14. The origin of hostilities, between the deceased and the assailants leading to whatever happened on the fateful day, can best be recounted from the testimony of Bansh Bahadur Singh, a cousin of the deceased Mangla Singh. A year before the occurrence, Kali Das′s father, Gulab Das owned a goat, that would venture into Mangla Singh′s field and consume his vegetable crop. The deceased Mangla Singh had time and again asked Gulab Das to constrain the goat, but the latter would pay no heed. One day, Mangla Singh hit the intruding goat with a stick, causing a fracture to one of its limbs. The aforesaid incident was reported to the Police and until time when Bansh Bahadur Singh entered the dock to testify, that case against Mangla Singh was going on. Six months before the occurrence, the residents of the village convened a Panchayat to find an amicable solution to the case involving the goat, but no settlement could be reached. In the Panchayat, there was an exchange of sharp words between Gulab Das and Kali Das, on one hand, and Mangla Singh, on the other. It is said that eversince hostilities between parties had been engendered and until the date of occurrence, the case regarding Gulab Das's injured goat was going on in Court.

15. On the 26th of July, 1983 in the evening hours at about 6 o'clock, Bansh Bahadur Singh, PW-1, had gone over to Parashu Ram's place in order to muster labourers. He was instructing the labourers, when from the west he heard a call for rescue from Mangla Singh. The call was SOS. Upon hearing that call, Bansh Bahadur Singh rushed towards the bridge on the canal. Racing towards the bridge, he saw Kali Das wielding a gandasa and Chhotey Lal barehanded running from the western bank of the canal northwards in the direction of Village Deoria. The witness says that he saw Mangla Singh lying on the bridge over the canal. Residents of the village, to wit, Ram Kishor Singh, Tejbali Singh and Gulam Mohammad were present there. Upon reaching over to the place, where Mangla Singh had fallen, Bansh Bahadur Singh saw a wound inflicted to the victim's head by a gandasa. The wound was bleeding. The clothes that he wore were drenched in blood. These men together tied up the wound sustained by Mangla Singh using a cloth that Mangla Singh carried on him (a gamchha). Mangla Singh was unconscious at that time. Ram Kishor and Tejbali were shouting that Kali Das and Chhotey Lal had assaulted Mangla Singh. These men present there, after a little while, made Mangla Singh lie on a cot, and Bansh Bahadur Singh, Ram Kishor, Premnath and Vinod Kumar set out for Police Station Chunar, reaching Chunar Bazaar by 10 o'clock in the night. They picked up some papers from the bazaar. At that time, Mangla Singh regained slight consciousness. Bansh Bahadur Singh asked his injured cousin as to who assaulted him. He named Chhotey Lal as the one, who exhorted Kali Das, and Kali Das was named as the man, who assaulted him with a gandasa.

16. The prosecution case would not be fully stated, if the version of PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 is not mentioned, who said they saw the occurrence. According to these witnesses, Mangla Singh was struck by Kali Das employing his gandasa, first on the head, and a second blow was delivered to his thigh.

The doubtful presence of PW-1 at the scene of crime and the veracity of the FIR

17. It is submitted by Mr. Kamal Krishna, learned Senior Advocate appearing on behalf of the appellants, that the presence of PW-1 at the scene of crime is very doubtful and facts would show that he was not about the place. According to the learned Senior Advocate, it is not said in the FIR by PW-1 that he saw the incident himself. Rather, the case is that PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh disclosed the incident to him. However, this vital fact does not find mention in the FIR. It is urged that this is a serious omission, which casts doubt about the presence of PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh at the place of occurrence. It is next submitted that PW-1 had said that Mangla Singh regained consciousness near the Chunar Bazaar and made an oral dying declaration, naming Kali Das as the assailant, who acted on the exhortation of Chhotey Lal. This fact, though would have obviously been within the knowledge of Bansh Bahadur Singh, was not mentioned in the FIR. The omission of this very important fact casts a serious doubt about the genuineness of the FIR version.

18. It is next urged that Gulam Mohammad, PW-2, is not mentioned in the FIR at all. It is also pointed out by Mr. Kamal Krishna that a mention of the background of simmering hostilities between parties over the incident of the injured goat is conspicuously missing in the FIR, weakening the prosecution story. It is next urged that PW-1 has admitted in his cross-examination that when he reached the place of occurrence, Mangla Singh was lying on the road and he noticed one deep injury on his head and a slight injury on his right thigh. It is urged that this part of PW-1′s testimony in his cross-examination excludes his presence at the scene of crime. The postmortem report reveals only an abrasion, which falsifies his claim. It is further urged that the testimony of PW-1, where he has said that he had gone to Parshu Ram Pal to arrange labourers but did not mention this fact in the FIR or his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., belie his version. It is also submitted that Bansh Bahadur Singh, PW-1, has said in his cross-examination that the incident was disclosed to him by PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh, a fact also missing in the FIR. It is also admitted in his cross-examination, according to Mr. Kamal Krishna, that Gulam Mohammad did not disclose anything about the incident to the first informant, Bansh Bahadur Singh. It is submitted that these contradictions and non-disclosure to PW-1 make his presence very doubtful. The learned Senior Advocate submits that from all these facts and evidence, it can be safely inferred that PW-1 was not present at the time of incident. He submits that if the author of the FIR had not seen the incident, the FIR itself falls for grave doubt.

19. The learned A.G.A. has resisted the appellants′ case regarding the doubt about PW-1′s presence on the scene of crime and says that he reached there upon hearing call for rescue. He did not see the assault himself, but reached there so promptly that he saw the assailants′ escape.

20. So far as the FIR is concerned, the incident happened on 26.07.1983 at 6 o′clock in the evening hours at Village Mamolapur, P.S. Chunar, District Mirzapur, located at a distance of 6 miles from the police station, which works out to 9.6 kilometers. The FIR was lodged on 26.07.1983 at 10.30 p.m. Given the circumstances of the parties and the times, the deceased was carried on a cot to the police station with the aid of three other men, besides the informant, to wit, Ram Kishor, Premnath and Vinod Kumar, the party travelling through the Chunar Bazaar, where they reached at about 10 o′clock. The FIR was scribed on way, the papers for the purpose being purchased at Chunar Bazaar. This logically would have involved some interruption in the slow journey that was undertaken on foot, onerous as it was, by the weight of the injured Mangla Singh that each of the four men carrying him, shared simultaneously during the course of the journey. In the circumstances, in our opinion, the FIR has been lodged with reasonable promptness. The total time period spent between the occurrence and the lodging of the FIR is four and a half hours, most of which was consumed in carrying the deceased on foot, with the aid of a cot, to the police station. The period of time involved and the nature and circumstances of its utilization that involved physical exertion for the informant, in our opinion, effectively excludes the possibility and avenue for the first informant to cook up a story, borne on second thought. The FIR is, therefore, without doubt a prompt version of the occurrence.

21. It would be apposite in this connection to notice the legal position exposited in Baldev Singh v. State of Punjab, (1995) 6 SCC 593, where it has been held by this Supreme Court:

"10. We are of the view that there is no discrepancy between Ex. P-7, FIR and the deposition of PW 5 in Court. We should remember that Ex. P-7, FIR was given within two hours of the incident and PW 5, a lady, would have been in an agitated mind then. In Ex. P-7, PW 5 only stated that Sham Singh fired from his pistol at her husband which struck his chest. That could only be what she inferred. She did not state that her husband died as a result of the above pistol shot. It is because of the various injuries inflicted by the other accused, Balbir Singh died. And as PW 5, she stated that Balbir Singh was not hit when the accused Sham Singh fired from the pistol at Balbir Singh, but Balbir Singh fell down. Bundles of hay fell on his head and the other accused inflicted various injuries on other parts of the body. Really, there is no contradiction or variation in the deposition of PW 5 from what she stated in FIR, Ex. P-7. We are of the view that the plea of the appellants' counsel fails to reckon the proper value to be attached to the FIR, the customary or essential details to be mentioned therein and the use that can be made of it. There are innumerable decisions of this Court dealing with the above aspects of the FIR. Mention may be made of a few important decisions of this Court on the subject - Ram Kumar Pandey v. State of M.P. [(1975) 3 SCC 815 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 225 : AIR 1975 SC 1026] , Bishan Dass v. State of Punjab [(1975) 3 SCC 700 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 145 : AIR 1975 SC 573] , Pedda Narayana v. State of A.P. [(1975) 4 SCC 153 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 427 : AIR 1975 SC 1252] , Gurnam Kaur v. Bakshish Singh [1980 Supp SCC 567 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 496 : AIR 1981 SC 631] , State of Haryana v. Sher Singh [(1981) 2 SCC 300 : 1981 SCC (Cri) 421 : AIR 1981 SC 1021] , State of U.P. v. Ballabh Das [(1985) 3 SCC 703 : 1985 SCC (Cri) 452 : AIR 1985 SC 1384] , Jagtar Singh v. State of Punjab [(1988) 1 SCC 712 : 1988 SCC (Cri) 254 : AIR 1988 SC 628] and Baldev Singh v. State of Punjab [(1990) 4 SCC 692 : 1991 SCC (Cri) 61] . Stated briefly, the FIR is not a substantive piece of evidence, it is only relevant in judging the veracity of prosecution case and the value to be attached to it depends on the facts of each case. Only the essential or broad picture need be stated in the FIR and all minute details need not be mentioned therein. It is not a verbatim summary of the prosecution case. It need not contain details of the occurrence as if it were an "encyclopaedia" of the occurrence. It may not be even necessary to catalogue the overt acts therein. Non-mentioning of some facts or vague reference to some others are not fatal. We should also bear in mind that the FIR was given by PW 5, who is an illiterate lady soon after the occurrence, when she should have been very emotional and in a disturbed state of mind. We find that the evidence of PW 5 is substantially in accord with Ex. P-7, FIR and the court below was justified in placing reliance on Ex. P-7 and the evidence of PW 5. We repel the plea of the appellants' counsel to the contrary."

22. Reference may be made with profit to the decision of the Supreme Court in State of U.P. v. Krishna Master, (2010) 12 SCC 324. In Krishna Master (supra), it was observed:

"67. Law requires FIR to contain basic prosecution case and not minute details. The law developed on the subject is that even if an accused is not named in the FIR he can be held guilty if prosecution leads reliable and satisfactory evidence which proves his participation in crime. Similarly, the witnesses whose names are not mentioned in the FIR but examined during the course of trial can be relied upon for the purpose of basing conviction against the accused. Non-mentioning of motive in the FIR cannot be regarded as omission to state important and material fact. As a principle, it has been ruled by this Court that omission to give details in the FIR as to manner in which weapon was used by the accused is not a material omission amounting to contradiction. Further, this is a case wherein FIR was filed by a rustic man and, therefore, non-mentioning of motive in the FIR cannot be attached much importance.

68. In CBI v. Tapan Kumar Singh [(2003) 6 SCC 175 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 1305 : AIR 2003 SC 4140] , it has been held by this Court that mere absence of indication about the source of light in the FIR for identifying the assailants does not, in any way, affect the prosecution version. The FIR is not the last word in the prosecution case and in some cases detailed FIR could be a ground for suspicion. What is relevant to find out is whether the FIR was lodged promptly and whether it is actuated by mala fides.″

23. It is well-known that an FIR is not substantive evidence, but has a special significance attached to it, and, that is, that it is the earliest version of the occurrence available to the Court and, of course, to the Investigator, and for that reason, considered to be most accurate. The FIR in the present case, we must remark, has not been castigated by the appellants as one lodged with an unexplained delay and based on afterthought. At the same time, the appellants have criticized the FIR not as a truthful version of the occurrence for other reasons. Of these, one of the chief grounds is that the author of the FIR had himself not seen the incident. It is also said that he was nowhere around the scene of occurrence, soon afterwards as well, and did not see the appellants′ escape the scene of crime, as he testifies.

24. So far as the veracity of the FIR is concerned, of course, an FIR lodged by an eye-witness promptly may always be regarded as more reliable. But, an FIR lodged by a man, who has not seen the occurrence, is not to be suspected on that ground alone, if it otherwise carries an accurate version, not fundamentally belied by the testimony of eye-witnesses, that is later on led at the trial. There is criticism of the FIR on ground that though the information about the crime therein, furnished about the assault, is based on the testimony of eye-witnesses, PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh, the fact is not mentioned in the FIR. It is not necessary that the FIR may carry all details of the occurrence, which, on a hind sight, may be regarded by a person, sitting back in the comfort of his home, as something that ought have been mentioned. The promptness of the FIR is certainly a virtue that guarantees the earliest account of the occurrence, unvarnished by the adulterating influences of imagination and similar factors. It need not carry details of acquisition of the information.

25. Likewise, non-mention in the FIR that the deceased had briefly regained consciousness near the Chunar Bazaar and disclosed the name of the assailants, virtually an oral dying declaration, cannot be taken exception to by the appellants as a fact that derogates from the veracity of the FIR. The non-mention of this fact in no way creates doubt about the genuineness of the FIR, as the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants would want us to believe. Likewise, is the case with non-mention of PW-2 Gulam Mohammad′s name in the FIR. Two of the three eye-witnesses were named, and allowance made for the presence of others by employment of words to the effect that besides these two, who saw the assault and rushed to the deceased′s aid, there were number of other men nearby, who upon hearing the call for rescue also rushed to the deceased′s aid. To say that omission in the FIR regarding the fact of there being animosity between parties over the incident relating to a goat owned by the appellants′ father, Gulab Das, renders the FIR weak, is almost preposterous. It is the insistence on details, such as these, in the FIR and upon failure of mention of such details, the castigation of the FIR, that has led lawyers and Courts both to become ardent subscribers of the phrase that 'the FIR is not an encyclopedia of the occurrence′. It is not that these words are repeated by the prosecution ad nauseam, but the fact is that insistence by the defence on details in the FIR, stretching it to preposterous limits, leave the prosecution and the Court, both to take frequent resort to the wisdom of these words. We are of clear opinion, therefore, that the omission of these details in the FIR does not at all make it an unreliable account of the occurrence. Rather, the facts would show that the deceased reached the scene of crime soon after the occurrence, gathered details from eye-witnesses and was assured of the truth of these. He did see the subsequent conduct of the appellants in running away from the scene of crime with Kali Das holding the gandasa. The further fact that PW-1 Bansh Bahadur, with the assistance of three others, conveyed the deceased on a cot to the police station and thence to medical aid, shows that he was an early arrival at the scene of crime. There is nothing, therefore, in the FIR or the conduct of the informant, which may derogate from the veracity of the FIR, at least as the earliest account of the occurrence.

26. Specifically about the doubt raised regarding the presence of PW-1 on the spot, we have mostly dealt with the issue while commenting on the veracity of the FIR. There are certain submissions of the learned Senior Advocate that were put forward to show that PW-1 was not there on the scene of crime, when it happened. He has said that in his cross-examination, PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh has said that when he reached the place of occurrence, Mangla Singh was lying on the road and he noticed one deep injury on his head and a slight injury on his right thigh. The submission is that the postmortem report reveals that the deceased had an abrasion alone, which not only falsifies PW-1's testimony in this regard, but shows that he was never present at the spot at the time when Mangla Singh fell, in consequence of the assault. We do not agree.

27. It is true that the injury report, Ex. Ka-9, shows that there was an incised wound bone deep on the scalp (head) and an abrasion on the anterior aspect of the right thigh, but the description of the second injury, so far as PW-1 is concerned, is not at all inaccurate. He has described it in his cross-examination in the following words: 'Dusri halki chot dahini jangh par thi '. We are minded to think that so far as this witness is concerned, his description of the second injury, as one that was slight and on the right thigh, would more or less correspond to the medico-legal evidence, where in the injury report, the second injury is described as an abrasion on the anterior aspect of the right thigh. So far as the postmortem report goes, that is quite irrelevant to gauge the nature of the second injury, because the autopsy took place almost three months after the occurrence, the deceased having survived all this period of time to die in hospital on 22.10.1983. There is no reason to doubt the presence of this witness at the scene of crime, which he reached soon after the assault and as the appellants were making good their escape. He saw them leave the scene of crime.

28. PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh is not an eye-witness, but he is a witness of res gestae, that is to say, not the fact in issue, but a relevant fact so intimately connected with the fact in issue and contemporaneous in point of time as to form part of the same transaction. PW-1, when he reached the scene of crime upon hearing the call for rescue from Mangla Singh, saw him lying on the road with injuries and the two appellants escaping at a distance of 60 paces to the north, heading towards Village Deoria. Kali Das was holding a gandasa and Chhotey Lal was barehanded. Now, the fact that with the victim lying on the road, PW-1 saw the two appellants running away from the crime scene, one holding a gandasa in hand, is a fact intimately connected to the assault, the fact in issue, which makes PW-1 a witness of res gestae. In this connection, reference may be made to Veerendra v. State of M.P., (2022) 8 SCC 668, where it is remarked by the Supreme Court:

"71. The evidence of PW 12 was actually taken as res gestae under Section 6 of the Evidence Act, 1872 by the High Court. In Sukhar v. State of U.P. [Sukhar v. State of U.P., (1999) 9 SCC 507 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 419] this Court explained the said provision. It was held therein that the statement sought to be admitted, as forming part of res gestae, must have been made contemporaneously with the acts. Thus, it is evident that the essence of the doctrine of res gestae is that a fact which, though not in issue, is so connected with the fact in issue "as to form part of the same transaction" that it becomes relevant by itself. A conduct of the accused after the incident may become admissible under Section 6 of the Evidence Act, though not in issue, if it is so connected with the fact in issue."

The time and place of occurrence

29. The place of occurrence is fully described by PW-1 in his examination-in-chief. He has said that to the west of his Village Mamolapur, there is a big canal flowing from south to north. This canal is called Bhagwat Rajbaha. From the Kailhat Bazaar in the village, a pucca road connects Adalhat. This road is oriented from west to east. The road crosses the canal located to the west of the village and where it passes over the canal, there is a bridge. Some 50 paces away from the bridge, one reaches the fringes of the village abadi. According to this witness, the place of occurrence was at the bridge built over the canal to the west of the village. PW-2 Gulam Mohammad says that Mangla Singh was sitting on the southern part of the bridge towards the western side. This fact the witness has said in his examination-in-chief. PW-3 Ram Kishor has described the place of occurrence as the southern wall of the bridge on the west end, where Mangla Singh was sitting. PW-4 Tejbali Singh has described the place of occurrence in his examination-in-chief as the southern wall of the bridge over the canal on the western side, where Mangla Singh was sitting. The place 'A' in the site-plan Ex. Ka-17 corresponds to this consistent description by the three eye-witnesses, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4. There is nothing in the cross-examination of either of the three eye-witnesses, which may derogate from the consistent identity of the place of occurrence described by them. The place of occurrence is the southern wall of the bridge on the western side. All the witnesses are unanimous that the time of occurrence was 6 p.m. on 26.07.1983. Going by the consistent testimony of the eye-witnesses as well as that of PW-1, who is a witness of res gestae, arriving soon after the occurrence at the scene of crime, read together with the site-plan, we find that the date, time and place of occurrence is established by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

The Testimony of eye-witnesses, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4, and the manner of assault

30. The moot point here is, if the witnesses are consistent in essential particulars about the manner of assault, so that their testimony can be accepted as reliable and creditworthy. The test of credit for these witnesses would also involve determination of the fact if these eye-witnesses, to wit, PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4, indeed witnessed the occurrence, or are mere foists in evidence to prove the prosecution case. In assessing the credibility of the three eye-witnesses, we would not only endeavour to analyze their respective testimonies in the dock for the consistency of version with each other, but also juxtapose their ocular version with the medico-legal evidence to see if the ocular version is made, so wholesomely impossible by the medico-legal evidence that the credit of these witnesses must be held impeached.

31. We have formulated the above propositions for consideration, broadly based on the submissions that Mr. Kamal Krishna, Senior Advocate, with his inimitable tenacity made at the hearing before us. Before we embark on the task that we have delineated for ourselves on consideration of this part of the evidence, we must notice the most pertinent of submissions that Mr. Kamal Krishna advanced. The learned Senior Advocate has urged that PW-2 does not find mention in the FIR, and, therefore, his evidence in the dock is but foisted testimony, brought in later, to lend buttress to the prosecution.

32. The next submission advanced is that PW-2 Gulam Mohammad has categorically said in his testimony that Kali Das inflicted two blows to the deceased, employing his gandasa - one on the head, and the other, on his leg. But, PW-6 Dr. S.N. Singh, who examined the deceased soon after the assault and while he was alive, admitted in his cross-examination that injury No.2 was caused by a blunt object and not a gandasa. Therefore, in the submission of Mr. Kamal Krishna, ocular evidence is in conflict with medical evidence to the extent that the two cannot be reconciled. It is a case, according to the learned Senior Advocate, where ocular evidence has to be rejected as false in the face inherently inconsistent medical evidence. The third submission advanced by Mr. Kamal Krishna is that PW-2 Gulam Mohammad also did not say that the deceased made a dying declaration orally in his presence, though he was present at the time when the FIR was lodged. This contradiction between the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2 render both unreliable.

33. It is next submitted by the learned Senior Advocate that according to the site-plan, the place of occurrence is situate to the west of the village. But, PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh says in his cross-examination that he was not going to ease himself towards the north of the village. He was proceeding to the west for the purpose. It is submitted that his stand is vacillating and inconsistent. The next submission advanced on behalf of the appellants is that all the three eye-witness - PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 - claimed that they were going to ease themselves, which appears to be unnatural and absurd, making their presence at the scene of crime doubtful. The other submission is more or less like the one, earlier advanced, in regard to the testimony of PW-2.

34. It is argued that PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh, both said that two blows were delivered with the gandasa, but medical evidence contradicts this, as injury to the thigh, that was caused, is attributed to a blunt object. Dr. S.N. Singh has contradicted ocular testimony of a second blow by the gandasa to the victim's right thigh, inasmuch as he has said that the second injury or the injury on the thigh was caused by a blunt object.

35. It is next argued that PW-4 Tejbali Singh has said that he was going to ease himself, when he reached the scene of crime, but this fact has not been mentioned in his statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is then argued that about the weather, some witnesses said that there was rain in the night. PW-9, the Investigating Officer Hridai Narain, admitted that the witnesses had not told him about any rain. These contradictions, according to the learned Senior Advocate, further make PW-3 and PW-4 unreliable.

36. PW-4 Tejbali Singh, in the submission of the learned Senior Advocate, also admitted that Rajaram and his father Lalta are brothers of full blood, which shows the close kinship between the witnesses and the informant. Mr. Kamal Krishna, therefore, impeaches the testimony of these witnesses as tainted by interest.

37. It is next argued that no blood was found at the place of occurrence and though the witnesses say that there was rain, the fact is not mentioned either in the FIR or in the statements of witnesses recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Therefore, on behalf of the appellants, it is urged that the prosecution in this regard, cannot be relied at all. Almost drawing a close to this part of the submissions, Mr. Kamal Krishna says that though it is alleged that the deceased regained consciousness, no efforts were made by the Investigating Officer to get his dying declaration recorded by a Magistrate in the presence of a doctor. This failure makes the prosecution case extremely doubtful.

38. In the last lap of his submissions on the issues that we are presently concerned with, it is urged by Mr. Kamal Krishna, learned Senior Advocate, on behalf of the appellants that it is clear that the witnesses are unreliable, have not seen the incident and the prosecution case is shrouded in suspicion.

39. PW-2 Gulam Mohammad, though not named in the FIR, has ample room for his presence as a prosecution witness. The FIR names two of the three eye witnesses, to wit, PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh. At the same time, the FIR makes ample allowance for the presence of others by employment of words to the effect that besides these two, there were others, who saw the assault and rushed to the deceased's aid. Gulam Mohammad was one of them. PW-2 Gulam Mohammad was not a surprise or a trap, sprung for the first time in the dock, as the cross-examination of this witness would show. The witness was cross-examined with reference to his statement made before the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C., where it was not recorded that Kali Das had struck Mangla Singh twice with his gandasa. The witness said that he did speak about the two blows in his statement to the Investigating Officer, and if the Investigating Officer had not made it part of his statement, he could not explain the reason for the omission. All that emerges from this reference to the cross-examination of PW-2 is that during investigation, he was one of the witnesses, whose statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer.

40. In addition, it is noteworthy that the fact that the statement of Gulam Mohammad was recorded by the Investigating Officer figures in the examination-in-chief of PW-10, Sub-Inspector Ram Lakhan Tiwari.

41. We do not now have the benefit of perusing the contents of the case diary, but the cross-examination of PW-2 lends infallible assurance to the fact that this witness was there before the Investigating Officer, who took down his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is with reference to those statement that the witness was cross-examined in the dock, amongst other things. Therefore, it is utterly misplaced to think that PW-2 Gulam Mohammad was not an eye-witness merely because his name did not figure in the FIR. The other witnesses named in the FIR have alluded to his presence in their dock evidence consistently. All this taken together, is good assurance of the presence of PW-2 at the scene of crime. There is, therefore, neither doubt about the presence of this witness nor the prosecution story itself on the basis of the fact alone that PW-2's name was not mentioned in the FIR. After all, there is no rule, which requires that every eyewitness must be mentioned in the FIR, upon pain of being disbelieved at the trial about his presence at the scene of crime.

42. The other submission regarding inconsistency in the essential version of assault given by PW-2 Gulam Mohammad and the medico-legal evidence, that is to say, the testimony of PW-6 Dr. S.N. Singh, is again quite unfounded. It is urged that PW-2 categorically said that Kali Das inflicted two blows, one on the victim's head, and the other, on his right thigh, but PW-6 Dr. S.N. Singh's testimony shows that injury No.2, in his opinion, was caused by a blunt object and not a gandasa. There is no such irreconcilable variation between the ocular version that PW-2 has put forward and the medico-legal evidence, that must lead to the rejection of a much superior kind of evidence, that is to say, ocular testimony. As a rule, ocular testimony is to be preferred over the opinion evidence of a doctor, unless the medico-legal evidence discloses a state of things, which inevitably makes ocular testimony unreliable. This is not a case of the latter kind. In this regard, reference may be made to Pruthiviraj Jayantibhai Vanol v. Dinesh Dayabhai Vala, (2022) 18 SCC 683. In Pruthiviraj Jayantibhai Vanol (supra), it was held by the Supreme Court:

"17. Ocular evidence is considered the best evidence unless there are reasons to doubt it. The evidence of PW 2 and PW 10 is unimpeachable. It is only in a case where there is a gross contradiction between medical evidence and oral evidence, and the medical evidence makes the ocular testimony improbable and rules out all possibility of ocular evidence being true, the ocular evidence may be disbelieved. In the present case, we find no inconsistency between the ocular and medical evidence. The High Court grossly erred in appreciation of evidence by holding that Muddamal No. 5 was a simple iron rod without noticing the evidence that it had a sharp turn edge."

43. No doubt in his evidence (examination-in-chief), PW-2 Gulam Mohammad has described the final moments of assault in the manner that upon hearing Chhotey Lal's exhortation, as soon as Mangla Singh attempted to get up, Kali Das attacked him with his gandasa, the blow landing on his head. After receiving the injury, Mangla Singh tumbled down on to the road from the bridge, where he was sitting. Upon this fall, Kali Das delivered a second blow, which struck Mangla Singh in the thigh. The injury report, Ex. Ka-9, notes the first injury to be an incised wound on the scalp (head) and, the second injury, an abrasion on the anterior aspect of the right thigh. Regarding this injury, PW-6 Dr. S.N. Singh, who had examined Mangla Singh, when he was brought in to the Government Hospital, Mirzapur on 27.07.1983, after proving the injury report, in his examination-in-chief said that injury No.2 could be caused by a slight touch of the nose of a gandasa. In his cross-examination, he has said that injury No.2 was not a linear abrasion. The said injury could be caused by the friction from a blunt object. The injury from the nose of a gandasa would leave behind a line. There is no doubt that the ocular testimony of PW-2 clearly ascribes to the appellant Kali Das two gandasa blows, one that landed on the head and caused the fatal injury, and the other, on the right thigh.

44. Now, the possibility that the second injury, though the result of a gandasa blow, merely resulted in an abrasion, cannot be said to belie the ocular testimony. We are of opinion that it would be apposite to note what each of the three eye-witnesses said about the result of the second injury.

PW-2 Gulam Mohammad, whose testimony has been firstly criticized on this score, spoke about the result of the injuries in the following words in his examination-in-chief:

"चोट लगने से मंगला सिंह बेहोश हो गये। उनकी सर की चोट से खून बह रहा था जो जमीन पर गिरा। कपड़े पर खून नही लगा। मंगला सिंह लुंगी पहने थे व गमछा लिये थे।"

45. PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh, who is not an eye-witness, but a witness of res gestae, who arrived soon after the occurrence and decidedly had occasion to see the injuries sustained by Mangla Singh, spoke of these injuries in his cross-examination thus:

"मंगला सिंह के शरीर पर दो चोटे देखी एक गहरी चोट सर पर थी व दूसरी हल्की चोट दाहिनी जाँघ पर थी इसके अलावा और कोई चोट नही थी।"

(emphasis by Court)

46. PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh, who is again an eye-witness and saw both the assault and the injuries, spoke of the second injury as follows in his cross-examination:

"दूसरा गड़ासा मंगला सिंह की दाहिनी जाँघ पर लगा था। जाँघ की चोट से मंगला सिंह की पहनी हुई लुंगी नही कटी थी।"

47. From a close scrutiny of the testimony of these witnesses, while it is apparent that the second blow was received by Mangla Singh to his right thigh, but for myriad factors, such as the absorbing effect of the folds of the dhoti that he wore, he does not seem to have received an incised wound to his right thigh, the force and the cutting action of the gandasa being lost on account of the angle of strike, the position of his thigh, the folds of the dhoti, and whatever other factors worked. All that he received, was an abrasion, which could be from the nose of the gandasa, as the doctor has opined, or may be the blunt end, which landed on his thigh, entangled in the folds of the dhoti that he wore.

48. There is also an argument advanced by the learned Senior Advocate to the effect that PW-3 and PW-4 have both said in their testimonies that two blows with the gandasa were delivered to the deceased, but medical evidence contradicts this ocular evidence, as the injury on the thigh was caused by a blunt object. Much reliance has been placed on the testimony of Dr. S.N. Singh, who has, according to the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants, clearly opined that the injury on the thigh was produced by a blunt object. He submits that a gandasa is not a blunt object. We must remark here that this criticism of the testimony of PW-3 and PW-4 is an extension of the criticism of PW-2's evidence on the same score, with which we have dealt in substantial measure already. It would be apposite, therefore, to refer to the relevant part of the testimonies of PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4, the three eye-witnesses in wholesome detail regarding the manner of assault. PW-2 Gulam Mohammad has said in his examination-in-chief:

".. पुल पर मंगला सिंह बैठे थे मंगला सिंह पुल पर दक्षिणी हिस्से पश्चिम तरफ बैठे थे। छोटे लाल व कालीदास मुल्जिमान हाजिर अदालत मंगला सिंह के पास पहुँच रहे थे। कालीदास के हाथ में गड़ासा था व छोटे लाल खाली हाथ थे छोटे लाल ने ललकारा कि मंगला मौके से मिल गया है इसे जान से मार दो। छोटे लाल की ललकार सुनकर मंगला सिंह ज्योंही उठना चाहे कि कालीदास ने उनके ऊपर गड़ासा से वार किया गड़ासा मंगला सिंह के सर पर लगा। गड़ासा की चोट खाकर मंगला सिंह पुल से सटकर सड़क पर गिर गये। गिरने पर कालीदास ने दूसरा वार किया जो मंगला सिंह की जाँघ पर लगा। मारकर मुल्जिमान नहर की पश्चिमी पटरी से उत्तर तरफ देवरिया गांव की ओर भाग गये।"

49. PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh in his testimony has described the assault in the following words:

"..... कालीदास गड़ासा लिये थे व छोटे लला खाली हाथ नहर के पुलपर, दक्षिणी दीवाल पर पश्चिमी किनारे की तरफ मेरे गांव के मंगला सिंह बैठे थे। पुल पर पहुँच कर मंगला को देख कर छोटे लाल ने ललकारा कि "मौके से मिला है जान से मार डालो" छोटे लाल की ललकार पर मंगला सिंह खड़े होकर भागना चाहे कि इतने में कालीदास ने मंगला की गड़ासा से मारा जो उनके सर पर लगा। उस समय हम लोग मंगला सिंह से 15-16 कदम पूरब तरफ सड़क पर थे। गड़ासा की चोट लगने से मंगला सिंह सड़क पर पुल पर गिर गये। उनके गिरने पर काली दास ने उनपर गड़ासे का दूसरा बार दिया जो उनकी (मंगला सिंह की) जाँघ पर लगा। मार कर कालीदास व छोटे लाल उत्तर की तरफ भाग गये।"

50. PW-4 Tejbali Singh has described the assault in his dock evidence in the following words:

"..... कालीदास गड़ासा लिये थे व छोटे लाल खाली हाथ थे। उस समय नहर के पुल पर की दक्षिणी दीवाल पर पश्चिमी किनारे पर मंगला सिंह बैठे थे। पुल पर पहुँच कर छोटे लाल ने मंगला सिंह के सामने ललकारा कि मारो साले को अच्छा मौका मिला है। ललकारने पर मंगला सिंह खड़ा होना चाहे तब तक कालीदास ने उन्हे गड़ासा से मारा जो उनके सर पर लगा। हम लोग उस समय मंगला सिंह से 15-16 कदम पूरब तरफ सड़क पर थे। चोट लगने से मंगला सिंह पुल के पास ही सड़क पर गिर पड़े गिरने पर हम लोग चिलाये। कालीदास ने मंगला सिंह के गिरने पर दूसरा गड़ासा मारा जो उन की दाहिनी जाँघ पर लगा। घटना को मेरे अलावा राम किशोर गुलाम मोहम्मद ने देखा बाद में वंश बहादुर भी आ गये मुल्जिमान नहर पकड़ कर देबरिया गांव की तरफ भाग गये।"

51. There is a remarkable consistency in the manner of assault in all its detail between all the three witnesses, which is hard to forsake, on the basis of medical evidence, that could be the result of any kind of failure of physical force that kept a classical injury from a gandasa assault to Mangla Singh's thigh from being caused. In the face of a sterling ocular testimony of the three witnesses, the discrepancy emanating from the nature of the second injury loses significance to the extent as to raise a doubt about the veracity of the prosecution, or the presence of the witnesses at the scene of crime.

52. All the three witnesses are unanimous about the manner in which the appellant Kali Das struck Mangla Singh with two blows from his gandasa, one on his head, and the other on his right thigh. The first blow produced the fatal injury and there is no cavil about it. The ocular and the medical evidence, as regards the first injury, are ad idem. About the second injury, apart from what we have said of the possibilities that led to the slighter injury being caused, what must not be lost sight of is that a second injury was there and it was sited on the right thigh; albeit an abrasion. Therefore, the ocular testimony about the manner and the site where the weapon landed, is believable. It cannot be discarded as something so inconsistent with medical evidence that it is impossible to believe the ocular version.

53. The primacy accorded to a consistent ocular version that inspires confidence over medical evidence, that is, after all opinion evidence, is well illustrated by the Supreme Court in State of M.P. v. Dharkole, (2004) 13 SCC 308. In Dharkole (supra), it was remarked:

"8. Coming to the plea that the medical evidence is at variance with ocular evidence, it has to be noted that it would be erroneous to accord undue primacy to the hypothetical answers of medical witnesses to exclude the eyewitnesses' account which had to be tested independently and not treated as the "variable" keeping the medical evidence as the "constant".

9. It is trite that where the eyewitnesses' account is found credible and trustworthy, medical opinion pointing to alternative possibilities is not accepted as conclusive. Witnesses, as Bentham said, are the eyes and ears of justice. Hence the importance and primacy of the quality of the trial process. Eyewitnesses' account would require a careful independent assessment and evaluation for their credibility which should not be adversely prejudged making any other evidence, including medical evidence, as the sole touchstone for the test of such credibility. The evidence must be tested for its inherent consistency and the inherent probability of the story; consistency with the account of other witnesses held to be creditworthy; consistency with the undisputed facts; the "credit" of the witnesses; their performance in the witness box; their power of observation, etc. Then the probative value of such evidence becomes eligible to be put into the scales for a cumulative evaluation."

54. The next submission that endeavours to advance the appellants' case regarding inconsistencies between the three eye-witnesses is that PW-2 has not testified to the fact that the deceased made an oral dying declaration in his presence, though he says that he was present at the time when the FIR was lodged. This contradiction between PW-1 and PW-2 renders the testimony of both witnesses unreliable. We must note that PW-1 has described how Mangla Singh spoke to him regaining consciousness for a little while enroute to the Chunar police station from the scene of crime. He had regained his consciousness while the party reached the Chunar Bazaar at about 10.00 p.m. The manner, in which Mangla Singh was conveyed to P.S. Chunar, is described in the examination-in-chief by PW-1 thus:

"कुछ देर बाद मंगला सिंह को चारपाई पर लिटाकर मै, राम किशोर, प्रेम नाथ व विनोद कुमार चुनार थाने के लिये पैदल चले हम लोग चुनार बाजार रात के 10 बजे पहुँचे चुनार बाजार में रूककर कागज लिये उस समय मंगला सिंह को कुछ होश आ गया था मैने उनसे पूछा कि किसने मारा तो उन्होने बताया कि छोटे लाल के ललकारने पर कालीदास ने गड़ासा से मार दिया चुनार बाजार में ही मैने रिपोर्ट तैयार की जो मेरे लेख व हस्ताक्षर में है Marked Ex. क-1 रिपोर्ट व मंगला सिंह को लेकर चुनार थाने आया वही रिपोर्ट दीवान जी को दिया।"

55. In his cross-examination, it is stated by PW-1 about conversation with Mangla Singh, when he regained consciousness at the Chunar Bazaar:

"घटना के बाद मुझसे मंगला सिंह से पहली बार बातचीत चुनार बाजार में हुई थी बाजार में मंगला सिंह से बातचीत 10 बजे रात हुई बातचीत की जगह थाने के पूरब एक फर्लांग दूर हुई थी। सड़क पर चारपाई उतार कर बातचीत की। बातचीत की जगह दूकान के सामने चौराहे पर हुई।"

56. As would appear from the testimony of PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh, Mangla Singh was placed on a cot to be conveyed to P.S. Chunar and the cot was carried by Ram Kishor Singh, Premnath, Vinod Kumar and PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh himself. When the FIR was registered at P.S. Chunar, the G.D. Entry, relating to the FIR, bearing No. 25, Ex. Ka-3, shows that four men were present at the station, to wit, Bansh Bahadur Singh, Premnath, Vinod Kumar and Ram Kishor. These are the four men, who had carried Mangla Singh on the cot to the police station. Therefore, there is not much force in the contention advanced on behalf of the appellants that PW-2, though present at the time of registration of the FIR, did not mention the fact of Mangla Singh making an oral dying declaration. Even otherwise, PW-2 Gulam Mohammad has spoken about all relevant details relating to the occurrence. He was not a relative or friend of Mangla Singh, who would necessarily accompany him after the event, when he was taken to the police station or the hospital. The submission advanced on behalf of the appellants, therefore, cannot be accepted.

57. Much ado has been made on behalf of the appellants of the fact that PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 claimed to have gone to the scene of crime to ease themselves together - all at one time, which appears unnatural and absurd, making their presence doubtful. The scene of crime was a bridge on the canal, where Mangla Singh himself had gone to answer the call of nature. Apparently, it is a part of the village, which is used for the purpose. Therefore, if PW-2, PW-3 and PW-4 felt the need to answer the call of nature, one at the same time, there is nothing so illogical about it that it may be regarded as absurd or unnatural. In the privacy of one's home at the same point of time, scores of persons could be using their privies. Such matters are not recorded anywhere. It is only for reason that the fact has become relevant in connection with a gruesome crime that this rather private affair had to figure on public records. There is, thus, no substance in this contention advanced on behalf of the appellants as well.

58. Dovetailed to this submission is an allied argument advanced on behalf of the appellants that the fact that PW-4 Tejbali Singh went to the scene of crime to answer the call of nature, is a fact not mentioned in his statement recorded by the I.O. under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The witness, upon being confronted with this submission, said that he had told the fact to the Investigating Officer, but if it is not there in his statement, he could not say the reason why it was so. This matter is of little consequence because broadly understood the testimony of PW-4 is consistent with the other two eye-witnesses. The omission on the part of the I.O. in this regard cannot be held against the prosecution, so as to bring it under a cloud of doubt on this score alone.

59. The credit of PW-3 and PW-4 about the fact that there was rainfall in the night, is sought to be shaken by the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants, who has urged that PW-9 Hridai Narain, the Investigating Officer, has acknowledged the fact that these witnesses did not tell him about any rainfall during the night. These are minor lapses, either on the part of the witnesses or the Investigating Officer taking down the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C., which would not go a long way to shake an otherwise sound prosecution case.

60. It is next urged that two of the witnesses, Bansh Bahadur Singh and Tejbali Singh are sons of two brothers of full blood, that is to say, Lalta and Rajaram, respectively. The victim was a cousin of Bansh Bahadur Singh, and a fortiori of PW-4 Tejbali Singh. It is argued that the victim and two of the witnesses being related by blood, they are interested witnesses and their evidence should be approached with caution. For one, the testimony of PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh is broadly consistent and firm regarding material facts and corroborated by circumstances as well. There is no inherent flaw to doubt its veracity.

61. PW-3 has testified consistent with the other two eye-witnesses. He has clarified in ample measure that he is not related to either PW-1 or PW-4. PW-2 is certainly not related to either the deceased or any of the witnesses. If in such circumstances, the testimony of the eye-witnesses and the witness of res gestae is consistent, there is no reason to disbelieve them only on the ground that there is some kinship of the deceased with two of the witnesses. The above facts, which turn on the evidence here apart, there is no principle that the testimony of a witness related by blood is to be viewed with suspicion, much less rejected for the said reason alone. Reference in this connection may be made to Bhargavan and others v. State of Kerala, (2004) 12 SCC 414. In Bhargavan (supra), it was held by the Supreme Court:

"7. We shall first deal with the contention regarding interestedness of the witnesses for furthering prosecution version. Relationship is not a factor to affect credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible.

8. In Dalip Singh v. State of Punjab [(1953) 2 SCC 36 : AIR 1953 SC 364 : 1953 Cri LJ 1465] it has been laid down as under : (AIR p. 366, para 26)

"26. A witness is normally to be considered independent unless he or she springs from sources which are likely to be tainted and that usually means unless the witness has cause, such as enmity against the accused, to wish to implicate him falsely. Ordinarily a close relation would be the last to screen the real culprit and falsely implicate an innocent person. It is true, when feelings run high and there is personal cause for enmity, that there is a tendency to drag in an innocent person against whom a witness has a grudge along with the guilty, but foundation must be laid for such a criticism and the mere fact of relationship far from being a foundation is often a sure guarantee of truth. However, we are not attempting any sweeping generalization. Each case must be judged on its own facts. Our observations are only made to combat what is so often put forward in cases before us as a general rule of prudence. There is no such general rule. Each case must be limited to and be governed by its own facts."

9. The above decision has since been followed in Guli Chand v. State of Rajasthan [(1974) 3 SCC 698: 1974 SCC (Cri) 222] in which Vadivelu Thevar v. State of Madras [AIR 1957 SC 614: 1957 Cri LJ 1000] was also relied upon.

10. We may also observe that the ground that the witness being a close relative and consequently being a partisan witness, should not be relied upon, has no substance. This theory was repelled by this Court as early as in Dalip Singh case [(1953) 2 SCC 36 : AIR 1953 SC 364 : 1953 Cri LJ 1465] in which surprise was expressed over the impression which prevailed in the minds of the members of the Bar that relatives were not independent witnesses. Speaking through Vivian Bose, J. it was observed : (AIR p. 366, para 25)

"25. We are unable to agree with the learned Judges of the High Court that the testimony of the two eyewitnesses requires corroboration. If the foundation for such an observation is based on the fact that the witnesses are women and that the fate of seven men hangs on their testimony, we know of no such rule. If it is grounded on the reason that they are closely related to the deceased we are unable to concur. This is a fallacy common to many criminal cases and one which another Bench of this Court endeavoured to dispel in – 'Rameshwar v. State of Rajasthan [1951 SCC 1213 : AIR 1952 SC 54 : 1952 Cri LJ 547] ' (AIR at p. 59). We find, however, that it unfortunately still persists, if not in the judgments of the courts, at any rate in the arguments of counsel."

11. Again in Masalti v. State of U.P. [AIR 1965 SC 202 : (1965) 1 Cri LJ 226] this Court observed : (AIR pp. 209-10, para 14)

"But it would, we think, be unreasonable to contend that evidence given by witnesses should be discarded only on the ground that it is evidence of partisan or interested witnesses. - The mechanical rejection of such evidence on the sole ground that it is partisan would invariably lead to failure of justice. No hard-and-fast rule can be laid down as to how much evidence should be appreciated. Judicial approach has to be cautious in dealing with such evidence; but the plea that such evidence should be rejected because it is partisan cannot be accepted as correct.""

62. For all these reasons we are unable to accept the contention of the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants that there is any taint about the testimony of Bansh Bahadur Singh (PW-1) and Tejbali Singh (PW-4).

63. Another point, that was urged by the learned Senior Advocate on behalf of the appellants, is that no blood was found at the place of occurrence, and though the witnesses stated that there was rain, this fact is not mentioned either in the FIR or in the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It is, therefore, submitted that the prosecution story cannot be relied upon.

64. It must be remembered that the Investigating Officer of the case, Ram Lakhan Tiwar, PW-10, was locally posted at Mirzapur and was about the place when the incident happened. On 27.07.1983, the investigation was handed over to him and on the same day, he proceeded to the scene of crime, situate in Village Mamolapur. After recording the statements of eye-witnesses, Tejbali Singh, Gulam Mohammad, Ram Kishor Singh and the informant Bansh Bahadur Singh, PW-10 went to the place of occurrence and inspected it at the pointing of the informant and the witnesses. He drew up a site-plan promptly, that is to say, within a day (Ex. Ka-17). In his examination-in-chief, he has testified:

"घटना स्थल पक्की सड़क पर पुल पर था घटना की रात बारिश होने से घटना स्थल पर खून नही मिला आस पास के लोगो से पूछतांछ की अभियुक्तो की तलाश किया पर वे गांव में नहीं थे।"

65. Therefore, the fact, that the blood was washed away as a result of rains in the night, was something within the cognizance of PW-10, the Investigating Officer himself. To the above extent, he was a witness of fact. There is no reason to disbelieve his assertion notwithstanding the fact that the witnesses of the occurrence might not have told the Investigating Officer that it had rained during the night. It is for this reason that the learned Trial Judge has accepted this fact on the Investigating Officer's credit that the blood was washed off on account of rainfall during the night. There is no reason to take a different view.

66. Quite apart, experience dictates that, however, inept an Investigating Officer of the Police might be, he learns his duty of mechanically collecting bloodstained samples of earth, stone or whatever the substance and unstained samples from the surroundings. If it had not rained during the night and the place of occurrence had not been a pucca road, the Investigating Officer would have gone after the blood or noted the fact in his case diary that at the place of occurrence, no blood was found. There is, thus, no substance in the contention of the appellants that the witnesses not telling the I.O. in the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C. about the rainfall, their testimony on the point in the dock is rendered valueless.

67. One of the submissions, that has been advanced with much force by the learned Senior Advocate appearing for the appellants, is that the deceased regained consciousness in the Varanasi Hospital, but no efforts were made by the Investigating Officer to record his dying declaration, either before a Magistrate or a doctor. It is urged that this failure makes the prosecution case extremely doubtful. The submission is that if best evidence in the form of a dying declaration was forthcoming, there was no reason not to secure that evidence and lead it. It is submitted that the Investigating Officer did not record the dying declaration of Mangla Singh in the proper way, that is to say, after getting a certificate of his being fully conscious and in a fit state of mind to make statement and then getting it recorded by a Magistrate or a doctor, or may be himself if no one else was there. He also had to take a certificate about his mental fitness at the end of the dying declaration.

68. What we find from the record is that the Investigating Officer (PW-10) did indeed record Mangla Singh′ s dying declaration on 31.07.1983, when he went to the B.H.U. Hospital, Varanasi. The circumstances in which he recorded Mangla Singh′s dying declaration are testified to in his examination-in-chief, where he has said:

"मजरूब मंगला सिंह का बयान लेने हेतु 30.7.83 को सदर अस्पताल मिर्जापुर आया पर वहाँ पता लगा कि उसे बी.एच.यू. अस्पताल वाराणसी भेज दिया गया है 31.7.83 को बी.एच.यू. अस्पताल गया। मजरूब Special वार्ड के कमरा नं. 26 मे भर्ती था। मंगला सिंह के पास गया वह बहुत धीरे बोल रहा था। मेरे प्रश्नो को समझ रहा था व उसका उत्तर देने की स्थिति में थे। मंगला सिंह ने बहुत धीरे धीरे बताया कि "26 तारीख को शाम 6 बजे नहर की पुलिया पर मुझे छोटे लाल नट के ललकारने पर उसके भाई कालीदास ने मुझे गड़ासे से मारा है" मंगला सिंह का उक्त बयान केस डायरी में अंकित किया जो मेरे लेख में है व इस पर मेरे हस्ताक्षर है जिसे दाखिल कर रहा हूँ Marked Ex- क-18."

69. The dying declaration was no doubt recorded in the case diary, instead of drawing up a separate formal document regarding the dying declaration. The Investigating Officer (PW-10) was cross-examined on behalf of both the appellants by Mr. Gulab Singh, Advocate, where this witness has said:

"दिनांक 31.7.83 को बी.एच.यू. अस्पताल मैं करीब 8-9 बजे सुबह पहुँचा था। मजरूब का बयान मैने करीब 12-1 बजे लिखा था। मंगला सिंह के बयान लिखे जाने का समय केस डायरी में अंकित नही किया था। मंगला सिंह का बयान अलग कागज पर नही लिखा बयान लेते समय मुझे यह ख्याल नही था। कि मंगला सिंह मर जायेगा। मंगला सिंह का बयान लेते समय उसके पास और कोई नही था। मंगला सिंह का बयान लेते समय उसका Bed Head Ticket नही देखा। 31.7.83 के पहले मंगला सिंह का आपरेशन हो चुका था। उसके सिर की चोट का आपरेशन हो चुका था। डाक्टरो से मंगला सिंह की हालात के बारे में पूछताछ नही किया। मंगला सिंह ने जो बयान दिया उसके बाद चुप हो गया व आँखे बन्द कर लिया व आगे नही बोला घटना स्थल वाली कौन सी पुलिया थी यह मंगला सिंह से नही पूछा।

31.7.83 का पर्चा C.O. आफिस में 4.8.83 को पहुंची थी।

यह कहना गलत है कि 31.7.83 को न तो मै बी.एच.यू. अस्पताल गया न मंगला सिंह का बयान लिया व फर्जी पर्चा तैयार किया।"

70. So far as the submission of the learned Senior Advocate for the appellants noticed above is concerned, we must remark that it is true that for a fact, there is no certification obtained from any doctor that Mangla Singh was in a fit state of mind to make a statement regarding the circumstances attending the assault etc., nor was the statement caused to be formally recorded by a Magistrate. The moot question, therefore, is whether the dying declaration made by Mangla Singh to the Investigating Officer on 31.07.1983 and recorded by him in his C.D., which he has proved and is on record marked as Ex. Ka-18, can be read as a dying declaration. The law did require at some point of time that the mental fitness of the victim to make a statement about the circumstances, in which he received the fatal injuries, ought be certified before the dying declaration and afterwards as well. But, that position of the law has now completely changed.

71. This matter engaged the attention of a Constitution Bench of the Supreme Court in Laxman v. State of Maharashtra, (2002) 6 SCC 710. In Laxman (supra), the Court noticed the conflicting opinions in Paparambaka Rosamma v. State of A.P., (1999) 7 SCC 695 and Koli Chunilal Savji v. State of Gujarat, (1999) 9 SCC 562 and held:

"3. ..... The situation in which a man is on the deathbed is so solemn and serene, is the reason in law to accept the veracity of his statement. It is for this reason the requirements of oath and cross-examination are dispensed with. Since the accused has no power of cross-examination, the courts insist that the dying declaration should be of such a nature as to inspire full confidence of the court in its truthfulness and correctness. The court, however, has always to be on guard to see that the statement of the deceased was not as a result of either tutoring or prompting or a product of imagination. The court also must further decide that the deceased was in a fit state of mind and had the opportunity to observe and identify the assailant. Normally, therefore, the court in order to satisfy whether the deceased was in a fit mental condition to make the dying declaration looks up to the medical opinion. But where the eyewitnesses state that the deceased was in a fit and conscious state to make the declaration, the medical opinion will not prevail, nor can it be said that since there is no certification of the doctor as to the fitness of the mind of the declarant, the dying declaration is not acceptable. A dying declaration can be oral or in writing and any adequate method of communication whether by words or by signs or otherwise will suffice provided the indication is positive and definite. In most cases, however, such statements are made orally before death ensues and is reduced to writing by someone like a Magistrate or a doctor or a police officer. When it is recorded, no oath is necessary nor is the presence of a Magistrate absolutely necessary, although to assure authenticity it is usual to call a Magistrate, if available for recording the statement of a man about to die. There is no requirement of law that a dying declaration must necessarily be made to a Magistrate and when such statement is recorded by a Magistrate there is no specified statutory form for such recording. Consequently, what evidential value or weight has to be attached to such statement necessarily depends on the facts and circumstances of each particular case. What is essentially required is that the person who records a dying declaration must be satisfied that the deceased was in a fit state of mind. Where it is proved by the testimony of the Magistrate that the declarant was fit to make the statement even without examination by the doctor the declaration can be acted upon provided the court ultimately holds the same to be voluntary and truthful. A certification by the doctor is essentially a rule of caution and therefore the voluntary and truthful nature of the declaration can be established otherwise."

72. The Trial Court has refused to act on the dying declaration recorded by the Investigating Officer, which he has called the second dying declaration. This is so because there is a case that an earlier dying declaration was orally made before PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh when being conveyed from the place of occurrence to P.S. Chunar, Mangla Singh, he momentarily regained consciousness at the Chunar Bazaar. The Trial Judge has recorded his conclusions to reject the dying declaration for reasons that figure in the following remarks:

"The second dying declaration relied on by the prosecution was recorded by the I.O. Sri Ram Lakhan Tiwari P.W.10 at the hospital on 31.7.83. The medical evidence on record shows that the deceased was not in a position to make any declaration in the hospital after his operation on 29.7.83. Dr. Tripathi P.W.8 has opined that after tracheaostomy the patient (deceased) was not in a position to speak. Injury no.7 found by Dr. Tripathi was a surgical wound made for artificial respiration. It is true that unfortunately it could not be ascertained from Dr. Mohanty P.W.ll as to when tracheaostomy was done to the deceased but considering the nature of injury and the fact that the wounds of the deceased was operated on 29.7.83 it can be inferred that tracheaostomy was done at the time of operation. If that was the position the deceased could not speak on 31.7.83. In the instant case, the dying declaration was recorded by the I.O. in the hospital were admittedly several Doctors were available to certify about the mental state of deceased. But no doctor was called by the I.O. for this purpose and as such there is no evidence to show that the deceased was in a fit state of mind to make dying declaration allegedly recorded by the 1.O. In this way, the medical evidence also show that the deceased was not in a position to make any dying declaration in the hospital. Therefore, the above two dying declarations relied on by the prosecution are not worth reliable.″

73. It is true that by the law that has now come to be settled, there is absolutely no requirement for a medical opinion to be secured regarding the victim being conscious or in a fit state of mind to make the dying declaration. But, the circumstances here are different. The deceased had undergone a brain surgery and there was tracheostomy done to facilitate breathing. The autopsy doctor (PW-8), when questioned about the consequences of tracheostomy, has said that a patient, who has undergone it, cannot speak. The brain surgery was done on 29.07.1983 and the learned Trial Judge has concluded on the circumstances that tracheostomy would have been done contemporaneously. Therefore, the learned Judge has drawn the inference that on 31.07.1983, when the Investigating Officer visited him, he would not have been in a position to speak. There is this oddity that the statement was recorded in the hospital, where the patient had undergone surgery. He was just not an injured patient, away from medical surroundings. In these circumstances, if the Trial Judge has held that a dying declaration could have been recorded after ascertaining the deceased Mangla Singh′s fitness to make a statement at that time by the I.O. from a doctor, who would be at hand, the dying declaration would be a document inspiring confidence, there is nothing exceptionable about it. On the contrary, Mangla Singh having undergone a brain surgery two days before the dying declaration was recorded by the I.O., which the Trial Judge has refused to accept, we are also not minded to differ from the conclusions of the Trial Judge on this score. The absence of a dying declaration, however, if there is cogent evidence to prove the prosecution case, particularly a robust ocular version, would not affect the prosecution.

Omissions in the FIR and previous statements, if contradictions that would vitiate the testimony of relevant eye-witnesses

74. It is next submitted by the learned Senior Advocate on behalf of the appellants that vital omissions in the FIR, and in particular, the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., already spoken of, which will be again pointed out for clarity's sake, are material and relevant, and would, therefore, amount to contradictions in view of the explanation to Section 162(1) Cr.P.C. Such omissions have the effect of discrediting the testimony of particular witnesses and to that extent the prosecution itself. Reliance in this connection has been placed by the learned Senior Advocate on the decision of the Supreme Court in Vinobhai v. State of Kerala, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 178, where material omissions in the testimony of witnesses with reference to their previous statements have been regarded as contradictions, leading to the witnesses in that case being disbelieved by the Supreme Court.

75. Now, the omissions, which have been highlighted by the learned Senior Advocate, begin with the FIR. The foremost omission pointed out in the FIR is that PW-1 Bansh Bahadur Singh has not said in the FIR that he witnessed the incident. The submission is stated to be rejected. It is not the case of the prosecution that PW-1 witnessed the occurrence or saw what is the fact in issue, that is the assault on the deceased. PW-1 is a witness of res gestae, that is to say, a relevant fact, relevant under Section 6 of the Indian Evidence Act, as he reached the scene of crime upon hearing the deceased's call for rescue, saw the deceased fallen on to the ground after suffering the assault and the appellants escaping from the scene of crime. He is, thus, a witness of important relevant facts, including that soon after the occurrence he saw the appellants' escape from the scene of crime. Therefore, to say that it is an omission, which amounts to a contradiction as it is not said in the FIR that PW-1 witnessed the incident, is to attribute something to the prosecution, which is not their case at all. The other omission pointed out is that PW-2's name does not find mention in the FIR. It is not every omission, which is material and has the effect of discrediting the prosecution or a prosecution witness. There were a number of eye-witnesses, two of whom were named, leaving PW-2 in the omnibus description that others also witnessed the occurrence. As soon as the investigation started, PW-2's statement was recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. as an eye-witness. The omission is, therefore, not at all material.

76. The non-mention of the oral dying declaration in the FIR as an omission that amounts to a contradiction is also besides the point. There is a salutary principle, forgotten all through this part of the submission and that is that an FIR is not an encyclopedia of the occurrence. It reports essential facts. Unless the omission of a certain fact in the FIR is such as to throw a doubt about the prosecution case going to the root of the matter, omission of details, even important details, cannot be regarded to vitiate the prosecution case, if those facts or details figure in the investigation and are established at the trial.

77. The other omission, that is harped upon, is that it is not mentioned in the FIR as to who told the informant about the incident. The objection is entirely misplaced and immaterial. The informant reached the place of occurrence soon after the assault as the assailants were escaping. The mere fact that in the FIR, it is not mentioned who told the informant about the identity of the assailants, is not such a material fact, the absence of which would bring the FIR version under a cloud of doubt or amount to a contradiction in the prosecution case.

78. The silence in the FIR regarding motive is also immaterial. It is a well settled principle of the law that motive in a case of direct evidence has but slight relevance. An eye-witness account, which is dependable, does not require the motive to be proved. If a motive is established, it would support the prosecution, but its non-establishment would not derogate from the prosecution case, if the prosecution otherwise establish their case on the basis of evidence aliunde.

79. There are certain other omissions pointed out in the statements under Section 161 Cr.P.C., that have already been mentioned earlier. But, for the sake of deciding the point in hand raised on behalf of the appellants, reference may be made to the objection regarding PW-4, where it is said that it has figured in his testimony that he was going to ease himself, but this fact is not mentioned in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. This again is said to be an omission, which amounts to a contradiction, and, therefore, one that vitiates the testimony of this witness and dents the prosecution.

80. Taken this way, there are three omissions in the statement of PW-4 given to the Investigating Officer, which figure in his testimony, but not in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. It includes the one, which the learned Senior Advocate has pointed out, that is to say, the one relating to the fact that he was going to ease himself, when he landed at the place of occurrence on the fateful day and time. It would be apposite to reproduce the relevant part of PW-4′s cross-examination, where these omissions are brought to the witness′s notice. The relevant part of the cross-examination of PW-4 reads:

"मैने दारोगा जी को बताया था कि "नित्य क्रिया के लिये गांव के पश्चिम जा रहा था" मेरे बयान में यह बात न होने की कोई वजह नहीं बता सकता।

81. Likewise, there is a statement attributed to this witness (PW-4) made before the Investigating Officer that the deceased Mangla Singh was sitting on the canal, located in the north of the village, when he was assaulted, contrary to his stand in the dock evidence that the place of assault was on the main canal bridge located to the west of the village. The aforesaid contradiction was, therefore, pointed out to the witness by putting to him the statement recorded to the above effect by the Investigating Officer, which he denied. The relevant part of PW-4′s cross-examination reads:

"घटनास्थल मेरे घर के ठीक पश्चिम है। घटना स्थल वाले पुल से करीब 100 कदम उत्तर से एक दूसरी नहर पूरब तरफ गई है। यह नहर मेरे गांव की आबादी के उत्तर तरफ पड़ती हैं उस नहर पर भी एक छोटा सा पुल है। मैने दारोगा जी से यह बयान नही दिया था कि "मंगला जबकि गांव के उत्तर नहर पर बैठा था उसे .....मारा" यह कहना गलत है कि गांव के उत्तर नहर की पुलिया पर अंधेरे में मंगला सिंह को चोटे आई व किसी ने देखा नही।"

82. Section 162 Cr.P.C. reads:

"162. Statements to police not to be signed: Use of statements in evidence.-(1) No statement made by any person to a police officer in the course of an investigation under this Chapter, shall, if reduced to writing, be signed by the person making it; nor shall any such statement or any record thereof, whether in a police diary or otherwise, or any part of such statement or record, be used for any purpose, save as hereinafter provided, at any inquiry or trial in respect of any offence under investigation at the time when such statement was made:

Provided that when any witness is called for the prosecution in such inquiry or trial whose statement has been reduced into writing as aforesaid, any part of his statement, if duly proved, may be used by the accused, and with the permission of the Court, by the prosecution, to contradict such witness in the manner provided by section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); and when any part of such statement is so used, any part thereof may also be used in the re-examination of such witness, but for the purpose only of explaining any matter referred to in his cross-examination.

(2) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to any statement falling within the provisions of clause (1) of section 32 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872); or to affect the provisions of section 27 of that Act.

Explanation.-An omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement referred to in sub-section (1) may amount to contradiction if the same appears to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context shall be a question of fact."

83. It is beyond cavil in view of the explanation appended to Section 162 Cr.P.C. and also high authority that an omission to state a fact or circumstance in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., which later on appears in the testimony of a witness, may amount to a contradiction within the meaning of the proviso to Section 162(1). Of course, if there is a positive statement made by a witness under Section 161, from which he resiles and takes an inconsistent position, the said statement can always be used to contradict the witness during cross-examination by the accused. However, it may be added that so far as an omission is concerned, in order to amount to a contradiction within the meaning of the explanation appended to Section 162 Cr.P.C., it must appear to be significant and otherwise relevant having regard to the context in which such omission occurs and whether any omission amounts to a contradiction in the particular context, shall be a question of fact, to borrow the phraseology of the statute.

84. Thus, the principle of contradicting a witness by the accused with regard to his previous statement reduced into writing is well established and stands extended to an omission in such previous statements, which can be regarded as a contradiction. But, before that is done, the contradiction, properly so called in the previous statement in writing or an omission there, must be proved in the manner provided under Section 145 of the Evidence Act. It is true that an unexplained contradiction in a previous statement reduced into writing and the dock evidence, or for that matter, a significant omission, would both lead to the testimony of the concerned witness being rendered unreliable. This, however, does not mean that an omission with reference to the testimony of a witness in Court, which does not figure in the previous statement of the prosecution witness reduced to writing or a statement recorded in the previous statement, that is contradicted by the stand of the witness in the dock, can be regarded as a contradiction or omission, that would shake the credit of the witness merely by pointing out the contradictory or omitted statement to the witness in the dock.

85. Before a contradiction or an omission can be relied upon in Court to shake the credit of a witness with regard to a previous statement in writing, the contradiction or the omission, wherever it occurs, has to be proved. There is a manner to prove it as provided by the law. The procedure is that if there is a previous statement of the witness reduced to writing under Section 161 Cr.P.C. and the accused desires to contradict the witness on its basis vis-a-vis his dock evidence, the attention of the witness to the contradictory statement must be drawn by the Court, marking that statement. If the witness admits that statement as one made by him, the previous statement can straight away be regarded as proved and exhibited. If the witness denies having made such a previous statement to the Investigating Officer, the Investigating Officer has to be called to prove that statement, who may prove it by his evidence. It can then be held proved and exhibited. It is only such proved statements, previously recorded, and likewise omissions that are similarly proved, which can be relied upon by the accused to discredit a prosecution witness. Reference in this connection may be made to the authority of the Supreme Court in Pedda Narayana v. State of A.P., (1975) 4 SCC 153, where it was held:

"10. ..... A statement recorded by the police during the investigation is not at all admissible and the proper procedure is to confront the witnesses with the contradictions when they are examined and then ask the Investigating Officer regarding those contradictions. This does not appear to have been done in this case....."

86. Reference in this regard may also be made to State (Delhi Administration) v. Laxman Kumar and others, (1985) 4 SCC 476, where following Pedda Narayana (supra), it was held:

"41. .... This Court pointed out in Pedda Narayana v. State of A.P. [(1975) 4 SCC 153 : 1975 SCC (Cri) 427] that a statement recorded by the police officer during investigation is inadmissible in evidence and the proper procedure is to confront the witness with the contradictions when they are examined and then ask the investigating officer regarding the contradictions....."

87. A very detailed statement of the law on the point is there in Anjan Ganguly and others v. State of West Bengal, 2013 SCC OnLine Cal 22948, where it has been held:

"23. Proviso to Section 162(1), Cr.P.C. state in clear terms that the statement of the witness ought to be duly proved. The words if duly proved, cast a duty upon the accused who want to highlight the contradictions by confronting the witness to prove the previous statement of a witness through the police officer who has recorded the same in the ordinary way. If the witness in the cross-examination admits contradictions then there is no need to prove the statement. But if the witness denies a contradiction and the police officer who had recorded the statement is called by the prosecution, the previous statement of the witness on this point may be proved by the police officer. In case prosecution fail to call the police officer in a given situation Court can call this witness or the accused can call the police officer to give evidence in defence. There is no doubt that unless the statement as per proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 162, Cr.P.C. is duly proved, contradiction in terms of Section 145 of the Indian Evidence Act cannot be taken into consideration by the Court.″

88. In a later decision, the Supreme Court in V.K. Mishra and others v. State of Uttarakhand and another, (2015) 9 SCC 588, adumbrated the law in the following words:

"19. Under Section 145 of the Evidence Act when it is intended to contradict the witness by his previous statement reduced into writing, the attention of such witness must be called to those parts of it which are to be used for the purpose of contradicting him, before the writing can be used. While recording the deposition of a witness, it becomes the duty of the trial court to ensure that the part of the police statement with which it is intended to contradict the witness is brought to the notice of the witness in his cross-examination. The attention of witness is drawn to that part and this must reflect in his cross-examination by reproducing it. If the witness admits the part intended to contradict him, it stands proved and there is no need to further proof of contradiction and it will be read while appreciating the evidence. If he denies having made that part of the statement, his attention must be drawn to that statement and must be mentioned in the deposition. By this process the contradiction is merely brought on record, but it is yet to be proved. Thereafter when investigating officer is examined in the court, his attention should be drawn to the passage marked for the purpose of contradiction, it will then be proved in the deposition of the investigating officer who again by referring to the police statement will depose about the witness having made that statement. The process again involves referring to the police statement and culling out that part with which the maker of the statement was intended to be contradicted. If the witness was not confronted with that part of the statement with which the defence wanted to contradict him, then the court cannot suo motu make use of statements to police not proved in compliance with Section 145 of the Evidence Act that is, by drawing attention to the parts intended for contradiction.″

89. The position of the law, as above enumerated, has very recently been endorsed by the Supreme Court in Vinod Kumar v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2025) 3 SCC 680, where it has been held:

"15. ..... The law is well settled. The portion of the prior statement shown to the witness for contradicting the witness must be proved through the investigating officer. Unless the said portion of the prior statement used for contradiction is duly proved, it cannot be reproduced in the deposition of the witnesses. The correct procedure is that the trial Judge should mark the portions of the prior statements used for contradicting the witness. The said portions can be put in bracket and marked as AA, BB, etc. The marked portions cannot form a part of the deposition unless the same are proved.″

90. A perusal of the testimony of PW-4, that is to say, the cross-examination like that of other witnesses of fact, shows that contradictions or omissions with reference to the previous statement in writing recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C. were put to the witness concerned, but upon denial of the contradiction or omission, the Investigating Officer, who had recorded the previous statement, has not been called to prove the contradiction or the omission. No previous statement, contradiction or omission has been proved in the manner provided by Section 145 of the Evidence Act and the law laid down in this connection.

91. Therefore, all those material facts, that are sought to be contradicted by the appellants in the testimony of the prosecution witnesses, on the basis of their previous statements in writing, are of no consequence. The testimony of the prosecution witnesses, on the basis of contradictions or omissions, sought to be impeached without proof of those contradictions or omissions, is inconsequential, out of which the appellants cannot derive any benefit by seeking to shake the credit of the prosecution witnesses or successfully questioning the truth of any part of their testimony.

92. Here, we must take note of the reliance placed by Mr. Kamal Krishna on Vinobhai (supra), where taking note of the omissions in the statement of the prosecution witnesses with reference to their earlier statements in writing, the Supreme Court regarded each omission as a contradiction and held the testimony of PW-4 and PW-5, the two eye-witnesses in that case not creditworthy. Now, Vinobhai is not a decision where the point arose as to how a contradiction and omission is to be proved, or if at all there was lack of proof of the omissions, noticed by the Supreme Court in the manner prescribed by law. Since the said point was not involved in Vinobhai, the said authority is of no assistance to the appellants.

93. The substance of the above analysis is that omissions in the FIR and previous statements may constitute contradictions, that would vitiate the testimony of relevant eye-witnesses, but in this case since those contradictions, including omissions, have not been proved by the appellants in accordance with law, the testimony of the eye-witnesses in the dock remains unshaken.

The appellant Chhotey Lal's involvement in the crime, if doubtful

94. It has been argued, particularly about Chhotey Lal, by Mr. Kamal Krishna, learned Senior Advocate, that the role assigned to Chhotey Lal is one of exhortation and a mere frame up to rope in both brothers in the crime. The learned A.G.A. has opposed this submission as well, because according to him, there is ample evidence to show that Chhotey Lal is equally liable on account of a common intention shared with Kali Das.

95. We have given a thoughtful consideration to the matter. It is true as the consistent testimony of the three eye-witnesses would have it, the assault was single-handedly carried out by Kali Das. But, it is equally true that the evidence of all the three eye-witnesses is consistent as well on the point that Kali Das and Chhotey Lal moved together to the place where Mangla Singh was sitting to relieve himself, and when they were at suitable distance, it was Chhotey Lal, who exhorted Kali Das to kill Mangla Singh. The description of the exhortation is found with unanimity in the testimony of all the three eye-witnesses, to wit, PW-2 Gulam Mohammad, PW-3 Ram Kishor Singh and PW-4 Tejbali Singh. The difference, if any, is about the number of times the exhortation was made. There is little reason to doubt that the appellant

Chhotey Lal exhorted Kali Das to do the victim Mangla Singh to death, upon which Kali Das assaulted Mangla Singh with his gandasa. The credit of the three witnesses of fact, all of whom are eye-witnesses, has not been shaken as regards their account of exhortation by Chhotey Lal. If, therefore, Chhotey Lal exhorted Kali Das to kill, he would certainly share the common intention contemplated under Section 34 IPC to make him constructively liable for the offence that Kali Das actually committed. The principle that the one who exhorts is as much vicariously and constructively liable as the one, who wields the weapon by virtue of Section 34 IPC, is a well settled one. Reference in this connection may be made to Gulab v. State of U.P., (2022) 12 SCC 677, where the Supreme Court held:

"30. Recently in Sandeep v. State of Haryana [Sandeep v. State of Haryana, (2022) 14 SCC 812 : 2021 SCC OnLine SC 642], a two-Judge Bench of this Court held that an exhortation given by an accused immediately before a co-accused fired a shot killing the deceased would prove his involvement in the crime beyond reasonable doubt. Accordingly, this Court upheld the conviction of the accused under Sections 302 and 34IPC.

31. The evidence on the record clearly establishes a common intention in pursuance of which the appellant exhorted Idrish to kill the deceased. The prosecution is not required to prove that there was an elaborate plan between the accused to kill the deceased or a plan was in existence for a long time. A common intention to commit the crime is proved if the accused by their words or action indicate their assent to join in the commission of the crime. The appellant reached the spot with a lathi, along with Idrish who had a pistol. The appellant's exhortation was crucial to the commission of the crime since it was only after he made the statement that the enemy has been found, that Idrish fired the fatal shot. The role of the appellant, his presence at the spot and the nature of the exhortation have all emerged from the consistent account of the three eyewitnesses."

96. We, therefore, hold that Chhotey Lal is co-extensively liable with Kali Das in the commission of the crime.

97. In view of what we have found hereinabove, we are of the considered opinion that the prosecution have brought home the charges against the appellants beyond all reasonable doubt.

98. In the result, these appeals fail and are dismissed. The appellants are on bail. They would surrender to their bail bonds in order to serve the sentence of law imposed upon them. Their bail bonds stand cancelled and the sureties discharged. In the event, however, the appellants do not surrender within a period of six weeks from date, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mirzapur, shall ensure that they are caused to be arrested and committed to prison.

99. Let a copy of this judgment be forwarded to the Trial Court concerned along with the lower court record for information and necessary compliance.

1. Heard Sri Rajrshi Gupta and Sri D.S. Parmar, learned counsel for the appellants; Sri G.N. Kanaujiya, learned A.G.A.-I for the State-respondent; perused the judgment and the Trial Court record.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed by accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar @ Chandra Bhan Rajpoot, against the judgment and order dated 31.01.2009 of learned Trial Court passed in Sessions Trial No. 103 of 2006 (State v. Maheshwari Prasad and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 219 of 2005, under Section 302/34 IPC, Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur, Sessions Trial No. 104 of 2006 (State Vs. Maheshwari Prasad) arising out of Case Crime No. 220 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act, Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur and Sessions Trial No. 105 of 2006 (State Vs. Adarsh Kumar @ Chandra Bhan Rajpoot) arising out of Case Crime No. 221 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act, Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur.

3. Facts of the case as revealed by written report, Exhibit Ka-1, is that informant Watan Singh son of Maniram is resident of 6 Thok, Kasba and Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur. Watan Singh (PW-1) got scribed written report, Exhibit Ka-1, from Ajit Singh on 05.10.2005 and lodged the same at Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur. In the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is stated by the informant Watan Singh (PW-1) that he is resident of 6 Thok, Kasba Muskara. On 04.10.2005 at about 11:50 P.M., my real brother, Vishwanath, and sister-in-law, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and their son Mahesh resident of 6 Thok, Kasba Muskara were murdered by my real nephew, Maheshwari son of Vishwanath, and his sons, Adarsh and Neeraj, with fire-arm assault with intention to kill them. Mahesh had illicit relation with Smt. Asha wife of Maheshwari. Due to this reason, these three people jointly murdered them. Since it was a day of Navratri, generator was running in the famous Kalika Devi Temple. A lantern was also illuminated in the compound of Vishwanath. On hearing the sound of the fire-arm, I along with Om Prakash son of Rameshwar resident of Village Damdama, Police Station Khalela, District Mahoba came at the spot. We shouted that three people were firing and video was also playing in the temple. We all collectively chased the accused and identified them clearly. They ran away towards Chandaura Road by firing. Due to this incident, there is anguish in the town. Adarsh, by assaulting Vishwanath with a country-made pistol, caused his death. Neeraj murdered Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, by firing from a country-made pistol. Maheshwari caused the death of Mahesh. The dead bodies of all three deceased were lying in the compound of Vishwanath.

4. On the basis of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, lodged by informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Constable Clerk Chandrabhan Dubey (PW-7) registered a first information report at Police Station Muskara on 05.10.2005 at 12:20 A.M. in the night. The above F.I.R. was registered at Case Crime No. 219 of 2005, under Section 302 IPC against accused Maheshwari, Adarsh and Neeraj. After registration of the F.I.R. and receiving the information about the incident, Shailendra Singh (PW-5), the then Station House Officer of Police Station Muskara visited the place of occurrence and investigation of the case was taken by him in his hand. The Investigating Officer took into possession an empty 315-bore cartridge, which was found on the ground near the head of the deceased, Mahesh Rajpoot, and prepared a recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-2. He also took into possession an empty cartridge of 315 bore from the ground of left side of dead body of the deceased, Vishwanath, and prepared recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-3. He also took into possession an empty cartridge of 315 bore from the ground of right side of the head of deceased, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and prepared recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-4. The Investigating Officer also took into possession one generator and one lantern which were running and illuminating respectively at the time of the incident and thereafter handed over the same to the President of the Kalika Devi Temple Committee and prepared recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-5. The Investigating Officer Shailendra Singh (PW-5) got prepared the panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased from S.I. Surya Pal Singh. S.I. Surya Pal Singh prepared the panchayatnama on the dictation of Shailendra Singh (PW-5) of deceased Mahesh Rajpoot, Exhibit Ka-9. He also prepared photo nash, Exhibit Ka-11, and letter to C.M.O., Exhibit Ka-12, and other necessary police papers, which were prepared at the time of the panchayatnama. The panchayatnama of dead body of the deceased, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, was also prepared as Exhibit Ka-13, and other necessary police papers, such as, photo nash, Exhibit Ka-14, challan nash, Exhibit Ka-15, letter to C.M.O., Exhibit Ka-16, and also prepared other necessary police papers. The panchayatnama of the deceased Vishwanath was also prepared by S.I. Surya Pal Singh on the dictation of the Investigating Officer as Exhibit Ka-17. Apart from the panchayatnama, Exhibit Ka-17, other necessary police papers were also prepared, such as, photo nash, Exhibits Ka-18 and 19, letter to C.M.O. and other necessary police papers were also prepared.

5. After completing the proceedings of the panchayatnama, the dead bodies of the deceased Mahesh, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Vishwanath were sent to District Hospital for conducting post mortem examination. The Investigating Officer also collected bloodstained soil and plain soil from the ground where the dead body of the deceased, Mahesh, was lying and prepared recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-21. Sample of bloodstained soil and plain soil from the place where the dead body of deceased, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari was lying, were also taken into possesion and recovery memo of the same was prepared as Exhibit Ka-22. Sample of bloodstained and plain soil were also taken from the place where the dead body of the deceased, Vishwanath, was lying and recovery memo was prepared as Exhibit Ka-23. At a distance of 10 steps from the place of occurrence, a towel, full of blood, of sky-blue colour was taken into possession and recovery memo was prepared as Exhibit Ka-24. The Investigating Officer Shailendra Singh (PW-5) arrested the accused Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh on 08.10.2005 at 11:30 A.M. and on the pointing out of the accused Maheshwari Prasad, from the compound of his house, beneath the guava tree, one country-made pistol of 315 bore and one live cartridge of 315 bore was recovered and taken into possession. On the pointing out of accused Adarsh @ Chandra Bhan Rajpoot, from the same compound from the bushes of bamboo tree, one country-made pistol of 315 bore and two live cartridges of 315 bore were recovered and taken into possession. The recovered murder weapon, country-made pistol, empty and live cartridges of 315 bore were sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory for their examination. The Investigating Officer also recorded the statements of the witnesses under Section 161 Cr.P.C.

6. After recovery of the country-made pistol of 315 bore along with empty and live cartridges from the accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, Constable Chandrabhan Dubey (PW-7) registered a case at Case Crime No. 220 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act against accused-appellant, Maheshwari Prasad, and Case Crime No. 221 of 2005, under Section 25 Arms Act against accused-appellant, Adarsh @ Chandrabhan Rajpoot. The cases against the accused-appellants under Section 25 Arms Act were investigated by S.I. Rampal Singh (PW-6). S.I. Rampal Singh (PW-6) prepared site plan of the recovery of murder weapon (country-made pistol) along with empty and live cartridges as Exhibit Ka-28 and site plan in respect of recovery of the murder weapon of the country-made pistol and empty and live cartridges was prepared by the Investigating Officer Shailendra Singh (PW-5) as Exhibit Ka-27. After transfer of the first Investigating Officer Shailendra Singh (PW-5), investigation of the main Case Crime No. 219 of 2005, under Sections 302/34 IPC was taken by the second Investigating Officer Bhaskar Mishra (PW-8). The second Investigating Officer Bhaskar Mishra (PW-8) recorded the statement of Dr. Dinesh Chandra Tiwari (PW-4), who conducted the autopsy on the dead bodies of the deceased, Mahesh, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Vishwanath and after completing all the formalities of the investigation in Case Crime No. 219 of 2005, under Sections 302/34 IPC, submitted charge-sheet against the appellants, Maheshwari Prasad, Chandrabhan Rajpoot and also against accused Neeraj @ Jai Narayan as Exhibit Ka-35. The second Investigating Officer Bhaskar Mishra (PW-8) also investigated the Case Crime Nos. 220 of 2005 and 221 of 2005, both under Sections 25 Arms Act. He took the prosecution sanction in respect of recovery of the illegal country-made pistol from the District Magistrate, Hamirpur against the appellant, Maheshwari Prasad, as Exhibit Ka-36 and he also took prosecution sanction for conducting the case against the appellant, Adarsh Kumar, under Section 25 Arms as Exhibit Ka-37. The second Investigating Officer Bhaskar Mishra (PW-8) after completing all the formalities of the investigation in respect of illegal country-made pistol/murder weapon and empty and live cartridges against the appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar, submitted charge-sheet against Maheshwari Prasad as Exhibit Ka-38 and against Adarsh Kumar as Exhibit Ka-39.

7. Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4) conducted the post mortem examination of dead body of the deceased, Mahesh, and prepared the post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-6. According to Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4), following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased, Mahesh :-

"(i) Gunshot wound of exit 5 cm x 3 cm on the just anterior of the skull directly in front of the left ear and margins of the wound are everted and clotted blood present around the wound.

(ii) Gunshot wound of entry 1 cm x 1 cm circular in shape on the just anterior of skull directly in front of the right ear, margin of wound is inverted and contused ring is present. Clotted blood present around the wound. This wound communicate to the wound (injury no. 1).

Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4) conducted the post mortem examination of the dead body of the deceased, Smt. Neelibai @ Raj Kumari wife of Vishwanath, and prepared the post mortem report, Exhibit Ka-7. According to Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4), following ante mortem injuries were found on the dead body of the deceased, Neelibai :

The cause of death is haemorrhage due to ghunshot wound.″

8. Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheets, Exhibits Ka-35, Ka-38 and Ka-39, against the accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar in the concerned Magistrate Court having jurisdiction. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Sessions, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions.

9. Learned Trial Court framed the charges against the appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh @ Chandrabhan, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on 11.07.2006. Charges were also framed against the appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar @ Chandrabhan under Section 25 Arms Act on 11.07.2006 itself. The appellants denied from all charges framed against them and claimed trial.

10. To substantiate the charges against the appellants, prosecution has adduced informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Om Prakash (PW-2), Ramesh (PW-3) as witnesses of the facts and Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4), Shailendra Singh (PW-5), Ram Pal Singh (PW-6), Chandra Bhan Dubey (PW-7) and Bhaskar Mishra (PW-8) as the formal witnesses. Apart from the above oral evidence, prosecution also relied on documentary evidences from Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-40 in support of its case.

11. After recording of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, Trial Court examined the appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The appellants denied the charges levelled against them. They have answered questions under Section 313 Cr.P.C. put to them in negative. They have also stated that false case was registered against them due to enmity. The Investigating Officer wrongly investigated the case and falsely implicated them for commission of the crime. The accused-appellants have also stated in answer to the question no.23 that witnesses Watan Singh (PW-1) and Ramesh (PW-3) with collusion of the police, falsely implicated them in this case. Watan Singh and Udairaj wanted to take possession of my and my father′s house and its compound (Bada) on the basis of the false case but they lost the case in the Court, therefore, forged proceedings were came into light. Now they want to grab the property after sending all our family member in jail. Although the accused-appellants have stated that they will adduce defence evidence, but they did not adduce any evidence in their support.

12. Learned Trial Court after hearing the arguments of both sides and after perusing the whole evidence available on record found the accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, guilty for commission of the alleged crime. Learned Trial Court convicted the accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar @ Chandrabhan Rajpoot, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC with life imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 10,000/- each and in default of payment of the fine, they have to undergo six months′ additional imprisonment. The accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh Kumar @ Chandrabhan Rajpoot, were also held guilty and convicted under Section 25 Arms Act for three years′ rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs. 5000/- each and in default of payment of the fine, they were also directed to serve additional imprisonment for three months. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

13. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 31.01.2009, the accused-appellants have preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

14. At the outset, it is worthwhile to mention that it appears from the record of the case that although charge-sheet was also filed against the accused Neeraj @ Jai Narayan, he was found juvenile, therefore, his case was separated and sent for trial to Juvenile Justice Board.

15. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has argued that statements of the prosecution witnesses recorded on oath are contrary to each other and therefore, are unreliable. The prosecution story is not only highly improbable but absurd also. Learned counsel has also submitted that informant has falsely implicated the appellants in the present case but the learned Trial Court has not considered the actual facts and circumstances of the case and passed the impugned judgment and order, which is not sustainable in the eyes of law. It is also submitted that there is no independent and reliable witnesses adduced by the prosecution in support of its case. The prosecution witnesses, informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Om Prakash (PW-2) and Ramesh (PW-3) are highly interested witnesses. These witnesses of the prosecution are family members and relatives of the deceased persons in this case. Informant Watan Singh (PW-1) wanted to grab all the properties of the deceased, Vishwanath, after falsely implicating the accused-appellants in this case and sending them in the jail. There was enmity between the informant Watan Singh (PW-1) and accused-appellant, Maheshwari Prasad, in respect of immovable property. Some other accused has killed the deceased persons in the night, but the accused-appellants have been falsely and purposely implicated in this case by the informant Watan Singh (PW-1). Learned Trial Court did not appreciate the evidence in its proper perspective and in a legal manner, and it wrongly relied on evidence that was unreliable and doubtful to hold the accused-appellants guilty for commission of the crime. The finding and reasoning as delivered by the learned Trial Court are also against the evidence and settled principles of law, therefore, the criminal appeal preferred by the appellants is liable to be allowed and impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court dated 31.01.2009 is liable to be set aside.

16. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the respondent-State has vehemently opposed the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants and submitted that the accused-appellants and deceased persons had been living in the same and one compound (ahata) adjoining each other′s house. The accused-appellants, taking advantage of the occasion, being the first day of Navratri, when videos were playing and generators were running at the temple at about 11:50 P.M., murdered all the deceased persons, with a view that the sound of the gunfire would not be heard by anyone due to the noise from the generators and videos. The accused-appellants have chosen a very appropriate and useful time for commission of the offence. The accused-appellants by murdering the deceased persons have betrayed the very close relations of father and son and also grandfathers and grandsons. Prosecution by adducing informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Om Prakash (PW-2) and Ramesh (PW-3) has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. Although Om Prakash (PW-2) has turned hostile and has not supported the prosecution case but the informant Watan Singh (PW-1) and Ramesh (PW-3) have fully supported the prosecution case by their evidence. Allegations as levelled against the accused-appellants have been fully proved by the evidence of the prosecution. Learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in proper perspective and in legal manner. The finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court are based on the cogent evidence and also on the settled principles of law. There is no infirmity, illegality or perversity in the impugned judgment and order of the learned Trial Court, therefore, criminal appeal filed by the accused-appellants is devoid of merits and is liable to be rejected.

17. In the light of the rival submissions of learned counsel for both the parties and from perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, we find that incident is said to be happened on 04.10.2005 at 11:50 P.M. and report about the incident has been lodged by the informant Watan Singh (PW-1) at Police Station Muskara, District Hamirpur on 05.10.2005 at 12:20 A.M. in the night. Meaning thereby, within half an hour, without any delay and afterthoughts, F.I.R. has been registered by the informant Watan Singh (PW-1) at the police station naming accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad, Adarsh and Neeraj as accused persons, therefore, we find no delay in lodging the F.I.R. at the police station after happening of the incident.

18. Apart from perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, we have also perused and gone through the evidence of the informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Om Prakash (PW-2) and Ramesh (PW-3).

19. From the perusal of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, we find that informant Watan Singh (PW-1), who is an eye-witness of the incident and has seen commission of the crime by the accused-appellants, has stated in his evidence in the Court corroborating the statements as he has written in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. From perusal of the evidence of informant Watan Singh (PW-1), it is revealed that incident of this case has happened on 04.10.2025 at about 11:50 P.M. in the night and it was a first day of Navratri when idol of Goddess Durga is being installed in the pandals and worshiped. Due to being the first day of Navratri, at Kalika Devi Temple in the town, Navratri ceremony was being organized and a large number of people were gathered there to celebrate Navratri pooja of Kalika Devi. For the entertainment of the devotee, videos were being playing showing religious films. There were 2-3 generators running for sufficient electricity for the night ceremony and convenience of the people gathered there. On the date of the incident, informant Watan Singh (PW-1) was also sitting at the platform (chabutra) of the Kalika Devi Temple. According to the evidence of informant Watan Singh (PW-1), it is revealed that house of Vishwanath is situated in Ahata (compound). On the southern direction of the Ahata (compound), deceased Vishwanath, his wife Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and his son Mahesh were living. On opposite direction, accused persons were living. On that date, deceased Mahesh, nephew of this witness, returned from Kanpur. He talked with this witness and as soon as he entered in the compound, then sound was being heard. On hearing the sound, this witness ran towards the compound then he saw that accused Maheshwari Prasad, Adarsh and Neeraj have caught hold Mahesh and made him to fall on the ground. Accused Maheshwari Prasad assaulted Mahesh with country-made pistol and fired upon him from his country-made pistol. Then Neelibai has come to intervene then accused Neeraj with his country-made pistol fired upon her. Accused Adarsh shot from his country-made pistol at Vishwanath. After receiving gunshot injury, all the above three persons died on the spot. Accused after firing ran away towards Chandaura Road. According to this witness, in the compound (ahata), a lantern was illuminating and light of the bulb from the temple was also reaching. According to this witness, he heard that deceased Mahesh had illicit relations with Asha wife of accused Maheshwari. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that accused Maheshwari Prasad was son of deceased Vishwanath and deceased Neelibai @ Raj Kumari was the mother and deceased Mahesh was brother of accused, Maheshwari Prasad. Accused Adarsh Kumar @ Chandrabhan and Neeraj @ Jai Narayan were sons of accused Maheshwari Prasad.

20. From this fact, it is revealed that accused Maheshwari Prasad, with his own sons Adarsh and Neeraj have murdered his real father, Vishwanath, his real mother, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and also murdered his real brother, Mahesh. It is also revealed from the evidence of this witness that there was illicit relations between the deceased, Mahesh, and Asha, wife of accused Maheshwari Prasad, which appears to be the motive for commission of the alleged crime. Apart from the above, from the evidence of this witness, it is also revealed that the informant, Watan Singh (PW-1), is the younger brother of the deceased, Vishwanath. It is also revealed that there was also a dispute in respect of the compound in which the deceased and accused persons were living. A case, Watan Singh v. Maniram, was filed in respect of the land of the compound. From the evidence of this witness, it is also revealed that 04.10.2005, the date on which the incident occurred, was the first day of Navratri, and on that day, the idol of Goddess Durga was installed in the pandals. This witness has stated that he had heard the sound of the fire, and at that time, this witness was not in the ground of the temple, but he was sitting at the platform of the temple. When, after hearing the sound of the fire, he reached at the gate of Vishwanath, then he saw the occurrence committed by the accused persons.

21. It is also revealed from the evidence of this witness Watan Singh (PW-1) and from perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, that the light of a lantern and the light of a bulb, which was coming from the temple, have been mentioned in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1 and in the evidence of this witness also. Thus, we find that at the time of the happening of the incident at 11:50 p.m. in the night, there was sufficient electricity/light to identify the accused persons, who were committing the crime. Apart from the above facts, it is also worthwhile to mention here that the accused persons and the deceased persons had been living in the same compound (ahata). Accused Maheshwari Prasad was the son of the deceased, Vishwanath, and accused, Adarsh and Neeraj, were the grandsons of Vishwanath. The deceased Neelibai @ Raj Kumari was the mother of the accused, Maheshwari Prasad, and the grandmother of Adarsh and Neeraj. The deceased Mahesh was the uncle of accused Adarsh and Neeraj.

22. Although next witness Om Prakash (PW-2) has turned hostile and has not supported the prosecution story, however, in spite of the hostile evidence of Om Prakash (PW-2), this fact is established that accused Maheshwari Prasad was the son of deceased, Vishwanath. On the date of incident, in the night at 11:50 PM, when ceremony was going on at the temple, the temple was decorated, the generator was running, the bulb was illuminating, and there was sufficient light, and the fact that murder of deceased Vishwanath, his wife Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and his son Mahesh has been committed on that day and time, this fact is clearly proved. However, this witness has denied that he had not seen any person committing the murder of the deceased persons. According to this witness, he has seen accused persons running towards Chandaura Road by firing, but he could not identify them. However, one important fact is revealed from the evidence of this witness that before this witness, informant Watan Singh (PW-1) had reached at the place of occurrence. From the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that there was partition dispute of land between the deceased Vishwanath and his son Maheshwari Prasad. Deceased Mahesh was unmarried brother of accused Maheshwari Prasad. This witness has accepted that it is true that deceased Mahesh was a man of loose character and a man with the habit of consuming intoxicants. This witness has clearly accepted in his cross-examination that after happening of the incident, accused Maheshwari Prasad and his sons, Adarsh and Neeraj, have not reached near the dead bodies of the deceased in the ahata (compound). This witness was unable to tell this fact that even after murder of real mother, father and brother and even living in the same compound, why accused persons have not reached near the dead bodies of the deceased and why they have left the ahata and ran away. According to this witness, on the date of incident, which was the first day of Navratri, this witness came at town Muskara to see the Durga Pooja.

23. Thus, even from the hostile evidence of this witness, Om Prakash (PW-2), this fact is established that on the date and time of the incident, deceased Vishwanath, his wife Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and his younger son Mahesh had been murdered and even after the murder of the above three persons, accused Maheshwari Prasad and his both sons, Adarsh and Neeraj, have not reached near the dead bodies of the deceased; even they were living in the same compound. This fact is also clearly established from the evidence of this witness that there was a land dispute between the deceased, Vishwanath, and his son, Maheshwari Prasad, in respect of partition of the land. This fact also established strong motive against the accused persons, especially accused Maheshwari Prasad for commission of the crime and eliminating his father, deceased Vishwanath, his mother Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and his unmarried younger brother, Mahesh, with intention that after their death, being nearest heir, they will automatically become owner of the properties of the deceased, Vishwanath, and deceased, Mahesh. This is being strong motive against the accused-appellants for commission of the crime, which is levelled and is proved by the hostile evidence of Om Prakash (PW-2).

24. From perusal of the evidence of Ramesh (PW-3), we find that, according to the prosecution, this witness is also an eye-witness of the incident. This witness Ramesh is brother-in-law (behnoi) of accused Maheshwari Prasad, and accused Maheshwari Prasad is brother-in-law (sala) of the witness, Ramesh. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that when on hearing the sound of fire, this witness had seen towards the gate of the compound (ahata), he saw that the accused, Maheshwari Prasad, and his sons, Adarsh and Neeraj, were holding country-made pistols in their hands. Accused Maheshwari Prasad has thrown the deceased Mahesh on the ground and fired gunshot upon him, accused Adarsh has fired gunshot at deceased Vishwanath and accused Neeraj has fired gunshot at Neelibai @ Raj Kumari. After receiving gunshot injuries, all the above three persons had died on the spot. When this witness reached at the spot, then accused persons by firing ran towards Chandaura Road. According to this witness, at the time of incident and at the place of occurrence, there was light of the bulb from the generator and, in the compound (ahata) of the Vishwanath, a lantern was also illuminating. According to the evidence of this witness, Investigating Officer had recovered three empty cartridges near the ground where the dead bodies of the deceased were lying and prepared recovery memo.

25. During the cross-examination of this case, he stated that he stayed in the house of his father-in-law, Vishwanath. From the evidence of this witness, it is established that on the date and time of the incident, this witness was present near the place of occurrence for watching Navratri ceremony at the Kalika Devi Temple. From the evidence of this witness, this fact is corroborated that on the night of the incident, 2-3 generators were running and those generators were kept on the north side of the pond and one generator was kept on the backside of the pandal. Religious films were playing in the video. From the statement of this witness, it is also revealed that after happening of the incident about 12:15 A.M. in the night, police had reached at the place of occurrence. From perusal of the cross-examination of this witness, it appears that according to this witness, Investigating Officer had recorded the statement of this witness on 05.10.2007 at 06:00 A.M. in the morning. However, from perusal of the case diary, we find that in reality, Investigating Officer had recorded the statement of this witness on 05.10.2005 itself. Thus, it appears that at the time of recording the evidence of this witness, the reader or the typist who was recording the statement of this witness, has wrongly written 05.10.2007 in place of 05.10.2005. This fact indicates that incident happened on 04.10.2005 at 11:50 p.m. in the night, and the Investigating Officer on the next day on 05.10.2005 at 06:00 A.M. in the morning had recorded the statement of this witness under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Recording of evidence of this witness on 05.10.2005 at 06:00 A.M. in the morning in the compound of deceased Vishwanath established this fact that this witness was present at the time of happening of the incident at the house of his father-in-law, deceased Vishwanath, and this witness was also present at the place of the occurrence. This fact clearly proved the presence of this witness at the place of occurrence and seeing the commission of the crime by the accused persons with his own eyes. According to this witness, accused persons have shot on the deceased, Vishwanath, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Mahesh, with country-made pistols. According to this witness, accused persons in all fired three shots. From the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that this witness had taken food with Moolchandra. This witness has clearly stated that Vishwanath and Neelibai @ Raj Kumari had taken food with us. Neelibai @ Raj Kumari had given food to me. After taking food, I and Moolchandra had come into pandal at about 08:00 P.M.

26. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is revealed that after death of deceased, Vishwanath, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Mahesh, this witness has also filed an application for mutation in respect of the property of the deceased, Vishwanath, in his name and in the names of his wife and his sister-in-law. Evidence of this witness also revealed that accused Maheshwari Prasad had also filed a case against his wife and sister-in-law in the Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division, and that case was pending in the Court of Civil Judge, Senior Division.

27. Thus, from perusal of the evidence of Ramesh (PW-3), it is revealed that this witness is an eye-witness of the incident because when the incident happened on 04.10.2005 at 11:50 P.M. in the night in the compound of deceased Vishwanath and accused persons, he was present there. This witness has seen commission of the crime by the accused persons. From perusal of the evidence of this witness, it is clearly revealed that this witness is a natural witness and he has stated in the Court in a very simple words about happening of the incident. This witness has clearly accepted this fact that after the death of the deceased, Vishwanath, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Mahesh, this witness has filed an application for mutation of the property in his name and in the names of his wife and sister-in-law. It is also revealed that this witness is son-in-law of the deceased, Vishwanath, and brother-in-law of the accused, Maheshwari Prasad. Meaning thereby, daughter of deceased, Vishwanath, and sister of accused, Maheshwari Prasad, was married with this witness. This witness is a close relative of both sides. We find no ground to suspect and doubt the statement and evidence of this witness as relative witness, because this witness is a close relative of both sides and is related to both sides by his marriage with the daughter of deceased, Vishwanath, and sister of accused, Maheshwari Prasad. There is no reason or ground to disbelieve and doubt the evidence of this witness. We find that this witness has filed an application after death of Vishwanath, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari and Mahesh for endorsing the names of this witness, his wife, and his sister-in-law in respect of the land in the Revenue Court, is no reasonable ground to doubt and disbelieve the statement of this reliable witness. It is a natural fact that when a person dies by any means, whether natural or unnatural, their nearby relatives would naturally file an application for mutation of property in their names. Therefore, solely on that ground, we could not doubt or disbelieve the reliable, trusthworthy and creditworthy evidence of this witness, Ramesh (PW-3). In other words, we find the evidence of this witness fully reliable, truthful that inspires confidence.

28. In the light of the evidence of informant Watan Singh (PW-1), Om Prakash (PW-2), and Ramesh (PW-3), as we have perused and discussed, we find that although informant Watan Singh (PW-1) is younger brother of deceased, Vishwanath, and uncle of accused, Maheshwari Prasad, in this way, Watan Singh (PW-1) is related by blood with both deceased persons and accused persons. Only on this ground that informant Watan Singh (PW-1) is family member of the deceased persons and accused persons. We cannot doubt and reject the evidence of this important eye-witness. There is no law of this kind that prescribes that evidence of related witness and family members must be rejected. According to the settled principles of law in case of related witness and family members as a witness, only this requires that evidence of that kind of witness must be carefully and deeply scrutinized and appreciated. If after deep scrutiny and careful appreciation of the evidence of interested witnesses or family members as a witnesses, Court find that their evidence is truthful and testimony is creditworthy and inspires confidence, then in this condition, Court can rely and convict accused persons on the basis of the evidence of related witness and family members as a witness. There is no evidence of this kind that informant Watan Singh (PW-1) is interested in conviction of the appellants for commission of the crime.

29. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and Another, (1981) 2 SCC 752, has held on interested and related witnesses in para 7 that;

"7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W. 1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W. 1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents."

30. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Harbans Kaur and Another v. State of Haryana, (2005) 9 SCC 195 in para 7, has held that;

"7. There is no proposition in law that relatives are to be treated as untruthful witnesses. On the contrary, reason has to be shown when a plea of partiality is raised to show that the witnesses had reason to shield the actual culprit and falsely implicate the accused. No evidence has been led in this regard."

31. In the same way, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Sucha Singh and Another v. State of Punjab, (2003) 7 SCC 643, has held in para 13 that;

"13. ..... Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

32. Thus, in the light of the law as propounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, it is clear that being an interested witness or a family member is no ground to doubt and disbelieve the evidence of related witnesses and family members as witnesses. What is required is that the Court must be careful and alert, and a deep scrutiny and cautious appreciation of evidence is only required in that kind of case. If the Court finds that the evidence of the related witnesses and family members, who are witnesses, indicates that they are eye-witnesses of the incident, their evidence are wholly reliable, that inspire confidence, then the Court, without any hesitation, can convict the accused for the commission of the crime.

33. In the case at hand, We find that although the informant, Watan Singh (PW-1), is a family member of the deceased and the accused persons, and Ramesh (PW-3) is a close relative of both sides and is related by blood to the accused persons as well as to the deceased, being the son-in-law of the deceased Vishwanath. In this case, Ramesh (PW-3) would only speak true facts about the happening of the incident and who committed the crime. We, after appreciation of the evidence of both the witnesses, find that their evidence is truthful, reliable and creditworthy that inspire confidence. In view of this, their evidence is fully reliable.

34. As far as arguments of learned counsel for the appellants that there are contradictions between two eye-witnesses is concerned, we find that those contradictions that are indicated by learned counsel for the appellants are very minor and trivial in nature. Whatever contradictions and omissions exist are minor and trivial in nature, and we find that they are not material or major contradictions. According to human nature and tendency, some minor contradictions and omissions are likely to occur in the testimony of any witness.

35. Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Brahm Swaroop and Another v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2011) 6 SCC 288 has held in para 32 that;

"32. It is a settled legal proposition that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters, which do not affect the core of the prosecution's case, may not prompt the Court to reject the evidence in its entirety. "Irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness cannot be labelled as omissions or contradictions." Difference in some minor details, which does not otherwise affect the core of the prosecution case, even if present, would not itself prompt the court to reject the evidence on minor variations and discrepancies. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution witnesses. As the mental capabilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

36. Evidence of Ramesh (PW-3) also finds corroboration from the evidence of Dr. D.C. Tiwari (PW-4), who conducted the postmortem examination of deceased Mahesh, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and Vishwanath. From the perusal of the postmortem report, Exhibit Ka-6, of deceased Mahesh, we find that injury no. 1 was exit wound of the gunshot which was found at the skull in front of the left ear of the deceased Mahesh and the injury no. 2 was the entry wound of the gunshot which was found at the skull in front of the right ear. That indicates that one bullet shot was fired at the temporal bone at the head of the deceased Mahesh which entered from the right ear from the temporal region and the same exited on the left side of left ear on the temporal region. The postmortem report of deceased, Neelibai @ Raj Kumari (Exhibit Ka-7), revealed that one gunshot entry wound was found on the forehead towards the right eye, 2 cm above the right eye, that bullet exited from the parietal bone of the skull from the left side. From perusal of the post mortem report of the deceased, Vishwanath, Exhibit Ka-8, we find that only one bullet shot had been found on the backside 3 cm left from the backbone. That bullet shot exited from the center of the chest. Thus, we find that one bullet shot was fired at deceased Mahesh, one bullet shot was fired at deceased Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, and one bullet shot was fired at deceased Vishwanath. This fact indicates that the evidence of Ramesh (PW-3) found to be true as this witness has stated only three gunshots were fired towards the deceased.

37. From perusal of the record, we find that the weapons of murder were recovered on the pointing out of the accused, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, from the compound of the deceased and accused persons, and also the empty cartridges were recovered and taken into possession from the place where the dead bodies of the deceased were lying. Those empty cartridges which were recovered near the dead bodies of the deceased, country-made pistols and live cartridges recovered at the pointing out of the accused Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, were sent to the Forensic Science Laboratory for their examination. At the pointing out of the accused persons, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, incriminating articles, weapon of murder, and cartridges were recovered from the compound of the accused persons and deceased persons where they were living. This compound is not a public place where every person could easily come and go at their will. Since compound of any person is in the exclusive possession of the owner, therefore, no person could dare to come and go without permission of the owner in the compound. In the light of above facts, we are unable to believe the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants in this respect that weapons of murder were recovered from a public place or from open place.

38. The report of the Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra, Uttar Pradesh, is available on the record as Paper Nos. 30-Ka/2 and 30-Ka/3. Recovered empty cartridge of 315 bore which was being near the dead body of the deceased Vishwanath was marked as EC-1. Empty cartridge of 315 bore which was recovered near the dead body of deceased Neelibai @ Raj Kumari, was marked as EC-2 and empty cartridge of 315 bore, which was recovered from nearby the place where dead body of deceased Mahesh was lying, was marked as EC-3. Recovered country-made pistol at the pointing out of the accused Maheshwari Prasad and one live cartridge of 315 bore were marked as 1/2006 and LC-1 respectively. In the same way, recovered country-made pistol of 315 bore and two live cartridges of 315 bore at the pointing out of the accused Adarsh Kumar are marked as 2/2006 and LC-2 and LC-3. In the same way, recovered country-made pistol and two live cartridges of 315 bore at the pointing out of the accused Neeraj was marked as 3/2006 and LC-4 and LC-5. In the examination result of Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra, Uttar Pradesh, disputed cartridge EC-1 was found fired from marked country-made pistol 2/2006, and disputed cartridge EC-2 was found fired from country-made pistol marked as 3/2006, and disputed cartridge EC-3 was found fired from country-made pistol marked as 1/2006. Thus, from the examination report of Forensic Science Laboratory, it is clear that empty cartridges which were recovered from the place near the dead body of the deceased persons were found fired by the country-made pistols, which were recovered at the pointing out of the accused persons from their compound. In other words, examination report of the Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra, Uttar Pradesh corroborates this fact that those empty cartridges which were lying near the dead bodies of the deceased were fired from the country-made pistols which were recovered at the pointing out of the accused persons from their compound. It means and indicates that illegal country-made pistols which were recovered at the pointing out of the accused persons from their compound, empty cartridges which were recovered near the dead bodies of the deceased persons were found used as weapons of murder by the accused persons in the commission of the alleged crime. Thus, we find that weapons of murder, which were recovered from the possession of the accused-appellants on their pointing out, were used in the commission of the murder of the deceased persons by the accused persons. Therefore, in the light of above facts and evidence, arguments of learned counsel for the appellants in this regard is not sustainable.

39. We have also gone through the judgment and order of the learned Trial Court dated 31.01.2009. From perusal of the findings and reasoning as given by the learned Trial Court, we find that the learned Trial Court has fully discussed whole evidence as available on the record. Learned Trial Court has also discussed and given a finding that accused-appellants, with pre-plan, pre-meditation, and prior concert, prepared the plan for commission of the heinous crime and murdered the deceased persons. This fact is revealed from the facts of the case that accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, with other accused, Neeraj, prepared a plan of this murder. They procured illegal country-made pistols of 315 bore and also live cartridges of 315 bore. Both accused-appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh, with juvenile accused, Neeraj @ Jai Narayan, dragged each deceased persons and assaulted and fired upon them with their respective country-made pistols. This fact clearly revealed that there was clear-cut pre-plan, pre-meditation and prior concert among the accused persons for commission of the alleged crime. Apart from the above facts, the accused-appellants have chosen the date of incident as the first date of Navratri of Durga Pooja. The date of incident, i.e., 04.10.2005 was the first day of Navratri and at the Kalika Devi Temple, 2-3 generators were running for sufficient light and religious films were also running. There was crowd gathered for participating in the first day of Navratri Pooja and the appellants have chosen the time of incident as 11:50 P.M. of the night. The intention and purpose of the appellants were that on the first day of Navratri of Durga Pooja, after 11:00 p.m. in the night, when generators were running and making noise, and videos were also playing showing the religious pictures, with a view that at this time, sound of the fire from the country-made pistols will not reach to the peoples and accused-appellants will be able to execute their plan easily. The appellants have hatched a plan with pre-plan, pre-meditation, and prior concert and executed the plan in which three persons were killed by them by their well-prepared and managed plan. Thus, we find that the Trial Court has fully discussed all the evidence and based its finding on cogent and reliable evidence in this regard. From perusal of the finding and reasoning of the Trial Court, we find that the Trial Court has appreciated evidence in a proper perspective and in legal manner and according to the settled principles of law in this regard. We find no illegality or perversity in the impugned judgment and order dated 31.01.2009 of conviction and sentence, therefore, we find no force in the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants in this respect.

40. In this view of the matter, we find that the criminal appeal of the accused-appellants is devoid of merits and it lacks force. Hence, we are of the view that the criminal appeal of the accused-appellants is liable to be dismissed and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 31.01.2009 is liable to be affirmed.

41. In the result, the criminal appeal is dismissed. The impugned judgment and order dated 31.01.2009 passed by the learned Trial Court is affirmed. The appellants, Maheshwari Prasad and Adarsh @ Chandrabhan Rajpoot, are in jail. They shall remain in jail to serve out the sentence awarded to them by the Trial Court.

42. Let a copy of this judgment be transmitted to the Trial Court along with the Trial Court records forthwith for necessary compliance.

Prosecution Story in Nutshell:

4. The prosecution story, in brief, is that the complainant, Jagdish Yadav, r/o village Gohna, Police Station Kotwali Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar, was employed in a textile mill at Delhi, while his children and wife Pushpa Devi were residing separately in the village. On 10.09.2010, the informant received information through telephone that his daughter Priya, aged about 8 years, and son Shani, aged about 3 years, had been found dead inside a well in the village. Upon reaching the village, he came to know that his wife had developed illicit relations with co-accused Surendra Kumar Verma, s/o Munshi Ram Verma, and that his daughter Priya had allegedly seen them in a compromising position and threatened to disclose the same. It is alleged that on account thereof, Pushpa Devi and Surendra Kumar Verma, in furtherance of their common intention, threw both the children into the well and thereafter Pushpa also jumped into the well in an attempt to conceal the occurrence. It was further alleged that villagers had seen Pushpa Devi along with Surendra Kumar Verma near the well during the night/morning of the incident.

5. On the basis of the written report, an F.I.R. was registered under Section 302 and 201 I.P.C against the appellants. The investigation of the case was entrusted to Kamal Kumar Singh, who proceeded to the place of occurrence on 10.09.2010 and conducted the inquest proceedings.

6. Upon completion of investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against the accused-appellant under Section 302 and 201 IPC. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Session, where charge under Section 302 r/w 34 and 201 IPC was framed against the appellants. Both the accused denied the charge, pleaded not guilty, and claimed trial.

7. In order to prove its case, the prosecution examined Jagdish yadav (PW-1), Ram Teerath Yadav (PW-2), Hriday Ram Yadav (PW-3), Suresh (PW-4), Ram Prasad Yadav (PW-5), Dr. Dhirendra (PW-6), S.I. Vimal Kumar Singh (PW-7), and Ram Karan Nishad (PW-8).

8. In defence, the accused-appellants relied upon the charge-sheet in NCR No. 185 of 2004 (Ext. Kha-1) and the application filed under Section 155(2) Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (in short Cr.P.C.) (Ext. Kha-2).

12. The statements of the accused-appellants were recorded under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, wherein accused-appellant Surendra Kumar Verma denied the prosecution allegations in toto and stated that the prosecution witnesses had deposed falsely before the Court. He further stated that the Investigating Officer, after conducting a biased and false investigation, had submitted a false charge-sheet against him. The accused-appellant also denied having any illicit relationship with co-accused Pushpa and asserted that, owing to enmity arising out of pending legal disputes, he had been falsely implicated in the present case. He further stated that he had no knowledge as to how the children died. Accused-appellant Pushpa, in her statement recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., also denied the prosecution case and stated that she had been falsely implicated on account of the alleged illicit relationship with accused Surendra Kumar Verma. She further stated that it was Surendra Kumar Verma who had killed her children and thrown them into the well, and that she had jumped into the well in an attempt to save them.

Submissions made by learned Amicus Curiae for the accused-appellant:-

13. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants submitted that the impugned judgment and order of conviction is contrary to law and evidence available on record. It has been argued that the present case is based entirely upon circumstantial evidence, however the prosecution has failed to establish a complete chain of incriminating circumstances as required in law. It has further been submitted that there was unexplained delay in lodging of the FIR and the prosecution story underwent material improvements during the intervening period. Learned counsel also questioned the reliability of the alleged extra-judicial confession and submitted that the same suffers from material contradictions and was not put to accused Pushpa under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Learned counsel further submitted that motive, last-seen circumstance and involvement of co-accused Surendra Verma have not been proved by reliable evidence. It has also been argued that the medical evidence does not conclusively establish homicidal death and possibility of accidental drowning has not been ruled out. It has also been submitted that Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be invoked to cure deficiencies in the prosecution case and the accused-appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt.

Submissions made by learned A.G.A : -

14. Per contra, learned A.G.A. supported the impugned judgment and submitted that the learned Trial Court has rightly appreciated the oral and documentary evidence available on record. It has been submitted that the prosecution successfully proved motive, extra-judicial confession and surrounding circumstances connecting the accused-appellants with the crime. Learned A.G.A. further submitted that accused Pushpa was found inside the well along with the deceased children and failed to furnish satisfactory explanation regarding the circumstances in which the children died, thereby attracting Section 106 of the Evidence Act. It has also been argued that minor contradictions in testimonies of prosecution witnesses are natural in nature and do not affect the core of the prosecution case. Accordingly, it has been submitted that the prosecution has proved its case beyond reasonable doubt and no interference is warranted with the impugned judgment and order.

Oral Testimonies:

In order to appreciate the issues arising in the present appeal, it is appropriate to examine, in brief, the oral evidence adduced by the prosecution.

15. PW-1 Jagnish Yadav, husband of accused Pushpa, deposed that he was working in Delhi at the time of occurrence and was informed telephonically by his father on 10.09.2010 that his daughter Priya aged about 8 years and son Shani aged about 3 years had died after falling into a well. He further deposed that co-accused Surendra belonged to his village and used to visit and talk to his wife, although he had objected the same on several occasion. Upon returning to the village, when he initially made inquiry from his wife, who told him that both the children had gone for easing themselves and accidentally fell into well. He further deposed that the said well is situated at some distance from his house and, therefore, he found the explanation doubtful, particularly because it was night time and the children could not have gone so far on their own. Upon making further inquiry from villagers, he came to know that after his departure to Delhi, accused Pushpa had developed illicit relation with co-accused Surendra and that Surendra used to visit his wife during night hours. He further deposed that on third day after the incident he took Pushpa into confidence and questioned her regarding the death of the children, whereupon she started weeping and confessed that on the date of occurrence, Priya had seen them in compromising condition and threatened to disclose the same to others, upon which Surendra suggested that both the children be eliminated. Thereafter, both the accused persons allegedly conspired to eliminate the children. In furtherance of their common intention, accused Surendra picked up Priya, while accused Pushpa took Shani, and both proceeded towards the nearby well. Further, Surendra threw both Priya and Shani into the well and thereafter went to the house of Pushpa to bring a torch. Upon returning, he noticed that Priya was still alive and standing inside the well, as the water level therein was only about two feet. By that time, Shani had already drowned. Accused Surendra then stated to Pushpa that in the event Priya survived, the entire incident would be disclosed. Thereupon, Pushpa herself jumped into the well, caught hold of Priya by her hair and forcibly submerged her in water, thereby causing her death. Thereafter, Surendra threw the torch into the well and fled from the place of occurrence, whereas Pushpa remained inside the well. The witness further deposed that on the following morning, accused Pushpa raised alarm from inside the well, whereupon the villagers and family members arrived at the spot, rescued her, and recovered the dead bodies of both the children from the well. On the basis of the disclosure allegedly made by accused Pushpa, the informant lodged the written report, which was verified and proved by him as Ext. Ka-1.

16. During cross-examination, he admitted that he had not personally witnessed the occurrence and that he was residing in Delhi at the relevant time. He further admitted that the report was lodged on the basis of information allegedly received from his wife and villagers after his return from Delhi. He also admitted previous enmity and litigation between his family and the family of co-accused Surendra Verma. The witness, however, denied the suggestion that due to such enmity, the accused persons had been falsely implicated. He further deposed that the well is situated towards the eastern side of the village and at the relevant time there was about $2^{1/2}$ to 3 feet water in the said well. He further admitted that the FIR came to be lodged on the third day of the occurrence. He further deposed that Pushpa was his third wife and he had no suspicion regarding her conduct prior to the incident. He further denied the suggestion that no such occurrence had taken place on the manner alleged by the prosecution.

17. PW-2 Ram Teerath Yadav, elder brother of Jagdish Yadav, deposed that informant had been residing separately prior to the occurrence. He further deposed that on the date of the incident, Jagdish was not present at his house and was working as a labourer in Delhi. He further deposed that the dead bodies of the children were recovered from a well situated approximately 700 meters towards the east of the village. He further deposed that at about 6:00 A.M., Chandrabhan telephonically informed Hriday Ram, the younger brother of the witness, that Pushpa had fallen into the well. Thereafter, the witness along with several villagers proceeded to the spot and noticed a torch switched on inside the well. He further deposed that Pushpa was seen standing in the water while holding the body of Shani in her lap. Thereafter, with the aid of a rope and ladder, the villagers descended into the well and brought out Pushpa along with the dead bodies of both the children. He further deposed that upon being questioned, Pushpa informed them that both the children had gone there to ease themselves and accidentally fell into the well, whereupon she also jumped into the well in an attempt to save them, but failed. He further deposed that his father was the first person to inform the police regarding the incident. He further deposed that he had never seen accused Surendra visiting or leaving the house of Jagdish and Pushpa. He further deposed Jagdish returned on the next day after the occurrence. He further deposed that he was unaware of any conversation that had taken place between Jagdish and Pushpa regarding the incident and that he himself had no such discussion with Jagdish. At this stage, the witness was declared hostile before the trial court.

18. During cross-examination, he deposed that there was no toilet in the house of Jagdish and, therefore, the family members used to go outside for easing themselves. He further deposed that Shani, aged about two and a half years, was unable to walk properly and generally crawled on his knees. He further deposed that the house of Jagdish was situated at a distance of about 50-60 meters from the house of Surendra. He denied having seen Surendra visiting Pushpa. He further deposed that he was unaware of what Pushpa had told Jagdish regarding the occurrence, though he admitted that Pushpa had narrated the incident to Jagdish. He further deposed that Surendra did not come to the place of occurrence. He denied the suggestion that he had colluded with the accused persons and was deposing falsely. He further deposed that litigation was pending between the families of Jagdish and Surendra and, on account thereof, the family members of Surendra did not come to the place of occurrence. He further deposed that he had neither heard nor was aware of any conversation which had taken place between Jagdish and Pushpa in relation to the incident

19. PW-3 Hriday Ram Yadav, brother of Jagdish Yadav, deposed that on the morning following the occurrence he received information from village resident Chandrabhan that accused Pushpa had fallen into the village well. Upon reaching the spot, he found Pushpa standing in water inside the well while the bodies of deceased children Priya and Shani were recovered therefrom with the help of villagers. He further deposed that two days after the occurrence, Jagdish Yadav returned from Delhi and when he questioned Pushpa regarding the occurrence, she disclosed before family members that she had developed illicit relations with co-accused Surendra Verma and that on the intervening night of 09/10.09.2010, deceased Priya had seen them in a compromising position and threatened to disclose the same, whereafter, both children were thrown into the well.

20. During cross-examination, he admitted that prior disputes and litigations existed between the family of accused Surendra Verma and the family of the informant in relation to a quarrel concerning water from a hand-pump, due to which relations between the families were strained. He further admitted that he had not personally witnessed the occurrence and that Pushpa had initially informed villagers that the children accidentally fell into the well while going for easing themselves and that she entered the well in an attempt to save them. He deposed that the informant Jagdish Yadav reached the village from Delhi, two days after the occurrence and the FIR was thereafter lodged. He further deposed that the deceased children's bodies were recovered from a well situated near bushes and open fields where villagers generally went to ease themselves, and admitted that Pushpa's house had no toilet facility. He further deposed that although he had heard allegations regarding illicit relations between Pushpa and Surendra Verma, he had never personally seen them together in any compromising situation. He denied the suggestion that due to prior enmity and suspicion, a false case had been fabricated against the accused persons.

21. PW-4 Suresh Chandra, deposed that Priya, aged about 8 years, and Shani, aged about 3 years, were murdered on 10.09.2010. He further deposed that the panchayatnama of the dead bodies of both the children was prepared at about 11:00 A.M. in the presence of Inspector Ram Prasad Verma, Ram Jag Yadav, Ram Ji Yadav and Pushpa Devi. He further deposed that the dead bodies were recovered from a well overgrown with bushes, situated about 500-600 meters towards the east of the village. He further deposed that on 13.09.2010, the Investigating Officer recovered a red three-cell torch having a black thread tied to it from the said well. He verified and proved the recovery memo of the torch before the Trial Court, which was marked as Ext. Ka-2. He further deposed that the Investigating Officer had also taken photographs of the said well, which were marked as Material Exts. 1 and 2.

22. During cross-examination, he deposed that he had appended his signatures on Ext. Ka-2 at the police station and that the time of recovery had not been mentioned therein. He further deposed that he had signed the panchayatnama while being at his residence. He denied the suggestion that no signatures were obtained at the place of occurrence and that the documents had been signed only at the police station.

23. PW-5 Ram Prasad Yadav, that the dead bodies of deceased children Priya and Shani were recovered from a well situated towards the eastern side of the village with the assistance of villagers. He further deposed that inquest proceedings of the dead bodies were conducted in his presence at the house of Mr. Yadav, father of complainant Jagdish Yadav, wherein Pushpa Devi was also present after being taken out from the well. The witness identified his signatures upon the panchayatnama prepared during the inquest proceedings.

24. During cross-examination, he deposed that the panchayatnama proceedings commenced around 11:00-12:00 noon and concluded within approximately ten minutes. He further deposed that he was not aware whether the Investigating Officer had mentioned the exact time in the panchayatnama or not. He further deposed that at the relevant time he had informed only that the deceased children had fallen into the well and had not disclosed to anyone that they had been murdered and thrown therein. He further deposed that such allegation was being made by him for the first time before the Court. He also denied the suggestion that his signatures were not obtained at the spot and clarified that the same were not made at the police station.

25. PW-6 Dr. R. Dhirendra, District Medical Officer, Sultanpur Hospital, deposed that on 10.09.2010 he was posted as medical officer at District Hospital, Akbarpur, Ambedkar Nagar. He further deposed that on the same he conducted the post-mortem examination of deceased Priya′s body at around 2:10 PM. On external examination he found, both the eyes and mouth were closed, rigor mortis had disappeared from the upper body and was present in the lower part and foam was oozing out of the nose. Following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased:

- Injury No. 1- Abrasion measuring 0.5 cm X 0.3 cm on the upper part of the right eye.

On internal examination, he found that the brain was congested and a foreign body was present in the windpipe. Both lungs were found filled with water. The right chamber of the heart was half-filled with dark-coloured blood. The stomach contained approximately 50 ml of water along with a foreign body, namely weeds. The small intestine contained stool and semi-digested food, while the large intestine contained stool. The liver, spleen and kidneys were found congested. The gall bladder was full and the urinary bladder was found half-filled. He deposed that at the time of the autopsy, body was one day old and in his opinion, the death was likely caused by asphyxia resulting from drowning. He verified and proved the post-mortem report before the trial court, which is marked as Ext. Ka-3.

26. On the same day, at around 2:45 PM, he also conducted the post-mortem examination on the body of Shani, and on external examination he found that the body was approximately one day old, both the eyes and mouth were closed, foam was oozing out from nose, rigor mortis had disappeared from the upper extremities and remained in the lower extremities. He found the following ante-mortem injuries:

- Injury No. 1: Abrasion measuring 0.5 cm X 0.3 cm on the right upper eyelid
- Injury No. 2: Abrasion measuring 0.5 cm X 0.3 cm on the left upper eyelid
- Injury No. 3: Abrasion measuring 1.2 cm X 0.5 cm on the tip of the nose

On internal examination, he found the brain to be congested and a foreign body present in the windpipe. Both lungs were filled with water. The right chamber of the heart was found half-filled with dark-coloured blood. The stomach contained a foreign body along with approximately 25 ml of fluid. Stool, fluid and gas were present in the small intestine, while stool was found in the large intestine. The gall bladder was full and the urinary bladder was half full. The liver, spleen and kidneys were also found congested.

27. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was asphyxia due to drowning. He duly proved and verified the post-mortem report before the Trial Court, which was marked as Ext. Ka-4. He further deposed that it was possible that both the deceased had died during the night intervening 10.09.2010. He further deposed that the debris found on the bodies of the deceased could have adhered thereto as the bodies were recovered in a face-down position in a well surrounded by bushes, from where such debris might have come.

28. During cross-examination, the witness deposed that rigor mortis generally spreads throughout the entire body within 24 hours of death and ordinarily subsides within 48 hours. He further deposed that rigor mortis had started subsiding from the head region of the deceased, which, according to him, is a condition usually found after about 24 hours of death. He further deposed that if bushes were present inside the well, it was possible that the injuries found on the bodies of the deceased could have been caused while falling into the same. He further deposed that if there was water in the well, the possibility of the deceased having died due to falling into the well could not be ruled out. He further deposed that the deceased could have died at any time prior to 2:00 PM on 09.09.2010.

29. PW-7 Vimal Kumar Singh, Crime Branch, Lucknow, deposed that on 13.09.2010 he was posted as Station House Officer at Police Station Akbarpur, District Ambedkar Nagar. On the said date, complainant Jagdish Prasad Yadav submitted a written report alleging that on 10.09.2010 his wife Pushpa and co-accused Surendra Verma, with whom she allegedly had illicit relations, had murdered his daughter Priya aged about 8 years and son Shani aged about 3 years by throwing them into a nearby well. He further deposed that n the basis of the said written report, Case Crime No. 921 of 2010 under Sections 302/201 IPC was registered and investigation was taken up by him. He further deposed that prior information regarding recovery of the bodies from the well had already been entered on 10.09.2010, as per the information given by Mr. Yadav (father of the complainant), and the inquest proceedings were conducted by SI Shyam Lal, thereafter the bodies were sent for post-mortem examination. He further deposed that during investigation he prepared case diaries, inspected the place of occurrence, prepared the recovery memo of the torch recovered from the well and recorded statements of witnesses. He further deposed that accused Pushpa Devi was arrested and her statement was recorded wherein she allegedly confessed her guilt. Thereafter, statements of witnesses including Ram Prasad, Suresh Yadav, Chandrabhan Yadav, Arvind Kumar Verma and independent witness Lallu Yadav were recorded. He further deposed that after completion of investigation, charge-sheet was submitted against accused Pushpa Yadav and Surendra Verma. He verified and proved the recovery memo, site plan and charge sheet and prepared by him before the trial court, which were marked as Ext. Ka-2, Ext. Ka-5 and Ext. Ka-6 respectively.

30. During cross-examination, he admitted that he had not mentioned the time of commencement and conclusion of investigation proceedings in the case diary. He further admitted that the time of recovery of the torch from the well was also not mentioned in the recovery memo. He also admitted that no witness had informed him that the children were murdered and thereafter thrown into the well. He deposed that no inquest report contained the time of commencement or conclusion of the inquest proceedings. He denied the suggestion that no investigation was conducted at the spot and that all proceedings were completed while sitting at the police station.

31. PW-8 Ram Karan Nishad, Head Moharrir, deposed that on 13.09.2010 he was posted at Police Station Akbarpur and on the basis of the written report submitted by the complainant, he registered the check FIR and prepared GD entry No. 39 at 16:10 hours. He proved the check FIR and GD entry as Ext. Ka-7 and Ext. Ka-8 respectively. He identified the handwriting and signatures of SI Shyam Lal on both the panchyatmanas which were marked as Ext. Ka9 and Ext. Ka-10; sample seals marked as Ext. Ka-11 and Ext. Ka-15, sketch of dead bodies marked as Ext. Ka-12 and Ext Ka-16, challan lash marked as Ext. Ka-13 and Ext Ka-17, letter to CMO marked as Ext. Ka- 14.

32. During cross-examination, he deposed that the CO office was situated at a distance of about two kilometres from the police station and post used to be sent daily from the police station to the CO office. He admitted that no date was mentioned below the signature of the CO on the check FIR and that preparation of the check report may have taken about 20-25 minutes. He further admitted that the inquest report did not mention the time of commencement or conclusion of the proceedings and that the original GD was not produced before the Court. He denied the suggestion that the FIR was ante-timed and ante-dated.

Court Analysis:

Evidentiary value of Extra-Judicial Confession:

33. The principal circumstance relied upon by the prosecution against accused-appellants is the alleged extra-judicial confession said to have been made by accused Pushpa before PW-1 Jagdish Yadav after his return from Delhi. According to PW-1, accused Pushpa disclosed before him that deceased Priya had seen accused Pushpa and co-accused Surendra Verma in a compromising position and threatened to disclose the same, whereafter both the accused persons threw the children into the well and thereafter Pushpa herself entered the well and drowned Priya.

34. This Court finds that the aforesaid circumstance, which forms the very foundation of the prosecution case, suffers from serious legal and factual infirmities.

35. At the outset, it is noteworthy that the written report and the FIR were admittedly lodged on 13.09.2010, i.e., three days after the occurrence. However, neither in the written report nor in the check FIR is there any clear recital that accused Pushpa had made any specific extra-judicial confession before PW-1 in the manner subsequently narrated before the Court. The prosecution story regarding confession has substantially improved during oral deposition before the Trial Court. The alleged confession, which constitutes the core incriminating circumstance against the accused-appellants, thus emerges for the first time during trial. Such material improvement strikes at the root of the prosecution case.

36. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants has rightly placed reliance upon Shailendra Rajdev Pasvan v. State of Gujarat, (2020) 14 SCC 750, wherein the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that where no reference to an extra-judicial confession is made in the FIR and the same surfaces subsequently during evidence, such circumstance becomes doubtful, particularly when material contradictions exist regarding the manner and circumstances in which the alleged confession was made.

37. Further, the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses themselves create serious doubt regarding the existence and manner of the alleged confession. PW-2 Ram Teerath Yadav specifically deposed that accused Pushpa merely informed the villagers that the children had accidentally fallen into the well and that she herself had jumped inside in an attempt to save them.

He further categorically stated that he had no knowledge regarding any conversation which allegedly took place between PW-1 and accused Pushpa concerning the incident.

38. Contrary thereto, PW-3 Hriday Ram Yadav deposed that accused Pushpa allegedly confessed before the family members that she had illicit relations with accused Surendra Verma and that both children were thrown into the well after deceased Priya witnessed them in a compromising condition.

39. Thus, there exists a material contradiction between the prosecution witnesses themselves with regard to the very existence, manner and audience of the alleged confession. One witness denies knowledge thereof altogether, whereas another witness claims that the confession was made before family members collectively. Such contradictions strike at the root of the prosecution case and render the alleged confession wholly unsafe to rely upon.

40. Furthermore, the learned Trial Court, while relying upon the alleged extra-judicial confession, failed to appreciate that the prosecution witnesses themselves were not consistent regarding the manner, timing and audience of the alleged confession. The Trial Court proceeded as if the confession stood conclusively proved, despite the fact that PW-2 had specifically denied knowledge of any such confession whereas PW-3 alleged that the same was made before the family members collectively. The Trial Court further failed to consider that no such confession finds mention either in the written report or in the earliest version of the prosecution case, thereby rendering the subsequent oral improvement wholly doubtful.

41. The law regarding extra-judicial confession is no longer res integra. Learned A.G.A. has placed reliance upon Sahoo v. State of U.P., AIR 1966 SC 40, to contend that in the present case extra-judicial confession should be treated as reliable evidence. However, a careful reading of the said judgment itself reveals that the Hon'ble Supreme Court drew a distinction between admissibility and evidentiary weight of such confession. The Court categorically observed that such confessional statements are often utterances of a disturbed or confused mind and before acting upon the same, the exact words used by the accused must be proved by cogent evidence. The Court further held that prudence and justice demand that such evidence ordinarily should not form the sole basis of conviction and may at best be used as a corroborative piece of evidence.

42. In the present case, the alleged confession neither inspires confidence nor receives corroboration from independent evidence. No independent witness has supported the prosecution version regarding such confession. Even the medical evidence does not conclusively support homicidal death, rather PW-6 admitted that possibility of accidental drowning could not be ruled out. Thus, the alleged confession remains wholly uncorroborated.

43. Apart from the above, this Court further finds that the alleged extra-judicial confession was not specifically put to accused Pushpa during her examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. The object and scope of Section 313 Cr.P.C. is not merely procedural but substantive in nature and is founded upon the principles of natural justice embodied in the maxim audi alteram partem. The provision casts a mandatory duty upon the Court to put every incriminating circumstance appearing in the prosecution evidence to the accused so as to afford him/her an effective opportunity of explanation.

44. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants has rightly placed reliance upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sujit Biswas v. State of Assam, (2013) 12 SCC 406, wherein it was held that circumstances not put to the accused under Section 313 Cr.P.C. must be excluded from consideration. Similar principles were reiterated in Indrakunwar v. State of Chhattisgarh, 2023 SCC OnLine SC 1364, wherein it was held that the Court is obligated to put all incriminating circumstances to the accused and omission thereof causes serious prejudice to the defence.

45. In the present case, since no specific question regarding the alleged extra-judicial confession was put to accused Pushpa under Section 313 Cr.P.C., the same cannot legally be read against her.

46. Therefore, considering:

(i) absence of clear recital regarding confession in the FIR,

(ii) material improvements during trial,

(iii) contradictions between PW-2 and PW-3,

(iv) lack of independent corroboration,

(v) failure to put such incriminating circumstance to accused Pushpa under Section 313 Cr.P.C.,

47. This Court is of the considered opinion that the alleged extra-judicial confession is wholly unreliable and unsafe to form the basis of conviction.

Burden of Proof and Applicability of Section 106 of the Evidence Act:

48. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that both the deceased children were last seen in the company of accused Pushpa and that accused Pushpa herself was found inside the well from where the bodies of the deceased children were recovered. It has further been argued that since the occurrence had taken place during night hours and the relevant facts were especially within the knowledge of accused Pushpa, the burden lay upon her under Section 106 of the Indian Evidence Act to explain the circumstances in which the children died. According to learned A.G.A., failure of the accused to furnish satisfactory explanation constitutes an additional incriminating circumstance against her.

49. Per contra, learned counsel for the appellants has submitted that Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot be invoked to relieve the prosecution of its initial and primary burden of proving the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. It has been argued that accused Pushpa had consistently offered explanation that the children had gone for easing themselves near the well, accidentally fell therein and that she herself jumped into the well in an attempt to save them. It has further been submitted that unless the prosecution first establishes a complete chain of incriminating circumstances, adverse inference under Section 106 cannot be drawn against the accused.

50. The law relating to burden of proof in criminal trials is well settled. Section 101 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 embodies the cardinal principle of criminal jurisprudence that the burden always lies upon the prosecution to prove the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. Section 106 of the Evidence Act, 1872 is only an exception to the aforesaid general rule and cannot be interpreted so as to shift the primary burden of proving guilt upon the accused.

51. In this regard, learned counsel for the appellants has rightly placed reliance on Shambu Nath Mehra v. State of Ajmer, (1956) 1 SCC 337, wherein it was categorically held that Section 106 is not intended to relieve the prosecution of its duty to prove the guilt of the accused. The Hon′ble Supreme Court observed that the provision applies only to such exceptional facts which are especially and pre-eminently within the knowledge of the accused and which it would be impossible or disproportionately difficult for the prosecution to establish. The Hon′ble Supreme Court further cautioned that Section 106 cannot be construed in a manner which would result in placing the burden upon the accused to prove his innocence. This principle squarely applies to the facts of the present case.

52. In the instant matter, the prosecution has itself attempted to establish the occurrence through alleged direct and circumstantial evidence by relying upon motive, extra-judicial confession and surrounding circumstances. The prosecution case is not one where the facts were exclusively incapable of being proved except through the accused. Rather, the prosecution itself examined witnesses in support of its own version regarding the occurrence. Therefore, once the prosecution undertook the burden of proving the occurrence through its own evidence, it cannot invoke Section 106 merely to overcome deficiencies in the prosecution case.

53. In this regard, reliance placed by learned counsel for the appellants upon Murlidhar v. State of Rajasthan, (2005) 11 SCC 133, is also apposite. In the said case, the Hon′ble Supreme Court held that where the prosecution itself proceeds on the footing that there are eyewitnesses to the occurrence, Section 106 of the Evidence Act cannot subsequently be invoked to sustain conviction when the prosecution evidence itself suffers from contradictions and improbabilities. The Apex Court held that the prosecution must first establish foundational facts before any burden can shift upon the accused.

54. Similarly, reliance placed by the learned counsel for the appellant upon Nupur Talwar (Dr.) v. State of U.P., 2017 SCC OnLine All 2222, is also applicable to the present case. The Court therein held that Section 106 cannot be utilized to fill up lacunae in the prosecution case and that the prosecution must independently establish the chain of circumstances before adverse inference can be drawn against the accused.

55. The aforesaid principles have recently been reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Nagendra Sah v. State of Bihar, (2021) 10 SCC 725 and Anees v. State (NCT of Delhi), (2024) 15 SCC 48, wherein it was held that failure of the accused to explain circumstances under Section 106 may at best provide an additional link only when the prosecution has otherwise succeeded in establishing a complete chain of incriminating circumstances.

56. In the present case, the foundational facts themselves remain doubtful. The prosecution version initially was that the children accidentally fell into the well and accused Pushpa had entered the well in an attempt to save them. PW-2 specifically deposed that accused Pushpa informed villagers that the children had accidentally fallen into the well and she herself had jumped inside to save them. Even according to prosecution witnesses, accused Pushpa was found alive inside the well in the morning and was rescued by villagers. The conduct attributed to accused Pushpa is not wholly inconsistent with the defence version.

57. Furthermore, The learned Trial Court erred in shifting the burden upon the accused-appellants without the prosecution first discharging its primary burden of proving the foundational facts beyond reasonable doubt. The Trial Court invoked the conduct of accused Pushpa being found inside the well as an incriminating circumstance, while failing to appreciate that accused Pushpa had consistently offered an explanation that she had entered the well in an attempt to save the children after they accidentally fell therein. In absence of a complete and cogent chain of incriminating circumstances, adverse inference under Section 106 of the Evidence Act could not have been drawn against the accused-appellants

58. Thus, in absence of a complete and unimpeachable chain of circumstances, merely because accused Pushpa was present inside the well along with the deceased children would not by itself be sufficient to invoke Section 106 of the Evidence Act so as to shift the burden of proof upon her. The prosecution must stand on the strength of its own evidence and cannot derive support from the weakness of the defence.

Delay in Lodging of FIR

59. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that the FIR in the present case was lodged after an inordinate and unexplained delay of approximately three days from the date of occurrence and the said delay materially affects the credibility and spontaneity of the prosecution case. It has been argued that the occurrence allegedly took place during the intervening night of 09/10.09.2010, whereas the FIR came to be lodged only on 13.09.2010 after sufficient time for deliberation and consultation.

60. Per contra, learned A.G.A. has submitted that the delay stands sufficiently explained as PW-1 Jagdish Yadav was residing in Delhi and the FIR came to be lodged after his return to the village.

61. Admittedly, the dead bodies of the deceased children were recovered from the well on the morning following the occurrence itself. The prosecution evidence further reveals that police authorities were informed immediately thereafter and inquest proceedings were conducted on the same day. Thus, the investigating machinery had already been set into motion and police had reached the spot at the earliest point of time.

62. At this juncture, it would be apposite to notice the distinction between proceedings contemplated under Section 174 Cr.P.C. and registration of a First Information Report under Section 154 Cr.P.C. The object of an inquest proceeding under Section 174 Cr.P.C. is confined to ascertaining the apparent cause of death and the nature of injuries found on the body of the deceased. Such proceedings are merely preliminary in character and do not constitute investigation into a cognizable offence in the strict legal sense. An inquest report is not substantive evidence and cannot be treated as a substitute for a promptly lodged FIR where allegations of homicidal death are involved.

63. In the present case, it is admitted position that immediately after recovery of the dead bodies, police authorities were informed and inquest proceedings were conducted on the very date of occurrence itself. Therefore, the prosecution was under a corresponding obligation to satisfactorily explain as to why, despite police intervention at the earliest point of time and despite availability of family members at the spot, no FIR alleging commission of murder came to be lodged until after lapse of approximately three days i.e. only after PW-1 returned from Delhi.

64. The aforesaid circumstance assumes further significance in view of the material inconsistencies appearing in the testimonies of the prosecution witnesses regarding the return of PW-1, the alleged extra-judicial confession and the subsequent lodging of the FIR.

65. PW-1 Jagdish Yadav, in his deposition, has not specifically stated the exact date on which he returned from Delhi. He merely stated that on the third day after the occurrence he took accused Pushpa into confidence and thereafter she allegedly made confession before him regarding the incident, pursuant to which the FIR came to be lodged.

66. However, PW-2 specifically deposed that PW-1 returned from Delhi on the second day after the occurrence, i.e. on 12.09.2010 and PW-3 has also stated that PW-1 returned on the second day after the occurrence, and thereafter they went to the police station for registration of the FIR on the same day itself.

67. Thus, according to PW-2 and PW-3, the FIR should have been lodged immediately after arrival of PW-1, whereas according to PW-1, the FIR came to be lodged only after accused Pushpa allegedly made confession before him after he took her into confidence.

68. This creates a serious inconsistency regarding the very genesis and development of the prosecution case because if, according to PW-2, they had immediately left for lodging the FIR upon arrival of PW-1, then the prosecution version regarding the alleged extra-judicial confession having taken place prior to registration of the FIR becomes doubtful.

69. In other words, the prosecution has failed to clearly establish:

(i) the exact date of arrival of PW-1 from Delhi;

(ii) the exact date and time of lodging of FIR;

(iii) the point of time at which the alleged confession was made; and

(iv) whether the FIR was lodged before or after the alleged confession.

70. These contradictions are not minor discrepancies arising out of lapse of memory, but go to the very root of the prosecution story and materially affect its credibility.

71. Furthermore, the learned Trial Court, though noticing that PW-1 was residing in Delhi and had returned subsequently, failed to properly appreciate the significance of the delay in lodging the FIR. It failed to consider that the inquest proceedings themselves were admittedly initiated by Shri Yadav, father of PW-1, on the very date of occurrence. However, despite availability of family members and despite police intervention at the spot itself, no FIR was lodged immediately.

72. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that prompt lodging of FIR lends assurance to the prosecution case as it minimizes the possibility of deliberation, embellishment and subsequent improvement. Conversely, where there is substantial delay and the prosecution story undergoes material changes during the intervening period, the Court is required to scrutinize the prosecution evidence with greater caution.

73. In the facts of the present case, the possibility of consultation, deliberation and gradual development of the prosecution story during the intervening period cannot be safely ruled out.

Appreciation of Evidence Qua Accused-Appellant Surendra

74. So far as accused-appellant Surendra is concerned, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to establish any independent incriminating circumstance conclusively connecting him with the commission of the alleged offence.

75. Admittedly, there is no direct evidence against accused-appellant Surendra. No prosecution witness has deposed having seen him near the place of occurrence during the relevant time. There is also no evidence establishing that the deceased children were last seen alive in his company. No recovery, forensic material or scientific evidence has been brought on record connecting accused-appellant Surendra with the alleged occurrence.

76. The prosecution primarily sought to implicate accused-appellant Surendra on the basis of alleged illicit relationship with accused Pushpa and the alleged extra-judicial confession. However, as already discussed hereinabove, the alleged motive itself has not been conclusively established by reliable and independent evidence. Similarly, the alleged extra-judicial confession suffers from material contradictions, improvements and inherent improbabilities and does not inspire confidence.

77. This Court further finds that the learned Trial Court placed undue reliance upon the statement of accused Pushpa recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., wherein she alleged that accused-appellant Surendra had thrown the children into the well. However, such statement of a co-accused cannot be treated as substantive evidence against another accused person. The statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. is intended only to provide an opportunity to the concerned accused to explain incriminating circumstances appearing against him or her and cannot independently form basis for conviction of a co-accused in absence of legally admissible corroborative evidence.

78. The prosecution witnesses themselves admitted existence of prior disputes and litigations between the families, thereby rendering possibility of false implication incapable of being completely ruled out.

79. Thus, in absence of any independent, cogent and reliable evidence connecting accused-appellant Surendra with the commission of offence, this Court is of the considered view that the prosecution has failed to prove the charges against him beyond reasonable doubt. Mere suspicion, however grave, cannot substitute proof beyond reasonable doubt.

Medical and Forensic Evidence vis-A-vis Prosecution Theory of Homicidal Drowning:

80. PW-6 Dr. Dhirendra, who conducted the post-mortem examination upon the bodies of both deceased children, opined that death had occurred due to asphyxia resulting from drowning. However, the medical evidence merely establishes the cause of death and not necessarily the manner of death. In forensic jurisprudence, a distinction always exists between "cause of death" and "manner of death". While the former relates to the physiological reason leading to death, the latter concerns whether the death was homicidal, suicidal, accidental or natural. In the present case, although drowning stands medically established as cause of death, the prosecution was still required to independently establish through reliable evidence that the drowning was homicidal in nature.

81. Significantly, except minor abrasions near the eyes and nose, no ante-mortem injuries suggestive of violent assault, forcible restraint, throttling, smothering or struggle were found on the bodies of either deceased child. No nail marks, grip marks, contusions, abrasions on wrists, defensive injuries or signs of physical resistance were noticed during post-mortem examination.

82. The doctor himself admitted during cross-examination that the abrasions found upon the bodies could occur due to contact with bushes or rough surfaces while falling into the well. He further admitted that if water was present in the well, possibility of accidental fall resulting in drowning could not be ruled out.

83. The prosecution version specifically alleges that deceased Priya had initially survived after falling into the well and was thereafter forcibly submerged in water by accused Pushpa. However, if such forcible drowning had actually taken place, particularly involving conscious and resisting children, some corresponding signs of physical struggle or resistance would ordinarily be expected upon the bodies. In cases of homicidal drowning, forensic indicators such as struggle injuries, defensive marks, bruising caused by restraint or signs of forcible immersion often assume evidentiary significance. The complete absence of such injuries materially weakens the prosecution theory.

84. The learned Trial Court, while accepting the prosecution version of forcible drowning, failed to properly appreciate this important forensic aspect. The Trial Court proceeded on presumptions unsupported by medical science and failed to consider that the medical evidence did not conclusively corroborate the prosecution theory regarding forcible submersion and homicidal drowning.

85. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that where medical evidence is equally consistent with two possible views, one pointing towards guilt and the other towards innocence, the view favourable to the accused must ordinarily be adopted. Medical evidence may corroborate or contradict ocular evidence, but where the prosecution case itself rests substantially upon circumstantial evidence, inability of medical evidence to conclusively support the prosecution theory assumes greater significance.

86. In the present case, the medical and forensic evidence does not conclusively establish homicidal drowning and fails to furnish reliable corroboration to the prosecution case. On the contrary, the possibility of accidental drowning has not been effectively ruled out by the prosecution beyond reasonable doubt.

Failure to Establish Complete Chain of Circumstances:

87. Learned counsel for the accused-appellants has submitted that the present case rests entirely upon circumstantial evidence and the prosecution has failed to establish a complete and unbroken chain of incriminating circumstances pointing only towards the guilt of the accused-appellants. In support of the aforesaid contention, reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116.

88. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid judgment authoritatively laid down that in a case based upon circumstantial evidence:

(i) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn must be fully established;

(ii) the circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused;

(iii) the circumstances should be of conclusive nature and tendency;

(iv) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one sought to be proved; and

(v) there must be a complete chain of evidence so as not to leave any reasonable ground for a conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused.

89. The aforesaid principles constitute the settled foundation of criminal jurisprudence governing cases resting upon circumstantial evidence.

90. In the present case, the prosecution seeks to establish guilt of the accused-appellants primarily on the basis of:

(i) alleged illicit relationship between accused Pushpa and co-accused Surendra Verma;

(ii) alleged extra-judicial confession;

(iii) presence of accused Pushpa inside the well;

(iv) alleged last-seen circumstance; and

(v) subsequent conduct of the accused persons.

91. However, upon careful scrutiny of the evidence available on record, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to conclusively establish even a single incriminating circumstance beyond reasonable doubt, much less a complete chain excluding every hypothesis of innocence.

92. So far as the alleged motive relating to illicit relationship is concerned, the same remains wholly unsubstantiated by independent evidence. None of the prosecution witnesses claimed to have personally seen accused Pushpa and Surendra Verma in any compromising position. The prosecution case in this regard rests merely upon suspicion and hearsay allegations. Mere suspicion, however grave, cannot take the place of legal proof.

93. The next circumstance relied upon by the prosecution is the alleged extra-judicial confession made by accused Pushpa. However, as already discussed hereinabove, the said confession suffers from serious contradictions and inherent improbabilities. The confession does not find clear mention in the FIR; there are material inconsistencies regarding the time and manner in which it was allegedly made; and even the prosecution witnesses contradict each other on this aspect. Moreover, the alleged confession was not specifically put to accused Pushpa during her examination under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Thus, the said circumstance cannot safely be relied upon.

94. The prosecution has further attempted to rely upon the fact that accused Pushpa was found inside the well along with the deceased children. However, the said circumstance by itself does not conclusively establish guilt. On the contrary, accused Pushpa consistently offered explanation that the children had accidentally fallen into the well while going for easing themselves and that she herself jumped inside in an attempt to save them. PW-2 also supported the said version in his testimony.

95. The last-seen circumstance has also not been proved in accordance with law. No witness has deposed that the deceased children were last seen alive exclusively in the company of both accused-appellants immediately prior to the occurrence. No evidence has been led to establish that the accused persons were seen taking the children towards the well during the relevant time. Thus, the prosecution has failed to establish proximity of time and place necessary for applying the last-seen theory.

96. It is well settled that last-seen theory is itself a weak type of evidence and can be relied upon only where the time gap between the accused and deceased being last seen together and the occurrence of death is so small that possibility of intervention by any third person is completely excluded. No such circumstance exists in the present case.

97. Furthermore, the FIR itself was lodged after substantial delay and the prosecution story underwent material improvements during the intervening period. The initial version before the villagers and police authorities was admittedly one of accidental drowning. The prosecution version subsequently developed into one of homicidal death after the arrival of PW-1 from Delhi. Such improvements materially weaken the credibility of the prosecution case.

98. Thus, the chain of circumstances sought to be established by the prosecution is neither complete nor incapable of explanation upon any hypothesis other than guilt of the accused-appellants. Several missing links, inconsistencies and alternative possibilities emerge from the evidence on record.

99. In criminal jurisprudence, suspicion, however strong, cannot substitute proof. Unless the chain of circumstances is so complete as to conclusively point towards guilt and exclude every reasonable hypothesis of innocence, conviction cannot be sustained.

100. The learned Trial Court committed manifest error in holding that the chain of circumstances stood fully established, whereas several vital links remained unproved. There was no reliable last-seen evidence against either of the accused-appellants; no independent witness supported the allegation regarding illicit relationship; the alleged motive itself rested merely upon suspicion and hearsay; and the prosecution witnesses admitted existence of prior enmity and litigations between the families. Despite such material deficiencies, the Trial Court proceeded to record conviction on the basis of conjectures and assumptions rather than legally admissible and reliable evidence.

101. Accordingly, this Court is of the considered opinion that the prosecution has failed to establish a complete and unbroken chain of incriminating circumstances against the accused-appellants beyond reasonable doubt.

Conclusion:

102. On cumulative consideration of the entire evidence available on record, this Court finds that the prosecution has failed to establish a complete and unbroken chain of incriminating circumstances against the accused-appellants. The prosecution evidence suffers from material contradictions, improvements and inherent improbabilities. The alleged extra-judicial confession is unreliable, the last-seen circumstance has not been proved and the delay in lodging of the FIR remains inadequately explained.

103. It is a settled principle of criminal jurisprudence that suspicion, however grave, cannot take the place of legal proof. Where two views are possible, the one favourable to the accused must necessarily be adopted. The prosecution must stand upon the strength of its own evidence and cannot derive benefit from weaknesses of the defence.

104. In view of the aforesaid discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that the findings recorded by the learned Trial Court are not sustainable in the eyes of law and the accused-appellants are entitled to benefit of doubt.

105. Accordingly, both the present appeals are hereby allowed. The judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court is set-aside.

106. The accused-appellants, Pushpa and Surendra Kumar Verma, are directed to be released forthwith, if not required in any other case. Pending applications, if any, shall stand disposed of.

107. Let a certified copy of this judgment along with the lower court record be transmitted to the court concerned forthwith, and in any case within a period of one week, for compliance.

Appearances of parties

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Keshav Sahai, V.p. Singh Kashyap Counsel for Respondent(s) : D.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Mr. V.P. Singh Kashyap, learned counsel for the appellant, Mr. G.N. Kanaujiya, learned A.G.A.-I for the State/ respondent and perused the record.

2. This criminal appeal has been filed by accused-appellant, Karan Singh, against the judgment and order dated 09.06.1988 of learned Trial Court passed in Sessions Trial No. 272 of 1987 (State v. Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 94 of 1987, under Sections 449, 302/34, 307/34 IPC, Police Station Tanda, District Rampur.

3. Brief facts of the case as revealed from the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, is that informant Charan Singh, son of Late Rohtash Singh, is resident of Mewla Dharu, Police Station Tanda, District Rampur has written himself the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, and lodged the same at Police Station Tanda, District Rampur. Informant Charan Singh (PW-1) has stated in his written report that "my name is Charan Singh. My father's name is Rohtash Singh. I am resident of Mewla Dharu. My house and house of my uncle, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, are situated in front of each other. Between my uncle and my father, there was no cordial relationship. They quarrel even on petty issues by abusing each other. Yesterday, on 14.06.1987 in the morning, my father had gone to Kashipur to get the engine repaired and to take diesel. When he has returned at the house at about 11 P.M. then in the passage, both brothers started abusing each other in respect of old issues. My father, after parking his tractor, climbed on the roof. Behind him, we including myself, my mother Anchali Devi, sisters Bhago Devi, Murti Devi and Sama Kaur have also reached at the roof. Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh bringing a gun from his house and Karan Singh, who is also resident of my village, came to our boundary (gher) and Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh started firing upon my father and upon us in upper direction with intention to kill. He fired two shots, out of which, one hit at the chest of my father and the other hit the hands of my mother. After receiving gunshots, my father fell down. We started taking care of our father then my uncle Hari Singh and Karan Singh by stairs have come on the roof and shot fire on my mother and father. Due to which, they both died on the spot. Then we jumped towards the house of Budda and ran away and saw from the east direction of my house that my uncle was dragging the dead body of my father and Karan Singh was dragging the dead body of my mother through stairs, took them to the house of my uncle. My sisters, Km. Bhago Devi and Sama Kaur, have also received pellets injury. On hearing our cries, people of the village came out from their houses. We have seen and identified my uncle Hari Singh and Karan Singh in moonlight and in the light of the lamp. I had also told about the incident to my uncle Ram Saroop Singh of Mewla Kala. This written report was written on 15.06.1987 and given to the police on the same day itself.

4. On the basis of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1 dated 15.06.1987, a chik F.I.R. was registered at Case Crime No. 94 of 1987, under Sections 452, 302, 307 IPC, Police Station Tanda, District Rampur by Constable Clerk Gajraj Singh (PW-6). At the time of registration of the F.I.R., S.O. Y.S. Ahlawat (PW-4) was also present at the police station.

5. After registration of the F.I.R., investigation of the case was taken by S.I. Y.S. Ahlawat (PW-4). The Investigating Officer after receiving the information about the incident reached at the place of incident and inspected the same. He found the dead body of Rohtash Singh and Anchali Devi in the house of Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. On the dictation of the Investigating Officer, S.I. K.K. Verma prepared the panchayatnama, Exhibit Ka-3, of the dead body of the deceased, Rohtash Singh, challan nash, Exhibit Ka-4, diagram of dead body, Exhibit Ka-5, report to CMO, Exhibit Ka-6, letter to RI, Exhibit Ka-7, and he sealed the dead body of the deceased, Rohtash, in cloth and prepared the sealed sample, Exhibit Ka-8. S.I. K.K. Verma also prepared panchayatnama of the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, Exhibit Ka-9, challan nash, Exhibit Ka-10, diagram of the dead body, Exhibit Ka-11, letters to CMO and RI, Exhibits Ka-12 and Ka-13, and also sealed the dead body of deceased, Anchali Devi, in cloth and prepared then sealed sample, Exhibit Ka-14. Thereafter, dead bodies of the deceased, Rohtash Singh and Anchali Devi, were handed to Constable Pratap Singh and Mahendra Singh for autopsy. The Investigating Officer inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site plan, Exhibit Ka-15. He has also taken bloodstained and simple plaster of cement from the jeena (stairs) and prepared the recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-16. He also took the bloodstained and simple soil from the house of accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, where the dead bodies of the deceased were found and prepared recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-17. From the roof of the house of the deceased, Investigating Officer also took bricks. Among these bricks, in one brick, there was mark of pellets and on others, there was bloodstains and he prepared recovery memo, Exhibit Ka-18. He also took from the roof, bloodstained and simple maize and prepared Exhibit Ka-19. From the roof of the house of the deceased, five empty cartridges, pellets and buttons (tikli) were taken into possession and fard was prepared as Exhibit Ka-20. From the roof also, broken bangles of the deceased, Anchali Devi, were taken into possession and prepared memo as Exhibit Ka-21. The Investigating Officer also took into possession oil lamp that was kept in the courtyard (aangan), and a fard was prepared as Exhibit Ka-22. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer took accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, in police custody remand and on pointing out of accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, recovered a licensee double barrel gun no. 21876, Made in England, that was wrapped in a bag, made of shun, from the sugarcane field of his brother Ram Swaroop about two meters away from the boundary (medh) and prepared recovery memo as Exhibit Ka-23. The Investigating Officer also recovered empty cartridges and licensee gun and sent them to the ballistic expert to send his report, Exhibit Ka-2, showing that empty cartridges were fired from the licensee gun of the accused-Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh.

6. The Investigating Officer Y.S. Ahlawat (PW-4) recorded the statements of informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and other witnesses of the facts and formal witnesses. After completing all the formalities of the investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted charge-sheet, Exhibit Ka-25, against the accused-appellant, Karan Singh and Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. The injured Km. Sama Kaur and Km. Bhago Devi were sent by the police for their medical examination.

7. Dr. Satyendra Kumar (PW-5) examined Km. Sama Kaur and prepared injury report as Exhibit Ka-26. He found following injuries on the body of Km. Sama Kaur :-

" (i) Solitary gun-shot lacerated wound measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on front of nose. Margins lacerated, inverted, clotted blood present on wound, no pallet palpate, no blackening or charring seen.

(ii) Solitary gun-shot lacerated wound measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep on right side of face about 3 cm anterior to right ear. Margins lacerated, inverted, clotted blood present on wound. No fresh bleeding present. No blackening and charring seen.

(iii) Gun-shot lacerated wounds (3 in number) on scalp on right side, each measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm x muscle deep, margins inverted, lacerated, clotted blood seen on wound. No fresh bleeding seen. No blackening, tattooing etc. seen."

Dr. Satyendra Kumar (PW-5) also examined the injured Km. Bhago Devi and prepared injury report, Exhibit Ka-27, and found following injuries on her body :-

"(i) Gun-shot lacerated wounds on front of face in except forehead, front of neck, front of chest (upper 1/3), right shoulder and front of right upper arm, each measuring 0.2 cm x 0.2 cm. Some are superficial and some are muscle deep. Depth on chest not measured. No blackening, tattooing seen. Clotted blood present on wounds. Margins inverted, lacerated. No. of wounds 48 (8 on face, 18 on neck, 6 on chest, 6 on right shoulder and upper arm). X-ray advised."

8. Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7) conducted the post-mortem examination of the dead bodies of deceased, Rohtas Singh and Smt. Anchali Devi, and prepared the post-mortem reports, Exhibit Ka-31. Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7), on examining the dead body of deceased, Rohtash Singh, found the following ante-mortem injuries on his body :

(i) Fire-arm wound of entry 2 cm x 2 cm x brain cavity deep, communicating to injury no. 2. Injury present over left ear. Blackening, scorching and tattooing present.

(ii) Fire-arm wound of exit 6 cm x 6 cm over right eye communicating to injury no. 1, brain matter protruding out. No blackening and scorching and tattooing present.

(iii) Multiple fire-arm wounds of entry, each 1/3 cm x 1/3 cm x muscle deep on the front of chest in middle in area of 10 cm x 10 cm.

(iv) Multiple fire-arm wounds of entry, each 1/3 x 1/3 cm x muscle deep on the front of left forearm 3 cm. above wrist in the area of 5 cm x 5 cm.

In my opinion, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries."

9. Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7) also found the following ante-mortem injuries on the dead body of the deceased, Smt. Anchali Devi, and according to Exhibit Ka-32, following ante-mortem injuries were found :

"(i) Fire-arm wound of entry 4 cm x 4 cm on the front of chest on left side lying 4 cm below nipple, lung and heart tissue protruding out. Blackening, scorching and tattooing present.

(ii) Fire-arm wound of entry 3/4 cm x $^{3/4}$ cm on the front of abdomen lying 4 cm. away from umblicus on left side. Blackening, scorching and tattooing present.

(iii) Multiple fire-arm wounds of entry on the outer aspect of left thigh in area of 10 cm x 10 cm, each measuring 1/3 cm x 1/3 cm x muscle deep.

(iv) Multiple fire-arm wound of entry over upper 2/3 of left leg in front, each measuring 1/3 cm x 1/3 cm x muscle deep."

In the injury Nos. 3 and 4 - blackening, scorching and tattooing not present.

In my opinion, the cause of death was due to shock and haemorrhage as a result of ante mortem injuries."

10. Investigating Officer filed the charge sheet, Exhibit Ka-25, in the concerned Magistrate Court having jurisdiction. Since the case was exclusively triable by the Court of Session, learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Session.

11. Charges were framed against the accused persons by the learned Trial Court on 15.12.1987 under Section 302 read with 34 IPC, Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC, and also under Section 449 IPC. Accused persons denied the charges and claimed for trial.

12. In support of its case, the prosecution adduced Charan Singh (PW-1) and Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2) as eye-witnesses of the incident; and Ram Aashrey Pandey (PW-3), Y.S. Ahlawat (PW-4), Dr. Satyendra Kumar (PW-5), Gajraj Singh (PW-6), and Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7) as formal witnesses. Apart from the oral evidence, the prosecution also relied on documentary evidence from Exhibits Ka-1 to Ka-28 in support of its case.

13. After recording the evidence of the prosecution witnesses, the accused persons were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C. by the Trial Court. In his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., accused, Karan Singh, denied all the allegations. He accepted that he is a helper of accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. The accused-appellant, Karan Singh, has also stated that due to enmity, he was falsely implicated in this case. He also stated that he was a witness in a case between accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and the deceased Rohtash Singh. Due to this reason, he was falsely implicated by the informant in this case.

14. After recording of the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and completing the proceeding of evidence, the learned Trial Court, after hearing the arguments of both the parties, found accused-appellant, Karan Singh, along with accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, guilty for commission of the crime.

15. Learned Trial Court convicted and sentenced both the accused-appellants under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC to undergo life imprisonment, and to undergo five years' rigorous imprisonment for the offence under Section 307 read with Section 34 IPC. The accused-appellant, Karan Singh, was also convicted and sentenced for the offence punishable under Section 449 IPC to undergo five years' rigorous imprisonment. All the sentences were directed to run concurrently.

16. Aggrieved by the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 09.06.1988, the accused-appellant has preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

17. It is worthwhile to mention here that although accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, and the present appellant, Karan Singh, both were convicted and sentenced by the learned Trial Court vide judgment and order dated 09.06.1988. However, this appeal has been filed only by the present appellant, Karan Singh, therefore, we are adjudicating the present appeal in respect of only appellant, Karan Singh.

18. Learned counsel for the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, has submitted that appellant, Karan Singh, has been falsely implicated in this case. There is no incriminating role assigned by the prosecution against appellant, Karan Singh. The appellant, Karan Singh, has not fired any gunshot, or even has not attacked the deceased persons by any lathi, danda, kick or fist. The appellant, Karan Singh, has not even abused the deceased persons or their family members. The only allegation against the present appellant, Karan Singh, as levelled by the prosecution is that he was present with accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, at the place of occurrence and, after happening of the incident, as per the allegations of the prosecution, appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof through stairs to the room of the house of main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. However, there is no mark of dragging of the dead body of deceased, Anchali Devi. If, in reality, the present appellant, Karan Singh, could have dragged the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, then in this condition, there were many injuries either on lower part or upper part of the body of the deceased, Anchali Devi. However, there is no injury of this nature by which it could be proved that deceased, Anchali Devi, was dragged from the roof through stairs to the room of the house of the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, by the present appellant.

19. In spite of the above facts, the learned Trial Court has not considered these major and material facts in its findings and reasoning. The prosecution, falsely and wrongly with a view to implicate and harass Karan Singh, has named him in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, as an accused. The presence of the appellant, Karan Singh, at the place of occurrence at the time of the incident is doubtful. There is no role in the incident committed by the accused-appellant, Karan Singh. The Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in a proper perspective and legal manner in respect of the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, and wrongly, and against the evidence and settled principles of law, held the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, guilty with the aid of Section 34 IPC. There is no finding in respect of the fact that accused-appellant, Karan Singh, had pre-plan, pre-meditation or pre-consultation with the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, for commission of the crime. Learned Trial Court, without considering these major and material aspects in its judgment and order dated 09.06.1988, and only with the help of Section 34 IPC, wrongly convicted and held the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, guilty without any cogent evidence and against the settled principles of law. In view of the above, the appeal of the appellant, Karan Singh, deserves to be allowed and the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court dated 09.06.1988 is liable to be set aside in respect of the present appellant, Karan Singh.

20. Per contra, learned A.G.A. appearing on behalf of the respondent-State has vehemently opposed the above arguments of learned counsel for the appellant, Karan Singh. Learned A.G.A. has submitted that the present appellant, Karan Singh, was present with the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, from the beginning of the incident till the end of the incident. Although the appellant, Karan Singh, has not fired any gunshot, nor used any lathi, danda or any other means, but he was present with the main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh at the place of occurrence. After happening of the incident, appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the dead body of deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof, through stairs, to the room of the house of the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. This fact indicates that the appellant, Karan Singh, was throughout present with the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, and assisted him in removing the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof to the house of main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. This fact is sufficient evidence to hold the appellant, Karan Singh, guilty with the aid of Section 34 IPC for commission of the crime. There is no illegality or perversity in the judgment and order of the learned Trial Court. Learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in proper and legal perspective, hence, the criminal appeal of the appellant, Karan Singh, is devoid of merit and deserves to be rejected.

21. In the light of the rival submissions of both the parties and from perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, it is revealed that according to written report, Exhibit Ka-1, as written by informant Charan Singh (PW-1), it is stated therein that on the date of incident dated 14.06.1987 at 11:00 p.m., Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh had brought his gun from his house and came into the boundary (gher/sahan) of the deceased, Rohtash Singh, with co-accused, Karan Singh. The main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, from the boundary (gher) fired in the direction of the roof of deceased, Rohtash Singh aiming him. The shot was fired by main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh which hit Rohtash Singh, his wife Anchali Devi, daughters, Km. Bhago Devi and Sama Kaur. Thereafter, according to prosecution story, main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh with present appellant, Karan Singh, came on the roof of the deceased by stairs. After coming on the roof, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh again fired shot upon Rohtash Singh and his wife Anchali Devi. Thus, according to the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, there is no role assigned during the happening of the incident to the present appellant, Karan Singh. The only role assigned to appellant, Karan Singh, is that he was present with Hari Singh. After the death of Rohtas Singh and his wife Anchali Devi, appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the dead body of the deceased Anchali Devi from the roof of her house through stairs to the house of the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh dragged the dead body of his elder brother, Rohtash Singh, from the roof using stairs, that is the only role assigned to the present appellant Karan Singh in this case.

22. In this case, only two eye-witnesses have been produced by the prosecution in support of this case. The first eye-witness is informant Charan Singh (PW-1), who is the son of the deceased Rohtas Singh, and the second eye-witness is Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), who is an injured witness in this case and an eye-witness of the incident and she is also the daughter of the deceased Rohtas Singh and Anchali Devi. From the perusal of the whole evidence of informant Charan Singh (PW-1), who is an eye-witness of the case and was also present at the place of occurrence, when the incident happened, we find that Charan Singh (PW-1) has stated that accused, Karan Singh, is the helper of main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, whose caste is Dhimar. According to informant Charan Singh (PW-1), main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, deceased and his family are Jats by caste. It means that present appellant Karan Singh was a servant-kind of man, who worked with Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh as a servant. From the evidence of informant Charan Singh (PW-1), it is revealed that the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, and deceased, Rohtash Singh, usually and often in a routine manner quarrelled among themselves and usually used to abuse each other. However, there is no statement in the evidence of informant Charan Singh (PW-1) that present appellant, Karan Singh, had abused or quarrelled with deceased, Rohtas Singh, or with his family members at any time. From the perusal of the evidence of the informant Charan Singh (PW-1), we find that it is stated by Charan Singh (PW-1) the same things that were stated in the written report, Exhibit Ka-1. Informant Charan Singh (PW-1) has stated in the same way that Hari Singh had brought his licensee gun from his house and came with Karan Singh. They came to the boundary (gher) of the deceased and Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh fired two gunshots towards his father, mother, and sisters, Km. Bhago Devi and Sama Kaur, aiming the direction of the roof. Those shots hit his father, mother, and sisters, Km. Bhago Devi and Sama Kaur. The shots hit the chest of Rohtas Singh and he fell down. Thereupon, accused persons, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and Karan Singh, came on the roof and Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh again fired upon the father and mother of the informant (PW-1) from his gun. Thus, we find that there is no role assigned to the present appellant, Karan Singh, in firing the gunshots. Thereafter, it is stated by this witness that this witness has seen that Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh dragged the dead body of his father and the present appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the body of his mother into the house of Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, that is the only role assigned to the present appellant, Karan Singh. In his cross-examination, this witness has stated that a case under Section 325 IPC is pending against him and his father, deceased Rohtas Singh, in which appellant, Karan Singh, is a witness.

23. In the same way, the next eye-witness, Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), who is an injured witness, has stated in her evidence the same things and in the same manner as stated by her brother, informant Charan Singh (PW-1). From the perusal of the evidence of the eye-witness, Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), we find that this witness has also stated the same facts and things as were stated by informant Charan Singh (PW-1). Thus, we find that the same role has been assigned by this witness, Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2) is that after the death of her mother and father, present appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the dead body of her mother, Smt. Anchali Devi, from the roof through the stairs to the house of Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh.

24. Thus, from the perusal of the written report, Exhibit Ka-1, and the evidence of informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and injured witness Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), it is revealed that there is only one role assigned to the present accused-appellant, Karan Singh, is that after happening of the incident, appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof through the stairs to the house of the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. The present appellant, Karan Singh, has not recited any insulting words towards deceased, Rohtas Singh, or his family members. The present appellant, Karan Singh, even has not instigated or exhorted the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. The present appellant, Karan Singh, did not have any weapon in his hands, either a firearm or any other weapon like knife, lathi and danda. From the perusal of the prosecution evidence, it is revealed that the present appellant, Karan Singh, has not done any act during the happening of the incident. According to the prosecution story, he was only present with the main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh. Thus, from the perusal of the prosecution evidence, it is revealed that from the beginning of the incident and till the happening of the incident or in other words, from the beginning of the abusing between main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and his brother, deceased Rohtash Singh, and till the death of the deceased Rohtash Singh and his wife Anchali Devi, present appellant, Karan Singh, has not performed any act or overt act in the commission of the crime.

