and good conscience. Thus, maintenance jurisprudence in India stands as a testament to the judiciary's resolve to ensure that no wife, child, or dependent parent is left to languish in penury due to the neglect of those legally bound to sustain them.

16. In the light of above principles, a perusal of the impugned judgment and order reveals that none of the party has placed on record any documentary evidence regarding income of revisionist no. 1. Revisionist no. 1 has claimed that the opposite party no. 2 is not maintaining her. Before the trial Court, opposite party no. 2 has stated that revisionist is a highly qualified lady having degree in the form of M.A. in a professional course i.e. fashion designing and is earning on account of teaching and tuitions, but no documentary evidence, regarding income of revisionist no. 1 has been placed on record by the opposite party no. 2. In this background, whether revisionist is capable of earning or whether she is actually earning, are two different requirements. If wife is capable of earning, then her mere capability is not sufficient to deny maintenance to her.

17. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manish Jain v. Akanksha Jain, (2017) 15 SCC 801, has observed:

"16. An order for maintenance pendente lite or for costs of the proceedings is conditional on the circumstance that the wife or husband who makes a claim for the same has no independent income sufficient for her or his support or to meet the necessary expenses of the proceeding. It is no answer to a claim of maintenance that the wife is educated and could support herself. Likewise, the financial position of the wife's parents is also immaterial. The court must take into consideration the status of the parties and the capacity of the spouse to pay maintenance and whether the applicant has any independent income sufficient for her or his support. Maintenance is always dependent upon factual situation; the court should, therefore, mould the claim for maintenance determining the quantum based on various factors brought before the court."

18. Similarly, in Shailja and another v. Khobbanna, (2018), 12 SCC 199, it has been observed:

"5. That apart, we find that the High Court has proceeded on the basis that Appellant I was capable of earning and that is one of the reasons for reducing the maintenance granted to her by the Family Court. Whether Appellant 1 is capable of earning or whether she is actually earning are two different requirements Merely because Appellant 1 is capable of earning is not, in our opinion, sufficient reason to reduce the maintenance awarded by the Family Court."

19. Therefore, the law on this point is very clear that if wife is educated and well qualified to earn an income, this itself is not sufficient to deny maintenance to her.

20. It is not the case of opposite party no. 2 that revisionist is having any specialized technical / medical qualification like B.Tech. M.B.A., M.C.A., M.B.B.S. etc. In present-day scenario, by merely acquiring M.A. in fashion designing technology, it cannot be presumed that revisionist is actually earning some income, unless proved contrary. Although, it has been claimed by the opposite party no. 2 that his wife is earning Rs. 60,000/- per month from fashion designing. But, no such record was produced, either before this revisional Court or trial Court. Therefore, this plea of husband/opposite party no. 2, that the wife is earning Rs. 60,000/- per month, is not acceptable. However, the opposite party no. 2 has admitted in his affidavit 24A filed in complaince to direction of Apex Court issued in Rajnesh vs. Neha that he is getting a salary of Rs. 1,25,000/- in hand per month. However, a finding to this effect has also been recorded by learned trial Court at para 20 of the impugned judgment that he is getting a salary of Rs. 1,20,000/- per month. Therefore, as per his own admission in affidavit 24A, opposite party no. 2 is earning Rs. 1,25,000/- per month.

21. The direction issued by Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha and another (2021) 2 SCC 324 are not mere formalities. A uniform format of affidavit of Disclosure of Assets and Liabilities was directed to be filed by the parties in all maintenance proceedings. It was also directed that the format may be modified by the court concerned if the exengencies of a case require the same (para 72 to 95). It was also directed that the Court may involve Section 106 of Evidence Act, 1872 if necessary, since the income, assets and liabilities of the spouse are within the personal knowledge of the party concerned. Apex Court in Aditi @ Mithi vs. Jitesh Sharma 2023 INSC 981 has directed that the guidelines given in Rajnesh?s case (supra) be re-circulated to all the judicial officers through the High Courts concerned.

22. Law of maintenance under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is well settled and proceedings under this section are of summary nature and are intended to enable destitute wives and children to get maintenance in a speedy manner. The object is to prevent vagrancy and destitution by providing a speedy remedy for the supply of food, clothing and shelter to the deserted wife and children. It's primary object is to give social justice to the women, child and infirm parents etc. It is in this light, the affidavits are required to be filed. Inspite of uniform format of Affidavit of Disclosure of Assets and Liabilities, parties may devise ways to defeat the very object of this social litigation and the Court's cannot shut its eyes on the ways so devised by the parties. It is the bounden duty of a trial Court to ensure that a party should not file an evasive affidavit just to avoid his liability to pay maintenance either to his wife/ child or his parents. The courts are required to be vigilant to find out such attempts and when detected, appropriate steps including invoking Section 106 of the Evidence Act as well as initiating action for prosecution under Sections 199/191 & 193 or 209 may also be initiated. It is thus a bounden duty of a trial court to ensure compliance of directions issued by Apex Court in Rajnesh's case (supra) in letter and spirit.

23. The purpose of highlighting this aspect is that in the case at hand, the proceedings before the Family Court were concluded without being alive to the objects, reasons and the spirit of the provision under Section 125 Cr.P.C.. Family Judge is expected to be sensitive to the issues such as the plight of the Indian women, who is forced to live separately and take care of young children, who (wife) is running from pillar to post just to receive maintenance for herself and her minor children, therefore, family Courts are dealing with extremely delicate and sensitive issues pertaining to maintenance. The very object of the maintenance proceedings is to prevent vagrancy and destitution of such deserted wife by providing food, clothing and shelter by a speedy remedy for maintenance. The trial Court can ameliorate the agony, anguish and financial suffering of a woman and thereby social justice as well as equality and dignity of a woman can be ensured. Family Courts should not show undue haste or impatience, but there is a distinction between impatience and to be wisely anxious and conscious about dealing with a situation. This Court had made the above observations as this Court felt, that the Family Court in the said case had conducted the proceedings without being alive to the objects and reasons, and the spirit of the provision under Section 125 of the Cr.P.C. Such an impression has been gathered by this Court in the case on hand.

24. A perusal of the affidavit filed by Jitendra Singh Som in the light of above well settled principles of law reveals that he has shown three family members to be dependent upon him, his father Rambhool Singh (72 years), his mother Munesh Devi (68 years) and his sister Rajani Som (36 years) in para 'C detail of dependent family members?. However, in its sub para-2, he has mentioned that his father is a pensioner and in his cross examination when he was shown the particulars mentioned by him in his aforesaid affidavit and was asked that as to why he has not mentioned the amount of pension being drawn by his father, then he stated that amount of pension is known to his father. Therefore, it is apparently clear that his father is a pensioner. During the course of argument this Court made an oral query to which, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 2 stated that father of Jitendra is retired Army personnel and is drawing pension from Indian Army. In this background Jitendra has filed a false affidavit showing his father and mother to be dependent upon him, whereas his father is a pensioner and his mother is dependent upon his father. Moreover, he has not explained that whether his sister Rajani aged 36 years is married or not and when their father Rambhool is alive, it cannot be easily presumed that his 38 years old sister is dependent upon him without there being any other necessary particulars in this regard. In his affidavit, he has stated that he is getting salary of Rs. 1,25,000/- per month in hand, however, he has not disclosed other benefits and allowances received by him. The opposite party no. 2 is already paying maintenance of Rs. 5,000/- per month to his daughter Kanak born out of his wedlock from his first wife, therefore, his effective net salary i.e. carry home salary after deducting this amount comes out to be Rs. 1,20,000/-.

25. In his affidavit, opposite party no. 2 has admitted that he is income tax payee, however, he has not filed his income tax return as clearly indicated in the prescribed proforma of the affidavit. The opposite party no. 2 has admitted himself to be a salaried person getting a salary of Rs. 1,25,000/- per month in hand i.e. he himself has admitted that after all deductions he is getting a net salary of Rs. 1,25,000/- which is his net salary. However, once again opposite party no. 2 has not annexed requisite latest salary certificate, pay slip and bank account statement in which he is receiving his salary, which were required to be filed as per sub para 5, 6, 7 and 9 of para 'F' of Uniform Proforma of Affidavit of Assets and Liabilities. Meaning thereby, that opposite party

no. 2 has intentionally concealed the material documents showing his actual income, from the trial Court. The opposite party no. 2 has also intentionally concealed his latest salary certificate as well as salary slip with an objective that the trial Court could not find out the amount of actual deductions from his gross salary, because those deductions could have been much higher than the requisite statutory deductions. The approach of trial Court in receiving and placing reliance on opposite party no. 2's affidavit, while writing down the judgment seems to be very casual and lackadaisical in nature. It was the bounden duty of the learned trial Court to examine that affidavit filed by the opposite party no. 2 in compliance of Rajnesh's case (supra) was required to be filled up with all mandatory necessary details as well as all requisite necessary documents. If a simple detailed perusal of affidavit would have been done, these all intentional concealment would have been easily noted by learned trial Court.

26. The opposite party no. 2 with some legal advise has shown his parents and sister as dependent upon him, just to deny the lawful right of the revisionists to receive maintenance from him. It is admitted fact that father of opposite party no. 2, Rambhool, is an ex-serviceman and is receiving pension from the Army. There is no such statement made in the affidavit that his father is physically dependent upon him or economically dependent upon him or both. Clever devise of opposite party no. 2 is apparent, because he is residing with his parents in his house which he states to be in the name of his father but has intentionally concealed the amount of pension received by his father. Indian Army provides full medical facilities to ex-serviceman across the country. Father of opposite party no. 2 is residing at Meerut and it is well known fact that Meerut is a Cantonment Area having Military Hospital where all facilities including reimbursement of expenses, if incurred on purchase of medicines, can also be easily sought and inspite of this fact, the opposite party no. 2 has shown expenses of Rs. 30,000/- per month on his parents. Therefore, in the absence of necessary particulars regarding actual amount of pension being received by the father of opposite party no. 2 as well as health facilities available and utilized in the Defence establishment area, it cannot be presumed that the father and mother are dependent upon him. The opposite party no. 2 has also not shown marital status, if any, of his sister which is another material concealment. If the trial Court would have been a little vigilant regarding it?s duty in maintenance proceedings, such a situation could have been easily averted. Family Courts are presided by Senior Judicial Officers of the cadre of Higher Judicial Services and therefore, it is expected from such officers to be not only alive to the ground realitics but they have a bounden duty to assess and carefully examine any calculative devise of a husband to subterfuge the right of maintenance of a wife and child.

27. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the case of Rajnesh Vs. Neha (2021) 2 SCC 324 has opined that since it is the sacrosanct duty of the husband to provide financial support to the wife and minor children, the husband is required to earn money even by physical labour, if he is able-bodied, and cannot not avoid his obligation.

28. The Hon'ble Supreme Court of India in the cases of Rajnesh Vs. Neha (supra) and Kulbhushan Kumar (Dr) v. Raj Kumari, (1970) 3 SCC 129, has observed that the maintenance allowances can be granted up to the extent of 25% of the net income of the husband to the wife and 15% of the net income to their child. The maintenance amount awarded must be reasonable and realistic, and should avoid either of the two extremes i.e. maintenance awarded to the wife should neither be so extravagant which becomes oppressive and unbearable for the respondent, nor should it be so meager that it drives the wife to penury.

29. Thus, this Revisional Court is of the considered opinion that the maintenance allowance, fixed by the Court below, is not as per the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Rajnesh (supra) as 25 % of Rs. 1,25,000/- comes out to Rs. 31,250/- per month. As such, Rs. 30,000/-, towards monthly maintenance allowance, in favour of revisionist, is just, reasonable and realistic. Therefore, the judgment and order dated 01.12.2023, passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 2, Bulandshahar in Case No. 829 of 2019 (Smt. Sadhana @ Sakshi vs. Jitendra Singh Soam), under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 is required to be modified to the extent that now the opposite party no. 2 shall pay Rs. 30,000/- per month in favour of revisionist no. 1 from the date of impugned judgment and order i.e. 01.12.2023.

30. However, at the same time, the respondent-husband cannot be absolved from his liability and responsibility to maintain his son till he attains the age of majority. Whatever be the dispute between the husband and the wife, a child should not be made to suffer. The liability and responsibility of the father to maintain the child continues till the child/son attains the age of majority. It also cannot be disputed that the son has a right to be maintained as per the status of his father. It is reported that the mother is not earning anything. She is residing at her parental house. Therefore, a reasonable/sufficient amount is required for the maintenance of her son including his education etc. Admittedly, revisionist no. 2 is a school going boy and at present is about 8 years of age and therefore, keeping in view his living expenses, which includes expenses for food, clothing, residence, medical expenses, education extra coaching class etc., this Court finds an amount of Rs. 17,500/- (which is less than 15% of Rs. 1,25,000/- i.e. Rs. 18,750/-) towards monthly maintenance in favour of the revisionist no. 2 is just, reasonable and realistic and the impugned judgment and order is required to be modified to the extent that now the opposite party no. 2 shall pay Rs. 17,500/- per month in favour of revisionist no. 2 from the date of impugned judgment and order i.e. 01.12.2023.

31. The present maintenance petition was filed by the revisionist in the year 2019 and the aforesaid maintenance amount is calculated keeping in view the salary of opposite party no. 2 allegedly received by him late in the year 2022. Therefore, for deciding the amount of maintenance to be paid from the date of filing of application to the date of judgment is fixed to be Rs. 20,000/- per month for the revisionist No. 1 and Rs. 14,000/- per month is fixed for revisionist no. 2, which amounts shall be paid from the date of filing of the maintenance application.

32. Consequently, the judgment and order dated 01.12.2023, passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, Court No. 2, Bulandshahar in Case No. 829 of 2019 (Smt. Sadhana @ Sakshi vs. Jitendra Singh Som), under Section 125 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 is modified to the extent that now the opposite party no. 2 shall pay Rs. 47,500/- (Rs. 30,000/- for the revisionist no. 1 + Rs. 17,500/- for the revisionist no. 2) per month in favour of revisionist nos. 1 and 2 from the date of impugned judgment and order i.e. 01.12.2023 and Rs. 34,000/- (Rs. 20,000/- for revisionist no. 1 + Rs. 14,000/- for revisionist no. 2) from the date of filing of application to the date of judgment i.e. 01.12.2023.

33. Taking a humanitarian approach, this Court, also, provides that the arrears of maintenance allowance shall be paid by the revisionist in six monthly equal installments. The first installment shall commence from 1st July, 2026.

34. It is also clarified that the arrears of amount towards maintenance allowance, as awarded by the learned Family Court, shall be calculated on the basis of amount of maintenance allowance as fixed by this Court herein above and after that if it is found that any amount has been paid in excess, the same shall be adjusted from the amount to be paid.

35. In affidavit of Assets and Liabilities for non -agrarian deponents, it was required to disclose any independent source of income of the dependents including interest income, assets, pension, tax liability on such income and any other detail, which were completely missing in the present case. No medical record or disability certificate or summary of previous details of hospitalization/ medical treatment was produced by the opposite party no. 2 regarding medical expenses of his parents. Even salary certificate clearly stating the designation with gross monthly income, Form-16 for relevant period, details of perquisites and other statutory benefits, income tax returns and copies of bank statement of all accounts for last 3 years of opposite party no. 2 were not furnished by him, which were required to be filed alongwith affidavit and only then, it could be said that requisite affidavit in compliance to Rajnesh's case (supra) has been filed. These are the reasons that this Court came to conclusion that the approach of learned trial Court was very casual in nature. Let a copy of this judgment be circulated amongst all Judicial Officers of State of U.P. through Registrar (compliance) to ensure that the direction of Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha be complied in its letter and spirit, as affidavits to be filed in compliance of Apex Court's direction is not a mere formality. The trial Courts must be alive to be objects and reasons as well as spirit behind law of maintenance as provided under Section 125 Cr.P.C./ 144 of BNSS, as noted in this judgment. The learned trial Courts must make an endevour to ensure filing of all necessary documents, which are clearly indicated in prescribed proforma of Affidavit of Assets and Liabilities by Hon'ble Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha (supra).

36. The present Criminal Revision No. 223 of 2024 stands allowed accordingly and Criminal Revision No. 51 of 2024 stands dismissed.

37. A copy of this judgment be sent to Director, JTRI for sensitizing the judicial officer on this issue in the light of direction issued by Hon?ble Apex Court in Rajnesh vs. Neha as well as observation made in this judgment.

Criminal Revision No. 369 of 2026

Smt. Meena Devi & Anr. ...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether an order rejecting a discharge application under Section 250 BNSS (corresponding to Section 227 Cr.P.C.) can be sustained where the trial court fails to consider material contained in an audio recording between the deceased and the informant, and other corroborated statements, casting doubt on the allegation of demand of dowry?

(b) Whether the statutory presumption under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is attracted in the absence of the essential ingredient of demand of dowry?

(c) What is the duty of a court, while considering discharge, in evaluating statements based on hearsay as against statements corroborated by other material on record?

Headnotes

A. Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 — S. 250 (corresponding to S. 227 Cr.P.C.) — Discharge — Duty to consider entire material.

HELD: While exercising the power contained in Section 250 BNSS (corresponding to Section 227 Cr.P.C.), the Court must consider the entire material and statements recorded in the case diary in their true and right perspective and reach a conclusion regarding the complicity of the accused. Statements based on hearsay must be discarded, and statements corroborated by other material must be given higher weightage than mere statements lacking corroboration. (Para 9)

B. Indian Evidence Act, 1872 — S. 113-B — Presumption of dowry death — Essential ingredient of demand of dowry.

HELD: Where the audio recording between the deceased and the informant, read with the informant's own affidavit and the statement of the owner of the house where the deceased resided, falsifies the allegation of demand of dowry and reveals a motive for the incident distinct from the dowry demand alleged in the F.I.R., the essential ingredient of demand of dowry is lacking, and consequently the presumption under Section 113-B of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is not attracted; no person can be charged merely on the basis of imagination. (Para 8)

C. Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 — Discharge — Hearsay statements versus corroborated statements.

HELD: The statement of a witness who has no first-hand knowledge of the incident, and who is merely a witness to a collateral fact such as the marriage, is hearsay in nature qua the incident and has no evidentiary value; such statements must be discarded in favour of statements supported by other material on record, such as recorded conversations and the statements of persons residing in the same house as the deceased. (Paras 5-7)

Criminal Revision allowed. Order dated 06.01.2026 passed by the Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar, set aside; trial court directed to pass a fresh order in the light of the observations made, after hearing the parties. (E-14)

Himanshu Dixit and others), arising out of Case Crime No. 75 of 2025, under Sections 85, 82(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita and Sections 3/4 of the Dowry Prohibition Act, 1961, Police Station Govind Nagar, District Kanpur Nagar.

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Kalyan Singh, Karma Singh Yadav

For Opposite Party(s): Dheerendra Kumar, G.A., Vikash Krishna Murti

(Delivered by Hon'ble Lakshmi Kant Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Kalyan Singh, the learned counsel for revisionist, the learned AGA appearing on behalf of State-opposite party no. 1, Mr. Dheerendra Kumar, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 and perused the record.

2. Revisionist Meena Devi and another has approached this Court by means of present Criminal Revision assailing the propriety of impugned order dated 06.01.2026 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar (hereinafter referred as trial court) in Session Case No. 1677/2025 (State of U.P. Vs. Himanshu Dixit and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 75 of 2025, under section 85, 82(2) BNS and Section 3/4 D.P. Act, Police Station Govind Nagar, District Kanpur Nagar wherein the trial court rejected the application for discharge under section 250 BNSS filed by revisionist.

3. Feeling aggrieved from that order the present revision has been filed on the ground that the impugned order is illegal, bad in law, perverse and has been passed without application of judicial mind, without considering the material available on record as a whole but the impugned order has been passed by picking and choosing evidence. On the basis of material available on record no offence under section 85, 80(2) BNS and section 3/4 D.P. Act is made out against the revisionist. The Audio recording of the conversation between the deceased and the informant demonstrates the involvement of accused persons namely Himanshu Tiwari, Rahul Tiwari and Sonam in the alleged offence. Learned counsel for revisionists submitted that a perusal of the entire case diary clearly reveals that the revisionists were not present at the date, time and place of occurrence. The revisionists, being the mother-in-law and father-in-law of the deceased were residing in their village, whereas the deceased was residing in rented accommodation in the Kanpur City. It is further submitted that the informant and his family members are not eye witnesses to the incident. Although allegations of demand of dowry have been levelled against the revisionists, the same stands falsified by the call recording between the informant and the deceased, as the conversation between them reveals that the cause of the incident was motivated by reasons entirely different from the alleged demand of dowry. In the present case the statement of informant along with statement of owner of the house where the deceased was residing along with her husband and co-accused Rahul & Sonam as well as the statement of the sister of the deceased are material and relevant for proper adjudication of the matter. The statement of the sister of the deceased is reproduced herein below:-

4. According to post mortem report the death of deceased could not be ascertained, viscera was preserved, the doctor who conducted the autopsy on the dead body of the deceased found one ante mortem wound of laceration measuring 1cmx 1 cm into muscle deep over forehead. As per FSL report the presence of poisonous substance in viscera has been certified.

5. Previously according to the statement of Smt. Gunjan Dixit, the elder sister of deceased, she was only a witness to the marriage and, except for that whatever has been stated by her is hearsay in nature and has not evidentiary value.

6. Further according to the earlier statement of informant he had fully supported the prosecution case. He admitted that on the date of the incident he had some telephonic conversation with his sister. However in his affidavit he clarified that according to the recording of said conversation, there was no involvement of the parents of accused Himanshu i.e. mother-in-law and father-in-law of deceased in the alleged incident. The details of the said recording has also been reproduced herein below and the same form part of case diary:-

7. Such details of recording falsify the entire allegation regarding demand of dowry, and the motive behind the death appears to be different from motive assigned in FIR as well as earlier statement of informant. In his additional statement, the informant could not reproduce the version as stated in his affidavit, which itself goes against the prosecution story. Apart from this, the statement of owner of the house in which the deceased was residing along with her husband and two other co-accused is also material. According to the statement of Shashi Kant Tiwari, the owner of the house, occurring at page 63 of paper book, there was continuous quarrel between deceased and her husband and two other co-accused namely Rahul and his wife Sonam. The present revisionists were not residing in that house, they used to visit on a few occasions. As per the said statement, the reason for the quarrels between the parties was not on account of demand of dowry but it was on instance of living of two co-accused Rahul and Sonam in the same rented house.

8. In view of above conspectus, it is crystal clear that the death of deceased was unnatural and had occurred within seven years of marriage and she was subject to harassment soon before her death. However the essential ingredient relating to demand of dowry is lacking. Therefore, the presumption under section 113-B of Indian Evidence Act, 1872 is not attracted, and no person can charged merely on the basis of imagination.

9. The Court, while exercising it's power contained in section 227 Cr.P.C. (Corresponding section 250 of BNSS) must consider entire material & statements recorded in case diary in true and right perspective and reach at the conclusion about accomplicity of accused person. The statement of witnesses based on hearsay must be discarded. The statement of witnesses having corroboration from other material must be given higher weightage than mere statement having no corroborative material. And the Court should proceed further on the basis of statement with corroborative materials disregarding statements having no supportive material.

10. In view of above, in my opinion that the trial court failed to appreciate the evidence available on record in its proper perspective. Consequently, the impugned order has been passed with material irregularities and illegalities and is, therefore liable to be set aside.

11. Accordingly the present criminal revision is allowed. The impugned order dated order dated 06.01.2026 passed by learned Sessions Judge, Kanpur Nagar is hereby set aside. The trial court is directed to pass a fresh order in the light of the observations made by this Court and in accordance with law. The parties are directed to appear before the trial court.

Criminal Revision No. 659 of 2026

Smt Archana & Anr. ...Revisionist

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether interim maintenance of Rs. 1,000/- per month granted solely to the wife, with nothing awarded to the minor child, under Section 125 Cr.P.C. is sustainable in the exercise of revisional jurisdiction under Section 397 Cr.P.C.?

(b) Whether, and in what manner, the employer of a husband can be directed to deduct maintenance from his salary and remit it directly to the wife's bank account?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125, S. 397 — Interim maintenance — Adequacy — Revisional scrutiny.

HELD: Interim maintenance of Rs. 1,000/- per month granted to the wife alone, with no amount awarded for the minor child, held too meagre, unjustifiable and insufficient having regard to the expenses of contesting the case, basic subsistence, residence and medical treatment. Section 397 Cr.P.C. empowers the High Court to call for and examine records of an inferior criminal court to verify the legality, correctness and propriety of such an order.

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Quantum of maintenance — One-fourth rule.

HELD: Following Kalyan Dey Chowdhury v. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy, AIR 2017 SC 2383, 1/4th of the gross salary/income of the husband is to be granted to the wife as maintenance.

C. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 125 — Deduction of maintenance directly from salary — Direction to employer.

HELD: Following the direction of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dimple v. Nishant Pravinbhai Soni (Transfer Petition (Civil) No. 3147/2024, decided on 27.02.2026), the employer (District Basic Education Officer) directed to deduct 1/4th of the gross salary of the husband and remit the same by way of credit to the bank account of the wife.

Revision disposed of with a direction to the Principal Judge, Family Court, Kanpur Dehat, to pass an order directing the District Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Dehat, to deduct 1/4th of the gross salary of the opposite party no. 2 and credit the same to the bank account of revisionist no. 1, and to decide the pending application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. preferably within six months, determining appropriate maintenance for the wife and minor son in accordance with Rajnesh v. Neha. (E-14)

Case Arising From

Order dated 07.02.2025 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, District Kanpur Dehat, in Case No. 97 of 2024 (Archana and another v. Amardeep), under Section 125 Cr.P.C.

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Uttam Singh

For Opposite Party(s): Bhavesh Singh Jadaun, G.A., Satya Dheer Singh Jadaun

(Delivered by Hon’ble Praveen Kumar Giri, J.)

1. Heard Sri Uttam Singh, learned counsel for the revisionist, Sri Bhavesh Singh Jadaun, learned counsel for O.P. No.2 and Sri Pankaj Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that the instant criminal revision has been preferred with the relief which has been mentioned in the prayer clause. The relief mentioned in the prayer clause of the revision is delineated below:-

"The relief sought by the present Criminal Revision is that this Hon'ble Court may be pleased to set aside the interim maintenance Order dated 07.02.2025 passed by the Additional Principal Judge, Family Court, District Kanpur Dehat in Case No.97 of 2024 (Archana and another Vs. Amardeep) under Section 125 Cr.P.C. by which Ld. Principal Judge Family Court Kanpur Dehat has granted the interim maintenance Rs.1000/- per month to the only revisionist no.1 and nothing has been granted to the Minor Child Revisionist No.2 so enhance the interim maintenance in favor of the Revisionist No.1 Rs.15000/- in place of the Rs.1000/- per month and also grant the interim maintenance to the minor child revisionist no.2 Rs.5000/- per month from the date of the application during the pendency of the Application Under Section 125 Cr.P.C. or may further pass such other and further orders as this Hon'ble Court may deem fit in the facts and circumstances of the present case, in the interest of justice."

3. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that O.P. No.2/husband is working as an Assistant Teacher in a government school and getting salary about Rs.1 lakh. He further submits that as per law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kalyan Dey Chowdhury vs. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy, AIR 2017 SC 2383, 1/4th of the income of the husband has to be granted to the wife as maintenance amount but vide impugned order dated 07.02.2025 only Rs.1000/- as interim maintenance amount has been granted to the wife/revisionist no.1 whereas no amount of interim maintenance for minor son/revisionist no.2 has been granted. He further submits that as per the provisions of Section 125(2) Cr.P.C., amount of maintenance or interim maintenance may be granted by passing order on the application under Section 125 Cr.P.C. either from the date of application or from the date of order. The relevant provision of Section 125(2) is being delineated below :-

"125(2) Any such allowance for the maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding shall be payable from the date of the order, or, if so ordered, from the date of the application for maintenance or interim maintenance and expenses of proceeding, as the case may be."