25. This fact is clearly established itself by the statements of the eye-witnesses of the case, informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and injured witness Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), that Karan Singh did not even use filthy or abusive language towards the deceased and their family members. It is said that he was merely present with the main accused at the place of occurrence and, after happening of the incident, dragged the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof, through the stairs, to the house of the main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, that is the only role assigned to him by the prosecution.

26. According to the prosecution, it is said that present appellant, Karan Singh, is a helper of main accused, Hari Singh. From the evidence of informant, Charan Singh (PW-1), this fact is revealed that a case under Section 325 IPC was pending against the informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and his deceased father, Rohtash Singh, in which present appellant, Karan Singh, was a witness. It appears from the evidence and the above facts that, since the present appellant, Karan Singh, was the helper like servant of main accused, Hari Singh, and he was a witness in a case under Section 325 IPC which was pending against Charan Singh and his deceased father Rohtash Singh, therefore, he was falsely implicated in this case with main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, for commission of the alleged crime.

27. Prosecution witnesses, Charan Singh (PW-1), and injured witness, Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), who are the eye witnesses of the incident, in their statements, stated that after happening of the incident, present appellant, Karan Singh, dragged the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, from the roof, through stairs, to the house of main accused, Hari Singh.

28. Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7) who conducted the postmortem examination of deceased, Rohtas Singh and Anchali Devi, and prepared the postmortem reports, Exhibit Ka-31 and Ka-32, stated during his cross-examination that if, after receiving a gunshot, the dead body of Anchali Devi is dragged by holding the leg, there will be marks of dragging. If the body is dragged by holding the head, injuries should appear on other parts of the body except the heels. If the dead body is dragged from the stairs by holding the head, and it falls on every step of the stairs, injuries would also be expected on the heels. However, such injuries may not occur because the skin of the heels is too thick. If a dead body is dragged, injuries are generally found on the legs, feet, and palms.

29. Thus, from the perusal of the statement as given by Dr. A.K. Garg (PW-7) in his cross-examination, it is revealed that there is no injury on the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, from which it could conclusively be inferred and proved that dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, was dragged from the roof through stairs to the house of main accused, Hari Singh. If the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, would be dragged by present appellant, Karan Singh, then, in this condition, some abrasions and contusions are likely to be caused on the dead body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, however, there is no injury of this nature or kind that could indicate conclusively that the body of the deceased, Anchali Devi, was dragged by present appellant, Karan

Singh, after happening of the incident. Thus, on this point, there is major difference between oral evidence and medical evidence, which makes presence of the present appellant, Karan Singh, at the place of occurrence, highly doubtful.

30. It is also a notable fact that a case under Section 325 IPC was pending against informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and his father, deceased Rohtas Singh, in which present appellant, Karan Singh, was the witness. This fact indicates that this could be a reason of falsely implicating the present appellant, Karan Singh, in the present case. Apart from the above facts, it is also a fact that Karan Singh was the helper of main accused, Hari Singh. This fact also could be a reason to falsely implicate and involve the present appellant, Karan Singh, for commission of the crime. Since the present appellant, Karan Singh, was working as a helper with accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, that indicates that he was working with him as a servant in his daily routine works. This fact also appears to be a reason and motive for false implication of the present appellant, Karan Singh, in the present case. Generally, in Indian Societal Framework, when any person is found involved in any crime, it is general tendency to implicate also his helper or servant along with owner, employer, or master. From the perusal of the evidence, it appears that because the appellant, Karan Singh, was the helper of Hari Singh and was also a witness against Charan Singh (PW-1) and deceased, Rohtash Singh, under Section 325 IPC, it appears that due to this reason, the present appellant, Karan Singh, was falsely implicated in this case.

31. From perusal of the finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court, it appears that learned Trial Court has not considered this legal aspect according to the evidence as available on the records that for conviction with the aid of Section 34 IPC, a definite and clear-cut finding must be recorded of this nature by the Court that there was pre-plan, pre-meditation, and pre-consult among the accused persons for the commission of the crime. However, from perusal of the finding and reasoning of the learned Trial Court, we find that there is no finding or reasoning on this legal aspect in the judgment and order of the learned Trial Court. The Trial Court, only on general basis and simply applying the Section 34 IPC without any cogent evidence in respect of pre-plan, pre-meditation, and pre-consult of present appellant, Karan Singh, with main accused, Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh, wrongly held the present appellant, Karan Singh, guilty for commission of the alleged crime.

32. The Constitutional Bench of the Supreme Court, consisting of Four Judges in the case of Krishna Govind Patil v. State of Maharashtra, AIR 1963 SC 1413, has held on Section 34 IPC long before in the year 1963 in para 6 that:-

"It is well settled that common intention within the meaning of the section implied a pre-arranged plan and the criminal act was done pursuant to the prearranged plan. The said plan may also develop on the spot during the course of the commission of the offence; but the crucial circumstance is that the said plan must precede the act constituting the offence. If that be so, before a court can convict a person under Section 302, read with Section 34, of the Indian Penal Code, it should come to a definite conclusion that the said person had a prior concert with one or more other persons, named or unnamed, for committing the said offence."

33. Recently, Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Constable 907 Surendra Singh and another v. State of Uttarakhand, (2025) 5 SCC 433, has held in para 30 that:-

"By now it is a settled principle of law that for convicting the accused with the aid of Section 34IPC the prosecution must establish prior meetings of minds. It must be established that all the accused had pre-planned and shared a common intention to commit the crime with the accused who has actually committed the crime. It must be established that the criminal act has been done in furtherance of the common intention of all the accused."

34. Thus, in the light of the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the cases of Krishna Govind Patil (supra) and Constable 907 Surendra Singh (supra) on Section 34 IPC, we find that for conviction of any person under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC, Court should come to a definite conclusion that said person had prior concern with one or other person, named or unnamed, for committing the said offence. Apart from this, there must be clear-cut evidence on behalf of the prosecution to establish this fact that there was prior meetings of minds between the accused persons for commission of the crime. However, from perusal of the evidence of informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), we find that the prosecution has not led any evidence of this nature from which it could be established that there was a prior meetings of minds or pre-plan, or pre-meditation, or pre-consult between the present appellant, Karan Singh, with main accused, Hari Singh, for commission of the crime. The finding and reasoning recorded by the learned Trial Court in its judgment and order dated 09.06.1988 is also silent on this legal aspect. There is no discussions or reference about the elements of Section 34 in the finding and reasoning of the Trial Court. Learned Trial Court only on simple ground with the aid of Section 34 IPC held the appellant, Karan Singh, guilty without giving any cogent evidence about this fact that there was no evidence of pre-meditation, pre-plan or pre-consult or meetings of minds between the present appellant, Karan Singh, and main accused Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh for commission of the crime.

35. From the perusal of the whole evidence of prosecution and eye-witnesses, informant Charan Singh (PW-1) and Km. Bhago Devi (PW-2), we find that presence of present appellant, Karan Singh, at the place of occurrence on the date and time of the incident, is highly doubtful and suspicious. Due to above reasons and legal aspects, including the evidence, we are unable to affirm the judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court dated 09.06.1988 in respect of present appellant, Karan Singh. The learned Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in proper perspective and in legal manner, keeping in mind the legal elements of Section 34 IPC. We find that the Trial Court without cogent evidence and against the settled legal principles of law, has wrongly held the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, guilty for commission of the alleged crime. Due to this reason, judgment and order of conviction and sentence passed by the learned Trial Court dated 09.06.1988 is liable to be set aside in respect of present appellant, Karan Singh.

36. The criminal appeal is allowed. Accordingly, we set aside the impugned judgment and order dated 09.06.1988 of conviction and sentence passed against the accused-appellant, Karan Singh, by learned Trial Court in Sessions Trial No. 272 of 1987 (State v. Hawai Singh @ Hari Singh and another) arising out of Case Crime No. 94 of 1987, under Sections 449, 302/34, 307/34 IPC, Police Station Tanda, District Rampur. The appellant is acquitted of the charge under Sections 302/34, 307/34 and 449 IPC. The appellant, Karan Singh, is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bonds are cancelled and sureties stand discharged. However, he shall comply with the provisions of Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

37. Let a copy of this judgment be sent to the learned Trial Court forthwith along with the Trial Court record for compliance.

1. The instant Criminal Appeal has been filed against the judgment and order dated 16.05.1987 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge Vth, Bareilly convicting the appellant Ramakant under Sections 302, 201 of I.P.C.

2. When an incident took place on the 8/9th of May, 1980 in the house where the appellant, Ramakant, his father, Munendra Prasad, and the deceased along with other relatives were staying, an F.I.R. was lodged by the appellant himself stating that while the entire family was sleeping on the roof and the wife of the appellant and his younger sister were sleeping on the ground floor, his wife, Prabha Devi after locking herself in the kitchen/store sprinkled kerosene oil over herself and put herself on fire and resultantly died. In the morning of 09th May, 1980 when it started drizzling and everybody came down from the roof, the first informant Ramakant Pandey searched for his wife and when he discovered that smoke was emanating from the store of the house, he pushed the door of the store so that it may open. However, since it was closed from inside, he tried his level best and when the door opened he found that his wife had already died.

3. From the place of the incident, soil which was burnt because of the fire was taken into custody; kadhai which was lying on the left side of the dead-body, container containing two liters of kerosene oil and one match box were recovered and a recovery memo of these articles was prepared as Exhibit Ka-1. Thereafter, the post-mortem of the dead-body was done on 09.05.1980 at 04:30 PM and the cause of death was shown as shock. Upon the conclusion of the investigation the appellant, first informant, Ramakant Pandey was himself made the accused and charges were framed on 04.07.1984 under Sections 302 and 201 of I.P.C. Along with the appellant, on that very same date, there were charges framed against Munendra Prasad, father of the first informant; Smt. Savitri Devi, mother of the first informant; Km. Beena, Asha Devi and Laxmikant, who were the family members, and they were charged under Sections 120-B, 202 of the I.P.C. From the side of the prosecution as many as 12 prosecution witnesses were produced.

4. PW-1, Smt. Ram Kali, was the mother of the deceased. She had stated in her examination-in-chief that the deceased was her only daughter. She had one more son namely Ramesh Chandra Tiwari who was elder to the deceased daughter. The deceased daughter was married to the appellant, Ramakant Pandey, five years prior to the date of occurrance. She had recognized the other accused Munendra Prasad, father of the appellant, Laxmikant, brother of the appellant, Savitri, mother of the appellant, Asha and Beena, sisters of the appellant. The marriage was solemnized after payment of Rs. 24,000/-. After the marriage, the deceased stayed with her husband for around a year but her relations with him were not very congenial. About one year after the marriage, the appellant Ramakant had dropped his wife at her mayka at Farrukhabad. He did not call her for two and half years. When Ramakant′s sister was to get married then he took the deceased along with him. The conciliation occurred because of the intervention of her brothers, Uma Shanker and Girja Shanker of Mohalla Chaudhari, Bareilly. After that also there was information coming to the PW-1 that her daughter was being tortured by her husband. She had also testified in the court that her daughter had told her that the appellant, Ramakant, was having illicit relationship with some other girl as well. She had stated that two days prior to the incident, she had gone to her brother Uma Shanker's house at Mohalla Chaudhary. From there she had gone to visit the mother-in-law of the deceased about whom the PW-1 had heard that she was ill. When she had gone to visit the mother-in-law of the deceased, she had complained about the Almirah and scooter not having been given in the dowry. There only the deceased's mother had asked the mother-in-law of the deceased to make her live separately. Upon this, the mother-in-law and her sisters-in-law of the deceased started scolding her and also gave her beating. At that point of time the mother-in-law had said that if you wanted to live separately, I would ask my son to make you part from this world itself. Then she, PW-1, had stated that her daughter had said that the salary of the husband of the deceased was being kept by her mother-in-law and she was not being given anything. Upon hearing this, the mother-in-law had thrown all the money which was with her so as to reach the daughter of the PW-1. This money was kept by the daughter of the PW-1. Since, the appellant was working in Pant Nagar, the PW-1 had advised her daughter that she should also stay with the accused at Pant Nagar. She had then stated that, on the next day, Ramakant had come to her brother's house and had started weeping and had said to his mother-in-law (PW-1) that she may excuse him as he had committed a great mistake. Upon this Ramakant said that on the advice of his mother and his sisters, he had lost his mind. He had thrown away all the money which the deceased had taken and he had tried to turn her out from his house in the night and thereafter had held her hair and hit her head against the wall because of which she fainted. Thereafter, he poured kerosene oil on his wife and put her on fire and killed her. She said that she would not spare him and call the police and at that point of time when this entire tale was being narrated by the accused-appellant to her, Sushila, Pushpa, Bhagwati and Sharda were present and then Ramakant left her house. Thereafter, she had gone to the police station to get the F.I.R. lodged. This F.I.R. was, however, not lodged by the police. At the police station, there was a gentleman, who was watching all this happening, and he had said that he would telegram about all this to the relevant persons. Upon that she had given him five rupees and thereafter the telegram was sent. However, she had stated in her cross-examination that when Ramakant had come to her house, her brothers and nephews were not at home. She had thereafter informed the court, upon a question being put, as to who all stayed in the house of her brothers Uma Shanker and Girja Shanker. She had stated that she had gone to the police station by herself on a rickshaw. Upon a specific question being put by the court, she had replied that she had never gone to the police station before that particular date. She had in the court herself stated that if she was asked to go to the police station, she would not be able to go by herself. From the police station she had gone to the house of Ramakant, the accused, where a lot of police personnel were there. Upon a specific question being asked as to whether she knew the name of the person whom she had given the amount of five rupees to get the F.I.R. lodged then she replied that she had not asked his name. She also did not know if the telegram had been sent in Hindi or in English. She had stated that the accused had not kept his daughter properly after the marriage. In the telegram, she had not implicated the other family members but had only implicated Ramakant. She had stated that many things she had stated in the court were not recorded in her statement under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. At that time she was not in her proper senses and therefore she could not tell the police that Ramakant was having an affair with another girl. The Inspector of the CID had once again recorded her statement 8 to 10 months after the incident. She had stated that if the mention about the telegram was not there in her statement made under Section 161 of Cr.P.C. before the police and also in the statement given to the CID inspector, she replied that she did not know the reason for that. She, of course, had stated that she had informed both the police and the CID about the demands of dowry. She had also stated that she was not aware of the illness of the mother of the appellant. When her daughter was beaten by the appellant, Ramakant, the immediate neighbours did not come. She had stated that her daughter was alive for five years after her marriage but she did not have any children. She used to be very sad about this fact and also depressed and used to weep also. However, it was wrong to say that because of her depression, she killed herself. She had denied the fact that somebody else had informed her about the death.

5. PW-2, Girja Shanker, was the brother of the mother of the deceased and he had narrated about the incident in the court just as his sister had narrated with regard to the marriage etc. and about how the information of the death reached him.

6. PW-3, Hari Shanker Mishra, was also the brother of the mother of the deceased and he had also told the same facts as were told by the other brother, the PW-2.

7. PW-4 was one Sharda Mishra, who was living in the neighbourhood of the house of the mama of the deceased. She had also told the same story as was the story told by the PW-1. PW-4 had stated that Ramakant had gone to inform his mother-in-law about the fact that he had killed the deceased.

8. PW-5, Ramesh Chandra Tiwari, was the brother of the deceased and had narrated the manner in which his sister was being tortured by her in-laws. He date-wise told the incident as had occurred with regard to the demand of dowry and also with regard to the fact as to how the accused-appellant Ramakant had left his wife at her parental home and also he informed the court as to how by the intervention of the mamas she returned to the house of the in-laws. He had also produced in the court the letters which Ramakant, appellant, had written to the deceased. He had also produced, from his possession, the document which showed how the demands for dowry were made from the girl′s side. He had also informed the court as to how the police had not taken much action in the case and, therefore, he had written to the Chief Minister for investigation by the CID. He had categorically stated in the court that he, upon coming to know about the demands of dowry, had not informed the police as he did not want to further spoil the relations between the two families. When the deceased was left at her parental house in Farrukhabad then no maintenance was given by the accused-appellant and also no application for demand of maintenance was made by the brother of the deceased. He had stated that never before he had informed the police about the demands of dowry and also about the letter which he had written to the Chief Minister. He had not mentioned about the fact that dowry was demanded. First time during the investigation by the CID, this aspect of the matter was revealed. He had also stated that no information was received by him by any telegram which might have been sent on 09.05.1980. He had stated that his mother had probably sent the telegram. He had also stated that his mother had never told him about the fact that the accused-appellant had come her place to inform her about the fact that he had killed his wife. He had also stated that his mother had only told him that she had sent a telegram to someone but did not inform him as to whom she had sent the telegram. He had stated that he was aggrieved by the method by which the police had investigated and thereafter 9-10 months after the incident he had written to the CID. He had also stated that when he had come to Bareilly on 11.05.1980, after the incident had occurred on 09.05.1980, he had not gone to the house of Ramakant and had also not taken the photographs of the place of incident.

9. Upon being cross-examined about the fact that he had sent the photographs of the place of incident to the Chief Minister, he had stated that he had never sent those photographs and if he had stated earlier about the fact that he had sent the photographs then that fact was wrongly stated.

10. PW-6 was Dr. M.C. Sharma, Senior Medical Surgeon of the District Hospital, Bareilly. He had given his opinion extensively about the injuries on the body of the deceased which might have occurred prior to her death. At page no. 67 of the paper-book, he had stated as follows:

"4 - मृतका के शरीर पर मृत्यु से पूर्व की निम्नलिखिल चोटें थी

11. Upon being recalled for cross-examination, PW-6 had appeared again on 05.01.1987 and had stated that he had seen the injuries at the time of the post-mortem and because of the symptoms and signs on the dead-body, he had stated that those injuries were ante-mortem. He had clearly opined that if death had occurred due to suffocation then carbon particles in trachea were to be found and if death had occurred because of the burning and suffocation then it was not essential that carbon particles had to be there in the trachea. He had also stated that there were no injuries on any other part of the body.

12. PW-7 was the photographer, Som Vig, who had taken the photographs of the place of incident. He had stated that he had taken all the photographs and also he had given his statement to the CID and that was much after the incident had taken place. Who had taken him to the place of incident for the purpose of photographs of the dead-body etc., he did not know. He in fact had not remembered even the date on which the photographs had been taken. Whether he had taken the photographs for the purposes of publishing in the press or whether he had taken them for the police, he did not know. However, he was an authorized photographer of the press.

13. PW-8 was Dr. Krishna Kumar Singh, who was a State Medico Legal Expert and had testified before the CID. He had stated that the case was referred to him on 02.01.1981. He had opined that the death had occurred because of murder and that it was not because of suicide or accident and for that, opinion which he was giving, he had stated that he had given a detailed report and that he had stated that she was actually killed by throttling which had resulted in asphyxia and thereafter she was burnt. The chief reason while he was opining that there was murder was that there was no carbon soot particles in the breathing track. If a person was alive and had killed herself then it was essential that there ought to be carbon soot in her trachea etc. He had stated that he had worked from 1954 to 1973 as physician and had never worked as surgeon and had also not treated burn cases. However, he had stated that he had only given preliminary treatment in burn cases. He had very categorically stated that he had neither seen the dead-body nor the place where the incident had occurred. He had expressed his doubt as to how Dr. M.C. Sharma had given his opinion. He had stated that if a person was alive when he was being burnt then blisters were to be found. In the case of asphyxia, he had stated that normally chambers of the heart were empty. However, he had stated that if a person was alive and had got burnt then there would be smoke particles in the trachea. Upon a definite question being asked as to whether Dr. M.C. Sharma had seen the signs of carbon particles in the breathing pipe then the answer was that he could not say with any certainty.

14. PW-9 was Sri Ramesh Chandra Pandey, Sub-Inspector. He had informed the court how he had done the investigation.

15. PW-10, V.P. Singh, was again an Investigating Officer and had narrated the method of investigation.

16. PW-11, Ram Kumar, was the police personnel who had taken the dead-body for post-mortem.

17. PW-12, O.P. Sharma, was the Sub-Inspector of C.B.C.I.D. and he had also given a formal statement before the court with regard to how he had done the investigation.

18. Upon the completion of the investigation, the statements of the accused persons were recorded. They had denied the commission of crime and had stated that there was a false implications. Upon the judgment having been passed on 20.05.1987 wherein only the accused-appellant, Ramakant, was sentenced for life imprisonment under Section 302 of I.P.C. and with a sentence of four years of rigorous imprisonment under Section 201 of I.P.C., then the instant Appeal was filed. However, the other accused namely Munendra Prasad, Laxmikant, Smt. Asha Devi and Km. Beena were acquitted of the charges. Learned counsel for the appellant Sri Rahul Mishra assisted by Sri Raghuvansh Mishra made the following submissions:

(i) Nobody had seen how and when Prabha Devi, deceased, died. Meaning thereby there was no direct evidence of murder. As such it was a case of circumstantial evidence and the prosecution, he submits, did not complete the chain of circumstances so as to prove that the appellant and the appellant alone had committed the crime beyond reasonable doubt. Learned counsel for the appellant submits that definitely the prosecution was not sure about the motive and the reason for the death of Prabha Devi, deceased. At certain places they had come up with the story of dowry and at other places they had come up with a story of the appellant being in relationship with another lady. At one point of time, the case which was taken by the prosecution was that there was a quarrel between the mother-in-law (saas) and sister-in-law (nand) with the deceased who had requested for separate living. Learned counsel for the appellant states that the defence had come up with a definite stand that in fact the deceased wanted a separate living as she was not happily living with her mother-in-law (saas), sister-in-law (nand) and brothers-in-law (devars). The mother-in-law was a cancer patient and the deceased had to do all household works while her husband was employed in Pant Nagar University and was away from home from 06:30 AM to 10:00 PM. The deceased was also unhappy by the fact that she was not having a child. He submits that in fact the PW-1, the mother of the deceased, had also stated in so many words at page no. 27-28 of the paper-book that the deceased wanted a separate living.

(ii) Learned counsel for the appellant states that if one looks at the conduct of the appellant, it clearly showed that he was an innocent person. He was not having any guilty mind and he was a person who had gone to inform the police. He was also the person who had informed the relatives of the deceased. The PW-11, the Constable Ram Kumar, who had gone to the scene of crime, had found that the accused and his mother, Savitri, were very much present at the scene of the crime till such time as he was there.

(iii) So far as the extra judicial confession of the appellant, Ramakant Pandey, to Smt. Ram Kali at 07:00 AM at her residence was concerned, learned counsel for the appellant stated that this version was not believable because if the appellant had gone to the house of Ram Kali who herself was staying in her brother's house where there was not just the brothers living but the brothers' families were also living. Both the brothers had their wives and there were three more sons and all the sons had their own children along with their wives and if the appellant had gone to inform the PW-1 about the death and also about the fact that he had killed her then the relatives of the deceased would not have allowed him to go back from their house. In fact at page no. 63 of the paper-book, the PW-5, son of the PW-1 had stated as follows:

"मेरी मां ने मुझे यह नहीं बताया कि मुलजिम रामा कान्त प्रभा के मरने के बाद उनके पास आया था और उसने प्रभा के मरने का पूरा विवरण दिया और अपने जुर्म का इकबाल किया था और वह उसे पकड़ना चहाती थी नही बताया था। यह भी नही बताया था कि उस वकत और लोग मौजूद थे।"

Learned counsel for the appellant, therefore, states that the story about the extra judicial confession was only a story and thus could not be believed.

(iv) Even though the case was that the deceased was staying in a congested area/locality and many neighbours were staying but no one came forward to testify against the appellant.

(v) The medical evidence which was based on the post-mortem report and the statement of the doctor, who had conducted the post-mortem, namely Dr. M.C. Sharma (PW-6) had absolutely falsified the prosecution story that Prabha Devi, deceased, was murdered. He had stated at page no. 67 of the paper-book that the dead-body was a pugilistic posture and the body had become stiffened. There were extensive burns on the whole body. There was charring and, what is more, there were blisters on the body. As per the page no. 67 of the paper-book "बाकी शरीर में फफोलों की खाल छूट रही थी।"

According to the medical jurisprudence, blisters come when burn injuries are ante-mortem i.e. when a live body is put on fire. Further, the doctor again had stated that the brain was congested along with the chest, pleura, lungs and the heart was full of blood and the blood was cherry coloured. Here again these injuries showed that it was an ante-mortem burn case and in the conclusion at page no. 68 of the paper book in paragraph 6 Dr. M.C. Sharma had categorically stated that "मृतका की मौत जलने के सदमें से हुई थी।" and at page no. 69 of the paper-book the PW-6 clearly says

"मैने शव परीक्षण के समय चोटो को देखा था तथा signs जो चोटों में पाये थे, उनके ही आधार पर चोटों को मैने anti mortem लिखा था। मैने जो burns लिखे है, वे स्वयं यह बताते थे कि वे anti mortem थे, इसीलिये मैने burns anti mortem लिखे है। यदि मृत्यु जलने पर suffocation से होती है, तब carbon particles trachea में पाये जाने सम्भव होते है, लेकिन यदि मृत्यु जलने के कारण हुई हो तथा suffocation न हुआ हो तो आवश्यक नही है कि carbon particles trachea में मौजूद हो। यदि खुद को जलाकर मृत्यु होते तभी भी asphyxia हो सकता है। मृतक के सिर, छाती, या शरीर के किसी अंग पर कोई जाहिरा चोट के निशानात नहीं थे। Third degree तथा extensive burns में line of redness disappear हो जाती है और burns charring हो जाती है। Asphyxia तथा anti mortem burns में internal organs congested हो जाते है।"

Thus it indicated that the prosecution story was a false one and the deceased had died on account of the fact that she had committed suicide.

(vi) A dispute, however, had arisen because of the opinion provided by PW-8, Dr. Krishna Kumar Singh who was a Medico Legal Expert. He had stated that to him the case was sent along with the post-mortem examination report and other relevant documents and thereafter had given his opinion that it was a case of murder. The main reason for him to say that it was a murder was that no soot particles were present in the breathing line. In paragraph no. 7 of his testimony at page no. 75 of the paper-book, the PW-8 had stated that he was only a physician and that he had never taught in any medical college and also he was not an expert of such injuries as he was dealing with. He had in so many words stated that he was not an expert in burn cases. He had neither seen the dead-body of the deceased nor had he visited the scene of crime. However, with regard to there being blisters, he was very clear that the blisters would be there only if a live person was being burnt. At page no. 77 of the paper-book he had stated as follows:

"..... लेकिन छाले यदि कोई शख्स कुछ क्षण जिन्दा रहें, तब पड़ते है वरना नही। यानी यदि आग जलकर बुझ जाये और जलने वाला व्यक्ति कुछ क्षण या घंटे जीवित रहे, तो छाले पड़ जाते हैं। ऐसा मेरा अनुभव है, तथा ऐसा Medical Books में भी लिखा है,"

Thus he, in effect, accepted that the burn injuries were ante-mortem burn injuries.

(vii) In the instant case, on the same set of evidence, four other remaining accused persons were acquitted. It is common knowledge that for a single person to commit a crime of the magnitude which was involved in the instant case was not possible. First of all, it was difficult to catch hold a 25 years old lady and thereafter it was even more difficult to pour kerosene oil on her and burn her without creating any ruckus. In fact there was no screaming etc. at the relevant point of time. Learned counsel for the appellant tried to reconcile the evidence as was produced by Dr. M.C. Sharma, PW-6, and what was said by Dr. Krishna Kumar Singh, PW-8 –

(a) Blistering upon oedema of tissues and capillary dilation was a vital reaction of the body during lifetime of the deceased and that proved ante-mortem burning. Learned counsel for the appellant referred to Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology by HWV Cox [Vth Edition, 1987] Section 4, Chapter-I.

(b) The brain, chest, pleura, lungs and heart were congested. Further more, there was blood found in the heart and the learned counsel for the appellant further relying upon LYON'S Medical Jurisprudence for India [Xth addition] Chapter-XIII, Burns, Scalds and Cold (page 387), submitted that if death took place after receipt of burns from shock, lungs were likely to be found congested. Heart would be a relaxed one with both sides full of blood. Stomach would be dilated and large intestine and congestion of abdominal viscera would be there. With regard to the presence of soot etc., the treaties had stated that if death was by asphyxia due to inhalation of CO2 and other gases which was different from death by shock then only there would be carbon soot present.

(c) When PW-8 had claimed that no carbon or soot particles were found in the breathing line and had inferred that first the live person was killed and thereafter the dead-body was burnt, this was refuted by the learned counsel for the appellant relying upon Dr. R.M. Jhala's book [Chapter-XXXVIII, Page 436] (VIth Edition)

"It should however be realised that in cases of instantananeous death there is no time left for inhalation of soot and the injured dies before that. The carbon particles can be found only if sufficient time is allowed between exposure to the flame and death. Hence the absence of soot does not rule out death from extensive burns or indicate the post-mortem nature of burns. This is the universal opinion of all the authorities."

(d) The presence of cherry colour blood in the heart was on account of the fact that carbon monoxide had reached in the blood stream.

19. Further more, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that definitely the PW-8 had no access to the dead-body as the post-mortem had already been done many months before and therefore everything was academic and not based on the actual situation.

20. Sri Muni Raj Mehrotra, learned A.G.A. however has opposed the Appeal and has submitted that the mother of the deceased was a natural witness whose presence or immediate arrival at the place of incidence was logical. There was no legal bar on relying upon the testimony of a close relative, specially when she was worth believing. He then relied upon Section 106 of the Evidence Act and submitted that when the incident had occurred in the matrimonial home then it was a duty of the husband having special knowledge of the facts to explain as to how the incident had occurred. Also, he submitted that though there was no requirement to elaborate on the motive aspect of the matter but the motive was that the deceased was throughout harassed for dowry and for that purpose she was also killed. The Medical Jurisprudence, he has submitted, also were pointing towards the fact that the appellant had first murdered the victim and thereafter had burnt her. Learned A.G.A. also laid much emphasis on the extra judicial confession by the husband before his mother-in-law.

21. Having heard Sri Rahul Mishra assisted by Sri Raghuvansh Mishra, learned counsel for the appellant and Sri Muni Raj Mehrotra, learned A.G.A. for the State, we find that when the incident occurred in the intervening night of 8/9.5.1980, it had occurred not in the house of the appellant but in the house of the father of the appellant whose name was Munendra Prasad and he was also an accused. We also find that when the incident had occurred and was discovered by the appellant Ramakant Pandey himself then he had immediately lodged the F.I.R. on 09.05.1980 at 06:40 AM. Still further, we find that the appellant and the deceased/victim had married each other sometime in the year 1975 i.e. almost five years before the occurrence. The motive became important to be dealt with because the incident was not seen by anyone, that is to say, that there was no eye-witness account. However, speaking of a motive, three stories had come up; (i) with regard to the dowry, (ii) with regard to an illicit relationship of the appellant with another lady and (iii) because the mother-in-law and the sisters-in-law of the deceased were pestering the deceased and therefore she wanted a separate living.

22. From the evidence on record, we find that the appellant was working in Pant Nagar and used to go out at 06:30 AM and he used to come back almost in the late night at around 10:00 to 10:30 PM. The victim, after five years of marriage, had no children and her family responsibilities in a joint family were becoming very irritating so much so that she wanted to have a separate living. This idea of the victim staying separately was also confirmed by her own mother in her testimony. We also find that the appellant was the one who had got the F.I.R. lodged and he was very much at the site at the time when the PW-11 i.e. Constable Ram Kumar had visited the site. On his visit, PW-11 had found that Ramakant along with his mother and the mother of the deceased were there at the site. So far as the extra judicial confession of the appellant to Ram Kali the PW-1 (mother of the deceased) is concerned, we find that the confession before the PW-1 regarding the murder was not believable. There was no reason whatsoever for the appellant to have gone to the house of PW-1 to make the extra judicial confession and even if he had gone to make the extra judicial confession before the PW-1, he would not have been spared by the PW-1 who was staying alongwith two of her brothers, their wives, three sons of the brothers and the innumerable children. What is more, even PW-5, the brother of the deceased, had stated that his mother had never told him about the fact that the appellant Ramakant had confessed to her that he was the person who had killed the deceased. Under such circumstances, we also rule out the theory of extra judicial confession. We also find that the place where the incident had occurred was a busy place but no neighbour etc. had come to testify in the case. What is more, we find that the doctor who had conducted the post-mortem, PW-6, after having looked into the case and after having studied the dead-body, the site where the dead-body was found and after having considered threadbare the post-mortem report had opined that the deceased had died on account of the fact that she had got burnt by herself. He had analysed the ante-mortem injuries and had thereafter given his conclusion. We have also gone through the statement of the doctor, PW-6, and find that there were blisters on the dead-body which was a clear indication of the fact that a live person was burnt and thereafter she had died. He had also dealt with the fact that as to why there was no soot in the trachea etc. He had stated that if a person died out of pure shock then the presence of soot was not possible and if a person died due to actual asphyxia, due to suffocation, then only the soot particles were to be found in the nasal passage. We have also gone through the various treaties as were produced by the learned counsel for the appellant namely Medical Jurisprudence and Toxicology by H.W.V., the LYON'S Medical Jurisprudence for India [Xth Edition] and also the treaties on this subject by Dr. R.M. Jhala and we have found that what Dr. M.C. Sharma, PW-6, had stated was the correct position of law and science and that principle alone had to be applied while deciding the instant case. When the deceased had died immediately on being burnt, she had virtually stopped breathing and therefore had died due to shock and, therefore, no question of carbon soot entering in the nasal passage arose. Also, when there was ante-mortem death, there had to be blisters on the body and those blisters definitely were present. Definitely, PW-8 who came as an expert appointed by the C.B.C.I.D. had given his opinion. He was not a regular doctor, practicing on the burn cases and also he was not teaching medicine in any medical college therefore he had also given his report on the basis of various science books. His conclusion though had said that if a person had been burnt while he/she was alive had to have soot in his breathing nasal passage, the aspect of the matter that if a person had died due to shock would not have soot in the nasal passage was not considered. Thus, when no one had seen the incident occurring, when there were blisters on the dead-body indicating that a live person had been burnt, when no extra judicial confession was believed and also when the doctor, PW-6, himself had stated that first the living person was burnt and thereafter she died, we are of the view that the view taken by the trial court was erroneous and thus we allow the Appeal and set-aside the judgment and order dated 20.05.1987.

23. The appellant, Ramakant Pandey, is acquitted of all the charges as were framed against him. Bail Bonds and sureties be discharged.

Sri S.N. Singh learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Akhilendra Singh.
Advs. for the Respondents:
Sri Sushil Kumar Pandey learned A.G.A.-Ist for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vinai Kumar Dwivedi, J.)

1. Heard Sri S.N. Singh, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Akhilendra Singh, learned counsel for the appellants; Sri Sushil Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A.-Ist for the State and perused the judgment and material on record of the Trial Court.

2. This criminal appeal has been preferred by the appellants-Neksey and Lakhan Singh, against the judgment and order dated 23.07.1990 passed by the Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, Etawah in Sessions Trial No. 223 of 1989 (State vs. Neksey and Another), arising out of Case Crime No. 91 of 1989, under Sections 307 and 302 IPC, registered at Police Station Jaswant Nagar, District Etawah.

3. Prosecution story as revealed from the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) is that informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1), a resident of village Nagla Chhand, Police Station Jaswant Nagar, District Etawah has got ascribed a written report (Exhibit Ka-1) by Ram Prakash and lodged the same at Police Station Jaswant Nagar, District Etawah, stating therein that my father had retired 6-7 years ago and had purchased 5 bighas of land in the village, which was in the name of my uncle (Neksey) and my father (Munna Lal). My dau-Ram Dularey (the elder brother of my father) was not named in the land. My father and uncle were sowing the land and this year there was wheat crop. After the wheat crop was harvested, my dau-Ram Dularey asked for a share in this land, then my father said that take an equal share in wheat crop of this land, upon this my uncle Neksey Lal said that I will not give any share, do whatever you want to do. Today I was talking with my dau regarding this matter that give us Rs. 3500/- and take equal share in the land, and my father was also sitting near us in front of the door, then at about 9 o′clock in the day my uncle Neksey came carrying a kanta and Neksey′s son Lakhan Singh came carrying a knife and said that finish him today, he asks for share in the land. My uncle Neksey caught hold of my father and Lakhan Singh, with intention to kill, stabbed a knife in the abdomen due to which my father′s intestines came out. This incident was seen by my dau, my mother and the villagers.

4. On the basis of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), Daljeet Singh (PW-7), who was posted as Head Moharrir, registered the first information report, (Exhibit Ka-3), against the named accused persons (present appellants) at Police Station Jaswant Nagar on 21.05.1989 at 11:15 AM, under Section 307 IPC.

5. After registration of the first information report against accused appellants- Neksey and Lakhan Singh, investigation of the case was handed over to S.I. Kalyan Singh (PW-8). Investigating Officer, Kalyan Singh (PW-8) inspected the place of occurrence, recorded the statements of prosecution witnesses, and prepared the site plan (Exhibit Ka-12) of the place of occurrence.

6. Injured Munna Lal was taken to the District Hospital, Etawah for medical examination and treatment. At the hospital, his injury report was prepared and his statement was recorded. During treatment at the District Hospital, Etawah, the injured Munna Lal passed away on 28.05.1989. Due to the death of the injured Munna Lal, the case was converted from Section 307 IPC to Section 302 IPC, and the investigation of the case was taken up by S.H.O. Rama Shankar Singh (PW-6).

7. Sub Inspector, Hira Lal Sharma (PW-7) prepared the Panchayatnama (Exhibit Ka-8), of the deceased Munna Lal, along with other necessary police papers such as Challannash (Exhibit Ka-9); Photonash (Exhibit Ka-10) and the letter to the C.M.O. (Exhibit Ka-11). After completing the proceedings of the Panchayatnama, the dead body of the deceased Munna Lal was sent for post-mortem examination.

8. Initially, injured Munna Lal was taken to the District Hospital at Etawah, where his injury report (Exhibit Ka-6), was prepared by Dr. S.C. Gupta (PW-5). According to the injury report of Munna Lal, the following injuries were found on his body:

"(i) Stab wound on lower part & abdomen in middle 2.0 cm x 0.6 cm x Abdominal cavity deep. Margin everted. 3.0 cm below umbilicus. Fresh blood present on surface. Loops of intestine present on surface."

Dr. S.C. Gupta (PW-5) opined that the above injury is caused by sharp and pointed object.

9. After the death of Munna Lal at District Hospital, Etawah, Dr. B.L. Bisariya (PW-4) conducted the post-mortem examination of the deceased. According to the post-mortem report (Exhibit Ka-5), the following ante-mortem injuries were found on the body of the deceased, Munna Lal:-

> "(i) Stitched wound of 10 cm on the right side of abdomen 1 cm apart from umbilicus.
> (ii) Stitched wound of 1 cm on the left illiac region."

According to Dr. B.L. Bisariya (PW-4), injured Munna Lal died due to shock and hemorrhage as a result of above ante-mortem injuries.

10. Upon completion of all necessary formalities, the second investigating officer, Rama Shankar Singh (PW-6), submitted a charge-sheet, marked as Exhibit Ka-7, against the accused-appellants under Sections 307 and 302 of the IPC in the concerned Magistrate Court having jurisdiction. The learned Magistrate committed the case to the Court of Sessions for trial. The Trial Court framed charges against the accused-appellant, Neksey, under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on 06.10.1989. Charges were also framed against the accused-appellant, Lakhan Singh, by the Trial Court under Section 302 IPC on 06.10.1989. Both accused-appellants denied the charges and claimed trial.

11. In support of its case, the prosecution produced informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) as witnesses of fact. Further, Daljeet Singh (PW-3), Dr. B.L. Bisariya (PW-4), Dr. S.C. Gupta (PW-5), Rama Shankar Singh (PW-6), Hira Lal Sharma (PW-7) and Kalyan Singh (PW-8) were adduced as formal witnesses. Apart from the above witnesses, Dr. R.A. Goyal was examined as a court witness (CW-1). In addition to the oral evidence, the prosecution also relied upon documentary evidence from Exhibit Ka-1 to Exhibit Ka-12.

12. The accused-appellants were examined under Section 313 Cr.P.C., and in their statements recorded thereunder, they denied all questions put to them and stated that they were falsely implicated in this case due to enmity. Accused appellant Neksey has stated that Munna Lal instructed us not to buy the 2.5 bigha land, but we did not comply with that instruction and purchased the land because we had paucity of land. This sale was done through a registered sale deed. I and Munna Lal had given Rs 8,000/- separately to Sharda Devi, wife of Kalyan Singh, before the Registrar. Due to this reason, they falsely implicated us so that they could take possession of the land. Accused appellant Lakhan Singh has stated that being the son of Neksey, he was falsely implicated in this case. Accused appellants have also stated that they will adduce defence witnesses in their support. Accused appellants adduced Ram Dularey as DW-1 and Kitab Singh as DW-2 in support of their case.

13. The Trial Court, after recording the evidence of the prosecution as well as the defence, heard the arguments of both sides. After hearing the arguments, the learned Trial Court found the accused appellants guilty of the murder of the deceased Munna Lal. Accordingly, the Trial Court convicted accused appellant Neksey and sentenced him to life imprisonment under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC, and accused appellant Lakhan Singh was also convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment under Section 302 IPC. Being aggrieved with the impugned judgment and order dated 23.07.1990 passed by the Trial Court, the accused appellants have preferred this criminal appeal before this Court.

14. Learned counsel for the accused appellants submitted that the eyewitnesses of the prosecution, namely, informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1), who is the son of the deceased Munna Lal, and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), who is the wife of the deceased, are closely related to the deceased. It was contended that they are family members and highly interested witnesses. There is no independent eyewitness in this case who could corroborate the testimonies of PW-1 and PW-2. Since both witnesses are highly interested and related to the deceased, their evidence cannot be safely relied upon for conviction in a heinous crime like murder. Learned counsel further argued that several contradictions, omissions, and exaggerations are present in their evidence. It was further submitted that the accused appellants have been falsely implicated in this case due to enmity, with the purpose of grabbing the 2.5 bigha land of accused appellant Neksey. However, the Trial Court has not considered these legal facts in its judgment. The Trial Court has not appreciated the evidence in a proper and legal manner. The findings and reasoning recorded by the Trial Court are not based on cogent and unimpeachable evidence.

15. In view of the above, learned counsel for the accused appellants submitted that the present criminal appeal has merit and deserves to be allowed. Therefore, the judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 23.07.1990 is liable to be set aside.

16. Per contra, the learned AGA for the State respondent submitted that this is a case of direct evidence. Informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) are eyewitnesses to the incident, having witnessed the alleged occurrence with their own eyes as it happened in their presence. Informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) were present at the place of occurrence when the accused appellants attacked and killed the deceased Munna Lal on 21.05.1989 at 9:00 AM. The learned Trial Court found the evidence of informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) to be reliable and trustworthy. Hence, relying on the evidence of these eyewitnesses, the Trial Court rightly convicted and sentenced the accused appellants for the commission of the alleged crime. There are no major and material discrepancies in the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2. The Trial Court has appreciated the evidence in proper perspective and in a legal manner. Therefore, the criminal appeal filed by the accused appellants is devoid of merit and the same is liable to be rejected.

17. In the light of the above arguments and counter arguments of respective parties, we have perused the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) and the evidence of informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2). From perusal of the written report (Exhibit Ka-1), it is revealed that the accused appellant Neksey, who is the younger brother of the deceased Munna Lal and Lakhan Singh, son of the accused appellant Naksey, without any cause or reason and with the intention to kill Munna Lal, abruptly came to the place of occurrence. The accused appellant Neksey caught hold of the deceased Munna Lal from the back, and the accused appellant Lakhan Singh stabbed the knife in the abdomen of Munna Lal. We find that this incident happened on 21.05.1989 at 9:00 AM and the report was lodged at the concerned police station without any delay on 21.05.1989 at 11:15 AM itself. Thus, it appears that the informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1), without any delay, consideration, or afterthought, lodged the first information report naming the accused persons (present appellants) in the written report (Exhibit Ka-1) for the commission of the alleged crime. Thus, the written report has been filed in this case promptly without any delay.

18. From perusal of the evidence of eyewitnesses, informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), it is revealed that the deceased Munna Lal had three brothers. The eldest brother was Ram Dularey, followed by the deceased Munna Lal himself, and the youngest brother was the accused appellant Neksey. The deceased Munna Lal was an army man and after his retirement from military service, when he returned to his village, he purchased 5 bighas of land in his own name and in the name of accused Neksey through a registered sale deed. Both the deceased Munna Lal and the accused appellant Neksey were land owners. Following this purchase of five bighas of land, a dispute regarding the share of the said land arose between Munna Lal and his brother Neksey. Ram Dularey, the elder brother, also wanted a share in this land and insisted that his name be included in the ownership. On the day of occurrence, a discussion on this issue was ongoing between the informant Mulayam Singh, his father (the deceased Munna Lal), and Ram Dularey. Mulayam Singh (PW-1) stated that they should persuade uncle Neksey to deliver Rs. 3,500/- to them, after which Ram Dularey's share would be included. On this point, Neksey stated that he would not give any share and they could do whatever they like.

19. From perusal of the evidence of Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), it is further revealed that thereafter Neksey came armed with a kanta and Lakhan Singh came with a knife. Neksey caught hold of Munna Lal from behind and Lakhan Singh assaulted him with the knife in the abdomen, causing the intestine of Munna Lal to come out of the abdomen. Thereafter, Neksey and Lakhan fled from the spot. Informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) arranged a buffalo cart and the injured Munna Lal was taken to the District Hospital, Etawah, where his injury report (Exhibit Ka-6) was prepared. However, Munna Lal succumbed to his injuries on 28.05.1989 at the District Hospital, Etawah, during the course of treatment.

20. From perusal of the evidence of Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), it appears that these two prosecution witnesses were present at the place of occurrence when the interaction was going on between Mulayam Singh, Ram Dularey and accused appellant Neksey. This incident happened at 9:00 AM in broad daylight in front of the house of the informant. From perusal of the site plan (Exhibit Ka-12), it is revealed that the houses of the informant Mulayam Singh and the accused persons are situated on the western side in the same line, adjoining each other. The occurrence happened at the mark 'X', which is in front of the house of Mulayam Singh.

21. From perusal of the evidence of informant Mulayam Singh, PW-1, and Smt. Shyam Devi, PW-2, we find that without any provocation from the deceased Munna Lal, accused appellants have killed Munna Lal. Evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 reveals that both the eyewitnesses have stated the happening of the incident in a natural way and simple words, without any exaggeration, embellishment or improvements. Naturality and simplicity in the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 show that these two witnesses have stated whatever has been seen by these witnesses with their own eyes. Presence of PW-1 and PW-2 at the place of occurrence would not be doubted on any ground because it was 9:00 AM in the morning and the houses of the informant and accused appellants are situated on the same line, adjoining to one another. Although the defence, on behalf of the accused appellants, cross-examined PW-1 and PW-2 at length, however, in a lengthy cross-examination, the defence could not be able to create any evidence by which the testimonies of these witnesses could be doubted and disbelieved. We find no major and material discrepancy, contradiction, and improvement in the evidence of informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2). It is natural that in the evidence of any witness, minor contradictions and omissions are likely to emerge. However, we find no major and material contradictions, omissions, or improvements in the evidence of PW-1 and PW-2.

22. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Brahm Swaroop and another v. State of Uttar Pradesh; 2011 (6) SCC, 288 has held in para-32:

"32. It is a settled legal proposition that while appreciating the evidence of a witness, minor discrepancies on trivial matters, which do not affect the core of the prosecution's case, may not prompt the Court to reject the evidence in its entirety. "Irrelevant details which do not in any way corrode the credibility of a witness cannot be labelled as omissions or contradictions." Difference in some minor details, which does not otherwise affect the core of the prosecution case, even if present, would not itself prompt the court to reject the evidence on minor variations and discrepancies. After exercising care and caution and sifting through the evidence to separate truth from untruth, exaggeration and improvements, the court comes to a conclusion as to whether the residuary evidence is sufficient to convict the accused. Thus, an undue importance should not be attached to omissions, contradictions and discrepancies which do not go to the heart of the matter and shake the basic version of the prosecution witnesses. As the mental capabilities of a human being cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb all the details, minor discrepancies are bound to occur in the statements of witnesses."

23. Thus, in the light of the law as propounded by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Brahm Swaroop (Supra), it is clear that minor omissions, contradictions, embellishments, and exaggerations would not be material enough to cast any doubt on the veracity and credibility of the evidence of eyewitnesses. In view of the above, we find no force in the arguments of learned counsel for the accused-appellants advanced in this respect.

24. Although we find that eyewitnesses, informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), are family members and closely related to the deceased Munna Lal (informant Mulayam Singh being the son and Smt. Shyam Devi being the wife of the deceased) but we cannot doubt their evidence solely on this ground. The presence of these two witnesses in front of their house at the time of the occurrence, where the accused-appellants committed the offence, is natural. They have narrated the prosecution story in a very simple and natural way, without any artificiality or concoction. There is no rule of law that the evidence of family members or related witnesses must be rejected merely on the ground of their relationship with the deceased. The only requirement of law in such cases is that the evidence requires deep scrutiny and careful appreciation by the Court.

25. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Rajasthan v. Smt. Kalki and Another; (1981) 2 SCC 752, has held on interested and related witnesses in para-7:-

"7. As mentioned above the High Court has declined to rely on the evidence of P.W. 1 on two grounds: (1) she was a "highly interested" witness because she "is the wife of the deceased", and (2) there were discrepancies in her evidence. With respect, in our opinion, both the grounds are invalid. For, in the circumstances of the case, she was the only and most natural witness; she was the only person present in the hut with the deceased at the time of the occurrence, and the only person who saw the occurrence. True, it is she is the wife of the deceased; but she cannot be called an 'interested' witness. She is related to the deceased. 'Related' is not equivalent to 'interested'. A witness may be called 'interested' only when he or she derives some benefit from the result of a litigation; in the decree in a civil case, or in seeing an accused person punished. A witness who is a natural one and is the only possible eye witness in the circumstances of a case cannot be said to be 'interested'. In the instant case P.W. 1 had no interest in protecting the real culprit, and falsely implicating the respondents."

26. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Sucha Singh and Another v. State of Punjab; (2003) 7 SCC 643, has held in para-3 that:-

"13. ..... Relationship is not a factor to affect the credibility of a witness. It is more often than not that a relation would not conceal the actual culprit and make allegations against an innocent person. Foundation has to be laid if plea of false implication is made. In such cases, the court has to adopt a careful approach and analyse evidence to find out whether it is cogent and credible."

27. In the light of the law as laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Smt. Kalki (Supra) and Sucha Singh (Supra), we find that in the present case, although informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) are closely related to the deceased Munna Lal, however, on perusal of their testimonies, we find that their testimonies are reliable and creditworthy. No material contradictions or omissions have been brought on record in their cross-examination. Only because an eyewitness is a member of the deceased's family, per se, the evidence of such a witness cannot be discarded. If the evidence of an eyewitness who is a close relative of the deceased is cogent, reliable, and creditworthy, it can always be relied upon. Regarding the role of the accused-appellants, evidence of informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) is consistent too. The same has ascribed a clear role to accused-appellant Neksey, who caught hold of the deceased Munna Lal from behind, thereby facilitating the accused Lakhan Singh to assault with a knife in the abdomen of Munna Lal. Accused-appellant Lakhan Singh thus got an opportunity to assault with a knife at the abdomen of Munna Lal. In this way, informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2) have ascribed a clear role played by the accused-appellants Neksey and Lakhan Singh in the commission of the crime. Thus, we find the testimonies and evidence of PW-1 and PW-2 wholly reliable, trustworthy, and inspiring confidence. In the light of the above discussions, we find no force in the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants in this respect.

28. From perusal of the record, we find that the first investigating officer, Kalyan Singh, has not collect blood-stained and simple soil from the place of occurrence. He also did not try to recover or take into possession the knife (the murder weapon) used by the accused-appellant Lakhan Singh in the commission of the alleged crime. However, in our considered view, the prosecution cannot get any benefit on the ground of such laches and lacunae on the part of the investigating officer, because the investigating officer does not work under the control or supervision of the informant/complainant of any case. It was the duty of the investigating officer to recover the knife (the murder weapon) from the possession of the accused-appellant Lakhan Singh. However, the investigating officer was unable to perform his duty in accordance with the law as required from him in an investigation like murder.

29. From perusal of the injury report (Exhibit Ka-6), it is clear that one stab wound on the lower side of the abdomen in the middle was caused by accused-appellant Lakhan Singh by assaulting with a knife. Prosecution witnesses have also stated that accused-appellant Lakhan Singh assaulted on the abdomen of the deceased Munna Lal with a knife, due to which his intestine came out of the abdomen. When injured Munna Lal was under treatment to save his life, he was admitted in District Hospital, Etawah, where he was operated upon. Dr. R.A. Goyal (CW-1) has confirmed this fact in his evidence that he on 21.05.1989 operated upon Munna Lal, and his bed head ticket number was 1709. This witness has stated that after operation when the abdomen was being sealed, before that, he attached a rubber drain in the abdomen from the sides of injury so that dirty blood and pus could easily come out of the abdomen. Due to this reason, injury number 2, which was noted by Dr. B.L. Bisariya (PW-4) in the post-mortem report (Exhibit Ka-5), was shown as Injury No. 2. However, on the abdomen of deceased Munna Lal, only one injury of a stab wound was caused by accused-appellant Lakhan Singh by assaulting with a knife. Thus, we find that there is no contradiction in the injury report (Exhibit Ka-6) and the post-mortem report (Exhibit Ka-5) of the deceased Munna Lal, because it is clear that only one stab wound injury was caused and found on the abdomen of the deceased Munna Lal. Injury No. 2, as shown in the post-mortem report (Exhibit Ka-5) of the deceased Munna Lal, is due to the operation in his abdomen for easing the flow of dirty blood and pus, as a rubber drain had been inserted by Doctor R.A. Goyal (CW-1) in his abdomen. Thus, we find that there is no difference or contradiction in the injury report (Exhibit Ka-6) and the post-mortem report (Exhibit Ka-5) of deceased Munna Lal. Hence, in the light of the above discussions, the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants are not sustainable in the eyes of law.

30. From a perusal of the evidence of eyewitnesses, namely, Informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), we find that according to the testimonies of these witnesses, appellant Neksey and appellant Lakhan Singh arrived at the place of occurrence as the houses of the appellants were adjoining to the house of the informant. Appellant Neksey, from the backside, caught hold of the deceased Munna Lal with pre-planning and premeditation, so that accused-appellant Lakhan Singh could easily assault the deceased with a knife on his abdomen, leaving him with no opportunity to defend himself. The specific role played by the accused-appellants in committing the crime clearly indicates that both of them came to the place of occurrence with prior planning, premeditation, and with prior concert with the intention to kill the deceased Munna Lal. In execution of their pre-arranged plan and with a prior meeting of minds, accused-appellant Neksey caught hold of the deceased Munna Lal from behind. Capitalizing on this opportunity, accused-appellant Lakhan Singh, in furtherance of the said plan, dealt a knife blow with immense force and gravity, causing a severe stab injury due to which the intestines of the deceased Munna Lal came out of his body. The manner and mode adopted by the accused-appellants during the commission of the offence is a clear manifestation of their intention to kill Munna Lal with pre-planning.

31. We have also gone through and examined the defence evidence of Ram Dularey (DW-1) and Kitab Singh (DW-2). From their evidence, it appears that these witnesses were produced by the accused-appellants with a view to create doubt about the truthfulness of the prosecution story. On considering and appreciating their evidence, it is clear that these witnesses were examined to save the accused-appellants from punishment for the alleged crime. In view of the direct evidence given by the prosecution eyewitnesses, namely, the informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Smt. Shyam Devi (PW-2), the evidence of Ram Dularey (DW-1) and Kitab Singh (DW-2) is not relevant. Their evidence does not appear to be truthful, credible, or trustworthy. Therefore, we find that the evidence of Ram Dularey (DW-1) and Kitab Singh (DW-2) is unreliable and liable to be rejected. Accordingly, the accused-appellants cannot derive any benefit from their evidence.

32. Thus, we find that the learned Trial Court has rightly, and in accordance with the settled principles of law, held accused-appellant Neksey guilty under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC, and accused-appellant Lakhan Singh guilty under Section 302 IPC. We have also perused the impugned judgment and order dated 23.07.1990 passed by the learned Trial Court. Upon examination of the findings and reasoning recorded therein, it is evident that the Trial Court has meticulously appreciated the entire evidence on record in its proper and legal perspective. The Trial Court has rightly placed reliance upon the testimonies of the eyewitnesses, namely, the informant Mulayam Singh (PW-1) and Shyam Devi (PW-2), after finding them wholly reliable and trustworthy. Since the findings recorded by the learned Trial Court are founded upon cogent, credible and reliable evidence, we do not find any illegality, perversity, or infirmity in the impugned judgment of conviction and sentence. Consequently, no ground is made out warranting interference with the well-reasoned and well-discussed judgment and order passed by the court below.

33. Therefore, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence dated 23.07.1990 passed by the learned Trial Court is liable to be affirmed, and the submissions advanced by the learned counsel for the accused-appellants in this regard are devoid of force. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we hold that the appeal preferred by the accused-appellants lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

34. Accordingly, the impugned judgment and order dated 23.07.1990 passed by the learned Trial Court is hereby affirmed and the instant criminal appeal stands dismissed.

35. The accused-appellants, Neksey and Lakhan Singh, were on bail, however, during the pendency of the appeal, they failed to appear before the Court either personally or through counsel. Consequently, Non-Bailable Warrants were issued against them, pursuant to which they were arrested and remanded to jail custody. At present, the accused-appellants are in jail. They are directed to serve out the remaining sentence awarded by the learned Trial Court vide judgment and order dated 23.07.1990.

36. Let a copy of this judgment and order be transmitted forthwith to the learned Trial Court along with the Lower Court Record, as well as to the concerned jail authorities, for necessary compliance.

Counsel for Appellant(s) : Dharmendra Pratap Singh, Kamal Krishna, Prashant Mishra, Vikash Kumar Singh
Counsel for Respondent(s) : A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sanjiv Kumar, J.)

1. This criminal appeal has been preferred, under Section 374(2) Cr.P.C., by the sole appellant, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia resident of Chak Raghu Nath, Police Station Naini, District Allahabad against the judgment and order dated 01.06.1984 passed by Sri U S Pandey Special Judge (Economic Offences), Allahabad in Session Trial No.202 of 1979, under Section 302 Indian Penal Code (in short 'I.P.C.'), Police Station Naini, District Allahabad.

2. By the impugned judgment and order, appellant Ashok Kumar Chaurasia was held guilty of the offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C and convicted and sentenced to undergo imprisonment for life.

3. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that the informant, Smt. Sukhwanti, widow of Shanker Lal, resident of 158, Chak Raghu Nath, Police Station Naini, District Allahabad gave verbal information at Police Station Naini, District Allahabad on 28.01.1978 at 10.15 a.m., stating that she is the widow of Shanker Lal and his case was pending against Ashok Kumar Chaurasia's father, namely, Munni Lal. After Munni Lal's death Ashok Kumar Chaurasia is doing pairvi of the case against her. Her brother-in-law (devar), Sukhdev Prasad was doing pairvi on her behalf. Due to the above enmity, last year, there was an attempt to his murder and in this regard a case is pending. Two days ago, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia threatened her brother-in-law, Sukhdeo Prasad with dire consequences after coming to his house. Today, at about 9:00 a.m., Sukhdeo Prasad, Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo were going to the Kachahari Office and when they reached in front of Onkar Nath's house on Jail Road, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia fired at Sukhdeo Prasad with a pistol. Upon hearing the sound of fire and the cries of Sukhdeo Prasad, she ran to the spot, whereupon Ashok Kumar Chaurasia again shot at Sukhdeo Prasad. Many persons ran to the spot and upon their hue and cry, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia fled towards the northern side and could not be caught. Sukhdeo Prasad was lying dead at the spot.

4. Upon this verbal information, a chik FIR under Case Crime No. 41 of 1978, under Section 302 I.P.C. was lodged at Police Station Naini, District Allahabad on 28.01.1978 at 10:15 a.m. against Ashok Kumar Chaurasia. The investigation commenced and the Investigating Officer reached the place of occurrence and collected seven pellets from the body of the deceased, which were kept in a small box and sealed. The Investigating Officer also collected bloodstained earth and plain earth from the place of occurrence and prepared its recovery memo, Ext. Ka-3. The inquest of the deceased was prepared along with the related papers and the body was sent for post-mortem examination. In the post-mortem report, two firearm wounds of the nature of entry and exit found and the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem firearm injuries. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of the informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan, Ext. Ka-11.

5. After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer filed the charge-sheet under Section 302 I.P.C. against Ashok Kumar Chaurasia before the concerned Magistrate, who took cognizance of the offence and summoned the appellant. The appellant appeared before the concerned Court and were furnished with copies of the relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

6. The appellant appeared before the Court of Sessions, where charge under Section 302 I.P.C. was framed against him, to which, he pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

7. The prosecution has examined seven witnesses to prove its case, namely, P.W.1 Sukhwanti, P.W.2 Banne, P.W.3 Sahajade, P.W.4 Ram Bishal Mishra (Constable), P.W.5 Devendra Pratap Singh (Inspector), P.W.6 Dr. M.K. Gupta and P.W.7 Praveen Singh (S.I.).

8. Out of these witnesses, P.W.-1 Sukhwanti is the informant and the bhabhi of the deceased. She deposed that the deceased, Sukhdeo was her brother-in-law (dever). The accused Ashok Kumar Chaurasia, is her second brother-in-law Munni Lal′s son. About 5-6 years prior to the incident, a case relating to a house was pending between her and Ashok Kumar Chaurasia. Sukhdeo was doing paravi on her behalf in that case. After the death of Munni Lal, accused Ashok Kumar Chaurasia was impleaded as a party to the suit, who contested case against her. Due to the said litigation, a dispute existed between Sukhdeo and Ashok Kumar Chaurasia. About 8-9 months prior to the incident, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia had fired at Sukhdeo, causing him injuries and a case in this regard was registered at Police Station Kotwali. About 2-3 days prior to the incident, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia threatened Sukhdeo with dire consequences. On the date of the incident, at about 9:00 a.m., she had gone to drop her grandson (nati) at a school near Naini Post Office. While Sukhdeo was going on jail road, she heard the sound of a gunshot. She moved forward and saw Sukhdeo lying on the road in an injured condition and Ashok Kumar Chaurasia holding a pistol, thereafter, he fired a second shot at Sukhdeo in her presence.

9. The said incident was witnessed by Dhoonu, Banne and others, after which, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia fled towards the northern direction. When she reached near Sukhdeo, she found him lying dead. She ran to the Police Station, Naini and lodged a report, which she proved as Ext. Ka-1. Witness, Banne remained at the place of occurrence for about two hours. Within half an hour, the Inspector reached at the place of occurrence and prepared the inquest. On the date of the incident, as usual, Sukhdeo had gone to the second house after sunrise to attend the call of nature. He had taken a cup of tea but had not taken any meal. She said that she had mentioned in her report that Banne and Dhoonu were present at the place of occurrence and had witnessed the incident. If the said fact was not mentioned in the report, she had no reason for the same. When she saw Sukhdeo for the first time after the incident, he was lying alone on the ground. It is incorrect that Sukhdeo was going along with Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo on the date of the incident. She had not named Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo as witnesses in her report and does not know why their names were mentioned therein. She was weeping and crying at the place of occurrence when the Police reached there and before that she had already lodged the report at the Police Station. After remaining present at the place of occurrence for about 1-2 hours, the Police took the dead body of Sukhdeo to the Police Station Naini, where the Inspector obtained her thumb impression. She reached the police station at about 2:00 p.m.

10. The place of occurrence is about 2-3 bighas away from her house. She said in her report as well as before the Investigating Officer that on that day she had gone to drop her grandson at the school near Naini Post Office. Her grandson was studying in Class-II and on some occasions she herself used to drop him to school. At about 8:00 a.m., she reached the school. Her grandson used to return home alone from the school. He also said that accused, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia, fired the second shot at Sukhdeo from a distance of 2-4 spans. At that time, Sukhdeo was lying on the ground and the second shot hit him on his stomach. When she heard the first gunshot, she was inside the school gate and upon hearing the sound, she came out. The distance between the school gate and the place of occurrence is about 60 yards.

11. P.W.-2 Banne is an eyewitness to the incident. He has said that on the date of the incident at about 9:30 a.m., he was taking tea near the Naini Post Office. After having tea, he went towards the northern side, where he heard the sound of a gunshot. When he proceeded further, he saw Sukhdeo lying on the road and accused, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia was standing there with a country-made pistol in his hand. Thereafter, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia fired a second shot at Sukhdeo, causing him injuries. At that time, many persons had gathered there and the accused fled towards the northern side. When he went near Sukhdeo, he found him dead. In his cross-examination, he said that he lives 400-500 yards away from the place of occurrence. He was employed at Pramod Cycle Store and was going to the said shop. The Post Office is 4-5 steps away from the Naini Triangle and a children′s school is about 50 steps towards the northern side from the Post Office. Pramod Cycle Store opens between 9:00 and 9:30 a.m. and at about 10:00 a.m., he reaches the shop to perform his duties. He further said that the Investigating Officer recorded his statement after about one and a half months. He did not say before the Investigating Officer that he was going to his house after having tea. He remained at the place of occurrence for about 1-2 minutes and thereafter went to the shop. He did not inform anyone about the incident before his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer. After reaching Pramod Cycle Store, he did not say anyone about the incident. It had not come to his knowledge that the Police had reached at the spot. He never thought it necessary to inform the family members of the deceased or the Police to tell about the incident. He further said that when he first saw Sukhdeo was lying on the road and Ashok Kumar Chaurasia fired the second shot from a distance of about five steps.

12. P.W.-3, Sahajade said that after hearing that Sukhdeo had been murdered, he reached Jail Road, where the dead body was lying. The Inspector came to the place of occurrence and in his presence, collected the pellets from the spot and sealed them in a packet. The Inspector also collected samples of plain earth and bloodstained earth from the place of occurrence and prepared a recovery memo. In cross-examination, he said that he had never been a witness in any case from the Police side. He further said that two to three cases under the Gambling Act are pending against him. He stayed at the place of occurrence for about 10-20 minutes and during that period, he did not see Banne and Dhoonu there.

13. P.W.4, Ram Bishal Mishra (Constable) is a formal witness, who carried the dead body of the deceased for autopsy from the place of occurrence. He said that at about 12:30 p.m., he was handed over the sealed dead body along with the connected papers at the place of occurrence to carry them to the mortuary at Allahabad. He reached Allahabad at about 4:00 p.m. and on the next day, he produced the dead body and the connected papers before the doctor for autopsy. On 29.01.1978 at about 11:00 a.m., he handed over the papers at the Police Lines Hospital. The mortuary is about 14-15 k.m. away from the place of occurrence.

14. P.W.5, Devender Pratap Singh (Inspector) is the Investigating Officer of the case. He said that before him the case was being investigated by Praveen Singh (S.I.). He said that he recorded the statements of Banne, Dhoonu, Shiv Shanker and others and after completing the investigation, he submitted the charge-sheet, which is proved as Ext. Ka-4. In cross-examination, he said that he had no conversation with the informant, Smt. Sukhwanti, regarding the incident. Banne had said before him that he was going to his house after having tea.

15. P.W.6, Dr. M.K. Gupta, conducted the post-mortem of the deceased. He said that on 29.01.1978, he was posted as Medical Officer at Tej Bahadur Sapru Hospital, Allahabad and at about 12:30 p.m., the dead body of Sukhdeo Prasad was brought before him for post-mortem examination by Constable, Ram Bishal Misra. The deceased was about 55 years old and of average built. The following ante-mortem injuries were found on his body:

(i) Firearm wound of entry, lacerated, measuring 3/4 inch in diameter, on the left side of the abdomen just below the subcostal region, with the direction upwards and towards the right. Scorching and tattooing were present around the wound.

(ii) Firearm wound of exit, oval-shaped, measuring 1/2 inch x 1/3 inch, on the right side of the chest, close to and below the nipple.

(iv) Firearm wound of entry on the right side of the back, close to the midline, 6 inches below the right scapula, measuring 1 inch in diameter with lacerated margins. Scorching and tattooing were present. Internally, the liver, kidney, diaphragm, and lower lobes of the right lung were lacerated.

16. In the internal examination, his right chest wall was lacerated. Both lungs and the right kidney were lacerated. The intestines and liver were ruptured. Two pellets and one wadding piece were recovered from the liver. Three pellets were recovered from the abdominal cavity. There was fecal matter in the large intestine. The cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of firearm injuries. P.W.6 proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-5 and said that the death could have been caused at 9:30 a.m. on 28.01.1978 by two firearm shots. In cross-examination, he said that there may be a variation of six hours on either side with regard to the time of death. The stomach of the deceased was entirely empty and contained no liquid such as tea. The direction of the injuries was from below to upwards.

17. P.W.7, Praveen Singh (S.I.) is the first Investigating Officer of the case. He proved the chik report, Ext. Ka-1 and G.D. No. 21 dated 28.01.1978 at 10:15 a.m., scribed by Head Moharrir, Umanath Tiwari, stating that he was acquainted with his handwriting and signature. He said that he reached at the place of occurrence, where the inquest of the deceased was prepared. The witness proved the inquest report, Ext. Ka-7 and the photo nash, challan nash and report for post-mortem as Exts. Ka-8, Ka-9, and Ka-10. He said that he recovered seven pellets from the place of occurrence, which were taken into possession and sealed in his presence. He also said that he collected samples of plain earth and blood-stained earth from the place of occurrence and sealed them. He inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan, which he proved as Ext. Ka-11. He further said that he collected a bag, cash and documents, etc., from near the deceased and handed them over to the informant after preparing the supurdaginama, which he proved as Ext. Ka-12. In cross-examination, he said that he reached the place of occurrence within half an hour and remained there for about 1-2 hours. It is incorrect that the thumb impressions of Smt. Sukhwanti were taken at the Police Station at about 2:00 p.m. Smt. Sukhwanti did not state in her statement that at the time of the incident, she had gone to her grandson's school near the Post Office to drop him. The Post Office is about 50 steps away from the place of occurrence towards the west. Until he remained at the place of occurrence, Banne and Dhoonu did not tell him anything. Smt. Sukhwanti said to him that on that day at about 9:30 a.m., her brother-in-law, Sudhdeo Prasad along with Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo were going to Thana Karchana, Kachahari.

18. The prosecution has produced following documentary evidence i.e. Ext. Ka-1 FIR, Ext. Ka-2 recovery memo of pellets, Ext. Ka-3 recovery memo of blood-stained and plain earth, Ext. Ka-4 charge-sheet, Ext. Ka-5 post-mortem report, Ext. Ka-6 G.D. No.21, Ext. Ka-7 Panchayatnama (inquest report), Ext. Ka-8 photo nash, Ext. Ka-9 letter to the R.I., Ext. Ka-10 letter to C.M.O., Ext. Ka-11 site plan, Ext. Ka.-12 recovery of memo of Jhola (bag) and Ext. Ka.13 order of transfer of property.

19. After the closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused was recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., in which he denied the prosecution case and admitted that a case was pending between him and Shanker Lal, husband of Smt. Sukhwanti. He said that the witnesses were deposing against him due to enmity. He further said that Smt. Sukhwanti wanted to sell her land and he had obstructed it, which, according to him, was the reason the case was lodged against him.

20. The accused has not produced any evidence in his defence.

21. The Learned Trial Court, after examining the evidence, found that the prosecution had proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The eyewitnesses supported the prosecution's case and their testimony was consistent, reliable and trustworthy. There were no contradictions between the ocular and medical evidence. Therefore, the appellant was found guilty and convicted and sentenced to the terms indicated above.

22. We have heard Mr. Kamal Krishna, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Abhinav Dwivedi for the appellant and Mr. Pradeep Kumar Rai and Mr. Ghan Shyam Kumar, learned Additional Government Advocate-I for the State and perused the evidence on record.

23. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the First Information Report does not contain essential facts which were supposed to be within the knowledge of the first informant. P.W.2, Banne, is not named in the FIR as a witness. The presence of P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti, at the place of occurrence is neither disclosed in the FIR nor in her statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., thereby rendering her presence at the scene highly doubtful. It is further submitted that material omissions in the FIR and in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of a witness would amount to contradictions.

24. Learned Counsel for the appellant has relied upon the case law Vinobhai vs. State of Kerala Criminal Appeal no. 1730 of 2017 Supreme Court , dated 29.01.2025, in which, the Supreme Court found material omissions in testimony of prosecution witnesses and held that such omissions amount to contradictions and their version did not inspire confidence.

25. It is also submitted on behalf of the appellant that independent witnesses, namely Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo, who were allegedly accompanying the deceased, were not produced in Court. The school, where the first informant was allegedly present when the first shot was fired, is not shown in the site-plan. Further, the allegedly recovered blood-stained earth was never sent for chemical examination. The statement of P.W.2, Banne, under Section 161 Cr.P.C. was recorded approximately 45 days after the incident and this delay has not been explained by the prosecution. The shop where P.W.2 allegedly took tea is neither shown in the site plan nor mentioned in his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. P.W.3, Sahajade has categorically said that he did not see P.W.2, Banne, at the place of occurrence. According to medical evidence, the shots were fired from close range, whereas P.W.2 said that the assailants fired at the deceased from a distance of about five steps (approximately 12.5 feet). In view of these discrepancies, the occurrence of the alleged incident itself is highly doubtful. It is next submitted that the appellant has been falsely implicated in this case merely because he dissuaded a prospective purchaser while the informant intended to sell a piece of land.

26. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the learned Trial Court failed to appreciate the evidence properly and consequently, passed the judgment illegally. The same is, therefore, liable to be set aside.

27. On the other hand, it is submitted on behalf of the State that the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt. It is a daylight murder. The first informant and other eyewitnesses have supported the prosecution case. The ocular testimony is corroborated by medical evidence. There was enmity between the appellant and the deceased and the appellant had earlier attempted to commit the murder of the deceased, regarding which a case was pending. Therefore, the learned Trial Court has rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant. Thus, the prosecution case is proved beyond reasonable doubt and the appeal has no merit and is liable to be dismissed.

28. In view of the arguments of both the parties as well as the evidence on record, let us see whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. As we know, in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution. In the present case, the prosecution case is that on 28.01.1978 at 9:30 a.m., the appellant, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia, shot dead the deceased, Sukhdeo Prasad, brother-in-law of the informant, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi, near the house of Onkar Nath on Jail Road under Police Station Naini, District Allahabad.

29. It is not in dispute that there was a civil case pending between the first informant, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi and the appellant, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia. According to the first informant, the deceased was doing pairavi on her behalf in the said case. It is also not in dispute that the appellant is the nephew of the first informant, being the son of Munni Lal, the other dewar of the first informant.

30. According to the post-mortem report of the deceased and the statement of P.W.6, Dr. M.K. Gupta, who conducted his autopsy, there were two firearm wounds of entry, one on the left side of the stomach and the other on the right side of the waist and two firearm wounds of exit on the right side of the chest of the deceased. In the opinion of the doctor, the cause of death was shock and hemorrhage as a result of ante-mortem gunshot injuries. Therefore, the deceased was shot dead and it was not a natural death. Now the question is whether the deceased was murdered by the appellant as alleged by the prosecution.

31. Here it is noteworthy to mention that, according to the prosecution, the place of occurrence was near the house of Onkar Nath, in front of Jail Road, under Police Station Naini, District Allahabad. P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi and P.W.2, Banne have said that the incident occurred at the said place. The First Investigating Officer (P.W.7), Praveen Singh, prepared the inquest of the deceased at the place of occurrence, where the dead body of the deceased was lying by the side of the road. He collected seven pellets from the place of occurrence and also samples of blood-stained earth. He has proved the fardbaramadgi and the pellets before the Court. As per the site plan (Ext. Ka-11), the alleged incident occurred at place 'K', in front of the house of Onkar Nath by the side of the road. Therefore, from the above evidence, the prosecution has proved that the alleged incident occurred in front of the house of Onkar Nath on Jail Road. Though the Investigating Officer has not sent the blood-stained earth for chemical examination, this lapse on his part would have no bearing on the prosecution case because the defence has also not suggested any other place of occurrence where the death of the deceased was caused. In view of the above, the place of occurrence is also established.

32. To prove its case, the prosecution has examined two witnesses of fact, namely, P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi and P.W.2, Banne. According to the prosecution, both these witnesses were present at the spot when the incident occurred. On examining the testimony of both these witnesses, their presence at the place of occurrence appears to be highly doubtful and their evidence does not inspire confidence and is thus neither reliable nor trustworthy. As per the prosecution, both these witnesses do not reside near the place of occurrence. According to the prosecution, P.W.2, Banne was employed at Pramod Cycle Store. Pramod Cycle Store is not nearby the place of occurrence, therefore, both these witnesses are chance witnesses. Being chance witnesses, their testimony is required to be scrutinized very closely.

33. So far as P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi is concerned, she has said on oath that she had gone to a school near Naini Post Office to leave her grandson (nati) at school. She heard the sound of firing there and when she moved forward, she saw the appellant firing a second shot at the deceased with a pistol. The FIR was lodged by P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi herself. She has not said in the FIR or in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. to the Investigating Officer that she had gone to leave her grandson at school. For the first time, she has said this fact before the Court, which amounts to an improvement.

34. Besides this, according to the FIR, the deceased was going along with Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo towards Kachahari via Jail Road when the alleged incident occurred. On the contrary P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi, in her statement before the Court, has denied that the deceased was going alongwith Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo. According to her, the deceased was going alone when he was attacked and murdered. Whereas, as per FIR, as well as, in the statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. of the first informant, the deceased was going alongwith Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo. P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi has admitted that she lodged a verbal report and that, at her dictation, the concerned constable read over the contents of the FIR to her, thereafter, she put her thumb impression over it. She has not said that the constable has wrongly mentioned the name of Shiv Shankar and Jagdeo. She has not given any satisfactory explanation given any why she mentioned in her FIR that the deceased was going along with Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo. Thus, there are material contradictions in the testimony of P.W.1 against her version in the FIR as well as in her statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. In view of explanation to Section 162 Cr.P.C. it amounts to contradictions, as a result her testimony is not reliable.

35. Further, according to P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi, her grandson′s school used to open at 8:00 a.m. and closes at 12:00 noon. She said that on some occasions she used to drop her grandson at school, though it was not a regular feature. On the fateful day, she reached the school at 8:00 a.m. to drop her grandson. The alleged incident occurred at 9:30 a.m., i.e., one and a half hours after the school had opened.

36. Now, the question is what was the reason that the informant remained present inside the school premises till 9:30 a.m. after dropping her grandson at school at 8:00 a.m. She has not disclosed the reason for her stay in the school premises till 9:30 a.m. Normally, after dropping her grandson at school, she would have returned to her house. It shows that the first informant is concealing true facts before the Court and her presence till 9:30 a.m. in the school premises is highly doubtful.

37. It has come in P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti′s statement that she heard the first sound of gunshot when she was inside the school gate. According to her, the school gate was about 60 yards away from the place of occurrence. After hearing the sound of the first shot, she came out of the school gate and moved in the direction of sound. She, then saw, the appellant standing on the road and the deceased lying on the ground. Thereafter, she saw the appellant fire second shot at the deceased from close range. It has also come in her evidence that she was about 40 yards away from the appellant when the second shot was fired. It is highly unlikely that she would have observed the incident so minutely as to disclose that the second shot was fired from a very close range. Therefore, in view of the above, the presence of P.W.1 at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful, and thus, her testimony is not reliable.

38. So far as P.W.2, Banne is concerned, his name is not mentioned in the FIR. After about 45 days, his statement was recorded by the Investigating Officer under Section 161 Cr.P.C. The Investigating Officer has explained the delay by stating that the said witness was not available. However, P.W.2 himself has said that he remained at his house and at the shop during the entire period from the time of the incident up to the recording of his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. Thus, the explanation for not recording the statement of witness, Banne, at the earliest is not satisfactory, which raises suspicion regarding the presence of Banne near the place of occurrence. In Awadhesh Vs. State of Madhya Pradesh, 1988 SCC (Cri) 361, the Supreme Court found that the statement of the witness was recorded by the Investigating Officer two months after the occurrence and the delay was not explained. In view of the above, his testimony was discarded by the Court. The above case law fully applies to the resent case.

39. Secondly, according to P.W.2, Banne, he was taking tea at a tea shop near Naini Post Office and after having tea, he proceeded towards the north, from where he heard the sound of fire. During cross-examination, he said that on that particular day, tea was prepared at his house. He has not given any reason why he did not take tea at his house and instead went to a tea shop. He further said that he is employed at Pramod Cycle Store, which usually opens at 9:30 a.m. and that he had to remain present there on duty by 10:00 a.m. The directions given by P.W.2 regarding Pramod Cycle Store, the place where he was having tea and his own house show that his house was situated in between these two places. According to him, the place where he was having tea was towards the south-west, while Pramod Cycle Store was towards the west. He said that after having tea, he was going towards his shop, whereas Pramod Cycle Store was in other direction. If, after having tea, he was going to his shop, the direction given by him does not match his statement. In his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C., he said that he was going towards his house after having tea. Thus, P.W.2 has given contradictory statements regarding the place to which, he was proceeding after having tea, which is a material contradiction.

40. According to P.W.2, Banne, he remained at the place of occurrence for about 1-2 minutes and then went to the shop. He has said that before giving his statement to the Investigating Officer, he did not tell any person about the said incident. He also did not inform anyone about the incident after reaching at Pramod's shop. The above conduct of the witness is highly unnatural. If a person witnesses such an incident, he would ordinarily disclose it to others. However, keeping himself silent for about 45 days and not disclosing the incident to anyone raises serious doubt regarding his presence, at the place of occurrence.

41. P.W.2, Banne has said that he knew the deceased since before the incident. If he knew the deceased and his family members since before the incident, then he should have told about the incident to his family members or to the Police. According to P.W.2, the appellant fired at the deceased from a distance of 5 steps and he saw only second shot, it is highly surprising that both the above witnesses i.e. P.W.1 and P.W.2 have witnessed only the second shot and not the first shot. The above statement of P.W.2, is not reliable because as per post-mortem report there was blacking and scorching around the firearm wound of entry and if pistol was used then blacking and scorching would be present around the wound of entry if the shot is fired from a distance of not more than 2-3 feet.

42. The presence of P.W.2 at the place of occurrence is doubtful and also on the fact that P.W.3, Sahajade, before whom samples of blood-stained earth and pellets were taken from the place of occurrence, by the Investigating Officer, has said that he remained at the place of occurrence for about 10-20 minutes and during this period did not see P.W.2, Banne, there. On the contrary P.W.2, Smt. Sukhwanti has said that P.W.2, Banne, remained present at the place of occurrence for about two hours. The above statement is also in contradiction with the testimony of

P.W.3, Sahajade. The Investigating Officer says that he reached at the place of occurrence within half an hour. In view of the above statements, the presence of P.W.2, Banne, near the place of occurrence is highly doubtful.

43. In view of the above discussion, it can safely be held that the presence of P.W.2, Banne, at the place of occurrence is highly doubtful, and thus his testimony is not reliable or trustworthy. It is also concluded that P.W.1, Sukhwanti Devi, and P.W.2, Banne, are not reliable witnesses, as they were not present at the place of occurrence when the incident occurred.

44. The prosecution has not examined Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo, who, according to the FIR, were going along with the deceased when the incident occurred. The prosecution has not explained the reason why Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo were not examined before the Court.

45. In Hemraj v. State of Haryana, AIR 2005 SC 2110, it has been held that an unexplained omission to examine independent eyewitnesses would create an adverse inference, particularly when the eyewitnesses actually examined were not found to be reliable and there were serious doubts about their presence at the spot.

46. In view of the above case law and discussion made above, non-examination of Shiv Shanker and Jagdeo by the prosecution raises adverse inference over the prosecution case.

47. Here it is also relevant to mention that the FIR was lodged at 10:15 a.m., and preparation of the inquest started at 10:30 a.m. The inquest report does not disclose the time when the inquest was completed. P.W.4, Constable Ram Bishal Mishra, is the person who took the dead body of the deceased to the mortuary for autopsy. He has said that at about 12:30 p.m., he was handed over the sealed dead body of the deceased along with the papers and he proceeded to Allahabad, where he reached at 4:00 p.m. Thus, according to P.W.4, the dead body was sent for autopsy from the place of occurrence at 12:30 p.m.

48. On the other hand, P.W.1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi, has said that she went with the dead body to the Police Station at about 2:00 p.m. If the statement of P.W.1 is believed, then the statement of P.W.4 becomes doubtful regarding the fact that the dead body was taken to Allahabad at 12:30 p.m. P.W.1 has further said that when she reached the Police Station along with the dead body, her thumb impression was taken by the Inspector. However, it has not been clarified by the prosecution on which document her thumb impression was taken at that time. When the witness was asked whether her thumb impression was taken at the time of lodging the FIR, she expressed ignorance. This raises doubt, whether the FIR was lodged at the time mentioned in the chik FIR. It is argued on behalf of the appellant that the FIR is ante-timed, the General Diary was stopped and after consultation and deliberation, the FIR was lodged and the appellant was falsely implicated in the present case.

49. Here it is pertinent to mention that according to P.W.4, Constable Ram Bishal Mishra, he reached Allahabad on the same day at about 4:00 p.m. for post-mortem and submitted the relevant papers at the hospital. However, the autopsy was conducted only on the next day, i.e., 29.01.1978 at 11:00 a.m. The prosecution has failed to explain why the papers and the dead body were produced before the doctor only on the following day and not the same day. It is also relevant to note that a perusal of the chik FIR shows that it bears the initials of the Circle Officer dated 30.01.1978, which indicates that the FIR was forwarded to the concerned Court after two days it was lodged. No explanation for this delay has been offered by the prosecution. Furthermore, the chik FIR does not bear the signature or seal of the concerned Magistrate and therefore, there is no evidence on record to establish when the copy of the FIR was placed before him. These circumstances raise a serious doubt that the General Diary was withheld and the prosecution papers were prepared subsequently ante-dated, after deliberations and consultations. The effect of ante-dated and ante-timed FIR was discussed by the Supreme Court in Meharaj Singh (L/Nk.) v. State of U.P., (1994) 5 SCC 188, and in para 12 it was observed as under:

"FIR in a criminal case and particularly in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence for the purpose of appreciating the evidence led at the trial. The object of insisting upon prompt lodging of the FIR is to obtain the earliest information regarding the circumstance in which the crime was committed, including the names of the actual culprits and the parts played by them, the weapons, if any, used, as also the names of the eye witnesses, if any. Delay in lodging the FIR often results in embellishment, which is a creature of an after thought. On account of delay, the FIR not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger also creeps in of the introduction of a coloured version or exaggerated story. With a view to determine whether the FIR, was lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, the courts generally look for certain external checks. One of the checks is the receipt of the copy of the FIR, called a special report in a murder case, by the local Magistrate. If this report is received by the Magistrate late it can give rise to an inference that the FIR was not lodged at the time it is alleged to have been recorded, unless, of course the prosecution can offer a satisfactory explanation for the delay in despatching or receipt of the copy of the FIR by the local Magistrate. Prosecution has led no evidence at all in this behalf. The second external check equally important is the sending of the copy of the FIR along with the dead body and its reference in the inquest report. Even though the inquest report, prepared u/s 174 Cr. P.C. is aimed at serving a statutory function, to lend credence to the prosecution case, the details of the FIR and the gist of statements recorded during inquest proceedings get reflected in the report. The absence of those details is indicative of the fact that the prosecution story was still in embryo and had not been given any shape and that the FIR came to be recorded later on after due deliberations and consultations and was then ante timed to give it the colour of a promptly lodged FIR."

50. In Thulia Kali v. State of Tamil Nadu 1972 (3) SCC 393, it is held by the Supreme Court that delay in lodging the First Information Report often results in embellishment, which is a creature of after-thought. On account of delay the report not only gets bereft of the advantage of spontaneity, danger creeps in of the introduction of coloured version, exaggerated account of connected story as a result of deliberation and consultation. It is also held that in order to avoid all criticisms of the defence, it is therefore essential that the delay in lodging of the First Information Report should be satisfactorily explained.

51. In State of U.P. v. Ram Gopal Saini, 2020 (6) ADJ 522, this Court held that an unexplained delay in registering the FIR adversely affects the prosecution's case, and if the statements of witnesses are not recorded promptly by the Investigating Officer or after a reasonable lapse of time it may amount to defective investigation.

52. In Mohd. Muslim v. State of Uttar Pradesh (now Uttarakhand), (2023) 7 SCC 350, the Supreme Court held that an FIR in a murder case is a vital and valuable piece of evidence. However, infirmities in the FIR cast doubt on its authenticity, reduce its evidentiary value and may entitle the accused to the benefit of the doubt.

53. In view of the above discussion and legal position the submission of the defence has force that the FIR was lodged ante-timed, which raises serious doubt over the prosecution case.

54. According to the prosecution, the appellant had motive to commit the murder of the deceased, because he had attempted murder of the deceased about 8-9 months earlier, in respect of which a case was pending and 3-4 days before the incident, he had threatened the deceased to cause his death. However, the prosecution has failed to produce any evidence regarding the case of alleged earlier attempt to murder, except for the statement of P.W.-1, Smt. Sukhwanti Devi. Similarly, there is no evidence to establish the date and place where the appellant allegedly threatened the deceased 3-4 days prior to the incident. Therefore, this alleged motive cannot be relied upon and does not inspire confidence. It is further alleged by the prosecution that, since the deceased was pursuing a paravi in a civil suit on behalf of the first informant, the appellant had a motive to eliminate him. We do not agree with this submission, as by killing the deceased, the appellant would not have derived any benefit in acquiring the property of the first informant. Thus, the motive attributed to the appellant for committing the murder is extremely weak and unconvincing.

55. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has not been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. The presence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 at the time of incident is highly doubtful. Their evidence contains material contradictions, omissions and improvements, which raise suspicion regarding their testimony. Therefore, their testimony is not reliable or trustworthy. The prosecution has not given any reason for not producing other independent witnesses. The FIR is ante-timed.

56. Thus, the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and the learned Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record incorrectly and reached at the wrong conclusion of guilt of the appellant on conjectures and thus, the conviction and sentence of the appellant is liable to be set aside.

57 . In view of the above, the instant criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned judgment and order dated 01.06.1984 passed by the Trial Court is set aside and the appellant, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia is acquitted of offence punishable under Section 302 I.P.C.

58. The appellant, Ashok Kumar Chaurasia is on bail. He need not surrender. His bail bond is cancelled and the sureties are discharged.

59. Criminal Appeal No. 1605 of 2009

Vijai Nai ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to the correctness and legality of the judgment of conviction based on circumstantial evidence and the last seen theory, the evidentiary value of recovery pursuant to disclosure under S.27 of the Indian Evidence Act, the effect of alleged contradictions in prosecution evidence, proof of motive, and whether the chain of circumstances was complete so as to establish the guilt of the accused beyond reasonable doubt. (Paras 10-42)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Circumstantial Evidence - Conviction based solely on circumstantial evidence - Indian Penal Code - Ss. 302/34, 394, 201, 411 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S.27 - Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 - S.374(2) - Five golden principles laid down in Sharad Birdichand Sarda constitute the Panchsheel of proof in a case based on circumstantial evidence and the prosecution must establish every circumstance completely, the circumstances must be consistent only with the hypothesis of guilt, must be of a conclusive nature, must exclude every hypothesis except that of guilt and the chain of evidence must be so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground consistent with innocence - Applying the aforesaid principles, the Court held that the chain of circumstances was complete and unerringly pointed towards the guilt of the appellant - Conviction affirmed. (Paras 10-12, 42-44)

Criminal Law - Last Seen Theory - Scope and applicability - Indian Penal Code - Ss.302/34, 394 - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Circumstantial evidence - Last seen theory by itself is insufficient to sustain conviction unless supported by other incriminating circumstances completing the chain of evidence - Evidence of prosecution witnesses established that the deceased driver and cleaner were last seen travelling with the appellant and the time gap between the last seen circumstance and the recovery of dead bodies was so short that the possibility of intervention by any other person stood excluded - Last seen circumstance, read with other proved circumstances, constituted a complete chain - Conviction upheld. (Paras 13-25)

Criminal Law - Motive - Relevance in a case based on circumstantial evidence - Indian Penal Code - Ss.302/34, 394 - Proof that the appellant had been removed from service by the complainant and had admittedly quarrelled regarding arrears of salary furnished a relevant motive - Such motive constituted an additional link supporting the prosecution case - Held, motive stood established and reinforced the chain of circumstances. (Paras 14, 26)

Evidence - Discovery of fact - Admissibility - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - S.27 - Recovery pursuant to disclosure statement - Recovery made in consequence of information supplied by an accused in police custody is admissible only to the extent that it distinctly relates to the fact thereby discovered - Recovery of the jack on the pointing out of the appellant was consistently proved by the complainant and the Investigating Officer and could not be discarded merely because one witness turned hostile - Recovery constituted an incriminating circumstance supporting the prosecution case. (Paras 27-37)

Evidence - Hostile witness - Effect - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Appreciation of evidence - Mere fact that a seizure witness turned hostile did not render the recovery inadmissible or unreliable where the Investigating Officer and other reliable witnesses consistently proved the recovery pursuant to disclosure by the accused - Recovery evidence accepted notwithstanding hostility of one witness. (Paras 28, 29, 33, 35, 37)

Criminal Trial - Appreciation of evidence - Contradictions and inconsistencies - Indian Evidence Act, 1872 - Minor inconsistencies or variations in testimony cannot be elevated to the level of reasonable doubt unless they strike at the root of the prosecution case - The alleged discrepancies relied upon by the appellant were not material and did not affect the credibility of the prosecution evidence or the established chain of circumstances - Conviction maintained. (Paras 38-41)

Criminal Law - Murder and Robbery - Circumstantial evidence - Indian Penal Code - Ss.302/34, 394, 201, 411 - Last seen evidence, motive, medical evidence, recovery pursuant to disclosure under S.27 of the Evidence Act, and other proved circumstances formed an unbroken chain excluding every hypothesis consistent with innocence - The appellant alone was found to be the perpetrator of the crime and the judgment of conviction and sentence recorded by the trial court called for no interference - Appeal dismissed. (Paras 42-45)

Held: The prosecution case being one of circumstantial evidence was required to satisfy the five golden principles constituting the Panchsheel of proof laid down in Sharad Birdichand Sarda and the evidence on record established that the deceased driver and cleaner were lastly seen travelling with the appellant in the truck immediately before their disappearance and thereafter they were never seen alive and their dead bodies were recovered within a short interval and the medical evidence fully supported the prosecution case regarding the time and manner of death - The appellant failed to offer any explanation as to when and where he parted company with the deceased and the proximity between the last seen circumstance and the death of the deceased excluded the possibility of any person other than the appellant being the perpetrator of the crime - The motive also stood established inasmuch as the appellant had admittedly been removed from service and had quarrelled regarding arrears of salary and the recovery of the jack on the pointing out of the appellant pursuant to his disclosure statement constituted a relevant incriminating circumstance admissible under S.27 of the Indian Evidence Act and merely because one witness to recovery turned hostile the recovery did not lose its evidentiary value when it stood consistently proved by the complainant and the Investigating Officer - Minor discrepancies and inconsistencies in the evidence neither affected the substratum of the prosecution case nor created any reasonable doubt and the circumstances proved were consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the appellant and excluded every other hypothesis and the chain of circumstances was complete leaving no reasonable ground consistent with innocence - The learned trial court rightly appreciated the oral and documentary evidence and correctly recorded the finding that the appellant alone was the perpetrator of the offences punishable under Ss.302/34, 394, 201 and 411 IPC and the conviction and sentence did not suffer from any illegality or infirmity warranting interference in appeal and the appeal was therefore liable to be dismissed - appeal dismissed. (Paras 10-12, 18-42, 43-45) (E-7)

Sri Adarsh Mehrotra, learned Amicus Curiae.
Advs. for the Respondents:
Sri Pawan Kumar Mishra learned AGA for the State.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajnish Kumar, J.)

(1) Heard Sri Adarsh Mehrotra, learned Amicus Curiae for the appellant and Sri Pawan Kumar Mishra, learned AGA for the State.

(2) This Criminal Appeal under Section 374(2) of Criminal Procedure Code (hereinafter referred to as Cr.P.C.), has been filed assailing the judgment and order dated 18.05.2009 passed by Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, E.C.Act, Unnao in Sessions Trial No.230/2007 (The State versus Vijai Nai and Three Others), arising out of Case Crime No.508/2006, under Sections 394, 302/34, 201, 411 Indian Penal Code(hereinafter referred as IPC),Police Station Ganga Ghat, District Unnao, by means of which the appellant has been convicted under Section 394, 302/34, 201, 411 IPC, sentencing him life imprisonment and fine of Rs.5,000/- under Section 302 of IPC, ten years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.5000/- under Section 394 IPC, three years rigorous imprisonment under Section 411 IPC and five years rigorous imprisonment and fine of Rs.1000/- under Section 201 IPC and in default of payment of fine, one year additional imprisonment. It has further been provided that all the sentences shall run concurrently.

(3) Learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order has been passed without considering the evidence and material on record appropriately. He further submitted that it was a case of circumstantial evidence and last seen, as there is no eye witness to the occurrence and the chain of circumstances is neither complete nor does it unerringly refer to the guilt of the appellant but the appellants have been convicted and sentenced by means of the impugned judgement and order. He further submitted that there was no motive against the appellant for committing the murder of driver and cleaner of the truck, specially when the grievance of the appellant could have been against the truck owner. He further submitted that the post mortem report has also not supported the prosecution case because as per the doctor, both the deceased died on account of strangulation and it was not possible for a single man to strangulate two persons at one time, that too, in a running truck. He further submitted that there is contradiction in the evidence of the witnesses of fact, but the learned trial court has failed to appreciate the same and wrongly and illegally relied on the evidence of such witnesses. He further submitted that recovery of jack and weapon of assault has not been proved and finger prints were also not taken from the recovered jack. He also submitted that though the truck was recovered but the scrap loaded in the truck was not recovered and the police has failed to recover the same. He further submitted that any of the family member of the victim has not been produced and it has not been clarified as to whether the dead bodies could have been identified in the condition in which it were found or not. Thus, learned counsel for the appellant submitted that the impugned judgment and order has been passed recording erroneous and perverse findings in an illegal manner, which are not sustainable in the eyes of law and liable to be set aside. Thus, the impugned judgment and order of conviction and sentence is liable to be set aside. The appeal is liable to be allowed and the appellant is liable to be acquitted. He relied on Rambraksh alias Jalim versus State of Chhatisgarh; AIR 2016 SC 2381, Kalinga @ Kushal versus State of Karnataka by Police Inspector Hubli;(2024) 4 SCC 735, Tomaso Bruno versus State of U.P.; AIR 2015 SC (Supp) 412, Anter Singh versus State of Rajasthan; (2004) 10 SCC 657, Shyamal Saha versus State of West Bengal; 2014 AIR SCW 4984, State of Karnataka versus Chand Basha; AIR 2015 SC(Supp) 2150, Ram Pratap versus State of Haryana; AIR 2023 SC 719, State of Rajasthan versus Hanuman; 2025 Live Law (SC) 691, Govind versus State of Haryana; 2025 Live Law (SC) 1106 and Nanje Gowda versus State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police; 2017 Cri. L.J. 2830.

(4) Per contra, learned AGA, vehemently opposed the submissions of learned counsel for the appellant. He submitted that though this is a case of circumstantial evidence and chain of circumstances are complete, which unerringly refer to the guilt of the appellant only. He further submitted that the appellant has admitted that he was a driver and working with the complainant. It is also not disputed that he had been sacked from service about a month ago of the incident. He has also not disputed the hot talks for dues of salary, therefore, there was motive. He further submitted that P.W.1 has proved that the scrap was loaded in the truck at Fazalganj, Kanpur, which was going to Sardar Rolling Mill, Lucknow, which was loaded on 11.10.2005 and the truck had departed on 12.10.2005 at 10:00 in the morning, in which the appellant had gone on his request. The F.I.R. was lodged at Police Station Fazalganj on 16.10.2005, which was subsequently transferred to the Police Station Gangaghat. On recovery of the dead bodies, the inquest was prepared on 14.10.2005 and the post mortem was conducted on 15.10.2005, which has supported the prosecution case. He further submitted that the dead bodies were found in Munshi Pulia, Police Station Azgain area and certain articles and scrap were missing from the truck. Jack was recovered on pointing out of the appellant. Thus, the submission is that the prosecution has proved it's case beyond reasonable doubt and considering the same, the trial court has passed the impugned judgment and order in accordance with law. The impugned judgment and order does not suffer from any illegality or infirmity, which may call for any interference by this Court. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds. The appeal is liable to be dismissed.

(5) We have considered the submissions of learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

(6) The prosecution case, in brief, is that the vehicle of the complainant was coming to Lucknow from Kanpur after loading scrap on 12.10.2005. The appellant asked the complainant to allow him to travel in the vehicle, stating that he has to go to Rama Devi Crossing, Kanpur. Accordingly, he proceeded in the complainant's truck alongwith the driver and the cleaner(helper). However, they did not reach their destination at Lucknow and after searching for the truck driver and cleaner, the complainant lodged the F.I.R. numbered Nil at Police Station Fazalganj, District Kanpur Nagar on 16.10.2005 at 10:15 A.M., which was later transferred to the police station Gangaghat. In the meantime, two unclaimed dead bodies were found on 14.10.2005 under Police Station Ganga Ghat, Unnao, the inquest of which were done on the same date and post mortem was done on 15.10.2005. Upon coming to know about the same from newspaper, the complainant and the family members of the driver went to see and found the dead bodies of the driver and cleaner of the vehicle of complainant, upon which the F.I.R. was transferred to Police Station Ganga Ghat, Unnao. Thereafter, the F.I.R. was lodged. The investigation was made and upon completion of investigation, a charge sheet was submitted. The magistrate, after taking cognizance on chargesheet, committed the case to session. Learned Session Judge framed charges, which were denied by the accused and they pleaded not guilty and claimed for trial. Hence trial held.

(7) The prosecution adduced oral evidence of Ramesh Chandra Porwal as P.W.1, Chotelal as P.W.2 , Dharam Pal as P.W.3, Manisha Bhadauria as P.W.4, Dr. Arun Prakash as P.W.5, Dheerendra Singh; S.I. as P.W.6, Ashok Kumar Yadav S.I. as P.W.7 and Prem Singh; writer of F.I.R. as P.W.8.

(9) After prosecution evidence, the statement of the accused-appellants under Section 313 Cr.P.C. was recorded, in which they stated that the case has wrongly been conducted against him. However, the appellant Vijay Nai admitted in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. that he was a driver on the vehicle No.U.P.78/346 of the complainant. He also stated that he has not seen the house of the complainant, who has a shop of quilt(rajai) and mattress(gadda).Truck No.U.P. 78 B 0019 is of the complainant. However, he does not know driver Munna Mishra. He also admitted that he was sacked one month prior to the incident. He also stated that he had gone on 07.09.2005 to demand arrears of salary of 13 months from the complainant, which was not paid, therefore, some quarrel took place. He also stated that he does not work in the work shop of Chotelal, therefore, he feels bad. He further stated that due to dispute regarding payment of arrears of salary, wrong evidence has been given.

(10) In view of above, it is a case of circumstantial evidence, which is to be tested on the touch stone of the five golden principles of circumstantial evidence enumerated in the case of Sharad Birdichand Sarda versus State of Maharashtra; (1984) 4 SCC 116. The relevant paragraphs 153 and 154 of which, are extracted here-in-below:

"153. A close analysis of this decision would show that the following conditions must be fulfilled before a case against an accused can be said to be fully established:

(1) the circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

It may be noted here that this Court indicated that the circumstances concerned "must or should" and not "may be" established. There is not only a grammatical but a legal distinction between "may be proved" and "must be or should be proved" as was held by this Court in Shivaji Sahabrao Bobade v. State of Maharashtra, where the following observations were made:

"Certainly, it is a primary principle that the accused must be and not merely may be guilty before a court can convict and the mental distance between "may be" and "must be" is long and divides vague conjectures from sure conclusions."

(2) the facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty,

(3) the circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency,

(4) they should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) there must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

154. These five golden principles, if we may say so, constitute the panchsheel of the proof of a case based on circumstantial evidence."

(11) The Hon'ble Supreme Court has consistently followed the aforesaid principles and the same have been followed in the case of Shyama Saha versus State of West Bengal(supra) also.

(12) In view of above, the case in hand is to be tested on the touch stone of the aforesaid five golden principles known as Panchsheel and in case upon testing on the same, it is found that the circumstances unerringly refer to the guilt of the appellant only and the learned trial court considering the same, has passed the impugned judgment and order, it can be said that the appellant has rightly and in accordance with law been convicted and sentenced, failing which it may not be said that the appellant is guilty.

(13) The complainant Ramesh Chandra Porwal lodged a F.I.R. on 16.10.2005 at 10:15 a.m., alleging therein that the driver Munna Mishra and Mohan loaded the scrap in his Truck No.U.P.78 B 0019 on 11.10.2005 and the remaining scrap from Fazalganj. However, due to some defect in gear box, the vehicle was parked near Charan Safe Petrol Pump in Fazalganj and same was informed to him. Consequently, the complainant reached the spot on 12.10.2005 at about 10:00 a.m. alongwith the mechanic; Chotelal. While the repair was going on, his previous driver Vijay Nai (the appellant) arrived at the spot alongwith his friends. He had earlier been sacked from service by the complainant on account of some mess in fare about a month ago. Upon arrival, he touched the complainant's feet and started talking with the driver Munna Mishra. After some time, he went back and returned again after an hour and again started talking to driver Munna Mishra. The vehicle was repaired by 4:00 p.m. in the evening. Thereafter, Vijay Nai, alongwith three friends came and enquired as to where the vehicle is going and upon being informed by Munna Mishra that the vehicle was going to Lucknow, he asked him and Munna Mishra to go upto Rama Devi Crossing and sat alongwith his three friends on the vehicle, which was seen by Chotelal mechanic also. The complainant alongwith the mechanic returned to the shop after the vehicle went away.

(14) Ramesh Chandra Porwal appeared as P.W.1. He stated that his Truck No.U.P. 78 B0019 was being driven by driver Munna Mishra, while Mohan was working as conductor. The scrap was loaded in the said truck on 11.10.2005 from Fazalganj, which was going from Kanpur to Sardar Rolling Mill, Lucknow. During the journey, the vehicle had some problem near Charandas Petrol Pump on 11.10.2005, as some fault had occurred in the gearbox. He reached near his vehicle on 12.10.2005 at about 10:00 AM. Prior to that, he had instructed the mechanic Chotelal to carry out the necessary repair of the vehicle. He is an old mechanic of his vehicle. On his information, Chotelal mechanic had reached near the vehicle prior to him and was opening the vehicle for repair. When he reached, Vijay Nai alongwith 2-3 persons were present there. The driver Munna Mishra and the cleaner Mohan were also present at the spot. Vijay Nai had earlier been driver of his vehicle but had been removed on account of some mess in the fare, due to which he bore enmity against the complainant. He recognized Vijay Nai, who was present in the Court. He further stated that he had gone to bring certain parts of vehicle and upon return found all of them present there. Thereafter, the vehicle proceeded from the petrol pump at about 3:30-4:00 on 12.10.2005. Vijay Nai enquired from him as to where the vehicle was going and upon being informed that it was going to Lucknow, he expressed his desire to go to Rama Devi. The complainant then asked him to enquire from the driver. Thereafter, Vijay Nai and his friends sat near the driver and proceeded. When they sat in the vehicle Chhotey Lao mechanic was also present. The vehicle then proceeded for Lucknow. Thereafter Chotelal returned to his shop.

(15) P.W.1 has further deposed that on 15.10.2005, he came to know from newspaper that two unclaimed dead bodies had been found aside the road near Thakur Dwara of village Ghazia kheda, Police station Ganga Ghat. On the same day, he also came to know from Lucknow that the truck loaded with scrap had not reached there. However, he informed that the vehicle had proceeded for Lucknow on 12.10.2005 at about 5:00 in the evening. He kept on searching for the vehicle on 13/14/15 and on 15.10.2005, he received the information. After reading the news in the newspaper, he went to the spot along with family members of Munna Mishra and identified the dead bodies. Out of the two dead bodies, one was of Munna Mishra and the second was of conductor Mohan. He stated that at that time he did not know the name of Mohan, but he was having knowledge that he was working as a helper on his vehicle because he had come 7 to 8 days ago to work on his vehicle. He identified the dead bodies from their clothes and face. Thereafter, he went to the police station alongwith them, however, there was no information regarding the vehicle and the goods. Then he went to the house of Vijay Nai but he was not found there, therefore, he became confident that Vijay Nai and his friends had killed the helper and truck driver in a planned manner, on account of his removal from service due to mess in fare. He proved the written report filed by him.

(16) Chhote Lal appeared as P.W. 2. He stated that he works as a mechanic. He knows Ramesh Chandra, who owns two trucks, the repair work of which are carried out by him. He also knows the driver Munna Mishra and Vijay Nai. He further stated that Munna Mishra used to get the work of Truck No.UP 78 B 0019 done at his workshop. On 11.10.2005 for repair, in the evening, the owner of vehicle Ramesh Chandra had informed that his vehicle was not moving ahead and some noise was coming from the gearbox. The scrap was loaded in the truck. He asked him that since it is night, the work could be done tomorrow. On 12.10.2005, he reached his shop at 9:15 a.m. and after collecting his tools, went to the place where the vehicle of Ramesh Chandra was parked, which was parked aside the road near Vijay Nagar Petrol Pump. He opened the gearbox and at that time, the driver of truck Munna Mishra and conductor, whose name he does not know but can identify, were standing near the vehicle. He further stated that Ramesh Chandra also came on the spot. Thereafter he went along with him to purchase the parts of vehicle. During that time, the driver Vijay Nai and one or two of his friends were present there. The truck was repaired by 4:00 p.m. on 12.10.2005. He was informed by the owner that the goods were to be transported to Lucknow. He further stated that although he had not heard any conversation between Vijay Nai and Ramesh Chandra as to where the truck was going but he had seen Vijay Nai and his two friends going from the truck towards Luknow. He also stated that Vijay Nai used to drive the said truck earlier, who is present in the court also. He further deposed that on account of dispute regarding exchange of money, Vijay Nai was removed from service by Ramesh Chandra, who had later informed him that driver and conductor had been killed, which was published in newspaper. However the truck and goods had not been recovered till that time. Thus, P.W. 2 has supported not only the prosecution case as disclosed in the FIR but the evidence of P.W.1 also to the extent that the appellant Vijay Nai along with his two friends had gone in the truck alongwith the driver Munna Mishra and cleaner Mohan on 12.10.2005, when it had proceeded, with scrap loaded on it, to Lucknow and appellant was his previous driver and he was sacked by him due to mess in fare. In the cross examination, nothing could be extracted from the witnesses, which may create any doubt about the evidence given by P.W. 1 and P.W. 2 in this regard.

(17) P.W. 3 Dharampal, also supported the prosecution case in his examination-in-chief and stated that the appellant Vijay Nai along with his two friends had gone in the truck with the driver Munna Mishra and the cleaner Mohan after informing Ramesh Chandra that they had to go to the Rama Devi crossing. However, in his cross examination, which was conducted after 14 days, he stated that on the date of incident, he was not present in the village and on 12-10-05 he was not in Kanpur as he had gone to Lucknow. Thus, he has not supported the evidence given by him in the examination-in-chief, but gave two contrary statements; one that he was not in village and other that he was not in Kanpur on 12.10.2005. However, it remains unrebutted that he had not gone to the place of incident along with the owner of the vehicle and he had not seen the appellant along with his two friends going with the driver Munna Mishra and cleaner Mohan, when the truck was going to Lucknow from Kanpur. However, even if his evidence is not considered there is consistent evidence of P.W.1 and P.W.2 that the appellant alongwith his two friends had gone with the appellant. Learned trial court has recorded a finding that the complainant Ramesh Chandra Porwal P.W.1, Chotelal P.W.2 and Dharampal P.W.3 had seen Vijay Nai lastly going with the deceased driver Munna Mishra and cleaner Mohan from Kanpur to Lucknow on the truck and thereafter the driver and cleaner have not been seen alive. Although Dharm Pal has stated in his cross examination that he was not in Kanpur on the said date but even if his examination-in-chief is not believed, P.W.1 the complainant Ramesh Chandra Porwal and P.W.2 Chotelal have given the conclusive proof of going of the accused lastly on the truck alongwith the driver Munna Mishra and cleaner Mohan and there is no contradiction in the same.

(18) In view of above, the deceased driver Munna Mishra and cleaner Mohan were lastly seen alongwith the appellant on the truck of the complainant Ramesh Chandra Porwal(P.W.1), which proceeded from Kanpur to Lucknow with scrap loaded on it. Thereafter the driver and the cleaner have not been found alive and their dead bodies were recovered on 14.10.2005 near thakurdwara of village Ghazia Kheda, Police Station Ganga Ghat, Unnao but neither the appellant nor the truck and the scrap loaded therein was found.

(19) The inquest of a dead body was prepared on 14.10.2005 between 12:42 to 13:30. As per the opinion of the inquest witnesses, the dead body was about 2-3 days old and the decomposition had started. The skin was peeled of, maggots were present in the body and bad smell was coming. The injuries were not clear on account of decomposition. The dead bodies were found to be about three days old. The inquest of the other dead body was conducted between 13:30 to 14:20 and it's condition was also found similar to that of the first dead body. (22) In view of above, the deceased Munna Mishra and Mohan were lastly seen with the appellant on 12.10.2005 when he had proceeded with them on the truck and thereafter they were found dead on 14.10.2005. It is not the case of the appellant that after proceeding on 12.10.2005 with the deceased persons, he had got down at Rama Devi crossing or anywhere else, thus he is the only person, who could have been said to be guilty of committing murder of the deceased persons. The post mortem of the deceased persons was conducted on 15.10.2005 and the doctor has deposed that the dead body was 3-5 days old, which goes to 12.10.2005, when they were lastly seen. Thus, the time gap between the last seen with the appellant and their death is very short and there is no evidence of the deceased persons and the appellant being separated in between, therefore, the possibility of any person other than the accused being perpetrator of the crime is not possible.

(23) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Rambraksh alias Jalim versus State of Chhatisgarh(supra), has held that it is trite law that the conviction cannot be recorded against the accused merely on the ground that the accused was last seen with the deceased. Normally, last seen theory comes into play where the time gap, between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead, is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the perpetrator of the crime becomes impossible. To record a conviction on the basis of last seen, the prosecution has to complete the chain of circumstances to bring home the guilt of the accused. The relevant paragraph 10 is extracted hereinbelow:-

"10. It is trite law that a conviction cannot be recorded against the accused merely on the ground that the accused was last seen with the deceased. In other words, a conviction cannot be based on the only circumstance of last seen together. Normally, last seen theory comes into play where the time gap, between the point of time when the accused and the deceased were seen last alive and when the deceased is found dead, is so small that possibility of any person other than the accused being the perpetrator of the crime becomes impossible. To record a conviction, the last seen together itself would not be sufficient and the prosecution has to complete the chain of circumstances to bring home the guilt of the accused."

(24) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of State of Karnataka versus Chand Basha(supra), has held that the Court for the purpose of arriving at a finding as to whether the said offence has been committed or not, may take into consideration the circumstantial evidence alongwith the last seen together.

(25) In view of above, it is trite in law that merely the proof of last seen together is not sufficient to hold the accused guilty of committing the crime unless the circumstances in terms of the five golden principles laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Sharad Birdichand Sarda(supra), also point out towards the guilt of the accused only. In this case, upon consideration of the evidence and material on record and the theory of last seen and circumstantial evidence, coupled with the post mortem report, which has supported the time of death and the gap between last seen with the deceased persons and their death, the accused-appellant can only be said to be the perpetrator of the crime.

(26) The motive was also with the appellant as he was sacked by the complainant i.e. the owner of the vehicle and admittedly he had a quarrel with him for payment of dues of salary of 13 months and subsequently truck was recovered but the scrap loaded in it was not in the truck, which after murder and robbery must have been sold and concealed the things stolen from it to disappear the evidence.

(27) P.W.-1 further stated that on 24/11/06, the SO Ganga Ghat had called him and informed that goods were to be recovered. He was called at the malhera crossing, where he reached at about 10:00 in the morning and after 15 to 20 minutes the Inspector came with 5 police personnel and Vijay Nai, who was sitting in the jeep. He further deposed that the said crossing was about 4 to 5 km away from the Ganga Ghat police station. Thereafter, he along with Inspector went to the village Ghazia kheda and after parking the Jeep, all of them went near thakurdwara and searched for the tirpal and rope of his vehicle in bushes, but the same could not be found. Then Vijay Nai stated that he had kept them there but the same had been been taken away by somebody. Thereafter, after going some ahead,Vijay Nai took out the Jack, after digging the said mud by the nails of fingers of leg which was kept under the sand mud, which was recognised by him and he stated that his jack was broken from the bottom and it was purchased a year ahead.

(28) It was stated by P.W.1 that on 24.11.2006, when he went for recovery of the goods, Dharampal was also with him. However, Dharmpal, who appeared as P.W. 3, though admitted recovery in his presence in examination-in-chief, but in cross examination, he denied that any recovery was made in his presence. Although Dharmpal supported P.W.1 on the point of recovery in the examination-in-chief, however, in his cross examination, he denied that any recovery was made before him. However P.W.7 Ashok Kumar Yadav, Sub inspector and the Investigating Officer, supported the version of P.W.1 and proved that the recovery was made on the pointing out of the appellant Vijay Nai. He further proved the recovery of Truck Number U.P. 78 B 0019, which was found parked unclaimed at police station Ajgan on 25/11/ 2006.

(29) Learned counsel for the appellant had argued that P.W.1 has stated that the jack was new, therefore, the question of rusting on it does not arise. However, P.W.1 has stated that the Jack was purchased about a year ago of the incident and the recovery was made after more than a year of the date of incident, therefore, the contention of learned counsel for the appellant is misconceived and not tenable. The learned trial court has recorded a finding that although Dharampal has denied the recovery in his presence in his examination-in-chief and stated to have given evidence under the influence of the police, but even if his evidence is not believed, the evidence of P.W.1 Ramesh Chandra Porwal and P.W.7 S.I. Ashok Kumar Yadav, who was one of the Investigating Officer and witness to recovery on pointing of the appellant in furtherance of his disclosure statement, is consistent and the same is believable. They have given conclusive proof of recovery of the jack on the pointing out of the appellant Vijay Nai.

(30) Section 27 of the Evidence Act, which in fact is proviso to Section 26, provides as to how much of information received from accused may be proved. Section 27 of the Evidence Act, on reproduction, reads as under:

27. How much of information received from accused may be proved.

Provided that, when any fact is deposed to as discovered in consequence of information received from a person accused of any offence, in the custody of a police-officer, so much of such information, whether it amounts to a confession or not, as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered, may be proved.

(31) In view of above, though the confession of the accused in police custody cannot be proved in view of Section 26, but when any recovery is made in furtherance of the disclosure statement made by the accused, it becomes the relevant fact and upon proved before the court of law, it cannot be discarded.

(32) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Anter Singh versus State of Rajasthan(supra), has dealt with the various requirements of Section 27 of Evidence Act and placing reliance on the extra judicial confession. The relevant paragraphs 14 to 16 of which, are extracted hereinbelow:-

"14.The expression "provided that" together with the phrase "whether it amounts to a confession or not" show that the section is in the nature of an exception to the preceding provisions particularly Section 25 and 26. It is not necessary in this case to consider if this Section qualifies, to any extent, Section 24, also. It will be seen that the first condition necessary for bringing this Section into operation is the discovery of a fact, albeit a relevant fact, in consequence of the information received from a person accused of an offence. The second is that the discovery of such fact must be deposed to. The third is that at the time of the receipt of the information the accused must be in police custody. The last but the most important condition is that only "so much of the information" as relates distinctly to the fact thereby discovered is admissible. The rest of the information has to be excluded. The word "distinctly" means "directly", "indubitably", "strictly", "unmistakably". The word has been advisedly used to limit and define the scope of the provable information. The phrase "distinctly" relates "to the fact thereby discovered" and is the linchpin of the provision. This phrase refers to that part of the information supplied by the accused which is the direct and immediate cause of the discovery. The reason behind this partial lifting of the ban against confessions and statements made to the police, is that if a fact is actually discovered in consequence of information given by the accused, it affords some guarantee of truth of that part, and that part only, of the information which was the clear, immediate and proximate cause of the discovery. No such guarantee or assurance attaches to the rest of the statement which may be indirectly or remotely related to the fact discovered. (See Mohammed Inayuttillah v. The State of Maharashtra (AIR 1976 SC 483).

15.At one time it was held that the expression "fact discovered" in the section is restricted to a physical or material fact which can be perceived by the senses, and that it does not include a mental fact, now it is fairly settled that the expression "fact discovered" includes not only the physical object produced, but also the place from which it is produced and the knowledge of the accused as to this, as noted in Palukuri Kotayya's case (supra) and in Udai Bhan v. State of Uttar Pradesh (AIR 1962 SC 1116).

(1) The fact of which evidence is sought to be given must be relevant to the issue. It must be borne in mind that the provision has nothing to do with question of relevancy. The relevancy of the fact discovered must be established according to the prescriptions relating to relevancy of other evidence connecting it with the crime in order to make the fact discovered admissible.

(2) The fact must have been discovered.

(3) The discovery must have been in consequence of some information received from the accused and not by accused's own act.

(4) The persons giving the information must be accused of any offence.

(5) He must be in the custody of a police officer.

(6) The discovery of a fact in consequence of information received from an accused in custody must be deposed to.

(7) Thereupon only that portion of the information which relates distinctly or strictly to the fact discovered can be proved. The rest is inadmissible"

(33) It has also been observed, in the case of Modan singh versus State of Rajasthan;(1978) 4 SCC 435, that where the evidence of the investigating officer, who recovered the material objects is convincing, the evidence as to recovery need not be rejected on the ground that seizure witness did not support the prosecution version. Similar view was taken in the case of Mohd. Aslam versus State of Maharashtra;(2001) 9 SCC 362, and it has been held that even if panch witnesses turn hostile, which happens very often in criminal cases, the evidence of the person, who effected the recovery would not stand vitiated.

(34) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Kalinga @ Kushal versus State of Karnataka by Police Inspector Hubli(supra), has held that it is no more res integra that an extra judicial confession must be accepted with great care and caution. If it is not supported by other evidence on record, it fails to inspire confidence and in such a case, it shall not be treated as a strong piece of evidence for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion of guilt. The relevant paragraph 15 is extracted hereinbelow:-

"15. It is no more res integra that an extra judicial confession must be accepted with great care and caution. If it is not 6 (2022) SCC On Line SC 705 supported by other evidence on record, it fails to inspire confidence and in such a case, it shall not be treated as a strong piece of evidence for the purpose of arriving at the conclusion of guilt. Furthermore, the extent of acceptability of an extra judicial confession depends on the trustworthiness of the witness before whom it is given and the circumstances in which it was given. The prosecution must establish that a confession was indeed made by the accused, that it was voluntary in nature and that the contents of the confession were true. The standard required for proving an extra judicial confession to the satisfaction of the Court is on the higher side and these essential ingredients must be established beyond any reasonable doubt. The standard becomes even higher when the entire case of the prosecution necessarily rests on the extra judicial confession."

(35) In view of above, even though P.W.3 who is also a witness to the recovery has turned hostile, the same cannot be rejected as it has been proved not only by the Investigating Officer but the complainant also before whom the recovery of jack was made, pursuant to the disclosure statement made by the accused/appellant recorded in report no.13 of case diary, in pursuant where of, an application was moved by the Investigating Officer before the CJM, Unnao for remand of the appellant for recovery on 20.11.2006, which was allowed on 23.11.2006 and thereafter, the recovery was made on 24.11.2006 as discussed above. Even otherwise in absence of recovery or proof thereof the conviction can be made, if the prosecution is able to prove it's case otherwise.

(36) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Govind Versus State of Haryana(supra), has held that the prosecution must prove the guilt beyond reasonable doubt on the basis of cogent material and evidence. For recovery under Section 27 of the Evidence Act to be relevant, the information received from the accused must relate distinctly to the fact thereby discovered. However, mere recovery is not sufficient to sustain a conviction for murder in the absence of other corroborative evidence connecting the accused to the crime.

(37) The learned trial court has recorded a finding that even if the evidence of P.W.3 Dharam Pal, who has stated that he had given the statement under the pressure of police is not considered, the evidence of P.W.1 Ramesh Chandra Porwal and P.W.7 S.I. Ashok Kumar Yadav was consistent and believable. The recovery of jack has been made on the pointing out of the appellant, which has rightly been proved.

(38) It has also been argued that there are material contradictions in the evidence of the prosecution witnesses and the material on record, but the learned trial court has failed to consider the same. It is settled in law that each and every contradiction and inconsistency in the evidence cannot be elevated to the level of a reasonable doubt, on account of which it may be said that the prosecution has failed to prove it's case beyond reasonable doubt. However, learned counsel for the appellant has failed to point out any material discrepancy or inconsistency in evidence, which may have any dent on the prosecution case.

(39) It has been held by the Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Kalinga(supra), that it is a trite law that a reasonable doubt is essentially a serious doubt in the case of the prosecution and minor inconsistencies are not to be elevated to the status of a reasonable doubt. A reasonable doubt is one, which renders the possibility of guilt as highly doubtful. The Hon'ble Supreme Court has further observed that the purpose of criminal trial is not only to ensure that an innocent person is not punished but it is also to ensure that the guilty does not escape unpunished. A judge owes this duty to the society and effective performance of this duty plays a crucial role in securing the faith of the common public in rule of law. Every case, wherein a guilty person goes unpunished due to any lacuna on the part of the investigating agency, prosecution or otherwise, shakes the conscience of the society at large and diminishes the value of the rule of law.

(40) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Tomaso Bruno versus State of U.P. (supra), relying on certain cases of the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that there is possibility of some variations in the exhibits, medical and ocular evidence and it cannot be ruled out. But it is not that every minor variation or inconsistency would tilt the balance of justice in favour of the accused. Where contradictions and variations are of serious nature, which apparently or impliedly are destructive of the substantive case sought to be proved by the prosecution, they may provide an advantage to the accused.

(41) The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the case of Krishnegowda versus State of Karnataka by Arkalgud Police (supra), has held that generally in the criminal cases, discrepancies in the evidence of witnesses is bound to happen because there would be considerable gap between the date of incident and the time of deposing evidence before the Court, but if these contradictions create such serious doubt in the mind of the Court about the truthfulness of the witnesses and it appears to the Court that there is clear improvement, then it is not safe to rely on such evidence. It is the duty of the Court to consider the trustworthiness of evidence on record. As said by Benthem, "witnesses are the eyes and ears of justice". It has also been held that mere lapse on the part of the Investigating Officer cannot be ground for acquitting the accused. If that is the basis, then every criminal case will depend upon the will and design of the Investigating Officer, therefore, the Courts have to independently deal with the case and should arrive at a just conclusion beyond reasonable doubt basing on the evidence on record. The Court should always make an endeavor to find the truth. A criminal offence is not only an offence against an individual but also against the society. There would be failure of justice if innocent man is punished. The Court should be able to perceive both sides i.e. the prosecution as well as the defence. Similar view has been taken by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of State of Rajasthan versus Hanuman(supra).

(42) In view of above, and considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case and upon considering the material and evidence on record, on the principles of last seen theory, circumstantial evidence and proof of recovery pursuant to the disclosure statement of the appellant under Section 27, this Court is of the view that the chain of circumstances are complete, pointing out towards the guilt of the appellant only. It would be appropriate to reproduce the relevant paragraphs of the impugned judgment and order disclosing the chain of circumstances against the appellant for recording his conviction:-

"1. अभियुक्त विजय नाई को वादी रमेश पोरवाल के द्वारा अपने ट्रक की ड्राइवरी से घटना से पौन महीना पूर्व भाड़े की गड़बड़ी करने की वजह से निकाल दिया गया था।

इस सम्बन्ध में अभियुक्त विजय नाई ने स्वयं अपने बयान अन्तर्गत धारा 313 दं०प्र०सं० में कहा है कि वह वादी के यहाँ ड्राइवरी का कार्य करता था, उनकी गाड़ी यू.पी. 78-346 को चलाता था। उसे नौकरी से एक माह पहले हटाया गया था। दिनांक-7.9.05 को वह वादी से तनख्वाह 13 महीने का बकाया माँगने गया था तो वादी ने पैसा नहीं दिया, उससे थोड़ी झड़प हो गई थी, कुछ खास नहीं हुई थी। इस प्रकार अभियुक्त विजय नाई के पास वादी रमेशचन्द्र पोरवाल को नुकसान पहुँचाने के लिये पर्याप्त मोटिव मौजूद था।

2. अभियुक्त विजय नाई कथित ट्रक पर सवार होकर मृतक ड्राइवर मुन्ना व क्लीनर मोहन के साथ अन्तिम बार कानपुर से लखनऊ के लिए ट्रक पर जाते हुये वादी रमेश चन्द्र पोरवाल व पी०डब्लू०-2छोटेलाल तथा पी०डब्लू०-3 धर्मपाल सिंह के द्वारा देखा गया था, जिसके पश्चात ड्राइवर व क्लीनर जीवित नहीं देखे गये। धर्मपाल ने यद्यपि जिरह में उक्त तिथि को अपने को कानपुर में न होना कहता है, परन्तु उसके मुख्य बयान पर यदि विश्वास न किया जाये तो भी वादी रमेशचन्द्र पोरवाल व पी०डब्लू०-2 छोटेलाल के द्वारा अभियुक्त के साथ अन्तिम बार चालक मुन्ना व हेल्पर मोहन को ट्रक पर जाते हुए देखने के सम्बन्ध में पुष्ट साक्ष्य दिया गया है, जिसमें कोई विरोधाभास नहीं है।

3. कथित ट्रक रास्ते से ही लखनऊ पहुँचने के पहले गायब हो गया तथा ड्राइवर व क्लीनर की लाश अजगैन क्षेत्र में फेंकी हुई प्राप्त हुई। चिकित्सीय साक्षी पी०डब्लू०-5 डा० अरुण प्रकाश श्रीवास्तव के अनुसार उक्त दोनो मृतकों केशरीर पर नीलगू निशान की पूर्व उल्लिखित चोटे थी। इसके साथ ही एक शव पर दो फटे हुए घाव की भी चोटे पाई गयी थी। आन्तरिक परीक्षण में उनकी मृत्यु गला दबाने के कारण "स्ट्रेगुलेशन" से होने की राय चिकित्सक के द्वारा दी गयी है।

4. कथित ट्रक लावारिस अवस्था में बरामद किया गया था। जिसपर सारा माल जैक, रस्सा, त्रिपाल, टायर आदि गायब थे।

5. अभियुक्त विजय नाई के पकड़े जाने के पश्चात ट्रक के जैक, रस्सा व त्रिपाल बरामद कराने के लिये कहा तो दिनांक 24.11.06 को उसने स्वयं बबूल की झाड़ियों से बालू में पैर की उंगली से कुरेदकर देखा और बताया कि यहीं गाड़ी का जैक गाड़ा था, फिर जैक को मौके पर निकालकर दिया। उक्त जैक का निचला बेस टूटे होने के सम्बन्ध में वादी रमेश पोरवाल ने साक्ष्य दिया है। जैक बरामद होने के तथ्य को वादी पी०डब्लू०-1 रमेश चन्द्र पोरवाल तथा पी०डब्लू-7 एस. आई. अशोक कुमार यादव द्वारा पुष्ट साक्ष्य दिया गया है।

पी०डब्लू०-3 साक्षी धर्मपाल यद्यपि जिरह में अपने सामने बरामदगी से इन्कार करता है तथा बयान पुलिस के दबाव में देना कहता है। परन्तु धर्मपाल के बयान को विश्वसनीय न मानने पर भी वादी

पी०डब्लू०-1 रमेश पोरवाल व पी०डब्लू०-7 एस.आई. अशोक कुमार यादव के बयान में एकरूपता है तथा उक्त साक्ष्य विश्वनीय है। विजय नाई के द्वारा स्वयं निशानदेही देकर लूट हुए जैक को बरामद करने के सम्बन्ध में पुष्ट साक्ष्य दिया गया है।

इस प्रकार वर्तमान मामले में साक्ष्य की सबी कड़ियाँ अभियुक्त विजय नाई के विरुद्ध पुष्टरूप से साबित है, जिससे अभियुकत विजयनाई की दोषसिद्धी का निष्कर्ष निकलता है। जो परिस्थितियां साबित की गयी है वह अभियुक्त के दोषी होने की परिकल्पना के अनुरूप है तथा अभियुक्त के दोषसद्धी के अतिरिक्त किसी अन्य परिकल्पना को सिद्ध नहीं करती है। परिस्थितियां "कन्क्लूसिव नेचर व टेडेन्सी" की है तथा साबित की गयी परिकल्पना के अतिरिक्त अन्य सभी परिकल्पनाओं को पृथक करती है। साक्ष्य की कड़ियाँ इस प्रकार पूर्ण है, जिससे अभियुक्त विजय नाई के निर्दोष होने का युक्तियुक्त आधार नहीं निकलता है तथा उक्त साक्ष्य की कड़ियाँ यह पुष्ट रूप से दर्शित करती है कि समस्त मानवीय परिकल्पनाओं में उक्त कृत्य केवल अभियुक्त विजय नाई के द्वारा ही किया गया है।

तदनुसार अभियोजन पक्ष अभियुक्त विजय नाई के विरुद्ध चालक मुन्ना व हेल्पर मोहन की हत्या कारित कर कथित ट्रक के सामान को लूटने के केस को साबित करने में अभियोजन पक्ष सफल रहा है तथा अभियोजन पक्ष अभियुक्त विजय नाई के कब्जे से चोरी गया जैक की बरामदगी के तथ्य को भी साबित करने में सफल रहा है। कथित जैक को छुपाने के साथ ही मृतक के शव ट्रक पर से अजगैन क्षेत्र में फेंकर साक्ष्य छुपाने के प्रयास का केस भी अभियुक्त विजय नाई के विरुद्ध पुष्ट रूप से साबित है। अभियुक्त विजय नाई तदनुसार धारा 394, 302/34, 201 व धारा 411 भा०दं०सं० के अन्तर्गत दोषी सिद्ध किये जाने योग्य है।

शेष अभियुक्तगण धीरज सिंह उर्फ धीरू, गुड्डू यादव एवं अजय को भा०दं०सं० की धारा-394, 302/34,201 के आरोप में सन्देह का लाभ देकर दोषमुक्त किया जाना उचित है।"

(43) In view of the discussion made herein above, this Court is of the view that the appellant is the only perpetrator of crime in the case in hand and the learned trial court has passed the impugned judgment and order in accordance with law by a reasoned and speaking order after considering the material and evidence on record appropriately. Thus, the contentions raised by learned counsel for the appellant are without any substance. The appeal has been filed on misconceived and baseless grounds, which lacks merit and is liable to be dismissed.

(44) The appeal is accordingly dismissed. The appellant is in jail and he shall serve out the remaining sentence.

(45) Let a copy of this judgment alongwith trial court's record be transmitted to the Court concerned forthwith and in any case within a period of one week from today for compliance.

The Trial Court directed that both the sentences shall run concurrently.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that upon an application dated 09.10.1982 (Ext. Ka-1) made by the informant Dr. Bale Ram Pal, son of Raja Ram Pal, a resident of village Chaitaura, Police Station Jansath, District Muzaffarnagar, along with a covering letter of same date by the Principal, Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar, an information was given at Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar, stating that the first informant′s son Sunil Kumar studies in Class-VII in Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar. On October, the 8th, 1982, his son left school after 11:30, but did not return until 11:00 a.m. on 09.10.1982. He regularly goes to school from his house, situated in village Chitaura. When he did not return home, that day i.e. 09.10.1982, the informant made inquiries about him at the school, from his relatives and also launched a search for him. However, his whereabouts could not be traced. On the 9th, he met the Principal of the school and inquired from some students about his son. Thereupon he came to know that his son was last seen with his class-mates near the railway crossing, where buses ply for village Chitaura. Beside this, no other information came to his notice. He expressed apprehension that his son had been kidnapped.

5. The said report was endorsed to S.I. R.C. Gupta for necessary action, who sent it to Police Station Nai Mandi. A report was received back from Police Station Nai Mandi on 09.10.1982 and investigation commenced at Police Station Civil Lines on 16.10.1982. Meanwhile, the accused Suresh handed over two letters (Exts. Ka-9 and Ka-10) contained in a postal cover piece (Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8) to Bale Ram. The envelop (Ext. Ka-7) contained Sunil′s photograph. In the aforesaid letters, a ransom of Rs.30,000/- was demanded and, according to the prosecution, the appellant Suresh intimidated Bale Ram that the boy was with him and would be killed, if Bale Ram takes any indiscreet step.

6. According to the prosecution, Bale Ram handed over these letters and photograph to S.I. R.C. Gupta, the same evening and, on that basis, a case under Section 365 IPC was registered at Police Station Civil Lines, the same day at 09:30 p.m. The investigation commenced on 17.10.1982. S.I. Surendra Singh (P.W. 8) commenced investigation and arrested the accused Suresh the same day, while co-accused Vinod was already confined in jail in another case. He was brought from the other jail and a confession of the appellant Vinod recorded. On 13.11.1982, Sunil′s is dead body was recovered from the premises of the Brij Ice factory upon the information furnished by the appellant Vinod. The inquest was held and a report prepared at the spot and thereafter, the dead body was sealed and sent for autopsy. At the instance of the appellant Suresh, a school bag, books and exercise books of deceased Sunil were recovered form the same compound on the same day and its recovery memo prepared. Specimen handwriting of Suresh was obtained and the same along with ransom letters were sent to handwriting expert, who opined that the handwriting in both the documents was of the same person. The Investigating Officer recorded statements of the informant and other witnesses. The Investigating Officer inspected the place of occurrence from where deceased Sunil was kidnapped and prepared its site plan (Ext.Ka-104). He also prepared a site plan of the place, from where the dead body of the deceased was recovered (Ext. Ka-91). After completion of investigation, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet against Suresh and Dr. Vinod Alias Ram Vinod Alias Ram Niwas, under Sections 304, 302, 301 and 120B IPC before the learned Magistrate.

7. The Magistrate took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared before the Court and were furnished copies of relevant prosecution papers under Section 207 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

8. The appellant and co-convict Suresh appeared before the Court of Sessions and charges under Sections 365 read with 34, 302 read with 34 and 201 IPC were framed against them, to which they pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

9. The prosecution have examined nine witnesses to prove their case to wit, Ganga Sharan Sharma (P.W.1), Dr. Mahendra Kumar Taneja (P.W.2), Anwar Mohammad (P.W.3), Bale Ram (P.W.4), Ramesh Chand (P.W.5), Vijay Pal Singh (P.W.6), Mahender Pratap Singh (P.W.7), Surendra Singh (P.W.8) and Indar Pal Sharma (P.W.9).

10. P.W.1 Ganga Sharan Sharma is the Principal of the Rajkiya Inter College, Muzaffarnagar. He, in his testimony, has said that in October, 1982, the studies in his college used to be held in two shifts, namely from Class-VI to VII, in first shift (07:00 to 11:30 a.m.) and for rest of classes in second shift (12:00 noon to 05:00 p.m.). The school uniform was white shirt and khakhi pant. Sunil, son of Bale Ram, was a student in Class-VII, who came to attend classes on 08.10.1982 in the first shift. On 09.10.1982, after the school was opened, the deceased′s father, Bale Ram, came to his office and informed him that Sunil had not returned home after school yesterday. Thereafter, he asked his senior teacher Shri Ram Prasad to bring the attendance registers for Class-VII relating to all the sections and it was verified from the registers that Sunil had attended school on 08.10.1982. His attendance had been duly marked. Thereafter, his classmates were asked, who informed that after the school was over, Sunil was seen standing in college field, near the railway crossing. Thereafter, Sunil′s father gave the principal a written information, which he forwarded along with his own forwarding letter to the Police Station Kotwali, Muzaffarnagar. Bale Ram had written his application in his own handwriting, which P.W. 1 got typed out. Next, Bale Ram had put his signature and the same was sent to Police Station Kotwali. The witness has proved the application of Bale Ram and his own covering letter as Exts. Ka-1 and Ka-2, respectively.

11. In his cross-examination, P.W. 1 has said that senior teacher Shri Ram Prasad, after returning from Sunil's class, did not tell him the names of those students, who had seen Sunil standing near the railway crossing. His college's field extends up to the railway line. He has stated that in the application there is an overwriting on the word 'Kotwali' and subsequently 'Civil Lines' is scribed in Exts. Ka-1 and Ka-2 in his office by some clerk. It is because his college was not within the jurisdiction of Police Station Kotwali, but it fell under Police Station Civil Lines. It is correct that there are no initials over these cuttings. He had himself asked his clerk to make these cuttings.

12. P.W.2 Dr. Mahendra Kumar Taneja has conducted the post-mortem examination on deceased's cadaver on 13.11.1982 from 03:00 p.m. He has said that on 13.11.1982, he was posted as Medical Officer in District Hospital, Muzaffarnagar and on that day, at about 03:00 p.m., the body of deceased Sunil, son of Bale Ram, was brought to him for post-mortem examination by Constable Vijay Pal and Constable Dinesh Chand of Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar in a sealed cloth. The deceased was aged about 12 years and death had occurred about one month ago. The entire body was decomposed. The skin, in some places, had vanished and the muscles had become blackish red. The hair were loose. Skull was present but its wall had decomposed. Heart and lungs had decomposed. Peritoneum membrane and tongue had also decomposed and were missing. There were fourteen teeth each in both upper and lower jaws. Heart had decomposed, weighing about one pound. Some parts of the deceased's body and bones were preserved. The witness has proved the post-mortem report as Ext. Ka-3 and said that the deceased had died between 08.10.1982 to 22.10.1982. He did not find any presence of maggots. He further said that after ten days from death, the skin starts decomposing and the muscles become blackish from red. The skin starts peeling after ten days and, after four weeks, hair loosen from the skin. There was a vest (Banyan), underwear, pant, shirt and a pair of sandal on the dead body. These materials were sealed in a box and handed over to the Constable. The above sealed box was opened before the Court, and the witness has proved articles contained in it as Exts. 1 to 5.

13. In his cross-examination, P.W. 2 has deposed that after burying a dead body under wet earth, decomposition delays, compared to decomposition in moist air. It is true that body of a child decomposes faster than that of a young man. It is not necessary that maggots would be found in a body after 14 to 20 days. Sunil could have died on 25/26 of October, 1982. The probability is less, but it cannot be entirely ruled out. The deceased could have died one or two days earlier than on 08.10.1982.

14. P.W.3 Anwar Mohammad is a witness of fact. He, in his examination-in-chief, has deposed that he was acquainted with Bale Ram, who resides in his village. He further stated that he also knows the appellants Suresh and Vinod. He next stated that he knows the appellant Vinod 15-20 days prior to the date of incident. On 08.10.1982 between 11:30 a.m.-12:00 noon, he had gone to Muzaffarnagar from his village Chitaura by bus. When his bus turned at the railway crossing, he saw the accused Suresh, Vinod and Sunil son of Bale Ram proceeding from the railway crossing towards Mahavir Chauk. Sunil was carrying his school bag and wearing a white shirt and khakhi pants. The same day at about 08:00 p.m., it came to his knowledge that his brother Mohammad, who resides in Meerut, had fallen ill. Therefore, the next day in the morning he went to Meerut and stayed with his brother. After 18-19 days, he returned to his village as there was curfew due to Hindu Muslim riots in Meerut. Upon returning from Meerut, he went to his agricultural field and while returning from there, at about 04:30 p.m., he met the Investigating Officer near a temple, where he was inquiring about Bale Ram′s son. There, he told the Investigating Officer that he saw Sunil a few days ago. After seeing his (Sunil′s) photograph (Ext. Ka-29), P.W. 3 said that this is the photo of Dr. Bale Ram′s son, whom he had seen going along with the accused.

15. In cross-examination, P.W.3 deposed that his brother was not hospitalized, and was taking treatment from a private doctor. He was suffering from double pneumonia and the doctor had prescribed medicines to his brother before him. He had not told the Investigating Officer that he had gone to Meerut and returned after 18-19 days as the Investigating Officer had not asked so. He did not know that any Panchayat took place in village Chitaura after Sunil got missing. It is when the Investigating Officer enquired of him, it came to his notice that Sunil was missing and, as he had seen Sunil with the accused on 08.10.1982 who went missing since then, he thought that may be the accused had kidnapped him. He knows Dr. Vinod because the accused Suresh had come to him along with Vinod to get a room on rent.

16. P.W. 4 Dr. Bale Ram is the deceased Sunil′s father. He has said, on oath, that his son was aged about twelve years, who was studying in Class-VII in the Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar. He used to go to the school daily by bus and usually returned by 12:30-01:00 p.m. He wore a white shirt and khakhi pants and was carrying his school bag and identity card. On 08.10.1982, Sunil had gone to school, but did not return home. During those days, he usually treated patients from the morning till 12:00 noon at his home, and thereafter, from 02:00 to 07:00 p.m. in the clinic at Vilaspur. On that day, he returned from Vilaspur at about 07:15 p.m., whereupon his wife Chandrakali informed him that Sunil had not returned from school, which caused him concern. Sunil, after telling him, had earlier stayed back on some occasions at his elder brother Ram Pal′s house, located in Mohalla Prempuri, Muzaffarnagar. On that day, Sunil had not told him that he was staying in Muzaffarnagar. He consoled his wife that Sunil might have stayed at his uncle′s house. In the morning at about 05:00 a.m., he went to Prempuri, where his son was not found. Thereafter, he enquired from his relatives, but Sunil was also not there. Next, he went to the Government College, Muzaffarnagar where, he met the Principal at 08:00 a.m.., who sent him to Class-VII with the teacher where, Sunil′s classmates told him that on 08.10.1982, they saw Sunil near the railway crossing, Nai Mandi, Muzaffarnagar at 12:00 p.m. carrying his school bag. The class teacher after perusing the school register told that Sunil was present on 08.10.1982 and attended all the periods. Thereafter, he wrote down an application and the Principal got it typed in duplicate. He had put his signatures over there and the Principal gave him a covering letter and asked him to go the police station along with the application and the covering letter to Police Station Kotwali. A constable from the Police Station Kotwali told him that Government Inter College is not within the territorial jurisdiction of Police Station Kotwali and it falls within the territorial jurisdiction of Police Station Civil Lines. Thereafter, he returned to the college and informed the Principal, who called a clerk, who scored out Police Station Kotwali and wrote it down as Police Station Civil Lines. Thereafter accompanied by a peon, he went to Police Station Civil Lines, where he filed the application. On 16.10.1982, at about 04:00 p.m., the accused Suresh, came to his house in village Chitaura and handed him two letters, one of the letters was bearing seal dated 12.10.1982 of the Post Office and the other had the seal dated 16.10.1982 over it. The witness has proved both these envelopes as Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8 and letters as Exts. Ka-9 and Ka-

10. He has said that after handing him the envelops, the accused Suresh told him that his son is with him along with Vinod and two or three other accomplices and, if he raises any alarm, then his son would be killed. Thereafter, Suresh left his house and he opened envelope dated 12.10.1982, which carried Sunil′s photo and a letter. Thereafter, he called a few persons from the village and, after consultation, went to Muzaffarnagar and near the northern gate of the District Court. An Inspector from Police Station Civil Lines met him, whom he handed over the letters and the photo. The Inspector made inquiries from him on 13.11.1982.

17. P.W. 4 further testifies that Sunil′s dead body was found in Brij Ice Fatory. Sunil′s school bag and books were not found at the place of recovery. The accused Suresh and Vinod both were present there in handcuffs. The accused Suresh dug the earth near the place, where the dead body was found and pulled out the school bag from it. P.W. 4 identified his son′s school bag, books and school uniform, which were sealed at the spot. The witness has proved the vest (Ext. 1), underwear (Ext. 2), pants (Ext. 3), shirt (Ext. 4) and sandal (Ext. 5) and said that Sunil was wearing all these clothes. In the other sealed cover, seven books, nine copies, a diary and an instrument box, belonging to Sunil, were found, which the witness has proved as Exts. 11 to 29. On some of the books and copies, Sunil′s name and Class-VII-B was written.

18. In his cross-examination, he has deposed that a foul smell was emanating from the books as if something had rotten. Books were placed inside the school bag. The first page of the book was stuck but not torn. The books were recovered from a pit about one foot deep and about 2.5 to 2.25 feet width. The above pit was dug in his presence. The pit from which the dead body was recovered was not dug before him. The place from which the books were recovered was barren. He reached the Ice Factory at about 09:00 a.m. and the S.P. Muzaffarnagar was present there. The dead body was sent from the spot in his presence. He stayed there for about one or one and a half hour. There was a large crowd gathered there. The accused Vinod showed ignorance upon being asked about Sunil′s school bag, and told that Suresh might be knowing about it. On 13.11.1982, he stayed at his elder brother′s house in the city and went to the police station alone at 08:30 a.m. and there he came to know that Sunil′s dead body has been found in the courtyard of the Brij Ice Factory. He further deposed that the accused Suresh was his cousin, whose father is a peon in the Brij Ice Factory.

19. Further in his cross-examination, P.W. 4 deposed that Suresh handed him envelops Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8 on 16.10.1982 at about 04:00 p.m. and had a conversation with him for about two-three minutes. Suresh told him that you read the letters and fulfill the demand mentioned in it. As Suresh had threatened him and the matter concerned his child′s life, he did not endeavour to apprehend him. He asked Suresh to stop but he ran away. He further stated that he does not remember whether Suresh was present in the village from 08.10.1982 to 16.10.1982, as he was busy in the search for his child. Suresh′s house is adjacent to his own house. On 16.10.1982, he did not search for Suresh in the factory, where his father worked. At that time, he was not familiar with Vinod and had seen him only once while going to Suresh′s house.

20. On 17.10.1982 and 18.10.1982, he did not search accused Suresh and on 18.10.1982, he had said the same before the Police. He held a meeting in the village on 16.10.1982 and the same day, the news spread in the village that his son was with the accused Suresh. In the night of 17.10.1982, he was at his house in the village, when he came to know that Suresh has been arrested. On 18.10.1982, he came to the police station Civil Lines along with many villagers. He does not know when the accused Vinod was arrested. On 18.10.1982, he reached the Police Station Civil Lines, where accused Suresh was present and was being interrogated.

21. P.W. 4 further stated that it is incorrect to say that on 08.11.1982, he appointed Shri Nazar Hussain, Advocate in Meerut for bail of accused Vinod and accused Vinod had refused to come out from jail. He knows that accused Vinod′s father is a doctor. Envelops (Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8) bear the seal of Post Office, Muzaffarnagar. Since before the incident, he and the accused Suresh used to go to each other′s house. On 16.10.1982, when a meeting in the village was held, some persons collected donations. There was a place mentioned in both the letters, where the ransom was to be delivered and he went to that place alone on 18.10.1982. It is correct that another witness Ramesh Chand is his relative, who is married to his uncle Tara Chand′s daughter. It is correct to say that witness Tara Chand and Jodha Singh are cousins.

22. P.W.4 in his further cross-examination has said that in the month of April, since before the incident, there was an election for the Gram Pradhan, in which witness Sita Ram was one of the candidates. He does not know that there was some tension due to the election and that any firing had taken place at election booth, but some persons were arrested from the village. He himself and witness Sita Ram were also arrested and after being released from jail, he filed a complaint against Babu and Tarik Mehar Illahi. He got information about the dead body of his son on 13.11.1982 at Police Station Civil Lines. When he reached the Brij Ice Factory, about 100-150 person were present there. Some of them were his relatives and his fellow villagers.

23. P.W. 5 Ramesh Chand has stated that he knows the accused, the informant as well as the deceased. In the morning on 09.10.1982, Dr. Bale Ram came to his house inquiring about the whereabouts of Sunil and had said that Sunil had not returned from school. On 13.10.1982, at about 06:45 pm., he went to Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar where two inspectors and four constables in a jeep along with the accused Suresh were present at the gate. The Inspector said to him that the accused is confessing to his crime and asked him to accompany them. Thereafter, he accompanied them. On the way, they met Kamar Abbas and Jodha Singh, who also came along with them. Subsequently, they reached near the Brij Ice Factory and the accused Vinod said that he had buried the dead body of Sunil′s body in this factory after he was killed with the help of a stick and with the assistance of Suresh. The Inspector recorded his statement and got his signature over it, which the witness has proved as Ext. Ka-4. Thereafter, Vinod dug the pit upto a depth of about three feet, and the deceased Sunil′s dead body was found buried there. Thereafter, other Police personnel reached there and the dead body was taken out of the pit. The dead body was identifiable. He has proved the recovery memo as Ext. Ka-5 and said that Bale Ram also reached there and identified the dead body. Bale Ram asked the Inspector to enquire from the accused about the school bag, upon which, Vinod said that Suresh knows about the bag. Thereafter, the Inspector sent a Constable to the police station and brought Suresh over. Suresh said that he had buried the school bag in the north western corner, near the wall. Suresh dug the pit and a school bag was found in it. The witness has proved the recovery memo relating to school bag as Ext. Ka-6 and said that at about 01:00 p.m., the dead body was sent for post-mortem examination.

24. In his cross-examination, P.W. 5 deposed that Bale Ram is his distant relative. Police Station Civil Lines is near the District Court. Brij Ice Factory is about three-four kilometers away from Police Station Civil Lines. They reached near the factory in 20-25 minutes. The Factory gate was close but not locked. Ext. Ka-5 was written at about 08:00 a.m. It took about half an hour to dig the pit. People living nearby and Member of Parliament Vijay Pal Singh had also reached the place, from where the dead body was recovered. Dr. Bale Ram reached after the dead body was taken out of the pit. Sunil Kumar never went to his house, since before this incident. The deceased′s body was not decomposed and the face was identifiable. He cannot give any reason why he has stated to the Investigating Officer that the dead body was decomposed and could be identifiable by clothes alone. The Constable had brought Suresh within an hour. The pit from which the school bag was recovered and the pit from which the dead body was recovered were about fifteen meters apart.

25. P.W.6 Constable Vijay Pal Singh has said that he was posted at Police Station Civil Lines as a Constable in October and November 1982 and the accused Vinod′s house was raided before him. On 13.11.1982, he along with Constable Dinesh Chand, Satpal and Kotwal, R.C. Gupta left the police station by jeep at 07:00 a.m. and reached Gata Bazar. They met Ramesh Chand there and took him along with them. At Prakash roundabout, two persons met and they were also taken along. They reached near the Ice Factory and Vinod said that this is the Kothri in which he, along with Suresh, had strangulated Sunil with the help of a stick. Thereafter, the accused Vinod showed them the place, where the dead body was buried and dug a pit from which the dead body was found. Thereafter, other police personnel, Sunil′s father and others reached there. Sunil′s father identified the dead body and asked the Inspector about the school bag and books of his son. Then Vinod said that only Suresh can tell about them. Thereafter, the Inspector sent a Constable and brought forth Suresh from the Police Station, who dug another pit nearby the place from which, the school bag was recovered.

26. In his cross-examination, P.W. 6 said that earlier this case was being investigated inquired by R.C. Gupta. He had not seen Ramesh Chand earlier at the Police Station. The dead body was found at about 08:20-08:45 a.m. and the constable had gone to the police station to bring Suresh at about 11:00 a.m. Suresh came at about 12:00 noon. Accused Vinod was at the Police Station in the night. He was also present at the place where the dead body was recovered, and there was no grass cover over it. Signatures of the witnesses were obtained on the recovery memo and he had also put his signatures over it. After perusing Exts. Ka-5 and Ka-6, the witness said that they do not bear his signature and he himself said that his signatures are there on the inquest report. When the witness was shown the inquest report, he said that it also does not bear his signature.

27. P.W.7 Mahender Pratap Singh is an expert witness and has said that he is a Document Expert with the Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow since 1961. He further said that he has prepared about 20,000 reports after examining disputed and sample hand writings. He compared the disputed letters Exts. Ka-9 and Ka-10 with sample letters and came to the conclusion that the person who had written the sample, shown as S-3520 to S-3610, had also written the disputed writing on Q-3513 to Q-3519. The witness has proved the expert reports as Exts. Ka-7 and Ka-8. His assistant had taken the negatives Exts. Ka-9 and Ka-10. Enlarged prints were also produced by him, which were 79 in numbers and proved them as Exts. Ka-11 to Ka-89. The point of similarity in hand writing are shown in red ink over those prints. The original letters (Exts. Ka-9 and Ka-10) and sample on written paper 23/Ka/1 to 23/Ka/92 were brought by Constable Vijay Pal Singh of Police Station Civil Lines and sealed in a box before him.

28. In his cross-examination, P.W.7 said that line quality of both the disputed and sample writing, are poor and is written by the left hand. The letter formation is not well coordinated and has no flow of writing. It is correct that for identifying, the line quality is an important factor. If line quality is found poor, then an opinion is given that the writer is not skilled. All the sample writing, which are written with left hand and right hand, match the disputed writing. The writing characteristics of both the hands has natural variation except the line quality and the muscular co-ordination.

29. P.W.8 S.I. Surendra Singh is the Investigating Officer of the case and has said that before him S.I. R.C. Gupta was investigating the case, who was ill for the last eight-nine months. He has stated about the investigation carried out in this case and said that on 17.10.1982, he recorded the statement of informant Bale Ram and accused Suresh, who was arrested the same day. On 20.10.1982 and 21.10.1982, houses of Vinod at different place were raided. On 11.11.1982, accused Vinod was brought from Meerut Jail to Muzaffarnagar Jail. On 13.11.1982, he recorded the statement of accused Vinod and, at his pointing out, recovered the dead body of the deceased from Brij Ice Factory. He had taken samples of plain earth and blood-stained earth from the place, where the dead body was recovered, prepared its recovery memo and proved it as Ext. Ka-90. He had taken samples in two boxes, which he proved as Exts. 30 and 31. At his direction S.I. R.C. Gupta prepared the inquest report and recorded statement of the accused Suresh, upon whose pointing out, the school bag, books and copies were recovered. The recovery memo was proved as Ext. Ka-91. He proved the inquest report as Ext. Ka-92 and related papers, such as photo-nash, letter to CMO, reference report regarding post-mortem, letter to R.I., challan-nash as Exts. Ka-93 to 97 respectively. He had moved an application seeking police remand for the accused Vinod, which he proved as Ext. Ka-98 and the order of the learned Magistrate, as Ext. Ka-99. He has proved the charge-sheet Ext. Ka-102. He further stated that the accused Suresh′s father Kaluram was a watchman with the Brij Ice Factory.

30. In his cross-examination he deposed that on 13.11.1982, this case was converted into one under Sections 302, 120-B, 364, 201 IPC vide G.D. No.24 at 03:10 p.m. The dead body was sent from Brij Ice Factory on 13.11.1982 at 01:30 p.m. On 17.10.1982, the accused Suresh was arrested, and a country made pistol, along with cartridges, recovered from him. He was interrogated and he confessed to his crime. The door of the factory was not locked. At about 09:30 a.m., the dead body was recovered. Suresh was called from the Police Station after the dead body was recovered. He did not record statement of any student of Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar, who had seen the deceased Sunil on 08.10.1982 near the railway crossing. No foul smell was emanating from the books, recovered. He has proved the site plan of the place of recovery as Ext. Ka-104 and the recovery memo of the attachment, as Exts. Ka-105 and 106. The sample of plain earth and the blood-stained earth were not sent for chemical examination. Witness Ramesh had given him the statement that the dead body was almost decomposed and could be identified only by clothes.

31. P.W.8 was recalled by the prosecution and, in his further statement, he stated that on 18.10.1982, the accused Suresh was brought before the court of the C.J.M. and his sample hand written note was taken, which he proved as Ext. Ka-121 to Ka-126. He has said that he sent the sample and the disputed writing to the hand writing expert, who instructed him that sample of hand writing from both hands be obtained. Thereafter, sample of hand writing of both the hands of accused Suresh were taken.

32. P.W.9 Head Constable Indar Pal Sharma is a formal witness, who has said that on 13.10.1982, he was posted at Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar. S.I. R.C. Gupta handed him an application and covering letter Exts. Ka-1 and Ka-2, upon which he lodged a report. He has proved report Ext. 107 and G.D. No. 28 at 15:40 hours as Ext. Ka-8. On 16.10.1982, he prepared G.D. No. 36 at 21:30 hours, which he proved as Ext. Ka-109. He has also proved G.D. No. 20 dated 17.10.1982 at 20:30 hours as Ext. Ka-110 and G.D. No.42 at 23:05 hours dated 20.10.1982 as Ext. Ka-111 and other police papers and G.Ds. of different dates as Exts. Ka-112 to Ka-120.

33. After closure of the prosecution evidence, the statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C., where they denied the prosecution case and have said that they have been falsely implicated in this case and the witnesses were deposing against them on account of being relatives of Bale Ram. Accused Vinod has admitted that on 17.10.1982, the accused Suresh was arrested and accused Vinod surrendered in Meerut after his house was raided on 20.10.1982 and 21.10.1982. He brought to Muzaffarnagar on 11.11.1982. He has said that his father had a clinic near Soojdu Chungi and the informant Dr. Bale Ram wanted to have a shop adjacent yo the shop. His father did not let Bale Ram have that shop, on account whereof, he has been falsely roped in this case.

34. Accused Suresh has admitted that Ext. Ka-6 is Sunil′s photograph. On 17.10.1982, he was arrested. He also admitted that on 18.10.1982, his sample hand writing was obtained and, on 05.01.1983, the sample handwriting of his both hands were taken. He has said that last year, there was election in the village. One party was of Bale Ram and another was of his own. There was dispute between both the parties and Dr. Bale Ram was confined in jail. Dr. Bale Ram had suspicion about him and therefore, he has been falsely implicated in this case.

35. In defence, D.W.1 A.S. Kapoor, hand writing and finger print expert has been examined on behalf of the accused, who has stated that since last 51 years, he is engaged in the field of a handwriting expert. He had compared the disputed handwriting with the admitted handwriting and come to the opinion that they do not match each other. He has proved his expert report as Ext. Kha-1 and stated that he himself took the photographs and prepared its negatives and enlarged the prints. He has submitted negatives as Exts. Kha-2/1 to 2/11 and enlarged photos as Ext. Kha-3 to Kha-25. In his cross-examination, he has stated that over some letters in the disputed writing, the tilt is from left to right. Letter 'D' on Ext. Kha-8 has been written hurriedly without any hesitation, whereas letter 'Da′ in Ext. Ka-22 is written with hesitation and there are no similarities between the two. If a person is in habit of writing by his right hand but writes with the left hand, then there would be difference in both his writings. The slant of writing is from left to right in Ext. Ka-14. He is in private practice. In the sample handwriting, there is a wrist movement, whereas in the disputed writing, there is fingers′ movement. It is correct that in one of the cases in Meerut, the Additional Sessions Judge had passed strictures against him regarding the evidence, but the appellate court was in agreement with him. He has denied the suggestion that the strictures against him remained untouched in appeal.

36. After hearing the submissions of both parties and perusing the evidence on record, the learned Trial Judge came to the conclusion that the prosecution have been able to prove their case beyond reasonable doubt. It was proved that the accused had murdered Sunil and to conceal evidence, buried the dead body in a pit at the Brij Ice Factory. The Trial Court found that technically the offence under Section 365 IPC was not proved as there was no evidence of deceit or use of force while taking away Sunil and, accordingly, the appellants Suresh and Dr. Vinod @ Ram Vinod @ Ram Niwas were found guilty, convicted, and sentenced to the term as indicated above.

37. Heard Mr. Chandra Bhushan Prasad, learned Counsel for the appellant and Mr. Anil Kumar Mishra, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of the State.

38. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the prosecution have not examined material witnesses, such as Sita Ram (the alleged eye-witness), Jodha Singh and Qamar Abbas (witnesses of fard baramadgi), Dile Ram, Vijay Pal Singh, Atar Singh and Nirdosh Kumar (witnesses of inquest), other independent/public witnesses of the locality as well as the watchman and the owner of the Brij Ice Factory. Also statement of classmates of the deceased, who had last seen him at the railway crossing adjacent to the college field were not recorded and thus, non-production of these witnesses has materially affected the prosecution case. It is further submitted that in the post-mortem report, the cause of death could not be ascertained and viscera was preserved. The prosecution has not filed any Forensic Science Laboratory report to establish the cause of death, which has adversely affected their case. It is further submitted that the appellant, Dr. Vinod is neither a relative nor a friend of the deceased′s family. So, there was no occasion for P.W.4 and P.W.5 to know and identify him prior to the incident.

39. In support of his arguments, learned Counsel for the appellant has relied upon Jagish Murav v. State of Uttar Pradesh and others, (2006) 12 SCC 626, which relates to a case of attempt to murder. In the above case, the Trial Court had acquitted the accused and in appeal, the High Court set aside the acquittal and convicted the appellants, against which, they approached the Supreme Court. There, it was found that no independent witness was examined. The site-plan was also not brought on record. Report of the Serologist was not made available. The First Information Report (′FIR′ for short) was found ante-timed and ante-dated. The statements of prosecution witnesses were full of contradictions. In view of the above, the Supreme Court set aside the judgment of the High Court and acquitted the appellants.

40. Another authority that is relied upon by the learned Counsel for the appellant is, Sampath Kumar v. Inspector of Police, Krishnagiri, (2012) 4 SCC 124. The above case related to murder and is one based on circumstantial evidence. In the above case, it was found that the evidence of the prosecution witnesses was not reliable. It was only after five years of the occurrence that the witness, for the first time, disclosed in Court the story about him having seen the appellant standing near the deceased. There was no independent corroboration of the prosecution story. Thus, the appellants/accused were found entitled to acquittal and the appeal was allowed.

41. Similarly, Jaikam Khan v. State of Uttar Pradesh, (2021) 13 SCC 716, has been relied upon on behalf of the appellant, in which, it was held that the burden is on the prosecution to prove its case and when the prosecution is not able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt, then it cannot take advantage of the fact that the accused has not been able to probabilise their defence. Accordingly, the conviction and death sentence imposed upon the accused was found unsustainable in law and the appeal was allowed.

42. The appellant has also pressed in aid State of Punjab v. Sawaran Singh, (2005) 6 SCC 101, The authority relates to Section 18 Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances Act, 1985. In the above case, the evidence of prosecution witnesses was not specifically put to the accused under Section 313 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 ('Cr.P.C.' for short) and thus, it was held that in the absence of these facts been put in the form of questions to the accused, the evidence could not have been used against him.

43. Lastly, it has been argued that the appellant was put composite question in the statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C. Therefore, he was prejudiced and thus, the conviction and sentence is not sustainable.

44. Per contra, the learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the State has submitted that the prosecution have proved their case beyond reasonable doubt. The case rests on circumstantial evidence and the prosecution have proved the chain of events, which ultimately point to the guilt of the appellant. The testimony of prosecution witnesses is consistent and reliable. The deceased was last seen alive in the company of the appellant and at his pointing out, the dead body was recovered. Therefore, the learned Trial Court had rightly convicted and sentenced the appellant.

45. In view of the arguments of both parties and the evidence on record, let us see whether the prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. It it settled law that in a criminal case, the burden of proof lies on the prosecution. In this regard, the following observations of the Supreme Court in the case of Anand Ramachandra Chougule v. Sidarai Laxman Chougula and others, (2019) 8 SCC 50 are relevant :

10. The burden lies on the prosecution to prove the allegations beyond all reasonable doubt. In contradistinction to the same, the accused has only to create a doubt about the prosecution case and the probability of its defence. An accused is not required to establish or prove his defence beyond all reasonable doubt, unlike the prosecution. If the accused takes a defence, which is not improbable and appears likely, there is material in support of such defence, the accused is not required to prove anything further. The benefit of doubt must follow unless the prosecution is able to prove its case beyond all reasonable doubt.

46. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the deceased, Sunil, aged about 12 years was son of the informant, Dr. Bale Ram. It is also not in dispute that Sunil has died. His post-mortem report has been filed and proved. There is no direct evidence that Sunil was murdered by the appellant and the co-convict. Thus, the case rests on circumstantial evidence.

47. In a case based on circumstantial evidence, the prosecution has to prove the chain of events, which ultimately point towards the guilt of the accused and it should be proved that it was the accused who had committed the murder of the deceased and none else. In Sharad Birdhichand Sarda v. State of Maharashtra, (1984) 4 SCC 116, the Supreme Court has laid down the following golden tests to be satisfied in a case based on circumstantial evidence :

(1) The circumstances from which the conclusion of guilt is to be drawn should be fully established.

(2) The facts so established should be consistent only with the hypothesis of the guilt of the accused, that is to say, they should not be explainable on any other hypothesis except that the accused is guilty.

(3) The circumstances should be of a conclusive nature and tendency.

(4) They should exclude every possible hypothesis except the one to be proved, and

(5) There must be a chain of evidence so complete as not to leave any reasonable ground for the conclusion consistent with the innocence of the accused and must show that in all human probability the act must have been done by the accused.

48. In the present case, it is not in dispute that the first informant, Dr. Bale Ram, gave a missing report of his child, Sunil on 09.10.1982. It is also an admitted fact that co-convict, Suresh, was arrested on 17.10.1982 and the surviving appellant, Dr. Vinod, surrendered in a Court in Meerut in another case, after his property was attached on 20.10.1982 and 21.10.1982. Admittedly, the appellant, Dr. Vinod, was brought from Meerut jail to Muzaffarnagar on 11.11.1982.

49. According to the prosecution, when the informant, Dr. Bale Ram, handed over two envelopes to Sub-Inspector R.C. Gupta containing letters regarding demand of ransom, then, on 16.10.1982, a case was lodged under Section 365 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 (‘IPC′ for short). It was converted under Section 364 IPC. Further, on 13.11.1982, when the dead body of the deceased was recovered, then, the case was further converted under Sections 302, 120-B, 364 and 201 IPC.

50. Looking at the facts and circumstances of the present case, the prosecution has to prove the following chain of events to establish that it was the appellant, Vinod and co-convict, Suresh, who had kidnapped and murdered the deceased Sunil, and thereafter, to remove or destroy the evidence of crime, they buried the dead body:

(1) Whether the deceased, Sunil went to school on 08.10.1982 and did not return from there, after the school was closed at 11:30 a.m.?

(2) Whether the deceased was last seen alive in the company of appellant, Dr. Vinod and co-appellant, Suresh the same day i.e. 08.10.1982 at about 11:30 a.m. or 12 noon, while going towards Mahavir Chowk from railway crossing?

(3) Whether the dead body of the deceased was recovered at the pointing out of the appellant, Dr. Vinod, on 13.11.1982 from the premises of Brij Ice Factory?

(4) Motive?

51. With regard to Point No. 1, the prosecution have examined P.W.1 Ganga Sharan Sharma and P.W.4, Dr. Bale Ram to prove this point. P.W.1 Ganga Sharan Sharma is the Principal of Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar, where the deceased was studying in Class VII. P.W.1 has said that in his college, there were two shifts. The first shift was for Class VI to VIII, which ran from 07:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. He has said that deceased Sunil was studying in Class VII and had come in the first shift to the college on 08.10.1982 for studies. He has said that on 09.10.1982, Sunil′s father, Bale Ram, came to him and said that his child had not returned by the evening of 08.10.1982. Then, he sent Bale Ram with a senior teacher, Ram Prasad, to his child′s classroom, where his classmates told that he was seen at the railway crossing near the school field, after school break. He has said that his school′s field extends up to the railway crossing and after calling for the attendance register of Class VII, it was verified that Sunil had come to school on 08.10.1982 and attended all the classes.

52. P.W.4, Dr. Bale Ram, is the father of the deceased. He said that his son, Sunil had gone to school on 08.10.1982 and did not return home. He has said that he is a doctor and when he reached his house in the evening from the clinic, his wife told him that Sunil had not returned from school, which worried them. On some occasions, Sunil, after informing, stayed at his uncle′s (Tau) house, so they thought that Sunil might have stayed at his Tau′s house. In the next morning, Bale Ram inquired about his son Sunil at his Tau′s house and other relatives, and when Sunil was not found there, then he went to the school, where he met the Principal and the class teacher. Then, he came to know that Sunil had attended the school on 08.10.1982, but did not return home. His classmates had told that he was seen near the railway crossing, after the school break.

53. There are no major contradictions in the testimony of P.W.1 Ganga Sharan Sharma, the Principal of the Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar and P.W.4, Dr. Bale Ram, the father of the deceased on this point. It has neither been suggested to P.W.4 Dr. Bale Ram that Sunil had not come to the college for attending classes on 08.10.1982. Though the Investigating Officer (′IO′ for short) has not collected the attendance register and also not interrogated the classmates, who had seen Sunil standing near the railway crossing, but, looking into the above evidence, any lapse on the part of the IO on this point has no adverse effect on the prosecution case. P.W.4, Dr. Bale Ram, had submitted an application, (Ex.Ka.1) dated 09.10.1982, which also corroborates the prosecution case on this point. It has come in evidence that upon receiving the application of the informant the then Station House Officer, Surendra Singh had directed Sub-Inspector R.C. Gupta to take necessary action in the matter. Here, it is relevant to note that in the FIR, no accused was named and it was simply a missing report. If the first informant had any intention to manufacture a case, then he could have named the accused in his application. It proves the genuineness of the report and its receipt on 09.10.1982.

54. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has proved that on 08.10.1982, Sunil had gone to his school i.e. Government Inter College, Muzaffarnagar to study and after the school break, at 11:30 a.m., he did not return home.

55. So far as Point No. 2 is concerned, the prosecution has examined P.W.3, Anwar Mohammad. According to the prosecution, Anwar Mohammad is the person who had last seen the deceased alive in the company of the appellant and the co-appellant on 08.10.1982 between 11:30 a.m.-12 noon near the railway crossing. He has stated on oath that he knows both the appellants, Suresh and Vinod and also the first informant, Dr. Bale Ram. The above witness resides in the same village where the first informant lives. He has said that on 08.10.1982, at about 11:30 a.m.-12 noon, he was going to Muzaffarnagar from his village Chitora riding a bus. When his bus crossed the railway crossing at Mandi Ram Baag and turned towards the railway station, he saw appellants, Suresh and Vinod, along with Dr. Bale Ram′s son Sunil, going towards Mahavir Chowk. He has said that Sunil had a school bag with him and wearing a white shirt and a khakhi trouser. According to him, he returned to his village the same evening, but at about 08:00 p.m., he came to know that his brother, Aan Mohammad, residing in Meerut, was ill. So, in the morning, he went to Meerut and stayed there for 18-19 days, because, in the meantime, curfew was imposed due to Hindu-Muslim riots. When he returned to his village, then he saw the Inspector inquiring about Dr. Bale Ram′s child. Then, he told the IO what he witnessed at the railway crossing, while riding on the bus. The above witness has been thoroughly cross-examined, but nothing material has come in his deposition to make him unreliable.

56. It has been submitted on behalf of the appellant that the IO has recorded his statement under Section 161 Cr.P.C. belatedly, raising suspicion about his presence on the spot. We do not agree with his submission, because, the this witness has clearly stated that the same day, he received information about the illness of his brother at Meerut, and proceeded there the next morning. He returned after 18-19 days. He has also said that due to communal riots and the imposition of curfew at Meerut, he could not return earlier to his village. This witness was interrogated on 27.10.1982. P.W.3, Anwar Mohammad has said that his brother was suffering from double Pneumonia. In the circumstances, his staying at Meerut for the period of time that he did is not unnatural. Here, it is relevant to note that in the above circumstances, the I.O. could not have known before meeting this witness that he had seen Sunil in the company of the appellants. So, there was no occasion for the I.O. to interrogate him earlier. It has come in the statement of P.W.3, Anwar Mohammad, that when the I.O. asked him as to whether he knew anything about the child, then this witness came to know that Sunil was missing and he told the I.O. what he saw earlier at the railway crossing.

57. It is next submitted on behalf of the appellant that it was hard for P.W.3 Anwar Mohammad to see the deceased, while sitting inside a running bus, and thus, this witness is highly unreliable. We do no agree with his submission. There is no evidence on record to show as to which side of the bus P.W.3 Anwar Mohammad was sitting. It has come in his evidence that the bus was one of two-seat unit. After perusing the site plan Ex.Ka.104, it is clear that the appellants and Sunil were on the northern side of the road and Sunil went with them towards Mahavir Chowk on the southern side of the road. In that circumstance, if the bus was approaching from the eastern side, this witness would have seen Sunil and the appellants seated on the left side of the bus. Therefore, the testimony of P.W.3, Anwar Mohammad on this point is consistent and reliable. He has said that co-appellant Suresh resides in his own village, so naturally, Suresh was known to him since before.

58. So far as the appellant Dr. Vinod is concerned, the above witness has said that he knew Vinod since before 15-20 days of the incident, because co-appellant, Suresh, had brought the appellant, Dr. Vinod to his house to get an accommodation on rent. The defence has not cross-examined the witness on this point. Therefore, his testimony, that he knew the appellant Dr. Vinod since before the incident is unchallenged and, thus, reliable. There is no evidence that this witness is inimical to the appellants or is close to the first informant. He is an independent witness and consistent in his testimony. He is thus reliable and trustworthy.

59. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that that the prosecution have been able to prove the point that the deceased, Sunil was last seen alive in the company of appellant, Vinod and co-appellant, Suresh on 08.10.1982 at 11:30 a.m.-12 noon while going from railway crossing towards Mahavir Chowk. There is no evidence that thereafter, the deceased was seen alive at any place by any person.

60. So far as Point No. 3 is concerned, the prosecution has examined P.W.4 Dr. Bale Ram, P.W.5 Ramesh Chand, P.W.6 Constable Vijay Pal Singh, P.W.8 IO Surendra Singh and P.W.9 Head Constable Indra Pal Sharma to prove this point. P.W.4, Dr. Bale Ram, has stated that when his son's dead body was found inside Brij Ice Factory on 13.11.1982, he went there and identified it. He has said that both Suresh and Vinod were present there. At the pointing out of co-appellant Suresh, the school bag and the school uniform of the deceased was dug out from a nearby place. The witness has proved the uniform, sandal, underwear of the deceased as Ex.1 to 5 and has said that Sunil was wearing all these apparels when he had left home for school. He has also identified books, copies, a diary and an instrument box as Ex. 11 to 29 and said that on some books and copies, it is written "सुनील कुमार कक्षा 7-B". He has said that he reached the ice factory at about 09:00 a.m. and after 45 minutes, the dead body was wrapped in a cloth before him. He has said that on 13.11.1982, he has stayed in the city at his elder brother's house and as usual, he went to the Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar at about 08:30 a.m. There, he came to know that Sunil's dead body was recovered from the premises of Brij Ice Factory.

61. P.W.5 Ramesh Chand, is the first informant′s distant relative and according to him, Dr. Bale Ram happens to be his aunt′s (Bua) son. He has said on oath that on 13.11.1982, at about 06:45 a.m., he had reached Police Station Civil Lines, Muzaffarnagar, where, two Inspectors and four constables met him in a Jeep at the gate along with appellant Vinod and the Inspector had told him that the appellant is confessing his crime. Thereafter, he accompanied them and near Prakash Talkies, they met Qamar Abbas and Jodha Singh, who were also taken along and then they reached Brij Ice Factory, where the appellant Vinod said before them that he had buried the dead body in the factory and it was he and the co-appellant Suresh who had killed Sunil in this kothri by pressing his neck with a stick and strangulated him. The I.O. recorded the statement and obtained his signature, which he proved as Ex.Ka.4 and has said that thereafter, appellant Vinod took them to the western wall of the factory and dug about three feet deep into the earth with a spade, where the dead body was found.

62. The memo of recovery (Fard Baramadgi) of the dead body was prepared before him, which was proved as Ex.Ka.5. P.W.5 has said that meanwhile, Dr. Bale Ram reached there, who also identified the dead body. When Bale Ram asked about the deceased′s school bag, the appellant Vinod revealed that it was co-appellant Suresh who knew about the school bag. Then Suresh was called from the police station and at his pointing out, from another place to the north west,from a flower bed like feature in the earth, the school bag containing copies and books was recovered. The witness has been cross-examined thoroughly by the defence, but nothing material has come in his evidence that may raise suspicion about his testimony.

63. P.W.5 Ramesh Chand has proved the statement Ex.Ka.4 made by appellant Vinod on 13.11.1982, leading to recovery of the dead body of Sunil by digging up earth on the premises of Brij Ice Factory by Vinod himself. As the above statement of the appellant Vinod contained a confession of killing Sunil and the fact that he could lead to the recovery of the dead body of the deceased, the above statement of appellant Vinod comes under Section 27 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 ('Evidence Act' for short). Acting upon the above statement, the dead body was recovered. Therefore, that part of the statement, which led to the recovery of the dead body of the deceased is admissible under Section 27 of the Evidence Act. The recovery memo contains the signature of P.W.5 Ramesh Chand. No doubt, Ramesh Chand is a relative of Dr. Bale Ram, but, merely on account of being a relative, the evidence of a witness cannot be discarded. Here, it is relevant to note that the defence has not put forth any suggestion or adduced any evidence to prove that there was enmity between the appellant, the first informant and P.W.5 Ramesh Chand. Therefore, there was no reason for P.W.5 Ramesh Chand to depose falsely against the appellants.

64. P.W.6 Constable Vijay Pal Singh is one of the policeman who accompanied the I.O. and the appellant to the Brij Ice Factory and before whom, the above recovery took place. He has testified about the manner of recovery. It is true that Constable Vijay Pal Singh has not signed Ex.Ka.4 to 6, but the fact remains that he was one of the constables who had been handed over Sunil's dead body, after the inquest was prepared and he conveyed the dead body on 13.11.1982 itself before the doctor for autopsy as would evident from the inquest report, Ex.Ka.92 and the autopsy report, Ex.Ka.3. Further, P.W.8, I.O. Surendra Singh has said that public witnesses were present at the time of recovery, so he had not taken the signatures of his fellow policemen. In the above circumstances, the presence of P.W.6, Vijay Pal Singh at the place of recovery cannot be doubted, simply on the ground that his signatures are not there on recovery memos. P.W.8, I.O. Surendra Singh is the person who had taken the witnesses and the accused to the place of recovery and recorded the confessional statement of the appellant, Vinod, which led to recovery of the deceased's dead body. P.W.8, I.O. Surendra Singh has proved the statement of the appellant Vinod about the burying the dead body of Sunil and recovery of the school bag etc. at the instance of co-appellant Suresh.

65. Here, it would not be out of place to mention that co-appellant, Suresh is the first cousin of the first informant and he lives adjacent to the first informant's house. It has come in evidence that Suresh's father was a watchman with the Brij Ice Factory. It has also come in evidence that when the police party, along with the appellant and the witnesses went to Brij Ice Factory, then the gate was closed, but it was not locked, and, in the premises of Brij Ice Factory, the dead body, school bag, uniform etc. were recovered at the pointing out of appellant Dr. Vinod and co-appellant Suresh.

66. It has been submitted on behalf of the appellant that the earth recovered from both the places of recovery was not sent to the chemical examiner. So, it cannot be held that the recoveries were made from the above two places. We do not agree with this submission. It has come in evidence that foul smell was emanating from the pit in which the dead body of the deceased was buried, but, it may be noted that smell is a physical property which may evaporate with passage of time. So the chemical examiner, on the basis of smell, if any, could not have opined that it was the place where from the dead body was recovered.

67. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that no local witness was called at the time of recovery, which renders the recovery doubtful. We do not agree with this submission also. It is true that according to P.W.8, Surendra Singh, a large number of people met on way from the police station to the ice factory and Ramesh Chand is a relative of Dr. Bale Ram. If the I.O. had not taken called any local witness for the to recovery, it would have no adverse effect over the prosecution case, because, Ramesh Chand, who was examined, as a witness of recovery was an independent, and it has come in evidence, that he had no animosity against the appellants to depose against them falsely.

68. It has come in the statement of Dr. Taneja, P.W.2 that the dead body could not be identified as the hair over the head were loose and the skin was peeling off. So, he may have been killed 14-20 days before the recovery of the dead body. But, it is also relevant to mention that the doctor had not found any sign of maggots infesting the dead body. In the present case, the heart and lungs had putrefied to such an extent that it was not possible to identify them, but the liver was identifiable. There is a process designated as "Adipocere", in which cases, the dead body retains its natural form, outline and facial features so well that it may be easily identified years after death. Taking into all these, the various changes after the death vary considerably with the temperature and the medium in which the body was lying.

69. P.W.2 Dr. Taneja had clearly opined that death had occurred about one month before the autopsy and the defence was not able to successfully challenge the above duration during the cross-examination of the witness. There is nothing in the autopsy report to show that the face of the deceased had been mutilated, though it has come in the statement of P.W.5, Ramesh Chand, recorded during investigation to the effect that the dead body was almost decomposed and was identified by clothes. But, this contradiction can only be used, so far as Ramesh Chand is concerned and has no effect on the testimony of Dr. Bale Ram, P.W.4. In any case, the clothes Ex.1 to 5 found on the body of the deceased were intact and identifiable, and which were also one of the modes of identification of the body of the deceased.

70. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution has been able to prove that the dead body of the deceased Sunil was recovered at the pointing out of appellant Dr. Vinod on 13.11.1982 from the premises of Brij Ice Factory.

71. Recovery of the dead body from the place pointed out by the appellant is a formidable and incriminating evidence. In State of Maharashtra v. Suresh, (2000) 1 SCC 471, the Supreme Court, in the facts there, held that recovery of a dead body, which was from the place pointed out by the accused, was formidable and incriminating evidence. This would, the Court held, reveal that the dead body was concealed by the accused, unless there is material and evidence to show that somebody else had concealed it, and this fact came to the knowledge of the accused either because he had seen that person concealing the dead body or was told by someone else that the dead body was concealed at the said location.

72. Here, if the accused declines and does not tell the Court that his knowledge of the concealment was on the basis of the possibilities that absolved him, the Court can presume that the dead body (or physical object, as the case may be) was concealed by the accused himself. This is because the person who can offer the explanation as to how he came to know of such concealment is the accused. If the accused chooses to refrain from telling the Court as to how has he came to know of it, the presumption is that the concealment was by the accused himself.

74. Now, we come to the last point that needs our consideration in the case. According to the prosecution, the murder was committed for demand of ransom. To prove this fact, the prosecution has examined P.W.4, the informant, Dr. Bale Ram, who has said that co-appellant, Suresh, had handed him over two envelopes, containing a letter and a photograph of the deceased, demanding ransom to release the child. He has said both these letters were handed over to him by the deceased co-appellant Suresh and he had threatened him that the child is in his and Dr. Vinod′s custody, and if the informant acts otherwise, then serious consequences would follow.

75. The prosecution have examined P.W.7, Mahendra Pratap Singh, a handwriting expert from the Forensic Science Laboratory, Lucknow, who had compared the disputed handwriting with the specimen of Sunil′s handwriting. He has said that after examination the disputed handwriting and the specimen writing, he was of opinion that both had been written by the same person. He has proved his report Ex. Ka.8 and said that the person who has written the sample documents marked S-3520 to S-3610 has also written the disputed documents marked Q-3513 to Q- 3519. It is said in the report that upon an intense comparison, the disputed handwriting are consistent, amongst themselves, in their writing, characteristics and have been written by the same person. An examination of the line quality of the disputed handwriting exhibits less fluency and grace of outline. The lack of muscular control exhibited by the unaccustomed will be reflected in lack of fluency, poor rhythm, crudity in the formation of loops, curves and eyelets, which is absent from the normal handwriting. It means that the disputed handwriting have been written by an unaccustomed hand and are genuine.

76. So far as the sample writing is concerned, an intense comparison thereof exhibits the essential resemblance between the writing of two hands is not surprising, when it is realised that disputed handwriting is substantially the unconscious product of the mind. An intense comparison of sample writing reveals that samples marked S-3520 to S-3525 and S- 3568 to S-3610 have been written by an unaccustomed hand, which exhibits lack of muscular control, fluency and grace of outline and crude formation of letter, like the disputed handwriting. In comparing both the disputed sample handwritings, the hand action, poor muscular control, slow speed of writing, trembling line quality, combined with smooth and free nature of strokes, crude formation of letters, generally longer size of letters, medium proportion of the size of letters, relative spacing, slant alignment, formation of curves, initials, terminals, direction of pen movement, poor rhythm of writing, all these, when examined together, show that both these hand writings are of the same person.

77. We have gone through the disputed hand writings as well as the specimen writing of co-appellant Suresh, and after careful examination, we agree with the conclusion of the handwriting expert P.W.7 Mahendra Pratap Singh. The shape of letters in Ex. 9 and 10 are more resembling the letters of the left hand specimen handwriting of the deceased co-appellant, Suresh.

78. The appellants have also examined handwriting expert S. Kapoor as D.W.1. He has opined that the disputed hand writings were not written by the person who had written the specimen handwriting. We have gone through his report, Ex. Kha 2/1 to Kha 2/11 and photo enlargements, Ex. Kha 3 to Kha. 25. We are of opinion that although he has tried to mention individual characteristics of letters and handwriting, but they are all superficial. He has admitted that in some of the letters in the disputed handwriting, the slant is from the left to the right, as in the specimen handwriting. Thus, we do not agree with the opinion of S. Kapoor, where he has pointed out that the production of some of the letters was different.

79. Therefore, we have come to the conclusion that the disputed letters, Ex.Ka.9 and Ex.Ka.10, regarding demand of ransom of Rs. 30,000/-, were written by Suresh, as he was a cousin of the first informant and lived in the house adjacent to the first informant's. So he must have had knowledge about the financial condition of the first informant, which may have led the appellants to kidnap his son and demand ransom money.

80. Thus, the prosecution has been able to prove motive for the appellants to commit the said crime.

81. It is submitted on behalf of the appellants that appellant Dr. Vinod was put composite questions in his statement under Section 313 Cr.P.C., which has prejudiced him in fair trial, resulting in the miscarriage of justice. Therefore, the conviction and sentence are not sustainable. In this case, we have perused the evidence of the prosecution as well as the statement of the appellant, Dr. Vinod under Section 313 Cr.P.C.

82. First of all, it is relevant to mention here that though this point has been raised on behalf of the appellants, but, attention of the Court has not been drawn to any specific question(s) which, according to the appellant, is a composite question of such nature, which resulted in prejudice to the appellant. Upon a perusal of the statement the appellant Dr. Vinod under Section 313 Cr.P.C., we do not find any of the questions which are composite in such a manner that it would have prejudiced the appellant and adversely affected him in this case. All the questions are well-drafted and thus, the argument on behalf of the appellant has no force.

83. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution have been able to prove the chain of events, which show that it was the appellant, Dr. Vinod and the deceased co-appellant Suresh, who had kidnapped Sunil, and later on murdered him and, buried his dead body in the campus of Brij Ice Factory to conceal the evidence of crime.

84. The Trial Court had acquitted both the appellants of offence punishable under Section 365 IPC on ground that there was no evidence of use of force while taking away Sunil, and thus, technically, the offence under Section 365 IPC was not proved. The State has not come against the said acquittal of appellant on the charge under Section 365 IPC. So, we are reserving our views on this point.

85. In view of the above discussion, we come to the conclusion that the prosecution have to proved their case beyond reasonable doubt and the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly and come to the right conclusion of the guilt for appellant, Dr. Vinod. He has rightly convicted and sentence the minimum of the law has rightly been passed upon the appellant Dr. Vinod as indicated above.

86. In view of above, this appeal has no force and is liable to be dismissed. It is, accordingly, dismissed. The conviction and sentence of the appellant are affirmed.

87. The appellant is on bail. His bail bonds and personal bonds are cancelled and the sureties discharged. He shall surrender before Chief Judicial Magistrate, Muzzafarnagar within three weeks of date to serve out the sentence awarded to him.

88. Let a copy of the order be sent to the Trial Court concerned and the C.J.M. Muzzafarnagar for information and necessary compliance. Let the lower Court records be returned to the Trial Court.

Earlier, a case was registered against the informant Manoj Kumar, his real brothers Ashok and Pushpraj and their father Ramashanker relating to murder of one Ram Swaroop and accused were witnesses of that case and they also gave testimony in the said murder case, due to which there was enmity going on between the parties. Political rivalry and pending litigations between the parties were also pleaded by the accused. It was also stated that the deceased of this case Pushpraj was a man of criminal antecedents and several criminal cases were registered against him, therefore, some unknown persons killed him and in order to create pressure upon them in the case of murder of Ramswaroop, they have been falsely roped in this case.

17. Trial Court, having heard learned counsel for parties and going through entire record, vide impugned judgment and order, convicted and sentenced the accused-appellants as above. Hence, feeling aggrieved with said judgment and order, present accused-appellants have filed these criminal appeals against their conviction.

18. Heard Sri G.S. Chaturvedi, learned senior counsel assisted by Sri Prashant Vyas and Sri J.P.N. Raj, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Vimlendu Tripathi, learned counsel for the complainant / informant and Sri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA-I for the State in Criminal Appeal No. 1978 of 2011 (Krishna Pal @ Lala and another vs. State of U.P.). We have also heard Sri Amit Kumar Pandey holding brief of Sri Rajrshi Gupta, learned counsel for the appellants and Sri Vimlendu Tripathi alongwith Sri Gaurang Dwivedi holding brief of Sri Suresh Chand Dwivedi, learned counsel for the complainant / informant and Sri Vikas Goswami, learned AGA-I for the State in Criminal Appeal Nos. 1821 of 2011, 1868 of 2011, 2004 of 2011 and 2195 of 2011.

Even, no blood has been found on the street, whereas as per prosecution witnesses, the alleged incident had happened at the place of alleged occurrence. The prosecution has withheld material witnesses namely Ashok (real brother of the deceased), Smt. Bitti Bai (mother of the deceased), Rama Shanker (father of the deceased), Jagdish (maternal brother of the deceased). Due to previous enmity, all the accused have been falsely implicated. The prosecution has failed to prove the place and manner of incident. There is no injury on the vital part of the body of the deceased or any other injured and that too of any deadly weapon like rifle or knife or axe. Lastly, learned counsels for the appellants argued that act, if any, is covered under section 304 IPC and, therefore, the conviction and sentence of the accused is liable to be converted and reduced accordingly.

20. On the other hand, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the complainant while vehemently opposing the submissions made by the learned counsel for the appellants, have contended that the prosecution has successfully proved its case beyond reasonable doubt. The evidence of prosecution witnesses is trustworthy and reliable and as per the established legal principles, the conviction can always be successfully recorded on the basis of the evidence of eyewitnesses. While going through the evidence on record, it cannot be said that the offence under Section 302/149 IPC is not made out against the appellants. The learned trial Court has not committed any error of law or of fact, in convicting and sentencing the accused-appellants under Section 302/149 IPC. It is a case of cold-blooded murder of a young man and all the relevant evidence to record the conviction of the appellants is available on record. The false implication theory does not find any basis in the light of the evidence on record. There is no merit in the appeal and learned A.G.A. as well as learned counsel for the complainant thus urged for the dismissal of appeal.

21. In the light of above arguments, following questions arises for consideration in present appeal :

(i) Whether prosecution could be said to have proved its case against the appellants - convicts beyond reasonable doubt ?

(ii) Whether non-examination of other witnesses present on spot namely, injured Bitti Bai, deceased's father Ramashanker and deceased's brothers Ashok and Jagdish is fatal to prosecution and an adverse inference is to be drawn against the prosecution or not ?
(iii) Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellants' convicts is liable to be converted / reduced under Section 304 IPC ?

ANALYSIS

Oral Evidence on Record

22. The prosecution has examined informant - injured Manoj Kumar as P.W.1 and injured Vimla Devi as P.W.2. Both of these witnesses are injured witnesses and on the strength of their depositions, the learned trial Court has decided the case against appellants. Therefore, evaluation of deposition of these two witnesses will be dealt with later on in this judgment.

23. Dr. Narendra Kumar P.W.3 medico legally examined injured Bitti Bai and Vimla on 02.07.2007 at 9:45 A.M. and 10:00 A.M. respectively in Medical College, Jhansi and prepared their injury reports, which have been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-2 and Ex.Ka.-3. The injuries noted by this doctor on the body of Bitti Bai and Vimla have already been mentioned in paragraph 8 and 9 of this judgment. In the opinion of this doctor, all the injuries sustained by injured Bitti Bai might have been caused by some hard and blunt object and injuries no.1 and 2 sustained by injured Vimla might have been caused by some hard and blunt object, however, injury no.3 might have been caused by friction from some hard and blunt surface. This doctor opined that duration of injuries of both the injured was 6 to 24 hours. Both the injured have been medico legally examined in the morning of 02.07.2007, therefore, as per deposition of this witness, the injured could have sustained those injuries on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 A.M.

24. Dr. Raj Narayan P.W.4 is an autopsy surgeon, who has conducted the postmortem examination of the deceased Pushparaj alias Pushpendra on 02.07.2007 at 3:00 P.M. The antemortem injuries noted by this doctor in his postmortem report have already been mentioned in paragraph 6 of this judgment. The injury no.1 noted by this doctor to be a stitched wound of 6 cm. in length, situated over left side of forehead, 5 cm. from left eyebrow, having six stitches, with clotted blood present. Likewise injuries no.4, 6 and 7 noted by this doctor to be of stitched wounds having stitches on it, reveals that the deceased Pushparaj was provided some medical treatment promptly. A total of ten antemortem injuries were noted by this autopsy surgeon and on internal examination, this autopsy surgeon found that 5th and 6th rib of the deceased were broken and were found piercing the right lung. Blood was found to be deposited in chest cavity as well as in trachea. Both right and left humerus bones, left elbow joint and right tibia were also found to be fractured corresponding to antemortem injuries found on the body of the deceased. Right lung anterior surface was found to be torn with clotted blood present therein. From the body of the deceased, one grey-coloured underwear was recovered. This witness has proved the postmortem report of the deceased as Ex.Ka.-4. He has specifically stated that the deceased had died at 5:10 A.M. on 02.07.2007 in Maharani Laxmi Bai Medical College Hospital, Jhansi. On his cross-examination, this witness stated that no bone was found broken below injury no.1 and injuries no.3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 & 10 were found on non-vital parts of the body of the deceased and injury no.2 could also have been caused if deceased falls on some hard object. However, from his deposition and from perusal of the postmortem report Ex.Ka.-4, it is clear that the deceased was mercilessly beaten resulting into fractures of his right and left humerus bones, left elbow joint, right tibia, 5th and 6th ribs. He was so mercilessly beaten that his 5th and 6th ribs after being broken, entered into the right lung, thereby causing blood to be stored in the right side of the thoracic cavity. Even deceased′s right pleura was found torn and trachea was also found filled with clotted blood. Anterior surface of the deceased′s right lung was also found torn and clotted blood was also found inside the same. Therefore, the death of the deceased is a homicidal death.

25. Constable 1078 Sher Singh P.W.5, was the scribe of first information report, who is a formal witness and has proved the first information report as Ex.Ka.-5.

26. Dr. Harish Kumar P.W.6 medico legally examined Pushpraj alias Pushpendra at 1:15 A.M. on 02.07.2007 and prepared his injury report, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-6. This witness found a total of seven injuries on the body of the deceased which have already been mentioned in paragraph 5 of this judgment. He found a total of five lacerated wounds and in his opinion, the injuries found on the body of Pushpraj have been caused at 10:00 P.M. on 01.07.2007. This witness has specifically stated that all injuries noted by him could have been caused by some blunt object like the handle of the axe, stick, butt of gun and blunt side of axe. This witness has also stated that injuries no.1 and 2 found on the body of the deceased were on his vital part. It is important to observe here that this doctor found multiple contusions over his left side back, on which swelling was also present. This witness was cross-examined and in his cross-examination he stated that injury no.1 was simple in nature, however, injury no.2 was kept under observation. He further stated that there was no incised wound on the body of the injured, therefore, no injury from sharp edged portion of axe or spear or knife could have been caused. He further denied the suggestion of defence that no injury could have been caused from Gun.

27. This witness was again recalled on the request of prosecution and has deposed that in the injury report of injured / informant Manoj Kumar, which is Ex.Ka.-17, he found only one injury as a traumatic swelling on left arm above the elbow joint. He advised X-ray of the aforesaid injury. However, no supplementary report of this injury has been proved by the prosecution. In the opinion of the doctor, this injury has been caused at 10:00 P.M. on 01.07.2007. Injured Manoj Kumar was medico legally examined at 1:50 A.M. on 02.07.2007 in Medical College, Jhansi and this witness found the aforesaid injury as a fresh injury which could have been caused during six hours. Therefore, informant Manoj Kumar could have been injured on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 P.M.

28. Constable Clerk Ram Magan Singh P.W.7 is a formal witness, who has made an entry in G.D. No.2 at 1:35 A.M., regarding registration of first information report and the aforesaid G.D. has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-7. This witness has also proved G.D. No.8 time 5:45 A.M. dated 02.07.2007 whereby Section 302 IPC was added in the aforesaid crime number. The aforesaid tarmeeme G.D. has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-8.

29. Daftari Bhagwan Das Sharma P.W.8 is a formal witness, who brought original injury register regarding injured Manoj and has certified that photocopy available on record is correct as per the original brought by him. The original injury report of injured Manoj was available in said injury register at page 89 on OPD No.921.

30. Sub-Inspector Salim Ali P.W.9 was the first Investigating Officer, who started the investigation and reached Medical College, Jhansi where he found that Pushpraj was being treated by doctors and he was not in a position to speak. He recorded the statement of informant Manoj Kumar who was present in the Emergency Ward. Thereafter, he prepared the site plan on the pointing out of injured Bitti Bai. Site plan has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-9. He also recovered an empty cartridge of 315 bore from the spot, as well as one green-coloured used lungi and one light yellow-coloured used towel, both were having blood stains and accordingly prepared recovery memo, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.10. When he returned to police post, he recorded the entry of G.D. No.8 time 5:45 A.M. dated 02.07.2007 in C.D., whereupon the case was converted from section 307 IPC to section 302 IPC and, therefore, he requested S.H.O. for further investigation by either S.H.O. or someone else under his direction. He also prepared the inquest report of the deceased Pushpraj, which has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-11. Other papers related to inquest report have been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-12 to Ex.Ka.-16. He also proved one green-coloured used lungi, one light yellow-coloured used towel and an empty cartridge as Material Exbs.2, 3 & 4.

31. The then Incharge Inspector / S.H.O. Ashwani Kumar Sinha has been examined as P.W.10, who took over the investigation from first Investigating Officer Salim Ali, and recorded the statement of witnesses of inquest and also recorded statements of accused Raghunath Singh, Ranjeet Singh, Bahadur and Rishipal Yadav and obtained non-bailable warrants and processes under section 82 Cr.P.C. against accused Udham Singh and Krishna Pal alias Lala. He recorded the statement of Udham Singh and was searching accused Krishna Pal alias Lala. Thereafter he was transferred to district Jalaun.

32. Inspector Gaya Prasad Gautam P.W.11 was the last Investigating Officer, who took over the investigation after P.W.10, and sent the recovered items to Forensic Science Laboratory for examination and F.S.L. Report has been proved by this witness as Ex.Ka.-17. This witness also recorded the statement of Dr. Raj Narayan and after completing the investigation he filed charge-sheet no.327/07 against Rishipal, Raghunath alias Batauli, Ranjeet, Bahadur and Udham Singh and has proved the same as Ex.Ka.-18. However, the arrest of accused Krishna Pal alias Lala was still remaining. After his transfer, next S.H.O. Devi Prasad Shukla concluded the investigation against accused Krishna Pal alias Lala and since accused Krishna Pal alias Lala was found absconding, charge-sheet against him was submitted by this witness in 'Mafroori ' (abscondence), which has been proved by this witness (P.W.11) in secondary evidence as Ex.Ka.-19.

33. A perusal of Forensic Science Laboratory Report Ex.Ka.-17 reveals that lungi and towel of deceased Pushpraj, which were recovered from murder spot and underwear recovered from the body of the deceased, along with one empty cartridge recovered from the spot, all were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for examination. As per aforesaid Forensic Science Laboratory Report, human blood was found on the aforesaid lungi, towel and underwear of the deceased.

(i) Whether prosecution could be said to have proved it's case against the appellants - convicts beyond reasonable doubt ?

34. In the present case, prosecution has examined injured - informant Manoj Kumar as P.W.1 and injured Vimla Devi as P.W.2 and on the strength of depositions of these two witnesses, the trial Court has convicted all the appellants. Therefore, in these criminal appeals against conviction we need to appreciate the oral evidence of these two witnesses.

35. On the point of appreciation of oral evidence of a witness the Apex Court in Balu Sudam Khalde v. State of Maharashtra, (2023) 13 SCC 365 held the law in the following words :

"Appreciation of oral evidence

25. The appreciation of ocular evidence is a hard task. There is no fixed or strait jacket formula for appreciation of the ocular evidence. The judicially evolved principles for appreciation of ocular evidence in a criminal case can be enumerated as under:

"I. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the approach must be whether the evidence of the witness read as a whole appears to have a ring of truth. Once that impression is formed, it is undoubtedly necessary for the Court to scrutinise the evidence more particularly keeping in view the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities pointed out in the evidence as a whole and evaluate them to find out whether it is against the general tenor of the evidence given by the witness and whether the earlier evaluation of the evidence is shaken as to render it unworthy of belief.

II. If the court before whom the witness gives evidence had the opportunity to form the opinion about the general tenor of evidence given by the witness, the appellate court which had not this benefit will have to attach due weight to the appreciation of evidence by the trial court and unless there are reasons weighty and formidable it would not be proper to reject the evidence on the ground of minor variations or infirmities in the matter of trivial details.

III. When eyewitness is examined at length it is quite possible for him to make some discrepancies. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court is justified in jettisoning his evidence.

IV. Minor discrepancies on trivial matters not touching the core of the case, hypertechnical approach by taking sentences torn out of context here or there from the evidence, attaching importance to some technical error committed by the investigating officer not going to the root of the matter would not ordinarily permit rejection of the evidence as a whole.

V. Too serious a view to be adopted on mere variations falling in the narration of an incident (either as between the evidence of two witnesses or as between two statements of the same witness) is an unrealistic approach for judicial scrutiny.

VI. By and large a witness cannot be expected to possess a photographic memory and to recall the details of an incident. It is not as if a video tape is replayed on the mental screen.

VII. Ordinarily it so happens that a witness is overtaken by events. The witness could not have anticipated the occurrence which so often has an element of surprise. The mental faculties therefore cannot be expected to be attuned to absorb the details.

VIII. The powers of observation differ from person to person. What one may notice, another may not. An object or movement might emboss its image on one person's mind whereas it might go unnoticed on the part of another.

IX. By and large people cannot accurately recall a conversation and reproduce the very words used by them or heard by them. They can only recall the main purport of the conversation. It is unrealistic to expect a witness to be a human tape recorder.

X. In regard to exact time of an incident, or the time duration of an occurrence, usually, people make their estimates by guesswork on the spur of the moment at the time of interrogation. And one cannot expect people to make very precise or reliable estimates in such matters. Again, it depends on the time-sense of individuals which varies from person to person.

XI. Ordinarily a witness cannot be expected to recall accurately the sequence of events which take place in rapid succession or in a short time span. A witness is liable to get confused, or mixed up when interrogated later on.

XII. A witness, though wholly truthful, is liable to be overawed by the court atmosphere and the piercing cross-examination by counsel and out of nervousness mix up facts, get confused regarding sequence of events, or fill up details from imagination on the spur of the moment. The subconscious mind of the witness sometimes so operates on account of the fear of looking foolish or being disbelieved though the witness is giving a truthful and honest account of the occurrence witnessed by him.

XIII. A former statement though seemingly inconsistent with the evidence need not necessarily be sufficient to amount to contradiction. Unless the former statement has the potency to discredit the later statement, even if the later statement is at variance with the former to some extent it would not be helpful to contradict that witness.″

[See Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat [Bharwada Bhoginbhai Hirjibhai v. State of Gujarat, (1983) 3 SCC 217 : 1983 SCC (Cri) 728 : AIR 1983 SC 753] , Leela Ram v. State of Haryana [Leela Ram v. State of Haryana, (1999) 9 SCC 525 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 222 : AIR 1999 SC 3717] and Tahsildar Singh v. State of U.P. [Tahsildar Singh v. State of U.P., 1959 SCC OnLine SC 17 : AIR 1959 SC 1012]

26. When the evidence of an injured eyewitness is to be appreciated, the undernoted legal principles enunciated by the courts are required to be kept in mind:

26.1. The presence of an injured eyewitness at the time and place of the occurrence cannot be doubted unless there are material contradictions in his deposition.

26.2. Unless, it is otherwise established by the evidence, it must be believed that an injured witness would not allow the real culprits to escape and falsely implicate the accused.

26.3. The evidence of injured witness has greater evidentiary value and unless compelling reasons exist, their statements are not to be discarded lightly.

26.4. The evidence of injured witness cannot be doubted on account of some embellishment in natural conduct or minor contradictions.

26.5. If there be any exaggeration or immaterial embellishments in the evidence of an injured witness, then such contradiction, exaggeration or embellishment should be discarded from the evidence of injured, but not the whole evidence.

26.6. The broad substratum of the prosecution version must be taken into consideration and discrepancies which normally creep due to loss of memory with passage of time should be discarded.

27. In assessing the value of the evidence of the eyewitnesses, two principal considerations are whether, in the circumstances of the case, it is possible to believe their presence at the scene of occurrence or in such situations as would make it possible for them to witness the facts deposed to by them and secondly, whether there is anything inherently improbable or unreliable in their evidence. In respect of both these considerations, circumstances either elicited from those witnesses themselves or established by other evidence tending to improbabilise their presence or to discredit the veracity of their statements, will have a bearing upon the value which a court would attach to their evidence. Although in cases where the plea of the accused is a mere denial, the evidence of the prosecution witnesses has to be examined on its own merits, where the accused raise a definite plea or put forward a positive case which is inconsistent with that of the prosecution, the nature of such plea or case and the probabilities in respect of it will also have to be taken into account while assessing the value of the prosecution evidence.″

36. The Hon′ble Supreme Court in the case of Bhagwan Jagannath Markad v. State of Maharashtra, (2016) 10 SCC 537 explained that :

" 19. While appreciating the evidence of a witness, the court has to assess whether read as a whole, it is truthful. In doing so, the court has to keep in mind the deficiencies, drawbacks and infirmities to find out whether such discrepancies shake the truthfulness. Some discrepancies not touching the core of the case are not enough to reject the evidence as a whole. No true witness can escape from giving some discrepant details. Only when discrepancies are so incompatible as to affect the credibility of the version of a witness, the court may reject the evidence. Section 155 of the Evidence Act enables the doubt to impeach the credibility of the witness by proof of former inconsistent statement. Section 145 of the Evidence Act lays down the procedure for contradicting a witness by drawing his attention to the part of the previous statement which is to be used for contradiction. The former statement should have the effect of discrediting the present statement but merely because the latter statement is at variance to the former to some extent, it is not enough to be treated as a contradiction. It is not every discrepancy which affects the creditworthiness and the trustworthiness of a witness. There may at times be exaggeration or embellishment not affecting the credibility. The court has to sift the chaff from the grain and find out the truth. A statement may be partly rejected or partly accepted [Leela Ram v. State of Haryana, (1999) 9 SCC 525, pp. 532-35, paras 9-13 : 2000 SCC (Cri) 222] . Want of independent witnesses or unusual behaviour of witnesses of a crime is not enough to reject evidence. A witness being a close relative is not enough to reject his testimony if it is otherwise credible. A relation may not conceal the actual culprit. The evidence may be closely scrutinised to assess whether an innocent person is falsely implicated. Mechanical rejection of evidence even of a "partisan″ or "interested″ witness may lead to failure of justice. It is well known that principle "falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus″ has no general acceptability [Gangadhar Behera v. State of Orissa, (2002) 8 SCC 381, pp. 392-93, para 15 : 2003 SCC (Cri) 32] . On the same evidence, some accused persons may be acquitted while others may be convicted, depending upon the nature of the offence. The court can differentiate the accused who is acquitted from those who are convicted. A witness may be untruthful in some aspects but the other part of the evidence may be worthy of acceptance. Discrepancies may arise due to error of observations, loss of memory due to lapse of time, mental disposition such as shock at the time of occurrence and as such the normal discrepancy does not affect the credibility of a witness.

20. Exaggerated to the rule of benefit of doubt can result in miscarriage of justice. Letting the guilty escape is not doing justice. A Judge presides over the trial not only to ensure that no innocent is punished but also to see that guilty does not escape. [Gangadhar Behera case, (2002) 8 SCC 381, p. 394, para 17]

31.As already observed, the discrepancies of trivial nature could not be the basis of rejecting the evidence of injured eyewitnesses nor non-examination of some of the witnesses be a ground to reject the prosecution case when injured eyewitnesses were examined.

32.We may also refer to the judgment of this Court in Masalti v. State of U.P. [Masalti v. State of U.P., AIR 1965 SC 202 : (1965) 1 Cri LJ 226 : (1964) 8 SCR 133] to the effect that the evidence of interested partisan witnesses though required to be carefully weighed, the same could not be discredited mechanically. When a crowd of unlawful assembly commits an offence, it is often not possible to accurately describe the part played by each of the assailants. Though the appreciation of evidence in such cases may be a difficult task, the court has to perform its duty of sifting the evidence carefully.

37. The Hon'ble Apex Court in State of M.P. v. Balveer Singh, (2025) 8 SCC 545 has held that when eyewitness are examined at length, it is quite possible for them to make some discrepancies. But courts should bear in mind that it is only when discrepancies in the evidence of a witness are so incompatible with the credibility of his version that the court is justified in jettisoning his evidence.The role of courts in such circumstances assumes greater importance and it is expected of the courts to deal with cases like one in hand, in a more realistic manner and not allow the criminals to go scot-free on account of procedural technicalities, perfunctory investigation or insignificant lacunas in the evidence as otherwise serious crimes would go unpunished.

38. In the light of above well settled legal position regarding appreciation of oral evidence, we shall now be evaluating the depositions of injured - informant Manoj Kumar P.W.1 and injured Vimla Devi P.W.2. Manoj Kujmar P.W.1 has stated in his examination-in-chief that on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 P.M., his brother Pushpraj alias Pushpendra, he himself, his brothers Ashok and Jagdish, his mother Bitti Bai and Pushpraj's wife were all watching television inside the room after having taken their dinner. At that time, on hearing the sound of knocking at the door of their house, everyone went towards the door. His brother Pushpraj opened the door and as soon as he opened it, Krishan Pal alias Lala, Rishi Pal and Raghunath alias Batauli carrying rifles in their hands, Ranjeet carrying an axe in his hand, Bahadur having a spear in his hand, Udham Singh having a knife in his hand, all of them simultaneously threatened his brother that why he is doing pairvee / pursuing the case against them filed on behalf of one Rajesh of village Mairi and threatened him to kill. Thereafter, they all collectively assaulted him with an intention to kill. When informant and his family members tried to rescue Pusphraj, then they all were also beaten by the accused. They all were attacked with the butt of rifle, axe, spear etc. On hearing their screams, people from the surrounding area arrived on the spot, whereupon accused fired several rounds of fire causing a stampede on the spot. In the incident, informant himself, his mother Bitti Bai and bhabhi Vimla Devi sustained injuries. His brother Pushpraj sustained serious injuries and was brought to Medical College in a critical condition, where he was under treatment. The accused have been identified in the electric light. This witness proved the written report / tehrir as Ex.Ka.-1, which is stated to be in his handwriting bearing his signature.

39. Examination-in-chief of P.W.1 was recorded on 23.03.2009 and only after a very brief cross-examination, an adjournment application was moved by the defence on which the case was adjourned. Thereafter, on 04.06.2009, 16.06.2009, 07.07.2009 and 23.07.2009, his detailed cross-examination was conducted. It is thus clear that cross-examination of this witness could be completed only after four months of recording of his examination-in-chief and that too on four different dates. Therefore, in this background, some contradictions are bound to occur in the statement of this witness.

40. P.W.1 is an injured witness and from the deposition of Dr. Harish Kumar P.W.6 and injury report of this witness Ex.Ka.-17, he has suffered injuries in the incident. In State of Haryana Vs. Krishan, A.I.R. 2017 Supreme Court 3125, it was held that deposition of an injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies. The same view was reiterated in Laxman Singh Vs. State of Bihar, (2021) 9 SCC 191 by holding that deposition of injured witness should be relied upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and discrepancies therein. Evidence of injured witness is entitled to a great weight and very cogent and convincing grounds are required to discard his evidence. Therefore, evidence of P.W.1 is certainly entitled to a great weight.

41. In the instant case, in his cross-examination, this witness (P.W.1) has stated that his brother - deceased Pushpraj was a practising advocate in District Court and has also fairly conceded regarding criminal cases pending against him and the deceased.

42. Learned counsel for the appellants drew the attention of this Court towards paragraphs no.52 and 53 of the cross-examination of this witness conducted on 16.06.2009 in support of appellants′ argument that inspite of use of sharp cut weapons, there was no incised or sharp cut injury on the body of deceased. It is the specific case of the appellants that inspite of appellants being armed with deadly weapons, no ante-mortem injury on the body of the deceased and any injury on the body of either of the three injured was found to have been caused by these deadly weapons and therefore, it was vehemently argued that the prosecution story on this account is suspicious in itself. In the backdrop of this specific argument, informant/injured Manoj Kumar PW-1 has specifically stated that deceased as well as injured were attacked by butts of rifles, axe, spear etc. P.W.1 in these paragraphs has stated that Ranjit was beating his brother Pushpraj after throwing him to the ground. He cannot tell how many times Ranjit assaulted Pushpraj with axe. Udham Singh was assaulting Pushpraj with knife. He stated that assault with axe and knife lasted for about 2, 3 minutes. During these 2, 3 minutes, he (informant) and his brother came there to save the deceased and when he tried to save the deceased, he was hit by the butt of rifle, thereafter he did not try to save the deceased because he was also threatened to kill. He could not see who had hit him from his back. This witness in paragraph no.52 of his cross-examination has specifically stated that whenever Pushpraj was being assaulted, he would turn to save himself. Thus, it is clear that whenever Pushpraj was assaulted with axe or knife, in this duration of 2 - 3 minutes, he turned and saved himself from the sharp edges of these weapons. P.W.1 in his examination-in-chief, has specifically stated that they (including deceased) were assaulted with the butt of rifles, axe and spear. It is thus clear that deceased Pushpraj and other injured were assaulted with blunt side of sharp edged weapons and that is why there is no sharp cut or incised or punctured wound either on the body of the deceased or any of the injured. Therefore, we are of the opinion that the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants that no injury from any of the deadly weapons was found on the body of the deceased makes prosecution′s case suspicious, is completely devoid of merit and from above analysis, we are of the opinion that aforesaid argument is not helpful to the appellants.

43. In paragraph no.69 of his cross-examination, P.W.1 has affirmed the prosecution version. He stated that as soon as his brother (Pushpraj) opened the main door on hearing the sound of knocking, he (deceased) was dragged to the street and accused started making assault upon him. Informant himself, his mother, his brother Ashok and Jagdish came to the street to save him but they all were also beaten. Ashok and Jagdish did not sustain injuries. They were threatened by the accused. In paragraph 95 of his cross-examination done on 23.07.2009, this witness stated that the main door of his house is situated in southern direction where there is an iron gate. When some one enters through the said iron gate and after entering into the courtyard from eastern side, there is a room whose gate is in western side. In the northern side from the courtyard, there are several rooms and stairs. In paragraph no.96 of his cross-examination, he stated that at the time of incident deceased Pushpraj alongwith his family was residing in the room, situated in eastern side. This part of his deposition fully corroborates the site plan Ex.Ka.-9. In paragraph no.98 of his cross-examination, this witness further affirmed the prosecution version that informant, his brother Ashok, Jagdish, his mother Bitti Bai and his sister-in-law / bhabhi Vimla Devi came on door alongwith Pushpraj. This witness has also stated that accused opened fire, just to create terror / panic.

44. P.W.1 has been cross-examined extensively. However, his deposition as far as date, time, place and manner of incident is concerned, remained consistent throughout.

45. Smt. Vimla Devi, who is the wife of deceased Pushpraj, has been examined as P.W.2 and this witness is also the injured witness of the incident. P.W.2 Smt. Vimla Devi in her deposition has stated that on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 P.M., her family members including her husband Pushpraj, her husband's brothers Ashok, Manoj and Jagdish, her mother-in-law Bitti Bai and father-in-law Ramashanker were watching T.V. Suddenly, they heard knocking sound from the iron gate and upon hearing the same they all went towards the gate. Her husband Pushpraj opened the door, Krishan Pal alias Lal was an absconder at that time, Rishi Pal and Raghunath alias Batauli, who all were armed with rifles and guns, Ranjeet, who was carrying an axe, Bahadur, who was having a spear and Udham Singh, who was carrying a knife, they all came together and caught hold of her husband and warned that he (her husband) is doing pairvee from the side of Rajesh against them and therefore, they will kill him. Thereafter they all started assaulting her husband with butt / blunt side of spear, axe, knife and rifles / guns in front of their door. They all (family members of deceased) tried very hard to save Pushpraj and she (P.W.2) even clung / embraced her husband but the accused pushed her away. She sustained injuries. They raised alarm on which people of the vicinity came on the spot and accused in order to create terror among them, fired from their guns which caused chaos in their village. She, her brother-in-law Manoj and mother-in-law Bitti Bai sustained injuries in the incident. Her husband also sustained multiple injuries. At the time of incident, there was electric light over there. Her husband was brought to the Medical College by their family members and he died during the course of his treatment. All the accused are present in Court.

46. Examination-in-chief of P.W.2 was recorded on 09.10.2009 and her cross-examination was deferred, thereafter she was cross-examined on 23.10.2009, 09.03.2010, 20.03.2010 and 02.04.2010. It is thus apparently clear that this injured witness was cross-examined on four different dates at length and her deposition could be completed in about eight months. Therefore, some contradictions are bound to occur in her deposition.

47. P.W.2 in her cross-examination has stated that she is not aware about directions. However, she stated that adjacent to her house, house of village watchman Sitaram is situated and adjacent to Sitaram′s house, the house of his son and thereafter house of Hukum Singh Yadav are situated. She also stated that in front of their main door, there is another house of village watchman Sitaram. This part of her deposition fully corroborate the site plan Ex.Ka.-9. She further deposed that on the date of incident, her husband Pushpraj was taken to hospital in their tractor-trolley. Their tractor was parked inside their courtyard and after the incident, main iron gate was opened and her husband was taken to the hospital in tractor-trolley. She further stated that all those houses which are situated in front of their house were having electric bulb outside their houses. She further deposed that when her husband was thrown on the ground and was assaulted, the said assault continued for about 2 - 3 minutes. She cannot tell that during assault made upon her husband whether knife, spear, lathi, stick, axe struck her husband. Accused although fired during the incident, but they did not fire on her husband or on this witness or any other family members. Jagdish did not sustain injuries in the incident. However, she tried to save her husband but she was threatened. This witness also has been cross-examined extensively. However, her deposition as far as date, place and manner of incident is concerned, remained consistent throughout except some minor contradictions. Moreover, P.W.2 in her examination-in-chief has clearly stated that her husband (deceased Pushpraj) was assaulted with blunt side / butt of rifles / guns, spear, axe and knife. Therefore, no sharp cut or incised or punctured wound were found on the body of the deceased, which strengthens our conclusion that deceased and other injured were assaulted with blunt sides of spear, axe and knife and butt of rifles / guns, which fact does not make the prosecution case suspicious.

No unnecessary delay in registration of F.I.R.

48. In the present case, the alleged incident is reported to be of 10:00 P.M. on 01.07.2007 and the first information report of the same has been registered in Police Station Nawabad, District Jhansi at 1:35 A.M. on 02.07.2007. Therefore, the first information report has been registered within 3 hours 35 minutes of the occurrence of the incident in the police station, which is situated at a distance of about 6 kilometer from the place of incident. In the incident, a total of four persons from the side of informant got injured and one injured even succumbed to injuries within 4 hours of the preparation of his injury report. It is clearly mentioned in the first information report that the informant brought his brother injured Pushpraj to Medical College, Jhansi from the spot, where the aforesaid injured was admitted and his treatment started, thereafter the informant approached the concerned police station for registration of the first information report. Therefore, in this background, the first information report seems to be registered promptly without any unnecessary delay.

Motive

49. It is the case of prosecution that deceased Pushpraj was doing Pairavi in a case lodged by one Rajesh of village Mairi against accused Krishna Pal. It is also admitted position that both Pushpraj and appellant Krishna Pal were having their respective criminal history. As per written report / Tehrir (Ext. Ka-1), aforesaid Pairavi by Pushparaj annoyed the appellant Krishna Pal and was the motive behind this murder. PW-1 and PW-2 both in their respective depositions have clearly stated that all accused arrived at the spot and knocked at their main gate (iron gate), which was closed and when the main gate was opened by deceased Pushpraj, all of accused were found standing outside their main gate armed with deadly weapons and threatened Pushparaj for doing Pairavi and started assaulting him. PW-1 in his cross examination has stated that his brother deceased Pushpraj was doing practice as an advocate in court since last 10-11 years. PW-1 has also admitted pendency of various criminal cases against him and his brother Pushpraj. PW-1, however, in his cross examination has stated that he, his father, brother Pushpraj and Ashok were accused in the murder of their fellow villager Ram Swaroop Kushwaha in which they all were acquitted. In the aforesaid murder case, accused Raghunath @ Batole was eye witness, who had deposed against them in FTC Court. After their acquittal in the aforesaid case, another false FIR of robbery was lodged against him, but finding it false, a final report was filed in the aforesaid case. Appellant Bahadur was Tehrir writer of the aforesaid murder case. PW-1 denied all suggestions of the defense that accused appellants were falsely implicated because of aforesaid murder case. PW-1 in para-62 of his cross examination has stated that Ashok, Devendra, Bablu of village Mairi alongwith one Kushwaha boy of village Kotha Bhaper were murdered four months prior to murder of his brother Pushpraj. The appellant Krishna Pal was the accused in the aforesaid four murders of village Mairi. Few of accused of aforesaid murder case of village Mairi were absconding at the time of murder of his brother. In para-92 of his cross examination, PW-1 has denied to have any enmity of his brother Pushpraj with accused Krishna Pal and Rishipal.

50. PW-2 in her cross examination has stated that the appellant Krishna Pal was an accused in the four murders of village Mairi and was absconding. The aforesaid murders were committed 4-5 months before the murder of her husband. She in her cross examination has supported her deposition given in examination in chief that the deceased was threatened for doing Pairavi of aforesaid murders on behalf of one Rajesh. It is thus clear that there was a murder incident in village Mairi in which four persons were murdered and the appellant Krishna Pal was an accused in the same, who was absconding at the time of present incident.

51. It has come in the deposition of both PW-1 and PW-2 that Pushpraj was doing Pairavi in the aforesaid four murders on behalf of one Rajesh of village Mairi, which annoyed the appellant Krishna Pal and therefore, it became the motive for him to murder deceased Pushpraj. Both deceased Pushpraj and appellant were having criminal history and in this background Krishna Pal alongwith his companion accused wanted to give a message to the villagers that if anyone ever dared to do any Pairavi against Krishna Pal or his associates, will be dealt with similar fate. It has also come on record that a case of murder of one Ram Swroop Kushwaha was registered against informant - injured Manoj, his brothers deceased Pushpraj and Ashok, and his father. The appellant Bahadur was the scribe of written report / Tehrir in the aforesaid case and Raghunath @ Batole was eye witness, however, it has also come on record that the informant - injured Manoj PW-1, deceased, their father and brother all were acquitted in the aforesaid case. The aforesaid acquittal also had given motive to appellant Raghunath @ Batole and Bahadur to take revenge. However, just 4-5 months of the present incident, the appellant Krishna Pal became an accused as well as absconder in the four murders of village Mairi and deceased was doing Pairavi in the aforesaid case, therefore, the appellant Krishna Pal alongwith his other companion had the motive to commit murder of Pushparaj. Therefore, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has been able to prove aforesaid motive behind the present murder.

52. The informant-injured Manoj Kumar PW-1 and Smt. Vimla Devi, the wife of the deceased PW-2 in their respective depositions have consistently stated that on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 pm, the appellants-accused persons knocked the main iron gate. At that time, PW-1 and PW-2, deceased Pushpraj and their other family members Ashok and Manoj (maternal brothers of the deceased), Bitti Bai (mother of the deceased) and Ramashankar (father of the deceased) were watching T.V. On hearing the knocking sound, Pushpraj and others went towards main iron gate and Pushpraj opened the door. Outside their main gate, Krishna Pal @ Lala, Rishi Pal and Raghunath were carrying rifles in their hands, Ranjeet was carrying an axe in his hand, Bahadur was carrying a spear in his hand and Uddham Singh was carrying a knife in his hand. All of these accused simultaneously, threatened Pushpraj for doing pairvi from the side of Rajesh against them and by dragging Pushpraj collectively made an assault on him.

53. P.W.1 and P.W. 2 have not specifically stated that any blow was inflicted directly with sharp edged side of either spear, axe or knife. Both of these witnesses have specifically stated that firing was resorted to terrorize the family members of the deceased as well as people who have gathered from the surrounding area, because of which, there was stampede on the spot. From the very beginning, it is not the case of the prosecution that the deceased or any of the injured has sustained any sharp cut injury. Oral or documentary evidence available on record proves that PW.-1 and PW-2 both have sustained injuries during the incident, which in the opinion of doctors have been found to be sustained from some hard and blunt object. Therefore, PW-1 and PW-2 are the injured witnesses, who have deposed consistently regarding the presence of the appellants on spot and they all were armed with deadly weapons. Date, time, place and manner of incident has been proved by these witnesses. There is no inconsistency or contradictions in their depositions as far as presence of the appellants and their active participation in the crime and the date, time or place of incident is concerned. It is also important to observe here that the prosecution has been able to prove motive behind the crime. In Rajesh′s case, the appellant Krishna Pal was being prosecuted and Pushpraj was doing pairvi in this case and this was the motive for Krishna Pal to kill Pushpraj.

P.W.1 in his cross- examination has clearly stated that deceased was wearing a lungi over his underwear and was also carrying a towel. His (deceased's) lungi and towel fell on the spot during the assault, which were recovered from the spot by first Investigating Officer and were sent to Forensic Science Laboratory for examination along with underwear found on the body of the deceased during postmortem. The FSL Report Ex.Ka.-17 corroborates this part of deposition of P.W.1 because in FSL Examination, lungi, towel and underwear all were found having human blood. As far as argument of learned counsels for appellants that no blood was found on spot is concerned, this is a lapse on the part of Investigating Officer, indicative of defective investigation. Law is well settled that no benefit can be given to accused if prosecution has proved its case from trustworthy depositions of eyewitnesses.

From the incident as narrated by PW-1 and PW-2, it is crystal clear that there was no intention to kill any other member of Pushpraj's family. The informant Manoj Kumar, deceased's widow Vimla Devi, deceased's mother Bitti Bai tried to save Pushpraj, but they were also injured with blunt side of weapons, meaning thereby that the appellants have no intention to kill any other family members of the deceased Pushpraj. It has also come on record that Pushpraj was mercilessly beaten and there was no resistance from the side of Pushpraj. Therefore, the appellant did not feel any need to either shoot him or to cause injury from sharp side of sharp cut weapon. The appellants have mercilessly beaten the deceased Pushpraj in front of their main gate and were giving a message that if any one is going to do any pairvi against them, such person will also be taught a similar lesson.

54. Therefore, we are of the opinion that the prosecution has been able to prove it's case against the appellants-convicts beyond reasonable doubt and question no.1 is answered in affirmative.

(ii) Whether non-examination of other witnesses present on spot namely, injured Bitti Bai and deceased's brothers Ashok and Jagdish, is fatal to prosecution and an adverse inference is to be drawn against the prosecution or not ?

55. In the present case, informant Manoj Kumar, his mother Smt. Bitti Bai and his bhabhi Vimla Devi (wife of deceased) also sustained injuries. However, Smt. Bitti Bai has not been examined as prosecution witness and as per first information report, informant's brothers Ashok and Jagdish were also present on spot, however, these two alleged eyewitnesses have also not been examined. In this backdrop, learned counsel for the appellants have vehemently argued that material witnesses have been intentionally withheld by the prosecution and, therefore, an adverse inference has to be drawn against the prosecution. Law on this point is well settled that it is not the number of witnesses, which is important and material for prosecution to prove it's case, rather it is the quality of the deposition of the witnesses, which is important and material for the prosecution to prove it's case.

56. In Bhimappa Chandappa v. State of Karnataka (2006) 11 SCC 323, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that testimony of a solitary witness can be made the basis of conviction. The credibility of the witness requires to be tested with reference to the quality of his evidence which must be free from blemish or suspicion and must impress the Court as natural, wholly truthful and so convincing that the Court has no hesitation in recording a conviction solely on his uncorroborated testimony.

57. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Joy Devaraj v. State of Kerala, (2024) 8 SCC 102 has held that even otherwise, Section 134 of the Evidence Act, 1872 ordains that no particular number of witnesses is required, in any case, to prove a fact. Therefore, it is not the law that a conviction cannot be recorded unless there is oral testimony of at least two witnesses matching with each other. It is the quality of evidence and not the quantity that matters. If the evidence of a solitary witness appeals to the Court to be wholly reliable, the same can form the foundation for recording a conviction.

58. The Apex Court in the case of Rohtash Kumar v. State of Haryana, (2013) 14 SCC 434 has held that the prosecution is not bound to examine all the cited witnesses, and it can drop witnesses to avoid multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. The accused can also examine the cited, but not examined witnesses, if he so desires, in his defence. It is the discretion of the prosecutor to tender the witnesses to prove the case of the prosecution and "the Court will not interfere with the exercise of that discretion unless, perhaps, it can be shown that the prosecution has been influenced by some oblique motive". In an extraordinary situation, if the Court comes to the conclusion that a material witness has been withheld, it can draw an adverse inference against the prosecution, as has been provided under Section 114 of the Evidence Act. Undoubtedly, the public prosecutor must not take the liberty to "pick and choose" his witnesses, as he must be fair to the Court, and therefore, to the truth. In a given case, the Court can always examine a witness as a Court witness, if it is so warranted in the interests of justice. In fact, the evidence of the witnesses must be tested on the touchstone of reliability, credibility and trustworthiness. If the Court finds the same to be untruthful, there is no legal bar for it to discard the same.

59. The Hon'ble Supreme Court while summarising the law in the case of Ravasaheb v. State of Karnataka, (2023) 5 SCC 391 has observed that when a case involves a large number of offenders, prudently, it is necessary, but not always, for the court to seek corroboration from at least two more witnesses as a measure of caution. Be that as it may, the principle is quality over quantity of witnesses.

60. The Apex Court in the case of Avtar Singh v. State of Haryana, (2012) 9 SCC 432 has interpreted the law as :

"18.The learned counsel further submitted that though the prosecution would claim injuries on several persons of the complainant party, the other persons who were stated to have been injured or were present at the place of occurrence were not examined. In this context, it will be relevant to refer to the decision of this Court reported in Tej Parkash v. State of Haryana [(1996) 7 SCC 322 : 1996 SCC (Cri) 412] wherein this Court held that all the witnesses of the prosecution may not be called and it is sufficient if witnesses who were essential to the unfolding of the narrative on which the prosecution is based must be called by the prosecution. The legal position has been stated in para 18 as under : (SCC p. 330)

"18. In support of his contention that serious prejudice was caused to the appellant by non-examination of Phool Singh who had been cited by the prosecution as one of the witness, Mr

19. The law on this aspect can be succinctly stated to the effect that in order to prove the guilt of the accused, the prosecution should make earnest effort to place the material evidence both oral and documentary which satisfactorily and truthfully demonstrate and fully support the case of the prosecution. Where there were several persons stated to have witnessed the incident and the prosecution examined those witnesses who were able to depose the nature of offence committed more accurately leaving no room for doubt about the involvement of the accused in the occurrence and the extent of their involvement with specific overt act and also were able to withstand the cross-examination by maintaining the sequence and the part played as originally stated, it will be wholly irrelevant and unnecessary to multiply the number of witnesses to repeat the same version.″

61. The Apex Court in State of M.P. Vs. Balveer Singh, (2025) 8 SCC 545 has held that there is another danger in insisting on plurality of witnesses. Irrespective of the quality of the oral evidence of a single witness, if courts were to insist on plurality of witnesses in proof of any fact, they will be indirectly encouraging subordination of witnesses.

62. In the case of Jodhan v. State of M.P., (2015) 11 SCC 52, the Hon′ble Supreme Court has held that the testimony of the injured witness has its own significance and it has to be placed reliance upon unless there are strong grounds for rejection of his evidence on the basis of major contradictions and inconsistencies. As has been stated, the injured witness has been conferred special status in law and the injury sustained by him is an inbuilt guarantee of his presence at the place of occurrence.

63. Thus law on this issue is well settled that no particular number of witnesses is required in any case to prove a particular fact. It is the quality of the evidence and not the quantity, which matters, if the evidence of a solitary witness appeals to the Court to be wholly reliable, the same can form the foundation in recording a conviction. The prosecution is not bound to examine all the cited witnesses, and it can drop witnesses to avoid multiplicity or plurality of witnesses. If number of persons are injured in an incident, then it is not essential for the prosecution to examine all such witnesses and the prosecution may choose to examine such number of witnesses, who in it′s opinion are essential to prove the prosecution story. In a given case, not only the accused but Court can always examine a witness as a Court witness, if it is so warranted in the interest of justice. The defence can examine any cited witness, who has been dropped by the prosecution, if it so desires. Therefore, the prosecution can prove its story not only with the help of a reliable solitary witness, but can also call some other witnesses, not necessarily all the eyewitnesses or all the injured witnesses, which it finds essential for proving it′s case. There might be a number of reasons for the prosecution for not examining all the cited witnesses in a case, if quality of the oral evidence of a single witness or any number of witnesses adduced by it, are sufficient to prove it's case.

64. In the present case, informant Manoj Kumar and deceased's wife Vimla Devi have been examined as prosecution witnesses and both of these witnesses are injured witnesses. Examination-in-chief of injured Manoj Kumar P.W.1 was of about 3 pages, whereas his cross-examination was of more than 39 pages, running into 160 paras. On 04.06.2009, 16.06.2009, 07.07.2009 and 23.07.2009, his (P.W.1's) detailed cross-examination was conducted. It is thus clear that cross-examination of this witness could be completed only after four months of recording of his examination-in-chief and that too on four different dates. Examination-in-chief of P.W.1 was recorded on 23.03.2009 and only after a very brief cross-examination, an adjournment application was moved by the defence on which the case was adjourned. Examination-in-chief of injured Vimla Devi P.W.2 was concluded in 3 pages, however, her cross-examination was concluded in 28 pages. Examination-in-chief of P.W.2 was recorded on 09.10.2009 and her cross-examination was deferred, thereafter she was cross-examined on 23.10.2009, 09.03.2010, 20.03.2010 and 02.04.2010. It is thus apparently clear that this injured witness was also cross-examined on four different dates at length and her deposition could be completed in about eight months.

65. It is thus, apparently clear that both these injured witnesses i.e. P.W.1 and P.W.2, were extensively cross-examined that too on several dates and their depositions could be concluded in several months. In this background, their depositions were bound to have minor contradictions. PW-1 and PW-2 have deposed consistently regarding the presence of the appellants on spot armed with deadly weapons. Date, time, place and manner of incident has been proved by these witnesses. There is no inconsistency or contradictions in their depositions as far as presence of the appellants and their active participation in the crime and the date, time or place of incident is concerned. Probably, when these witnesses have been extensively cross-examined, the prosecution has decided not to examine any other eyewitness or injured of the incident. Therefore, non-examination of other witnesses present on the spot, who are family members of the deceased as well as of these witnesses, is not fatal at all and no adverse inference can be drawn against the prosecution for non-examination of those other witnesses present on the spot. Therefore, we do not find any force in the arguments of learned counsel for the appellants as far as withholding of material witnesses by the prosecution is concerned. Informant Manoj Kumar is the younger brother of the deceased Pushpraj, who has been examined as P.W.1, who is also an injured witness. Question No.2 is answered accordingly.

(iii) Whether the present case is a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellants - convicts is liable to be converted / reduced under Section 304 IPC ?

66. The Supreme Court while analyzing difference between culpable homicide amounting to murder and culpable homicide not amounting to murder in Anbazhagan V. State Represented by the Inspector of Police (2024) 20 SCC 500 in paras 39-44 has held that-

"39" This Court in Phulia Tudu (2007) 14 SCC 588 has observed that the academic distinction between 'murder' and 'culpable homicide not amounting to murder' has always vexed the courts. The confusion is caused if courts losing sight of the true scope and meaning of the terms used by the legislature in these sections, allow themselves to be drawn into minute abstractions. The safest way of approach to the interpretation and application of these provisions seems to be to keep in focus the keywords used in the various clauses of Sections 299 and 300 of the IPC. The following comparative table will be helpful in appreciating the points of distinction between the two offences:-

Section 299	Section 300
A person commits culpable homicide if the act by which the death is caused is done-	Subject to certain exceptions culpable homicide is murder if the act by which death is caused is done- Intention
(a)with the intention of causing death; or	(1)with the intention of causing death; or
(b)with the intention of causing injury as is likely to cause death; or	(2)with the intention of causing such bodily injury as the of endor knows to be likely to cause the death of the person to whom the harm is caused; or
	(3)with the intention of causing bodily injury to any person and the bodily injury intended to be inflicted is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death; or Knowledge
(c) with the knowledge that the act is likely to cause death	(4) with the knowledge that the act is so imminently dangerous that it must in all probability cause death or such bodily injury as is likely to cause death, and commits such act without any excuse for incurring the risk of causing death or such injury as is mentioned above

"40" Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC corresponds with clauses (2) and (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. The distinguishing feature of the mens rea requisite under clause (2) is the knowledge possessed by the of ender regarding the particular victim being in such a peculiar condition or state of health that the internal harm caused to him is likely to be fatal, notwithstanding the fact that such harm would not in the ordinary way of nature be sufficient to cause death of a person in normal health or condition. It is noteworthy that the 'intention to cause death' is not an essential requirement of clause (2). Only the intention of causing the bodily injury coupled with the of ender's knowledge of the likelihood of such injury causing the death of the particular victim, is sufficient to bring the killing within the ambit of this clause. This clause (2) is borne out by illustration (b) appended to Section 300 of the IPC.

"41" Clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC does not postulate any such knowledge on the part of the offender. Instances of cases falling under clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC can be where the assailant causes death by a fist blow intentionally given knowing that the victim is suffering from an enlarged liver, or enlarged spleen or diseased heart and such blow is likely to cause death of that particular person as a result; of the rupture of the liver, or spleen or the failure of the heart, as the case may be. If the assailant had no such knowledge about the disease or special frailty of the victim, nor an intention to cause death or bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the offence will not be murder, even if the injury which caused the death, was intentionally given. In clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC, instead of the words "likely to cause death" occurring in the corresponding clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC, the words "sufficient in the ordinary course of nature" have been used. Obviously, the distinction lies between a bodily injury likely to cause death and a bodily injury sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The distinction is fine but real and if overlooked, may result in miscarriage of justice. The difference between clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC and clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC is one of the degree of probability of death resulting from the intended bodily injury. To put it more broadly, it is the degree of probability of death which determines whether a culpable homicide is of the gravest, medium or the lowest degree. The word 'likely' in clause (b) of Section 299 of the IPC conveys the sense of probable as distinguished from a mere possibility. The words "bodily injury"..sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death" mean that death will be the "most probable" result of the injury, having regard to the ordinary course of nature.

"42" For cases to fall within clause (3), it is not necessary that the offender intended to cause death, so long as the death ensues from the intentional bodily injury or injuries suf icient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. The decision in the case of Rajwant Singh v. State of Kerala, AIR 1966 SC 1874, is an apt illustration of this point.

"43" The scope of clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC has been the subject matter of various decisions of this Court. The decision in Virsa Singh (supra) has throughout been followed in a number of cases by this Court. In all these cases the approach has been to find out whether the ingredient namely the intention to cause the particular injury was present or not? If such an intention to cause that particular injury is made out and if the injury is found to be sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC is attracted.

"44" Analysing clause thirdly and as to what the prosecution must prove, it was held in Virsa Singh (supra) as under:-

"15. First, it must establish, quite objectively, that a bodily injury is present;

16. Secondly, the nature of the injury must be proved; These are purely objective investigations.

17. Thirdly, it must be proved that there was an intention to inflict that particular bodily injury, that is to say, that it was not accidental or unintentional, or that some other kind of injury was intended

18. Once these three elements are proved to be present, the enquiry proceeds further and,

19. Fourthly, it must be proved that the injury of the type just described made up of the three elements set out above is suficient to cause death in the ordinary course of nature. This part of the enquiry is purely objective and inferential and has nothing to do with the intention of the of ender.″

It was further observed as under:-

"20. "If they inflict injuries of that kind, they must face the consequences; and they can only escape if it can be shown, or reasonably deduced that the injury was accidental or otherwise unintentional.″(Emphasis supplied)

The Apex court also observed in para 66 that

"66″Few important principles of law discernible from the aforesaid discussion may be summed up thus:-

"66.1″When the court is confronted with the question, what offence the accused could be said to have committed, the true test is to find out the intention or knowledge of the accused in doing the act. If the intention or knowledge was such as is described in Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act will be murder even though only a single injury was caused. To illustrate : 'A' is bound hand and foot 'B' comes and placing his revolver against the head of 'A', shoots 'A' in his head killing him instantaneously. Here, there will be no difficulty in holding that the intention of 'B' in shooting 'A' was to kill him, though only single injury was caused. The case would, therefore, be of murder falling within Clause (1) of Section 300 of the IPC. Taking another instance, 'B' sneaks into the bed room of his enemy 'A' while the latter is asleep on his bed. Taking aim at the left chest of 'A', 'B' forcibly plunges a sword in the left chest of 'A' and runs away. 'A' dies shortly thereafter. The injury to 'A' was found to be sufficient in ordinary course of nature to cause death. There may be no difficulty in holding that 'B' intentionally inflicted the particular injury found to be caused and that the said injury was objectively sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. This would bring the act of 'B' within Clause (3) of Section 300 of the IPC and render him guilty of the offence of murder although only single injury was caused.

"66.2″Even when the intention or knowledge of the accused may fall within Clauses (1) to (4) of Section 300 of the IPC, the act of the accused which would otherwise be murder, will be taken out of the purview of murder, if the accused's case attracts any one of the five exceptions enumerated in that section. In the event of the case falling within any of those exceptions, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder, falling within Part 1 of Section 304 of the IPC, if the case of the accused is such as to fall within Clauses (1) to (3) of Section 300 of the IPC. It would be offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case is such as to fall within Clause (4) of Section 300 of the IPC. Again, the intention or knowledge of the accused may be such that only 2nd or 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC, may be attracted but not any of the clauses of Section 300 of the IPC. In that situation also, the offence would be culpable homicide not amounting to murder under Section 304 of the IPC. It would be an offence under Part I of that section, if the case fall within 2nd part of Section 299, while it would be an offence under Part II of Section 304 if the case fall within 3rd part of Section 299 of the IPC.

"66.3″To put it in other words, if the act of an accused person falls within the first two clauses of cases of culpable homicide as described in Section 299 of the IPC it is punishable under the first part of Section 304. If, however, it falls within the third clause, it is punishable under the second part of Section 304. In effect, therefore, the first part of this section would apply when there is 'guilty intention,' whereas the second part would apply when there is no such intention, but there is 'guilty knowledge'.

"66.4" Even if single injury is inflicted, if that particular injury was intended, and objectively that injury was sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the requirements of Clause 3rdly to Section 300 of the IPC, are fulfilled and the offence would be murder.

"66.5" Section 304 of the IPC will apply to the following classes of cases:

(i) when the case falls under one or the other of the clauses of Section 300, but it is covered by one of the exceptions to that Section,

(ii) when the injury caused is not of the higher degree of likelihood which is covered by the expression 'sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death' but is of a lower degree of likelihood which is generally spoken of as an injury 'likely to cause death' and the case does not fall under Clause (2) of Section 300 of the IPC,

(iii) when the act is done with the knowledge that death is likely to ensue but without intention to cause death or an injury likely to cause death.

"66.6" To put it more succinctly, the difference between the two parts of Section 304 of the IPC is that under the first part, the crime of murder is first established and the accused is then given the benefit of one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC, while under the second part, the crime of murder is never established at all. Therefore, for the purpose of holding an accused guilty of the offence punishable under the second part of Section 304 of the IPC, the accused need not bring his case within one of the exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC.

"66.7" The word 'likely' means probably and it is distinguished from more 'possibly'. When chances of happening are even or greater than its not happening, we may say that the thing will 'probably happen'. In reaching the conclusion, the court has to place itself in the situation of the accused and then judge whether the accused had the knowledge that by the act he was likely to cause death.

"66.8" The distinction between culpable homicide (Section 299 of the IPC) and murder (Section 300 of the IPC) has always to be carefully borne in mind while dealing with a charge under Section 302 of the IPC. Under the category of unlawful homicides, both, the cases of culpable homicide amounting to murder and those not amounting to murder would fall. Culpable homicide is not murder when the case is brought within the five exceptions to Section 300 of the IPC. But, even though none of the said five exceptions are pleaded or prima facie established on the evidence on record, the prosecution must still be required under the law to bring the case under any of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC to sustain the charge of murder. If the prosecution fails to discharge this onus in establishing any one of the four clauses of Section 300 of the IPC, namely, 1stly to 4thly, the charge of murder would not be made out and the case may be one of culpable homicide not amounting to murder as described under Section 299 of the IPC

"66.9" The court must address itself to the question of mens rea. If Clause thirdly of Section 300 is to be applied, the assailant must intend the particular injury inflicted on the deceased. This ingredient could rarely be proved by direct evidence. Inevitably, it is a matter of inference to be drawn from the proved circumstances of the case. The court must necessarily have regard to the nature of the weapon used, part of the body injured, extent of the injury, degree of force used in causing the injury, the manner of attack, the circumstances preceding and attendant on the attack.

"66.10" Intention to kill is not the only intention that makes a culpable homicide a murder. The intention to cause injury or injuries sufficient in the ordinary cause of nature to cause death also makes a culpable homicide a murder if death has actually been caused and intention to cause such injury or injuries is to be inferred from the act or acts resulting in the injury or injuries.

"66.11" When single injury inflicted by the accused results in the death of the victim, no inference, as a general principle, can be drawn that the accused did not have the intention to cause the death or that particular injury which resulted in the death of the victim. Whether an accused had the required guilty intention or not, is a question of fact which has to be determined on the facts of each case.

"66.12" Where the prosecution proves that the accused had the intention to cause death of any person or to cause bodily injury to him and the intended injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, then, even if he inflicts a single injury which results in the death of the victim, the of ence squarely falls under Clause thirdly of Section 300 of the IPC unless one of the exceptions applies.

"66.13" In determining the question, whether an accused had guilty intention or guilty knowledge in a case where only a single injury is inflicted by him and that injury is sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death, the fact that the act is done without premeditation in a sudden fight or quarrel, or that the circumstances justify that the injury was accidental or unintentional, or that he only intended a simple injury, would lead to the inference of guilty knowledge, and the offence would be one under Section 304 Part II of the IPC.

67. In the light of above well settled position of law regarding murder and / or culpable homicide not amounting to murder, we are again evaluating the oral as well as documentary evidence available on record to arrive on a just conclusion. The accused persons arrived at the spot armed with deadly weapons, in a premeditated manner, to murder Pushpraj and to give villagers a clear message. The prosecution has successfully proved the motive behind the murder of the deceased. It is a case in which all the accused have participated with a premeditated plan as well as in furtherance of their common object of murdering the deceased. In this background, injuries sustained by the deceased are carefully evaluated, which is clear from perusal of the postmortem report Ex.Ka.-4, that the deceased was mercilessly beaten resulting into fractures of his right and left humerus bones, left elbow joint, right tibia, 5th and 6th ribs. He was so mercilessly beaten that his 5th and 6th rib after being broken entered into right lung thereby causing blood being stored in right side thoracic cavity. Even deceased's right pleura was found teared and trachea was also found filled with clotted blood. Anterior surface of the deceased's right lung was also found teared and clotted blood was also found inside the same. The deceased was mercilessly beaten on 01.07.2007 at 10:00 P.M. and, therefore, was rushed for treatment to the Medical College, Jhansi, where he arrived at 1:50 A.M. on 02.07.2007. The deceased succumbed to injuries within four hours of preparation of his injury report and had actually died within seven hours of sustaining injuries. In his postmortem, the autopsy surgeon found four stitched wounds, having total seventeen stitches. In the lacerated wound found present on outer surface of middle of right arm, his (deceased) broken bone was clearly visible. The nature of injuries found in the postmortem report of the deceased clearly reveals the amount of force employed by the members of unlawful assembly in causing ante-mortem injuries to the deceased. The nature of injuries so caused by the appellants on the person of the deceased, as found and noted in his autopsy report, clearly reveals that those injuries were sufficient to cause death in natural course.

68. Hon'ble Supreme Court in Pulicherla Nagaraju Vs. State of A.P., 2007 (1) SCC (Cri) 500, has observed that there may be cases of murder, where the accused attempts to avoid the penalty for murder by attempting to put forth a case that there was no intention to cause death. It is for the Courts to ensure that the cases of murder punishable under Section 302 I.P.C., are not converted into the offence punishable under Section 304 Part I / II. This observation of the Hon'ble Supreme Court again found approval in State of Uttarakhand Vs. Sachendra Singh Rawat, (2022) 4 Supreme Court Cases 227.

69. All the appellants came together and after committing murder of Pushpraj ran together by resorting to fire for threatening the family members of Pushpraj and their neighbours, which is clearly indicative of premeditated plan. The manner in which, Pushpraj was brutally attacked, mercilessly beaten and grievously injured, shows not only their intention but their knowledge also. The accused could have very easily murdered the deceased either by single gunshot or by a single blow of sharp cut deadly weapon being carried by them, but instead they chose to murder by mercilessly assaulting the deceased from blunt side of their weapons, in presence of his family members, to give a stern message to everyone in village not to interfere in their matters and not to do any type of pairvi against them, else be ready to face the same consequence. All the accused in furtherance of their common object came on spot armed with deadly weapons and mercilessly thrashed the deceased, when the family members tried to save the deceased from their clutches, they were also beaten, resulting into injuries to P.W.1, P.W.2 and mother of the deceased namely Bitti Bai. The accused arrived in a premeditated design and they committed offence in such a manner to spread a wave of terror in the village and society. The manner in which the accused arrived on spot with deadly weapons and thereafter assaulted the deceased and type of injuries inflicted by them from the blunt side of the deadly weapons clearly indicates their intention to cause the murder of the deceased. In the mercilessly thrashing, the deceased's both hand, one leg and two ribs were fractured, which is clearly indicative of the extent of force used by the accused persons in the incident. All the accused persons arrived on the spot with deadly weapons and, therefore, it can be easily presumed that they all have the knowledge that murder is likely to be committed. Therefore, all the accused in a preplanned manner arrived at the spot with deadly weapons and formed an unlawful assembly and had thus assaulted the deceased. Every member of the unlawful assembly has actually participated in commission of the offence. Therefore, being members of unlawful assembly in prosecution of their common object, they all are liable for the offence of murder of the deceased. It is not a case of sudden quarrel or sudden fight or a case of free-for-all fight. It is also not a case where the incident had occurred by chance. It is neither a case of grave and sudden provocation or a case in the heat of passion. It is also not a case where only a single blow has been inflicted.

70. Therefore, any reasonable person with any stretch of imagination can come to a conclusion that injuries so mercilessly caused on the various parts of the body of the deceased would cause death were sufficient in the ordinary course of nature to cause death. The blunt side of deadly weapons were intentionally used to cause such injuries and, therefore, the case of appellants - convicts squarely falls within clause thirdly of Section 300 I.P.C. It is not a case which is covered under anyone of five exceptions of Section 300. Therefore, the appellants - convicts have been rightly convicted in the commission of murder of the deceased Pushpraj. It is not a case of culpable homicide not amounting to murder and, therefore, conviction / sentence of the appellants - convicts is not liable to be converted / reduced under Section 304 I.P.C. Question No.3 is accordingly answered in the negative.

71. In the light of foregoing discussions and considering the entire aspects of the matter and looking to the circumstances, under which the present offence has been committed, we are of the view that the impugned judgment and order passed by the trial Court is well thought and well discussed and the trial Court has rightly held that the prosecution has succeeded to prove the guilt of the accused appellants beyond reasonable doubt. The conviction in the case in hand is a right ending and sentence as imposed is proper. As such, the impugned judgement and order passed by the trial Court is liable to be upheld and the Appeals having no force are liable to be dismissed. Question No.3 is, therefore, answered in the negative.

72. No good ground to interfere in the well reasoned judgment of the trial court is made out. Thus there is no merit in the present criminal appeals. Consequently, the judgment and sentence dated 11.03.2011 passed by Additional Sessions Judge, Court No.1, Jhansi is hereby "Affirmed".

73. The appellant Krishan Pal alias Lala is in jail. He shall serve out remaining part of sentence imposed upon him by the trial Court.

74. The appellants Rishi Pal, Raghunath alias Batauli, Ranjeet, Bahadur and Udham Singh alias Matauli are on bail. Their personal and surety bonds are cancelled and they are directed to surrender before the Court concerned forthwith, who shall take them into custody and send them in jail for serving out the remaining sentence imposed upon them by the trial Court. In case they fail to surrender, as directed above, the Court concerned is directed to take coercive action against them in this regard.

75. Let a copy of the judgment be provided immediately to the appellant Krishan Pal alias Lala through Superintendent Jail, free of cost.

76. The record of the 'Trial Court' be sent back immediately with a copy of this judgment for necessary information and compliance.

77. The Appeals fail and are hereby Dismissed.

78. Pending applications including bail applications, if any, stand disposed of accordingly.

4. Brief facts of the prosecution case are that first informant Sekha son of Dev Nandan, resident of Village- Chak Habsapur, Police Station- Bhimpura, District- Ballia, submitted a written application (tehrir) (Ext. Ka-1), before SHO, Police Station- Bhimpura, District- Ballia, stating therein that on the 14.06.1982 at about 08:00 a.m. his son Kailash was repairing his hut′s wall which had collapsed due to rain. Suddenly, Ram Daras, Jai Nath both sons of Bhikhari Lohar and Hari, Gulab both sons of Sukhari Lohar and Bhikari son of Sitaram threw his son Kailash into small pond (gadhai) after assaulting him with lathis. Upon alarm when he reached at the spot, his son was already beaten up. Upon his cry, Indrasan and Singhasan both sons of Gobari Lohar came running, thereupon, Ram Daras attacked Singhasan with a spear (bhala) causing him hurt over his left hand and also to Indrasan with lathis. Upon their alarm Raj Kumar son of Deu, Ganpat son of Neur and many other persons reached at the spot and intervened. Upon this information an FIR in Case Crime No. 21 of 1982, under Sections 147, 148, 324 and 323 IPC was lodged on 14.06.1982 at 09:30 a.m. against the appellants.

5. The investigation was conducted by S.I. Rajiv Rai, who recorded the statements of first informant and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared the site-plan. The injured were medically examined and after collecting evidence the I.O. has filed charge-sheet under Sections 147, 148, 323, 324 and 308 IPC against all the five appellants.

6. The concerned Court took cognizance of the offence and summoned the accused. They appeared and copies of relevant prosecution papers were furnished to them under Section 207 Cr.P.C. and thereafter the case was committed to the Court of Sessions for trial.

7. The accused appeared before the learned Sessions court, where charge under Section 148, 323 read with 149; 324 and 307 read with 149 IPC was framed against appellant Ram Daras and charge under Sections- 147, 323 read with 149, 324 read with 149, 307 read with 149 IPC was framed against appellants Jai Nath, Hari, Gulab and Bihari. All the appellants pleaded not guilty and claimed to be tried.

8. The prosecution examined six witnesses, to wit, P.W.1 Sekha; P.W. 2 Raj Kumar; P.W.3 Kailash Sharma; P.W.4 Dr. S.P. Narain, (medical officer); P.W. 5 Head Constable Sudama; and P.W. 6 Inspector Rajdeo Rai, to prove its case.

9. P.W. 1 Sekha, is the eye-witness, injured and is also the first informant. He has stated that the accused are his pattidar and since last one year they are living separately. They have partitioned their land and house since one year prior to the incident. According to the partition, the western portion of abadi land came in the first informant′s possession and the eastern portion came into possession of Hari and Others. The first informant has constructed a hut (madai) over his land and Hari′s house is to its east. The first informant has another house to the North of eastern corner, which is about 30 steps away from this madai. The small pond (gadhai) was filled with water upto the chest level, in the month of Jeth and Baisakh (English calendar month of June and July). P.W. 1 has further stated that accused wanted to take first informant′s abadi land. He has said that on the date of incident at about 08:00 a.m., he was at the door and his son Kailash was repairing the southern wall of madai with mud. Upon alarm he reached near madai and saw accused Ram Daras carrying spear, Jai Nath, Gulab, Hari and Bhikhari carrying lathis were assaulting his son Kailash, and till he reached there Kailash was pushed into gadhai and then the accused started beating him also with lathis. When Indrasan and Singhasan came for his rescue then Ram Daras attacked Singhasan with spear causing injuries over his left hand. Indrasan was also assaulted with lathis. The witness has said that in self defence they also wielded lathis as a result accused also sustained injuries. Kailash was rescued from the Gadhai and his condition was critical. They took him on cot to Bhimpura police station and on the way Mahendra met, he got the tehrir written from him and lodged the FIR. The witness has proved tehrir (Ext. Ka-1) and has said that from the police station, he and Kailash were taken to Kidharapur hospital, where doctor was not found. Therefore, they were taken to Belthara Road, hospital from there Kailash was taken to District Hospital- Ballia. Kailash was also sent to Banaras for treatment.

10. In cross-examination he has said that a cross-case regarding the same incident is pending between him, Kailash, Indrasan, Singhasan and others. There is a vacant land between gadhai and Hari′s house. The accused were assaulting Kailash in his presence and they pushed him in gadhai. Kailash was only beaten with lathis. Ram Daras did not attack him with spear. Due to the assault by Ram Daras, he himself sustained injuries over his left hand. He has said that he could not see who had beaten him. He did not see any blood at the place of occurrence. There was blood over clothes worn by Singhasan and Indrasan. He himself, Singhasan and Indrasan were having lathis which they used in their self defence. He himself and his side did not carry any ballam in their hands. Ramesh was not present there and he did not see him in injured condition.

11. P.W. 2 Raj Kumar has stated that at the time of incident he was coming to his house from near the place of occurrence. The incident occurred at the southern corner of accused Hari′s land. He saw Kailash repairing his southern wall of madai, which had collapsed due to the rain and he was putting mud over it. Meanwhile, accused Ram Daras carrying bhala and other accused carrying lathis reached there, shouted, then, Kailash ran towards north western direction, accused surrounded him near Bhikhari′s house and started wielding lathis. He fell on the ground, then got up and ran towards north. The accused chased and pushed him in a gadhai. Upon alarm when Sekha, Indrasan and Singhasan reached, they were also beaten by the accused. In self defence Sekha, Indrasan and Singhasan also wielded their lathis causing injuries to accused Ram Daras and Hari. Soon thereafter, they entered in the gadhai, brought out Kailash, who had drowned in water and was unconscious. He was bleeding from head and he was taken to Bhimpura.

12. In cross-examination he has said that, he did not see any earth being dug from Hari′s land. Accused came and attacked without any altercation. All the five accused chased Kailash and after running to a distance of 10-15 steps Kailash was beaten with lathis. At the time Kailash was being beaten, his family members had not reached there. When Kailash got up and ran then accused chased him and pushed in gadhai with water upto the level of about 4 feet. He saw injuries over accused, Hari, Gulab and Ram Daras. There was blood flowing from Hari′s head and Ram Daras was also injured. He did not see Ramesh at the spot and he did not see Bhikhari′s injuries.

13. P.W. 3 Kailash Sharma is an injured witness. He has said that on the date of incident at 08:00 a.m., he was repairing his Southern wall of madai. Suddenly, accused came there, shouted at him, then he ran towards north. Accused started beating him with lathis. He suffered injuries and ran but the accused chased and pushed him in gadhai. Thereafter, he fell unconscious. He does not know to swim, thereafter, what happened he did not know. He regained his consciousness after 2-3 days in District Hospital- Ballia.

14. In cross-examination he has said that when he was repairing his wall, his father Sekha was at the door, and all the five appellants came there. He does not remember which accused caused how many blows. Till then, no witness came at the scene. He does not remember whether accused surrounded him, while beating and he ran after getting up. Then one of the accused pushed him in gadhai. He has further said that he is accused in the cross-case and has denied the suggestion that accused Hari was digging earth from his chak (land) and was repairing the boundary then Sekha, Singhasan objected, and Indrasan and others attacked Hari, Ram Daras and others with lathi and spear and in their self defence he sustained injuries.

15. P.W. 4 Dr. S.P. Narain, is a formal witness who conducted medical examination of Sekha on 14.06.1982 at 04:30 p.m. in District Hospital, Ballia and found following injuries:

16. The witness has said that he had prepared injury reports of all the four injured, which he proved as Ext. Ka-2 to 5. He has said that these injuries could have been caused on 14.06.1982 at about 08:00 a.m. He has further said that the injured Kailash could have fell unconscious after sustaining injuries and falling in water. There was no water in his stomach and lungs and in cross-examination he has said that he did not find any sign that injured Kailash had fallen in water.

17. P.W. 5 Head Constable, Sudama Mishra is a formal witness and he has proved chik FIR (Ext. Ka-6), and G.D. No.12 (Ext. Ka-7). He has also proved, as secondary witness, site-plan prepared by the Investigation Officer as Ext. Ka-8 and 9, respectively.

18. In his cross-examination he has said that in summoned record of Session Trial No.110 of 1985 (State Vs. Kailash), (Ext. Ka-2), was scribed by him and related G.D. is in his handwriting which the witness has proved as Ext. Kha-1 and Kha-2, respectively. Similarly, he has proved charge-sheet of the cross-case as Ext. Kha-3, 4 and 5, filed by the Investigation Officer, S.I. Rajdeo Rai.

19. P.W. 6 S.I. Rajdeo Rai, is the Investigation Officer of the case. He has stated about the investigation carried out by him and has said that he recorded statements of injured and other witnesses, inspected the place of occurrence and prepared its site-plan. He found that some part of southern wall of Sekha′s madai (hut) had fallen and some mud was put on it. He has proved site-plan and charge-sheet. In cross-examination has said that he had not found any blood at the spot.

20. After closure of prosecution evidence, the statement of accused were recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. in which they have admitted that they are pattidars of the first informant and are living separately since long ago. Rest of the prosecution case was denied and it was stated that witness are deposing due to enmity and to save their skin from the cross-case, this false case has been lodged against them.

21. The accused have not produced any evidence in defence.

22. The learned trial court after perusing the evidence on record, found that prosecution has been able to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt and accordingly, convicted and sentenced the appellants to the term as indicated above.

23. I have heard learned counsel for the appellant and learned A.G.A. on behalf of State and perused the material on record.

24. It has been submitted on behalf of the appellant that the prosecution evidence consists of material contradictions and inconsistencies. There are material contradictions in oral and medical evidence. It is also submitted that it was the first informant and his party who attacked the accused and in self defence injuries were caused to the side of the first informant.

25. Per contra, learned A.G.A has submitted that the witnesses examined by the prosecution are consistent, reliable and trustworthy. Oral testimony is supported with medical evidence. The accused have not adduced evidence in their support related to the cross-case. Thus the appellants have been rightly convicted and sentenced by the learned trial court.

26. It is settled law that in a criminal case the burden of proof lies upon the prosecution to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt. In the present case, it is not disputed that the matter relates to cross-case. P.W. 1, informant Sekha in his cross-examination has said that cross-case is pending against him and others and he has further said that they wielded lathis in their self defence causing injuries to the accused. P.W. 2 Raj Kumar, the independent witness, has also stated that in self defence lathis were wielded from the side of the first informant, causing injuries to accused. P.W. 3 Kailash have also stated the same narration. P.W. 4 Dr. S.P. Narain, has stated that he had examined Kailash, the injured of this case alongwith others, the same day. P.W. 5 Head Constable Sudama Singh, is the scribe of the FIR and he has stated that there is an FIR and copy of G.D. in Session Trial No.100 of 1985 and there is also a charge-sheet in the Session Trial, which the witness has proved as Ext. Kha-1 to Ext. Kha-5 and said that he scribed the FIR and G.D of the cross-case.

27. In view of the above, it is established that the present matter relates to cross-case. With regard to cross-case the Supreme Court in Nathilal vs. State of U.P., 1990 (Suppl) SCC 145, has held that in deciding each of the cases, the Judge can rely only on the evidence recorded in that particular case. The evidence recorded in the cross-case cannot be looked into, nor can the judge be influenced by whatever is argued in the cross-case. Each case must be decided on the basis of the evidence which has been placed on record in that particular case without being influenced in any manner by the evidence or arguments urged in the cross-case.

28. As this matter relates to cross-case, therefore, with regard to the date, time and place of occurrence, there is no dispute and in this regard the appellant has not raised any issue. Therefore, only this much is to be seen that which party was the aggressor and whether the appellant caused injuries in the right of his private defence or it was a free fight.

29. According to the prosecution, at the time of incident, injured Kailash was repairing Southern wall of his madai (hut), which had collapsed due to rain. Then the appellants reached at the place and started committing maarpeet with him. Whereas, according to the appellant, appellant Hari was repairing his northern boundary by digging his chak (agricultural land). Singhasan stopped him and thereafter, others from the side of first informant reached there and started committing maarpeet. Here, it is relevant to mention that the appellants have not adduced any evidence in their defence and have not produced any witness in support of their version of the incident.

30. On the other hand, the prosecution has examined P.W. 1 Setha, P.W. 2 Raj Kumar, and P.W. 3 Kailash Sharma. P.W. 1 Sekha has supported the prosecution case and has said that accused are his pattidars and since long ago they are living separately. About one year before this incident, a partition had taken place between them regarding the abadi land, by which Western portion fell in his share and Eastern land fell to Hari and others. According to P.W. 1 the accused wanted to grab his portion of land. The witness has said that at the time of incident his son Kailash was repairing the Southern wall of his madai (hut) and was putting mud over the wall, then he heard noise and after reaching near madai he saw accused Ram Daras carrying spear and other accused, Jai Nath, Gulab, Hari Shankar and Bhikari, carrying lathis, were beating his son Kailash. Before he could reach near, they pushed Kailash in the small pond (gadhai) and then started beating him (the witness) also, with lathis. He has said that in self defence he and others from his side also started weilding lathis which caused injuries to accused. This witness has been cross-examined at length, but there are no major contradictions in his deposition to raise any suspicion over his statement. He has said that when he reached there, the accused were pushing Kailash near Mahua tree and were beating him with lathis. He has also said that he sustained injuries over his left hand and he could not see which of the accused had assaulted him. He has said that Singhasan also sustained injuries near Mahua tree and after beating, accused pushed Kailash in small pond. The witness has said that no one from his side was carrying ballam.

31. On the basis of above statement, it is submitted on behalf of the appellant that the witness is not narrating correct facts before the court and admittedly accused also sustained injuries. The appellant did not adduce any medical evidence in support of his contention to show which of the accused/appellant sustained injuries.

32. In view of the above, the statement of P.W.1 Sekha is consistent, reliable and trustworthy which supports the prosecution case.

33. P.W. 2 Raj Kumar, is an independent witness, he has also supported the prosecution case and has said that while returning from a Harijan abadi, as soon as he reached near the Southern corner of accused Hari′s agricultural land, he saw Kailash repairing Southern wall of his madai (hut) which had collapsed due to rain. In the meantime, all the accused reached there, shouted and Kailash tried to run away but near Bhikhari′s house, he was surrounded by the accused and they wielded lathis causing him injuries. Thereafter he got up and ran towards North where the accused pushed him in the small pond (gadhai). He has said that upon alarm, Sekha, Indrasan, Singhsan reached, then accused started beating them, and in self defence, Sekha, Indrasan and Singhsan also wielded lathis, causing injuries to Ram Daras and Hari. He saw injured Kailash had drowned under water, and was unconscious with blood flowing from his head. This witness has also been cross-examined at length, but there are no material contradictions or inconsistencies in his statement, which could raise any doubt over his evidence. He has said that he did not see appellant Hari digging earth from his land and said that the accused after reaching there started attacking Kailash, who sustained injuries over his head and back. He has said that while Kailash was being beaten, none of his family members reached there and when Kailash after sustaining injuries tried to run away, the accused chased and pushed him in a small pond (gadhai). He has said that he had seen injuries over appellants Hari and Ram Daras′s head. Ramesh was not present at the spot, and he did not see any injury over Bhikhari.

34. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that, in view of statement of P.W. 2 Raj Kumar, P.W. 1 Sekha is not an eye-witness because he has said that at the time Kailash was being beaten, none of his family members reached there, therefore, testimony of P.W. 1 Sekha is not reliable and trustworthy and he is not an eye-witness of the incident. I do not agree with this submission because, P.W. 1 Sekha has said that when he reached there, the accused were pushing Kailash in small pond (gadhai) and it is not in dispute that Sekha was also beaten up by the accused, so his presence at the spot cannot be doubted. It appears that he reached at the place of occurrence when the incident had already started.

35. P.W. 3 Kailash Sharma is the injured witness and he has also supported the prosecution case and there are no inconsistencies and infirmities in his statement. He has said that at the time of incident, he was repairing Southern wall of his madai (hut) which had fallen due to rain. Then the accused reached there, shouted at him, and when he ran towards North and reached near Bhikhari′s house, which is to the West of Mahua tree, the accused started wielding lathis upon him, as a result he sustained injuries. Then he ran but the accused chased and pushed him in a small pond (gadhai), thereafter, he became unconscious and he does not know what happened thereafter. He regained consciousness after 2-3 days in District Hospital, Ballia. This witness has also been cross-examined at length, but no material inconsistencies have come in his statement to raise any suspicion over his evidence. He has said that he does not remember which accused hit him how may blows and till then none of his family member reached there. When he got up after sustaining injuries and ran then one of the accused pushed him in the small pond. It has come in his statement that when he was being beaten none of his family members was present there, but this is a case where the incident occurred in pieces at different places and when his father, P.W. 1 Sekha, reached, he was being pushed in the small pond (gadhai). Therefore, it has come in his statement that none of his family members were present while he was being beaten so it does not mean that P.W.1 Sekha did not reach at the spot during the incident. P.W. 1 Dr. S.P. Narain, has medically examined P.W. 1 Sekha also alongwith other injured Kailash, Singhasan and Indrasan and found injuries over his person.

36. In view of the above discussion, the witnesses of fact have proved the prosecution case. So far as the medical evidence is concerned, the prosecution has examined P.W.4 Dr. S.P. Narain and has produced injury reports of all the four injured persons namely Sekha, Kailash, Indrasan and Singhasan, to whom it is alleged that they were assaulted by accused. A perusal of their injury reports and the nature of injuries shows that they are caused by hard and blunt object so they could have been caused by lathi which is a hard and blunt object. Therefore, oral testimony is supported by medical evidence.

37. It is submitted on behalf of the appellant that their side wielded lathis in exercise of their right of private defence, because, appellant Hari was digging earth from his chak (agricultural land) and was repairing his field′s northern boundary, when Singhasan stopped him and the first informant′s side committed maarpeet, but as discussed above, the appellants have not produced any witness or any other evidence to support their case. The only evidence on record is that at the time of incident Kailash was repairing Southern wall of his madai (hut) which had fallen due to rain, then the accused reached there armed with lathis and committed maarpeet.

38. Considering the principle governing the right of private defence, the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Darshan Singh vs State of Punjab & Anr 2010 (2) SCC 333, was pleased to hold as under:

"54. In Vidhya Singh v. State of Madhya Pradesh, (1971)3 SCC 244, the court observed that:

"18. The right of self-defence is a very valuable right, serving a social purpose and should not be construed narrowly. Situations have to be judged from the subjective point of view of the accused concerned in the surrounding excitement and confusion of the moment, confronted with a situation of peril and not by any microscopic and pedantic scrutiny. In adjudging the question as to whether more force than was necessary was used in the prevailing circumstances on the spot it would be inappropriate, as held by this court, to adopt tests by detached objectivity which would be so natural in a court room, or that which would seem absolutely necessary to a perfectly cool bystander. The person facing a reasonable apprehension of threat to himself cannot be expected to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude of only that much which is required in the thinking of a man in ordinary times or under normal circumstances."

55. In Jai Dev v. State of Punjab, AIR 1963 Supreme Court 612 the court held as under:

"13.....as soon as the cause for the reasonable apprehension has disappeared and the threat has either been destroyed or has been put to rout, there can be no occasion to exercise the right of private defence."

56. In order to find out whether right of private defence is available or not, the injuries received by the accused, the imminence of threat to his safety, the injuries caused by the accused and the circumstances whether the accused had time to have recourse to public authorities are all relevant factors to be considered.

57. In Buta Singh v. The State of Punjab, (1991)2 SCC 612, the court noted that:

"10.....a person who is apprehending death or bodily injury cannot weigh in golden scales in the spur of moment and in the heat of circumstances, the number of injuries required to disarm the assailants who were armed with weapons.

In moments of excitement and disturbed mental equilibrium it is often difficult to expect the parties to preserve composure and use exactly only so much force in retaliation commensurate with the danger apprehended to him where assault is imminent by use of force, it would be lawful to repel the force in self-defence and the right of private-defence commences, as soon as the threat becomes so imminent. Such situations have to be pragmatically viewed and not with high-powered spectacles or microscopes to detect slight or even marginal overstepping.

Due weightage has to be given to, and hyper technical approach has to be avoided in considering what happens on the spur of the moment on the spot and keeping in view normal human reaction and conduct, where self- preservation is the paramount consideration.

But, if the fact situation shows that in the guise of self-preservation, what really has been done is to assault the original aggressor, even after the cause of reasonable apprehension has disappeared, the plea of right of private defence can legitimately be negatived. The court dealing with the plea has to weigh the material to conclude whether the plea is acceptable. It is essentially, as noted above, a finding of fact."

" 58. The following principles emerge on scrutiny of the judgments:

(i) Self-preservation is the basic human instinct and is duly recognized by the criminal jurisprudence of all civilized countries. All free, democratic and civilized countries recognize the right of private defence within certain reasonable limits.

(ii) The right of private defence is available only to one who is suddenly confronted with the necessity of averting an impending danger and not of self-creation.

(iii) A mere reasonable apprehension is enough to put the right of self defence into operation. In other words, it is not necessary that there should be an actual commission of the offence in order to give rise to the right of private defence. It is enough if the accused apprehended that such an offence is contemplated and it is likely to be committed if the right of private defence is not exercised.

(iv) The right of private defence commences as soon as a reasonable apprehension arises and it is co-terminus with the duration of such apprehension.

(v) It is unrealistic to expect a person under assault to modulate his defence step by step with any arithmetical exactitude.

(vi) In private defence the force used by the accused ought not to be wholly disproportionate or much greater than necessary for protection of the person or property.

(vii) It is well settled that even if the accused does not plead self-defence, it is open to consider such a plea if the same arises from the material on record.

(viii) The accused need not prove the existence of the right of private defence beyond reasonable doubt.

(ix) The Indian Penal Code confers the right of private defence only when that unlawful or wrongful act is an offence.

(x) A person who is in imminent and reasonable danger of losing his life or limb may in exercise of self defence inflict any harm even extending to death on his assailant either when the assault is attempted or directly threatened.″

39. In view of the above legal position and the evidence on record, it is clear that the act of appellants does not fall within the category of their exercise of right of private defence. There is also no evidence that it was a free fight or the first informant′s side was the aggressor, therefore, the appellants are not entitled to the plea of right of private defence. The evidence shows that the accused were aggressor and assaulted Kailash and others form the side of the first informant and accused suffered injuries when the first informant′s side exercised their right of private defence.

40. In view of the above discussion, it comes to the conclusion that prosecution has been able to prove it case beyond reasonable doubt and it is proved that on 14.06.1982 at about 08:00 a.m. in Village- Havsapur, within the Police Station Bhimpura circle, District- Ballia, while injured Kailash was repairing southern wall of his madai, then the accused reached there and in furtherance of their common intention, formed an unlawful assembly and committed riot and uttered abuses and by weilding lathis, caused hurt to Sekha, Kailash, Indrasan and Singhasan. Looking into the injuries of Kailash they fall under Section 308 read with 149 IPC.

41. Thus, the appellant Jai Nath is guilty of offence punishable under Sections 147, 323 read with 149 and 308 read with 149 IPC. So the Trial Court has appreciated the evidence on record correctly and reached at the right conclusion of guilt of the appellant.

42. Thus, the present appeal lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed. The impugned judgment and order is confirmed and the conviction and sentence of the Appellant No.2 Jai Nath is upheld. Appellant no.2, Jai Nath is on bail. His personal bonds and bail bonds are cancelled and sureties are discharged. He is directed to surrender before the learned Trial Court within three weeks to undergo the remaining part of his sentence, failing which, the Trial Court is directed to adopt coercive measures for securing his presence.

43. Let a copy of this order be forwarded to the learned Trial Court concerned, alongwith trial court record for information and necessary compliance.

THE HON'BLE MANISH MATHUR, J.

Election Petition No. 6 of 2022

Abhay Kumar @ Dheeraj Ojha ...Petitioner
Versus
Rakesh Kumar Verma & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

1. Whether Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act does not contemplate any issuance of notice either to the returned candidate or any other party to the lis and in fact indicates only the aspect of notice to be given to the High Court for intention to file a recrimination petition within 14 days from the date of commencement of trial.

2. Whether applicability of the Code of Civil Procedure is only for convenience in following procedure pertaining to the conduct of an election petition and provisions of the Code are not strictly applicable either for decision in an election petition or even a recrimination petition

The Representation of People Act, 1951-Section 87, 97 & 98; The Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952-Chapter XV-A; The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908-Order V Rule 9, Order VII Rule 9 & Order VIII Rule 6A(4)- Provisions of Section 87 of the Act which clearly prescribes that every election petition shall be tried, as nearly as may be, in accordance with procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure.

Recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Act is that of a counter claim and since Code of Civil Procedure is applicable to the trial of election petitions, it would necessarily follow that provisions of Order VIII Rule 6A pertaining to counter claim filed by defendant would apply.

Held- Section 98 of the Representation of the People Act particularly subsection(c) thereof clearly indicates that decision of the High Court at the conclusion of trial of election petition includes a decision on the recrimination petition under Section 97 itself in case the outcome of the election petition itself warrants a further adjudication of the recrimination petition- Since recrimination petition is in the nature of a consequential petition, subject to outcome of the election petition itself, the notices on such recrimination petition are required to be issued only in case recrimination petition is required to be adjudicated subject to final outcome of the election petition itself. Order On C. M. Application No.IA/43 of 2024.

1. Application has been filed for issuance of notice on I.A. No.32 of 2024 filed by respondent No.1 of Election Petition. The said application has been filed pertaining to Recrimination Petition which has been numbered as I.A. No. 32 of 2024 in the Election Petition.

2. Heard Mr. Anupam Mehrotra, learned counsel for recriminator/ respondent no.1 to the Election Petition, Mr. Sudeep Seth, learned senior counsel assisted by Mr. Rajnish Ojha, learned counsel for Election Petitioner and Mr. Sudhir Pandey, learned counsel for respondent no.4 in the Election Petition.

3. Mr. Anupam Mehrotra, learned counsel for recriminator/ respondent no.1 has submitted that earlier subsequent to filing of Election Petition, recrimination petition had been filed under Section 97 of the Representation of People Act, 1951 with the said recrimination petition initially being registered as Writ C No.4613 of 2022 in which notice was issued vide order dated 21.07.2022 whereafter the said recrimination petition was directed to be listed as an interim application in the election petition itself resulting as application no.32 of 2024.

4. It is submitted that since notice was issued initially in the writ petition and not in a recrimination petition, fresh notices are required therefore to be issued in the recrimination petition to all the respondents particularly since even when the recrimination petition was registered as writ petition, despite issuance of notices, such notices have not been served upon all the respondents.

5. Elaborating upon his submissions, learned counsel has placed reliance on Chapter XV-A, Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules pertaining to special provisions relating to the trial of election petitions and submits that the said provision clearly indicates the provision for issuance of notices in an election petition. It is submitted that such a notice is required to the respondents to put up their defence, file the written statement and for purposes of leading evidence.

6. He has also referred to Chapter XV-A, Rule 12 of the Allahabad High Court Rules to submit that the Court has power to give directions in matters of practice and procedure which is consistent with the provisions of Section 87 of the Act of 1951 including recording of evidence.

7. He has also adverted to Section 87 of the Representation of People Act, 1951 to submit that before the High Court, every election petition has to be tried as nearly as may be, in accordance with procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure 1908, to the trial of suits.

8. It is therefore submitted that since provisions of Code of Civil Procedure are applicable, provisions of Order V Rule 9, Order VII, Rule 9 and Order VIII, Rule 6A (4) of the Code are required to be followed.

9. It is submitted that in terms of Order VIII, Rule 6-A, procedure in case of a counter claim by defendant has been indicated and submits that in case of such a counter claim in respect of cause of action accruing to the defendant against the plaintiff, the same procedure is required to be followed as applicable to plaints & consequently as indicated in Order V and Order VII of the Code.

10. It is submitted that Order VII, Rule 9 of the Code indicates procedure on admitting a plaint and where the Court orders summons to be served upon defendant in the manner provided in Order V, Rule 9, the said procedure is required to be followed. He therefore submits that Order V, Rule 9 pertains to delivery of summons by the Court and the manner in which such service of summons is required to be delivered and effected.

11. Learned counsel therefore submits that a conjoint reading of Chapter XV-A of Allahabad High Court Rules, Order V, Rule 9, Order VII, Rule 9 and Order VIII, Rule 6A of the Code clearly indicates that even in case of a counter claim in an election petition particularly as in the case of recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, the procedure as indicated in the Code is required to be followed by issuance of and effecting notices upon respondents.

12. He has also adverted to Section 97 of the Representation of People Act to submit that the said provision indicates that when in an Election Petition, a declaration that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected, is claimed, the returned candidate or any other party may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void if he had been returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election. It is thus submitted that since Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act clearly indicates the aspect of providing evidence, such evidence can be given only in case such other party being returned candidate or any other party are provided notice of recrimination petition, failing which, they would not have notice of recrimination petition and therefore would be deprived from giving evidence. It is therefore submitted that in case notices are not issued on the recrimination petition, it would deem a failure of provisions of Section 97 of the Representation of People Act. He has also adverted to Section 86(4) of the Representation of People Act particularly the explanation thereto to submit that the word 'respondents' indicated in the explanation also indicates a date fixed for appearance before the High Court for answering the claim or claims made in the petition. It is thus submitted that the words 'respondents' in plural indicate an opportunity to all the respondents not only in the election petition but also in the recrimination petition to give their evidence in rebuttal, which can be achieved only in case notice is issued even in the recrimination petition.

13. Learned counsel has also placed reliance on Black's Law Dictionary Eighth Edition to indicate that the term recrimination has been indicated as a counter charge. Although the said designation is in terms of a divorce suit, it is submitted that the meaning attached in term recrimination would be applicable in terms of Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act as well. Reliance has also been made to the Legal Glossary, 1988 issued by the Government of India in which the term recrimination specifically in terms of Section 97 of the Act of 1951 has also been defined a counter charge. It is in terms thereof that learned counsel submits that provisions of a recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act is in the nature of a counter-claim and since in terms of Section 87 of the Representation of People Act read with Chapter XV-A of the Allahabad High Court Rules, principles of the Code of Civil Procedure are applicable, therefore the recrimination petition being a counter claim, procedure indicated in terms of Order VIII, Rule 6A(4) is required to be followed for purposes of issuance of notice.

14. Learned counsel has placed reliance on judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Jabar Singh versus Genda Lal; AIR 1964 Supreme Court 1200 as also in the case of Bhag Mal versus Ch. Parabhu Ram & Ors.; (1985)1 SCC 61.

15. Mr. Sudhir Pandey, learned counsel for respondent no.4 has also submitted and placed reliance on Black's Law Dictionary particularly with regard to the aspect that words to which reference is made in an instrument have the same effect and operation as if they were inserted in the clauses referring to them. In terms thereof, it is submitted that the procedure indicated in Section 87 of the Representation of People Act indicates legislation by reference and therefore since the procedure indicated under Order VIII Rule 6-A(4) indicates notices to be issued in case of a counter claim and recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act being in the nature of a counter-claim, notices are therefore required to be issued.

16. Mr. Sudeep Seth, learned Senior counsel has refuted submissions advanced by learned counsel for recriminator as well as learned counsel for respondent no.4 and submits that Section 97 of the Representation of People Act applies only in case a composite claim is made in an election petition. He has referred to the aforesaid provision to submit that in terms of the aforesaid Section 97, recrimination can be claimed where in an election petition a declaration apart from challenge to the returned candidate is sought that in case that any other candidate in whose favour a declaration has been sought or claimed, the returned candidate or any other party may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void had he been a returned candidate. It is submitted that although the recrimination petition filed in terms of Section 97 of the Representation of People Act is in the nature of a counter claim but would depend on the final out come of the election petition itself and therefore the recrimination petition would only be consequential in nature, due to which, no notices are required to be issued in the recrimination petition particularly at this stage when the election petition is still pending.

17. It is further submitted that Section 97 of the Representation of the People Act does not contemplate any issuance of notice either to the returned candidate or any other party to the lis and in fact indicates only the aspect of notice to be given to the High Court for intention to file a recrimination petition within 14 days from the date of commencement of trial. Learned counsel has also adverted to provisions of Chapter XV-A Rules 5 and 12 of the Allahabad High Court Rules read with Section 87 of the Representation of Peoples Act to submit that the provisions clearly indicate that the procedure required to be adopted by High Court for adjudication in election petitions are required to be as nearly as may be, in accordance with the procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure. It is therefore submitted that applicability of the Code of Civil Procedure is only for convenience in following procedure pertaining to the conduct of an election petition and provisions of the Code are not strictly applicable either for decision in an election petition or even a recrimination petition. He has placed reliance on judgments rendered by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of Jabar Singh versus Genda Lal reported in AIR 1964 Supreme Court 1200, Janardan Dattuappa Bondre versus Govind Prasad Shiv Prasad Choudhar;(1979)4 SCC 516, N. Gopal Reddy versus Bonala Krishnamurthy & Ors. (1987) 2 SCC 58, B. Sundara Rami Reddy versus Election Commission of India & Ors. 1991 Supplementary (2) SCC 624.

18. Learned counsel has also adverted to Application I.A. No.2 of 2024 in the recrimination petition and has particularly placed reliance on paragraphs 4, 5, 6 & 8 to submit that recriminator himself has admitted that in a recrimination petition filed under Section 97 of the Representation of People Act, no notice is required to be issued.

19. Upon consideration of submissions advanced by learned counsel for parties and perusal of material on record, it would be conducive to refer to the relevant provisions:

"86. Trial of election petitions. .....(4) Any candidate not already a respondent shall, upon application made by him to the High Court within fourteen days from the date of commencement of the trial and subject to any order as to security for costs which may be made by the High Court, be entitled to be joined as a respondent.

87. Procedure before the High Court*.-(1) Subject to the provisions of this Act and of any rules made thereunder, every election petition shall be tried by the High Court, as nearly as may be, in accordance with the procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908) to the trial of suits:*

Provided that the High Court shall have the discretion to refuse, for reasons to be recorded in writing, to examine any witness or witnesses if it is of the opinion that the evidence of such witness or witnesses is not material for the decision of the petition or that the party tendering such witness or witnesses is doing so on frivolous grounds or with a view to delay the proceedings.

(2) The provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872 (1 of 1872), shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, be deemed to apply in all respects to the trial of an election petition.]

97. Recrimination when seal claimed.-(1) When in an election petition a declaration that any candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected is claimed, the returned candidate or any other party may give evidence to prove that the election of such candidate would have been void if he had been the returned candidate and a petition had been presented calling in question his election:

Provided that the returned candidate or such other party, as aforesaid shall not be entitled to give such evidence unless he has, within fourteen days from the date of commencement of the trial, given notice to the High Court of his intention to do so and has also given the security and the further security referred to in sections 117 and 118 respectively.

(2) Every notice referred to in sub-section (1) shall be accompanied by the statement and 24[] particulars required by section 83 in the case of an election petition and shall be signed and verified in like manner."

CHAPTER XV-A SPECIAL PROVISIONS RELATING TO THE TRIAL OF ELECTION PETITIONS Rules 5 & 12 of the Allahabad High Court Rules as under:

5. Issue of notice to respondent. Such notice shall also direct that if he wishes to put up a defence he shall file his written statement together with a list of all documents, whether in his possession or power or not, upon which he intends to rely as evidence in support of his defence on or before the date fixed; and further, that in default of appearnace being entered on or before the date fixed in the notice the election petition may be heard and determined in his absence. ORDER VIII 1 [Written statement, set-off and counter-claim] of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908

[6A(4). Counter-claim by defendan -... (4) The counter-claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the rules applicable to plaints.

20. A perusal of Section 97 of the Act of 1951 indicates a provision for filing of a recrimination petition and also indicates the twin aspect with regard to relief claimed whereunder only, a recrimination petition would be entertain-able particularly when in an election petition a declaration that any other candidate other than the returned candidate has been duly elected is claimed, provision has been made for returned candidate or any other party to provide evidence to prove that election of such candidate would have been void if he had been a returned candidate.

21. Chapter III of the Act of 1951 pertains to trial of election petitions with Section 87 adverting to the procedure required to be followed by the High Court for trial of election petitions. Sub-section 1 thereof clearly indicates that every election petition shall be tried by the High Court, as nearly as may be, in accordance with procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure.

22. It is thus evident that for purposes of trial of election petition before this Court, procedure required to be followed is to be by and large in accordance with the Code of Civil Procedure. The said aspect has also been indicated in Chapter XV-A, Rule 5 which pertains to issuance of notice to respondent and also indicates that unless an election petition is dismissed in terms of Section 86(1) of the Act of 1951 or for being otherwise defective, notices are required to be issued to respondents to appear and answer the claim. Rule 12 indicates the power of Court to give directions in matters of practice and procedure which are consistent with the provisions of Section 87 of the Act of 1951.

23. Learned counsel for recriminator has placed special emphasis on provisions of Order VIII, Rule 6A(4) which indicates the procedure required to be followed in cases of a counter claim by a defendant.

24. The said provision provides a right to a defendant in a suit to setup by way of counter claim against the plaintiff, any right or claim in respect of a cause of action in terms of stipulations provided therein. Sub Rule 4 of Order VIII Rule 6A provides that the counter claim shall be treated as a plaint and governed by the Rules applicable to plaints.

25. Order VII Rule 9 of the Code pertains to procedure on admitting a plaint and refers to Order V Rule 9 with regard to procedure for serving of summons upon defendants.

26. Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the cases of Jabar Singh and Bhag Mal (supra) has clearly enunciated the aspect that a recrimination petition filed in terms of Section 97 of the Act of 1951 is in the nature of a counter claim.

27. In the case of Jabar Singh (supra), it has been held that the result of Section 97(1) of the Act is that in dealing with a composite election petition, the tribunal inquires into not only the case made out by petitioner but also the counter claim made by returned candidates. It is therefore the nature of proceedings contemplated under Section 97(1) that it is a counter claim. It has also been held that until and unless the returned candidate does not recriminate as provided under Section 97, he cannot make any attack against the alternative claim made in petition and in such a case an inquiry is required to held under Section 100 of the Act of 1951 and it is only when as a result of the said inquiry, declaration is made that the election of returned candidate is void, then the tribunal will proceed to deal with the alternative claim.

28. The relevant portion of judgment is as follows:

"11. There are, however, cases in which the election petition makes a double claim; it claims that the election of the returned candidate is void, and also asks for a declaration that the petitioner himself or some other person has been duly elected. It is in regard to such a composite case that Section 100 as well as Section 101 would apply, and it is in respect of the additional claim for a declaration that some other candidate has been duly elected that Section 97 comes into play. Section 97(1) thus allows the returned candidate to recriminate and raise pleas in support of his case that the other person in whose favour a declaration is claimed by the petition cannot be said to be validly elected, and these would be pleas of attack and it would be open to the returned candidate to take these pleas, because when he recriminates, he really becomes a counter-petitioner challenging the validity of the election of the alternative candidate. The result of Section 97(1) therefore, is that in dealing with a composite election petition, the Tribunal enquires into not only the case made out by the petitioner, but also the counter-claim made by the returned candidate. That being the nature of the proceedings contemplated by Section 97(1), it is not surprising that the returned candidate is required to make his recrimination and serve notice in that behalf in the manner and within the time specified by Section 97(1) proviso and Section 97(2). If the returned candidate does not recriminate as required by Section 97, then he cannot make any attack against the alternative claim made by the petition. In such a case an enquiry would be held under Section 100 so far as the validity of the returned candidate's election is concerned, and if as a result of the said enquiry declaration is made that the election of the returned candidate is void, then the Tribunal will proceed to deal with the alternative claim, but in doing so, the returned candidate will not be allowed to lead any evidence because he is precluded from raising any pleas against the validity of the claim of the alternative candidate."

29. The same aspect has been enunciated in the case of Janardan Dattuappa Bondre (supra) placing reliance on the case of Jabar Singh (supra) and it has been held that proceedings under Section 97 of the Act of 1951 are consequential upon the outcome of the Election Petition.

30. It is thus established from the aforesaid pronouncements that the proceedings under Section 97 of the Act of 1951 are in the nature of a counter claim but are consequential to the final outcome of the election petition itself.

31. So far as the aspect of issuance of notice to respondents in a recrimination petition is concerned, the Supreme Court in the case of Janardan Dattuappa Bondre (supra) has held as follows:

"9. The inclusion of the 250 votes cast in favour of the appellant was material for the purpose of determining the total number of votes received by him. The accident that they were not placed in his packet but in Bahekar's packet did not render them any the less votes belonging to the appellant. Their inclusion in calculating the appellant's total was a necessary part of the process involved in deciding whether he had been duly elected or whether on the election petition his election should be declared void. It was a process relevant to the first of the reliefs claimed by the election petitioner, that is to say, that the election of the appellant be declared void. The other relief claimed by the election petitioner was that the fifth respondent be declared duly elected. Now, as we observed in Jabar Singh v. Genda Lal; (1964) 6 SCR 54, where both reliefs are claimed in an election petition the Court must first decide the question whether the election of the returned candidate is valid or not, and if it is found that the said election is void, it makes a declaration to that effect and then deals with the further question whether the petitioner himself or some other person can be said to have been duly elected.

A notice of recrimination under Section 97 of the Act is necessary only where the returned candidate or other candidate disputes the grant of the further declaration sought by the election petitioner that he or some other candidate should be declared duly elected. When the re-count was taken, the High Court had not yet concluded that the election of the appellant was invalid. It was in the process of determining that question, and the question could properly be determined only after giving to the appellant the benefit of all the votes cast for him. These would include the 250 votes cast in his favour, even though they were found placed in Bahekar's packet. Once the benefit of his 250 votes is given to the appellant, he becomes the candidate with the highest number of votes. His election cannot be declared void. That being so, no question arises of the appellant wanting to give evidence to prove that the election of any other candidate would have been void if he had been the returned candidate. Therefore, no notice for recrimination under Section 97 was necessary. In the circumstances, the High Court erred in declining to count the appellant's 250 votes in his total on the ground that no notice of recrimination under Section 97 of the Act had been given."

32. The same aspect has been propounded by Hon'ble the Supreme Court in the case of N. Gopal Reddy (supra) in the following manner:-

"12. A plain reading of the aforesaid section indicates that a notice of recrimination is to be given to the High Court by the returned candidate within a stipulated time if he desires to adduce evidence to prove that the election of the candidate in whose favour a declaration may have been asked would be void. The proviso to Section 97(1) further indicates that the returned candidate is not entitled to give such evidence unless he gives notice within 14 days from the date of the commencement of the trial to the High Court. It is relevant to note that Section 97 does not require notice of recrimination to be given to the election petitioner; instead it is to be given to the High Court. Absence of recriminatory notice does not prejudicially affect the candidate in whose favour relief of declaration may have been claimed. Moreover when the returned candidate points out the validity or invalidity of ballot papers already on record, he is not tendering any evidence before the court as contemplated by Section 97 of the Act; instead he is referring to the material which is already on record. If the High Court takes cognizance of such a material on record without a notice under Section 97 we do not think that the High Court would commit a jurisdictional error."

33. In the case of B. Sundara Rami Reddy (supra), the aspect of applicability of Code of Civil Procedure in election petition has been indicated that such provisions and procedure are not strictly applicable but have been made applicable to a limited extent only as indicated under Section 87 of the Act of 1951.

34. With regard to judgments cited by learned counsel for petitioner, it is relevant that all the judgments pertain to the aspect of recount of votes and it is in that context that Hon'ble the Supreme Court has held that since all the material evidence was already on record, there was no occasion for production of fresh evidence due to which fresh notices were not required to be issued for furnishing of fresh evidence.

35. However the aspect which requires adjudication is not confined only to the aspect of recount of votes but also the aspect of improper acceptance of the nomination form or any other aspect which would vitiate the election itself and would thus require submission of fresh evidence including in a recrimination petition filed under Section 97 of the Act.

36. It is in such premise that in the considered opinion of this Court, judgments relied upon by learned counsel for petitioner would be inapplicable where the election is challenged not only on the aspect of recount of votes but also on the aspect of improper acceptance of nomination form or any other aspect which materially affects the outcome of the election.

37. Learned counsel for election petitioner has also adverted to Section 86(4) of the Act to submit the said provision provides for any candidate not already a respondent, to be impleaded as one upon application made by him to the High Court within the time stipulated. It is also submitted that in explanation of Section 86(4) of the Act, although Section 97 has been indicated but it is only for the purpose of ascertaining the date of commencement of trial of a petition and not for any other purpose and therefore on a perusal of the entire Section 86 of the Act, there is no provision for issuance of notice under Section 97.

38. With regard to such submission, it is quite evident from a perusal of Section 86(4) of the Act that it would be applicable where the election petition has been filed seeking challenge to the election of returned candidate and not where a composite election petition has been filed as indicated here-in-above. Even otherwise the explanation to Section 86(4) of the Act indicates that Section 97 has been referred to not only for the purposes of ascertainment of the date of commencement for trial but also for the date which is fixed for respondents to appear before the High Court and answer the claim or claims made in the petition.

39. For compliance of the explanation clause of Section 86(4) of the Act, therefore it is evident that for the respondents to appear before the High Court and answer the claim made in the petition, obviously a notice is required to be issued and since the explanation to Section 86(4) of the Act refers to Section 97 as well, it would naturally follow that notice would be required to be issued in a recrimination petition under Section 97 as well fixing for appearance of the respondents without which no date can be fixed for respondents to appear.

40. It is also relevant to refer to provisions of Section 87 of the Act which clearly prescribes that every election petition shall be tried, as nearly as may be, in accordance with procedure applicable under the Code of Civil Procedure.

41. Although Section 97 of the Act does not indicate any provision for issuance of notice to any of the respondents but the said aspects as to the nature of a recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Act has clearly been defined and enunciated upon by Hon'ble the Supreme Court as observed here-in-above and is in the nature of a counter claim. It is in such circumstances that applicability of the Code of Civil Procedure is required to be examined.

42. Once it is already determined that the nature of recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Act is that of a counter claim and since Code of Civil Procedure is applicable to the trial of election petitions, it would necessarily follow that provisions of Order VIII Rule 6A pertaining to counter claim filed by defendant would apply. Since the aforesaid Rule also prescribes issuance of notice on a counter-claim and there is no prohibition on the applicability of the Code of Civil Procedure with regard to Section 97 of the Act, in the considered opinion of this Court, the said provision of Order VIII Rule 6A(4) shall be applicable and a counter claim shall be treated as a plaint and would be governed by Rules applicable to the plaints whereby obviously notice would require to be issued in a recrimination petition under Section 97 of the Act.

43. In view of discussion made here-in-above, it is thus held that in recrimination petition filed under Section 97 of the Act, separate notices are required to be issued to the respondents of recrimination petition.

44. However at this stage, issuance of notice in the recrimination petition is also required to be examined and in that context, as delineated here-in-above,it has been held by Hon'ble the Supreme Court that a recrimination petition is required to be examined by the High Court subsequent to the outcome of the election petition itself since the recrimination under Section 97 of the Act is consequential. In such circumstances, Section 98 of the Act also requires examination and is in the following nature:

"98. Decision of the High Court.-

At the conclusion of the trial of an election petition the High Court shall make an order-

(a) dismissing the election petition; or

(b) declaring the election of all or any of the returned candidates to be void; or

(c) declaring the election of all or any of the returned candidates to be void and the petitioner or any other candidate to have been duly elected."

45. The aforesaid Section, particularly sub-section(c) thereof clearly indicates that decision of the High Court at the conclusion of trial of election petition includes a decision on the recrimination petition under Section 97 itself in case the outcome of the election petition itself warrants a further adjudication of the recrimination petition.

46. In view thereof, since recrimination petition is in the nature of a consequential petition, subject to outcome of the election petition itself, the notices on such recrimination petition are required to be issued only in case recrimination petition is required to be adjudicated subject to final outcome of the election petition itself.

47. In view of observation made here-in-above, application for notices to be issued to the respondents in the recrimination petition is directed to be kept in abeyance and shall be subject to final decision of the election petition itself, particularly in case any adjudication on the recrimination petition is warranted.

48. As prayed, list this case on 07.07.2026 at 03.30 P.M. for arguments on applications I.A No.22 of 2024 and I.A No.56 of 2025.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 54 of 2022

Tara Chand & Ors. ...Petitioners
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the orders impugned were ex-parte; were issued without serving any notice upon the petitioners; were passed against principles of natural justice and since the petitioners are in actual and physical possession over the land and were not aware of the loan taken by their father, the orders being illegal and without jurisdiction, are liable to be set aside.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Section 47, Order VII Rule 14 , Order XXI Rule 27 & 72- The decree drawn in the year 1985 became final 37 years prior to filing of the petition and whatever objections the petitioners being legal representatives of judgment debtor could take in execution proceedings, they had taken but remained unsuccessful. There was no factual or legal impediment in auctioning the property in the course of execution of a money decree and no error is found in auction sale and closure of execution proceedings in full satisfaction of the decree in terms of mutation, delivery of actual possession, confirmation of sale and registration of sale certificate/sale deed

Wherever the proceedings are held under the Code of Civil Procedure, the forum is the Civil Court and availability of a remedy under CPC will deter the High Court, not merely as a measure of self imposed restriction, but as a matter of discipline.

The holder of the decree may apply to the Court to execute the decree against the legal representative of the deceased- Decree holder can bid for or purchase the property in execution of the decree, however, the same has to be with the express permission of the Court- The executing court cannot go behind the decree and once the remedy available to the petitioners in terms of Section 47 CPC also stood exhausted in the year 1993 with no further challenge to the same, the validity of the decree cannot be reopened in a Matter U/A 227 of the Constitution of India after three (3)decades.

Held- The manner in which the proceedings have been conducted throughout, the Court deems it appropriate to impose cost of Rs 2/- (two) on the petitioners so as to convey them worth of their objections and conduct in the eyes of this Court. Petition dismissed. (E-15)

Case Arising From

This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed by legal representatives of the defendant in Original Suit No. 83 of 1984 filed by plaintiff-respondent No.3, challenging judgment and order dated 01.01.1985 passed in the suit as well as order dated 08.08.1993 passed by learned Munsif, Deoband, Saharanpur in Execution Case No.8 of 1989. Further prayer has been made to issue a direction to respondent No.2 i.e. Up-Ziladhikari, Tehsil Deoband, District Saharanpur not to dispossess the petitioners from the land in dispute, i.e. Khasra No.160, area 1.054 hectares, situated at Village Nandheda Khurd, Pargana and Tehsil-Deoband, District Saharanpur.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Suman Kumar Yadav, Usha Kiran
Counsel for Respondent(s) : C.S.C., Sumit Daga

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Usha Kiran, learned counsel for the petitioners, learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondents No.1 and 2 and Shri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for respondents No. 4 to 8.

The Challenge

2. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed by legal representatives of the defendant in Original Suit ('OS') No. 83 of 1984 filed by plaintiff-respondent No.3, challenging judgment and order dated 01.01.1985 passed in the suit as well as order dated 08.08.1993 passed by learned Munsif, Deoband, Saharanpur in Execution Case No.8 of 1989. Further prayer has been made to issue a direction to respondent No.2 i.e. Up-Ziladhikari, Tehsil Deoband, District Saharanpur not to dispossess the petitioners from the land in dispute, i.e. Khasra No.160, area 1.054 hectares, situated at Village Nandheda Khurd, Pargana and Tehsil-Deoband, District Saharanpur.

Brief facts as stated in the petition

3. The case of the petitioners is that the suit was filed against their father for return of a sum of Rs.8,000/- and the same was decreed ex-parte on 01.01.1985 directing the defendant to return the money along with 6% interest per annum. The decree was put into execution in 1986. The defendant/judgment debtor died in the year 1988. The execution case was dismissed for want of prosecution, whereafter, the respondent No.3 filed another execution application in 1989 against the petitioners and on 08.08.1993, learned Munsif, without affording any opportunity to the petitioners, restrained them from selling, donating or transferring the property to any person, whereafter, an order was passed on 26.08.1993 for seizure of the property. Further case of the petitioners is that on 20.11.2012, respondent No.3 along with revenue authorities came to the land in dispute and attempted to measure the property for taking possession over the land and, only then, the petitioners came to know about the ex-parte proceedings initiated and decided against their father, prior to which they had no knowledge.

4. The grounds taken in petition are that the orders impugned were ex-parte; were issued without serving any notice upon the petitioners; were passed against principles of natural justice and since the petitioners are in actual and physical possession over the land and were not aware of the loan taken by their father, the orders being illegal and without jurisdiction, are liable to be set aside.

Supplementary Affidavit

5. A supplementary affidavit dated 10.08.2025 filed on 16.02.2026 is on record annexing therewith certified copy of the selective order sheet of execution case and stand taken in the affidavit is that though the objections filed by the petitioners under Section 47 CPC were directed to be taken on record fixing 20.07.1993, the same were not decided and the executing court proceeded to decide the application under Order XXI Rule 54 CPC for auctioning property in favour of the respondents, which was not permissible in law. It is further stated that in case of a decree drawn in a suit for recovery of money, there is no requirement of auctioning the property and further pleas have been taken questioning the procedure of publication etc. with a further comment on the ex-parte decree dated 01.01.1985 that the same had been drawn without following the mandatory provisions of CPC.

Counter Affidavit

6. Counter affidavit filed on behalf of the contesting respondents, who are legal representatives of deceased decree holder-respondent No.3, takes a stand that the judgment and order dated 01.01.1985 decreeing the suit ex-parte was never challenged and, hence, became final; that the petitioner No.2 appeared before the executing court and filed his objections under Section 47 CPC, which were decided on 20.07.1993; that no objection was ever raised regarding judgment and decree dated 01.01.1985; that further proceedings of execution case were held as per provisions contained under Order XXI CPC; that property was auctioned in favour of the plaintiff-respondent No.3 after following due process of law; that a sale deed was executed in his favour on 26.10.1999 based upon which, he came in possession over the property and his name was duly mutated in the revenue records and the proceedings of execution case were closed on 04.10.2002.

7. Further stand is that the petitioners had full knowledge of the proceedings of the OS as well as the execution case; that the petition is not maintainable challenging decree of 1985 and the order dated 08.08.1993; that the predecessor-in-interest of the petitioners had appeared in the suit proceedings but did not file written statement; that the execution case was not dismissed for want of prosecution in 1986; rather it was filed in 1989 itself; that an application was filed by the petitioner No.2 in execution proceedings on 22.10.1992 and, therefore, it is false to allege that the petitioners got knowledge of the case only on 20.11.2012 and even if the said submission is accepted, the present petition was filed after ten years in the year 2022 with no cogent explanation. In the end, prayer has been made to dismiss the petition with heavy cost.

Submissions on behalf of the petitioners

8. Learned counsel for the petitioners has advanced submissions that since the petitioners′ father against whom the ex-parte decree was drawn in 1985, died in 1988, whereafter execution proceedings were filed in 1989, ex-parte decree is not binding against them and no knowledge of proceedings of execution case has been reiterated by her by contending that a highly valuable property could not be sold for petty sum during auction proceedings and, therefore, entire proceedings culminating into auction and execution of sale deed in favour of the contesting respondent are unsustainable.

Stand taken in Written Submissions

9. Written submissions have been filed on behalf of the petitioners stating that no documents in support of plaint were filed by the plaintiff which is clear violation of Order VII Rule 14 CPC; no evidence of loan was adduced before the Court; the plaintiff was not a registered money lender; no issues were framed before deciding the suit; the plaintiff never demanded interest nor pleaded the same in the plaint but trial court directed to pay interest @ Rs. 6% in an illegal and arbitrary manner; order dated 21.11.1984 indicates that two documents were filed by the plaintiff along with affidavit to prove his case but these two documents were not described in the order which is clear violation of Order VII Rule 14 (1) and (3); the trial court without following legal process, passed an ex- parte order, which is liable to be quashed/set-aside.

10. It is further stated in the written submissions that on 20.10.1986, decree holder filed execution proceedings which were dismissed for want of prosecution; on 26.10.1988, Jai Nand, father of the petitioners died; on 10.08.1989, respondent no. 3 again filed execution adding the names of petitioners as legal heirs of Jai Nand; on 08.08.1993, executing court, without affording any opportunity of hearing and without following the provisions of law, passed ex-parte order restraining the petitioners from selling, donating or transferring the property to any other person under order XXI Rule 54 C.P.C; on 04.12.1992, Kalu Ram-judgment debtor moved an application stating therein that decree holder without permission of the court purchased the auction property and such auction may be cancelled, therefore, the court granted time to the decree holder for filing objection by fixing date 01.01.1993.

11. It is further stated that on 05.02.1993, the executing court cancelled the auction and directed the decree holder to file objection under Section 47 CPC by fixing date 12.03.1993; on 20.07.1993, the executing court, without deciding application of the judgment debtor under section 47 C.P.C., directed to proceed under Order XXI Rule 54 of C.P.C, thereafter again proceeded for auction and auctioned the property in favour of decree holder, which is not permissible under law; no valuation report was called for from registered valuer; no publication in local newspaper for auction was made; as per order sheet, the decree holders took possession over the land in dispute and their names have also been recorded in the revenue records, but actual and physical possession was not taken by the decree holders.

12. Contrary to the stand taken in paragraph 13 of the petition qua knowledge on 20.11.2012, it is stated in written submissions that on 20.11.2021, decree holder came to the land in dispute and started measuring the land for possession, only then judgment debtor came to this Hon'ble Court for stay from dispossession of the land in dispute and challenged the ex-parte order dated 01.01.1985 and proceedings under Order XXI Rule 54 issued on 08.08.1993.

13. It is further stated that at the time of auction, the property was mortgaged with the State bank of India, Krishi Vikas Shakha, Devband on 21.05.1983 against loan of Rs. 51,000/-, hence, the same could not be auctioned without permission of Court or without satisfying the loan; the judgment debtors have also filed a suit for cancellation of execution before Civil Judge (J.D.) which is registered as Suit No. 141 of 2022; despite request made to the Court by the counsel for the petitioner for filing rejoinder affidavit to the counter affidavit, the Court did not grant time to file rejoinder affidavit and suggested to argue the case on merits, hence, under the circumstances, the right to file rejoinder affidavit had been curtailed; the petitioner/Judgment Debtor is still in actual and physical possession over the land and that the judgment debtor was/is ready to pay entire decretal amount with further interest, as may be directed by this Court, within stipulated period.

14. In support of her submissions, learned counsel has placed reliance on M/s Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. v. The Excise and Taxation Officer-cum-Assessing Authority and others : Civil Appeal No.5393 of 2010, decided on 01.02.2023; Pramod Shroff v. Mohan Singh Chopra : Civil Appeal [arising out of SLP (Civil) No.20779 of 2025], decided on 16.04.2026, Vindhayachal v. Commissioner, Azamgarh, Division Azamgarh and others : 2009 (108) RD 63, and Om Sakthi Sekar v. V. Sukumar & others : Civil Appeal No.3362 of 2026, decided on 13.03.2026.

Submissions on behalf of the respondents

15. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents, by referring to the order sheet of the execution proceedings, has vehemently opposed the pleas qua "no knowledge". It is further submitted that once the petitioners are successors/legal representatives of the deceased judgment debtor, the decree is binding against them in all respect and contrary submissions advanced have no force. Further submission has been made that ex-parte decree could not be challenged by means of a petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India and the same is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone and as far as the order dated 08.08.1993 is concerned, the same is not an order, rather a citation/form in terms of Order XXI Rule 54 CPC restraining the judgment debtor from alienating the property pending execution proceedings and challenge laid to the decree of 1985 and citation/form of 1993 after a period of 29 years being hopelessly barred and belated, the petition deserves dismissal with exemplary cost. Learned counsel has referred to various portions of order sheet of execution proceedings so as to contend that the petitioners are guilty of telling a patent lie before this Court that they were ignorant of proceedings though they throughout participated in execution proceedings, took all possible objections but lost and even those orders have attained finality at every stage.

16. In support of his submissions, he has placed reliance upon Virudhunagar Hindu Nadargal Dharma Paribalana Sabai and others v. Tuticorin Educational Society and others : (2019) 9 SCC 538, so as to contend that High Court cannot/should not entertain Matter Under Article 227 in a case where remedies are provided under CPC and since no appeal was filed against the decree, finality attached to the execution proceedings renders the petition as not maintainable.

DISCUSSION, ANALYSIS AND FINDINGS

17. I have considered the submissions made and perused the material available on record.

(a) interim order passed in this petition

18. Initially, an ex-parte interim order was passed on 25.01.2022 inviting response from the respondents and staying eviction of the petitioners till the next date. The same reads as under:

> "Learned Standing Counsel has put in appearance on behalf of respondent nos. 1 and 2.
> Issue notice to the respondent no. 3.
> All the respondents may file their counter affidavit by the next date fixed.
> Put up this case as a fresh case on 02.03.2022.
> Till the next date fixed, the petitioners shall not be evicted from the property in dispute. "

(b) On Maintainability of petition:

19. At the first blush, the ratio laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Virudhunagar (supra), would be attracted against the petitioners as the decree and orders passed under different provisions of CPC were assailable within time under the provisions of CPC itself and the Hon'ble Supreme Court has observed that the courts should always bear in mind that availability of a remedy in terms of the provisions of CPC may have to be construed as a near total bar, otherwise, there is a danger that someone may challenge in a revision or under Article 227 even a decree passed in a suit. Therefore, wherever the proceedings are held under the Code of Civil Procedure, the forum is the Civil Court and availability of a remedy under CPC will deter the High Court, not merely as a measure of self imposed restriction, but as a matter of discipline.

20. However, the Court also deems it appropriate to refer judgment in Bal Krishna Agarwal v. State of U.P. : (1995) 1 SCC 614, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court turned down the decision of this Court whereby, after exchange of affidavits and after five years from filing of the writ petition, the High Court had non-suited the petitioner on account of availability of an alternative remedy. The Hon'ble Supreme Court allowed the writ petition on merits and issued appropriate directions. In Durga Enterprises (P) Ltd. v. Principal Secretary, Govt. of U.P. and others : (2004) 13 SCC 665, the Hon'ble Supreme Court, having found that this Court had entertained the writ petition 13 years ago in which pleadings were complete, observed that the High Court ought to have decided the case on merits instead of relegating the parties to civil remedies and, on the said short point, the order of this Court was set aside and the matter was relegated to this Court for early decision on merits.

21. This petition was filed 4 years ago in 2022 and the same was not only entertained but an interim order, though ex-parte, was also passed and despite the fact that the petition under Article 227 challenging an ex-parte decree of 1985 and consequential form under Order XXI Rule 54 CPC was not maintainable at first stage itself, in view of the judgments refered above and detailed execution proceedings held, this Court proceeds to examine the pleas raised by both sides.

(c) Enforcement of decree against legal representatives of the judgment debtors-

22. As far as legal position regarding status of legal representatives of judgment debtor is concerned, 'legal representative' as per Section 2(11) of CPC means a person who in law represents the estate of a deceased person, and includes any person who inter-meddles with the estate of the deceased. Further, Section 146 of CPC deals with proceedings against legal representatives of the original parties providing that where any proceedings may be taken or application made by or against any person, then the proceedings may be taken or the application may be made by or against any person claiming under him. Further, Section 50 CPC refers to a situation where judgment debtor dies before satisfaction of the decree and it provides that the holder of the decree may apply to the Court to execute the decree against the legal representative of the deceased.

23. Therefore, the submission made that decree could not be executed against the petitioners, who were not in picture when the suit was decreed ex-parte, does not have any force, hence discarded.

(d) On Merits and procedure:

24. There is no dispute about the fact that the petitioners' predecessor-in-interest, being defendant in the OS, appeared in the suit proceedings but did not file written statement. The suit proceeded ex-parte against him and was ultimately decreed on 01.01.1985 for recovery of money along with interest. Annexure No.3 to the petition indicates that execution application was initially filed in 1986, however, the same was dismissed for want of prosecution on 20.10.1986. Thereafter, the judgment debtor died on 26.10.1988 and the second execution application was filed on 10.08.1989 (which is not barred in law) against the legal representatives of the judgment debtor to whom notice was issued by order dated 20.09.1989 and, thereafter, further proceedings were held against the present petitioners.

25. In the execution proceedings, objections under Section 47 CPC were filed by the present petitioners. The submission made on behalf of the petitioners that the order sheet does not indicate disposal of objections under Section 47 CPC, cannot be accepted, as short reference of such disposal was indicated in the order dated 20.07.1993 recorded on the order sheet and a separate order running in four pages disposing of the objections was passed on the same day (Annexure CA-1 to the counter affidavit). Operative portion of the order dated 20.07.1993 reads as under:-

26. It is apparent from the order sheet that the petitioner No.2 moved an application on 04.12.1992 seeking to set aside auction proceedings and the objections filed under Section 47 were decided on 20.07.1993 on merits. The said order was never challenged probably for the reasons that the judgment debtors were satisfied with the nature of directions issued in that order, i.e., to proceed under Order XXI Rule 54 CPC. Further proceedings in the execution case were indeed held in furtherance of the order dated 20.07.1993 wherein directions for proceeding as per Order XXI Rule 54 CPC were issued and the citation/form dated 08.08.1993 impugned in the petition was also issued. The property was attached on 26.08.1993 vide Annexure No. 5 to the petition.

27. The order sheet reflects that on account of nobody appearing for making a bid, citation of auction was returned to the executing court on 26.09.1998. Thereafter, on 28.05.1999, auction was again conducted by the Court and the decree holder himself being the highest bidder, purchased the property which fact was noted in the order dated 13.08.1999 by which, auction was confirmed. Thereafter, sale certificate was issued and was registered in the year 1999, however, it appears that for one reason or the other, possession of the property was not delivered to the respondents and subsequently orders dated 02.09.2002 and 04.10.2002 were passed and after taking note of mutation entries made in favour of the auction purchasers/respondents and delivery of actual and physical possession of the property to them, the proceedings of execution case were closed in full satisfaction. The orders dated 02.09.2002 and 04.10.2002 are reproduced as under:-

(e) Decree holder himself being auction purchaser:

28. Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 contains comprehensive provisions regarding execution of a money decree, attachment of immovable property, passing of restraint order and all such questions can be decided as per the provisions itself. Reference can be made to Order XXI Rules 54 to 95 CPC, which need not be reproduced for the sake of brevity. As to whether a decree holder can purchase property in auction, Rule 72 of Order XXI CPC reads as under:-

"72. Decree holder not to bid for or buy property without permission. -(1) No holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold shall, without the express permission of the Court, bid for or purchase the property.

(2) Where decree-holder purchases, amount of decree may be taken as payment-Where a decree-holder purchases with such permission, the purchase-money and the amount due on the decree may, subject to the provisions of Section 73, be set off against one another, and the Court executing the decree small enter up satisfaction of the decree in whole or in part accordingly.

(3) Where a decree-holder purchases, by himself or through another person, without such permission, the Court may, if it thinks fit, on the application of the judgment-debtor or any other person whose interests are affected by the sale, by order set aside the sale; and the costs of such application and order, and any deficiency of price which may happen on the re-sale and all expenses attending it, shall be paid by the decree-holder.

High Court Amendments

[Allahabad].-In sub-rule (2) for the words "with such permission" read the words "the property sold" and re-number this sub-rule as "Rule 72" and delete sub-rules (1) and (3).-(24-7-1926)"

29. A bare perusal of Rule 72 of Order XXI makes it clear that the decree holder can bid for or purchase the property in execution of the decree, however, the same has to be with the express permission of the Court. The Court finds that objections 34-Ka were filed on behalf of the petitioners in the year 1992 itself to the effect that since the property had been purchased by the decree holder without permission of the Court, auction sale be set aside. The order dated 04.12.1992 passed by the executing court noted the said aspect as under:-

04.12.92	वाद पुकारा गया। पक्षकार हाजिर आये। 34 क कालू जे०डी० की ओर से प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत हुआ कि क्योंकि डी०एच० ने बिना न्यायालय की इजाजत के नीलाम की सम्पत्ति खरीदी हैं अतः नीलाम मंसूख किया जाये। डी०एच० एतराज प्रस्तुत करना चाहता है। दिनांक 1.1.93 को वास्ते एतराज व समान हेतु पेश हो। ह०अपठनीय

30. The executing court accepted the objections raised on behalf of the judgment debtors and, by order dated 05.02.1993, having found the sale in breach of Order XXI Rule 72 CPC, set aside the same. Then the matter was posted for consideration of objections under Section 47 CPC. The order dated 05.02.1993 reads as under:-

05.02.1993	वाद पुकारा गया। पक्षकार हाजिर आये। दोनो पक्षों को 34क प्रार्थना पत्र पर सुना। जे०डी० की ओर से प्रार्थना पत्र प्रस्तुत किया गया है कि क्योकि डी०एच० को बिना न्यायालय की इजाजत के सम्पत्ति क्रम की है। अतः नीलाम मंसूख किया जाये डी०एच० की ओर से माननीय उच्चतम न्यायालय द्वारा गनपत वचन द्वितीय अतिरिक्त जिला जज बलिया आल एल० जे० 1986 पेज 271 का हवाला दिया गया। उपरोक्त दृष्टान्त के आधार पर क्योकि डी०एच० द्वारा बिना न्यायालय की अनुपस्थित आदेश 21 नियम 72 में लिये नीलाम में सम्पति क्रय की है जो अवैधानिक है अतः अमीन द्वारा डी०एच० के हक में किया गया नीलाम मंसूख किया जाता है। पत्रावली धारा 47 सी०पी०सी० के एतराज के साथ दिनांक 12.3.93 को पेश हो। ह०अपठनीय

31. As far as the permission of Court to purchase property in auction is concerned, specific order was passed on 13.08.1999 indicating that permission was granted by the executing court. The order reads as under:-

33. In view of above discussion and record of execution proceedings, it cannot be said that sale was hit by any provision of law. All arguments questioning the validity of auction sale are, therefore, discarded. The Court is satisfied that due procedure of law was followed and, further, whatever objections the petitioners could take in execution proceedings, they did take and once the same were decided without any further challenge, necessary consequences were bound to follow and had rightly followed. As far as submissions that the plaint did not comply with the requirements of Order VII Rule 14 CPC or that the suit was wrongly decreed for one or the other reasons including the plea that the plaintiff was not a money lender, in the opinion of the Court, the decree drawn in 1985 having attained finality in view of no challenge laid to the same either by filing any statutory application or appeal, in a petition arising out of execution proceedings, direct or indirect challenge to the validity of the decree cannot be made.

34. It is well-settled that even executing court cannot go behind the decree and once the remedy available to the petitioners in terms of Section 47 CPC also stood exhausted in the year 1993 with no further challenge to the same, the validity of the decree cannot be reopened in a Matter U/A 227 of the Constitution of India after three (3)decades. In Vasudev Dhanjibhai Modi v. Rajabhai Abdul Rehman: (1970) 1 SCC 670, a three Judge Bench of the Hon′ble Supreme Court has held that Court executing a decree cannot go behind the decree: between the parties or their representatives it must take the decree according to its tenor, and cannot entertain any objection that the decree was incorrect in law or on facts. Until it is set aside by an appropriate proceeding in appeal or revision, a decree even if it be erroneous is still binding between the parties.

35. Judgment in the case of Om Sakthi Sekar (supra), as relied by learned counsel for the petitioners, so as to contend that when credible issues are raised regarding adequacy of valuation or fairness of process and leading to fixation of reserve price, supervisory jurisdiction of the Court may be invoked, is clearly distinguishable on facts. The controversy before the Hon′ble Supreme Court in that case had arisen from the proceedings held at Debts Recovery Tribunal (‘DRT′) and Debts Recovery Appellate Tribunal (‘DRAT′). In that case, auction was conducted by Recovery Officer in 2010 pursuant to order passed by the DRT in 2010; an appeal was filed before the DRAT in which an interim order was passed in 2010 itself, later on, after certain proceedings, the matter was remitted by the High Court to the DRAT in 2017 and, on remand, the DRAT further affirmed the order of DRT. The entire controversy was in relation to fixation of reserve price, auction held, irregularities therein, interim order and its effect and action in furtherance of order of remand. In the present case, no such controversy exists and the matter has simply arisen out of a decree drawn in 1985, which has throughout remained unchallenged for the last 40 years and execution proceedings closed in full satisfaction have already been found as lawful.

36. Alleged infirmities pointed out in the auction sale in the present case are not found to exist and, even otherwise, the same having been held as per the procedure prescribed in CPC and, whatever objections the petitioners could raise were raised under Section 47 CPC and once finality stands attached to the auction sale and delivery of possession as well as consequential mutation entries, invoking supervisory jurisdiction to set aside the decree drawn 40 years ago and all consequential proceedings under the garb of supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India would not at all be proper, otherwise it would make a mockery of civil proceedings and, under such circumstances, the ratio in Virudhunagar (supra), applies in full force against the petitioners.

37. Another judgment in the case of M/s Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. is on the point that alternative remedy is not an absolute bar in entertaining the writ petition under Article 226. The present petition has been filed under Article 227 and even if, the principle laid down in M/s Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. (supra) is applied, this Court would be required to examine the pleas raised and not to dismiss the petition remitting the matter back for availing alternate remedy. This Court has already examined the merits of the contentions raised in the light of record of proceedings and, therefore, the ratio laid down in the said judgment has been followed.

38. The judgment in the case of Pramod Shroff (supra) is also distinguishable on facts. In the said case, the Hon′ble Supreme Court had tested validity of judgment passed by High Court of Calcutta in a first appeal wherein the High Court had simply affirmed the trial court′s judgment although the judgment was not found satisfying the requirements of Section 2(9), Order XIV Rule 1 and Order XX Rule 4 CPC. It was held that even if written statement is not filed, requirement to frame points for determination remains and the Hon′ble Supreme Court, after setting aside the order of High Court and that of the trial court, remanded the matter to the trial court for fresh consideration.

39. The present case does not arise out of an appeal against decree and, as noted above, no appeal was ever filed against the decree drawn in 1985. The decree was put into execution and execution proceedings stood culminated after disposal of all objections raised by the judgment debtors. A belated challenge laid after more than 10,000 days in consequential proceedings and under garb of decree, which was finalized more than 13,500 days ago when the petitioners had knowledge and had also participated, would not at all be permissible and, therefore, the judgment cited is of no help to the petitioners.

40. The last judgment relied upon by the petitioners′ counsel in the case of Vindhayachal (supra), had arisen from a case where a recovery certificate was issued on default of refunding the amount of loan taken for purchase of tractor. Certain money was deposited by the borrower and, for outstanding dues, property was auctioned. There was a determination of market value of the property, auction was approved by the Collector and objections were filed under Rule 285(I) of Uttar Pradesh Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Rules, 1952. The same were rejected by the Commissioner against which order writ petition was filed. This Court, after dealing with the Rules, interfered with the matter and set aside the auction holding that the entire loan stood paid. The facts of the present case, being altogether different and arising out of proceedings of a civil suit, decree drawn therein and execution proceedings, the judgment is of no help to the petitioners.

(f) Allegations against the Court

41. The Court, with great pains, is constrained to deal with a piercing submission raised in written arguments that the petitioners were not granted time to file rejoinder affidavit and their counsel had to argue the matter. The tenor of the said statement raises a question on the dignity of this Court itself, therefore the Court deems it appropriate to deal with the said submission also.

42. The order sheet of the present petition reflects that over a number of years, the case was being continuously got adjourned either on the request of counsel for the petitioners or on her illness slip probably on account of an interim order passed therein and when it was going to be finally heard on 16.02.2026 as a mentioned matter, learned counsel for the petitioners, except denying the respondents plea qua possession, was not at all inclined to advance any arguments on merits and submitted that she would explain everything on the next date. Based upon the submissions made, it was understood between the three, i.e., counsel for the petitioners, counsel for the respondents and the Court that the matter shall not be adjourned on the next date and, with this understanding, the case was fixed peremptorily in top ten cases to be heard on 17.03.2026 with a clear indication that the same shall not be adjourned on the next date. The order dated 16.02.2026 is reproduced hereunder:-

"1. Supplementary affidavit filed by the petitioner is taken on record.

2. Vehement submissions have been made by learned Counsel for the respondent that this petition is not maintainable as, under the garb of challenging a parvana only issued on 08.08.1993 in execution proceedings, an ex parte decree passed in the year 1985 has also been challenged.

3. An interim order restraining eviction of the petitioners was passed in the year 2022 in this petition.

4. It is submitted that the said interim order has not been extended since the year 2022 and, in the meantime, the respondent, who is an auction purchaser, has already come in possession and relevant document is also in his favour. Therefore, the very cause pressed through the present petition does not survive.

5. Learned Counsel for the respondent further submits that though the supplementary affidavit is of the year 2025, the same has been served upon him today in Court to delay the proceedings.

6. The statement regarding possession has been denied by Ms. Usha Kiran, learned Counsel for the petitioner and she submits that she will explain the situation on the next date fixed and that possession of the property is with her client.

7. List in top ten cases peremptorily on 17.03.2026.

8. In the meantime, if the respondents so desire, counter affidavit may be filed.

9. The case shall not be adjourned on the next date. "

43. The matter could not be taken up on 17.03.2026 due to paucity of time and when it came up for disposal on 22.04.2026, the Court proceeded to hear the arguments, as per previous understanding. At this juncture, learned counsel for the petitioners adopted all means and ways to avoid hearing of the matter and started seeking time to file rejoinder affidavit, however also made submissions based upon the material that was available on record. It is to observe that counter affidavit was served upon counsel for the petitioners on 11.03.2026, much before which date on 16.02.2026, the order was already passed indicating that the matter shall not be adjourned on the next date. As to what prevented the petitioners or their counsel from filing rejoinder affidavit over a period of 40 days since after service of counter affidavit on them, is not understandable and it is thus clear that under the garb of seeking time to file rejoinder affidavit when 40 days time available to the petitioners for that purpose was not deliberately utilized by them, gives a clear picture that the attempt of the petitioners was only and only to somehow not allow the Court to hear and decide the matter on merits despite clear indications made earlier. Therefore, instead of putting a blame on the Court, the petitioners represented by their learned counsel should have introspected themselves and should not have taken Court proceedings for granted.

44. Even otherwise, it is observed that while counsel for both sides were heard at length on 22.04.2026, request made by counsel for the petitioners to file rejoinder affidavit was certainly accepted by the Court but in terms of granting her permission to file written submissions for saying whatever she wanted to say in the rejoinder, for which purpose she prayed three weeks time which was granted and the judgment was reserved. For a ready reference, order dated 22.04.2026 is reproduced as under:-

Heard Ms. Usha Kiran, learned Counsel for the petitioners, Sri. Sumit Daga, learned counsel for respondent nos. 4 to 8 and learned Standing Counsel on behalf of respondent nos. 1 and 2.After advancing arguments at length, Ms. Usha Kiran seeks time to file written submissions. She is granted three weeks' time to do so.

Judgment reserved.

45. Learned counsel filed written submissions within the fixed timeline and the pleas raised therein have been taken into consideration herein-above. The stand taken in written submissions has been treated as submissions in opposition to the stand taken in the counter affidavit and, thus, no prejudice is caused to the petitioners. It is, thus, clear that every attempt was made on behalf of the petitioners to keep the petition pending and the conduct of the petitioners′ side is found highly objectionable and is condemned.

CONCLUSION

(g) No interference:

46. In view of above discussion, it is found that the decree drawn in the year 1985 became final 37 years prior to filing of the petition and whatever objections the petitioners being legal representatives of judgment debtor could take in execution proceedings, they had taken but remained unsuccessful. There was no factual or legal impediment in auctioning the property in the course of execution of a money decree and no error is found in auction sale and closure of execution proceedings in full satisfaction of the decree in terms of mutation, delivery of actual possession, confirmation of sale and registration of sale certificate/sale deed. Hence, no interference is warranted in the orders impugned.

(h) Abuse of process:

47. It is also clear that submissions based upon absolutely false pleadings somehow persuaded this Court to pass ex-parte interim order to the effect that the petitioners shall not be evicted from the property in dispute although they were not in possession even on the date of passing of interim order. It is also found that when the interim order was passed in the year 2022, incomplete copy of order sheet only upto 17.08.1992 was annexed along with the petition. Supplementary affidavit annexing further order sheet of the execution proceedings upto 04.12.2002 was brought on record very recently only on 16.02.2026, which fact was indicated in the order passed on that date, as already reproduced hereinabove.

48. The petitioners have taken somersault insofar as knowledge of the proceedings culminating into auction sale is concerned. Whereas in the petition it is stated that, for the first time, they came to know about proceedings on 20.11.2012, in the written submissions they have taken a contrary stand that they acquired knowledge in 2021 and have also taken aid of certain objections filed by them during the course of proceedings and result thereof. The Court is of the firm opinion that the petitioners selectively chose documents for filing and raised absolute false and misleading pleas to obtain interim order from this Court and succeeded in their nefarious design and by misleading this Court at the first instance as if they were unaware of everything. They succeeded to obtain an interim order restraining their eviction from the property although possession was already delivered to the decree holder/his legal representatives and their names were also mutated in the revenue records.

(i) Cost:

49. The petition, as initially filed, was not only barred by laches of 10274 days, as reported, but was also not maintainable and filing of the petition was gross abuse and misuse of the process of law and even when the merits of the case have been dealt with by this Court, the petition deserves dismissal with costs. The cost could be exemplary and huge for falsehood and conduct of the petitioners but considering the segment they belong to, as reflected from the record, the Court is not inclined to impose heavy cost; however, the manner in which the proceedings have been conducted throughout, the Court deems it appropriate to impose cost of Rs 2/- (two) on the petitioners so as to convey them worth of their objections and conduct in the eyes of this Court.

50. The petition is, accordingly, DISMISSED with cost of Rs. 2/- (two).

51. The petitioners are directed to deposit cost in the form of cash/coin before the Registrar General of this Court by 07.07.2026 failing which the Registrar General shall send a copy of this order to the District Magistrate, Saharanpur, who shall ensure that the amount of cost is recovered from the petitioners as arrears of land revenue by adopting all measures including coercive measures, positively by the end of July, 2026.

52. Registrar (Compliance) shall submit a compliance report as regards deposit/realization/payment of cost, as directed hereinabove, on or before 12.08.2026.

(j). Possession:

53. Since, despite culmination of proceedings in favour of the respondents decades ago, assertions have been made on behalf of the petitioners before this Court that actual and physical possession of the property still lies with them, though such plea has been denied by the respondents and otherwise found untenable, it is hereby provided that the administration shall ensure no hindrance in securing and protecting actual and physical possession of the contesting respondents over the property in dispute.

54. To record compliance of this order, the case shall be listed before appropriate bench as a 'decided matter' on 12.08.2026 under the caption: FOR COMPLIANCE REPORT FOR PERUSAL OF THE COURT.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 5746 of 2026

Dr. Ashish Shakya ...Petitioner
Versus
C.B.I. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the remand order dated 16.4.2026 extending judicial custody of petitioner from 16.4.2026 to 30.4.2026 is bad in the eyes of law as the judicial remand of petitioner has been extended without appearance of petitioner-accused, either personally or through video-conference

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 22(2) & 227; The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023- Section 187(4)- Lex non cogit ad impossibilia gausa ommiss gausa ommiss (that a statute does not envisage doing anything which is impossible to be done)

Non-production of accused before court concerned on date of passing of impugned order dated 16.4.2026 is non-availability of police force on account of prevailing law and order situation- The court concerned has also reported that communication with regard to non-availability of the police force was received by District Judge, Ghaziabad from the police authorities- That in respect of appearance of the accused-petitioner through video conference is concerned, stand of respondents as well as the report of court concerned would indicate that due to technical error connection with the jail authorities through video and audio could not be made.

Held- Once counsel for petitioner-accused was present before court concerned and have already opposed extension of remand as has been recorded in the impugned order, then it is imperative to show that prejudice is caused to the petitioner-accused or there is infringement of any right of petitioner-accused- No such prejudice to the accused-petitioner has been shown by the petitioner except that Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 has been violated- The violation is excusable in terms of Doctrine of Impossibility and as such may not vitiate remand extension order. Petition dismissed. Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Ashvani Tripathi
Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A., Rahul Srivastava

(Delivered by Hon'ble Vikram D. Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Sri Nitesh Rana, Advocate assisted by Ms. Zainab Khan and Sri Ashvani Tripathi, learned counsels for petitioner, Sri Rahul Srivastava, learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation and Sri Om Prakash Dwivedi, learned A.G.A. for State.

2. The present petition under Article 227 of Constitution is preferred challenging the remand order dated 16.4.2026 passed by Special Judge, Anti Corruption, C.B.I., Ghaziabad in First Information Report dated 15.3.2026 (bearing number RC2182026A0005), under Section 61(2) of B.N.S, 2023 read with Sections 7, 8, 9, 10 & 12 of Prevention of Corruption Act, 1988, Police Station C.B.I., AC-III, New Delhi.

3. The petitioner was arrested on 15.3.2026 from the Conference Room of Felix Hospital, Sector-137, Noida (U.P.) in respect of abovementioned offence. The Central Bureau of Investigation thereafter produced the petitioner before trial court on 16.3.2026 seeking police custody of petitioner. The court concerned by order dated 16.3.2026 granted police custody of petitioner for four days from 16.3.2026 to 19.3.2026. Thereafter, Central Bureau of Investigation further submitted an application for remand of petitioner to judicial custody, which was granted from 19.3.2026 to 2.4.2026 and thereafter judicial custody was further extended till 16.4.2026. It is alleged that on 16.4.2026, petitioner was not produced before court concerned neither physically or through video conference. However, court concerned by impugned order dated 16.4.2026 has extended judicial custody of petitioner from 16.4.2026 to 30.4.2026.

4. A perusal of aforementioned order dated 16.4.2026 passed by court concerned would go to show that aforesaid court has recorded specific finding that petitioner is not presented before the court concerned from jail.

5. It is submitted by learned counsel for petitioner that by impugned order dated 16.4.2026, judicial remand of petitioner has been extended without appearance of petitioner-accused, either personally or through video-conference. Learned counsel for petitioner further submits that as per Section 187(4) of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 it was mandatory for respondents to have produced petitioner before court concerned at the time of extension of remand on 16.4.2026. Learned counsel for petitioner has referred judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jigar Alias Jimmy Pravinchandra Adatiya Vs. State of Gujarat, (2023) 6 SCC 484 and submits that production of accused before court concerned at the time of extension of judicial custody is mandatory. It is further submitted that accused has right to oppose the remand and impugned order is in violation of Section 187(4) of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023. It is further submitted that statutory compliances are not empty formality and any deviation from express procedural mandates cannot be condoned under the pretext of subsequent validation. It is submitted that impugned order does not specify reason as to why accused-petitioner was not produced before court concerned at the time of passing of impugned order of extension of judicial custody. He further submits that subsequent order dated 30.4.2026 of court concerned explaining non-presence of petitioner-accused, after filing of present petition is of no consequence. It is further submitted that order impugned has been passed in a mechanical manner.

6. Learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation has opposed the petition and submits that petitioner-accused was arrested on 15.3.2026 in respect of above-mentioned offence and was produced before court concerned at Ghaziabad on 16.3.2026 and an application was filed seeking the petitioner's police custody/remand for five days. The court concerned by order dated 16.3.2026 was pleased to grant police custody of both accused for four days up to 19.3.2026. Further, the court concerned by order dated 19.3.2026 was further pleased to grant judicial custody of 14 days of petitioner up to 2.4.2026. It is further submitted that on 2.4.2026 the court concerned was further pleased to extend the remand of petitioner-accused to judicial custody till 16.4.2026. On 16.4.2026 the court concerned has further extended judicial custody of petitioner-accused till 30.4.2026. It is further submitted that counsel for petitioner-accused was present before court concerned when impugned order of extension of judicial custody was passed and as such there was sufficient opportunity to petitioner to oppose the extension of judicial custody before the court concerned on 16.4.2026. It is further submitted that jail authorities have duly informed court concerned regarding their inability to produce accused person on 16.4.2026 physically due to law and order situation and sought exemption for physical production. It is further submitted that court officials have also tried to secure the appearance/production of accused-petitioner through audio-video conferencing, however, due to technical error, appearance/production of accused-petitioner could not be secured. It is further submitted by learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation that judgement of

Supreme Court in Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) is not applicable in the facts and circumstances of present case. It is submitted that basis of aforesaid judgment is that accused may have opportunity to object to judicial custody or its extension and in the present case, counsel for accused-petitioner was present before the court concerned on 16.4.2026 and therefore no prejudice has been caused to petitioner. It is further submitted that on account of circumstances beyond control of authorities, petitioner-accused could not be produced before the court concerned. Learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation further submits that on account of impossibility of production of petitioner-accused before court concerned, impugned order of remand cannot be vitiated. In this reference, learned counsel for Central Bureau of Investigation has relied upon the judgments in Gouri Shankar Jha Vs. The State of Bihar and Ors., AIR 1972 SC 711, Sandip Kumar Dey Vs. The Officer-in-charge, Sakchi P.S., Jamshedpur and Ors., AIR 1974 SC 871, Ramesh Kumar Ravi Alias Ram Prasad And Vs. State of Bihar And Ors. Etc., 1987 CrLJ 1489 (Patna) (Full Bench), Kurra Dasaratha Ramaiah and Ors. Vs. State of Andhra Pradesh, 1992 CrLJ 3485 (AP-FB) and Suraj Chokhani Vs. Directorate of Enforcement, 2024 CGHC 39410.

7. Sri O.P. Dwivedi, learned A.G.A. for State submits that due to prevailing law and order situation in Commissionerate, Ghaziabad on 16.4.2026, information regarding non-availability of police force for Sadar lockup and command duty for prisoners lodged in District-Jail was sent to learned District Judge/learned Chief Judicial Magistrate/District Magistrate, Ghaziabad/Police Commissioner, Ghaziabad and Jail Superintendent, Ghaziabad. It is further submitted that on account of protest of factory workers in Sector 62, Gautam Budh Nagar, a large number of police personnels from reserved police line were deployed in Quick Response Team and Escorts. It is submitted that on account of prevailing law and order situation it was not possible to present the prisoners detained in District Jail, District Ghaziabad before learned court in full security. In this respect, learned A.G.A. for the State has relied upon letter dated 16.4.2026 sent to District Judge, Ghaziabad, annexed at page no. 14 of the counter affidavit, which contains endorsement of District Judge as 'Seen and Circulate'. It is submitted that on account of the prevailing law and order situation no accused could be produced before the learned court on the aforesaid date.