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submits that as per paragraphs 89, 91 and 93 of the judgment passed by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Rajnesh vs. Neha and another, (2021) 2 Supreme Court Cases 324, the amount of maintenance shall be granted from the date of application. Paragraphs 89, 91 and 93 of Rajnesh's case (supra) are being delineated below :-

"89 . Even though a judicial discretion is conferred upon the Court to grant maintenance either from the date of application or from the date of the order in Section 125(2) Code of Criminal Procedure, it would be appropriate to grant maintenance from the date of application in all cases, including Section 125 Code of Criminal Procedure In the practical working of the provisions relating to maintenance, we find that there is significant delay in disposal of the applications for interim maintenance for years on end. It would therefore be in the interests of justice and fair play that maintenance is awarded from the date of the application.

91. The rationale of granting maintenance from the date of application finds its roots in the object of enacting maintenance legislations, so as to enable the wife to overcome the financial crunch which occurs on separation from the husband. Financial constraints of a dependant spouse hampers their capacity to be effectively represented before the Court. In order to prevent a dependant from being reduced to destitution, it is necessary that maintenance is awarded from the date on which the application for maintenance is filed before the concerned Court.

93. It has therefore become necessary to issue directions to bring about uniformity and consistency in the Orders passed by all Courts, by directing that maintenance be awarded from the date on which the application was made before the concerned Court. The right to claim maintenance must date back to the date of filing the application, since the period during which the maintenance proceedings remained pending is not within the control of the applicant."

5. Learned counsel for O.P. No.2 did not dispute that O.P. No.2 works as a teacher in a government school, but he denied that O.P. No.2 is getting Rs.1 lakh salary as O.P. No.2 has not provided his salary slip, so the amount could not be ascertained as to whether he is getting Rs. 1 lakh salary or not. He further submits that the revisional court can only examine legality, propriety or jurisdictional correctness.

6. Having gone through the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and also considering the law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court on this aspect, this Court finds that the amount of Rs.1000/- granted as interim maintenance is too meagre, unjustifiable and not sufficient for contesting the case, bread and butter, rent of residence, medical expenses (as revisionist no.1/wife is suffering from neurological problem/Bells's palsy) and other expenses etc. Moreover, Section 397 of the Cr.P.C. grants the High Court and Sessions Judges the power to call for and examine the records of any inferior criminal court. It is a vital legal mechanism used to verify the legality, correctness, and propriety of judicial orders or proceedings.

7. This Court also directs to the District Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Dehat to deduct the 1/4th gross salary of the opposite party No.2 to be paid in the bank account of the revisionist, relying upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Dimple vs. Nishant Pravinbhai Soni (Transfer Petition (Civil) No.3147/2024 decided on 27.02.2026) as the Hon'ble Supreme Court has directed the employer to deduct the amount of maintenance from the salary of the husband and the same should be transferred in the bank account of the wife. The relevant paragraphs are delineated herein below:

"We inquired with the husband whether he is ready and willing to deposit an amount of Rs.2,50,000/- (Rupees Two Lakh Fifty Thousand only) inclusive of Rs.1,38,000/- (Rupees One Lakh Thirty Eight Thousand only) towards arrears of interim maintenance. However, husband has outright declined to pay anything for the maintenance to his wife and minor daughter.

7. In such circumstances, we are left with no other option but to direct the employer of the respondent-husband, namely, Rishad Shipping and Clearing Agency Pvt. Ltd., referred to above, that an amount of Rs.25,000/- (Rupees Twenty Five Thousand only) shall be deducted per month from the salary of Nishant Praveenbhai Soni and the said amount shall be transferred by RTGS to the account of his wife, namely, Dimpal Soni.

(Emphasis supplied)"

8. Accordingly, in the interest of justice and also in the light of law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Kalyan Dey Chowdhury vs. Rita Dey Chowdhury Nee Nandy,

AIR 2017 SC 2383, the 1/4th gross salary/income of the husband has to be granted to the wife as maintenance amount and as per the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dimple (supra), this Court directs the Principal Judge, Family Court, Kanpur Dehat to pass an order directing the Basic Education Officer, Kanpur Dehat to deduct 1/4th of the gross salary of O.P. no.2 and get credited the said amount in the bank account of revisionist no.1 namely, Smt. Archana as provided, as expeditiously as possible and decide the pending application filed under Section 125 Cr.P.C. preferably within a period of six months after providing opportunity of hearing and without granting unnecessary adjournment to either party and also determine appropriate maintenance in respect of revisionist (wife) as well as minor son in accordance with law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the judgment of Rajnesh (supra).

9. With the aforesaid directions, the instant revision stands disposed of.

Criminal Revision No. 2404 of 2025

Ajay Kumar ...Revisionist

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether a trial court can accept documentary evidence produced by way of an application, after closure of prosecution and defence evidence and recording of the accused's statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in the absence of an express procedure under the Code of Criminal Procedure enabling a party to move such an application?

(b) What is the scope of the Court's power under Section 91 Cr.P.C. to summon documents at any stage of an inquiry, trial or other proceeding, and can such power be invoked on an application moved by a party?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 91 — Summons to produce document — Power of Court — Stage of proceedings.

HELD: Section 91 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court to summon the production of any document or other thing at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceeding, provided the Court considers such production necessary or desirable for the purposes of such proceeding. The language used regarding the power of the Court in Sections 311 and 91 Cr.P.C. is similar; just as an application under Section 311 Cr.P.C. may be moved by either party for the Court's consideration, an application invoking Section 91 Cr.P.C. may likewise be moved by either party, though the Court must independently satisfy itself that the prayer is necessary for the just decision of the case. (Paras 12, 13, 17)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 91 — Acceptance of documents after closure of evidence — Requirement of reasons.

HELD: Where the Trial Court, after recording reasons, accepts an application along with documents filed after the closure of evidence, and exercises its jurisdiction in accordance with law, no jurisdictional error, illegality or material irregularity arises warranting interference in revision. (Para 18)

C. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 311 — Principles governing exercise of discretion — Bearing on power under S. 91.

HELD: The principles governing exercise of the wide discretionary power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. — that the power must be exercised judiciously, not to fill a lacuna, and only where the evidence sought is essential to a just decision of the case — inform the exercise of the Court's power under Section 91 Cr.P.C. to summon documents at any stage, without restricting it. Case Arising From Order dated 10.03.2025 passed by the Special Judge (D.A.A.), Firozabad, in Special Session Case No. 136 of 2009, State v. Ajay and others.

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Satyaveer Singh, Yawar Mukhtar

For Opposite Party(s): Santosh Kumar Shukla, G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Lakshmi Kant Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Mukhtar Alam, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Yawar Mukhtar, learned counsel for the revisionist, Mr. Satendra Tiwari, learned A.G.A. representing the State opposite party no. 1 and Mr. Santosh Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2.

2. Perused the record.

3. Revisionist Ajay Kumar has approached this Court by means of the present Criminal Revision challenging the impugned order dated 10.03.2025 passed by the Special Judge (D.A.A.), Firozabad (hereinafter referred to as "the Trial Court") in Special Session Case No. 136 of 2009, State v. Ajay and others, whereby the applications along with other documents filed by the informant/opposite party no. 2 has been accepted.

4. Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid order, the present criminal revision has been filed on the ground that the impugned order is illegal, arbitrary and beyond the jurisdiction of the Trial Court. Learned counsel for the revisionist submits that there is no provision in the Code of Criminal Procedure enabling the Court to accept documentary evidence after closure of evidence, particularly when no reason has been assigned by the Trial Court.

5. Elaborating his submission, it is urged that in the concerned matter the evidence of prosecution was over, statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. of accused persons had already been recorded and even statement of D.W.-1 had also been recorded and the case was fixed for final argument but in the mean time, the application 59 Ba along with few papers through list 60 Ba, an application 55 Ba along with list 56 Ba was presented before the Court without any provision and the same was accepted.

6. To buttress his submission, learned counsel for the revisionist relied upon the judgement of Delhi High Court in Rajesh Kumar Singh and others v. Lokpal of India in W.P. (C) No. 1264 of 2025, dated 28.11.2025, where the Delhi High Court relying on its judgement in Mujahat Ali Khan v. Lokpal of India, 2025:DHC:9986-DB, in paragraph 23 held as under:

" 23. We are of the considered view that the protections embedded in the Lokpal Act occupy a central and indispensable position, and the statute must be implemented strictly in the manner mandated by Parliament. This principle stands unequivocally affirmed not only by binding judicial precedents but also by the very framework and legislative scheme of the Lokpal Act. The importance of these statutory safeguards, which have a direct bearing on the issues arising in the present case, is clearly examined in the judgement of this Court in Mujahat Ali Khan v. Lokpal of India, 2025:DHC:9986-DB*. The relevant excerpts of the said Judgement are reproduced herein below for ready reference:*

"37. The statutory framework of Section 20 leaves no room for doubt that the requirement of affording an opportunity of hearing at the pre-investigation stage as well as at the post-investigation stage is mandatory. Section 20(3) explicitly provides that the learned Lokpal "shall", after giving an opportunity of being heard to the concerned public servant, decide whether a prima facie case exists and thereafter proceed to direct an investigation.

38. The legislative intent in this regard is further evident from the structure of Section 20 itself. Even at the stage of Section 20(1), where the Lokpal decides to direct an investigation, as distinguished from ordering a preliminary inquiry under Section 20(1)(a), the third proviso thereof mandates that before such investigation is ordered, the Lokpal "shall" call for the explanation of the public servant so as to determine whether a prima facie case for investigation exists.

40. It is well-settled principle of law that when a statute prescribes that a particular act must be done in a particular manner, it must be done in that manner or not at all. This principle was first enunciated in Taylor v. Taylor. The said principle was subsequently affirmed by the Privy Council in Nazir Ahmad v. Emperor, and has since been consistently reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in numerous decisions, including Deewan Singh v. Rajendra Pd. Ardevi and M.P. Wakf Board v. Subhan Shah, thereby making it a well-established doctrine in Indian legal jurisprudence. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in Dhananjaya Reddy v. State of Karnataka, observed on this doctrine in the following terms:

"26. Relying upon Nazir Ahmad case [AIR 1936 PC 253 (2)] and applying the principles laid down in Taylor v. Taylor [(1876) 1 Ch D 426] this Court in Singhara Singh case [AIR 1964 SC 358] held: (AIR p.361, para 8)

"8. The rule adopted in Taylor v. Taylor [(1876) 1 Ch D 426] is well recognized and is founded on sound principle. Its result is that if a statute has conferred a power to do an act and has laid down the method in which that power has to be exercised, it necessarily prohibits the doing of the act in any other manner than that which has been prescribed. The principle behind the rule is that if this were not so, the statutory provision might as well not have been enacted. A Magistrate, therefore, cannot in the course of investigation record a confession except in the manner laid down in Section 164. The power to record the confession had obviously been given so that the confession might be proved by the record of it made in the manner laid down. If proof of the confession by other means was permissible, the whole provision of Section 164 including the safeguards contained in it for the protection of accused persons would be rendered nugatory. The section, therefore, by conferring on Magistrates the power to record statements or confessions, by necessary implication, prohibited a Magistrate form giving oral evidence of the statements or confessions made to him."

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist further placed reliance upon the judgement of this Court in Application U/S 482 No. 30740 of 2024, Premanshu v. State of U.P. and another, dated 02.01.2025. Paragraph no. 9 of Premanshu (supra) is reproduced hereinbelow:

"9. The scope and object of the provision is to enable the Court to determine the truth and to render a just decision after discovering all relevant facts and obtaining proper proof of such facts, to arrive at a just decision of the case. Power must be exercised judiciously and not capriciously or arbitrarily, as any improper or capricious exercise of such power may lead to undesirable results. An application under Section 311 of Cr.P.C. must not be allowed only to fill up a lacuna in the case of the prosecution, or of the defence, or to the disadvantage of the accused, or to cause serious prejudice to the defence of the accused, or to give an unfair advantage to the opposite party. Further, the additional evidence must not be received as a disguise for retrial, or to change the nature of the case against either of the parties. Such a power must be exercised, provided that the evidence that is likely to be tendered by a witness, is germane to the issue involved. An opportunity of rebuttal however, must be given to the other party. The power conferred under Section 311 Cr.P.C. must therefore, be invoked by the Court only in order to meet the ends of justice, for strong and valid reasons, and the same must be exercised with great caution and circumspection. The very use of words such as 'any Court', 'at any stage', or 'or any enquiry, trial or other proceedings', 'any person' and 'any such person' clearly spells out that the provisions of this section have been expressed in the widest possible terms, and do not limit the discretion of the Court in any way. There is thus no escape if the fresh evidence to be obtained is essential to the just decision of the case. The determinative factor should therefore be, whether the summoning/recalling of the said witness is in fact, essential to the just decision of the case."

8. Reliance has also been placed upon the judgement of the Supreme Court in Neha Begum & Ors. v. The State of Assam & Anr., passed in Petition for Special Leave to Appeal (Crl.) No. 3910 of 2024, dated 02.09.2024. The Supreme Court in paragraph 7 of Neha Begum (supra) has held as under:

"7. Thus, first part of section gives a discretionary power to the Court to summon any person as a witness or to recall or re-examine the person already examined. Such a course of action is only permissible if the Court is satisfied that the prayer to recall and re-examine the witness is not made to fill in the lacuna and that the non-summoning of the witnesses would cause a serious prejudice to the accused. In this regard, we are benefitted by the judgment of Rajaram Prasad Yadav vs State of Bihar and Anr. (2013) 4 SCC 461 wherein this Court culled out the principles to be borne in mind while exercising the power under Section 311 CrPC. The relevant extract is reproduced hereinbelow: -

"17. From a conspectus consideration of the above decisions, while dealing with an application under Section 311 CrPC read along with Section 138 of the Evidence Act, we feel the following principles will have to be borne in mind by the courts:

"17.1. Whether the court is right in thinking that the new evidence is needed by it? Whether the evidence sought to be led in under Section 311 is noted by the court for a just decision of a case?

17.2. The exercise of the widest discretionary power under Section 311 CrPC should ensure that the judgment should not be rendered on inchoate, Inconclusive and speculative presentation of facts, as thereby the ends of justice would be defeated.

17.3. If evidence of any witness appears to the court to be essential to the just decision of the case, it is the power of the court to summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person.

17.4. The exercise of power under Section 311 CrPC should be resorted to only with the object of finding out the truth or obtaining proper proof for such facts, which will lead to a just and correct decision of the case.

17.5. The exercise of the said power cannot be dubbed as filling in a lacuna in a prosecution case, unless the facts and circumstances of the case make it apparent that the exercise of power by the court would result in causing serious prejudice to the accused, resulting in miscarriage of justice.

17.6. The wide discretionary power should be exercised judiciously and not arbitrarily.

17.7. The court must satisfy itself that it was in every respect essential to examine such a witness or to recall him for further examination in order to arrive at a just decision of the case.

17.8. The object of Section 311 CrPC simultaneously imposes a duty on the court to determine the truth and to render a just decision.

17.9. The court arrives at the conclusion that additional evidence is necessary, not because it would be impossible to pronounce the judgment without it, but because there would be a failure of justice without such evidence being considered.

17.10. Exigency of the situation, fair play and good sense should be the safeguard, while exercising the discretion. The court should bear in mind that no party in a trial can be foreclosed from correcting errors and that if proper evidence was not adduced or a relevant material was not brought on record due to any inadvertence, the court should be magnanimous in permitting such mistakes to be rectified.

17.11. The court should be conscious of the position that after all the trial is basically for the prisoners and the court should afford an opportunity to them in the fairest manner possible. In that parity of reasoning, it would be safe to err in favour of the accused getting an opportunity rather than protecting the prosecution against possible prejudice at the cost of the accused. The court should bear in mind that improper or capricious exercise of such a discretionary power, may lead to undesirable results.

17.12. The additional evidence must not be received as a disguise or to change the nature of the case against any of the party.

17.13. The power must be exercised keeping in mind that the evidence that is likely to be tendered, would be germane to the issue involved and also ensure that an opportunity of rebuttal is given to the other party.

17.14. The power under Section 311 CrPC must therefore, be Invoked by the court only in order to meet the ends of justice for strong and valid reasons and the same must be exercised with care, caution and circumspection. The court should bear in mind that fair trial entails the interest of the accused, the victim and the society and, therefore, the grant of fair and proper opportunities to the persons concerned, must be ensured being a constitutional goal, as well as a human right.""

9. It is further submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that the language used in Section 91 Cr.P.C. enables the Court to summon certain documents at any stage but does not enable either party to move application and produce document.

10. In view of above, it is thus urged that the impugned order is liable to be set aside by this Court invoking its revisional jurisdiction.

11. Per contra, learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 have vehemently opposed the revision. Learned counsel for opposite party no. 2 has drawn the attention of the Court towards Section 311 Cr.P.C., however, the Court is not inclined to accept the said submission because the said provision primarily relates to summoning, recalling or re-examination of any person as a witness. It does not, in terms, deal with summoning or production of any document or other thing, if the Court considers such production necessary or desirable for the purposes of inquiry, trial or other proceeding. Section 91 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court for that which is reproduced hereinbelow:

"Section 91. Summons to produce document or other thing.

(1) Whenever any Court or any officer in charge of a police station considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code by or before such Court or officer, such Court may issue a summons, or such officer a written order, to the person in whose possession or power such document or thing is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce it, or to produce it, at the time and place stated in the summons or order.

(2) Any person required under this section merely to produce a document or other thing shall be deemed to have complied with the requisition if he causes such document or thing to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

(3) Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(a) to affect sections 123 and 124 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), or the Bankers Books Evidence Act, 1891 (13 of 1891), or

(b) to apply to a letter, postcard, telegram or other document or any parcel or thing in the custody of the postal or telegraph authority."

12. The words regarding power of Court used in Sections 311 and 91 Cr.P.C. are same. Section 311 Cr.P.C. reads as under:

"Section 311- Power to summon material witness, or examine person present.

Any Court may, at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, summon any person as a witness, or examine any person in attendance, though not summoned as a witness, or recall and re-examine any person already examined; and the Court shall summon and examine or recall and re-examine any such person if his evidence appears to it to be essential to the just decision of the case."

13. The language employed in Section 311 Cr.P.C. is wide, empowering the Court at any stage of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding to summon any person as a witness or to recall and re-examine any person already examined, if his evidence appears to be essential to the just decision of the case. Similarly, Section 91 Cr.P.C. empowers the Court to issue summons for production of any document or other thing, if the Court considers such production is necessary or desirable for the purposes of inquiry, trial or other proceeding.

14. The finding in Raja Ram Yadav (supra) which has been followed in Neha Begum (supra), lays down the principles to be kept in mind while exercising power under Section 311 Cr.P.C. Paragraph 7 of Neha Begum (supra) does not preclude the Court from entertaining an application moved by either party. Paragraph 8 of Neha Begum (supra) is also material and may guide the Court in the present matter. Paragraph 8 of Neha Begum (supra) reads as follows:

"8. On a perusal of the subject application filed by the petitioner in the Trial Court by invoking the provisions under Section 231 (2) read with Section 311 Cr.P.C., we find that other than a vague aspersions that the earstwhile lawyer engaged by the petitioners did not conduct proper cross-examination of the witnesses, no such specific ground was alluded on behalf of the accused petitioners which could be considered to be a valid ground to be the Trial Court to invoke the power under Section 311 Cr.P.C."

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Neha Begum (supra) has held that the Court should not pass an order for summoning a witness for re-examination or further cross examination on an application filed on vague grounds and set aside the order of the Trial Court. It is remarkable that the said order was not set aside merely because the order was passed on the basis of the application moved but on the ground that the application was filed on vague grounds. The inference which emerges from the finding of the Hon'ble Supreme Court is that an application may be moved by either party, but the Court must independently satisfy itself that the prayer is necessary for the just decision of the case.

16. In view of the above conspectus, it is thus contended by the learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 that the submissions urged by the learned counsel for the revisionist is not sustainable in law and, therefore, the revision is liable to be dismissed.

17. Having heard the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and upon perusal of the material available on record, particularly, considering the law laid down by the Supreme Court, this Court is of the view that Section 91 Cr.P.C. enables the Court to summon the production of any document or other thing at any stage of inquiry, trial or other proceeding, provided the Court considers such production necessary or desirable for the purpose of such proceeding. The Supreme Court in Neha Begum (supra) has impliedly held that an application in this regard may be moved by either party, however, the Court must independently satisfy itself that the prayer so made, is necessary for the just decision of the case.

18. In the case at hand, the Trial Court, after recording reasons for accepting the application 59 Ba along with certain papers filed through list 60 Ba as well as the application 55 Ba along with list 56 Ba, has exercised its jurisdiction in accordance with law and has rightly passed the impugned order. No jurisdictional error, illegality or material irregularity is reflected in the impugned order warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its revisional jurisdiction. In the result, the present revision lacks merit and is, therefore, liable to be dismissed.

19. Accordingly, the present revision is dismissed.

20. The Court places on record its appreciation for the hard work put in by Ms. Gargee Misra, Research Associate, whose research inputs proved helpful in the effective disposal of the present matter.

Criminal Revision No. 2526 of 2026

Krishna Mohan Shukla ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) What is the scope of judicial scrutiny at the stage of considering a discharge application, where the prosecution relies on ocular and medical evidence establishing a grievous head injury caused with a sharp-edged weapon?

(b) Whether the existence of "grave suspicion", as distinguished from mere suspicion, against the accused is sufficient ground to reject a discharge application and proceed to frame charge?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 227 — Discharge — Scope of scrutiny — Grave suspicion.

HELD: The Judge, while considering the framing of charge, has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether a prima facie case is made out, and is not a mere post office to frame charge at the behest of the prosecution. Where the material discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court is fully justified in framing the charge and proceeding with trial; where the evidence gives rise to mere suspicion, and not grave suspicion, discharge is warranted. (Paras 7-8)

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 227 — Standard of proof at the stage of discharge.

HELD: At the stage of framing of charge only a prima facie case is to be seen, and not whether the case is established beyond reasonable doubt; strict standard of proof is not required. The Court/Magistrate is not required to analyse the evidence on merits or to determine sufficiency for conviction, but only to scrutinise whether sufficient grounds exist to initiate criminal proceedings. (Paras 9-10)

C. Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 — Ss. 109, 115(2), 351(3), 352, 324(2) — Attack with sharp-edged weapon — Prima facie case.

HELD: Where the F.I.R. names the accused, witnesses including the informant corroborate the allegations, and medical/C.T. Scan evidence establishes a fracture of the frontal bone and intracranial haemorrhage consistent with the alleged attack, a prima facie case for the offences charged is made out, and rejection of the discharge application does not warrant interference in revision. Order dated 03.04.2025 passed by the Sessions Judge, Gorakhpur, in Sessions Case No. 1852 of 2025, arising out of Case Crime No. 80 of 2025, under Sections 109, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 324(2) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, Police Station Hapur Budahat, District Gorakhpur.

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Devendra Kumar Tiwari

For Opposite Party(s): G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Jai Krishna Upadhyay, J.)

1. This criminal revision has been preferred by the revisionist - Krishna Mohan Shukla with the prayer to set-aside the impugned order dated 3.4.2025 passed by the Sessions Judge, Gorakhpur whereby discharge application moved by the revisionist has been rejected in Sessions Case No. 1852 of 2025, arising out of case crime no. 80 of 2025, under Sections 109, 115(2), 352, 351(3), 324(2) of BNS, P.S. Hapur Budahat, District Gorakhpur.

2. Heard Shri Devendra Kumar Tiwari, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as the learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the entire record.

3. Admit.

4. It is submitted by the learned counsel for the revisionist that revisionist is innocent and has been falsely implicated in this case. The police has also submitted charge sheet on the basis of insufficient evidence against the revisionist. Essential ingredients to constitute the alleged offences are lacking. The present prosecution has been instituted with a malafide intention. Learned counsel for the revisionist impressed upon certain documents and statements in support of his contention. The revisionist has no concern with the present matter. It is further submitted that the medical evidence nowhere corroborates the prosecution story in this case. The revisionist has played no role in commission of the alleged crime. Offence under Section 109 of BNS is not made out against the revisionist. It is also submitted that the discharge application moved on behalf of the revisionist was rejected in an arbitrary manner. The impugned order suffers from infirmity, illegality and lack of judicial mind warranting interference by this Court.

5. Per contra, the learned AGA opposed the prayer and submitted that at the stage of considering the discharge application, the Magistrate / Court dealing with the matter is required to apply judicial mind only with a view to find-out as to whether prima-facie case has been made out against the accused or not. The Court concerned after applying its judicial mind has passed the impugned order on the basis of sufficient evidence on record. C.T. Scan report of the injured Alok, revealed a lacerated wound in the right frontal region of the brain accompanied by a hemorrhagic contusion and there was intracranial hemorrhage in the right occipital area, and a bone examination detected a fracture of the frontal bone in the right anterior region. There is no infirmity or illegality in the impugned order warranting interference by this Court. Hence, the revision having no force is liable to be dismissed.

6. I have considered the rival submissions made by the learned counsel for the parties and have gone through the entire record including the impugned order.

7. The parameters for discharge and framing of charge are well settled by a catena of judicial precedents. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of P. Vijayan vs. State of Kerala, (2010) 2 SCC 398 held that the Judge is not a mere post office to frame charge at the behest of the prosecution but has to exercise his judicial mind to the facts of the case in order to determine whether a case for trial has been made out by the prosecution. In assessing this fact, it is not necessary for the court to enter into the pros and cons of the matter or into a weighing and balancing of evidence and probabilities which is really the function of the Court, after the trial starts.

8. In the case of Dilawar Balu Kurane vs. The State of Maharashtra, (2002) 2 SCC 135, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that in exercising powers under Section 227 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, the settled position of law is that the Judge while considering the question of framing the charge under the said section has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out and whether the materials placed before the Court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained to the Court, then in such a case the Court will be fully justified in framing the charge and proceed with the trial. On the other hand, if the Judge is satisfied that the evidence produced before the Court gives rise to some suspicion but not grave suspicion then the Judge will be fully justified in discharging the accused.

9. In Bhawna Bai vs. Ghanshyam, (2020) 2 SCC 217, it has been observed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court that at the time of framing the charge, only prima facie case is to be seen. Whether case is beyond reasonable doubt, is not to be seen at this stage. At the stage of framing the charge, the Court has to see as to whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. While evaluating the materials, strict standard of proof is not required, and only prima facie case against the accused is to be seen.

10. It is trite law that at the stage of discharge of the accused, the Magistrate / Court dealing with the matter is required to apply judicial mind only with a view to find-out as to whether prima-facie case has been made out against the accused or not. The Court at this stage is not required to analyze the material on record to find-out as to whether the matter may lead to conviction or not. Sufficiency of materials for the purpose of conviction is not required. The Court / Magistrate is not required to analyze the evidence on merits but to scrutinize the evidence only with a view as to whether sufficient grounds exist to initiate criminal proceedings in respect of the offence which is said to have been committed (Vide : R.P. Kapur Vs. State of Punjab, A.I.R. 1960 S.C. 866, State of Haryana Vs. Bhajan Lal, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 426, State of Bihar Vs. P.P.Sharma, 1992 SCC (Cr.) 192 and Zandu Pharmaceutical Works Ltd. Vs. Mohd. Saraful Haq and another, 2005 SCC (Cr.) 283).