8. The issue in present case pertains to non-production of accused before court concerned at the time of extension of judicial custody. Article 21 of Constitution provides fundamental right of life and personal liberty. The aforesaid Article provides that no person shall be deprived of his life and liberty except according to procedure established by law. The aforesaid provision is an essential provision guaranteeing against arbitrary deprivation of liberty of an individual. The Constitution provides safeguards to a person who has been arrested under Article 22 of Constitution. The aforesaid Article provides that person arrested or detained in custody shall be informed of grounds of arrest and right to consult legal practitioner. Further, Article 22(2) of Constitution provides that person who is arrested or detained in custody shall be produced before nearest Magistrate within a period of 24 hours of such arrest excluding the time necessary for journey from place of occurrence to the court of Magistrate and no such person shall be detained in custody beyond said period without authority of Magistrate. Article 22(2) of Constitution envisage that arrested person is produced before the Magistrate within 24 hours and further such accused person shall be detained in custody beyond 24 hours only with authority of Magistrate. The primary objective of Article 22(2) of Constitution of India is to protect personal liberty of individuals by preventing arbitrary detention. By requiring production before a Magistrate, said provision ensures that detention is reviewed by a judicial authority, thereby acting as a check and balance on the powers of police.

9. The Constitution therefore provides that police or executive can arrest an individual up to twenty-four hours without authority of Magistrate and thereafter said person is to be produced before a Magistrate and custody of individual beyond twenty-four hours would vest only with authority of Magistrate. The aforesaid safeguard has been made integral part of fundamental right under the Constitution. In view of aforesaid, the two safeguards provided under Article 22(2) of Constitution of India are as follows:-

a) The arrested person be produced before Magistrate within twenty-four hours.

b) The custody of individual beyond twenty-four hours would be permissible only with authority of Magistrate.

10. The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (hereinafter for brevity referred as "BNSS, 2023") provides for power of arrest by police. Under Section 35 of BNSS, 2023, police are authorised to arrest without warrant in respect of a person who has committed cognizable offence. However, in respect of non-cognizable offence, police are only authorized to arrest with warrant or order of Magistrate in terms of Section 35 (2) of BNSS, 2023.

11. Further, Section 187(1) of BNSS, 2023 provides that whenever any person is arrested and detained in custody, and it appears that investigation cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours and there are grounds for believing that accusation or information is well-founded, the officer in charge of police station or police officer making investigation, if he is not below the rank of sub-inspector, shall forthwith transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter specified relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate.

12. The object of producing accused before Magistrate for the purpose of remand is to enable the Magistrate to find out whether remand is necessary. The said provision curtails police overreach, enables Magistrates to assess legality of arrest, and facilitates decisions on bail or remand, upholding due process of law. The said provision further provides an opportunity to accused to raise objection to arrest and remand.

13. Further, Section 187 (1) of BNSS, 2023 is related to Article 22(2) of Constitution requiring arrested person to be produced before Magistrate within a period of twenty-four hours of such arrest. The arrest by police therefore mandatory requires [in view of Article 22(2) of Constitution as well as Section 187(1) of BNSS, 2023] that accused is produced before Magistrate within twenty-four hours. In this respect, Section 187 (1) of BNSS, 2023 is quoted herein below:-

"187. Procedure when investigation cannot be completed in twenty-four hours.-(1) Whenever any person is arrested and detained in custody, and it appears that the investigation cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 58, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation or information is well-founded, the officer in charge of* the police station or the police officer making the investigation, if he is not below the rank of sub-inspector, shall forthwith transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter specified relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate.″

14. Once accused is arrested and produced before the Magistrate in compliance of Article 22 (2) of Constitution read with Section 187 (1) of BNSS, 2023, Magistrate may authorise, from time to time, detention of accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days in the whole in terms of Section 187(2) of BNSS, 2023.

15. Under Section 187(3) of BNSS, 2023, Magistrate may authorize detention of accused person, beyond period of fifteen days, if he is satisfied that adequate grounds exist for doing so, but no Magistrate shall authorise detention of accused person in custody under this sub-section for a total period exceeding-

(i) ninety days, where the investigation relates to an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of ten years or more;

(ii) sixty days, where the investigation relates to any other offence, and, on the expiry of the said period of ninety days, or sixty days, as the case may be, the accused person shall be released on bail if he is prepared to and does furnish bail, and every person released on bail under this sub-section shall be deemed to be so released under the provisions of Chapter XXXV for the purposes of that Chapter.

16. It is to be noted that Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 further provides that no Magistrate shall authorise detention of accused in custody of police under this section unless accused is produced before him in person for first time and subsequently every time till accused remains in the custody of police, but the Magistrate may extend further detention in judicial custody on production of accused either in person or through audio-video electronic means. A perusal of said provision would show that insofar as police custody is concerned, provision employs negative language creating a protective bar against arbitrary arrest or detention by police. However, insofar as judicial custody of accused is concerned, the language under Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 is in nature of empowering Magistrate to extend judicial custody of accused on production in person or through the audio-video electronic means.

17. In respect of provisions of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, by Act No. 5 of 2009, the proviso (b) to Section 167(2) of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 was inserted and the same is quoted hereinbelow:-

"(b) No Magistrate shall authorise detention of the accused in custody of the police under this section unless the accused is produced before him in person for the first time and subsequently every time till the accused remains in the custody of the police, but the Magistrate may extend further detention in judicial custody on production of the accused either in person or through the medium of electronic video linkage;″

18. Prior to above-mentioned amendment in Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, the provision of Section 167(2)(b) stood as under:-

"(b) no Magistrate shall authorise detention in any custody under this section unless the accused is produced before him."

19. A perusal of unamended provision (prior to Act No. 5 of 2009) it was mandate that Magistrate could not authorise detention in any custody unless the accused is produced before the Magistrate. The provision of Section 167(2)(b) of Criminal Procedure Code, 1973 stood amended and the negative language (as existed prior to amendment) continued in respect of first time production of accused as well as extension of custody of police. However, in respect of judicial custody the negative language of extension, stood changed to positive power of Magistrate to grant extension of judicial remand on production of accused either in person or through the medium of electronic video linkage. The aforesaid amended provision stood extended in subsequent legislation under Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023.

20. Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 provides for production of accused before Magistrate at the first time after arrest and for extending further custody of police and for extending judicial custody. The custody of an accused after arrest may either be police custody or judicial custody. Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 is quoted hereinbelow:-

"(4) No Magistrate shall authorise detention of the accused in custody of the police under this section unless the accused is produced before him in person for the first time and subsequently every time till the accused remains in the custody of the police, but the Magistrate may extend further detention in judicial custody on production of the accused either in person or through the audio-video electronic means."

21. The provision of Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 envisages three eventualities in respect of custody of accused which are as follows:-

a) When the accused is produced before the Magistrate for the first time after arrest.

b) When the accused is produced for further or extension of police custody.

c) When the accused is produced for further or extension of judicial custody.

22. In respect of eventuality where accused is produced before the Magistrate for first time after arrest, Section 187 (4) of BNSS, 2023 is couched in negative term that no Magistrate shall authorise detention of accused in custody of police under this section unless the accused is produced before him in person for the first time. The said section mandatorily provides for presence of accused before the Magistrate for first time after arrest. The aforesaid is also in consonance with mandate of Article 22(2) of Constitution.

23. Where police custody of accused is required to be extended (after accused is already produced after arrest before Magistrate and police custody is granted), in this respect, Section

187(4) of BNSS, 2023 mandatorily provides for presence of accused before the Magistrate. The presence of the accused before the Magistrate is mandatorily required in respect where the accused is in police custody and extension of police custody is required. In this respect, aforesaid provision is couched in negative terms that no Magistrate shall authorise detention of accused in custody of police under this section unless accused is produced before Magistrate in person.

24. Where the judicial custody of accused is to be extended, Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 states that Magistrate may extend further detention in judicial custody on production of the accused either in person or through the audio-video electronic means. The provision is in respect of enabling terms or positive term providing the procedure for exercise of power.

25. The purpose of remand order by Magistrate is to prevent arbitrary detention. The purpose of an order of Magistrate to authorise detention is further desired as accused should be produced before Magistrate so that he may, if he so chooses, make a representation against his remand and for his release on bail. Further, presence of accused is also desirable so that Magistrate can ascertain the fact that accused is in custody and custody is in accordance with law.

26. Where accused is not produced before Magistrate concerned at the time of extension of judicial custody, the reasons for non-production of accused before Magistrate concerned, may have an important bearing on the question whether remand order would be vitiated on non-production of accused.

27. Learned counsel for petitioner has relied upon judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) with regard to nature of mandate for production of accused before the court concerned at the time of remand of accused. In this respect, paragraph no. 41 of Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) is quoted herein below.

"41. Clause (b) of sub-section (2) of Section 167CrPC lays down that no Magistrate shall authorise the detention of the accused in the custody of the police unless the accused is produced before him in person. It also provides that judicial custody can be extended on the production of the accused either in person or through the medium of electronic video linkage. Thus, the requirement of the law is that while extending the remand to judicial custody, the presence of the accused has to be procured either physically or virtually. This is the mandatory requirement of law. This requirement is sine qua non for the exercise of the power to extend the judicial custody remand. The reason is that the accused has a right to oppose the prayer for the extension of the remand."

28. The production of accused before court concerned is a statutory requirement under Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023. The respondent-State has taken a stand that due to prevailing law and order situation on 16.4.2026, information regarding non-availability of police force was sent to the District Judge/Chief Judicial Magistrate/District Magistrate, Ghaziabad/Police Commissioner, Ghaziabad and Jail Superintendent, Ghaziabad. The respondent-State has submitted that on account of protest of factory workers in Sector 62, Gautam Buddh Nagar a large number of police personnels from the reserve police line were deployed in Quick Response Team and Escorts. On account of prevailing law and order situation it was not possible to present prisoners detained in District Jail, District Ghaziabad before the court in full security.

29. Further, respondent-CBI has also taken a stand that inability to produce the accused before the court concerned physically due to law and order situation which was duly informed by the State to the learned District Judge. Respondent-CBI has also stated that appearance of accused through audio-video conference could not be made due to technical error at the end of court concerned.

30. Further, this Court by order dated 6.5.2026, called for report from court concerned with regard to non-appearance of petitioner-accused before the court concerned through video conference. The court concerned in compliance of above-mentioned order dated 6.5.2026 has submitted a report before this Court through the Registry reporting that on 16.4.2026 the Court of Special Judge, Anti Corruption, C.B.I, Court No. 1, Ghaziabad fell vacant due to transfer of the presiding officers. The petitioner-accused was to be brought before the court for judicial remand under the direction of the Court but on 16.4.2026 due to letter from D.C.P. Lines, Commissionerate, Ghaziabad that police force cannot be provided and due to lack of police force attempts were made to connect jail through video conference but unfortunately due to technical glitches, the VC connection to jail could not be established.

31. The respondents therefore has taken stand that due to non-availability of police force and prevailing law and order situation, where reserve police were assigned quick reaction duties and fact that video conference system of court could not be connected to the Jail for appearing through audio video means, respondents have taken a stand that on account of these unforeseen circumstances, it was not possible to produce accused-petitioner before court concerned and therefore non-production of accused by itself would not vitiate impugned order of remand to judicial custody.

32. It is true that the legislative mandate under Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 requires that accused will be produced before court concerned at the time of extension of judicial custody through personal appearance or audio-video means. The law does not contemplate all eventualities is a foundational legal recognition, acknowledging the inherent limitations of legislative foresight. No system of rules can accurately anticipate future contingency. Courts rely on principle of interpretation, judicial discretion, doctrines and legal maxims to address impossibility or unforeseen circumstances. Legislation is prepared based on known facts and anticipated possibilities but dynamic nature of events may result in that law shortfall of covering every unique set of circumstances.

33. Legal maxims such as Lex non cogit ad impossibilia the law does not compel the doing of impossibilities, recognize that where strict compliance becomes factually or legally impossible, the law provides a measure of excuse rather than rigid adherence. Courts and legal framework use interpretation as a tool to apply the law to new facts, ensuring that the spirit of legislation remains relevant despite the absence of explicit statutory language for every eventuality. In Binani Zinc Limited Vs. Kerala State Electricity Board and others, (2009) 11 SCC 244, Hon′ble Supreme Court in paragraph no. 35 has observed that it is also a well-settled principle of law that a statute does not envisage doing anything which is impossible to be done. Lex non cogit ad impossibilia gausa ommiss gausa ommiss is a well-known principle.

34. Therefore, when law imposes a duty, it will not insist on performance if compliance has become objectively impossible rather than merely difficulty or inconvenience. Impossibility here may be physical (for example, destruction of subject matter), legal (a subsequent change in law making performance unlawful), or factual to such a degree that a reasonable person in the same situation could not perform the obligation. The burden to show that impossibility arose, is on the person who seeks benefit of said legal maxim.

35. The law does not require an impossibility, for instance the accused cannot be produced before Magistrate if he is seriously ill and not in a position to be produced before Magistrate or where accused is required to be produced before two courts at the same time at different places or where curfew is imposed and accused person cannot be produced without infraction of law or where the accused refuse to go to the court. There may be other instances where the accused cannot be produced for reasonable cause.

36. In Raj Narain Vs. Superintendent, Central Jail, New Delhi, AIR 1971 SC 178 a Constitutional Bench of Seven Judges of Hon′ble Supreme Court by majority held that law does not contemplate an impossibility and as such non production of accused in the event of impossibility will not vitiate the remand order. In this respect, paragraph no. 8 of the said judgment is quoted hereunder:-

"8 ....To expect the Magistrate to do more under Sec. 344 of the Code in such circumstances is to expect an impossibility from him and the law does not contemplate an impossibility. Indeed, similarly courts trying cases may find it necessary to order a remand in the absence of an accused, e. g. when an accused is so seriously ill that the trial has to be adjourned and he cannot be brought to court and in such case the order made without production of accused in court will not be invalid.″

37. In Gouri Shankar Jha (supra), Hon′ble Supreme Court while referring to Raj Narain (supra) has held that where in the circumstances it is not possible to produce accused before Magistrate, order of remand will not be vitiated. In this respect, paragraph no. 7 of Gouri Shankar Jha (supra) is quoted hereinbelow: -

"7. The report, which was before the High Court, clearly pointed out that the appellant was remanded to jail custody, on February 21, 1968 by the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Sadar in the case under Section 395 of the Penal Code. The next date for his appearance was fixed on March 5, 1968, but the appellant refused to go to the Magistrate's Court on that day as also on March 20, 1968 and April 4, 1968, on the ground that the identification parade for him had not yet been held and his going to and appearing in the Court would expose him to possible witnesses. The Magistrate, therefore, had to postpone his production before him to April 18, 1968 when the appellant was produced and once again remanded to jail custody till the next date, that is, May 2, 1968. The report of the jail Superintendent, thus, frankly conceded mat that the appellant could not be produced on the dates above, stated and that the Magistrate, therefore, had to pass remand orders in his absence. It is clear from the report that the appellant himself had refused to appear and be present before the Magistrate when he heard the remand applications. He, therefore, cannot legitimately make a grievance that those orders were passed in his absence. Those orders could be passed validly in his absence if his presence at the time could not be secured. This has been held by the majority judgment of this court recently in Raj Narain v. Superintendent, Central Jail, New Delhi. Writ Petition No. 330 of 1970, dec. on September 1, 1970.″

38. In Sandip Kumar Dey (supra) the Hon′ble Supreme Court has held that non-production of accused will not vitiate an order of remand, the Magistrate passing an order of remand ought, as far as possible, to see that the accused is produced in the court when the order of remand is passed. In this respect, paragraph no. 4 of said judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"4. The counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondents is not clear on the question whether the petitioner was produced before the Magistrate when the various orders of remand were passed and therefore we asked the respondents' counsel to furnish to us a copy of the proceedings of the Magistrate's court at Jamshedpur. Those proceedings also do not indicate clearly whether the petitioner was produced before the Magistrate when the remand orders were passed. This is a highly unsatisfactory state of affairs and must be deprecated. Orders of remand ought not to be passed mechanically and even though this Court has ruled that the non-production of the accused will not vitiate an order of remand, the Magistrate passing an order of remand ought, as far as possible, to see that the accused is produced in the court when the order of remand is passed. It appears from the proceedings that the accused was transferred to Gaya jail partly for reasons of security and that is why he could not be produced in the Jamshedpur court which passed the various orders of remand.″

39. In Ramesh Kumar Ravi (supra), the Full Bench of Hon′ble Patna High Court has held that if it is impossible to produce the accused, the non-production of accused will not invalidate the remand order. In this respect, paragraph nos.14, 17 and 19 of the aforesaid judgment is quoted hereinbelow:-

"14. However, whilst holding so one cannot possibly go to the other extreme and accept the doctrinaire stand that the absence of the physical production of an accused person would vitiate the order of remand incurably. If it is physically impossible to produce the accused in person then his mere non-production would not render his remand to further custody illegal. The wholesome provisions of the Code requiring physical production have to be viewed reasonably and not to an impossibly logical extreme. One example which inevitably comes to one's mind is where the accused person himself may be not in a position to be produced before the Magistrate-he may be mortally injured or grievously ill and lying in hospital. The law would not and cannot possibly require that he must nevertheless be produced in person before the Magistrate even to his detriment and danger to his very life. Cases are not lacking where an accused person charged with many offences may have to be produced on a particular date in two different courts at two different places. It is obvious that by no magic can he be physically produced at both the places at the same time. There may be many other factors which may hinder or even bar the actual physical production of the accused. In the somewhat turbulent times through which we are passing a patent one is where a curfew is imposed and the accused person cannot possibly be carried to the venue of the Magistrate's Court without infracting the law Examples of this nature can be multiplied ad infinitum and it is somewhat unnecessary to labour the obvious.

17. It is true that the aforesaid binding decisions of their Lordships were rendered under the old Code and the provisions of the present Section 167 are not in pari materia with Section 167 of the old Code. However, this, to my mind is a distinction without any difference. The core of the rationale of the judgments aforesaid is that the law does not contemplate an impossibility and it is vain to expect the impossible from the police or the prosecution by producing the accused in person if the circumstances for his non-production are beyond their control. That logic and reasoning, to my mind, is equally applicable and attracted to the provisions of Section 167 of the present Code. Equally it has to be borne in mind that some, if not all, of the aforesaid judgments were rendered under Section 344 of the old Code which corresponds to Section 309 of the present one. Therein no significant change, has been made with regard to this issue in the law. I am, therefore, of the view that the judgments of the Supreme Court rendered under the old Code on this point continue to be applicable mutatis mutandis under the present Code as well and the attempt to distinguish them is vain and untenable. It must also be recalled that within this jurisdiction the Division Bench in 1986 Pat LJR 854, (Mishri Singh v. The State of Bihar) had already taken the same view. It is true that the specific point regarding the provisions of the old Code was not raised and considered but the ratio of the said judgment was applied in the context of the new Code and the same is hereby affirmed.

19. To finally concludeon this aspect the answer under question No. (ii) is rendered in the negative. It is held that though physical production of the accused before the Magistrate is desirable, yet the failure to do so would not per se vitiate the order of remand if the circumstances for non-production were beyond the control of the prosecution or the police.″

40. It is further to be noted that law does not contemplate default bail or release of accused in the event of non-production of accused before the court concerned (as is the case under Section 187(3) of BNSS, 2023) at the time of extension of judicial custody. The question of validity of remand (to judicial custody) of accused by court concerned without production of accused is to be examined in facts and circumstances of each case in the light of impossibility.

41. In Kurra Dasaratha Ramaiah (supra), the Full Bench of Andhra Pradesh High Court has examined the question whether non availability of police escort constitutes a valid ground for extending the period of remand of an accused person by a Magistrate. The learned Full Bench of Andhra Pradesh High Court has observed and held as under:-

"16. The change brought about in the new Code by the incorporation of Proviso (b) to S. 167 obligating that no Magistrate shall authorise detention in any custody under S. 167 unless the accused is produced before him, in our view, does not automatically empower the Magistrate to release the accused in bail. Despite the mandatory language in which S. 167 is couched, the Section does not direct the Magistrate to release the accused with or without conditions, unlike the mandate contained in Proviso (a) under which the failure of the police to complete the investigation within sixty days or ninety days, as the case may be, imposes an obligation on the Magistrate to release the accused on bail if the accused is, "prepared to and does not furnish bail," with a consequential declaration that such release shall be deemed to be a release under the provisions of Chapter XXXIII for the purposes of that Chapter.

17. The absence of a mandatory requirement obligating the Magistrate to release the accused for non-compliance of S. 167 cannot be overlooked. If an enactment imposes conditions which are to be construed as conditions precedent for the exercise of power, if compliance with these conditions is impossible, the enactment has to be construed as dispensing with compliance with such conditions. (see Maxwell on Interpretation of Statutes XII Edition, p. 326). The negative languageemployed in S. 167 coupled with the absence of conferral of a right on the accused to seek release for non-compliance with the condition, will not in all circumstances invalidate the order passed by the Magistrate in breach of S. 167.

22. We agree with the view of the Division Bench in Dharman case 1991 (1) Andh LT 315 (supra) to the extent it held :

"……. It is always open to either the prosecuting agency or the jail authority to put forward a plea of impossibility of production of an accused person before the learned Magistrate and if the learned Magistrate is satisfied that the plea is well founded, he may, for special reasons to be recorded in writing, extend the remand or the accused person even without his production. (p. 333)

With great respect to the learned judges, we express our inability, for the reasons already stated, to agree with the view that:
Non-availability of escorts for non-production of the accused person hardly constitutes a ground for infraction of the mandatory requirement of section 167 of the Code of Criminal Procedure". (p 333)

Our disagreement does not mean, as we have already explained, that the prosecution can always take the plea of nonavailability of escort for non production of the accused and the Magistrate is bound to accept that plea and pass an order extending the period of remand. The Magistrate must be satisfied that as a fact escort personnel were not available and so could not be provided for reasons beyond the control of the police or jail authorities. There may be cases where it may not be possible for the police or jail authorities to spare escort personnel for production of the accused; grave law and order situations necessitating diversion of the entire police force for that purpose are not uncommon contemporary phenomena. Natural disasters may some times compel the Government or District Administration to divert the police force to render help to the victims or to engage in salvaging operations. Communal riots, group clashes and intercaste feuds threatening the even tempo of the society are no longer rare occurences. It is not possible to enumerate instances or causes resulting in non-availability of escort personnel for production of the accused before a Magistrate under S 167. Therefore non-availability of police escort is a valid ground for non-production of the accused before the Magistrate for extending remand under S 167, CrPC, provided there are justifiable causes for such non-availability of escort.

23. Whenever it is not possible to produce an accused before the Magistrate, the concerned Investigating Officer or any other responsible Police Officer in charge of the case or the jail Superintendent shall file a detailed report before the Magistrate explaining the circumstances under which it was not possible to produce the accused on that particular day. If the Magistrate is satisfied after going through the report, he may dispense with the production of the accused and pass appropriate orders under S 167, CrPC, as to the detention of the accused. The Magistrate should not pass an order in this regard mechanically in a routine manner: the order should be a well considered reasoned one. If the Magistrate has reason to believe that the report filed as to the non-availability of the police escort contains incorrect facts, he shall initiate action in accordance with law against the officer who filed the report."

42. The reason assigned by the respondents for non-production of accused before court concerned on date of passing of impugned order dated 16.4.2026 is non-availability of police force on account of prevailing law and order situation. Further, court concerned has also reported that communication with regard to non-availability of the police force was received by District Judge, Ghaziabad from the police authorities. It is further to be noted that in respect of appearance of the accused-petitioner through video conference is concerned, stand of respondents as well as the report of court concerned would indicate that due to technical error connection with the jail authorities through video and audio could not be made. The aforesaid reasons have been stated in the counter affidavit and in the report of court concerned. The report of court concerned was read-over by learned counsel for petitioner with permission of this Court at the time of hearing. Learned counsel for petitioner has not factually disputed the reasons assigned by respondents and report of court concerned. The submission of learned counsel for petitioner-accused is to the effect that since production of accused before court concerned is mandatory in view of law laid down by Hon'ble Supreme Court in Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) and as such impugned order of extension of remand of petitioner-accused stands vitiated and as such petitioner is entitled to be released under law.

43. The law of impossibility is rooted in justice, encircled by maxims "lex non cogit ad impossibilla" meaning the law does not compel a man to do what he cannot possibly perform and "impossibilium nulla obligatio est" - there is no obligation to do the impossible.

44. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in State of Madhya Pradesh Vs. Narmada Bachao Andolan and another, (2011) 7 SCC 639, a Three Judges Bench has considered the effect of Doctrine of Impossibility in respect of duty imposed by statue law and has observed as under:-

"39. The court has to consider and understand the scope of application of the doctrines of lex non cogit ad impossibilia (the law does not compel a man to do what he cannot possibly perform); impossibilium nulla obligatio est (the law does not expect a party to do the impossible); and impotentia excusat legem in the qualified sense that there is a necessary or invincible disability to perform the mandatory part of the law or to forbear the prohibitory. These maxims are akin to the maxim of Roman law nemo tenetur ad impossibilia (no one is bound to do an impossibility) which is derived from common sense and natural equity and has been adopted and applied in law from time immemorial. Therefore, when it appears that the performance of the formalities prescribed by a statute has been rendered impossible by circumstances over which the persons interested had no control, like an act of God, the circumstances will be taken as a valid excuse. (Vide Chandra Kishore Jha v. Mahavir Prasad [(1999) 8 SCC 266 : AIR 1999 SC 3558] , Hira Tikkoo v. UT, Chandigarh [(2004) 6 SCC 765 : AIR 2004 SC 3649] and HUDA v. Dr. Babeswar Kanhar [(2005) 1 SCC 191 : AIR 2005 SC 1491] .)

40. Thus, where the law creates a duty or charge, and the party is disabled to perform it, without any fault on his part, and has no control over it, the law will in general excuse him. Even in such a circumstance, the statutory provision is not denuded of its mandatory character because of the supervening impossibility caused therein."

45. It is submitted by learned counsel for petitioner that even otherwise, explanation or excuse offered by respondents in counter affidavit for non-production of petitioner-accused before court concerned on the date of passing of impugned order dated 16.4.2026 (extension of judicial remand of petitioner), said reasons/excuse does not find mentioned in the impugned order and as such any external explanation that is subsequently introduced would not in any manner revive an illegal remand order. Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 does not address the eventuality which has arisen in the present case nor there is any provision in BNSS, 2023 which provides for submission of report before court concerned for non-production of accused, the law is silent on this aspect. The State has submitted letter dated 16.4.2026 before the learned District Judge, Ghaziabad with regard to non-availability of police force, aforesaid letter has been directed to be circulated as per order of District Judge, Ghaziabad. The reference of letter of D.C.P. Lines also find reference in the report dated 11.5.2026 of court concerned submitted before this Court. In view of aforesaid, factual foundation for non-production of accused before court concerned was available at the time of passing of impugned order. The court concerned has also recorded in the impugned order that accused is not present. It is true that impugned order does not record reasons for non-production of petitioner-accused before the court concerned, however, this Court is of considered view that if the impugned order does not record reason for non-production, although reason were communicated to court concerned at the time of passing of impugned order, then impugned order cannot be said to be vitiated and this Court can always examine the sufficiency of reasons in exercise of supervisory jurisdiction.

46. It is not in dispute between the parties that learned counsel for petitioner-accused was present before court concerned on 16.4.2026. The purpose of presence of accused before court at the time of extension of judicial custody is that the accused has a right to oppose the extension of remand. Once counsel for petitioner-accused was present before court concerned and have already opposed extension of remand as has been recorded in the impugned order, then it is imperative to show that prejudice is caused to the petitioner-accused or there is infringement of any right of petitioner-accused. Before this Court no such prejudice to the accused-petitioner has been shown by learned counsel for petitioner except that Section 187(4) of BNSS, 2023 has been violated. The aforesaid violation is excusable in terms of Doctrine of Impossibility and as such may not vitiate remand extension order.

47. The reliance placed by learned counsel for petitioner upon judgment of Hon′ble Supreme Court in Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) may not be applicable in the facts and circumstances of present case. In Jigar Alias Jimmy (supra) in paragraph nos. 48 and 49, Hon′ble Supreme Court has noticed that due to Covid-19 accused in that case could not be produced physically before the Court. However, the Hon′ble Supreme Court in said case found that there was no material to show that there was any technical difficulty/reasons which prevented the prosecution from producing the accused through video conference. Further, in the aforesaid case, Hon′ble Supreme Court found that right of accused to default bail after completion of 90 days was violated. In the present case, the question of default bail has not arisen as 60 days have not been completed in the present case on the date when impugned order was passed. Further, counsel for petitioner-accused was present before court concerned at the time of passing of impugned order and aforesaid counsel has objected to extension of judicial custody of petitioner-accused. It has not been shown before this Court that any right of petitioner-accused including right for default bail has been infringed on the date of passing of impugned order. It is further to be noted as per learned AGA for the State on account of prevailing circumstances on the date of impugned order, no prisoner could be produced before the District Court, Ghaziabad.

48. In view of the fact that police force was not available with respondents in order to produce the accused in person before the court concerned on the date when the impugned order was passed coupled with the fact that as per learned AGA for the State that no accused person could be produced on 16.4.2026 before the court at Ghaziabad on account of circumstances hereinabove narrated, non-availability of police escort is therefore a valid ground for non-production of petitioner-accused before court concerned while extending judicial custody of petitioner-accused. Further, a report dated 11.5.2026 of court concerned also states that connectivity through video-conference also could not be made on account of technical error which learned counsel for petitioner could not dispute.

49. The aforesaid facts and circumstances come within the Doctrine of Impossibility and as such non-presence of accused can be stated to be sufficient ground.

50. In view of the facts, circumstances and reasoning stated hereinabove, the present petition under Article 227 of Constitution lacks merit and is hereby dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Engrossment of final decree of partition on stamp papers

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order XXVI Rule 14(3); The Indian Stamp Act, 1899- Sections 2 (15), 3(a), 29(g) & 35; The Limitation Act, 1963- Article 136 & 137- The obligation to engross a final decree for partition on non-judicial stamp paper is a post-adjudicatory fiscal incident arising from the transformation of a declaratory decree into an executable instrument of partition and bears no juristic or fiscal correlation with the levy or sufficiency of court fees at any stage of the suit or its execution. In partition suits, when a preliminary decree is passed declaring shares of parties, no instrument of partition comes into existence at that stage, hence no stamp duty is attracted. The final decree effecting actual division, embodies partition and has been treated in law as akin to an "instrument of partition". Consequently, it may require stamp duty under the Stamp Act at the stage of engrossment. Therefore, if any one or more of the defendants whose shares have been declared, seek to have their respective portions separated on the spot, they are under statutory obligation to deposit the requisite court fees in accordance with law. The requirement of engrossment on stamp paper being a separate and independent aspect, cannot be intermixed or confused with the issue of deposit or non-deposit of court fees.

The Court may go even to the extent where the limitation of execution of the decree expires and the application for engrossment is moved thereafter. In that event, the executing court may be within its competence to dismiss the execution application as barred by limitation, however, in so far as the application for engrossment of the decree on stamp paper is concerned, the same being an independent aspect, the application can still be allowed and the decree can be engrossed. In such an event, execution may not materialize on account of it having become barred by limitation, nevertheless, for the purposes of admissibility of a partition decree in evidence as per Section 35 of the Act, 1899 read with any other provision of law, an engrossed decree would become admissible in evidence and the parties may utilize it for any purpose.

Held- That shares of the parties other than plaintiff and defendant no. 1, were also declared under the final decree as per the Commissioner's report 11-Ga that was made part thereof, and their attempt to get the decree engrossed on stamp papers did not suffer from any factual or legal bar and the application moved for that purpose was well within limitation. Petition dismissed. ISSUE INVOLVED: ENGROSSMENT OF FINAL DECREE OF PARTITION ON STAMP PAPERS: CONCEPT, APPLICABILITY AND LIMITATION

1. Heard Shri Shreyas Srivastava, learned counsel for the petitioner and Shri Abhishek Kumar, learned counsel for the contesting respondents.

2. This petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India raises challenge to an order dated 05.05.2023, whereby the learned Additional District and Sessions Judge, Court No. 1, Mainpuri, (A.D.J.) has allowed an application filed by the respondents seeking engrossment of a final decree dated 23.04.1984 on non-judicial stamp papers.

BRIEF FACTS

3. In a suit for partition, being O.S. No. 68 of 1972, parties entered into a compromise and, based thereupon, a preliminary decree was drawn on 16.07.1980. Thereafter, the plaintiff and defendant no. 1 applied for preparation of joint Kurra and paid requisite court fees. Final decree was drawn on 23.04.1984 wherein the share of plaintiff and defendant no. 1 was determined as 11/24 and collective share of remaining defendants No. 2 and 4 to 9 was determined as 13/24.

4. Pursuant to an application filed by some of the defendants other than the defendant no. 1, the order impugned dated 05.05.2023 was passed permitting engrossment of final decree on non-judicial stamp papers.

SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE PETITIONER

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has advanced following submissions:-

(i) The final decree was drawn only in relation to plaintiff and defendant no. 1, no decree was drawn in favour of remaining defendants and, therefore, they had no right to get engrossment of the decree on stamp papers.

(ii) The First Appeal No. 407 of 1982 filed by the remaining defendants challenging the final decree was dismissed by this Court on merits by order dated 14.12.2012 and, therefore, non-declaration of their shares attained finality, however, the said aspect has been ignored by the learned A.D.J.

(iii) A Commissioner was appointed by the trial court and, in terms of Order XXVI Rule 14 CPC, a report was prepared by him proposing a partition scheme wherein only two kurras had been carved out, first, pink kurra (wrongly mentioned as red colour in first appellate court′s judgment) belonging to the plaintiff and the defendant no. 1 and, second, green kurra (jointly co-owned) belonging to remaining non-desirous defendants no. 2 and 4 to 9 and once the final decree was drawn solely and explicitly in favour of the plaintiff and defendant no. 1, the same has to be read as it is and, therefore, permitting engrossment of the said decree at the instance of third parties, was not permissible.

(iv) There was no mention of the joint green kurra of other non-desirous defendants in the decree and this Court, while dismissing the first appeal, had considered specific objections of the defendants no. 6 to 9 under issue/point No. 1 holding that there is no principle in law that there could be only one final decree of partition amongst co-sharers, rather there may be more than one final decree depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case.

(v) It is indicated in the Commissioner's report that only plaintiff and defendant no. 1 had demanded partition and paid requisite court fees and, therefore, the other lot of remaining 13/24 share was to be demarcated, prepared and left out for non-desirous co-owners, i.e. defendants no. 2 and 4 to 9.

(vi) The indication made in the final decree that the same had been 'made final in terms of the Commissioner's report (11-Ga) and was made part of the said decree', would be read only in relation to plaintiff and defendant no. 1 qua their kurras of pink colour and not beyond that.

(vii) The remaining part of the Commissioner's report pertaining to green kurra only reported the 'proposed partition scheme' which is yet to be endorsed and converted into final decree.

(viii) The trial court had varied the Commissioner's report under Order XXVI Rule 14 (3) CPC by only handing over the pink kurra to the original plaintiff and defendant no. 1 and no other share to any other person.

(ix) Execution application filed by the non-desirous defendants seeking execution of the final decree, was not maintainable as the execution applicants are not the decree holders.

(x) The execution application was barred by limitation under Article 136 of the Schedule contained in the Limitation Act, 1963 and, as no specific period of limitation is prescribed for an application seeking engrossment of a decree on non-judicial stamp papers, Article 137 would apply to such applications and once the application was filed after seven years from the date of final decree, the same was barred by limitation.

(xi) Article 136 of the Schedule would not apply in relation to the application since the starting point of limitation is the date when the decree becomes enforceable, i.e. on the date of its passing.

(xii) The case of the contesting respondents is still at stage one, i.e. the stage of preliminary decree, as there is no final decree in their favour.

(xiii) Mere passing of a decree does not render it executable straightaway and in case of partition decree, it has to be engrossed on a non-judicial stamp paper as required under Section 29(g) read with Section 3(a) of the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 ('Stamp Act') to make it executable.

(xiv) The act of getting a final decree engrossed is an independent act solely in the control of the decree holder and the requirement of engrossment flows/arises from the Stamp Act and is not in continuation of the adjudicatory process in the partition suit.

(xv) Though engrossment is a pre-requisite for getting a decree executable, the same arises on account of distinct cause of action, i.e. for crystallizing and granting recognition to the rights, as determined.

(xvi) Though the learned A.D.J. passed an order dated 23.04.1981 that a separate misc. case be registered, the same was never filed by the non-desirous defendants and even the liberty granted by the High Court in the judgment dismissing the First Appeal No. 407 of 1982 whereby it was left open to the appellants (non-desirous defendants) to pursue their applications for separation of their kurras, was not availed by them.

6. In support of his submissions, he has placed reliance on Shankar Balwant Lokhande (Dead) by LR′s Vs. Chandrakant Shankar Lokhande: (1995) 3 SCC 413; Hameed Joharan (D) and others Vs. SUBMISSIONS ON BEHALF OF THE RESPONDENTS

7. Per contra, learned counsel for the respondents has advanced following submissions:-

(i) Once the final decree dated 23.04.1982 indicates that the decree be made final in terms of the Commissioner′s report (11- Ga), which shall form part of the decree and, in the said report, shares of other defendants were also declared vide paragraphs no. 6 to 27 and 30, it cannot be said that the decree was drawn only in favour of plaintiff and defendant no. 1 to the exclusion of remaining defendants.

(ii) The engrossment of a decree on non-judicial stamp papers, being in furtherance of the decree and forming part of its executability, limitation would be 12 years as per Article 136 of the Schedule contained in the Limitation Act and since the decree was drawn in the year 2012, limitation would be available till 2024 and, therefore, the application having been moved in 2019 was well within the period of limitation.

(iii) Non-payment of court fees by the defendants other than plaintiff and defendant no. 1, cannot be fatal to the claim of the respondents as they can always pay court fees upto final stage of execution as and when an order to that effect is passed by the Executing Court and, therefore, mere indication in Commissioner′s report that only plaintiff and defendant no. 1 had paid court fees, would not mean that the remaining defendants have lost their claim under the decree.

(iv) The liberty granted under the order passed by this Court in First Appeal, was availed in terms of filing of Misc. Case No. 41 of 2019 whereby prayer to draw final decree and its engrossment on stamp papers was made after depositing the stamp according to their share and, therefore, all the requirements, either factual or legal, stood fulfilled.

8. In support of his submissions, he has placed reliance on Gajanan Vs. Pralhad: Civil Appeal No. 3524 of 2026 arising out of SLP (Civil) No. 20405 of 2025), decided on 18.03.2026; and Hameed Joharan (D) and others Vs. Abdul Salam (D) by L.R′s and others: (2001) 7 SCC 573;

DISCUSSION

9. I have considered the submissions made and have perused the material available on record.

(a) The application:

10. First of all, the Court deems it appropriate to refer to the very nature of Misc. Application No. 41 of 2019 filed on behalf of the respondents. The entire application reads as under:-

"1- That OS No. 68/1972 Kunwar Pushpendra Singh Kama (Dead) Vs. Kunwar Harnam Singh Moti Singh Moti Sing (Dead) Others was filed for partition of immovable properties lying in Mumbai & Mainpuri. It was decided and Preliminary decree was passed.

2-That after passing of Preliminary decree the plaintiff decree the plaintiff applied for final decree and a commissioner was appointed to divide the disputed properties by metes and bounds and two Kura were made. One Kura was given to the applicants and the other one was given to opposite parties. On the bases of the said commissioner report a final decree was passed on 23.04.1982.

3- That against the said final decree dated 23.04.1982, first appeal bearing No. 407/1982 Ishwar Singh and others Vs. Pushpendra Singh and others was filed before Hon'ble Allahabad High Court, which was finally decided on 14.12.2012 and the appeal was dismissed.

4- That the against the order dated 14.12.2012 pass by Hon'ble Allahabad High Court, the appellant filed Special Leave Petition bearing no. 19626 of 2013 Ishwar Singh and others Vs. Pushpendra Singh Kama and others before Hon'ble Supreme Court of India, which decided on 15.11.2016. Hence the final decree became final on 15.11.2016.

5- That the trial court or any other court has not passed any order regarding the stamping of final decree, hence the final decree passed in favour of the applicant's could not be stamped nor was the final decree drawn up and engrossed on stamp papers.

6- That the applicants are having 54.4% share in the disputed properties as per the Preliminary as well as final decree. As per the valuation of plaintiff applicants are submitting the stamp according to their share is 54.4% is valuations of disputed property in the plaint is Rs. 74000/- hence the valid applicants share in 54.4% is 42256/-. The applicants are submit the stamp of 1/4th amount of their share as per court fees act i.e. Rs. 1195/-.

7- That now the applicant's have deposited the stamp, hence the final decree made in favour of applicants and it be drawn up on stamp papers. ON the Hon'ble Court may assess the assessment of stamp and order accordingly. The applicants are ready and willing to depositing the stamp as ordered by the court.

It is, therefore, prayed that final decree be made in favour of applicants and it be drawn up and engrossed on the stamp papers submitted by the applicants or the amount of stamp on which final decree in favour of applicant be ascertained and the applicants be allowed to submit the ascertained stamps and thereafter, the final decree in favour of the applicant's be drawn up and engrossed on stamp papers."

(b) The decree :

11. The nature of partition decree passed and determination or non-determination of shares of the parties, being of significance, it would also be appropriate to make reference of the operative portion of the final decree, which reads as under:-

"Let the decree be made final in terms of Commissioner's report (11 Ga) which shall form part of the decree,

Plaintiff and Defendant No. 1 will get Qura of Pink Colour as shown in Maps No. 1 to 5 and plaintiff and Defendant No. 1 will get following Compensation as under:-

Rs. 43000/- vide para 23, 24, & 29 and Chart No. 3 of report commission
Rs. 5500/- Vide para No. 35 of Shri M.C. Jain Adv.
Rs. 23000/- Vide para No. 36,
Rs. 5361/- Vide para No. 38
Rs. 1000/- Vide para No. 39

Rs. 77861/-

(c) Commissioner's report (11-Ga)

…….

6. It may be mentioned here that the plff. Kr. Pushpendra Singh and Kr. Harnam Singh deft. No. 1 had only demanded partition and said requisite court fee for preparation of their loss. In view of their aforesaid statement recorded on paper marked Annexure 1 one combined lot of 11/24 share was to be prepared for them and the other lot of remaining 13/24 share was to be demarcated, prepared and left out for other Non-desirous remaining co-owners deftts. 2, 4 5 and 6 to 9 moreover, only two immovable properties described in item No. I of schedule A of the plaint (vide statement recorded in Annexure 2) and schedule B of the plaint were to be considered for such a partition.

25. Thus finally the following scheme for partition of Immovable and Movable Properties is submitted in the above noted case:

Immovable Properties

26. That the Lal Singh building Bombay be divided into two lots or parts or sub-divisions 'G' and 'P' as shown in my sub-division plans map No.1 to 4 attached herewith. The southern sub-division 'G' shown by green colouring in map No. 2 to 4 south of the dividing red line will be given to Kr. Ganga Singh & others defendants No. 2, 4, 5 and 6 to 9 and they shall be entitled to get exclusive possession over the 16 shops, 1 Godown, 4 wooden stalls, 51 rooms, 15 W.Cs. 10 Bathrooms, 1 stair one lift, one well with water pump as detailed in Chart II. The dividing red line shown by JKLMNR in my Map No. 2 has been so selected it passes in such a way just at the places where generally the walls exist. It also divides the building vertically upwards as is clear from map No.2 to 4.

27. Similarly the Northern sub-division 'P' shown by pink colouring in my maps No. 2 to 4 north of the red dividing line will be given to Kr. Harnam Singh Deft. No. 1 and Kr. Pushpendra Singh Plff. and they shall be entitled to get exclusive possession over 11 Shops, 4 Godowns, 31 Rooms, 15W.Cs. 10 Bathrooms and one stair case as detailed in Chart II. This lot or sub-plot P or sub-divided Pink coloured portion will be owned and possessed by Kr. Harnam Singh Deft. No. 1 and Kr. Pushpendra Singh plff.

30. That the immovable property situated at Gola Bazar Mainpuri Civil Lines, Mainpuri detailed in item No. 1 of Schedule A of the plaint has also been divided into two sub-divided into two sub-divisions of 11/24 and 13/24 shares. The green coloured portion situated towards the north of the dividing red lines X Y in Map No. 5 will be given to Kr. Ganga Singh & others Deft. No. 2,4,5 and 6 to 9 and they will be entitled to get exclusive possession over the green coloured portion. The building and trees standing on this portion shall go with the land and green coloured portion. The valuation given in Chart IV is inclusive of the values of building and trees. The area and valuation of this green coloured portion according to chart IV works out to be the same as 13/24 share of the whole area and valuation of the whole plot.

12. Since learned counsel for the petitioner has argued that making Commissioner's report (11-Ga) as part of the decree would fall within the contours of Order XXVI Rule 14 (3) CPC where the Court can vary the decree in terms of the report, the provision is reproduced as under:-

(3) Where the Court confirms or varies the report or reports it shall pass a decree in accordance with the same as confirmed or varied; but where the Court sets aside the report or reports it shall either issue a new commission or make such other order as it shall think fit."

13. In view of the very fact that Commissioner's report (11-Ga) describes shares of not only the plaintiff and defendant no. 1 but also of remaining defendants, submissions made that shares of no other party except plaintiff and defendant no. 1 was declared, runs contrary to the stipulations made in the Commissioner's report (11-Ga) and, hence, the arguments on that line fall. The indications made are actual determination of the shares, may be termed as scheme for partition and cannot be ignored after reading the entire report. As a matter of fact, the entire report (11-Ga) could not be quoted in the decree, hence it was made part thereof and the indications made therein as regards court fees etc have their own significance independent of declaration of shares which has to be read as it is. As to other aspects, law would take its own recourse.

(d) Stamp Act:

14. Now the question falls for consideration is as to what is the significance of stamping a partition decree and, if not stamped, what is its status. For the said purpose, reference of certain provisions of the Stamp Act is required to be made. Sections 2(15), 3(a) and 29 (g) of the same provide as under:-

"2(15) "Instrument of partition".- "instrument of partition" means any instrument where by co-owners of any property divide or agree to divide such property in severalty, and includes also a final order for effecting a partition passed by any Revenue-authority or any Civil Court and an award by an arbitrator directing a partition:"

3. Instruments chargeable with duty. -Subject to the provisions of this Act and the exemptions contained in Schedule I, the following instruments shall be chargeable with duty of the amount indicated in that Schedule as the proper duty therefore respectively, that is to say-

(a) every instrument mentioned in that Schedule which, not having been previously executed by any person, is executed in India on or after the first day of July, 1899;

"29. Duties by whom payable. -In the absence of an agreement to the contrary, the expense of providing the proper stamp shall be borne – by the person drawing, making or executing such instrument:

(g) in the case of an instrument of partition-by the parties thereto in proportion to their respective shares in the whole property partitioned, or, when the partition is made in execution of an order passed by a Revenue-authority or Civil Court or arbitrator, in such proportion as such authority, Court or arbitrator directs."

15. From the above-referred provisions, it can safely be understood that a final decree of partition is an instrument chargeable with stamp duty and liability to pay the stamp duty lies on the parties in proportion to their respective shares as determined by the Civil Court. Therefore, once this Court has found that shares of various parties were determined under the final decree, the Commissioner′s report (11-Ga) was part whereof, if the application for engrossment of the partition decree was moved by anyone or more of the parties to the suit, no error is found in the said action and it cannot be accepted that it was the decree drawn only in favour of the parties other than those who had applied for its engrossment on stamp papers. The Court may also observe that had the application for engrossment of the decree not been moved or had the decree not been engrossed thereon, it would have become inadmissible in evidence and, in this regard, reference can be made to Section 35 of the Act, 1899, which reads as under:-

"35. Instruments not duly stamped inadmissible in evidence, etc. - No instrument chargeable with duty shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon, registered or authenticated by any such person or by any public officer, unless such instrument is duly stamped :

(e) Effect of dismissal of First Appeal:

16. Now arises the question as to what would be the effect of dismissal of First Appeal by this Court against the final decree. Much emphasis has been laid on the findings recorded by this Court while dismissing the First Appeal. Relevant portions of the order referred to by learned counsel for the petitioner read as under:-

"No principle of law or precedent was placed before me to show that it necessarily requires that there can only be one final decree of partition amongst the co sharers. On the contrary, law is that there may be more than one final decrees of partition, depending upon the facts and circumstances of each case. It was plaintiff Kunwar Pushpendra Singh who insisted for carving out of his share separately, it is he who filed the suit for partition. It is true that in a suit for partition, everybody is plaintiff and defendant but the fact remains that every possible attempt was made by Ganga Singh (defendant no. 2) and his sons who are appellants herein to forestall the partition proceedings. It is matter of record. The court below has committed no error if the share of the plaintiff with the consent of the defendant no. I have been jointly carved out to the exclusion of other co sharers.

Strangely enough, he went a step ahead in advancing the argument while criticizing the Commissioner's report that the Commissioner should have carved out the quras of the plaintiff and defendant no.1 also. The said argument was advanced with a view to confuse the issue and is not available to him in view of the fact that the defendant no.1 and the plaintiff consciously agreed that they may be allotted a joint qura. What possible objection could the appellants have to such arrangement, it is difficult to understand.

To conclude, there is no merit in the aforesaid submissions of the learned counsel for the appellants. It shall be open to the appellants who have already applied for separation of their quras to pursue their applications, filed earlier, for carvation of their quras which will be done, by the court below.

17. In the opinion of the Court, the observations made by this Court cannot be read in the manner so as to oust the respondents from the scene and once observation was made that there may be more than one final decree of partition and the share of the plaintiff with the consent of defendant no. 1 was jointly carved out to the exclusion of other co-sharers, the same does not mean that no share at all of remaining defendants was declared. The finding has to be read only as regards jointness of the shares of plaintiff and defendant no. 1 to the exclusion of other co-sharers and the same does not mean that other stipulations qua determination of shares of remaining defendants can be ignored, particularly when paragraphs no. 25, 26, 27 and 30 of the Commissioner′s report (11-Ga) clearly indicate the shares of the remaining defendants.

18. Further, once this Court, while deciding the First Appeal, left it open to the appellants, to pursue their applications for separation of their kurras, it would not mean that they have lost their claims to get their kurras separated. As to whether the parties other than the plaintiff and defendant no. 1 took any steps either during the course of preparation of decree or thereafter, it would be appropriate to refer an application 195-C filed by defendant no. 9 to get a separate lot on 30.11.1981 that was allowed by the learned trial court by order dated 02.12.1981 granting 15 days′ further time for depositing court fees. It is necessary to quote the application paper no. 195-C which reads under:-

निवेदन है कि प्रार्थी को विवादित जायदाद में २/८ भाग मिला है। प्रार्थी तसफिया के आधार पर अपना कुरा अलग बनवाना चाहता है। अतः प्रार्थना है कि प्रार्थी का २/८ भाग का कुरा अलहदा बनाये आने का आदेश प्रदान किया जावे।

प्राथी कोर्ट फीस अपने कुरा की अदा करने को तैयार है।

Sd-/Illegible,
श्री ईश्वरसिंह गंगासिंह प्रतिवादी सं०9
द्वारा भी प्रेम चन्द दुबे एडवोकेट
३०-११-८१
३०-११-८१"

19. Following orders were passed on the aforesaid application:-

"It is declaratory Court fee sought to have been deposited alongwith the application.

Sd-Illegible.
30/11/81.

Heard, Allowed. Court fee may filed by 15 days further fixed.

Sd-Illegible.
2/12/81."

20. In view of the above, it can safely be observed that the defendant no. 9 not only attempted to get his share separated but he also was ready to deposit the court fees, for which, time was also granted by the Court to him and whether granting such time and availing or not availing the same would at all be relevant for the purposes of the present case, is not to be discussed as the said aspect of the matter is beyond the scope of the preset petition. However, the misc. application No. 41 of 2019 referred in paragraph No. 10 of this judgment containing composite prayer(s) is also on the same/similar lines and could not be rejected, hence, rightly allowed by the order impugned.

(f) Stamp Duty and Court fees- the conceptual distinction:

21. Learned counsel for both sides have emphasized upon deposit or non-deposit of court fees by desirous or alleged non-desirous parties to the suit and arguments were attempted to be co-related to the requirement of the engrossment of partition decree on stamp papers. It was also argued on behalf of the petitioner that since the decree was endorsed on non-judicial stamp papers, the same would not amount to deposit of court fees by all non-desirous defendants and, for this reason also, they should not have been permitted to get the decree engrossed on stamp papers. In light of such submissions, the Court deems it appropriate to articulate distinction in between the concept of stamp duty and court fees.

22. The Court ought not to conflate the requirement of engrossment of a decree on non-judicial stamp paper with the obligation to deposit court fees in a suit for partition or in any other proceeding. In fact, the requirement of engrossment under the Stamp Act emanates from the applicability of Section 3(a) read with Section 29(g) and the use of non-judicial stamp papers is entirely distinct from the use of judicial stamp papers used for payment of court fees. The two concepts, i.e., (i) stamping of an instrument under the Indian Stamp Act, 1899 and (ii) payment of court fees under the Court Fees Act, 1870 operate in distinct legal domains, serve different fiscal purposes and are governed by separate statutory schemes. Any attempt to conflate them, particularly in the context of partition decrees, leads to doctrinal error.

23. Stamp duty is a tax on instruments. Its incidence arises upon the execution of an instrument specified in Schedule I (or IA as amended by States). The charging provision is Section 3 and the liability is attracted irrespective of litigation, i.e., even outside court proceedings. It is transaction-oriented as the duty is levied on the instrument embodying a transaction (e.g., conveyance, lease, partition, settlement etc). It is concerned with validity for evidentiary and enforceability purposes. Under Section 35, as noted above, an instrument, not duly stamped, is inadmissible in evidence.

24. On the other hand, Court fee is a fee on the institution and prosecution of proceedings in a court of law. It is process-oriented, levied on plaints, written statements, appeals, applications, etc. It is a condition precedent for the court to entertain a proceeding. Its measure depends upon the nature of relief claimed (ad valorem or fixed) and not upon execution of any instrument. It has no bearing on the intrinsic validity or admissibility of a document as an "instrument." There is no statutory interdependence between the adequacy of stamp duty on an instrument and the liability to pay court fees in a civil proceeding. A document may be duly stamped but insufficiently court fee paid and another situation can be that proper court fee has been paid in litigation but instrument is unstamped/insufficiently stamped.

25. The obligation to engross a final decree for partition on non-judicial stamp paper is a post-adjudicatory fiscal incident arising from the transformation of a declaratory decree into an executable instrument of partition and bears no juristic or fiscal correlation with the levy or sufficiency of court fees at any stage of the suit or its execution. In partition suits, when a preliminary decree is passed declaring shares of parties, no instrument of partition comes into existence at that stage, hence no stamp duty is attracted. The final decree effecting actual division, embodies partition and has been treated in law as akin to an "instrument of partition". Consequently, it may require stamp duty under the Stamp Act at the stage of engrossment. Therefore, if any one or more of the defendants whose shares have been declared, seek to have their respective portions (kurras) separated on the spot, they are under statutory obligation to deposit the requisite court fees in accordance with law. The requirement of engrossment on stamp paper being a separate and independent aspect, cannot be intermixed or confused with the issue of deposit or non-deposit of court fees.

26. Accordingly, the submission that the petitioners or other alleged non-desirous defendants, having not paid the requisite court fees, would not derive any advantage out of the engrossment of the decree on non-judicial stamp papers, is not acceptable. Nothing has been brought to the notice of the Court to suggest that the right to deposit court fees, whether during the course of execution or in exercise of the Court's power to grant further time, stands extinguished at any stage. In other words, there is no legal bar preventing the payment of deficient court fees during execution proceedings.

(g) On the question of limitation:

27. The learned A.D.J., in the order impugned, has observed that after the First Appeal was dismissed by the High Court on 14.12.2012, Special Leave Petition was filed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court that was dismissed on 15.11.2016; the application seeking engrossment was filed on 15.10.2019 and, therefore, even if three years period is computed as per Article 137 of the Schedule, the application was filed within three years from the dismissal of Special Leave Petition and, thus, was within time. As regards right of the respondents to get the decree engrossed, observation was made that since every party in a suit for partition is plaintiff and defendant, the respondents being parties to the suit and the Commissioner's report having been made part of the decree, they be allowed to get the decree engrossed.

28. As to whether the finding of the learned A.D.J. on question of limitation is correct or not, it would be appropriate to refer Articles 136 and 137 of the Schedule contained in the Limitation Act, which provide as under:-

Article 136

Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run
For the execution of any decree (other than a decree granting a mandatory injunction) or order of any civil court.	Twelve years.	When the decree or order becomes enforceable or where the decree or any subsequent order directs any payment of money or the delivery of any property to be made at a certain date or at recurring periods, when default in making the payment or delivery in respect of which execution is sought, takes place: Provided that an application for the enforcement or execution of a decree granting a perpetual injunction shall not be subject to any period of limitation.

Article 137

Description of suit	Period of limitation	Time from which period begins to run
Any other application for which no period of limitation is provided elsewhere in this Division.	Three years	When the right to apply accrues.

29. Article 136 of the Act of 1963 prescribes twelve years period for execution of a partition decree and arguments were also advanced as to when the decree becomes enforceable or executable. The Calcutta High Court, in the case of Biswapati's case (supra), has laid down that the word "enforceable" should be read in its literal sense, furnishing of stamp paper is an act entirely within the domain and control of the appellant and any delay in the matter of furnishing of the same cannot possibly be said to be putting a stop to the period of limitation being run and no one can take advantage of his own wrong and that engrossment of stamp paper would undoubtedly render the decree executable but that does not mean and imply that the enforceability of the decree would remain suspended until furnishing of the stamp paper.

30. In the case of Kerala State Electricity Board (Supra), it was held that the words "any other application" under Article 137 cannot be said on the principle of ejusdem generis to the applications under the Civil Procedure Code and that Article 137 of the 1963 Limitation Act will apply to any petition or application filed under any Act to a civil court and is not confined to applications contemplated by or under the CPC.

31. In the case of Chiranji Lal (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the engrossment of the final decree in a suit for partition would relate back to the date of the decree. The beginning of the period of limitation for executing such a decree cannot be made to depend upon date of the engrossment of such a decree on the stamp paper. The date of furnishing of stamp paper is an uncertain act within the domain, purview and control of a party.

32. It is not to be forgotten that this Court, in the present petition, is not examining the period of limitation qua execution of the final decree, rather the scope is confined to examine limited challenge to the correctness of the order on an application seeking engrossment of decree on stamp papers and, therefore, following the decision in the case of Chiranji Lal (supra), the Court finds that no date or period is fixed for furnishing stamped papers and it cannot be said that the period of limitation would begin from the date of engrossment of a decree on stamped paper.

33. Now, even if the argument of the petitioners based upon Article 137 of the Schedule is accepted as it is, words 'when the right to apply accrues' appearing in the said Article would be of quite significance. As to when would such right to apply for engrossment of a final decree on stamp paper would arise, the Court holds that since executability/enforceability of a partition decree is not dependent upon its engrossment on stamp papers and wherever the decree attains finality, the period of limitation for its execution starts independent of engrossment. The limitation for execution being 12 years as per Article 136, if any party moves an application at any time during subsistence of period of limitation for execution, the application would remain within time, inasmuch as 'right to apply' would accrue and continue to remain alive at any point of time during the said period of limitation.

34. Let us consideration a hypothetical situation where, just before the end of period of limitation for execution of the decree, any party applies for engrossment of the decree on stamp papers, say for example after 11 years and 11 months of the finality attached to the decree. In such a situation, the application would still remain within time and, as soon as the said application is allowed and the decree is engrossed on stamp papers, it would become admissible in evidence as per Section 35 of the Act, 1899. As to whether engrossment would be a pre-requisite for execution or not, is totally an independent aspect of the matter as neither under the Stamp Act nor under C.P.C., it is provided that it is only when a decree is engrossed on stamp papers, the same would become executable.

35. The Court may go even to the extent where the limitation of execution of the decree expires and the application for engrossment is moved thereafter. In that event, the executing court may be within its competence to dismiss the execution application as barred by limitation, however, in so far as the application for engrossment of the decree on stamp paper is concerned, the same being an independent aspect, the application can still be allowed and the decree can be engrossed. In such an event, execution may not materialize on account of it having become barred by limitation, nevertheless, for the purposes of admissibility of a partition decree in evidence as per Section 35 of the Act, 1899 read with any other provision of law, an engrossed decree would become admissible in evidence and the parties may utilize it for any purpose. The Court need not enter into further discussion as to whether without engrossment, the decree would or would not be accepted by the executing court as admissible for the purposes of execution also and the Court, in the present case, confines its discussion mainly on the limitation of moving application for engrossment.

36. In view of the above discussion, though the learned A.D.J. has assigned different reason for holding the application within the period of limitation, this Court otherwise holds the application as within limitation and discards contrary submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner.

CONCLUSION

37. In view of the above discussion, this Court is of the considered opinion that shares of the parties other than plaintiff and defendant no. 1, were also declared under the final decree as per the Commissioner's report 11-Ga that was made part thereof, and their attempt to get the decree engrossed on stamp papers did not suffer from any factual or legal bar and the application moved for that purpose was well within limitation.

38. At the same time, it is also observed as to what would be the fate of execution proceedings or any other proceedings pending or that may be instituted by any of the parties in furtherance of the partition decree, is altogether a different aspect and determination of issues involved in the present petition would not affect consideration of those separate proceedings by the courts concerned in accordance with law. The discussion made hereinabove is restricted and confined to the issues raised qua engrossment of final decree of partition on stamp papers and no error is found therein.

39. The present petition is, accordingly, DISMISSED.

Appreciation for lawyers:

40. The Court would fail in its duty if it does not place on record its deep appreciation for the remarkable assistance rendered by learned counsel for both sides. Submissions advanced by them on typical and rare issues of civil law were exhibited with precision and had great persuasive value. The arguments were based upon deep study of the factual and legal issues involved and projected in multidimensional form and, therefore, the Court records all its appreciation for Shri Shreyas Srivastava and Shri Abhishek Kumar Advocates.

SCC Revision No. 52 of 2026

Versus
Shivsevak Sharma & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the learned District Judge, Hathras rightly rejected the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC seeking rejection of the plaint on the ground that the suit was barred by law, by virtue of the express ouster of civil court jurisdiction contained in Section 38(1) of the Act, 2021

Head Notes

The Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887- Section 25; The Code of Civil Procedure, 1908- Order VII Rule 11; The Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021- Section 1(3), 4, 9 & 38(1)- The plaint, on a plain reading of its own averments, acknowledges the applicability of U.P. Act No.16 of 2021 to the subject premises. The respondent-landlords have themselves invoked Sections 4 and 9 of the Act and have grounded their claim for enhanced rent thereon. These are not averments which can be disregarded or read in isolation; they represent a deliberate and unambiguous invocation of the statutory framework governing the tenancy.

Held- Once the plaint itself discloses that the dispute is governed by the Act, 2021, as it plainly does in the present case, the bar contained under Section 38(1) thereof operates with full force and the jurisdiction of the civil court stands excluded. The SCC Court, being a civil court within the meaning of the Act, lacks jurisdiction to entertain the suit- The application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC stands allowed. Revision allowed. (E-15)

Case Arising From

Order dated 19.03.2026 passed by the District Judge, Hathras in SCC Case No.03 of 2025, whereby the application filed by the defendant-tenants under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, on the ground that the plaint disclosed a suit barred by law, was rejected.

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Revisionist(s) : Surendra Tiwari
Counsel for Opposite Party(s) : Abhishek Mishra, Anil Kumar, Ashok Kumar Yadav

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

Heard Sri Surendra Tiwari, learned counsel for the revisionists and Sri Abhishek Mishra and Sri Anil Kumar, learned counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. The present SCC Revision under Section 25 of the Provincial Small Cause Courts Act, 1887 is directed against the order dated 19.03.2026 passed by the District Judge, Hathras in SCC Case No.03 of 2025 (Shivsevak Sharma and Others vs. Shriram and Others), whereby the application filed by the defendant-tenants under Order VII Rule 11 of the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908, on the ground that the plaint disclosed a suit barred by law, was rejected.

3. The undisputed facts emerging from the plaint, as averred by the respondent-landlords, are as follows. The parties stand in the relationship of landlord and tenant in respect of the premises in question; this relationship is admitted and is not in dispute between the parties.

4. The plaint contains categorical averments acknowledging that U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 (the Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021, hereinafter 'the Act, 2021') is applicable to the subject premises, and that the said premises fall within the ambit of Section 1(3) of the Act and are not excluded from its operation.

5. The respondent-landlords have specifically pleaded that a tenancy agreement was required to be executed in terms of Section 4 of the Act, 2021, and that despite requests, the defendant-tenants failed to cooperate in the execution of such agreement. The plaint further invokes Section 9 of the Act and claims arrears of rent for the period from 01.12.1999 to 31.05.2025 at an enhanced rate computed in accordance therewith.

6. The defendant-tenants filed an application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC seeking rejection of the plaint on the ground that the suit was barred by law, by virtue of the express ouster of civil court jurisdiction contained in Section 38(1) of the Act, 2021. The learned District Judge, Hathras rejected the said application vide the impugned order dated 19.03.2026, which gives rise to the present revision.

7. Learned counsel appearing for the revisionists-tenants submits that the plaint itself contains categorical averments acknowledging the applicability of U.P. Act No.16 of 2021 to the premises in question. It is pointed out that the plaintiffs have pleaded that a tenancy agreement was required to be executed in terms of Section 4 of the Act and that despite requests, the defendants failed to cooperate. It is further submitted that the plaint contains pleadings invoking Section 9 of the Act, on the basis whereof arrears of rent from 01.12.1999 to 31.05.2025 at an enhanced rate have been claimed.

8. It is further urged that the relationship of landlord and tenant between the parties is admitted and undisputed, and the premises fall within the ambit of Section 1(3) of the Act and are not excluded from its operation, so that the dispute is wholly governed by U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021. Consequently, in view of the express bar contained under Section 38(1) of the Act, 2021, it is submitted that the civil court lacks jurisdiction and the SCC suit itself is not maintainable.

9. Reliance is placed upon the decision of this Court in Akhilesh Kumar vs. Sanjay Sahgal (Matters Under Article 227 No. 5153 of 2026), decided on 19.05.2026. In the said decision, this Court, while examining the scheme of the Act, 2021, particularly Sections 4, 21 and 38 thereof, held that the Act constitutes a complete code governing landlord-tenant disputes and creates a specialised adjudicatory mechanism for their resolution.

10. In Akhilesh Kumar (supra), it was further held that the absence of a written tenancy agreement is not determinative where the landlord-tenant relationship is admitted or is otherwise established on the basis of the pleadings. The Court clarified that once a dispute falls within the ambit of the Act, 2021, the jurisdiction of the civil court stands excluded by virtue of Section 38(1), and such disputes lie exclusively before the Rent Authority. The said decision also reiterates that the Act is a self-contained statutory framework intended to channelise landlord-tenant disputes before a specialised forum, and that procedural deficiencies cannot defeat the substantive operation of the statute where the foundational relationship is not in dispute.

11. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent-landlords does not dispute the existence of a landlord-tenant relationship between the parties or the applicability of U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 to the premises in question. The legal position that such disputes, where the relationship is admitted, are governed exclusively by the Act, 2021 is also not disputed. The learned counsel states that the respondents shall avail themselves of such remedies as may be available to them under the provisions of the Act.

12. It is well settled that while considering an application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, the Court must confine itself to the averments in the plaint and the documents relied upon therein, and no defence set up by the defendant can be taken into consideration. The test is whether the plaint, on a meaningful reading, discloses a cause of action or reveals that the suit is barred by law, and if the latter, the plaint is liable to be rejected at the threshold.

13. It is equally well settled that where a statute expressly excludes the jurisdiction of the civil court, such bar goes to the root of the matter and can be examined at the stage of Order VII Rule 11 CPC itself. The jurisdictional facts determining the competence of the Court must be gathered from the averments contained in the plaint alone, and no amount of clever drafting can confer jurisdiction upon a court otherwise barred by statute. Continuation of proceedings in such circumstances would be an exercise in futility and contrary to law.

14. In the present case, the plaint, on a plain and meaningful reading of its own averments, acknowledges the applicability of U.P. Act No.16 of 2021 to the subject premises. The respondent-landlords have themselves invoked Sections 4 and 9 of the Act and have grounded their claim for enhanced rent thereon. These are not averments which can be disregarded or read in isolation; they represent a deliberate and unambiguous invocation of the statutory framework governing the tenancy.

15. The landlord-tenant relationship between the parties is admitted. The premises fall within the ambit of Section 1(3) of the Act and are not excluded from its operation. There is thus no dispute on the foundational facts necessary to attract the jurisdiction of the Rent Authority under the Act, 2021. The question of whether a formal written tenancy agreement exists is immaterial; as held in Akhilesh Kumar (supra), the Act operates on the substance of the relationship, not merely on the existence of a formal written instrument.

16. Once the plaint itself discloses that the dispute is governed by the Act, 2021, as it plainly does in the present case, the bar contained under Section 38(1) thereof operates with full force and the jurisdiction of the civil court stands excluded. The SCC Court, being a civil court within the meaning of the Act, lacks jurisdiction to entertain the suit.

17. The learned District Judge, Hathras, in rejecting the application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, failed to consider and give effect to the express statutory bar, the admitted landlord-tenant relationship, and the authoritative pronouncement of this Court in Akhilesh Kumar (supra). The impugned order is, accordingly, unsustainable in law and is liable to be set aside.

18. In view of the foregoing, the present SCC Revision succeeds and is allowed. The impugned order dated 19.03.2026 passed by the learned District Judge, Hathras, rejecting the application filed by the defendant-tenants under Order VII Rule 11 CPC, is hereby set aside. The application under Order VII Rule 11 CPC stands allowed and the plaint in SCC Case No. 03 of 2025 (Shivsevak Sharma and Others vs. Shriram and Others) is rejected as being barred by law in view of the express bar contained under Section 38(1) of U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021.

19. The respondents are at liberty to pursue such remedies as may be available to them under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021. It is made clear that this Court has not expressed any opinion on the merits of the respondents' claims, which shall be considered afresh by the competent authority in accordance with law and on its own merits.

20. In the event the respondents approach the Rent Authority under the provisions of the Act, 2021, the said Authority shall endeavour to conclude the proceedings expeditiously and, where possible, within the period prescribed under the statute.

21. There shall be no order as to costs.

Special Appeal No. 371 of 2026 alongwith
Special Appeal Defective No. 337 of 2026

Dr. Keshbhan Singh & Anr. ...Appellants
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Is a Special Appeal maintainable against a Single Judge's order when the underlying tribunal/authority (Commissioner) lacked statutory jurisdiction to entertain the appeal in the first place?
(b) Does an order passed by an appellate authority without statutory jurisdiction fall under the "purported exercise of appellate jurisdiction," thereby barring a Special Appeal?
(c) Does the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (as amended in U.P.) provide a right of appeal to the Commissioner against orders passed by the Assistant Registrar u/s 25(2) or Section 4-B?

Headnotes

A. Societies Law – Societies Registration Act, 1860: Section 4-B, 25(2); Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952: Chapter VIII Rule 5 - The Assistant Registrar, Jhansi Division, passed a composite order u/s 25(2) and Section 4-B of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 (the Act). He declared the Society defunct/time-barred (u/s 25(2)) and validated a list of 20 General Body members (u/s 4-B). Contesting respondents filed an appeal before the Commissioner, Jhansi Division. The Commissioner allowed the appeal, set aside the Assistant Registrar's order, declared a 10-member list valid, and directed steps for holding fresh elections.

Dr. Keshbhan Singh challenged the Commissioner's order via Writ – C No. 8732 of 2026. The Single Judge set aside the Commissioner's order and remitted the matter back to the Commissioner to decide the appeal only qua Section 25(2), while holding that no appeal lay regarding the Section 4-B/4-A determination.
Both sides challenged the Single Judge's decision:

- SPLA No. 371 of 2026 (Dr.Keshbhan Singh): Argued that since no statutory appeal exists u/s 25(2), remanding the matter back to the Commissioner was illegal.

- SPLA Def. No. 337 of 2026 (Management Committee): Argued that appeals against orders u/s 4-B are maintainable before the Commissioner following the 2021 U.P. Amendments (U.P. Act No. 8 of 2022).

B. Chapter VIII Rule 5 - Right to appeal is neither an absolute right nor an ingredient of natural justice, the principles of which must be followed in all judicial and quasi-judicial adjudications and the right is a statutory right and it can be circumscribed by the conditions in the grant. (Para 22)

Since the Commissioner had no jurisdiction to entertain and decide the appeal against an order passed either u/s 25(2) or Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, the mere fact that the order had been passed in an appeal which was otherwise not maintainable and was not provided under the Act itself, the present special appeal raising a challenge to the order passed by the learned Single Judge in a writ petition assailing the validity of the order passed by the Commissioner, is maintainable. (Para 25)

C. In Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the High Court Rules, the language used is plain and simple and words "purported to be exercised under any U.P. Act or Central Act" are not qualified by any further stipulations or explanatory clarification of any nature so as to make further interpretation. (Para 21)

The word 'purport' has many shades of meaning, it means fictitious, what appears on the face of the instruments; the apparent and not the legal import and, therefore any act which purports to be done in exercise of a power is to be deemed to be done within that power notwithstanding that the power is not exercisable. (Para 18)

A special appeal arising out of judgment passed by learned Single Judge in a writ petition u/Article 226 of Constitution, wherein challenge was laid to an appellate order passed by the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise of or purported exercise of appellate jurisdiction under any U.P. Act/Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the VII Schedule to the Constitution, would be maintainable if the appeal itself was not provided under the statute but was entertained or decided either way and the power exercised by the appellate authority would not be treated as 'purported exercise of power'. (Para 26)

D. Mainly three kinds of jurisdiction are recognized under the law; pecuniary, territorial and inherent. If any Court/authority lacks any of such jurisdictions, the order passed by it would be a nullity. Further, jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the Court/authority in any manner even based upon consent or acquiescence. (Para 29)

Examining nature of the order passed by the learned Single Judge wherein, after setting aside the order passed by the Commissioner, the matter has been remitted back to him to decide the appeal only qua order passed u/s 25(2) of the Act – Once a conclusion has been arrived at that the appeal against the order dated 13.06.2025, compositely passed u/s 25(2) and 4-B of the Act, did not lie before the Commissioner, direction for remand to the Commissioner to decide the same qua Section 25(2) of the Act, is not proper. As a matter of fact, learned Single Judge has conferred jurisdiction upon the Commissioner to examine challenge to the order passed by the Assistant Registrar u/s 25(2) of the Act, although the Commissioner otherwise has no jurisdiction under the statute to entertain the appeal. (Para 28)

Special appeal No. 371 of 2026 allowed.

E. Challenge to the same order to the extent of conclusion drawn and observations made regarding appellate power of the Commissioner to examine validity of the order passed by the Assistant Registrar u/s 4-B of the Act - Once Section 4(1-A) clearly provides for an appeal against an order u/s 4, the said appeal is confined to an order passed in relation to accepting the Committee of Management etc. by the Registrar u/s 4(1). Section 4-B is totally independent of Section 4 as the same deals with the list of members of General Body and has nothing to do with the Committee of Management and once the statute does not provide any appeal qua the order passed u/s 4-B of the Act, the provision as contained u/s 4(1-A) cannot by any stretch of imagination be used for the purpose of maintaining the appeal against an order passed u/s 4-B of the Act. (Para 34 to 39)

Appeal does not lie against an order u/s 4-B when there is no such provision in the Statute - A bare perusal of the provisions of the Amendment Act makes it clear that sub-Section (1-A) was added just after Section 4 and the place of insertion clearly indicates the legislative intent to provide an appeal only against an order passed u/s. 4 after its renumbering as Section 4(1) and not against Section 4-B which is altogether a separate and distinct Section. (Para 39)

The challenge laid to part of the order impugned, whereby learned Single Judge has held the appeal against order passed u/s 4-B of the Act as not maintainable, does not call for any interference.

Special appeal Defective No. 337 of 2026 dismissed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Appellant(s): Gajendra Pratap Singh (Sr. Adv.) with Jai Singh Parihar
For Respondent(s): Anil Bhushan (Sr. Adv.) with Manish Kumar Pandey, Rajiv Singh (S.C.)

(Delivered by Hon'ble Kshitij Shailendra, J.)

1. Heard Shri Gajendra Pratap Singh, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Jai Singh Parihar for the appellants, learned Standing Counsel for respondents no. 1 to 3 and Shri Anil

Bhushan, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Manish Kumar Pandey for respondents no. 4 to 8 in Special Appeal No. 371 of 2026. Same learned Senior Advocates have been heard in the connected Special Appeal Defective No. 337 of 2026, but from reverse side.

2. These two special appeals raise challenge to the order dated 13.03.2026 whereby the learned Single Judge has disposed of Writ - C No. 8732 of 2026 (Dr. Keshbhan Singh and another vs. State of U.P. and 7 others) setting aside the order dated 13.02.2026 impugned therein and remitting the matter to the Commissioner, Jhansi Division, Jhansi ('Commissioner') to decide an appeal only qua order passed under Section 25(2) of the Societies Registration Act, 1860 ('the Act'). The learned Single Judge has further observed that so far as order passed by the Commissioner under Section 4-A of the Act is concerned, the private respondents will have liberty to avail legally available remedy.

3. Since the order passed by the learned Single Judge has been challenged by both sides to the extent they feel aggrieved of the same, both the appeals are being decided by a common order.

SPECIAL APPEAL No. - 371 of 2026

4. The memo of present appeal contains solitary ground of challenge to the order passed by the learned Single Judge to the effect that there being no provision for appeal against the order dated 13.06.2025 passed by the Assistant Registrar under Section 25(2) of the Act, the order of remand to the Commissioner for deciding the appeal could not have been passed.

5. The facts of the matter for the purpose of decision in these two appeals are not in dispute. The Assistant Registrar, Jhansi Division, Jhansi, passed a composite order dated 13.06.2025 under Section 25(2) and Section 4-B of the Act. He declared the Society as defunct/time barred under Section 25(2) and also declared a list of 20 members of the General Body under Section 4-B as valid.

6. Challenging the said order, an appeal was filed on behalf of respondents no. 5 to 8 before the Commissioner, which was admitted by him by order dated 19.07.2025. Later on, the same was allowed on 13.02.2026 setting aside the order dated 13.06.2025 and a list of 10 members, as submitted by the contesting respondents (appellants in appeal before the Commissioner), was declared as valid. Further, the Assistant Registrar was directed to ensure further proceedings for the purposes of holding elections of the Society based upon the determination made. It is against the said order dated 13.02.2026 passed by the Commissioner that the writ petition giving rise to these two special appeals was filed.

Preliminary Objection

7. Shri Anil Bhushan appearing for the private respondents has raised a preliminary objection as regards maintainability of the present special appeal on the ground that the writ petition had arisen out of an appellate order passed by the Commissioner in exercise of powers under Societies Registration Act, 1860 and, therefore, the present special appeal is not maintainable and the same is barred as per the provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 of the Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952.

8. Refuting the submissions made, Shri Gajendra Pratap Singh has made submissions that special appeal is not barred as the Commissioner had wrongly entertained the appeal against composite order dated 13.06.2025 passed by the Assistant Registrar exercising his power under Section 25(2) and Section 4-B of the Act. Submission is that appeal against the order passed under either of the two provisions does not lie under the Act itself and, therefore, once the Commissioner had no jurisdiction to entertain the appeal, the special appeal arising out of order passed by the learned Single Judge raising a challenge to the order which was without jurisdiction, is very much maintainable.

9. Elaborating his submissions, it is contended by Shri Singh that an appeal is always a creation of statute and the language used in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII makes it clear that the appeal would not be maintainable only when 'appellate jurisdiction is or purported to be exercised under any U.P. Act or Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution'. Submission is that since the U.P. Act, i.e. Act of 1860, itself does not provide an appeal against an order passed either under Section 25(2) or Section 4-B, the exercise undertaken by the Commissioner while passing the order impugned in the writ petition, could not be said to be 'in the exercise or purported exercise of jurisdiction, i.e. the appellate jurisdiction'.

10. In support of his submissions, reliance has been placed by Shri Singh on Sheet Gupta vs. State of U.P. and others : 2009 (4) ADJ 183, Kamleshwar Singh vs. District Inspector of Schools and another: 1997 AWC (Supp) 206 and Mahendra Pratap Bhatt 76 (Clmc) 2015 vs. Saroj Mahana : 2016 (5) ADJ 282.

11. We have considered the submissions made on maintainability of special appeal and have perused the material available on record.

Maintainability of Special Appeal

12. There being no dispute about the fact that the Assistant Registrar had passed a composite order under Section 25(2) and 4-B of the Act, it would be appropriate to reproduce Section 4-B and 25(2) of the Act, 1860. The same are quoted as under:-

"4-B. (1) At the time of registration/renewal of a society, list of members of General Body of that society shall be filed with the Registrar mentioning the name, father's name, address and occupation of the members. The Registrar shall examine the correctness of the list of members of the General Body of such society on the basis of the register of members of the General Body and minutes book thereof, cash book, receipt book of membership fee and bank pass book of the society.

2) If there is any change in the list of members of the General Body of the society referred to in sub-section (1), on account of induction, removal, resignation or death of any member, a modified list of members of General Body, shall be filed with the Registrar, within one month from the date of change.

(3) The list of members of the General Body to be filed with the Registrar under this section shall be signed by two office-bearers and two executive members of the society. - Vide U.P. Act No. 23 of 2013, Section 2 (w.e.f. 9.10.2013).″

Section 25. Disputes regarding election of office-bearers.

(1) .....

2) Where by an order made under sub-section (1), an election is set aside or an office-bearer is held no longer entitled to continue in office or where the Registrar is satisfied that any election of office-bearers of a Society has not been held within the time specified in the rules of that Society, (he may call a meeting of the general body of such Society for electing such office-bearer or office-bearers, and such meeting shall be presided over and be conducted by the Registrar or by any officer authorised by him in this behalf, and the provisions in the rules of the Society relating to meetings and elections shall apply to such meeting and election with necessary modifications.″

13. There is no provision of appeal in the Act,1860 against the order passed under any of the aforesaid two provisions, rather an appeal lies under Section 25(1)(d) against an order passed under sub-Section (1) of Section 25 of the Act which is reproduced as under:-

“Section 25. Dispute regarding election of office-bearers.-(1) The prescribed authority may, on a reference made to it by the Registrar or by at least one-fourth of the members of a society registered in Uttar Pradesh, hear and decide in a summary manner any doubt or dispute in respect of the election or continuance in office of an office-bearers of such society, and may pass such orders in respect thereof as it deems fit:

Provided that the election of an office-bearer shall be set aside where the prescribed authority is satisfied –

a) that any corrupt practice has been committed by such office-bearer; or

(b) that the nomination of any candidate has been improperly rejected; or

(c) that the result of the election in so far as it concerns such office-bearer has been materially affected by the improper acceptance of any nomination or by the improper reception, refusal or rejection of any vote or the reception of any vote which is void or by any non-compliance with the provisions of any rules of the society.

After clause (c), the following clause shall be inserted, namely –

"(d) An appeal against an order made under this sub-section may be preferred to the Commissioner of the Division in whose jurisdiction the headquarter of the Society lies, within one month from the date of communication of such order:

Provided that the appellate authority may admit an appeal after the expiry of such period if the appellant satisfies the appellate authority that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within such period.″

14. Although, in the present case, title of the appeal preferred before the Commissioner, as reflected from his order, indicates Section 25 (d), mere such indication does not make it a competent appeal under the said provision keeping in view the nature of order which was assailed before the Commissioner. Apparently, the order dated 13.06.2025 passed by the Assistant Registrar was not appealable under Section 25(1)(d) and, hence, indication made by the Commissioner to that effect cannot be treated as decisive.

15. As far as Chapter VIII Rule 5 of Allahabad High Court Rules, 1952 is concerned, words 'in the exercise or purported exercise of appellate or revisional jurisdiction under any U.P. Act/Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, any such Act' would mean that such appellate or revisional jurisdiction is available to the concerned authority. Meaning thereby, if, in a given case, the appeal is not provided by the statute itself, it would not clothe the appellate authority with power to entertain and decide the appeal on merits. If the decision on merits, either correct or incorrect, right or wrong, is passed by the appellate authority in an appeal which is not provided by the statute, it would not fall within the meaning and import of 'exercise or purported exercise of appellate jurisdiction'.

16. Words 'purported exercise' appearing in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII are of quite significance, particularly when contention has been raised that even if an authority sitting in appellate/revisional jurisdiction, does not have power/jurisdiction to pass any order, the exercise undertaken by it would be covered by 'purported exercise' of power and, therefore, the special appeal would not be maintainable.

17. In this regard, we may refer to a judgment of Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Sardar Mohammad Ansar Khan vs. State of U.P. and others : 1995 All L.J. 317, wherein question of maintainability of special appeal had arisen from a situation where an order passed by District Inspector of Schools (D.I.O.S.) as an appellate authority was assailed in writ petition and order of the writ Court was challenged in special appeal. The Co-ordinate Bench found that the D.I.O.S. had exercised power under Regulation 3(1)(b) of Chapter II of Regulations framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act and though the said provision relates to determination of seniority etc. of 'teachers', the D.I.O.S. exercised such power in respect of 'clerks'. It was held that the order passed by the D.I.O.S. being without jurisdiction and outside the purview of the Act and the Regulations, the exercise of power by him cannot be said to be 'purported exercise' of appellate jurisdiction. The special appeal was thus found maintainable.

18. We may, however, observe that in the case of Sardar Mohammad Ansar Khan (supra), reference was made to a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Azimunnisa vs. Deputy Custodian : AIR 1961 SC 365, wherein the Hon'ble Supreme Court had indicated that the word 'purport' has many shades of meaning, it means fictitious, what appears on the face of the instruments; the apparent and not the legal import and, therefore any act which purports to be done in exercise of a power is to be deemed to be done within that power notwithstanding that the power is not exercisable. From reading of the above observations of Hon'ble Supreme Court, it may, at the first instance, appear that an order without jurisdiction also falls within the meaning of the words 'purported exercise of power', however, the Co-ordinate Bench in the case of Sardar Mohammad Ansar Khan (supra), took note of the fact that the decision in the case of Azimunnisa (supra) was distinguished by the Madhya Pradesh High Court in Municipal Committee/ Council, Balaghat vs. Meghraj Phojraj Baghrecha and another : AIR 1966 Madh 104, wherein it was held that imposition of a tax by Municipal Board being beyond its jurisdiction and power is not an Act 'purporting to be done under the Act'.

19. With reference to the judgment in the case of Azimunnisa (supra), it was also indicated that the observations were made while considering the effect of Section 8 (2-A) of the Administration of Evacuee Property Act, 1950 (in short 'Evacuee Act'), there was detailed discussion regarding pre-amendment and post-amendment status of the Evacuee Act and the Hon'ble Supreme Court had discussed newly inserted sub-Section (2-A) added to Section 8, which reads as under:-

2-A) "Without prejudice to the generality of the provisions contained in sub-section (2) all property which under any law repealed hereby purports to have vested as evacuee property in any person exercising the powers of Custodian in any State shall, notwithstanding any defect in or the invalidity of, such law or any judgment, decree, order of any Court, be deemed for all purposes to have validly vested in that person, as if the provisions of such law had been enacted by Parliament and such property shall, on the commencement of this Act, be deemed to have been evacuee property declared as such within the meaning of this Act and accordingly, any order made or other action taken by the Custodian or any other authority in relation to such property shall be deemed to have been validly and lawfully made or taken."

20. It was in the light of the aforesaid provision that occasion to interpret word 'purport' had arisen before the Hon'ble Supreme Court however, language incorporated under sub-Section (2-A) of Section 8 of the Evacuee Act is altogether different from the language incorporated in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the Allahabad High Court Rule, 1952. Apparently, in the Evacuee Act, the word 'purport' was used as regards deemed vesting of a property as evacuee property in any person exercising the powers of custodian, notwithstanding any defect in or the invalidity of law, judgment, decree or order and the deeming provision was emphasized so as to validate such vesting as if the provisions of such law had been enacted by Parliament.

21. Contrarily, in Rule 5 of Chapter VIII of the High Court Rules, the language used is plain and simple and words "purported to be exercised under any U.P. Act or Central Act" are not qualified by any further stipulations or explanatory clarification of any nature so as to make further interpretation and, therefore, we take the same view that has been taken by Madhya Pradesh High Court in the case of Meghraj Phojraj Baghrecha (supra), while explaining the judgment in the case of Azimunnisa (supra) and also fully endorse the view taken by the co-ordinate Bench of this Court in the case of Sardar Mohammad Ansar Khan (supra).

22. In the case of Sheet Gupta (supra), a Full Bench of this Court, while dealing with the provisions of Chapter VIII Rule 5 and a previous decision in Vajara Yojna Seed Farm, Kalyanpur (M/s) and others vs. Presiding Officer, Labour Court II, U.P., Kanpur and another: 2003 (1) UPLBEC 496, has laid down that special appeal against an order passed by the writ Court arising out of an appellate order passed under paragraph 28 of the Essential Commodities Distribution Order, 2004 would not be maintainable. In the said case, statutory appeal was itself provided under paragraph 28 of the Distribution Order. The Full Bench took note of a judgment of Hon'ble Supreme Court in Vijay Prakash D. Mehta and Jawahar D. Mehta vs. Collector of Customs (Preventive), Bombay : AIR 1988 SC 2010 wherein observation was made that right to appeal is neither an absolute right nor an ingredient of natural justice, the principles of which must be followed in all judicial and quasi-judicial adjudications and the right is a statutory right and it can be circumscribed by the conditions in the grant.

23. In the case of Kamleshwar Singh (supra), writ petition was filed against an order passed by the D.I.O.S. exercising appellate power. The learned Single Judge allowed the writ petition setting aside the order and remanded the matter to the D.I.O.S. for deciding the dispute. On challenge laid to the order of learned Single Judge, the Division Bench found that the D.I.O.S. earlier happened to be appellate authority but, by virtue of a notification dated 22.08.1992, the said power had been taken away from him and the same was entrusted with Regional Deputy Director of Education, consequently, the D.I.O.S. had ceased to be an appellate authority. Under such circumstances, it was held that the D.I.O.S., not being an appellate authority, his order would not be treated as an order passed in an appeal and, therefore, special appeal raising a challenge to the order passed by the learned Single Judge in writ petition against the order of the D.I.O.S., would be maintainable.

24. In the case of Mahendra Pratap Bhatt (supra), special appeal had arisen out of an order passed by the learned Single Judge on an application under Section 24 C.P.C. and, having found that the learned Single Judge had no territorial jurisdiction to entertain the application and pass order thereon, the special appeal was held maintainable and the order passed by the learned Single Judge was set aside.

25. In view of above discussion, we are of the considered opinion that since the Commissioner had no jurisdiction to entertain and decide the appeal against an order passed either under Section 25(2) or Section 4-B of the Act, 1860, the mere fact that the order had been passed in an appeal which was otherwise not maintainable and was not provided under the Act itself, the present special appeal raising a challenge to the order passed by the learned Single Judge in a writ petition assailing the validity of the order passed by the Commissioner, is maintainable.

Conclusion on maintainability of special appeal:

26. We, accordingly, hold that a special appeal arising out of judgment passed by learned Single Judge in a writ petition under Article 226 of Constitution of India, wherein challenge was laid to an appellate order passed by the Government or any officer or authority, made or purported to be made in the exercise of or purported exercise of appellate jurisdiction under any U.P. Act/Central Act with respect to any of the matters enumerated in the State List or the Concurrent List in the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution, would be maintainable if the appeal itself was not provided under the statute but was entertained or decided either way and the power exercised by the appellate authority would not be treated as 'purported exercise of power'.

On Merits:

27. The Court now proceeds to examine the nature of the order passed by the learned Single Judge wherein, after setting aside the order passed by the Commissioner, the matter has been remitted back to him to decide the appeal only qua order passed under Section 25(2) of the Act.

28. Once we have arrived at a conclusion that the appeal against the order dated 13.06.2025, compositely passed under Section 25(2) and 4-B of the Act, did not lie before the Commissioner, direction for remand to the Commissioner to decide the same qua Section 25(2) of the Act, is not proper. As a matter of fact, learned Single Judge has conferred jurisdiction upon the Commissioner to examine challenge to the order passed by the Assistant Registrar under Section 25(2) of the Act, although the Commissioner otherwise has no jurisdiction under the statute to entertain the appeal.

29. We may observe here that mainly three kinds of jurisdiction are recognized under the law; pecuniary, territorial and inherent. If any Court/authority lacks any of such jurisdictions, the order passed by it would be a nullity. Further, jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon the Court/authority in any manner even based upon consent or acquiescence. Reference in this regard can be made to United Commercial Bank Limited vs. Their Workmen : AIR 1951 SC 230, Kiran Singh vs. Chaman Paswan : AIR 1954 SC 340, Benarsi Silk Palace vs. Commissioner of Income Tax : (1964) 52 ITR 220 (All), Kali Das Wadhwani & Another vs. Jagjiwan Das and another : 1985 (2) ARC 533, Sardar Hasan Siddique vs. State Transport Appellate Tribunal : AIR 1986 Allahabad 132, Karnal Improvement Trust vs. Prakashwati : (1995) 5 SCC 159, U.P. Rajkiya Nirman Nigam Ltd. vs. Indudre Pvt. Ltd. : AIR 1996 SC 1373, S. Sethuraman vs. R. Venkataraman and others: AIR 2007 SC 2499, Collector, Distt. Gwalior and another vs. Cine Exhibitors P. Ltd. and another : AIR 2012 SC 1239.

30. In view of above discussion, the Special Appeal No. 371 of 2026 is allowed.

31. The order dated 13.03.2026 passed by the learned Single Judge to the extent of remanding the matter to Commissioner is hereby set aside.

32. The order dated 13.02.2026 passed by the Commissioner, impugned in the writ petition, being without jurisdiction, is also set aside.

SPECIAL APPEAL DEFECTIVE No. - 337 of 2026

33. This Special Appeal has been reported to be beyond time by six days. An application seeking condonation of delay has been filed. For the reasons stated in the affidavit supporting the application, the same is allowed. Delay in filing the appeal is hereby condoned.

34. This appeal raises a challenge to the same order passed by the learned Single Judge to the extent of conclusion drawn and observations made regarding appellate power of the Commissioner to examine validity of the order passed by the Assistant Registrar under Section 4-B of the Act.

35. Submission has been made by Shri Anil Bhushan that by virtue of amendments made in the Act by the Societies Registration (U.P. Amendment) Act, 2021, (U.P. Act No. 8 of 2022), appeal against any order passed under Sections 4, 4-A and 4-B would be maintainable before the Commissioner. It is contended that appeal lies under Section 4(1-A) against an order made under Section 4 and Section 4-B being part of Section 4, appeal would be maintainable and, therefore, the learned Single Judge has wrongly held the appeal to that extent as not maintainable.

36. Per contra, Shri Gajendra Pratap Singh has made submissions that provision of appeal was added by way of insertion of sub-Section (1-A) after Section 4 and there being no insertion/addition/substitution etc. in other provisions, i.e. Section 4-A or 4-B, appeal against the order passed under Section 4-B does not lie.

37. We have considered the submissions made and have perused the material available on record.

38. It would be appropriate to quote relevant portions of the U.P. Act No. 8 of 2022, by which amendments were made in the Principal Act, w.e.f. 18.07.2022. The same reads as under:-

"3. Amendment of Section 4.-In Section 4 of the principal Act, after sub-section (1), the following sub-section and the proviso shall be inserted, namely:

(1-A) An appeal against an order made under this section may be preferred to the Commissioner of the Division in whose jurisdiction the headquarter of the Society lies, within one month from the date of communication of such order:

Provided that the appellate authority may admit an appeal after the expiry of such period if the appellant satisfies the appellate authority that he had sufficient cause for not preferring the appeal within such period.

4. Amendment of Section 4-B.-For sub-section (2) of Section 4-B of the principal Act, the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:

(2) If there is any change in the list of members of the General Body of the society referred to in sub-section (1), on account of induction, removal, registration or death of any member, a modified list of members of General Body, shall be filed with the Registrar, within one month from the date of change. Any change in the list of General Body shall not be valid unless it is approved by the Managing Body."

39. A bare perusal of the aforesaid provisions of the Amendment Act makes it clear that sub-Section (1-A) was added just after Section 4 and the place of insertion clearly indicates the legislative intent to provide an appeal only against an order passed under Section 4 after its renumbering as Section 4(1) and not against Section 4-B which is altogether a separate and distinct Section. This Court, in Abhishek Pandey vs. State of U.P. and others, 2025 : AHC:213663-DB, has already dealt with the same issue in detail and it has been held as under: -

"10. Once Section 4(1-A) clearly provides for an appeal against an order under Section 4, the said appeal is confined to an order passed in relation to accepting the Committee of Management etc. by the Registrar under Section 4(1). Section 4-B is totally independent of Section 4 as the same deals with the list of members of General Body and has nothing to do with the Committee of Management and once the statute does not provide any appeal qua the order passed under Section 4-B of the Act, the provision as contained under sub-section (1-A) of Section 4 cannot by any stretch of imagination be used for the purpose of maintaining the appeal against an order passed under Section 4-B of the Act."

40. In view of above discussion, we do no find any force in the submissions advanced by Shri Anil Bhushan that appeal also lies against an order under Section 4-B when we find no such provision in the Statute.

41. Accordingly, the challenge laid to part of the order impugned, whereby learned Single Judge has held the appeal against order passed under Section 4-B of the Act as not maintainable, does not call for any interference.

42. Consequently, the Special Appeal Defective No. 337 of 2026 is hereby dismissed.

Liberty to the aggrieved parties

43. We, however, leave it open for the parties aggrieved of the order dated 13.06.2025 passed by the Assistant Registrar to the extent the same is against them, to avail remedy before appropriate forum.

Writ A No. 6502 of 2022

Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether a retired government employee is entitled to interest on post-retiral benefits (pension, gratuity, and commutation) when the payment is delayed solely due to administrative and procedural lapses by the State?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – Petitioner retired as Administrative Officer from State Tax Headquarters, Uttar Pradesh, on 20.09.2019, with an unblemished service record. Minor amounts (Group Insurance, 90% GPF, leave encashment, and pay fixation arrears) were released near or shortly after retirement. Substantial post-retiral benefits—including regular pension, gratuity, and commutation—were sanctioned only on 27.06.2020, and released on 05.07.2020 (a delay of approximately 9 months and 4 days). On 08.07.2022, Respondent No. 3 rejected the petitioner's representation requesting interest for the delayed payment period.

B. Pensionary benefits are not a bounty but a valuable right of a retired employee and that the State authorities are under a statutory obligation to ensure timely processing and release of pensionary dues. All necessary steps regarding preparation of pension papers, verification of service records and completion of procedural formalities are required to be completed well before retirement and that administrative inefficiency or procedural delay cannot be permitted to prejudice a retired employee. Once the period is close to retirement, omissions, imperfections or deficiencies in records are required to be ignored and pensionary benefits are to be processed on the basis of available service records. (Para 12)

C. Uttar Pradesh Pension Cases (Submission, Disposal and Avoidance of Delay) Rules, 1995 cast a mandatory obligation upon the authorities concerned to ensure that the pension and retiral dues are released immediately upon retirement and, in case finalization is not possible, provisional pension is required to be sanctioned without delay. (Para 16)

In the present case, no material has been brought on record to demonstrate that the respondents complied with the aforesaid statutory obligations. The record clearly reflects administrative lapses, procedural delay and lack of timely action on the part of the authorities concerned. Despite the petitioner having retired on 30.09.2019, his regular pension and substantial retiral dues were released only on 05.07.2020 and even according to the respondents themselves, the delay occurred due to procedural formalities relating to issuance of non-payment/no-dues certificates. (Para 17)

No material whatsoever has been brought on record to establish that the petitioner was ever informed regarding any alleged deficiency or pending formality prior to retirement. On the contrary, the respondents themselves have admitted that deductions towards repayment of advances had regularly been made from the salary of the petitioner. Thus, the delay cannot be attributed to the petitioner in any manner whatsoever. (Para 18)

D. The impugned rejection order dated 08.07.2022 is liable to be quashed for the reason that the same is a non-speaking and arbitrary order passed without consideration of the admitted factual position on record. (Para 19)

The petitioner cannot be made to suffer on account of administrative lapses, procedural delays or inter-departmental correspondence attributable entirely to the respondents-State. Pension and retiral benefits constitute valuable rights of a retired employee and delayed payment thereof entitles the employee to grant of reasonable interest. (Para 20)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Facts of the Case

3. The undisputed facts of the present case are that the petitioner retired from service on 30.09.2019 after attaining the age of superannuation from the post of Administrative Officer, State Tax Headquarters, Uttar Pradesh. Certain amounts relating to Group Insurance, G.P.F., leave encashment and arrears were released through separate orders from time to time. The payment of Rs.94,204/- towards Group Insurance was made vide Office Order No.974 dated 27.10.2019. The amount of Rs.1,18,840/- towards 90% G.P.F. was released vide Order No.335 dated 16.09.2019. Earned leave encashment amounting to Rs.6,76,480/- was also paid to the petitioner. In addition thereto, arrears on pay fixation amounting to Rs.1,11,179/- were paid vide Order No.2882 dated 17.09.2019 and an amount of Rs.30,200/- towards arrears of earned leave due to enhancement in the rate of dearness allowance from 12% to 17% was paid vide Order No.3834 dated 15.11.2019. However, despite retirement on 30.09.2019, the petitioner's regular pension, gratuity, commutation and other substantial retiral dues were sanctioned only vide order dated 27.06.2020 passed by the Additional Director, Pension and Treasury, Lucknow and were ultimately released on 05.07.2020 after an inordinate delay of more than nine months.

Submissions on Behalf of the Petitioner

4. Learned counsel for the petitioner has invited attention of this Court towards paragraph-9 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondents-State wherein it has been specifically admitted that the delay in payment of post-retiral dues occurred due to procedural formalities and administrative reasons. It has further been submitted that even in the impugned rejection order dated 08.07.2022, it has specifically been admitted that due to delay in issuance of non-payment/no-dues certificates by the office of the Accountant General, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj, the retiral dues of the petitioner could not be released within time and were consequently paid after considerable delay.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner has further submitted that no disciplinary proceedings or departmental enquiry were ever initiated or contemplated against the petitioner during his entire service tenure and the petitioner possessed an unblemished service record. It is thus argued that there existed absolutely no justification whatsoever for withholding the retiral dues of the petitioner and releasing the same after an inordinate delay of more than nine months.

6. In support of the aforesaid submissions, reliance has been placed upon the judgment rendered by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dr. Uma Agrawal vs. State of U.P., reported in (1999) 3 SCC 438, as well as the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Indrajeet Singh vs. State of U.P., reported in 2008 SCC OnLine All 2738.

Submissions on Behalf of the Respondents

7. Per contra, Shri Sandeep Sharma, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents-State, has opposed the submissions advanced on behalf of the petitioner. It has been submitted that the petitioner himself was responsible for the delay in release of retiral dues inasmuch as the petitioner had availed vehicle/moped advances amounting to Rs.4,500/- and Rs.6,000/- respectively while posted at the Training Centre, Lucknow and had also availed house building advance during service tenure. It has further been argued that the petitioner had not furnished requisite particulars relating to repayment and deductions in time and only after the petitioner furnished necessary details regarding deductions made from his salary towards repayment of the aforesaid advances, correspondence was undertaken with the office of the Accountant General, Uttar Pradesh, Prayagraj and thereafter non-payment/no-dues certificates were issued. Accordingly, it has been contended that the department cannot be held responsible for the delay in release of retiral dues.

Consideration by the Court

8. Perused the record.

9. A perusal of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of the respondents clearly demonstrates that it is not disputed that delay in payment of post-retiral dues to the petitioner occurred on account of procedural formalities and administrative reasons. Even the impugned rejection order itself records that the delay was procedural and not deliberate.

10. So far as the submissions advanced by learned Standing Counsel are concerned, this Court finds that it is not the case of the respondents that the petitioner was ever a defaulter in repayment of loans or advances availed by him during service tenure. On the contrary, the material brought on record clearly establishes that deductions towards repayment of the aforesaid advances were regularly being made from the salary of the petitioner from time to time.

11. Further, at no point of time does it appear from the record that any notice, communication or correspondence was ever made by the respondents requiring the petitioner to complete any alleged deficiency or pending formality relating to the aforesaid advances prior to retirement. No material has been brought on record to demonstrate that the petitioner was ever put to notice regarding any deficiency in records or that despite such notice he failed to complete the required formalities. Thus, the entire stand taken by the respondents in the impugned order appears to be wholly arbitrary, unsupported by record and contrary to the admitted factual position.

Law Laid Down by the Apex Court and Division Bench of this Court

12. The Hon’ble Supreme Court in Dr. Uma Agrawal vs. State of U.P. (supra) has categorically held that pensionary benefits are not a bounty but a valuable right of a retired employee and that the State authorities are under a statutory obligation to ensure timely processing and release of pensionary dues. The Hon'ble Supreme Court further observed that all necessary steps regarding preparation of pension papers, verification of service records and completion of procedural formalities are required to be completed well before retirement and that administrative inefficiency or procedural delay cannot be permitted to prejudice a retired employee. The Hon’ble Supreme Court also emphasized that once the period is close to retirement, omissions, imperfections or deficiencies in records are required to be ignored and pensionary benefits are to be processed on the basis of available service records. For convenience, relevant paragraphs 3, 4 and 5 from the judgment of Dr. Uma Agrawal (supra) is reproduced as under:-

"3. As these delays have increased in the last few years, it has become necessary to refer to the Rules and Departmental instructions which do contain adequate provisions for compilation of all the necessary data and preparation of the necessary documents for disbursement of retiral benefits, well in advance. The present case arises from Uttar Pradesh and we find that the Government of Uttar Pradesh has issued instructions to the effect that "the Head Office, or other authority responsible for preparing the pension papers should initiate the pension case, two years before retirement of the Government servant. At that stage, the essential information necessary for working out the qualifying service should be collected, and the entire service book and other service records should be examined and completed with a view to remove deficiencies andimperfections, if any, in the service book/records. This process should be completed" at least eight months in advance of the date of retirement of the Government servant. The actual computation and preparation of the pension papers should then start and "any deficiency or imperfection, omission which still remains in the service records should be ignored, and the determination of qualifying service should be proceeded with on the basis of entries in the service records, whatever the degree of imperfection to which it might have been possible to bring them by that time". "The process of determining the qualifying service and the average emoluments and the admissible pension and gratuity should be positively completed within a period of 2 months and the pension papers sent to the Accountant-General not later than 6 months before the date of retirement. The said office is to issue the pension payment order (including the order for the payment of the Death-cum-retirement gratuity) one month in advance of the date of retirement". "It should be ensured that the payment of superannuation pension commences on the first of the month following the month in which the government servant retires". This appears to be the clear position in Uttar Pradesh.

4. We may in this connection also refer to F.R. 58 which relates to "preparation of pension papers". It states that "every Head of Office shall undertake the work of preparation of pension papers in Form 7 two years before the date on which the Government servant is due to retire on superannuation or on the date on which he proceeds on leave preparatory to retirement whichever is earlier". F.R. 59 deals with the 'stages for the completion of pension papers'. Sub-clause (1)(a) bears the heading, the first stage, and refers to the verification of service details. There are five parts in this sub-clause. Sub-clause (1)(b) refers to the second stage, namely, making good the omissions in the service book. Sub-clause 1(b) (ii) is important and it states very clearly as follows:

"Every effort shall be made to complete the verification of service, as in clause (a) and to make good omissions, imperfections or deficiencies referred to sub-clause (i) of this clause. Any omission, imperfections or deficiencies including the portion of service shown as unverified in the service book which it has not been possible to verify in accordance with the procedure laid down in clause (a) shall be ignored and service qualifying for pension shall be determined on the basis of the entries in the book,"

This directive in the rules is obviously intended to see that once the period is quite close to 10 months before the retirement of an employee, further time is not to be wasted in verifying data which it has not been possible to verify by following the procedure in sub-clause (1)(a) of F.R. 59. Sub-clause (1) (c) refers to the third stage and it says that at least 10 months before the date of retirement, the Head office shall take various steps by issuing a Certificate to the government servant and the officer can offer his remarks and thereafter, he shall be furnished Form 4 and Form 5 which he has to fill-up and send to the Head Office at least 8 months before the date of retirement. F.R. 60 refers to 'completion of pension papers' in Part -1 of Form 7 at least 6 months before the date of retirement of the government servant. F.R. 61 deals with the 'Forwarding of Pension Papers to Accounts Officer', in Form 5 and Form 7 with a covering letter in Form 8 along with service book duly completed, up to date. and other documents. This has to be done at least 6 months before the date of retirement. Rule 63 refers to recovery of amounts due by the government servant and the particulars in this behalf are to be sent at least 2 months before the date of retirement, so that the same could be recovered from the gratuity. F.R. 64 deals with provisional pension. F.R. 65 requires the Accounts Officer to assess the amount of pension and gratuity at least one month before the date of retirement. F.R. 68 requires interest to be paid on delayed payment of gratuity. As already stated, in cases of delayed payment of pension, this Court has levied interest at 12% per annum in several cases.

5. We have referred in sufficient detail to the Rules and instructions which prescribe the time-schedule for the various steps. to be taken in regard to the payment of pension and other retiral benefits. This we have done to remind the various governmental departments of their duties in initiating various steps at least two years in advance of the date of retirement. If the rules/instructions are followed strictly much of the litigation can be avoided and retired government servants will not feel harassed because after all, grant of pension is not a bounty but a right of the government servant. Government is obliged to follow the Rules mentioned in the earlier part of this order in letter and in spirit. Delay in settlement of retiral benefits is frustrating and must be avoided at all costs. Such delays are occurring even in regard to family pensions for which too there is a prescribed procedure. This is indeed unfortunate. In cases where a retired government servant claims interest for delayed payment, the Court can certainly keep in mind the time-schedule prescribed in the rules/instructions apart from other relevant factors applicable to each case."

13. Similarly, the Division Bench judgment of this Court in Indrajeet Singh vs. State of U.P. (supra) has reiterated that retiral benefits cannot be withheld on account of administrative lapses or inter-departmental correspondence and that a retired employee is entitled to interest upon delayed payment of pensionary dues.

Statutory Scheme Governing Pensionary Benefits.

14. This Court further finds that the State of Uttar Pradesh has framed the Uttar Pradesh Pension Cases (Submission, Disposal and Avoidance of Delay) Rules, 1995, wherein a detailed statutory time schedule has been prescribed for completion of pension formalities, verification of service records, issuance of no-dues certificates and forwarding of pension papers well prior to the date of retirement. The object behind the aforesaid statutory framework is to ensure that a retired employee is not compelled to suffer financial hardship after retirement on account of administrative lapses or procedural delays attributable to the authorities.

15. The relevant chart prescribed under the Uttar Pradesh Pension Cases (Submission, Disposal and Avoidance of Delay) Rules, 1995 is reproduced below:-

(18)	Contest of the legal suits filed in connection with pension matters.	Counter-affidavit should be submitted as per order of the Court or within two months from the date of receipt of writ petition, whichever is earlier.	Defendant of the department concerned.

16. The statutory schedule prescribed under the aforesaid Rules clearly mandates that completion and verification of service book, review of deficiencies, issuance of no-dues certificates, forwarding of pension papers and issuance of pension payment orders are all required to be completed well before the date of retirement. The Rules further cast a mandatory obligation upon the authorities concerned to ensure that pension and retiral dues are released immediately upon retirement and, in case finalization is not possible, provisional pension is required to be sanctioned without delay.

Findings

17. In the present case, no material has been brought on record to demonstrate that the respondents complied with the aforesaid statutory obligations. The record clearly reflects administrative lapses, procedural delay and lack of timely action on the part of the authorities concerned. Despite the petitioner having retired on 30.09.2019, his regular pension and substantial retiral dues were released only on 05.07.2020 and even according to the respondents themselves, the delay occurred due to procedural formalities relating to issuance of non-payment/no-dues certificates.

18. This Court further finds that no material whatsoever has been brought on record to establish that the petitioner was ever informed regarding any alleged deficiency or pending formality prior to retirement. On the contrary, the respondents themselves have admitted that deductions towards repayment of advances had regularly been made from the salary of the petitioner. Thus, the delay cannot be attributed to the petitioner in any manner whatsoever.

19. The impugned rejection order dated 08.07.2022 as contained in Annexure-1 to the writ petition is liable to be quashed for the reason that the same is a non-speaking and arbitrary order passed without consideration of the admitted factual position on record. The impugned order completely fails to consider that the respondents themselves have admitted that the delay occurred due to procedural and administrative reasons attributable to the authorities concerned. The impugned order further fails to record any finding whatsoever demonstrating that the petitioner was guilty of suppression of facts, non-cooperation or default in repayment of advances. No material has been referred to in the impugned order to establish that any notice was ever issued to the petitioner regarding alleged deficiencies prior to retirement. The reasoning assigned in the impugned order is therefore wholly unsustainable in law and contrary to the statutory Rules governing pensionary benefits as well as the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Dr. Uma Agrawal vs. State of U.P. and by the Division Bench of this Court in Indrajeet Singh vs. State of U.P.

20. This Court is therefore of the considered opinion that the petitioner cannot be made to suffer on account of administrative lapses, procedural delays or inter-departmental correspondence attributable entirely to the respondents-State. Pension and retiral benefits constitute valuable rights of a retired employee and delayed payment thereof entitles the employee to grant of reasonable interest.

21. In view of the facts and circumstances of the case and having regard to the law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court as well as this Court, the petitioner is legally entitled to payment of interest upon delayed disbursement of post-retiral dues.

Conclusion

22. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed.

23. The impugned rejection order dated 08.07.2022 passed by respondent no.3 is hereby quashed.

24. A writ in the nature of Mandamus is issued commanding the respondents to calculate and pay interest at the rate of 8% per annum upon delayed payment of retiral dues including pension, gratuity and commutation for the period from 01.10.2019 to 04.07.2020.

25. The aforesaid exercise shall be completed within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order before the competent authority.

26. In case the aforesaid amount is not paid within the stipulated period, the petitioner shall also be entitled to additional interest at the rate of 10% per annum from the date of default till actual payment.

Writ A No. 7331 of 2007

State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether a dependent family member of a deceased employee, having accepted and joined a post on compassionate grounds based on their initial qualifications, can subsequently claim appointment to a higher post on compassionate grounds after acquiring higher educational qualifications?

Headnotes

A. Education/Service Law - Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982: Section 3, 16; U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921: Regulations 103 to 107 of Chapter III - The petitioner's father died in harness while working as an Assistant Teacher on 26.05.2003. Applying for compassionate appointment, the petitioner (then holding a B.A. degree) was appointed to a Class IV (Peon) post on 24.01.2004, which he joined on 30.01.2004. After joining, the petitioner acquired higher qualifications (B.Ed. and M.A. in English).

In 2007, upon a vacancy arising due to a promotion in the institution, the petitioner applied through the Management Committee/Principal for appointment to the higher post of Assistant Teacher (L.T. Grade) on compassionate grounds. The DIOS, Sultanpur, rejected the petitioner's representation on 17.10.2007. The petitioner challenged this rejection in the writ petition.

B. Compassionate appointment is a relief against immense financial hardship caused by the sudden and unforeseen loss of the earning member of a family. In such event, when a dependant family member of the deceased employee is provided appointment on compassionate basis, it is done in order to ensure that the family members are not subjected to impoverishment. Therefore, such appointment which is arising out of exceptional circumstances, cannot be used as a ladder to climb up in seniority by claiming a higher post merely on the basis that he/she is eligible for such post. (Para 25)

Once a dependent of a deceased employee is granted compassionate appointment, there cannot be second/further consideration for appointment to a higher post on compassionate ground. Accordingly, the order dated 17.10.2007 passed by the DIOS, Sultanpur does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and hence no interference is called for. (Para 26)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Pt. S. Chandra
For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard Shailesh Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has prayed for the following reliefs :

"(i) Issue a Writ, Order, or, Direction in the nature of the Certiorari thereby quashing the impugned order dated 17.10.2007 passed by the District Inspector of Schools District Sultanpur [the opposite party no. 03] and as contained in Annexure No. 11 accompanying the instant Writ Petition.

(ii) Issue a Writ, Order or Direction in the nature of the Mandamus thereby commanding and directing to the Opposite Parties to appoint the petitioner on the post Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade cadre on compassionate ground and allow the petitioner to work as the Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade cadre in the Ramkali Balika Inter College, District Sultanpur and pay salary.

(iii) Issue a Writ, Order or Direction in the nature of Mandamus thereby commanding and directing to the Opposite Parties to pay salary to the petitioner as the Assistant Teacher L.T. Grade cadre and the Opposite Party No. 03 [the District Inspector of Schools Sultanpur] kindly be directed to accept the Resolution dated 16.07.2007 of the Committee of Management of the Ramkali Balika Inter College, District Sultanpur."

3. The brief facts of the present case are that the father of the petitioner, namely, late Raja Ram Jaiswal, while working as an Assistant Teacher at Mustquim Inter College, Gyanipur, Sultanpur, died on 26.05.2003. On account of his death, the petitioner applied for compassionate appointment, pursuant to which he was appointed to the post of Peon at Ramkali Balika Inter College, Sultanpur, vide order dated 24.01.2004 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Sultanpur (hereinafter referred to as "DIOS").

4. The petitioner joined the post of Peon in the said institution on 30.01.2004. However, prior thereto, he had submitted a letter dated 29.01.2004 addressed to the DIOS, Sultanpur, wherein he claimed appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, being duly qualified for the said post. Thereafter, on 10.07.2007, the petitioner submitted an application to the Manager of the Institution through the Principal, claiming appointment as an Assistant Teacher on compassionate grounds as per his qualifications. The said application was forwarded by the Principal of the Institution with no objection. Thereafter, the Committee of Management took a decision to appoint the petitioner to the post of Assistant Teacher and referred the matter to the DIOS, Sultanpur for appointment under Section 16 of the Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Services Selection Board Act, 1982 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1982"). Subsequently, the petitioner submitted a representation dated 19.09.2007 to the DIOS, Sultanpur, which was rejected vide order dated 17.10.2007, which is under challenge in the present writ petition.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner, assailing the order dated 17.10.2007, has submitted that Regulations 103 to 107 of Chapter III framed under U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 read with section 3 of the Act, 1982 provide for compassionate appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. Referring particularly to Regulation 103, it has been contended that a family member of a deceased teacher is entitled to be appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher in the Trained Graduate Grade, provided he possesses the prescribed requisite academic qualifications along with the requisite training eligibility and is otherwise fit for appointment.

6. It has further been submitted that under Regulation 105, the District Committee is the authority competent to deal with the selection for compassionate appointments. However, in the case of the petitioner, the representation has been rejected by the DIOS, Sultanpur. Hence, the decision taken by the DIOS, Sultanpur is without jurisdiction and is non est in the eyes of law.

7. It has further been submitted that after the promotion of one Smt. Girish Kumari Jaiswal, who was working as an L.T. Grade Teacher to the post of Lecturer in Sociology, a vacancy arose on the post of Assistant Teacher. As such, the petitioner ought to have been appointed to the post of Assistant Teacher against the said vacant post. However, while passing the impugned order dated 17.10.2007, the DIOS, Sultanpur failed to take into consideration the relevant material facts and as such, the order dated 17.10.2007 is liable to be set aside and an appropriate direction should be issued for appointing the petitioner to the post of Assistant Teacher on compassionate grounds.

8. Reliance has also been placed on the order dated 22.03.1996 issued by the Director of Education (Madhyamik), Lucknow, which provide for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in the L.T. Grade, as per the candidate′s qualifications on compassionate grounds. Reference has also been made to the letter dated 22.09.1997, which is a reminder issued by the Director of Education (Madhyamik), Lucknow to all the DIOSs, whereby certain information was sought in respect of compassionate appointments.

9. Learned Standing Counsel, on the other hand, has submitted that the petitioner was appointed on compassionate grounds vide office order dated 24.01.2004 to a Class IV post and at that point of time, the petitioner possessed the educational qualification of B.A. At that stage, the petitioner was not qualified for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher, as he was merely a graduate. Subsequently, petitioner acquired the qualification of B.Ed. and also completed his M.A. (English) and thereafter submitted a representation dated 19.09.2007 seeking appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher in the L.T. Grade.

10. It has been submitted by the learned Standing Counsel that the provisions of Regulation 103 would have applied to the petitioner at the relevant point of time for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher subject to the availability of the post. However, in the case of the petitioner, he lacked qualification for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher at the relevant time. As such, he was granted appointment to a Class IV post and that too in a different institution from the one in which his father was employed as a Teacher under Regulation 106 of Chapter III of the Regulations framed under the U.P. Intermediate Education Act, 1921 as no post was available in the institution where his father was working. The said regulation amended vide notification dated 02.02.1995 provides for grant of compassionate appointment in any another institution of the district, if no post is available in the institution where the deceased employee had been working.

11. It has further been submitted that the petitioner was granted appointment vide order dated 24.01.2004 as per his qualifications at the relevant point of time and therefore, he cannot subsequently claim appointment to a higher post after acquiring higher qualifications.

12. The stand of the respondents is that, once the benefit of compassionate appointment has been granted to the petitioner on a Class IV post, he is not entitled to claim compassionate appointment for a second time on a higher post.

13. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record, the moot question which arises for consideration is whether the petitioner is entitled to grant of compassionate appointment on the post of Assistant Teacher after acquiring higher qualification subsequent to his appointment on compassionate grounds.

14. Compassionate appointment is a concept which has evolved in our service jurisprudence to meet situations where an employee dies while in service. Appointment on compassionate grounds recognizes that the family of an employee who dies in harness is left to fend for itself without the support of the wage earner upon whom it was dependent. It is an exception to the principle of equality of opportunity in matters of public employment, guaranteed under Article 16 of the Constitution, which requires a level playing field for all prospective applicants seeking employment. Appointing a person to public employment under the State or its instrumentalities merely on the basis of relationship with a deceased government servant would violate Articles 14 and 16 of the Constitution, as it would deprive society at large of an equal opportunity to apply for and seek selection to the post in question.

15. Compassionate appointment is, however, accepted as a valid exception to the general rule because its rationale is founded on the principle that there is an inherent public interest in protecting the dependents of employees from the financial destitution which may result from the untimely death of the employee while in service. The exception is, therefore, founded not merely on the existence of a family relationship, but on dependency and financial need arising from the death of the wage earner during service.

16. Being an exception, its contours and ambit are precisely defined and tailored so as to maintain proportionality between the reason for the exception and the means adopted to achieve its purpose.

17. A claim for compassionate appointment can be made only where a policy has been laid down for that purpose and in the absence of any such policy, there can be no right or claim to compassionate appointment. A person appointed on compassionate grounds does not, in that sense, step into the shoes of the deceased employee; rather, he or she is a fresh appointee through direct recruitment, to whom employment is granted on a post or position for which compassionate appointment is available.

18. Hon'ble the Supreme Court, in the case of Umesh Kumar Nagpal v. State of Haryana and Others reported in (1994) 4 SCC 138 opined that the whole object of granting compassionate appointment is to enable the family to tide over the sudden financial crisis and such relief is granted to the dependent family members of the deceased employee to save them from destitution. Paragraph 2 of the said judgment is reproduced hereinbelow:

"2. The question relates to the considerations which should guide while giving appointment in public services on compassionate ground. It appears that there has been a good deal of obfuscation on the issue. As a rule, appointments in the public services should be made strictly on the basis of open invitation of applications and merit. No other mode of appointment nor any other consideration is permissible. Neither the Governments nor the public authorities are at liberty to follow any other procedure or relax the qualifications laid down by the rules for the post. However, to this general rule which is to be followed strictly in every case, there are some exceptions carved out in the interests of justice and to meet certain contingencies. One such exception is in favour of the dependants of an employee dying in harness and leaving his family in penury and without any means of livelihood. In such cases, out of pure humanitarian consideration taking into consideration the fact that unless some source of livelihood is provided, the family would not be able to make both ends meet, a provision is made in the rules to provide gainful employment to one of the dependants of the deceased who may be eligible for such employment. The whole object of granting compassionate employment is thus to enable the family to tide over the sudden crisis. The object is not to give a member of such family a post much less a post for post held by the deceased. What is further, mere death of an employee in harness does not entitle his family to such source of livelihood. The Government or the public authority concerned has to examine the financial condition of the family of the deceased, and it is only if it is satisfied, that but for the provision of employment, the family will not be able to meet the crisis that a job is to be offered to the eligible member of the family. The posts in Classes III and IV are the lowest posts in non-manual and manual categories and hence they alone can be offered on compassionate grounds, the object being to relieve the family, of the financial destitution and to help it get over the emergency. The provision of employment in such lowest posts by making an exception to the rule is justifiable and valid since it is not discriminatory. The favourable treatment given to such dependant of the deceased employee in such posts has a rational nexus with the object sought to be achieved, viz., relief against destitution. No other posts are expected or required to be given by the public authorities for the purpose. It must be remembered in this connection that as against the destitute family of the deceased there are millions of other families which are equally, if not more destitute. The exception to the rule made in favour of the family of the deceased employee is in consideration of the services rendered by him and the legitimate expectations, and the change in the status and affairs, of the family engendered by the erstwhile employment which are suddenly upturned."

19. The issue which requires consideration in the present case is whether a dependent family member of a deceased employee, after having been appointed to a post on compassionate grounds, can subsequently seek appointment from the employer to a higher post. In this regard, the issue as to whether a second option can be exercised by the dependent family member of a deceased employee, after the first option for compassionate appointment has already been exercised and the dependent has joined the post to which such appointment was granted, was considered in the case of State of Rajasthan v. Umrao Singh reported in (1994) 6 SCC 560.

20. Hon'ble the Supreme Court, in the case of Umrao Singh (supra) has held that once the right to be considered for appointment on compassionate grounds has been consummated, any further or second consideration for appointment to a higher post on compassionate grounds would not arise. Paragraph 8 of the said judgment is reproduced hereinbelow:

"Admittedly the respondent's father died in harness while working as Sub-Inspector, CID (Special Branch) on 16-3-1988. The respondent filed an application on 8-4-1988 for his appointment on compassionate ground as Sub-Inspector or LDC according to the availability of vacancy. On a consideration of his plea, he was appointed to the post of LDC by order dated 14-12-1989. He accepted the appointment as LDC. Therefore, the right to be considered for the appointment on compassionate ground was consummated. No further consideration on compassionate ground would ever arise. Otherwise, it would be a case of "endless compassion". Eligibility to be appointed as Sub-Inspector of Police is one thing, the process of selection is yet another thing. Merely because of the so-called eligibility, the learned Single Judge of the High Court was persuaded to the view that direction be issued under proviso to Rule 5 of Rules which has no application to the facts of this case.

21. During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner referred to the judgment passed in Special Appeal No.955 of 2007 "Anjani Pratap Singh v. State of U.P. and Others", decided by a Division Bench of this Court vide judgment and order dated 28.11.2007.

22. The reliance placed by learned counsel for the petitioner is misconceived, as the facts and circumstances of the present case are quite distinct. In the case of Anjani Pratap Singh (supra), a recommendation had been made for appointment to a Class III post at the time of compassionate appointment. However, instead of granting appointment to a Class III post, the appointment was made to a Class IV post. In those circumstances, the Division Bench interfered and directed that the appointment be given on a Class III post.

23. In the present case, the petitioner was granted compassionate appointment to a Class IV post in a different college, as there was no vacant post available in the institution where the petitioner's father was working at the time of his death. The compassionate appointment was granted to the petitioner in accordance with his qualifications and he was not qualified at the relevant point of time for appointment to the post of Assistant Teacher. This fact is not in dispute.

24. It is the petitioner's own case that after being granted compassionate appointment in 2004, he acquired additional qualifications of B.Ed. and M.A. (English) and subsequently made a representation seeking compassionate appointment to the higher post of Assistant Teacher. Thus, the benefit of the judgment rendered in the case of Anjani Pratap Singh (supra), which is based on a different set of facts, cannot be extended to the case of the petitioner.

25. Recently, the issue also came up for consideration before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Civil Appeal No.12640-12643 of 2025, titled The Director of Town Panchayat and Others v. M. Jayabal and Another, decided on 12.12.2025. In the aforesaid case, compassionate appointment was initially granted on the post of Sweeper and thereafter a claim was made for appointment to a higher post, which was allowed by the High Court directing the department to grant appointment to the higher post of Junior Assistant. The judgment was challenged before a Division Bench, which also affirmed the order of the learned Single Judge and thereafter the matter was challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court. Paragraph 12 of the said judgment is reproduced hereinbelow:

"Keeping in view the core objective behind appointment on compassionate basis, as has been discussed in a catena of judgments of this Court, it is well settled that compassionate appointment is a relief against immense financial hardship caused by the sudden and unforeseen loss of the earning member of a family. In such event, when a dependant family member of the deceased employee is provided appointment on compassionate basis, it is done in order to ensure that the family members are not subjected to impoverishment. Therefore, such appointment which is arising out of exceptional circumstances, cannot be used as a ladder to climb up in seniority by claiming a higher post merely on the basis that he/she is eligible for such post."

(Emphasis supplied)

26. In view of the aforesaid settled position of law as indicated hereinabove, this Court is of the considered view that once a dependent of a deceased employee is granted compassionate appointment, there cannot be second/further consideration for appointment to a higher post on compassionate ground. Accordingly, the order dated 17.10.2007 passed by the District Inspector of Schools, Sultanpur does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and hence no interference is called for and the instant writ petition is dismissed.

27. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE ANISH KUMAR GUPTA, J.

Writ A No. 9485 of 2023

Shripal ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether the petitioner was eligible for regularization under the 2016 Rules?
(b) Whether the state is justified in fixing an artificial cutoff date (09.11.2023) to deny the minimum pay scale to daily-wage workers who complete 10 years of continuous service after that date?

Headnotes

A. Labour Law - The petitioner was engaged as a daily-wage worker by the Forest Department in February 2015 and has been continuously working since then. The petitioner previously filed Writ-A No. 20449 of 2022, where the court directed the respondents to consider his claim for minimum pay scale. On 21.01.2023, Respondent No. 3 (Prabhagiya Vanadhikari, Pilibhit Tiger Reserve) rejected his claim for regularization, stating he did not meet the eligibility cutoffs under the Rules, 2016.

The Forest Department issued guidelines granting the minimum of the pay scale (₹18,000/- per month) to daily wagers who completed 10 years of continuous service. However, the memo restricted this benefit strictly to workers who had completed 10 years on or before an artificial cutoff date of 09.11.2023 (the date of an interim order in a lead case).

The petitioner challenged the rejection order and sought: Quashing of the order dated 21.01.2023, Grant of minimum pay scale as he approached/completed 10 years of continuous service, Directions for regularization and decision on his representation.

B. The rationale behind the office memo dated 24.09.2024 appears to be reasonable enough to grant the minimum pay scale to each and every person who has completed 10-20 years of continuous service. From the cumulative understanding of 2001 rules, 2016 Rules and directions issued by the Apex Court in Putti Lal's case and the office memo dated 24.09.2024, the rationale behind grant of minimum pay scale is that the persons, who are continuously working since long period and were eligible for regularization, the direction is to grant minimum pay scale to them. However, in the said Office Memo dated 24.09.2024, the cutoff date of 09.11.2023 appears to have been fixed without any rationale behind it as it was issued to fill up the gap till the policy is framed by the State. (Para 9, 11)

The Apex Court has directed that all such candidates, who are eligible for regularization in terms of 2001 Rules and their claim for regularization could not be considered and will take time to get finalized, would be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale instead of the minimum wages, which were being paid to them. 2001 Regularization Rules had provided the cutoff date from 29.06.1991 till 21.12.2001. Likewise 2016 Rules provided the cutoff dates of 31.12.2001 and 12.09.2016 between which, if any candidate is continuously working, then they would become eligible for regularization. In 2001 Rules, approximately ten years' period and in 2016 Rules, approximately 15 years' period has been considered to make a person eligible for regularization. (Para 13, 14)

As per the directions of the Apex Court in Putti Lal (infra), the grant of minimum pay scale is subject to the eligibility of the candidate for regularization and consequently the period more than ten years of continuous service has been considered appropriate and likewise in the office memo dated 29.04.2024 also, the respondents have taken into consideration the ten years' continuous service to make a person eligible for grant of minimum pay scale. (Para 14)

Therefore, it is provided that each and every person, who has completed 10 years continuous service as daily wager/Class-IV employee as on 09.11.2023 as provided in office memo dated 24.09.2024 or would complete 10 years service subsequently, shall be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale and while calculating the continuous service, the respondent shall also ignore the artificial breaks, if any, not exceeding one year at a time and the office memo dated 24.09.2024, is modified accordingly. (Para 15)

Writ petition disposed of with a direction to the respondents to verify whether the petitioner has completed 10 years continuous service and if yes, the petitioner shall be granted minimum pay scale. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Ramendra Kumar Shukla
For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Anish Kumar Gupta, J.)

1. Supplementary affidavit filed on behalf of the petitioner today in Court, is taken on record.

2. Heard Sri Ramendra Kumar Shukla, learned counsel for petitioner, Sri Pradeept Kumar Shahi, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel assisted by Sri Pradeep Singh, learned Standing Counsel for the State.

3. The instant petition has been filed with the following prayer:

"I. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of certiorari to quash the order dated 21.01.2023 passed by Office of Prabhagiya Vanadhikari, Pilibhit Tiger Riserve Pilibhit i.e. respondent no.3,

II. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding to the respondents to pay minimum of the pay scale to the petitioner in the light of Judgment passed by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Shobha Shanker Dubey and Mohan Swaroop and others cases bearing no. Civil appeal no. 10956 of 2018 and Civil misc. writ petition no.11964 of 2018 order dated 14.11.2018 and 17.11.2018.

III. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding the respondent no.3 to regularized the petitioner in the aforesaid post.IV. Issue a writ order of direction in the nature of mandamus commanding to the respondents to consider and decide the representation dated 22.03.2023 filed by the petitioner within specific time granted by this Hon'ble Court (Annexure no2) to this writ petition."

4. In the instant petition, the petitioner has claimed that he was engaged on daily wages by the Forest Department from February 2015 and since then, he is continuously working. Previously, the petitioner had filed Writ-A No. 20449 of 2022 (Shri Pal vs. State of UP and 3 others), which was disposed of by order dated 08.12.2022 directing the respondents to consider the claim of the petitioner for grant of minimum pay scale within a period of three months. Thereafter, vide order dated 21.01.2023, the claim for regularization of the petitioner was rejected as he was not eligible in terms of Uttar Pradesh Regularization of Persons Working on Daily Wages, Work Charge, or Contract in Government Departments (Group C & D Posts) Rules, 2016 (in short, 'Rules, 2016') for regularization.

5. So far as the prayer of the petitioner with regard to regularization is concerned, from the admitted facts, the petitioner is not eligible for regularization in terms of 2016 Rules. Accordingly, this Court do not find any illegality in the impugned order dated 21.01.2023.

6. However, the petitioner has also claimed that he should be granted the minimum pay scale as he has completed 10 years continuous service with the Forest Department. Though, he is not eligible for regularization but since the respondents have already granted the minimum pay scale to the persons, who have completed 10 years of continuous service vide office memo dated 24.09.2024. However, in that Office Memo, a cutoff date of 09.11.2023 has been fixed by the respondents.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the petitioner is also a similarly situated person and no artificial cutoff date can be fixed in such matters for grant of minimum pay scale to some individuals, who have completed 10 years service up to 09.11.2023, but the persons who are completing 10 years service after 09.11.2023 can be denied the grant of minimum pay scale. In such view of the matter, learned counsel for the petitioner submits that since the petitioner has completed the 10 years of continuous service, therefore, the minimum pay scale should be accorded to the petitioner.

8. Learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State relies upon the office memo dated 24.09.2024 and submits that in the said office memo, the basis for grant of minimum pay scale is 10 years continuous service to the persons as daily wagers or Class IV employees. However, the said date 09.11.2023 was fixed in terms of the order dated 09.11.2023 passed by this Court in the lead matter being Writ-A No. 9383 of 2023 (Vijay Kumar Srivastava vs. State of UP and 2 others). However, the Additional Chief Standing Counsel submits that since the cutoff date has been fixed by the department, so every person who has completed 10 years continuous service on 09.11.2023 has been granted a minimum pay scale. Since the petitioner has not completed 10 years continuous service as on 09.11.2023, he is not eligible and entitled for grant of minimum pay scale.

9. Having heard the rival submissions so made by the learned counsel for the parties, this Court has carefully gone through the record of the case. From the perusal of the background of the instant cases, which has been previously settled by the Apex Court in State of U.P. vs. Putti Lal, 2006 (9) SCC 337, it is apparent that since there were no effective regularization rules and the candidates who were working since long and when the regularization rules were framed and implementation thereof was awaited, the Apex Court has provided vide its judgment dated 21.02.2002 that all such candidates who are eligible for regularization in terms of Uttar Pradesh Regularisation of Daily Wages Appointments on Group 'D' Posts Rules, 2001 (in short, 'Rules, 2001'), but could not be regularized or the regularization process is still incomplete, they shall be granted the minimum pay scale. Subsequently, 2016 Rules were also brought by the State Government, which provided the period of service from particular dates to make a person eligible for regularization and since thereafter, though no further rules with regard to regularization are available. In 2001 Rules, the provision was that a person who is working since prior to 29.06.1991 and continuously working till 21.12.2001, is eligible for regularization and in terms of judgment of Putti Lal (supra), till the consideration of his claim for regularization, he is entitled for minimum pay scale.

10. Likewise it is provided in the 2016 Rules that a person who is working prior to 31.12.2001 till 12.09.2016, he is eligible for regularization in terms of 2016 Rules. Due to various directions passed in the lead matter i.e. Writ-A No. 9383 of 2023 (Vijay Kumar Srivastava vs. State of UP and 2 others), repeatedly this Court has asked the State Government to frame the policy with regard to the grant of minimum pay scale as well.

11. In terms of the aforesaid directions, the respondents have come up with the office memo dated 24.09.2024 and has provided that any candidate who has continuously worked for 10 years or 20 years as on 09.11.2023, the cutoff date, he would be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale. Thus, from the cumulative understanding of 2001 rules, 2016 Rules and directions issued by the Apex Court in Putti Lal's case and the office memo dated 24.09.2024, the rationale behind grant of minimum pay scale is that the persons, who are continuously working since long period and were eligible for regularization, the direction is to grant minimum pay scale to them. The rationale behind the office memo dated 24.09.2024 appears to be reasonable enough to grant the minimum pay scale to each and every person who has completed 10-20 years of continuous service. However, in the said Office Memo dated 24.09.2024, the cutoff date of 09.11.2023 appears to have been fixed without any rationale behind it as it was issued to fill up the gap till the policy is framed by the State. For ready reference, the office memo dated 24.09.2024 is being reproduced herein under:

12. In Putti Lal (supra), the Apex Court has made the following observations with regard to payment of minimum pay scale :

"3. On behalf of the employees an IA had been filed claiming that they should at least be allowed their regular wages during the pendency of the appeals, but by order dated 27-9-1999 that prayer was rejected and it was held that the persons working will be paid only the amount payable to a daily-wager. When these matters had been posted for hearing before the Court on 1-5-2001, after hearing the parties for a considerable length of time, the Court felt that the impugned direction of the High Court for providing a scheme for regularisation of all the daily-wage workers/muster-roll employees under the Forest Department who have rendered 10 years of service or more, should be regularised by making appropriate scheme. The Court directed that the scheme should be framed within three months from the date of the order. As the State of U.P. was bifurcated into two States and the State of Uttaranchal had come into existence, by a subsequent order the State of Uttaranchal was also impleaded as a party and it had been granted time to file its response. Pursuant to the aforesaid direction of the Court dated 1-5-2001 the State of U.P. has framed a set of rules in exercise of power conferred under the proviso to Article 309 of the Constitution called ?the Uttar Pradesh Regularisation of Daily Wagers (Appointment on Group ?D? Posts) Rules, 2001?. It appears that a similar rule has been framed for regularisation of Group ?C? daily-wage employees. Both these statutory rules would govern the case of all daily-wagers appointed in any department including the Forest Department, which Department was before us pursuant to the direction of the Division Bench of the Allahabad High Court. Since a statutory rule has been framed indicating the manner in which the daily-wagers can be regularised, question of framing any further scheme by the State of Uttar Pradesh does not arise.

4. Mr Bahuguna, learned Senior Counsel appearing for the employees, made a grievance with regard to some of the provisions of the aforesaid Rules but we are not inclined to entertain that grievance and issue any direction in this case inasmuch as grievance, if any, emanating from the aforesaid statutory rules would be on a fresh cause of action which could be assailed before an appropriate forum by the aggrieved party. Mr Bahuguna, however, contended that so far as the entitlement of these daily-wagers until they are regularised in accordance with the statutory rule to get minimum of the pay scale is concerned, should be granted by this Court which is not being given because of the interim order of stay that had been passed by this Court and the dismissal of the IA filed by the employees. According to him, a judgment of a learned Single Judge in respect of the Forest Department employees unequivocally held that the daily-wagers should be paid in the minimum of the pay scale as is available to a regularly employed worker in the corresponding cadre.

5. In several cases this Court applying the principle of equal pay for equal work has held that a daily-wager, if he is discharging the similar duties as those in the regular employment of the Government, should at least be entitled to receive the minimum of the pay scale though he might not be entitled to any increment or any other allowance that is permissible to his counterpart in the Government. In our opinion that would be the correct position and we, therefore, direct that these daily-wagers would be entitled to draw at the minimum of the pay scale being received by their counterparts in the Government and would not be entitled to any other allowances or increment so long as they continue as daily-wagers. The question of their regular absorption will obviously be dealt with in accordance with the statutory rules already referred to.

6. So far as the State of Uttaranchal is concerned, a scheme for regularisation of daily workers has been produced before us which prima facie does not appear to be objectionable excepting the provision regarding qualification for regularisation. Be it stated that the qualification essential for being regularised would be the qualification as was relevant on the date a particular employee was taken in as a daily-wager and not the qualification which is being fixed under the scheme. The fact that the employees have been allowed to continue for so many years indicates the existence or the necessity for having such posts. But still it would not be open for the Court to b indicate as to how many posts would be created for the absorption of these daily-wage workers. Needless to mention that the appropriate authority will consider the case of these daily-wagers sympathetically who have discharged the duties for all these years to the satisfaction of their authority concerned. So far as the salary is concerned, as we have stated in the case of the State of Uttar Pradesh, a daily-wager in the State of Uttaranchal would be also entitled to the minimum of the pay scale as is available to his counterpart in the Government until his services are regularised and he is given regular scale of pay."

13. From the aforesaid observations as made in Putti Lal (supra), it is apparent that the persons who are eligible for regularization in terms of 2001 Rules and their claim for regularization could not be considered and it will take some time to finalize the claim for regularization.In such circumstances, the Apex Court has directed that all such candidates would be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale instead of the minimum wages, which were being paid to such candidates. 2001 Regularization Rules had provided the cutoff date from 29.06.1991 till 21.12.2001. Likewise 2016 Rules provided the cutoff dates of 31.12.2001 and 12.09.2016 between which, if any candidate is continuously working, then they would become eligible for regularization in 2001 Rules and approximately ten years period has been considered to make a person eligible for regularization. In 2016 Rules, approximately 15 years period has been considered to make a person eligible for regularization.

14. In the considered opinion of this Court as per the directions of the Apex Court in Putti Lal (supra), the grant of minimum pay scale is subject to the eligibility of the candidate for regularization and consequently the period more than ten years continuous service has been considered appropriate to make a person eligible for grant of minimum pay scale and likewise in the office memo dated 29.04.2024 also, the respondents has also taken into consideration the ten years continuous service to make a person eligible for grant of minimum pay scale.

15. In view of the above, it is provided that each and every person, who has completed 10 years continuous service as daily wager/Class-IV employee as on 09.11.2023 as provided in office memo dated 24.09.2024 or would complete 10 years service subsequently, shall be entitled for grant of minimum pay scale and while calculating the continuous service, the respondent shall also ignore the artificial breaks, if any, not exceeding one year at a time and the office memo dated 24.09.2024, is modified accordingly.

16. In such view of the matter, the instant petition is disposed of with a direction to the respondents to verify whether the petitioner has completed 10 years continuous service and if yes, the petitioner shall be granted minimum pay scale, within a period of eight weeks from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

17. Let this case be de-linked from the bunch matters and should not be shown in the cause list.

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether an appointing authority can declare a candidate unsuitable for appointment to a disciplined force (Police) due to the pendency of serious criminal charges, even when the candidate truthfully disclosed the cases and trial has not yet concluded?

Headnotes

A. Service Law – U.P. Civil Police Constable & Head Constable Service Rules, 2015: Rule 16 - The petitioner applied for the post of Constable (Civil Police) under a 2023 recruitment advertisement and was recommended for appointment by the Recruitment Board. In his application form, he truthfully disclosed the pendency of two criminal cases against him.

Case Crime No. 0018 of 2021: Sections 392 (Robbery), 411 (Receiving stolen property), 34, and 201 IPC (Charge Sheet filed).

Case Crime No. 0156 of 2021: Sections 2/3 of the U.P. Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

Pursuant to Rule 16 of Rules, 2015, and the G.O. dated 28.04.1958, character verification was conducted. The Superintendent of Police, Pratapgarh sought the opinion of the District Magistrate (DM), Pratapgarh. After affording a hearing to the petitioner, the DM opined on 09.06.2025 that due to the serious nature of the pending charges, appointing the petitioner would be inappropriate. Relying on the DM's report, the Appointing Authority (SP Ghazipur) issued an order dated 10.07.2025 cancelling the petitioner's selection/candidature.

B. If a person is acquitted giving him the benefit of doubt, from the charge of an offence involving moral turpitude or because the witnesses turned hostile, it would not automatically entitle him for the employment, that too in disciplined force. The employer is having a right to consider his candidature in terms of the circulars issued by the Screening Committee. The mere disclosure of the offences alleged and the result of the trial is not sufficient. In the said situation, the employer cannot be compelled to give appointment to the candidate. (Para 16)

In the present case, charge sheet has been filed against the petitioner in respect of a case relating to serious charges and the petitioner has yet to be tried for the said offences. The post in question pertains to a disciplined force and therefore, a candidate facing serious criminal charges cannot be considered suitable for such appointment. The DM, Pratapgarh, while forming his opinion, had also afforded opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before arriving to the conclusion that he was involved in serious offences, hence, he is not suitable for appointment. Therefore, it cannot be said that the appointing authority has acted illegally in cancelling the selection/candidature of the petitioner (Para 17, 18, 20)

Even if the petitioner is acquitted or discharged after the conclusion of trial, it cannot be presumed at this stage that he would be honourably acquitted. The Superintendent of Police, Ghazipur, being the appointing authority, has rightly concurred with the recommendation of the DM in terms of the GO dated 28.04.1958 while passing the order dated 10.07.2025 cancelling the selection/candidature of the petitioner. (Para 20)

C. Clause 3.5 of the notification No. PRPB: E-1(150)/2023 dated 23.12.2023, inviting applications for recruitment to the post of Constable (Civil Police), specifically provides that the character of a candidate must be such that he is suitable in all respects for appointment and the appointing authority must be satisfied in this regard. (Para 21)

The order dated 10.07.2025 cancelling the candidature of the petitioner reflects that the procedure prescribed u/GO dated 28.04.1958 has been duly followed in letter and spirit. The appointing authority, having considered the opinion of the DM dated 09.06.2025, arrived to the conclusion that the petitioner is not suitable for appointment to the post of Constable (Civil Police). The said decision cannot be faulted, having been taken in accordance with due process of law. (Para 22)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

For Petitioner(s): Dinesh Pratap Singh, Armaan Surendra Tiwari
For Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Amitabh Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and learned Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The instant writ petition has been filed seeking quashing of the order dated 10.07.2025, whereby the selection/candidature of the petitioner for appointment to the post of Constable (Civil Police) has been rejected on the ground of pendency of criminal cases registered as Case Crime No. 0018 of 2021, under Sections 392/411/34/201 I.P.C., Police Station Kandhai, District Pratapgarh, registered on 13.01.2021 as well as Case Crime No. 0156 of 2021 under Sections 2/3 of the Uttar Pradesh Gangsters and Anti-Social Activities (Prevention) Act, 1986.

3. The brief facts of the case, shorn of unnecessary details, are that the petitioner applied for selection to the post of Constable (Civil Police) pursuant to an advertisement issued by the Uttar Pradesh Police Recruitment and Promotion Board (hereinafter referred to as "Recruitment Board"). The petitioner, after undergoing the selection process, was selected and recommended by the Recruitment Board for appointment to the said post. However, during the course of police verification, it was found that Charge Sheet No.140 of 2021 had been filed under Sections 392/411/34/201 I.P.C. arising out of FIR lodged on 13.01.2021, registered as Case Crime No. 0018 of 2021 at Police Station Kandhai, District Pratapgarh.

4. It is the case of the petitioner that he had already disclosed the pendency of the aforesaid two criminal cases while filling up the application form and merely on account of such pendency, he cannot be denied appointment to the post of Constable (Civil Police), especially after having been selected and recommended by the Recruitment Board.

5. The Recruitment Board, in its counter affidavit, has stated that after completion of the selection process and forwarding of the recommendation, the role of the Board comes to an end and it is for the appointing authority to take a decision regarding appointment. It has further been stated that the selections were conducted in accordance with the provisions contained in the Uttar Pradesh Civil Police Constable & Head Constable Service Rules, 2015 (as amended in 2017). Rule 16 of the said Rules provides for character verification and stipulates that before issuance of the appointment order, the appointing authority must obtain a verification report, and upon disclosure of any adverse material, the candidate may be declared unfit for appointment and the vacancy has to be carried forward to the next selection. It is further stated that the final result was declared on 13.03.2025 and the select list was forwarded to the Director General of Police, Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow, for further necessary action, whereafter the Recruitment Board ceased to have any role in the matter of appointment.

6. In the separate counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no. 5, it is stated that while filling up the application form, the petitioner had disclosed the pendency of two criminal cases, however, there was no reference to the nature of charges, which, upon police verification, were found to relate to serious offences. It is further stated that a letter dated 21.05.2025 was sent by the Superintendent of Police, Pratapgarh, to the District Magistrate, Pratapgarh, seeking opinion regarding the suitability/unsuitability of the petitioner in light of Government Order No. 4694/1-B-321-1947 dated 28.04.1958. In response, the District Magistrate, Pratapgarh, vide letter no.37/50 JA-2025 dated 09.06.2025, opined that since serious charges were levelled against the petitioner and charge sheets had already been filed, it would not be appropriate to appoint him in service. Accordingly, by office letter no. M-129/2024 dated 10.07.2025, the selection of the petitioner was cancelled on the ground that he was found unsuitable for appointment.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that mere pendency of criminal cases cannot be a ground to deny appointment, particularly when the petitioner had disclosed the same at the time of application. Reliance has been placed upon the judgment of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Avtar Singh v. Union of India, (2016) 8 SCC 471, as well as Civil Appeal No. 5902 of 2012, Ravindra Kumar vs State of U.P. and others, decided on 22.02.2024.

8. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel appearing for the respondents has also relied upon Avtar Singh (supra), particularly paragraph 38, to contend that in view of the serious nature of offences involved, the petitioner was rightly declared unsuitable for appointment to the disciplined force of Constable (Civil Police).

9. Having heard learned counsel for the parties, the moot question that arises for consideration is whether the petitioner can be held unsuitable for appointment due to pendency of criminal cases, though serious in nature, but yet to be proved in trial.

10. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Kumar vs. State of U.P. and Others, (2011) 14 SCC 709, while considering the Government Order dated 28.04.1958, has held that the character of a candidate for direct appointment must be such as to render him suitable in all respects for employment in the service or post to which he is to be appointed. It is the duty of the appointing authority to satisfy itself regarding the suitability of the candidate and to apply its independent mind in that regard. Subject : Verification of Character at first appointment.

I am directed to refer to Appointment (B) Department secret G. O. No. 2712/II-B-321-1947 dated November 9, 1953 in which detailed instructions were issued regarding the method of verifications of character and antecedents of candidates for appointment under the State Government. These instructions were later on revised in this Department secret G. O. No. 4637/II-B-321-47; dated December 4, 1957. It has been noticed that difficulty is being experienced by some appointing authorities in correctly interpreting the instructions issued in the Government Order dated December 4, 1957. It has also been found that these instructions are not fully comprehensive to cover all the cases. The Governor has therefore been pleased to lay down the following instructions in supersession of all the previous orders on the subject.

2. The rule regarding character of candidates for appointment under the State Government shall continue to be as follows :

"The character of candidate for direct appointment must be such as to render him suitable in all respects for employment in the service or post to which he is to be appointed. It would be the duty of the appointing authority to satisfy itself on the point."

3. (a) Every direct recruit to any service under the Uttar Pradesh Government will be required to produce:

(i) A certificate of conduct and character from the head of the educational institution where he last studied (if he went to such an institution).

(ii) Certificates of character from two persons. The appointing authority will lay down requirements as to kind of persons from whom it desires these certificates.

(b) In cases of doubt, the appointing authority may either ask for further references, or may refer the case to the District Magistrate concerned. The District Magistrate may then make further enquiries as he considers necessary.

Note—(a) A conviction need not of itself involve the refusal of a certificate of good character. The circumstances of the conviction should be taken into account and if they involve on moral turpitude or association with crimes of violence or with a movement which has its object to overthrow by violent means of Government as by law now established in free India the mere conviction need not be regarded as disqualification.[1] (Conviction of a person during his childhood should not necessarily operate as a bar to his entering Government service. The entire circumstances in which his conviction was recorded as well as the circumstances in which he is now placed should be taken into consideration. If he has completely reformed himself on attaining the age of understanding and discretion, mere conviction in childhood should not operate as a bar to his entering Government service).

(b) While no person should be considered unfit for appointment solely because of his political opinions, care should be taken not to employ persons who are likely to be disloyal and to abuse the confidence placed in them by virtue of their appointment. Ordinarily, persons who are actively engaged in subversive activities including members of any organization the avowed object of which is to change the existing order of society by violent means should be considered unfit for appointment under Government. Participation in such activities at any time after attaining the age of 21 years and within three years of the date of enquiry should be considered as evidence that the person is still actively engaged in such activities unless in the interval there is positive evidence of change of attitude.

(c) Persons dismissed by the Central Government or by a State Government will also be deemed to be unfit for appointment to any service under this Government.

[2][(d) In the case of direct recruits to the State Services under the Uttar Pradesh Government includes requiring the candidates to submit the certificates mentioned in paragraph 3 (a) above. The appointing authority shall refer all cases simultaneously to Deputy Inspector General of Police, intelligence and the District Magistrate [3][of the home district and of the district(s) where the candidate has resided for more than a year within five years of the date of the inquiry] giving full particulars about the candidate. The District Magistrate shall get the reports in respect of the candidates from the Superintendent of Police who will consult District Police Records and records of the Local Intelligence Unit. The District Police or the District Intelligence Unit shall not make any enquiries on the spot, but shall report from their records whether there is anything against the candidate, but if in any specific case the District Magistrate at the instance of the appointing authority ask for an enquiry on the spot the Local Police or the Local Intelligence Units will do so and report the result to him. The District Magistrate shall then reports his own views to the appointing authority. Where the District Police or the Local Intelligence Units report adversely about a candidate the District Magistrate may give the candidate a hearing before sending his report.

(e) In the case of direct recruits (who are lower in rank than that of a State Service Officer) of :

(i) the police [1](including ministerial staff of Police Officers).

(ii) the Secretariat.

(iii) the staff employed in the government factories.

(iv) power houses and dams.

besides requiring the candidates to submit the certificates mentioned in paragraph 3 (a) above, the appointing authorities shall refer all cases simultaneously to the Deputy Inspector General, C.I.D. and the District Superintendent of Police [2][of the home district and of the district(s) where the candidate has resided for more than a year within five year of the date of the inquiry] giving full particulars about the candidate. The Superintendents of Police will send his report direct to the appointing authority if there is nothing adverse against the candidate. In cases where the report is unfavourable the Superintendent of Police will forward it to the District Magistrate who will send for the candidate concerned, give him a hearing and then, form his own opinion. All the necessary papers (the Superintendent of Police's report the candidate's statement and the District Magistrate's finding) will there after be sent to the appointing authority.

4. It will be seen that in cases of direct recruit to services other than those mentioned in paragraphs 3 (c) and 3 (d) above, verification shall not be necessary as a matter of routine except in cases of doubt when the procedure mentioned in paragraph 3 (b) shall be followed.

5. In the case of a candidate for services mentioned in paragraphs 3 (c) and 3 (d) above—

(i) if at the time of enquiry the candidate is residing in a locality situated outside Uttar Pradesh or if he has resided in such a locality at any time within five years of the date of enquiry for a period of one year or more it shall be the duty of the deputy Inspector General, C.I.D. to consult also the C.I.D.D. of the State concerned in which the locality is situated before making his verification report.

(ii) if the candidate was residing before partition in area now comprising Pakistan the Deputy Inspector General, C.I.D. shall also make a reference to the Director of Intelligence Bureau, Ministry of Home Affairs, Government of India, in addition to the usual enquires as indicated above.

6. It has also been observed that where the District Magistrates are required to send the attestation forms they sometimes do not sign the forms themselves, Government consider it very desirable that the attestation forms should invariably be signed by the District Magistrates them selves in all such cases.

744 POLICE REGULATIONS

7. Other State Governments and Administrations are being informed separately that the verification of character and antecedents of recruits to their services from this State will henceforth be done according to the procedure adopted in the cases of recruits to different categories of services under the State Government.

8. In order to prevent a candidate, who has been disqualified for Government Employment from securing employment in a sub-ordinate or inferior service other than those mentioned in paragraph 3 (d), every person, recruited to these services should be required at the time of joining his appointment to fill up the form appended as Annexure 111 to this letter. If he is found to have made a false statement in this connection, he should be discharged forthwith, without prejudice to any other action that may be considered necessary.

9. All questions arising from there order shall be referred to Government in the appointment (B) Department for decision.

10. A form each of (i) particular about the candidate (ii) character certificate and (iii) statement of candidate to be used by the enquiring officers is annexed to the later.

11. It is not the case of the petitioner that the said Government Order dated 28.04.1958 is not in existence or has been superseded by any subsequent Government Order.

12. The para no.2 of the Government Order dated 28.04.1958, in clear terms, provides that it is the duty of the appointing authority to satisfy itself regarding suitability of a candidate with respect to his character. The para no.3(d) mandates that the appointing authority shall refer all cases simultaneously to District Magistrate alongwith police authorities. It further provides that where the District Police or the local intelligence submits report adversely about a candidate, then the District Magistrate may give the candidate a hearing before sending his report.

13. The Rule 11 of Uttar Pradesh Civil Police Constable & Head Constable Service Rules, 2015 also mandates that the appointing authority shall satisfy himself about the character of a candidate for direct recruitment. The Rule 11 is reproduced hereinbelow :-

11. Character-The character of a candidate for direct recruitment to a post in the service must be such as to render him suitable in all respect for employment in Government Service. The appointing authority shall satisfy itself on this point.

Note-Persons dismissed by the Union Government or any State Government or by a Local Authority or by a Corporation or Body owned or controlled by the Union Government or any State Government shall be ineligible for appointment to the service. Persons convicted of an offence involving moral turpitude shall also be ineligible.

14. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Avtar Singh (supra), in paragraph 38, has laid down following guidelines with regard to verification of the character antecedents of a candidate for appointment in the service:-

38. We have noticed various decisions and tried to explain and reconcile them as far as possible. In view of the aforesaid discussion, we summarise our conclusion thus:

38.1. Information given to the employer by a candidate as to conviction, acquittal or arrest, or pendency of a criminal case, whether before or after entering into service must be true and there should be no suppression or false mention of required information.

38.2. While passing order of termination of services or cancellation of candidature for giving false information. the employer may take notice of special circumstances of the case, if any, while giving such information.

`38.3. The employer shall take into consideration the government orders/instructions/rules, applicable to the employee, at the time of taking the decision.

38.4. In case there is suppression or false information of involvement in a criminal case where conviction or acquittal had already been recorded before filling of the application/verification form and such fact later comes to knowledge of employer, any of the following recourses appropriate to the case may be adopted:

38.4.1. In a case trivial in nature in which conviction had been recorded, such as shouting slogans at young age or for a petty offence which if disclosed would not have rendered an incumbent unfit for post in question, the employer may, in its discretion, ignore such suppression of fact or false information by condoning the lapse.

38.4.2. Where conviction has been recorded in case which is not trivial in nature, employer may cancel candidature or terminate services of the employee.

38.4.3. If acquittal had already been recorded in a case involving moral turpitude or offence of heinous/serious nature, on technical ground and it is not a case of clean acquittal, or benefit of reasonable doubt has been given, the employer may consider all relevant facts available as to antecedents, and may take appropriate decision as to the continuance of the employee.

38.5. In a case where the employee has made declaration truthfully of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider antecedents, and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate.

38.6. In case when fact has been truthfully declared in character verification form regarding pendency of a criminal case of trivial nature, employer, in facts and circumstances of the case, in its discretion, may appoint the candidate subject to decision of such case.

38.7. In a case of deliberate suppression of fact with respect to multiple pending cases such false information by itself will assume significance and an employer may pass appropriate order cancelling candidature or terminating services as appointment of a person against whom multiple criminal cases were pending may not be proper.

38.8. If criminal case was pending but not known to the candidate at the time of filling the form, still it may have adverse impact and the appointing authority would take decision after considering the seriousness of the crime.

38.9. In case the employee is confirmed in service, holding departmental enquiry would be necessary before passing order of termination/removal or dismissal on the ground of suppression or submitting false information in verification form.

38.10. For determining suppression or false information attestation/verification form has to be specific, not vague. Only such information which was required to be specifically mentioned has to be disclosed. If information not asked for but is relevant comes to knowledge of the employer the same can be considered in an objective manner while addressing the question of fitness. However, in such cases action cannot be taken on basis of suppression or submitting false information as to a fact which was not even asked for.

38.11. Before a person is held guilty of suppressio veri or suggestio falsi, knowledge of the fact must be attributable to him."

15. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of Satish Chandra Yadav v. Union of India : (2023) 7 SCC 536, after taking into consideration the judgments passed subsequent to Avtar Singh (supra), has held as follows in paragraph 93, which is reproduced hereinbelow along with paragraph 92 :-

92. The only reason to refer to and look into the various decisions rendered by this Court as above over a period of time is that the principles of law laid therein governing the subject are bit inconsistent. Even after the larger Bench decision in Avtar Singh [Avtar Singh v. Union of India, (2016) 8 SCC 471 : (2016) 2 SCC (L&S) 425] different courts have enunciated different principles.

93. In such circumstances, we undertook some exercise to shortlist the broad principles of law which should be made applicable to the litigations of the present nature. The principles are as follows:

93.1. Each case should be scrutinised thoroughly by the public employer concerned, through its designated officials - more so, in the case of recruitment for the Police Force, who are under a duty to maintain order, and tackle lawlessness, since their ability to inspire public confidence is a bulwark to society's security. (See Raj Kumar [State v. Raj Kumar, (2021) 8 SCC 347 : (2021) 2 SCC (L&S) 745])

93.2. Even in a case where the employee has made declaration truthfully and correctly of a concluded criminal case, the employer still has the right to consider the antecedents, and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate. The acquittal in a criminal case would not automatically entitle a candidate for appointment to the post. It would be still open to the employer to consider the antecedents and examine whether the candidate concerned is suitable and fit for appointment to the post.

93.3. The suppression of material information and making a false statement in the verification form relating to arrest, prosecution, conviction, etc. has a clear bearing on the character, conduct and antecedents of the employee. If it is found that the employee had suppressed or given false information in regard to the matters having a bearing on his fitness or suitability to the post, he can be terminated from service.

93.5. The Court should inquire whether the authority concerned whose action is being challenged acted mala fide.

93.6. Is there any element of bias in the decision of the authority?
93.7. Whether the procedure of inquiry adopted by the authority concerned was fair and reasonable?

16. In the case of Union of Union of India v. Methu Meda, (2022) 1 SCC 1 the respondent was selected for the post of Constable in the Central Industrial Security Force and he disclosed a criminal case in which he was acquitted. Despite his acquittal and his disclosure of the criminal case, the selection was cancelled, which was challenged before the High Court and was allowed. However, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held otherwise and allowed the appeal, discussing the consequences of acquittal in a criminal case. The Hon'ble Supreme Court reiterated that a person joining a police force must be of impeccable character and must not have any criminal antecedents. The relevant paragraphs 17, 20 and 21 are quoted hereinbelow :-

"17. In view of the above, in the facts of the present case, as per paras 38.3, 38.4.3 and 38.5 of Avtar Singh case [Avtar Singh v. Union of India, (2016) 8 SCC 471 : (2016) 2 SCC (L&S) 425] , it is clear that the employer is having right to consider the suitability of the candidate as per government orders/instructions/rules at the time of taking the decision for induction of the candidate in employment. Acquittal on technical ground in respect of the offences of heinous/serious nature, which is not a clean acquittal, the employer may have a right to consider all relevant facts available as to the antecedents, and may take appropriate decision as to the continuance of the employee. Even in case, truthful declaration regarding concluded trial has been made by the employee, still the employer has the right to consider antecedents and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate.

20. In view of the aforesaid, it is clear the respondent who wishes to join the police force must be a person of utmost rectitude and have impeccable character and integrity. A person having criminal antecedents would not be fit in this category. The employer is having right to consider the nature of acquittal or decide until he is completely exonerated because even a possibility of his taking to the life of crimes poses a threat to the discipline of the police force. The Standing Order, therefore, has entrusted the task of taking decisions in these matters to the Screening Committee and the decision of the Committee would be final unless mala fide.

21. As discussed hereinabove, the law is well settled. If a person is acquitted giving him the benefit of doubt, from the charge of an offence involving moral turpitude or because the witnesses turned hostile, it would not automatically entitle him for the employment, that too in disciplined force. The employer is having a right to consider his candidature in terms of the circulars issued by the Screening Committee. The mere disclosure of the offences alleged and the result of the trial is not sufficient. In the said situation, the employer cannot be compelled to give appointment to the candidate."

(Emphasis supplied)

17. Coming to the facts of the present case, it is noticed that the charges against the petitioner are of serious in nature and charge sheet has already been filed in the said cases. The post in question pertains to a disciplined force and therefore, a candidate facing serious criminal charges cannot be considered suitable for such appointment. The District Magistrate, Pratapgarh, while forming his opinion, had also afforded opportunity of hearing to the petitioner before arriving to the conclusion that he was involved in serious offences.

18. The paragraph 38.6 of Avtar Singh (supra) specifically provides that the appointing authority may, in its discretion, appoint a candidate even during the pendency of a criminal case of trivial nature, subject to the outcome of such case. However, in the present case, the allegations are of serious nature, hence, it cannot be said that the appointing authority has acted illegally in cancelling the selection/candidature of the petitioner.

19. In the case of Satish Chandra Yadav (supra) the Hon'ble Supreme Court in para no.93.2 has specifically held that even in a case where a declaration has been made truthfully and correctly of a concluded criminal case, the employer has still the right to consider the antecedents and cannot be compelled to appoint the candidate. It has further been held that the acquittal in a criminal case do not automatically entitle a candidate for appointment to the post and it remains open for the employer to consider the antecedents and examine whether the candidate concerned is suitable and fit for appointment to the post.

20. In the present case, charge sheet has been filed against the petitioner in respect of a case relating to serious charges and the petitioner has yet to be tried for the said offences. Hence, this Court is of the view that the appointing authority, under such circumstances, cannot be compelled to appoint such a candidate who is facing trial in an offence relating to serious charges. The petitioner has to be appointed on the post of Constable (Civil Police) and he should carry with him impeccable character and integrity. A person having criminal antecedents relating to serious charges cannot fit in this category. Even if the petitioner is acquitted or discharged after the conclusion of trial, it cannot be presumed at this stage that he would be honourably acquitted. The District Magistrate, Pratapgarh in terms of the Government Order dated 28.04.1958, has specifically opined that the nature of offence alleged against the petitioner are serious in nature and hence, he is not suitable for appointment. The Superintendent of Police, Ghazipur, being the appointing authority, has rightly concurred with the recommendation of the District Magistrate in terms of the Government Order dated 28.04.1958 while passing the order dated 10.07.2025 cancelling the selection/candidature of the petitioner.

21. It is also noticed that the clause 3.5 of the notification No. PRPB: E-1(150)/2023 dated 23.12.2023, inviting applications for recruitment to the post of Constable (Civil Police), specifically provides that the character of a candidate must be such that he is suitable in all respects for appointment and the appointing authority must be satisfied in this regard.

22. The order dated 10.07.2025 cancelling the candidature of the petitioner reflects that the procedure prescribed under the Government Order dated 28.04.1958 has been duly followed in letter and spirit. The appointing authority, having considered the opinion of the District Magistrate dated 09.06.2025, arrived to the conclusion that the petitioner is not suitable for appointment to the post of Constable (Civil Police). The said decision cannot be faulted, having been taken in accordance with due process of law. The material available before the Superintendent of Police, Ghazipur (appointing authority) while passing the order dated 10.07.2025 was the opinion of the District Magistrate, Pratapgarh contained in letter dated 09.06.2025 disclosing the criminal antecedents of the petitioner which is serious in nature and a candidate with such serious charges of criminal antecedents can by no stretch of imagination be held suitable for appointment in a disciplined force. Thus, this Court is of the considered view that the Superintendent of Police, Ghazipur (appointing authority) has rightly cancelled the candidature/selection of the petitioner while passing the order dated 10.07.2025.

23. In view of the aforesaid discussion, the present writ petition lacks merit and is accordingly dismissed. No order as to costs.

THE HON'BLE SHREE PRAKASH SINGH, J.

Writ A No. 12286 of 2025

Dr. Gyanvati Dixit ...Petitioner
Versus
State of U.P. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

Whether a departmental proceeding or suspension approval passed by an administrative authority beyond a court-mandated deadline automatically becomes a nullity or abates, especially when no extension application was filed before the expiry of the deadline.

Headnotes

A. Education/Service Law – The petitioner was appointed Principal in 2011. In 2019, an Authorized Controller was appointed due to management disputes. Between July and August 2024, the petitioner wrote several official letters regarding severe understaffing (teaching posts dropped from 58 to 31/33). Annoyed by this, the Authorized Controller placed her under suspension on 04.10.2024 on the grounds that she had not reinstated a staff member (Smt. Rajrani), even though Rajrani had failed to submit verification documents despite multiple reminders.

The High Court quashed the initial suspension on 05.11.2024 (Writ-A No. 9746 of 2024). A fresh suspension order was again quashed on 11.04.2025 (Writ-A No. 1059 of 2025), with directions to the Committee of Management and DIOS to finalize the proceedings within 51 days. The DIOS passed a fresh suspension approval order on 23.06.2025 (taking 71 days instead of 51 days). The petitioner challenged this order in the current writ petition.

B. The ultimate purpose of the disciplinary proceeding should not be held up because of the time limit framed by the court, without there being any statutory time limit and therefore, the discretion has been opened to be exercised by the tribunals/courts concerned to apply its mind to reconcile the issues in the facts and circumstances of the case. It is not always possible for the disciplinary authority to follow the stipulated period to conclude the proceedings and therefore, it can seek for extension of time before expiry of such time limit. Stretching the consideration zone, it has also been held that in exceptional cases, after the expiry of the time limit, the application can be moved, but, that will depend on the discretion of the court concerned to accept or reject the request of extension of time in facts and circumstances of the case and at the same time, it has been provided that continuance of any disciplinary proceeding out of the stipulated period of time, can invite interdiction if there is no bonafide attempt made for seeking the extension of the time limit. (Para 39)

In the present case, the matter admittedly could not be concluded within fifty one days rather the same has been concluded within seventy one days. It is noticed that no application for extension of time limit, prescribed by the court, has been moved, by the authority concerned, prior passing the order impugned dated 23.06.2025. (Para 37, 40)

In absence of any application for extension of time period, prior to passing the order impugned, the said order stands vitiated. Consequently, the order impugned dated 23.06.2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law and is hereby quashed. (Para 41)

C. There can be no ultimate bar for extension of time limit, fixed by the court or the tribunal and therefore, the authority concerned is given liberty to proceed from the stage of filing of the fresh reply by the petitioner as well the other stakeholders in the matter. The proceeding shall be concluded within the period of two months, from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the authority concerned. (Para 42, 43)

Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Avdhesh Kumar Pandey, Radhika Varma, Shreshth Srivastava, Siddhartha Kumar
For Respondent(s): C.S.C., Ashutosh Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Shreshth Srivastava and Mr. Ashutosh Kumar Shukla, learned counsels for the petitioner, Mr. Apoorva Tewari, learned Amicus Curiae, Mr. Brijendra Singh and Mr. Pradeep Kumar Singh, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State and Mr. Ashutosh Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party no. 5.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner has assailed the order dated 23-06-2025, whereby the District Inspector of Schools has approved the recommendation of the suspension of the petitioner made by the Committee of Management concerned.

3.Briefly stated facts are that the petitioner was appointed on the post of Lecturer(Hindi) in L.R.N.S. Inter College, Naimisharan, on 23-01-1993 and thereafter, on 22-08-2011, she was appointed as Principal at Shri Dayanand Rameshwar Prasad Hansrani Arya Kanya Inter College, Sitapur, in furtherance to the recommendation of the U.P. Secondary Education Service Selection Board, whereafter on 04-01-2019, the District Inspector of Schools passed an order for single hand operation in the college because of claim of rival groups of Committee of Management and Mr. J.P. Mishra, Principal, District Institute of Education & Training was appointed as Authorized Controller and subsequently, Mr. Anil Kumar was inducted after the retirement of Mr. J.P.Mishra. The opposite party no. 5 recommended for several transfers of the teaching staff and since the strength had fallen down upto 33 from 58 sanctioned posts, therefore, the petitioner being the Principal came forward and written several letters i.e. on 03-07-2024, 25-07-2024 and 16-08-2024, with the request of indulgence in the matter by the opposite parties no. 2 to 4. In such scenario, the opposite party no. 5 under the state of annoyance, recommended the suspension, under section 16 (G) of the Uttar Pradesh Intermediate Education Act, 1921(hereinafter referred to as 'Act,1921'). While suspending the petitioner from the post of Principal, the instant reason was shown that one Smt. Rajrani was not reinstated in the service by the petitioner, whereas the fact is stated otherwise, as even after several communications given to Smt. Rajrani, she did not provide the requisite documents for verification.

4. The suspension order passed by the opposite party no. 5, was assailed by the petitioner before this court in Writ A No. 9746 of 2024, wherein this court vide Judgment and Order dated 05-11-2024, quashed the order of suspension dated 04-10-2024, impugned therein and the liberty was given to the competent authority to pass the fresh order.

5. The District Inspector of Schools, in compliance of the order aforesaid, has again issued the suspension order invoking the power under section 16(G) of the 'Act,1921' while suspending the petitioner from the post of Principal, which was again challenged by the petitioner before this court by instituting Writ A No. 11061 of 2024, whereupon vide Judgment and Order dated 27-11-2024, the same was dismissed and subsequently, on 20-12-2024, the District Inspector of Schools confirmed the suspension order, which was challenged in Writ-A No. 1059 of 2025, which was decided by the coordinate Bench of this court, by the final Judgment and Order dated 11-04-2025. The operative portion of the Judgment and Order dated 11-04-2025 is reproduced as under :-

"43. The Committee of Management is directed to supply all requisite documents including copy of the charge sheet dated 08.01.2025, which was served upon the petitioner on 15.01.2025, and also all the relevant documents in support of the charge sheet to the District Inspector of Schools, Sitapur, within three weeks from today. The District Inspector of Schools shall thereafter fix date providing an opportunity of hearing to the petitioner as well as the Committee of Management within fifteen days and shall proceed to pass a fresh order within further period of fifteen days."

6. Vide the aforesaid Judgment and Order, the suspension order dated 20-12-2024 has been quashed and matter was remitted back to the competent authority concerned to conclude the enquiry proceedings within fifty one days, whereafter, the impugned order dated 23-06-2025 was passed in seventy one days.

7. Contention put forth by the learned counsel for the petitioner is that the order impugned is arbitrary and unlawful. He submitted that vide Judgment and Order dated 11-04-2025, the particular period of time was fixed by this court, but, the competent authority has violated the time period prescribed and decided it within seventy one days, on place of fifty one days, which is impermissible as per the settled proposition of law.

8. Further submission is that without reaching to the exact determination, on the basis of presumptions only, the order impugned has been passed. He added that the charges levelled against the petitioner are prima-facie vague.

9. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that the opposite party no. 5 initiated the proceedings against the petitioner, being annoyed with the letters written by her, regarding repeated orders passed while giving consent for transfer of the teaching staff from the college, resulted into the scarcity of the staff, which came down from fifty eight to thirty one. He submits that the case of the petitioner is squarely covered with the ratio of Judgment and Order passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. Versus Ram Prakash Singh, reported in 2025 SCC Online SC 891 and more so, till date no subsistence allowance has been paid to the petitioner, which also vitiates the order impugned. Therefore, submission is that the order impugned is unsustainable in the eyes of law and the same is liable to be quashed.

10. Per contra, Sri Ashutosh Singh, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 5 has opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that after the Judgment and Order dated 11-04-2025 passed by this court in Writ Petition No. 1059 of 2025, the opposite party no. 5 has rightly proceeded in the matter and passed the order impugned. He argued that infact the proceeding has been concluded, after the period of time prescribed, without submitting an application for extension of time limit, but, that would not vitiate the proceedings automatically.

11. In support of his contentions, he has placed reliance on the Judgment and Order dated 06-07-2022 passed by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Union of India (UOI) and Ors Vs Sharvan Kumar, (Civil Appeal No. 1942 of 2014 decided on 06-07-2022) and has referred paragraph nos. 9.1 to 11 of the said Judgment, which are quoted hereinunder :-

"9.1. It needs hardly any elaboration to say that fixing of the period of two months by the Tribunal in this case had only been to ensure expeditious proceedings because the matter was being restored for reconsideration in the year 2010, though the disciplinary proceedings related with the incident dated 09.01.2005. However, the said period of two months did not acquire any status akin to that of a statutory mandate that the disciplinary proceedings would have automatically come to an end with its expiry. It remains trite that if an Adjudicating Authority in exercise of its jurisdiction could grant or fix a time period to do a particular thing, in the absence of a specific statutory provision to the contrary, the jurisdiction to fix such a time period inhers the jurisdiction to extend the time initially fixed. Such conditional orders have regularly been construed by this Court to be in terrorem so as to put a check on the dilatory tactics by any litigant or to guard against any laxity on the part of the Adjucating Authority but, the Court is not powerless to enlarge the time even though it had peremptorily fixed the period at any earlier stage. In the case of Mahanth Ram Das v. Ganga Das MANU/SC/0027/1961: (1961) 3 SCR, this court examined the peremptory order of the Court fixing the period of payment of deficit court fees in the backdrop of the fact that the application for extension of time came up for hearing only after the time fixed by the Court had expired and the application was rejected. This Court put the things in perspective while observing, inter alia, as under:-

5....Such orders are not like the law of the Medes and the Persians. Cases are this and to have restored a suit or proceeding, even though a final order had been passed...

9.2. We may elaborate a little. When a conditional order is passed by the Court/Tribunal to do a particular act or thing within a particular period but the order does not provide anything as to the consequence of default, the Court/Tribunal fixing the time for doing a particular thing obviously retains the power to enlarge such time. As a corollary, even the Appellate Court/Tribunal or any higher forum would also be having the power to enlarge such time, if so required. In any case, it cannot be said that the proceedings would come to an end immediately after the expiry of the time fixed.

9.3. In the present case, even the order dismissing the application for enlargement of time on a technical ground of not placing before the Tribunal instructions of the Railway Board, had again been not of giving any such status of mandatory and rigid character to the period originally fixed that the proceedings would have abated.

10. We are Impelled to observe that while treating the proceedings as having abated and as nullity, the High Court has ignored the fundamental principles that fixing of such time period was only a matter of procedure with an expectation of conclusion of the proceedings in an expeditious manner. This period of two months had not acquired any such mandatory statutory character so as to nullify the entire of the disciplinary proceedings with its expiry.

10.1. Moreover, when no consequence of default was stated in the order dated 03.09.2010, the period as stated therein was only of expectations and not of mandate. We may also observe that very many times, such fixing of time period causes more complications and harm rather than serving the cause of justice. Fixing of such period could only be justified if there are strong and compelling reasons for the same; and if at all such period is proposed to be fixed, not only the reasons for the same but, even the consequences of default are also required to be stated if such period is, for any valid reason, expected to operate with adverse consequences on the defaulter.

11. The upshot of the discussion foregoing is that the proceedings in question neither abated nor could have been considered nullity only because of passage of the expected time period stated in the order of the Tribunal dated 03.09.2010. There was no reason or justification for the High Court to interfere with the just and proper order passed by the Tribunal on 21.06.2013, which deserves to be restored with necessary consequential directions."

12. Referring the aforesaid, he submits that it has been held by the Hon'ble Apex Court, while dealing with an identical issue that when the conditional order is passed, with the direction, to do a thing, in a particular manner or within the particular period, but, the consequences of default is not provided, the same would not have created the nullity of the proceeding or would have abated automatically.

13. He has also placed reliance on the Judgment rendered by the Full Bench of this court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi Vs New India Assurance Company Limited & Others, reported in 2014 (6) All LJ 662(FB) and has referred paragraph no. 13, which is quoted hereinunder :-

"13. Undoubtedly, where the Court has stipulated a period of time by which a departmental enquiry has to be concluded, the stipulation as to time has to be observed. But it must be emphasized that the failure on the part of the employer to conclude the enquiry within the period so stipulated will not result in a situation where the enquiry must, in all cases, and for whatever reason, be regarded as being rendered without jurisdiction or a nullity upon the expiry of that period. The court which fixes time for completion of an enquiry equally has Jurisdiction to extend time for compliance. A stipulation of time in an order of the Court is not akin to a statute of limitation. In each case, it is for the court to determine as to whether the facts and circumstances are such as would warrant the grant of a further extension of time. The circumstances which would weigh with the Court would include the nature and complexity of the charge, the efforts which have been made for the conclusion of the enquiry, the reasons for the delay and the conduct of the parties in the course of the disciplinary proceedings. In Suresh Chandra v. State of M.P., a Special Leave Petition was filed before the Supreme Court against a judgment of the High Court setting aside an order of the Administrative Tribunal. The High Court had held that the disciplinary authority could not proceed with the enquiry after the lapse of the period granted to it by the Tribunal and that period having expired on 15 May 1999, the disciplinary authority could not proceed further with the enquiry. The Supreme Court set aside the judgment of the High Court and held that it was only fair to remand the matter to the Inquiry Officer to resume the disciplinary proceedings from the stage which was reached on 15 May 1999. The Supreme Court clarified that all proceedings taken before that date shall remain as they are and the disciplinary authority will proceed further to examine evidence and submit its report within the extended period as stipulated in the order of the Supreme Court. Thereafter, a period was fixed for the disciplinary authority to pass its orders from the date of submission of the enquiry report. The judgment of the Supreme Court in Suresh Chandra's case recognizes the power which inheres in the court to extend the time which has been fixed for the completion of an enquiry for valid and cogent reasons."

14. Emphasizing the above, he submits that the failure on the part of the employer to conclude the enquiry within the stipulated time period, would not render the enquiry proceedings nullity, upon expiry of the period, unless the consequences are provided.

15. He argued that so far as the Judgment and Order rendered in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(Supra) is concerned, there is no ultimate impediment for proceeding with the enquiry, as even then, the enuqiry could be proceeded after obtaining the permission from the court concerned. Therefore, submission is that there is no illegality or ambiguity in the order impugned, thus, no interference is warranted.

16. Mr. Apoorva Tewari, learned Amicus Curiae appearing herein submits that in the case of Sharvan Kumar (Supra), it is held by the Hon'ble Apex Court that after fixing of period of time, where no statutory time period is prescribed under the statute, after the lapse of the time period, the disciplinary proceedings would not lapse automatically as the fixing of such time period is only expectations and not the mandate, except the consequences are provided of the default for any valid reason. He added that in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra), the Hon'ble Apex Court has expressed it's opinion that no strait-jacket formula can be laid down for each case rather on the basis of gravity of the slackness for reaching the time, the suitable direction can be passed. He submitted that much emphasis has been drawn by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(Supra) on dealing with the application for extension of time and the effect of non filing of the same. He contends that there is nothing contrary in the Judgment of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra) to the ratio of the Judgment of Sharvan Kumar (Supra), rather it is in furtherance to the earlier Judgment, while dealing with more issues.

17. Upon considering the submissions of learned counsels for the parties and after perusal of the records, it is apparent that the petitioner after her appointment in the year 1993, on the post of Lecturer(Hindi), kept on working till the year 2024 without any complaint and her work and conduct was above board and her career was unblemished. The problem started when the college was put under the single hand operation in the year 2023 and the opposite party no. 5, Mr. Anil Kumar was appointed as Authorized Controller. The petitioner started writing letters since 03-07-2024 and she has been put under suspension on 04-10-2024. Repeatedly, this court has passed the order while quashing the order of suspension passed by the opposite party no. 5 with the direction to consider the matter afresh and ultimately, vide Judgment and Order dated 11-04-2025 passed in Writ A No. 1059 of 2025, the order was passed that the Committee of Management shall supply the requisite documents including the copy of the chargesheet within the period of three weeks and subsequent thereof, within further period of thirty days, the proceeding will be concluded and in furtherance thereof, the District Inspector of Schools proceeded in the matter and passed the order on 23-06-2025, which is impugned herein.

18. It is borne out from the submissions of learned counsel for the petitioner that the petitioner has challenged the order impugned mainly on the following three grounds:-

(i) First, that in the order impugned, it has been observed that the petitioner seems to be guilty ('दोष सिद्ध होना प्रतीत होता है') which itself enough to show that the order impugned has been passed on conjuncture and surmises;

(ii) Secondly, that the charges levelled against the petitioner are vague and therefore, the petitioner could not have been placed under suspension.

(iii) And the third ground taken is, that the case of the petitioner is covered with the ratio of Judgment rendered by the Full Bench of this court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi (Supra) as well as the law held by the Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(Supra) as the order dated 23-06-2025 has not been passed within the time stipulated by this court and even at the time of passing of the order, no application was moved for extension of time.

19. In view of the above, the following issues emerges for consideration :-

a. Whether there is any conflict in the ratio of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Union of India vs. Sharvan Kumar reported in 2022 SCC OnLine SC 2032 and State of U.P. vs.

Ram Prakash Singh reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 891, in so far as it pertains to the effect of violation of a time limit prescribed by a judicial order is concerned?

b. If there is any conflict in the aforementioned two judgments which judgment should be taken as a binding precedent and followed by this Hon'ble Court?

20. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of A.P. Electrical equipment corporation vs. Tehsildar and others reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 447 provides necessary guidance to deal with the situation where two decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court appear to lay down conflicting propositions. Para 35 of the report reads as under:

"35. If two decisions of this Court appear inconsistent with each other, the High Courts are not to follow one and overlook the other, but should try to reconcile and respect them both and the only way to do so is to adopt the wise suggestion of Lord Halsbury given in Quinn v. Leathern, [1901] A.C. 495 and reiterated by the Privy Council in Punjab Cooperative Bank Ltd. v. Commr. of Income Tax, Lahore AIR 1940 PC 230:

"..... every judgment must be read as applicable to the particular facts proved or assumed to be proved, since the generality of the expressions, which may be found there, are not intended to be expositions of the whole law, but governed or qualified by the particular facts of the case in which such expressions are to be found." and follow that decision whose facts appear more in accord with those of the case at hand."

21. It is thus apparent that in order to determine any conflict in the two decisions of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, their factual matrix is required to be considered.

22. Now coming to the case in hand, the brief factual matrix in the case of Union of India vs. Sharvan Kumar(supra) can be summarised as under:

a. Sharvan Kumar was removed from service of the railways vide punishment order dated 23.02.2006;

b. The appellate authority by order date 23.08.2006 modified the penalty to that of downgrading the pay of Sharvan Kumar to the lowest stage, in the scale;

c. The revisional authority vide order dated 14.03.2007 declined to interfere with the appellate order;

d. Sharvan Kumar filed OA No. 373 of 2007 before the Central Administrative Tribunal, challenging the orders passed against him;

e. The Central Administrative Tribunal allowed OA No. 373 of 2007, vide judgment dated 03.09.2010 and set aside the punishment order, appellate order and the revisional order. The disciplinary authority was directed to hold the proceedings de-novo from the stage of consideration of the representation against the report of the enquiry officer. The exercise was to be completed within two months of receipt of the judgment;

f. The disciplinary authority moved an application for extension of time before the Central Administrative Tribunal which was dismissed on 03.01.2011, for the reason that the same was lacking in material particulars;

g. The disciplinary authority vide order dated 17.02.2011, imposed major penalty of removal from the railway service, upon Sharvan Kumar;

h. Sharvan Kumar filed OA No. 293 of 2011 before the Central Administrative Tribunal challenging punishment order dated 17.02.2011 inter alia contending that the proceedings had abated for having not been completed within the prescribed time limit of two months;

i. The Central Administrative Tribunal vide order dated 21.06.2013 dismissed the OA, filed by Sharvan Kumar, while holding that the proceedings would have abated only if it were so directed in specific terms. However, no such direction was made in the previous judgment;

j. Order dated 21.06.2013 passed by the Central Administrative Tribunal in OA No. 293 of 2011 was challenged in WPCT No. 330 of 2013 before the High Court, which was allowed by the Hon'ble High Court vide judgment and order dated 30.08.2013;

k. The Hon'ble High Court observed that the disciplinary authority had no jurisdiction to complete the proceeding beyond the period prescribed by the Central Administrative Tribunal. The proceedings seeking enlargement of time were nullity in the eyes of law.

23. The judgment of the High Court dated 30.08.2013 was challenged before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and in the aforesaid factual background, the Hon'ble Supreme Court returned the following findings in its judgment in the case of Sharvan Kumar(supra):

"28. Having given thoughtful consideration to the rival submissions and having examined the record, we are clearly of the view that neither the approach of the High Court nor its conclusion could be endorsed. In other words, the propositions of the High Court, treating the proceedings in question as having abated or having been rendered nullity cannot be approved from any standpoint.

29. It appears that the High Court has taken the period of two months for completion of the proceedings, as stated in the order of the Tribunal dated 03.09.2010, to be an inflexible mandate as also of fatal consequence in the manner that after its expiry, the department could not have taken the disciplinary proceedings to their logical conclusion. This approach of the High Court cannot be supported even from a technical standpoint and obviously stands af conflict with the substance of the matter.

30. As noticed, after the respondent was awarded the penalty of removal from service by the order dated 23.02.2006 in conclusion of the disciplinary proceedings, he challenged the same and the Appellate Authority, by its order dated 23.08.2006, altered the penalty to that of downgrading his pay. The Revisional Authority by its order dated 14.03.2007 held that the negligence on the part of the respondent was established and found no reason to interfere. However, the Tribunal, in the earlier round of litigation, while dealing with OA No. 373 of 2007, chose not to examine the other material questions involved in the matter but, disapproved the imposition of penalty on the respondent for the reason that the person acting as the Disciplinary Authority had been one of the members who had earlier submitted the joint enquiry report. In this view of the matter, the Tribunal quashed the orders passed against the respondent but, being conscious of the fact that the disciplinary proceedings were otherwise required to be taken to the logical conclusion, issued directions to ensure that the matter be dealt with by the Disciplinary Authority other than the person who had been a member of the joint enquiry team and the proceedings be taken up from the stage of consideration of representation of the respondent against the report of the Enquiry Officer. While concluding on the matter, the Tribunal also expected that such afresh exercise be completed within two months of the receipt of the order, after leaving all other contentions open. As noticed, the appellants attempted to seek enlargement of time in view of the fact that the exercise could not be completed within the said period of two months but, this prayer for enlargement was declined by the Tribunal not on its merits but, for a different reason that the particulars like the time-frame laid down by the Railway Board for taking the decision on the enquiry report was not stated before it. The said order expecting conclusion of the proceedings within two months from the date of receipt of copy of the order was passed on 03.09.2010: the application seeking enlargement was dismissed on 03.01.2011, and the Disciplinary Authority passed its order on 17.02.2011. Thus, the question was about the status of such order so passed by the Disciplinary Authority beyond the period fixed by the Tribunal which had not been enlarged. The Tribunal in its order dated 21.06.2013 held that the proceedings pursuant to the order dated 03.09.2010 would have abated only if it was so directed in specific terms and not otherwise. The Tribunal had been correct in this approach and, in our view, the High Court has unjustifiably interfered with the just and proper order passed by the Tribunal.

31. It needs hardly any elaboration to say that fixing of the period of two months by the Tribunal in this case had only been to ensure expeditious proceedings because the matter was being restored for reconsideration in the year 2010, though the disciplinary proceedings related with the incident dated 09.01.2005. However, the said period of two months did not acquire any status akin to that of a statutory mandate that the disciplinary proceedings would have automatically come to an end with its expiry. It remains trite that if an Adjudicating Authority in exercise of its jurisdiction could grant or fix a time period to do a particular thing, in the absence of a specific statutory provision to the contrary, the jurisdiction to fix such a time period inheres the jurisdiction to extend the time initially fixed. Such conditional orders have regularly been construed by this Court to be in terrorem so as to put a check on the dilatory tactics by any litigant or to guard against any laxity on the part of the Adjudicating Authority but, the Court is not powerless to enlarge the time even though it had peremptorily fixed the period at any earlier stage. In the case of Mahanth Ram Das v. Ganga Das, (1961) 3 SCR 763, this Court examined the peremptory order of the Court fixing the period of payment of deficit court fees in the backdrop of the fact that the application for extension of time came up for hearing only after the time fixed by the Court had expired and the application was rejected. This Court put the things in perspective while observing, inter alia, as under 5 Such orders are not like the law of the Medes and the Persians. Cases are known in which Courts have moulded their practice to meet a situation such as this and to have restored a suit or proceeding, even though a final order had been passed."

32. We may elaborate a little. When a conditional order is passed by the Court/Tribunal to do a particular act or thing within a particular period but the order does not provide anything as to the consequence of default, the Court/Tribunal fixing the time for doing a particular thing obviously retains the power to enlarge such time. As a corollary, even the Appellate Court/Tribunal or any higher forum would also be having the power to enlarge such time, if so required. In any case, it cannot be said that the proceedings would come to an end immediately after the expiry of the time fixed.

33. In the present case, even the order dismissing the application for enlargement of time on a technical ground of not placing before the Tribunal instructions of the Railway Board, had again been not of giving any such status of mandatory and rigid character to the period originally fixed that the proceedings would have abated.

34. We are impelled to observe that while treating the proceedings as having abated and as nullity, the High Court has ignored the fundamental principles that fixing of such time period was only a matter of procedure with an expectation of conclusion of the proceedings in an expeditious manner. This period of two months had not acquired any such mandatory statutory character so as to nullify the entire of the disciplinary proceedings with its expiry.

35. Moreover, when no consequence of default was stated in the order dated 03.09.2010, the period as stated therein was only of expectations and not of mandate. We may also observe that very many times, such fixing of time period causes more complications and harm rather than serving the cause of justice. Fixing of such period could only be justified if there are strong and compelling reasons for the same, and if at all such period is proposed to be fixed, not only the reasons for the same but, even the consequences of default are also required to be stafed if such period is, for any valid reason, expected to operate with adverse consequences on the defaulter.

36. The upshot of the discussion foregoing is that the proceedings in question neither abated nor could have been considered nullity only because of passage of the expected time period stated in the order of the Tribunal dated 03.09.2010 There was no reason or justification for the High Court to interfere with the just and proper order passed by the Tribunal on 21.06.2013, which deserves to be restored with necessary consequential directions."

24. The factual matrix in the case of State of U.P. vs. Ram Prakash Singh(supra) can be summarised as under:

a. Ram Prakash Singh was dismissed from service vide order dated 26.07.2010, passed by the Government of U.P..

b. Ram Prakash Singh challenged the dismissal order dated 26.07.2010 before the U.P. Public Service Tribunal;

c. The Tribunal set aside the dismissal order dated 26.07.2010 and directed de-novo enquiry from the stage of submission of the reply to the chargesheet. The de-novo enquiry was directed to be completed within a period of three months:

d. The three months period stipulated by the tribunal for conducting the enquiry expired in April, 2014;

e. The enquiry officer vide letter dated 16.05.2014 afforded Ram Prakash Singh to present any additional evidence within 15 days of receiving the said letter;

f. On 23.05.2014, Ram Prakash Singh replied to the letter dated 16.05.2014, stating that due to the expiration of the time period stipulated by the Tribunal and no extension of time being prayed, the proceeding against him lapsed;

g. Ram Prakash Singh vide letter dated 13.06.2014 reiterated that the enquiry officer had become functus officio and, in the absence of any extension granted by the Tribunal, had no authority to proceed;

h. Enquiry officer submitted an enquiry report dated 15.09 2014, holding Ram Prakash Singh guilty of all the charges;

i. The Government of U.P. issued a fresh order of punishment dated 24.03.2015 which reduced the pension of Ram Prakash Singh;

J. Ram Prakash Singh challenged the punishment order dated 24.03.2015 before the U.P. Public Service Tribunal;

k. The Tribunal vide judgement dated 12.11.2018 set aside the impugned order dated 24.03.2015, on various grounds, one of which was that before passing the final order of punishment permission should have been sought from the Tribunal. The Tribunal in support of the said finding placed reliance upon the full bench judgment of this Hon'ble Court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthy vs. New India Assurance Co. Ltd. reported in 2013 SCC OnLine All 14267;

l. The State of U.P. challenged judgment dated 12.11.2018 of the Tribunal in a writ petition which was dismissed vide judgment dated 19.10.2019.

25. The judgment dated 19.10.2019 was assailed before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the appeal came to be decided vide the judgment in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (supra). The Hon'ble Supreme Court framed five issues for consideration of which the issue relevant for the present case is as under: -

"(iv) whether the inquiry not having been completed within the time stipulated by the tribunal in its order dated 23rd January 2014, the disciplinary proceedings could have been continued beyond May, 2014?"

26. In the aforesaid factual background and while addressing relevant issue, the Hon'ble Supreme Court returned the following findings in its judgment in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra):

"62. While affirming the aforesaid view of the Full Bench, we would like to provide clarification on certain points not touched by such bench. First, in view of unseen institutional hurdles that can slow down swift action, it may not always be possible for the disciplinary authority in each such case where a fixed time has been stipulated by a tribunal/court to conclude the proceedings to apply and seek extension of time before expiry of such time although there can be no gainsaying that applying and obtaining an extension before expiry is eminently desirable. In exceptional cases, even after expiry of the stipulated time, such an application can be moved; and, depending on the cause shown for inability or failure to conclude the proceedings within the time stipulated and also for not applying for extension before expiry, the tribunal/court may, in its discretion, allow or reject the prayer for extension. If the application is rejected, the proceedings cannot be carried forward unless a superior court, reversing the order of rejection, permits the disciplinary authority to so proceed. Secondly, if the delinquent employee objects to continuation of proceedings beyond the time stipulated, the disciplinary authority without proceeding further ought to apply for extension of time and may not go ahead till such time its prayer for extension is granted on such application. Proceeding despite objection and without there being an extension could give rise to apprehensions of bias. Therefore, applying for extension upon halting the proceedings awaiting order on the application would be an advisable course of action to balance the interests of both the employer and the employee. Thirdly, even if the delinquent employee has not objected to continuation of proceedings beyond the time stipulated by the tribunal/court but before the final order is passed in the proceedings, the disciplinary authority would be bound to seek and obtain extension of time. This is for the simple reason that the sanctity of the orders of tribunals/courts cannot be disrespected by errant parties. The dignity of the judicial process would be seriously eroded and there would be nothing left of the rule of law if orders of tribunals/courts, validly made, are disobeyed and the disobedience is encouraged by being indulgent. Finally, we hasten to add that if tribunal/court stipulates a fixed time by which an enquiry or proceedings for disciplinary action ought to be concluded coupled with a rider that, in default, the enquiry/proceedings will stand lapsed, disciplinary authority in such a case would cease to have the jurisdiction to proceed further unless, of course, citing genuine grounds, a recall of such default clause is sought and obtained to proceed further in accordance with law.

63. We also hold that continuation of disciplinary proceedings beyond the time stipulated by a tribunal/court could invite interdiction if no bona fide attempt is shown to have been made to seek an extension of time. However, much would depend on the facts of each case and it may not be possible to lay down a common formula applicable to each case. In an exceptional case, the tribunal/court would have the discretion to overlook the laxity and make such direction as it deems fit in the circumstances."

27. In order to answer the first question for consideration, in the present case is, as to whether there is any conflict in the ratios of the judgements in the case of Sharvan Kumar (supra) and Ram Prakash Singh (supra).

28. The ratio of the decision in Sharvan Kumar(supra) can be culled out in the following terms:

a. When a conditional order is passed by the Court/Tribunal to do any particular act but the order does not provide consequences in case of default, the Court/Tribunal not only has the power to fix the time to do any particular thing but also retains the power to enlarge such time.

b. As a result, even the Appellate Court/Tribunal or any higher forum would have the similar power to enlarge the time.

c. The proceedings under any circumstance would not come an end immediately after the expiry of the time fixed.

d. The period of time fixed by a Court or Tribunal does not acquire any mandatory statutory character so as to nullify the entire proceedings on its expiry.

29. The ratio of Ram Prakash Singh (supra) is in two parts. The judgement in the case Ram Prakash Singh (supra) vide paragraph 62 of the report approves the decision of the full bench of this court in the case of Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthy (supra). The full bench while answering Question no. (b) returned the following findings:-

a. The court which has fixed a stipulation of time has jurisdiction to extend the time and it is open to the court, while exercising that jurisdiction, to consider whether the delay has been satisfactorily explained.

b. The Court can suitably extend time for conclusion of the enquiry either in a proceeding instituted by the employee challenging the enquiry on the ground that it was not completed within the stipulated period or even upon an independent application moved by the employer.

c. The Court has the inherent jurisdiction to grant an extension of time; the original stipulation of time having been fixed by the Court itself.

d. The extension of time has to be considered in the interests of justice balancing both the need for expeditious conclusion of the enquiry in the interests of fairness and an honest administration.

e. It would be open to the Court to extend time suo motu in order to ensure that a serious charge of misconduct does not go unpunished leading to a serious detriment to the public interest.

f. The Court has sufficient powers to grant an extension of time both before and after the period stipulated by the Court has come to an end.

30. The aforesaid findings of the full bench have been specifically approved by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Prakash Singh(supra). There is no discordance in the findings of full bench as approved in Ram Prakash Singh (supra) and the ratio of Sharvan Kumar (supra).

31. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case Ram Prakash Singh (supra) vide paragraph 62, has framed the following additional principles:

a. It may not always be possible for the disciplinary authority where a fixed time has been stipulated by a tribunal/court to conclude the proceedings to apply and seek extension of time. before expiry of such time although there can be no gainsaying that applying and obtaining an extension before expiry is eminently desirable.

b. In exceptional cases, even after expiry of the stipulated time, such an application can be moved; and, depending on the cause shown for inability or failure to conclude the proceedings within the time stipulated and also for not applying for extension before expiry, the tribunal/court may, in its discretion, allow or reject the prayer for extension.

c. If the application is rejected, the proceedings cannot be carried forward unless a superior court, reversing the order of rejection, permits the disciplinary authority to so proceed.

d. If the delinquent employee objects to continuation of proceedings beyond the time stipulated, the disciplinary authority without proceeding further ought to apply for extension of time and may not go ahead till such time and its prayer for extension is granted.

e. Proceeding despite objection and without there being an extension could give rise to apprehensions of bias. Therefore, applying for extension upon halting the proceedings awaiting order on the application would be an advisable course of action to balance the interests of both the employer and the employee.

f. Even if the delinquent employee has not objected to continuation of proceedings beyond the time stipulated by the tribunal/court but before the final order is passed in the proceedings, the disciplinary authority would be bound to seek and obtain extension of time.

g. This is for the simple reason that the sanctity of the orders of tribunals/courts cannot be disrespected by errant parties. The dignity of the judicial process would be seriously eroded and there would be nothing left of the rule of law if orders of tribunals/courts, validly made, are disobeyed and the disobedience is encouraged by being indulgent.

h. If a tribunal/court stipulates a fixed time by which an enquiry or proceedings for disciplinary action ought to be concluded coupled with a condition that in default, the enquiry/proceedings will stand lapsed, the disciplinary authority in such a case would cease to have the jurisdiction to proceed further unless, genuine grounds are cited.

i. If no bona fide attempt is shown to seek an extension of time the continuation of disciplinary proceedings beyond the time stipulated by a tribunal/court could invite interdiction. However, much would depend on the facts of each case and it may not be possible to lay down a common formula applicable to each case.

j. In exceptional cases, the tribunal/court would exercise its discretion to overlook the laxity and make such direction as it deems fit in the circumstances.

32. It is settled law that judgments have to be understood in light of the peculiar facts of each case. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the case Union of India vs. Major Bahadur Singh [(2006) 1 SCC 368] has laid down the following principles:

"9. The courts should not place reliance on decisions without discussing as to how the factual situation fits in with the fact situation of the decision on which reliance is placed. Observations of the courts are neither to be read as Euclid's theorems nor as provisions of the statute and that too taken out of their context These observations must be read in the context in which they appear to have been stated. Judgments of the courts are not to be construed as statutes. To interpret words. phrases and provisions of a statute, it may become necessary for judges to embark into lengthy discussions but the discussion is meant to explain and not to define Judges interpret statutes, they do not interpret judgments. They interpret words of statutes: their words are not to be interpreted as statutes. In London Graving Dock Co. Ltd. v. Horton3 Lord MacDermott observed (All ER p. 14 C-D)

"The matter cannot, of course, be settled merely by treating the ipsissima verba of Willes, J., as though they were part of an Act of Parliament and applying the rules of interpretation appropriate thereto. This is not to detract from the great weight to be given to the language actually used by that most distinguished judge...."

10. In Home Office v. Dorset Yacht Co.4 Lord Reid said: (All ER p. 297g-h)

"Lord Atkin's speech... is not to be treated as if it were a statutory definition. It will require qualification in new circumstances."

Megarry, J. in Shepherd Homes Ltd. v. Sandham (No. 2)5 observed (All ER p. 1274d-e) "One must not, of course, construe even a reserved judgment of even Russell, L.J. as if it were an Act of Parliament;" and, in Herrington v. British Railways Board6 Lord Morris said: (All ER p. 761c)

"There is always peril in treating the words of a speech or a judgment as though they were words in a legislative enactment, and it is to be remembered that judicial utterances are made in the setting of the facts of a particular case."

11. Circumstantial flexibility, one additional or different fact may make a world of difference between conclusions in two cases. Disposal of cases by blindly placing reliance on a decision is not proper.

12. The following words of Hidayatullah, J. in the matter of applying precedents have become locus classicus (Abdul Kayoom v CITZ, AIR p. 688, para 19)

"19.... Each case depends on its own facts and a close similarity between one case and another is not enough because even a single significant detail may alter the entire aspect, in deciding such cases, one should avoid the temptation to decide cases (as said by Cardozo) by matching the colour of one case against the colour of another. To decide, therefore, on which side of the line a case falls, the broad resemblance to another case is not at all decisive,"

"Precedent should be followed only so far as it marks the path of justice, but you must cut the dead wood and trim off the side branches, else you will find yourself lost in thickets and branches. My plea is to keep the path to justice clear of obstructions which could impede it."

33. A meaningful reading of the ratio of Sharvan Kumar (supra) and the ratio of the full bench Judgment in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi(supra) as approved in Ram Prakash Singh(supra), would show that there is no inconsistency in the ratios of both the judgments. The findings of Sharvan Kumar (supra) are limited to the facts of that case, whereas, in Ram Prakash Singh (supra) the same principle is accepted, however additional principles have been laid down. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ram Prakash Singh(supra) has not returned any finding which can be said to be contradictory to the ratio of Sharvan Kumar(supra). As a matter of fact Ram Prakash Singh (supra) recognizes that no inflexible principle can be laid down for each case.

34. Thus, the issues (a) and (b) as framed above, are answered as under.

35. In case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra), it has been elaborated on the aspect of, how an application for extension of time is to be dealt with and the consequence of non-filing of the application for extension of time. Whereas in the case of Sharvan Kumar (supra), the findings were recorded in peculiar facts and circumstances as the application for extension of time was rejected on account of insufficient particulars. It?s discernible that in the case of Ram Prakash Singh(supra), the court has taken into account a situation where no bona fide attempt is shown to have been made to seek an extension of time and vide paragraph 63 it has been made open for the courts to overlook the laxity in an exceptional case and make directions as it deems fit in the circumstances. There is no inconsistency between the aforenoted two ratios. The judgment of Ram Prakash Singh (supra) recognizes the same aspect but elaborates on further principles, as regard grant of extension of time and the consequences of, not seeking extension, by showing sufficient cause, therefore the law laid down in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra) is in conspectus of the Judgment of Sharvan Kumar(Supra).

36. So long as the issue in the present case is concerned, is that what would be the impact of the non adhering of the direction of the writ court dated 11-04-2025, passed in Writ A No. 1059 of 2025, whereby the time limit of fifty one days was fixed for taking the decision by the District Inspector of Schools.

37. As is borne out from the factual matrix and submissions of the leaned counsels for the parties that the matter admittedly could not be concluded within fifty one days rather the same has been concluded within seventy one days. It is noticed that no application for extension of time limit, prescribed by the court, has been moved, by the authority concerned, prior passing the order impugned dated 23-06-2025.

38. When this court examines the aforesaid issue in facts and law, the law laid by the Hon’ble Apex Court, in the case of Ram Prakash Singh (Supra) covers the field of the present case.

39. In the case of Ram Prakash Singh(Supra), while affirming the view rendered by the Full Bench in Abhishek Prabhakar Awasthi(Supra), of the Allahabad High Court, it is provided that it is not always possible for the disciplinary authority to follow the stipulated period to conclude the proceedings and therefore, it can seek for extension of time before expiry of such time limit. Stretching the consideration zone, it has also been held that in exceptional cases, after the expiry of the time limit, the application can be moved, but, that will depend on the discretion of the court concerned to accept or reject the request of extension of time in facts and circumstances of the case and at the same time, it has been provided that continuance of any disciplinary proceeding out of the stipulated period of time, can invite interdiction if there is no bonafide attempt made for seeking the extension of the time limit. The gist of the ratio is that the ultimate purpose of the disciplinary proceeding should not be held up because of the time limit framed by the court, without there being any statutory time limit and therefore, the discretion has been opened to be exercised by the tribunals/courts concerned to apply it’s mind to reconcile the issues in the facts and circumstances of the case.

40. In the instant matter, admittedly, the time period has become over than that of fixed by this court and no effort has been made to place any application before the court concerned for extension of the time limit prescribed.

41. I am of the considered opinion that so far as the factual matrix of the present case are concerned, in absence of any application for extension of time period, prior passing the order impugned, the said order stands vitiated. Consequently, the order impugned dated 23-06-2025 is unsustainable in the eyes of law, resultantly, the same is hereby quashed.

42. Since, it is well settled law that there can be no ultimate bar for extension of time limit, fixed by the court or the tribunal and therefore, the authority concerned is given liberty to proceed from the stage of filing of the fresh reply by the petitioner as well the other stakeholders in the matter.

43. The proceeding shall be concluded within the period of two months, from the date a certified copy of this order is produced before the authority concerned.

44. The writ petition is allowed accordingly.

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether a title revision proceeding u/s 48 of the U.P.C.H. Act can be abated/closed simply because original records are lost, destroyed, or weeded out?
(b) What procedure must consolidation authorities follow to reconstruct records and decide title disputes when files are unavailable?

Headnotes

A. Land Reform Law – U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act, 1953: Section 9-A(2), 11(1), 48 - Allotment of Chaks – Revisional Jurisdiction of D.D.C. – Interference with Concurrent Findings - The dispute concerns title rights over plot numbers (including Gata No. 27/plots 25, 34, 86, 90, 91/1) in Village Takipur, Tehsil Koil, District Aligarh. Consolidation operations commenced in the village in 1973.

An objection filed by Respondent No. 7 (Bhagwat Swaroop) was rejected by the Consolidation Officer (CO) in 1974, and the appeal was dismissed by the Settlement Officer of Consolidation (SOC) in 1975. Concurrently, the petitioners' predecessor (Atar Singh) filed an objection u/s 9-A(2) of the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953, claiming title by adverse possession over Gata No. 27 for more than 12 years. This was rejected by the CO and SOC. On revision u/s 48 of the Act, the Deputy Director of Consolidation (DDC) initially allowed the revision in favor of the petitioners' predecessor on 24.10.1979.

Om Prakash (predecessor of Respondent Nos. 4 to 6) challenged the 1979 revisional order via Writ-B No. 710 of 1980. On 05.07.2023, the High Court allowed the writ petition, set aside the 1979 order, and remitted the matter back to the DDC, Aligarh to decide the title revision afresh. On remand, the DDC/ADM (Judicial), Aligarh issued an order abating ("awaiting"/closing) the title revision proceeding on the ground that the original case files from the lower courts had been weeded out/were missing and the parties had not supplied complete documents to enable on-merit disposal.

The petitioners filed the present writ petition challenging the DDC's abatement order dated 03.02.2025.

B. Proceeding of title revision filed by predecessor of petitioner cannot be abated on the ground that the records are not available. The proper opportunity be afforded to the parties to supply document/evidence which are available so that the record can be reconstructed and matter can be decided by the consolidation authorities on merit in respect to the title proceeding. (Para 12)

C. Litigation under the U.P.C.H. Act is not a voluntarily litigation but is litigation, forced upon a chak holder by law. (Para 13)

The impugned order dated 03.02.2025 passed by respondent no.1/ Deputy Director of Consolidation / Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Aligarh abating the title proceeding under U.P.C.H. Act is hereby set aside. (Para 14)

The matter is remitted back before respondent no.1/ DDC, Aligarh or any other authority exercising the revisional jurisdiction to restore the revision on its original number. The revisional Court shall reconstruct the record of the proceeding in accordance with law after giving opportunity to both parties to bring on record the documents / evidence which are available and decide the revision in accordance with law after reconstruction of the record... Writ petition allowed. (E-4)

4. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 2.12.2025, respondent no. 4, 5 & 6 have put in appearance through counsel on 5.2.2026.

5. Learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners submitted that against the basic year entry one set of objection was filed by respondent no.7/ Bhagwat Swaroop, which was rejected and the order was maintained in appeal. He furthers submitted that the revision filed by respondent no.7/ Bhagwat Swaroop was allowed in arbitrary manner. He further submitted that the predecessor of the petitioners also filed an objection under Section 9-A (2) of U.P.C.H. Act claiming right on the basis of adverse possession over Khata No.27 which was ultimately dismissed by Deputy Director of Consolidation. He further submitted that the writ petition filed by father of respondent nos.4 to 6 was allowed by this Court and matter was remitted back before Deputy Director of Consolidation to decide the revision afresh but Deputy Director of Consolidation has abated the proceeding of title revision on the ground that the records are not available. He further submitted that no opportunity was afforded to petitioners before passing the order dated 3.2.2025, as such, the order dated 3.2.2025 passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation / Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Aligarh cannot be sustained in the eye of law. He further submitted that the record of the proceeding is to be re-constructed after affording opportunity of hearing to the parties to bring on record the document / evidence which are in their possession so that reconstruction can be made and matter can be decided on merit in accordance with law. He further submitted that the claim of adverse possession setup by the predecessor of petitioners has not been proved, as such, no right will accrue in favour of petitioners.

7. I have considered the argument advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the records.

8. There is no dispute about the fact that Writ-B No.710 of 1980, Om Prakash Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and another was decided finally vide judgment / order dated 5.7.2023 setting aside the revisional order dated 24.10.1979 and matter was remitted back before Deputy Director of Consolidation to decide the revision under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act afresh. There is also no dispute about the fact that restoration application filed on behalf of Kharag Singh against the final judgement/ order dated 5.7.2023 has been rejected by this Court vide order dated 12.5.2025. There is also no dispute about the fact that proceeding of title revision under Section 48 of U.P.C.H. Act filed by predecessor of petitioners has been abated under the impugned order dated 3.2.2025.

9. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, perusal of the revisional order dated 3.2.2025 abating the proceeding of title revision will be necessary, which is as under:

10. The argument advanced by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioners as well as the averment made in the writ petition demonstrates that the impugned order has been passed by Deputy Director of Consolidation abating the proceeding of revision without affording proper opportunity of hearing to the petitioners.

11. This Court in the case reported in 1987 RD 350, Ram Khelawan vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others has laid down the principle for reconstruction of the record of the proceeding in case the record is lost, burnt or misplaced. Paragraph nos.6 to 8 of the judgement rendered by this Court in Ram Khelawan (supra), will be relevant for perusal which are as under:

"6. The principle of reconstruction of document whether it is lost, burnt or misplaced not on account of fault of either parties is clearly covered under the courts inherent power under Section 151 Code of Civil Procedure However, this power has to be exercised with great care and circumvention to see that in reconstruction of file no party is getting favourable gains from the position what it was prior to the reconstructions. One of the principles which is to be kept in mind is that the party should be given fullest opportunity first to file such certified copies which are in their possession of those records which are now not available to the court. In doing so the court need not confine itself to the certified copies but even copies which are not certified if either party did not object and accept the said document, it may be accepted as a part of the record of the then existing document. No fixed principle or criterion could be laid down to the court in deciding as to in what manner the record is to be reconstructed.

7. However it is very significant in the reconstruction of the file, when a document not being certified copy sought to be filed is objected to at the stage . of reconstruction, the principle which normally would have been followed for its admissibility earlier should be adhered to. Some times even statement recorded in the judgment of the various authorities, the certified copy of which is available, will also be strong circumstance to be kept in mind in accepting or rejecting any document which is not a certified copy of the then existing record if such document is contrary to what is recorded therein. There are also rules in the General Rules (Civil Rules) and the circular issued by the High Court from time to time to the courts below for guidance about the reconstruction of the record.

8. It is relevant here to refer to a case of Division Bench of this High Court reported in 1983 AllCJ 49 (Uttar Pradesh State Road Transport Corporation v. Smt. Geeta Devi and others). In this case strong reliance was placed on the Full Bench decision of Madras High Court reported in Markkarutti v. Veeran Kutti : AIR 1923 Mad 647 [LQ/MadHC/1923/101] . In this case also material evidence required to be brought on the record were the statements of two witnesses. Counsel for the parties there were entitled to file the copies of the statements of witnesses. On the fact of that case our Court held that it is apparently clear to give another opportunity to the parties to produce the same before the Claims Tribunal. It was further held, in case even after giving fresh opportunity, the parties failed to do the same, then the Tribunal may ask for reproduction of the witnesses for making the statement and in doing so the Tribunal shall afford opportunity to cross examine each of those witnesses."

12. It is material to mention that proceeding of title revision filed by predecessor of petitioner cannot be abated on the ground that the records are not available. The proper opportunity be afforded to the parties to supply document / evidence which are available so that the record can be reconstructed and matter can be decided by the consolidation authorities on merit in respect to the title proceeding.

13. It is also material to mention that this court in the case reported in 2015 (128) RD 381 Lochan Versus D.D.C., Mathura & Others has held that litigation under the U.P.C.H. Act is not a voluntarily litigation but is litigation, forced upon a chak holder by law.

14. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case as well as ratio of law laid down by this Court in Ram Khelawan (supra) as well as Lochan (Supra), the impugned order dated 3.2.2025 passed by respondent no.1/ Deputy Director of Consolidation / Additional District Magistrate (Judicial), Aligarh abating the title proceeding under U.P.C.H. Act is liable to be set aside and the same is hereby set aside.

15. The writ petition stands allowed. The matter is remitted back before respondent no.1/ Deputy Director of Consolidation, Aligarh or any other authority exercising the revisional jurisdiction to restore the revision on its original number. The revisional Court shall reconstruct the record of the proceeding in accordance with law after giving opportunity to both parties to bring on record the documents / evidence which are available and decide the revision in accordance with law after reconstruction of the record of the proceeding, expeditiously preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of certified copy of this order.

Writ B No. 5784 of 1981

Versus
D.D.C. & Ors. ...Respondents

Issue(s) for consideration

(a) Whether the land in dispute was joint family property or the self-acquired property of the petitioners' predecessors?
(b) Whether the High Court should interfere with findings of fact recorded by the DDC u/Article 226 of the Constitution of India?

Headnotes

A. Land Reform Law - Common ancestor Fakir had four sons: Birja, Bihari, Dasrath, and Mahaveer. Bihari and Dasrath died issueless. Birja was the eldest/Karta of the family and Mahaveer was the younger brother. The petitioners (Ram Nath and Kripa Nath) are descendants of Birja (through Ram Sumer and Bujhawan), while the contesting respondents (Ram Naresh and Ram Suresh) are sons of Mahaveer.

During basic consolidation operations, the disputed land (Khata Nos. 112 and 338/334) in the revenue records was recorded in the names of the original petitioners. Contesting respondents filed an objection under the U.P.C.H. Act, 1953, claiming to be co-tenure holders on the ground that the land was joint family ancestral property acquired when the family was undivided.

On 15.03.1965, the Consolidation Officer (CO) allowed the objection of the respondents based on joint statements/admissions (including that of Bujhawan, Karta/predecessor of the petitioners), recording the respondents as co-tenure holders. The petitioners took no action for 10 years during Bujhawan's lifetime. Following Bujhawan's death in 1975, the petitioners filed a belated appeal u/s 11(1) of the Act challenging the 1965 order. On 11.10.1976, the Settlement Officer of Consolidation (SOC) condoned the delay and remitted the matter back to the CO for a fresh decision on merits.

- CO Order (13.12.1978): After examining oral and documentary evidence (including 1323 Fasli and 1359 Fasli Khataunis, pedigree, and past admissions), the CO held that the property was ancestral/joint family property. The CO rejected the petitioners' claim of self-acquisition and declared the respondents to have a 1/2 share as co-tenure holders.
- SOC Order (28.02.1979): The petitioners appealed, and the SOC allowed the appeal, holding that the land was self-acquired by the petitioners' predecessors and setting aside the CO's order.
- DDC Revisional Order (05.12.1980): The respondents filed a revision u/s 48 of the Act. The DDC, Basti, set aside the SOC's order and restored the CO's order dated 13.12.1978.

B. Presumption of Joint Family & Burden of Proof – The pedigree of present judgment is not under dispute. Therefore, the family remained a joint family and entire property come from ancestors remain joint property of an undivided joint family, except a land if acquired independently from own source by any member of joint family. (Para 14)

The burden to prove that land in dispute was a joint property was on contesting respondents, whereas burden to prove that land in dispute was self acquired was on original petitioners. The contesting respondents have been able to show that property in question always remained a joint property and their names were wrongly deleted despite they belong to common ancestors. Petitioners absolutely failed to show that how and under what manner, they have self acquired the property in dispute. Their claim remains unsupported by any pleading i.e. documentary and oral. (Para 16, 17, 19, 20)

There are multiple evidences on record that parties remained a joint family that they resided in one house and there is no specific finding on record that any partition took place, therefore, land in dispute always remained a part of joint property and accordingly all parties remained co-tenure holders. Petitioners here have also not taken any step for partition. There was no evidence of any act or clear intention of partition. (Para 21)

C. After the CO passed order dated 15.03.1965, the land in dispute remained in name of petitioners as well as contesting respondents being co-tenure holders. Petitioners have never taken any steps for a decade to challenge it and have filed an appeal after a decade, which was allowed and matter was remitted back to the Consolidation Officer to pass a fresh order. Their chak were also remained undivided, which shows land remained a part of joint family. Birja had taken advantage of position of Karta after his two brothers died issueless and third brother Mahaveer was not active and recorded name of his son solely without adding name of contesting respondents. (Para 18)

D. Scope of Writ Jurisdiction - A well reasoned order passed by CO upheld by DDC by another reasoned order, cannot be interfered since there is no perversity. The Appellate Authority has wrongly traveled beyond the evidence and recorded finding of partition and self acquired property without any evidence, only on basis of revenue entry, without any consideration, whether such entries were supported by any evidence i.e. documentary or oral and therefore, has recorded a perverse finding. (Para 22)

Writ petition dismissed. (E-4)

1. Parties to the litigation belongs to common ancestors. In basic consolidation records names of original petitioners, i.e., Ram Nath and Kripa Nath sons of Ram Sumer and Bujhawan, were recorded probably on a ground being Karta of a joint Hindu family, parties were member of it and land in dispute (Khata No. 112 and 338) was ancestral land, whereas original petitioners claimed ownership on land in dispute being self acquired.

2. An objection was filed by contesting-respondents that on above ground their names be recorded as co-tenure and on basis of statement of Bujhawan and Ram Naresh, objection was allowed vide an order dated 15.03.1965 passed by the Consolidation Officer.

3. Above order was challenged by way of filing a belated appeal at behest of petitioners that decision was wrongly passed on basis of statements only, whereas it ought to have been considered on merit. Delay of about 10 years was condoned and belated appeal was allowed vide order dated 11.10.1976 and matter was remitted to the Consolidation Officer to pass a fresh order on merit. "आदेश

यह अपील चकबंदी अधिकारी के आदेश दिनांक 15.03.65 के विरूद्ध धारा 11(1) जोत० अधिनियम के अन्तर्गत प्रस्तुत की गई है। खाता के 112, 334 आधार वर्ष की खतौनी से रामनाथ कृपानाथ राम सुमेर, बुझावन पुत्र गिरजा के नाम आधार वर्ष में दर् है रामनरेश, रामसुरेश पुत्र महाबीर का भी नाम तसदीक खतौनी के समय और सहखातेदार दर्ज किया जाना गया। स०स० ने साक्ष्य लेने के पश्चात् रामनरेश, रामसुरेश पुत्रान महावीर का नाम बतौर सहखातेदार खाता सं 112, 334, पर दर्ज करने का आदेश पारित किया। इस आदेश के विरुद्ध यह अपील प्रस्तुत की गई है।

अपीलान्ट के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने बहस की रामनरेश, राम सुरेश पुत्रान महावीर न ही उनके परिवार के संबंधित हैं और न उनका कब्जा दखल आराजी निजाई पर है तथा अधीनस्थ न्यायालय को धोखा देकर दोनों खातों पर रेस्पान्टेन्ट ने अपना नाम दर्ज करा लिया है तथा वास्तव में अधीनस्थ न्यायालय द्वारा नोटिस नहीं जारी की थी जो नोटिसें अधीनस्थ न्यायालय की पत्रावली पर संलग्न है वह फर्जी है तथा केवल रामनरेश रेस्पान्टेन्ट ने लिखित खातेदारान को नोटिस विधिवत् दाखिल होने नहीं दिया तथा सभी नोटिसें मुख्तार दीनानाथ के हस्ताक्षर बनवा लिये हैं तथा अधीन न्यायालय के समक्ष अपीलान्ट रामनाथ कृपानाथ पुत्रान रामसुमेर को उक्त मुकदमें की जानकारी नहीं होने दी तथा स०च० द्वारा जो तामीलात में बयान दिया गया तामीलात में रामनरेश, पुत्रान का बयान दिया गया प्रतीत होता है । जबकि दो पक्षों का शामीलात के बयान होने का कोई प्राविधान नहीं है तथा यह बयान भी दोषपूर्ण है क्योंकि इस बयान में आराजी निजाई का

खाता संख्या गाटा सं कोई जिक्र नहीं गया है तथा च०अ० ने अपने आदेश में यह अंकित किया कि फरीकैन के बयान लिये गये जो सत्य है तथा च०अ० ने आदेश में स्वीकृत के अंश निर्धारित नहीं किये थे। चूंकि रेस्पान्डेंट्स के कोई कोई अंश निर्धारित नहीं किये गये हैं। चूंकि रेस्पान्डेंट्स के कोई अंश निर्धारित नहीं किये गये थे इसलिये अपीलान्ट को च०अ० के आदेश की जानकारी नहीं हो पाई। रेस्पान्डेंट्स रामनरेश, रामसुरेश पुत्रान महाबीर ने जो० च० अधिनियम की धारा 48(3) के अन्तर्गत उप संचालक चकबंदी के न्यायालय में बटवारे की दरख्वास्त दिनांक 13-12-74 को प्रस्तुत की जिसकी जानकारी अपीलान्ट को दिनांक 30-12-75 को हुई तथा जानकारी के प्राप्त होने के जवाब तुरन्त यह अपील दाखिल कर दी गई तथा उप संचालक चकबंदी द्वारा रामनरेश रामसुरेश की दरख्वास्त खारिज कर दी गई। अतएव अपीलान्ट को धारा 5 कानूनी म्याद का लाभ दिये जाने तथा साक्ष्य लिये जाने के पश्चात् वाद का निस्तारण गुण व दोष के आधार पर किया जाना। वास्तव में शामीलात शपथ पत्र का बयान लेने का कोई प्राविधान नहीं है तथा इस बयान में आराजी निजाई का भी कोई उल्लेख नहीं किया गया है इसलिये साक्ष्य लेने के पश्चात् गुण व दोष के आधार पर निर्णय किया जाना ही न्याय संगत प्रतीत होता है। यह अपील म्याद बाहर है इसलिये धारा 5 कानूनी म्याद का लाभ दिया जाना उचित प्रतीत होता है व उपरोक्त विवेचन के आधार पर मैं निम्न आदेश देता हूँ।

अपील स्वीकार की जाती है । चकबंदी अधिकारी का आदेश निरस्त किया जाता है। तथा वाद च०अ० को इस निर्देश के साथ प्रत्यावर्तित किया जाता है कि फरीकैन का साक्ष्य लेने के पश्चात् वाद का निस्तारण गुण व दोष के आधार पर करें। अपीलान्ट को चकबंदी अधिकारी के न्यायालय में दिनांक 30-12-76 को उपस्थित होने के लिये सूचित किया गया । च०अ० अपने न्यायालय में अन्य भी फरीकैन को नोटिस जारी करायें तथा वाद का निस्तारण गुण व दोष के आधार पर करें।"

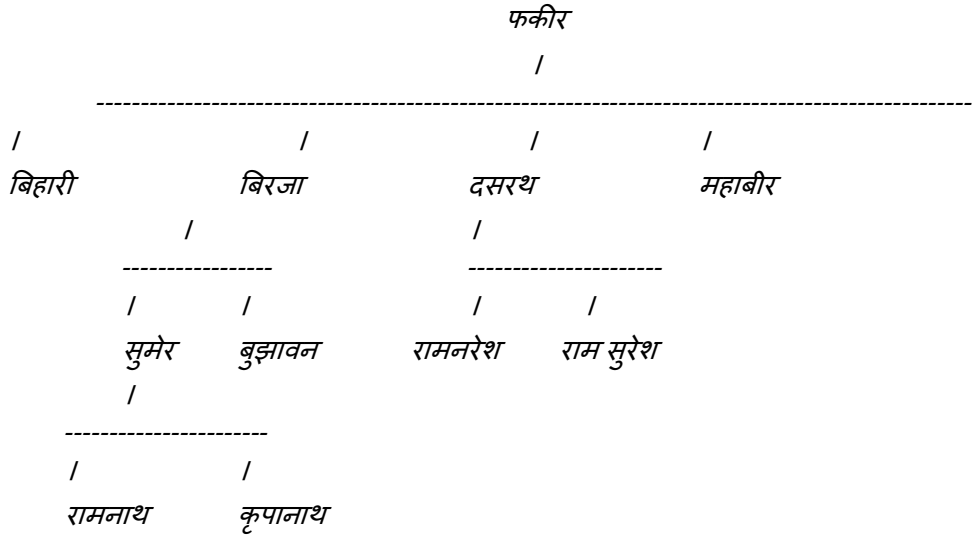
4. In pursuance of above, the Consolidation Officer on basis of oral and documentary evidence passed a fresh order dated 13.12.1978, whereby it was held that property in dispute was ancestral and contesting respondent were co tenure. Claim of original petitioners of self acquisition was rejected. Relevant part of order is reproduced hereinafter:

"प्रस्तुत वाद विद्वान न्यायालय अपील के आदेश दिनांक 11.10.76 अपील संख्या 7950 द्वारा गुण दोष के आधार पर पुनः निर्णय हेतु प्रत्यावर्तित किया गया है। वाद प्रत्यावर्तित पक्षो को सबूत व शहादत का समुचित अवसर के बाद विस्तार पूर्वक सुना गया।



विवाद खाता नम्बरान 112ब व 334 से संबंधित है। जो कागजात आधार वर्ष में रामनाथ व कृपानाथ पुत्रगण रामसुमेरन व बुझावन पुत्र बिराज के नाम वर्ग 1 व 2 अंकित है। उक्त खाते में रामनरेश व रामसुरेश का नाम शामिल है। चकबंदी पड़ताल व खतौनी तस्दीक के समय बताया गया। वाद का निर्णय फरीकैन की उपस्थिति में दिनांक 15-3-65 को किया गया। जिसके विरुद्ध रामनाथ आदि अपील प्रस्तुत किया। पत्रावली

गुण दोष के आधार पर निर्णय हेतु प्रत्यावर्तित की गई। पक्ष एक दूसरे के हक को स्वीकार नहीं करते। बुझावन सहमत है कि उनके वारिस मुकदमा फरीक है।

फरीकैन के कथन पर निम्न तनकीह निर्णयार्थ कायम हो गई है।

क्या रामसुरेश व रामनरेश खाता निजाई के सहखातेदार है। यदि हां तो उनका अंश क्या है?

रामनरेश आदि ने अपने हक को साबित करने के लिये कोई कागजी सबूत दाखिल नहीं किया है। उन्होंने एक उजदुारी दिनांक 3-12-77 को दाखिल किया है। जिसके पैरा 7 में निम्न खानदान शजरा दिया है ।

उजुरदारोह के पेरा 2 में कहा गया कि फरीकैन मुस्तर्का हिन्दू खानदान के है विवादित भूमि मुस्तर्का पैदा को गई है। पैरा 3 में कहा गया कि आराजी निजाई फरीकैन के पूर्वजो को मुस्तर्का पैदा करदा है। जिस पर फरीकैन मुस्तर्का काबिज दाखिल है पैरा 4 में यह कहा गया है कि रामनाथ व कृपानाथ का तनहा कब्जा नहीं है। पैरा 5 में कहा गया है कि विवादित भूमि के संबंध में वाद चकबंदी अधिकारी के न्यायालय में चल चुका है जिसमें बुझावन शपथ पूर्वक बयान देकर उनका कब्जा व सहखातेदारी तस्दीक किया है। पैरा 6 में कहा गया है कि प्रतिवादीगण ने असलियत को छिपाया है। अतः निवेदन किया गया है कि आराजियात निजाई के नाम रामनरेश आदि बतौर सहखातेदार दर्ज करके खाता चकबंदी अलग किया गया है।

रामनाथ व कृपानाथ ने उक्त उजुरदारी के खिलाफ कोई बयान तहरीरी दाखिल नहीं किया है।

रामनरेश के बयान मजीद मे उक्त खानदान सजरा दिया है जिसके खिलाफ कृपानाथ ने कोई बात अपने बयान मजीद में नही कहा है जब कि उनका बयान राम नरेश और उनके गवाह के बाद हुआ इस प्रकार इस प्रकार रामनरेश द्वारा दिया गया खानदान शजरा प्रमाणित है। इससे स्पष्ट है कि फरीकैन एक ही मूरिस फकीर की औलाद है। रामनरेश ने बयान मजीद में यह कहा है कि बिहारी व दसरथ लावल्द मर गये उनके पिता बूजा मुस्तर्का रहते थे। अगुवा व पेशवाकार घर के बिरजा थे। अब जायदाद मुस्तर्का है आराजी निजाई गल्ती से बिरजा के खानदान में तनहा चली आई। चकबंदी में उज़रदारी किया। बुझावन आदि ने सुलह कर लिया। इस बयान के खिलाफ भी कृपानाथ ने कोई बात बयान मजीद में नहीं कहा है। इससे यह साबित होता है कि बिहारी व दसरथ लावलद मर गये।

महावीर व विरजा शामिल शरीक रहे और विरजा घर के अगुवा तथा खानदान कर्ता रहे। जायदाद निजाई मुस्तर्का है जो विरजा के खानदान तनहा चली गयी। चकबंदी मे बुझावन आदि में उनका हक सहखातेदारो तस्दीक किया गया। इस संबंध में बयान रामनरेश काविले विश्वासनीय है। कृपानाथ ने बयान आदि में कहा है कि विवादित भूमि उनका कब्जा बापदादा के जमाने से चला आ रहा है। तथा विवादित भूमि को उनके पिता ने अर्जित किया है कानून की दृष्टि में हिन्दू परिवार का संयुक्त रहना माना जाता है। जब तक बंटवारा न साबित हो। कृपानाथ ने बयान मजकूर आदि में कहीं नहीं कहा है कि बंटवारा कब हुआ। बंदोबस्त सन् 1323 फ० में जिसकी नकल रामनरेश ने दाखिल किया है।

खाता 111 फरीकैन के नाम मुस्तर्का दर्ज है। विवादित भूमि के अलावा अन्य जमीन गैर विवादित चकबंदी की क्रियाओं तक संयुक्त रही है। जैसा कि नकल खतौनी आकार पत्र 23 व अन्य कागजात के अवलोकन से स्पष्ट है बयान मजीद मे कहा गया है कि फरीकैन मुस्तर्का तौर पर है। और मकान को एक ही है। इसका खण्डन कृपानाथ ने अपने बयान मजीद में नहीं किया है। जिरह में रामनरेश ने कहा है कि बंटवारा हुये 10-12 साल हुआ। 10-12 साल के बाद से उसे तीन नम्बर अलग से मिला। 10-12 साल के पहले उनके पास तनहा नम्बर नही था। रामनरेश ने कहा है कि विवादित भूमि मे उनका हिस्सा होता है लेकिन कृपानाथ ने बयान मजीद में कहा है कि रामनरेश को तनहा जमीन में उनका हिस्सा नहीं होता। कृपानाथ की ओर से जिरह मे यह पूछा गया है कि बंटवारा हुये 50-55 साल हुआ उत्तर सो साल हुआ होगा फिर खुद कहा कि 10-11 साल हो गया है" इसके उत्तर में यह कहा जाता है कि बंटवारा पुराना है और राम नरेश को विवादित भूमि मे हक नहीं मिलना चाहिये। यह बहस उचित व न्याय संगत नहीं प्रतीत होती। इसका कारण यह है कि बयान मजीद मे कृपानाथ के बंटवारे के संबंध में कुछ नही कहा है बंटवारे के संबंध में सही स्थिति को छिपाने की गरज से वे मौन रहे है। स्वयं जिरह दिनांक 16.08.78 के कृपानाथ द्वारा यह पूछा गया है कि बंटवारा हुये 50-55 साल हुआ इससे यह जाहिर होता है। कि बंटवारा हुये 50-55 साल यदि माना जाय तब फरीकैन में बंटवारा सन् 1938 या 1933 वाली है। इस आधार पर विवादित भूमि का मुख्तारी होना ही साबित होता है। उत्तरा में

100 साल से के बाद सदिग्ध व नाजायज तौर में कहा गई प्रतीत होती है। पूरे बयान से यह जाहिर होता है कि बंटवारा हुये 10-12 साल हुआ। रामनरेश ने बयान मजकूर में यह कहा है कि 7-8 साल से फरीकैन में बीच नामहककी हो गई है और यही साक्ष्य हेतु वकील द्वारा मुकदमें को कहा दिया गया है। नकल आकार पत्र 23 से फरीकैन की जायदाद भी मुख्तारी तथा खेती बारी का मुख्तारी अब तक रहना प्रमाणित है। बुधावन ने 1965 में ही उनका अंश तस्लीम कर चुके हैं। रामनरेश के कथन में दखल प्रतीत होती है। क्योंकि बुधावन के जीवन काल में उनके बयान से विवादित बाद को कहा करने का साहस नहीं किया गया। आदेश तथा कब्जा परिवर्तन के बहुत दिन बाद नामहककी के कारण वाद बढ़ा दिया गया प्रतीत होता है। यह कोरी क्षति तथा बयान मजकूर में कूपा नाथ द्वारा इसका खण्डन न करना रामनरेश के हक को साबित करने में बढ़ावा देता है। चकबंदी में खाते का विभाजन न करा कर चक्र एक में ही रखना यह साबित करता है कि चकबंदी क्रियाओं तक फरीकैन संयुक्त रहे हैं और प्रतिवादी में संयुक्त रही है।

रामनरेश के विद्वान वकील ने बुझावन मृतक के बयान दिनांक 15-3-65 को और ध्यान आकर्षित करते हुये यह बहस किया कि उक्त बयान धारा 32 कानून सहादत में पढा जायेगा और तथा स्वीकारोक्ति के कारण विवादित भूमि में रामनरेश आदि को हक मिलना चाहिये । इस पर यह बहस किया गया कि उक्त बयान की कोई कीमत नहीं है। यह कथन उचित व न्याय संगत नहीं प्रतीत होता है। हालाकि बयान बिना हलक है। जो आर्डर 10 नियम 2 यदि माना जाय तब भी सहखातेदारों को स्वीकारोक्ति से इंकार नहीं किया जा सकता। इसके अलावा स्वयं बुझावन ने उक्त बयान के खिलाफ कोई भी कार्यवाही नहीं किया कृपानाथ ने दिनांक 15-3-65 के बयान व आदेश के के फलस्वरूप कब्जा परिवर्तन के बहुत दिन बाद तक मौन बैठे रहे इसके विपरीत कोई कार्यवाही नहीं किया। कृपानाथ कब्जा परिवर्तन के बहुत दिन बाद न्यायालय अपील में इस आज्ञा के साथ बहस व फैसला कराया गया कि रामनरेश उनके खानदान के नहीं है। जैसा कि रिमाण्ड आदेश से स्पष्ट है।

उक्त परिस्थितियाँ कृपानाथ के हक में प्रतिकूल तथा रामनरेश आदि के हक के पक्ष में प्रभाव डालती है। खानदान का एक होना तथा संयुक्त रहना रामनरेश के मजकूर बयान से साबित है। बयान बुझावन अतयंत रेलवेंट( ) है तथा सबूत में पढा जायेगा। यह एक हक की स्वीकारोक्ति है जो मुकदमें की वर्तमान परिस्थितियों व शहादत सबूत पर विशेष असर डालता है दोनो खाता निजाई के विवादित नम्बरान 281/ 119-7, 413/ 112-13, 731/ 0-10- है। गा०सं० 281/ 0-14-2 , व 413/ 0-7-03 जमन 8 रामसुमेरन व बुझावन के नाम कागजात सन् 1323 फ० में दर्ज है। सन् 1359 फ० गाटा सं० 281,413, 731, रामनाथ व कृपानाथ पुत्रगण रामसुमेर व बुझावन के नाम मुद्दत 42 साल पहले नहीं लिखी गई है। सन् 1359 फ० 296, 297, 444 जमन 7 रामनरेश व सुरेश के नाम दर्ज है। रामनरेश द्वारा दाखिल किये गये खतौनी सन् 1323 फ० में खाता 111 में 7 नम्बरान गा०सं० 76, 514 मुस्तर्का फरीकैन के नाम दर्ज है। इसी में गा० सं० 413 रामसुमेर बुझावन

के नाम गा०सं० 413 मुद्दत 7 साल से जमन 8 दर्ज है। रामनरेश व रामसुरेश की उजूरदारी का पैरा 3 अखण्डित है जिसमें कहा गया है कि आराजीयत्मनिजाई पूर्वजों के समय की मुस्तर्का पैदा करदा है। विस्तृत बयान जिसकी विवेचना फैसले में की गई है से साबित होता है कि वि० भू मुस्तर्का हालत में मुख्तविदा किया गया है। बंटवारे का हक यह बाद बंटवारा पैदा करने का कोई केस भी रामनाथ व कृष्णनाथ का नहीं है। रामनरेश व सुरेश का हक बुझावन जो तस्लीम था कि जिससे उनके हक को बल मिलता है। प्रस्तुत बाद को वर्तमान परिस्थितियों में आर०डी० 1867 पृष्ठ सं० 226 पर दी गई व्यवस्था का कोई लाभ कृपानाथ आदि को नहीं मिल सकता । न तो उक्त व्यवस्था फरीकैन बीच लागू होती है। आर०डी० 1976 (वा०1 पृष्ठ सं 277 पर यह व्यवस्था दी गई है कि ज्वाइन्ट हिन्दू प्रापर्टी और ज्वाइंट हिन्दू टेनेंसी में अंतर है इसमें यह भी व्यवस्था दी गई है कि वि० भू० के मुस्तर्का अर्जित करने को साबित करने की जिम्मेदारी उस पर है ता ऐस कहता है। वर्तमान वाद के यह तथ्य रामनरेश व रामसुरेश के अखण्डित बयान से साबित है जिससे उक्त व्यवस्था का कोई लाभ रामनाथ व कृपानाथ को नहीं मिल सकता। उक्त मिसिल में वादी उक्त तथ्य को साबित करने में बिल्कुल असफल रहा है। दोनो बात की परिस्थितियां भिन्न है। रामनाथ कृपानाथ द्वारा दिये गये प्रार्थना पत्र दिनांक 13.11.78 के तहत में ए०डब्लू०सी० 1977 पृष्ठ सं० 418 पेश नहीं किया गया। आर०डी० 1970 दिया गया है जिसमें कुल पृष्ठ 566 है। इस किताब में स्लिप रखी गई है जिसमें आर०डी० 1970 पृष्ठ 218 अंकित है। यह फरीकैन के केस से संबंधित नहीं है।

पक्षों के सबूत शहादत के अध्ययन के पश्चात् मैं इस निष्कर्ष पर पहुँचता हूँ कि विवादित भूमि में रामसुरेश व रामनरेश सहखातेदार हैं तथा उनका अंश 1/2 है। 1/2 अंश रामनाथ व कृपानाथ का है। वैसे बंटवारा की आवश्यकता नहीं है। क्योंकि फरीकैन का अंश आज भी चकबंदी में मुश्तर्का है। तनकीह इस प्रकार निर्णीत की गई।

उपर्युक्त विवेचन के आधार पर निम्न आदेश पारित किये जाते हैं।

विवादित भूमि खाता नम्बर 112 व 334 में दर्ज खातेदारी के साथ रामनरेश व रामसुरेश पुत्रगण महावीर सा० देह का नाम बतौर सहखातेदार दर्ज है। बुझावन मृतक का नाम खारिज हो। दूधनाथ व रामनाथ पुत्रगण रामसुमेर का नाम बतौर वारिस दर्ज हो। आपत्ति रामनाथ कृपानाथ खारिज हो।

पत्रावली बाद अमलदरामद दाखिल दफ्तर हो।"

name of appellants Kripanath and Ramnath (petitioners herein) be recorded and that their of self acquisition of land in dispute was accepted. Relevant part of order dated 28.02.1979 is reproduced hereinafter:

"पक्षों के विद्वान अधिवक्ता की बहस सुनी गई तथा अधीनस्थ न्यायालय की पत्रावली का अवलोकन ध्यानपूर्वक किया गया।

अपीलांट के विद्वान ने बहस की कि नकल खतौनी 1323 फ० दाखिल की गयी है। जिसमें रामनाथ कृपानाथ के पिता राम सुमेर बुझावन पुत्र बृजा का नाम दर्ज है। नकल खतौनी 1359 फ० दाखिल की गई है। इसमें भी रामनाथ कृपानाथ पुत्रान सुमेर बुझावन नकल बृजा का नाम दर्ज है। यह भी उल्लेखनीय है कि गा० सं० 413, 431 1359 फ० की खतौनी में रामनाथ , कृपानाथ पुत्रान रामसुमेर बुझावन वल्द बृजा के नाम विभाग 7 व 17 में दर्ज है। तथा रामनरेश रामसुमेर पुत्रान महावीर के नाम भी अलग खाते में गाटा सं० 296 , 397, 444 मुद्दत 8 साल से दर्ज है। अधीनस्थ न्यायालय के समक्ष रामनरेश रामसुरेश पुत्रान महावीर ने आपत्ति की थी कि आराजी निजाई मुस्तर्का तौर पर पैदा की हुई सम्पति है किन्तु नकल खतौनी 1323 फ० तथा 1359 फ० से यह स्पष्ट है कि आराजी निजाई तनहा रामसुमेर बुधावन पुत्रान बृजा द्वारा पैदा की गई थी क्या रामसुरेश रामनरेश के पिता ने आराजी निजाई अर्जित नहीं की थी । नकल खतौनी 1359 फ० से यह भी स्पष्ट है कि रामनरेश , रामसुरेश द्वारा भी तनहा कुछ आराजी अर्जित की गई थी जिसमें रामनाथ कृपानाथ तथा बुझावन आदि का नाम दर्ज नहीं है। तथा इस आराजी पर उन्होंने सहखातेदारी दर्ज किये जाने का दावा नहीं किया है। इस संबंध में अपीलान्ट के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने 1976 आर०डी० पृष्ठ संख्या 210 , 1970 आर०डी० पृष्ठ सं 198 तथा ए०डब्ल्यू० सी० 1977 पृष्ठ सं० 418 का भी हवाला देते हुये यह भी बहस की कि शामिलात में रहते हुये उमरा सभी द्वारा भी अलग अलग भूमि अर्जित (सेपरेट एक्वीजन) की सकती है। रेस्पान्टेन्ट के विद्वान अधिवक्ता ने बहस को कि जब भी उभयपक्षो के नाम कुछ आराजी शामिलात में है तथा बुझावन पुत्र बृजा का बयान अधीनस्थ न्यायालय के समक्ष हुआ था जिसमें उसने रामनरेश व रामसुरेश पुत्रान महावीर का नाम बतौर सहखातेदार दर्ज होने की स्वीकृत दी थी।

इसलिये संयुक्त हिन्दू परिवार का प्रिजम्पसन होना चाहिये तथा विवादित भूमि पर भी रेस्पान्डेन्ट का नाम दर्ज किया जाना चाहिये।

किन्तु मैं रेस्पान्डेन्ट के विद्वान अधिवक्ता से सहमत नहीं हूँ। क्योंकि बुझावन, रामनरेश का बयान शामिलात में दर्ज किया गया था जिसमें विवादित भूमि का कोई उल्लेख भी नहीं है। तथा इस प्रकार का बयान कानून की दृष्टि में कोई बयान नहीं है तथा उभय पक्षों शामिल शरीक रहते हुये भी अलग अलग आराजी अर्जित कर सकते हैं।

विवादित भूमि तनहा कृपा नाथ रामनाथ के पिता रामसुमेर व बुझावन द्वारा आदेश से अर्जित की गई थी । इसलिये रामनरेश , रामसुरेश पुत्रान महावीर का नाम बतौर सहखातेदार दर्ज किये जाने का कोई औचित्य नहीं है। उपरोक्त विवेचन के आधार पर निम्न आदेश देता हूँ।

अपील स्वीकार की जाती है। च०अ० का आदेश निरस्त किया जाता है तथा आदेश दिया जाता है कि खाता संख्या 112 व 334 तनहा अपीलान्ट कृपानाथ व रामनाथ पुत्रान रामसुमेर के नाम पूर्ववत् दर्ज रखा जावे। पत्रावली बाद अमलदरामद संचित हो।" (Emphasis supplied)

6. Aforesaid order was thereafter challenged by contesting respondents by way of filing a revision before Deputy Director of Consolidation, which was allowed vide order dated 05.12.1980 and order passed by Settlement Officer of Consolidation was set aside and order passed by Consolidation Officer was affirmed. Relevant part of order is reproduced hereinafter:

मैने पक्षों की बहस सुनी है तथा अभिलेखों का अवलोकन किया है

पक्षो की स्वीकृत वंशावली निम्न लिखित है:-

फकीर

बिहारी बिरजा दसरथ महाबीर

सुमेर बुझावन रामनरेश राम सुरेश

रामनाथ कृपानाथ

क्षत्रधारी जोखन बलराम सर्वजीत इन्द्रजीत

पुनरीक्षण कर्तागण का केस यह है कि बिरजा और महावीर का परिवार संयुक्त था और विवादित भूमि संयुक्त परिवार की उपार्जित भूमि थी और बिरजा सबसे बड़े भाई थे और परिवार के कर्ता थे। अतः विवादित भूमि उनके नाम प्रतिनिधि रूप में दर्ज थी और वास्तव में यह बिरजा और महावीर की संयुक्त रूप से उपार्जित भूमि थी। उनका कहना है कि इसलिये चकबंदी में विवाद उठाने पर बुझावन ने उस समय परिवार के कर्ता होने के नाते विद्वान चकबंदी अधिकारी के समक्ष दिनांक 15/3/65 को बयान देकर यह स्वीकार कर लिया कि भूमि में महावीर के पुत्रों रामनरेश आदि का भी हिस्सा है और वे सहखातेदार हैं उनका यह कहना है कि जब तक बुझावन जीवित रहे और परिवार के कर्ता के रूप में थे तब तक रामनाथ और कृपानाथ चुप रहे और 1975 में जब बुझावन की मृत्यु हो गई तब रामनाथ और कृपानाथ ने पहले से स्थिति को उलटने का प्रयत्न चलाया। 1325 फ० की खतौनी के अनुसार भूखण्ड संख्या 281 और 413 रामसुमेर और बुझावन को दखीलकारी और गैर दखील कारी काश्त दर्ज है। 1359 फ० की खतौनी में तीनों भूखण्ड रामनाथ कृपानाथ और बुझावन को जमन 6, जमन 7 और 17 की आराजी दर्ज है उसी आधार पर विद्वान चकबंदी अधिकारी ने यह निर्णय दिया है कि यह भूमि रामसुमेर और बुझावन द्वारा तनहा पैदा की गई थी उन्होंने बुझावन और रामनरेश दोनों के इकट्ठा बयान दर्ज करने को गैर कानूनी बताया है। किन्तु विद्वान सहायक बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी का उक्त निर्णय सही नहीं है । कानून में ऐसी कोई मुमानियत नहीं है कि दो व्यक्तियों का बयान एक साथ दर्ज न किया जाय। ऐसी दशा में यदि दिनांक 13/3/65 को विद्वान च०अ० ने रामनाथ और बुझावन दो नों का इकट्ठा एक बयान दर्ज किया तो उसमें कोई अनुचित बात नहीं है यदि दो आदमी एक ही बात सहमति पूर्वक कहते हैं तो समय बचाने के लिये यदि दोनों का बयान अलग दर्ज न करके एक में ही दर्ज किया गया तो उसमें कोई अनुचित बात नहीं है, उक्त बयान के संबंध में विशेष बात यह है कि पुनर्नीरीक्षण की सुनवाई के पहले उक्त बयान का मुख्य पन्ना पड लिया गया है और इस प्रकार उक्त बयान के प्रभाव की समाप्ति करने की चेष्टा की गई है। किन्तु उक्त बयान को अस्तित्वहीन इसलिये नहीं माना जा सकता क्योंकि विद्वान चकबंदी अधिकारी ने उक्त बयान का संदर्भ देते हुये आदेश दिनांक 15/3/65 को जो आदेश पारित किया है। उस पर बुझावन और रामनरेश दोनों ने हस्ताक्षर किये हैं और दोनों का हस्ताक्षर अभी उनको भी मौजूद है। दूसरी बात यह है कि दोनों अधीनस्थ न्यायालयों ने उक्त बयान के अस्तित्व को स्वीकार किया है और इस प्रकार उक्त बयान एक वास्तविकता है तीसरी बात यह है कि उक्त बयान के आधार पर पारित आदेश दिनांक 15/3/65 के द्वारा विवादित भूमि 11 वर्षों तक दोनों पक्षों को सहखातेदार अंकित रही वस्तुतः इस तथ्य को केवल बयान फट जाने से मिटाया नहीं जा सकता इस प्रकार यह तथ्य अंतिम रूप से सिद्ध है कि बुझावन और रामनाथ ने दिनांक 15/3/65 को विद्वान चकबंदी के समक्ष उपस्थित होकर संयुक्त रूप से बयान दिया था कि विवादित भूमि में रामनरेश आदि सहखातेदार हैं और तदनुसार रामनरेश आदि का भी नाम विवादित भूमि सहखातेदारों के रूप में दर्ज किया गया था।

विपक्षीगण की ओर से कहा गया है कि रामनाथ आदि के नाम कुछ भूमि तनहा है कि उन्हें हिस्सा नहीं लिया है किन्तु इसके विपरीत रामनरेश आदि की ओर से यह कहा गया है कि चकबंदी प्रक्रिया तक अधिकाँश भूमि दोनों पक्षों के नाम संयुक्त रूप में ही थी और दोनों परिवार संयुक्त रूप से रहते थे कृपानाथ ने अपने बयान में स्वीकार किया है कि दोनों पक्षकार एक ही घर में रहते हैं। कृपानाथ ने इस बयान में यह भी कहा है कि उनका बुझावन रामनरेश और रामसुरेश सबका चक मुश्तर्का बना हुआ है। पत्रावली में चक संख्या 321 का जो विवरण आया हुआ है उससे भी स्पष्ट होता है कि मार्च 77 तक दोनों पक्षों का सम्मिलित चक बना हुआ था यह इस बात का प्रमाण है कि 1965 में उक्त आदेश जब हुआ था तो दोनों पक्ष संयुक्त परिवार में रहे हैं। कृपानाथ ने अपने बयान में यह नहीं बताया कि उनका संयुक्त परिवार कब विभक्त हुआ किन्तु उन्होंने अपने बयान में स्वीकार किया है कि उन लोगों ने कोई खेत तनहा पैदा नहीं किया है और विवादित भूमि बाप दादा के समय की है। इसमें यह बात भलीभाँति स्पष्ट है कि कृपानाथ और रामनाथ की विवादित भूमि के उपार्जन के संबंध में कोई धन नहीं है और जो भी धन था उनके बाबा बुझावन का था और चूंकि भूमि संयुक्त रूप से उपार्जित थी अतः बुझावन ने उसमें रामनरेश आदि का हिस्सा स्वीकार किया रामनरेश ने अपने बयान में बताया है कि 10 साल पहले सारी खेती बारी संयुक्त रूप से होती थी । एक बार प्रश्न न के कारण रामनरेश ने " बंटवारा हुये 10 साल हुआ " यह कह दिया किन्तु तुरन्त उन्होंने इस बात को स्पष्ट रूप करते हुये बटवारा होने की अवधि 10-12 साल बताई यह देखते- हुये कि अधिकांश भूमि दोनों पक्षों के साथ थी और चकबंदी में भी दोनों पक्षों के नाम संयुक्त चक बने , यही बात सिद्ध होता है कि चकबंदी के प्रारंभिक दिनों में दोनों पक्ष संयुक्त परिवार में ही रहते थे ए०डब्ल्यू० सी० 1937 पृष्ठ 418 , आर०डी० 1970 पृष्ठ 198 आर०डी० 1976 (2) पृष्ठ 226 की व्यवस्थाओं का संदर्भ देकर यह कहा गया है कि संयुक्त परिवार में भी कोई भी व्यक्ति अलग से भूमि उपार्जित कर सकता है और चूंकि खतौनी में यह भूमि अकेले बुझावन व राम सुमेर के मध्य थी अतः उसमें महावीर के लड़कों का हिस्सा नहीं माना चाहिये । इस बात में संदेह नहीं है कि संयुक्त परिवार में रहते हुये भी कोई सदस्य अपने नाम से अलग भूमि उपार्जित कर सकता है । किन्तु जब परिवार संयुक्त हो तो यह सिद्ध करना भी आवश्यक है कि अपने लिये अलग आय के साधन से इस सदस्य ने यह भूमि उपार्जित की । इस बात का कोई साक्ष्य नहीं दिया गया है कि संयुक्त परिवार की खेती बारी के अतिरिक्त बिरजा के पास आय का कोई तनहा साधन भी था ऐसी दशा में विवादित भूमि को तनहा बिरजा को मानने का कोई औचित्य नहीं है विशेष रूप में जब कि वह सबसे बड़े भाई थे और परिवार के कर्ता थे आर०डी० 1976 पृष्ठ 271 , आर०डी० 1975 पृष्ठ 218 की व्यवस्थाओं से स्पष्ट है कि जब तक परिवार संयुक्त हो तब तक किसी भी भूमि को तनहा सिद्ध करने के लिये अलग साक्ष्य आवश्यक है जो नहीं दिया गया है ।

इस मामले में कुछ विशेष परिस्थितियाँ ऐसी हैं जिनके कारण विवादित भूमि को संयुक्त परिवार की भूमि मानने का बहुत बड़ा औचित्य है । पहली बात तो बुझावन का स्वीकृत मृतक बयान दिनांक 15/3/65 है जिसके द्वारा उन्होंने विवादित भूमि में रामनरेश आदि को सहखातेदार स्वीकार किया और यदि रामनरेश

आदि के नाम तनहा दर्ज भूमि की संयुक्त परिवार की सम्पत्ति होती तो बिना उसमें हिस्सा दिये हुये बुझावन ऐसा बयान न देते किन्तु जब उसमें उनका हिस्सा नहीं था तभी उन्होंने ऐसा बयान न देते किन्तु जब उसमें उनका हिस्सा नहीं था तभी उन्होंने ऐसा बयान दिया अतः यह नहीं कहा जा सकता कि रामनरेश आदि के नाम तनहा दर्ज भूमि में हिस्सा पाने के कारण विवादित भूमि में रामनरेश आदि को भी सहखातेदार न माना जाय । दूसरी परिस्थिति यह है कि रामनाथ और कृपानाथ ने भी बुझावन के जीवन काल में उपर्युक्त सहखातेदारी को स्वीकार किया और 1965 से 1976 तक दोनों पक्ष सहखातेदार दर्ज रहे । दोनों का चक संयुक्त रहा और रामनाथ और कृपानाथ ने इस पर कोई आपत्ति प्रस्तुत नहीं की कृपानाथ के बयान के अनुसार बुझावन 26/8/75 को मरे और उनकी मृत्यु के बाद कृपानाथ और रामनाथ ने इस पूर्णतया तयशुदा मामले को फिर से उलटने का यह प्रयास किया है किसी भी व्यक्ति को यह अनुमति नहीं दी जा सकती कि यह एक तथ्य स्वीकार कर ले और कि एक पीढी बीत जाने पर उसे फिर से उलट कर दूसरा तथ्य प्रतिष्ठित करे । रामनाथ और कृपानाथ की ओर से यह भी कहा गया है कि दिनांक 15/3/65 के सुलहनामें का बयान में वह पक्ष नहीं था अतः यह उन पर बाध्यकारी नहीं है । किन्तु यह तर्क भी गलत है ए०आई० आर० 1975 पंजाब परिभाषा-12 में माननीय पंजाब उच्च न्यायालय ने यह निर्णय दिया है कि जहाँ दोनों पक्षों का नाम बहुत दिनों तक सहखातेदार के रूप में दर्ज रहा हो। वहाँ एक पक्ष बहुत दिनों के बाद यह चुनौती देने से बाधित है कि इसमें दूसरे पक्ष का हिस्सा नहीं है इस प्रकार बुझावन बयान और स्वीकारोक्ति दिनांक 15/5/65 उनके लिये एस्टापेल उत्पन्न करती है और रामनाथ और कृपानाथ का उक्त निर्णय को स्वीकार कर के 15 वर्ष तक रामनरेश को सहखातेदार के रूप में स्वीकार करना कनडक्ट और एक्वासेस के द्वारा उनके विरुद्ध एस्टापेल उत्पन्न करते हैं और वे अब यह चुनौती देने से बाधित हैं कि उसमें रामनरेश आदि सहखातेदार नहीं हैं अतः विद्वान सहायक बंदोबस्त अधिकारी चकबंदी ने विद्वान चकबंदी अधिकारी के आदेश को उलट कर उचित नहीं किया है।

पुनरीक्षण स्वीकार किया जाता है तथा सहायक ब०अ०च० का आदेश दिनांक 28/3/79 निरस्त किया जाता है और विद्वान चकबंदी अधिकारी का आदेश दिनांक 13/12/78 पुनरप्रतिष्ठित किया जाता है और यह निर्णय दिया जाता है कि विवादित भूमि में रामनरेश आदि पुनरीक्षण कर्ता सहखातेदार हैं तदनुसार अमलदरामद की जाय।" (Emphasis supplied)

7. Aforesaid order dated 05.12.1980 is challenged before this Court at behest of original petitioners by means of present writ petition filed in 1981, which is finally heard and decided after about 45 years.

8. Sri Rakesh Pathak, learned counsel for petitioners, submitted that when matter was remitted back by Appellate Authority it has to be decided on merit, however, on remand the Consolidation Officer has erroneously relied on statements recorded earlier and allowed objections of contesting respondents, whereas the Appellate Authority has rightly considered all aspects of case and on basis of revenue record returned a specific finding that on basis of Khatauni 1323 Fasli and 1359 Fasli respondents have also individually acquired some property whereon original petitioners were not recorded as co-tenure holders.

9. Similarly so far as land in dispute is concerned, i.e., Khata No. 112 and 334, it was solely acquired by original petitioners and, therefore, appeal was rightly allowed on basis of revenue record of 1323 Fasli that it was not acquired by Ram Sumer and Bujawan sons of Birja. Learned counsel further submitted that even a member of joint Hindu family can acquire independent property.

10. Learned counsel further submitted that aforesaid findings returned by Appellate Authority was wrongly interfered by Revisional Authority and by erroneously placing reliance on statements recorded in first round of litigation, without taking note that when matter was remitted in earlier round of litigation by Appellate Authority, it was directed that matter be decided on merit. He further submitted that only on ground that name of all respondents were recorded as co-tenure for about a decade after first order was passed by Consolidation Officer, cannot be considered an adverse factor since subsequently order of Consolidation Officer was set aside, therefore, adverse effect, if any was no longer exist.

11. Per contra, Sri Sunil Kumar Singh, learned counsel appearing for contesting respondents, has supported the impugned order that when matter was remitted back to Consolidation Officer to consider it on merit, the effect of statements recorded earlier were not set aside. Therefore, it was not legally incorrect when Consolidation Officer as well as Revisional Authority has also taken note of said statements alongwith statements recorded subsequently.

12. Learned counsel for respondents further submitted that Revisional Authority has considered case in a very detail manner and returned findings on each issues involved, which does not require any interference being not shown perverse.

13. I have considered the aforesaid submissions and perused the material available on record.

14. The pedigree, as mentioned in para 4 of present judgment is not under dispute that original petitioners, i.e., Ram Nath and Kripa Nath and contesting respondent, Ram Naresh, belonged to common ancestors as well as that jointness of family was not much disputed even by petitioners. Therefore, the family remained a joint family and entire property come from ancestors remain joint property of an undivided joint family, except a land if acquired independently from own source by any member of join family.

15. According to Sijra, Fakir has 4 sons namely Bihari, Birja, Dasrath and Mahaveer. Bihari and Dasrath died issueless. Mahaveer was younger, therefore, Birja was acting as Karta and therefore his name was recorded and consequently name of his son, Bujhawan was recorded in Revenue records. However, the dispute arose when land in question, i.e., Khata No. 112 and 334 was recorded in revenue record solely in the name of petitioners, i.e., Ram Nath and Kripa Nath sons of Bujhawan, whereas contesting respondents filed objections that it being a joint property, their names may also be recorded as co-tenures being sons of Mahaveer, brother of Birja.

16. The burden to prove that land in dispute was a joint property was on contesting respondents, whereas burden to prove that land in dispute was self acquired was on original petitioners. On basis of record, it could conclusively be concluded that original petitioners have not come up with any material that land in dispute was self acquired by them except their names were recorded. How property in dispute was self acquired by Birja, when undisputedly he was part of Joint family and evidence of partition was very weak. Therefore, from the evidence of contesting respondents as well as statements recorded in first round of litigation as well as statements recorded after remand, it would be evident that claim of respondents of co-tenure was accepted as well as that statements recorded earlier were remained relevant. Even after matter was remitted by Appellate Authority in first round of litigation. Therefore, there was no legal error when same was considered by Consolidation Officer as well as Revisional Authority alongwith other statements and documentary evidence.

17. A plea that there was a partition in joint family was not sustainable since evidence in this regard on basis of statements of witnesses appears to be very vague and weak as witnesses were not able to state, when partition took place. Some have said about 15-20 years ago and some have said that partition took place about 100 years ago, however, it being not supported by any document, therefore, it was rightly rejected by Consolidation Officer as well as Deputy Director of Consolidation.

18. Another factor which is also relevant is that after the Consolidation Officer passed order dated 15.03.1965, the land in dispute remained in name of petitioners as well as contesting respondents being co-tenure holders. Petitioners have never taken any steps for a decade to challenge it and have filed an appeal after a decade, which was allowed and matter was remitted back to the Consolidation Officer to pass a fresh order. Their chak were also remained undivided, which shows land remained a part of joint family. Birja had taken advantage of position of Karta after his two brothers died issueless and third brother Mahaveer was not active and recorded name of his son solely without adding name of contesting respondents.

19. At this juncture it would be appropriate to reproduce some paragraphs of a recent judgment passed by Supreme Court in the case of Dorairaj vs. Doraisamy (Dead) Through Lrs and others, 2026 INSC 126 as under:

"32. On the plea of prior partition or division in status, the High Court recognised that separate enjoyment of portions, installation of irrigation facilities, or even obtaining borrowings individually, do not by themselves establish partition in law. What is required is a clear and unequivocal intention to sever the joint status. The High Court correctly emphasized that all relevant conveyances described the interests conveyed as undivided shares, that there was no mutation evidencing division, and that there was no separate payment towards borrowings. In the absence of any declaration or conduct evidencing an intention to divide, the inference of continued joint family status was inevitable."

20. The outcome of above discussion, on facts as well as on law, is that contesting respondents have able to show that property in question always remained a joint property and their names were wrongly deleted despite they belong to common ancestors. Petitioners were absolutely failed to show that how and under what manner, they have self acquired the property in dispute. Their claim remain unsupported by any pleading i.e. documentary and oral.

21. There are multiple evidence on record that parties remained a joint family that they resided in one house and there is no specific finding on record that any partition took place, therefore, land in dispute always remained a part of joint property and accordingly all parties remained co-tenure holders. Petitioners here have also not taken any step for partition. There was no evidence of any act or clear intention of partition.

22. A well reasoned order passed by Consolidation Officer upheld by Deputy Director of Consolidation by another reasoned order, cannot be interfered since there is no perversity. The Appellate Authority has wrongly traveled beyond the evidence and recorded finding of partition and self acquired property without any evidence, only on basis of revenue entry, without any consideration, whether such entries were supported by any evidence i.e. documentary or oral and therefore, has recorded a perverse finding.

23. The writ petition has no force and is accordingly dismissed.

24. Interim order, if any, stands vacated.

Appearances for Parties

For Petitioner(s): Rajesh Kumar
For Respondent(s): Rameshwar Prasad Shukla, Anuj Kumar, Arun Kumar, C.N. Saroj, C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Chandra Kumar Rai, J.)

1. Vakalatnama filed on behalf of respondent nos.3, 4/1 to 4/3 is taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Rajesh Kumar, learned counsel for the petitioner, Sri Aniruddha Chaturvedi, learned cousnel for private respondent nos.3, 4/1 to 4/3, Sri Ashuthhosh Kumar Rai, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel for the State-respondents and Sri Rameshwar Prasad Shukla, learned cousnel for the respondent-gaon sabha.

3. Brief facts of the case are that dispute relates to plot no.223 area 2.42 decimal situated in village-Bishunpura, Mutalike Karnai, Pargana and District-Ballia. A suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Zamindari Abolition and Land Reforms Act (hereinafter referred to as the U.P.Z.A.& L.R. Act) was filed on behalf of respondent nos.2 and 3 for declaration of bhumidhari right in respect to plot no.223 area 2.42 decimal. In the plaint, it has been alleged that in the year 1970 father of the petitioner has given disputed plot to the contesting respondents for looking after the same and after the death of petitioner's father, the respondents are in continuous possession over the plot in question. Written statement was filed on behalf of the defendant-petitioner denying the plaint allegation. It has been alleged in the written statement that defendant no.1, Triveni Lal (Petitioner of the instant petition) is the recorded bhumidhar in possession of the plot in question, as such no right will accrue in favour of the plaintiffs. It has also been alleged in the written statement that during consolidation operation, the plot in dispute was allotted in the chak of the defendant no.1 and no dispute was raised during consolidation operation in respect to the plot in question. Issue were framed before the trial court and the parties had adduced evidence in support of their cases. Trial Court/ Sub Divisional Officer vide judgment and decree dated 26.7.1999 dismissed plaintiffs' suit recording finding that plaintiffs have no right to claim declaration in respect to the plot in question, which is recorded in the name of defendant no.1 as bhumidhar. The finding has also been recorded by the trial court that no dispute was raised during consolidation operation regarding plot in question, as such suit under section 229-B of U.P.Z.A.& L.R.Act for declaration by the plaintiffs cannot be entertained. An appeal filed by plaintiffs before Commissioner was also dismissed by judgment and decree dated 1.9.2000. Second appeal filed by the plaintiffs-respondents before the board of revenue has been allowed vide judgement and decree dated 13.2.2001 dismissing plaintiffs' suit. Restoration application filed on behalf of the petitioner before the board of revenue has been rejected vide order dated 18.6.2001. Hence this writ petition on behalf of petitoenr for the following relief:-

"(i). To issue a writ, order in the nature of certiorari quashing the impugned order dated 13.2.2001 and 18.6.2001 passed by Hon'ble Board of Revenue, the respondent no.1."

4. This court entertained the matter on 30.7.2001 and stayed the execution of decree in pursuance of the judgment dated 13.2.2001 and 18.6.2001.

5. In pursuance of the order of this Court dated 30.7.2001, the parties have exchanged their pleadings.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that petitioner's ancestor were recorded as bhumidhar of the plot in question and petitioner is also recorded over the plot in question as well as in possession of the same. He further submitted that suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R.Act filed by plaintiffs-respondents for declaration with the allegation that they are in possession with the permission of recorded owner, as such they should be declared bhumidhar of the plot in question cannot be entertained. He submitted that suit was dismissed by the trial court recording categorical finding of fact that no dispute was raised during consolidation operation in respect to the plot in question as well as the case set up by the plaintiffs-respondents for declaration of his right in respect to the bhumidhari land of the tenure holder cannot be decreed in any manner. He submitted that plaintiffs were bataidar of the plot in question with the permission of the father of defendant no.1/petitioner as such no right will accrue in favour of plaintiffs-respondents in any manner. He further submitted that commissioner has dismissed the plaintiffs' appeal maintaining the judgement/ decree of the trial court but board of revenue has exceeded his second appellate jurisdiction while allowing the second appeal as well as decreeing the plaintiffs' suit without reversing the finding of fact recorded by the trial court and first appellate court in proper manner. He submitted that bhumidhari right of the tenure holder cannot be taken away in any manner. He submitted that the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A.& L.R. Act filed by the plaintiffs-respondents has been decreed in exercise of second appellate jurisdiction in illegal and arbitrary manner. He submitted that judgment/ decree passed by the Board of Revenue should be set aside and the judgment/ decree passed by the trial court as well as first appellate court should be affirmed.

7. On the other hand, learned counsel for the private respondents submitted that board of revenue has rightly allowed the second appeal recording finding in support of the judgment to the effect that Sukhdev Shukla acquired right in respect to the plot in question being in possession for statutory period of 12 years with the permission of the defendant's father. He submitted that board of revenue has also taken into consideration the oral evidence adduced by the parties and held that plaintiffs are entitled for declaration in respect to the plot in question to be recorded as bhumidhar. He submitted that restoration application filed by petitioner before the Board of Revenue was dismissed in proper manner, as such no interference is required against the impugned judgment passed by Board of Revenue. He further submitted that after dismissal of the restoration application by the order of respondent no.1 dated 18.6.2001 the petitioner filed a Review Application No.110 of 2000-2001, for reviewing the order dated 18.6.2001 and 13.2.2001 and the aforesaid Review Application was rejected by the order of respondent no.1 dated 28.09.2011, which has attained finality in absence of any further challenge. He submitted that the counsel of the petitioner in the present writ petition had also filed an application in the Review Application No.110 of 2001, on 16.7.2001, however, the facts regarding filing of the Review Application has not been disclosed in the above-mentioned writ petition, as such writ petition filed by petitioner should be dismissed.

8. I have considered the arguments advanced by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

9. There is no dispute about the fact that suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A.& L.R.Act filed by respondent nos.2 and 3 was dismissed on 26.7.1999 by the trial court. There is also no dispute about the fact that appeal filed by plaintiffs-respondents before the Commissioner was dismissed by the Commissioner vide judgment and decree dated 1.9.2000. There is also no dispute about the fact that second appeal filed by the plaintiffs-respondents was allowed by the board of revenue vide judgment dated 13.2.2001 decreeing the plaintiff suit. There is also no dispute about the fact that restoration application filed by defendant-petitioner has been rejected by the board of revenue vide order dated 18.6.2001.

10. In order to appreciate the controversy involved in the matter, perusal of the issues framed before the trial court will be necessary, which are as under:-

11. The trial court while deciding the aforementioned 13 issues has taken into consideration various documentary evidence filed by the parties as well as oral evidence adduced by the parties. The finding of fact has been recorded by the trial court while deciding the issues to the effect that no claim was raised during consolidation operation, during which the chak was carved out in the name of defendant no.1. The finding of fact has also been recorded that even possession of plaintiffs has not been proved over the plot in question rather for some time, the plaintiffs were the bataidar of the defendant no.1, as such no right will accrue in favour of the plaintiffs. The judgment and decree passed by the trial court has been maintained by first appellate court/Commissioner considering the each and every aspect of the matter.

12. The board of revenue in exercise of second appellate jurisdiction has allowed the second appeal and decreed the plaintiffs' suit by passing cryptic judgment. The judgment of the board of revenue can be a judgment of affirmance but the same cannot be judgment of reversal specially when plaintiffs are claiming right on the basis of adverse possession.

13. So far as plea of adverse possession or benefit of class IX entry of land record manual (Possession without title) is concerned, this Court in the case report in 2010 (111) RD 379 Mangu Vs. Deputy Director of Consolidation and others has held that benefit of class IX entry of land record manual cannot be given, if there is non compliance of mandatory provision contained under Para-A-81, A-81, A-82, 102-A of land record manual. Paragraph no.12 of the judgment rendered in will be relevant for perusal which is as under;-

"12. This court while examining an identical issue in the case of Sadhu Saran (supra) again held that entries of clause IX made without following the procedure prescribed under paragraphs Nos. A 80, A-81, A-82 amd 102 and without issuing P.A. 10 notice to the chief tenant do not confer any title.

Thus in view of the above I am of the considered view that the respondent no. 2 and 1 did not commit any illegality in holding that the entries of clause IX made in favour of the petitioner and the respondent no. 8 were illegal as the same were made in contravention of and against the provisions of U.P. Land Record Manual and the first contention raised by the learned counsel for the petitioner has no force."

14. In the instant matter, trial court and first appellate court have examined the matter in detail and found that suit for declaration filed by plaintiffs cannot be decreed in any manner. So far as the exercise of second appellate jurisdiction by the board of revenue is concerned, this court in case reported in 1985 RD 93 Sharda Devi Vs. Board of Revenue U.P. has held that second appellate court cannot set aside the finding of fact-recorded by trial court/ first appellate court in proper manner. Perusal of paragraph no.24 of the judgment rendered in Sharda Devi (supra) will be relevant , which is as under:

"24. In view of the discussion herein-before, I am of the view that the Board of Revenue has clearly exceeded jurisdiction under Section 100 C,P.C. read with Section 331(4) of the Act. There was no scope of the second appellate court to set aside the findings of fact recorded by the Additional Commissioner about the fraudulent or collusive nature of the decree. The findings of fact were also based on evidence and law soever grossly erroneous they may appear to be, when in fact they were not erroneous, much less grossly erroneous, the second appellate court had no jurisdiction to interfere with the same. The vendors, respondents Nos. 7 and 8 had no right, title or interest left in the plots in dispute after admitting the claim of the petitioner in the compromise decree, so as to be able to transfer any interest by the sale deed dated July 11, 1966 in favour of vendees. Hence the vendees did not derive any title out of the sale deed."

15. It is material to mention that if the suit under Section 229-B of U.P.Z.A. & L.R. Act filed on the plea of adverse possession/ bataidar will be decreed in exercise of second appellate jurisdiction as well as against the ratio of law laid down by this Court in Mangu (Supra) then it will be very difficult for the bhumidhar/owner of the agricultural plot to manage their agriculture land.

16. Considering the entire facts and circumstances of the case, the impugned judgments/ order dated 13.2.2001 as well as order dated 18.6.2001 passed by respondent no.1-Board of Revenue, U.P. Allahabad are liable to be set aside and the same are hereby set aside.

17. The writ petiton stands allowed. The judgment of trial court dated 26.7.1999 as well as judgment of first appellate court dated 1.9.2000 are hereby affirmed.

18. No orders as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

(I) Whether the amounts deposited by the petitioner on 08.01.2002 (Rs. 5,56,700/-) and 21.02.2002 (Rs. 55,67,000/-) can be treated as a one-time lease rent deposit or not ?

(II) Whether the petitioner is entitled to any refund with regard to the Rs. 29,22,675/- deposited by the petitioner on 28.06.2006?

Headnotes

Constitution of India, Art. 14 – Lease rent – Allotment of Group Housing Plot by NOIDA – Allotment letter – Clause 3 – Annual lease rent payable in advance @ 1% p.a. of total premium of plot – Option to pay 11 years' lease rent as one-time lease rent at the time of execution of lease deed – Petitioner deposited Rs. 5,56,700/- on 08.01.2002 and Rs. 55,67,000/- on 21.02.2002, aggregating to Rs. 61,23,700/-, i.e. 11 times the yearly lease rent, before execution of lease deed on 28.02.2002 – Lease deed recorded that lessee had made full payment of plot premium, interest and one-time lease rent – Authority subsequently treated amount deposited on 08.01.2002 as yearly lease rent and amount deposited on 21.02.2002 as ten years' lease rent and raised demand of Rs. 29,22,675/- towards alleged balance one-time lease rent – Whether deposits made on two different dates could be treated as one-time lease rent.

Held:

Terms of contract have to be strictly read and the natural meaning given to them – No outside aid should be sought unless the meaning is ambiguous – Implied terms should not be read into the contract and a contract should be read as it reads, as per its express terms – Authority expected to deal with fairness and non-arbitrariness as enshrined under Art. 14 of the Constitution – Principles of good administration required decisions of Authority to withstand test of consistency, transparency and predictability. Allotment letter did not specify that lump sum payment had to be made before availing one-time lease rent option – Terms of concluded contract clear – On plain reading of contract, one-time lease rent had to be deposited before execution of lease deed, which was done by petitioner – Lease deed specifically mentioned that one-time lease rent had been paid in full – Lease deed not disputed or rescinded by Authority – Conclusion drawn that Authority was satisfied that one-time lease rent stood paid at time of execution of lease deed – Authority's own RTI calculation dated 26.12.2006 showed balance of Rs. 1,39,175/- towards lease rent for period

08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002 – Rs. 29,22,675/- demanded towards alleged balance one-time lease rent – Demand and subsequent calculations held fallacious, having been raised without considering lease deed recording full payment of one-time lease rent and Authority's own calculation showing balance of Rs. 1,39,175/- – Office Orders dated 17.10.1998 and 27.05.2000 could not override specific terms of concluded contract and could not be impliedly or otherwise included in contract terms – Allotment letter and lease deed contained no reference to such Office Orders – Accordingly, one-time lease rent stood deposited before execution of lease deed and nothing remained payable towards one-time lease rent – Petitioner held liable to pay Rs. 1,39,175/- as lease rent for period 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002, petitioner having been put in possession on 08.01.2002 – Petitioner held entitled to refund of Rs. 29,22,675/- after adjustment of Rs. 1,39,175/- – Writ petition partially allowed. FACTS:

3. The present dispute relates to Group Housing Plot No. B-009/1A, Sector 62, NOIDA (hereinafter referred to as "the leased plot") and the payment of one-time lease rent paid by the petitioner to NOIDA (hereinafter referred to as "the Authority"). The petitioner contends that the one-time lease rent was paid before the execution of the lease deed, whereas the Authority contends that the one-time lease rent was not paid in full, thus resulting in the issuance of a demand notice for the balance amount.

4. The petitioner was allotted a Group Housing plot, namely, Group Housing Plot No. B-9/1-A, Sector 62, Noida, under the Group Housing Scheme No. GHP/01/2001 (1). The allotment letter was issued on 19.05.2001. Clause 3 of the allotment letter provided for payment on lease rent either on a yearly basis or by way of one-time lease rent equivalent to 11 times the yearly lease rent payable at the time of execution of the lease deed. The possession of the plot was handed over to the petitioner through a possession letter dated 08.01.2002.

5. The petitioner, by means of challan no. 14940 dated 08.01.2002 deposited Rs. 5,56,700/- and by means of challan No. 14943 dated 21.02.2002 deposited Rs. 55,67,000/-. It is averred by the petitioner that the aggregate amount of Rs. 61,23,700/- constituted one-time lease rent payable prior to the execution of the lease deed. Thereafter, the lease deed was executed between the petitioner and Noida on 28.02.2002. Clause II (a) of the lease deed records that the petitioner has made full payment of one-time lease rent.

6. On 09.01.2004, the Authority issued a letter to the petitioner stating that the sum of Rs. 17,64,605/- was due towards the leased plot and directing the petitioner to deposit the same in the designated bank account of the Authority. Subsequently, on 13.03.2006, another letter was issued by the Authority to the petitioner stating that after adjustment of records, a sum of Rs. 2,552/- remains due till 30.08.2006. The letter further stated that "the amount due towards Lease rent at the time of the lease deed is being adjusted towards Lease rent on an annual basis". The petitioner replied by stating that an amount of Rs. 2600/- has been deposited vide receipt no. 1430 on 27.02.2006. It was further asserted that the one-time lease rent had already been deposited, and the matter stood settled. A request was also made for the issuance of a No Dues Certificate from the Authority.

7. Thereafter, on 24.04.2006, a demand notice was issued stating that in response to the letter of the petitioner dated 23.03.2006, an outstanding payment of Rs. 29,22,675/- is due towards one-time lease rent. The petitioner was directed to deposit the same in the account of the Authority.

8. An office order dated 17.05.2006 was issued by the Chief Finance and Accounts Officer, NOIDA, stating that if the accounts office found any shortfall in the total amount of lease rent deposited, then only the balance amount, along with simple interest, will be recovered by treating the same as payment under the one-time lease rent payment.

9. On 17.05.2006, the petitioner submitted a representation to the Chief Accounts Officer, Noida, requesting that the issue regarding one-time lease rent be treated as settled, as the entire amount had already been deposited before execution of the lease deed. Thereafter, another letter dated 19.05.2006 was sent to the Authority by the petitioner with regard to the demand raised by the Authority.

10. On 23.05.2006, the Authority, in its weekly meeting, passed a resolution holding that the petitioner had initially obtained possession by depositing one year's lease rent. Thereafter, at the time of execution of the lease deed, i.e. 28.02.2002, only "Ten years lease rent" was deposited instead of "Eleven years lease rent" Consequently, the Committee resolved that the amount deposited would be adjusted and a demand would be raised for the balance towards one-time lease rent.

11. On 13.06.2006, a fresh demand notice reiterating the earlier demand of Rs. 29,22,675/- was issued to the petitioner. In pursuance of the demand so raised, the petitioner deposited Rs. 29,22,675/- under protest vide challan no. 010546 on 28.06.2006. Thereafter, a letter was sent to the Authority on 29.06.2006 stating that the amount had been deposited under protest while reserving the right to challenge the demand and requesting confirmation that no further dues remained outstanding.

12. Subsequently, another demand notice dated 03.07.2006 was issued to the petitioner reiterating the same demand of Rs. 29, 22,675/. A reply dated 14.07.2006 to the demand letter dated was sent to the Authority seeking a review of the amount deposited earlier under protest. Further prayer was made for the issuance of a no dues certificate.

13. Ultimately, on 15.12.2006, the Authority issued the no dues certificate to the petitioner. Since the petitioner remained aggrieved by the demand and recovery of Rs. 29,22,675/-, the petitioner filed the present writ petition seeking a refund of the amount deposited under protest.

PETITIONER'S SUBMISSION:

14. Learned Counsel on behalf of the petitioner has made the following submissions:

(i) It was contended that the petitioner had deposited the entire one-time lease rent prior to the execution of the lease deed. The deposit of Rs. 5,56,700/- on 08.01.2002 and the deposit of Rs. 55,67,000 on 21.02.2002. Both the deposits were towards the one-time lease rent payment. There was no default in the payment of one-time lease rent and hence the subsequent demand of Rs. 29,22,675/- was illegal and arbitrary. Thus, the amount so deposited under protest is liable to be refunded.

(ii) Learned counsel submitted that the allotment letter specifically provided two alternative remedies, namely payment of yearly lease rent or payment of one-time lease rent, with an option of paying a yearly lease rent or a one-time lease rent equivalent to 11 times the lease rent. The petitioner exercised the option of payment of one-time lease rent payment and deposited the entire amount of Rs. 61,23,700/- by 21.02.2001. Thus, as per the conditions of the allotment letter, the one-time lease rent was paid before the execution of the lease deed.

(iii) It was further submitted that the lease deed also confirmed that the one-time lease rent had been paid. Reliance was placed upon Clause III (a) of the lease deed, which specifically records that the lessee has made full payment of the one-time lease rent.

(iv) Learned counsel also submitted that the petitioner participated in a special camp organised by the Authority to clear the dues, if any, of the petitioner with regard to the lease. After due verification of the documents at the special camp, it was found that only Rs. 2,552/- remained due from the petitioner, which was duly deposited vide receipt no. 1430 on 27.02.2006.

(v) It was argued that the subsequent demand of Rs. 29,22,675/- towards the alleged balance amount of one-time lease rent is patently illegal, particularly when the entire one-time rent had already been deposited prior to the execution of the lease deed. It was further submitted, in the letter dated 24.04.2006,no calculations were provided to show as to how the amount was being demanded. The impugned demand was also perverse with the earlier letter issued after the special camp, only Rs. 2,552/- had been shown as outstanding and which amount was already deposited by the petitioner.

(vi) Learned counsel further contented that the calculations furnished in the supplementary counter affidavit are illegal and arbitrary. According to the petitioner, the calculations do not take into account the payment of one-time lease rent as categorically stated in the lease deed. It was submitted that such an admission in the lease deed cannot subsequently be superseded by any calculation to the contrary.

(vii) It was next argued that the office order dated 17.10.1998 is not applicable as the allotment conditions did not specify any such condition. The allotment letter provided an option of yearly rent or an option of one-time lease rent @ 11 times the yearly lease rent. Since the petitioner had exercised the option of one-time lease rent in accordance with the allotment conditions, the petitioner could not subsequently be subjected to conditions contained in office orders which were never communicated or made part of the contract.

(viii) Learned counsel also submitted that, the resolution passed by the Committee as patently illegal and arbitrary. It was submitted that the resolution was passed ex parte, as the petitioner was never heard before the passing of the resolution, which inflicted civil consequences upon the petitioner. It was further contended that the resolution was also never communicated to the petitioner, and therefore, it does not bind the petitioner in any manner. The illegality is further compounded by the fact that the lease deed mentioned that there are no dues towards one-time lease rent.

(ix) Reliance was also placed upon the RTI reply dated 26.12.2006, wherein the Authority itself accepted that only an amount of Rs. 1,39,175/- remained payable. Learned counsel pointed out that the Chief Accounts and Finance Officer had specifically endorsed the remark "one-time accepted". Therefore, the subsequent demand of a substantially higher amount was wholly perverse, arbitrary, and contrary to the Authority's own records.

(x) Lastly, it was submitted that the office order dated 27.05.2000 is not applicable to the petitioner's case, as it only applied to cases where the lessee wished to transfer from a yearly mode of payment to one-time lease rent. Since the petitioner had opted for one-time lease rent from the very inception, the said office order has no relevance to the present dispute.

RESPONDENT Nos. 2 and 3 SUBMISSIONS :

15. Per contra, learned counsel on behalf of respondent nos. 2 and 3 made the following submission to refute the arguments advanced by the petitioner′s counsel:

(i) It was submitted that the petitioner never deposited one-time lease rent in one go. As per the respondents, at the time of execution of getting the license agreement on 08.01.2002, only one year′s rent was deposited, whereas on 21.02.2002, ten years' lease rent was deposited. Thus, at no point of time, the lease rent for eleven years deposited. As per the policy of the Authority, one-time lease rent was required to be deposited either at the time of the license agreement or at the time of execution of the lease deed, whichever is earlier.

(ii) Learned counsel further relied upon the office order dated 17.10.1998, which clearly states that the lease rent shall be deposited either on the date of possession or at the time of execution of the lease deed, whichever is earlier. Therefore, the petitioner should have deposited one-time lease rent for 11 years at the time of getting possession, i.e. on 08.01.2001 itself. Since only ten years′ lease rent was deposited on 21.02.2002, the payment could not be treated as one-time lease rent.

(iii) It was further argued that the lease rent was deposited on two different dates; it cannot be assumed that the one-time lease rent has been deposited.

(iv) Learned counsel submitted that the Committee resolved that the petitioner had deposited lease rent on two different dates, which cannot be treated as one-time lease rent. Consequently, the Committee resolved that the amounts already deposited be adjusted and the balance amount be recovered from the petitioner, pursuant to which the demand of Rs. 29,22,675/- was raised. It was thus contended that the demand represented the legitimate balance amount payable towards one-time lease rent.

(v) It was also argued that the petitioner cannot derive any benefit from the letter dated 17.05.2006, as the petitioner never deposited one-time lease rent in one go. The benefit could only be given if the rent was deposited for 11 years in one go. The deposit of 10 years' rent cannot be treated as one-time lease rent.

(vi) Learned counsel further submitted that the subsequent letter dated 03.07.2006 was issued by mistake due to some miscommunication between different departments of the authorities, and therefore, the letter does not create any right in favour of the petitioner.

(vii) It was next contended that since no dues certificate had been issued to the petitioner on 15.12.2006, the grievance raised in the writ petition is liable to be dismissed as such.

(viii) Learned counsel further submitted that an amount of Rs. 1,39,175/- was payable by the petitioner towards the lease rent which was due from 08.01.2001 till 31.03.2001. Therefore, the calculation given in the RTI reply was only with regard to the said period. Reliance was placed upon the office order dated 27.05.2000, which states that for calculating lease rent, financial years shall be considered from April 1st to March 31st. Accordingly the rent payable from 08.01.2001 till 31.03.2001 would be Rs. 1,39,175 *(Rs. 5,56,700 * 3/12 = Rs. 1,39,175)*

(ix) It was also contended that, as per the office order dated 27.05.2000, if the allottee wishes to make a one-time lease rent, then the earlier deposited lease rent shall not be adjusted for calculating the one-time settlement amount. Therefore, the earlier amount deposited on 08.01.2002 cannot be adjusted as one-time lease rent.

(x) Lastly, it was argued that the amount of Rs. 29,22,675/- represented the balance amount remaining after deducting the earlier amount deposited as yearly rent. Since the petitioner had not opted for a one-time lease rent, the deposit of Rs. 61,23,700/- was adjusted towards yearly rent, and the demand of Rs. 29,22,675 was the balance amount left, which the society had to pay as a one-time settlement amount as per the resolution of the Committee.

16. Mr. Suresh Singh learned Addl. Chief Standing Counsel appearing on behalf of respondent no. 1 adopted the arguments made on behalf of respondents nos 2 and 3. He has further submitted that once the no dues certificate was issued in favor of the petitioner, the grievance raised in the writ petition stood redressed and the writ petition deserve to be dismissed. It was further submitted that as per the calculations attached in the supplementary counter affidavit, it is clear that the petitioner never deposited once time lease rent in accordance with the policy and as per the resolution passed by the Committee, the balance amount of Rs. 29,22,675/- was lawfully demanded from the petitioner, which amount has already been deposited by the petitioner. Accordingly, it was contended that the writ petition is liable to be dismissed on this ground as well.

17. We have heard the rival submissions submitted by the learned counsel for the parties and perused the records of the case. On the basis of the submission and records annexed, the following points of determination are framed for adjudication of the dispute.

POINTS OF DETERMINATION:

18. The points of determination are as follows :-

(I) Whether the amounts deposited by the petitioner on 08.01.2002 (Rs. 5,56,700/-) and 21.02.2001 (Rs. 55,67,000/-) can be treated as a one-time lease rent deposit or not?

(II) Whether the petitioner is entitled to any refund with regard to the Rs. 29,22,675/- deposited by the petitioner on 28.06.2006?

DISCUSSION:

19. It is the admitted case of the parties that the petitioner was allotted the leased plot upon payment of certain consideration. The consideration paid before the allotment is not the subject matter of the present dispute. The present dispute is confined to the deposit of two amounts on 08.01.2002 and 21.02.2002, which the petitioner treats as one-time lease rent as the same were deposited before the execution of the lease deed on 28.02.2002. However, the Authority does not treat the same as one-time lease rent and categorically maintains the view that since rent was deposited on two different dates therefore the first date i.e. 08.01.2002 was for the yearly rent due till 31.03.2002 while the amount deposited on 21.02.2002 represented lease rent for only ten years and, therefore, did not satisfy the requirement of payment of eleven years′ lease rent .

20. Before adverting to the rival contention advanced by the parties, it is necessary to keep in mind that the parties to the present dispute are governed by the contract entered into between the parties. More specifically, the allotment deed was issued in favour of the petitioner and the lease deed was executed between the parties. These two documents would govern the respective merits of the arguments advanced by the parties as the parties with consent have entered into the same.

21. The allotment letter was issued to the petition on 19.05.2001. The allotment letter, amongst other clauses, contained a clause with regard to payment of lease rent. Clause 3 of the allotment letter is reproduced below:

"3. LEASE RENT: The annual lease rent shall be payable in advance every year @ 1% p.a. of the total premium of the plot. This lease rent shall be enhanced after every 10 years, and this enhancement will not exceed 50% of the lease rent last thus fixed. First such payment shall fall due at the time of execution of the lease deed. Delay in payment of the advance lease rent will be subject to payment of interest @ 18% p.a. compounded every half-yearly. The onus of payment of lease rent would remain with the allottee/lessee.

OR

You also have the option to pay 11 years' lease rent @ 1% p.a. of total premium as one-time lease rent at the time of execution of the lease deed of the plot.″

*Thus, the allotment letter firstly specified the agreed lease rent, which is 1% of the total premium of the plot as specified in the allotment letter. Secondly, the allotment letter gave two options to the allottee for payment of annual lease rent. The first option available to the allottee was to pay yearly lease rent throughout the subsistence of the lease, subject to enhancement after every ten years, provided that such enhancement would not exceed 50% of the lease rent previously fixed. The second option was to pay @ 11 years lease rent (Rs. 5,56,700/- * 11 times = Rs. 61,23,700/-) in one go at the time of the execution of the lease deed.*

It is significant to note that the allotment letter does not mention any other condition with regard to payment of lease rent. It is noteworthy that the allotment letter does not mention the office orders dated 13.10.1998 and 27.05.2000, relied upon by the Authority with regard to payment of annual lease rent.

22. Subsequently, possession of the plot was handed over to the petitioner on 08.01.2002, and thereafter, the lease deed was executed between the parties on 28.02.2002. The lease deed also contains the installments due from the petitioner with regard to the total consideration of the plot and the agreed lease rent. The lease rent payable as per the lease deed is given in clause II (a), which is reproduced below:

"a) Yielding and paying therefore yearly in advance during the said term unto the lessor in the month of September for each year the yearly lease rent indicated below :-

1% of the total premium for the first 10 years, and after 10 years, the lease rent may be enhanced by the Authority from time to time whenever the Authority deems necessary. This extent of enhancement shall not be called in question by the lessee. In case of default in payment of advance lease rent, the interest @ 18% per annum compounded at every half year on the overdue amount shall also be payable. The lessee may exercise the option for depositing a lump sum one-time lease rent equivalent to 11 times the present amount of lease rent."

Thus, the lease deed also contained the condition with regard to payment of one-time lease rent calculated @ 1% of the total premium of the plot.

23. The lease deed also contained a clause which clearly stated that the lessee had made full payment of plot premium, interest and one-time lease rent (emphasis supplied). Clause III (a) of the lease deed is reproduced below:

"III…..

(a) The lease Deed of the plot has been executed, and the Lessee has made full payment of the plot premium, interest and one-time lease rent."

Thus, the lease deed contains a categorical admission by the Authority that the one-time lease rent has been paid in full.

24. The petitioner deposited Rs. 5,56,700/- on 08.01.2002 and thereafter made a deposit of Rs. 55,67,000/- on 21.02.2002. Prior to execution of the lease deed dated 28.02.2002, the petitioner had deposited an aggregate amount of Rs. 61,23,700/-, which exactly corresponds to eleven times the yearly lease rent payable under the allotment conditions. The total amount on one-time lease rent as per the Authority is also Rs. 61,23,700/- but the Authority in reply has contended that the deposit on 08.01.2002 was towards yearly lease rent and cannot be adjusted towards one-time lease rent deposit. The amount deposited on 21.02.2002 for an amount of Rs. 55,67,000 was only 10 time of the annual lease rent and therefore did not constitute the one-time lease rent payment.

25. The allotment letter executed between the parties contained a specific condition with regard to payment of lease rent. The allottee either had the option of making yearly lease rent or could make a one-time lease rent payment equivalent to 11 times the yearly rent. It is well settled position of law that the contract has to be read as a whole, and there can be no deviation from the terms of the concluded contract. Since the payment was to be done under the conditions mentioned in the allotment letter, including the lease rent, the conditions mentioned in the allotment letter would be binding upon the parties. The Authority has also not averred that the terms of the allotment letter are not binding.

26. The principal question that therefore arises is whether the payment made on two different dates can be treated as a one-time lease rent payment or not? Clause 3 of the allotment letter does not specify that a lump sum payment has to be made before availing the one-time lease rent option. The allotment letter is silent in this regard. However, when the lease deed was executed on 28.02.2002, the lease deed specifically mentioned in Clause III (a) that one-time lease rent has been paid in full. This clause of the lease deed has not been disputed by the Authority in any of its pleadings. Since the lease deed is a concluded contract between the parties and the allotment has never been rescinded for any violation of the lease deed, therefore, a conclusion can be drawn that the Authority was satisfied that the one-time lease rent stood paid at the time of execution of the lease deed. In United India Insurance Co. Ltd. vs. Harchand Rai Chandan Lal, the Supreme Court held that:

"14. Therefore, it is settled law that the terms of the contract have to be strictly read and the natural meaning given to it. No outside aid should be sought unless the meaning is ambiguous."

In Nabha Power Vs. Punjab SPCL, the Supreme Court, while dealing with contractual terms clear sounded a word of caution that implied terms should not be read in the terms of the contract, and a contract should be read as it reads, as per its express terms. The Supreme Court held that:

"72. We may, however, in the end, extend a word of caution. It should certainly not be an endeavour of commercial courts to look to the implied terms of a contract. In the current day and age, making of contracts is a matter of high technical expertise, with legal brains from all sides involved in the process of drafting a contract. It is even preceded by opportunities of seeking clarifications and doubts so that the parties know what they are getting into. Thus, normally, a contract should be read as it reads, as per its express terms. The implied terms are a concept which is necessitated only when the Penta test referred to aforesaid comes into play. There has to be a strict necessity for it. In the present case, we have really only read the contract in the manner it reads. We have not really read into it any "implied term", but from the collection of clauses, we come to a conclusion as to what the contract says. The formula for energy charges, to our mind, was quite clear. We have only expounded it in accordance with its natural grammatical contour, keeping in mind the nature of the contract."

In the present case, the terms of the concluded contract are clear. The allottee had the option to pay one-time lease rent before the execution of the lease deed. The terms did not specify a lump sum lease rent, and the other clauses of the allotment letter, as well as the lease deed, do not imply such a condition. Therefore, on plain reading of the contract, the one-time lease rent had to be deposited before the execution of the lease deed, which was done by the petitioner.

27. The issue of whether the one-time lease rent stood deposited can also be examined from another angle. In the special camp held between 20.02.2006 and 25.02.2006 by the Authority for clearing dues, the petitioner, with the intention to get the no dues certificate, participated with all the records. Ultimately, a letter dated 13.03.2006 came to be issued in favour of the petitioner stating that Rs. 2,552/- remained to be paid by the petitioner. It would be relevant to note that before this letter, the Authority submits that another demand letter dated 09.01.2004 for Rs. 17,62,805/- was issued to the petitioner but receipt of the same has categorically been denied by the petitioner. Even otherwise, the Authority did not pursue the said letter as the records do not indicate that any follow up was made on the demand made by the Authority. The demand of Rs. 2,552/- was deposited by the petitioner on 27.02.2006. This letter is not disputed by the Authority; therefore, the conclusion that can be drawn is that the Authority had settled the one-time lease rent issue by issuing the letter dated 13.03.2006.

28. Apart from the aforesaid circumstance, another indicator of payment of one-time lease rent by the petitioner is the calculations appended in the reply dated 26.12.2006 to RTI Application No. 912 of the petitioner. In the said calculations, the Authority has calculated that the balance amount of Rs. 1,39,175/- remained to be paid, which was the lease rent for the period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002 (wrongly mentioned as 31.03.2003 in the calculation). Even in the supplementary counter affidavit, the Authority has accepted the same. The calculation, which incidentally has been approved by the Chief Accounts and Finance Officer of the Authority, is reproduced below:

"Lease rent will commence from 08.01.2002
Lease rent - 08.01.2002 →31.01.2003 (3 months)
= 5,56,69,345.0 X 1/100 X 3/12
= 556693 X 3/12
= 5,56,700 X 3/12
= 1,39,175/-
Due as on 08.01.2002 = 1,39,175/-
Paid = 5,56,700/- Balance on 08.01.2002
= (-) 4,17,525
Due on Feb → Nil: Balance on Feb (-) 4,17,525/-
One-time Due = 5,56,700 X 11 = 61,23,700 - 4,17,525
Paid → 55,67,000/- Balance 1,39,175/-"

Thus, if the remaining balance on 26.12.2006 was Rs. 1,39,175/- which is accepted by the Authority to be the lease rent due from 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002, then the payment of Rs. 5,56,700 on 08.01.2002 and payment of Rs. 55,67,000/- on 21.02.2002 (Rs. 5,56,700 + Rs. 55,67,000/- = Rs. 61,23,700/-), which is equivalent to 11 times the lease rent, would be considered as irrefutable evidence that the entire one-time lease rent had been paid by the petitioner before the execution of the lease deed. Thus, nothing remained to be paid by the petitioner towards the one-time lease rent. However, a sum of Rs. 1,39,175/- remained to be paid by the petitioner as lease rent for the period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002. Even though the lease deed in clause III (g) specifically mentions that the date of execution of the lease deed shall be treated as the date of handing over possession, it is an undisputed fact that the petitioner was put in possession on 08.01.2002. Thus, there is no error in the lease rent calculation for the period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002, and the petitioner is bound to pay the same.

29. Keeping in mind the above findings, we are of the considered view that the petitioner had deposited the one-time lease rent before the execution of the lease deed. Furthermore, the petitioner is bound to pay the lease rent calculated for the period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002, as the petitioner was put in possession on 08.01.2002.

30. The Authority, in their submissions, had relied upon certain calculations which were stated in the supplementary counter affidavit. The calculations were based on the fact that the petitioner had only deposited one year's lease rent on 08.01.2002 and thereafter deposited 10 years' lease rent on 21.02.2002. As 11 years lease rent was not deposited therefore the Authority, by resolution, decided to accept the earlier payment as a one-time settlement and demand the rest of the balance. This balance has been justified to be Rs. 29,22,675/- as was initially intimated to the petitioner by letters dated 24.04.2006 and 13.06.2006. However, in both the demand letters, only the demand is stated without stating the actual calculation as to how the figure was arrived at. It goes without saying that the Authority is expected to deal with fairness and non-arbitrariness as enshrined under Article 14 of the Constitution of India. Principles of good administration would require that the decisions of the Authority must withstand the test of consistency, transparency and predictability to avoid of being termed as arbitrary and violative of Article 14 of the Constitution of India. In the considered view of this Court, the demand and the subsequent calculations to justify the demand are fallacious. The reason being that the said demand was raised without considering the clause in the lease deed which stated that one-time lease rent was paid in full and the calculations showing the balance payment which was approved by the Chief Accounts and Finance Officer in the RTI reply. The Authority has also admitted that a balance of Rs. 1,39,175/- was due towards lease rent for a period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002, leading to the conclusion that the two deposits were towards one-time lease rent.

31. As to the applicability of the Office orders dated 17.10.1998 and 27.05.2000, suffice to say that such orders cannot override the specific terms of the concluded contract executed between the parties. The allotment letter and the lease deed contains no reference to such office orders, and therefore, they cannot be impliedly or otherwise be included in the contract terms.

32. Once this Court is of the view that one-time lease rent stood deposited before the execution of the lease deed, the question that remains to be answered is whether the petitioner is entitled to any refund of Rs. 29,22,675/- deposited by the petitioner on 28.02.2006. As already held above, the one-time lease rent stood deposited, but the petitioner was liable to pay the lease rent from 08.01.2002 till 31.03.2002, as the petitioner was put in possession from 08.01.2002. Therefore, the amount of Rs. 1,39,175/- as rent towards the period of 08.01.2002 till 31.03.2002 is liable to be deducted from the amount of Rs. 29,22,675/-. Consequently, the petitioner would be entitled to a refund after adjusting the amount of lease rent of Rs. 1,39,175/- from Rs. 29,22,675/- already deposited by the petitioner.

ANSWERS TO THE POINTS OF DETERMINATION :

33. Regarding issue no. 1 as to whether the amounts deposited by the petitioner on 08.01.2002 (Rs. 5,56,700/-) and 21.02.2001 (Rs. 55,67,000/-) can be treated as a one-time lease rent deposit or not, the issue is answered in the affirmative, holding that the petitioner had deposited the entire one-time lease rent before the execution of the lease deed.

34. Regarding Issue no. 2 as to whether the petitioner is entitled to any refund with regard to the Rs. 29,22,675/- deposited by the petitioner on 28.06.2006, the issue is answered in the affirmative, holding that the petitioner is entitled to a partial refund after deducting the lease rent of Rs. 1,39,175/- for a period of 08.01.2002 to 31.03.2002.

CONCLUSIONS:

35. In light of the findings and the observations given above, the writ petition is partially allowed with regard to the prayer of refund of Rs. 29,22,675/- deposited by the petitioner. The net amount to be refunded shall be calculated in terms of the findings given above, and the balance amount shall be paid to the petitioner within a period of three months from today. In case of failure to pay the same within three months, an interest of 6% on the balance amount to be refunded shall be added till the date of actual payment. There shall be no order as to cost.

Issue for Consideration

(i) Whether non-submission of documents contemplated under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, including postmortem report or panchanama, is fatal to a claim under the scheme, or whether such requirements are procedural and cannot be enforced so rigidly as to defeat the object of the scheme, particularly where other material indicates accidental death?
(ii) Whether, in cases where the competent authority entertains doubt regarding genuineness of the accident or eligibility of the claimant and proceeds to conduct an inquiry under the scheme, such inquiry can be conducted ex parte and behind the back of the claimant without affording notice and opportunity of hearing, despite rejection of the claim entailing serious civil and pecuniary consequences?

Headnotes

Constitution of India – Art. 226 – Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna – Claim for compensation by widow of agriculturist who died in road accident – Claim rejected by District Magistrate on ground that postmortem report or panchanama was not available on record as required under Government Order dated 28.02.2020 – Procedural requirements contemplated under Government Order cannot be elevated to a position where they defeat the very object and intent of the scheme itself – Documents required under the scheme cannot be treated as ends in themselves – They are only means to achieve the larger purpose of the scheme, namely, grant of compensation to genuine dependents of deceased agriculturists – Competent authority not expected to reject claim mechanically where postmortem report or panchanama is not available – Duty of competent authority to conduct or cause to be conducted proper inquiry regarding genuineness of accident, status of deceased as agriculturist and other relevant facts – FIR, site plan, injury report, police investigation, chargesheet and other contemporaneous records required to be duly considered while arriving at satisfaction regarding the claim – Before rejecting claim, District Magistrate ought to have issued notice to petitioner, granted opportunity to produce additional materials and thereafter conducted proper inquiry regarding genuineness of claim – Principles of natural justice required to be observed before rejecting claim – Audi alteram partem must ordinarily be read into every State action which entails civil consequences unless specifically excluded by law – Minor procedural deficiencies cannot become grounds to deny substantive benefits under welfare scheme where genuineness of claim can otherwise be verified through inquiry – Claims under scheme required expeditious and time-bound consideration – District Magistrate, having rejected claim solely on ground that postmortem report and panchanama were not available despite FIR, chargesheet, injury report and other contemporaneous evidence on record, held to have acted mechanically and with complete non-application of mind in disregard of object of scheme and relevant material on record – Death of petitioner's husband held accidental in nature and claim held genuine and covered under scheme – Impugned order dated 12.03.2026 quashed – Writ petition allowed – District Magistrates and all authorities implementing scheme directed to follow aforesaid principles for effective implementation of scheme in furtherance of its true object and purpose.

Held:

(i) The competent authority shall not reject claims under the scheme mechanically merely on account of absence of documents such as postmortem report, panchanama or other records contemplated under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, where other reliable contemporaneous material exists indicating accidental death, entitlement under the scheme and genuineness of the claim.

(ii) The procedural requirements contemplated under the Government Order shall be treated as facilitative in nature and not as rigid technical conditions so as to defeat genuine claims under the welfare scheme.

(iii) The competent authority shall duly consider contemporaneous materials including FIR, site plan, injury report, medical records, police papers, chargesheet, CCTV footage and other relevant evidence while determining genuineness of the claim.

(iv) Claims under the scheme shall not be rejected solely on the ground of delay in submission of application, lodging of FIR or production of documents, without examining the attending facts and circumstances of the case, including the date of availability of death certificate, prevailing family circumstances, practical difficulties in procuring documents and other relevant considerations.

(v) Where the competent authority entertains any doubt regarding genuineness of the accident, eligibility of the claimant or entitlement under the scheme and proceeds to conduct an inquiry, the claimant shall necessarily be associated with such inquiry.

(vi) Prior notice of inquiry shall be furnished to the claimant indicating the deficiencies noticed, the issues requiring clarification and the materials proposed to be relied upon by the authority.

(vii) If statements of any person are recorded during inquiry, the identity of such persons shall be disclosed to the claimant and, such statements shall be recorded after due notice to and in the presence of the claimant.

(viii) Claims under the scheme shall not be rejected solely on technical or procedural deficiencies without making reasonable efforts to verify the genuineness of the claim through proper inquiry.

(ix) Since the scheme is intended to provide immediate financial assistance and urgent relief to bereaved agriculturist families, all applications under the scheme shall ordinarily be decided expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of submission of the application. Case Arising From

Petitioner assailed the order dated 12.03.2026 passed by District Magistrate, Prayagraj, whereby the claim of the petitioner under the Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna has been rejected.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner: Neelabh Srivastava, Uma Shanker, Vijay Shankar Yadav
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Garima Prashad, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri J.N. Maurya, learned Chief Standing Counsel for the State.

2. The petitioner, by means of the present writ petition, has assailed the order dated 12.03.2026 passed by the respondent No.2/District Magistrate, Prayagraj, whereby the claim of the petitioner under the Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna has been rejected.

3. The case of the petitioner is that her husband, namely Vinay Yadav, was an agriculturist who died in a road accident involving a motorcycle on 03.06.2025. After his death, the petitioner applied for compensation under the Mukhyamantri Krishak Durghatna Kalyan Yojna framed under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020. During consideration of the claim, an inquiry was conducted at the level of the District Magistrate through subordinate authorities; however, no notice or opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioner in the course of such inquiry.

4. The impugned order reflects that since neither postmortem report nor panchanama was available on record before the District Magistrate, the claim was rejected on the ground that under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, submission of postmortem report or panchanama was mandatory to establish accidental death and, in absence thereof, the claim was not covered under the scheme.

5. Learned counsel for the petitioner, while challenging the impugned order, contended that sufficient material existed on record to establish that the death of the deceased was accidental in nature. It has been submitted that an FIR was lodged on 16.07.2025 against vehicle No. UP70 HK 5914. The police also prepared the site plan regarding the accident and after investigation submitted chargesheet against the owner of the said vehicle. It has been further submitted that the status of the deceased as an agriculturist has never been disputed and the claim of the petitioner has been rejected solely on the ground that postmortem report and panchanama were not available on record.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioner further submits that the right to seek compensation under the scheme flows from the Government Order itself and is a beneficial right. It is contended that if the District Magistrate had any doubt regarding the cause of death of the deceased, he ought to have issued notice and afforded an opportunity to the petitioner to establish that the death was accidental and that she fulfilled the conditions of the scheme. It is further contended that rejection of such claim entails serious civil and pecuniary consequences and, therefore, compliance with the principles of natural justice was mandatory before passing the impugned order. It is also argued that the FIR, injury report and other materials on record clearly establish accidental death and that the impugned order reflects complete non-application of mind.

7. Per contra, learned Chief Standing Counsel submits that under the Government Order, either a postmortem report or panchanama is required to be furnished to establish accidental death and, since neither of the said documents was available on record, the District Magistrate has committed no illegality in rejecting the claim of the petitioner. It is, however, fairly admitted that there is no other ineligibility or impediment in allowing the claim.

8. We have heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record. Upon consideration of the pleadings and submissions, the following issues arise for determination:

(i) Whether non-submission of documents contemplated under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, including postmortem report or panchanama, is fatal to a claim under the scheme, or whether such requirements are procedural and cannot be enforced so rigidly as to defeat the object of the scheme, particularly where other material indicates accidental death?

(ii) Whether, in cases where the competent authority entertains doubt regarding genuineness of the accident or eligibility of the claimant and proceeds to conduct an inquiry under the scheme, such inquiry can be conducted ex parte and behind the back of the claimant without affording notice and opportunity of hearing, despite rejection of the claim entailing serious civil and pecuniary consequences?

9. Before adverting to the aforesaid issues, this Court may note that the scheme in question is a beneficial and benevolent welfare scheme framed by the State Government for providing financial assistance to the families of agriculturists who suffer due to accidental death of the sole bread earner of the family. The scheme has been introduced keeping in view the agricultural character of the country and the hardships faced by agriculturist families upon sudden accidental death of the earning member. The object of the scheme is clearly remedial and welfare oriented.

10. It is well settled that beneficial and welfare schemes framed by the State, even if not statutory in nature, must receive a liberal and purposive interpretation so as to advance their object rather than frustrate it by adopting a hyper-technical approach. The Hon'ble Supreme Court in Regional Provident Fund Commissioner v. Shiv Kumar Joshi, (2000) 1 SCC 98, held that beneficial provisions are required to be construed liberally in favour of the beneficiaries (the class of persons they are meant to protect) rather than adopting a restrictive interpretation that defeats the statutory objective. Similarly, in B.D. Shetty v. CEAT Ltd., (2002) 1 SCC 193, it was observed that welfare-oriented provisions must be interpreted in a manner which furthers their object. The Court ruled that if two views are possible, the view that furthers and advances the legislative intent must be preferred over one that thwarts it.

11. At the same time, there can be no dispute that the authorities are required to ensure genuineness of claims and prevent fraudulent claims under the scheme. It is for such purpose that documents such as postmortem report or panchanama have been contemplated under the Government Order. However, such procedural requirements cannot be elevated to a position where they defeat the very object and intent of the scheme itself. The requirement of such documents is intended to aid and facilitate the competent authority in arriving at satisfaction regarding the genuineness of the claim and not to frustrate the claim itself where other reliable materials are available on record.

12. In the considered opinion of this Court, the documents required under the scheme cannot be treated as ends in themselves. They are only means to achieve the larger purpose of the scheme, namely grant of compensation to genuine dependents of deceased agriculturists. The procedural requirements under a beneficial scheme cannot be placed above the substantive object sought to be achieved by the scheme.

13. In cases where postmortem report or panchanama is not available, the competent authority, namely the District Magistrate, is not expected to reject the claim mechanically. Rather, it becomes the duty of the authority to conduct or cause to be conducted a proper inquiry regarding the genuineness of the accident, the status of the deceased as an agriculturist and other relevant facts. If materials such as FIR, site plan, injury report, police investigation, chargesheet or other contemporaneous records exist on record, the same are required to be duly considered while arriving at satisfaction regarding the claim.

14. This Court is constrained to observe that such a benevolent scheme appears to have been reduced into a mere technical exercise by the executive authorities. Repeated writ petitions coming before this Court reveal that claims under the scheme are being rejected mechanically without conducting proper inquiry and without appreciating the welfare nature and object of the scheme. Such recurring matters reflect a pattern of hyper-technical application of the scheme by the authorities, thereby defeating the very object of the scheme, which is intended to provide immediate relief to families of deceased agriculturists, and reducing the scheme itself to a mere procedural formality.

15. The principles of natural justice are firmly ingrained in administrative law. It is well settled that even where a statute or scheme is silent regarding grant of opportunity of hearing, the requirement of observing audi alteram partem must ordinarily be read into every State action which entails civil consequences unless specifically excluded by law.

16. The Hon?ble Supreme Court in State of Orissa v. Dr. (Miss) Binapani Dei, AIR 1967 SC 1269, held that even administrative orders involving civil consequences must conform to the principles of natural justice. In Mohinder Singh Gill v. Chief Election Commissioner, (1978) 1 SCC 405, the Supreme Court observed that fair hearing is an essential component of every decision-making process which visits a person with adverse civil consequences.

17. The aforesaid principle has been consistently reaffirmed in subsequent decisions. In Dharampal Satyapal Ltd. v. Deputy Commissioner of Central Excise, (2015) 8 SCC 519, the Hon?ble Supreme Court held that even in the absence of an express statutory requirement, compliance with the principles of natural justice must ordinarily be read into administrative actions having adverse consequences. Similarly, in State of Uttar Pradesh v. Sudhir Kumar Singh, (2020) 10 SCC 492, the Supreme Court, upon an exhaustive survey of the earlier jurisprudence, formulated a structured approach to the application of natural justice, including the "prejudice test", and reaffirmed that procedural fairness is an essential facet of State action. It was further held that denial of an opportunity of hearing, where an adverse conclusion is reached, would vitiate the action.

18. In the present case, rejection of the petitioner's claim deprives the petitioner and her family of financial assistance intended for dependents of the deceased agriculturist and undoubtedly entails serious civil and pecuniary consequences. Therefore, before rejecting the claim, the District Magistrate ought to have issued notice to the petitioner, granted opportunity to produce additional materials and thereafter conducted proper inquiry regarding genuineness of the claim.

19. This Court further finds that the Government Order dated 28.02.2020 does not prescribe any specific time frame for consideration of claims under the scheme. Consequently, applications are often kept pending for months and, in several cases, for years together, thereby defeating the very object of the scheme, which is to provide immediate financial assistance to bereaved agriculturist families. Delayed disbursement under such a welfare scheme frustrates its remedial purpose and renders the assistance meaningless at the stage when the family is in greatest financial distress. Claims under the scheme, therefore, require expeditious and time-bound consideration consistent with the object sought to be achieved by the State Government.

20. This Court further finds it necessary to observe that the Government Order dated 28.02.2020 does not prescribe any specific outer time limit for consideration and disposal of claims under the scheme. As a consequence thereof, applications are often kept pending for months and, in several cases, even for years together. Such delays substantially defeat the very purpose and object of the scheme, which has been framed to provide immediate financial assistance and urgent economic relief to poor agriculturist families who suddenly lose the sole earning member due to accidental death. The welfare character of the scheme necessarily requires expeditious consideration of claims. Delayed disbursement of compensation in such cases frustrates the remedial intent of the policy and renders the assistance illusory at the stage when the family is in greatest financial distress. It is therefore necessary that claims under the scheme be processed and decided within a reasonable and time-bound framework consistent with the object sought to be achieved by the State Government.

21. In the facts of the present case, it has come on record that an FIR regarding the accidental death of the petitioner?s husband was lodged. The police prepared a site plan and after investigation submitted a chargesheet. The injury report was also available on record. The FIR and accompanying material also refer to contemporaneous evidence such as CCTV footage of the accident, etc. Despite the existence of such materials, the District Magistrate rejected the claim solely on the ground that postmortem report and panchanama were not available. The impugned order reflects complete non-application of mind and mechanical exercise of power in disregard of the object of the scheme and relevant material on record.

22. While considering such applications, the competent authority is expected to keep in mind that the claimants are poor persons, not literate and they also do not know the intricacies of law and, therefore, if there was some shortcomings or infirmities in the applications filed by the claimants, the authorities should have taken due care and should have made every endeavor to inquire into the cause of death so that if the dependents of the deceased family are entitled to compensation, the same shall be provided to them in order to fulfill the spirit of the scheme. Minor procedural deficiencies cannot become grounds to deny substantive benefits under a welfare scheme where the genuineness of the claim can otherwise be verified through inquiry.

23. This Court further observes that several decisions of this Court have consistently emphasized that authorities implementing welfare schemes must remain conscious of the ground realities faced by beneficiaries and cannot adopt a rigid or hyper-technical approach while dealing with claims involving poor and distressed families. Though the scheme prescribes a period of 180 days for submission of claims, this Court has repeatedly held that such limitation under beneficial schemes cannot be applied with such rigidity so as to defeat genuine claims, particularly where delay is sufficiently explained from the attending circumstances of the case. In the present case, the District Magistrate has not even examined the circumstances leading to the delay of merely 14 days in submission of the claim. Such mechanical exercise of power defeats the very object of the scheme.

24. It is not disputed that the scheme requires the claimant to procure and furnish several documents including death certificate, postmortem report/inquest report, proof of agricultural status, land details, bank documents and other records. Procurement of such documents inevitably takes time, particularly where the claimant is a bereaved widow facing financial hardship and administrative difficulties immediately after the death of the sole earning member. Delay in such matters cannot be viewed mechanically divorced from the surrounding circumstances of the claimant.

25. Accordingly, the issues framed by this Court are answered in the following terms and the following directions/guiding principles are issued for implementation of the scheme in its true spirit and object:

(i) The competent authority shall not reject claims under the scheme mechanically merely on account of absence of documents such as postmortem report, panchanama or other records contemplated under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020, where other reliable contemporaneous material exists indicating accidental death, entitlement under the scheme and genuineness of the claim.

(ii) The procedural requirements contemplated under the Government Order shall be treated as facilitative in nature and not as rigid technical conditions so as to defeat genuine claims under the welfare scheme.

(iii) The competent authority shall duly consider contemporaneous materials including FIR, site plan, injury report, medical records, police papers, chargesheet, CCTV footage and other relevant evidence while determining genuineness of the claim.

(iv) Claims under the scheme shall not be rejected solely on the ground of delay in submission of application, lodging of FIR or production of documents, without examining the attending facts and circumstances of the case, including the date of availability of death certificate, prevailing family circumstances, practical difficulties in procuring documents and other relevant considerations.

(v) Where the competent authority entertains any doubt regarding genuineness of the accident, eligibility of the claimant or entitlement under the scheme and proceeds to conduct an inquiry, the claimant shall necessarily be associated with such inquiry.

(vi) Prior notice of inquiry shall be furnished to the claimant indicating the deficiencies noticed, the issues requiring clarification and the materials proposed to be relied upon by the authority.

(vii) If statements of any person are recorded during inquiry, the identity of such persons shall be disclosed to the claimant and, such statements shall be recorded after due notice to and in the presence of the claimant.

(viii) Claims under the scheme shall not be rejected solely on technical or procedural deficiencies without making reasonable efforts to verify the genuineness of the claim through proper inquiry.

(ix) Since the scheme is intended to provide immediate financial assistance and urgent relief to bereaved agriculturist families, all applications under the scheme shall ordinarily be decided expeditiously and preferably within a period of three months from the date of submission of the application.

26. The District Magistrates and all authorities implementing the scheme shall follow the aforesaid principles in addition to the procedure prescribed under the Government Order dated 28.02.2020 so as to ensure effective implementation of the scheme in furtherance of its true object and purpose.

27. Coming to the facts of the present case, this Court, upon perusal of the material available on record, including the FIR, chargesheet and other other contemporaneous evidence such as injury reports, is satisfied that the death of the petitioner's husband was accidental in nature and that the claim of the petitioner is genuine and covered under the scheme. Consequently, the impugned order dated 12.03.2026 passed by the District Magistrate, Prayagraj cannot be sustained in law and is accordingly quashed. The writ petition is, accordingly, allowed.

28. Registrar (Compliance) of this Court is directed to communicate a copy of this order to the Chief Secretary, Government of Uttar Pradesh, Lucknow so that appropriate circulars/instructions may be issued to all District Magistrates for effective implementation of the scheme in its true spirit and object.

Case Arising From

Petition filed challenging the proceedings initiated against the petitioners under the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act, 1976, and seeking a direction restraining the respondents from interfering with the petitioners' peaceful possession over Gata Nos. 773 and 789, situated in Village Sonakpur, Tehsil and District Moradabad.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner: A.K. Pandey, J.J. Munir, Pooja Agarwal, R P Rajan
Advs. for the Respondents: Abhinava Krishna Srivastava, Arun K. Singh Deshwal, C.S.C., Dharmendra Singh Chauhan, P.k. Singh, Pradeep Kumar Singh

(Delivered by Hon'ble Sudhanshu Chauhan, J.)

1. Heard Ms. Pooja Agarwal, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri M.C. Chaturvedi, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Sri Mohan Srivastava, learned Standing Counsel and Sri Abhinava Krishna Srivastava, learned counsel for the respondent Development Authority.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the proceedings initiated against the petitioners under the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act, 1976 and also seeking a direction to restrain the respondents from interfering with the peaceful possession of the petitioners over the land being Gata Nos. 773 and 789 situated in Village Sonakpur, Tehsil and District-Moradabad.

3. Case of the petitioners is that Gokul was the original tenure holder of the land in dispute being part of Gata Nos. 773 and 789 having an area of 7114.40 sq. meters situated in Village Sonakpur, Tehsil and District-Moradabad. Gokul was succeeded by four sons namely, Chhokhelal, Sohan Lal, Dalpat and Ramgopal. The petitioner nos. 1 to 9 are the descendants of sons of late Gokul and the petitioner no. 10 is the son of late Gokul. It is stated that the order under Section 8(4) of the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Act, 1976 (hereinafter referred to as "the Act, 1976") was passed behind the back of predecessor of the petitioners. Further the order under Section 8(4) was communicated vide notice dated 26.07.1980.

4. It is stated that the predecessors of the petitioners were in possession of the land in dispute and continue to remain in possession thereof. In this regard, the petitioners have relied upon the khatauni of the Fasli year 1382-87 as well as khatauni of the Fasli year 1414-1419, wherein the land in dispute is recorded in the name of petitioners and their predecessors.

5. The petitioners further state that the alleged possession memo dated 27.08.1984 does not bear signature of the land owners and the independent witnesses and as such is a bogus document. The name of the petitioners and their predecessors have continued to be recorded in the revenue records and as such it is beyond doubt that the petitioners are in possession of the land in dispute. It is also the case of the petitioners that the provisions of the U.P. Urban Land Ceiling (Taking of Possession, Payment of Amount and Allied Matters), Directions, 1983 issued under Section 35 of the Act, 1976 have not been complied with.

6. The petitioners also state that when the authorities started interfering in the possession of the petitioners, it was only thereafter that the petitioners came to know about the orders passed under the Act, 1976. The petitioners in this regard had also filed a representation dated 05.02.2010 before the competent authority-respondent no. 2 for abatement of the proceedings of the ceiling case. However, as no action was taken, hence, the petitioners were compelled to file the present writ petition.

7. One of the submissions made by the petitioners is that the land in dispute lies beyond the perimeter of 1 km from the erstwhile Nagar Palika, Moradabad and as such does not fall within the limits of the urban agglomeration. In this regard, the petitioners have relied upon the report of the Naib Tehsildar dated 08.02.1979 in Case No. 978/4248 (State vs. Ratan Lal), wherein Gata Nos. 612 to 882 of Village Sonakpur, District Moradabad, were held to be beyond the perimeter of 1 km of the erstwhile Nagar Palika, Moradabad. A similar report dated 10.05.1979 of the Naib Tehsildar had also been filed in Case No. 305/944 (State Vs. Jathu). It is submitted that it was only on the basis of the report of the Naib Tehsildar that Gata Nos. 612 to 882, situated in Village Sonakpur District Moradabad were exempted under the Act, 1976.

8. It is also stated that respondent no. 2 in Case No. 234/1250/3050 (State vs. Fakhira) vide letter dated 06.04.1992 had held the land in the said case to be exempted under the Act, 1976 as it fell beyond the perimeter of 1 km of Nagar Palika, Moradabad. Hence, it is stated that the land in dispute should be exempted from proceedings under the Act, 1976. Further the District Magistrate vide order dated 04.08.2016 had exempted a similarly situated land comprised in Gata No. 798 from the Act, 1976.

9. Besides, the petitioners also rely upon a map of delimitation of Nagar Palika Moradabad prepared in the year 1967, which shows that the Village Sonakpur was beyond the perimeter of 1.5km from the outer limits of Nagar Palika. In this regard the petitioners have also relied upon the scheme of delimitation of Nagar Nigam Moradabad, 2017 wherein the Village Sonakpur does not fall within the limits of Nagar Nigam Moradabad. The petitioners state that Village Sonakpur falls under Gram Panchayat Sonakpur Dehat and as such no proceedings could have been taken place in respect of land in dispute of the petitioners under the Act, 1976.

10. Per contra, it is the case of the State-respondents that in Ceiling Case No. 2770/3627 (State Vs. Gokul) notice under Section 8(3) was issued on 14.04.1980 and served upon Sohan Lal, son of Gokul. However, as no objections were filed, order under Section 8(4) was passed on 24.06.1980 declaring 7114.40 sq. meters of land as vacant surplus. Final statement under Section 9 was issued on 26.07.1980. Thereafter notification under Sections 10(1) and 10(3) were published in the State Gazette on 29.08.1981 and 10.03.1984 respectively. Notice under Section 10(5) was issued on 11.04.1984 and served upon the wife of the original land holder, Smt. Leelawati on 16.04.1984. Subsequent thereto the possession of the land was taken vide order dated 27.08.1984 and the land was recorded in the name of State in the revenue records. Thereafter the possession of the land was transferred to Moradabad Development Authority-respondent no. 3 vide transfer memo dated 18.01.1990.

11. It is stated that the alleged report of the Naib Tehsildar dated 08.02.1979 was never accepted by competent authority and was not taken into cognizance by the competent authority while passing the order dated 15.02.1979 under Section 8(4) of the Act, 1976 in the concerned ceiling case. Moreover, the authenticity of the alleged report dated 08.02.1979 is extremely doubtful as the report is cryptic and runs only in a few lines yet suggests that as many as 271 plots (Gata Nos. 612 to 882) have been exempted from the Act, 1976. Similarly, the report dated 10.05.1979 was also not accepted by the competent authority in the order dated 10.04.1992 passed in Ceiling Case No. 305/994 (State Vs. Jathu) wherein the competent authority had relied upon the report dated 07.04.1992 prepared by the draftsman.

12. In respect of the letter dated 06.04.1992 relied by upon the petitioners, it is contended that the same was never dispatched and the authenticity of the said letter is doubtful. Further, there was no occasion for exempting Gata Nos. 612 to 882 from urban ceiling and no order has been passed by the respondent no. 2 while taking into consideration the said reports of Naib Tehsildar as relied on by the petitioners.

13. As far as the order dated 04.08.2016 passed by the District Magistrate, Moradabad is concerned, it is contended that in three ceiling cases the land holders were recorded tenure holders of Gata No. 798 while the ceiling proceedings inadvertently had taken place in respect of Gata No. 792, which was not the land of the land owners, it is under the said circumstances that Gata No. 798 was exempted from proceeding under the Act, 1976 as no proceedings had taken place in respect of the same.

14. It is also stated that in Ceiling Case No. 234/1250/3050 (State Vs. Fakira), it was held by the competent authority that Gata Nos. 867 and 845 were found to be beyond the urban agglomeration and as such the land was exempted from the Act, 1976, which is not so in the case of the petitioners where the land is situated within 1km of urban agglomeration. Further the Gazette notification under Section 2(n) of the Act, 1976 was published on 30.09.1978, in pursuance thereof the concerned authorities at Bareilly got a map prepared of the urban agglomeration area of Moradabad wherein Village Sonakpur was shown to be included in the urban agglomeration and the rate of compensation payable was also determined. Besides, the respondents also rely upon the report of Tehsildar Sadar, Moradabad to show that Gata Nos. 612 to 882 fall within the perimeter of 1km of Nagar Nigam, Moradabad. It is categorically stated that only the land falling under the Gata Nos. 845, 847, 866 and 867 in Village Sonakpur, District Moradabad had been exempted from the Act, 1976.

15. Besides attention is also drawn to the fact that the petitioners in response to the notice dated 22.03.1997 under Section 11(7) had sought time to file objections vide application dated 05.04.1997. Besides, legal heirs of the original tenure holder had filed Writ Petition No. 62393 of 2013 (Gokul and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) with regard to land in Ceiling Case No. 2770/3627 and the same was dismissed as infructuous.

16. Further the revenue entries in the name of the State were duly recorded in the mutation register (R-6) on 09.02.1996 at serial no. 26. Besides, the respondents have also filed the photographs of the land in dispute to show their possession over the land.

17. The respondent no. 3-Mordadabad Development Authority has supported the stand taken by the State and has further stated that the ceiling land in Village Sonakpur and adjoining areas fall under a residential scheme Sonakpur Awasiya Yojana. For this purpose, respondent no. 3 has also acquired and taken possession of the adjoining land (not covered under the Act, 1976) measuring 20.75 hectares through acquisition and transfer.

18. It is stated that respondent no. 3 has spent an amount of about Rs. 84 crores for the development of the said residential scheme. The respondent no. 3 has filed the summary of expenditure incurred and the lay out plan of the scheme to show that the land in dispute falls under the said residential scheme, which was advertised on 24.01.2013 thereby inviting applications for allotment of plots.

19. It is also stated that the fact regarding taking over possession of the land in dispute has duly been recorded in ULC Form-1 under the Directions, 1983. Besides, judgment of Coordinate Benches arising out of proceedings under the Act, 1976 in respect of Village Sonakpur and adjoining areas wherein the writ petitions have been dismissed have also been relied upon by the respondent no. 3-Moradabad Development Authority.

20. Lastly, it is contended that the present writ petition has been filed after a delay of 30-35 years after the land in dispute was declared vacant surplus and as such is liable to be dismissed only on the ground of delay and laches.

21. It is the contention of the petitioners that the petitioners have continued to remain in possession of the land in dispute and in view of the provisions of the Urban Land (Ceiling and Regulation) Repeal Act, 1999 the proceedings of ceiling case stand abated and the petitioners are entitled to remain in possession of the land in dispute. It is further contended that no proceedings under Section 10 (6) of the Act, 1976, ever took place and the petitioners or their predecessors at no point of time had handed over the possession of the land in dispute to the respondent. The aforesaid fact is evident from the perusal of the possession memo, which does not bear the signature of the petitioners or their predecessors and as such it is evident that de facto possession of the land was never taken by the respondent.

22. On the other hand the contention of the respondents is that the proceedings under the Act, 1976 stood concluded with the taking over of the possession of the land in dispute on 27.08.1984 and apparently the possession of the land is with the respondent no.3-authority and the same falls under a residential scheme, hence, proceedings under the Act, 1976 stood concluded prior to the enforcement of the Repeal Act, 1999. Further the present writ petition is bound to be dismissed solely on the ground of delay and laches having been filed after a lapse of about 26 years after taking possession of the land in dispute.

23. It is evident from the records that the land holder Gokul passed away after filing of the ceiling return under Section 6(1) of the Act,1976. Subsequently the name of his son Sonhal Lal, Dalpat and Ramgopal were substituted in his place. The perusal of the order dated 24.06.1980 passed under Section 8(4) further reveals that the notice under Section 8(3) was sent through registered post but was returned unserved and was subsequently served personally on 23.04.1980. The petitioners on the other hand state that the order under Section 8(4) was passed behind the back of the petitioners. Further the petitioners have themselves relied upon the notice under Section 9 dated 26.07.1980. It is not disclosed by the petitioners as to how and when the petitioners came to know about the final statement prepared under Section 9.

24. It has been contended on behalf of the respondents that the notice under Section 10(5) dated 11.04.1984 was served personally on Leelawati, the wife of the original land holder on 16.04.1984. However, the perusal of notice under Section 10(5) reveals that it has not been signed / received. by any of the land holders or any person on their behalf. Further the possession memo dated 27.08.1984 bears the signature of two witnesses but has not been signed by the land holder or any person on their behalf. It is admitted by the parties that no proceedings under Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976 had ever taken place. Thereafter the notice under Section 11 (8) dated 22.03.1997 was served upon Chokhe, son of Gokul on 29.03.1997 and the petitioners vide the letter dated 12.04.1997 had sought time to file objections to the notice under Section 11 (8). The service report dated 19.03.1997 and the copy of the objection dated 05.04.1997 have duly been brought on record. The petitioners have denied the service of notice under Section 11 (8) and the application seeking time to file objections.

25. As far as the revenue records are concerned, the petitioners claim that their names continued to be recorded in the revenue records for a substantial passage of time even after the enforcement of the Repeal Act, 1999. Although it is the stand of the respondent that the land in dispute comprised in Gata No. 789 and Gata No. 773 was duly recorded in the mutation register (R-6) in the name of the State as, "Competent Authority, Urban Ceiling" at serial no. 26 on 09.12.1996. However, neither of the parties from the records have been able to demonstrate as to when the revenue entries were recorded in the name of the State in the revenue records in respect of the land in dispute.

26. Be that as it may the respondents in the supplementary counter affidavit dated 19.06.2023 in respect of recording the name of the State Government in the revenue records have stated as under:

"3. That in the case of Ram Autar being writ petition no. 23827 of 2010 the name of the State Government was recorded in the Revenue records pertaining to the land in question, in the year 2018. In support thereto the Khatoni fasli year 1426-1431 are being enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. SCA-1 to this affidavit.

4. That the Khasra for the aforesaid land in question was also rectified. A copy of the Khasra fasli year 1427 showing the name of urban ceiling duly recorded over the land in question is being enclosed herewith and marked as Annexure No. SCA-2 to this affidavit."

27. Hence, as per own showing of the respondents, the revenue entries were mutated in the name of the State in respect the land in dispute in the year 2018, while the present writ petition was pending. Hence, in view of the above admission on behalf of the respondents, it is beyond doubt that the revenue entries continued in the name of the petitioners or their predecessors for a substantial passage of time even after coming into force of the Repeal Act, 1999.

28. As far as the question of possession is concerned, the respondents in the site plan Sonakpur Awasiya Yojna have tried to demonstrate open land and nala are existing over Gata No. 789 and school is shown to be situated over Gata no. 773. The respondents in this regard have also relied upon a report of the Advocate Commissioner filed in Writ C No. 758850 of 2013 (Babu and others v. State of U.P. and others) on the directions of this Court wherein a mention of Gata No. 773 and Gata No. 789 is also made. The report in respect of two gatas is reproduced herein below:

773	The total area of plot No. 773 is 0.223 hectare and the surplus declared area is 0.043 hectare. This plot is also covered with private abadi as shown in Enclosure No.1 to this report.
789	The total area of plot no. 789 is 0.559 hectare and the whole land declared as surplus. The 24 meter wide Moradabad Delhi bye-pass passes through the said plot. The plot contains chambers of sewer line and high tension line passes over it.

Thus as per own showing of the respondents a private abadi was situated over gata no. 773 in December, 2014 when the inspection was carried out and 24 meters wide Moradabad bypass was to pass through Gata No. 789 besides the chambers of sewer line and high tension lines were also situated over the aforesaid gata.

29. In this regard a report dated 28.11.2022 prepared by Secretary, respondent no. 3-authority is also relevant and has been relied upon by the respondents and the same reads as under:

"गाटा सं0-773-

गाटा सं0-773 का कुल रकबा राजस्व अभिलेखों के अनुसार 0.3640 हैक्टे० है, जसमें अर्बन सीलिंग की 3642.30 वर्ग मी० अर्थात गाटे की सम्पूर्ण भूमि प्राधिकरण की कब्जा प्राप्त भूमि है, जिसका

कब्जा प्राधिकरण को दिनांक 18.01.1990 को हस्तान्तरित किया गया है। जिसमें कुछ भाग पर प्राधिकरण द्वारा सोनकपुर आवासीय योजना के अन्तर्गत नाली, सड़क आदि का निर्माण कराया गया है तथा कुछ भाग पर अवैध रूप ने प्राइवेट आबादी बनी हुई है।

गाटा सं0-789 का कुल रकबा राजस्व अभिलेखों के अनुसार 0.5590 हैक्टे० है, जिसमें अर्बन सीलिंग की 5584.86 वर्ग मी० अर्थात गाटे की सम्पूर्ण भूमि प्राधिकरण की कब्जा प्राप्त भूमि है, जिसका कब्जा प्राधिकरण को दिनांक 18.01.1990 को हस्तान्तरित किया गया है। जिस पर प्राधिकरण द्वारा सोनकपुर आवासीय योजना के अन्तर्गत नियोजित करते हुए नाली, सड़क आदि विकास कार्य कराये गये है।"

Thus, as far as Gata No. 773 is concerned there was private abadi existing over the said gata and on Gata 789 it is alleged that development works in the shape of drains, roads, etc had been carried out.

30. Interestingly, the respondent no.3 authority in its counter affidavit apparently seems to admit the possession of the petitioners over Gata No. 773 although it is alleged that the construction so raised is nothing but a trespass. The relevant part of paragraph 10 of the counter affidavit filed on behalf of respondent no.3 is reads as under:

"10. That accordingly it is not open to the original land holder or his successor petitioners to claim any advantage of the provisions of the Urban Land Ceiling (Repeal Act 1999) or claim a writ of mandamus from this Hon'ble High Court against the respondents for not interfering with their possession by challenging part of the proceedings of Ceiling Case No. 2770/3627 in as far as it relates to plot no. 773-A. It is further submitted that some times after the conclusion of the aforesaid proceedings, the petitioners appear to have encroached upon the aforesaid land by raising some unauthorized construction without the knowledge of the respondent's authorities and have now come up in the present writ petition to claim advantage of the Repeal Act 1999. Thus on the date of the writ petition the status of the petitioner is that of a rank trespasser over the stretch land and hence the petitioners do not deserve any sympathy from this Hon'ble Court and the above noted writ petition being misconceived deserves to be dismissed."

Under the circumstances, it is evident that construction has been raised by the petitioner over the said plot, even though allegedly unauthorised.

31. Besides both the parties have also filed the photographs of the land in dispute claiming that they are in possession of the land in dispute. We are well aware of the fact that usually photographs should not be relied upon as an evidence of possession of a particular party over the land, however, in the present case both the parties have relied upon a similar set of photographs in respect of Gata No. 789 and as such there can be no controversy that the photographs filed by the respective parties pertain to the same piece of land. The photographs of Gata No. 789 relied upon by the petitioners shows that there is a bridge in the background and crop is standing over the vacant land. The respondents on the other hand have filed the photographs of Gata no. 789 with the supplementary counter affidavit dated 29.11.2022 sworn by the then Principal Secretary, Housing and Urban Planning Department, Government of Uttar Pradesh wherein the same bridge is shown in the background and the land is lying vacant with no crop standing over it, the photograph is dated 24.11.2022. Besides there are no signs of any development having taken place over the said piece of land or in the vicinity thereof be it in the shape of drains, road, residential plots etc. other than the electricity lines running over the same, which are also existing in the photograph of Gata no. 789 relied upon by the petitioners.

32. In the photograph of Gata no. 773 relied upon by the respondents filed with the above said supplementary counter affidavit dated 29.11.2022 shows that houses and shops/ abadi along with road are existing over the said plot, the photograph is dated 24.11.2022. Thus, it is apparent from the photograph of Gata No. 773 relied upon by the respondents that a private abadi along with road exist over the said plot.

33. Before we advert to the law in respect of taking over of possession by the State under the Act, 1976, and the effect of Repeal Act, 1999, we would like to consider to another question raised by the petitioner regarding the land in dispute being situated beyond the urban agglomeration. In this regard the petitioner has relied upon the reports of Naib Tehsildar dated 08.02.1979 and 10.05.1979 filed in two ceiling cases as well as letter dated 06.04.1992 issued by the competent authority besides the map of Nagar Palika, Moradabad prepared in the year 1967 and the map of delimitation of Nagar Nigam, Moradabad of the year 2017.