11. So far as the case in hand is concerned, the prosecution claims that the accused revisionist on April 20, 2025, at 2:00 PM, near the pond located in Jhakhahi, hurled abuses to the elder brother of the informant due to old grudge and attacked him with a sharp-edged weapon with an intention to kill him, as a result the brother of the informant sustained severe head injuries and lost consciousness. Revisionist was named in the F.I.R. The witnesses of this case including the informant have affirmed this fact when they were interrogated by the I.O. under Section 180 of BNSS. Medical evidence also corroborates the prosecution case. In the C.T. Scan report fracture of the frontal bone in the right anterior region was found. Further, sufficient and ample evidence had been collected by the I.O. against the revisionist during investigation for his active participation in the commission of the crime which prima facie shows that the offence has been committed by the revisionist. Hence, all the offences for which discharge application of the revisionist was rejected are prima facie made out on the basis of evidence collected by the Investigating Officer. From a perusal of the material available on record and keeping in view the facts of the case and the settled law on the point, at this stage it cannot be said that offences levelled against the revisionist are not made out and the record shows that a cognizable offence is clearly made out against the revisionist. The Court concerned did not err in rejecting the discharge application. There is no force in the submissions made by the learned counsel for the revisionist. The impugned order does not suffer from illegality, infirmity, perversity or lack of judicial mind. The prayer made in the revision is refused. The criminal revision being devoid of merits is liable to be dismissed and the same is accordingly dismissed.

Sandeep & Ors. ...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether charges under Sections 498-A, 354, 307, 342, 323 and 326-A IPC were rightly framed against the accused-revisionists, despite the victim's subsequent statements before the treating doctor and under Section 164 Cr.P.C. exculpating them, and the absence of a corroborative finding of smell of an inflammable substance in the medical report?

(b) What is the scope of interference by a revisional court with an order framing charge, where the victim's statement to the first treating doctor is at variance with her subsequent statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C.?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — Ss. 227, 228 — Framing of charge — Scope of judicial scrutiny.

HELD: While considering the framing of charge, the court has the power to sift and weigh the materials only for the limited purpose of determining whether a prima facie case is made out, and cannot act merely as a post office or mouthpiece of the prosecution. At that stage the court is not to conduct a roving inquiry into the pros and cons of the matter or weigh evidence as at trial; where the material discloses grave suspicion against the accused, not properly explained, the court is justified in framing the charge and proceeding with trial. (Paras 9-12)

B. Indian Penal Code, 1860 — Ss. 307, 326-A — Victim's contradictory statements — Effect on framing of charge.

HELD: Where the first doctor treating the victim recorded an exculpatory statement to the effect that the burn injury was accidental, but the victim subsequently, in her statements under Sections 161 and 164 Cr.P.C., alleged that an inflammable substance was poured on her by the accused persons, the authenticity of the version recorded by the first doctor and the victim's subsequent statements can only be tested on the basis of evidence adduced during trial, and not at the stage of deciding a discharge/framing-of-charge application. Absence of smell of petrol in the medico-legal report, by itself, held not decisive at this stage since the victim's own statements did not allege use of petrol but of "some flammable substance". (Paras 17-18, 21)

C. Indian Penal Code, 1860 — S. 326-A — Ingredients.

HELD (following Maqbool v. State of U.P. and another, AIR 2018 SC 5101): Section 326-A IPC penalises causing permanent or partial damage, deformity, burns, maiming, disfigurement, disability, or grievous hurt by acid or other means; it is not a requirement of the Section that the injury caused be invariably grievous. (Paras 18-20)

Criminal Revision found devoid of merit and dismissed. Court clarified that it expressed no opinion on the merits, the observations being purely prima facie and confined to deciding the legality/validity of the order framing charge; the trial court to take an appropriate decision on the nature of the offence at the conclusion of trial. Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Vaibhav Gupta

For Opposite Party(s): G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ram Manohar Narayan Mishra, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the revisionists, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. Learned counsel for the revisionist has also filed written submissions.

3. By means of instant criminal revision, the revisionists have prayed to quash/set aside the order dated 21.02.2026 passed in S.T. No. 216 of 2026 (State vs. Sandeep Soni and Ors.) by the Learned Additional Sessions Judge Vth, Sitapur relating to Case Crime No. 765/23, U/s 498- A, 354, 307, 342, 323, 326-A of IPC, relating to P.S. Hargaon, District- Sitapur, so far as it relates to the present revisionists, as well as the entire criminal proceedings pending against the revisionists.

4. At the outset, learned A.G.A. submits that the charges have been framed against accused- revisionists by learned trial court vide order dated 21.02.2026 under Sections 498- A, 354, 307, 342, 323, 326-A IPC. The revision against framing of charges at the instance of accused-revisionists is not maintainable. As such the only course open for the revisionists is to face trial and put fourth their case at the appropriate stage after farming of charges, trial has commenced and the accused-revisionists will have opportunity to set out their defence. He also submits that after framing of charges, the same cannot be be deleted.

5. Per contra, learned counsel for the revisionists submits that the learned trial court has framed charges against the revisionists in cursory manner without looking into the oral evidence and the medical evidence collected during investigation.

6. Learned counsel for the revisionists next submitted that as per the statement of the victim subsequently made before the doctor, she is resiling from the recital made in the FIR lodged by her brother and it is also relevant fact that no smell of petrol etc. was found and that wife of revisionist no.1 got burnt accidentally on her own and there was no foul play . Subsequently, the victim in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. has stated that the doctor forcefully made her to write that she herself poured hot water on her person. She has also stated in her statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. that she is still residing at her parental place . She has made wrong statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. that her father-in-law poured some substance on her back and Shiva had lit a matchstick due to which she sustained serious injuries. He also submitted that no case under sections 307 and 326-A IPC is made out on the basis of evidence collected during investigation.

7. Learned counsel for the revisionist further submitted that the revisionists has filed Criminal Misc. Writ Petition No.179 of 2024 (Sandeep and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) before this Court with the prayer to quash the FIR lodged in the case under the aforesaid sections wherein this Court considered the submissions made on behalf of the revisionists that all the family members have been roped in by the brother of the victim whereas, the victim has subsequently resiled from occurrence of any such incident. This Court directed that the petitioners shall not be arrested in the said case unless there is sufficient and credible evidence available against the them indicating commission of criminal offence as alleged in the impugned FIR.

8. Learned counsel for the revisionists lastly submitted that revision is maintainable as such in the light of the judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Ghulam Hassan Beigh Vs. Mohammad Maqool Magrey and others, 2022 LawSuit (SC) 866 and the matter is liable to be remitted to learned trial court for considering the question of framing of charges a fresh only in the light of the evidence collected during investigation,submissions and the grounds taken in the present revision and set aside order of trial court whereby the accused was discharged from charge under Section 302 IPC and instead of charge under Section 304 of the IPC High Court's order affirming the order of the trial court was in turn also set aside.

9. Learned counsel for the revisionists submits that in Umesh Kumar v State of Andhra Pradesh, (2013) 10 SCC 591, it is held that while framing of charges, the Court has to evaluate as to whether on the basis of materials and documents on record, there is a prima facie case to proceed against the accused. At this stage, the Court is not required to appreciate whether the material produced is sufficient or not for convicting the accused.

10. He also submitted that in Union of India vs. Prafulla Kumar Samal, (1979) 3 SCC 4, the Hon'ble Supreme Court observed that while considering the question of framing a charge, the Court has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the materials for the limited purpose for finding out whether or not a prima-facie case against the accused has been made out. In exercising the power the Court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution. It was observed further that the test to determine a prima-facie case against the accused would naturally depend on the facts of each case and it is difficult to lay down the rule of universal application.

11. It was held that where the material placed before the Court discloses grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing the charge and proceeding with the trial.

12. Learned counsel for the revisionists further submits that Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sajjan Kumar vs. CBI, (2010) 9 SCC 368, was pleased to lay down the following principles governing discharge and framing of charges:

"17 On consideration of the authorities about the scope of section 227 and 228 of CrPC, the following principles emerge:-

The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under section 227 of the Cr.P.C. has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

Where the materials placed before the Court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the Court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

The Court cannot act merely as a Post Office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the Court, any basic infirmities etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

If on the basis of the material on record, the Court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the Court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

At the stage of sections 227 and 228 the Court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging there from taken at their face value discloses the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

13. He also submitted that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Kammari Brahmiah and others vs. Public Prosecutor, High Court of Andhra Pradesh, (1999) 2 SCC 522, considered section 464 CrPC and held that if there is failure of justice occasioned by not framing of the charge or in case an error, omission or irregularity in charge re-trial of the case is to be directed as provided under sub-section (2).

14. In the present case, the informant, Krishna Kant, is a brother of the victim. He has stated in the FIR, which was lodged on December 3, 2023, at 2:30 PM. that the marriage of his sister was solemnized with the accused, Sandeep, two years prior to the incident. When her husband was away from home, her brother-in-law (Jeth) used to enter her room and molest her. When his sister opposed this, her husband Sandeep and brother-in-laws Ranjit and Kuldeep, along with their parents and Shiva, made a plan to eliminate his sister. On December 28, 2023, they closed the door of the house and assaulted his sister with a knife. On the exhortation of Shiv Mangal, the father-in-law of the victim, the accused persons poured petrol on her and ignited a matchstick, due to which she was badly burned. When she tried to run away to save herself, her sisters-in-law, Shivani and Priyanka, badly assaulted her and closed the room. The informant rushed to the house when he got information of this incident. His sister was pregnant since 3-4 months. A Medico Legal Examination of the victim was conducted on December 28, 2023, at the government hospital, in which the doctor recorded her signed statements: that while preparing tea, the flame got out of control, due to which she got burned. She had no complaint against her in-laws, and whatever happened, happened accidentally. She did not intend to get herself medically examined; however, a doctor of District Hospital, Sitapur, prepared her medico-legal examination report on December 28, 2023, at 10:40 AM, in which she stated that the victim was 23 years of age, and was diagnosed with burn injuries of about 35%. She was brought to the hospital by her father and brother. She was hospitalized on December 28, 2023, and discharged at 10 PM. The burn injuries were present on the neck, chest, and breast, partially extending to the left shoulder, back of the left shoulder, scapular region and the lateral surface of the left arm. No burned cloth was present. The patient was initially treated at home and then she was taken to CHC Hargaon.

15. The main grounds taken in the discharge application are that the doctor, who examined the victim at first hand at C.H.C. Hargaon has recorded her statement to the effect that she suffered burn injury accidentally while preparing the tea at her home and there was no foul play. Doctor Ravi Bhargav, who examined the victim at C.H.C. Hargaon stated that during treatment, the victim had given the above statement to him. He had recorded the statement of the victim in the Admission Register during treatment. Her body was not burned by any inflammable substance and there was no smell of any inflammable substance. The injuries were superficial, however, Dr. S. Bharadwaj, who treated the victim at Civil Hospital, Lucknow, between 29/12/2023 to 6/01/2024, has stated in his statement under Section 164 Cr.P.C. that the victim sustained burn injuries.

16. It is also the case of the accused persons that when the police reached the spot after the incident, the police had prepared a video clip of the victim's statement in which she has stated the similar thing and the said video clip is available at the police station concerned. The statement of the victim was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. by the police in which she stated that on 18/12/2023, her husband, Sandeep, brothers Ranjeet, Kuldeep, his parents, younger brother, Shiva and his sister with the intention to kill her, poured some hot substance on her, due to which she badly got burned. The in-laws had taken her to C.H.C. Hargaon, where primary treatment was given to her, and after that, she went home and informed her parents about the incident by mobile phone of her husband. Her family members came to the place of her in-laws and took her to District Hospital, Sitapur from where she was referred to Civil Hospital, Lucknow, and where she is being treated. The victim has stated in her statement under Section 164 CrPC that her brother-in-law (Jeth) used to tease her by closing the room. On 28/12/2023 at about 7:00 AM, her in-laws dragged her to the kitchen, her husband thrashed her, and her in-laws had also beaten her. Thereafter, her in-laws and her father-in-law, Shiv Mangal poured puffy substance behind her, due to which her back got burned. Her in-laws had taken her to the hospital, but instead of hospitalizing her, they got back home after providing her some medicine, and the doctor had made her to write forcefully that she herself poured hot water on her. Her treatment was given by her parental side. She is staying there after the incident. When her father poured some substance on her, Shiva ignited a matchstick. Her back got badly burned in the incident.

17. The victim has explained the circumstances under which she was made to give a statement in favor of the accused persons who are her husband and in-laws at C.H.C. Hargaon. She has made allegations of pouring some inflammable substance on her back in her statement under Section 161 CrPC and 164 Cr.P.C. recorded by the Police as well as the Magistrate respectively.

Thus, at this stage, only due to the fact that the first doctor who treated her and recorded the statement of the victim, which exculpates the accused her statement before the Police as well as the Judicial Magistrate cannot be ignored. The authenticity of the version of the victim recorded by the first doctor, who treated her in the presence of her in-laws and her subsequent statements will only be tested on the basis of evidence adduced by the trial court and not at the stage of deciding the question of discharge raised by the accused. The victim has not stated, although the informant has stated in the FIR, that the accused poured petrol on her, but the victim has not stated it like this. She has stated that some flammable substance was poured on her, due to which she sustained burn injuries and she was treated in District Hospital Sitapur and thereafter Civil Hospital, Lucknow at the instance of her parental side. She has given early treatment at C.H.C. Hargaon at the instance of her in-laws. This fact is also not very significant that doctor has stated in medico legal examination report that no smell of petrol was found from the burn injuries because the victim has tried to explain all these things in her statement before the Police as well as the Magistrate. She has nowhere stated that her husband and in-laws poured petrol on her. In the medical report, it is stated that she sustained 35% burn injuries.

18. In the case of Maqbool vs. State of U.P. and another AIR 2018 SC 5101, the Honorable Supreme Court held that Section 326A IPC was introduced by the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 2013 and observed as under:-

"5. Injuries caused or attempted to be caused by use of acid, have been, under the amendment, categorized differently as separate or special offences under Sections 326A and 326B of IPC:

"326A. Voluntarily causing grievous hurt by use of acid, etc.-Whoever causes permanent or partial damage or deformity to, or burns or maims or disfigures or disables, any part or parts of the body of a person or causes grievous hurt by throwing acid on or by administering acid to that person, or by using any other means with the intention of causing or with the knowledge that he is likely to cause such injury or hurt, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and with fine;

Provided that such fine shall be just and reasonable to meet the medical expenses of the treatment of the victim;

Provided further that any fine imposed under this section shall be paid to the victim."

"326B. Voluntarily throwing or at- tempting to throw acid.-Whoever throws or attempts to throw acid on any person or attempts to administer acid to any person, or attempts to use any other means, with the intention of causing permanent or partial damage or deformity or burns or maiming or disfigurement or disability or grievous hurt to that person, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which shall not be less than five years but which may extend to seven years, and shall also be liable to fine.

Explanation I.-For the purposes of section 326A and this section, "acid" includes any substance which has acidic or corrosive character or burning nature, that is capable of causing bodily injury leading to scars or disfigurement or temporary or permanent disability.

Explanation 2.- For the purposes of section 326A and this section, permanent or partial damage or deformity shall not be required to be irreversible."

6. Section 326A carries title of "voluntarily causing grievous hurt by use of acid" whereas Section 326B does not carry any such indication in the title regarding the nature of injury as grievous. But on closer analysis, it can be seen that both the Sections provide for eight types of injuries - (i) permanent damage, (ii) partial damage, (iii) deformity, (iv) burns, (v) maiming, (vi) disfigurement, (vii) disability or (viii) grievous hurt.

7. The first seven of the injuries referred to in the Sections are classified, based on the normal aftereffect of acid attack whereas the eighth one is on the gravity of the effect. Under Sections 326A and 326B, grievous hurt is only one among the eight injuries. In view of the explanation under Section 326B, the resultant damage or deformity under 326A or 326B is not required to be irreversible. The other seven injuries may be either simple or grievous. The nature of injury being simple or grievous, is irrelevant for distinguishing between Section 323 and Section 326A of IPC or between Section 326A and Section 326B of IPC. If the injury referred to under Section 326A or 326B is one among the specified eight injuries, whether the seven of them be simple or grievous, the special provisions are attracted.

8. The basic difference between Sections 326A and 326B of IPC is the presence of actual injury under Section 326A. The resultant injury has made the offence more serious with a mandatory minimum punishment of ten years which may extend to imprisonment for life and, in either case, with a fine. The fine is mandatory and the quantum should be just and reasonable in the sense that it should be, in any case, sufficient to meet the medical expenses for the treatment of the victim. Therefore, the second proviso under Section 326A requires that the fine imposed should be paid to the litigant. Under Section 326B, the mere act of throwing or attempt to throw or attempt to administer or attempt to use any other means with the intention of causing any of the injuries referred to in the Section, is to be visited with a mandatory minimum imprisonment of five years, which may extend to seven years and fine.

9. Thus, merely because the title to Section 326A of IPC speaks about grievous hurt by use of acid, it is not a requirement under the Section that the injuries caused should be invariably grievous. Even if the seven injuries are simple, Section 326A, and under Section 326B the mere act of throwing or attempt, as indicated in the Section, would attract the offence.

16. As we have already discussed above, it is not the percentage or gravity of injury, which makes the difference. Be it simple or grievous, if the injury falls under the specified types under Section 326A on account of use of acid, the offence under Section 326A is attracted. Section 326B would be attracted in case the requirements specified are met on an attempted acid attack. Therefore, both the High Court of Rajasthan in Laddu Ram (supra) and High Court of Madras in M. Siluvai Murugan @ Murugan (supra)do not lay down the correct position of law and they are overruled."

19. If we go through the provisions of Section 326 A and Section 326 B IPC in toto in the year 2013 , we find that Section 326A IPC provides for punishment for voluntarily causing grievous hurt by use of acid, etc. whoever causes permanent or partial damage or deformity to, or burns or maims or disfigures or disables, any part or parts of the body of a person or causes grievous hurt by throwing acid on or by administering acid to that person, or by using any other means with the intention of causing or with the knowledge that he is likely to cause such injury or hurt, shall be punishable under this Section for a term which shall not be less than ten years but which may extend to imprisonment for life, and with fine.

20. Section 326- B IPC provides for punishment for Voluntarily throwing or attempting to throw acid. Its Explanation 1 of Section 326 B provides for the purposes of section 326A and this section, "Acid" includes any substance which has acidic or corrosive character or burning nature, that is capable of causing bodily injury leading to scars or disfigurement or temporary or permanent disability. Explanation 2 provides for the purposes of section 326A and this section, permanent or partial damage or deformity shall not be required to be irreversible.

21. Similarly, it is stated in the FIR, as well as in the statement of the informant that the accused acted in a concerted manner, with the intention to kill the victim by pouring petrol (inflammable substance) on her body, due to which she sustained burn injuries. At this stage, it is not desirable to appreciate the evidence collected during the investigation in support of the said charges when there is material in support of the charges.

22. For the foregoing discussion, I find that the revision is devoid of merits and deserves to be dismissed.

23. The criminal revision is dismissed accordingly.

24. This court clarifies that it has not expressed any opinion on the merits of the case. The observations in this judgment are purely prima facie and are relevant only for the purpose of deciding the legality or validity of the order, whereby the discharge application filed by the revisionist has been dismissed and the charges are framed against them by the learned trial court. It is needless to say that ultimately it is for the trial court to take an appropriate decision as regards the nature of the offense with which the accused are charged at the end of the trial.

THE HON'BLE LAXMI KANT SHUKLA, J.

Criminal Revision No. 2041 of 2025

Neetesh Singh & Anr. ...Revisionists
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether a Magistrate can reject a final report and summon the accused, on a protest petition, without addressing specific points of enmity and improbability of the prosecution version raised on behalf of the accused, and without any supporting affidavit filed by the informant?

(b) Whether an Investigating Officer is empowered, under Paragraph 109 of the U.P. Police Regulations, to record a supplementary/additional statement ("Majid Bayan") of a witness during the course of investigation?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — Protest petition — Rejection of final report — Summoning order.

HELD: Where two material points raised on behalf of the accused — namely, the inimical relationship between the accused and a third person along with the alleged conspiratorial role of the prosecutrix, and the improbability of the route allegedly taken by the victim — remain unanswered both by the prosecution/opposite party and by the impugned order itself, and the protest petition is silent on these points and is unsupported by any affidavit of the alleged eye-witnesses, an order rejecting the final report and summoning the accused on the basis of such protest petition suffers material irregularity and is liable to be set aside. (Paras 12-17, 21-22)

B. U.P. Police Regulations — Para 109 — Supplementary/additional statement of witness during investigation.

HELD: Paragraph 109 of the U.P. Police Regulations empowers an Investigating Officer to record a supplementary statement of a witness during the course of investigation for the purpose of discovering the truth and clarifying facts material to a fair investigation; the expression "supplementary" is not to be interpreted narrowly. A finding by the Magistrate that the Investigating Officer lacked authority to record such an additional statement is misconceived and contrary to settled principles governing investigation. (Paras 19-21)

Criminal Revision allowed. Order dated 15.02.2025 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Aligarh, set aside. Trial court directed to pass a fresh order in the light of the observations made, after hearing the parties. (E-14)

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Dharmendra Kumar Gupta, Kiran Gupta

For Opposite Party(s): G.A., Shyam Shankar Shukla (Amod Pandey, holding brief)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Laxmi Kant Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Dharmendra Kumar Gupta, the learned counsel for revisionists, Mr. S.K. Ojha, the learned AGA appearing on behalf of State-opposite party no. 1, Mr. Amod Pandey, Advocate holding brief of Mr. Shyam Shankar Shukla, the learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 and perused the record.

2. Revisionists Neetesh Singh and another have approached this Court by means of present Criminal Revision assailing the propriety of impugned order dated 15.02.2025 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Aligarh (hereinafter referred to as jurisdictional magistrate) in Misc. Case No. 4612 of 2025 (Poonam Devi Vs. Neetesh and others) arising out of Case Crime No. 133 of 2018, under section 376-D, 506 IPC, Police Station Lodha, District Aligarh whereby the jurisdictional magistrate rejecting the final report in Case Crime No. 133 of 2018, under section 376-D and 506 IPC and summoned the revisionists as accused persons.

3. Feeling aggrieved by the aforesaid order the present criminal revision has been filed on the grounds that while passing the impugned order the jurisdictional magistrate has not considered the earlier material collected during the investigation, the impugned order has been passed without applying judicial mind relying upon averments of protest petition and prayed for setting aside the impugned order.

4. The factual matrix of the case is that an application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. was moved by opposite party no. 2 with allegation that informant is the resident of Gandhi Nagar, Police Station Gandhi Park, District Aligarh and at present she has been living with her family in village Dharampur Kheda, Police Station Chhapraula, Ghaziabad for the last one year. On 28.01.2018, from her present address she was going to her permanent address via Noida and was waiting conveyance at Pari Chowk, in the meantime the revisionists came in a car, who were in her husband's acquaintance and asked her that where she was going on her discloser that she was going to Aligarh the revisionists told her that they also were going Aligarh and offered her lift then she accompanying the revisionists. When all of them reached near Parsera Gate at 5:00 pm, these people turned the car towards Parsera village, when the informant objected where they were going, all of them took out their guns and started threatening her not to raise alarm. After going a little distance, they stopped the car on the side of the Kachha Bombay Pari and, showing the guns, forcibly dragged her out of the car and took her to a mustard field and all of them raped her one by one. When the informant tried to raise alarm, the revisionists threatened to kill her showing pistols. On hearing the informant's scream, two persons passing by on a motorcycle came to the spot and on their exhortation the revisionists fled away from the spot in their car, leaving the informant on spot and displaying the pistols. On query of informant the witnesses disclosed their name and address and took her to Police Station, where she informed the incident to police but the police did not pay heed then on 30.01.2018 she sent registered letter to Senior Superintendent of Police, Aligarh but that also went in vein then she filed application before Jurisdictional Magistrate on 02.02.2018. After completion of statutory investigation the Investigating Officer submitted final report against which the informant filed protest petition and the Jurisdictional Magistrate passed the impugned order.

5. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionists submitted that after lodging the first information report the victim/opposite party no. 2 was examined under section 161 and 164 Cr.P.C. after 46 days to the incident which are noting but a verbatim of the FIR version wherein it was contended that on 28.01.2018, the victim was going to Aligarh via Noida, at about 03:00 pm when she was reached near Pari Chowk and waiting for conveyance then the revisionists are said to have came there in a car posing themselves as friends of victim's husband and they offered lift to victim to leave her Aligarh, on the way the victim is stated to have been raped by them on the pointing of tamancha in Aligarh near Parsera Gate at about 5:00 pm. During the course of investigation, after 46 days to the incident the victim was medically examined at MLG Govt. Women Hospital, Aligarh on 09.03.2018 at 3 PM. In the medical report no corroboration of rape is found.

6. As a matter of fact, no such incident as alleged took place on 28.01.2018. According to prosecution story revisionists who are the relative offered lift to opposite party no. 2 in their car from Pari Chowk at Noida while the offence of rape was committed in Aligarh. A person having intention to commit rape does not take the lady to long place even after the so called incident the victim/opposite party no. 2 did not seek help from the police by dialing emergency number. It is further contended that according to statement of opposite party no. 2 the victim under section 161 Cr.P.C. she never went at police station, which is evident from her statement recorded u/s 161 Cr.P.C. occurring at page 82 of the paper book.

7. The fact that the victim was traveling from Ghaziabad to Aligarh is considered true but the fact of taking lift from Pari Chowk at Noida is not believable as there is no direct or indirect conveyance is available to approach Aligarh from Pari Chowk. In her application u/s 156 (3) Cr.P.C. the victim has not disclosed her address or the place from where she was coming. There is no whisper about the relation of husband of victim with the revisionists. There is only three days gap between the incident and filing of application u/s 156(3) Cr.P.C. It is further contended that the so called eye witness namely Kuldeep and Rinka @ Ram Kumar has denied have seen any such type of incident with the victim. During investigation the statements of mother and wife of revisionist no. 1 & Chhida Singh, Maharaj Singh, Gulveer Singh and Ram Gopal under section 161 Cr.P.C. they all stated that Dina @ Dinesh Kumar and his brother namely Raju @ Raj Kumar had kidnapped the brother of revisionist no. 1 namely Abhishek Singh and killed thereafter in that connection an FIR has been lodged at police station Lodha District Aligarh against said Dina @ Dinesh Kumar. Since the revisionists were witnesses in the aforesaid case so they have been falsely implicated by victim/opposite party no. 2 at the behest of said Dina @ Dinesh Kumar. During investigation, nexus between the victim/opposite party no. 2 and said Dina @ Dinesh Kumar has surfaced in Parcha No. IV-A of case diary. When the Investigating Officer called the victim to make her examination before the Magistrate the call was received by one Khichhu who is the father of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar. Thus it is clear that the victim is under hands of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar and considering the true facts and circumstances the Investigating Officer submitted final report in the matter and the impugned order has been passed only on the basis of bare averments made in protest petition without any supportive affidavit or any additional affidavit.

8. In his written submission the learned counsel for revisionists has explained the enmity between the revisionist no. 1 and Dina @ Dinesh Kumar by referring to various civil and criminal proceedings pending between them. It has been further contended that the enmity between revisionist no. 1 and Dina @ Dinesh Kumar is fully established from the material available on record. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionists further submitted that the perusal of case diary reveals that when the Investigating Officer dialed the number proposed to be of victim, the call was received by the father of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar which itself is sufficient to establish that opposite party no. 2 is only playing in the hands of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar.

9. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionists placed reliance upon the judgment of Apex Court in the case of State of Haryana and others Vs. Bhajan Lal and others reported in 1992 Supp (1) Supreme Court Cases 335 wherein in Paragraph No. 102(7) of its judgment the Apex Court has held that where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding if maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge, such proceeding must be quashed exercising extraordinary power under Article 226 of the Constitution or u/s 482 of the code. He further submitted that the false has no ground and every liar left some clue to catch his false hook. It is very clear that the present residence of so called victim/opposite party no. 2 situates besides the main road from Ghaziabad to Aligarh on which public conveyance easily remains available all the government buses ran through that very way but in spite of availability of easy facility why the victim chooses to go Aligarh via Noida while no public conveyance is still available to Aligarh from the so called place of taking lift by victim. So far as the observation made by trial court in the impugned order that the Investigating Officer has no authority to record an additional statement of any witness u/s 161 Cr.P.C. is concerned, learned counsel appearing on behalf of revisionists submitted that paragraph no. 109 of Police Regulations specifically provides as under:-

"109. The case diary must contain the particulars required by Section 172 of the Code of Criminal Procedure in sufficient detail to enable the supervising officer to appreciate the facts. Variations in the statement of the complainant from the first information report and the substance of supplementary statement. if any, should be recorded.

The investigating officer is not bound to reduce in writing any statement made to him in the course of an examination under Section 161 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. But if he does so, he shall make a separate record of the statement of each such person whose statement he records. The statement shall be recorded in the first person and shall contain such detail as are likely to be helpful in the prosecution of the case.

The law contemplates that the statement, if recorded, must be recorded separately. It will, therefore, not be sufficient compliance of the law if it is merely recorded that a witness substantiates, corroborates or verifies the statement of the complainant or another witness and as such the use of such phrases should be avoided.

The statement of the accused person must, however, be recorded in full. When investigation is closed for the day, the time and place at which it is closed must be noted, and throughout the investigation the diary must be sent daily to the Superintendent on all days on which any proceedings are taken. If the investigating officer is not himself in charge of station, the diary must be sent through the officer-in-charge except when this will cause delay. All changes of investigating officer must be recorded in it. If more officers than one are investigating the same case independently at the same time each should keep a separate diary. The provisions of Sections 162 and 173 of the Code of Criminal Procedure must be carefully studied. In petty cases a very short case diary will ordinarily be sufficient."

10. It is thus contended that in view of above conspectus the impugned order is liable to be set aside by this court invoking the revisional jurisdiction allowing the present criminal revision.

11. Per contra learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 vehemently opposed the present revision orally as well as through written submission. Learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 submitted that after the incident the victim went to police station to lodge the FIR about the incident, the police under the pressure of revisionist do not lodge the FIR then she went to the office of S.S.P. Aligarh for lodging of the First Information Report but it was not done so then she moved an application on 02.02.2018 before the court of ACJM, Aligarh for registration of the FIR against the revisionist. After registration of FIR on 23.02.2018 the police started investigation of the case though the date of incident is 28.01.2018 at 03:00 pm that was too much delay by the act of police in connivance with the revisionists. The Police in connivance with the revisionists investigated the matter and mechanically without examined the real witnesses filed a final report in the present case. The Investigating Officer wrongly recorded the additional statement of victim after recording her statement u/s 164 Cr.P.C.. It is thus contended that the police wrongly filed final report in the matter and the jurisdictional magistrate categorically has criticized the act of Investigating Officer and passed the impugned order. It is thus contended that the present criminal revision has no force at all, it is devoid of merit, therefore, it is liable to be dismissed. Learned AGA appearing on behalf of State-opposite party no. 2 also vehemently opposed the criminal revision and prayed for dismissal of the criminal revision.

12. Having heard the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for revisionists, learned AGA appearing on behalf of State-opposite party no. 1 and learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 it is evident that two specific points raised by the learned counsel for revisionists have remained unanswered by both the learned AGA as well as the learned counsel appearing on behalf of opposite party no. 2 i.e.:-

1. The inimical relationship between revisionist no. 1 and Dina @ Dinesh Kumar, along with the alleged conspiratorial role of the prosecutrix; and

2. The reason for choosing extraordinary way to go to Aligarh from the alleged place of residence.

13. These two material points are still unanswered by opposite parties. Even the impugned order passed by the court below is also silent on these two points.

14. The purpose of criminal justice administration is to bring the faulty person under the umbrella of legal proceedings and to bound him to face the legal consequences of his acts, and not to permit harassment of any individual on account of ulterior motive or personal vendetta.

15. It has further come on record that when the phone number given by the victim supposing her own contact number is dialed such phone was picked by father of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar. It is very crucial point which must be explained by opposite parties. In the protest petition, no new evidence or new situation has been disclosed. The only allegation made by the victim/opposite party no. 2 is that the Investigating Officer did not genuinely record the statements of alleged eye witnesses Rinka @ Ram Kumar and Kuldeep under section 161 Cr.P.C. but the Investigating Officer recorded their statement arbitrarily on his own behest under section 161 Cr.P.C. and recorded the statement of some such witnesses were not named in the FIR while the statements of the actual eye-witnesses were not properly recorded to support the prosecution version.

16. However, despite making such allegations the victim/opposite party no. 2 did not file affidavits of the said eye- witnesses in support of her claim. In above conspectus no court can rely on her averment made in paragraph 5 of protest petition.

17. Moreover the protest petition is completely silent on points that the present criminal proceeding were allegedly initiated at the behest of Dina @ Dinesh Kumar, that the victim is playing in the hands of such Dina @ Dinesh Kumar and as to why the victim choose to go to Aligarh from her residence via Noida where no public conveyance remains available. These three points not only creates serious doubt regarding the veracity of the prosecution story and without clarification on these points the total story seems to be bundle of false.

18. The law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Bhajan Lal (supra) case is only to give protection from such proceeding instituted with ulterior motive.

19. So far as the recording of additional statement of victim is concerned, Paragraph 109 of U.P. Police Regulations empowers the Investigating Officer to record supplementary statement during the course of investigation. The expression "supplementary statement" used therein cannot be interpreted in a narrow or restrictive manner. The true import of the word "supplementary" under Paragraph 109 of U.P. Police Regulations is a statement recorded for the purpose of discovering the real truth and clarifying material of facts necessary for a fair investigation.

20. The additional statement of victim/opposite party no. 2 clearly reveals that the questions put by the Investigating Officer were intended only to ascertain the truth and not to support either side. The expression "Majid Bayan" used by the Investigating Officer in legal and authoritative matters is commonly translated as "supplementary statement" and in ordinary usage, it may also be referred to as an "additional statement" while in judicial proceeding it is often understood as a "further statement". Meaning thereby the Investigating Officer has full right to record "Majid Bayan" of any witness whenever required for a proper and effective investigation.

21. Accordingly, the finding recorded by the Jurisdictional Magistrate on this point appears to be wholly misconceived and contrary to the settled principles governing investigation under criminal law.

22. In view of above, in my opinion the impugned order has been passed causing material irregularity and without considering each and every aspect of the case, therefore, it is liable to be set aside and the present criminal revision deserves to be allowed.

23. Accordingly the present criminal revision is allowed. The impugned order dated order dated 15.02.2025 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Aligarh is hereby set aside. The trial court is directed to pass a fresh order in the light of the observations made by this Court and in accordance with law. The parties are directed to appear before the trial court.

Criminal Revision No. 6529 of 2025

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) What is the scope of judicial scrutiny available to a court while deciding an application for discharge and considering the framing of charge, where the allegation is inducement to invest money on a promise of returns, followed by part payment and subsequent default?

(b) Whether a dispute involving inducement to invest, part repayment of profit and subsequent default in returning the entrusted amount is purely civil in nature so as to preclude framing of charge under Sections 406 and 506 IPC?

Headnotes

A. Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 — Ss. 438, 442 — Discharge — Framing of charge — Scope of scrutiny.

HELD: At the stage of hearing on charge, the entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed, and only if no offence is made out on that basis can the accused be discharged. Truthfulness, sufficiency and acceptability of the material can be tested only at the stage of trial; at the stage of charge the court must be satisfied that a prima facie case is made out and is not to conduct a mini-trial by weighing and balancing evidence and probabilities. (Paras 9, 12)

B. Indian Penal Code, 1860 — Ss. 406, 506 — Money entrusted for investment — Non-return — Prima facie case.

HELD: Where money was entrusted to the accused for investment in his export business on the assurance of good returns, the accused made a few initial payments of profit and thereafter neither invested the amount nor returned it, and no evidence exists at that stage that the amount was actually invested, a prima facie case under Sections 406 and 506 IPC is made out. The question whether the dispute is essentially civil in nature is a matter for trial, and not a ground for discharge at this stage. (Paras 11-12)

Criminal Revision found devoid of merit and dismissed; orders dated 22.09.2025 (rejecting discharge application) and 13.10.2025 (framing of charge) upheld. (E-14)

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Atul Kumar Srivastava, Ravi Kumar

For Opposite Party(s): Akhilesh Kumar Vishwakarma, G.A., Rakesh Dubey

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar -II, J.)

1. Heard Learned counsel for the revisionist, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the record.

2. The instant criminal revision under Section 438/442 of BNSS has been filed with a prayer to set-aside the order dated 22.09.2025 passed by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad in Criminal Case No. 59452 of 2022, State of U.P. vs. Asim Raza Khan, arising out of Case Crime No. 738 of 2022, under Sections 406 and 506 IPC, Police Station Civil Lines, District Moradabad, rejecting the discharge application filed by the revisionist and order dated 13.10.2025 passed by Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad in Case No. 11218 of 2022, State vs. Asim Raza

Khan, arising out of Case Crime No. 738 of 2022, under Sections 406 and 506 IPC, Police Station Civil Lines, District Moradabad, whereby charge has been framed against the revisionist.

3. Brief facts of the case is that the informant lodged a first information report against the revisionist by presenting written report to S.S.P., Moradabad. As per the FIR, the revisionist was a friend of husband of informant, who called upon her husband in his office and stated that he (revisionist) is in the business of export and he invests people's money and gives them good returns. He further stated that banks are not giving them anything anyway. However, he will give them profit money too. Thereby, he trapped the informant and her daughter and they gave different amounts on different dates, mostly through cheques. A total of Rs.5,00,000/- was taken by the revisionist from informant and her daughter. He gave a profit of Rs.18,000/- for first three months to informant. He did not return even single rupee to the daughter of informant. Thereafter, he not only stopped to give any payment, he even stopped picking up the calls of the informant and is now threatening them. On the aforesaid, written report of the informant, an FIR was lodged vide Case Crime No. 738 of 2022, under Sections 406 and 506 IPC, against the revisionist and his clerk. After completion of the investigation, charge sheet was filed against the revisionist, upon which, the cognizance was taken and the trial commenced. The revisionist filed a discharge application, which was rejected by the learned trial Court vide it's impugned order dated 22.09.2025 and thereafter charge was also framed against the revisionist on 13.10.2025 under Sections 406 and 506 IPC.

4. Learned counsel for the revisionist argued that the revisionist is doing business of Brass Metal Works in the name of M/s. Alpin Export and the firm is duly registered with Export and Import Department since year 2000. The first informant was working as teacher in a private school and had been retrenched from the service while, her daughter was working in some private firm in Noida and during the pandamic of COVID-19, she lost her job. After retrenchment from service, the first informant asked her husband to get her money invested at some safe place, who suggested her to invest money in business of the revisionist. The revisionist told that he invests the people□s money and give them good returns. After taking into good relationship between the revisionist and first informant, the first informant and her daughter invested Rs.5,00,000/- (Rs.2,50,000/- each). From the first three months, the revisionist paid Rs.1,80,000/- and Rs.3,20,000/- are yet to be returned. After that he could not return the remaining amount, because business activities were completely paralyzed during Pandemic of COVID-19. The revisionist assured the first informant to return her money as soon as possible.

5. It is next submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that the revisionist is innocent and has been falsely implicated in the instant case. Learned counsel for the revisionist has submitted that the dispute between the revisionist and first informant is purely civil in nature, which has illegally been dragged in criminal Court by giving colour to the whole incident. It is further submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that in the instant case with false allegations, a first information report was registered, in which, after investigation, charge sheet was filed against the revisionist. Thereafter, the revisionist moved a discharge application, since from the facts of the case, no prima facie case is made out against the revisionist. The facts as mentioned in the first information report, were false and frivolous, even though, the learned trial Court has dismissed the discharge application of the revisionist, without going through the material collected during the course of investigation.

6. It is next submitted that the findings recorded by the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Moradabad in the impugned orders that 22.09.2025 and 13.10.2025 are perverse and legally unsustainable and dismissal of the discharge application, is wholly erroneous and liable to be set-aside. Lastly, it was submitted that as discharge application has been wrongly rejected, therefore, no charge could have been framed against the revisionist and therefore, order framing charge is also liable to be set-aside. Lastly, it was urged by learned counsel for the revisionist that present criminal revision be allowed and both the impugned orders be set-aside.

7. In support of his contention, learned counsel for the revisionist has relied upon the judgments of the Apex Court in Dalip Kaur and Others vs. Jagnar Singh and Another, (2009) 14 SCC 696 and Vijay Kumar Ghai and Others vs. State of West Bengal and Others, (2022) 7 SCC 124.

8. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has opposed the above submissions of the learned counsel for the revisionist by contending that the impugned orders are well reasoned and have been passed in accordance with law. Learned A.G.A. further submits that the material on record discloses prima facie allegations made under Sections 406 and 506. The trial Court has committed no error in passing the order in question but this revision being devoid of merit, is liable to be dismissed.

9. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Captain Manjit Singh Virdi (Retd.) vs. Hussain Mohammad Shattaf and others, (2023) 7 SCC 633, has clearly observed that at the stage of hearing on the charges, entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed and if no offence is made out, then only an accused can be discharged. The relevant para 11 and 12 of this judgment is reproduced herein below:

11. The law on issue as to what is to be considered at the time of discharge of an accused is well settled. It is a case in which the trial court had not yet framed the charges. Immediately after filing of charge-sheet, application for discharge was filed. The settled proposition of law is that at the stage of hearing on the charges entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed. In case no offence is made out then only an accused can be discharged. Truthfulness, sufficiency and acceptability of the material produced can be done only at the stage of trial. At the stage of charge, the court has to satisfy that a prima facie case is made out against the accused persons. Interference of the Court at that stage is required only if there is strong reasons to hold that in case the trial is allowed to proceed, the same would amount to abuse of process of the court.

12. The law on the point has been summarised in a recent judgment of this Court in State of Rajasthan v. Ashok Kumar Kashyap [State of Rajasthan v. Ashok Kumar Kashyap, (2021) 11 SCC 191 : (2022) 1 SCC (Cri) 286] . Relevant paras are extracted below : (SCC pp. 197-98, para 11)

"11. . 11.1. In P. Vijayan v. State of Kerala [P. Vijayan v. State of Kerala, (2010) 2 SCC 398 : (2010) 1 SCC (Cri) 1488] , this Court had an occasion to consider Section 227CrPC. What is required to be considered at the time of framing of the charge and/or considering the discharge application has been considered elaborately in the said decision. It is observed and held that at the stage of Section 227, the Judge has merely to sift the evidence in order to find out whether or not there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused. It is observed that in other words, the sufficiency of grounds would take within its fold the nature of the evidence recorded by the police or the documents produced before the court which ex facie disclose that there are suspicious circumstances against the accused so as to frame a charge against him. It is further observed that if the Judge comes to a conclusion that there is sufficient ground to proceed, he will frame a charge under Section 228CrPC, if not, he will discharge the accused. It is further observed that while exercising its judicial mind to the facts of the case in order to determine whether a case for trial has been made out by the prosecution, it is not necessary for the court to enter into the pros and cons of the matter or into a weighing and balancing of evidence and probabilities which is really the function of the court, after the trial starts.

11.2. In the recent decision of this Court in State of Karnataka v. M.R. Hiremath [State of Karnataka v. M.R. Hiremath, (2019) 7 SCC 515 : (2019) 3 SCC (Cri) 109 : (2019) 2 SCC (L&S) 380] , one of us (D.Y. Chandrachud, J.) speaking for the Bench has observed and held in para 25 as under : (SCC p. 526)

'25. The High Court [Hiremath v. State of Karnataka, 2017 SCC OnLine Kar 4970] ought to have been cognizant of the fact that the trial court was dealing with an application for discharge under the provisions of Section 239CrPC. The parameters which govern the exercise of this jurisdiction have found expression in several decisions of this Court. It is a settled principle of law that at the stage of considering an application for discharge the court must proceed on the assumption that the material which has been brought on the record by the prosecution is true and evaluate the material in order to determine whether the facts emerging from the material, taken on its face value, disclose the existence of the ingredients necessary to constitute the offence. In State of T.N. v. N. Suresh Rajan [State of T.N. v. N. Suresh Rajan, (2014) 11 SCC 709 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 529 : (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 721] , adverting to the earlier decisions on the subject, this Court held : (N. Suresh Rajan case [State of T.N. v. N. Suresh Rajan, (2014) 11 SCC 709 : (2014) 3 SCC (Cri) 529 : (2014) 2 SCC (L&S) 721] , SCC pp. 721-22, para 29)

"29. . At this stage, probative value of the materials has to be gone into and the court is not expected to go deep into the matter and hold that the materials would not warrant a conviction. In our opinion, what needs to be considered is whether there is a ground for presuming that the offence has been committed and not whether a ground for convicting the accused has been made out. To put it differently, if the court thinks that the accused might have committed the offence on the basis of the materials on record on its probative value, it can frame the charge; though for conviction, the court has to come to the conclusion that the accused has committed the offence. The law does not permit a mini trial at this stage."

10. Learned counsel for the revisionist had relied upon the case law, in which, the powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. of the High Court, were invoked for quashing of the FIRs, whereas in the present case, the revisionist has challenged the discharge order as well as order of framing of the charge by way of filing the instant criminal revision. The facts of the case of Vijay Kumar Ghai and Others vs. State of West Bengal and Others, (2022) 7 SCC, relates to multiple complaints by same party against same accused in respect of same incident, which was found to be abuse of process and therefore, is totally different from the facts of the present case. The case law titled as Dalip Kaur and Others vs. Jagnar Singh and Another, (2009) 14 SCC 696, relates to an agreement to sell, therefore, this case law is also not applicable in the present case for the reasons that facts of the present case are totally different.

11. A perusal of the FIR, statement of informant Anjali @ Anjum Hussain, Hussain Ali Khan and Ms. Alisha as recorded in Case Diary clearly reveals that on the assurance of revisionist that if some money is given to him, he will invest the same and will give them good returns with profits, because he runs export business, an amount of Rs.5,00,000/- was given by the informant and her daughter to him. It was revisionist, who lured the informant and her family members to give him certain amount of money. It has clearly come in evidence that most of the payments was made by the informant and her family members through cheques that too on the assurance of giving good returns and profits. However, only a small amount on account of profit/return, was returned to the revisionist that too only for first three months, whereas revisionist received first payment on 9.10.2019 and last payment on 25.3.2020. Thereafter, he stopped to give either payment of returns or profit or original amount to the informant and her family members. This clearly indicates that only for the purpose of getting amount, the revisionist initially returned a small amount as profit. It is thus, prima facie clear that it was the revisionist, who lured the informant and her family members to get the amount and the amount he received was to be invested in export business for giving good returns, but he neither invested the money in export business nor has returned back the amount so received from the informant and her family members. From the evidence recorded by the Investigating Officer, it is clear that the revisionist was entrusted with Rs. 5,00,000/- for the purpose of investing the same in his export business, however he (revisionist) has misappropriated the same dishonestly. There is no evidence at this stage that he actually invested the amount in his export business, which fact he (revisionist) can prove during trial by leading his evidence. Moreover, he has not even returned the amount so received by him. At this stage, the facts and evidence collected by the Investigating Officer, is to believed. Therefore, prima facie, the case is made out against the revisionist under the aforesaid sections.

12. On considering the facts and circumstances of the case, submissions made by the learned counsel for the revisionist as well as learned A.G.A. and perusal of the record, the orders passed by the learned trial Court, there appears to be no illegality or perversity in the orders passed by the learned trial Court and it warrants no interference by this Court in this criminal revision.

13. Accordingly, the instant criminal revision is found to be devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

Criminal Revision No. 7360 of 2025

Arun Sondhi ...Revisionist
Versus
State of U.P. & Anr. ...Opposite Parties

Issue(s) for Consideration

(a) Whether a Magistrate can refuse to take cognizance of an offence against an accused named in the charge-sheet, and discharge such accused, without issuing notice to the informant and affording an opportunity of hearing?

(b) Whether, at the stage of considering an application for discharge under Section 239 Cr.P.C., an opportunity of hearing to the prosecution/informant is mandatory before passing an order?

Headnotes

A. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — Cognizance — Refusal to take cognizance — Notice to informant.

HELD: Where the Magistrate decides not to take cognizance of an offence against an accused named in the charge-sheet and drops the proceeding qua that accused, notice to the informant and grant of an opportunity of hearing is mandatory, following Bhagwant Singh v. Commr. of Police, (1985) 2 SCC 537, as reiterated in Minu Kumari v. State of Bihar, 2006 Law Suit (SC) 299. Failure to give such notice causes prejudice to the informant and renders the order inappropriate.

B. Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 — S. 239 — Discharge — Opportunity of hearing to prosecution.

HELD: Section 239 Cr.P.C. mandates that the Magistrate decide an application for discharge only after giving the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard. An order passed without affording such opportunity to the prosecution/informant is illegal and liable to be set aside.

Criminal Revision allowed. Order dated 26.09.2025 set aside to the extent of opposite party no. 2, Smt. Rakhi Garg. Chief Judicial Magistrate directed to decide the application afresh after affording an opportunity of hearing to the informant and the prosecution. (E-14)

Appearance for Parties

For Revisionist(s): Kamlesh Kumar Dwivedi, Surendra Nath Mishra

For Opposite Party(s): G.A., Pranshu Dwivedi, Ram Prakash Dwivedi, Ravindra Sharma

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Chandra Sharma, J.)

1.Supplementary affidavit filed by learned counsel for the revisionist today is taken on record.

2.Heard Sri Kamlesh Kumar Dwivedi, learned counsel for the revisionist as well as Sri Ravindra Sharma, learned counsel for the opposite party alongwith learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the material on record.

3.This criminal revision has been filed against the order dated 26.09.2025 in Crime No.390 of 2024, under Sections 420, 467, 468, 471, 406, 506, 120B I.P.C., Police Station Hari Parwat, District Agra passed by learned C.J.M., Agra by which learned court has refused to take cognizance of the offence against the opposite party no.2 on an application filed by her for not taking the cognizance and to discharge.

4.It is submitted by learned counsel for the revisionist that in this case charge sheet was filed before the learned court concerned and at the time of taking cognizance of the offence an application on the part of the opposite party no.2 was filed before the learned court making prayer not to take cognizance of the offence and to discharge her and her husband Prakhar Garg. Learned trial court after hearing the opposite party no.2 took cognizance of the offence against Navdeep Mehta and Prakhar Garg but refused to take cognizance of the offence against the opposite party no.2 Smt. Rakhi Garg and thus allowed the application for not taking of cognizance and discharge. Further submitted that before passing the order in question no opportunity of hearing was provided to the informant/the prosecution but order was passed. He also submits that at the stage of Section 239 Cr.P.C. (discharge) opportunity of hearing to the prosecution is also a must and then order is to be passed but learned trial court has committed error in passing the order without giving the opportunity of hearing to the informant/prosecution. He also submitted that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Minu Kumari vs. State of Bihar 2006 Law Suit (SC) 299 in para no.12 & 14 clearly observed that the informant must have been given opportunity of hearing if he decides not to take cognizance and to drop the proceedings. In this way, the order passed by learned trial court being erroneous is liable to be set aside.

5.Learned counsel for the opposite party as well as learned A.G.A. opposed the prayer as aforesaid and contended that in this case learned C.J.M has passed the order in question on the basis of material collected during the course of investigation by the I.O. and no offence was found to be made out against Smt. Rakhi Garg that is the reason the learned court refused to take the cognizance of the offence against Smt. Rakhi but could not dispute the fact that no opportunity of hearing either to the informant or to the prosecution was given by the learned court at the time of passing the order in question as is apparent from the judgment itself.

6.From arguments of both the parties two questions emerge to decide :-

(i) whether the court may decide not to take cognizance of offence without giving an opportunity of hearing to the informant, though charge sheet has been filed by the police? (ii) whether at the stage of considering discharge application, informant is entitled for an opportunity of hearing?

7.Question No.I On perusal of record and the order dated 26.09.2025 passed by learned C.J.M., it transpires that in the aforesaid case after investigation charge sheet was filed by the police in the court against Navdeep Mehta, Prakhar Garg & Smt. Rakhi Garg. At the stage of taking cognizance of offence an application for not taking cognizance and discharge from the offence was moved by opposite party no.2 Smt. Rakhi Garg before the learned court on which the impugned order was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing either to the informant or to the prosecution. The learned court concerned has nowhere mentioned in the order either to give notice to the informant or such opportunity given to the prosecution. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Minu Kumari vs. State of Bihar 2006 Law Suit (SC) 299 in para no.12 & 14 has clarified when the court decides not to take cognizance of an offence and to drop the proceedings, notice to the informant and grant of opportunity of being heard in the matter becomes mandatory. Para 12 & 14 are as under :-

"12. The informant is not prejudicially affected when the Magistrate decides to take cognizance and to proceed with the case. But where the Magistrate decides that sufficient ground does not subsist for proceeding further and drops the proceeding or takes the view that there is material for proceeding against some and there are insufficient grounds in respect of others, the informant would certainly be prejudiced as the First Information Report lodged becomes wholly or partially ineffective. This Court in Bhagwant Singh v. Commr. of Police, (1985 (2) SCC 537) held that where the Magistrate decides not to take cognizance and to drop the proceeding or takes a view that there is no sufficient ground for proceeding against some of the persons mentioned in the First Information Report, notice to the informant and grant of opportunity of being heard in the matter becomes mandatory. As indicated above, there is no provision in the Code, for issue of a notice in that regard.

14. As decided by this Court in Bhagwant Singh's case (1985 (2) SCC 537), the Magistrate has to give the notice to the informant and provide an opportunity to be heard at the time of consideration of the report. It was noted as follows:-

"....The Magistrate must give notice to the informant and provide him an opportunity to be heard at the time of consideration of the report..."

8.Thus the court forming opinion for not to take cognizance of offence on the basis of charge sheet was under obligation to give notice to the informant and then to pass order in this regard. Failure on the part of the court caused prejudice to the informant which makes the order inappropriate.

9.Question No.II At the stage of discharge u/s 239 Cr.P.C. the prosecution is given an opportunity of hearing. If such opportunity is denied, the order passed in this regard will be illegal. Under Section 239 Cr.P.C., it is clearly provided that the Magistrate will decide the application for discharge after giving the prosecution and accused the opportunity of being heard. Section 239 Cr.P.C. runs as under :-

"If, upon considering the police report and the documents sent with it under section 173 and making such examination, if any, of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary and after giving the prosecution and the accused an opportunity of being heard, the Magistrate considers the charge against the accused to be groundless, he shall discharge the accused, and record his reasons for so doing."

10.Since, the order in question has been passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the informant and the prosecution, therefore, it being illegal and inappropriate is liable to be set aside.