34. On the contrary the respondents state that none of the reports dated 08.02.1979 and 15.02.1979 of the Naib Tehsildar have been relied upon by the Competent Authority while deciding the two ceiling cases. Besides the respondent have also relied upon the gazette notification dated 30.09.1978 to show that Village Sonakpur is within urban agglomeration of district Moradabad. Moreover we are of the view that the said pleas have been raised by the petitioner rather belatedly and ought to have been raised at the relevant point of time during the proceedings under the Act,1976, moreover, the pleas so raised involve disputed questions of fact which we do not need to decide in proceedings under Article 226 of the Constitution of India.

`35. As far as the contention of the respondents that the petitioners had filed Writ Petition No. 62393 of 2013 (Gokul and others Vs. State of U.P. and others) is concerned, the petitioners have refuted the same. The respondents have also not brought the memo of the aforesaid writ petition on record. Moreover, the records reveal that Gokul had passed away shortly after the commencement of proceedings under the Act, 1976 and as such could not have filed a writ petition in the year, 2013. Hence, the aforesaid contention of the respondents is of no consequence as far as outcome of the present writ petition is concerned.

36. We now advert to the law laid down by the Apex Court in respect of the transfer of possession to the State under the Act, 1976 and the effect of the Repeal Act, on the proceedings so initiated. The Apex Court in the case of State of U.P. v. Hariram, 2013 (4) SCC 280 has held as under:

''Peaceful Dispossession

34 Sub-section (5) of Section 10, for the first time, speaks of "possession" which says that where any land is vested in the State Government under sub-section (3) of Section 10, the competent authority may, by notice in writing, order any person, who may be in possession of it to surrender or transfer possession to the State Government or to any other person, duly authorised by the State Government.

35. If de facto possession has already passed on to the State Government by the two deeming provisions under sub-section (3) of Section 10, there is no necessity of using the expression "where any land is vested" under sub-section (5) of Section 10. Surrendering or transfer of possession under sub-section (3) of Section 10 can be voluntary so that the person may get the compensation as provided under Section 11 of the Act early. Once there is no voluntary surrender or delivery of possession, necessarily the State Government has to issue notice in writing under sub-section (5) of Section 10 to surrender or deliver possession. Sub-section (5) of Section 10 visualises a situation of surrendering and delivering possession, peacefully while sub-section (6) of Section 10 contemplates a situation of forceful dispossession.

Forceful dispossession

36. The Act provides for forceful dispossession but only when a person refuses or fails to comply with an order under sub-section (5) of Section 10. Sub-section (6) of Section 10 again speaks of "possession" which says, if any person refuses or fails to comply with the order made under sub-section (5) the competent authority may take possession of the vacant land to be given to the State Government and for that purpose, force-as may be necessary-can be used. Sub-section (6), therefore, contemplates a situation of a person refusing or fails to comply with the order under sub-section (5), in the event of which the competent authority may take possession by use of force. Forcible dispossession of the land, therefore, is being resorted to only in a situation which falls under sub-section (6) and not under sub-section (5) of Section 10. Sub-sections (5) and (6), therefore, take care of both the situations i.e. taking possession by giving notice, that is, "peaceful dispossession" and on failure to surrender or give delivery of possession under Section 10(5), then "forceful dispossession" under sub-section (6) of Section 10.

37. The requirement of giving notice under sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 10 is mandatory. Though the word "may" has been used therein, the word "may" in both the sub-sections has to be understood as "shall" because a court charged with the task of enforcing the statute needs to decide the consequences that the legislature intended to follow from failure to implement the requirement. Effect of non-issue of notice under sub-section(5) or sub-section (6) of Section 10 is that it might result in the landholder being dispossessed without notice, therefore, the word "may" has to be read as "shall".

42 The mere vesting of the land under sub-section (3) of Section 10 would not confer any right on the State Government to have de facto possession of the vacant land unless there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land before 18-3-1999. The State has to establish that there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land or surrender and delivery of peaceful possession under sub-section (5) of Section 10 or forceful dispossession under sub-section (6) of Section 10. On failure to establish any of those situations, the landowner or holder can claim the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act. The State Government in this appeal could not establish any of those situations and hence the High Court is right in holding that the respondent is entitled to get the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act.

43. We, therefore, find no infirmity in the judgment of the High Court and the appeal is, accordingly, dismissed so also the other appeals. No documents have been produced by the State to show that the respondents had been dispossessed before coming into force of the Repeal Act and hence, the respondents are entitled to get the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act. However, there will be no order as to costs.″

(emphasis added)

37. Further the Apex Court in the case of A.P. Electrical Equipment Corporation v. Tehsildar and others, 2025 SCC Online SC 447 while relying upon the law laid down in the case of Hari Ram (supra) has held as under:

"20. Thus, by virtue of the provisions of Section 3 of the Repeal Act, 1999, if possession of vacant land has been taken over on behalf of the State Government before the coming into force of the Repeal Act, 1999, the repeal of the Principal Act would not affect the vesting of such land under sub-section (3) of Section 10 of Act, 1976. Hence, the issue as to whether actual possession of land declared excess under the Act has been taken over or not assumes great significance after the coming into force of the Repeal Act, 1999 inasmuch as if possession has not been taken over, the proceedings would abate under Section 4 of the Repeal Act, 1999 and the ownership of the land, if vested in the State Government under Section 10 (3) of the Act, 1976 would be required to be restored to the original land-holder subject to repayment of any amount that has been paid by the State Government with respect to such land

25. Thus, applying the principle of strict construction as explained in the aforesaid two decisions, the authorities are required to act strictly in accordance with the statutory provisions. Thus, when sub-section (5) of Section 10 mandates giving notice of an order under the said sub-section to the person in possession, the same is required to be complied with in its true letter and spirit. Considering the nature of rights involved, mere issuance of notice without service thereof, cannot be said to be due compliance with the provisions of the statute. Besides, the provisions of subsection (6) of Section 10 can be resorted to only if the person fails to comply with an order under sub-section (5) thereof, within a period of thirty days of service of notice. Hence, possession cannot be taken over under Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976 unless a period of thirty days from the date of service of notice has elapsed. In absence of service of notice under sub-section (5) of Section 10, there will be no starting point for calculating the period of thirty days. In other words, time will not start running, hence the question of taking over possession under sub-section (6) of Section 10 of the Act, 1976 will not arise at all. In this view of the matter, in the case on hand, it was not open to the respondent authorities to resort to the provisions of sub-section (6) of Section 10 of the Act, 1976 without first strictly complying with the provisions of sub-section (5) thereof. Hence, such action being in contravention of the statutory provisions cannot be sustained and deserves to be struck down.

41 The propositions of law governing the issue of possession in context with Sections 10(5) and 10(6) respectively of the Act, 1976 read with Section 3 of the Repeal Act, 1999 may be summed up thus:

[1] The Repeal Act, 1999 clearly talks about the possession being taken under Section 10(5) or Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976, as the case may be.

[2] It is a statutory obligation on the part of the competent authority or the State to take possession strictly as permitted in law.

(3) In case the possession is purported to have been taken under Section 10(6) of the Act, 1976 the Court is still obliged to look into whether "taking of such possession is valid or invalidated on any of the considerations in law."

[4] The possession envisaged under Section 3 of the Repeal Act, 1999 is de facto and not de jure only.

[5] The mere vesting of "land declared surplus" under the Act without resuming "de facto possession" is of no consequence and the land holder is entitled to the benefit of the Repeal Act, 1999.

[6] The requirement of giving notice under sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 10 respectively is mandatory. Although the word "may" has been used therein, yet the word "may" in both the sub-sections should be understood as "shall" because a Court is obliged to decide the consequences that the legislature intended to follow from the failure to implement the requirement.

[7] The mere vesting of the land under sub-section (3) of Section 10 would not confer any right on the State Government to have de facto possession of the vacant land unless there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land before 18th March 1999.

[8] The State has to establish by cogent evidence on record that there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land or surrender land delivery of peaceful possession under sub-section (5) of Section 10 or forceful dispossession under sub-section (6) of Section 10.

53. Thus, it would all depend on the nature of the question of fact. In other words, what is exactly, that the writ court needs to determine so as to arrive at the right decision. If the only issue, that revolves around the entire debate is one relating to actual taking over of the physical possession of the excess land under the provisions of sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 10 of the Act, 1976 respectively, then in such circumstances, the writ court has no other option but to go into the factual aspects and take an appropriate decision in that regard. The issue of possession, by itself, will not become a disputed question of fact. If all that has been said by the State is to be accepted as a gospel truth and nothing shown by the landowner is to be looked into on the ground that a writ court cannot go into disputed questions of fact, then the same may lead to a serious miscarriage of justice.

54 We are of the considered opinion that the issue as regards taking over of the actual physical possession of the excess land in accordance with the provisions of sub-sections (5) and (6) of Section 10 of the Act, 1976 could be said to be a mixed question of law and fact and not just a question of fact. Mixed question of law and fact refers to a question which depends on both law and fact for its solution. In resolving a mixed question of law and fact, a reviewing court must adjudicate the facts of the case and decide relevant legal issues at the same time. Mixed questions of law and fact are defined "as questions in which the historical facts are admitted or established, the rule of law is resolved and the issue is whether the facts satisfy the statutory standard, or to put it another way, whether the rule of law as applied to the established facts is or is not violated[Bausch & Lomb v. Unites States C.I.T. 166, 169 (Ct. Int'l Trade 1997]"

38. Recently the Apex Court in the case of Dalsukhbhai Bachubhai Satasia and others v. State of Gujarat and others, 2026 SCC Online SC 25 while considering the provisions of the Act, 1976 and the Repeal Act, 1999 had held as under:

"18.1 We, therefore, see that the requirement of issuance of notice under Section 10(5) is mandatory and must be issued to the person(s) actually in possession of the concerned land. This is clear from the wording of the statute ("order any person who may be in possession of it"), which are Interpreted by this Court in Hari Ram. This Court opined that the importance of delivering notice lay in avoiding a situation where a person is "dispossessed" without notice which would be in violation of the principles of natural justice, thereby clearly envisioning that the possessor must be served with notice.

19.2 The delivery of notice to the person in possession was therefore unequivocally held to be mandatory. Indeed, the emphasis was on the service of notice on the possessor, as opposed to mere issuance of the same. In the absence of such service of notice, any attempt at forced dispossession was held to be contrary to the statute and hence illegal.

19.3. This Court reiterated the conclusion in Hari Ram, i.e., that if possession has not been taken over by the State Government, then the proceedings under the Act would abate under Section 4 of the Repealing Act. The "mere vesting of the vacant land with the State Government by operation of law, without actual possession, is not sufficient". This Court in AP Electrical phrased the conclusion of Hari Ram in the following manner:

29....To put it in other words, the mere paper possession would not save the situation for the State Government unless the State is able to establish by cogent evidence that actual physical possession of the entire land was taken over by evicting each and every person from the land. The onus is on the State to establish that actual physical possession of the excess vacant land was taken over before the repeal."

22.4. Therefore, as per the provisions of Sections 10(3) and 10(5) of the ULC Act, the subject land, despite having 'vested' (along with acquisition of title or interests) in the State Government, was not in the possession of the Government. Further, possession was not taken by any of the three possible means, i.e., voluntary transfer by the appellants, issuance of notice under Section 10(5) to the appellants followed by peaceful transfer or forceful acquisition of possession under Section 10(6) of the ULC Act. The possession of the land continues with the appellants herein till date.

22.5. Such a scenario is clearly one where the provision of abatement under Section 4 of the Repealing Act applies. The proviso to Section 4 states that the section would not apply to proceedings under Sections 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the ULC Act relating to land that has already been taken possession of by the State Government. Therefore, the proviso has no applicability to the facts at hand and the benefit of abatement under the section would apply wholesale.

` 22.6 That the approach to be had with cases such as the present one is also evident upon a reading of Sections 3 and 4 of the Repealing Act. Clearly, the legislative intent is that in cases where lands were deemed to have been vested but possession was not yet transferred as on date of enforcement of the Repealing Act (such as the present case), the lands were to remain in possession of the private parties. Section 3 (2) of the Repealing Act prescribes the procedure to be followed in specific types of situations, I.e., where amounts paid by the State Government must be refunded. This is not so in the present case. However, the underlying concepts are clear that vesting and possession are distinct and that without the latter, the private parties have a claim over continuing to be in possession. This is subsequently further emphasised in Section 4 of the Repealing Act, as explained earlier under which proceedings abate as a result."

39. Now if we advert to the facts of the present case on the touchstone of law laid down by the Apex Court, as discussed above, the requirement of giving notice under Section 10 (5) and Section 10 (6) is mandatory. Admittedly in the present case there has been no forceful dispossession under Section 10 (6). As far as the notice under Section 10 (5) is concerned, the respondents claim that the same was served upon Smt. Leelavati, wife of land holder and the petitioners have denied the receipt of the notice, however, the perusal of the notice, annexed as Annexure No C.A-3 to the counter affidavit of respondent no.3- authority reveals that it has not been received by the landholders or any other person on their behalf. It is not the case of either of the parties that the possession memo dated 27.08.1984 issued in pursuance to the notice under Section 10 (5) was served on the land holders although it has been endorsed by two witnesses. Thus, the mandatory requirement of delivery of notice under Section 10 (5) to the petitioners not not been complied with.

40. Although it is vehemently argued on behalf of the respondents that the petitioners and their predecessors were well aware of the proceedings under the Act, 1976 but had never objected to the same and reliance is also placed upon the fact that the notice under Section 11 (8) dated 12.03.1997 was served upon the land holders and time was sought to file objections. We are afraid, even if, the said contention is taken to be correct, the same would be of no assistance to the respondents on two counts; firstly the burden lay upon the respondents to prove that they had taken possession of the land in dispute in accordance with the provisions of the Act, 1976, which the respondents have failed to discharge for reasons above, and secondly even after issuance of notice under Section 11 (8) there is nothing on record to demonstrate that payment of Sandeya Dhanrashi/ compensation has been made to the petitioners. Hence, even if the petitioners were aware of the proceedings under the Act, 1976 the same would not absolve the State of its obligation to have taken the de facto possession of the land in dispute in due accordance with the provisions of the Act, 1976 and to prove the same in the present proceedings.

41. We also cannot lose sight of the fact that the entries in the revenue records were made in the name of the State admittedly sometime in the year 2018 as per own showing of the respondents. We are also aware of the fact that the mutation of entries in the revenue records do not create or extinguish the title over the land nor it has any presumptive value on the title and the revenue entries only enable the person in whose favour mutation is made to pay the land revenue. But at the same time entries in revenue records raise a presumption in regard to possession, but it is beyond any doubt or dispute that such a presumption is rebuttable. The Apex Court in this regard in the case of State of Haryana & Anr. V. Amin Lal (since deceased) through his L.Rs& Ors., decided on 19.11.2024 had held as under:-

"8.2 The plaintiffs relied on jamabandi entries to establish their ownership. The jamabadi for the year 1969-70 (Exhibit P1) records the name of Shri Amil Lal as owner to the extent of half share. Revenue records are public documents maintained by government officials in the regular course of duties and carry a presumption of correctness under Section 35 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872. While it is true that revenue entries do not by themself confer title, they are admissible as evidence of possession and can support a claim of ownership when corroborated by other evidence.″

42. Further reliance is placed upon revenue entries being recorded in the name of the State in the mutation register (R-6) on 09.02.1996 is also of little consequence, as it is an outcome of internal papers work between two offices of the State. Further the petitioners or any prudent person would have come to know about the mutation of entries only when the same were recorded in the revenue records and the same was admittedly done in the year 2018.

43. Under the circumstances the revenue entries having continued in the name of petitioners upto the year 2018, a presumption may be drawn that the possession of the land in dispute continued with the petitioners and it is for the respondents to rebut the presumption so made by placing evidence that the possession is with the respondents.

44. In view of above the next question that follows to be decided is as to whether the respondents have been able to prove their possession over the land in dispute at the time of enforcement of the Repeal Act, 1999. Admittedly the land in dispute is comprised in two plots being Khasra No. 773 and Khasra No. 789.

45. As far as the Khasra No. 773 is concerned in the report of the Advocate Commissioner relied upon by the respondents private abadi existing over the same. In the report of the Secretary of the respondent no.3 authority it is stated that the construction of drain, road, etc has been carried out over the said plot and on a part thereof there is an illegal private abadi. The respondent authority in its counter affidavit has also admitted that the petitioner appears to have encroached upon the aforesaid land by raising some unauthorised constructions. We failed to understand as to how the petitioners would have raised constructions over the said plot after the enforcement of Repeal Act, 1999 when the same was in possession of the respondents-authority and a residential scheme was planned over it. Thus, the contention of the respondents holds little water, moreso when private abadi is situate over the said plot. Even in the photographs of the aforesaid plot relied upon by the respondents houses and shops along with road are shown to be existing over the same. Under the circumstances, it cannot be said that the respondents are in possession of the land comprised in Gata No. 773 and it is beyond doubt that private abadi is existing over the same.

46. As far as the Gata No. 789 is concerned in the report of the Advocate Commissioner relied upon by the respondents Moradabad Delhi Bypass, passes over the said plot, besides chambers of sewer line and high tension lines passing over the same. Further in the report of the Secretary of the respondent authority construction of drain, road, etc has been carried out over the said plot. Further in the photographs relied upon by the respondents vacant plot of land is shown to be existing over the said plot with high tension lines with no development work in the shape of roads, drain, etc existing over the same and in its vicinity. Further in the photographs relied upon by the petitioner of the very same plot, crops are shown to be standing over the same. Hence, it is beyond doubt that no development has taken place over the Gata No. 789 as alleged by the respondents and agricultural activities are being carried out over the same.

47. Thus for the reasons detailed above, the respondents have failed to prove that they are in possession of the land in dispute, in fact the respondents have failed to establish a prima facie case to demonstrate that the are in possession of the land in dispute.

48. Another question raised before us and vehemently argued on behalf of the respondents that the present writ petition is liable to be dismissed solely on the ground of delay the petitioners having approached this Court after a delay of about 30 years after the land was declared to be vacant surplus and after about 25 years since the possession of the land was taken over by the respondents.

49. Before we consider the factual aspects of the controversy in respect to delay the respondents amongst others have heavily relied upon the law laid down by the Apex Court in the case of State of Assam v. Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma 2015 (5) SCC 321 in that regard. The law laid down by the Apex Court in the said case came to be considered in the case of Dalsukhbhai Bachubhai Satasia (supra) wherein the Apex Court had held as under:-

19.5. This Court in AP Electrical examined a prior decision of this Court in State of Assam v. Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma, (2015) 5 SCC 321 ("Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma"), since it appeared to "at the first blush create an impression that the dictum as laid In Hari Ram has been diluted". It assessed the effect of Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma on the dictum on Hari Ram as follows.

"33. We quote few relevant paras of the said judgment as under:

XXX

15. The High Court has held that the alleged dispossession was not preceded by any notice under Section 10(5) of the Act. Assuming that to be the case all that it would mean is that on 7th December, 1991 when the erstwhile owner was dispossessed from the land in question, he could have made a grievance based on Section 10(S) and even sought restoration of possession to him no matter he would upon such restoration once again be liable to be evicted under Sections 10(5) and 10(6) of the Act upon his failure to deliver or surrender such possession. In reality therefore unless there was something that was inherently wrong so as to affect the very process of taking over such as the identity of the land or the boundaries thereof or any other circumstance of a similar nature going to the root of the matter hence requiring an adjudication, a person who had lost his land by reason of the same being declared surplus under Section 10(3) would not consider it worthwhile to agitate the violation of Section 10(5) for he can well understand that even when this Court may uphold his contention that the procedure ought to be followed as prescribed. It may still be not enough for him to retain the land for the authorities could the very next day dispossess him from the same by simply serving a notice under Section 10(5). It would, in that view, be an academic exercise for any owner or person in possession to find fault with his dispossession on the ground that no notice under Section 10(5) had been served upon him.

16. The issue can be viewed from another angle also. Assuming that a person in possession could make a grievance, no matter without much gain in the ultimate analysis, the question is whether such grievance could be made long after the alleged violation of Section 10 (5). If actual physical possession was taken over from the erstwhile land owner on 7th December, 1991 as is alleged in the present case any grievance based on Section 10 (5) ought to have been made within a reasonable time of such dispossession. If the owner did not do so, forcible taking over of possession would acquire legitimacy by sheer lapse of time. In any such situation ther owner or the person in possession must be deemed to have waived his right uner Section 10 (5) of the Act. Any other view would, in our opinion, give a license to a litigant to make a grievance not because he has suffered any real prejudice that needs to be redressed but only because the fortuitous circumstances of a Repeal Act tempted him to raise the issue regarding his dispossession being in violation of the prescribed procedure.

17. Reliance was placed by the respondents upon the decision of this Court in Hari Ram's Case (supra). That decision does not, in our view, lend much assistance to the respondents. We say so, because this Court was in Hari Ram's case (supra) considering whether the work 'may' appearing in Section 10 (5) gave to the competent authority the discretion to issue or not to issue a notice before taking physical possession of the land in question under Section 10 (6). The question whether breach of Section 10 (5) and possible dispossession itself or render it non est in the eyes of law did not fall for consideration in that case. In our opinion, what Section 10 (5) prescribed is an ordinary and logical course of action that ought tobe followed before the authorities decided to use force to dispossess the occupant under Section 10(6). In the case at hand if the appellant's version regarding dispossession of the erstwhiel owner in December 1991 is correct, the fact that such dispossession was without a notice under Section 10(5) will be of no consequence and would not vitiate or obliterate the act of taking possession for the purposes of Section 3 of the Repeal Act. That is because Bhabadeb Sharma-erstwhile owner had not make any grievance based on breach of Section 10 (5) at any stage during his lifetime implying thereby that he had waived hig right to do so.

34. We have supplied emphasis on paras 15 and 17 of Bhaskar Jyoti Sharma (supra) referred to above, for the purpose of highlighting that Hari Ram (supra) has not been diluted in any manner. We are of the firm view that Hari Ram (supra) holds the field even as on date. The statements of law in Hari Ram (supra) are absolutely correct.

35. If two decisions of this Court appears inconsistent with each other, the High Courts are not to follow one and overlook the other, but should try to reconcile and respect them both and the only way to do so is to adopt the wise suggestion of Lord Halsbury given in Quinn v. Leathem,[1901] A.C. 495 and reiterated by the Privy Council in Punjab Cooperative Bank Ltd. v. Commr. of Income Tax, Lahore AIR 1940 PC 230:

"..... every judgment must be read as applicable to the particular facts proved or assumed to be proved, since the generality of the expressions, which may be found there, are not intended to be expositions of the whole law, but governed or qualified by the particular facts of the case in which such expressions are to be found. and follow that decision whose facts appear more in accord with those of the case at hand."

20. We are inclined to agree with this view of this Court in AP Elettrical regarding the effect of Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma on the dictum in Hari Ram. In the former, de facto possession had actually been transferred to the State Government. Albelt, this was done by force in contravention of the requirement to mandatorily issue notice under Section 10(5) of the ULC Act. In this regard, this Court held that if the objection regarding the non-compliance with Section 10(5) is not made within a "reasonable time", then the right to so object is "waived".

20.1. However, the facts of Hari Ram (and indeed, the present case) are different insofar as de facto possession was not transferred, by force or otherwise. Therefore, the question is not whether an actual transfer of possession by force is vitiated by a delay in raising objections to the transfer. Rather, the question is whether actual possession has been transferred at all, if no process of transfer has been conducted under the various provisions of Section 10 of the ULC Act. Therefore, the dictum in Hari Ram stands undisputed by the judgment in Bhaskar Jyoti Sarma.

20.4. We find that this view is in accordance with the prior dictum of this Court in Hari Ram, and agrees with the same. At this juncture, we find it appropriate to briefly go through certain other pronouncements of this Court, all of which are aligned on the necessity of serving notice on the possessor under Section 10(5); the difference between vesting and possession" the difference between de jure and de facto possession and the effect of the Repealing Act."

50. Now we advert to the question of delay in view of observations made above, for the reasons above we have already held that the notice under Section 10 (5) and the possession memo was not served upon the petitioners or his predecessors. Further even if the notice under Section 11 (8) was served upon the land holders on 22.03.1997, we cannot lose sight of the fact that the Act, 1976 was repealed in the State on 18.03.1999 and till then or thereafter no payment of Sandeya Dhanrashi/ compensation was made to the petitioners. It has also been concluded that the respondents have failed to prove their possession over the land in dispute. Further as per the own showing of the respondents entries in the revenue records were mutated in the name of the State in the year 2018.

51. Under the circumstances, there is no reason to disbelieve the contention of the petitioner that it was only when the respondents had started interfering in the possession of the petitioners that the petitioner had approached the Competent Authority-respondent no.2 and had subsequently filed the present writ petition in the year 2010.

52. Thus, in view of the above, it cannot be held that there has been delay on the part of the petitioners in approaching this Court in view of the fact that the petitioners continued to remain in possession of the land in dispute prior to and after the enforcement of the Repeal Act, 1999 and revenue entries also remained in the name of the petitioners and the petitioners approached this Court shortly after their possession was sought to be disturbed.

53. Further the respondents have placed reliance upon the judgment of Coordinate Benches of this Court where the land in question was similarly situated in village Sonakpur, District Moradabad and was transferred by the State to Moradabad Development Authority after culmination of proceedings under the Act, 1976. However, we find that the facts of the cases so relied upon by the respondents are clearly distinguishable.

54. In Writ C No. 1106 of 2010 (Kailash and another Vs. State of U.P. and others) decided on 01.06.2012, the descendants of the original land holder had sold their shares in the remaining land in question, which was left out of the proceedings under the Act, 1976 and in the sale deed it was clearly shown that ceiling land was situated adjoining the land so transferred and the aforesaid land admittedly belonged to the petitioners and was a subject matter of proceedings under the Act, 1976.

55. Similar was the case in Writ -C No. 20035 of 2013 (Polu & 2 tohers V. State of U.p. & another) decided on 03.11.2016 and Writ-C No. 20578 of 2013 (Naresh & another v. State of U.P. & another) decided on 17.1.2016, whereto, the descendants of the original tenure holder had transferred the remaining area of the land in question, left out of the proceedings under the Act, 1976 to Moradabad Development Authority.

56. Further, in Writ-C No. 58850 of 2013 (Babu and others v. State of U.P and others) decided on 21.12.2016, the remaining land of the petitioners, left out of the proceedings under the Act, 1976, was acquired by the Moradabad Development Authority under the provisions of Land Acquisition Act, 1894. In the said circumstances, this court was of the view that the possession of the land in question declared vacant surplus under the Act, 1976 had already been transferred to the State.

57. However, in the present case, we find that the remaining land of the petitioners left out of the proceedings under the Act, 1976 was neither purchased nor acquired by the respondent no. 3 authority. Moreover in the present case as duly admitted by the respondents the land in dispute was recorded in the name of State sometime in the year 2018 during the pendency of the present writ petition. Hence, we are of the view that the facts and circumstances of the present case are clearly distinguishable from those relied upon by the respondents and as such the respondents would not be entitled to any benefit of the judgments so relied upon.

58. Hence, in view of above as far as the question of the respondent having de facto possession of the land in dispute, the burden lay upon the respondent to prove the same. However, we are afraid that the respondents have utterly failed to discharge the burden. Besides the respondents have also failed to establish that there has been a voluntary surrender of vacant land, hence, under the circumstances, the petitioners are very well within their rights to claim the benefit of Section 4 of the Repeal Act, 1976.

59. The respondents have vehemently stressed upon the fact that the present writ petition is liable to be dismissed solely on the ground of delay in approaching this Court, however, we are of the view that the question involved in the present case is whether actual possession has been transferred at all to the respondents or not and if no process of transfer has been conducted under the various provisions of Section 10 of the Act, 1976 and the respondents have also failed to establish their possession over the land in dispute, then in such a case, the law relied upon by us in the case of Hari Ram (supra), A.P. Electricial Equipment Corporation (supra) and Dabukhbahi Bachubhai Sateria (supra) would be applicable in the present case.

60. Thus, in view of the above the present writ petition is allowed.

61. No order as to costs.

FACTS :

[3] The present dispute relates to plot no. B-167 situated at Saket, District - Meerut admeasuring 1500 sqm whose owner is respondent no. 6. The genesis of the dispute is the construction permission granted by Meerut Development Authority from residential use to development of a Nursing Home.

[4] The land was initially acquired by The Meerut Housing Cooperative Society Ltd. by means of Gazette dated 12.02.1949. The Society thereafter converted the acquired land into plots for sale to its members. Ultimately the said plot came to be sold to the respondent no. 6 by means of a sale deed dated 24.01.1985.

[5] The respondent no. 6, who became the owner and in possession of the Plot No. B-167, made an online application dated 16.04.2019 for sanction of map for commercial/ Nursing Home over the said plot under Section 15(1) of the U.P. Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as 'the Act, 1973'). The said application being registered as MAP20190416171344243, came to be rejected by the Authority on 20.07.2019 due to lack of essential No Objection Certificates. The rejection order was communicated to respondent no. 6 by means of letter dated 08.08.2023.

[6] Thereafter, the respondent no. 6 again filed an online application dated 01.10.2020 for sanction of map for the purpose of residential construction over the said plot. The said application bearing no. MDA/BP/20-21/0076, was allowed on 28.01.2021 with certain conditions. Before the application was filed, the respondent no. 6 had obtained NOC from the Society on 17.07.2020.

[7] The petitioner thereafter made various complaints to different authorities with regard to violation of the sanctioned map. The initial grievance of the petitioner was mainly on the ground that the construction being carried out was in violation of the sanctioned map.

[8] In pursuance of the complaint filed by the petitioner that the construction, being carried out in violation of the sanctioned maps, the show cause notice under Section 26, 27 and 28 of the Act, 1973 was issued to respondent no. 6 and thereafter by means of an order dated 07.07.2023, the construction was sealed under the orders of the Authority.

[9] In the meantime, an application was filed by the son of the respondent no. 6 to the Additional Housing Commissioner, Lucknow on the ground that the NOC has not been provided by the Society despite the fact that several commercial activities were being carried out in the Society. The application came to be allowed by means of order dated 31.10.2023 granting NOC to the respondent no.6 for commercial activities. The order dated 31.10.2023 was challenged before co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Surendra Pal Singh vs. State of U.P. and others. The said writ petition was allowed by means of order dated 19.03.2024 and the order dated 31.10.2023 was set aside by this Court.

[10] The respondent no. 6 thereafter, filed an application dated 02.12.2023 for compounding the map sanctioned on 28.01.2021 from residential to nursing home. A reminder dated 19.12.2023 was also sent to the Authority with the same prayer.

[11] The respondent no. 6 on 14.02.2024 made another request for changing the land use from residential to nursing home on the basis of Government Order dated 13.10.1998. In the said application it was prayed that the land use be converted and thereafter the compounding with regard to the construction be done.

[12] In pursuance of the Government Order dated 13.10.1998, advertisements dated 09.03.2024 were made in the daily newspapers with regard to land use conversion from residential to nursing home. Objections were invited within a period of one month from the date of publication. In pursuance of the publications, a single objection of the petitioner was received by the Authority dated 23.03.2024. A notice dated 09.05.2024 was issued to the petitioner for a hearing on the objections.

[13] Ultimately by means of order dated 01.06.2024, the Authority rejected the objection of the petitioner. The relevant extract of the order dated 01.06.2024 is as follows :

"उभय पक्षों द्वारा प्रस्तुत अभिकथनों/ तर्कों/साक्ष्यों एवं पत्रावली पर उपलब्ध अभिलेखों का अनुशीलन किया गया एवं प्रकरण का गहनता से परीक्षण किया गया। प्रकरण में नगर नियोजक से विधिसंगत आख्या देने देने की अपेक्षा की गई। नगर नियोजक द्वारा दी गई आख्या दिनांक 01.06.2024 मे

[14] The order dated 01.06.2024 was sent to the Board of the Authority for approval and by means of resolution dated 10.06.2024, the conversion of usage of land was allowed from residential to nursing home. The records reflect that the resolution of the Board remained unchallenged in the writ petition.

[15] After the resolution of the Board, the petitioner filed a complaint dated 20.06.2024 to the Chairman, Meerut Development Authority with regard to the application filed by respondent no. 6 for land use conversion and compounding. A report was called from the Vice Chairman, MDA by the Chairman in pursuance of which a report was submitted by the Chief Town Planner to the Vice Chairman, MDA on 24.06.2024 which stated that the land use conversion was carried out as per the procedure detailed in Government Order dated 13.10.1998. The Vice Chairman, MDA replied to the Chairman on 04.07.2024 stating that the allegation made by the petitioner in the application are incorrect. The land use conversion was done in accordance with law. The record does not indicate that any order was passed by the Chairman in pursuance of the reports of the Vice Chairman, MDA.

[16] By means of order dated 16.08.2024, a relief was given to the respondent no. 6, who was directed to comply with certain conditions and also to demolish the non-compoundable area of 206.25 sqm. Thereafter the sealed premises were de-sealed by means of order dated 31.08.2024 of the Vice Chairman, MDA.

[17] Once the land use conversion was allowed, the application for compounding was processed and the compounding map was allowed by permission dated 12.09.2024 along with certain conditions. The Condition no. 3 specifically mention that uncompoundable part of 206.25 sqm. will be demolished by the respondent no. 6 at her own cost. The said demolition was ultimately carried out and a compliance affidavit was filed on behalf of the Authority with regard to the demolition.

[18] The petitioner being aggrieved by the order dated 01.06.2024 and the order dated 16.08.2024 filed the present writ petition. However, the petitioner did not challenge the permission granted by the Authority dated 12.09.2024 even though the writ petition was filed after the grant of permission.

PETITIONER'S SUBMISSION:

[19] Learned Counsel on behalf of the petitioner made the following submissions to challenge the impugned orders :

(i) The Authority has acted in contravention of the Act, 1973 under the garb of the Government Order dated 13.10.1998 which is inconsistent with the provision of change in land use under Section 13 of the Act, 1973.

(ii) The land use conversion in a development area is possible only after amendments in the Master and Zonal Plans of the area. The impugned order has been passed upon the misconstruction of Building Byelaws, 2008 keeping aside the procedure as envisaged in the Act, 1973.

(iii) The provision of chapter VI of the U.P. Building Construction and Development Byelaw-20086 have been misconstrued as the permission for the nursing home has to be in accordance Master Plan Zoning Regulations. Since the area is purely residential hence clause 6.1 of chapter 6 cannot be used for the purpose of construction of a nursing home.

(iv) The U.P. Urban Planning and Development (Assessment, Levy and Collection of Land Use Conversion Charges) Rules, 20147 supersede the Government Order dated 13.10.1998 and the procedure prescribed in the 2014 Rules states that land use conversion can only be made as a result of amendment of master Plan and Zonal Plan under Section 13 of the Act.

(v) Compounding is prohibited under clause 16.3.2 of the Building Construction and Development Byelaws, 2025 (Regulations, 2025).

RESPONDENT Nos. 2 to 5 SUBMISSIONS:

[20] Learned counsel on behalf of respondent 2 to 5 made the following submission to refute the arguments advanced by the petitioner's counsel:

(i) The impugned order is in accordance with law and the same was passed after applying the due process of law.

(ii) The first application of respondent no. 6 was rejected as the NOCs from various authorities were not produced with the application. Thereafter on the basis of a fresh application, sanction was granted for residential purpose. Once it was found that the construction was in violation of the sanctioned map, the construction was sealed after giving due notice.

(iii) The land use conversion and the compounding thereafter were done following the due process of law. The land use conversion was done as per the powers given in Government order dated 13.10.1998 and after following the due process given therein. There is no illegality in the same. The compounding was allowed after demolition of the non-compoundable area of the construction.

(iv) The sanction to construct the nursing home changing the land use from residential to nursing home is allowed as per the provisions of Chapter of the Building Byelaws. The Zoning regulations under chapter 11 of the Meerut Master Plan 2031 (revised), which came into force on 09.02.2026, permit the construction of a nursing home subject to the conditions imposed in the chapter.

(v) The Authority is well within its rights to change the land use as per the provisions of the Government Order dated 13.10.1998 and the Authority is well within its jurisdiction to change the land use of the plot in the approved colony without referring the matter to the Government.

(vi) The 2014 Rules do not supersede the Government order dated 13.10.1998 and the Government order still holds the field.

(vii) The land use conversion has not changed the layout plan of the Colony and hence the permission does not suffer from any illegality.

RESPONDENT No. 6 SUBMISSIONS:

[21] Learned Advocate on behalf of respondent no. 6 made the following submission to refute the arguments advanced by the petitioner′s counsel:

(i) The entire process of conversion of land use and then compounding of the map has been done in accordance with law and there is no illegality with the same.

(ii) The land use conversion and subsequent compounding were done on the basis of applications filed by respondent no. 6 in light of Government Order dated 13.10.1998. the Government order dated 13.10.1998 specifically allowed the Authority to carry out change in land use subject to the condition that there is no change in Master Plan or the Zonal Plan. The conversion of land use was allowed on the basis of Government Order No. 2438/9-A-3-98-60 LUC/96 dated 13.10.1998.

(iii) The map was sanctioned after inviting objections through publication in two national daily newspapers. The petitioner was the only Objector and his objections, were taken into consideration and examined before passing of the order dated 1.06.2024. Hence, the order dated 1.06.2024 is a reasoned and speaking order passed in accordance with law.

(iv) As per the Building Byelaws, 2008 Nursing home was permitted in residential areas subject to the condition that the minimum area is more than 300 sqm which is situated on a minimum 12-meter-wide road with 12 meter frontage. The plot of respondent no. 6 is 1229.07 sqm after leaving the required frontage and is situated on a 36 meter wide road. Hence there is no violation of any condition of chapter 6 of the building Byelaws.

(v) The Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development (Assessment, Levy and Collection of Land Use Conversion Charges) Rules, 2014 were made superseding six Government Orders. However, the G.O. No. 2438/9-A-3-98-60 LUC/96 dated 13.10.1998 has not been superseded by the aforesaid Rules and any subsequent Government Notification. Therefore, the Government Order dated 13.10.1998 still holds good and governs the field.

(vi) Meerut Development Authority in its 126th Board Meeting approved the proposal for conversion of land use from residential to Nursing home (Public Utility), after taking into consideration the only objection that was raised by the Petitioner. The same has not been challenged by the petitioner hence, the approval granted by the Board has attained finality. The petition is liable to be dismissed on this ground alone.

(vii) The permission granted by the Authority dated 12.09.2024 has not been challenged. Without challenge to the permission dated 12.09.2024, the earlier order dated 01.06.2024 cannot be challenged.

(viii) The construction of the concerned Nursing Home and sanction of map are in consonance with the Model Building Construction and Development Byelaws and Model Zoning Regulations for Development Authorities of Uttar Pradesh, 2025 (in short ‘2025 Regulations’). Construction of the Nursing home on the above-mentioned Plot is permissible under the Model Building Construction and Development Byelaws.

(ix) The orders dated 1.06.2024 and 16.08.2024 have two parts whereby not only the map has been sanctioned but the non-compoundable portion admeasuring 206.25 sq. mtrs was also directed to be demolished. Therefore, in compliance of the order passed by the Hon'ble Court vide its order dated 11.03.2025, the answering respondent has demolished the objectionable structure and removed it from the site which was evident from the copy of the certificate issued by the Enforcement Officer of the Development Authority dated 7.03.2025.

(x) The petitioner has an efficacious alternative remedy u/s 41(3) of the Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973, therefore, the present writ petition deserves to be dismissed on the sole ground of alternative remedy. Serious disputed questions of facts are involved in the present matter, the same can be adjudicated in proceedings u/s 41(3) of The Uttar Pradesh Urban Planning and Development Act, 1973.

[21] Mr. Ajit Singh Rana, learned Additional Chief Standing Counsel appearing for respondent no. 1 has adopted the arguments made on behalf of respondent no. 2 to 6. He has submitted that the impugned order suffers from no illegality and as such, no interference is required in the impugned order.

[22] We have heard the rival submissions and perused the records of the case. On the basis of the submission and records annexed, the following points of determination are framed for adjudication of the dispute :

POINTS OF DETERMINATION :

[23] The points of determination are as follows :-

(I) Whether the writ petition is liable to be dismissed on the ground of alternate remedy of revision under Section 41(3) of the Act, 1973?

(II) Whether the impugned order dated 01.06.2024 and the report dated 16.08.2024 suffer from the vice of colourable exercise of power by the Authority which requires a judicial review by the Court?

(III) Whether the permission granted to the respondent no. 6 is in accordance with the Building byelaws, the Zonal regulations and others laws/ regulations and needs no interference by this Court?

DISCUSSION:

[24] Before proceeding further into the matter, it is necessary that the question of maintainability of the writ petition be addressed. The petitioner has challenged the order dated 01.06.2024 passed by the respondent no. 2 rejecting the objection to the sanction granted for conversion of land use and further directions for compounding of the construction. The Act, 1973 is a complete code in itself which provides exhaustive remedies against any order/ actions of the Authority. Section 14 and 15 of the Act, 1973 deal with development and usage of the land in notified/developed areas and applications for sanction of maps respectively. Though in the present case, the sanction for land use conversion has been done under the Government Order dated 13.10.1998, but further permission has to be obtained under the powers derived under Section 14 and 15 of the Act. Section 15(5) of the Act, 1973 provides for an appeal to the Chairman upon rejection of permission but does not provide any right of appeal to a third party upon sanction of the permission. However, Section 41 of the Act, 1973 gives power to the State Government to review the orders passed by the Authority. Section 41(3) empowers the State Government to call for the records on its own or on an application made by the aggrieved party for the purpose of satisfying itself as to the legality or propriety of any order or direction.

[25] It is apparent that the petitioner did not file any application for revision of the order dated 01.06.2024 before the State Government. The order dated 01.06.2024 has been challenged in the writ petition on the ground that the Authority did not have any jurisdiction to change the land use by placing reliance upon the Government order dated 13.10.1998. Further submission regarding lack of jurisdiction is on the basis of there being no change in the Master Plan or the Zonal Plan. It is to be kept in mind that the bar of alternate remedy is not an absolute bar. The Supreme Court in the case of Whirlpool Corporation vs Registrar Of Trade Marks, Mumbai & Ors; held that the bar would not be applicable in the following cases:

(a) where the writ petition seeks enforcement of any of the fundamental rights,
(b) where there is a violation of principles of natural justice,
(c) where the order or the proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction;
(d) where the vires of an Act is challenged.

Thereafter in M/S Radha Krishan Industries vs The State of Himachal Pradesh;, the Supreme Court held that:

"26.....
The principles of law which emerge are that:
(i) The power under Article 226 of the Constitution to issue writs can be exercised not only for the enforcement of fundamental rights, but for any other purpose as well;
(ii) The High Court has the discretion not to entertain a writ petition. One of the restrictions placed on the power of the High Court is where an effective alternate remedy is available to the aggrieved person;
(iii) Exceptions to the rule of alternate remedy arise where (a) the writ petition has been filed for the enforcement of a fundamental right protected by Part III of the Constitution; (b) there has been a violation of the principles of natural justice; (c) the order or proceedings are wholly without jurisdiction; or (d) the vires of a legislation is challenged;
(iv) An alternate remedy by itself does not divest the High Court of its powers under Article 226 of the Constitution in an appropriate case though ordinarily, a writ petition should not be entertained when an efficacious alternate remedy is provided by law;
(v) When a right is created by a statute, which itself prescribes the remedy or procedure for enforcing the right or liability, resort must be had to that particular statutory remedy before invoking the discretionary remedy under Article 226 of the Constitution. This rule of exhaustion of statutory remedies is a rule of policy, convenience and discretion; and
(vi) In cases where there are disputed questions of fact, the High Court may decide to decline jurisdiction in a writ petition. However, if the High Court is objectively of the view that the nature of the controversy requires the exercise of its writ jurisdiction, such a view would not readily be interfered with."

In M/S Godrej Sara Lee Ltd. v. The Excise and Taxation Officer-Cum-Assessing Authority & Ors., the Supreme Court has again reiterated the above principles.

[26] In the present case, the petitioner has challenged the jurisdiction of the Authority to change the land use. Therefore, what was contented before us is that the entire proceeding stood vitiated as the order granting sanction was without jurisdiction. Before deciding the preliminary objection, what needs to be seen is the concept of 'maintainability' and 'entertainability' of the writ petition. Both the concepts are different. Even though a writ petition may be maintainable on the basis of the exceptions stated above, it may not be entertainable on various other grounds including a ground of disputed question of fact. Ordinarily when the question of jurisdiction is raised, it involves a pure question of law and the Courts ought not refuse to entertain the writ petition as the dispute with regard to the question of law would be an exception to the statutory remedy and its bar. In the present case the writ petition would be maintainable before this Court as a question of law with regard to jurisdiction of the Authority to change the land use has been raised. The writ petition would be maintainable to see whether the Authority committed any jurisdictional error in its actions.

As to the question of entertainability of the writ petition, learned counsel for the respondents submitted that the petition involves questions of fact which the State Government in its revisional powers can look into and rectify, if need be. From a perusal of the records, it appears that this Court vide its order dated 21.11.2024 had granted time to the respondents to file their respective counter affidavit and also granted an interim order directing respondent no. 6 not to raise any construction. The order is reproduced below:

"1. In pursuance of previous order, Sri J.N. Maurya is in receipt of instructions from the Development Authority. He states that on the previous occasion the building plan was not approved as the required No Objection Certificate was not furnished. Since, respondent no. 6 had moved fresh application annexing therewith No Objection Certificate from all the authorities and therefore, the building plan was considered afresh, he therefore submits that there is no illegality in the impugned order.

2. Learned counsel for the petitioner vehemently submits that when the petitioner approached this Court by filing Writ C No. 3619 of 2024 in the past, a Co-ordinate Division Bench by order dated 19.03.2024 quashed the No Objection Certificate dated 31.10.2023 and returned the following finding:-

"10. Upon hearing learned counsel for the parties, we are satisfied that the No Objection Certificate is an attempt to circumvent the proceedings which are stated to be pending against the 6th respondent for having raised constructions contrary to the sanctioned map.

11. Moreover since no power whereunder the impugned No Objection Certificate would have been issued in the facts and circumstances of the case would be pointed out, we have no option but to allow this writ petition and quash the No Objection Certificate dated 31.10.2023. The No Objection Certificate is also liable to be quashed because it modifies/reviews an earlier No Objection Certificate granted by the 2nd respondent, in pursuance whereof, a map for construction of a residential building had been sanctioned by the Development Authority."

3. Sri Diptiman Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondent no.6 submits that respondent no.6 is not raising any construction at the moment. He further states that respondent no.6 has already filed affidavit in compliance of the order of approval dated 12.09.2024, for undertaking demolition of non-compoundable part of the building measuring 206.25 sq. mtr. He submits that respondent no. 6 is in the process of demolishing the non-compoundable part of the building. He further submits that the petitioner has already deposited the compounding charges with the Development Authority.

4. He prays for and is granted a week's time to file counter affidavit.

5. Counsel for the Development Authority is also granted a week's time to file counter affidavit.

6. List this case as fresh on 03.12.2024.

7. In the meantime, no further construction shall be made by respondent no. 6 as is also the stand taken before this Court."

The Supreme Court in the case of L. Hirday Narain Vs. Income-Tax Officer, Bareilly 11and Durga Enterprises (P) Ltd. & Anr. Vs. Principal Secretary, Govt. of U.P. & Ors. as well as co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Roshan Lal Vs. State of Uttar Pradesh & Ors have consistently held that once pleadings have been exchanged then the writ petition should be decided on merits and not on the ground of alternate remedy. In the present case, the pleadings have been exchanged and an interim order has also been granted in favour of the petitioner which is continuing till date. Hence in light of the settled principles, we are of the considered view that the writ petition is entertainable and cannot be dismissed on the ground of alternative remedy of revision under Section 41(3) of the Act, 1973.

[27] The issue that now needs to be seen is whether the impugned order dated 01.06.2024 and the report dated 16.08.2024 suffer from the vice of colourable exercise of power by the Authority which requires a judicial review by the Court?

[28] It would be prudent to refer to the scheme of the Act with regard to sanction of applications. Section 13 of the Act, 1973 deals with powers of authority qua amendments to the Master Plan and the Zonal Development Plan. Section 13 of the Act, 1973 gives power to the Authority to change the Master Plan or the Zonal Development Plan which in its opinion do not affect important alternations in the character of the plan and which do not relate to extent of land uses or the standards of population density. In case any such amendment is required, publication in the newspaper inviting objections is a pre-requisite, followed by the decision over the objection, if any and thereafter the final map is to be published in the newspaper. Further when the Authority makes any amendment in plans, the amendments have to be referred to the State Government.

Section 14 of the Act, 1973 deals with development in the area notified for the Authority. Any development in the notified area has to be carried out in terms of the Master Plan or the Zonal Development Plan upon permission being received from the Vice Chairman. Without permission from Vice Chairman, no development activity can be carried out.

Section 15 of the Act makes it mandatory for any person(s) who intent(s) to carry out development as per Section 14 of the Act to file an application before the Vice Chairman. Thereafter the respondent no. 2, after making an enquiry, may grant the permission on such terms and conditions as may be specified in the order or the Vice Chairman may also refuse such a permission. In case of refusal, the applicant has a right to file an appeal before the Chairman of the Authority. The Authority can also levy appropriate charges/ cess upon the applicant for granting permission under this Section.

[29] Thus from the above, it is clear that the Authority has powers to change the Master Plan or the Zonal Development Plan upon certain conditions being fulfilled. However, such amendments shall be subjected to publication and reference to the State Government. Once the plans are in place, the Authority can then proceed to develop the development notified area on its own or on applications made by interested parties. The applications by person should be in consonance with the plans and only thereafter written permission shall be granted by the Vice Chairman upon such terms and conditions as it may deem fit.

[30] However, as the petitioner's contention is based on the fact that the authority has surpassed its powers by passing an order on the sole basis of G.O. dated 13.10.1998, it would be relevant to refer to the Government Order dated 13.10.1998 on the basis of which the entire exercise has been carried out. The Government Order is as follows :-

"श्री अतुल कुमार गुप्ता,

[31] A perusal of the above Government order would show that the power to amend the layout plan is vested with the Authority as per Section 14 and 15 of the Act. Therefore, the Government in its wisdom sought to amend the procedure which required permission from the State Government. The Government Order was issued to rectify this discrepancy which would result in long delay with regard to changes in layout plan. The Government order provided that in case layout plans have to be changed then the Authority would have the right to change the payout plan without sending a reference to the Government provided the publication with regard to the change was done in the newspaper and objections were invited. The decision on the objections would then be referred to the Board for its approval.

[32] The Authority and the respondent no. 6 have relied upon this government order to show that the land use conversion was done in accordance with law and the procedure as prescribed under the Government order was followed before sanction was granted by the respondent no. 2 to develop the plot as a nursing home.

[33] The learned counsel for the Authority as well as respondent no. 6 have also relied upon the Chapter 6 of the Building Byelaws 2008 to show that nursing home was permitted in residential areas. The relevant portion of Chapter 6 of the building byelaws is as follows :

(ii) नर्सिंग होम में संक्रामक रोगों एवं छुआछूत सम्बन्धी बीमारियों का इलाज नहीं किया जाएगा।

[34] Learned Counsel for the Authority has also relied upon the Meerut Master Plan 2031 to contend that the Zoning regulations as contained in the Master Plan 2031 were applicable. He submitted that Chapter-XI of Master Plan-2031 deals with Zoning Regulations. Master Plan-2031 was approved by the Government Vide Government Order dated 24.01.2024 and implemented by publication of notification since 09.02.2024. The Para No. 11.1 of Chapter XI, under heading 'Object of Zoning', clearly provides that in a Master Plan Map generally main land use such as Residential, Commercial, Industrial, Office, Public, Semipublic facilities, park etc. are shown however, in between main land use certain ancillary activities, which were not possible to be shown in the Master Plan Map separately are permissible as per Zoning Regulations. The object of Zoning Regulation as incorporated in Master Plan-2031 is extracted as under:-

महायोजना में सामान्यतः प्रमुख भू-उपयोगों तथा आवासीय वाणिज्यिक, औद्योगिक, कार्यालय, अर्द्ध-सार्वजनिक सुविधायें, पार्क एवं खुले स्थल, कृषि आदि को ही दर्शाया जाता है। प्रमुख भू-उपयोगों के अंतर्गत अनुमन्य आनुषांगिक क्रियायें (ACTIVITIES) जिन्हें महायोजना मानचित्र पर अलग से दर्शाया

जाना सम्भव नहीं है की अनुज्ञा जोर्निंग रेगुलेशन्स के आधार पर प्रदान की जाती है। सक्षम प्राधिकारी द्वारा नई योजनाओं भी विशेष आनुषंगिक में (ANCILLARY/INCIDENTAL) क्रियाओं / उपयोगों का प्राविधान जोर्निंग रेगुलेशन्स तथा प्रभावी भवन निर्माण एवं विकास उपविधि के अनुसार किया जाना अपेक्षित है ताकि जन स्वास्थ्य, कल्याण एवं सुरक्षा सुनिश्चित हो सके।"

[35] Furthermore, the main land use areas, ancillary/incidental activities are permissible with conditions and restrictions as well as with special permission. Para No. 11.13 of Chapter XI under heading 'प्रमुख भू-उपयोग जोन्स में सशर्त अनुमन्य क्रियाओं/उपयोगों हेतु अनिवार्य शर्ते एवं प्रतिबन्ध'. A total of 32 conditional activities/use with certain conditions and restrictions are permissible. Para No. 11.14 of Chapter XI under heading 'विशेष अनुमति से अनुमन्य क्रियाओं (Activities) हेतु अपेक्षाएं'. Zoning Matrix appended in Chapter XI of Plan-2031 depicts permissible ancillary/incidental activities on land use in main land use areas. In the given matrix under column activities at Serial no.5.21 heading 'Nursing Home/Clinic/Poly clinic' activities/use is permissible with certain conditions/restrictions in constructed area, market area, residential area without restriction/condition in mixed land use area. The matrix is depicted below :

[36] Learned counsel for the Authority submitted that as per the matrix, there are no purely residential areas in the Master Plan 2031. The residential area (आवासीय क्षेत्र) in column 3 of the matrix is the relevant category and under 5.21 (नर्सींग होम/ क्लिनिक/ पाली क्लिनिक) is allowed with code 10. Code 10 relates to Regulation 11.13 of the Zoning Regulations which is as follows:

"11.13 प्रमुख भू-उपयोग जोन्स में सशर्त अनुमन्य क्रियाओं / उपयोगों हेतु अनिवार्य शर्ते एवं प्रतिबन्ध :

10. न्यूनतम 12 मीटर चौड़े मार्ग पर अधिकतम 20 शैय्याओं तक। "

Furthermore since the nursing home is under "green" category which is a "permitted" category, therefore the same is permitted and the sanction granted for construction is in accordance with law.

[37] Learned Counsel for the Authority submitted that Master Plan 2031 permits nursing home with 20 beds in residential areas subject to the condition that it should be on a 12 meter wide road. In the present case, the respondent no. 6 satisfied all the conditions therefore as per Chapter 6 of the Building Byelaws, the change in land use was permitted. He submitted that from the perusal of the provisions of Zoning Regulation, it is evidently clear that the Authority had rightly sanctioned the map of nursing home by compounding of existing residential map strictly in accordance with provision of Meerut Master Plan-2031 and Building Construction and Development Bylaws, 2008 (as amended in 2023) as well as compounding Bylaws-2009.

[38] Learned counsel for the Authority as well as respondent no. 6 have also relied upon the Regulations, 2025 to show that nursing home is a permissible activity in a residential area. Relevant extract is as follows:

Learned counsel for respondents submitted that as per the Regulations, 2025 permission for construction of Nursing home can be provided as per the master plan or zoning regulations. The same is apparent from the above chart. However certain conditions with regard to plot size and road width has to be seen before grant of permission. The present case relates to a maximum of 20 beds for which a minimum 300 sqm plot size is required.

Provisions relating to proposed land uses in master plans of development authorities:

It is clarified that the zoning regulations pertaining to the standardized use zones shall be applicable to those use zones grouped under respective category. For existing land uses grouped under Sl. No. 17 Other/Additional land-use in the table in Appendix-15, the permissibility according to the zoning regulations under master plans of the respective development authorities shall apply.

They have also relied upon Clause 15.3 of the Regulations, 2025 (the above chart) to show that under the Residential Category "R" (5th column) at serial 5.7, Healthcare facilities are provided and under the Column "R", an activity of nursing home can be carried out without any special conditions. Since the nursing home is under "green" category which is a "permitted" category, therefore the same is permitted and the sanction granted for construction is in accordance with law.

[39] Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the reliance placed by the learned counsel for the respondents on the Building Byelaws 2008 and the 2025 Regulations is misplaced as the same does not provide any power to amend the Master plan or the Zoning Plan. He submitted that the Saket area is a residential colony which was provided to the cooperative housing society for development. The layout plan of the society was sanctioned and on the basis of the layout plan, the plots were sold to different persons including the respondent no. 6. He further submitted that the change from residential to nursing home was not permissible as it would require the change in the Zonal plans which could be done only by the State Government under Section 13 of the Act. He further submitted that the reliance on the Government order dated 13.10.1998 is misplaced as firstly it did not give any power to the Authority to change any Zonal Plan which is required as Saket area is a residential area and secondly the 2014 Rules superseded the Government Order. He submitted that as such the exercise of power by the Authority in changing the land use is patently a colourable exercise of power and as such amenable to judicial review.

[40] When the Court is exercising the powers of judicial review, the judicial review has to be exercised with circumspect. The review is not of the final decision but the steps that were taken in reaching such a decision. We are primarily concerned with the legality of the decision-making process rather than the merits of the decision itself. In the present case, the start of the decision making process commenced from the date the application for change in land use was filed before the Authority i.e. 14.02.2024. This application came to be processed in light of the Government order dated 13.10.1998 by following all the steps detailed in the Government Order and the procedure laid down in Section 13 of the Act, 1973. Objections were invited after publication on 09.03.2024 and a single objection of the petitioner was received. The Society did not file any objection against the proposed change in land use and therefore it can be assumed that the Society did not have any objection to the change in land use. The objection of the petitioner was decided by means of order dated 01.06.2024 i.e. the impugned order.

[41] The application of respondent no. 6 was filed on 14.02.2024 i.e. after the enforcement of the Meerut Master Plan 2031. Therefore, what has to be seen is whether the Master Plan 2031 and the Zoning Regulations contained therein permitted using the land as nursing home. It is trite law that the relevant law applicable on an application is the law that is prevalent on the date the application was allowed as held in Anand Kumar Sharma vs. State of U.P. and others;. Thus on the date the application was processed, the relevant Zoning Regulations were stated in Chapter XI of Master Plan 2031 which permitted for use of land as Nursing home subject to conditions contained in Regulation 11.13 (10) of Meerut Master Plan 2031. As indicated above, the Master Plan permitted Nursing homes in residential areas subject to the condition that the road must be 12 meters wide. In the present case, the road is 36 meters wide therefore the condition with regard to sanction is fulfilled. As to the condition in Chapter VI of the Building Byelaws, the plot area is far above the minimum required plot area of 300 sqm.

[42] Learned Counsel for the petitioner contented that the reliance on the Government order dated 13.10.1998 is misplaced as firstly it did not give any power to the Authority to change any Zonal Plan which is required as Saket area is a residential area and secondly the 2014 Rules superseded the Government Order. We have examined the Government order as well as Chapter 6 of the Building Byelaws 2008. It is apparent that the Government order was with regard to a discrepancy between implementation of Section 13 and Section 14 and 15 of the 1973 Act. The Government was of the view that once the change in layout plans can be sanctioned by the Authority itself under Section 14 and 15 of the 1973 Act, then the need to refer the matter to the State government in absence of any change in the Master Plan or the Zonal plan is superfluous. Therefore, powers were given to the Authority to permit changes in the layout plans after complying with the procedure of publication for change in plans and with due approval of the Board of the Authority.

[43] In the present case, the Authority allowed the change in land use after due approval from the Board vide its resolution dated 10.06.2024 drawing its powers on the basis of the Government Order dated 13.10.1998. The Building Byelaws, 2008 (as amended in 2023) and the Zoning Regulations contained in Chapter XI in Master Plan 2031 permitted sanction for nursing home in residential areas subject to conditions of Chapter 6 of the Building Byelaws, 2008. It is clearly reflected that the Byelaws and the Zoning regulations permitted the use of land for nursing home and the application for change in land use was processed on the basis of the powers given in the Government order dated 13.10.1998. There is no challenge to the Government Order dated 13.10.1998.

[44] Learned Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the usage of land as nursing home is permitted, provided, the Master Plan Zoning Regulations permites. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner also filed a supplementary affidavit to impress upon the Court that the Zoning Regulations did not permit such an activity. We have perused the supplementary affidavit along with its annexures. The Zoning Regulations have also been filed in the written submission filed by the Authority and the same are also being relied upon as the Regulations in the supplementary affidavit do not appear to be complete. Upon perusal of supplementary affidavit and the written submission, we find that there is no restriction in the Zoning Regulations to support the contention of the petitioner. The Zoning regulations in Clause 11.10.5.23 define Nursing homes and matrix provided in the Zoning Regulations also permit the land use for a nursing home as is indicated above. Also, if the Zoning Regulations are compared with the Byelaws, 2008 it is apparent that Nursing home is permitted in residential areas subject to fulfillment of conditions mentioned in Chapter VI. We are of the considered view that the objection, that Zoning Regulations did not permit nursing home, is misplaced and is hereby rejected. Relying upon the above observations, we are also of the view that the application for change in land use was processed in accordance with law and the entire process suffers from no illegality which would require a judicial review. Thus, the answer to the second issue is also negative.

[45] As regarding the contention that the 2014 Rules superseded the Government Order dated 13.10.1998, we have examined the Rules in detail. It would be pertinent to note that the Rules itself provide a list of Government Orders that stood superseded by the implementation of he said Rules. The Government Order dated 13.10.1998 has not been superseded by the 2014 rules and as such still continues to hold the field. As we have observed above, the Government Order was only issued to rectify an apparent discrepancy with regard to Section 13, 14 and 15 of Act and the power of the Authority to make changes in the layout plan.

[46] As regarding the contention that land use conversion would only be possible once the Master and the Zonal plans were amended, the same is liable to be rejected. The Building Byelaws, 2008 specifically provides that nursing home is permitted in a residential area. The reliance of the petitioner on the fact that Zoning Regulations also did not permit the nursing home is misconceived as observed above. The petitioner has been unable to prove that Zoning Regulations prohibited land use conversion from residential to nursing home. Nothing has been placed on record to prove otherwise.

[47] With regard to the applicability of the compounding laws as prescribed under the relevant Byelaws, it would be pertinent to note that while granting permission the Authority had intimated to respondent no. 6 as to the area which was non-compoundable and liable to be demolished. The said non-compoundable area has now been demolished as is evident from the compliance affidavit filed in this regard. As to the contention that compounding is not permissible as per chapter 16.3.2 of the 2025 Regulations, it would suffice to say that from the chart appended above, it is clear that nursing home is a permitted activity within residential zone. Furthermore, once the learned counsel for the petitioner has refuted the applicability of the 2025 Regulations to the present case, then the argument that compounding cannot be done in light of Chapter 16.3.2 is liable to be rejected as the petitioner cannot be permitted to approbate and reprobate. Nothing has been brought on record to show that compounding was not permissible under the 2008 Bylaws or that further area as stated in the permission dated 12.09.2024 was non-compoundable.

[48] Learned Counsel for the petitioner has relied upon the case of Ganga Charan Aryawardhan Hospital Vs. State of U.P. and others; to content that the sanction given was illegal. We have perused the said judgment and find that the said judgment dealt with a case where there was no permission to run a nursing home and thus the compounding was not permitted. In the present case, sanction was granted for running a nursing home. Therefore, the said case law is not applicable in the present set of facts and circumstances.

[49] The learned Counsel for the Petitioner has placed reliance upon the judgment of R.K. Mittal vs. State of U.P. and others to contend that any land use contrary to the Master Plan or the zonal plan are illegal. However in the present case, the Zonal Plans allowed for certain activities to be carried subject to certain condition and therefore the said judgment is not applicable in the present set of facts and circumstances.

Reliance is also placed upon the order passed in Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, NOIDA Authority and another vs. Mange ram Sharma (dead) through Lrs. and another was with regard to applications filed by Doctors for running clinics in their residences. The applications were filled with regard to directions issued in R.K. Mittal (supra). The Supreme Court held that neither a poly clinic nor a nursing home can run in a residential area. The observations were based upon NOIDA Master Plan 2031. However in the present case, the issue at hand is governed by Meerut Master Plan 2031 which has allowed specific usage as per the matrix provided in the Zoning Regulations under chapter XI. Thus the observations in the above case are not applicable in the present set of circumstances.

In Rajendra Kumar Barjatya and another vs. U.P. Award Evam Vikas Parishad and others the Supreme Court was dealing with an issue of unauthorized construction and its subsequent demolition. In the present case, the non-compoundable construction has been demolished and the remaining part compounded as per the policy of the Authority. The facts of the case are completely different to the present set of facts and circumstance.

However, the petitioners have also placed heavy reliance on the proceedings drawn before the Hon′ble Supreme Court in Bimalendu Pradhan vs. State of Orissa. We are aware of the fact that in the aforesaid case, the Supreme Court is dealing with the issue of unauthorized construction without any sanctioned plans as well as demolishing illegal constructions in setbacks. However in the present case, the sanction has already been granted to the petitioner which remained unchallenged. Also the permission was granted as per the Meerut Master Plan 2031 which permits nursing home in residential areas subject to certain conditions. As those conditions were met, the sanction was granted and there is no illegality in the same as we have indicated above.

[50] In light of what has been observed and stated above, we are of the considered view that the order dated 01.06.2024 passed by the Secretary, Meerut Development Authority and the report dated 16.08.2024 sent by the Chief Town Planner, Meerut Development Authority do not suffer from the vice of colourable exercise of power which requires any judicial review by this Court. The records indicate that the entire process was carried out in accordance with law and as per the relevant Law/ regulations/ government order and the same suffers from no illegality.

[51] In reaching the above conclusion, we are also fortified from the fact that the Board resolution dated 10.06.2024 which allowed for conversion of land use and the subsequent permission under Section 15(1) of the Act, 1973 dated 12.09.2024 were never challenged. The omission to amend the pleadings by challenging the resolution and the permission leads us to the conclusion that the proceedings were initiated and culminated in accordance with law.

ANSWERS TO THE POINTS OF DETERMINATION:

[52] Regarding issue no. 1 as to whether the writ petition is liable to be dismissed on the ground of alternate remedy of revision under Section 41(3) of the Act, 1973 the issue is answered in the negative holding that the writ petition is maintainable.

[53] Regarding Issue no. 2 as to whether the impugned order dated 01.06.2024 and the report dated 16.08.2024 suffer from colourable exercise of power by the Authority which requires a judicial review by the Court the issue is answered in the negative holding that there is no illegality in the process adopted which requires any judicial review by this Court.

CONCLUSIONS:

[54] In the light of the findings and the observations given above, the writ petition is without merit and is hereby dismissed. There shall be no order as to cost.

[55] Even though the writ petition stands dismissed, we are not oblivious to the difficulties that may be faced by the residents of the colony with regard to the construction of a nursing home and their functioning, therefore, we deem it appropriate to issue certain directions to ensure that the lives of the residents are not affected adversely. The respondent no. 6 shall file an affidavit before the respondent no. 2 categorically stating the following:

(i) The construction to be carried out will be in compliance of the specific conditions given in the permission and there shall be no deviation from the same.

(ii) The parking of the vehicles shall be regulated by respondent no. 6 and the parking shall not overflow into the internal roads of the Society so as to cause any inconvenience to the residents of the Society.

(iii) In case of any violations with regard to parking, appropriate action will be initiated by respondent no. 2 in accordance with law.

(iv) Medical waste management regulations will be complied to the full extent. There shall be no throwing of garbage/ medical waste in the society and the respondent no. 6 shall enter into a contract with necessary medical waste disposal agencies to ensure hygiene levels.

The said affidavit is to be filed within one week from today before respondent no. 2 who shall ensure that there is no deviation from the undertakings given in the affidavit.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the Sub-Divisional Officer could have directed deletion of the petitioner's name from the revenue records without initiating any regular proceedings under the relevant provisions of law and without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

Headnotes

U.P. Land Revenue Act – ss.33, 39 – Revenue records – Deletion of name of recorded tenure-holder – Petitioner's father's name recorded over disputed land pursuant to order dated 28.03.1967 passed by Consolidation Officer – Petitioner, being his daughter and sole legal heir, subsequently recorded in revenue records – Khatauni of Fasli years 1402 to 1407 reflecting petitioner's name as bhumidhar over plots in question – Entries continuing for considerable period – Gaon Sabha having already instituted Regular Suit No.421 of 1997 before competent civil court in respect of same dispute – Application for temporary injunction therein rejected – During pendency of suit, Sub-Divisional Officer directing expunction of petitioner's name from revenue records and recording land in name of Gaon Sabha – No regular proceedings for correction of revenue entries instituted – No notice issued to petitioner or opportunity of hearing afforded – Order passed merely on basis of ex parte report of Tehsildar – Justification:

Held :

A. Revenue authorities cannot expunge the name of a recorded tenure-holder from the revenue records without registering appropriate proceedings under ss.33 and 39 of the Land Revenue Act and without providing opportunity of hearing to the affected person – Any order adversely affecting civil rights of a person must conform to the principles of natural justice – Even in cases where allegations of irregularity or fraud are levelled, the person whose rights are sought to be affected is entitled to notice and opportunity of hearing before any adverse action is taken – Doctrine of audi alteram partem ingrained in constitutional and administrative jurisprudence cannot be dispensed with in a casual manner.

B. Entries in favour of petitioner's predecessor, having originated in consolidation proceedings and continued in revenue records for decades, could not have been annulled summarily by an executive fiat – Such long-standing entries affecting substantive rights could not be expunged merely on the basis of an administrative report – If respondents were of the opinion that the entries had been procured fraudulently or that the land belonged to the Gaon Sabha, the proper course was to initiate appropriate proceedings before the competent forum in accordance with law and establish their claim by leading evidence.

C. Allegations of fraud are serious in nature and require adjudication on the basis of cogent evidence in proceedings conducted in accordance with law – Fraud cannot be presumed merely on the basis of administrative suspicion or absence of old records – Dispute relating to nature of land and entitlement of parties involving questions of title could not have been conclusively determined by the Sub-Divisional Officer in summary proceedings conducted without notice – Such issues necessarily require adjudication before the competent authority/forum after giving due opportunity to all concerned parties.

D. In the present case, no regular proceedings for correction of revenue entries were ever instituted against the petitioner – Neither any case number was assigned nor any notice was issued requiring the petitioner to show cause against the proposed deletion of her name – Impugned order dated 24.05.1997 passed merely on basis of ex parte report submitted by Tehsildar on the same date and mechanically approved by Sub-Divisional Officer without recording any independent satisfaction or reasons – Exercise of power having drastic civil consequences affecting valuable rights recorded in favour of petitioner for decades could not have been undertaken in such a summary and clandestine manner – Mere assertion that petitioner had knowledge of proceedings or had submitted certain applications would not satisfy mandatory requirement of lawful hearing – Impugned order suffered from manifest illegality, arbitrariness and violation of principles of natural justice – Action undertaken to circumvent due process of law and to achieve indirectly what could not be obtained before competent court – Impugned order dated 24.05.1997 quashed – Respondents/Gaon Sabha left open to avail such remedy as may be available under law before the competent forum. (Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Sri Mohd. Arif Khan, learned Senior Counsel assisted by Sri Mohd. Aslam Khan, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Shatrughan Chaudhary, learned Additional CSC for the respondent - State.

2. The present writ petition has been filed challenging the order dated 24.05.1997 passed by respondent No.1 - Sub Divisional Officer contained a s Annexure-5 to the writ petition.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the present writ petition arises out of the order dated 24.05.1997 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Colonelganj, District Gonda, whereby without issuing any notice to the petitioner, without affording any opportunity of hearing and without registering any case for correction of revenue records or directing the parties to seek remedy before the competent court, the name of the petitioner was illegally expunged from the revenue records and the land in dispute was ordered to be recorded in the name of the Gaon Sabha.

4. The petitioner's father Yadunath was recorded as bhumidhar over plot Nos. 1092, 1249, 1254, 1250, 1251 and 1258 (hereinafter referred to as the land in dispute) and he remained in continuous possession over the said plots during his lifetime.

5. After the death of the petitioner's father Yadunath, mutation was effected in favour of the petitioner being his daughter and the sole legal heir and accordingly the petitioner's name came to be recorded in the revenue records. Name of the petitioner is recorded as bhumidhar in the Khatauni of Fasli years 1402 to 1407, a photocopy whereof is annexed as Annexure No.2 to this writ petition.

6. During the lifetime of the petitioner's father he remained in possession over the land in dispute and after his death the petitioner continued in possession over the said land. The Gram Panchayat / Gaon Sabha, arrayed as opposite party No.3, has neither any title nor possession over the land in dispute.

7. During consolidation operations in village Ramapur, where the land in dispute is situated, the Consolidation Officer, Gonda vide order dated 28.03.1967 directed that the name of the petitioner's father be recorded over the land in dispute. A photocopy of the Amaldaramad order recording the name of the petitioner's father is annexed as Annexure No.3 to this writ petition.

8. The Gaon Sabha along with the State of U.P. instituted Regular Suit No.421 of 1997 before the Court of Civil Judge (Junior Division), Gonda and also moved an application for temporary injunction. The said application for injunction as well as the maintainability of the suit was opposed by the petitioner, who was arrayed as a defendant in the suit, and the learned trial court, after considering the matter, found that the suit before the civil court was not cognizable and therefore the application for injunction was rejected vide order dated 13.05.1997.

9. When the Gram Panchayat failed to get the petitioner's name deleted through lawful proceedings, it adopted an indirect method and obtained a report from the Tehsildar, Gonda dated 24.05.1997 and on the basis of the said report the Sub-Divisional Officer, Colonelganj passed the impugned order dated 24.05.1997 directing that the name of the petitioner be expunged from the revenue records and the land be recorded in the name of the Gaon Sabha. A true copy of the report of the Tehsildar along with the impugned order is annexed as Annexure No.5 to this writ petition.

10. The civil suit filed by the Gaon Sabha is still pending and the impugned order dated 24.05.1997 has been obtained by the Gaon Sabha during the pendency of the said proceedings. No show cause notice or opportunity of hearing was afforded to the petitioner before passing the impugned order and even the alleged enquiry conducted by the Tehsildar was made ex-parte, without giving any opportunity to the petitioner.

11. The petitioner subsequently approached the Collector, Gonda, seeking a directive for the issuance of certified copy of the order. While the Collector, Gonda, did direct the Sub-Divisional Officer to "do the needful," the petitioner claims that the copy has still not been provided. Hence, the present writ petition has been preferred before this Court.

12. Submission of learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is that the impugned order is wholly arbitrary, illegal and liable to be quashed as the same has been passed in gross violation of the principles of natural justice, inasmuch as no notice whatsoever was issued to the petitioner, nor any opportunity of hearing was afforded before passing the said order.

13. He further submitted that it is a settled proposition of law that no adverse order affecting civil rights of a person can be passed without affording an opportunity of hearing and the impugned order having been passed in complete breach of audi alteram partem is liable to be set aside on this ground alone.

14. He next submitted that the Sub-Divisional Officer has acted wholly without jurisdiction in directing expunction of the petitioner's name from the revenue records without initiating any proceedings in accordance with law, without registering any case for correction of revenue entries and without relegating the parties to a competent court of jurisdiction.

15. He submitted that the petitioner derives her title from her father, late Yadunath, who was admittedly recorded as bhumidhar over the land in dispute, namely plot Nos. 1092, 1249, 1254, 1250, 1251 and 1258, and remained in continuous possession thereof during his lifetime. After the death of the petitioner's father, the petitioner, being his sole legal heir and daughter, was duly mutated in the revenue records and her name has been recorded as bhumidhar in the Khatauni of Fasli years 1402 to 1407, thereby establishing her lawful title and possession over the land in dispute. The possession over the land in dispute has always remained with the petitioner's family; firstly with her father during his lifetime and thereafter with the petitioner and at no point of time has the Gaon Sabha ever been in possession or acquired any right, title or interest over the said land.

16. He submitted that during consolidation operations, the Consolidation Officer, Gonda, vide order dated 28.03.1967, had already adjudicated the rights of the parties and directed recording of the name of the petitioner's father over the land in dispute, which attained finality and continues to hold the field. The Gaon Sabha having failed to establish its claim through lawful means, instituted Regular Suit No.421 of 1997 before the Civil Judge (Junior Division), Gonda, which was opposed by the petitioner and the learned trial court, upon consideration, rejected the application for temporary injunction and also found that the suit was not cognizable by the civil court.

17. He submitted that during pendency of the said civil proceedings, the Gaon Sabha, in a mala fide and clandestine manner, procured a report from the Tehsildar dated 24.05.1997 and on the basis of the said ex-parte report, got the impugned order passed from the Sub-Divisional Officer on the very same date, thereby circumventing due process of law.

18. He next submitted that the alleged enquiry conducted by the Tehsildar was wholly ex-parte, without issuing any notice to the petitioner or affording her any opportunity to present her case, rendering the entire proceedings vitiated in law.

19. He submitted that the impugned order has been passed during the pendency of the civil suit and, therefore, the same is not only without jurisdiction but also amounts to interference with the judicial process, and is liable to be set aside on this ground as well.

20. He submitted that the action of the respondents is clearly arbitrary, mala fide and an abuse of process of law, undertaken with the sole intent to deprive the petitioner of her lawful rights over the land in dispute. The petitioner has further been prejudiced by the fact that despite approaching the Collector, Gonda for obtaining a certified copy of the impugned order, the same has not been supplied to her, thereby depriving her of an effective opportunity to seek appropriate legal remedies. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, the impugned order dated 24.05.1997 is unsustainable in the eyes of law and is liable to be quashed by this Hon'ble Court in exercise of its extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. In support of his submissions, he placed reliance in the case of Gopal Das Jain Vs. Board of Revenue reported in Neutral Citation No.2525: : AHC-LKO; 38961.

21. On the other hand, learned Additional CSC submitted that the basis of the petitioner's writ and the relief sought is absolutely baseless and fabricated. The petitioner has approached this Hon'ble Court with unclean hands, concealing the fact that the entries in the revenue records were obtained through a fraudulent process. Consequently, the writ petition is liable to be dismissed at the threshold.

22. He next submitted that the entry of the order of the Consolidation Officer dated 28.03.1967 (Case No. 2873/218/173) was made in the Mutation Register (R-6) of Tehsil Gonda on 20.08.1985. This execution was carried out after an unexplained delay of 18 years. Investigation reveals that no such file or record exists in the District Record Room, as confirmed by reports dated 05.05.1997 and 06.05.1997. The entry was obtained without relevant records by colluding with department employees.

23. He further submitted that the execution of the Parwana Amaldaramad (Warrant for Entry) was contrary to the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Rules, 1954. Under Rule 109, the execution of an order must be carried out by the Assistant Consolidation Officer (A.C.O.) himself after due inspection and coming to the Tehsil. In the present case, no such procedure was followed, rendering the entry legally unsustainable and void ab initio.

24. He submitted that the disputed property, specifically Gata (plot) nos. 1092, 2449, 2254, 1250, 1251, and 1258, belongs to the Gram Sabha/Gram Samaj. These plots include areas recorded as "Banjar", "Pond/Talab", and a "Pathway". Under the law, no individual-including the petitioner or their father, Yadunath-can have legal possession or accrue any rights over such public utility land.

25. He submitted that the petitioner has attempted to deceive this Hon'ble Court by submitting a tampered photocopy of the execution order. It is submitted that the photocopy was prepared by taking the original document and pasting paper over a scribbled note on the lower right portion to hide adverse remarks. This constitutes direct evidence of forgery and a deliberate attempt to mislead the judicial process.

26. His submission is that based on complaints filed by a villager (Jaganmani) and the Gram Pradhan, a thorough inquiry was conducted. Legal opinion was obtained from the District Government Counsel (Civil) and the Sub-Divisional Officer (SDO), Colonelganj, passed the cancellation order on 24.05.1997. This order was issued only after due examination of evidence and recorded statements, ensuring the integrity of the revenue records.

27. He submitted that the petitioner's claim regarding the lack of notice is misleading. The petitioner had full knowledge of the investigation and submitted multiple objection letters and applications (dated 05.05.1997 to 24.05.1997) during the process. Furthermore, as per settled law (Ref: A.W.C. [1992] Revenue Pg 58 and Chandra Dutt vs. State), a fraudulent entry can be cancelled suo motu by the competent authority without the necessity of a formal hearing for the party benefiting from the fraud.

28. It is further submitted that the provisions of Section 33/39 of the Land Revenue Act, 1901, as cited by the petitioner, are inapplicable here. Those provisions relate only to the correction of minor errors or omissions in annual registers, whereas the present case involves a deep-rooted fraud and forgery affecting the title of Gram Sabha land. Therefore, his submission is that the impugned order does not suffer from any infirmity or illegality and is just and valid.

29. In rebuttal, learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner submitted that the respondent's challenge to the petitioner's title is barred by the principle of finality of judicial proceedings. The land in question was recorded in the name of the petitioner′s father, Yadunath, pursuant to a valid order dated 28.03.1967 passed by the Consolidation Officer in Case No. 2873/218/173 under Section 9-A (2) of the U.P. Consolidation of Holdings Act. This order was duly given effect in the revenue records under Rule 109-A of the Act. The respondent′s attempt to characterize this as a "suit" is factually incorrect as it was a registered case that has attained finality.

30. He further submitted that the order dated 04.05.1997, which cancelled the long-standing revenue entries in the name of the petitioner′s mother, Smt. Mayawati, is legally unsustainable as the entry was cancelled without affording the recorded tenure holder an opportunity of hearing or to lead evidence.

31. He next submitted that the Sub-Divisional Officer (SDO) passed a "cryptic order" by merely writing "Approved" on an ex-parte report submitted by the Tehsildar. Such a summary cancellation of a long-standing entry, based on a "legal opinion" from a District Government Counsel (Civil) rather than the DGC (Revenue), is without jurisdiction and contrary to the law laid down by this Hon′ble Court.

32. He further submitted that the respondents' claim that the entries were "forged and fictitious" is a bald allegation unsupported by record. He submitted that the original records (Case No. 2873/218/173) were weeded out after the requisite period, as evidenced by the question-answer submitted as Annexure SA-1. The petitioner has produced secondary evidence, including entries in Qaida 24, Volume No. 5, Page 174, Sl. No. 38 (Annexure S-3), which confirms the existence of the 1967 order.

33. He submitted that the respondents are estopped from claiming the land as "Gram Sabha" land due to previous failed litigations as a Civil Suit filed by the Gaon Sabha (Opposite Party No. 3) regarding this dispute was dismissed. The Gaon Sabha's application for stay (dated 13.05.1997) was rejected and the subsequent appeal was also dismissed by the Special Judge, Gonda on 29.11.1997. The respondents cannot now seek to achieve through a summary administrative order what they failed to achieve through a competent Civil Court.

34. He lastly submitted that the petitioner's title stems from a valid, decades-old consolidation order. The subsequent administrative action in 1997 to cancel these entries is a "misconceived" exercise of power, conducted in gross violation of the principles of natural justice and in defiance of the dismissal of the Gaon Sabha's own civil suit.

35. I have considered the submissions advanced by learned counsel for the parties and perused the material on record as well as judgment relied upon by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner.

36. To resolve the controversy involved in the matter, relevant portion of the judgment relied upon by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner is being quoted below:

"21. The order impugned has been passed without providing opportunity of hearing to the petitioner by the respondent No.1 and without issuing show cause notice to him. Respondent No.1 cannot expunge name of the petitioner from khatauni without registering a case for correction of records under Sections 33 & 39 of Land Revenue Act.

25. Hon'ble Supreme Court has followed the doctrine of principles of natural justice in the case reported in paragraph 19 of the judgment. The fact remains that without giving opportunity of hearing the order has been passed, therefore, there is clear violation of principles of natural justice, therefore, the orders impugned are liable to be set aside."

37. From perusal of the record, it transpires that the name of the petitioner's father, late Yadunath, had been recorded over the land in dispute pursuant to the order dated 28.03.1967 passed by the Consolidation Officer during consolidation proceedings and, after his death, the petitioner, being his daughter and sole legal heir, came to be recorded in the revenue records. The Khatauni of Fasli years 1402 to 1407 also reflects the petitioner's name as bhumidhar over the plots in question. The said entries admittedly continued for a considerable period and formed the basis of the petitioner's claim and possession over the land in dispute.

38. It further emerges from the record that the Gaon Sabha had already instituted Regular Suit No.421 of 1997 in respect of the same dispute before the competent civil court and the application for temporary injunction moved therein had been rejected on 13.05.1997. Thus, the dispute relating to the nature of the land and entitlement of the parties was already engaging consideration before a competent forum. During pendency of the said proceedings, the impugned order dated 24.05.1997 came to be passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer directing expunction of the petitioner's name from the revenue records and recording the land in the name of the Gaon Sabha.

39. The foremost issue which arises for consideration before this Court is as to whether the Sub-Divisional Officer could have directed deletion of the petitioner's name from the revenue records without initiating any regular proceedings under the relevant provisions of law and without affording any opportunity of hearing to the petitioner.

40. The record does not disclose that any regular proceedings for correction of revenue entries were ever instituted against the petitioner. Neither any case number was assigned nor any notice was issued requiring the petitioner to show cause against the proposed deletion of her name. The impugned order appears to have been passed merely on the basis of an ex-parte report submitted by the Tehsildar on the same date i.e. 24.05.1997 and the Sub-Divisional Officer mechanically approved the same without recording any independent satisfaction or reasons. Such exercise of power, which has drastic civil consequences affecting valuable rights recorded in favour of the petitioner for decades, could not have been undertaken in such a summary and clandestine manner.

41. It is well settled that any order adversely affecting civil rights of a person must conform to the principles of natural justice. Even in cases where allegations of irregularity or fraud are levelled, the person whose rights are sought to be affected is entitled to notice and opportunity of hearing before any adverse action is taken. The doctrine of audi alteram partem is ingrained in our constitutional and administrative jurisprudence and cannot be dispensed with in a casual manner.

42. In the present case, the respondents have failed to place any material before this Court demonstrating issuance of notice to the petitioner or affording her opportunity to participate in the alleged enquiry conducted by the Tehsildar. Mere assertion that the petitioner had knowledge of the proceedings or had submitted certain applications would not satisfy the mandatory requirement of a lawful hearing contemplated under law. The impugned order, therefore, stands vitiated on account of gross violation of principles of natural justice.

43. This Court finds that the controversy involved in the present matter is squarely covered by the judgment relied upon by learned Senior Counsel for the petitioner in the case of Gopal Das Jain Vs. Board of Revenue (Supra), wherein this Court categorically held that the revenue authorities cannot expunge the name of a recorded tenure holder from the revenue records without registering appropriate proceedings under Sections 33 and 39 of the Land Revenue Act and without providing opportunity of hearing to the affected person. The relevant observations extracted hereinabove clearly support the case of the petitioner. The ratio laid down therein fully applies to the facts of the present case, inasmuch as the petitioner′s name has been deleted from the revenue records behind her back without any regular proceedings and without affording any opportunity of hearing.

44. The submission advanced on behalf of the respondents that the entries were obtained fraudulently and, therefore, could be cancelled suo motu without hearing the petitioner, does not impress this Court. Allegations of fraud are serious in nature and require adjudication on the basis of cogent evidence in proceedings conducted in accordance with law. Fraud cannot be presumed merely on the basis of administrative suspicion or absence of old records from the record room, particularly when the petitioner has produced supporting revenue entries and secondary evidence indicating existence of the consolidation order.

45. Moreover, the respondents themselves admit that the entries in favour of the petitioner′s predecessor had continued in the revenue records for a long duration. Such long-standing entries affecting substantive rights could not have been annulled summarily by an executive fiat. If the respondents were of the opinion that the entries had been procured fraudulently or that the land belonged to the Gaon Sabha, the proper course available to them was to initiate appropriate proceedings before the competent forum in accordance with law and establish their claim by leading evidence.

46. The contention of learned Additional CSC that the land in dispute is recorded as pond, banjar or pathway and, therefore, no rights could accrue in favour of the petitioner also involves disputed questions relating to title and nature of land, which could not have been conclusively determined by the Sub-Divisional Officer in summary proceedings conducted without notice. Such issues necessarily require adjudication before the competent authority/forum after giving due opportunity to all concerned parties.

47. Equally untenable is the submission that the provisions relating to correction of revenue records were inapplicable in the present matter. Once the petitioner′s name stood recorded in the revenue records and the same was sought to be deleted, the authority was bound to proceed strictly in accordance with the prescribed statutory procedure. The respondents could not bypass the requirement of lawful proceedings by merely branding the entry as fraudulent.

48. This Court also cannot lose sight of the fact that the impugned order came to be passed during pendency of litigation initiated by the Gaon Sabha itself regarding the same property. The sequence of events, namely rejection of the injunction application on 13.05.1997 followed by the Tehsildar′s report and the impugned order dated 24.05.1997, lends credence to the petitioner′s contention that the impugned action was undertaken to circumvent due process of law and to achieve indirectly what could not be obtained before the competent court.

49. The judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the respondents relating to cancellation of fraudulent entries without hearing are clearly distinguishable on facts. In the present case, the entry in favour of the petitioner traces its origin to consolidation proceedings and remained in existence for decades. No categorical adjudication of fraud has ever been made by any competent court or authority after affording opportunity to the petitioner. Thus, the respondents cannot derive any benefit from the said judgments in absence of a duly established finding of fraud recorded in proceedings conducted in accordance with law.

50. This Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned order dated 24.05.1997 passed by the Sub-Divisional Officer, Colonelganj, District Gonda suffers from manifest illegality, arbitrariness and violation of principles of natural justice. The same has been passed without jurisdiction, without instituting any regular proceedings, without issuance of notice and without affording opportunity of hearing to the petitioner. The order further reflects complete non-application of mind, having been passed merely on the basis of an ex-parte report submitted by the Tehsildar.

51. Accordingly, the writ petition deserves to be allowed and is hereby allowed.

52. The impugned order dated 24.05.1997 passed by respondent No.1 - Sub-Divisional Officer, Colonelganj, District Gonda, contained as Annexure-5 to the writ petition, is hereby quashed.

53. It is, however, made clear that this Court has not adjudicated upon the inter se title of the parties over the land in dispute and it shall remain open to the respondents/Gaon Sabha to avail such remedy as may be available to them under law before the competent forum. In the event any proceedings are initiated, the same shall be decided strictly in accordance with law after affording full opportunity of hearing to all concerned parties, without being influenced by any observation made hereinabove.

54. There shall be no order as to costs.

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE IRSHAD ALI, J.

Writ C No. 1005596 of 2012

Rajesh Kumar Singh ...Petitioner
Versus
Commissioner Lucknow & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether mere pendency of criminal proceedings could constitute a ground for cancellation of an arms licence u/s.17(3) of the Arms Act, 1959; and whether the licensing and appellate authorities had recorded the requisite satisfaction that continuance of the licence was prejudicial to public peace or public safety or that the petitioner had misused the licensed weapon or violated any condition of the licence.

Headnotes

Arms Act, 1959 – s.17(3) – Cancellation of arms licence – Petitioner holding DBBL arms licence – Complaint made against petitioner – Show cause notice issued on ground of pendency of three criminal cases – Arms licence cancelled by licensing authority – Appeal dismissed ex parte – Review also rejected – Challenge thereto – Mere pendency of criminal cases – Whether sufficient ground for cancellation of arms licence.

Held: Mere pendency of criminal case cannot by itself be a ground for cancellation of fire arm's licence – Licensing authority cancelled licence solely on account of pendency of criminal cases and on basis of police report – No independent satisfaction recorded that continuance of arms licence was prejudicial to public peace or public safety – No finding that petitioner had ever misused licensed weapon or violated any condition of licence – Appellate authority mechanically affirmed order without recording independent reasons – Mandatory requirement of recording satisfaction about existence of circumstances affecting public peace and public safety clearly missing – "Public peace" or "public safety" u/s.17(3)(b) does not mean a simple law and order issue involving a few persons, but refers to a situation affecting public or society at large – In one criminal case petitioner already acquitted, in another final report submitted and in remaining case petitioner enlarged on bail – No allegation that petitioner had misused licensed firearm or that possession thereof endangered public peace or safety – Impugned orders passed mechanically and without due application of mind to statutory requirements – Impugned orders dated 22.12.2003 and 25.11.2008 quashed – Matter remitted to licensing authority for fresh consideration in accordance with law after affording due opportunity of hearing – Mere pendency of criminal proceedings, in absence of cogent material demonstrating threat to public peace or public safety or misuse of licensed weapon, shall not by itself constitute ground for revocation of arms licence. Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Petitioner: Upendra Singh, Vinay Misra
Advs. for the Respondents: C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Irshad Ali, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Vinay Mishra, learned counsel for the petitioner learned Standing Counsel for the State-respondent.

2. By means of the present writ petition, the petitioner is challenging the orders dated 22.12.2003 (Annexure-1) and 25.11.2008 (Annexure-2). Further prayer has been made to issue direction to the respondents not to revoke the D.B.B.L. license of the petitioner due to mere pendency of a criminal case against the petitioner.

3. Factual matrix of the case is that the petitioner was issued Arms License No.5626/1998 bearing DBBL Gun No.99/73. One Neelam Srivastava, the then Gram Pradhan of Village Paharpur, P.S. Banthara, District Lucknow, due to some enmity, moved a complaint dated 19.7.2001 against the petitioner to the District Magistrate, Lucknow. The District Magistrate issued a show cause notice dated 5.9.2001 to the petitioner for suspending the said arms license of DBBL gun on the premise of pendency of three criminal cases being (i) Case Crime No.56/98 under Sections 147, 148, 149, 307/302 IPC, (ii) Case Crime No.147/93 under Section 3/25 of Arms Act and (iii) Case Crime No.8/2001 under Section 364 IPC.

4. Thereafter, the petitioner replied to the show cause notice and engaged a counsel to represent him on the dates fixed but the counsel failed to put in appearance and consequently, the arms license of the petitioner was cancelled vide order dated 22.12.2003.

5. Feeling aggrieved, the petitioner filed an appeal before the respondent No.1 against the order dated 22.12.2003, which has also been dismissed ex parte vide order dated 25.11.2008. The petitioner upon coming to know about the dismissal of the appeal, filed a review application and the same was also rejected vide order dated 25.7.2012.

6. Submission of learned counsel for the petitioner is that the the licensing authority who once granted the arms license cannot cancel the same casually and mechanically under Clause-A of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act, the license can be cancelled if the licensing authority is satisfied that the holder of the license is prohibited by any other law for the time being in force, for acquiring/ having in his possession or carrying any arms or ammunition, or is of unsound mind, or is for any reason, unfit for a license under this Act. He submits that Clause-b provides that if the licensing authority deems it necessary for the security of the public peace or for public safety to revoke the license only then the license can be revoked. It is submitted that in the present case, the respondents have failed to record their satisfaction to the effect that the revocation of the petitioner's arms license is necessary for the security of the public peace and public safety.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner stated that public peace and safety does not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order because public safety means safety of public at large. In the present case, the respondent Nos.1 and 2 failed to consider this mandatory provision because mere pendency of criminal case cannot be a ground for cancellation of arms license and more so when there was no allegation to the effect that the fire arm which was registered on the arms license of the petitioner was subjected to any kind of misuse.

8. Learned counsel for the petitioner submits that the arms license of the petitioner was cancelled on the premise of pendency of three criminal cases (mentioned in paragraph-3 above). He submits that in Case Crime No.56/98, the petitioner has been enlarged on bail, in Case Crime No.147/93, the petitioner was acquitted by the court below and in Case Crime No.8/2001, the Police had already filed a final report.

9. It is further submitted that in the counter affidavit, a stand was taken that on the basis of police report and due to pendency of criminal cases against the petitioner, the arms license of the petitioner was cancelled and the same is fully justifiable. He submits that in the rejoinder affidavit, the petitioner has strongly refuted the stand taken in the counter affidavit. He further took a stand in the rejoinder affidavit that there is no categorical finding to the effect that the petitioner misused the fire arm/ weapon and thereby violated the conditions of the license.

10. In support of the submissions advanced, he placed reliance upon the following judgments :-

(i) Chhote Lal Vs. State of U.P. and others (Miscellaneous Single No.6011 of 2013)

(ii) Krishna Pratap Singh Vs. State of U.P. and others (Writ-C No.22561 of 2016)

11. On the other hand, learned Standing Counsel submits that if the licensing authority is satisfied that it is necessary for security of public peace and safety to suspend or revoke the arms license then the authority is competent to do the same. It is further submitted that on the basis of police report and due to pendency of criminal cases against the petitioner, the arms license of the petitioner was cancelled.

12. After having heard the rival submissions of learned counsel for the parties, I perused the material on record.

13. To resolve the controversy, relevant paragraphs of the judgment in the case of Chhote Lal (Supra) are being quoted hereunder :-

"Perusal of the record further reveals that on account of pendency of criminal cases the District Magistrate came to the conclusion that the petitioner is a person of criminal nature and is involved in criminal activities. However, mere involvement in a criminal case cannot, in any way, affect the public security or public interest.

In the case of Rama Kushwaha vs. State of U.P. & others , reported in 2011(29) LCD 1045 it has been held that a license cannot be refused/ suspended/ cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order. The relevant paras of the aforesaid judgment are being reproduced herein under:-

8.Relying upon Ganesh Chandra Bhatt Vs. District Magistrate Almora; AIR 1993 All. 291, learned Counsel for the petitioner submits that this Court has held in clear words that a licence can not be refused/suspended/cancelled merely because there is an ordinary breach of law and order.

9.'Public peace' or 'public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order, public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17(3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case.

10. In Ram Murli Madhukar Vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998(16) LCD 905], this Court has held that licence can not be suspended or revoked on the ground of public interest (Janhit).

11.It is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of license under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti & others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783, Ram Sanehi Vs. Commissioner, Devi Patan Division, Gonda & another.

Further, in the case of Hiramani Singh vs. State of U.P. & others, reported in 2011(29)LCD 829 it has been held that mere pendency of criminal case cannot be a ground for cancellation of fire arm license. The relevant para 8 reads as under:

8. This Court in the case of Ashok Rao vs. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2010 (68) accused applicants. 441 while considering the authority to be exercised under section 17 of the Indian Arms Act has taken the view that mere pendency of criminal case cannot be ground for cancellation of fire arm license unless and until finding is returned by the authority concerned that possession of fire arm has the tendency of threatening public peace and public safety.

In the case of Rajendra Singh vs. Commissioner, Lucknow Division, Lucknow and others, reported in 2011 (29) LCD 1041 'Public Peace' or 'Public Safety' has been defined. The relevant paras 6 & 7 read as under:

6. 'Public peace' or 'public safety' do not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only. Before passing of the order in exercise of power conferred under Section 17(3) of the Act the Licensing Authority is under an obligation to apply his mind to the question as to whether there was eminent danger to public peace and safety involved in the case.

7.It is well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of arms act are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 (3) of the Act. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this Court Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti & others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision of Masiuddin Vs. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest. The law propounded in the said decisions has been subsequently followed in Habib Vs. State of U.P. reported in 2002 ACC 783.

In view of the above, Writ Petition is allowed. The impugned orders dated 16.08.2013 passed by opposite party no.2 and the order dated 16.11.2012 passed by opposite party no.3, contained as Annexure Nos. 1 and 2 respectively to this writ petition, are hereby quashed. The matter is remanded back to the District Magistrate, Hardoi, to re-examine the issue and take a decision in accordance with law, within a period of three months, from the date of receipt of certified copy of this order."

14. Relevant paragraphs of the judgment in the case of Krishna Pratap Singh (Supra) are being quoted below :-

"6. In support of his submission, learned counsel for the petitioner has placed reliance on the judgments passed by this Court in the cases of Ram Murti Madhukar vs. District Magistrate, Sitapur [1998 (16) LCD-905] and Ram Prasad vs. Commissioner and Ors. decided on 07.02.2020 in Writ-C No. 56378 of 2006, wherein it has been held that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of misuse of arms are not sufficient grounds for passing the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 of the Act.

7. In Ram Murti Madhukar (supra), this Court has held in paragraph no. 8, is quoted as under :-

"(8) It is also well settled in law that mere pendency of criminal case or apprehension of abuse of Arms Act, are not sufficient ground for passing of the order of suspension or revocation of licence under Section 17 of the Act. A reference in this regard may be made to the decisions of this Court in Ganesh Chandra Bhatt v. D. M. Almora, AIR 1993 All 291"

8. This Court in the case of Ram Prasad (supra) has held as under. Relevant paragraphs of the said judgments i.e. 16, 22, 24, 32 and 36 are being quoted hereunder:-

"16. The matter which requires consideration is, whether on the ground of pendency of the criminal case the petitioner's fire arm licence could be cancelled and his appeal could be dismissed, notwithstanding his acquittal on 17.1.2003. It also requires consideration if the ground in the impugned orders that if the petitioner's fire arm licence remain with the petitioner, it would not be in the public interest and public security, are justified for cancellation and based on substantial material."

22. In Chhanga Prasad Sahu Vs. State of U.P. and others reported in 1984 AWC 145 (FB), after noticing the provisions of Section 17 (3) of the Arms Act the Full Bench in paragraph 5 held as follows:

"A perusal of abovementioned provisions indicates that the licensing authority has been given the power to suspend or revoe an arms licence only if any of the conditions mentioned in sub-clauses (a) to (e) of sub-section (3) of Section 17 of Act exists." sub section (5) of Section 17 makes it obligatory upon the licensing authority to, while passing the order revoking/suspending an arms licence, record in writing the reasons therefore and to, on demand, furnish a brief statement thereof to the holder of the license unless it considers that it will not be in the public interest to do so."

In paragraph-9 it has been emphasised as under:-

"it is true that in order to revoke/suspend an arms licence, the licensing authority has necessarily to come to the conclusion that the facts justifying revocation/suspension of licence mentioned in grounds (a) to (e) of section 17 exist"

24. In Habib v. State of U.P. and others [2002 (44) ACC 783] this Court held that mere involvement in a criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking licence of fire arm was not justified. Paragraph 3 of this judgment reads as under:

"3. The question as to whether mere involvement in a criminal case or pendency of a criminal case can be a ground for revocation of the licence under Arms Act, has been dealt with by a Division Bench of this court reported in Sheo Prasad Misra Vs. The District Magistrate, Basti and others, wherein the Division Bench relying upon the earlier decision reported in Masi Uddin v. Commissioner, Allahabad, found that mere involvement in criminal case cannot in any way affect the public security or public interest and the order cancelling or revoking the licence of fire arm has been set aside."

32. In Ghanshyam Gupta v. State of U.P. and others [2016 (34) LCD 3035] this Court has again held that the necessary ingredients to invoke jurisdiction of the licencing authority in terms of Section 17 were clearly lacking and no finding had been returned on the basis of materials produced in that regard by the licencing authority, which must justify passing of the order of cancellation. Paragraph 9 of the said judgment is being quoted as under:

"9. In a recent decision of Lucknow Bench of this court in Surya Narain Mishra v. State of U.P. and others, reported in 2015 (7) ADJ 510, similar view has been taken by this Court relying upon subsequent decisions. Para-14 of the judgment is reproduced:

"14. In the case of Raj Kumar Verma v. State of U.P., 2013 (80) ACC 231 this court in paragraph No.3 held as under:-

"The ground for issue of show-cause notice, suspension and ultimately cancellation of the licence is that one and precisely one criminal case was registered against the petitioner. The District Magistrate has also held that the petitioner has been enlarged on bail. He has gone further to observe that if the licence remained intact, the petitioner, may disturb public peace and tranquility. The same findings have been given by the Commissioner, Unmindful of the fact that this Court is repeating the law of the land, but the deaf ears of the administrative officers do not ready to succumb the law of the land. The settled law is that mere involvement in a criminal case without any finding that involvement in such criminal case shall be detrimental to public peace and tranqulity shall not create the ground for the cancellation of Armed Licence. In Ram Suchi v. Commissioner, Devipatan Division reported in 2004 (22) LCD 1643, it was held that this law was relied upon in Balram Singh Vs. Satate of U.P. 2006 (24) LCD 1359. Mere apprehension without substance is simply an opinion which has no legs to stand. Personal whims are not allowed to be reflected while acting as a public servant.

36. In the present case the petitioner's licence was cancelled by the District Magistrate on the ground of pendency of criminal case against him. The petitioner was later on acquitted of the criminal case by order dated 17.1.2003. A perusal of the order of acquittal does not show the use of fire arm. After acquittal the very basis of the order of cancellation vanished. The finding of the District Magistrate as affirmed by the Commissioner, that it was not in the interest of public peace and the public security that the licence remained with the petitioner/licencee, is not based on any evidence/material, except the police reports which in their turn were in view of the pendency of the criminal case against the petitioner. On mere apprehension expressed in the impugned orders that the petitioner would misuse the fire arm and would extend threat to the persons of the weaker section of the society, the arm licence could not be cancelled.

11. Public peace or public safety does not mean ordinary disturbance of law and order, public safety means safety of the public at large and not safety of few persons only and before passing of the order of cancellation of arm license as per Section 17 (3) of the Act, 1959, the licensing authority is under an obligation to apply his mind which is not present in the instant case."

15. The first question which arises for consideration before this Court is as to whether mere pendency of criminal case can be a ground for the respondents to cancel the arms license of the petitioner under the provisions of Arms Act ? A consistent view of this Court has been that merely on account of pendency of a criminal case fire arm's license cannot be cancelled.

16. The second aspect which requires consideration is whether the impugned orders satisfy the statutory mandate contained under Section 17(3) of the Arms Act. A perusal of the order dated 22.12.2003 passed by the licensing authority reveals that the arms licence of the petitioner has been cancelled solely on account of pendency of criminal cases and on the basis of police report. No independent satisfaction has been recorded by the licensing authority that continuance of the arms licence with the petitioner was prejudicial to public peace or public safety, nor any finding has been returned that the petitioner had ever misused the licensed weapon or violated any condition of the licence.

17. The appellate authority, while dismissing the appeal vide order dated 25.11.2008, has also failed to advert to the essential ingredients required under Section 17(3) of the Act and has mechanically affirmed the order passed by the licensing authority without recording any independent reasons. The mandatory requirement of recording satisfaction about the existence of circumstances affecting public peace and public safety, which is necessary before cancelling the licence, is clearly missing in both the impugned orders.

18. It is well settled that the term “public peace” or “public safety” under Section 17(3)(b) of the Arms Act does not mean a simple law and order issue involving a few persons, but refers to a situation affecting the public or society at large. Mere pendency of criminal cases, without any material showing misuse of the licensed weapon or any immediate threat to public peace and safety, by itself cannot be a valid ground for cancellation of an arms licence.

19. The judgments relied upon by learned counsel for the petitioner, in Chhote Lal and Krishna Pratap Singh (Supra), reiterate the settled proposition that cancellation of arms licence cannot rest merely upon pendency of criminal proceedings or a bald apprehension of misuse.

20. In the present case, it is not disputed that in one criminal case the petitioner has already been acquitted, in another final report has been submitted and in the remaining case the petitioner has been enlarged on bail. More importantly, there is no allegation either in the impugned orders or in the counter affidavit that the petitioner ever misused the licensed firearm or that possession thereof by the petitioner endangered public peace or safety. The impugned orders, therefore, appear to have been passed mechanically and without due application of mind to the statutory requirements.

21. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances of the case and the law laid down by this Court in the judgments referred to above, this Court is of the considered opinion that the impugned orders dated 22.12.2003 and 25.11.2008 cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

22. Accordingly, the writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned orders dated 22.12.2003 passed by the licensing authority and 25.11.2008 passed by the appellate authority are hereby quashed.

23. The matter is remitted to the licensing authority to reconsider the issue afresh strictly in accordance with law, after affording due opportunity of hearing to the petitioner and keeping in view the observations made hereinabove, expeditiously, preferably within a period of three months from the date of production of a certified copy of this order.

24. It is made clear that mere pendency of criminal proceedings, in absence of any cogent material demonstrating threat to public peace or public safety or misuse of the licensed weapon, shall not by itself constitute a ground for revocation of the arms licence.

25. There shall be no order as to costs.

ISSUE FOR CONSIDERATION

Whether a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution can be entertained to challenge a GST assessment order and show cause notice after expiry of the statutory limitation period prescribed under Section 107 of the GST Act, 2017.

HEADNOTES

Tax Law – Constitution of India - Article 226 – Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 – Section 74, 107, - Limitation Act, 1963 – Section 5, 14: - Writ Petition under Article 226 - filed against assessment order and show cause notice - seeking quashing thereof and prohibition against coercive action - Petitioner had replied to SCN and was heard - earlier writ filed in Jan 2026 was withdrawn – statutory appeal under Section 107 GST Act not filed within limitation - Legal question - whether writ jurisdiction can be invoked to bypass limitation - Petitioner pleaded lack of jurisdiction and violation of Section 74 GST Act - Respondents objected citing delay and availability of remedy - Court finds that, no jurisdictional error or violation of natural justice - writ cannot be used to circumvent statutory appellate procedure – law does not help and/or come in rescue to a person, who sleep over his own rights - writ jurisdiction can certainly not be exercised when invoked to undermine or defeat the application of a statutory regime so as to render the provision of limitation provided in the statute otiose – quando aliquid prohibetur ex directo, prohibetur et per obliquum (One cannot do indirectly what cannot be done directly) - Held, entertaining writ petition would amount to allowing the petitioner to circumvent the statutory appellate procedure – accordingly, writ petition dismissed, with liberty to file appeal in accordance with law.

CASE ARISING FROM

Impugned Assessment Order dated 04.06.2025 and Show Cause Notice dated 17.03.2025 issued by UP GST Department.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Apoorv Dev, Prashant Kumar Singh.
Counsel for Respondent(s): C.S.C.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shekhar B. Saraf, J.
Hon'ble Abdhesh Kumar Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties.

2. This is a writ petition under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, wherein the writ petitioner has sought for the following substantial reliefs:-

" I. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the Impugned Assessment Order dated 04.06.2025 (ANNEXURE-1) passed by the Respondent No. 3, having been passed without jurisdiction;

II. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of certiorari quashing the Impugned Notice dated 17.03.2025 (ANNEXURE-2) having been passed/issued without jurisdiction.

III. Issue a writ, order or direction in the nature of prohibition restraining Respondents and/or officers of the UP GST department from taking any coercive action against the Petitioner, in any manner, in respect of the Impugned Order dated 04.06.2025(ANNEXURE-1)."

3. After hearing learned counsel appearing on behalf of the parties and upon perusal of the records, we are of the view that since the petitioner had filed a reply to the show cause notice dated 17.03.2025 and pursuant to the said reply was also granted an opportunity of hearing, therefore, there is no question of any interference by this Writ Court under Article 226 of the Constitution of India, as apparently neither any jurisdictional error nor violation of principles of natural justice has been substantiated by the learned counsel for the petitioner.

4. Further more, it is to be seen that the petitioner has come too late in the day before the Writ Court, as the show cause notice and the subsequent assessment order has been passed almost a year ago on 04.06.2025.

5. It is further seen that the petitioner had earlier filed a writ petition in January, 2026, which was also beyond time, wherein the writ petition was dismissed as withdrawn with liberty to file a fresh petition on the self same cause of action with better particulars. It is clear that the Court did not go into the merits of the case and/or the question of limitation in the first round of litigation.

6. We are rather surprised and are unable to countenance as to how can the petitioner file the present writ petition at this belated stage, merely to bypass the limitation prescribed for filing a statutory appeal under Section 107(1) of the GST Act. It is to be noted that the said Act provides for filing an Appeal within three months of communication of order sought to be challenged, with a further window of one month as per Section 107(4) of the Act, in case sufficient cause is shown to the satisfaction of the authority. We need not burden this order by the settled law that the prescribed limitation is to be strictly followed in Tax Laws, suffice to say that the Hon'ble Supreme Court in several judgments including the judgment in Singh Enterprises v. C.C.E., Jamshedpur, (2008) 221 ELT 163 (S.C.) has held that under Section 35 of the Central Excise Act, the delay cannot be condoned beyond what is prescribed under the Central Excise Act as the language of the said section specifically provides for condonation of delay of additional 30 days only. Section 85 of the Act is in pari materia with the above section. One may examine the Supreme Court judgment in Singh Enterprise's (supra) wherein the Supreme Court held as follows:-

"8. The Commissioner of Central Excise (Appeals) as also the Tribunal being creatures of statute are not vested with jurisdiction to condone the delay beyond the permissible period provided under the statute. The period up to which the prayer for condonation can be accepted is statutorily provided. It was submitted that the logic of Section 5 of the Limitation Act, 1963 (in short 'the Limitation Act') can be availed for condonation of delay. The first proviso to Section 35 makes the position clear that the appeal has to be preferred within three months from the date of communication to him of the decision or order. However, if the Commissioner is satisfied that the appellant was prevented by sufficient cause from presenting the appeal within the aforesaid period of 60 days, he can allow it to be presented within a further period of 30 days. In other words, this clearly shows that the appeal has to be filed within 60 days but in terms of the proviso further 30 days' time can be granted by the appellate authority to entertain the appeal. The proviso to sub-section (1) of Section 35 makes the position crystal clear that the appellate authority has no power to allow the appeal to be presented beyond the period of 30 days. The language used makes the position clear that the legislature intended the appellate authority to entertain the appeal by condoning delay only up to 30 days after the expiry of 60 days which is the normal period for preferring appeal. Therefore, there is complete exclusion of Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The Commissioner and the High Court were therefore justified in holding that there was no power to condone the delay after the expiry of 30 days' period."

7. Furthermore, in Commissioner of Customs and Central Excise v. Hongo India Private Limited, (2009) 5 SCC 791, the Supreme Court has held as under:-

"31. In this regard, it is useful to refer to a recent decision of this Court in Punjab Fibres Ltd. [(2008) 3 SCC 73] The Commissioner of Customs, Central Excise, Noida was the appellant in this case. While considering the very same question, namely, whether the High Court has power to condone the delay in presentation of the reference under Section 35-H(1) of the Act, the two-Judge Bench taking note of the said provision and the other related provisions following Singh Enterprises v. CCE [(2008) 3 SCC 70] concluded that: (Punjab Fibres Ltd. case [(2008) 3 SCC 73], SCC p. 75, para 8)

"8….. the High Court was justified in holding that there was no power for condonation of delay in filing reference application.?

32. As pointed out earlier, the language used in Sections 35, 35-B, 35-EE, 35-G and 35-H makes the position clear that an appeal and reference to the High Court should be made within 180 days only from the date of communication of the decision or order. In other words, the language used in other provisions makes the position clear that the legislature intended the appellate authority to entertain the appeal by condoning the delay only up to 30 days after expiry of 60 days which is the preliminary limitation period for preferring an appeal. In the absence of any clause condoning the delay by showing sufficient cause after the prescribed period, there is complete exclusion of Section 5 of the Limitation Act. The High Court was, therefore, justified in holding that there was no power to condone the delay after expiry of the prescribed period of 180 days."

8. Apparently, the limitation for filing a statutory appeal having been lapsed, the petitioner has filed the present writ in the nature of Appeal, as the submission of the learned counsel for the petitioner has been camouflaged to agitate that ingredients of Section 74 of the GST Act has not been met in the show cause notice or the assessment order, which according to this Court is a ground, which was very much available to the petitioner immediately on the issuance of show cause notice on 04.06.2025. We may note that expeditious adjudication of issue is a hallmark of Tax laws as we find that as per Section 107(12) of the Act, any appeal before the authority is to be decided within a period of one year.

9. However, we find that in the present matter the petitioner had been a fence sitter and has not been diligent in pursuing his rights and has filed the present writ petition after one year of the issuance of the show cause notice and most importantly when considerable time has lapsed for filing of an appeal as has been specifically prescribed under law. It is settled principles of law that one cannot do indirectly which one cannot do directly (quando aliquid prohibetur ex directo, prohibetur et per obliquum.) and in any case, law does not help and/or come in rescue to a person, who sleeps over his own rights.

10. We further note that a co-ordinate Bench of this Court in Atlantis Intelligence Ltd. vs. Union of India and others reported in 2025 SCC OnLine All 5291, wherein one of us (Shekhar B. Saraf) upon sifting through the ratios laid down by the Supreme Court and High Courts in various judgments, has extracted the principles with regard to maintainability of the writ petitions after expiry of the time frame for filing appeal stipulated in the special statute. The said principles were summarized below:

"A. An order that this Court could make in order to do complete justice between the parties, must not only be consistent with the fundamental rights guaranteed by the Constitution of India, but also be consistent with the substantive provisions of the relevant statutory laws.

B. In exercising powers under Article 226 of the Constitution of India and in assessing the needs of 'complete justice' of a cause or matter, the High Court should take note of the express prohibitions in any substantive statutory provision based on some fundamental principles of public policy and regulate the exercise of its power and discretion accordingly.

C. The prescription of limitation when the statute commands that delay may be condoned to a maximum of one month further would come within the ambit and sweep of the policy of legislation. In such cases, Section 29(2) read with Section 3 of the Limitation Act would apply, and accordingly, the Courts shall have no power to condone the delay of any further period even in writ jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution of India. D. The principle of Section 14 of the Limitation Act which is a principle based on advancing the cause of justice would certainly apply to exclude time taken in prosecuting proceedings which are bona fide and with due diligence pursued, which ultimately end without a decision on the merits of the case."

11. In the present case, the petitioner has come to this writ Court after the limitation has expired for filing an appeal under Section 107 of the Act. Though, this Court is clear in its mind that limitation may not be stricto sensu applicable to this Court in writ jurisdiction, however, time and again the Courts have held that latches and diligence is something which has to be seen by this Court while exercising its extraordinary power under writ jurisdiction. In our view, no proper explanation has been provided by the petitioner for non-filing of the appeal within time and/or non-filing of the writ petition within the limitation period and/or any attempt to explain the latches as to why the writ petition has been filed at such a belated stage. Furthermore, writ jurisdiction can certainly not be exercised when invoked to undermine or defeat the application of a statutory regime so as to render the provision of limitation provided in the statute otiose. In light of the same, we are of the view that entertaining this writ petition would amount to allowing the petitioner to circumvent the statutory appellate procedure.

12. As a sequel to the above discussion, this Court is of the view that this Court should not indulge the writ petitioner in condoning the delay as the present case is neither a case of gross violation of principles of natural justice nor patent illegality, the writ petition, is accordingly, dismissed, with no order as to cost.

13. We make it clear that the petitioner shall be at liberty to proceed in accordance with law and if the petitioner files an appeal, the order passed by this Court and the observations herein shall not affect the decision of the appellate forum.

Jurisdiction of U.P. GST authorities to detain and penalize goods transiting through the State under CGST/IGST/State GST Acts.

GST authorities lacked jurisdiction as goods were only transiting, invoking Article 301 protection of free trade - The State countered citing Sections 6, 68, 129 CGST/SGST Acts, Section 4 IGST Act, and Rules 138A–138C, arguing cross-empowerment and mandatory compliance - Court finds that, that while transit State authorities may lawfully stop and inspect goods under reasonable restrictions, their jurisdiction to impose penalties does not extend to transactions where tax liability arises only in origin/destination States – the cross-empowerment is confined to States of tax incidence – court held that, U.P. GST authorities had no jurisdiction to penalize transit goods moving from West Bengal to Delhi, and hence, individual penalty orders passed against the petitioners are quashed – writ Petition allowed, direction issued accordingly.

Penalty orders under Section 129(1)(d) GST Act against consignments of Areca Nuts transported inter-state (West Bengal/Assam/Bihar to Delhi/Nagpur) intercepted in U.P.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Sri Aditya Pandey, Sri Shubham Agrawal Counsel for Respondent(s): Shri Sri Anoop Trivedi (AAG), Sri Ankur Agarwal (Standing Counsel).

(Delivered by Hon'ble Saumitra Dayal Singh, J.
Hon'ble Mrs. Swarupama Chaturvedi, J.)

1. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

2. The present petitions have been filed challenging the individual penalty orders passed against the petitioners, under Section 129(1)(d) of the GST Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the "State Act"), read with the provisions of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the "CGST Act") and the Integrated Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the "IGST Act").

3. The brief details of the penalty orders impugned in the individual petitions, are as under:

Serial No.	Writ Tax No.	Party Name	Origin of Goods	Destination of Goods	Date of Impugned Penalty Order	Penalty Imposed (Rupees)
1.	1423 of 2026	M/s Maruti Enterprises	West Bengal	Delhi	04.02.2026	33,18,525/-
2.	2001 of 2026	M/s Praveen Supari Bhander	Assam	Nagpur	18.03.2026	40,30,299/-
3.	2451 of 2026	M/s Shiv Shanker Enterprises	Assam	Delhi	08.04.2026	40,38,458/-
4.	2445 of 2026	M/s Shiv Shanker Enterprises	Assam	Delhi	10.04.2026	40,71,675/-

5.	1573 of 2026	M/s Shiva Enterprises	Bhojpur, Bihar	New Delhi	22.02.2026	29,01,150/-

4. Facts are similar. Since, additional ground exists in Maruti Enterprises, facts relevant to that case are being noted below.

a. The petitioner, M/s Maruti Enterprises, is registered under the Delhi Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "Delhi Act") bearing GSTIN No. 07ACCFM9401F1ZF. The petitioner purchased 30,100 kgs of dried Areca nuts from M/s A.K. Enterprises, a person registered under the West Bengal Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the "West Bengal Act"), bearing GSTIN No. 19FGDPR7364N1ZF.

b. The said transaction is covered by Tax Invoice-cum-Challan No. AKE/25-26/19. Those goods are described to have been dispatched by road, on truck bearing No. HR-61E-7511, against e-Way Bill No. 881632659464.

c. Thus, the goods started their journey from Falakata in West Bengal to New Delhi, accompanied with Tax Invoice and e-Way bill. When the goods reached District Gautam Buddh Nagar in the State of Uttar Pradesh, (which according to the petitioner was near the exit point in the State of U.P.), and were set to enter the State of Delhi, they were intercepted by respondent no. 2, on 24.01.2026. Against Interception Memo thus issued, physical verification was conducted on 26.01.2026. Thereafter, objection arose that the goods were not accompanied with e-Tax Invoice, as mandated under the Rule 48 of the CGST Rules, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as the Central Rules). It may be noted, parallel Rules exist in all the States including State of West Bengal, State of Uttar Pradesh and the State of Delhi.

d. Though, reply was submitted to the Show Cause Notice dated 29.01.2026 issued under section 129(3) of the GST Act, it remains admitted to the petitioner that the supplier M/s A.K. Enterprises had not issued e-Tax Invoice to the petitioner. The petitioner describes it as a technical defect. The detaining authority acquired further information through the Common Portal that the petitioner was not registered to trade in the commodity dried Areca Nuts. Also, its registration has been suspended after filing of the writ petition. Further, the supplier dealer M/s A.K. Enterprises has obtained supplies of dried Areca Nuts from such firms, whose registration had either been suspended or cancelled.

e. Thus, rejecting the explanation furnished by the petitioner the goods have been detained and penalties imposed as described above. In such facts, upon the writ petition being filed, affidavits have been exchanged and parties heard.

5. The issues to be considered at this stage are as under:

(i). Whether the State GST authorities of State of Uttar Pradesh have any jurisdiction vested in them, to detain goods and impose penalties referable to IGST Act, Central Act and the State Act, with respect to transaction of inter-state sale of goods, originating in one State and terminating in another State, excluding the State of Uttar Pradesh, for the only reason that such goods are passing through, using the State of Uttar Pradesh as a transit State.

(ii) Whether provisions of sections 6, 68, 69, 129 of the State Act and Central Act read with Section 4 and 20(3) of the IGST Act, read with Rule 138A, 138B and 138C of the Central Rules confer jurisdiction on the GST authorities of the State of Uttar Pradesh to detain goods and impose penalties, above noted, on any anomaly in the transaction noted, though such goods are only transiting through the State of Uttar Pradesh.

6. Learned counsel for the petitioners would submit, freedom of inter-state trade is constitutionally protected under Article 301 of the Constitution of India. In the garb of power to impose reasonable restrictions, the Parliament and the State legislature may not have and at present, they have not enacted any provision of law, as may allow the authorities of the State of Uttar Pradesh, any jurisdiction to detain or confiscate such goods and/or penalise the traders who may have sold or purchased goods outside the State and who may in pursuance to such sale transaction be transporting the goods from one State to another, using the State of Uttar Pradesh as a transit State.

7. Referring to the position of the Central Act, the State Act and the IGST Act, 2017, it has been strenuously urged - present, there is absolutely no provision of enacted law to confer any jurisdiction on the State GST authorities of Uttar Pradesh, in this regard.

8. On the other hand, learned Additional Advocate General has heavily relied on the provisions of Section 68, read with Section 129 of the State Act read with Rule 138A, 138B and 138C of the Central Rules and the State Rules, read with Section 6 of the State Act and the Central Act, to submit that concept of cross empowerment exists in the scheme of the GST laws. Also, relying on Section 4 of the Act read with Section 20(xv) of the IGST Act, it has been submitted that the GST Authorities of the State of Uttar Pradesh are wholly empowered to detain goods that may be transported in contravention of the Central Act and the IGST Act. Once clear prescription of law exists that the goods such as those involved in this case must be accompanied with e-Tax Invoice, its absence leads to an unavoidable inference that the goods were being transported contrary to the mandatory provisions of law and to that extent, they were not covered by the statutory documents. Hence, goods have been rightly detained and the penalty proceedings are wholly valid.

9. Heavy reliance has been placed on decision of the Supreme Court in M/s Armour Security (India) Ltd. Vs. Commissioner, CGST, Delhi East Commissionerate & Another, (2025) SCC OnLine SC 1700. Also, relying on decision of the Supreme Court in M/s ASP Traders Vs. State of U.P. and Others (2026) 2 SCC 641, it has been contended, in similar facts, detention of goods in the course of inter-state trade involving State of Uttar Pradesh as a transit State, has been upheld by the Supreme Court.

10. Further, relying on State of Bihar and Others Vs. Harihar Prasad Debuka and Others, 1989 (2) SCC 192, it has been submitted that free trade guaranteed under Article 301 of the Constitution of India, does not extend to an injunction against imposition of reasonable restrictions through legislative measures.

11. Further, relying on State of Rajasthan and Another Vs. D.P. Metals, 2002 (1) SCC 279, it has been submitted, measures to check evasion of tax, fall within legislative competence of the States. Such measures may stand protected, by way of reasonable restrictions.

12. On facts, it has been stressed that the seller M/s A.K. Enterprises is a non-genuine dealer. It has disclosed purchase of Areca Nuts from persons whose registrations have either been cancelled, or suspended. Second, the goods were not loaded on the vehicle in issue, from the registered place of business of the supplier M/s A.K. Enterprises. Rather, they were loaded from another place described as Falakata. They were to be delivered at New Delhi on further telephonic instructions to be received by the driver/person in-charge of the vehicle in question. At the end of the recipient, the registration of the petitioner has been suspended, although during pendency of this writ petition. Therefore, the action taken by the State authorities is described to be wholly valid.

13. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and having perused the record, at the outset, we may clarify that we do not intend to test the constitutional validity of any of the provisions of any statutory law. For the purpose of the instant case and the two issues framed above, it is accepted that the State legislatures have competence to introduce reasonable restrictions to free trade, guaranteed under Article 301 of the Constitution. To that proposition, there is no quarrel. In fact, that proposition may be an absolute truth in the scheme of the constitutional law of the land. What, therefore, requires our consideration is that if the legislations relied by the parties provide for reasonable restrictions as may confer the GST authorities of the State of Uttar Pradesh, the jurisdiction to venture into an enquiry and to take consequential actions to detain/confiscate goods and/or to impose penalty on transactions of inter-state trade between two other States, where goods may originate in one State (here West Bengal), and may be meant for supply/receipt in another State (here New Delhi).

14. Thus, at present, we are not concerned with the inter-state transportation of goods where the supply of goods may originate or terminate in the State of Uttar Pradesh. The enquiry is confined to transaction of inter-state trades using the State of Uttar Pradesh as a transit State, only.

15. Section 68 of the State Act and the Central Act are pari materia, to each other. For ready reference, the said provision of law reads as below:-

"68. Inspection of goods in movement.

(1) The Government may require the person in charge of a conveyance carrying any consignment of goods of value exceeding such amount as may be specified to carry with him such documents and such devices as may be prescribed.

(2) The details of documents required to be carried under sub-section (1) shall be validated in such manner as may be prescribed.

(3) Where any conveyance referred to in sub-section (1) is intercepted by the proper officer at any place, he may require the person in charge of the said conveyance to produce the documents prescribed under the said sub-section and devices for verification, and the said person shall be liable to produce the documents and devices and also allow the inspection of goods."

(emphasis supplied)

16. Section 129 of the State Act and the Central Act are also pari materia. It reads as below:-

"129. Detention, seizure and release of goods and conveyances in transit

(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Act, where any person transports any goods or stores any goods while they are in transit in contravention of the provisions of this Act or the rules made thereunder, all such goods and conveyance used as a means of transport for carrying the said goods and documents relating to such goods and conveyance shall be liable to detention or seizure and after detention or seizure, shall be released,-

[(a) on payment of penalty equal to two hundred per cent. of the tax payable on such goods and, in case of exempted goods, on payment of an amount equal to two per cent. of the value of goods or twenty-five thousand rupees, whichever is less, where the owner of the goods comes forward for payment of such penalty;

(b) on payment of penalty equal to fifty per cent. of the value of the goods or two hundred per cent. of the tax payable on such goods, whichever is higher, and in case of exempted goods, on payment of an amount equal to five per cent. of the value of goods or twenty-five thousand rupees, whichever is less, where the owner of the goods does not come forward for payment of such penalty;]

(c) upon furnishing a security equivalent to the amount payable under clause (a) or clause (b) in such form and manner as may be prescribed:

PROVIDED that no such goods or conveyance shall be detained or seized without serving an order of detention or seizure on the person transporting the goods.

[xxx]

(3) The proper officer detaining or seizing goods or conveyance shall issue a notice within seven days of such detention or seizure, specifying the penalty payable, and thereafter, pass an order within a period of seven days from the date of service of such notice, for payment of penalty under clause (a) or clause (b) of sub-section (1).]

(4) [No penalty] shall be determined under sub-section (3) without giving the person concerned an opportunity of being heard.

(5) On payment of amount referred in sub-section (1), all proceedings in respect of the notice specified in sub-section (3) shall be deemed to be concluded.

(6) Where the person transporting any goods or the owner of such goods fails to pay the amount of penalty under sub-section (1) within fifteen days from the date of receipt of the copy of the order passed under sub-section (3), the goods or conveyance so detained or seized shall be liable to be sold or disposed of otherwise, in such manner and within such time as may be prescribed, to recover the penalty payable under sub-section (3):

PROVIDED that the conveyance shall be released on payment by the transporter of penalty under sub-section (3) or one lakh rupees, whichever is less:

PROVIDED FURTHER that where the detained or seized goods are perishable or hazardous in nature or are likely to depreciate in value with passage of time, the said period of fifteen days may be reduced by the proper officer.]"

(emphasis supplied)

17. Thus, reasonable restriction has been imposed, both by the Parliament and the State legislature, obligating documents as prescribed, to accompany the goods, during their movement.

18. Insofar as the IGST Act is concerned, the levy of tax is created under Section 5 of the said Act. Section 5(1) of the IGST Act reads as below:-

"5. Levy and collection

(1) Subject to the provisions of sub-section (2), there shall be levied a tax called the integrated goods and services tax on all inter-State supplies of goods or services or both, except on the supply of alcoholic liquor for human consumption [and undenatured extra neutral alcohol or rectified spirit used for manufacture of alcoholic liquor, for human consumption], on the value determined under section 15 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act and at such rates, not exceeding forty per cent., as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council and collected in such manner as may be prescribed and shall be paid by the taxable person: PROVIDED that the integrated tax on goods [other than the goods as may be notified by the Government on the recommendations of the Council] imported into India shall be levied and collected in accordance with the provisions of section 3 of the Customs Tariff Act, 1975 (51 of 1975) on the value as determined under the said Act at the point when duties of customs are levied on the said goods under section 12 of the Customs Act, 1962 (52 of 1962)."

(emphasis supplied)

19. Further, inter-state supply has been described under Section 7 of the IGST Act. Section 7(1) of the said Act reads as below:-

"7. Inter-State supply

(1) Subject to the provisions of section 10, supply of goods, where the location of the supplier and the place of supply are-in-

(a) two different States;

(b) two different Union territories; or

(c) a State and a Union territory, shall be treated as a supply of goods in the course of inter-State trade or commerce."

(emphasis supplied)

20. Also, under Section 10 of the IGST Act, place of supply of goods has been described. Relevant to us, the said provision reads as below:-

"10. Place of supply of goods other than supply of goods imported into, or exported from India

(1) The place of supply of goods, other than supply of goods imported into, or exported from India, shall be as under,-

(a) where the supply involves movement of goods, whether by the supplier or the recipient or by any other person, the place of supply of such goods shall be the location of the goods at the time at which the movement of goods terminates for delivery to the recipient;

(b) where the goods are delivered by the supplier to a recipient or any other person on the direction of a third person, whether acting as an agent or otherwise, before or during movement of goods, either by way of transfer of documents of title to the goods or otherwise, it shall be deemed that the said third person has received the goods and the place of supply of such goods shall be the principal place of business of such person;

(c) where the supply does not involve movement of goods, whether by the supplier or the recipient, the place of supply shall be the location of such goods at the time of the delivery to the recipient,

[(ca) where the supply of goods is made to a person other than a registered person, the place of supply shall, notwithstanding anything contrary contained in clause (a) (a) or clause (c), be the location as per the address of the said person recorded in the invoice issued in respect of the said supply and the location of the supplier where the address of the said person is not recorded in the invoice.

Explanation: For the purposes of this clause, recording of the name of the State of the said person in the invoice shall be deemed to be the recording of the address of the said person;]

(d) where the goods are assembled or installed at site, the place of supply shall be the place of such installation or assembly;

(e) where the goods are supplied on board a conveyance, including a vessel, an aircraft, a train or a motor vehicle, the place of supply shall be the location at which such goods are taken on board.

(2) Where the place of supply of goods cannot be determined, the place of supply shall be determined in such manner as may be prescribed."

(emphasis supplied)

21. Then, by way of prescriptions made, to give effect to the above noted provisions of the principal legislation, Rules 138A, 138B and 138C of the Rules framed under the State Act and the Central Act, read as below:-

"138A. Documents and devices to be carried by a person in-charge of a conveyance

(1) The person in-charge of a conveyance shall carry-

(a) the invoice or bill of supply or delivery challan, as the case may be; and

(b) a copy of the e-way bill or the e-way bill number, either physically or mapped to a Radio Frequency Identification Device embedded on to the conveyance in such manner as may be notified by the Commissioner.

(2) A registered person may obtain an Invoice Reference Number from the common portal by uploading, on the said portal, a tax invoice issued by him in FORM GST INV-1 and produce the same for verification by the proper officer in lieu of the tax invoice and such number shall be valid for a period of thirty days from the date of uploading.

(3) Where the registered person uploads the invoice under sub-rule (2), the information in Part A of FORM GST EWB-01 shall be auto-populated by the common portal on the basis of the information furnished in FORM GST INV-1.

(4) The Commissioner may, by notification, require a class of transporters to obtain a unique Radio Frequency Identification Device and get the said device embedded on to the conveyance and map the e-way bill to the Radio Frequency Identification Device prior to the movement of goods.

(5) Notwithstanding anything contained in clause (b) of sub-rule (1), where circumstances so warrant, the Commissioner may, by notification, require the person in-charge of the conveyance to carry the following documents instead of the e-way bill-

(a) tax invoice or bill of supply or bill of entry; or

(b) a delivery challan, where the goods are transported for reasons other than by way of supply.

138B. Verification of documents and conveyances

(1) The Commissioner or an officer empowered by him in this behalf may authorise the proper officer to intercept any conveyance to verify the e-way bill or the e-way bill number in physical form for all inter-State and intra-State movement of goods.

(2) The Commissioner shall get Radio Frequency Identification Device readers installed at places where the verification of movement of goods is required to be carried out and verification of movement of vehicles shall be done through such device readers where the e-way bill has been mapped with the said device.

(3) The physical verification of conveyances shall be carried out by the proper officer as authorised by the Commissioner or an officer empowered by him in this behalf:

PROVIDED that on receipt of specific information on evasion of tax, physical verification of a specific conveyance can also be carried out by any other officer after obtaining necessary approval of the Commissioner or an officer authorised by him in this behalf.

138C. Inspection and verification of goods

(1) A summary report of every inspection of goods in transit shall be recorded online by the proper officer in Part A of FORM GST EWB-03 within twenty-four hours of inspection and the final report in Part B of FORM GST EWB-03 shall be recorded within three days of such inspection.

(2) Where the physical verification of goods being transported on any conveyance has been done during transit at one place within the State or in any other State, no further physical (2) Where the physical verification of goods being transported on any conveyance has been verification of the said conveyance shall be carried out again in the State, unless a specific information relating to evasion of tax is made available subsequently."

22. While Rule 138 provides for issuance of e-Way Bill for which there is no dispute between the parties, Rule 48(4) of the Central Rules and the State Rules, imposes another condition for issuance of e-Tax Invoice by such suppliers whose aggregate turnover for the preceding financial year exceeds Rs. 5 crores. At present, the revenue contends that the aggregate turnover of M/s A.K.

Enterprises for the previous tax period exceeds Rs. 5 crores. Yet no e-Tax Invoice was issued by it. Therefore, the prescribed document was not accompanying the goods that were in transit through the State of Uttar Pradesh. For ready reference Rule 48(4) and 48(5) of the Central Rules, reads as below:-

(4) The invoice shall be prepared by such class of registered persons as may be notified by the Government, on the recommendations of the Council, by including such particulars contained in FORM GST INV-01 after obtaining an Invoice Reference Number by uploading information contained therein on the Common Goods and Services Tax Electronic Portal in such manner and subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be specified in the notification:

[PROVIDED that the Commissioner may, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, exempt a person or a class of registered persons from issuance of invoice under this sub-rule for a specified period, subject to such conditions and restrictions as may be specified in the said notification.]

(5) Every invoice issued by a person to whom sub-rule (4) applies in any manner other than the manner specified in the said sub-rule shall not be treated as an invoice.

23. There is also no dispute that by Section 20(xv) of the IGST Act, the provisions of Central GST Act has been made applicable, mutatis mutandis.

24. Before proceeding to consider the rival submissions, we may also take note of the provisions of Section 6 of the Central Act and the State Act as also Section 4 of the IGST Act. For ready reference, the provisions of Section 6 of the Central Act and the State Act read as below:-

*"6. Authorisation of officers of State tax or Union territory tax as proper officer in certain circumstances

(1) Without prejudice to the provisions of this Act, the officers appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes of this Act, subject to such conditions as the Government shall, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, specify.

(2) Subject to the conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-section (1),-

(a) where any proper officer issues an order under this Act, he shall also issue an order under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as authorised by the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as the case may be, under intimation to the jurisdictional officer of State tax or Union territory tax; (b) where a proper officer under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act has initiated any proceedings on a subject-matter, no proceedings shall be initiated by the proper officer under this Act on the same subject-matter. (3) Any proceedings for rectification, appeal and revision, wherever applicable, of any order passed by an officer appointed under this Act shall not lie before an officer appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act."

(emphasis supplied)

25. Also, Section 4 of the IGST Act reads as below:-

"4. Authorisation of officers of State tax or Union territory tax as proper officer in certain circumstances

Without prejudice to the provisions of this Act, the officers appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes of this Act, subject to such exceptions and conditions as the Government shall, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, specify."

26. In the context of the statutory provisions noted above, in the first place, it is true that the Central Act and the State Act read with the Rules, prescribe the documents that must accompany a valid transaction of inter-state supply of goods. It is equally true, though transaction of inter-state sale of any goods may involve two States excluding the transit State, such as the State of Uttar Pradesh, yet, on own force of law created by the statutory provisions, the GST Authorities of the transit State (here State of Uttar Pradesh), would be entitled to stop, inspect and conduct physical verification of goods in transit, even though no tax incidence may arise in that State. To that extent, the action taken by the GST authorities of State of Uttar Pradesh would be protected on the constitutional principle of 'reasonable restrictions'. That is also not an issue in the present case. The petitioners have not raised challenge to the fact that their goods in transit through the State of Uttar Pradesh, were stopped and checked by the GST authorities, of this State.

27. Then, the thrust of the submissions raised by the State, is based on the provisions of Section 6 of the State Act and the Central Act read with Section 4 of the IGST Act. Thus, the learned Additional Advocate General has strenuously urged that the authorities of the State GST Department of Uttar Pradesh, are cross-empowered, both under the Central Act and also by virtue of Section 4 of the IGST Act, to not only stop, inspect and physically verify the goods in transit, but also to impose penalty for any violation of the law including transportation without the goods being accompanied with prescribed documents.

28. Plainly, we find the submission of cross-empowerment is misconceived. Though that provision of law exists, and it must be given full play, the operation of that section and the scope of cross-empowerment arising thereunder must remain confined to transactions as may give rise to any tax liability under the State GST Act and/or under the Central GST Act, in that State. By way of example, in the present facts that cross-empowerment may arise in the State of West Bengal and also in the State of Delhi to which the transaction of inter-state sale of goods pertains. Further, by way of example, if M/s A.K. Enterprises is mapped to the Central GST authorities, in the State of West Bengal, that fact may itself not deprive the State GST authorities of the State of West Bengal, to proceed against M/s A.K. Enterprises with respect to a transaction in issue. Similarly, if the petitioner no. 1 is mapped to the State GST authorities in the State of Delhi, that may not itself deprive the Central GST authorities in the State of Delhi, from proceeding against the petitioners. To that extent, and for that purpose, the statutory provision of cross-empowerment exists.

29. In the scheme of the GST laws, though harmony and synergy has been created in the legislative provisions, to provide for a homogeneous tax regime by allowing for pari materia legislations to arise, in all States, as are consistent to the Central Act, the cross-empowerment provision has been incorporated to cross-empower the authorities of the Union and the GST authorities of individual States - with respect to taxable transactions performed in such States. However, no cross-empowerment has been attempted or created under the GST laws between State GST authorities of all States.

30. The cross-empowerment is between the authorities of the Union and the individual States but not between authorities of two or more States. Thus, the State GST authorities of one State are not empowered or permitted to proceed against an assessee mapped to the State GST authority of another State. Such authority may only seek to act on the strength of cross-empowerment viz-a-viz an assessee falling in its territorial jurisdiction, but mapped to the central GST authority, in that State, viz-a-viz transactions in that State.

31. By virtue of Section 4 of the IGST Act, no different intent or purpose arises. In fact, it makes plain the above discussed position in law. Thus, with respect to inter-state trade, the IGST Act provides for cross-empowerment between the State GST authorities and the Central GST authorities, for the purpose of that transaction. The purpose being defined under section 5 of the IGST Act - to levy tax on inter-state supplies of goods, and inter-state supply of goods being self-defined under section 7 of the IGST Act with further provision of section 10 describing the place of supply of goods, the levy event under the IGST Act may not arise in a transit State, such as U.P., in the transit State. We may hasten to clarify that we are not discussing any fact issue where the revenue may allege, arising from individual facts of particular cases, that a transaction of inter-state sale/supply has been performed in the transit State, occasioned by any circumstance not disclosed in the documents such as the Tax Invoice or the e-Way Bill. Those cases would stand on a completely different footing. They may be tested on their own merits.

32. Thus, it is material, that in the course of transit of goods through the State of U.P., no levy may arise under the IGST Act, in U.P. For the reasons noted above and in the face of the categorical statutory provisions extracted above, no event may ever be experienced in a transit State, to allow for such a levy to arise.

33. In that light, Rule 138A, 138B and 138C may be examined. As opined above, by way of enforcement of a regulatory measure, the State GST authorities of a transit State may be well within their jurisdiction - to stop the conveyance, inspect and detain the goods and also physically verify the same as also the documents, even though such goods were in the course of transit through the State of U.P. Had the e-Tax Invoice accompanied the goods, all suspicions or doubts would have stood erased. However, for reason of absence of e-Tax Invoice, the State GST authority may not be faulted for having checked (on the Common Portal), the status of M/s AK Enterprise. Having discovered that the said registered person may have achieved turnover in excess of Rs.5

crores in the previous financial year, deficiency of e-Tax Invoice may have been rightly noted. Upto that point, we find no fault with the State GST authorities.

34. The fault lies in the consequential action taken. To the extent, it never came to be alleged either that goods different from the goods described in the Tax Invoice and the e-Way Bill were being transported by the petitioner, or that the goods being transported, were meant for supply inside the State of U.P., no levy of IGST or State GST or Central GST, would ever arise inside the State of U.P. It is also not the case that the Tax Invoice produced by the petitioner is a bogus document. True as it is, that the prescribed document may have been the e-Tax Invoice. However, that issue may be conclusively dealt with and decided not by the State GST authorities functioning inside the State of Uttar Pradesh but by the competent authority in the State of West Bengal, where the supplier dealer is registered. Therefore, the only action that may be permissible is - due information of the deficiency noticed by the State GST authority (inside the State of U.P.), may have been communicated to the competent authority in the State of West Bengal. However, after noting and reporting that deficiency, the goods ought to have been allowed to complete their journey, by passing through the State of U.P., without and further proceeding to detain, confiscate or impose penalty.

35. Section 129 of the State Act and the Central Acts, does not make any difference either. Primarily, it applies to 'transport' of any goods in transit, involving transaction, that may give rise to tax liability under the State Act or the Central Act. In transactions of inter-state trade, the 'transit state' such as Uttar Pradesh here, may draw jurisdiction if either the place of origin of the goods or their destination, outside the State of U.P., is doubted, by the State GST authorities. In such facts, absence of cross-empowerment, notwithstanding, those authorities may draw jurisdiction, independently. However, that enquiry would be then premised on the origin or destination of goods or both being inside the State of U.P. Here, on the contrary, it is an admitted fact that the goods originated from and are destined to a place, both outside U.P. It is so, because if there is no amount of "tax payable" on such goods (in the State of U.P.), there may not arise any levy of penalty inside the State of U.P. In absence of any allegation or finding of goods being different, and in absence of any doubt as to the e-Way Bill, it is undoubted that the goods originated from the State of West Bengal and were meant for supply in the State of Delhi. In absence of the levy provision (under IGST Act), being applicable to such transaction, (on admitted facts), no tax may become payable in the State of U.P. In J.K. Synthetics Ltd. Vs. Commercial Taxes Officer, (1994) 4 SCC 276, the Supreme Court observed as under:-

"17. Let us look at the question from a slightly different angle. Section 7(1) enjoins on every dealer that he shall furnish prescribed returns for the prescribed period within the prescribed time to the assessing authority. By the proviso the time can be extended by not more than 15 days. The requirement of Section 7(1) is undoubtedly a statutory requirement. The prescribed return must be accompanied by a receipt evidencing the deposit of full amount of 'tax due' in the State Government on the basis of the return. That is the requirement of Section 7(2). Section 7(2-A), no doubt, permits payment of tax at shorter intervals but the ultimate requirement is deposit of the full amount of 'tax due' shown in the return. When Section 11-B(a) uses the expression "tax payable under sub-sections (2) and (2-A) of Section 7", that must be understood in the context of the aforesaid expressions employed in the two sub-sections. Therefore, the expression 'tax payable' under the said two sub-sections is the full amount of tax due and 'tax due' is that amount which becomes due ex hypothesi on the turnover and taxable turnover "shown in or based on the return". The word 'payable' is a descriptive word, which ordinarily means "that which must be paid or is due, or may be paid" but its correct meaning can only be determined if the context in which it is used is kept in view. The word has been frequently understood to mean that which may, can or should be paid and is held equivalent to 'due'. Therefore, the conjoint reading of Sections 7(1), (2) and (2-A) and 11-B of the Act leaves no room for doubt that the expression 'tax payable' in Section 11-B can only mean the full amount of tax which becomes due under sub-sections (2) and (2-A) of the Act when assessed on the basis of the information regarding turnover and taxable turnover furnished or shown in the return. Therefore, so long as the assessee pays the tax which according to him is due on the basis of information supplied in the return filed by him, there would be no default on his part to meet his statutory obligation under Section 7 of the Act and, therefore, it would be difficult to hold that the 'tax payable' by him 'is not paid' to visit him with the liability to pay interest under clause (a) of Section 11-B. It would be a different matter if the return is not approved by the authority but that is not the case here. It is difficult on the plain language of the section to hold that the law envisages the assessee to predicate the final assessment and expect him to pay the tax on that basis to avoid the liability to pay interest. That would be asking him to do the near impossible."

36. There are other reasons to reach this conclusion as well. First, if we were to allow State GST authorities of a transit State to do more than we are permitting under this order, it may lead to a situation where the goods that begin their journey say in the State of Kerala and are meant to be supplied in Jammu and Kashmir, may traverse the length and breadth of the country through the territories of different constituent States of the Union and be exposed to repeated penalties, by the State GST authorities of all or many such States though it may not be disputed that the transaction were performed in the State of Kerala for supply of goods in Jammu and Kashmir, in entirety. That would be a gross violation of the constitutional protection guaranteed under Article 301 of the Constitution of India. Unless the element of a levy of a tax in the State (where action is proposed to be taken), is established, such permission may never be constitutional, by way of enforcement of a regulatory law.

37. Also, we are not in a position to allow the purchaser to be prejudiced for no fault. Issuance of e-Tax Invoice is linked to turnover. That fact is in the special knowledge of the supplier. The purchase/recipient may neither have the means, nor he may be burdened to enquire about the same, before transacting a purchase. That may be a wholly unreasonable burden cast on the recipient/purchaser. To the extent the physical Tax Invoice is not bogus and its issuance is not doubted, the recipient/purchaser may not be penalised, for no fault.

38. In the decisions of Supreme Court in M/s Armour Security (supra), following issues arose before the Supreme Court :

"I. Whether issuance of summons can be regarded as "initiation of proceedings" within the meaning of Section 6(2)(b) of the CGST Act."

39. Approving the co-ordinate bench decision of this Court, in G.K. Trading v. Union of India & Ors. 2020 SCC OnLine All 1907, the Supreme Court discussed the issue of cross-empowerment under section 6 of the CGST laws, as below :

"b. Framework of single interface and cross-empowerment of powers under Section 6 of the CGST Act

34. The unique scheme and framework of the Goods and Services Tax regime envisages two distinct concepts at its heart, the concept of a "single interface" as-well as the concept of "cross-empowerment". The former relates to doing away of dual administrative control over the collection as-well as assessment of tax returns by tax payers, that had existed previously, in the erstwhile scheme of indirect taxes in the form of value added tax or VAT. Whereas, the latter, pertains empowering both the Central and State tax administrations to simultaneously undertake enforcement actions against a tax-payer.

39. At the 9th GST Council Meeting held on 16.01.2017, the Chairman of the Central Board of Excise & Customs stated that the States had agreed that both the Central and State tax administrations shall have jurisdiction over the entire taxpayer base. He further emphasized that neither administration should be completely excluded from any segment of the value chain, so as to ensure proper checks and balances. Towards the conclusion of the discussion on the agenda of cross-empowerment, the Chairman noted that enforcement functions would remain common to both administrations. The Council accordingly agreed that both Central and State tax authorities would be empowered to undertake intelligence-based enforcement actions across the entire value chain of a taxpayer.

40. With a view to ensure single interface under the GST regime and to avoid dual control over taxpayers, the GST Council, in its 9th Meeting, resolved that a clear division of taxpayers between the Central and State tax administrations be effected for all administrative purposes. Simultaneously, the Council recognized the necessity of empowering both the Central and State tax administrations to act on intelligence-based enforcement actions across the entire value chain, regardless of administrative allocation. This dual empowerment was intended to maintain robust enforcement capabilities and prevent evasion, while preserving the administrative clarity of the single interface system.

41. To ensure cross-empowerment across the CGST, SGST, and IGST Acts, Section 6 was incorporated into the statute. Sub-section (1) of Section 6 authorizes the officers appointed under the SGST Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act (UTGST) to be "proper officer" for the purposes of the CGST Act. The State GST and Union Territory GST Acts also have similar provisions authorizing officers appointed under the CGST Act to be proper officers for the purposes of the respective State enactments. The provision reads thus:

"6. Authorisation of officers of State tax or Union territory tax as proper officer in certain circumstances.??(1) Without prejudice to the provisions of this Act, the officers appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes of this Act, subject to such conditions as the Government shall, on the recommendations of the Council, by notification, specify.

(2) Subject to the conditions specified in the notification issued under sub-section (1),-

(a) where any proper officer issues an order under this Act, he shall also issue an order under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as authorised by the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act, as the case may be, under intimation to the jurisdictional officer of State tax or Union territory tax;

(b) where a proper officer under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act has initiated any proceedings on a subject matter, no proceedings shall be initiated by the proper officer under this Act on the same subject matter.

(3) Any proceedings for rectification, appeal and revision, wherever applicable, of any order passed by an officer appointed under this Act shall not lie before an officer appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act."

44. In furtherance of the Council's decision regarding the administrative division of taxpayer base, the Circular No. 01/2017 dated 20.09.2017 was issued, laying down the framework for allocation of taxpayer between the Centre and the States.

"Subject: Guidelines for division of taxpayer base between the Centre and States to ensure Single Interface under GST - regarding Based on the decisions taken in the 9th Meeting of the GST Council held on 16 January, 2017 and 21st Meeting of the GST Council held on 9 September, 2017, the following criteria should be followed for the division of taxpayer base between the Centre and the States to ensure single interface:

i. Of the total number of taxpayers below Rs. 1.5 crore turnover, all administrative control over 90% of the taxpayers shall vest with the state tax administration and 10% with the Central tax administration; the state

ii. In respect of the total number of taxpayers above Rs. 1.5 crore turnover, all administrative control shall be divided equally in the ratio of 50% each for the Central and the State tax administration;

iii. The division of taxpayers in each State shall be done by computer at the State level based on stratified random sampling and could also take into account the geographical location and type of the taxpayers, as may be mutually agreed;[?]"

45. While the latter decision that both the Central and State tax administrations shall have power to take intelligence-based enforcement action in respect of the entire value chain is reflected in the Circular dated 05.10.2018, as reproduced above, and Clarification F. No. CBEC-20/10/07/2019-GST dated 22.06.2020 by the Central Board of Indirect Taxes, GST Policy Wing, which reads thus:

"To
The Principal Director General,
Directorate Generalof GST Intelligence, 2nd Floor. Wing- VI, West Block- VIII
R.K. Puram, New Delhi- 110066

Sir,

Subject: Reference form DGGI on cross-empowerment under GST. reg. I am directed to refer to DGGI letter F.No.574/CE/66/2020/Inv./15308 dated 26.05.2020 on the issues related to cross-empowerment of officers in terms of provisions of section 6 of the Central Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 (hereinafter referred to as "the CGST Act").

2. Issue raised in the reference is whether intelligence based enforcement actions initiated by the Central Tax officers against those taxpayers which are assigned to the State Tax administration gets covered under section 6(1) of the CGST Act and the corresponding provisions of the SGST/UTGST Acts or whether a specific notification is required to be issued for cross-empowerment on the same lines as notification No. 39/2017-CT dated 13.10.2017 authorizing the State Officers for the purpose or refunds under section 54 and 55 of the CGST Act. 3.1 The issue has been examined in the light of relevant legal provisions under the CGST Act, 2017. It is observed that Section 6 of the CGST Act provides for cross-empowerment of State Tax officers and Central Tax officers and reads as:-

"6. (1) Without prejudice to the provisions of this Act, the officers appointed under the State Goods and Services Tax Act or the Union Territory Goods and Services Tax Act are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes- of this Act, Subject to such conditions as the Government shall, on the recommendations of the Council, by Notification specify.

3.2. Thus in terms of sub-section (1) of section 6 of the CGST Act and sub-section (1) of section 6 of the respective State GST Acts respective State Tax officers and the Central Tax officers respectively are authorised to be the proper officers for the purposes of respective Acts and no separate notification is required for exercising the said powers in this case by the Central Tax Officers under the provisions of the State GST Act. It is noteworthy in this context that the registered person in GST are registered under both the CGST Act and the respective SGST/UTGST Act.

3.3 The confusion seems to be arising from the fact that, the said sub-section provides for notification by the Government if such cross-empowerment is to be subjected to conditions. It means that notification would be required only if any conditions are to be imposed. For example, Notification No. 39/2017-CT dated 13.10.2017 restricts powers of the State Tax officers for the purposes of refund and they have been specified as the proper officers only under section 54 and 55 of the CGST Act and not under rule 96 of the CGST Rules, 2017 (IGST Refund on exports).

If no notification is issued to impose any condition, it means that the officers of State and Centre have been appointed as proper officer for all the purpose of the CGST Act and SGST Acts.

4. Further, it may kindly be noted that a notification under section 6(1) of the CGST Act would be part of subordinate legislation which instead of empowering the officer under the Act, can only be used to impose conditions on the powers given to the officers by the section. In the absence or any such conditions, the power of Cross- empowerment under section 6(1) of the CGST Act is absolute and not conditional.

Yours faithfully,
(Sumit Bhatia)

Deputy Commissioner (GST)"

47. The concept of "cross-empowerment" has been retained within the GST framework in order to maintain a robust enforcement mechanism and prevent any scope of evasion of taxes. For this purpose, both the Central and State tax administrations have been armed with the power to initiate intelligence-based enforcement action i.e., an action that is predicated on information of tax evasion emanating from the value chain or chain of transactions rather than from any administrative scrutiny by way of audit of accounts or returns.

48. Such gathering of intelligence is intended to be a non-intrusive exercise. The Department relies on data analytics, validation with third-party data, and other methods to collect actionable intelligence via analytical tools, human intelligence, modus operandi alerts as well as information through past detections. Taxpayers must be mindful that intelligence about evasion of tax cannot be procured from them through issuance summons or other non-descript letters and correspondence.

49. Any action arising from the audit of accounts or detailed scrutiny of returns falls within the first category, and proceedings in such cases are to be initiated by the tax administration to which the taxpayer is assigned. In contrast, when proceedings are based on intelligence relating to tax evasion, they can be initiated by either the Central or the State tax administration.

50. To put simply, Section 6 of the CGST Act provides for the cross-empowerment of powers between the Central and State tax administrations. However, for the purpose of administrative convenience, the GST Council has sought to divide the taxpayer base between the two administrations through a circular. Nonetheless, with respect to intelligence-based enforcement actions, both the Central and the State tax authorities are empowered to act across the entire value chain."

40. Construction of the cross-empowerment provision made by the Supreme Court recognises existence of cross-empowerment between two different GST authorities, one working under the State Government and the other working under the Central Government, over the same tax payer. To that extent, neither the issue of cross-empowerment between two State Governments was considered nor it may arise in the statutory scheme discussed above. To that extent, we do not find our opinion inconsistent to the opinion of the Supreme Court.

41. Insofar as M/s ASP Traders (supra) is concerned, facts were different. In that case though the goods were in transit through the State of U.P., from Karnataka to Delhi, out of 278 bags dispatched from Karnataka, seven were found missing. It resulted in shortfall of about 500 kgs. Also, genuineness of the recipient firm was disbelieved and that of the consignor was doubted. In those facts the only issue that fell for consideration before the Supreme Court was with respect to generation of GST MOV 09 that may give rise to a right of appeal to the aggrieved person. The Supreme Court reasoned - merely because the assesse in that case had deposited the penalty amount to obtain release of the goods, it did not absolve the statutory authorities to pass a reasoned order on Form GST MOV 09 and to upload the corresponding summary on Form GST DRC 07.

42. However, the issue of validity of the action of the State GST authorities in detaining the goods while they were in transit through the State of U.P., neither arose in those facts (as noted above), nor the Supreme Court had the occasion to consider the said issue. Plainly, the said decision is wholly distinguishable on facts.

43. We are aware, in Golden Traders and Ors. V. Deputy Asst. State Tax and Ors., 2026 SCC OnLine (AP) 803, the Andhra Pradesh High Court has taken a view similar to ours. Paragraph 28, 29, 36 and 37 read as below :

"28. The purpose of Section 129 and 130, is to ensure compliance of the provisions of the GST Acts and for checking evasion of tax. In the normal course, evasion of tax, on intra state sales, would result in non payment of taxes, which are rightfully due to that State and the Union. Thus, the State or Central authority, assigned the functions of a "proper officer", would be recovering the penalty and other sums demanded, under these provisions, as the rightful dues of that State and the Union. In the case of IGST, no part of the taxes are due, to any intermediary state, through which the goods are passing. In such a situation, can the intermediary state, under Section 129 or 130, levy and collect penalties or fines?

29. An illustration is necessary, to understand this situation. There is an inter-state supply of goods, commencing from State A to State C. These goods have to move through State B, to reach State C from State A. The State officer, of State B, exercising powers under Section 129 or 130, seizes and subsequently confiscates the goods moving through State B and auctions the same or the owner of the goods pays a penalty or fine and gets his goods released. In such a case, State B is collecting penalties and fines or appropriating the sale price of the goods, in relation to transactions which are not taxable in State B. It may also be noted that there is no provision, under the GST Acts, for reimbursing the State share of penalty and/or fine, falling to State A or State C, collected by State B. Thus, amounts rightfully due to State A or State C are being appropriated, by State B. It is our view that Section 129 or 130 cannot be pressed to vindicate such appropriation.

36. We are also alive to the fact that, the proper officer, under the APGST Act, at the time of intercepting the conveyance or vehicle, would not be aware whether the consignment, is under the IGST Act or any of the other GST Acts, until the vehicle is stopped and the documents are verified. In a case where it is found that the consignment relates to an inter State supply, state officer would have to permit the vehicle to continue it's journey. However, if any discrepancies are found, it would be open to the state officer to forward the said discrepancies to the proper officer of the consignee as well as the consignor. If it is found that, the consignment is not accompanied by necessary way bills, it would be open to the state officer, to presume that the consignment is an intra state supply, unless that presumption is rebutted,

37. Accordingly, it would be appropriate to hold as follows:

A. An officer, appointed under the APGST Act, would be cross empowered, to exercise jurisdiction under the CGST or IGST Act, in relation to a tax payer, when such tax payer has been administratively allotted to the State and the State officer is the "proper officer", assigned to discharge the said function, by the Chief Commissioner and vice versa for Central officers.

B. A "proper officer' appointed under the APGST Act, and assigned the functions, under section 129 and/or 130, of the APGST Act, can discharge such functions, under the CGST Act also, in relation to intra state sales.

C. A "proper officer' appointed under the APGST Act, and assigned the functions, under section 129 and/or 130, of the APGST Act, can discharge such functions, under the IGST Act also, in relation to inter-state sales, only when the State of Andhra Pradesh is entitled to an allocation of a share of the tax, under section 17 of the IGST Act, in relation to such transaction.

D. A "proper officer' appointed under the APGST Act, and assigned the functions, under section 129 and/or 130, of the APGST Act, can not discharge such functions, under the IGST Act, in relation to inter state sales, which originate outside the State and culminate outside the State.

E. In the event of any discrepancies found, in any movement of goods, under the IGST Act, it would be open to the State officer, to forward the said discrepancies to the proper officer of the consignee and the proper officer of the consignor, to take further action."

(emphasis supplied)

44. To the extent, the transaction for supply of goods originates and is to terminate outside the State of U.P., involving zero tax incidence in the State of U.P., discrepancies noticed and doubts expressed - of e-Tax Invoice not issued; purchases made from unregistered persons (by the supplier), subsequent suspension of registration of the petitioner etc., are extraneous to the core issue.

45. Consequentially, we answer the two issued framed by us as below:-

(a) to the extent, the respondent GST authorities of the State of U.P. do not dispute that the goods/Areca nuts originated from the State of West Bengal and were being transported to the State of Delhi, as evidenced by a valid e-Way Bill and physical Tax Invoice, to the extent there is not an iota of allegation, either that the goods were different or that they either originated from or were meant for consumption inside the State of U.P. or that the documents produced are bogus, no jurisdiction arose to those authorities to penalise those goods, U.P. being a pure transit State.

(b) in view of complete lack of a foundation - to levy any tax in the State of U.P., on such transaction, on admitted facts, the lack of e-Tax Invoice remains an unexplained anomaly noticed by the GST authorities of the State of U.P., causing no tax effect in the State of U.P. At most, the same may be marked on the documents, produced before those authorities and such fact be communicated to the concerned authorities in the State of West Bengal and Delhi.

46. In view of the above, the writ petitions are allowed. For the reasons noted above, the goods and vehicles be released in favour of the petitioners, forthwith. The individual penalty orders passed against the petitioners are quashed.

47. No order as to costs.

5. In such circumstances, upon the case being taken up on 08.05.2026, the following further order was passed:

"1. Today, first objection was raised that there is no order extending the limitation.

2. On that objection being raised by learned counsel for the petitioner, we had required Shri Krishna Agarwal to obtain further instructions. On further oral instructions, Shri Krishna Agarwal states that the single page order-sheet dated 18.02.2026 is the order passed by the ADG granting approval to extension for limitation.

3. In such circumstances, learned counsel for the petitioner prays for and is granted a weeks' time to file an appropriate application/affidavit.

4. Put up as fresh on 22.05.2026, by way of last opportunity."

6. In the meantime, the petitioners have formally brought on record the document relied by customs authorities by means of Supplementary Affidavit filed on 20.05.2026.

7. Upon the case being taken up today, first objection has been raised by learned counsel for the DRI that the single sheet order dated 18.02.2026 was passed well within time. However, on further query, it has been admitted that the said writing was never communicated to the petitioner before the end date i.e. six months from the detention. Also no show cause notice has been issued, till date with respect to the cash detained Rs. 25,20,000/-.

8. However, for the first time today, further objection has been raised that in the meantime, the customs authorities received a requisition dated 19.05.2026 issued by the Principal Director, Income Tax, Lucknow. On the receipt of the same by the customs authorities, on 20.05.2026, the cash Rs.25,20,000/- has been made over to the Income Tax Authorities. For ready reference the record of proceedings under Section 248(1) of the Income Tax Act, 2025 produced by learned counsel for the DRI, reads as below: "

SS (F)-21

1. The authorized officer Shri/Smt./Kum Adarsh Kumar, DDIT(Inv.), Bareilly and Durgesh Mishra, ITO(OSD)(AIU)(Inv.), Lucknow showed to Shri/ Smt./ Kum Navneet Kumar the requisition under section 248(1) of the 1.T. 9. Thus, though the customs authorities admit that no extension of time had been communicated to the petitioners before the expiry of six months from 20.08.2025, they now cite inability to return the cash to the petitioners for the reason of requisition made by the Income Tax authorities.

10. Having heard counsel for the parties and having perused the record, the stand taken by the customs authorities is an eye wash. Section 110 (2) of the Customs Act, 1962 reads as below:

"(2)Where any goods are seized under sub-section (1) and no notice in respect thereof is given under clause (a) of section 124 within six months of the seizure of the goods, the goods shall be returned to the person from whose possession they were seized:

[Provided that the Principal Commissioner of Customs or Commissioner of Customs may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, extend such period to a further period not exceeding six months and inform the person from whom such goods were seized before the expiry of the period so specified:

Provided further that where any order for provisional release of the seized goods has been passed under section 110A, the specified period of six months shall not apply.]"

11. In the first place, we are not satisfied that the note sheet dated 18.02.2026 contains the prior approval of the Principal Commissioner of Customs or Commissioner of Customs, to grant extension of time by six months. Though the order sheet notes that proposal made to the Additional Director General, only his signature is appended thereunder without any remark or note to evidence that at the time of such signature being placed by the said authority, he had applied his mind or recorded reasons or approved the proposal in entirety- to allow for extension of time, by six months. Mainly, the existence of the signature on the order sheet is nothing more than a rubber stamp, affixed without application of mind.

12. In Chhugamal Rajpal vs S.P. Chaliha and Others, (1971) 1 SCC 453, in the context of the prior approval required to be granted by the Commissioner in exercise of statutory power under Section 151 of the Income Tax Act, 1961 (to the reasons to believe recorded by the Assessing Officer to issue reassessment notice, under that Act), the Supreme Court made the following pertinent observation:

"5. In his report the Income Tax Officer does not set out any reason for coming to the conclusion that this is a fit case to issue notice under Section 148. The material that he had before him for issuing notice under Section 148 is not mentioned in the report. In his report he vaguely refers to certain communications received by him from the CIT, Bihar and Orissa. He does not mention the facts contained in those communications. All that he says is that from those communications ?it appears that these persons (alleged creditors) are name lenders and the transactions are bogus?. He has not even come to a prima facie conclusion that the transactions towhich he referred are not genuine transactions. He appears to have had only a vague feeling that they may be bogus transactions. Such a conclusion does not fulfil the requirements of Section 151(2). What that provision requires is that he must give reasons for issuing a notice under Section 148. In other words he must have some prima facie grounds before him for taking action under Section 148. further his report mentions: ?Hence proper investigation regarding these loans is necessary?. In other words his conclusion is that there is a case for investigating as to the truth of the alleged transactions. That is not the same thing as saying that there are reasons to issue notice under Section 148. Before issuing a notice under Section 148, the Income Tax Officer must have either reasons to believe that by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to make a return under Section 139 for any assessment year to the Income Tax Officer or to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment for that year, income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for that year or alternatively notwithstanding that there has been no omission or failure as mentioned above on the part of the assessee, the Income Tax Officer has in consequence of information in his possession reason to believe that income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for any assessment year. Unless the requirements of clause (a) or (b) of Section 147 are satisfied, the Income Tax Officer has no jurisdiction to issue a notice under Section 148. From the report submitted by the Income Tax Officer to the Commissioner, it is clear that he could not have had reasons to believe that by reason of the assessee's omission to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment for the accounting year in question, income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for that year; nor could it be said that he as a consequence of information in his possession, had reasons to believe that the income chargeable to tax has escaped assessment for that year. We are not satisfied that the Income Tax Officer had any material before him which could satisfy the requirements of either clause (a) or (b) of Section 147.

Therefore he could not have issued a notice under Section 148. Further the report submitted by him under Section 151(2) does not mention any reason for coming to the conclusion that it is a fit case for the issue of a notice under Section 148. We are also of the opinion that the Commissioner has mechanically accorded permission. He did not himself record that he was satisfied that this was a fit case for the issue of a notice under Section 148. To Question 8 in the report which reads "whether the Commissioner is satisfied that it is a fit case for the issue of notice under Section 148", he just noted the word "yes" and affixed his signatures thereunder. We are of the opinion that if only he had read the report carefully, he could never have come to the conclusion on the material before him that this is a fit case to issue notice under Section 148. The important safeguards provided in Sections 147 and 151 were lightly treated by the Income Tax Officer as well as by the Commissioner. Both of them appear to have taken the duty imposed on them under those provisions as of little importance. They have substituted the form for the substance."

13. That principle was followed and applied in Union of India vs Rai Singh Dev Singh Bist, (1973) 3 SCC 581 and Sahara India (Firm) (1) vs CIT, (2008) 14 SCC 151. In both decisions, it was held that the approval order may not be passed mechanically and it must reflect that before reaching the required satisfaction, the higher authority had applied its mind and thus examined the fitness of the case for the purpose of grant of approval.

14. To the extent mandatorily no cash seized may be retained beyond a period of six months and further to the extent the Act prescribes that the extension of time may be granted for "reasons to be recorded in writing", the note sheet is a mute document. As to what may amount to "reasons to believe", the issue is no longer res integra.

15. Considering the law laid down by the Supreme Court, in the context of the Income Tax Act, a coordinate bench to which one of us (S.D. Singh, J.) was part, in Mudra Exports vs Deputy Commissioner of Income Tax, 2024:AHC:59707-DB, it was observed as below:

"16. As to what amounts to "reason to believe", the law has remained settled over long decades. In S Ganga Saran and Sons (P) Ltd. Vs. ITO (1981) 3 SCC 143, in the context of the then existing Section 147(a) of the Act, yet, in the context of initiation of reassessment proceedings upon recording of "reasons to believe", it was established in law that those words were stronger than "is satisfied"; the "belief" must be based on "reason" that are "relevant and material". For ready reference, it was held as below:-

"6. It is well settled as a result of several decisions of this Court that two distinct conditions must be satisfied before the Income Tax Officer can assume jurisdiction to issue notice under Section 147(a). First, he must have reason to believe that the income of the assessee has escaped assessment and secondly, he must have reason to believe that such escapement is by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts necessary for his assessment. If either of these conditions is not fulfilled, the notice issued by the Income Tax Officer would be without jurisdiction. The important words under Section 147(a) are "has reason to believe" and these words are stronger than the words "is satisfied". The belief entertained by the Income Tax Officer must not be arbitrary or irrational. It must be reasonable or in other words it must be based on reasons which are relevant and material. The court, of course, cannot investigate into the adequacy or sufficiency of the reasons which have weighed with the Income Tax Officer in coming to the belief, but the court can certainly examine whether the reasons are relevant and have a bearing on the matters in regard to which he is required to entertain the belief before he can issue notice under Section 147(a). If there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that, on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Income Tax Officer could not have reason to believe that any part of the income of the assessee had escaped assessment and such escapement was by reason of the omission or failure on the part of the assessee to disclose fully and truly all material facts and the notice issued by him would be liable to be struck down as invalid."

17. Then, a co-ordinate bench decision of this Court in Indra Prastha Chemicals Ltd. Vs. CIT (2004) 271 ITR 113, applied that law and held as below:-

"11. The expression "reason to believe" in section 147 does not mean purely subjective satisfaction on the part of the Assessing Officer. The belief must be held in good faith; it cannot be merely a pretence. It is open to the court to examine whether the reasons for the belief have a rational connection or a relevant bearing to the formation of the belief and are not extraneous or irrelevant to the purpose of the section. To this limited extent, the action of the Assessing Officer in starting proceedings under section 147 is open to challenge in a court of law as held in S. Narayanappa v. CIT, [1967] 63 ITR 219 (SC); Kantamani Venkata Narayana and Sons v. First Additional ITO, [1967] 63 ITR 638 (SC); Madhya Pradesh Industries Ltd. v. ITO, [1970] 77 ITR 268 (SC); Sowdagar Ahmed Khan v. ITO, [1968] 70 ITR 79 (SC); ITO v. Lakhmani Mewal Das, [1976] 103 ITR 437 (SC); ITO v. Nawab Mir Barkat Ali Khan Bahadur, [1974] 97 ITR 239 (SC); CST v. Bhagwan Industries (P.) Ltd.,[1973] 31 STC 293 (SC) and State of Punjab v. Balbir Singh, (1994) 3 SCC 299. 12. The formation of the required opinion and belief by the Assessing Officer is a condition precedent. Without such formation, he will not have jurisdiction to initiate proceedings under section 147. The fulfilment of this condition is not a mere formality but it is mandatory. The failure to fulfil that condition would vitiate the entire proceedings as held by the apex court in the case of Johri Lal (HUF) v. CIT, [1973] 88 ITR 439 (SC) and Sheo Nath Singh v. AAC of IT, [1971] 82 ITR 147 (SC). The reasons for the formation of the belief must have rational connection with or relevant bearing on the formation of belief. Rational connection postulates that there must be a direct nexus or live link between the material coming to the notice of the Assessing Officer and the formation of his belief that there has been escapement of income of the assessee from assessment in the particular year. It is not any and every material, howsoever vague and indefinite or distant, remote and far fetched, which would warrant the formation of the belief relating to escapement of income of the assessee from assessment, as held by the hon'ble Supreme Court in the case of ITO v. Lakhmani Mewal Das, [1976] 103 ITR 437. If there is no rational and intelligible nexus between the reasons and the belief, so that, on such reasons, no one properly instructed on facts and law could reasonably entertain the belief, the conclusion would be inescapable that the Assessing Officer could not have reason to believe. In such a case, the notice issued by him would be liable to be struck down as invalid as held in the case of Ganga Saran and Sons P. Ltd. v. ITO, [1981] 130 ITR 1 (SC). 13. Thus, it is well settled that the "reason to believe" under section 147 must be held in good faith and should have a rational connection and relevant bearing on the formation of the belief and should not be extraneous or irrelevant. Further, this court in proceedings under article 226 of the Constitution of India can scrutinize the reasons recorded by the Assessing Officer for Initiating the proceedings under section 147/148 of the Act. The sufficiency of the material cannot be gone into but relevancy certainly be gone into."

16. Therefore, we have no hesitation to reach the conclusion that there did not exist any prior approval by the competent authority to extend the period of limitation, to issue the show cause notice and thereby to further enable retention of cash Rs.25,20,000/- beyond the period of six months.

17. Second, even more vitally, on the statement made by Sri Krishna Agarwal, it is certainly not in dispute that the note sheet referred to above (described as the order by the DRI), was never issued to or served upon the petitioners, before expiry of six months. Thus, neither of the conditions prescribed under Section 110 of the Act was fulfilled.

18. Consequently, it has to be concluded that the petitioners had earned a right to be returned the entire cash Rs.25,20,000/- on expiry of six months. Till that date no requisition had been received by the DRI Authorities from the Income Tax Authorities, to hand over the cash to them.

19. Therefore, the retention of the money from 20.02.2026 to 20.05.2026 is wholly illegal and outside the procedure prescribed by the law. The cash ought to have been returned on the mandatory statutory condition not fulfilled, without any application by the petitioners. To retain it beyond the period of six months was without jurisdiction.

20. In that circumstance, the petitioners approached this Court for a mandamus upon the DRI authorities, on 07.04.2026. The petition was entertained against advance notice to the respondents. They have been represented on each of the three earlier dates. They were fully aware of the lack of jurisdiction to retain the cash beyond 19.02.2026, if not for absence of prior approval, certainly for reason of the order not communicated to the petitioners, before expiry of the mandatory six months period.

21. Still, without informing the Court, acting unilaterally, the DRI authorities have, without surviving jurisdiction, dealt with the valuable property of the petitioners, that was in their custody, in trust, held on behalf of the petitioners and not in any other capacity, after expiry of statutory period of six months. Yet, they made over that property, of the petitioners (though held in trust) to the income tax authorities, without informing the Court. Why and in what circumstance such facts were hidden from the Court or not disclosed to the Court, is not for us to go into, at this stage. Those may engage the scope of a disciplinary inquiry that may be initiated against the erring officials by the DRI authorities, themselves.

22. What is relevant to the Court is that the fact of non-communication of the order sheet dated 18.02.2026, to the petitioners, was well known to the DRI authorities, from before. Also, they were required to issue instructions to their counsel, in these proceedings. The order dated 20.04.2026 and 08.05.2026 leave no doubt that the issue was in the knowledge of the DRI authorities and they were cognizant of the fact that the Writ Court had not only entertained the petition but release of the cash was under active consideration by the Court.

23. Also, it is stated by learned counsel for the DRI that the communication dated 07.05.2026 received by Deputy Director clearly informed him that the office note/order dated 18.02.2026 had not been received and therefore the DRI authorities had, informed the Income Tax authorities to requisition the money. However, on a pointed query, it is further stated that no requisition had been received by the DRI authorities till then, or till before 19/20.05.2026.

24. On the last date, Sri Krishna Agarwal had confirmed that other than the note sheet, there was no other document to justify the retention of cash beyond 19.02.2026 and it was also known that the communication dated 18.02.2026 had not been communicated to the petitioners. In that circumstance, only for the purposes of completion of record, we had required learned counsel for the petitioners to bring on record the said document, before the proceedings may be concluded. Thus, the matter was posted for today.

25. In that light of the proceedings and conduct of the DRI authorities, it is absolutely shocking and therefore, unacceptable that just two days prior to the date fixed in these proceedings, without taking leave of the Court, in a wholly hurried manner, the requisition that may have been received by the customs authorities (from the income tax authorities), was executed, practically the same day, if not within the same hour. Thus, requisition first issued by the Income Tax authorities on 19.05.2026 at Lucknow, has been given effect to at 13:20 pm on 20.05.2026, at Bareilly.

26. In view of above we are forced to reach a conclusion that DRI authorities have deliberately attempted to defeat the ends of justice and specifically the present petition. Their conduct appears to be directed not to participate in the proceedings, but to over reach and defeat the proceedings, by acting in a manner wholly impermissible in law and beyond their jurisdiction.

27. In view of above undisputed facts, specifically in face of the admission that the order sheet/order dated 18.02.2026 was never communicated to the petitioners within time, and further in view of satisfaction that the said order sheet does not fulfill the requirements of approval order, required to be recorded in terms of the first proviso under Section 110 of the Act, we conclude that the petitioners were entitled to refund of that amount Rs.25,20,000/-. However, that right of relief earned by the petitioners has been positively and unfairly obstructed by the DRI authorities, as recorded above.

28. Thus, we dispose of the writ petition with the observation that though the petitioners may now be entitled to return of the money from the Income Tax authorities, in accordance with law, for the reasons noted above, that proceedings have been thrust on the petitioners solely for reason of illegal actions performed by respondents. To that extent petitioners are found entitled to cost which is assessed Rs.10 lacs-for over reaching these proceedings and the judicial process and for deliberately defeating the ends of justice, for reasons not known to the Court.

29. Upto the last para, this order had been orally pronounced on 22.05.2026. Later, against oral mention made by Sri Krishna Agarwal on behalf of the ASGI, he was permitted to file appropriate application with respect to his prayer made to reduce the cost.

30. Civil Misc. Application No. 5 of 2026 came to be filed on behalf of respondent No. 1. It is supported by the affidavit of Sri Neeraj Kumar, Joint Director, DRI, Lucknow.

31. Today, Sri S.P. Singh, learned A.S.G.I. assisted by Sri Krishna Agarawal has referred to the contents of the affidavit of the Joint Director. He has also relied on the Office Order-01/2026 dated 24.05.2026 issued by the Additional Director General, DRI, Lucknow Zone, Lucknow. In paragraph 11, 12, 13 and 14 of the affidavit filed by Sri Neeraj Kumar, it has been stated as below:

"11. That it is humbly submitted that the actions undertaken by the officers were not with the deliberate intent to defeat the petition but undertaken under the belief of bonafide discharge of official duty. That there was never any intention, deliberate or otherwise, to disregard the dignity, authority, or directions of this Hon'ble Court. The circumstances leading to the present situation arose due to bona-fide understanding.

12. That it is most respectfully submitted before this Hon'ble Court that due diligence and due caution shall be exercised by this office in future in all the sub-judice matters.

13. That it is most respectfully submitted that the officer who had put up the proposal for extension of the period of issuance of Show Cause Notice under section 110(2) of the Customs Act 1962 had put up the reasons for seeking extension on the file and the competent authority, in agreement with those reasons, had put his dated signature on the Note Sheet. However, in further such extensions to be granted in such matters, independent reason will be recorded by the competent authority and the order of extension shall also be communicated to the concerned party in terms of Section 110(2) of the Customs Act, 1962.

14. That the present affidavit may kindly be taken on record in the interest of justice, this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to accept the present unconditional apology, take a lenient view in the matter and pass such further order(s) as deemed fit and proper in the interest of justice."

32. Office Order-01/2026 dated 24.05.2026 relied by the learned A.S.G.I. reads as below:

"OFFICE ORDER-01/2026

It is hereby directed that no action in respect of matters sub judice before any court shall be taken without first verifying the status of the pending judicial proceedings and, interim order/stay/direction, if any. Officers shall exercise due caution in such matters and ensure that the pendency of the matter before Hon'ble Court/Tribunal is duly taken into account when any action is contemplated. Wherever required, leave/permission/clarification of the Hon'ble Court/Tribunal must be sought under the guidance of standing counsel. All the developments in such cases must be brought to the notice of the undersigned without delay.

These instructions shall be followed scrupulously by all officers/formations under DRI Lucknow Zonal Unit. Any deviation shall be viewed seriously.

Sd/-
25/05/2026
(Dr. Vidyut Vikash)
Additional Director General"

33. In view of such facts, learned A.S.G.I. assures the Court that in future the authorities of the DRI will act in accordance with law such that wherever any cash may be seized, it may be returned to the person from whom such seizure may have been affected, subject to any show cause notice issued to proceed against such cash and/or subject to time extension order that may be passed, in accordance with law, as discussed above, in the main part of the order.

34. In such facts, he further prays that the costs may be made easy.

35. On the other hand, learned counsel for the petitioners has opposed the prayer made. He would submit that loss has already been caused to the petitioners. Thus, impost of exemplary costs may be maintained.

36. In view of the assurance given by the learned A.S.G.I., while some relaxation in the award of costs may be made, at the same time, in view of the discussion contained in the main part of the order as also recognising the fact that the money was retained by the DRI for long duration of three months, after the expiry of the statutory period under Section 110(2) of the Customs Act, 1962, loss has been caused to the petitioners for act of deliberate omission and/or commission. Accordingly, the original proposal to impose costs Rs. Ten Lacs is modified to Rs. One Lac.

37. Civil Misc. Application No. 5 of 2026 is disposed of.

38.The writ petition is thus disposed of.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the legal heirs of the deceased could subsequently be brought on record only by way of impleadment and not by way of substitution as the proceedings before the Rent Authority had been initiated by impleading the respondent, who was already dead at that point of time

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021- Section 4(3)- Procedural rules are intended to advance the cause of justice and not to thwart it. (Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

Heard Sri Prateek Sinha, learned counsel for the petitioners and Sri Jitendra Pratap Singh, learned counsel appearing for the respondents.

2. The present petition has been filed, seeking to assail the order dated 10.09.2025 passed by the Rent Authority in Rent Case No. 376 of 2025 (Gaurav Shukla and others vs. Divendra Kumar Saigal and others) under Section 4(3) of U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021, as well as the subsequent order dated 20.12.2025 passed by the Rent Tribunal in Rent Appeal No. 225 of 2025, whereby the said order has been affirmed.

3. It is sought to be contended that by means of the order dated 10.09.2025, an application seeking substitution of the legal heirs of deceased Divendra Kumar Saigal, respondent in the rent case, had been allowed and a direction was issued to substitute the legal heirs. Learned counsel for the petitioners submits that the proceedings before the Rent Authority had been initiated by impleading the said respondent, who was already dead at that point of time. It is argued that the legal heirs of the deceased could subsequently be brought on record only by way of impleadment and not by way of substitution.

4. It is further contended that when the order permitting substitution was challenged in appeal, the Appellate Court, treating the same as a mere amendment in the array of parties, declined to interfere with the order passed by the Rent Authority.

5. Per contra, learned counsel appearing for the respondents submits that the impleadment of Divendra Kumar Saigal at the time of filing of the application before the Rent Authority was made under a misconception and, upon coming to know that he was no longer alive, an application was moved for substitution so as to bring on record the legal heirs of the deceased respondent. It is submitted that the respondents-landlords acted bona fide and the Rent Authority has rightly directed that the legal heirs be brought on record in the interest of justice.

6. It is not disputed that the other joint tenants were already parties to the proceedings. In such circumstances, even if all the legal heirs, who were joint tenants, had not initially been impleaded, the proceedings would not fail, inasmuch as it is not necessary to implead each and every joint tenant as a party in eviction proceedings. At best, such persons may be treated as proper parties. Furthermore, now that the legal heirs have already been brought on record, the mere fact that the application was filed subsequently would not make any substantial difference to the maintainability or validity of the proceedings.

7. The law is well settled that procedural rules are intended to advance the cause of justice and not to thwart it. Procedure is the handmaid of justice and cannot be permitted to defeat substantive rights where no prejudice is shown to have been caused to the opposite party. Hyper-technical objections with regard to nomenclature of an application, whether styled as substitution or impleadment, cannot override the substance of the matter once the necessary parties are before the authority and full opportunity of contest has been preserved.

8. The mere impleadment of a deceased person at the institution of proceedings, when occasioned by bona fide mistake and subsequently corrected by bringing the legal heirs on record, does not by itself render the proceedings non est, particularly where other necessary or joint parties were already before the authority and no prejudice is shown. Courts and tribunals must examine the substance of the proceedings rather than the form of the application. A procedural defect capable of rectification ought not to defeat adjudication on merits, nor can technical objections relating to nomenclature of the application override the ends of justice.

9. Learned counsel for the petitioners has not disputed the aforesaid legal position.

10. In view of the aforesaid facts and circumstances, this Court does not find any manifest illegality, jurisdictional error, or perversity in the orders impugned so as to warrant interference in exercise of supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

11. The petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the tenant is entitled to protection under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, and exemption under Section 2(2) of the Act

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972- Section 2(2)- Where a tenant seeks protection under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, the burden lies upon the party asserting applicability of the Act to establish the foundational facts attracting such protection, including the date of completion of construction where exemption under Section 2(2) is in issue. In the absence of cogent documentary or reliable oral evidence regarding completion, assessment, first occupation, or any other circumstance contemplated under Explanation I to the second proviso to Section 2(2), the benefit of the statute cannot be claimed merely on bald assertion.

Held- Except a bald plea regarding construction in the year 1991, no reliable material has been brought on record to establish completion, first assessment or first occupation in the manner contemplated under the statute. Petition dismissed. (E-15)

2.The present petition has been filed seeking to assail the order dated 17.02.2025 passed by the Judge, Small Causes Court, Aligarh, in S.C.C. Suit No. 27 of 2012 (Shri Gopal Krishna Gangal vs. Mohammad Zaki Khan), whereby the suit instituted by the respondent-landlord for ejectment and arrears of rent against the tenant came to be decreed. Challenge has also been laid to the subsequent order dated 03.10.2025 passed by the District Judge, Aligarh in S.C.C. Revision No. 42 of 2025 (Mohammad Zaki Khan vs. Shri Gopal Krishna Gangal), affirming the judgment of the trial court.

3.The dispute arises out of S.C.C. Suit No. 27 of 2012 instituted by the respondent-landlord against the petitioner-tenant in respect of a shop situated at Battomal Market, Palval Road, Qasba Khair, District Aligarh. The petitioner claimed tenancy since the year 1987 at a monthly rent of Rs.400/-. Alleging default in payment of rent and termination of tenancy by notice dated 10.05.2012, the respondent instituted the suit for ejectment and arrears of rent. The suit came to be decreed by the trial court and the revision preferred thereagainst has also been dismissed, giving rise to the present petition.

4.The sole ground urged in challenge to the orders passed by the Small Causes Court and the revisional court pertains to the applicability of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972. It is contended that in view of Explanation I(a) to the second proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 2 of the Act, the construction of a building is deemed to have been completed on the date on which completion thereof is reported to or otherwise recorded by the local authority having jurisdiction, and in the case of a building subject to assessment, the date on which the first assessment thereof comes into effect; where the said dates are different, the earliest of such dates, and in the absence of any such report, record or assessment, the date on which it is actually occupied (not including occupation merely for purposes of supervising the construction or guarding the building under construction) for the first time.

5.It is sought to be urged that in the present case none of the aforesaid dates were available and, according to the tenant, the building was constructed in the year 1991; hence, the Act would be applicable.

6.Learned counsel appearing for the respondent, however, has pointed out that as per the tenant's own stand before the trial court, he had been inducted as tenant in the year 1987 and, upon construction of the new shop in the year 1988, he was put in possession thereof. It is, therefore, submitted that the assertion regarding construction in the year 1991 is wholly baseless and cannot be accepted.

7.Learned counsel for the petitioner has not been able to substantiate the plea that the building had been constructed prior to 26th April, 1985, i.e. the cut-off date specified in the second proviso to sub-section (2) of Section 2, on the basis whereof alone the provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 could be claimed to be applicable.

8.It is well settled that where a tenant seeks protection under the provisions of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, the burden lies upon the party asserting applicability of the Act to establish the foundational facts attracting such protection, including the date of completion of construction where exemption under Section 2(2) is in issue. In the absence of cogent documentary or reliable oral evidence regarding completion, assessment, first occupation, or any other circumstance contemplated under Explanation I to the second proviso to Section 2(2), the benefit of the statute cannot be claimed merely on bald assertions.

9.It is equally well settled that the question regarding applicability of U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972, where dependent upon the date of completion of construction, has to be determined strictly in accordance with the deeming provisions contained in Explanation I to the second proviso to Section 2(2) of the Act. The Supreme Court in Om Prakash Gupta vs. Dig Vijendra Pal Gupta (1982) 2 SCC 61 has held that where the building is subject to municipal assessment, the date on which the first assessment comes into effect would be relevant, and only in the absence of such report, record or assessment, the date of first actual occupation can be taken into consideration.

10.In the present case, except a bald plea regarding construction in the year 1991, no reliable material has been brought on record to establish completion, first assessment or first occupation in the manner contemplated under the statute.

11.In view of the aforesaid, the findings concurrently recorded by the two courts below that U.P. Act No. 13 of 1972 is not applicable to the premises in question do not warrant interference.

12.No other ground has been urged in support of the challenge which may persuade this Court to exercise jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

13.At this stage, learned counsel for the petitioners prays for indulgence by way of grant of nine months? time to vacate the premises in question. Learned counsel appearing for the respondent, on instructions, states that he has no objection to the prayer so made.

14.Accordingly, while dismissing the petition, this Court grants nine months' time to the petitioners to vacate and hand over peaceful possession of the premises in question to the respondent-landlord on or before 09.02.2027, subject to the following conditions:

(i) The petitioner-tenant shall file an undertaking before the Judge, Small Causes Court, Aligarh, stating that peaceful possession of the premises in question shall be handed over to the respondent-landlord on or before 09.02.2027;

(ii) The said undertaking shall be filed within a period of two weeks from today;

(iii) The petitioners shall also file an undertaking that the entire arrears, after adjusting the amount already deposited, shall be deposited within four weeks from today;

(iv) The petitioners shall further deposit monthly use and occupation charges at the rate of Rs. 4,000/- per month for future months commencing from June, 2026, by the 7th day of each succeeding month, as agreed between learned counsel for the parties.

15.It is made clear that in the event of default in compliance with any of the aforesaid conditions, the protection granted by this Court shall stand vacated automatically, and it shall be open to the respondent-landlord to seek enforcement of the decree passed in the S.C.C. Suit in accordance with law.

16.Subject to the aforesaid directions, the petition stands dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the learned trial court as well as the revisional court rejected the discharge application in a mechanical manner without examining whether even a prima facie case was made out against the petitioners on the basis of the material available on record

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 227- It does not appeal to common sense that had the ladies of the house been involved in commission of the alleged offences, still they would not have been named in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and in the statement of the complainant's father, who claims to be an eye witness. There implication only through subsequent statements of alleged eyewitnesses, without they having been implicated in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Or in the statement of the complainant's father raises a serious suspicion against the correctness of the statements of witnesses alleging their involvement and such statements cannot be taken as gospel truth.

Held- That petitioner Nos. 5, 6, 8 and 9, all of whom are ladies and whose names were not mentioned in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or in the statement of the complainant's father, and nothing is said to have been recovered from whom, appear to have been implicated by including their names in the statements of witnesses later on as an afterthought and those ladies are entitled to be discharged- No good ground exists for discharge of the petitioner Nos. 1 to 4, as they were specifically named in the application under Section

156(3) Cr.P.C. and specific allegations were leveled against them or of the petitioner no. 7, from whom the stolen generator is said to have been recovered. Petition partly allowed. (E-15)

Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Shikhar Anand Counsel for Respondent(s) : G.A., Dhirendra Kumar Mishra

(Delivered by Hon'ble Subhash Vidyarthi, J.)

1. Heard Shri Shikhar Anand, the learned counsel for the petitioners, Shri Jai Prakash, the learned A.G.A. and Sri. Dhirendra Kumar Mishra, the learned counsel for the opposite party No.2.

2. By means of the instant petition filed under Article 227 of the Constitution of India, the petitioners have challenged the validity of an order dated 16.01.2024 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 20, Sultanpur in Criminal Case No.7039 of 2023 arising out of Case Crime No.81 of 2019 under Section 457, 380 IPC, Police Station- Baldirai, District- Sultanpur whereby an application filed by the petitioners under Section 227 Cr.P.C. seeking their discharge, has been rejected. The petitioners challenged the aforesaid order by filing Criminal Revision No. 43 of 2024, which too has been dismissed by means of a judgment and order dated 17.08.2024 passed by the learned Session Judge, Sultanpur and validity of the revisional order has also been assailed through the present petition.

3. The aforesaid case was instituted on the basis of an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. filed by the opposite party No.2- Tejbahadur against (i) Baburam, aged about 58 years, (ii) Sant Ram, aged about 65 years, (both (i) and (ii) sons of Hublal), (iii) Rinku @ Ashwani, aged about 20 years son of Baburam and (iv) Devendra @ Moti, aged about 25 years, son of Santram, the petitioner nos.1, 2, 3 and 4 respectively in the present petition.

4. It was stated in the application that the complainant is a permanent resident of House No. 162, Village- Lakehatamafi, Police Station and Tehsil -Baldirai, District- Sultanpur. The opposite party nos. 1 to 4 forcibly attempted to take possession of the house and they instituted Regular Suit No. 76 of 2006, wherein the trial Court passed an order directing the parties to maintain status-quo. On 26.12.2018 at about 7:00 p.m., when the complainant had gone out in connection of his treatment, the opposite party nos.1 to 4 broke open the lock of the house, entered into it and took away a generator along with its parts worth Rs. 80,000/-, three takhats, 50 sacks full of paddy, 40 sacks full of wheat, two benches, one table, a gas stove, a gas cylinder and some other household articles. Upon receiving information from some unnamed persons, the complainant dialed 100 and informed the police. By the time the police arrived, the accused persons had already taken away the articles.

5. The complainant reported the incident to the police but the police did not lodge a First Information Report. Thereafter, on 29.12.2018, he sent information of the incident to the Superintendent of Police, Sultanpur through registered post and when no action was taken on that application, he filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. against the petitioner nos. 1 to 4. On the said application, the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No.18, Sultanpur passed an order dated 15.03.2019 directing the police to register a case. In compliance thereof, FIR No.81 of 2019 was registered under Sections 457 and 380 IPC against petitioner nos.1 to 4, against whom allegations had been levelled in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C.

6. During investigation, the Investigating Officer recorded statement of the complainant and he reiterated the allegations made in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. In his additional statement, the complainant stated that he had gone to some relative's place at about 6:00 p.m. on 25.12.2018. At about 5:00 a.m. on 26.12.2018, some unnamed villager telephonically informed him that the petitioner No.1 and his family members were taking possession of his house. Upon receiving this information, he dialed 100 and informed the police. The police reached the village and took the 'party' to the police station. Thereafter, he went to Sultanpur for taking medicine. He returned to his village at about 8:30 p.m. and found that the locks of his shop and house had been broken open and the petitioner No.1 and his family members were loading the goods from the shop and house on a four-wheeler pickup vehicle. The complainant stated that he again dialed 100, but the call could not be connected. He also attempted to contact the police outpost and the police station telephonically, but those calls too could not be connected. Thereafter, he went to the police station, where the police assured him that they would reach the spot. The complainant further stated that he waited at the police station for some time. When he eventually returned to the spot, he found that the accused persons had already removed all the articles and had taken possession of the shop and the house.

7. In his additional statement, the complainant stated that he had personally witnessed the accused persons removing the goods from his shop and house. The complainant further stated that besides himself, Devinder alias Moti, son of Sant Ram, Babu Ram son of Hublal, Santram son of Hublal and Rinku son of Baburam had witnessed the incident.

8. Learned counsel for opposite party No. 2 pointed out that a copy of the statement of the complainant's father Raghunath annexed with the petition is incomplete. He produced a complete photocopy of statement of Raghunath recorded by the Investigating Officer wherein he stated that he had retired from the post of Sub-Inspector of Police in the year 2001 while he was posted at Lucknow. He further stated that the petitioner No.1 belongs to his village and his caste and he had previously resided with Raghunath at Lucknow where he used to work as a Chowkidar in a hospital. Raghunath further stated that on 25.12.2018, his son Tejbahadur (the opposite party No. 2) had gone to the house of some relatives. Raghunath and his grandson Deepak were sleeping in the house. At about 5:00 a.m. on 26.12.2018, the petitioner No.1 arrived there and asked Raghunath to leave the house. His grandson Deepak got frightened. Thereafter, the police vehicle arrived and took Raghunath and his grandson Deepak with them. They went with the police after locking the house. One Jitendra Bahadur Singh resident of Sonbarsa reached there and he asked that the persons from the side of the petitioners should also be taken by the police. Thereupon, the police took along Rinku, Baburam and Devindra (the petitioner Nos. 1, 3, and 4 as well).

9. At the police station, Raghunath and his grandson Deepak were detained whereas Moti, Devindra and Rinku were released. Jitendra took them away and thereafter the police allegedly set them free at about 9:00 p.m. Upon returning home, the complainant found that the locks of the shop and the house had been broken. Persons of Baburam (the petitioner No.1) were loading the goods on a tractor and a pickup vehicle.

10. Raghunath stated that he owned certain land at Lucknow. He had executed a sale deed in respect of half of his land at Lucknow in favour of the petitioner No.1 on the condition that the petitioner No.1 will give him equal land in the village. The petitioner No.1 constructed a house on the land given by Raghunath at Lucknow and he had been residing there for the past 18-19 years. Raghunath constructed a house in the year 2001 on the land of petitioner No.1 in the village and had been residing there with his family. Subsequently, the petitioner No. 1 demanded an additional sum of Rs.50,000/- claiming that his land was situated on the roadside. Raghunath paid the amount on 10.12.2005 and the petitioner No.1 gave an acknowledgment written on a stamp paper. Thereafter, the petitioner No. 1 turned dishonest and he instituted Regular Suit No. 76 of 2006. Raghunath stated that there was an electricity connection in the name of the complainant Tejbahadur. He also alleged that the petitioner No.1 had obtained a stay order dated 12.07.2010 by concealing material facts.

11. The Investigating Officer recorded the statement of Deepak (son of the complainant and grandson of Raghunath). He stated that the Village Pradhan got him and his grandfather Raghunath released from the police station and brought them back to the village at about 9:00 p.m. He further stated that villagers have clicked some photographs of the incident. According to him, there was a photograph showing Devinder @ Moti breaking open the locks. He further stated that several villagers had witnessed the family members of petitioner No.1 forcibly entering the premises and looting the goods.

12. The Investigating Officer recorded the statements of independent witnesses Rakesh Yadav, Brijnath and Surendra Kumar, who stated that Baburam, Rinku, Kailashpati, Renu, Santram, Rajendra, Jagram @ Sanjay, Sitaau Devi, Urmila etc. were taking out the goods hurriedly and were loading them on a pickup vehicle.

13.Although the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. was filed levelling allegations against 4 persons, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet dated 13.06.2019 against nine accused persons (the petitioners) for offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 IPC. The trial Court thereafter took cognizance of the offences on 20.01.2021.

14. The charge-sheet was submitted for offences punishable under Sections 457 and 380 IPC. Thereafter, the Investigating Officer arrested two more persons - one of the named accused persons Devendra alias Moti (the petitioner no. 4) and Jagram (the petitioner No. 7, who was not named in the FIR) on 04.08.2019 and showed recovery of a generator from their possession. The Investigating Officer further showed recovery of an empty LPG cylinder of Indane Gas from Rajendra son of Santram.

15. The petitioners filed an application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. on 11.08.2020 seeking their discharge. It was stated therein that, although the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and the consequent FIR named only four persons (the petitioner nos. 1 to 4) and it did not allege involvement of any other named or unnamed persons, the Investigating Officer submitted a charge-sheet against three additional persons.

16. On 30.07.2019, the Investigating Officer showed recovery of a generator from a named accused Devendra @ Moti (the petitioner no. 4) and an unnamed person Jagram alias Sanjay (the petitioner no. 7), who was not named in the FIR. On the basis of the alleged recovery, Section 411 IPC was added in the case. The petitioners contended that after submission of the charge-sheet, the Investigating Officer had no authority to conduct further investigation in the manner adopted by him. It was also stated that the trial court had rejected the request for remand of the aforesaid accused persons under Section 411 IPC, but their remand was subsequently allowed.

17. The petitioners filed an application under Section 227 Cr.P.C. on 11.08.2020 seeking their discharge. It was stated therein that, although the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and the consequent FIR named only four persons, namely petitioner Nos. 1 to 4, and did not disclose the involvement of any other named or unnamed persons, the Investigating Officer had nevertheless submitted a charge-sheet against five additional persons.

18. It was further contended that, although the charge-sheet had already been submitted on 30.07.2019, the Investigating Officer subsequently arrested two accused persons, who were not named in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or in the FIR, and thereafter showed recovery of a generator and a gas cylinder. On the basis of the alleged recovery, Section 411 IPC was added to the case.

19. The petitioners contended that after submission of the charge-sheet, the Investigating Officer had no authority to conduct further investigation in the manner adopted by him. It was also stated that the trial court had rejected the request for remand of the aforesaid accused persons under Section 411 IPC, though their remand was subsequently permitted.

20. It was further stated in the discharge application that the Investigating Officer had submitted a charge-sheet against Renu Kumari, petitioner No. 6, although she was employed at Chitrakoot with "Charcha Aaj Ki". The Editor of "Charcha Aaj Ki" had allegedly furnished a written statement certifying that Renu Kumari had continuously attended her duties at Chitrakoot till 25.05.2019.

21. The discharge application was rejected by the impugned order dated 16.01.2024. The trial court observed that from the material collected during investigation, offences under Sections 457 and 380 IPC were prima facie made out against all the accused persons and, therefore, no ground existed for discharging them. The revisional court affirmed the aforesaid order.

22. Challenging the validity of the aforesaid orders, learned counsel for the petitioners submitted that the learned Magistrate has rejected the discharge application in a mechanical manner without examining whether even a prima facie case was made out against the petitioners on the basis of the material available on record. In support of his submissions, learned counsel for the petitioners placed reliance upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court reported in Tuhin Kumar Biswas versus State of West Bengal: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2604 and Ram Prakash Chadha versus State of Uttar Pradesh: (2024) 10 SCC 651.

23. On the other hand, learned counsel for opposite party No. 2 placed reliance upon the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Manjit Singh Virdi v. Hussain Mohammed Shattaf: (2023) 7 SCC 633 and upon a judgment rendered by a Coordinate Bench of this Court in Neeraj and two others v. State of U.P. and another, reported in 2025 ASCLKO 45421, wherein the Coordinate Bench had referred to numerous precedents regarding the scope and ambit of Section 227 Cr.P.C.

24. Section 227 Cr.P.C. reads as follows: -

"227. Discharge- If, upon consideration of the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith, and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in this behalf, the Judge considers that there is not sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused, he shall discharge the accused and record his reasons for so doing."

25. In Sajjan Kumar v. CBI: (2010) 9 SCC 368, the Hon'ble Supreme Court considered various precedents on the scope of Sections 227 and 228 Cr.P.C. and culled out the following principles:-

"Exercise of jurisdiction under Sections 227 and 228 CrPC

21. On consideration of the authorities about the scope of Sections 227 and 228 of the Code, the following principles emerge:

(i) The Judge while considering the question of framing the charges under Section 227 CrPC has the undoubted power to sift and weigh the evidence for the limited purpose of finding out whether or not a prima facie case against the accused has been made out. The test to determine prima facie case would depend upon the facts of each case.

(ii) Where the materials placed before the court disclose grave suspicion against the accused which has not been properly explained, the court will be fully justified in framing a charge and proceeding with the trial.

(iii) The court cannot act merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution but has to consider the broad probabilities of the case, the total effect of the evidence and the documents produced before the court, any basic infirmities, etc. However, at this stage, there cannot be a roving enquiry into the pros and cons of the matter and weigh the evidence as if he was conducting a trial.

(iv) If on the basis of the material on record, the court could form an opinion that the accused might have committed offence, it can frame the charge, though for conviction the conclusion is required to be proved beyond reasonable doubt that the accused has committed the offence.

(v) At the time of framing of the charges, the probative value of the material on record cannot be gone into but before framing a charge the court must apply its judicial mind on the material placed on record and must be satisfied that the commission of offence by the accused was possible.

(vi) At the stage of Sections 227 and 228, the court is required to evaluate the material and documents on record with a view to find out if the facts emerging therefrom taken at their face value disclose the existence of all the ingredients constituting the alleged offence. For this limited purpose, sift the evidence as it cannot be expected even at that initial stage to accept all that the prosecution states as gospel truth even if it is opposed to common sense or the broad probabilities of the case.

(vii) If two views are possible and one of them gives rise to suspicion only, as distinguished from grave suspicion, the trial Judge will be empowered to discharge the accused and at this stage, he is not to see whether the trial will end in conviction or acquittal."

(Emphasis added)

26. The aforesaid judgment has been followed by a Bench consisting of three Hon'ble Judges of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in Ghulam Hassan Beigh v. Mohd. Maqbool Magrey: (2022) 12 SCC 657.

27. In Manjit Singh Virdi v. Hussain Mohammed Shattaf: (2023) 7 SCC 633, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"11. ...The settled proposition of law is that at the stage of hearing on the charges entire evidence produced by the prosecution is to be believed. In case no offence is made out then only an accused can be discharged. Truthfulness, sufficiency and acceptability of the material produced can be done only at the stage of trial. At the stage of charge, the court has to satisfy that a prima facie case is made out against the accused persons. Interference of the Court at that stage is required only if there is strong reasons to hold that in case the trial is allowed to proceed, the same would amount to abuse of process of the court."

28. In Ram Prakash Chadha v. State of U.P.: (2024) 10 SCC 651, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"27. ...in a case where an application is filed for discharge under Section 227CrPC, it is an irrecusable duty and obligation of the Court to apply its mind and answer to it regarding the existence of or otherwise, of ground for proceeding against the accused, by confining such consideration based only on the record of the case and the documents submitted therewith and after hearing the submissions of the accused and the prosecution in that behalf. To wit, such conclusion on existence or otherwise of ground to proceed against the accused concerned should not be and could not be based on mere suppositions or suspicions or conjectures, especially not founded upon material available before the Court...."

29. In Tuhin Kumar Biswas v. State of W.B.: 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2604, it was held that: -

"28. ... where there is a pending civil dispute between the parties, the Police and the Criminal Courts must be circumspect in filing a chargesheet and framing charges respectively. In a society governed by rule of law, the decision to file a chargesheet should be based on the Investigating Officer's determination of whether the evidence collected provides a reasonable prospect of conviction. The Police at the stage of filing of Chargesheet and the Criminal Court at the stage of framing of Charge must act as initial filters ensuring that only cases with a strong suspicion should proceed to the formal trial stage to maintain the efficiency and integrity of the judicial system. The tendency of filing chargesheets in matters where no strong suspicion is made out clogs the judicial system. It forces Judges, court staff, and prosecutors to spend time on trials that are likely to result in an acquittal. This diverts limited judicial resources from handling stronger, more serious cases, contributing to massive case backlogs. Undoubtedly, there can be no analysis at the charge framing stage as to whether the case would end in conviction or acquittal, but the fundamental principle is that the State should not prosecute citizens without a reasonable prospect of conviction, as it compromises the right to a fair process."

30. When the facts of the present case are examined in the light of the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the aforesaid cases, it appears that while deciding an application for discharge, the Court is required to examine the material placed by the prosecution for the limited purpose of satisfying itself as to whether the material gives rise to a grave suspicion that the accused persons have committed the alleged offences.

31. In the present case, the incident is alleged to have taken place at about 7:00 p.m. on 26.12.2018. The complainant filed an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. On 24.01.2019, i.e, after about a month since the occurrence, against four persons only. In the application was filed about a month of the incident, the petitioner Nos. 5 to 9 were not named.

32. In the statement recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., the complainant reiterated the FIR version. In his additional statement, the informant stated that, upon receiving information, he reached his house and found that the petitioners had already established their possession over the shop and the house.

33. The complainant's father, Raghunath, stated that he had seen the men of Babu Ram (the petitioner no. 1) loading the goods on a tractor and a pickup vehicle. Although Raghunath claimed to have witnessed removal of goods by the associates of the petitioner No. 1, petitioner Nos. 5 to 9 were still not named in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., which had been filed after about one month from the date of the incident.

34. Petitioner Nos. 5 to 9 were subsequently implicated on the basis of the statements of certain independent witnesses, who stated that all the accused persons were seen loading the goods onto a four-wheeler pickup vehicle. However, even those witnesses did not state that the aforesaid persons had committed theft by breaking open the locks or had forcibly entered the house and shop or that the goods were being loaded onto a tractor, as alleged by the complainant's father, Raghunath.

35. Non-mention of the names of petitioner Nos. 5 to 9 in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C., which was filed about one month after the incident, and the omission of their names in the statement of the complainant's father, Raghunath, who claimed to have seen the men of Babu Ram removing the goods, constituted relevant material which ought to have been taken into consideration by the trial court while deciding the application for discharge.

36. However, the trial court rejected the discharge application merely by observing in a single sentence that the material collected during investigation disclosed the involvement of the petitioners in the commission of the offence. The failure of the trial court to consider the aforesaid relevant material vitiates the impugned order.

37. The revisional court also failed to examine this aspect of the matter and affirmed the order of the trial court in a mechanical manner.

38. However, the case of the petitioner no. 7 Jagram is different from the petitioner nos. 5, 6, 8 and 9 and it is alleged that the stolen generator was recovered from him. In view of the prosecution's claim of recovery of a stolen article from the possession of the petitioner no. 7, he is not entitled to be discharged.

39. It does not appeal to common sense that had the ladies of the house been involved in commission of the alleged offences, still they would not have been named in the application under Section 156 (3) Cr.P.C. and in the statement of the complainant's father, who claims to be an eye witness. There implication only through subsequent statements of alleged eye-witnesses, without they having been implicated in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. Or in the statement of the complainant's father raises a serious suspicion against the correctness of the statements of witnesses alleging their involvement in commission of the offence and such statements cannot be taken as gospel truth. The trial Court and the revisional Court have failed to evaluate the material available on record and consider the total effect of the basic infirmities in the prosecution evidence as noted above, whereas it was necessary to be done to ascertain the broad probabilities of the case. It appears that the trial court and the revisional court have acted merely as a post office or a mouthpiece of the prosecution. Upon sifting and weighing the evidence, it appears that even a prima facie case is not made out against the persons who had not been named in the FIR or the statement of Raghunath and from whom no recovery has been made.

40. In view of the aforesaid discussion, I am of the considered opinion that petitioner Nos. 5, 6, 8 and 9, all of whom are ladies and whose names were not mentioned in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. or in the statement of the complainant's father, and nothing is said to have been recovered from whom, appear to have been implicated by including their names in the statements of witnesses later on as an afterthought and those ladies are entitled to be discharged.

41. However, no good ground exists for discharge of the petitioner Nos. 1 to 4, as they were specifically named in the application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C. and specific allegations were leveled against them or of the petitioner no. 7, from whom the stolen generator is said to have been recovered.

42. I do not find force submission in the learned Counsel for the petitioner that pendency of a civil dispute gives rise to a ground for discharge of all the petitioners. In Indian Oil Corpn. v. NEPC India Ltd.: (2006) 6 SCC 736, the Hon'ble Supreme Court held that: -

"A given set of facts may make out: (a) purely a civil wrong; or (b) purely a criminal offence; or (c) a civil wrong as also a criminal offence. A commercial transaction or a contractual dispute, apart from furnishing a cause of action for seeking remedy in civil law, may also involve a criminal offence. As the nature and scope of a civil proceeding are different from a criminal proceeding, the mere fact that the complaint relates to a commercial transaction or breach of contract, for which a civil remedy is available or has been availed, is not by itself a ground to quash the criminal proceedings. The test is whether the allegations in the complaint disclose a criminal offence or not."

43. In the present case, the allegations clearly make out commission of offences punishable in criminal law. Merely because there is a civil dispute between the parties, it cannot be said that the petitioners cannot be prosecuted for the allegations of commission of offences.

44. Accordingly, the petition is partly allowed. The prayer for discharge of the petitioner no. 5 Kailashpati, the petitioner no. 6 Renu, the petitioner no. 8 Sitau Devi and the petitioner no. 9 Urmila, is allowed, whereas the prayer for discharge of petitioner Nos. 1 to 4 and 7 is rejected.

Matters Under Article 227 No. 4842 of 2025

State of U.P. & Anr. ...Respondents

Issue for Consideration

Whether the impugned order passed by the SDM, is against the provisions of law and has been passed without complying the procedure prescribed under Sections, 133, 137, 138, 139, 140 Cr.P.C.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973-Section 133, 137, 138, 139 and 140- Petitioner himself has admitted in his petition the existence of two ft. wide street/gali on the spot- Admission of existence of public way- Executive Magistrate was not under obligation to hold an inquiry as required under section 137 Cr.P.C. Moreover, the Executive Magistrate, visited the spot and visit of Executive Magistrate is not in dispute, which has been recorded in the impugned order dated 12.11.2024. The aforesaid fact of visiting spot, is a factual recital as well as an observation made by him in it's order, which is taken to be correct, because the same is not rebutted at all by the petitioner. The site plan enclosed with the Revenue Report dated 17.11.2025, also make it clear that there is an illegal obstruction in the public way, which was required to be removed- Power under Article 227 is of the judicial superintendence, which cannot be used to up-set conclusions of facts, howsoever erroneous those may be, unless such conclusions are so perverse or so unreasonable that no Court could ever have reached them.

Held- There was obstructions created by the petitioner over public way in dispute, which is admittedly, a street/gali between the houses of the petitioner and respondent no. 2, therefore, the impugned order dated 12.11.2024 passed by the Magistrate, does not suffer any perversity or illegality. Petition dismissed. Appearances for Parties

Counsel for Petitioner(s) : Rajesh Kumar Singh
Counsel for Respondent(s) : Ashwani Kumar Singh, G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Ajay Kumar-II, J.)

1. Heard Sri Rajesh Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the petitioner, learned A.G.A. for the State, Sri Ashwani Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 and perused the record.

2. The present petition under Article 227 of the Constitution of India has been filed with a prayer to set-aside the order dated 19.03.2025, passed by Additional Session/Special Judge, SC/ST Act, Kushinagar at Padrauna, passed in Criminal Revision No. 200/2024, under Section 133 Cr.P.C., Police Station Kaptanganj, District Kushinagar.

3. Learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that the respondent no. 2 filed a case under Section 133 Cr.P.C. against the petitioner on 4.6.2018 before Sub Divisional Magistrate, Hata, Kushinagar for removal of ladder in question. On direction of concerned SDM, SHO, Kaptanganj, Kushinagar submitted a report dated 13.9.2018 and SDM vide his preliminary order dated 22.10.2018 directed the petitioner to file his objection. Notice whatsoever, was not served upon the petitioner, Therefore, he could not file his objection in compliance of the order dated 22.10.2018. Therefore, SDM sought report from concerned Halka Lekhpal and he submitted his report dated 6.4.2022. SDM passed the order dated 11.4.2022 while confirming preliminary order dated 22.10.2018 and directed SHO, Kaptanganj to remove encroachment. The aforesaid order dated 22.10.2018 was challenged by the petitioner by way of filing Criminal Revision No. 111 of 2002 before the Sessions Judge, Kushinagar, which was allowed vide judgment and order dated 22.10.2022, while setting aside the impugned order dated 22.10.2022. Thereafter, the petitioner filed his objection in the said case. SDM Hata again sought report from the Revenue Inspector, who submitted his report on 14.10.2024. On receipt of aforesaid report, SDM, Hata passed impugned order dated 12.11.2024 directing the petitioner to remove the encroachment. The petitioner challenged the aforesaid order dated 12.11.2024 before the Sessions Judge, Kushi Nagar, however, his criminal revision was rejected vide judgment and order dated 19.3.2025.

4. It was strenuously argued by learned counsel for the petitioner that the ladder in question was constructed by the petitioner in his share (Sahan) 30 years ago. The disputed land was received by the petitioner in a family settlement and aforesaid construction has been made only in his share. There is no public pathway. Gram Pradhan has already given a certificate regarding the street in question that the same is not being used as a public pathway, but is used for flow of the rain water, while affirming stand of the petitioner that the said construction has been made by the petitioner in his own share (Sahan). Revenue authorities have submitted a false report in collusion with the respondent no. 2. The nuisance, if any, is caused only to the family of the respondents, the proceeding under Section 133 Cr.P.C. cannot be invoked. The impugned order dated 12.11.2024 passed by the SDM, is against the provisions of law and has been passed without complying the procedure prescribed under Sections, 133, 137, 138, 139, 140 Cr.P.C. Both the Courts below have not considered the factual prospective in the light of statutory provisions and procedure prescribed under the law, therefore, both the impugned orders are bad in law.

5. Per contra, learned A.G.A. for the State and learned counsel for the respondent no. 2 have opposed the above submissions of the learned counsel for the petitioner by contending that the impugned orders are well reasoned and have been passed in accordance with law. Learned A.G.A. thus, urges for dismissal of the present petition.

6. The relevant statutory provisions of Sections 133, 137, 138, 139 and 140 Cr.P.C., are reproduced herein below:

Sec 133- Conditional order for removal of nuisance-

(1) Whenever a District Magistrate or a Sub-divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the State Government, on receiving the report of a police officer or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, considers

(a) that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any public place or from any way, river or channel which is or may be lawfully used by the public; or

(b) that the conduct of any trade or occupation, or the keeping of any goods or merchandise, is injurious to the health or physical comfort of the community, and that in consequence such trade or occupation should be prohibited or regulated or such goods or merchandise should be removed or the keeping thereof regulated; or

(c) that the construction of any building, or, the disposal of any substance, as is likely to occasion configuration or explosion, should be prevented or stopped; or

(d) that any building, tent or structure, or any tree is in such a condition that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons living or carrying on business in the neighbourhood or passing by, and that in consequence the removal, repair or support of such building, tent or structure, or the removal or support of such tree, is necessary; or

(e) that any tank, well or excavation adjacent to any such way or public place should be fenced in such manner as to prevent danger arising to the public; or

(f) that any dangerous animal should be destroyed, confined or otherwise disposed of, such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, tent, structure, substance, tank, well or excavation, or owning or possessing such animal or tree, within a time to be fixed in the order"

(i) to remove such obstruction or nuisance; or

(ii) to desist from carrying on, or to remove or regulate in such manner as may be directed, such trade or occupation, or to remove such goods or merchandise, or to regulate the keeping thereof in such manner as may be directed; or

(iii) to prevent or stop the construction of such building, or to alter the disposal of such substance; or

(iv) to remove, repair or support such building, tent or structure, or to remove or support such trees; or

(v) to fence such tank, well or excavation; or

(vi) to destroy, confine or dispose of such dangerous animal in the manner provided in the said order, or, if he objects so to do, to appear before himself or some other Executive Magistrate subordinate to him at a time and place to be fixed by the order, and show cause, in the manner hereinafter provided, why the order should not be made absolute.

(2) No order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court.

Explanation.□A □public place□ includes also property belonging to the State, camping grounds and grounds left unoccupied for sanitary or recreative purposes.

Sec 137- Procedure where existence of public right is denied-

(1) Where an order is made under section 133 for the purpose of preventing obstruction, nuisance or danger to the public in the use of any way, river, channel or place, the Magistrate shall, on the appearance before him of the person against whom the order was made, question him as to whether he denies the existence of any public right in respect of the way, river, channel or place, and if he does so, the Magistrate shall, before proceeding under section 138, inquire into the matter.

(2) If in such inquiry the Magistrate finds that there is any reliable evidence in support of such denial, he shall stay the proceedings until the matter of the existence of such right has been decided by a competent Court; and, if he finds that there is no such evidence, he shall proceed as laid down in section 138.

(3) A person who has, on being questioned by the Magistrate under sub-section (1), failed to deny the existence of a public right of the nature therein referred to, or who, having made such denial, has failed to adduce reliable evidence in support thereof, shall not in the subsequent proceedings be permitted to make any such denial.

Sec 138- Procedure where he appears to show cause."

(1) If the person against whom an order under section 133 is made appears and shows cause against the order, the Magistrate shall take evidence in the matter as in a summons-case.

(2) If the Magistrate is satisfied that the order, either as originally made or subject to such modification as he considers necessary, is reasonable and proper, the order shall be made absolute without modification or, as the case may be, with such modification.

(3) If the Magistrate is not so satisfied, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case.

Sec 139- Power of Magistrate to direct local investigation and examination of an expert."

The Magistrate may, bfor the purposes of an inquiry under section 137 or section 138"

(a) direct a local investigation to be made by such person as he thinks fit; or

(b) summon and examine an expert.

Sec 140- Power of Magistrate to furnish written instructions, etc."

(1) Where the Magistrate directs a local investigation by any person under section 139, the Magistrate may"

(a) furnish such person with such written instructions as may seem necessary for his guidance;

(b) declare by whom the whole or any part of the necessary expenses of the local investigation shall be paid.

(2) The report of such person may be read as evidence in the case.

(3) Where the Magistrate summons and examines an expert under section 139, the Magistrate may direct by whom the costs of such summoning and examination shall be paid."

7. It would be relevant at this juncture to notice the Supreme Court"s observation in the case of Municipal Council, Ratlam vs. Vardhichand and Ors. (supra), wherein the Apex Court held that the provisions, embodied under Section 133 of the Code, must go into action, whenever there is public nuisance inasmuch as the public power of the Magistrate, as conferred upon him under Section 133 of the Code, is a public duty to the members of the public, who are victims of the nuisance, and the Magistrate must, therefore, exercise his power under Section 133, when the jurisdictional facts are present. Paragraph 9 of the said decision is reproduced herein below:

"9. So the guns of Section 133 go into action wherever there is public nuisance. The public power of the Magistrate under the Code is a public duty to the members of the public who are victims of the nuisance, and so he shall exercise it when the jurisdictional facts are present as here*. "All power is a trust - that we are accountable for its exercise- that, from the people, and for the people, all springs, and all must exist." (1) Discretion becomes a duty when the beneficiary brings home the circumstances for its benign exercise."*

(Emphasis is added)

8. In Wali Uddin v. State of U.P., 1988 (12) ACR 1, this Court has elaborated the language of Section-137(1) of Cr.P.C. and concluded in following terms:-

"23. It is also to be noticed that under Section 137(1) the Legislature has used the word "that after the denial of such right by opposite party the Magistrate shall inquire into the matter" and not that the Magistrate shall adjudicate upon or decide the matter or controversy between the parties. The word 'inquire', means eager, to acquire information. The word 'inquire', according to Shorter Oxford English Dictionary means to search into, to seek knowledge, to make inquisition, to make investigation, to seek information by questioning, to seek or to try to find out. The word reliable evidence having been used and the Magistrate having been directed to inquire into the matter and not to decide or adjudicate upon, it is clear that the person denying the public right has to put forward a just and bonafide claim. In case the Magistrate finds that there is some reliable evidence and certainly not a conclusive evidence in support of the denial of any public right to get the matter decided by a competent Court. I am however, of the view that the Section does not make it clear as to who is the person as to whether first party or the second party, who has to approach the Civil Court. One thing more may be clarified that in case the Magistrate finds that there is no such reliable evidence in that event he shall proceed in view of the provisions of Section 138 of the Code. In the instant case what has been done is entirely different. Even though the Magistrate confirmed the conditional order but the revision has been disposed of by the learned Additional Sessions Judge in total disregard of the provisions of Section 133 read with Section 137 of the Code. The learned Sessions Judge was exercising the same jurisdiction as was to be exercised by the learned Magistrate. He must have also proceeded to decide the case just with a view to make an enquiry as to whether there was some reliable evidence led by the opposite party No. 2 who denied the existence of such right and in case he found that there was reliable evidence his jurisdiction ceases and it was for the civil Court to decide the same."

9. Therefore, the authority under section 133 of Cr.P.C. can be exercised by the executive magistrate, when any unlawful obstruction or nuisance is alleged on any public place or on any way, which is or may be lawfully used by the public. However, to ascertain the justification of such allegation, the executive magistrate is required to see as to whether the person against whom the show cause has been issued under Section 133(1) of Cr.P.C. has placed "any reliable evidence" in denial of such allegation or not. While doing so, the executive magistrate is not required to ask for any conclusive evidence and he has to consider the evidence brought on record by the person denying existence of unlawful obstruction or nuisance with an understanding as to whether such evidence can be said to be reliable enough. If that is so, the executive magistrate should not proceed further in the matter and should relegate the parties to the competent civil court for determination of their rights.

10. The proceedings under section 133 of Cr.P.C. are summary in nature and are meant for the cases of imminent danger to the public tranquility and peace and the same should not be used or rather misused to scuttle the valuable right of owner of property and that is why, the legislature has in its wisdom used the words "any reliable evidence" in support of such denial, in the event and in case of which he shall stay the proceedings until the matter of the existence of such right has been decided by a competent Court as provided under Section 137(2) of Cr.P.C., which is certainly having a different import and connotation than the word 'conclusive evidence'. This language used by the legislature has a limiting influence and works as a guideline while exercising authority under Section 133 of Cr.P.C.

11. When Section 133 and Section 137 of the Code are read together, the scheme becomes clear that when a District Magistrate or a Sub Divisional Magistrate or any other Executive Magistrate, specially empowered in this behalf by the State Government, on the basis of report of a police officer or on the basis of other information and on taking such evidence, if any, as the Magistrate thinks fit, considers that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any public place or any way, river or channel, which is or may be lawfully used by the public, the Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person, who is alleged to have caused obstruction or nuisance, to remove the obstruction or nuisance or to appear before the Magistrate at the time and place to be fixed by the conditional order and show cause as to why the conditional order should not be made absolute. On receiving the notice of the conditional order, the proceedee shall appear before the Magistrate, who shall question the proceedee as to whether he denies the existence of any public right in respect of the way, river, channel or place, and if the proceedee so denies, the Magistrate shall hold an enquiry and, if the Magistrate finds, in the enquiry, that there is any reliable evidence in support of such denial, then, he shall stay the further proceedings until the matter is decided by a competent court. However, if the Magistrate finds that there is no reliable evidence in support of the proceedee"s denial as regards encroachment or obstruction in respect of any way, river, channel or place, he (Magistrate) shall proceed in the manner as provided in Section 138 of the Code, which provides that the Magistrate shall, in such a case, take evidence in the matter as in a summons-case and, if the Magistrate is satisfied that the conditional order, either as originally made or subject to such modification as he considers necessary, is reasonable and proper, the conditional order shall be made absolute without modification or, as the case may be, with such modification as deemed necessary, but if the Magistrate is not so satisfied, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case.

12. Delhi High Court in the case of Shri Ram Lal And Another Vs. Shri Dharam Vir, 2001 Cri.L.J., 4507 held:

"Law in this regard is well settled. Section 133 Cr.P.C. provides summary remedy for removal of specific public nuisances or obstructions etc. It is not intended to settle private dispute between the two members of the right of the public to approach a civil court for determining the question of title. The Magistrate"s jurisdiction under this Section can be invoked even by a private individual despite availability of an alternative remedy. The encroachment on the public road, however small, would inevitably result in obstruction to the persons, who may have the occasion to use the same. The expression in Section 133 Cr.P.C. "which is or may be lawfully used by the public" clearly shows that all that is required to be shown is that the land in dispute is the public way etc. which can be lawfully used by the public. The expression "public way" has not been defined in the Cr.P.C. or the Penal Code. Public way is the place where the public has a right to go or to which public can have an access by way of right either by admission, usage or otherwise. It is not necessary that the title of the place should be in the public. It would depend upon the character of the place and the usage actually made of it in the past or at a given point of time. These are all questions of fact which can only be determined after proper adjudication."

13. The petitioner in present case has filed his objection dated 24.11.2023 in the Court of SDM, Hata, Kushinagar. In para-2 of his objection, he has specifically admitted the existence of 2 ft wide street/gali between the houses of petitioner and respondent no. 2. In para-3 of his objection, he has stated that he has not raised any stairs etc. and said street/gali is completely vacant. In para-4 of his objection, he has stated that stairs in question were constructed by him 30 years ago in his courtyard. In para-5 of his objection, he has stated that the aforesaid street/gali is not used as a public pathway and is used for flowing rain water only. Therefore, from the averments taken in his objection dated 24.01.2023, it is clear that existence of a street/gali is admitted by petitioner himself. However, he has denied that the aforesaid street/gali is being ever used as public pathway, but has admitted that the same is used for flowing of rain water. The admission of existence of 2 ft. wide street/gali between the houses of petitioner and respondent no. 2 is an admission of public pathway, more so, when the petitioner himself is admitted that from the aforesaid street/gali, rain water flows, therefore, same cannot be obstructed at all. The petitioner himself in para-6 has admitted that there is no stairs in the aforesaid street/gali and same is completely vacant, meaning thereby the aforesaid street/gali is being used as a public pathway and that is why the same is stated to be completely vacant. Moreover, it is the admission of petitioner that aforesaid street/gali is used for flowing of rain water and therefore, on this account also, the same cannot be obstructed being a channel for rain water drainage.

14. Revenue authorities in it's report dated 14.10.2024 has also found that stairs has been constructed by the petitioner in the street situated between the houses of petitioner and respondent no. 2. In the aforesaid report dated 14.10.2024, existence of a street is specifically found. A site plan was also prepared, which was annexed with the aforesaid report and a copy of which, is available in the paper-book as Paper No. 49. A perusal of the same reveals that the aforesaid street, which is a public pathway, has been blocked by constructing stairs and thereby the public pathway has been obstructed."

15. A perusal of the impugned order dated 12.11.2024 reveals that concerned SDM himself inspected the spot on 06.11.2024 and has found the existence of stair and therefore, he found that in view of the report of Tehsildar dated 14.10.2024, the aforesaid stair has obstructed the public pathway, i.e. street/gali in question and therefore, is required to be removed.

16. It would be apt to note that in the judgment passed in the case of State of Maharastra vs. Admane Anita Moti,□(1994) 6 SCC 109, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:

"It is well established that the factual recitals or observations made in a judgment or order are taken to be correct unless rebutted. The burden to rebut it is on the person who challenges it. One of the methods to rebut such observation is to file the affidavit of the person who was present in the Court and to produce such material which may satisfy the Court that the recital in the judgment crept in inadvertently or it was erroneous".

17. Further, in the case of Bhagwati Prasad v. Delhi State Mineral Development Corpn.,□(1990) 1 SCC 361, the Hon'ble Apex Court observed that:

"It is now settled law that the statement of facts recorded by a court or quasi-judicial tribunal in its proceedings as regards the matters which transpired during the hearing before it would not be permitted to be assailed as incorrect unless steps are taken before the same forum. It may be open to a party to bring such statement to the notice of the court/tribunal and to have it deleted or amended. It is not, therefore, open to the parties or the counsel to say that the proceedings recorded by the Tribunal are incorrect".

18. When the record of the present case is perused in the light of the above principles of law with respect to a petition instituted under section 133 Cr.P.C., it is clear that petitioner himself has admitted in his petition the existence of two ft. wide street/gali on the spot. Therefore, in the□ present case, in view of the above admission of existence of public way, the Executive Magistrate was not under obligation to hold an inquiry as required under section 137 Cr.P.C. Moreover, the Executive Magistrate, visited the spot and visit of Executive Magistrate is not in dispute, which has been recorded in the impugned order dated 12.11.2024. The aforesaid fact of visiting spot, is a factual recital as well as an observation made by him in it's order, which is taken to be correct, because the same is not rebutted at all by the petitioner. The site plan enclosed with the Revenue Report dated 17.11.2025, also make it clear that there is an illegal obstruction in the public way, which was required to be removed. For the aforesaid reasons, this Court is of the view that there was obstructions created by the petitioner over public way in dispute, which is admittedly, a street/gali between the houses of the petitioner and respondent no. 2, therefore, the impugned order dated 12.11.2024 passed by the Magistrate, does not suffer any perversity or illegality.

19. Learned Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, SC./S.T., Act, himself vide it's judgment and order dated 19.03.2025 has considered all the grounds taken by the petitioner in his criminal revision and has found that present impugned order dated 12.11.2024 has been passed on the basis of inspection report submitted by the Tehsildar and on the basis of inspection of concerned SDM, himself. Therefore, finding no illegality in the impugned order, the aforesaid criminal revision has been rightly dismissed by Revisional Court.□"

20.□□It is well settled that power under Article 227 is of the judicial superintendence, which cannot be used to up-set conclusions of facts, howsoever erroneous those may be, unless such conclusions are so perverse or so unreasonable that no Court could ever have reached them.

(Chandra Bhushan Vs. Beni Prasad & ors., (1999) 1 SCC 70; Savitrabai Bhausaheb Kevate & ors. Vs. Raichand Dhanraj Lunja, (1999) 2 SCC 171).

21. In Indian Overseas Bank Vs. Indian Overseas Bank Staff Canteen Workers' Union (2000) 4 SCC 245, the Apex Court observed that it is impermissible for the Writ Court to re-appreciate evidence liberally and drawing conclusions on its own on pure questions of fact for the reason that it is not exercising appellate jurisdiction over the awards passed by Tribunal. The findings of fact recorded by the fact finding authority duly constituted for the purpose ordinarily should be considered to have become final. The same cannot be disturbed for the mere reason of having based on materials or evidence not sufficient or credible in the opinion of Writ Court to warrant those findings. At any rate, as long as they are based upon some material which are relevant for the purpose, no interference is called for. Even on the ground that there is yet another view which can reasonably and possibly be taken the High Court can not interfere.

22. In case of Jasbir Singh Vs. State of Punjab (2006) 8 SCC 294, it was held that while invoking the provisions of Article 227 of the Constitution, it is provided that the High Court would exercise such powers most sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority. The power of superintendence exercised over the subordinate courts and tribunals does not imply that the High Court can intervene in the judicial functions of the lower judiciary. The independence of the subordinate courts in the discharge of their judicial functions is of paramount importance, just as the independence of the superior courts in the discharge of their judicial functions.

23. In the light of above well settled principles of law and after having considered the rival submissions advanced by learned counsel for the petitioner, as well as upon careful perusal of the record, this Court finds that both the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate and Revisional Court have passed reasoned and speaking orders, which reflect due application of judicial mind."

24. Thus, it is apparent that the power under article 227 of the Constitution is to be exercised sparingly and only in appropriate cases in order to keep the subordinate courts within the bounds of their authority. This Power is not in the nature of power of appellate authority enabling re-appreciation of evidence.

25. Thus, no prima facie, perversity or illegality is found in the impugned judgment of Revisional Court and impugned order of trial Court, so as to warrant interference by this Court. Therefore, no ground for interference by this Court in exercise of it's writ jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is made out."

26. Accordingly, the writ petition is found to be devoid of merit and is hereby dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the petitioner is proper and necessary part in the proceedings and is directly affected by the outcome of the proceedings and in absence of his impleadment, effective adjudication cannot take place.

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The U.P. Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972- Section 21 (1)(a); The petitioner is admittedly the husband of the tenant, and complete commonality of interest between them has not been disputed. No material has been brought on record to establish any independent or distinct right of the petitioner requiring separate adjudication in the pending appeal- Impleadment is not to be permitted merely because a person may be incidentally affected by the result of litigation. The applicant must establish that he is either a necessary party, in whose absence no effective order can be passed, or a proper party whose presence is indispensable for complete and effective adjudication- No such case made out.

Held- The petitioner neither constitutes a necessary nor a proper party to the proceedings and that the impleadment application appears to be a belated attempt to obstruct or delay adjudication of the appeal. Petition dismissed. (E-15)

Order dated 18.03.2026 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, Meerut in Misc. Appeal No. 199 of 2018, whereby the application moved by the present petitioner seeking impleadment in the pending appeal has been rejected

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

Heard Ms. Shreya Gupta, learned counsel for the petitioner and Sri Sumit Daga, learned counsel for the respondents.

2. The present petition has been instituted questioning the order dated 18.03.2026 passed by the Additional District & Sessions Judge, Court No. 10, Meerut in Misc. Appeal No. 199 of 2018 (Smt. Chitra Rastogi Vs. Smt. Poonam Rastogi), whereby the application moved by the present petitioner seeking impleadment in the pending appeal has been rejected.

3. The record discloses that respondent-landlord, Smt. Poonam Rastogi, instituted P.A. Case No.69 of 2015 under Section 21 (1) (a) of the U P Urban Buildings (Regulation of Letting, Rent and Eviction) Act, 1972 against Smt. Chitra Rastogi for release of Shop No.5 situated at Abu Lane, Meerut Cantt., forming part of Bungalow No. 182, on the ground of bona fide requirement. The said release application came to be allowed by the Prescribed Authority/Judge Small Causes, Meerut vide judgment and order dated 11.09.2018, directing the tenant to vacate the premises within a period of thirty days.

4. Aggrieved thereby, the tenant preferred Misc. Appeal No. 199 of 2018. During pendency of the said appeal, the present petitioner, namely Ajay Pal Rastogi, moved an application seeking his impleadment as party respondent in the appellate proceedings.

5. By means of the order impugned herein, the appellate Court has rejected the said application upon recording a categorical finding that the present petitioner is the husband of the tenant, namely Smt. Chitra Rastogi, who is already contesting the proceedings as tenant-respondent. The appellate Court has further observed that the petitioner and the tenant are husband and wife residing together and, therefore, the plea that the petitioner had no knowledge whatsoever regarding the release proceedings initiated against his wife in respect of the premises in question does not merit acceptance.

6. The appellate Court has also noticed that if the petitioner genuinely considered himself to be either a necessary or proper party to the proceedings, he ought to have sought impleadment during pendency of the proceedings before the Prescribed Authority itself. The application having been moved for the first time at the appellate stage has, thus, been found to be highly belated and apparently intended to delay adjudication of the appeal.

7. Learned counsel for the petitioner has not disputed before this Court that the petitioner and respondent no. 1, namely the tenant already impleaded in the proceedings, have complete commonality of interest. It has, however, been contended that the petitioner is carrying on business from the disputed premises and is, therefore, directly affected by the outcome of the proceedings. According to learned counsel, in absence of his impleadment, effective adjudication cannot take place.

8. The aforesaid submission is liable to be tested in light of the settled legal principles governing impleadment in landlord-tenant disputes. In that regard, this Court in Shahnaj Begum v. Taj Mohammad1 had occasion to consider an almost identical controversy where the wife of the tenant sought impleadment in SCC eviction proceedings instituted against her husband. In the said case also, the applicant seeking impleadment attempted to assert an independent right in respect of the tenanted premises despite the tenant already being on record and contesting the proceedings.

9. While affirming rejection of the impleadment application, this Court held that once the relationship of landlord and tenant stands admitted and the tenant is already contesting the proceedings, a third person claiming through or alongside the tenant cannot insist upon impleadment so as to enlarge the scope of eviction proceedings. It was further observed that in proceedings arising under rent laws, questions of title or ownership are not germane and cannot be permitted to become the subject matter of adjudication through an impleadment application.

10. This Court further observed in Shahnaj Begum that where the applicant and the tenant have commonality of interest, and particularly where the applicant is the spouse of the tenant residing together with the tenant, the proceedings can effectively continue in absence of such applicant and no prejudice can be said to be caused by rejection of the impleadment application. It was also emphasized that a belated impleadment application moved during pendency of appellate or revisional proceedings, despite full knowledge of the litigation, may legitimately be viewed as an attempt to delay adjudication of the eviction matter.

11. While arriving at the aforesaid conclusion, reliance was placed upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in Kanaklata Das v. Naba Kumar Das2, wherein it was held that in an eviction suit, the landlord and tenant are the only necessary parties and a third party cannot compel impleadment unless it is established that no effective adjudication is possible in absence of such person.

12. The principles aforesaid squarely apply to the facts of the present case. The release proceedings were admittedly instituted against the recorded tenant, namely Smt. Chitra Rastogi, who is already impleaded and contesting the appeal. The rights and obligations arising under tenancy law are required to be adjudicated primarily between the landlord and the tenant. A person claiming through or under the tenant, particularly a close family member residing with and associated in occupation of the premises, cannot claim an independent right to be impleaded as a matter of course when the tenant herself is already before the Court and adequately representing the tenancy interest.

13. In the present case, the petitioner is admittedly the husband of the tenant, and complete commonality of interest between them has not been disputed. No material has been brought on record to establish any independent or distinct right of the petitioner requiring separate adjudication in the pending appeal. The plea that the petitioner is carrying on business from the premises, even if accepted, would not by itself confer a right of impleadment when such occupation is traced through the tenant already on record.

14. Equally significant is the fact that the application for impleadment has been moved for the first time at the appellate stage despite the petitioner being fully aware of the proceedings pending before the Prescribed Authority. No cogent explanation for such belated intervention has been brought on record.

15. It is well settled that impleadment is not to be permitted merely because a person may be incidentally affected by the result of litigation. The applicant must establish that he is either a necessary party, in whose absence no effective order can be passed, or a proper party whose presence is indispensable for complete and effective adjudication. In the facts of the present case, no such case stands made out.

16. In view of the above, the appellate Court has rightly come to the conclusion that the petitioner neither constitutes a necessary nor a proper party to the proceedings and that the impleadment application appears to be a belated attempt to obstruct or delay adjudication of the appeal.

17. The findings recorded by the appellate Court are based upon due consideration of the material available on record and are in consonance with the settled principles of law laid down by the Supreme Court as well as this Court. The impugned order does not suffer from any manifest illegality, perversity or jurisdictional infirmity warranting interference under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

18. It is equally well settled that supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India is to be exercised sparingly and only in cases of patent perversity, manifest illegality or gross failure of justice. No such circumstance exists in the present case.

19. Accordingly, the petition lacks merit and is, accordingly, dismissed.

20. No order as to costs.

Issue for Consideration

Whether the courts bellowed committed an error by not deciding the as a preliminary issue in isolation and whether the application regarding maintainability of the case and rightly deferred the issue for consideration at the time of final adjudication

Head Notes

The Constitution of India, 1950-Article 227; The Uttar Pradesh Regulation of Urban Premises Tenancy Act, 2021- Section 10- Merely because a party raises an objection touching maintainability does not confer an indefeasible right to insist that such objection be tried as a preliminary issue in isolation. Unless the issue is one which can be decided purely on admitted facts and is capable of terminating the proceedings at the threshold, the forum is competent to defer its consideration and examine the same together with the remaining issues at the final stage, particularly where segregation of issues is likely to delay disposal of summary proceedings

No prejudice is caused to the tenant by adoption of such course, as the objection regarding maintainability has not been rejected on merits but has only been deferred for consideration at the time of final adjudication.

Held- No case for interference is otherwise made out, the present petition stands disposed of with liberty to the petitioner to raise and press all permissible objections before the Rent Authority at the time of final hearing, which shall be considered in accordance with law. (E-15)

Counsel for Respondent(s) :

(Delivered by Hon'ble Dr. Yogendra Kumar Srivastava, J.)

1.Heard Sri Ramesh Chandra Dwivedi, learned counsel for the petitioner.

2.The present petition has been instituted assailing the order dated 17.04.2026 passed by the Rent Authority, Agra in Case No. 475 of 2023 (Sudeep Kumar Jain vs. Smt. Asha Devi and another), as also the subsequent order dated 22.04.2026 passed by the Rent Tribunal in Case No. Nil of 2026, arising out of proceedings under Section 10 of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 instituted by the respondent-landlord.

3.It appears from the record that during pendency of the aforesaid proceedings, the tenant-petitioner moved an application on 19.11.2025 raising certain objections touching the maintainability of the case and prayed that the same be adjudicated as a preliminary issue before the matter proceeded further.

4.The Rent Authority, Agra, upon consideration of the said request, noticed that similar objections regarding maintainability had also been raised earlier by the tenant. It further took note of the fact that the proceedings had remained pending since 17.02.2023 and the matter had already reached the stage of hearing. In that backdrop, the authority found no justifiable reason to segregate the objections for separate adjudication as a preliminary issue and directed that the case be fixed for final hearing, where all questions raised by the parties would be considered together.

5.Aggrieved thereby, the petitioner preferred an appeal. The Rent Tribunal, by the order impugned dated 22.04.2026, held that the order passed by the Rent Authority was purely interlocutory in nature, did not finally determine any right of the parties, and therefore was not amenable to appellate challenge. The appeal was consequently dismissed at the admission stage.

6.The view taken by the Tribunal accords with settled principles. It is well settled that every procedural order passed during the pendency of proceedings does not attain the character of an appealable adjudication. An order merely declining to frame or decide an objection of maintainability as a preliminary issue, while keeping such objection open for consideration at the stage of final disposal, neither determines the substantive rights of the parties nor finally adjudicates any jurisdictional plea. It is, in essence, a matter concerning the mode and sequence of trial. In summary rent proceedings, where expeditious adjudication is the governing legislative object, the authority is vested with discretion to decide whether a particular objection ought to be tried separately or along with the merits. Refusal to postpone the main proceedings for separate determination of such objection, especially where the matter is ripe for final hearing, remains interlocutory in character and does not give rise to an independent statutory appeal unless the statute expressly provides otherwise. The aggrieved party suffers no irremediable prejudice, for the objection survives for consideration in the final decision and may thereafter be urged, if necessary, in challenge to the ultimate order.

7.Merely because a party raises an objection touching maintainability does not confer an indefeasible right to insist that such objection be tried as a preliminary issue in isolation. Unless the issue is one which can be decided purely on admitted facts and is capable of terminating the proceedings at the threshold, the forum is competent to defer its consideration and examine the same together with the remaining issues at the final stage, particularly where segregation of issues is likely to delay disposal of summary proceedings.

8.No prejudice is caused to the tenant by adoption of such course, inasmuch as the objection regarding maintainability has not been rejected on merits but has only been deferred for consideration at the time of final adjudication. All pleas remain open to be urged before the Rent Authority and, if occasion so arises, in challenge to the final order.

Having heard learned counsel for the petitioner and upon perusal of the material brought on record, this Court finds no manifest illegality, perversity, or jurisdictional error in either of the orders impugned so as to warrant interference in exercise of supervisory jurisdiction under Article 227 of the Constitution of India.

9.The supervisory jurisdiction of this Court under Article 227 of the Constitution is intended to keep subordinate courts and tribunals within bounds of their authority. It is not meant to correct every procedural order or to substitute this Court's view in matters resting within the discretion of the forum, unless patent perversity, gross failure of justice, or jurisdictional error is demonstrated.

10.It has not been disputed before this Court that proceedings under Section 10 of the U.P. Act No. 16 of 2021 are summary in character. It is also not disputed that the proceedings have remained pending since February, 2023 and are presently at the stage of final hearing. In such circumstances, the decision of the Rent Authority, Agra to consider all objections, including those relating to maintainability, at the stage of final adjudication cannot be said to suffer from any legal infirmity. Any interference at this stage would only frustrate the legislative objective of expeditious disposal underlying summary rent proceedings.

11.During the course of arguments, learned counsel for the petitioner submitted that he does not wish to press the petition any further and that the petitioner would pursue all objections available to him before the Rent Authority, Agra in the pending proceedings.

12.In view of the aforesaid statement, and as no case for interference is otherwise made out, the present petition stands disposed of with liberty to the petitioner to raise and press all permissible objections before the Rent Authority at the time of final hearing, which shall be considered in accordance with law. No order as to costs.

Case Crime No. 221/2020, P.S. Madiyanw, District Lucknow, registered under Section 506 IPC & Sections 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act; proceedings in Case No. 33178/2021 before ACJM-VIII, Lucknow; orders dated 02.01.2025 (trial court) and 18.02.2026 (revisional court).

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Mr. Sunil Dixit, Mr. Sunil Kumar Awasthi.
Counsel for Respondent(s): - Mr. Nirmal Kumar Pandey, learned AGA, Mr. Sabih Ahmed.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Heard Mr. Sunil Dixit, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Sabih Ahmed, learned counsel for the opposite party no.2, and Mr. Nirmal Kumar Pandey, learned AGA for the State.

2. Present application has been filed with the prayer to quash the order dated 2.01.2025 passed by the learned Judicial Magistrate III Lucknow, arising out of Case Crime No. 221/2020, under Section 506 IPC & 3/4 D. P. Act, Case No. 33178/2021, (State Versus Damyanti & others), relating to Police Station Madiyanw, District Lucknow, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate 8th Lucknow and order dated 18.02.2026 passed in Criminal Revision No. 702/2025 (Smt. Poonam Singh & others Versus State of U.P. & another). Further prayer is to quash the entire proceedings of Case No. 33178/2021, Case Crime No. 221/2020, under Section 506 IPC

& 3/4 D. P. Act, (State Versus Damyanti & others), relating to Police Station Madiyanw, District Lucknow, pending in the court of Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate 8th Lucknow.

3. The brief factual matrix of the case is that the FIR was instituted on 10.3.2020, against the petitioners, which was registered as FIR No.221 of 2020, under Section 506 IPC and 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, at Police Station Madiyanw, District Lucknow. The allegation in the FIR was that the marriage of the daughter of the opposite party no.2 was fixed with petitioner no.3 and thereafter, the engagement also took place on 19.6.2019, but the petitioners started demanding more dowry, and therefore, there was denial of performance of marriage. After the registration of the FIR, the Investigating Officer recorded the statement of the informant under Section 161 CrPC, and on the basis of the oral statement of the complainant and his family members, the charge sheet has been filed.

4. In the meantime, an application under section 482 CrPC bearing No.4958 of 2021 was also instituted on 2.12.2021 before this Court for quashing of the charge sheet and the summoning order, wherein this Court has passed the order dated 2.12.2021, with liberty to the petitioners to move discharge application before the trial court, which was instituted by the petitioners, but the same was rejected. The said order was challenged by the petitioners in application under section 482 CrPC bearing No.6710 of 2022, which was finally decided on 23.9.2022. The petitioners applied for bail, and they were released on bail.

5. During the pendency of the trial, the State Government had given consent to the Assistant Public Prosecutor to file an application under section 321 CrPC for withdrawal of the prosecution, vide its letter dated 4.1.2024, and in furtherance of the same, the Assistant Public Prosecutor filed an application on 12.3.2024 before the Judicial Magistrate-II, Lucknow, for withdrawal of the prosecution. The trial court allowed the application on 21.5.2024, moved by the Assistant Public Prosecutor under section 321 CrPC, which was assailed by the other side, while instituting a criminal revision bearing No.429 of 2024, before the Sessions Judge, Lucknow, which was allowed and the matter was remitted back to the Magistrate to rehear the application dated 12.3.2024 instituted by the Assistant Public Prosecutor.

6. The trial court reheard the application of the public prosecutor and rejected the same, vide order dated 2.1.2025, which was again challenged by the petitioners while instituting an application under section 482 CrPC, bearing No.5802 of 2025, which was dismissed by this Court, vide order dated 30.7.2025, while giving liberty to maintain the revision before the trial court concerned, whereafter the revision was filed. The order dated 2.12025 was challenged before the Sessions Judge in revision, and the same was also dismissed by the court of sessions, vide order dated 18.2.2026, and both the orders passed by the trial court as well as the revisional court are under challenge in the present application.

7. Submission of the learned counsel for the petitioners is that the State Government, with due diligence, has given permission to the Assistant Public Prosecutor to move an application under Section 321 of CrPC, for withdrawal of the prosecution against the petitioners, and in furtherance thereof, the Assistant Public Prosecutor moved an application, on 12.3.2024. He submits that the contents and grounds of the application are apparent from the letter dated 12.3.2024 itself, which states that the allegation in the FIR is of political nature and only oral statements are available, and no documentary or scientific evidences are on record to allow the prosecution to get succeed the prosecution and with the aforesaid ground, the request is made that criminal prosecution against the petitioners may be withdrawn. He contends that the trial court, as well as the sessions court, never applied their mind to the grounds taken by the Assistant Public Prosecutor, in the application for withdrawal of the prosecution dated 12.3.2024 and, therefore, the orders impugned herein are erroneous and are liable to be set aside.

8. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the complainant/opposite party no.2 has opposed the aforesaid contentions vehemently. He submits that the trial court, as well as the revisional court, rightly passed the order rejecting the application of the Assistant Public Prosecutor instituted under section 321 of the CrPC. He added that the dispute is not of political nature and this is matrimonial dispute, as the marriage was proposed to be done with the petitioner no.3, namely Gaurav Pratap Singh, and thereafter the engagement was also done, but subsequent thereof, more money as dowry was demanded and when the complainant failed to give the same, there was denial of performing the marriage, thus, the allegation is not of political in nature.

9. In addition, he submits that the trial court had reached the conclusion that there were such materials available on record whereby the matter could lead to conviction as well as in acquittal. He added that it is not a case where in all the circumstances the trial would lead to acquittal.

10. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that the petitioners did not get any relief either from this Court while instituting several applications under section 482 CrPC nor at the level of the revisional court, and therefore, the petitioners are not entitled to any relief as sought, by instituting the present application.

11. Per contra, learned AGA, namely, Mr. Nirmal Kumar Pandey, appearing for the State has submitted that after instructions were given by the State Government, for withdrawal of the prosecution, against the petitioners, the Assistant Public Prosecutor moved the application for withdrawal under section 321 CrPC. He submitted that, in fact, there seems to be no error in the application moved by the Assistant Public Prosecutor, as the application finds ground for withdrawal of the prosecution, as itself appears in the application that the nature of the allegation is of political. He submitted that, in fact, the trial court did not consider the ground taken by the Assistant Public Prosecutor in any manner and, therefore, the trial court seems to be erroneous to that extent.

12. Having heard learned counsel for the parties and after perusal of the record, it transpires that initially, an FIR was lodged against the petitioners with the allegation that after fixing the marriage of the petitioner no.3 with the daughter of the opposite party no.2, and after completing the engagement ceremony, more money was demanded as dowry, and thereafter, the criminal prosecution has been instituted by the complainant. After the discharge application was rejected and the trial proceeded, the State Government took a decision for withdrawal of the prosecution. The Assistant Public Prosecutor was instructed to move an application under section 321 CrPC, for withdrawal of the prosecution, and in furtherance thereof, the application dated 12.3.2024, was moved by the Assistant Public Prosecutor before the trial court.

13. After several sets of litigations between the parties, from this Court to the revisional court, the orders impugned herein dated 2.1.2025 and 18.2.2026 have been passed by the trial court and the revisional court respectively, which are under challenge.

14. When this Court examines the aforementioned orders, it is apparent that the learned trial court rejected the application dated 12.3.2024 under Section 321 CrPC, on the ground that there is a possibility of the trial leading to acquittal or conviction. The ground which was taken by the Assistant Public Prosecutor in its application that the case is of political nature, has not been considered, as is apparent from the bare perusal of the contents of the orders impugned. The matter might be one of the political nature or otherwise, but the question is that whether the ground, which has been taken by theAssistant Public Prosecutor, has been taken into consideration by the trial court or revisional court, or not?

15. From perusal of the order impugned, it is evident that there is not an iota of discussion or mentioning of the ground, in the order of the trial court dated 2.1.2025. This court is aware of that a dispute of marriage can be between two private parties, but there can be another aspect as well that if the marriage is not solemnized, and the allegation is that after engagement, dowry was demanded and, therefore, the marriage could not be performed, can be of the political nature, if that is motivated with political intent. The ground taken by the Assistant Public Prosecutor, may be correct or not but it was incumbent upon the trial court that once the State had taken a decision after due diligence that matter is one of political nature and, therefore, it should be withdrawn, the same should have been considered in the perspective the said ground, in accordance with law.

16. I have also considered the law rendered by the Apex Court in the case of Sheonandan Paswan Vs. State of Bihar and others reported in (1983) 1 SCC 438, wherein, in paragraph 73, it has been held as follows:

"73. Let us consider the point from the practical point of view. Unlike the Judge, the Public Prosecutor is not an absolutely independent officer. He is an appointee of the Government, Central or State (see Sections 24 and 25, CrPC), appointed for conducting in court any prosecution or other proceedings on behalf of the Govern ment concerned. So there is the relationship of counsel and client between the Public Prosecutor and the Government. A Public Pro-secutor cannot act without instructions of the Government; a Public Prosecutor cannot conduct a case absolutely on his own, or contrary to the instruction of his client, namely, the Government. Take an extreme hypothetical case, in which Government is the prosecutor, and in which there is a prima facie case against an accused, but the Government feels on the ground of public policy, or on the ground of law and order, or on the ground of social harmony, or on the ground of inexpediency of prosecution for reasons of State, the case should not be proceeded with the Government will be justified to express its desire to withdraw from the prosecution and instruct the Public Prosecutor to take necessary legal steps to withdraw from the prosecution. Section 321 of the Code does not lay any bar on the Public Prosecutor to receive any instruction from the Government before he files an application under that section. If the Public Pro-secutor receives such instructions, he cannot be said to act under extraneous influence. On the contrary, the Public Prosecutor cannot file an application for withdrawal of a case on his own without instruction from the Government."

17. The Hon'ble Apex Court, while exhaustively dealing with the matter, held that Section 321 CrPC gives the Public Prosecutor, the power to withdraw any case at any stage, before the judgment is pronounced after he is directed/instructed by the State Government. Even if the discharge application is rejected and the trial proceeded and charges are framed, the application moved under Section 321 CrPC, does itself not become erroneous only because the same has been filed after the charges have been framed and the trial proceeded. Further, it is not necessary for the court to assess or discover whether the trial would end in conviction or in acquittal. So far as the present case is concerned, the trial court has entered into the question, whether the prosecution would lead to conviction or acquittal, which prima facie goes against the ratio of the judgment rendered in the case of Sheonandan Paswan (supra).

18. In fact, the law is that as soon as the application is instituted under section 321 CrPC, the trial court has to see that whether the same has been instituted in good faith or in order to stifle the process of law. In the case in hand, the Assistant Public Prosecutor had taken a specific ground for the withdrawal of the prosecution that the matter is of political nature, and only the oral evidence is available on record but, having at glanced over the orders passed by the trial court, there is no finding or discussion regarding the grounds mentioned by the Assistant Public Prosecutor in the application, under Section 321 CrPC.

19. Consequently, this Court finds merit in the application and therefore, I am not in agreement with the findings recorded by the trial court regarding rejection of application that the matter could lead to conviction or acquittal.

20. In view of the above, the present application is hereby allowed.

21. The orders impugned herein dated 2.1.2025 and 18.2.2026 are accordingly set aside.

22. The matter is remitted back to the trial court concerned to pass a fresh order, in light of the observations made hereinabove.

CASE ARISING FROM

Complaint Case No. 545/2014 (Manoj Kumar Tewari vs. Janardan Prasad Shukla and others), P.S. Kotwali Nagar, District Balrampur.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Mr. Dinesh Kr. Chaudhary, .
Counsel for Respondent(s): - Mr. Vimal Shukla and A.G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Abdhesh Kumar Chaudhary, J.)

1. Heard Shri Dinesh Kr. Chaudhary, learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners, and Shri Vimal Shukla, learned Counsel for the Opposite party no.2, as well as learned A.G.A. appearing for the State, and perused the record.

2. The present application under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (hereinafter referred to as "Cr.P.C."), has been filed assailing the Judgment and order dated 08.03.2017, passed in Criminal Revision No. 31/2017 by District Judge, Balrampur and the Summoning Order dated 20.01.2016, passed by the Judicial Magistrate-II, Balrampur by means of which the applicants/petitioners were summoned in Complaint Case No. 545/2014 under Sections 323,452,392,506 I.P.C., lodged at Police Station - Kotwali Nagar, District Balrampur, in the case of "Manoj Kumar Tewari versus Janardan Prasad Shukla and others".

3. The factual exposition, as set forth in the complaint filed by opposite party no. 2, is that due to matrimonial discord, particularly arising out of proceedings for dissolution of marriage initiated by opposite party no. 2 against the daughter of applicant/petitioner no. 1, enmity developed between the parties. On 12.05.2014, on account of the said animosity, the applicants/petitioners came to the residence of opposite party no. 2, assaulted him, and forcibly snatched a sum of Rs. 10,000/-. On the basis of these allegations, Complaint Case No. 545/2014 under Sections 323, 452, 392 and 506 I.P.C was instituted in May 2014 at Police Station - Kotwali Nagar, District Balrampur.

4. Subsequently, pursuant to the aforesaid complaint, the statement of the complainant was recorded under Section 200 Cr.P.C., followed by the statements of witnesses, namely, Jitendra Kumar Dubey, Vishnu Pal Singh, and Subham. Upon consideration of the material so collected, the Magistrate proceeded to pass the impugned Summoning Order dated 20.01.2016 against the applicants/petitioners, in the following words:

5. Being aggrieved of the aforesaid Summoning Order, the applicants/petitioners preferred a Criminal Revision before the District and Sessions Judge, Balrampur. However, the Revisional Court, vide its order dated 08.03.2017, dismissed the Revision petition without granting relief to the present applicants/petitioners. Therefore, the present application/petition has been filed assailing both the aforesaid impugned orders dated 20.01.2016 (passed by the Ld. Magistrate) and 08.03.2017 (passed by the Ld. Sessions Judge), respectively.

6. Mr. D.K. Chaudhary, learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners, contends that in the present case, the complaint has been instituted with considerable delay without any plausible explanation for such delay. It has been further submitted that the allegations made in the complaint are inherently improbable, exaggerated, and devoid of substance, and do not disclose the commission of any cognizable offence. It has been strenuously submitted by the learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners that the impugned complaint has been instituted by the husband (opposite party No.2) against his in-laws on account of matrimonial discord and is a counterblast to the pending matrimonial proceedings between the parties.

7. It is urged that the allegations made in the complaint are omnibus, inherently improbable, and do not disclose the essential ingredients of the offences alleged. Learned Counsel has submitted that even if the entire complaint is taken at its face value, no offence under Section 392 of the I.P.C. is made out, inasmuch as there is no clear allegation constituting robbery in the eyes of law. Similarly, the ingredients of house-trespass after preparation for hurt, assault, or wrongful restraint punishable under Section 452 I.P.C. are also not elucidated with the required specificity. So far as Section 323 I.P.C. is concerned, the complaint does not disclose any specific grievous hurt, much less material to show that the accused persons intended to cause, or knew themselves to be likely to cause, grievous hurt. It is lastly submitted that the allegations regarding criminal intimidation are vague and general in nature.

8. The learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners has further submitted that the witnesses examined under Sections 200 and 202 Cr.P.C. are closely related and interested witnesses, whose statements are allegedly tutored and lack independent corroboration. Their testimonies do not inspire confidence and have been relied upon mechanically by the learned Magistrate. It has been vehemently submitted that the learned Magistrate passed the Summoning Order in a routine and mechanical manner, without due application of judicial mind and without recording any satisfaction as to the existence of a prima facie case. Similarly, the Revisional Court also failed to consider the grounds raised by the applicants/petitioners and dismissed the Revision petition in a cursory manner without proper reasoning.

9. Learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners has lastly urged that the continuation of the criminal proceedings against the applicants/petitioners would amount to an abuse of the process of the Court, and therefore, the inherent jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. deserves to be invoked for quashing the impugned orders. To buttress his arguments, learned Counsel for the applicants/petitioners has placed reliance upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of State Of Haryana And Ors vs Ch. Bhajan Lal And Ors, reported in AIR 1992 SC 604; □X□ vs State of Madhya Pradesh and Anr., reported as 2025 INSC 1143; and G.V. Rao vs L.H.V. Prasad and Ors, reported in AIR 2000 SC 2474.

10. Per contra, learned Counsel appearing for the Opposite party no. 2, as well as the learned A.G.A. for the State, have submitted that the impugned orders do not suffer from any illegality or infirmity warranting interference by this Court in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction. It has been contended by both that the complaint filed in the present dispute discloses clear, specific and categorical allegations against the applicants/petitioners, that they trespassed into the house of the complainant, assaulted him, and forcibly snatched a sum of Rs. 10,000/-. The said allegations prima facie constitute offences under Sections 323, 452, 392 and 506 I.P.C., and, thus, the Summoning Order has been rightly passed by the learned Magistrate.

11. Learned A.G.A. has further submitted that at the stage of Summoning, the Magistrate is only required to ascertain whether a prima facie case is made out on the basis of the material available on record. It has been further submitted that the plea regarding delay in filing the complaint is a matter of trial and cannot be a ground for quashing the proceedings in limine. Similarly, the defence taken by the applicants/petitioners, including the plea of matrimonial dispute and alleged false implication, involves disputed questions of fact, which cannot be adjudicated in proceedings under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

12. Learned Counsel for the opposite parties has lastly submitted that the Revisional Court duly considered the material on record and has rightly affirmed the Summoning Order. No jurisdictional error or perversity has been demonstrated in the impugned orders. It has been vehemently submitted that the inherent powers under Section 482 Cr.P.C. are to be exercised sparingly and with great caution, and only in cases where no offence is made out or there is manifest abuse of the process of law. To buttress their arguments, learned Counsel for the opposite parties have placed reliance upon the judgments of the Hon'ble Supreme Court rendered in the case of Muskan v. Ishaan Khan (Sataniya), reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2355; and judgment of this Court rendered in the case of Satish Singh v. State of U.P., reported in 2019 SCC OnLine All 4133.

ANALYSIS OF THE COURT

13. Heard the learned Counsel appearing for both the parties and perused the documents available on record. On perusal of the materials on record, it appears that the complainant, who is the Opposite Party No.2 in the present case, has alleged that his father-in-law (petitioner No.1), his father-in-law□s brothers (petitioner No. 2 and petitioner No.3), his mother-in-law (petitioner No. 4) and his brother-in-law (petitioner No.5) came to his rented accommodation on the fateful day of 12th of May 2014 at about 2 PM and demanded the return of dowry articles retained by him during an ensuing matrimonial dispute between him and his wife (who is not a party in the present Petition).

14. The story further unfolds through the statement of the complainant, wherein he requested these five people to go to his father□s house to seek the dowry articles, as he claimed to have been disowned by his father and was living separately in rented accommodation. According to the complainant, this justification/diversion infuriated all these five people, who hurled abuses at him. Further, the complainant alleges that he was beaten, and when he ran back to his house, these five people followed him and forcefully entered with the intention to cause him hurt. Owing to his shouting and/or raising of an alarm, four of his friends arrived at the scene and tried to save him from the assault. It has been further alleged that while receding from the crime-scene, these applicants/petitioners took away Rs. 10,000/-, from his house.

15. On a prima facie perusal of the complaint, the allegations appear to be serious in nature. However, the present applicants/petitioners have filed this application praying for quashing the criminal proceedings against them on the primary ground that the complaint is a counter-blast to the matrimonial proceedings pending between the complainant and his wife (not a party to the present Petition). According to the applicants/petitioners, the complaint has been lodged with mala fide intention to exert pressure due to the ongoing matrimonial dispute and is an outcome of vengeance, and they have heavily relied on clause (g) of para 102 of the Bhajan Lal Case (Supra).

16. It has also been highlighted that all the witnesses are friends of the complainant and are not independent. Further, it has been submitted that these people were not involved in the alleged occurrence, as there is no material on record to entangle them in the crime. Accordingly, the applicants/petitioners have prayed for quashing of the criminal proceeding against them.

17. It is in this factual and legal backdrop that this Court is called upon to scrutinize the applicants□/petitioners□ prayer on the touchstone of the inherent powers vested in it under Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code (corresponding to Section 528 of the B.N.S.S.), read with the established principles governing the quashing of criminal proceedings.

18. This Court is also reminded of the scope and extent of its consideration of the present application, as quashing proceedings ought not to be converted into a mini-trial. Further, this Court is also conscious of the limitations on exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., and of the principle that disputed questions of fact ordinarily ought not to be adjudicated at the threshold. However, where the allegations, even if accepted as they stand, fail to disclose the essential ingredients of the offences alleged, and where the criminal proceeding appears to be a device to give a criminal colour to a private matrimonial discord, the continuation of such proceedings would amount to an abuse of the process of the Court.

19. The principles governing the quashing of an F.I.R. or criminal proceedings are no longer res integra. As such, a detailed excursus is unnecessary, and it would suffice to make brief reference to the decision of the Hon'ble Supreme Court, wherein the scope of the High Court's inherent powers to quash an F.I.R. or criminal proceedings was delineated. The Hon'ble Apex Court, in para 102 of the celebrated judgment of□State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, reported in AIR

1992 SC 604; laid down the following illustrative scenarios where the High Court may exercise its inherent powers to prevent abuse of the process of the Court or to secure the ends of justice:-

"(a) Where the allegations made in the first information report or the complaint, even if they are taken at their face value and accepted in their entirety do not prima facie constitute any offence or make out a case against the accused.

(b) Where the allegations in the first information report and other materials, if any, accompanying the FIR do not disclose a cognizable offence, justifying an investigation by police officers under Section 156(1) of the Code except under an order of a Magistrate within the purview of Section 155(2) of the Code.

(c) Where the uncontroverted allegations made in the FIR or complaint and the evidence collected in support of the same do not disclose the commission of any offence and make out a case against the accused.

(d) Where, the allegations in the FIR do not constitute a cognizable offence but constitute only a non-cognizable offence, no investigation is permitted by a police officer without an order of a Magistrate as contemplated under Section 155(2) of the Code.

(e) Where the allegations made in the FIR or complaint are so absurd and inherently improbable on the basis of which no prudent person can ever reach a just conclusion that there is sufficient ground for proceeding against the accused.

(f) Where there is an express legal bar engrafted in any of the provisions of the Code or the concerned Act (under which a criminal proceeding is instituted) to the institution and continuance of the proceedings and/or where there is a specific provision in the Code or the concerned Act, providing efficacious redress for the grievance of the aggrieved party.

(g) Where a criminal proceeding is manifestly attended with mala fide and/or where the proceeding is maliciously instituted with an ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the accused and with a view to spite him due to private and personal grudge."

20. Having adverted to the time-tested and settled principles emanating from Bhajan Lal's case (supra), the enquiry of this Court must now shift to the governing touchstone for exercise of inherent jurisdiction. The power under Section 482 of the Criminal Procedure Code (corresponding to Section 528 of the B.N.S.S.) is intended to be invoked only where such exercise is necessary to give effect to orders under the Code, to prevent abuse of the process of Court, or to secure the ends of justice.

21. The aforesaid principles have been repeatedly reiterated by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in a catena of judgments, more recently, in the case of Ajay Malik v. State of Uttarakhand, reported in 2025 SCC OnLine SC 185; wherein the Hon'ble Court held as follows :-

"8. It is well established that a High Court, in exercising its extraordinary powers under Section 482 of the CrPC, may issue orders to prevent the abuse of court processes or to secure the ends of justice. These inherent powers are neither controlled nor limited by any other statutory provision. However, given the broad and profound nature of this authority, the High Court must exercise it sparingly. The conditions for invoking such powers are embedded within Section 482 of the CrPC itself, allowing the High Court to act only in cases of clear abuse of process or where intervention is essential to uphold the ends of justice.

9. It is in this backdrop that this Court, over the course of several decades, has laid down the principles and guidelines that High Courts must follow before quashing criminal proceedings at the threshold, thereby pre-empting the Prosecution from building its case before the Trial Court. The grounds for quashing, inter alia, contemplate the following situations : (i) the criminal complaint has been filed with mala fides; (ii) the FIR represents an abuse of the legal process; (iii) no prima facie offence is made out; (iv) the dispute is civil in nature; (v.) the complaint contains vague and omnibus allegations; and (vi) the parties are willing to settle and compound the dispute amicably (State of Haryana v. Bhajan Lal, 1992 Supp (1) SCC 335)."

22. Keeping the aforesaid axiom in mind, and since the hinge of the argument of the petitioners is that the complaint is mala fide and contains vague and omnibus allegations, this Court finds it profitable to quote a Judgment of the Hon ble Supreme Court, wherein, in addition to the aforesaid basic principles to be followed by this Court while evaluating whether a criminal proceeding is fit to be quashed, the Apex Court has provided certain additional clarifications/restrictions in the case of Mohd. Wajid Vs state of Uttar Pradesh, reported in (2023) 20 SCC 219; and has cast a duty on this Court to examine the complaint with care and a little more closely in the followings words:

"36. At this stage, we would like to observe something important. Whenever an accused comes before the Court invoking either the inherent powers under Section 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) or extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances the Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely.

37. We say so because once the complainant decides to proceed against the accused with an ulterior motive for wreaking personal vengeance, etc., then he would ensure that the FIR/complaint is very well drafted with all the necessary pleadings. The complainant would ensure that the averments made in the FIR/complaint are such that they disclose the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence. Therefore, it will not be just enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not.

38. In frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the Court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection try to read in between the lines. The Court while exercising its jurisdiction under Section 482 of the CrPC or Article 226 of the Constitution need not restrict itself only to the stage of a case but is empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation/registration of the case as well as the materials collected in the course of investigation....."

23. This Court, being empowered to take into account the overall circumstances leading to the initiation of the complaint by opposite party No.2 and to read between the lines, finds that the present complaint was filed on 19.05.2014, concerning an incident allegedly occurring on 14.05.2014. Prior to the said complaint, three proceedings have been pending between the complainant/ Opposite Party No.2 and his wife (who is not a party to the present proceedings). The first being a proceeding under Section 125 of the Criminal Procedure Code, filed against the Opposite Party No.2 seeking maintenance on 09.05.2012; the second being a divorce petition under Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, filed by the Opposite Party No.2 on 26.03.2012; and the third being an application under Section 24 of the Hindu Marriage Act, filed in the divorce petition relating to grant of pendente-lite maintenance, filed against the Opposite Party no.2 by his wife, which, as per the records, had been allowed in her favour vide an order dated 17.09.2013. Thus, apparently, the present matter predominantly has its root cause to the matrimonial dispute between the Opposite Party no.2 and his wife, who is the daughter/niece of petitioner No.1 to 4 and the sister of petitioner No.5.

24. There can be no doubt whatsoever that cases of the present nature are sensitive and warrant a thorough trial before the competent Court. However, it must also be borne in mind that, while conducting such trial, the competent Court must exercise restraint in roping in innocent family members on the basis of general or omnibus allegations, which has been a growing trend, whether at the instance of a wife or a husband, as in the present case. The Apex Court in the case of G.V. Rao Vs L.H.V Prasad, reported in 2000(3) SCC 693; some two and half decades ago observed as follows:

"12.There has been an outburst of matrimonial disputes in recent times. Marriage is a sacred ceremony, the main purpose of which is to enable the young couple to settle down in life and live peacefully. But little matrimonial skirmishes suddenly erupt which often assume serious proportions resulting in commission of heinous crimes in which elders of the family are also involved with the result that those who could have counselled and brought about rapprochement are rendered helpless on their being arrayed as accused in the criminal case. There are many other reasons which need not be mentioned here for not encouraging matrimonial litigation so that the parties may ponder over their defaults and terminate their disputes amicably by mutual agreement instead of fighting it out in a court of law where it takes years and years to conclude and in that process the parties lose their young days in chasing their cases in different courts."

25. The aforesaid Judgment is relevant to the present context, inasmuch as at least Petitioner nos.1 to 4, who are elders of the wife of Opposite Party no.2, would had been best positioned to act as counsellors between him and their daughter. However, apparently due to the filing of this kind of cases, obviously no elders come forward to offer any counselling, resulting in the flooding of matrimonial cases. This Court may not baulk to observe that one of the key reasons for today s ever-increasing matrimonial disputes among young couples is the lack of adequate and fearless counselling by their own elders, who may understand the issues much better than professional counsellors available in the market.

26. Nevertheless, this Court, restricting itself to the determination of this application on the touchstone of evidence brought on record, would swiftly discuss the material brought on records and as to whether these materials were adequate for the learned Magistrate to issue summons to the applicants/petitioners.

27. It is well settled that the Trial Court is not to act merely on the version of the complainant but must objectively scrutinize the material brought on record before issuing process and setting the criminal proceedings in motion. The learned Trial Court is not only required to assess whether a prima-facie case exists against the accused proposed to be summoned, but must also weigh whether sufficient material has been brought on record through evidence led by the complainant or its witnesses.

28. It must be understood that the role assigned to the Trial Court is not to act mechanically but to form an opinion on the basis of material brought on record, bearing in mind that summoning of any accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. The law is settled that the issuance of summons is not merely a formality, but a serious business as it sets the criminal law into motion. The Hon'ble Supreme Court, in the celebrated judgment of Pepsi Foods Ltd. And Another Vs. Special Judicial Magistrate and Others, reported in (1998) 5 SCC 749; at paragraph 28 of the said report, held as under :-

"28. Summoning of an accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. It is not that the complainant has to bring only two witnesses to support his allegations in the complaint to have the criminal law set into motion. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. He has to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint and the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof and would that be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing charge home to the accused. It is not that the Magistrate is a silent spectator at the time of recording of preliminary evidence before summoning of the accused. The Magistrate has to carefully scrutinise the evidence brought on record and may even himself put questions to the complainant and his witnesses to elicit answers to find out the truthfulness of the allegations or otherwise and then examine if any offence is prima facie committed by all or any of the accused."

29. Apparently, a facial reading of the depositions of the witnesses indicates that no specific role has been assigned to any of the five applicants/petitioners. There is no evidence from any of the four witnesses produced by the Opposite Party no.2 as to who has abused or who has beaten and how or as to who took the Rs. 10,000/- and from where. There is no evidence as to when the four witnesses arrived at the scene to save the complainant/Opposite Party no.2. The self-evidence led by the opposite party No.2 merely names four people who came to save him towards the end of his deposition, which obviously indicates the preparation of witnesses by the Opposite Party no.2.

30. Although assigning a role to each of the accused may not be fatal to the prosecution, however, in the present case, there are serious contradictions in the versions of the witnesses. For example, regarding the act of taking away of Rs. 10,000/-, Opposite Party no. 2 merely says that Rs. 10,000/- has been taken away, without naming any person or mentioning any place, whereas one of the witnesses- Jitendra, has deposed that the said money was lying in a polyethylene bag on the table. He also does not name any person as to who took away the said money. Further, P.W.-1 Vishun Pal Singh also deposes that the money was kept on the table and was taken away. He also does not name any particular person as to who did take the said money. As far as P.W.-2-Subham Dubey is concerned, he did not depose anything as to whether any money was taken away or as to who took the money.

31. Apparently, these three witnesses have been brought merely to support the version of the complaint, as is clear from the cyclostyled deposition of each of these witnesses. Interestingly, not a single document has been marked as an exhibit, and the entire case appears to be premised solely on the version of oral testimony. This court need not further burden this judgment by citing the binding precedents, as to when the case is purely based on oral evidence, the court has to tread a skeptical approach, rather than be liberal in initiating the criminal machinery.

32. Further, a plain reading of these testimonies brings to the fore that the ingredients of the offences under Sections 323, 392, 452 and 506 I.P.C. are not made out. Mere reproduction of penal Sections or use of criminal law phraseology, without foundational facts, cannot justify issuance of process.

33. Insofar as Section 323 I.P.C. is concerned, the offence relates to voluntarily causing grievous hurt, which requires not only hurt of a grievous nature but also the requisite intention or knowledge referable to such grievous hurt. The depositions of the witnesses, however, does not disclose any specific grievous injury answering the statutory requirement, nor does it contain allegations sufficient to prima facie establish the requisite mens rea for the said offence.

34. Similarly, the allegations under Section 392 I.P.C. are conspicuously deficient in material particulars. There is no specific assertion in the depositions before this Court showing the necessary ingredients of theft or extortion coupled with violence or fear of instant violence to bring the accusation within the fold of robbery. Likewise, to attract Section 452 I.P.C., there must be clear foundational allegations regarding house-trespass along with the statutory aggravating element; such particulars are missing in the present depositions. Even the allegations under Section 506 I.P.C. appear to be couched in vague and omnibus language. In criminal complaints arising out of strained matrimonial relationships, bald allegations of threat, in the absence of details such as date, time, place, words used, and surrounding circumstances, cannot by themselves furnish a legally sustainable basis for summoning all accused persons.

35. Having discussed the evidence, this Court will next examine the Summoning Order passed by the learned Magistrate, which was, in a way, a consequential effect of the material brought on record. The law is now well settled that, as far as the order of the Magistrate summoning the accused is concerned, it must reflect that the Magistrate has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto.

36. Further, it is incumbent on the Magistrate to examine the nature of allegations made in the complaint, the evidence both oral and documentary in support thereof, and objectively examine as to whether the same would be sufficient for the complainant to succeed in bringing the charge home to the accused.

37. Further, as to the mandatory application of mind in the process of taking cognizance, the Apex Court in the case of Bhushan Kumar and Another v. State (NCT of Delhi) and Another, reported in (2012) 5 SCC 424; held as under :-

"11. In Chief Enforcement Officer v. Videocon International Ltd. [(2008) 2 SCC 492 : (2008) 1 SCC (Cri) 471] (SCC p. 499, para 19) the expression 'cognizance' was explained by this Court as 'it merely means 'become aware of' and when used with reference to a court or a Judge, it connotes 'to take notice of judicially'. It indicates the point when a court or a Magistrate takes judicial notice of an offence with a view to initiating proceedings in respect of such offence said to have been committed by someone.' It is entirely a different thing from initiation of proceedings; rather it is the condition precedent to the initiation of proceedings by the Magistrate or the Judge. Cognizance is taken of cases and not of persons. Under Section 190 of the Code, it is the application of judicial mind to the averments in the complaint that constitutes cognizance. At this stage, the Magistrate has to be satisfied whether there is sufficient ground for proceeding and not whether there is sufficient ground for conviction. Whether the evidence is adequate for supporting the conviction can be determined only at the trial and not at the stage of enquiry. If there is sufficient ground for proceeding then the Magistrate is empowered for issuance of process under Section 204 of the Code"

38. According to this Court, the best way to examine whether there has been any application of mind or not by the Magistrate is to search and examine as to whether any reasoning has been appended by the Magistrate for issuance of summons, for one cannot enter the mind of anyone to see its application. The applicability of mind is best reflected from the reasoning in the order itself. The Hon'ble Apex Court in the case of GHCL Employees Stock Options Trust Vs India Infoline Limited, reported in (2013)4 SCC 505; observed as follows:

"14. Be that as it may, as held by this Court, summoning of accused in a criminal case is a serious matter. Hence, criminal law cannot be set into motion as a matter of course. The order of the Magistrate summoning the accused must reflect that he has applied his mind to the facts of the case and the law applicable thereto. The Magistrate has to record his satisfaction with regard to the existence of a prima facie case on the basis of specific allegations made in the complaint supported by satisfactory evidence and other material on record."

39. As far as the present case is concerned, this Court finds that the learned Trial Court, while considering the issuance of summons, relied on the depositions of Vishnu Pal and Subham dubey and did not even mention the deposition of Jitendra, although it is apparent from the records that his deposition was recorded. Further, the Magistrate has not offered any reason as to why the deposition of Jitendra was overlooked, whereas it is clear from deposition of each of the witness that Jitendra was also present on the scene when the alleged incident occurred.

40. Further, as far as taking away of Rs. 10,000/- is concerned, there is material contradiction. In any case, both witnesses relied upon by the Magistrate do not say that the money was taken forcefully or under a threat of death, hurt or wrongful restraint. This Court fails to understand as to how the learned Magistrate, by virtue of a cryptic order, which has been purposely quoted herein above, and without examining the ingredients of the Sections sought to be invoked, issued summons to the petitioners under Sections 323, 392, 452 and 506 I.P.C., on the mere askance of the Opposite Party no.2/ Complainant.

41. On a perusal of the complaint and the depositions brought on record, it is apparent that no specific role has been assigned to any of the applicants/petitioners. The allegations are most general and omnibus. They appear to be a product of implicating relatives in matrimonial disputes, for a change, this time initiated by the husband rather than the wife, which has been prevalent these days. The applicants/petitioners are made to face a criminal trial on general and sweeping allegations, without bringing on record, any specific instances of criminal conduct. The present proceedings appear to be manifestly vexatious and filed with the ulterior motive of wreaking vengeance on the applicants/petitioners, who are close relatives of the wife of the opposite party no.2. Recently, the Apex Court in Achin Gupta vs. State of Haryana and Anr., reported in (2025) 3 SCC 756; in somewhat similar situation held that :-

"24. If a person is made to face a criminal trial on some general and sweeping allegations without bringing on record any specific instances of criminal conduct, it is nothing but abuse of the process of the court. The court owes a duty to subject the allegations levelled in the complaint to a thorough scrutiny to find out, prima facie, whether there is any grain of truth in the allegations or whether they are made only with the sole object of involving certain individuals in a criminal charge, more particularly when a prosecution arises from a matrimonial dispute.

35. In one of the recent pronouncements of this Court in Mahmood Ali v. State of U.P. [Mahmood Ali v. State of U.P., (2023) 15 SCC 488] , authored by one of us (J.B. Pardiwala, J.), the legal principle applicable apropos Section 482CrPC was examined. Therein, it was observed that when an accused comes before the High Court, invoking either the inherent power under Section 482CrPC or the extraordinary jurisdiction under Article 226 of the Constitution, to get the FIR or the criminal proceedings quashed, essentially on the ground that such proceedings are manifestly frivolous or vexatious or instituted with the ulterior motive of wreaking vengeance, then in such circumstances, the High Court owes a duty to look into the FIR with care and a little more closely. It was further observed that it will not be enough for the Court to look into the averments made in the FIR/complaint alone for the purpose of ascertaining whether the necessary ingredients to constitute the alleged offence are disclosed or not as, in frivolous or vexatious proceedings, the court owes a duty to look into many other attending circumstances emerging from the record of the case over and above the averments and, if need be, with due care and circumspection, to try and read between the lines.

36. For the foregoing reasons, we have reached to the conclusion that if the criminal proceedings are allowed to continue against the appellant, the same will be nothing short of abuse of process of law and travesty of justice. This is a fit case wherein, the High Court should have exercised its inherent power under Section 482CrPC for the purpose of quashing the criminal proceedings."

42. As to filing of a complaint without any specific allegations, in Chandralekha vs. State of Rajasthan, reported in (2013)14 SCC 374; the Apex Court held that vague, omnibus allegations without specific roles justify quashing of F.I.R. Recently, in Dara Lakshmi Narayana and Ors. v. State of Telengana and Anr., reported in (2025) 3 SCC 735; the Hon'ble Supreme Court referring to its earlier decisions on the topic summarised the position as follows :-

"27. A mere reference to the names of family members in a criminal case arising out of a matrimonial dispute, without specific allegations indicating their active involvement should be nipped in the bud. It is a well- recognised fact, borne out of judicial experience, that there is often a tendency to implicate all the members of the husband's family when domestic disputes arise out of a matrimonial discord. Such generalised and sweeping accusations unsupported by concrete evidence or particularised allegations cannot form the basis for criminal prosecution. Courts must exercise caution in such cases to prevent misuse of legal provisions and the legal process and avoid unnecessary harassment of innocent family members. In the present case, Appellants 2 to 6, who are the members of the family of Appellant 1 have been living in different cities and have not resided in the matrimonial house of Appellant 1 and Respondent 2 herein. Hence, they cannot be dragged into criminal prosecution and the same would be an abuse of the process of the law in the absence of specific allegations made against each of them.

33. Further, this Court in Preeti Gupta v. State of Jharkhand [Preeti Gupta v. State of Jharkhand, (2010) 7 SCC 667 : (2010) 3 SCC (Cri) 473] held that the courts have to be extremely careful and cautious in dealing with these complaints and must take pragmatic realties into consideration while dealing with matrimonial cases. The allegations of harassment by the husband's close relatives who had been living in different cities and never visited or rarely visited the place where the complainant resided would have an entirely different complexion. The allegations of the complainant are required to be scrutinised with great care and circumspection."

(Emphasis supplied)

43. This Court finds that even the Revisional Court abdicated its duty, same as the learned Magistrate Trial Court. The Revisional Court merely scanned through the order of the Magistrate and decided the matter in a perfunctory manner, without even appreciating the basic foundational testimony, which, according to this Court, was the basis for issuance of the Summoning Order against the applicants/petitioners. Both the Revisional Court and the Trial Court failed to understand the adverse impact of the casual manner in which the matter was dealt with them. Both the Courts failed to appreciate that initiation of criminal proceedings against any person as a serious affair and may have grave adversarial impact on their status and personal liberty.

44. As to the grave eventuality and adverse impact on the reputation of a person, when a summon is issued for facing criminal trial, the Supreme Court held in the case of Birla Corporation Limited and Ors. vs. Adventz Investments and Holdings Limited and Ors.; reported in MANU/SC/0714/2019; decided on 09.05.2019 as under :

"36. To be summoned/to appear before the Criminal Court as an Accused is a serious matter affecting one's dignity and reputation in the society. In taking recourse to such a serious matter in summoning the Accused in a case filed on a complaint otherwise than on a police report, there has to be application of mind as to whether the allegations in the complaint constitute essential ingredients of the offence and whether there are sufficient grounds for proceeding against the Accused. In Punjab National Bank and Ors. v. Surendra Prasad Sinha MANU/SC/0345/1992 : 1993 Supp (1) SCC 499, it was held that the issuance of process should not be mechanical nor should be made an instrument of oppression or needless harassment."

45. Further, so far as the decisions relied upon by the learned Counsel for the Opposite Parties are concerned, this Court is of the considered view that they pertain to a general clarification of the scope of exercise of the High Court's inherent powers. Additionally, in Muskaan's case (supra), the Hon'ble Supreme Court had set-aside the impugned order of the High Court, wherein the petition by the respondents under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C was allowed, resulting in the quashing of the criminal proceedings against them, primarily on the ground that the High Court had exceeded its scope while exercising its inherent powers and had conducted a 'mini-trial'.

46. In the present case, the core issue that falls for consideration is the sustainability of the applicants/petitioners implication, particularly in view of the conspicuous absence of any specific allegations against them. Therefore, it would appear that the decisions relied upon by the learned counsel for the Opposite Parties are of little assistance to their case.

47. Considering the overall attending factors of the present matter, it appears that the allegations levelled against the applicants are wholly false and mala fide, and that this case has been lodged by the opposite party No.2 to merely settle the score with his wife, with whom he is fighting various matrimonial litigations. The allegations levelled by the complainant and his witnesses are wholly improbable and do not inspire any confidence. The impugned proceedings are manifestly attended with mala fide intent and have been instituted with the ulterior motive for wreaking vengeance on the applicants due to personal grudges. The Trial Court has not considered the matter in the correct perspective, and the applicants have been summoned in a routine manner without examination of the merits of the case.

48. Further, a perusal of the impugned Summoning Order also indicates that the learned Magistrate has not discussed the ingredients of the offences alleged, nor recorded satisfaction based on specific material qua each accused. The order is cryptic and proceeds as if summoning must automatically follow upon filing of a complaint and recording of formal statements. Such an approach is contrary to the settled principle that a Summoning Order must itself disclose an application of mind and cannot be sustained when passed mechanically.

49. Having regard to the nature of accusations, the absence of specific averments constituting the offences under Sections 322, 392, 452 and 506 I.P.C., and the mechanical nature of the impugned Summoning Order, this Court is of the considered view that no prima facie case for proceeding against the applicants/petitioners is made out. The impugned order, therefore, cannot be sustained in the eyes of law.

50. Having heard the learned Counsel for the respective parties and upon careful examination of the complaint, the statements of witnesses recorded under Section 202 of Cr.P.C., and other materials placed on record, this Court is of the considered view that no specific role or overt act has been attributed to the applicants/petitioners in respect of the alleged offences. Even on a prima facie assessment of the material forming the basis of the complaint, the allegations do not disclose the commission of any offence under the I.P.C.

51. Therefore, this Court has no hesitation in arriving at the conclusion that the present case falls within the exceptional category contemplated under the Sixth illustration in Bhajan Lal's case (supra), justifying interference by this Court in the exercise of its inherent powers under Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. (corresponding to Section 528 of the B.N.S.S.) to prevent abuse of the process of Court and to secure the ends of justice.

52. Accordingly, for all the aforesaid reasons, the Judgment and Order dated 08.03.2017, passed in Criminal Revision No. 31/2017 by the District Judge, Balrampur and the Summoning Order dated 20.01.2016, passed by the Judicial Magistrate-II, Balrampur, by means of which the applicants/petitioners were summoned in Complaint Case No. 545/2014 under Sections 323,452,392,506 I.P.C., lodged at Police Station - Kotwali Nagar, District Balrampur, in the case of "Manoj Kumar Tewari versus Janardan Prasad Shukla and others", are hereby quashed.

53. The Application is allowed.

54. However, there shall be on order(s) as to costs.

CASE ARISING FROM

FIR No. 194/2020, Police Station Paraspur, District Gonda.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Mr. Amar Singh.
Counsel for Respondent(s): - Mr. Pawan Kumar Trivedi, Sushil Kumar Pandey, AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Shree Prakash Singh, J.)

1. Short counter affidavit filed today by Mr. Pawan Kumar Trivedi, counsel for opposite party no. 2 is taken on record.

2. Heard Mr. Amar Singh, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Pawan Kumar Trivedi, learned counsel for opposite party no. 2, Mr Sushil Kumar Pandey, learned A.G.A. for the State and perused the records.

3. The present application has been filed with the prayer, to quash the impugned order 23.02.2026, passed by Learned Additional Session Judge/Special Judge (POCSO Act), District-Gonda, in Session Case No. 412/2021, arising out of F.I.R No./Case Crime No. 194 of 2020, Police Station-Paraspur, District- Gonda, by means of which the charge for the offences punishable under section 376 DA I.P.C and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act was proposed to be framed and further applicants were directed to appear before the Learned Trial Court and to obtain bail, as contained in Annexure No. 1 to this petition, in the interest of justice.

4. The contentions put forth by learned counsel appearing for the applicants is that the First Information Report (FIR) was lodged on 02/08/2020 by the opposite party no. 2, bearing FIR no. 0194/2020, under sections 354(ka) and 506 IPC at Police Station Paraspur District Gonda, whereafter, the statement of the alleged prosecutrix was recorded under section 161 of CrPC, wherein, no allegation of rape is raised by the prosecutrix and on 05/08/2020 she refused to undergo the medical examination. He submitted that the statement of the prosecutrix was recorded under section 164 of CrPC, on 20/08/2020, wherein, the opposite party no. 2 alleged that on 10/08/2020, the applicants had committed rape upon her, whereas, in the FIR which was lodged on 02/08/2020, showing the date of the incident as 02/08/2020, no such allegation of committing rape upon the applicants.

5. He argued that subsequent thereof on 13.08.2020, the father of the alleged prosecutrix, has also moved an application under section 156(3) of CrPC against the applicants, in the court of the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Gonda, alleging that on 10/08/2020, the applicants committed rape upon prosecutrix and prayed for direction to be issued for lodging the first information report. He submitted that the prosecutrix was called upon for getting her statement recorded under section 200 of CrPC, to which she did not respond, and as a result thereof, the complaint was dismissed for want of prosecution. He submitted that after the investigation in case crime number 0194 of 2020, the investigating officer filed the charge sheet on 14/09/2020, bearing charge sheet number 01/2020 under sections 354(ka) and 506 of IPC and 7/8 of the POCSO Act. He added that after the chargesheet was filed, the applicants appeared and they have been bailed out, whereafter, the statement of the PW1 was recorded on 04/09/2025 and the special prosecutor, after the statement was recorded, moved an application under section 216 of CrPC, requested for alteration of the charges, to which the trial court considered and rejected the application and proceeded suo moto in the matter and has passed the order dated 23/02/2026 impugned herein.

6. It is argued by counsel for the applicants that while passing the order, the trial court prima facie found from perusal of the statement of the victim that there are prima facie charges of offense under section 376 DA of IPC and under section 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act, therefore, the applicants were called upon to put their side on the proposed alteration of the charges and it was also opened in the order that the pleader of applicants be appeared for arguments. He submitted that up to this stage, the order might be correct, but so far as the direction that the applicants would appear and get themselves bailed out, is erroneous and is no way justified, more so, as the criminal procedure code is concerned, there is no such provision. Further submitted that there is no law settled by the court of record that in such circumstances, the proposed accused for altered charges, without adding of the offence, is required to appear and to get him bailed out.

7. Concluding his arguments, he submitted that unless the charge of offense are added or altered, there is no need for getting bail of the proposed accused. He added that it is an admitted position that if the charges are altered by adding the offenses/sections, such accused is required to get him bailed out, therefore, fresh bail bonds and sureties are required as per the gravity of nature of the offenses, therefore, submission is that the order dated 23/02/2026, impugned herein, is erroneous to the extent above.

8. On the other hand, learned counsel appearing for the State has opposed the contentions aforesaid and submitted that the trial court, while passing the order dated 23/02/2026, has prima facie reaches to the conclusion that the charges under section 376DA of IPC and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act can be added, as there are sufficient evidence available. He submitted that the statement of PW1 is enough to show that the ingredients of sections 376DA and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act are attracted in the present matter.

9. In support of his contention, he has placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the cases of Bijendra and Ors Vs. State of U.P. and Ors reported in 2006 SCC OnLine All 258 and has referred paragraph 24 and 25, which are quoted hereinunder:-

"24. Learned AGA on the contrary submitted that since the offence is triable by the court of sessions and it has been held by the apex court in the aforesaid judgment of Prahlad Singh Bhati (supra) that it would be proper and appropriate that in such case the Magistrate directs the accused persons to approach court of sessions for purposes of detting relief of bail is the law laid down by the Supreme Court and therefore, anything Contrary to it will be illegal.

25. After hearing the learned Counsels for the both sides at a great length and after analyzing Section 437 Cr. P. C. it transpires that Section 437 relates with bail in cases of non-bailable offence by the magistrate. So far as the first contention which the learned Counsel for the applicants advanced, that because the bail has been granted in the same crime number and therefore by mere change of section accused cannot be sent to jail is concerned it is to be noted that case crime number is nowhere mentioned in the aforesaid section, which is the number of police for identification of the case and is a procedural number of the police station. Crime number has no relation with bail under Cr. P. C. In this view of the matter the contention of learned Counsel for the applicant cannot be accepted and is therefore rejected.

Coming to the second contention of the learned Counsel for the applicant that there is no bar for this Court to direct the Magistrate to accept fresh bail bonds for the newly added offence triable by Court of Session's it is noted that this direction will amount to asking the Magistrate to do something de-hors the law. The contention is devoid of merit. Section 437 Cr.P.C. relates to an offence, therefore, on addition of a new offence, the accused is required to appear before the court and seek bail. His bail cannot be considered unless and until he surrenders and is in custody in that offence. Any accused who is not in custody in an offence can not be granted bail. Custody is sine qua non for consideration of bail prayer. Consequently when the accused is guilty of an added offence and is not on bail, he cannot be allowed to furnish bond without being in Custody in that offence. For getting bail in newly added offences the accused has to surrendered in that offence. Thus asking the Magistrate to accept fresh bail bonds in newly added offence will mean granting of bail to the accused in the newly added offences without he being taken into custody for the said offence and that is not permissible under the Moreover there is another difficulty, which cannot be alleviated by the counsel for the applicants. Under the IV provise to Section 437(1), which has been Inserted by the Code of Criminal Procedure (Amendment) Act No. 25 of 2005, the offence of under Section 325 and 308 IPC are punishable with seven years of imprisonment and consequently without giving an opportunity of hearing to the public prosecutor they cannot be allowed to furnish fresh bail bonds. The IV proviso, which has been inserted in the year 2005 now mandates that if a person is guilty of an offence punishable with imprisonment of seven years or more then, Public Prosecutor must be given an opportunity of being heard. If this Court, in exercise of its inherent jurisdiction Under Section 482 Cr. P. C. allows, to the accused to file fresh bail bonds for the offences punishable with seven years and triable by session's court then it takes away the right of the public prosecutor to oppose the bail, and the said order will be against the provisions of law."

10. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that it has been held that any accused who is not in custody, cannot be granted bail and further submitted that fresh bail bonds are required, once the charges are added or altered. He again has placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the case of Hamida Vs. Rashid and Ors. reported in 2008 (1) SCC 474 and has referred to paragraphs 10 to 12 of the above-said judgment, which are quoted herein under:-

"10. In the case in hand, the accused respondents could apply for bail afresh after the offence had been converted into one under Section 304 IPC. They deliberately did not do so and filed a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. in order to circumvent the procedure whereunder they would have been required to surrender as the bail application could be entertained and heard only if the accused were in custody. It is important to note that no order adverse to the accused respondents had been passed by any Court nor there was any miscarriage of justice or any illegality. In such circumstances, the High Court committed manifest error of law in entertaining a petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. and issuing a direction to the subordinate court to accept the sureties and bail bonds for the offence under Section 304 IPC. The effect of the order passed by the High Court is that the accused after getting bail in an offence under Section 324, 352 and 506 IPC on the very day on which they were taken into custody, got an order of bail in their favour even after the injured had succumbed to his injuries and the case had been converted into one under Section 304 IPC without any Court examining the case on merits, as it stood after conversion of the offence. The procedure laid down for grant of bail under Section 439 Cr.P.C., though available to the accused respondents, having not been availed of, the exercise of power by the High Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C. is clearly illegal and the impugned order passed by it has to be set aside.

11. learned Counsel for the appellant has submitted that charge under Section 302 IPC has been framed against the accused respondents by the trial court and some subsequent orders were passed by the High Court by which the accused were ordered to remain on bail for the offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on furnishing fresh sureties and bail bounds only on the ground that they were on bail in the offence under Section 304 IPC. These orders also deserve to be set aside on the same ground.

12. In the result, the appeal is allowed. The impugned order dated 1.7.2005 passed by the High Court and all other subsequent orders whereby the accused respondents were directed to remain on bail for the offence under Section 302 read with Section 34 IPC on furnishing fresh sureties and bail bonds are set aside. The accused respondents shall be taken into custody forthwith. It is, however, made clear that it will be open to the accused respondents to apply for bail for the offences for which they are charged before the appropriate Court and in accordance with law."

11. Placing reliance on the above-said judgment, he submits that it has been held in so many words, by the Hon'ble Apex Court that the accused has to apply for bail afresh, after the offense is converted into serious and higher nature. He submitted that, in fact, the order impugned dated 23/02/2026 reveals that the trial court has reached to the conclusion to alter/add the charges and that too is of serious in nature, therefore, the applicants are required to appear and get themselves bailed out, therefore, submission is that no interference is warranted, in order impugned.

12. Mr. Pawan Kumar Trivedi, learned counsel appearing for the opposite party no. 2 has also supported the version of counsel for the State and submitted that the statement of the victim was not properly recorded by the investigating officer and once the statement of the prosecutrix was recorded as PW1 before the trial court, the trial court proceeded to add/alter the charges. He next submitted that there is no ambiguity or erroneousness in the order passed by the trial court, as the trial court has gone through the statement of the alleged victim and then reached to the conclusion to convert the charges.

13. In support of his contentions, he has also placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the case of Pradeep Ram Versus State of Jharkhand And Another reported in (2019) 17 SCC 326 and has referred to paragraphs 29 to 31, which are quoted herein under:-

"29. Relying on the abovesaid order, the learned counsel for the appellant submits that the respondent State ought to get first the order dated 10-3-20162 granting bail to the appellant cancelled before seeking custody of the appellant. It may be true that by mere addition of an offence in a criminal case, in which the accused is bailed out, investigating authorities itself may not proceed to arrest the accused and need to obtain an order from the court, which has released the accused on the bail. It is also open for the accused, who is already on bail and with regard to whom serious offences have been added to apply for bail in respect of new offences added and the court after applying the mind may either refuse the bail or grant the bail with regard to new offences. In a case, bail application of the accused for newly added offences is rejected, the accused can very well be arrested. In all cases, where the accused is bailed out under orders of the court and new offences are added including offences of serious nature, it is not necessary that in all cases earlier bail should be cancelled by the court before granting permission to arrest an accused on the basis of new offences. The powers under Sections 437(5) and 439(2) are wide powers granted to the court by the legislature under which the court can permit an accused to be arrested and commit him to custody without even cancelling the bail with regard to earlier offences. Sections 437(5) and 439(2) cannot be read into restricted manner that order for arresting the accused and to commit him to custody can only be passed by the court after cancelling the earlier bail.

30. Coming back to the present case, the appellant was already into jail custody with regard to another case and the investigating agency applied before the Special Judge, NIA Court to grant production warrant to produce the accused before the Court. The Special Judge having accepted the prayer of grant of production warrant, the accused was produced before the Court on 26-6-2018 and remanded to custody. Thus, in the present case, production of the accused was with the permission of the Court. Thus, the present is not a case where investigating agency itself has taken into custody the appellant after addition of new offences rather the accused was produced in the Court in pursuance of production warrant obtained from the Court by the investigating agency. We. thus do not find any error in the procedure which was adopted by the Special Judge. NIA Court with regard to production of the appellant before the Court. In the facts of the present case, it was not necessary for the Special Judge to pass an order cancelling the bail dated 10-3-20162 granted to the appellant before permitting the appellant-accused to be produced before it or remanding him to the judicial custody.

31. In view of the foregoing discussions, we arrive at the following conclusions in respect of a circumstance where after grant of bail to an accused, further cognizable and non-bailable offences are added:

31.1. The accused can surrender and apply for bail for newly added cognizable and non-bailable offences. In event of refusal of bail, the accused can certainly be arrested.

31.2. The investigating agency can seek order from the court under Section 437(5) or 439(2) CrPC for arrest of the accused and his custody.

31.3". The court, in exercise of power under Section 437(5) or 439(2) CrPC, can direct for taking into custody the accused who has already been granted bail after cancellation of his bail. The court in exercise of power under Section 437(5) as well as Section 439(2) can direct the person who has already been granted bail to be arrested and commit him to custody on addition of graver and non-bailable offences which may not be necessary always with order of cancelling of earlier bail.

31.4. In a case where an accused has already been granted bail, the investigating authority on addition of an offence or offences may not proceed to arrest the accused, but for arresting the accused on such addition of offence or offences it needs to obtain an order to arrest the accused from the court which had granted the bail."

14. Referring the aforesaid, he submitted that the law has already been settled by the Apex Court that when there is reason to alter the charge to the serious offenses and subsequently the charges are added, such accused has to move bail application in respect of newly added offenses, in the court concerned.

15. He next has placed reliance on the judgment rendered in the case of Sumit Versus State of U.P. and Anr reported in 2026 SCC OnLine SC 186 and has referred paragraphs 31 & 34, which are read as under:-

"31. The aforesaid question was looked into and answered by this Court in Pradeep Ram vs. State of Jharkhand and another reported in 2019 Crl. L.J. 3801, wherein this Court after discussing various decisions, more particularly, the decision in Prahlad Singh Bhati vs. NCT Delhi and another reported in (2001) 4 SCC 280 held that with the addition of a new cognizable and nonbailable offence more particularly of a serious nature, the accused becomes disentitled to the liberty earlier granted to him in relation to the offences for which the FIR came to be registered.

34. In such circumstances referred to above, we arrive at following conclusions in respect of a circumstance whereafter the grant of bail to an accused, further cognizable and nonbailable offences are added: -

(i) The accused can surrender and apply for bail for newly added cognizable and non-bailable offences. In the event of refusal of bail, the accused can certainly be arrested. (ii) The investigating agency can seek order from the court under Sections 437(5) or 439(2) of Cr.P.C. respectively for arrest of the accused and his custody.

(iii) The Court, in exercise of its power under Sections 437(5) or 439(2) of Cr.P.C. respectively, can direct for taking into custody the accused who has already been granted bail after cancellation of his bail. The Court in exercise of its power under Section 437(5) as well as Section 439(2) respectively can direct the person who has already been granted bail to be arrested and commit him to custody on addition of graver and non-cognizable offences which may not be necessary always with order of cancelling of earlier bail. (iv) In a case where an accused has already been granted bail, the investigating authority on addition of an offence or offences may not proceed to arrest the accused, but for arresting the accused on such addition of offence or offences it needs to obtain an order to arrest the accused from the Court which had granted the bail."

16. Placing reliance on the above-said judgment, he submitted that it has been held that in case of adding or altering the charges, of non-bailable and cognizable offenses or more serious offences, the accused has to move a bail application, therefore, the learned trial court has rightly considered the statement of PW1 and on the basis of said statement, the offenses under sections 376DA of IPC and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act have been proposed to be altered, therefore, the applicants are not entitled for any relief.

17. Upon considering the submissions of counsel for the parties and after perusal of the material placed on record, it transpires that when the alleged prosecutrix has lodged the first information report, on 02.08.2020, there was no allegation regarding committal of rape upon her, whereas the story subsequently has been twisted. Fact remains that the father of the prosecutrix had also instituted an application under section 156(3) of CrPC, though the complainant never went to the court to get statement recorded, under Section 200 of CrPC, which resulted into the dismissal of the application for want of prosecution.

18. After the statement of the prosecutrix was recorded before the trial court, as PW1 and the allegation of the committal of rape was levelled, the public prosecutor moved an application, under Section 216 of CrPC, whereas the trial court while rejecting the application, has rightly proceeded suo moto, to consider the alteration of the charges.

19. The question herein is, that whether at the stage of proposed alteration/conversion of the charges under section 216 of CrPC, the accused has to apply for bail, while surrendering him before the trial court? When this court examines the aforesaid questions in facts and law, it is apparent that, undoubtedly, the trial court has the power to alter or convert the charge thereby invoking the powers under Section 216 of CrPC. The trial court, while passing the order impugned herein, has directed the applicant/accused persons so as to surrender them and get them bailed out.

20. From perusal of the impugned order, it is apparent that the proceeding of alteration/addition of the charges is underway. The charges has still not been altered, though, those are proposed of, under section 376DA of IPC and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act. The order clearly discloses that the trial court has still not reached to the final conclusion that the charges would be altered and added under the aforementioned sections/offenses. Meaning thereby that there is no alteration of charges at this stage and the applicants are still the proposed accused persons, for the charges under sections 376DA of IPC and 5 (g)/6 POCSO Act.

21. The law relied upon by the counsel for the State in Hamida (supra) and Bijendra (supra) are very clear in its terms. The ratio is apparent that only those accused persons will apply for bail afresh, once the offenses/sections are converted into higher charges/offenses. It is not the ratio that prior addition or alteration of the charges, such accused are required to get him bailed out, therefore, the ratio of abovenoted judgments would not apply so far as the factual matrix of the present case is concerned.

22. Secondly, the law referred by counsel for opposite party no. 2, of Pradeep Ram (supra) and Sumit(supra), has also laid down that for the newly added offenses, such accused persons can be arrested and has to apply for bail. But the situation is all together different herein, as the procedure undertaken, invoking the provision of section 216 of CrPC, is not matured and is underway, therefore, the law cited by the counsel for the opposite party no. 2 also do not cover the field of the present case.

23. It is long settled law that a little difference in facts or additional facts may make a lot of difference in the precedential value of a decision. In fact, those precedents should be followed if it marks the path of justice and, therefore, the Judgment of court should not be read mechanically. The ratio of any decision can be interpreted in the background of facts of the case. Hon'ble Apex Court has settled this issue in the case of Government of Karnataka Vs. Gowramma reported in AIR 2008 SC 863. Thus it is apt to say that the aforenoted laws, discussed above, are not applicable in the facts and circumstances of the present matter.

24. So long as the factual matrix of the present case is concerned, the trial court, vide the impugned order, has directed the applicants to appear and obtain bail though the charge under Section 376 (d) A of IPC and 5 (g) 6 of POCSO Act has still not been framed. The Court has afforded the opportunity of hearing to the applicant on the proposed alteration of the charges, which infact mean that the charges may or may not be altered. Therefore, at this stage, there seems to be no justiciability or lawfulness for direction to the applicants to surrender and get them bailed out.

25. In the aforesaid background, this Court finds that the order impugned is erroneous and against the settled proposition of law, thus, the same is unsustainable.

26. Consequently, the order dated 23-02-2026 is hereby set aside, to the extent of the direction made to the applicants/accused persons, to get them bailed out.

27. It is clarified that the rest of the order shall remain intact and the trial court is directed to proceed in accordance with law.

28. With the aforesaid observations, the present application is hereby partly allowed, at the admission stage, as the question of law is hereby decided.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Mr. Ayodhya Prasad Mishra, A.P. Mishra, Jaylaxmi Upadhyay, Rituraj Mishra, Shesh Ram Verma.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

1. The present application has been filed seeking setting aside the order dated 11.12.2025 passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow in Complaint Case No.3441 of 2015, arising out of Case Crime No.489 of 2013, Anita Vs. Satyendra Nath Shukla and others, under Sections 323, 384, 504 and 506 IPC, Police Station Gomti Nagar, District Lucknow.

2. It is the case of the applicant that on the basis of false and fabricated story an F.I.R. was lodged by opposite party no.2 in Case Crime No.416 of 2013, under Sections 307 and 504 IPC against the husband of the applicant showing the incident occurred at the house of the applicant i.e. 5/585, Vikas Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow on 02.09.2013 and after investigation, charge-sheet has been filed under Sections 307, 504, 201, 419, 420 and 471 IPC against him on 17.09.2020 and the trial is continuing in Session Trial No.2707 of 2025 in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge A.T.S., Lucknow. In fact, the applicant herself approached the police station concerned for registration of the FIR in respect of the incident occurred on 02.09.2013 at her house by opposite party no.2 with his associates, who had beaten brutally the applicant and her husband as well as caused injuries to the applicant and her mother-in-law, but the police did not lodge the FIR. Thereafter, the applicant having no other alternate, approached the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow by filing an application under Section 156(3) Cr.P.C, on which an order was passed for registration of the FIR.

3. In pursuance of the aforesaid order, an FIR was registered at Case Crime No.489 of 2013, under Sections 323, 383 and 506 IPC at Police Station Gomti Nagar, Lucknow against opposite party no.2 and other accused persons making allegations that on 02.09.2013 at 12 Noon, opposite party no.2 along with one Anuj Bajpai and some unknown persons reached at her house situated at 5/585, Vikas Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow and assaulted the applicant, her husband and her mother-in-law and caused injuries to them. It is alleged that after investigation, the Investigating Officer in collusion with opposite party no.2 and under his influence, filed final report under Section 169 Cr.P.C on 05.11.2014 before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow, who was pleased to issue notice to the applicant and registered the as Misc. Case No.1139 of 2014.

4. Feeling aggrieved with the aforesaid, the applicant filed a protest application, on which the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow passed an order rejecting the final report and directing for registration of a complaint case, pursuant to which the same was registered as Complaint Case No.3441 of 2015 and the matter is pending for its adjudication in the court. After recording the statement of the applicant under Section 200 Cr.P.C. and the witnesses under Section 202 Cr.P.C, the trial court issued summons against opposite party no.2 and other accused persons vide order dated 06.05.2015. It is said that since opposite party no.2 and other co accused person were not appearing in the court after service of summons to face the trial proceeding, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow issued non-bailable warrants against them vide order dated 15.09.2016.

5. It is further said that applicant filed an application under Section 223(d) Cr.P.C before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow for transfer of the case to the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge A.T.S. Lucknow and be connected with Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, arising out of Case Crime No.416 of 2013 being a cross-case as the incident is the same, and the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow after considering the fact that both the cases viz. Case Crime No.416 of 2013 and Complaint Case No.3441 of 2015 relate with the same incident, allowed the application vide order dated 17.10.2025 and directed that both cases be tried together being a cross-case and the case was committed to the Court of Sessions in view of the provisions of Section 323 Cr.P.C. Thereafter, the case was transferred to the Court of Sessions, but the Sessions Judge returned the case to the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate on the ground that one of the co-accused, namely, Anuj Bajpai is still absconding and without ensuring the presence of all accused, the case could not be committed to the Court of Sessions. Thereafter, the applicant filed an application on 04.11.2025 for separation of Complaint Case No.3441 of 2015 from the case of co-accused Anuj Bajpai, but the learned Magistrate without considering the relevant facts and without application of mind, rejected the aforesaid application in a most illegal and arbitrary manner vide order dated 11.12.2025.

6. Sri Ayodhya Prasad Mishra, counsel for the applicant has submitted that the trial court cannot reject the application on the ground that co-accused Anuj Bajpai has not appeared in the case. Once an application for separation of case is filed, the same should have been allowed and the case should have been sent to the Sessions Court. It is submitted that vide order dated 11.12.2025, the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow has reviewed his earlier order dated 17.10.2025, which is not permissible in law. In support of his contention, counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the following judgements of the Hon?ble Supreme Court:-

i. Nathi Lal and others Vs. State of U.P. and another, 1990 (Supp) SCC 145 (Para-2)

ii. Sudhir and others Vs. State of M.P. (2001) 2 SCC 688 (Para-11)

7. On the other hand, Sri Sushil Kumar Singh, counsel for opposite party no.2 by filing counter affidavit has submitted that applicant filed the present application with the prayer that Complaint Case No.344 of 2015, arising out of Crime No.489 of 2013, under Sections 323, 384, 504 and 506 IPC, Police Station Gomti Nagar, Lucknow pending in the court of Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow be connected with Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, arising out of Crime No.416 of 2013, under Sections 307, 504, 201, 419, 420, 471 IPC, Police Station Gomti Nagar, Lucknow pending in the court of Additional Sessions Judge/Special Judge, ATS, Lucknow on the ground that it is a cross-case to the aforesaid Sessions Trial, wherein it is alleged that mother-in-law of the applicant called opposite party no.2, who is working as Librarian in the College, to her city office of the College, namely, Satyanand Uchch Shiksha Sansthan situated at 5/585, Vikas Khand, Gomti Nagar, Lucknow to get arrears of salary, where the husband of the applicant, namely, Anshuman Pandey made multiple fires on opposite party no.2. Thereafter, opposite party no.2 was rushed to Shyama Prasad Mukherjee Hospital, Hazratganj, Lucknow, from where he was referred to the King George Medical University, Lucknow.

8. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that Anshuman Pandey, who is wanted in Crime No.416 of 2013, under Sections 307, 504, 201, 419, 420, 471 IPC, Police Station Gomti Nagar, Lucknow, absconded for seven years from date of the incident and later on he was arrested in the year 2020 at Varanasi. Thereafter, the case was committed to the Court of Sessions and the same was registered as Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, State Vs. Anshuman Pandey, and the trial is progressing in it. It is submitted that Anshuman Pandey was denied bail by the Sessions Court and thereafter the High Court also rejected the short term bail as well as the regular bail of Anshuman Pandey. Thereafter, Anshuman Pandey filed Special Leave Petition No.2005 of 2021 against the bail rejection orders by the High Court, Lucknow. Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 05.05.2021 granted interim bail to Anshuman Pandey for a period of three months from the date of release with a direction that after the period of short term bail, he would surrender before concerned jail authorities.

9. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that after release on short term bail, Anshuman Pandey jumped the interim bail and absconded for three and a half years and later on he was arrested by the U.P.S.T.F. from Chandigarh. Thereafter, Anshuman Pandey filed misc. application in Special Leave Petition No.2005 of 2021 before the Hon'ble Supreme Court and the Hon'ble Supreme Court directed him to file an application for bail before the Sessions Court, pursuant to which Anshuman Pandey filed the bail application before the Sessions Court Lucknow and the same was rejected by it. Thereafter, Anshuman Pandey filed Bail Application No.12858 of 2024 before this Court, which was allowed vide order dated 03.01.2025.

10. Counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted opposite party no.2, being the complainant/injured, filed Special Leave to Appeal (Crl) No.6991 of 2025 before the Hon?ble Supreme Court against the order dated 03.01.2025 granting bail to Anshuman Pandey by the High Court, Lucknow and the Hon'ble Supreme Court vide order dated 05.05.2025 directed the Commissioner of Police, Lucknow to arrest Anshuman Pandey and produce him before it. In pursuance of the aforesaid direction, Anshuman Pandey was produced before Hon'ble Supreme Court in custody on 09.05.2025. On 21.05.2025, Hon'ble

Supreme Court passed an order fixing the case for 24.07.2025 and also directed the police to produce the list of witnesses before the Sessions Court and the Session Court was directed to complete the evidence of vulnerable and vital witnesses listing the case at least twice in a month. Thereafter, Hon'ble Supreme Court disposed of Special Leave to Appeal (Crl) No.6991 of 2025 vide order dated 26.02.2026 making the interim bail dated 04.08.2025 to be absolute till conclusion of the trial with further direction to the Sessions Court, ATS. Lucknow to make an endeavour to conclude the trial within six months. It is submitted that the trial is at the stage of recording evidence.

11. Learned counsel for opposite party no.2 has further submitted that husband of the applicant, namely, Anshuman Pandey had evaded the trial court proceedings for many years and the Hon?ble Supreme Court has passed an order on 26.02.2026 directing the trial court to conclude the trial within six months. He has further submitted that as many as nine witnesses have been examined by the trial court in Session Trial No.2707 of 2025 and the trial is at the concluding stage and only less than three months left as per the timeline given by the Hon?ble Supreme Court. It is further submitted that the impugned order dated 11.12.2025 clearly indicates that applicant had not taken steps in pursuance of the orders passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Lucknow for issuing non-bailable warrant and to initiate proceedings under Section 82 Cr.P.C. against co-accused Anuj Bajpai, therefore, the said orders could not have ben executed. The aforesaid order further indicates that applicant had taken steps only on 01.11.2025, pursuant to which the court issued process and the compliance report is awaited. Unless co-accused Anuj Bajpai appears before the trial court, the case cannot be tried together because it is a complaint case. He has also submitted that in view of Section 204(4) Cr.P.C. the complainant has to take steps and if she has not taken steps, then it is default on her part and the trial court is waiting for the compliance report. Once the compliance report comes, fresh order can be passed, but at this juncture, this Court cannot interfere in any manner. Further, Hon?ble Supreme Court is minutely observing the day-to-day progress of the trial in Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, therefore, any direction issued by this Court in this regard amounts to interference in the direction issued by the Hon?ble Supreme Court on 26.02.2026.

12. Sri Piyush Kumar Singh, learned AGA has submitted that after appearance of co-accused Anuj Bajpai, applicant may move an application before the Sessions Court and it can summon the complaint case and thereafter both the cases to be tried together.

13. Heard learned counsel for the parties and perused the record.

14. On 26.02.2026, Hon?ble Supreme Court while disposing of Special Leave to Appeal (Crl) No.6991 of 2025 filed by opposite party no.2 against the husband of applicant and others regarding progress of Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, arising out of Case Crime No.416 of 2013, passed the following order:-

"1. We are informed by the learned State counsel as well as the learned counsel for the petitioner that the trial is ongoing and a substantial part of the prosecution evidence has been presented. Further, there is no incident of misuse of concession of bail by respondent no.1.

2. Mr. Manan Kumar Mishra, learned senior counsel representing respondent no.1 assures that he will fully cooperate with the ongoing trial and shall abide by the conditions imposed at the time interim bail was granted. Therefore, as of now, we see no reason The interim bail granted to to keep these proceedings pending. respondent No.1 is made absolute till the conclusion of trial subject to the conditions that respondent No.1 and his counsel shall continue to cooperate with the ongoing trial and shall not violate the conditions imposed while granting interim bail. direct the trial court to make an endeavour to conclude the trial within six months.

3. The Special Leave Petition stands disposed of with pending application(s), if any."

15. The trial in the said case is at the final stage because as many as nine witnesses have been examined and the case is fixed for further evidence and six months timeline stipulated by the Hon?ble Supreme Court is going to expire on 26.08.2026.

16. The record reveals that in Complaint Case No.3441 of 2015 opposite party no.2 and Anuj Bajpai were summoned under Sections 325, 504, 506 and 384 IPC. Opposite party no.2 was bailed out and the case was sent to the Sessions Court vide order dated 17.10.2025, which was returned back with the observation that since co-accused Anuj Bajpai is absconding, the complaint case could not be clubbed and tried together with Session Trial No.2707 of 2025. The record further reveals that non-bailable warrant and the order under Section 82 Cr.P.C. were also passed against co-accused Anuj Bajpai in the case, but the applicant did not take steps. Thereafter, applicant had taken steps for execution of the non-bailable warrant and the order passed under Section 82 Cr.P.C. on 01.11.2025 and the compliance report is still awaited, therefore, the trial court rejected the application for separating the case and again issued non-bailable warrant and order under Section 82 Cr.P.C. on 11.12.2025 and the applicant has been directed to take steps for compliance of the order passed by the Chief Judicial Magistrate.

17. The complaint has been filed by the applicant against two accused i.e. opposite party no.2 and Anuj Bajpai and unless the compliance report is obtained by the Magistrate, he could not have passed the order for separating the case and as soon as compliance report is received, the trial court will proceed with the case. It is the applicant who had not taken steps, therefore, the Magistrate has passed a fresh order for taking steps so that compliance report can be obtained. Further, Hon?ble Supreme Court is minutely observing the day-to-day progress of the trial in Session Trial No.2707 of 2025, therefore, any direction issued by this Court at this stage amounts to interference in the direction issued by the Hon?ble Supreme Court on 26.02.2026. Therefore, there is no illegality or infirmity in the order passed by the trial court.

18. Application being devoid of merit, is rejected.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Respondent(s): - G.A., Suresh Chandra Shukla, Rudra Pratap Singh, Rao Narendra Singh, AGA-I

(Delivered by Hon'ble Brij Raj Singh, J.)

(I.A. No.6 of 2026-Recall Application) (Krishna Lal Sharma vs. State of U.P. and another)

1. This is an application moved by the applicant-Krishna Lal Sharma for recall of the order dated 19.3.2026 passed by this Court.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that the entire proceedings have been quashed by the judgment and order dated 19.3.2026 without hearing the applicant. It has been submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that the said case was listed on 19.03.2026 before this Court in Court No.16 at Serial No.3003, but mobile phone of applicant's counsel was out of order, therefore, he could not notice the said case and could not appear and the order was passed on 19.3.2026 without hearing him. It has been further submitted that on 19.03.2026 at 12:10 P.M. Mr. Inam Uddin Ahmed, Advocate i.e. counsel for applicant/opposite party no.2 called applicant's counsel and asked him about case, on which applicant's counsel told him that he is out of town, therefore, he could not appear in the case. It is further submitted that on the previous date i.e. 12.03.2026 when applicant's counsel was ready for argument, counsel for opposite party no.2 sought adjournment and same was granted by this Court, which shows the bonafide of applicant's counsel that he wanted to argue the case.

3. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that he is pressing the averments made in the counter affidavit and this Court may consider the submissions as made in the counter affidavit and thereafter, by recalling the order dated 19.3.2026, a fresh judgment may be pronounced. It has been further submitted by learned counsel for the applicant that this Court has failed to consider that no offence under Section 138 of N.I. Act is made out against the applicant as the said cheques were forcibly taken for security purpose and not for the repayment of legally enforceable debt as there was no transaction between the applicant and opposite party no.2, which is admitted by Rudra Pratap Singh himself in his statement before the court below in complaint under Section 138 of N.I. Act but the court below overlooked the same and convicted the applicant in totally illegal and arbitrary manner. It has been submitted this Court has failed to consider that both offences are totally different in nature and applications given by applicant in the year 2017, WhatsApp chats, witnesses' statements are on record which show that opposite party no.2-Rudra Pratap Singh has committed the alleged offence but this Court has conducted a mini trial regarding the genuineness and reliability of evidence which is beyond the jurisdiction of this Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C.

4. To buttress his argument, learned counsel for the applicant has placed reliance upon the judgment in the cases of Ganesh Patel v. Umakant Rajoria 2022 SCC OnLine SC 2050; Asit Kumar Kar v. State of West Bengal, (2009) 2 SCC 703; Vishnu Agarwal v. State of U.P., (2011) 14 SCC 813; Jaspreet Singh Garewal v. State of U.P., 2019 SCC OnLine All 3579; Vikram Bakshi v. R.P. Khosla, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1783; T.C. Mathai v. District & Sessions Judge, Thiruvananthapuram, (1999) 3 SCC 614; Samantha Christina Delfina Willis v. State of Karnataka, WRIT Petition No.24602 of 2021 (GM-RES), decided on 01.06.2022; Muskan v. Ishaan Khan (Sataniya), 2025 SCC OnLine SC 2355; and State of Odisha v. Pratima Mohanty, (2022) 16 SCC 703.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that in the case of Ganesh Patel (supra), the Supreme Court in paragraphs 8 and 9 observed as under:-

"8. This application for recall of the order was maintainable as it was an application seeking a procedural review, and not a substantive review to which Section 362 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1973, would be attracted.1 On the aspect of the difference between recall and review and when an order of recall can be passed reference can be made to Budhia Swain v. Gopinath Deb.

9. The High Court was therefore right in recalling the order and listing MCRC No. 6576/2017 for hearing and decision on merits."

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that in the case of Asit Kumar Kar (supra), it is provided by the Supreme Court that there is a distinction between a petition under Article 32, a review petition and a recall application. While in a review petition, the Court considers on merits where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, in a recall petition, the Court does not go into the merits but simply recalls an order which was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to an affected party. The Supreme Court in Paras 6 and 7 of the said case, observed as under:

"6. There is a distinction between a petition under Article 32, a review petition and a recall petition. While in a review petition the Court considers on merits where there is an error apparent on the face of the record, in a recall petition the Court does not go into the merits but simply recalls an order which was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to an affected party.

7. We are treating this petition under Article 32 as a recall petition because the order passed in the decision in All Bengal Excise Licensees' Assn. v. Raghabendra Singh [(2007) 11 SCC 374] cancelling certain licences was passed without giving an opportunity of hearing to the persons who had been granted licences. In these circumstances, we recall the directions in para 40 of the aforesaid judgment. However, if anybody has a grievance against the grant of licences or in the policy of the State Government, he will be at liberty to challenge it in appropriate proceedings before the appropriate court. The writ petitions are disposed of with these directions."

7. The Supreme Court in Para 6 of the judgment in Vishnu Agarwal (supra) observed:

"6. In our opinion, Section 362 cannot be considered in a rigid and overtechnical manner to defeat the ends of justice. As Brahaspati has observed:

"Kevalam shastram ashritya na kartavyo vinirnayah yuktiheeney vichare tu dharmahaani prajayate" which means:

"The court should not give its decision based only on the letter of the law.

For if the decision is wholly unreasonable, injustice will follow."

8. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that in the case of Jaspreet Singh Garewal (supra), the opposite party no.2 was not represented by any counsel nor notices were issued to opposite party No.2 before finally deciding the application. The Supreme Court in Para 69 observed as under:

"69. I have perused the judgements relied upon by counsel for parties. It is an undisputed fact that present criminal misc. application was filed on 13.12.2015 in Registry of this Court. The application came up for admission on 15.12.2016 and this Court allowed the application on same day i.e. 15.12.2016. The opposite party No. 2 was not represented by any counsel nor notices were issued to opposite party No. 2 before finally deciding the application. As such, order dated 15.12.2016 is ex-parte against opposite party No. 2. Rule of audi alterem partem requires that opportunity of hearing should be afforded before an order is passed on judicial side. The aforesaid view has also been reiterated by Apex Court in the case of Makkapati Nagaswara Sastri (Supra). The order dated 2.12.2016 impugned in the application was in favour of opposite party No. 2 and therefore, the said order could not have been set aside without hearing opposite party No. 2. Consequently, prayer for recall made by opposite party No. 2 for recall of order dated 15.12.2016 on aforesaid grounds is perfectly just and legal. The Apex Court in case of Vishnu Agarwal (Supra) and judgement of learned Single Judge in Jawahar Lal (Supra) have reiterated that there is difference between recall and review. By seeking recall of order dated 15.12.2016, opposite party No. 2 is not seeking review of order dated 15.12.2016 and therefore bar contained in section 362 Cr.P.C. will not come in way. Consequently, I am of the considered opinion that order dated 15.12.2016, is liable to be recalled at the behest of opposite party No. 2, who admittedly was not afforded any notice or opportunity of hearing before order dated 15.12.2016 was passed."

9. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgment in Vikram Bakshi (supra), and has submitted that in the said case the Supreme Court has considered that it is inherent or implied in a court to set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under misapprehension by it, however, a substantive review is when error sought to be corrected is one of law and is apparent on the face of record. In Paras 31 to 34, the Supreme Court observed:-

"31. This Court, however, in exceptional cases, has carved out limited scope for exercise of review power by criminal courts. In Grindlays Bank Ltd. (supra), it was observed that review can be distinguished between ?procedural review? and ?substantive review?. A ?procedural review? is inherent or implied in a court to set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under misapprehension by it, however, a ?substantive review? is when error sought to be corrected is one of law and is apparent on the face of the record. It is in the latter sense, this Court, held that no review lies on merits unless specifically provided under a statute.

32. This distinction has been further clarified in Budhia Swain v. Gopinath Deb6, wherein this Court has laid down certain grounds on which a criminal court can review or recall its judgment or order i.e. when the proceedings before it itself suffers from an inherent lack of jurisdiction or, a fraud is played upon court to obtain the order or, a mistake of court causing prejudice to party or the order was in ignorance of non-serving of necessary party or party had died and estate was not represented. It was further clarified that these exceptions were subjected to the limitation that such grounds cannot be raised to recall or review if they were available during the original action and was not availed.

33. In Ganesh Patel (supra) this Court held that application for recall seeking ?procedural review? and not ?substantive review? to which Section 362 of CrPC be attracted is permissible. This Court upheld the order of the High Court wherein it recalled the earlier order passed in the absence of the Respondent and based on false information.

34. A careful consideration of the statutory provisions and the aforesaid decisions of this Court clarify the now-well-settled position of jurisprudence of Section 362 of CrPC which when summarize would be that the criminal courts, as envisaged under the CrPC, are barred from altering or review their own judgments except for the exceptions which are explicitly provided by the statute, namely, correction of a clerical or an arithmetical error that might have been committed or the said power is provided under any other law for the time being in force. As the courts become functus officio the very moment a judgment or an order is signed, the bar of Section 362 CrPC becomes applicable, this, despite the powers provided under Section 482 CrPC which, this veil cannot allow the courts to step beyond or circumvent an explicit bar. It also stands clarified that it is only in situations wherein an application for recall of an order or judgment seeking a ?procedural review? that the bar would not apply and not a substantive review? where the bar as contained in Section ?362 CrPC is attracted. Numerous decisions of this Court have also elaborated that the bar under said provision is to be applied stricto sensu."

10. Learned counsel for the applicant has submitted that in Muskan (supra), the Supreme Court in Para 22 observed:-

" 22. On the aspect of the powers of the Courts under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C., it is settled that at the stage of quashing, the Court is not required to conduct a mini trial. Thus, the jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. with respect to quashing is somewhat limited as the Court has to only consider whether any sufficient material is available to proceed against the accused or not. If sufficient material is available, the power under Section 482 should not be exercised."

11. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon the judgment in the case of Pratima Mohanty (supra), and has submitted that in the said case, the Supreme Court has held that at the stage of discharge and/or considering the application under Section 482 Cr.P.C. the courts are not required to go into the merits of the allegations. In Para-8.2, it has been held as under:

" 8.2. It is trite that the power of quashing should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection and in rare cases. As per the settled proposition of law while examining an FIR/complaint quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon any enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness of allegations made in the FIR/complaint. Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception rather than any ordinary rule. Normally the criminal proceedings should not be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482CrPC when after a thorough investigation the charge-sheet has been filed. At the stage of discharge and/or considering the application under Section 482CrPC the courts are not required to go into the merits of the allegations and/or evidence in detail as if conducting the mini-trial. As held by this Court the powers under Section 482CrPC are very wide, but conferment of wide power requires the court to be more cautious. It casts an onerous and more diligent duty on the Court."

12. Learned counsel for the applicant has further relied upon paragraph-17 of the judgment in T.C. Mathai (supra), wherein the Supreme Court observed:-

"17. The aforesaid observations, though stated sixty years ago, would represent the correct legal position even now. Be that as it may, an agent cannot become a ?pleader? for the party in criminal proceedings, unless the party secures permission from the court to appoint him to act in such proceedings. The respondent-couple have not even moved for such a permission and hence no occasion has arisen so far to consider that aspect."

13. Learned counsel for the applicant has also relied upon paragraph-13 of the judgment in Samantha Christina Delfina Willis (supra), wherein the Court has observed that power of attorney holder of an accused cannot maintain a petition be it under Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India read with Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. In Para-13, the Court observed:-

"13. On a coalesce of the judgments so rendered by the Constitutional Courts, what can be unmistakably gathered is that the power of attorney holder of an accused cannot maintain a petition be it under Article 226 or 227 of the Constitution of India read with Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. or Criminal Petition under Section 482 Cr.P.C. Therefore, I hold that the present petition filed by the power of attorney holder of the accused, without seeking any permission at the hands of this Court, and without even narrating in the petition that he is personally aware of the facts of the case, the writ petition filed under Articles 226 and 227 of the Constitution of India read with Section 482 of the Cr.P.C. is per se not maintainable, as the accused cannot be represented by a power of attorney holder and thus, maintain the subject petition."

14. On the other hand, Sri Dhruv Mathur, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Shubham Tripathi, appearing for opposite party no.2 herein, has submitted that in this case, the applicant herein had appeared through his counsel and counter affidavit dated 11.11.2025 was also filed on his behalf and he was adequately represented before this Court and also participated in the proceedings of 482 Cr.P.C. It has been submitted that the Court has passed the judgment on 19.3.2026 after going through the material available on record and accordingly found that the complaint instituted is the counterblast to the case instituted by the applicant under Section 138 of N.I. Act against opposite party no.2 and the case was decided on 19.3.2026 in revised call, but learned counsel for the applicant (opposite party no.2 in the application) was not present. It has been submitted by Sri Mathur that a bare perusal of the recall application dated 13.4.2026 would show that by means of the same, learned counsel for the applicant is trying to bring in certain new facts pertaining to the present case and as such, is trying to seek a substantive recall/review of the judgment and order dated 19.3.2026, and in view of Section 362 Cr.P.C., the Court cannot alter or review the judgment after signing it. He has relied upon the judgment of the Supreme Court in the cases of State of Madhya Pradesh vs. Man Singh (2019) 10 SCC 161 and Vikram Bakshi and others vs. R.P. Khosla and another, 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1783. He has further submitted that when a procedural review of a judgment or final order is sought, the bar provided under Section 362 Cr.P.C. would not apply, whereas in the present case, the applicant is trying to seek a substantive review of the judgment and order dated 19.3.2026. He further submits that the Supreme Court has carved out an exception that where a judgment or final order is passed without serving all necessary parties or the order lacks inherent jurisdiction, the same can be recalled, but in the present case, no such contingency is visible.

15. I have heard Sri Suresh Chandra Shukla, learned counsel for the applicant, Sri Dhruv Mathur, learned Senior Advocate, assisted by Sri Shubham Tripathi, learned counsel for opposite party no.2, Sri Rao Narendra Singh, learned AGA-I for the State, and perused the record.

16. There is substantive provision in Cr.P.C. under Section 362, which prohibits that no Court can alter or review its judgment after signing the same, except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error. Section 362 of Cr.P.C. reads as under:

"362. Court not to alter judgment.- Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error. "

17. In the case of Man Singh (supra), it has been held by the Supreme Court that after disposing of a case on merits, the Court becomes functus officio and Section 362 Cr.P.C. expressly bars review and specifically provides that no court after it has signed its judgment shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error. It further observed that recall of judgment would amount to alteration or review of judgment which is not permissible under Section 362 Cr.P.C. The Supreme Court in Paras 7 and 8 observed as under:

"7. It is well settled law that the High Court has no jurisdiction to review its order either under Section 362 or under Section 482 . The inherent power under Section 482 CrPC cannot be used by the High Court to reopen or alter an order disposing of a petition decided on merits. After disposing of a case on merits, the Court becomes functus officio and Section 362 CrPC expressly bars review and specifically provides that no court after it has signed its judgment shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error . Recall of judgment would amount to alteration or review of judgment which is not permissible under Section 362 CrPC. It cannot be validated by the High Court invoking its inherent powers.

8. We have, therefore, no doubt in our mind that the High Court had no power to entertain the petition under Section 482 CrPC and alter the sentence imposed by it. We may also add that the manner in which the probation has been granted is not at all legal. The trial court had given reasons for not giving benefit of probation. When the High Court was deciding the revision petition against the order of conviction, it could have, after calling for a report of the Probation Officer in terms of Section 4 of the Act, granted probation. Even in such a case it had to give reasons why it disagreed with the trial court and the first appellate court on the issue of sentence. The High Court, in fact, reduced the sentence to the period already undergone meaning thereby that the conviction was upheld and sentence was imposed. After sentence had been imposed and served and fine paid, there was no question of granting probation."

18. The issue of recall has been considered by the Supreme Court in its latest judgment of Vikram Bakshi (supra). In the said case, the Supreme Court has held that a ?procedural review? is inherent or implied in a court to set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under misapprehension by it, however, a ?substantive review? is when error sought to be corrected is one of law and is apparent on the face of the record. When there is an apparent error on the face of record, review can lie and if the proceedings suffer from inherent lack of jurisdiction or fraud, then the recall or review can be entertained. In Paras 31, 32, 33, 34 and 34A, the Supreme Court observed:

"31. This Court, however, in exceptional cases, has carved out limited scope for exercise of review power by criminal courts. In Grindlays Bank Ltd. (supra), it was observed that review can be distinguished between "procedural revie" and "substantive review". A "procedural review" is inherent or implied in a court to set aside a palpably erroneous order passed under misapprehension by it, however, a ?substantive review? is when error sought to be corrected is one of law and is apparent on the face of the record. It is in the latter sense, this Court, held that no review lies on merits unless specifically provided under a statute.

32. This distinction has been further clarified in Budhia Swain v. Gopinath Deb6, wherein this Court has laid down certain grounds on which a criminal court can review or recall its judgment or order i.e. when the proceedings before it itself suffers from an inherent lack of jurisdiction or, a fraud is played upon court to obtain the order or, a mistake of court causing prejudice to party or the order was in ignorance of non-serving of necessary party or party had died and estate was not represented. It was further clarified that these exceptions were subjected to the limitation that such grounds cannot be raised to recall or review if they were available during the original action and was not availed.

33. In Ganesh Patel (supra) this Court held that application for recall seeking "procedural review" and not "substantive review" to which Section 362 of CrPC be attracted is permissible. This Court upheld the order of the High Court wherein it recalled the earlier order passed in the absence of the Respondent and based on false information.

34. A careful consideration of the statutory provisions and the aforesaid decisions of this Court clarify the now-well-settled position of jurisprudence of Section 362 of CrPC which when summarize would be that the criminal courts, as envisaged under the CrPC, are barred from altering or review their own judgments except for the exceptions which are explicitly provided by the statute, namely, correction of a clerical or an arithmetical error that might have been committed or the said power is provided under any other law for the time being in force. As the courts become functus officio the very moment a judgment or an order is signed, the bar of Section 362 CrPC becomes applicable, this, despite the powers provided under Section 482 CrPC which, this veil cannot allow the courts to step beyond or circumvent an explicit bar. It also stands clarified that it is only in situations wherein an application for recall of an order or judgment seeking a ?procedural review? that the bar would not apply and not a substantive review? where the bar as contained in Section ?362 CrPC is attracted. Numerous decisions of this Court have also elaborated that the bar under said provision is to be applied stricto sensu.

34A. Having said that, the following exceptional circumstances may be identified, wherein a criminal court is empowered to alter or review its own judgment or a final order under Section 362 CrPC:

a. Such power is expressly conferred upon court by CrPC or any other law for the time being in force or;

b. The court passing such a judgment or order lacked inherent jurisdiction to do so or;

c. A fraud or collusion is being played on court to obtain such judgment or order or;

d. A mistake on the part of court caused prejudice to a party or;

e. Fact relating to non-serving of necessary party or death leading to estate being non-represented, not brought to notice of court while passing such judgment or order.

It needs to be reiterated that all these exceptions are only exercisable for seeking a recall or review of an order or judgment, if a ground that is raised was not available or existent at the time of original proceedings before the Court. Mere fact that the said ground, although available, was not raised or pressed during the concerned proceedings, does not provide for an exemption to the parties to assert it as a ground. Moreover, the said power cannot be invoked as a means to circumvent the finality of the judicial process or mistakes and/or errors in the decision which are attributable to a conscious omission by the parties.

19. This Court, dealing with the similar issue, in the case of Javed Ahmad @ Javed and others vs. State of U.P. and another: 2025:AHC-LKO:25257, in Paras 16, 18 and 20 observed as under:

"16. In the case of Smt. Sooraj Devi vs. Pyare Lal and another, (1981) 1 SCC 500, the Hon'ble Apex Court took note of the expression "clerical or arithmetical error" indicated under Section 362 Cr.P.C. and in regard to the same observed as under:-

"A clerical or arithmetical error is an error occasioned by an accidental slip or omission of the court. It represents that which the court never intended to say. It is an error apparent on the face of the record and does not depend for its discovery on argument or disputation. An arithmetical error is a mistake of calculation, and a clerical error is a mistake in writing or typing. Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa [AIR 1966 SC 1047 : (1966) 3 SCR 99 : (1966) 17 STC 360]."