11.Thus, the order dated 26.09.2025 is, hereby, set aside to the extent of opposite party no.2 Smt. Rakhi Garg. The learned C.J.M. concerned is directed to decide the application moved by opposite party no.2 Smt. Rakhi Garg for not taking cognizance of the offence after giving an opportunity of hearing to the informant as well as the prosecution.

12.Accordingly, this criminal revision is allowed.

THE HON'BLE SANDEEP JAIN, J.

First Appeal No. 485 of 2025

Mimansa Nangia & Ors. ...Appellants
Versus
Shivani Hospital Pvt. Ltd. ...Respondent

Issues for Consideration

(i) Whether the plaintiff was always ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012?
(ii) Whether the defendants or their predecessor Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to comply with the terms of the registered agreement to sell?

(iii) Whether the registered agreement to sell was executed for inadequate consideration under undue influence of the plaintiff's director and his wife?

(iv) Whether the plaintiff had the financial capacity at the relevant time to pay the balance sale consideration?

(v) Whether the plaintiff committed any fraudulent act disentitling it from the relief of specific performance under Section 16(b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963?

(vi) Whether the presence of the plaintiff's representative was mandatory for getting the sale deed executed and registered in its favour, keeping in view Section 32A of the Registration Act, 1908 as applicable in Uttar Pradesh?

Headnotes

Specific Relief Act, 1963 --- S. 16(c) --- Readiness and willingness --- Continuous readiness and willingness --- Compliance to be in spirit and substance, not letter and form.

HELD: Readiness and willingness are two distinct elements — readiness denotes the capacity of the plaintiff to perform the contract, including financial position, and willingness refers to the plaintiff's intention to perform, inferred from conduct. Compliance with Section 16(c) does not require any specific phraseology; the plaintiff having averred and proved that it always remained ready and willing to perform, by issuing notices calling upon the defendants to execute the sale deed, remaining present before the sub-registrar on the appointed dates, and maintaining sufficient financial capacity throughout, is entitled to the relief of specific performance. [Paras 90-104, 156-159]

Specific Relief Act, 1963 --- S. 20 --- Discretion to decree specific performance --- Factors --- Hardship, conduct of parties, adequacy of consideration.

HELD: The material questions for grant of specific performance are: whether a valid concluded contract exists; whether the plaintiff has been and continues to be ready and willing to perform; whether the plaintiff has, in fact, performed his part of the contract; whether granting the relief would be equitable or cause hardship to the defendant; and whether the plaintiff is entitled to any alternative relief. Since the defendants' predecessor failed, till his death, to obtain the freehold permission from the Development Authority as required under the agreement, and never intimated the plaintiff of such permission, it was the defendants who defaulted in complying with the terms of the agreement. [Paras 105-125, 157-158]

Specific Relief Act, 1963 --- Undue influence --- Adequacy of consideration --- No documentary evidence of doctor-patient relationship --- Consideration not shown to be below market value.

HELD: In the absence of documentary evidence establishing a doctor-patient relationship between the plaintiff's director and the vendor, and where the valuation report relied upon by the defendants to allege inadequate consideration was found unreliable, being based on a rate far in excess of the prevailing circle rate and without inspecting the property from inside, it cannot be held that the agreement was executed for inadequate consideration under undue influence. [Paras 126-134]

Specific Relief Act, 1963 --- S. 16(b) --- Fraud --- Failure to prove a document does not, by itself, amount to fraudulent fabrication.

HELD: Mere failure of the plaintiff to prove execution of a subsequent notarised document extending time for performance does not establish that the plaintiff fraudulently fabricated the document, especially where the document, if anything, was advantageous to the defendants' predecessor and not to the plaintiff; the plaintiff's conduct does not disentitle it from the relief of specific performance under Section 16(b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963. [Paras 141-147]

Registration Act, 1908 --- S. 32A, as applicable in Uttar Pradesh --- Presence of vendee not mandatory for registration of sale deed.

HELD: Section 32A of the Registration Act, as prevailing in the State of Uttar Pradesh, differs from the Central Act and does not mandate the presence of the buyer at the time of execution and registration of the sale deed, unlike the Central Act, which requires affixing of photograph and fingerprints of both parties; hence, absence of the plaintiff's representative on certain dates before the sub-registrar does not establish that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to perform. [Paras 148-156]

Appeal dismissed with costs; judgment and decree of the trial court dated 21.3.2025 affirmed. Defendants directed to execute the sale deed within one month of receiving the balance sale consideration, failing which the plaintiff would be entitled to get it executed through Court. (E-14)

For the Respondent(s): Sheshadri Trivedi, Devansh Misra, Vishnu Bihari Tewari.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sandeep Jain, J.)

1. The instant appeal has been filed by the defendants under Section 96 CPC against the impugned judgment and decree dated 21.3.2025 passed by the Court of Civil Judge(Senior Division)/FTC, Kanpur Nagar in O.S. no. 50 of 2017 Shivani Hospital Private Ltd. vs. Mimansa Nangia and others, whereby the plaintiffs suit for the relief of specific performance of registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 has been decreed.

Plaint case

2. The plaintiff Shivani Hospital Private Limited filed O.S. No. 50 of 2017 against defendant no.1 Mimansa Nangia, defendant no. 2 Shailja Nangia @ Shalu and defendant no.3 Smt. Shivani @ Shibbu Begum Shahnaz Faisal with the averments that their father Dharam Prakash

Nangia was the owner in possession of plot no. A□10,Block C,Sarvodaya Nagar, Kakadev, Kanpur Nagar admeasuring 1,352 yd□= 1130.41 square metre, the boundaries of which have been mentioned at the end of the plaint, which is hereinafter referred to as the 'disputed property'.

3. It was averred that the defendant's father Dharam Prakash Nangia voluntarily and with free will executed an agreement to sell regarding the disputed property on 22.10.2012 in favour of the plaintiff ,which was registered in Book no.1, Zild no. 7095, at pages 1- 84, serial no. 8557 on 7.11.2012 in the office of sub-registrar, Zone □ 4, Kanpur Nagar. It was further averred that since Dharam Prakash Nangia was in need of money,the disputed property was agreed to be sold for a consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores, which was according to its market value. It was further agreed that Dharam Prakash Nangia would get the disputed property freehold and then the sale deed would be executed in favour of the plaintiff. It was also agreed that at the time of execution of the agreement to sell, a part consideration of ₹ 2 crores will be paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia. It was further averred that in accordance with the above terms and conditions of the sale, an amount of ₹ 2 crores was paid at the time of execution of agreement to sell on 22.10.2012 through cheques, the details of which were mentioned in the plaint. It was agreed that the remaining consideration of ₹ 3.25 crores would be paid at the time of execution of the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff.

4. It was further averred that besides the above amount of ₹ 2 crores which was paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia at the time of execution of the agreement to sell, Dharam Prakash Nangia also demanded from the plaintiff an amount of ₹ 41 lakh towards expenses for getting the disputed property freehold, which was paid by plaintiff by cheque no. 68, 69, 96 and 102 issued on 14.3.2014, 14.3.2014, 28.11.2014,05.2.2015, which were of ₹ 7 lakhs, 8 lakhs, 20 lakhs and 6 lakhs respectively. In this manner the plaintiff paid an amount of ₹ 2.41 crores to Dharam Prakash Nangia and only an amount of ₹ 2.84 crores remained to be paid towards consideration of the disputed property.

5. It was further averred that as per the terms and conditions of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, Dharam Prakash Nangia was to get the disputed property freehold at his expenses and thereafter, was required to give its information to the plaintiff. It was also agreed between the parties, that by the month of December, 2014 the disputed property will be converted to freehold and by then, the sale deed would be executed by Dharam Prakash Nangia in favour of the plaintiff. It was also agreed that Dharam Prakash Nangia will inform the date in writing to the plaintiff on which he was going to execute the sale deed of the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff and on that date, the plaintiff will remain present in the office of concerned sub- registrar Kanpur Nagar with the balance consideration for getting the sale deed executed in its favour. It was also agreed that if Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to execute the sale deed of the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff within the prescribed time limit after completing the necessary formalities, then in that situation, the plaintiff will be entitled to get the sale deed executed through court, in which the legal heirs will have no right to object.

6. It was further averred that when Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to get the disputed property freehold within the prescribed period, then he requested the plaintiff to give some more time for getting the disputed property freehold, which was accepted by the plaintiff and consequently, an agreement before notary was executed between the plaintiff and Dharam Prakash

Nangia on 21.12.2014, by which the time limit for getting the property freehold was extended and it was agreed that after getting the disputed property freehold, Dharam Prakash Nangia will inform the plaintiff legally and after getting the information, the plaintiff within a further period of one month will get the sale deed executed in its favour after paying the balance sale consideration and will also get it registered from the office of sub-registrar Kanpur Nagar.

7. It was further averred that Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to get the disputed property freehold because he died suddenly on 04.7.2015 leaving behind the defendants, who are his daughters/legal heirs, who are bound by the above registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, which was executed by their father and are liable to execute the sale deed of the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff.

8. It was further averred that a legal notice was sent by Shri Devendra Dwivedi Advocate on 20.8.2015 to the plaintiff on incorrect facts on behalf of defendants no.1 and 2, which was replied by the plaintiff by notice dated 12.9.2015, which was again replied by Shri Devendra Dwivedi Advocate on 17.9.2015. The defendants alleged that since the defendant no. 3 has embraced Islam religion, she has lost her right in the disputed property.

9. It was further averred that the plaintiff replied to the erroneous notice sent on behalf of the defendants. The plaintiff through notice dated 24.10.2015 again requested the defendants to remain present in the office of sub-registrar for executing the sale deed in its favour after receiving the balance consideration but on the date fixed 3.11.2015 the defendants failed to remain present in the office of sub-registrar, zone no. 4 for executing the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff. The plaintiff again gave legal notice on 30.11.2015 to the defendants to remain present on 5.12.2015 in the office of sub-registrar zone no. 4 Kanpur Nagar for executing the sale deed by receiving the balance sale consideration but the defendants deliberately failed to appear on that date also. The plaintiff has averred that its officials remained present in the above office the whole day, with the balance sale consideration but the defendants failed to appear. Again, the plaintiff by legal notice dated 23.12.2015 requested the defendants to remain present on 5.1.2016 in the office of sub-registrar zone no. 4, Kanpur Nagar for executing the sale deed of the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff after receiving the balance consideration but even on that date, the defendants failed to appear whereas, the plaintiff remained present in that office till 5:30 PM.

10. The plaintiff has specifically averred that it remained always ready and willing and was still ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour after paying the balance sale consideration to the defendants, in accordance with the terms and conditions of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 but the intention of the defendants has turned malafide, who are not ready and willing to execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff and the defendants have also filed O.S. no. 50 of 2016 Mimansa Nangia @ Surbhi Nangia vs. Shivani Hospital on false and incorrect allegations, hence the plaintiff was compelled to file the suit.

11. In the above backdrop, the plaintiff prayed for the following reliefs:-

(A) A decree of specific performance of registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 be passed in favour of the plaintiff against the defendants, directing the defendants to execute the sale deed of the disputed property within a time limit fixed by the court after receiving the balance sale consideration from the plaintiff and also to get it registered and also to deliver the physical and vacant possession of the disputed property to the plaintiff and if the defendants failed to do so, then the plaintiff be permitted to get it executed through the Court after depositing the balance sale consideration in the court .

(B)The costs of the suit be also awarded to the plaintiff against the defendants.

(C)Any other relief which the Court deems appropriate be also awarded to the plaintiff against the defendants.

Written statement of defendant no.1

12. It was averred by the defendant that she is the legal guardian of disabled defendant no. 2. She accepted that her father has died. She also accepted that she has filed O.S. no. 50 of 2016 against the plaintiff. The defendant has denied the plaint averments and has averred that the plaintiff has got no cause of action to file the instant suit. She admitted that her father Dharam Prakash Nangia has died on 4.7.2015 but disclosed that, prior to his death he executed a registered Will dated 03.10.2011 according to which defendant no.1 is the owner of 50%,defendant no. 2 is the owner of 20% and defendant no. 3 is the owner of 30% of the entire movable and immovable property of their father. It was also averred that the defendant no. 3 against the wishes of her father,renounced Hinduism and has embraced Islam during the lifetime of her father and has also accordingly, changed her name from Shivani @ Shibbu Nangia to Shahnaz Faisal and has also solemnised marriage with Faisal Junaid. It was further averred that even if any agreement has been executed by her father in favour of the plaintiff, even then she is unable to comply with it because O.S. no. 400 of 2016 Shivani Nangia @ Shahnaz Faisal vs. Mimansa Nangia @ Surabhi and others is pending in the Court of Civil Judge(Senior Division) Kanpur Nagar.

Written statement of defendant no. 2

13. She averred that defendant no.1 has been appointed as her guardian ad litem on 02.8.2022, by the court. She has repeated the averments made by defendant no.1 in her written statement.

Written statement of defendant no. 3

14. The defendant has averred that the disputed agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 was not executed by her father Dharam Prakash Nangia with his free will, who has died on 4.7.2015. She has denied the plaint averments and has averred that no cause of action has arisen to the plaintiff to file the instant suit.

15. It was further averred that the house of plaintiff Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra and the disputed house are adjacent to each other. Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra and his wife Dr. Neelam Mishra were the family doctor of the father and mother of the answering defendant late Dharam Prakash Nangia and Smt.Meena Nangia, who remained under the treatment of doctor Shiva Kant Misra. Smt.Meena Nangia died due to heart attack on 12.12.2012. It was further averred that there was a relationship of doctor and patient between the plaintiff and her parents.

16. It was further averred that when the said agreement was executed on 22.10.2012, the market value of the disputed property was not less than ₹ 10 crores. The plaintiff was neither in need of a domestic residential plot nor there was any company resolution to this effect, hence the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 is null and void. It was further averred that Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra were in dominating condition being doctors of her parents, who used to frequently visit in their last days and in such circumstances, Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra and his wife Dr. Neelam Mishra exercised their under influence over her parents and got executed the said agreement for sale for a mere amount of ₹ 5.25 crores.

17. It was further averred that the plaintiff and its directors were never having the financial capacity to purchase the disputed property since the cheque amounting to ₹ 38 lakhs was dishonoured due to insufficient funds which shows the financial incapacity of the plaintiff. It was further submitted that on 5.1.2016 the plaintiffs were not having sufficient funds which is exhibited from the balance sheet of the plaintiff. It was submitted that the disputed agreement is a result of undue influence of the plaintiff and his wife, as such it is unenforceable.

18. It was further averred that the defendant has solemnised marriage with Faisal Junaid on 27.11.1993, who is a Muslim. It was further averred that the defendant no. 2 is handicapped and of unsound mind since her birth, as such she has to look after her,till her whole life and in these circumstances, if the suit of the plaintiff is decreed and the disputed property is sold to the plaintiff, then there is no place where the defendant can reside with defendant no. 2 and their whole lives will be ruined. It was further averred that at the time of death of her father Dharam Prakash Nangia, the defendant no.1 was residing with him,who has usurped all his money and immovable properties including the advance money paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia and she's filing the suit for recovery of money for her share in the amount of sale consideration, which was obtained by her father and which has been usurped by the defendant no.1.

19. It was further averred that at present there is no place where the answering defendant could shift with defendant no. 2 for whole life and she is not in a financial condition to arrange for any other alternative accommodation for her and her ailing handicapped, unsound sister. The defendants no. 2 and 3 will suffer great hardship if the disputed property is sold to the plaintiff, in compliance of the said agreement. It was averred that the defendant is ready to return the money with bank interest to the plaintiff and this direction can only be against defendant no.1 because she has withdrawn the whole amount.

20. It was further averred that the suit is time barred because the plaintiff fraudulently created a notorial agreement dated 21.12.2014 by forging signatures of Dharam Prakash Nangia on it. In view of this, the plaintiff is not entitled to any equitable relief of specific performance. The plaintiffs suit be dismissed with costs.

Replica of the plaintiff

21. The plaintiff has reiterated the plaint averments. The plaintiff has accepted that the house of Dr. Shivakant Mishra is adjoining to the disputed house and it was also accepted that Dr.Neelam Mishra is the wife of Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra, who is also a doctor. It was denied that the plaintiff and Dr. Neelam Mishra were the family doctors of the parents of the defendants. It was further averred that at the time of execution of agreement to sell, the circle rate of the disputed property was only ₹ 2,800/- per square metre whereas, the transaction was done at the rate of ₹ 3,800/- per square metre. It was reiterated that the transaction was made higher than the prevailing market rate. It was denied that the market value of the disputed property was at that time ₹ 10 crore. Since defendant no. 3 has changed her religion, she has got no right in the disputed property. Further, defendant no. 3 is not entitled to any money from the plaintiff. It was denied that the plaintiff no. 2 was handicapped and mentally retarded since birth. It was further averred that defendant no. 3 is residing with her husband in house no. 88/103, Imam building, flat no. 3, 4th floor, Prem Nagar, Kanpur.

22. It was further averred that the cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs which was alleged to have been dishonoured due to insufficient funds in the bank account of the plaintiff was later on encashed on 17.12.2012, which was proved from the bank statement submitted by the plaintiff for the financial year 2012 □ 2013. It was further averred that the defendant no. 3 was also bound by the terms and conditions of the agreement to sell, executed by her father in favour of the plaintiff

Issues framed

23. The following issues were framed by the trial court :-

(i)Whether the defendants executed a registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 in favour of the plaintiff regarding the disputed property described at the end of the plaint?

(ii)Whether plaintiff is ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in his favour?

(iii)Whether the suit is insufficiently valued?

(iv)Whether the court fees paid is insufficient?

(v)Whether plaintiff is entitled to any relief?

(vi)Whether plaintiffs suit is time barred?

(vii)Whether the evidence of PW-2 Ramakant Mishra is admissible? If so, its effect?

(viii)Whether the defendant's father late Dharam Prakash Nangia was entitled to execute the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 ?

25. The defendants have filed certified copy of the balance sheet of the plaintiff for the financial year 2011 □ 12, 2012 □ 13, 2013 □ 14, 2014 □ 15, 2015 □ 16 and 2021 □22, the original valuation report dated 24.1.2023, the certified copy of the statement of account No. 696710110000131 of Dharam Prakash Nangia from 03.11.2012 □ 01.8.2015 of Bank of India Branch Guru Tegh Bahadur Marg, Kanpur, photocopy of the statement of defendant no.1 's bank account, bank statement of other accounts of defendants, certified copy of the lease deed dated 24.1.1964, 23.4.1966, 30.8.1978, certified copy of the plaint and W.S. in O.S. no. 50 of 2016, the copy of application dated 19.11.2013 given to Kanpur Development Authority for freehold purposes, etc.

Oral evidence of the parties

26. The plaintiff has examined Dr.Shiva Kant Mishra as PW-1, Ramakant Mishra as PW-2, Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari as PW-3 and Ravi Krishna Nigam @ R. Krishna as PW-4.

27. The defendants have examined Mimansa Nangia as DW-1, Shahnaz Faisal as DW-2, Ravindra Tripathi as DW-3, Rohit Handa as DW-4,Mohd. Minaz Jaffery as DW-5 and Pankaj Agarwal as DW-6.

Plaintiffs oral evidence

28. Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra PW-1 in his examination-in-chief has reiterated the plaint averments. In cross-examination he deposed that Shivani hospital was established in the year 1995, which is only having one account in Bank of Baroda, Kabadi market, Kanpur. The plaintiff company does not possess any immovable property. He accepted that the disputed property is adjoining to his house. He also accepted that the disputed property is leasehold, and the responsibility was on the seller to get it freehold. He further disclosed that the accounts of the plaintiff are audited. He further deposed that the company had agreed to purchase the disputed property keeping in view its financial capacity. He admitted that the plaintiff company has obtained an advance of ₹ 1.67 crores against property. He further deposed that the plaintiff company was having sufficient funds when it gave notice to the defendants for getting the sale deed executed in its favour. He denied the suggestion that paper no. 130-C was a forged and fabricated document.

29. He further deposed that as per the terms of the agreement, the seller was required to get the property freehold from the KDA and then inform the plaintiff company. He further deposed that since till December 2014 the seller failed to get the property freehold, hence on the request of the seller Dharam Prakash Nangia, a notary agreement was executed between the parties for extension of time. He denied the suggestion that the seller Dharam Prakash Nangia was misled into entering an agreement with the plaintiff.

30. He further deposed that he was not aware if after the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia, the disputed property was converted into freehold or not. He disclosed that after the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia he was ready to purchase the disputed property even without getting it freehold. He admitted that he never informed the defendants in writing that the plaintiff company was willing to purchase the disputed property without getting it freehold. He reiterated that between October 2015 and January 2016 he remained present in the sub-registrar office many times, after informing the defendants, to get the sale deed of the disputed property executed after paying the balance consideration. He disclosed that he and Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari went on behalf of the plaintiff company to the sub-registrar office. He disclosed that he was not aware that defendant no. 2 was mentally retarded.

31. He further deposed that in October 2015 he went to the sub-registrar office with a cheque book, without any cash. At that time, the plaintiff company was having sufficient funds in its bank account, some amount was in fixed deposit and some was in the current account. He again went to the sub-registrar office on 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016, on those occasion also, he was having his cheque book, but no cash. On those occasion also, the plaintiff company was having sufficient amount in its fixed deposit and current account. He denied the suggestion that he and his wife used to treat the parents of the defendants and there was a relationship of doctor and patient between them. He also denied the suggestion that the alleged agreement to sell was executed under undue influence by Dharam Prakash Nangia. He reiterated that defendant no. 3 was residing in her husband's house.

32. Ramakant Mishra PW-2 deposed in his examination-in-chief that as an advocate he was involved in the affairs of the plaintiff company, in getting the agreement to sell prepared and executed and doing other tasks on behalf of it. He deposed that he prepared the draft agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 which was read to the parties and after obtaining their consent, it was finalised. He further deposed that the agreement was signed in his chamber by all the parties and witnesses and thereafter, it was presented to the sub-registrar for registration, the agreement was obtained on 7.11.2012 after registration. He further deposed that on 21.12.2014 a notarised memorandum was executed between the authorised signatory of the plaintiff and Dharam Prakash Nangia, which was also prepared in his chamber. He also deposed that the notice dated 28.8.2015 which was issued by Devendra Dwivedi to the plaintiff, was also replied by him after obtaining instructions from the plaintiff, which was again replied by Devendra Dwivedi on 17.9.2015, which was addressed to him in the capacity of plaintiffs advocate. He further deposed that on 24.10.2015, 30.11.2015 and 23.12.2015 he gave legal notices on behalf of the plaintiff to the defendants for their failure in not executing the sale deed in plaintiffs favour, a copy of these notices has been filed by the plaintiff in the suit. He further deposed that the plaintiff made all efforts to get the sale deed of the disputed property executed in its favour, but the defendants failed to do so.

33. PW-2 in cross-examination deposed that he was not a mediator in the deal. The draft agreement was prepared by Naveen Mishra. The agreement was signed in his presence. At the time of agreement ₹ 2 crores was paid and ₹ 41 lakhs was also paid through cheques from time to time for getting the property freehold to Dharam Prakash Nangia. On 3.11.2015, 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016 he along with Dr. Shivakant Mishra were present with draft sale deed, along with cheques, but the defendants failed to appear in the sub-registrar office, whereas, they were aware that they have to remain present on that date. He further deposed that Dr. Shivakant Mishra remained present on the above dates along with him from morning to evening in the sub-registrar office. A certificate of attendance was also obtained from the sub-registrar office, which has been filed on record. He deposed that the draft sale deed was prepared without stamps because the stamps were to be purchased when the parties arrived for getting the sale deed executed. He further deposed that the plaintiff company was having an amount of ₹ 3.25 crores in its account and the defendants were to be paid through cheques which were to be drawn on the bank account of the plaintiff. He further deposed that in the agreement to sell Sanjiv Tiwari and the brother-in-law of Dharam Prakash Nangia were witnesses. He denied the suggestion that in collusion with the plaintiff he got the agreement executed from Dharam Prakash Nangia. He further disclosed that the unregistered memorandum was got prepared by Dharam Prakash Nangia. He further disclosed that at the time of filing of the suit he had once been filed his vakalatnama on behalf of the plaintiff because at that time he was not aware that he was also be required to give his evidence as a witness in this case, but now he has withdrawn his vakalatnama, and the plaintiff is being represented by another advocate. He is not now appearing for the plaintiff, as an advocate.

34. Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari PW-3 deposed in his examination-in-chief that he is an advocate by profession and is also a witness of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, and is acquainted with the facts of the case. He deposed that the above agreement was signed by the parties in his presence and thereafter, was presented for registration. He further deposed that after the death of the seller, when his legal heirs failed to execute the sale deed inspite of the request of the buyer, then after informing the defendants and fixing a definite date for their appearance before the sub-registrar, he remained present in the sub-registrar office on 5.1.2016 and he also got his attendance marked by receiving acknowledgement, which has been filed by the plaintiff on record.

35. PW-3 in cross-examination deposed that he was present when the draft of the agreement was being prepared. After reading the agreement, it was 1st of all signed by Dharam Prakash Nangia, thereafter it was signed by Dr. S.K. Mishra, he signed as the 2nd witness, the document was signed in the chamber of Rama Kant Mishra and only cheques were given. In the registrar office, the 1st thumb impression affixed was of Dharam Prakash Nangia. He knows Shivakant Mishra, who is the director of plaintiff company since the year 2009.

36. Ravi Krishna Nigam @ R.Krishna PW-4 the handwriting expert ,in his examination-in-chief has deposed that after comparing the admitted signatures of Dharam Prakash Nangia on the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, he is of the opinion that the unregistered agreement dated 21.12.2014 paper no. 130-C, was also signed by Dharam Prakash Nangia.

Defendants oral evidence

37. Mimansa Nangia DW-1 in her examination-in-chief reiterated the averments of her written statement. She admitted that a registered agreement to sell was executed by her father Dharam Prakash Nangia regarding the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff, and the sale deed was to be executed after receiving the balance consideration by her father. She also admitted that her father tried his best to comply with the terms of the agreement but due to her father's untimely death, the disputed property could not be converted into freehold. She further deposed that on the basis of a Will executed by her father, she is the 50% owner and her sister defendant no. 2 is the 20% owner of the entire movable and immovable property of their father.

38. She further deposed that when the plaintiff failed to comply with the terms of the agreement by paying the balance consideration then she got issued a legal notice through her advocate on 28.8.2015 by registered post to the plaintiff to remain present in the office of sub-registrar for getting the agreement cancelled by receiving back the earnest money. She further deposed that the above notice was served on the plaintiff but inspite of this, the plaintiff failed to remain present on the date and time fixed in the office of sub-registrar, zone no. 4, Kanpur Nagar who neither got the agreement cancelled nor received the earnest money, but on the contrary, submitted reply of her legal notice, through its advocate. She further deposed that since within the agreed duration the plaintiff failed to pay the balance consideration,hence the plaintiff has got no right to get the agreement specifically enforced and for this reason, the plaintiff 's suit is liable to be dismissed. The plaintiff has filed the suit on incorrect facts. She further deposed that she along with her sister/defendant no. 2 never refused to get the sale deed executed in favour of the plaintiff but on the contrary, she gave a legal notice dated 28.8.2015 in which it was mentioned that since the sale deed was not executed till December 2014 hence, it was apparent that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour. She further deposed that in reply to her notice dated 28.8.2015, the plaintiff simply told her that it is ready to get the sale deed executed by paying the balance consideration of ₹ 3.25 crores but no date was fixed on which the sale deed was supposed to be got executed, which shows that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour after the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia, from his legal heirs. She further deposed that the plaintiff has not given any details in order to prove that it was having sufficient money to pay the defendants, in order to get the sale deed executed.