18. In the case of State of Punjab vs. Davinder Pal Singh Bhullar (2011) 14 SCC 770, Hon'ble Apex Supreme Court observed and held that :-

"III. BAR TO REVIEW/ALTER- JUDGMENT

44. There is no power of review with the Criminal Court after judgment has been rendered. The High Court can alter or review its judgment before it is signed. When an order is passed, it cannot be reviewed. Section 362 Cr.P.C. is based on an acknowledged principle of law that once a matter is finally disposed of by a Court, the said Court in the absence of a specific statutory provision becomes functus officio and is disentitled to entertain a fresh prayer for any relief unless the former order of final disposal is set aside by a Court of competent jurisdiction in a manner prescribed by law. The Court becomes functus officio the moment the order for disposing of a case is signed. Such an order cannot be altered except to the extent of correcting a clerical or arithmetical error. There is also no provision for modification of the judgment. (See: Hari Singh Mann v. Harbhajan Singh Bajwa & Ors., AIR 2001 SC 43; and Chhanni v. State of U.P., AIR 2006 SC 3051).

45. Moreover, the prohibition contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. is absolute; after the judgment is signed, even the High Court in exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 Cr.P.C. has no authority or jurisdiction to alter/review the same. (See: Moti Lal v. State of M.P., (2012) 11 SCC 427: AIR 1994 SC 1544; Hari Singh Mann (2001) 1 SCC 169: 2001 SCC (Cri) 113; and State of Kerala v. M.M. Manikantan Nair, (2001) 4 SCC 752 : AIR 2001 SC 2145).

46. If a judgment has been pronounced without jurisdiction or in violation of principles of natural justice or where the order has been pronounced without giving an opportunity of being heard to a party affected by it or where an order was obtained by abuse of the process of court which would really amount to its being without jurisdiction, inherent powers can be exercised to recall such order for the reason that in such an eventuality the order becomes a nullity and the provisions of Section 362 Cr.P.C. would not operate. In such eventuality, the judgment is manifestly contrary to the audi alteram partem rule of natural justice. The power of recall is different from the power of altering/reviewing the judgment. However, the party seeking recall/alteration has to establish that it was not at fault. (Vide: Chitawan & Ors. v. Mahboob Ilahi, 1970 Crl.L.J. 378 (All); Deepak Thanwardas Balwani v. State of Maharashtra & Anr., 1985 Crl.L.J. 23 (Bom); Habu v. State of Rajasthan, AIR 1987 Raj. 83 (F.B.); Swarth Mahto & Anr. v. Dharmdeo Narain Singh, AIR 1972 SC 1300; Makkapati Nagaswara Sastri v. S.S. Satyanarayan, AIR 1981 SC 1156; Asit Kumar Kar v. State of West Bengal & Ors., (2009) 2 SCC 703; and Vishnu Agarwal v. State of U.P. & Anr., AIR 2011 SC 1232).

47. This Court by virtue of Article 137 of the Constitution has been invested with an express power to review any judgment in Criminal Law and while no such power has been conferred on the High Court, inherent power of the court cannot be exercised for doing that which is specifically prohibited by the Code itself. (Vide: State Represented by D.S.P., S.B.C.I.D., Chennai v. K.V. Rajendran & Ors., AIR 2009 SC 46).

48. In Smt. Sooraj Devi v. Pyare Lal & Anr., AIR 1981 SC 736, this Court held that the prohibition in Section 362 Cr.P.C. against the Court altering or reviewing its judgment, is subject to what is "otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force". Those words, however, refer to those provisions only where the Court has been expressly authorised by the Code or other law to alter or review its judgment. The inherent power of the Court is not contemplated by the saving provision contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C. and, therefore, the attempt to invoke that power can be of no avail.

49. Thus, the law on the issue can be summarised to the effect that the criminal justice delivery system does not clothe the court to add or delete any words, except to correct the clerical or arithmetical error as specifically been provided under the statute itself after pronouncement of the judgment as the Judge becomes functus officio. Any mistake or glaring omission is left to be corrected only by the appropriate forum in accordance with law."

.....

20. In the case of Mukesh Updhyay vs. State of U.P. and another, 2019:AHC:42284, this Court at Allahabad observed as under :-

"This issue has been dealt by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in the following judgments :-

The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Soorja Devi vs. Pyare Lal and Another reported at (1981) 1 SCC 500 has held in paras No.4, 5, 6 and 7 that :-

"4. The sole question before us is whether the High Court was right in refusing to entertain Criminal Miscellaneous Application No. 5127 of 1978 on the ground that it had no power to review its order dated Ist September, 1970. Section 362 of the Code of Criminal Procedure declares :- "Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error". It is apparent that what the appellant seeks by the application is not the correction of a clerical or arithmetical error. What she desires is a declaration that the High Court order dated September 1, 1970 does not affect her rights in the house property and that the direction to restore possession to Pyare Lal is confined to that portion only of the house property respecting which the offence of trespass was committed so that she is not evicted from the portion in her possession. The appellant, in fact, asks for an adjudication that the right to possession alleged by her remains unaffected by the order dated September 1, 1970. Pyare Lal disputes that the order is not binding on her and that she is entitled to the right in the property claimed by her. Having considered the matter, we are not satisfied that the controversy can be brought within the description "clerical or arithmetical error". A clerical or arithmetical error is an error occasioned by an accidental slip or omission of the court. It represents that which the court never intended to say. It is an error apparent on the face of the record and does not depend for its discovery on argument or disputation. An arithmetical error is a mistake of calculation, and a clerical error is a mistake in writing or typing. Master Construction Co. (P) Ltd. v. State of Orissa.

5. The appellant points out that he invoked the inherent power of the High Court saved by Section 482 of the Code and that notwithstanding the prohibition imposed by Section 362 the High Court had power to grant relief. Now it is well settled that the inherent power of the court cannot be exercised for doing that which is specifically prohibited by the Code. Sankatha Singh v. State of U.P3. It is true that the prohibition in Section 362 against the Court altering or reviewing its judgment is subject to what is "otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force". Those words, however, refer to those provisions only where the Court has been expressly authorised by the Code or other law to alter or review its judgment. The inherent power of the Court is not contemplated by the saving provision contained in Section 362 and, therefore, the attempt to invoke that power can be of no avail.

The Hon'ble Supreme Court in the matter of Narayan Prasad vs. State of Bihar reported at 2017 SCC Online SC 1738 has held that :-

6. In order to decide the controversy at hand, it would be useful to reproduce Sections 362 and 482 of The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 [hereinafter 'CrPC' for brevity]

362. Court not to alter judgment.- Save as otherwise provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court, when it has signed its judgment or final order disposing of a case, shall alter or review the same except to correct a clerical or arithmetical error.

482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court.-Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice.

7. Plan reading of these Sections indicate that the prohibition under the Section 362 of Cr.P.C. is absolute; after the judgment is signed even the High Court in exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 of CrPC has no authority or jurisdiction to alter/review the same. The inherent power under Section 482 of CrPC was purported to avoid the abuse of the process of the Court and to secure ends of justice. Such power cannot be exercised to do something which is expressly barred under the Code.

8. If any consideration of the facts by way of review is not permissible under the Code and is expressly barred, it is not for the Court to exercise its inherent power to reconsider the matter."

Co-ordinate Bench of this Court in a judgment dated 30.5.2016 passed in Criminal Misc. Recall Application No.126367 of 2016 in Application u/s 482 No.5938 of 2016 has held that :-

"Full Bench of five Judges in Mahesh Vs. State, 1971 ALJ page 668 held, "the legal position can be summarized by laying down that the High Court is not possessed of general power to review, revise or reconsider the judgment or order duly pronounced in criminal appeal or a criminal revision, though the judgment or order can be so reviewed, revised or reconsidered in exceptional circumstances in exercise of the inherent power under Section 561-A (presently section 482), Cr.P.C, provided that the inherent power is so exercised for one of the three purposes detailed therein".

There is no power of review with the criminal court after the judgment has been rendered. The High Court can alter or review its judgment before it is signed. When an order is passed, it cannot be reviewed. Section 362 Cr.P.C is based on an acknowledged principle of law that once a matter is finally disposed of by a court, the said court in the absence of a specific statutory provision becomes functus officio and is dis-entitled to entertain a fresh prayer for any relief unless the former order of final disposal is set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction in a manner prescribed by law. The court becomes functus officio the moment the order for disposing of a case is signed. Such an order cannot be altered except to the extent of correcting a clerical or arithmetical error. There is also no provision for modification of the judgment. (Vide Hari singh Mann Vs. Harbhajan Singh Bajwa, 2001 (1) SCC 169).

Moreover the prohibition contained in Section 362 Cr.P.C is absolute; after the judgement is signed, even the High Court in exercise of its inherent power under Section 482 CrP.C has no authority or jurisdiction to alter/review the same (vide Moti Lal Vs. State of M.P. (2012) 11 SCC 427).

If a judgement has been pronounced without jurisdiction or in violation of principle of natural justice or where the order has been pronounced without giving an opportunity of being heard to a party affected by it or where an order was obtained by abuse of the process of court which would really amount to its being without jurisdiction, inherent powers can be exercised to recall such order for the reason that in such an eventuality the order becomes a nullity and the provisions of Section 362 Cr.P.C would not operate. In such an eventuality, the judgment is manifestly contrary to the audi alteram partem rule of natural justice. The power of recall is different from the power of altering/reviewing the judgment. However, the party seeking recall/alteration has to establish that it was not at fault.(vide Chitawan Vs. Mahboob Ilahi, 1970 Cri. LJ 378(All), Asit Kumar Kar Vs. State of West Bengal (2009) 2 SCC 703)".

In view of the abovementioned judgments, the review petition is expressly barred under Section 362 Cr.P.C and applicant has not able to point out that impugned judgment was passed contrary to the rule of natural justice or passed without jurisdiction, therefore, even under power of 482 Cr.P.C., this review application cannot be entertained. Thus, the present review application is rejected being not maintainable."

20. It is also to be mentioned here that there is no allegation that any order has been obtained by playing any fraud or misrepresentation. The merit has been discussed and thereafter the detailed judgment has been passed by considering the entire evidences produced by the parties. It is also not the case that the applicant was not served notice and his counter affidavit has been filed. It is also not the case of the applicant that this Court lacks inherent jurisdiction while passing the final order. After discussing the aforesaid judgments of the Supreme Court as well as of this Court and perusing the record, it is observed that this Court has passed the order after considering the evidences available on record and in view of Section 362 Cr.P.C., final order cannot be recalled.

21. This Court, therefore, cannot review or alter the judgment once the same has been pronounced and signed. There is also no correction of a clerical or an arithmetical error in the case, rather the applicant wants that the judgment should be recalled and the matter should be re-heard, which is impermissible in view of various judgments, as cited above.

22. In view of above, the recall application is devoid of merit. It is accordingly rejected.

CASE ARISING FROM

Case Crime No. 204 of 2020, Police Station Sainya, District Agra. Offences: Sections 307, 504 IPC. Sessions Trial No. 109/2024.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Sanjay Singh.
Counsel for Respondent(s): Sri Pankaj Kumar, AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjay Singh, learned counsel for the applicant and Sri Pankaj Kumar, learned A.G.A. for the State.

2. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the present application has been filed under Section 528 BNSS, for the relief mentioned in the prayer clause of the application. The relief sought in the application is delineated below:

"It is, therefore, most respectfully prayed that this Hon'ble Court may graciously be pleased to allow this application under 528 B.N.S.S. and quash the Non Bailable warrant issued against the applicant vide order dated 18.10.2024 passed by the Additional Session Judge, Court No.10, Agra in Session Trial No. 109/2024, arising out in case crime no.204 of 2020 for the offence under section 307, 504 IPC, Police Station Sainya, District Agra And/or pass such other and further order or direction which this Hon'ble Court may deem fit and proper under the circumstances of the case."

3. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the O.P. No. 2 had lodged an F.I.R. on 24.11.2020 against three accused persons, including the present applicant, under Sections 307 and 504 IPC. He further submits that, after completion of investigation, the I.O. submitted a charge-sheet on 20.03.2021 against three accused persons, including the present applicant, and thereafter, the learned trial court took cognizance vide order dated 03.04.2021. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the applicant was released on bail on 08.12.2021 by this Court vide order dated 08.12.2021 passed in Crl. Misc. Bail Application No. 38063 of 2021 (Ravi @ Ravindra vs. State of U.P.), on furnishing a personal bond and two sureties each in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned. He further submits that, as the matter was triable by the Sessions Court, the case was committed to the Sessions Court vide order dated 08.01.2024. He further submits that, in this case, charges were framed on 14.02.2024 in the presence of the accused-applicant and the next date was fixed as 16.03.2024. He further submits that the applicant was directed to be present before the trial court, either personally or through his counsel, on 12.08.2024.

4. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that the applicant, due to personal difficulty, could not appear before the trial court and, in the meantime, the trial court issued a nonbailable warrant (NBW) against the applicant on 18.10.2024. He further submits that the trial court issued the NBW directly against the applicant without issuing first a bailable warrant against him, which is contrary to law. He further submits that a non bailable warrant was issued on 18.10.2024 against the applicant, and thereafter, a proclamation under Section 82 Cr.P.C. was also issued on 03.11.2025 against him along with the NBW on 03.11.2025, and thereafter, on 24.12.2025, an order of NBW along with orders under Sections 82 and 83 Cr.P.C. was also passed. He further submits that, since the applicant had already been granted bail, the appropriate course available to the court was in terms of Section 89 Cr.P.C., which provides that when a person who is bound by a bail bond to appear before the court and fails to appear, the court may issue a warrant directing that such person be arrested and produced before the court and thereafter in case of absconding, the proceeding of proclamation, cancellation and confiscation of bail bond and sureties to be done.

5. Learned counsel for the applicant further submits that, till date, no notice has been issued for forfeiture of the bail bond as provided under Section 446 Cr.P.C. He further submits that, after forfeiting the bail bond and proceeding against the movable and immovable property in respect of the bail bond, as well as proceeding against the property of the sureties as pledged before the Court, proceedings under Section 83 Cr.P.C. should be initiated in terms of Section 356 of the BNSS.

6. Per contra, A.G.A. Sri Pankaj Kumar submits that the accused applicant after release on bail is not participating in trial proceeding, even charge has been framed in his presence and lingering the trial proceedings. After framing of charge on several dates, applicant moved exemption applications to exempt his personal appearance, some were allowed by the learned trial court, applicant was very well aware with the proceeding and he deliberately absconded, for which process was issued as NBW on 12.08.2024, which was recalled on application of applicant vide order dated 13.09.2024, thereafter, the applicant again played hide and seek with the trial court and fled from the court proceeding, though the date for evidence was fixed in presence of applicant as 16.03.2024, therefore, the impugned order has been passed in accordance with law.

7. Learned A.G.A. further submits that order sheet annexed as Annexure No.4 to the affidavit, itself reveals that after framing of charge, the applicant tried to delay the trial, though rest of the accused persons appeared before the trial court, who may also be facing hardship, due to dilatory tactics of the applicant.

8. This Court after perusing the record finds that the applicant accused was present before the trial court upto 02.08.2024 either personally or he moved his exemption application from appearance in person due to any personal difficulties. On 12.08.2024 the applicant accused neither appeared before the trial court nor moved any exemption application therefore, a Non-bailable warrant issued was against him by the trial court. On 13.09.2024 the warrant was recalled on furnishing personnel bond. The applicant accused appeared before the trial court up to 05.10.2024 and on 18.10.2024, neither he appeared personally before the trial court nor filed any exemption application therefore Non-Bailable warrant was issued against him.

9. The applicant accused was continuously absent since 18.10.2024, consequently, non bailable warrants were issued by the learned trial court from 18.10.2024 upto 28.10.2025 for 29 dates. For the first time on 03.11.2025 an order declaring him a proclaimed offender under section

82 Cr.P.C. was issued by the trial court and date of appearance before the court was fixed 14.11.2025, even so the applicant accused did not appear for six dates in compliance with the order of proclamation, thereafter, on 24.12.2025, the order of attachment of property under section 83 of Cr.P.C. was issued by the trial court. For two years, the process of Non-bailable warrant issued under section 89 Cr.P.C. and order of proclamation issued under section 82 of Cr.P.C., even then the accused has not appeared and therefore, order of attachment of property of applicant was issued under section 83 of Cr.P.C. and thereafter he filed the instant application under 528 of BNSS on 17.02.2026 for quashing the order of Non-bailable warrant passed against him by the trial court .

10. There are two sections i.e. Section 228 BNSS (corresponding Section 205 Cr.P.C.) and 355 BNSS (corresponding Section 317 Cr.P.C.) which provide that the personal attendance of the accused may be dispensed with during an enquiry or trial and in absence of the accused, the proceedings may be conducted by his Advocate. For ready reference the provisions of Sections 228 and 355 BNSS are delineated below :-

Section 228. Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused. (1) Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused and permit him to appear by his advocate.

(2) But the Magistrate inquiring into or trying the case may, in his discretion, at any stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of the accused, and, if necessary, enforce such attendance in the manner hereinbefore provided.

Section 355 BNSS. Provision for inquiries and trial being held in absence of accused in certain cases. (1) At any stage of an inquiry or trial under this Sanhita, if the Judge or Magistrate is satisfied, for reasons to be recorded, that the personal attendance of the accused before the Court is not necessary in the interests of justice, or that the accused persistently disturbs the proceedings in Court, the Judge or Magistrate may, if the accused is represented by an advocate, dispense with his attendance and proceed with such inquiry or trial in his absence, and may, at any subsequent stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of such accused.

(2) If the accused in any such case is not represented by an advocate, or if the Judge or Magistrate considers his personal attendance necessary, he may, if he thinks fit and for reasons to be recorded by him, either adjourn such inquiry or trial, or order that the case of such accused be taken up or tried separately.

Explanation. For the purpose of this section, personal attendance of the accused includes attendance through audio-video electronic means.

11. Thus, as per Section 228 and 355 BNSS during an enquiry or trial, the accused is required to appear before the court in person, unless an exemption from personal appearance has been granted by a judicial magistrate or a judge.

12. To ensure the attendance of the accused and the expeditious conclusion of the trial, the court concerned shall adhere to the prescribed statutory procedures without delay and refrain from adjourning proceedings without sufficient cause.

13. There are four stages of criminal proceedings during which an accused may abscond. Upon following the prescribed legal procedure, the criminal proceedings shall be concluded. The stages and the corresponding legal procedures are as follows :-

First- An accused absconds during investigation and police report/charge sheet is submitted against him, declaring him a proclaimed offender.

Second- An accused is not arrested during the investigation; either his arrest is stayed by any court of law, or his arrest is not required and he subsequently absconds after summoning and till the conclusion of the trial.

Third- An accused is on bail during investigation, furnishing bail bond and surety and he absconds subsequently after summoning and till the conclusion of the trial.

Fourth- An accused absconds after the framing of charge while he was released on bail/anticipatory bail, on furnishing his bail bond and surety.

Accordingly, the police, public officers, prosecutors and the court should strictly adhere to the following procedures prescribed under the BNSS and other relevant laws to ensure a speedy trial in cases involving an absconding accused at any stage of criminal proceedings.

1. If an accused is absconding from the stage of investigation till conclusion of trial and not on bail, the procedure to be followed by the concerned police officer and court, to complete the investigation, enquiry and trial as per law provided under the provisions mentioned herein below:-

Additionally, the court shall obtain a written progress report from the concerned head of the police department of the district or police commissionerate, regarding execution of NBW in respect of the convicted person.

14. The procedure, for the execution of summons, warrant of arrest, proclamation and attachments to compel the appearance of an accused shall be followed by the Court and the police as provided in Chapter VI (Sections 63 to 93) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023.

15. If the service of a summons on an individual (accused) shall be performed in the manner provided under Sections 64, 66, 67, 68, 69 and 70 of BNSS i.e. the summons shall be served by a police officer on the accused personally,if practicable;otherwise,it may be served by leaving one of the duplicates for him with an adult member of his family residing with him.

16. Regarding an absconding accused, the procedures for completing the investigation, inquiry and trial, even in the absence of the accused, has been mentioned in the relevant paragraphs of this judgement, as provided under the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 etc.

17. If an accused person absconds or conceals himself from arrest during an investigation involving a cognizable and non-bailable offence, the investigation shall be completed in accordance with Rule 215 and 216 of Chapter XIX of the U.P. Police Regulations. The investigating Officer shall apply to the concerned court for a warrant of arrest, a proclamation and an order of attachment. Following this, the officer shall complete the investigation and submit the police report to the court. Rules 215 and 216 of the U.P. Police Regulation are delineated below for ready reference :-

"Rule 215 of U.P. Police Regulations- Whenever an officer-in- charge of a police station, or an officer making an investigation under Chapter XII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) is satisfied that a person whom he is empowered to arrest under Section 41 (1) of the Code has absconded or is concealing himself so that he cannot be arrested*, he must apply to the Court having jurisdiction, successively, for a* warrant of arrest, a proclamation under Section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) and an order of attachment under Section 83/84. All these applications should be made as early as may be desirable in the particular case; they need not be delayed for the conclusion of an investigation; and a warrant of arrest, a proclamation and an order of attachment may all legally be issued one after the other in their proper order on the same day. The officer who asks a Court to issue a proclamation must be prepared to produce legal evidence to prove that the person whose arrest desired has absconded, and must not accept the mere statement or report of an officer who has no personal knowledge of the absconding to satisfy the Court. When an order of attachment is issued he must satisfy himself that it is efficiently executed.

Rule 216 of U.P. Police Regulations*- Any person for whose appearance a proclamation has been issued under Section 82 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973 (2 of 1974) is an* absconded offender within the meaning of this Chapter."

18. If a court concerned is satisfied that, after proved service of summons upon an accused, the accused has not appeared before the court, Section 73 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to section 71 Cr.P.C.) empowers the court to direct that security (bail) be taken from the person against whom a warrant of arrest is issued, with the objective of reducing unnecessary detention while issuing such a warrant, the court may endorse it with a direction that if the person executes a bond with sufficient sureties, he shall be released from custody.

19. The provisions of section 73 of BNSS (corresponding section 71 Cr.P.C.) is delineated below:-

*"*Section 73 of BNSS . Power to direct security to be taken.-(1) Any Court issuing a warrant for the arrest of any person may in its discretion direct by endorsement on the warrant that, if such person executes a bail bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before the Court at a specified time and thereafter until otherwise directed by the Court, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall take such security and shall release such person from custody.

(2) The endorsement shall state"

(a) the number of sureties;

(b) the amount in which they and the person for whose arrest the warrant is issued, are to be respectively bound;

(c) the time at which he is to attend before the Court.

(3) Whenever security is taken under this section, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall forward the bond to the Court."

20. In case of any person/accused of a non-bailable offence who is evading arrest, Section 75 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding section 73 of Cr.P.C.) empowers a Chief Judicial Magistrate or a Magistrate of the First Class to direct a warrant to any person, within his local jurisdiction for the arrest of an escaped convict, a proclaimed offender, or any person accused of a non-bailable offence who is evading arrest. The provisions of section 75 of BNSS (corresponding section 73 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:

Section 75 of BNSS

"Section 75 of BNSS. Warrant may be directed to any person. -(1) The Chief Judicial Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class may direct a warrant to any person within his local jurisdiction for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or of any person who is accused of a non-bailable offence and is evading arrest*.*

(2) Such person shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant, and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued, is in, or enters on, any land or other property under his charge.

(3) When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest police officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under section 73."

21. If an accused person is hiding to avoid the execution of a warrant, issued twice 30 days intervals as provided under Section 356 BNSS, Section 84 of the BNSS (corresponding section 82 of Cr.P.C.), empowers the courts to issue a written proclamation against such person. The proclamation requires such person to appear at a specified place and time (within 30 days from the date of publication of such proclamation). Thus, as per Section 84 of the BNSS, if the Court has reason to believe that a person is absconding to avoid execution of a warrant, a proclamation may be issued, but the proclamation shall be published as per Section 84 BNSS as well as Section 356 BNSS. If the absconded person fails to appear within 30 days, at the specific place and time, the Court can declare him a □proclaimed offender□. Failure to appear can also lead to the accused to criminal prosecution under Section 209 of the BNS (corresponding section 174-A IPC). In cases where the accused was released on bail, failure to appear may result in a show cause notice, forfeiture of the bail bond and surety and its recovery under Section 491 BNSS (corresponding Section 446 Cr.P.C.), Section 492 BNSS (corresponding Section 446A Cr.P.C.) and furthermore, the court may order the attachment of property of the absconded accused under section 85 BNSS (corresponding Section 83 Cr.P.C.). The provisions of Section 84 of the BNSS (corresponding to section 82 Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

"Section 84 of BNSS:- Proclamation for person absconding*.- (1) If any Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.*

(2) The proclamation shall be published as follows:"

(i) (a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(b) it shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which such person ordinarily resides or to some conspicuous place of such town or village; (c) a copy thereof shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house;

(ii) the Court may also, if it thinks fit, direct a copy of the proclamation to be published in a daily newspaper circulating in the place in which such person ordinarily resides.

(3) A statement in writing by the Court issuing the proclamation to the effect that the proclamation was duly published on a specified day, in the manner specified in clause (i) of sub-section (2), shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of this section have been complied with, and that the proclamation was published on such day.

(4) Where a proclamation published under sub-section (1) is in respect of a person accused of an offence which is made punishable with imprisonment of ten years or more, or imprisonment for life or with death under the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 or under any other law for the time being in force, and such person fails to appear at the specified place and time required by the proclamation, the Court may, after making such inquiry as it thinks fit, pronounce him a proclaimed offender and make a declaration to that effect

(5) The provisions of sub-sections (2) and (3) shall apply to a declaration made by the Court under sub-section (4) as they apply to the proclamation published under sub-section (1)."

22. If a proclaimed offender does not appear in court on the date and time in compliance of order of Section 84 BNSS (corresponding Section 82 Cr.P.C.), then before cancellation, forfeiture of the bail bond and sureties which was furnished before release from judicial custody, a fresh separate criminal case can be initiated as per the provisions of Section 215(1) of BNSS, under Section 209 BNS (corresponding Section 174A IPC) against the absconded accused for violation of order of a court passed under Section 84 BNSS (corresponding Section 82 Cr.P.C.), thus, Section 209 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), 2023 (corresponding section 174-A IPC) penalizes non-appearance in response to a proclamation issued by a court under Section 84 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS). It applies to individual who fails to appear at a specified place and time after being proclaimed offenders. For offence of Section 209 of the BNS (corresponding section 174-A IPC) provision of cognizance has been mentioned under section 215(1)(a) of the BNSS. The provisions of Section 209 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 are delineated below:-

"Section 209 BNS:- Non-appearance in response to a proclamation under section 84 of Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023.-Whoever fails to appear at the specified place and the specified time as required by a proclamation published under sub-section (1) of section 84 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both, or with community service, and where a declaration has been made under sub-section (4) of that section pronouncing him as a proclaimed offender, he shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to seven years and shall also be liable to fine.

23. For offfence of section 209 of the B.N.S, provision of cognizance has been mentioned under section 215(1)(a) of the BNSS. Section 215(1)(a) of the BNSS (corresponding section 195(1)(a) of Cr.P.C.) restricts courts from taking cognizance of specific offences, including contempt of lawful authority, offences against public justice, and document-related crimes, without a formal written complaint from the concerned public servant. This provision ensures orderly administration of justice by requiring written authorization for prosecution. Section 215(1)(a) of the BNSS covers offences under Sections 206 to 223 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), 2023, excluding Section 209 BNS. The provisions of Section 215(1)(a) of the BNSS are delineated below:-

Section 215(1)(a) of BNSS

Section 215. Prosecution for contempt of lawful authority of public servants, for offences against public justice and for offences relating to documents given in evidence.--(1) No Court shall take cognizanc"

(a)(i) of any offence punishable under sections 206 to 223 (both inclusive but excluding section 209) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023; or

(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence; or

(iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence, except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate or of some other public servant who is authorised by the concerned public servant so to do;

Section 195 (1)(a) of Cr.P.C

Section 195. Prosecution for contempt of lawful authority of public servants, for offences against public justice and for offences relating to documents given in evidence.-(1) No Court shall take cognizance"

(a) (i) of any offence punishable under sections 172 to 188 (both inclusive) of the Indian Penal Code, (45 of 1860), or

(ii) of any abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, or (

iii) of any criminal conspiracy to commit such offence,

except on the complaint in writing of the public servant concerned or of some other public servant to whom he is administratively subordinate;

24. Under section 195(1)(a) of Cr.P.C. there was no such word Excluding section 174-A of IPC while under section 215 of BNSS the word Excluding, Section 209 of BNS has been mentioned.

25. The 'Exclusion' Explained: Section 215(a)(i) covers offences under sections 206 to 223 of BNS but explicitly excludes Section 209 BNS. Section 209 BNS deals with non-appearance in response to the order of proclamation passed by a court of law rather than a public servant. This means that while other offences require a formal written complaint, but prosecution for non-appearance (209 BNS) can proceed through standard police procedures without this specific limitation. Thus, the term Exclusion explains that there is no restriction on taking cognizance, if there is no written complaint to initiate criminal proceedings against the proclaimed offender and thus an FIR can be registered and police report can be submitted in the court for taking cognizance or suo moto cognizance can be taken by the court who passed the order of proclamation under section 84 of BNSS.

26. If an accused person absconds and he has been declared a proclaimed offender and thereafter, as per section 85 of BNSS, the court issuing a proclamation under section 84 (corresponding section 82 CrPC) may order the attachment of any property (movable or immovable) belonging to the proclaimed person. Attachment may take place within the district or, if endorsed by the District Magistrate, outside the district. If the property is perishable, the court may order its immediate sale to avoid spoilage, with proceeds held by the court. Individuals other than the accused can file claims or objections to the attached property within 6 months. The provisions of Section 85 of the BNSS (corresponding section 83 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 85 of BNSS

Section 85 of BNSS. Attachment of property of person absconding*.-(1) The Court issuing a proclamation under section 84 may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, at any time after the issue of the proclamation, order the attachment of any property, movable or immovable, or both, belonging to the proclaimed person: Provided that where at the time of the issue of the proclamation the Court is satisfied, by affidavit or otherwise, that the person in relation to whom the proclamation is to be issued,"*

(a) is about to dispose of the whole or any part of his property; or

(b) is about to remove the whole or any part of his property from the local jurisdiction of the Court, it may order the attachment of property simultaneously with the issue of the proclamation.

(2) Such order shall authorise the attachment of any property belonging to such person within the district in which it is made; and it shall authorise the attachment of any property belonging to such person without such district when endorsed by the District Magistrate within whose district such property is situate.

(3) If the property ordered to be attached is a debt or other movable property, the attachment under this section shall be made"

(a) by seizure; or

(b) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(c) by an order in writing prohibiting the delivery of such property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(d) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

(4) If the property ordered to be attached is immovable, the attachment under this section shall, in the case of land paying revenue to the State Government, be made through the Collector of the district in which the land is situate, and in all other case- (a) by taking possession; or

(b) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(c) by an order in writing prohibiting the payment of rent on delivery of property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(d) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

(5) If the property ordered to be attached consists of live-stock or is of a perishable nature, the Court may, if it thinks it expedient, order immediate sale thereof, and in such case the proceeds of the sale shall abide the order of the Court.

(6) The powers, duties and liabilities of a receiver appointed under this section shall be the same as those of a receiver appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908 (5 of 1908).

27. If an accused of non-bailable and cognizable offence is evading arrest, and he is declared a proclaimed offender and his property is attached, the investigating officer is required to submit the final police report (charge-sheet) under Section 193(3) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding to section 173(2) CrPC) to the court of Magistrate without unnecessary delay, including through electronic communication.

28. Further, the Investigating Officer is obligated to inform the informant or the victim about the progress of the investigation within ninety days as per Section 193(3) of the BNSS while same was not mentioned under the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1973. The provisions of section 193(3) of BNSS (corresponding to section 173(2) Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 193(3) BNSS

"Section 193(3) of BNSS (i) As soon as the investigation is completed, the officer in charge of the police station shall forward, including through electronic communication to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the form as the State Government may, by rules provide, stating

(a) the names of the parties;

(b) the nature of the information;

(c) the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case;

(d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom;

(e) whether the accused has been arrested;

(f) whether the accused has been released on his bond or bail bond;

(g) whether the accused has been forwarded in custody under section 190;

(h) whether the report of medical examination of the woman has been attached where investigation relates to an offence under sections 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 70 or section 71 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023;

(ii) the police officer shall, within a period of ninety days, inform the progress of the investigation by any means including through electronic communication to the informant or the victim; (New provision as this provision was not in Cr.P.C.)

(iii) the officer shall also communicate, in such manner as the State Government may, by rules, provide, the action taken by him, to the person, if any, by whom the information relating to the commission of the offence was first given"

Section 173(2) of Cr.P.C.

"Section 173(2) of Cr.P*.C. (2) (i) As soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the police station shall forward to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence on a police report, a report in the form prescribed by the State Government, stating"*

(a) the names of the parties;

(b) the nature of the information;

(c) the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case;

(d) whether any offence appears to have been committed and, if so, by whom;

(e) whether the accused has been arrested;

(f) whether he has been released on his bond and, if so, whether with or without sureties;

(g) whether he has been forwarded in custody under section 170.

(h) whether the report of medical examination of the woman has been attached where investigation relates to an offence under [sections 376, 376A, 376AB, 376B, 376C, 376D, 376DA, 376DB] or section 376E of the Indian Penal Code (45 of 1860)].]

(ii) The officer shall also communicate, in such manner as may be prescribed by the State Government, the action taken by him, to the person, if any, by whom the information relating to the commission of the offence was first given.□ ”

29. As per Section 210 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, a Judicial Magistrate/Special Court may take cognizance in three ways: upon receiving a complaint of facts constituting an offence; upon a police report, or upon the Magistrate□s own knowledge.

30. This provision signifies the formal commencement of criminal proceedings, wherein the Magistrate applies judicial mind to the facts to determine whether there is sufficient ground to proceed. The provisions of section 210 of BNSS (corresponding Section 190 Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 210 of BNSS. Cognizance of offences by Magistrate*.-(1) Subject to the provisions of this Chapter, any Magistrate of the first class, and any Magistrate of the second class specially empowered in this behalf under sub-section*

(2), may take cognizance of any offence□

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts, including any complaint filed by a person authorised under any special law, which constitutes such offence;

(b) upon a police report (submitted in any mode including electronic mode) of such facts;
82

(c) upon information received from any person other than a police officer, or upon his own knowledge, that such offence has been committed.

(2) The Chief Judicial Magistrate may empower any Magistrate of the second class to take cognizance under sub-section (1) of such offences as are within his competence to inquire into or try.

31. As per Section 227 of the BNSS, if the Magistrate finds sufficient grounds to proceed, he may issue a summon (for summons cases) or a warrant/summon (for warrant cases) to bring the accused before the Court. Summons or warrants can be issued through electronic means (e.g., digital message).

32. If an accused has been released on bail and has furnished a bail bond with sureties under Section 485 BNSS (corresponding Section 441 Cr.P.C.) and 486 BNSS (corresponding Section 441A Cr.P.C.), the Court concerned, after taking cognizance of the offence, may issue summons or non-bailable warrant (NBW) under Section 227 of the BNSS. The provisions of Section 227 BNSS (corresponding Section 204 Cr.P.C.) are delineated below for ready reference:-

"Section 227 BNSS. Issue of process.- (1) If in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of an offence there is sufficient ground for proceeding, and the case appears to be"

(a) a summons-case, he shall issue summons to the accused for his attendance; or

(b) a warrant-case, he may issue a warrant, or, if he thinks fit, a summons, for causing the accused to be brought or to appear at a certain time before such Magistrate or (if he has no jurisdiction himself) some other Magistrate having jurisdiction:

Provided that summons or warrants may also be issued through electronic means.

(2) No summons or warrant shall be issued against the accused under sub-section (1) until a list of the prosecution witnesses has been filed.

(3) In a proceeding instituted upon a complaint made in writing, every summons or warrant issued under sub-section (1) shall be accompanied by a copy of such complaint.

(4) When by any law for the time being in force any process-fees or other fees are payable, no process shall be issued until the fees are paid and, if such fees are not paid within a reasonable time, the Magistrate may dismiss the complaint.

(5) Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of section 90"

33. The summons and warrants of arrest shall be issued, served as well as executed as per provision of Chapter VI of BNSS from Section 63 to 93 of the BNSS. The relevant provisions for ready reference delineated below:

Section 64 BNSS (corresponding Section 62 Cr.P.C.)- Service of summons to be served personally to the person summoned.

Section 66 BNSS (corresponding Section 64 Cr.P.C.)- Where the person summoned cannot be found, the summons may be served on some adult member of his family residing with him.

Section 67 BNSS (corresponding Section 65 Cr.P.C.)- If service of summons cannot be effected as provided in Sections 64 and 66 BNSS, the serving officer shall affix one of the duplicates of summons to some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which the person summoned ordinarily resides.

Section 90 BNSS (corresponding Section 87 Cr.P.C.)- After summons if a court concerned has reason to believe that the accused is either absconding or not obeying the summons or not appearing before court after duly service of summons.

Section 91 BNSS (corresponding Section 88 Cr.P.C.)-Power to take bond or bail bond for appearance

Section 92 BNSS (corresponding Section 89 Cr.P.C.)-Arrest on breach of bond or bail bond for appearance

34. Section 92 of the BNSS (corresponding section 89 of Cr.P.C.) empowers a Court to issue a warrant for the arrest of any person who fails to appear after executing a bond (with or without sureties) to appear before that Court. This ensures compliance with attendance orders in criminal proceedings.

35. The section applies when a person is bound by a bond (under the Cr.P.C.) to appear in Court but fails to do so. The Presiding Officer of the Court can issue a warrant directing the arrest of such a person, and upon arrest, the individual is brought before the Court. It is a procedural tool designed to compel the attendance of individuals who have previously given undertaking to appear before the Court. The provisions of Section 92 of the BNSS (corresponding section 89 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 92. BNSS:- Arrest on breach of bond or bail bond for appearance - When any person who is bound by any bond or bail bond taken under this Sanhita to appear before a Court, does not appear, the officer presiding in such Court may issue a warrant directing that such person be arrested and produced before him.

36. If a person/accused is hiding to avoid execution of a warrant then Section 84 of the BNSS (corresponding section 82 of Cr.P.C.), empowers courts to issue a written proclamation against an absconding person for whom a warrant has been issued. It requires such person to appear at a specified place and time (at least 30 days from the date of publication).

37. Thus, as per Section 84 of the BNSS, if the Court has reason to believe (with or without evidence) that a person is hiding to avoid execution of a warrant, a proclamation may be issued. The proclamation is read publicly in the town or village where the person resides, affixed to his house, and displayed at the courthouse. If the person fails to appear within 30 days at the specified place and time, the Court can declare him a □proclaimed offender□. Failure to appear within 30 days can lead to an accused to criminal prosecution under Section 209 of the BNS (corresponding section 174-A IPC), to show cause and forfeiture of bail bond and surety and its recovery under Section 491 BNSS (corresponding Section 446 Cr.P.C.), Section 492 BNSS (corresponding Section

38. If a person is in custody in a criminal case and released on bail after furnishing a bond and sureties to appear before the court, then Section 485 of the BNSS (corresponding to section 441 of Cr.P.C.) mandates that, before releasing any person on bail, he must execute a bond (with or without sureties) guaranteeing his attendance at court on the date of hearings and continue to appear until instructed otherwise. The bond can also bind the accused to appear in higher courts (High Court, Court of Session) to answer the charges. The provisions of Section 485 of the BNSS (corresponding section 441 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 485 of BNSS:- Bond of accused and sureties.- (1) Before any person is released on bond or bail bond, a bond for such sum of money as the police officer or Court, as the case may be, thinks sufficient shall be executed by such person, and, when he is released on bond or bail bond, by one or more sufficient sureties conditioned that such person shall attend at the time and place mentioned in the bond, and shall continue so to attend until otherwise directed by the police officer or Court, as the case may be.

(2) Where any condition is imposed for the release of any person on bail, the bond or bail bond shall also contain that condition.

(3) If the case so requires, the bond or bail bond shall also bind the person released on bail to appear when called upon at the High Court, Court of Session or other Court to answer the charge.

(4) For the purpose of determining whether the sureties are fit or sufficient, the Court may accept affidavits in proof of the facts contained therein relating to the sufficiency or fitness of the sureties, or, if it considers necessary, may either hold an enquiry itself or cause an inquiry to be made by a Magistrate subordinate to the Court, as to such sufficiency or fitness.

39. Section 485 (Bond of accused and sureties): Mandates that before a person is released, he must execute a bond for a sum of money the court/police officer deems sufficient, if the court requires, this must also be executed by sufficient sureties to ensure the accused attends court.

40. Section 2(1) BNSS. Definitions the specific definitions for the terms, □bail, bail bond and bond."

Section 2(1) (b) "bail" means release of a person accused of or suspected of commission of an offence from the custody of law upon certain conditions imposed by an officer or Court on execution by such person of a bond or a bail bond

Section 2(1)(d) "bail bond" means an undertaking for release with surety;

Section 2(1)(e) "bond" means a personal bond or an undertaking for release without surety;

41. For surety, Section 486 of the BNSS (corresponding section 441-A of Cr.P.C.) mandates that any person acting as a surety for an accused person□s bail must declare to the Court the number of other persons for whom he has stood surety along with relevant details. This provision enhances accountability and allows the Court to verify the surety's capacity.

42. The surety must provide details of his current and past bail commitments to the Court. This ensures transparency and prevents individuals from over-extending their obligations as sureties, thereby ensuring that they are capable of guaranteeing the accused's appearance. This applies to the process of granting bail and setting bond conditions. The provisions of Section 486 of the BNSS (corresponding section 441-A of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 486 BNSS:- Declaration by sureties.-Every person standing surety to an accused person for his release on bail, shall make a declaration before the Court as to the number of persons to whom he has stood surety including the accused, giving therein all the relevant particulars.

43. For forfeiture of a bond, Section 491 of the BNSS (corresponding section 446 of Cr.P.C.), outlines the procedure when a bail or surety bond is forfeited. It enables courts to demand payment of the penalty, recover it as a fine, or imprison the surety, if the bond conditions are broken/not complied with.

44. As per section 491 of BNSS, when a bond for appearance or production of property is proven to be forfeited, the court must record the grounds of proof. The court may call upon any person bound by such bond (or his surety) to pay the penalty amount or show cause why it should not be paid. If the penalty is not paid and sufficient cause is not shown, the court can proceed to recover the amount as if it were a fine imposed by it. If the penalty cannot be paid and recovery is not possible, the person can be committed to civil prison for up to six months. The court, after recording reasons, has the power to remit (reduce or waive) any portion of the penalty. If the surety dies before the bond is forfeited, their estate is discharged from liability. The provisions of Section 491 BNSS are delineated below for reference :-

Section 491. BNSS Procedure when bond has been forfeited.- (1) Where, □ (a) a bond under this Sanhita is for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court and it is proved to the satisfaction of that Court, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, that the bond has been forfeited*; or*

(b) in respect of any other bond under this Sanhita, it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which the bond was taken, or of any Court to which the case has subsequently been transferred, or of the Court of any Magistrate of the first class, that the bond has been forfeited,56 the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof or to show cause why it should not be paid.

Explanation--A condition in a bond for appearance, or for production of property, before a Court shall be construed as including a condition for appearance, or as the case may be, for production of property, before any Court to which the case may subsequently be transferred.

(2) If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same as if such penalty were a fine imposed by it under this Sanhita:

Provided that where such penalty is not paid and cannot be recovered in the manner aforesaid, the person so bound as surety shall be liable, by order of the Court ordering the recovery of the penalty, to imprisonment in civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

(3) The Court may, after recording its reasons for doing so, remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

(4) Where a surety to a bond dies before the bond is forfeited, his estate shall be discharged from all liability in respect of the bond.

(5) Where any person who has furnished security under section 125 or section 136 or section 401 is convicted of an offence the commission of which constitutes a breach of the conditions of his bond, or of a bond executed in lieu of his bond under section 494, a certified copy of the judgment of the Court by which he was convicted of such offence may be used as evidence in proceedings under this section against his surety or sureties, and, if such certified copy is so used, the Court shall presume that such offence was committed by him unless the contrary is proved.

45. For cancellation of bond or bail bond, Section 492 of the BNSS (corresponding section 446-A of Cr.P.C.), mandates that if an accused fails to comply with bond conditions (e.g., missing a court date), the accused□s bond and his surety□s bond are forfeited and cancelled, generally restricting automatic release on bail.

46. As per the provisions of section 492 of BNSS upon breach of conditions, the court cancels the current bail bond, and the bond for appearance is forfeited. Following cancellation, the person cannot be released again on his own bond without sufficient cause shown, the person may be released if he provides a new personal bond and new surety bonds. The provisions of Section 492 of the□BNSS (corresponding section 446-A of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 492 BNSS . Cancellation of bond and bail bond*.-Without prejudice to the provisions of section 491, where a bond or bail bond under this Sanhita is for appearance of a person in a case and it is forfeited for breach of a condition,□(a) the bond executed by such person as well as the bond, if any, executed by one or more of his sureties in that case shall stand cancelled; and*

(b) thereafter no such person shall be released only on his own bond in that case, if the police officer or the Court, as the case may be, for appearance before whom the bond was executed, is satisfied that there was no sufficient cause for the failure of the person bound by the bond to comply with its condition:

Provided that subject to any other provisions of this Sanhita he may be released in that case upon the execution of a fresh personal bond for such sum of money and bond by one or more of such sureties as the police officer or the Court, as the case may be, thinks sufficient.

47. If an accused person is released on bail on furnishing bail bond and sureties and absconds to avoid court proceedings so that a warrant could not be executed and thereafter, he has been declared a proclaimed offender. Thereafter, a fresh criminal proceedings against the accused under Section 209 BNSS is initiated and thereafter, the bond and sureties are cancelled and confiscated. After that, the Court may initiate action under Section 85 of the BNSS (corresponding section 83 of Cr.P.C.), which governs the attachment of rest of the property of the absconding persons, and authorizes a court to order the attachment of property belonging to a person, who has failed to appear after a proclamation.

48. After exhausting the processes in case of an absconded accused, released on bail on furnishing bail bond and surety, the concerned Court shall appoint an amicus curiae/advocate, as provided under section 356 BNSS to the absconded accused and thereafter, if a case is not committed, then after compliance of provision of Section 230 BNSS (corresponding Section 207 Cr.P.C.), the case shall be committed to the court concerned under Section 232 BNSS (corresponding Section 209 Cr.P.C.) or under Section 362 BNSS (corresponding Section 323 Cr.P.C.) for framing charge under Section 251 BNSS (corresponding Section 228 Cr.P.C.) in case of Sessions Trial, and under Section 263 BNSS (corresponding Section 240 Cr.P.C.) in case of warrant trial instituted on police report and under Section 269(1) BNSS (corresponding Section 246(1) Cr.P.C.) in case of warrant trial instituted on complaint and to proceed further to complete trial.

49. Before committal of a case instituted on police report, for framing of charge, Section 230 of the BNSS, 2023 (corresponding to Section 207 Cr.P.C.) mandates that, in cases instituted on a police report, the Judicial Magistrate shall furnish to the accused, and to the victim (where represented), free copies of the police report/chargesheet, the FIR, witness statements recorded under Section 180(3), confessions and statements recorded under Section 183, and any other relevant documents submitted along with the report.

50. These documents must be supplied without delay and, in any case, within 14 days from the date of the accused□s appearance or production before the court. Where the documents are voluminous, the court may, instead of providing physical copies, permit inspection of such documents either in court or through electronic means. The provisions mentioned under Section 230 of BNSS (corresponding to section 207 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below for reference :-

Section 230 BNSS:- Supply to accused of copy of police report and other documents.-In any case where the proceeding has been instituted on a police report, the Magistrate shall without delay, and in no case beyond fourteen days from the date of production or appearance of the accused, furnish to the accused and the victim (if represented by an advocate) free of cost, a copy of each of the following:"

(i) the police report;

(ii) the first information report recorded under section 173; (iii) the statements recorded under sub-section (3) of section 180 of all persons whom the prosecution proposes to examine as its witnesses, excluding therefrom any part in regard to which a request for such exclusion has been made by the police officer under sub-section (7) of section 193;

(iv) the confessions and statements, if any, recorded under section 183;

(v) any other document or relevant extract thereof forwarded to the Magistrate with the police report under sub-section (6) of section 193:

Provided that the Magistrate may, after perusing any such part of a statement as is referred to in clause (iii) and considering the reasons given by the police officer for the request, direct that a copy of that part of the statement or of such portion thereof as the Magistrate thinks proper, shall be furnished to the accused:

Provided further that if the Magistrate is satisfied that any such document is voluminous, he shall, instead of furnishing the accused and the victim (if represented by an advocate) with a copy thereof, may furnish the copies through electronic means or direct that he will only be allowed to inspect it either personally or through an advocate in Court:

Provided also that supply of documents in electronic form shall be considered as duly furnished.

51. It is relevant to mention here that in section 230 of BNSS (not in Cr.P.C.) the time period has been given 14 days to provide copy of the investigated documents not only to the accused but also to the victim either personally or through represented advocate.

52. Before committal of case instituted on complaint for framing of charge, Section 231 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023 (corresponds to Section 208 of the Cr.P.C) mandates that in private complaint cases triable by a Court of Session, the Judicial Magistrate must immediately furnish the accused, free of cost, the documents mentioned under section 231 BNSS. The provisions of Section 231 of BNSS (corresponding Section 208 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 231 B.N.S.S.:- Supply of copies of statements and documents to accused in other cases triable by Court of Session*.-Where, in a case instituted otherwise than on a police report, it appears to the Magistrate issuing process under section 227 that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, the Magistrate shall forthwith furnish to the accused, free of cost, a copy of each of the following:"*

(i) the statements recorded under section 223 or section 225, of all persons examined by the Magistrate;

(ii) the statements and confessions, if any, recorded under section 180 or section 183;

(iii) any documents produced before the Magistrate on which the prosecution proposes to rely:

Provided that if the Magistrate is satisfied that any such document is voluminous, he shall, instead of furnishing the accused with a copy thereof, direct that he will only be allowed to inspect it either personally or through an advocate in Court:

Provided further that supply of documents in electronic form shall be considered as duly furnished.

53. There are two Sections i.e. Section 232 and Section 362 in the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 for committal of case to the court of sessions. Section 232 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding Section 209 of Cr.P.C.) governs the commitment of cases to the Court of Session, when an offence is exclusively triable by it. After complying with Section 230 or 231 BNSS (supply of documents to the accused and victim), the Judicial Magistrate shall commit the case under Section 232 BNSS to the Court of Session and transmit the entire record, including documents and articles intended to be produced as evidence, while also notifying the Public Prosecutor. Such committal proceedings must ordinarily be completed within 90 days from the date of taking cognizance, extendable up to 180 days for reasons to be recorded in writing. The provisions of section 232 of BNSS (corresponding Section 209 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 232 BNSS

232. Commitment of case to Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it.- When in a case instituted on a police report or otherwise, the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate and it appears to the Magistrate that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall

(a) commit, after complying with the provisions of section 230 or section 231 the case to the Court of Session, and subject to the provisions of this Sanhita relating to bail, remand the accused to custody until such commitment has been made;

(b) subject to the provisions of this Sanhita relating to bail, remand the accused to custody during, and until the conclusion of, the trial;

(c) send to that Court the record of the case and the documents and articles, if any, which are to be produced in evidence;

(d) notify the Public Prosecutor of the commitment of the case to the Court of Session:

Provided that the proceedings under this section shall be completed within a period of ninety days from the date of taking cognizance, and such period may be extended by the Magistrate for a period not exceeding one hundred and eighty days for the reasons to be recorded in writing: (New provision as this proviso was not mentioned in the Cr.P.C.)

Provided further that any application filed before the Magistrate by the accused or the victim or any person authorised by such person in a case triable by Court of Session, shall be forwarded to the Court of Session with the committal of the case. (New provision as this proviso was not mentioned in the Cr.P.C.)

Section 209 Cr.P.C.

209. Commitment of case to Court of Session when offence is triable exclusively by it- When in a case instituted on a police report or otherwise, the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate and it appears to the Magistrate that the offence is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, he shall"

1(a) commit, after complying with the provisions of section 207 or section 208, as the case may be, the case to the Court of Session, and subject to the provisions of this Code relating to bail, remand the accused to custody until such commitment has been made;

(b) subject to the provisions of this Code relating to bail, remand the accused to custody during, and until the conclusion of, the trial;

(c) send to that Court the record of the case and the documents and articles, if any, which are to be produced in evidence;

(d) notify the Public Prosecutor of the commitment of the case to the Court of Session.

54. Thus maximum extended period in totality with reason in writing shall be 180 days to commit a case in court of session, therefore, it shall be committed within 90 days as per section 232 of BNSS and with reason in writing it may be extended upto 90 days only.

55. Section 362 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding Section 323 of Cr.P.C.) provides that if, during any inquiry or trial, a Magistrate is of the opinion that the case ought to be tried by a Court of Session, the Magistrate shall commit it (cross case etc.) to that Court before signing the judgment. This provision ensures that cases requiring higher jurisdiction are tried by the Court of Session. The Magistrate may commit the case at any stage of the proceedings prior to the pronouncement of judgment, and once such a decision is made, the procedure for commitment prescribed under the relevant provisions of the Sanhita shall be followed. The provision of section 362 of BNSS (corresponding Section 323 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 362 BNSS:- Procedure when after commencement of inquiry or trial, Magistrate finds case should be committed.-If, in any inquiry into an offence or a trial before a Magistrate, it appears to him at any stage of the proceedings before signing the judgment that the case is one which ought to be tried by the Court of Session, he shall commit it to that Court under the provisions hereinbefore contained and thereupon the provisions of Chapter XIX shall apply to the commitment so made.

56. Regarding Session trial, Section 251 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding Section 228 of Cr.P.C.) deals with the framing of charges in trials before a Court of Session. It provides that when a case is triable by the Court of Session, the Judge shall frame the charge in writing within 60 days from the date of the first hearing on the question of charge, with a view to reducing delays. If the offence is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, the Judge may transfer the case to a Judicial Magistrate of the First Class for trial. The charge so framed shall be read and explained to the accused, who may be present either physically or through audio-video electronic means, and the accused shall be asked whether they plead guilty or claim trial. Charges are framed only after the Judge is satisfied that a prima facie case exists against the accused. The provision of section 251 of BNSS (corresponding Section 228 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 251 BNSS. Framing of charge.-(1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which"

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may, frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant-cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused within a period of sixty days from the date of first hearing on charge. (New provision as it was not in the Cr.P.C.)

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused present either physically or through audio-video electronic means and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried.

Section 228 Cr.P.C. Framing of charge*.-(1) If, after such consideration and hearing as aforesaid, the Judge is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence which"*

(a) is not exclusively triable by the Court of Session, he may, frame a charge against the accused and, by order, transfer the case for trial to the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or any other Judicial Magistrate of the first class and direct the accused to appear before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, or, as the case may be, the Judicial Magistrate of the first class, on such date as he deems fit, and thereupon such Magistrate shall try the offence in accordance with the procedure for the trial of warrant-cases instituted on a police report;

(b) is exclusively triable by the Court, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

(2) Where the Judge frames any charge under clause (b) of sub-section (1), the charge shall be read and explained to the accused and the accused shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried.

57. Regarding warrant trial instituted on a police report, Section 263 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding Section 240 of Cr.P.C.) deals with the framing of charge. It provides that when such a case is before a Judicial Magistrate, and upon consideration of the police report and the accompanying documents, and after hearing both the prosecution and the accused, the Magistrate is of the opinion that there are sufficient grounds for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable as a warrant case, the Magistrate shall frame a charge in writing within 60 days from the date of the first hearing, with a view to expediting the trial. The charge shall be read and explained to the accused, who shall then be asked whether they plead guilty or claim to be tried. The provision of section 263 of BNSS (corresponding Section 240 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 263 BNSS. Framing of charge.-(1) If, upon such consideration, examination, if any, and hearing, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this Chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused within a period of sixty days from the date of first hearing on charge.

(2) The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he pleads guilty of the offence charged or claims to be tried.

58. Regarding warrant trial instituted on complaint or suo moto by the concerned court, Section 269(1) of BNSS (corresponding Section 246(1) of Cr.P.C.) deals with the framing of charge as if, upon taking all the evidence referred to in Section 268, the Judicial Magistrate is of the opinion that there are grounds for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable as a warrant case, the Magistrate shall frame a charge in writing. Upon framing of the charge, it shall be read and explained to the accused, and the Magistrate shall ask whether the accused pleads guilty or claims to be tried. The provision of section 269(1) of BNSS (corresponding Section 246(1) of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 269(1) BNSS:- Procedure where accused is not discharged.-(1) If, when such evidence has been taken, or at any previous stage of the case, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this Chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

59. In case of absconding accused, in presence of amicus curiae/advocate (appointed under Section 356(3) BNSS) for the absconded accused, section 335 of BNSS (corresponding section 299 of the CrPC), allows courts to record evidence against an absconding accused who has no immediate prospect of arrest. These depositions can be used as evidence if the witness dies, is incapable of testifying, or cannot be found when the accused is eventually tried.

60. Section 335 of BNSS ensures evidence is preserved for prosecution when an accused is on the run, preventing the loss of testimony over time. It must be proved that the accused has absconded, and there is no immediate prospect of arresting them. A Magistrate or Sessions Court can examine witnesses in the accused's absence and record their depositions. These recorded statements can be used against the accused later if the witness is dead, incapable of giving evidence, or missing. The provisions of Section 335 of the BNSS (corresponding section 299 of Cr.P.C.) are delineated below:-

Section 335 of BNSS. Record of evidence in absence of accused*.-(1) If it is proved that an accused person has absconded, and that there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, the Court* competent to try, or commit for trial*, such person for the offence complained of may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution, and record their depositions and any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be given in evidence against him on the inquiry into, or trial for, the offence with which he is charged, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or cannot be found or his presence cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable.*

(2) If it appears that an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life has been committed by some person or persons unknown, the High Court or the Sessions Judge may direct that any Magistrate of the first class shall hold an inquiry and examine any witnesses who can give evidence concerning the offence and any depositions so taken may be given in evidence against any person who is subsequently accused of the offence, if the deponent is dead or incapable of giving evidence or beyond the limits of India.

61. In case of absconding accused, released on bail after furnishing bail bond and sureties, the court concerned should initiated proceedings as per the provision of law and after exhausting it, as per Section 356 of the BNSS, the accused must be declared a proclaimed offender. Two consecutive warrants must be issued within a 30 days interval. Public notice in a local or national newspaper is required, allowing 30 days for appearance. Information must be given to relatives/friends and pasted at the last known residence and the local police station. The Court must wait 90 days from the framing of charges before starting the trial in absentia. If the offender does not have an advocate, the State must provide one Advocate at its expense.

62. In respect of an absconding accused declared a proclaimed offender, a new provision of law, i.e., Section 356, has been introduced with a mandatory provision to conduct a criminal case in the absence of the accused and to complete the trial. In case of conviction, his appeal shall not be entertained unless he first surrenders, and the limitation period to file an appeal is three years in the case of an absconding and convicted accused. The complete procedure to conduct a criminal case has been provided under Section 356 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (BNSS). The provisions of Section 356 BNSS is delineated below:-

"Section 356. Inquiry, trial or judgment in absentia of proclaimed offender. - (1) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Sanhita or in any other law for the time being in force, when a person declared as a proclaimed offender, whether or not charged jointly, has absconded to evade trial and there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, it shall be deemed to operate as a waiver of the right of such person to be present and tried in person, and the Court shall, after recording reasons in writing, in the interest of justice, proceed with the trial in the like manner and with like effect as if he was present, under this Sanhita and pronounce the judgment:

Provided that the Court shall not commence the trial unless a period of ninety days has lapsed from the date of framing of the charge.

(2) The Court shall ensure that the following procedure has been complied with before proceeding under sub-section (1), namely:---

(i) issuance of two consecutive warrants of arrest within the interval of at least thirty days;

(ii) publish in a national or local daily newspaper circulating in the place of his last known address of residence, requiring the proclaimed offender to appear before the Court for trial and informing him that in case he fails to appear within thirty days from the date of such publication, the trial shall commence in his absence;

(iii) inform his relative or friend, if any, about the commencement of the trial; and

(iv) affix information about the commencement of the trial on some conspicuous part of the house or homestead in which such person ordinarily resides and display in the police station of the district of his last known address of residence.

(3) Where the proclaimed offender is not represented by any advocate, he shall be provided with an advocate for his defence at the expense of the State.

(4) Where the Court, competent to try the case or commit for trial, has examined any witnesses for prosecution and recorded their depositions, such depositions shall be given in evidence against such proclaimed offender on the inquiry into, or in trial for, the offence with which he is charged:

Provided that if the proclaimed offender is arrested and produced or appears before the Court during such trial, the Court may, in the interest of justice, allow him to examine any evidence which may have been taken in his absence.

(5) Where a trial is related to a person under this section, the deposition and examination of the witness, may, as far as practicable, be recorded by audio-video electronic means preferably mobile phone and such recording shall be kept in such manner as the Court may direct.

(6) In prosecution for offences under this Sanhita, voluntary absence of accused after the trial has commenced under sub-section (1) shall not prevent continuing the trial including the pronouncement of the judgment even if he is arrested and produced or appears at the conclusion of such trial.

(7) No appeal shall lie against the judgment under this section unless the proclaimed offender presents himself before the Court of appeal:

Provided that no appeal against conviction shall lie after the expiry of three years from the date of the judgment."

63. Section 356 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023 introduces Trial in Absentia, allowing courts to try, inquire into, or judge a proclaimed offender who has absconded to evade justice. This provision ensures that the trial proceeds even if the accused cannot be arrested, and is aimed at reducing delays.

64. Section 356 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023, is a landmark provision that introduces the concept of Trial in Absentia into the Indian criminal justice system. It allows a court to proceed with the inquiry, trial, or judgment of an accused person who has been declared a proclaimed offender and is deliberately evading arrest.

65. Thus to prosecute an absconder accused and to complete trial, certain conditions are mentioned under Section 356 BNSS must be followed. The conditions are depicted herein below :

1. If a proclaimed offender absconds to evade trial and there is no immediate prospect of arrest, it is legally deemed a waiver of their right to be present and tried in person.

2. The court can record evidence, examine witnesses, and pronounce a judgment even if the accused is not physically present.

3. To ensure transparency and accuracy, depositions and examinations of witnesses should be recorded using audio-video electronic means, such as mobile phones.

4. If the absconding accused does not have lawyer, the court must provide an advocate for their defence at the expense of the State.

5. The trial cannot commence until at least 90 days have passed since the framing of charges.

6. At least two consecutive arrest warrants must be issued with an interval of at least 30 days between them.

7. A notice must be published in a national or local daily newspaper circulating in the area of the accused's last know residence.

8. The court must inform the accused's relatives or friends about the commencement of the trial.

9. Trial information must be displayed at a conspicuous part of the accused's house and at the local police station.

66. Appeal is continuation of trial, therefore, as per Section 356(7) of BNSS, an appeal against a judgment under this section is permitted only if the offender presents himself before the appellate court. No appeal against conviction can be filed after three years from the date of the judgment.

67. The concerned court at any stage of criminal proceeding should ensure that effective measures have been adopted to inform the accused about criminal proceedings and that is also reflected by the order-sheets as well as records of the case, thus, after filing of a charge-sheet if the Court is taking cognizance and summoning the accused, the concerned court must ensure that the accused must have proper knowledge of the summons. Service of summons may be effected at conspicuous places such as the accused□s residence, public areas like roadways or railway stations, and through official records including DCRB and NCRB and it entry shall be made in the General Diary (G.D.) of the police station and must be submitted to the Court to ensure that the best effort has been made to serve the summons, so that the court may record it in the order sheet and thereafter issue Non Bailable Warrants twice, at interval of 30 days, as provided under Section 356 BNSS to proceed to declare the accused as proclaimed offender.

68. If the concerned court is satisfied that a summon has been duly served and the accused fails to appear, the Court concerned may issue a Non-Bailable Warrant (NBW). Service attempts and information must be recorded in writing as it has been served personally to the accused or relative or affixed on conspicuous places such as the accused□s residence, public areas, or through official records including DCRB and NCRB, with a G.D. entry at the police station to bring it to the Court□s notice. However, if the accused has furnished a bail bond with sureties and was released on bail, the process of issuing an NBW shall be carried out in accordance with Section 92 of BNSS (corresponding Section 89 Cr.P.C.).

69. If the accused appears within two dates after the issuance of a Non-Bailable Warrant (NBW) under Section 92 of the BNSS, the Court may recall the NBW upon his appearance. The General Diary (G.D.) entries of the police, documenting their efforts to execute the NBW and attempt to arrest the accused, must be submitted to the Court. These entries should also be recorded in the order sheet of the case to enable the Court to take further proceedings in accordance with law.

70. As per Section 84 of BNSS (corresponding section 82 of Cr.P.C.), if a Court believes that a person against whom a warrant has been issued is absconding or hiding to avoid arrest, it may issue a written proclamation as per the conditions mentioned under Section 356 BNSS requiring the person to appear at a specified place and time, at least thirty days from publication. The proclamation must be publicly read and affixed at conspicuous places in the person□s residence or locality circulating in the place in which such person ordinarily resides and the Court, and may also be published in a national or daily local newspaper. A written statement by the Court confirming publication is conclusive evidence of compliance.

71. If the accused is not appearing before the court concerned in compliance of order of proclamation issued under section 84 BNSS (corresponding Section 82 Cr.P.C.) the police shall take action under Section 209 BNS (corresponding Section 174 A IPC) as per Section 215 BNSS (corresponding Section 195 Cr.P.C.).

72. In case of an accused released on bail on furnishing personal bond and surety and declared proclaimed offender, the Court may declare a bail bond forfeited and, thereafter in accordance with Section 491 of BNSS (corresponding section 446 of Cr.P.C.), take steps to recover the penalty from the accused and the sureties. Under this section, if a bond is found to be forfeited, the Court records the reasons for such finding and directs the person bound by the bond to either pay the penalty or show cause why it should not be paid. If no sufficient cause is shown, the penalty may be recovered as a fine, and in default, the surety may be liable to imprisonment in civil jail for a term of up to six months. The Court also has discretion to remit part of the penalty after recording reasons. Furthermore, a surety's liability ceases upon their death.

73. As per Section 492 of BNSS (corresponding section 446-A of Cr.P.C.), the Court may cancel the bail bond of the accused as well as the bonds of the sureties due to breach of the bond conditions. Following such cancellation, the accused cannot be released on personal bond alone if no sufficient cause is shown for the failure to appear. However, the Court or the police officer may allow release upon the execution of a fresh personal bond with adequate sureties, as deemed necessary.

74. The concerned court or the police shall inform to the other court about cancellation of bail bond and sureties where any other criminal case is pending of the absconding accused person.

75. After the issuance of a proclamation against an absconding person, if the accused does not appear, the Court concerned in view of Section 85 of BNSS (Corresponding Section 83 Of Cr.P.C.), can order attachment of his movable or immovable property. Such attachment may be effected within or outside the district and carried out by seizure, appointment of a receiver, or prohibitory orders, as applicable. The Court may also order sale of perishable property, and any receiver appointed shall exercise powers as under the Code of Civil Procedure, 1908.

76. As per Section 335 BNSS (corresponding Section 299 of Cr.P.C.) the concerned court can record the evidence in absence of accused and thereafter permanent Non-Bailable Warrant shall be issued and it shall be monitored on 30 days by the court concerned and its effort of arrest shall be brought to the knowledge of the court concerned through G.D. entry of the police station and it shall also be placed in the every District crime meeting and its effort shall be mentioned in the minutes of the meeting and shall be brought in the knowledge of the court concerned, and the permanent NBW shall continue till its execution.

77. In respect of the absconded accused declared proclaimed offender, new provision of law i.e. Section 356 has been introduced with mandatory provision to conduct a criminal case in absence of an accused and complete the trial and pronounce the judgment and in case of conviction, his appeal shall not be entertained until and unless he surrenders and the limitation period to file an appeal is three years in case of absconded and convicted accused. The complete procedure to conduct a criminal case has been provided under section 356 of Bhartiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023.

78. For speedy trial, Section 389 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding Section 350 Cr.P.C.) empowers criminal courts to summarily punish non-attending witnesses with fine upto five hundred rupees, without initiating lengthy legal proceedings. It applies to any witness who has been duly summoned by a criminal court but fails to attend or departs prematurely without sufficient justification. The provisions of section 389 BNSS (corresponding Section 350 Cr.P.C.) is delineated below:-

"Section 389 of BNSS:- Summary procedure for punishment for non-attendance by a witness in obedience to summons.-(1) If any witness being summoned to appear before a Criminal Court is legally bound to appear at a certain place and time in obedience to the summons and without just excuse neglects or refuses to attend at that place or time or departs from the place where he has to attend before the time at which it is lawful for him to depart, and the Court before which the witness is to appear is satisfied that it is expedient in the interests of justice that such a witness should be tried summarily, the Court may take cognizance of the offence and after giving the offender an opportunity of showing cause why he should not be punished under this section, sentence him to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

(2) In every such case the Court shall follow, as nearly as may be practicable, the procedure prescribed for summary trials."

"Section 350 of Cr.P.C.:- Summary procedure for punishment for non-attendance by a witness in obedience to summons.-(1) If any witness being summoned to appear before a Criminal Court is legally bound to appear at a certain place and time in obedience to the summons and without just excuse neglects or refuses to attend at that place or time or departs from the place where he has to attend before the time at which it is lawful for him to depart, and the Court before which the witness is to appear is satisfied that it is expedient in the interest of justice that such a witness should be tried summarily, the Court may take cognizance of the offence and after giving the offender an opportunity of showing cause why he should not be punished under this section, sentence him to fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

(2) In every such case the Court shall follow, as nearly as may be practicable, the procedure prescribed for summary trials."

79. If any hindrance is caused in speedy enquiry or trial, the person causing hindrance or holding the enquiry or trial for unreasonable period may be prosecuted treating as helping to the accused as his past/subsequent conduct as mentioned under Section 6 of Bharatiya Sakshya Adhiniyam, 2023 (corresponding Section 8 of Indian Evidence Act, 1872). Thus, for unreasonable period, order of sanction or any forensic test etc. cannot be held by the concerned authority or person otherwise, the court concerned may treat it as hindrance in imparting speedy justice.

80. The concerned court at the stage of enquiry or trial shall for speedy trial/justice shall follow the mandate as provided under section 346 BNSS, otherwise, it shall be mentioned by the concerned court of enquiry or trial in respect of delay in the orders or judgement so that accountability of the concerned court may be determined whether, delay occurred due to unavoidable circumstances or ignorance of the concerned court.

81. Section 346 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 (corresponding section 309 Cr.P.C.) mandates that criminal inquiries and trials should, as far as practicable, be conducted on a day-to-day basis until all witnesses are examined. It restricts adjournments, allowing them only when necessary and only if the court records its reasons in writing, thereby preventing unnecessary delays. In cases of sexual offences under Sections 64 to 71 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, the trial should, as far as possible, be completed within two months from the date of filing of the charge sheet. Further, when proceedings are adjourned or postponed, the court may remand the accused to custody, but such remand shall not exceed fifteen days at a time. The provision also limits adjournments by allowing only a restricted number in circumstances beyond the control of a party, generally not exceeding two in certain situations, to ensure the expeditious disposal of cases. The provisions of Section 346 of BNSS (corresponding section 309 Cr.P.C.) is delineated below:

"Section 346 of BNSS. Power to postpone or adjourn proceedings.-(1) In every inquiry or trial the proceedings shall be continued from day-to-day basis until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the same beyond the following day to be necessary for reasons to be recorded:

Provided that when the inquiry or trial relates to an offence under section 64, section 65, section 66, section 67, section 68, section 70 or section 71 of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 (45 of 2023) the inquiry or trial shall be completed within a period of two months from the date of filing of the chargesheet.

(2) If the Court, after taking cognizance of an offence, or commencement of trial, finds it necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, it may, from time to time, for reasons to be recorded, postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit, for such time as it considers reasonable, and may by a warrant remand the accused if in custody:

Provided that no Court shall remand an accused person to custody under this section for a term exceeding fifteen days at a time: Provided further that when witnesses are in attendance, no adjournment or postponement shall be granted, without examining them, except for special reasons to be recorded in writing:

Provided also that no adjournment shall be granted for the purpose only of enabling the accused person to show cause against the sentence proposed to be imposed on him:

Provided also that"

(a) no adjournment shall be granted at the request of a party, except where the circumstances are beyond the control of that party;

(b) where the circumstances are beyond the control of a party, not more than two adjournments may be granted by the Court after hearing the objections of the other party and for the reasons to be recorded in writing;

(c) the fact that the advocate of a party is engaged in another Court, shall not be a ground for adjournment;

(d) where a witness is present in Court but a party or his advocate is not present or the party or his advocate though present in Court, is not ready to examine or cross-examine the witness, the Court may, if thinks fit, record the statement of the witness and pass such orders as it thinks fit dispensing with the examination-in-chief or cross-examination of the witness, as the case may be.

Explanation 1.—If sufficient evidence has been obtained to raise a suspicion that the accused may have committed an offence, and it appears likely that further evidence may be obtained by a remand, this is a reasonable cause for a remand.

Explanation 2.—The terms on which an adjournment or postponement may be granted include, in appropriate cases, the payment of costs by the prosecution or the accused."

82. To ensure speedy proceedings under the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, a time limit (Luxman Rekha) has been fixed for every stage, including enquiry, investigation, summons, warrants, proclamation, supply of copies, committal, framing of charges, completion of evidence and pronouncement of judgment, even in the absence of an absconded accused.

83. The Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita (BNSS), 2023, which replaced the CrPC on July 1, 2024, introduces several strict timelines to ensure a speedier criminal justice process. The time limits and periods mentioned in various sections are delineated below:

The court cannot commence trial in the absence of the proclaimed offender until 90 days have elapsed from the date of framing of charge. {Section 356(1) Proviso BNSS}

84. Although the BNSS came into force on 1 July 2024 and the alleged offence took place prior to the date of its enforcement, it is a settled principle of law, that the procedure that is more beneficial to the accused must be adopted. In the case of Deepu and Ors. v State of U.P. and Ors., (2024) 8 ILRA 903 (Crl. Misc. Writ Petition No.12287 of 2024), the Division bench of this Court in paragraph no.16 (iii) held that on or after 01.07.2024, the procedure mentioned under the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, shall be applicable to offences committed under the Indian Penal Code or other Special Act. The paragraph No. 16 is delineated below:

"16 .On the basis of above analysis, this Court is also summarising the law regarding effect of repealing the IPC and Cr.P.C. by BNS and BNSS respectively and same is being mentioned as below:

(i) If an FIR is registered on or after 1.7.2024 for the offence committed prior to 1.7.2024, then FIR would be registered under the provisions of IPC but the investigation will continue as per BNSS.

(ii) In the pending investigation on 01.07.2024 (on the date of commencement of New Criminal Laws), investigation will continue as per the Cr.P.C. till the cognizance is taken on the police report and if any direction is made for further investigation by the competent Court then same will continue as per the Cr.P.C.;

(iii) The cognizance on the pending investigation on or after 01.07.2024 would be taken as per the BNSS and all the subsequent proceeding including enquiry, trial or appeal would be conducted as per the procedure of BNSS.

(iv) Section 531(2)(a) of BNSS saved only pending investigation, trial, appeal, application and enquiry, therefore, if any trial, appeal, revision or application is commenced after 01.07.2024, the same will be proceeded as per the procedure of BNSS.

(v) The pending trial on 01.07.2024, if concluded on or after 01.07.2024 then appeal or revision against the judgement passed in such a trial will be as per the BNSS. However, if any application is filed in appeal, which was pending on 01.07.2024 then the procedure of Cr.P.C. will apply.

(vi) If the criminal proceeding or chargesheet is challenged before the High Court on or after 01.07.2024, where the investigation was conducted as per Cr.P.C. then same will be filed u/s 528 of BNSS not u/s 482 Cr.P.C."

85. The usage of word 'Trial' in a criminal proceeding has been mentioned in Section 2(1)(k) of the BNSS, which reads as under :

2. Definitions.(1)(k) BNSS."inquir" means every enquiry, other than a trial, conducted under this Sanhita by a Magistrate or Court;

86. In the case of Hardeep Singh vs. State of Punjab and others, AIR 2014 SC 1400, the Hon'ble Supreme Court has held that the stage of trial begins after the framing of the charge. The relevant paragraphs no.35 and 43 of the aforesaid judgment is being quoted below :-

"35. In view of the above, the law can be summarised to the effect that as □trial□ means determination of issues adjudging the guilt or the innocence of a person, the person has to be aware of what is the case against him and it is only at the stage of framing of the charges that the court informs him of the same, the 'trial' commences only on charges being framed. T*hus, we do not approve the view taken by the courts that in a criminal case, trial* commences on cognizance being taken.

x x x x

43. Since after the filing of the charge-sheet, the court reaches the stage of inquiry and as soon as the court frames the charges, the trial commences, and therefore, the power under Section 319(1) Cr.P.C. can be exercised at any time after the charge-sheet is filed and before the pronouncement of judgment, except during the stage of Section 207/208 Cr.P.C., committal etc., which is only a pre-trial stage, intended to put the process into motion. This stage cannot be said to be a judicial step in the true sense for it only requires an application of mind rather than a judicial application of mind.

87. On failure to comply with the process, the dealing assistant/clerk shall be responsible for the same. Further, the GD entry in respect of service or compliance of the order of the court shall be uploaded on the portal of the concerned police station to ascertain its execution by the concerned court to maintain order sheet of the case and to proceed further, and if the police official fails to follow this procedure, it will be deemed that the concerned police official of the concerned police station, as well as the nodal officer of the police, shall be answerable or responsible to the concerned court for further necessary action under Section 199 of the BNS (corresponding to section 166-A IPC), as well as under Section 29 of the Police Act, 1861. The provisions of Section 199 BNS is delineated below:-

"Section 199. Public servant disobeying direction under law.-Whoever, being a public servant,"*

(a) knowingly disobeys any direction of the law which prohibits him from requiring the attendance at any place of any person for the purpose of investigation into an offence or any other matter; or

(b) knowingly disobeys, to the prejudice of any person, any other direction of the law regulating the manner in which he shall conduct such investigation; or

(c) fails to record any information given to him under sub-section (1) of section 173 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 in relation to cognizable offence punishable under section 64, section 65, section 66, section 67, section 68, section 70, section 71, section 74, section 76, section 77, section 79, section 124, section 143 or section 144, shall be punished with rigorous imprisonment for a term which shall not be less than six months but which may extend to two years, and shall also be liable to fine"

88. Section 29 of the Police Act, 1861 outlines the penalties for police officers, who fail to perform their duties, disobey orders, or act negligently, all such officers shall be liable for punishment in accordance with law. The provisions of Section 29 of the Police Act, 1861 are delineated below:-

Section 29. Penalties for neglect of duty, etc.

Every police-officer who shall be guilty of any violation of duty or wilful breach or neglect of any rule or regulation or lawful order made by competent authority, or who shall withdraw from the duties of his office without permission, or without having given previous notice for the period of two months, or who, being absent on leave, shall fail, without reasonable cause, to report himself for duty on the expiration of such leave, or who shall engage without authority in any employment other than his police-duty, or who shall be guilty of cowardice, or who shall offer any unwarrantable personal violence to any person in his custody, shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding three months pay, or to imprisonment with or without hard labour, for a period not exceeding three months, or to both.

89. The Public Prosecutors are under an obligation to assist the Court in the manner as well as within the time frame as mentioned in the BNSS at every stage of the proceedings, therefore, to ensure the expeditious disposal of criminal cases in the District, responsibility to monitor cases has been given to the Director of Prosecution, Deputy Director of Prosecution and Assistant Director of Prosecution under Section 20(7)(8)(9) and (10) of the BNSS. Thereafter, as per Section 20(3)(4)(5)(6) of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, the Additional Chief Secretary, Home Department, Government of U.P., the concerned Director of Prosecution, and the concerned Public Prosecutors are to be held accountable for ensuring expeditious disposal of the criminal cases pending in district courts. Section 20 of the BNSS is delineated below for ready reference :-

"20. Directorate of Prosecution.-(1*The State Government may establish,"*

(a) a Directorate of Prosecution in the State consisting of a Director of Prosecution and as many Deputy Directors of Prosecution as it thinks fit; and

(b) a District Directorate of Prosecution in every district consisting of as many Deputy Directors and Assistant Directors of Prosecution, as it thinks fit.

(2) A person shall be eligible to be appointed,"

(a) as a Director of Prosecution or a Deputy Director of Prosecution, if he has been in practice as an advocate for not less than fifteen years or is or has been a Sessions Judge;
(b) as an Assistant Director of Prosecution, if he has been in practice as an advocate for not less than seven years or has been a Magistrate of the first class.

(3) The Directorate of Prosecution shall be headed by the Director of Prosecution, who shall function under the administrative control of the Home Department in the State.

(4) Every Deputy Director of Prosecution or Assistant Director of Prosecution shall be subordinate to the Director of Prosecution; and every Assistant Director of Prosecution shall be subordinate to the Deputy Director of Prosecution.

(5) Every Public Prosecutor, Additional Public Prosecutor and Special Public Prosecutor appointed by the State Government under sub-section (1) or sub-section (8) of section 18 to conduct cases in the High Court shall be subordinate to the Director of Prosecution.

(6) Every Public Prosecutor, Additional Public Prosecutor and Special Public Prosecutor appointed by the State Government under sub-section (3) or sub-section (8) of section 18 to conduct cases in District Courts and every Assistant Public Prosecutor appointed under sub-section (1) of section 19 shall be subordinate to the Deputy Director of Prosecution or the Assistant Director of Prosecution.

(7) The powers and functions of the Director of Prosecution shall be to monitor cases in which offences are punishable for ten years or more, or with life imprisonment, or with death; to expedite the proceedings and to give opinion on filing of appeals.

(8) The powers and functions of the Deputy Director of Prosecution shall be to examine and scrutinise police report and monitor the cases in which offences are punishable for seven years or more, but less than ten years, for ensuring their expeditious disposal.

(9) The functions of the Assistant Director of Prosecution shall be to monitor cases in which offences are punishable for less than seven years.

(10) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-sections (7), (8) and (9), the Director, Deputy Director or Assistant Director of Prosecution shall have the power to deal with and be responsible for all proceedings under this Sanhita.

(11) The other powers and functions of the Director of Prosecution, Deputy Directors of Prosecution and Assistant Directors of Prosecution and the areas for which each of the Deputy Directors of Prosecution or Assistant Directors of Prosecution have been appointed shall be such as the State Government may, by notification, specify.

(12) The provisions of this section shall not apply to the Advocate General for the State while performing the functions of a Public Prosecutor."

90. In view of the above facts and circumstances and in the interest of justice as well as for a speedy trial, this Court has reached to a conclusion, based upon the findings above that:-

91. The Government has invested huge public money to develop online process portals namely, (NSTEP) National Service and Tracking of Electronic Processes and (CIS) Court Information System; therefore, processes must be sent through the ongoing online portal and its record must be maintained by the dealing officer or court clerk/assistant. In the event of non-compliance thereof, the concerned official assigned the duties to do so, shall be held responsible and the consequences would follow.

92. On failure to comply with the process, the dealing assistant/clerk shall be responsible for the same. Further, the GD entry in respect of service or compliance of order of the court shall be uploaded on the portal of the concerned police station to ascertain its execution by the concerned court to maintain order sheet of the case and to proceed further, and if the police official fails to follow this procedure, it will be deemed that the concerned police official of the concerned police station, as well as the nodal officer of the police, shall be answerable or responsible to the concerned court for further necessary action under Section 199 of the BNS (corresponding section 166-A IPC), as well as under Section 29 of the Police Act, 1861.

93. The court concerned is directed that in case of an inquiry, trial or judgment in absentia of a proclaimed offender/absconded accused, notwithstanding anything contained in the Sanhita or any other law, for the time being in force, when a person, declared as a proclaimed offender, whether or not charged jointly, has absconded to evade trial and there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, it shall be deemed to operate as a waiver of the right of such person to be present and tried in person. The Court shall, after recording reasons in writing and in the interest of justice, proceed with the trial in the same manner and with the same effect, as if he was present and/or has participated in trial under this Sanhita and pronounce the judgment; accordingly.

94. It is directed that the new provision of law introduced under Section 356 of the BNSS, in cases of an absconding accused, shall be followed by the Court concerned, as well as by the Public Prosecutor and the police, while conducting a criminal case.

95. It is directed that, if the presiding officer adjourns the case without any cogent reason as prescribed by law, and the adjournment so given results in an unnecessary delay in respect of an absconder/accused, in that event the concerned court/presiding officer shall be dealt with departmentally, and appropriate proceedings may be conducted for such negligence or dereliction of duty, while discharging judicial work.

96. It is directed that when a public servant fails to discharge his duty, as prescribed by the law or a court order within the stipulated time or in accordance with the provision of the BNSS, such inaction on the part of the concerned official may attract the provisions of Disciplinary Rules, and contempt of court proceedings on the judicial side.

97. The Investigating Officer, the Public Prosecutor and the Presiding Officer are directed, that they shall proceed with the criminal proceedings in a systematic manner and within the time frame, as provided under the BNSS as observed in the preceding paragraphs no.13 and 83 of this order for a speedy justice and trial in the interest of both the accused as well as the victim.

98. It is directed that in cases of non-compliance with summons, warrants, or the provisions of Sections 84 and 85 of the BNSS (corresponding Sections 82 and 83 Cr.P.C.) or Section 174-A IPC (corresponding Section 209 BNS), within time frame and in the manner as specified under the law, the Presiding Officer shall immediately inform the concerned Superintendent of Police (S.P.), Senior Superintendent of Police (S.S.P.), or Commissioner of Police, as the case may be and the District Magistrate, so that appropriate departmental and/or criminal proceedings may be initiated against the erring officers or personnel, who cause a hindrance in imparting a speedy trial/justice to the aggrieved party in accordance with the Conduct and Disciplinary Rules, as applicable under the law.

99. It is directed that, if the public prosecutors do not assist the Court for the expeditious disposal of the criminal cases, as per the provisions of law within the time frame or in the manner prescribed under the law or, as directed by the Court, in cases of absconding accused etc., the concerned authorities mentioned under Section 20 of the BNSS i.e. Additional Chief Secretary, Home Department, U.P. Govt., the concerned Director of Prosecution and the District Magistrate, may take appropriate action against the erring Public Prosecutors, as provided under law.

100. It is directed that all summons, warrants, and orders be executed by the concerned person/authority in accordance with the procedure, prescribed by law. Evidence of such execution/non-execution of summons, warrants or orders shall be entered into the order sheet, as the case may be, to establish that the accused was afforded an opportunity to be heard prior to passing an order of conviction, regardless of whether the proceedings were conducted in person or as an absconder.

101. The Director General of Police (D.G.P.) and the Director of Prosecution are directed to circulate this order within 60 days to all concerned authorities to co-operate in concluding enquiry, investigation and trial for speedy justice in the manner as well as within the prescribed time under the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 and other laws.

102. It is directed that the concerned District Judge shall take up the matter/issue in every monthly meeting of the Judicial Officers and further in the Monitoring Cell meeting of the district, which is held every month.

103. The Registrar General of this Court is directed to transmit a copy of this order to the Judicial Training and Research Institute, U.P., Lucknow (JTRI), for the academic purposes of judicial officers.

104. The Government Advocate is directed to communicate this order to the Chief Secretary, Govt. of U.P.; Additional Chief Secretary, Home Department, Govt. of U.P.; the Additional/Principal Secretary of Law Department, Govt. of U.P.; the Director General of Prosecution and Director of Prosecution, State of U.P.; the District Magistrates, the Senior Superintendents of Police, the Superintendents of Police, the Commissioners of Police of all districts of the State of U.P., to take necessary action within 60 days from the date of this order so as to conclude the trial of proclaimed offenders, as provided under Section 356 BNSS and other provisions of law.

105. This application is disposed of with the direction that the impugned order dated 18.10.2024 shall be kept in abeyance for a period of two months from the date of this order, thereafter, the trial court shall be at liberty to pass an appropriate order in the event the accused does not cooperate in the trial at every stage i.e. such as framing of charges, recording of statements under Section 351 BNSS (corresponding to Section 313 Cr.P.C.) and at the time of pronouncement of the judgment etc.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Tej Pratap Tiwari, J.)

1. The present Criminal Misc. Application has been filed under Section 482 Cr.P.C., to quash the entire criminal proceedings of Case no. 20633 of 2022 arising out of Case Crime No. 578 of 2021, State of U.P. vs. Akhil Singhal and others, pending in the court of learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Ghaziabad, under sections 498A, 323, 504, 506, 406 I.P.C. and section 3/4 Dowry Prohibition Act, Police Station-Teela Mod, District Ghaziabad (U.P.) as well as Charge-sheet dated 24.03.2022 and cognizance order dated 16.05.2022.□□

Factual Matrix

2. Shorn of the details, Smt Harsha Singhal married to Akhil Singhal on 02.02.2012, after the marriage of the complainant with the applicant, she was subjected to cruelty and harassment on account of demand of additional dowry. The complainant was allegedly assaulted and mentally tortured by her husband and in-laws. It is further alleged that she was compelled to maintain unnatural physical relations against her will and was subjected to forced sexual intercourse without her consent. Allegations have also been levelled regarding an attempt to throw acid upon the complainant during an altercation. The complainant has further alleged that her stridhan and other belongings were retained by her mother-in-law and she was ultimately ousted from the matrimonial house and prevented from meeting or residing with her children. It has also been alleged that a demand of ₹5,00,000/- and 50 yards of landed property was made from her in-laws side as additional dowry. The case was registered against the husband and the mother-in-law of the complainant, detailed mentioned above.□

Argument on behalf of applicant□

3. Learned counsel for the applicants submits that the allegations levelled in the First Information Report are false, frivolous and baseless, and the applicants have been falsely implicated due to matrimonial discord. It is further submitted that despite being continuously summoned by the Court on as many as 14 occasions, the complainant failed to appear before the Court for almost three years and only appeared after issuance of Non-Bailable Warrant, and the impugned FIR is a manifestly retaliatory □counterblast□ to prior civil and criminal litigation and filed with unexplained delay, which casts serious doubt upon the genuineness of the prosecution case.

4. Learned counsel further submits that the Medical evidence proves that the respondent no. 2 is the aggressor, not the victim. A trial where the victim has zero injuries and the accused has a documented MLC of assault is a perversion of justice. Under the Achin Gupta case (2024), when the totality of facts shows that the allegations are improbable, the court must intervene.

5. Learned counsel further submits that there is not a single specific date, time, or month attributed to the alleged daily routine of beating, the demand for 5 lakhs, or the acid throwing threat. By providing only biographical dates, the complainant has attempted to give a veneer of precision to a narrative that is otherwise entirely vague, generic, and hypothetical.

6. Learned counsel submits that the FIR alleges that on 16.11.2020, the Applicants threw her out of the matrimonial home. This is false and contradicted by her own hand. In a handwritten letter dated 28.02.2020, the respondent No. 2 explicitly declared that she wanted to abandon the matrimonial house and her two children on her own accord to start a new life.

7. Learned counsel further submits that from the allegations made in the FIR and the material available on record, the offences under Sections 406 and 498-A IPC are not made out against the applicants. It is submitted that there is no specific allegation regarding entrustment or misappropriation of stridhan by the applicants, and the allegations of cruelty are general and vague in nature without assigning any specific role to them. In support of his submission, learned counsel has relied upon the decision in Manju Ram Kalita vs. State of Assam, (2019) 13 SCC 330 and Binod Kumar vs. State of Bihar, (2014) 10 SCC 663.

Argument on behalf of State and opposite party no. 2

8. Learned A.G.A. for the State as well as learned counsel appearing for opposite party no. 2 vehemently opposed the prayer for quashing of chargesheet and submitted that the allegations levelled in the First Information Report disclose commission of cognizable offences and the same are supported by the statements of the victim and other material collected during investigation.

9. It is further submitted that the complainant was continuously subjected to cruelty and harassment on account of dowry demands by the applicants and the allegations cannot be brushed aside merely on the ground that the dispute arises out of a matrimonial relationship.

Learned counsel submits that the delay in lodging the complaint or taking legal recourse is quite natural in matrimonial matters as the victim generally makes every possible effort to save her matrimonial life and family relations.

10. Learned counsel further submits that specific allegations regarding demand of dowry, physical and mental cruelty and retention of stridhan have been levelled against the applicants and, therefore, at this stage, it cannot be said that the essential ingredients of the offences under Sections 406 and 498-A Indian Penal Code, 1860 are not made out.

Observation

11. At the first instance, it would be appropriate to reproduce the provisions of law under which the present criminal misc. application has been preferred i.e Section 482 Cr.P.C.

482. Saving of inherent powers of High Court.

"Nothing in this Code shall be deemed to limit or affect the inherent powers of the High Court to make such orders as may be necessary to give effect to any order under this Code, or to prevent abuse of the process of any Court or otherwise to secure the ends of justice."

12. It would be apposite, at this stage, to extract Section 405 and Section 406 of Indian Penal Code, 1860 which reads as under:-

405. Criminal breach of trust.-

"Whoever, being in any manner entrusted with property, or with any dominion over property, dishonestly misappropriates or converts to his own use that property, or dishonestly uses or disposes of that property in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract, express or implied, which he has made touching the discharge of such trust, or wilfully suffers any other person so to do, commits criminal breach of trust"

Explanation 1.- A person, being an employer of an establishment whether exempted under section 17 of the Employees Provident Funds and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952 (19 of 1952), or not who deducts the employee s contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to a Provident Fund or Family Pension Fund established by any law for the time being in force, shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said law, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid.

Explanation 2.- A person, being an employer, who deducts the employees contribution from the wages payable to the employee for credit to the Employees State Insurance Fund held and administered by the Employees State Insurance Corporation established under the Employees State Insurance Act, 1948 (34 of 1948), shall be deemed to have been entrusted with the amount of the contribution so deducted by him and if he makes default in the payment of such contribution to the said Fund in violation of the said Act, shall be deemed to have dishonestly used the amount of the said contribution in violation of a direction of law as aforesaid."

406. Punishment for criminal breach of trust.

"Whoever commits criminal breach of trust shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both."

13. To better understand the concept, reliance may be placed on certain legal precedents, such as Binod Kumar versus State of Bihar (2014) 10 SCC 663

"14. At this stage, we are only concerned with the question whether the averments in the complaint taken at their face value make out the ingredients of criminal offence or not. Let us now examine whether the allegations made in the complaint when taken on their face value, are true and constitute the offence as defined under Section 406.

15. Section 405 IPC deals with criminal breach of trust. A careful reading of Section 405 IPC shows that a criminal breach of trust involves the following ingredients:

(a) a person should have been entrusted with property, or entrusted with dominion over property;

(b) that person should dishonestly misappropriate or convert to his own use that property, or dishonestly use or dispose of that property or wilfully suffer any other person to do so;

(c) that such misappropriation, conversion, use or disposal should be in violation of any direction of law prescribing the mode in which such trust is to be discharged, or of any legal contract which the person has made, touching the discharge of such trust.

16. Section 406 IPC prescribes punishment for criminal breach of trust as defined in Section 405 IPC. For the offence punishable under Section 406 IPC, prosecution must prove:

(i) that the accused was entrusted with property or with dominion over it; and

(ii) that he (a) misappropriated it, or (b) converted it to his own use, or (c) used it, or (d) disposed of it.

The gist of the offence is misappropriation done in a dishonest manner. There are two distinct parts of the said offence. The first involves the fact of entrustment, wherein an obligation arises in relation to the property over which dominion or control is acquired. The second part deals with misappropriation which should be contrary to the terms of the obligation which is created.

18. In the present case, looking at the allegations in the complaint on the face of it, we find that no allegations are made attracting the ingredients of Section 405 IPC. Likewise, there are no allegations as to cheating or the dishonest intention of the appellants in retaining the money in order to have wrongful gain to themselves or causing wrongful loss to the complainant. Excepting the bald allegations that the appellants did not make payment to the second respondent and that the appellants utilised the amounts either by themselves or for some other work, there is no iota of allegation as to the dishonest intention in misappropriating the property. To make out a case of criminal breach of trust, it is not sufficient to show that money has been retained by the appellants. It must also be shown that the appellants dishonestly disposed of the same in some way or dishonestly retained the same. The mere fact that the appellants did not pay the money to the complainant does not amount to criminal breach of trust."

14. Ramesh Sitaldas Dalal and ors. Versus State of Maharashtra and ors., 2023(4)Bom CR(Cri)845.

"13. The term 'cruelty' for the purpose of Section 498-A of the IPC has been specifically defined. In order to constitute an offence under Section 498-A there must be prima facie material to prove (a) willful conduct of such a nature as is likely to drive the woman to commit suicide or to cause grave injury or danger to life, limb or health of the woman; (b) that they had harassed her with a view to coerce her to satisfy unlawful demand of dowry. It is well settled that to prove offence under Section 498-A, it has to be established that the woman has been subjected to cruelty continuously or persistently or at least in close proximity of time of lodging the complaint. Petty quarrels do not amount to cruelty. Reliance is placed on the decision of the Apex Court in Manju Ram Kalita vs. State of Asam MANU/SC/0911/2009: (2009) 13 SCC 330."

15. After thoughtfully considering the arguments advanced by learned counsel for the parties, the relevant legal provisions, the case laws relied upon, and upon perusal of the material available on record, it appears that the FIR contains specific allegations against the mother-in-law of the complainant, namely, Geeta Singhal, regarding non-return of stridhan and administering certain medicines alleged to be harmful to the complainant. It further appears that, according to the written submissions advanced on behalf of the applicants, a handwritten note (Annexure SA-34) has been relied upon to contend that the complainant/respondent had left the matrimonial home of her own accord. However, the said handwritten note forms part of the evidence and its authenticity, genuineness and evidentiary value cannot be conclusively examined at this stage, as the question whether the same was actually written by the complainant/respondent or not is a disputed question of fact requiring appreciation of evidence during trial.

16. It also appears that the applicants have questioned the credibility of the prosecution case on the ground that no formal complaint was lodged for almost nine years and that the present proceedings were initiated only after institution of Criminal Complaint Case No. 905 of 2021 and Divorce Petition (HMA No. 421 of 2021) by Applicant No. 2 on the ground of cruelty, thereby contending that the present FIR is a counterblast to the earlier proceedings. However, merely because the present proceedings may appear to be a counterblast to the aforesaid cases, the same by itself would not constitute a sufficient ground for quashing of the FIR, particularly when certain disputed questions of fact and evidence still require examination during trial. The issue regarding the injuries allegedly sustained by Applicant No. 2, and whether the same were caused by the complainant/respondent, also involves factual adjudication based upon evidence to be led during trial. The reliance be place on the judgment Omprakash Krishnya Nayar v. State of Maharashtra, 1999 SCC OnLine Bom 253

"Between "may be true" and "must be true" there is inevitably a long distance to travel and the whole of this distance must be covered by legal, reliable and unimpeachable evidence."

17. Looking to the aspect of the powers of the Court under Section 482 Cr.P.C., it is settled that at the stage of quashing, the Court is not required to conduct a mini trial, thus the jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C with respect to quashing is somewhat limited as the Court has to only consider whether any sufficient material is available to produce against the applicant or not, if sufficient material is available, the power under Section 482 Cr.P.C should not be exercised. Further in the case of Central Bureau of Investigation v. Aryan Singh and others, (2023) 18 SCC 399 this Court held that at the stage of Section 482 of the Cr.P.C., the High Court is not required to conduct a mini trial, relevant para is reproduced below:-

"6. From the impugned common judgment and order [Aryan Singh v. CBI, 2022 SCC OnLine P&H 4158] passed by the High Court, it appears that the High Court has dealt with the proceedings before it, as if, the High Court was conducting a mini trial and/or the High Court was considering the applications against the judgment and order passed by the learned trial court on conclusion of trial. As per the cardinal principle of law, at the stage of discharge and/or quashing of the criminal proceedings, while exercising the powers under Section 482 CrPC, the Court is not required to conduct the mini trial. The High Court in the common impugned judgment and order has observed that the charges against the accused are not proved. This is not the stage where the prosecution/investigating agency is/are required to prove the charges. The charges are required to be proved during the trial on the basis of the evidence led by the prosecution/investigating agency.

7. Therefore, the High Court has materially erred in going in detail in the allegations and the material collected during the course of the investigation against the accused, at this stage. At the stage of discharge and/or while exercising the powers under Section 482CrPC, the Court has a very limited jurisdiction and is required to consider whether any sufficient material is available to proceed further against the accused for which the accused is required to be tried or not".

8. One another reason pointed by the High Court is that the initiation of the criminal proceedings/proceedings is malicious. At this stage, it is required to be noted that the investigation was handed over to the CBI pursuant to the directions issued by the High Court. That thereafter, on conclusion of the investigation, the accused persons have been charge-sheeted. Therefore, the High Court has erred in observing at this stage that the initiation of the criminal proceedings/proceedings is malicious. Whether the criminal proceedings was/were malicious or not, is not required to be considered at this stage. The same is required to be considered at the conclusion of the trial. In any case, at this stage, what is required to be considered is a prima facie case and the material collected during the course of the investigation, which warranted the accused to be tried."

18. In Daxaben v. State of Gujarat (2022) 16 SCC 117, a two-Judge Bench held as follows:

"26. Even though, the inherent power of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC, to interfere with criminal proceedings is wide, such power has to be exercised with circumspection, in exceptional cases. Jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC is not to be exercised for the asking. 27. In Monica Kumar v. State of U.P. [(2008) 8 SCC 781 (2008) 3 SCC (Cl) 649], this Court held that inherent jurisdiction under Section 482 CrPC has to be exercised sparingly, carefully and with caution and only when such exercise is justified by the tests specifically laid down in the section itself.

28. In exceptional cases, to prevent abuse of the process of the Court, the High Court might in exercise of its inherent powers under Section 482 quash criminal proceedings. However, interference would only be justified when the complaint did not disclose any offence, or was patently frivolous, vexatious or oppressive, as held by this Court in Dhanalakshmi v. R. Prasanna Kumar [1990 Supp SCC 686: 1991 SCC (Cri) 142: AIR 1990 SC 494].

36. Offence under Section 306 IPC of abetment to commit suicide is a grave, non-compoundable offence. Of course, the inherent power of the High Court under Section 482 CrPC is wide and can even be to non exercised to quash criminal proceedings relating compoundable offences, to secure the ends of justice or to prevent abuse of the process of court. Where the victim and offender have compromised disputes essentially civil and personal in nature, the High Court can exercise its power under Section 482 CrPC to quash the criminal proceedings. In what cases power to quash an FIR or a criminal complaint or criminal proceedings upon compromise can be exercised, would depend on the facts and circumstances of the case."

22. On the aspect of the powers of the Courts under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C., it is settled that at the stage of quashing, the Court is not required to conduct a mini trial. Thus, the jurisdiction under Section 482 of the Cr. P.C. with respect to quashing is somewhat limited as the Court has to only consider whether any sufficient material is available to proceed against the accused or not. If sufficient material is available, the power under Section 482 should not be exercised.

19. The Court is also relying on the judgment of case, State of Odisha v. Pratima Mohanty (2022) 16 SCC 703 held that:-

"8.2. It is trite that the power of quashing should be exercised sparingly and with circumspection and in rare cases. As per the settled proposition of law while examining an FIR/complaint quashing of which is sought, the court cannot embark upon any enquiry as to the reliability or genuineness of allegations made in the FIR/complaint. Quashing of a complaint/FIR should be an exception rather than any ordinary rule. Normally the criminal proceedings should not be quashed in exercise of powers under Section 482 CrPC when after a thorough investigation the charge-sheet has been filed. At the stage of discharge and/or considering the application under Section 482 CrPC the courts are not required to go into the merits of the allegations and/or evidence in detall as if conducting the mini-trial. As held by this Court the powers under Section 482 CrPC are very wide, but conferment of wide power requires the court to be more cautious. It casts an onerous and more diligent duty on the Court."

20. Even if there appears to be a possibility that the present FIR has been lodged as a counterblast to the earlier proceedings instituted by the applicants, the said aspect itself cannot be conclusively determined at this stage, particularly when adjudication of such plea requires appreciation and determination of evidence. The evidentiary value and correctness of the rival claims raised by the parties can only be properly examined during trial upon leading of evidence. Therefore, this Court, while exercising jurisdiction under Section 482 Cr.P.C., cannot undertake such factual determination at this stage.

21. In this context, it seems relevant to take note of that vide order dated 14.11.2025 of this Court, in Application U/S 482 Cr.P.C. No. 4269 of 2025 (Harsha Singhal versus State of U.P. and others), the concerned trial Court has been directed to decide the instant case preferably within 3 months.

22. In view of the law, reasons and discussions made herein above, this Court finds that the present case warrants no interference at this stage as it is necessary to examine the allegations. This is not the stage where the prosecution/investigating agency is/are required to prove the charges. The charges are required to be proved during the trial on the basis of the evidence led by the prosecution. Therefore, the instant application is liable to be dismissed.

23. With the aforesaid observations, the present application is dismissed.

24. The Court acknowledge and appreciates the sincere efforts and valuable assistance of Research Associate Ms. Kratanshi Srivastava.

CASE ARISING FROM

Family Court order dated 19.01.2026 in Case No. 994 of 2020 (Mansi Tyagi v. Satish Tiwari) rejecting request for DNA test in maintenance proceedings.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): - Mrs. Nikki Verma holding brief of Mr. Bhaiya Ram
Counsel for Respondent(s): - Sri Mr. Asim Kumar Singh, Mr. Nand Lal, AGA

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Mrs. Nikki Verma holding brief of Mr. Bhaiya Ram, learned counsel for the applicants, Mr. Asim Kumar Singh, learned counsel for the opposite party No. 2 and Mr. Nand Lal, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under Section 528 BNSS has been filed with a prayer to quash the order dated 19.01.2026 passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, Family Court No.1, Agra, in Case No. 994 of 2020 (Mansi Tyagi v. Shri Satish Tiwari) rejecting the application No. 11B dated 20.09.2023 moved by Smt. Mansi Tyagi for the determination of the paternity of her begotten son Master Shiva through DNA test by taking the blood samples of applicant No. 2 Master Shiva and opposite party No. 2, Satish Tiwari in the pending maintenance proceeding under section 125 Cr.P.C.

3. The noticeable facts relevant to deal with the controversy are that the marriage of the applicant, Smt. Mansi Tyagi was solemnized with one Narendra Tyagi in the year 2012 according to Hindu rites and rituals and two sons were born out of their wedlock, namely, Harsh Tyagi and Rohit Tyagi. In the year 2018-19, the applicant Mansi Tyagi came in contact with the opposite party No. 2, Satish Tiwari @ Akhilesh Tiwari and developed extra-marital relationship and a son named Shiva was begotten on 12.07.2020. The husband Narendra Tyagi noticed the fact and went for the paternity test of himself and the begotten child Master Shiva wherein the DNA Test report dated 28.07.2020 disclosed that husband Narendra Tyagi is not the biological father of the applicant No. 2, Master Shiva and thus moved a divorce petition on 24.08.2020 for dissolution of the marriage.

4. In the meantime, the applicant, Smt. Mansi Tyagi, moved an application dated 05.10.2020 under Section 125 Cr.P.C., i.e., Petition No. 994 of 2020 (Smt. Mansi Tyagi and another v. Satish Tiwari @ Akhilesh Kumar Tiwari) before the Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra claiming maintenance on behalf of the minor begotten son i.e., applicant No. 2 Master Shiva, from the opposite party No. 2, Satish Tiwari @ Akhilesh Kumar Tiwari.

5. During the pendency of the Maintenance Petition, the applicant No. 1 Mansi Tyagi moved an application No. 11B dated 20.09.2023 for the scientific determination of the paternity wherein the impugned order dated 19.01.2026 has been passed by learned Additional Principal Judge, Family Court No.1 rejecting the same on the ground that there is no material in regard to live-in-relationship between the applicant no. 1 and opposite party no.2, hence, the present petition.

6. In this backdrop, it is relevant to mention that admittedly the applicant No.1, Mansi Tyagi is the legally wedded wife of Narendra Tyagi and during the subsistence of the valid marriage, she developed an extra marital relationship with the opposite party No. 2, Satish Tiwari @ Akhilesh Tiwari who fathered the child i.e., the applicant No. 2, Master Shiva.

7. The birth of applicant No. 2, Master Shiva, during the subsistence of valid marriage between the couple is the conclusive proof of legitimacy. However, at the subsequent stage, the husband Narendra Tyagi separated himself from applicant No. 1 after obtaining the DNA Test Report dated 28.07.2020 which disclosed that Narendra Tyagi was not the biological father of applicant No. 2, Master Shiva and thus moved a divorce petition on 24.08.2020 bearing Petition No. 1094 of 2020 (Narendra Tyagi v. Mansi Tyagi) before the Court of Principal Judge, Family Court, Agra which is still pending decision.

8. Recently, the Hon'ble Apex Court in Ivan Rathinam v. Milan Joseph, 2025 INSC 115 has discussed in detail on the issues relating to paternity, legitimacy and maintenance of a child begotten from an extra marital relationship. At this juncture, it is relevant to refer the legal position which exists in India. The relevant paragraphs are referred here-in-below:

"26. The advent of scientific testing has made it much easier to prove that a child is not a particular person's offspring. To this end, Indian courts have sanctioned the use of DNA testing, but sparingly.

27. Before delving into the analysis, it is pertinent to elucidate Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872:

"112. Birth during marriage, conclusive proof of legitimacy. The fact that any person was born during the continuance of a valid marriage between his mother and any man, or within two hundred and eighty days after its dissolution, the mother remaining unmarried, shall be conclusive proof that he is the legitimate son of that man, unless it can be shown that the parties to the marriage had no access to each other at any time when he could have been begotten."

28. The language of the provision makes it abundantly clear that there exists a strong presumption that the husband is the father of the child borne by his wife during the subsistence of their marriage. This section provides that conclusive proof of legitimacy is equivalent to paternity. The object of this principle is to prevent any unwarranted enquiry into the parentage of a child. Since the presumption is in favour of legitimacy, the burden is cast upon the person who asserts 'illegitimacy' to prove it only through 'non-access.'

29. It is well-established that access and non-access under Section 112 do not require a party to prove beyond reasonable doubt that they had or did not have sexual intercourse at the time the child could have been begotten. 'Access' merely refers to the possibility of an opportunity for marital relations. To put it more simply, in such a scenario, while parties may be on non-speaking terms, engaging in extra-marital affairs, or residing in different houses in the same village, it does not necessarily preclude the possibility of the spouses having an opportunity to engage in marital relations. Non-access means the impossibility, not merely inability, of the spouses to have marital relations with each other. For a person to rebut the presumption of legitimacy, they must first assert non-access which, in turn, must be substantiated by evidence. (emphasis supplied)

30. It is only when such an assertion is made, that the court can consider the question of ordering a DNA test to establish paternity. In Goutam Kundu v. State of W.B.; 1993 (3) SCC 418, this Court laid down the following parameters to decide whether a court can order a DNA test for the purposes of Section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act.

"(1) that courts in India cannot order blood test as a matter of course;

(2) wherever applications are made for such prayers in order to have roving inquiry, the prayer for blood test cannot be entertained.

(3) There must be a strong prima facie case in that the husband must establish non-access in order to dispel the presumption arising under Section 112 of the Evidence Act.

(4) The court must carefully examine as to what would be the consequence of ordering the blood test; whether it will have the effect of branding a child as a bastard and the mother as an unchaste woman.

(5) No one can be compelled to give sample of blood for analysis."

31. These parameters have been subsequently followed by this Court in Sharda v. Dharmpal; (2003) 4 SCC 493 and Bhabani Prasad Jena v. Orissa State Commission for Women; (2010) 8 SCC 633. In these cases, it was held that DNA tests may be ordered, only if a strong prima facie case of non-access is made out, with sufficient material placed before the court to arrive at a decision.

9. At this juncture, one must not ignore the observations made by the Hon'ble Apex Court in Aparna Ajinkya Firodia v. Ajinkya Arun Firodia; (2024) 7 SCC 773 that : "under the Indian legal spectrum, a husband, is strongly presumed to be the father of a child borne to his wife. It has been held that there is a strong presumption regarding the paternity of a child. This presumption can be overcome only by evidence precluding any pro-creative role of the husband such as by showing that the husband and wife had no access to the each other at the time of possible conception. Therefore, in the absence of proof of non-access the law considers that husband's paternity to be conclusively established if they cohabited when the child is likely to have been conceived. The presumption protects social parentage over biological parentage.

10. Further, it has been observed that if husband and wife were living together during the time of conception but the DNA test reveals that the child was not borne to the husband, the conclusiveness of the presumption of legitimacy of such child in law would remain irrebuttable. In such situation, adultery may be proved on the part of the wife, the legitimacy of the child, would still be conclusive in law. The conclusive presumption of legitimacy of a child borne during the subsistence of a valid marriage is that the child is that of the husband and it cannot be rebutted by a mere DNA test report. For rebuttal, there must be the proof of non-access at the time when the child could have been begotten, i.e,, at the time of its conception."

11. However, as to the stage of conducting DNA test and the consideration which are required to be taken into account before forming such option, the observations made by the Apex Court in the Case of Bhabani Prasad Jena v. Convenor Secretary, Orissa State Commissioner for Women and another reported in MANU/SC/0555/2010: 2010 (8) Supreme Court Cases 633 are relevant to be taken note of. In that case, the Apex Court had held that DNA test in a matter relating to paternity of a child should not be directed by the Court as a matter of course or routine manner. Wherever such request is made, the Evidence Act; pros and cons of such order and the test of "eminent need" whether it is not possible for the Court to reach the truth without use of such test. Any order or direction for DNA test can be given by the Court only when a strong prima facie case is made out for such a course. Since the presumption is in favour of the legitimacy, the burden to prove it only through "non-access" is cast upon the person who asserts "illegitimacy" as discussed above.

12. Forcefully undergoing a DNA test would subject an individual's private life to scrutiny from the outside world. That scrutiny, particularly when, concerning matters of infidelity, can be harsh and can eviscerate a person's reputation and standing in society.

13. In the case at hand, it is an admitted fact that applicant no. 2 was begotten on 12.07.2020 during the subsistence of the valid marriage of Mansi Tyagi and Narendra Tyagi who remained together until the husband separated himself after procurement of DNA Test Report dated 28.07.2020 and filing of the divorce petition under section 13 of Hindu Marriage Act dated 24.08.2020 which is still pending decision. It is obvious that both had access throughout their marriage. Even if it is presumed that Applicant No.1 developed extra marital relationship with opposite party no.2 especially when the Applicant No.2 was begotten, such a fact, per se, would not be sufficient to displace the presumption of legitimacy. It seems that the husband and opposite party no. 2 both had simultaneous access. There being a statutory mandate, the applicant No. 2, Master Shiva shall be presumed to be the son of Narendra Tyagi.

14. Most recently, the Supreme Court has reiterated in R. Rajendran vs. Kamar Nisha, 2025 INSC 1304 "that the law favours legitimacy and frowns upon the illegitimacy" and that section 112 of the Indian Evidence Act "stands as a bulwark against the casual illegitimization of children on the strength of unsubstantiated allegations or mere suspicion."

15. In the light of the legal position, as discussed above, there is no 'eminent need' for a DNA Profiling test of opposite party No. 2. The learned Family Court has rightly rejected the application No. 11B for the determination of paternity.

16. No interference is required.

17. The present application is accordingly, dismissed.

APPEARANCE OF PARTIES

Counsel for Appellant(s): Shri Sanjeev Kumar Pandey
Counsel for Respondent(s): AGA.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Ms. Nand Prabha Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Sri Sanjeev Kumar Pandey, learned counsel for the applicant, learned AGA for the State and perused the record.

2. The present application under section 528 BNSS has been filed with a prayer to set aside the order dated 10.02.2026 passed by learned Additional Sessions Judge, FTC-Ist, (Offence Against Women) Mathura in S.T. No. 41 of 2017 under sections 498A, 304B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act, Case Crime No. 1073 of 2015, Police Station Vrindavan, District Mathura.

3. Briefly stated, Shri Krishan Sharma, the opposite party no.2, lodged an FIR bearing Case Crime No. 1073 of 2015 under Sections 498-A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act at Police Station Vrindavan, District Mathura against the applicant and 3 others alleging that the marriage of his daughter Km. Kshama was solemnized with the applicant, Arun Sharma on 19.02.2011 wherein cash of Rs. 3 lacs and various articles were given but the in-laws demanded additional dowry of Rs. 5 lacs cash and a four wheeler. Due to non-fulfillment of dowry demand, the daughter of opposite party no.2 was killed on 04.11.2015 at 2.00 P.M. at her matrimonial home. After thorough investigation, the applicant was charge-sheeted under sections 498A, 304B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act. According to the autopsy report dated 05.11.2015, no ante mortem injuries were found as the cause of death could not be ascertained, the viscera was preserved.

4. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Mathura took cognizance on 08.02.2016 and the matter was committed to the Court of Sessions and the charges were framed against the applicant on 05.07.2018 under sections 498A, 304-B IPC and 3/4 D.P. Act. During the trial proceedings, total eight prosecution witnesses have been examined and the statement of the accused/applicant was recorded under section 313 Cr.P.C on 09.07.2025 and the date was fixed for final arguments. The viscera of the deceased was preserved on 04.11.2015 and was sent for chemical examination to the Forensic Science Laboratory, Agra on 17.12.2015 and was chemically examined on 22.12.2016.

5. In the meantime, taking a somersault, the ADGC (Crl.) moved an Application No. 82 Kha dated 05.12.2025 for taking viscera report on record and to frame an alternate charge under Section 302 IPC. The objection was invited on the said application wherein the applicant filed the objection dated 13.01.2026 and the application was allowed vide impugned order dated 10.02.2026, passed by learned Addl. Session Judge/Fast Track Court I (Atrocities against Women) Mathura by taking viscera report dated 22.12.2016 on record, and fixed the date for framing of the alternate charge under section 302 IPC.

6. Learned counsel for the applicant submits that the order dated 10.02.2026 is arbitrary and illegal and is not sustainable in the eyes of law. It has further been argued that the learned Trial Court had committed gross illegality by taking viscera report dated 22.12.2016 on record at the stage of final argument i.e. after closing of eight prosecution witnesses and recording the statement of accused-applicant under section 313 Cr.P.C. and the same could not be taken on record at such a belated stage.

7. It has further been argued that the viscera report dated 22.12.2016 has been placed before the Trial Court on 05.12.2025 with an inordinate delay of ten years without any plausible explanation given by the prosecution. No opportunity of cross-examination was given to the applicant, therefore, the same cannot be read in evidence or made part of the prosecution evidence by the Trial Court concerned. The findings recorded by the learned Additional Sessions Judge for taking viscera report dated 17.12.2025 on record is based on surmises and conjectures. The matter is fixed for final argument after completion of the prosecution evidence as well as after recording the statement of the accused under section 313 Cr.P.C. The alternate charge under section 302 Cr.P.C cannot be framed at this stage as no opportunity has been given to the appellant to raise their defence. There is no material on record for the framing of alternate charge under section 302 IPC and is an abuse of the process of the court.

8. Learned Counsel for the applicant has relied upon the Judgement rendered by Hon'ble Apex Court in Jasvinder Saini and Others v. State (Govt of NCT of Delhi) 2013 LawSuit(SC) 559 wherein it has been observed as follows:-

"13. Be that as it may the common thread running through both the orders is that this Court had in Rajbir's case (supra) directed the addition of a charge under Section 302IPC to every case in which the accused are charged with Section 304-B. That was not, in our opinion, the true purport of the order passed by this Court. The direction was not meant to be followed mechanically and without due regard to the nature of the evidence available in the case. All that this Court meant to say was that in a case where a charge alleging dowry death is framed, a charge under Section 302 can also be framed if the evidence otherwise permits. No other meaning could be deduced from the order of this Court. It is common ground that a charge under Section 304B IPC is not a substitute for a charge of murder punishable under Section 302. As in the case of murder in every case under Section 304B also there is a death involved. The question whether it is murder punishable under Section 302 IPC or a dowry death punishable under Section 304B IPC depends upon the fact situation and the evidence in the case. If there is evidence whether direct or circumstantial to prima facie support a charge under Section 302 IPC the trial Court can and indeed ought to frame a charge of murder punishable under Section 302 IPC, which would then be the main charge and not an alternative charge as is erroneously assumed in some quarters. If the main charge of murder is not proved against the accused at the trial, the Court can look into the evidence to determine whether the alternative charge of dowry death punishable under Section 304B is established. The ingredients constituting the two offences are different, thereby demanding appreciation of evidence from the perspective relevant to such ingredients. The trial Court in that view of the matter acted mechanically for it framed an additional charge under Section 302 IPC without adverting to the evidence adduced in the case and simply on the basis of the direction issued in Rajbir's case (supra). The High Court no doubt made a half hearted attempt to justify the framing of the charge independent of the directions in Rajbir's case (supra), but it would have been more appropriate to remit the matter back to the trial Court for fresh orders rather than lending support to it in the manner done by the High Court."

9. Thus, the aforesaid Judgement does not categorically excludes the framing of alternate charge u/s 302 IPC especially when the evidence is otherwise and does not support the applicant's contention.

10. The Hon'ble Apex Court in Dr. Nallapareddy Sridhar Reddy v. The State of Andhra Pradesh affirming Jasvinder Saini (supra) has held that:

"19. In Jasvinder Saini v. State (Govt of NCT of Delhi), this Court dealt with the question whether the Trial Court was justified in adding a charge under Section 302 of the IPC against the accused persons who were charged under Section 304B Justice T S Thakur (as he then was) speaking for the Court, held thus: ?11. A plain reading of the above would show that the court's power to alter or add any charge is unrestrained provided such addition and/or alteration is made before the judgment is pronounced. Sub-sections (2) to (5) of Section 216 deal with the procedure to be followed once the court decides to alter or add any charge. Section 217 of the Code deals with the recall of witnesses when the charge is altered or added by the court after commencement of the trial. There can, in the light of the above, be no doubt about the competence of the court to add or alter a charge at any time before the judgment. The circumstances in which such addition or alteration may be made are not, however, stipulated in Section 216. It is all the same trite that the question of any such addition or alternation would generally arise either because the court finds the charge already framed to be defective for any reason or because such addition is considered necessary after the commencement of the trial having regard to the evidence that may come before the court.? (Emphasis supplied)

20. From the above line of precedents, it is clear that Section 216 provides the court an exclusive and wide-ranging power to change or alter any charge. The use of the words "at any time before judgment is pronounced" in Sub-Section (1) empowers the court to exercise its powers of altering or adding charges even after the completion of evidence, arguments and reserving of the judgment. The alteration or addition of a charge may be done if in the opinion of the court there 15 (2013) 7 SCC 256 was an omission in the framing of charge or if upon prima facie examination of the material brought on record, it leads the court to form a presumptive opinion as to the existence of the factual ingredients constituting the alleged offence. The test to be adopted by the court while deciding upon an addition or alteration of a charge is that the material brought on record needs to have a direct link or nexus with the ingredients of the alleged offence. Addition of a charge merely commences the trial for the additional charges, whereupon, based on the evidence, it is to be determined whether the accused may be convicted for the additional charges. The court must exercise its powers under Section 216 judiciously and ensure that no prejudice is caused to the accused and that he is allowed to have a fair trial. The only constraint on the court?s power is the prejudice likely to be caused to the accused by the addition or alteration of charges. Sub-Section (4) accordingly prescribes the approach to be adopted by the courts where prejudice may be caused."

11. From the perusal of the records, it transpires that the post-mortem report reveals that no ante-mortem injuries were found, hence, cause of death could not be ascertained and the viscera was preserved in 2015. The said report was ready in the year 2016 but the investigating officer did not bring the same on record. As the viscera preserved was examined in time, the poison was detected which is a material evidence to be taken into account for just decision of the case.

12. Considering the fact, that the viscera report dated 22.12.2016 indicates that the organophosphorus insecticide poison was found, therefore, it is a material evidence which needs to be taken into account for reaching the just conclusion.

13. In view of the law as discussed above, there is no illegality in the order impugned.

14. No interference is required.

15. The present application is, accordingly, dismissed.

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether a previous conviction of accused, particularly for an offence u/s 307 IPC (corresponding to s. 109(1) of Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023), by itself disentitles him from being granted bail u/ss. 480 and 483 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023, and whether, having regard to the nature of injuries, the applicant's role, the sentence awarded in the previous conviction and the overall facts and circumstances of the case, he was entitled to be enlarged on bail.

Headnotes

Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 - ss. 109(1), 115(2), 117(2), 352 and 351(3) - Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita, 2023 - ss. 480, 483 - Bail - Criminal antecedents - Previous conviction - Grounds - Word Punishable - Interpretation of - The applicant sought bail in connection with Case Crime No. 372 of 2025, registered under various sections of BNS, 2023 - The prosecution alleged that the applicant assaulted the injured with a Tangi, whereas the defence contended that despite the allegation of use of a sharp-edged weapon, the injured sustained only lacerated wounds and rib fractures, none of which were found to be dangerous to life - The State opposed the bail application primarily on the ground that the applicant was a previous convict u/s 307 IPC, had been sentenced to five years' imprisonment and possessed a criminal history of several cases - The applicant, asserted that he was already on bail in the previous conviction and that a solitary conviction carrying a sentence of five years did not attract the statutory embargo u/s 480 of BNSS.

Held: The previous conviction on the facts of the instant case would, firstly, not disentitle the applicant to seek bail, as only one conviction has been shown against the applicant in which five years' imprisonment has been awarded to him; and secondly, the Court, in exercise of powers conferred by virtue of s. 483 BNSS (s. 439 Cr.P.C.), can consider and grant bail even in cases where there is a bar u/s 480(1)(i) and (ii) having regard to all other facts and circumstances, including relevant considerations with respect to exercise of jurisdiction to grant bail, of which criminal history and previous conviction also is an integral part - Taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of case, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, the Court found appropriate to enlarge the applicant on bail - Accordingly, bail application allowed. ORIGINAL JURISDICTION: Criminal Misc. Bail Application No. - 15823 of 2026

From the First Information Report in Case Crime No. 372 of 2025, Police Station Revti, District Ballia.

Appearances for Parties

Advs. for the Applicant(s):
Saurabh Chaturvedi, Senior Advocate

Adv. for the Opposite Party(s):
G.A.

(Delivered by Hon'ble Rajiv Lochan Shukla, J.)

1. Heard Shri I.K. Chaturvedi, Learned Senior Advocate assisted by Shri Nirmal Kumar Singh, Learned counsel for the applicant and Learned AGA for the State.

2. The instant bail application has been filed with a prayer to release the applicant on bail in Case Crime no.372 of 2025, under Sections 109(1), 115(2), 117(2), 352, 351(3) BNS, Police Station Revti, District Ballia.

3. Shri I.K. Chaturvedi, Learned Senior Advocate contends that the applicant has been assigned a general role in the FIR. The applicant is said to have been armed with a Tangi. He contends that the Tangi is a sharp-edged axe like weapon and the injured has not received any incised wound. He further contends that in the X-ray report, the fracture of the 9th rib was found and the said injury is not dangerous to life. The applicant is said to have been in jail since 16.12.2025. The applicant has a criminal history of 11 cases and he has been convicted in one case and has been awarded five year's imprisonment. He is on bail in the said case.

4. Learned AGA has opposed the prayer for bail and has contended that the earlier conviction of the applicant was recorded for an offence under Section 307 IPC. The present case also is a case for an offence under Section 307 IPC (Section 109 BNS). He has two other cases under Section 307 IPC to his credit. The applicant is a repeat offender and may not be considered for grant of bail as he is likely to repeat the offence in the near future.

5. I have considered the submissions made by the Learned counsels for the parties.

6. The applicant is named in the FIR and has been assigned the role of assaulting the injured with a 'Tangi'. Tangi is stated to be a sharp-edged weapon like an axe. The injured has received two lacerated wounds, one just above the eyebrow on the left side of the forehead and the other behind the left ear near the mastoid process. The other injuries found on the person of the injured were all abrasions and complaint of pain. The X-ray report notes a fracture on the 9th rib. Later, it appears that a medical board had been constituted, which also found fracture in the 8th and 10th ribs also. The injuries sustained by the injured were not found to be dangerous to life.

7. Coming to the objection with respect to the criminal antecedents of the applicant, the applicant is said to be a previous convict for an offence under Section 307 IPC and has been awarded five years? imprisonment. He is stated to be on bail under the orders of this Court. The order of this Court has been annexed as Annexure No.19 to the affidavit, and the details regarding the conviction have been mentioned in paragraph no.33.

8. The prohibition for grant of bail, as provided under Section 480 of the BNSS (earlier Section 437 Cr.P.C.), is for the Courts other than the High Court or the Court of Session. Section 480 of the BNSS reads as under:-

"480. When bail may be taken in case of non-bailable offence.-

(1) When any person accused of, or suspected of, the commission of any non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a police station or appears or is brought before a Court other than the High Court or Court of Session, he may be released on bail, but-

(i) such person shall not be so released if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life;

(ii) such person shall not be so released if such offence is a cognizable offence and he had been previously convicted of an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for seven years or more, or he had been previously convicted on two or more occasions of a cognizable offence punishable with imprisonment for three years or more but less than seven years:

Provided that the Court may direct that a person referred to in clause (i) or clause (ii) be released on bail if such person is a child or is a woman or is sick or infirm:

Provided further that the Court may also direct that a person referred to in clause (ii) be released on bail if it is satisfied that it is just and proper so to do for any other special reason:

Provided also that the mere fact that an accused person may be required for being identified by witnesses during investigation or for police custody beyond the first fifteen days shall not be sufficient ground for refusing to grant bail if he is otherwise entitled to be released on bail and gives an undertaking that he shall comply with such directions as may be given by the Court:

Provided also that no person shall, if the offence alleged to have been committed by him is punishable with death, imprisonment for life, or imprisonment for seven years or more, be released on bail by the Court under this sub-section without giving an opportunity of hearing to the Public Prosecutor.

(2) If it appears to such officer or Court at any stage of the investigation, inquiry or trial, as the case may be, that there are not reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has committed a non-bailable offence, but that there are sufficient grounds for further inquiry into his guilt, the accused shall, subject to the provisions of section 492 and pending such inquiry, be released on bail, or, at the discretion of such officer or Court, on the execution by him of a bond for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

(3) When a person accused or suspected of the commission of an offence punishable with imprisonment which may extend to seven years or more or of an offence under Chapter VI, Chapter VII or Chapter XVII of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 or abetment of, or conspiracy or attempt to commit, any such offence, is released on bail under sub-section (1), the Court shall impose the conditions,-

(a) that such person shall attend in accordance with the conditions of the bond executed under this Chapter;

(b) that such person shall not commit an offence similar to the offence of which he is accused, or suspected, of the commission of which he is suspected; and

(c) that such person shall not directly or indirectly make any inducement, threat or promise to any person acquainted with the facts of the case so as to dissuade him from disclosing such facts to the Court or to any police officer or tamper with the evidence, and may also impose, in the interests of justice, such other conditions as it considers necessary.

(4) An officer or a Court releasing any person on bail under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), shall record in writing his or its reasons or special reasons for so doing.

(5) Any Court which has released a person on bail under sub-section (1) or sub-section (2), may, if it considers it necessary so to do, direct that such person be arrested and commit him to custody.

(6) If, in any case triable by a Magistrate, the trial of a person accused of any non-bailable offence is not concluded within a period of sixty days from the first date fixed for taking evidence in the case, such person shall, if he is in custody during the whole of the said period, be released on bail to the satisfaction of the Magistrate, unless for reasons to be recorded in writing, the Magistrate otherwise directs.

(7) If, at any time, after the conclusion of the trial of a person accused of a non-bailable offence and before judgment is delivered, the Court is of opinion that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the accused is not guilty of any such offence, it shall release the accused, if he is in custody, on the execution by him of a bond for his appearance to hear judgment delivered."

9. This Court, while considering the grant of bail under Section 483 of the BNSS, shall, apart from taking into consideration the other factors like the gravity of the offence, the nature of allegations, and the material collected in support thereof, also consider the criminal antecedents of an accused.

10. The Supreme Court in Prabhakar Tewari vs. State of U.P. and Another (2020) 11 SCC 648, while considering the challenge to an order granting bail to an accused having several cases against him, has held as under:-

"On considering the submissions of the learned counsel for the parties. Having regard to the circumstances of this case, in our opinion, there has been no wrong or improper exercise of discretion on the part of the High Court in granting bail to the accused. The factors outlined in the case of Mahipal vs. Rajesh Kumar (2020) 2 SCC 118 for testing the legality of an order granting bail are absent in the order impugned. The materials available do not justify arriving at the conclusion that the order impugned suffers from non-application of mind or the reason for granting bail is not borne out from a prima-facie view of the evidence on record. The offence alleged no doubt is grave and serious and there are several criminal cases pending against the accused. These factors by themselves cannot be the basis for refusal of prayer for bail. The High Court has exercised its discretion in granting bail to the accused Vikram Singh upon considering relevant materials. No ex-facie error in the order has been shown by the appellant which would establish exercise of such discretion to be improper. We accordingly sustain the order of the High Court granting bail. This appeal is dismissed."

11. Thus, while considering bail of the accused, the same cannot be refused solely on the ground of the applicant having a number of criminal cases to his credit. However, the conviction and the bar to grant of bail under Section 480(1)(i) and (ii) BNSS is not one to be taken lightly. Normally, while considering the bail application of an applicant, the Court must bear in mind any previous conviction.

12. The conviction recorded against an applicant, which has yet to be set aside by the appellate court, in the prima facie opinion of this Court, does come in the way of an applicant to be considered for grant of bail. However, as per the argument of the Learned AGA, the provisions of Section 480(1)(i) and (ii), if considered in their right perspective, would mean that a person would become disentitled to be considered for bail if he is convicted for an offence punishable with death, imprisonment for life or imprisonment for seven years or previously on two or more occasions of a cognizable offence punishable with imprisonment of three years or more but less than seven years.

13. Section 307 IPC, which is equivalent to Section 109(1) of the BNS, provides for different punishments for the same offence. Section 307 IPC reads as follows:-

"Section 307. Attempt to murder.-

Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to imprisonment for life, or to such punishment as is hereinbefore mentioned.

Attempts by life convicts.? When any person offending under this section is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death."

14. Section 109 BNS reads as follows:-

"Section 109.-

(1) Whoever does any act with such intention or knowledge, and under such circumstances that, if he by that act caused death, he would be guilty of murder, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and if hurt is caused to any person by such act, the offender shall be liable either to imprisonment for life, or to such punishment as is hereinbefore mentioned.

(2) When any person offending under sub-section (1) is under sentence of imprisonment for life, he may, if hurt is caused, be punished with death or with imprisonment for life, which shall mean the remainder of that person?s natural life."

15. The language used in Section 480(1)(i) and (ii) use the word "punishable". The Full Bench of this Court had the occasion to deal with its interpretation while considering the application of the proviso to Section 389 Cr.P.C. in the case of Arimardan v. State of U.P., 2007 SCC OnLine All 1200 and has opined as under:-

"12. Here in the proviso there is a slight ambiguity in the language employed in it, which has also given rise to the disputed question of construction as regards the applicability of the expression punishable with death or imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term not less than ten years whether one is charged or actually sentenced to that period. We consider that it would be conducive to clarify as well as to the avoidance of unnecessary technical objections giving occasion for litigation.

13. The entire submission on the part of learned Advocate General with regard to the applicability of the proviso rest on the meaning of the word "convicted of an offence punishable with death or imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than 10 years". Actual awarding of sentence is not relevant for the attraction of proviso to Section 389. Reliance is placed on the expression punishable defined by the Apex Court in the case of Sube Singh and Ors. v. State of Haryana and Ors. : [(1989) 1 SCC 235] : AIR 1988 SC 2235) wherein it is said to mean:

"The word 'punishable' is ordinarily defined as deserving of or capable or liable to punishment, punishable within statute providing that Defendant may have ten (sic) peremptory challenges if offences charged is punishable with death or by life imprisonment; means deserving of or liable to punishment; capable of being punished by law or right, may be punished, or liable to be punished, and not must be punished.

We find ourselves unable to accept the argument in view of the clear language of the proviso to Sub-section (1). To say that the proviso refers only to the offence(s) for which death sentence or imprisonment for life or imprisonment for a term of not less than 10 years is provided in the penal statute and its applicability has nothing to do with the sentence virtually awarded, would make the proviso practically futile and un-meaningful. It was also observed by the Apex Court in the case of P.S. Sathappan (Dead) By L.Rs. v. Andhra Bank Ltd., 2004 SCW 5934: ((2004) 11 SCC 672 : AIR 2004 SC 5152) that in the guise of purposive construction one cannot interpret a Section in a manner which wound lead to a conflict between the Sections of the same Section. If all the categories of offences wherein lesser punishment is also provided and awarded are taken within its sweep, it would be contrary to the legislative spirit. Where the Legislature intended to provide opportunity of giving show-cause in writing it meant that the heinous offences should not go unresponded. While keeping the third category of offences wherein imprisonment for not less 10 years is provided would itself show that its applicability would not be widened for the offences wherein the sentence less than 10 years is awarded. Here the proviso relating to the offence punishable with imprisonment for life would be strictly construed keeping in view the minimum sentence so provided in the proviso. It cannot take within its purview the offences where the lesser imprisonment is awarded. In this context, the expression "not less than" would mean imprisonment should be 10 years or more and would cover only those offences for which punishment could be imprisonment for a clear period of 10 years or more."

16. In view of the determination of the Full Bench of this Court, in the opinion of this Court, the word ?punishable? in Section 480(1)(i) and (ii) would necessarily be interpreted in the light of the actual sentence awarded. So far as the offences which provide for imprisonment for life or death, there is no ambiguity. The offence under Section 307 IPC (now Section 109(1) BNS), although provides for a maximum of life imprisonment, also provides for imprisonment which may extend up to 10 years. As held by this Court in the case of Arimardan (supra), in the opinion of this Court the word 'punishable' must be given the same interpretation and the actual sentence awarded shall be taken into account, when considering previous conviction.

17. The applicant has a previous conviction of one case and five years? imprisonment has been awarded to him. The prohibition under Section 480(1)(ii), in the opinion of the Court, would not apply. Even otherwise, conviction of a person would not automatically make him disentitled to be granted bail, as no such prohibition exists under Section 483 of the BNSS.

18. This Court, in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.4137 of 2024, while considering the effect of Section 437(1) Cr.P.C., considered a decision of the Bombay High Court in the case of Saquib Abdul Hamid Nachan v. The State of Maharashtra passed in Criminal Misc. Bail Application No.716 of 2014 and quoted with approval paragraphs 22 and 23 of the said judgment. Paragraphs 22 and 23 of the above-mentioned case are being reproduced hereunder:-

“"22. Mr. Jha submitted that the applicant cannot be released on bail n view of the fact that the applicant is a previous convict having undergone a sentence of imprisonment for a period of 10 years on the charge of an offence punishable under section 3(3) of the TADA Act.

23. I have carefully considered this aspect of the matter, and I have heard the learned counsel for the applicant in this regard. Indeed, section 437 of the Code treats a person who has been previously convicted of an offence punishable with death, Imprisonment for Life or Imprisonment for 7 years or more, differently from others, and provides that such person shall not be released on bail. However, the prohibition in that regard is not absolute, and the second proviso to sub-section(1) of section 437 of the Code retains the power of the court to direct such a person to be released on bail if it is satisfied that it is just and proper, so to do for any special reason. In my opinion, that there is no prima-facie case, would by itself be a special and sufficient reason for releasing an accused to has been previously convicted, on bail. Any other interpretation would mean that a previous convict of a category mentioned in section 437 of the Code can be booked for any and every offence, and would have to remain in custody till the conclusion of the trial irrespective of whether or not, there is substance in the accusation. In the instant case, coupled with the weakness on a number of aspect of the prosecution case, as observed in my order granting bail to the co-accused Shamil Nachan and Akif Nachan, the applicant has managed to bring out further weakness in the prosecution case on the basis of information procured by him under the Right to Information Act. It is not as if for releasing the applicant on bail, a positive finding that he is not guilty of the alleged offences, is required to be raised or recorded. What would be required is satisfaction about existence of 'reasonable grounds' for believing him to be not guilty. The phrase 'reasonable grounds' imports lesser degree of satisfaction than 'sufficient grounds'. It is not that it is only if there would be no case for proceeding against an accused, that he can be released on bail. This has been specifically made clear by Their Lordships of the Supreme Court of India of Ranjitsing Brahmajeetsing Sharma vs. State of Maharashtra & Anr. (supra). "

19. While relying upon the above-mentioned decision, this Court then proceeded to opine as follows:

"Thus from the above judgements it is amply evident that the applicability of Section 437 (i) and (ii) cannot be applied by shutting eyes or in a mechanical fashion. The individual's role who s seeking bail also occupies significance and it carries weight. The court's have to critically assess one's role, and his satisfaction about existence of 'reasonable ground' for beleaving that his name might have be dragged with ulterior motive, thus believing hum that he is nor guilty fro the offence charged for. The phrase 'reasonable grounds' imports lesser degree of satisfaction than 'sufficient ground'.

If the aforesaid provision of Cr.P.C. is applied mechanically, it may lead to gross injustice and disastrous result and even a previous convict, who has done nothing or falsely implicated in the alleged offence, cannot come out on bail till conclusion of trial. This is not the intention of legislation. As mentioned above, in the instant case that there is family rift between father and his two sons with regard to selling of a property belonging to them. Specific case, that Zaid Khan has given deadly blow on the deceased and the role attributed to present applicant Muslim, that he caught hold the deceased ? a passive role role attributed to the applicant. Thus, keeping in view the role attributed to the applicant, he deserves to be bailed out."

20. Thus, in the opinion of the Court, the previous conviction on the facts of the present case would, firstly, not disentitle the applicant to seek bail, as only one conviction has been shown against the applicant in which five years? imprisonment has been awarded to him; and secondly, this Court, in exercise of powers conferred by virtue of Section 483 BNSS (Section 439 Cr.P.C.), can consider and grant bail even in cases where there is a bar under Section 480(1)(i) and (ii) having regard to all other facts and circumstances, including relevant considerations with respect to exercise of jurisdiction to grant bail, of which criminal history and previous conviction also is an integral part.

21. Taking into consideration the facts and circumstances of the case, without expressing any opinion on the merits of the case, I find it appropriate to enlarge the applicant on bail.

22. The bail application is allowed.

23. Let the accused-applicant, Ayodhya Singh @ Kaksh Bahadur Singh, involved in above mentioned case crime number be released on bail, on his executing a personal bond and two reliable sureties each, in the like amount to the satisfaction of the court concerned, subject to the following conditions:

(i) The applicant will not tamper with the evidence.

(ii) The applicant will not indulge in any criminal activity.

(iii) The applicant will not pressurize/intimidate the prosecution witnesses and co-operate in the trial.

(iv) The applicant will appear regularly on each and every date fixed by the trial court, unless his personal appearance is exempted by the court concerned.

24. In the event of breach of any of the aforesaid conditions, the court concerned will be at liberty to proceed to cancel his bail.

25. It is made clear that the applicant shall be released on the basis of computer generated copy of this order, downloaded from the official website of High Court Allahabad and verified by the concerned counsel with the undertaking that the certified copy will be filed within 15 days.

26. It is further directed that the trial court shall send the release order to the concerned jail through Bail Order Management System (BOMS) to ensure early release of the applicant.

27. The observations made hereinabove are exclusively for deciding the instant bail application and are not to be considered to be an opinion on the merits of the case.

Samarpan Jain ...Petitioner

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether an Advocate, who merely acts in his professional capacity by filing a statutory appeal and advising the mode of statutory pre-deposit under the Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017, can be prosecuted for criminal conspiracy and allied offences along with his client solely on account of such professional acts, and whether the impugned FIR, charge-sheet and cognizance order disclosed any criminal liability against the Advocate warranting continuation of criminal proceedings.

Headnotes

Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita, 2023 - ss. 61(2), 318(4), 336(3), 338, 340(2), Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 - s. 107 - State Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 - s. 74 - Constitution of India, 1950 - Articles 14, 21 - Professional duties of Advocate - Criminal liability - Quashing of FIR, charge-sheet and cognizance - Petitioner impleaded as accused for professional advice rendered to client in GST - Appellate proceedings - Impermissibility - The petitioner, an Advocate practising in indirect taxes, direct taxes and corporate laws, was engaged by his client to file statutory appeals of the challenging assessment orders passed by Deputy Commissioner, State Goods and Services Tax - Acting in his professional capacity, the petitioner filed the appeals by making the prescribed ten per cent pre-deposit through utilisation of Electronic Credit Ledger and Input Tax Credit, relying upon the prevailing judicial interpretation - The Appellate Authority, however, held such mode of pre-deposit to be impermissible and dismissed the appeals on the ground of maintainability - Instead of initiating recovery proceedings against the assessee, the Deputy Commissioner lodged an FIR alleging that the petitioner had conspired with his client to evade GST and cause loss to State Exchequer - During the pendency of writ petition, the police submitted a charge-sheet and Magistrate took cognizance - The petitioner challenged the FIR, the charge-sheet and cognizance order, contending that the acts attributed to him were performed solely in discharge of his professional duties as an Advocate and did not constitute any criminal offence.

Held:. The impugned F.I.R., which has led to the police report and the order of cognizance violate all known principles of criminal liability - Even if the Deputy Commissioner of GST thinks that pre-deposit of the disputed tax could not be debited to the Electronic Ledger out of the Input Tax Credit, the professional decision of learned Advocate, to do so, does not, in any way, make him a conspirator with the assessee - It is purely a professional act and not at all something to do with his client's business - It was done in the course of filing an appeal and nothing more - It was based on a particular view of law, whether right, wrong or utterly wrong - Accordingly, writ petition allowed. Heard Mr. Sushil Shukla, learned Senior Advocate assisted by Mr. Sharad Sharma, learned Counsel for the petitioner, Mr. Anoop Trivedi, learned Additional Advocate General, assisted by Ms. Sadhna Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of respondent no. 3 and Mr. Shashi Shekhar Tiwari, learned Additional Government Advocate appearing on behalf of respondent nos. 1 and 2.

6. In its amended form, this petition now challenges the First Information Report dated 04.10.2025 giving rise to Case Crime No. 175 of 2025, under Sections 61(2), 318(4), 336(3), 338, 340(2), BNS, Police Station- Kotwali, District- Rampur as well as the impugned cognizance order dated 14.05.2026 passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate, Court No. 1, Rampur and the charge-sheet giving rise to Case Crime No. 3171 of 2026 on the Magistrate?s file.

7. The short case of the petitioner is that he is an Advocate enrolled with the Bar Council of U.P. since 20.12.2021. He practices and specializes in indirect taxes, direct taxes and corporate laws. He is also an Advocate on Record before this Court, his AOR No. being A/S0088/25. One Mohd. Haris is the proprietor of the firm, called M/s M H Enterprises having GSTIN-09AJDPH7962C3Z5 with its registered office at Mohalla Magazine, Bareilly Gate, PS Sadar, District Rampur. He approached the petitioner and engaged him as his Advocate to file a statutory appeal under Section 107 of the Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 questioning orders dated 16th of April, 2025 passed by the Deputy Commissioner, GST, Sector-1, Rampur, under Section 74 of the State Goods and Services Tax Act, 2017 assessing a sum of Rs. 81,46,291/- as tax, besides interest and penalty for the financial year 2021-2022, Rs. 4,90,78,118/- as tax, interest and penalty for the financial year 2022-2023 and Rs. 4,80,16,615/- towards tax, interest and penalty for the financial year 2023-2024 against his firm. For the financial year 2021-2022, the petitioner did not file an appeal and assertion to that effect in the FIR is said to be factually incorrect.

8. According to the instructions of his client Mohd. Haris, the petitioner filed two online statutory appeals on 15th of August, 2025 before the Appellate Authority-3 in accordance with Section 107 of the GST Act, 2017, uploading the memoranda of appeals and other required documents on the GST Portal in respect of two identical orders dated 18.04.2025 passed by the Deputy commissioner, GST, Sector-1, Rampur. It is emphasized that payment of pre-deposit of 10 % of the disputed tax by utilization of the Input Tax Credit and Electronic Credit Ledger of any assessee is permissible under CBIC-20001/2/2022- GST dated 06.07.2022. The aforesaid provision and procedure for making pre-deposit was interpreted that way by a Division Bench of the Gujarat High Court in M/s Yasho Industries Ltd. v. Union of India and another, a judgment that was upheld by the Supreme Court in Union of India and another v. Yasho Industries Ltd., 2025 SCC OnLine SC 1526.

9. The case further is that after filing of the statutory appeals on 22.09.2025, the petitioner's client was served dasti with an intimation dated 23.09.2025 from the office of the Appellate Authority-3, Moradabad wherein it was said that the pre-deposit of 10 % of the disputed tax from his Electronic Credit Ledger, utilizing Input Tax Credit for filing a statutory appeal cannot be accepted as statutory pre-deposit for the purpose. He was, therefore, directed to clarify on 24.09.2025 on the question of maintainability of the appeal.

10. It is then said that the petitioner was intimated of the Appellate Authority's communication on 22.09.2025, late in the night of 23.09.2025, and, as the petitioner was to attend some urgent meeting at Ghaziabad, he expressed his inability to attend the hearing at Moradabad. The petitioner?s client could not arrange an adjournment and the Appellate Authority dismissed the statutory appeal on ground of maintainability, with the remark that pre-deposit of 10% of the disputed tax made by the assessee from his Electronic Ledger, utilizing Input Tax Credit, was not acceptable as a valid tender.

11. After the above appellate order was passed, the informant, that is to say, the Deputy Commissioner of GST, respondent no.3, instead of proceeding to recover the assessed amount of tax, interest and penalty from the petitioner?s client, lodged the impugned F.I.R. on 04.10.2025, not only against the petitioner?s client but also nominating the petitioner for allegedly making a pre-deposit of 10% of the dispute tax out of the Electronic Credit Ledger by utilizing Input Tax Credit, which, according to the informant, was an illegal course adopted by the petitioner?s client in appealing his order. It was also alleged in the F.I.R. that there was evasion of GST, committed by the petitioner?s client in conspiracy with the petitioner, in order to cause financial loss to the State Exchequer. It is this part of the F.I.R. which aggrieves the petitioner.

12. It is submitted by Mr. Shushil Shukla, learned Senior Advocate that the petitioner, in filing the appeal and making a tender of the requisite fee deposit of disputed tax, acted in his "professional capacity" and did so to the best of his knowledge, going by the laws of the land, as declared by the Superior Courts of the Country. He relied for the purpose on the Division Bench decision of the High Court of Gujarat in M/s Yasho Industries Ltd. (supra).

13. The submission is that even if the petitioner acted in error, he was acting in a "professional capacity". There is nothing to show that he was a partner in his client's business and, therefore, a conspirator.

14. The further submission is that it is a very perilous proposition to accept that an Advocate, who enters appearance for his client and takes a particular course of action, that he advises, would land himself in midst of a criminal prosecution on the charge of a conspiracy with his client.

15. Mr. Anoop Trivedi, learned Additional Advocate General, when confronted with this issue, has not much to say. The informant, that is to say, the GST Officer, who has been summoned in-person, was asked about the reason why he nominated the assessee?s learned Advocate in the F.I.R., for his professional act in filing an appeal, in the F.I.R., to which he had no answer. Matters have not stopped at this and we must notice, as we have already done that after notice was issued in this case, the Police swung into action and a charge-sheet was promptly cleared and filed in Court, all in one day, that is to say on 14.05.2026 and an order of cognizance was also passed the same day by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate. This necessitated an amendment of the writ petition, and, now, the order of cognizance and the charge-sheet are also under challenge before us.

16. We have heard Mr. Shushil Shukla, learned Senior Advocate, Mr. Anoop Trivedi, learned Additional Advocate General and Ms. Sadhna Singh, learned Additional Government Advocate on behalf of the GST.

17. After a careful consideration of the matter, what we find is that the impugned F.I.R., lodged in this case, which has led to the police report and the order of cognizance violate all known principles of criminal liability. An Advocate, by his profession, is authorized to represent his client, who may have a case of any kind to be suited in a Court or defended. An Advocate, by his profession, is authorized to defend men charged with murders, rape, terror offences and it is his/her duty to defend them. If, for doing a professional act, like preferring an appeal, an Advocate is to be held in conspiracy with his client, it would be the end of the very existence of the Bar and the right of an Advocate to practice under the Advocates Act. It would, indirectly also, deprive the citizens of their right to the much valued right to legal assistance, because a person, who practices the profession of law before defending his client, would be thinking about his own defence and, this he would be thinking about, before he files a vakalatnama and takes steps on behalf of his client. This kind of a situation, which hits as the roots of the principles enshrined under Articles 14 and 21 of the Constitution, cannot be permitted to happen. An Advocate has to work fearlessly and discharge his professional duties, just as an officer of the State is entitled to discharge his duties.

18. Here, even if the Deputy Commissioner of the GST thinks that pre-deposit of the disputed tax could not be debited to the Electronic Ledger out of the Input Tax Credit, the professional decision of the learned Advocate, to do so, does not, in any way, make him a conspirator with the assessee. It is purely a professional act and not at all something to do with his client?s business. It was done in the course of filing an appeal and nothing more. It was based on a particular view of the law, whether right, wrong or utterly wrong.

19. In the circumstances, we are of opinion that the impugned F.I.R., the charge-sheet filed by the Police, on its basis and the order of cognizance cannot be sustained. This writ petition succeeds and is allowed. The impugned F.I.R. dated 04.10.2025 giving rise to Case Crime No. 175 of 2025, under Sections 61(2), 318(4), 336(3), 338, 340(2), BNS, Police Station- Kotwali, District-Rampur, Charge-sheet No. 30 of 2026 dated 04.04.2026 filed in Court and the cognizance order dated 14.05.2026, passed by the learned Additional Chief Judicial Magistrate-I, Rampur are all hereby quashed, in so far as it relates to the petitioner.

20. The learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Rampur shall cause an entry to be made in red ink in the General Diary of Police Station Kotwali, District Rampur that the proceedings of Case Crime No. 175 of 2025, under Sections 61(2), 318(4), 336(3), 338, 340(2) of B.N.S. have been quashed in so far as it relates to the petitioner, under orders of this Court.

21. Let this order be communicated to the learned Chief Judicial Magistrate, Rampur and through him to the Superintendent of Police, Rampur, the Station House Officer, Police Station Kotwali, District Rampur and the Deputy Commissioner, GST, Sector-I, Rampur by the Registrar (Compliance).

APPELLATE JURISDICTION
CRIMINAL SIDE
DATED: ALLAHABAD 08.05.2026

BEFORE

THE HON'BLE SUBHASH VIDYARTHI, J.

Criminal Appeal No. 247 of 2013

Monu @ Raghvendra Tiwari ...Appellant
Versus
State of U.P. ...Respondent

Issue for Consideration

Matter pertains to whether the conviction of the appellant under S. 366 of the Indian Penal Code, 1860 could be sustained after the trial court had acquitted him of the offences under Ss. 363 and 376 IPC and had itself recorded findings that the victim had voluntarily accompanied the appellant, whether the offence of abduction within the meaning of S. 362 IPC was established, and whether the trial court was justified in discarding the uncontroverted medical evidence regarding the age of the victim and substituting its own opinion. (Paras 36-40)

Headnotes

Criminal Law - Abduction - Conviction under S. 366 IPC - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 362 and 366 - Essential ingredient of abduction is use of force or deceitful means - Trial court itself recorded that appellant did not use force or abduct the victim and that the victim had gone with the appellant under a plan prepared earlier due to mutual love and affection - Having so held, conviction under S. 366 IPC was wholly inconsistent and perverse - Conviction set aside and appellant acquitted. (Paras 35-40)

Criminal Law - Appreciation of evidence - Medical evidence regarding age - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 363, 366 and 376 - Opinion of medical experts cannot be substituted by court's own opinion - Trial court ignored scientific opinion of radiologist and doctor regarding age and assessed age by relying upon absence of third molar, secondary sexual characteristics and its own calculations - Such approach held perverse and materially illegal - Medical opinion that victim was major accepted. (Paras 28-34)

Criminal Law - Expert evidence - Scope of judicial assessment - Indian Penal Code, 1860 - Ss. 363, 366 and 376 - Though direct evidence of sterling quality may prevail over expert opinion in appropriate cases, court cannot replace expert opinion by its own opinion - Trial court acted as an expert without any authentic basis - Finding regarding age liable to be set aside. (Paras 32-34)

Held: The trial court erred in discarding the unchallenged opinion of the medical experts and acted itself as an expert by assessing the age of the victim on the basis of the absence of the third molar and the secondary sexual characteristics although the court cannot replace the opinion of an expert by its own opinion and by doing so the trial court acted with material illegality - The finding regarding the age of the victim was perverse and the opinion of the medical experts that the victim was major on the date of the incident deserved acceptance - The trial court itself concluded that the appellant did not use force or abduct the victim and that the victim had gone with the appellant under a plan prepared earlier due to mutual love and affection and after recording such finding it could not have held the appellant guilty of the offence under S. 366 IPC - The prosecution failed to establish that the appellant had abducted or induced the victim to go with him by use of force or by deceitful means and when the offence of abduction was not made out the offence of abduction to compel marriage was also not made out - The conviction under S. 366 IPC was therefore liable to be set aside and the appellant acquitted - appeal allowed. (Paras 30-40) (E-7)

The brief facts of the case are that the complainant gave a written complaint on 11.08.2011, stating that while he was in his grove at about 3:00 p.m. on 18.07.2011, his daughter aged 14 years went away with the appellant Monu, under the pretext of attending the call of nature and she took away silver anklets weighing about 250 grams, gold earrings worth about Rs.9,500/-, Rs.15,000/- cash and a mobile phone. The complainant's elder daughter Phool Kumari had seen the victim going away with the appellant. One Kamlesh resident of village Kurauli was also involved in it. The complainant told about the incident to the appellant's mother and brother Rohit and they told that the appellant had gone to Surat. The complainant asked Rohit to accompany him to Surat but Rohit denied and thereafter the complainant gave the complaint.

4. In the statement of Phool Kumari (the elder married daughter of the complainant) recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., she stated that it was around 3:00 p.m., her parents were not at home, they were in the grove, the victim said she had to go to attend the call of nature, she got up from the cot, at that time the appellant came there on a motor cycle, stopped in front of her house, called the victim, the victim went to the appellant and went away with him on his motor cycle.

5. The informant told the investigating officer that he and his wife were guarding the mango grove. 7. On the basis of the aforesaid complaint, F.I.R. No.1393/2011 was registered on 14.08.2011 against the appellant and Kamlesh for offenses under Sections 363 & 366 IPC.

8. The recovery memo prepared on 22.09.2011 states that while Sub-Inspector Teji Ram and Constable Manoj Pandey were going towards Munshiganj trisection in search of the victim and they had reached near Sarai Mal Kadim turn, they met the informant there. They took him along with them to Munshiganj trisection. Upon reaching there, the informant stated that his daughter (the victim) was standing there and the appellant, who had enticed her away, was also standing with her. Upon seeing them, the appellant ran away and they recovered the victim and took him in police custody at 07:45 a.m.

9. In the statement of the victim recorded under Section 161 Cr.P.C., she stated that she has passed class IX. The appellant lives in her village, he used to meet her in the mango grove and indulge in sweet loving talks. He allured to take her to Kanpur for an excursion. The appellant kept her in a rented house and he used to commit the misdeed during nights, against her wish. When the victim tried to shout, he used to press her mouth with a cloth. She was frightened and disturbed. She requested the appellant to take her to meet her parents once and thereafter she would come back with him. Upon this request, the appellant brought her by train and then by tempo from Ajgain to Munshiganj. While they were waiting for some transport, the police reached there and the appellant ran away.

As per X-Ray report, all the major joints were completely fused. The age of the girl was more than 19 years as per radiologocial examination. However, the actual age was more than 19 years. The report concluded that ?The age of the girl is about more than 19 (nineteen) yrs. No definite opinion about rape can be made."

12. The statement of the victim under Section 164 Cr.P.C. was recorded on 24.09.2011. She stated that on 18.07.2011, the appellant had enticed her away for going for an excursion to Kanpur. She roamed around with him at Kanpur. Thereafter she went with the appellant to Surat by train. The appellant took a room on rent and she stayed with him for three months. She alleged that the appellant made physical relations with her 3-4 times against her wishes. She asked him to drop her back home. While the appellant was bringing her back to her village, he saw the police at Munshiganj trisection and he ran away and the police caught her. She stated that she wanted to go with her father.

13. The victim was handed over to the informant on 24.09.2011.

14. The allegations levelled against Kamlesh were not established during investigation and a charge-sheet was submitted against the appellant only for offences under Sections 363, 366 and 376 IPC.

15. The Radiologist was examined as PW-1. He stated that all the major joints of bones were fused and at the time of the medico-legal examination, the victim?s age was more than 20 years. PW-1 stated that her age was more than 19 years. There might be a variation of 6 months in her age. PW-1 was not cross-examined by the defence Counsel.

16. The doctor who had conducted the medico-legal examination of the victim, was examined as PW-2. She stated that the victim?s breasts were fully developed. Auxiliary and pubic hair were well developed. There was no mark of injury on any part of the victim's body. No mark of injury was found in her internal examination. The hymen was old torn and healed. The vagina admitted two fingers easily. Two slides of vaginal swab were sent for pathological examination and the victim was sent for radiological examination to ascertain her age. PW-2 had prepared her supplementary medico-legal examination report, as per which, no spermatozoa, dead or alive, were found in the pathological examination of the vaginal swabs. PW-2 also stated that at the time of the incident, the victim's age was more than 19 years.

17. In reply to a question put by the Court, PW-2 stated that she had not made any remark about the third molar or about the empty space near the second molar. She admitted that while ascertaining the age of the victim, she had not taken into consideration the situation of teeth. PW-2 also was not cross-examined by the defense counsel.

18. PW-3 was a Sub-Inspector who proved the recovery memo dated 22.09.1011 regarding recovery of the victim from a place near Munshiganj trisection. He stated that Section 376 IPC was added as per the victim's statement.

19. The informant was examined as PW-4. He reiterated the F.I.R. version. He stated that he has four daughters and four sons. The victim was at the fifth position amongst his eight children. She has studied up to Class-V in a private school in the village. He stated that he had mentioned her date of birth by estimation. He could not tell when did she passed Class-V. PW-4 further stated that he had gone to Surat along with his son, Satwant and the appellant's brother Rohit, to recover the victim. He had met the appellant and the victim at Surat. He was bringing both of them, but the appellant got down from the train at Surat and ran away. He came back to Unnao along with his son and the victim as well as the appellant's brother, Rohit. The victim was handed over to him on the third day after lodging of the FIR. He stated that the victim had got married on the date of recording his statement.

20. PW-5 was a Constable of police, who stated about the recovery of the victim from a place near Munshiganj trisection.

21. The victim was examined as PW-6. She stated that she had gone to attend the call of nature in a grove at about 3:00 p.m. on 18.07.2011. The appellant came there and took her with him for an excursion by use force and threat. He kept her at Surat for 1□ months and he raped her repetitively against her wishes. When the appellant was coming with her to drop her back home, the police caught her at Munshiganj crossing and the appellant escaped.

22. During cross-examination, the victim stated that she had studied up to Class-VIII. She stated that on the date of the incident she had gone to attend the call of nature in a mango grove of one Pandit ji of Amoliya. This grove is situated at a distance of about 100 steps from her home. She also stated that she has her own grove which is adjacent to her house. The victim stated that she had gone in that particular grove (of the Pandit ji of Amoliya) on the date of the incident only and prior to that she had never gone to that grove. The appellant had come to that grove on foot and he took her with him after one minute. His motorcycle was parked on the roadside at a secluded place.

23. The victim stated that the appellant made her sit on the motorcycle and took her to Munshiganj, where he parked the motorcycle and took her to Ajgain in a taxi. It was crowded at the Munshiganj taxi stand. One or two other persons were also sitting in the taxi in which they had traveled up to Ajgain. From there, she went to Kanpur on a thela, in which another person was also sitting. They took the 5:00 p.m. train to Surat. She stayed in a room at Surat for 1 months. The appellant used to cook and wash the utensils. She had taken a pair of clothes with her and therefore she did not require new clothes. After about 1 months the appellant's brother Rohit and the victim's father had gone to Surat, but she did not return with them as the appellant had forbidden her. After staying there for about 1 months the appellant brought her back to Munshiganj. When police came there, the appellant ran away. She stated that the appellant had brought her back on her asking.

24. The victim's elder sister Phool Kumari was examined as PW-8. She stated that the victim had gone to attend the call of nature. After she came back and was sitting on a cot inside the home, the appellant came there on a motorcycle, he called the victim and took her on his motorcycle. PW-2 had raised her voice against the appellant taking her sister. During cross-examination, PW-8 stated that two or three days prior to the incident, her parents had gone to village Araura Mau. She made a phone call and thereafter they returned on the following day. Her youngest sister Sonam had gone with her parents. Only PW-8 and the victim were there in the house. She further stated that on the date of the incident the appellant had gone to attend the call of nature and thereafter she had returned home. After about hour, the appellant came at the door of her house and called the victim. The victim went out of the house and went with the appellant. She had already kept some cash, jewelry and a mobile phone with her.

25. In the statement of the appellant recorded under Section 313 Cr.P.C. he denied the allegations.

26. The appellant filed a declaration of marriage verified by a Notary, which was witnessed by one Swami Singh. Swami Singh was examined as D.W.-1. He stated that the marriage declaration was prepared and was executed by the appellant and the victim in his presence and it was verified by a Notary on 30.08.2011.

27. The trial court noted that the incident took place on 18.07.2011, the complainant gave a written complaint on 11.08.2011 and the F.I,R, was lodged on 13.08.2011. The victim was recovered on 22.09.2011 at 07:45 a.m. and she was sent for medico-legal examination on 23.09.2011.

28. The trial court noted that although the transfer certificate of Class V issued by R.A.S. Shanti Shiksha Mandir, Sarai Mal Kadim, Hasanganj, Unnao, mentions the date of birth of the victim as 12.05.1996, this date of birth was recorded on 01.07.2002 on the basis of information given by her father (PW-4), who has stated in his cross-examination that he does not know the date of birth of the victim and he had got it recorded by estimation. The trial Court recorded that due to lack of resources in rural areas, children start going to school at higher ages and keeping in view their future, the guardians get their date of birth recorded by reducing their age by 2-3 years. Therefore, the medical evidence regarding age appears to be more trust worthy.

29. Although the doctor who had conducted the medico-legal examination and the pathologist had opined that the age of the victim was more than 19 years, the trial Court noted that the doctor had not mentioned the stage of third molar and had assessed the age of the victim on the basis of radiological examination report. The trial Court held that 14/14 teeth situation is attained during the age of 12 to 14 years and the third molar starts appearing in the 17th year of age, but the third molar was absent.

30. Although the trial Court had put a question to the Doctor (PW-2) that she had not made any remark about the third molar or about the empty space near the second molar, it did not ask the Doctor whether the third molars necessarily appear in all persons and it appear at a particular age. It is not at all necessary that the third molar appear appear in all persons and those appear during the 17th year of age. The absence of third molar does not establish that the person has not attained 18 years of age. The trial Court's assessment of age of the victim based on the absence of the third molar, is absolutely without any basis and is perverse.

31. The trial Court further held that the symptoms of the secondary sexual characteristics get fully developed during 16 to 18 years. The trial Court noted that the doctor has stated that the breasts were fully developed, but the auxiliary and pubic hair were merely well developed and not fully developed. The trial Court has erred in holding that the doctor has recorded that the auxiliary and pubic hairs were well developed and not fully developed as the phrases ?well developed? and ?fully developed? are often used to mean one and the same thing. There can be no measure to differentiate between ?well developed? and ?fully developed?, which denote practically one and the same thing.

31. The trial court itself assessed the age of the victim to be 14 to 15 years on the basis of her teeth, 16 to 17 years on the basis of the secondary sexual characteristics and 19 years as per the assessment on the basis of radiological examination. The trial Court calculated the average of the aforesaid three ages, i.e. (19+17+15)/3=17. The reasoning assigned by the trial court was that the girls living in the rural areas have to perform household chores since early ages, and due to this laborious work, their bone joints get fused at earlier ages and the trial court assessed the age of the victim to be 17 years.

32. This finding of the trial court is perverse because the trial court has ignored the specific opinion of two experts based on scientific examination and acted itself as an expert in the field by assessing the age of the victim on the basis of her secondary sexual characteristics and absence of the third molar. The trial Court has discarded the medical expert?s opinion and has acted as an expert in the field so as to hold that the third molar start appearing in 17th year of age and the secondary sexual characteristics like auxiliary and pubic hairs get fully developed in 16-17, years even without referring to any authentic text.

33. It is true that in certain circumstances, when there is other direct evidence of sterling quality to prove a point, the Court can give precedence to that evidence over the opinion of an expert. However, the Court cannot replace the opinion of an expert by its own opinion. By doing so, the trial Court has acted with material illegality.

34. The trial Court has referred to Modi's Medical Jurisprudence as per which there can be a variation of 3 years on either side in the medical age assessed by the pathological examination and has also noted the principle of law laid down by the Hon'ble Supreme Court in some cases to the effect that where two conclusions are possible, the one favoring the accused should be accepted. As per this principle, when the pathological examination opined the age of the victim to be 19 years, by adding three years variation towards the higher side, her age could be assessed at 22 years if one view favoring the victim was taken. The trial court has wrongly assessed the age of the victim to be 17 years without any basis. Therefore, this court sets aside this finding of the trial Court regarding age of the victim and accepts the opinion of the medical experts that the victim was major on the date of the incident.

35. The trial court scrutinized the statement of the victim, wherein she stated that she had taken Rs.15,000/- from her home, the appellant came in the grove on her own and after one minute, he took her with him. She stayed at Surat with the appellant for one and a half months. The appellant used to cook the food and clean the utensils. The trial court also referred to the statement of the elder sister of the victim (PW-2), who stated that after attending the call of nature, the victim returned home and the appellant came there. He called the victim, and she went with him. From this statement, the trial court concluded that the appellant did not use force or abduct the victim. The trial court further noted that the victim had her own orchard near her home yet she did not go to that place for attending the call of nature and instead she went to an orchard situated far away. She took money and a mobile phone with her and thereafter went on a motorcycle with the appellant, which establishes that the victim had gone with the appellant under a plan prepared earlier. There can be no other cause except for the mutual love and affection between the appellant and the victim. The trial court acquitted the appellant of the charges under Section 376 IPC, but held him guilty of the offence under Section 366 IPC.

36. As the trial court has acquitted the appellant for the offences under Sections 363 and 376 IPC, this court has only to examine whether offence under Section 366 of IPC is made out. Section 366 of IPC reads as follows: -

"366. Kidnapping, abducting or inducing woman to compel her marriage, etc."

Whoever kidnaps or abducts any woman with intent that she may be compelled, or knowing it to be likely that she will be compelled, to marry any person against her will, or in order that she may be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, or knowing it to be likely that she will be forced or seduced to illicit intercourse, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to ten years, and shall also be liable to fine; and whoever, by means of criminal intimidation as defined in this Code or of abuse of authority or any other method of compulsion, induces any woman to go from any place with intent that she may be, or knowing that it is likely that she will be, forced or seduced to illicit intercourse with another person shall be punishable as aforesaid."

37. The word ?abduction? is defined in Section 362 of the IPC, which reads as follows: -

"362. Abduction.-Whoever by force compels, or by any deceitful means induces, any person to go from any place, is said to abduct that person."

38. It is strange that the trial court itself has concluded that the appellant did not use force or abduct the victim and that the victim had gone with the appellant under a plan prepared earlier due to mutual love and affection between the appellant and the victim. After having recorded a finding that the appellant did not abduct the victim, the trial court held the appellant guilty of the offence of abducting a woman to compel her marriage. There can be no worse example of perversity in a judgment.

39. Keeping in view of foregoing discussions, I am of the view that the prosecution has failed to establish that the applicant had abducted or induced the victim to go with him by use of force or by deceitful means and therefore the offence of abduction is not made out. When the offence of abduction is not made out, the offence of abduction to compel marriage of the victim is also not made out.

40. In view of the foregoing discussion, the criminal appeal is allowed. The impugned order dated11.01.2013, passed by Sri. Jagdish Prasad-IV, the learned IV Additional Sessions Judge, Ex-Cadre, Unnao in Sessions Trial No.68 of 2012, arising out of Case Crime No.1393 of 2011, under Sections 363, 366 and 376 I.P.C. Police Station Hasanganj, District Unnao, whereby the appellant has been acquitted of the charges for the offences under Sections 363 and 376 I.P.C. but has been convicted for the offence under section 366 IPC and has been sentenced to undergo rigorous imprisonment for five years and pay Rs.5,000/- as fine is hereby set aside and the appellant is acquitted of the charges levelled against him.

41. The personal bond and sureties furnished by the appellant before the Chief Judicial Magistrate, Unnao, on 06.05.2026 in compliance of the order dated 03.04.2026 passed by this Court, shall hold good for appearance of the appellant before the Hon'ble Supreme Court in case any appeal is filed against this order and the Hon'ble Supreme Court issues notice of the appeal , as per the provision contained in Section 437-A Cr.P.C.

Criminal matter—Criminal Procedure Code,1973-Section 374(2)-Indian Penal Code,1860-Section 376(2(i) & 5(m)/6 POCSO Act-Hostile Victim and Informant- Statements u/s 161 & 164 CrPC retracted-Material contradictions regarding identity of accused-Medical evidence establishing sexual assault but not authorship of crime-Testimony of prosecutrix found unreliable-Failure of prosecution-Acquittal. (Para 17 to 36)

Held

The court held that although the evidence of hostile witness is not wholly inadmissible, only its reliable and corroborated portion can be acted upon. In the present case, the victim and the informant retracted their earlier allegations, the victim's testimony was materially inconsistent regarding the identity of the offender, and no trustworthy evidence connected the appellant with the offence. Consequently, the prosecution failed to establish guilt beyond reasonable doubt, entitling the appellant to the benefit of doubt. (E-6)