39. DW-1 in cross-examination deposed that she became aware of the agreement dated 22.10.2012 after the death of her father when she received summons of this case. Her father was not having any other immovable property except the disputed property. She admitted that she has filed suit for the cancellation of the agreement to sell which is pending in the court. She admitted that her father had received the earnest money of the disputed agreement to sell, through cheques, at the time of its execution. She admitted that after the death of her father she gave no notice to the plaintiff. She disclosed that in the suit filed by her 50 of 2016, she and her sister Shalu are the plaintiffs and the defendant is the plaintiff of this suit. She admitted that in suit no. 50 of 2016 her sister Shivani @ Shibbu is not a party. She admitted that the differences between her and her sister Shivani arose after the death of their father.

40. She further disclosed that she was not having any knowledge whether any amount has been deposited with the KDA for getting the property converted to freehold. She also failed to disclose whether in the month of December 2014 her father received any permission regarding the disputed property being converted into freehold.She admitted that the disputed property is still undivided. She failed to disclose that on 11.9.2015 whether she marked her attendance in the office of the sub-registrar along with the bank drafts for returning the earnest money to the plaintiff and whether she filed the above documents in this suit. She failed to disclose whether any suit for the cancellation of the agreement to sell has been filed by her or not. She also failed to disclose whether in the month of September 2015 she was having sufficient funds to return the earnest money to the plaintiff. She also failed to disclose whether on 5.1.2016 she was present at the office of sub-registrar zone 4 or not. She also failed to disclose whether she ever remained present in the office of sub-registrar on the date fixed by the plaintiff, for executing the sale deed. She denied the suggestion that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour. She also denied the suggestion that the plaintiff remained present with the balance sale consideration for getting the sale deed executed in its favour on the date fixed, which was also in her notice and also marked its attendance before the sub-registrar. She also denied the suggestion that she did not give the information that the disputed property has been converted into freehold to the plaintiff. She also denied the suggestion that the cause of action has arisen to the plaintiff for specifically enforcing the agreement.

41. Shahnaz Faisal @ Shivani Nangia @ Shibbu DW-2 in examination-in-chief reiterated her averments of the written statement. She deposed that her father Dharam Prakash Nangia did not execute the alleged agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 voluntarily of his free will, which was executed under undue influence of Dr. Shiva Kant Mishra and his wife Dr. Neelam Mishra, and due to this reason, in grief, after about one month on 12.12.2012 her mother Meena Nangia died.

42. She further deposed that her sister Shailja Nangia is about 50 years old, who is from birth mentally retarded,deaf and dumb, who behaves like a child, who is unmarried and has no chance of ever getting married in future. She is 48 years old. She deposed that she was told by her father Dharam Prakash Nangia that a cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs given by the director of plaintiff Dr. Shivakant Mishra bounced due to insufficient funds. Her father between the year 2014 and 2015 informed her many times that the plaintiff was unable to fulfil the terms of the agreement because it could not arrange the requisite funds for getting the sale deed executed in its favour hence, Dr. Shivakant Mishra was making false assurances and was getting the matter stalled again and again, on which, her father gave him time upto July 2015, failing which to get the agreement cancelled after returning the earnest money with interest, but unfortunately, her father died on 4.7.2015. She further deposed that on 1.9.2023 and 18.9.2023 she obtained the balance sheet of the plaintiff for the year 2012 2016, from which it was proved that the plaintiff was not having sufficient funds to fulfil the terms of the agreement. Besides this, from neither the statement of the current account nor the balance sheet, it was proved that the plaintiff was having sufficient funds, hence the plaintiff has got no cause of action to file the suit for the relief of specific performance.

43. She further deposed that her younger sister Km. Mimansa Nangia @ Surabhi was aged about 40 years, was a fraudulent woman, who has usurped the amount existing in the bank accounts of her father at the time of his death, without giving any share to her, who has usurped the entire property of their father. She also disclosed that the above sister has misappropriated the whole amount of ₹ 2 crores, which was given by the plaintiff to her father by getting it transferred to her account, which is proved from the statement of the bank account of her father and the statement of bank accounts of her sister Mimansa Nangia in State Bank of India and Axis Bank. She further deposed that if the Court orders the return of earnest money to the plaintiff, then only the defendant no.1 Mimansa Nangia is liable to return that amount because she alone has usurped it fraudulently and malafidely by getting it transferred to her bank account. She further deposed that since defendant no.1 was having malafide intention as such, she was not entitled to be appointed as guardian of defendant no. 2.

44. She further deposed that since she is married, she also resides with her husband in her flat in Premnagar, Kanpur but she is also in possession of the disputed property being its co-owner. She further deposed that at the time of the alleged execution of the agreement on 22.10.2012, the official valuation of the property was ₹ 10.91 crores whereas, it was agreed to be sold for a paltry consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores. She further deposed that on 11.12.2012 cheque no. 6 drawn on Bank of Baroda, Branch Kabadi market Kanpur of ₹ 38 lakhs was dishonoured due to insufficient balance in the bank account of the plaintiff,which itself disentitles the plaintiff to get the agreement specifically enforced.

45. She further deposed that her father Dharam Prakash Nangia was not in any need of money so as to sell the disputed property situated in prime location, more so, for inadequate consideration. She further deposed that amount of ₹ 2 crores received by her father as earnest money was never spent by him during his lifetime which proves that he was not in any need of money so as to sell the disputed property. She further deposed that since agreement to sell had become time barred hence on 21.12.2014 a fraudulent document was prepared by forging the signature of her father, on the basis of which the instant suit was not maintainable, because it is an unregistered document. The above document has neither been signed by the notary nor it is entered in the register of notary. It was further deposed that Dr. Shivakant Mishra is a director of the company, who has not been authorised on behalf of the company hence, he could not have executed the above document. She further deposed that since the disputed property was not converted to freehold,hence in the absence of such permission, the sale deed could not have been executed in favour of the plaintiff. The document dated 21.12.2014 has not been signed by any witness, which is a forged and fabricated document. The plaintiff was not having sufficient funds on 3.11.2015, 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016. She further deposed that she never received any notice from the plaintiff to remain present before the sub-registrar on the above dates and further, on the above dates, the plaintiff was not having the remaining consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores with it, which was proved from the statement of bank account and balance-sheet of the plaintiff.

46. It was further deposed that as per the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 the suit for the specific performance of contract could have been filed within 3 years of the above agreement, hence the suit filed by the plaintiff was time barred. It was further deposed that if the plaintiff 's suit was decreed then the defendant Shailja@ Shalu has no place to reside. She is not willing to sell the disputed property and the disputed property has not yet been divided. The plaintiff is a company, which has no requirement of residential property, no resolution of the company in this regard is on record. The plaintiff has not approached the court with clean hands and as such, is not entitled to any relief from the Court.

47. DW-2 deposed in cross-examination that her father got injured due to fall, his hip bone was fractured, who was treated at the house and cared by her and relatives. When her father died, he was having about ₹ 4 □ 5 crores, including ₹ 2 crores, which was given as advance by the plaintiff to him. She deposed that her father informed her about the dishonoured cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs on the same evening but 2 □ 3 days thereafter, she was informed by her parents that the above amount has been credited to their account. She accepted that the cheque was subsequently honoured. She also accepted that the agreement was registered and her father went along with her maternal uncle. She admitted that she has no knowledge about any notice or letter sent by her father for cancelling the agreement with the plaintiff due to plaintiffs inability to pay consideration. She accepted that in the registered Will executed by her father, the share of all the daughters have been specified. She further deposed that the whole amount received by her father as advance, was deposited by him in his bank account, which was never spent by him in his lifetime. She further deposed that the amount of ₹ 2 crores received by her father was transferred by defendant no.1 in her bank account, 20 days after the death of her father, but this amount belonged to all the sisters, being the legal heirs.

48. She further deposed that she was not aware whether the disputed property was freehold or leasehold, an amount of ₹ 2 crores was paid by the doctor Saheb to her father. She was told by her government approved valuer that at the time of the execution of agreement, the property was valued at about ₹ 11 crore. She has filed the report of the valuer on record. She admitted that the agreement was executed by her father before the registrar but she clarified that it was due to her father's simplicity and in discharge of the previous obligations towards doctor Saheb. She accepted that her father neither gave any legal notice to the plaintiff regarding undue influence nor lodged any report with the police. She further deposed that the sale deed was to be executed till the year 2014 after receiving the full consideration. She further deposed that she never received any notice sent by the plaintiff for appearing before the sub-registrar for executing the sale deed.

49. She further admitted that there was a clause in the agreement dated 22.10.2012 which prohibited the legal heirs of the parties from questioning the quantum of consideration of the transaction. She accepted that the last time her father had received in the month of February 2015 an amount of ₹ 6 lakhs through cheque, which was honoured. She accepted that her father always told her orally that the plaintiff was not complying with the terms of the agreement but no complaint was ever made during his lifetime to any competent official regarding the alleged agreement. She further disclosed that the plaintiff was told to get the sale deed executed by paying the balance consideration till July 2015 failing which, the plaintiff was required to cancel the agreement after receiving back the consideration paid by it earlier, otherwise the defendants shall approach the Court for cancellation of the agreement. She accepted that no written notice was ever given to the plaintiff or the doctor Saheb but he was told orally that the sale deed be got executed after paying the full consideration. She further disclosed that doctor Saheb demanded ₹ 7 □ 8 crores for cancelling the agreement. She admitted that when her relations with her sister Mimansa were cordial, then no notice was ever given to the plaintiff. She failed to disclose when her sister Mimansa gave a legal notice to the plaintiff for getting the agreement cancelled after returning the earnest money.

50. She denied the suggestion that her father requested for extension of time after December 2014 to get the plot freehold and in pursuance of that, an unregistered memorandum was executed between the parties. She admitted that she has not filed any evidence on record to prove the steps undertaken by her father to get the property converted to freehold. She also admitted that talks were going on between the plaintiff and her father between the year 2014 □ 2015 that if the plaintiff paid the full consideration till July 2015 then in the next 2 4 days, they would complete the formalities. She further deposed that her father orally informed the plaintiff that the property has been converted to freehold. She denied the suggestion that she was bound to obey the agreement executed by her father in favour of the plaintiff because, according to her, the terms of the agreement were not complied by doctor Saheb and further, the agreement was the result of undue influence.

51. Ravindra Tripathi DW-3 the handwriting expert, in his examination-in-chief has deposed that after comparing the admitted signatures of Dharam Prakash Nangia on registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, he is of the opinion that the unregistered agreement dated 21.12.2014 has not been signed by Dharam Prakash Nangia.

52. Rohit Handa DW-4 deposed in his examination-in-chief that he is the son of maternal uncle of defendant no. 3 Smt.Shahnaz Faisal @ Shivani Nangia @ Shibbu. He deposed that Dharam Prakash Nangia and his wife were in the influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra. Dharam Prakash Nangia and his wife told him that a cheque issued by the plaintiff for ₹ 38 lakhs was dishonoured due to sufficient balance. He was also told by Dharam Prakash Nangia in December 2014 that he wants to cancel the agreement because the plaintiff did not have sufficient funds to fulfil the terms of the agreement because Dr.Shivakant Mishra was telling repeated lies and was stalling, who was only given time upto 31.7.2015, failing which, the advance was to be returned with interest. He further deposed that Dharam Prakash Nangia had kept the advance in a bank deposit, from which even a rupee was not spent by him but unfortunately Dharam Prakash Nangia died on 4.7.2015. He further deposed that due to the agreement dated 22.10.2012 Meena Nangia was upset and very sad, who died in grief on 1212.2012. He also deposed that he saw the fraudulent time extension document prepared by notary, which was not at all signed by Dharam Prakash Nangia. He further deposed that since Dharam Prakash Nangia was having handsome income, he was having no need to sell the disputed house. Since defendant no. 2 is deaf and dumb, hence Dharam Prakash Nangia wanted her to remain in the disputed house throughout her life, along with her sisters.

53. He further deposed that the agreement of the disputed house was executed under undue influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra because the house was valued not less than ₹ 10 crores. He further deposed that there was a relationship of doctor and patient between Dr.Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia and his wife. He further deposed that Dharam Prakash Nangia and his wife never wanted to sell the disputed property along with defendant no. 3. Dr. Shivakant Mishra resided in a big bungalow,hence he was having no requirement of the disputed property,who was also not having sufficient funds because the cheque issued by him had bounced.

54. DW-4 deposed in cross-examination that Meena Nangia died on 12.12.2012 due to heart attack. Dharam Prakash Nangia executed a registered Will bequeathing his property to his daughters'. Dr. Shivakant Mishra used to treat and prescribe medicines to Dharam Prakash Nangia. Dharam Prakash Nangia was treated in Excel hospital, Chunniganj, Kanpur Nagar. He was not aware that Dr. Shivakant Mishra is a surgeon. After seeing the agreement to sell, he disclosed that as a witness it has been signed by his uncle Somnath Handa. He admitted that his uncle never remained patient of Dr. Shivakant Mishra, who was not having any undue influence on his uncle, who signed willingly on the above document. He further deposed that he was told by Dharam

Prakash Nangia that a cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs has been dishonoured due to insufficient funds in the bank account of doctor Saheb, due to which the agreement has ended. He disclosed that subsequently he was informed by Dharam Prakash Nangia that he has received the amount of ₹ 38 lakhs towards the dishonoured cheque, in his bank account.

55. He further deposed that the disputed property is not freehold. Dharam Prakash Nangia did not submit any application for converting it to freehold, but orally told doctor Saheb that he has completed all the formalities and if full consideration was paid,then in 2 □ 4 days he will get the property converted to freehold. He was not having any personal information regarding the financial capacity of the plaintiff company. He denied the suggestion that he was not having any personal information regarding the dispute between the parties.

56. Mohd.Minaz Jaffrey DW-5 deposed in his examination-in-chief that he is an approved valuer and project consultant and possesses B-Tech,M-Tech and PhD degrees. On the request of Smt.Shahnaz Faisal he has assessed the market value of the disputed property on 24.1.2023. On the basis of rates prevailing in the year 2012 □ 13 ,the market value of the disputed house in the year 2012 and 2013 was about ₹ 10.91 crores whereas, in the year 2023 the disputed house is valued at ₹ 16,52,75,000/-. He further deposed that he has prepared the valuation report as per the prevalent rules.

57. DW-5 in cross-examination disclosed that he inspected the disputed property on 10.1.2023 and thereafter submitted his report on 24.1.2023 to the defendant no. 3. He further disclosed that he has not inspected the property from inside. He further admitted that he has valued the property on the basis of his experience. He disclosed that he has valued the disputed house at the rate of ₹ 72,000/- yd□ whereas, the prevalent circle rate was between ₹ 30,000 to 26,000 m□ at that time .He denied the suggestion that he has given his report in order to give pecuniary benefit to the defendant no. 3.

58. Pankaj Agarwal DW-6, the public notary, in examination-in-chief deposed that he was working since the year 2005 as notary. He produced his original register before the Court. On seeing paper no.130-C he deposed that it has neither been signed by him nor his seal has been affixed on it. In the red ink whatever has been written on that document, has also not been written by him. He disclosed that on 22.12.2014 the name of any party mentioned in paper no. 130-C, is not entered in his register. In cross-examination by plaintiff he denied the suggestion that proper entries are not made in his register promptly.

Reasoning of the trial court

Issue No. 6:-

59. The trial court opined that the registered agreement to sell was executed on 22.10.2012, according to which, the sale deed was to be executed till the month of December 2014, after getting the property converted to freehold and after giving its intimation to the buyer. The trial court opined that the parties had agreed to get the sale deed executed till 31.12.2014 and hence the suit filed within 3 years of this date, as per Article 54 of the Limitation Act 1963, was within the prescribed period of limitation. The trial court opined that the suit filed by the plaintiff on 17.1.2017 was within the prescribed period of limitation.

60. The trial court further opined that to prove execution of time extension document paper no. 130-C between the parties, handwriting experts were examined by both the parties, who have given contradictory evidence, hence the trial court discarded their evidence. The trial court considered that no attesting witness of this document has been examined and the evidence of public notary PW-6 Pankaj Agarwal was credible, came to the conclusion that the alleged document dated 21.12.2014(paper no. 130-C) was not executed between the parties. But the trial court concluded that even if the plaintiff failed to prove the execution of document 130-C even then, the plaintiff 's suit was not barred by limitation, since it was filed within 3 years from 31.12.2014. In view of the above reasoning, this issue was decided in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendants.

Issue No. 7:-

61. This issue related to the admissibility of evidence of PW-2 Ramakant Mishra which was raised by the defendant no. 3 on the ground that the witness is also an advocate of the plaintiff, hence he cannot give his evidence as a witness. The trial court opined that since 19.11.2018 the proceedings of the suit on behalf of the plaintiff were conducted by another advocate Vivek Nigam and further, PW-2 had withdrawn his vakalatnama, hence the evidence given by him was admissible. In view of the above reasoning, this issue was decided in favour of the plaintiff and against the defendant.

Issue No.1,2 & 8 :-

62. The trial court has believed the evidence of PW-3 Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari, who is the attesting witness of the agreement to sell and has concluded that the agreement to sell was executed between the parties on 22.10.2012, which was registered in the office of sub-registrar on 7.11.2012.

63. The trial court also opined that there was no documentary evidence to prove that there was a relationship of doctor and patient between Dr. Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia and the agreement to sell was executed under undue influence by Dharam Prakash Nangia in favour of the plaintiff.

64. The trial court also opined that the valuation report of the disputed property which was prepared and proved by DW-5 Mohd.Minaz Jaffrey lacked credibility. The trial court opined that according to the prevailing circle rate of ₹ 30,000/- per square metre of the disputed property in the year 2012, the property was only valued at ₹ 3,39,12,300/- whereas in the agreement to sell dated 20.10.2012 the consideration was fixed at ₹ 5.25 crores, which shows that the property was sold in excess of the circle rate, which proved that the consideration of the transaction was sufficient.

65. The trial court also opined that the plaintiff cannot be denied the relief of specific performance only on account of phenomenal increase in price during the pendency of litigation and subsequent rise in prices, will not be treated as a hardship entailing refusal of the decree for specific performance. The trial court opined that the defendants failed to prove that the disputed property was valued at about ₹ 10 crores and the agreement was executed for insufficient consideration.

66. The trial court also opined that Dharam Prakash Nangia was entitled to execute an agreement to sell in favour of the plaintiff, since the sale was only to be effected after the disputed property was converted from leasehold to freehold.

67. The trial court after perusing the file of the disputed property maintained by the Kanpur Development Authority, noticed that the application for converting the property from leasehold to freehold was only moved by Dharam Prakash Nangia on 21.8.2014, whereas, as per the terms of the agreement dated 22.10.2012 the time limit for executing the sale deed was till the month of December 2014. The trial court opined that the onus was on Dharam Prakash Nangia to get the disputed property converted from leasehold to freehold, but only on 30.5.2015 the file was forwarded for granting permission by the competent authority, but before the permission could be granted, on 4.7.2015 Dharam Prakash Nangia died. The trial court has recorded a specific finding that in the lifetime of Dharam Prakash Nangia till 4.7.2015, the disputed property could not be converted into freehold whereas it was the duty of the seller to inform the plaintiff regarding the permission granted to it for converting the property from leasehold to freehold, but this information was never given by the seller to the buyer. The trial court opined that the above information was not given within the prescribed time limit to the plaintiff ,which prima-facie casts aspersion on the conduct of the defendants.

68. The trial court also noticed that after the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia, the defendants being his legal heirs, on the basis of the registered Will, moved an mutation application before the Kanpur Development Authority which was allowed on 11.9.2015. It was also noticed by the trial court that prior to the mutation in favour of the defendants, on 28.8.2015 defendants no.1 and 2 gave a legal notice to the plaintiff for cancellation of the disputed agreement to sell, which showed that the defendants were not intending to comply with the terms of the agreement and were having malafide intention, which also showed their improper conduct. The trial court concluded that the plaintiff was always ready and willing to perform the terms of the agreement, who was also having the requisite financial capacity at all the relevant times.

69. The trial court also considered that a cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs issued by plaintiff was dishonoured, but subsequently it was honoured, which was proved from the evidence of DW-2. The trial court also noted that neither any proceedings for cancellation of agreement was initiated by Dharam Prakash Nangia during his lifetime nor any notice was given by him to the plaintiff for not having the financial capacity to fulfil the terms of the agreement. The trial court opined that the above evidence proved that Dharam Prakash Nangia never intended to cancel the agreement. The trial court also opined that after the execution of the agreement on 22.10.2012, in the year 2014 and 2015 through cheques an amount of ₹ 41 lakhs was paid by plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia, which also proved the readiness and willingness of the plaintiff to fulfil the terms of the agreement.

70. The trial court also considered the statement of bank accounts of the plaintiff, balance sheets of the plaintiff submitted by the defendant and after perusing the above evidence, the trial court opined that the plaintiff was having sufficient funds in its bank account, mutual fund, fixed deposits,etc. to pay the balance sale consideration to the defendants. The trial court opined that the plaintiff was having sufficient financial capacity at all times.

71. In view of the above reasoning, issue no.1,2 and 8 were decided in favour of the plaintiff, against the defendants.

Issue No. 3 and 4:-

72. These issues relate to valuation of the suit and the court fees paid on it. Both these issues were decided by the trial court on 5.9.2022 in favour of the plaintiff, against the defendants.

Issue No. 5:-

73. In view of the above reasoning, the trial court was of the opinion that the plaintiff always remained ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the agreement dated 22.10.2012 by getting the sale deed executed in its favour, hence the plaintiff 's suit was decreed. The plaintiff was directed to pay the balance consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores to the defendants within a period of 2 months for getting the sale deed executed in its favour, failing which the plaintiff was given the right to get it executed through the Court. Aggrieved against which, the defendants have filed the instant appeal under Section 96 CPC.

Submissions of the learned counsel of the parties

74. Shri Rahul Sahai learned senior counsel for the defendant appellants submitted that the suit for specific performance can only be decreed if the plaintiff avers and proves his continuous readiness and willingness that is from the date of the agreement till the filing of the suit and even thereafter. He further submitted that readiness pertains to the financial capacity to perform the contract at the relevant time and willingness relates to the conduct of the plaintiff throughout the currency of the agreement and even during the litigation arising therefrom. He submitted that it is imperative upon the plaintiff to prove his continuous readiness and willingness even in the absence of any plea by the opposite party as the mandate of Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act casts an obligation upon the plaintiff as it is he who has come before the Court to seek relief. The plaintiff must also come before the Court with clean hands as the relief of specific performance is a relief rooted in equity and law.

75. He further submitted that the relief of specific performance would not be granted to a plaintiff who has acted fraudulently. He further submitted that there was a relationship of doctor and patient between the director of the plaintiff hospital Dr. Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia and taking advantage of this relationship, exerting undue influence on Dharam Prakash Nangia, the plaintiff managed to get the agreement of the disputed property executed in its favour, for inadequate consideration, since the property was at that time valued at about ₹ 11 crores, but the plaintiff managed to get it at only ₹ 5.25 crores, which itself proves that the transaction was not fair.

76. He further submitted that the payment of the consideration was made by cheques by the plaintiff, one of which amounting to ₹ 38 lakhs was dishonoured due to insufficient funds in the bank account of the plaintiff, which itself proves the financial incapacity of the plaintiff. It was further submitted that the plaintiff never proved its financial capacity by submitting statement of the bank account and the balance sheet, and the balance sheet was filed by the defendants, which was construed incorrectly by the trial court. He submitted that according to the balance sheet the plaintiff was not having sufficient funds to pay the consideration from the date of the agreement till the filing of the suit, hence the readiness on the part of the plaintiff was not proved but the trial Court has held otherwise.

77. He further submitted that the plaintiff fraudulently prepared a notarised affidavit on 21.12.2014 which is paper no. 130-C, to extend the time within which the agreement was to be performed, which was found to be a forged and fabricated document. Learned counsel submitted that this fraudulent conduct of the plaintiff disentitles it from getting the relief of specific performance.

78. He further submitted that plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in terms of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 since he never followed up or made up any querry regarding the execution of a freehold deed either during the lifetime of Dharam Prakash Nangia or any time shortly thereafter. Only after the defendants issued a notice dated 20.8.2015 the plaintiff woke up and then allegedly issued certain notices calling upon the defendants to execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff. He further submitted that there is no proof of payment of ₹ 41 lakhs towards freehold which was alleged to be paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia.

79. It was further submitted that the plaintiff never turned up at the office of the sub-registrar as claimed in the notices dated 3.11.2015, 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016, whereas his presence was mandatory for getting the sale deed executed in its favour, keeping in view provisions of Section 32A of the Registration Act, 1908. With these submissions it was prayed that the appeal be allowed and plaintiff 's suit be dismissed.

80. In support of his contention, he has relied upon the following case law:-

81. Per contra,Shri Manish Goyal learned senior counsel for the paintiff respondent submitted that as per the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012, the vendor Dharam Prakash Nangia was to take permission to convert the lease hold property to freehold from the Kanpur Development Authority and then inform the plaintiff that he has obtained the permission, and then the sale deed was to be executed upto 31.12.2014, after receiving the balance sale consideration, but Dharam Prakash Nangia never took any steps upto 31.12.2014 to get the property converted into freehold. He further submitted that neither the vendor obtained the permission to convert the property into freehold nor communicated this to the plaintiff, hence there was no readiness and willingness on the part of the vendor.

82. He further submitted that property was never valued at ₹ 11 crores, hence there was no question of undervaluation. According to the circle rate, the property was only valued at about ₹ 3.75 crores, but the plaintiff agreed to purchase it for consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores, out of which ₹ 2 crores was paid at the time of the execution of the agreement of sale, and even thereafter, on the demand of the vendor to meet out the expenses of converting the property from leasehold to freehold, an amount of ₹ 41 lakhs was given to the vendor Dharam Prakash Nangia, which was proved by the plaintiff from the bank statement as well as the oral testimony of the witnesses.

83. It was further submitted that the witnesses of the defendants have admitted the execution of the agreement to sell and even the, notice given by the defendants for terminating the agreement to sell in the year 2015, also proves that the agreement was duly executed between the parties. He further submitted that there is no evidence on record to prove that there was a relationship of doctor and patient between Dr. Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia and the transaction was the result of undue influence exerted by Dr. Shivakant Mishra on Dharam Prakash Nangia.

84. He further submitted that it is true that a cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs issued by the plaintiff towards consideration of the agreement was dishonoured but he submitted that soon thereafter, the cheque was honoured. He further submitted that on the demand of Dharam Prakash Nangia a further sum of ₹ 41 lakhs was paid for getting the property freehold.

85. He further submitted that the trial court has not concluded that the notary agreement dated 21.12.2014 was fraudulently prepared by the plaintiff in order to extend the time. The trial court has simply concluded that the plaintiff has failed to prove it in accordance with law which does not imply that the document is forged and fabricated.

He further submitted that after the demise of Dharam Prakash Nangia, the plaintiff gave legal notices to the defendants to execute the sale deed in its favour by receiving the balance sale consideration, but the defendants failed to pay heed to it, who never appeared before the sub-registrar on the date fixed, whereas the plaintiff remained present with cheque book, which is proved from the documentary evidence on record. He submitted that the plaintiff was always willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour but it was the defendants who committed default, who neither obtained the permission to get the disputed property converted from leasehold to freehold nor communicated this information to the plaintiff, hence the defendants cannot allege that they were ready and willing to perform their part of the agreement.

86. It was further submitted that the plaintiff was having sufficient funds to pay the balance consideration to the defendants in bank account and fixed deposits, investment in mutual funds,etc. from the time of execution of the agreement till the filing of the suit. He further submitted that on 29.5.2025 the plaintiff has deposited the balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores in the trial court and the tender receipt has been filed before this Court, as such, the plaintiff has proved his readiness and willingness to fulfil the terms of the agreement.

87. Learned counsel further submitted that the agreement contemplated that the vendor Dharam Prakash Nangia will obtain the freehold provision and thereafter, execute the sale deed in favour of the plaintiff after receiving the balance sale consideration, but the vendor never in his life time obtained the above permission and communicated it to the plaintiff. The vendor died on 4.7.2015 and thereafter, his legal heirs/defendants gave legal notice to the plaintiff terminating the agreement on the ground that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the agreement which was false, because neither the vendor Dharam Prakash Nangia nor his legal heirs/defendants intimated the plaintiff that they have obtained the freehold permission from the Kanpur Development Authority(KDA). He submitted that the plaintiff always remained ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the agreement to get the sale deed executed in its favour by paying the balance sale consideration which is proved from the oral and documentary evidence on record, hence the trial court has not committed any illegality in decreeing the plaintiff 's suit for the relief of specific performance of agreement dated 22.10.2012.

88. It was further submitted that although the presence of plaintiff in the office of sub-registrar was not necessary but the director of the plaintiff Dr. Shivakant Mishra remained present on 5.1.2016. It was further submitted that no fraud has been committed by the plaintiff as such, the provisions of Section 16(b) of the Specific Relief Act are not attracted in the facts of the present case. With these submissions, it was prayed that the appeal is meritless and be dismissed.In support of his contention, learned counsel has relied upon the following case law:-

Questions for Determination in this Appeal

89. The following questions arises for determination in this appeal:-

(A)Whether the plaintiff was always ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 ?

(B)Whether the defendants or their predecessor Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to comply with the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 ?

(C)Whether the registered agreement to sell was executed for inadequate consideration under undue influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra by Dharam Prakash Nangia ?

(D)Whether the plaintiff was having the financial capacity at the relevant time to pay the balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores to the defendants ?

(E)Whether the plaintiff has committed any fraudulent act which disentitles him from claiming the relief of specific performance of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 in terms of the provisions of Section 16 (b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963"

(F)Whether the presence of the representative of the plaintiff was mandatory for getting the sale deed executed and registered in its favour keeping in view the provisions of Section 32A of the Registration Act, 1908"

Analysis of case law submitted by the parties

90. The Apex Court in the case of Nathu Lal (supra) while considering whether the vendor Nathulal had fulfilled his obligations under the contract, held as under:-

"12. In considering whether a person is willing to perform his part of the contract the sequence in which the obligations under a contract are to be performed must be taken into account. The argument raised by Mr Shroff that Nathulal was bound to perform the two conditions only after the amount of Rs 21,000 was paid is plainly contrary to the terms of the agreement. By virtue of Section 4 of the Transfer of Property Act the chapters and sections of the Transfer of Property Act which relate to contracts are to be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872. If, therefore, under the terms of the contract the obligations of the parties have to the performed in a certain sequence, one of the parties to the contract cannot require compliance with the obligations by the other party without in the first instance performing his own part of the contract which in the sequence of obligations is performable by him earlier.

13. In view of the arrangement made by Phoolchand it was clear that he had at all relevant times made necessary arrangements for paying the amount due, but so long as Nathulal did not carry out his part of the contract, Phoolchand could not be called upon to pay the balance of the price. It must, therefore, be held that Phoolchand was at all relevant times willing to carry out his part of the contract."

91. The Apex Court in the case of Faquir Chand (supra) was considering the issue of readiness and willingness mentioned in Section 16(c) of the Specific Relief Act 1963. It was held as under:-

"3. The learned counsel for the appellant at the time of hearing, placed reliance on Section 16 of the Specific Relief Act. In order to appreciate the rival submissions,Section 16(c) needs to be quoted along with explanation. The same reads as follows:

*"16. Personal bars to relief.□ ****

(c) who fails to aver and prove that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract which are to be performed by him, other than terms the performance of which has been prevented or waived by the defendant.

Explanation.□For the purposes of clause (c),□

(i) where a contract involves the payment of money, it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court;

(ii) the plaintiff must aver performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform, the contract according to its true construction."

4. The language under Section 16(c) of the Act, in our view, does not require any specific phraseology but only that the plaintiff must aver that he has performed or has always been ready and willing to perform his part of the contract. Therefore, the compliance with the readiness and willingness has to be in spirit and substance and not in letter and form. The continuous readiness and willingness could very well be seen in the instant case from the conduct of the plaintiff as a whole. The first agreement was entered into between the parties on 17-6-1985 and the last date to execute the sale deed was 14-11-1985. The second agreement was executed on 9-4-1987 and the last date to execute the sale deed was 13-6-1987. Again, the time was extended at the instance of the defendant up to 30-10-1987. Since the sale deed was not executed, the respondent herein was compelled to file the suit on 26-11-1987. Thereafter, the appellant herein issued a notice to the plaintiff, the respondent herein, on 7-1-1988 and at Exhibit P-5. It is also not in dispute that the respondent herein has deposited the entire sale consideration into the Court on 18-5-1999. He was also present in the Registrar's office for registration of the document. However, the appellant-defendant was not present at the Registrar's office. A careful perusal of the pleadings, the evidence and the documents filed in this case would only go to show that the respondent-plaintiff was ever ready and willing to perform his part of the obligation under the agreement. The decree passed by the High Court confirming the decree of the lower courts does not suffer from any infirmities. We, therefore, have no hesitation to dismiss the appeal."

92. The Apex Court in the case of P.Daivasigamani (supra) was considering whether delay in filing the suit, which was filed within the period of limitation, can be a ground to refuse relief of specific performance to vendee. It was held as under :-

"15. It cannot be gainsaid that even though time is not considered as the essence of the contract in case of immovable property and that the suit could be filed within three years as provided in Article 54 of the Limitation Act, the respondent-plaintiff had to perform his part of the contract within the reasonable time having regard to the term of the agreement prescribing the time-limit. The time-limit prescribed in the agreement cannot be ignored on the ground that time was not made the essence of the agreement or that the suit could be filed within three years from the date fixed for performance or from the date when the performance is refused by the vendor. Nonetheless, as discussed above, the suit having been filed by the respondent well within the prescribed time-limit under Article 54 of the Limitation Act, the respondent could not have been non-suited on the ground of the suit being barred by limitation as sought to be submitted by the learned counsel for the appellant.

16. As regards the delay in filing the suit, it is very pertinent to note that the rule of equity that exists in England, does not apply in India, and so long as a suit for specific performance is filed within the period of limitation, delay cannot be a ground to refuse the relief of specific performance to the plaintiff. In Mademsetty Satyanarayana v. G. Yelloji Rao [1964 SCC OnLine SC 33 : AIR 1965 SC 1405] it has been observed as under : (AIR p. 1409, para 7)

"7. Mr Lakshmaiah cited a long catena of English decisions to define the scope of a court's discretion. Before referring to them, it is necessary to know the fundamental difference between the two systems□English and Indian□qua the relief of specific performance. In England the relief of specific performance pertains to the domain of equity; in India, to that of statutory law.

In England there is no period of limitation for instituting a suit for the said relief and, therefore, mere delay the time lag depending upon circumstances may itself be sufficient to refuse the relief; but, in India mere delay cannot be a ground for refusing the said relief, for the statute prescribes the period of limitation. If the suit is in time, delay is sanctioned by law; if it is beyond time, the suit will be dismissed as barred by time; in either case, no question of equity arises."

17. The aforesaid ratio has also been followed recently by this Court in R. Lakshmikantham v. Devaraji [(2019) 8 SCC 62] . We, therefore, have no hesitation in holding that mere delay alone in filing the suit for specific performance, without reference to the conduct of the plaintiff, could not be a ground for refusing the said relief, when the suit was filed within the statutory time-limit by the respondent-plaintiff.

20. From the bare reading of the aforestated provisions, it clearly emerges that the specific performance of the contract, may in the discretion of the court, be enforced, when the act agreed to be done, was such that compensation in money for its non-performance would not afford adequate relief, and that the breach of a contract to transfer immovable property could not be adequately relieved by compensation in money. It also emerges that specific performance of a contract could not be enforced in favour of a person, who failed to aver and prove that he had performed or had always been ready and willing to perform the essential terms of the contract, which were to be performed by him. It could also not be enforced in favour of a person who failed to aver in the plaint the performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform the contract according to its true construction.

21. Readiness and willingness are not one, but two separate elements. Readiness means the capacity of the plaintiff to perform the contract, which would include the financial position to pay the purchase price. Willingness refers to the intention of the plaintiff as a purchaser to perform his part of the contract*. Willingness is inferred by scrutinising the conduct of the plaintiff purchaser, including attending circumstances [See para 2 in Ganesh Dassji v. Sita Ram Thapar, (1996) 4 SCC 526] . Continuous readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff purchaser from the date the balance sale consideration was payable in terms of the agreement to sell, till the decision of the suit, is a condition precedent for grant of relief of specific performance [See para 5 in N.P. Thirugnanam v. R. Jagan Mohan Rao, (1995) 5 SCC 115. Also see Ardeshir Mama v. Flora Sassoon, 1928 SCC OnLine PC 43 : (1927-28) 55 IA 360 : AIR 1928 PC 208] .*

22. The expression readiness and willingness used in Section 16(c) of the said Act, has been interpreted in a catena of decisions by this Court, in the light of facts and circumstances of the cases under consideration for the purpose of granting or refusing to grant the relief of specific performance of a contract. The said expression cannot be interpreted in a straitjacket formula. In a very apt decision of this Court in Syed Dastagir v. T.R. Gopalakrishna Setty [(1999) 6 SCC 337] , a three-Judge Bench of this Court, construing a plea of readiness and willingness to perform in view of the requirement of Section 16(c) and its Explanation, observed as under : (SCC p. 341, para 9)

"9. So the whole gamut of the issue raised is, how to construe a plea specially with reference to Section 16(c) and what are the obligations which the plaintiff has to comply with in reference to his plea and whether the plea of the plaintiff could not be construed to conform to the requirement of the aforesaid section, or does this section require specific words to be pleaded that he has performed or has always been ready and is willing to perform his part of the contract. In construing a plea in any pleading, courts must keep in mind that a plea is not an expression of art and science but an expression through words to place fact and law of one's case for a relief. Such an expression may be pointed, precise, sometimes vague but still it could be gathered what he wants to convey through only by reading the whole pleading, depending on the person drafting a plea. In India most of the pleas are drafted by counsel hence the aforesaid difference of pleas which inevitably differ from one to the other. Thus, to gather true spirit behind a plea it should be read as a whole. This does not distract one from performing his obligations as required under a statute. But to test whether he has performed his obligations, one has to see the pith and substance of a plea. Where a statute requires any fact to be pleaded then that has to be pleaded may be in any form. The same plea may be stated by different persons through different words; then how could it be constricted to be only in any particular nomenclature or word. Unless a statute specifically requires a plea to be in any particular form, it can be in any form. No specific phraseology or language is required to take such a plea. The language in Section 16(c) does not require any specific phraseology but only that the plaintiff must aver that he has performed or has always been and is willing to perform his part of the contract*. So the compliance of readiness and willingness has to be in spirit and substance and not in letter and form*. So to insist for a mechanical production of the exact words of a statute is to insist for the form rather than the essence. So the absence of form cannot dissolve an essence if already pleaded."

23. It was further observed therein that : (Syed Dastagir case [Syed Dastagir v. T.R. Gopalakrishna Setty, (1999) 6 SCC 337] , SCC p. 342, para 11)

"11. It is significant that this Explanation carves out a contract which involves payment of money as a separate class from Section 16(c). Explanation (i) uses the words it is not essential for the plaintiff to actually tender to the defendant or to deposit in court any money except when so directed by the court. (emphasis supplied) This speaks in a negative term what is not essential for the plaintiff to do. This is more in support of the plaintiff that he need not tender to the defendant or deposit in court any money but the plaintiff must [as per Explanation (ii)] at least aver his performance or readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contract."

24. In Sukhbir Singh v. Brij Pal Singh [(1997) 2 SCC 200] this Court had laid down that law is not in doubt and it is not a condition that the respondents (plaintiffs) should have ready cash with them. It is sufficient for the respondents to establish that they had the capacity to pay the sale consideration. It is not necessary that they should always carry the money with them from the date of the suit till the date of the decree. The said principle was followed in A. Kanthamani v. Nasreen Ahmed [(2017) 4 SCC 654 : (2017) 2 SCC (Civ) 596] , in C.S. Venkatesh v. A.S.C. Murthy [(2020) 3 SCC 280 : (2020) 2 SCC (Civ) 90] , etc.

25. Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act (pre-amendment), which confers discretion on the court to exercise jurisdiction to decree of specific performance, states that this exercise should not be arbitrary, but guided by sound and reasonable judicial principles. Interpreting and elucidating on Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act (pre-amendment) and factors to be considered, this Court in Kamal Kumar v. Premlata Joshi [2019) 3 SCC 704 : (2019) 2 SCC (Civ) 405] has also referred to Sections 16(c), 22, 23 and 24 of the Specific Relief Act and Forms 47/48 of Appendix A to C of the Civil Procedure Code, 1908, to summarise : (SCC pp. 705-706, paras 7-8)

"7. It is a settled principle of law that the grant of relief of specific performance is a discretionary and equitable relief. The material questions, which are required to be gone into for grant of the relief of specific performance are:

7.1. First, whether there exists a valid and concluded contract between the parties for sale/purchase of the suit property.

7.2. Second, whether the plaintiff has been ready and willing to perform his part of contract and whether he is still ready and willing to perform his part as mentioned in the contract.

7.3. Third, whether the plaintiff has, in fact, performed his part of the contract and, if so, how and to what extent and in what manner he has performed and whether such performance was in conformity with the terms of the contract.

7.4. Fourth, whether it will be equitable to grant the relief of specific performance to the plaintiff against the defendant in relation to suit property or it will cause any kind of hardship to the defendant and, if so, how and in what manner and the extent if such relief is eventually granted to the plaintiff.

7.5. Lastly, whether the plaintiff is entitled for grant of any other alternative relief, namely, refund of earnest money, etc. and, if so, on what grounds.

8. In our opinion, the aforementioned questions are part of the statutory requirements [see Sections 16(c), 20, 21, 22, 23 of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 and Forms 47/48 of Appendix A to C of the Code of Civil Procedure]. These requirements have to be properly pleaded by the parties in their respective pleadings and proved with the aid of evidence in accordance with law. It is only then the Court is entitled to exercise its discretion and accordingly grant or refuse the relief of specific performance depending upon the case made out by the parties on facts."

26. Sub-section (2) to Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act (pre-amendment) lists some of the principles that the court should take into consideration while exercising discretion. The factors to be considered while exercising discretion include hardship to the defendant seller which he did not foresee, hardship to the plaintiff purchaser in case of non-performance, or whether the contract, even when not void, was entered under the circumstances that make the enforcement of specific performance inequitable, or whether the plaintiff has done substantial acts or suffered losses as a consequence of the contract, and the conduct of the parties, including that of the defendant seller and other circumstances under which the contract was entered are such that they give an unfair advantage over the defendant seller.

27. The court should examine whether the plaintiff purchaser had, in fact, performed his part of the contract, and if so, how and to what extent, and in what manner he has performed, and whether such performance was in conformity with the terms of the contract. The status of the parties, and whether the plaintiff purchaser is a speculator in the property, who buys and sells properties, and whether his conduct reflects an attempt to gain on account of the rise in the price of the property, hoping that the delay in payment of full consideration would go to his advantage, will be a relevant consideration [See K.S. Vidyanadam v. Vairavan, (1997) 3 SCC 1] . Incapacity of the defendant seller and whether the plaintiff purchaser is operating in property trade, or as a financer or middleman and the defendant seller is a typical property owner, may also affect the exercise of discretion.

28. In cases where the defendant seller claims that he was gullible and nescient, who got caught by entering into the agreement to sell, facts like whether the sale consideration is lower than the market price and the terms and conditions settled are unfavourable, should be given due weightage. Sometimes the defendant seller, post the agreement to sell, in consultation with elders or family members, wishes to back out because the decision to sell was a folly, unwise, or a result of trickery. In such cases, the conduct of the defendant seller would be of consequence. The defendant seller would be well advised to immediately and without delay write to the plaintiff purchaser reneging the agreement to sell and enclose a cheque for the amount received. His offer to pay or payment of interest or damages would be an added factor as the intending purchaser would then be entitled to look for another property.

29. Time, it is stated, is not the essence of the contract in the case of immovable properties, unless there are grounds to hold to the contrary. This doctrine is applied, without being unfair and inequitable to the defendant seller, as the court should not ignore that a person sells the property when he needs money, and, therefore, expects the money in the stipulated or reasonable time, which would meet the purpose of the sale. The purpose of sale can vary from the need for liquid cash to be invested to earn interest, medical, educational, child's marriage or purchasing another property. To save capital gains, the seller has to purchase another immovable property, unless the proceeds are exempt.

30. There has been a steep rise in the prices of land in the last quarter of the 20th Century in India. With the rise in property value, the value of money has fallen. At times, delay in payment would defeat the defendant seller's purpose [See paras 25, 36 & 37 in Saradamani Kandappan v. S. Rajalakshmi, (2011) 12 SCC 18 : (2012) 2 SCC (Civ) 104.] . Therefore, the offer of the plaintiff purchaser in writing and the time and occasion when the offer to pay the balance amount to the defendant seller is an important factor which would matter when the court examines the question of discretion, that is, whether or not to grant a decree of specific performance. While examining these aspects, the quantum of money paid by the plaintiff purchaser to the defendant seller may become a relevant fact that merits due consideration.

31. There is a distinction between limitation and delay and laches. Limitation is a ground for dismissing a suit even if the plaintiff is otherwise entitled to specific performance, while delay operates to determine the discretion and exercise under Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act, even if the suit is not dismissed on account of limitation. However, not one but several aspects have to be considered when the court, in terms of Section 20 of the Specific Relief Act, exercises discretion, guided by judicial principles, sound and reasonable.

32. Having said that, let us examine the facts of this case. As discussed earlier, the respondent-plaintiff had not only averred in the plaint about his issuing notices within the period of six months of the agreement in question, calling upon the appellant-defendant to perform his part of the contract and conclude the sale transaction, also showing his readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contract, but the respondent had also proved the same by stepping into the witness box.

33. Though much reliance was placed by the learned counsel for the appellant on the decisions of this Court in Ritu Saxena v. J.S. Grover [(2019) 9 SCC 132 : (2019) 4 SCC (Civ) 302] , in Abdullakoya Haji v. Rubis Tharayil [(2019) 17 SCC 216 : (2020) 3 SCC (Civ) 399] , and other cases, to submit that the respondent had failed to establish his financial capacity to pay the balance amount of consideration at the relevant time and had also failed to deposit the said amount in the court at the time of filing of the suit, he was not entitled to the discretionary relief of specific performance as granted by the Court, we do not find any substance in any of the said submissions. As per the ratio of judgment laid down by the three-Judge Bench in Syed Dastagir [Syed Dastagir v. T.R. Gopalakrishna Setty, (1999) 6 SCC 337] , the compliance of □readiness and willingness□ has to be in spirit and substance and not in letter and form, while making averments in the plaint. As per Explanation (i) to Section 16(c), he need not tender to the defendant or deposit the amount in the court, but he must aver performance of, or readiness and willingness to perform the contract according to its true construction."

93. The Apex Court in the case of Krishan Gopal (supra) has held as under:-

"13. Well settled is the legal proposition that, to prove his readiness and willingness, a purchaser need not necessarily produce the money or carry it with him or vouch a concluded scheme of finance. [See Nathulal v. Phoolchand(1969) 3 SCC 120; and Sukhbir Singh v. Brij Pal Singh(1997) 2 SCC 200]. It is equally well settled that readiness and willingness is to be inferred from the conduct of the parties. [See His Holiness Acharya Swami Ganesh Dassji v. Sita Ram Thapar(1996) 4 SCC 526; and Bibi Jaibunisha v. Jagdish Pandit (1997) 4 SCC 481].

18. It appears that the balance sale consideration of Rs. 9,00,000/- was deposited before the Executing Court by the plaintiffs in February, 2012. However, we are informed that there has been an astronomical rise in the prices of lands in the vicinity of the suit land. Even if that be so, mere escalation of land prices would not be a reason, by itself, to deny the equitable relief of specific performance once sufficient grounds are made out for granting such relief [See Kanshi Ram v. Om Prakash Jawal(1996) 4 SCC 593 and Gobind Ram v. Gian Chand (2000) 7 SCC 548]."

94. The Apex Court in the case of Aloka Bose (supra) has held that the agreement of sale signed only by the vendor was valid and enforceable by the purchaser.

95. The Apex Court in the case of Rattan Singh (supra) has held that signature of the vendee is not mandatory in a sale deed.

96. The Apex Court in the case of Asset Reconstruction Company (India) Ltd. (supra) was considering the applicability of the Registration Act, 1908 keeping in view the amendments made by the States in it. It was held as under :-

"13. Before we look at the relevant provisions of the Registration Act, 1908, it is necessary to note that Registration of deeds and documents falls in Entry 6 of List III (Concurrent List) of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution. Therefore, the Registration Act, 1908, which is a Central Act, can be seen as something which provides only a template upon which the States are entitled to make amendments. This is why amendments by States galore in the Registration Act, 1908. Therefore, any interpretation of the provisions of the Act, should be in consonance with the scheme of the Act as applicable to the State involved in the litigation. For instance, registration of certain documents may be optional in some States but mandatory in some other States. Therefore, the interpretation made by this Court, of a provision as amended in its application to a particular State, cannot be applied blindly while interpreting the same provision as applicable to another State. Keeping this aspect in mind, let us now peep into the statutory provisions."

97. The Apex Court in the case of Pydi Ramana (supra) and Shenbagam (supra) in the facts and circumstances of the case, keeping in view the conduct of the parties, the escalation of the price of the suit property, and whether one party will unfairly benefit from the decree,held that the remedy provided must not cause injustice to a party, specifically when they are not at fault. In these cases, the conduct of the plaintiff was found blemished, who was not found willing to perform the contract, hence the remedy of specific performance of the contract was not granted.

98. The Apex Court in the case of Basant Ram (supra) has held that mere presence at the office of the sub-registrar, unaccompanied by any evidence of financial preparedness such as a demand draft or other supporting documentation cannot suffice. It is not enough to merely state that one is ready and willing to perform his part, but he needs to substantially show that genuine efforts were made in that regard and should have supporting documents such as a demand draft prepared. In the facts of the case, it was held that plaintiffs were not always ready and willing to perform their part of the agreement, which was not supported by their conduct.

99. The Apex Court in the case of Subhash Aggarwal (supra), held that there is no straitjacket formula with regard to readiness and willingness, the same has to be construed with respect to the facts and circumstances of each case. In this case the plaintiff failed to prove that he had the necessary financial wherewithal to make the balance payment of ₹ 5.21 crores on the due date, who also did not even visit the office of the sub-registrar.The defendants also failed to fulfil their contractual obligations, particularly with respect to obtaining mutation and securing conversion of the suit property from leasehold to freehold. In these circumstances,it was held that specific performance was not an equitable relief after passage of more than 17 years since the execution of agreement.

100. The Apex Court in the case of Darshan Singh (supra) has held that the relief of specific performance is discretionary and equitable. In this case considering the plaintiffs conduct of making false and/or incorrect statements in the plaint, which were very material, the plaintiffs were held disentitled to the relief of specific performance.

101. The Apex Court in the case of Muddam Raju Yadav (supra) has held that in a suit for specific performance, the conduct of the parties is significant as it assists the court in evaluating the evidence to find out the bona fides of the parties at the time of execution of the agreement. Even a slight doubt in the mind of the Court that the plaintiff was not acting bonafidely and that the material facts, having bearing on the agreement, have been withheld in the agreement itself and from the Court also,the discretionary relief has to be denied. It was held that the plaintiffs approaching the Court with unclean hands cannot be granted relief of specific performance.

102. The Apex Court in the case of S.P.Chengalvaraya Naidu (supra) has held that a litigant, who approaches the Court, is bound to produce all the documents executed by him which are relevant to the litigation. If he withholds a vital document in order to gain advantage on the other side then he would be guilty of playing fraud on the Court as well as on the opposite party. It was reiterated that a judgment or a decree obtained by playing fraud on the Court is a nullity and nonest in the eyes of law, which can be challenged in any Court even in collateral proceedings.

103. The Apex Court in the case of U.N. Krishnamurthy (supra) where the plaintiffs balance-sheet did not have sufficient funds to discharge his part of contract at the relevant time, who subsequently deposited the balance sale consideration after a lapse of 7 years, in these circumstances, it was held that the plaintiff has failed to prove his readiness to perform his part of the contract from the date of execution of the agreement till date of decree, which is a condition precedent for grant of relief of specific performance. It was further held that where a certain amount has been paid in advance and the balance is required to be paid within a stipulated time, it is for the paintiff to show that he was in a position to pay the balance money. Plaintiff has to prove that he has the money or has alternatively made necessary arrangements to get the money.

104. The Apex Court in the case of N.P. Thirugnanam (supra) has held that continuous readiness and willingness on the part of the plaintiff is a condition precedent to grant the relief of specific performance. This circumstance is material and relevant and is required to be considered by the court while granting or refusing to grant the relief. If the plaintiff fails to either aver or prove the same, he must fail. To adjudge whether the plaintiff is ready and willing to perform his part of the contract, the Court must take into consideration the conduct of the plaintiff prior and subsequent to the filing of the suit along with other attending circumstances. The amount of consideration which he has to pay to the defendant must of necessity be proved to be available. Right from the date of the execution till date of the decree he must prove that he is ready and has always been willing to perform his part of the contract. As stated, the factum of his readiness and willingness to perform his part of the contract is to be adjudged with reference to the conduct of the party and the attending circumstances. The court may infer from the facts and circumstances whether the plaintiff was ready and was always ready and willing to perform his part of contract.

Findings of this Court

Execution of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012

105. It is the case of the plaintiff that its director Dr. Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia were neighbours, who were having friendly relations, who entered into an agreement to sell on 22.10.2012 for selling the disputed house of Dharam Prakash Nangia for a consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores to the plaintiff. It is evident from the written statement of the defendants that there is no specific denial of the execution of the above agreement to sell by their father Dharam Prakash Nangia.

106. The defendant no.1 Mimansa Nangia, who also examined herself as DW-1 admitted in her examination-in-chief that a registered agreement to sell was executed by her father Dharam Prakash Nangia regarding the disputed property in favour of the plaintiff, and the sale deed was to be executed after receiving the balance consideration by her father. She also admitted that her father tried his best to comply with the terms of the agreement but due to her father's untimely death, the disputed property could not be converted into freehold. In the cross-examination she admitted that her father had received the earnest money of the disputed agreement to sell, through cheques, at the time of its execution.

107. Shahnaz Faisal @ Shivani Nangia @ Shibbu DW-2 also stated in her examination-in-chief that her sister Mimansa Nangia has misappropriated the whole amount of ₹ 2 crores, which was given by the plaintiff to her father by getting it transferred to her account, which is proved from the statement of the bank account of her father and the statement of bank accounts of her sister Mimansa Nangia in State Bank of India and Axis Bank.

108. The above unequivocal admission of the daughters DW-1 & DW- 2 of deceased Dharam Prakash Nangia, prove beyond doubt, the execution of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 by their father Dharam Prakash Nangia in favour of the plaintiff. It also proves that an earnest money of ₹ 2 crores was paid by the plaintiff at the time of the above execution of the agreement to Dharam Prakash Nangia through cheques and after the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia, that amount has been usurped by the defendant no.1 Mimansa Nangia. The execution of the agreement was also proved by Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari PW-3.

Terms of the agreement

109. The original agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 has been proved by the plaintiff in the trial court by examining Dr. Shivakant Mishra (director of the plaintiff) as PW-1 and Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari(attesting witness) as PW-3. It is apparent from the agreement that the disputed property, which is a residential house of Dharam Prakash Nangia, was agreed to be sold for a consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores to the plaintiff Shivani Hospital Private Ltd. On behalf of the plaintiff,it's director

Dr. Shivakant Mishra and the defendants predecessor/father Dharam Prakash Nangia, signed the agreement.

110. It was mentioned in the agreement that the disputed property was not yet freehold. An earnest money of ₹ 2 crores was received from the plaintiff by Dharam Prakash Nangia, through cheques, the details of which were mentioned in the agreement and has also been mentioned in the plaint. It was further agreed that the remaining consideration of ₹ 3.25 crores shall be paid by the plaintiff at the time of registration of sale deed before the sub-registrar Kanpur Nagar and the plaintiff shall also bear the expenses of this transaction of getting the sale deed registered.

111. It was also agreed that Dharam Prakash Nangia will get the property converted into freehold at his expenses, shall give its written information to the buyer, but this was to be done in every circumstance till the month of December 2014 and thereafter,execute the sale deed in favour of the buyer, for which the seller will fix a date and time and intimate it in writing to the buyer, so that he may remain present before the sub-registrar Kanpur for getting the sale deed executed in its favour. It was also agreed that if the seller within the prescribed time limit fails to execute the sale deed in favour of the buyer or fails to complete all the aforementioned formalities,in that condition, the buyer will have a right to get the sale deed executed through Court. It was further agreed that the terms of the agreement shall be binding on the legal heirs of the buyer and seller, who shall not be entitled to raise any objection regarding the consideration.

(A)Whether the plaintiff was always ready and willing to fulfil the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 ?

(B)Whether the defendants or their predecessor Dharam Prakash Nangia failed to comply with the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 ?

112. It is apparent from the pleadings of the plaintiff and the defendant no.1, the evidence of PW-1 Shivakant Mishra and DW-1 Mimansa Nangia and the perusal of the agreement to sell, that the disputed property was required to be converted from lease hold to freehold by the seller Dharam Prakash Nangia till the month of December 2014 and then was required to give its written intimation to the plaintiff but Dharam Prakash Nangia in his lifetime failed to complete that formality. The above permission to get the property converted into freehold was to be obtained from the Kanpur Development Authority(KDA). Dharam Prakash Nangia's daughter Mimansa Nangia DW-1 has accepted in her examination-in-chief that her father failed to obtain the above permission in his lifetime, who died on 4.7.2015.

113. DW-1 in cross-examination disclosed that she was not having any knowledge whether any amount has been deposited with the KDA for getting the property converted to freehold. She also failed to disclose whether in the month of December 2014 her father received any permission regarding the disputed property being converted into freehold.

114. During trial, the trial court summoned the relevant file from the office of the KDA, to ascertain what steps were taken by Dharam Prakash Nangia to get the disputed property converted into freehold, then it was disclosed that the application was moved by Dharam Prakash Nangia before the KDA only on 21.8.2014, whereas, the agreement was executed on 22.10.2012, and as per the terms of the agreement, the sale deed was to be executed after obtaining permission till the month of December 2014. It is apparent that the above application was moved only four months prior to the deadline of December 2014 by Dharam Prakash Nangia on 21.8.2014. It was also disclosed from the perusal of the above file that on 30.5.2015 the file was forwarded to the competent authority for granting of freehold permission, which was not granted till the death of Dharam Prakash Nangia on 4.7.2015.

115. It is thus evident that Dharam Prakash Nangia in his lifetime failed to obtain the freehold permission from the KDA till the month of December 2014 and even till his death on 4.7.2015, the permission was not obtained, which is also accepted by his daughter Mimansa Nangia DW-1 in her examination-in-chief. It is also evident that getting the property converted to freehold was a condition precedent for getting the sale deed executed in favour of the plaintiff, but this condition was never fulfilled by Dharam Prakash Nangia in his lifetime. No documentary evidence is on record which proves that any notice was given by the defendants or their father Dharam Prakash Nangia to the plaintiff that they have obtained the freehold permission from the KDA hence, the plaintiff should get the sale deed executed in its favour by paying the balance sale consideration.

116. On the contrary, the defendant no.1 and 2 gave legal notice through their Advocate Dr. Devendra Dwivedi on 28.8.2015 to the plaintiff to appear before the office of sub-registrar on 11.9.2015 for cancellation of the agreement to sell and receiving back the earnest money of ₹ 2 crores, which was paid earlier by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia. The plaintiff replied to the above legal notice, requesting them to fix a date for execution of the sale deed and asserting that the balance consideration will be paid at the time of the execution of sale deed.

117. It is further apparent that the plaintiffs sent a notice to all the legal heirs of the deceased Dharam Prakash Nangia on 24.10.2015 to remain present before the office of concerned sub-registrar Kanpur Nagar on 3.11.2015, again on 30.11.2015 to remain present on 5.12.2015 and again on 23.12.2015 to remain present on 5.1.2016, for execution of the sale deed and for receiving the balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores, but the defendants failed to remain present. The plaintiffs director Dr. Shivakant Mishra PW-1 along with Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari PW-3 remained present in the office of the concerned sub-registrar on 5.1.2016, but the defendants failed to appear on any of the above dates.

118. Dr. Shivakant Mishra PW-1 deposed that between October 2015 and January 2016 he remained present in the sub-registrar office many times, after informing the defendants, to get the sale deed of the disputed property executed after paying the balance consideration. He disclosed that he and Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari went on behalf of the plaintiff company to the sub-registrar office.He further deposed that in October 2015 he went to the sub-registrar office with a cheque book, without any cash. At that time, the plaintiff company was having sufficient funds in its bank account, some amount was in fixed deposit and some was in the current account. He again went to the sub-registrar office on 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016, on those occasion also, he was having his cheque book, but no cash. On those occasion also, the plaintiff company was having sufficient amount in its fixed deposit and current account.

119. Ramakant Mishra PW-2 in cross-examination deposed that on 3.11.2015, 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016 he along with Dr. Shivakant Mishra were present with draft sale deed, along with cheques, but the defendants failed to appear in the sub-registrar office, whereas, they were aware that they have to remain present on that date. He further deposed that Dr. Shivakant Mishra remained present on the above dates along with him from morning to evening in the sub-registrar office. A certificate of attendance was also obtained from the sub-registrar office, which has been filed on record. He deposed that the draft sale deed was prepared without stamps because the stamps were to be purchased when the parties arrived for getting the sale deed executed. He further deposed that the plaintiff company was having an amount of ₹ 3.25 crores in its account and the defendants were to be paid through cheques which were to be drawn on the bank account of the plaintiff.

120. It is also evident that after the execution of the agreement to sell on 22.10.2012, an additional amount of ₹ 41 lakhs was paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia on 14.3.2014(₹ 15 lakhs), 28.11.2014(₹ 20 lakhs) and 5.2.2015(₹ 6 lakhs), through four cheques, which is also proved from the bank statement of the plaintiff and certificate issued by the bank regarding debit/credit of cheque.

121. It is also apparent that the consideration of ₹ 2 crores for the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 was paid by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia through following cheques:-

(i)cheque No. 3 dated 2.11.2012 for ₹ 40 lakhs
(ii)cheque No. 4 dated 2.11.2012 for ₹ 40 lakhs
(iii)cheque No. 5 dated 3.11.2012 for ₹ 40 lakhs
(iv)cheque No. 6 dated 3.12.2012 for ₹ 38 lakhs
(v)cheque No. 599847 dated 22.10.12 for ₹ 42 lakhs

122. From the bank statement of the plaintiff it is evident that the above cheques have been debited from its bank account on 5.11.2012, 7.11.2012, 12.11.2012, 17.12.2012 and 3.11.2012 respectively. It is also evident that earlier cheque No. 6 for ₹ 38 lakhs was dishonoured due to insufficient balance on 11.12.2012 but subsequently on 17.12.2012 it was honoured, which has also been accepted by Shahnaz Faisal DW-2, the daughter of Dharam Prakash Nangia, who deposed in cross-examination that her father informed her about the dishonoured cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs on the same evening but 2 □ 3 days thereafter, she was informed by her parents that the above amount has been credited to their account. She accepted that the cheque was subsequently honoured.

123. Rohit Handa DW-4 also deposed that he was told by Dharam Prakash Nangia that a cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs has been dishonoured due to insufficient funds in the bank account of doctor Saheb, due to which the agreement has ended. He disclosed that subsequently, he was informed by Dharam Prakash Nangia that he has received the amount of ₹ 38 lakhs towards the dishonoured cheque, in his bank account.

124. It is evident that neither any legal notice for the above dishonoured cheque of ₹ 38 lakhs has been given by Dharam Prakash Nangia to the plaintiff nor any proceeding for cancellation of agreement to sell has been initiated by him, which itself proves that, Dharam

Prakash Nangia has duly received the entire earnest money of ₹ 2 crores, including the above amount of ₹ 38 lakhs, which is also proved from the evidence of DW-1,DW-2 and DW-4.

125. From the above evidence on record it is evident that the plaintiff was always willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour by paying the balance sale consideration, but Dharam Prakash Nangia till his death on 4.7.2015 and after his death, his daughter's, being his legal heirs, neither obtained the permission from the KDA for getting the property converted into free hold nor intimated in writing to the plaintiff, that they have obtained such permission and now the plaintiff should pay the balance sale consideration and get the sale deed executed in its favour. It is apparent that Dharam Prakash Nangia and after his death,his daughter's, have failed to comply with the terms of the agreement dated 22.10.2012.

(C)Whether the registered agreement to sell was executed for inadequate consideration under undue influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra by Dharam Prakash Nangia ?

126. It is the case of the defendant no.3 Shahnaz Faisal that the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 was executed under undue influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra, since there was a relationship of doctor and patient between them and Dharam Prakash Nangia and his wife Meena Nangia.

127. Rohit Handa DW-4 deposed in cross-examination that Meena Nangia died on 12.12.2012 due to heart attack. Dr. Shivakant Mishra used to treat and prescribe medicines to Dharam Prakash Nangia. Dharam Prakash Nangia was treated in Excel hospital, Chunniganj, Kanpur Nagar. He was not aware that Dr. Shivakant Mishra is a surgeon. After seeing the agreement to sell, he disclosed that as a witness it has been signed by his uncle Somnath Handa. He admitted that his uncle never remained patient of Dr. Shivakant Mishra, who was not having any undue influence on his uncle, who signed willingly on the above document.

128. It is evident that there is no documentary evidence to prove the relationship of doctor and patient between Dr. Shivakant Mishra/Neelam Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia/Meena Nangia. It is apparent that Dr. Shivakant Mishra and Dharam Prakash Nangia were neighbours hence they were having friendly relations but there was no professional relationship of doctor and patient between them. 129. It is also evident that Dr. Shivakant Mishra was a surgeon, whereas Meena Nangia died due to heart attack and Dharam Prakash Nangia was treated in Excel Hospital, Kanpur Nagar. It is also evident that the agreement was witnessed by Somnath Handa, the uncle of DW-4, who has admitted that his uncle never remained patient of Dr. Shivakant Mishra,who was not having any undue influence on his uncle, who had willingly signed the agreement. In view of the above evidence on record, it was not proved that Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his wife Neelam Mishra were having any undue influence on Dharam Prakash Nangia.

130. It has been further submitted by defendant no. 3 Shahnaz Faisal that on 22.10.2012, as per the report of the Government valuer Mohd.Minaz Jaffrey DW-5 the disputed property was valued at ₹ 10.91 crores, but it was only agreed to be sold for a consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores by her father Dharam Prakash Nangia to the plaintiff, this fact also ipso facto proves that her father was under undue influence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra.

131. Mohd.Minaz Jaffrey DW-5 deposed in his examination-in-chief that he is an approved valuer and project consultant .On the request of Smt.Shahnaz Faisal he has assessed the market value of the disputed property on 24.1.2023. On the basis of rates prevailing in the year 2012 □ 13 ,the market value of the disputed house in the year 2012 and 2013 was about ₹ 10.91 crores whereas, in the year 2023 the disputed house is valued at ₹ 16,52,75,000/-.

132. DW-5 in cross-examination disclosed that he inspected the disputed property on 10.1.2023 and thereafter submitted his report on 24.1.2023 to the defendant no. 3. He further disclosed that he has not inspected the property from inside. He further admitted that he has valued the property on the basis of his experience. He disclosed that he has valued the disputed house at the rate of ₹ 72,000/- yd□ whereas, the prevalent circle rate was between ₹ 30,000 to 26,000 m□ at that time .He denied the suggestion that he has given his report in order to give pecuniary benefit to the defendant no. 3.

133. From the above evidence of DW-5 it is apparent that in the year 2012-13 the prevalent circle rate of the property was between ₹ 30,000 to 26,000 per square metre but he has valued the disputed house at the rate of ₹ 72,000 per square yard, which is far in excess of the circle rate, which is fixed by the District Magistrate under Stamp Act. It is also evident that without inspecting the disputed house from inside, without appreciating the quality of construction of the house and without observing the quality of materials used in its construction, he has prepared the valuation report. In view of the above facts, the valuation report disclosing the market value of the property in the year 2012-13 to be about ₹ 10.91 crores is not at all credible, which has rightly been discarded by the trial court also. On the basis of this valuation report, it cannot be inferred that the disputed property was valued at ₹ 10.91 crores in the year 2012-13 when the agreement was executed by Dharam Prakash Nangia in favour of the plaintiff.

134. It is further apparent that the area of the disputed property was 1352 square yards= 1130.41 m□ and if the circle rate of land in the year 2012 □ 13 is taken at ₹ 30,000 per square metre,then the valuation of the land comes to about ₹ 3.40 crores, but the whole property has been agreed to be sold for a consideration of ₹ 5.25 crores, which cannot in any manner be termed as inadequate. Hence, even on the basis of consideration of the agreement, it cannot be held that the disputed property was sold below its market valuation, and the agreement was executed under undue influence.

(D)Whether the plaintiff was having the financial capacity at the relevant time to pay the balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores to the defendants ?

135. It is apparent from the case law submitted by the parties that where a certain amount has been paid in advance and the balance is required to be paid within a stipulated time, it is for the paintiff to show that he was in a position to pay the balance money. Plaintiff has to prove that he has the money or has alternatively made necessary arrangements to get the money.The amount of consideration which he has to pay to the defendant must of necessity be proved to be available.

Right from the date of the execution till date of the decree he must prove that he is ready and has always been willing to perform his part of the contract.

136. It is further apparent that it is not the condition that the plaintiff should have ready cash with him. It is sufficient for the plaintiff to establish that he had the capacity to pay the sale consideration. It is further not necessary that he should always carry the money with him from the date of the suit till the date of the decree.

137. The plaintiff has filed the statement of his bank account. The defendants have also filed the balance sheet of the plaintiff. From the statement of the plaintiffs bank account in Bank of Baroda, it is evident that it is a current account, in which only the amount which is necessary for running day-to-day affairs is maintained by the plaintiff, because no interest is earned on the money deposited in this account. It is also prudent on the part of the plaintiff not to deposit large amount in this account since it will not bear any interest.

138. But it is evident that whenever a large payment was required to be made by the plaintiff, then funds were transferred to this account, which proves the financial capacity of the plaintiff. It is evident that on 22.10.2012 there was a balance of ₹ 39,59,167.47 in this account. On 01.11.12 an amount of ₹ 1.25 crores was transferred to this account and the balance became ₹ 1,70,59, 167.47 and thereafter, again on 5.12.2012 an amount of ₹ 25,84,729.90 was transferred to this account and the balance became ₹ 34,29,403.37, to honour the cheques issued by the plaintiff to Dharam Prakash Nangia. It is evident that from time to time, money was transferred to this account from other accounts of plaintiff ,for making payments and honouring its commitments.

139. From the balance sheet of the plaintiff, the following information was revealed:-

Financial Year ending	Total Assets of the plaintiff in Rs.	Reserves & Surplus of the plaintiff in Rs	Cash & Cash Equivalents of the plaintiff in Rs.
31/03/12	18982573.06	8707702.06	1126801.02
31/03/13	36877678.94	9131989.94	3410918.09
31/03/14	37216831.08	10135091.08	2336290.77
31/03/15	40317289.8	11825465.22	3311305.13
31/03/16	53331672.83	21502380.25	21124132.46

140. From the above balance sheet of the plaintiff, it is apparent that in the financial year 2012 □ 13, 2013 □ 14, 2014 □ 15 and 2015 □ 16 the plaintiff 's balance sheet was strong and was having assets in excess of ₹ 3.5 crores, whereas, the plaintiff was only required to pay the balance consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores to the defendants. On 31.3.2016 the plaintiff was having assets of ₹ 5.33 crores , which itself proves that the plaintiff was having sufficient financial capacity to pay the balance sale consideration to the defendants .The plaintiff has in fact deposited the amount of ₹ 2.84 crores with the trial court on 29.5.2025, which is proved from the tender receipt filed by it in this appeal. Hence, the plaintiff has nothing to pay to the defendants, as such, the financial capacity of the plaintiff cannot be doubted.

(E)Whether the plaintiff has committed any fraudulent act which disentitles him from claiming the relief of specific performance of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 in terms of the provisions of Section 16 (b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963?

141. The plaintiff claimed that since the duration mentioned in the agreement dated 22.10.2012 was expiring on 31.12.2014 hence Dharam Prakash Nangia approached Dr. Shivakant Mishra for extension of time for obtaining the freehold permission from KDA, which was agreed to and hence a notarised agreement dated 21.12.2014(paper no.130-C), was executed between the parties, the execution of which was not found proved by the trial court. Since the plaintiff failed to prove the above document, it was alleged by the defendants that the plaintiff has fraudulently fabricated the above document, which disentitles it from claiming the relief of specific performance of the agreement to sell.

142. From the perusal of the above document it is evident, that it was executed between the plaintiff and Dharam Prakash Nangia on 21.12.2014, which was a notarised agreement executed on a non-judicial stamp paper of ₹ 10. This agreement mentions that Dharam Prakash Nangia has not yet obtained the freehold permission hence he demanded some more time for obtaining that permission, which was agreed to by the plaintiff. It was agreed that after getting the property freehold and duly informing the buyer, thereafter, the sale deed would be executed within one month after paying balance consideration of ₹ 3.25 crores. It was reiterated that the liability to get the property freehold will be on the seller. In this manner, this time extension agreement was executed between Dharam Prakash Nangia and plaintiff, which was signed on behalf of the plaintiff by Dr. Shivakant Mishra.

143. It is apparent that the execution of the above agreement was denied by the defendants. The handwriting expert of the plaintiff Ravi Krishna Nigam @ R.Krishna PW-4 and handwriting expert of the defendants Ravindra Tripathi DW-3 examined the above document and gave contradictory opinion, regarding its execution by Dharam Prakash Nangia.

144. Pankaj Agarwal DW-6, the public notary, in examination-in-chief produced his original register before the Court. On seeing paper no.130-C he deposed that it has neither been signed by him nor his seal has been affixed on it. In the red ink whatever has been written on that document, has also not been written by him. He disclosed that on 22.12.2014 the name of any party mentioned in paper no. 130-C, is not entered in his register. In cross-examination by plaintiff he denied the suggestion that proper entries are not made in his register promptly.

145. It is apparent that the above document bears three round impressions, one rectangular impression of the rubber seal and signatures of the notary dated 22.12.2014, who has not been cross-examined as to how the above seals came to be affixed on the above document. He was not asked how some other person would have affixed the above seals on the document. The burden was upon the notary to prove how the above seals came into possession of an unauthorised person, so as to use them. It is apparent that the notary has not been cross-examined on this point whether he has lodged an FIR regarding the theft/loss of the above seals with the police. It is apparent that the cross-examination of DW-6 by the learned counsel of the plaintiff was not up to the mark.

146. The trial court considered the above evidence and opined that since the document was not signed by any witness, hence the execution of the above document between the plaintiff and Dharam Prakash Nangia was not proved, since it was also not found recorded in the register of the notary. The trial court has not opined that the plaintiff has fraudulently prepared the above document to claim extension of time because the trial court was of the opinion that even in the absence of the above document, the suit filed by the plaintiff was within the prescribed period of limitation of 3 years from 31.12.2014, which also could not be disputed by the learned counsel for the defendant appellants. Hence, merely because the plaintiff failed to prove the above document, it cannot be inferred that the plaintiff has fraudulently fabricated that document in order to extend the period of limitation.

147. It is apparent that the document was advantageous to only Dharam Prakash Nangia because he had to obtain freehold permission upto 31.12. 2014 and by executing the above document he was going to be benefited. No advantage has been derived by the plaintiff on the basis of that document, hence, the contention of the learned counsel of the appellant that on the basis of this forged and fabricated document, the plaintiff is not entitled to the relief of specific performance, is liable to be rejected. Accordingly, it is held that the plaintiff 's conduct does not disentitle him from getting the relief of specific performance of the agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012 and the provisions of Section 16(b) of the Specific Relief Act, 1963 are not attracted to the facts and circumstances of this case.

(F) Whether the presence of the representative of the plaintiff was mandatory for getting the sale deed executed and registered in its favour keeping in view the provisions of Section 32A of the Registration Act, 1908 ?

148. It was submitted by the learned counsel for the defendant appellants that since the plaintiff is a company, it was mandatory for its authorised representative to remain present in the concerned sub-registrar office, on the dates on which the plaintiff issued legal notice to the defendants to remain present in the sub-registrar office for getting the sale deed executed and registered in its favour. He submitted that on 3.11.2015, 5.12.2015 and 5.1.2016,the authorised representative of the plaintiff was not present in the office of the sub-registrar which shows that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour.

149. It was further submitted that in terms of Section 32 A of the Registration Act, 1908 it was mandatory for both the buyer and seller to remain present at the time of execution and registration of the document, hence the absence of the representative of the plaintiff was fatal because it proved that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour. He submitted that in these circumstances the decree of specific performance cannot be granted in favour of the plaintiff.

150. Per contra, learned Senior Counsel for the plaintiff respondent submitted that Section 32 A of the Registration Act, as applicable in the State of Uttar Pradesh, is different from the Central Act. It was submitted that under the provisions of the UP Act, it was not mandatory for the buyer to remain present at the time of execution and registration of the sale deed, which was also held by the Apex Court in Aloka Bose (supra) and Rattan Singh (supra). He further submitted that on all the relevant dates Dr. Shivakant Mishra and his representative Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari were present in the office of sub-registrar.

151. For appreciating the above controversy it is necessary to peruse Section 32A of the Registration Act, as applicable under the Central Act and the State Act.

152. Section 32A(Central Act) reads as under:-

32A. Compulsory affixing of photograph, etc. - Every person presenting any document at the proper registration office under section 32 shall affix his passport size photograph and fingerprints to the document:

Provided that where such document relates to the transfer of ownership of immovable property, the passport size photograph and fingerprints of each buyer and seller of such property mentioned in the document shall also be affixed to the document.

153. Section 32A, as prevailing in the State of Uttar Pradesh, reads as under:-

32A. Giving of true copies of documents prescribed for registration - Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act every document or any translation of documents referred to in section 19 presented for registration shall be accompanied by such number of true copies thereof, as may be prescribed by rules under section 69.

(2) The copy shall □

(a) be neat and legible, prepared on paper of such specification as may be notified by the State government from time to time;

(b) contain a declaration that the same is a true copy of the document to be registered in such manner as may be prescribed by rules under section 69;

(c)be compared and verified by such official as may be directed by the registering officer.

154. The Apex Court in the case of Asset Reconstruction Company (India) Ltd. (supra) has held that the provisions of the Registration Act are to be interpreted keeping in view the State amendments introduced in the Act from time to time.It is apparent that there is a vast difference between Section 32 A of the Registration Act as prevailing in the State of Uttar Pradesh and as prevalent in the Central Act. Under the Central Act, at the time of presentation of sale deed for registration, the presence of both the buyer and seller is mandatory for affixing their photograph and finger print on it, but in the Act prevailing in the State, it is not mandatory. However under Section 32, such document is to be presented by a person executing it or by the representative or assign of such a person or by the agent of such a person, duly authorised by power-of-attorney executed and authenticated in the manner specified. Further, under Section 23, such document (except Will) can be presented for registration within 4 months from the date of its execution. It is apparent that it is not mandatory to present the document for registration soon after its execution, because it can be presented for registration within 4 months of its execution.

155. The Apex Court in the case of Aloka Bose (supra) has held that the agreement of sale signed only by the vendor was valid and enforceable by the purchaser. Similarly, in the case of Rattan Singh (supra) it was held that signature of the vendee is not mandatory in a sale deed. It is evident that as per the provisions of Section 32A of the Registration Act, as prevailing in the State of Uttar Pradesh, the presence of vendee was not mandatory at the time of registration of sale deed.The Apex Court in the above referred cases has also held that the signature of the vendee is not mandatory on the sale deed.

156. However, it is pertinent to mention here that as per the evidence of Dr. Shivakant Mishra PW-1 and Sanjiv Kumar Tiwari PW-3, they remained present on behalf of the plaintiff company, for getting the sale deed executed and registered in favour of the plaintiff, whereas the defendants failed to remain present in the office of the concerned sub-registrar. The plaintiff has also filed the documentary evidence of the presence of his representative in the office of the sub-registrar on 5.1.2016. In view of these facts, it cannot be said that the plaintiff was not ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in his favour.

Conclusion of this Court

157. From the aforesaid analysis, it is evident that the plaintiff always remained ready and willing to get the sale deed executed in its favour by paying the balance sale consideration but it was Dharam Prakash Nangia and his heirs/defendants who defaulted in complying with the terms of the registered agreement to sell dated 22.10.2012. It is also proved that the plaintiff was always having the financial capacity to pay balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores to the defendants, who in fact has already deposited the above amount with the trial court on 29.5.2025, after passing of the decree of specific performance in its favour on 21.3.2025, hence nothing remains to be paid by the plaintiff to the defendants. It is also proved that the disputed property was not sold for inadequate consideration by Dharam Prakash Nangia.

158. It is also apparent that the last date fixed for the execution of sale deed by the defendants in favour of the plaintiff was 5.1.2016, but the defendants failed to appear on that date before the concerned sub-registrar for executing the sale deed and receiving the balance sale consideration, hence as per Article 54 of the Limitation Act 1963, 5.1.2016 will be treated as the date fixed for the due performance of the agreement, when it was refused by the defendants. In view of this, the filing of the suit for the relief of specific performance by the plaintiff on 10.1.2017 cannot be held to be belated.

159. The trial court has duly considered all the above aspects in accordance with law. There is no perversity in the impugned judgment of the trial court warranting interference from this Court in exercise of its appellate jurisdiction. Accordingly, the appeal has no merit and is liable to be dismissed with costs.

160. For the aforesaid reasons,the instant appeal is dismissed with costs, throughout. Consequently, the impugned judgment and decree of the trial court dated 21.3.2025 is affirmed.

161. The defendants are directed to execute the sale deed of the disputed property within a period of one month in favour of the plaintiff, by receiving the balance sale consideration of ₹ 2.84 crores from the trial court, failing which, the plaintiff will be at liberty to get it executed from the Court, in accordance with law.
